The House met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. DUNCAN of Tennessee).

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC, September 13, 2011.

I hereby appoint the Honorable John J. DUNCAN, Jr. to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

JOHN A. BOEHNER, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

MORNING-HOUR DEBATE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 5, 2011, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning-hour debate.

The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties, with each party limited to 1 hour and each Member other than the majority and minority leaders and the minority whip limited to 5 minutes each, but in no event shall debate continue beyond 11:50 a.m.

HONORING AMERICA’S FIRST RESPONDERS ABROAD

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. POE) for 5 minutes.

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, this weekend, we honored those killed by the attack on America on 9/11—10 years ago. Many of those that were killed and gave their lives were first responders. And after the smoke cleared that day from Ground Zero, from the Pentagonal down the street, and that special field in Pennsylvania, America went after Islamic terrorists who would murder in the name of religion.

The wars against our enemies have taken us to the desert of the gun and the valley of the sun in Afghanistan and then off to Iraq. I’ve been to Afghanistan and to Iraq, as many Members have. And I can tell you, Mr. Speaker, that our military that is there representing us is the finest military that has ever existed in the history of this country.

Afghanistan is a land that seems to be cursed by God. It is a hard land. And in Afghanistan, on August 6, 2011, specially trained United States military were headed to root out the Taliban and help our Army Rangers who needed their support. The CH-47 Chinook helicopter they were in was shot down in the Wardak province of Afghanistan. Thirty Americans gave their lives that day, as well as eight loyal Afghans. They were our first responders abroad who go where the timid are not found and the weak of soul are never seen. Here are their names, Mr. Speaker, and their photographs.

The first one here, David Carter, Chief Warrant Officer of the United States Army National Guard, Colorado. Next is Heath Robinson, Chief Petty Officer, United States Navy SEAL, Michigan. Next to him, Mr. Speaker, is Alexander Bennett, Sergeant, United States Army Reserve, Washington.

Next to him is Kraig Vickers, Senior Chief Petty Officer, United States Navy SEAL, Hawaii.

Number five on this top line here is Jared Day, Petty Officer 1st Class, United States Navy SEAL, Utah. And the last one on the first row is Jonas Kelsall, Lieutenant Commander, United States Navy SEAL, Louisiana.

I continue with the second row:

Jon Tumilson, Petty Officer 1st Class, United States Navy SEAL, Iowa. Next to him is Michael Strange, Petty Officer 1st Class, United States Navy SEAL, Pennsylvania. Aaron Vaughn, Petty Officer 1st Class, United States Navy SEAL, Florida.

Patrick Hamburger, Staff Sergeant, United States Army National Guard, Nebraska.

Next to him is John Faas, Chief Petty Officer, United States Navy SEAL, Minnesota.

And the last one on the second row is Matthew Mason, Chief Petty Officer, United States Navy SEAL, Missouri.

I continue with the third row of our warriors:

Robert Reeves, a person known by members of my staff, Chief Petty Officer, United States Navy SEAL, California. Next, Christopher Campbell, Petty Officer 1st Class, United States Navy SEAL, North Carolina.

The next warrior is Darrick Benson, Petty Officer 1st Class, United States Navy SEAL, California. And the last one on this row is Jason Workman, Petty Officer 1st Class, United States Navy SEAL, Utah.

I continue, Mr. Speaker, and I hope you can see these photographs:

Jesse Pitman, Petty Officer 1st Class, United States Navy SEAL, California. Next is Nicholas Spehar, Petty Officer 2nd Class, United States Navy SEAL, Minnesota.

Kevin Houston, Chief Petty Officer, United States Navy SEAL, Massachusetts.

And the last row, Mr. Speaker:
Bryan Nichols, Chief Warrant Officer, United States Army National Guard, Kansas.
Spencer Duncan, Specialist, United States Army Reserve, Kansas.
Nicholas Null, Chief Petty Officer, United States Navy SEAL, West Virginia.
Thomas Ratliff, Senior Chief Petty Officer, United States Navy SEAL, Arkansas.
Brian Bill, Chief Petty Officer, United States Navy SEAL, Connecticut.
And John Douangdara, Petty Officer 1st Class, United States Navy SEAL, Nebraska.

Mr. Speaker, these are the men who gave their lives so that others could live. And while we mourn the lives they gave for the rest of us, we should thank the good Lord that such men as these lived—the Americans, the American breed, the rare breed, the finest we have.

And that's just the way it is.

REBUILDING AND RENEWING AMERICA

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER) for 5 minutes.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, there has been much talk about jobs and economic recovery—sadly, more talk than action.

Today’s consideration of extending the Surface Transportation Act and the FAA Authorization, both of which have expired, is a positive development. It puts a little more certainty for our partners in the State and local government. It avoids disastrous revenue losses. It’s a positive signal of cooperation, with Chairs MICA and BOXER working with Majority Leader REID and Speaker BOEHNER. And it leaves important work intact.

The 1991 ISTEA framework has proven effective in meeting transportation needs and providing economic activity. But now let’s concentrate on what we do need.

We need more money, not less. Certainly we must reject the 30 percent transportation cut that is called for in the Republican budget, or a 34 percent reduction that’s called for in the Transportation appropriations bill that is being considered. We need longer-term legislation, not shorter. Three months for aviation, 6 months for transportation—sadly, more short-term legislation, not partisan or particularly controversial, but a national vision that brought us together.

We can begin by passing this legislation later this afternoon. We need to move to a larger and a longer term agenda as we rebuild and renew America, jump-start the economy, and make our families safer, healthier, and more economically secure.

AFGHANISTAN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES) for 5 minutes.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, like all my colleagues, I was home during the August break, accepting opportunities to speak at civic clubs, at town forums, and I did speak to a couple of military retiree groups.

Every time that I would make the statement that it is time to bring our troops home from Afghanistan—Mr. Speaker, I’m not an excellent speaker, but I got applause, strong applause, from every one of those groups that I just named. They agree with me and many of my colleagues, one being on the floor today, Jim McGovern from Massachusetts, that it’s time to bring an end to our involvement in Afghanistan.

The amount of loss of lives is just astounding. And I have beside me a poster that depicts the pain of war. This lady and her little girl are accepting a folded flag off the coffin of her husband and the little girl’s daddy. And the little girl is looking up like “I don’t know what’s happening.” The wife is crying.

How many more families have to cry? How many children have to say, “I don’t know my daddy; I didn’t know my daddy because I was so young when he died?”

The President is asking for a jobs program. I think he’s doing the right thing. Yet we’re spending $10 billion a month in Afghanistan to prop up a corrupt leader. It makes no sense. It doesn’t make any sense to the American people, and it makes no sense to many of us in the House, both Republican and Democrat.

I understand from the newspapers that there’s a conversation now going on between the United States and Afghanistan which would provide so-called “strategic partnership agreement” between the two, America and Afghanistan, and that we could keep approximately 35,000 to 40,000 troops past 2014, 2015. This does not make any sense. I hope that this is not true, but I’m afraid that it is true.

And something else that bothers me about this conversation is that it will not be called a treaty because, if it’s called a treaty, it has to come to Congress and be approved by Congress. This, again, takes away the voice of the American people, especially on this issue of Afghanistan, when the American people, in large numbers in all the latest polls, are saying get out, get out, get out.

History has proven that Afghanistan will never be anything more than what it is today. Great nations have tried in the past to try to create a national government in Afghanistan, and it never happened. Here we are going to spend $10 billion a month, $120 billion a year, to rebuild Afghanistan, and we don’t even have the money to rebuild America.

I hope that the Congress will join those of us, again, Mr. McGovern and myself and many others I could name in the House, that want to bring our troops home.

It brings me back to an article written by Andrew Bacevich. He was a Vietnam veteran himself. His son was killed in Iraq. And he wrote an article in the American Conservative about 2 years ago called “The Mys- tique,” talking about Afghanistan.

Mr. Speaker, I hope that we will continue to bring forward on the floor of the House the issue of Afghanistan. It’s not right to those families. It’s not right to our military. Many of them have had five, six, seven deployments. They’re tired. They’re worn out. They’ve done their job. Bin Laden is dead. Al Qaeda has been moved out of Afghanistan. It is time to bring them home and rebuild America and help our veterans find jobs. I ask the President for mentioning that yesterday. We’ve got to help our veterans find jobs.

Mr. Speaker, I’m going to close now as I always do because it comes from my heart. I’ve signed over 10,374 letters since we went into Iraq. That was a mistake on my part to give President Bush the authority to go into a war that never had to be fought.

So I ask God to please bless our men and women in uniform. I ask God to please bless the families of our men and women in uniform. I ask God, in His loving arms, to hold the families who've given a child dying for freedom in Afghanistan and Iraq.
I ask God to please bless the House and Senate that we will do what is right in the eyes of God for God's people. I ask God to give wisdom, strength, and courage to our President Obama, that he will do what is right in the eyes of God for God's people.
And I will say three times, God, please, God, please, God, please continue to bless America.

ALTERNATIVES TO VIOLENCE: HOPE IN MEDELLIN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. McGovern) for 5 minutes.

Mr. McGovern. Mr. Speaker, at the end of August, I was part of a weeklong fact-finding delegation to Colombia coordinated by the Washington Office on Latin America.

Our first stop was in Medellin. Hailed during 2005 to 2008 as the so-called “Medellin Miracle,” we now know that the miracle was more illusion than reality, created by the iron fist of paramilitary leader Hugo Marulanda, and Don Berna. He controlled all criminal activity in the poorest districts, or comunas, as they're known, that surround central Medellin. Since his 2008 extradition to the United States, hell has returned to the city as paramilitary drug lords fight for control of drug trafficking, extortion, and other criminal activity.

But the “miracle” wasn’t a total illusion. During those years of relative calm, the municipal government, under Mayor Sergio Fajardo, and his successor, current Mayor Alonso Salazar, made significant investments in youth organizations, education, and basic human services in the poorest neighborhoods. In greater Medellin, investments resulted in public parks, recreational spaces, culture, and a new public transit system. These changes, large and small, have helped civil society to better weather and confront the current explosion of violence that keeps Medellin in the ranks of Latin America's most violent cities.

There are an estimated 3,800 or more gang members in Medellin. And about 70 percent of their ranks are made up of young people between the ages of 11 and 19 years. In the past 10 years, nearly 2,000 young people between the ages of 11 and 25 have been killed.

We spent an entire day meeting with people and youth organizations in three of the city's most violent districts, Comunas 13, 8, and 5. Our guides were the dedicated staff of Fundacion Mi Sangre. They introduced us to John Jaime Sanchez, the director of Son Bata, an Afro-Colombian group that has achieved international fame by using music to help Comuna 15's young people find alternative ways to violence.

We visited a local YMCA and its director, Alexandra Castillon. The YMCA has long served as an anchor and neutral space in Comuna 13. There we met leaders from Hip Hop Red Elite, Hip Hoppers for Peace, and the Kolacho School, a music training school named in memory of a young boy killed in Comuna 13. The groups reach young people through the use of music and dance, helping them become leaders. These youth then use their art to reach others in their schools and on the streets with the message of non-violence.

We went across town to Casa de la Cultura, one of the few neutral spaces in Comuna 8.

We met students in youth groups called Diafora, La Villa, AK-47, New Dance and others. Their determination and enthusiasm to create a better future were undeniable. Rap group AK-47 joined with students playing classical music. They put on a stunning rap program about violence. I could have listened to their powerful words and music all day.

We ended the day sitting on the ground above a small park in Comuna 5 talking with more than 20 youth leaders about the city’s future. They use art to promote human rights, recapture historic memory, and create a better community. I told them they should run for office because Medellin’s future depended on their leadership.

The next day, our delegation returned to Comuna 5, this time with the Catholic Church and the mayor’s adviser on peace and reconciliation. We met former and current gang members. We heard impassioned stories about how they want to leave the gangs and the endless violence. It’s not an easy choice. They fear retaliation and not being able to support their families.

Many people in Medellin are helping them lay down their arms, but their futures are dangerous and limited. They also lack confidence in the police, some of whom are allied with one faction or another in the gang wars.

These youth put themselves at risk for advocating alternatives to violence and envisioning a future far different from the reality that surrounds them. They deserve our respect and our support—not just with funding but by increasing their visibility and their legitimacy.

Rarely on my trips to Colombia have I left the place with such strong and positive feelings, and after spending time in the most dangerous areas of the city, I came away with a sense of hope.

I often speak of what's going wrong in Colombia and the many problems that need to be addressed. In Medellin, I found many examples of what is going right.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until noon today.

Accordingly (at 10 o'clock and 22 minutes a.m.), the House stood in recess until noon.

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker at noon.

PRAYER

Reverend Dr. Leroy Adams, Jr., Morning Star Baptist Church, Omaha, Nebraska, offered the following prayer:

Our God, we come with gratitude for another day and with thanksgiving in our hearts for the privilege of life and the opportunity to make this day purposeful.

We ask for Your blessings to this legislative body as they govern the welfare of all people of this great Nation. Endow them with wisdom, discernment, courage, and conviction to engage the issues of our day and for the generations to come to be better off as a result of all decisions made within this genuinely representative body.

Finally, I pray to You that a spirit of cooperation and sincerity would transcend our Nation to have solidarity, peace, and equality for all.

We ask this to be done this day and in the days to come to give glory and honor to You, our God, and we pray that Your blessings be upon us always.

In Your name, we pray. Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day’s proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Johnson) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. Johnson of Ohio led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

WELCOMING REV. DR. LEROY ADAMS, JR.

The SPEAKER. Without objection, the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. Terry) is recognized for 1 minute.

There was no objection.

Mr. Terry. Mr. Speaker, I am honored to recognize our guest chaplain, my fellow Nebraskan and friend, Reverend Dr. Leroy E. Adams, Jr., who has served as the senior pastor of Omaha’s Morning Star Baptist Church.

Our God, we come with gratitude for another day and with thanksgiving in our hearts for the privilege of life and the opportunity to make this day purposeful.

Morning Star Baptist Church since September of 1999.

Prior to serving in Omaha, Reverend Adams’ ministry spanned more than a decade in Lawton, Oklahoma, and includes serving as a pastor in Stuttgart, Germany, for 2 years. Reverend Adams has earned his bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degrees from the Andersonville Baptist Seminary, and he is a graduate of the Harvard Divinity School’s Leadership Institute.

He has made his country a priority. He is an 8-year veteran, having served honorably in the United States Army. He has made our Omaha community a priority, particularly the more vulnerable citizens, our youth, and our seniors.

When youth violence arose in our community, it was Reverend Dr. Adams who reached out to other pastors in North Omaha to unify efforts and message against the violence in our neighborhoods. He has reached out to help our seniors who needed housing.

Reverend Adams is nationally known as a wonderful preacher, a great teacher, an irreplaceable pillar in our community, and a friend to many. He is blessed by his two children, Leroy and Maria, and Omaha is, in turn, blessed by this minister and his family.

May God continue to bless his life, his family, and his ministry for years to come.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Yоnеt) The Chair will entertain up to 15 further requests for 1-minute speeches on each side of the aisle.

"YES" TO JOBS

(Mrs. MALONEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics shows that while 14 million Americans are looking for work, there are only 3 million job openings. This means that if every single job was filled outright, there would still be 11 million Americans unemployed and looking for work.

Passing the President’s jobs bill will help these people and help our overall economy. According to Mark Zandi, Moody’s economist, the President’s plan would add 2 percentage points to the GDP growth next year, add 1.9 million jobs by next year, and cut the unemployment rate by 1 percentage point next year.

Published reports indicate that economists across this country are giving the President’s plan a thump’s up. This is a clear chance for all of us to say “yes”—yes to growth, yes to a middle class tax cut, and, most importantly, yes to jobs and our overall economy.

PRESIDENT’S SECOND STIMULUS INCREASES DEBT AND TAXES

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, last Thursday the President addressed a joint session of Congress in order to describe his second stimulus. This proposal would create $417 billion in new spending, being paid for by tax increases.

House Republicans remain committed to working together in order to create job growth and promote an environment that allows for small businesses to hire workers. Sadly, the administration’s proposal pushes new taxes on small businesses, which would create an environment that destroys jobs. The President was previously correct, saying you do not increase taxes in a recession. Raising taxes destroys jobs.

The administration’s last stimulus added $814 billion to our debt. More importantly, it failed to accomplish the goal of keeping unemployment below 18 percent. Currently, 14 million people are unemployed and 25 million who want a full-time job do not have one.

The House Republicans have passed numerous bills to create jobs. House Republicans have shown their commitment to jump-starting the ability of small businesses to create jobs.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and we will never forget September the 11th in the global war on terrorism.

JOBS

(Ms. HOCHUL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. HOCHUL. Mr. Speaker, I come from a part of this country where my constituents are real down-to-earth people, commonsense people.

We want a good education for our kids, we want Medicare and Social Security for our seniors, and we want the Buffalo Bills to continue their winning streak. But more than anything, we want to get our people back to work—for our kids who thought a college education was the ticket to a good job, for our veterans who stepped out of line to go fight and protect us who now find themselves in the unemployment line, and for middle managers who thought they were set for life until the day the pink slip showed up on their desk and turned their lives upside down.

We all know that we must get this country back to work. We need to pass the American Jobs Act to do just that.

Just 24 hours ago, Democrats and Republicans stood shoulder to shoulder on the steps of this Capitol, united in remembrance of 10 years ago, the 10th anniversary of that day we stood together again and do what’s right for the American people, Democrats and Republicans shoulder to shoulder? If we get the job done here, people out there will get jobs.

JOB CREATION

(Mr. FINCHER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. FINCHER. Mr. Speaker, I come to the floor this morning to discuss the need to create jobs, my priority since I arrived here in January.

Last Thursday, the President addressed Congress about his plan to create jobs and move this country forward. We must do better.

Recently, I introduced two bills that are my proposals to help spur job creation:

I introduced the America’s Energy Independence Act, which would prevent the EPA from enforcing its cross-State pollution rule for 10 years to keep the flow of electricity high and the cost of electricity for America’s families low. The President recognized that the EPA’s new smog standards would lead to job losses, but he played politics and only rescinded the standards until right after the election.

I also introduced the Invest in America Act, which would suspend the capital gains tax for 10 years, providing more certainty to families who are being penalized for selling their homes, their investments and farms.

Instead of spending money we don’t have on initiatives that don’t work, these bills provide help to Americans so they can get back to the business of making America great.

REGULATING CORPORATE ELECTION EXPENDITURES

(Ms. EDWARDS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. EDWARDS. Mr. Speaker, John Paul Stevens warned that the Supreme Court’s ruling in Citizens United threatened to undermine the integrity of elected institutions around the country. How right he was.

Since the Court’s decision last January, corporate special interests have had unprecedented freedom to spend on our elections. In fact, campaign spending by outside groups surged to more than $300 million in the 2010 election cycle and are already off the charts for this cycle. Likewise, State laws that limited corporate bankrolling of candidates have been struck down.

Mr. Speaker, we have unprecedented challenges in front of us. But how do we make the tough choices on the economy, on taxes, on protecting the vulnerable and investing in the future and creating jobs? We cannot stand idly by while deeply flawed interpretations of our Constitution are used to obstruct our democracy rather than guiding it, putting lobbyists and plies of cash into policy and elections.
It's time for the people's House to stop the madness; and so this week I joined with Judiciary Committee Ranking Member CONYERS to reintroduce a constitutional amendment, House Joint Resolution 78, to reclaim Congress and to regulate corporate expenditures.

EMPOWERING PARENTS THROUGH QUALITY CHARTER SCHOOLS ACT

(Mr. GRIFFIN of Arkansas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. GRIFFIN of Arkansas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 2218, the Empowering Parents Through Quality Charter Schools Act.

This bill strikes close to home for me and my district in Arkansas where one charter school program, the Knowledge is Power Program, or KIPP, as it is called, has had a profound impact on the lives of its students and their families.

In one of the poorest cities in America, the town of Helena-West Helena has instituted a charter school that empowers students from high poverty communities to develop the character, knowledge and skills necessary to follow their dreams and, more importantly, learn to value a life in pursuit of knowledge and truth.

KIPP students go above and beyond what is required, and for that, our country is a better place. These students have their parents and teachers to thank. They are always accessible and always committed to their education and their well-being. The KIPP approach shows that high standards overcome the obstacles created by socioeconomics and circumstances, as evidenced by KIPP Delta's first graduating class, 100 percent of which now attend college, and the establishment of a new KIPP school in Blytheville, Arkansas.

I urge my colleagues to pass this bill so children and their families all across the country have the opportunity to empower their own lives, their families, and their communities.

JOBS NOW

(Mr. CICILLINE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. CICILLINE. Mr. Speaker, President Obama has offered the American Jobs Act, a clear path forward to putting our country back to work, helping small businesses succeed and hire and providing tax relief for our workers and rebuilding America. The emphasis of the plan is immediate action that will preserve and create jobs now. It will put money into the pockets of working Americans now, and it will give businesses job-creating tax breaks now. It will provide a boost to the economy that we need now.

Mr. Speaker, it's time for Democrats and Republicans to work together and with our President to put the country back to work. The American people literally can't afford to wait a single day more. It's time to pass the American Jobs Act now.

RESPONSIBLE CHOICES

(Mr. HULTGREN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. HULTGREN. Mr. Speaker, in these dire financial times, government must identify what works and what doesn't, even when it comes to sex education for our kids.

The CDC released a fascinating study this year that found that two-thirds of teens, ages 15 to 17, are abstaining from sex. In fact, 70 percent of parents support abstinence until marriage for their teens.

But under this administration, we have seen a troubling 16:1 funding disparity between contraceptive-centered education and sexual risk avoidance education.

That's why last week I filed a bill, H.R. 2874, to restore fairness to the funding and direct it instead to programs which give our kids the facts about contraception without distorting them.

I am a dad of four great kids, two of them teenagers. I have a 15-year-old daughter, Kylee, and a 17-year-old son, Karsten, who may, in fact, be watching right now. Nothing is more important to me than seeing them make responsible choices. I have every confidence that they will. Now I'm just hoping the House and Senate will do the same.

JOBS

(Ms. CHU asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. CHU. Mr. Speaker, we are in a time of national economic crisis. There are 14 million Americans without a job. There are another 12 million who wish to work but have given up looking altogether.

That's why last week President Obama presented Congress with an urgent proposal to create jobs and fix the economy. Republican economist Mark Zandi declared the President's plan would keep the U.S. from sliding back into the recession, add two points to the GDP, and add 1.9 million jobs. This plan is based on bipartisan proposals, and it won't add a dime to the deficit.

After 9 months of taking over the House, Republicans have not presented a single jobs bill. It's well past time for them to put politics aside and come together with Democrats to put the country back to work. With so many people suffering, we must act and we must act now.

REDUCING HURDLES TO JOB GROWTH

(Mr. PALAZZO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. PALAZZO. Mr. Speaker, Mississippi is a great place to live, work, and raise a family; and I want to keep it that way. Mississippi is a proud right-to-work State. My State has attracted and continues to attract high-tech, economic development projects and advanced manufacturing facilities. At a time when more than 14 million workers are unemployed, we must do everything possible to remove government barriers to job creation and economic growth. As South Carolina knows too well, the National Labor Relations Board is stifling job creation, and their Federal intrusion must be restrained.

The Protecting Jobs from Government Interference Act will prohibit the NLRB from dictating where a private sector employer can locate. This is good for job seekers as well as job creators. Without restraint, all States, especially right-to-work States like my Mississippi, will be negatively impacted. We like to work in Mississippi and we like jobs, and we want more of them, not less.

SUPPORT AMERICAN JOBS ACT

(Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of President Obama's American Jobs Act. As a senior member of the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, I am especially glad to see that the President has maintained his unwavering commitment to modernizing America's infrastructure. Our roads, bridges, highways, and transit systems support millions of jobs throughout the country that are crucial to strengthening our economy.

The establishment of a national infrastructure bank is a bipartisan proposal that I have been a strong proponent of for many years. More recently, I have learned that my senior Senator is also very supportive. This bank would leverage private and capital funds to invest in infrastructure projects of a national significance. It's public and private partnerships like this that make our country succeed, and we need more of them. I urge all of my colleagues to support this bipartisan measure.

God bless the troops. God bless America, and God bless the Members of the people's House to rise above partisanship and be bipartisan in addressing the people's problems.

GOOD JOBS NOW

(Mr. ELLISON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. ELLISON. Mr. Speaker, today, members of the Progressive Caucus stood up and displayed a videotape in... which the jobs tour that we went on this summer was revealed. We showed the cities where Americans of all description stood up and said, We need jobs, good jobs, now. Americans from Detroit to Oakland and Minneapolis, Miami, all over this country, we went to talk face-to-face, and they told us what they wanted. They did their part by coming to tell us what they wanted.

Now it’s time for us to do our part as Congress. Members of the Progressive Caucus and already have introduced legislation dealing with good jobs—and good jobs now—in infrastructure, education, fair trade, and things like manufacturing. We’re going to be forcing this agenda. It’s what the American people expect, what they demand. And anyone who does not stand with us on this jobs agenda will be revealed to be not a friend of the American worker.

HOW TO CREATE JOBS

(Mr. COHEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. COHEN. Last week, the President came to this House and gave an historic address in a joint session about the American Jobs Act. There were things in his proposal that I felt really good about and some that I felt not so good about. But I’m going to support the President because our country needs jobs. People in my district need jobs. This is the way to provide jobs.

You don’t provide jobs by putting off
EPA regulations, costing 350,000 lives by causing people to have breathing difficulties and asthma. Two friends of mine have had lung cancer and lost a lung. They may lose their life without a transplant, which also may put them in jeopardy of losing their lives. That’s not the way you create jobs. You create jobs by giving people opportunities with summer youth programs and infrastucture jobs that create even more jobs. And tax breaks for small business.
That’s been offered. I hope we can come together in a bipartisan way.

I watched the Republican debate last night, and one of the candidates suggested it was the “Obama depression.”
I can’t believe people are doing that.
We just saw 9/11 and thought of the horrors. The unfunded wars in Iraq and Afghanistan have caused this Bush recession.

PROTECT JOBS

(Ms. HANABUSA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. HANABUSA. Mr. Speaker, we’ve been talking about jobs, and we’ve been talking about our economy and how jobs relate to that. We must remember one thing. We are all workers. So, Mr.
Speaker, one of the things that’s very troubling is the fact that we don’t seem to have a grasp on what the role of the National Labor Relations Board is. That’s evidenced by H.R. 2587. What the National Labor Relations Board does is simply enforces the rights of workers. We are a great economy and we are a great country because we recognize that we are all workers and that as workers we have rights to be protected. One of the rights is to act in a concerted manner. And that’s what this is all about. It protects people’s rights to act together if they so wish.
Now what is wrong with that? That’s what makes us a country that understands that in order to be a great economy, we must never forget the workers. We must never forget their rights. And we must always protect them.

AMERICAN JOBS ACT

(Ms. MOORE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. MOORE. Mr. Speaker, the President has sent us the American Jobs Act, a plan to put the country back to work while it makes investments in our struggling economy.

This bill would modernize and rehabilitate 30,000 public schools; establish a desperately needed infrastructure bank; pump $50 billion into our aging roads, bridges, railroads, and airports.
In fact, we have 71,000 “structurally deficient” bridges in this country. We’re falling behind the rest of the world when it comes to modern railways, roads, and schools. And this bill is of critical importance to my district. Of the Nation’s cities, Milwaukee has the second-largest percentage of its workforce in the manufacturing sector.
Passing this bill means jobs for my conservative constituents for bridges, manufacturing tools, building engines, putting together construction equipment, designing and producing computers for airports; trucking, rail, and port transportation. And yes, it even means making bacon and eggs at the local diner to support these workers.

Mr. Speaker, let’s put America back to work. Pass the American Jobs Act and pass it now.

AMERICAN JOBS AGENDA

(Mr. JOHNSON of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. JOHNSON of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise to talk about jobs today.

The Republicans have taken us through a no-jobs winter agenda, a no-jobs spring agenda, and now we’re about to enter fall. They are talking about jobs but they’re not really doing anything, other than blaming the President. It’s been 250 days since Republicans have had control of this body. Not one single jobs bill has passed.

Yesterday, the President gave us a specific plan, but we’ve already heard from some colleagues on the other side of the aisle that they will not be in support of it. Is this a part of their no-jobs agenda for the fall? It looks like it. It’s certainly not leadership, and it’s not governance.

PASS THE AMERICAN JOBS ACT

(Ms. LEE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. LEE. Mr. Speaker, today, the Census Bureau came out with new numbers on poverty in America. In 2010, 15.1 percent, which is 46.1 million Americans, lived in poverty. This is up from 14.3 percent, or 43.6 million Americans, in 2009. And 2.6 million more Americans fell into the ranks of the poor. For 2.3 percent of Americans, their incomes fell. This trend really does carry long-term and short-term consequences for our children, our families, and for our national and economics. These are not people in Democratic districts only. These are individuals who live in Republican districts and Republican Tea Party districts and independent districts. These are people who live all over the country.

This summer, the Congressional Black Caucus and the Progressive Caucus went out and we listened to people.
We helped find jobs for people. The stories that we heard were quite depressbut also reminded us of the job that we have to do. I want to just tell you one story of children who are now taking care of their parents because their parents lost a job. These children are working at minimum wage jobs, for instance, at McDonald’s. This is a moral outrage. We’ve got to pass the American Jobs Act. Until we create jobs—and there are four individuals for one job—we need to pass H.R. 589, which would extend unemployment benefits for those who have hit the 99 wall.
That’s the least we can do until we create these jobs.

SURFACE AND AIR TRANSPOR-TATION PROGRAMS EXTENSION
ACT OF 2011

Mr. MICA. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 2887) to provide an extension of surface and air transportation programs, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.
The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 2887
Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the “Surface and Air Transportation Programs Extension Act of 2011”.

1230
Sec. 1. Short title; table of contents.

Sec. 2. Authorization of appropriations.

(a) In general.—Except as provided in section 112, there is authorized to be appropriated out of the Highway Trust Fund (other than the Mass Transit Account) for the period beginning on October 1, 2011, and ending on March 31, 2012, a sum equal to 1/2 of the total amount authorized to be appropriated out of the Highway Trust Fund for programs, projects, and activities for fiscal year 2011 under titles I, V, and VI of SAFETEA–LU (119 Stat. 1144) and title 23, United States Code (excluding chapter 4 of that title).

(b) Use of funds.—

(1) Fiscal year 2011.—Except as otherwise expressly provided in this title, funds authorized to be appropriated under subsection (a) for the period beginning on October 1, 2011, and ending on March 31, 2012, shall be distributed, administered, limited, and made available for obligation in the same manner and at the same level as 1/2 of the total amount of funds authorized to be appropriated out of the Highway Trust Fund for fiscal year 2011 to carry out programs, projects, activities, eligibilities, and requirements under SAFETEA–LU (Public Law 109–59), the SAFETEA–LU Technical Corrections Act of 2008 (Public Law 110–224), titles I and VI of the Intermodal Surface Transportation Act of 1991 (Public Law 102–240), titles I and V of the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (Public Law 105–178), and title 23, United States Code (excluding chapter 4 of that title).

(2) Calculation.—The amounts authorized to be appropriated under subsection (a) shall be calculated taking into account any rescission or elimination of obligation authority for fiscal year 2011 required by the Department of Defense and Full-Year Continuing Appropriations Act, 2011 (Public Law 112–10) or any other law.

(c) Contract authority.—

(A) In general.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), funds made available in accordance with subsection (a) shall be subject to a limitation on obligation authority for fiscal year 2011 required by the Department of Defense and Full-Year Continuing Appropriations Act, 2011 (Public Law 112–10) or any other law.

(B) Exception.—Funds made available in accordance with paragraph (1) of this subsection for a project or activity extended by subsection (b) determined by 1/2 of the amount that the territory or Puerto Rico received or was authorized to receive for fiscal year 2011 to carry out section 1934 of SAFETEA–LU (119 Stat. 1217) shall be—

(i) for a territory, made available and administered in the same manner as funding is made available and administered under section 502(b)(1) of the Federal-Aid Highways and Highway Safety Act (other than an Act or resolution making contract authority for fiscal year 2011 required by the Department of Defense and Full-Year Continuing Appropriations Act, 2011 (Public Law 112–10) or any other law); or

(ii) for Puerto Rico, made available and administered in the same manner as funding is made available and administered under section 5302 of title 23, United States Code.

(B) Territory defined.—In this paragraph, the term “territory” means any of the following territories of the United States: American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, Guam, or the United States Virgin Islands.

(d) Extension and flexibility for certain allocated programs.—

(1) Fiscal year 2012.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, for the period beginning on October 1, 2011, and ending on March 31, 2012, the portion of the share of funds of a State under subsection (b) determined by 1/2 of the amount that the State received or was authorized to receive for fiscal year 2011 to carry out sections 1301, 1302, 1307, 1702, and 1934 of SAFETEA–LU (119 Stat. 1198, 1204, 1217, 1256, and 1480) and section 1414(f)(1) of title 23, United States Code, (A) made available to the State for programs appropriated under sections 104(b) and 144 of title 23, United States Code, and in the same proportion for each such program that—

(i) the amount apportioned to the State for that program for fiscal year 2011 bears to

(ii) the amount apportioned to the State for fiscal year 2011 for all programs appropriated under such sections of such Code; and

(B) administered in the same manner and with the same period of availability as such funding is administered under programs identified in subparagraph (A), except that no funds may be used to carry out the programs described in subparagraph (A) if the amount that the territory or Puerto Rico received or was authorized to receive for fiscal year 2011 to carry out section 1934 of SAFETEA–LU (119 Stat. 1217) shall be—

(i) for a territory, made available and administered in the same manner as funding is made available and administered under section 502(b)(1) of the Federal-Aid Highways and Highway Safety Act (other than an Act or resolution making contract authority for fiscal year 2011 required by the Department of Defense and Full-Year Continuing Appropriations Act, 2011 (Public Law 112–10) or any other law); or

(ii) for Puerto Rico, made available and administered in the same manner as funding is made available and administered under section 5302 of title 23, United States Code.

(2) Territories and Puerto Rico.—

(A) Fiscal year 2012.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, for the period beginning on October 1, 2011, and ending on March 31, 2012, the portion of the share of funds of a territory or Puerto Rico under subsection (b) determined by 1/2 of the amount that the territory or Puerto Rico received or was authorized to receive for fiscal year 2011 to carry out section 1934 of SAFETEA–LU (119 Stat. 1217) shall be—

(i) for a territory, made available and administered in the same manner as funding is made available and administered under section 502(b)(1) of the Federal-Aid Highways and Highway Safety Act (other than an Act or resolution making contract authority for fiscal year 2011 required by the Department of Defense and Full-Year Continuing Appropriations Act, 2011 (Public Law 112–10) or any other law); or

(ii) for Puerto Rico, made available and administered in the same manner as funding is made available and administered under section 5302 of title 23, United States Code.

(B) Territory defined.—In this paragraph, the term “territory” means any of the following territories of the United States: American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, Guam, or the United States Virgin Islands.

(e) Extension of authorizations under Title V of SAFETEA–LU.—

(1) Title V of SAFETEA–LU extended.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, for the period beginning on October 1, 2011, and ending on March 31, 2012, any obligation limitation under such title shall not exceed 1/2 of the total amount of funds authorized to be appropriated out of the Highway Trust Fund for fiscal year 2011 to carry out programs, projects, activities, eligibilities, and requirements under SAFETEA–LU (Public Law 109–59), the SAFETEA–LU Technical Corrections Act of 2008 (Public Law 110–224), titles I and VI of the Intermodal Surface Transportation Act of 1991 (Public Law 102–240), titles I and V of the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (Public Law 105–178), and title 23, United States Code (excluding chapter 4 of that title).

(2) Calculation.—The amounts authorized to be appropriated under subsection (b) shall be calculated taking into account any rescission or elimination of obligation authority for fiscal year 2011 required by the Department of Defense and Full-Year Continuing Appropriations Act, 2011 (Public Law 112–10) or any other law.

(3) Contract authority.—

(A) In general.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), funds made available in accordance with paragraph (1) of this subsection for a project or activity shall be subject to a limitation on obligation authority for fiscal year 2011 required by the Department of Defense and Full-Year Continuing Appropriations Act, 2011 (Public Law 112–10) or any other law.

(B) Exception.—Funds made available in accordance with paragraph (1) of this subsection shall not apply to any obligation under—

(i) section 125 of title 23, United States Code; or

(ii) section 105 of title 23, United States Code, for the period beginning on October 1, 2011, and ending on March 31, 2012, in an amount equal to 1/2 of the total amount of funds authorized to be appropriated under such title; and

(C) Contract authority.—Upon enactment of an Act making appropriations for the fiscal year for a program, project, or activity for the period beginning on October 1, 2011, and ending on March 31, 2012, the amount apportioned to the State determined under subsection (b) shall be—

(i) for a State, the amount apportioned to the State under section 1934 of SAFETEA–LU (119 Stat. 1217); and

(ii) for Puerto Rico, made available and administered in the same manner as funding is made available and administered under section 1934 of SAFETEA–LU (119 Stat. 1217).

(3) Additional funds.—

(A) In general.—No additional funds shall be provided for any project or activity under subsection (c), or paragraph (1) of this subsection, that the Secretary of Transportation determined was insufficient funded before or during fiscal year 2011 to achieve the authorized purpose of the project or activity.

(B) Reservation and redistribution of funds.—Funds made available in accordance with paragraph (1) of subsection (c) or paragraph (1) of this subsection for a project or activity described in subparagraph (A) shall be—

(i) reserved by the Secretary of Transportation; and

(ii) distributed to each State in accordance with paragraph (1) of subsection (c), or paragraph (1) of this subsection, as appropriate, for use in carrying out other highway programs and activities under subsection (c) or this subsection, in the proportion that—

(I) the total amount of funds made available for fiscal year 2011 to carry out such projects and activities under such subsection is to the total amount of funds made available for fiscal year 2011 for those projects and activities in all States.

(4) Title V of SAFETEA–LU.—

Sec. 111. Extension of Federal-Aid Highways Programs.

(a) In general.—Except as provided in this title, requirements, authorities, conditions, eligibilities, limitations, and other provisions authorized under titles I, V, and VI of SAFETEA–LU (Public Law 109–59), the SAFETEA–LU Technical Corrections Act of 2008 (Public Law 110–224), titles I and VI of the Intermodal Surface Transportation Act of 1991 (Public Law 102–240), titles I and V of the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (Public Law 105–178), and title 23, United States Code (excluding chapter 4 of that title), are incorporated by reference and shall continue in effect until March 31, 2012.
of title 23, United States Code, is amended—

SEC. 210. Transportation Infrastructure Investment Act.

Section 106 of title 49, United States Code, is amended by striking “$25.6 billion. That's just for the 6-month extension for our Nation's infrastructure and to really put people to work, we need long-term authorizations for these programs. Unfortunately, this bill is the 22nd FAA extension and the eighth surface transportation extension. Congress, unfortunately, has delayed passing a long-term FAA reauthorization for over 4 years, and a surface transportation bill has lagged for some 2 years. This action today represents a last chance to roll up our sleeves and get transportation projects moving forward in America again. A couple of comments about this legislation. H.R. 2887 is a clean 6-month extension for surface transportation programs, and it's also a clean 4-month extension for aviation programs. The extension's funding levels are consistent with the Full-Year Continuing Appropriations Act, our CR passed by Congress in April of this year. For surface transportation, the bill authorizes $19.9 billion for highway, $660 million for highway safety, and $5.1 billion for transit, for a total of $25.6 billion. That's just for the 6-month period. While I would like to do a 6-year bill, our intention with this action today is to remain firmly committed to the commitment to do a 6-year transportation bill. This is a 6-month extension. Why 6 months? Because our States and our other entities that depend on a reliable funding partner must know that moving forward, when we did the CR—which expires in just a few weeks here—we were able to extend, on the seventh extension, our transportation programs until the end of this month. So we think this is being good stewards and responsible, again, in extending for 6 months a period in which there can be some stability in these important transportation projects, and also to make certain that jobs and employment in this area move forward.

In July, I released a transportation reauthorization proposal. This was an outline. We’ve been working with our Democrat colleagues in a bipartisan fashion since that time to actually craft language which is acceptable to set forth the policy and the funding schedule, all of the authorization that’s so important to keep our Nation’s infrastructure projects moving forward. So this should give us enough time to complete that process and get that legislation before us. With unemployment in the construction industry at record-high levels, it’s imperative that we also provide this time.

Let me talk about FAA for a minute. This bill does authorize funds through the end of January for FAA. This is a lot of extensions of FAA. I had the opportunity, as the chairman of the Aviation Subcommittee, in 2003 to craft a 4-year FAA bill, which expired in 2007. So I helped write the last FAA 4-year authorization that expired in 2007. Here are the extensions.

The Democrats controlled the House of Representatives and the Senate. Here, if you start in when you had the Obama administration take over, they also controlled the White House, the House, and the Senate. And we get down to the 17th extension under Democrat control, and I have agreed to three of them. I said enough is enough, and we must move forward with a long-term authorization. I stand before you today and say that, while the measures that we took in the last extension for FAA were somewhat extraordinary, this situation demands attention and action for long-term legislation by the United States Congress, and I’m going to make certain that we do everything that people are working in this industry and that we meet our responsibility for setting the policy for one of the most important industries in the United States, our aviation industry.

So this is the history of what has taken place. This is the 22nd extension, and I can guarantee it will be the last extension because we must and we will pass a 4-year authorization. While there are some issues that remain to be resolved, we will continue working in a bipartisan manner. We passed legislation from the House. I look forward to working with Senator Rockefeller and others, and I think we will. The ranking Republican in the Senate, Mr. Costello and Mr. Rahall, to get this legislation done.

I urge my colleagues to support these two extensions rolled into one, H.R. 2887.

Hon. John Mica, Chairman, Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, DC.

Dear Chairman Mica: I am writing concerning H.R. 2887, the “Surface and Air Transportation Programs Extension Act of 2011,” which is scheduled for floor consideration today.

As you know, the Committee on Ways and Means has jurisdiction over the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (IRC). Section 141 of this bill amends the IRC by extending the current Highway Trust Fund expenditure authority and the associated Federal excise taxes to January 31, 2012. Section 142 also amends the IRC by extending the current Airport and Airway Trust Fund expenditure authority and the associated Federal excise taxes to January 31, 2012. In order to expedite H.R. 2887 for Floor consideration, the Committee will forgo action on the bill. This is being done with the understanding that it does not in any way prejudice the Committee with respect to the enactment of conferees or its jurisdictional prerogatives on this or similar legislation.

I would appreciate your response to this letter concerning this upcoming Floor consideration of H.R. 2887, and would ask that a copy of our exchange of letters on this matter be included in the Congressional Record during Floor consideration.

Sincerely,

Dave Camp, Chairman.

H.R. 2887 does not in any way prejudice the Committee on Ways and Means with respect to the appointment of conferees. H.R. 2887 does not in any way prejudice the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure as it pertains to any House-Senate conference involving H.R. 2887.

I commend our chairman, Mr. Mica; the subcommittee chair, Mr. Duncan; on Surface; the Air Subcommittee chair, Mr. Petri; and our ranking subcommittee members, Mr. Costaello on Aviation and Mr. Dave Camp on Surface.

Extending these programs is critical to our economic recovery. And the pending measure does so without any of the poison pills of the past or draconian cuts to investment in our surface transportation programs. Failure to extend the surface transportation programs could shut down more than 134,000 active highway and bridge projects and over 5,000 active transit projects, jeopardizing the jobs of more than 1 million private-sector American jobs over the next year.

The funding levels in the pending measure are far more preferable than what we are seeing proposed by Republicans on the Appropriations Committee. Just last week, they rolled out a fiscal year 2012 Transportation appropriations bill which proposes to slash highway and transit investment, destroying more than 600,000 good paying, private-sector American jobs, jobs that would be lost in every State of the United States.

I cannot support these dangerous and draconian cuts to investments in America’s future. To keep pace with India, China, and our other international competitors, we need to invest more, not less in America’s future. If we stop investing in the future, there is simply no way we can retire the debt of the past.

It is my hope that with this 6-month extension of highway, highway safety, and transit programs, we can come together and work to develop a long-term, robust Surface Transportation authorization bill that keeps the Nation economically competitive, meets the demands of the 21st century, and creates millions of family-wage American jobs.

The pending measure also provides for a clear extension in the Nation’s aviation programs under the FAA. Our aviation system is slightly more than a month into its recovery from the shock, the shock of a Republican-led FAA shutdown for 2 weeks in July and August; and I’m pleased that my Republican friends have chosen not to force another shutdown. I trust they recognize the damage that was caused to our Nation’s aviation system and the financial hardship placed on working-class families across the country who may have chosen to take any delay in the recovery into an otherwise clean extension in July and caused a senseless 2-week shutdown of major parts of the FAA.
Pending the enactment of a long-term bill, and I join our chairman in our desire to see such passed, this short-term extension is the responsible path forward. It will avert more damage to the aviation system and the economy.

With that said, what we should be doing is completing the conference committee on the long-term FAA reauthorization bill. Three months ago, House and Senate negotiators informally narrowed down the list of differences between the two Chambers to just a few. The Senate appointed conferees over 5 months ago, yet the House has not followed suit. So let us finish a long-term reauthorization and show the American people that Congress puts planes and passengers before politics.

I urge support of the pending measure, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PETRI. I yield myself 1 minute.

Agreed. I enjoy working with the ranking member, Mr. RAHALL, and just wanted to comment on his discussion of the FAA shutdown.

Just for the record, the facts are that the House of Representatives, in a bipartisan vote, passed an FAA extension on July 20, 3 days prior to the deadline, July 22, 2011.

Fact: the FAA extension contained reductions in thousand-dollar-plus airline pork subsidies affecting only three airports. The language that we adopted from the Senate affected 10 airports within 90 miles.

The Senate Democrats, after 2 weeks of forcing a partial FAA shutdown, meekly went to the Senate floor, and, in 71 seconds, passed the House extension that was available.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. PETRI. I yield myself 15 additional seconds.

The fact is that only pork ticket subsidies were excluded.

The fact is that the Democrats controlled the United States House and Senate for 4 years, letting FAA authorization expire in 2007, forcing 17 extensions, and even with the Presidency from 2009 until the beginning of this year were unable to pass FAA legislation.

I yield 3 minutes to the chair of the Aviation Subcommittee, the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI).

Mr. PETRI. I thank my chairman.

I rise in support of the bill before us, H.R. 2887, the Surface and Air Transportation Programs Extension Act of 2011.

House and Senate negotiators have worked for the last 5 months to resolve the issues between the House and the Senate on the long-term FAA reauthorization bills. We’re seeking this extension to allow time for us to complete negotiations on the final multi-year bill. We need to get a long-term FAA bill done so that the agency and airports can more efficiently plan and carry out programs and projects.

The bill before us, H.R. 2887, is a clean 4-month extension of the Federal Aviation Administration’s taxes and programmatic authorities. The extension will provide resources for the safety operation of the National Airspace System and for the continued certification and services of the Federal Aviation Administration.

The bill also authorizes funding for the Airport Improvement Program, which, together with the surface transportation provisions in the bill, authorizes critical funding for important infrastructure construction projects that will help preserve and create much-needed jobs.

I also want to express my support for the extension of our surface transportation programs. We must continue to fund critical highway, bridge and other projects across our country in order to have the transportation network necessary for economic growth and our global competitiveness.

The extension we have proposed is a sensible way forward, and I join Chairman PETRI in urging my colleagues to support this legislation.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to our distinguished subcommittee ranking member, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. COSTELLO).

Mr. COSTELLO. I thank the ranking member for yielding to me.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this legislation before us today. The legislation is a clean extension of the FAA bill and also takes the authorization through the extension through January 31 of 2012.

In February of this year, the Senate passed a bipartisan comprehensive FAA reauthorization bill by a vote of 87 to 8. By contrast, in April the House approved an extension that was very controversial, and it was a bill that was passed on a party-line vote. In fact, the House passed bill passed by the narrowest vote margin for a House FAA reauthorization bill in almost 30 years, and the White House has threatened to veto it.

Since the House FAA reauthorization bill was introduced, I, and several House Republicans, have warned that it contains a number of controversial “poison pill” provisions that seriously jeopardize the enactment of a long-term, job-creating legislation.

In July, the House Republicans attached an objectionable policy rider on rural air service to the short-term FAA extension. This policy rider was included as a tool to pressure Senate Democrats into giving into Republicans’ assault on collective-bargaining rights in a long-term reauthorization bill.

My Republican colleagues’ strategy backfired, however, and resulted in a shutdown of the FAA for two weeks. In those two weeks, the shutdown cost the Nation almost $400 million in lost revenue—more than 20 times the amount of money that, according to House Republicans, their policy rider would have saved over the course of an entire year. Tens of thousands of American jobs were jeopardized. The Nation cannot afford the cost and burden of a repeat performance, so I will support this clean four-month FAA extension.

However, I am very concerned about the events leading to the introduction of this extension. Immediately following last month’s disastrous FAA shutdown, House Republicans issued a defiant press release threatening to use new tools to coerce Senate Democrats. Yet, there have been no discussions or negotiations with the Senate since the shutdown, and House Republicans refuse to appoint conferees to complete a long-term bill.

Late last week, Chairman PETRI was quoted by reporters stating there would be a “new
I would like to now yield 4 minutes to the ranking member of our Surface Transportation Subcommittee, the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DUNCAN).

Mr. DUNCAN of Tennessee. I thank Chairman Mica for yielding me this time and for his and Ranking Member RAHALL’s outstanding work on this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 2887 extends the surface transportation programs for another 6 months, from October 1 through March 31 of 2012, and the aviation programs for another 4 months, from October 1 through January 31 of 2012, at funding levels consistent with the full-year continuing resolution passed last April.

This extension is considered clean and no policy provisions were added. During this 6-month Surface Transportation extension, Congress will work hard to pass the committee’s 6-year Surface Transportation reauthorization bill. The outline of the committee’s proposal was unveiled in June and makes much-needed reforms to our highway transit and highway safety programs.

The committee’s proposal will streamline the project delivery process, consolidate existing programs, and better leverage existing revenues in the highway trust fund. According to the Federal Highway Administration, the project delivery process can take up to 15 years from planning through construction. This is government at its worst.

Limited financial resources for transportation and infrastructure can be more effectively utilized by accelerating the process for project approval. While project reviews are necessary to help protect the environment, a more reasonable process is essential to maximizing our taxpayer dollars.

Additionally, the bill consolidates existing programs that are duplicative and do not serve a Federal interest. Consolidation in our 6-year bill will help States allocate their Federal resources to projects and activities that are the most needed. These programmatic reforms will devolve the decision-making authority to State and local authorities, giving the State and local people more control over these important projects.

If Congress moves this landmark piece of legislation before the spring, as we all hope, it will be considered the signature jobs bill that Americans have been waiting for this Congress to pass. It will create millions of jobs for hardworking Americans right here in the United States—not in China or India or other countries—and will leave a lasting legacy of tangible improvements to our transportation infrastructure in this country. By passing a long-term reauthorization bill, Americans will be able to see their tax dollars going towards rebuilding and strengthening our Nation’s highways, bridges, and transit systems.

Mr. Speaker, I also had the privilege to chair the Aviation Subcommittee for 6 years. A strong and efficient aviation system is vital to our economy, and I am pleased that we are also extending our air transportation programs in this bill. I hope we will soon pass our traditional multiyear FAA bill, too.

I urge my colleagues to pass this piece of legislation and work towards passing a long-term reauthorization bill for both our surface transportation programs and our air transportation programs.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished ranking member of the Surface Transportation Subcommittee, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DeFazio).

Mr. DeFazio. The best way to put America back to work is to invest in the underpinnings of our economy: roads, bridges, highways, transit, rail, our ports, our airports. These things serve the private sector and make us more productive and more competitive in the world economy.

Unfortunately, at the current levels of investment, we’re not even keeping up with our mid-20th century surface transportation system. Just think before the interstate highways what a disconnected country this was. And guess what? We’re headed back there.
We are not investing enough to maintain the Eisenhower legacy of the National Highway System. We have 150,000 bridges that need replacement or repair; 40 percent of the pavement needs not just resurfacing but underlayment, a $70 billion backlog on our aged transportation infrastructure. And the only way we can do that is just to give us an updated and state of good repair, 20th century transportation infrastructure. We need a 21st century transportation infrastructure, which is going to require more investment.

And for the life of me, I don’t get it on that side of the aisle. You’ve got this guy over there, the Republican Leader CANTOR. He says, well, we’re going to give up. Are we going to give up? Are we going to hemorrhage our transportation, building the country’s infrastructure? We need a 21st century transportation infrastructure. What was the outrage when they passed the stimulus bill, as the chairman pointed out, that only 60-some billion dollars went to the highways and infrastructure of this country? That’s when the outrage should have been put forth.

Where was the outrage on that side? There were more than just one of you over there. You should have stood up and you should have said right then and right there, as I did to the former Secretary, Rahall of West Virginia. We’ll go up a long-range highway bill. They’re going to take that money and they’re going to squander it.

We could have done half of a stimulus bill, put most of the money into the infrastructure projects. And we wouldn’t be sitting here today hearing this outrage on the House floor.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will remind the Members that remarks in debate must be addressed to the Chair of the Committee and not to other Members in the second person.

Mr. SHUSTER. Let’s move forward with a bill that’s within our means.

Once again, I want to remind my colleagues on that side of the aisle, you had both bodies and the White House for 2 years. Where was the bill? There was no bill. Where were the jobs? There are no jobs.

I would remind my colleagues we are borrowing 40 cents on every dollar we spend, and we’ve got to live within our means. And I’m willing to suggest that the bill that the chairman and our side is crafting is going to streamline this. We do have less money. There’s no doubt about it. I’d like to see more money. We’ve got to find different revenue sources. But taxing the American people in economic downtime is not the right time to do it.

We can take that $230 billion or $240 billion going into the trust fund and by streamlining and by taking all of those programs that don’t do anything to rebuild our roads and increase our capacity, take them off the table and let’s focus on what we need to do, and that’s build roads and bridges in this country.

So, again, I remind my colleagues, let’s direct the outrage where it’s due, and that’s in a failed stimulus bill.

Again, I do rise today to support H.R. 2887, the surface and air transportation program. It’s a clean extension for 3 months and 6 months. I think it’s extremely important that this moves forward so that we don’t stop the important bridge and road jobs and, of course, the safety programs and commerce that moves safely through the air. I think that’s extremely important.

So again, I intended to stand up and speak more about these two bills, but again, when I hear this outrage, I want to have the leaders, the people on our side about what’s happened in this Congress over the last 4 years.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished ranking member on our Economic Development Subcommittee, the gentlelady from the District of Columbia, ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON.

Ms. NORTON. Thank the ranking member for yielding. I thank the chairman for coming forward with this bill.

Enough of the outrage on both sides—if I may remind us all that that’s precisely what the American people told us during recess they didn’t want to hear.

I do want to correct one error that the prior gentleman just made: That there were no jobs in the American Recovery Act. There were 3 million jobs created or saved by the American Recovery Act; and if there had been more funds in that Act, we wouldn’t be here today with the American Jobs Act trying to get more money to avoid a double-dip recession. This bill is not what the American people deserve, and I apologize to them that we have had to lower our standards, but it does save us from another jobs catastrophe like the one we experienced in July.

It saves a million transportation jobs. Imagine furloughing that many people if this bill, the Surface Transportation bill, were to run out on the 31st of this month. Both FAA and transportation authorizations are very short term, but both are clean. Both are about yesterday’s business—about yesterday’s airports because there is not enough money to bring us into the 21st century, and they’re about yesterday’s surface transportation infrastructure.

Yet it’s hard to think of bills that would be on this floor during this time that would be carrying such a burden to get so much done at one time. At this moment, this bill is carrying the jobs burden by itself—a million jobs in surface transportation with at least 100,000 jobs at the airports. It’s allowing the modernization of air transportation infrastructure to continue, which is what we lost when there was a 2-week furlough, and it’s keeping our infrastructure from further deterioration.

It’s not what we deserve. You don’t always get what you deserve, and we’ve got to fight to make sure the American people get just that.

Mr. MICA. I yield myself 30 seconds.

Again, just to deal with facts and reality, I think Mr. CANTOR, myself, and others on the Republican side support transportation, building the country’s infrastructure, jobs. But we have to look at what took place.

Of a $787 billion stimulus bill, only $63 billion, 7 percent, went for infrastructure. Now, the proposal this week is up to 12 percent of $450 billion. Eighty-one percent of the stimulus transportation projects were temporary, created temporary jobs for repaving sidewalks and short-term projects, and less than one-half of 1 percent of the stimulus money went for new construction.

I am pleased to yield at this time, if I may, 2 minutes to the chair of the Rail Subcommittee, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. SHUSTER).

Mr. SHUSTER. The second person.

Where were the jobs? There are no jobs. Where were the jobs? There are no jobs. Where were the jobs? There are no jobs. Where were the jobs? There are no jobs. Where were the jobs? There are no jobs.

Ms. NORTON. I thank the ranking member for coming forward with this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will remind the Members that remarks in debate must be addressed to the Chair of the Committee and not to other Members in the second person.

I am pleased to speak in favor of this bipartisan, bicameral deal to extend the two important transportation programs at current funding levels.

The 4-month extension of FAA programs will allow enough time to iron out the final details of a long-term renewal. And for those of you who are pilot myself, I know firsthand the benefits and efficiencies this will bring to our airports and airways as well as to our out-of-date air traffic control system. I am particularly pleased to be extending the highway and transit program for 6 months in order to ensure we have adequate time to pass the chairman and the committee’s long-term plan.

New York and the country need long-term certainty and a steady stream of funding. We have spent too much time focusing on so-called “shovel ready” projects with little or no lasting economic or employment benefits.

I look forward to working over the next 6 months to pass a long-term reauthorization will empower States to take on major projects, including bridge replacements, highway interchange improvements, and investments in our Nation’s transit systems, as well as those in upstate New York. These are the projects that have the potential to provide jobs for years to come and to grow our economy in the long run.

Mr. RAHALL. May I have a time check, please, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from West Virginia has 9 minutes remaining. The gentleman from Florida has 1¼ minutes remaining.

Mr. RAHALL. I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER).

Mr. BLUMENAUER. I appreciate the gentleman’s courtesy.

I listened to my friend from Pennsylvania, who is concerned about the Recovery Act. A number of us voted against it because it was too heavily weighted for tax cuts in an attempt to get Republicans to participate, but all of them voted “no” anyway. If you would have worked with us, we could have increased the amount of money devoted to infrastructure, but it’s this same myopia that we see when Republicans refuse to accept broad bipartisan support for FAA in the Senate. What was it? It passed 89-7 or something like that, and yet we in the House can’t find the will to even have a vote on this.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to Mr. BLUMENAUER.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. I think we ought to take this very good, clean extension, use the 6 months to be able to build on a foundation of the original ISTEA, right-size it, accept the recommendations of broad bipartisan commissions that we need to be spending more, deal with the NAS plan the way that it happened with Ronald Reagan and with Bill Clinton that includes more infrastructure investment, and agree with the Senate FAA approach. We’ll be able to put millions of Americans to work today, it’s bipartisan bickering that we don’t need to do. It’s not partisan in the Senate. It doesn’t have to be partisan here.

I yield the balance of my time.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to Mr. HANK JOHNSON of Georgia.

Mr. JOHNSON. I thank the gentleman for yielding, and I thank the ranking member for yielding. I want to thank Chairman MIca and the gentleman from Florida (Ms. BROWN). The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is recognized for 3½ minutes.

Mr. BROWN of Florida. First of all, I want to thank Chairman MIca and Ranking Member RAHALL for bringing this clean FAA reauthorization extension bill to the floor.

Our Nation needs and deserves a well-funded multimodal transportation system. Business leaders, construction companies, labor groups, and rider advocates all agree that transportation infrastructure is critical to putting people back to work and improving our crumbling transportation system.

Transportation and infrastructure funding is absolutely critical to the Mrs. MALONEY. I thank the gentleman for yielding, and I thank the ranking member and chairman for their leadership on this important bill, the Surface and Air Transportation Programs Extension Act.

This act includes more than 6-month extensions to our Nation’s critical highway and transit programs. The funding provided in this extension to State Departments of Transportation and local transit agencies will keep Americans working and our economy moving forward. Congress can authorize these critically important programs. This extension is necessary to our Nation’s economic health and to getting Americans back to work.

I applaud the bipartisan work of our Chamber’s leadership in bringing this to the floor. However, I believe that, once the extension is passed, we should focus on bringing true high-speed rail to the Northeast Corridor.

As a representative of the citizens of the great city of New York, I understand the significant economic and transportation value of having a high-speed rail option that would serve the Northeast mega-region. Such an initiative would not only create high-paying construction jobs in the near term, but would spur economic development and growth throughout the region in the long term.

The Northeast region contains 20 percent of the Nation’s population and just 2 percent of the land area. This density is evidenced by the fact that 70 percent of all chronically delayed flights originate in the New York area airspace while 60 percent of the Northeast region’s road miles are considered heavily congested.

At a time when highway and air modes are nearing capacity levels and jobs are at a premium, high-speed rail for the Northeast corridor should be a serious consideration of this Congress. It would help our economic development and move our country forward in the 21st century, competing in the global markets.

Mr. MIca, Mr. Speaker, I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RAHALL. I yield the balance of my time to the ranking member of our Subcommittee on Railroads, the gentleman from Florida (Ms. BROWN).

Mr. MIca, Mr. Speaker. The gentleman is recognized for 3½ minutes.

Ms. BROWN of Florida. First of all, I want to thank Chairman MIca and Ranking Member RAHALL for bringing this clean FAA reauthorization extension bill to the floor.

Our Nation needs and deserves a well-funded multimodal transportation system. Business leaders, construction companies, labor groups, and rider advocates all agree that transportation infrastructure is critical to putting people back to work and improving our crumbling transportation system.

Transportation and infrastructure funding is absolutely critical to the Nation, and, if properly funded, serves as a tremendous economic boost and job creator. The fact is that the Department of Transportation’s statistics show that for every billion dollars invested in transportation, we generate 44,000 jobs and $6.2 billion in economic activity.

Indeed, our Nation’s long-term prosperity requires that we invest in our infrastructure. For example, China is currently spending 9 percent of their GDP on infrastructure, about $300 billion, while we are spending less than 2 percent.

Clearly this lack of investment has led to a crumbling infrastructure. The American Society of Civil Engineers in the 2009 Report Card for America’s Infrastructure gave the United States a grade of D.

It’s time for this Congress and our committee to get serious about putting people back to work. There is no better way to do this than funding transportation initiatives that is truly improving our system. We can no longer afford the status quo if we want to compete internationally with countries who understand the importance of infrastructure.

Let’s get to work on this bill now. Let’s finish a long-term FAA and surface reauthorization bill. As the Governor of Florida says, let’s get to work, let’s put people back to work.

In an article that was in the Orlando Sentinel yesterday, Hank Fishkind said, “This is the recovery, and it’s going to take time,” but he points out the importance of the infrastructure and putting people to work.

Once again, I want to thank Mr. MICA, Mr. RAHALL, the committee, and the staff. Let’s get to work and let’s put the American people back to work.

[From the Orlando Sentinel, Sept. 11, 2011]

Talking with . . . Hank Fishkind: This is the Recovery—and It’s Going to Take Time. Economist Says

(By Jim Stratton)

Hank Fishkind is a prominent Central Florida economist and former adviser to Florida Gov. Jeb Bush. He talked recently with Sentinel reporter Jim Stratton.

CFB: How bad has Central Florida’s economic conditions been in the last two years, and what’s surprised you the most?

Hank Fishkind: The worst economic conditions since the 1974-75 oil embargo. Not only has tourism turned down, but we had a boom and bust of unprecedented proportions in the real estate market. Something that shocked the most was the panic in the financial markets at the depths of the recession. We almost had a collapse of the banking system.

CFB: Do you believe we’ve moved into a recovery?

This is the recovery. It’s not like we’re going to get more recovery. This is it. From a national perspective, looking at the bursting of asset bubbles, national economies recover slowly. That’s what history teaches us. We’ve had a tremendous asset bubble burst in the real estate market. It takes time to heal from that.

CFB: What policies would you suggest?

We need for the president to propose, and Congress to pass long term initiatives. We need, in the short run, to provide some stimulus, and we need in the longer run to restructure the entitlement programs and our tax system. If we choose to restrict spending significantly over next six to 12 months, we’ll convert this slowdown into zero growth or a recession. We need to have some stimulative spending. Cutting now would be a dreadful error.

CFB: How much of the slow growth is function of policy and how much is a function of lingering structural problems?

There are still some substantial structural imbalances that hold back growth. Certainly that’s true in the housing markets. In addition, the uncertainly over the debt ceiling, the debilitating debate, the downgrade of U.S. debt, the volatility in financial markets.

