The Senate met at 2 p.m. and was called to order by the Honorable Christopher A. Coons, a Senator from the State of Delaware.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Lord God, hear our prayers. You are the source of all our blessings, the author of our liberty, and the guide for our future. Make us a people with reverence for Your Name.

Infuse our lawmakers with the spirit of Your kindness so that they may desire to give rather than to get, to share rather than to keep, to praise rather than to criticize, and to forgive rather than to condemn. May their lives be the reflection of Your goodness and grace, as they commit themselves to the service of Your will. May they labor that others may share in the fruits of Your grace.

We pray in Your loving Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable Christopher A. Coons led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. Inouye).

The assistant legislative clerk read the following letter:

TO THE SENATE:

The Honorable Christopher A. Coons, a Senator from the State of Delaware, to perform the duties of the Chair.

Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable Christopher A. Coons, a Senator from the State of Delaware, to perform the duties of the Chair.

DANIEL K. INOUYE,
President pro tempore.

Mr. COONS thereupon assumed the chair as Acting President pro tempore.

AGRICULTURE REFORM, FOOD, AND JOBS ACT OF 2012—MOTION TO PROCEED—RESUMED

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. REID. The Senate is considering the motion to proceed to the farm bill postcloture.

At 4:30, the Senate will proceed to executive session to consider the nomination of Andrew Hurwitz of Arizona to be a United States Circuit Judge for the Ninth Circuit. At 5:30 p.m., there will be a cloture vote on the Hurwitz nomination.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, Democrats and Republicans hold a different view on many issues. But the bipartisan work by Senators Stabenow and Roberts on the agriculture jobs bill demonstrates, despite our differences, that we can still find common ground. I hope their cooperative spirit guides our work on this important legislation this week. American farmers are counting on us, and so is the economy.

Despite the uncertain economic times, America’s farms are the most productive in the world, exporting $136 billion worth of products last year and supporting 16 million private sector jobs. But to keep American farms strong, Congress must pass a strong farm bill.

This legislation creates jobs, cuts subsidies, and reduces the deficit. The bill includes important reforms to farm and food stamp programs. It saves $23 billion, which will be used to reduce the deficit. And it will give farmers the certainty they need to maintain the largest trade surplus of any sector of our economy.

Helping American farmers thrive is an important part of our work to get the economy on a firm footing again. I commend Senators Stabenow and Roberts for their leadership on this issue.

We are working now to come up with a list of amendments on this legislation.

It is a shame we are now wasting 30 hours postcloture on this bill. It is a bill that passed by 90 Senators agreeing that we should move forward to debate. But it now appears we are in a situation that we were in last week and the week before and the week before that, when the Republicans have made a decision that they would rather do anything they can to stop jobs from being created, hoping it will help them with the elections come November.

Too often in this Congress the Republican strategy has been to kill job-creating bills in the hopes of harming the economy and hurting President Obama. It forces the Senate to spend weeks passing consensus legislation that once was passed in a matter of minutes.

This “bullet” symbol identifies statements or insertions which are not spoken by a Member of the Senate on the floor.
They have held many important jobs that measure hostage to extract votes on unrelated, ideological amendments. It appears we are in that same place right here on this bill.

I am disappointed, as I have already said, that they have caused us to waste 30 hours on procedural hurdles on this bill. We shouldn’t have to do that. We shouldn’t have to run that clock when 90 Senators agree we should move to the bill. That is what happened last week.

I hope my Republican friends will dispense with these delay tactics. This is a bill that creates jobs, cuts subsidies, and protects our working farmers.

We hear the hue and cry from our Republican friends all the time that they want to reduce the deficit. How about one bill, in one fell swoop, with $23 billion of deficit reduction—a bill that will reduce subsidies, get rid of a lot of waste and abuse, and create jobs.

We have heard a position where my friends have said, just as the Republican leader has said, that their only goal is to defeat Obama, not help our country, and that is too bad.

Would the Chair announce the business of the day?

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I note the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. JOHANNS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. JOHANNS. Mr. President, I come to the floor today to discuss the farm bill that is now before the Senate. I want to say at the outset that this is a reform-minded bill that saves money and continues the evolution of farm policy in our Nation.

I commend the chair and ranking member of the Agriculture Committee for working to craft a farm bill that helps equip producers with improved risk management tools while being mindful of our very challenging budget situation.

This bipartisan bill will reduce the deficit by $23.6 billion because of changes to every title and the elimination of nearly 100 Federal programs overall. It shifts farm policy further away from dependence on income support and, instead, focuses on risk management.

But to truly appreciate where we are in farm policy today, it is important to spend a minute examining how we got here.

In the 1930s, depression and disaster ravaged our country’s farm sector. At the time a quarter of this country’s population lived and worked on farms and ranches, and most of what they produced was consumed relatively close to where it was grown.

When prices collapsed and dust storms swept the Plains, many were forced off their land to look for work in the cities. But oftentimes no work was to be found for emergency relief. In response to this situation, Congress passed the first farm bill. It was called the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933. The act placed the Federal Government in the driver’s seat in making key farm production decisions. A structure to eliminate crop and livestock surpluses was established—the thought being, if that was done, it would drive up prices. Literally, crops were plowed under and livestock was slaughtered to reduce supply and then, hopefully, to increase farm prices, according to the thinking at the time.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 made federally funded price supports mandatory for several crops. That would include corn, cotton, and wheat.

Then another law was passed in 1949. It mandated extensive government intervention to maintain parity with prices prior to World War II. I am not making an argument today about whether all of this was the right farm policy during the 1930s and 1940s. I will leave that for another time. But I can say, with no hesitation whatsoever, it is absolutely the wrong approach that we have come to realize that risk management is best handled with crop insurance.

Over the past several decades, farm bills have improved from those early laws, and U.S. farm policy has slowly but surely become a more market-oriented policy. For a long time the main goal was to support prices for a list of crops. We set high prices in law which distorted markets and discouraged cultivation of crops that did not benefit from price supports. In 1996, Congress began to shift away from the distorting farm policies of the past, and direct payments were introduced to temporarily support farmers as they transitioned away from an agricultural economy that was very reliant upon government intervention.

Removing the government from price support and supply controls created new risks to farmers, and it created uncertainty from Mother Nature. Congress then responded with ad hoc disaster spending to help farmers and ranchers address losses due to weather and other disasters. In fact, since 1996, USDA’s Economic Research Service estimates that $43 billion has been spent on these ad hoc and emergency programs.

To help manage these risks in a more fiscally responsible way, a crop insurance program has emerged. This highly effective public-private partnership helps farmers customize protection for their individual operations. Over time, crop insurance has become the risk management tool for farmers. These policies sold by private companies for over 100 different crops, and roughly 85 percent of acreage for major crops is now covered by crop insurance.

Last year, in spite of the drought in much of the southern plains and flooding in States such as Nebraska and many other States, farmers and ranchers did not call for emergency relief. In fact, I have heard clearly from farmers in Nebraska that crop insurance is working well.

Today’s farmers are certainly some of our most sophisticated and talented businesspeople in our Nation. The fruits of their labor produce an abundance of healthy low-cost food for Americans and, for that matter, people around the world. In fact, trade currently accounts for more than 25 percent of all U.S. farm receipts, and 1 out of every 3 crop acres—1 out of 3—is now exported.

In 2011 agricultural exports reached $136 billion. Our efficient export system, including handling, processing, and distribution of our food and agricultural products, creates millions of U.S. jobs. Given the projected global population growth of an additional 2.5 billion people by 2050, U.S. agriculture is positioned to experience significant growth in just a few years.

This farm bill ensures that USDA is focused on maintaining current export markets and gaining access to new emerging markets for U.S. farm and food products. This is the first farm bill in recent history that does not pay farmers a specific payment just because they are farmers. You see, farmers have come to realize that risk management is best handled with crop insurance. In fact, in many listening sessions I have had around the State, virtually no one asked for the continuation of direct payments.

The bill actually saves $15 billion from commodity crop support by eliminating four programs, including direct and income support countercyclical payments; the Average Crop Revenue Election Program, called ACRE; and the Supplemental Revenue Assistance Program, called SURE.

It does not raise loan rates, the price levels that have traditionally triggered the making of payments. It focuses the farm program on revenue, not price—something I proposed as the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture when I served in the Cabinet.

I remind my colleagues that our job in writing a farm bill is not to protect the interests of specific commodity groups. Instead, the farm bill should be about preserving the health of our agricultural economy. This farm bill continues a history of steps in that direction.

It seeks to minimize distortions and allows farmers to respond to market incentives—not determined by artificial prices set in a Federal statute.

I am also glad to see a step forward on payment limits and changes to ensure that those who receive government payments are actively engaged in farming.
I am especially pleased with the efforts to streamline and simplify the conservation programs. That is an issue I have heard a lot about. This bill actually consolidates 23 conservation programs into 13. In fact, I proposed similar changes in Agriculture. I want to take a look at the last farm bill process. The improvements reduce costs as well as make the programs more farmer friendly.

This bill also provides for the basic research at USDA, universities, and others that is needed to meet the demand for our farmers to produce more food, and on less land, and it does so in a way that includes new avenues to ensure that important work continues in these times of very tight Federal budgets.

Finally, I am pleased this bill builds on efforts to encourage beginning farmers and ranchers, veterans, and others looking for careers in agriculture.

It is important to me that we keep this bill simple, small, and streamlined as possible. I think we can agree that a bill that eliminates nearly 100 Federal programs does just that.

Given our Nation’s daunting budget situation, it is appropriate that this bill be small, taking yet another step in the right direction to reforming farm policy for the 21st century.

I hope we can keep this bill moving to help ensure certainty for farmers, ranchers, and others in rural communities where livelihoods are impacted by these policies. But make no mistake, good farm policy does not end with a good farm bill. Our farmers and ranchers also deserve a more constructive regulatory environment and a fairer tax system. So while I support the bill, I hope we can get some amendments pending to make a good bill a better bill.

This is so important that I led a letter with 43 other Senators asking for an open amendment process. I look forward to the debate and to passing a very reform-minded farm bill.

Mr. President, I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the record be made a part of the record.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The remarks of Mr. GRASSLEY and Mr. KYL are printed in today’s Record under “Executive Session.”

THE ECONOMY

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I wish to comment on something the President recently said that is very much in the news.

Last Friday, the President of the United States said, “The private sector is doing just fine.”

This is not taken out of context. He was talking about economically. His office leader explained what he was really talking about is the comparison between the public sector and the private sector, and I take him at his word there.

The President said:

Where we’re seeing weaknesses in our economy have to do with state and local government—oftentimes cuts initiated by governors or mayors who are not getting the kind of help from the federal government and who don’t have the same kind of flexibility as the federal government in dealing with fewer revenues coming in.

I think that is generally true. But here are the two key points I would make in response: First, everyone—not just government employees—is suffering. They are struggling in the Obama economy.

Yes, the number of government jobs has decreased during the last 40 months since President Obama took office, but overall employment in government has increased in the whole in recent years, even with the reductions that have occurred in the last couple of years.

For example, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, total government employees added up to 21,847,000—rounded off—in January 2006. That is just a little over 6 years ago—21,847,000. By comparison, last month the total amount of government employees added up to 22,509,000. So there are a few more government employees today—State, Federal, and local—than there were just 6 years ago. I would just ask, how on Earth did we get by in this country with only 21,847,000 government workers in 2006? I think we were doing just fine.

The reality is, when a private firm faces financial difficulty, usually the first area the firm looks to in terms of saving money is its workforce. It is too bad, but frequently firms have to lay off workers because they simply can’t afford to continue to pay that many workers.

I will just give the experience of a friend of mine in Arizona who said: This recession was probably the best thing that happened to us because it forced us to look at our workforce, how we did business, and whether we could make savings. He said: Today, we are making more money than we ever have, even with a lower workforce, because we found that we could make do and make the improvements that made us more efficient.

We are asking that to be done in government. Government doesn’t have a right to continue to grow and grow. Government should be as efficient as the private sector, including with respect to the number of people it hires to do the work that has to be done. After all, the private sector has to take care of paying both the employees in the private sector and the employees in the government sector. Who pays government employees? All of our constituents, the people in the private sector.

So we in the government have an obligation to run the governments—Federal, State, and local—as efficiently and leanly as we possibly can. If we find we can run the government with just a few more employees today than we had, for example, 6 years ago, then all the better for our economy and all the better for the taxpayers who have to pay their salaries.

So there isn’t some right of the Federal Government to continue to grow its workforce at a rate higher than the private sector. Rather, we should be trying to run the government on as few government employees as necessary to do the work the American people want us to do. But here is the larger point: As the Wall Street Journal points out, the reason the government workforce has shrunk since January 2009 is not due to smaller budgets or dwindling aid, as the President suggested. As the Wall Street Journal notes, revenues to State and local governments have increased during the last 2 years, according to census data. The main problem is shrinking health care costs for government workers, and we have seen the experience in a State such as Wisconsin in having to deal with that to make some reductions, which caused a lot of political turmoil in the State. But at the end, the voters of the State said, yes, agree. We need to cut government cost as it relates to the health care and pension commitments we have made to our government employees.

While government has experienced some losses, it is important to remember that benefits enjoyed by government workers are far superior to those enjoyed by those employed in the private sector. For example, according to an article in the National Review magazine, on an hourly basis private sector employees’ benefits cost their companies $2.15 an hour. State and local government workers cost taxpayers $4.72 an hour—a 219 percent more.

For retirement benefit costs, the private sector figures at $1.02 per hour. The State and local workers sum, $3.37 an hour—a 330-percent premium.

This is where the extra costs are for government workers. You can’t blame State and local governments for trying to provide more efficiency for their operations by conforming their practices for health care and pension benefits more to those in the private sector.

Why do government employees deserve more? I guess that is the question. As is a matter of fairness—and especially when compared to people who are paying their salaries—I don’t think anyone can argue that government employees should have twice as much or three times as much of a benefit as somebody in the private sector.

The second point I would make is this: At 4.2 percent, according to the latest data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the unemployment rate among government workers is also far below that of the private sector. We know the average in the country is 8.2 percent, and that is only the people who are still looking for work. If we took all the people who are out of work, it would be about 11.1 or 11.2 percent. But among government workers, the unemployment rate is 4.2 percent.

Compare that with unemployment in some of our other major sectors. In agriculture, it is 9.5 percent; 8.1 percent in the wholesale and retail trade; 9.7 percent in leisure and hospitality, to name just a few industries. In each of these I named—I think each of them would be thrilled to have as much unemployment as 4.2 percent. When the President says the real problem is with government employment, the private sector is doing just fine, the facts simply belie that. The President was incorrect.

Finally, let me address his theory of how an economy grows. Unemployment, as I said, is 8.2 percent nationwide. Labor force participation is at historic lows—the number of people actually working or looking for work.

GDP growth in the first quarter of 2012 was a very anemic 1.9 percent. This is not enough for this country to grow and prosper and the President wants to borrow more and spend more to crowd out the private sector and to pay them better benefits. Government stimulus spending and aid to States has not grown the economy so far and it is obviously not going to do so in the future.

Rather than divide the country into public versus private sector workers, Federal versus State and local workers, rich versus poor, men versus women, as the President wants to do, I hope we work hard to represent all Americans.

No one benefits in the long run from an enormous government with an appetite to grow more and more, crushing economic growth and crowding out the private sector, a government that drives up costs for job creators and forces companies to lay off private sector workers. None of us benefits from that. Yet that is what we are seeing playing out right now. The total number of unemployed and underemployed is over 23 million people in the United States. Think of that. That is the number of people who are looking for work who have stopped looking for work or who do not have the kind of work they could be doing. Economic growth last quarter, as I said, was only 1.9 percent; only 69,000 new jobs added. We need more than twice that many jobs each month in order to keep pace with the new workers coming into the economy, so we are losing ground in terms of creating true jobs.

I don’t think the President’s solution of more spending on government employees is the answer. I think the pattern also seen with Judge Morton Kowowski. I commend Senators from both parties for their efforts to get out of the economic difficulties we are in right now. Let’s do things that support the private sector, things that help the private sector. The healthier the economy is, the more growth we have, the more we are able to do for the public sector as well. That is the ultimate answer.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. (Mr. MANCHIN). Without objection, it is so ordered.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

NOMINATION OF ANDREW DAVID HURWITZ TO BE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT JUDGE FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will proceed to executive session to consider the following nomination.

The legislative clerk read the nomination of Andrew David Hurwitz, of Arizona, to be United States Circuit Judge for the Ninth Circuit.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, there will be 60 minutes of debate equally divided and controlled between the two leaders or their designees.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I understand that the intent was to have the vote at 5:30.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct.

Mr. LEAHY. I ask unanimous consent that the time be divided in such a way that the vote will occur at 5:30.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEAHY. Last week’s confirmation of Jeffrey Helmick to a judicial emergency vacancy in the Northern District of Ohio marked the 150th confirmation of a Federal circuit or district court nominee of President Obama’s. I do not say that for self-congratulations because we should acknowledge that we had already confirmed 150 of President Bush’s circuit and district court nominees 9 months earlier, in September of his third year in office.

In other words, to have matched what we had done so far for President Obama, we would have had to have had this number late last year. I mention that because it is one measure of how far behind we are in the consideration of President Obama’s nominees. Part of that is because a very large number of nominees who went through the Judiciary Committee unanimously last year who would normally be confirmed by voice vote within 1 week or so after they went through Committee were delayed on the Executive Calendar until this year.

I would point out another thing, which is that today is June 11, but by June 15 of President Bush’s fourth year in office, the Senate had already confirmed 180 Federal circuit and district court judges—150 for President Obama, 180 for President Bush—30 more judges for President Bush than we have been allowed to consider and confirm during President Obama’s administration to date.

There are still more than 70 judicial vacancies around the country. That is more than when President Obama came into office. One of the reasons it is more is that when Democrats were in control, we moved President Bush’s nominees much faster than Republicans have allowed us to move President Obama’s.

The unprecedented delays in the consideration of President Obama’s nominations were confirmed by a recent Congressional Research Service report on judicial nominations. The median number of days President Obama’s circuit court nominees have been delayed with Majority Party nominees being voted on by the Judiciary Committee has skyrocketed to 132 days. As the report notes, that is “roughly 7.3 times greater than the median number of 18 days for the 61 confirmed circuit nominees of his immediate predecessor, President G.W. Bush.” Similarly, district court nominees are being unnecessarily delayed. The median time from Committee vote to Senate vote has gone from 21 days during the George W. Bush presidency to 90 days for President Obama’s district nominees.

There are 18 judicial nominees sitting here waiting for final Senate consideration. They have been approved by the Judiciary Committee with bipartisan votes. It is my hope the Senate will be allowed to consider those other nominees and make real progress.

In fact, today the Senate is voting on whether to end a partisan filibuster against the nomination of Justice Andrew Hurwitz of Arizona to fill a judicial emergency vacancy in the Ninth Circuit. He is supported by both the Senators from Arizona, Mr. KYL, the deputy Republican leader, and Mr. MCCAIN. Last month, the Senate finally began taking actions I have been urging for months. We were finally able to consider and confirm the nominations of Judge Jacqueline Nguyen and Judge Paul Watford of California to judicial emergency vacancies on the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. The delay in the consideration of all these nominees follows the pattern also seen with Judge Morgan Christen of Alaska last December despite the strong support of the senior Senator from Alaska, Senator MURKOWSKI. I commend both sides of the aisle who rejected the misguided effort to filibuster the nomination of Judge Watford.

Normally, on a nomination such as Justice Hurwitz’s, we would not even be having a cloture vote, but we seem to have a new standard that is required for President Obama that was not required of the other Presidents since I have been here. It was not required for President Ford or President Carter or President Reagan or President George H.W. Bush, President Clinton or President George W. Bush.

I mention those because those are the only Presidents with whom I have served. We did not have that standard. Suddenly, we have this brand new standard. I Obama, the 28th time, the majority leader has been forced to file for cloture to get an up-or-down vote on one of President Obama's judicial nominations.

By comparison, during the entire 8 years, not 3.5 years but 8 years, that President Bush was in office, cloture was filed in connection with 18 of his judicial nominees, most of whom were not confirmed or were not passed out of the Judiciary Committee by a bipartisan majority. Most were opposed as extreme ideologues.

Justice Hurwitz is not a nominee who should be filibustered or require cloture in order to be considered by the Senate. He is a nominee with impeccable legal credentials and qualifications. I urge Senators to see through the specious and unfair attacks from the extreme right and narrow special interest groups. Senator KYL and Senators McCAIN are right to support his nomination, and this good man and excellent judge should be confirmed. Justice Hurwitz is a respected and experienced jurist on the Arizona Supreme Court. His nomination has the strong support of his home state Senators, Senators JOHN McCAIN and Senator Jon KYL. Justice Hurwitz was reported favorably out of Committee with bipartisan support over three months ago. His nomination received the highest possible rating of the American Bar Association Standing Committee on the Federal Judiciary after their nonpartisan review.

Justice Hurwitz is an outstanding nominee with impeccable credentials and qualifications. He has had nine years of experience as a judge on Arizona's highest court, and has shown a record of excellence as a jurist. No one has criticized a single decision he has made during his nine years on the bench as Justice. Let me repeat that: No one can point to a single decision he has made and be critical. It is because of his record that he has the strong support of both Republican Senators from Arizona and others from both sides of the political aisle.

A graduate of Princeton University and Yale Law School, Justice Hurwitz served as the Note and Comment Editor of the Yale Law Journal. Following graduation, he clerked on every level of the Federal judiciary: First for Judge Jon O. Newman, who was then U.S. District Judge on the District of Connecticut. Subsequently, he clerked for Judge Joseph Smith of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. Then he clerked for Justice Potter Stewart of the U.S. Supreme Court.

He then distinguished himself in private practice, where he spent over 25 years at a law firm in Phoenix, Arizona. While in private practice, Justice Hurwitz tried more than 40 cases to verdict or final decision. He argued numerous times in the Ninth Circuit and other state and Federal appellate courts. One of the Supreme Court cases he argued was Ring v. Arizona, a case which he won 7-2, with the votes of Justices Scalia and Thomas.

Justice Hurwitz has also taught classes at Arizona State University's Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law for approximately 15 years on a variety of subjects including ethics, Supreme Court litigation, legislative process, civil procedure, and Federal courts. By any traditional measure, he is the kind of judicial nominee who should be confirmed by a bipartisan vote, and I find it very disappointing that notwithstanding the strong support of Senator KYL and Senator McCAIN, so many Republican Senators seem eager to oppose this nomination.

An unfair campaign is being mounted by the extreme right against this outstanding nominee. The apparent basis of that campaign is not any decision that Justice Hurwitz made, incidentally. He has never been overturned. Some, it is not from any decisions he made but rather a decision Judge Newman made while Justice Hurwitz was a young law clerk 40 years ago.

Anyone who knows Judge Newman especially knows this was his decision, not that of a clerk. Judge Jon Newman makes his own decisions. He always has. Actually, in this particular case, the decision he made was ultimately accepted by the U.S. Supreme Court as the law of the land.

Why Senator KYL is right to support this nomination marks a new era of responsibility for the judge's decision. When Senator KYL introduced Justice Hurwitz to the Judiciary Committee at his hearing in January, he underscored what a qualified nominee he is, I quoted him.

It is very easy to see and it is obvious to those of us who have been in Arizona a long time why Justice Hurwitz was awarded the ABA’s highest rating, unanmious well qualified. It is privileged to sponsor his nomination, and I am honored to be able to introduce him to the panel today.
conservative judge who wrote conservative opinions with which they agreed. So this is another one-way street, another ratcheting down of the process, another excuse for opposing a highly qualified nominee. And it is wrong.

This is a pattern. Senate Republicans have attacked nominees by attributing the position of the nominee’s legal client to the judicial nominee. That is something, incidentally, that Chief Justice Roberts strongly condemned at his confirmation hearing, and I agree with him. In fact, I voted for Chief Justice Roberts. The fact is, lawyers are often asked to represent people on one side or the other.

John Adams, who became our President, who worked so hard to have us break free from Britain, defended the British soldiers who were involved in the Boston Massacre because he said we had to show the world that we are a country but the world that we stand for the rule of law and that everybody in court gets adequate representation. I mention that because when they opposed Judge Helmick, they argued that because he was a court-appointed lawyer for a defendant in a terrorism case, that means he supports terrorism. Baloney. I represented criminals when I was in private practice, and I prosecuted criminals when I was a prosecutor. Now, what does that mean? It means I followed the law and played the part a lawyer should play in these proceedings. That is why, after what they did with Judge Helmick, I reminded them of John Adams defending the British soldiers after the Boston Massacre. I had a person ask me: Is it possible that you have Senators who have never read a history book? I said that I never thought so before.

