The House met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. FLEISCHMANN).

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC, November 29, 2012.

I hereby appoint the Honorable CHARLES J. FLEISCHMANN to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

JOHN A. BORRERO,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Ms. Curtis, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate has passed a bill of the following title in which the concurrence of the House is requested:

MORNING-HOUR DEBATE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 17, 2012, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning-hour debate.

The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties, with each party limited to 1 hour and each Member other than the majority and minority leaders and the minority whip limited to 5 minutes each, but in no event shall debate continue beyond 11:30 a.m.

AFGHANISTAN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. Jones) for 5 minutes.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, yesterday in the Republican Conference, I acknowledged that five marines and one soldier from my district, the Third District of North Carolina, had been killed in Afghanistan by the Afghans they were training. This, to me, just does not make any sense at all as to why we stay in Afghanistan.

I also shared with the Conference an email I got from the former Commandant of the United States Marine Corps, who has actually been my adviser on Afghanistan for 3 years. I said, Mr. Commandant, why do we stand by and see our American soldiers, Marines, killed by those people we’re training? I said, Mr. Commandant, how many more have to die, killed at the hands of the people they’re trying to help?

And I read this from the Commandant:

At the end of the day, I am more convinced than ever that we need to get out of Afghanistan. When our friends turn out to be our enemy, it is time to pull the plug. The idea that troops we have trained and equipped have now turn that training and equipment on us is simply unconscionable. Whether we leave tomorrow or 1,000 tomorrows from now, nothing will really change. We are now nothing more than a recruiting poster for every malcontent in the Middle East. We need to wake up.

I read that yesterday in the Conference, Mr. Speaker. I want my party and the Democratic party to wake up and get our troops home.

Mr. Speaker, recently on CNN’s Reliable Sources with Howard Kurtz, a well-known journalist, Tom Ricks, made the following statement:

...We, as a Nation, seem to care more about the sex lives of our generals than the real lives of our soldiers.

Mr. Ricks went on to say that probably no one knew who Sergeant Manning Hicks and Specialist Joseph Richardson were. They were two Americans killed in Afghanistan the Friday before Ricks was interviewed. The media will not print those names, but almost everyone in the country knows Paula Broadwell. That’s such a tragedy, Mr. Speaker, that our troops are dying in Afghanistan, and we’re writing about generals having relationships outside of a marriage. It makes no sense.

We lost 32 Americans in October and November. I want to know, where is the outrage here in Congress? Why are we spending money we don’t have? Why are our troops dying, and yet we just seem to go on and on talking about the fiscal cliff? Well, I know that’s important.

Mr. Speaker, it is time for Congress to realize that we are having young men and women die in Afghanistan for a failed policy that will not change one thing.

Mr. Speaker, before closing, I make reference to this poster of a young American in a casket being carried by his colleagues to be buried. Please, American people, put pressure on Congress to bring our troops home now and not wait until December 2014.

I ask God to please bless our men and women in uniform, to please bless the families of those who’ve lost loved ones in Afghanistan and Iraq. I ask God to please bless the United States of America. And please, God, help us get our troops home now and not later.

HOW BIG IS YOUR FEMA?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER) for 5 minutes.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, Mitt Romney weathered a storm of criticism late in the campaign after Hurricane Sandy for his earlier comments about privatizing FEMA and turning responsibility back to state and local governments. But during an era of fiscal restraint and global warming, it’s high time that we start this conversation in earnest. How big do you want your FEMA to be, how generous your disaster relief payments, and how much do you want to pay?

In today's New York Times op-ed section, there is an article that points out the potential liability for flood insurance. The story could be interpreted to mean that only the liability for Social Security. Right now, we have arguably the worst of both worlds. The Federal Government responds to disaster, usually paying too much for the wrong things to do the wrong things. We provide Federal Government has been spending way too much, and sometimes provides infrastructure to make future, risky development worse. We often take remedial action like fortifying beaches, a temporary solution that can actually accelerate erosion elsewhere, shift storm damage down the coast to another spot or more serious flooding down river. By giving the illusion of protection, more people locate in dangerous areas, and the vicious cycle is repeated with more and more damage to families, with loss of life, loss of property, disruption of business.

Perhaps we'd be better off if we began with a serious conversation about what people expect from FEMA and heavily subsidized flood insurance.

What if the balance of responsibility between individuals, local, State, and Federal governments were analyzed? What if we required individual property owners to assume more of the cost of disaster mitigation and recovery by paying the full cost of their flood insurance premiums and having recovery benefits provided on a declining scale after repetitive incidents?

What if local developers were required to insure their buildings with the cost of certain foreseeable disaster events? Would they be less likely to pressure local governments to approve risky development proposals?

If individual homeowners absorbed more risk with slightly higher home prices, would it make it less likely that they're going to be buying homes in dangerous locations?

Shouldn't local governments be required to have stronger zoning and building codes to make less likely and recovery less expensive? What if these local governments were put on notice that when they invest in infrastructure, that the Federal disaster relief is only going to cover a portion of the losses? What portion will depend on with increasing frequency of events?

While there appears to be little appetite for overall Federal control, there ought to be even less appetite for the Federal Government to pay for the failure of local control to plan, zone, enact and enforce strong code provisions and consumer protection. The notion that this is all going to be a one-way street for the Federal taxpayer to pay for repetitive disaster costs is something that needs to be challenged and rejected.

Don't make a mistake; I think it would be foolish to privatize FEMA because there is a need for Federal response to true disasters. That's precisely the time that the local economy and taxpayer are least able to pay the full cost of recovery. They need money, personnel, and assistance, but that doesn't mean a permanent entitlement to risky behavior. The Federal Government must end the truly catastrophic and with the humanitarian costs. Families obviously should not be left destitute, hungry, and homeless in the aftermath of natural disaster. There is, however, no reason that they wouldn't invite the repetition of these terrible events.

In a time of fiscal stress and budgetary realignment, we should include government disaster spending, liability and development policy as we address the fiscal cliff. Done right, this will not only save money, but countless lives, as well.

THE TRUE MEANING OF THE FISCAL CLIFF

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. HAYWORTH) for 5 minutes.

Ms. HAYWORTH. Mr. Speaker, our work in Congress during these final weeks of 2012 is focused on the fiscal cliff. We're worried—and rightly so—about what our economy, to our future, to the daily lives right now of hardworking Americans who are, in all too many cases, already struggling to make ends meet, like the mother in Carmel, New York, who told me her kids are going to have to limit their sports activities because she's having trouble finding the money to fill her gas tank a couple of times a week.

I came to Congress 2 years ago to help that mom who is doing all she can just to get by. She cares for her family, she has a job, and she is a taxpayer. She is in the middle class, and she is being squeezed from all sides. She knows, even though she has set to and keep a budget, the Federal Government hasn't been able to do that, and that's why we're facing the fiscal cliff. The Federal Government has been spending her hard-earned tax dollars like water, running trillion-dollar deficits year after year. She is angry, and she has every right to be angry.

So what are we going to do about it? Lately, we've heard a lot of talk about raising revenues but not nearly enough talk about bringing the Federal Government down to the right size, about making sure we have, about balancing the Federal budget. Oh, we hear about a "balanced approach," but that's just a way of saying we need to increase taxes. Actually, we don't need to increase taxes. The best thing we could do would be to cut waste.

The best thing we can do to raise revenues is by making our economy as healthy and strong as it can be. That means we need to help our businesses grow and hire. That has become way too hard to do in the past couple of years. A businessman in Dutchess County, New York, told me that he's going to have to limit the number of employees he has to fewer than 50 so that he won't face penalties under the 2010 health law. So, right now, the Federal Government is keeping him from offering jobs. That hurts the people who need jobs and who would be happy to be on a payroll or insurance premiums, since they would have to pay their own contributions into Social Security and Medicare.

Increasing taxes means less growth and fewer jobs, and that's not balanced. Three years ago, I made a pledge to my constituents—that if I was to be for or against tax increases, I would vote against it. I made that pledge to the citizens I serve and to no one else, and I made it because tax increases will hurt them. When Jen, the owner of La Petite Cuisine in Warwick, New York, tells me that the best thing I can do for her small business is to give her a break from high taxes, I believe her. I ran for Congress to help Jen and all the small business people like her, who are the engines of job creation. I ran for Congress to help all the people who need employers like Jen to hire them.

These good people deserve better than temporary fixes that mean we lurch from one crisis to the next. They deserve a plan that solves our economic problems for the long-term. They deserve a plan that goes beyond politics and shows a commitment to putting the Federal Government on a budget and on track to eliminate our crushing debt, that respects our citizens' rights to enjoy the fruits of their labors and to spend and save and invest as they see fit, which is the best way to grow the economy and add jobs, and that allows each of them, regardless of their station in life or where they live or their ethnic background or their gender, to use their labors and to spend, and common sense as free people in a Nation that must remain the strongest in the world, which it simply cannot be if it is drowning in debt.

I am here to fight for what is best for my constituents—every one of them—today and every day, in every single way I can. I am here to serve them and not any party or ideology. My constituents' future extends far beyond any election. They deserve that future to be as secure and prosperous as it can be, and it surely can be if we in Congress and the White House can have the courage to move forward together in a spirit of true cooperation. I stand ready to do that, and I stand with the people of the Hudson Valley.

TURNING THE CORNER ON REAL IMMIGRATION REFORM

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. GUTIERREZ) for 5 minutes.

Mr. GUTIERREZ. Mr. Speaker, let me tell you how you know you've turned the corner on the immigration debate.

When Sean Hannity and Senator Rand Paul and a group of others in the Republican Party begin saying it’s time to rethink the party’s approach to immigration, it probably means they’ve reached a milestone. When Donald Trump says the Republican policy of asking 12 million people to self-deport is a “crazy policy” that likely cost the Republicans the White House, you’ve turned a corner. Any time I agree with Donald Trump, you know a bipartisan agreement should be running high.

Most Americans believe that Election Day demonstrated that it’s time to move beyond the same old politics, the same tired blame game on immigration. So, when I saw a Republican-sponsored STEM visa bill on the House calendar this week, I thought, well, maybe House Republicans are changing their tune. On the campaign trail, we heard Governor Romney say he supported stapling green cards to the diplomas of every math and science graduate from our universities. Why should we educate some of the best minds on Earth and then say, “Sorry, no room in the U.S. economy for you”? It makes no sense to walk away and compete against us rather than innovate and creating jobs here.

Then I took a closer look at what the Republicans are actually proposing. They haven’t turned a corner at all. In fact, they’ve taken a step back. They’re folding the number of visas issued to graduates, meaning that the other 35 visas would just disappear. Which immigrants do they want to exclude in order to play this game? They’re pulling here. Best estimates are that only 20,000 STEM visas would be issued to graduates, meaning that the other 35 visas would just disappear. The problem is my colleagues on the other side of the aisle want to take one step and have the Democrats travel the other 999.9 miles. They haven’t turned a corner at all. In addition to holding the country’s patriots, the program is committed to educating the public about the loyalty, devotion, and commitment of the pit bull breed. Their service dogs are trained to help improve a veteran’s quality of life in therapy activities, such as opening and closing doors, retrieving items, and assisting with mobility problems.

I had the honor of attending a training session and meeting a dedicated veteran, Sergeant Danny Randall, and his four-legged companion, Shiloh. Danny, after serving for 9 years in the Army, Danny felt an emotional disconnect between military and civilian life. Reentering the civilian workforce had been a difficult adjustment. Danny suffers from posttraumatic stress disorder, making it difficult for him to remain calm in large crowds or tight spaces. He is not comfortable sitting with his back to a door or window and feels stress when strangers enter his personal space. But Danny has found a way to help battle some of the aftereffects of war. Danny’s medicine is in the form of a four-legged pit bull dog that goes by the name of Shiloh. Shiloh helps Danny to remain calm when going out in public and increases his comfort level and socialization skills.

There are over 22 million veterans in America today. And although the number of servicemembers being deployed in today’s wars are fewer than in wars of the past, those returning from war are suffering from increasingly severe disabilities, such as traumatic brain injury, numerous amputations, and posttraumatic stress disorder. Danny’s story is an example to each of us, and I wish his family all the best in these difficult times.

HONORING LOUIS GIACOMELLI
The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK) for 5 minutes.

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of Louis Giacomelli of New Britain in my home of Bucks County, Pennsylvania. A devoted husband and a loving father, Louis passed away earlier this week after a long life of service to his community and to his country.

As a young man in the Army, Louis answered his country’s call and honorably served in the Korean War and was awarded a Purple Heart for his service. Upon returning home from war, Louis went on to serve his community with the Philadelphia Police Department for over 20 years.

I had the opportunity to visit the Korean War Memorial here in our Nation’s capital with Louis earlier this year. I was fortunate to have been able to spend that time with him and proud to have called him my friend.

This is an example to each of us, and I wish his family all the best in these difficult times.

PITS FOR PATRIOTS
The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. QUIGLEY) for 5 minutes.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to highlight the exceptional work of an organization operating in my district called Pits for Patriots. This innovative program strives to save not just one life, but two.

The Chicagoland organization currently trains rescued pit bulls to become service dogs for veterans in need. In addition to helping our country’s patriots, the program is committed to educating the public about the loyalty, devotion, and commitment of the pit bull breed. Their service dogs are trained to help improve a veteran’s quality of life in therapy activities, such as opening and closing doors, retrieving items, and assisting with mobility problems.

I had the honor of attending a training session and meeting a dedicated veteran, Sergeant Danny Randall, and his four-legged companion, Shiloh. Danny, after serving for 9 years in the Army, Danny felt an emotional disconnect between military and civilian life. Reentering the civilian workforce had been a difficult adjustment. Danny suffers from posttraumatic stress disorder, making it difficult for him to remain calm in large crowds or tight spaces. He is not comfortable sitting with his back to a door or window and feels stress when strangers enter his personal space. But Danny has found a way to help battle some of the aftereffects of war. Danny’s medicine is in the form of a four-legged pit bull dog that goes by the name of Shiloh. Shiloh helps Danny to remain calm when going out in public and increases his comfort level and socialization skills.

There are over 22 million veterans in America today. And although the number of servicemembers being deployed in today’s wars are fewer than in wars of the past, those returning from war are suffering from increasingly severe disabilities, such as traumatic brain injury, numerous amputations, and posttraumatic stress disorder.

Over the past decade, the number of vets in need of disability compensation has more than doubled, from 600,000 in 2000 to over 1.4 million in the year 2011. As more vets return home from multiple tours in Iraq and Afghanistan, the need for assistance will grow even greater. We must do all we can to support inventive programs such as Pits for Patriots that provide essential support and assistance to our veterans in need.

I want to end with the words of Sergeant Danny Randall, who said about his pit bull, Shiloh:

He truly gives me a reason to be successful. Since I have served with him, he is my great sense of calm and balance. He is an amazing dog, not just where he has been and what he’s lived through, but all that he has overcome. In that sense we are a lot alike, and I believe that is why we have such a strong bond. We truly do everything together, and I could not have asked for a better pitbull partner.

Let’s make sure other veterans in need have access to the same program that has done so much to help Danny and Shiloh.

TRIBUTE TO CONGRESSMAN RON PAUL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DUNCAN) for 5 minutes.

Mr. DUNCAN of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to my friend, RON PAUL. I have now served in Congress for 24 years, the last 16 of which I have served with Congressman PAUL. During all of that time, I have never once seen him waver or stray from a commitment to liberty and freedom and his promise to uphold and defend our Constitution.

I can assure you that no one runs for office wanting to make people mad. In fact, it may be that people who run for office have a stronger desire to be liked than most people. Thus, I feel certain that at times it has been hurtful to Congressman PAUL to be the only Member out of 435 to vote “no” on some popular bill or seemingly harmless resolution. Yet, on many occasions, he has been the only vote on some issue. Yet, because of his courage and sincerity and his steadfast belief in free enterprise, private property, and individual freedom, he has earned the respect and admiration of almost everyone with whom he has served on both sides of the aisle.

When there was tremendous pressure, especially on the Republican side, to vote to go to war in Iraq, only six Republicans voted “no.” Three of those were very liberal Republicans, and three were very conservative. The three conservative “no” votes came from John Hostettler of Indiana, Congressman PAUL, and myself. It is probably accurate to say that, during the 16 years Congressman PAUL and I have served together, no two Members have voted more alike than we have. Most of that time we have arrived at conclusions separately and independently. But we also have discussed many votes over the years, and I have attended most of the meetings of the Liberty Caucus Congressman PAUL has hosted in his office with a wide variety of speakers.

One national magazine about 4 years ago gave just three Members 100 percent ratings on a freedom index—Congressman PAUL, Congressman Jeff FLAKE of Arizona, and myself. Last year I was very surprised when the National Taxpayers Union ranked me as the most fiscally conservative Member on all 338 spending votes. But the only reason Congressman PAUL was not first was because he missed votes because of his run for the White House.

There have been articles and comments and questions about who would be the next RON PAUL in Congress, but, really, no one can replace RON PAUL, or fill his shoes or be the next RON PAUL. He has achieved a fame and a following and a position of influence that is almost miraculous considering his independence.

He is such a kind, humble, almost bashful person that I know he has been amazed by the numbers that have turned out to support him, and especially the following that he has among young people. After all, there is nothing cool or hip about him, but several million young people and 20-somethings love the man. I think his appeal lies in his principled stands on the issues, the concern young people have for their future and where this country is headed, and the fact that Congressman PAUL is real. There is nothing fake about him. He believes what he says and says what he believes and then sticks by it even when it is not “politically correct.”

Financial columnist Charles Goyette probably summed up Congressman PAUL’s time in office best in a column a few days ago. He wrote:

Politics has ways of bending such lesser men and molding even the well-intentioned ones, but there are many: Congressional leadership bribes and bestows its favors from plum committee assignments to nicer Capitol offices. The parties reward their workers, too. For those who stay in step, there are endorsements and campaign funds. Meanwhile, for those who march to a different drum—well. And then there is the simple social pressure to which men whose eyes are not focused on a polestar of principle soon succumb. The description you’ve heard of Washington that you have to go along to get along is all too true.

Mr. Goyette concluded by writing:

Ron Paul never succumbed. He never sold out for a better assignment, a nicer office, lobbyist largesse, or shallow conviviality.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I think words written in a 1930 novel called “The Lion’s Den” fit Congressman RON PAUL. The words described a fictional Congressman named Zimmer. The author, Janet Fairbank, wrote:

No matter how the espousal of a lost cause may wear you out, the hero, Zimmer had never hesitated to identify himself with it if it seemed to him to be right. He knew only two ways; the right one and the wrong. If he made a mistake, it was never one of honor. He voted as he believed he should, and although sometimes his voice was raised alone on one side of the question, it was never still.

PROTECTING THE RIGHT TO VOTE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. CONNOLLY) for 5 minutes.

Mr. CONNOLLY of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, Americans have come out in record numbers this past election day, November 6, to exercise our most cherished and fundamental right, the right to vote.

No doubt my colleagues heard from their constituents who endured, in many cases, outrageously long lines. I spoke with voters who reported having to wait two or more hours, and in some cases up to 5 hours, to cast that precious vote. In most cases, the absence of early voting and the shortage of voting machines and well-trained election volunteers were the primary culprits leading to unacceptably long lines.

Whether one lived in a blue or red State, or voted in an urban, suburban or rural precinct, residents at polling places endured long lines, including Florida, Pennsylvania, Colorado, Ohio, New York, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, South Carolina, Montana, Tennessee, Hawaii, Arizona, Rhode Island, and my own Commonwealth of Virginia, encountered significant yet avoidable, barriers to casting their ballots.

This is not a Republican or a Democratic problem. Voters from both parties were affected. This is truly a national bipartisan challenge, if not a crisis. And to quote President Obama: “It’s one we have to fix.”

I think about the employee who struggles to manage his commute or her commute and work schedule on election day, or the senior citizen who may not have had the stamina to stand in line for 5 hours, or the young working mom waiting to vote, worried about the fact that she won’t get to the front of the line in time to pick up her kids at daycare.

The experience of our constituents on election day amount to a modern-day poll tax on all Americans that must be eliminated. Twelve years after the 2000 Presidential election exposed the deep structural problems that plague our decentralized voting system, our troubles appear to have worsened, not improved.

Long waits in the cold or the heat, confusing and conflicting instructions from poorly trained election officials, a paucity of voting machines or malfunctioning machines showing their age, a shortage of paper ballots, absentee ballots that failed to reach civilian and military voters in time were among the litany of voting problems that came to a head on election day.

I saw the problem firsthand at polling places in my district as I visited with voters in one Prince William County precinct who had been waiting in line for more than 4 hours in the cold. That’s why I joined with Congressman Jim Langevin to introduce the Fair, Accurate, Secure and Timely Voting Act of 2012, the FAST Act. A Senate companion bill was introduced by Senators Chris Coons of Delaware, Mark Warner of Virginia and Sheldon Whitehouse of Rhode Island.

Representative Langevin and I have significant experience serving at the State and local levels, and we strongly believe that the Federal Government often leverages those laboratories of democracy at the local and State levels to test innovative solutions and governing reforms and best practices that might have applicability at the Federal level.

Consistent with this principle, our bill avoids overly prescriptive requirements and, instead, offers States a menu of options and financial incentives to adopt voting reforms.

Our bill recognizes that modernizing the Nation’s voting system will require collaborative and coordinated efforts at the State, Federal, and local levels. It creates a competitive grant program, similar to the President’s Race to the Top schools and districts initiative, and rewards those States that aggressively implement the most effective and promising reforms to expand the franchise.

The menu of reforms includes flexible voter registration opportunities, including same-day registration; early voting, with a minimum of at least 9 days before the election; no-excuse absentee voting; assistance to voters who do not speak English as a primary language; assistance to voters with disabilities, including the visually impaired; effective access to voting for members of the Armed Services; formal training of election officials, including State and county administrators and volunteers; auditing and reducing waiting times at polling stations; creating contingency plans for voting in the event of a natural or other kind of disaster.

To be clear, the FAST Act is the latest in a series of proposals to reform how our elections are administered. Given the renewed interest among the public, Members of Congress, and the President, we ought to at least move forward with hearings to debate the merits of these proposals.

This is the world’s greatest and oldest democracy. How can any of us be satisfied with the scandalous operations that occurred in all too many voting places that impaired the ability of Americans, free Americans, to freely cast their votes?

We ought to clean this up. It’s a solvable problem, and it ought to be solved on a bipartisan basis.

HONORING SERGEANT FIRST CLASS RILEY G. STEPHENS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Flores) for 5 minutes.

Mr. FLORES. Mr. Speaker, America recently lost another hero in the war on terror. On September 28, America lost Army Sergeant First Class Riley G. Stephens of Tolar, Texas. Riley grew up in Tolar. He enlisted as an infantryman in the Army in 1993. He volunteered for the Special Forces Assessment and Selection Course. He also went on to graduate from the Special Forces Qualification Course in March of 2005.

At the time of his tragic death, he was assigned to Company B, 1st Battalion, 3rd Special Forces Group (Airborne), 3rd Special Forces Regiment. He would go on five separate deployments in support of Operation Enduring Freedom.

During his 19 years of service to our country, Sergeant Stephens earned many awards and decorations. He earned the Bronze Star Medal with Valor, two Bronze Star Medals, the Purple Heart, the Army Achievement Medal with Valor, four Army Commendation Medals, four Army Achievement Medals, the National Defense Service Medal, the Afghanistan Campaign Medal with three campaign stars, the Global War on Terrorism Service Medal, the Noncommissioned Officer Professional Development Ribbon Military Training, the Army Service Ribbon, two Overseas Service Ribbons, the NATO Medal, the Air Assault Badge, the Basic Parachutist Badge, the Expert Infantryman Badge, the Combat Infantryman Badge, the Ranger Tab and the Special Forces Tab.

On October 7, Sergeant First Class Riley G. Stephens was laid to rest at the Dallas-Fort Worth National Cemetery, not far from his hometown in Tolar where, earlier that day, his life was celebrated and his service to our country was celebrated in a church full of friends and family and fellow patriots.

Our thoughts and prayers are with the family and friends of Sergeant Stephens. He will forever be remembered as a husband and a father. We thank him and his family for their service and sacrifice for our country.

His sacrifice reflects the words of Jesus in John 15:13 which say: Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

As I close, Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask all Americans to continue praying for our country during these difficult times, for our military men and women, ourfall first responders who keep us safe by their sacrifice each day.

God bless our military men and women, and God bless America.

COMMEMORATING THE CANONIZATION OF SAINT MARIANNE OF MOLOKAI

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlemanwoman from Hawaii (Mr. Hanabusa) for 5 minutes.

Ms. HIRONO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce a resolution commemorating the remarkable life of service of Mother Marianne Cope of Molokai, and her canonization as a saint of the Roman Catholic Church on October 21, 2012. She joins Saint Damien of Molokai among the 12 American saints.

I am proud in introducing this resolution by Congresswoman Ann Marie Buerkle, who represents Syracuse, New York, where Mother Marianne’s Order of the Sisters of Saint Francis is based; by Congressman Richard Hanna, who represents Utica, New York, where Mother Marianne grew up; and by Congresswoman Colleen Hanabusa, who represents Hawaii’s First Congressional District. I am proud to represent Hawaii’s Second Congressional District, which includes the island of Molokai.

It may seem surprising that one-sixth of America’s saints are connected to the tiny Kalaupapa Peninsula on the Hawaiian island of Molokai. The story of Kalaupapa is heartbreaking. Native Hawaiian populations were especially susceptible to new diseases. Once Westerners and other peoples came to Hawaii, diseases like smallpox and measles caused high mortality. It was no different with leprosy. Native Hawaiians made up the majority of those afflicted with this disease.

To stem the spread of leprosy, the Kingdom of Hawaii decided in 1866 to forcibly relocate persons found to have the disease to the Kalaupapa Peninsula, where they were away from other settlements in every sense of the word. Kalaupapa was chosen because it is surrounded by the ocean and some of the tallest sea cliffs in the world, effectively cutting off escape.

Mothers, fathers, and children who contracted the disease were taken from their families and sent to Kalaupapa, where living conditions were terrible and medical care almost nonexistent. Father Damien, who ultimately contracted and died from the disease, is recognized throughout the world for all he did to improve conditions for the outcasts of Kalaupapa. Mother Marianne carried on and expanded on his work. This resolution honors Mother Marianne for her legacy of compassionate care and recognizes her example of what it truly means to dedicate one’s life in service to others. One does not need to be Catholic to be humbled and inspired by the life of someone who devoted herself so selflessly to those whom almost everyone else shunned and rejected.

Mother Marianne was born Barbara Koob, immigrated to this country from Germany as a young girl. She and her family settled in Utica, New York. At the age of 24, she entered the religious life as a Catholic nun and commenced a life dedicated to children, education, and the sick. Father Damien later focused her efforts on health care and was influential in establishing St. Elizabeth Hospital in Utica. She was also the founder and administrator of St. Joseph’s Hospital in Syracuse, the city’s first hospital.

In 1883, Mother Marianne received a letter that would change her life. It was from Father Leonor Fouesnel, a missionary in Hawaii, who was desperately seeking for volunteers to take charge of the hospitals that served people with Hansen’s disease. More than 50 religious congregations had already declined, but Mother Marianne was different. She eagerly accepted the mission. She wrote back to Father Leonor:

I am hungry for the work and I wish with all my heart to be one of the chosen ones. I am not afraid of any disease.

Mother Marianne left for Hawaii, along with six sisters from Syracuse, in 1883, where she began a 30-year mission caring for those diagnosed with Hansen’s disease. Mother Marianne accepted a government plea to start a new home for women and girls with Hansen’s disease in Kalaupapa. She was deeply mourned when she died on July 16, 1918, at the age of 80. She was laid to rest in Kalaupapa just months before Father Damien’s death. She oversaw the expansion of health services and programs to provide education and tend to the spiritual needs of the patients.

Mother Marianne lived until the age of 80. On August 9, 1918, she died in Kalaupapa. She was deeply mourned and is still revered. I have visited her grave site, where I left ho-okupu, a traditional Hawaiian offering. I was deeply moved by the devotion of this woman from New York who left all that was familiar to live on an isolated peninsula 5,000 miles from home. Kalaupapa became her home and its people her family.

Mother Marianne recognized the rights and inherent dignity of all people. She dedicated her life to caring for those who needed it the most. People of all faiths can admire her spirit of aloha—compassion, mercy, and grace—and malama—to care for others.

ONE LESS PLACE SETTING AT THE HOLIDAYS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from California (Ms. WOOLSEY) for 5 minutes.

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Speaker, it’s the time of year when families reunite and renew their very close connections—connections that are actually, in most instances, the most precious parts of our lives. This Thanksgiving I know all of us were grateful for the company of those we love the most. But more than 2,000 American families sat at tables where there was one less serving of the Thanksgiving meal just a week ago. Those families lost a loved one in the deadly war in Afghanistan—now more than 11 years long and a tragically reckless policy.

I’m personally grateful for the service of all of our Afghanistan veterans and for their sacrifice and for the sacrifice of our military families. But sometimes I don’t know how we as a Congress and a Nation can look them right straight in the face after everything we’ve put them through. The benefits of this war don’t come close to justifying the human cost—just fatalities, but disfiguring wounds, lost limbs, traumatic brain injury, and demons of post-traumatic stress. They all add up to tragedy at the utmost.

For too many of our veterans, the transition back to civilian life is a daily struggle. Many face not just health care challenges but joblessness, housing and credit troubles, and overall economic anxiety and stress. We’ve had enough of this. Why would we want to extend a war that has given so much misery and so much heartache and so few actual national security benefits?

The American people have rendered their verdict on the occupation of Afghanistan. Poll after poll shows they want it over. Who can blame them? In fact, the public opinion was so clear during the last Presidential election that both candidates for President in this year’s election are saying that they would end the war. But the question, Mr. Speaker, is, When? The current 2014 timetable is not nearly aggressive enough—not when we’re losing brave servicemembers every single week, or when the presence of our military is sustaining the very extremist we’re trying to defeat, and not when American taxpayers are paying the bill to the tune of $10 billion a month, at least.

And now it seems that our policymakers might be planning for a significant military presence in Afghanistan beyond 2014. According to a new New York Times article last weekend, one of the options on the table calls for 10,000 American troops and several thousand more NATO troops to remain on the ground after 2014. Sources say that General John Allen, our top commander in Afghanistan, prefers to keep as many as 60,000 troops for another year. The editorial board points out, this is not the “steady pace” of troop withdrawal that the President has promised.

This is unacceptable. We ought to have a role in Afghanistan, but it cannot and must not be a military role. We need more humanitarian aid, more support for education, health care, democracy promotion, civil society, and so much more. But we will not make America safer not make Afghanistan stronger by continuing this war. The only morally decent and strategically sensible approach is to bring our troops home now—certainly before 2014.

INVESTING IN R&D AND STEM

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON) for 5 minutes.

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Today, I would like to emphasize the important role that Federal investments in research and development, or R&D; and science, technology, engineering, and mathematics, or STEM, education play in stimulating growth, creating new industries and jobs, and delivering long-term benefits to our nation.

As a member of the House Committee on Science, Space, and Technology, and now as ranking member, I have had the privilege of hearing countless witnesses from industry, academia, and government over the past several years testify that investments in R&D are essential to keeping America competitive in a challenging international marketplace. In fact, according to a paper by the National Bureau of Economic Research, changes in technology are the only source of permanent increases in productivity.

If we are to reverse the trend of the last 20 years, where our country’s technology edge in the world has diminished, there must be investments necessary today. The statistics speak for themselves. It is estimated that more than 50 percent of our economic growth since World War II can be attributed to development and adoption of new technologies. The path is simple—research and development to innovation. Innovation leads to economic development and good-paying jobs and the revenue to pay for more research.

As private firms underinvest in research and development because the returns are too far off in the future, there is a clear and necessary role of government to help our Nation keep pace with the rest of the world.

More than 50 years ago, when DARPA was first created, no one had any idea that the research that they would fund would be responsible for the creation of the Internet or the proliferation of GPS technology, but those inventions started with Federal dollars, as did countless other game-changing technologies.

It is clear that Federal investments in R&D bring significant returns for decades to come. In 1987, MIT Professor Robert Solow was awarded the Nobel Prize in Economics for his work proving that improved technology and improved education in the workforce was clearly and chiefly responsible for long-term growth. Much more than an increase in labor or capital. The current best estimate for the return on academic research alone is 28 percent. Federal efforts are underway now to more vigorously and rigorously quantify the return on Federal investments in R&D.

Today we find ourselves at a crossroads. The United States remains a leader in science, technology, and innovation but no longer the unchallenged leader. While our own world-class innovation infrastructure is under stress, our competitors in other countries, even as they institute austerity measures in other parts of their budgets, are seizing the opportunity to make strategic investments in long-term basic research and build and leverage public-private partnerships to support the shorter term R&D that will help create jobs now and long into the future.

As with our own deficits, we too can make the strategic choice to continue to invest in our future—both in our human capital and physical infrastructure—or we can make the strategic choice to permanently cede our leadership, to fail our current generation of young people and to put our economy in a state of stagnation for years to come.

STEM education is another critical component to the Nation’s economic competitiveness. Yet according to the Program for International Student Assessment, the U.S. currently ranks 17th in science and 25th in math out of 34 countries. Though our best STEM students have no trouble competing with their international peers, on average, our 13-year-olds continue to lag far behind their international peers in math and science aptitude. According to the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) 2009 science assessment, 31 percent of the fourth-graders, 38 percent of the eighth-graders, and 21 percent of the 12th-graders performed at or above the proficient level in science. When eighth-graders were tested again in 2011, they achieved a modest 2-point gain in the percentage of students performing at or above proficiency.

When the results are broken down by demographic groups, we see a 6–7 point gender gap that begins somewhere between the 4th and 8th grade and persists through 12th grade. Even more troubling, there are huge and persistent gaps across racial/ethnic groups. Among African American students, in 2009 only 11 percent of fourth-graders, 8 percent of eighth-graders, and 4 percent of twelfth-graders performed at or above the proficient level in science. The number for Hispanic students—14 and 8 percent, respectively—are only slightly better. The greatest sign of improvement is a 4 point gain for Hispanic 8th graders from 2009 to 2011. But how as a nation and as parents and grandparents can we tolerate any of these numbers for any of our students?

We must also do better at the college level. Even among those minority students who have access to high-performing schools or who otherwise succeed against the odds and enter college intending to major in a STEM degree, fewer than 20 percent finish within five years, compared to a 33 percent 5-year completion rate for White students and 42 percent for Asian students.

We’ve been talking about “A Nation at Risk” since the report by that name came out nearly 30 years ago, but in that time we’ve made little to no improvement. Some suggest we may even have gone backwards. As long as our nation overall was still number one, it was easier for our leaders to let year after year pass without taking the hard steps to take on an enormous set of challenges in a large and diverse country where, rightly so, education is controlled at the local level.

However, the world is changing, the demand for STEM skills is steadily increasing, and our nation’s leadership is being challenged. At the same time, our demographics are shifting in profound ways, making the racial/ethnic gaps that much more consequential for our future. By the year 2050, minorities are predicted to represent 55 percent of the national college population.

I am heartened by many of the initiatives going on now at both the federal and state levels, including the Obama Administration’s Race to the Top, Initiative and the state-drive common core standards in math and science. Nevertheless, we have a long way to go to ensure that the U.S. continues to produce the world’s best scientists, mathematicians, and engineers and to make sure that every student is prepared for the highly technical, high-paying jobs of the future. According to 2008 data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the professional information technology (IT) workforce was projected to add a little under a million new jobs between 2008 and 2018. This represents more than twice the rate of overall workforce growth over that same period. Many high-tech companies cite the availability of a skilled STEM workforce as the number one reason for determining where they locate their facilities. Producing students with the STEM skills needed to fill the jobs of the future is necessary to maintaining our nation’s innovating capacity and creating new high-skill, high-paying jobs at home.

We need to take a step back and refrain from making short-sighted, ill-advised cuts to our R&D and education investments in pursuit of illusory budgetary benefits. While we debate turning the lights off on groundbreaking research projects, shuttering world-class research facilities, and losing many of our best and brightest scientists from the STEM pipeline for good, our competitors in China, India, and elsewhere are surging ahead in their investments in R&D, STEM education, and emerging industries.

I urge all of us, as we undertake our very difficult task of trying to set us on a more sustainable fiscal path, to do whatever it takes to prioritize steady growth of our investments in science, technology, and STEM education. It is when we reduce the level of support that we should be redoubling our efforts to innovate our way into a brighter future of new jobs, new technologies, and untold societal benefits.

CORRUPTION IN AFGHANISTAN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. COFFMAN) for 5 minutes. Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado, Mr. Speaker, this year I pushed for and received a congressional investigation into the Dawood National Military Hospital in Afghanistan based on allegations that senior Afghan medical personnel sold U.S. military medical supplies and that Afghan soldiers and police were dying in the facility from untreated wounds and malnutrition because their families couldn’t come up with the necessary bribes to pay the hospital staff for their care.

The Afghan surgeon general, General Ahmad Zia Yaftali, was implicated in the corruption. U.S. Army Lieutenant General William Caldwell was instrumental in covering it up by not only delaying an investigation but by limiting the scope of it when it did occur. Neither General Caldwell nor General Yaftali have been disciplined for their conduct.

Last week I was in Afghanistan and I visited the hospital. I left Afghanistan confirming my belief that the greatest threat to the future of Afghanistan is not the Taliban but the pervasive corruption that permeates every level of Afghan governance and the lack of leadership by the United States in confronting it.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until noon today.

Accordingly (at 10 o’clock and 55 minutes a.m.), the House stood in recess.

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker at noon.

PRAYER

Reverend Dr. Leslie Callahan, St. Paul’s Baptist Church, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, offered the following prayer:

Gracious God, we offer thanks for the joy and challenges of self-government, which this House and the whole Congress symbolize. In a world ravaged by violence, political and domestic, we enter gratefully the sanctuary of these Chambers for peaceful deliberation for this Nation’s good. Even in the spaces of deep disagreement may these debates be seasoned with mutual understanding. May Your presence as liberty, love, and justice walk up and down and, yes, even between these aisles. Remind everyone of the sacredness of the trust of our constituents and the hope of all our citizens.

At day’s end, may all affected by their decisions be confident of their good faith. At the end of the term, may the reelected redouble their efforts for the common good and those retiring find satisfaction in having done their duty. In the name of all that is holy and good.

Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day’s proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from New York (Mr. REED) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.
Mr. REED led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

WELCOMING REVEREND DR. LESLIE CALLAHAN

The SPEAKER. Without objection, the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. FUDGE) is recognized for 1 minute.

There was no objection.

Ms. FUDGE. Mr. Speaker, it is my pleasure to welcome Dr. Leslie D. Callahan to serve as our guest chaplain today. I have known Dr. Callahan since she was a toddler and am proud to say that she is the dedicated senior pastor of St. Paul’s Baptist Church in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, its first female leader in 119 years.

Dr. Callahan is a religion scholar who received her bachelor of arts in religion from Harvard University/Radcliffe College, a master of divinity from Union Theological Seminary in New York, and doctor of philosophy in religion from Princeton University.

A native of Gary, West Virginia, and resident of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Dr. Callahan has been publicly preaching since the age of 19. She is noted for her dynamic preaching and teaching gifts and as a minister who plays a major role in shaping the future of the African American church. She is the mother of 2-month-old Annabelle, or Bella.

Reverend Callahan’s character is captured in her favorite scripture from Psalm 27:4:

One thing I desired of the Lord, that I shall seek: that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord and to seek God in God’s temple.

MORE MONEY FOR WAR?

(Mr. KUCINICH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KUCINICH. The same geniuses who involved the U.S. in a war against Libya, who knocked off the pro-U.S. Libyan Government, who created in Benghazi an extremist shooting gallery which has claimed four American lives including our Ambassador, who have not been held accountable or responsible for those events, who have opened the door for radical fundamentalists to run roughshod over Libya, these same experts are working out of the same playbook for Syria.

Assad was no angel, but he was not a significant threat to the U.S. Apparently, flush from success in Libya, the administration is preparing to ratchet up the war in Syria.

Why would Qatar, our partner in Libya, be supplying surface-to-air missiles to rebels in Syria without the support of this administration? NATO—meaning the U.S.—discusses putting missiles in Turkey, which would create a de facto no-fly zone over northwest Syria, expanding the war.

Is this why we need a tax increase? More money for more war? Really?

CRUMBLING INFRASTRUCTURE

(Mr. HIGGINS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. HIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, our national policy for transportation and budgetary commitment is a disgrace and an embarrassment. Our roads and bridges are a mess. Transportation for America says that we have 69,000 structurally deficient bridges in this Nation. We have over 2,000 structurally deficient bridges in New York State, and 99 have structurally deficient bridges in my home community of western New York. Every second of every day, seven cars carrying our families drive on a bridge that is structurally deficient.

In the city of Buffalo, we are preparing to make a decision about the future of the elevated Skyway bridge, a roadway classified by transportation officials as being structurally deficient, fracture-critical, and functionally obsolete.

Federal investments should help communities make smart decisions and become more self-sufficient. Investing in smart infrastructure is not simply about tearing down our crumbling bridges; it’s about rebuilding our Nation.

CONGRATULATING COLORADO STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION CHAIRMAN BOB SCHAFFER ON HIS RETIREMENT

(Mr. GARDNER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. GARDNER. Mr. Speaker, today I rise today to honor Colorado State Board of Education Chairman Bob Schaffer on his recent retirement.

Chairman Schaffer proudly served the State of Colorado and our country in this Chamber, representing Colorado’s Fourth Congressional District. Throughout his career in Congress and on the State Board of Education, he has dedicated himself to improving the education of Colorado and this Nation’s youth. He’s a passionate advocate of education policies that reach all students in our Nation.

In addition to his work on the State board, Bob serves as the principal at Liberty Commons in Fort Collins, Colorado. Liberty is a public charter school and is consistently ranked among the State’s top-performing schools.

Chairman Schaffer has been an advocate for State and local control over education. He promotes the value that all schools need to be competitive and accountable, including faculty and administration.

While the challenges of education have been many over the past two decades, Bob knows they are worthy of our time and our best efforts. Through his leadership, we have seen education in Colorado improve for our kids; they have a brighter future ahead and the tools to achieve success.

And today, I recognize Bob Schaffer’s service in this Chamber and his service to the people of Colorado.

CONGRATULATING SHALER NORTH HILLS LIBRARY

(Mr. ALTMIRE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. ALTMIRE. Mr. Speaker, recently I had the honor of attending a ceremony recognizing the Shaler North Hills Library for receiving the National Medal for Library and Museum Service. This is the highest Federal honor any museum or library can earn.

The Shaler North Hills Library serves over 50,000 families, providing assistance for everything from job searching to computer training. The library also presents outstanding programs for all ages, including showcasing local gardeners, art exhibits, and a speaker series. Their interactive science program, “Discovery Kids,” won a Pennsylvania Library Association Best Practices Award, recognizing the program as the best of the best for early learning. The Shaler North Hills Library truly sets the standard for all ages in library services. I congratulate them on this well-deserved honor.

DEDICATED LEADERSHIP OF SHERIFF MARK CURRAN

(Mr. DOLD asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DOLD. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the work that Sheriff Mark Curran and the Robert Crown Center are doing in Illinois’ 10th Congressional District.

Heroin and prescription drug abuse are on the rise in our local communities. Families of all backrounds are being affected by this epidemic in the Chicagoland region. As a result of the increase in heroin deaths and prescription drug overdoses, Sheriff Mark Curran and the Robert Crown Center and other individuals in the community have come together to raise awareness of the dangers of these drugs.

Throughout the past 2 years I’ve had the privilege of working with these leaders so that we can help educate our communities and to help get help for those who are struggling with addiction. From roundtables to awareness events and a recent community forum—which we held in Vernon Hills, Illinois—I’m proud of the work that’s being done to end this epidemic. We do have much more work ahead of us, but I’m confident that Sheriff Mark Curran and others will continue to champion this cause and provide valuable resources to our community. I look forward to helping in any way possible.

HIV/AIDS

(Mr. MCDERMOTT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MCDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, as we celebrate World AIDS Day today, we have reason to be proud of what we’ve done to fight HIV/AIDS.

When I came to this Congress in 1989, AIDS was a death sentence; now, with the right medicine, it’s a manageable chronic disease. And we’ve made real progress toward a vaccine. That happened because the United States Congress took action. People living with the disease fought to make it happen, and leaders in the Congress and the White House fought to make it happen too.

As we recognize World AIDS Day today, we cannot get complacent. We can create an AIDS-free generation—it is possible. But it will slip away if we let these essential programs get cut. Today, we should resolve to stay the course, to keep the pressure on, and win the fight, to honor all those who died of AIDS and all those who are still fighting for AIDS today. This Capital has an epidemic of AIDS. We need to deal with it.

CONGRATULATING TEACH ELEMENTARY SCHOOL IN SAN LUIS OBISPO

(Mrs. CAPPS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. CAPPS. I rise today to congratulate Teach Elementary School in San Luis Obispo on becoming a National Blue Ribbon School.

For years, the Department of Education has bestowed this coveted award for outstanding academic achievement, and I am delighted that one of our local schools on the central coast of California was awarded such a tremendous honor.

This distinguished recognition highlights the hard work and dedication of the entire staff at Teach Elementary, and I would specifically like to note the outstanding leadership of Principal Dan Fleck.

For Teach Elementary to have such remarkable results—particularly during these tough times—is truly commendable. At a time when we must

WORLD AIDS DAY

(Ms. CASTOR of Florida asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. CASTOR of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today on World AIDS Day to highlight the remarkable progress that has been made over the past 30 years in the fight against HIV and AIDS.

I commend local leaders from my Tampa Bay area district like the Reverend Dr. James Favorite, who understands the importance of speaking to his congregation about HIV and AIDS. Reverend Favorite’s church—larger than 100 local churches and pastors across the Tampa Bay area to put AIDS and HIV awareness at the heart of their sermons. Reverend Favorite’s impact has garnered national acclaim from the National Black Leadership Commission on AIDS.

I also commend the Test Tampa Bay campaign, which is an initiative designed to intensify HIV education, awareness, and prevention brought through local health departments and other health advocates. Test Tampa Bay aims to increase the number of Tampa Bay residents who know their HIV status by encouraging HIV testing.

Finally, I would like to voice my strong support for H.R. 6138, Ending the HIV/AIDS Epidemic Act, by Representative BARBARA LEE and others, of which I’m a proud sponsor. We must remain committed to ending the HIV/AIDS epidemic and improving the lives of those infected with the disease.

We are at a tipping point in the fight against AIDS, so let’s recommit to ensure that America continues to lead the way to achieve an AIDS-free generation.

HONORING MARGARET OBRAY FOR DEDICATION TO EDUCATION

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Speaker, schoolteachers are an overworked and undercompensated group, but the good ones are always appreciated for the time and effort and commitment they make to kids. So I stand today to honor one of the best examples of a dedicated teacher, Margaret Obray, who was a government and history teacher at Mountain Crest High School in Hyrum, Utah. Mrs. Obray has dedicated the past three decades of her life to encouraging her students, both in and out of the school. She has worked tirelessly to open their minds to guide them towards a productive and meaningful life.

Mrs. Obray has decided to retire at the end of this school year, having changed the lives of literally thousands of students who had the opportunity of being taught by such an outstanding educator. I have watched Mrs. Obray for many years and can verify that she is the epitome of what a good educator should be, and she will be sorely missed by many.

So let’s take a moment to thank you for what you have done, for the impact you’ve had on students you have taught in the past, the ones you are teaching currently, and we have pity for all those kids in the future who will never have that experience.
invest in high-quality education in order to strengthen our Nation’s economic vitality, it is important that we recognize and replicate the successes of schools such as Teach Elementary.

Our students are our Nation’s greatest resource, and it’s our responsibility to provide the affected young people with the tools they need to succeed in the schools that put them on a solid path towards success.

San Luis Obispo, California, is truly fortunate to have a remarkable school such as Teach Elementary.

OPPOSE ANTI-IMMIGRATION BILL

(Mrs. DAVIS of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. DAVIS of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the anti-immigration bill brought before us today.

The supporters of this legislation would have you believe that immigration is a zero sum game—that for every door you open for one person you have to close it on another. That’s what this bill aims to do by increasing the number of visas for STEM graduates while eliminating them from the Diversity Visa Program. This troubling precedent further supports that visa offsets will foreclose the promise of the American Dream for countless immigrants.

Our country remains the beacon of opportunity and freedom. For many, the only path to getting here is through the diversity program. People like Yulia, who is a constituent of mine, that lucky draw in the lottery was her best hope for coming to America from Kazakhstan.

It is irresponsible, Mr. Speaker, to hold the much-needed—and I would say we need it—STEM visa bill hostage just to dismantle a program that has helped new Americans like Yulia. It’s bad policy, and I urge my colleagues to reject the bill.

EQUAL RECOGNITION FOR DC AND THE TERRITORIES

(Ms. NORTON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I come to the floor to thank the House for recognizing that all veterans and members of the military must be recognized equally, not only some of them; and I have asked the Senate to do the same.

Imagine you are a parent. You go to a military ceremony, for example, the graduation from Navy boot camp. Applause comes with each graduate as his or her name is called, and the flag of the home State is raised. But your flag is not raised. Why? Because your son is from the District of Columbia or one of the Territories.

The House defense authorization bill recognizes the injustice of the discrimination against any of our veterans or members of the military. The Senate bill does not. We ask that the Senate follow the lead of the House.

In our country, no American—and especially no veteran or member of the military—is more equal than any other. If the military flies the flags, then fly them all.

IN RECOGNITION OF WORLD AIDS DAY

(Mr. PAYNE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I join my colleagues today in recognizing World AIDS Day. While great progress has been achieved nationally and globally, our fight against HIV/AIDS should only grow stronger. Globally, 6.8 million people are eligible for HIV treatment but don’t have access. In the U.S., accessibility of treatment has significantly increased, but the rate of new HIV infections has only stabilized.

So today, in recognition of World AIDS Day, I urge all of my colleagues to remember the lives of the affected in our district, the country, and the world but also to reaffirm my commitment, on their behalf, to stand with those who have relentlessly fought progress, including my late predecessor and father, Donald M. Payne.

Today, I stand with the Nation and the world in international solidarity, committed to the fight against HIV/AIDS and “Getting to Zero.”

WORLD AIDS DAY 2012

(Ms. LEE of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. LEE of California. Mr. Speaker, December 1 is World AIDS Day, although every day is World AIDS Day for the millions battling this epidemic on the front lines. It’s an important time, though, to reflect upon those who have lost their lives, to celebrate the progress we are making, and to recommit ourselves to achieving an AIDS-free generation for all.

As this Congress comes to an end and a new one begins in January, we have been given the extraordinary opportunity to leave an astonishing legacy. Our understanding of the spread of HIV has changed dramatically in recent years. Armed with the National AIDS Strategy, the Affordable Care Act, and the Global Fund, we are closer than ever to stamping HIV and AIDS off the face of the Earth.
PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 6429, STEM JOBS ACT OF 2012

Mr. NUGENT. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 821 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. Res. 821
Resolved, That upon the adoption of this resolution it shall be in order to consider in the House the bill (H.R. 6429) to amend the Immigration and Nationality Act to promote innovation, investment, and research in the United States, to eliminate the diversity immigrant program, and for other purposes.