All those issues, I think that’s a difference, that would make business and individual decision making more conservative.

CFB: Are tax increases needed to balance the budget?

There has to be tax increases as part of the program. We can’t just simply hope and plan to cut costs sufficiently to make that happen. The costs cuts would be so dramatic as to compromise economic growth so much in the short run, that the long run might not matter.

CFB: How do you think Gov. Rick Scott has done from an economic policy standpoint?

I like the vision. I think that’s important. I would like to see that vision built upon with more real action and less rhetoric. For example, the plan to stimulate and accelerate a long-term plan of roads projects.

It’s a great idea. I think now we need to see it executed.

CFB: This area has talked a lot about the need to diversify the economy. How would you say local leaders have done?

I think they’ve done a great job so far. But there are many roadblocks here. We have a major medical city at Lake Nona, in part because of public-private partnerships. We have a wonderful simulation industry on the east side, because of public-private partnerships that helped keep Lockheed here. So I think we’ve done much better than most places. Going forward, in an environment of slow growth, those places that are willing and able to continue to provide some public-private partnerships will greatly benefit.

CFB: You’ve developed the reputation as the guy who keeps the DOT on track when they need an economist’s support before elected officials. Do you think that reputation is fair?

I would say I always tried to speak my mind as I really believed things to be. I’ve promoted projects when I believed that they add to the welfare and economy of the community.

Mr. MICA. Mr. Speaker, in closing, we do need to move forward. This isn’t the time to bicker. This is the time to put people to work. This is the time to pass long-term reauthorization.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Th. RYAN of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I rise to order.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.
Surface Transportation and FAA programs are a critical part of a 21st century infrastructure in the United States. We know these programs are outdated and some are on an unsustainable path. While letting these programs expire is not an option, Congress must act quickly to enact fiscally responsible and effective reformed authorizations.

Mr. CONNOLLY of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the Chairman and Ranking Member for their efforts to pass this clean extension of both our surface and air transportation programs.

Working in a bipartisan fashion, we can avoid the previous clashes and political theatrics that forced 4,000 FAA employees and more than 70,000 construction workers off the job for two weeks without pay.

Our nation’s transportation infrastructure is the backbone of our economy, and we must ensure our ability to move people and goods if we are to grow the economy and create jobs.

I know the Chairman and Ranking Member share my disappointment that we are not yet providing back pay for those FAA employees who were furloughed. As you know, I am a co-sponsor of Congressman LoBIONDO’s bipartisan legislation to make those employees whole. They were innocent victims of our inaction, and we should restore those lost wages immediately.

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 2887, the Surface and Air Transportation Programs Extension Act of 2011. I am glad to see that a clear authorization could be reached, but there are important issues that must be considered in the future.

Prior to H.R. 658, the FAA Reauthorization and Reform Act being sent to the Senate, I offered an amendment to establish a mandate that at the top twenty United States airports, there shall be no fewer than three air traffic controllers on duty during periods of airfield operations. I firmly believe this provision will ensure that air traffic control towers at high volume airports in this country will be appropriately staffed at all times.

We have heard these recent stories of air traffic controllers falling asleep, or being locked out of the control tower, or for whatever reason, not being able to be on the job, on duty at critical times.

I submit that by simply having a codified policy that at the busiest and most critical airports we mandate there be personnel redundancy in control towers, we can make the aviation system much safer.

Think about the people on planes flying across our country. They are our grandmothers, husbands, wives, and babies. They are American passengers and their lives have value. To ensure their safety we must insist that air traffic controllers are vigilant. To ensure their vigilance we must set reasonable minimum standards.

After 9/11, we discovered the vital importance of protecting our domestic airspace. Air traffic controllers are part of the front line of defense to protect and ensure the safety of our air space. If they lose contact with a plane, they can alert authorities. If an air traffic controller at a major domestic and international airport is asleep at the wheel who will make that call?

It is unfair to put the lives of American passengers at high volume airports at any time in the hands of one individual, who may at some point be incapacitated. Even pilots have co-pilots. What if the controller fell ill? What then? What would you tell those passengers on the plane? Hope for the best? We need to provide the support that air traffic controllers need in addition to their training and qualifications.

This language I support creates a mandate, that at all times there must be a minimum of three air traffic controllers in the tower during hours of airfield operation. I commend Secretary LaHood for ordering a second air traffic controller to be on duty at Oakland International Airport. However, the Secretary’s action simply evidences that there is no current mandate for multiple air traffic controllers. According to the National Air Traffic Controllers Association, most airports operate 24 hours a day with two controllers in the tower for the midnight to 6 a.m. shift. The operative word is “most.” We must act to create a uniform nationwide standard, verifiable and enforceable by the FAA.

This legislation extends the funding for surface transportation through March, and aviation through January. As we move forward into the second quarter in the coming months, it is my hope that my colleagues will consider these important provisions. Increasing the number of air traffic controllers on duty is a simple way to keep the American people safe.

I am pleased with a clean extension of funding for our Nation’s surface transportation and aviation networks. I will continue to advocate for an increased number of air traffic controllers as Congress returns to this issue in the next session.

Ms. RICHARDSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 2887 Surface and Air Transportation Programs Extension Act of 2011. When I came to Congress I fought to become a member of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee because I know the importance of these issues for the people of the California 37th district as well as every American. Transportation is an issue that affects virtually every American every day and should never be put on the backburner.

H.R. 2887 will ensure that thousands of workers whose functions were deemed “essential” and whose salaries were deemed “essential” and whose compensation they deserve. We can’t let dedicated, hard-working federal employees suffer because our colleagues across the aisle were unwilling to compromise, causing a shutdown of the FAA and costing American taxpayers $350 million in lost tax revenue.

I am grateful that those FAA employees with whose functions were deemed “essential” and who continued to work during the shutdown were able to receive the compensation they deserve. We can’t let dedicated, hard-working federal employees suffer because of this.

I also understand that there is some disagreement over whether the Department of Transportation has the authority to provide back pay to furloughed employees under the legislation we are considering since it operates retribution to “erase” the authorization gap, or if Congress needs to pass a law.

This disagreement is a poor excuse for inaction. We would be adding insult to injury if we were to deprive furloughed employees of wages while we play the blame game for the second time—first on keeping the FAA open for business, and now on who can award a pay check. This is not new territory: we voted to compensate the 800,000 federal workers laid off during a 25-day budget stalemate in 1995–96. We know how to do it. We just have to demonstrate the political will to get it done.

I urge the House leadership to bring to the floor as expeditiously as possible H.R. 2814 or other legislation to ensure that these furloughed employees get paid.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SCHOCK). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. DANIELS) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2897.

The question was taken: and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

EMPOWERING PARENTS THROUGH QUALITY CHARTER SCHOOLS ACT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 392 and rule XVIII, the Chair declares the House in the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the bill (H.R. 2218) to amend the charter school program under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, with Mr. YODER (Acting Chair) in the chair.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The Acting CHAIR. When the Committee of the Whole rose on Thursday, September 8, 2011, a request for a recorded vote on amendment No. 8 print ed in part A of House Report 112-200 on which further proceedings were postponed, in the following order:

Amendment No. 7 by Mr. HOLZT of New Jersey.
Amendment No. 8 by Mr. KING of Iowa.

The Chair will reduce to 2 minutes the minimum time for the second electronic vote in this series.

AMENDMENT NO. 7 OFFERED BY MR. HOLZT

The Acting CHAIR. The unfinished business is the demand for a recorded vote on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLZT) on which further proceedings were postponed and on which the ayes prevailed by voice vote.

"(2) DEFINITIONS. In this subsection: "
"(A) SCHOOL EMPLOYEE.—The term 'school employee' means— "
"(i) an employee of, or a person seeking employment with, a charter school, and who has a job duty that results in exposure to students; or"
"(ii) an employee of, or a person seeking employment with, a for-profit or nonprofit entity, or local public agency, that has a contract or agreement to provide services with a charter school, and whose job duty— "
"(I) is to provide such services; and"
"(II) results in exposure to students; or"
"(B) SEXUAL PREDATOR.—The term 'sexual predator' means an individual who has been convicted of, or pled guilty to, a sexual offense against a minor."

Mr. KLINE (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the records go forward as read. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota? Ms. HANABUSA. I object, Mr. Speaker. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Objection is heard. The Clerk will read. The Clerk continued to read. Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I reserve all points of order against the motion. The SPEAKER pro tempore. A point of order is reserved. The gentlewoman from Hawaii is recognized for 5 minutes. Ms. HANKINSON. Mr. Speaker, let us be very clear that this is a final amendment to the bill, which will not kill the bill and, if adopted, will still allow the bill to go to final passage. This is an attempt to make a bill better. Regardless of how we may feel about the underlying bill, we can all agree that there is nothing we wouldn’t do to protect our children. Again, this is not an anomaly, this is not a bill. The bill will not be killed, and if this amendment is adopted, it will allow the bill to go forward to final passage. This just makes a statement that we should all be able to agree with, and that is that we wish to protect our children from sexual predators and abductors. What this amendment does is to say anyone who receives a grant in support of the high quality charter schools requires that each State entity that receives a grant under this section shall require a criminal background check to be conducted of such school employees. It also prohibits the employment of any individual for a position in such school, whether it’s a nonprofit that contracts with the school, or the school itself, until the criminal background check is done; and if you refuse to do so, you cannot be employed. And if you’re convicted of a felony—now, these are important points that we’re protecting them from: homicide, child abuse and neglect, a crime against children, spousal abuse, sexual abuse, kidnapping, arson, physical assault or battery, drug-related offenses, or crimes against a minor—this is what this bill requires. Now, in 2010 the GAO said we don’t have any Federal bills that protect our children. Here we are. We’re going to allow for grants to be given to charter schools. Why not just support this amendment which, in fact, will make this a better bill? What it will do is it will say no one, no one shall work with our children until such time that they have done a criminal background check. The bill also permits that, if you believe someone was wrongly accused, you can appeal. But during the period of time of that appeal, we’re also protecting the children because you’re not going to be able to work with them until such time as your appeal is done. □ 1400 Think about this. This is a statement that we are saying we’re going to make the schools better. We’re going to make charter schools safe for the children. How can we not support such a measure? That is why, Mr. Speaker, I ask that Members here support this motion to recommit. And be very clear: this does not stop the bill. This is like a final amendment. Regardless of how it votes, we vote for it—and I think we should all vote for it—it will go to final passage. This is not going to, in essence kill the bill. It will let it go forward. So with that in mind, I can’t imagine how anyone who sits in this Chamber can’t be in support of this amendment. I yield back the balance of my time. Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to withdraw my reservation of the point of order. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The reservation is withdrawn. Mr. KLINE. I rise in opposition to the motion to recommit. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Minnesota is recognized for 5 minutes. Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, we’re all concerned about the safety of our students and all of our schools. Ensuring our students are in a safe environment is a critical part of the duties of our teachers, our principals, our administrators, school authorities. But whether the students attend charter schools or traditional public schools, all of our students and parents need to know that schools are providing a safe environment for them. That’s why this issue is best considered when we look at the full Elementary and Secondary Education Act. Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote against this motion, reject this motion to recommit, and support the underlying bill. I yield back the balance of my time.
The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the passage of the bill. The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 189, noes 231, not voting 11, as follows:

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. PALAZZO) laid before the House the following resignation as a member of the Committee on Small Business:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, DC, September 8, 2011.

Hon. JASON ALTMIRE, Speaker, House of Representatives, The Capitol, Washington, DC.

Dear Speaker Boehner: I have accepted the nomination of the Democratic Caucus to serve on the Committee on Education and the Workforce for the remainder of the 112th Congress. I hereby submit my resignation from the Committee on Small Business.

Sincerely,

JASON ALTMIRE.

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut, Mr. Speaker, by the direction of the Democratic Caucus, I offer a privileged resolution and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 398

Resolved, That the following named Member be and is hereby elected to the following standing committee of the House of Representatives:

(1) Committee on Education and the Workforce—Mr. Altmiere.

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be considered as read and printed in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, yesterday, September 12, I was detained in my State on official business.

On rollcall vote 699 on the motion to suspend the rules and agree to H.R. 2076, to amend the United States Code regarding providing of investigatory assistance on request of State and local authorities with respect to certain serious violent crimes, and for other purposes, I would have voted “aye.”

On rollcall vote 700 on the motion to suspend the rules and agree to H.R. 2633, to amend the United States Code, to clarify the time limits for appeals in civil cases to which United States officers or employees are parties, I would have voted “aye.”

For rollcall vote 701 on motion to suspend the rules and agree as amended to H.R. 1316, “To protect the safety of judges by extending the authority of the Judicial Conference to request sensitive information contained in their financial disclosure reports, and for other purposes,” I would have voted “aye.”
Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, on August 14, Keystone Little League from Clinton County, Pennsylvania, won the Little League Mid-Atlantic Region title. This win secured them a place in the Little League World Series Tournament.

A special group of young men made up the Keystone team. It wasn’t just a talented Pennsylvania team making it to the World Series, or the fact that they were the first Clinton County team to make the World Series since 1949, but that for weeks these boys were perhaps the biggest story in the world of sports.

While some exceptional teams often hitch their success to one or two early developing kids, it was Keystone’s teamwork, sportsmanship, and character that served to rally the entire team to make the World Series. They built a strong rapport with the fans over the weekend tournaments in Bristol, Conn.:

Congratulations, Keystone.

TOURNAMENT SUMMARY

GAME 1: WIN
Victory: 2-0 victory over Cumberland Little League, R.I. (Northeast Region Champions)
 Northeast Manager David Belisle: Perhaps his words of highest praise were left for the Mid-Atlantic squad—whom his team defeated, a strong rivalry with recent regional tournaments in Bristol, Conn.: "That’s a classy team. I really want them to win it."

GAME 2: WIN
10-0 victory over Lafayette All-Stars, La. (Southwest Region Champions)
 "Pitchers Landon Brennen and Brandon Miller teamed up to throw the first no-hitter of the 2011 Little League Baseball World Series Monday night, as the hometown favorites representing the Mid-Atlantic region mercy ruled a potent Southwest team, 10-0, in four innings to continue their run to a title.

GAME 4: WIN
7-5 victory over Warner Robbins, Ga. (Southeast Region Champions)
 "Tuesday night, after finding themselves in a precarious position, giving up three runs in the top of the first, the Mid-Atlantic regional champs rode a deafening crowd of more than 32,000 to a comeback win, plating six runs in the bottom half of the frame to procure a lead they would never relinquish en route to a 7-5 victory over Warner Robbins, Ga. . . ." Garbrick, on the other hand, felt that the boisterous crowd fueled his team’s confidence—especially his de facto closer, Tyler McCloskey. With the Mid-Atlantic Region champs trying to mount a late rally, he shut the door yet again, hurling only fastballs in 1.1 innings of one-hit ball. “I’m not nervous anymore,” Garbrick said. “I’ve done this about a million times now.”

SEX TRAFFICKING IN AMERICA

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 5, 2011, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. POE) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader. Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, in the United States, throughout this entire land, there are 3,500 shelters—and these shelters are animal shelters. According to the Humane Society, there are at least 3,500 animal shelters in our Nation rescuing those animals, primarily dogs and cats, and making sure that they have some safety.

I have dalmatians. In fact, one of my dalmatians was from a shelter, Dalmatian Rescue in Dallas, Texas, is where I got it. Three hundred. Bear that number in mind. Mr. Speaker, because in the same United States of America there are five shelters—five—for minor sex trafficked victims in this country. Fifty beds in the whole Nation is what I understand that there are to take care of minors, primarily young girls who are trafficked throughout the United States for sexual pleasure.

Maybe we have gotten our priorities out of sync. You know, sex trafficking is nothing more than modern day slavery, and it is an epidemic in some parts of the world, and it even is coming to the United States. It’s that crime that I don’t want to talk about.

I spent a lot of time at the courthouse in Houston, Texas, as a prosecutor in felony court, as a criminal court judge for 22 years, and I heard a lot of cases. But this case of someone kidnapping a minor child and transporting them across the United States for sex slavery is one of those cases that is difficult to understand why it occurs in this Nation. And many people, many people in the academic areas and others don’t want to admit that takes place in this Nation, but human trafficking does take place, whether it’s with minors or whether it’s with adults, and primarily, Mr. Speaker, it’s with women.

I have traveled to the Eastern European nations as a Member of the Foreign Affairs Committee and have discussed with people in the Ukraine, Romania, Bulgaria, the problem those nations have when their young women... trafficked into the United States and the only alternative they think they have—to become a sex slave and be trafficked into the United States and allow that person to use them as property in the sex trafficking business.

When they come into the United States, they’re promised a better life, a good job; but that doesn’t really happen to some of them.

There are many stories. I’m going to talk about just two young women. Gabriella—that’s not her real name—was working to support her family in Colombia. She was told by a friend—a male friend who recently moved to the United States—that she could make a whole lot more money if she came to the United States. So she took him up on the offer to let him get her into the United States; but as soon as she arrived here, that same “friend” forced her into prostitution.

She couldn’t afford to come into the United States. So, he said, Well, I got you here. Now you’ve got to pay your way. The way you pay me for getting you here and the cost of me getting you into the United States is you’re going to have to become a prostitute, and you’re going to work for me, the pimp. If you don’t, I’ll harm your family. So she ended up taking care of them and they will get a job doing something. And, of course, what they end up doing is becoming a piece of property for that male so that that person can sell that young female into sex slavery.

Back home where they come from, their families many times never know what happened to their daughter or their sister. They have just disappeared off in some other country. That takes places in many countries throughout Eastern Europe and other nations as well.

Unfortunately, those who keep statistics estimate that overseas the customers, and one that use that sex trafficked victim, about 25 percent, understand, are Americans; Americans that go overseas for the purpose of engaging in prostitution as a customer of some person that is trafficked internationally.

But let’s bring it back closer to home and what’s taking place in the United States. Being from Houston, Texas, the location of Houston, Texas, where it is on the map and its closeness to other nations south of the border makes it, unfortunately, a hub for internationally sex trafficking victims that come into the United States, either stay in Houston or are trafficked to some other part of the United States, and it has become a hub, one of the hubs in this country for that awful, dastardly crime.

It works this way. This is one of the ways it works. Young women, either adults or minors in some foreign country, are smuggled into the United States illegally by someone who promises that when he gets them into the United States, he’s got a job waiting for them. In some cases, these young women have paid this person to smuggle them into the United States. And once they’re in the United States, they become the property of that sex trafficker, and he forces them into exploitation. He uses threats against them. It’s as simple as if you don’t cooperate, I will have my friends in your country where your family is. I’ll have them kill your family. So a 14-year-old girl, what decision does she make? She doesn’t speak the language. She’s in the United States, and this person says, either you cooperate and work for me, or I will make sure your parents are killed. It’s—this is really know what city she was in. After years of servitude, ICE raided the brothel where she was held and Gabriella was rescued. She was one of the fortunate ones because she was referred to services where she received counseling and helped to find housing and care for her own child and also find a job.

But, sadly, this type of trafficking occurs in the United States. People—women—come into the United States looking for freedom and prosperity, a good job; but that doesn’t seem to be the case. She’s going back to her home to their families; but they end up being property of someone else who sells them for sexual favors.

There are all kinds of ways that this is done. They’re trafficked through massage parlors that advertise themselves as legitimate businesses. In reality, they’re illegal sex rings. Part of that issue, massage parlors, occurs in the city of Houston, where women, primarily adult women, are smuggled into the United States from Asian countries. They don’t speak the language. They’re used in massage parlors, which are nothing more than a front for illegal sex rings.

The problem that they have is this. This is a complicated problem. It’s not an easy solution. They come into the United States. They’re smuggled here. They don’t speak the language. They come from a country where the police are corrupt, nobody trusts the government; and they find themselves in the United States and even know what city she was in. The trafficker tries to help them, and they don’t cooperate because they come from a culture where the police, law enforcement, are corrupt. They do not understand that they can get help in the United States.

That situation occurs—these massage parlors—occur in some places, and one of those is in Houston, Texas, wherestable teams together to try to stop this epidemic that’s occurring in parts of our State. These trafficking individuals—the traffickers—they’re smooth operators, and they will do everything—in the law and intimidate the victim to cooperate.

While victims are brought from overseas into our country, children in our own backyards are forced into a life of sexual exploitation. Let me distinguish here. I started out by talking about minor sex trafficking victims and how there are so few shelters for them, but let’s distinguish the types of victims we’re talking about.

We have the international victims who come into the United States, smuggled into the U.S. and they are transported around the United States for sexual favors. Then we have people that are already in the United States. Citizens or people that are here legally who are moved from city to city in the United States. So those are domestic trafficked victims.

Here’s the big distinction, Mr. Speaker: generally speaking, if a person is brought into the U.S. as a trafficked victim and she is brought into the United States; but as soon as she arrived here, that same “friend” forced her into prostitution.

Unfortunately, those who keep statistics estimate that overseas the customers, the ones that use that sex trafficked victim as a victim of crime. So she’s put in the criminal justice system because there’s no place to put her. There are no shelters. There are no beds for those types of victims. Of course, it’s a problem of resources.

But it’s something that we need to understand how difficult that is on a minor child who is a victim of crime to be shoved into the general population as a juvenile or in the criminal justice system to get her out of that system and treat her like a victim. Of course, she has a whole life ahead of her. It starts out she’s in the criminal justice system. Once that happens, the next time she’s seen or picked up by law enforcement, even with good intentions, she’s put back in the criminal justice system or the juvenile system.

So we have a standard here where we need to understand that we need to treat the victim of that traffic—the young woman, the minor child in some cases—they need to be treated as victims of crime and not criminals. We’ll get to the criminals and who they are in just a minute.

Traffickers use and contact very vulnerable young women. Many times they abuse and they manipulate these young women. The children—these girls, primarily—come from families, but they leave and they are brought to the United States. They’re runaways or in some cases throwaways, as some call them; and they’re very susceptible for trafficking. They really have no place to go in our society and our culture. They have no place to go. And so when they’re roaming the streets and somebody comes up to them and treats them nice, promises he’ll take care of them, give them a place to stay and give them money, they’re susceptible to that. Once they get that payment, they become a slave. They are a slave in 2011. Our culture needs to understand that.

The pimps, in many cases, will do anything. They will beat them, they will abuse them, they will drug them, and the more they abuse them, the more they manipulate them through old-fashioned brainwashing.

Take the story of Maria. Maria was an 11-year-old girl. Eleven, Mr. Speaker. That’s her actual age. She was raised by her grandmother in Los Angeles. Her mother died when she was very young and her father was not involved in her life. This young girl, as most girls, in my opinion, needed a male figure to help her. She was looking for someone since she didn’t have a father figure around. She didn’t realize that this male figure would end up being someone who would treat her as a sex slave.

One day, this individual approached her. He treated her nice. He was 28 at the time. He was talking about starting her shopping, but her new clothes, treated her nice, took her to his house; and as soon as he went into that house with her, she didn’t realize that she would never return to her home.

He treated her well at first, but soon he had other girls who lived in the house take her to a house of prostitution, for lack of a better phrase, and show her how to be a prostitute. Because, you see, she was 11 years of age. She had no idea that she was being taken about $1,500 a night that she turned over to this 28-year-old pimp. Later, she said she was beaten and brainwashed and stuck in “the life” and trafficked throughout the United States.

Her pimp got all the money, making her believe that this is the way it should be and that he deserved the money while she was being raped by multiple men each and every night. He told her he owned her—and the less she lived it because she was 11. She was still maturing into society and what was right and what was wrong was all being taught differently to her.

Maria was arrested on multiple occasions and didn’t even know her grandmother and her sister were looking for her until the first time she was arrested at the age of 14. Fortunately for Maria, there was a place for her to go to receive specialized services, and she was able to and eventually able to get out of this life of being a slave. She finally believed that she had some self-worth, where she believed before she had no worth as a person.

Part of the problem, Mr. Speaker, is we don’t have enough places for young women like Maria—50 beds, only five shelters, I understand.

So the United States, as a Nation, as a culture, as a people, the greatest place on Earth, we need to understand that we have to deal with this issue. It’s only going to get worse. And ignoring the problem will not solve the problem.

Of course, all different branches of law enforcement must work together—local, State, and Federal—on this issue, and especially on the issue of the fact that international trafficking victims in the United States seem to have some places to go when they’re rescued, but that’s not the case for domestic trafficking victims. And let’s not forget that the perception that the public and policymakers have when these sex traffickers and domestic trafficking victims don’t, and especially those who are minor trafficking victims.

The Victims of Trafficking and Violence Protection Act of 2000 was the first large-caliber federal law to address human trafficking in this country. The law addresses both the global and domestic trafficking problem and also establishes an annual Trafficking in Persons Report that analyzes the issue of global and country-to-country trafficking and places countries on a list—on a tier is what it’s called—of the worst offenders, and I think we should know who the worst offenders are.

The worst offending nations in the world—the whole world—all countries are kept up with—on human sexual trafficking and slavery, here they are: Algeria, Burma, the Central African Republic, Cuba, New Guinea, Iran—I’ll repeat that one, Iran—North Korea, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Madagascar, Saudi Arabia, the Sudan, Turkmenistan, Venezuela, Yemen, and Zimbabwe. Those are the worst countries for this issue of international sex trafficking.

This legislation was reauthorized in 2008 as the William Wilberforce Trafficking Victims Reauthorization Act. We have improved the law over the years, and it’s time that we make trafficking—international trafficking and domestic trafficking—as an issue, a human rights issue, a children’s issue. Whatever you want to call it, it’s wrong, and we have to deal with it in this country. And we cannot put an end to it until we are aware of the fact that it does occur.

Just like the old days when many people used to say when I was a judge, oh, gangs aren’t a problem, there are no gangs in the United States. Yeah, well, we found out that was wrong. It’s the same issue when it comes to human sex slavery. It is occurring, and it will only get worse unless we do something about it.

Our laws must identify the people in the system. And it’s important that we take the child, the trafficked person, and treat them as a victim of crime. We have to have that mindset that in many cases they are a victim of crime. We, as a culture, need to recognize that and treat them that way and not as criminals. That’s the primary duty that we have: Rescue that child, get them out of that environment, and help them.

Let me tell you, these are hard people to work with. These young women are hard. They are difficult. The agencies that work with them find them very difficult to work with, but that doesn’t mean we should give up on them.

So we take the victim and we work with them and treat them like a victim. Then we take the customer, the person that pays for the service, pays the slave to perform some sexual activity. We take that person and we prosecute those individuals. And when they’re convicted, I think their photographs ought to be on the Internet. Line them up. Let the country know who these people are that live in this Nation that buy sexual favors from children. Show who they are. But prosecute the male, the person who is the slave owner. And there is no punishment for that.

Too often in the area of prostitution—there are even some States that want to abolish it as a crime. Too often we center on the prostitute. And in some cases, the prostitute, unlike the cases I’m talking about, is committing a crime. They’re doing it because they want to. They’re not forced to do it. That’s a different situation. But we center on the prostitute. Very seldom do we prosecute the male, the person who is the slave owner. And there is no punishment for that.

Then we deal with the trafficker, the slave owner. And there is no punishment that is strong enough for the slave owner in this country. Go after them. Make them know they’re not going to do business in the United States and traffic international victims or domestic victims in this country. We will not stand for it. But let’s focus on those guys and go after the other one—yes, who uses that service and treat the victim as a victim.

The people who use that service, they need to know we’re going to find out who they are and we’re going to prosecute them because that’s the demand that’s created in this country. We cannot continue to let those who pay to abuse children continue to roam our streets, and we need to treat victims as such.

I am the co-chairman of the Victims’ Rights Caucus, along with my friend Jim Costa from California, and one of the things we’re trying to do is raise awareness for victims of crime, especially those of domestic trafficking victims that are arrested and treated as criminals when, in the case, they should be treated as victims of crime. We must make sure that the international and domestic victims are both treated with dignity and essential services, and there must be services provided for them. We must also make sure that the victim in this case is rescued, that, as a society, that is the first thing we try to do is rescue them.

As I mentioned earlier, it’s my understanding there are only about 50 beds for minor sex trafficking victims in the United States and five shelters. We need to solve that problem and help those organizations that work with victims of crime have resources to house and treat and take care of those very special people.

There are many organizations that are trying to help in the area of rescue, stopping victims. I would like to mention those before I finish, Mr. Speaker.

Of course, I mentioned Constable Ron Hickman of Precinct 4 in Houston that’s working on the prostitution involvement in massage parlors and trying to prosecute the people who are involved in that, but also to rescue those victims that are very difficult to work with because they come from a culture where they don’t work with law enforcement.

Another organization is the Arrow Ministries in Texas, the YMCA International Services. Children at Risk in Houston does a great job. They do exactly what their name says. They try to take care of kids, children that are at risk.

Houston Rescue and Restore, Arrow Ministries, Redeem Ministries. On the national level, there are other organizations: Shared Hope International, The Rebecca Project for Human Rights, Polaris Project, Catholic Charities, Humanity United, World Vision, International Justice Mission, Vital Voices, the Coalition to End Slavery and Trafficking, Amnesty International, End Child Prostitution and Trafficking, Free the Slaves, Not for Sale Campaign, and Break the Chain. There are other amazing organizations that help in the area of rescue, whether it’s the local level, there are other organizations that help at the national level, and there are other organizations that help internationally.

Mr. Speaker, a lot of times people ask me why do you have a Special Order when the Chamber is not in session and it’s about anybody’s paying any attention. We all have monitors back in our offices, and many of our Members who are not in attendance get a chance to hear what other Members have to say during Special Orders. It also allows us, if people across the country happen to be paying attention to what’s going on in Washington, it gives them a chance to see and hear some of the issues that we’re talking about.

One of the things that really concerns me that I hope everybody’s concerned about is the terrible spending problem we have here in Washington, and that spending problem, and what that spending problem causes. When you print more money and you print more money and it gets into circulation, that’s called inflating the money supply. When you inflate the money supply, ultimately that means that everything that money buys goes up in cost.

The trucks that transport our goods and services across the country have to pay for more diesel fuel, more for licenses, more for anything else; and all those costs are passed on to the people whose products they carry, and those people then have to make a profit, so they have to raise the price of those products to the people who buy those products, whether it’s a supermarket or a clothing store or whatever it is. Then when the consumer goes to buy those products that are transported, they have to pay more for them; and that’s what we call inflation.

Now, we have, in the last couple of years, during the Obama administration and the last part of the Bush administration, a stimulus bill and a stimulus bill that have cost, collectively, close to $2 trillion. That does not cover the other programs that have been increased, thus costing more money to the government and the taxpayer.

Then just recently, because we had these terrible crises on Wall Street and the banking crisis that we’ve had, we have had bailouts, whatever $1 trillion when you talk about the interest that’s added to it; and because the economy continues to founder and we have unemployment that’s above 9 percent, the Fed decided to have what they call QE1, quantitative easing, which increased the money supply again by several hundred billion dollars. And then we had quantitative easing, or QE2, which has raised the amount of money in circulation and exacerbated the problem that we’re all facing today.

So I’d like to talk just a little bit about how this affects the average person. Mr. Bernanke, who’s the head of the Federal Reserve, said that we don’t have to worry about inflation. He said that, long term, the inflation rate is not going to get above 1.7 to 2 percent.

But let’s just look at what the average person has to pay when they go to the store or the gas station to buy products. Milk—and everybody drinks milk, especially if you have kids—has gone up 38 percent since last year. That means if you buy milk, for every dollar you’re spending, it costs $1.38, as opposed to last year. That’s inflation.

The price of sugar—and sugar’s used in cookies and cakes and all the things that we use on a daily basis, chewing gum—has gone up 20 percent since last year. That’s inflation.

The price of corn, which is used in feed for our animals, it’s used in gasoline now, it’s used on a daily basis by people across this country, corn has gone up 62 percent in the last year. So for each dollar that you spent for corn a year ago, now it costs $1.62.

And as of August, the cost of beef, hamburger, steaks, whatever you buy, went up 13 percent over last year, and that means to buy 52 cents a pound. So when you go and buy a pound of hamburger, it’s going to cost about 52 cents more than it did a year ago. That’s killing the American people.

They tell us we do not have inflation, and anybody that goes to buy groceries or any commodity that’s transported across this country is paying a heck of a lot more than they did last year. So when the administration and the Fed and the Treasury Department say we don’t have an inflationary problem, talk to your wife, husband, talk to your wife, talk to your husband, talk to your husband when he goes to buy gasoline. And as of August, the Treasury Department knows that the amount of money they’re making is not keeping up with inflation. That’s why we have to get control of spending here in Washington. We have to get control of the entitlements. We have to get control of a lot of government agencies that are not doing anything to really help our economy or our country.
Take, for instance, the Department of Education. Everybody says, well, we need to have a Department of Education. Why? Education is supposed to be conducted at the State and local level, controlled by the State and local governments. But we have an Education Department. And what has the Education Department contributed to our society? The quality of education has gone down, down, down, to where we’re one of the least educated, as far as the quality of education is concerned, the least educated countries in the western world, in the industrial world. So the Department of Education really isn’t contributing anything except gobbling up an awful lot of our taxpayers’ dollars. There’s a whole host of agencies like that that we need to get rid of because we don’t have the money to pay for them.

And yet the President came up the other night and he spoke in this Chamber, and he said we’re going to have to spend another $447 billion for a jobs bill. And the story has been repeated again and again by the administration. That’s what we tried to do with the bailout and the stimulus bill and these other things.

Remember the shovel-ready projects? The President said, well, we didn’t have these shovel-ready projects as we wanted to. As a result, we didn’t see anything except more and more unemployment.

Throwing money at the problem does not solve the problem. All it does is cost the taxpayers more money, either in taxes or in a hidden tax that they pay when they go to buy food, clothes, groceries, or gasoline to get to and from work; and that’s the problem that we have right now.

The President has a socialistic European approach to government. He believes that government ought to control health care. He believes that government ought to control the energy sector. And if we pass what was called cap-and-trade, which would deal with energy and the emission of CO₂ into the atmosphere, it would raise the cost of electricity and everything else that we use dramatically. In fact, he said himself during his campaign, or even before that, that cap-and-trade would essentially cause the prices to skyrocket for energy. Just another thing that the American people have to pay for.

We don’t have the money in our pockets. People’s salaries aren’t going up. We’ve got a huge number of people unemployed. We’re paying unemployment to them on a weekly basis so that they can survive. They don’t have the money.

But the government keeps spending and spending and spending, and we can no longer afford it because it’s going to hit us with higher taxes. That’s what he talked about right here last week: more taxes that we don’t have, more spending that we can’t afford, which leads to more inflation that people are feeling right now.

And if people don’t believe me who may be paying attention to this, and I’m talking to my colleagues back in their offices, talk to your wife or your husband when they buy gasoline or go to the store. The average inflation rate is somewhere around 13 percent, and that is something we cannot afford. It’s going to kill this economy and kill this country as the country that we’ve known all of our lives, and what we’re passing on to our children is, in fact, living beyond what we’ve had, and we cannot afford that any longer.

What we need to do is streamline government, get back into our entitlements—Medicare, Medicaid, and Social Security—and figure out better ways, not eliminate them, but better ways to solve that problem. This House has sent a plan over to the Senate that would do that in an efficient and economic way and cut the country and solve that problem.

We need to go through every agency of government, and if they’re not doing their job or if they’re not necessary, get rid of them, cut them out, reduce the size of government, cut government spending.

Then, in addition to that, we ought to do like Ronald Reagan did when he came into office and we had double-digit inflation; double-digit unemployment, and double-digit interest rates. It was actually as bad or worse than it is right now. And he came in and he said instead of raising taxes, as they had, that they said that would bring revenue into the Treasury, he said, no, we’re going to cut taxes.

And the reason he did that was because if you raise taxes, you take money out of people’s pockets, and that’s money they can’t spend. If they don’t spend, they can’t buy. If they can’t buy, we don’t produce. And if you don’t produce, more and more people who do the producing are laid off and are going to the unemployment lines.

Conversely, if you cut taxes, you give business and industry more money to invest. You give individuals more money to spend. They can buy more and invest more, and we produce more because people can buy it, and that creates jobs. And when we create jobs, we create more taxpayers. And we went from $360 billion in tax revenue under Reagan to $2 trillion—almost tripled because we cut taxes—and stimulated economic growth.

This administration believes in more government control over our entire economy and our society, and that’s why we see the economy starting to tank today, because government cannot create something unless it takes something away. We can’t give jobs that the government creates unless we take it from you, the taxpayer, and that means either raise taxes or spend money we don’t have and print it, and that creates inflation, which is a hidden tax on everybody in this country.

The bottom line is this country is in a very difficult situation. I serve as chairman of the Subcommittee on Europe and Eurasia. I’m going to be going to Greece in a couple of weeks. Greece has a socialistic economy. They’re going down the tubes right now, and they’re raising taxes on everything, electricity, everything they can. They’re cutting the benefits to the people that work there because the benefits that have been too great. Government can’t afford them. All of these things, the salaries are being cut.

And what’s happening in Greece is it’s going belly up. And the effect of it is on all of the other countries that have investments in Greece, the banking, the financial institutions, all of them are really in trouble, and they’re talking about a potential domino effect because of the failure of Greece and because of the socialistic approach to government that they’ve taken.

Italy’s in trouble, Portugal’s in trouble, Spain’s in trouble, even France is in trouble because they’ve invested a lot of money through the financial institutions into Greece. The whole European continent’s in trouble because of the socialistic approach to government.

The thing that’s kept America so strong all of our lives is free enterprise, the profit incentive for a businessman or person to sacrifice something of myself. And they open a gas station or a store and they work their tails off, and they have a chance to make their lives better. But when government starts taking over everything, it ruins it. That’s what’s happening in many countries in Europe, especially Greece.

So if any of my colleagues are paying attention on the Democrat side of the aisle or who are Independents or who are Republicans and say that you will realize the number one thing we have to do right now is get this government under control.

We need to cut regulations so business isn’t strangled by the regulations that are costing them more and more money that they have to pass on to the consumer or they have to fire people because they can’t afford them. We’ve got to cut taxes to stimulate economic growth, and that will bring more money into the Treasury, and it’ll be like it did under President Reagan. And we’ve got to make sure that we eliminate unnecessary spending in these agencies of government like the Department of Education. Get rid of them because they’re not doing anything except gobbling up our money.

If we do that, we’re going to turn this country around, and we will remain the greatest country in the history of mankind. If we don’t, if we continue down the road that this administration is taking us down, moving us towards socialism, toward government control over health care, energy, everything, then we’ll see the quality of life that...
we’ve enjoyed go right down the tubes. It’s up to the American people, and it’s up to us in Congress to take the bull by the horns and deal with this.

So I say to my colleagues, please, pay attention to what I’ve said tonight. You may not agree with everything, but if you’ll study the things that I’ve studied and look at what’s going on in Europe, you’ll understand very clearly that what I’ve said has merit, and we need to do it.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

JOBS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 5, 2011, the gentleman from New York (Mr. TONKO) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. TONKO. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

It’s an important topic these days when we refer to jobs—jobs in America, jobs that we retain, jobs that we create.

The overwhelming issue right now in the minds and hearts of constituents across this country, I firmly believe, is about the dignity of work, jobs that need to be strengthened out there in number so as to provide for the opportunity for people to dream the American Dream, the American Dream of home ownership, of education for their children, of higher education pursuits, so as to unleash the skills and the talents and the passions of the next generations of workers.

Training, retraining programs to enable the human infrastructure required as an investment in the work zone of America is an important aspect of the investment that we need to make through policy reforms and policy strengthening and resource advocacy that we could do here in the Halls of Congress, on the floor of the House of Representatives to enable us to fill those coffers with the quality investments that need to be made from a human infrastructure perspective to a capital infrastructure, and certainly to a physical infrastructure as we go forward and allow this country to utilize its intellectual capacity, to use the brainpower of these United States to enable us to compete and compete effectively.

That job market, the jobs created, the jobs retained through advocacy here in Washington can speak to the ultimate highest priority that people have established for all of us who are serving, regardless of political persuasion or philosophical mindsets.

As we serve this Nation, we can best provide for an outcome of jobs that are created in our society. There is no stronger need. There should be no stronger commitment. The President showed that when he was hosted here in the House of Representatives with a joint session of Congress. And the room was filled. The gallery was packed as people witnessed the very passionate speech from the leader of the free world.

As President Obama laid forth his vision, his plan, his initiatives, his goals for the American people, the House of Representatives and members of the United States Senate got to hear first-hand what that effort is all about. People listened with intent to move forward with that blueprint for our future, a blueprint that would strengthen our economy and have an impact across the world.

We have this opportunity now to work in a multipartisan way in a bicameral response to what the President has highlighted to be his plan for jobs here in America.

I was happy to note that amongst his arguments, amongst his priorities happens to be the creation of an innovation economy, a response perhaps to an innovation economy that finds us as an “idea-ist” society investing in those ideas, the ones that get moved along perhaps to a prototype that moves along to a manufacturing sector.

I, before entering the Halls of Congress, before being elected to the House of Representatives, served as president and CEO of NYSERDA, the New York State Energy Research and Development Authority. It is nationally recognized for its cutting-edge work being done in the science and tech aspects of high tech. By the way, in the district that I represent, the 21st Congressional District in New York State, much about the Capital Region and Mohawk Valley and Schoharie Valley of upstate New York have been dubbed recently by Brookings Institute to be the hottest territory, the strongest hub, the most active region in the country for green collar job growth.

That’s a feather in our cap and it is a call to arms. It is an Andrew Carnegie moment that we have the opportunity to see investment happening, it’s there in the Capital Region of New York.

It took a partnership with academia and State government and Federal Government, yes; but it also was a partnership with the private sector, where great investments were made by the private sector in this high-tech agenda—in the science and tech agenda, nanoscience, semiconductor, advanced battery manufacturing. Now, that is somewhat clustering in its concept to draw more and more start-ups and entrepreneurial efforts and workers who are clustering in this way, with academia getting invested in the research aspects.

I mention that because the innovation economy is something that received high focus and an inordinate amount of attention in the speech made by the President. He understands and he has professed—and I agree with his assessment—that whoever wins this global race on innovation will emerge as the exporter—the kingpin, if you will—of the global economy, the exporter of energy intellect and innovation and ideas that will enable us to, in a way, mimic the success stories of the space race—a global race that found fewer partners but found the United States of America being victorious.

That all began, I believe, with a set-back sometimes misunderstood moment in American history, the Sputnik moment, America, in its defeat, had to stand up and dust off its backside and commit with passion, as experienced with the words of John F. Kennedy, who said, to do the effort of investing in the space race not because it’s easy but because it’s hard; and that attitude, that tone, that passion, that commitment, that resolve produced a winning moment, a winning moment when we were the first to achieve the daunting task of landing a person first on the Moon.

As a Nation, we took great pride in that event that happened some 40-plus years ago. It was more than the magic moment of landing a person on the Moon and the famous quote that talked about the giant leap for mankind. It was the unleashing of technology and untold aspects of our world, of our society, where technology reached communications and energy generation and education and healthcare, to name a few segments of activity out there.

That was a profound statement made by America and her brain power, America and her will—her will to invest in her people and in a prototype that brought us together as a Nation, where everyone joined in the efforts to fine-tune the best way by which to pursue that mission. What happened really raised America. Her leadership potential, her leadership recognition in the global community became profoundly enhanced, and it was not just technology entering these different segments of our society but of bolstering all these aspects, the different sectors of our economy, agriculture, manufacturing, impact not just for Americans but for people worldwide the quality of life that we enjoy, the opportunity to strengthen services, to be able to bring us together in almost a village capacity as a world simply because of technology.

Today, I would remind my colleagues in the House of Representatives and our partners down the Hall in the United States Senate that we have that same moment, that same challenge that same moment, that same passion again, to go forward—to go forward with a mission that allows us to invest in a clean-energy society, in a clean-energy economy into an innovation agenda, Think of it. We have so many opportunities here. We have committed so many times the prototype to public and private aspects of research and development, of investment of research that leads to ideas or ideas that are built by that research to a greater capacity and then shared in a way that leads development and processing that then creates the manufacturing aspect.

We’ve seen it with the chips manufacturing in my district. Perhaps the largest such construction of a chips manufacturing facility in all of America is taking hold in the region, in the area that I call home. That is enabling us to think beyond usual terms. We're thinking of chips applied to agriculture, chips applied to healthcare, chips applied to the education world. That is a marvel in and of itself, and it's enabling the best minds to cluster in an area like that which I represent, which is the 21st Congressional District in upstate New York in the Capital Region.

That's the investment that I believe America not only requires but that Americans are demanding of their leaders, leaders that occupy these seats here in Washington in the Halls of Congress. That's what they're asking for—that sort of investment, that sort of magical quality that we have seen throughout her history.

It's replete with sagas of success that began with a testament with hyphenated Americans in their first generation of connection to these soils investing in a way with this brightness of ideas coming from blue-collar workers, who enabled us to take a regional idea that which I represent and allow it to inspire a westward movement and an industrial revolution because, in the heartlands of the 21st Congressional District, we were the hosts to an Erie Canal/barge canal history.

What that pathway, that waterway pronounced with its own presence is the opportunity to build a Port of New York that then gave birth to a necklace of communities, dubbed "mill towns," that became in the Halls of Congress of invention and innovation. It was perhaps the first high-tech revolution taking hold in the 21st Congressional District of New York. It was there that all sorts of product lines were conceived, offered, further developed and then realized in the marketplace around the world, and these product lines inspired continued progress.

That's the sort of ilk that is American and uniquely American. That is the investment that enabled us to produce these tremendously powerful chapters in our Nation's history, and it should be the inspiration.

These moments should be the inspiration for us to do the correct thing today: for us to understand that we do not cut our way to prosperity, that we do not cut our way to opportunity, but that certainly we can invest our way to opportunity and invest our way to a new economic formula that provides an investment in our working families, an opportunity for people to truly dream the American Dream. That's how we will survive. That's how we will meet the test in the present moment.

This is a challenge to Congress—and rightfully so. This is not a time for political gamesmanship. This is not a time for simple negative response or rejection of a political kind.

This is about working as a team, executive branch with legislative branch, Republicans with Democrats, Senators with House of Representatives membership. That's what we can accomplish here if we set our hearts and our minds and our souls to an agenda that is in keeping with the tradition, the deeply rooted and powerful tradition of job creation in our society.

Think of it. Throughout our years, whether it was President Lincoln in the development of rail or Governor DeWitt Clinton in New York with the development of the Erie Canal, or President Eisenhower in the development of an interstate system, or President Roosevelt and the Corps that went throughout this great country of ours State by State and built the infrastructure that certainly we can invest our way to for this country at a time when we were hurting from a grossly high unemployment statistic.

That's America at her best, at her brightest. It's her shining moment. The President is imploping all of us, as Members, as leadership in the Houses, to allow for America to have her next shining moment. Challenges in difficult times can produce the most deep, profound, uninhibited, unrestricted behavior, and we have that opportunity. We have that opportunity here to respond with this innovation economy. It takes investment.

As I indicated, when I served as president and CEO of NYSERDA, and before as energy chair for some 15 years in the New York State Assembly with the New York State legislature, it took an appropriate policy and then an investment that would enable us to respond in that pathway wanting to be able to go forward with the kinds of intellectual response to deeply rooted concerns.

Think about it. We dismantled a monopoly situation for utility purposes, electric utility purposes, and chose through an administrative order with then-Governor Pataki to go forward with a competitive quality in our utility outlets in New York State, a system that was designed for a monopoly setting that has to be adjusted to not only wheel electrons from region to region within our State, but from State to State, from State to New York State, and then from country to New York State.

So that took improvement that needed to be made in policy and in resource advocacy. I saw from my positioning in NYSERDA the benefits that came when we invested in research and development. Now, granted, all the stories, all the situations, all the scenarios within the research and development opportunities are not necessarily success stories. But without the dive into that opportunity, we will never feel the spine.

So many of those situations become a winning outcome. And when we have such an outcome, we are able to move forward and allow for us to even dream of the notion of enhancing our energy independence.

We cannot remain so gluttonously dependent upon fossil-based fuels to be our solution for our energy crisis. We simply cannot. We cannot. We need to make certain that we commit to an innovation cycle that enables us to dream outside the ordinary, to think beyond the barrel, think outside the barrel in the case of energy reform.

And those formats, those transformations need to again encourage the investment in higher education, in education, because we need, as early as the pre-K setting, to encourage the development of our students, especially with the shortfall of engineers that we are producing in our society, and scientists.

Education in itself has the need for many reforms, but one of the areas of targeted concentration needs to be the increased numbers of individuals, especially in atypical formats with young women and students of color who need viewed the product, saw where some of the weaknesses might be, engineered the assembly, the design of the turbine itself and the assembly of that turbine, designed it, redesigned it, and now we grow more and more committed to the opportunity for some sort of turbulences of water to respond to our energy needs.

That's just one small sampling in one agency and one State of how we can grow the opportunities. Investing in battery manufacturing that enables us to respond to that linchpin that is our connector to investment into the future that enables us to, again, draw this energy independence agenda to a conclusion in a way that throws our economy and protects our consumers and strengthens American job opportunities, but really creates a cutting-edge sort of job opportunity not just within the country, but within the region, where the first time, these jobs appear on the radar so that we can begin to provide hope to individuals who may have that genius within them and will pursue that as a career path. But it begins with individual voices, individual voices in the House speaking to those issues of jobs and creation of jobs and investing in an innovation economy, investing in workers.

Certainly no one has been stronger in that attempt than my colleague, my friend from Kentucky’s Third District. Representative YARMUTH has been a champion on the floor. He has been a champion at home speaking to the need for jobs in America, Make It in America, which is a mantra which he and I and our colleagues in the Democratic Caucus have advocated for in the House.

Representative YARMUTH, it is great to have you join us for this hour. Welcome, and I know you have been such a strong voice for jobs not only for Kentucky but for Americans coast-to-coast.

Mr. YARMUTH. I thank my friend from New York.

It’s a great pleasure to talk about the subject that’s on every American’s mind, and that is, how do we rebuild America, how do we put Americans back to work, and how do we recreate the kind of America that we all once admired and will admire again?

You’ve talked about a very incredibly important element of the job creation process is research and development. It’s clear that the jobs that we look forward to in the next generation, and the generation after that, are jobs that probably don’t exist today. We’re going to find them. We’re going to discover them. And if we don’t do it, they will be invented somewhere else, and that’s why the initiatives that you have been talking about in the energy field are so critical.

But I would like to talk today about a job opportunity that exists right now. The President referenced this in his speech last Thursday night, and I thought he was incredibly powerful and articulate in doing that. Because what he did was connect the dots. And when he talks about infrastructure and jobs, that’s something that most Americans can understand.

When we built the interstate highway system, that created an awful lot of jobs, and it also established an infrastructure that has enhanced our commerce throughout this country for more than a half a century. And now today we have a gap in that interstate highway system, and it happens to be in my community.

Just last Friday, the bridge called the Sherman Minton Bridge which spans the Ohio River between Louisville, Kentucky, and New Albany, Indiana, was shut down because of structural deficiencies. So when the President speaks of infrastructure deterioration throughout the country and the thousands and thousands of bridges that need to be repaired, he didn’t know at that time, the next day, one would become more than an abstract theory; it would become a reality.

We saw this, unfortunately, in Minnesota. We hopefully have averted a similar disaster in my community. But in the meantime, this bridge which was built in 1935, which was examined just 2 years ago and judged to be structurally fine, because of advances in analysis of certain steel products, they did a different kind of analysis this year and found cracks in the support system and had to shut the bridge down.

What has this done? I–64, which begins in Virginia and runs through Lexington, Kentucky, and Louisville and one of the most heavily traveled, major east-west artery of this country, and for this country’s both civilian and commercial traffic. About 90,000 vehicles every day go across this bridge. Most of them in the morning come into Louisville and in the afternoon go out of Louisville into Indiana. Right now, all of that traffic is being diverted onto I–65. We have a great, centrally located community in Louisville. Three interstates converge there—I–71, I–65 and I–64—and they all converge in a pretty similar spot except now all that traffic that can no longer go on I–64 across the Sherman-Minton has to go across the I–65 bridge. That bridge is already taxed to its extreme. It is operating at 25 percent more than it was envisioned to hold. Now 90,000 more vehicles are going to be coming across that bridge every day.

So we don’t know yet what’s going to transpire with that Sherman-Minton bridge, whether it can be repaired, whether it is going to have to be condemned and rebuilt; but we do know if we had been making the kinds of investments in keeping our infrastructure current and modern and in making those investments over time, we would have had many, many thousands more people at work, and we probably would have avoided this situation.

So now this is both a very serious commercial and personal inconvenience, and I don’t want to go quite so far as saying it’s a disaster, but it is a very serious problem in my community. But it also could be something where we put many Americans back to work as we did replace it.

Again, we are at a time now where we have example after example, thousands of these around the country. We are at a juncture where we can borrow money to do this at historically low levels, and we can put tens of thousands of Americans back to work.

So as a theory as espoused in the President’s speech Thursday night has become the reality in my community, it can become a reality of rebuilding America for all of us.

Mr. TONKO. Representative YARMUTH, let me add to your reality with my reality, one scenario being a couple of decades old now. In 1987, a bridge collapsed along the New York State Thruway system because of flooding. It came across a creek that you could walk across some years during the month of August. It had the CFS, the flow, equal to Niagara Falls with the flooding, and it wiped out a bridge. And I believe just about all of the tragedies, all of the lives of those 12 people, all 12 or 11 people, were not from the area. So we are all at risk with these deficiencies to which you alluded. So it is important for us to keep up the investments.

As we saw this year, some 500-year records broken with hurricanes from the ravages of the waters of Irene and floods from the Tropical Storm Lee, wiped out infrastructure galore. And so the chance is now, a day where we have these bits of infrastructure restored and rebuilt; otherwise the economy suffers.

I saw what rail meant to jobs in my district. It went through the town. I saw what the canal meant not only for jobs in my district, but in the western movement, the industrial revolution. So infrastructure is important. I dwell on innovation to economy, but you are so right to bring up the need for infrastructure and those improvements. I thank you, Representative YARMUTH, for your thoughts and hang with us because this is an order where we want to talk about job creation.

We are joined by yet another outstanding friend from Kentucky’s Third Congressional District. Representative SARBANES is an outspoken advocate for job creation in our society. He knows from the Maryland experience that we need jobs. By the New York example, by which we see it all, we need jobs. Representative SARBANES, thank you for being a leader in the House and advocating for not only Make It in America but job creation of all types.

I yield to the gentleman.

Mr. SARBANES. I want to thank the gentleman for assembling us here today to talk about this critical issue of jobs. If you talk to the average American, the issue that they put at the top of the list and, frankly, it is the issue they have had at the top of their list for months now is the issue of jobs and creating jobs to get the economy moving again.

You were just talking about the infrastructure issue. It would be one thing if our infrastructure was in terrific shape, if we were sort of 100 percent repaired right now and everything was new and shiny, and then we had this economic crisis and we were looking around for ways to create good jobs to get ourselves back on our feet and there wasn’t these infrastructure projects out there to provide those jobs. But that’s not the case.

As you point out, as Congressman YARMUTH just pointed out, you can look out your window and you can see evidence of the crumbling infrastructure across the country. So do we call that fortuitous? I don’t know how you would view it, but at a time when we are trying to create jobs in this country, the fact that our infrastructure needs to be rebuilt is a tremendous opportunity for the country.

I commend the President because in his address the other night, he put rebuilding the infrastructure front and center. But, you know, if it is a job-creation effort, although that is the number one priority that I think people are focused on, but because it
I have witnessed what happens when the American Dream is not realized. The greatest frustration that people feel these days is that they are not realizing their potential. They are not getting the opportunities to move ahead; and when you rebuild this country, you restore that American Dream. You get us back to where we need to be as a Nation, and that’s what the American Jobs Act is intended to do.

Representative SARRANES, thank you for being here. I’m delighted to be able to join you today talking about infrastructure.

Earlier today, just a couple of hours ago, my office had representatives from the City of Davis, near Sacramento, and another community, Woodland, both of them in Yolo County. They’re talking about an infrastructure project. The water systems were destroyed by the fire—there’s one community that has been dependent on groundwater, but the groundwater is going bad. They need to develop a new water system—about $300 million, $400 million. They cannot continue with the present system. They need help. But they also, in doing that, are going to be able to employ a vast number of people and put in place the infrastructure those communities need. We’re talking about the University of California, Davis campus, with about 27,000 students at that campus, that water they need to rebuild their water system.

Right now, across America we’re looking at more than 2 million construction workers, men and women that could build that water system for those communities. They’re out of work. Two million are out of work.

The President came here last week and said Americans want to go back to work. They want a future, they want a future for their children. The American Jobs Act, putting Americans back to work.

You want to deal with the deficit? Tax-takers, people that are unemployed, and make them taxpayers. We can do this and simultaneously solve the long-term deficit problem of this Nation by growing the American economy once again with, as you were saying so well, Mr. SARBANES, infrastructure projects.

You were talking about east coast-west coast, Mr. TONKO. Twenty-seven hundred miles of American roads almost unfit for travel. This is the kind of project that the President wants: $50 billion to rebuild the American transportation system so we can travel.

Mr. TONKO, you and I were right here in the back of this House Chamber earlier today and you were sharing with me the stories. The reality in your district is these are your constituents who have been harmed. And we had our colleague, PETER WELCH from Vermont, who was also talking about the extraordinary damage done to the infrastructure in Vermont. As we rebuild these communities as part of this American Jobs Act, people go to work in these communities and are able to once again stand on their own.

Share with us some of the things that you’ve seen from your own district and the needs for infrastructure replacement in your communities.

Mr. TONKO. Well, it’s amazing because there are situations—I’ll first go to Representative WELCH’s district in Vermont that was hit by Hurricane Irene and the ravages of floods in portions of our country or the tragedies in Texas with Hurricane Ike. As the President proposes this infrastructure improvement, there are those who are hurting right now who have been severely impacted by the ravages of the waters of Hurricane Irene that went so far northeast that we had our colleague, PETER WELCH, who was severely impacted.

Share with us some of the things that you’ve seen from your own district and the needs for infrastructure replacement in your communities.

Mr. TONKO. I talked about hosting the Erie Canal in 1825—now which is a tremendous amount of bridges, inlets, buy back into eastern Vermont to get to the locations. It has made life nearly impossible. I have seen numbers through 12, in graduate school, in undergraduate camps, and research centers. I witnessed the inspiration that a cleanroom science at the local community college, was an investment from the Federal Government, he did a U-turn in his stated plans.

This was something that was exciting. This was something that spoke to his heart and soul. This was something he wanted to engage in. And that’s the opportunity that we can give people here.

The story line of America is basic. As you say, give me that American Dream. Let me unleash my skills, my talents. Let me raise a family, build a home, and dream that American Dream. We owe it to America.

And people have placed their faith in this jobs agenda and tell you how many times that I know we’ve talked. We’ve heard it from our colleagues. People believe in that Make It In America opportunity. They believe in tethering that dream, that American Dream, so that households, middle class—let’s rebuild that middle class. Let’s take those values of the middle class and make it happen.

We’re happy you joined us. Another partner of ours, a colleague who has led us oftentimes during Special Order on making it in America, on jobs, none other than California’s 10th District Representative, JOHN GARAMENDI.

Representative GARAMENDI, we often talk about the east coast-west coast. The message is unique. It’s commonplace across this country. Thank you again for your leadership on the floor on job creation.

Mr. GARAMENDI, Mr. TONKO and I were talking about the importance of investing in the human capital of this Nation, and I think every single American out there understands the imperative of rebuilding America. That can be our mantra. And when you rebuild America, you restore the American Dream.

The greatest frustration that people are feeling these days is they say, we work hard, and in particular adult education opportunities. When you are in an economy where things are moving fast, where some opportunities disappear and other ones appear, you need to be able to go back to our community college system and other resources to get your skills ready to meet the new challenge. We ought to be investing in that.

I commend the President because when he came here the other night, not only did he talk about strengthening the physical infrastructure of the country, but he talked about the importance of investing in the human capital of this Nation, and I think every single American out there understands the imperative of rebuilding America. That can be our mantra. And when you rebuild America, you restore the American Dream.

came in the second phase of that canal development are now tremendously devastated by the powerful force of water, homes that have been knocked out, but the infrastructure and land-slides of roads that are disappearing and different opportunities now that are really a demand of an investment like this in order for us to go forward.

As Representative SARBANES made mention, this is a part of the equation for success for jobs—not just jobs in the immediate zone to improve and repair or construct some of this infrastructure, but jobs in general. It is part of the equation of success. You have got to move that product line. You have got to deal with the freight issues.

So it is incumbent upon us to respond. If politics gets in the way here, it is grossly regrettable. It’s unacceptable to hold back this Nation simply because you choose to do a knee-jerk political response to a plan outlined by a President who knows a thing or two about how to do it that is laser sharp about what needs to be done.

Mr. GARAMENDI. You’re absolutely correct. The President’s American Jobs Act, which I’m embracing and I believe the Democratic Party has embraced, is one that is focused like a laser on the immediate challenge that America has—and that is: Employ Americans. Put Americans back to work.

Another thing that’s in the bill—this is about schools. Forty-four percent of the principals across this Nation and all the schools across the Nation have reported that their school in one way or another is not satisfactory for students: the bathrooms are not working, the playgrounds are falling apart, the roofs are leaking.

We need to make American schools physically strong and pleasant for the students to be in. So this is a major piece of it. This also is improving the scientific laboratories. And the President has lined out about, I think, $30 billion to rebuild the American schools. It’s not just the schools that are going to benefit from that and the children that are in those classrooms and on the playgrounds, but it’s the Americans that need jobs, and they’ll get those jobs rehabbing and rebuilding the schools.

Mr. TONKO. Earlier, Representative SARBANES talked. Representative GARAMENDI, about human infrastructure. It begins with sound schools that are not crumbling over the students’ heads but also an investment in education. Just recently, during our August district work period, I did a tour, a number of tours in my district with manufacturing. But one story pops into mind where a manufacturer in Schoharie County, a very rural county in my district, has utilized the efforts of its CAT Center—the Center for Advanced Technology—to come up with an automated production line that he can remain competitive in the global sweepstakes. But he needs people who are specifically trained and educated to run this automation aspect within his assembly process, and so it becomes very important that this human infrastructure is critical.

I’m reminded all the time about a centuries-old saga and decades-old stories of what we used to manufacture in this country. We’re doing it some place else, and the daunting challenge to America, to a sophisticated society, is to build the products not yet on the radar screen. And that takes intellect. That takes genius that’s cultivated in our schools and in our colleges and universities and research centers, and then we create that product line that is brand new. But that’s a sophisticated society responding to a manufacturing challenge. And it begins with the human intellect; it begins with human infrastructure.

Representative SARBANES, you’re so on target with that investment of capital infrastructure, physical infrastructure, and, indeed, human infrastructure, so thank you for bringing that into the discussion.

Mr. GARAMENDI. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. TONKO. I yield to the gentleman from Maryland.

Mr. SARBANES. I just want to echo this idea of investing in manufacturing in this country.

The economists will tell you that a manufactured job has a greater multiplier effect on the economy than any other kind of job that you can produce. So when you’re investing in manufacturing, when you’re creating manufacturing jobs, when you’re making it possible for Americans to make things in America, you’re having the maximum impact possible on the broader economy. So it makes sense to do this.

Congressman GARAMENDI referred to the repair and investment in our public schools across the country that the President wants to do. Thirty-five thousand public schools would benefit that have projects waiting to move forward. In other words, think about this; this is not a situation where you decide first that you’re going to go out and build infrastructure, and then you’ve got to go first do the design and the plans and everything else.

I worked in Maryland for 8 years with the Baltimore City public school system, which at that time needed about $1.5 billion worth of repairs just to get back to sort of what would be an acceptable standard in terms of the physical plant of the Baltimore city school system. They know what they have to do. Those plans are complete, all the design specs are done, all they need is the resources to make it happen. They can start on those projects tomorrow. Are there workers out there to do it? You bet. There are millions of unemployed construction workers out there and others who are ready to step into those jobs. So this is some thing you can do right away. That’s the beauty of it. That’s the beauty of what has been presented to us.

Mr. GARAMENDI. They could start tomorrow if Congress acts today to pass the American Jobs Act. Because the resources—that is, the money—would be there tomorrow. The day the President signs this bill, those men and women could go to work rebuilding those schools.

There is one other thing that’s in the President’s bill that I am really excited about because we’ve been talking about this forever and a day around here, and that is, Make it in America. There is a buy-American provision in this legislation. So when they go out and buy the paint, redo the heating and air conditioning system, those are going to be American-made paint, American-made air conditioners and heaters. That’s the kind of thing we can do. We can use the American taxpayer money to rebuild the American manufacturing industry, just as you said. We can do it. It’s billions of dollars of American money in transportation, bridges, roads, buses, and trains used for American-made equipment, making it once again in America. This is exciting. This is really rebuilding the manufacturing base.

