Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I recently received this email from John of Houston, giving the pulse of Texans:

“As one of the 9.2 million people whose livelihoods is supported by America’s oil and natural gas industry, I am troubled by recent calls to raise taxes on our industry—one of the few bright spots in the American economy.”

“Despite an economic slow-down, the oil and natural gas industry is creating jobs and can create many more.”

“As Washington focuses on improving our struggling economy, Congress has an opportunity to take our economy in a new direction—one that leads to economic growth and energy security.”

“By promoting policies that encourage domestic oil and natural gas production, we can create 1.4 million much needed jobs and generate $800 billion in additional government revenue by 2020.”

Mr. Speaker, John, a person who works for a living, understands better than Washington elites that our God-given natural resources should be used to create jobs for Americans.

Time to stop spending American money and jobs to Middle Eastern countries to buy their natural resources. Time to start supporting American energy workers and American businesses.

And that’s just the way it is.

PAYROLL TAX CUT

(Mr. CICILLINE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute)

Mr. CICILLINE. Mr. Speaker, I am asking the House to pass the expansion of the payroll tax cuts, which will put more money in the pockets of Americans and will boost economic growth and job creation.

American workers have received bigger paychecks in 2011 because of the payroll tax cut, helping families to pay their grocery bills, to pay their rents and mortgages, and helping to support local businesses. Allowing the payroll tax cuts to expire at the end of this month will result in less money in the pockets of hardworking middle class families at a time when our economy and our families can least afford it. With global financial uncertainty threatening our domestic recovery, this is not the time to take money out of the pockets of working families.

A family earning $50,000 a year will receive a tax cut of about $1,000 if the 2 percent payroll tax cut is extended. For Rhode Island, this would add $400 million to the paychecks of roughly 600,000 workers. Expanding the payroll tax cut to 3.1 percent, as the President has proposed, could increase the flow of capital into our local economy in Rhode Island to approximately $700 million.

It’s time for Congress to stand up for working American families by extending and expanding the payroll tax cut now.

FORT LEAVENWORTH CHANGE OF COMMAND

(Ms. JENKINS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JENKINS. Last week I had the immense pleasure of joining the folks at Fort Leavenworth for the Change of Command ceremony to welcome Lieutenant General David Perkins as the new commanding general of Fort Leavenworth, home of the prestigious Command and General Staff College.

It was fitting that General Perkins, a West Point graduate and distinguished Iraq war commander and decorated career serviceman, took his post during Military Family Appreciation Month as his two children, Chad and Cassandra, both serve in the Army. There is no doubt that General Perkins, his wife, Ginger, and their two wonderful children exemplify what it means to be a military family.

I want to extend a warm welcome to General Perkins and my deepest thanks to departing General Robert Caslen, who has left Fort Leavenworth for his new post as Chief of Security Cooperation in Iraq.

Thank you both for your service to the Fort Leavenworth community and to our country.

EXTEND THE PAYROLL TAX CUT

(Mr. JOHNSON of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. JOHNSON of Georgia. The Census Bureau recently reported that 100 million Americans are on the brink of poverty. Maybe now Tea Partyers here in Congress will realize what millions of people already know, which is that Americans are barely getting by and that the misguided Republican agenda of deregulation, higher taxes for the middle class and tax cuts for the rich will do nothing for those who are struggling.

We should extend the payroll tax cut, toss a lifeline to struggling Americans who can barely make ends meet, and stop holding small businesses and American families hostage with the threat of higher taxes.

I hope my Tea Party colleagues will take a moment to put the interests of the majority of Americans over those of overpaid bankers and oil executives. We must extend the payroll tax cut, help renew opportunity, and restore the American Dream to the American people.

REGULATORY REFORM

(Mr. DOLD asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DOLD. Mr. Speaker, despite the supercommittee’s inability to come to a bipartisan agreement recently, we cannot stand idly by and hope that someone will fix the problem. Rather, we must come together to find common ground today.

In the President’s address before this body just a short time ago, he called for the removal of burdensome regulations on small businesses. I certainly hope that that’s something that both Republicans and Democrats can agree upon.

As a small business owner, I know that the economic uncertainty facing job creators today is largely based upon the threat of thousands of pages of new regulations that are coming out day after day. What we need to do is implement smart regulations and repeal duplicative and burdensome regulations that stand in the way of job creation.

We can all agree that we want clean air, clean water a healthy environment, and consumer protection, so let’s come together and implement smart regulations and get rid of the redtape and excessive regulations that are keeping our job creators and entrepreneurs from growing their businesses and hiring more workers.

Let’s get America back to work.

PUTTING AMERICA TO WORK

(Mr. DeFAZIO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DeFAZIO. I agree, let’s do something meaningful to put America back to work. Let’s put millions to work rebuilding our crumbling infrastructure. The Speaker promised us we’d do that this month, the Republicans would bring a surface transportation bill to the House, and they said no, can’t figure out how to pay for it. It’s more important to continue tax cuts for the rich.

Now, with millions unemployed, can’t find jobs, the Republicans want to jerk their lifeline. They want to kill off extended unemployment benefits. They asked what? President Obama asked for the rich, the job creators. Ah, they’re doing a heck of a job creating jobs, aren’t they?

This is the discredited theory of trickle-down economics. America’s unemployed are being trickered on, and it stinks.

CANADIAN KEYSTONE XL PIPELINE CREATES JOBS

(Mr. BOUSTANY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BOUSTANY. Mr. Speaker, this President simply does not understand America’s energy needs.

Two weeks ago, this administration let politics trump policy by needlessly delaying the Canadian Keystone XL Pipeline. This is inexcusable.

