"We have a great cohesive crew here and a great management team in Neil Middleton, Jim Boggs, Louise Sizemore, and Philip Hayes," she noted. "I am leaving the station in very capable hands, thus I have am leaving with a wonderful sense of pride and peace."

Cornett said she doesn't have any specific plans after her retirement is final, and after attending school or working for the majority of her life, she is ready for what she called "unstructured days."

"I have no immediate plans except to enjoy my family, get up every day and do what pleases me," she said, and from all accounts that is something she has certainly earned.

"She's a very compassionate person, and she realizes the needs, day to day, of the people that work here," noted Phil Hayes, chief engineer at WYMT. "She didn't micro-manage anyone, but she was able to comprehend and anticipate what it took to make this station operate as efficiently as it has, and she's just a great person to work with."

"You couldn't have a better boss than Ernestine Cornett," added Neil Middleton, WYMT's news director. "I think the way we look at Ernestine is, she was our boss, but more importantly she is our friend, and she is family."

REMEMBERING MARTIN DOCK SCOTT, JR.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to an honored Kentuckian and a man of great accomplishment who proudly served our country. Mr. Martin Dock Scott, Jr. of Bowling Green, KY, passed away Wednesday, September 5, 2012, due to cancer. He was 65 years old.

I have great appreciation for Mr. Scott, as he lived such a remarkable life. After graduation from Menifee County High School, Mr. Scott served in the United States Army from 1966 to 1970. He served with B Company, 1st Battalion, 52nd Infantry, 198th Light Infantry Brigade. Thus far is evidence enough that Mr. Scott lived a worthy life, yet he continued onward, and so the list of his service and accomplishment also continues.

While in the military, Mr. Scott served in Chu Lai, Vietnam, and operated out of LZ Stinson and other landing zones. Needless to say, Mr. Scott put his life on the line for this country. In July 1970, Mr. Scott was honorably discharged.

Among his many military decorations, he earned two Bronze Stars. The first, with "V" Device, was awarded to Mr. Scott in February 1970 for expressing heroism under combined ground and mortar attack while his platoon was providing security for Dai Loc hamlet. The second medal was received in April 1970 for "meritorious achievement in connection with military operations against a hostile force."

Mr. Scott graduated from Eastern Kentucky University, married ViAnn Ford in November 1969, and started a family. I want to convey my deepest condolences to the many family members and friends who knew and were loved by Martin Dock Scott, Jr.

I would ask my U.S. Senate colleagues to join me in commemorating his commitment to service and in extending sympathies to the Scott family. The Commonwealth of Kentucky will be proud to remember the life and deeds of Mr. Martin Dock Scott, Jr.

Mr. President, an obituary for Mr. Scott as provided by the family recently appeared in local newspapers. I ask unanimous consent that said obituary be printed in the RECORD.

TRIBUTE TO MONTFORD POINT MARINES

Mr. DURBIN. On June 27, 2012, Congress presented the Congressional Gold Medal to the first African Americans to serve in the United States Marine Corps, the Montford Point Marines. More recently, the personal story of three of those marines from southern Illinois was brought to my attention.

Most people have heard of the Tuskegee Airmen and the Buffalo Soldiers, but until recently, the Montford Point Marines were largely unknown to the general public. During the 1940s, segregation and discrimination were pervasive in this country. Unfortunately, the Marine Corps was no exception.

To counteract the injustice, President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued an Executive order that prohibited racial discrimination in the national defense industry, including Federal agencies. This order forever changed the Marine Corps from an all-white fighting force to one comprised of those willing to serve.

Camp Montford Point, NC, is the site where the first African Americans who joined the Marine Corps were trained. Nearly 20,000 African Americans trained there, many of whom served honorably in World War II. The marines established Camp Montford Point adjacent to Camp Lejeune and those who trained there were known as the Montford Point Marines.

One man who answered the call to serve was Carbondale, IL, resident Archibald Mosley. In 1942, Mosley said that he was a "girl-crazy" typical teenager ready to graduate from high school in Jackson County, IL. An exceptional student, Mosley was asked by the principal, along with a handful of other students, to serve in the marines.

Mosley enlisted with two of his friends, Saul Griffin, Jr. and James France. Mosley, because his records indicated that he had some college, was chosen to lead the others. They were sent to train at Camp Montford Point.

The conditions for the recruits at Montford Point were miserable. The white men who trained at Camp Lejeune lived in barracks. The African-American men were housed in huts made of beaverboard—similar to thick cardboard. The huts had little, if any, heat in the winter and no relief from the sweltering temperatures in the summer. Nor did they have access to the same equipment. The African Americans didn't know how bad it was—they weren't allowed into the same areas as their White colleagues.

Amazingly, despite their willingness to die for their country, the Montford Point Marines still faced incredible injustices after the deplorable conditions during training. One situation that has continually bothered Mosley was when German prisoners of war were allowed to eat before the African-American Marines. He couldn't understand why the enemy would be able to eat before one of their marine brothers—it appeared that loyalty didn't extend beyond race.