I also noted that they filibustered Caitlin Halligan, who served as her State’s top appellate lawyer. They filibustered her because she defended the constitutionality of her State’s law. Let’s take a look at what a Hobson’s choice we have there. If you are the State’s top lawyer and you defend your State’s law, we cannot possibly support you. Let’s say that she was the State’s top lawyer and you oppose the State’s law. Then they would say: Oh, we obviously cannot support you. So you are damned if you do and damned if you don’t.

They opposed the nomination of Jesse Furman. Why? Well, he wrote something when he was a freshman in college that he even went to school. Oh my goodness gracious, let’s hope we don’t have a judicial nominee who may have written for a college newspaper. Can you imagine? I might ask every Senator to go back and look at some of their papers they wrote in high school and college.

If somebody brought those up today, they would probably say: Who wrote this garbage? Well, you did, Senator. So following your standards, I assume you are going to retire today and notify the government.

I have seen Senate Republicans grossly distorting a nominee’s record to make him out to be a caricature, as with Goodwin Liu.

Now we are seeing Senate Republi- cians attack a nominee for serving as a law clerk for the Ninth Circuit. By those standards, does that mean Democrats should oppose anybody who clerked for Justice Scalia or Justice Thomas because we disagree with some of their decisions? Are we saying we don’t confirm those clerks? Boy, I have cast some bad votes if we are using that standard because I have voted for people who have been law clerks for judges whose opinions I disagreed with. I was there to vote on the law clerk who may have had a distinguished career in the law, and I look at their career.

I urge Senate Republicans to reject this attack, as Senator KYL and others do, and vote to confirm Justice Hurwitz. Let him be a judge on his own merits, substance as a judge. This nominee has been a judge on the Arizona Supreme Court for 9 years. Let’s judge him on that record. Let’s accept the fact that President Obama did what I urged him to do. He talked to the Senators of the State and got their support for his nominee. It didn’t matter whether they were Republicans or Democrats.

In March when the Judiciary Committee voted on Justice Hurwitz’s nomination, Senator KYL further stated:

[The] real question is . . . how he has com- bined himself, the places where you can readily judge him—on the Arizona Supreme Court. Not once has an opinion that Justice Hurwitz wrote or joined in been overturned by a higher court.

[Senator KYL further stated:] Justice Hurwitz is a good example of a person who probably has some views personally that are different from mine, but whose opinions obviously carefully adhere to the law. And, after all, I think that is what most of us are looking for in judicial nominations. So I am pleased without reservation and would urge my colleagues to support his nomination as well.

I agree with Senator KYL and commend him. In direct and express answer to a question from Senator Sessions, Justice Hurwitz explained that his personal views would have no role in his decisions as a judge, and that they have never played a role in all his years as a judge. Justice Hurwitz’s record is that he is a judge’s judge. He is a person who meticulously analyzes the law and applies the facts of the case to the law. There is no evidence to contend that Justice Hurwitz would not do the same on the Ninth Circuit.

The Chief Judge of the Ninth Circuit along with the members of the Judicial Council of the Ninth Circuit, wrote to the Senate months ago emphasizing the Ninth Circuit’s "desperate need for judges," urging the Senate to "act on judicial nominees without delay," and concluding "we fear that the public will suffer unless our vacancies are filled very promptly." The judicial emergency vacancies on the Ninth Circuit are harming litigants by creating unnecessary and costly delays. The Adminis- trative Office of U.S. Courts reports that it takes nearly five months longer for the Ninth Circuit to get an opinion after an appeal is filed, compared to all other circuits. The Ninth Circuit’s backlog of pending cases far exceeds other Federal courts. As of September 2011, the Ninth Circuit had 14,000 cases on its docket before it, far more than any other circuit.

When Senate Republicans filibustered the nomination of Caitlin Halligan to the D.C. Circuit for posi- tions she took while representing the State of New York, they contended that their underlying concern was that the caseload of the D.C. Circuit did not justify the appointment of another judge to that Circuit. I disagreed with Senator Grassley’s concern that their shifting standards and their purported caseload argument. But if case- loads were really a concern, Senate Republi- cians would not have delayed action on the nominations to judicial vacancies on the overbur- dened Ninth Circuit for months and months.

We are still lagging behind what we accomplished during the first term of President George W. Bush. During President Bush’s first term we reduced the number of judicial vacancies by almost 75 percent. When I became Chair- man in the summer of 2001, there were 110 vacancies. As Chairman, I worked with the administration to get 50 senators from both sides of the aisle to confirm 100 judicial nominees of a conservative Republican President in 17 months.

We continued when in the minority to work with Senate Republicans to confirm President Bush’s conservative ju- dicial nominations well into 2004, a presidential election year. At the end of that presidential term, the Senate had acted to confirm 205 circuit and district court nominees. In May 2004, we reduced judicial vacancies below 50 on the way to 28 that August. De- spite 2004 being an election year, we were able to reduce vacancies to the lowest level in the last 20 years. At a time of great turmoil and political con- frontation, despite the attack on 9/11, the anthrax letters shutting down Sen- ate offices, and the ideologically driven judicial selections of President Bush, we worked together to promptly con- firm consensus nominees and signific- antly reduce judicial vacancies.

In October 2008, another presidential election year, we again worked to re- duce judicial vacancies and were able to get back down to 34 vacancies. I ac- companied Senator Graham and continued holding expedited hearings and votes on judicial nominations into September 2008. We lowered vacancy rates more than twice as quickly as Senate Republicans have allowed dur- ing President Obama’s first term.

By comparison, the vacancy rate re- mains nearly twice what it was at this point in the first term of President Bush, and has remained near or above 80 for nearly three years. If we could move forward to Senate votes on the 18 judicial nominees ready for final action, the Senate could reduce vacancies below 60 and make progress.

One provision is allowed to vote on this nomination. We have already agreed to vote on the 17 other judicial nominees stalled on the Executive Calendar. Another point made by the Congressional Research Service in its recent report is that not a single one of the last three presidents has had judicial vacancies increase after their first term. In order to avoid this, the Senate needs to act on these nominees before adjourning this year.

As the Congressional Research Service report makes clear, in five of the last eight presidential election years, the Senate has confirmed at least 22 circuit and district court nominees after May 31. The notable exceptions were during the last years of President Clinton's administration: in 1995 and 1999. If Senate Republicans would not allow confirmations to continue. Otherwise, it has been the rule rather than the exception. So, for example, the Senate confirmed 32 in 1980; 28 in 1984; 31 in 1996; 28. Last year, at the end of President George W. Bush's first term; and 22 after May 31 in 2008 at the end of President Bush's second term.

So let us move forward to confirm Justice Hurwitz. We need to work to reduce the vacancies that are burdening the Federal judiciary and the millions of Americans who rely on our Federal courts to seek justice. Let's work in a bipartisan fashion to confirm these qualified judicial nominees. If we do that, we can address the judicial crisis facing this country. We may not only restore the faith of the American people in the Federal judiciary but start restoring their faith in the U.S. Senate, which is a body I love, which the American people see as being far too political. I think that is the right thing to do.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum, and I ask that the time be equally divided.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

HURWITZ NOMINATION

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I come to the floor to tell my colleagues why they should not support clout on the Hurwitz nomination.

On Saturday, December 2, 1989, this 4-year-old boy in the photo, Christopher, was dressed in his favorite clothes by his mother Deborah Milke. She told him James Styers, who shared the apartment with Debra, would take him to the mall to see Santa Claus. After picking up another man, Roger Scott, they stopped at a couple drug stores and then, when Christopher and Christopher had pizza for lunch.

Rather than taking Christopher to see Santa Claus at the mall, they drove him to the desert. Christopher was told they were going to look for snakes. Instead, Christopher was shot three times in the back of the head by Styers, his body left in the desert.

James Styers, 63, was convicted of first-degree murder of the 4-year-old boy, conspiracy to commit first-degree murder, child abuse, and kidnapping— all supposedly at the request of the boy's mother, Debra Milke, James Styers, and Roger Scott were all sentenced to death for the killing.

After yesterday, the case found itself in Federal Court, making its way to the Ninth Circuit. In 2008, nearly 19 years after the terrible crime took place, the Ninth Circuit sent the Styers case back to Arizona, claiming that the State court did not adequately consider the post-traumatic stress disorder Styers suffered because of his military service in Vietnam.

Just about 1 year ago, in June 2011, some 22 years after this horrific, evil event, the Arizona Supreme Court heard the appeal. In a 4-to-1 decision, the court acknowledged Styers' post-traumatic stress disorder but nonetheless ruled it didn't outweigh the aggravating factors found during the trial. The result was that the trial was not moved to another court.

The nomination before the Senate, whom we will be voting on, Justice Andrew Hurwitz, was the lone dissenter in that 4-to-1 decision. He was the sole person on the Arizona Supreme Court who believed that Christopher's murderer should be given another trial.

Another trial would have resulted in another round of delays. If he had his way, the victim in this crime would still be awaiting justice. Arizona taxpayers would be facing unnecessary expenses, and society at large would still be waiting for a resolution to this case.

Today, we are asked by the President and by the American people to confirm this judge to be a U.S. circuit judge for the Ninth Circuit. I strongly disagree he should be rewarded with a lifetime appointment to the Federal bench. For reasons I will outline, I oppose this nomination and urge all Senators to do likewise. I urge you to vote no on cloture, and, if it occurs, on any vote on final confirmation.

In the Styers case, Justice Hurwitz acknowledged his position would result in a delay, and also conceded it was unlikely a new sentencing proceeding would produce a different result. In his dissent, he cited Ring v. Arizona.

Ring v. Arizona was a case Judge Hurwitz had previously argued before the U.S. Supreme Court in 2002, before his appointment to the Arizona Supreme Court. In that case, he argued that Arizona's capital punishment sentence law was unconstitutional, although the Supreme Court had previously upheld the Arizona statute in a 1990 decision.

Let me make this clear: Mr. Hurwitz, as an attorney, advocated against the death penalty. This was not just advocacy for a paying client or as a court-appointed attorney. As I have said before, judicial nominees should not be judged by the clients they represent. But in this case, Mr. Hurwitz volunteered for this case. He did it on a pro bono basis.

The Supreme Court in that case conducted private dead pets. He used the same case as the basis for dissenting in another Arizona death penalty case.

Timothy Stuart Ring was sentenced to death in 1996 by an Arizona Superior Court judge for the 1994 killing of John Magoch, an armored car driver. Mr. Hurwitz successfully challenged the Arizona death penalty statute. He then argued before the Arizona Supreme Court on behalf of the 29 inmates then on death row in Arizona. Mr. Hurwitz asked the Arizona Supreme Court to either throw out each man's death sentence and order a new trial or to resentence each to life imprisonment with the possibility of release to press accounts at the time, Hurwitz said the next step following the Arizona v. Ring ruling should be to resentence the inmates to life in prison, saying that allowing the previous death sentences to stand would be "dangerous precedent." However, the State's high court refused to overturn the convictions and death sentences on a blanket basis, ruling that the trials were fundamentally fair and that the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling didn't require throwing out all death sentences.

I believe there is strong evidence that Justice Hurwitz is unable to differentiate between his personal views and his responsibility as a judge. I believe Judge Hurwitz's record suggests that he allows his own personal policy preference to seep into his judicial decisionmaking. Others share this view.

The fear that political activism would translate into judicial activism once on the bench was expressed in the following quote from Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor. In the end, the commission almost didn't include Hurwitz's name on the list; got just eight votes, barely a majority.

But the final name(131,684),(868,788) on the list, Andrew Hurwitz... will be a controversial choice for Napolitano, in some ways. He is considered the most liberal of the candidates, even labeled by some as an ideologue... He wears his passion for the law in the open, and eagerly engaged in debates with the commission members about recent death penalty decisions and his past as a member of the Arizona Board of Regents... In the end, the commission almost didn't include Hurwitz's name on the list; he got just eight votes, barely a majority.

We certainly do not need more of that on the Ninth Circuit.
Beatty, who has been on death row since July 1985, was scheduled to die by lethal injection at an Arizona Department of Corrections prison in Florence at 10 a.m. on May 25 last year. Again, the victim’s family and Arizona citizens had to wait 27 years for justice to be served, but they would have to wait a few more hours. Beatty’s execution was delayed for most of the day as his defense team tried to challenge the Arizona Department of Corrections’ decision to substitute a drug for another in the State’s execution drug formula. State and Federal courts denied requests by inmate Donald Beatty to block his scheduled execution because of a last-minute replacement of one of three execution drugs. The Arizona Supreme Court ruled 4 to 1 to lift the stay. The majority held that Beatty’s lawyers hadn’t proved he was likely to be harmed by the change. Again, there was one dissenter: Justice Hurwitz. If he had his way, the State would have had to show why it was unable to retain the original drug for execution.

Contrast is between the record of then-Prosecutor General and the record of Judge Newman, which the Arizona Supreme Court was considering. Newman’s second abortion decision was released, Justice Hurwitz interviewed for Supreme Court clerkships. At the time, the Supreme Court Justices were considering Roe v. Wade, which was eventually handed down in January of 1973.

Justice Hurwitz wrote, “effectively doubled the period of time in which States were barred from absolutely prohibiting abortions.” Furthermore, Newman’s opinion in Abele II was even more drastic and far-reaching than Roe turned out to be. He said that the “right” to abortion could be found in the ninth amendment, a theory about unenumerated rights that the Supreme Court rejected in Roe and has not endorsed elsewhere.

Hurwitz’s article was clearly an attempt to attribute great significance to the decisions in which the judge for whom he had clerked had participated. I think that by any fair measure, it is extremely troubling regarding Justice Hurwitz’s article and not conclude that he wholeheartedly embraces Roe and, importantly, the constitutional arguments that supposedly support Roe. He takes this view despite near universal agreement among both liberal and conservative legal scholars that Roe is one of the worst examples of judicial activism in our Nation’s history. For example, Professor Tribe, a liberal constitutional law scholar, wrote:

One of the most curious things about Roe is that behind its own judicial smokescreen, the substantive judgment on which it rests is nowhere to be found.

Stuart Taylor wrote:

Roe v. Wade did considerable violence to the constitutional fabric. When the 7-2 decision came down in 1973, very few scholars thought its result could plausibly be derived from the Constitution; not one that I know of considered Blackman’s opinion a respectable piece of constitutional law.

Even Justice Ginsburg has repeatedly criticized Roe. She wrote that the Court’s “heavy-handed judicial intervention was difficult to justify and appears to have provoked, not resolved, conflict.”

We are not talking about an article published shortly after graduating from law school. Mr. Hurwitz published it 30 years after graduating from law school, when he was well established and a seasoned lawyer. In fact, he published this article shortly before joining the Arizona Supreme Court. All of this leads me to question his ability to be objective should this issue come before him if he is confirmed to the Ninth Circuit.

The noted the following groups have expressed opposition to this nomination: the National Right to Life, Heritage Action, Concerned Women for America, Faith and Freedom Coalition, Liberty Counsel Action, Family Research Council, Eagle Forum, Traditional Values Coalition, Americans United for Life, Susan B. Anthony List, American Center for Law and Justice, Judicial Confirmation Network, and...
Judicial Action Group have written in opposition to this nomination. I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD a copy of these letters.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

NATIONAL RIGHT TO LIFE
COMMITTEE, INC.,
Washington, DC, June 6, 2012.

Re NRLC scorecard advisory in opposition to confirmation of Andrew Hurwitz to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.

Sen. CHARLES GRASSLEY,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR GRASSLEY: On Monday, June 11, the Senate will vote on whether to invoke cloture on the nomination of Andrew D. Hurwitz to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. The National Right to Life Committee (NRLC), the nationwide federation of state right-to-life organizations, urges you to vote against cloture, and re-serves the right to include the roll call on cloture in the NRLC scorecard of key right-to-life votes of the 112th Congress.

In 1972, Hurwitz was a law clerk to Jon O. Newman, a U.S. District Judge for the District of Connecticut. During the time that Hurwitz was a law clerk, Newman issued a sweeping ruling that struck down a recently enacted Connecticut law that prohibited abortion except to save the life of mother. The Newman ruling—styled as Abele II—was issued prior to the U.S. Supreme Court handed down Roe v. Wade, but after the Supreme Court had conducted the first of two rounds of oral arguments in that case. In Abele II, Newman enunciated a new constitutional doctrine under which state prohibitions on abortion prior to “viability” would be deemed to be violations of a constitutional “right to privacy.” Newman’s ruling left it an open question to what extent a state would be permitted to apply limitations on abortion even after “viability.”

In 2005, when Hurwitz was 55 years old and already a justice on the Arizona supreme court, he authored an article titled, “Jon O. Newman: Roe v. Wade and an Abortion Decision Declared Unconstitutional by an Arizona State Supreme Court in Roe v. Wade.” In that article, Hurwitz makes a persuasive case for his thesis, citing comments made by Supreme Court justices during the second round of oral arguments in the Roe case, information from the now-public archives of some of the justices who were involved, and personal conversations with Justice Stewart (for whom Hurwitz clerked in 1973-74) and others who were directly involved in the crafting of Roe v. Wade.

Hurwitz provides particularly detailed and plausible evidence that Newman’s opinion was instrumental in persuading Justice Blackmun to abandon a draft opinion that would have limited the “right to abortion” to the first three months of pregnancy. Newman’s opinion was adopted instead of the more sweeping doctrine laid down in the final Roe v. Wade ruling, under which states were barred from placing any meaningful limitation on abortion at any point prior to “viability” (and severely circumscribed from doing so even after “viability”).

Hurwitz wrote: “This viability dictum, first introduced by Justice Blackmun into the Roe drafts only after Justice Powell had urged that he follow Judge Newman’s lead, effectively eliminated from the discussion on abortion at which states were barred from absolutely prohibiting abortions... Judge Newman’s Abele II opinion not only had a profound effect on the United States Supreme Court’s reasoning, but on the length of time that a pregnant woman would have the opportunity to seek a continuing tone of Hurwitz’s article leaves no doubt that he considers Newman’s role in leading the Supreme Court majority to adopt a much more expansive right to abortion than otherwise might have occurred, to be a major positive achievement of Newman’s career.

Roe v. Wade has been critiqued as constitutionally invalid by liberal legal scholars who agree with legal abortion as a social policy. Many others believe that New- man and the Supreme Court justices who Hurwitz asserts followed Newman’s lead were engaged in a super-legislative activity—an exercise memorably denounced by dissenting Justice Byron White as “an exercise in pure judicial power.” Of these critiques, there is no hint in Hurwitz’s presentation, which is laudatory from start to finish.

The recasting of the draft Roe ruling, which Hurwitz credibly attributes to Newman’s influence, had far-reaching consequences. The absolute number of abortions performed nationwide in the fourth, fifth, and sixth months of pregnancy increased greatly after Roe was handed down. Abortion methods were defined by the shield of Roe, to more efficiently kill unborn human beings in the fourth month and later. The most common method currently employed is the “D&E,” in which the abortionist twists off the unborn child’s individual limbs and organs by brute manual force, using a long steel Sopper clamp. (This method is depicted in a technical medical illustration here: http://www.nrlc.org/abortion/pba/DAbortionographic.html) Well over four million second-trimester abortions have been performed since Roe was handed down.

This carnage is in part the legacy of Jon O. Newman—but Judge Hurwitz clearly wants to claim a measure of the credit for himself, as well. In Footnote no. 55 of his article, Hurwitz relates a 1972 interview in which Justice Stewart “jokingly referred to me as the ‘clerk who wrote the Newman opinion.’” Hurwitz remarks that this characterization “I assume...was based on Judge Newman’s generous letter of recommendation, a medium in which some exaggeration is expected.” It is true that footnote 55 without concluding that Judge Hurwitz could not resist the opportunity to put on record his personal claim to having played an important role in development of the expansive abortion right ultimately adopted by the U.S. Supreme Court.

NRLC urges you to oppose cloture on the nomination of Judge Hurwitz, and reserves the right to include the cloture vote in the NRLC scorecard for the 112th Congress. Respectfully,

DOUGLAS JOHNSON,
Legislative Director.

KEY VOTE ALERT: “NO” ON THE NOMINATION OF ANDREW HURWITZ

On Monday (June 11), the Senate is scheduled to vote on the nomination of Andrew Hurwitz to the Court of Appeals. Mr. Hurwitz’s previous actions and writings raise serious questions as to whether he’d be able to follow the rule of law from the bench.

In the past, Mr. Hurwitz has encouraged courts to legislate from the bench. In the Supreme Court case of Roper v. Arizona, he suggested that the Supreme Court change the wording of the Constitution in order to achieve a ruling based on his beliefs, which would have made the state’s death penalty sentencing unconstitutional. He believed so strongly in the cause of this case that he worked pro bono.

His foray into activist-legislating was not limited to that case, though. He has also said that he would look to previous Supreme Court decisions on relevant issues before consulting the United States Constitution. He also upholds that Judges have the power—and supposedly the better judgment—to bestow rights upon American citizens, outside of the law.

Placing personal beliefs ahead of the law and the Constitution, as he appears to do, is a dangerous subversion of the rule of law. Those who support the rule of law, and the role it plays in civil society, cannot allow such judges to be appointed.

Heritage Action opposes the nomination of Andrew Hurwitz and will include it as a key vote in our scorecard.

CONCERNED WOMEN FOR AMERICA,
LEGISLATIVE ACTION COMMITTEE,

SENATOR, U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR, Concerned Women for America Legislative Action Committee (CWALAC) and its more than half a million members around the country respectfully ask that you oppose the nomination of Andrew David Hurwitz to be a United States Circuit Judge for the Ninth Circuit.

Roe v. Wade represents one of the most blatant disregard for the U.S. Constitution and our founding principles in American history. Every single legal scholar, including many committed liberal ones, admit its arguments are not based in law.

Edward Lazarus, for example, who clerked for Roe’s author, Justice Blackmun, has said, “As a matter of constitutional interpretation and judicial method, Roe borders on the indefensible... Justice Blackmun’s opinion provides essentially no reasoning in support of its holding.”

That is why it is inexcusable for Mr. Hurwitz to take pride in helping craft the decision that provided the underlining arguments for it, as he helped craft a similar decision while serving as the clerk for Judge Jon O. Newman of the District of Connecticut. Hurwitz proudly recounts how he helped craft a similar decision when he clerked for District Judge David Hurwitz to be a United States Circuit Judge for the Ninth Circuit.

As a woman’s organization we simply cannot overlook the pain that Mr. Hurwitz’s radical view of the Constitution has brought to women. As the Supreme Court finally admitted on its recent partial-birth abortion decision in Gonzalez v. Carhart:

“It is self-evident that a mother who chooses to abort must struggle with grief more anguished and sorrow more profound when she learns, only after the event, what she once did not know: that she followed a doctor performing a skull and vacuum the fast-developing brain of her unborn child.”

That grief and anguish are the practical results of Mr. Hurwitz’s legal theory refusing to recognize the unborn as a “person” until the baby is born. We urge you to oppose this nomination, and we plan to score each and every vote on it.

Sincerely,

PENNY NANCE,
President and Chief Executive Officer.
DEAR SENATOR: On behalf of Family Research Council Action (FRCAction), the legislative arm of the Family Research Council, and the families we represent, I want to urge you to vote NO on the confirmation of Andrew Hurwitz to the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. In a 2003 Law Review article entitled John O. Newman and the Abortion Decision, Mr. Hurwitz singles out a Connecticut District Judge for the prescient and seminal role he played in informing Roe v. Wade. This article revealed, not only his admiration for the Judge (whom he was clerking at the time), but also a disquieting admiration for Roe and its tenuous foundation.

A modicum of privilege can be sensed as Mr. Hurwitz recounts his clerkship during the “tumultuous” months of 1972 as Roe was being argued. That year he had caught the attention of the Supreme Court while aiding Judge Newman in casting the swing vote in a case involving abortion into Connecticut. Indeed, in one footnote (55) of his essay, Hurwitz speaks candidly of the reputation he had with Supreme Court Justice Stewart as “the clerk who wrote [Abele II].”

It is telling that at a time when many scholars are abandoning the divisive and indefensible position of Roe, Hurwitz comes to its defense for reasons that, given his history, seem irrational.

In his article, Mr. Hurwitz commends Judge Newman for his “careful and meticulous analysis of the competing constitutional issues.” Hurwitz wrote, “He [Newman] placed primary reliance on the natural implications of Griswold: if the capacity of a fetus to be born made it a person endowed with Fourteenth Amendment Rights, the same conclusion would seemingly also apply to the unfertilized ovum, whose potentiality for human life could be terminated under Griswold.”