Mr. TONKO. To Representative SARBANES’ point, this is not just the schools, but there’s more to it that is allowed to pass by, youngsters in the third, fourth, fifth grade, whatever, will never have the experience they ought to. So we’re letting down the workers of tomorrow by this delay, by this resistance, by this recalcitrance of a federal order that is possible.

I will just make the point that Wynn Kintz, who is the owner of the facility that I toured in Schoharie County, said that he reaches the community colleges routinely because he needs that upgraded skill set. There are manufacturing jobs across this country for which they need skilled labor, and if we walk away from that investment in human infrastructure, we’ve denied progress for this country.

We’ve been joined by an outspoken advocate for jobs—I mean a very loud voice because we’ve heard the volume cranked up—as the chair of our Demo-cratic Caucus and the Representative of Connecticut’s First Congressional District, and that is none other than Representative JOHN LARSON.

Representative LARSON, thank you for joining us in this Special Order.

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. I am honored to join the gentleman from New York, the gentleman from California, and the gentleman from Maryland.

Martin Luther King once described the need to act as the “fierce urgency of now.” Nothing is more important to the American people, nothing is more important to anyone listening to this broadcast than seeing this country go back to work.

Representative GARAMENDI talked very eloquently about how important it is to Americans. People want to see jobs created in this country and want to see Americans back to work because we all know that when we put America back to work by making things here in America, that it provides the opportunity for every American to succeed.

The President has called upon Congress to act. He did so in a speech last week. We need to respond now. He did so in part by saying, citizens of this country, that have come from both sides of the aisle. Congress as an institution should be about the vitality of ideas that you heard expressed here this evening but then turned into a plan of action that sees us lowering our unemployment rate.

It is simply unacceptable that Congress would dawdle while 14 million Americans are unemployed and a sum total of 25 million Americans are underemployed. The time schedule that Congress has here should be expanded so that we’re working every day to see that Americans are put back to work. If Congress would act quickly, to see this body take action.

Fourteen million Americans are crying out for the President’s proposal to be enacted, to see the body take action. They want to see both sides of the aisle put their energy towards creating jobs. They want to see both sides of the aisle put their energy towards creating jobs.

I want to respond to the crisis at hand, which is 14 million unemployed. I want to respond to the crisis at hand, which is 14 million unemployed. And we need to respond now. We need to respond now.

Mr. GARAMENDI has talked about time and again on this floor. That’s what we have to do—reinvest in Americans. And in doing so, as Dr. Stiglitz, the preeminent economist in this country, has indicated, we can both reduce our deficit by more than 25 percent and put America to work. What we need is action from this Congress, from this House of Representatives.

What we need is action from this Congress, from this House of Representatives.

Mr. TONKO, Chairman LARSON, we have precious few minutes left. I’ll make a few comments and then yield to my gentlemen colleagues as we close this Special Order.

To me, you’ve identified it well. This country has had, throughout its history, its shining moments. This is our opportunity to invest in America’s next shining moment. It will take commitment by the legislators here on the Hill in Washington, and encouraging and inspiring and building a tone that brings us together to think as one as a Nation, generation to generation, region of the country to region of the country, to deal with the local persuasion to opposite political persuasion—philosophy of difference to the philosophy of another kind, moving together, coming together, understanding this is our defining moment. It’s our moment to create our next shining example of America at her best.

Representative SARBANES, thank you for for joining us.

Mr. SARBANES. Thank you again. Congressman TONKO, for pulling us together this afternoon. I just want to make a couple of points.

Echoing what Congressman LARSON said, if you look at just what happened over the last couple of weeks, in the disaster that hit the East -ern Seaboard, and you can look over the last few months across this country and see those sorts of disastrous effects happening to people, nobody would question that the Federal Government’s role should be to play in coming to the assistance of people that are in that dire situation.

Whatever your larger philosophy is about whether government should be large or small and so forth, everyone agrees that, that I think should be on the side of people that are facing such a desperate situation and should act quickly. So if we accept that proposition, we also ought to think about the 14 million people, John, that you referred to, that they are facing an economic hurricane every single day.

And it is the role, the appropriate role, the necessary role of the Federal Government taking those taxpayer dollars and saying, we’re going to turn and help our fellow citizens in need, and we’re going to do it quickly, and we’re going to do it in a way that not only helps them, but is also good for the broader economy and will put people back to work.

Let me just finish with this last thought. I hope people watch this discussion, and I hope people keep track of who’s going to be supportive of the American Jobs Act and who’s not because there are people in this Chamber who vote against it and drag their feet. And the reason I want people to pay attention is because people are getting cynical out there. And I hope that it will cure some of their cynicism to see that there are folks, yes, here in Washington who are absolutely determined to try to come to the assistance of people that are looking for good job opportunities out there.

So pay attention because there are people here who are doing the right thing, and hopefully that’ll stop you from becoming so cynical.

Mr. TONKO. Thank you very much. To Chairman LARSON and then Representative GARAMENDI to close.

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Thank you again, PAUL, for organizing this Special Order. And I think JOHN SARBANES said it well. The gentleman from Maryland spoke eloquently about the opportunity, it is America’s opportunity. It will take commitment by all of us to act and the need for us to act now.

It has been a storm. It has been a hurricane for the 14 million people that are unemployed, and for their families; and all Americans are asking is the simple dignity that comes from being able to look across the table at your spouse and your family and let them know that they are safe and secure because you have a job and you are providing for them.

Mr. TONKO. I yield to Representative GARAMENDI to close.

Mr. GARAMENDI. Mr. TONKO, thank you for bringing us together. Yesterday, the President delivered to this Chamber a comprehensive American Jobs Act. employment for perhaps 2, maybe more than 2, million Americans immediately available as soon as this Congress acts. And it is fully paid for. It will not add to the deficit. It is fully paid for through a series of tax increases on the companies that the oil companies finally having to give up our tax money that they’ve enjoyed for more than a century as a subsidy.

We can do this. We must do this. We must put America back to work. And in doing so, we will be able to deal with the deficit. Because Americans have come, once again, taxpayers, and we have created the critical investments in individuals, in education, in infrastructure and in small businesses, all of whom will benefit from the American Jobs Act.

It’s our responsibility, it is our opportunity, it is America’s opportunity to go back to work.
Mr. Tonko, thank you for bringing us together.

Mr. TONKO. It’s been my pleasure and honor to work with you gentlemen.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

HOW IT ALL FITS TOGETHER

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GOWDY). Under the Speaker’s announcement of January 5, 2011, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GOMERT) is recognized for 30 minutes.

Mr. GOMERT. Mr. Speaker, this is a tough time in our American history. I was a kid at Texas A&M when I knew I owed the Army 4 years for the scholarship I had. I had been really inspired by American history in high school by Sam Parker, my teacher, my Scoutmaster. So I know a little bit about history. I know a lot about world history as well. And it’s important to take things in perspective, especially speeches here in Washington and take them from the perspective of how it all fits together.

Now, we have been in this Chamber, and I was sitting right back there on the aisle, and we had the President of the United States standing right there. I was on a direct line of sight eye-to-eye with the President, except his eyes cut right in the teleprompter each time he looked my way so I don’t think we ever made eye contact. But he kept telling us over and over, 16, 17 times, I said, I want to get a copy of the bill. You've said pass the bill now. Do we not get to even have a copy of the bill. We need to have more expertise in particular areas. Many of these things it’s pretty obvious what they say.

Page 6, he gets right into payroll tax relief. And again, as the person who came up with the idea for a tax holiday as a way to stimulate the economy back nearly 3 years ago, and as a person who, in January of 2009, told the President personally about my idea for a tax holiday. Moody’s rated a tax holiday as increasing the GDP. It looks like more than $1 trillion in proposals. That was back in 2009, before this President squandered $4.5 trillion above and beyond the amount around $2.2 trillion or so a year that was coming in. It’s shocking that we could go through that much money.

Of course we had 2 years, the first 2 years with the same party in power in the House and Senate as in the White House. And as I found in my first term in 2005 and 2006, sometimes when you have the same party in the White House and in the House and Senate, if the people in Congress are not adequately restrained and cannot adequately restrain themselves, there ends up being a big spending frenzy.

In 2006, again, my second year in Congress, we spent over $160 billion more than we took in. Democrats cast the blame on the Republicans. How do you spend $160 billion more than what we had coming into the Treasury? And they were right to do so. We should not have spent $160 billion more than we had coming in.

Ironically in 2008 I had a bill passed by the Democratic-controlled House and Senate, a stimulus bill that opened the door a bit to these stimulus frenzies. And $30 billion of that $160 billion, as I recall, was going to be going to people who didn’t pay any income taxes, as a rebate, which caused me to ask the President down here on the floor after the State of the Union, How do you give a rebate to people that didn’t put any ‘bate’ in?

Then after that we had TARP. President George W. Bush is a good man. He is smarter than most of the people in this town wanted to give him credit for. One of the wittiest people you’ll ever want to be around. But he made the mistake of listening to, until now, the worst Treasury Secretary in the history of the country, Hank Paulson. And Paulson said, Look, give me $750 billion; I can fix things.

Well, that was a mistake. Anybody that read that bill would understand that we needed money and we had never ever passed; and if more people on the House floor had read the bill, I am confident, I know they couldn’t have brought themselves to vote for it; but they didn’t read it, many didn’t.

Well, that’s why I spent most of last night going through the President’s jobs bill. He does have some payroll tax relief. But compared to the payroll tax relief I was proposing, we were told it would be close to—if you just gave people all of their tax money in their check, it didn’t have to come back from Washington. It would be in the check. If we passed it and the President had signed it on a Thursday, it would have been in their Friday check. All of the money, all of the taxes they paid.

That would have stimulated the economy, and we wouldn’t have needed the government to say, Hey, let’s bail out GM and let’s bail out Chrysler, because if people had their own money, they could have gone down and bought a car from the car manufacturer and dealer that they wanted to buy from instead of just throwing money at the car industry. And I appreciated the GM commercial saying, We paid our money back. Unfortunately, that was not true. It was a misrepresentation. Still money owed.

Anyway, I guess he would do well in Washington with that kind of mentality.

The payroll tax relief provided here is just a fraction of what I was suggesting in late 2008, 2009. The President, in fact, when I told him the idea in January of 2009 and I thought it was a great idea. Have you talked to Larry? Talking about Larry Summers, who was right behind him at the time. I said, I’d love to talk to Larry Summers about it.

Summers reached around and gave me a card. The card said, Give me a call. He never took my calls. I waited a week, and then he didn’t call me. I felt hurt, you know, like high school days when you’re trying to ask somebody on a date, and they say, Let me get back to you. Well, I was snubbed. He didn’t get back to me. Okay. Well, not the first time.

So I relentlessly called. And I was going eventually to some young man who sounded like his voice was still changing, telling me to leave a message, and I didn’t leave messages. And “Larry,” as the President referred to him, never got back to me. And I understood he’s not over there now.

But they called a tax holiday back in those days that got just a few bucks in people’s pocket. Nothing like the stimulus would have been if people had been able to keep their own money, all of it, for a couple of months.

Now, this wasn’t my motive. My motive was to stimulate. But there was a secondary occurrence that would have happened had we had a real tax holiday, even for 2 or 3 months. It would have been that workers across America, including union workers, would notice, many of them for the first time it would really come home, how much money they’re sending to Washington every month, and how much better their lives would be if they didn’t send that much money to Washington every month, if they had their own money to give to their own charitable causes, they had their own money to bail themselves out, and money to stimulate their own household. Everybody would have been better off.

But that’s not the tack the President chose. He got what was originally touted to be an $800 billion stimulus, and he had about $450 billion of the original TARP that he and Secretary Geithner were able to find ways to squander.
We were told if we did not pass the President’s stimulus package back in early 2009, he said the unemployment rate, Mr. Speaker, might go as high as 8 1/2 percent. That 8 1/2 percent sounds pretty good. People remember him saying. Well, gee, if you’ll pass this, unemployment will be around 8 1/2 percent at the worst. Wrong. But if you don’t pass it, it could go as high as 8 1/2 percent. I’d take that 8 1/2 percent right now and have everybody that got that money give it back because it was, for the most part.

Now, people back then were told by the President, it’s a stimulus bill. It’s all about infrastructure. We’re going to have this money go to infrastructure. Well, there was only a tiny pittance of what may have been more like a trillion dollars that went to infrastructure. That goes through page 16 with that part.

We get into first responder stabilization, and there is $5 billion for one program and $1 billion for the Attorney General first responder stabilization fund. Oh, I guess $4 billion’s for the Attorney General to carry out the competitive grant program.

It seems being lost on people here that America’s better off if you don’t force people at the point of imprisonment, and IRS persecution, to give all of this money to Washington and then we’ll dole it out as we see fit. The economy does better when you let people keep their own money and only bring just as much as necessary. Don’t try to run everybody’s lives.

But at page 17, we’re going to give all of this money to the Attorney General’s Office and let them dole it out as they see fit. And we’ve seen that if you’re a friend of the administration, you’re going to do well. If you’re not, they’re going to sic on you all of the administrative fees, which you do have the ability to create. It starts on page 40. It’s called the American Infrastructure Financing Authority. It goes on and on. It’s interesting. We’ve got all this money we’re going to put toward highways and whatnot. Now, anyone, Mr. Speaker, who believed this was all going to go toward infrastructure, that’s where the jobs are really created. It starts on page 40. It’s called the American Infrastructure Financing Authority. It’s section 257. Then we get into that it incorporates know that the government being a referee but that will make for some people say, we don’t want to throw anybody away. We said it. We didn’t spend it on infrastructure, and that’s going to bring America’s better off if you don’t try to control, more government corporations. The thing that many missed—and it jumped out at me as I sat back there and the President spoke—is when he said we want to work side by side with business. For people who have ears and can hear, that means this President wants to be your business partner. That scares some folks, and that’s why I think you saw the market go down the next day. People who understand how real jobs in the real world are created know that the government being a partner with people trying to generate jobs is a job killer. We don’t need a government to be partners, side by side, working with business. The government, as designed by the Founders and as we’re supposed to be carrying out, is supposed to be a referee to make sure people play fair. If the government had made sure people were playing fair instead of dictating every detail of their existence, then they would have noticed that Bernie Madoff was cheating people, but that did not happen. The bureaucracy—was too concerned with dictating how people live, and they forgot about their job as referee.

I highlighted so much stuff as I went through the night, but I won’t bore you with all of this, Mr. Speaker. Let’s see: Public Safety Broadband Corporation. On the next page, 76, you find out it has established a private, nonprofit company, and you’re going to have some members who know how to run a government operation and create government jobs. Of course, in the private sector, but it’s creating government jobs. That’s down here.

You’ve got the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Homeland Security, the Attorney General—we’re talking job creators here who won’t be on that board. So people can feel better about that. If you don’t think we have enough government control of things, well, this bill, you’re going to love it: more government control, more government programs.

The thing that many missed—and it jumped out at me as I sat back there and the President spoke—is when he said we want to work side by side with business. For people who have ears and can hear, that means this President wants to be your business partner. That scares some folks, and that’s why I think you saw the market go down the next day. People who understand how real jobs in the real world are created know that the government being a partner with people trying to generate jobs is a job killer. We don’t need a government to be partners, side by side, working with business. The government, as designed by the Founders and as we’re supposed to be carrying out, is supposed to be a referee to make sure people play fair. If the government had made sure people were playing fair instead of dictating every detail of their existence, then they would have noticed that Bernie Madoff was cheating people, but that did not happen. The bureaucracy—was too concerned with dictating how people live, and they forgot about their job as referee.

I highlighted so much stuff as I went through the night, but I won’t bore you with all of this, Mr. Speaker.
they have. That’s a good idea. It’s better money than just throwing out unemployment reimbursement if you can train people to have real jobs. This bill spends billions of dollars. We’ve got the Reemployment NOW Program. That’s a new Federal bureaucracy, a new Federal program that we don’t exist.

Wouldn’t we be better off encouraging the real job creators, the small business folks, to create jobs and then train them for that? But no. We’re going to suck more capital out of the financial community and into the government so we can retrain people for jobs that don’t exist.

Then we have, on page 106, the Short-
Time Compensation Program. The Short-Time Compensation Program means a program in which the participation of the employers is voluntary and the employer reduces the number of hours worked by employees in lieu of layoffs. Such employees whose work-weeks have been reduced by at least 10 percent are then eligible for unemployment compensation. If you lose 10 percent of your work time, guess what?
We’re now opening up a new avenue for unemployment compensation. Ten percent reduced is all it takes.

Employers—I’ve talked to so many—say, I don’t want to fire anybody. I’m asking my employees to hang on. We’re all reducing what we’re taking in, and we’re going to try to get through this without firing anybody, but everybody has had to take a cut.

Well, this will make them eligible for unemployment compensation, which raises their unemployment insurance rates they have to pay, which means they are going to have to lay off somebody in order to pay the additional unemployment insurance rates.

Of course, then you have got temporary financing of short-term compensation agreements at page 109. Oh, we’ve got grants. We’ve got subsidized employment for unemployed low-income adults. You know, instead of sucking all this capital out of the pri-ivate sector, it seems like we would want to help create more jobs.

Well, if you’re not satisfied with all the just created by the new government programs, new government agencies, wonderful that we have got something better than Fannie and Freddie for infrastructure financing, that’s great, but I understand that lawsuit filing is down significantly around the country. Our Constitution tells you, and we know in our hearts that it’s wrong to discriminate against people based on race, creed, color, national origin, gender, those things make sense to not discriminate, and those are protected classes.

We’ve also added, no matter what your sexual preference, your sexual oritentation, no matter what you’re oriented toward sexually, because the Democratic majority would not allow us to define sexual orientation to exclude illegal activity. We know sexual orientation is a protected class now.
We are adding in this bill a new protected class. Further on, the title, on page 129, “Prohibition of Disrimination in Employment on the Foundation of an Individual’s Status As Unemployed.”

It says right here in the findings that we “find that denial of employment opportunities to individuals because of their status as unemployed is discriminatory and burdens commerce.” It goes on and explains this in the preceding pages. So the good news is, if you’re unemployed and you go to apply for a job, you’re not hired for that job, see a lawyer. You may be able to file a claim because you got discriminated against because you were unemployed. Now, there’s probably, legitimately, that will discourage people from doing interviews of people unemployed, because if they do, they’ve got a claim or may have a claim to make against the employer for discrimination based on the fact that they were unemployed.

I think that this will help trial lawyers who are not having enough work, because it can open the door. We heard from our friends across the aisle in the preceding hours out of work, that’s 14 million potential new clients that could go hire a lawyer and file a claim because they didn’t get hired even though they were unemployed.

We’ve heard the President demonizing billionaires and millionaires. You know, why are the Republicans so strong on trying to bail out their rich friends?

Well, what we’ve learned here in this town in recent years is that if the very wealthy don’t mind being called names, they will be enriched and even engorged. For example, we know that Wall Street executives have been called fat cats by this administration and demonized.

Yet the little secret behind the scene’s joke is, don’t mind being called names; this administration has brought more profit to Wall Street than Goldman Sachs has ever seen in its history. The Wall Street executives and their families gave to President Obama 4-to-1 over John McCain, so, of course, they’ve got a good little deal going on there. And also, demonize the oil and gas industry even though, you know, you love British Petroleum because they were going to endorse the cap-and-trade bill, and you demonize them, and then you stick provisions in this bill that have no effect on the big major oil companies.

They will only affect, these provisions that are back at pages 151, 152, 153, they will not affect the big majors like British Petroleum except that because they will destroy the ability of independent producers that produce much or maybe most of the oil and gas in the continental U.S., it will drive them out of business. It will dry up investment.

This is repeal of the oil and gas working interest exception, the passive activity, so there are things in here that are going to affect the independent oil company’s ability to function.

And the pay—for—we were told over and over this is all paid for—is on page
155. Here it is, get ready: The Budget Control Act of 2011 is amended by striking $1.5 trillion that the supercommittee is going to have to find in cuts and inserting $1.95 trillion.

He’s saying, It’s all paid for. It’s all paid for. And the way it’s all paid for is the new supercommittee is now ordered under the President’s bill to find another $450 billion to pay for his bill. So it’s all paid for, hallelujah, amen.

Now, there are so many more problems I haven’t had a chance to get to,
and there are probably some things that I probably missed even as I went through this, but there is such bad news for America in here.

Union workers, watch out: This may be the end of your jobs. But it’s okay because the unions are growing by geting interest exception, the passive activity, so there are things in here that hurt the hard-working folks in the regular unions. These are the government unions. It should say, instead of American jobs bill, saving the President’s job bill, but this is a disaster for every other thinking person in America.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

IN MEMORY OF JENNIFER ROSE CERNUTO

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 5, 2011, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. McHENRY) is recognized for 30 minutes.

Mr. MCHENRY. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to pay tribute to an amazing young lady from my district that was taken from us far too soon and far too young. Jennifer Rose Cernuto was a resident of Mooresville, North Carolina, in Iredell County in my district, and had just graduated from high school in May.

She was looking forward to beginning college as part of the honors program at High Point University in the fall.
Jennifer and her sister, Stephanie, served as interns in my district office in Hickory last year. My staff still talks about them and the great work that they did and their wonderful personalities and their real gift for service.

Both Jennifer and Stephanie’s interest and passion for learning the inner workings of government and the dis-itrict office and the political process were far beyond their years. But it was in dealing with constituents and helping people that both Jennifer and Stephanie truly blossomed.

In fact, the Cernutos had an ability to speak to constituents, many of whom were upset about a problem that they were having or an encounter they had with a government agency or perhaps that their veterans benefits or a similar program weren’t working for them. Calmly, they would document their issues in a language and with a thoroughness that most lifelong newspaper workers would envy. It was as if they had been on the job for years.

It was no surprise that Jennifer excelled in this type of work. Whether at school, at church, in everyday life, helping people was a hallmark of Jennifer Cernuto’s life. In fact, she and Stephanie had just returned from Peru with a group of their fellow graduates from Southlake Christian Academy, where they helped build classrooms and held Bible study classes for indigent children.

Jennifer and Stephanie, you know, they come from a great family. I have known their parents, Jeff and Lisa, for several years, and I am honored to count them as friends. They are some of Mooresville’s most outgoing and most charitable people. And with fine parents like these, it’s no wonder Jennifer, Stephanie, and their older sister, Samantha, turned out to be the fine young women that they did. Incredible, special, young ladies.

But tragedy struck this family and the entire Mooresville community over the July 4 weekend when Jennifer and Stephanie were involved in an automobile accident. Sadly, Jennifer was taken to the hospital that day and Stephanie was injured. But, thankfully, thank the Lord, she survived.

Jennifer Rose Cernuto was a fine young lady, an impressive individual, and I was honored to know her. My staff still has the highest praise that they got to work with her. I say to Jeff and Lisa: You did a wonderful job raising that fine young lady. And I say to not just Jeff and Lisa but to Samantha and especially Stephanie, that the lives that Jennifer affected you can never count, but she had a wonderful and amazing impact in her brief time on this Earth. Her service will not be forgotten.

With that, I want to pay great honor to and to remember Jennifer Rose Cernuto for the wonderful person and the wonderful individual she was in her brief time on this Earth. And I say to Jeff and Lisa: You did a wonderful job raising that fine young lady. And I say to Stephanie, that the lives they got to work with her. Jennifer was full of joy that easily drew others, as she always did.

Mr. McHENRY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; accordingly, (at 4 o’clock and 53 minutes p.m.), under its previous order, the House adjourned until tomorrow, Wednesday, September 14, 2011, at 10 a.m. for morning-hour debate.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS, ETC. Under clause 2 of rule XIV, executive communications were taken from the Speaker’s table and referred as follows:

3076. A letter from the Assistant Secretary, Legislative Affairs, Department of State, transmitting Transmittal No. DDTC 11-097, pursuant to the reporting requirements of Section 36(c) of the Arms Export Control Act; to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

3077. A letter from the Assistant Secretary, Legislative Affairs, Department of State, transmitting Transmittal No. DDTC 11-062, pursuant to the reporting requirements of Section 36(c) of the Arms Export Control Act; to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

3078. A letter from the Assistant Secretary, Legislative Affairs, Department of State, transmitting Transmittal No. DDTC 11-072, pursuant to the reporting requirements of Section 36(c) of the Arms Export Control Act; to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Thousands later turned out for Jennifer’s memorial service and funeral. People asked, why did so many people, thousands of people, come out to see this family bid an 18-year-old young lady’s funerals? It was, I think, put in the best words by the head of school at Southlake Christian Academy, Wayne Parker. He said, “Jennifer was full of joy that easily drew others, as she allowed her love of the Lord to shine through her.”

Jennifer Rose Cernuto was a fine young lady, an impressive individual, and I was honored to know her. My staff still has the highest praise that they got to work with her. I say to Jeff and Lisa: You did a wonderful job raising that fine young lady. And I say to not just Jeff and Lisa but to Samantha and especially Stephanie, that the lives that Jennifer affected you can never count, but she had a wonderful and amazing impact in her brief time on this Earth. Her service will not be forgotten.

With that, I want to pay great honor to and to remember Jennifer Rose Cernuto for the wonderful person and the wonderful individual she was in her brief time on this Earth. And I want to thank you for the opportunity to have known her.

I yield back the balance of my time.

PRAYER
The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.
Eternal God, who fulfills the desires of those who have reverence for Your Name, let Your will be done today on Capitol Hill. Give our Senators a clear understanding of Your providential purposes, so that they will not deviate from Your desired plan. Inspire them to seek Your guidance and depend on You to bring them through the myriad challenges of our time. Lord, infuse them with a spirit of reconciliation that will break down divisive walls, bringing harmony and cooperation. Strengthen them for this day’s journey, as Your spirit empowers them to faithfully honor You in their thoughts, words, and deeds.
We pray in Your sacred Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The Honorable Jeanne Shaheen led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:
I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. Inouye).
The assistant bill clerk read the following letter:

U.S. SENATE,
PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE,
Washington, DC, September 13, 2011.
To the Senate:
Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable Jeanne Shaheen, a Senator from the State of New Hampshire, to perform the duties of the Chair.

Daniel K. Inouye,
President pro tempore.

Mrs. Shaheen thereupon assumed the chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER
The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

Mr. Reid. Madam President, I would note the absence of a quorum.
The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.
The assistant bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.
Mr. Reid. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.
The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

SCHEDULE
Mr. Reid. Madam President, following any leader remarks, the Senate will be in a period of morning business for 1 hour. The majority will control the first half. The Republicans will control the final half. Following morning business, the Senate will resume consideration of the motion to proceed to H.J. Res. 66. This legislation is the vehicle we need to do the FEMA funding. The Senate will recess, as we always do on Tuesdays, from 12:30 to 2:15 for our weekly caucus meetings.

FEMA FUNDING
Mr. Reid. Madam President, this week the Republicans sent a message to victims of the devastating hurricanes, wildfires, and tornados. That message was “tough luck.”
Last night, we tried to move forward on a measure that would grant the Federal Emergency Management Agency additional funding to help communities devastated by natural disasters. This ought to be the least political issue we have, whether to reach out a helping hand to our friends and neighbors in a time of need.
These unfortunate people have lost friends and loved ones. They have lost their homes, businesses, and livelihoods. They have been destroyed by acts of God. I went over this with my wife last night, and she said: Why would you use a term like that? Well, in the law, that is what these floods, these terrible windstorms, and these fires are—they are acts of God. We can’t plan for them; they just happen. In the law, that is the term of art we use.
These people have lost loved ones and friends, and their property is underwater or literally reduced to rubble. It is in our power to help them. It is an obligation we have to help them. Last night, Republicans overwhelmingly voted to prevent us from coming to their aid. They prevented us from getting disaster aid to American families and businesses that need it now. These unfortunate people, I repeat, don’t need the help next week or next month or 6 months from now, they need it now, today. It is unthinkable that Republicans would waste time catering to the radical tea party while innocent victims of devastating disasters bide their time. One of the leaders of the tea party, a Member of the House of Representatives, has said very publicly that we should get rid of FEMA. But this is not a nation that stands idly by while our fellow Americans suffer. We are a nation of action. That is what we have always been. When it is in our power to aid a fellow citizen, we have always done what it takes. We have done it without politics, without pandering, without a moment’s delay—until today.
This year the United States has dealt with more than its usual share of terrible natural disasters. Hurricane Irene... is estimated to be one of the most costly disasters ever to hit this country. It caused flooding and wind damage from Florida to Maine. That is a long way. It is a huge coastline. But its damage was not only to the coastline. Interior States such as Vermont suffered terrible damage. Hundreds of homes were destroyed in Vermont, and scores of bridges in the State of the Presiding Officer, the State of New Hampshire. Crops were drowned all over the Northeast. It is rarely that this has ever happened.

Just a few weeks ago an earthquake such as we have not had in this part of the country for 65 years occurred. The epicenter was in Virginia. It was felt by tens of millions of people in every corner of the Eastern United States. It damaged buildings in Richmond and closed the Washington Monument. The National Cathedral had some of its spires damaged. It is closed now. The 9/11 celebration was to take place there. They had to move it to the Capitol. Some of the spires were knocked off the Mormon Temple that we see as we drive down the beltway. There was record flooding on the Mississippi and Missouri that cost lives and devastated farmland.

To get an idea of the devastation, 3 million acres of farmland is underwater now. This is not rice that grows there, these are crops that need to be away from that much water. It is devastating to farmland in that part of the country.

In February a massive blizzard buried the Midwest and Northeast with as much as 3 feet of snow, paralyzing the city of Chicago, and 36 people died. Even now, firefighters are battling terrible wildfires that have ravaged for weeks and weeks across central Texas. Those fires have killed people and driven residents from their homes, homes they will never see again. In Texas, 2,000 homes have been burned to the ground. Some of the spires were knocked off the Mormon Temple that we see as we drive down the beltway. There was record flooding on the Mississippi and Missouri that cost lives and devastated farmland.

well. Not only have they failed to attract wide bipartisan support in the past, even if they did enjoy bipartisan support they wouldn’t create any jobs. The President knows raising taxes is the last thing you want to do to spur job creation. He said so himself. Yet that is basically all he is proposing: temporary stimulus to be paid for later by permanent tax hikes so that when the dust clears and the economy is no better off than it was after the first stimulus folks find themselves with an even bigger tax bill than today.

The President can call this bill whatever he wants, but in reality all he is doing is proposing a hodgepodge of re-tread ideas aimed at convincing people that a temporary fix is permanent and that it will create permanent jobs, and then daring Republicans to vote against it.

I think most people see through all of this. I think most Americans are smarter than that. I think they know our economic challenges are more serious than this and that they require serious long-term solutions. I think the American people realize we can do a lot better.

I have talked with a lot of job creators over the past few weeks, including many in my own State. It is no secret that they need to create jobs. Every one of them says the same thing. Yet the President refuses to do any of it.

If the President is truly interested in growing the economy and putting Americans back to work, then he will leave the temporary proposals and the half measures and the tax hikes aside. He will consult with both parties and work with us on a plan that indicates he has learned something from the failures of the past 2 years and which actually has a chance of attracting bipartisan support.

He could start with a permanent reform of our broken tax system, reducing our out of control Federal regulations, and by passing the trade bills that have been sitting on his desk since Inauguration Day 2009. All of this is doable, all of it should attract bipartisan support, and all of it would actually create jobs.

That would be a jobs plan worthy of the seriousness of the moment. But make no mistake, what the President proposed so far is not serious, and it is not a jobs plan. After what we learned yesterday that should be clear to everyone.

I yield the floor.

THE PRESIDENT’S JOBS SPEECH

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I listened carefully to the statement made today by the President. Having reviewed all of what he said for the last few days the Republicans have been very quiet and calm and circumspect in their reaction to the President’s speech to a joint session of a nonproductive night. The President, of course, came to us and said this economy needs a helping hand; we have to step in and do something. We have to act and act now. He came up with a list of proposals Thursdays, I think really do address what America needs: First and foremost, to create jobs—that is the No. 1 priority. The President says we will do this by creating tax incentives for small businesses in particular to hire people again. It is not convincing and to give raises to those who currently work.

He knows families are struggling across America, working families, middle-class families. Many of them are living paycheck to paycheck. A recent poll asked working families in America how many could come up with $2,000 in 30 days, either from savings or borrowing, to meet a medical emergency, for example. It turns out barely half of the working American families polled can do so. Barely half of them could come up with $2,000. It is a reminder to many of us who have a comfortable life that the vast majority of working families struggle every single month to make ends meet. President Obama understands that, and that is why he has proposed a payroll tax cut that will put more money in the hands of working families. In Illinois, it will be $1,300 for a family of four. I wish it were more, but it is a recognition by the President that to get this economy moving again, people have to have more confidence in their own situation at home and more confidence in the future. Giving working families this spending power can make that difference.

The President also understands and I am sure the President understands as well that many of the families who are struggling are desperate. I visited with many of them during the August recess, going to the Elgin Work Center and to others in McHenry County. I sat down with these people who have been out of work for months—who have been seeking new jobs. They asked me one question: What is your day like? They come to these job centers, they sit down, and they work on their resumes. They pore through all of the want ads, they pore through all of the information about job opportunities, and they send out their resumes as quickly as possible. Of course, very few of them get any response at all.

It is a desperate situation. Some of them have lost their homes. Some of them are seeing their kids returning from college, unable to continue their studies because Dad is out of work. Some of the marriages that have been involved have been strained and some have failed because of this economic hardship. The President understands that, and I hope we do too.

Unemployment compensation is absolutely essential. President Obama is providing temporary stimulus to be paid for later by permanent tax hikes.

When I hear the Republican leader call these suggestions a hodgepodge, I don’t think he is fair and I don’t think he is just. Take a look at the specifics: incentives for businesses to hire new workers, payroll tax cuts for working families for more spending money in hand, unemployment compensation for those who are out of work so they can sustain.

The President also focuses on critical people. How many of us in the last 48 hours have given a speech somewhere at home or here talking about the stimulus folks find themselves with an even bigger tax bill than today.

The President understands that, and he puts resources into saving some of those jobs so that we can have the protection we need in our communities and the assurance that we need for the next generation of workers.

President Obama believes, and I agree, that we need to invest in America. When we build the infrastructure in America that will serve us in the 21st century, we create good-paying jobs right here at home. These are not jobs you can ship overseas. President Obama understands that. That is why that is a major part of his proposal. We are talking about highways and bridges and airports and waterways and schools. The President understands that investment in America not only helps us today in invigorating the economy but will pay off for generations to come.

There were very few lines the President gave at his speech that drew standing applause from the Republican side. I felt at one point that the temperature of the Republican side of the chamber was 10 degrees below that on the Democratic side. It was cold over there. There was one line they finally acknowledged, and that was when the President said: For goodness’ sake, we owe it to our police, the firefighters, the medical professionals who literally risked and some even gave their lives in response to that national emergency. We know what is happening across America. Many of these policemen and firefighters are losing their jobs, along with teachers. The President understands that, and he puts resources into saving some of those jobs so that we can have the protection we need in our communities and the assurance that we need for the next generation of workers.

a carefully constructed plan to get this economy moving forward. What really troubles the Republican leader—and I know he said as much this morning—is that President Obama pays for it. Over and over, we hear from the Republican side: stop spending, cut back on the deficit. Pay for what you do.

The President came out yesterday with his proposal of how to pay for it. How does he pay for it? For one, he takes away the subsidy to the oil companies. A federal subsidy that comes out of the Treasury and goes to oil companies across America, raises gasoline prices through the roof, making them able to enjoy the biggest business profits in the history of the United States. Isn’t it time to cut back on that subsidy and use those resources for the President’s plan to get the economy moving forward?

The President limits the tax deductions and credits for those in higher income categories. I find it hard to understand why the Republican position is that we cannot ask those who are well off, the most comfortable people in America, to pay one penny more in taxes. Deduction is absolute: not one penny more in taxes for the wealthiest in America. I think it is fair to limit the tax cuts to the wealthiest so that we can provide tax cuts for working families. That is sensible. It is not only morally right, it is economically right, and it troubles me when I hear the Republican leader reject that out of hand.

It appears that the warmth of the August Sun is cooling now in September. And so I want to hear how unhappy America is with congressional roadblocks and obstruction have forgotten that lesson. They have forgotten what they heard. They are coming back now and saying that once again we are going to have a face-off and a confrontation.

DISASTER RELIEF

Mr. DURBIN. There is one other area I wish to speak to. I know my colleague from New York is going to be on the floor shortly. The area I wish to speak to is disaster relief.

I strongly support the disaster relief funding bill. As Americans undertake the physically and emotionally difficult task of rebuilding, cleaning up, and recovering from hurricanes and flooding and even earthquakes, we must ensure that the disaster relief fund is there so they can get back to their own lives as quickly as possible.

The year 2011 has been a record year when it comes to natural disasters. The cost of recovery from Hurricane Irene alone is estimated at $2 billion. We have seen it this year in Illinois. It has been tough from Chicago to Cairo in the southern portion of our State. We have had blizzards and floods and tornados and troubles all around. Our State, like most other States, has seen the damage and has felt it personally. People are trying to put their homes back together again.

Here is a photo—I saw this in person when I visited the State earlier this spring—around Cairo in the southern part of the State. It was an awful situation. We had flooding along the Ohio River that troubled and bothered the folks in southern Illinois as well as Kentucky and adjoining States, Missouri. Some of our towns, such as Cairo, were literally threatened with being inundated. They had to blow levees, which basically means to open up a place for the river water to flow. That flooded Illinois and Missouri, and in Illinois, and we have to be sensitive to the fact that there were real losses there that need to be paid for. That record flooding really slammed the southern part of our State. The devastation was felt in the entire region.

The damage was not just there. I hear from people throughout the southern part of the State who are still struggling today because of this flooding. Anthony Miles in Urbana, IL, is an example of the destruction. The Ohio River rose so high that he could not even find his lawnmower in the front yard. All he could see was the river water. In Metropolis, IL, my friend Mayor Billy McDaniel said that people are still trying to get the floodwaters and damage repaired in that town months later. Harrah’s casino in Metropolis, which is a major employer and source of revenue in that area, was completely inundated with water, and hundreds of thousands of dollars in repairs need to be done.

Some argue when it comes to these disasters that we cannot afford to help people in America. It appears to me that the guiding principle and motto of the tea party in America is this: Just remember we are all in this alone. That is what we hear over and over from them. Whenever we have a problem facing us in America where we come together as a family to solve it, the tea party stands on the sidelines and says: Don’t do it.

This morning, Senator Reid quoted a leading tea party advocate in the House who said: The Federal Emergency Management Agency should be put out of business. The wonder where he lives. I wonder if his home has been spared. I wonder if he has seen people who through no fault of their own have lost everything because of a disaster. When that happens in America, we step in billions. We come together. We don’t get tied up in some political debate. We don’t find ourselves completely stopped from stepping forward and doing what is right, and we can’t let it happen this time either.

Those who say we have to cut other government programs and education, medical research, for example, to pay for the devastation, whether from Hurricane Irene or flooding or earthquakes or tornados, I just don’t think they understand the economics of government spending that have been cut back already, and to cut them even further would jeopardize the future of this country and the well-being of many families.

I wanted to show a chart here which demonstrates the amount requested by the administration over the years by different Presidents for the Disaster Relief Fund. In each one of these cases, regardless of whether it was a Democratic or Republican administration, how much of these funds do you think were offset with funds from other accounts in the Federal budget? None. In 2005, when more than $3.5 billion was appropriated for disaster recovery, how much was offset? None. In 2005 and 2006, when communities all over the South were recovering from Hurricane Katrina and more than $2 billion was appropriated each of these 2 years for recovery, how much of that was offset? None. Under Republican Presidents, such as President Bush, as well as Democratic Presidents, such as Presidents Clinton and Obama, we have not required offsets in disaster recovery principle to be taken from other accounts in the Federal budget.

The number and cost of disasters have grown dramatically over the past few years. I do not want to engage the Senate in the debate about climate change because I know people get red in the face and want to come to the floor and tell us their political views of the science of this question. But I will tell you this: The casualty insurance industry of America testified before my committee recently and said they see what is coming—more disasters and more costs than we ever imagined. One of the experts said to be prepared to say every summer of your life from this point forward: This is the hottest summer I can ever remember. That is what the future is going to hold.

As these temperature swings get worse and worse, they precipitate these terrible storms. I am not an expert on much, but I am perhaps a little bit of an expert after almost 30 years of flying 48 roundtrips a year between Illinois and Washington, flying on commercial airplanes. I think I know a little bit about that, maybe even a little more than most. This is one of the roughest periods I can remember. For the last several months, the storms and turbulence have been greater than I ever recall. I hope it never happens again. We are told by the experts it is likely to continue. It means more storms, more damage, more disasters, and we do not have the funding here in Washington waiting to pay for it.

We have to step forward as the need arises and meet our obligations to the families and businesses that have been negatively affected. We know that this damage which I showed in the southern part of my State reaches all over the State. This is an area of Stelena, IL, the home of General Grant, the President, Ulysses S. Grant, and this area in the northwest part of my State also has been flooded, causing extreme damage to the people in the area. It is just another example of what we have been through.

If we freeze the money for disaster relief, as some have suggested, it would mean the repairs are being made to roads and storm damage from April and May will not be reimbursed. From Metropolis, IL, and southern Illinois, they are facing damage there that needs to be repaired—the city of Carmi as well.

On Friday, President Obama requested $5 billion in new disaster funding. $500 million in supplemental money for fiscal year 2011. The President recognizes 2011 has been an exceptional year for natural disasters and that the recovery from Hurricane Irene alone could tax FEMA beyond what it is capable of providing.

This money is desperately needed for the families and businesses trying to clean up and put themselves back on track. I strongly support the supplemental appropriations for the disaster relief fund. Let’s help our fellow Americans get back on their feet.

Madam President, I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The Acting President pro tempore, call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. JOHANNES. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

HONORING OUR ARMED FORCES
STAFF SERGEANT PATRICK HAMBURGER

Mr. JOHANNES. Madam President, I rise today to honor a fallen hero, Nebraska Army National Guard Staff Sergeant Patrick Hamburger, a native of Lincoln who later settled in Grand Island, Nebraska.

Staff Sergeant Hamburger served his country as a flight engineer while mobilized with the Nebraska Army National Guard’s Company B, 2nd Battalion 135th General Support Aviation, based in Grand Island. Staff Sergeant Hamburger and 29 fellow soldiers paid the ultimate price in support of Operation Enduring Freedom on August 6, 2011. He was the crew chief on the Chinook helicopter downed by enemy fire in Afghanistan. It is through extraordinary sacrifices such as his that we are able to enjoy the freedoms we have today.

Staff Sergeant Hamburger’s unflagging devotion to duty and pride in his country went beyond the time he spent in uniform. Patrick lived to help others. From his childhood in Lincoln, to mentoring fellow soldiers, those who knew him recall that he was always looking out for others. Patrick’s brother Chris remembers his kind spirit by stating:

He didn’t worry about himself half as much as he worried about everyone else. You could have been a complete stranger and if he could have helped you, he would have done it.

Thirteen years ago, that mentality and sense of patriotism led a young high school senior to take an oath to support and defend the Constitution of the United States of Nebraska against all enemies, foreign and domestic. That oath brought opportunities for Staff Sergeant Hamburger to share his mechanical talent with his fellow soldiers.

Those closest to him will tell us his pride and joy were his family, his friends, and the ‘V-Day Express,’ the Chinook helicopter he maintained. He loved being a soldier, and he took great pride in his service.

The decorations and badges earned during his 13 years of distinguished service speak to his dedication and to his skill: the Bronze Star, the Purple Heart, the Army Reserve Component Achievement Medal (4th Award), the Nebraska National Guard Campaign Medal, the Global War on Terrorism Service Medal, the Armed Forces Reserve Medal (with 10 year device), Armed Forces Reserve Medal (with Mobilization Device), the Nebraska National Guard Commendation Medal, the Nebraska National Guard Service Medal (10 year device), and the California National Guard Commendation Medal.

These medals, as well as Sergeant Hamburger’s willingness to serve others in need, speak clearly to his commitment to upholding the values and ideals that all Nebraskans hold dear.

We are proud of his character and the ways in which he represented Nebraska. I am confident that in the coming months, Nebraskans will surround and uplift his family and friends as they mourn the loss of a truly remarkable son, brother, and friend.

Today, as we bow our heads with the Hamburger family, I ask that God protect our service members, both here and overseas.

We are truly grateful for the service and sacrifice made by those in uniform and their families.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. TESTER). The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Morning business is now closed.

APPROVING THE RENEWAL OF IMPORT RESTRICTIONS CONTAINED IN THE BURMESE FREEDOM AND DEMOCRACY ACT OF 2003—MOTION TO PROCEED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume consideration of the motion to proceed to S. Res. 66, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

Motion to proceed to the joint resolution (S. Res. 66) approving the renewal of the import restrictions contained in the Burmese Freedom and Democracy Act of 2003.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Vermont.

DESTRUCTION FROM HURRICANE IRENE

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I have spoken to so many of my colleagues—I know I have with my good friend, a distinguished Member of this body, the Senator from Montana, and others—about what has happened in Vermont. We are a little State, 600,000 people. We are a State that has sent volunteers all over the country where people have been hit by earthquakes, tornadoes, hurricanes, and flooding, but now Vermont has hit us. My family came to Vermont in the 1800s. The only thing that could even begin to match what we have seen were the horrible floods of 1927. I was not alive then, but I remember the stories my parents told me. Certainly in my lifetime we have never seen anything like this. Vermont continues to grapple with the aftermath of Tropical Storm Irene. It does not make a difference if you are a Republican or a Democrat, if you are a Catholic or a Jew or a Muslim, all Vermonters are joined together to rebuild after this disaster.

I wish to call the Senate’s attention today to the severe and extensive damage done to our State’s transportation infrastructure and to how the washed out roads and bridges are affecting the lives of all Vermonters.

Here are a few of the scenes of the destruction. This was a main highway. You can see one lane where something happened. The road does not begin to pick up again until we get over here. That was a highway that had been used for decades. It is Route 100, south of Plymouth.

Plymouth, VT, is where Calvin Coolidge was born. He was spending time there with his father when he got news that he had suddenly become President and was sworn in by his father, who was the justice of the peace. The debris from the flooding and the mudslides may need security so he stood there with a pitchfork in one hand and a lantern in the other.

But this photo shows you what has happened. They tried to build a temporary bridge up there. As you know, being from a northern State, Mr. President, we are going to have snow in Vermont in a matter of weeks and, of course, companies stop making asphalt in early November.

This is a photo I took of U.S. Route 4. I took it from a helicopter when Governor Shumlin and I toured the State immediately after Irene. It is a major east-west route across Vermont. Again, look at this. We can't see one of the lanes of the road. It would have gone just like this, but it is gone, and look how deep it is. That is because this river moved from where it had never been before, and lifted it out.

Governor Shumlin, the Governor of our State, General Michael Dubie, the head of our National Guard, and I toured the damage around Vermont by helicopter immediately after the storm. I do not need the helicopter because many of the places we went were unreachable on the ground.

This third one is the New England Central Rail Line in central Vermont that hosts Amtrak's Vermonter train. One can actually get on the Vermonter here in Washington and take it to New York and go up through New England to Vermont, which I have done a number of times. Economic Recovery Act funds had just repaired this line to near perfection. Look at it now. We couldn't take a train across it. It has sunk out from underneath the track. That is a pretty horrific situation.

This shot was taken along Vermont Route 30 in Jamaica, VT, or what is left of it. This is while rains from the remnants of Hurricane Lee fell on Vermont. We just got hit and hit and hit up there. We can see work crews trying desperately to stay ahead of the rising water of the river, frantically, risking their lives to do that.

I might say, in that regard, we have had people come in to help out. I told the two Senators from Maine yesterday, we had highway construction people from Maine—crews, some on vacation—who came down and helped. In response, when we thanked them, they said: You helped us; we will help you. The Presiding Officer knows rural America. He knows we pitch in to try to help. Unfortunately, this is just the tip of the iceberg. Roads, bridges, and rail lines all over the State have been wiped out. I apologize to my colleagues for being emotional, but this is my State. This is my home. It is the home of my ancestors. We have seen flooding close more than 300 town and State roads and damage more than 30 bridges, stranded people in more than one dozen towns for days. Damage to the State's Federal aid roads and bridges will exceed $1 billion in our little State. It is going to take years and years to recover.

It has been extremely difficult to move emergency supplies and building materials around. Some of the washed-out roads have simply filled in the middle that are 30 feet or more deep. One can't drive a truck over that. Some of the reopened roads and bridges are not yet recommended for heavy traffic.

The consequences have been harsh. Residents are forced to make a 30-mile-plus detour to the nearest grocery store or doctor on mountain roads, many of them dirt roads. Businesses are struggling to reopen, rehire their people, and then to find new customers. Schools have been forced to remain closed until repairs are made, and children are wondering—adding to the trauma of what they have seen—when they can return to the facility of going to school. Tourists are worrying about traveling to Vermont this fall to see the foliage or this winter to do some skiing. These are major industries in our State.

The hardest hit communities. We need to make more permanent repairs as the roads wind along the sides of the mountains and the fall's freeze-thaw cycle will further deterioration of our roads and make them all but impassable in the winter and cut off major parts of my State.

Given the breadth and depth of Irene's destruction, on top of the disasters already declared in all 50 States, we have to ensure that FEMA and the Department of Transportation have all the resources they need to help our citizens in their desperate time of need.

The other night the President addressed the Congress and the Nation from the floor of the House of Representatives. On his way in, he leaned over and said to me: I am thinking of your people in Vermont. That means a lot. I applaud him for issuing the emergency declaration very quickly and then making adjustments when we needed them.

We have to replenish the FEMA disaster relief funds, and the Federal highway emergency road fund. Both of which are at dangerously low levels right now, not just for Vermont but for every other State that has been hit with the same kind of problems. Without supplemental funding to these and the other emergency accounts, Vermont and all the other 49 States with ongoing Federal disasters are not going to have the resources to rebuild.

Americans should be worried about America. The kind of money we are talking about, we are devoting $1 billion to rebuild Iraq and Afghanistan in 1 week's time and we do it on a credit card and we say we don't have to pay for it. Now we have some say: If we are going to help Americans, we better find out some way we can pay for it. What can we take away from other Americans to help these Americans? Can we take away from education, medical research, housing?

Let's start thinking about America. What have we seen these last 10 years? We have spent trying to rebuild Iraq and Afghanistan, and we know how much that is appreciated. These are Americans who do appreciate and need the help.

Let us come home. Let us take care of the needs in America. There is so much on the line, so starkly for so many, it would be horrible and unseemly to play politics with disaster relief. We have never done this before. I was heartened, as I came into one, badly damaged town and I got an e-mail from a very conservative Republican Senator who said: Pat, you helped us when our State was hit. What can we do to help your State? That is the kind of bipartisanship, Republicans and Democrats, have displayed in the past to come together.

Thousands of American families and businesses have been devastated by an unprecedented series of tornadoes, hurricanes, and wildfires—look at the pictures out of Texas—and other disasters over these years. The people are hurting out there. They are not thinking about Democrats versus Republicans or red States versus blue States. They are saying: We are Americans. We help everybody else; we can at least help ourselves. People are desperate for a helping hand from their fellow Americans. We are one Nation. We have traditionally come to the aid of our fellow Americans in times of need.

In my 37 years in the Senate, we have always dealt with disaster bills together. We haven't cared whether it was a Republican State or a Democratic State or a Republican President. We have worked across the aisle, in the spirit of bipartisan cooperation. As a nation, can we afford to toss that tradition and cooperation overboard? It is unconscionable that a small number decided to inject politics and political point-scoring into a situation that already is so difficult and so laden with grim realities for so many, and that American cooperation to get this urgent job done. I encourage my colleagues to end this shameful filibuster of the disaster relief bill. Let us proceed to a full debate on how to help our fellow Americans—our fellow Americans—as quickly as we can.

I have taken a lot of time of the Senate. I yield the floor.

RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate stands in recess until 2:15 p.m.

Thereupon, the Senate, at 12:41 p.m., recessed until 2:15 p.m. and reassembled when called to order by the Presiding Officer (Mr. WEBB).

APPROVING THE RENEWAL OF IMPORT RESTRICTIONS CONTAINED IN THE BURMESE FREEDOM AND DEMOCRACY ACT OF 2003—MOTION TO PROCEED—Continued

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. FRANKEN. Mr. President, I rise today to talk about the urgent need for FEMA disaster funds, which is under this Burmese Freedom and Democracy Act resolution. I was very concerned when I heard some of my colleagues in the House of Representatives demanding that spending cuts be in exchange for supplemental disaster relief funds. Last night, we could not even pass a small vote to proceed to a bill that would provide this needed relief. This raises the question, What kind of country are we? Are we a country that takes care of the victims of disasters without hesitation or reluctance or are we a country that engages in misguided debates in the midst of a disaster when our citizens need us the most?

My State of Minnesota has seen its fair share of natural disasters over the last few years. In the past year and a half, President Obama has declared seven Federal disasters in my State. I have seen the devastation Mother Nature can cause. I have seen communities that desperately need Federal assistance to recover. Northwest Minnesota has seen the phenomenon of 100-year floods turn into nearly annual events. Every spring, towns in the Red River Valley of the north hope that this year will not see another record-setting flood.

This spring, I visited Georgetown, MN, and watched as they built emergency earthen levees to protect their town. The town had run out of the clay needed to build their levee, and the only choice left for them was to dig up their baseball field—their park, the dike, and the rest of the park. I watched as they dug up the heart of their community to protect their homes and businesses.

That same day, I visited Oslo, MN. Flooding in the Red River turned what is the county fairgrounds and community center into a turfball court. Residents are cut off from the rest of Minnesota for weeks as the Red River floods all of the surrounding roads. That night, as I left, I was one of the last cars to make it out of town before all the roads were closed, and its residents prayed that the temporary levees would hold.

The residents of Georgetown and Oslo were doing what they could to protect themselves, but all disaster can be anticipated. On June 17 of last year, storms brought 39 tornadoses, 26 funnel clouds, and 69 reports of hail in Minnesota. Three Minnesotans died.

The town of Wadena was hit the hardest; 324 homes were damaged. The roof was torn off the high school, and the county fairgrounds and community center were destroyed.

After a disaster, Minnesotans have enough to worry about. It would be terribly unfair to pile politics on top of their worries. Natural disasters just happen. They are acts of God, and they happen without warning. Minnesotans need to know, when their State and local governments are overwhelmed, that their Federal Government will be there to help them. I worry, however, that every State needs to know that; we are one country. And they need to know we will not play politics with their lives and their livelihood.

Many of the same people who are demanding that the offset the costs of natural disasters have voted year after year to fund our wars in Afghanistan and Iraq without paying for them. Some have done this for nearly 10 years now. They have passed on all over $1 trillion in debt to our children to finance wars that have not been a surprise and that we could have and should have been budgeting for from the beginning.

For the last 15 years, we have paid for wars by borrowing from countries such as China willing to finance our debt and by giant emergency spending bills, as they are called. That is unusual in American history, where wars usually prompt reevaluations of our fiscal policy.

This spring, I introduced my Pay for War resolution to address this fiscal irresponsibility. My resolution would simply require that war spending be offset in the future. To be sure, there can be real emergencies that require the immediate exercise of military force with its attendant costs. That is why my resolution allows the offset requirement to be waived in such emergencies. But when you know year-in and year-out, that you are going to be at war, you should budget for that and not just pass the costs on to your children.

Iraq and Afghanistan have cost us well over $1 trillion, and we will be paying for years to care for the veterans who came back with the wounds of war. That did not singlehandedly create our deficit problem, but it sure made it a lot worse. Yet many of the same people who now demand that we must offset disaster spending for America's citizens are suffering otherwise have been fine with spending staggering sums of money on our wars—without offsetting them.

Doesn't that seem just a little hypocritical? I wonder, what kind of mindset does it take to conclude that it is OK to pass on to your children the costs of war. Yet, when Americans have lost their homes or had their communities destroyed, it is not OK to respond to that emergency in an appropriate way? It just does not make sense to me.

When Congress plans its spending, it can and should be accounted for through a budget. But when emergencies arise—and natural disasters are the quintessential emergency—we should not hesitate to act for the good of the American people. I believe the United States of America is a country that protects its citizens when they are at their most vulnerable. I hope this Congress will confirm that conviction by voting for emergency aid to the communities across this Nation that have been devastated by natural disasters.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. President, as you no doubt know, the State of Vermont has been hit very hard by Hurricane Irene. The storm caused widespread flooding, resulting in a number of deaths, the loss of many homes and businesses, and hundreds of millions of dollars in damage to our property and our infrastructure. I have visited many of the most hard hit towns, and I was shocked and moved by the extent of the damage. Many of these towns still today have very limited access because the roads and bridges that link them to the outside world have been destroyed.

Irene will go down in history as one of the very worst natural disasters ever to hit the State of Vermont.

Let me take this opportunity again to thank everybody who has lent a hand to help their friends and neighbors touched by this disaster. I especially wish to commend and thank our Guards and our local officials for all the help they have given.

We still do not know the cost of this disaster, but let me share with you just a few preliminary figures, and really this is quite remarkable, remembering that Vermont is a State of about 620,000 people, with approximately 200,000 households.

Today, already more than 4,200 Vermonters—and by and large, those are households—have registered with FEMA. We have 200,000 households, we have over 4,000 that have already registered with FEMA.

To date, there have been more than 700 homes confirmed as severely damaged or totally destroyed. Again, we have about 200,000 households and 700 homes have been confirmed as severely damaged or completely destroyed.

More than 72,000 homes across the State were left without electricity.
That is about one-third of the total. Thousands lost phone service. And in some areas, these services have still not been restored.

The storm knocked out 135 segments of the State highway system as well as 33 State bridges. Thirteen communities were completely isolated for days. Thirty-five roads and bridges are still shut down, while many others are only open for emergency services.

Human homes and businesses have been destroyed, undermining the fabric of our rural economy.

Our Amtrak and freight rail services were completely suspended, as tracks literally washed into rivers. One of our two Amtrak lines is still down.

The State’s largest office complex—we have a very large office complex in Waterbury, VT, near our State capital, in which 1,600 State employees go to work every day. It is the nerve center of the State. That complex was flooded. Those 1,600 workers have not been able to return to their offices, disrupting the ability of the State to deliver critical State services.

At two schools were either directly damaged or inaccessible because roads washed out and could not be opened on time. Five public schools remain closed until further notice.

This is but a short list of the devastation experienced by the State of Vermont as a result of Hurricane Irene. I know that, as in times past, we will pick up the pieces and restore our homes and businesses. That is what Vermonters will do. Vermont communities are tough in hard times, and it has been absolutely amazing to see the volunteer efforts taking place from one end of the State to the other. What comes to mind now: police officers from the northern part of the State relieving that and no longer live up to what being a nation is about.

We are seeing that in almost every area—strangers coming to help people whose homes and businesses have been destroyed. But the fact is, Vermont cannot do it alone, nor can any other State hard hit by disasters. The scale of what Hurricane Irene did is overwhelming for a State of our size. The Federal Government has an important role to play in disaster relief and recovery. Historically it has, and today it has.

When our fellow citizens in Louisiana—and I see the Senator from Louisiana here—suffered the devastation from Hurricane Katrina, people in Vermont, in a very deep sense, were those citizens. When the citizens of Joplin, MO, were hit by the deadly tornadoes, people on the west coast were there for them. When terrorists attacked us that day, communities part of the country, we rally as a nation to support our brothers and sisters.

The name of our country is the United—U-n-i-t-e-d—States of America, and if that name means anything, it means that when disaster strikes one part of the country, we rally as a nation to support our brothers and sisters. I would like to thank, in that context, Majority Leader Reid and Senator Landrieu for their commitment to drafting a disaster relief supplemental appropriations bill to provide $6.9 billion in disaster relief funding.

At the same time, and every appropriation is subject to even more intense scrutiny, the majority leader and Senator Landrieu are doing exactly the right thing in addressing these needs now. Senator Reid has my full support.

While it is imperative for Congress to adequately fund FEMA’s Disaster Relief Fund, the Federal response, in my view, should be more comprehensive, as it has been for past disasters of this scale.

In particular, it is imperative to address the severe damage to roads and bridges by providing funding for the Federal Highway Administration’s Emergency Relief Program. In Vermont alone, preliminary estimates to the Federal Government are in excess of $500 million and likely will be much more. That is an incredible amount of money for a small State such as Vermont. For a State that receives a total Federal apportionment of $201 million, the scale of damage relative to our State’s ability to pay for it cannot be overstated.

Similarly, it is important to provide sufficient emergency funding for programs such as community development block grants, the Economic Development Administration, the Emergency Conservation and Emergency Watershed Protection Programs at the Department of Agriculture, and the Disaster Loan Program at the Small Business Administration.

Additionally, given the significant impact of the floods on the stock of affordable housing, it is very important to include an appropriation for the HOME program, as well as an additional allocation of low-income housing tax credits. In Vermont, more than 350 mobile homes were destroyed or severely damaged, and many trailer parks will never reopen. In other words, we are going to have to make up for a lot of lost affordable and lower-income housing.

Let me conclude by saying this country has its problems. We all know that. But I think the essence of what we are as a nation—and that is standing together when disaster strikes—is the fact that and no longer live up to what being a nation is about. I worry very much about the future of America as a great nation.

With that, I yield the floor.

Mr. LANDRIEU. Mr. President, I wish to support the remarks of the Senator from Minnesota, Mr. Franken, and the Senator from Vermont, Mr. Sanders, who have described beautifully several different aspects of this debate. Mr. Franken said: How is it that so many on the other side rush to support funding for wars and rebuilding in Afghanistan and Iraq and never ask for one dime to be offset, and yet at a time when Americans need help, they are not, let’s say, leaning forward?

I think there are a lot of Americans, not only from around the country but in their own States, who might be very puzzled by this sudden commitment to find offsets when it comes to rebuilding neighborhoods in Minnesota or Vermont or neighborhoods in Virginia or in Massachusetts or in other States, such as New York, who might have been so hard hit. I think they will have some explaining to do, which is why I hope today, when we retake this vote, many of my friends on the other side will consider the leadership shown last night by Senators Blunt, Brown, Coats, Collins, Heller, and Snowe. These six Senators voted yes to move forward to try to find a way to find the political will to provide funding for disaster victims now, not wait but send them a powerful and strong and clear and unambiguous signal that the Senate and the Congress hear their cry. We know of their anxiously and distress and we will respond and we will fight about how to pay for this later—but not now.

We need to hear from us now that help is on the way. What they need to hear is that the fund will be replenished. What they need to hear—the mayors, county commissioners, and Governors, Republicans and Democrats from Governors Christie in New Jersey to Governor McDonnell in Virginia, who have given their support for funding disasters now—what they need to do is not worry about us because they have enough to worry about. They have roads to rebuild and neighborhoods to rebuild and rivers to get in their banks.

I heard today from Senator Schumer that in one of the canals—I think the Erie Canal—the lock is no longer connected to the canal. In other words, the water was. There is a lock and a canal, but they are not together. That is a problem not just for New York but for the entire northeastern transportation infrastructure, which affects us all.

As a Senator from Louisiana, I, of course, feel particularly strong about this because many of these Senators, Republicans and Democrats, came to our aid 6 years ago when Katrina hit—these most natural disasters because, as you know, it wasn’t just the hurricane that did us in down there on the gulf coast, it was the collapse of a Federal levee system that should have held and didn’t and breached or broke or evaporated in 52 places and left a major metropolitan, internationally famed city underwater and literally fighting for its very survival—a metropolitan area of over 1.5 million people.

This country rallied, after a lot of push from the Administration and others and the private sector stood up and the nonprofit community was terrific. We still have literally thousands of volunteers still coming. It is so heartwarming. They are coming to Louisiana and to Missippi to help us rebuild. I just drove the gulf coast 3 weeks ago—my husband and I. We said, let’s go see the coast of Waveland and the coast of Mississippi and how it is coming along. I visit our neighborhoods regularly in south Louisiana to see how they are coming along. Still, 6 years later, they are struggling. I don’t think there is a house up for every 10 destroyed in Waveland today.

This is how hard this work is. It doesn’t happen automatically. Mississippi is working hard and Louisiana is working hard. I can only imagine how other States feel, such as Joplin, MO, which was hit by a tornado with winds that might have exceeded 250 miles an hour. That is unheard of.

This is not time for my friends on the other side to sit on their hands or take out their green eyeshade and pencil and figure out how we are going to pay for it. We have all day to discuss that. We need to send them emergency funding now and learn how to pay for it later.

This is what our map looks like. Green represents a confirmed event, and red is an event. This indicates the destruction—or the number of disasters that have been declared by the President. For the first time, I believe, in our Nation’s history, a disaster has been declared in every State, but two—Michigan and West Virginia. Michigan technically could be declared a disaster because it has been under an economic disaster for several years but not a natural weather event. They most certainly are having very tough economic times in Michigan. West Virginia always has tough times as one of our poorest States. The whole country is in need.