The pipeline would carry 1.1 million barrels of oil per day to gulf coast refineries, create 20,000 American jobs, and inject millions of dollars into local economies. Instead, the Canadian Prime Minister announced Canada will sell its oil to China.

Mr. Speaker, I’ve proudly supported numerous bills that will create American jobs and promote American energy production. Putting the Gulf of Mexico Back to Work Act, Restarting American Offshore Leasing Now Act, Reversing President Obama’s Offshore Moratorium Act—these three bills will promote American energy production and American jobs, and yet they’re sitting in the Senate without action.

Let’s pass these bills. Let’s get them through the Senate. Mr. President, sign these bills and promote American energy production, American energy security, and American jobs.

GOP NO JOBS AGENDA

(Mr. DEUTCH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. DEUTCH. Mr. Speaker, we’ve entered the 12th month of the Republican majority in this House, and if the past 11 are any indication, December will be a continuation of the GOP no jobs agenda.

My colleagues in the majority have shown no interest in tackling America’s real economic challenges, no interest in the fact that small business owners say that weak sales, not government regulation, are the main source of their struggle.

No interest in the fact that it is tax relief for middle class families, not tax giveaways to corporations and to billionaires that our economy needs to boost consumer demand, and no interest in preventing the expiration of unemployment benefits for millions of struggling families and the havoc it would wreak on our economy. Mr. Speaker the majority’s interest seems focused on the timing of that election still nearly a year away.

Americans want Congress to work for them. It’s time we stand up for the middle class. Working families need us to work for them.

REGULATORY ACCOUNTABILITY ACT OF 2011

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to address the House for 1 minute.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. DOLD). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 477 and rule XVIII, the Chair declares the House in the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the consideration of the bill (H.R. 3010) to reform the process by which Federal agencies analyze and formulate new regulations and guidance documents, with Mr. Womack in the chair.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Employers across America face an avalanche of unnecessary Federal regulatory costs.

Federal regulations cost our economy $1.7 trillion every year, over $15,000 for each household, according to the Small Business Administration. Yet the Obama administration seeks to add billions more to that cost.

The administration’s record-setting issuance of major regulations is particularly troubling. By its own admission, the administration’s 2011 regulatory agenda contains 200 regulations that typically will affect the economy by $100 million or more every year.

For employers, the people who create jobs and pay taxes, the impact of these costly regulations is clear. Government regulation has become a barrier to economic growth and job creation. Faced with huge, new, regulatory burdens and uncertainties about what will come next, employers slow down hiring, stop investing, and wait for a bill from the Obama administration.

What enables the administration to issue so many new regulations with so little regard for their costs is the outmoded Administrative Procedure Act. Enacted in 1946, the APA’s minimal limitations on rulemaking have hardly changed in decades and do nothing to control costs.

The Regulatory Accountability Act fixes this problem by bringing the APA up to date. Under its commonsense provisions, agencies are required to assess the cost and benefits of regulatory alternatives. Unless interest of public health, safety, or welfare requires otherwise, agencies must adopt the least-costly alternative that achieves the regulatory objectives Congress has established.

The Regulatory Accountability Act has bipartisan support in both the House and the Senate, including from a number of House Democrats who have cosponsored the bill. In large part, this is because its provisions are modeled on the Executive orders that presidents Reagan, Clinton, Bush, and Obama have issued to compensate for the APA’s weaknesses.

Opponents of the act claim that it requires the benefits of all new regulations to exceed their costs. They argue that as a result the act will prevent Federal agencies from issuing important new public health, safety, and welfare regulations. This is false.

The Regulatory Accountability Act only requires agencies to adopt the lowest cost regulatory alternative that achieves the agency’s statutory objectives. The act assures that agencies will achieve all of those objectives but with much lower costs.

Opponents also assert that the act’s new procedural requirements will halt all Federal rulemaking, but the act primarily codifies existing Executive order principles and practices under which agencies have been able to issue regulations for years.

The act’s few additional requirements all are streamlined. They will improve the quality and lower the cost of regulations, but they will not unduly delay them. The act increases the transparency of the rulemaking process with more advance notices of proposed rulemaking, more opportunities for public comment, and more opportunities for public hearings. This will lessen the influence of all special interests.

The Regulatory Accountability Act provides the greatest opportunity yet for Republicans and Democrats to join together to end the job-killing cost of regulations. And it allows costs to be lowered while it assures that all of Congress’ regulatory objectives are, in fact, obtained.

The bill also provides a clear opportunity for the votes of Democrats in Congress to match President Obama’s words on regulatory reform. In his State of the Union address, the President said that “to reduce barriers to growth and investment, when we find rules that put an unnecessary burden on businesses, we will fix them.”

In Executive Order 13563, the President said that “our regulatory system must promote economic growth, innovation, competitiveness, and job creation; must allow for public participation and an open exchange of ideas; must identify and use the best, most innovative, and least burdensome tools for achieving regulatory ends; and must take into account benefits and costs.”

The President was right. And the Regulatory Accountability Act does all those things.

I urge all of my colleagues to support the Regulatory Accountability Act.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, COMMITTEE ON OVERSIGHT AND GOVERNMENT REFORM

Washington, DC, November 17, 2011.

Hon. Lamar Smith, Chairman, Committee on the Judiciary,

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: On November 3, 2011, the Committee on the Judiciary ordered H.R. 3010, the “Regulatory Accountability Act of 2011,” reported to the House. Thank you for consulting with the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform with regard to H.R. 3010 on those matters within the committee’s jurisdiction. I am writing to confirm our mutual understanding with respect to the consideration of H.R. 3010.