This failure to distinguish a fetus from an unfertilized ovum is part of a larger inability to understand the question of when life begins through a biological lens. Hurwitz renews a common misconception made by Judge Newman (presumably shared by himself) who confused he felt the issue of when life begins was ultimately philosophical rather than legal when, in fact, it is neither.

Finally, Mr. Hurwitz praises Judge Newman on his insight regarding allowing limitations to abortion after viability as opposed to the first trimester. This stance he claims greatly influenced Blackmun in the Roe decision to “effectively double the period of time in which states were barred from absolutely prohibiting abortions.” This position is one that nearly every state and congressional lawmakers have found morally objectionable due to medical research demonstrating the fetus’ ability to feel pain as early as 18 weeks.

Mr. Hurwitz’s vaulting regard for Roe, his personal involvement in its formulation and his inability to see its shortcomings, offer no assurances he will arbitrate impartially from the bench. For these reasons we urge you to oppose the nomination of Andrew Hurwitz to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Sincerely,

THOMAS MCCLUSKY, Senior Vice President.
laws. This must be especially true of appellate judges. Because the United States Supreme Court hears very few cases (approximately 100 per year), federal circuit courts have the final say on the vast majority of cases in the federal system. Between April 1, 2010 and March 31, 2011, the Ninth Circuit terminated more than 13,000 appeals. Because the number of cases heard by the federal Courts of Appeals, especially the Ninth Circuit, is critical that only neutral, impartial judges are elevated to those courts. Appellate judges must be long discredited reasoning and activism of Roe and his role in constructing the Abele II opinion that influenced Roe starkly indicate his belief in extralegal constitutional decision making, and a desire to legislate from the bench.

NOMINEES TO THE 9TH CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS

HURWITZ: THE “ARCHITECT” AND “LONE REMAINING DEFENDER” OF ROE V. WADE

Hurwitz has declared his support for the Roe and his role in constructing the Abele II opinion that influenced Roe starkly indicate his belief in extralegal constitutional decision making, and a desire to legislate from the bench.

We urge the Committee to carefully consider support issues noted above as they review Justice Hurwitz’s nomination. Sincerely, your support for Hurwitz and that you encourage your colleagues to vote against his nomination. We respectfully ask for your support for Hurwitz and that you extend your support for Hurwitz and that you express to the Senate the merits of this nominee.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The Acting President pro tempore, Senator from Arizona.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I wish to speak on a different subject primarily, but in view of my colleague's comments about Hurwitz, I am afraid that my comments could have any bearing on them, let me just make a note of my position.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I certainly respect my colleague from Iowa. Like him, my views on the issue of abortion are very decidedly pro-life, and I too disagree with the decision in Roe v. Wade. I agree with him that many legal scholars believe that Roe v. Wade rests on very shaky legal grounds.

But I would observe that Andrew Hurwitz, the nominee who will be before us: Never in any decision has he rendered as a member of the Arizona Supreme Court has anybody I know believed he let his views, his personal philosophic or political views determine his judicial rulings. To the contrary, everyone with whom I have spoken, and to the degree I have been able to study his career of about a decade on the Arizona Supreme Court, it is remarkably free of the kind of politics that sometimes infuses judicial decisionmaking.

His opinions are well considered, based on the law, well written, and generally a part of a consensus court.

There are both Republicans and Democrats on the Arizona Supreme Court, and Justice Hurwitz is usually with his colleagues on the court in deciding these matters.

I think it is unfair to an extent that because he wrote a Law Review article several years ago in which one can assume he expressed a pro-choice point of view that therefore somehow he would become disqualified from the bench. That was the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. In fact, here is some breaking news: President Obama nominates pro-choice candidates to courts. Obviously, I am being facetious.

I suspect most of President Obama's nominees are pro-choice. I don't ask the nominees I consult with, the ones we recommend him to the administration, and I would not be recommending him to my colleagues.

So with all due respect to my good friend from Iowa, whose views I share and when he is confirmed to the Ninth Circuit, I am not going to yield the floor.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order be placed on the Senate Record.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I yield to the floor.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I rise today to speak in strong support of the nomination of Arizona Supreme Court Justice Andrew Hurwitz to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.

The Ninth Circuit is the busiest federal appellate court in the nation. It has over 1,400 appeals pending per three-judge panel. This is the most of any court, and it is over twice the average of other circuits combined. The Ninth Circuit, as I said, neither my conservative friends back in Arizona nor I have been able to find a case in which Justice Andrew Hurwitz's decisions have been based on anything other than a pretty clear reading of the law as applied to the facts of the case. I have every reason to believe in his honesty and his integrity in continuing that practice, which he has manifested over the last decade, if and when he is confirmed to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. In fact, here is some breaking news: President Obama nominates pro-choice candidates to courts. Obviously, I am being facetious.

I suspect most of President Obama's nominees are pro-choice. I don't ask the nominees I consult with, the ones we recommend him to the administration, and I would not be recommending him to my colleagues.

So with all due respect to my good friend from Iowa, whose views I share on the question of abortion, I think it would be wrong to oppose this nominee based on that fact.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order be placed on the Senate Record.

Mr. PRESIDENT. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I rise today to speak in strong support of the nomination of Arizona Supreme Court Justice Andrew Hurwitz to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.

The Ninth Circuit is the busiest federal appellate court in the nation. It has over 1,400 appeals pending per three-judge panel. This is the most of any court, and it is over twice the average of other circuits combined. The Ninth Circuit, as I said, is twice as heavily busy with cases as the average of the other circuits combined.
The Judicial Conference of the United States has declared each Ninth Circuit vacancy a judicial emergency. So today we are considering a nominee to a judicial emergency vacancy. The nominee is Justice Andrew Hurwitz of the Arizona Supreme Court, and he is very well respected. He is seasoned. He has over 25 years of practical experience and 9 years on the State supreme court. He has the strong support of the two Republican Senators from his home State, JON KYL and JOHN MCCAIN.

Candidly, I am surprised that a cloture vote is necessary. This body should be able to confirm this nominee without controversy. So I urge my colleagues to vote for cloture and to support this nomination.

Justice Hurwitz earned his bachelor’s degree from Princeton University, Phi Beta Kappa, in 1968. He earned his law degree from Yale Law School in 1972 where he was note and comment editor of the Yale Law Journal.

Following graduation, Justice Hurwitz clerked for three distinguished Federal judges: Jon O. Newman, then of the District of Connecticut; Joseph Smith of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit; and Potter Stewart of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Following these three clerkships, Justice Hurwitz worked in private practice for over 25 years in Phoenix, AZ, where he represented clients in State courts, Federal courts, and administrative agencies.

Hurwitz’s clients have included AT&T, Lucent Technologies, ABC, Clorox, the city of Phoenix, PGA Golf, the Arizona State Compensation Fund, various Native American tribes, the U.S. Conference of Mayors, the National League of Cities, and the Council of State Governments. That is a wide and diverse cross-section of companies in our country.

Hurwitz has more than 40 cases to final judgment. That is actually more than most appellate court judges who have been before us. He has argued numerous cases before the Ninth Circuit and other State and Federal appellate courts and argued two cases before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Justice Hurwitz was appointed to the Arizona Supreme Court in 2003, where he has built a reputation as a fair-minded and highly skilled jurist. As Senator KYL said in the Judiciary Committee:

Everyone who has practiced in Arizona before the Arizona Supreme Court on which Justice Hurwitz sits . . . is complimentary of his legal skills, temperament, and he has received widespread support [in Arizona] for his appointment . . . to the ninth circuit.

Justice Hurwitz was appointed by Chief Justice Rehnquist to serve as a member of the Advisory Committee on the Federal Rules of Evidence and was reappointed to that position by Chief Justice Roberts.

In my view, Justice Hurwitz is one of the most qualified circuit court nominees I have seen, and I have served on the Judiciary Committee for 19 years now. There are two areas of dispute I would like to address.

First, some have criticized Justice Hurwitz on the death penalty. As a Democrat, does he support the death penalty? I can tell you these charges are simply wrong. On the Arizona Supreme Court, Justice Hurwitz has voted to uphold numerous death sentences. Just this year, in State v. Cota, he authored an opinion for the court upholding the death penalty for a man who was convicted of capital murder and a minor wife who had hired him to perform house work. He joined a similar opinion this year in State v. Nelson which upheld the death penalty for a man who had hit his 14-year-old niece on the head with a mallet. Last year, in State v. Manuel, he joined an opinion upholding a death sentence for a man who shot and killed the owner of a pawn shop in Phoenix.

Justice Hurwitz did argue a case in the Supreme Court called Ring v. Arizona, which established that a jury, not a judge, must find the facts necessary to make a defendant eligible for the death penalty. The Ring decision was 7 to 2. It is part of a line of cases—beginning with Brown v. New Jersey in 2000—in which Justices Scalia and Thomas have been at the forefront of expanding defendants’ rights to have certain facts found by juries, not judges. In fact, Justices Scalia and Thomas have occurred in the decision. Justice Breyer has dissented. So it is not something that breaks down along ideological lines.

There is simply no question Justice Hurwitz will follow the law on the death penalty if he is confirmed. He has done so for the last 9 years.

The second issue is a Law Review article Hurwitz wrote in 2002 about a decision by a district court judge 40 years ago that may have influenced—I say may have influenced—a Supreme Court’s decision in Roe v. Wade.

In response, I would first say, as Senator KYL said in the Judiciary Committee, that Justice Hurwitz did not express his personal views on the Roe decision. Second, the real question is how Justice Hurwitz has comport himself as a judge because we have long years to look at. By all accounts, his record has been superb. Not once has he an opinion he has written been overturned by a higher court. Let me repeat: Justice Hurwitz has been overturned by a higher court. Yet it is my understanding that 60 votes is hard pressed to get in this body, and that is hard for me to understand.

As Senator KYL has also said, Justice Hurwitz’s “opinions obviously carefully adhere to the law . . . [and] that is what most of us are looking for in judicial nominations.” And that is absolutely right.

In the Judiciary Committee I listened to Senator KYL’s strong defense of Justice Hurwitz. JON KYL is not a liberal; he is a rock-rib conservative. I said at the time that Senator KYL’s statement was “music to my ears” because I thought we finally might be getting away from this effort to find a single statement or speech in someone’s background to use to condemn him or her for all time.

In this case, it is a district judge’s decision from 40 years ago that is a real problem, particularly because that Supreme Court justice of the State of Arizona, and particularly because both Republican Senators support him. I, as a Democrat—and Democrats on the floor of the Judiciary Committee—also support him. There may be something else that somebody wrote 40 years ago in college—and we have seen some of this too. It goes on and on, and it is wrong.

I agree with Senator KYL that this is a highly qualified nominee for the business of the United States and a circuit that has a judicial emergency. So I urge my colleagues to vote for cloture to support Justice Hurwitz’s nomination by virtue of education, by virtue of training, by virtue of private practice, and by virtue of court record, his record is unimpeachable, and I stand by that.

So I thank the Chair. I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LEE, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEE, Mr. President, I rise today to express my opposition to the nomination of Andrew Hurwitz to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. I would first note that this year we have already confirmed 25 of President Obama’s judicial nominees.

At this point in 2004, the last Presidential election year during a President’s first term, the Senate had confirmed only 11 of President Bush’s judicial nominees. At precisely the same point in 1996, during President Clinton’s first term, the Senate had confirmed only three judicial nominees. So this year we have confirmed more than twice as many of President Obama’s judicial nominees as we did during a comparable period for President Bush and more than eight times as many as we did for President Clinton.

The nominees who have already confirmed so far this year, two are now serving as appellate judges on the Ninth Circuit. The Ninth Circuit is an important appellate court in America, with jurisdiction over about 60 million Americans—roughly 20 percent of our country’s total population. Approximately one-third of all reversals handed down by the Supreme Court last term were from the Ninth Circuit. Indeed, the Ninth Circuit has developed something of a reputation for eccentric legal theories and unusual results. As one commentator suggested, “There should be two Supreme Courts, one to reverse the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 9th Circuit, the other to hesitate.”

We should therefore exercise some caution in confirming yet another liberal nominee to the Ninth Circuit. But Mr. Hurwitz is not simply another liberal nominee. Mr. Hurwitz has sought to claim credit for one of the most controversial and constitutionally indefensible decisions in Supreme Court history—Roe v. Wade.

In 1972, Mr. Hurwitz clerked for Judge Jon Newman on the U.S. District Court for the District of Connecticut. That year, as Mr. Hurwitz later put it: “[t]he abortion issue dominated [Judge Newman’s time],” and Mr. Hurwitz helped Judge Newman write two key abortion decisions known as Abele I and Abele II. These two decisions established the conceptual groundwork for the decision that became known later as Roe v. Wade. They relied on a single discredited, historical account to conclude that Connecticut’s abortion laws were not in fact passed to protect the life of the fetus; they relied on flawed science to conclude that there was no objective way of knowing when human life begins; and they relied on a fabricated and arbitrary legal framework and methodology to analyze the competing rights of the individual and the State.

Given the woefully misguided reasoning behind these decisions, one would assume that a former law clerk would keep quiet about his personal role in drafting opinions that lack serious constitutional grounding. Indeed, most former law clerks—who have a certain duty not to discuss internal deliberations—would consider themselves ethically bound not to talk about decisions and the personal opinions of their bosses in individual cases, and certainly would not seek to attract public attention to their role in particular decisions. But Mr. Hurwitz did just that.

In a 2002 law review article, Mr. Hurwitz recounted how he received a “memorable, innovative, careful, and meticulous.” He described them as expressing a “profound, critical, immediate, direct, and crucial” influence on Roe v. Wade, which he described as a landmark opinion of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Hurwitz cannot have it both ways. He cannot seek credit for his role in developing a jurisprudence that is unmoored from the Constitution and has resulted in the killing of tens of millions of unborn children. Mr. Hurwitz has claimed credit for shaping a judicial decision that fundamentally disrespected human life and is completely unfounded in the Constitution. Roe v. Wade forever changed the debate about abortion in this country by creating a nationwide policy of abortion-on-demand through one of the worst cases of judicial activism in history. It is so poorly reasoned that both conservative and liberal legal experts and scholars acknowledge that Roe was a deficient opinion that lacks any legitimate legal reasoning in support of its holding.

His willful failure to recognize the legal deficiencies of the Roe opinion and his self-promotion for playing a part in such an unfortunate event in this country’s judicial history makes clear that he is not qualified to serve in the role of a Federal appellate judge.

Of the countless qualified individuals who would make excellent appellate judges to serve on the Ninth Circuit, President Obama chose to nominate the one person who, by his own account, was a key intellectual architect of the profoundly flawed legal argument. Mr. Hurwitz is qualified, which is why I must oppose Andrew Hurwitz’s nomination to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.
Mr. KYL. I support the nomination of Justice Andy Hurwitz to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Justice Hurwitz received his undergraduate degree from Princeton University (A.B. 1968) and his law degree from Harvard Law School (J.D. 1972), where he was Note and Comment Editor of the Yale Law Journal.

Justice Hurwitz has served on the Arizona Supreme Court since 2003. Before joining the Arizona Supreme Court, Justice Hurwitz was a partner in the Phoenix firm of Osborn Maledon, where his practice focused on appellate and constitutional litigation, administrative law, and civil litigation. He is a member of the bar in Arizona and in Connecticut; he received the highest grade on the Arizona Bar examination in the summer of 1974. He argued two cases before the Supreme Court of the United States. Justice Hurwitz served as chief of staff to two Arizona governors—from 1980 to 1983 and in 1988. He was a member of the Arizona Board of Regents from 1988 through 1996, and served as president of the Board in 1992–1993.

He has regularly taught at the Arizona State University College of Law, and was in residence at the College of Law as Visiting Professor of Law in 1994–1995 and as a Distinguished Visitor from Practice in 2001. He was appointed by Chief Justice Rehnquist in 2004 as a member of the Advisory Committee on the Federal Rules of Evidence and re-appointed to a second term by Chief Justice Roberts in 2007.

His legal acumen was recognized in 2005, when Justice Hurwitz was awarded the ABA’s highest rating: Unanimous “Well Qualified.”

During his 9-year tenure on the Arizona Supreme Court, Justice Hurwitz has demonstrated a commitment to faithfully apply existing law and precedent regardless of his own policy preferences. A few examples are quite telling:

In 2006, he upheld the constitutionality of a 200-year sentence for a man convicted of possessing twenty pictures of child pornography even though Justice Hurwitz personally felt that the sentence was too long. Responding to the dissent in State v. Berger, he wrote:

As a policy matter, there is much to commend Justice Berch’s suggestion that the cumulative sentence imposed upon Mr. Berger was unnecessarily harsh, and my personal inclination would be to reach such a conclusion. As a judge, however, I cannot conclude under the Supreme Court precedent or even under the alternative test that Justice Berch proposes that Berger’s sentences violate the United States Constitution.

In 2005, in State v. Fell, Justice Hurwitz, followed Supreme Court precedent and held that “the Sixth Amendment does not require that a jury find an aggravating circumstance before a natural life sentence can be imposed.” In so doing, he rejected a position similar to the one he had advocated for at the Supreme Court just 3 years earlier.

Justice Hurwitz repeatedly reiterated his commitment to judicial restraint in his testimony to the Judiciary Committee. To briefly quote him: “Judgments about policy matters are within the province of the legislature, and courts should not second-guess such judgments.”

Justice Hurwitz's steadfast commitment to this philosophy is likely the reason that no opinion written or joined by Justice Hurwitz has ever been overturned by the United States Supreme Court.

I support the nomination of Justice Hurwitz to the Ninth Circuit because I believe that his abilities, experience, and constitutional restraint will enable him to serve the residents of the Ninth Circuit as ably as he has served the people of Arizona.

Today, I am very disappointed because a number of friends of mine in the pro-life community think it charitable, exaggerating one Law Review article that he wrote attributing to Justice Hurwitz all kinds of views which are not appropriate based upon the facts. It has to do with the pro-life issue.

I want to set the record straight on Justice Hurwitz's article about Judge Jon O. Newman, which has unfortunately been blown out of proportion. About 10 years ago, the New York Law School Law Review solicited Judge Jon O. Newman's former clerks to write articles for a symposium dedicated to Judge Newman’s first 30 years on the bench. Five clerks agreed, including Justice Hurwitz, who wrote about the case he had written by Judge Newman while Justice Hurwitz was clerking for him.

Justice Hurwitz wrote the Newman article to “document the historical record about the effect of Judge Newman’s decisions on subsequent Supreme Court jurisprudence.” [Hurwitz Responses to the Written Questions of Senator Jeff Sessions, question 1(a), 111th Cong., 2nd Sess. (2010), p. 1] He did not express his “personal opinions” on the merits of Judge Newman’s decisions in Abele I or Abele II, something that Justice Hurwitz believes would be “improper for a law clerk to do, either then or now.” [Hurwitz Responses to the Written Questions of Senator Jeff Sessions, question 1(a), 111th Cong., 2nd Sess. (2010), p. 1]

Although Justice Hurwitz “assisted in the research,” “Judge Newman wrote the [Abele II] opinion, as he did all opinions which bore his name during the time [Justice Hurwitz] clerked for him.” [Hurwitz Responses to the Written Questions of Senator Tom Coburn, question 8, 111th Cong., 2nd Sess. (2010), p. 5] Further, as a law clerk, Justice Hurwitz was required to implement Judge Newman’s preferences, not his own. Thus, Judge Newman's opinion cannot be attributed to Justice Hurwitz.

If someone told me that Justice Hurwitz was pro-choice, I would believe that, though he has never said, and he did not express his personal opinions in the Abele II decision that his previous boss, a federal judge, had written. His boss, Judge Newman, wrote an opinion that was part of the basis for Roe v. Wade, a decision with which I wholeheartedly disagree. Andrew Hurwitz wrote about that. Somehow my friends in the pro-life community have turned this into a federal case against him. What do they suggest? That he approved of Roe v. Wade. The point is that Andrew Hurwitz has never in his career on the Arizona State Supreme Court evidenced any inability to separate his own personal views from the judging that he is required to do. And I would defy any of these people who think they know more about it than I do to show me a case where they can find one where that is not true.

Justice Hurwitz is known in Arizona as a very fair jurist who applies the law fairly and without regard to his personal inclinations. That is the kind of judge he will be on the Ninth Circuit. His decisions are ably ably made and committed to judicial restraint. That means anything, I simply say I know the man; I have known him a long time; and my good friends in the conservative community have every confidence in Andrew Hurwitz.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESiding OFFicer. The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LEE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be suspended.

The PRESiding OFFicer. Without objection, it is so ordered.

CLoUTure MotiON

Under the previous order, the cloture motion having been presented under rule XXII, the Chair directs the clerk to read the motion.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

CLoUTure MotiON

We, the undersigned Senators, in accordance with the provisions of rule XXII of the Standing Rules of the Senate, hereby move to bring to a close debate on the nomination of Andrew David Hurwitz, of Arizona, to be United States Circuit Judge for the 9th Circuit.

Harry Reid, Patrick J. Leahy, Al Franken, Daniel K. Inouye, Bill Nelson, Amy Klobuchar, Jeff Bingaman, Michael F. Bennet, Herb Kohl, Patty Murray, Robert P. Casey, Jr., Tom Udall, Richard Blumenthal, Benjamin L. Cardin, Sheldon Whitehouse, Christopher A. Coons, Mark Begich

The PRESIDING OFFICER. By unanimous consent, the mandatory quorum call has been waived.
The question is, Is it the sense of the Senate that debate on the nomination of Andrew David Hurwitz, of Arizona, to be United States Circuit Judge for the Ninth Circuit shall be brought to a close? The yeas and nays are mandatory under the rule. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. KYL. The following Senators are necessarily absent: the Senator from North Carolina (Mr. BURBANK), the Senator from Georgia (Mr. CHAMBLISS), the Senator from Oklahoma (Mr. COBURN), the Senator from Wyoming (Mr. ENZI), the Senator from Utah (Mr. HATCH), the Senator from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON), the Senator from Illinois (Mr. KIRK), the Senator from Pennsylvania (Mr. TOOMEY), and the Senator from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER).

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CASEY). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The yeas and nays resulted—yeas 60, nays 31, as follows:

[Roll Call Vote No. 118 Ex.]

YEAS—60

Akaka  Gillibrand  Murkowski

NOT VOTING—9

Burr  Chambliss  Hatch  Toomey
Coburn  Isakson  Vitter

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 60, the nays are 31. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn having voted in the affirmative, the motion is agreed to.

Mr. TOOMEY. Mr. President, I want to submit for the record my views on roll call vote No. 118, the nomination of Andrew Hurwitz to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. I am deeply concerned with Mr. Hurwitz’s role in advising a constitutionally flawed doctrine that would become the framework for Roe v. Wade. His actions constitute a brand of judicial activism unfit for the Court. I do not believe Mr. Hurwitz holds the requisite traits necessary to be an objective arbiter of the law. Had I been present, I would have voted “nay.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Colorado.

UNITED WAY

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. President, I rise tonight to recognize the 125th anniversary of United Way and honor their extraordinary achievements since their founding 125 years ago in Denver.

In 1887, a Denver woman along with local religious leaders recognized the need for community-based action in order to address Denver’s growing problems with poverty. In Denver, this group—this initial group—established the first of what would become a worldwide network of organizations called United Way. Their goal was simple: create a community-based organization that would raise funds in order to provide economic relief and counseling services to neighbors in need. During their first campaign in 1888, this remarkable organization raised today’s equivalent of $850,000.

Now, 125 years after its founding, United Way has become a celebrated worldwide organization committed to improving communities from the bottom up through cooperative action and community support in 41 countries across the globe. United Way forges public-private partnerships with local businesses, labor organizations, and 120 national and global corporations through the Global Corporate Leadership Program that brings an impressive $1 billion to local communities each year. United Way effectively leverages private donations in order to finance innovative programs and initiatives that profoundly affect communities throughout the United States and, dare I say, the world.

The success and strength of these partnerships between United Way and America’s workers cannot be overstated. Nearly two-thirds of the funds raised are from volunteer worker payroll contributions, and the Labor Letters of Endorsement Program championed by the AFL-CIO encourages affiliates and their members to give their time and resources to United Way campaigns.

Just one powerful illustration of this partnership is the National Association of Letter Carriers’ National Food Drive, which is a cooperative effort of the U.S. Postal Service, the AFL-CIO, and United Way, which has become the world’s largest 1-day food drive.