Why would the other side sit when America is lit up with disasters? We have to ask them to reconsider and move the $7 billion help now. Not only is it the right thing to do and the moral thing to do and what Americans do for each other and what we should do, but it is all about—besides the moral aspect, which is obviously the most important—there being a real immediate economic benefit to this. If there was ever a jobs bill, this is it. I can promise you, having lived through this disaster recovery, it is like a shot in the arm for our economy. I see this as a signal to our neighbors: Don’t fool around with disasters, and let’s get this job done.

Let me just show you that when people say you haven’t provided funding for disasters, we have provided funding in our budget for disasters. I see that Senator from California, and I will be just 2 minutes more. I want people to know we have budgeted for disasters. I chair the Homeland Security appropriations bill. It is about a $42 billion bill. As we know from marking the 9/11 anniversary this past Sunday, that department was created after 9/11 to respond to new threats. We pulled disaster agencies together to pull them together. That is still a work in progress. We have $42 billion. So we budgeted for FEMA in that budget, in 2003, $300 million. It was obviously not enough. So then we went up because disasters were increasing to 128. In 2005, Katrina hit and completely shattered the model. The expenses of Katrina, Rita, and Wilma exceeded the entire budget of Homeland Security. It was $43 billion just for Katrina, Rita, and Wilma. The whole budget is only $42 billion.

When people say pay for it out of our budget, we cannot do that. In some cases, it exceeds the entire budget of the country. It is not right to pay for past disasters; we use the money we use to prepare for future disasters. We have beefed up base funding, but we don’t have the level of base funding that potentially may be necessary. Now is not the time people can say, oh, that is not the time. We need to keep the east coast waiting and Missouri waiting and the floods along the Mississippi River waiting and some people in California waiting. Texas, might I say, has had 20,000 fires. This is not the time to keep the people of Texas waiting while we figure this out. Eventually, we are going to have to figure it out, but we don’t have to do it this week.

I see the Senator from California, I will yield to her, and then I will be happy to add a few more comments to the record.

I thank the Chair and yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the motion to proceed to the motion to reconsider the vote by which cloture was not agreed to on the motion to proceed to H.J. Res. 66 be agreed to; that the motion to reconsider be agreed to; that the time until 4:15 p.m. be equally divided between the two leaders or their designees; and that at 4:15 p.m., the Senate proceed to a vote on the motion to invoke cloture on the motion to proceed to H.J. Res. 66.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, there are a lot of things going on on Capitol Hill this afternoon. We will make sure people have ample time to vote, as long as somebody doesn’t carry it to extremes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I ask the majority leader, before he leaves, I didn’t hear all he said. Is this the fact that we are going to vote again on proceeding to a bill that will allow us to take up this emergency FEMA funding?

Mr. REID. My friend is absolutely right. We need to do this. During the caucuses that was completed, the Senators from New York indicated, for example, that the Mohawk River because of the storms changed course. The Erie Canal lock doesn’t work. They are going to have to spend lots of resources now to get the Erie Canal back, which handles the commerce of the State. That is just one thing.

So the answer to my friend from California is, yes, we need to get people help now. People are desperate.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, we are not taking back my time. I am very pleased we are having another chance at this because—just for the information of the public—we fell short of the votes required to take up this emergency FEMA bill. I just looked up the meaning of “emergency” in the dictionary. It says:

A serious situation or occurrence that happens unexpectedly and demands immediate attention.

That is what Webster’s dictionary—no, it was dictionary.com. They have the best definition, and I want to repeat it. An emergency is a serious situation or occurrence that happens unexpectedly and demands immediate action. That isn’t a Democratic definition or a Republican definition or an Independent Party definition. That is what an emergency is. To anyone who says don’t worry; if an emergency happens we can take care of it just from our existing funds, that is not true.

Senator LANDRIEU is our leader in the Appropriations Committee, and what she told us in a meeting we just had a few minutes ago is that there is support in her committee, with the Senate Appropriations Committee, and with the Federal Emergency Management Agency. They are the ones, as everyone knows, who gets out there.

I will never forget the wonderful James Lee Witt who headed FEMA during the days of Bill Clinton. He was out there with Senator Feinstein and myself when we had earthquakes, floods, fires, and everything. There wasn’t even a question. He knew we would rebuild. He knew he could make those commitments.

I will just say this: Senator LANDRIEU held up a map that shows 48 States having been hit by horrible emergencies, some that we never anticipated, such as a terrible earthquake right here in this area, floods that had not been experienced since the 1920s in Vermont, and California has had some horrible problems, and we have had some terrible emergencies. The President worked with us and we have these disaster declarations. But now, because the funds we set aside just weren’t enough—and that isn’t anybody’s fault, it is an emergency, a serious situation that happens unexpectedly—we have to do something about it.

I have heard one of the Republican leaders in the House say we have to cut spending to pay for this emergency. He has recommended a place to cut that will cut jobs. It will cut jobs and it will stifle our manufacturing sector. That is ridiculous, unnecessary, and unwarranted. We all know we are going to do deficit reduction. We all know there is a smart way to do it. We did it when Bill Clinton was President. We stopped spending on things we didn’t need, we invested in the things we knew would create jobs, and we asked the billion-aires to pay their fair share—thank you very much.

So let’s get this mixed up with deficit reduction. We are on a path to cut the deficit. We will cut the deficit. We know how to cut the deficit. We did it under Bill Clinton. We balanced the budget surplus and had the debt on the downswing. But don’t confuse that with making sure our communities are OK.

The Senators from Vermont spoke today at our luncheon, and one of them had tears coming down his face talking about a woman who was very ill in one of their communities who had to go to chemotherapy. It used to be a 5-minute drive in her car. Now she has to drive an hour and a half in order to get her treatment. So please don’t talk about making someone like that suffer even more. Talk about what we can do as a nation when we pull together as Democrats, Republicans, and Independents.

I spoke at a memorial in my hometown of Siskiyou County, Riverside, San Bernardino, and Riverside who were the victims of disaster in my home state. This tsunami did damage in Del Norte, Monterey, and Santa Cruz, CA. This tsunami did damage.

So last night we had a bad vote. We didn’t have enough votes. We needed 60 votes. I hope anyone listening to the sound of my voice will call their Senator and double-check how he or she voted because Hurricane Irene could cost more than $10 billion. It would make it 1 of the 10 most costly disasters in U.S. history. We have seen record flooding on the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, and we have seen lives lost and farmland devastated.

Senators spoke in caucus about what happened to their farmers. They do not have crop insurance for all these crops. These particular crops were not covered. One of our colleagues said: It is bad enough we have to import oil from other countries, do we want to start importing our food from China and be reliant on other countries for our food supply?

Right now, as I stand here, we have brave heroes—our firefighters—battling wildfires in California and Texas. Here is a picture, because a picture is worth a lot of words—here is a picture of a fire raging out of control. The fire-fighters are as close as they can get to the flames. This one shows the Comanche Fire in Kern County. It has burned 2,300 homes in Stallion Springs, CA. We have more than 390 million in disaster recovery projects on hold—several in California. We had a tsunami March 11, 2011. We need the $5.3 million that has been promised to help communities in Del Norte, Monterey, and Santa Cruz, CA. This tsunami did damage.

Let me show a picture from the 2010 mud slide. In January and February of 2010 in California we were hit by severe winter storms, with flooding and mud slides. You can see a very important road has been blocked, again, shutting off people. We have a lot of mountains, so we have to cut through those mountains. Calaveras, Imperial, Los Angeles County, Riverside, San Bernardino, and Siskiyou Counties were hit, and FEMA promised them funding. They met the criterion of damage, and they are waiting. Right now they can’t proceed without the $3.5 million they need to recover.

So that is what this impasse is about. This isn’t about make-believe. This is about real people who are cut off, shut off, businesses shut down, people laid off, and suffering. So let’s not have a political spat around here. This isn’t a partisan issue. When your neighbor’s house is on fire, you put the hose over the price of a garden hose. You get the hose out, connect it, and put the fire out.

The good news is we have people from both parties who are starting to realize this is not just a partisan issue. This is a serious emergency. We have to put aside politics for the good of our country.

So I will close where I started, with the dictionary definition of ‘emergency’—a serious situation or occurrence that happens unexpectedly and demands immediate action.

We all agree we have serious situations in our great land. We all agree we didn’t expect all of this. Although, if I may say with a different hat on—my hat as the chairman of the Environment and Public Works Committee—we better understand that climate change is coming. We better understand what we are seeing now is going to be new normal. It pains me to say we have done nothing in terms of addressing some of the causes. But guess what. Regardless of our views, as my kids would say, we are where we are, and it is what it is, and this is what it looks like in too many parts of our great Nation.

So an emergency is a serious situation or occurrence that happens unexpectedly and demands immediate action, and I echo the call by our Democratic leader for immediate action at 4:15. I hope the phones will light up and everyone will call their Senators. It is time to vote yes on our vote at 4:15 and get on with this so people will know we stand with them in this greatest of moments that we don’t walk away from our people when they are suffering like this.

I thank the Chair, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. FRANKEN). The Senator from New York.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I thank my colleague from California for her poignant, eloquent, and appropriate words. I thank the chair of our Environment and Public Works Committee which handles FEMA disasters for the great work she has done.

Mr. President, I spent several days, both this week and last week, visiting the places in upstate New York that were so badly damaged. Upstate New York is a large community. Without New York City and the suburbs we would still be about the eighth or ninth largest State, and the eastern half of upstate New York has been unexpectedly devastated not once but twice—first by Irene and then by Lee.

It comes on top of an awful season. Because we have had so much rain and the ground has been so wet when these
I visited a place in Ulster County. These are vignettes. The town of Shandaken is beautiful, in the foothills of the Catskills. There is a major road that connects one part of Shandaken to the other. As we drove along, it is newly paved macadam. All of a sudden you see the yellow strips to prevent you from going further and there is a 30-foot gash in the road, totally gone—30 feet. But what is astounding is it is 20 feet deep. At Esopus Creek, the waterway there changed its course, went through not just the macadam, not just the underlay that holds the road, not just the dirt fill of a foot or two, but through the bedrock, through 15 feet of bed rock. We went down 2 years to build this road back, and it is a cost the town of Shandaken can’t afford. Our little towns, our little villages, our cities, even our counties of some significant population, can’t absorb the millions and millions of dollars of damage. The total estimate by our Governor is we have suffered more than $1 billion of damage from Irene alone, and of course Lee moved slightly further west than Irene.

I visited a lock in the Mohawk Valley and the city of Amsterdam. It had been very damaged. On a dam that a bridge went over, the metal of the bridge, the steelwork, was twisted out of shape. But locks 9 and 10 a little further downriver are no longer functioning because the torrent of rain created such swells that the Mohawk changed its course. So the locks are here and the river is here.

The Erie Canal, one of our great pieces of history, is damaged so that it can’t function. It won’t function for quite a long time, even with Federal assistance—I don’t know without Federal assistance what would happen—for months and months.

Then I went to Binghamton. Maybe that was the saddest of all. Binghamton is a city that has struggled. It had IBM in its early days. IBM was founded there. Nothing is left of IBM there anymore. It is at the confluence of two river valleys, the Susquehanna and the Shenango, and it had been terribly flooded in 2006. Senator Clinton and I visited. It was awful—hundreds of homes, the sewage plant, the hospital, Lourdes Hospital, Incidentally, Lourdes Hospital wasn’t damaged because, again, FEMA, with remediation money after 2006 helped supply some of the money for a wall that prevented the Shenango River from damaging the hospital. So it, thank God, is functioning.

But then we went to the shelter, with 500, 600 people who had been there for days and have nowhere to go because they lived in rental apartments in downtown Binghamton. What was totally flooded. Every hotel and motel room in Binghamton is taken. There are very few rental apartments. They have nowhere to go—nowhere to go. Maybe FEMA will come in and bring trailers, as they did for your great State of Louisiana, Madam President. But without FEMA, I don’t know what these people will do.

They have food. The Red Cross is doing a great job. But they have nothing else. They have been long, their belongings are gone, their clothes are gone. One gentleman came over to me and said, I would just like to try to get to my bank—which is closed and flooded—so I can take a few dollars out so I can buy some slippers. It is terrible.

What do you think they will do? It means America cannot ignore these people. The people of New York, when Louisiana had trouble, didn’t say: Our tax dollars shouldn’t go to Louisiana. The people of New York did not say, when there were tornadoes in Joplin: Our tax dollars should not go to Joplin. And I hope that the people in the rest of the country, represented by so many here on both sides of the aisle, will not say we are not going to step to the plate. America has always stood for disaster relief—always—because we are one Nation. We all have known that when God-given disasters, way beyond the powers of mankind, come, no single country can handle them alone, and that is why the Federal Government has traditionally stepped in and regarded it as an emergency and we have stepped in. We haven’t had strings attached or conditions, or: Put it in the bill and we’ll give you a little money now and we will see what you need later.

FEMA, by the way, has done a great job. I want to tip my hat to the people of FEMA who did such a wonderful job. But they are basically out of money. Right now in Missouri, none of the relief work continues despite the devastation in Joplin, because they only have money to deal with the immediate emergency of Lee and of Irene than New York. New York FEMA workers are doing great, and the people, the volunteers I saw everywhere, everyone is pulling together. Why can’t this Senate and this Congress pull together the way the people of our communities pull together when a disaster hit?

We had one gentleman whose house was gone but he hadn’t even been able to tend to it because he was a skilled worker and he was tending to the war effort. Maybe FEMA will come in and bring money to help in Missouri and New York and the people and the volunteers I saw everywhere, they even had some humor about it. They were wearing shirts, “Goodnight, Irene.”

We have to pull together. We pay on an emergency basis, without looking for setoffs, for the war in Iraq and the war in Afghanistan. We build bridges there, we build roads there, we give aid there. Now we are saying, When it comes to our American citizens, we are not going to do that any longer? What is the matter?

This afternoon we will vote simply on a resolution. To those of you not schooled in the arcane ways of the Senate, it is called a motion to proceed. It simply allows us to put legislation on the floor so we can aid these victims. And it can be amended. If some of our colleagues think this is wrong or that is wrong, they can debate it. But today’s vote will say whether we should even begin to move to cover this, and we are getting it blocked. On last night’s vote, six of our colleagues from the other side of the aisle joined us, but not enough.

And so here it is. This is not me speaking, this is the AP, almost universally regarded as a nonbiased news service. Republicans block Senate disaster aid bill.

What is going on? They don’t block bridges and money for the war in Afghanistan and Iraq, to help rehabilitate those communities, and they are blocking this. For help in Missouri and Louisiana and New York and Vermont and the Missouri River Valley up through the Dakotas, the State of Missouri?
What is going on here? This has never been a partisan issue.

Republican Governors whose States have been hard hit have called for help. Chris Christie, hardly a wallflower, hardly someone who doesn’t relish a partisan battle when he thinks it is right, but to his credit, when he thinks it is wrong:

Our people are suffering now and they need support now. And they, Congress, can all go down there and get back to work and figure out the budget cuts later.

That is Governor Christie.

Governor Bob McDonnell, a well-known conservative:

My concern is that we help people in need. I don’t think it’s the time to get into the deficit debate.

Are my colleagues on the other side of the aisle listening? Let us begin to debate this bill. Let us move forward, and let us fund FEMA fully. Let’s not put something in the CR and say, Well, in a month from now we will debate it. We all know CRs get tied up. FEMA has run out of money now—now. So this vote will be a vote that determines whether the American people will have the ability of helping one another in a time of disaster here in America; and a vote no says, no, I don’t want to do it. A vote no says I am not going to proceed to even debate the bill. A vote no is again the greatness of America, in my opinion, because we always have stood for helping people, being one Nation, under God, indivisible. When a part of the country desperately needs help, we all pull together to help them, knowing that if, God forbid, it happens to us down the road, the Nation will be there for us.

I was just at the 9/11 memorial service, the tenth anniversary. It was a time when we all pulled together. George Bush did not ask, who were we in the Oval Office and said New York desperately needed $20 billion, Is it a blue State? How are we going to pay for it? He stepped to the plate. He was a patriot and he said: This is what America must do.

That was a manmade disaster, an awful disaster. Far more lives were lost than now. But it is not a different issue. This is a disaster, and people are hurting and people need help. The attitude of President George Bush hopefully will be the attitude of our colleagues across the aisle, that they won’t block the bill, that they won’t find seven excuses, or say, We will give them a money a month from now in a continuing resolution, when the money is desperately needed now.

In conclusion, this vote is a crucial vote that says: Are we the same American people we have always been, who look out for one another, who help one another in a time of need, regardless of party and regardless of bickering and everything else? This vote will determine it. I urge a strong bipartisan vote for the resolution that we will vote on in and now.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Louisiana.

Ms. LANDRIEU. I thank the Senator from New York for those very descriptive and moving comments about his State, and particularly the part of his State that we don’t hear a lot about. That is why we depend on the Senators to spin the truth about what is going on and what they are seeing. I know the Senator from New Jersey is here to speak, but pictures are worth a thousand words and I wanted to put this chart up. I hope the cameras can grasp the horror of these pictures.

What is I think most telling about them is they are all from a different State in a different part of the country. This picture is of Joplin, MO. I haven’t myself personally been to Joplin, but before the year is out I will go, and I think other Senators should go see what has happened in one of the great tornado disasters in the history of our country.

This is a picture on the Mississippi River. I am not sure in what county. But when you go to the floor to talk about areas rural areas and the devastation, at least in Missouri, you can walk down the street and find a neighbor whose home was equally destroyed and at least get a hug. Out here in the rural areas, you are by your- self. It could be miles between your house and your neighbor’s home. You cannot even find the church where you worshipped together on Sunday.

Here is Texas. We prayed for the rain last week to go west to Texas. It hit Louisiana again. They are the ones who need it, but they cannot get it.

There were 20,000 fires in Texas. There were thousands of homes burned up. When you see pictures like this, do you think, what is the great help—yes, FEMA is a great help. But let me put this in perspective. You get $2,000 a family—$2,000—to help buy a toothbrush, maybe a few pieces of clothing, some initial toiletries, et cetera, and you get $30,000 for some immediate needs. It is not as if we are trying to send people $1 million a house. How can people stand in the way of $2,000 for immediate needs and $30,000? If you had a house that you had run a little printing business and you lost both, the most you could get out of this bill is $30,000. Do they think we are being too generous? It is minimum support. I want to make that clear—minimum support.

Some people are lucky enough to have insurance. If the insurance company steps up and does not try to pull out the fine print, as they did in Katrina, and come up with 100,000 excuses why they can’t fund the homes, maybe they will get homes. This isn’t us just trying to dump millions of dollars on people who do not deserve it.

That is what I wanted to say. I will have more to say, but I think these pictures speak 1,000 words. Again, FEMA is out of money. I don’t want anybody coming here to vote to say: I didn’t vote because FEMA has money. They are out of money. They are stopping 30,000 homes from being funded because all they can basically do is have enough money to pay those immediate needs on the east coast. Joplin, MO, has been told: No, you have to wait. Louisiana, on the Gulf coast, has been told: No, you have to wait. We are happy to wait a few weeks. We understand the dilemma. But this cannot go on week after week, month after month. We have to pass a bill for an entire year and not have to come back to it.

I see the Senator from New Jersey on the floor, so I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I apprise the passion of the Senator from Louisiana and her personal experience from Louisiana on the consequences of disaster. She speaks from firsthand knowledge and speaks for all of us in this respect.

I rise today because we as a nation have always come together to help each other in times of crisis without question, without politics. In my 20 years between the House and the Senate, I never questioned, in the midst of a disaster somewhere in the country—which, fortunately, for the most part has not been New Jersey—casting my vote to support those fellow Americans who found themselves in urgent need because of natural disasters having nothing to do with any control they had whatsoever.

This is not the time to politicize disaster aid. It is not who we are or what we expect this Nation to be. Our goal when disaster strikes is to unleash the full force of the Federal Government to help families in the communities in ruin, not to score some political points by slowing relief and calling it responsible fiscal policy. In the wake of a storm, when the floodwaters rise, when the winds blow, when the storm surge rushes in, we should not be rallying our political base; we should be rallying the full force of emergency responders to help.

In the last few weeks, the east coast has suffered an earthquake, a hurricane, and some of the worst flooding my State has seen in years—a 100-year flood. I received a letter from a constituent in Monmouth, in Monmouth County, who wrote: Dear Senator MENENDEZ, I live in Monmouth Landing, in development of homes in Howell Township, Monmouth County, New Jersey. Our community is in great need of assistance. One section of our community was devastated by flooding from an overflow of the Manasquan inlet on August 20 and 21. Homes and property were destroyed, and the families and lives of those homeowners were terrorized.

Then, after the first calamity, Hurricane Irene brought further destruction to this same section of our community. But in addition to that repeated damage, Irene brought damage to a second section of our community.

Hurricane Irene, in addition to the added homes and property damage, forced many of our residents to be evacuated in order to avoid drowning in the rushing flood waters. This is added to the natural hardships and hardship suffered from our affected homeowners who lost their furniture, their carpets and flooring and everything in the first floor of their homes, their furnaces and air conditioning units, and all of them have to tear down their water damaged walls to avoid mold and dry out their homes.

All of this damage and loss comes at a time when our people already are finding it difficult to make ends meet. These people have no money to take on the added costs of repair; and now there is no one who would even buy their homes. So they are stuck with a true nightmare scenario—no money to fix their homes, no money to sell the homes. We need your help. I understand Federal funding from FEMA is available, and we urgently need your assistance in securing these funds so that these people can move on with their lives.

That constituent, a fellow American, deserves to know that her government will be there to help, that relief is on the way, not held up in Congress to satisfy some ideology or political agenda. When disaster strikes, Americans respond; money, supplies, and trained local, State, and Federal boots on the ground. We do not hesitate. We do not wait. We rush to our neighbors and do all we can to help them rebuild. After the damage and flooding Irene caused, we came together as we always do—as a community, each of us working together to help others.

I had the opportunity to tour the flooded areas of New Jersey with the Army Corps of Engineers. Then we went to Patterson. This is a picture of Patterson, NJ, and these responders are on a boat, with the President and Governor Christie of my State, to assess that damage.

After 5 days of flooding, there were still the people who were homeless, trying to put the pieces of their lives back together. As we flew over the area with the President that day, we could see mud lines on homes indicating how high the floodwaters had reached. Then, tragically, we saw home after home where everything, up and down some streets—all the personal belongings of residents had been put out as trash, cherished pieces of their lives lost, ruined.

Patterson was particularly hard hit. Ironically, the river that once fueled the economy of Paterson washed out bridges, dams along the river were badly damaged, and power was knocked out for days. With the latest rains, flooding again took place even after Hurricane Irene. So, the worries may have receded, but the consequences have not.

We have been very pleased with the Federal response so far, a response that should have nothing to do with politics, nothing to do with political budget debates in Washington, and everything to do with the real needs of families in Paterson, in Lincoln Park, in Wayne, and in so many other places in New Jersey and across this country. Some of these people have to start over, start their lives over.

FEMA, along with other Federal, State, and local officials, needs the resources necessary not only to move in quickly and as possible to deal with this crisis but the resources necessary to deal with the aftermath—politics notwithstanding—because when one community is in trouble, we are all in trouble, and we pray.

Frankly, I cannot believe there are those in this Chamber and in the other body who see this as a political opportunity, those who will focus on the politics of relief even in the face of families who have watched their lives wash away, their property in ruins, and their communities devastated.

New Jersey suffered severe damages and left families, already struggling, with another challenge. It is up to all of us together as we always do—as a community, not to stand down in times of crisis, we step forward, we stand together, we pull together.

In my view, one of the most legitimate and non-deductible roles of government—clearly, I have heard many of my colleagues refer to this in a different context—is the security of our people. If you are homeless as a result of a disaster, you have a security problem. In my view, one of the most legitimate and non-deductible roles of government is to provide a helping hand to a citizen when there is nowhere else to turn. Yes, we have to do all we can to keep our economy moving, create jobs, and reduce the deficit. We have to make cuts where we can. But in the face of where we can and where we will not say no to families who have lost everything. We cannot say no when floodwaters are rising, homes are lost, possessions are piled in the streets, and families are picking through the mud to put whatever pieces of their lives they can find together once again. We are not a nation that ties helping them recover to the politics of the moment. We are not a nation that leaves our neighbors alone in the time of tragedy. We do not stand down in times of crisis, we step up.

In New Jersey we are grateful to the President for coming to Patterson and to Wayne and for the rapid and effective response of FEMA and State and local officials, after Irene, to families who have lost so much. But any attempt to slow relief to these families is, in my view and in the view of Governor Christie of my State—any attempt to politicize this disaster to advance an ideology at the expense of all we stand for as a nation is not acceptable.

The President said we will do what is necessary to respond. Senator Lautenberg and I took the same view, and Governor Christie took the same view. We don’t want to get into the politics of budget debates or whether this should be offset later on. That is a question for later on. The question right now for people who find themselves in front of a closed door and knock on that door is, Is the Federal Government—the one I pay my taxes to, the one I swear an oath of allegiance to every day—is it going to respond to me now?

I did not question the need to respond to tornadoes in Joplin, floods in the Dakotas, or the terrible consequences of the hurricane in Louisiana or any other place in this country, and I do not expect that my colleagues now will say no to their fellow Americans who need help now in New Jersey and in other States along the east coast. It is simply not the American way to not support the funds necessary and deal with the challenges these families have.

Let’s keep our eye on the ball. There are families in real need, really struggling in ways we cannot imagine. We have a real ability to put politics aside and do what is right. We will have that opportunity very soon to do what is right. Let’s get this money to the Federal agencies that can help turn around these people’s lives. That is the American way. That is the vote we will have later today.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Louisiana.

Ms. LANDRIEU. I thank the Senator from New Jersey for adding his strong and powerful voice to this, I wished to clarify a few points that I think are important for people to understand.

First, for those who might be engaging in or listening to this debate, we are going to have a vote in about an hour or so, and if we do not get 60 votes, which I do not think we will, it will be possible to reauthorize and replenish the FEMA coffers that are virtually empty. The Federal fiscal year, to remind everyone, does not start January 1. It starts October 1. We run on a fiscal year, not a calendar year. We are coming to the end of our year in September, this month. FEMA has run out of money in the last 11 days. I wish to submit for the RECORD—this is just an 11-day count, $387 million worth of projects that have been halted because FEMA is stretched to the breaking point. Let’s refill this coffer so these projects can get started immediately.

In other parts of the country where there are jobs underway, rebuilding highways, rebuilding libraries, rebuilding schools, rebuilding sewer systems, water systems, and cetera, those projects have been sent a pink slip, basically, from Washington saying cease and desist. You know what the worst thing about that is, it is not necessary if we are stretching the dollars it has have left to cover the emergency needs, literally, of meals and shelter for the people on the east coast.

has to be paid for, eventually. You know that, Mr. President. We do not have to decide that this week.

Let’s tell them yes. Let’s do the right thing and let’s get help to Joplin, MO. Let’s get help to our rural communities that sometimes get very forgotten. To help our folks in North Carolina and to our people in Texas who have been suffering terribly over this, and let’s do it now.

Let me share another quote that I think is particularly significant. The Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, a staunch Republican, said:

Never in the history of the country have we worried about budget around emergency appropriations for natural disasters, and, frankly, in my view, we shouldn’t be worried about it now. We are all in this as a country. And when Mother Nature devastates a community with emergency appropriations and we ought to just deal with it and then deal with the fiscal issues later on.

He is a very influential leader in our country and was the first Secretary of Homeland Security. He ran the FEMA budget. He understands what is at stake.

Please, let’s not make this a partisan issue. Let’s get a strong bipartisan vote; the Senate can be very proud of that; and then we can negotiate the issues with the House. I will work with the House leadership to say there are several ways we can pay for this. We can debate it over the course of the next several months and maybe come up with a new way. I know one thing we can’t do is take it out of the Department of Homeland Security. Our budget would be devastated, and it wouldn’t be fair to all the perimeters and the security and our ports and our firefighters to use their money to pay for past or present disasters. We could potentially find the money somewhere under some new mechanism, but let’s not make the people of the east coast, the people of Joplin, MO, and the people of Louisiana, in the floods that we have just gone through ourselves, scapegoats. We will figure out there is time for debate later, but the time for action is now.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. LAUNTEMBERG. I ask unanimous consent to be able to speak for up to 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LAUNTEMBERG. Mr. President, I listened carefully to our colleagues from Louisiana and note a particular distinction that her State brings; that is, the number of natural disaster problems that State has had and how diligently Senator LANDRIEU has fought to make sure that when we have a problem, we ask the government with a clear conscience to do its share in helping us cure the problem we get.

On Sunday just passed, we marked the 10th anniversary of the September 11 terror attacks. On that terrible day, 10 years ago, we were reminded that when tragedy strikes one part of our country, Americans pull together to respond. When our enemies and Mother Nature sends us their worst, Americans pull together to respond.

In the wake of recent storms across the country, including Hurricane Irene in my State of New Jersey, we see this same American spirit of cooperation coming through. Unfortunately, we learned that the spirit of neighbor helping neighbor stops with our Republican colleagues. We saw a shameful display where all but a handful of Republican Senators voted to block consideration of an emergency disaster relief bill. The fact that my Government do its share in curing a problem that enveloped much of the country. They have chosen to use disaster relief victims as pawns in their political gamesmanship.

Make no mistake. The disaster relief bill is a critical lifeline to the families who are struggling to pick up the pieces of their shattered lives after Hurricane Irene.

Early estimates suggest this violent storm could be 1 of the 10 costliest storms in U.S. history, with damages that exceed $10 billion. This is some of the worst flooding in a century, and it is a serious emergency.

Hurricane Irene produced devastating floods in New Jersey and other States along the east coast. A major tropical storm followed days later causing even more damage. In New Jersey alone at least 11 people were killed, and countless families were displaced after their homes were destroyed.

President Obama has declared the entire State of New Jersey—all 21 counties—a Federal disaster area. Earlier this month, the President came to New Jersey to see firsthand the destruction that Hurricane Irene has caused. I joined him on his tour of Paterson, NJ, my hometown, and one of the cities hit hardest by flooding. We witnessed unforgettable images. The streets and sidewalks were covered in mud, and inside homes— I saw it personally—mud covered the second floor of some. That is how deep the water was. Fourteen-foot crests followed what at times were very tepid streams. Walls were stained by high water marks. This picture shows some of the damage in the city of Paterson. Perhaps it is difficult to see, but what we are looking at is water—water everywhere—and it is entirely enveloping homes and businesses and the community.

Paterson is not alone. This is a scene in Boonton, NJ, where we see the road was washed away and people can’t move from one part of the town to the other.

In Cranford, NJ, we see another disaster scene. Here we have what looks like debris piled up. This debris was furniture. It included beds, cribs, and refrigerators. It included all kinds of things—people putting their wares out on the front lawn, furniture never able to be used again, the houses themselves often not being able to be entered again.

This picture shows the damage in Bound Brook, NJ, and the high level of the water as it compares to the building. It illustrates the destruction that Hurricane Irene caused. In my State of New Jersey, we witnessed nature’s power to destroy. Now it is time to see the Federal Government’s capacity to repair, rebuild, and restore.

Even before this hurricane struck, FEMA’s primary source of funding for cleanup and recovery—the Disaster Relief Fund—was barely on life support. The tornadoes and flooding that wreaked havoc across our Midwest and South earlier this year, along with wildfires and other disasters, depleted the fund. That is why, in my role as vice chairman of the Homeland Security Appropriations Subcommittee, I helped to craft a bill to replenish the Disaster Relief Fund.

The Appropriations Committee approved this bill last week, and majority leader HARRY REID understood the urgency of the situation and brought emergency disaster relief legislation to the floor right away for us to consider—putting money into the relief fund so we can deal with the tragedies that have hit so many people in so many places.

What happened in the Senate yesterday? Republicans filibustered our attempts. I think everybody across America has learned about what the word “filibuster” means. It means stopping things, blocking things. They blocked our attempts to even allow an emergency disaster relief bill to be considered. What kind of foul play is that? They talk about saving money, and they talk about cuts. It is outrageous.

Some of them have claimed the bill would cost too much. But we all know the widespread damage that occurred demands a strong Federal response. We have to provide FEMA with the resources it needs to help New Jersey’s people, businesses, and communities recover and rebuild from this disaster.

This bill also helps disaster victims in all 50 States—not just the States affected by Hurricane Irene. Every State has experienced disaster in recent years, and FEMA is working in every State to help these communities rebuild and recover. So if we fail to pass this bill, every State is going to suffer because if we can’t help one State, we can’t help any States, and that is an unacceptable condition.

The fact is, the losses of Hurricane Irene and other recent disasters have enough to worry about. They shouldn’t have to also wonder if their government is going to stand behind them.
I wish to be clear. The Federal Government plays a critical role in disaster relief efforts, and we have a responsibility to provide funding to help communities rebuild and to make sure the job gets done well.

For decades the Federal Government has had a track record of extending a helping hand to victims of natural disasters. This includes more than $11 billion in emergency funding to help Texas, Alabama, Louisiana, and other States recover from hurricanes or floods in 2008. Last year we approved more than $5 billion in emergency funding to help States such as Tennessee and Kentucky recover from floods. The people in these States desperately needed our help, and Congress responded. We have to do the same now.

It is hard to understand why people on the Republican side in the House and in the Senate don’t step up to their responsibilities. What are those responsibilities? They are to protect and secure the safety of our people. Without that, the country isn’t quite what it should be by all measures. We have to do what we have to do, now.

As we fight our way out of a recession, this is no time to play politics and penalize people who are struggling. Moments such as this demand shared sacrifice. We face serious challenges in our country, but we cannot put a price on a human life and say, well, if it costs a lot over there, we are not going to do that to save people. Nothing is more important than keeping our families, our economy, and our communities safe.

So I call on my colleagues to put aside the Republican cloak, put aside the politics, and act quickly to provide FEMA with the money it needs to continue meeting recovery needs. As the President said today, this is the third major flooding event of the year. It is the 7th in the last 2 years. These have been devastating floods.

I have a picture of the town of Plymouth, a beautiful community in northern New Hampshire where Plymouth State University is. What we can barely see in this section of the picture is the new ice hockey arena for Plymouth State that was just completed about a year ago. It is a beautiful, state-of-the-art arena that, unfortunately, was flooded by these floodwaters. Of course, we can see other damage to the town.

Many of the homeowners in the community of Conway, on the other side of the State, are people who suffered some of the worst damage and are elderly and disabled. They are people who are living on fixed incomes, who are least able to recover from this kind of disaster.

Others affected by the disaster are families who are already struggling to cope with difficult economic circumstances. New Hampshire emergency response officials toured Conway today, and they talked to our office and told us about the plight of one young family of three. Sadly, the family lost its job just 3 days before the storm hit, and his wife, who stays at home and takes care of their 3-year-old, doesn’t have a job outside the home. So with his layoff, they have lost their entire income, and now their home is so damaged they are worried about being homeless. They have no money to rebuild. Without FEMA assistance, this family could indeed wind up homeless.

Hundreds in the West Lebanon area in the western part of the State across the river from Vermont may be out of work for months. Peggy Howard, who owns a boutique gift store in the area, told the Upper Valley News, which is the newspaper that serves Lebanon, that she fears damage from Irene will put her out of business. As a small business owner, she has no parent corporation to help her recover, so assistance from FEMA and other Federal programs may be her only option as she tries to rebuild her business.

Peg and the hundreds of others in New Hampshire and the thousands across the country who have been devastated are taxpayers, and this is their money. Their tax dollars help fund our government, including FEMA. They have the right to expect that FEMA will be there when they need help.

It is not only sad but is an outrage that some Members of Congress would deny those people who have been so hard hit by Irene and so many other disasters this year—that Members of Congress would deny them help in their time of need, and for no good reason. The reason is pure partisan politics. It is plain and simple.

Even in the best of circumstances, the costs of Irene would be a significant burden for New Hampshire to shoulder alone. Thankfully, President Obama quickly granted Governor Lynch’s request for a major disaster declaration. A number of Federal agencies, including FEMA, are now on the ground providing essential assistance as we begin to restore our State’s hard hit businesses, homes and utilities.

But New Hampshire is hardly alone in the need for assistance after Hurricane Irene. Other parts of the country are still rebuilding from disasters earlier this year, such as the devastating tornado in Joplin, MO. Soon FEMA’s disaster relief fund, as we have already heard this afternoon, which was already running low prior to the storm, will no longer have the resources needed to continue meeting recovery needs. The Administration is sending $300 million providing relief to States hit by Hurricane Irene. Less than $500 million remains, which may not be enough to see us through the end of the month.

In northern New Hampshire, we have a limited window to rebuild before the onset of winter brings our construction season to a stop. What is more, in New Hampshire, fall is a critical season for agriculture—up to $1 billion in emergency funding to help New Hampshire farmers affected by the storm. New Hampshire is hardly alone in its need for assistance, but we are in a race against the clock to help the families and communities affected.

I wish to be clear. The Federal Government plays a critical role in disaster relief efforts, and we have a responsibility to provide funding to help communities rebuild and to make sure the job gets done well.

So I call on my colleagues to put aside the Republican cloak, put aside the savings we think we can make from avoiding our responsibilities because no money is going to be saved. The costs are going to be there, and the mistakes are going to be extended.

So I urge all of us to join to approve this bill. Few of us, if any, are exempt from the possibility of disaster in our States. So let’s put the politics aside and make sure our first priority is helping people—helping individuals, helping families, helping the communities—and keeping functions going to permit our society to work.

With that, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.
our tourism industry, as thousands of visitors come to take in the beautiful fall foliage. We need to immediately re-build the bridges Irene destroyed, such as this one in Hart’s Location, pictured here. As you can see from this picture, in any couple of weeks, the beautiful mountain is shown in the background, with all of the green foliage will be turning all sorts of colors because of the fall foliage. If we cannot fix this road and bridges in a number of other places in New Hampshire, we will not be able to have a tourist season that can bring people to the State that can help those people whose jobs depend on that tourism industry. Any delay in FEMA assistance over the next few weeks could have a serious effect on recovery efforts and the hundreds of businesses and their employees who depend on the tourism industry.

Mr. President, I know you agree with me and with the other Senators who have come to the floor this afternoon who believe that natural disasters should be beyond politics and beyond partisanship. The people hurting all across this country are not Democrats or Republicans or Independents. They are our citizens. They are taxpayers. Getting them the help they need demands bipartisan cooperation. In the past, we have always been able to come together and get people the help they need. This time should be no different. I urge all of my colleagues in the Senate to work together to address this emergency and provide FEMA the resources it needs to carry out its mission. This has an immediate, real impact on so many Americans and we cannot delay.

Mr. President, I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Ms. LANDRIEU. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the reading of the amendments be suspended.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. LANDRIEU. Madam President, I had to slip away from the floor for a few minutes, and I understand that no one from the other side has come down to speak this afternoon. I cannot say I blame them because it is a very tough position to take.

We could have been ready to take a very important vote in 5 minutes on whether we are going to provide disaster relief for the country, and particularly for the east coast, which has been so terribly hit with Hurricane Irene and then, of course, Tropical Storm Lee that came up through the gulf coast—and you know we have had our share of difficulty—but then it dumped additional rain in an area that was already saturated. We have wildfires raging in Texas. We have the destruction still in Joplin, MO, and other places through-}

There is plenty of money in the account to rebuild Iraq. There is plenty of money in the account to rebuild Afghanistan. There is plenty of money in the account for refugee camps all over the world. But the account for Americans who are homeless, desperate, and without their businesses, their churches and, in some cases, their neighborhoods is empty, and Members going to come to the floor today and vote no? I strongly suggest a “yes” vote.

I said the reason we cannot budget exactly for these disasters is because we, A, do not know when they are going to happen, B, we do not even know how to cover the services that FEMA is geared up to provide, and C, do not know the amount of the damage. As I have shown in my arguments this afternoon, the amount wildly fluctuates. One year it was zero, over the last 10 years. One year it was zero. The next year it was $5 billion. One year it was $8 billion. The next year it was $43 billion.

So I am saying, no one here—we are all very good, very powerful people, but we are not fortune tellers, and we do not have crystal balls on our desk, so there is no way we can know.

When people say to me: Well, you don’t know exactly, but could you budget something, the answer is, yes, we could figure that out, but we do not have to figure that out today. We do not even have to figure that out this month. We have this supercommittee set up to fix every problem in the world, it seems. We will just give them another one to work on because we do not have the money. It is not even in the Appropriations Committee for some time. The White House is engaged. The Republican leadership, hopefully, will get engaged. The Democratic leadership is engaged. We will figure it out. But now is not the time to have the victims of these disasters and the survivors of these disasters worry about this.

We need to refill FEMA’s coffers, re-fill the Corps of Engineers that are stretched beyond imagination at this time. You can imagine with the Mississippi River. The highest flooding in 50 years occurred this year. Now they have other flash floods all over the country—a bridge here, several bridges there, dams and dikes bursting. One of the Governors, I understand, just shut down a major bridge because they found a structural fault. So the Corps of Engineers has more than they can say grace over. Now is not the time to cut their budget. Now is the time to give the administration funding and do some reform of the Corps of Engineers that my people are crying for in Louisiana.

I think a picture is worth a thousand words. I know we are getting ready to vote, and the leader will come and, I guess, call for the vote. But a picture is worth a thousand words.

These are people who are desperate. I have shown this picture this afternoon. This is Joplin, MO. This is somewhere along the Mississippi River and the great flood. How lonely is this? At least in Joplin you could find a neighbor to talk to or a group of people who worshipped at a church, and you could pray together. This family is isolated, as others are in many rural communities. They need a yes from us this afternoon.

Here is Texas, and this breaks my heart. I think this is North Carolina. How sad are these pictures? They are people behind them are thousands of families and businesses.

In addition, if this argument of compassion doesn’t move people, maybe the argument of flat business will move people. We are ready for the vote; I think the time has come. I urge my colleagues to please vote yes on this motion to proceed. If we get 60 votes, we can proceed to the disaster bill and figure out how to pay for it sometime in the next month ahead.

I thank the Chair.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Pursuant to rule XXII, the clerk will report the motion to invoke cloture.

The assistant editor of the Daily Digest read as follows:

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. By unanimous consent, the motion to proceed to H.J. Res. 66, an act approving with the provisions of rule XXII of the Standing Rules of the Senate, hereby move to bring to a close debate on the motion to proceed to Calendar No. 154, H.J. Res. 66, a joint resolution approving the renewal of import restrictions contained in the Burmese Freedom and Democracy Act of 2003, shall be brought to a close? The yeas and nays are mandatory under the rule.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. By unanimous consent, the mandatory quorum call has been waived.

The question is, Is it the sense of the Senate that debate on the motion to proceed to H.J. Res. 66, an act approving the renewal of import restrictions contained in the Burmese Freedom and Democracy Act of 2003, shall be brought to a close? The yeas and nays are mandatory under the rule.
The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk called the roll.

Mr. KYL. The following Senator is necessarily absent: the Senator from Florida (Mr. Rubio).

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The yeas and nays resulted—yeas 61, nays 38, as follows:

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. On this vote, the yeas are 61, the nays are 38. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn having voted in the affirmative, the motion, upon reconsideration, is agreed to.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I suggest the adoption of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant editor of the Daily Digest proceeded to call the roll.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Louisiana.

Ms. LANDRIEU. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Louisiana.

Ms. LANDRIEU. I understand that Senator CONRAD is on the schedule to speak in just a few minutes, but with my permission I just wanted to say thank you to the Members who voted favorably to move forward with the discussion about how to fund disaster relief and to provide this emergency funding.

The leader has laid down a very responsible $6.9 billion emergency bill for victims and survivors of the many disasters with which our country is struggling. These numbers were not pulled from the air. These numbers came through the appropriate appropriations committees. I think it is a solid amount to deal with the emergencies right before us for the next months and perhaps through the coming year. These numbers are still fine-tuned as we move forward. But it was a very powerful “yes” vote for thousands, tens of thousands of people who are waiting for us to say yes to move forward, filling the accounts that are now virtually empty, and giving a positive signal to Governors both Republicans and Democrats; mayors, Republicans and Democrats; county commissioners, Republicans and Democrats, that help is on the way and that the Federal Government is not, and will not, turn its back on them at this time of need. So I thank the Members.

We had a strong vote, 61 votes. We needed 60; we got 61. But it was a strong vote, and I am glad we were joined by several Members from the other side. And I think those who said yes to move this disaster relief forward.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. COFFMAN. Madam President, I come to thank my colleagues as well for this strong vote to move forward on disaster relief. In almost every corner of America we have had unprecedented natural disasters this year, and my State has not been exempt. I represent North Dakota, and we have had flooding unprecedented since records have been kept on the Souris River that goes through Minot, ND, the Missouri River that goes between Bismarck and Mandan, ND, the place where I come from. We have seen absolute devastation, water levels that changed virtually overnight. I can remember the forecast being raised 10 feet from Minot, ND, in a period of 48 hours, and then higher water level than we have seen in over 100 years of recorded history. The same is true in the Missouri Valley Basin, with runoff the highest it has ever been. This has led to incredible flooding.

This is a picture from Minot, ND, where 11,000 people had to evacuate, 4,000 homes flooded. These are middle-class neighborhoods, and virtually no one had flood insurance. There were only 340 or 350 flood insurance coverage acts in this country of over 40,000 people because they had a Corps-certified levee protecting them that was supposed to be good for a 100-year flood. They had new dams that had been constructed in Canada and dams that had been enhanced in North Dakota. We hadn’t had a major flood in 40 years.

FEMA is absolutely essential to helping these people get back on their feet. That funding is necessary, but it is not sufficient. Anybody who thinks we are going to get well on just FEMA funding does not understand the FEMA program. FEMA was designed to work in conjunction with insurance—homeowners insurance, flood insurance. But if there is a flood, homeowners insurance doesn’t cover it. I can tell you, in a community that didn’t have flood insurance—or almost no one did—if all they have is FEMA, it is important, it is essential, but it is not enough.

Nobody knows that better than the Senator from Louisiana, Ms. LANDRIEU. I don’t think in my entire time here I have ever seen anybody fight more doggedly, more persistently, or more effectively for the people in my State and their home community than Mary LANDRIEU did when they were hit with Katrina. Mary LANDRIEU is a hero because she would not take no for an answer.

I saw it time after time after time in the caucus, on the floor of the Senate, in committees. Do you know what. She delivered something that those people desperately needed. Good for her, and good for the people to have sent somebody here who would fight for them in their time of need.

Madam President, I am here representing a State at its time of need because we had thousands of people desperately affected—not as many as in the State of Louisiana; it is a much bigger disaster for the population of my State, when 11,000 people were evacuated in one town, that is a big deal. Eleven thousand people were forced out of their homes. They weren’t just forced out overnight, they weren’t just forced out from a week, they weren’t just forced out over a couple of weeks, they have been out of their homes for months, and they are not getting back in their homes until sometime next year. Now, that is reality. Talk about a tough reality.

With FEMA they qualify for $30,000—and thank God for it because without it they would have nothing. That is it. That is it. These are people who have lost homes that were worth $150,000, $160,000, and they had a mortgage on them. What do they do? They are going to get $30,000. Do they rebuild the home? Do they rebuild the house? What do they do? Thirty thousand dollars when a house has been underwater for 6 weeks, for 8 weeks, thousands of homes that had 10 feet of water in them for weeks and weeks and weeks?

When the water recedes, as it has done now, they are left with a pile of muck. I have been there. I have seen it. I have smelled it, and it is not a happy situation. These people deserve some additional help.

Do you know what we did in Louisiana? We passed emergency supplemental appropriations for CDBG. I predict if that is not done now in this disaster, these communities will have a difficult time ever recovering because with homeowners insurance, they are not going to collect on that in a flood. Very few people had flood insurance because they thought they were protected by the dams. They are left with $30,000 to recover. It doesn’t add up.

We have to have additional CDBG funding because that is what was used in the floods of North Dakota in the 1990s that helped us recover. That was what was used in Louisiana to help them recover. That is what is going to be needed here in cases where flooding occurred.

Here is the headline from the Minot Daily News: “Projection: Devastation.” When they were told the water level was rising as rapidly as it was, there was no time to defend the town. They had levees that were supposed to be 100-year flood, but the Canadian lost control of one of its major dams. Their provincial leadership told our Governor: The floodgates are wide open. We have lost control of the dam, and that wall of water is coming your way. That meant, in a short period of time the projections for the height of the water in Minot, ND, went up 10 feet in 48 hours. There is no way to raise miles and miles of levees 10 feet in 48 hours. That is humanly impossible.

What was the result? Everywhere you look, flooding. The Minot Daily News headlined: “It’s a sad day”. Boy, it was a sad day. “The crest could be 10 feet higher than June 1.”

In just a matter of days that wall of water was headed toward this community, and they had no time to raise their defenses. Here is the predictable result: That is Minot, ND, downtown. Water is everywhere—in every residential community in the valley, the business community. You can see, this water is not like the typical flood where the water comes and goes. Here, the water came and stayed and stayed for days and days and weeks and weeks and months. It wasn’t until just recently that the floodwater receded.

This is a picture, again, from that community. In many cases all you can see are the rooftops.

Again, I want to say to those who might be listening because they need to understand, they need to understand that assistance has not been received and we deeply appreciate it—that is not going to be enough. When someone has lost a $100,000 house, $30,000 is not going to touch the problem.

That is the reality, and the only way they are going to make meaningful inroads on that problem for people who didn’t have flood insurance, through no fault of their own. Because they thought they were protected by new dams, by a levee—but, unfortunately, they faced something that has never been seen in history. It has never been seen in history. These are middle-class families, and they are devastated—there are 4,000 homes destroyed in a community of 40,000 people.

If we don’t get some additional help through additional funding for CDBG, those people’s lives will be devastated. That is the truth. We did better for the people in Katrina. We did better for the people who were victims of the floods back in the 1990s because we passed emergency supplements for CDBG to help people who were devastated, who needed a helping hand. We need to do it again.

I am pleased to say we have circulated a letter—and we have bipartisan signatures on it—to the leadership and ask them to fund the emergency basis for the communities not just in my State but all across the country: the people in Joplin who were devastated by a tornado with wind speeds, I am told now, some of them up to 300 miles an hour; the people who were flooded by Irene; others who were affected by Lee; and others whom we can fairly anticipate will be hit as we go through the hurricane season.

We have seen natural disasters. I think declared in all the States but two.

Yes, we need to replenish FEMA. We need to do it on an urgent basis. But we also need to add to CDBG funding so that people are not left devastated, with no chance to rebuild their lives.

I end with this headline: “Swamped.” That is what happened in Minot, ND. That is what happened in other cities in my State as well—Bismarck, Mandan, my hometown area, and many other communities we have been watching the ongoing situation in Devils Lake, ND, where the lake has gone up 30 feet in the last 17 years. That is now three times the size of the District of Columbia and is within 3 feet of going over. That will be a major calamity for all of eastern North Dakota if it is not prevented.

I implore my colleagues: Yes, let’s replenish FEMA funds on an emergency basis. That is essential. But let’s not stop there. Let’s also provide meaningful funding for CDBG because without it, families will have a very difficult time ever recovering from these devastating blows.

I yield the floor. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. HAGAN). The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BARRASSO. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BARRASSO. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that I speak for 10 minutes as in the business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

EMPLOYMENT IMPACT ACT

Mr. BARRASSO. Madam President, last week the President addressed a joint session of Congress. He said he wanted to eliminate regulations—regulations, he said, that put “unnecessary burden on businesses at a time when they can least afford it.” We have heard this same message from the White House time and time again. The reality is, the President’s “green jobs” plan has cost American workers hundreds of billions of dollars. The President has proposed to stop this kind of overreach.

This administration’s out-of-control regulation is persistently dragging down the private sector. The President has promised to stop this kind of overreach. Remember, he issued an Executive order at the start of this year that was supposed to slow down Washington’s regulation. So what has this administration done about it? In the 7 months since the President issued his Executive order, hundreds of new rules have been either enacted or proposed. For every day that goes by, our job creators face at least one new Washington rule to follow.

The President announced his Executive order, he said he wanted to promote predictability and reduce uncertainty. These are laudable goals, but a new rule every day does nothing to promote predictability and is the very definition of uncertainty.

The President talked about uncertainty just recently. The main source of uncertainty in the economy right now is the very people the President claims he wants to help. The President said last year that when it comes to job creation, he wants to, as he said, “start where most new jobs do—with small businesses.” The sentiment is right, but, again, what has he done about it? According to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, businesses with fewer than 20 employees incur regulatory costs that are 42 percent higher than larger businesses with up to 500 employees, and that is not counting the avalanche of new regulations that will come down the road. This year, over 50,000 pages of regulations have been added to the Federal Register already, and the chamber of commerce has said that the President’s new health care law alone will produce “30,000 pages of new health care regulations, many aimed at small employers.”

The President has said he will keep trying every new idea that works and listen to every good proposal, no matter who comes up with it, if he has a pretty simple idea. If the President wants to know which proposals will work to create jobs, maybe he should require his regulatory agencies to tell him how their own actions will affect the job market.

Congressman LEE TERRY of Nebraska and I have a bill that will do just that. It is called the Employment Impact Act, S. 1219. This bill will force Washington to look before it leaps when it comes to requirements that could harm America’s jobs. Under our bill, every regulatory agency would be required to prepare what is called a jobs impact statement, and this jobs impact statement would need to be prepared with every new rule that is proposed. The statement would include a detailed assessment of the jobs that would be lost or gained or sent overseas by any given rule coming out of Washington. It would consider whether new rules might interfere with our job market in general. This jobs impact statement would also include an analysis of any alternative plans that might be better for the economy. Most importantly, it would require regulatory agencies to look at how new rules might interact with other proposals coming down the road.

The problem with our regulations is not only that they are too sweeping, it is also that there are too many of them, so it makes no sense to look at an individual rule in a vacuum and acting hundreds of them without knowing their cumulative effect. The effect of all of these together could spell death by a thousand cuts for hard-working Americans who are trying to work and support their families.

Also in keeping with the principles of transparency, this bill would require every jobs impact statement prepared by any agency to be made available to the public. The American people deserve to know what their government is actually doing, and Federal agencies in Washington need to learn to think before they act.

Regulatory agencies from these agencies on what their regulations will do is nothing new. For 40 years, the Federal Government has always required its bureaucrats to ask the question of whether their actions will impact America’s environment. They have to file environmental impact statements. What I am asking for here is a jobs impact statement.

Past generations of legislators rightly recognized the importance of America’s land, air, and water, but it is important to recognize the importance of America’s working families as well. America’s greatest natural resource is the American people. We are talking about people who want to work, are willing to work, are looking for work, and yet cannot find a job. The Employment Impact Act will force Washington bureaucrats to realize Americans are much more interested in growing our Nation’s economy than they are in growing our government.

I am going to continue to fight to see that the Employment Impact Act is passed and signed into law to help get Americans working again.

I yield the floor. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. THUNE. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum be suspended.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. THUNE. Madam President, I wish to echo the comments made by my colleague from Wyoming regarding regulations. That is something I hear from small businesses all across South Dakota, traveling my State during the month of August. I toured businesses, and I visited with farmers and ranchers and small businesses. That was a recent trip. I also continued to bring up unsolicited. When you asked them questions about what can be done to help create jobs, to get them investing and putting their capital to work, that was the overwhelming response. It came back literally every single time, that businesses are concerned about the over-reaching regulations coming out of Washington, DC, and the economic uncertainty that it creates. Part of it just has to do with the predictability that businesses need in order to make long-term investment decisions. If they do not know what is going to happen next in Washington, DC, it makes it awfully hard for them to plan. So as a consequence of that, we see billions of dollars, trillions of dollars, sitting on the sidelines right now that could be invested and could be put to work, could be getting people back to work in this country.

Last week we all listened with great interest as the President came out to a joint session of Congress and made a speech about a jobs plan. He talked about passing this jobs plan. He has an inability to travel the country making that same argument. What was interesting to me about that proposal—and, of course, the speech itself was sufficiently vague. It was very difficult to know exactly what was in that proposal, where more of those details now are coming to light. It sounded eerily similar to the very same proposal we voted on a couple of years ago in the Senate. It ultimately became law. It was called the stimulus bill. It had a price tag of nearly $1 trillion. The assertions made at the time were along the lines that if we passed this it would keep unemployment below 8 percent. We know employment is over 9 percent, and since that stimulus bill was passed we have lost 1.7 million jobs. The President said he would travel the country to tell him how their own actions will affect the job creators in our country. To make things worse, the people of South Dakota and the issue to which the Senator from Wyoming was just speaking; that is, the issue of over-regulation that we keep hearing from our businesses across this country, the job creators in our economy.

It strikes me, if the President is serious about actually doing something that would create jobs in this country, it ought to involve putting policies in place that will be conducive toward long-term economic growth to provide the economic certainty these small businesses are asking for. Right now there is uncertainty with regard to taxes. Tax rates are at least 40 percent now until 2012, but beyond that is anybody’s guess. There is a concern, of course, that any proposal coming out of Washington right now that deals with deficit reduction might include higher taxes. That certainly is something the President put on the table yesterday as a proposed way to pay for his new stimulus bill.

There is this repeated and consistent assault upon small businesses in the form of more regulations. The President backed off of the ozone regulations, which is something that everybody reacted very favorably toward in the business community and people I talked to. But there are so many other regulations that are out there: the CO₂ emission regulation, appropriated dust regulation, the change in the classification for coal ash. There are all kinds of regulations—particularly out of the EPA, but not exclusively the EPA—by the regulatory agencies that are creating greater uncertainty and making it more difficult and more costly for small businesses to create jobs. So why not focus on that issue? Why not focus on getting the free-trade agreements?

There were three free-trade agreements essentially negotiated in the previous administration. They are languishing because they have not been submitted to Congress for ratification. The President talks about free trade and creating jobs through exports. We had three free-trade agreements in 2006 and 2007. Colombia was 2006. Panama and Korea were June of 2007. The President said: I want Congress to approve these agreements.

We cannot do that until he submits them to the Congress. We would love to approve those free-trade agreements. It would mean thousands of jobs in this economy. We know that. It is low-hanging fruit. There is something we could do today that is something positive to actually create jobs in this country.

Just as an example, in my State of South Dakota in 2008, the top three crops were corn, wheat, and soybeans. In those commodities we had 5 percent of the market in the country of Colombia. In 2010 that had dropped off to 1 percent. It is a major collapse in our market share in that country simply because we have not ratified this free-trade agreement, and in the interim we have had other countries that have moved in and filled the vacuum.

Most recently the Canadians, on August 15, I think, had their own bilateral trade agreement with Colombia. We may not have that market share if we do not act quickly to get the free-trade agreements approved. It is not a function of us wanting to do it; it is a function of the President submitting those agreements to Congress for ratification. We cannot vote on and ratify those trade agreements, put them into effect, and get them implemented absent the President of the United States sending them to Capitol Hill. That is something on which Republicans would love to work with the President.

We want to work with the President on a moratorium on regulations. I think it would make perfect sense, given what we know about what small businesses are telling us in terms of creating jobs and hiring people and investing capital, that regulations is this huge impediment to that. So why not—at least for the foreseeable future, until such time as we start getting this unemployment rate down and get people back to work—put a moratorium on all these crazy out-of-control regulations coming out of Washington, DC?

There are literally millions of jobs that are impacted by these various regulations according to estimates that have been put forward by organizations such as the chamber of commerce and others. There are millions of jobs in this country impacted by the issue of regulation. I would think it would make perfect sense for this President to say: This is the package, his job plan: We want to work with you to put a moratorium on regulations for a 2-year period, until the end of his term in office—whatever that period is—but at least some amount of time so businesses know with some certainty that if they invest their dollars, they are not going to be slapped with some new regulation coming out of Washington, DC.

There was a story just this morning about 500 jobs lost in the State of Texas over a new EPA regulation. We have seen examples of that in my State of South Dakota. We have had coal-fired powerplants that have been nixed simply because of this uncertainty that has been created by regulations coming out of Washington, DC. That is something that Republicans on Capitol Hill—if the President wants to be proactive in terms of job creation and actually having a forward-looking proposal and a plan for job creation, he would certainly get cooperation from lots of folks on our side of the aisle when it comes to the issue of regulations.

Another thing we would be more than happy to work with the President on is broad-based and comprehensive tax reform. We all talk about it, and nobody seems to be willing, at least from the President’s perspective, to put forward a proposal that would actually broaden the tax base in this country, lower the rates on businesses and individuals. I think it would lead to an enormous amount of economic growth. Most people and businesses I talk to suggest that right now in America the complexity in the Tax Code, the rates in our Tax Code, make us anti-competitive.

We lose jobs every single day to other countries around the world that have lower tax rates. Businesses are taking their capital and investing it overseas, creating jobs overseas, and are opposed to putting it in our country because our rates are not competitive. Our corporate tax rate at 35 percent is the second highest in the world. We are second only to Japan, and they were going to lower theirs prior to the tsunami.

The fact is, we have tax rates in America today that are making it very difficult for our businesses to compete and to keep those jobs and keep that investment in this country.

What can we do about that? Well, if we had broad-based tax reductions on individuals and small businesses in this country, lowered taxes on investment, I think we would see an explosion of economic growth and get these businesses and that certainty associated with that. In other words, we don’t do it for a short period of time, we do it for a long period of time. If we do that, we will see businesses pick up on that signal from Washington, DC, and begin to invest again and get a rate structure that is competitive with other countries around the world.

Tax reform, regulations, regulatory reform, a moratorium on regulations, trade, those are all issues that we are more than willing to work with this President on if he is willing to work with us because the numbers have proven over time that actually will create jobs. Again, they are the things we consistently hear.

I dare to say that my colleagues on the other side of the aisle are hearing the same thing I am hearing. I hear it from colleagues on my side who are repeatedly visited by small businesses in their travels in their individual States, and when they go to make contact with their small businesses they hear this back and forth. These are the issues the American business communities are saying we need to address to get people back to work in this country.

I am certainly hopeful the President will change directions away from what he is proposing to do now, which is a very similar path to what was done 2 years ago, which we all know has been unsuccessful. If we look at it based upon the metrics—and, again, I am talking about job creation. If we look at it based upon the employment rate, the unemployment rate has gone up. The number of jobs lost has gone up. The amount of our debt has gone up by $1 trillion. We have borrowed more, we are spending more, and they are getting nothing in return—in fact, the very opposite of what we hope to get; that is, job creation. That approach has not worked.

Let’s not double down on that and go back and try the same failed policies again. Let’s change direction. Let’s go in a different direction for this country, and I would hope the President would do that.

Another thing that I think is particularly troubling about his proposal—not to mention some of the things that he put out in his speech last week that give me a good amount of heartburn in terms of the direction he is headed—is how he proposes to pay for that. It was indicated yesterday that 90 percent of the cost of this stimulus bill would be paid for by allowing or preventing people from taking deductions—the two top income tax rates in this country and those are in those income tax brackets, to be able to claim deductions on their tax returns.

Well, that impacts millions of Americans and millions of job creators, millions of small businesses, not to mention a lot of charities. Many of the people who contribute to charities today don’t do it simply because of the tax consequence, but the amount they contribute to a charity is affected by the Tax Code, and that amount they can deduct is going to make it more difficult for many of our charitable organizations that rely upon the generosity of people. In many cases these are high-income people in this country.

That being said, raising taxes, in my view, is not the way to pay for a new stimulus, a stimulus 2.0, an approach that I have long and elsewhere said something we should not be moving toward, but moving away from, and moving in a different direction.

Again, we have no greater priority in America today than getting this economy growing, creating jobs, getting people back to work. That helps bring in more revenue in the Federal Government and helps deal with our issue of the deficit and the debt. There are two ways we can deal with that: We can reduce spending, and we can grow the economy. We have to do both.

Certainly, those are not unrelated. When we reduce spending, that is essential to growing the economy. We also have to put policies in place that will grow the economy and create jobs. Raising taxes is not the way to do that, and so the President’s proposal to pay for his new stimulus bill which raises taxes on people is a wrongheaded approach that has not worked in the past. It will not work in the future. We need to try something new.

Republicans are willing, ready, and able to work with this President on passing trade agreements that have been languishing around here, literally, for 4 to 5 years; on reducing the overreach of the regulatory agencies, which are creating economic uncertainty for our small businesses across this country; and on tax reform that would lower rates and broaden the tax base and bring in an incredible explosion of economic growth and jobs.

Those are the types of things we ought to be looking at—long-term policies that will affect in a positive way the environment, the atmosphere for our job creators, not doing another Washington-directed spending program that has already demonstrated that it doesn’t work.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. PyyyyMMdd). The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the question be rescinded.

SYRIA

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, the world has witnessed considerable upheaval across the Middle East this year as citizens from all walks of life have turned out by millions to say enough to repressive regimes, stagnant political systems, and a lack of economic opportunities.