All points of order against consideration of the bill are waived. An amendment in the nature of a substitute consisting of the text of Rules Committee Print 112-34, modified by the amendment printed in the report of the Committee on Rules accompanying this resolution, shall be considered as adopted. The bill, as amended, shall be considered as read. All points of order against provisions in the bill, as amended, are waived.

The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill, as amended, and on any amendment thereto to final passage without intervening motion except: (1) 90 minutes of debate equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on the Judiciary; and (2) one motion to recommit with or without instructions.

Sec. 2. It shall be in order at any time on the legislative day of December 6, 2012, for the Speaker to entertain motions that the House suspend the rules as though under clause 1 of rule XV.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Florida is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. NUGENT. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. Polis), pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. NUGENT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the unanimous consent of the gentleman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Mr. NUGENT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of this rule, which will allow the House of Representatives to consider H.R. 6429, the STEM Jobs Act of 2012.

As I am sure my colleague from Colorado will point out, H. Res. 821 is a closed rule. The fact is that like Mr. Polis, I prefer an open-amendment process that lets us come together on both sides of the aisle and contribute ideas to help make a bill better.

Today’s rule will be closed, but that’s because the drafting of the STEM Jobs Act has been in a collaborative process for many months, Chairman Smith, the author of this legislation, has already worked with his committee, Republicans, Democrats, and even the Senate to come up with a bill that, hopefully, everybody could support.

Unfortunately, we’ve since been informed that our colleagues on the other side of the aisle and in the other Chamber are looking to play politics with the STEM Jobs Act. However, that doesn’t change the fact that Chairman Smith worked diligently to make sure this legislation was filled with bipartisan ideas.

The STEM Jobs Act would eliminate the flawed Diversity Lottery Green Card program and reallocate up to 55,000 green cards a year to new green card programs for foreign graduates of U.S. universities with advanced STEM degrees.

According to a study by the National Science Foundation and the National Center for Science and Engineering Statistics, in 1990 about 91,000 full-time foreign graduate students were studying in STEM fields in the United States. That number had jumped to almost 149,000 by 2009. It was 149,000 in 2009. However, the vast majority of these highly skilled, highly educated innovators are leaving the United States where they once received their education.

We’re training hundreds of thousands of highly skilled engineers, technicains, and scientists at American universities and then sending them back home to compete against us in other countries.

They aren’t moving to other countries because they want to leave the United States. They’re moving because the immigration system forces them out.

Currently, we only select 5 percent of our Nation’s legal immigrants based on skills and education they bring to America. So priority of foreign students who come to America for advanced degrees and get their education find themselves on a years-long green card waiting list and give up on the idea of staying here in the United States.

When they leave our country, they take with them all their training and all of their potential to go work for America’s business competitors in Canada, Europe, and Asia. The exodus of U.S.-trained STEM professionals has been referred to as reverse brain drain.

The STEM Act of 2012 would reverse this trend. It would establish a program to prioritize green cards for immigrants with graduate-level degrees in the STEM fields. To offset the number of green cards that would be given to the STEM Visa program, the bill would eliminate the diversity lottery green card program, a program that has been repeatedly highlighted as a threat to our national security.

The result is that there would be no net increase in the number of green cards we give out as a Nation. The difference is that we will get immigrants who have the training and the skills that we need to keep American businesses competitive in a globalized and increasingly technical age. In the process, we will eliminate a visa lottery system that’s rife with fraud and abuse and the State Department stated contains significant threats to our national security.

In the Rules Committee meeting last night, some opponents to H.R. 6429 said that fraud and security concerns are the problems and they’ve been fixed. My colleagues were right in that these are old problems, but the State Department inspector general report published in 2003 listed the widespread abuse in the diversity lottery visa program. The inspector general pointed to identity fraud, forged documents, and national security threats. That’s their words.

However, my colleagues were absolutely wrong to say that the problems were fixed. In fact, just two months ago, the GAO released a study discussing the ways the State Department could reduce fraud in our immigration system, and it highlighted the diversity lottery program. Moreover, the STEM Jobs Act does this without putting American jobs at risk.

This legislation includes provisions that would require the petitioning of an employer to submit a job order to the appropriate State workforce agency. The job opening would then be posted in the agency’s official Web site in an effort to publicize available jobs for Americans.

In addition to reforming the green card process for foreign students with advanced STEM degrees, H.R. 6429 also includes provisions that would help reunite families waiting on the immigration process. As it currently stands, family green cards can take 6 or 7 years to process. During these long years, families are separated. A spouse or parent can be living as a permanent resident in the United States while their loved ones wait back home hoping to be reunited somewhere down the line. This legislation would help reduce the time these families need to spend apart without speeding up or preempting the actual green card process.

Provisions contained within the STEM Jobs Act would expand the V nonimmigrant visa program to allow spouses and minor children of permanent U.S. residents to come to the United States to live with their loved ones. They have their own green card waiting list. The bill expressly states that these folks would not be allowed to work, taking jobs away from American citizens, nor would they inherently be entitled to any government programs because of the V visa in and of itself.

Similarly, the expanded V visa program won’t speed up or expedite the green card process in any way. All it does is this: It ensures that families don’t have to live separately and in uncertainty as to when they can be reunited at an unknown time down the line. It brings families back together.
The simple fact is that our current immigration system is ineffective. We educate the world’s best and brightest and then send them away to be our competitors. We only prioritize about 5 percent of our visas based upon what they actually contribute to our economy, as opposed to a system that is subject to widespread abuse and opens up our country to entry of hostile intelligence officers, criminals, and terrorists. We separate spouses, parents, and minor children for unknown years on end.

We can do better with the STEM Jobs Act. It is an important step towards doing better. It makes the American green card process smarter, safer, and more family oriented. It protects American jobs and workers while still supporting the American innovation industry, which is why over 100 major companies and councils have supported H.R. 6429.

I support this rule, and I hope all my colleagues on both sides of the aisle will.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. POLIS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Florida for yielding me the time to talk about, in consideration of this rule and this bill, what it is and what it isn’t.

Here we are with a looming fiscal cliff, and yet Congress has allowed no issue to fester longer than immigration. Whether one is on the left or the right or in the middle, I’m sure my colleague from Florida would agree that whatever we’re doing now in immigration is not working very well. We have over 10 million people here illegally. There are rampant violations of the law. There is lackluster enforcement. Families are torn apart.

What’s before us, regardless of the merits, which we’ll get into in a moment, clearly does not address the problems in our immigration system. Whether this bill becomes law or not, our immigration system will continue to have problems, and there will continue to be over 10 million people here in violation of the law, many working illegally. Those are violations of the law. There is lackluster enforcement. Families are torn apart.

So instead of a solution, we have a bill before us that asks us to weigh two goals of our immigration policy in many ways against one another. There might very well be room for a non-controversial immigration bill that catches up and includes some of the less controversial provisions, including a STEM program, and there could very well be room for that short of comprehensive immigration reform.

I support a amendment on a compressor of the IDEA Act, which does that. I tried to amend into this bill and allow for the consideration of this body yesterday in the Rules Committee a bill that I have for the permanent reauthorization of the EB-5 visa program, a program that is not very controversial and has strong support from both sides but suffers from temporary reauthorizations. This is a critical program for creating jobs in America, and it allows companies to attract capital from investors, and those investors are able to be part of those companies and grow those companies, creating jobs for Americans.

This program could be much more successful if the Rules Committee yesterday had, on a party-line vote, not allowed that amendment to come to the floor. I’m confident that that amendment would have passed with near universal support, and certainly strong support from both sides.

Instead of trying to catch and move forward on some of the less controversial aspects of immigration which in no way, shape, or form, again, prevent the illegal aliens, but instead of even moving forward on the noncontroversial aspects, we have a bill before us that is controversial because it weighs two important goals of immigration against one another. So the question is: What is the Diversity Visa program as the IDEA Act does, as the STAPLE Act, which I’m a cosponsor of with my colleague Congressman FLAKE from Arizona who has introduced it in past sessions, rather than do that, it asks the question of this body: Would we rather have the Diversity Visa concept or would we rather have a STEM Visa concept? In reality, I think many in this body would agree that both are desirable.

Diversity Visas essentially go to immigrants that are from countries other than the main countries that send us immigrants. What are the main countries that send us immigrants? Obviously, Mexico. In addition to that, there are China, Brazil, Bangladesh, Pakistan, Peru, and several others. We have a lot of immigrants from Mexico and these other countries. What the Diversity Visa says is, shouldn’t we also give opportunities to some residents of countries, like the Ukraine or Albania or Ethiopia, and have them also come so that they’re not just crowded out by applicants from Mexico, India, and China? If we don’t have a Diversity Visa, a higher percentage of our immigrants will be from Mexico, India, and China. Now, that’s okay—it’s certainly not the end of the world—but there is value in having immigrants from across the world. There is value in having Ukrainians come to this country. There is value in having Ethiopians. In addition, there is value in having diverse social backgrounds and ethnic backgrounds coming to this country to facilitate assimilation into this country and integration into this country.

I think that it was well thought out in having a concept whereby people who don’t happen to be from Mexico, India, China or the other main countries have a way of getting here. It’s a good program.

So, too, having a STEM visa program is absolutely critical as it is important to our country to make sure that we can retain the talent that we attract to our universities. There is something that is so frustrating to me as an American and to many of our constituents, and I talk about it frequently because I have been with both of our major State universities in Colorado as well as private universities in my district.

Here we are educating people from across the world, and if you look at our engineering grad schools, we see a high number of foreign nationals on student visas. We are educating computer programmers and aerospace engineers with the skills they need to compete in a 21st-century workforce. Upon giving them their master’s degrees or Ph.D.s, well then, do you know what, you’re not allowed to work here in this country. You have to move back to another country and compete against us. Guess what? The jobs follow them. In the digital age, employers care less where an employee of theirs is based, where the talent is. If the best computer programmer is only available for hire or if an aerospace engineer is only available for hire in India or in Mexico or in the U.K., the companies will—and increasingly are—setting up divisions in those countries to hire them rather than hiring here. So the lack of having a STEM job pathway is actively destroying American jobs every day.

Here we are as a body being asked to say under a closed rule, is it more important to have immigrants from countries other than Mexico, India, and China? Is it more important to have some Ukrainians and Ethiopians and Albanians? I use those examples because they are the leading countries that have used the Diversity Visa, but there are a broad number of countries that do. Is that something that’s important? How does its importance compare to making sure that those we train here are able to deploy their talents here and create jobs in America rather than overseas?

Again, it’s a very frustrating proposition in the way the Republicans have chosen to bring this to the floor: a, it obviously doesn’t address the underlying issues of our immigration crisis in this country. It doesn’t change the fact that there are 10 million people here illegally, and it doesn’t prevent people from coming here illegally; b, it asks us to choose between two valuable programs. Rather than simply passing the Staples Act, rather than passing the IDEA Act, it says that we’re going to have to choose as a country to benefit either from STEM graduates or from people from other countries other than Mexico, India, and China. It’s a false dilemma.

There were amendments that were offered by ZOE LOFGREN that would have addressed that which were turned down by the Rules Committee. Again, there were strong bipartisan concepts like EB-5 permanent authorization that I offered, put forward, that were also shut down in committee. In addition, at a time of budget deficits and the looming fiscal crisis, this bill would increase the budget deficit by over $1 billion over the next 5 years; and that is unpaid for as well.

The crisis that immigration can be looked at to reduce our budget deficit, and there are many concepts of comprehensive immigration reform either through fees paid by those who violate the law, penalties paid. Increased taxes going forward for those who would have to pay taxes under immigration reform would actually reduce our deficit; but here we are with a solitary idea around immigration that forces all Members of this body to weigh two valuable programs against one another, and at the same time it costs taxpayers over $1 billion over the next 5 years. It’s a choice that Congress shouldn’t face.

There are also very legitimate concerns that, not only does this bill weigh two valuable programs and asks us to choose, but, in effect, it’s a backdoor way to reduce the number of legal immigrants. There should be no hesitation in saying that, by reducing the number of legal immigrants, we will increase the number of illegal immigrants. This bill will likely increase the number of illegal immigrants to this country because the math doesn’t work.

Now, why doesn’t the math work? The bill purports to offset 55,000 STEM green cards by eliminating 55,000 green cards in the Diversity program. Now, if that were a one-on-one trade, that would be the same net number of immigrants. The issue is, as to our institutions of higher education that give master’s degrees and Ph.D.s in the eligible areas to students on foreign visas, there are only 55,000 foreign students who receive them every year. There were, in fact, 29,904 last year, so about 30,000. There is a backlog so that, after several years, the 55,000 would no longer be able to be met; but then after 3 or 4 years and after the backlog was met, this would likely lead to a reduction in legal immigration and to an increase in illegal immigration because only 29,000 foreign nationals are matriculating with master’s and Ph.D.s in the eligible areas to students on foreign visas; yet, 55,000 visas would be removed from the program that allows Ukrainians, Ethiopians, and people from countries that are not Mexico, India, China, and the other 12 from coming to this country legally.

So, there are concerns about, rather than addressing the issue of illegal immigration, this bill because of the math and because of the numbers that have been brought to my attention could actually increase illegal immigration by legal immigration, which is the last thing that we need to do with regard to solving in a bipartisan way our immigration crisis.

As a former Internet entrepreneur myself and in representing our universities, I know firsthand about the critical need to pass a STEM visa program. Not only would it create more high-paying, high-tech jobs for Americans, but it would produce tax revenues. It would make our country stronger and our economy stronger. Yet rather than take up the IDEA Act or the Staples Act, we’re here with a backdoor attempt by the Republicans to increase the number of immigrants in our country, which I would argue is not the right direction for immigration reform. Immigration reform should be predicated around solving the crisis of illegal immigration. Rather than increasing the number of illegal immigrants from 10 million to 12 million to 14 million, we need to find a way to reduce that number to as close to zero as is feasible, and that should be the goal of immigration reform.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NUGENT. I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. POLIS. It is my honor to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. GUTIERREZ).

Mr. GUTIERREZ. Thank the gentleman from Colorado and distinguished member of the Rules Committee for yielding time to me.

Despite bipartisan support for a clean STEM visa bill, this is a partisan bill that picks winners and losers in our immigration system and requires the elimination of the Diversity Visa program before a single STEM visa can be issued. In other words, we want to pick immigrants we like and then eliminate immigrants we don’t like as though some are better than others. The interesting thing is that most of the Members of the House look back into their own personal histories and find their own family members and ancestors who come from the countries that are being eliminated.

After the historic elections we’ve just witnessed, it flies in the face of our diverse American electorate to pre-condition STEM visas on the elimination of Diversity Visa immigrants, 50 percent of whom come from the continent of Africa. Like STEM graduates, they have much to contribute to the United States.

We’ve seen this poison pill before—pitting immigrant against immigrant—when the House voted down H.R. 6429 under suspension. But it gets worse. Inserted in the new version of the bill is an amendment to the V Visa program that the majority of claims helps families and makes the bill balanced and bipartisan.

Let me be clear: this was not a proviso negotiated with us on the Democratic side. It was negotiated with anti-immigrant groups and extremists in the Republican Party.

H.R. 6429 takes the V visa, a bipartisan visa created more than 10 years ago, and amends it to deny V visa holders eligibility to work and cuts out of the program spouses and minor children already living in the U.S. This backhanded, so-called family fix should offend anyone who truly cares about families.

But the family provisions are even worse than that. Families of STEM visa holders are treated fairly, but the families of “ordinary” green card holders are treated as second class. If you have an undergraduate STEM degree, your spouse and minor children can immediately come to the United States and your spouse is granted a work permit. My colleagues on the other side of the aisle know this. However, if you’re an “ordinary” green card holder, it will take you and your family years to bring your spouse and children to the United States through our regular family immigration channels, you will make your spouse and children wait at least a year before joining you in the U.S., and you will not be able to sponsor them to work once he or she gets here.

I agree that STEM holders should be able to bring their families—their children and their wives or their husbands—and that they should be able to work legally in the United States. However, I resent that the spouses and children of other family-based immigrants are treated differently and unfairly. Apparently Republicans’ devotion to family extends only to families where the principal immigrant is smart enough to earn a Ph.D. or master’s degree in a STEM field, and that is something that I resent. And that is something that all Americans should be able to bring with them. We should not reward one class of individuals and deny another class that’s not so blessed with the opportunity to prove themselves.

Mr. NUGENT. Mr. Speaker, I continue to reserve. to craft sensible, bipartisan legislation on an issue that so many Democrats and Republicans agree on.

H.R. 6412, the Democratic version, requires that employers offer wages to STEM graduates that do not undercut actual wages of U.S.-based workers with similar levels of experience. I have witnessed over the last decade unscrupulous employers who dramatically eroded wages, not for competitive reasons, but solely to transfer wealth from workers to executives. They were successful, and were hungry for jobs and willing to work for nearly any wage. The median household income dropped by $3,700 in that time while executive pay skyrocketed, even as our economy tanked. By contrast, the bill we are debating today does not include wage protections and does not adequately ensure that American workers are protected.

Equally important is that H.R. 6412 preserves the Diversity Visa program, ensuring opportunities to work in our great land. Democrats and Republicans alike have forwarded great wisdom towards this issue. Now is the time to cooperate with one another and craft a truly bipartisan approach to immigration reform that provides for equality of opportunity for all those who seek the benefit of U.S. citizenship.

Mr. NUGENT. Mr. Speaker, I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. POLIS. It is my honor to yield 2½ minutes to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER).

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman’s courtesy for yielding me this time, and I identify with a number of the reservations that he mentioned about this legislation.

A costly, inhumane, and broken immigration system is a shadow over the American landscape. The current system denies the reality of nearly 12 million immigrants, who, for the most part, are already part of the fabric of American life. They work in American business and are often already integrated into existing families.

A consequence of this recent election may well be a new reality on the American political scene when it comes to immigration, a willingness to soften hard-edged positions and move us in a more thoughtful direction. We are already hearing some of these signals from the Senate this week. In a small way, the legislation before us today may provide an additional opportunity to move forward.

I voted against its earlier incarnation—reluctantly—because it was designed to fail. While I will vote today against the rule, tomorrow I will be voting for the legislation which would create the STEM Visa program and give 55,000 green cards a year to baccalaureate or higher degree holders in the science, technology, engineering, and mathematical fields. Dealing with this in regular order is encouraging. The bill was also made marginally better. I think we have an opportunity here for us all to help break this logjam. Creating a STEM Visa program should be a no-brainer.

This legislation is certainly not perfect, and it may raise questions with some of the reservations that have been advanced. Frankly, unless our objections are addressed, it will not pass the Senate. We don’t support the philosophy that immigration needs to be zero sum. We need not eliminate the Diversity Visa program in order to add this program. The Senate, as I said, will fix these provisions, if they take it up at all. Frankly, I hope they do take it up and they do fix it. This would be an important signal to the next Congress that we can and must move forward on broader immigration reform, like the comprehensive immigration reform that Senator McCAIN previously supported with the late-Senator Kennedy.

The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. POLIS. I yield the gentleman an additional 30 seconds.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. America needs to unite families, to protect and give justice to young people, strengthen businesses from high tech to agriculture and help us live up to our ideals as a Nation of immigrants.

A costly, inhumane, and broken immigration system is a shadow over the American landscape. The current system denies the reality of nearly 12 million immigrants, who for the most part are already part of the fabric of American life. They work in American business and are often already integrated into existing families. Strengthening and expanding legal immigration even helps grow our economy. Conservative economists for the Cato Institute project that a comprehensive immigration reform with a pathway to citizenship would add $1.5 trillion to the U.S. economy over 10 years. Unfortunately, rational immigration policy has had to compete with some of the most extreme political cross currents in our country which not only deny our roots, but violate fundamental fairness and reality.

Recent immigration legislation is costly, inefficient, and cruel as it relates to families already here. Young people brought here as children who know no other life and are American in every sense, but are still denied the American dream.

A consequence of the election may well be a new reality on the American political scene when it comes to immigration, a willingness to soften hard-edged positions and move us in a more thoughtful direction.

There have been shifts in public attitude embracing comprehensive solutions for some time, but in the political arena this is a more recent phenomenon. It will take time to do this right, but a willingness by some on the other side of the aisle to offer their own version of the DREAM Act in the Senate, for example, is reason for optimism.

While I strongly support a comprehensive solution that provides a path to citizenship for people who grew up playing by the rules, work hard, pay their taxes, and demonstrate citizenship skills, there are two intermediate steps that should get us moving in the right direction. The DREAM Act and the creation of a STEM visa program should be low-hanging fruit that almost everyone can embrace.

The deferred action announced by the administration to give a sliver of hope to these bright young people who study hard and play by the rules and who are good citizens was a good step, but should only be an action on the DREAM Act. I am proud this was passed by the previous Congress and I hope it will be the first order of business in the new Congress. These young people are the lifeblood of America’s future and we should welcome them and do everything possible to ensure their success.

I will vote for H.R. 6429, the STEM Jobs Act, which creates a STEM visa program and would give 55,000 green cards a year to doctoral and master’s graduates in science, technology, engineering and mathematical fields. I reluctantly voted against this in September because it was brought forward as a last minute suspension bill designed to fail and create unnecessary political divisions. This time, dealing with this in regular order is encouraging. It was also made marginally better. For example, the new version decreases the wait time for certain spouses and children who are planning to join their loved ones with permanent residency in the United States. It also removed a concerning provision that forced STEM visa applicants to commit to working in the United States for five years. While prospects in the Senate are still dim, the most important change has been the willingness of my friends on the other side of the aisle to take another look at immigration and maybe dial down the political rhetoric. I was personally willing to meet them halfway.

Creating a STEM visa program should be a no-brainer. It will make a huge difference in keeping the best and brightest from around the world in the United States. These students come to our colleges and universities to receive the best education available and it is insane to send them back home or to other countries if they want to be here. We have been told that we should staple a green card to every diploma for an advanced degree. We should certainly do whatever is necessary for appropriate verification to ensure national security, but the overwhelming majority should become to reside, to create families, and support businesses right here.

The legislation is certainly not perfect and unless our objection is addressed will not pass the Senate. We need comprehensive immigration overhaul, not a piecemeal approach. I also do not support the philosophy that immigration needs to remain zero-sum: we should not need to eliminate the diversity visa in order to add this program. I am confident the Senate will fix these provisions.

This would be an important signal to the next Congress that we can and must move forward on broader immigration reform. America needs to unite families, to protect and give justice to young people, strengthen business from high-tech to agriculture, and help us live up to our ideals as a Nation of immigrants.

Mr. POLIS. I would like to inquire if the gentleman from Florida has any remarks because I am the last speaker from my side, I yield myself the balance of my time.
As articulated by the gentleman from Oregon, this bill presents a difficult decision for Members of this body, and I certainly have great respect for people on both sides of the issue.

I want to go over, again, some of the pros and cons. The program that allows Ukrainians, Ethiopians, and Albanians to come in to make sure that a small proportionate number of our immigrants are not just from a small number of countries is important. Absent that, a higher percentage of our immigrants will be from Mexico, India, and China. So again, if this bill passes, a higher percentage of our immigrants will be from the major countries that send people here.

Now, it’s not the end of the world, but there’s added value in having people from all corners of the world come here to become part of our great country, and, in many cases, this is the only way that people from Nepal or Albania or Ethiopia have a shot at coming to this country and succeeding.

We also need people in this country across every skill level of our labor market. And whether that labor includes toiling in the field or toiling in downtown buildings at night or programming computers or designing aircraft, we need people across all sectors of our economy—yes, in STEM, but not just in STEM.

So we are asked to choose, asked to choose between people with graduate degrees whom we want to keep here in science, technology, engineering, and math. In many cases, if they’re not allowed to stay, they will have to return to other countries, and the jobs will follow them, costing our country jobs.

Choose between them and allowing people here from countries other than Mexico, India, and China, some of whom are high-skilled, some of whom are low-skilled, a diverse group across the board. Looking back at many of our own forebears, certainly mine, my family came to this country in the late 19th century, and early 20th century, 1890s, 1900s. They didn’t have master’s degrees. They didn’t have Ph.D.s. They didn’t have college degrees. And that’s the case for many of our forebears.

Here today their great-grandson sits as a Member of Congress, and had a program in place whereby they could arrive at Ellis Island and be here, I wouldn’t be here today.

Now, my father has a Ph.D., but that’s the legacy of his hard-working immigrant grandparents that came to this country without a college degree and, in many cases, without something that’s the equivalent of even a high school degree today. To work hard, to live the American Dream, and for their descendents, to be able to serve in this august body.

So it’s a cause for reflection. Both are important. And again, the closed process of the bill doesn’t allow for a discussion of the IDEA Act or the STA-here in this country to support our businesses and our manufacturing so we can be more competitive on a global market. You have made my case on that argument.

I’ll agree with you that this immigration system that we have is broken. I wasn’t going on the record as to when the Democrats were in power in both the House and the Senate and the Presidency, and they moved nothing forward that we’re talking about today.

It’s disappointing when you have all the levels of government and you don’t accomplish anything as it relates to this. And now we want to turn it around and say that this is a flawed bill. At the end of the day, this meets the needs of our corporations of creating more jobs here in America, about putting more people to work, and it also rectifies an issue on the Diversity Visa program in regards to instead of having families split because someone has a legitimate green card as a resident here, that he has to be split or she has to be split from their family. The mother, children or the children are kept from coming in the United States. Because today, the way the program is, they are kept from coming to the United States. So they don’t have an opportunity to get a job, anywhere.

But what this does do is it rectifies a problem that allows parents to be reunited with their children. I don’t know, but that’s important to me as a father of three. I would much rather have my family here if I was a resident alien here. I would rather have my family here so I could reach out and touch them and help encourage them and move them forward in the American principles—that’s what I would want to do—versus trying to talk about great distances to try to bring a family together. That’s no way to raise a family. But they do it because they have to. This rectifies that problem. While it doesn’t allow them to go out and get a job, it brings the family unit back together again. I know, Mr. Polis, you have a son. You would rather have your son with you than a thousand miles away, as I would.

So this is a step in the right direction. This is moving us forward, not moving us backwards. This is actually taking an approach that should have been taken 4 years ago, and the Democrats punted it down the field. In September, we voted on this initial STEM bill and we had 30 Democrats across the aisle vote with us. We didn’t meet the threshold of two-thirds because it was under suspension.

I truly believe that this bill has the ability to cut across the aisle. And we heard our good friend from Oregon talk about it—for the right reasons. Just because it’s not perfect doesn’t mean we should just throw it in the scrap heap. And I agree that we can pass this bill and send it to the Senate. The Senate has the option to bring it up, debate it, vote on it, amend it, and send it back to the House. Do your job. I agree that that’s what they should do. At least have the discussion. When the Senate comes out and says, “We’re going to ignore everything, we’re doing anything with it, that’s a disservice to the American public, it’s a disservice to those that create jobs, and those Americans that need jobs.”

You talk about a zero sum game. This is not a way to reduce immigration. I don’t know where my good friend got the numbers about how this is going to increase the number of illegal immigrants to this country. I’ve never heard that before. I’ve never seen anything in writing as relates to that. I’m not saying it’s not true, but I don’t know that. I think it just sounds like a good number. What we don’t want to do is scare people to be opposed to something that’s good for America. Sometimes, common sense and Washington, D.C., are vast worlds apart.

While looking at this, it’s just a small, commonsense reform to our immigration policy. But it does do—is addresses a dangerous Diversity Visa problem. Even the former Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Visa Services testified in front of the Judiciary Committee that visa lottery fraud is widespread. And it does do, it does address a dangerous Diversity Visa problem.

For example, one third-party agent in Bangladesh entered every single name from a phone book in Bangladesh into the lottery system in order to extort money. If your name got pulled he would go to you and extort money. So you can come to the United States, or guess what? Sell that winning slot to someone else. That’s not what the whole program was designed for. I would suggest to you that what’s coming from foreign countries come across the board. We have them from China, we have them from the Ukraine, as you like to keep pointing out, and from all over the world to come to our universities, particularly in the STEM degrees, advanced degrees. So I would suggest to you that you’re going to continue that diversity by getting people that have gone to the max that are going to be so productive here in America to help us. It’s not a sum game. It’s just a rational game.

I really wish that I knew that if we passed this today, that it would become law. The President has already kind of said he wouldn’t sign it. I don’t know how you can have it both ways, Mr. Speaker. When we talk about STEM, those individuals who have come to our universities and graduate with a degree in those STEM sciences, and they are the ones that’s good for those green card holders that are currently here in the United States, bringing their families together so they can become productive in whatever sense their family decides. Wouldn’t we want to do that? I would want to do that. I want to see families reunited, not split apart, not kept because of some arcane rule that’s going to take them 6 or 7 years, maybe, to get a green card so they can bring their families here in the United States. Where this would allow them to come 1 year after being on the waiting list, they get the opportunity to come here and be reunited with their family.

For all that we hear about Democrats are always for families, this time I guess they’re not. This time I guess because they’re from some other country, maybe they’re just not that important. They are to me. I think it’s important. Here’s where the Republicans are stepping forward on an immigration issue that’s good for America, it’s good for the people that are currently here on green cards legally. It allows them to reinvest. How can this be bad for America? Is it because it’s a Republican idea? Is that the reason why this is a bad piece of politics? I would hope not. I would hope that my colleagues across the aisle will be like Mr. Blumenauer from Oregon and look at the real merits of it.

While not perfect in any sense of the word, as is any legislation that comes out of this place, at least it’s a move and a step in the right direction. And let the Senate do their job. Let the Senate bring it up. Let the Senate vote on it and amend it and send it back to the House. Let the Senate for once do their job. And then, Mr. President, you can make a decision whether you’re going to veto it or not. But let’s quit playing politics with immigration.

Mr. Speaker, I do want to thank my good friend from Colorado because we agree on so many issues as it relates to this. We just don’t agree on everything. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The previous question was ordered.

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to oppose H. Res. 821, the Rule providing for the consideration of H.R. 6429 "STEM Jobs Act," a bill which eliminates the Diversity Visa Program.

In my district, 145,000 people, representing about 20 million with family members included, registered late last year for the 2012 Diversity Visa Program under which only 50,000 visa Diversity Visa recipients go through the same immigration, criminal, and national security background checks that all people applying for Lawful Permanent Residence undergo. They also are interviewed by State Department and Department of Homeland Security personnel.

FRAUD

Since the State Department OIG first raised concerns about fraud in 1993, significant changes have been made. In 2004, State implemented an electronic registration system. This allows State to use facial and name recognition software to identify duplicate applications and to share data with intelligence and law enforcement agencies for necessary immigration and security checks.

In 2012 there was an incident where 20,000 people were erroneously notified that they were finalists in the Diversity program. They would have the opportunity to enter the lottery. The OIG investigated and found this was due to a computer error. There was no evidence of intentional fraud, as a safety precaution and because of the principle of fairness the State Department did the lottery again.

The Diversity Visa program has led the way in applying cutting edge technology to reduce fraud and increase security. The program was one of the first in the government to use facial recognition software to analyze digital graphs.

I join the vast majority of my Democratic colleagues in supporting an expansion of the stem visa program. H.R. 6412 attempt to increase security...
Iran’s mullahs shipped long-range rockets into Sudan, sent them up into Egypt before smuggling them through tunnels and assembling them in Gaza. Israel responded by doing the only thing a responsible nation should do: It defended itself. Now the United States needs to show there are consequences for attacking this sovereign nation, consequences for Hamas and Iran, as well.

We should have stricter enforcement of sanctions against Iran. Iran and Hamas both need to be held accountable for these attacks. Israel had the moral right and legal duty to defend itself from attacks by the barbarians, Hamas. There is a ceasefire, but only until Hamas obtains more Iranian missiles.

Hamas is the puppet, and Iran is the puppeteer. The Iranian regime needs to go. The Iranian people need to rid themselves of the little fellow from the desert, Ahmadinejad, and his ways of war.

And that’s just the way it is.
the 112th Congress. Representing the people of the 13th District of Illinois has been the great honor of my lifetime. Words cannot express the depth of gratitude I feel to my friends, colleagues, supporters, and staff who have made this experience both challenging and fulfilling. I recall the first time that I stepped out onto the House floor as a Member of this great body and said to myself, How did I end up in the U.S. Congress, surrounded by the legendary great leaders?

Growing up on the south side of Chicago, I never expected to become a lawyer or a school board president, much less a Member of Congress. At the time, few women went to college, let alone law school. Today, I know the path here was often the same for all who have walked these Halls. We are just Americans who love our communities and our country and who found ourselves pursuing that love through service to others. Even among those who have come to eye, I know that we share a passion for creating a better future for the next generation and that there has always been enough to bridge any gap that divides us. Maybe that’s why I’ve always been known as a moderate. I like to assume the best about people with whom I disagree, at least until they prove me wrong. Thankfully, I can say without question that I’ve rarely been wrong, which is why my faith in this country and its future has never wavered.

But listening is the key. Lawmakers must listen to those around them as one American to another, as neighbors with shared values and without assuming that any difference of opinion is evidence of greed, ignorance, or malice. I was fortunate. I learned that lesson early. Maybe it was because I was the only female Republican in my freshman class here. All of my colleagues, chairmen and ranking members seemed eager to say hello and come with a smile and sage advice. Their advice served me well, and, in turn, it allowed me to serve my constituents better. My hope is that our incoming class of lawmakers follows a similar path and that they come to Washington ready to learn from those around them and to benefit from the diversity of backgrounds and experiences that can be found here in the Capitol.

Because we face great challenges—the economy, immigration, the debt, Social Security, and Medicare—on these items and more we must find the answers soon if we hope to keep our country on a path to prosperity. Those solutions will only materialize if the Members of Congress take a chance, work together, and care more about results than sound bites or the next election. Equally important, they must be willing to take a walk a few hundred feet to the other side of the rotunda. The House and the Senate are two sides of the same coin, and yet they have never seemed further apart. My proudest moments as a Member of Congress have all been as the result of collaboration. My work to keep homeless kids in school, to bar genetic discrimination, or to reform the Nation’s Flood Insurance Program were all signed into law after extensive personal conversations with Members of the upper Chamber. Yet, our personal conversations in the House, but they alone cannot maintain communications between the two greatest deliberative bodies in the world. It’s up to all of us, and it will be up to all of you.

So, Mr. Speaker, my advice is to work together across the aisle and across the Capitol. I urge my colleagues to stay close to their voters and true to their principles, but to never let “compromise” become a dirty word. That’s what our constituents want; that’s what America needs; and that’s what has made these last 14 years the source of great joy in my life, none of which, I should add, would have been possible without my wonderful staff.

Before I close, I must give thanks to these individuals who have been with me for months or years and who have never let up in their service to the residents of the 13th Congressional District of Illinois. From casework, to flag requests, to building roads or to passing laws, my staff has taken every challenge in stride, has brought out the best in me, and has done it all without ever seeking recognition, praise, or a raise.

I also want to thank the great committee staff with Financial Services, with Education and the Workforce, and with Science, Space, and Technology, as well as the team at Ethics, with whom I worked for several years. Also, thank you to the unappreciated staff here on the House floor, who always keeps the debate moving forward.

Most of all, I would like to thank Kathy Lyndon, the best chief of staff and friend that a Member of Congress could ask for. Without her, I would not be here; and without her, I would not have been able to assemble one of the smartest and most capable staffs in Washington.

So, thank you. Thank you to my colleagues, my staff, my friends, my family, my supporters, and even my critics who have helped me to grow, to learn, and to serve the people of Illinois. I have always viewed public service as a privilege, not a career, and you have all made this the fondest privilege of my life.

Mr. HOYER. Will the gentlelady yield?

Mrs. BIGGERT. I yield to the gentleman from Maryland.

Mr. HOYER. I thank the gentlelady for yielding.

Mr. HOYER. Will the gentlelady yield?

Mrs. BIGGERT. I yield to the gentleman from Maryland.

Mr. HOYER. I thank the gentlelady for yielding.

I was in the cloakroom having some lunch, and I heard the gentlelady’s right-on-point remarks, Judy, about you and your service.

I want to say to the gentlelady from Illinois, my experience with her, I think you definitely brought legislation to the country that was of value, and I just want to thank the gentlelady from Illinois.

Mrs. BIGGERT. I thank you. The minority whip, so much for those comments. That really is very kind of you, and I appreciate it.

Mr. HOYER. Thank the gentlelady.

Mrs. BIGGERT. I yield to the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. PERLMUTTER).

Mr. PERLMUTTER. I just wanted to echo Mr. HOYER’s comments. You and I have served together on the Financial Services Committee. We have worked together on legislation that I was proposing and that you were proposing, and working with you was always a pleasure and an honor. I always appreciated the knowledge you would bring to all of these different discussions; and the fact that you were willing to work with me in such a fashion, that helped bring me along as a Member of Congress. I think you definitely brought legislation to the country that was of value, and I just want to thank the gentlelady from Illinois.

Mrs. BIGGERT. I thank you. The gentleman, I will always think of you as the green man from Colorado.

Now I would like to yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania, Mr. TODD PLATTS, who is also retiring.

Mr. PLATTS. I thank the gentlelady.

Before commenting on my own retirement, I want to thank the gentlemen from Colorado and Maryland, Mr. PERLMUTTER and Mr. HOYER, and their right-on-point remarks, Judy, about you and your service.

We have sat together for the last 12 years on the Education Committee working on education issues and children’s issues. You’ve been such a great leader on the issue of homeless children and the importance of us doing right by them in the education arena even though they were homeless—and maybe all the more important that we do right by them.

When we hear the terms “statesman” or “public servant,” you epitomize... both, Judy, it has been a great privilege to work with you.

As I think back to arriving 12 years ago, one, it is hard to believe it has been 12 years since first coming here. My decision about a year ago, January of this year, to step down was not an easy one, but it’s one that I felt was the right decision for me. I’ve always been one who believed in 12-year term limits and thought I’ve got to live what I preach as a servant, as a public official. But you make most importantly as a dad, that I needed to set a good example to my sons, Tom and TJ, that they saw me living up to my word and that my actions backed up my words. So while it wasn’t an easy decision to decide to leave this great Chamber, I believe it was the right one.

But it has been such a privilege to represent the people of Pennsylvania’s 19th Congressional District—Adams, Cumberland, and York counties; Gettysburg, Carlisle, and York, the county seats of the three counties in my district—and the fact that 12 years ago the citizens of this district said, Todd, we trust you to represent our interests in Washington. And to allow me to return for five more terms after that first term is pretty remarkable.

And it speaks volumes to me about what truly a land of opportunity we are. As a kid growing up, that I would be given this opportunity, it only happens in America. I’m one who’s known that I wanted to do this since I was 12; I’ve often been asked, What made you want to serve in Congress at such an early age?

I point first to my mom and dad, Babs and Dutch Platts, just average citizens, middle class family. Dad was a mechanical engineer; Mom was a stay-at-home mom, park director, a lot of odd jobs that were part time to make sure that she could be hands on with all five of us kids. They were not active politically other than always voting and taking us with them to vote when they would go, but they were so active in the community. They were community servants, teaching Sunday school, coaching Little League baseball. In fact, I had the privilege to coach my sons for about 10 years on the same fields that my dad coached three of us Platts sons way back when; Mom running the school candy sales. They gave all five of us children—I’m the fourth—a wonderful example to follow, that if you want to live in a great Nation and a great community, you need to do your part. You need to be engaged and be involved. So they gave me the example of service, and then it was my eighth grade social studies teacher by the name of Earl Lucius, who passed away just shy of 2 years ago, who encouraged taking that community service example of my parents and to make it a public service career.

So as I left eighth grade and Mr. Lucius’ class and got ready to enter high school, I joined the Teenage Republicans as a ninth grader and volunteered on my first campaign. It was Jerry Ford running for reelection for President, John Heinz for the United States Senate, and Bill Goodling for his first reelection to represent the 19th Congressional District of Pennsylvania. Pretty eerie, 24 years later, after volunteering as a ninth grader, that’s who I succeeded. When he retired after 26 years here in the people’s House, I had the privilege to succeed him. But I have known ever since then that this is what I wanted to do.

So first, I thank the citizens of the district for allowing me this privilege and for giving me their trust. Certainly I could not have served the citizens back home without a tremendous staff in the district, as well as here in Washington. I have been blessed with just true public servants. When we would hire, I never asked what their party registration was or anything about their politics other than, Why do you want to serve in the 19th District in particular? So, thanks to all of my staff, to my personal staff in the district and down here, and to the committee staff. I’ve had the privilege to chair a subcommittee on Oversight and Government Reform for many years, and have been blessed in the past and present with a great staff there as well.

But the one thing I would emphasize is we call this the people’s House, and I look at it that way for a number of reasons. One is the only way you get here is if you’re elected. You can be a Senator, you can be Vice President, you can be President and never be elected to those positions. Jerry Ford, never elected Vice President and President, served in both Houses. You can serve in the Senate, but here, if there’s a vacancy, you have to wait until the people decide. So we’re the people’s House. But also because we’re a great representation of the people of this great country.

The approach and how I got here, it was because of the people of the 19th District. When I leave, it’s my understanding that I’m the last Member of the House or Senate, other than a couple of self-funders, who rely solely on individual contributions—no special interest money, no PAC contributions. I’ve never had a paid television commercial in any campaign. I’ve never had a paid pollster in any campaign. It’s been about volunteers going door to door with me spreading the word. I think back to that first campaign 12 years ago when over 500 volunteers came out in 1 day and stuffed a 115,000-piece mailing for me. And not only did they come and volunteer and spend about 10 hours in one day doing that work for us, but they also brought their own food and fed themselves because we were a low-budget campaign, then and now.

We didn’t have money to buy them food, so it was kind of like a church supper where everybody brings a dish and we’ll have food, we’ll get some good work done. But the people of the 19th district is what allowed me to come here. That first campaign I was outspent 5–1, 3–1, 2–1, and because of the people, I’ve been allowed to serve and represent the last 12 years, and I will be forever grateful for that.

Before I wrap up, I’d be very remiss if I didn’t recognize my family. My wife, Leslie, well, we celebrated 22 years of marriage this past July. In fact, in my first campaign in 1990, I went door-to-door in 20 of those 8 in the State House, 12 here. And so this is our first election year in 22 years where we weren’t campaigning, going door to door. And I certainly would not be standing here as a Member of the United States House of Representatives but for her great love and support over all these years, along with our sons, T.J. and Tom, and my extended family.

Mom and Dad. Dad passed away my first year here in Congress, but Babs, Dutch, Mark, and Craig; and sisters, Pam and Jill; and my sons, Tom and T.J., who have made so many sacrifices while I’ve been allowed to serve in this position from a time standpoint of being away and playing ball games here or there. But because of their support, and that love and support of my family, and the support and trust of my constituents, I’ve been allowed this great privilege.

I’ll leave here with a heavy heart, because I’m still passionate about what we do. I’ll leave here with great friends on both sides of the aisle, Republican, Democrats, from all corners of this great country. It’s been such a privilege to serve with these true public servants.

I’m going to share one final story that kind of captures what I think is great about our country and the fact that I’ve been allowed to serve here. When my dad passed away my first year in Congress, I had just, about a month earlier, had the privilege of introducing my parents to President Bush for the first time. In fact, the last picture of my dad before his passing is a picture of my mom and dad with me and President Bush taken up on the edge of my district in Pennsylvania.

Dad passes away. I get a note from the President expressing his sympathies, having just met my dad. But because I’m still passionate, President Bush was here in the Capitol with us in caucus and meeting with all the House Republicans. And when it was over, we all scattered and went back to our offices, wherever it may be.

As I’m leaving the Capitol Building to go back to Longworth House Office Building, I hear applause up here in the rotunda. And I come up, and this was pre-9/11, and the President’s just going down a rope line, shaking hands with all the visitors to the Capitol the day before. So some of us in the gallery were just getting to meet the President of the United States by good timing of being in the Capitol.
I'm standing at the House side of the rotunda with Bill Livingood, our then-Sergeant at Arms, and the President stopped and said hello to Bill, said hello to me, and invited me to walk out to the motorcade with him. And the subcommittee was the day of the passing of my dad and how he dreads the thought of some day losing his dad. And, thankfully, President Bush 41, 88 and I know in the hospital right now, but hopefully still going strong.

But in this amazing conversation, one, President Bush, a new President showing concern for a freshman House Member and my family and how my mom and I were doing with the loss of my dad and my mom's husband. But it also spoke volumes about what an amazing country in which we live.

My dad was one of nine kids who grew up in a row house in the city of York during the Depression. Five boys, four girls. Five boys in one bedroom, four girls in the second, Grandma and Grandpa, his mom and dad, in the third.

The fact that his passing was the subject of a conversation between the President of the United States and a Congressman who happened to be his son speaks volumes about us being truly a land of opportunity. That this kid from a typical middle class family has been allowed to serve here for 12 years, it's just amazing about what we stand for, that if you are willing to work hard and follow your dreams, they can come true.

So to the people of the 19th District of Pennsylvania, I say thank you for allowing this now 50-year-old's dreams to come true many years ago as a State representative and then ultimately as a United States Congressman. I will be forever grateful and would tell you that while I'll be a proud Republican, most importantly, every time I entered the Chamber, I came into this Chamber, as our men and women in uniform do every day on the front lines of democracy, as a proud American, foremost.

I think they give us the example, and that’s there all the time I think it’s wonderful, but it has also been really difficult.

Mr. PLATTS. It’s one of the blessings, Judy, that I’ve been allowed, because of my district, about 100 miles each way, in my 12 years serving here, while I’ve been honored to work here, I’ve been blessed to live at home all but 12 nights, or maybe 13 nights that I couldn’t go back home. But being able to go back and see the children, to start every day and end every day with them kept me grounded. And it’s one of the sacrifices that, as you know, and our colleagues, the families of Members make a tremendous sacrifice, because I know the fellow Pennsylvania. There’s a couple of Maryland and Virginias, but most Members have to be away all week or relocate their families here, so it is a tremendous family commitment.

But you’re right. As I say, my kids, when I walk in the door, they don’t care if I was meeting with the President of the United States or working whatever issue. Dad, get rid of the coat and tie. We’re late for practice. Let’s go. Kids do a good job of keeping our priorities straight.

Mrs. BIGGERT. I also thank you for the experiences we’ve had working together on the Education Committee and being the Bermuda Triangle that we always laughed about sitting on our side with Tom Osborne. We made a nice triangle to put things like vouchers in there. They go away, but they wouldn’t come back.

Mr. PLATTS. And public education, and one of our colleagues who we both had the privilege to serve under when he was chair of our committee as well. Mrs. BIGGERT. So thank you.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Will the gentlewoman yield?

Mrs. BIGGERT. Yes, I will yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I want to thank the gentlewoman for yielding to me, to be independent. And I think education is where it all starts in this most important committee. Thank you.

Mr. PERLMUTTER. If the gentlelady would yield to me one more time, as to Mr. PLATTS, he introduced me to about a half a dozen military installations in the Far East on the fastest moving trip I have ever been on; and that was a year and a half ago and I’m still tired from how quickly and how much energy he put into this trip to expose me to the needs of our troops throughout the Far East.

Again, your respect on both sides of the aisle is well known. Your energy is well known. And thank you for your service.

Mrs. BIGGERT. I appreciate that. Thank you.

Mr. PLATTS. If the gentlelady will yield, I would add it’s been a great privilege to serve with you here and to travel. You’ll enjoy a story from that trip when we were visiting the Special Forces in the Philippine Islands. This past September, I was at my local fair in York, Pennsylvania, and I ran into one of those Special Forces members that’s from my district that we had met and had just left the military and they were ready to go back to school. But we were reminiscing about our trip to visit him and his fellow special operators on that trip.
It was great to travel and to serve with you, and I wish you great success as you continue to serve the State of Colorado with great fashion.

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Thank you.

Mr. PLATT’S. I thank the gentlelady again for the time she’s allowed me here today.

Mrs. BIGGERT. Thank you.

I yield 1 minute to Mr. YODER.

CONGRATULATING KANSAS HOUSE SPEAKER MICHAEL O’NEAL

Mr. YODER. I thank the gentlelady from Illinois for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to salute the legacy of service and dedication of my friend, Kansas Speaker of the House Michael O’Neal. After 28 years, Mike has decided to retire from public service to the people of Kansas. He leaves behind a history of courageous leadership in making smart public policy on behalf of all Kansans.

Mike spent his career in the Kansas House notably chairing the Judiciary Committee and the Education Committee before eventually being elected by his colleagues twice as Kansas speaker of the house. While Mike’s career in the people’s house in Kansas will be remembered for his many notable legislative achievements, his most prominent legacy may be the wonderful friendships and relationships he built along the way. Many of us consider Mike a mentor and true friend, someone you can always count on—a rare quality in politics today.

So as the gavel falls for the last time and Kansas Speaker of the House Mike O’Neal closes this chapter of service on behalf of so many appreciative Kansans, I would like to thank him for his 28 years of tireless service to make Kansas the best State in the Nation.

Rock Chalk, Mr. Speaker.

Mrs. BIGGERT. We have no other Members that are here so I would just like to say, again, thanks so much to my colleagues, and particularly my family. Some have been with me these entire 14 years and some have arrived after the start of the 14 years. To my friends and my supporters who have helped me really to grow and to learn and to serve the people of Illinois, it’s been a real honor and a privilege. Public service is something that is such a privilege and honor, and I think that this has been the greatest privilege of my life, to have been a Member of the U.S. House of Representatives.

With that, I yield back the balance of my time.

THE PROGRESSIVE CAUCUS

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. YODER). Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 5, 2011, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. ELLISON) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. ELLISON. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

My name is KEITH ELLISON, cochair of the Progressive Caucus along with my good friend, RAÚL GRIJALVA. I want to come before the body today. Mr. Speaker, with the Progressive message. The Progressive message is a message that the Progressive Caucus shares with people. The progressive message is very simple. It’s a basic idea that America, this great land of ours, is big enough, has enough, has enough abundance for everybody, and we have natural resources which should be respected, and we should live in harmony and promote a green economy and should have civil and human rights for all people.

In the Progressive message we say that we would promote dialogue and diplomacy before we ever find ourselves in military conflicts. The Progressive message is about an inclusive America—all colors, all cultures, all faiths, an America that says if you live in this country and you want to work hard, the economy should be robust and broad enough and fair enough for you to make a good run in this economy. If you work 40 hours a week, you ought to be able to feed your family. You shouldn’t have to resort to public assistance. It’s talking about standing up for the rights of labor, the rights of working men and women, the right to be able to go to the doctor, the right to look forward to a decent and fair retirement, the right to be able to see that your children will be able to get a good education that can see them through. In the Progressive message is the message of an inclusive America that makes sure that our economic and our environmental lives are strong, healthy, and affirming.

We contrast this with another vision—a vision of a divided America, where not everybody counts and not everybody matters; an America in which labor and management are fighting and there’s no peace; an America where there’s not full inclusion of LGBT Americans or Americans who are trying to join America through immigration—a not fully inclusive America; an America in which women have to worry about their right to be able to seek out contraception or seek out equal pay for equal work. This is the America that we don’t embrace. The America that we embrace embraces equality, inclusion, and opportunities.