United Way has strengthened bonds and built a foundation of collaboration and partnership in our communities. Its founders could never have imagined the ultimate breadth and reach of this group, growing from a local support organization in little Denver, CO, back in 1887 to a globally recognized force for good.

United Way is an indispensable part of Colorado’s social fabric, and I am proud to recognize and honor this historic anniversary.

There are 14 local United Way organizations leaving an indelible mark throughout Colorado. I want to take a moment to recognize each of them for their tremendous role as cornerstones of their communities: Foothills United Way, Boulder; Pikes Peak United Way, Colorado Springs; Grand County United Way, Craig; Mile High United Way, Inc., Denver; United Way of Southwest Colorado, Durango; United Way of Eagle River Valley, Eagle; United Way of Morgan County, Inc., Fort Morgan; United Way of Mesa County, Grand Junction; United Way of Weld County, Greeley; United Way of Larimer County, Inc., Fort Collins and Loveland; Pueblo County United Way, Inc., Pueblo; United Way of Garfield County, Rifle; Routt County United Way, Steamboat Springs; and Logan County United Way, Sterling.

To all of the employees and partners of United Way, I join my Senate colleagues in recognizing and applauding your legacy and inspirational service. This 125th anniversary is one that is most deserving of celebration, and I commend your tireless pursuit to advance the common good.

HISTORIC ANNIVERSARY

Mr. President, I also rise to speak to the important bipartisan legislation we are considering which is commonly known as the farm bill.

This legislation is critical not just to our farmers and ranchers and rural communities but to every segment of our population and our economy. We have heard from others highlighting that this bill supports more than 16 million jobs across our country.

In fact, the Colorado Department of Agriculture estimates that in my home State alone the agricultural-related industry generates approximately $20 billion in economic activity supporting more than 100,000 jobs. This is a principal reason why I urge the Senate to consider and pass a 2012 farm bill.

This bill will unquestionably strengthen our economy and help to grow jobs that support the livelihoods of Coloradans and Americans in both rural and urban communities. That is what our constituents in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Arkansas are demanding we do—work together across the aisle to pass bills that will help put people back to work.

I want to take a second or two to thank the members of the Senate Agriculture Committee, especially Chairwoman STabenow and Ranking Member Roberts, for their efforts to bring a bipartisan bill to the Senate floor.

As with most of our work in the Senate—and when we are at our best—compromise is key, and it rules the day. I am pleased we are now discussing a bill that will provide certainty to our farmers and ranchers over the next 5 years.

Let me tell you some of the other things the bill will do. It will improve opportunities for farmers and ranchers to enter the agricultural sector, it will streamline and maintain valuable programs that support voluntary conservation practices on the farm, and it will responsibly extend important nutrition programs, all the while reducing our deficit by more than $23 billion. Yes, you heard that correctly—while reducing our Federal budget deficit by over $23 billion.

There are many important aspects to each title in the bill, but I want to take a few minutes to speak specifically about the forestry title, particularly the tolls of the forest fires in my State and in New Mexico and other portions of the West. The forestry portion of the farm bill has been of particular interest to me and my constituents because of its bearing on my State’s economy and on the public safety of so many Coloradans.

Good stewardship of our forests not only provides private sector opportunities to enhance stewardship of our public lands. It also protects wilderness and keeps our air clean. It all the while sustaining a strong tourism industry. Indeed, activities such as hiking, skiing, shooting, and angling contribute over $10 billion a year to Colorado’s economy, supporting 100,000 Colorado jobs. The Senate Agriculture Committee did a commendable job in building a responsible approach to addressing forest health. I have a few additional concerns that I hope we can address during the amendment process. But I want to emphasize the importance of this title in particular because of the need to address a growing emergency in our western forests caused by the largest bark beetle outbreak in recorded history.

From the west coast, through the Rocky Mountains, all the way to the Black Hills of the Dakotas, this infestation has killed more than 41 million acres of trees, and it is anticipated to continue to kill millions more in the years to come as it spreads. In my State, it breaks my heart to share this with you—the bark beetle is expected to kill every single lodgepole pine. When that takes effect, when every tree is killed, then 100,000 acres a day are going to fall. I know that number seems impossible to imagine. But 100,000 trees would be falling down daily once the epidemic ends by killing all of these trees.

These falling trees have real and often devastating impacts on the lives of everyday westerners. I have put up a picture for the viewers to show what it looks like when entire stands of infested trees are blown over because of heavy winds and other conditions.

Massive forest mortality across the West, such as what is shown in this picture, has a wide range of repercussions that affect municipal and agricultural water supplies and tourism economies. It also increases wildfire risk and, of course, it would affect human health and safety.

The Forest Service—our U.S. Forest Service—has sought to prioritize treating affected forests—like this one shown in this picture—where there is a direct and immediate risk to human health and safety, and this legislation will help them to further accomplish needed treatment in our forests.

In Colorado and southern Wyoming, the treatment prioritization includes 215,000 reducing wildfire urban interface that poses the greatest fire risk to urban areas. Treatment prioritization will include thousands of miles of roads and trails, hundreds of miles of power lines, and hundreds of popular recreation sites and multiple skiing areas that are critical to our tourism economy.

This second picture gives us an idea of the real risk of wildfire to critical infrastructure, such as power lines. In addition, water supplies, without which the West would not know civilization as we see it today, are at risk because of the damage wildfires can cause to the watershed and because falling, dead trees can obstruct water infrastructure such as gates, pipelines, and storage facilities.

Another tool that is permanently reauthorized in the farm bill title which enhances how we manage our forests and would hopefully prevent this kind of damage is the authority to conduct stewardship contracting. Stewardship contract authority is a tool used by the Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management to contract with local businesses to fell and treat dangerous stands of all trees and in so doing improve the health of our forests. These contracts help sustain rural communities, restore and maintain healthy forest ecosystems, and they provide a continuous source of local income and employment. The authority allows for multiple-year contracts, ensuring job stability and a consistent supply of wood products to mills not only across Colorado but, frankly, across our country.

Stewardship contracts have helped clean up more than 545,625 acres nationally through approximately 900 contracts, with more than 80 awarded in Colorado alone. This is a track record of which we can be proud. These stewardship contracts also provide for critical restoration needs in the areas at risk of catastrophic wildfire. Moreover, any receipts retained by forest management activities are available without further appropriations and can be reinvested locally to complete other service work.

On the list of successes as well is that the contracts have helped to make productive use of more than 1.8 million green tons of biomass for energy. Stewardship contracting has helped to treat more than 200,000 hazardous acres to reduce the risk of catastrophic fire within the wildland-urban interface areas, where wildfire poses the greatest risk. That is where forests jump against local communities.

In a forest increasingly susceptible to wildfire, we must do more to protect our communities and their livelihood, it is necessary that we pass a farm bill with a robust forestry title.

Just this weekend another wildfire broke out near Fort Collins, CO. This is an uncontrolled wildfire which is now more than 22 square miles, and it is in an area where stands of lodgepole pines have become damaged by beetle infestation and therefore increasingly susceptible to wildfire.

At home, we are all closely watching the High Park fire, the images of the flames and the overwhelming smoke and ash clouds. We all share a great concern for the 2,600 families who have been displaced and the devastation this fire could bring to northern Colorado communities. My thoughts go to all the firefighters, in the air and on the ground, and we wish and pray that they will be safe and effective. The fire is currently zero percent contained, which is a reflection of the extreme weather and dry ground conditions.

The High Park fire is an unfortunate example of why we need a strong forestry title in the farm bill and why treatment of the affected areas is a must-do priority.

We manage our forests so they are healthy and we reduce fire risk and we protect water supplies and bolster our economy. As we watch the bark beetle epidemic become the largest threat to forest health, now is the time to ensure that we can equip the Forest Service, conservationists, private landowners, and industry with the tools they need to cooperatively address the health of America’s forests.

This is a real opportunity for us. This farm bill is a work of bipartisan compromise. We need to do more of that here in the Halls of Congress. Let’s get this done because provisions in this bill’s forestry title will streamline Forest Service administrative processes and enhance the agency’s ability to partner with the private sector so that they can conduct more efficient and effective treatments for insect and disease infestations.

Let’s get to work. Let’s discuss the merits of the farm bill. Let’s work to include a robust forestry title that addresses the critical needs in America’s forests.

I yield the floor to Mr. PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arkansas, Mr. BOOZMAN. Mr. President, I rise today to speak to the Agriculture Reform, Food, and Jobs Act or the farm bill.

The chair, ranking member, and all of the members of the Senate Agriculture Committee have worked very hard in a bipartisan manner on this legislation and we have certainly come a very long way. But we still have far to go, and I think that with the leadership of the chairwoman and other members of this body that recognize the need for a safety net that meets the needs of all crops and regions that we will eventually get there—and I thank the chair for her strong leadership.
The fact that we are discussing this bill on the floor of the Senate right now is a testament to it.

This Nation has a diverse fabric of agriculture, a variety of profits, and writing a farm bill that serves as a safety net for all crops and regions is no easy task. Yet, this is a responsibility we must embrace to ensure that the United States continues to have the sustainable, and affordable supply of food and fiber in the world.

Our Nation is at a crossroads and we are in desperate need of fiscal discipline. I am pleased that this farm bill includes important reforms, reduces spending by more than is required of this committee, and eliminates duplicative or obsolete government programs to ensure that we are getting the most out of every dollar we invest in agriculture.

The Forestry title contains important improvements that will benefit Arkansas’s forestry industry. The improvements to the USDA Bio-based Markets Act in the managers’ package will allow forest products to be included in the program. The current USDA Bio-based markets program favors foreign products over our American forest products, which puts American workers at a disadvantage.

I am happy with the progress on this issue, and I appreciate the effort to promote and purchase our renewable, home-grown products.

Crop insurance also contains some improvements, and the provisions for irrigated and non-irrigated enterprise units, supplemental coverage options, and yield plugs will help many producers who may have otherwise been left vulnerable by the elimination of direct payments and the counter-cyclical program.

At the same time, this is not a perfect bill and I have serious concerns about the Commodity title and the impact of the southern producers and the planting decisions they make. I also have concerns about some missed opportunities in terms of eliminating waste and abuse in the Nutrition title.

The Commodity title, as it is currently written, will have a devastating impact on southern agriculture which relies heavily on irrigation and, therefore, benefits less from crop insurance. Furthermore, the new revenue plan is designed around crop insurance. So this new program leaves gaping holes in the Southern Safety Net. Even with a reference price, this revenue plan may not be strong enough for our farmers to get operating loans. For example, my own farm would lose more than 70 percent of its baseline, far more than their fair share.

However, this is not about just one crop. Every farmer in America knows the real threat of multi-year price declines, and we need a Commodity title that treats all crops and regions fairly.

I am very concerned that this proposal is couched in the assumption that we will continue to have these high commodity prices. A revenue plan is attractive when prices are high, but I am not sure there is anything in this plan that protects producers from a multi-year price decline and an untested, one-size-fits-all program, with no producer choice would leave many producers vulnerable.

Throughout this process, I have said that anything that goes too far in any direction can violate the core principles of this effort. I am afraid that this Commodity title does that in its current form.

It is my opinion that we could have done more to eliminate waste and abuse in the Nutrition title and ensure that we are getting the most out of these investments and that they are, in fact, going to the neediest among us. We should fully close the LIHEAP loophole, which artificially inflates benefits for SNAP recipients, and there are other things we can do to save money without penalizing and reinvest in other critical nutrition areas and deficit reduction. When we tell Americans that we cannot find more than $4 billion in savings from programs that account for nearly 80 percent of all agricultural funding, I can not think that they would believe we are trying hard enough.

But just because there is not full agreement, does not mean that our farmers stop needing a safety net. I am committed to continuing the fight for a safety net that works just not for Arkansans—but for all farmers, of all crops, in all regions of the country. With a responsible producer choice, I believe we can build the consensus necessary to usher a farm bill through the entire legislative process and see it signed into law this year.

We can do this while preserving the safety net, making reforms, and achieving deficit reduction. I am confident that we are all proud of, and I look forward to continuing to work with the chair, ranking member, and all the members of Congress and seeing this through.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. President, people in my home State of Ohio know how to make things. We know how to make big things. For decades, Ohio has been a national leader in auto production, in chemicals, in steel, in concrete, in aluminum, and in the aerospace industry and food processing. Now we are a leader in solar power, in wind turbine components and batteries and all the kinds of things that really create middle-class jobs and help us lead the way in sustaining production.

Ohio is the third leading manufacturing State in the country. We make more in Ohio than any State but California, three times our population, and Texas, twice our population.

What Ohio perhaps is best known for in production is the auto industry. The auto rescue did not just save the U.S. auto industry 3, 3⅓, 4 years ago, it created all related jobs in Ohio. Estimates are that some 850,000 jobs in Ohio—a State of 11 million people, only smaller than the Presiding Officer’s home State of Pennsylvania—that 800-plus thousand jobs in Ohio are related to the auto industry. It is clear that we would be at a disadvantage if the President, the Senate, and the House supported it that it saved tens of thousands and created tens of thousands of those jobs.

Now data shows manufacturing is at the forefront of the economic recovery, with factories adding 250,000 jobs since early 2010—the first sustained increase in manufacturing employment since 1997.

From 1965 until the late 1980s, America had about the same number of manufacturing jobs in the late nineties as it did in the mid-sixties—a smaller percent of the workforce, a smaller percent of GDP, but a pretty constant number of manufacturing jobs, with some ups and downs, obviously, during that period. But from 2000 to 2010, during that philosophy of trade agreements that ultimately cost us jobs, tax cuts and tax policy that contributed to outsourcing jobs, and an economic policy of “trickle down” during the Bush years—from 2000 to 2010, America lost one-third, more than 5 million manufacturing jobs. One out of three manufacturing jobs disappeared during those 10 years from 2000 to 2010.

Thousands of factories closed, never to be reopened, as jobs were outsourced, as jobs left our country. But since 2010, almost every single month in Ohio and across the country we see manufacturing jobs increasing. The auto industry has led the rebound, with more than 20,000 jobs at General Motors and Chrysler saved or created thanks to the 2009 auto rescue, and thousands more were saved or created in the auto supply chain.

Too many Ohios are struggling. Many are still looking for work, while others have seen their wages cut or their hours reduced.

There are also important signs of recovery at our manufacturers, auto suppliers, and small businesses. Just 4 years ago the auto industry, many people thought, was failing and imploding. But look where we are today. As a result of the auto rescue, we are seeing a healthy turnaround. The Toledo Supplier Park employs 1,900 people. The GM assembly plant in Lordstown employs some 4,500 Ohioans. GM Powertrain in Defiance is home to some 1,200 workers. Following the auto rescue, these facilities all created new jobs due to increased demand.

Some Members of Congress were willing to bail out Wall Street without so much as asking for reasonable executive compensation restrictions on banks that received taxpayer help but then attacked middle-class auto workers. Bonuses and huge salaries have continued unabated for far too many Wall Street executives. Yet some of my colleagues have said that auto workers’ retirements and nonunion retirement—and health care and wages were simply too much. Let’s be clear. Ohio would be in a depression if these naysayers had their way and let the auto industry collapse or let it “go bankrupt,” and the auto workers and our middle-class workers, and it was about fueling the next generation of U.S. automakers and auto manufacturing.

Ohio is home to an almost completely American automobile, the Chevy Cruze. Its engine was made in Defiance, the transmission in Toledo, the sound system in Springboro, the steel in Middletown, the underpinning steel in Cleveland, and the aluminum wheels in Cleveland. The car is stamped in Parma, OH. The Chevy Cruze is assembled in Youngstown, OH. The Jeep Wrangler had only 50 percent America-made components 4 years ago. The Jeep Wrangler and the Jeep Liberty are assembled in Toledo, now made with more than 70 percent U.S.-made parts.

When things looked bleak and when nobody wanted to stand with workers or auto companies, we didn’t give up on American-made parts or American manufacturing. The decision wasn’t popular, and there were clearly some naysayers. But it was the right thing to do.

Our work is far from over. In particular, we have to keep our foot on the gas pedal and fight back against China’s unfair trade practices and other new threats to our auto industry. Our trade deficit in auto parts with China—the parts that are obviously used, that you buy at various retail operations to fix your car when something goes wrong—grew from about $1 billion 10 years ago to about $10 billion today, fed by unfair subsidies, currency manipulation, and illegal dumping of Chinese parts. This is an unlevel, tilted playing field that will cost hundreds of thousands of jobs.

My China currency manipulation bill—the biggest bipartisan jobs bill to have passed the Senate this session—costing taxpayers zero, would level the playing field for American manufacturers when China tries to cheat by manipulating its currency. A recently released report shows that addressing Chinese currency manipulation could support the creation of hundreds of thousands of American jobs—without adding a dime to the deficit. It is time to take bold action and stand up to China, and it is time we put American workers’ interests first. We did it in 2008 and 2009. The Presiding Officer played a role in that, as did so many in this body. We can do it again if our colleagues in the other Chamber take up this currency bill illegal dumping of Chinese products. This is an unlevel, tilted playing field that will cost hundreds of thousands of jobs.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I may speak as in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ARREST OF JORGE LUIS GARCIA “ANTUNEZ”

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I come to the floor outraged that following a hearing that I held as chairman of the Western Hemisphere Subcommittee of the Foreign Relations Committee entitled “The Path to Freedom: Countering Repression and Supporting Civil Society in Cuba,” after testimony from Cuba of Jorge Luis Garcia Perez, known as “Antunez”—and this is a picture taken from that video file—he was taken into custody by the Castro regime this weekend, arrested, and beaten unconscious.

This is the account of his wife, Yris Tamara Perez Aquilera, who provided this account to Radio Republic, an independent radio station in Miami that was so strong that we were clear that she could denounce what was taking place and let the world know what was happening. Here is the exact statement that she gave the radio station:

My name is Yris Tamara Perez Aquilera, wife of Jorge Luis Perez Aquilera, a former political prisoner—

—a former political prisoner who spent 17 years of his life in Castro’s prison simply because of his peaceful pro-democracy action.

This Saturday, my husband, together with Loreto Hernandez Garcia and Jonnuel Rodriguez Riverol, after a brutal beating by the part of the political police—that is State security—were transferred to the precinct here in Placeta. All this occurred around 3:30 in the afternoon.

After this, at about 4 o’clock in the afternoon, we—Yaita Cruz Sosa, Dora Perez Correa, Arturo Conde Zamora, and myself, Yris Tamara Perez Aquilera, left for the police precinct to bring my husband clothing since he was without anything since I was pushed outside [of his home] to call Damaris Moya Portieles, who was currently on hunger strike. After leaving about one block away from my home, I was approached by a police officer, who arrested me where I was once again beaten by Police Officer Isachi, ordered by the Chief of Coordination of the municipality of Placetoat, better known as Corporal Pantera.

I was handcuffed and driven to the police precinct. Upon arriving to the precinct, once again Officer Isachi main oppressors here in Placetas—that is a town in Cuba—of the ill-named National Revolutionary Police, strikes my head very strongly, where once again my cervical vertebrae was damaged.

At that point, the screams of my husband, Loreto, Jonnuel, there who said “Stop hitting her. Stop hitting her, you abusers; can’t you see she’s a woman?” Then a military garrison officer approached the cells where my husband and the other prisoners were pepper-sprayed. When they were pepper-sprayed, my husband lost consciousness due to lack of air. Thanks to the activist Yaita Cruz Sosa, who stood nearby, emptied a bucket of water on his face and fanned him with a jacket until he regained consciousness.

My husband, around 7 p.m., cried from his cell, “Yris, they’re taking me away, Yris, they’re taking me away.” I was not able to speak because of the terrible headache from all the beatings I took to the head. He said to me, “The special brigade put me on a chain of prisoners to take me from the cell and place me on a bus; I don’t know where they are taking me.”

She goes on to say:

I am very worried about what may happen to my husband. He has heart problems, and that pepper spray, as many know, is toxic. My husband has a blocked artery and vein, and I am afraid for his life. Furthermore, my husband is currently missing.

I don’t know my husband’s whereabouts. I was freed yesterday, Sunday, June 10, 2012, in the afternoon, and I was given no information as to where I could find my husband.

I lay the responsibility of what may happen to my husband on the government. I know they took reprisal against him for his participation in congress. In these months, knowing that, as others we invited to testify with me, I have Yaita Cruz Sosa. I am going to the State Security Forces and they must tell me where I can find my husband so I can bring him his affairs.

That is the end of her statement.

Mr. Antunez spent 17 years of his life in Castro’s jail simply for fomenting peaceful democracy efforts, an effort to create a civil society. We had asked him to testify before the Foreign Relations Committee Western Hemisphere Subcommittee’s hearing on moving toward democracy in Cuba, and at personal risk he traversed from where he lives—a countryside—on foot to make it to the inquisition. We knew that his willingness to testify was a risk, and so we did not put his name on the committee’s notice until he arrived at the inquisition, so that we then amended the notice to the public so that he could be safe because we knew that, as others we invited to testify who were stopped and could not make it to the hearing, that if we talked about Mr. Antunez coming before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee via a video feed, he would likely not make it.

He testified before the committee about the Castro regime’s abuses and beatings. He told us that day—among many other things—before the hearing that he witnessed the death of Antonio Ruiz in the city of Santa Clara, where pro-democracy peaceful activists had gathered. He said:

I had to walk many kilometers behind trees and bushes, as if I was some type of criminal, to attend an event that in any other free and democracy country in the world would be an everyday occurrence.

He went on to say at the hearing that, at the very moment he was there testifying before us, an Afro-Cuban woman had been on a hunger strike for several days in Santa Clara because state security had threatened to sexually assault and rape her 6-year-old daughter as punishment for her pro-democracy actions.

This is the life inside of Castro’s Cuba that the responsible people talk about. This is the life of those who struggle as human rights activists and political dissidents simply to create a space for civil society inside of the country. This is the cost paid by one man willing to come forward to put his life on the line, to share his efforts for libertad in Cuba with this institution, the U.S. Senate.

Mr. President, our response must be unparalleled. The arrest and beating of Antuzes clearly a direct result of his Senate testimony—is further proof of the continuing brutality of the Castro brothers’ regime and further evidence of the need for the United States and other democratic nations to stand against this despotism. We must realize that the future of this regime won’t be altered by increasing tourist travel to the island, expanding agricultural trade, or by providing visas for regime officials to come and tour the United States.

Today I am calling on the U.S. State Department to cease providing any nonessential visas for travel to the United States by Cuban officials.

In the last months, the Department has authorized visas for a stream of Cubans who fled the island to live in the United States, starting with Josefina Vidal, Cuba’s director for North American affairs in April, whose husband was kicked out of the U.N. mission in New York, and most recently for daughter of Cuba’s dictator Raul Castro, the same dictator that sends those rapid-response brigades, which is state security dressed as civilians, to attack innocent civilians like this.

Mariela Castro Espin comes here to the United States with her friends to attend the Latin-American Studies Association conference. While Cuba holds an American hostage, Allen Gross, and is engaged in what has been described as the “highest monthly number of documented arrests in five decades,” when well over 1,000 arrests are made of peaceful activists, Mariela Castro has been parading around the United States in a publicity tour describing herself as a “dissident.” I don’t know from what planet this comes from.

Enough is enough. Why should Mariela Castro be allowed to openly spout her Communist vitriol while a real leader of the Cuban people, Mr. Antuzes, who sought to convey his message to Americans through the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is forced to clandestinely make his way to the U.S. Interests Section in Havana to talk and then be beaten and jailed simply because of what he said in an open hearing.

Why should Josefina Vidal be allowed to host meetings with regime sympathizers in the United States while an American citizen, Alan Gross, sits as a hostage in a Cuban jail for doing nothing but trying to assist Cuba’s small Jewish community in creating access to the Internet so they are able to communicate with each other?

I am also calling on the U.N. Commission on Human Rights and the U.N. Committee Against Torture, which last week issued its report on Fidel Castro’s Cuba, to call on Cuba’s dictator to answer for its dramatic increase in politically motivated arrests, to immediately investigate this incident. Make no mistake, this was not a random bureaucratic arrest, not a random act of violence by thugs of the regime. It was an in-your-face exercise of the most brutal kind intended to send a message to the United States and the Senate. I was present when Mr. Antuzes testified before my committee. I noticed there were members of the Cuban Interests Section; members of the Castro regime—we are a democracy, so we allow them to come to hearings such as ours—who were talking copious notes of everything that would happen. They would be watching for any retribution against any witness from inside Cuba.

Cuba’s leaders heard that message loudly and clearly and their beating and arrest of Antuzes was their response to the Senate.