In fact, we should probably look back to the summer of 2009 when thousands of ordinary Iranians bravely took to the streets to peacefully protest the country’s likely stolen election. These Iranian citizens were met with brutal violence, death, detention, and unspeakable torture.

While Iran’s ruling dictatorship was able to temporarily repress the public aspirations of its own people, the seeds for what would later erupt were taking root through much of the region.

First, in Tunisia we saw peaceful protests lead to the ousting of corrupt, long-time strongman President Ben Ali.

Next, Egyptian President Mubarak resigned following sustained peaceful protests in Cairo and elsewhere in Egypt.

And certainly Muammar Qaddafi’s reign of erratic and despotic rule is nearing an end. Other popular calls for political and economic reform from Bahrain to Yemen remain in flux.

And as we saw this weekend with the violent and very troubling protests breaching the Israeli Embassy in Cairo, ousting a repressive regime is only one step on a long road toward building effective long-term democratic and economic institutions.

The United States stands ready to support these peaceful transitions, but for that vision to come from within—from the people who made such historic change possible.

Amid so much upheaval and potential hope, it is critically important that we also keep our attention on what is happening in another very important country in the Middle East—Syria.

Since March, millions of protestors have peacefully taken to the streets of towns and villages across Syria demanding an end to the brutal dictatorship of the Assad family.

The Syrian people have suffered 40 years of economic hardship, political repression, and corruption under the Assad family—first under former President Hafez al-Assad and now under his son, Bashar al-Assad.

Let me give an example of life under the Assad regimes.

Almost 30 years ago, then-President Hafez al-Assad ruthlessly leveled a portion of the town of Hama to put down a rebellion by his own people.

Between 10,000 and 20,000 fellow Syrians were literally buried to death in the rubble.

This is how political dissent was dealt with in Syria.

And what has been his son’s strategy for addressing public demands for change while reform is sweeping the rest of the region? Tragically, the same as his father—mass murder.

Since the popular uprising began, an estimated 2,000 people have already been slaughtered by Assad’s security services.

Government snipers on rooftops have fired on those who dare to go outside in areas where protesters are active. Men have been rounded up and detained in nighttime house-to-house raids. Tanks and anti-aircraft guns have been used against civilians and civilian buildings.

A recent example—sadly one that is not at all unique—obviously shows that the current Assad regime has no sense of history.

Last month government troops backed by tanks, armored vehicles, and snipers entered the heart of Hama—the same town of Hama that had been flattened by Assad’s father three decades earlier—to quash antigovernment protesters.

Our dedicated U.S. Ambassador Robert Ford had gone to Hama not long before the siege to serve as witness to the unfolding events.

I wish to show this photo, which shows a giant Syrian flag held by the crowd during a protest against President Assad in the city of Hama on July 29.

The town—already under siege for days—saw its telephone, water, and electricity cut off at 5 a.m. as a prelude to the deployment.

Residents tried to stop the advancing armored columns with barricades made of them built of furniture, iron railing, rocks, and cinderblocks—but stood little chance.

Dozens were killed and hundreds wounded.

Such public resilience and government brutality have continued unabated in Syria for months.

President Assad’s tyrannical actions have been condemned around the world. The Arab League, not always known for its democratic advocacy, has urged Syria to “end the spilling of blood and follow the way of reason before it is too late.”

Syria’s neighbor and significant trading partner Turkey has spoken out. Turkish President Gul said he has “lost confidence” in the Syrian government. Prime Minister Erdogan has said, “Turkey can no longer defend Syria.”

British Prime Minister Cameron, French President Sarkozy and German Chancellor Merkel jointly issued a statement urging Assad to “face the reality of the complete rejection of his regime by the Syrian people and to step aside in the best interests of Syria and the unity of its people.”

The United Nations human rights office in Geneva has issued a sweeping report concluding that the Syrian government might have committed crimes against humanity through summary executions, torture, and by harming children.

President Obama and Secretary of State Clinton have sharply criticized the Syrian government’s crackdown from the start, and most recently the Administration announced additional sanctions against the regime, including those squeezing Assad’s cash lifeline from petroleum exports. The European Union also cut its purchase of Syrian petroleum.

Senators Gillibrand and Lieberman have introduced legislation—legislation I am pleased to support—that further tightens sanctions against Syria’s
Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

Mr. WEBB. Mr. President, I rise to express my congratulations and best wishes to the people of South Boston, MA, as they honor their community’s long tradition of service to country on the 30th anniversary of the South Boston Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

Thirty years ago, on September 13, 1981, the people of South Boston, led by their own citizens who had served in the Vietnam war, became one of the first communities in the United States to build and dedicate a permanent memorial in honor of those who had given their lives in Vietnam.

I was privileged to be a speaker at the original dedication of the memorial, and I am honored to be returning to South Boston this year in order to once again pay tribute to those who served.

It is difficult for many of the generation that followed us to understand how bitterly our country had been divided by that war and how long it took to overcome if not resolve the divisions, often along class lines, that were left in its wake.

Russia and China should also pledge not to purchase any surplus Syrian oil which is used by Assad to pay off his enablers and security henchmen.

Human rights monitors, humanitarian workers, and journalists must be allowed in the country.

And the International Criminal Court should look into indicting President Bashar al-Assad and his regime for war crimes.

This administration has shown great willingness to engage the turbulent call for change in the Middle East.

These are demands from everyday people for a better life, for a chance to freely choose one’s government, and to see hope and dignity for one’s children.

The people of Syria should know that the rest of the world is watching and supporting their aspirations for freedom.

Saturday night in a suburb of Chicago I had a meeting with about 30 Syrian Americans, and we spoke at great length about the situation in the country of their birth. Many of them still have relatives, family, and friends, in Syria, and they are following on YouTube and through the international media the events of the day. They showed me one of the computer screen shots of the YouTube footage which showed the Syrian security forces literally shooting a man dead, point blank. You could see him lying in the street, and you could see the blood flowing from his body.

To suggest that these peaceful protesters are anything else is to misstate the obvious. These people, by and large, in the streets of Syria are asking for the same thing that was asked for across the Middle East. They are asking for a chance for reform, for change, for self-rule.

I promised my friends and people I represent in Illinois who have such strong feelings about Syria that I would do my best when I returned to Washington this week. This floor statement is just the beginning.

A few moments ago, I got off the telephone, having had a phone conversation with Ambassador Ford, who is in Damascus. He has done an exceptional job for our country. He has risked his life to let those who are protesting peacefully know that the United States is in their corner. We talked about the situation on the ground. He is a man of great talent and experience in the Middle East, and he analyzed all the different forces at work.

We know that Iran is, in fact, the major supporter and promoter of Assad and his repressive regime. We know, as well, that these five countries in the United Nations—Russia, India, China, Brazil, and South Africa—are stopping the United Nations action when it comes to Syria. I find it hard to imagine how countries, in light of their own history, could ignore the obvious: the killing of innocent people in the streets of Syria. It cannot be tolerated, should not be condoned, and should not be protected by their veto in the United Nations.

I am going to work with President Obama and this administration and my friends in Congress on both sides of the aisle to let the people of Syria know that what is happening there has not been ignored by the U.S. Congress. I hope Senator RAND PAUL of Kentucky will at least lift his hold on bipartisan legislation which we have pending here which will express that sentiment in the strongest of terms.

The people of Syria deserve that message, to know that the people of the United States, through their elected representatives in the Senate, understand their plight, stand behind them, and will work to bring justice to their country.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

REMEMBERING 9/11

Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, I rise today on this most moving and memorable of occasions after we as a nation joined together to mark the solemn 10th anniversary of the attacks on September 11, 2001. Throughout my home State of Maine and across this great land, Americans are uniting as one nation indivisible as we pause to remember with the heaviest of hearts the tragedy that befell our nation 10 years ago—a morning that changed America—and Americans—forever.

We are all a different people in America—no matter our faith or ancestry—as a horrific cataclysm from 9/11 that are ingrained upon the landscape of our consciousness for all time. We all know where we were and what we were doing at the precise time they happened. As many of us remember the assassination of President Kennedy, and some Pearl Harbor, our children will remember this day.

As we recall, that morning began with such remarkable blue skies, but ended with a Nation in mourning and stunned disbelief. In Washington, DC, I watched the images along with the rest of the world. Later, as the Sun set over the National Mall—still capped by Stone and mortar, tougher than steel American spirit that is stronger than humanity. And so, we venerate the sacrifices of our fallen comrades, and look to our future with a new resolve to help keep this country safe.

As I gathered with Mainers across our State, I could not help but feel that inescapable, palpable sense of patriotism that waseses of one of the largest flags that flew over the wreckage at Ground Zero. When our beloved banner of freedom arrived at the U.S. Capitol on July 14, I cannot begin to convey the sense of honor and privilege I experienced in being selected to contribute to our share in this event with first responders, 9/11 families, and veterans made this moment one I will treasure, always.

This expression of love for our homeland speaks to the inescapable belief that our strength as a nation has always emanated not from Washington, but from the people themselves—from tireless patriots of their own volition performing the most extraordinary of deeds.

Rioters like the exemplary Freeport Flag Ladies—Elaine Greene, Carmen Penland and JoAnn Robison—have waved American flags on Main Street every Tuesday morning, rain, shine, snow, or shine, since 9-11 in tribute to those who have sacrificed for all of us—our brave servicemen and women and our first responders. It was the highest of honors for me to join them early Sunday morning on Main Street in Freeport to wave flags on the 10th anniversary.

As we remember the brave and valiant heroes who were then and will forever be shining testaments to the very best of who we are as a nation. And so, today, we memorialize those whose lives were stilled on September 11, and in the same time, we cannot help but extol the courage and indomitable spirit they exhibited.

It was an unmistakable message to the world that we would never be deterred—that our freedoms could never be crushed by the cowardly instruments of terror that are no match against a resilient people. From certain in the knowledge that good ultimately triumphs over evil.

What better symbol could there be of our mettle as a people than the historic National 9/11 Flag initiative. Americans across our country are stitching together the tattered remnants of one of the largest flags that emerged. When the alarm went off in fire stations across New York, firefighters were changing shifts. If they were on the way home, they turned around and stuck the flag up at the firehouse, getting ready to leave, they stayed. Some were retired—veterans already at home—and they reported in. Many were to find themselves climbing higher and higher in those great silver towers toward a fate that must have become clearer with every step.

Their valiant service and sacrifice are also a vivid reminder of the remarkable men and women exceptional enough to don our country's uniform to serve and defend our nation. Whether on our shores or soil here at home or around the globe, their steadfast sense of duty and love of country are an inspiration to us all, their commitment fortifies our will, and their professionalism steadies our hands in an uncertain world.

As I gathered with Mainers across our State, I could not help but feel that our strength as a nation has always been shining testaments to the very best of who we are as a nation. And so, we venerate the American spirit that is stronger than humanity and yet out of these atrocities emerged heroes who were then and will forever be shining testaments to the very best of who we are as a nation. And so, today, we memorialize those whose lives were stilled on September 11, and in the same time, we cannot help but extol the courage and indomitable spirit they exhibited.

It was the highest of honors for me to join them early Sunday morning on Main Street in Freeport to wave flags on the 10th anniversary.

Amid the trials and tribulations that this date in our history evokes, we take solace in the sacred truth that none of us grieves alone—that there are no strangers among us, only Americans. Indeed, out of the rubble rose our resolve, out of despair grew our determination, and out of the hate that was perpetrated upon us proudly stood our humanity. And so, we venerate the American spirit that is stronger than humanity and yet out of these atrocities emerged heroes who were then and will forever be shining testaments to the very best of who we are as a nation. And so, today, we memorialize those whose lives were stilled on September 11, and in the same time, we cannot help but extol the courage and indomitable spirit they exhibited.

though justice was finally rendered, the unending pain of loved ones lost does not ease with the passing of years, and yet out of these atrocities emerged heroes who were then and will forever be shining testaments to the very best of who we are as a nation. And so, today, we memorialize those whose lives were stilled on September 11, and in the same time, we cannot help but extol the courage and indomitable spirit they exhibited.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

COMMUNITY SHARES OF COLORADO

- Mr. BENNET. Mr. President, today I wish to recognize Community Shares of Colorado, a philanthropic organization that is celebrating 25 years of supporting Colorado’s communities. In its years of service, Community Shares has demonstrated a tireless commitment to supporting Colorado’s nonprofit organizations. I believe philanthropy should not be restricted to the most affluent, but rather should be extended to include anyone and all who are willing to give. Using this approach, they have brought together average gifts of $5 a week for a total of nearly $20 million in support of more than 100 nonprofits.

Furthermore, Community Shares has recently begun a program entitled “My Colorado Project” aimed at encouraging our kids and young Coloradans to develop the habits of philanthropy and social responsibility. This innovative program expands traditional donation to include elements of social media and creates an engaging virtual community that involves our young, emerging philanthropists in supporting their communities and causes they care about with a geographic, age-accessible online tool.

The organizations that Community Shares supports are local and dedicated to the issues that define Colorado, from protecting our abundant natural resources to improving health care and promoting community leadership.

I join the State of Colorado in thanking the staff of this organization for their hard work and dedication, and I look forward to its continued success.

MUSIC IN THE MOUNTAINS

- Mr. BENNET. Mr. President, today I recognize the 25th anniversary season of Music in the Mountains, a nonprofit classical music festival held in Durango, CO. This festival began in 1987 when Maestro Mischa Seminetsky assembled 11 musicians and offered 5 chamber music performances. Under the strong and capable leadership of executive director Susan Lander and current board president Terry Bacon, the festival has grown to more than 220 musicians, many of whom are esteemed first chairs from orchestras across the country and a number of world renowned soloists. The festival now offers nearly thirty orchestral and chamber performances as well as a number of nontraditional musical events.

In addition the festival includes a conservatory program that provides musical training and mentoring for up to 100 young musicians from around the world. In 2000 Mischa Seminetsky and then-board president Ann Flatten began the Music in the Mountains Goes to School Program to reach out to local school children for instructional sessions and miniconcerts. Since then Music in the Mountains have become a regular partner with local schools in Durango offering a variety of teaching programs and activities during the school year that impact the life of hundreds of young students.

This festival is remarkable in any community; I take particular pride in its being held in Durango, a town of 14,000 residents in the southwestern corner of Colorado. The festival is a key component of southwest Colorado’s summertime economy providing important economic benefits for the region. Most of the performances are held at the Durango Mountain Ski Resort, a stunningly beautiful resort north of Durango in the San Juan Mountains and an enchanting place to listen to world class music. I congratulate Music in the Mountains and all the volunteers, musicians and community leaders who have made this festival a brilliant success over the last 25 years.

MAINE MILITARY FUNERAL HONORS PROGRAM

- Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, today I recognize the contribution of the Maine Military Funeral Honors Program of the Army National Guard. The soldiers in this exceptional program perform military honors at the funerals for Maine’s fallen warriors and veterans. They pay tribute to the men and women who have served our Nation, and provide comfort and dignity to the families during their time of loss.

On August 27, the Maine Military Funeral Honors Program performed its seven thousandth military funeral, a duty they have carried out since October 2004. Since that time, approximately 30 highly skilled and carefully selected soldiers of the Maine Military Funeral Honors Program have performed funerals for all of Maine’s soldiers who have been killed in action, as well as funerals for veterans of every era, including one in July 2010 for a Civil War Veteran, William Wallace Clark, whose remains were recovered in July 2009 from an unmarked grave beside that of his wife. The team performed 424 military funerals in its first year, and this year they will perform over 1,900—sadly more than 3 funerals per day for over World War II veterans are leaving us.

The soldiers of the Maine Military Funeral Honors Program proudly and respectfully render final honors for our fallen soldiers, marines, and present, from Fort Kent to Kittery, in the swelling heat or the bitter cold. They never break military bearing and conform to the same exacting standards that are expected of all honor guards across the county, including those at Arlington National Cemetery.

The Maine Military Funeral Honors Program provides services to 96 percent of the Army veteran population in the State of Maine, a remarkable achievement unmatched by any other State. This year, the program will likely achieve 100 percent. As they continue to meet the growing number of requests to honor those who have answered the call to serve, I urge you to be impressed by this exceptional program’s dedication to honoring Maine’s fallen Army veterans. On the occasion of their seven thousandth military funeral, it is an honor for me to pay homage to those whose sacrifice and dedicated service to the best Maine and America have to offer.

BONNEVILLE COUNTY, IDAHO

- Mr. CRAPO. Mr. President, my colleague Senator Jim Risch joins me today in recognizing Bonneville County’s 100-year anniversary.

Established on February 7, 1911, by the Idaho Legislature, Bonneville County was formed out of Bingham County in eastern Idaho, along the Wyoming border. Bonneville County was named for CPT Benjamin Bonneville, an explorer in the U.S. Army, who was an explorer and fur trapper in the area in the 1830s.

Home to more than 100,000 Idahoans in an area of nearly 2,000 square miles, the county has diverse geography and industry. It is Idaho’s fourth largest county and includes the six incorporated cities of Idaho Falls, Ucon, Iona, Ammon, Swan Valley, and Irwin. Outside of these cities, the county has many beautiful natural features, including the Snake River, Palisades Reservoir, Caribou National Forest, Grays Lake National Wildlife Refuge, and Targhee National Forest. Family farmers produce an abundance of agricultural products, including grain, livestock, fruits and vegetables, floriculture, and poultry, throughout the county. Bonneville County also leads the nation in energy research and development through the Idaho National Laboratory, the Center for Advanced Energy Studies, and the AREVA Eagle Rock Enrichment Facility.

Bonneville County residents have much to celebrate with 100 years of accomplishments. The work of the Bonneville County Heritage Association and volunteers to organize events observing this milestone, including the centennial Gala Celebration in November, is commendable. Many people have worked hard to make this celebration possible.

I was blessed to grow up and together with my wife raise our children in Bonneville County, where we experienced firsthand the exceptionalism of the people and the communities of the county.

Senator Risch and I are proud to recognize this landmark anniversary. We congratulate Bonneville County residents for this centennial, and we wish its communities many more years of success.
SECURITY STATE BANK

Mr. KOHL. Mr. President, today I wish to recognize the 100th anniversary of Security State Bank. I am honored to have the opportunity to celebrate this extraordinary milestone.

For over a century, Security State Bank has provided its customers with the highest quality banking services. Since 1911, this locally owned institution has grown substantially and continues to promote economic growth throughout northern Wisconsin. Furthermore, Security State Bank has demonstrated an incredible commitment to service, which is crucial to the communities and employees it serves. Under the leadership of the bank’s chairman and president, Mr. Willard Ogren, Security State Bank has prospered, further cementing its reputation as a fine lending institution but, more importantly, as a community leader dedicated to promoting financial stability and improvement.

I have both personal and professional admiration for independent banks that are focused on strengthening communities in both the best and worst economic times. For more than 100 years, Security State Bank has embodied the importance of building strong local connections.

It is for this commitment to providing every customer with the highest quality banking services and for their crucial role in community improvement that I am proud to recognize this occasion and 100 years of service that Security State Bank has provided to the people of the State of Wisconsin.

CENTENNIAL OP MADISON COLLEGE

Mr. KOHL. Mr. President, I am honored to have the opportunity to congratulate Madison College on its centennial celebration marking 100 years of providing high quality education to students in my State.

Wisconsin was the first State to establish schools for technical and vocational education. Madison College, founded in 1912 as the Madison Continuation School, was opened to provide vocational education to students who dropped out of school. School administrators also targeted adult workers to help them maintain and flourish in their current jobs and also work toward obtaining new ones by providing the classes to help them do so. Throughout the years, Madison College tailored its educational role by responding to the Great Depression with increased craft specialty offerings, such as millinery and woodworking, and later in the post–World War II era, with the help of Federal funding, by honing workers’ skills necessary for wartime jobs.

The focus and plan to ensure that every person gets a high-quality education remain true today at this fine institution. Currently, Madison College operates 12 locations in Madison and 4 regional campuses throughout a 12-county district in order to offer a wide variety of educational opportunities to the greatest number of students possible. Today, Madison College continues to add new programs, such as biotechnology and renewable energy, to keep up with the 21st century and continue to live up to their mission.

For a century of service I commend Madison College and recognize the faculty, students, alumni, and communities they call home. In these tough economic times, access to high-quality education and workforce development are critically important to our State and country finding our way to better financial times. Madison College has stood the test of time as well as economic cycles. I am honored to recognize Madison College on its centennial celebration and for all it has done for the State of Wisconsin and its citizens.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS

The following petitions and memorials were laid before the Senate and were referred or ordered to lie on the table as indicated:

POM–61. A resolution adopted by the Commission of Wayne County of the State of Michigan, relative to the operation of an interconnected network of high-speed trains and expanded Amtrak service as a key to economic development, job creation and fuel consumption reduction; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

POM–62. A joint resolution adopted by the Senate of the State of California urging Congress to enact federal legislation to modernize the federal Toxic Substances Control Act of 1976 by strengthening chemical management through specified policy reforms; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 3

Whereas, children and pregnant women are uniquely vulnerable to the health threats of toxic chemicals, and early life chemical exposures have been linked to chronic disease later in life; and

Whereas, a growing body of peer-reviewed scientific evidence links exposure to toxic chemicals to many diseases and health conditions that are rising in incidence, including childhood leukemia, cancer, heart disease, breast cancer, learning and developmental disabilities, infertility, and obesity; and...
Whereas, the President’s Cancer Panel report released in May 2010 states “the true burden of environmentally induced cancers has been grossly underestimated,” and the panel concluded “that the United States “to use the power of your office to remove the carcinogens and other toxins from our food, water, and air, that needlessly increase our cancer risk, cripple our economy’s productivity, and devastate American lives”;

Whereas, workers in a range of industries are exposed to toxic chemicals which pose threats to their health, increasing worker absenteeism, workers’ compensation claims, and health care costs that burden the economy;

Whereas, a recent national poll found that 78 percent of American voters were seriously concerned about the threat to children’s health from exposure to toxic chemicals in day-to-day life; and

Whereas, states bear an undue burden from toxic chemicals, including health care costs and environmental damages, disadvantaging businesses that lack information on chemicals in their supply chain, and increasing demands for state regulation;

Whereas, when TSCA was passed, about 62,000 chemicals in commerce were “grandfathered in” without any required testing for health and safety hazards or any restrictions on usage; and

Whereas, in the 35 years since the enactment of TSCA, the EPA has required chemical companies to regulate about 200 of those chemicals for health hazards not previously issued partial restrictions on only five chemicals; and

Whereas, follow-on TSCA has been widely recognized as ineffective and obsolete due to legal and procedural hurdles that prevent the EPA from taking quick and effective regulatory action to protect the public against well-known chemical threats; and

Whereas, a strong uniform federal standard would be beneficial to both consumers and businesses.

Whereas, in January 2009, the United States General Accounting Office (GAO) added the EPA’s regulatory program for assessing toxic chemicals to its list of “high risk” government programs that are not working as intended, finding that the EPA has been unable to complete assessments of chemicals of the highest concern. The EPA requires additional authority from Congress to create incentives for chemical companies to demonstrate the safety of their products. TSCA does not provide sufficient chemical safety data for public use by consumers, businesses, and workers to create incentives for companies to develop safer alternatives; and

Whereas, the National Conference of State Legislatures unanimously adopted a resolution in July 2009 that articulated principles for the reform of TSCA and called on Congress to act to update the law; and

Whereas, in August 2010, the Environmental Council of the States (ECOS), the national association of state environmental agency directors, unanimously adopted a resolution criticizing the “Toxic Substances Control Act,” which endorsed specific policy reforms; and

Whereas, ten states have come together to launch Chemicals Clearinghouse (IC2) to coordinate state chemical information management programs, and a coalition of 13 states issued guiding principles for TSCA reform; and

Whereas, seventy-one state laws on chemical safety have been enacted and signed into law in 16 states over the last eight years; and

Whereas, California’s policy leadership on chemical management, although outstanding, cannot substitute for congressional leadership to reform TSCA, a reform which all parties agree is urgently needed; and

Whereas, TSCA is the only major federal environmental statute that has never been updated or reauthorized; and

Whereas, legislation to substantially re-form TSCA during the 109th, 110th, Congresses, and again in the 111th Congress in 2010; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and the Assembly of the State of California, jointly, That the California State Legislature urges the President and the 112th Congress of the United States to enact federal legislation to modernize the federal Toxic Substances Control Act of 1976 by strengthening chemical management through policy reforms that would do all of the following:

(a) Require producers and importers to perform comprehensive toxicity testing on their products and to fully disclose the results of their testing;

(b) Require producers and importers to disclose the identities of chemicals in their products;

(c) Require immediate action to reduce or eliminate the worst chemicals, including persistent, bioaccumulative, and toxic chemicals, which are known as PBTs, and other priority chemicals, to which there is already widespread exposure.

(d) Preserve the authority of state and tribal governments to operate chemical management programs that are more protective than the programs established by the federal government.

(e) Establish health safety standards for chemicals that rely on the best available science to protect the most vulnerable, including children and the developing fetus.

(f) Support those chemical manufacturers that are striving to establish that all existing and new chemicals are not harmful to human health, and to provide essential health and safety information on chemicals to inform the market, consumers, and the public.

(g) Reward innovation by fast-tracking the approval of new, demonstrably safer chemicals, and incentivizing chemical research and workforce development to boost American business and spur jobs making safer alternatives.

(h) Promote environmental justice by developing action plans to reduce disproportionate exposure to toxic chemicals in “hot spots” communities;

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate transmit copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Senate of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, to each Senator, to the President and Representative from California in the Congress of the United States, and to the author for appropriate distribution.

By Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota:

S. 1547. A bill to reauthorize the Export-Import Bank of the United States, and for other purposes; from the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs; placed on the calendar.

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota, Mr. President, rise up to speak about the Export-Import Bank. Earlier today, I filed the Export-Import Bank Reauthorization Act of 2011. This legislation was approved unanimously by the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs last Thursday.

This legislation will ensure that the Bank remains able to continue to provide support for U.S. exporters and workers. The bill authorizes the Export-Import Bank for 4 years, and will increase the Bank’s lending authority to $140 billion by 2015. It also strengthens transparency and accountability at the Bank, seeks to modernize the Bank’s IT, encourages the Bank to increase projects designed to create renewable energies, and provides for greater oversight of the Bank’s financing and any risks it might have to taxpayers.

The Bank’s current authorization expires on September 30, 2011, and I hope that this legislation will pass as soon as possible to ensure that the Bank continues to operate.

The Export-Import Bank is the official export credit agency of the United States and it assists in financing the export of U.S. goods and services to international markets. Following the financial crisis, the Bank experienced a significant increase in activities as many companies struggled to find financing in the private market. In Fiscal Year 2010, the Bank saw a 70 percent increase in authorizations from 2008. In fact, last year the Bank completed almost $25 billion in support of U.S. exports—a record.

The Bank has been self-funding since 2008, regularly returning millions of dollars each year to the Treasury. This is a testament to the Bank’s leadership under Chairman Fred Hochberg, as well as the good work of the dedicated staff and Board of the Bank.

All of the Bank’s transactions are backed by the full faith and credit of the United States. Therefore, I am pleased that this legislation will help ensure that the Bank is working as efficiently and effectively as possible to ensure that this legislation will pass as soon as possible to do more. I believe this legislation will help the Bank reach that goal.

This bill is a bipartisan effort and I thank Senator SHELBY for his support. In addition, I thank Senator WARNER, the Chairman of the Subcommittee on Security and International Trade and Finance, Senator BENNET and Senator HAGAN for their extremely important input into this legislation. I urge all my colleagues to support the bill.

By Mr. REID (by request):

S. 1549. A bill to provide tax relief for American workers and businesses, to put workers back on the job while retraining for jobs, and to provide pathways back to work for Americans looking for jobs; read the first time.
Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1549

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

(a) Reservation.—From the amount appropriated to carry out this subtitle under section 212, the Secretary—

(1) shall reserve up to one-half of one percent to provide assistance to the outer areas on the basis of their respective needs, as determined by the Secretary, for activities consistent with this part under such terms and conditions as the Secretary may determine;

(2) shall reserve up to one-half of one percent to provide assistance to the Secretary of the Interior; and

(3) may reserve up to $2,000,000 for administration and oversight of this part, including program evaluation.

(b) Availability of Funds.—Funds made available under section 212 shall remain available to the Secretary until September 30, 2012.

SEC. 204. STATE ALLOCATION.

(a) Allocation.—After reserving funds under section 203(a), the Secretary shall allocate to the States—

(1) 60 percent on the basis of their relative population of individuals aged 5 through 17; and

(2) 40 percent on the basis of their relative total population.

(b) Awards.—From the funds allocated under subsection (a), the Secretary shall make a grant to the Governor of each State who submits an approvable application under section 214.

(c) Alternate Distribution of Funds.—If, on the date of enactment of this Act, a Governor has not submitted an approvable application to the Secretary, the Secretary shall, consistent with paragraph (2), provide for funds allocated to that State to be distributed to another entity or entities in the State for the support of early childhood, elementary, and secondary education, subject to such terms and conditions as the Secretary may establish.

(2) Maintenance of Effort.—

(A) Governor Assurance.—The Secretary shall not make grants under paragraph (1) unless the Governor of the State provides an assurance to the Secretary that the State will for fiscal years 2012 and 2013 meet the requirements of section 209(a) or the Secretary otherwise determines that the State will meet those requirements, or such requirements as the Secretary may establish.

(3) Requirements.—An entity that receives funds under paragraph (1) shall use those funds in accordance with the requirements of this subtitle.

(d) Reallocation.—If a State does not receive funding under this subtitle or only receives a portion of its allocation under section (c), the Secretary shall reallocate the State’s entire allocation or the remaining portion of its allocation, as the case may be, to the remaining States in accordance with subsection (a).

SEC. 205. STATE APPLICATION.

The Governor of a State desiring to receive a grant under this subtitle shall submit an application to the Secretary within 30 days of the date of enactment of this Act, in such manner, and containing such information as the Secretary may reasonably require to determine the State’s compliance with applicable provisions of law.

SEC. 206. STATE RESERVATION AND RESPONSIBILITIES.

(a) Reservation.—Each State receiving a grant under section 204(b) may reserve—

(1) not more than 10 percent of the grant funds for awards to State-funded early learning programs; and

(2) not more than 2 percent of the grant funds for the administrative costs of carrying out its responsibilities under this subtitle.

(b) State Responsibilities.—Each State receiving a grant under this subtitle shall, after reserving any funds under subsection (a),—

(1) use the remaining grant funds only for awards to local educational agencies for the support of early childhood, elementary, and secondary education; and

(2) distribute those funds, through subgrants, to its local educational agencies by distributing—

(A) 95 percent on the basis of the local educational agencies’ relative shares of enrollment; and

(iv) Green Globes; or

(v) an equivalent program adopted by the State or another jurisdiction with authority over the local educational agency;

(G) a description of the steps that the State will take to ensure that local educational agencies receiving subgrants will adequately maintain any facilities that are modernized, renovated, or repaired with subgrant funds under this part; and

(H) such additional information and assurances as the Secretary may require.

(b) LOCAL APPLICATION.—A local educational agency that is eligible under section 223(b)(1) that desires to receive a grant under this part shall submit an application to the Secretary at such time, in such manner, and containing such information and assurances as the Secretary may require, which shall include—

(1) a description of how the local educational agency will meet the deadlines and requirements described in subparagraph (A); and

(2) a description of the steps that the local educational agency will take to adequately maintain any facilities that are modernized, renovated, or repaired with funds under this part;

and

(3) such additional information and assurances as the Secretary may require.

SEC. 226. USE OF FUNDS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Funds awarded to local educational agencies under this part shall be used only for either or both of the following—

(1) direct payments for school modernization, renovation, and repair;

(2) to pay interest on bonds or payments for other financing instruments that are newly issued to finance school modernization, renovation, and repair.

(b) SUPPLEMENT, NOT SUPPLANT.—Funds made available under this part shall be used to supplement, and not supplant, other Federal, State, and local funds that would otherwise be expended to modernize, renovate, or repair eligible school facilities.

(c) PROHIBITION.—Funds awarded to local educational agencies under this part may not be used for—

(1) new construction;

(2) payment of routine maintenance costs; or

(3) modernization, renovation, or repair of educational agencies primarily used for athletic contests or exhibitions or other events for which admission is charged to the general public.

(1) IN GENERAL.—There is made available to the Secretary of Transportation $2,000,000,000 to carry out airport improvement under subchapter I of chapter 471 and subchapter II of chapter 475 of title 49, United States Code.

(2) FEDERAL SHARE; LIMITATION ON OBLIGATIONS.—The Federal share payable of the costs for which a grant is made under this subsection shall be 100 percent. The amount made available under this subsection shall not be subject to any limitation on obligations for the Grants-In-Aid for Airports program set forth in any Act or in title 49, United States Code.

(3) DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS.—Funds provided to the Secretary under this subsection shall not be subject to apportionment formulas, special apportionment categories, or minimum percentages under chapter 471 of such title.

(4) AVAILABILITY.—The amounts made available under this subsection shall be available for obligation until the date that is two years after the date of the enactment of this Act. The Secretary shall obligate amounts totaling not less than 50 percent of the funds made available within one year of enactment and obligate remaining amounts not later than two years after enactment.

(5) ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES.—Of the funds made available under this subsection, 0.3 percent shall be available to the Secretary for administrative expenses, shall remain available for obligation until September 30, 2015, and may be used in conjunction with funds otherwise provided for the administrative costs of the Grants-In-Aid for Airports program.

(b) NEXT GENERATION AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL ADVANCEMENTS—

(1) IN GENERAL.—There is made available to the Secretary of Transportation $1,000,000,000 for next generation air traffic control system technology, research and operating costs to carry out Next Generation air traffic control system advancements.

(2) AVAILABILITY.—The amounts made available under this subsection shall be available for obligation until the date that is two years after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) HIGHWAY INFRASTRUCTURE INVESTMENT—

(1) IN GENERAL.—There is made available to the Secretary of Transportation $27,000,000,000 for restoration, repair, construction and other activities eligible under section 133(b) of title 23, United States Code, and for freight rail improvements and port infrastructure projects eligible for assistance under section 601(a)(8) of title 23.

(2) FEDERAL SHARE LIMITATION ON OBLIGATIONS.—The Federal share payable on account of any project or activity carried out with funds made available under this subsection shall be, at the option of the recipient governmental unit, 100 percent. The amount made available under this subsection shall not be subject to any limitation on obligations for the Grants-In-Aid for highways and funds safety construction programs set forth in any Act or in title 23, United States Code.

(3) AVAILABILITY.—The amounts made available under this subsection shall be available for obligation until the date that is two years after the date of the enactment of this Act. The Secretary shall obligate amounts totaling not less than 50 percent of the funds made available within one year of enactment and obligate remaining amounts not later than two years after enactment.

(4) DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS.—Of the funds provided in this subsection, after making the allocations required under paragraphs (11), (12), and (15), 50 percent of the funds shall be apportioned to States using the formula set forth in section 104(b)(3) of title 23, United States Code. The remaining qualifying funds shall be apportioned to States in the same ratio as the obligation limitation for fiscal year 2009 was determined in accordance with the formula specified in section 120(a)(6) of division A of Public Law 111–117.

(5) APPORTIONMENT.—Apportions under paragraph (4) shall be made not later than 30 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(6) DISTRIBUTION.—

(A) The Secretary shall, 180 days following the date of apportionment, withdraw from each recipient of funds apportioned under paragraph (4) any unobligated funds, and the Secretary shall redistribute such amounts to States that have had no funds withdrawn under this subparagraph in the manner described in section 120(c)(1) of division A of Public Law 111–117.

(B) One year following the date of apportionment, the Secretary shall withdraw from each recipient of funds apportioned under paragraph (4) any unobligated funds, and the Secretary shall redistribute such amounts to States that have had no funds withdrawn under this subparagraph in the manner described in section 120(c)(2) of division A of Public Law 111–117.

(C) At the request of a State, the Secretary may provide an extension of the one-year period only to the extent that the Secretary determines that the State has encountered extreme conditions that create an unworkable bidding environment or other extenuating circumstances. Before granting an extension, the Secretary notify in writing the Committee on Environment, the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure and the Committee on Environment and Public Works, providing a thorough justification of the request.

(7) TRANSPORTATION ENHANCEMENTS.—Three percent of the funds apportioned to a State under paragraph (4) shall be set aside for the purpose of providing training, apprenticeship, and project-related administrative expenses.

(A) Job Training.—Of the funds provided under this subsection, $50,000,000 shall be set aside for the development and administration of transportation training programs under section 140(b) title 23, United States Code.

(B) Funds set aside under this subsection shall be competitively awarded and used for the purpose of providing training, apprenticeship (including Registered Apprentice Program), and skilling improvement programs, as well as programs used by programs under the Workforce Investment Act, to the extent practical, evidence that the program did not preclude workers that participate in training or apprenticeship activities under the program from being referred to, or hired on, projects funded under this chapter; and

(C) To be eligible to receive a competitively awarded grant under this subsection, a State must certify that at least 0.1 percent of the amounts apportioned under the Surface Transportation Program and Bridge Program will be obligated in the first fiscal year after enactment of this Act for job training activities consistent with section 140(b) title 23, United States Code.

(12) DISADVANTAGED BUSINESS ENTERPRISES.—Of the funds provided under this subsection, $10,000,000 shall be set aside for Federal-aid highway programs and assistance programs under section 140(c) title 23, United States Code. Funds set aside under this paragraph shall be allocated to businesses that have proven success in adding staff while effectively completing projects.
(13) STATE PLANNING AND OVERSIGHT EXPENSES.—Of amounts apportioned under paragraph (4) of this subsection, a State may use up to 0.5 percent for activities related to projects under this subsection, including activities eligible under sections 104 and 135 of title 23, United States Code, except for funds made available for investments in transportation at Indian reservations, funds made available for capital investments for construction of new or expanded facilities to provide a federal-aid highway program, which shall be administered in accordance with chapter 2 of title 23, United States Code, and except for funds made available for disadvantaged business enterprises bonding assistance, which shall be administered in accordance with chapter 3 of title 49, United States Code.

(14) CONDITIONS.—

(A) Funds made available under this subsection shall be administered as if apportioned under title 23, United States Code, except for funds made available for investments in transportation at Indian reservations, funds made available for capital investments for construction of new or expanded facilities to provide a federal-aid highway program, which shall be administered in accordance with chapter 2 of title 23, United States Code, and except for funds made available for disadvantaged business enterprises bonding assistance, which shall be administered in accordance with chapter 3 of title 49, United States Code.

(B) Funds made available under this subsection shall be administered as if apportioned under title 23, United States Code, and except for funds made available for disadvantaged business enterprises bonding assistance, which shall be administered in accordance with chapter 3 of title 49, United States Code.

(15) OVERSIGHT.—The Administrator of the Federal Highway Administration may set aside up to 0.15 percent of the funds provided under this subsection to fund the oversight by the Administrator of projects and activities carried out with funds made available under the Federal Highway Administration in this Act, and such funds shall be available through September 30, 2015.

(16) CAPITAL ASSISTANCE FOR HIGH SPEED RAIL CORRIDORS AND INTERCITY PASSENGER RAIL SERVICE.—

(A) In general.—There is made available to the Secretary of Transportation $4,000,000,000 for grants for high-speed rail projects as authorized under sections 26104 and 26106 of title 23, United States Code, capital assistance grants to support intercity passenger rail service as authorized under section 24006 of title 49, United States Code, and congestion reduction and capital assistance grants under section 26104 of title 23, United States Code, and to enter into cooperative agreements for these purposes as authorized, except that the Administrator of the Federal Railroad Administration may retain up to one percent of the funds provided under this heading to fund the award and oversight by the Administrator of grants made under this subsection, which retained amount shall remain available for obligation until September 30, 2015.

(B) Availability.—The amounts made available under this subsection shall be available for obligation until the date that is two years after the date of the enactment of this Act. The Secretary shall obligate amounts totaling not less than 50 percent of the funds made available within one year of enactment and obligate remaining amounts not later than two years after enactment.

(C) Conditions.—(1) In general.—There is made available to the Secretary of Transportation to make grants to the National Railroad Passenger Corporation (Amtrak) as authorized by section 210(a)(2) of the Passenger Rail Investment and Improvement Act of 2008 (Public Law 110–432).

(2) Availability.—The amounts made available under this subsection shall be available for obligation until the date that is two years after the date of the enactment of this Act. The Secretary shall obligate amounts totaling not less than 50 percent of the funds made available within one year of enactment and obligate remaining amounts not later than two years after enactment.

(3) Conditions.—(A) None of the funds under this subsection shall be used to subsidize the operating losses of Amtrak.

(B) The funds provided under this subsection shall be awarded not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act.

(4) CONDITIONS.—(A) None of the funds under this subsection shall be used to subsidize the operating losses of Amtrak.

(5) INTERCITY PASSENGER RAIL CORRIDORS.—Not less than 85 percent of the funds provided under this subsection shall be for cooperative agreements that lead to the development of intercity or high-speed rail corridors.

(6) CONDITIONS.—(A) In addition to the provisions of title 49, United States Code, that apply to each of the individual programs funded under this subsection, subsections 24002(a)(2), 24002(i), and 24003(a) and (c) of title 49, United States Code, shall apply to each of the funds provided under this subsection.

(B) A project need not be in a State rail corridor.

(C) Recipients of grants under this paragraph may enter into cooperative agreements for transportation transactions using such grant funds in a manner that provides for full and open competition, as determined by the Secretary, in compliance with existing labor agreements.

(D) Capital Grants to the National Railroad Passenger Corporation.—(1) In general.—There is made available $2,000,000,000 to enable the Secretary of Transportation to make capital grants to the National Railroad Passenger Corporation (Amtrak), for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of title 23, United States Code.

(2) Availability.—The amounts made available under this subsection shall be available for obligation until the date that is two years after the date of the enactment of this Act. The Secretary shall obligate amounts totaling not less than 50 percent of the funds made available within one year of enactment and obligate remaining amounts not later than two years after enactment.

(E) Conditions.—(A) None of the funds under this subsection shall be used to subsidize the operating losses of Amtrak.

(B) The funds provided under this subsection shall be awarded not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act.

(F) Conditions.—(1) In general.—There is made available to the Secretary of Transportation $80,000,000,000 for grants for transit capital assistance grants as defined by section 5302(a)(1) of title 49, United States Code. Notwithstanding any provision of chapter 53 of title 49, however, a recipient of funds under this subsection may use up to 10 percent of the amount provided for the operating costs of equipment and facilities for use in public transportation systems for other purposes.

(2) Federal share; limitation on obligations.—(A) The applicable requirements of chapter 53 of title 49, United States Code, shall apply to funding provided under this subsection, except that the Federal share of the costs for which any grant is made under this subsection shall be, at the option of the recipient, up to 100 percent. The amount made available under this subsection shall not be subject to any limitation on obligations for transit programs set forth in any Act or chapter 53 of title 49.

(3) Availability.—The amounts made available under this subsection shall be available for obligation until the date that is two years after the date of the enactment of this Act. The Secretary shall obligate amounts totaling not less than 50 percent of the funds made available within one year of enactment and obligate remaining amounts not later than two years after enactment.

(G) Conditions.—(1) In general.—There is made available to the Secretary of Transportation to make grants to the National Railroad Passenger Corporation (Amtrak), as authorized by section 210(a)(2) of the Passenger Rail Investment and Improvement Act of 2008 (Public Law 110–432).

(2) Availability.—The amounts made available under this subsection shall be available for obligation until the date that is two years after the date of the enactment of this Act. The Secretary shall obligate amounts totaling not less than 50 percent of the funds made available within one year of enactment and obligate remaining amounts not later than two years after enactment.

(3) Conditions.—(A) None of the funds under this subsection shall be used to subsidize the operating losses of Amtrak.

(B) The funds provided under this subsection shall be awarded not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act.

(C) The Secretary shall take measures to ensure that projects funded under this subsection are completed within 2 years of the date of enactment of this Act, and shall serve to supplement and not supplant planned expenditures for such activities from other Federal, State, local and corporate sources. The Secretary shall certify to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations in writing compliance with the preceding sentence.

(D) The Secretary shall, 180 days following the date of appropriation, withdraw from each urbanized area or State an amount of the funds apportioned to such urbanized areas or States less the amount of funding obligated, and the Secretary shall redistribute such amounts to other urbanized areas or States that have had no funds withdrawn under this proviso utilizing whatever method he deems appropriate to ensure that all funds redistributed under this proviso shall be utilized promptly.

(E) Redistribution.—(1) The Secretary shall withdraw from each urbanized area or State any unobligated amounts of the funds apportioned to such urbanized areas or States which are not utilized promptly. The method the Secretary deems appropriate to ensure that all funds redistributed under this proviso shall be utilized promptly.

(F) Requests from urbanized area or State.—The Secretary of Transportation may provide an extension of such 1-year period if the Secretary determines that the urbanized area or State had encountered an unworkable bidding environment or other extenuating circumstances. Before granting an extension, the Secretary shall notify in writing the House Committee on Housing and Urban Affairs, the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs, providing a thorough justification for the extension.

(G) Conditions.—(1) Of the funds provided for section 5311 of title 49, United States Code, 2.5 percent shall be made available for section 5311(c)(1).

(b) FEDERAL SHARE.—The applicable requirement of section 5309(b)(2) and (3) of title 49, United States Code, shall apply, except that the Federal share of the costs for which a grant is made under this subsection shall be, at the option of the recipient, up to 100 percent.

(3) AVAILABILITY.—The amounts made available under this subsection shall be available for obligation until the date that is two years after the date of the enactment of this Act. The Secretary shall obligate amounts totaling not less than 50 percent of the funds made available within one year of enactment and obligate remaining amounts not later than two years after enactment.

(4) DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS.—

(a) The Secretary of Transportation shall apportion not less than 75 percent of the funds under this subsection for the modernization of fixed guideway systems, pursuant to subparagraph (B) of section 5336(b)(2) of title 49, United States Code, other than subsection (b)(2)(A)(ii). (b) Of the funds appropriated under this subsection, the Secretary shall be available for the restoration or replacement of existing public transportation assets related to bus systems, pursuant to the formula set forth in section 5339 other than subsection (b). (c) Redemption.—The funds made available under this subsection shall be apportioned not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(5) REDISTRIBUTION.—

(a) The Secretary shall, 180 days following the date of apportionment, withdraw from each urbanized area an amount equal to 50 percent of the funds apportioned to such urbanized area and on which the requirement of funding obligated, and the Secretary shall redistribute such amounts to other urbanized areas that have had no funds withdrawn under this paragraph or to other non-urbanized areas that had no funds withdrawn under this paragraph, utilizing whatever method the Secretary deems appropriate to ensure that all funds distributed under this paragraph shall be utilized promptly:

(b) The Secretary shall withdraw from each urbanized area any unobligated funds, and the Secretary shall redistribute such amounts to urbanized areas that have had no funds withdrawn under this paragraph, utilizing whatever method the Secretary deems appropriate to ensure that all funds distributed under this paragraph shall be utilized promptly:

(c) At the request of an urbanized area, the Secretary may provide an extension of the 1-year apportionment cycle to any urbanized area that the Secretary determines has encountered an unworkable bidding environment or other extenuating circumstances. Before granting an extension, the Secretary shall notify the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure and the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs, providing a thorough justification for the extension.

(7) CONDITIONS.—

(a) The provisions of section 1101(b) of Public Law 109-59 shall apply to funds made available under this section.

(b) The funds appropriated under this subsection shall not be commingled with any prior year funds.

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, 0.3 percent of the funds under this subsection shall be available for administrative expenses and program management oversight and shall remain available for obligation until September 30, 2015.

(8) TRANSPORTATION INFRASTRUCTURE GRANTS AND CONSTRUCTION ASSISTANCE.—

(a) IN GENERAL.—There is made available to the Secretary of Transportation $6,000,000,000 for capital improvements to surface transportation infrastructure. The Secretary shall distribute funds provided under this subsection as discretionary grants to be awarded to state and local governments or transit agencies on a competitive basis for projects that will have a significant impact on the Nation, a metropolitan area, or a region.

(b) FEDERAL SHARE OF OBLIGATIONS.—The Federal share payable of the costs for which a grant is made under this subsection shall be 80 percent.

(9) AVAILABILITY.—The amounts made available under this subsection shall be available for obligation until the date that is two years after the date of the enactment of this Act. The Secretary shall obligate amounts totaling not less than 50 percent of the funds made available within one year of enactment and obligate remaining amounts not later than two years after enactment.

(10) PROJECT PRIORITY.—The Secretary shall give priority to projects that are expected to be completed within 3 years of the date of the enactment of this Act.

(11) DESIGNATION OF GRANTS.—The Secretary shall promulgate final regulations to implement the authority of this subsection.

(c) PROJECT PRIORITY.—The Secretary shall give priority to projects that are expected to be completed within 3 years of the date of the enactment of this Act.

(7) DEADLINE FOR ISSUANCE OF COMPETITION.—The Secretary shall publish criteria on which to base the competition for any grants awarded under this subsection not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act. The Secretary shall require applications for funding provided under this subsection for the purpose of paying the subsidy and administrative costs of projects eligible for federal credit assistance under chapter 6 of title 23, United States Code, to be submitted not later than 180 days after the publication of the criteria, and announce all projects selected to be funded from such funds not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(8) APPLICABILITY OF TITLE 4.—Each project funded under this subsection shall comply with the requirements of chapter 49 of title 49, United States Code.

(9) AMENDING PROVISIONS.—The Secretary may retain up to one half of one percent of the funds provided under this subsection and may transfer portions of those funds to the Federal Highway Administration, the Federal Transit Administration, the Federal Railroad Ad-international leadership of the United States;
(2) the Erie Canal, the Hoover Dam, the railroads, and the interstate highway system are all American innovation and have helped propel and maintain the United States as the world’s largest economy;
(3) according to the World Economic Forum’s Global Competitiveness Report, the United States fell to second place in 2009, and dropped to fourth place overall in 2010, however, in the “Quality of overall infrastructure” category of the same report, the United States ranked twenty-third in the world;
(4) according to the World Bank’s 2010 Logistic Performance Index, the capacity of countries to efficiently move goods and connectivity matter and do not—provide credit support to qualified infrastructure projects of regional and national significance, making transparent merit-based investment decisions based on the commercial viability of such projects, would catalyze the participation of significant private investment capital.
(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this Act is to facilitate investment in, and long-term financing of, economically viable infrastructure projects of regional or national significance in a manner that both complements existing Federal, State, local, and private funding sources for such projects and introduces a merit-based system for financing such projects, in order to mobilize significantly private sector capital, create many jobs, and ensure United States competitiveness through an institution that limits the need for ongoing Federal funding.

PART I—AMERICAN INFRASTRUCTURE FINANCING AUTHORITY

SECTION 245. ESTABLISHMENT AND GENERAL AUTHORITY OF AIFA.
(a) Establishment of AIFA.—The American Infrastructure Financing Authority is established as a wholly owned Government corporation.
(b) General Authority of AIFA.—AIFA shall make direct loans and loan guarantees to facilitate infrastructure projects that are both economically viable and of regional or national significance, and shall have such other authority as provided in this Act.
(c) Incorporation.—(1) In general.—The Board of Directors first appointed to the Board of Directors shall be appointed for a term of 4 years; and
(2) Initial staggered terms.—Of the voting members first appointed to the Board of Directors—
(A) the initial Chairperson and 3 of the other voting members shall each be appointed for a term of 4 years; and
(B) the remaining 3 voting members shall each be appointed for a term of 2 years.
(3) Date of initial nominations.—The initial nominations for the appointment of all voting members of the Board of Directors shall be made not later than 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act.
(4) Beginning of term.—The term of each of the initial voting members appointed under this section shall commence immediately upon the date of appointment, except that, for purposes of calculating the term limits specified in this subsection, the initial terms shall each be construed as beginning on January 22 of the year following the date of the initial appointment.
(5) Vacancies.—A vacancy in the position of a voting member of the Board of Directors shall be filled by the President, and a member appointed to fill a vacancy on the Board of Directors shall be placed in a blind trust for the tenure of the member to which the predecessor was appointed shall be appointed only for the remainder of that term.
(e) Meetings.—(1) Open to the public; notice.—Except as provided in paragraph (3), all meetings of the Board of Directors shall be—
(A) open to the public; and
(B) preceded by reasonable public notice.
(2) Frequency.—The Board of Directors shall meet at least once every 3 months after the date on which all members of the Board of Directors are first appointed, at least quarterly thereafter, and otherwise at the call of either the Chairperson or 5 voting members of the Board of Directors.
(3) Exception for closed meetings.—The voting members of the Board of Directors may, in advance of the meeting, close a meeting to the public if, during the meeting to be closed, there is likely to be disclosed proprietary or sensitive information regarding an infrastructure project under consideration for assistance under this Act. The Board of Directors shall prepare minutes of any meeting that is closed to the public, and shall make such minutes as soon as practicable, not later than 1 year after the date of the closed meeting, with any necessary redactions to protect any proprietary or sensitive information.
(f) Quorum.—For purposes of meetings of the Board of Directors, 5 voting members of the Board of Directors shall constitute a quorum.
(g) Compensation of Members.—Each voting member of the Board of Directors shall be compensated at a rate equal to the daily equivalent of the annual rate of basic pay prescribed for level III of the Executive Schedule under section 5314 of title 5, United States Code, for each day (including travel time) during which the member is engaged in the performance of the duties of the Board of Directors.
(h) Conflicts of Interest.—A voting member of the Board of Directors may not participate in any review or decision affecting an infrastructure project under consideration for assistance under this Act, if the member has or is affiliated with an entity who has a financial interest in such project.

SECTION 247. CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER OF AIFA.
(a) In general.—The chief executive officer of AIFA shall be a nonvoting member of the Board of Directors, who shall be responsible for all activities of the Board of Directors and shall support the Board of Directors as set forth in this Act and as the Board of Directors deems necessary or appropriate.
(b) Appointment and tenure of the chief executive officer.—(1) In general.—The President shall appoint the chief executive officer and shall designate the chief executive officer for a term of 6 years.
(2) Term.—The chief executive officer shall be appointed for a term of 6 years.
(3) Vacancies.—Any vacancy in the office of the chief executive officer shall be filled by the President, and the person appointed to fill a vacancy in that position occurring by reason of expiration of the term for which the predecessor was appointed shall be appointed only for the remainder of that term.
(c) Qualifications.—The chief executive officer—
(1) shall have significant expertise in management and administration of a financial institution, or significant expertise in the financing and development of infrastructure projects, or significant expertise in analyzing the economic benefits of infrastructure investment; and
(2) may satisfy the President of—
(A) hold any other public office;
(B) hold any other interest in an infrastructure project being considered by the Board of Directors, unless that interest is placed in a blind trust; or
(C) have any financial interest in an investment institution or its affiliates or any other entity seeking or likely to seek financial assistance for any infrastructure project from AIFA, unless any such interest is placed in a blind trust for the tenure of the service of the chief executive officer plus 2 additional years.
(d) Responsibilities.—The chief executive officer shall have such duties, powers, and duties as may be prescribed by this Act, the bylaws of AIFA, or the Board of Directors, including—
(1) responsibility for the development and implementation of the strategy of AIFA, including—
(A) the development and submission to the Board of Directors of the investment prospectus, the annual business plans and budget;
(B) the development and submission to the Board of Directors of a long-term strategic plan; and
(C) the development, revision, and submission to the Board of Directors of internal policies and
(2) responsibility for the management and oversight of the daily activities, decisions, operations, and personnel of AIFA, including—
(A) the appointment of senior management, subject to approval by the voting members of the Board of Directors upon request by the Federal agency having specific expertise not available from within AIFA, following which request the head of the Federal agency may detail, or disapprove by the Board of Directors, compensation and adjustments to compensation of senior management and other personnel of AIFA as may be necessary for carrying out the functions of AIFA;
(B) requesting the detail, on a reimbursable basis, from any Federal agency of personnel of such agency reasonably requested by the chief executive officer;
(C) assessing and recommending in the first instance, but in consultation with, and approval or disapproval by the Board of Directors, compensation and adjustments to compensation of senior management and other personnel of AIFA as may be necessary for carrying out the functions of AIFA;
(D) ensuring, in conjunction with the general counsel of AIFA, that all activities of AIFA are carried out in compliance with applicable law;
(E) overseeing the involvement of AIFA in all projects, including—
(i) members and eligible projects for AIFA financial assistance;
(ii) determining the terms and conditions of all financial assistance packages;
(iii) infrastructure projects assisted by AIFA, including responsibility for ensuring that the proceeds of any loan made, guaranteed, or participated in are used only for the purposes for which the loan or guarantee was made;
(iv) preparing and submitting for approval by the Board of Directors the documents required by paragraph (1) and
(v) ensuring the implementation of decisions of the Board of Directors; and
(F) such other activities as may be necessary or appropriate in carrying out this Act.
(e) COMPENSATION.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—Any compensation assessment or recommendation by the chief executive officer under this section shall be without regard to the provisions of chapter 51 or subchapter III of chapter 53 of title 5, United States Code.
(2) CONSIDERATIONS.—The compensation assessment or recommendation required under this subsection shall take into account merit principles, the availability of comparable levels of compensation for employees performing comparable duties, the education, experience, level of responsibility, geographic differences, and retention and recruitment needs in determining compensation of personnel.
SEC. 248. POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.
The Board of Directors shall—
(1) as soon as is practicable after the date on which all members are appointed, approve or disapprove senior management appointed by the chief executive officer;
(2) not later than 180 days after the date on which all members are appointed—
(A) develop and approve the bylaws of AIFA, including bylaws for the regulation of the affairs and conduct of the business of AIFA, consistent with the purpose, goals, objectives, and policies set forth in this Act;
(B) establish subcommittees, including an audit committee that is composed solely of independent members of the Board of Directors who are independent of the senior management of AIFA;
(C) develop and approve, in consultation with senior management, a conflict-of-interest policy for the Board of Directors and for senior management;
(D) approve or disapprove internal policies that the chief executive officer shall submit to the Board of Directors, including—

(C) reviewing and approving annual business plans, annual budgets, and long-term strategies submitted by the chief executive officer;
(D) reviewing and approving annual reports submitted by the chief executive officer;
(E) engaging one or more external auditors, as set forth in this Act; and
(F) reviewing and approving all changes to the organization of senior management;
(G) appoint and fix, by a vote of 5 of the 7 voting members of the Board of Directors, and without regard to the provisions of chapter 51 or subchapter III of chapter 53 of title 5, United States Code, the compensation and adjustments to compensation of all AIFA personnel, provided that in appointing and fixing any compensation or adjustments to compensation under this paragraph, the Board shall—
(A) consult with, and seek to maintain comparability with, other comparable Federal personnel;
(B) consult with the Office of Personnel Management; and
(C) carry out such duties consistent with merit principles, where applicable, as well as the education, experience, level of responsibility, geographic differences, and retention and recruitment needs in determining compensation of personnel;
(2) DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES.—
(II) guidelines for the selection and approval of projects;
(III) selecting, retaining and discharging of personnel;
(IV) standardized terms and conditions, fee schedules, or legal requirements for a contract or program, so as to carry out this Act; and
(iii) any individual, public-private partner, or governmental agency having direct or indirect interest in the project; and
(3) incur, allow, and pay, subject to this Act and terms and conditions approved by the Board of Directors, any obligations or expenditures in the furtherance of the purposes of this Act, by—
(1) serving as the primary liaison for AIFA in interactions with Congress, the Executive Branch, and State and local governments, and to represent the interests of AIFA in such interactions.
(2) approve by a vote of 5 of the 7 voting members of the Board of Directors any changes to the bylaws or internal policies of AIFA;
(3) have the authority and responsibility—
(A) to oversee entering into and carry out such contracts, leases, cooperative agreements, or other transactions as are necessary to carry out this Act with—
(1) any Federal agency or department;
(2) any State, territory, or possession (or any political subdivision thereof), including State infrastructure banks) of the United States;
(3) any individual, public-private partnership, or governmental agency having direct or indirect interest in the project; and
(ii) any individual, public-private partnership, or governmental agency having direct or indirect interest in the project;
(4) exercise all other lawful powers which are necessary or appropriate to carry out, and are consistent with, the purposes of AIFA:
(5) to sue or be sued in the corporate capacity of AIFA in any court of competent jurisdiction;
(6) to indemnify the members of the Board of Directors and officers of AIFA for any liabilities arising out of the actions of the members and officers of AIFA, in accordance with, and subject to the limitations contained in this Act;
(7) to review all financial assistance packages, as submitted by the chief executive officer and to approve, postpone, or deny the same by majority vote;
(8) to review all restructuring proposals submitted by the chief executive officer, including in its discretion, plans for disposal of the assets of AIFA, and to approve, postpone, or deny the same by majority vote; and
(9) to enter into binding commitments, as specified in approved financial assistance packages,
(10) delegate to the chief executive officer duties that the Board of Directors deems appropriate, to better carry out the powers and purposes of the Board of Directors under this section; and
(11) to approve a maximum aggregate amount of outstanding obligations of AIFA at any given time, taking into consideration funding, and the size of AIFA’s addressable market for infrastructure projects.
SEC. 249. SENIOR MANAGEMENT.
(a) IN GENERAL.—Senior management shall support the chief executive officer in the discharge of the responsibilities of the chief executive officer.
(b) APPOINTMENT OF SENIOR MANAGEMENT.—The chief executive officer shall appoint such senior managers as are necessary to carry out the purpose of AIFA as approved by a majority vote of the voting members of the Board of Directors.
(c) TERM.—Each member of senior management shall serve at the pleasure of the chief executive officer and the Board of Directors.
(d) REMOVAL OF SENIOR MANAGEMENT.—Any member of senior management may be removed, other than by a majority of the voting members of the Board of Directors upon request by the chief executive officer, or otherwise by vote of not fewer than 5 voting members of the Board of Directors.
(e) SENIOR MANAGEMENT.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—Each member of senior management shall report directly to the chief executive officer, and be subject to the direction, control, and supervision of the Chief Risk Officer, who shall report directly to the Board of Directors.
(2) DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES.—
(A) ANY FINANCIAL OFFICER.—The Chief Financial Officer shall be responsible for all financial functions of AIFA, provided that, at the discretion of the Board of Directors, specific functions of the Chief Financial Officer may be delegated externally.

(B) CHIEF RISK OFFICER.—The Chief Risk Officer shall be responsible for all functions of AIFA relating to—

(i) the creation of financial, credit, and operational risk management guidelines and policies;

(ii) credit analysis for infrastructure projects;

(iii) the creation of conforming standards for infrastructure finance agreements;

(iv) the monitoring of the financial, credit, and operational exposure of AIFA; and

(v) risk identification, mitigation, and execution, including the reporting of such actions, or recommendations of such actions, to be taken, directly to the Board of Directors.

(C) CHIEF COMPLIANCE OFFICER.—The Chief Compliance Officer shall be responsible for all functions of AIFA relating to internal audits, accounting safeguards, and the enforcement of such safeguards and other applicable requirements.

(D) GENERAL COUNSEL.—The General Counsel shall be responsible for all functions of AIFA relating to legal matters and, in consultation with the chief executive officer, shall be responsible for ensuring that AIFA complies with all applicable law.

(E) OPERATIONS OFFICER.—The Chief Operations Officer shall be responsible for all operational functions of AIFA, including those relating to the continuing operations and infrastructure projects in which AIFA retains an interest and for all AIFA functions related to human resources.

(F) CHIEF LENDING OFFICER.—The Chief Lending Officer shall be responsible for—

(i) all functions of AIFA relating to the development of project pipeline, financial structuring, selection of infrastructure projects to be reviewed by the Board of Directors, and preparation of infrastructure projects to be presented to the Board of Directors, and set aside for rural infrastructure projects; and

(ii) the creation and management of—

(I) a Center for Excellence to provide technical assistance to public sector borrowers in the development and financing of infrastructure projects; and

(II) an Office of Rural Assistance to provide technical assistance in the development and financing of rural infrastructure projects; and

(iii) the establishment of guidelines to ensure the confidentiality of lending activities by region, infrastructure project type, and project size.

(G) CHANGES TO SENIOR MANAGEMENT.—The Board of Directors, in consultation with the chief executive officer, may alter the structure of the senior management of AIFA at any time to better accomplish the goals, objectives, and purposes of AIFA, provided that the functions of the Chief Financial Officer set forth in subsection (e) remain separate from the functions of the Chief Risk Officer set forth in subsection (e).

(H) CONFLICTS OF INTEREST.—No individual appointed or employed by AIFA shall—

(i) hold any other public office;

(ii) have any financial interest in an infrastructure project then being considered by the Board of Directors, unless that interest is placed in a blind trust; or

(iii) have any financial interest in an investment institution or its affiliates, AIFA or its affiliates may not apply to another entity then seeking or likely to seek financial assistance for any infrastructure project from AIFA, unless any such interest is placed in a blind trust during the term of service.

(ii) any individual, in a senior management position, and for a period of 2 years thereafter.