Now where are we today? We are in the middle of a national conversation which is playing itself right here in Congress that has to do with the so-called fiscal cliff. I’m not going to use that term anymore because we’re actually not on a cliff. What we are on is a set of important deadlines that we should meet and we should work at. But this imagery of a cliff and of falling over something and plummeting downward is false, and we should stop using this analogy. I know the press likes it because it adds drama. Of course, the press thrives on drama. But in truth, there are some important deadlines we should meet. But we should not surrender our deeply held views simply to get any deal done. The deal we should do should be a fair deal, it should be a deal for all, and it should be a deal that meets our most important priorities. But it should not be some force-fed thing that we accept simply because we fear going over this cliff that really does not exist.

You can refer to it as a set of deadlines. That’s the best way to put it. That’s what it actually is. And if you don’t meet a deadline, then, of course, there are consequences to not meeting deadlines. And you want to avoid them. But at the same time, this idea that we’ve got to put up with anything that the other side may offer because we’re facing a cliff is a concept that I reject, and I hope the American people reject, Mr. Speaker, because that’s not really what is going on. We have a set of deadlines that we should meet. And everybody in this body should work earnestly, sincerely, and in good faith to compromise. But in terms of just accepting some higher tax rate on the money they make after $250,000 a year.

We also believe that there’s more that can be done. Closing loopholes. People say, well, let’s talk about that tonight too. But we see the Bush tax cuts expiring for everybody. We see the production tax credit expiring—which is something important for people who work in the wind industry and in the area of industry that promotes environmental matters. We also see the expiration of things like the estate tax, the SGR—which is the doctor fix for Medicare. We also see the sequestration, which is the outcome, the final outcome of the Budget Control Act that we passed in August 2011 which is now coming due. There will be equal defense and discretionary spending cuts on both sides, which will inflict damage. So all these things are happening at the same time, and so the same question is going to be asked: How will this budget entanglement be resolved? Will it be resolved on the backs of people who can least afford it, or will the people who can best afford it be asked to help out?

So it’s within this context, Mr. Speaker, that I come before you with the Progressive message today to try to bring some clarity to our listening to C-SPAN today about what the real issues are, what we have to avoid, and what we have to fight for.
I submit, Mr. Speaker, that this deal that is being considered right now by the U.S. Congress and the American people—and of course the President—is still something that is subject to being changed and altered depending upon how vigorously people are willing to advocate for what they believe is right. So I would talk about that today. I don’t want to call it the fiscal crisis—that will be the last time I use that term—because it’s not that, but there are serious fiscal issues that we should address.

Now, I want to talk about a few things that we should not be discussing and don’t need to be talking about, and one of them is Social Security. Social Security does not contribute to the deficit. It’s not expiring. There’s no reason we have to deal with Social Security right now. It is one of those things that some people—who never liked Social Security, by the way, called it socialism even—want to change and have been wanting to change for decades, and so they create this imagery of crisis coming at the end of the year. Then what they’re trying to do is say, well, we’ve got to change Social Security because of the so-called “fiscal cliff”—although it’s not that. And so this is something that really shouldn’t be on the table.

I want to encourage folks to really discuss and get the facts, Mr. Speaker, because Social Security is solvent through 2037. Does it need to be fixed? Yeah, but not like there is significantly more money going out than coming in. But when you look at all the money that is owed to Social Security and you have the interest payments that are being made on it, it more than pays for itself for now. There are some things that could be done into the future that are not an emergency. It doesn’t have to be done this second.

Social Security is probably more solvent than a whole bunch of businesses and government. To try to throw Social Security into the mix at this time is a big mistake. I believe, Mr. Speaker, it’s being done because people who have been wanting to change it for decades and decades and decades want to create the idea of a crisis and then use that crisis to get Members to vote for something that is not well considered.

I insist on any changes to Social Security being well considered. I insist that any-fledged debate on Social Security, not this fiscal mess that we’re working through right now. But let Social Security be considered on its own freestanding basis, and if changes need to be made, we make them. But just to sort of argue that in order to solve this fiscal crisis that we’re facing with these ending deadlines, these expiring deadlines, because of that we’ve got to deal with Social Security, Mr. Speaker, I think the American people should reject that idea.

I have brought this issue to people who say, Well, what are we going to do about Social Security? I say, Well, we’re going to continue to have Social Security. Well, we’ve got to change it. We have the fiscal crisis coming up, don’t we have to change Social Security? No, we don’t. It doesn’t add to the deficit. In fact, if any changes need to be made to it, they need to be on their own, from their own, from their own.

Social Security is one of the greatest programs this country has ever produced. It helps literally millions and millions of senior citizens and people who are disabled and their survivor benefits. It’s a great program, and we should continue to support that program. We don’t need to mess with it. When we do want to reform it, it needs to be something that will preserve benefits for people and allows the program to continue. It’s a solid program, and it doesn’t need to be in these budget entanglements. I hope Americans really get the facts.

Some people say, Well, okay, you’re right, Social Security doesn’t add to the deficit. Why are you bringing it up any way. Okay, well, let’s talk about it for a minute anyway even though it shouldn’t be considered. Here’s what could be said, Mr. Speaker, by someone who wants to defend the excellent program known as Social Security.

They might say, Well, shouldn’t we raise the retirement age? Again, it’s an irrelevant conversation to this problem. But if they want to go down that road you can tell them, Look, we don’t need to do that because, firstly, people who are running jackhammers or people who are on their feet for their whole working life—nurses, firefighters, people who really use their bodies to earn a living—it’s just not fair to them when you say we’re going to raise the retirement age.

If you’ve been a nurse picking up patients and walking, walking, walking for 30, 40 years, now all of a sudden to move it to 70, that’s just not fair to them. If you’re just a white collar worker, that might be a little different, but the truth is it’s going to be a big rule that everybody has to abide by, and it’s not fair to a number of people, so we’re against it.

Here’s another reason—even the more important reason—why messing with Social Security that way is the wrong thing to do.

As you know, Mr. Speaker, over the last number of years we’ve seen our 401(k)s go to what? 201(s). We’ve seen American savings rates go down. We used to talk about a three-legged stool when it came to retirement: one, Social Security; two, the money you save yourself; three, the money you get from your job.

The money that we get from our jobs, we have seen pensions, guaranteed pensions become almost a thing of the past. Some people still have them—God bless them—and most workers are having to bear the risk of their own retirement through a 401(k) plan. If the market has been down, as it has been, people’s retirement savings—or at least one-third of what they were counting on—is diminished in a very significant way.

The other thing, private savings have gone down. A few years ago before the financial crisis hit in 2006 we had a say—Wayne and I—to-people of people which meant people were not saving. So here we are when we’re having one of the largest age cohorts in American history moving into their golden years, when they’re expecting to retire, their retirement (k) is a 201(k) and their pension from their own personal savings has gone down, and now we’re going to tell them, your Social Security, you can’t really count on that anymore. This is a problem.

We have a problem with retirement in America today. People aren’t ready for it. This is the wrong time to take that one solid leg on what we used to call a three-legged stool and start talking on it and making it less strong than it was before. The fact is, raising the retirement age means lessening benefits for people—who people need it, many of them who have been working hard at jobs all their lives—and it’s wrong to do it.

As I said before, Mr. Speaker, as we talk about this fiscal entanglement, these expiring deadlines that we’re coming up on right now, Social Security shouldn’t be part of the conversation. Anybody who brings up Social Security in this conversation ought to be asked why they’re bringing up things that are irrelevant to resolving these expiring deadlines that are coming up between now and the end of the year. Why do they want to bring up stuff that doesn’t have to do with these expiring deadlines? If it doesn’t have to do with sequestration and it doesn’t have to do with the 2001/2003 tax cuts that are expiring, then what are we discussing it for? It’s a distraction from what we should be devoting our time to.

Now, Mr. Speaker, you’re also going to have people who like to use the term “entitlement.” I resent the term “entitlement” because entitlement kind of suggests that, well, this is just something we’re giving to you. No, this is an earned benefit, Social Security, and it should not be referred to as an entitlement.

Mr. Speaker, I hope that people begin to defend Social Security and say, Look, don’t call my Social Security an entitlement. I’ve worked my whole life for this, and I’m not about to just say it’s some sort of entitlement, that it’s some sort of a thing that somebody’s handing to me.

I just want to say that I think people need to defend Social Security. They need to stand up for it. They need to explain that it’s part of this fiscal mess that we’re in. It’s not part of the expiring deadlines that we’re seeing happening right now, and we should... not deal with it here. They should defend it by saying that people’s retirement security has significantly diminished over the last number of years, and now is not the time to start cutting benefits to Social Security. And more than that, it should make it clear that Social Security is the best program, perhaps one of the best programs our government has ever come up with. We’re going to get more into the expiring deadlines that we see coming up in the next few weeks.

But Mr. Speaker, I want to yield to my good friend from the great State of Texas, SHEILA JACKSON LEE, a stalwart member of the Progressive Caucus. She is totally reliable and can be counted on to stand up for the American working people.

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. I thank the distinguished gentleman. And, of course, who could help but listen to that very potent message. And we are better for it. And that you and the distinguished gentleman from Arizona have come together again to—I call it standing in the gap and reinfusing to individuals who have never walked these Halls.

The thing I want to just reinforce very briefly is how much all of us who have the privilege of walking these august Halls, sometimes on occasion looking at those ornate murals and recognizing the historic features and the history of this body, the largest democracy but the longest democracy, extending democracy in the world, that is the United States of America. And for this place called the House of Representatives, this honored place to be called the people’s House is for the very reason that we are the defenders. We are those who will stand in the gap. We will be there when others cannot and when others’ voices cannot be heard.

So let me give you a picture of America because, for some reason, if we are not tied to the latest social media or maybe to our favorite cable stations, we can’t imagine what happens across America, from California to New York, from the furthest State going to the North to our southern friends, including the great State of Texas.

Every morning, every morning some family, some single mother, some single dad, some mother and father rise at 4:00 or 5:00 or 6:00 in the morning. And the morning light, that morning light on some tables, there may be more than one would expect for breakfast; on some tables, there is no breakfast. They rush to prepare for the day’s work. They rush sometimes to get their children to schools that are far beyond bus stops. And the reason why I say that is many school districts have even cut out school buses. So that means that these hardworking Americans have to rush and get their children to school. And they go off to jobs that by and large, as we know, go on all day. And maybe they had someone—a grandmother or someone—pick up the child, but maybe they did not, and, therefore, they have to either have extended public care or wind up picking up those children. But what I will say to you is that they toil and work every day.

So this fiscal deadline—deadline—is very much a consequence of the Progressive Caucus and those of us who really believe that we would not be the patriots that we claim to be if we did not recognize the millions of Americans—with great humor, people were making jokes to the gentlelement from Minnesota about the Powell stall last night and how many people had tried to sign up for it—not out of greed. When they interviewed people, they were talking about charity and their friends and helping Mama get a better house and helping themselves get a better house.

And something was said in our discussions today that the people who are trying to get into the middle class are the ones that we should be able to say to them, Your desires, the service you have given to your country, the work you do when you get up in those early mornings—some of them are park attendants. Some of them are working in bus barns. They may not be bus drivers or they may not be conductors. They may be working around. They may be working in the great work that we could not survive, we call it Departments of Sanitation, the same group of men at that time that Martin King went to Memphis for.

And the reason why I call out what it’s like every morning before dawn when people get up and go to work is that they don’t have time to do social media. They don’t know when we are in negotiations about the fiscal deadline, but they’re hoping someone is here standing in the gap.

And Social Security is earned. It is earned by these people, whether they’re in coal mines, as I said, whether they’re sweeping streets, whether they are disabled, whether they are children of the deceased who the only thing that kept them going is or is keeping them going is a Social Security death benefit that they got from their deceased parent.

So it is important as we look to what we will be doing is that we understand that it is not those of us in this place in this approach that we speak of. And as we speak of the hardworking middle class, we must put into the mix those individuals that keep our streets clean, those individuals that keep the streets clean, those individuals that are assisting those who are at home—our nurses, attendants, and aides—are working in daycare centers, those persons who, when a fire in my district burned down a day, the center or something occurs, then you can be sure that there are workers who cannot work.

And let me be clear: Since there was a tragedy in my community, I was not speaking of that specific tragedy. I’m talking about if something strange occurs, the charity and your family, your handout. It’s a hand up. But it is insurance, and you’ve earned it because you have worked and you are now unemployed and you are looking for work. So the unemployment insurance is to be something that we need to count as a safety net and one that is of great national importance.

Now let me finish by trying to, again, reemphasize the importance of bipartisanship. And progressives are those who recognize what a great country this is, and we are progressive by the nature of some of the issues that we support. But we do not have a wall in front of our face and say that we don’t believe in bipartisanship or we haven’t joined with some of our colleagues to make a difference for America.

I truly believe that every set of policies have, maybe, relevancy as their past, and some policies—and I’m going to add the 1964 Civil Rights Act and the 1965 Voting Rights Act—have been an unending life. But when you come to fiscal policy, because the economy changes and it goes up sometimes we’re up, and sometimes we’re down.

Tax cuts of the nineties and earlier than the nineties with President Bush, before President Clinton and then thereafter with President Bush who came after President Clinton—sometimes economic policies say it’s time for a rest; and those tax cuts, the top 1 and 2 percent, it is time for a rest.

To be able to shore up, to say to every American that you will get a tax cut for $250,000 of your income, which includes 97 percent of small businesses is a reasoned response to the changing economy. The temporary extension of unemployment, responds to the people who don’t get their news on a regular streaming basis. They don’t know...
what’s going on up here. They’re counting on us to stand in the gap and to make a difference in their lives. Some of them are working and some are on assistance, but they’re not defined by anything except that they are Americans that love this country. I hope we go into 2013 and as we have the privilege of being sworn in again, that we will look at issues like a wealth tax, that we will look at issues that address equalizing the improvement of our Nation, then most of them children. We’re not there yet, but I think that we would be even a greater country—with a greater country and the greatest country in the world—if we recognize that there is value to lifting all boats, that there is value to saying that you’re on hard rubber times, and this great country wants to lift the boat so that any children that you are raising have the equal opportunity to achieve their greatness.

To the gentleman of Minnesota and the chairman of the Progressive Caucus, let me thank you for your wisdom and your sense of—I think the characterization that I’ve heard you state in many different instances and the characterization that I made today. We have to do the people’s business and lay out some of our values, and I think that we would be even a greater country. We even use words that invoke imagery of a crisis, and that’s why we have an obligation to the people whose characters I made today. We have an obligation to the people whose values, but also talking about some things that are really problems in this debate. Some people want to fix it in the midst of this debate; and I thank the gentleman for his leadership.

Mr. ELLISON. I thank the gentlelady for joining me. If you have the time, we’d love to hear more from you.

Let me just say today that we’re members of the Progressive Caucus talking about the deal for all. First of all, we are laying out some of our values, but also talking about some things that are really problems in this debate.

I mentioned before and you mentioned Social Security, which is not contributing to the deficit. Social Security is solvent through 2037. Social Security may need attention, but to try to fix it in the midst of this debate is not the right thing. Again, I’m speaking of fiscal responsibility. People are demanding that we reform Social Security right now are people who want us to put attention on something that is other than the problem, and then I have to wonder why that is. Does it have something to do with the fact that the Republicans are saying that FDR Roosevelt signed the legislation, that there have been some that don’t like it. Why? Because they don’t think the proper role of government is to have a program administered through the government that looks out for the aged, the disabled, the vulnerable. They don’t think the government should do that. They think it’s all about 100 percent individual initiative, and they don’t think the government has a role or responsibility to administer a program to make sure the aged and the sick and those who are the children of those people who may have died should have some basic sustenance.

We disagree fundamentally and fundamentally, but some folks—there is a concept out there known as the “shock doctrine.” A woman named Naomi Klein wrote a very interesting book. Sometimes you will have folks who will create a crisis. They want there to be a crisis because within the context of the crisis, the parties to the bargaining will be willing to do things that in the absence of a crisis they would never agree to. So I believe that this country has to face the immediate fiscal issue and it is going to be a crisis, but they’ve been created to be one. We even use words that invoke imagery of a crisis, and that’s why we start talking about this thing as to what it really is, which is expiring deadlines. I have often found in these expiring deadlines don’t have to be one. We will never agree to. So I believe that the gentleman will yield for a moment. Mr. ELLISON. I yield to the gentlewoman.

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. The Congressmen Budget Office even indicated that there is no such thing as a “cliff.” There will be expiring deadlines that will allow deliberate thought. That’s what you’re talking about. Let’s have deliberate thought. When you act and your hair is on fire or you’re running out of a burning building, you will take any water hose you can find; and that may not be the good water hose that will keep us going.

I just wanted to mention my late colleague, Mickey Leland. This is his birthday this week. It was November 27. I just wanted to mention it on the floor of the House. Congressman Mickey Leland served in this Congress in the late 1970s until 1989, when he died in Ethiopia trying to feed the starving Ethiopians who had been impacted by the drought. At the same time, he helped cochair the Hunger Select Committee because at that timeframe there was an effort to try to extinguish hunger in America and hunger in the world. Lo and behold, here we are in 2012, and I bet we can have a vigorous debate on hunger that still exists in this country.

When we put our hair on fire, then we start looking and digging deep and we start ignoring the peace dividend and resources that we could get from that, from an expedited withdrawal for our hardworking military that are in far-away places such as Afghanistan. The point is that then we begin to do things that are not in the interest of the people that get in order to survive. Social Security is a different line of funding; but as you well know, I mentioned that sometimes you get it on disability and sometimes you get Social Security as a death benefit for a deceased parent that keeps those children going. Then you have people who get payments because they are ill or have no way of working or have children, need assistance, and we’re here to do that.

We need to be deliberative in our attempt to do the things that we want to do in a bipartisan way, which is reduce the deficit, to make sure we tighten our belt and act accordingly to churn this economy, and we’re fair in our tax policies. My friends, we can do all that, but let us not do that with hysteria that starts looking at the basic safety net of Medicare, Medicaid, and Social Security. As my friend said, Social Security is 2037 and Medicare is 2024. That means your house doesn’t have to be on fire. You don’t have to get a skinny hose that is just drip, drip, dripping, and then you just burn up.

You can be deliberative. We can deal with the immediate fiscal issue of deadlines with tax issues and begin to build on what the revenues will be.

Mr. ELLISON. The gentlelady correctly mentioned Medicare, because in this whole fiscal situation, they keep on throwing out Social Security and Medicare entitlement reform, which is what they want so bad. Again, we’ve clearly shown Social Security has no place in this debate.

Let’s talk about Medicare for a moment. In the Affordable Care Act, the so-called ObamaCare, which I used to not want to call it that, but now I do because Obama does care. We call it Obamacare because the Republicans thought they could use it as an insult, but actually it’s kind of a badge of honor.

The Affordable Care Act, with the bill we passed, is estimated to save about $500 billion over the next 10 years. They say we’ve got to reform Medicare. There may be reforms to Medicare, but let us start talking about that, but we already started that process with the Affordable Care Act by reducing extra subsidies paid to Medicare Advantage plans. They said they were going to do it for cheaper, and they did it for more. Now we’re saying we’re going to hold you to your word.

We used that savings to close the doughnut hole, to make reductions in the rate of growth and provider payments, in efforts to make sure that Medicare programs were more efficient, and to reduce waste, fraud, and abuse.

Medicare will be reformed as we rework health care and as we move away from this fee for service, where it’s this much for this test, this much for that test, then some folks run a bunch of tests, and you get this huge bill. We are now moving from that fee-for-service model to a model that goes on. Are you improving the health of your patients? There are a lot more doctors nowadays, particularly at the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota, who are on salary so that the doctors don’t have to worry about the tests, they just have to worry about health. They order the tests that you need, but they don’t order the ones that you don’t need.

So much of what we are already implementing ways to maintain and control costs in Medicare that do not deprive seniors of good medical care. That’s the key. Medicare—I’m sorry—is going to cost more in the future because the people born between 1945 and 1960 who are now getting into older years. Everybody knows as you get older you may need to go to the doctor more, and we have more folks who are in that age group, so that’s the way it is. It does make sense to try to control costs, but the proposals have been to give seniors a coupon that the Congressional Budget Office admits is going to cost them $6,000 a year more than it does now and to give Medicaid a block grant program, which we know is likely to cut.

What’s the point?

They keep on saying, “entitlement reform,” “entitlement reform,” “Social Security is fine for now, and it will be into the future with just a few tweaks that benefit the beneficiaries. As for Medicare, we are reforming it and making it more solvent. We literally extended the life of the program up through 2024. Republicans during the campaign attacked President Obama for that, and we extended the life of the program. If entitlement reform were wrapped up in the expiring deadlines and the sequester, I would say, yes, we have to talk about that now, but it isn’t. Why are we doing that? It’s because people never liked the program and don’t believe the proper role of government is to help people. So we just disagree. I just wish folks would be a little more transparent in the positions that they take.

I want to talk about the tests, they just have to worry about how to deal with all of these fiscal issues. Mainly, to me, it’s about who shall pay, not about what are the dollar figures and how do we pay for this from that and this. It’s about who exactly in our society is going to be responsible.

I want to focus on the entitlements. In addition to some of our Republican colleagues—I’m talking mainly about the CEOs now, the fix-the-debt group, who say cute piously, by the way, and self-righteously that we have to cut entitlements. In listening to them, you would think that the United States of America is actually poorer today than we were then.

I wanted to quote from something in The Washington Post, an article that Ezra Klein wrote, entitled, “Why Rich Guys Want to Raise the Retirement Age”:

The first point worth making here is that the country’s economy has grown 15-fold since Social Security was passed into law. One of the things the richest society the world has ever known can buy is a recent retirement for people who don’t have jobs they love and who don’t want to work forever. I think that’s right. It’s like—really—we can’t afford it? This is one of the things that we absolutely have to cut.

I wanted to just make a point about some of these guys, these 71 CEOs who are in the fix-the-debt group who wrote this letter about the things that need to be done, some of which included the cuts.

Mr. ELLISON. Will the gentlelady yield?

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. I yield to the gentleman from Minnesota.

Mr. ELLISON. Is not having to bail them out of Medicare?

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Bailing them out, that was then. Get over it. Of course they got a lot of money from the taxpayers. Why do you keep bringing that up, Mr. ELLISON? That was just a fine thing to do.

But here are the 71 fix-the-debt CEOs, who lead publicly held companies, have amassed an average of $9 million in their own company retirement funds. A dozen have more than $20 million in their accounts. So, if each of them converted his assets to an annuity when he turned 65, he would receive a monthly check of at least $110,000 for life. Now, one of those fellows, Dave Cote, whom I know because I served with him on the Simpson-Bowles commission—and he’s a frequent guest on Social Security cuts—has a $78 million nest egg. That’s enough to provide a $428,000 check every month after he turns 65 years old. Since the average monthly Social Security benefit is $1,230, Dave Cote would receive a retirement income every month—by the way, this doesn’t count his Social Security—of as much as 348 Social Security beneficiaries. This is a guy saying that those 348 people, who are together going to get as much as he gets, ought to see those Social Security benefits cut.

I just think it’s outrageous because this is about who we are. Really? We can’t afford today the kind of Medicare benefits that we had 50 years ago when Medicare went in or 70 years ago?

Here is the other thing. One of the arguments that is used is that life expectancy has gone up. That’s true for some of us but not for all of us. Since 1977, the life expectancy of male workers retiring at age 65 has risen 6 years in the top half of the income distribution, but if you’re in the bottom half of the income distribution, then you just gained 1.3 years. The fact of the matter is, if you are a poor woman in the United States of America, you have actually lost ground in terms of longevity in this country. So it is just simply a myth to say that. Averages can be deceiving, right? You get a baseball player, you average him to 6-feet tall even though one is 7’2” or whatever. That’s ridiculous. People are actually losing life expectancy.

The truth of the matter is, while the Social Security retirement age is now about 67, you can retire early at 62, which is the earliest the law allows. You lose some benefits, but that is when most people retire. Now, these are not slackers. These aren’t people who just now want to lie around at home and eat bonbons. These are people who pretty much can’t wait until their full benefits kick in because they’ve been working really tough jobs, long hours, who’ve been on their feet, flipping patients in beds, working with their hands. It is not easy to figure out what are these people supposed to go out and all find jobs—what jobs? Where are those jobs?—in order to wait even longer for them to get their Social Security benefits?

Frankly, I’m personally pretty resentful that some of the very richest people in our country, who are now offering advice on how we can save money and fix the debt, are offering up senior citizens, half of whom make $22,000 or less per year. 1510

Those seniors who make $85,000 or more a year are already paying more for their Medicare benefits. We are already means testing Medicare benefits. A lot of people don’t know that. So who are the rich seniors who are supposed to pay more? Who are the seniors who are living longer? Well, you know, Dave Cote and the other CEOs, they’re doing just fine. They may want to work forever, God love them. God bless them. Let them do it and retire with tens of thousands of dollars in a single month. And their advice is cut the rest of the people. That’s not right.

Mr. ELLISON. It’s not right.

You know, here’s the reality. In this whole debate, we want to talk about how to deal with these expiring matters like the 2001 and 2003 taxes and the sequester. They have a time limit on them, and we in Congress are here now to address these issues. But does it really help if you spout on and talk about stuff and want to drag it into this debate that doesn’t have anything to do with sequestration or these expiring tax matters? Why do they keep talking about Social Security? Why do they want to keep talking about raising the age or some how cutting benefits for Medicare and Medicaid? I mean, one needs to ask the question, if these are problems and they need to be solved, why do they have to be solved in this very limited way? What’s the point? And other things that, in fact, are expiring?

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Well, first of all, I agree with you because I think what I'm hearing you say it's let's put those—Medicare, Social Security, and Medicaid—in a separate basket and deal with them at another time. Social Security should not be even on a different table. It should be in a different room, because Social Security has a big surplus and hasn't contributed one thin dime to any deficit.

Medicare and Medicaid, I'm all for making those programs more efficient. We can find savings in those programs. But let's remember, it occurred to me that somebody through Obamacare, actually found—does this number sound familiar?—$716 billion worth of savings in Medicare that made the program more efficient but didn't touch benefits.

Mr. ELLISON. Right.

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. We actually improved Medicare by finding savings.

It seems to me that number came up in the election that Democrats were somehow or other going to take money from Medicare, paying to senior citizens that their programs were being eroded, in fact, their programs being being improved and Medicare was made more efficient. So now when the election is over, they're back to saying we've got to cut these programs and they're unsustainable. We just can't make it anymore. We're too poor a country. We can't aspire to make sure that people with disabilities and old people are going to have access to health care. We can't do it.

That was in 20th century. We're done with that.

I mean, it's really outrageous, the hypocrisy of criticizing us for making the programs more cost effective, cost less, but keep benefits, and now hitting us over the head with that and now saying, Oh, no, never mind, we have to go back and cut those programs.

Mr. ELLISON. Well, you know, I appreciate the gentile lady in revealing really the real deal here. The President, to his credit, is trying to talk to broad cross sections of Americans. He's had labor and progressive groups join him, and then the CEOs come in. And it's funny, when the CEOs come in, and I'm not talking about everyone, but this letter where they're telling us to go back and cut those programs, and Social Security wasn't devised to pay out to be. It's because, in this country, retiring with some level of security is something that people who've worked their whole lives deserve in this country and something that should be a priority.

Mr. ELLISON. Well, let me quote Mr. Blankfein of Goldman Sachs. He says:

You're going to have to do something, undoubtedly, to lower people's expectations of what they're going to get, the entitlements, and what people's going to get because you're not going to get it.

That's what he said. Now, this gentleman is the CEO of a firm that received tens of billions of dollars—

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Tens of billions.

Mr. ELLISON. Tens of billions of dollars from direct money and indirect money through access to the Fed at lower rates, and now has the audacity—is the only word you can use—to start talking about how somebody who is making $22,000 a year has to figure out what they're going to do.

Here's the thing. I remember 2008 very well. I remember people's 401(k)s taking massive hits directly related to the behavior of large banks. So it used to be that you had money you saved, money you saved on the job and then Social Security. Two sources of your retirement income are now dwindling in part because of the behavior of these banks, and one of the leaders of one of those banks has the nerve to talk about other folks having to get by on less.

My question is: What happened to the basic concept of civic virtue? I mean, what happened to the basic idea that, yes, I may be a CEO and, yes, I have an obligation to my shareholders, but I also have an obligation to the community that has fed my business and I've got an obligation to the United States that has made it possible for me to do well.

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Well, frankly, I think that idea is alive and well and was reflected in the elections on November 6th.

Mr. ELLISON. I agree.

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. That the idea that we are all in this together, that we do have some responsibility. And I want to tell you that there isn't a person that goes to synagogue or church or a mosque or a temple that doesn't learn about, we are the brother's and our sister's keepers, we do feed the hungry and take care of the poor, that we have an obligation to do that. So in our private lives, and in our faith lives, we have to try to get back to that.

I mean, it's good economics, but it's also the right thing to do. And I also think it's a very American kind of ideal, and that, at the end of the day, that most people agree with that.

When I say under $22,000, that's income. The average Social Security benefit is far below that. And so we're talking about very little, very little money to provide not a whole lot of security, but some security.

Mr. ELLISON. Well, I'd just like to advise the gentle lady that we've got about 3 more minutes in our hour, and I just wanted to encourage you to think about some of your essential points that you may want to repeat for the Speaker.

But I just wanted to say that, look, you know, the Progressive Caucus—we're here with the Progressive message—is thinking about these fiscal disciplines that this country is facing. We do believe that we should try to come up with a fair deal in anticipation of sequestration and the expiration of deadlines on some taxes.

We believe that the top 2 percent of the income scale should have to pay more. We believe that the Defense Department, which has seen its budget double since 2001, should have to take cuts.

We believe we have to invest in jobs and get people back to work. And we believe we should protect Social Security, Medicare, and Medicaid. Those are some takeaways that I think are very important.

We do believe in negotiating. We believe that it's important to do so. We've already given up $1.5 trillion in the last term. People talk about what's on the table, what's off the table—$1.5 trillion should be on the table as cuts that have already taken place.

I like to talk about other folks having to get by on less.

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. You have the sign, “The Progressive Message,” and I am a proud member of the Progressive Caucus. But I believe that if you presented what you just said to the American people, in general, that the vast majority agree with that because it’s fair. That’s all.

We are willing to find cuts, and as you pointed out, we’ve already done that. That’s already been done with $1.5 trillion in cuts. But fairness means not just that starting from scratch, we cut everybody across the board, but we do it in a humane and fair and sensible way. That’s fair.

And I think the Progressive message is the American message, the one that we’re hearing from the American people.

So I thank you so much for your leadership. And going forward, I hope we can help to mobilize, along with the President, mobilize people to support these ideas.

Mr. ELLISON. The gentlemam from Illinois has the last word from “The Progressive Message.”

I yield back the balance of my time.

PRAYER

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Today’s opening prayer will be offered by Rabbi Baruch Frydman-Kohl, senior rabbi of Beth Tzedec Congregation in Toronto, Canada.

The guest Chaplain offered the following prayer:

God of us all, we assemble before You in humility, recalling both triumph and defeat, summer drought, autumn hurricane, and the cooperative resilience of our Nation. In this season after elections and before the new Congress, we ask that You give us these Senators and our government the wisdom to avoid the exclusion of either/or and to embrace the blessings of both/and. Rather than fear falling off a cliff, help our leaders to learn to chimney. In climbing, chimneying requires pushing off one side of a mountain cleft and then the other to advance higher. The resistance of each face of the rock contributes to the ascent. Help these leaders to appreciate individual initiative and care for the distressed, to value competition and find a path for cooperation, to be mindful of human liberty and be grateful for mutual help, to recognize the occasional need for force and to forcefully pursue peace. Enable them to chimney up the cleft of our differences, to reclaim fiscal integrity and maintain social concern, to be exemplars of responsibility and reasonableness, so that all Americans may respect and rejoice in their leadership of this great country.

Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable Tom Udall led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The assistant legislative clerk read the following letter:

U.S. SENATE,

To the Senate:

Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable Tom Udall, a Senator from the State of New Mexico, to perform the duties of the Chair.

Daniel K. Inouye,
President pro tempore.

Mr. Udall of New Mexico thereupon assumed the chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. Reid. Mr. President, following leader remarks, the Senate will be in a period of morning business for 1 hour, with Republicans controlling the first half and the majority controlling the second half. Following morning business, the Senate will resume consideration of the Defense authorization bill. We will continue to work through the amendments to the bill during today’s session. Rollcall votes are expected all throughout today.

I would now yield to my friend, the senior Senator from the State of Wisconsin. I will have more of an opportunity at a later time to say things about Senator Kohl, but I have had a wonderful experience in getting to know this quiet, very productive man. I have enjoyed his innate skills. He is one of the best businesspeople we have in America today, one of the best Senators we have in America today.

Mr. Kohl. I will just add to this list his place in my heart as a beloved cousin, valued friend, and welcomed reflection of all about our fathers that was strong, smart, and good. I thank the rabbi for his time and attention to the Senate today.

RA'BBI BARUCH FRIDMAN-KOHL

Baruch Fridman-Kohl is the Anne and Max Tanenbaum Senior Rabbi of Beth Tzedek, the largest synagogue community in Canada. The focus of his rabbinate has been a commitment to family education, life-long learning and care for the housebound, hospitalized and homeless. Rabbi Baruch initiated the development of a "synaplex" of innovative ritual and educational opportunities to encourage more participation in synagogue life.

Beyond the synagogue, the Rabbi is the President of the Toronto Board of Rabbis and recently organized the Path of Abraham mission to bring Jews, Christians and Muslims to the Holy Land to explore the challenges of three religions, two nations and one land. He serves on the Board of UJA Federation of Toronto, has served on the Executive Committee of the Rabbinical Assembly, and as past president of two of its regions. He was awarded a Coolidge Fellowship to pursue research in interfaith community at the Episcopal Divinity School at Harvard University. The Rabbi received his doctorate in Jewish philosophy from the Jewish Theological Seminary and is a Rabbinic Fellow of the Shalom Hartman Institute of Jerusalem. Rabbi Fridman-Kohl is the author of scholarly articles in the area of Jewish philosophy and mysticism.

Rabbi Baruch's father, Jack, and Senator Kohl's father, Max, were brothers and young teenagers during the First World War when they were caught between the Austrian-Hungarian Empire and Czarist Russia. They were immolated to the Holy Land to explore the challenges of three religions, two nations and one land. A lot of people around here seem to have forgotten that we are still in the middle of a jobs crisis. I can tell you that lots of folks are hurting in my State of Kentucky. National unemployment is still just a hair below 8 percent, and millions of Americans are still looking for work. So if it is an iron law of economics that you get less of what you tax, why on Earth would we want to raise taxes on work? Rates matter because they affect behavior. The higher the tax rate, the less people and companies are inclined to work. This isn't just Republican orthodoxy; it is basic economics. As the non-partisan Congressional Budget Office recently put it, "Increasing revenues by raising marginal tax rates on labor would reduce people's incentive to work and therefore reduce the amount of labor supplied to the economy."

That is the CBO, not the Republican National Committee. They go on to say over at CBO, it would, by itself, "decrease output in the medium and long term."

In the middle of a jobs crisis, that is the last thing we ought to be doing. Shouldn't we at least agree on that? The negative effect raising rates has on labor is acknowledged that the Joint Committee on Taxation actually has models that incorporate the effects of doing it. They also know that higher rates increase the incentive to shelter income from taxation. When rates are high, the people paying them try even harder to keep the government from taking what they earn. In short, raising rates means less labor, less investment, and more incentive for the wealthy to waste money in search, and top-ranked athletic teams.

Mr. President, yesterday was an extremely happy day for my alma mater, the University of Louisville, and I want to talk today about an extraordinary individual who has achieved an incredible success at my university over the last 15 years. It has been my privilege during my career to get to know a number of people in all walks of life who have been highly successful. However, I am hard pressed to think of a more successful individual than Tom Jurich, who has revitalized the University of Louisville basketball program. He has been President of the University of Louisville since 1996, and he is the steward of the nation's top athletic programs. Under his leadership, the Cardinals have won 50 championships, including two Big East titles and 10 Final Fours, including one last season. Now ranked in the top five nationally, this year's Cardinal team is well poised to make another run for the Final Four. We are waiting on the President. We can still get there, but he is going to have to lead. He can start by putting the campaign talking points on the shelf. I know that whacking the rich works politically. It worked pretty well for him in his campaign; I get it. But the election is over, and it is time to lead.

TRIBUTE TO TOM JURICH

Mr. President, yesterday was an extremely happy day for my alma mater, the University of Louisville, and I want to talk today about an extraordinary individual who has achieved an incredible success at my university over the last 15 years. It has been my privilege during my career to get to know a number of people in all walks of life who have been highly successful. However, I am hard pressed to think of a person who is more successful than Tom Jurich. Under his leadership, the Cardinals have won 50 championships, including three Final Fours, including one last season. Now ranked in the top 10 nationally this year, the Cardinals are in line for a chance to win the Big East title in a nationally televised game against Rutgers tonight.

Under Tom Jurich’s tenure, Cardinal teams have been brought home championships in sports as diverse as basketball, football, field hockey, men’s soccer, women’s soccer, volleyball, men’s cross country, men’s golf, women’s golf, softball, men’s swimming and diving, women’s swimming and diving, men’s tennis, women’s indoor track, and men’s and women’s outdoor track and field, an extraordinary list of accomplishments.

Tom Jurich has grown the school’s physical facilities to be, in my view, the best in the country. Under his leadership, the school’s basketball teams began playing in a new state-of-the-art KFC Yum! Center in downtown Louisville in 2010. It is an arena equal to any college basketball facility, college or professional, in our country.

Under Tom Jurich, an expansion of Papa John’s Cardinal Stadium was completed in 2010, giving UofL football fans one of the best stadiums in the country in which to watch a game, seating 55,000. Tom Jurich also oversaw the construction of an extensive sports park that includes new softball and field hockey stadiums, a soccer field surrounded by a track, fitness trail, and playground.

Tom has increased participation for women’s athletics, upgrading funding and support staff for existing women’s programs and adding new women’s sports: softball, golf, rowing, and lacrosse. He transitioned field hockey and women’s soccer and baseball to Under Tom Jurich’s leadership, student athletes at UofL have been making and breaking records and stirring excitement deep in the hearts of Cardinal fans all across Kentucky and all over the world. Since joining the Big East Conference in 2006, Cardinal teams have won 50 championships, including three Final Fours, including one last season. Now ranked in the top 10 nationally this year, the Cardinals are in line for a chance to win the Big East title in a nationally televised game against Rutgers tonight.

fully funded programs. For his accomplishment, he received the Citizens for Sports Equity 2000 Sports Leadership Award.

For his success as an athletic director, Tom was honored as the Louisville Athletic Director of the Year in 2005 by the Louisville Urban League, and he was nationally recognized in 2007 as Street & Smith’s Sports Business Journal and Sports Business Daily Athletic Director of the Year. The university also recognized his enormous contribution to the institution by appointing him vice president for athletics in 2003.

Yesterday, the totality of Tom Jurich’s accomplishments was recognized when the ACC voted unanimously to accept the University of Louisville as its newest member. This is an exciting time for Cardinal sports fans. We relish the opportunity to play in the strongest league in the Nation and show that Cardinals are able to compete on that level.

To my good friends from the fine States such as North Carolina, Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania, Florida, Indiana, Georgia, Massachusetts, and South Carolina, I say “look out.” I have been pleased to get to know Tom well over the years, as well as his wife Terrilynn and their wonderful family. I don’t think I have ever met anybody who has done a better job building an enterprise than he has, given what he had when he came to the university in 1997, and then look at it today. He has built an athletic department that boasts a budget in the top 20 in the country, championship football and basketball teams, record-setting men’s and women’s basketball attendance at our new downtown arena, and enormous success for all the other school sports that may not get as much attention but are just as vital to the students and the community in Louisville. He has done all this while increasing academic success for student athletes with a record 21 of 23 Cardinal athletes with a record 21 of 23 Cardinal

FISCAL CLIFF

The other issue that is not being talked about very much at all is Social Security. In 2010 and 2011, Social Security expenditures, the benefits paid to retirees and the disabled, exceeded payroll taxes, and its trust funds will be depleted in 2036, after which the program would have a net unfunded obligation through the end of Social Security’s 75-year valuation window, and that net unfunded obligation would be $6.5 trillion. After reading the trustees’ report last year, I drafted the Defend and Save Social Security Act after the 2012 report came out from the trustees, and it covers the 75 year window and the shortfall of $6.5 trillion which is estimated, and it doesn’t raise taxes on the people who work.

Here is what it does: It increases the age of retirement very gradually. When I introduced my bill just last year, it wouldn’t have affected anyone who was 58 years old or older. But in just that 1 year, because the deficits in Social Security payments going out have occurred, today it is 59 years of age. No one 59 years of age or older would be affected. For everyone else it would be a very slow increase of 3 months per year. For instance, the normal retirement age would reach 67—going from 66—by 2019, 68 by 2023, 69 by 2027, and 70 by 2031. The early retirement age would be increased to 63 by 2019 and 64 by 2023.

The second point: The COLA—the cost-of-living adjustment—would be reduced slightly when inflation is 1 percent or more. Inflation has averaged about 2.5 percent, so there would be a COLA, but it would be about 12 less if inflation is kicking in above 1 percent. There would be no benefit cut at all, just a slightly smaller COLA increase if inflation goes up, and then we would have a secure system. It would be a system that would last 75 years. We would not have the $6.6 trillion added to our deficit and no core benefits would be cut.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent for 2 more minutes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, let me just say that is not the only thing we could do. We could change the cost of living to the chained consumer price index. That would be OK. It wouldn’t get us as much of a deficit reduction over 75 years—a chained CPI—but it would get us at least into a better position if we increased the age rate.

I just want to give a note of history. When President Reagan was facing the same issue, and the Senate was one-party dominated and the House the other, he got together with House Speaker Tip O’Neill, and they formed a commission which started the increase in age today because people were living longer and they were working longer. We can do the same thing President Reagan and Tip O’Neill did, because our government is a similar configuration, by coming together and acknowledging that people are living longer and are working longer.

We can make accommodations for people who are in particularly physically strenuous jobs. I think all of us understand people in those jobs may not be able to work as long. We can do those things and fix this issue in a responsible way. Let’s do it now. One more year is going to make it that much worse. We have added $2.1 trillion to the deficit in just 1 year. We can do this.

Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Arizona for giving me the extra 2 minutes to say let’s do it now. In fact, the Senator from Arizona has been a cosponsor of my bill to fix Social Security. We cannot inress the fiscal cliff without talking about entitlements and mandatory spending, which is 56 percent of our spending. Anybody can do the math on that.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, first, let me thank my colleague from Texas for her leadership on this and so many other issues that we have worked on over the years. I am pleased to see Congress and the Senate is that I will not be able to work with her, and she has said the same thing about me. We will be off doing something else, but we are not going to give up on some of the fights we have been engaged in during these years.

I want to just begin where my colleague left off, about the meaning of this fiscal cliff and what is being proposed as alternatives to going over the cliff. I am interested this week to know that the President has embarked on what one newspaper referred to as “the fiscal cliff campaign trail.” We have seen the pictures. He is out speaking now and then that we have an increase of 100,000 or 115,000 jobs in a month. Here is 710,000 jobs they say would be lost just from the increase in these tax rates. Our gross domestic product would decline by $200 billion, and wages would fall by 1.8 percent.

I believe these numbers make our eyes glaze over sometimes, but these are the facts; these are the results. And poorer families and a weak economy and a lot of joblessness are the result.

To put these numbers into perspective, the Reagan tax reform, which raised tens of millions of American employees—including those in wholesaling, retail, air conditioning, firms, and others—sent a letter to the Congress about the only part of which I was interested in economic growth and high-paying jobs. Congress must avoid raising marginal tax rates on the 95 percent of businesses, and we need to reform our entitlements.

What should we do instead, just to summarize? I think the better approach is the one the Republicans have been proposing. We actually have a plan, as opposed to the administration’s plan—the only part of which I can discern is to pass the Senate bill, which raises tax rates. Our plan is to lower the corporate rate and individual tax rates and eliminated a lot of loopholes. It wasn’t a perfect bill, but the 1986 reform package can serve as a guide for revenue-neutral tax reform moving forward. Cutting our corporate tax rates—which had a combined rate of 39.2 percent as the highest in the industrialized world—would dramatically boost American competitiveness and improve our standard of living.

Many studies have found that lowering our corporate rate will increase growth, including one which found that cutting the corporate tax rate by 10 percentage points can increase the annual growth rate by around 1.1 percent. Since we are only a little over 1.1 percent as it is, cutting it by that much would have a dramatic impact.

The Reagan tax reform also provided relief for businesses that are not structured as C corporations. During Ronald Reagan’s 8 years, 20 million new jobs were created. More specifically, after tax reform became law, inflation and unemployment fell.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tem. The Senator’s time has expired.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to proceed with my remarks.

Mr. KYL. If we are interested in growth, Congress must avoid raising tax rates in the lame-duck session and instead pursue tax reform, which sends a signal to the world that we are open for business.

Short of going off the fiscal cliff entirely, passing the Senate tax increase instead of pursuing this pro-growth and fiscal reform ideas is the worst idea on the table. Raising the top two marginal rates would reverse long-standing tax policy and hit nearly 1 million business owners in the process, and it would eliminate over 700,000 jobs.

So if the President is genuinely interested in economic growth and higher tax revenues that come from it, he should support the Senate bill and listen to the growing bipartisan consensus that higher taxes hurt growth and lower tax rates help create jobs and prosperity.

Hon. HARRY REID,
Majority Leader, U.S. Senate, Capitol Building, Washington, DC.

Hon. MITCH MCCONNELL,
Minority Leader, U.S. Senate, Capitol Building, Washington, DC.

Hon. JOHN BORGER,
Speaker of the House, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

Hon. NANCY PELOSI,
Minority Leader, U.S. House of Representatives, Capitol, Washington, DC.

DEAR CONGRESSIONAL LEADERSHIP: As organizations representing millions of pass-through businesses employing tens of millions of workers, we strongly urge Congress to include comprehensive tax reform that lowers rates on all forms of business income while enacting significant entitlement reforms that put the federal budget on a sustainable fiscal path.

Congress faces two fiscal challenges in the near future. First, it will need to take action on the “fiscal cliff” of expiring tax provisions and automatic spending cuts. Second, it will need to raise the debt ceiling.

In taking on these challenges, we call on Congress to avoid raising tax rates on employers, either as part of negotiations over the fiscal cliff, or as part of larger effort to reform the tax code. Instead, Congress should focus on moving forward with tax reform that simplifies the tax code and encourages economic growth for both pass-through businesses and corporations.

Raising rates on individuals and employers will harm hiring and investment now and into the future. According to the Congressional Budget Office, allowing top tax rates to return to their pre-ObamaCare levels will result in 200,000 fewer jobs early next year. Ernst & Young has estimated that the impact of these higher tax rates will be to reduce long-term employment levels by more than 700,000, while also lowering overall investment and suppressing wage levels.

The prospect of higher marginal tax rates is already having an adverse impact on the economy. According to the National Federation of Independent Businesses, two-thirds of business owners cite the uncertainty over future tax policy as making it difficult for them to grow their businesses and increase employment. At the same time, the rate of business creation is at its lowest level in two decades.

Although some have asked Congress to enact corporate-only reform in the coming year, there is no economic or political justification for reform that lowers marginal tax rates on corporations while raising either marginal or effective tax rates on the 95 percent of businesses structured as pass-through entities who employ more than half of the U.S. workforce.

Finally, we are eager to see Congress enact permanent, comprehensive tax reform, but this legislation will not solve our fiscal imbalance. The Trustees to Social Security and Medicare have made clear that, absent reform, these programs are unsustainable. While Congress should commit to tackling comprehensive tax reform, it is also imperative that Congress agree to develop a long-term plan to address America’s entitlement programs as well.

Simply put, we need to reform our tax code and we need to reform our entitlements.

Sincerely,

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Alabama.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I appreciate Senator KYL’s comments, and I share them. We are going to miss the most knowledgeable fiscal tax expert in the Senate, and his long career includes time on the Finance Committee. I thank Senator KYL.

I want to express some reservations about the negotiations that have been going on, as I understand it from reading the paper, involving the fiscal cliff.

Over the last 2 years, Congress and the President have held an endless series of negotiations. They have held the bipartisan deficit reduction talks, the Gang of 12, talks at the Blair House and the White House. But the only thing these secret talks have produced is a government that skips from one crisis to the next. Everything has been tried but open discussion of the options that have been tried. Is there an option that is not on the table or in the negotiations that would be on the table for us if the government were run honestly and prudently? Is there an option that is not really a tax hike or is there an option that is not a cut in social programs? Is there a cost-effective way to deal with our problems?

All of this secrecy allows the President to position himself as being in favor of a balanced plan—which is what he says: I favor a balanced plan—while the only comprehensive proposal, to my knowledge, he has actually laid out was in January or February of this year, and that was the Budget Control Act of 2011, announced by the President. It said that we have encountered problems representing everybody in the country. Will that remain a secret? Will it just be revealed to us on the eve of Christmas or the eve of the new calendar year? We will be asked to vote for or to ratify like lemmings, I suppose.

The White House has repeatedly asserted they believe in $2.5 trillion in spending cuts for every $1 in tax hikes, which does not reflect sufficient spending cuts. But if the White House now wants $1.6 trillion in new taxes, where are the $1 trillion in shortfall those have been laid out? Do we know what they would be? And this is over 10 years. These spending cuts would be very achievable if we put our minds to it. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Republican time has expired.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I be allowed to have the full 10 minutes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered. Mr. SESSIONS. I thank my colleagues for their courtesy.

In fact, the President has given speeches calling for more spending. On Tuesday, he gave a speech in which he said he wants to use the tax hikes to “invest in training, education, science, and research.”

When you are in a deep hole and you are borrowing almost 40 cents of every dollar you spend, shouldn’t you constrain yourself and not start new programs? Or if you start a new, needed program, shouldn’t you reduce some less valuable program to pay for it instead of just taxing to create more programs?

Not once in the speech did he discuss entitlements. That is the largest item in our government, entitlements. Not once did the President of the United States discuss with the American people the problem that Social Security, Medicare, and Medicaid are on an unsustainable path and are at great risk. Shouldn’t the President honestly talk to the American people about that?

He didn’t discuss our $16 trillion debt and how the Debt Commission he appointed indicates that we are on an unsustainable path, heading to a fiscal crisis. He did not discuss the economic catastrophe that will occur if we don’t get off this unsustainable path.

The President should lead on these things. I don’t think this is a partisan complaint. I am saying the President of the United States should be discussing with the American people the great danger of our time: the debt.

The President will go out to the press and use the buzz words that say he has a plan to get the country out of the debt crisis. This plan will raise taxes to reduce the deficit. It seems to me the plan is to talk in general, to meet in secret day after day, week after week, the deadlines get closer, the country gets closer. Then, under threat of panic, force through some deal that maintains the status quo: more taxes, more spending, more debt. And it will be presented to the Senate in a way that, if it is not adopted immediately, the country will be in great fiscal danger. This process needs to be taken out of the shadows. We need public debate, and then people would know the facts that are now being hidden from us, hidden from Members of Congress. We don’t know what is going on. The latest article in Politico today said the deal—the so-called deal has been negotiated by the Speaker of the House and the President. Not even HARRY REID is in the meetings, apparently—certainly not the Members of the Senate or the Members of the House of Representatives.