This was a deliberate violation of human rights, in my view, ordered at the highest levels of the regime as punishment simply because Antuzes had the courage to speak truth to power.

Enough. Enough violence, arrest, and suppression in Cuba. Enough beatings of those who seek nothing more than freedom to speak out and tell the truth. Enough abuse. Enough imprisonment. What more evidence do we need? How can we forget? I find my friends in Hollywood have all kinds of great things to say about the Castro brothers, but what about this? What about the 1,000 who were arrested and are languishing in Castro’s jails? What about those who die on hunger strikes as a result of their peaceful protest for the abuse they are going through? The silence is deafening.

Let’s stand for Jorge Luis Garcia Perez, who knew what might happen to him if he tried to testify before our committee. His determination to put Cuba on a path to freedom is what gave him the strength and the courage—in the face of what he knew a brutal dictatorship could do and would do—to come forward and tell us his story, which is the story of a repressed people waiting for freedom. The courage of thousands and thousands of men and women on the streets of Havana, in the countryside across the island is what we owe to our dealings with the dictatorial, repressive regime that has ruled Cuba since the middle of the last century.

Still today, 23 years after the fall of the Berlin Wall, these Cubans remain trapped in a closed society, cut out of the advancements of the world—repressed, threatened, fearful of saying or doing something that will land them in prison, often for years—years. Imagine an American citizen, protesting outside the Capitol, thinking that he could get them thrown in jail for 10, 15 or 20 years. That is what these people are going through. They land in prison, are beaten until they are unconscious.

Yet the silence is deafening. It is unconscionable.

I urge each and every one of us in this institution, if we cherish the ability in this institution to have the free flow of testimony from anyone in the world who is suffering about what happened with the beating of Mr. Antuzes and his imprisonment. I urge every American to remember Mr. Antuzes today. I urge every American to remember all the victims of the Castro brothers, just as we remember all the victims of other repressive dictatorships.

As I have said many times before, the Cuban people are no less deserving of America’s support than the millions who were imprisoned and forgotten at other times around the world—lost to their families, left to die for nothing more than a single expression of dissent. I am compelled to ask again today, as I have before, as I did at the House of Representatives, why is there an obvious double standard when it comes to Cuba?

I am amazed at colleagues who come and talk about repression, brutality, beatings, and the imprisonment of anti-Castro citizens in Cuba. Yet they are silent, silent, silent about Cuba. We are willing to tighten sanctions in other places around the world, but we let a repressive regime in Cuba basically walk away.

It is not time to forget Mr. Antuzes, who was willing to risk his life to give testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. It is not time to forget Alan Gross, an American citizen, who for over 2 years—over 2 years—has been sitting in Castro’s jail, sick, his mother dying, his wife and family desperately needing him. What was his crime? His crime was trying to help the Jewish people in Havana talk to each other. To help free Mr. Gross. We can’t forget those who suffered and died at the hands of the dictators. We can’t forget the arrest and beating of Antuzes, clearly as a result of his testimony—proof positive of the continuing brutality of the Castro brothers.

I hope we can shock the conscience of any Member of the Senate who would want to hear any witness, anywhere around the world, give testimony about what is happening in their country and to not face retaliation against them. If the Senate speaks with a powerful voice in this respect, it can maybe save Mr. Antuzes’s life, and it can send a message to the world that we will not tolerate the beating and imprisonment and near death of those who are willing to come and testify before us.

I think the integrity of the Senate is at stake in terms of how we respond. I hope it does. I hope—silence will not be the response.

With that, I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.
Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. MERKLEY). Without objection, it is so ordered.

RECOGNIZING THE ROTARY CLUB OF LOUISVILLE

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, today I wish to recognize the Rotary Club of Louisville, which is celebrating its 100th year of service to the Louisville community this year. Chartered on July 22, 1912, it has left Louisville, the State of Kentucky, and our Nation better off thanks to its efforts over the past century.

The Rotary Club of Louisville was the first Rotary Club in Kentucky and the 45th worldwide, welcoming members from 10 regional States. Today between 450 and 490 Louisville-area residents are members of this organization.

In its early years, the Rotary Club of Louisville engaged in several local service initiatives. One of the club’s first major projects was to restore the burial place of President Zachary Taylor, a Louisville native. In 1918, members established a student-loan fund for young men at Male High School and Manual High School during World War I. When radio was in its infancy, a weekly radio program was broadcast by the Louisville Rotary Club in 1922 and 1923. In the flood of 1937, members of the club assisted in cleanup and repair throughout the State.

During the World War II era, the Louisville Rotary Club expanded its outreach to the world, fundraising for the war effort and working with defense-related agencies. Many of the club’s members also served in the Armed Forces. After the war, notable accomplishments included the building of George Rogers Clark Park, as well as founding the Harelip and Cleft Palate Foundation.

In 1953, the Louisville Rotary Club began its international service for members, or “Yearlings,” which is still used today, and the following year, the Club adopted the Rotary International Constitution. In 1987, the historically male club admitted its first female member. Patricia W. Hart, the Club’s executive director. Also in 1987, members of the club donated $137,000 to the Rotary International program to eliminate polio worldwide.

The Rotary Club of Louisville has created several awards to honor its members for their contributions. In 1975, Howard Fitzh was recognized as the club’s first Paul Harris Fellow for his contributions to the Rotary International Foundation. Today, there are 275 Paul Harris Fellows. In 1991, the Rotarian of the Year Award was started, and in 1999, the “Lifetime Service Award” was established and first awarded to Henry Heuser Sr., posthumously.

In recent years, members of the Louisville Club volunteer locally by providing career guidance for high-school seniors and graduates and a mentoring program for high-school students. Along with this, members regularly work as bell-ringers for the Salvation Army. Internationally, the club works with student-exchange programs and various diverse scholarships, including the Ambassadorial Scholarship Competition, the International Scholarship Competition, and the Kentucky Rotary Youth International Exchange.

In 1996, the “Saving Lives Worldwide Program” was created to collect and deliver U.S. medical supplies to the world’s poorest countries. During its first 8 years, this program collected 17 shipments valued at $4 million to 10 developing countries, including Nicaragua, Latvia, Nepal, Romania, Panama, Ecuador, Bellize, and Ghana. Along with this, the Louisville Rotary Club has worked with clubs internationally to open six new dental clinics in Panama, Ecuador, and Nepal.

The Rotary Club of Louisville has created the Rotary Leadership Fellows Program, which identifies individuals early in their careers with the potential to become community leaders. These individuals are then invited to participate in a 3-year Rotary Leadership Development Program.

In honor of the club’s centennial celebration, the club decided that it was time to expand the role of its members and began the Kentucky Rotary Youth International Exchange.

The past 100 years have seen the Louisville Rotary Club meet and exceed the Rotary International credo of “Service Above Self.” It is an honor to represent here in the U.S. Senate so many civic-minded Kentuckians of goodwill who understand the value of public service. I would ask my Senate colleagues to support the Kentucky Rotary Youth International Exchange Program.

I would ask my Senate colleagues to support the Kentucky Rotary Youth International Exchange Program.

EXTENDING FISA AMENDMENTS ACT OF 2008

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, the Select Committee on Intelligence has just reported a bill that would extend the FISA Amendments Act of 2008 for 5 more years. I voted against this extension in the Intelligence Committee’s markup because I believe that Congress does not have enough information about this law’s impact on the privacy of law-abiding American citizens, and because I am concerned about a loophole in the law that could allow the government to effectively conduct warrantless searches for Americans’ communications. Consistent with my own longstanding policy and Senate rules, I am announcing with this statement for the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD that it is my intention to object to any request to pass this bill by unanimous consent.

I will also explain my reasoning a bit further, in case it is helpful to any colleagues who are less familiar with this issue. Over a decade ago the intelligence community identified a problem: surveillance laws designed to protect the privacy of people inside the United States were sometimes making it hard to collect the communications of people outside the United States. The Bush administration’s solution to this problem was to set up a warrantless wiretapping program, which operated in secret for a number of years. When this program became public several years ago many Americans—myself included—were shocked and appalled. Many in Congress denounced the Bush administration for this illegal and unconstitutional act.

However, Members of Congress also wanted to address the original problem that had been identified. In an effort to reform, Congress passed a law modifying the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, or FISA. The purpose of this 2008 legislation was to give the government new authorities to collect the communications of people who are believed to be foreigners outside the United States, while still preserving the privacy of people inside the United States. Specifically, the central provision in the FISA Amendments Act of 2008 added a new section to the FISA statute, now known as section 702. As I said, section 702 was designed to give the government new authorities to collect the communications of people who are reasonably believed to be foreigners outside the United States. Because section 702 does not involve obtaining individual warrants, it contains language specifically intended to limit the government’s ability to use these new authorities to deliberately spy on American citizens.

The bill contained an expiration date of December 2012, and the purpose of this expiration date was to force Members of Congress to come back in a few years and examine whether these new authorities had been interpreted and implemented as intended. Before Congress votes this year to renew these authorities it is important to understand how they are working in practice, so that Members of Congress can decide whether the law needs to be modified or reformed.

In particular, it is important for Congress to better understand how many people inside the United States have had their communications collected or reviewed under the authorities granted by the FISA Amendments Act. If only a handful of people inside the United States have been surveilled in this manner, then that would indicate that Americans’ privacy need to be strengthened.

Unfortunately, while Senator Udall of Colorado and I have sought repeatedly to gain an understanding of how many Americans have had their phone calls or e-mails collected and reviewed under this statute, we have not been able to obtain even a rough estimate of this number.

The Office of the Director of National Intelligence told the two of us in July 2011 that “it is not reasonably possible to identify the number of people whose communications may have been reviewed” under the FISA Amendments Act. I am prepared to accept that it might be difficult to come up with an exact count of the number, but it is hard for me to believe that it is impossible to even estimate it.

During the committee’s markup of this bill Senator Udall and I offered an amendment that would have permitted the inspectors general of the intelligence community and the Department of Justice to produce an estimate of how many Americans have had their communications collected under section 702. Our amendment would have permitted the inspectors general to come up with a rough estimate of this number, using whatever analytical techniques they deemed appropriate. We are disappointed that this amendment was voted down by the committee, but we will continue our efforts to obtain this information.

I am concerned, of course, that if no one has even estimated how many Americans have had their communications collected under the FISA Amendments Act, then it is possible that this number could be quite large. Since all of the communications collected by the government under section 702 are collected without individual warrants, I believe that there should be clear rules preventing the government from searching through these communications in an effort to find the phone calls or e-mails of a particular American, unless the government has obtained a warrant or emergency authorization permitting surveillance of that American.

Section 702, as it is currently written, does not contain adequate protections against warrantless “back door” searches of this nature—even though they are the very thing that many people thought the FISA Amendments Act was intended to prevent. Senator Udall and I offered an amendment during the committee’s markup of this bill that would have clarified the law to prohibit searching through communications collected under section 702 in an effort to find a particular American’s communications. Our amendment included exceptions for searches that involved a warrant or an emergency authorization, as well as for searches for the phone calls or e-mails of people who are believed to be in danger or who consent to the search. I am disappointed that this amendment was also voted down by the committee, but I will continue to work with my colleagues to find a way to close this loophole before the FISA Amendments Act is extended.

I recognize that the collection that has taken place under the FISA Amendments Act has produced some useful intelligence, so my preference would be to enact a short-term reauthorization to give Congress time to get more information about the impact of this law on Americans’ privacy rights and consider possible modifications. However, I believe that protections against warrantless searches for Americans’ communications should be added to the law immediately.

An obvious question that I have not answered here is whether any warrantless searches for Americans’ communications have already taken place. I am not suggesting that any warrantless searches have or have not occurred, because Senate and committee rules regarding classified information generally prohibit me from discussing what intelligence agencies are actually doing or not doing. However, I believe that we have an obligation as elected legislators to discuss what these agencies should or should not be doing, and it is my hope that a majority of my Senate colleagues will agree with that searching for Americans’ phone calls or e-mails without a warrant is something that these agencies should not do.

TRIBUTE TO NANCY KEENAN

Mr. BAUCUS, Mr. President, today I wish to give my warm congratulations to my dear friend and fellow Montanan Nancy Keenan. Nancy announced recently that she would step down as President of NARAL Pro-Choice America to return to her home state of Montana for about one and a half years. Nancy has served as president of NARAL for the past 8 years, devoting her time to protecting the rights of women across the country.

Nancy has a storied career that epitomizes the tough female lawyers’ privacy rights. She has been a leader in fighting for women’s rights and has been a trailblazer for women in the legal profession. She has served on the executive committee of the National Women’s Law Center and has been a leader in the fight for reproductive rights.

Nancy is a fighter and one of the hardest workers you will ever know. She embodies the tenacity and savvy forged while working at the Anaconda Copper Smelter to pay for college. Nancy has inspired a new generation of leaders, particularly young women, and her dedication to Montanans throughout her life deserves our thanks and recognition.

I congratulate Nancy as she enters the next chapter of her life and wish her all the best as she returns to Montana.

OBSERVING NATIONAL CANCER RESEARCH MONTH

Mr. BLUMENTHAL, Mr. President, today I wish to commemorate National Cancer Research Month, honoring the courageous and determined researchers, clinicians, and patients, who contribute their energy and talent to our Nation’s progress in cancer prevention and treatment. In May, we recognized their bravery and unflinching commitment to fighting a complex, multifarious disease that affects millions of Americans. This year, I particularly acknowledge the prevalence and continued scourge of tobacco-related cancers and efforts made to combat them through innovative research, prevention measures, and programs for the cessation of tobacco use. Lung cancer is the second-most diagnosed cancer and the most commonly fatal form of cancer for both men and women in our country. Through comprehensive efforts of leading institutions our Nation teams up in the quest for more information, campaigns for prevention awareness, and researches and disseminates improved treatments. The American Association for Cancer Research, AACR, is the oldest and largest scientific organization in the world dedicated to cancer, and it has led to the creation of several other leading cancer research centers in Connecticut and throughout the nation. The work of these cutting-edge institutions—guided by dedicated leaders in clinical research and education awareness—advance our understanding of cancer treatment and prevention every day. They are improving quality of care, enhancing our ability to reach a larger national audience, and developing personalized treatments.

Connecticut has been on the forefront of pioneering novel methods of researching and treating tobacco-related cancers. For example, Yale Cancer Center Director Dr. Roy Herbst—Associate Director for Translational Research and the Chief of Medical Oncology—has focused on lung cancer research and clinical care, spearheading vast numbers of anticancer drug studies. He placed original DNA research into the traditional scientific method and used this framework to discover cancer treatments that are catered to the individual patient. In this way, the type of tumor becomes less important than the underlying genetic driver. He is a role model for our Nation’s researchers and physicians and an inspiration to current and future medical students.

Today, I also commend the bravery of past and participate in novel clinical trials. By assuming risk and embracing the unknown, these cancer patients help to further medical research and seek out for future generations.

Throughout Connecticut and the nation, we have seen the positive effects of national organizations with engaged, local arms, such as the AACR, the American Lung Association, and Tobacco Free Kids. These institutions have encouraged Americans of all generations to take on the carcinogenic effects of tobacco products. The AACR’s Task Force on Tobacco and Cancer drives the message that cancer research and the dissemination of this new information to Americans is equally important in fighting our national cancer epidemic. The American Lung Association creates a forum for Americans and their families, empowering smokers—and those with loved ones who are addicted—with the tough truth while offering proactive ways to integrate what we know about tobacco and cancer into daily life. Tobacco Free Kids keeps watch over Federal, State, and local government initiatives against tobacco infection, building and maintaining momentum for a national tobacco policy and cancer prevention campaign.

These three organizations—as well as a number others—host critically important forums for policy experts, lawmakers, and the public. They explain the science behind tobacco-related cancers and teach Americans how to care for their long-term health and the well-being of our future generations through their innovative techniques and treatments. Today, the National Cancer Policy Forum is hosting a workshop on “Reducing Tobacco-Related Cancer Incidence and Mortality” at the National Academy of Sciences. I applaud this exemplary conference of panel discussions, new ideas, and collaboration—that brings together physicians, administrators, researchers, and organizations to foster proactive measures that inspire healthy futures.

At a time when Federal and State investment into prevention programs is at an unfortunate low, these leading institutions prove we can save lives through education and awareness. We must also continue to support robust medical research funding through the National Institutes of Health, the Centers for Disease Control, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and the Federal Drug Administration, to maintain and continue to improve upon our Nation’s comprehensive and effective approaches to fighting tobacco-related cancers.

In the face of this truly devastating disease that takes one American per minute, those that work fastidiously towards prevention and a cure, are true heroes. Their quest for knowledge gives us hope. I am especially proud of the great progress made in Connecticut, and hope my colleagues will join me in supporting these efforts and those around the nation as we unite in the fight against cancer—which continues to be the second leading cause of death in America.

TRIBUTE TO REVEREND BONITA GRUBBS

Mr. BLUMENTHAL. Mr. President, today I wish to honor Reverend Bonita Grubbs, a community leader who has given so faithfully and generously to the New Haven community. Reverend Grubbs has been recently awarded the 11th Annual Reverend Howard Nash Community Leadership Award by Community Mediation, CM, an extraordinary organization that helps individuals and organizations resolve conflict through mediation and dialogue. Since 1988, Reverend Grubbs has served as Executive Director of Christian Community Action, CCA, leading a set of well-established and crucial programs and social services for the poor and under-privileged in the Greater-New Haven area. CCA prides itself on providing emergency solutions with the underlying intention of proactive education for long-term sustainability and self-sufficiency. In addition to offering emergency services, CAA also runs education, housing, food, mentorship, after-school, and youth summer programs.

In addition to this most recent honor, she has been lauded by several community organizations, receiving the Public Citizen Award from the Connecticut Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers, the Connecticut Community Health Award by the Connecticut Women’s Education and Legal Fund, and the Greater New Haven Community Loan Fund’s Good Egg Award.

Reverend Grubbs’ generous spirit and loving care for her community make her a role model for all. I ask my Senate colleagues to join me in thanking Reverend Grubbs for her contributions to humanity.

REMEMBERING MAURICE SENDAK

Mr. BLUMENTHAL. Mr. President, today I wish to pay tribute to Maurice Sendak, famed children’s book author and illustrator, who passed away on May 8 in Connecticut, where he spent most of his life. He would have turned 84 yesterday.

Touched away in an 18th century home in Ridgefield, CT, Mr. Sendak drew inspiration for his widely read, uniquely bizarre illustrated stories from his own memories and contemplations. His fantastical realism—experiencing most American families through the eyes of Max, the central character in “Where the Wild Things Are”—changed the way children grew up. Mr. Sendak created a new genre of children’s literature full of vestiges and memories of the horrors he and others faced maturing during World War II, the Holocaust, and the Great Depression.
Many of us have read Mr. Sendak’s phrases to loved ones and puzzled over his intended meaning. Stories like “Chicken Soup with Rice,” “Pierre: A Cautionary Tale,” “In the Night Kitchen,” “Seven Little Monsters,” and “Outside Over There” are now legendary.

He committed himself to being an artist, beginning as a window designer at FAO Schwartz, and from there adding illustrator, author, producer, animator, and costume and set designer to his résumé. He collaborated with many famed creators, including Jim Henson, Carole King, the Pacific Northwest Ballet, the Houston Grand Opera, the Los Angeles Music Center, the New York City Opera, the Chicago Opera Theatre, and Tony Kushner. Most recently, Mr. Sendak teamed with the Yale Repertory Theatre, in conjunction with the Berkeley Repertory Theatre and the New Victory Theater in New York, to produce a contemporary English version of a 1958 Czech children’s opera about the Holocaust called “Brundibár.”

Mr. Sendak’s emotional intelligence, visual expertise, and way with words have produced over 100 works, some of which have been celebrated with several prestigious literary awards. In 1964, “Where the Wild Things Are” was given the Caldecott Medal from the American Library Association. In addition, Mr. Sendak received the Hans Christian Andersen award for Illustration in 1960 and Book Award in 1982, Laura Ingalls Wilder Award in 1993, and was presented with a National Medal for the Arts by President Bill Clinton in 1996. The New York Times has selected 22 of his titles as best illustrated books of the year, and an illustrated book of the year, and an ele-

SUPPORTING JERRY KRAMER

Mr. CRAPO: Mr. President, my colleague, Senator Jim Risch, joins me today in making the case for my district. Jerry Kramer was a five-time All-Pro, a member of five championship teams, including the first two Super Bowls, and a member of the NFL’s 50th Anniversary All-Time team. He was named to the NFL’s All-Decade Team of the 1960s at offensive guard and led the NFL in field goal percentage in 1962.

Surprisingly, Jerry Kramer is the only player selected to the NFL’s 50th Anniversary team who has not been inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, OH. It is time for this oversight to be corrected. Jerry Kramer is highly regarded. Sixteen current members of the NFL Hall of Fame, many who played against Kramer, have endorsed his nomination to the Pro Football Hall of Fame. That list of players includes such greats as Roger Staubach, Frank Gifford, Alan Page, Bob Lilly, Jan Stenerud, Gino Marchetti and Coach Joe Gibbs, to name just a few.

There is no doubt in my mind, and certainly not in the mind of my colleague, Senator Risch, who highly favors his native State’s Green Bay Packers, that Jerry Kramer’s NFL career clearly qualifies him for induction into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Besides his contributions on the football field, Jerry is a highly regarded citizen of Idaho who gives his time to the people of my district and throughout the United States foster care system. It is time for this oversight to be corrected.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, as they have for generations, libraries across our Nation and my home State of Michigan enable people to gain access to a sea of information and facts. They serve as a gateway for exploration. Libraries allow young people to journey back in time with great authors and experience the world as it was for past generations. They allow them to travel across the globe and experience life in other areas of the world, and they allow them to dream and imagine ways to make our collective future better. These are places where the only limitation is your imagination and your willi-

RECOGNIZING THE DAVE THOMAS FOUNDATION FOR ADOPTION

Ms. LANDRIEU. Mr. President, as co-chair of both the Congressional Coalition on Adoption and the Senate Caucus on Foster Youth, I wish to congratulate the Dave Thomas Foundation for Adoption on the occasion of its 20th anniversary. The foundation was established in 1992 by Dave Thomas as a public charity with one primary goal: to help every child in foster care find a loving, permanent family. Throughout its history, the foundation has set forth on a mission of dramatically increasing the number of adoptions of waiting children. For 20 years, the Dave Thomas Foundation for Adoption has committed itself to finding permanent families for the more than 100,000 children waiting in the United States foster care system.

The Dave Thomas Foundation for Adoption awards grants to public and private adoption agencies all across the country. Last year, these grants totaled more than $8 million and focused on supporting adoption professionals who implement proactive, child-focused recruitment programs targeted exclusively on moving the longest waiting children into adoptive families. This signature program is called Wendy’s Wonderful Kids, WWK, and today exists in all 50 States, DC, and four Canadian provinces.

The results from an empirical 5-year case study on WWK were released in October 2011. The research showed that children in the program are up to three times more likely to be adopted.

The foundation also supports employers through the Adoption-Friendly Workplace Program, is a founding member of National Adoption Day, and is a proud partner of the annual television special, “A Home for the Holidays.”

The foundation is an accredited charity of the Better Business Bureau Wise Giving Alliance, Standards for Excellence certified, and has received the highest possible rating on Charity Navigator. The foundation has helped more than 3,000 children find their forever families and provide information and support to tens of thousands of potential adoptive families.

For these reasons, I am proud to applaud the Dave Thomas Foundation for Adoption and its dedicated staff for their extraordinary contributions to the people of my district and throughout the United States for the last 20 years.

RECOGNIZING FIFE LAKE PUBLIC LIBRARY’S 125TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, as they have for generations, libraries across our Nation and my home State of Michigan enable people to gain access to a sea of information and facts. They serve as a gateway for exploration. Libraries allow young people to journey back in time with great authors and experience the world as it was for past generations. They allow them to travel across the globe and experience life in other areas of the world, and they allow them to dream and imagine ways to make our collective future better. These are places where the only limitation is your imagination and your willi-
Lake. The library’s quaint but much-cherished building was outgrown in 2006. To accommodate this growth, the library’s resources were moved to a newer, more modern building. Impressively, the Library’s circulation has quadrupled in the last decade. In addition to books, its patrons now have access to DVDs, albums, audiobooks and the Internet by way of several public computers.