SEC. 256. SPECIAL INSPECTOR GENERAL FOR AIFA

(a) IN GENERAL.—During the first 5 operating years of the Inspector General of the Department of the Treasury shall have responsibility for AIFA.

(b) OFFICE OF THE SPECIAL INSPECTOR GENERAL.—Effective on the date of enactment of the commencement of the operations of AIFA, there is established the Office of the Special Inspector General for AIFA.

(c) APPOINTMENT OF INSPECTOR GENERAL; REMOVAL.—

(1) HEAD OF OFFICE.—The head of the Office of the Special Inspector General for AIFA shall be the Special Inspector General for AIFA in this Act referred to as the “Special Inspector General” who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

(2) BASIS OF APPOINTMENT.—The appointment of the Special Inspector General shall be made on the basis of integrity and demonstrated ability in accounting, auditing, financial analysis, law, management analysis, public administration, and investigations.

(3) TIMING OF NOMINATION.—The nomination of an individual as Special Inspector General shall be made as soon as is practicable after the effective date under subsection (b).

(4) REMOVAL.—The Special Inspector General shall be removed from office in accordance with the provisions of section 3(b) of the Inspector General Act of 1978 (5 U.S.C. App.).

(b) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—For purposes of section 7234 of title 5, United States Code, the Special Inspector General shall not be considered an employee who determines policy or a political appointee as defined in section 3109 of title 5, United States Code, at daily rates not to exceed the equivalent rate prescribed for grade GS-15 of the General Schedule by section 5332 of such title.

(c) SORCEs.—(A) The Special Inspector General may obtain services as authorized by section 3110 of title 5, United States Code, at daily rates not to exceed the equivalent rate prescribed for grade GS-15 of the General Schedule by section 5332 of such title.

(2) ABILITY TO CONTRACT FOR AUDITS, STUDIES, AND OTHER SERVICES.—The Special Inspector General may enter into contracts and other arrangements for audits, studies, and other services with public agencies and with private persons, and make such payments as may be necessary to carry out the duties of the Special Inspector General.

(d) REQUEST FOR INFORMATION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Upon request of the Special Inspector General for information or assistance from any department, agency, or other entity of the Federal Government, the head of such entity shall, insofar as is practicable and not in contravention of any existing law, furnish such information or assistance to the Special Inspector General, or an authorized designee.

(B) REFUSAL TO COMPLY.—Whenever information or assistance is not furnished by the Special Inspector General, in the judgment of the Special Inspector General, unreasonably refused or not provided, the Special Inspector General shall report the circumstances to the Secretary of the Treasury, without delay.

(e) REPORTs.—(1) ANNUAL REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the confirmation of the Special Inspector General, and every calendar year thereafter until the expiration of the term of the Special Inspector General, the Special Inspector General shall submit to the President a report summarizing the activities of the Special Inspector General during the previous 1-year period ending on the date of such report.

(2) PUBLIC DISCLOSURES.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to authorize the public disclosure of information that is—

(A) specifically prohibited by disclosure by any other provision of law;

(B) specifically required by Executive order to be protected from disclosure in the interests of national defense or security or in the conduct of foreign affairs; or

(C) part of an ongoing criminal investigation.

SEC. 257. OTHER PERSONNEL.

Except as otherwise provided in the bylaws of AIFA, the chief executive officer, in consultation with the Board of Directors, shall appoint, remove, and define the duties of such qualified personnel as are necessary to carry out the powers, duties, and purpose of AIFA, other than senior management, who shall be appointed in accordance with section 249.

SEC. 258. COMPLIANCE.

The provision of assistance by the Board of Directors pursuant to this Act shall not be considered as superseding or precluding the provision of State law or regulation otherwise applicable to an infrastructure project.

PART II—TERMS AND LIMITATIONS ON DIRECT LOANS AND LOAN GUARANTEES

SEC. 253. ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA FOR ASSISTANCE FROM AIFA AND TERMS AND LIMITATIONS OF LOANS.
satisfaction of the Board of Directors that the infrastructure project for which such assistance is being sought—

(1) is not for the refinancing of an existing infrastructure project; and

(2) meets—

(A) any pertinent requirements set forth in this Act;

(B) any criteria established by the Board of Directors or chief executive officer in accordance with this Act; and

(C) the definition of a transportation infrastructure project, water infrastructure project, or energy infrastructure project.

(b) Considerations.—The criteria established by the Board of Directors pursuant to this Act shall provide adequate consideration of—

(1) the economic, financial, technical, environmental, and public benefits and costs of each infrastructure project under consideration for financial assistance under this Act, prioritizing infrastructure projects that—

(A) contribute to regional or national economic growth;

(B) offer value for money to taxpayers;

(C) demonstrate a clear and significant public benefit;

(D) lead to job creation; and

(E) mitigate environmental concerns;

(2) the means by which development of the infrastructure project under consideration is being financed, including—

(A) the terms, conditions, and structure of the proposed financing;

(B) the credit worthiness and standing of the project sponsors, providers of equity, and co-financiers;

(C) the financial assumptions and projections on which the infrastructure project is based; and

(D) whether there is sufficient State or municipal political support for the successful completion of the infrastructure project;

(3) the extent to which the provision of assistance by AIFA will cause such development to proceed more promptly and with lower costs than would be the case without such assistance;

(4) the extent to which the provision of assistance by AIFA maximizes the level of private investment in the infrastructure project or supplants private investment, while providing a significant public benefit;

(5) the extent to which the provision of assistance by AIFA can mobilize the participation of other financing partners in the infrastructure project;

(6) the technical and operational viability of the infrastructure project;

(7) the proportion of financial assistance from AIFA;

(8) the geographic location of the project in an effort to have geographic diversity of projects funded by AIFA;

(9) the size of the project and its impact on the resources of AIFA;

(10) the infrastructure sector of the project and other projects to which it has projects from more than one sector funded by AIFA; and

(11) Encourages use of innovative procurement, asset management, or financing to minimize the all-in-life-cycle cost, and improve the cost-effectiveness of a project.

(c) Application.—

(1) In general.—Any eligible entity seeking assistance from AIFA under this Act for an eligible infrastructure project shall submit an application to AIFA at such time, in such manner, and containing such information and evidence as the Director or the chief executive officer may require.

(2) Review of applications.—AIFA shall review applications for assistance under this Act on an ongoing basis. The chief executive officer, working with the senior management, shall prepare eligible infrastructure projects for review and approval by the Board of Directors.

(3) Dedicated revenue sources.—The Federal credit instrument shall be repayable, in whole or in part, from tolls, user fees, and other dedicated revenue sources that also secure the infrastructure project obligations.

(d) Eligible infrastructure Project Costs.—

(1) In general.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), to be eligible for assistance under this Act, an infrastructure project shall have project costs that are reasonably anticipated to equal or exceed $100,000,000.

(2) RURAL INFRASTRUCTURE PROJECTS.—To be eligible for assistance under this Act a rural infrastructure project shall have project costs that are reasonably anticipated to equal or exceed $25,000,000.

(e) Loan Eligibility and Maximum Amounts.—

(1) In general.—The amount of a direct loan or loan guarantee under this Act shall not exceed the lesser of 50 percent of the reasonably anticipated eligible infrastructure project costs or, if the direct loan or loan guarantee does not receive an investment grade rating, the amount of the senior project obligations.

(2) Maximum annual loan and loan guaranty volume.—The aggregate amount of direct loans and loan guarantees made by AIFA in any single fiscal year may not exceed—

(A) during the first 2 fiscal years of the operations of AIFA, $10,000,000,000; or

(B) during fiscal year 3 through 9 of the operations of AIFA, $30,000,000,000; or

(C) during any fiscal year thereafter, $50,000,000,000.

(f) State and local permits required.—

The provision of assistance by the Board of Directors pursuant to this Act shall not be deemed to relieve any recipient of such assistance of its obligation under this Act, of any obligation to obtain required State and local permits and approvals.

SEC. 254. Loan Terms and Repayment.

(a) Loans and loan guarantees.—The execution of a direct loan or loan guarantee under this Act with respect to an eligible infrastructure project shall be on such terms, subject to such conditions, and requiring such representations, warranties, and requirements (including requirements for audits) as the chief executive officer determines appropriate.

(b) Terms of direct loan or loan guaranty under this Act.—

(1) shall—

(A) be payable, in whole or in part, from tolls, user fees, and other dedicated revenue sources that also secure the senior project obligations (such as availability payments and dedicated State or local revenues); and

(B) be a rate of interest, a repayment requirement, or similar security feature supporting the project obligations; and

(2) may have a lien on revenues described in paragraph (1) subject to any lien securing project obligations.

(c) base interest rate.—The base interest rate on a direct loan under this Act shall be not less than the yield on United States Treasury obligations of a similar maturity to the maturity of the direct loan.

(d) Risk assessment.—Before entering into an agreement for assistance under this Act, the chief executive officer, in consultation with the Director of the Office of Management and Budget and considering rating agencies generated for AIFA, shall require each applicant for assistance under this Act to provide a rating opinion letter described in paragraph (1) which is not required under paragraph (2) to the base interest rate established by the Federal Government. In the case of a direct loan, such credit instrument, have the potential to achieve an investment-grade rating.

2. Rural infrastructure projects.—With respect to a rural infrastructure project, a rating agency opinion letter described in paragraph (1) shall not be required, except that the loan or loan guaranty shall receive an internal rating score, using methods similar to the ratings agencies generated by AIFA, measuring the proposed direct loan or loan guarantee against comparable direct loans or loan guarantees of similar credit quality in a similar sector.

(h) Investment-grade rating required.—

(1) Loans and loan guarantees. The execution of a direct loan or loan guarantee under this Act shall be contingent on the senior obligations of the infrastructure project receiving an investment-grade rating.

(2) rating of AIFA overall portfolio.—The average rating of the overall portfolio of AIFA shall be not less than investment grade after 5 years of operation.

(i) Terms and repayment of direct loans.—

(1) Schedule.—The chief executive officer shall establish a repayment schedule for each direct loan under this Act, based on the projected cash flow from infrastructure project revenues and other repayment sources.

(2) commencement.—Scheduled loan repayments of principal on the direct loan under this Act shall commence not later than 5 years after the date of substantial completion of the infrastructure project, as determined by the chief executive officer of AIFA.

(3) Deferred payments of direct loans.—

(A) Authorization.—If, at any time after the date of substantial completion of an infrastructure project assisted under this Act, the infrastructure project is unable to generate sufficient revenues to pay the scheduled repayments of principal and interest on the direct loan under this Act, the chief executive officer may allow the obligor to add unpaid principal and interest to the principal amount of the direct loan, if the result would benefit the taxpayer.

(B) Interest.—Any payment deferred under paragraph (A) shall—

(1) continue to accrue interest, in accordance with the terms of the obligation, until fully repaid; and should any exist. The final credit subsidy cost for each loan and loan guarantee shall be determined consistent with the Federal Credit Reform Act, 2 U.S.C. 611 et seq. under paragraph (f), each agreement for assistance under this Act, the chief executive officer may charge a credit subsidy for capital improvements and project revenues.

(b) REPORTS.—

(1) BOARD OF DIRECTORS.—Not later than 90 days after the close of each fiscal year, the Board of Directors shall submit to the President and Congress a complete and detailed report with respect to the preceding fiscal year, setting forth—

(A) a summary of the operations of AIFA, for such fiscal year;

(B) a schedule of the obligations of AIFA and capital securities outstanding at the end of such fiscal year, with a statement of the amounts issued and redeemed or paid during such fiscal year;

(C) the status of infrastructure projects receiving funding or other assistance pursuant to this Act during such fiscal year, including all nonperforming loans, and including discussion of actions of AIFA, with regard to ownership, or operational interest in such infrastructure projects;

(D) a description of the successes and challenges encountered in lending to rural communities, including the role of the Center for Excellence and the Office of Rural Assistance established under this Act; and

(E) an assessment of the risks of the portfolio of AIFA, prepared by an independent source.

(2) GAO.—Not later than 5 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall conduct an evaluation of, and shall submit to Congress a report on, activities of AIFA for the fiscal years covered by the report that includes an assessment of the impact and benefits of each funded infrastructure project, including a description of how effectively each such infrastructure project accomplished the goals prioritized by the infrastructure project criteria of AIFA.

(c) BOOKS AND RECORDS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—AIFA shall maintain adequate books and records to support the financial transactions and infrastructure projects receiving funding, and the amount of funding for each such project that—

(A) are used to offset subsidy costs and administrative costs of AIFA; provided further, that of this amount, not more than $25,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2012 through 2013, and not more than $50,000,000 for fiscal year 2014 may be used for administrative costs of AIFA; provided further, that not more than 5 percent of such amount shall be used to offset subsidy costs associated with rural projects. Amounts authorized shall be available without further action.

PART IV—EXTENSION OF EXEMPTION FROM ALTERNATIVE MINIMUM TAX TREATMENT FOR CERTAIN TAX-EXEMPT BONDS

SEC. 259. FUNDING.

There is hereby appropriated to AIFA to carry out this Act, for the cost of direct loans and loan guarantees subject to the limitations under Section 253, and for administrative costs, $10,000,000,000, to remain available until expended; Provided, That such amount shall be used to offset subsidy costs and administrative costs of AIFA; and Provided further, that of this amount, not more than $25,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2012 through 2013, and not more than $50,000,000 for fiscal year 2014 may be used for administrative costs of AIFA; provided further, that not more than 5 percent of such amount shall be used to offset subsidy costs associated with rural projects. Amounts authorized shall be available without further action.

Subtitle G—Project Rebuild

SEC. 261. PROJECT REBUILD.

(a) DIRECT APPROPRIATIONS.—There is appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, $1,000,000,000, to remain available until September 30, 2014, for assistance to eligible entities including States and units of local government (as such terms are defined in section 102 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5302)), and qualified nonprofit organizations, businesses or consortia of eligible entities for the redevelopment of abandoned and foreclosed-upon properties and for the stabilization of affected neighborhoods.
(b) ALLOCATION OF APPROPRIATED AMOUNTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Of the amounts appropriated, two thirds shall be allocated to States, the remainder shall be divided into funding formulas established by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development in the manner specified in subsection (a)(1). Each State’s share allocated pursuant to this paragraph shall be treated as though such funds were community development block grant funds under title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5301 et seq.).

(2) FORMULA TO BE DEvised SWIFTLY.—The funding formulas established under paragraph (1) shall be established and the Secretary shall announce funding allocations, not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this section.

(3) FORMULA CRITERIA.—The Secretary may establish a minimum grant size, and the funding formula required under paragraph (1) shall ensure that any amounts appropriated or otherwise made available under this section are allocated to States and units of general local government with the greatest need, as such need is determined in the discretion of the Secretary based on—

(A) the number and percentage of home foreclosures in each State or unit of general local government;
(B) the number and percentage of homes in default or delinquency in each State or unit of general local government; and
(C) whether as established program designs, grantee capacity and performance, number and percentage of commercial foreclosures, overall economic conditions, and other market needs data, as determined by the Secretary.

(4) COMPETITION CRITERIA.—

(A) For the funds distributed competitively, each entity shall be a State, units of general local government, nonprofit entities, for-profit entities, and consortia of eligible entities that demonstrate capacity to use funding within the period of this program.

(B) In selecting grantees, the Secretary shall ensure that grantees are in areas with the greatest number and percentage of residential and commercial foreclosures and other market needs data, as determined by the Secretary. Additional award criteria shall be established by the Secretary, to carry out section 502(a)(2) of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (42 U.S.C. 1437a). Additional award criteria shall be determined by the Secretary through notice, that are consistent with the goals of creating jobs, stabilizing neighborhoods, reversing vacancy reduction, and increasing or stabilizing residential and commercial property values.

(d) LIMITATIONS.—

(1) ON PURCHASES.—Any purchase of a property under this section shall be at a price not to exceed its current market value, taking into account its current condition.

(2) REHABILITATION.—Any rehabilitation of an eligible property under this section shall be to the extent necessary to comply with applicable laws, and to this section’s requirements relating to safety, quality, marketability, and habitability, and in order to sell, rent, or redevelop such properties;

(3) SALE OF HOMES.—If an abandoned or foreclosed-upon home is purchased, redeveloped, or otherwise sold to an individual as a primary residence, then such sale shall be in an amount equal to or less than the cost to acquire and redevelop or rehabilitate such home on or before, safe, marketable, and habitable condition.

(4) ON DEMOLITION OF PUBLIC HOUSING.—Public housing, as defined at section 3(b)(6) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, may not be demolished with funds under this section.

(5) ON DEMOLITION ACTIVITIES.—No more than 10 percent of any grant made under this section may be used for demolition activities unless the Secretary determines that such use represents an appropriate response to local market conditions.

(6) ON USE OF FUNDS FOR NON-RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY.—No more than 30 percent of any grant made under this section may be used for obligations under paragraphs (A), (B), and (E) of subsection (c)(3) that will not result in residential use of the property involved unless the Secretary determines that such use is appropriate response to local market conditions.

(d) AUTHORITY TO SPECIFY ALTERNATIVE REQUIREMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In administering the program under this section, the Secretary may specify alternative requirements to any provision under title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 or under title I of the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act of 1990 (except for those that the Secretary determines, public housing, nondiscrimination, labor standards, and the environment) for the purpose of expediting and facilitating the use of funds under this section.

(2) NOTICE.—The Secretary shall provide written notice of intent to the public via internet to exercise the authority to specify alternative requirements under paragraph.

(3) LOW AND MODERATE INCOME REQUIREMENT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding the authority of the Secretary under paragraph (1)—

(i) all of the formula and competitive grantee funds appropriated or otherwise made available under this section shall be used with respect to individuals and families whose income does not exceed 50 percent of area median income; and

(ii) not less than 25 percent of the formula and competitive grantee funds appropriated or otherwise made available under this section shall be used with respect to individuals and families whose income does not exceed 120 percent of area median income.

(B) RECURRENT REQUIREMENT.—The Secretary shall, by rule or order, ensure, to the maximum extent practicable and for the longest feasible term, that the sale, rental, or other use of abandoned and foreclosed-upon homes and residential properties under this section remain available to individuals or families described in subparagraph (A)(ii).

(g) NATIVE DISTRIBUTION OF RESOURCES.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this section or the amendments made by this section, each State and unit of general local government may use any amounts received pursuant to this section to... fund any project that seeks to use the power of eminent domain, unless eminent domain is employed only for a public use, which shall not be construed to include economic development that primarily benefits private entities.

(1) LIMITATION ON DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS.—(A) In general.—None of the funds made available under this title or title IV shall be distributed to—

(1) an organization which has been indicted for a violation under Federal law relating to an election for Federal office; or

(2) any individual(s) identified for reallocation pursuant to subsection (c)(4) that choose to relocate from the frequencies identified for reallocation pursuant to subsection (a), are entitled to receive payment under this paragraph.''.

(b) ELIGIBLE FREQUENCIES.—Section 113(g)(2) of the National Telecommunications and Information Administration Organization Act (47 U.S.C. 923(g)(2)) is amended by deleting and replacing subsection (b) with the following:

"(B) any other band of frequencies reallocated from Federal use to non-Federal or shared use after January 1, 2003, that is assigned by competitive bidding pursuant to section 309(j) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 309(j)) or is assigned as a result of later legislation or other administrative decision.''

(c) Paragraph (3) of subsection 113(g) of the National Telecommunications and Information Administration Organization Act (47 U.S.C. 923(g)(3)) is amended by striking it in its entirety and replacing it with the following:

"(A) the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate; and

(B) the Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives.''

(3) APPROPRIATE COMMITTEES OF CONGRESS.—Except as otherwise specifically provided, the term "appropriate committees of Congress" means—

(A) the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate; and

(B) the Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives.

(4) SECRETARY.—The term "Secretary" means the Assistant Secretary for Communications and Information Administration Organization Act (47 U.S.C. 923(g)(2)) is amended by striking the term "Secretary" from the Spectrum Relocation Fund, in accordance with section 118 of this Act. For purposes of this paragraph, Federal power agencies exempted under subsection (c)(4) that choose to relocate from the frequencies identified for reallocation pursuant to subsection (a), are entitled to receive payment under this paragraph.''.

(5) THE NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF STANDARDS.—The term "NIST" means the National Institute of Standards and Technology.

(6) NTIA.—The term "NTIA" means the National Telecommunications and Information Administration, and the Corporation established in section 284.

(7) EXISTING PUBLIC SAFETY BROADCAST SPECTRUM.—The term "existing public safety broadcast spectrum" means the portion of the electromagnetic spectrum between the frequencies from 768 megahertz to 775 megahertz and from 799 megahertz to 806 megahertz.

(8) FREQUENCY.—The term "frequency" means any frequency that is attributable to the relocation of Federal government equipment. 's

(9) SPECTRUM TO BE USED FOR NATIONAL SECURITY.—The term "spectrum" means the entire electromagnetic spectrum and the frequencies thereon. The term "national security" means the national security interests of the United States.

(10) NTIA.—The term "NTIA" means the National Telecommunications and Information Administration.

(11) PUBLIC SAFETY ENTITY.—The term "public safety entity" means any entity that provides public safety services.

(12) PUBLIC SAFETY SERVICES.—The term "public safety services" means—

(A) the services provided under sections 332 and 333 of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 132, 333); and

(B) includes services provided by emergency communications systems that are defined in section 2 of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 (6 U.S.C. 101).

PART I—Auctions of Spectrum and Spectrum Management

SEC. 272. Clarification of authorities to repurpose federal spectrum for commercial use.

(a) Paragraph (1) of subsection 113(g) of the National Telecommunications and Information Administration Organization Act (47 U.S.C. 923(g)(1)) is amended by striking paragraph (1) and inserting the following:

"(I) ELIGIBLE FEDERAL ENTITIES.—Any Federal entity that operates a Federal Government station authorized to use a band of frequencies specified in paragraph (2) and that incurs relocation costs because of planning for potential additional frequencies, a planned auction of spectrum frequencies or the reallocation of spectrum frequencies from Federal use to exclusive non-Federal use, or shared Federal use may receive payment for such costs from the Spectrum Relocation Fund, in accordance with section 118 of this Act. For purposes of this paragraph, Federal power agencies exempted under subsection (c)(4) that choose to relocate from the frequencies identified for reallocation pursuant to subsection (a), are entitled to receive payment under this paragraph.''.

(b) ELIGIBLE FREQUENCIES.—Section 113(g)(2) of the National Telecommunications and Information Administration Organization Act (47 U.S.C. 923(g)(2)) is amended by deleting and replacing subsection (b) with the following:

"(B) any other band of frequencies reallocated from Federal use to non-Federal or shared use after January 1, 2003, that is assigned by competitive bidding pursuant to section 309(j) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 309(j)) or is assigned as a result of later legislation or other administrative decision.''

(c) Paragraph (3) of subsection 113(g) of the National Telecommunications and Information Administration Organization Act (47 U.S.C. 923(g)(3)) is amended by striking it in its entirety and replacing it with the following:

"(A) the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate; and

(4) SECRETARY.—The term "Secretary" means the Assistant Secretary for Communications and Information Administration Organization Act (47 U.S.C. 923(g)(2)) is amended by striking the term "Secretary" from the Spectrum Relocation Fund, in accordance with section 118 of this Act. For purposes of this paragraph, Federal power agencies exempted under subsection (c)(4) that choose to relocate from the frequencies identified for reallocation pursuant to subsection (a), are entitled to receive payment under this paragraph.''.

(5) THE NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF STANDARDS.—The term "NIST" means the National Institute of Standards and Technology.

(6) NTIA.—The term "NTIA" means the National Telecommunications and Information Administration, and the Corporation established in section 284.

(7) EXISTING PUBLIC SAFETY BROADCAST SPECTRUM.—The term "existing public safety broadcast spectrum" means the portion of the electromagnetic spectrum between the frequencies from 768 megahertz to 775 megahertz and from 799 megahertz to 806 megahertz.

(8) FREQUENCY.—The term "frequency" means any frequency that is attributable to the relocation of Federal government equipment. 's

(9) SPECTRUM TO BE USED FOR NATIONAL SECURITY.—The term "spectrum" means the entire electromagnetic spectrum and the frequencies thereon. The term "national security" means the national security interests of the United States.

(10) NTIA.—The term "NTIA" means the National Telecommunications and Information Administration.

(11) PUBLIC SAFETY ENTITY.—The term "public safety entity" means any entity that provides public safety services.

(12) PUBLIC SAFETY SERVICES.—The term "public safety services" means—

(A) the services provided under sections 332 and 333 of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 132, 333); and

(B) includes services provided by emergency communications systems that are defined in section 2 of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 (6 U.S.C. 101).
additional costs incurred by the Federal entity that are attributable to relocation or sharing, including increased recurring costs above recurring costs of the system before relocation or the remaining estimated life of the system being relocated;

(‘‘C’’) the costs of research, engineering studies, economic analyses, or other expenses reasonably incurred in connection with (i) calculating the estimated relocation costs that are provided to the Commission pursuant to paragraph (4) of this subsection, or in calculating the estimated sharing costs; (ii) determining the technical or operational feasibility of relocation to one or more alternative locations; (iii) planning for or managing a relocation or sharing project (including spectrum coordination with auction winners) or potential relocation or sharing project; and

(‘‘D’’) the one-time costs of any modification of equipment reasonably necessary to accommodate commercial use of shared frequencies or, in the case of frequencies reallocated to exclusive commercial use, prior to the termination of the Federal entity’s primary allocation or protected status, when the entity has identified frequencies as defined in paragraph (2) of this subsection are made available for private sector uses by competitive bidding and a Federal entity retains primary allocation or protected status in those frequencies for a period of time after the completion of the competitive bidding process;

(‘‘E’’) the costs associated with the accelerated systems and equipment if such acceleration is necessary to ensure the timely relocation of systems to a new frequency assignment or the timely accommodation of sharing of Federal frequencies; and

(‘‘F’’) the costs of the use of commercial systems and services (including systems not utilizing spectrum that the Commission has determined to be Federal frequencies) pursuant to this Act, including lease, subscription, and equipment costs over an appropriate period, such as the anticipated life of an equivalent Federal system or other period determined by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

(4) A new subsection (7) is added to Section 113(g) as follows:

‘‘(7) SPECTRUM SHARING.—Federal entities are permitted to allow access to their frequency assignments to non-Federal entities upon approval of the NTIA, in consultation with the Office of Management and Budget, for purposes reasonably incurred in connection with the sale of the relocation or sharing project. The amounts transferred pursuant to this subsection must be at least 110 percent of the estimated Federal costs.’’

(5) Section 273 of such Act (47 U.S.C. 928) is amended by—

(a) Paragraph (8) of section 309(j) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 309(j)) is amended by—

(1) in subsection (A), by striking ‘‘(F) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if the Commission determines that it is in the public interest to utilize the spectrum in its discretion, are attributable to the spectrum usage rights voluntarily relinquished by such licensee. If the Commission also determines that the spectrum in question is no longer necessary, the Commission may modify the spectrum usage rights of any in-cumbent licensee in order to facilitate the allocation of spectrum to licensed users in accordance with competitive bidding process subject to the competitive bidding process subject to the requirements of paragraph (3) of subsection 923(g) of this title.’’.

(2) by inserting ‘‘(F) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if the Commission determines that it is in the public interest to utilize the spectrum in its discretion, are attributable to the spectrum usage rights voluntarily relinquished by such licensee. If the Commission also determines that the spectrum in question is no longer necessary, the Commission may modify the spectrum usage rights of any in-cumbent licensee in order to facilitate the allocation of spectrum to licensed users in accordance with competitive bidding process subject to the competitive bidding process subject to the requirements of paragraph (3) of subsection 923(g) of this title.’’

(3) adding a new subsection at the end thereof:

Notwithstanding subsections (c) through (e) of this section and after the amount specified in subsection (b), up to twenty percent of the amounts deposited in the Spectrum Relocation Fund shall revert to and be deposited in the general fund of the Treasury not later than five years after the date of the deposit of such amounts. Within thirty days of the transfer of the amounts in the Spectrum Relocation Fund, the Director of OMB, in consultation with the Assistant Secretary for Communications and Information, notifies the Committees on Appropriations and Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Appropriations, Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate at least 60 days in advance of the reversion of the funds to the general fund of the Treasury that such funds are needed to complete or to implement current or future relocations or sharing initiatives.

(6) amending subsection (e)(2) by adding ‘‘and sharing’’ before ‘‘costs’’; by adding ‘‘or sharing’’ before ‘‘complete’’; and by adding ‘‘and sharing’’ before ‘‘costs’’.

(7) adding a new subsection at the end thereof:

Notwithstanding subsections (c) through (e) of this section and after the amount specified in subsection (b), up to twenty percent of the amounts deposited in the Spectrum Relocation Fund shall revert to and be deposited in the general fund of the Treasury not later than twenty percent of the amounts deposited in the Spectrum Relocation Fund shall revert to and be deposited in the general fund of the Treasury not later than five years after the date of the deposit of such amounts. Within thirty days of the transfer of the amounts in the Spectrum Relocation Fund, the Director of OMB, in consultation with the Assistant Secretary for Communications and Information, notifies the Committees on Appropriations and Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Appropriations, Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate at least 60 days in advance of the reversion of the funds to the general fund of the Treasury that such funds are needed to complete or to implement current or future relocations or sharing initiatives.

(8) amending subsection (f) by adding ‘‘and sharing’’ before ‘‘costs’’.

(9) inserting ‘‘(E) and (F)’’ after ‘‘subsection’’ in paragraph (3) of subsection 923(g) of this title; and

(10) by inserting ‘‘(E) and (F)’’ after ‘‘subsection’’ in paragraph (3) of subsection 923(g) of this title.
assignment of such new initial licenses subject to new service rules, or the designation of spectrum for unlicensed use, the Commission may pay to such licensee a portion of the auction proceeds for the purpose of making additional spectrum available to any alternative use utilizing payments authorized by the Commission for a station to change its location following an incentive auction under subparagraph (F), or that are impacted by such relocations, including to cover the cost of new equipment, installation, and construction; and

(II) the costs incurred by multichannel video programming distributors for new equipment, installation, and construction related to the carriage of such relocated stations or the carriage of stations that voluntarily elect to share a channel, but retain their existing channel assignments pursuant to sections 338, 614, and 615.".

SEC. 274. REQUIREMENTS WHEN REPURPOSING CERTAIN MOBILE SATELLITE SPECTRUM FOR TERRESTRIAL BROADCAST USE.

To the extent that the Commission makes additional spectrum available to terrestrial broadband use on spectrum primarily licensed for mobile satellite services, the Commission shall recover a significant portion of the value of such right either through the authority provided in section 309(j) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 309(j)) or by section 278 of this subtitle.

SEC. 275. PERMANENT EXTENSION OF INCENTIVE AUCTION AUTHORITY.

Section 309(j)(11) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 309(j)(11)) is repealed.

SEC. 276. AUTHORITY TO AUCTION LICENSES FOR DOMESTIC SATELLITE SERVICES.

Section 309(j) of the Communications Act of 1934 is amended by adding the following new subsection at the end thereof:

(II) the costs incurred by multichannel video programming distributors for new equipment, installation, and construction related to the carriage of such relocated stations or the carriage of stations that voluntarily elect to share a channel, but retain their existing channel assignments pursuant to sections 338, 614, and 615.

SEC. 277. DIRECTED AUCTION OF CERTAIN SPECTRUM.

(a) IDENTIFICATION OF SPECTRUM.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this subtitle, the Assistant Secretary shall identify and make available for auction spectrum for the purpose of making additional spectrum available to any alternative use utilizing payments authorized by the Commission for a station to change its location following an incentive auction under subparagraph (F), or that are impacted by such relocations, including to cover the cost of new equipment, installation, and construction.

(b) AUCTION.—Not later than January 31, 2016, the Commission shall conduct, in such combination as deemed appropriate by the Commission, the auctions of the following licenses covering at least the frequencies described in this section, by commencing the bids for:

(1) The spectrum between the frequencies of 1915 megahertz and 1920 megahertz, inclusive.

(2) The spectrum between the frequencies of 1995 megahertz and 2000 megahertz, inclusive.

(3) The spectrum between the frequencies of 2020 megahertz and 2025 megahertz, inclusive.

(4) The spectrum between the frequencies of 2175 megahertz and 2175 megahertz, inclusive.

(5) The spectrum between the frequencies of 2175 megahertz and 2180 megahertz, inclusive.

(6) At least 23 megahertz of spectrum between the frequencies of 1755 megahertz and 1850 megahertz, minus appropriate geographic exclusion zones if necessary, unless the President of the United States determines that—

(A) such spectrum should not be reallocated to the needs of interstate Federal operations; or

(B) allocation must be delayed or progressed in phases to ensure protection or continuity of Federal operations; or

(C) allocation would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity.

SEC. 278. APPROPRIATIONS FOR BROADCASTING AUTHORITY.

No increase in appropriations for broadcasting shall be authorized for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2011, or any fiscal year thereafter, unless the President of the United States determines that

(1) the increase in appropriations for broadcasting shall serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity;

(2) the increase in appropriations for broadcasting would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and

(3) the increase in appropriations for broadcasting shall be requested by the President of the United States or by the Congress.

spectrum might auction for without the geographic exclusion zones.

(3) ACTIONS REQUIRED IF COVERED SPECTRUM CANNOT BE REALLOCATED.—

(A) The President makes a determination under paragraph (2) that the covered spectrum cannot be reallocated, then the President shall, within 1 year after the determination—

(i) identify alternative bands of frequencies totaling more than 20 megahertz and no more than 100 megahertz of spectrum used primarily by Federal agencies that satisfy the requirements of clauses (i) and (ii) of paragraph (2)(B);

(ii) report to the appropriate committees of Congress an identification of such alternative spectrum for assignment by competitive bidding; and

(iii) make such alternative spectrum available for reallocation.

(B) AUCTION.—If the President makes a determination under paragraph (2) that the covered spectrum cannot be reallocated, the Commission shall commence the bidding for the alternative spectrum identified pursuant to subparagraph (A) within 3 years of the date of enactment of this subtitle.

(4) ACTIONS REQUIRED IF COVERED SPECTRUM CAN BE REALLOCATED.—If the President does not make a determination under paragraph (1) that the covered spectrum cannot be reallocated, the Commission shall commence the competitive bidding for the covered spectrum within 3 years of the date of enactment of this subtitle.

(e) AMENDMENTS TO DESIGN REQUIREMENTS RELATED TO COMPETITIVE BIDDING.—Section 309(j) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 309(j)) is amended—

(1) in paragraph (3)—

(A) by striking ‘‘(ii)’’ and in its place inserting ‘‘(i)(I) of successful bidders of any auction conducted pursuant to subparagraph (F) of section 106 of this act shall be paid to the Treasury;’’;

(B) in subparagraph (F), by striking the period at the end and inserting a semicolon; and

(C) by adding clause (i) of the second sentence of paragraph (8)(C) to read as follows:

‘‘(i) the deposits—

‘‘(I) of successful bidders of any auction conducted pursuant to subparagraph (F) of section 106 of this act shall be paid to the Treasury;’’.

SEC. 278. AUTHORITY TO ESTABLISH SPECTRUM LICENSE FEE FOR FIRE NETWORK.

Section 309 of the Communications Act of 1934 is amended by adding the following new subsection at the end thereof:

‘‘(m) Use of Spectrum License User Fees.—For initial licenses or construction permits that are not granted through the use of competitive bidding as set forth in subsection (j), and for renewals or modifications of initial licenses or other authorizations, whether granted through competitive bidding or granted by the Commission, whether warranted, established, assessed, and collected annual user fees on holders of spectrum licenses or construction permits, including their successors or assignees, in order to promote efficient and effective use of the electromagnetic spectrum.

‘‘(1) REQUIRED COLLECTIONS.—The Commission shall collect at least the following amounts:

(A) $200,000,000 in fiscal year 2012;

(B) $250,000,000 in fiscal year 2013;

(C) $125,000,000 in fiscal year 2014;

(D) $550,000,000 in fiscal year 2015;

(E) $550,000,000 in fiscal year 2016;

(F) $550,000,000 in fiscal year 2017;

(G) $550,000,000 in fiscal year 2018;

(H) $550,000,000 in fiscal year 2019;

(I) $550,000,000 in fiscal year 2020; and

(J) $550,000,000 in fiscal year 2021.

(2) DEVELOPMENT OF SPECTRUM FEE REGULATIONS.—

(A) The Commission shall, by regulation, establish a methodology for assessing annual spectrum user fees and a schedule for collection of such fees on classes of spectrum licenses or construction permits or other instruments of authorization, consistent with the public interest, convenience and necessity. The Commission may determine over time and modify the fee methodology for construction permits upon which such fees may be assessed. In establishing the fee methodology, the Commission may consider the following factors:

(i) the highest value alternative spectrum use forgone;

(ii) scope and type of permissible services and uses;

(iii) amount of spectrum and licensed coverage area;

(iv) shared versus exclusive use;

(v) level of demand for spectrum licenses or construction permits within a certain spectrum band or geographic area;

(vi) the amount of revenue raised on comparable licenses awarded through an auction; and

(vii) such factors that the Commission determines, in its discretion, are necessary to promote the public interest, convenience and necessity.

(B) In addition, the Commission shall, by regulation, establish a methodology for assessing annual user fees and a schedule for collection of such fees on entities holding Ancillary Terrestrial Component authority in conjunction with Mobile Satellite Service spectrum licenses, where the Ancillary Terrestrial Component authority was not assigned through competitive bidding.

The Commission shall not collect less from the holders of such authority than a reasonable estimate of the value of such authority over its term, regardless of whether terrestrial services is actually provided during this term. In determining a reasonable estimate of the value of such authority, the Commission may consider factors listed in subsection (A).

(C) Within 60 days of enactment of this Act, the Commission shall finalize a rulemaking to develop the fee methodology and regulations. The Commission shall take all actions necessary so that it can collect fees from the first class of spectrum license or construction permit holders no later than September 30, 2012.

(D) The Commission, from time to time, may compensate bidders (separate from or in connection with other rulemakings or proceedings involving spectrum-based services, licenses, permits and fees) and assess fees to reflect the value of the added, deletion, reclassification or other change in a spectrum-based service or use, including changes in the nature of a spectrum-based service or use as a consequence of Commission rulemaking proceedings or changes in law. Any resulting changes in the classes of spectrum licenses, construction permits, and fees shall have no effect upon the dates established in the Commission’s rulemaking proceeding in accordance with applicable law.

(E) The Commission shall exempt from such fees holders of licenses for broadcast television and public safety services. The term ‘‘emergency response providers’’ includes fire, police, and tribal, emergency public safety, law enforcement, firefighter, emergency response, emergency medical (including hospital emergency facilities), and related personnel, agencies and authorities.

(F) PENALTIES FOR LATE PAYMENT.—The Commission shall prescribe by regulation an additional charge which shall be assessed as a penalty for late payment of fees required by this subsection.

(G) REVOCATION OF LICENSE OR PERMIT.—The Commission may revoke a license or construction permit for a licensee’s or permittee’s failure to pay in a timely manner any fee or penalty to the Commission under this subsection. Such revocation action may be taken by the Commission after notice of the Commission’s intent to take such action is sent to the licensee by registered mail, return receipt requested, at the licensee’s last known address. The notice will provide the licensee at least 30 days to either pay the fee or show cause why the fee does not apply to the licensee or should otherwise be waived or payment deferred. A hearing is not required under this subsection unless the licensee’s response presents a substantial and material question of fact. In any case where a hearing is conducted pursuant to this section, the hearing shall be based on written evidence only, and the burden of proof with respect to the existence and the burden of proof shall be on the licensee. Unless the licensee substantially prevails in the hearing, the Commission may assess penalties or revocation of the license or permit. Any Commission order adopted pursuant to this subsection shall determine the amount due, if any, and provide the licensee with at least 30 days to pay that amount or have its authorization revoked. No order of revocation under this subsection shall become final until the licensee has exhausted its right to judicial review of such order under section 402(b)(5) of this title.

(H) TREATMENT OF REVENUES.—All proceeds obtained pursuant to the actions required by this subsection shall be deposited in the General Fund of the Treasury.’’.

PART II—PUBLIC SAFETY BROADCAST NETWORK

SEC. 281. REALLOCATION OF D BLOCK FOR PUBLIC SAFETY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Commission shall reallocate the 700 MHz D block spectrum for use by all public safety broadband communications in accordance with the provisions of this subtitle.

(b) SPECTRUM ALLOCATION.—Section 337(a) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 337(a)) is amended—

(1) by striking ‘‘24’’ in paragraph (1) and inserting ‘‘34’’; and

(2) by striking ‘‘26’’ in paragraph (2) and inserting ‘‘25’’.

SEC. 282. FLEXIBLE USE OF NARROWBAND SPECTRUM.

The Commission may allow the narrowband spectrum to be used in a flexible manner, including usage for public safety broadband communications, subject to such technical and interference protection measures as the Commission may require and subject to interoperability requirements of the Commission and the Corporation established in section 204 of this subtitle.

SEC. 283. SINGLE PUBLIC SAFETY WIRELESS NETWORK WORK LICENSE.

(a) REALLOCATION AND GRANT OF LICENSE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, and subject to the provisions of this subsection, including section 290, the Commission shall grant license to the Public Safety Corporation established under section 204 for the use of the 700 MHz D block spectrum and the existing public safety broadband spectrum.

(b) TERM OF LICENSE.—

(I) INITIAL LICENSE.—The license granted under this subsection shall be for an initial term of 10 years from the date of the initial issuance of the license.
(a) Membership.—The management of the Corporation shall be vested in a Board of Directors (referred to in this title as the “Board”), which shall consist of the following members:

(1) Federal Members.—The following individuals, or their respective designees, shall serve as Federal members:

(A) The Secretary of Commerce.

(B) The Secretary of Homeland Security.

(C) The Attorney General of the United States.

(D) The Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

(2) Non-Federal Members.—

(A) In General.—The Secretary of Commerce, in consultation with the Secretary of Homeland Security, shall appoint 11 individuals to serve as non-Federal members of the Board.

(B) State, Territorial, Tribal and Local Government Interests.—In making appointments under subparagraph (A), the Secretary of Commerce shall:

(i) appoint at least 3 individuals with significant expertise in the collective interests of State, Territorial, Tribal and Local governments; and

(ii) ensure geographic and regional representation of the United States in such appointments;

(iii) seek to ensure rural and urban representation.

(C) Public Safety Interests.—In making appointments under subparagraph (A), the Secretary of Commerce should appoint at least 3 individuals who have served or are currently serving as public safety professionals.

(D) Required Qualifications.—

(i) In General.—Each non-Federal member appointed under subsection (A) should meet at least 1 of the following criteria:

(A) Public Safety Experience.—Knowledge and experience in the use of Federal, State, local, or tribal public safety or emergency response.

(B) Technical Expertise.—Technical expertise and fluency regarding broadband communications, including public safety communications and cybersecurity.

(C) Network Expertise.—Expertise in building, deploying, and operating commercial telecommunications networks.

(D) Financial Expertise.—Expertise in financing and funding telecommunications networks.

(ii) Expertise to be Represented.—In making appointments under subparagraph (A), the Secretary of Commerce should appoint—

(I) at least one individual who satisfies the requirement under clause (II) of clause (i);

(II) at least one individual who satisfies the requirement under clause (III) of clause (i);

(III) at least one individual who satisfies the requirement under clause (IV) of clause (i).

(iii) Independence.—

(A) In General.—Each non-Federal member of the Board shall be independent and neutral with respect to the Corporation, with the Corporation in performing his or her duties.

(B) Independence Determination.—In order to be considered independent for purposes of this subparagraph, a member of the Board—

(1) may not, other than in his or her capacity as a member of the Board or any committee thereof—

(aa) accept any consulting, advisory, or other compensatory fee from the Corporation;

(bb) be a person associated with the Corporation or with any affiliated company thereof; and

(2) shall be disqualified from any deliberation involving any transaction of the Corporation in which the Board member has a financial interest in the outcome of the transaction.

(P) Not Officers or Employees.—The non-Federal members of the Board shall not, by reason of such membership, be considered to be officers or employees of the United States Government or of the District of Columbia Government.

(Q) Chair.—No individual other than a citizen of the United States may serve as a non-Federal member of the Board.

(R) Clearance for Classified Information.—In order to have the threat and vulnerability information necessary to make risk management decisions regarding the network, the non-Federal members of the Board shall be required, prior to appointment, to obtain a clearance held by the Director of National Intelligence that permits them to receive information classified at the level of Top Secret, Special Compartmented Information.

(S) Terms of Appointment.—

(1) Initial Appointment Deadline.—Members of the Board shall be appointed not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this title.

(2) Terms.—

(A) Length.—

(i) Federal Members.—Each Federal member of the Board shall serve as a member of the Board for the life of the Corporation while serving in their appointed capacity.

(ii) Non-Federal Members.—The term of office of each non-Federal member of the Board shall be 3 years, or to the next Federal member's successor has taken office, or until the end of the calendar year in which such member’s term has expired, whichever is earlier.

(C) Appointment to Fill Vacancy.—Any non-Federal member appointed to fill a vacancy occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which such member's predecessor was appointed shall be appointed for the remainder of the predecessor's term.

(D) Staggered Terms.—With respect to the initial non-Federal members of the Board—

(i) 4 members shall serve for a term of 3 years;

(ii) 3 members shall serve for a term of 2 years; and

(iii) 3 members shall serve for a term of 1 year.

(2) Vacancies.—A vacancy in the membership of the Board shall not affect the Board's powers, and shall be filled in the same manner as the original member was appointed.

(e) Meetings.—

(1) Frequency.—The Board shall meet in accordance with the bylaws of the Corporation—

(A) at the call of the Chairperson; and

(B) not less frequently than once each quarter.

(2) Transparencies.—Meetings of the Board, including any committee of the Board, shall be open to the public. The Board may, by majority vote, close any such meeting only for the time necessary to preserve the confidentiality of commercial or financial information that is privileged or confidential, to discuss personnel matters, to discuss security vulnerabilities when making those vulnerabilities public would increase risk to the network or otherwise materially threaten network operations, or to discuss legal matters affecting the Corporation, including pending or potential litigation.

(f) Quorum.—Eight members of the Board shall constitute a quorum.

(g) Bylaws.—A majority of the members of the Board of Directors may amend the bylaws of the Corporation.
(b) ATTENDANCE.—Members of the Board of Directors may attend meetings of the Corporation and vote in person, via telephone conference, or via video conference.

(1) EMPLOYMENT AND COMPENSATION.—Members of the Board of the Corporation shall serve without pay, and shall not otherwise benefit financially directly, or as a result of their service to the Corporation, but shall be allowed a per diem allowance for travel expenses, at rates authorized for an employee of an executive branch of the Federal Government of title 5, United States Code, while away from the home or regular place of business of the member in the performance of the duties of the Board.

SEC. 286. OFFICERS, EMPLOYEES, AND COMMITTEES OF THE CORPORATION.

(a) OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Corporation shall have a Chief Executive Officer, and such other officers and employees as may be named and appointed by the Board for terms and at rates of compensation fixed by the Board pursuant to this subsection. The Chief Executive Officer may name and appoint such employees as necessary. All officers and employees shall serve at the pleasure of the Board.

(b) APPROVAL BY COMPENSATION BY FEDERAL MEMBERS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, or any bylaw adopted by the Corporation, all rates of compensation, including benefit plans and salary ranges, for officers and employees of the Board, shall be approved by all voting members of the Corporation.

(c) LIMITATION ON OTHER COMPENSATION.—No officer or employee of the Corporation may receive any compensation or other compensation (except for compensation for services on boards of directors of other organizations that do not receive funds from the Corporation, or for services in similar activities for such organizations) from any source other than the Corporation for services rendered during the period of the employment of such officer or employee by the Corporation, unless unanimously approved by all voting members of the Corporation.

(d) SERVICE ON OTHER BOARDS.—Service by any officer on boards of directors of other organizations, on committees of such boards, and in similar activities for such organizations shall be subject to annual approval by the Board and subject to the provisions of the Corporation’s Statement of Ethical Conduct.

(e) CONSTRUCTION.—No officer or employee of the Board or of the Corporation shall be considered to be an officer or employee of the United States Government or of the government of the District of Columbia.

(f) CLEARANCE FOR CLASSIFIED INFORMATION.—In order to have the threat and vulnerability of the Corporation’s operations, necessary and technical risk management decisions regarding the network, at a minimum the Chief Executive Officer and any officers filling the roles normally titled as Chief Information Officers, Chief Information Security Officer, and Chief Operations Officer shall—

(A) be required, within six months of being hired, to obtain a clearance held by the Director of National Intelligence that permits them to receive information classified at the level of Top Secret, Special Compartmented Information.

(b) ADVISORY COMMITTEES.—The Board—

(1) shall establish a standing public safety advisory committee, the Bivocational Committee, which shall carry out its duties and responsibilities under this Title; and

(2) may establish additional standing or ad hoc committees, panels, or councils as the Board determines are necessary.

SEC. 287. NONPROFIT AND NONPOLITICAL NATURE OF THE CORPORATION.

(A) Stock.—The Corporation shall have no power to issue any shares of stock, or to declare or pay any dividends.

(b) PROFIT.—No part of the income or assets of the Corporation shall inure to the benefit of any director, officer, employee, or any other individual associated with the Corporation, except as salary or reasonable compensation for services.

(c) POLITICS.—The Corporation may not contribute to or otherwise support any political party or candidate for elective public office.

(d) PROHIBITION ON LOBBYING ACTIVITIES.—

The Corporation shall not engage in lobbying activities (as defined in section 3(7) of the Lobbying Disclosure Act of 1995 (5 U.S.C. 1721(7))).

SEC. 288. POWERS, DUTIES, AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE CORPORATION.

(A) GENERAL POWERS.—The Corporation shall have the authority to do the following:

(1) To adopt and use a corporate seal.

(2) To have succession until dissolved by an Act of Congress.

(3) To prescribe, through the actions of its Board, bylaws inconsistent with Federal law and the laws of the District of Columbia, regulations governing the Corporation’s general business may be conducted and the manner in which the privileges granted to the Corporation by law may be exercised.

(4) To exercise, through the actions of its Board, all powers specifically granted by the provisions of this Title, and such incidental powers as shall be necessary and proper to carry out its responsibilities and duties.

(5) To hold such hearings, sit and act at such times and places, take such testimony, and receive such evidence as the Corporation shall determine necessary and proper to carry out its responsibilities and duties.

(6) To obtain grants and funds from and make contracts with individuals, private companies, Federal, State, regional, and local agencies, pursuant to guidelines established by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

(7) To accept, hold, administer, and utilize gifts, donations, and bequests of property, both real and personal, for the purposes of studies and facilitating the work of the Corporation.

(8) To issue notes or bonds, which shall not be guaranteed or backed in any manner by the Government of the United States, to purchase such instruments in the private capital markets.

(9) To incur indebtedness, which shall be the sole liability of the Corporation and shall not be guaranteed or backed by the Government of the United States, to carry out the purposes of this Title.

(B) DUTY AND RESPONSIBILITY TO DEPLOY AND OPERATE A NATIONALWIDE PUBLIC SAFETY DEDICATED BROADBAND NETWORK.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Corporation shall hold the single public safety wireless license granted under section 281 and take all actions necessary to ensure the buildout, deployment, and operation of a secure and resilient nationwide public safety interoperable broadband network with Federal, State, tribal, and local public safety entities, the Director of NIST, the Commission, and the public safety advisory committee established in section 286(b)(1), including by—

(A) ensuring nationwide standards including encryption requirements for use and access of the network;

(B) issuing open, transparent, and competitive requests for proposals to private sector entities for the purposes of building, operating, and maintaining the network;

(C) managing and overseeing the implementation and execution of contracts or agreements with non-Federal entities to build, operate, and maintain the network; and

(D) establishing policies regarding Federal and public safety support use.

(2) INTEROPERABILITY, SECURITY AND STANDARDS.—In carrying out the duties and responsibilities of this subsection, including issuing requests for proposals, the Corporation shall—

(A) ensure the safety, security, and resiliency of the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(B) promote competition in the equipment market, including devices for public safety communications, and consider requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(C) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(D) promote competition in the equipment market, including devices for public safety communications, and consider requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(E) build, operate, and maintain the network to protect against cyber intrusions or cyberattacks;

(F) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(G) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(H) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(I) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(J) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(K) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(L) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(M) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(N) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(O) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(P) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(Q) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(R) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(S) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(T) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(U) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(V) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(W) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(X) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(Y) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance;

(Z) be informed of and manage supply chain risks to the network, including requirements to provide insight into the suppliers and supply chains for critical network components and to implement risk management best practices in network design, contracting, operations and maintenance; necessary to accomplish the purposes set forth in this subsection.

(c) Other Specific Duties and Responsibilities.—

(1) Establishment of Network Policies.—In carrying out the requirements under subsection (b), the Corporation shall take such actions as it determines necessary, including the development of requests for proposals—

(A) request for proposals should include—

(i) build timetables, including by taking into consideration the time needed to build out to rural areas;

(ii) coverage areas, including coverage in rural and nonurban areas;

(iii) service levels;

(iv) performance criteria; and

(v) other similar matters for the construction, development, and management of such network;

(B) the technical, operational and security requirements of the network and, as appropriate, network suppliers;

(C) request for proposals should include—

(i) management and operation of such network;

(ii) practices and procedures of the entities operating on and the personnel using such network; and

(iii) training needs of entities operating on and personnel using such network.

(2) State and Local Planning.—

(A) Required Consultation.—In developing a proposal and, otherwise carrying out its responsibilities under this subtitle, the Corporation shall consult with regional, State, tribal, and local jurisdictions regarding the distribution, and expenditure of any amounts required to carry out the policies established under paragraph (1), including with regard to—

(i) a Covered Leasing Agreement; and

(ii) training of local users.

(B) Covered Leasing Agreement.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), a "covered leasing agreement" means a written agreement—

(i) under which a standards organization, standards body, or other non-Federal entity that seeks access to or use of the nationwide public safety interoperable broadband network established under subsection (b) of this section shall be sufficient, and

(ii) a Covered Leasing Agreement shall be entered into, as it determines appropriate, with a non-Federal entity that seeks access to or use of the nationwide public safety interoperable broadband network established under subsection (b) of this section.

(3) Network Infrastructure and Device Criteria.—The Director of NIST, in consultation with and the Commission, shall ensure the development of a list of certified devices and components meeting appropriate protocols, encryption requirements, and standards for public safety entities and commercial vendors to adhere to, if such entities or vendors seek to have access to the use of, or compatibility with, the nationwide public safety interoperable broadband network established under subsection (b), including by ensuring that the list of certified devices and components includes antennas or towers, constructed or owned, or operated by the Corporation.

(4) Network Interoperability Assurance.—The Corporation, in consultation with the Director of NIST, shall—

(A) have access to network capacity on a secondary basis for non-public safety services;

(B) enter into agreements to utilize, to the maximum extent practicable, existing infrastructure;

(C) have access to network capacity on a secondary basis for non-public safety services;

(D) have access to network capacity on a secondary basis for non-public safety services; and

(E) have access to network capacity on a secondary basis for non-public safety services.

(5) Raising of interconnection charges.—

(A) General.—Nothing in this section shall be interpreted to permit the Corporation, the former government-owned or government-controlled public service utility, or any agreements with a foreign government or political subdivision thereof to charge rates, formulae, or methods of computing charges in excess of the rates, formulae, or methods of computing charges in effect on September 13, 2011, except as necessary for the purposes of subparagraph (A), a "covered leasing agreement" means a written agreement—

(i) under which a standards organization, standards body, or other non-Federal entity that seeks access to or use of the nationwide public safety interoperable broadband network established under subsection (b) of this section shall be sufficient, and

(ii) a Covered Leasing Agreement shall be entered into, as it determines appropriate, with a non-Federal entity that seeks access to or use of the nationwide public safety interoperable broadband network established under subsection (b) of this section.

(6) Network Infrastructure and Device Criteria.—The Director of NIST, in consultation with and the Commission, shall ensure the development of a list of certified devices and components meeting appropriate protocols, encryption requirements, and standards for public safety entities and commercial vendors to adhere to, if such entities or vendors seek to have access to the use of, or compatibility with, the nationwide public safety interoperable broadband network established under subsection (b), including by ensuring that the list of certified devices and components includes antennas or towers, constructed or owned, or operated by the Corporation.

(7) Representation Before Standard Setting Entities.—The Corporation, in consultation with the Director of NIST, the Commission, and the public safety advisory committee, shall ensure the development of a list of certified devices and components meeting appropriate protocols, encryption requirements, and standards for public safety entities and commercial vendors to adhere to, if such entities or vendors seek to have access to the use of, or compatibility with, the nationwide public safety interoperable broadband network established under subsection (b), including by ensuring that the list of certified devices and components includes antennas or towers, constructed or owned, or operated by the Corporation.

(8) Prohibition on Negotiation with Foreign Governments.—Except as authorized by the Corporation, the Corporation shall not enter into any agreements with a foreign government on behalf of the United States.

(9) Use of Mail.—The Corporation may use the United States mails in the same manner and under the same conditions as the departments and agencies of the United States.

(10) Audit.—The Corporation shall—

(A) have access to all books, accounts, records, reports, files, and all other papers, things, or property belonging to or in use by the Corporation during any audit conducted under paragraph (1).
the Corporation that pertain to the financial transactions of the Corporation and are necessary to facilitate the audit; and

(ii) be afforded full facilities for verifying transactions with respect to balances, disbursements, and cash and securities held by depositaries, fiscal agents, and custodians.

(B) REQUIREMENT.—All books, accounts, records, papers, and other documents of the Corporation shall remain in the possession and custody of the Corporation.

(b) REPORT.—

(1) PRECEDING FISCAL YEAR.—The Comptroller General of the United States shall submit a report of each audit conducted under subsection (a) to—

(A) the appropriate committees of Congress;
(B) the President; and
(C) the Corporation.

(2) CONTENTS.—Each report submitted under paragraph (1) shall contain—

(A) such comments and information as the Comptroller General determines necessary to inform Congress of the financial operations and condition of the Corporation;
(B) any recommendations of the Comptroller General relating to the financial operations and condition of the Corporation; and
(C) a description of any program, expenditure, or other financial transaction or undertaking that was found during the course of the audit, which, in the opinion of the Comptroller General, has been carried on or made without the authority of law.

SEC. 292. ANNUAL REPORT TO CONGRESS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this subtitle, and each year thereafter, the Corporation shall submit an annual report covering the financial year and each year thereafter, the Corporation shall submit an annual report covering the financial year to the President and shall submit an annual report covering the financial year to the Congress.

(b) REPORT.—The report required under subsection (a) shall include—

(1) a comprehensive and detailed report of the operations, activities, financial condition, and accomplishments of the Corporation under this section; and
(2) such recommendations or proposals for legislative or administrative action as the Corporation determines appropriate.

(c) AVAILABILITY TO TESTIFY.—The directors, officers, employees, and agents of the Corporation shall be available to testify before the appropriate committees of the Congress with respect to—

(1) the report required under subsection (a);
(2) the report of any audit made by the Comptroller General under section 291; or
(3) any other matter which such committees may determine appropriate.

SEC. 293. PROVISION OF TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE.

The Commission and the Departments of Homeland Security, Justice and Commerce may provide technical assistance to the Corporation and may take any action at the request of the Corporation in effectuating its duties and responsibilities under this Title.

SEC. 294. STATE AND LOCAL IMPLEMENTATION.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF STATE AND LOCAL IMPLEMENTATION GRANT PROGRAM.—The Assistant Secretary, in consultation with the Corporation, shall take such action as is necessary to establish a grant program to make grants to States to assist State, regional, tribal, and local jurisdictions to identify, plan, and implement the most efficient and effective way for such jurisdictions to utilize and integrate the infrastructure, equipment, and other architecture associated with the nationwide public safety interoperable broadband network established in this subtitle to satisfy the wireless communications and data services needs of that jurisdiction, including with regards to coverage, siting, identity management for public safety users and their devices, and other needs.

(b) MATCHING REQUIREMENTS; FEDERAL SHARE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Federal share of the cost of any activity carried out using a grant under this section shall be 100 percent of the eligible costs of carrying out that activity, as determined by the Assistant Secretary, in consultation with the Corporation.

(2) WAIVER.—The Assistant Secretary may waive, in whole or in part, the requirements of paragraph (1) for good cause shown if the Assistant Secretary determines that such a waiver is in the best interests of homeland security.

(c) PROGRAMMATIC REQUIREMENTS.—Not later than 6 months after the establishment of the bylaws of the Corporation pursuant to section 286 of this subtitle, the Assistant Secretary, in consultation with the Corporation, shall establish requirements relating to the grant program to be carried out under this section, including the following:

(1) Defining eligible costs for purposes of subsection (b)(1).

(2) Determining the scope of eligible activities for grant funding under this section.

(3) Prioritizing grants for activities that ensure coverage in rural as well as urban areas.

(d) CERTIFICATION AND DESIGNATION OF OFFICER OR GOVERNMENTAL BODY.—In carrying out the grant program established under this section, the Corporation may require each State to certify in its application for grant funds that the State has designated a single officer or governmental body to serve as the administrator of implementation of the grant funds.

SEC. 295. STATE AND LOCAL IMPLEMENTATION FUND.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is established in the Treasury of the United States a fund to be known as the “State and Local Implementation Fund.”

(b) PURPOSE.—The Assistant Secretary shall establish and administer the grant program authorized under section 294 of this subtitle using funds deposited in the State and Local Implementation Fund.

(c) CREDITING OF RECEIPTS.—There shall be deposited into or credited to the State and Local Implementation Fund—

(1) any amounts specified in section 297; and
(2) any amounts borrowed by the Assistant Secretary under subsection (d).

(d) BORROWING AUTHORITY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Assistant Secretary may borrow from the General Fund of the Treasury beginning on October 1, 2011, such sums as may be necessary, but not to exceed $100,000,000 to implement section 294.

(2) REIMBURSEMENT.—The Assistant Secretary shall reimburse the General Fund of the Treasury, with interest, for any amounts borrowed under subparagraph (1) as funds are deposited into the State and Local Implementation Fund.

SEC. 296. PUBLIC SAFETY WIRELESS COMMUNICATIONS RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT.

(a) NIST DIRECTED RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM.—From amounts made available from the Public Safety Trust Fund in accordance with subparagraph (A) shall be used to carry out research and development activities to—

(1) document public safety wireless telecommunications technical requirements;

(2) accelerate the development of the capabilities for communications between currently deployed public safety networks and the nationwide public safety interoperable broadband network to be established under this title;

(3) establish a research plan, and direct research, that addresses the wireless communications needs of public safety entities beyond what can be provided by the current generation of broadband technologies;

(4) accelerate the development of mission critical voice, including device-to-device "talkaround" standards for broadband networks, if necessary and practical; and

(5) seek to develop technologies, standards, processes, and architectures that provide a significant improvement in network security, resiliency and trustworthiness; and

(6) convene working groups of relevant government and commercial parties to achieve the requirements in paragraphs (1) through (5).

(b) TRANSFER AUTHORITY.—If in the determination of the Director of NIST another Federal agency is better suited to carry out and oversee the research and development of any activity to be carried out in accordance with the requirements of this section, the Director may transfer any amounts provided under this section to such agency, including to the National Institute of Justice of the Department of Justice and the Department of Homeland Security.

SEC. 297. PUBLIC SAFETY TRUST FUND.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY TRUST FUND.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—There is established in the Treasury of the United States a trust fund to be known as the “Public Safety Trust Fund.”

(2) USE OF FUND.—Amounts deposited into or credited to the Public Safety Trust Fund shall be used to achieve the requirements in paragraphs (1) through (3).

(b) CREDITING OF RECEIPTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—There shall be deposited into or credited to the Public Safety Trust Fund proceeds from the auction of spectrum carried out pursuant to—

(1) section 273 of this subtitle; and
(2) section 309(j)(8)(F) of the Communications Act of 1934, as added by section 273 of this subtitle.

(B) AVAILABILITY.—Amounts deposited into or credited to the Public Safety Trust Fund shall be available for use for the following purposes:

(1) PAYMENT OF AUCTIO N INCENTIVE.—Amounts deposited in the Public Safety Trust Fund shall be used to make any required disbursement of payments to licensees required pursuant to clause (1) and clause (4) of subsection (b) of section 309(j)(8)(F) of the Communications Act of 1934.

(B) NOTIFICATION TO CONGRESS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—At least 120 days in advance of any incentive auction conducted pursuant to paragraph (F) of section
309(j)(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, the Chairperson of the Commission, in consultation with the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, shall notify the appropriate committees of Congress—

(I) of the methodology for calculating the disbursement of payments to certain licensees required pursuant to clause (i) and subclauses (II) and (III) of clause (i) of section 309(j)(b); and

(II) that such methodology considers the value of the spectrum voluntarily relinquished in its current use and the timeliness with which such licensees cleared its use of such spectrum; and

(III) of the estimated payments to be made from the Incentive Auction Relocation Fund established under section 309(j)(b)(G) of the Communications Act of 1934.