If we had a public debate, people would discover that according to the CBO, mandatory spending is going to increase nearly $1 trillion over the next 10 years. To get the country under control requires some real tough focus, but it does not mean we are going to have to cut spending dramatically, just reduce the growth of spending. Expenses on welfare are particularly interesting. Mandatory spending, that is, the entitlement programs of all kinds, is set to automatically increase 90 percent over the next decade. That is over half of our budget. We already spend $2.1 trillion on mandatory costs today in our budget—this year we will spend $2.3 trillion, but we will spend $4.12 trillion in the 10th year from now. Those are the projected growth patterns we are on. This is a huge increase, and we do not have the money.

People would also learn from public debate that welfare costs are now the single largest item in the budget, exceeding Medicare—larger than Medicare, larger than Social Security, larger than all the defense programs combined. We must confront the defense problem very soon, and the defense problem to the American people that Social Security, Medicare, and Medicaid are on an unsustainable path and are at great risk. If we do not address this serious problem, we have a very serious problem. If we do not address the debt crisis, we have a very serious problem. If we do not address the entitlement programs, we have a very serious problem. If we do not address the health care reform, we have a very serious problem. If we do not address the debt, we have a very serious problem.

The President should lead on these things. I don’t think this is a partisan complaint. I am saying the President of the United States should be discussing with the American people the great danger of our time: the debt.

Indeed, the Budget Control Act of 15 months ago that was passed explicitly failed to address some of the biggest items in that budget.

I do not see how we can support a plan that does not at least begin to reform these programs and improve their operation. Is going this on in the secret talks? Are they talking about it, like the Budget Control Act, is this off-th
Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. President, I rise to the floor of the Senate to urge all of us here to extend the production tax credit for wind energy. This is a crucial tax credit that supports an industry that employs literally tens of thousands of workers across our entire country. Our failure in the Congress to quickly extend this job-creating credit has already halted construction of wind power projects, jeopardizing the future of this industry and the good-paying jobs that come with it.

The PTC, as it is known, the production tax credit, has been a major driver of wind power development because it is providing literally millions of dollars in investment, which then in turn creates thousands of jobs. But here in the Congress we have gone back and forth repeatedly between extending it and retiring it. This on-again/off-again status has contributed to a boom-bust cycle that threatens the future of this industry and our energy security in turn. It is time for us to act, act now, and extend the PTC so the wind industry and its employees can have a secure and prosperous future.

Mr. President, I look forward to talking about your State, New Mexico. You know I come to the floor every day to talk about the importance of the PTC, and I focus on an individual State when I come to the floor. Today I would like to talk about New Jersey.

New Jersey’s wind industry will suffer without an extension of the PTC. Its industry is in the early stages of development, but the Garden State is already making substantive progress in becoming a manufacturing center for wind.

While it is a manufacturing center that is building the turbines and blades, it is also taking a leading role in developing coastal wind power and then harnessing the offshore wind potential we know exists in the oceans off of New Jersey. An environmental review initiative by the Interior Department has paved the way for the sale of wind energy leases off the coast of New Jersey, Delaware and Virginia in the Outer Continental Shelf. Several coastal projects are under way in the Garden State, including in southern New Jersey off the coast of Cape May, down here in the southern part of New Jersey.

New Jersey is also home to the first coastal wind farm in the United States, the Jersey Atlantic Wind Farm. There are five turbines at that wind farm. They are producing a total of 7.5 megawatts, which is enough energy to power 2,600 homes.

Like my Home State, like the home State of the Presiding Officer, New Jersey knows we need an all-of-the-above energy strategy to improve our energy security. My colleagues from New Jersey, Senator Menendez and Senator Lautenberg, have been fighting to accelerate the transition to renewable domestic energy. Both have been champions for extending crucial tax credits such as the PTC. They know these credits help both New Jersey consumers and New Jersey businesses install and utilize energy from the wind.

The wind energy industry supports close to 500 New Jersey jobs, many of which are located at the 9 manufacturing facilities that make components for wind turbines. Those facilities are located in the green circles shown here on the map of New Jersey. The current level of wind production in New Jersey has helped the State reduce its carbon footprint by some 1,500 metric tons every year.

I want to return to the point I make every day I come to the floor to talk about the production tax credit. If we do not extend it, the manufacturing sector in New Jersey and many other States will literally wither. If we do not extend the PTC, we risk sending our energy jobs overseas. This is flat out, unacceptable.

The wind production tax credit has strong support from a broad array of industry groups. Let me share some of those groups with my colleagues and with the viewers. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the extension, as well as the Governors’ Wind Energy Coalition, the National Governors Association, and the American Farm Bureau Federation, among a number of other groups that support this extension.

Think of it this way: Wind energy is made-in-America energy that boosts U.S. manufacturing. It creates good-paying American jobs, and it puts us on the path to energy independence. I urge my colleagues, I ask my colleagues of both parties to stand with me and stand for American manufacturing and made-in-America energy.

Our wind energy industry and our energy security are depending on it. We need to extend the PTC as soon as possible. It is that simple. The PTC equals jobs. Let’s pass it as soon as possible.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The Acting President pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I appreciate the opportunity to share these remarks. I ask for 1 additional minute to wrap up.

The Acting President pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SESSIONS. I thank my colleagues.

I would say I am concerned about the nature of these secret talks, the fact that the Senate is really not participating. From the reports, it is only the Speaker and the President of the United States discussing it, and that appears to be—from what I picked up—to be true. Apparently, the majority leader is not intimately involved, the chairman of the Budget Committee is not involved, and the chairman of the Finance Committee is not involved. These are Democratic leaders in the Senate, certainly not Republican leaders in the Senate.

The Senate is a great institution. We ought to be engaged, and the engagement of the Senate allows the American people to know what is happening! They are entitled to that. I really believe we can do better. We must do better.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The Acting President pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

WIND ENERGY TAX CREDIT

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. President, I return to the floor of the Senate to urge all of us here to extend the production tax credit for wind energy. This is a crucial tax credit that supports an industry that employs literally tens of thousands of workers across our entire country. NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013. I wish to commend the work of my colleagues on the committee, particularly Chairman Levin, who is here, and Ranking Member McCain, for their incredible diligence, dedication, and commitment to the men and women of our Armed Forces.

For 50 consecutive years, the Senate has passed a Defense authorization bill, and some very much the way we will soon be able to send the President a bill for his signature consistent with that record of faithful service to those who
I have joined with Senators Rubio, McCaskill, and Whitehouse to introduce amendment No. 3017 to curb the out-of-pocket prescription drug costs proposed for TRICARE beneficiaries. The Department of Defense has proposed an increase of $26 for brandname drugs, which would almost double or even triple. For example, under the proposal, out-of-pocket costs for a brandname drug up at a retail pharmacy would more than double, increasing from $12 to $26. Ensuring the fiscal soundness of TRICARE is critical, but we should limit the burden on beneficiaries in our efforts to shore up the program.

The ark of the mail order program the out-of-pocket prescription drug costs proposed for TRICARE beneficiaries. For instance, instead of paying $26 for a brandname drug, a TRICARE beneficiary would pay $17 at a retail pharmacy. S5 increase—a $5 increase as opposed to a $14 increase. DOD would be prohibited from instituting dramatic increases in prescription drug copayments in future years. Copayments could only increase at the rate of the annual cost-of-living adjustment, or COLA.

To protect beneficiaries from out-of-pocket increases, the amendment proposes to achieve the necessary savings by requiring the Secretary to enroll beneficiaries age 65 and older with maintenance medication—that is, medications for chronic conditions—in a 5-year mail order pharmacy pilot program. Beneficiaries would be eligible to opt out of the mail order program after 1 year if they felt it did not adequately meet their needs.

To ensure TRICARE beneficiaries have access to their prescription medications, they would be able to secure an initial 30-day fill at a local retail pharmacy. And the amendment ensures that they will not be denied a maintenance medication at a retail pharmacy if they ever find themselves running low and in need of a quick refill.

The amendment would expressly prohibit the Secretary from including medications for acute care needs in the mail order pilot program, as well as medications dispensed to residents of long-term care facilities. The Secretary would also have the discretion to exempt other medications and other populations.

This amendment is supported by the Military Lending Act Coalition, a group of 30 organizations representing more than 5.5 million members of the uniform services—active, Reserve, retired, survivors, veterans—and their families.

My third amendment, No. 3193, which is offered in conjunction to the recommendation for Veterans Act that I recently introduced, would create a new pilot program at the Department of Housing and Urban Development that would provide home rehabilitation and modification for veterans who are low income or disabled and who own their homes or are living in the owner-occupied home of a family member.
This amendment fills a crucial gap because it would serve all veterans with disabilities, regardless of the severity of the disability and whether the disability is service connected or not. With this amendment, eligible veterans would have the opportunity to renovate and modify their existing homes by installing wheelchair ramps, widening doors, re-equipping rooms, and making necessary additions and adjustments to existing structures—all so these homes are more suitable and safer for our veterans.

I hope we can work together to consider these amendments, and other amendments that have been proposed by my colleagues.

As for the underlying bill, I wish to point out a few more of its highlights.

The bill authorizes a 1.7-percent across-the-board pay raise and reauthorizes over 30 types of bonuses and special payments for our men and women in uniform.

It authorizes the Secretary of Defense to carry out a research program with community partners to enhance DoD efforts in research, treatment, education, and outreach on mental health, substance use disorders, and traumatic brain injury. It empowers Reserve members, their families, and their caregivers—a provision which I worked on with Senator Ayotte to have included in this bill. We have an incredible problem with respect to returning active-duty personnel, and their families in addressing their mental health challenges, and unless we fully engage all the resources across this country, we will not be able to successfully meet the needs of these young men and women. We hope this amendment will help in that regard.

The legislation also extends authorities to continue several “train and equip” programs to assist foreign militaries in counterterrorism and counter-narcotics missions. This is one of the emerging and critical roles that in the future we must embrace and support.

Additionally, the legislation authorizes $5.7 billion for the Afghanistan Security Forces Fund to build the capacity of the Afghan Army and police so those forces can continue to take the security lead throughout Afghanistan. Once again, this is a central foundation to our plans to withdraw the vast majority of our forces by 2014.

This year once again I had the honor of serving as the chairman of the Seapower Subcommittee, alongside Senator Wicker, my colleague from Mississippi, the ranking member. Working together, our subcommittee focuses on the needs of the Navy, the Marine Corps, and strategic mobility forces. We put particular emphasis on supporting marine and naval forces engaged in combat operations, improving efficiencies, and applying the savings to higher priority programs.

Specifically, the bill includes the required funding for two Virginia-class submarines, provides multiyear procurement authority to the Navy to purchase the next block of submarines, authorizes the Navy to use incremental funding to buy an additional Virginia-class submarine in fiscal year 2014, and provides an additional $777.7 million in advance procurement for that second boat in 2014.

The bill also approves the funding for other major programs, including the DDG–1000, the Aircraft Carrier Replacement Program, the DDG–51 Aegis destroyer program, the Littoral Combat Ship, the Joint High Speed Vessel, and the P–8 Poseidon.

I am particularly pleased about the funding for the Virginia-class submarines and the DDG–1000, which so many Rhode Islanders help to build.

We also included language that would permit the Navy to use multiyear procurement authority to buy the V–22 Osprey aircraft and the Arleigh Burke-class destroyers so we can procure these platforms as efficiently as possible.

I want to offer my particular thanks to Senator Wicker, the other members of the Seapower Subcommittee, and our staffs who have done an extraordinary job through their diligence, their dedication, and their profound commitment to the men and women, particularly, of the Navy and the Marine Corps.

We have a good bill before the Senate. I urge adoption of the amendments I have discussed, and I would urge very quickly and very timely the passage of the legislation. I hope to again send the Defense authorization bill to the President for his signature.

With that, I yield the floor.

AMENDMENT NO. 291

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Senate on the maintenance by the United States of a triad of strategic nuclear delivery systems and to ensure the continued flexibility of the United States strategic nuclear forces.

At the end of subtitle H of title X, add the following:

SEC. 1084. SENSE OF SENATE ON THE MAINTENANCE BY THE UNITED STATES OF A TRIAD OF STRATEGIC NUCLEAR DELIVERY SYSTEMS.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds the following:

(1) The April 2010 Nuclear Posture Review concluded that even with the reductions specified in the New START Treaty, the United States should retain a nuclear Triad of land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles, submarine-launched ballistic missiles, and nuclear powered ballistic missiles and nuclear capable heavy bombers, noting that “[re]taining all three Triad legs will better maintain strategic stability at a reasonable cost, while hedging against potential technical problems or vulnerabilities”.

(2) The resolution of ratification for the New START Treaty, which the Senate approved on December 22, 2010, stated that “it is the sense of the Senate that United States deterrence and flexibility is assured by a robust and continuing strategic delivery systems. To this end, the United States is committed to accomplishing the modernization and replacement of its strategic nuclear delivery vehicles and to maintaining the continued flexibility of United States conventional and nuclear delivery systems”.

(3) In a message to the Senate on February 2, 2011, President Obama certified that he intended to “modernize or replace the triad of strategic nuclear delivery systems: a heavy bomber and air-launched cruise missile, an ICBM, and a submarine-launched ballistic missile submarine (SSBN) and SLBM” and to “maintain the United States rocket motor industrial base”.

(b) SENSE OF SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the United States should maintain a triad of strategic nuclear delivery systems; and

(2) the United States is committed to modernizing the component weapons and delivery systems of that triad.

At the end of subtitle C of title II, add the following:

SEC. 238. READINESS AND FLEXIBILITY OF INTERCONTINENTAL BALLISTIC MISSILE FORCE.

The Secretary of Defense may, in a manner consistent with the obligations of the United States under international agreements—

(1) retain intercontinental ballistic missile launch facilities currently supporting deployed strategic nuclear delivery vehicles within the limits of deployed and non-deployed strategic launchers;

(2) maintain intercontinental ballistic missile silos on alert or operationally deployed status; and

(3) preserve intercontinental ballistic missile silos in operational or warm status.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire. Ms. AYOTTE. Mr. President, I wish to talk this morning about an amendment I had intended to offer but I am not going to be offering today because there is an amendment in the Senate Armed Services Committee that covers my concerns. That was the amendment I had drafted that is co-sponsored by Senators LIEBERMAN and COLLINS. I appreciate their support.

My amendment would have established an east coast ballistic missile defense site to make sure the east coast of our country is protected from missile threats. Let me describe why I thought it was very important. My amendment would have established both a study on three potential locations for an east coast missile defense site, an environmental impact study, and a plan for deployment of that site.

Which missile we are right now, unfortunately, is we have Iran, and no one disagrees that Iran has an active ballistic development program. They can already reach Eastern Europe. Many analysts believe Iran will be able to develop an ICBM and a land-based ICBM and to maintain an ICBM alliance United States with an ICBM by 2015. Our existing missile defense sites right now that protect this country have the capacity—if, for example, North Korea were to launch an ICBM toward our land United States, we would have an opportunity for two shots at that missile to protect our country.

In other words, if the President of the United States got an awful call that North Korea toward the western coast of our country, he would have an opportunity to have one shot, a look, then a shot to take that missile down to protect our country; two shots to take the missile away.

But as it stands right now, when it comes to the east coast of our country, including the Capital, Washington, DC, the center of our government where we stand right now, my home State of Florida, New Mexico, all those population centers, if Iran were to develop the capacity to have an ICBM, where we are today is we would only get one shot at that missile if it were to be shot at the eastern coast of the United States instead of a shoot, look, shoot that we have if North Korea were to shoot a missile toward the western part of our country.

I think this is deeply troubling. We should be developing that capacity to make sure our country is fully protected.

I would like to address others who have looked at this. This year the National Research Council recommended an additional strategic missile site in the United States in the Northeast to more effectively protect the Eastern United States and Canada, particularly against Iranian ICBM threats should they emerge. That is, of course, because some analysts believe they could develop that capacity as soon as 2015.

The markup coming out of the House Armed Services Committee already contains language and authorization for the actual establishment of an east coast missile site. That is one of the reasons I will not be offering my amendment today to conduct this study on environmental impact and development of the site. The House version already contains a requirement that an east coast missile defense site be developed.

Some would say—in fact, one thing I would like to address today may be heard from the administration that they are working on a hedging—and a different hedging strategy—to make sure the east coast is protected. And that hedging strategy would be plans to deploy the SM-3 Block IIB missile in Poland. But where we are today with the SM-3 Block IIB shows why it is important for us to use technology that already exists to protect the east coast; that is, because the SM-3 Block IIB is the same as a shoot, look, an east coast site. It doesn’t exist yet, and there have been concerns relayed about its development and, in fact, the development of the SM-3 Block IIB has already been delayed to 2021, which does not meet any of the threats that we are in a position that Iran could develop ICBM capacity by 2015. It just would not work.

But what we do know is that we already have technology that exists, and if we were to deploy a missile defense site on the east coast, that we would get the opportunity to have a look, shoot, look on the east coast were Iran to launch a missile toward the east coast of our country.

We need to talk this morning about an amendment that focuses on short-range missiles, a missile defense. Now, that is a system that the President has talked about. We have the opportunity to have a look, shoot, look on the east coast to protect this country; two shots to take the missile away.

There is no question that the more we hear about the behavior of Iran, the more troubled we should be as a country. Not only do they have a robust missile development program, but we all know they are also making efforts to acquire the capability of having a nuclear weapon.

Now is the time for us to act, not to find ourselves in 2015 with no plans as to how to deploy an east coast missile defense site to make sure the east coast of our country has the same protection as the west coast. Now is the time to act because, in addition, in 2012 in the defense authorization, we asked the administration to submit a plan to us as to how they would hedge, a hedging strategy to make sure the east coast was as protected as the west coast.

They have yet to submit that plan, and so now is the time for us to make sure we go forward with technology that already exists to ensure that the east coast of our country is protected.

I cannot imagine the President of the United States being in a position as we go forward in our country where, if a missile were coming from Iran toward our Capital, we would be told we only have one shot to take that missile down versus if a missile were coming to the west coast of our country in L.A. from North Korea, that we would have two shots to take that missile down.

We want to make sure our country is protected. The threat from Iran is a very real threat. That is why I was going to offer this amendment, to make sure we had a study, an environmental impact analysis and a plan that the Department of Defense could use to deploy an east coast missile defense site.

But my colleagues in the House, including Representative TURNER, have already addressed this issue directly with this amendment. It contains the House mark of the Armed Services Committee. I think it is very important what they have done.

I thank the Chair very much for giving me the opportunity to speak today.

The SPEAKER. The Senator from Arizona is recognized.

Mr. KYL. First, I would like to speak to the Senator's amendment. I want to compliment her, commend her and her other cosponsors—Senator LIEBERMAN, Senator JOHNNESON and others—in their effort to bring attention to what is clearly a great need that is going unmet. I agree the House's action is very important to begin to move this process forward.

The Senator's amendment is even less specific than the action taken by the House. We are going to need a study of the environmental impacts and evaluate possible locations. It is going to have to be done. It seems to me to have the Senate then sign on to anything that could begin that process, and so I support that very strongly.

I would also like to speak to some of the military requirements which go to the fundamental question of whether we are going to move forward. If the Senator does not want to speak further right now, I would like to speak to that issue.

Ms. AYOTTE. Yes. Thank you.

Mr. KYL. All right. Mr. President, as I said previously, this amendment doesn't require that the administration actually establish a site for an east coast defense, but I do believe such a site would provide an important and critical measure of protection for the east coast of the United States and also those in the southeastern part of the United States.

This has become more important due to the cancellation of earlier plans to deploy long-range ground-based interceptors in Poland. That is what it originally was going to do, to provide some protection for the United States. That would have provided what is called an "early shot" or a shot early in the trajectory of a missile coming from someplace—for example, the Middle East—toward the United States.

In conjunction with the missile defense sites that we already have in Alaska and in California, a site further toward the threat would provide what is called a multiple-shot opportunity or an ability in the event that there was more than one missile or one had to distinguish between decoys or one of our first missiles wasn't effective in reaching its target; it would give us, in effect, a second chance to shoot down the missile, which is always what we want to do in planning these kinds of missile defense systems.

In fact, that was the actual rationale for the actual basis for the third site deployment in Poland, to improve protection of the United States, while at the same time affording protection for our European allies against longer range ballistic missile threats from the Middle East.

This is a critical point. We are involved in missile defense not just to protect our allies, say, in Europe but also to protect the homeland of the United States. But the current administration's plan seems to be oriented toward protecting allies in Europe and not strengthening the protection of the people in the United States of America.

The administration says it can cover the ballistic missile threat from the Middle East with the current inventory of 30 ground-based interceptors. First of all, I seriously disagree with that assessment. If deployed, there is no way to know if that can be done for sure.

Let me cite the President's own Ballistic Missile Defense Review report, which says:

"Looking ahead, it is difficult to predict precisely how the threat to the U.S. homeland will evolve, but it is certain that it will do so.

So you can't say based upon what happened a couple of years ago, or the deployment of ground-based interceptors, that only 30 of them, bear in mind, are going to protect our homeland at all.

Now how does the administration then plan to make up for what it has done in terms of canceling programs that further develop the so-called Ground-Based Interceptor. Well, it plans to compensate for this loss of original Ground-Based Interceptor deployments with something that is called the IIB missile, the SM-3 Block IIB.

That is a missile that would be deployed in Poland, for example, but the problem is there is no SM-3 Block IIB missile. That is something that is in the minds of some scientists. It is on the vu-graphs. There are pictures of what it might look like, but there is no such missile.

Indeed, without discussing classified material here there is no way to know whether we are actually even going to be able to develop such a missile. In fact, its development, rather, has already been delayed to the year 2021.

Now, think about it. Think about it. This is 2012, and we wouldn't even begin developing such a missile for another 9 years? This is something way off into the future, if it works, and there is no commitment to deploy it and, indeed, the President has already talked with the President of Russia about further flexibility in designing our missile defense system. It is no secret that this is potentially on the chopping block, notwithstanding the commitments of the President earlier to deploy it.

The NRC has, in fact, recommended that there be an interceptor site on the east coast of the United States as a possible substitute for this Block IIB. This concern has been raised before, and the administration has yet failed to provide a hedging strategy that the fiscal year 2012 NDAA required. So we have known of this deficiency, the fact that the GBI system is not adequate, the fact that the SM-3 Block IIB system is not going to be deployed. We have asked for a hedging strategy.

So what do we do if none of this works, if we don't go forward with it? We don't have that even if the law has required it.

This amendment does is to shine an even brighter light on the concern that I have had for a long time, which is why the administration hasn't provided sufficient resources and attention to our missile defense efforts to protect the homeland of the United States. That is precisely what this would do. Sure, it would help with regard to our friends in Europe, but the primary point of this is to protect the American people. What is wrong with that?

Some examples that lead to my concern are that in his first budget, the President reduced funding for the ground-based system. That is the Ground-Based Midcourse Defense System. This was also an international missile defense system, by $500 million, $½ billion. Then another billion dollars was reduced between his fiscal year 2011 and fiscal year 2012, 5-year budget plans. So they have taken an enormous amount of money out of the development of the system that was supposed to protect the United States. The President cut back the number of Ground-Based Interceptors for the defense of the homeland.

Originally, under the Bush administration, it was going to be 44. Well, that is a pretty small number when you stop to think about it, but they have cut it back to 30. Then in addition they subsequently cancelled the 10 GBI interceptors that we were going to send to Poland for defense of the United States as well as the United States.

So they have not only cut back on the funding for the development of the program, they have cut back on the actual number of the interceptors that we have already developed for the European as well as the United States.

Third, the President curtailed any significant development and modernization of the GMD system, and he canceled the Multiple Kill Vehicle Program, which was intended to be a significant upgrade to the current Kill Vehicle. The current design is over 20 years old.

When we talk about a kill vehicle, of course we are talking about the nose of the missile that goes up, the interceptor missile, how it intercepts the ballistic missile in flight, how it finds it, how it triggers the final phase of the intercept, and how it actually penetrates that missile.

The technology has improved dramatically since the 20 years that has elapsed from the design of the original kill vehicle of the GBI. First of all, they have reduced funding for the program. Secondly, they have cut back the number of missiles in the program. Third, they have stopped the development of the next generation of the real business end of the missile, the kill vehicle, so that it can’t improve with technology and improve to meet the evolving threats that are developing missiles against us.

Remember, countries such as Russia, for example, have extraordinarily sophisticated multiple-entry vehicles with decoys and other technology to try to evade this defense that the United States has produced. If we don’t develop our technology and deploy it to keep up with these developments, we are not going to have an effective system.

Over the next 5 years the administration intends to spend $320 billion on regional missile defense compared with only $4 billion for homeland missile defense. So we are going to provide protection for our allies—European allies and so on—but only $4 billion over the next 5 years. That is about $1 billion a year on a system that is critical for the protection of the United States.

I would ask my colleagues to recall the Missile Defense Act of 1999, going all the way back then, which required the United States to build a missile defense system capable of protecting our Nation against limited ballistic missile attacks from rogue nations and protect against any accidental and unauthorized launches from any source. We need to ensure our homeland missile defense system is as robust as possible, and a missile defense site on the east coast may be one of the best means for accomplishing this.

In other words, of course, we are concerned about North Korea or Iran, but there are a couple other countries in the world that may not wish us any harm but that have extraordinarily capable systems—I speak specifically of China and Russia. We have always wanted—and the law requires us—to provide protection against the kind of unauthorized or accidental launch that can occur. This is not an idle concern. We spend enormous amounts of time and energy and money trying to make sure that our missiles are not launched by unauthorized or by some unauthorized event. That is one of the reasons for a missile defense system, to ensure that kind of accident never would result in harm to the United States. Of course, what they are also worried about is, if that ever happens, then there is the question of retaliation. How do we know this is not intentional? How do we know we shouldn’t retaliate?

Wars can be started almost by accident, and the best protection against that is a missile defense system that can ensure no harm is done even if there is such a launch. In the meantime, we can find out whether this is real, whether we need to respond, whether we need to start another war. That is the benefit of a missile defense system.

It is beyond me why the administration reduces the funding, cuts back the numbers, and kills the advanced technology we could put into our system to protect the people of the United States of America. I understand the difficult choices that have to be made in a time of austerity, but we are not talking about extraordinary amounts of money. The amendment of the Senator from New Hampshire simply calls for a study of the location of the site and what the impact of that would be. That is the first step in deciding where to put this additional bit of protection.

I think this is a priority. To oppose just the idea of investigating how we are going to be proceeding, especially with the little bit of money that entails, is difficult to understand. It is not too much; it is our moral responsibility to protect our people. It makes strategic sense because of the exposure of our American homeland to these long-range missile threats and because of the critical vulnerability we have right now.

The commander of NORTHCOM, the military entity with responsibility here—General Jacoby—told Congress last March:

No homeland task is more important than protecting the homeland from a limited ICBM attack . . . we must not allow regional actors, such as North Korea, to hold U.S. policy hostage by making our citizens vulnerable to a nuclear strike.

That is part of the problem. There are some people in the United States who actually believe it would be beneficial for the United States to be vulnerable to a missile attack from another country. They actually believe that would be advantageous. The reasoning is rather weird, but it goes something like this: If we develop defenses that could protect the American people, then other countries will want to develop even more effective systems to overcome those defenses, and that puts us into a spiral of arms development that would be very costly.

One can argue that theory, but there are a couple things wrong with it. First of all, recall this was the argument used against getting out of the ABM treaty. My colleagues for leaders who opposed the ABM treaty said our allies would not develop an antiballistic missile defense. It was going to create this big arms war between then-Soviet Union and the United States. It didn’t. Both sides have reduced our warheads. One of the reasons why is because it is so expensive, and the Soviet Union, now Russia, realized we could have driven them into bankruptcy. It is one of the reasons some Russian officials have cited for the collapse of the Soviet Union. They knew Ronald Reagan meant it when he said he was going to develop a missile defense system. They knew they couldn’t spend enough money to do it, if they tried, they would go into bankruptcy. It is expensive.

I don’t necessarily think we have to fear a new expensive arms race because there are very intelligent people in other countries, with RS-26R for example, who appreciate the fact that would be a fools’s errand. They may want to threaten, but they are not going to do it because they can’t afford it any more than we could if we were running the programs of the USSR. They know the United States has the resources to trump whatever they do come up with. That is the first point.

But the second point is the moral one. Is it moral for us to have responsibility for the national security of the American people to deliberately—knowing this is the case—leave them vulnerable to an attack that could kill millions of Americans every time? If we do not proceed with technologies of avoiding that result, we should. We do. We have that means. It may require a little bit more money. It may require not cutting back the number of interceptors we have deployed. It may require continuing with the advancement of technologies we know are out there. It may require siting missiles in a country of Europe, on Aegis cruisers or on the east coast of the United States. We know how to do all these things.

Is it moral for leaders who have responsibility for the people of the United States to leave our people deliberately vulnerable to an attack by others when we know we have the means to prevent it, and there is a cost-benefit that obviously favors the deployment of an additional site of ground-based interceptors?

I think for the Senator from New Hampshire to propose that we begin looking at where a new site might be and determine what the environmental impacts of that are as a complement to what the House of Representatives has already done in passing the bill that says we need to move forward is a perfectly reasonable step, and I commend him and the other sponsors of this amendment for bringing this matter to the attention of the Senate and to the people of the United States. This is part of our responsibility to our constituents and all the other citizens of our great Nation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alabama.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I just want to follow up on the remarks of my colleagues Senator Kyl and Senator Ayotte.

Last year, I asked for and obtained language in the Defense bill that would require the Defense Department to report on the effectiveness and need and ramifications of a hedging strategy for the United States, and that was due within 75 days of the bill being passed. My understanding is the Defense Department that actually funds moving forward with a hedging strategy on an American-based system to give us a layered defense, which I think is probably necessary but because we have not gotten a report from the Defense Department it is hard to know. I would first say it is not acceptable that we have not received that report. It has gone on too long. I guess I and Congress have been too reticent in insisting that it be produced.

I would suggest the Defense Department and the administration, we expect that report to be produced. I don't want to cause trouble in your world, but it has been made, it has been sent forward to have access to the people's representatives who have to make decisions about how we are going to defend America. I will be using the various rights I have as a Senator to move that forward. I wish to quote from a story in today's Washington Times, referring to a statement made by Mr. Fereidoun Abbasi, who is Iran's nuclear chief. The article states: "Iran will step up its uranium enrichment program by sharply increasing the number of centrifuges used to make nuclear fuel."

There are some people still saying we don't know if Iran wants to go forward with a nuclear weapon. How could this possibly be? They have been subjected to the most rigorous sanctions that are damaging their economy. Yet in today's paper their nuclear chief says they are accelerating their plans to go forward. There is no doubt about what they are doing. I wish it weren't so. I truly wish it weren't so. I had hoped they would change their mind. Maybe they will change their mind, but it is false to say they haven't made up their mind and they are not going forward to build a nuclear weapon. That is so plainly obvious I don't know how anybody could ever suggest otherwise. The only question is. Can we somehow bring to bear enough pressure on them to get them to change their mind? There is a long article about that in today's paper.

I was pleased Chairman Levin and both Democratic and Republican members of the Armed Services Committee produced a unanimous bill. Senator McCain and Senator Levin, both fine, wonderful leaders of our committee, and every member all signed off on the legislation. I think that speaks well for our committee. They also approved this language dealing with the failure of the Defense Department to produce an intelligence report—and it has a number of fact-finding points in it which I will share with my colleagues:

The Director of National Intelligence, James Clapper, has testified to Congress that . . . "Iran already has the largest inventory of ballistic missiles in the Middle East, and it is expanding the scale, reach, and sophistication of its ballistic missile forces, many of which are inherently capable of carrying a nuclear payload."

That is President Obama's National Intelligence Director, and he is the man to make the final opinion on that for the President. Let me quote additional language from the committee:

"The 2012 Annual Report to Congress on the Military Power of Iran by the Department of Defense states that "Iran has boosted the lethality and effectiveness of its existing missile systems with accuracy improvements and new submunitions payloads.""

Also in the report:

"North Korea warned the United States in October 2012 that the United States mainland is within reach of its missiles."

I will wrap up, since I can't talk much longer anyway. We have to recognize there are very dangerous countries with nuclear weapons—North Korea—or are rapidly developing them—Iran—capable of putting them on missiles and that have missile systems already. So North Korea and Iran's system they believe can reach the United States right now. We need to be sure our defense system is sufficient. I wish it weren't so, but that is the way it is. I think the Defense Department understands this.

I think the administration says it does, and we are doing some good things to be prepared for that. However, we have to confront this question of an east coast site, and we need this report. I believe we are going to need additional layered defenses, and we might as well prepare to do it. In the scheme of the entire investment in our national defense, it won't be the kind of expenditure that will break the defense budget. It is something we can work into our defense budgets.

I thank Senators Ayotte and Kyl for their comments.

I yield the floor.

Mr. McCain. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. Levin. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the question be suspended.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. Hagan). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. Levin. Madam President, we are waiting for Senator Cornyn to come to the floor, so speaking on the modified Cornyn amendment. We also are waiting for Senator Inhofe to come to the floor, and he will be speaking on a Hagan amendment. Then we will expect, after a fairly short amount of debate—perhaps 10 minutes—by addition to increasing perhaps a minute or two by the sponsors of the amendment, particularly in the case of the Hagan amendment, to describe the amendment, we would then go to a rollcall vote on both of those amendments. That is the plan. It is not yet in a UC agreement formally because we want to make sure we are protecting the Senators in terms of the length of time they need to debate or either their opposition to the Hagan amendment in the case of Senator Inhofe or their support of the Cornyn amendment in the case of Senator Cornyn.

We hope Senator Klobuchar will now be recognized for a few minutes to describe the amendment she has filed. She is not going to call them up at this point, but this would be a period for her to describe those two amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Ms. Klobuchar. Madam President, I thank Senator Levin and Senator McCain for their leadership, including their leadership on this very issue last year when the Defense Authorization Act was on the floor. Last year we made some improvements. Here is the issue. According to the Veterans Affairs Administration, a full one in five female veterans at VA facilities across the country says she has had an issue with sexual assault or harassment. In 2010 the Department of Defense cited more than 3,000 reports in the military. We know that the vast majority of our soldiers are law-abiding and would not engage in this kind of behavior, but this is clearly an issue, and we have seen an increase.

I would like to again take the time to recognize Senator Levin and Senator McCain, who last year supported the inclusion of the amendment that I introduced to preserve records of military sexual assault in the 2012 National Defense Authorization Act. Until that time, it was really up to each branch of the military as far as how long those records would be preserved. Thanks to the support of every woman Senator, we were able to get this changed, and so now these records are protected.

But there are still some additional changes that can be made. Those are the amendments that I submitted. There is a records retention amendment—and I am working with the chairman and ranking member on this issue—that once again tackles this issue. Unfortunately, not all records are being stored for 50 years, as was our agreement last year. Documents filed in a restrictive reporting setting are stored for just 5 years, and this amendment changes that.

Our second amendment, No. 3103, addresses another area of records retention, and its purpose is to target the issue of repeat offenders. As we all know, sex offenders are often repeat offenders, and what this does is target those that only substantiated charges of sexual offenses would be preserved in the permanent personnel file of the perpetrator.
I understand that the Presiding Officer, who is the author of this amendment and who is from North Carolina—and I am reading now from one of the Web sites, from a newspaper there saying that a private company backed by the Department of Defense will build a $130 million biofuel refinery in Sampson County, with an estimated 300 jobs there. They talk about what they may be doing through the Department of Defense. ChemTex was awarded a $9.3 million grant in June to convert more than 4,000 acres across 11 counties to begin producing miscanthus and switchgrass and biofuel conversions. The USDA, which is supposed to be doing this, estimates that last fall, will see a net revenue increase of $4.5 million in growing and selling grass.

I come to two conclusions on this. One is, as I just read, they are already doing it now in the State of North Carolina. They are already subsidizing these plants. That is their job, to evaluate and decide whether to subsidize these biotech plants or whether that should be a function of the Department of Energy. When we look at these—I asked my staff before—we didn't have notice, to my knowledge—I asked my staff on the floor to tell me whether there are any of these plants currently being subsidized by any way by the Department of Defense. His answer was no, after a very cursory look.

We do have the DOE and DOA, Department of Agriculture and Energy, doing that. I hope everyone here will look at this. I will actually join the author of this amendment in encouraging the Department of Agriculture and Department of Energy to look carefully at this, as well as some of our plants in my State of Oklahoma. On this list I am going to submit to the RECORD, there are about 100 plants scattered throughout the country, including my State of Oklahoma. We need to look at those and evaluate those and make the determination is this a function that this agency perform? If so, wouldn't it be more logical to do so as we are doing it today, through the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Energy and not use our scarce readiness—in this case Navy—dollars that are desperately needed to subsidize this?

I retain the remainder of my time. I know the Senator who is offering the amendment may want to make some comments. Maybe not. But I urge my colleagues to stop and realize this is something brand new, having the Department of Defense do a function that has heretofore been done by the Department of Agriculture and Department of Energy, and not this other way. When the appropriate time comes, I will ask for the yeas and nays on the amendment.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the next amendment in order to be called up is the Cornyn amendment. No. 3158: that after the Cornyn amendment is reported it be in order for Senator HAGAN or designee to call up her amendment, No. 3095; that there be up to 10 minutes of debate equally divided between the chairman of the Senate or his designee and the Senator from Texas who wish to speak. A couple of votes.

Mr. LEVIN. That means we would be voting on the amendment of Senator CORNYN first, the amendment of Senator HAGAN second.

Mr. MCCAIN. Ten minutes we will be ready to vote.

Mr. LEVIN. Unless there are others who wish to speak. A couple of votes.

Mr. CORNYN. Madam President, I thank the distinguished chair of the Armed Services Committee and ranking member for their work with us on this important amendment.

The Veterans Administration defines a backlogged claim as one that has been pending for more than 125 days. Scandalously, there are 600,000-plus backlogged claims in the Veterans’ Administration system and about two-thirds of all pending claims are backlogged.

There has been a lot of attention, particularly in my State and across the country, by veterans to this unacceptable situation. In my State we have currently at the Veterans’ regional office in Texas a State agency called the Texas Veterans Commission, calling the Texas Veterans Commission a “very positive story that we can branch out into . . . all of our stakeholders.”

At the same hearing, Mr. John Limpuse, director of the regional office of the Department of Veterans Affairs in Waco, Texas, testified that the “TVCA is working very, very well” with regional offices of the Department in Texas, calling the Texas Veterans Commission a “very positive story that we can branch out into . . . all of our stakeholders.”

The amendment is as follows:

SEC. 1084. PLAN TO PARTNER WITH STATE AND LOCAL ENTITIES TO ADDRESS VETERANS CLAIMS BACKLOG.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The Department of Veterans Affairs defies any claim for benefits under laws administered by the Secretary and considering that both Veterans Service Organizations and state and county service officers . . . are important partners in VBA’s transformation to better serve veterans.

(9) At the hearing before the Subcommittee on Disability Assistance and Memorial Affairs of the Committee on Veterans Affairs of the House of Representatives, on September 21, 2012, Diana Rubens, Deputy Under Secretary for Field Operations of the Veterans Benefits Administration, indicated that the Hispanic American Affairs Office of the Department of Veterans Affairs has experienced positive outcomes in projects with the Texas Veterans Commission, stating that both Veterans Service Organizations and state and county service offices . . . are important partners in VBA’s transformation to better serve veterans.

(b) REPORT.—

(1) In general.—Not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall submit to Congress a plan to reduce the current backlog and more efficiently process claims for such benefits under laws administered by the Secretary and more efficiently process claims for such benefits in the future.

(2) The Secretary shall include in the plan the following:

(1) A description of how the Secretary in paragraph (1) shall include the following:

(A) A summary of all steps the Secretary has taken thus far to partner with non-Federal entities in support efforts to reduce such backlog and more efficiently process such claims in the future, including the following:

(i) State and local agencies relating to veterans affairs.

(ii) Organizations recognized by the Secretary for the representation of veterans under section 5902 of title 38, United States Code.

(iii) Such other relevant government and non-government entities as the Secretary considers appropriate.

(C) A description of how the Secretary intends to leverage partnerships with non-Federal entities described in subparagraph (B) to eliminate such backlog, including through increasing the percentage of claims that are fully developed prior to submittal to the Secretary and ensuring that new claims are fully developed prior to their submittal.

(D) A description of what steps the Secretary has taken and will undertake to expedite the processing of claims that are already fully developed at the time of submittal; and
(ii) to support initiatives by non-Federal entities described in subparagraph (B) to help claimants gather and submit necessary evidence for claims that were previously filed but remain unresolved; and

(E) A description of how partnerships with non-Federal entities described in subparagraph (B) will fit into the Secretary's overall claims and information plan.

Mr. CORNYN. Madam President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. CORNYN. I yield the floor. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mrs. HAGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

AMENDMENT NO. 3095

Mrs. HAGAN. I call up amendment No. 3095.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from North Carolina [Mrs. HAGAN], for herself, Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota, Mrs. MURRAY, and Mr. UDALL of Colorado proposes an amendment numbered 3095.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To strike the prohibition on biofuel refinery construction

Strike section 2823.

Mrs. HAGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to add Senators Shaheen, Collins, Schumer, Stabenow, Whitehouse, Coons, Udall of New Mexico, and Tester as cosponsors.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. HAGAN. Mr. President, I spoke about this bill last night at length. I want to give a brief summary today of this amendment.

This bipartisan amendment would remove provisions from the underlying bill that prohibit the Department of Defense from participating in a program with the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Energy and private industry to develop advanced biofuels refineries. It is a 1-to-1 match that makes us a single consumer of fuel in the world. The DOD uses approximately 120 million barrels of oil each year, spending over $17 billion in fiscal year 2011. This dependency on a single source of energy leaves our military readiness at risk. When the price of oil goes up, it costs the Navy an additional $30 million. We are looking at an investment here of $170 million by the Department of the Navy. Last year alone, this additional fuel cost forced the Navy to pay an additional $500 million more because the price of fuel was higher.

Our senior military leaders recognize the importance of diversifying the fuel supply with advanced biofuels. The Navy Secretary Mabus, Chief of Naval Operations ADM Johnathon Greenert, and Marine Corps Commandant GEN James Amos wrote to the Armed Services Committee about this.

I ask unanimous consent to have their letter printed in the RECORD at the conclusion of my remarks.

(Signature)
I thank Senator HAGAN for offering this amendment. I urge all my colleagues to support this important amendment.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDENT: All time has expired.

AMENDMENT NO. 3158

Under the previous order, the question is on agreeing to amendment No. 3158 offered by the Senator from Texas, Mr. CORNYN.

The Senator from Michigan, Mr. LEVIN. Between the first and second votes we are having now, we will have an announcement as to the next part of this roadmap. I hope all Senators who wish amendments to be considered will come between and during these votes to Senator MCCAIN and myself and our staffs to discuss other amendments which are out there and which there is interest in pursuing.

The PRESIDENT: The yeas and nays were previously ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant bill clerk called the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from Missouri (Mrs. McCaskill) and the Senator from Oregon (Mr. Wyden) are necessarily absent.

Mr. KYL. The following Senators are necessarily absent: the Senator from Illinois (Mr. DURBIN), the Senator from South Carolina (Mr. DEMINT), and the Senator from Nevada (Mr. Heller).

Secondly, I know the leader was going to make this statement, but he had to leave for a minute, so I will make it for him. We are planning on staying late tonight, and everyone can expect to be here tomorrow. We are going to have votes tomorrow unless we somehow or other finish this bill tonight. The leader would have said that if he were here, so I am saying it for him.

The PRESIDENT: Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEVIN. Then we will line up some additional amendments. There are two we can line up now. I thought it was going to be four, but it can only be two at the moment that we would take up immediately after Senator Baucus speaks.

I ask unanimous consent, Mr. President, that following Senator Baucus’s remarks we then turn to Senator Merkley, who will call up amendment No. 3096 on Afghanistan, and following him Senator Portman, who will call up amendment No. 2995, and I do not have the subject of that amendment. The amendment (No. 3095) was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. MCCAIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. I ask unanimous consent to modify the consent agreement that the Senators from New Hampshire, Ms. AYOTTE and Mrs. SHAHEEN, have 15 minutes equally divided following the remarks of Senator BAUCUS.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment, in objection, is so ordered.

The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. I wish to take a moment to shine a light on a dark topic in my home State of Montana.

On Sunday I read something that hit me in the gut. The Billings Gazette reported that during 2010 at least 210 Montanans committed suicide. That is according to the Montana Department of Health and Human Services. That was 2010. In 2011 that number was 225. Another 5,600 Montanans attempted to kill themselves last year. That is a startling average of about 15 per day. In a State with roughly 1 million residents that is nearly twice the national average.

We in Montana have a saying that I think is quite accurate. Montana is really one big small town. We know each other, only about 1 or 2 degrees of separation. You know what. If you ask if we know Uncle Joe, we all know each other. We know somebody who knows someone very close to us. We know each other pretty well.

These numbers are devastating. Among the victims of suicide in Montana are children, parents, neighbors, friends, and sadly many are also our military veterans who return home only to be held behind an invisible enemy line known as PTSD.

In Montana, we are a proud home to more veterans than nearly any other State per capita. We also had more Montanans volunteer for service after 9/11 than anywhere else in the country per capita. There are nearly 300 Montanans serving in Afghanistan today. We are proud of these men and women, and we are grateful. We take our responsibility to honor them very seriously. So the statistics are all the more alarming. They are very important.

In 2011 a report from the Center for a New American Security found that from 2005 to 2010, all across the country a servicemember took his or her life almost every 36 hours. Matt Kuntz, the executive director of the Montana chapter of the National Alliance of Mental Illness, has described Montana’s suicide epidemic as a public health crisis. Matt knows all too well that behind each and every one of those numbers is a family and community devastated by the loss. Matt is a veteran himself. In 2007 he lost his stepbrother, an Iraq war veteran. I know Matt, and I knew his stepbrother. He lost his stepbrother to suicide. His stepbrother was so scared, so frightened to go back to Iraq after serving three or four tours of duty. He knew—he said to Matt: If I go back, I know I am going to die. So many of my friends and buddies have died. I know if I go back, I am going to die too.

That caused him to be very depressed, and it caused his suicide. So my friend Matt took action. He dedicated himself to raising awareness. Largely because of Matt’s dedication, the Montana National Guard led the way with a successful pilot program to increase screening of veterans both before and after deployment. That is national in Montana because, as I said earlier, we all live in towns. We know each other, we want to take action, and we want to get results.

I was proud to champion particularly the 2010 Defense authorization bill that took the Montana National Guard model, which we developed in Montana. With the DOD Defense bill, it is now implemented nationwide. Now every branch of the military has implemented screenings. We started screening before kids go over, as soon as they come back, 6 weeks later after they are back. After they are back, just continually screening, personal screenings. Thousands of health care providers have been trained under this legislation and, most importantly, thousands of servicemembers are now getting personal and private one-on-one attention from a trained health care provider.

There is still a lot more to be done, and I hope standards to advance the ball yesterday by passing the Mental Health ACCESS Act as an amendment to the current bill. I applaud Senator MURRAY for her work on the measure, and I am proud to be a cosponsor. This provision creates community health centers within the military to expand eligibility for VA mental health services to family members of veterans. It creates more peer-to-peer counseling opportunities, and it requires the VA to establish accurate, reliable measures for mental health services.

When duty calls, we in Montana answer proudly. This is about taking care of these men and women just as they have taken care of us. These people put their lives on the line in the name of our State, our country, and our freedom. We have a responsibility to try to do all we can to help them return to their families and live a reasonable, healthful life back at home. Too many Montanans are suffering in silence, as in other parts of the country.

Thank you for the opportunity to bring a voice to this important cause. Thank you, Matt, and thank you all for taking action in the Senate to further our efforts to give servicemembers and veterans the care and support they deserve.

I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mrs. SHAHEEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the quorum call be rescinded.

REMEMBERING WARREN B. RUDMAN

Mrs. SHAHEEN. Mr. President, I am pleased to come to the floor today, along with my colleague from New Hampshire, Senator AYOTTE, to honor the life and service of a distinguished former Member of this Senate and a proud son of New Hampshire, Warren B. Rudman.

Senator Rudman was widely and deservedly hailed in both life and now in his death as a public servant who reached across party lines to get the job done for his country and his State. Warren Rudman didn’t do this out of weakness, he acted so because of the strength and courage that marked his entire life. An Army combat veteran of the Vietnam War, Warren Rudman earned a Bronze Star Medal. He was an amateur boxer. As the attorney general for the State of New Hampshire, he was a ferocious prosecutor. His memoir was aptly entitled "Combat."

As a Senator, Warren Rudman relished taking on big battles. In the 1980s, he joined with Senators Fritz Hollings and Phil Gramm to tackle the deficit. The Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Act had been followed by subsequent Congresses, we would not be struggling today to reduce massive deficits.

He didn’t shrink from holding a President of his own party accountable either. He served on the congressional panel investigating the Iran-Contra affair. Nor was he reluctant to hold his fellow Senators accountable when he chaired the Senate Ethics Committee.

Warren Rudman's public service did not end after he left the Senate. Most notably, he cochaired with another former Senator, Gary Hart, a national security commission that correctly predicted a terrorist attack within America’s borders.

Warren Rudman was always blunt and outspoken. During the Iran Contra hearings he said to Oliver North:

"The American people have the constitutional right to be wrong. And what Ronald Reagan's Secretary of Defense Oliver North thinks or what I think or what anybody else thinks matters not a whit."

He said he left the Senate because Congress was "stuck in the mud of strident partisanship, excessive ideology, never-ending campaigns." That was how he saw Congress 20 years ago. Obviously, he was very aware of what was happening in this body.

But it was his more quiet work that Warren Rudman was most proud of. His greatest achievement, he said, was his behind-the-scenes efforts to get David Souter, another son of New Hampshire, nominated to serve on the Supreme Court.

Sometimes forgotten is Senator Rudman's authorship and successful push to enact the Small Business Innovation Research Program, which to this day still enables small businesses to compete for Federal research and development awards.

Warren Rudman lived a long and full life. His service graced the Senate, and to the end he had New Hampshire granite in his veins.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

"The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire, Ms. Ayotte, Mr. President, I join my colleague from New Hampshire, Senator Shaheen, in paying tribute to and honoring the life and legacy of Warren Rudman. Warren Rudman was a Senator from New Hampshire whose intellect, courage, and conviction brought great honor to this institution.

Warren Rudman embodied the very best of New Hampshire: frugal, fiercely independent, and totally committed to the common good. He didn’t aspire to be a politician, but when he saw the country was headed in the wrong direction, he stepped up to serve, and his focus was always doing the right thing for our country and the people of New Hampshire.

It wasn’t the first time Warren Rudman had been called to duty. He had already distinguished himself in the U.S. Army, serving as a combat platoon leader in Korea during the Korean War. It was there that he saw the horrors of war and became convinced of the need for American military supremacy and strength. For his brave service he was presented the Bronze Star.

Following his return home, Warren Rudman settled in Nashua, his hometown—also my hometown—where he raised his family. After completing law school, Warren entered private practice, where he remained until he was called to serve once again—only this time he was recruited to bring his energy and ideas to New Hampshire State government. Warren quickly proved himself as Governor Peterson’s chief of staff. Then, at age 39, he was appointed to serve as New Hampshire’s attorney general.