In our increasingly technologically advanced world where information and answers can be a click away and services such as computers and smart phones are a part of many of our lives, it could be easy to undervalue the importance and impact of libraries. The opposite is true. Fife Lake Public Library has transformed with the digital age and continues to hold a central yet evolving role in the lives of residents. One resident aptly stated, “The library is not a quiet place anymore but a social gathering place for the community. It is home to access to the Internet and learn computer skills, and through partnerships with local organizations they enjoy activities ranging from fitness classes to grief support to tot-time. There is something for residents from all ages of life.

I am delighted to commend all those affiliated with the Fife Lake Public Library on its 125th anniversary. Through the hard work, collaboration, and financial generosity of many within the Fife Lake community, this library has addressed the needs of the residents for a century and a quarter. With commitment and sustained effort, this piece of living history in Fife Lake will continue to inspire and educate for many years to come.

TRIBUTE TO KEN FREIBERG
• Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, I rise today to honor Mr. Kenneth Freiberg, Deputy General Counsel at the Office of the United States Trade Representative (USTR). Mr. Freiberg is retiring from USTR after more than 24 years of extraordinary service to our country.

Since 1988, Ken Freiberg has passionately promoted US trade interests around the world. His service has improved the lives of countless Americans. During his tenure, Ken served as the chief U.S. lawyer in charge of negotiations on several important trade agreements. Further, he was the chief negotiator for the General Agreement on Trade in Services during the Uruguay Round.

Ken has worked under eight US Trade Representatives and five Presidential administrations. Ambassador Kirk and several former U.S. Trade Representatives, including myself, recently sent Ken a letter to recognize his achievements. Let me read an excerpt and I quote “each of us benefited greatly from your tireless work ethic, immersed work and a click away and de excellent judgment.” I was proud to have Ken on my team at USTR. He was a source of tremendous institutional knowledge at USTR, and was a terrific mentor to many young attorneys on the USTR staff.

Mr. President, I would like to recognize Ken Freiberg, my former colleague, on his retirement from public service. And I would like to wish him well in all of his future endeavors.

TRIBUTE TO ANTONIO POMERLEAU
• Mr. SANDERS. Mr. President, today I wish to celebrate Antonio Pomerleau of Burlington, VT, for his remarkable generosity and for his lifetime of service to the people of Vermont. My wife Jane and I have known Tony for over 30 years, since we all worked together when I was Mayor of Burlington, and he is clearly one of the remarkable people in our State.

Last year, Vermont was badly hit by Tropical Storm Irene, the most damaging storm in a half century. Torrential rains, in combination with Vermont’s steep hills and narrow valleys, brought flooding on a vast scale to town after town, wiping out roads and bridges, downtowns and mobile home parks, homes, schools and businesses.

Many brave and generous people, from communities across the State, helped those whose lives were uprooted. The Vermont National Guard, along with the Guards of other States and private contractors, rapidly repaired and rebuilt washed-out roads and bridges. State officials and Federal officials were quick to provide relief to those in need.

There are Federal funds available to help rebuild highways, to assist farmers as they cope with damage to their fields, to help many homeowners. But, as the Governor’s “Irene Recovery Report” indicates, mobile home owners are in a category by themselves. Irene particularly devastated mobile home parks, many of which were built close to rivers that endured major flooding. Sixteen regions of Vermont were seriously affected by Irene. Hundreds of mobile homes were badly damaged or completely destroyed. As the “Irene Recovery Report” made clear, while mobile homes provide an important affordable homeownership option to Vermonters, their construction, location and low resistance to water damage can create additional obstacles to recovery following a disaster.

Few of the Vermonters affected had significant discretionary resources with which to secure replacement housing.

Owners and residents of mobile homes faced enormous challenges. Into the breach stepped Antonio Pomerleau. Tony, who owns a small dairy farm in the Northeast Kingdom of Vermont, has never forgotten the working families of Vermont. It should be no surprise, though it is nevertheless remarkable, that in the aftermath of Irene the Vermont-based Tony Pomerleau generously look out for those who live in affordable housing and cannot afford to rebuild when catastrophe strikes.

Today, I want to celebrate Tony for his act of enormous generosity in creating the Pomerleau Cornerstone Fund and giving it $1 million. This fund has one purpose: to provide direct funding to residents of mobile homes whose residences were destroyed by Tropical Storm Irene.

The Pomerleau Cornerstone Fund will help displaced mobile residents either with full replacement of their homes, or with downpayment assistance for another home. It will provide grants up to $25,000 so that at least 40 families can move into safe and affordable housing.

Throughout his entire adult life, Tony has been a model of what a good corporate citizen should be. He has been an excellent employer, and he has devoted a good part of his life and considerable skills toward public service—without remuneration. For many years he served as Police Commissioner of Burlington and did an outstanding job in that role. He has also been extremely generous in donating funds to a wide variety of very worthy causes.

Since I was Mayor of Burlington, and this is going back 31 years, Tony Pomerleau has paid for a holiday party each year for Burlington’s low income children and their parents. He also sponsors an annual party for the Vermont National Guard. He was the major contributor of funds to the Pomerleau Alumni Center at St. Michael’s College—two of his sons and a granddaughter attended college there. He has provided scholarships to Rice High School and funded renovations to Christ the King School. Tony donated the North Avenue building that became our city’s police headquarters, and continues to contribute financial support for policemen and policewomen. And this really is just a very small part of Tony’s philanthropic work.

But facts tell only part of the story of Tony Pomerleau. His generosity is matched by his energy, and even though his 94th birthday is in his rear-view mirror, he has the energy of a man half his age. His mind has always been sharp, and time has not dulled it. His deep love for his wife Rita and their children is the rock on which he has built his life. His understanding of Vermont—where it has been, where it is, where it can be going—is, in my view, remarkable.

Tony Pomerleau stands as one of Vermont’s outstanding citizens. Today, I celebrate his generosity—it is the habit of lifetime, and a habit we can all learn from.

MESSAGES FROM THE PRESIDENT
Messages from the President of the United States were communicated to the Senate by Mr. Pate, one of his secretaries.

EXECUTIVE MESSAGES REFERRED
As in executive session the Presiding Officer laid before the Senate messages

(3) by adding at the end the following:

(ii) Mailing requirement for violation of maximum contaminant level.—

"(I) IN GENERAL.—If a violation of the maximum contaminant level for any regulated contaminant has occurred during the year concerned, the regulations under clause (i) shall require the applicable community water system to mail a copy of the consumer confidence report to each customer of the system.

(ii) Mailing requirement absent any violation of maximum contaminant level.—

"(I) IN GENERAL.—If no violation of the maximum contaminant level for any regulated contaminant has occurred during the year concerned, the regulations under clause (i) shall require the applicable community water system to make the consumer confidence report available by, at the discretion of the community water system—

(aa) mailing a copy of the consumer confidence report to each customer of the system; or

(bb) subject to subclause (II), making a copy of the consumer confidence report available on a public Internet site of the community water system and by mail, at the request of a customer.

(II) REQUIREMENTS.—If a community water system elects to provide consumer confidence reports to consumers under subclause (I)(bb), the community water system shall provide to each customer of the community water system, in plain language and in the same manner (such as in printed or electronic form) in which the customer has elected to pay the bill of the customer, notice that—

"(aa) the community water system has reigned in compliance with the maximum contaminant level for each regulated contaminant during the year concerned; and

(bb) a consumer confidence report is available on a publicly accessible Internet site of the community water system and, on request, by mail.".

(c) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Section 1414(c)(4) of the Safe Drinking Water Act (42 U.S.C. 300g-3(c)(4)) is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (A) [as designated by paragraph (C)] in the matter preceding clause (i), by striking "mailing requirement of clause (ii) or (iii), as applicable, to each customer" and inserting "mailing requirement of clause (ii) or (iii), as applicable, to each customer"; and

(2) in paragraph (D), in the first sentence of the matter preceding clause (i), by striking “mailing requirement of subparagraph (A)” and inserting “mailing requirement of clause (ii) or (iii) of subparagraph (A)”.

(d) APPLICATION: ADMINISTRATIVE ACTIONS.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this section take effect on the date that is 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) REGULATIONS.—Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency shall promulgate any revised regulations and take any other actions necessary to carry out the amendments made by this section.

(c) AMOUNT OF GRANT.—For each fiscal year, the Secretary shall make a grant to each participating State in an amount equal to the product—

(1) the amount made available under section 4002 for the applicable fiscal year; and
(2) the proportion that—

(A) the number of local residents in the State whose income does not exceed 100 percent of the poverty line (as defined in section 673(2) of the Community Services Block Grant Act (42 U.S.C. 9902(2), including any revision required by such section) applicable to a family of the size involved; bears to

(B) the number of all individuals in all participating States for the applicable fiscal year, based on data for the most recent fiscal year for which data is available.

(d) ANNUNCIATION REQUIREMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than January 1 of each year, each State that receives a grant under this section shall submit to the Secretary a report that shall include, for the year covered by the report—

(A) a description of the structure and design of the nutrition assistance program of the State, including the manner in which residents of the State qualify for the program;

(B) the cost the State incurs to administer the program;

(C) whether the State has established a rainy day fund for the nutrition assistance program of the State; and

(D) general statistics about participation in the nutrition assistance program.

(2) AUDIT.—Each year, the Comptroller General of the United States shall—

(A) conduct an audit on the effectiveness of the nutrition assistance block grant program and the manner in which participating States is implementing the program; and

(B) not later than June 30, submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a report describing—

(i) the results of the audit; and

(ii) the manner in which the State will carry out the supplemental nutrition assistance program in the State, including eligibility and fraud prevention requirements.

(e) USE OF FUNDS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A State that receives a grant under this section may use the grant in any manner determined to be appropriate by the State to provide nutrition assistance to the legal residents of the State.

(2) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.—Grants funds made available to a State under this section shall—

(A) remain available to the State for a period of 5 years; and

(B) after that period, shall—

(i) revert to the Federal Government to be deposited in the Treasury to be used for Federal budget deficit reduction; or

(ii) if there is no Federal budget deficit, be used to reduce the Federal debt in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury considers appropriate.

SEC. 4002. FUNDING.

(a) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section—

(1) for fiscal year 2014, $44,400,000,000;

SEC. 12207. EXEMPTION FROM SPCC REGULATIONS FOR FARMS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—A farm (as defined in section 112.2 of title 40, Code of Federal Regulations (or successor regulations)) with 1 or more diesel or gasoline aboveground storage tanks that have an aggregate storage capacity of less than 12,000 gallons shall be exempt from all spill prevention, control, and countermeasure requirements under part 112 of title 40, Code of Federal Regulations (or successor regulations).

(b) CERTIFICATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, for purposes of any spill prevention, control, and countermeasure plan under part 112 of title 40, Code of Federal Regulations (or successor regulations), the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency shall allow an owner of any farm to self-certify the plan, regardless of the aboveground fuel storage capacity on the farm.

SA 2252. Mrs. FEINSTEIN (for herself, Mr. BLUMENTHAL, Mr. BROWN of Massachusetts, Ms. CANTWELL, Ms. COLLINS, Mr. KERRY, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. MERKLEY, Mrs. MURRAY, Mr. SANDERS, Mr. VITTER, Mr. WYDEN, and Mr. MENENDEZ) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by her to the bill S. 3240, to reauthorize agricultural programs through 2017, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:
§ 17A. Housing and treatment of egg-laying hens

(a) Environmental enrichments.—(1) Existing Caging devices.—All existing caging devices must provide egg-laying hens housed therein, beginning nine years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, adequate environmental enrichments.

(b) Floor space.—(1) Existing Caging devices.—All existing caging devices must provide egg-laying hens housed therein—

(A) beginning four years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012 and until the date that is 15 years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, a minimum of 144 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen and 124 square inches of individual floor space per white hen.

(B) beginning six years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012 and until the date that is 12 years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, a minimum of 130 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen and 113 square inches of individual floor space per white hen.

(C) beginning nine years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, a minimum of 144 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen and 124 square inches of individual floor space per white hen.

(D) beginning 12 years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012 and until the date that is 15 years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, a minimum of 144 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen and 124 square inches of individual floor space per white hen.

(E) beginning 15 years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, a minimum of 144 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen and 124 square inches of individual floor space per white hen.

(2) New Caging Devices.—All new caging devices must provide egg-laying hens housed therein—

(A) beginning January 1, 2015, and through December 31, 2020, a minimum of 194 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen and 116 square inches of individual floor space per white hen; and

(B) beginning January 1, 2021, a minimum of 144 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen and 124 square inches of individual floor space per white hen.

(F) Air quality.—Beginning two years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, an egg handler shall provide all egg-laying hens housed under his ownership or control with acceptable air quality, which does not exceed more than 25 parts per million of ammonia during normal operations.

(G) Forced molting.—Beginning two years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, an egg handler shall provide all egg-laying hens housed under his ownership or control with feed-withdrawal or water-withdrawal molting.

(H) Euthanasia.—Beginning two years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, an egg handler shall provide all egg-laying hens housed under his ownership or control with euthanasia that is humane and uses a method deemed ‘Acceptable’ by the American Veterinary Medical Association.

(1) Prohibition on New Unenrichable Cages.—No person shall build, construct, implement, or place into operation a new caging device for the production of eggs to be sold in commerce unless the device—
“(1) provides the egg-laying hens to be contained therein a minimum of 76 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen or 67 square inches of individual floor space per white hen; and

“(2) is capable of being adapted to accommodate adequate environmental enrichments.

“(g) EXEMPTIONS.—

“(1) RECENTLY-INSTALLED EXISTING CAGING DEVICES.—The requirements contained in subsections (a)(1) and (b)(1)(B) shall not apply to any caging device that was first placed into operation between January 1, 2008, and December 31, 2011. This exemption shall expire 18 years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, at which time the requirements contained in subsections (a)(1) and (b)(1)(B) shall apply to all existing caging devices.

“(2) HENS ALREADY IN PRODUCTION.—The requirements contained in subsections (a)(1), (a)(2), (b)(1)(B), and (b)(2) shall not apply to any caging device containing egg-laying hens who are already in egg production on the date that such requirement takes effect. This exemption shall expire on the date that such egg-laying hens are removed from egg production.

“(3) SMALL PRODUCERS.—Nothing contained in this section shall apply to an egg handler who has fewer than 3,000 egg or egg products solely from one flock of not more than 5,000 egg-laying hens.

“§ 7B. Phase-in conversion requirements

“(a) FIRST CONVERSION PHASE.—As of six years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, at least 25 percent of the egg-laying hens in commercial egg production shall be housed either in new caging devices or in existing caging devices that provide the hens contained therein with a minimum of 129 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen and 90 square inches of individual floor space per white hen.

“(b) SECOND CONVERSION PHASE.—As of 12 years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, at least 55 percent of the egg-laying hens in commercial egg production shall be housed either in new caging devices or in existing caging devices that provide the hens contained therein with a minimum of 130 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen and 90 square inches of individual floor space per white hen.

“(c) FINAL CONVERSION PHASE.—As of December 31, 2029, all egg-laying hens confined in caging devices shall be provided adequate environmental enrichments and a minimum of 144 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen and 124 square inches of individual floor space per white hen.

“(d) COMPLIANCE.—

“(1) At the end of six years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, the Secretary shall determine, after having reviewed and analyzed the results of an independent, national survey of caging devices conducted in 2018, whether the requirements of subsection (a) have been met. If the Secretary finds that the requirements of subsection (a) have not been met, then beginning January 1, 2020, the floor space requirements (irrespective of the date such requirements expire) related to new caging devices contained in subsection (b)(2)(B) of section 7A shall apply to existing caging devices placed into operation prior to January 1, 1995.

“(2) At the end of 12 years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, and again after December 31, 2029, the Secretary shall submit to the Committee on Agriculture of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry of the Senate a report on compliance with subsections (b) and (c).

“(e) NOTIFICATIONS.—At the end of section 12, the remedies provided in this subsection shall be the exclusive remedies for violations of this section.

“(f) INSPECTIONS.—Section 5 of the Egg Products Inspection Act (21 U.S.C. 1034) is amended—

“(1) in subsection (d), by inserting “other than requirements with respect to housing, treatment, and house-related labeling’ after “as he deems appropriate to assure compliance with the requirements’’; and

“(2) in subsection (e)—

“(i) in paragraph (1)—

“(I) in subparagraph (A), by striking ‘‘and’’; and

“(II) by redesignating subparagraph (B) as subparagraph (C);

“(ii) in paragraph (2), by striking ‘‘and’’; and

“(iii) in paragraph (3), by inserting ‘‘or’’; and

“(g) EXEMPTIONS.—

“(1) SMALL PRODUCERS.—Nothing contained in this section shall apply to an egg handler who has fewer than 3,000 egg or egg products solely from one flock of not more than 5,000 egg-laying hens.

“(h) REPORTING.—Beginning on January 1, 2021, a minimum of 144 square inches of individual floor space per brown hen and 124 square inches of individual floor space per white hen; and

“(i) SMALL PRODUCERS.—Section 5(b)(2) of the Egg Products Inspection Act (21 U.S.C. 1034) is amended—

“(1) in paragraph (2), by redesigning subsections (c) and (d) as redesignated by paragraphs (1) and (2) and inserting “as subsections (d) and (e), respectively’’; and

“(2) by inserting after paragraph (b) the following new subsection:

“(C) in subsection (e), redesignated by paragraph (1), the following new subsection:

“(1) ROLE OF CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF FOOD AND AGRICULTURE.—With respect to eggs produced, shipped, handled, transported or received in California prior to the date that is 18 years after the date of enactment of the Egg Products Inspection Act Amendments of 2012, the Secretary shall delegate to the California Department of Food and Agriculture the authority to enforce sections 7A(a)(3), 7A(b)(3), 8(c)(3), and 11.”

“SA 2253. Mr. SANDERS (for himself and Mr. BLUMENTHAL) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 3240, to reauthorize agricultural programs through 2017, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of the bill, add the following:

“SEC. 808. ENERGY MARKET FINDINGS.—

“(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

“(1) the Commodity Futures Trading Commission was created as an independent agency by the Commodity Exchange Act (7 U.S.C. 1 et seq.);
(B) to ensure market integrity;
(C) to protect market users from fraud and abusive trading practices; and
(D) to prevent and prosecute manipulation of the price of any commodity in interstate commerce;
(2) Congress declared in section 4a of the Commodity Exchange Act (7 U.S.C. 6a) that excessive purposes and an unnecessary burden on interstate commerce;
(3) title VII of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (15 U.S.C. 8101 et seq.) (and amendments made by that Act) required the Commission to establish position limits “to diminish, eliminate, or prevent excessive speculation” for trading in crude oil, gasoline, heating oil, diesel fuel, jet fuel, and other physical commodity derivatives by January 17, 2011;
(4) the Commission has failed to impose position limits to diminish, eliminate, or prevent excessive oil and gasoline speculation as required by law;
(5) according to an article published in Forbes on February 27, 2012, excessive oil speculation “translates out into a premium for gasoline at the pump of $0.56 a gallon” based on a recent report from Goldman Sachs;
(6) on May 25, 2012—
(A) the supply of commercial crude oil in the United States was higher than the supply was on May 25, 2009, when the national average price for a barrel of regular unleaded gasoline was $2.45; and
(B) demand for gasoline in the United States was lower than demand was on May 22, 2009;
(7) on June 6, 2012, the national average price of regular unleaded gasoline was $3.57 a gallon, which was 12 percent higher than the price of regular unleaded gasoline was on May 22, 2009, when the national average price for a barrel of regular unleaded gasoline was $2.45; and
(B) demand for gasoline in the United States was higher than demand was on May 22, 2009;
(8) during the last quarter of 2011, according to the Energy Information Agency—
(A) the world oil supply rose by 1,300,000 barrels per day while demand only increased by 700,000 barrels per day; but
(B) the price of Texas Light sweet crude rose by more than 12 percent;
(9) on November 3, 2011, Gary Gensler, the Chairman of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, testified before the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations that “80 to 87 percent of the [oil] futures market” is based on “the perception of, or the market for, future oil prices”;
(10) excessive oil and gasoline speculation is creating major market disturbances that prevent the market from accurately reflecting the forces of supply and demand; and
(11) the Commodity Futures Trading Commission has a responsibility—
(A) to ensure that the price discovery for oil and gasoline accurately reflects the fundamentals of demand and supply; and
(B) to take immediate action to implement strong and meaningful position limits to regulated exchange markets to eliminate excessive oil speculation.

(b) ACTIONS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission shall use the Commodity Exchange Act including emergency powers, if necessary—
(1) to implement position limits that will diminish, eliminate, or prevent excessive speculation in the trading of crude oil, gasoline, heating oil, diesel fuel, jet fuel, and other physical commodity derivatives as required under title VII of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (15 U.S.C. 8301 et seq.) (and amendments made by that Act); and
(2) to curb immediately the role of excessive speculation in any contract market within the jurisdiction and control of the Commission, on or through which energy futures or swaps are traded.

SEC. 12207. CONSUMERS RIGHT TO KNOW ABOUT GENETICALLY ENGINEERED FOOD

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This section may be cited as the “Consumers Right to Know About Genetically Engineered Food Act”.

(b) FINDINGS.—The Secretary, to the maximum extent practicable, shall—
(1) surveys of the American public consistently show that 90 percent or more of the people of the United States want genetically engineered or modified foods to be labeled as such;
(2) a landmark public health study in Canada found that—
(A) 93 percent of pregnant women had detectable toxins from genetically engineered or modified foods in their blood; and
(B) 80 percent of the babies of those women had detectable toxins in their umbilical cords;
(3) the tenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States clearly reserves powers in the system of Federalism to the States or to the people; and
(4) States have the authority to require the labeling of foods produced through genetic engineering or derived from organisms that have been genetically engineered.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) GENETIC ENGINEERING.—The term “genetic engineering” means a process that alters an organism at the molecular or cellular level by means that are not possible under natural conditions or processes;
(2) INCLUSIONS.—The term “genetic engineering” includes—
(1) recombinant DNA and RNA techniques; (ii) cell fusion; (iii) microencapsulation; (iv) macroencapsulation; (v) gene deletion and doubling; (vi) introduction of a foreign gene; and (vii) changing the position of genes.

(C) EXCLUSIONS.—The term "genetic engineering" does not include any modification to an organism that consists exclusively of—

(i) breeding; (ii) conjugation; (iii) fermentation; (iv) hybridization; (v) in vitro fertilization; or (vi) tissue culture.

(2) GENETICALLY ENGINEERED AND GENETICALLY MODIFIED INGREDIENT.—The term "genetically engineered and genetically modified ingredient" means any ingredient in any food, beverage, or other edible product that—

(A) is, or is derived from, an organism that is produced through the intentional use of genetic engineering; or

(B) is, or is derived from, the progeny of intended sexual reproduction, asexual reproduction, or both of 1 or more organisms described in subparagraph (A).

(d) BY REDEEMING.—Notwithstanding any other Federal law (including regulations), a State may require that any food, beverage, or other edible product indicated that the food, beverage, or other edible product contains a genetically engineered or genetically modified ingredient must have a label on the container or package of the food, beverage, or other edible product, indicating that the food, beverage, or other edible product contains a genetically engineered or genetically modified ingredient.

(e) REGULATIONS.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Commissioner of Food and Drugs and the Secretary of Agriculture shall promulgate such regulations as are necessary to carry out the section.

(f) REPORT.—Not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the Commissioner of Food and Drugs, in consultation with the Secretary of Agriculture, shall submit a report to Congress detailing the percentage of food and beverages sold in the United States that contain genetically engineered or genetically modified ingredients.

On page 1009, after line 11, add the following:

SEC. 1207. AGRICULTURAL PRODUCER PROTECTION ACT.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This section may be cited as the "Farmer Protection Act".

(b) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) AGRICULTURAL PRODUCERS OF NONGENETICALLY ENGINEERED PRODUCTS.—The term "agricultural producer of nongenetically engineered products" means any agricultural producer that produces seeds, crops, plants, or products without genetically engineered components.

(2) BIOTECH COMPANY.—The term "biotech company" means a person—

(A) engaged in the business of genetically engineered would produce a seed, crop, plant, product, or organism; or

(B) that owns the patent rights to a genetically engineered product or genetically engineered product.

(3) CONTAMINATION.—The term "contamination" means the unwanted trespass, whether through the use of other means of a genetically engineered product into the seed, crop, plant, or product of an agricultural producer who does not use genetically engineered products.

(4) GENETIC ENGINEERING.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The term "genetic engineering" means any process that alters an organism at the molecular or cellular level by means that are not possible under natural conditions or processes.

(B) EXCLUSIONS.—The term "genetic engineering" includes—

(i) recombinant DNA and RNA techniques; (ii) cell fusion; (iii) microencapsulation; (iv) macroencapsulation; (v) gene deletion and doubling; (vi) introduction of a foreign gene; and (vii) changing the position of genes.