(ii) DEFINITION.—In this clause, the term “appropriate committees of Congress” means—

(I) the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate;

(II) the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate;

(III) the Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives; and

(IV) the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives.

SEC. 312. TEMPORARY EXTENSION OF EXTENDED BENEFIT PROVISIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 2005 of the Assistance for Unemployed Workers and Struggling Families Act, as enacted by section 101 of the Supporting Unemployed Workers Act of 2011, is amended by striking “January 3, 2012” and inserting “June 9, 2012”.

SECTION 313. REEMPLOYMENT SERVICES AND REEMPLOYMENT AND ELIGIBILITY ASSESSMENT ACTIVITIES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—

(1) PROVISION OF SERVICES AND ACTIVITIES.—Section 4002 of the Supporting Unemployed Workers Act of 2011, as amended by section 102 of the Supporting Unemployed Workers Act of 2011, establishes an account under section 4002(b), which provides the amount described in section 4002(c), commences receiving the amounts described in section 4002(d), and commences receiving the amounts described in subsection (b), whichever occurs first.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect as if included in the enactment of the Unemployment Compensation Extension Act of 2010 (Public Law 111–226).

SEC. 309. PUBLIC SAFETY ROAMING AND PRIORITY ACCESS.

The Commission may adopt rules, if necessary in the public interest, to improve the ability of public safety users to roam onto commercial networks and to gain priority access to commercial networks in an emergency if—

(1) the public safety entity equipment is technically compatible with the commercial network;

(2) the commercial network is reasonably compensated; and

(3) such access does not preempt or otherwise terminate or degrade all existing voice conversations.

TITLE III—ASSISTANCE FOR THE UNEMPLOYED AND PATHWAYS BACK TO WORK

Subtitle A—Supporting Unemployed Workers

SEC. 301. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “Supporting Unemployed Workers Act of 2011.”

PART I—EXTENSION OF EMERGENCY UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION AND CERTAIN EXTENDED BENEFIT PROVISIONS, AND ESTABLISHMENT OF SELF-EMPLOYMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

SEC. 311. EXTENSION OF EMERGENCY UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION PROGRAM.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 4007 of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note), is amended—

(1) by striking “January 3, 2012” each place it appears and inserting “January 3, 2013”; and

(2) in the heading for subsection (b)(2), by striking “January 3, 2012” and inserting “January 3, 2013”;

(b) FUNDING.—Section 4004(e)(1) of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note), is amended by inserting the following new subsection (b):

“(B) may include the provision of—

(1) an examination of how such spectrum is being used;

(2) recommendations on how such spectrum may be used more efficiently;

(3) an assessment of the feasibility of public safety entities relocating from other bands to the public safety broadband spectrum; and

(4) an assessment of whether any spectrum made available by the relocation described in paragraph (3) could be returned to the Commission for reassignment through auction, including through use of incentive auction authorities, an auction or agreements (G) of section 309(j)(b) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 309(j)(b)), as added by section 273(a).

SEC. 298. FCC REPORT ON EFFICIENT USE OF PUBLIC SAFETY SPECTRUM.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this subtitle and every 2 years thereafter, the Commission shall, in consultation with the Assistant Secretary and the Director of NIST, conduct and submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a report on the spectrum allocated for public safety use.

(b) CONTENTS.—The report required by subsection (a) shall include—

(1) an examination of how such spectrum is being used;

(2) recommendations on how such spectrum may be used more efficiently;

(3) an assessment of the feasibility of public safety entities relocating from other bands to the public safety broadband spectrum; and

(4) an assessment of whether any spectrum made available by the relocation described in paragraph (3) could be returned to the Commission for reassignment through auction, including through use of incentive auction authorities, an auction or agreements (G) of section 309(j)(b) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 309(j)(b)), as added by section 273(a).

SEC. 299. PUBLIC SAFETY ROAMING AND PRIORITY ACCESS.

The Commission may adopt rules, if necessary in the public interest, to improve the ability of public safety users to roam onto commercial networks and to gain priority access to commercial networks in an emergency if—

(1) the public safety entity equipment is technically compatible with the commercial network;

(2) the commercial network is reasonably compensated; and

(3) such access does not preempt or otherwise terminate or degrade all existing voice conversations.
‘(iii) additional reemployment services.

‘(3) PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENT.—As a condition of continuing eligibility for emergency unemployment compensation for any week, an individual who has been referred to reemployment services or reemployment and eligibility assessment activities under this subsection shall participate, or shall have completed, in such services, activities, unless the State agency responsible for the administration of State unemployment compensation law determines that there is a reason to excuse failure to participate or complete such services or activities, as defined in guidance to be issued by the Secretary.

‘(2) ISSUANCE OF GUIDANCE.—Not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall issue guidance on the implementation of the reemployment services and reemployment and eligibility assessments activities required to be provided under the amendments made by paragraphs (b) and (c).

(b) FUNDING.—

‘(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4004(c) of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note), is amended—

‘(A) by striking ‘‘There’’ and inserting ‘‘1 ADMINISTRATION.—There’’; and

‘(B) by inserting the following new paragraph:

‘‘(2) REEMPLOYMENT SERVICES AND REEMPLOYMENT AND ELIGIBILITY ASSESSMENT ACTIVITIES.—

‘‘(A) APPROPRIATION.—There are appropriated from the general fund of the Treasury, without fiscal year limitation, out of the employment security administration account as established by section 901(a) of the Social Security Act, such sums as determined by the Secretary of Labor in accordance with subparagraph (B) to assist States in providing reemployment services and reemployment and eligibility assessment activities described in section 4001(h)(2).

‘‘(B) DISTRIBUTION AMONG STATES.—The amount referred to in subparagraph (A) is equal to—

‘‘(i) the number of individuals who will receive reemployment services and reemployment and eligibility assessment activities described in section 4001(h)(2) in all States through the date specified in section 4001(b), multiplied by;

‘‘(ii) $200.’’.}

SEC. 314. FEDERAL-STATE AGREEMENTS TO ADMINISTER A SELF-EMPLOYMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.

Section 4004 of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note), as amended by section 313, is further amended by inserting a new subsection (i) as follows:

‘‘(i) AUTHORITY TO CONDUCT SELF-EMPLOYMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.—

‘‘(1) IN GENERAL.—Any agreement under subsection (a) may provide that the State agency of the State shall establish a self-employment assistance program described in paragraph (2), to provide for the payment of emergency unemployment compensation as self-employment assistance allowance described in paragraph (3), to provide the State with the eligibility criteria specified in subsection (b).

‘‘(2) PAYMENT OF ALLOWANCES.—The self-employment assistance allowance described in subparagraph (A) shall be paid for up to 26 weeks to an eligible individual from such individual’s emergency unemployment compensation account described in section 4002, and the amount in such account shall be reduced accordingly.

‘‘(3) DEFINITION OF ‘SELF-EMPLOYMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM’.—For the purposes of this title, the term ‘self-employment assistance program’ means a program as defined under section 3308(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26 U.S.C. 3308(c)), except as follows:

‘‘(A) all references to ‘regular unemployment compensation under the State law’ shall be deemed to refer instead to ‘emergency unemployment compensation under title IV of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note);’’;

‘‘(B) paragraph (3)(B) shall not apply;

‘‘(C) clause (1) of paragraph (3)(C) shall be deemed to state as follows:—

‘‘(i) include any entrepreneurial training that the State may provide in coordination with programs of training offered by the Small Business Administration, which may include business counseling, mentorship for participants, access to small business development resources, and technical assistance; and;

‘‘(D) the reference to ‘5 percent’ in paragraph (4) shall be deemed to refer instead to ‘1 percent’; and ‘‘(E) paragraph (5) shall not apply.

‘‘(4) AVAILABILITY OF SELF-EMPLOYMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.—In the case of an individual who has received any emergency unemployment compensation payment under this title, such individual shall not receive self-employment assistance allowance under this subsection unless the State agency has a reasonable expectation that such individual will be entitled to at least 26 times the individual’s average weekly benefit amount of emergency unemployment compensation.

‘‘(5) PARTICIPANT OPTION TO TERMINATE PARTICIPATION IN SELF-EMPLOYMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.—

‘‘(A) TERMINATION.—An individual who is participating in a State’s self-employment assistance program may stop or discontinue participation in such program.

‘‘(B) CONTINUED ELIGIBILITY FOR EMERGENCY UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION.—An individual whose participation in the self-employment assistance program is terminated as described in paragraph (1) or who has completed participation in such program, and who meets the eligibility requirements for emergency unemployment compensation under this title, shall receive emergency unemployment compensation pursuant to subsection (g) for up to 26 weeks of unemployment, to the extent that amounts remain in the account established for such individual under section 4002(b) or to the extent that such individual compenses the amounts described in subsections (c), (d), or (e) of such section, respectively.

‘‘(C) DISTRIBUTION AMONG STATES.—The amount received by the State shall not be included in the reemployment services and reemployment and eligibility assessment activities described in section 4001(h)(2).’’.

SEC. 315. CONFORMING AMENDMENT ON PAYMENT OF BRIDGE TO WORK WAGES.

Section 4001 of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note), as amended by section 103, is further amended by inserting a new subsection (i) as follows:

‘‘(i) AUTHORIZATION TO PAY WAGES FOR PURPOSES OF A BRIDGE TO WORK PROGRAM.—Any State that establishes a Bridge to Work Program under section 204 of the Supporting Unemployed Workers Act of 2011 is authorized to deduct from an emergency unemployment compensation account established for such individual under section 4002 such sums as may be necessary to pay wages for such individual as authorized under section 204(b)(1) of such Act.’’.

SEC. 316. ADDITIONAL EXTENDED UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS UNDER THE RAILROAD UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE ACT.

(a) EXTENSION.—Section 2(c)(2)(D)(iii) of the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, as added by section 206 of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (Public Law 111–5) and as amended by section 9 of the Worker, Homeownership, and Business Assistance Act of 2009 (Public Law 111–92), is amended—

‘‘(1) by striking ‘‘June 30, 2011’’ and inserting ‘‘June 30, 2012’’; and

‘‘(2) by striking ‘‘December 31, 2011’’ and inserting ‘‘December 31, 2012’’.

(b) CLARIFICATION ON AUTHORITY TO USE FUNDS.—Funds appropriated under either the first or second sentence of clause (iv) of section 2(c)(2)(D) of the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act shall be available to cover the cost of additional extended unemployment benefits provided under such section (2(c)(2)(D)), as in effect on the date before the date of the enactment of this Act.

PART II—REEMPLOYMENT NOW PROGRAM

SEC. 321. ESTABLISHMENT OF REEMPLOYMENT NOW PROGRAM.

(a) IN GENERAL.—There is hereby established the Reemployment NOW program to be carried out by the Secretary of Labor in accordance with the purposes stated in this section, to facilitate the reemployment of individuals who are receiving emergency unemployment compensation under title IV of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note) (hereafter in this part referred to as “EUC claimants”).

(b) AUTHORIZATION AND APPROPRIATION.—There are authorized to be appropriated and appropriated from the general fund of the Treasury for fiscal year 2012 $4,000,000,000 to carry out the Reemployment NOW program under this part.

SEC. 322. DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Of the funds appropriated under section 321(b) to carry out this part, the Secretary of Labor shall—

‘‘(1) reserve up to 1 percent for the costs of Federal administration and for carrying out rigorous evaluations of the activities conducted under this part; and

‘‘(2) allot the remainder of the funds not reserved under paragraph (1) in accordance with paragraph (b) and subsection (b) to States that have approved plans under section 323.

(b) ALLOTMENT FORMULA.—

‘‘(1) FORMULA.—The Secretary of Labor shall allot the funds available under subsection (a)(2) as follows:

‘‘(ii) $200.’’.}

SEC. 323. ESTABLISHMENT OF REEMPLOYMENT NOW PROGRAM.

(a) IN GENERAL.—There is hereby established the Reemployment NOW program to carry out this part, for the purposes stated in this section, to facilitate the reemployment of individuals who are receiving emergency unemployment compensation under title IV of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note), as amended by section 313, to further amend by inserting a new subsection (i) as follows:

‘‘(i) AUTHORIZATION TO PAY WAGES FOR PURPOSES OF A BRIDGE TO WORK PROGRAM.—Any State that establishes a Bridge to Work Program under section 204 of the Supporting Unemployed Workers Act of 2011 is authorized to deduct from an emergency unemployment compensation account established for such individual under section 4002 such sums as may be necessary to pay wages for such individual as authorized under section 204(b)(1) of such Act.’’.
(A) two-thirds of such funds shall be allotted on the basis of the relative number of unemployed individuals in each State, compared to the total number of unemployed individuals in all States;

(B) one-third of such funds shall be allotted on the basis of the relative number of individuals in each State who have been unemployed for at least 27 weeks or more, compared to the total number of individuals in all States who have been unemployed for 27 weeks or more.

(2) CALCULATION.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the number of unemployed individuals and the number of individuals unemployed for 27 weeks or more shall be based on the data for the most recent 12-month period, as determined by the Secretary.

(c) REALLOTMENT.—

(1) FAILURE TO SUBMIT STATE PLAN.—If a State does not submit a State plan by the time specified in section 322(b), or a State does not receive approval of a State plan, the amount the State would have been eligible to receive pursuant to the formula under subsection (b) shall be allotted to States that receive approval of the State plan under section 323 in accordance with the relative allotments of such States as determined by the Secretary under subsection (b).

(2) FAILURE TO IMPLEMENT ACTIVITIES ON A TIMELY BASIS.—The Secretary of Labor, in accordance with procedures and criteria established by the Secretary, may require the portion of the State allotment under this part that remains unobligated if the Secretary determines that funds are not being obligated at a rate sufficient to meet the purposes of this part. The Secretary shall reallocate such recaptured funds to other States that are subject to recapture in accordance with this section and share the recapture of such States as determined by the Secretary under subsection (b).

(d) RECAPTURE OF FUNDS.—Funds recaptured under paragraph (2) shall be available for reallocation not later than December 31, 2012.

SEC. 323. STATE PLAN.

(a) IN GENERAL.—For a State to be eligible to receive an allotment under section 322, a State shall submit to the Secretary of Labor a State plan in such form and containing such information as the Secretary may require, which at a minimum shall include:

(1) a description of the activities to be carried out by the State to assist in the reemployment of individuals to be served in accordance with this part, including which of the activities authorized in sections 324–328 the State intends to carry out and an estimate of the amounts the State intends to carry out the purposes of this part, in accordance with this part.

SEC. 324. BRIDGE TO WORK PROGRAM.

(a) IN GENERAL.—A State may use funds allotted to the State under this part to establish and administer a Bridge to Work program described in this section.

(b) DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM.—In order to increase the opportunities of individuals to move to permanent employment, a State may establish a Bridge to Work program to provide an EUC claimant with short-term work experience placements with an eligible employer, during which time such individual—

(1) shall be paid emergency unemployment compensation payments under title IV of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note), as wages for work performed, and as specified in subsection (c);

(2) shall be paid the additional amount described in subsection (e) as augmented wages for work performed; and

(3) may be paid compensation in addition to the amounts described in paragraph (1) and (2) by a State or by a participating employer as wages for work performed.

(3) PURPOSES AND OTHER REQUIREMENTS.—For purposes of this program—

(A) individuals who, except for the requirements described in paragraph (3), are eligible for emergency unemployment compensation payments under title IV of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note), and who choose to participate in the program described in this section, shall receive such payments as wages for work performed during their voluntary participation in the program described in subsection (b); and

(b) the wages payable to individuals described in paragraph (1) shall be paid from the emergency unemployment compensation account established under section 4002 of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note), and the amount in such individual’s account shall be reduced accordingly;

(3) THE WAGES PAYABLE TO AN INDIVIDUAL—

(1) shall be paid during the period during which such individual—

(A) is engaged in the business of supplying individuals participating in the program to other employers;

(B) is delinquent with respect to any taxes or employer contributions described under sections 3301 and 3308(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 or with respect to any related reporting requirements;

(iv) is engaged in the business of supplying workers to other employers and would be required to do so by the Secretary of Labor under section 3301 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 or with respect to any related reporting requirements; and

(3) the wages payable to an individual described in paragraph (1) shall be paid from the emergency unemployment compensation account established under section 4002 of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note), and the amount in such individual’s account shall be reduced accordingly;

(4) the wages payable to an individual described in paragraph (1) shall be paid during the period during which such individual is engaged in the business of supplying individuals participating in the program to other employers; or

(v) has previously participated in the program to the extent the Secretary has determined that such employer has failed to abide by any of the requirements specified in subsections (h), (i), (j), or (k) of section 3301 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

(2) AUTHORIZED ACTIVITIES.—Activities that may be carried out under this part include—

(A) the State may establish for the purpose of certifying EUC claimants who participate in any of the programs authorized under this part; and

(2) such other requirements as the Secretary of Labor determines to be appropriate in guidance issued by the Secretary.

(d) STATE REQUIREMENTS.—

(1) CERTIFICATION OF ELIGIBLE EMPLOYER.—A State may certify as eligible for participation in the program under this section any employer that meets the eligibility criteria as established in guidance issued by the Secretary of Labor, except that an employer shall not be certified as eligible for participation in the program described in subsection (b) as an eligible employer if—

(i) the State has determined that such employer has failed to abide by any of the requirements described in paragraph (1); or

(ii) the employer provides assurances that it has not displaced existing workers pursuant to the requirements of subsection (h).

(2) AUTHORIZED ACTIVITIES.—Activities that may be carried out under this part include—

(A) the State may establish for the purpose of certifying EUC claimants who participate in any of the programs authorized under this part; and

(B) such other requirements as the Secretary of Labor determines to be appropriate in guidance issued by the Secretary.
(ii) review and certify employers identified by eligible individuals seeking to participate in the program;

(iii) ensure that reemployment and counseling services are provided for program participants, including services describing the program under subsection (b), prior to an individual’s participation in such program;

(iv) establish and implement processes to monitor the progress and performance of individual participants for the duration of the program;

(v) prevent misuse of the program; and

(vi) pay augmented wages to eligible individuals, if necessary, as described in subsection (e); and

(2) PROHIBITION.—(i) to pay workers’ compensation insurance premiums to cover all individuals participating in the program, except that, if a State opts not to make such payments directly to a State administered workers’ compensation program, the State involved shall describe in the approved State plan the means by which such State shall ensure workers’ compensation or equivalent coverage for all individuals who participate in the program;

(ii) to pay compensation to a participating individual in addition to the wages described in subsections (c)(1) and (e) as wages for work performed;

(iii) to provide supportive services, such as transportation, child care, and dependent care, that would enable individuals to participate in the program;

(iv) for the administration and oversight of the program; and

(v) to fulfill additional program requirements included in the approved State plan.

(e) PAYMENT OF AUGMENTED WAGES IF NECESSARY.—In the event that the wages described in subsection (c)(1) are not sufficient to equal or exceed the minimum wages that are required to be paid by an employer under section (1) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (29 U.S.C. 206(a)(1)) or the applicable State or local minimum wage law, whichever is higher, a State shall pay augmented wages to a program participant in any amount necessary to cover the difference between—

(1) such minimum wages amount; and

(2) the wages payable under subsection (c)(1).

(f) EFFECT OF WAGES ON ELIGIBILITY FOR OTHER PROGRAMS.—None of the wages paid pursuant to subsection (e) shall be considered income for the purposes of determining eligibility for and the amount of income transfer and in-kind aid furnished under any Federal or Federally assisted program based on need.

(g) EFFECT OF WAGES, WORK ACTIVITIES, AND PROGRAM PARTICIPATION ON CONTINUING ELIGIBILITY FOR EMERGENCY UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION.—Any wages paid under this section and any additional wages paid by an employer to an individual described in subsection (c)(1), and any work activities performed by an individual as a participant in the program, shall not be construed so as to render such individual ineligible to receive emergency unemployment compensation under title IV of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–182; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note).

(h) NONDISPLACEMENT OF EMPLOYEES.—(1) PROHIBITION.—An employer shall not use a program participant to displace (including a partial displacement, such as a reduction in the hours of non-overtime work, wages, or benefits) any current worker (as of the date of the participation).

(2) OTHER PROHIBITIONS.—An employer shall not use funding awarded pursuant to this section to eliminate, reduce, or displace a program participant to perform work activities related to any job for which—

(A) any other individual is on layoff from the same or any substantially equivalent position;

(B) the employer has terminated the employment;

(C) the employer has otherwise reduced the workforce of the employer with the intention of filling or partially filling the vacancy so created with the work activities to be performed by a program participant;

(D) there is a strike or lock out at the worksite that is the participant’s place of employment;

(E) the participant has completed the program, a State shall bar such employer from further participation in the program.

(2) continued eligibility for emergency unemployment compensation.—An individual who opts to discontinue participation in such program, is terminated from such program by a participating employer, or who has completed participation in such program, and who continues to meet the eligibility requirements for emergency unemployment compensation under title IV of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110–182; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note), shall receive emergency unemployment compensation payments with respect to subsequent weeks of unemployment, to the extent that amounts remain in the account established for such individual under section 402(b) of such Act or to the extent that such individual commences receiving the amounts described in subsections (c), (d), (e), or (f) of such section, respectively.

(m) EFFECT OF OTHER LAWS.—Unless otherwise provided in this section, nothing in this section shall be construed to alter or affect the requirements for Federal, State, or local laws with respect to any individual described in subsection (c)(1) and with respect to any participating employer under this section.

(n) TREATMENT OF PAYMENTS.—All wages or other payments to an individual under this section shall be treated as payments of unemployment insurance for purposes of section 209 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 403) and for purposes of subtitle B and sections 3101 and 3111 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

SEC. 325. WAGE INSURANCE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The wage insurance program provided under this section may use funds allotted to the State under this part to provide a wage insurance program for EUC claimants.

(b) BENEFITS.—The wage insurance program provided under this section may use funds allotted to the State under this part to pay, for a period not to exceed 2 years, to a worker described in subsection (c), up to 50 percent of the difference between—

(1) the wages received by the worker at the time of separation; and

(2) the wages received by the worker for re-employment.

(c) INDIVIDUAL ELIGIBILITY.—The benefits described in the wage insurance program are available to an individual who is an EUC claimant at the time such individual obtains reemployment and—

(1) is at least 50 years of age;

(2) earns not more than $5,000 per year in wages from reemployment;

(3) is employed on an at-will, on a time basis as defined by the law of the State; and

(4) is not employed by the employer from whom the individual was last separated.

(2) TOTAL AMOUNT.—The State shall establish a maximum amount of payments per individual for purposes of payments described in subsection (b) during the eligibility period described in such subsection.

(e) NON-DISCRIMINATION REGARDING WORKERS.—An employer shall not charge a worker described in subsection (c) less than such employer pays to a regular worker in the same or substantially equivalent position.

SEC. 326. ENHANCED REEMPLOYMENT STRATEGIES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—A State may use funds allotted under this part to provide a program of enhanced reemployment services to EUC claimants. In addition to the provision of services to such claimants, the program may include the provision of reemployment services to individuals who are unemployed and have exhausted their rights to emergency unemployment compensation under title IV of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008, (Public Law 110–182; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note).

The program shall provide reemployment services that are more intensive than the reemployment services provided by the State prior to the receipt of the allotment under this part.

(b) TYPES OF SERVICES.—The enhanced reemployment services described in subsection (a) may include services such as—

(1) assessments, counseling, and other interventions that are provided by staff on a one-to-one basis and may be customized to meet the reemployment needs of EUC claimants and individuals described in subsection (a);

(2) comprehensive assessments designed to identify alternative career paths;

(3) case management;

(4) reemployment services that are provided more frequently and more intensively than such reemployment services have previously been provided by the State; and

(5) services that are designed to enhance communication skills, interviewing skills, and other skills that would assist in obtaining reemployment.

SEC. 327. SELF-EMPLOYMENT PROGRAMS.

A State may use funds allotted to the State under this part in an amount specified under an approved State plan, for the administrative costs associated with starting up the self-employment assistance program described in section 4001 of the Supplemental Appropriations Act of 2008, (Public Law 110-252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note).

SEC. 328. ADDITIONAL INNOVATIVE PROGRAMS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—A State may use funds allotted under this part to provide a program for innovative activities, which use strategies that are different from the reemployment strategies described in sections 324-327 and which are designed to facilitate the reemployment of UC claimants. In addition to the provision of activities to such claimants, the program may include the provision of activities to individuals who are unemployed and who have their rights to emergency unemployment compensation under title IV of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008, (Public Law 110-252; 26 U.S.C. 3304 note).

(b) CONDITIONS.—The innovative activities approved in accordance with subsection (a) shall directly benefit UC claimants and, if applicable, individuals described in subsection (a); shall be beneficial to such claimant or individual or as a service provided to such claimant or individual; (2) shall not result in a reduction in the duration, amount or eligibility for regular compensation or extended benefits; (4) shall not be used to displace (including a partial displacement, such as a reduction in the hours of non-overtime work, wages, or employment benefits) any currently employed employee (as of the date of the participation) or allow a program participant to perform work activities related to any job for which— (A) any other individual is on layoff from the same or any substantially equivalent job; (B) the employer has terminated the employment of any regular employee or otherwise reduced the workforce of the employer with the intention of filling or partially filling the vacancy so created with the work activities to be performed by a program participant; (C) there is a strike or lock out at the worksite that is the participant’s place of employment; or (D) the job is created in a manner that will infringe in any way upon the promotional opportunities of currently employed individuals (as of the date of the participation).

SEC. 329. GUIDANCE AND ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS.

The Secretary of Labor may establish through guidance, without regard to the requirements of section 553 of title 5, United States Code, such additional requirements, including requirements regarding the allotment, recapture, and reallocation of funds, and reporting requirements, as the Secretary determines to be necessary to ensure fiscal integrity, effective monitoring, and appropriate and prompt implementation of the activities under this Act.

SEC. 330. REPORT OF INFORMATION AND EVALUATIONS TO CONGRESS AND THE SECRETARY OF LABOR.

The Secretary of Labor shall provide to the appropriate Committees of Congress and make available to the public the information reported pursuant to section 329 and the evaluations and reports required under this Act to the funds reserved under section 322(a)(1).

SEC. 331. STATE.

For purposes of this part, the term “State” has the meaning given that term in section 205 of the Federal-State Extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 1970 (26 U.S.C. 3304 note).

PART III—SHORT-TIME COMPENSATION PROGRAM

SEC. 341. TREATMENT OF SHORT-TIME COMPENSATION PROGRAMS.

(a) DEFINITION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 3306 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26 U.S.C. 3306) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(v) SHORT-TIME COMPENSATION PROGRAM.—For purposes of this chapter, the term ‘short-time compensation program’ means a program under which—

(1) the participation of an employer is voluntary;

(2) an employer reduces the number of hours worked by employees in lieu of layoffs;

(3) such employees whose workweeks have been reduced by at least 10 percent, and by not more than the percentage, if any, that is determined by the State to be appropriate (but in no case more than 60 percent), are eligible for unemployment compensation;

(4) the amount of unemployment compensation payable to any such employee is a pro rata portion of the unemployment compensation which otherwise would be payable to the employee if such were totally unemployed from the participating employer;

(5) such employees meet the availability for work and work search test requirements while collecting short-time compensation benefits, by being available for their workweek as required by their participation in the short-time compensation program;

(6) eligible employees may participate, as appropriate, in training (including employer-sponsored training or worker training funded under the Workforce Investment Act of 1998) to enhance job skills if such program has been approved by the State agency;

(7) the State agency shall require employers to certify that if the employer provides health benefits and retirement benefits under a defined benefit plan (as defined in section 414(j)) or contributions under a defined contribution plan (as defined in subsection (v)); and

(8) the employer will offer, to the extent practicable, reemployment strategies described in sections 324–327 and the reemployment strategies required under the Employment Security Act of 1970 (as of the date of the enactment of this Act) that are different from the reemployment strategies set forth in section 324–327 and the reemployment strategies required under the Employment Security Act of 1970 (as of the date of the enactment of this Act).

(b) TREATMENT OF SHORT-TIME COMPENSATION PAYMENTS IN STATES WITH PROGRAMS IN LAW.

(a) PAYMENTS TO STATES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (3), there shall be paid to a State an amount equal to 100 percent of any short-time compensation paid under a short-time compensation program (as defined in section 3306(v)) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, which is paid to an individual by the State during a week as required by their participation in the short-time compensation program, subject to other requirements in this section; (2) the State agency shall require employers to submit a written plan describing the manner in which the requirements of this subsection will be satisfied (including a plan for giving advance notice, where feasible, to an employee whose workweek is to be reduced) together with an estimate of the number of layoffs that would have occurred absent the ability to participate in short-time compensation and such other information as the Secretary of Labor determines is appropriate.

(3) LIMITATIONS ON PAYMENTS.—

(a) GENERAL PAYMENT LIMITATIONS.—No payments shall be made to a State under paragraph (1) unless the Secretary estimates for any prior calendar month, reduced or increased, as the case may be, by any amount by which the Secretary finds that the Secretary’s estimates for any prior calendar month were greater or less than the amounts which should have been paid to the State.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Social Security Act is amended by striking the payment of short-time compensation under a short-time compensation program (as defined in section 3306(v)) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, which is paid to an individual by the State, under the provisons of the State law.

(2) TERMS OF PAYMENTS.—Payments made to a State under paragraph (1) shall be paid to the State by the Secretary in the manner prescribed in section 3306(v) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, which is paid to an individual by the State.
benefit year in excess of 26 times the amount of regular compensation (including dependents’ allowances) under the State law payable to such individual for a week of total unemployment.

(B) EMPLOYER LIMITATIONS.—No payments shall be made to a State under this section for benefits paid to an individual by the State short-time compensation program if such individual is employed by the participating employer on a seasonal, temporary, or intermittent basis.

(a) Definitions.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—Payments to a State under subsection (a) shall be available for weeks of unemployment—
(A) beginning on or after the date of the enactment of this Act; and
(B) ending on or before the date that is 3 years and 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) Three-year funding limitation for combined payments under this section and section 343.—States may receive payments under this section and section 343 with respect to a total of not more than 156 weeks.

(b) Applicability.—
(1) In general.—A State which desires to enter into an agreement under this section shall apply to the Secretary for payment to each State the amount provided under paragraph (2) of subsection (b) of section 3303 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as added by section 341(a).

(c) Four-year funding limitation for combined payments under this section and section 343.—Payments to a State under section 342(b), shall be eligible to receive payments under section 342(b) and section 343 for weeks of unemployment beginning after the effective date of such State law; and

(d) Limitations on plans.—
(1) General payment limitations.—A short-time compensation plan approved by a State shall not permit the payment of short-time compensation to an individual by the State during a benefit year in excess of 26 times the amount of regular compensation (including dependents’ allowances) under the State law payable to such individual for a week of total unemployment.

(2) Employer limitations.—Payments made under this section for weeks of unemployment—
(A) beginning on or after the date on which such agreement is entered into; and
(B) ending on or before the date that is 2 years and 13 weeks after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(3) Two-year funding limitation.—States may receive payments under this section with respect to a total of not more than 104 weeks.

(c) Special Rule.—If a State has entered into an agreement under this section and subsequently enters into an agreement under section 3309 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as added by section 341(a), the Secretary shall—
(1) not be eligible for payments under this section for weeks of unemployment beginning after the effective date of such State law; and
(2) subject to paragraphs (1)(B) and (2) of section 342(b), shall be eligible to receive payments under section 342(b) and section 343 for weeks of unemployment beginning after the effective date of such State law.

(d) Definitions.—In this section:
(1) Secretary.—The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of Labor.
(2) State; State agency; State law.—The terms “State”, “State agency”, and “State law” have the meanings given those terms in section 205 of the Federal-State Extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 1970 (26 U.S.C. 3304 note).

SEC. 344. GRANTS FOR SHORT-TIME COMPENSATION PROGRAMS.

(a) Grants.—
(1) For implementation or improved administration.—The Secretary shall award grants to States that enact short-time compensation programs as defined in subsection (1)(2) for the purpose of implementing or improved administration of such programs.

(2) For promotion and enrollment.—The Secretary shall award grants to States that are included under §472 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 that do not provide for the payment of short-time compensation to an individual by the State short-time compensation plan approved by a State shall not provide payments to an individual if such individual is employed by the participating employer on a seasonal, temporary, or intermittent basis.

(3) Eligibility.—In general.—The Secretary shall determine eligibility criteria for the grants under paragraph (1) and (2).

(b) Amount of grants.—
(1) In general.—The maximum amount available for making grants to a State under paragraphs (1) and (2) shall be equal to the amount obtained by multiplying $700,000,000 (less the amount used by the Secretary under subsection (c)) by the same ratio as would apply under subsection (a)(2)(B) of section 903 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 653 note) for purposes of determining such State’s share of any excess amount (as described in subsection (a)(1) of such section) that would have been subject to transfer to State accounts, as of October 1, 2010, under the provisions of subsection (a) of such section.

(2) Amount available for different grants.—Of the maximum incentive payment determined under paragraph (1) with respect to a State—
(A) one-third shall be available for a grant under subsection (a)(1); and
(B) two-thirds shall be available for a grant under subsection (a)(2).

(c) Grant Application and Disbursement.—
(1) Application.—Any State seeking a grant under paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (a) shall submit an application to the Secretary at such time, in such manner, and complete with such information as the Secretary may require. The Secretary may award a grant under this section with respect to an application that is submitted after December 31, 2014.

(2) Notice.—The Secretary shall, within 30 days after receiving a complete application, notify the State agency of the State of the Secretary’s findings with respect to the requirements for a grant under paragraph (1) or (2) (or both) of subsection (a), or (3) Certification.—If the Secretary finds that the State law or provisions meet the requirements for a grant under subsection (a), the Secretary shall thereupon make a certification to that effect to the Secretary of the Treasury, together with a certification as to the amount of the grant payment to be transferred to the State account in the Unemployment Trust Fund (as established in section 3314 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 503)) pursuant to that finding. The Secretary of the Treasury shall make the appropriate transfers from the State account within 7 days after receiving such certification.

(4) Requirement.—No certification of compliance with the requirements for a grant under paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (a) may be made with respect to any State whose—
(A) State law is not otherwise eligible for certification under section 330 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 503) or approvable under section 3301 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986; or
(B) the short-time compensation program is subject to discontinuation or is not scheduled to take effect within 12 months of the certification.

(d) Use of Funds.—The amount of any grant awarded under this section shall be used for the implementation of short-time compensation programs and the coordination of such programs and the promotion and enrollment efforts associated with such programs, as through—
(1) the creation or support of rapid response teams to advise employers about alternatives to layoffs;
(2) the provision of education and assistance to employers to enable them to assess the feasibility of participating in short-time compensation programs; and
(3) the development or enhancement of systems to automate—
(A) the submission and approval of plans; and
(B) the filing and approval of new and ongoing short-time compensation claims.

(e) Administration.—The Secretary is authorized to use 0.25 percent of the funds available under this section (g) to provide for outreach and to share best practices with respect to this section and short-time compensation programs.

(f) Recoupment.—The Secretary shall establish a process under which the Secretary shall recoup the amount of any grant awarded under this section (g) that is unexpended and (2) of subsection (a) if the Secretary determines that, during the 5-year period beginning on the first date that any such grant is awarded to the State, the State—
(1) terminated the State’s short-time compensation program; or
(2) failed to meet appropriate requirements with respect to such program (as established by the Secretary).

(g) Funding.—There are appropriated, out of moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to the Secretary, $700,000,000 to carry out this section, to remain available without fiscal year limitation.

(h) Reports.—The Secretary may establish reporting requirements for States receiving a grant under this section in order to provide the Secretary with funds
(1) Definitions.—In this section:
(1) Secretary.—The term ‘Secretary’ means the Secretary of Labor.
(2) Short-Time Compensation Program.—The term ‘short-time compensation program’ means the meaning given such term in section 3305(v) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26 U.S.C. 503).
(3) State; State Agency; State Law.—The terms ‘State’, ‘State agency’, and ‘State law’ have the meanings given those terms in section 205 of the Federal-State Extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 1970 (26 U.S.C. 3304 note).

SEC. 345. ASSISTANCE AND GUIDANCE IN IMPLEMENTING PROGRAMS.

(a) In General.—In order to assist States in establishing, qualifying, and implementing short-time compensation programs (as defined in section 3306(v) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as added by section 341(a)), the Secretary (this section referred to as the ‘Secretary’) shall—
(1) develop model legislative language which may be used by States in developing their short-time compensation programs and periodically review and revise such model legislative language;
(2) provide technical assistance and guidance in designing, implementing and evaluating such programs;
(3) establish reporting requirements for States, including reporting on—
(A) the number of estimated averted layoffs;
(B) the number of participating employers and workers; and
(C) such other items as the Secretary of Labor determines are appropriate.

(b) Model Language and Guidance.—The model legislative language and guidance developed pursuant to paragraph (1) shall be used to provide sufficient flexibility to the States and participating employers while ensuring accountability and program integrity.

(c) Consultation.—In developing the model legislative language and guidance under subsection (a), and in order to meet the requirements of subsection (b), the Secretary shall consult with employers, labor organizations, State workforce agencies, and other program experts.

SEC. 346. REPORTS.

(a) Report.—(1) In General.—Not later than 4 years after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Labor shall submit to Congress and to the President a report or reports on the implementation of the provisions of this Act.

(2) Requirements.—Any report under paragraph (1) shall at a minimum include the following:
(A) A description of best practices by States and employers in the administration, promotion, and use of short-time compensation programs (as defined in section 3306(v) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as added by such section).
(B) An analysis of the significant challenges to State enactment and implementation of short-time compensation programs.
(C) A survey of employers in States that have not enacted a short-time compensation program or entered into an agreement with the Secretary on a short-time compensation plan to determine the interest among such employers in participating in short-time compensation programs.

(b) Funds.—If funds are appropriated, out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to the Secretary of Labor, $1,500,000 to carry out this section, to remain available without fiscal year limitation.

Subtitle B—Long Term Unemployed Hiring Preferences

SEC. 351. LONG TERM UNEMPLOYED WORKERS AS WORK OPPORTUNITY TAX CREDITS.

(a) In General.—Paragraph (3) of section 51(b) of the Internal Revenue Code is amended by inserting ‘$10,000 per year in the case of a tax-exempt employer’ in section 51(i)(3)(A). For purposes of subsection (d)(11), ‘tax-exempt employer’ means an employer that is—
(1) an organization described in section 501(c) and exempt from taxation under section 501(a), or
(2) a public higher education institution (as defined in section 101 of the Higher Education Act of 1965).

(14) Eligibility.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘long-term unemployed individual’ means an individual who is a qualified long-term unemployed individual under paragraphs (11) through (14) as follows:
“(ii) amounts required to be withheld from such employees under section 3101, and “(iii) amounts of the taxes imposed on the tax-exempt employer under section 3111.”.

(3) Determinations.—

(A) PAYMENTS TO POSSESSIONS.—

(1) MIRROR CODE POSSESSIONS.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to each possession of the United States with a mirror code tax system amounts equal to the loss to that possession by reason of the application of this section (other than this subsection). Such amounts shall be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury based on information provided by the government of the respective possession.

(B) OTHER POSSESSIONS.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to each possession of the United States, which does not have a mirror code tax system, amounts estimated by the Secretary of the Treasury as being equal to the aggregate credits that would have been provided by the possession by reason of the application of this section (other than this subsection) if a mirror code tax system had been in effect in such possession.

The preceding sentence shall not apply with respect to any possession of the United States unless such possession has a plan, which has been approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, under which such possession will promptly distribute such payments.

(2) COORDINATION WITH CREDIT ALLOWED AGAINST UNITED STATES INCOME TAXES.—No increment of the amounts determined under section 38(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 that is attributable to the credit provided by this section (other than this subsection) shall be taken into account with respect to any person—

(A) to whom a credit is allowed against taxes imposed by the possession of the United States; or

(B) who is eligible for a payment under a plan described in paragraph (1) with respect to such taxable year.

(3) DEFINITIONS AND SPECIAL RULES.—

(A) POSSESSION OF THE UNITED STATES.—For purposes of this subsection (e), the term "possession of the United States" includes American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, and the United States Virgin Islands.

(B) MIRROR CODE TAX SYSTEM.—For purposes of this subsection, the term "mirror code tax system" means, with respect to any possession of the United States, the tax system of such possession if the income tax liability of the residents of such possession under such system is determined by reference to the income tax laws of the United States as if such possession were the United States.

(C) TREATMENT OF PAYMENTS.—For purposes of section 132(b)(2) of title 31, United States Code, rules similar to the rules of section 1001(b)(3)(C) of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Tax Act of 2009 shall apply.

(f) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to individuals who begin work for the employer after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Subtitle C—Pathways Back to Work

SEC. 361. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “Pathways Back to Work of 2011.”

SEC. 362. ESTABLISHMENT OF PATHWAYS BACK TO WORK FUND.

(a) Establishment.—There is established in the Treasury of the United States a fund which shall be known as the Pathways Back to Work Fund (hereafter in this Act referred to as the “Fund”).

(b) Deposits Into the Fund.—Out of any amounts in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated $5,000,000,000 for payment to the Fund to be used by the Secretary of Labor to carry out this Act.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Of the amounts available to the Fund under section 362(b), the Secretary of Labor shall—

(A) allot $2,000,000,000 in accordance with section 364 to provide subsidized employment to unemployed, low-income adults;

(B) allot $1,500,000,000 in accordance with section 365 to provide summer and year-round employment opportunities to low-income youth;

(C) award $1,500,000,000 in competitive grants under section 366 to local entities to carry out work-based training and other work-related and educational strategies and activities of demonstrated effectiveness to unemployed, low-income adults and low-income youth to provide the skills and assistance needed to obtain employment.

(b) RESERVATION.—The Secretary of Labor may reserve not more than 1 percent of the amounts available to the Fund under each of paragraphs (1)–(3) of subsection (a) for the costs of technical assistance, evaluations and Federal administration of this Act.

(c) PERIOD OF AVAILABILITY.—The amounts appropriated under this Act shall be available for obligation by the Secretary of Labor until December 31, 2012, and shall be available for expenditure by grantees and subgrantees until September 30, 2013.

SEC. 364. SUBSIDIZED EMPLOYMENT FOR UNEMPLOYED, LOW-INCOME ADULTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—

(1) ALLOTMENTS.—From the funds available under subsection (b), the Secretary of Labor shall make an allotment under subsection (b) to each State that has a State plan approved under subsection (c) and to each outlying area that has a grantee under section 166 of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 that meets the requirements of this section, for the purpose of providing subsidized employment opportunities to unemployed, low-income adults.

(2) GUIDANCE.—Not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Labor, in coordination with the Secretary of Health and Human Services, shall issue guidance regarding the implementation of this section. Such guidance shall, among other things, establish the procedures for the submission and approval of State and local plans and the allotment and allocation of funds, including reallocation and reallocation of funds, that promote the expeditious and effective implementation of the activities authorized under this section.

(b) STATE ALLOTMENTS.—

(1) RESERVATIONS FOR OUTLYING AREAS AND TERRITORIES.—Of the funds described subsection (a)(1), the Secretary shall reserve—

(A) not more than one percent to provide assistance to outlying areas to provide subsidized employment to low-income adults who are unemployed; and

(B) 1.5 percent to provide assistance to grantees of the Native American programs under section 166 of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 to provide subsidized employment to low-income adults who are unemployed.

(2) STATES.—After determining the amounts to be reserved under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall allot the remainder of the amounts described in subsection (a)(1) among the States as follows:

(A) one-third shall be allotted on the basis of the relative number of disadvantaged adults and youth in each State, compared to the total number of disadvantaged adults and youth in all States; and

(B) one-third shall be allotted on the basis of the relative number of disadvantaged adults and youth in each State, compared to the total number of disadvantaged adults and youth in all States.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of the formula described in paragraph (2)—

(A) AREA OF SUBSTANTIAL UNEMPLOYMENT.—The term "area of substantial unemployment" means any contiguous area with a population of at least 10,000 and that has an average rate of unemployment of at least 6.5 percent for the most recent 12 months, as determined by the Secretary.

(B) DISADVANTAGED ADULTS AND YOUTH.—The term "disadvantaged adults and youth" means an individual who is age 16 and older (subject to section 132(b)(1)(B)(v)(I) of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998) who received an income, or is a member of a family that received a total net income, in relation to family size, does not exceed the higher of—

(i) the poverty line; or

(ii) 70 percent of the lower living standard income level.

(C) EXCESS NUMBER.—The term "excess number" means, with respect to the excess number of unemployed individuals within a State, the higher of—

(i) the number that represents the number of unemployed individuals in excess of 4.5 percent of the civilian labor force in the State; or

(ii) the number that represents the number of unemployed individuals in excess of 4.5 percent of the civilian labor force in areas of substantial unemployment in such State.

(D) REALLOTMENT.—If the Governor of a State does not submit a State plan by the time specified in subsection (c), or a State does not receive approval of a State plan, the amount the State would have been eligible to receive pursuant to the formula under paragraph (2) shall be transferred within the Fund and added to the amounts available for the competitive grants under section 363(a)(3).

(e) STATE PLAN.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—For a State to be eligible for an allotment of the funds under subsection (b), the Governor of the State shall submit to the Secretary of Labor a State plan in such form and containing such information as the Secretary may require. At a minimum, such plan shall include—

(A) a description of the strategies and activities to be carried out by the State, in coordination with employers in the State, to provide subsidized employment opportunities to unemployed, low-income adults, including strategies relating to the level and duration of subsidies consistent with subsection (e)(2);

(B) a description of the requirements the State will apply relating to the eligibility of unemployed, low-income adults, consistent with section 368(6), for subsidized employment opportunities, which may include criteria to target assistance to particular categories of such adults, such as individuals with disabilities or individuals who have exhausted all rights to unemployment compensation;

(C) a description of how the funds allotted to provide subsidized employment opportunities will be administered in the State and local areas, in accordance with subsection (d); and

(D) a description of the performance outcomes to be achieved by the State through the activities carried out under this section and the processes the State will use to track performance, consistent with guidance provided by the Secretary of Labor regarding such processes and procedures and with section 367(b); (E) a description of the coordination of activities to be carried out with the funds provided under this section with any assistance under title I of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998, the TANF program under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act, and other Federal and State programs that may assist unemployed, low-income adults in obtaining and retaining employment; (F) a description of the timelines for implementation of the activities described in subparagraph (A), and the number of unemployed and low-income adult participants expected to be placed in subsidized employment by quarter; (G) assurances that the State will report such information as the Secretary of Labor may require relating to fiscal, performance and other matters that the Secretary determines is necessary to effectively monitor the activities carried out under this section; and (H) the State will ensure compliance with the labor standards and protections described in section 367(a) of this Act. (2) SUBMISSION AND APPROVAL OF STATE PLAN.—(A) SUBMISSION WITH OTHER PLANS.—The State plan required in this subsection may be submitted in conjunction with the State plan modification or request for funds required under section 365, and may be submitted as a modification to a State plan that has been approved under section 112 of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998. (B) SUBMISSION AND APPROVAL.—(i) IN GENERAL.—The Governor shall submit a plan to the Secretary of Labor not later than 75 days after the enactment of this Act and the Secretary of Labor shall make a determination regarding the approval or disapproval of such plans not later than 45 days after the submission of such plan. If the plan is disapproved, the Secretary of Labor may provide a reasonable period of time in which a disapproved plan may be amended and resubmitted for approval. (ii) APPROVAL.—The Secretary of Labor shall approve a plan that the Secretary determines is consistent with requirements of this section and reasonably appropriate and adequate to carry out the purposes of this section. If the plan is approved, the Secretary shall allot funds to States within 30 days after such approval. (C) MODIFICATIONS TO STATE PLAN.—The Governor may submit a modification to a State plan under this subsection consistent with the requirements of this section. (d) MODIFICATIONS TO THE PLAN.—(1) OPTION.—The State or local entities responsible for the administration of the adult formula program under title I-B of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998, and the entities responsible for the administration of the TANF program under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act; or (A) a combination of the entities described in subparagraphs (A) and (B); (2) WITHIN-STATE ALLOCATIONS.—(A) ALLOCATION OF FUNDS.—The Governor may reserve up to 5 percent of the allotment under this section for administration and technical assistance, and shall allocate the remainder, in accordance with the option elected under paragraph (1)— (i) to local workforce investment areas within the State in accordance with the factors identified in subsection (b)(2), except that for purposes of such allocation references to a State in such paragraph shall be deemed to be references to a local workforce investment area and references to all States shall be deemed to be references to all local areas in the State involved, of which not more than 10 percent of the funds allocated to a local workforce investment area may be used for the costs of administration of this section; or (ii) through entities responsible for the administration of the TANF program under title I-B of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998; and (B) LOCAL PLANS.—(i) IN GENERAL.—In the case where the responsibility for the administration of activities is to be carried out by the entities described under paragraph (1)(A), in order to receive an allocation under subparagraph (A)(i), a local workforce investment board, in partnership with the chief elected official of the local workforce investment area involved, shall submit to the Governor a local plan for the use of such funds under this section not later than 30 days after the submission of the State plan. Such local plan may be submitted as a modification to a local plan approved under section 118 of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998. (ii) CONTENTS.—The local plan described in clause (i) shall contain the elements described in subparagraphs (A)–(H) of subsection (c)(1), as applied to the local workforce investment area. (iii) APPROVAL.—The Governor shall approve or disapprove the local plan submitted under clause (i) within 30 days after submission, or if later, 30 days after the approval of the State plan shall approve the local plan unless the Governor determines that the plan is inconsistent with requirements of this section or is not reasonably appropriate and adequate to carry out the purposes of this section. If the Governor has not made a determination within the period specified under the first sentence of this clause, the plan shall be considered approved. If the plan is disapproved, the Governor may provide a reasonable period of time in which a disapproved plan may be amended and resubmitted for approval. The Governor shall allocate funds to local workforce investment areas with approved plans within 30 days after such approval. (C) REALLOCATION OF FUNDS TO LOCAL AREAS.—If a local workforce investment board does not submit a local plan by the time specified in subparagraph (B) or the Governor determines that the local plan the Governor shall allocate funds to local workforce investment areas that receive approval of the local plan under subparagraph (B). Such reallocations shall be made in accordance with the relative share of the allocations to such local workforce investment areas applying the formula factors described under subparagraph (A)(i). (e) USE OF FUNDS.—(1) IN GENERAL.—The funds under this section shall be used to provide subsidized employment for unemployed, low-income adults. The funds described in subsection (d)(1) may be used to provide employment opportunities likely to lead to unsubsidized employment in emerging or in-demand occupations in the local area. Funds described in subsection (d)(1) may be used to provide for support services, such as transportation and child care, that are necessary to enable the participation of individuals in subsidized employment opportunities. (2) LEVEL OF SUBSIDY AND DURATION.—The States or local entities described in subsection (d)(1) may determine the level of the wages and costs of employing a participant for which an employer may receive a subsidy with the funds provided under this section. Such determination shall be made in accordance with guidance issued by the Secretary. The State or local entities may establish criteria for determining such percentage or duration using appropriate factors such as the size of the employer and types of employment. (f) COORDINATION OF FEDERAL ADMINISTRATION.—The Secretary shall administer this section in coordination with the Secretary of Health and Human Services to ensure the effective implementation of this section.

SEC. 365. SUMMER EMPLOYMENT AND YEAR-ROUND EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR LOW-INCOME YOUTH. (a) IN GENERAL.—From the funds available under section 363(a)(2), the Secretary of Labor shall make an allotment under subsection (c) to each State that has a State plan approved under section 363(a)(2), the funds provided for funds specified in guidance under subsection (b) approved under subsection (d) and to each outlying area and Native American tribe under the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 that meets the requirements of this section, for the purpose of providing summer employment and year-round employment opportunities to low-income youth. (b) GUIDANCE AND APPLICATION OF REQUIREMENTS.—(1) GUIDANCE.—Not later than 20 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Labor shall issue guidance regarding the implementation of this section. Such guidance shall, consistent with this section, include procedures for the submission and approval of State plan modifications, or for forms of requests for funds by the State as may be identified in such guidance, local plan modifications, or other forms of requests for funds from local workforce investment areas as may be identified in such guidance. (2) REQUIREMENTS.—Except as otherwise provided in the guidance described in paragraph (1) and in this section and other provisions of this Act, the funds provided for activities under this section shall be administered in accordance with subtitles B and E of title I of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 relating to youth activities. (c) STATE ALLOTMENTS.—(1) RESERVATIONS FOR OUTLYING AREAS AND TRIBES.—Of the funds described in subsection (b), the Secretary shall reserve not more than one-quarter of one percent to provide assistance to outlying areas to provide summer and year-round employment opportunities to low-income youth; and (B) 1.5 percent to provide assistance to grantees of the Native American programs under section 363(a)(2) of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 to provide summer and year-round employment opportunities to low-income youth.

STATES.—After determining the amounts to be reserved under paragraph (1), the Secretary of Labor shall allot the remainder of the amounts described in subsection (a) to each State that has a State plan approved under section 363(a)(2) of this Act.
(3) REALLOTTMENT.—If the Governor of a State does not submit a State plan modification or other request for funds specified in guidance under subsection (b) by the time specified in paragraph (2), or the Governor of a State does not receive approval of such State plan modification or request, the amount the State would have been eligible to receive pursuant to the formula under paragraph (2) shall be transferred within the Fund and added to the amounts available for the competitive grant described in section 363(a)(3).

(c) STATE PLAN MODIFICATIONS

(1) IN GENERAL.—For a State to be eligible to receive an allotment of the funds under subsection (a), the Governor of the State shall submit to the Secretary of Labor a modification to a State plan approved under section 112 of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998, or other request for funds described in guidance in subsection (b), in such form and containing such information as the Secretary may require. At a minimum, such plan modification shall include—

(A) a description of the strategies and activities to be carried out to provide summer employment opportunities and year-round employment initiatives, including the linkages to educational activities, consistent with subsection (f);

(B) a description of the requirements the States will apply relating to the eligibility of low-income youth, consistent with section 369(b)(4), for summer employment opportunities and year-round employment opportunities, which may include criteria to target assistance to particular categories of such low-income youth, such as youth with disabilities, consistent with subsection (f);

(C) a description of the performance outcomes to be achieved by the State through the activities carried out under this section and the timeframe in which the State will work to achieve such performance, consistent with guidance provided by the Secretary of Labor regarding such outcomes and processes and with section 367(b);

(D) a description of the timelines for implementation of the activities described in subparagraph (A), and the number of low-income youth expected to be placed in summer employment opportunities, and year-round employment opportunities, respectively, by quarter; and

(E) assurances that the State will report such information as the Secretary may require relating to fiscal, performance and other requirements of this section and the Secretary determines that such assurance is necessary to effectively monitor the activities carried out under this section; and

(F) assurances that the State will ensure compliance with the labor standards protections described in section 367(a).

(2) SUBMISSION AND APPROVAL OF STATE PLAN MODIFICATION OR REQUEST.—

(A) SUBMISSION.—The Governor shall submit a modification of the State plan or other request for funds described in guidance in subsection (b) to the Secretary of Labor not later than the time specified in paragraph (2), or in the case of the issuance of such guidance. The State plan modification or request for funds required under this subsection may be submitted in conjunction with the State plan required under section 364.

(B) APPROVAL.—The Secretary of Labor shall approve the plan or request submitted under subparagraph (A) within 30 days after receipt of such plan or request, unless the Secretary determines that the plan or request is inconsistent with the requirements of this section. If the Secretary determines that the plan or request is inconsistent with the requirements of this section, the Secretary shall provide written notice to the Governor and the Governor shall have 30 days to modify or resubmit the plan or request. If the revised plan or request is submitted within 30 days, the plan or request shall be considered approved. If the plan or request is disapproved, the Governor may provide a reasonable period of time in which a disapproved plan or request may be amended and resubmitted for approval. If the plan or request is approved, the Secretary shall allot funds to States within 30 days after such approval.

(3) MODIFICATIONS TO STATE PLAN OR REQUEST.—The Governor may submit further modifications to a State plan or request for funds identified under subsection (b) to carry out this section in accordance with the requirements described in subsection (d).

(e) WITHIN-STATE ALLOCATION AND ADMINISTRATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Of the funds allotted to the State under subsection (c), the Governor—

(A) may reserve up to 5 percent of the allotment for administration and technical assistance; and

(B) shall allocate the remainder of the allotment among local workforce investment areas within the State in accordance with the factors identified in section 366(b)(2), except that for purposes of such allocation references to a State in such paragraph shall be deemed to be references to a local workforce investment area and references to all States shall be deemed to be references to all local areas in the State involved. Not more than 10 percent of the funds allocated to a local workforce investment area shall be used for the costs of administration of this section.

(2) LOCAL PLAN.

(A) SUBMISSION.—In order to receive an allocation under subsection (b), the local workforce investment board, in partnership with the chief elected official for the local workforce investment area, shall submit to the Governor a modification to a local plan approved under section 118 of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998, or other request for funds as may be identified in the guidance issued under subsection (b), not later than 30 days after the submission by the State of the modification to the State plan or other request for funds identified in subsection (b) by the Governor of a State to carry out this section.

(B) APPROVAL.—The Governor shall approve the local plan submitted under subparagraph (A) within 30 days after submission, unless the Governor determines that the plan is inconsistent with requirements of this section. If the Governor uploads a local plan for the delivery of services within 30 days, the plan shall be considered approved. If the plan is disapproved, the Governor may provide a reasonable period of time in which a disapproved plan may be amended and resubmitted for approval. The Governor shall allocate funds to local workforce investment areas with approved plans within 30 days after approval.

(3) REALLOTTING.—If the Governor of a State determines that the plan is inconsistent with requirements of this section, the Governor may allocate the remainder of the funds identified in subsection (b) among the other local areas with approved plans within 30 days and submit such reallocations to the Secretary of Labor for approval. The Governor shall allocate funds to local workforce investment areas with approved plans within 30 days after approval.

(f) USE OF FUNDS.—The funds provided under this section shall be used—

Subtitle D—Prohibition of Discrimination in Employment on the Basis of an Individual's Status as Unemployed

SEC. 371. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the ‘‘Fair Employment Opportunity Act of 2011’’.

SEC. 372. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that denial of employment opportunities to individuals because of their status as unemployed is discriminatory and burdens commerce by—

(1) reducing personal consumption and undermining economic growth;

(2) squandering human capital essential to the Nation's economic vibrancy and growth;
(3) increasing demands for Federal and State unemployment insurance benefits, reducing trust fund assets, and leading to higher payroll taxes for employers, cuts in benefits for unemployed workers, or both;
(4) imposing additional burdens on publicly funded health and welfare programs; and
(5) depressing income, property, and other tax revenues that the Federal Government, States, and localities rely on to support operations and institutions essential to commerce.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purposes of this Act are—
(1) to prohibit employers and employment agencies from discriminating against individuals because of their employment history, or from exam-ing, or referring for jobs, as employees, solely on the basis of that individual’s status as unemployed;
(2) to prohibit employers and employment agencies from advertising, or announcing for employment, opportunity that indicates that an individual’s status as unemployed disqualifies that individual for the opportunity; and
(3) to eliminate the burdens imposed on commerce due to the exclusion of such individuals from employment.

and prescription drugs from a friend or relative or from the family medicine cabinet. As a result, groups and organizations like the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Office of National Drug Control Policy, the Community Anti-Drug Coalitions of America, the Consumer Healthcare Products Association, and the Partnership for a Drug-Free America have been reaching out to communities throughout the nation to raise awareness of this growing drug abuse trend and encourage communities to tackle the problem head on. Many community antidrug coalitions, including those in Iowa, public health officials, and law enforcement officials have been holding townhalls, organizing community ‘clean out your medicine cabinet’ events, and holding many other events to raise awareness of this growing abuse in an effort to reverse this trend.

We can stop the growing trend of medicine abuse in its tracks, but it will require all sectors of the community to join together to make it happen. The National Medicine Abuse Awareness Month resolution promotes the message that over-the-counter and prescription medicines must be taken as directed, and when used recreationally or in large doses they can have serious and deadly consequences. This resolution will help remind parents that access to drugs that are abused doesn’t just happen in alleys and on the streets, but can often occur right in the home. I urge all my colleagues to sign on and support this resolution.

Whereas Congress has made a commitment to leveraging the benefits of healthcare information technology and management systems to transform the healthcare system that the implementation of health information technology could achieve; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates the week beginning on September 12, 2011, and ending on September 16, 2011, as “National Health Information Technology Week”;

(2) recognizes the value of information technology and management systems in transforming healthcare for the people of the United States; and

(3) calls on all interested parties to promote the use of information technology and management quality and cost efficiency in the healthcare system of the United States.

SENATE RESOLUTION 263—DESIGNATING THE WEEK BEGINNING SEPTEMBER 11, 2011, AS “NATIONAL DIRECT SUPPORT PROFESSIONALS RECOGNITION WEEK”

Mr. NELSON of Nebraska (for himself and Ms. COLLINS) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. Res. 263

Whereas direct support professionals, direct care workers, personal assistants, personal attendants, in-home support workers, and paraprofessionals (referred to in this preamble as “direct support professionals”) are the primary providers of publicly-funded long term support services for millions of individuals;

Whereas a direct support professional must build a close, trusting relationship with an individual with disabilities;

Whereas a direct support professional assists an individual with disabilities with the most intimate needs, on a daily basis;

Whereas direct support professionals provide a broad range of support, including preparation of meals, helping with medications, bathing, dressing, mobility, transportation to school, work, religious, and recreational activities, and general daily affairs;

Whereas a direct support professional provides essential support to help keep an individual with disabilities connected to such individual’s family and community;

Whereas direct support professionals enable individuals with disabilities to live meaningful, productive lives;

Whereas direct support professionals are the key to allowing an individual with disabilities to live successfully in such individual’s community, and to avoid more costly institutional care;

Whereas the majority of direct support professionals are female, and many are the sole breadwinners of their families;

Whereas direct support professionals work and pay taxes, but many such professionals remain impoverished and are eligible for the same Federal and State public assistance programs on which the individuals with disabilities served by such direct support professionals must depend;

Whereas Federal and State policies, as well as the Supreme Court, in Olmstead v. L.C., 527 U.S. 581 (1999), assert the right of an individual to live in the home and community of the individual;

Whereas, in 2011, the majority of direct support professionals are employed in home and community-based settings and this trend is projected to increase over the decade;

Whereas there is a documented critical and growing shortage of direct support professionals in every community throughout the United States; and

Whereas many direct support professionals are forced to leave jobs due to inadequate wages and benefits, creating high turnover and vacancy rates that research demonstrates adversely affects the quality of supports to individuals with disabilities; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates the week beginning September 11, 2011, as “National Direct Support Professionals Recognition Week”;

(2) recognizes the dedication and vital role of direct support professionals in enhancing the quality of the lives of individuals with disabilities of all ages;

(3) appreciates the contribution of direct support professionals in supporting the needs that reach beyond the capacities of millions of families in the United States;

(4) commends direct support professionals as a integral in support at the long-term support and services system of the United States; and

(5) finds that the successful implementation of the public policies of the United States depends on the dedication of direct support professionals.

Mr. PRYOR (for himself and Mr. BOOZMAN) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. Res. 264

Whereas negative images, stories, and influences in the day-to-day lives of the people of the United States can detrimentally affect their emotional well-being, interactions with others, and general demeanor;

Whereas a group of teenagers participating in a leadership forum at Harding University in Searcy, Arkansas, identified a lack of encouragement as one of the greatest problems facing young people today;

Whereas the qualities of character essential for future leadership in the United States;

Whereas the National Day of Encouragement would serve as a reminder to counterbalance some negative influences, and would also provide much-needed encouragement and support to others;

Whereas, following the events of September 11, 2001, the thousands of people made sacrifices in order to bring help and healing to the victims and their families, inspiring and encouraging the people of the United States; and

Whereas the renewed feelings of unity, hope, selflessness, and encouragement that began on September 12, 2001, are the same feelings that the National Day of Encouragement is meant to recapture and spread. Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates September 12, 2011, as “National Day of Encouragement”;

(2) acknowledges the importance of encouragement and positive influences in the lives of all people; and

(3) urges the people of the United States to encourage others, whether through an act of service, a thoughtful letter, or words of kindness, to nurture inspiration and encourage other to boost the morale of all people of the United States.

Whereas Thom Rumberger was instrumental in obtaining several billion dollars in funding for Everglades restoration; and
Whereas Thom Rumberger served on the Florida Governor’s 2001 Select Task Force on Elections and the 2002 Select Task Force on Elections and Technology, and was Chairman of the Legislature’s Study Committee on Public Records in 2002: Now, therefore, be it
Resolved, That the Senate—
(1) recognizes and honors the professional success of E. Thom Rumberger; and
(2) recognizes and honors the lifelong dedication of E. Thom Rumberger to the protection of the Florida Everglades.