I am very proud to have also served as New Hampshire’s attorney general. In my view, Warren Rudman is probably the greatest attorney general to have ever served in New Hampshire. He modernized the office of the attorney general to meet the needs of a changing State. He was a tough-on-crime attorney general who personally tried criminal cases.

Warren Rudman earned a reputation for standing firm on principle even when it wasn’t popular. It was perfect practice for the battles he would later fight in Washington on behalf of the people of this country.

Warren ran for the Senate in 1980 because the issues he cared about were being neglected. He believed in a strong national defense and he saw the Nation’s fiscal situation careening dangerously off course. He was worried about the country he presented to our country’s future.

As a first-term Senator, Warren Rudman truly made his mark, and that is certainly not easy to do. But it showed his character, his leadership, and his persistence because Warren Rudman’s name will forever be linked with his landmark effort to rein in Federal spending. The Gramm-Rudman legislation was born of the bold idea the Federal Government shouldn’t spend beyond its means. When it was signed into law, annual deficits were $200 billion. Imagine how much better off we would be if we had heeded Warren Rudman’s warnings and truly followed through on the work he did in this body.

Warren’s zeal for responsible government went beyond reducing spending. As a former prosecutor, he was seen by his colleagues as someone who was committed to fairness, truth, and independence. When the Iran-Contra scandal erupted in 1986, the Senate moved to investigate and Warren Rudman was selected to serve as the committee’s top Republican. At the outset, he made one thing clear, and that always guided Warren Rudman in everything he did. This is what he said:

"I consider myself an American first and a Republican second."

That was a commitment he kept, helping to lead a nonpartisan inquiry that pursued the facts. He saw himself as asking tough questions on behalf of the American people and he expected answers. With the Nation in turmoil, Warren Rudman stood firm for the rule of law. His rigorous commitment to uncovering the truth brought credit to this body and great pride to the people of New Hampshire.

Of course, representing their interests was always Warren Rudman’s true passion. Warren Rudman had New Hampshire in his blood and he brought New Hampshire common sense to Capitol Hill. While Warren was at the center of some of the most consequential debates in Washington, he always put his constituents first. In fact, legislation he authored to help small businesses continues to benefit entrepreneurs to this day in the Granite State.

Shortly after arriving in the Senate, this bill he introduced on behalf of the State of New Hampshire and our country was a bill called the Small Business Innovation Research Act, which was aimed at bolstering small high-tech companies in New Hampshire and throughout the Nation. To this day, the SBIR Program continues to help small defense and technology companies through competitive grants, and it has been a very important program. That was the idea of Warren Rudman the day he came to the Senate, which is so impressive, and Senator Shaheen and I have proudly worked together across party lines to make sure this important program continues to be effective.

Warren Rudman will be remembered as a statesman, someone who loved his country and wanted to make it better. In bidding farewell to him in 1992, he expressed gratitude for the opportunity to serve with such talented colleagues in this esteemed body. He also expressed his hopes for the future of this body, and this is what he said:

"It is a very special place, with very special people, and I hope in the coming years the institution can coalesce to bring those talents together in a bipartisan way to do what is good for America."

As our country continues to face great challenges, may all of us remain mindful of Warren Rudman’s wise words and the powerful example he set for this body. Granite Staters throughout all New Hampshire mourn his loss, but we will never forget his legacy as an esteemed representative of the people of New Hampshire and someone who always put America first.

Mr. Leahy. It was a pleasure and an honor for this Senator to serve side by side with the late Senator from New Hampshire, Warren Rudman.
As we in New England knew and, of course, as the people of New Hampshire, and we neighbors in Vermont, especially knew—he was a skilled and accomplished legislator. He was a credit to this body. He was a catalyst for reform. He always kept his word. What was especially important to me personally is that he was a good and close friend. We traveled together, we worked together, and we never let our different political parties get in the way of doing things that helped our part of the country and the nation.

I think he was shaped by his experience as well as by his Yankee origins. An Army combat infantry commander, he saw much action during the Korean conflict before coming to the Senate. He had been a widely respected attorney general from New Hampshire. Senator Rudman embodied the characterizations that many of us call the old school of Senate values. We served together on the Appropriations Committee. We often worked together on national issues, as well as on behalf of our two adjoining States. As I said earlier, I think it was important that when Waryn Rudman gave his word, you could count on it.

He served during a time when Senators would readily put aside party affiliations to work together. When progress required compromise, as it usually does, he was able to help chart the way forward to accommodate different viewpoints and interests. Regrettably, that kind of bipartisanship at this point in the Senate’s history is too rare, and I think we have to work to recapture it.

In the can-do Yankee spirit, he took on difficult challenges and stuck with them. From national security and foreign affairs to budget policy, he dug into pressing and often prickly issues, and he made a difference.

Well after his retirement from this body—a voluntary retirement—he continued to serve the country he loved so deeply. Well before the attacks on our Nation of September 11, 2001, he and former Senator Gary Hart headed a national advisory panel investigating the threat of international terrorism. The sobering conclusions they reached about our susceptibility to terrorist attacks were prescient, but largely forgotten, until 9/11.

When I was asked to serve on the advisory board of the Warren B. Rudman Center for Justice, Leadership and Public Policy at the University of New Hampshire, of course I was pleased to accept. His legacy will be reflected well at the Rudman Center, just as his legacy of service and accomplishment will continue to be reflected and appreciated in this body.

Madam President, as I say this, it seems perfectly fitting that the distinguished Senator from New Hampshire is presiding: The Senate, and the Nation, are better for Warren Rudman’s service.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. MERKLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to call up Merkley amendment No. 3096, as modified.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oregon [Mr. MERKLEY], for himself, Mr. PAUL, and Mr. MANCHIN, proposes an amendment numbered 3096, as modified.

Mr. MERKLEY. I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be waived.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 3096), as modified, is as follows:

At the end of subtitle B of title XII, add the following:

SEC. 1211. COMPLETION OF ACCELERATED TRANSITION OF UNITED STATES COMBAT AND MILITARY AND SECURITY OPERATIONS TO THE GOVERNMENT OF AFGHANISTAN.

(a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that the President should, in coordination with the Government of Afghanistan, North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) member countries, and other allies in Afghanistan, seek to—

(1) undertake all appropriate activities to accomplish by midsummer 2013 the President’s stated goal of transitioning the lead responsibility for security to the Government of Afghanistan by midsummer 2013;

(2) as part of accomplishing this transition of the lead responsibility for security to the Government of Afghanistan, draw down United States troops to a level sufficient to meet this goal;

(3) as previously announced by the President, continue to draw down United States troop levels at a steady pace through the end of 2014; and

(4) end all regular combat operations by United States troops by not later than December 31, 2014, and take all possible steps to end such combat operations by the end of 2014 in a timely and responsible manner. It is time to bring home our sons and daughters, our brothers and sisters, our husbands and our wives as quickly and as safely as possible and put an end to America’s longest war.

We went to Afghanistan with two objectives: destroy al-Qaida training camps and hunt down those responsible for 9/11. Our capable American troops and NATO partners have accomplished the first objective: capturing or killing those who attacked America on 9/11. So it is time to put an end to this war.

Simply put, we are currently in the midst of a nation-building strategy that is not working. It simply makes no sense to have nearly 70,000 troops on the ground in Afghanistan when the biggest terrorist threats are elsewhere. President Obama recognizes this fact and has committed to a steady course of drawing down troop levels and handing over security responsibilities to the Government of Afghanistan. In contrast, the House-passed version of this bill calls for keeping at least 68,000 troops in Afghanistan through the end of 2014.

Let me give some details about what this short amendment does. It is a sense of Congress resolution that the President should undertake all appropriate activities to accomplish his stated goal of transitioning the lead responsibility for security to the Government of Afghanistan, drive down United States troops to a level sufficient to meet this goal.

This is the President’s goal, and our team has been working to make this happen; second, as a part of accomplishing this transition of lead responsibility for security to the Government of Afghanistan, drive down United States troops to a level sufficient to meet this goal.

Third, as previously announced by the President, continue to draw down U.S. troop levels at a steady pace through the end of 2014; and, very importantly, end all regular combat operations by the U.S. troops by not later than December 31, 2014, and take all possible steps to end such operations earlier if it can be done in a manner consistent with a safe and orderly drawdown of U.S. forces.

This amendment very clearly sets out that it is not to be construed that we are recommending or supporting any limitation or prohibition on any authority of the President to modify the military strategy, tactics, and operations of United States Armed Forces; or authorize United States forces in Afghanistan. It also clearly notes that we are recommending or supporting any authority of the President to modify the military strategy, tactics, and operations of United States Armed Forces; or authorize United States forces in Afghanistan. This amendment is designed to help draw down the war in Afghanistan in a timely and responsible manner. It is time to bring home our sons and daughters, our brothers and sisters, our husbands and our wives as quickly and as safely as possible and put an end to America’s longest war.
ability of the United States to authorize forces in Afghanistan to defend themselves whenever they may be threatened or to attack al-Qaeda forces wherever such forces are located. Moreover, we are not limiting in any way the provision of financial support and equipment to the Government of Afghanistan for the training and supply of Afghan military and security forces, nor are we interfering with the gathering of intelligence.

Essentially, the amendment boils down to this: Mr. President, you have laid out a course to end this war, and we support you in this effort and encourage you to continue this effort and, if conditions allow, to accelerate the pace.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I have looked at the amendment by the Senator from Oregon. He has made some modifications that I think are appropriate, and I support his amendment. I understand, however, that he will insist on a recorded vote, which is his right. But I see at this time no objection to the amendment as he describes it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. MERKLEY. Mr. President, I appreciate the partnership of my colleague from Arizona. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

AMENDMENT NO. 2965

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pending measure be set aside, and I call up amendment No. 2965.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Ohio [Mr. PORTMAN] proposes an amendment numbered 2965.

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, I ask that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To enhance authorities relating to the admission of defense industry civilians to certain Department of Defense educational institutions and programs)

At the end of subtitle E of title X, add the following:

SEC. 1048. ENHANCEMENT OF AUTHORITIES ON ADMITTING DEFENSE INDUSTRY CIVILIANS TO CERTAIN DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS AND PROGRAMS.

(a) NAVY DEFENSE PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM.—Section 7094(a) of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in the first sentence, by inserting "or professional continuing education certificate" after "master's degree";

(2) in the third sentence, by striking "125 such defense industry employees" and inserting "250 such defense industry employees";

(3) in the last sentence, by inserting before the period at the end the following:

"or an appropriate professional continuing education certificate, as applicable.

(b) UNIFIED FORCE INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY.—Section 9314(a) of such title is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1), by inserting "or professional continuing education certificate" after "graduate degree";

(2) in paragraph (2), by striking "125 defense industry employees" and inserting "250 defense industry employees"; and

(3) in paragraph (3), by inserting before the period at the end the following:

"or an appropriate professional continuing education certificate, as applicable."

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, this amendment is intended to expand the opportunities for defense industry employees to attend or participate in Department of Defense educational institutions and programs.

Specifically, the amendment will broaden the existing statute that authorizes defense industry employees to obtain a master’s degree at Defense Department schools, such as the Naval Postgraduate School, by also allowing them to obtain professional continuing educational certification.

Having key members of the defense industry exposed to the unique courses offered at these institutions is a win-win for the Federal Government. The industry pays the tuition and covers all costs associated with their attendance, and in the process our defense industry partners gain greater expertise in the military application of engineering and science, as well as acquisition and program management expertise.

Again, I believe this is a win-win for the government, and I ask for a voice vote of the pending amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendments were agreed to, as follows:

AMENDMENT NO. 2968

(Purpose: To extend the authority to provide a temporary increase in rates of basic allowance for housing under certain circumstances)

At the end of subtitle A of title VI, add the following:

AMENDMENT NO. 2962

(Purpose: To express the sense of Congress on the submittal to Congress of the homeland defense hedging policy and strategy of the Secretary of Defense)

At the end of C subtitle of title II, add the following:

SEC. 238. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON THE SUBMITTAL TO CONGRESS OF THE DOMESTIC DEFENSE HEDGING POLICY AND STRATEGY REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF DEFENSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Section 231 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public

(2) The report was required to be submitted not later than the date of the enactment of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012, namely by March 18, 2012.

(3) The Secretary of Defense has not yet submitted the report as required.

(4) In March 2012, General Charles Jacoby, Jr., Commander of the United States Northern Command, the combatant command responsible for operation of the Ground-based Midcourse Defense system to defend the homeland against ballistic missile threats, testified before Congress that “I am confident in my ability to successfully defend the homeland from the current set of limited range-long range ballistic missile threats,” and that “[a]gainst current threats from the Middle East, I am confident we are well positioned”.

(5) Phase 4 of the European Phased Adaptive Approach (EPAA) is intended to augment the currently deployed homeland defense capability of the Ground-based Midcourse Defense system against a potential future Iranian intermediate range missile threat by deploying an additional layer of forward-deployed interceptors in Europe in the 2020 timeframe.

(6) The Director of National Intelligence, James Clapper, testified to Congress that, although the intelligence community does “not know if Iran will eventually decide to build nuclear weapons”, it judges “that Iran would likely choose missile delivery as its preferred method of delivering a nuclear weapon”. He also testified that “Iran already has the largest inventory of ballistic missiles in the Middle East, and it is expanding the scale, reach, and sophistication of its ballistic missile forces, many of which are inherently capable of carrying a nuclear payload”.

(7) The 2012 Annual Report to Congress on the Military Power of Iran by the Department of Defense states that, in addition to increasing its missile inventories, “Iran has boosted the lethality and effectiveness of its existing missile systems with accuracy improvements and new submunitions payloads” and continues to develop missiles that can strike Israel and Eastern Europe. It also states that “Iran has launched multiple space-launch vehicles that could serve as launchers for developing long-range ballistic missiles technologies”, and that “[w]ith sufficient foreign assistance, Iran may be technically capable of flying-testing an intercontinental ballistic missile by 2015”.

(8) Despite the failure of its April 2012 satellite launch attempt, North Korea warned the United States in October 2012 that the United States mainland is within range of its missiles.

(9) The threat of limited ballistic missile attack against the United States homeland from countries such as North Korea and Iran is increasing.

(b) Sense of Congress.—It is the sense of the Congress that—

(1) the homeland defense hedging policy and strategy report required by section 233 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 is necessary to inform Congress on options to protect the United States homeland against the evolving ballistic missile threat, including potential options prior to the deployment of Phase 4 of the European Phased Adaptive Approach to missile defense; and

(2) the Secretary of Defense should comply with the requirements of section 233 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 by submitting the homeland defense hedging policy and strategy report to Congress.

It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) Department of Defense airfields, training airspace, and air training routes are national treasures that must be protected from encroachment;

(2) placement or emplacement of obstructions near or on Department of Defense airfields, training airspace, or air training routes has the potential of increasing risk to military aircraft and personnel as well as impacting training and readiness; and

(3) the Department of Defense should develop comprehensive rules and regulations to address construction and use of land in close proximity to Department of Defense airfields, training airspace, or air training routes to ensure compatibility with military aircraft operations.

(Purpose: To require contractors to notify small and disadvantaged concerns that they have included in offers relating to contracts let by Federal agencies)

(3) Sexual assault.
(4) Incest.
(5) Any other sexual offense.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I thank my colleague.

By the way, did we move to reconsider?

I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LEVIN. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, briefly I was just going over the list of amendments that have been filed. I urge my colleagues who want those amendments considered to come over and state their intention and we will move forward with the amendments. I keep hearing from my staff this Senator is not ready yet, that Senator is not ready yet. I hope they come over, we get these amendments in order and we will dispose of them as soon as possible since we are looking at a rather late evening this evening, and even tomorrow.

We need to move these amendments. I hope my colleagues will cooperate by coming over prepared to offer those amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. The Senator from West Virginia wishes now to speak on the Merkley amendment. Then it is our intention to move to a vote on the Merkley amendment.

AMENDMENT NO. 309K

Amendment No. 309K would express the Sense of Congress in support of the President’s stated goals for transitioning the security lead to the Afghan government and end the U.S. combat mission in Afghanistan by no later than December 31, 2014. The Sense of Congress supports the goals of: Accomplishing the President’s stated goal of transitioning the lead responsibility for security to the Government of Afghanistan by mid-2013 as part of that transition, drawing down U.S. troops to the minimum level required to meet that goal; continuing the drawdown of U.S. troop levels at a steady pace through the end of 2014; and ending “all regular combat operations” by U.S. troops by mid-2014 at the latest and by the end of 2014, and earlier to the extent consistent with a safe and orderly drawdown of U.S. troops in Afghanistan.

The Merkley amendment is consistent with President’s plans for drawing down U.S. troops in Afghanistan, and it is consistent with our best chances for success in securing Afghanistan.

It expresses this body’s support for the President’s transition goals which include the handover to Afghan security forces of primary responsibility for security throughout Afghanistan by mid-2013 and the completion of the security transition process by the end of 2014.

Transitioning to Afghan forces in the lead is the roadmap to security in Afghanistan. It challenges the Taliban narrative that commanders need to defend Afghanistan from foreign troops seeking to occupy their country. As Afghan officials recently told me, when they realize they are fighting their fellow Afghans in the Afghan Army, some of mid-level Taliban commanders have decided to put aside their arms and seek to re-integrate into Afghan society.

The Afghan people want to see their own Afghan Army soldiers and Afghan police personnel providing security for their communities. A recent public opinion poll that found that the overwhelming majority of the Afghan people have moderate or high confidence in the Afghan Army—93 percent. The Afghan police are also gaining the confidence of the Afghan people—82 percent confidence.

Afghan security forces have shown they are willing to fight. So far this year, Afghan soldiers and police have suffered more casualties—wounded and killed—than have U.S. and coalition forces.

As Afghan security forces assume more and more responsibility for the security lead between now and the end of 2014, NATO and coalition forces will gradually step back into a supporting role and their role.

The Merkley amendment reaffirms the President’s plan to end U.S. combat operations in Afghanistan by mid-2014 and not later than the end of 2014. This is also what was agreed by coalition partners at the NATO Summit in Chicago in May, when the U.S. and its allies declared, “By the end of 2014, when the Afghan Authorities will have full security responsibility, the NATO-led combat mission will end.” They also agreed to begin planning a new post-2014 training mission for which “will not be a combat mission.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. MANCHIN. Mr. President, I rise in support of the amendment of my colleague, Senator MERKLEY from Oregon, his amendment on Afghanistan. I know we all have good ideas. We all have input here. We all have our personal opinions. But it is time to bring our troops home from Afghanistan.

They have been there since October 7, 2001. They have defeated al-Qaida, they have killed Osama bin Laden, and it is time to bring them home.

Mr. President, 66,000 American combat troops still remain in Afghanistan. President Obama plans to reduce that number by “a steady pace” until they are moved completely out by the end of 2014. I would prefer a faster pace, as would my colleague, but as long as it did not jeopardize the safety of troops, because I think that is the most important thing we do. After all, the war has already surpassed the Vietnam war, your area and mine, Mr. President, as the longest in American history. It has already cost us dearly; more than 2,000 American troops have died for the cause and many thousands more have been maimed and more than $500 billion has been spent just in Afghanistan.

Even so, I support the bipartisan amendment sponsored by Senator MERKLEY. It backs the President’s current plan to end combat operations in Afghanistan by the end of 2014, but I support it because it also calls for a rapid transition of security operations from U.S. forces to Afghan security forces. Instead of the end of 2014, the amendment urges the transition to take place in the summer of 2013, this coming year. That, hopefully, would bring a quicker end to the U.S. involvement in combat in Afghanistan. This amendment merely expresses the sense of the Senate. It is not binding on President Obama and it will not affect any negotiations between Washington and Kabul on whether a residual force will remain in Afghanistan.

After more than 10 years, more than 2,000 American lives, and more than $500 billion, it is time to bring our warriors home to a hero’s welcome, time to focus our resources on rebuilding America, not on rebuilding Afghanistan. I have said many times on this floor, if you help us build a new road or bridge in West Virginia, help us build a school for our children, we will not blow it up or burn it down. It is time to help rebuild America for this great country and bring our heroes back to a hero’s welcome.

Mr. REID. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, we are now going to proceed to a vote on the Merkley amendment. As I indicated, the amendment expresses the support of this body for the transition and withdrawal of the President, including the handover to Afghan security forces of primary responsibility for security throughout Afghanistan by mid-2013, the completion of the security transition process by the end of 2014—and of course that has to do with the completion and transition. That is not necessarily by any means a withdrawal of all troops but it is the intent that all combat forces be withdrawn by the end of 2014. I emphasize it is a sense-of-the-Senate resolution.

After the disposition of the Merkley amendment, we then intend to move to the Whitehouse amendment. The Whitehouse amendment has been cleared by the chairman and ranking member of the committee of jurisdiction. However, there is a desire to debate and have a rollcall on that amendment. We are asking Senator Wurth to be prepared immediately after this vote to call up formally and debate his amendment and any opponent or opponents of the amendment to be prepared to debate it at that time. So it is our intent—and I ask unanimous consent—that immediately following the vote on the pending Merkley amendment, we then move to the Whitehouse amendment, and following the disposition of the Whitehouse amendment we then move to the Coburn amendment No. 3109, which will require debate, and, hopefully, we can work out a time agreement with Senator Coburn during this vote.

Finally, we are urging Senators who have amendments we have not yet addressed that they intend to press, or hope they can press, to meet with us during this vote so we can continue to make progress on this bill. We will be in tomorrow unless by some wonderful events we are able to finish this bill tonight.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I agree with the unanimous consent request—

Mr. LEVIN addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. I am sorry, I say to my friend from Arizona. We have to withdraw that unanimous consent request on amendment No. 3109 at this time. I want to try to see what the problem is. There is an objection to my request on this side. We are going to try to work out those objections during this rollcall vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. I move to object on this side. Senator Coburn wants the same privilege every Senator has; that is, to bring up his amendment. If someone objects to that, I hope that Senator will come down and object in person because this is holding up the progress of the bill. So if there is a Whitehouse amendment that is agreed to, then a Coburn amendment certainly should be allowed as well.

So we have to object to the unanimous consent request. Hopefully, during the vote on the Merkley amendment we can work out some agreement.

Mr. LEVIN. We understand Senator Merkley is on his way and wishes to speak for a minute on his own amendment, so I note the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MCCAIN. I move to lay that motion to reconsider the vote.

Mr. MCCAIN. I move to lay that motion upon the table.

The motion to lay upon the table was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, what we wish to do now is move to Senator Blumenthal's amendment which has been cleared and I believe can be voice-voted. I think that is the current situation.

Then as soon as that is done, I hope we will have an announcement as to where we go next. With the cooperation of one Senator, whom I do not see on this floor, we may be able to proceed to Senator Whitehouse's amendment, but I cannot quite announce that yet because we have to find that Senator and make sure that is not objected to. I would hope the chair would now recognize Senator Blumenthal.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, we have amendments we have not yet addressed that they intend to press, or hope they can press, to meet with us during this vote so we can continue to make progress on this bill. We will be in tomorrow unless by some wonderful events we are able to finish this bill tonight.

The two main objectives in Afghanistan were to take out the al-Qaida training camps and to proceed to pursue those responsible for 9-11. We have effectively pursued those missions. Al-Qaida is now much stronger around the world. A counterterrorism strategy that is appropriate in the rest of the world is appropriate in Afghanistan and it is unsound. But the newly adopted mission of nation building in Afghanistan has gone terribly off track. We may consider that schedule should be accelerated; that we can, with security for our troops and appropriateness for our mission, draw down at a faster pace.

We need to endorse the President's strategy and end this war—the longest war the United States has ever experienced.

I ask for the support of my colleagues.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I move to object on this side. Senator Coburn wants the same privilege every Senator has; that is, to bring up his amendment. If someone objects to that, I hope that Senator...
pendings as modified with the changes that are at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Connecticut [Mr. BLUMENTHAL] proposes an amendment numbered S29NO24, as modified.

The amendment No. S29NO24, as modified, is as follows:

At the end of title VIII, add the following:

SEC. 891. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “End Trafficking in Government Contracting Act of 2012.”

In the event an Inspector General decides not to investigate, it shall provide an explanation for the decision not to investigate.

Mr. BLUMENTHAL. Very simply, this amendment involves commonsense reforms that will ensure the performance of overseas contracts, paid for by our taxpayers, involving money in this very Defense budget, consistent with the values that we hold dear as Americans.

The Department of Defense has a special responsibility to lead in preventing human trafficking overseas, as this amendment would do. It is not only a matter of humane and moral values, it is a matter of getting value for the dollars we spend in protecting our national security.

The United States has and ought to have a zero-tolerance policy against government employees and contractor personnel engaging in any form of human trafficking. These values are transcendent of party lines, of any other interests. I am very proud to offer this amendment, in fact, with strong support across the aisle, led by my colleague Senator PORTMAN who is very active in one in forming a human trafficking caucus to lead the way on these issues. This amendment is the result of efforts we have led and very simply represents the most comprehensive legislative effort ever undertaken in the Congress to stamp out human trafficking in overseas contracting.

I am happy to yield to my colleague from Ohio, Senator PORTMAN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio.

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, I am pleased to join my colleague from Connecticut in offering this amendment, which is modeled on the bipartisan legislation we introduced in March along with a number of Senators on both sides of the aisle. We also recently joined to form a Senate caucus to end human trafficking, and I appreciate the chair and ranking member today for allowing this amendment to move forward.

The aim of this amendment is pretty simple. This amendment ensures that our contingency contracting dollars are spent in a manner that is consistent, as Senator BLUMENTHAL said, with deeply held values as a country. This is particularly important in the context of wartime contracting and reconstruction work.

This amendment comes from the work that both DOD and State Department IGs have done. The inspectors general have told us we lack sufficient monitoring to have the kind of visibility we need under the labor practices by our contractors and subcontractors who rely on a lot of third-party nationals to do overseas work.

It is the assessment of the Wartime Contracting Commission, which has reported what is described as evidence of the recurrent problem of trafficking in persons by labor brokers or subcontractors of contingency contractors. The report concluded that existing prohibitions on such trafficking have failed to suppress it.

One of the commission members, a former Reagan and Bush administration defense official, testified before our committee that the findings were, in his assessment, just the tip of the iceberg. So I think this legislation is appropriate. It directly affects this issue that has been raised now by the IG and by the Wartime Contracting Commission. This is a commonsense approach to it.

Broadly defined, we believe this will help to deal with the human trafficking issue that has been identified. It deals with recruiting workers to leave their countries and then enter our country with fraudulent promises, confiscating passports, limiting the ability of workers to return home, charging workers so-called recruitment fees that consume more than a month’s salary, just to name some of the abuses that have been identified.

I think it should be clear that the overwhelming majority of these contractors and subcontractors are law abiding, but we need to be sure these abusive labor practices are dealt with. This legislation will do so. I thank my colleague for raising it today. I am proud to join him in cosponsoring the legislation.

Madam President, I yield the floor.

Mr. INHOFE. Madam President, I call up amendment No. 2972.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment. We know of no objection to it. Rather than setting any amendment aside, just simply send it to the desk.

Is the amendment at the desk? Just call up the amendment, if the Senator would.

The amendment No. 3124, as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. MCCAIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. I ask unanimous consent to set the pending amendment aside for the consideration of amendment No. 2972.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the Senator.

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, I wonder if we could ask unanimous consent at this point to take up the Inhofe amendment. We know of no objection to it. Rather than setting any amendment aside, just simply send it to the desk.

Is the amendment at the desk? Just call up the amendment, if the Senator would.

Mr. INHOFE. Madam President, I call up amendment No. 2972.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the pending amendment is set aside.

The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oklahoma (Mr. INHOFE) proposes an amendment No. 2972.

Mr. INHOFE. I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To express the sense of Congress that the bugle call commonly known as “Taps” should be designated as the National Song of Military Remembrance)

At the end of subtitle H of title X, add the following:

SEC. 1084. SENSE OF CONGRESS THAT THE BUGLE CALL COMMONLY KNOWN AS “TAPS” SHOULD BE DESIGNATED AS THE NATIONAL SONG OF MILITARY REMEMBRANCE.

It is the sense of Congress that the bugle call commonly known as “Taps” should be designated as the National Song of Military Remembrance.

Mr. INHOFE. Madam President, this is something that I know will be accepted by both sides, by every Member here. It is a request by all the associations, the veterans and all the others. It is something I wasn’t familiar with until fairly recently, and that is, in July of 1862, following the Seven Days Battles, Union GEN Daniel Butterfield and bugler Oliver Wilcox Norton created “Taps” at Berkeley Plantation in Virginia.

This is something we are all familiar with, those of us who served in the military. We know what “Taps” is. It is a big deal to a lot of people, but it has never had an official designation. We have an amendment now that would be a sense-of-the-Senate that would designate the bugle call commonly known as “Taps” to be designated as a national military song of military remembrance. The reason I think it is significant to do it is it raises the song known as “Taps” to a national level of significance, specifically for the military veterans as a tribute when played during military funerals and ceremonies. This is a recognition of the various veterans organizations, and I would ask that it be adopted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the amendment?

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. MCCAIN. I move to lay the motion on the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, I know of no objection to the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. MCCAIN. I move to lay the motion on the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Madam President, I would now ask unanimous consent that Senator UDALL of Colorado be recognized for 5 minutes to speak as though in morning business.

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Madam President, I thank the chairman and ranking member of the Armed Services Committee for the recognition. I am a proud member of that committee, and I am also a member of the Intelligence Committee. From those vantage points, I am well aware of the threats that face our country.

Our military and our intelligence communities have to be prepared to counter threats from a wide range of enemies and bad actors. As we all know, our national security community is decisively engaged against those who would do us harm. When we capture those who are plotting against us, we are swiftly bringing them to justice by trying and convicting those terrorists in civilian courts and, when appropriate, in military commissions.

This is a flexible strategy that has empowered our terrorism community to help keep Americans safe since 9/11, and those brave men and women who spend every waking hour defending this country have been successfully using our laws to pursue terrorists around the globe. But last year Congress changed some of those laws, against the wishes of our military and intelligence communities. Those detainee provisions last year suggest that our military should shift significant resources away from their mission and to instead act as both a domestic law enforcement agency and jailer with respect to terrorists. They also call into question the principles we as Americans hold dear, because they could be interpreted as allowing the military to capture and indefinitely detain American citizens on U.S. soil without trial.

I joined our highest ranking national security officials in warning my colleagues about the dangerous change that such policies would make and I urge us not to pass them. We have to get our detainee and counterterrorism policies right, but unfortunately I believe the policies that were enacted last year complicate our capacity to prosecute the war on terror and in the process erode some of America’s constitutional principles, both of which concern all of us.

I have been working with the administration to ensure that those detention policies are not harmfully interpreted by itself to remain a problem. Several of my colleagues, including the Senator from Kentucky and the chairwoman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, Senator Feinstein, have suggested changes to the law that will help repair the flawed policies enacted last year.

I have also crafted my own legislation working with the ranking member on the House Armed Services Committee, Congressman Adam Smith from Washington, to repair some of the harm that I believe was done in last year’s NDAA. I filed that bill to this year’s NDAA as amendment No. 3115, along with the chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Senator Leahy.

Senators Feinstein and Paul have a slightly similar but different approach, created as a result of the detainee provisions passed last year. There are efforts under way to assure that whatever path we take forward is supported by the greatest numbers possible, and I look forward to hearing part of those important discussions.

I know we addressed this issue in part last year, but in speaking with other Members I know there is a renewed interest in getting our detention policies right, both from the view of counterterrorism effectiveness and constitutional protection. I believe both security and freedom are critically important, and I don’t think we have to choose one over the other.

I urge us for remaining diligent in addressing the detention policies that remain a concern, because Americans must remain engaged on this issue.

Madam President, I yield the floor, and I note the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that Senator Thune be allotted 7 minutes to speak on an amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. THUNE. Madam President, I am working with the managers of the bill to try to address concerns they might have on an amendment I have filed at the desk and hope to get accepted. But I wish to speak to it now, if I might.

Essentially, the amendment is just a sense of Congress regarding the Federal Government’s use of spectrum, and, in particular, spectrum use of the Department of Defense is a very important resource to the Department of Defense, and it is a very important resource to the private sector.

Unfortunately, spectrum is becoming a scarcer and scarcer resource, and it is increasingly critical to be able to get a better and more efficient management of this scarce resource. Demand for spectrum is sharply rising due to the growing advanced network of communication devices that rely on spectrum to transmit and receive information. The rise of mobile devices, such as smart phones and tablets, the iPhone and iPad over the past few years, are the reason for this sharp rise in demand for spectrum.

According to a recent study by Cisco, last year’s mobile data traffic was eight times the size of the entire global Internet in 2000. The Cisco study predicts that global mobile data traffic will increase eighteenfold between 2011 and 2016 at a compound annual growth rate of 75 percent, reaching 10.8 exabytes per month by 2016.

The rise in the smart phone and the tablet has contributed significantly to our Nation’s economy. The Nation’s mobile communications industry, by one estimate, directly or indirectly supports 3.8 million jobs, contributing $195.5 billion to the U.S. gross domestic product, and driving $33 billion in productivity improvements in 2011.

With all that has gone wrong with our economy over the past several years, it is important that we as policy makers nurture the growth of the economy, especially where growth is already happening and, in fact, is exploding. We need to enact smart regulations that are growing along with the spectrum. I know the spectrum issue isn’t easy to understand or to manage, but it is crucial we seek to better manage this scarce resource, and where it is possible to allocate more of the scarce resource to the private sector where it can create jobs and grow the economy.

That is the reasoning and purpose behind my amendment. The Federal Government controls the vast amount of spectrum for its own use. It is probably not all used as managed as it could be. Undoubtedly, a sufficient amount of this spectrum could be made available to help create jobs and grow the economy.

One of the low-hanging fruits we can deal with almost immediately is the band of spectrum known as the 1755-to-1780 megahertz band. This spectrum is particularly well suited for reallocation to commercial use because it is identified internationally for commercial mobile services and is used for that purpose throughout much of the world. This 1755-to-1780 band is also immediately adjacent to existing domestic wireless spectrum and would fit seamlessly into the current mobile broadband spectrum portfolio allowing for more immediate equipment development and deployment.

There is no reason for further delay in the reallocation of the 1755-to-1780 band for commercial use. This band was identified for commercial broadband use internationally at the 2000 World Radio Communications Conference over 10 years ago. Despite the international designation of the band for advanced wireless use, it is still allocated domestically for government use, heavily by DOD. The National Telecommunications and Information Administration, or NTIA, the agency which is responsible for all government spectrum, did not yet reallocate the band for commercial use, it is already identified internationally for commercial mobile use.

In March 2012, NTIA released its latest report assessing the availability of the band. Unfortunately, the 2012 NTIA report contains no firm deadline for action, and no clear path for making the band available for commercial use. It contemplates a potential 10-year timeframe and potential shared use of spectrum but defers any formal recommendation regarding reallocation until the completion of still further study.

Had NTIA acted when the first band was allocated internationally for advanced wireless use, the band might already be available for commercial services. Without a firm deadline, DOD is unlikely to agree to reallocation, and the prospects for reallocating the 1755-to-1780 band for commercial use remain slim.

That is why my amendment urges the President to direct Federal users on that 1755-to-1780 band to prepare, not later than May 31, 2013, a reallocation plan that includes the cost of relocating from this band, and urges the Federal Communications Commission to reallocate this band to commercial use.

I hasten to add that it is important the cost of relocating the band should be verifiable and transparent. The report for the underlying bill requires the Government Accountability Office to determine if the cost of vacating or sharing the 1755-to-1780 band is sufficiently captured in estimates. I look forward to the GAO’s report on this issue.

There are those who may voice concerns about how this impacts our national security. I take a back seat to no one in being pro-military. I sat on the Armed Services Committee for 6 years. I have an Air Force Base in my State that I care deeply about. It is important to understand that existing law provides ample protection to DOD for the relocation to replacement spectrum.

There are those concerned about the cost to DOT to relocate. The law requires DOT relocation costs be covered by the Spectrum Relocation Fund, which is funded through the proceeds of the auction of the band to commercial licensees. If the auction does not raise 110 percent of the relocation cost, the auction would be canceled, assuring that incumbent users are made whole. Moreover, as part of the U.S. Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act of 2012, Congress expanded the scope of funding from the relocation fund to include the cost of planning for relocation.

I am confident the Pentagon and the larger Federal Government can more efficiently manage its spectrum holdings and make available additional spectrum to help grow our economy and create jobs.

I hope, Madam President, that we can work this out to have it included as part of the Defense authorization bill. I certainly believe it is an amendment that is important with regard to the issue I mentioned, which is the reallocation and relocation of spectrum in this country to allow for multiple uses—obviously, important private commercial uses—out there and an enormous demand, a demand that is adding significantly to our economy and creating jobs for literally thousands and millions of Americans.

Madam President, I yield the floor.

Mr. LEVIN. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The assistant legislative clerk reports as follows:

The Senator from New York [Mrs. GILLIBRAND], for herself, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. BLUMENTHAL, Mr. KERRY, Mr. BROWN of Massachusetts, Mr. BROUCH, and Mr. MENCHENDEZ, proposes an amendment numbered 3058, as modified.

Mrs. GILLIBRAND. I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(2) OFFSET.—The amount authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2013 by section 301 for Operation and Maintenance and available as specified in the funding table in section 4301 is hereby reduced by $45,000,000.

Mrs. GILLIBRAND. Madam President, I rise today on behalf of the 30,000 military families who have loved ones with disabilities, including those on the autism spectrum. Sadly, thousands of these Americans suffering from autism and other developmental disabilities are not receiving the treatment that best practices has determined they need.

For example, military families with children on the autistic spectrum are receiving fewer services than their civilian governmental counterparts across the country, many of whom have been rightfully aided by laws passed in over 60 percent of our States, representing over 75 percent of the American population.

Autism places such tremendous strain on our families—health strains, financial, and emotional. They take such tolls. I want to share briefly just a couple of the stories I have heard from struggling military families. They have done everything we have asked of them in their nation, but now they can’t even provide for their children.

One veteran was severely wounded in Iraq while heroically serving his country. His injuries were such that he was forced to retire. Because he is retired, his autistic son Shane was no longer able to receive the applied behavioral therapies that were recommended. The wait list for the Medicaid waiver services were he lived, So Shane’s family had to sell their home to pay the roughly $5,000 per month out of pocket for the ABA treatment he so desperately needs.

The money is running out for their family, and they do not know what to do. But they want to do what is best for their son. Without this relief, we risk allowing brave military families just like this one to fall through the cracks.

Another story: A marine on Active Duty serving in Iraq and Afghanistan three times has maxed out all his ABA therapies to treat his 11-year-old autistic son Joshua. Joshua is nonverbal and his safety is a key concern for his family. So Joshua is prescribed 35 hours of ABA therapy per week. Because of the severity of Joshua’s symptoms, the family is basically faced with the impossible decision of either foregoing the recommended therapeutic services or sacrificing their quality of life. They have done everything we have asked of them in their nation, but now they can’t even provide for their children.

I don’t believe this should ever happen to our military families. I don’t believe this should happen to any child, and that is why I am introducing my amendment to require TRICARE to cover the recommended ABA therapies that a doctor prescribes. It would be a matter that is consistent with the best practices across the country and in the rest of the Federal Government.

Our children need this kind of support—Shane and Joshua need this kind of support—and we should be standing by our men and women who serve in the military because they stand by us. Every parent who has a child with autism or another disability faces challenges to ensure their child has access to the services they require for them to function in these military families, the challenges are even greater and often compounded by frequent deployments overseas, the frequent moves to different bases across State lines, and sometimes significantly different types of care from family to family. TRICARE that isn’t right. And what the Senator from New York is doing is telling the assessment of the Senator that is not.

Today, TRICARE coverage of ABA is severely limited. It is capped at $36,000 per year for an Active-Duty member, which falls far below what is medically recommended for so many of these children.

This care is limited to Active-Duty servicemembers only. Guard and Reserve families receive intermittent care, and children of retirees can’t even get coverage at all. As a consequence, military families often must turn to State Medicaid Programs to help provide these services to their children. But the problem is that these services are often unavailable because of long wait lists. In Maryland, for example, the wait list is 7 years long—essentially eliminating ABA coverage during the early developmental years when a child needs it most. The wait list in Virginia is 10 years long.

Even more remarkable than TRICARE not covering these treatments is that the Office of Personnel Management has determined that such treatments may be covered as medical therapies for Federal civilian employees. A recent court decision, which the DOD is still reviewing and may appeal, determined that TRICARE must cover these treatments. But this decision is being applied under the most narrow definition in the interim, limiting the potential providers. This amendment requires TRICARE to provide coverage and deliver services in a manner that is consistent with the best practices, thereby improving access to care for our military families and aligning the TRICARE policy with coverage that is basically available to anybody else in the civilian sector.

I believe we have a duty to stand by our military families. We have to address this difficult medical issue. We ask so much of our men and women who serve in the military. We must support their families. This amendment simply fulfills that promise.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. COBURN. Madam President, first, I wish to announce that I agree with the assessment of the Senator from New York in terms of the treatment that she should be offered. I have no problems with that. I think she is right. There are a lot of other things in TRICARE that aren’t right. And what the Senator from New York is doing is admirable, but there is a portion of it that is not.

With the modification to her amendment, she has now raised the total cost of this amendment over the next 10 years to $19.9 billion. And it is true that she has managed to insert with some excess funds that will be spent before the end of the year that won’t be there by the time the money for this is used to pay for it. So she does meet that standard, but she does not meet the standard for the next 10 years.

So we are in the midst of this large discussion about how are we going to get out of this fiscal mess. I take her at face value. She really does want to reform TRICARE and fix it. But realize that TRICARE hasn’t had a premium increase since 1995, and all it would take to pay for this is a $2-per-month increase in premiums for those on TRICARE. And it is just TRICARE Prime; it is not TRICARE Standard and TRICARE For Life. It is just $2. Madam President, $550 per year covers your whole family, with no deductibles and no copays right now. It hasn’t been increased since 1995.

So one of the things we ought to do is we ought to work to bring TRICARE standards up to make sure they meet the needs of everybody. I don’t disagree with that. But the other thing we ought to do is we ought to pay for it.

Here is what we ought to do. Take something we are coming from to pay for this, this very well-inentioned and proper thing? The way it is written now by the Senator from New York, this will come out of the operations and maintenance fund. So the problem is that this very far away from what the child will have less flight time, less drill time, less shooting time, less preparation time to go out and be a warfighter. And as we think about the 10-percent across-the-board cut that is coming or the $500 billion that is proposed to come out of the Defense Department, none of it is going to come out of TRICARE.

So what we ought to do is we ought to fix these things, but we ought to fix them with a whole new hole in the bottom. Before Secretary Gates left, he said the biggest thing that is eating the lunch in the Defense Department is the department of health within it that manages the health care because we have not done an appropriate job of having a slight rise in premiums to cover some of the tremendous benefits. Nobody else in the country gets the benefits we give with TRICARE. Nobody—$550 a year per family, $275 if you are single, and no deductibles. All it would take is $24 a year by our TRICARE Prime to pay to make sure that the people with disabilities and the people with autism have the appropriate therapies and they are covered under TRICARE.

So I would ask my colleague from New York if she would mind withdrawing her amendment, to be voted on later, that I might be able to offer a second-degree amendment and maybe in that way or another way pay for this. We are going to do it on, that we could find $1.9 billion over the next 10 years to actually pay for the cost of this over the next 10 years. We didn’t have time to do that beforehand. I don’t know if she would be willing to do that. But there is no way you should just take another $1.9 billion out of the operation and maintenance program for our troops to health care. We ought to eliminate something. We oughtn’t to take this from their training time, flying time, shooting time, or sailing time. We ought to be taking it from somewhere else, but that is where this is going to come from.

I applaud what she is doing. She is right about fixing the problem. She is totally opposite of what we should be doing in terms of paying for it, and I would offer to work in good faith in the next hour to try to come up with a second-degree amendment that would be acceptable to my colleague and to the chairman and ranking member of this committee that would actually pay for it.

Madam President, I yield the floor and reserve the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senate is now 4:28 p.m. The time of the Presiding Officer is 4:28 p.m. The time of the Senator from New York is expired. burden on the taxpayers of America which someday is going to have to be paid for—someday. It may not be in this bill, but someday it is going to have to be paid for.

Obviously this amendment is going to pay for this program. The Senator from New York tell us how we are going to pay for it. I don’t think that is an outrageous demand.

Madam President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New York.

Mrs. GILLIBRAND. Thank you my colleagues for their statements of support for meeting the needs of the children who do suffer from autism and other developmental disorders, and I do appreciate and believe their sincerity in wanting to make sure they are covered with the treatments they need.

I think we can work together to reform the TRICARE system. It is one that has not had the kind of reform it needs—just an authorization for 1 year to meet the needs of these kids now because I don’t want to wait until we figure it out and figure out the rest of the program.

In addition, we did have a hearing. We had scientists and doctors and those who are medical professionals come to testify in front of the Armed Services subcommittee. Through that testimony we established that the only reason the DOD wasn’t covering this was because they believed it was an educational program. And what we established and what the medical literature says is that it is actually a medically necessary treatment in the same way you would give a child who is sick a medicine.

I want to address the needs of these kids now. I will commit to working with the Senators to reforming TRICARE so we can actually pay for programs over the long term and reform it in a way that is consistent with the benefits our troops so desperately need.

Mr. COBURN. Madam President, might I ask through the Chair the Senator from New York if she would consider for a short period of time withdrawing her amendment and allowing me to develop a second-degree amendment that would actually pay for this program for 1 year—does the Senator from New York really believe that once we start treating children with autism, we are going to terminate that program? Does she really believe that? Of course not. Of course not.

We have an obligation to the men and women, the citizens of this country whom we have saddled with a $16 trillion debt to find ways to sacrifice ourselves flasically to pay for worthwhile programs. So I support a second-degree amendment from the Senator from Oklahoma, which is his right. It is his right to do so. And I don’t see how we fulfill our obligation to our citizens by continuing to authorize and appropriate expenditure of their tax dollars without a way to pay for it except to take it out of our taxpayers’ pockets.

That is not right. That is not right. The Senator from New York knows it is not right for us, no matter how worthy the cause, for us to continue this continued spend, spend, spend, debt, debt that the American people are saddled with. I probably will not be paying for the national debt but my kids and my grandchildren will. Can’t we do for once say: Look, this is a worthwhile program, we all support taking care of people with autism, and here is how we are going to pay for it. That would be a unique experience around this body.

I yield.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. COBURN. I yield the remaining portion of my time.

Mrs. GILLIBRAND. I yield my time. Mr. COBURN. I think my colleague from New York would like to ask for the yeas and nays.

Mrs. GILLIBRAND. I request a voice vote.

Mr. LEVIN. Is there anyone seeking the yeas and nays?

Mrs. GILLIBRAND. I request a voice vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. COBURN. I think we ought to have a recorded vote on this since we are not paying for it and we are taking $1.9 billion out of the O&M budget of the Defense Department. I ask we have a recorded vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There appears to be a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the amendment. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from New Jersey (Mr. LAUTENBERG) and the Senator from Oregon (Mr. WYDEN) are necessarily absent.

Mr. KYL. The following Senators are necessarily absent: the Senator from Illinois (Mr. KIM), the Senator from South Carolina (Mr. DEMINT), and the Senator from Nevada (Mr. HELLER).

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. COONS). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 66, nays 29, as follows:

The amendment (No. 3058) was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mrs. BOXER. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I believe Senator PORTMAN may be ready with an amendment that has been cleared and, I believe, can be voice-voted. I am wondering if my friend from Ohio could confirm to my understanding that he is ready to proceed and that he is willing to take a voice vote on this amendment?
Mr. PORTMAN. Yes. That would be great. I am willing to take a voice vote, and I believe it is going to be accepted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Ohio seek recognition?

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, I do seek recognition.

AMENDMENT NO. 2956

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pending amendment be set aside and call up amendment No. 2956.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the clerk will report the amendment.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Ohio [Mr. PORTMAN], for himself and Mr. AKAKA, proposes an amendment numbered 2956.

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be set aside and call up amendment No. 2956.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To require a report on Department of Defense efforts to standardize educational transcripts issued to separating members of the Armed Forces)

At the end of subtitle F of title V, add the following:

SEC. 561. REPORT ON DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE EFFORTS TO STANDARDIZE EDUCATIONAL TRANSCRIPTS ISSUED TO SEPARATING MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report on the efforts of the Department of Defense to standardize the educational transcripts issued to members of the Armed Forces on their separation from the Armed Forces.

(b) ELEMENTS.—The report required by subsection (a) shall include the following:

(1) A description of the similarities and differences between the educational transcripts issued to members separating from the various Armed Forces.

(2) A description of any assessments done by the Department, or in conjunction with educational institutions, to identify shortcomings in the transcripts issued to separating members in connection with their ability to qualify for civilian educational credits.

(3) A description of the implementation plan for the Joint Services Transcript, including a schedule and the elements of existing educational transcripts to be incorporated into the Transcript.

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, this is a pretty simple amendment. It has to do with correcting a problem that we have found in Ohio and around the country. Amendment No. 2956 simply calls on the Secretary of Defense to work to standardize the educational transcripts of separating servicemembers. I appreciate Senator AKAKA’s leadership and cosponsorship of this amendment.

It is an important issue to a lot of our veterans as they are seeking to pursue their educational opportunities after being in the service. If they seek to use the GI bill or other benefits to further their education after taking off the uniform, they sometimes find they have an issue of getting credit for work they have done in the service.

Each servicemember is issued a transcript upon leaving Active Duty. The transcript should include training and instruction to academic credits. Colleges and universities then use these transcripts to award transfer credit to veteran students.

Unfortunately, there is a significant difference in the types of transcripts issued by each of the military services. As a result, two veterans from different services who took the exact same military courses could receive significantly different academic credit at the same school. If we multiply that across all the services, all of our veteran students, and across all the colleges and universities in this country, we end up with some real issues. We end up with many veterans losing out on credit they deserve as well as very well-intentioned colleges and universities spending a lot of time and resources trying to make sense of all these differences to help this process for veterans. It often falls on the Veterans Service Offices in these schools, and as my colleagues know, these Veterans Service Offices should be spending their time assisting veterans with their transition to academic life, which is sometimes a challenge.

Ohio has been leading on this issue and has organized public and private schools, our State board of regents, and even the Ohio National Guard to try to bring some sense to this. That has been helpful, but it would be far easier and far better to standardize the military transcripts themselves. It would avoid, again, a lot of the issues, a lot of the bureaucracy.

The Defense Department has recognized some of these issues, and I think they have started down the path of developing a joint services transcript. This is an important first step, and through this amendment we seek an understanding of those requirements and their implementation plan for this kind of initiative, should it be in place, in order to see it on a path to a swift and thorough resolution.

So I think this is one that, again, as the chairman was asking, could be voice-voted. I hope it will be.

So, Mr. President, I ask for a voice vote on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there any further debate on the amendment?

If not, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 2956) was agreed to.

Mr. PORTMAN. I yield the floor.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. PORTMAN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. I wonder if we could get a unanimous consent that Senator CASEY be allowed to proceed as in morning business to comment on filed amendments for—I am sorry, was it 10 minutes?—10 minutes. I ask unanimous consent that Senator CASEY be allowed to proceed as in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Pennsylvania, Mr. CASEY. Mr. President, I rise today to talk about our Nation’s military in light of the legislation we are considering. I commend Chairman LEVIN and Ranking Member MCCAIN and all those who are working on it. I just have some comments on a number of amendments and a few issues.