(C) EXCLUSIONS.—The term "genetic engineering" does not include any modification to an organism that consists exclusively of—

(i) breeding; (ii) conjugation; (iii) fermentation; (iv) hybridization; (v) in vitro fertilization; or (vi) tissue culture.

SEC. 121. LIMITATION ON USE OF ANTI-COMPETITIVE FORWARD CONTRACTS.

At the end of the bill, add the following:
SEC. 13001. SHORT TITLE.
This subtitle may be cited as the “Recreational Fishing and Hunting Heritage and Opportunities Act”.

SEC. 13002. FINDINGS.
Consistent with the purposes that include the facilitation of hunting and fishing, and Executive Order No. 12962, relating to recreation, and Executive Order No. 12443, relating to facilitation of hunting, and fishing, hunting, or shooting opportunities on adjacent or nearby public or private lands in the planning for or determination of which Federal public lands are open for these activities or setting of levels of use for these activities on Federal public lands, unless the combination or coordination of such opportunities would enhance the recreational fishing, hunting, or shooting opportunities available to the public.

(2) USE OF VOLUNTEERS.—If hunting is prohibited by law, Federal public land management officials shall exercise their authority under general law, including laws regarding land use planning, to facilitate use of and access to Federal public lands, including Wilderness Areas, Wilderness Study Areas, or comparable areas managed by the Federal agency as wilderness eligible or suitable and primitive or semi-primitive areas for, fishing, sport hunting, and recreational shooting except as limited by—

(a) In General.—Subject to valid existing rights and subsection (g), and cooperation with the respective State and fish and wildlife agency, Federal public land management officials shall exercise their authority under general law, including laws regarding land use planning, to facilitate use of and access to Federal public lands, including Wilderness Areas, Wilderness Study Areas, or comparable areas managed by the Federal agency as wilderness eligible or suitable and primitive or semi-primitive areas for, fishing, sport hunting, and recreational shooting except as limited by—

(1) statutory authority that authorizes action or withholding action for reasons of national security, public safety, or resource conservation;

(2) any other Federal statute that specifically precludes recreational fishing, hunting, or shooting on Federal public lands, waters, or units thereof; and

(3) discretionary limitations on recreational fishing, hunting, and shooting determined to be necessary and reasonable as supported by the best scientific evidence and advanced through a transparent public process.

(b) MANAGEMENT.—Consistent with subsection (a), the head of each Federal public land management agency shall exercise its land management discretion—

(1) in a manner that supports and facilitates recreational fishing, hunting, and shooting; and

(2) to the extent authorized under applicable Federal law.

(3) in accordance with applicable Federal law.

(c) PLANNING.—

(1) EFFECTS OF PLANS AND ACTIVITIES.—

(A) EVALUATION OF EFFECTS ON OPPORTUNITIES TO ENGAGE IN RECREATIONAL FISHING, HUNTING, OR SHOOTING.—Federal public land planning documents, including land resource management plans, resource management plans, travel management plans, general resource and comprehensive conservation plans, shall include a specific evaluation of the effects of such plans on opportunities to engage in recreational fishing, hunting, or shooting.

(B) NOT MAJOR FEDERAL ACTION.—No action taken under this subtitle, or under section 4 of the National Wildlife Refuge System Act of 1966 (16 U.S.C. 668dd), as amended by the National Wildlife Refuge System Improvement Act of 1997, either individually or cumulatively with other actions involving Federal lands, shall be considered to be a major Federal action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment, and no additional identification, monitoring, or analysis of environmental effects, including cumulative effects, is necessary or required.

(C) OTHER ACTIVITY NOT CONSIDERED.—Federal public land management officials are not required to consider the existence or availability of recreational fishing, hunting, or shooting opportunities on adjacent or nearby public or private lands in the planning for or determination of which Federal public lands are open for these activities or setting of levels of use for these activities on Federal public lands, unless the combination or coordination of such opportunities would enhance the recreational fishing, hunting, or shooting opportunities available to the public.

(3) RECREATIONAL FISHING.—The term “recreational fishing” means the lawful—

(A) pursuit, capture, collection, or killing of fish; or

(B) attempt to capture, collect, or kill fish.

(4) RECREATIONAL SHOOTING.—The term “recreational shooting” means any form of shooting, whether formal or informal, that involves the discharge of a rifle, handgun, or shotgun, or the use of a bow and arrow.
land management officials and State fish and wildlife officials from carrying out their wildlife conservation responsibilities or providing recreational opportunities on the Federal public lands subject to a wilderness designation.

(3) Paragraphs (1) and (2) are not intended to authorize or facilitate commodity development, use, or extraction, or motorized recreational access or use.

(f) REPORT.—Not later than October 1 of every other year, beginning with the second October 1 after the date of the enactment of this Act, the head of each Federal agency who has authority to manage Federal public land on which fishing, hunting, or recreational shooting occurs shall submit to the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate a report that describes:

(1) any Federal public land administered by the agency head that was closed to recreational fishing, sport hunting, or shooting at any time during the preceding year; and

(2) the reason for the closure.

(g) CLOSURES OR SIGNIFICANT RESTRICTIONS OF 640 OR MORE ACRES.—

(1) BEFORE.—Other than closures established or prescribed by land planning actions referred to in subsection (d) or emergency closures described in paragraph (3) of this subsection (a) or a permanent or temporary withdrawal, change of classification, or change of management status of Federal public land that effectively closes or significantly restricts 640 or more contiguous acres of Federal public land to access or use for fishing or hunting or activities related to fishing and hunting (or both) shall take effect only if, before the date of the withdrawal or change, the head of the Federal agency that has jurisdiction over the Federal public land—

(A) publishes appropriate notice of the withdrawal or change, respectively; and

(B) demonstrates that coordination has occurred with a State fish and wildlife agency; and

(c) submits to the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate written notice of the withdrawal or change, respectively.

(2) AGGREGATE OR CUMULATIVE EFFECTS.—If the aggregate or cumulative effect of separate withdrawals or changes effectively closes or significantly restricts 1280 or more contiguous acres of land or water, such withdrawals and changes shall be treated as a single withdrawal or change for purposes of paragraph (1).

(3) EMERGENCY CLOSURES.—Nothing in this Act prohibits a Federal land management agency from establishing or implementing emergency closures or restrictions of the smallest practicable area to provide for public safety, resource conservation, national security, or other purposes authorized by law. An emergency closure shall terminate after a reasonable period of time unless converted to a permanent closure consistent with this Act.

(4) NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE SYSTEM.—Nothing in this Act is intended to amend or modify the provisions of the National Wildlife Refuge System Administration Act of 1966 (16 U.S.C. 668dd et seq.), except as expressly provided therein.

(h) AREAS NOT AFFECTED.—Nothing in this subtitle requires the opening of national park or national monument units under the jurisdiction of the National Park Service to hunting or recreational shooting.

(1) No Priority.—Nothing in this subtitle requires the opening of national park or national monument units under the jurisdiction of the National Park Service to hunting or recreational shooting.

(2) Waiver.—The Secretary may waive the provisions of this title to the extent necessary to give preference to recreational fishing, hunting, or shooting over other uses of Federal public land or over land or water management priorities established by Federal law.

(3) CONSENT.—With councils.—In fulfilling the duties set forth in this subtitle, the head of each Federal agency shall consult with respective advisory councils as established in Executive Order Nos. 12962 and 13443.

(b) AUTHORITY OF THE STATES.—

(1) In general.—Nothing in this subtitle shall be construed as interfering with, diminishing, or detracting from the authority, jurisdiction, or responsibilities of any State to manage, control, or regulate fish and wildlife under State law (including regulations) on land or water in the State, including on Federal public land.

(2) FEDERAL LICENSES.—Nothing in this subtitle authorizes the head of a Federal agency to require a license, fee, or permit to fish, hunt, or trap on land or water in a State, including on Federal public land in the State, except that this paragraph shall not affect the Migratory Bird Hunting and Conservation Stamp Act (16 U.S.C. 718 et seq.).

Subtitle B—Recreational Shooting Protection

SEC. 13011. SHORT TITLE. This subtitle may be cited as the “Recreational Shooting Protection Act”.

SEC. 13012. DEFINITIONS. In this subtitle:

(1) DIRECTOR.—The term “Director” means the Director of the Bureau of Land Management.

(2) NATIONAL MONUMENT LAND.—The term “National Monument land” has the meaning given that term in the Act of June 30, 1906 (commonly known as the “Antiquities Act”): 16 U.S.C. 433 et seq.

(3) RECREATIONAL SHOOTING.—The term “recreational shooting” includes any form of sport, training, competition, or pastime, whether formal or informal, that involves the discharge of a rifle, handgun, or shotgun, or the use of a bow and arrow.

SEC. 13013. RECREATIONAL SHOOTING.

(a) General Provisions.—Nothing in this Act shall be construed to invalidate existing rights. National Monument land under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management shall be open to access and use for recreational shooting, except such closures and restrictions in place on the date of the enactment of this Act, this subtitle shall apply to closures and restrictions in place on the date of the enactment of this Act that relate to access and use for recreational shooting on National Monument land under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management.

(b) Annual Report.—Not later than October 1 of each year, the Director shall submit to the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate a report that describes:

(1) any National Monument land under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management that was closed to recreational shooting which was re-opened at any time during the preceding year; and

(2) the reason for the closure.

(c) Cessation of Closure or Restriction.—A closure or restriction under paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (a) shall cease to be effective—

(1) 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the head of each Federal agency shall—

(A) before the closure if practicable, publish notice of the closure or restriction in a newspaper of general circulation in the area in the area where the closure or restriction will be carried out; and

(B) submit to Congress a report detailing the location and extent of, and evidence justifying, such a closure or restriction.

(2) TIMING.—The Director shall issue the notice and report required under paragraph (1)

(A) before the closure if practicable without risking national security or public safety; and

(B) in cases where such issuance is not practicable because of risks of national security or public safety, not later than 30 days after the closure.

(d) Management.—Consistent with subsection (a), the Director shall manage National Monument land under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management—

(1) in a manner that supports, promotes, and enhances recreational shooting opportunities;

(2) to the extent authorized under State law (including regulations); and

(3) in accordance with applicable Federal law (including regulations).

(e) Limitation on Duplicate Closures or Restrictions.—Unless supported by criteria under subsection (a) as a result of a change in circumstances, the Director may not issue a closure or restriction under subsection (a) that is substantially similar to a closure or restriction previously issued that was not approved by Federal law.

(f) Effective Date for Prior Closures and Restrictions.—On the date that is 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, this subtitle shall apply to closures and restrictions in place on the date of the enactment of this subtitle that relate to access and use for recreational shooting on National Monument land under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management.

(g) Annual Report.—Not later than October 1 of each year, the Director shall submit to the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate a report that describes:

(1) any National Monument land under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management that was closed to recreational shooting which was re-opened at any time during the preceding year; and

(2) the reason for the closure.

(h) Authority of the States.—

(1) Savings.—Nothing in this subtitle affects the authority, jurisdiction, or responsibilities of a State to manage, control, or regulate fish and wildlife under State law (including regulations) on land or water in the State, including Federal public land.

(2) Federal Licenses.—Nothing in this subtitle authorizes the Director to require a license for recreational shooting on land or water in a State, including Federal public land in the State.

(i) Controlling Provisions.—In any instance when one or more provisions in title I and in this subtitle may be construed to apply in an inconsistent manner to National Monument land, the provisions in this subtitle shall take precedence and apply.

Subtitle C—Polar Bear Conservation and Fairness

SEC. 13021. SHORT TITLE. This subtitle may be cited as the “Polar Bear Conservation and Fairness Act of 2012.”
SEC. 13022. PERMITS FOR IMPORTATION OF POLAR BEAR TROPHIES TAKEN IN SPOR T HUNTS IN CANADA.

Section 160 of the Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972 (16 U.S.C. 1364(c)(5)(D)) is amended to read as follows:

"(D)(i) The Secretary of the Interior shall, expeditiously after the expiration of the applicable 30-day period under subsection (d)(2), issue a permit for the importation of any polar bear part (other than an internal organ for a bear taken in a sport hunt) in Canada to any person—

(1) who, submits, with the permit application, a copy of the legal harvest record and proof that the polar bear was legally harvested by the person before February 18, 1997; or

(2) who has submitted, in support of a permit application submitted before May 15, 2008, proof that the polar bear was legally harvested by the person before May 15, 2008, from a polar bear population from which a sport-hunted trophy could be imported before that date in accordance with section 18.30(1) of title 50, Code of Federal Regulations.

"(ii) The Secretary shall issue permits under clause (i)(1) without regard to subparagraphs (A) and (C)(ii) of this paragraph, subsection (d)(3), and sections 101 and 102. Section 101(a)(3)(B) and 102(b)(3) shall not apply to the importation of any polar bear part authorized by a permit issued under clause (i)(1). This clause shall not apply to polar bear parts that were imported before June 12, 1997.

"(iii) The Secretary shall issue permits under clause (i)(2) without regard to subparagraph (C)(ii) of this paragraph or subsection (d)(3). Sections 101(a)(3)(B) and 102(b)(3) shall not apply to the importation of any polar bear part authorized by a permit issued under clause (i)(2). This clause shall not apply to polar bear parts that were imported before the date of enactment of the Polar Bear Conservation and Fairness Act of 2012."

bill S. 3240, to reauthorize agricultural programs through 2017, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 1. REINS ACT.
(a) SHORT TITLE.—This section may be cited as the “Regulations From the Executive in Need of Scrutiny Act of 2011” or the “REINS Act.”
(b) FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.—
(1) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:
(A) Section 1 of article I of the United States Constitution grants all legislative powers to Congress.
(B) Over time, Congress has excessively delegated its constitutional charge while failing to conduct appropriate oversight and retain accountability for the content of the laws it passes.
(C) By requiring a vote in Congress, this Act will result in more carefully drafted and detailed legislation, an improved regulatory process, and a legislative branch that is truly accountable to the people of the United States, or the laws imposed upon them.

(ii) a list of any other related regulatory actions intended to implement the same statutory provision or regulatory objective as well as the individual and aggregate economic effects of those actions; and
(iii) a classification of the rule as a major rule, nonmajor rule, or rule as provided under this chapter.

(b)(2) The agency promulgating the rule shall submit to the Comptroller General a report containing the following:
(A) a complete copy of the cost-benefit analysis of the rule, if any; and
(B) necessary because of an imminent threat to health or safety or other emergency;

(iv) a list of any other related regulatory actions intended to implement the same statutory provision or regulatory objective as well as the individual and aggregate economic effects of those actions; and

(iv) any other relevant information or records provided under subsection (a), the Federal agency promulgating the rule shall submit to the Comptroller General and make available to each House of Congress—

(iii) the complex general statement relating to the rule;

(ii) a concise general statement relating to the rule;

(i) a copy of the rule;

(2) Purpose.—The purpose of this section is to increase accountability for and transparency in the Federal regulatory process.

(c) In the Senate, if the committee or committees to which a joint resolution described in subsection (a) has been referred have not reported it at the end of 15 session days, or such longer time as Congress may by resolution provide, the committee or committees shall be automatically discharged from further consideration of the joint resolution described in subsection (a).
Resolution (and against consideration of the joint resolution) are waived. The motion is not subject to amendment, or to a motion to postpone, or to a motion to proceed to the consideration of other business. A motion to reconsider the vote by which the motion is agreed to or disagreed to shall not be in order. If a motion to proceed to the consideration of the joint resolution is agreed to, the joint resolution shall remain the unfinished business of the Senate until disposed of.

"(2) Debate on the consideration of the joint resolution, and on all debatable motions and appeals in connection therewith, shall be limited to not more than 10 hours, which shall be divided equally between those favoring and those opposing the joint resolution. A motion to further limit debate is in order and not debatable. An amendment to, or a motion to continue in the consideration of other business, or a motion to recommit the joint resolution is not in order.

"(3) In the Senate, immediately following the conclusion of the debate on a joint resolution described in subsection (a), and a single quorum call at the conclusion of the debate, if requested in accordance with the rules of the Senate, the vote on final passage of the joint resolution shall occur.

"(4) The decisions of the Chair relating to the application of the rules of the Senate to the procedure relating to a joint resolution described in subsection (a) shall be final.

"(c)(1) In the House of Representatives, if the committee or committees to which a joint resolution described in subsection (a) has been referred have not reported it at the end of 15 legislative days after its introduction, such committee or committees shall be authorized to act further on consideration of the resolution and it shall be placed on the appropriate calendar. A vote on final passage of the resolution shall be taken at the close of the 15th legislative day after the resolution is reported by the committee or committees to which it was referred, or after such committee or committees have been discharged from further consideration of the resolution.

"(2) A motion in the House of Representatives to agree to or disagree to, or to a motion to recommit, the resolution shall be in order. If the motion to recommit is agreed to, the report of the committee on which the joint resolution was referred shall remain the unfinished business of the House.

"(d)(1) In the Senate, when the committee to which a joint resolution described in subsection (a) has been reported by the Senator by which the committee is discharged (under subsection (c)) from further consideration of the joint resolution described in subsection (a), the Senate shall be considered to have waived consideration of such joint resolution upon a motion supported in writing by 30 Members of the Senate, and such joint resolution shall be placed on the calendar.

"(2) In the Senate, debate on the joint resolution described in subsection (a) of the joint resolution respecting the submission or publication date, or

"(3) After the expiration of the 60 session days beginning with the applicable submission or publication date, or

"(4) After the expiration of the 60 session days beginning on the 15th session day after the preceding session of Congress first convenes.

"(e) The joint resolution of the other House shall not be referred to a committee.

"(f) With respect to a joint resolution described in subsection (a) of the House receiving the joint resolution—

"(1) The procedure in that House shall be the same as if no joint resolution had been received from the other House; but

"(2) The vote on final passage shall be on the joint resolution of the other House. (g) The enactment of a resolution of approval does not serve as a grant or modification of statutory authority by Congress for nonmajor rules.
acquisitions thereof, or accounting practices or disclosures bearing on any of the foregoing;

(2) any rule relating to agency management, or the Secretaries of Agriculture, or the Federal Open Market Committee.

§§ 806. Exemption for monetary policy

"Nothing in this chapter shall apply to rules that concern monetary policy proposed or implemented by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System or the Federal Open Market Committee.

§§ 807. Effective date of certain rules

"Notwithstanding section 801—

(1) any rule that establishes, modifies, opens, limits, or closes a regulatory program for a commercial, recreational, or subsistence activity related to hunting, fishing, or camping; or

(2) a rule other than a major rule which an agency finds good cause finds (and incorporates the finding and a brief statement of reasons therefore in the rule issued) that notice and public procedure thereon are impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest, shall take effect at such time as the Federal agency promulgating the rule determines.

It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) farmers and ranchers in the United States produce the highest quality food and fiber in the world;

(2) abundant harvests in the United States allow this Nation to provide over 1/2 of the world’s food aid donations to help our international neighbors in need;

(3) it is in the best interest of the American people for their agricultural goods to be produced in the United States;

(4) the United States is the world’s largest agricultural exporter and is one of the few sectors of the United States economy that produces a trade surplus;

(5) the Secretary of Agriculture announced that the United States exported $108,700,000,000 worth of agricultural exports during fiscal year 2010;

(6) Americans enjoy the highest quality food at the lowest cost compared to any industrialized nation in the world, spending less than 10 percent of our household income on food;

(7) the continued safety of the agricultural goods produced in the United States is an issue of national security;

(8) the agricultural labor force of the United States is overwhelmingly composed of foreign labor;

(9) due to the importance of food safety, it is critical to know who is handling our Nation’s food supply and who is working on our Nation’s farms and raising food for the United States economy for farms to downsize or close operations due to labor shortages;

(10) decreased agricultural production could have ramifications throughout the farm support industries, such as food processing, fertilizers, and equipment manufacturers;

(11) a shortage of agricultural labor could lead to decreased supply and increased prices for food and fiber; and

(12) this Nation needs both secure borders and an immigration system that allows those who seek legal immigrant status through the proper channels to work in the diverse sectors of the agriculture industry.

It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) adverse effect wage rate.—The term ‘‘adverse effect wage rate’’ means 115 percent of the greater of the prevailing wage rate or the prevailing unadjusted rate.

(2) area of employment.—The term ‘‘area of employment’’ means the area within normal commuting distance of the work site or the general location at which the worker of the H-2A worker is or will be performed. If such work site or location is within a Metropolitan Statistical Area, any place within such area shall be considered to be within the area of employment.

(3) state minimum wage; or

(4) the hourly wage prescribed under section 6a(i) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (29 U.S.C. 206(a)(1)).

(5) area of employment.—The term ‘‘area of employment’’ means the area within normal commuting distance of the work site or the general location at which the worker of the H-2A worker is or will be performed. If such work site or location is within a Metropolitan Statistical Area, any place within such area shall be considered to be within the area of employment.

SEC. 12301. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the ‘‘Helping Agriculture Recovery, Employment, Security and Affordability Act of 2012’’ or the ‘‘HARVEST Act of 2012’’.

SEC. 12302. SENSE OF THE SENATE.

It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) farmers and ranchers in the United States produce the highest quality food and fiber in the world;

(2) abundant harvests in the United States allow this Nation to provide over 1/2 of the world’s food aid donations to help our international neighbors in need;

(3) it is in the best interest of the American people for their agricultural goods to be produced in the United States;

(4) the United States is the world’s largest agricultural exporter and is one of the few sectors of the United States economy that produces a trade surplus;

(5) the Secretary of Agriculture announced that the United States exported $108,700,000,000 worth of agricultural exports during fiscal year 2010;

(6) Americans enjoy the highest quality food at the lowest cost compared to any industrialized nation in the world, spending less than 10 percent of our household income on food;

(7) the continued safety of the agricultural goods produced in the United States is an issue of national security;

(8) the agricultural labor force of the United States is overwhelmingly composed of foreign labor;

(9) due to the importance of food safety, it is critical to know who is handling our Nation’s food supply and who is working on our Nation’s farms and raising food for the United States economy for farms to downsize or close operations due to labor shortages;

(10) decreased agricultural production could have ramifications throughout the farm support industries, such as food processing, fertilizers, and equipment manufacturers;

(11) a shortage of agricultural labor could lead to decreased supply and increased prices for food and fiber; and

(12) this Nation needs both secure borders and an immigration system that allows those who seek legal immigrant status through the proper channels to work in the diverse sectors of the agriculture industry.
essentially equivalent to the job for which the H-2A worker is sought. A job shall be considered essentially equivalent to another job if the job—

(A) possesses essentially the same responsibilities as the other job;

(B) was held by a United States worker with substantially equivalent qualifications and experience; and

(C) is located in the same area of employment as the other job.

(4) ELIGIBLE INDIVIDUAL.—The term ‘eligible individual’ means an individual who is a national of the United States, an individual who is a national of a country with which the United States has an agreement providing for reciprocal reciprocal treatment with respect to the services contemplated in such agreement, or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence, or an alien authorized to work in the United States;

(5) EMPLOYER.—The term ‘employer’ means a person or an entity that employs workers

(A) animal agriculture or agricultural processing;

(B) agricultural work included within the provisions of section 3(f) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (29 U.S.C. 203(f)) or section 312(g) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986;

(C) drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, or grading prior to delivery for storage or sale of any agricultural or horticultural commodity in its unmanufactured state; or

(D) dairy or feedyard work.

(6) H-2A WORKER.—The term ‘H-2A worker’ means a nonimmigrant who—

(A) continuously maintains a residence and place of work outside of the United States which the alien has no intention of abandoning; and

(B)(i) is seeking to work for an employer performing agricultural labor in the United States for not more than 10 months during each calendar year in a job for which United States workers are not available and willing to perform such service or labor; or

(ii) is seeking to work for an employer performing agricultural labor in the United States in a job for which United States workers are not available and willing to perform such service or labor;

(C) commutes each business day across the United States international border to work for a qualified United States employer; and

(III) returns across the United States international border to his or her foreign residence or place of abode at the end of each business day.

(7) LAY OFF.—The term ‘lay off’—

(i) means to cause a worker’s loss of employment, other than through a discharge for inadequate performance, violation of workplace rules, cause, voluntary departure, voluntary retirement, or the expiration of a grant or contract (other than a temporary employment contract entered into in order to avoid a condition described in paragraph (3) or (7) of subsection (b)); and

(ii) does not include any situation in which the worker is offered, as an alternative to the employment, a substantially equivalent employment opportunity with the same employer (or, in the case of a placement of a worker with another employer under subsection (b), with either employer described in such subsection) at equivalent or higher compensation and benefits than the position from which the employee was discharged, regardless of whether or not the employee accepts the offer.