MEASURES READ THE FIRST TIME—S. 1549, H.R. 2832, AND H.R. 2887
Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I understand there are three bills at the desk. I ask for their first reading en bloc.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the clerk will report the bills by title.
The bill clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 1549) to provide tax relief for American workers and businesses, to put workers back on the job while rebuilding and modernizing America, and to provide pathways back to work for Americans looking for jobs.

A bill (H.R. 2832) to extend the Generalized System of Preferences, and for other purposes.

A bill (H.R. 2887) to provide an extension of Surface and Air Transportation Programs, and for other purposes.

Mr. DURBIN. I now ask for a second reading en bloc, and I object to my own request en bloc.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard. The bills will have their second reading on the next legislative day.

ORDERS FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 2011

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it adjourn until 9:30 a.m., on Wednesday, September 14; that following the prayer and the pledge, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the morning hour be deemed expired, and the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day; that following any leader remarks, the Senate be in a period of morning business for 1 hour, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each, with the time equally divided and controlled between the two leaders or their designees, with the Republicans controlling the first half and the majority controlling the final half; that following morning business, the Senate resume consideration of the motion to proceed to H.J. Res. 66, a joint resolution regarding Burma sanctions and the legislative vehicle for additional FEMA funds postcloture; finally, that all time during adjournment, morning business, and recess count postcloture on the motion to proceed to H.J. Res. 66.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, we expect to begin the consideration of H.J. Res. 66 during Wednesday’s session. We also hope to consider the FAA and highway extensions which were received from the House.

Senators will be notified when votes are scheduled.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 9:30 A.M. TOMORROW

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent that it adjourn under the previous order.

There being no objection, the Senate, at 5:50 p.m., adjourned until Wednesday, September 14, 2011, at 9:30 a.m.

CONFIRMATION

Executive nomination confirmed by the Senate September 13, 2011:
UNITED STATES AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

MARA E. RUDMAN, OF MASSACHUSETTS, TO BE AN ASSISTANT ADMINISTRATOR OF THE UNITED STATES AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT.
IN RECOGNITION OF PETER STROHM'S 65TH BIRTHDAY

HON. FRANK PALLONE, JR.
OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Mr. Peter R. Strohm of Mantoloking, New Jersey as his friends and family gather to celebrate his 65th birthday on August 14, 2011. Mr. Strohm has exemplified outstanding dedication toward the members of the community through his professional and civic endeavors. His achievements are truly worthy of this body's recognition.

Mr. Peter Strohm is a successful product of Ocean County, New Jersey. By 1968, Mr. Strohm graduated cum laude from Washington and Lee University with a Bachelor of Arts in Economics. Concurrently, he enlisted in the United States Army Reserve in 1968. He served honorably as a reservist for twenty-eight years, retiring in 1996 as a Lieutenant Colonel. Mr. Strohm further enhanced his educational background, earning a Juris Doctorate (JD) from the Columbia University School of Law in 1971 and a Masters of Laws (LL.M.) from New York University School of Law in 1981. In 1988, he graduated from the United State Command and General Staff College of Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Mr. Strohm has served as principal of the law firm of Rothstein, Mandell, Strohm, Must & Halm in Lakewood, New Jersey since 1971 and currently serves as partner and chairman of the Ocean County Bar Association and the New Jersey Bar Association. As a result of his outstanding efforts, he was awarded the 2000 Professionalism Award from the New Jersey State Bar Association.

Since 2006, Peter Strohm has served as a Councilman in the Borough of Mantoloking. He currently maintains this position and continues to represent the interests of the residents of his town. In 2005, Mr. Strohm was appointed by the Governor of New Jersey to serve as a State Officer on the Tidelands Resource Council. He currently serves as State Committeeman, representing the Ocean County Democratic Committee.

Mr. Speaker, once again, please join me in congratulating Mr. Peter R. Strohm of Mantoloking, New Jersey as he celebrates his 65th birthday. Thank you, Mr. Strohm, for your outstanding contributions.

IN RECOGNITION OF DR. I.L. MULLINS, SR.

HON. SANFORD D. BISHOP, JR.
OF GEORGIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Dr. I.L. Mullins, Sr. for his fifty years of dedicated civic leadership and past service to the communities of Thomas County, Georgia. On Saturday, September 24, 2011, Dr. Mullins’ family, friends and the First Missionary Baptist Church of Thomasville, Georgia will honor his half-century of outstanding deeds by hosting a “Golden Jubilee Extravaganza” in his honor.

Dr. Mullins is one of the most courageous and committed individuals that I have ever encountered. He has been a source of counsel and advice as well as a fountain of inspiration for me over the last several years. I have been truly blessed by his warm friendship and support.

Throughout his illustrious career, Dr. Mullins has been a preeminent role model for local government officials and community leaders in Georgia and across our great nation. During the Civil Rights Movement of the 1960s, Dr. Mullins marched with Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and was instrumental in organizing the local Thomasville branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). Additionally, Dr. Mullins served effectively as a Thomas County Commissioner for five-terms that spanned over two decades.

Over the course of his lifetime, Dr. Mullins has masterfully balanced his civic responsibilities with his academic accomplishments and religious commitments. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Morehouse College in 1957 and went on to obtain his Masters of Divinity from the Interdenominational Theological Center & Gammon Theological Seminary in 1960. Furthermore, Dr. Mullins acquired his Doctor of Divinity degree from Faith College in Birmingham, Alabama in 1979.

On November 29, 1957, Dr. Mullins has served as the Pastor of the First Missionary Baptist Church in Thomasville, Georgia since 1961. Through his ministerial service, Dr. Mullins serves as the Dean of the Thomasville Extension Center of the American Baptist Theological Seminary and is a Volunteer Chaplain at Archbold Memorial Hospital.
Dr. Mullins is adored by many because of his unyielding zeal to help others and his passion for promoting harmonious relations among individuals from various backgrounds and different walks of life. Throughout my many years of association with Dr. Mullins, I have come to observe that he has an innate intelligence and high academic acumen that make him wise, but it is his kind heart and charitable character that speak to why he is so widely beloved.

In light of his many accomplishments, my wife Vivian and I would like to extend our personal congratulations and warmest regards to Dr. Mullins, his beloved wife the former Jose-ephine Lovejoy Ferrell, their children and grandchildren. I know that residents all throughout Georgia’s Second Congressional District will forever be indebted to the Mullins family for selflessly allowing Dr. Mullins to remain in his hometown as a mentor, father-figure and counselor to countless other families in communities throughout southwest Georgia.

Today, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring Dr. Mullins for his noteworthy and dynamic career as one of our nation’s most profound theologians, principled community leaders and thoughtful humanitarians.

TO HONOR THE LATE LEE ROY SELM

HON. KATHY CASTOR
OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Ms. CASTOR of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life and career of Lee Roy Selmon, a Hall of Fame football player and a pillar of the Tampa Bay community. As a player, Lee Roy Selmon was one of the greatest Buccaneers of all time, and his post-football career was equally distinguished.

The youngest of nine children, Lee Roy Selmon would join two of his older brothers on the defensive line at the University of Oklahoma in 1972. Referred to as a “Gentle Giant” by his classmates, he went on to be elected to the College Football Hall of Fame, leading Oklahoma to two national championships in 1974 and 1975. In 1999 Sports Illustrated magazine selected Selmon as a member of their NCAA Football All-Century Team.

In 1976, Selmon would join the Tampa Bay community as the first-ever draft pick of the expansion Tampa Bay Buccaneers. He proceeded to distinguish himself as one of the greatest NFL players of all time; during his career with the Buccaneers, he was selected to six consecutive Pro Bowls and named the NFL Defensive Player of the Year in 1979. The Buccaneers retired his number, 63, in 1986, and in 1995 he was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame. In 2008, Lee Roy Selmon became the first-ever inductee into the Tampa Bay Buccaneers Ring of Honor, a fitting distinction for the original Buccaneer.

Lee Roy Selmon’s professional accomplishments after his retirement from football are numerous; he was a philanthropist and a banker, an athletic director and an entrepreneur. The University of South Florida football program will forever bear his mark—as the Athletic Director during the Bull’s emergence as a Division 1-A football team, the program greatly benefitted from Selmon’s able stewardship.

Above all, those who knew Lee Roy Selmon speak of his decency, his kindness, his gentle nature, and his integrity as often as they speak of his athletic and professional accomplishments. He was undoubtedly one of the Tampa Bay area’s greatest ambassadors.

The Tampa Bay community is proud to honor the life of Lee Roy Selmon, a great athlete and a man of character. His greatness and his humility continue to inspire those who knew him, and I ask that you and all Americans join me in honoring such a remarkable man.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF SAINT THEODOSIUS

HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in recognition of the 100th anniversary of the St. Theodosius parish in the State of Ohio.

The St. Theodosius parish was founded in 1896 and is the oldest Orthodox parish in the State of Ohio. The Cathedral was built by Russian immigrants in 1911 and has been a landmark in Cleveland’s Tremont neighborhood ever since. St. Theodosius was the first Orthodox Church in the State of Ohio and for years was the only Orthodox Church in the City of Cleveland. It has had a rich history and attracted a multitude of parishioners from many of Cleveland’s cultural groups.

St. Theodosius Cathedral is on the National Registry of Sacred Landmarks and is a Cleveland Sacred Landmark. The Cathedral also joined the National Register of Historic Places in 1974.

The St. Theodosius parish will be celebrating the 100th Anniversary of the Cathedral September 9th through 11th with a series of liturgical and social events.

Mr. Speaker and colleagues, please join me in recognition of the 100th anniversary of St. Theodosius Cathedral. I hope their celebration this weekend will be joyous and reflective of the rich, spiritual history of the parish.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. GEOFF DAVIS OF KENTUCKY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. DAVIS of Kentucky. Mr. Speaker, on Monday, September 12, 2011, I was unable to return to Washington, DC for votes, due to an important family event.

Had I been present I would have voted: on rollover No. 696—“yes”—H.R. 2076, Investigative Assistance for Violent Crimes Act of 2011; on rollover No. 700—“yes”—H.R. 2633, Appeal Time Clarification Act; on rollover No. 720—“yes”—H.R. 1059, To protect the safety of judges by extending the authority of the Judicial Conference to redact information contained in their financial disclosure reports.

IN RECOGNITION OF MR. THOMAS TIGHE

HON. FRANK PALLONE, JR.
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Mr. Thomas Tighe, a resident of Sayreville, New Jersey and an outstanding member of the community. On September 10, 2011, members of the Plumbers & Pipefitters Local Union Number 9 will honor Mr. Tighe at the Annual Dinner Dance in New Brunswick, New Jersey. His commitment to serve the members of the community is truly worthy of this body’s recognition.

Mr. Tighe is an active member in the Middlesex County community. Tom began his career in 1971 serving a five-year apprenticeship in the United Association of Plumbers & Pipefitters with Local 270 in Perth Amboy, New Jersey. Over the last forty-one years, he proudly served as an Executive Board Member and Trustee for the Pension, Welfare and Surety Fund for the United Association of Plumbers & Pipefitters Local 9. In 1994, Tom was elected President of Local 9. The following year he became the first United Association organizer in the State of New Jersey and held this position until his retirement in 2011. In 2000, Tom was also appointed head of the newly formed New Jersey Building Trades Organizing Committee. Consequently, he was reappointed to head the Mega Base Organizing Committee and continues to work at the old Fort Dix, McGuire Air Force Base and Lakehurst Naval Station in South Jersey in 2005.

Mr. Tighe currently serves as the Local 9 delegate and president of the Middlesex and Somerset Counties AFL-CIO Labor Council. In affiliation with the New Jersey and national AFL-CIO, members of this organization continue to support and represent labor and trade unions in their pursuit for social and economic justice in the workplace. Through his role as President, Mr. Tighe has encouraged and motivated his members to become involved in the legislative process through activism and awareness. Since 2009, Tom has served as President and admirably represents all the union members in Middlesex and Somerset counties.

In conjunction with his professional responsibilities, Tom served as President of the Middlesex County Ancient Order of Hibernians and is the past president of the David B. Kelly Chapter, Division I of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in South Amboy, New Jersey. Since 1997, Tom has served as a member of the New Jersey Planning Board and Vice Chair for the past three years. He currently serves as the vice president of the Middlesex County College Board of Trustees and Trustee Ambassador for the New Jersey College of County College. He is also the Treasurer of the Kiddie Keep Well Camp for underprivileged children in Middlesex County. A former scoutmaster, Tom is currently a committee member for Boy Scout Troop 97 and was recently named the recipient of the prestigious 2000 Boy Scouts of America Man of the Year Award. Tom is happily married to his wife Diane for twenty-nine years. Together, they have two sons, Ryan and Daniel, who are currently attending college.
Mr. Speaker, once again please join me in congratulating Mr. Thomas Tighe for receiving the honor bestowed by the Plumbers & Pipefitters Local Union 9. Mr. Tighe continues to provide outstanding services to the members of the community and the constituents of my district.

IN HONOR OF THE HONORABLE JOE CIMPERMAN
HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in recognition of Councilman Joe Cimperman for his significant contribution to the Cleveland community and to acknowledge his receipt of the 2011 Pan Award. Cleveland Public Theater’s annual Pan Award recognizes individuals who have contributed significantly to the community.

Councilman Cimperman, a member of the Cleveland City Council since 1997, was born and raised in the St. Clair-Superior neighborhood where his family was active in the Slovenian community. Councilman Cimperman graduated from St. Ignatius High School and John Carroll University where he was Student Council President. During his time at John Carroll, Councilman Cimperman founded Project GOLD, a service organization dedicated to helping underprivileged families.

After graduating from college, Councilman Cimperman worked in an AIDS Hospice in Baltimore, helped developmentally challenged adults in Portland, Maine, and worked at the Cleveland West Side Catholic Center. In 1997, Mr. Cimperman became a City Councilman for Cleveland’s Third Ward. As a City Councilman, Mr. Cimperman works to foster economic development in his ward by promoting the growth of culture and the arts. He works to foster the arts by creating new green areas in the Third Ward, establishing live-work spaces for artists, and improving the retail environment along Euclid Avenue.

Mr. Speaker and colleagues, please join me in honoring Councilman Cimperman for his service to the Cleveland community and his reception of the 2011 Pan Award. His dedication to improving the community is awe-inspiring. I wish him the best in all of his future endeavors.

REFLECTIONS ON SEPTEMBER 11

SPEECH OF
HON. RODNEY P. FRELINGHUYSEN
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, September 9, 2011

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Virginia, Mr. Cantor for offering this resolution regarding the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001 and urge my Colleagues to pass it without delay.

For the families of the over 3,000 victims of the murderous attack of September 11, 2001, every day is painful. This Sunday marks the tenth anniversary of the events that changed our Nation forever, as violent international extremists struck in the streets of Lower Manhattan, the fields of Pennsylvania, and at the Pentagon.

In addition to making the collective pledge to join together to protect our communities, we should never forget that on September 11, 2001, we saw good rise in the face of evil, and heroes rise in the face of danger. Many ran into the face of danger to help others escape it.

When the day was over, and as we learned that 700 New Jerseyans lost their lives, we witnessed neighbors and friends consoling one another and watched as Americans from all walks of life stood united, side by side waving the Stars and Stripes, and lighting candles to honor those missing or lost. As America rebounded, we responded to these acts of terror with the skill and spirit of our military and our intelligence community. The war we continue to fight abroad began without provocation and without warning. It was not a war of our choosing but it became our priority. It was the slaughter of innocents by people with a twisted sense of religion who play by no rules.

Mr. Speaker, once again please join me in honoring Mrs. Nora Romanoff for her significant contribution to the Cleveland community and to acknowledge her receipt of the 2011 Pan Award. Cleveland Public Theater’s annual Pan Award recognizes individuals who have contributed significantly to the community.

Mrs. Romanoff has been the Associate Director of ParkWorks for the past fifteen years where she works to revitalize neighborhoods by developing public spaces. Ms. Romanoff graduated from the University of Pittsburgh with a B.A. in Urban Studies and from Cleveland State University with a Master’s Degree in Urban Planning, Design and Development. As Associate Director of ParkWorks, Mrs. Romanoff promotes both neighborhood and downtown revitalization. Through ParkWorks, she engages with grassroots constituents and civic leaders to support a variety of programs within the community such as urban beautification, reforestation, and environmental education. Through ParkWorks, she has collaborated with partners such as Downtown Cleveland Alliance, Neighborhood Progress, Inc., University Circle Inc., and Cleveland Public Art.

Mr. Speaker and colleagues, please join me in honoring Mrs. Nora Romanoff for her service to the Cleveland community and her reception of the 2011 Pan Award. Her dedication to improving the community is nothing short of inspiring.

REFLECTIONS ON THE 10TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE SEPTEMBER 11TH TERRORIST ATTACKS ON THE UNITED STATES

HON. BETTY McCOLLUM OF MINNESOTA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Ms. McCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, on the morning of September 11, 2001 is still vivid in my mind—it was the start of a beautiful day in Washington. The shock and horror that ensued that morning in New York City, in a Pennsylvania field, and at the Pentagon is embedded in me. It is a permanent element of the American psyche, and it fills us all with emotions, especially fear, anger, grief, and sadness.

Nearly 3,000 victims of 9/11 were lost that day. The loved ones they left behind have spent ten years adapting to lives without husbands, mothers, brothers, and daughters. Even after ten years the loss must still be painful and difficult.

As a nation, we still feel the loss, the very sad sense of tragedy and hurt that touched us all. For all of us, September 11, 2001 remains a day that changed us and changed our country's future.

Our nation is strong. We as a people are far more powerful, resilient, and righteous than the perpetrators of the attack. The lessons of 9/11 continue to be studied, debated, interpreted, and acted on—to our collective benefit and, in some cases, to our detriment. But after ten long, difficult years since that beautiful morning, the most important lesson I can draw upon is the profound blessing I feel to be an American and to share this country, our values, and our freedoms with my fellow citizens.

We are one nation, one people and the pain of September 11 shall always be a reminder of what it means to be an American standing together, united with my fellow citizens.

On this tenth anniversary, my thoughts, prayers, and profound sense of gratitude are with the victims of this attack, the men and women who have sacrificed their lives and bodies to keep our nation safe, and the family members who grieve for loved ones lost on September 11th and the many days since in which our fellow citizens have sacrificed for our nation.

TESTIMONIAL FREE SPEECH ACT

HON. RON PAUL
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Speaker, today I introduce the Testimonial Free Speech Act. This legislation prohibits the federal government from censoring an individual's account of his experiences with foods and dietary supplements. Hard as it may be to believe, the government is prohibiting individuals from sharing their stories of how they improved their health by using these supplements.

Just this year, armed federal agents raided the headquarters of Maxam Nutraceutics, a company that produces and sells nutritional supplements for people with autism spectrum disorder and Alzheimer's disease. The raid was based on Maxam's alleged failure (a failure Maxam CEO James Cole disputes) to comply with a warning letter from the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) ordering Maxam to remove several "improper labels" from Maxam products. The labels in question were simply accounts from Maxam customers describing their experiences with Maxam products. That's right, the federal government sent armed agents into a private business because the business posted customers' testimonials.

Mr. Speaker, restricting communication of individuals' accounts of their experiences with foods and dietary supplements is a blatant violation of the First Amendment. The necessity for this bill shows how little respect the federal bureaucracy has for the Bill of Rights and the principles of a free society. I therefore urge my colleagues to take a small step toward restoring free speech by cosponsoring the Testimonial Free Speech Act.

IN RECOGNITION OF LAKEWOOD FIRE DEPARTMENT’S FALLEN FIREFIGHTER MEMORIAL CEREMONY

HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in recognition of the Lakewood Fire Department's firefighters who have lost their lives in the line of duty and who will be honored at this year's annual Fallen Firefighter Memorial ceremony. This year's ceremony will be especially significant as it coincides with the 10-year anniversary of the events of September 11, 2001. The Lakewood Fire Department will also be revealing a sculpture constructed with steel beams from the World Trade Center at Station #1.

Lakewood Fire Department's annual Fallen Firefighter Memorial ceremony honors the firefighters who have sacrificed their lives, saving others. This year's ceremony will be dedicated to the four Lakewood firefighters who have lost their lives in the line of duty. Additionally, a special tribute will be made honoring the 343 firefighters who gave their lives on September 11, 2001.

Mayor Summers, Chief Gilman, Fire Marshal Dunphy, the Lakewood Firefighters, Cleveland Fire Department Color Guard, American Legion Honor Guard, Lakewood Fire Department Honor Guard, Lakewood High School Ranger Marching Band, Boy Scouts of America, and the Red Hackle Pipes and Drums will all be participating at this year's ceremony.

Mr. Speaker and colleagues, please join me in honoring and remembering some of the country's bravest heroes, the fallen firefighters from Lakewood and all the firefighters who sacrificed their lives on September 11, 2001 at this year's Fallen Firefighter Memorial ceremony.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. GLENN THOMPSON
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I was not in attendance on Friday, September 9, 2011, due to catastrophic flooding in Pennsylvania's Fifth Congressional District. My presence was needed at home, on the ground, with my constituents, first-responders, and town residents. While back in Pennsylvania, I met with local officials and constituents to help assist in disaster recovery efforts. I also toured many of the towns in the 5th District of Pennsylvania that were most affected by the floods. Consequently, I missed the vote on the Hunter Amendment to H.R. 1892, the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012.

Had I been present for roll call vote number 605, my vote on Amendment #6, offered by Mr. Hunter of California, to H.R. 1892 would have been "yes."

IN RECOGNITION OF MR. JOHN LOUTH

HON. FRANK PALLONE, JR.
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize John Louth, Jr., a forty-year member of the United Association, and an outstanding member of the community. On September 10, 2011, members of the Plumbers and Pipefitters Local Union Number 9 will honor Mr. Louth at the Annual Dinner Dance in New Brunswick, New Jersey. His commitment to serve the members of the community is truly worthy of this body's recognition.

Mr. Louth is an active member in the Middlesex County community. Mr. Louth served his apprenticeship with Local 432 in New Brunswick, New Jersey, and, subsequently, became a member. Upon graduation in 1976, he became a Local 432 journeyman. In 1994, Mr. Louth was elected to the Executive Board of the newly created Plumbers and Pipefitters Local Union Number 9. Mr. Louth was also elected delegate to the United Association's convention in 1996. He was also elected Business Agent in 1997 and held this position for thirteen years until his retirement in 2010. Mr. Louth was also a member of the Middlesex County Building Trades and the New Jersey Pipe Trades.

He has proudly served as an active member of the New Brunswick Elks for thirty years and is currently enjoying his retirement in Midway Beach. John is also happily married to his wife Joanne for twenty-six years and has raised four children, Kelli, Eric, Marc, and Michael. John is an avid Yankees and Giants football fan and enjoys following Rutgers, and Notre Dame college football.

Mr. Speaker, once again please join me in congratulating Mr. John Louth, Jr. for his forty years of service and thanking him for his outstanding dedication to the residents of New Jersey.
As a senior Member of both the Judiciary and Homeland Security committees, I have worked tirelessly to ensure the safety and integrity of those who are members of the judiciary. The Ethics in Government Act requires judges, like Members of Congress and other high-ranking public officials to file annual financial disclosure reports. This requirement serves to bolster the confidence of the public in the professional integrity of individuals who serve their community.

Although the intent of the Act is to bolster public confidence in the judiciary, it has an unintended consequence inherent in full public disclosure. Full financial disclosure impacts the personal safety of judges, particularly the safety of judges who sentence criminals. Some of the information contained in financial disclosure reports could reveal information which pertains to the schools, workplaces, and homes of judges and their families. This type of information provides easy access to personal information that could be used by an individual to intimidate or harm a judge or her family. In order to mitigate these risks, section 7 of the Identity Theft and Assumption Deterrence Act of 1998 allows the Judicial Conference to redact information found in financial disclosures that would place a judge or their family at risk.

This legislation does not exempt judicial employees and judges from filing financial disclosures. The Judicial Conference’s Committee on Financial Disclosures works in coordination with the U.S. Marshals Service to determine the merit of requests for redaction. The Judicial conference reports that between 2007 and 2010, of the 17,658 financial disclosure requests filed, there were only 750 redaction requests, or 4.2 percent of the reports filed. There were 645 redaction requests that were fully granted, and 70 that were partially granted.

This legislation protects judges and their families from those that may seek to harm or intimidate the judge. The majority of redaction requests that were approved contained information that indicated the whereabouts of the filer’s family on a regular basis, or the residence at which the filing party lived. H.R. 1059 does not foreclose from fulfilling their requirement to file a financial disclosure.

In the 110th Congress, my colleagues and I extended the authorizing section of the Identity Theft and Assumption Deterrence Act twice to ensure continued protection of our judges and their families. The last extension will expire on December 31, 2011. Leaving thousands of dedicated public servants and their loved ones vulnerable to harm or harassment.

I applaud my friend from Michigan, the Ranking Member of the Judiciary Committee for introducing this important legislation to protect judges and judicial employees. I urge my colleagues to lend their support to the bill.

IN MEMORY OF JUDGE FRANK SCROGGINS

HON. MIKE ROSS OF ARKANSAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. ROSS of Arkansas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a true, dedicated public servant who left us much too soon. On Saturday, August 28, 2011, Frank Scroggins, county judge for Lafayette County, Arkansas, died unexpectedly at the too-young age of 62.

Throughout my term in Congress, I have had the distinct pleasure of working with Judge Scroggins and I have long admired and respected him. He was a very good friend.

The people of Lafayette County first elected Judge Scroggins of Stamps, Ark., in 1991 and he had served as county judge ever since. For 20 years, Judge Scroggins gave his all and fully embodied what it meant to be a public servant.

Judge Scroggins was so much a part of his community that, upon his passing, a newspaper proclaimed Lafayette County government had “lost its cornerstone.” Indeed, there is a deep absence in the heart of south Arkansas.

Judge Scroggins always worked tirelessly on behalf of the people of Lafayette County, never losing sight of what he was elected to do. From city council to the quorum court to the U.S. Congress, anyone who had the privilege of working with Judge Scroggins can attest to the sincerity, heart, and ferocity in which he served as county judge.

My thoughts and prayers are with his wife of 42 years, Brenda, and the rest of his family and friends during this very difficult time.

To all members of Congress, I ask you to join me as we honor the life and legacy of Judge Frank Scroggins, who will be deeply missed in Lafayette County and throughout the state of Arkansas.

HON. GLENN THOMPSON
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I was not in attendance on Friday, September 9, 2011, due to catastrophic flooding in Pennsylvania’s Fifth Congressional District. My presence was needed at home, on the ground, with my constituents, first-responders, and recovery teams. While back in Pennsylvania, I met with local officials and constituents to help assist in disaster recovery efforts. I also toured many of the town’s in the 5th District of Pennsylvania that were most affected by the floods. Consequently, I missed the vote on the Motion to Recommit with Instructions recovered by Ms. H OCHUL from New York to H.R. 1892, the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year, 2012.

Had I been present for rollocn vote number 697, my vote on the Motion to Recommit with Instructions to H.R. 1892 would have been “no.”

Mr. KINZINGER of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, on rollcall Nos. 699, 700, and 701, I was unable to cast my vote due to a delayed arrival to Washington, DC, caused by a mechanical problem with the aircraft.

Had I been present, I would have voted in favor.

A TRIBUTE IN HONOR OF JAN REEVES ON THE OCCASION OF RECEIVING THE ST. MADELEINE SOPHIE AWARD

HON. ANNA G. ESHOO
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Ms. ESHOO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Jan Reeves, a 2011 recipient of the St. Madeleine Sophie Award. The Award is given by the Sacred Heart School Community in Atherton, California, to individuals who have made sustained and significant contributions to the Schools and embody the Goals and Criteria of a Sacred Heart education.

Jan Reeves has taught for thirteen years at Sacred Heart Lower and Middle Schools. As a teacher for 33 years, Jan says her years at Sacred Heart have been the most rewarding because she has had the “opportunity to expose students to a deeply enriched art experience.” Her lessons combine art history and world history, anthropology, music appreciation, poetry, religion and current events. This combined approach brings art to life for the students and keeps it fresh and relevant to them.

Jan Reeves credits her own middle school art teacher with introducing her to the visual arts and teaching her to appreciate them. She has patterned her teaching on his inspirational work, and has worked to teach her students as she was taught.

Jan Reeves says that receiving the St. Madeleine Sophie Award is “amazing,” but what she will remember most fondly from her years as a teacher is “how the students responded to those fine arts experiences”.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating Jan Reeves as she receives the prestigious St. Madeleine Sophie Award and salute her for her extraordinary work and deep commitment to teaching her students the life-enriching appreciation of the arts.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE ELBERON MEMORIAL CHURCH’S 125TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. FRANK PALLONE, JR.
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the Elberon Memorial Church as its members gather to celebrate its 125th anniversary. Since its founding in 1886, the church has provided a safe and hospitable environment for summer residents to worship. Their upcoming celebration is truly worthy of this body’s recognition.

The Elberon Memorial Church touts a proud and longstanding history. From its humble beginnings when it was dedicated in 1886, the Elberon Memorial Church has continued to flourish. The lavish antique furnishings and beautiful stained glass windows continue to enhance the church’s rich carvings, high ceilings and various gothic designs. Beautiful music can still be heard from the Roosevelt organ, an instrument built by the prestigious Hillbrown Roosevelt. Ninety-eight percent of the church’s original structure remains intact and continues to provide a venue for the parishioners to host family-oriented and community events. Sunday services, held from the first weekend in July through the first Sunday in September remain the cornerstone of the Elberon Memorial Church’s activities. The success of this organization could not have been accomplished without the generous public support of parishioners and the community.

Mr. Speaker, please join me in acknowledging The Elberon Memorial Church as the parishioners celebrate its 125th anniversary and thanking the countless men and women who supported this thriving community. The Elberon Memorial Church community is tremendously valued in my district and the State of New Jersey.

INVESTIGATIVE ASSISTANCE FOR VIOLENT CRIMES ACT OF 2011

SPEECH OF
HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 12, 2011

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 2076, the Investigative Assistance for Violent Crimes Act of 2011. This legislation is an appropriate and necessary measure to keep our citizens safe. Currently the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) does not have statutory authority to assist in the investigation of mass killings or other violent crimes that are carried out in non-federal public places, such as schools and universities. As of now, when the FBI is asked by state and local law enforcement to assist with related investigations, they frequently comply with the request, despite the possibility that in doing so, the responding officers may be found to be acting outside of their jurisdiction.

The Investigative Assistance for Violent Crimes Act grants the FBI specific authority to respond when asked for help by state and local law enforcement, without expanding the FBI’s jurisdiction. The bill allows the FBI to assist in the investigation of violent crimes or mass killings, only when asked to do so.

In recent history the FBI has lent their resources to several high profile investigations. Last September, when an armed intruder entered the Discovery Communications Building...
Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate and honor a true living legend.

Katherine Simpson Cousin for their almost fifty years of marriage. For the last 38 years, Rev. Cousin has been the worthy recipient of the FBI's evidence response team, victim assistance program, and behavioral analysis unit.

Rev. Cousin has been the recipient of countless certificates, citations, and honors. In 1987 he was awarded the Honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Shaw Divinity School in Raleigh, North Carolina. He is also a nationally known gospel singer and recording artist.

Rev. Cousin and Mrs. Cousin, who have been married for 58 years, are deeply committed to serving their church and community. I am proud to recognize Reverend Doctor Lester Cousin and Mrs. Mary Katherine Simpson Cousin for their almost four decades of inspirational leadership and example, hard work, and dedication, and I urge my colleagues to join me in honoring their many contributions to the spiritual and civic life of White Plains and Westchester County.

HONORING REVEREND AND MRS. LESTER COUSIN

HON. RODNEY ALEXANDER
OF LOUISIANA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate and honor a true living legend. This September, Mrs. Ruth Broussard will be honored by her induction into the “Order of Living Legends.” Mrs. Broussard’s dedication to the Acadian Museum, her town of Abbeville, Vermilion Parish, and the Acadian community as a whole make her deserving of this recognition.

After the completion of Mrs. Broussard’s Bachelor of Arts degree from Louisiana State University, she began her career as an educator in Lake Charles before returning to her birth town of Kaplan, La. Upon her return to Kaplan she became an active member of her community by joining the La Clique D’Etud where she organized many fundraising drives to help raise money for cancer research, and by forming the first Girl Scout troop. Shortly after marrying her late husband, Justin John Broussard in 1941, she joined the U.S. Coast Guard and they were briefly relocated to Galveston, Texas while he served his country. Upon their return to the state they so dearly loved, they made their new home in Abbeville, La. where they raised 3 children, Jay, Rebecca, and Eric. It did not take long for Mrs. Broussard to once again become an active part of her community. Over the years she has played an important role in many local organizations throughout the Acadian region, such as the Vermilion Historical Society, which reflects her love for history and the history surrounding South La., serving as chairman of the Executive Committee for the Acadian Museum, her founding role of the Abbeville Tour Guide, and her commitment to the Homeless is Our Responsibility. The love for her culture and region has created a lifelong passion for service to her community and state. I ask my colleagues to join me in passing good wishes to a true living legend, Mrs. Ruth Broussard.

IN HONOR OF CHABOT COLLEGE’S 50TH ANNIVERSARY
HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the 50th anniversary of Chabot College in Hayward, California. Chabot College was the first college opened by the Chabot-Las Positas Community College District. On January 10, 1961 voters approved the formation of a junior college district, with the first board of trustees elected on April 18, 1961.

Chabot College opened for classes on September 11, 1961, on a 7.5-acre temporary site on San Leandro, California, and an enrollment of 1,163 students. On September 20, 1965 students began classes on the 94-acre Chabot College site in Hayward. Today, Chabot has an enrollment of close to 15,000 students and is a fully accredited institution that offers a curriculum of over 175 majors of study spread among its six academic divisions.

Fostering civic responsibility is one of the college-wide learning goals of Chabot. During the 2010 fall semester, senior faculty in the Administration of Justice and Political Science engaged in discussions about ways to revive the college’s civic engagement and service learning at the college. A key outcome of those discussions was an idea for a course in Law and Democracy as well as a Law and...
Democracy lecture series. California State Treasurer Bill Lockyer will deliver the inaugural lecture in this series on September 15, 2011 and the first Law and Democracy course will be offered during the Fall Semester of 2012.

Lockyer’s Law and Democracy lecture will be the keynote event of a weeklong celebration and will kick-off three days of student-centered community engagement events that will culminate on Citizenship/Constitution Day on September 17, 2011. In conjunction with these other events, Chabot will provide its students with a training program in community organizing on September 16th and 17th.

A primary goal of the Law and Democracy lecture series is to expose Chabot College students, and the broader community, to a wide range of ideas and policy issues that impact their communities. Additionally, the organizers of the lecture series hope to help initiate conversations in the college and community about civic participation and responsibility.

I offer my congratulations to Chabot College on its 50th anniversary and for the launch of its curriculum in Law and Democracy and its Democracy Lecture series. Chabot is committed to nurturing an awareness of the importance of active civic engagement and responsibility in its students. I send best wishes for every success.

EASTERN IOWA’S VETERANS OF THE SECOND WORLD WAR

HON. DAVID LOEBSACK OF IOWA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. LOEBSACK. Mr. Speaker, today I have the great honor of welcoming to our nation’s capital ninety Iowa veterans of the Greatest Generation. Accompanied by seventy volunteer guardians, these veterans have travelled to Washington, DC, to visit the monument that was built in their honor.

For many if not all of these veterans, today will be the first time they have seen the National World War II Memorial. I can think of no greater honor than to be there when they see their memorial for the first time and to personally thank Iowa’s— and our nation’s—heroes.

I proudly have in my office a piece of marble from the quarry that supplied the marble that built the World War II Memorial. That piece of marble, just like the memorial that it built, reminds me of the sacrifices of a generation that, when our country was threatened, rose to defend not just our nation but the freedoms, democracy, and values that we hold so dear. They did so as one people and one country. It is still awe inspiring today.

The sheer magnitude of what they accomplished, not just in war but in the peace that followed has stood as an inspiration to every generation since. The Greatest Generation did not seek to be tested both abroad by a war that fundamentally challenged our way of life and at home by the Great Depression and the rebuilding of our economy that followed. But, when called upon to do so, they defended and then rebuilt our nation. Their patriotism, service, and great sacrifice not only defined their generation but stand as a testament to the fortitude of our nation.

I am tremendously proud to welcome Eastern Iowa’s veterans of the Second World War to our nation’s capital today. On behalf of every Iowan I represent, I thank them for their service to our country.

CONGRATULATING WILMER RAY BAILEY

HON. RODNEY ALEXANDER
OF LOUISIANA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pride that I rise today to congratulate Wilmer Ray Bailey for being selected as a recipient of the Thomas Jefferson Award for Cooperative Weather Observing. This award is testament that Wilmer is a true leader for his volunteer service to National Weather Service in Jena, La.

Wilmer has served as a volunteer weather observer for over 43 years, working closely with the local forecast office and serving his community with outstanding service and reliability. He has provided reliable weather data to the public, helping those who live in Jena, and the surrounding area. Wilmer has been an active member of the Jefferson County Sheriffs Office for over 25 years and has worked closely with its emergency management service.

IN RECOGNITION OF REV. NORWOOD RICHARD CUFF

HON. FRANK PALLONE, JR.
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Reverend Norwood Cuff for his thirty years of dedication to the community. On September 10, 2011, members of the Trinity African Methodist Episcopal Church in Long Branch, New Jersey will gather to recognize his devotion to the church. His thirty years of dedication and commitment to his faith and community are truly worthy of this body’s recognition.

Rev. Cuff is an esteemed member of Salem High School’s class of 1965. Beginning just eight months after graduation, he faithfully served his country as a member of the United States Navy. After completing his tour of duty, Rev. Cuff attained various retail positions before answering a strong religious calling. Rev. Cuff became an active member of Mt. Pisgah African Methodist Episcopal (AME) in Salem, New Jersey, filling the role of church usher. Under the pastoral leadership of Rev. John Boxley and the Mt. Pisgah church family, Rev. Cuff was recommended as a member to the New Jersey Conference Ministerial Institute of the AME Church. Shortly after, Rev. Cuff enrolled at Philadelphia College of Bible and completed his degree in 1984. In 1988, he graduated from the International Seminary with a Masters degree in Biblical Studies. He was later ordained as an Itinerate Deacon during his third year in the Ministerial Institute of the AME Church. Rev. Cuff would later preside as Pastor at Bethel AME Church in Port Norris, New Jersey upon completion of his post graduate studies. He was ordained as an Itinerate Elder in the AME Church by Bishop Frank Cummings in 1984 and was later assigned the Pastor of St. Mark AME Church in Lindenwold, New Jersey. After two years of service, he was reassigned to Mt. Zion AME Church in Woodstown, New Jersey where he remained for twenty-two years. Rev. Cuff currently serves as Pastor at Trinity AME Church in Long Branch, New Jersey.

In addition to his religious service, Rev. Cuff was an admirable member of the West Deptford High School staff for fifteen years and officially retired from his position at the Woodbury Junior Senior High School in 2008. Among many worthy organizations, Rev. Cuff
Mr. HONDA. Mr. Speaker, I was unable to return to Washington, DC last week, and so I was not present for rollcall votes held on September 7th, 8th, and 9th.

Had I been present I would have voted:

“No” on Rollcall No. 693, on Ordering the Previous Question on H. Res. 392, the Rule providing for consideration of both H.R. 2218 and H.R. 1892, in order to allow Mr. Garamendi of California to offer his amendment to the Rule to give priority to eligible entities that plan to use materials made in America for the construction and renovation of school facilities.

“No” on Rollcall No. 694, on H. Res. 392, the rule providing for consideration of both H.R. 2218—Empowering Parents through Quality Charter Schools Act and H.R. 1892—Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012.

“Yea” on Rollcall No. 695, on the Hunter amendment to H.R. 1892, which would require the Director of National Intelligence and the Secretary of Defense to establish a coordinated strategy to identify and counter network activity and operations in Pakistan and Afghanistan relating to the development and use of improvised explosive devices.

“Yea” on Rollcall No. 696, on the Carney amendment to H.R. 1892, which would express the sense of Congress that railway transportation security has been and must continue to be a priority of the intelligence community in the course of threat assessment.

“Yea” on Rollcall No. 697, the motion to recommit H.R. 1892, which would place priority on funding activities that counter the threat posed by transnational drug trafficking and the protection of U.S. borders from drug-related crime, violence, and gang-related activity in connection with transnational drug trafficking.

“Yea” on Rollcall No. 698, final passage of H.R. 1892, although I share the concern expressed by a number of my colleagues about the CIA’s role in Libya.
REMARKS IN HONOR OF U.S. ARMY SPECIALIST MICHAEL C. ROBERTS

HON. KAY GRANGER
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Ms. GRANGER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the service of Army Specialist Michael C. Roberts who was killed on August 27, 2011 in Kandahar Province, Afghanistan in support of Operation Enduring Freedom while serving with the 561st Military Police Company, based at Fort Campbell, Kentucky.

Specialist Roberts was 23 years old and was from Watauga, Texas. He graduated from Richland High School in Fort Worth, Texas in 2006 where he played tuba in the band and was a varsity wrestler. Specialist Roberts was the youngest of three brothers to join the Army when he enlisted in November 2007. According to his brother Patrick, Specialist Roberts relished the opportunity to "have a positive influence." Specialist Roberts' first tour was to Iraq in 2009 in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom as a communications specialist with the 1st Cavalry Division based at Fort Hood, Texas. He re-enlisted in 2010 and transferred to Fort Campbell, Kentucky in February 2011.

Specialist Roberts was on his second tour when he was killed. He lost his life to a vehicle borne improvised explosive device that detonated near his patrol. Specialist Roberts was protecting a secured area outside a police station when a vehicle attempted to breach the area. Specialist Roberts engaged the enemy, forcing them to detonate the device prematurely, and preventing them from injuring or killing a large number of fellow soldiers. Specialist Roberts was recognized for his actions by being awarded the Bronze Star, Purple Heart, and Combat Action Badge. Our nation can never repay the debt we owe to this brave man and his family, who understand firsthand the meaning of service and sacrifice. Specialist Roberts represents the best values of this nation and of the United States Army.

Specialist Roberts is fondly remembered as someone who lived life to the fullest, laughed at life's hardships, and stood strongly for what he believed. I wish to extend my condolences to Specialist Roberts' parents, David and Kathy, and his brothers Patrick and Brian, and hope that they continue to find solace in his lasting impact on both this grateful nation and his fellow soldiers.

MARKING THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF ORGANIZED CAMP IN THE UNITED STATES

HON. CHELLIE PINGREE OF MAINE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Mr. Speaker, this summer marked the one-hundred-and-fiftieth anniversary of organized camp in the United States. Summer camps throughout the nation provide valuable educational experiences and offer the chance for children from all different backgrounds to spend time outdoors, connect with their peers, and learn life-long skills. In the summer of 1861, William Frederick Gunn and his wife Abigail organized the first summer camp in America by taking a group of kids into the wilderness along the Long Island Sound for two weeks. Since then, thousands of camps have been founded, and 150 years later there are over 12,000 summer camps nationwide. While times have changed, the purpose of summer camp has remained the same—to provide our youth with havens in which to grow and learn in nature.

In the State of Maine, we have nearly 200 camps—most of which are accredited by the American Camp Association—including sleepaway day camps, and specialty camps. More than 18 of those have been operating for more than 100 years. In 1902, Wyonegonic Camps in Denmark, Maine opened its doors to girls and, today, remains the oldest continuously operating camp for girls in the country. Girls’ camps play a pivotal role in young women’s lives—providing settings in which they can grow confidence and develop as bright young women. Also in 1902, Pine Island Camp for boys opened in Belgrade Lakes, Maine and remains the oldest continuously operating camp for boys in the state. In 1908, two camps were opened by non-profit agencies in Maine: West End House Camp in East Parsonfield and Camp Jordan YMCA in Ellsworth.

Camp is a special place where kids get a chance to re-create themselves, develop independence, be physically active, and learn new skills outside of the traditional school setting. And, through exposure to new experiences, friendships with kids from other states and around the globe, campers gain perspectives on their own lives that augment their education and provide them from home away from home where the camp community becomes a second family. In a fast changing world, summer camps continue to be a mainstay of American society—providing kids a time for quiet reflection away from the pressures of growing up in a modern world. As millions of summer campers head back to school, let's remember the valuable role that summer camps play in the year-round education of children.

REMEMBERING LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR DR. ROY K. DOKKA

HON. CHARLES W. BOUSTANY, JR.
OF LOUISIANA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday September 13, 2011

Mr. BOUSTANY. Mr. Speaker, I want to offer condolences upon the passing of Dr. Roy K. Dokka, professor and researcher at Louisiana State University, who died unexpectedly on August 1, 2011. His contributions as an educator in LSU's College of Engineering were invaluable, and he has clearly missed by his family, peers, and the community.

Dr. Dokka held the Fruehan Family Professorship in Engineering, and was responsible for groundbreaking research during his tenure at LSU. Instrumental in establishing LSU's Center for Geoinformatics (C4G), Dokka served as the center's first Executive Director. Since 2001, researchers at C4G have been dedicated to studying the causes of coastal erosion in Louisiana and other important geographic relationships. Use of the Global Positioning System (GPS), along with geodetic leveling, enables C4G engineers to closely study these relationships, providing essential data in understanding many geographic problems our state faces.

Dokka's research contributions continued in 2002 when he spearheaded a cooperative with Louisiana Spatial Reference Center (LSRC) and the National Geodetic Survey-NOAA. Together, this alliance works on creating an advanced positioning system for Louisiana.

Dokka also worked with the state legislature to ensure the efficient usage and application of C4G's resources across Louisiana and provide them with the knowledge to better understand and prevent coastal erosion. Thanks to the contributions of Dr. Dokka, LSU's C4G will continue to be a valuable asset for government, industry and higher education. The center's work is especially timely considering the opportunities available through Geoinformatics to provide critical information and roadway assessment.

LSU acknowledges the importance of the research activity taking place at C4G, and has expressed its intention to continue and grow the institution in the absence of its founding executive director.

Dr. Dokka left an admirable legacy in his profession, and will be remembered as a vital member of the engineering community and a distinguished citizen of the State of Louisiana.

APPEAL TIME CLARIFICATION ACT OF 2011

SPEECH OF

HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 12, 2011

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 2633, the Appeal Time Clarification Act of 2011. This legislation provides an important clarification to the law.

Under the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure, the law allows 60 days to file a notice of appeal for civil cases if the United States or a federal officer is a party. However, the legislation fails to disclose whether the 60 day period applies to current and/or former federal employees who are sued in an individual capacity.

The Appeal Time Clarification Act of 2011 performs as a means to clarify the discrepancies created by the initial policy. It essentially amends the federal jurisdictional requirements concerning the time limits for the filing of appeals to any judgment, order, or decree in a civil action, suit, or proceeding.

According to the Congressional Budget Office Cost Estimate, as ordered by the House Committee on the Judiciary, H.R. 2633 would have no significant impact on the federal budget. The CBO estimates that enacting the bill "would not affect direct spending or revenues; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply."
may be read in such a way as to exclude those cases where the individual is represented by the Senate Legal Counsel or the House Office of General Counsel rather than the Department of Justice (for example, in a lawsuit between the legislative and executive branches concerning executive privilege or immunity).

Summary H.R. 2633 extends the 60 day filling deadline to any civil action, suit, or proceeding in which one of the parties is "a current or former U.S. officer or employee sued in an individual capacity for an act. This amendment provides the government with the time it needs to review the case, determine whether an appeal should be taken, and secure the Solicitor General's approval for that appeal. These same policy reasons apply in a case where the United States—through DOJ or some other federal litigating entity—decides to represent a current or former officer or employee sued in his or her individual capacity.

I applaud my friend from Michigan, Ranking Member of the Judiciary Committee for introducing this important legislation to protect past and present federal employees. I urge my colleagues to lend their support to the bill.

IN RECOGNITION OF VICKI AND DAVID PORTMAN

HON. FRANK PALLONE, JR.
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Vicki and David Portman, the 2011 Greater Monmouth County's Tribute Dinner honorees. Mr. and Mrs. Portman have dedicated their lives to serving the community and are truly worthy of this body's recognition.

Mrs. Vicki Portman was compelled by childhood memories of the Holocaust to live a life of philanthropy and service to the community and help others. Vicki and David Portman for their outstanding service to the community and congratulate them on the honor bestowed by the Jewish Family and Children's Service of Greater Monmouth County. Their philanthropic efforts are a shining example of what hard work and dedication can accomplish.

SPREAD BY JEFFREY BLEICH, U.S. AMBASSADOR TO AUSTRALIA

HON. ADAM B. SCHIFF
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to share a speech given by Jeffrey Bleich U.S. Ambassador to Australia commemorating the 10th anniversary of the September 11, 2001 attacks. Mr. Bleich's speech eloquently addressed the tragedy of that day, our struggle to come to terms with what happened and our resiliency in the years since 9/11. The harrowing experience of his friend, Jeff Thompson, reminds us that while September 11th left an indelible mark on the nation, it was also a deeply personal tragedy for the thousands of Americans in New York City, Washington, DC, Pennsylvania and elsewhere, who felt the full brunt of the violence of that day on their families and friends. I am pleased to enter the Ambassador's full speech into the Record today.

SEPTEMBER 11TH 10 YEAR ANNIVERSARY COMMEMORATION SPEECH JEFFREY BLEICH U.S. AMBASSADOR TO AUSTRALIA

The Honorable Ms. Julia Gillard, Prime Minister of Australia and Mr. Tim Mathieson, Your Excellencies, Ambassadors and High Commissioners, of more than 70 nations, The Honorable Mr. Tony Abbott, Leader of the Opposition, Ms. Katy Gallagher, Commissioner of the Australian Capital Territory, General David Hurley, Chief of the Australian Defence Force and Mrs. Linda Hurley, Members of the Parliament of the Commonwealth of Australia, Members of the Australian Defence Force Services, Senior Members of the Australian Public Service, Members of Australian First Responder Services, and welcomes international dignitaries, the Honourable Mr. Peter MacKay, Canadian Minister of National Defence, Distinctive Places, friends and family from many countries.

We come together today to remember a terrible day; but even more to consider the days that have followed and that will follow.

It has been ten years since September 11. The world that we imagined on September 10, 2001 all changed—changed utterly—in 24 hours. That morning, ten thousand Americans, Australians, and people of dozens of nationalities, Christians, Jews, Muslims—all in New York City headed to work in the World Trade Towers. In Boston, Newark, and D.C., they rushed off to the airport to catch the flight to San Francisco. In New York, firefighters and police officers—men and women—kissed their spouses or partners goodbye as they left the station. They had plans for the day: their meetings, who they would see at lunch, friends, appointments, errands with children. The world they imagined that morning, like the life they imagined, was one filled with many more days and years. They assumed life in all its fullness, whatever that life was. The ideals they held, the religion they practiced, the people they chose as their friends, their political views, the words they chose to say. They don't refer to the things usually as "freedom of religion," "freedom of speech," "freedom of association," "equality," or "liberty." We just call it living. We call it life. And likely so did the people on that day too.

But that casual belief changed on September 11. These men and women—sons, daughters, fathers, mothers—were killed that day for simply living as they did, and where they did. People from over 90 nations were killed because they chose to live in a land that celebrated these values.

For those of us who survived, it was also a day we never imagined. Wherever we were, in countries around the world, we imagined a normal day as well. None of us expected the world to stop, and for us to watch in horror as people—people like us—perished before our very eyes, in flames, and ash, and rubble.

Faced suddenly with a world that we'd never imagined, the stark question for each of us to answer was this: "what do we do now?"

If people like us were going to be killed for living and doing what was normal, what would we do now?

For those of us who survived that day, one of the people asked was my college roommate, Jeff Thompson. Jeff and his girlfriend lived in New York, where he worked in finance. Jeff and his girlfriend sometimes went on the road to play with his band. On September 11, he was at work, on one of the top floors of the Second World Trade Center towers when the first plane hit. One. Seeing the destruction next door, he started downstairs, but no one followed. He was halfway down, when the second plane hit—above him. He was cut off all of a sudden. Everyone he knew from work. The stairwells filled with people as they marched down to get out of the building, while firefighters and police officers trying to get us up out of the tower when it collapsed behind him. He was covered in dust, in blood, and tears.
Today members of the Embassy did not mourn. They went to the Arboretum and planted new trees to make the world cleaner and more beautiful. They ran around Lake Burley Griffin to raise money for those suffering from heart disease. We joined with our Australian friends to volunteer at homeless shelters, and with organizations that strive to live the principles and freedoms we cherish.

Around the world, we resisted the natural incline of people when attacked to withdraw and close off; our response has been to reach out and embrace. Confronted with hate, we choose not to hate. Confronted with death, we choose to live. Confronted with fear, we choose to hope. We have done, as Jeff did 10 years ago tonight. Faced with unimaginable fear and death, he kneeled to pledge his faith in love. Thank you.

CELEBRATING THE 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF SECOND HARVEST FOODBANK OF SOUTHERN WISCONSIN
HON. TAMMY BALDWIN OF WISCONSIN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011
Ms. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in celebration of the 25th anniversary of Second Harvest Foodbank of Southern Wisconsin and to honor all those who worked to make this exceptional food bank successful over the last quarter century.

In the summer of 1984, the dream of a food bank in Dane County became a reality when the Southern Wisconsin Regional Foodbank, Inc., eventually renamed Second Harvest Foodbank of Southern Wisconsin, was created. It wasn’t until 1986 that the first warehouse was established in Madison, but by the end of the year nearly three million pounds of food had been donated to 85 partner organizations. Over the next two decades, the food bank saw an explosion of increased services and growth, including countless new partnerships and programs, awards, and food distribution topping 6.8 million pounds by 2009. Today, Second Harvest works hard to address the issue of hunger in our community. They handle 20,000 pounds of food per day, distributing over 8 million pounds through 350 partner agencies in sixteen Wisconsin counties annually. Second Harvest also operates services like the Kids Café and the BackPack programs, which provide food, nourishment, and health education to children. These programs are essential because the statistics show that over 43% of those who do not have access to adequate amounts and types of healthy foods are children. Furthermore, the food bank operates thirty Mobile Pantry Program sites and has a long-standing partnership with the local NBC affiliate for their annual holiday food drive, providing an additional 1.5 million meals for families facing hunger.

Over the years, numerous people helped to make Second Harvest Foodbank an ongoing success. Today, a dedicated board of directors and admirable staff work to assist over 14,000 individuals and families and provide nutritious food to those who continue to lack proper nutrition. It is without a doubt, however, that the impact that Second Harvest makes on our community would not be possible without the ongoing generosity of volunteers. These inspirational and essential workers average over 5,000 hours of monthly service, equaling the work of 30 full-time employees. Further, each hour of donated time equates 63 meals, and with over 62,000 hours donated volunteers have helped stretch the funds through 5.5 million pounds of food.

It is hard to overstate the positive impact that Second Harvest has had and will continue to have on our community. For the fifth year in a row, Chantilly Navigator rated Second Harvest with four stars, highlighting its commitment in surpassing 94 percent of donations donated back to support the charity. Last year, with the help of so many donations, the food bank shared over 8.1 million pounds of food and each of their five different programs saw great success and growth.

In the words of Second Harvest’s President and CEO, Dan Stein, “It is possible to end hunger.” From Juneau to Green County, Crawford to Jefferson County and everywhere in between, Second Harvest has been a beacon of hope for our community and a model for charitable organizations. I proudly join those across Southern Wisconsin, the entire state, and the nation in celebrating the 25th anniversary of Second Harvest Foodbank and in thanking the employees, volunteers, and donors for their exemplary service to our community.

RECOGNIZING THE GREATER LAFAYETTE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE FOR BEING NAMED NATIONAL CHAMBER OF THE YEAR
HON. CHARLES W. BOUSTANY, JR.
OF LOUISIANA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011
Mr. BOUSTANY. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to congratulate the Greater Lafayette Chamber of Commerce for being named National Chamber of the Year by the American Chamber of Commerce Executives.

This distinguished award is awarded to chambers with superior member relations, operation management, and leadership within their community. The Greater Lafayette Chamber of Commerce has excelled in these areas over the past year. Panel members and former award recipients around the country determine which chambers are deemed most worthy to receive this title. I am very pleased our Greater Lafayette Chamber of Commerce was ranked as the best in the United States this year.

On August 4th, 2011, Lafayette’s chamber was informed of this monumental accomplishment. This is the chamber’s second national honor this year. Before receiving National Chamber of the Year, the Lafayette Chamber was given five stars by the United States Chamber of Commerce. Only one percent of chambers in the entire United States can claim this elite ranking.

The chamber’s contributions to Lafayette and the surrounding areas continue to foster development and stability in the business arena. I thank them for their continued efforts to promote the growth of our community. The chamber is absolutely deserving of this esteemed award. On behalf of the people of South Louisiana, I offer my sincere congratulations.
IN RECOGNITION OF THE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE CAPE COD TIMES

HON. WILLIAM R. KEATING OF MASSACHUSETTS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. KEATING. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Cape Cod Times, a daily newspaper circulated throughout the towns and villages of Massachusetts' Cape and Islands.

Seventy-five years ago, businessmen J.P. Dunn and Basil Brewer came together in a Hyannis garage to publish the Cape Cod Standard-Times. This union grew out of the men's desire to provide the residents of the Cape and Islands with access to community news, so they teamed up with the New Bedford Standard-Times for joint distribution through the 1960s. By 1970, however, the success of local small businesses and industries had brought an era of expansion to the region, augmenting the need for a local paper to service the needs and interests of the unique communities of the Cape and Islands. In 1975, the final Cape Cod Times edition was published as an "independent Cape Cod newspaper, printed and published on the Cape, by Cape Codders, for Cape Codders."

Today, the Cape Cod Times provides over 60,000 readers in the region with daily headlines of national and local relevance—from summer beach closings to breaking news across the globe. The paper's circulation reaches beyond the Cape and Islands through its online subscription, allowing readers to stay up-to-date on community happenings no matter their location.

Time and time again, the paper has been recognized for its national significance, having been named to such prestigious awards as "Newspaper of the Year," "Website of the Year" and "Sunday Newspaper of the Year" by the New England Press Association, the New England Newspaper Association, and the New England Associated Press Executives Association.

Having owned a home on Cape Cod for twenty years, it is with pride and gratitude that I congratulate the Cape Cod Times, its editors and staff on providing seventy-five years of authentic journalism to the people of the Tenth Congressional District of Massachusetts. I extend my best wishes to the paper for many more years of award-winning journalism to come.

HONORING THE CHESTER LIBRARY’S 100TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. RODNEY P. FRELINGHUYSEN OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the Chester Library located in Morris County, New Jersey, as it celebrates its 100th anniversary this year.

The Chester Library officially opened on Labor Day in 1911 as a joint library of the Chesters. The library originally occupied a very small space above a metal shoe-support factory and was only open for selected hours on Saturdays. When it attained funding, it constantly moved from one location to another until it finally settled in its current home in 1981.

The library expanded in 2004 with the addition of a Children's Room and a public meeting room. The new room not only provided extra meeting space for the library, but it is also available for local non-profits to use. With a collection of over seventy thousand books, music CDs, audio books, movies, video games, e-books, and periodicals, the Chester Library has come a long way from its modest start with merely one hundred books. Available for borrowing are books, magazines, audio books, DVDs, video tapes, CDs, video games, puppets and puzzles. Residents of Chester Borough and Chester Township, as well as any person with a Morris Automated Information Network (MAI.N.) card, are free to search the shelves and take advantage of all the library has to offer.

With more than three hundred programs for visitors, there is something for everyone. From story time for children to book discussions with the Young Adult Club and Computer Education for seniors, the Chester Library is a rich resource for the community. The library has 12 public computers with free Internet that provide visitors with convenient access to the Internet and other databases.

The Chester Library serves a vital role in the community. Not only does it provide access to numerous books, collections and databases, but the library also offers the people of Chester with a social community where everyone is welcome to share and enjoy. Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Chester Library as they celebrate 100 years of supporting access to knowledge and information in the local community.

OUR UNCONSCIONABLE NATIONAL DEBT

HON. MIKE COFFMAN OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, today our national debt is $14,688,259,374,281.24.

On January 6, 2009, the start of the 111th Congress, the national debt was $10,638,425,746,293.80.

This means the national debt has increased by $4,049,833,627,987.44 since then. This debt and its interest payments are passing to our children and all future Americans.

A TRIBUTE IN HONOR OF JOHN N. HUNTER ON THE OCCASION OF RECEIVING THE ST. MADELEINE SOPHIE AWARD

HON. ANNA G. ESHOO OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Ms. ESHOO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor John N. Hunter, a 2011 recipient of the St. Madeleine Sophie Award. The Award is given by the Sacred Heart School Community in Atherton, California, to individuals who have made sustained and significant contributions to the schools and embody the guiding and criteria of a Sacred Heart education. John Hunter’s commitment to the mission of Sacred Heart education spans decades, is an inspiration to everyone, and has earned him the coveted St. Madeleine Sophie Award.

John N. Hunter is a 1951 graduate of Stanford University and served his country as a member of the United States Army. He is a successful entrepreneur and has made significant contributions in the fields of education and community development.

John N. Hunter joined the Sacred Heart Schools Board of Trustees in 1978. This was a time of transition for the schools. John helped craft the first strategic plan and was a leader of the school’s first capital campaign. He has served on the board of the Religious of the Sacred Heart’s Oakwood Retirement Community, and played a key role in expanding the facility and building a chapel.

John has been married to the former Josephine Kegley since 1959, and they are the proud parents of five children: Julene, Wendi, Elizabeth, John and Mary, all of whom attended Sacred Heart Schools in Atherton.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating John N. Hunter as he receives the St. Madeleine Sophie Award and salute him for his tireless work, his humility, his wonderful sense of humor, and his lasting commitment to the extraordinary education of the Religious of the Sacred Heart and their schools in Atherton, California, where generations of children have been shaped, strengthening our community and our country.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. JUDY CHU OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Ms. CHU. Mr. Speaker, on September 12, 2011, I missed rollcall vote 699.

Had I been present for vote 699, on H.R. 2076, to clarify that the Department of Justice can provide investigatory assistance at the request of State and local authorities with respect to certain violent crimes, I would have voted “aye.”

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Speaker, on September 12, 2010, I missed the following rollcall votes because I was unavoidably detained out of town: rollcall vote No. 699—on motion to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 2076, the Investigative Assistance for Violent Crimes Act of 2011; rollcall vote No. 700—on motion to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 2633, the Appeal Time Clarification Act of 2011; and rollcall vote No. 701—on motion to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 1059, to protect the safety of judges by extending the authority of the Judicial Conference to redact sensitive information contained in their financial disclosure reports, and for other purposes.

If present, I would have voted “aye” on all three rollcall votes.
HONORING RAYMOND F. "DOC" KIERNAN

HON. NITA M. LOWEY
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 13, 2011

Mrs. LOWEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Fire Commissioner Raymond F. "Doc" Kiernan who will be honored September 15 upon his retirement after a 45-year career with the New Rochelle, New York Fire Department.

A lifelong New Rochelle resident, Doc Kiernan was a true "firefighter's fire commissioner," rising through the ranks to become New Rochelle Fire Commissioner in 1985. His experience at every level of the Department prepared him well. As Commissioner, he advocated tirelessly at all levels of government for increased resources for firefighter training and equipment. His knowledge became especially valuable after September 11, 2001, as I and other elected officials turned to Commissioner Kiernan for advice on complex issues such as emergency preparedness and radio interoperability.

Doc Kiernan's lifetime of dedicated service extends far beyond the New Rochelle Fire Department. He served in the United States Coast Guard on active duty and in the Reserve from 1965 through 1971. He was active in a number of professional organizations, including the International Association of Fire Chiefs, the Northeastern States Fire Consortium, the New York State Association of Fire Chiefs, the Westchester Career Fire Chiefs Association, the National Fire Protection Association, and the International Society of Fire Service Instructors. Additionally, Ray serves as a member of the Fire Advisory Board to the Westchester County Executive, on the Board of Directors of the Westchester Fire Fighters Emerald Society Pipe Band and as the current past chairman of the New York State Career Fire Chiefs Committee. He previously was a member of the New Rochelle Fire Fighters Association Executive Board and is a past president of the New Rochelle Fire Officers Association.

Commissioner Kiernan also has shared his time and talents with a host of community organizations, including the United Way, on both the local and county level. He was a chair of New Rochelle Heart Committee of the American Heart Association. His many volunteer contributions have won him honors and awards from numerous organizations including the Knights of Columbus, Huguenot Lions Club, and Casa Calabria.

I am proud to recognize New Rochelle Fire Commissioner Raymond F. "Doc" Kiernan for his exemplary service and commitment, and I urge my colleagues to join with me in wishing him many happy years in retirement.