For more than a decade now our Nation has been at war. In that time period, the men and women of the U.S. Armed Forces have courageously served in Afghanistan and Iraq, assisted communities after disasters, and continued to provide stability across the world. As the military draws down from foreign engagements and strategic directions are reassessed, the Senate should do the same with regard to these issues.

Unlike previous debates on the National Defense Authorization Act, this year the bill before us seeks to clarify the role of the military for the next decade or more.

We are being asked to evaluate how large our military needs to be as we assess our near- and long-term threats. We are being asked to evaluate what equipment and resources this fighting force will need to keep the peace and to combat new aggressors, all while we are being asked to evaluate programs we have introduced over the past decade to support our servicemembers and their families.

There are just a couple issues that are relevant to this debate, one which has particular significance for southwestern Pennsylvania. This is with regard to the military’s force structure. I have been alarmed at two proposals submitted by the Air Force as it seeks to restructure.

In Pennsylvania, the Air Force has sought to eliminate the Pittsburgh Air Reserve Station where approximately 1,500 Reservists and civilians are committed to serving our Nation. After numerous briefings and airmen from the Air Force have yet to provide us—to provide my office and I think other offices as well—with a thorough analysis of several of their proposals. These proposals, as presented, have failed to reflect the low overhead costs, efficiencies, and the value of the 911th Air Lift Wing.

For example, the 911th has developed an aircraft maintenance program that has resulted in more aircraft availability while saving the Department more than $42 million over the last 5 years. The Air Force continues to reiterate that they must find savings in this tight budget environment.

Congressional Record — Senate
If this is true, I am not convinced the closing of one of their most efficient bases meets this objective of cost savings.

I am also disturbed to see how the Air Force Reserve continues to be closed. While the Guard and Active components have been mostly protected, the Air Force Reserve, including the 911th in Pittsburgh, has borne the brunt of these proposed cuts. Therefore, I am pleased Chairman LEVIN and the members of the Armed Services Committee have worked to prevent the Air Force from moving forward with these proposals in fiscal year 2013.

I ask other colleagues to join Senators BERECH, GILLIBRAND, and me on this important amendment.

The second issue I wish to raise is the so-called TAA Program. We know our long-term strategic interests must also secure the continued growth of reserve components and veterans alike. Today, I have introduced an amendment that provides assistance to our servicemembers and their families. It is amendment No. 2297, the Transition Assistance Advisors Program, the so-called TAA Program.

It seeks to make permanent and increase the numbers of transition assistance advisors in every State. These advisors coordinate resources for the Reserve component members and their families. It is amendment No. 2297, the Transition Assistance Advisors Program, the so-called TAA Program.

Second, the Department of Defense must work to improve gender sensitivity and responsiveness among Afghan national security forces personnel. Third, it increases recruitment and retention of women in the Afghan national security forces. It will also reaffirm the Department of Defense report on the implementation of this strategy and its results in semianual reports that are filed.

When I last visited Afghanistan, leading a CODEL in August of 2011, I was privileged to meet with a group of Afghan women leaders. I was impressed and inspired—that is an understatement—inspired by their determination to continue to fight for women’s rights even in the face of extraordinary oppression and violence.

One member of Parliament, Fawzia Kofi, lost her father and her husband as a result of her family’s involvement in politics. But she is still determined to be a leader in protecting women’s rights and advancing Afghanistan’s democratic development. She and her colleagues, along with women across Afghanistan, are prepared to do whatever it takes to make sure their rights are protected and that they have a voice in their country’s future. Supporting them is not only in line with our American values, it is critical to discouraging extremism and laying a foundation for a peaceful future in Afghanistan.

I am glad several of my colleagues have joined us as cosponsors in this important amendment. I hope we can see more support as we move forward.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, the chairman has asked me to manage the bill in my home State while he is working out with the leadership a list of amendments.

Seeing no other Senator who wants to speak at this point, if I may, then I will talk about an amendment that would be offered in the future.

I am going to offer an amendment to repeal the offset in the Department of Defense and the VA benefits for military widows and widowers. The stand-alone bill, S. 260, has widespread support from military organizations and has 51 cosponsors in the Senate. This is the ninth time that I have and will bring this amendment to the Defense Authorization Act.

It has passed the Senate six times over the past decade, including last year by voice vote. The Senate has supported eliminating this offset for years.

I hope this body will remain steadfast in its support for military widows and survivors.

The Presiding Officer will recall in a number of addresses that President Lincoln gave he spoke of the responsibility of the government to provide care of the veteran and his widow and orphans. That is an ingrained principle within the law. That is an ingrained principle as we uphold the finest fighting force in the world, which is our military.

What this amendment does is it addresses the longstanding problems faced by those survivors of people who are killed in action or whose death is related to the service in the military. The requirement for the dollar-for-dollar reduction of the Department of Defense Survivor Benefit Plan—it is an annuity—is offset by the amount of dependency and indemnity compensation that is received from another department, the Department of Veterans Affairs.

The Survivor Benefit Plan from the Department of Defense is an optional program for military retirees offered by the Department of Defense. Military retirees pay premiums out of their retirement pay to ensure that their survivors will have adequate income upon the servicemember’s death. That is an insurance plan paid for by the military retiree.

On the other hand, the Dependency and Indemnity Compensation is a completely different survivor benefit. It is administered by the VA. When military service caused the servicemember’s death, serving in a war zone that causes disability or illness or Active-Duty death, surviving spouses are entitled to a monthly compensation. Most recently that has been $1,154. That comes from the VA. That is as a result of death being due to service-connected disability or illness or Active-Duty death.

Now, of the 270,000 survivors that are receiving, under the insurance plan, the Survivor Benefit Plan, about 54,000 of those widows and orphans are subject to the offset.

According to the Defense Actuary, 31,000 survivors’ SBP, the insurance plan, is completely offset by the dependency and indemnity compensation, meaning that the widow or the widower gets paid on the DIC but not on the SBP, which is $1,154. Well, that is simply not fair because if you engage in an insurance contract and you pay premiums to give you a certain return upon the happening of an event—in this case, the death of a retired military member—then that contract ought to be offered. But because this has been an expensive item in the past, what has happened over the years that this Senator has been trying to eliminate this offset is we have whittled it down but not completely gotten the complete offset. The fact is that the group of people affected, the group of widowers or widows, is getting smaller and smaller and therefore is going to cost less. I know of no purchased annuity plan that would deny pay out based on the receipt of a different benefit, which is the case here.

Retirees bought into the SBP, the insurance plan, in good faith, these military families planned for the future, and the insurance failed to hold up its end of the bargain.

The military has a longstanding tradition never to leave a comrade behind, but that is what we are doing to the military survivors, the widows and the orphans. We are not taking care of those who are left behind.

We must meet our obligation to the widow and the orphan with the same respect the hero as was the service their loved one required. We must eliminate this SBP-DIC offset. It is the right thing to do, and it is going to cost a lot less than when I tried this 11 years ago, but there will be costs. But we have to start by setting the policy of what is right.

Mr. President, I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, just in the full—here—and if there is any legislative business in a roll call, immediately give up the floor—I wish to make the point that I am so proud to be in this Senate, so proud to have been here for a long time now. I came here in 1993. There were 2 women, then we went to 6 women, and now we are going to 20 women. I have seen changes, I have seen good things, and I have seen rough things.

I have to say one of the things that keeps coming up continually here is folks trying to use these debates on bills to add irrelevant amendments, amendments that have nothing to do with the topic at hand.

I think we all agree that defending our Nation is our No. 1 priority, and therefore having the authorization bill is very important. I am sure we don’t agree with every single senator, but that is what we are doing to the military survivors, the widows and the orphans.

To the floor, and I want to get this done. I have several amendments, and, believe me, I want to get this done. I have several amendments in this bill that are so important to me, I thank colleagues on both sides of the aisle, particularly Senator CORNYN and Senator SNOWE, who helped me with an amendment that would say that if someone has been convicted of a sexual assault, they can no longer join the military. That is in this bill. That is very important.

We have other amendments we have worked on, and I thank Senator LEVIN and Senator MCCAIN. They have reached out to the committee chairs, and they have said: Look, we are trying to protect your jurisdiction. They have now said they have no agreement that our jurisdiction will be protected.

As much as I don’t want to sit here and stand guard, I am going to do it because I think that is my role and that is what I can do. I thank you, Mr. Chairman, for this moment to express the reason I have been on the floor all afternoon and will continue to be on floor until we adjourn this evening.

Mr. President, I yield the floor, and I note the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.
The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.
Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. FRANKEN). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, we are now going to turn to an amendment of Senator WHITEHOUSE which has been cleared. We have worked to make sure everybody understands that he is going to proceed to the amendment. And then I understand there is not going to be a need for rollcall vote on it.

I ask the Senator from Rhode Island, about how much time does he believe he would need on his amendment before we hopefully voice vote?

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. I would say just 2 or 3 minutes.

Mr. LEVIN. I thank the Presiding Officer.

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. But I do believe that the Senator from Oklahoma wishes to respond.

Mr. LEVIN. And I appreciate that.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pend- ing amendment equally divided between Senator WHITEHOUSE and Senator COBURN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. Mr. President, may I ask the chairman if he wishes the amendment called up now and made pending or are we simply going to have discussion on it?

Mr. LEVIN. The Senator, we expect now, will be calling up his amendment. And may I, though, correct what I said before. It is possible that there will be a need for a rollcall vote on the White- house amendment.

AMENDMENT NO. 3180

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pending amendment be set aside in order to call up amendment No. 3180.

Mr. LEVIN. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report.

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to dispense with further reading of the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Member McCain for their patience and persistence in allowing us to get to this vote. I think once I have discussed the bill for a moment, it might not seem as though it would have required much patience or persistence to get here, but it did. They have been very kind and very appreciative and very patient.

The history of this amendment is that it began as a bill in the Senate. This bill passed out of the Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee by unanimous consent. An identical bill passed the House of Representatives under suspension. So in many respects it is noncontroversial.

I also thank Chairmanarkin and Ranking Member Enzi of the HELP Committee for their help getting it through the HELP Committee unanimously and for clearing it for a vote here today on the floor.

The bill at this point has nearly 60 cosponsors. It has 18 Republican cosponsors, and I thank them individually and my Democratic cosponsors.

This is a bill that also has the support of the American Cancer Society, the Pancreatic Cancer Action Network, the Lung Cancer Alliance, and the American Association for Medical Research, as well as the American Association of Medical Colleges.

What the bill does is asks that the National Institutes of Health convene and evaluate a discussion about what we call recalcitrant cancers. This actually began as a pancreatic cancer research bill, but it became apparent that there were some other cancers that we group now as what we call recalcitrant cancers. This actually began as a pancreatic cancer research bill, but it became apparent that there were some other cancers that we group now as what we call recalcitrant cancers that they have not responded to treatment and research. I mention colon cancers for which there has been little progress and survivability. And because they are so deadly and so lethal, we are trying to direct a little more attention out of NIH toward research on these cancers.

For me, this has a personal component, as I know it does for many people who have been touched by pancreatic cancer. My mom died of pancreatic cancer, and I have a number of friends who have been touched by it in their families as well.

I know the distinguished Senator from Oklahoma has opposition to this. If he would like to state his piece, I will be delighted to yield the floor so he may do so now. I hope at the conclusion of his remarks we could move this by a voice vote rather than calling all of our colleagues back for another vote. But if he objects to that, then that is within his prerogatives.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore
Mr. COBURN. Mr. President, we have made remarkable progress in this country in terms of research into diseases. Since Francis Collins and his great work on the genome complex became successful, the way we research disease has totally changed. I have my favorite aunt who died of pancreatic cancer. I diagnosed it the first time in my practice of patients who were dear to me and whom I love. The problem with pancreatic cancer is it is diagnosed late. It is an adenocarcinoma of the pancreas, much like an adenocarcinoma of the colon. The reason we do not respond to treatment is the cancer is so well masked in the body that we can treat the disease early. What is well-intended by this recalcitrant cancer bill will actually delay the cure for pancreatic cancer and other recalcitrant diseases.

Let me take a few minutes to explain why I am saying that.

We no longer look at diseases to cure them by looking at the base disease. There is translational and integrative neurocommunicative medicine and small markers of communication on an intracellular basis. Now, when we do research and we find that, what we find is we find cures for multiple diseases.

The other thing is we can take 100 people with cancer, and every one of them, when we look at the genetics of cancer, will have to be treated differently. In other words, it is going to take a different approach, even though we might classify it as a neuroblastoma of the kidney or a pancreatic cancer or colon cancer at the genetic level, which is what we are doing now, is going to require totally different treatments.

This is very well intended. I understand. This is a big disease, and it is terrible that we diagnose it at a time where we cannot end up—less than 10 percent, around 5 percent survival rates, 5-year survival rates on this disease.

I would like to have printed in the RECORD a letter I received from Dr. Francis Collins. I ask unanimous consent to have that printed.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH & HUMAN SERVICES, Bethesda, Maryland, November 16, 2012.

Hon. Tom Coburn, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR TOM COBURN: Thank you for your September 17 letter requesting that I address the Senate on possible legislation, the NIH’s current research efforts, benchmark our scientific opportunities in areas where there were pressing public health needs. One exam-

You next asked me to address the NIH’s ability to foster groundbreaking discoveries without legislation that directs it to address a specific disease or group of diseases. While currently the NIH is making significant progress towards the development of such a vaccine. They have tested in animals a two-step, prime-boost vaccine that generates neutralizing antibodies against many strains of influenza virus. Animal studies of this technique have proven promising, and researchers at the NIH Vaccine Research Center are currently working on the approach in human clinical trials. This comprehensive NIH effort is just one example of how the NIH constantly examines scientific opportuni-research that may lack any overt connection to specific diseases is the foundation for disease-specific translational and clinical research, and it must be preserved to ensure the discovery and development of new treatments for individual diseases. If Congress is too proscriptive when it directs the NIH to focus on specific diseases, it could also limit Congress' ability to allocate resources in a manner that optimizes the likelihood that the scientists we support will discover the underlying mechanisms that must be understood to achieve our goal of improving the health of our nation.

Let me provide an example of basic research that addresses several specific types of cancer. As early as the 1980s, cancer researchers observed mutations in a particular critical gene, the KRAS gene, in a variety of human cancers, including about a third of lung cancers, about half of colon cancers, and as many as 95 percent of PDACs. Basic research on a wide variety of cell types, from yeast to human, has taught us that the KRAS gene encodes an unusual signaling protein that acts in conjunction with other proteins to regulate a variety of signals promoting cellular growth. Mutations in this gene leave the switch “on”, resulting in persistent cell growth and division. We now know about KRAS mutations, and despite extensive efforts in both industrial and academic research sectors, we remain unable to treat these mutations therapeutically. In order to treat PDAC and many other cancers exhibiting KRAS mutations, we must focus on research that increases our understanding of how such mutations drive the biological effects that cause these devastating cancers. Given what we have learned about molecular mechanisms, it would be counterproductive to limit that effort to a specific cell type. In other words, if Congress directs the NIH to study specific diseases without flexibility, it can limit its ability to follow the best leads in science and to pursue discoveries that move an entire research field forward in a way that produces maximum benefit to the public.

Finally, you asked me to address how genomics has revolutionized the study of underlying mechanisms of disease. Breakthroughs in genomics have changed the way science is conducted. Our understanding of basic mechanisms has increased exponentially, and the potential for high-throughput screening, genome sequencing, and advances in bioinformatics. This transformation of the biosciences is profoundly affecting our ability to develop treatments and cures.

When you and I were in medical school, all patients with cancers of a given organ were treated with the same combination of chemotherapy, radiation therapy, or surgery. With today’s application of high-throughput screening and genomics, we are now shifting to treating an individual’s cancer with a kind of “precision medicine” that is based upon the patient’s genome and the genome of his or her individual tumor. As an industry scientist recently told the New York Times, “[t]he clinical trials in my company’s pipeline are only tied together by the organ where their cancer originated, those days are passing us by. More and more research is focusing on discovering research resources toward a particular disease without flexibility, as defined in the pre-genomic era, can run counter to scientific progress.

In closing, let me be clear that the NIH is not permitted to take a position on the scientific facts underlying disease mechanisms, it would be counterproductive to limit the NIH’s ability to do basic research, and it must be preserved to ensure that everybody who is supporting this bill would like to see.

I yield.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. With the permission of the chairman of the committee, may I ask for a voice vote at this time?

Mr. LEVIN. I know of nobody else who wishes to speak on this amendment—I withhold that so we can hold on and see if anybody else wishes to speak on this amendment.

Mr. President, I know of no further debate on this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no further debate, the question is on agreement to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 3180) was agreed to.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LEVIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEVIN. Senator PORTMAN, I believe, wishes to speak relative to an amendment—I believe the Senator from Ohio wishes to speak relative to an amendment? I ask Senator PORTMAN be recognized for—how many minutes, Mr. President?

Mr. PORTMAN. Seven minutes.

Mr. LEVIN. For up to 10 minutes, to speak up to 10 minutes.

Mr. PORTMAN. I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business.

PARTISAN RULE CHANGE

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, I commend the chairman and ranking member for the way they are handling this bill. As we have seen on the floor today, Democrats and Republicans alike are amending this and have an honest debate on the issues, which is exactly how we ought to be operating.

As the fiscal cliff approaches we should not only be working together across the aisle to address issues like we are today with the Defense authorization bill, but we should also be working to address other critical issues, including tax issues and spending issues. That is what I wanted to address.

We have a lot of challenges. Instead of pulling together we seem to be pulling apart, and I am specifically referring to some of the suggestions by some in the majority that we consider a certain partisan rule change that would marginalize minority Members and in a way that breaks the current rules to change the rules.

What I mean by that is it takes 67 votes to change a rule in the Senate. That is a rule, by the way, that dates back to 1917. The reason that is in place is because, obviously, folks wanted to force the majority and minority to work together to make those rule changes. We don’t get a two-thirds vote without that. I think it is important that the basic rules are ones that are agreed on.

The party in the majority tends to change a lot around here. In fact, we have shifted back and forth between Republican and Democrat 7 times in the past 30 years. So at one point we are in the majority, one point in the minority, and that is why having these basic rules in place makes sense.

There are some proposing we get around the 67-vote majority by some procedure where, instead of having a two-thirds vote, we would just have a majority vote to change a rule. Regardless of what rule that might be—some would say it would be on the motion to proceed and other aspects of the filibuster—of course it would set a precedent that could change the rules for other things as well. I think that would prove counterproductive in the short term. I also think it would prove counterproductive in the long run for the Senate.

All of us are focused, I hope, on the serious economic challenges that we face with the fiscal cliff impending. I think this would be the wrong time for us to put this body into an even more partisan environment by changing these rules.

Again, I commend the chairman and ranking member for what we are doing today because this is an example of how the Senate can work and has worked on several bills in my short time here. But in other cases we have not been able to do that. I think that involves both parties, again, working together to solve these problems.

The issue before us is the fiscal cliff, and I also want to address briefly, if I may, the ongoing discussion about taxes and what we should do regarding tax policy. I want this opportunity to talk a little about why some of us believe that raising tax rates would be counterproductive at a time when our economy is so weak, and that there is another opportunity, and that is for tax reform.

The jobs crisis and the debt crisis are linked, and the President has made that point. He has said his priority in the grand bargain discussions, the fiscal cliff discussions, is to ensure that both sides of the aisle come to the table and jobs. So we should use this as an opportunity to address the underlying problems that are holding back our economy, an economy that is in tough shape today. Unemployment is still high just barely. We need to get the economy moving.

The projections CBO has given us for the next year, by the way, are continued anemic growth in the economy and, in fact, unemployment going up, not down.

The economic cost of imposing higher taxes is overwhelming. We all know if we tax something, people tend to do less of it and that is one reason why smoking is taxed, to get people to quit smoking. So why do we want to raise taxes and invest? Instead, we should encourage policies that create jobs, not discourage them through higher taxes.

Don’t take it from me. There are others who have commented on this. Christina Romer, President Obama’s former Chief Economic Adviser, has written that in most circumstances, a tax increase that equals about 1 percent of GDP actually lowers GDP by about 3 percent. Harvard economist Marty Feldstein has written that a $1 increase in tax rates tends to cost the economy about 76 cents of growth.

There is a global perspective on this as well because other countries have gone through these fiscal problems and they have chosen to cut spending in some cases and raise taxes in other cases. There is a Harvard economist, Alberto Alesina, who has recently studied this and has pointed to some examples in the developed world, such as the United States. Over the past 25 years, he has looked at how they have attempted to reduce their budget deficits. Based on IMF data, which is the International Monetary Fund, he concluded that “tax-based deficit reduction” was, in his words, “always recessionary.” By contrast, reducing deficits by cutting spending and enacting pro-growth reforms, including tax reform, actually spurred economic growth, according to the same study.

I think that this is consistent with our own economic history. Between 1948 and 1961, a period when the highest income tax rate rose from 82 to 91 percent, we went through some tough times. We had four recessions. Thank- fully, our exports that helped rebuild Europe following World War II helped keep us out of recession. Reaching the top tax rate to 70 percent also helped, but the 1970s were still a period of stagnation, recession, double-digit unemployment, double-digit interest rates, double-digit inflation. It was when Ronald Reagan reduced rates to 28 percent that we saw this impressive period of growth, maybe the most impressive ever.

It is something we saw again in 1997 when capital gains taxes that were cut under President Clinton and the Republican leadership in Congress were followed by a surge of investment and growth into the late 1990s. Again, after the 2003 tax rate cuts, we saw another example of the power of low tax rates. This was the 2003 tax cuts. In the six quarters before them the economy lost 1 million jobs. In the six quarters after those tax rate reductions, in 2003, economic growth nearly doubled and 2.3 million ‘jobs’ were added.

One more tax increase advocates may assert a willingness to accept slower economic growth in the cause of deficit reduction and that is a legitimate point of view, that we need to have slower economic growth because deficit reduction is so important. We also point out some statistics. Slow growth also means less tax revenue. The White House’s own data suggests that even a 0.26-percent reduction in economic growth—which is likely with big tax hikes—would wipe out the entire $800 billion in promised deficit reduction from higher tax rates. Growth is so incredibly important to reducing our debt and deficit and getting in control of our fiscal situation. So tax rate increases are not only bad economic policy, but they tend to be bad budget policy.

Tax reform is needed, and through tax reform we could have higher revenues. But both theory and practice make a convincing case that keeping rates low is better for the economy and jobs. Structural spending reforms combined with pro-growth tax reform, in my view, are the right approach and I think historically that has proven to be true. I will speak for myself as one Republican, although other Republicans as well are willing to accept new revenues, but the right way to do it is through reforming our outdated Tax Code and having these structural reforms that everybody feels are necessary.

Both the corporate and individual sides of the Code are marked by relatively high marginal rates and a complex maze of tax preferences that distort economic decisions, misallocate capital, and allow some taxpayers to avoid paying their share. Tax reform can kill two birds with one stone. By capping or eliminating inefficient tax preferences, we can avoid raising corporate and individual rates, without adding a dime to the deficit, by the way. In fact, if done right, tax reform will increase revenues by spurring growth, job creation and, therefore, bigger paychecks.

Tax reform is both a fiscal and competitive necessity for our country. It has been more than 25 years since we substantially reformed the Tax Code and twice as long—about 50 years—since we did a bottom-up review of our international tax laws. The world has changed a lot in that time period, yet America has not kept up. The underlying assumptions in our Tax Code are, frankly, out of step with today’s complex global economy. This is especially evident in our corporate Tax Code. The United States is now the highest corporate tax country among all the developed countries in the developed world. Canada has lowered its federal corporate rate from 16.5 percent to 15 percent, bringing its combined rate to 25 percent—nearly 15 points lower than the U.S. combined rate. Our rate is 39.2 percent when we combine the State and Federal burden. The Federal burden is 35 percent and the State burden is close to 4 percent. So right now the average among all of the developed countries in the world is 25.1 percent, and the U.S. rate stands at 39.2 percent when we combine the State and Federal burdens.

A sensible trend, by the way, has played out with respect to international tax rules, as our trading partners, including Japan and Britain, have moved to a more competitive, territorial-like tax regime over the past 10 years, which encourages movement of investment, capital, and jobs overseas. So there is a simple point here which is, by standing still, the United States is falling behind. The resulting drag on American competitiveness and job creation is real and substantial.

The right tax reform that broadens the tax base by scaling back tax preferences and cutting the corporate rate. We could cut it to 25 percent and scale back the deductions, credits, and exemptions, and have a competitive, territorial system and have it all be revenue neutral. There is such a proposal by the Joint Committee on Taxation here in Congress. I am not saying it is easy. Some of these loopholes are carve-outs that are very difficult to reduce or eliminate, but it would be the right thing to do for our economy.

I think we have seen some signs of developing bipartisan consensus on this issue and I am hopeful we will see the same movement for pro-growth individual tax reform, because reforming the entire Tax Code is critical to regaining competitiveness, spurring growth, and producing the revenues we need to pay for important public priorities.

The smart way to raise revenue is not through tax hikes that will shrink our economy, but rather through tax reform designed to help grow the economy and help make American workers and businesses more competitive so we can compete and win in the global economy.

Again, today as we are approaching the fiscal cliff, I have this Senate working together on a bipartisan basis to work toward tax reform in a way to increase revenues and grow our economy while we look at the important structural reforms we have to make in order to solve the fiscal crisis we face. Thank you, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, let me elaborate a little bit on what the Senator from Ohio just said. I think it is important to remember that the whole idea was a Democratic idea and not a Republican idea. Some of us remember. We were not actually here at the time, but in the 1960s during the Kennedy administration, the last time I checked he was a Democrat—he was the one who made this statement. I have quoted him very often. He said, We need more revenue to take care of the great society programs that he had kind of inherited and was furthering. He said a little further and said this revenue is to decrease marginal rates. He did that. I remember the top rate went down from 90 percent to 70 percent, and during his period of time, the total amount of revenue that came from the marginal rate was raised from $74 billion to $153 billion.

Then, a few years later, along came Ronald Reagan and the total amount of revenue that was raised for marginal rates in the year 1980 was $244 billion and in 1990 it was $466 billion, which almost doubled in the decade that had the most streamlining and reduced revenue to marginal rates in our history.

So I think it is interesting to observe that this is not—it wasn’t all a Republican idea, but it is something that has worked every time it has been tried.

Mr. PORTMAN. I thank my colleague from Oklahoma. I wish to follow up briefly on that and say that in 1997, when we decided to move toward a balanced budget agreement when President Clinton was President, there was also an agreement to cut the capital gains rate. We sometimes forget the capital gains rate cut produced a lot of revenue. As a result, we got to a unified balanced budget on a unified basis more rapidly than anybody thought we would. It came 2 or 3 years sooner than projected, in part because there was about $100 billion of new revenue that showed up the next year from the fact that we did reduce the capital gains rates.

I understand the need for us to deal with the deficit and to have revenue. There is no question that this is necessary, but to do it by raising rates alone, which is what is being proposed by some people, is going to result in lower economic growth, it is going to result in job loss, and it is not going to have the intended benefit on the revenue side. The alternative is clear, which is, for the first time in a couple of decades, we need to get busy on reforming this Tax Code as Ronald Reagan did with Democratic help, including Democratic Senators such as Dick Durbin, to encourage growth and to encourage the kind of economic growth that is going to result in more revenue coming in. We should not miss this opportunity to do that.

Mr. President, earlier, I believe there is a building consensus around that. We saw it in the Simpson-Bowles Commission. We have seen it in the Rivlin-Domenici work, and other outside groups have looked at this, at our Tax Code. And by broadening the base, we can be more competitive and through growth have additional revenues coming in.

Mr. INHOFE. I appreciate the comments of the Senator from Ohio. I hope we can think a little further and say that this obsession that the only way to do these things is to raise taxes, I think that flies in the face of history.

I suggest the absence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerks will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I ask that the quorum call be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I listened to the Senator from Ohio and I want to be heard because he is talking about the fiscal cliff and how upset he is at the thought that the wealthiest people in America might go back to the tax rates we had under Bill Clinton when we had the greatest prosperity, we had 23 million new jobs, and we balanced the budget to the point where we even had a surplus. My friend comes down here and complains that the proposal on the table would give 98 percent of the people a tax cut and he is upset that 2 percent of the people might have to go back to the rates under Bill Clinton.

I want to say something. We just had an election. We had a big election. We had a tough election. We had an expensive election. One of the major parts of that election revolved around what do we do about the deficits, what do we do about economic growth, what do we do about spending. We discussed it in the Senate races, and, of course, President Obama and candidate Governor Romney discussed it again and again.

My friend talks about consensus. Let me tell my colleagues the consensus. More than 60 percent of the people agree with President Obama and the Democrats that we ought to climb down off this fiscal cliff in the next 5 minutes, and pass what the Senate duly authorized, which is to extend all the Bush tax cuts and go back to those over $250,000 to the rates of Bill Clinton. That is what we passed here. That would bring us almost $1 trillion over 10 years. That will get us to climb down that cliff.

Then we have other parts of the cliff, there is no question about it, including the automatic sequester. I think it is easy to see that by bringing home some of the overseas account money and applying it to the sequester and getting rid of at least half of that sequester, and maybe all of the sequester. But, no, people are going to listen to these speeches every day about how we are going to keep spending.

What are people talking about when they say obsessed with taxes? I will tell my colleagues what I am obsessed about. I am obsessed with the fact that we passed a tax cut for 98 percent of the American people and our friends are so worried about the millionaires and the billionaires that they will not allow that bill to be voted on in the House. So people can stand up here morning, noon, and night, and I want them to respect their views, I believe me, but I do not agree with them.

It is no wonder that the American people are confused. We know we have the fiscal cliff. We know we don’t want to see tax rates go up for the middle class. We do not want to see tax rates go up for the middle class. Billions say they are going to hold up all those tax breaks for 98 percent of our people because they want to hold on to the tax breaks for billionaires and for millionaires. We had an election about that.

People agreed with us. I suppose we are going to have to hear these speeches every day about how we are going to grow our way out of the deficit. We are going to grow our way out of the deficit? Really? Look what happened under George W. Bush. He inherited surpluses. He turned it into deficits as far as the eye can see, with huge tax cuts to the millionaires and billionaires—huge—the very tax cuts our friends are defending right now. He did twofold: he got us into a credit card and we wound up in a mess.

So we have to come together with the best ideas that we can have. I know we can reach agreement. But let’s do the first step, which is to take care of 98 percent of what you say you want, and let’s do the right thing if we were to see the House take up the Senate bill and pass it.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I rise to speak on a broadly bipartisan amendment that I have filed, and that I hope will be called up at some point. Obviously, I would like it to be adopted by unanimous consent but, if not, it merits a rollocall vote, and I am confident it will be addressed on a rollocall vote.

This amendment is amendment No. 3090 to this National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013. It will reauthorize two very important and very broadly supported programs—the Assistance to Firefighters, AFG, Program, which is known as FIRE, the FIRE Act, and the Staffing for Adequate Fire and Emergency Response Program, known as SAFER. This amendment also reauthorizes the U.S. Fire Administration, which is a component of FEMA that is focused on supporting firefighters and EMS personnel.

This amendment reauthorizes AFG and SAFER for 5 years but it also takes an important step to ensure that the firefighters not only have the equipment, vehicles, and personnel that we need them to have to do the jobs they do for us in our country every day, the amendment also helps departments in communities struggling with economic difficulties, creating a hardship waiver for both of these fire programs—AFG and SAFER—that allows FEMA to waive requirements in communities that have been hard hit in these tough economic times.

Some people might say: Why has the Federal Government established these programs to support firefighting? Aren’t those local responsibilities? Well, of course, the Federal Government has partnered with many local and State responsibilities that we deem to have national importance.

There is no question since 9–11–2001, as we witnessed those firefighters putting their lives on the line running into danger to save people as opposed to running away from it—and we contemplated after 9–11–2001, as we have consistently in the Senate Homeland Security Committee, how we would respond. Are we ready to respond to, God forbid, another mass terrorist attack on the United States? The first line of defense will be the local firefighters, the local law enforcers, and the local emergency medical personnel.

These brave and skillful firefighters around America now become part of the first line of response to the kind of threats in this unconventional age in which we live that our homeland security is threatened.

As important as it is to help our firefighters, obviously, many of us on both sides of the aisle, who have cosponsored both of these bills, understand we have to demand accountability as we spend taxpayer dollars in a time when we are trying to reduce our deficit and debt.

For this reason, the amendment does a couple of things. It includes provisions to prevent earmarks from being attached to these programs, AFG and SAFER actually have never been earmarked, which is an impressive accomplishment. In other words, these are formula programs in that sense and decided on a merit basis, decided on applications, never earmarked from Congress. We should keep it that way.

But this amendment, recognizing the tough economic times we are in, also reduces the authorizations for these two programs, AFG and SAFER, by more than 30 percent—more than 30 percent. So we are meeting a national need with the authorization of these programs, but we are doing it in a way that is mindful of the tough fiscal times we are in.

Supporting our Nation’s firefighters and emergency medical service responders is a national priority. It is, in my opinion, one that is not only broadly supported by Members of both parties and an occasional Independent here in the Senate, but is broadly supported by the American people regardless of where they live all over this country.

So, Mr. President, I will, with the cooperation and support of the two managers of the bill, who are supporters of these two pieces of legislation—Chairman LEVIN and Senator MCCAIN—look forward to the time when I can ask that this amendment be the pending business, and that we can either adopt it by consent or bring it up for a rollocall vote.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.
Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent I be allowed to speak as in morning business.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I rise in support of an Ayotte amendment, No. 3245, an amendment that makes permanent the current prohibition on the use of defense funds to transfer or release Guantanamo Bay detainees into the United States. This amendment is identical in substance to section 1027 of the Fiscal Year 2012 National Defense Authorization Act, except that it prohibits the use of the funds permanently.

We know the President said he would close Guantanamo almost 4 years ago. I thought it was a bad idea then; I think it is an even worse idea today. We could all go beyond campaign promises and think about what makes sense on this issue. The stubborn refusal to increase the Gitmo detainee population has been the key stumbling block in establishing an effective long-term detention policy.

The American people have been pretty unified in their opposition to bringing Gitmo detainees to the United States, and I believe we should listen to them. I understand that Senator Feinstein just released the GAO report she requested regarding facilities and factors to consider if Gitmo detainees were brought to the United States. I have reviewed this report, and I have respectfully disagree that this report offers any support whatsoever for the idea that Gitmo detainees can or should be moved to the United States.

The very first page of the GAO report lays out in stark terms the serious problems that would come into play if detainees from Guantanamo were transferred to the United States: legal and cost considerations, compliance with U.S. and international laws, collecting intelligence information, and ensuring the safety and security of the general public and personnel at these facilities.

The report makes very clear that the Department of Justice does not have the authority to maintain custody of detainees under the AUMF. In other words, even without the prohibition on transfers of detainees to the United States, it would be illegal for the Bureau of Prisons or the Marshals Service to take custody of Guantanamo detainees.

Moreover, the Department of Justice told the GAO—and I quote—it “does not plan to transfer detainees to the United States,” saying it raises legal, policy, and resource issues. The report outlines that the GAO does not fully address.

Essentially, the Department of Justice is saying that on top of those issues already described in the GAO report, such as insufficient standards for law or war detention, severe overcrowding, and “implications for the public safety,” there would be even more issues that are not mentioned at all. And that is from a Department of Justice that has fully supported the idea of moving Gitmo detainees into the United States.

Housing these detainees in DOD correctional facilities does not seem to be the answer either because of equally troubling legal and safety issues for detention of these individuals, including the Geneva Conventions’ prohibition on detaining prisoners of war in penitentiaries. These are just some of the reasons Congress has prohibited the transfer of these detainees to the United States and why those prohibitions must continue.

This prohibition made sense last year and it still makes sense today. The GAO report only confirms that. The detainees who remain at Gitmo include the ones who have been determined to be too dangerous to transfer, including the individuals who were responsible for the masterminding of the attack on September 11, which we just celebrated the 11th anniversary of.

So if that is the case, why on Earth would we put these detainees whom we will not send to other countries in cities and towns across the United States of America? The Federal Government’s primary responsibility is to keep the American people safe. Keeping these detainees at Gitmo accomplishes that goal.

I urge my colleagues to support the Ayotte amendment. I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask to be recognized as in morning business.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, the Senator from Georgia is exactly right. I do not think, in the years I have been here, I have ever seen one issue where everyone is in agreement. If we go back to 2007, 94 Members of this Senate got together and they made a goal that is well documented—that: Detainees housed at Guantanamo Bay should not be released into American society, nor should they be transferred stateside into facilities.

We all agreed on that. Then we agreed again in 2009 and every year since then, as the Senator from Georgia has said. But a lot of people have forgotten. We have had this issue for so many years now, they have forgotten some of the original reasons why. One of the original reasons—there are three reasons. One was that prisons that hold these detainees become magnets. I do not think people understand that a terrorist is not a criminal. He is a terrorist. His job is to train people to kill other people, to engage in terrorist activities.

Do we truly want them in there talking to all our prisoners? That was one of the original reasons people were all coalescing around the idea that we have a great place to put these guys; that is, Guantanamo Bay. The second reason is the prison guards. They have to be specially trained in order to guard a prison that has terrorists as opposed to the normal criminal element.

The third is what FBI Director Robert Mueller has said; that there is a very real possibility that Gitmo detainees will recruit more terrorists from among the Federal inmate population and continue al-Qaida operations from the inside, which is how the New York synagogue bombers were recruited.

We should not even be debating this. The Ayotte amendment is one that will take care of this so we do not have to worry about it from year to year, we do not have to stand here and anguish over this thing that we have decided several times.

I can remember—I guess it was back in the early administration of Obama—when he identified 17 areas in the United States that would be appropriate for incarcerating terrorists whom we would take out of Gitmo. One of the places he happened to be a Black lady. She had been down there for some time. She said: Go back and tell them I had two tours in Gitmo. There is no place that is more humane. There is no place that is taking care of them, no place where we can secure the area, so we protect our prison guards like Gitmo.

She even went on to say one of the biggest problems we had with the inmates in Gitmo is an overweight problem because they are eating better than people who are losing their lives. They had medical attention for diseases they did not know existed.

So we have an opportunity there to do it. I applaud Senator Ayotte for wanting to address this so we do not have to go through this every year. Nothing has changed. We know it is a revolving door. People who go out from there, many of them return to the battlefield, and there is no place else that offers this security and the confidence that you can have in these facilities.

The last thing I would say, we do not have many good deals in government, and let’s see anyone here find a better deal. We have had this—it was either... since 1901 or 1904. I cannot remember the year. But as I do recall we are still under the same lease agreement. That whole facility that we have at Gitmo, along with the court system down there, all we pay is $4,000 a year.

Even better, the lease is better than that? About half the time Castro does not bill us. So let’s take advantage of one of the few good deals we have, one of the few security deals we have, and make this a permanent arrangement. I hope we have the chance to vote on it. It is important we are able to address these and bring them up, put them in the queue and have votes. Hopefully, that will even be tonight. I yield the floor and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that it be in order for the Lieberman amendment, No. 3090, to be called up with the modifications that is at the desk; that the amendment, as modified, be agreed to; that following disposition of the Lieberman amendment, it be in order for the following amendments to be called up: Ayotte No. 3245 on Guarantano and Feinstein amendment No. 3018 on detainees; that there be up to 20 minutes of debate equally divided in the usual form on the Ayotte amendment; that upon the use or yielding back of time on the Ayotte amendment, there be up to 60 minutes of debate equally divided in the usual form on the Feinstein amendment; further, that at 9:30 p.m. this evening, the Senate proceed to votes in relation to the Ayotte and Feinstein amendments in the order listed and that no amendments be in order to the amendments prior to the votes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. MCCAIN. Reserving the right to object, and I will not object, I believe we will have a package, also, following this, of amendments that have been cleared by both sides.

I would like to express my personal appreciation for the cooperative and compromising fashion in which this unanimous consent agreement was entered. I would like to thank all parties, including the chairperson of the Intelligence Committee and others. I think this will allow us to move forward and complete this legislation sooner rather than later.

There are still a lot of amendments that have been filed, and at some point that has to stop and at some point we are going to have to finish all these. Many of them are duplicative and many of them are not particularly necessary, but I think we have made a giant step forward. I am confident we can complete this authorization bill and we will continue the record of now some 51 years of having completed an authorization bill.

I thank the chairman for his leadership.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Michigan, Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that any further amendments must be filed no later than 7:30 tonight.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection? Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, does this apply to second-degree amendments?

Mr. LEVIN. If there is an amendment filed tonight by 7:30, it could be offered as a second-degree amendment at some later time, but it has to be filed tonight by 7:30.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I would indulge my colleague, apparently there are two people on our side we would have to check with, I ask if our colleague could provide that request to see if we can work it out.

I would also ask, is it not possible that if further amendments can be worked out to be voted on tonight after the two that are scheduled to be voted on, there could be other votes tonight to try to continue to dispose of amendments on the bill; is that correct?

Mr. LEVIN. The Senator is correct. These are not the last two votes tonight necessarily at all. As of now, we are still planning on having votes tomorrow.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Objection is heard to the filing deadline request.

Mr. LEVIN. I would withdraw that request.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is withdrawn.

LIEBERMAN AMENDMENT NO. 3090, AS MODIFIED

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, what is the pending matter?
The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is now in order for the Senator from New Hampshire to offer an amendment.
Mr. LEVIN. There is 20 minutes evenly divided?
The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. There will be.
The Senator from New Hampshire.
AMENDMENT NO. 3245
Ms. AYOTTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to temporarily set aside the pending amendment so I may call up my amendment No. 3245, which is at the desk.
The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.
The clerk will report.
The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from New Hampshire (Ms. Ayotte) proposes an amendment numbered 3245.

The amendment is as follows:
(Purpose: To prohibit the use of funds for the transfer or release of certain individuals from United States Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.)
No authorized to be appropriated funds may be used to transfer, release, or assist in the transfer or release to or within the United States, its territories, or possessions of Khalid Sheikh Mohammed or any other detainee who—
(1) is not a United States citizen or a member of the Armed Forces of the United States; and
(2) is or was held on or after January 20, 2009, at United States Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, by the Department of Defense.

Ms. AYOTTE. Mr. President, I rise in support of my amendment No. 3245.
Last year, in the Defense authorization bill we had in it a prohibition that would prohibit transferring those who are held in military custody at the Guantanamo Bay facility from there to the United States of America. This year, as the language of the Defense authorization stands, there is no such prohibition, making it possible for the administration, should it choose, to transfer from the Guantanamo Bay detention facility 166 foreign enemy combatants who are being currently detained at Guantanamo. I am deeply concerned that the Defense authorization does not contain this prohibition of transfer language, and that is why I have brought forth this amendment.
I am also pleased that this amendment is being cosponsored by the vice chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, Senator Chambliss, as well as Senators Inhofe, Graham, Kirk, and Sessions.
We have at Guantanamo Bay a top-rate facility that allows for the secure and humane detention and interrogation of foreign terrorist detainees, including right now the mastermind of the attacks of our country on 9/11.
I don’t think anyone in this body would dispute that when our country was attacked on September 11, that was an act of war against the United States of America, and we remain, unfortunately, at war with members of al-Qaeda and other terrorist organizations that want to kill Americans and our allies simply for what we believe in and for what we stand for in this country. This is a war, and those who were killed on September 11 were victims of this war.
One of the concerns I have is that while there are at war, the priority always has to be to detain those who are captured, pursuant to that war, in military custody.
We have at Guantanamo Bay a top-rate facility. I have visited it personally. Those who are held there are treated humanely. It is a very secure facility that is not on our homeland, and it is very well protected by our military.
Also at that facility is a top-rate court where military courts can be held for those who are charged who are held at Guantanamo Bay. Why is that important? Because when you are at war, those aren’t mere criminals—they are not mere criminals who have committed a burglary in our neighborhood. They have committed acts of terror against our country, and they are very dangerous individuals, many of whom would attempt do so again were they released. That is another reason why I have brought this amendment forward, because it is very important that the American people be safe and secure and that those individuals who are being held there—many of them who are tremendously dangerous—be held in a secure facility that is not on our soil.
In 2009, the Attorney General discussed and sought to bring Khalid Shaikh Mohammed—the mastermind of 9/11—to trial in New York City. The American people and members of both sides of the aisle objected to having the trial of Khalid Shaikh Mohammed in New York City. As a result, Khalid Shaikh Mohammed is being held at Guantanamo Bay. He will be tried by a military commission. But that demonstration made it clear the American people do not want foreign members of al-Qaeda and associated terrorist organizations being brought to the United States when we have a secure facility at Guantanamo Bay that we have spent resources to update, that is very humane.
In fact, in February of 2012, the Washington Post asked: Do you approve of the decision to keep open the Guantanamo Bay prison for terror suspects? Seventy percent of the American people who answered that survey said: Yes, we approve of it.
I want people to understand whom we are talking about transferring from Guantanamo Bay to the United States of America and understand the individuals and some of the backgrounds of those who are being held at Guantanamo Bay, coming to a neighborhood near you.
Mr. LEVIN. Reserving the right to respond, and then I will defer to my colleagues to vote no on this amendment.

Ms. AYOTTE. Mr. President, I ask this body to consider the hundreds of terrorists that are already here, 98 of them since 2009, who will go to Federal prisons here. Let me describe a few of these arrests. One of the examples was earlier this month, Ralph Deleon, with Miguel Alejandro Santana Vidrales and Arifeen David Gojali were arrested by the FBI. They were planning to travel to Afghanistan to attend terrorist training and commit violent jihad. They will be serving time at 98 facilities across the United States. I very strongly believe perpetuating Guantanamo forever is a mistake. I very strongly believe perpetuating Guantanamo forever is a mistake. So I ask my colleagues to vote no on this amendment.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I oppose this amendment, and I ask Members to vote against it. The distinguished Hampshire just said that any transfer of Guantanamo detainees out of that facility essentially endangers Americans. And consider how effectively we hold terrorists in the United States today.

We have 180 terrorists in Federal prisons in the United States of America who are in maximum security, and they cannot escape. We have supermax prisons. We have prisons where for 23 hours a day individuals are in a cell that is all concrete with just a small viewing place.

What this amendment would do is prevent any flexibility forever in how the U.S. government can handle those held in Guantanamo Bay. For example, the government could not be moved to a supermax prison in the United States. I don’t think preventing options is the right thing to do. No one in all these years has escaped from a supermax prison in the United States of America. The detainees could be held safely and securely.

Additionally, I believe this amendment could bring on a veto by the President. Today, a statement of administration policy was issued that indicated concern about restricting the transfer of Guantanamo detainees.

I believe Guantanamo has been a blight on the image of our country around the world and it will be closed down. It is important to note that there are reasons to have the flexibility that Senator AYOTTE’s amendment would restrict.

Another example, there are detainees at Guantanamo who could be transferred to the United States to be convicted in federal criminal courts. Others try to leave, like the Uighurs, for instance, but there is no place for them to go. And this amendment restricts them from being transferred here to the United States.

Many say, why would we let terrorists come to our backyard? Well, let’s consider the hundreds of terrorists that are already here. They will be serving time at 98 facilities across the United States. I very strongly believe perpetuating Guantanamo forever is a mistake. So I ask my colleagues to vote no on this amendment.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mr. LEVIN. Reserving the right to respond, and then I will defer to my colleagues to vote no on this amendment.

One of the concerns I have is that if we close Guantanamo and we transfer all of those individuals to the U.S. courts, will they then claim all of the right here: a plot to hit United States and God forbid any of them had to be released here as a result of challenges they would bring.

Nabi was a senior Talibarian official also who helped finance the Talibarian and smuggled weapons used against our troops. Nabi maintained weapons stockpiles and helped smuggle fighters and weapons to attack our warfighters. He is believed to have been a member of the Pakistan-based Haqqani terrorist network. The Haqqani network, of course, has been designated by the State Department as a foreign terrorist organization, and the Haqqanis are loyal to the Talibarian and behalf of the terrorist attacks against the United States, Afghan, and coalition troops and interests in Afghanistan. He was also a member of a joint al-Qaida/Talibarian cell in Khost, Afghanistan, that was involved in attacks against the United States and coalition forces. He continues to have issues with his behavior and how he has conducted himself.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from California.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I oppose this amendment, and I ask Members to vote against it. The distinguished Hampshire just said that any transfer of Guantanamo detainees out of that facility essentially endangers Americans. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Ms. AYOTTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have 2 minutes to respond, and then I will defer to my colleague from South Carolina.

Mr. LEVIN. Reserving the right to object, how much time is left on each side?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Time in opposition is 5½ minutes.
The proponents of the amendment have no time remaining.

Ms. AYOTTE. I don’t have any time remaining. OK.

Mr. LEVIN. Would the Senator from California agree that there be 5 minutes to each side?

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. I do not need additional time. I would be willing to add an additional 2 minutes.

Ms. AYOTTE. Then I defer.

Mr. LEVIN. That is fine. I think there is no objection.

Mr. GRAHAM. We thought there was 20 minutes on each side. Apparently, it is close enough. Just a few minutes? But I want Senator AYOTTE to wrap this up.

Mr. LEVIN. I ask unanimous consent that 6 additional minutes be added to the proponents of this amendment and, if needed, that 6 additional minutes be added to the other side.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. AYOTTE. Mr. President, I would like to respond briefly.

I have great respect for the Senator from California. The distinction here in this bill has been citing—the disposition of them—I think is a very important distinction. Certainly we have good Federal court systems. They are designed, though, for criminals and for crimes. Guantanamo Bay is a secure facility, which we have spent substantial resources to make a top-grade facility. I visited there. That is for terrorists when there is an act of war against our country, and those individuals who are being held there have committed acts that warrant them being held in military detention because of the terrorist acts I have outlined and the individuals involved. There is a big distinction, and the American people do not want those individuals brought here to the United States of America.

With that, I yield the remainder of my time to the Senator from South Carolina.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, long story short, the American people believe that the military prison in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, isolated from the American population, that is being well within our military and monitored by all kinds of organizations, is a satisfactory answer to the problem of terrorism. Simply stated, the American people do not want to close Guantanamo Bay, which is an isolated, military-controlled facility, to bring these crazy bastards who want to kill all of us to the United States. Most Americans believe that the people at Guantanamo Bay are not some kind of burglar or bank robber. They are bent on our destruction. I stand with the American people that we are under siege, we are under attack, and we are at war.

Some of my colleagues in this body have forgotten what 9/11 is all about. The people in that prison who attacked us on 9/11 want to destroy our way of life. They do not want to steal your car. They don’t want to break into your house.

We have a military prison being well run. We are telling everybody in this body: Have you lost your minds? We are at war; act like we are at war.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from California.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I have heard a lot of hyperbole tonight. Of course we are at war. Part of the glory of this country is the values we hold dear. We have a Federal court system that has worked. We have 373 people connected to terrorism serving time in the Federal prisons of the United States of America. They are under an entity called the Bureau of Prisons that sees that the facilities are run the way they should be. Most are in isolated places such as the one in Florence in Colorado. It is far from the city—I think some 30 miles—and is a maximum security prison in part.