(8) CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this paragraph may be construed to limit an employer’s right to engage in collective bargaining agreements or other employment contracts.

(9) UNITED STATES WORKER.—The term ‘United States worker’ means any worker who is a national of the United States, an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence, or an alien authorized to work in the relevant job opportunity within the United States, except an alien admitted or otherwise provided status under section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(a).

(b) LABOR ABETTATION PROCESS.—The Secretary of Agriculture shall utilize the labor attestation process described in this subsection until the Secretary of Labor certifies that, based on State workforce agency data, there are adequate authorized workers in a State to fill agricultural jobs in the State in which the agricultural employer is seeking H-2A workers. Once the Secretary certifies that there are adequate authorized workers in a State to fill agricultural jobs (excluding H-2A workers), the Secretary of Agriculture, after consultation with the Secretary of Labor, shall issue regulations describing a labor certification process for agricultural employers seeking H-2A workers. An alien may not be admitted as an H-2A worker unless the employer has filed an application with the Secretary of Agriculture in which the employer attests to the following:

(1) TEMPORARY WORK OR SERVICES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The employer is seeking to employ a specific number of agricultural workers on a temporary basis and will provide a written statement at a specified wage rate and under specified conditions.

(B) SKILLED WORKERS.—If the worker is a Level 2 H-2A worker, the employer will recruit the worker separately and the application will delineate separate wage rate and conditions of employment for such worker.

(C) DEFINED TERMS.—In this paragraph and in subsection (h)(6), a worker is considered to be ‘employed on a temporary basis’ if the employer terminates the worker’s employment not longer than 10 months in a calendar year.

(2) BENEFITS, WAGES, AND WORKING CONDITIONS.—The employer will provide, at a minimum, the benefits, wages, and working conditions required under subsection (k) to:

(A) all workers employed in the jobs for which the H-2A worker is sought; and

(B) all other temporary workers in the same occupation at the same place of employment.

(3) NONDISPLACEMENT OF UNITED STATES WORKERS.—The employer will not and will not displace a United States worker employed by the employer during the period of employment of the H-2A worker and during the 90-day period preceding such period of employment in the occupation at the place of employment for which the employer seeks approval to employ H-2A workers.

(4) RECRUITMENT.

(A) IN GENERAL.—The employer will—

(i) describe previous recruitment efforts made before the filing of the application; and

(ii) describe the recruitment requirements before H-2A workers are issued a visa at an American consulate.

(B) ADEQUATE RECRUITMENT.—The adequate recruitment requirement under paragraph (A)(i) are satisfied if the employer—

(i) submits a copy of the job offer to the local office of the State workforce agency serving the area of intended employment and authorizes the posting of the job opportunity on the Department of Labor’s electronic registry of job applications for all other occupations in the same manner as other United States employers, except that nothing in this clause shall require the employer to file an application with the institution established under section 632 of title 20, Code of Federal Regulations;

(ii) advertises the availability of the job opportunities for which the employer is seeking H-2A workers in a newspaper in the local market that is likely to be patronized by potential farm workers; and

(III) mails a letter through the United States Postal Service or otherwise contacts any United States worker the employer employed within the prior year in the occupation at the place of intended employment for which the employer is seeking H-2A workers that describes available job opportunities, unless the worker was terminated from employment by the employer for a job-related reason or abandoned the job before the worker completed the period of employment of the job opportunity for which the worker was hired.

(C) ADVERTISEMENT REQUIREMENT.—The advertisement requirement under subparagraph (B)(ii) is satisfied if the employer runs an advertisement for 2 consecutive days that—

(i) names the employer;

(ii) describes the job or jobs; and

(iii) provides instructions on how to contact the employer to apply for the job;

(iv) states the duration of employment;

(v) describes the geographic area with enough specificity to apprise applicants of any travel requirements and where applicants will likely have to reside to perform the work;

(vi) states the rate of pay; and

(vii) describes working conditions and the availability of housing or the amount of housing allowances.

(D) END OF RECRUITMENT REQUIREMENT.—The requirement to recruit and hire United States workers for the contract period for which H-2A workers are contracted shall terminate on the first day of such contract period.

(5) OFFERS TO UNITED STATES WORKERS.—The employer has offered or will offer the job for which the nonimmigrant is sought to any eligible United States worker who—

(A) applies;

(B) will be available at the time and place of need; and

(C) is able and willing to complete the period of employment;

(6) PROVISION OF INSURANCE.—If the job for which the H-2A worker is sought is not covered by workers’ compensation law, the employer will provide, at no cost to the worker, insurance covering injury and disease arising out of, and in the course of, the worker’s employment, which will provide benefits equal to those provided under the State workers’ compensation law for comparable employment. No employer shall be liable for the provision of health insurance for any H-2A worker.

(7) STRIKE OR LOCKOUT.—There is not a strike or lockout in the course of a labor dispute that precludes the hiring of H-2A workers.

(8) PREVIOUS VIOLATIONS.—The employer has not, during the previous 5-year period, employed H-2A workers and knowingly violated a material term or condition of approval with respect to the employment of domestic or nonimmigrant workers, as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture after notice and opportunity for an initial hearing and an opportunity to be heard by the Secretary of Agriculture.

(9) PUBLIC EXAMINATION.—Not later than 1 working day after the date on which an application is filed under this section, the employer shall make the application (and any necessary accompanying documents) available for public examination, to the extent that the work site or principal place of business.

(10) LIST.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Agriculture shall maintain a list of the applications filed under subsection (b), sorted by employer, which shall include—

(i) the number of H-2A workers sought;

(ii) the wage rate;

(iii) the place where the work is to be performed; and

(C) the date work is scheduled to begin; and S3926
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE
June 11, 2012

“(D) the period of intended employment.

“(2) Availability.—The Secretary of Agriculture shall make the list described in paragraph (1) available for public examination.

“(e) Application:—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—An employer, or an association acting as an agent or joint employer for it, that seeks the admission into the United States of an H–2A worker shall file an application that includes the attestations described in subsection (b) with the Secretary of Agriculture.

“(2) CONSIDERATION OF APPLICATIONS.—For each application filed under this subsection—

“(A) the Secretary of Agriculture may not require such application to be filed more than 90 days after the date on which the employer requires the labor or services of the H–2A worker; and

“(B) unless the Secretary of Agriculture determines that the application is incomplete or obviously inaccurate, or the Secretary has reason to know of the violation.

“(3) APPLICATION AGREEMENTS.—By filing an H–2A application, an applicant and each employer (including employers acting as agents or joint employers) with multiple operations may use H–2A workers in the occupations for which they are sought in all places in which the employer has operations if the employer—

“(A) designates on the application each location at which such workers will be used; and “(B) performs adequate recruitment efforts in each State in which such workers will be used.

“(3) ROLES OF AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATIONS.—

“(1) PERMITTING FILING BY AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATIONS.—An application to hire an H–2A worker may be filed by an association of agricultural employers which use agricultural labor.

“(2) TREATMENT OF ASSOCIATIONS ACTING AS EMPLOYERS.—If an association acting as a sole employer, or H–2A worker employed by the association which was designated in the application; and

“(3) TREATMENT OF VIOLATIONS.—

“(A) INDIVIDUAL MEMBER.—If an individual member of the association acting as an agent or joint employer for its sole employer or H–2A worker employed by the association which was designated in the application was fraudulently made, the Secretary shall either approve or deny the application not later than 15 days after the date on which such application was filed.

“(B) ASSOCIATION OF AGRICULTURAL EMPLOYERS.—If an association of agricultural employers approved as a sole employer or H–2A worker employed by the association which was designated in the application was fraudulently made, the Secretary shall either approve or deny the application not later than 15 days after the date on which such application was filed.

“(C) PENALTIES FOR WILLFUL FAILURE.—If the Secretary determines that the application was fraudulently made, the Secretary may impose such other administrative remedies, including civil money penalties in an amount not exceeding $5,000 per violation, as the Secretary of Agriculture determines to be appropriate.

“(D) PREFERENCES.—The Secretary of Agriculture may impose such other administrative remedies, including civil money penalties in an amount not exceeding $5,000 per violation, as the Secretary of Agriculture determines to be appropriate.

“(E) for the review of a denial of an application under this section by any of the Secretary’s designees under this section.

“(F) FORFEITURE.—If the Secretary has probable cause to suspect the association’s application, or during the 30-day period preceding such period of employment, the Secretary—

“(A) shall notify the Secretary of Homeland Security of such finding;

“(B) may impose such other administrative remedies, including civil money penalties in an amount not to exceed $5,000 per violation, as the Secretary of Agriculture determines to be appropriate;

“(C) may disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers for a period of 2 years;

“(D) for a second violation, may disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers for a period of 5 years; and

“(E) for a third violation, may permanently disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers.

“(4) PENALTIES FOR DISPLACEMENT OF UNITED STATES WORKERS.—The Secretary of Agriculture may not impose any civil money penalties with respect to an application filed under subsection (b) in excess of $100,000.

“(1) FAILURE TO PAY WAGES OR REQUIRED BENEFITS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Each employer seeking to hire United States workers shall—

“(B) shall notify the Secretary of Homeland Security of such finding; and

“(2) PENALTIES FOR FAILURE TO MEET CONDITIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—If the Secretary of Agriculture finds, after notice and opportunity for hearing, a failure to meet a material condition under subsection (b) of the intent in an application filed under subsection (b), the Secretary shall impose a penalty of $1,000 per violation, or during the 30-day period preceding such period of employment, the Secretary—

“(A) shall notify the Secretary of Homeland Security of such finding;

“(B) may impose such other administrative remedies, including civil money penalties in an amount not exceeding $5,000 per violation, as the Secretary of Agriculture determines to be appropriate.

“(C) or has reason to know of the violation.

“(2) SOLE EMPLOYER.—If an association of agricultural employers approved as a sole employer or H–2A worker employed by the association which was designated in the application was fraudulently made, the Secretary shall either approve or deny the application not later than 15 days after the date on which such application was filed.

“(3) PENALTIES FOR WILLFUL FAILURE.—If the Secretary of Agriculture finds, after notice and opportunity for hearing, a willful failure to meet a material condition under subsection (b) or a willful misrepresentation of a material fact in an application filed under subsection (b), the employer placed a United States worker employed by the employer during the period of employment on the employer’s application, or during the 30-day period preceding such period of employment, the Secretary—

“(A) shall notify the Secretary of Homeland Security of such finding;

“(B) may impose such other administrative remedies, including civil money penalties in an amount not to exceed $5,000 per violation, as the Secretary of Agriculture determines to be appropriate.

“(C) may disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers for a period of 2 years;

“(D) for a second violation, may disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers for a period of 5 years; and

“(E) for a third violation, may permanently disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers.

“(4) PENALTIES FOR DISPLACEMENT OF UNITED STATES WORKERS.—If the Secretary of Agriculture finds, after notice and opportunity for hearing, a willful failure to meet a material condition under subsection (b) or a willful misrepresentation of a material fact in an application filed under subsection (b), and the employer displaced a United States worker employed by the employer during the period of employment on the employer’s application, or during the 30-day period preceding such period of employment, the Secretary—

“(A) shall notify the Secretary of Homeland Security of such finding;

“(B) may impose such other administrative remedies, including civil money penalties in an amount not to exceed $5,000 per violation, as the Secretary of Agriculture determines to be appropriate.

“(C) may disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers for a period of 2 years;

“(D) for a second violation, may permanently disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers.

“(5) LIMITATIONS ON CIVIL MONEY PENAL TIES.—The Secretary of Agriculture may not impose any civil money penalties with respect to an application filed under subsection (b) in excess of $100,000.

“(1) FAILURE TO PAY WAGES OR REQUIRED BENEFITS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Agriculture shall conduct investigations and random audits of employer work sites to ensure employer compliance with the requirements under this section.

“(B) PENALTIES FOR DISPLACEMENT OF UNITED STATES WORKERS.—The Secretary of Agriculture shall conduct investigations and random audits of employer work sites to ensure employer compliance with the requirements under this section.

in connection with employment under this section.

(B) INTERPRETATION.—Every interpretation and determination made under this section or under any other law, regulation, or interpretative provision regarding the nature, scope, and timing of the provision of these and any other benefits, wages, and other terms and conditions of employment shall be made so that—

(i) the services of workers to their employers and the employment opportunities afforded the workers by the employers, including those employment opportunities that require United States workers or H-2A workers to travel or relocated in order to accept employment; and

(ii) mutually benefit such workers, as well as their families, and employers;

(II) principally benefit neither employer nor employee; and

(III) employment opportunities within the United States benefit the United States economy.

(2) REQUIRED WAGES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Each employer applying for workers under subsection (b) shall pay not less than the greater of—

(i) the hourly wage prescribed under section 6(a)(1) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (29 U.S.C. 206(a)(1)) or the applicable State minimum wage; or

(ii) the adverse effect wage rate.

(B) WAGES FOR LEVEL 2 H-2A WORKERS.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—Each employer applying for Level 2 H-2A workers under subsection (b) shall pay such workers not less than 140 percent of the adverse effect wage rate for H-2A workers, excluding piece-rate wages.

(ii) THE RATE DATA.—The Secretary of Agriculture shall expand and disaggregate the source of wage rate data used in the survey conducted by the National Agricultural Statistics Service to include—first line farming supervisors/managers; and

(ii) graders and sorters of agricultural products; and

(iii) ranch and farm animal farmworkers; and

(iv) all other agricultural workers.

(iii) STUDY AND REPORT.—

(U) The Secretary of Agriculture collects wage rate data for 2 years using the method described in clause (ii), the Secretary of Agriculture, in conjunction with the National Agricultural Statistics Service, shall conduct a study to determine if—

(a) the wages accurately reflect prevailing wages for similar occupations in the area of employment; and

(b) it is necessary to establish a new wage methodology to prevent the depression of United States farmworker wages.

(II) REPORT.—Not later than 3 years after the date of the enactment of the HARVEST Act of 2012, the Secretary of Agriculture shall submit a final report reflecting the findings of the study conducted under subclause (I) to—

(aa) the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry of the Senate; and

(bb) the Committee on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives; and

(cc) the Committee on Agriculture of the House of Representatives;

(3) HOUSING REQUIREMENT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided under paragraph (b), such employer applying for workers under subsection (b) shall offer to provide housing at no cost to—

(i) all workers in job opportunities for which the employer has applied under subsection (b); and

(ii) all other workers in the same occupation at the worksite described in paragraph (5)(D) before the anticipated ending date of employment, for the cost of the worker’s transportation and subsistence to the place of employment under this paragraph.

(B) AMOUNT OF REIMBURSEMENT.—The amount of reimbursement provided to a worker under this paragraph shall be equal to the lesser of—

(i) the actual cost to the worker of the transportation and subsistence involved; or

(ii) the most economical and reasonable common carrier transportation and subsistence costs for the distance involved.

(C) REIMBURSEMENT FOR LAYOFF WORKERS.—If the worker is laid off and the employment is terminated for contract impossibility (as described in paragraph (5)(D)) before the anticipated ending date of employment, the employer shall reimburse the worker under this paragraph—

(i) the transportation and subsistence required under subparagraph (C); and

(ii) the cost of the worker’s transportation and subsistence under subparagraph (A).
“(i) notwithstanding whether the worker has completed 50 percent of the period of employment, the transportation reimbursement required under subparagraph (A).

“(F) The employer shall provide transportation between the worker’s living quarters and the employer’s work site without cost to the worker in accordance with established regulations.

“(G) Construction.—Nothing in this paragraph may be construed to require an employer to reimburse visa, passport, consular, or any other fees incurred by the worker or any other fees associated with the worker’s lawful admission into the United States to perform employment.

“(5) Employment guarantee.—

“(A) In general.—

“(I) REQUIREMENTS.—Each employer applying for workers under subsection (b) shall guarantee to offer each such worker employment for the hourly equivalent of not less than 75 percent of the work hours during the total anticipated period of employment beginning with the first work day after the arrival of the worker at the place of employment and ending on the expiration date specified in the job offer.

“(ii) Failure to meet guarantee.—If the employer affords the United States worker or the worker's successor at a place of employment required under this subparagraph, the employer shall pay such worker the amount which the worker would have earned if the worker had worked for the guaranteed number of hours.

“(iii) Period of employment.—In this subparagraph, the term ‘period of employment’ means the total number of anticipated work hours and work days described in the job offer and shall exclude the worker’s Sabbath and Federal holidays.

“(B) Calculation of hours.—Any hours which the worker fails to work, up to a maximum number of hours specified in the job offer for a work day, when the worker has been offered an opportunity to do so, and all hours of work actually performed (including voluntary work in excess of the number of hours specified in the job offer in a work day, on the worker’s Sabbath, or on Federal holidays) may be counted by the employer in calculating whether the period of guaranteed employment has been met.

“(C) Limitation.—If the worker voluntarily abandons employment before the end of the contract period, or is terminated for any cause, the guarantee shall not be entitled to the 75 percent guarantee described in subparagraph (A).

“(D) Termination of employment.—

“(i) In general.—If, before the expiration of the period of employment specified in the job offer, the services of the worker are no longer required due to any form of natural disaster, including flood, hurricane, freeze, earthquake, fire, drought, plant or animal disease, pest infestation, regulatory action, or any other cause beyond the control of the employer before the employment guarantee in subparagraph (A) is fulfilled, the employer may terminate the worker’s employment.

“(ii) Requirements.—If a worker’s employment is terminated under clause (i), the employer shall—

“(I) notify the employment guarantee in subparagraph (A) for the work days that have elapsed during the period beginning on the first work day after the arrival of the worker and ending on the date on which such employment is terminated; and “(II) make efforts to transfer the United States worker to other comparable employment in the United States.

“(I) Disqualification.—

“(1) Grounds of ineligibility.—

“(A) General.—An alien is ineligible for an H-2A visa if the alien—

“(i) is inadmissible to the United States under section 212(a), except as provided under section 212(b)(3)

“(ii) is subject to the execution of an outstanding administratively final order of removal, deportation, or exclusion;

“(III) section 212(a)(9)(C)(i)(II); or

“(A) the alien has violated any material term or condition of status granted previously, unless the alien has had such violation waived under paragraph (2)(A);

“(B) the alien is inadmissible as a nonimmigrant under section 212(a)(6), if such provision had not been made inapplicable under section 212(a)(5); or

“(C) the granting of such status would allow the alien to exceed limitations on stay in the United States in H-2A status described in subsection (m).

“(B) Prompt removal proceedings.—The Secretary of Homeland Security shall promptly investigate, debar, and initiate removal proceedings against every alien admitted into the United States on an H-2A visa who exceeds the alien’s period of authorized admission or otherwise violates any terms of the alien’s nonimmigrant status. In conducting such removal proceedings, the Secretary shall give priority to aliens who may pose a threat to the national security, and those convicted of criminal offenses.

“(5) Numerical limitations on waivers.—The Secretary of Homeland Security may waive any ground of inadmissibility, as authorized under this section, only once for each beneficiary of an application for an H-2A visa; and the date of the enactment of the HARVEST Act of 2012. Such waiver authority for the Secretary shall expire 24 months after such date of enactment.

“(F) Fine.—Each alien applying for an H-2A visa under this section who would be ineligible under section 212(a)(6), if such provision had not been made inapplicable under subsection (1)(A)(i), shall be required to pay a fine in an amount equal to $500 before being granted such visa.

“(m) Period of admission.—

“(1) In general.—An H-2A worker approved to enter the United States may not remain in the United States for more than 10 months during any 12-month period, excluding—

“(A) a period of not more than 7 days before the beginning of the period of employment for the purpose of travel to the work site; and

“(B) a period of not more than 14 days after the period of employment to complete late work caused by weather or other unforeseen conditions.

“(2) Employment limitation.—An H-2A worker may not be employed during the 14-day period described in paragraph (1)(B) except in the employment for which the alien was previously authorized.

“(3) Construction.—Nothing in this subsection shall limit the authority of the Secretary of Homeland Security to extend the stay of an alien under any other provision of this Act.

“(n) Abandonment of employment.—

“(1) In general.—An alien admitted or provided status under section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a) who abandons the employment, which was the basis for such admission or status—

“(A) has failed to maintain nonimmigrant status as an H-2A worker; and “(B) shall depart the United States or be subject to removal under section 237(a)(19).

“(2) Report by employer.—Not later than 36 hours after the premature abandonment of employment by an H-2A worker, the employer or association acting as an agent for the employer shall notify the Secretary of Homeland Security of such abandonment.

“(3) Removal.—The Secretary of Homeland Security shall ensure the prompt removal from the United States of any H-2A worker who violates any term or condition of the worker’s nonimmigrant status.

“(4) Voluntary termination.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1), an alien may voluntarily terminate the alien’s employment if the alien promptly departs the United States upon termination of such employment.

“(5) Abandonment of employment.—

“(1) In general.—Upon receiving notification under subsection (n)(2) or being notified that a United States worker referred by the Department of Labor or a United States worker recruited by the employer during the recruitment period has prematurely abandoned employment or has failed to appear for employment—

“(A) the Secretary of State shall promptly issue a visa to an eligible alien designated by the employer to replace a worker who abandoned or prematurely terminated employment; and

“(B) the Secretary of Homeland Security shall expeditiously admit such alien into the United States.

“(2) Construction.—Nothing in this subsection may be construed to limit any preference for which United States workers are eligible under this Act.

“(p) Identification document.—

“(1) In general.—The Secretary of Homeland Security shall provide each alien authorized to be an H-2A worker with a single machine-readable, tamper-resistant, and counterfeit-resistant document that—

“(A) authorizes the alien’s entry into the United States;

“(B) serves, for the appropriate period, as an employment eligibility document; and enter and exit the United States during each scheduled work day, in accordance with regulations, in accordance with the notice and comment provisions of section 553 of title 5, United States Code, to provide for other purposes, dated June 11, 2012.

NOTE OF HEARING
COMMITTEE ON INDIAN AFFAIRS
Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I would like to announce that the Committee on Indian Affairs will meet during the session of the Senate on June 14, 2012, in room SD–628 of the Dirksen Senate Office Building, at 2:15 p.m., to conduct a hearing entitled “New Tax Burdens on Tribal Self-Determination.”

Those wishing additional information may contact the Indian Affairs Committee at (202) 224–2251.

PRIVILEGES OF THE FLOOR
Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Lilia McFarland, a member of my staff, be granted the privilege of the floor for the remainder of the 112th Congress.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MEASURES READ THE FIRST TIME—H.R. 436

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I understand there is a bill at the desk, and I ask for its first reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will read the bill by title for the first time.

The legislative clerk read as follows: A bill (H.R. 436) to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to repeal the excise tax on medical devices.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I now ask for a second reading and, in order to place the bill on the calendar under the provisions of rule XIV, I object to my own request.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection having been heard, the bill will be... read for the second time on the next legislative day.

ORDERS FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 12, 2012

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it adjourn until 10 a.m. on Tuesday, June 12; that following the prayer and the pledge, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the morning hour be deemed expired, and the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day; that following any leader remarks, the first hour be equally divided and controlled between the two leaders or their designees with the majority controlling the first half and the Republicans controlling the final half; and that the Senate recess from 12:30 p.m. to 2:15 p.m. to allow for the weekly caucus meetings; further, that all time during adjournment, recess, and morning business count postcloture on the Hurwitz nomination.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, we expect to yield back time and confirm the Hurwitz nomination during Tuesday’s session. We are also working on an agreement for amendments to the farm bill.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 10 A.M. TOMORROW

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask that it adjourn under the previous order.

There being no objection, the Senate, at 7:12 p.m., adjourned until Tuesday, June 12, 2012, at 10 a.m.

SENATE COMMITTEE MEETINGS

Title IV of Senate Resolution 4, agreed to by the Senate on February 4, 1977, calls for establishment of a system for a computerized schedule of all meetings and hearings of Senate committees, subcommittees, joint committees, and committees of conference. This title requires all such committees to notify the Office of the Senate Daily Digest—designated by the Rules Committee—of the time, place, and purpose of the meetings, when scheduled, and any cancellations or changes in the meetings as they occur.

As an additional procedure along with the computerization of this information, the Office of the Senate Daily Digest will prepare this information for printing in the Extensions of Remarks section of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD on Monday and Wednesday of each week.

Meetings scheduled for Tuesday, June 12, 2012 may be found in the Daily Digest of today’s RECORD.