The GAO report just released yesterday shows that the Federal prison systems in which Guantanamo detainees safely and securely. To keep Guantanamo open forever, to say that there is no flexibility as to what you can do with the detainees in terms of transferring them into the United States, into Federal custody, I think is wrong.

I have seen and watched on the Judiciary Committee and the Intelligence Committee real problems with military commissions. I think Senator GRAHAM understands that and has seen it as well. I do not believe the rate of convictions in Military Commissions any way equals the rate of convictions in Federal courts and think about how much time it has taken to get the Military Commission trials going compared to Federal courts.

I really think this is very much a kind of political movement, that Guantanamo, isolated from everything, run by the military, has to keep people for the rest of their lives. Maybe that is what some people think. But a terrorist act is also a criminal act. It is a heinous criminal act, but one which our federal criminal courts can provide justice. Not just Guantamano. So I really urge a “no” vote on this. Hopefully, if it passes, it can be removed in conference.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. How much time remains for the opponents?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Three minutes.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I very much oppose this amendment. We have a court system in this country which is second to none. To deny this administration the opportunity, should they choose to exercise their discretion, to charge terrorists as criminals seems to me to be highly unwise and is not a particularly strong step in the war against terrorism.

This amendment is undesirable. It would create a permanent restriction on the administration’s options—not, by the way, just this administration’s options, any administration’s options in conducting the fight against terrorism. It prevents the administration’s ability to bring any detainee from Guantanamo for any purpose, including their prosecution in court. I think it is unwise and not a strong step at all in the war on terror to deprive the President of the tools he might need to carry out the protection of this country from the threat of terrorism.

This amendment would permanently cut off the possibility of prosecuting these Guantanamo detainees in Federal court. I hope we do not do that. I hope we defeat the amendment of my friend from New Hampshire, Senator AYOTTE.

Finally, this is what we call veto bait. The administration continues to strongly oppose these provisions which intrude upon the executive branch’s ability to carry out its military, national security, and foreign relations activities and to hold them accountable for what they do.

So it is unwise in terms of our national security; it is unwise in terms of the rigidity it imposes on the executive branch as to where to prosecute terrorists, alleged terrorists, and it also jeopardizes the signing of this bill as soon as we can get this bill to a conference and get a conference report back to both bodies. So I hope we defeat the Aytote amendment.

If we have any time left, I yield it back.

Mr. President, what is the pending business?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Ayotte amendment is pending.

Mr. LEVIN. Has all time been used?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. All time has expired.

Mr. LEVIN. So under the existing UC, we are now moving to the Feinstein amendment, and that is now the pending business?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. It has not been called up yet by the Senator from California.

Mr. LEVIN. I understand. Let me then ask unanimous consent that Senator INHOFE, on behalf of Senator COONS and himself, offer a cleared amendment at this point.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 3201

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to set aside the pending amendment for the consideration of amendment No. 3201.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:
The Senator from Oklahoma [Mr. INHOFE], for Mr. COONS and himself, proposes an amendment numbered 3301.

Mr. INHOFE. I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The Acting President pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Senate on ongoing efforts to apprehend or remove Joseph Kony and his top commanders from the battlefield and end atrocities perpetuated by his Lord’s Resistance Army)

At the end of subtitle D of title XII, add the following:

SEC. 1240. EFFORTS TO REMOVE JOSEPH KONY FROM POWER AND END ATROCITIES COMMITTED BY THE LORD’S RESISTANCE ARMY.

Consistent with the Lord’s Resistance Army Disarmament and Northern Uganda Recovery Act of 2008 (Public Law 111–172), it is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the ongoing United States advise and assist operation to support the regional governments in Africa in their ongoing efforts to apprehend Joseph Kony and his top commanders from the battlefield and end atrocities perpetrated by his Lord’s Resistance Army should continue;

(2) amounts authorized to be appropriated by section 301 and specified in the funding table in section 4301 for Operation and Maintenance, Defense-wide for “Additional ISR Support to Operation Observant Compass”, the Secretary of Defense should provide increased intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance assets to support the ongoing efforts of United States Special Operations Forces to advise and assist regional partners as they conduct operations against the Lord’s Resistance Army in Central Africa;

(3) United States and regional African forces should increase their operational coordination; and

(4) the regional governments should recommit themselves to the operations sanctioned by the African Union Peace and Security Council resolution.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, this amendment has been cleared on both sides. This is the one that originally we had several years ago concerning the Lord’s Resistance Army in Africa and the showing that we have a policy in this country to bring this man down, the man the Kony, and we want to renew this so that we will have this pending again. It doesn’t change anything that is going on at the present time except it keeps our policy in effect; that we are after the Lord’s Resistance Army and we will do what we have been doing in the past until it is completed.

So I ask my colleagues to adopt this amendment. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there further debate?

The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Let me, first of all, commend Senators INHOFE and COONS. This is a very important amendment, and the determination to go after Kony and the Lord’s Resistance Army is essential not only to the safety of that we so dearly believe in, but also in terms of avoiding further slaughter that has been perpetrated by Kony.

So I commend Senators INHOFE and COONS, and I hope this amendment will not only pass but will send a very important statement as to where America stands on this subject.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there further debate on the amendment?

If not, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 3301) was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. INHOFE. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I think we may have someone—we want to yield 5 minutes to the Senator from Utah.

The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. The pending business is still the Ayotte amendment. I am just wondering if the Senator from Utah might indicate what it is that he will speak on.

Mr. LEE. I wish to speak for 5 minutes regarding the Feinstein-Lee amendment.

Mr. INHOFE. I wonder if we could get to the Feinstein amendment. I am sure Senator Feinstein will be happy to yield time to the Senator from Utah.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from California.

AMENDMENT NO. 3018

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. I ask unanimous consent to call up amendment No. 3018. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk reads as follows:

The Senator from California [Mrs. FEINSTEIN], for herself, Mr. LEE, Mr. COONS, Ms. COLLINS, Mr. PAUL, Mr. LUTZENBERG, Mrs. GILLIBRAND, and Mr. KIRK, proposes an amendment numbered 3018.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To clarify that an authorization to use military force, a declaration of war, or any similar authority shall not authorize the detention without charge or trial of a citizen or lawful permanent resident of the United States apprehended in the United States, unless an Act of Congress expressly authorizes such detention.

“(2) Paragraph (1) applies to an authorization to use military force, a declaration of war, or any similar authority enacted before, on, or after the date of the enactment of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013.”

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. I note that Senator LEE is on the floor, and I know he will speak as author of this amendment. So I will yield to him, and then when he finishes I will speak.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Utah.

Mr. LEE. Mr. President, I appreciate the opportunity to speak regarding amendment No. 3018, the Feinstein-Lee amendment.

It has come to my attention that some opponents of the Feinstein-Lee amendment have made an argument that habeas corpus is sufficient to protect the rights of Americans apprehended on American soil and detained by the United States Government. This is nothing more than another way of suggesting that the government should be able to detain some Americans indefinitely without charge or trial. I disagree and believe that our constitutional traditions demand more than this—significantly more.

The fifth amendment of our Constitution provides that “No person . . . shall be . . . deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law.” As Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia has written:

The gist of the Due Process Clause, as understood at the founding and since, was to force the government to follow . . . common-law procedures traditionally deemed necessary before depriving a person of life, liberty, or property.

This right of American persons to due process of law is foundational to the very idea of individual liberty from unwarranted government intrusion.

I have worked with Senator FEINSTEIN and other colleagues on both sides of the aisle to craft an amendment originally entitled the Due Process Guarantee Act to ensure that this basic constitutional right is indeed protected. I believe even with the serious national security threats we now face, America must hold true to our most fundamental constitutional rights and liberties.

The U.S. Government should not be authorized to detain Americans indefinitely without charge and without trial. As Justice Scalia has explained, the proposition that the Executive lacks indefinite wartime detention authority over citizens is consistent with the Founders’ general mistrust of military power permanently at the Executive’s disposal.

I believe it is clear that the Founders of our Constitution were acutely aware of this critical tradeoff—the tradeoff
It was shocking. Then it took until 1971 for a bill to be passed and then signed by President Nixon reversing the policy. That bill was called the Non-Detention Act of 1971, and it repealed a 1950 statute that explicitly allowed detention of U.S. citizens. That 1971 bill said—and I quote:

No citizen shall be imprisoned or otherwise detained by the United States except pursuant to an act of Congress.

Since then and after 9/11, various cases were litigated and went as far up as the Supreme Court. In 2004 was Hamdi v. Rumsfeld, and it addressed a very narrow issue involving a citizen captured on the battlefield of Afghanistan. Then a second case, Padilla v. Rumsfeld, in the Second Circuit Court of Appeals involved an American citizen captured in the U.S.

So the question is whether the Non-Detention Act of 1971 prevents U.S. citizens captured in the U.S. like Padilla from being detained or whether the AUMF passed after 9/11 authorizes such laws of war in the U.S.

What we are trying to do with this simple amendment is what is called a clear statement rule, to say once and for all:

An authorization to use military force, a declaration of war, or similar authorization shall not authorize the detention without charge or trial of a citizen or lawful permanent resident of the United States apprehended in the United States unless an Act of Congress expressly authorizes such detention.

I know this is a sensitive subject, but I believe we stand on the values of our country, and one of the values of our country is justice for all. And we have a Constitution that has 7 articles and 27 amendments that give us fundamental protections.

This amendment, which builds on the principles behind the Non-Detention Act of 1971, would provide very clearly that no military authorization allows the indefinite detention of U.S. citizens or green cardholders who are apprehended inside the United States. Some may ask why just include citizens and green card holders. Let me be clear, if I could further and add “all persons” and get as many votes, I would. I do not think it would, and we have looked into how to do this for a year now. So we have limited it to what we believed we could get the maximum number of votes in this body.

Here is the point of this amendment: What if something happens and you are of the wrong race in the wrong place at the wrong time, and you are picked up and held without trial or charge in detention ad infinitum? We want to clarify so this cannot happen; so that the law does not permit an American citizen or a legal permanent resident to be picked up and held without end, without charge or trial.

I went to the FBI and other law enforcement agencies have proven time and time again that they are up to the challenge of detecting, stopping, arresting, and convicting terrorists found on U.S. soil.

I have a document that was prepared by the Intelligence Committee staff lists 98 terrorists who have been arrested and are on their way to conviction, and it will do them the same protection as victims of the 9/11 terror attacks. These are just those arrested in the last 3 or 4 years.

Since January of 2009, there are 98 who have been successfully arrested. I think it is important to note that suspected terrorists who may be in the United States illegally can be detained within the criminal justice system under four options that exist today. They can be charged with a Federal or State crime and held. They can be held for violating immigration laws. They can be held as material witnesses as part of a Federal grand jury proceedings. They can be held under section 412 of the PATRIOT Act for up to 12 months.

This amendment is not about whether citizens such as Hamdi and Padilla—or others who would do us harm—should be captured, interrogated, incarcerated, and severely punished. They should and must be.

It is about the innocent American, again in the wrong place, at the wrong time, who gets picked up, like these innocent Japanese Americans shown in this picture who just happened to live in part of the United States, in my hometown, San Francisco. But this was what happened. People were picked up and held for the duration of the war—just because of their race.

Finally, I want to quote Justice Sandra Day O’Connor, who wrote for the plurality in the Hamdi decision in 2004:

As critical as the Government’s interest may be in detaining those who actually pose an immediate threat to the national security of the United States during ongoing international conflict, history and common sense teach us that an unchecked system of detention carries the potential to become a means that unfortunately and disproportionately deprives others who do not present that sort of threat.

So it is my hope we can clarify U.S. law to state unequivocally that the government cannot indefinitely detain American citizens or legal residents captured inside this country without trial or charge.

We live with the stain of how we treated some of our own people during World War II. It should not be repeated.

I thank the Acting President pro tempore, and I would like to yield to the distinguished Senator PAUL, if I may.
We have had it enshrined in both English law and American law for 800 years. It seems a shame to scrap it now.

People say: But these terrorists are horrible people. Yes, they are horrible people. But every day and every night in our country horrible people are accused of crimes, and they are taken to court. They have an attorney on their side. They are given a trial. People who despise, people who murder and rape, are given trials by juries. We can try and win terrorists.

People say: But they are terrorists. Well, the thing is, you are an American citizen and you are accused of terrorism. Who is going to determine who is a terrorist and who is not a terrorist? They do not walk around with a badge. They do not walk around with a card that says: I am from al-Qaida. They will be accused of a crime, and there will be facts. Someone must judge the facts. That is what a jury does.

To give up on this because we are afraid of terrorists is to give in to the terrorists. If we give up our rights, if we relinquish our rights, haven’t the terrorists then won?

Jefferson said the right to trial by jury was the "anchorage" by which we protect "the principles of the Constitution."

Senator La Follette, a Senator from Wisconsin, said if we give up these rights, if we are unable to protect these rights, that ultimately the Bill of Rights loses its value.

He said:

Let no man think that we can deny civil liberty to others and retain it for ourselves. When zealot agents of the government arrest suspected radicals without warrant, hold them without prompt trial, deny them access to counsel and admission of bail...we have shorn the Bill of Rights of its sanctity...

I would ask today of my colleagues that we have a chance to replace fear with confidence—confidence that no terrorist will ever conquer us if we remain steadfast to our principles—the principles of our Founders. We have nothing to fear except our own unwillingness to protect our rights. If we relinquish our right to trial by jury, we will have given up so much. Do not let those who would instill fear let you give up the most basic of rights—a right that prevents the oppression of government and the evolution or devolution into despotism.

So I hope my colleagues will today vote to uphold an 800-year-old tradition, a tradition that is enshrined in the body of our Constitution, a tradition that is enshrined in our Bill of Rights, and a tradition that is in every constitution of all 50 States. Are we to give that up because we are fearful? We can and have convicted terrorists. We are not talking about terrorists from over there, but talking of the battlefield somewhere else. We are talking about American citizens accused in our country.

Why should you be wary? The government has descriptions of who might be a terrorist. If you have 7 days’ food in your basement, you might be a terrorist. If you have weathered ammunition, you might be a terrorist. This is what your government describes as terrorism. These are the characteristics for which you are accused of terrorism, would you not, at the very least, still want to retain your right as an American citizen to a right to a trial by a jury of your peers?

I ask that we step up today and support an ancient tradition. And I worry about a country that would let a tradition like the right to trial by jury go so easily.

Thank you, Mr. President.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, I appreciate the opportunity. This is a good debate. It is a fascinating discussion. I guess the way I look at this issue—and we will talk with Senator Levin in a bit—I have been a military lawyer for about 30 years, and the first thing you do in JAG school is have a discussion about the difference between the law of war and criminal law. Every military lawyer is taught from the very beginning of their career that law of war detention is designed to neutralize the enemy and to gather intelligence about the enemy.

There is a reason that when we capture somebody in a war we do not give them a trial by jury, and we do not give them a lawyer. We have 3,000 people in American military custody in Afghanistan who were captured on the battlefield, and they are held under the law of war, but we do not want to let them go back to killing us. And they are not given a lawyer because we are not trying to solve a crime; we are trying to win a war.

Here is the question to my good friend from California: I do not want anyone to believe that under the law of war construct we have created over the last 7 or 8 years that you can be put in jail because you look like a Muslim, that you sound like a Muslim, that you have a beard. What happened to Japanese-American citizens is they were put in military custody because we were all afraid and they looked like the enemy. That was not a high point in America.

What are we talking about here? We are talking about detaining people under the law of war who are suspected of joining al-Qaida or the Taliban and engaging in a belligerent act against the United States. I want to make the record clear that my colleagues and I, my colleagues in the Republican Senate have been trying to deny law of war detention to the Obama administration, and they have openly said this: If you allow this to happen, President Obama is going to put you in jail because of political dissent.

There are people on my side who are afraid of law of war detention being in Barack Obama’s hands because they think—they hate him so much they think he is going to use a provision to protect us against an al-Qaida attack to put them in jail because they disagree with his agenda.

It gets worse. I want you to know this. There has been a statement in our conference that habeas corpus review by an independent judiciary where the intelligence community, the military, would have to prove in court by a preponderance of the evidence that the person in question has, in fact, engaged in hostilities against the United States by helping the Taliban or al-Qaida—that is the requirement of the government—they have to prove that to the judge that could be an Obama appointee.

As much as I disagree with President Obama, as much as I think he has been a divisive President, in many ways he has failed to lead. I want to dissociate myself from the concept that you cannot give this Commander in Chief the powers that Commanders in Chief have enjoyed in other wars because we hate him so much.

To my friends who get on the Internet and talk radio and stoke this paranoia, we are afraid enough for good reason. This is a dangerous world. We are about to walk off the fiscal cliff. We have people out there trying to undermine our way of life. There is a lot to be afraid of: Al-Qaida coming back to our shores, recruiting American citizens to help their endeavors. I hate to say it, in every war we have ever been in there have been occasions when Americans joined the enemy.

In World War II that happened. You had German saboteurs land on Long Island, aided and abetted by American citizens sympathetic to the Nazis. All of those American citizens in In Re: Quirin were held in military custody and tried by the military because we have long understood that when you join the enemy, that is not a crime but an act of war.

We have very bad people who get a right to a jury trial. I will be the first one to say that when you go to court, no matter if you are the worst terrorist in the world, you will get a jury trial, you get a lawyer, and you will have your due process rights. But the difference I am trying to inform the body of when you are fighting a war is the goal is to win. And how do you win a war? You kill them, you interrogate them to find out what they are up to next. So I am here to say to my colleagues that the al-Qaida-Taliban efforts to do harm to our Nation are alive and growing. The narrative that al-Qaida has been decimated is a false narrative. What happened in Libya, unfortunately, is going to happen again.
I know my good friend from California, who is the chairman of the Intelligence Committee, knows there are active efforts in our own backyard—and Joe Lieberman can tell you, too—to recruit American citizens to attack us—not to commit a crime, to join the enemy.

All I am suggesting is that Barack Obama and every Commander in Chief in the future needs to have the tools available to protect us against an enemy whose basic question is: Is fighting al-Qaida fighting terrorism, or is it fighting a war? I believe with all of my heart and soul that they do not want our property, they do not want our cars, they do not want our bank accounts, they want to destroy us. They hate what we stand for. Just as in World War II, when you decided to help the Nazis, you were held in military custody because you did something other than commit a crime.

The point here is if you capture an American who has sided with the enemy that we preserve the ability of our military intelligence community to find out what they know about future attacks and present attacks. The goal of a criminal prosecution is to find justice in a criminal statute. The goal in time of war is to win.

I do not believe in torturing people to get good information, but I do believe in interrogating them for military purposes if they have sided with the enemy.

This is a great debate. But the one thing I do not want to associate myself with is as much as I may disagree with this President’s agenda, there are people on my side of the aisle who are stirring up their fellow Americans, making them afraid that Barack Obama could use legitimate powers in a time of war to gather intelligence against people who sided with the enemy to come after them because they look different or they differ on political belief. I want to dissociate myself with those on my side of the aisle who say that habeas corpus, an independent judiciary, is not an adequate check because Barack Obama may have appointed the judge. That undermines our judiciary. That creates paranoia. That creates a fundamental distrust of what I think is something we should be all proud of: America.

This war will last probably longer than it is in such of our wars. It is an ideological struggle. There is no capital to conquer, like Berlin and Japan. There is no air force to shoot down. There is no navy to sink. It is about an ideology that must be contained and fought, an ideology, unfortunately, that will be attractive to some Americans as it was in other wars.

Unfortunately, as I speak today, the enemy is trying to come back to our shores and use some American citizens to further their cause. To an American citizen: Do not join al-Qaeda or the Taliban. Do not turn on your country. Do not side with their view of humanity. If you do, you have not committed a crime, you have engaged in an act of war against the rest of us and we have a right to win this war. We have a right to hold you under the law of armed conflict as we have held others in the past, to find out why you joined, what you know, and what they are up to. To a United States citizen in law of war custody. This President has not rounded up one person and put them in jail using the statute that exists today because they disagreed with him. I do not believe he will. All I am asking those who are available in this war that have existed in every war America has fought. Because here is my bottom-line belief, that as much as the Nazis represented a threat to humanity, al-Qaeda represents an equal threat to humanity. And nobody in World War II would have entertained the idea that if you sided with the Nazis and you helped the saboteurs blow up parts of America, you should be considered anything other than an enemy who has joined the other side.

So unlike criminal law, where you are trying to find justice for victims, this is about winning a war and marginalizing the enemy. And when the enemy is able to turn one of our own, the last thing in the world we should do is deny ourselves the ability to interrogate that person in a way to help us win the war and keep us safe. That has been the law forever when it comes to war. That is the law today. That will be the law tomorrow.

I look forward to Senator Levin, who has been a 100-percent voice of reason, to talk about authorization to use force and the ability to detain.

I will end with this thought: If you deny the ability to gather intelligence and detain, you do not want to put our troops in a position where they have to kill everybody they find. We want to capture the enemy when we can. Because when you capture the enemy, not only do you hurt the enemy, you find out a lot about the enemy. So I want to...

Here is the question: If an American citizen is engaging in helping al-Qaeda and the Taliban in a terrorist activity on our shores, are they the enemy? Yes, they are. We need to know about why they did what they did and what they are going to do next.

With that, I will yield.

Mrs. Feinstein. Mr. President, how much time remains on our side?

THE ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. There are 17 minutes 24 seconds.

Mr. LEVIN. How much time is there left on our side?

THE ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. There are 17 minutes 24 seconds.

Mrs. Feinstein. I will wait until the very end and give the distinguished chairman the opportunity.

THE ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, it would be my intent, if we need additional time, unless something else that is needed at about 9:30 or so when this time runs out, to seek additional time for both—for anyone who needs it, frankly. I do not know about both sides, because this is a multifaceted debate that we are going to have here tonight on this issue.

I would yield myself 10 minutes. I would ask to be notified when I get to 10 minutes.

The Feinstein amendment provides that no authorization for the use of military force may be construed to authorize the detention of U.S. citizens or lawful resident aliens who are captured inside the United States—and this is a big "unless"—an act of Congress expressly authorizes such detention.

As I read the amendment, it says the military detention of U.S. citizens may be authorized in accordance with the law of war as long as this action is expressly authorized by Congress. Further, the amendment’s requirement for express authorization applies only to the detention of U.S. citizens who are captured inside the United States. So I believe that the authorization would be required for the detention of a U.S. citizen in the course of military operations overseas. I believe it is appropriate that Congress focus on the issue of military detention at the time they vote on the use of force, as would be required by the Feinstein amendment.

As the Supreme Court has stated: Detention is a fundamental and accepted incident to armed conflict. Without authority by Congress, Armed Forces could be put in the untenable position of being able to shoot to kill but not to capture and detain enemy forces.

As to the ongoing conflict, I believe the 2001 authorization for the use of military force authorized the detention of U.S. citizens when appropriate in accordance with the laws of war.

I base this view on the fact that the Supreme Court has said so.

In the Hamdi case, the Supreme Court considered the relationship between the AUMF and the nondetention act which prohibits the detention of a U.S. citizen except where authorized by an act of Congress. The Supreme Court held in Hamdi that this statute does not preclude the detention of U.S. citizens on the battlefield in Afghanistan because the 2000 authorization for the use of military force, quoting the Supreme Court, "is explicit congressional authorization for the detention of individuals who commit war crimes in such actions. The Court explained that such detention is so fundamental and accepted as an incident to war as to be an exercise of the "necessary and appropriate force" that Congress authorized the President to use in the AUMF. In other words, the Supreme Court has already concluded that the authorization to use necessary and appropriate force is an explicit authorization to detain enemy combatants in accordance with the law of war, and that meets the test of the Feinstein amendment.

Any other conclusion would lead to absurd results, under which we would tie the hands of our Armed Forces even in the face of an actual invasion. For example, if a group of terrorists were to approach one of our Navy bases in boats loaded with bombs, our sailors protecting those ships at that base would be in the untenable position of having the authorizing that they should shoot to kill, but not to capture these enemy forces if Hamdi did not reach the conclusion it did.

Similarly, in the unthinkable event that we were to experience a 9/11-type attack, our military would be in the untenable position of having the authorization to attack the hijacked aircraft but not to force them to land and to capture the enemy hijacker. Of course, we could not expect our military to inquire as to whether any of the enemy force were American citizens before deciding on the level of force to be applied.

As the Supreme Court explained in its Hamdi decision, "the capture, detention, and trial of unlawful combatants, by 'universal agreement and practice,' is clearly a military function. It is the inherent function of military authorities to fight wars, including wars against terrorists." I wish also to say in response to the arguments of some of my colleagues that if the argument that is being made is that, if you are an American citizen who is captured in this country committing an act of terrorism against our country and collaborating with al-Qaida, committing belligerent acts in this country, then we should treat you as a member of that country.

Let me remind you, in those situations you imagine if an American citizen had been one of the collaborators of 9/11, would we want to tell a member of someone who had committed an act like 9/11 against us—an act of war against this country—the first thing you hear is you have the right to be silent? Our goal is we have to be there to gather intelligence to see if there is another attack coming. Is it coming to the Pentagon, is it coming to the White House, is it coming to that second tower? Then we can protect American lives.

That is the difference between war and common crime. That is an important distinction that has been recognized long before—with all respect to my colleague from Kentucky in his World War II In Re: Quirin. Our U.S. Supreme Court in World War II recognized this authority, the difference between the law of war. In that case an American citizen who collaborated with the Nazis was held under the law of war because our country was at war.

I would also wish to point out that this would only cover under the current law authorized by this Congress. It would not apply to someone who is harboring a terrorist who is paying with cash. It only applies to a person who has planned, authorized, committed, or aided the terrorist attack that occurred on 9/11 or harbored those responsible for the attacks, or a person who has a part or substantially associated al-Qaida, the Taliban, or associated forces that are engaged in hostilities against the United States or its coalition partners, including any person who has committed a belligerent act or directly supported such hostilities in aid of enemy forces against our country.

That is very different than some of the examples that were cited here. It is congressional authorization for such detention. called being a member of al-Qaida, being involved in September 11, being a member of the Taliban and committing belligerent acts against this country. That is terrorism.

Let me point out what I think is the most important point of all. This is Anwar al-Awlaki. He is someone who held a U.S. citizen. He is someone who was an influential leader in al-Qaida in the Arabian Peninsula. He advocated for violent jihad. He was involved in a dozen terror investigations. He was alleged in killing Americans and collaborating to kill our allies. On September 30, 2011, it was reported that al-Awlaki was killed by the CIA in a drone strike in Yemen. Yet it is being interpreted, as we have heard by some of my colleagues represented here, if the Feinstein amendment were interpreted the way they have interpreted, if al-Awlaki made it to America to commit these terrorist acts, he gets his Miranda rights. He gets all his rights; if he is in Yemen to do these acts, to try to kill Americans and our allies, then we can use a drone attack to him. But if he makes it to America—which, by the way, the terrorists want to make it to America; 9/11 is Exhibit A of that—why do we want to put a condition to read them their Miranda rights, tell them you have the right to remain silent? Our priority there has to be protecting American lives. That is the distinction between the law of war and a common criminal crime in this country.

By the way, there are protections under the law. It is the right of habeas corpus where you do have a right to challenge your detention before the Federal court through appeals with counsel. That is certainly a protection that we have respected in this country for a long time.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, I would like to inform the body that I think Senator LEVIN’s understanding and reasoning is incredibly sound. We have actually been talking about this for a couple of days. And in light of the Hamdi decision and just plain old common sense, I will support the Feinstein amendment.

I will be the first to say that if we are attacked by the Iranians tomorrow or some other group, we have an authorization to use force. Senator LEVIN and I will be the first to say in that authorization that it will provide that if an American citizen joins the Iranians in a war against America, they can be detained under the law of war. Now, you can vote however you like. I know how I will vote. But this has already gone up to the Supreme Court. And if I can build on what Senator LEVIN said and the logic of the Court and I think the logic of our position, let’s get us back to the United States. I don’t think anybody in their right mind would say the United States is not part of the battlefield in the war on terror. I would suggest that of all the places the enemy wants to hit us, they want to hit us here at home the most. Their goal is to kill us here. They will kill us in Libya, they will kill us in Afghanistan, they will attack our consulates; they will bomb our embassies, they will blow up our embassies, they will hit us all over the world, but don’t be misled—they want to hit us here. Remember 9/11? I do. I am sure you all do.

You know why we have a war on terror? We have had another 9/11 since we have been fighting these bastards over there, where we have been getting good intelligence. It took a couple of years before any of the people held at Guantanamo Bay told us what was going on, but we found out about bin Laden—and not because we tortured people but because we put the intelligence puzzle together over time by holding people under the law of war and gathering good intelligence. That is how we got bin Laden. So bin Laden is dead, but the war is not over. I wish it were.

Now, the homeland. If there is a planned attack on a Navy vessel or a military installation, I think the point Senator LEVIN was making is that we have the option to use the use of force to protect the country against the Taliban and al-Qaida; is that right?

Mr. LEVIN. That is my opinion, and that is the fundamental core ruling in the Hamdi case. Now, we have to be accurate. Here are circumstances to citizens that were captured in Afghanistan, but the reason they use led them to conclude there was an explicit—explicit—authorization to detain those citizens even though they are American citizens. Their argument was that capture and detention was inherent, in their words—so fundamental—to capture and detain as such is an accepted incident to war as to be an exercise of the necessary and appropriate force, Congress authorized the President to use.

So in my analogy, if a boatload full of Al-Qaida, including an American citizen, comes to a Navy base and attacks that base and is captured by those sailors, that is surely an incident of war, and I believe the capture and detention of those Al-Qaida terrorists would be the exercise of necessary and appropriate force which we authorized the President to use in the authorization for military force. If they attack a military installation, I think the point Senator LEVIN was making is that we have the option to use the use of force, it just follows, as night follows day, that detention is part of the ability to use force because we need to hold people and to allow us to prosecute. So detention is necessary and proper, once you authorize the ability to use force, it just follows that you have the power to detain because the worst thing you can do to the American military is to make them kill everybody and capture no one or let the other guys go. So kill-them-all is not good policy, and it is a bad spot to put your military in. And the option shouldn’t be to kill them all or let them all go; the option should be to kill them where you have to and, if you can, capture. Does the Senator agree with that?

Mr. LEVIN. I do.

Mr. GRAHAM. And our military can fire the shots because of the use of force to defend the homeland and to defend themselves. And the Supreme Court said that once you authorize the ability to use force, it just follows, as night follows day, that detention is part of the ability to use force because we need to hold people and to allow us to prosecute. So detention is necessary and proper, once you authorize the ability to use force, it just follows, as night follows day, that detention is part of the ability to use force because we need to hold people and to allow us to prosecute.

And that is what the Quirin case, which says citizenship in the United States of an enemy belligerent does not relieve him from the consequences of a belligerency which is unlawful because in violation of the law of war.

And here are the key words: Citizens who associate themselves with the military arm of an enemy government, and with its aid, guidance and direction enter the country bent on conquest. Such are enemy belligerents within the meaning of the Hague Convention.

Mr. GRAHAM. I will read another quote from Hamdi.

There is no bar to this Nation’s holding one of its own citizens as an enemy combatant.
I want to live within our values. In this body wants to win this war. But I understand them very well—why do you care about what we do to these people? They will cut our heads off. Because we are Americans. It is not necessary to go down that road to win the war. And quite frankly, ladies and gentlemen, if you can’t win this war if you don’t realize you are in a war. We are not fighting common crime, we are fighting a vicious enemy. And we can do it within our values. We can do it within due process consistent with the law of war, and, when we get in that criminal arena, consistent with criminal law.

As much as I disagree with this President, I will not deny him the ability that every Commander in Chief has had for the last eight years, if he chooses to use it. And if you want to go down the criminal road, we can, but we need the option. As much as I dislike President Obama, I am not going to use as a reason to change the law of war that Barack Obama put down. What are you fighting for? The freedom we fight for is the Bill of Rights. It is in every Constitution in the United States. Trial by jury has been a longstanding and ancient and noble right. Let’s not scrap it now.

I will accept victory today. I hope we will win victory and reaffirm the right to trial by jury. But let’s not play any games with any aspect and believe that any Supreme Court in the United States, whether appointed by Republican or Democrat, is going to say that an American citizen does not have a right to trial by jury.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from California. Mrs. FEINSTEIN. If Mr. President could tell me what the respective times for either side in this amendment are, The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The opposition time has expired. Proponents have 6 minutes remaining. Mr. LEVIN. If the Senator would yield. Mrs. FEINSTEIN, I will.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Michigan. Mr. LEVIN. We are significantly over our time, I believe. We would be happy to accommodate Senator FEINSTEIN or other spokespersons.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. I just wanted to thank everybody. I think we had a good debate. I think we ended in a good place. I am very hopeful that the body will pass this now by a large majority. So I hope we are successful tonight in achieving something that hasn’t been achieved for decades.

I want to thank everybody, our co-sponsors, the chairman of the committee, and Senator GRAHAM for the debate. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Alabama. Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, that was a good debate. Senator FEINSTEIN
I hope Senator WEBB is able to come over tonight. He has raised his concerns about this, and expressed concern in the Armed Services Committee that the Afghan and the Iraqi Parliaments vote on the Status of Forces Agreement, but our Congress is not voting on the Status of Forces Agreement. Senator WEBB is a cosponsor of this amendment. And just to have that, that agreement, the full and complete agreement that commits the United States to be fully reported to the Congress of the United States I don't think is too much to ask. Right now, we can't prove any incursions happen, and there is some opposition to it. But why would that be a problem? Why would the administration not want Congress to know what our commitments are and what we would be expected to support?

I believe it is a good amendment. Hopefully we can get it moved forward and maybe accepted; but, if not, by vote. I think we could handle it. I don't think it should cause the objection that some see in it. This does not require that the Congress have a right to vote to reject the amendment or approve the amendment. It simply says the agreement that is entered into, the SOFA, has to be produced promptly to the Congress. I think that is a reasonable addition, and I ask my colleagues to support it.

I yield the floor.

The Acting President pro tempore. The Senator from Maryland.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, I think it is time to explain amendment No. 3025 that I hope I will be able to call up shortly, knowing full well that our schedule might get difficult when these amendments are brought up at a later point.

My amendment would strike section 341 of the fiscal year 2013 National Defense Authorization Act. It included language that would arbitrarily require the Secretary of Defense to cut the civilian and contractor workforce to achieve equal savings as they achieve from planned reductions in the military personnel for fiscal year 2012 through 2017.

This provision does not consider the work requirements of the Department of Defense.
the workload required to carry out the functions and activities of the Department.

What that means is that when we consider the number of civilian personnel needed by the Department of Defense, we look at the mission they need to accomplish and we look at the budget support. That is how those decisions have been made.

My amendment would strike the current section 341 that is in the committee draft and reaffirms the civilian manpower reductions by stating the following: The Secretary of Defense, consistent with longstanding law— which was expanded in a bipartisan effort in the fiscal year 2012 NDAA bill—ensures that the civilian workforce is sufficiently sized—a term copied from 10 USC 122b—after taking into account military strategy requirements and military endstrength.

The Comptroller General is required to report back to the Congress whether the Department is compliant with the law.

I am pleased this amendment is co-sponsored by Senators Akaka, Boxer, Begich, Brown of Ohio, Durbin, Harkin, Leahy, Mikulski, McCaskill, and Tassoni.

I might point out that there is no such provision included in the House NDAA.

I would like to note what this amendment does not do. It would not prevent the Department of Defense from downsizing the civilian workforce. Indeed, according to the House Armed Services Committee, the Department is already reducing its civilian workforce by over 10,000 positions in fiscal year 2012 alone. It would not treat service contractors any differently than civilian employees.

The goal of this amendment is pretty simple. It would reaffirm the law that prohibits DOD from managing its civilian workforce by arbitrary constraints. That is a provision that I am asking to be stricken by my amendment would do. It would set caps and cuts. Downsizing is inevitable but it should be consistent with the law. It should be based on a workload analysis and the budgets that are provided through the congressional process.

This would repudiate the notion that what happens in one department’s workforce automatically affects the other. The way the language came out of the committee, regardless of the needs of our civilian missions within the Department of Defense, its cut would be tied to the military side and the contractors would also be affected. It should be based upon their vision. It should be based upon their budget. They should not be arbitrary provisions.

Proponents of section 341 would insist that the civilian workforce should be automatically reduced by approximately 5 percent because the Obama administration has already reduced the military workforce by approximately 5 percent. They are different missions, different priorities; they need to be judged based upon their respective priorities and missions.

Earlier today the administration released a Statement of Administration Policy that clearly rejects the current section 341 of the bill. I am quoting from the administration’s statement of policy:

The Administration objects to section 341, which would reduce funding for the civilian and contractor workforce by a rate that is at least equal to the percentage of funding saved from the planned reductions of military personnel end strength. This would require savings in civilian and contractor workforce in addition to the planned savings through FY 2017. The Administration believes the size of the civilian workforce should be determined based on workload and funding, not on arbitrary comparisons to the military. To comply with this legislation, the Department would need to significantly divert workload and impose workforce caps.

What the committee did—I don’t know if it was intentional or not—what the committee did, they imposed their own sequestration order on the civilian and contractor workforce within DOD.

That makes no sense whatsoever. Every one here has been outspoken that it is wrong to do the across-the-board cuts that have nothing to do with priority or mission. My amendment would strike that provision from the committee bill. It would substitute instead a law that requires that the workforce be determined by mission and budget. It does not at all prevent us from downsizing. We all know we have to downsize, and the budget downsizes the civilian and contractor workforce. But we should not be setting arbitrary caps within what we have already done through the review and budget process.

I am pleased that this amendment is supported by many of the groups directly impacted by the decisions here.

When I have a chance to offer this amendment, I will try to explain to my colleagues what the workforce needs. We can all agree that the Department of Defense is in need of reform. It is clear that the administration and the committee have taken too much at once.

I yield the floor.

AMENDMENT NO. 3199

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I have been attempting to contact the primary author of amendment No. 3199, Senator Durbin. Let me first of all ask for unanimous consent that I be added, if I am not already, as original cosponsor to the amendment No. 3199.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I think it is interesting that this amendment is coming up at this time. It is a matter of just a couple of hours ago that we passed an amendment on this floor extending our effort and policy against the LRA, the Lord’s Resistance Army, and we talked about Joseph Kony. I was there with what they call the rebel leader of M23. That is very similar to what is happening up in Uganda. In fact, the Uganda effort and the LRA effort were very prominent, actually, in eastern Congo, the same place where I suspect there is a relationship between the two efforts. So I strongly support that.

I want to say one thing, though. I have strong feelings about this, and I want to get it on the record, and I want to build on this—this is a very important point that I think needs to be placed in the RECORD at the time this amendment comes up for consideration.

A lot of people were feeling that one of the problems with the M23 leaders is that they come from Rwanda itself. At some time, they talked about President Kagame, President Paul Kagame, as if there were a relationship between this butcher over there, Colonel Makenga, and President Kagame. There is no relationship whatsoever. In fact, President Kagame rejects what this rebel leader is trying to do.

I had occasion to spend some time with Louise Mushikwabo, who is the Foreign Affairs Minister for the Republic of Rwanda. We have her picture right here. I was with her recently, and she gave us the assurance that the President, President Paul Kagame, is just as adamant about doing away with this rebel leader, Colonel Makenga, of the M23 rebel movement. I am happy to join in with this. I wanted to make sure I have my assurance in this that there is no relationship between this rebel movement and the President of Rwanda.

I yield the floor. I see the author of this amendment is on the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Whitehouse). The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. I thank my colleague from Oklahoma. Many of my other colleagues may not be aware of his interest and dedication to the continent of Africa. He has traveled there probably as much if not more than any other Member of the Senate. It has been a great opportunity, experience, and education for me over the past several years, but my few visits do not come close to the commitment that has been made by the Senator from Oklahoma. greatly respect his knowledge of the area and appreciate his cosponsorship of the amendment which is pending which we hope will be cleared.

I have been to eastern Congo twice, 2005 and 2010—Goma. Goma is one of those cities that you never forget when you visit them. This is one of the poorest places on Earth. You see the poverty in every direction. You see the disease. You see the victims of war in every direction because there has been an ongoing war in this part of the world which has raged for some of the great wars of our history in terms of the innocent people who have been killed, maimed, raped, and have suffered displacement. On top of all of these things in Goma is an active volcano that erupted not that many years ago, covering this poor, godforsaken part of the world with lava. It troubles me to go there and see the suffering that goes on every day.

The ongoing war that is taking place in eastern Congo, M23, have now taken over sections of eastern Congo. Eastern Congo is known as the rape capital of the world. One of the tactics of war is to rape the women of any age in front of their families and then force these women, many times, to kill other members of the family who have witnessed it. They estimate that regional war and rape leave an estimated 1,000 or more women assaulted every day in the Congo. Twelve percent of all Congolese women have been victimized by this. I met some in a hospital called Heal Africa.

There is a population of 8 million people, and Heal Africa is the only hospital in the area that offers any antiretroviral drugs for children with HIV and surgery to repair the bodies of these traumatized women. Heal Africa’s cofounder, Lyn Lusi, passed away this past March. What a saint she was. While her death was a terrible loss, Heal Africa and other organizations continue her vision, including many American medical students who go there to volunteer. God bless them. There was a delegation from Purdue University there when I visited, and many others have followed.

The Rwandan genocide has been the root cause of many of the problems, as well as a weak government in Congo. Eastern Congo is virtually on its own, with very little governance or protection, and criminals run rampant.

Dr. Denis Mukwege runs another hospital in Bukavu, the capital of South Kivu province.

Panzi Hospital is a one-story building on a tree-lined, dirt road. It receives about 10 new rape cases a day, every day. And that is only the tip of the iceberg, since most rape survivors never seek treatment.

The victims range in age from 2 to 80 years old. Dr. Mukwege says they arrive “broken, waiting for death, hiding their injuries.”

Last month armed gunmen attacked this genuine hero at his home, murdering his guard and shooting at him, likely because of a strong speech he gave at the United Nations last month, denouncing mass rape and impunity in Congo.

The United Nations has a 20,000-member peacekeeping force in eastern Congo to help end this violence—but the army is still very fragile, awash in weapons, warlords, and competing regional interests. It is also rich in valuable minerals that are found in our everyday electronic and other products. It has been said that the Congo war contains “wars within wars”—and that is true. But fueling much of the violence is a bloody contest for control of these vast mineral resources.

In the last Congress I was proud to join in a bipartisan effort with Senators BROWNBACK, FEINGOLD, DODD, JOHNSON, and others to try to prevent the country’s mineral wealth from fueling the region’s horrific violence.

The bill I’ve passed included a simple transparency requirement—if a company registered in the United States uses any of a small list of key minerals from Congo or its neighbors, then it has to disclose in its SEC filings within, I think, 90 days, doing to prevent the mineral purchases from funding the region’s violence.

I was happy to see that in August, the Securities and Exchange Commission approved a rule based on this legislation. It is a sound and fair rule, so you can imagine my disappointment that the National Association of Manufacturers has already started a legal challenge to this modest provision. I appeal to the conscience of the CEOs of these companies in America to do their part to help end this violence that is going on in Congo. Please stop fighting this simple provision so we can trace these minerals and stop the exploitation of these poor people.

Last week a well-armed group of rebels calling themselves M23 overran and occupied the key city of Goma in eastern Congo. These rebels have threatened to continue their incursions and set a course for Kinshasa. Congo’s capital in the west. They have created a new wave of fleeing refugees in need of clean water, food, and shelter. This move was condemned by the U.N. Security Council, which expressed deep concerns about M23. These rebels are known for brutal violence. This is a photograph of a little baby being passed into a truck hopefully, to safety—a victim of the violence going on by the M23 rebels who have taken over this part of the Congo. Some of my colleagues may have seen this tragic photo in Monday’s New York Times. This baby is being hoisted into a packed truck while his family is trying to get out. Even more troubling is that there is considerable evidence that these rebels have and are continuing to receive strategic and materiel support from the government, as Senator INHOFE mentioned on the Senate floor, and potentially from Uganda as well. News reports indicate that the M23 rebels have access to night vision goggles and other equipment they never had before, indicative of significant assistance from the well-supplied Rwandan Army. We have seen reports that the Rwandan Army crossed the border working side-by-side with these rebels.

A Congolese regional governor, Julien Paluku, stated that the Rwandan Army entered his province behind the M23 rebels and forced the Congolese military to flee. Human Rights Watch and other analyst groups have independently confirmed the Rwandan Government’s role.

There was some hope that the leaders of Congo, Rwanda, and Uganda would meet last week and find a way to end this violence. Yet it didn’t occur. It appears Rwandan President Kagame did not attend as he had once promised.

Rwanda is a friend of the United States. I have visited President Kagame and I have been to Rwanda. It has certainly been a center of suffering during the genocide in 1994. It helped in peacekeeping efforts in Sudan. With that kind of leadership, though, comes an important responsibility. No one in Rwanda or any country could benefit from a collapse of Congo in which the rebels hold large swaths of territory and these impoverished people at gunpoint. I urge Rwanda to rein in the M23 rebels and work with its regional neighbors to bring stability to eastern Congo.

To make sure this happens, Senators BOOZMAN, BOXER, COONS—let me get the entire list because I am proud they have joined me in this effort—BROWN of Ohio, CARDIN, and now Senator INHOFE have joined me in filing an amendment to this Defense authorization bill that would impose an asset freeze and visa ban on any outside parties who are providing support to the M23 rebels, an amendment I urge my friends, Senators LINN and MCCAIN, to join.

I hope such sanctions will not be needed and that wiser heads prevail. The people of eastern Congo have suffered long enough.

I know Senator LEVIN is working for the approval of this amendment. I sincerely hope it can be done before the end of the evening. I am going to at this point yield the floor in the hopes that we can bring this to a positive conclusion.

Mr. PRESIDING OFFICER, The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, let me compliment Senator DURBIN for his concern for this activity that is going on there. I wish to clarify the record because I have had personal conversations with the President and with many members of the staff and good friends over there.

Africa is a little bit different than other areas. Sometimes there can be rebel groups within a country that are fighting for everything people attribute to a country. In this case, that isn’t true with Rwanda. In the case of Rwanda, if they say that some of the Rwandan military was supporting the M23 movement, that would not be with the authority or the knowledge even of President Kagame himself and his administration. I want to make sure to clarify that.

Also, I want to mention, the area of Goma that the Senator from Illinois is talking about is something that a lot of people are not—they don't understand what that is. Goma is in the far eastern part of Congo. The capital is Kinshasa. It is further from Kinshasa to Goma. It is, of course, all the way across this country twice. So we are talking about an area where there is not much control.

It happens that Robert Ruderwa, Parliamentarian Ruderwa, is the one who is responsible for that area. The way it is working there, they don't have any control over there. This is a rebel movement.

The reason I say I believe, and I have always believed, that there is a relationship between the LRA and the M23 is because I was over there when the LRA had just left. We were hoping to be there at the same time. It was a matter of a couple of days before. They went north up through the Central African Republic up through south Sudan, over to Uganda, where they originally started. That is the same area and the same motive, the same way of operating as M23.

They are abducting little kids. People die. They abduct little kids and teach them how to use weapons and make them go back to their villages, murder their parents and their siblings, and if they don't do that, they cut their noses off and their ears off. We have pictures. We have seen this happen.

I am pleased that we have adopted as a policy of this country to intervene.

Let's keep in mind, we have a war against terrorists. These are terrorists and the LRA in particular is operating actually more in the Horn of Africa. Djibouti, and then moving down into the continent. This is the type of terrorism that comes from it. I consider this as a part of that war.

But I do want to emphasize that the accusation that Rwanda and their leadership, specifically President Kagame—let's remember what happened with Paul Kagame. He was the one back during the genocide of 1994 who was able to come in and pull everybody together. A lot of the rebels went to the west out in Rwanda and went into the eastern part of Congo. We know that is right. But they have been rejected. There is no accusation that there is even a relationship there. But I hope people realize we do have some great Presidents throughout the continent of Africa, and he is one of them. It is a difficult situation there. It is one on which we need to focus our attention.

By the way, I would say I don't believe it has been cleared on our side. It would be with me, but it hasn't happened yet, and we hope to work in that direction so we can take this up.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. I ask unanimous consent that the filing deadline for first-degree amendments to S. 3254, the Department of Defense Authorization bill, be set at 9:45 tonight.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I note the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I understand that amendment No. 3199, an amendment offered by Senator Durbin and Inhofe, has now been cleared on both sides. So I ask unanimous consent that this amendment now be called up and considered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will read as follows:

The Senator from Illinois (Mr. DURBIN) proposes an amendment numbered 3199.

Mr. LEVIN. I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To impose sanctions with respect to persons that provide significant financial, material, or technological support to the rebel group known as M23 operating in the Democratic Republic of the Congo)

At the end of title XII, add the following:

SEC. 1246. IMPOSITION OF SANCTIONS WITH RESPECT TO THE REBEL GROUP KNOWN AS M23.

(a) BLOCKING OF ASSETS.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall, pursuant to the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.) and Executive Order 13382 (74 Fed. Reg. 4495; relating to blocking property of certain persons contributing to the conflict in the Democratic Republic of the Congo), block and prohibit all transactions in all property and interests in property of certain persons contributing to the conflict in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, block and prohibit all transactions in all property and interests in property of a person if the President determines and records in the possession or control of a United States person.

(b) VISA BAN.—The Secretary of State shall deny a visa to, and the Secretary of Homeland Security shall exclude from the United States, any alien who is a person described in subsection (c).

(c) PERSONS DESCRIBED.—A person described in this subsection is a person that the President determines provides, on or after the date of the enactment of this Act, significant financial, material, or technological support to M23.

(d) WAIVER.—The President may waive the application of this section with respect to a person if the President determines and reports to the appropriate congressional committees that the waiver is in the national interest of the United States.
This is not an abstract issue. The U.S. homeland remains a target for al Qaeda terrorists, who hide among civilian populations and have successfully recruited our fellow citizens to carry out acts of terrorism.

Some of my colleagues contend that U.S. citizens forfeit their citizenship when they commit terrorist acts or acts of war against their fellow citizens but that they nevertheless should be tried and treated as common criminals with all of the attendant constitutional rights. Others believe that U.S. citizen-enemy combatants forfeit their constitutional rights altogether and can be detained indefinitely by the military without any judicial review.

I respectfully reject both of these positions. It is entirely consistent with both the Constitution and laws of war for the U.S. military to detain such individuals pursuant to a force authorization or war resolution until the cessation of hostilities. To be sure, there is historical precedent for this proposition. What is critical to remember and too often seems to be omitted from this debate is that a U.S. citizen or any other person lawfully inside our nation’s borders—who is detained by our military—does not forfeit their rights to habeas corpus review in a Federal court. In other words, they retain the constitutional right to challenge their detention before an impartial civilian judge.

The Supreme Court has noted that the “writ of habeas corpus is the fundamental instrument for safeguarding individual freedom against arbitrary and lawless state action.” And, in fact, a citizen’s right to habeas corpus extends all of the way to review by the U.S. Supreme Court, the highest Court in the land.

In closing, what I find so confounding about this debate is the fact that groups like the American Civil Liberties Union, Human Rights Watch, and Amnesty International have urged the Senate to reject the Feinstein amendment. These groups have said that a vote against the Feinstein amendment would send a clear message about our commitment to constitutional rights. I respect the views and passion of these groups but would urge a vote against the amendment for a different reason: namely, I believe that we can keep faith with the Constitution and maintain the global fight against al-Qaida.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I will support the Feinstein-Paul amendment. This amendment would make it clear that Congress has not authorized the indefinite detention of American citizens or lawful permanent residents apprehended in the United States without charge or trial. This is a commonsense amendment that should be completely noncontroversial. It has long been understood that U.S. citizens and lawful permanent residents are not subject to indefinitely detention without charge or trial. Indeed, the fifth amendment of the Constitution provides simply that “no person shall be . . . deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law.”

Indefinite detention in the United States is not just unconstitutional, it is unnecessary. Look at the track record. Since 9/11, our counterterrorism professionals have thwarted another terrorist attack in the United States. And more than 400 terrorists have successfully been prosecuted and convicted in federal court. Here are just a few of the terrorists who have been convicted in federal courts: those serving long prison sentences: Umar Faruk Abumutallab, the Underwear Bomber; Ramzi Yousef, the mastermind of the 1993 WTC bombing; Omar Abdel Rahman, the so-called “Blind Sheikh”; 20th hijacker Zacarias Moussaoui; and Richard Reid, the “Shoebomber.”

Some of my colleagues have claimed that the Supreme Court’s Hamdi decision upheld the indefinite detention of U.S. citizens captured in the United States, but it did no such thing. Hamdi was captured in Afghanistan, not the United States. And Senator ALLEN, the author of the opinion, was very careful to say that the Hamdi decision was limited to, “individuals who fought against the United States in Afghanistan as part of the Taliban.”

Some of my colleagues also cited the case of Jose Padilla, claiming that it is a precedent for the indefinite detention of U.S. citizens captured in the United States. But look at what happened in the Padilla case. Padilla is a U.S. citizen who was placed in military custody in the United States. The 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, one of the most conservative courts in the country, upheld Padilla’s military detention. But then, before the Supreme Court had the chance to review the 4th Circuit decision, the administration transferred Padilla out of military custody and prosecuted him in criminal court. To this day, the Supreme Court has never ruled on the question of whether it is constitutional to indefinitely detain a U.S. citizen captured in the United States.

A number of prominent civil liberties and human rights organizations have expressed their concern that because the Feinstein-Paul amendment only prohibits indefinite detention of U.S. citizens and lawful permanent residents, it implicitly authorizes indefinite detention of others apprehended in the United States. I am very sympathetic to this concern. As Senator FEINSTEIN and Senator PAUL have both said on the floor of the Senate, they oppose the indefinite detention of anyone apprehended in the United States, including non-U.S. citizens and non-lawful permanent residents. I agree.

Senator FEINSTEIN and Senator PAUL included language in this amendment to make it clear that they explicitly and implicitly authorizing the indefinite detention of individuals who are not U.S. citizens or legal permanent residents. On page 2, line 14, the amendment says... that the prohibition on indefinite detention of U.S. citizens and legal permanent residents ‘‘shall not be construed to authorize the detention of . . . any other person who is apprehended in the United States.’’ So in adopting this amendment, the Senate is not only upholding the indefinite detention of anyone.

To the contrary, the language I have just quoted makes it clear that this amendment does not change existing detention authority of non-U.S. citizens or lawful permanent residents in any way. What does that mean? It means that the Supreme Court will decide whether non-U.S. citizens and non-lawful permanent residents can be detained indefinitely without trial, not the United States Senate.

I want to thank Senator Feinstein and Senator Paul for their leadership on this issue and am proud to support their amendment.

Mr. Levin. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate has met to consider the motion made by the Senator from Michigan, the amendment, and the unanimous consent agreement; unless there are objections. There are no objections. The amendment (No. 3018) was agreed to, YEA 67, NAY 29, as follows:

YEAS—67

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from West Virginia (Mr. WYDEN) and the Senator from Oregon (Mr. KYL) would have voted ‘‘yea.’’

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The yeas have six to the question on amendment No. 3018, the Coburn amendment. The question is on adoption of amendment No. 3018. The vote was taken, and the result was announced—yeas 67, nays 29, as follows:

The amendment (No. 3018) was agreed to.
Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. REID. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, the last unanimous consent which was objected to listed the five amendments. I am now moving the first four of those five amendments so everybody knows what I am doing.

I ask unanimous consent that it be in order for the following first-degree amendments to be offered tomorrow, with two minutes each:

- Sessions 3009, Cardin 3025, Menendez 3232, and Nelson of Florida 3073.

The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. COBURN. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, I find it highly ironic that we just passed an amendment to protect the constitutional rights of Americans, and we have an objection to protecting the Second Amendment rights of the veterans of this country. How in the world can we say to people who fight and defend for us through a social worker deemed incompetent to carry a gun, that ought to be on the basis of a danger to themselves or to someone else, and it ought to be adjudicated, and we have Senators objecting to protecting the rights of the people who defend us?

On that basis, the contrary nature of that motion, and what we just did, I will object to any further unanimous consents on this bill until we have a vote to protect the rights of the people who defend this country.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The objection is heard.

The Senator from New York.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I want to set the record straight. This is a provision in the law that I worked on in fact with the Senator from Oklahoma, and it says something very simple: If you are adjudicated mentally infirm, you are on the same list that prevents you from buying a gun as if you are a felon.

In my judgment—I love our veterans. I vote for them all the time. They defend us. But if you are mentally ill, whether you are a veteran or not—just as if you are a felon. If you are a veteran or not and you have been judged to be mentally infirm, you should not have a gun.

And no amendment, my friend, is absolute. The first amendment is not absolute. You are against antipornography laws. The third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth amendments. And as much as I believe in the second amendment and the right to bear arms and was a supporter of the Heller decision, neither is the second amendment.

I continue my objections to the provision.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, after 12 hours today, 8 hours yesterday, over 42 amendments, and many more coming in the managers’ package, what we have is a situation where the Senator from New York—because of his passion, which we all applaud—refuses to allow the Senator from Oklahoma his rights as a Senator; and that would be, since we have taken up this legislation with amendments and votes with a 51-vote majority as applicable, we have moved through, I am very proud to say, I think a process that I think all of us can be proud of.

But the Senator from New York, because of his passion and commitment and belief—all of which I respect—will now prevent the Senator from Oklahoma from having his amendment considered. Why? Because he is afraid he will lose. The Senator from South Carolina and the Senator from New Hampshire and I have been losing all day long, and I am passionate about that.

But I ask my colleague from New York, do we really want to have a situation where the depth of our passion now dictates whether the Senate should be allowed to go forward? The Senator from South Carolina and I argue that the problem we have today is that just as every other Senator has had to propose an amendment, I will be glad to debate it, and up or down. Because if we are now going to tell our colleagues that if you have an amendment and you feel strongly about it, it really goes to the heart of your beliefs, that you are not going to allow the Senate to work, I think that is a very bad and dangerous precedent for us to set.

Passions are high tonight. I say to my friend from New York, I think we have a pending amendment now and there will be other amendments that we will line up. We could maybe overnight calm down a little bit and move forward. I think that we have enjoyed for the last 2 days. No matter how passionate we feel about a particular issue, we should let the Senate work its will; otherwise, we will never complete a piece of legislation around here unless we go back to what we have been doing before, and that is fill up the tree, file cloture, and then none of us are able to engage in what the Senate should—and that is open and honest debate and respecting the will of the majority.

So I urge, with all respect and appreciation for the passion of the Senator from New York, allow this process to go forward. Let an amendment be considered, let a second-degree amendment be considered, and respect the will of the majority, and move on and live to fight another day; otherwise, we will derail the Defense authorization bill that we have managed to pass for the last 51 years, and the men and women who are serving in the military and our Nation’s security will be jeopardized.

I don’t want to get into a fight with the Senator from New York. I respect his passion. But I hope for the good of the institution he would allow this process to go forward just as it has for the last couple of days.

I thank my friend from New York for listening.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, along the same lines, I would hope that at least with these four amendments—which are now ready to be debated and voted on, and if our Friend from Oklahoma would allow that to proceed, with the notice that from thereon he would not allow any unanimous consent agreement. But this has been worked on for so long and these four amendments are lined up so nicely for debate tomorrow that I would urge him to relent and allow us to at least proceed to those four amendments. And he has now put the body on notice that he would not agree to any additional beyond that.

I happen to agree with my friend from Arizona. We are going to debate, folks. Sooner or later, these amendments are going to be debated, unless a cloture motion—which is going to be filed tomorrow—is approved on Monday. And then we are right back in the same position we have been in. And as just been eloquently described by Senator MCCAIN. And if we don’t vote cloture, this bill isn’t going anywhere. If we do vote cloture, then we will have made it impossible for some people to filibuster. Not just the Kyl amendment, which they should be allowed to offer.

Let us be clear on what is happening tomorrow, to the extent it is possible—which is not very extensive. And I want to get the Chair to confirm this. There is a pending amendment. It is a modified Kyl amendment. This has been modified so that it was worked out with Senator KERRY. That is pending. Is the Senator correct?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment has not yet been modified, but it is pending.

Mr. LEVIN. It is pending and will be modified tomorrow.

At that point the Chair is going to ask whether there is any additional debate on that amendment. If there is no additional debate, then the Chair is going to put the question. If there is a request for a rollcall, there will be a rollcall. If there is not, it will be voice voted. At that point, the floor is open. And if we would then offer the Sessions amendment, the first one on this list, and then that is going to be open to debate. And if our colleagues want to come here tomorrow and filibuster or prevent a vote on the Sessions amendment, they are going to have to come here and debate.

But we have tried the best we know how to move this bill forward. We have done everything we know how, and we have made great progress, with the Members of this body being extremely cooperative. We are not giving up.

So the only technique left to us, given these two objections, is the one I just identified: to have the pending Kyl amendment, after it is modified, debated. If no one wants to debate, the Chair is going to put the question, or we will have a rollcall on it if people want it. And then the floor is open, and I will be offering the next one in line, which is the Sessions amendment. Then if people want to debate that or filibuster that, the rules of the Senate allow you to do it. But I don’t think that is what is going to happen.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, could I also add, I think we need to look at this in the larger context. The larger context is that there is a looming crisis in this body. The majority leader is going to possibly exercise a nuclear option, which then would change the way we do business around here, especially on the motion to proceed. The Senator from Michigan and I had two goals in mind: one, to achieve conclusion of the Defense authorization bill, which is vital to our national security on which we have this showdown which we—to every other amendment unless the Majority Leader says he wants it. And then the floor is open, and the Chair is going to put the question, or no one wants to debate, the Senate proceeds to votes in relation to amendments in the order listed; that there be no amendments in order to the amendments prior to the votes.

Mr. MCCAIN. Reserving the right to object, and I will not object and then I understand it, there are still no time agreements on this?

Mr. LEVIN. That is correct. We will work out time agreements—

Mrs. BOXER. Reserving the right—

Mr. MCCAIN. I still have the floor.

Mr. LEVIN. The only time agreement we have in effect is the time we come in, not a time for a vote.

Mr. McCAIN. I wanted to clarify.

Mr. LEVIN. Oh, I did not state that correctly. I believed, and I am now wrong, that there would be a time agreement on each amendment that we would attempt to arrive at. That is not what this says. This provides, and I am going to read it again, and I did not listen to my own reading—that at 9:30, following the prayer tomorrow, the Senate proceed to votes in relation to the amendments in the order listed and that there be 2 minutes equally divided prior to each vote; that there be no amendments in order to the amendments prior to the votes.

I think we ought to have more debate on some of these amendments than that. The debates could take place tonight.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Reserving the right to object, I ask the Senator—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Did the Senator say the only time for debate on these amendments would be 2 minutes?

Mr. LEVIN. Tonight is open for debate.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Tonight is open. Tomorrow there would just be 2 minutes on each amendment? Because Senator KIRK and I, and Senator LIEBERMAN, have amendments that several Members have asked to speak on, including the distinguished ranking member. I would then urge them to come tonight and speak on it. I will not object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona. Is there objection?

Mr. MCCAIN. I completed my statement.

Mrs. BOXER. Reserving the right to object and I will not object, I want to speak for 20 seconds. This is what I want to say.

There are amendments and there are amendments. We all know that. I think we have shown that we can work together. But when you try to repeal a law that protects the lives of people—you talk about protecting rights, I am with you. I also want to protect the lives of people. Coming from a State where we have had many mass shootings it may take a little longer. Maybe we ought to have a hearing or two before we move forward. I think that is important to the safety of the people.

I will not object. I will see you all tomorrow.

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object to this bill myself and the Veterans’ Committee 14 to 0. They had hearings on it. We have done the work. It has been done. It came unanimously out of the Veterans’ Committee. There is no question about what is right to do in terms of protecting—this is not about allowing anybody with any mental disease to have a gun. This is about taking the rights of those who do not have a mental disease to have their rights restored.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Oklahoma object?

Mr. COBURN. I do not.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There has been a unanimous consent request. If there is no objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I now call up a list of 17 amendments which have been prepared by myself and Senator MCCAIN. I am going to list these amendments:

Blumenthal amendment No. 2940, Brown of Massachusetts amendment No. 3036, Toomey amendment No. 3041, Levin amendment No. 3141, Carper amendment No. 3142, Harkin amendment No. 3213, Wicker amendment No. 3220, Johanns amendment No. 3222, Coburn amendment No. 3237, Levin amendment No. 3243, Lieberman amendment No. 3256, Cornyn amendment No. 3261, McCain amendment No. 3269, McCain amendment No. 3281, Kyl amendment No. 3271, Webb amendment No. 3275, Nelson of Nebraska amendment No. 3279.

(6) The Nuclear Weapons Council should provide proper oversight in the execution of its responsibilities under section 179 of title 10, United States Code.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. I ask unanimous consent that regarding these amendments, which I believe by the Chair’s ruling have been—are to be considered en bloc, also that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEVIN. I thank the Presiding Officer. My understanding is now that the Senate floor is open to debate.

Hopefully people who want to debate on these four amendments will debate tonight so the 2 minutes tomorrow will be adequate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, if I could ask the distinguished chairman a question. If I would assume, then, that at this point I would not have to call up the amendment? That would be in order tomorrow?

Mr. LEVIN. No.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, if I could ask the distinguished chairman a question. If I would assume, then, that at this point I would not have to call up the amendment? That would be in order tomorrow?

Mr. LEVIN. No.
The sanctions passed by this body unanimously last December are having a significant impact. The Iranian currency, the rial, has lost much of its value, and Iran’s oil exports have dropped to a new daily low of 860,000 barrels per day, which is over 1 million barrels of oil per day less than 1 year ago.

Through our sanctions and the combined effort of the European Union, we have forced the Iranians back to the negotiating table. But passage of these additional measures—requiring the cessation of sales to and transactions within Iranian sectors that support proliferation, including energy, shipping, shipbuilding, and port sectors, as well as anyone on our specially designated national list—we will send a strong message to Iran that the time for confidence-building measures is over. We do not want the Iranian regime simply to believe they can toughen out the sanctions. This sends a clear message that the sanctions will not work and it will only get worse.

If Iran is serious about wanting to reach a diplomatic solution, then it must quickly and fully implement U.N. Security Council resolutions. It must stop enriching uranium, close the Fordow enrichment facility, and submit to a robust inspections regime that includes inspections of the Parchin military facility. Clearly, that is not the ultimate goal. They are only a means to a clear end, in this case preventing Iran from becoming the next nuclear state and an existential threat to our ally, the State of Israel. Let me highlight the major provisions of this amendment.

First, this amendment designates Iran’s energy, port, shipping, and shipbuilding sectors as entities of proliferation because of the role they play in supporting and funding Iran’s obvious proliferation activities. With the exception of permissible petroleum transactions under the existing sanctions regime from countries that have significantly reduced their purchases of oil from Iran, these sectors will now be off limits. We will sanction any transactions with these sectors and we will block the property—and any third party—that engages in transactions with them.

Second, we impose sanctions on persons selling or supplying a defined list of commodities to Iran—commodities that are relevant to Iran’s shipbuilding and nuclear sectors such as graphite, aluminum, steel, metallurgical coal, and software for integrating industrial processes. We also will prevent Iran from circumventing sanctions on its Central Bank that this Congress and the President signed by receiving payments in precious metals.

Third, we designate the Islamic Republic of Iran Broadcasting entity and its President as human rights abusers for their broadcasting of forced televised confessions and show trials, thereby blocking their assets and preventing others from doing business with the IRIB.

To address concerns about access to humanitarian goods in Iran, which is a very real and serious concern, we have provided for exceptions for the provision of food, agricultural commodities, medicine, medical devices, and other humanitarian goods. We have imposed new human rights sanctions on those in Iran who are engaged in corruption or the diversion of resources related to these goods and that are preventing them from reaching the Iranian people.

Our message is clear. The window is closing. The time for the waiting game is over. Yes, our sanctions are having a demonstrable effect on the Iranian economy, but Iran is still working just as hard to develop nuclear weapons. Iran has to decide what it will do. Will it continue down the path to proliferation and risk further crushing economic sanctions or will it end the madness and negotiate a responsible end to its nuclear ambition? The waiting game is over and, in the end, one way or the other, Iran will not be allowed to acquire a nuclear weapon that could threaten the national interests and security interests of the United States, Israel, the region, and the world.

I wish to thank Senator Kirk, whom we have worked with on this issue for quite some time, as well as Senator Lieberman, Senator Caseyt, and many others who have shared their interests and their views, and we have tried to incorporate those views. I hope that tomorrow when we cast a vote, it will be the type of unanimous vote this Senate passed nearly 1 year ago, that ultimately sends a very clear message to the Iranians that if they seek to evade, if they seek to avoid, if they think they can wait out the process, they are wrong. That is, in essence, what we are doing through this amendment. It is, in my view, why we believe it is so critical to move forward, to send a very clear message to the Iranians.

This is about the national security of the United States. It is the existential challenge to the State of Israel, our ally, and it is the best of a bipartisan effort that we have seen in this Senate. With that, I look forward to tomorrow’s vote.

I yield the floor and note the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BECHICH). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, what is the parliamentary situation?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Menendez amendment No. 3232 is pending.

Mr. MCCAIN. All right. I intend to speak on that shortly.
I see the chairman is here. Mr. LEVIN, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

AMENDMENT NO. 3199, AS MODIFIED

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that, notwithstanding the adoption of Durbin amendment No. 3199, it be modified with the changes at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 3199) was modified, as follows:

At the end of subtitie D of title XII, add the following:

(iii) the President determines that M23 is no longer a significant threat to peace and security in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

(2) M23.—M23 means the group known as M23 operating in the Democratic Republic of the Congo that derives its name from the March 23, 2009, agreement between the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the National Congress for the Defense of the People (or any successor group).

(3) UNITED STATES PERSON.—The term ‘United States person’ means—

(A) an individual who is a United States citizen or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence who is a national of the United States; or

Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, my colleagues and I have an amendment to remove inequities that exist in the woman-owned small business contracting program, when compared to other socioeconomic programs.

As former chair and now ranking member of the Senate Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship, I have long championed women entrepreneurship and have urged both past and present administrations to implement the woman-owned small business, WOSB, Federal contracting program, which was enacted into law 10 years ago. On March 4, 2010, the Small Business Administration, SBA, finally proposed to implement the women’s procurement program.

And I am pleased to report that today there is a functional WOSB contracting program, however, the program lacks the critical elements that the SBA’s historically underutilized business zones, and the service-disabled veteran-owned government contracting programs include.

To remedy this, our bipartisan amendment will help provide tools women need to compete fairly in the Federal contracting arena by eliminating a restriction on the dollar amount of a contract that a WOSB can compete for, thus putting them on a level playing field with the other socioeconomic contracting programs.

Women-owned small businesses have yet to receive their fair share of the Federal marketplace. In fact, our government has never achieved its goal of 5 percent of contracts going to WOSBs, achieving only 3.98 percent in fiscal year 2011. This amendment would greatly assist Federal agencies in achieving the small business goaling requirement for WOSBs.

Mr. President, I also wish to speak to an amendment to S. 3254, the National Defense Authorization Act, to cease Federal involvement in the National Veterans Business Development Corporation.

This bipartisan amendment would cease, once and for all, Federal involvement in the National Veterans Business Development Corporation, also known as The Veterans Corporation or TVC, and sensibly provide the most efficient use of American dollars by modernizing the bill’s cosponsors, Small Business Committee Chair MARY LANDRIEU, former Small Business Committee Chair JOHN KERRY and Senator Tom COBURN. Senator COBURN, as most in this body will recognize, is a true leader in efforts to streamline the Federal government. Recently he spoke with us about ideas for federal entities or programs that could be eliminated and we readily provided TVC as an example of an entity that we had already identified that the Federal government should sever its ties with.

I want to say at the outset that an amendment, with identical text as this one, was attached to did not pass. We are introducing this repeal as a stand-alone bill because TVC has been ineffective and controversial since its inception as part of the Veterans Employment and Small Business Development Act—P.L. 106–50—in 1999. In December of 2008, former Small Business Committee Chairman KERRY and I investigated TVC, and issued a report detailing the organization’s blatant management and wasting of taxpayers’ dollars.

The report found, among other things, that TVC (a) failed to support...
I wish to commend Chairman Levin and Ranking Member McCain for their efforts.

This bill represents a prudent path forward for the Department of Defense. But it is a path that could be slightly different. I am not reached to avert the impending self-inflicted crisis of sequestration. Without action, sequestration could spell disaster for many of the programs that we would authorize through this bill. I stand ready to work with my colleagues to ensure that the necessary investments in both our United States, and conducts repair and refueling work on nuclear submarines. Both of the yards, along with the other public and private yards across the country, are truly national strategic assets, and the workers in these yards are the world’s leading experts in ship construction and repair. As Chinese yards continue to churn out modern warships, and as the Chinese fleet continues to expand, we cannot allow any of our better investment than the shipyards to atrophy.

Given the events of this month in the Middle East, I am pleased this bill also authorizes important additional funding for the Iron Dome program and cooperative programs with the State of Israel. As the Senate has affirmed time and again, most recently on November 15 when we passed S. Res. 599 introduced by Senator Gillibrand, Israel has an inherent right to act in self-defense, that no compromise and the Senate expressed our unwavering commitment to Israel’s security—a security which unfortunately continues to be threatened.

While I commend the efforts undertaken by those in the Middle East and by Secretary Clinton to achieve the recent ceasefire, we must continue to make the investments necessary to guarantee Israel’s security. I can think of no better investment than the Iron Dome system, which had a success rate of 80–90 percent against the hundreds of rockets fired into Israel’s borders.

And while Iron Dome protects the State of Israel, we must also look at our other strategic states, particularly those states on the East Coast, from the threat of a missile attack from rogue regimes in the Middle East. According to the Pentagon’s Annual Report on the Military Power of Iran, parts of which were released in July, Iran could produce missiles capable of reaching the U.S. within 3 years.

To address this threat, Senators Lieberman, Atti, and I have filed an amendment which would require the Department to conduct an Environmental Impact Statement and create a plan for establishing a missile defense site on the East Coast of the United States. Such a site, whether sea-based or afloat, located at the very tip of our country, could better protect the East Coast from an intercontinental ballistic missile attack. Beginning an EIS now, a task which could take up to 18–24 months, is a prudent measure to preserve our options in the future.

Just as we must protect the East Coast, we must also provide the military the tools to protect the mental part of Maine’s tourist industry, or as workers at Maine’s public and private shipyards.

Bath Iron Works, a private shipyard and Maine’s largest private employer, has been building ships for the Navy since World War II, and the shipyard continues to be known by the phrase “Bath built is best built.”

Portsmouth Naval Shipyard, in Kittery, ME, is one of only four public shipyards that require a United States, and conducts repair and refueling work on nuclear submarines. Both of the yards, along with the other public and private yards across the country, are truly national strategic assets, and the workers in these yards are the world’s leading experts in ship construction and repair. and physical wellbeing of military personnel. This year, the suicide rate amongst Active-Duty personnel has continued to soar. On average, more than one soldier, sailor, airman, or Marine has taken their own life every day this year. That is a tragedy of the first degree.

For every servicemember who dies in battle, 25 veterans die by their own hands. Not only have more military personnel killed themselves than were killed in combat this year, but the rate of suicides in the military significantly exceeds the rate of suicides in the general population. Veterans, many of whom are dealing with financial or posttraumatic stress, chronic pain, or depression resulting from their time in uniform, also face high rates of suicide. According to a Department of Veterans Affairs report this spring, a veteran commits suicide every 80 minutes.

While I applaud the military and the VA efforts to address this threat seriously, especially the Army, we can and must do more. To that end, I have filed an amendment with Senators LIEBERMAN and BLUMENTHAL to require the Attorney General to exercise authority granted by the Secure and Responsible Drug Disposal Act of 2010 to establish a drug take-back program in coordination with both the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs.

There is substantial evidence that prescription drug abuse is a major factor in military and veteran suicides. The Army has reported that 29 percent of suicides had known history of psychotropic medication use, including anti-depressants, anti-anxiety medicine, anti-psychotics, and other controlled substances such as opioids. I understand the legitimate concerns raised by some law enforcement officials that accountability of drugs must be strictly maintained and that these drugs must be prevented from being misplaced, abused, or sold in the black market. I am confident, however, that both the military—an institution that has developed and implemented programs for the handling of nuclear weapons and classified information—and the VA are capable of running a drug take-back program with the utmost accountability and standards of highest standards.

I have also filed another amendment to establish a resilience research program in the Army to study the effectiveness of the Comprehensive Soldier Fitness Program. This program is intended to improve the resilience of our active-duty force.

The loss of even one servicemember to a potentially preventable suicide is unacceptable. We have a responsibility to take every practical step that we can to help the military win the battle against suicides. Over the past decade, we have made an incredible investment to prevent deaths or injuries from IEDs. Although the threat to our forces posed by suicide will not be solved overnight, it deserves a similar commitment to combat this epidemic.

Likewise, the high incidence of military sexual assaults also continue to warrant our attention, particularly after the scandal at Lackland Air Force Base. Two provisions that I support which would codify into law regulations that were issued by the Department earlier this year. We should all continue to watch the Department closely to see that the changes are implemented wisely, that the Department’s policy of zero tolerance becomes a culture of zero tolerance, and that the incidence of these crimes is dramatically reduced.

In the area of mental health, this bill includes a provision to grant authority for additional behavioral health professionals to conduct pre-separation medical examinations for post-traumatic stress disorder. This provision would increase the number of medical professionals available to conduct examinations to cases within the integrated disability evaluation system is significant, and results in unacceptable wait times for our military personnel being processed for separation.

Unfortunately, the military does not even know the true scope of the backlog within the disability evaluation system, and I am sure that many of our colleagues receive letters from their constituents expressing this concern each week. This year’s bill contains a provision I authored that would require DOD to collect data on the physical, mental, and behavioral health of Wounded Warriors in order to accurately assess the efficacy of the military’s Wounded Warrior programs.

In Afghanistan, where many of our wounded warriors received their injuries, military personnel continue to pay a high cost. As we head into the final 2 years of combat in Afghanistan, after more than a decade of war. I have grown increasingly concerned about the high number of insider attacks and their effect upon our strategy to transition to Afghan Security Forces leadership and for U.S. forces to assume a training and mentoring role after 2014. Each death caused by the tactic of insider attacks has a strategic effect upon the war, both in terms of the American people’s perception, and the willingness of our partners in NATO and ISAF involved in battle.

In 2012 alone, 60 Coalition troops, representing 16 percent of Coalition deaths, have been slain at the hands of those upon which our strategy depends. It is for that reason that I, along with Senators UDALL, PORTMAN, and SHAHEEN have filed an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to report on the effect of insider attacks upon the progress of the war and the effect these attacks have upon our strategy and the behavior of our partners. On November 1st, we must treat an investment in blood and treasure in Afghanistan; Congress must understand the strategic environment, and be presented with all the information to make informed decisions about how to proceed in Afghanistan.

The Afghan war has also left us with important questions about detention policy here at home that must be resolved. Some of the most difficult debates have been left unaddressed in the eleven years since the Congress authorized the use of military force to go after al-Qaeda and the Taliban is whether the Congress intended to authorize the detention of persons in the United States, and specifically the detention of American citizens. I have cosponsored an amendment with Senator FEINSTEIN that would explicitly prohibit the indefinite detention of U.S. citizens captured on U.S. soil.

The final amendment I have offered, along with Senators KERRY, BROWN of Massachusetts, BLUMENTHAL, WHITEHOUSE, SNOWE, and BROWN of Ohio, would require the Department of Defense to establish a temporary pilot program to domestically procure athletic shoes to Army recruits in initial entry training. DOD historically provided athletic footwear to new recruits that comply with the Berry Amendment, but DOD’s current procurement system fails to circumvent the spirit, letter, and intent of the law. I have no doubt that domestic suppliers will be able to produce a Berry compliant shoe, with minimal waivers necessary, that can meet the needs of recruits and the Army in a cost-effective manner. We should not allow government funds to be used to support foreign-made shoes, when American shoes are available. Much like our Olympic athletes should be clothed in domestically produced apparel, so too should our military recruits be wearing athletic shoes made in the U.S.A.

I am also cosponsoring two amendments that grew out of the work of the Commission on Wartime Contracting. I have cosponsored Senator BLUMENTHAL’s End Trafficking in Gov- ernment Contracting Act to tighten the U.S. government’s zero tolerance policy for any form of human trafficking. This amendment would require contractors to certify that they have plans in place to prevent such practices. It also makes it a crime to engage in such labor practices overseas on U.S.-controlled property or while working on a U.S. contract.

The Commission on Wartime Contracting also found that contingency contracting in Iraq and Afghanistan has been plagued by high levels of waste, fraud, and abuse—estimating that at least $21 billion had been lost to contractors and fraud. Without high-level attention, acquisition planning and allocation of resources, we are likely to repeat the contracting mistakes of the last contingency operation.

Therefore, I have cosponsored Senator MCCASKILL’s amendment to strengthen contingency contracting at DoD, State, and the U.S. Agency for International Development—USAID—by improving planning, execution, and oversight of this function at these agencies and requiring education for personnel who engage in contingency contracting.

Pending before the Senate is the NDAA. This is a defence authorization bill that supports the Defense Department’s requests for several major weapons programs, including:

- $639.9 million for the Army’s new Ground Combat Vehicle that will replace some of the M2 Bradley Infantry Fighting Vehicles in the current force;
- $2.7 billion for the acquisition of UH-60 Blackhawk and CH-47 Chinook helicopters so critically important to operations in Afghanistan and around the world;
- $6.9 billion in the base request for the Navy, Marine Corps, and Air Force’s F-35 Joint Strike Fighter program;
- $60.0 million for F/A-18E/F advance procurement to preserve the Navy’s option to produce additional aircraft in fiscal year 2014;
- $91.0 million for M1 Abrams tank upgrades and $123.0 million for M88A2 advanced recovery vehicles. These recommended increases will extend armored vehicle production through fiscal year 2015 and allow tank production through 2014, thus preserving important combat vehicle industrial capability.

Perhaps of greatest interest to many of our colleagues, the bill addresses concerns that the Air Force proposed to demote the Nevada National Guard in its FY13 budget submission by establishing an independent commission to study the appropriate force structure of the Air Force, including the Air National Guard and the Air Force Reserve, and providing $1.4 billion in planning and programming funds for Air Force force structure pending the commission’s review.

The NDAA also provides an opportunity to address policy concerns important to military families, defense, and National security at large. There are a number of worthwhile amendments that have been filed and that I support, including my amendment with Senator GILLIBRAND providing TRICARE coverage for important autism treatments and my amendment with Senator COLLINS mandating a prescription drug take-back program to help reduce the scourge of military suicide. I would like to briefly highlight a pair of issues I hope we address through floor amendments.

Finally and most importantly, I hope this bill will include a new package of Iran sanctions that Senator MENENDEZ, Senator KIRK, and I plan to introduce. The fact is, Iran is continuing to make progress towards a nuclear weapons capability and the Iranian government has been a ringleader in mandating a prescription drug take-back program to help reduce the scourge of military suicide. I would like to briefly highlight a pair of issues I hope we address through floor amendments.

In conclusion, I urge all my colleagues to support the NDAA for FY13. It is a strong bill that provides critical funding and authorizations to our military, and it has always been passed on a broad bipartisan basis. As I approach the end of my career in the Senate, I look back gratefully upon the annual debates on the NDAA as examples of the way this body should operate.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, tomorrow night will be bittersweet. A Jackson, MI; it is the night the Community Action Agency will bid a formal farewell to its leader and CEO, Marsha Kreucher. For nearly a quarter century, the Community Action Agency has been guided by a leader with vision and compassion. Marsha has been squarely focused on making the lives of those in need better. She has gone about this work with humility and tenacity, ensuring that her work and the work of the agency she leads does its part to improve the lives of the countless people served by the Community Action Agency.

The roots of poverty are complex and deep. Marsha’s work, which takes a holistic and innovative approach to promoting self-sufficiency among at-risk and low-income residents, has sought to identify the issues associated with poverty and develop programs to alleviate them. Her efforts have reaped many rewards for the residents of Jackson, Lenawee, and Hillsdale counties and have improved their economic, social, and health conditions as a consequence.

In the late 1980s, when she began working at the Community Action Agency, the agency administered about two dozen programs and had a budget of roughly $4 million. Nearly a quarter century later, the agency serves more than 27,000 residents annually through more than 80 programs with a budget that averages around $20 million. This is impressive growth and a testament to the quality of service the agency provides and the talent of those leading the way.

It doesn’t take very long to observe the profound impact the Community Action Agency has had on lives over the last two decades. The Center for Healthy Beginnings was established and currently provides full health care services to more than 27,000 residents annually. The Partnership Park Downtown Neighborhood Project was formed to help revitalize and redevelop a 23-block area in Jackson, MI, through $15 million in investments. More than 1,000 children a year receive early childhood education opportunities through agency activities. And thousands of families receive critical assistance with their income tax returns each year. These are but a few examples of the good work of this impressive agency and a glimpse of the range of services they provide with Marsha Kuecher as a driving force.

Marsha is not just an accomplished leader; she is also a willing mentor and tireless community servant. She sits on a nonprofit board and works to bring various stakeholders together to seek out fresh ways to combat the issues related to poverty. She is always willing to lend an ear or to provide insight to others. Her vision and her ideas have helped spark innovation and creativity, planting the seeds for a brighter future.

Marsha recently said to a local paper about her life after retirement, “It’s almost hard to comprehend the difference my life will have without it.” I say to her today that it is hard to imagine how different the Jackson community would be without her vision, leadership, and hard work over the last two decades. She has worked tirelessly and fiercely to make a positive impact on the lives of those in need, and she has done so with grace and determination. I congratulate her on a job well done and wish her the best as she begins her next, exciting journey.

VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN REAUTHORIZATION ACT

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, this fall also marks the 10th anniversary of the passing of another great Senator, Paul Wellstone, and his wife Sheila. They were dear friends. Among the many things that I remember about them is the importance of the Violence Against Women Act, which has long demonstrated the bipartisan commitment to work together against domestic violence and help victims. We have made much progress on this issue, in large part thanks to the Violence Against Women Act, which has long demonstrated the importance of the Violence Against Women Act, which has long demonstrated the bipartisan commitment to work together against domestic violence and help victims. We have made much progress on this issue, in large part thanks to the Violence Against Women Act, which has long demonstrated the importance of the Violence Against Women Act, which has long demonstrated the bipartisan commitment to work together against domestic violence and help victims.

Sadly, so much remains to be done. Recent reports find that almost one in four female college students will be a victim of sexual assault. And it would reduce the number of sexual assaults. And it would reduce the number of sexual assaults.

The bipartisan Leahy-Crapo Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act includes vital provisions to help these and other particularly vulnerable victims. As the New York Times observed this weekend:

The reauthorization is must-do business for the lame-duck session. Mr. BERNSEN should redouble efforts to ensure that the House to vote on the bill. There is a chance it will not muster sufficient Republican votes to pass. But at least it would give Republican representatives who value moderation a chance to dissociate themselves from the narrow-minded prejudices and politics hurting their party.

Mr. LEAHY. Friday will mark a year since Senator CRAPAO and I introduced this bill. We have kept victims waiting too long. We should come together to act now.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, it has now been more than 3 years since President Obama submitted the nominations of the American people, and Senate Republicans are still blocking votes on 19 judicial nominations who should have received confirmation votes before the Senate recessed for the election. Some of these nominees have been waiting close to 9 months for a vote. It is time for us to come together to do what is right and to act in the interests of the American people.

We should begin by having an up or down vote on the longest-pending nomination. The nomination of Patty Shewart to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals has been ready for a final vote since last March 8. Judge Shewart received a unanimous well-qualified rating from the nominations standing committee on the Federal Judiciary, its highest possible rating, and it is well past time for the Senate to vote on her nomination.

Regrettably, the Senate has not been able to make real progress for the American people by reducing the number of judicial vacancies. There were more than 80 vacancies when in March the Majority Leader was forced to take the extraordinary step of filing cloture petitions on 17 district court nominations. There are now more than 80 vacancies once again, and in stark contrast, there were only 29 vacancies at this point in President George W. Bush’s first term.

There is no justification for holding up final Senate action on the 19 judicial nominations that have been approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee and are pending on the Senate Executive Calendar. President Obama has consistently reached across the aisle, consulted with home state Senators from both parties and appointed qualified judicial nominees. It is time for the obstruction to end and for the Senate to complete action on these nominees when the Senate returns after the August recess has been denied a vote. That is something Senate Democrats have not done in any lame duck session, whether after a presidential or midterm election.

Senate Democrats allowed votes on 20 of President George W. Bush’s judicial nominees, including one very controversial circuit court nominee, in the lame duck session after the elections in 2002. I remember, I was the chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee when forward with those votes. The Senate proceeded to confirm judicial nominees in lame duck sessions after the elections in 2004 and 2006, and proceeded to confirm 19 judicial nominees in the lame duck session after the elections in 2008. The reason the Senate did not listing confirmations for the lame duck session at the end of 2008 is because that year we had proceeded to confirm the last 10 judicial nominees approved by the Judiciary Committee before the election recess in September.

Republicans can no longer claim the “Thurmond Rule” is the reason they are holding up nominations since the American people reelected President Obama. Having said in September that they objected to proceeding because of the impending election, Senate Republicans cannot now say that their insistence on delay has made it too late in the year to proceed with confirmations. That is wrong and it results in denying Americans the judges they need to administer justice around the country.

I implore Senators to put their partisan aside and work with the President on behalf of the American people. The American people voted for in the last election. Delaying confirmation votes on nominees for the sole purpose of delay is precisely what the American people repudiated when they cast their ballots. Furthermore, delays on the 19 nominees before us do not benefit the American people.

I am encouraged that several Republican Senators have recognized this, and have said that they want votes on their home State nominees. The Republican Senators from Oklahoma and Maine, and Senator Toomey from Pennsylvania have all advocated for up or down votes on nominees during this lame duck session, and they are right to do so. They know that filling those judicial vacancies in their States is important.

A judge in Florida has written that persistent vacancies “jeopardize our Court’s ability to deliver the quality of justice that the citizens of Florida deserve and will inhibit our citizens’ access to justice.” Sadly, Senate Republicans’ tactics of delay and obstruction has perpetuated the high level of judicial vacancies around the country. Continuing these tactics hurts the Federal courts and the American people they are intended to serve. This is a problem that has a commonsense solution: Let the Senate vote on consensus nominees that have been stalled. With the number of judicial vacancies now at 83, and with all pending nominees having waited at least 4 months for a vote, it is past time for Senate Republicans to abandon these tactics. This obstruction is not good for the country. How does preventing a vote on Richard Dowd benefit the people of Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming? How does preventing a vote on Michael Shea benefit the people of Connecticut? How does preventing a vote on Paul Grimm benefit the people of Maryland? How does preventing votes on Mark Walker and Brian Davis benefit the people of Florida? How does preventing a vote on Terrence Berg benefit the people of Michigan? How does preventing votes on Jesus Bernal, Fernando Olguin, William Orrick, and Jon Tigar benefit the people of California? How does preventing votes on Lorna Schlossberg benefit the people of New York? How does preventing votes on Matthew Brann and Malachy Mannion benefit the people of Pennsylvania? How does preventing a vote on Thomas Durkin benefit the people of Illinois? How does preventing votes on these nominees help the American people receive speedy justice?

If we can just have up or down votes on these 19 nominees, we can fill almost one-quarter of our Nation’s judicial vacancies, and almost one-third of all judicial emergency vacancies. Most importantly, we can make it easier for hardworking Americans to have access to justice.

President Obama has worked with home State Senators and all of these nominees have the support of their home State Senators. Seven of them are supported by Republican home State Senators. Eight of these nominees received bipartisan support on the Judiciary Committee.

When Ronald Reagan, George H.W. Bush and George W. Bush were Presidents, the Senate had cleared the calendar of all but the most controversial and extreme ideological judicial nominations. The Senate needs to be allowed to vote on President Obama’s judicial nominees now so that our Federal courts are better able to function and fulfill the fundamental guarantee of providing access to justice. Americans are rightfully proud of our legal system and its promise of access to justice and speedy trials. This promise is embedded in our Constitution. When overburdened courts make it hard to keep this promise, the Senate should work in a bipartisan manner to help. I have asked, now that the American people have reelected President Obama, for Senate Republicans to work with us to fill these longstanding judicial vacancies. The American people deserve no less.

WORLD AIDS DAY 2012

Mr. Nelson of Florida. Mr. President, Saturday we mark another World AIDS Day dedicated to showing our support of people living with HIV. In the 24 years since the first such day, we have seen great progress in the fight against the spread of this disease.

But there is still much more that needs to be done, not the least of which includes increasing public awareness. So this World AIDS Day, especially in memory of those who have died from this disease, let us recommit to ending this epidemic once and for all.

Every State of Florida has been hit particularly hard by this epidemic: over 100,000 people are living with HIV/AIDS. And for too long, Florida had a long waiting list of low income residents waiting for assistance to afford the high cost of life saving medications. At times, this list grew to over 4,000 Floridians.

Thankfully, we have made great progress over the past year through increased State and Federal investment—and, Florida’s wait list is now down to 56 individuals. But no one should have to forgo life saving drugs because they can’t afford them. In the days ahead when Congress is considering ways to tighten our belt, I would urge my colleagues to avoid blindly slashing these life saving programs.

We also must remain committed to funding the goals of President Barack Obama’s Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief globally. Among the goals is to provide care for the more than 12 million people with HIV around the world, including some 5 million orphans and children.

Mr. President, this is not, and should not be partisan issue for lawmakers. As former President George W. Bush noted in 2008, it’s a question of our moral interest.

“We believe in the timeless truth,” the president said, “to whom much is given, much is required.”

REMEMBERING TINKHAM VEALE II

Mr. Portman. Mr. President, today I wish to honor the life of Tinkham “Tink” Veale II. Mr. Veale was a successful entrepreneur and philanthropist who contributed greatly to the success of numerous businesses and community institutions throughout northeast Ohio and beyond during his long life. The impact and proud legacy of his business expertise and generosity will be realized for many years to come.

Mr. Veale was born 1914 in Topeka, KS and moved to the Cleveland area as a child when his father joined the Eaton Corporation. He attended Heights High School and Case Institute of Technology, graduating with a bachelor’s degree in engineering. Mr. Veale worked for several companies including General Motors. In 1941 he married Harriett Ernst, of the Ernst and Young accounting family, who passed away in 1998. The couple had three children, seven grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

In the 1960s, Veale and his associates formed Alco Standard Corporation.
Veale developed the philosophy and strategy he referred to as “corporate partnership,” through which his company acquired and financed small businesses while keeping their original management structures in place. His success grew from buying small companies, then helping them to succeed through keeping their management in place while contributing with capital and strategic direction. Over the years, the company operated many businesses representing diverse industries including mining, banking, retailing, as well as operating office equipment and paper distribution businesses. Veale served as Alco’s president and chairman until 1971 and stayed on as chairman until 1986. By 1987, the company had 175 businesses with 18,000 employees in the United States and Europe.

Mr. Veale had a unique spirit and love of life. Over the years he was active in a variety of community organizations, serving on the boards of the YMCA, YMCA of Greater Cleveland, Case Western Reserve University, and was a lifelong member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Michigan. He was a founding member of the Board of Trustees of The Cleveland Clinic Foundation, serving on the Board of Directors of The Cleveland Clinic for 25 years, and was a member of the Board of Directors of The Cleveland Clinic Foundation from its beginning in 1921 until 1959. He was a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Manufacturers and served as its President from 1968 to 1970. He was a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Manufacturers and served as its President from 1968 to 1970. He was a member of the Board of Directors of the American Bankers Association and served as its President from 1970 to 1971.

Mr. Veale’s contributions to the world of business were acknowledged by his peers through their recognition of his leadership in business and his dedication to the betterment of the community. He was the recipient of the 1968 National Movers Award of the American Bankers Association, the 1970 National Movers Award of the National Association of Manufacturers, the 1971 National Movers Award of the American Bankers Association, and the 1972 National Movers Award of the American Bankers Association. In recognition of his contributions to the community, he was awarded the 1970 Distinguished Service Award of the National Association of Manufacturers and the 1971 Distinguished Service Award of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Veale's legacy and giving spirit will not be forgotten. In typical fashion, the Scontsas family decided to celebrate their business’ 100th birthday by giving back to the Nevada community in a series of events this year. The year-long celebration showcased their strong roots in the community while promoting their products. I had the pleasure of attending the city of Nashua’s Annual Holiday Stroll this past weekend, where the Scontsas family unveiled their limited edition 100 Year Holiday ornament for their loyal customers.

As Nashua helps the Scontsas celebrate a century of family, business, and community, I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating Scontsas Fine Jewelry and Home Décor’s 100th anniversary.

REMEMBERING WAYNE BURKE

Mr. HELLER. Mr. President, today I wish to recognize a true Nevadan and friend, Wayne Burke, who has been honored by the Nevada Indian Commission as American Indian Community Leader of the Year. As tribal chairman for the Pyramid Lake Tribe, Wayne led the tribal council through many successes for the betterment of Nevada. Wayne’s untimely passing is a great loss, but his legacy of community and economic development in the Silver State will never be forgotten.

In addition to serving the State of Nevada, Wayne bravely served our Nation in the U.S. Marine Corps from 1993 until his honorable discharge in 1997. As a U.S. Marine Corps veteran, Wayne understood the important role of supporting those who defend our Nation. He was a member of Numu Tookwasu—Pyramid Lake Veterans and Warriors Association—and a staunch advocate for Native American veteran affairs. His vision helped launch Nevada’s first annual American Indian Veteran Summit this year, which invited members of the 27 tribes of Nevada to learn about access to veteran benefits and healthcare. His legacy will help raise awareness and resources for Native American veterans for years to come.

As tribal chairman, Wayne promoted an award-winning Pyramid Lake Economic development and tourism plan. His advocacy for the recovery and restoration of the Pyramid Lake fishery helped to secure over 1,000 acres of water, the most in any one-month period. Under his leadership, the Pyramid Lake Tribe has enjoyed a record number of visitors to Pyramid Lake and, subsequently, tourism awards. In August 2012, Wayne became the first Native American leader to serve on the Nevada Commission on Tourism.

The citizens of the Silver State were privileged that such a passionate and dedicated leader called Nevada home. My thoughts and prayers go out to his wife, Leticia; and children, Alex, Christian, and Soleil. Today, I ask my colleagues to join me in celebrating the life of a devoted Nevadan and honoring his esteemed accomplishments.

TRIBUTE TO STEVE RANSON

Mr. HELLER. Mr. President, today I wish to congratulate Steve Ranson on his 25 years with the Lahontan Valley News. Nevadans are fortunate to read his reporting every day and to have a dedicated voice serving the community. I applaud Steve’s hard work and dedication to our Nation’s brave men and women that serve in our Armed Services and the field of journalism.

Steve joined the staff in 1986 as a part-time sports writer and editor. Today, he has grown to be one of Nevada’s premier sports reporters, with an expertise in baseball and football. Steve’s work has earned him countless awards including Outstanding Journalist from the Nevada Press Association. His nomination for this award also reflects his extensive overseas travel to cover the U.S. Navy and Nevada National Guard in Southwest Asia and Afghanistan. His series of stories covering the wars earned him a place among his colleagues and peers as one of the best in his future endeavors and looks forward to providing more of his great work. Today, I ask my colleagues to join me today in congratulating Steve on his 25 years with the Lahontan Valley News.

REMEMBERING RICHARD WILKINS

Mr. LEE. Mr. President, Today I wish to pay tribute to my professor and my mentor, Steve Wilkins. Steve passed away in January 2012 after a long battle with cancer. He was a dedicated leader called Nevada home. My thoughts and prayers go out to his wife, Leticia; and children, Alex, Christian, and Soleil. Today, I ask my colleagues to join me in celebrating the life of a devoted Nevadan and honoring his esteemed accomplishments. friend Richard Wilkins who passed away on Monday. Richard was truly a renaissance man, a law professor turned international advocate who also enjoyed unique local notoriety for his 27 consecutive performances as Ebenezer Scrooge in the Hale Center Theater's annual production of A Christmas Carol.

In the canon of literary classics, Charles Dicken's Scrooge is a beloved but unlikely hero, a selfish miser turned community benefactor. Wilkins embraced the dynamic nature of Scrooge's transformation and saw the role as an opportunity to convey much deeper lessons regarding the values of family and personal improvement. The Hale Center opened in 1985 and cast then-32-year-old Richard as Scrooge, certainly unaware that they had found their star for the next 27 consecutive seasons.

In 2005, Her Highness Sheikha Mozah bint Nasser, the queen of Qatar asked him to move to Qatar to lead an institute for family studies. He would not agree until she assured him he would be able to return to the Hale Center every Christmas season to take up his top hat and bathrobe to reprise his role as Scrooge. Richard loved delivering Scrooge's famous line “I will honor Christmas in my heart, and try to keep it all the year. I will live in the past, the present, and the future.” Those close to Richard undoubtably agree that he took the words to heart, celebrating the spirit of Christmas into all other aspects of his life.

Richard graduated from my alma mater Brigham Young University Law School in 1979. He served as an assistant to my father, Solicitor General Rex Lee and argued several cases before the United States Supreme Court. Just 5 years after his graduation from BYU Law School he returned to teach constitutional law and civil procedure. He was also a speaker, writing for his engaging lectures in the classroom and scholarly insights on the law. He had a unique intelligence that propelled him to prominence in the legal world and established him as a powerful voice in the international community.

Richards’s greatest contribution to the world came as an international advocate for family values. His first exposure to the family values movement came in an academic effort to change the language the United Nations used to portray issues relating to the family. After engaging with international organizations striving to solidify a cultural identity, Sharon and I would like to express our deepest condolences to Richard's wife Marilyn, their four children Brooke, Brinton, Claire and Rex and their eight grandchildren.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS
By Mr. UDALL of Colorado (for himself, Mr. CRAPO, Mr. BENNET, and Mr. BARRASSO):
S. 3650. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to facilitate water leasing and water transfers to promote conservation and efficiency; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. President, today I am introducing bipartisan legislation that will improve the viability of agriculture and rural communities in western States like Colorado. This legislation will make it easier for mutual ditch and irrigation companies, which are an integral part of agriculture in arid regions where you often have to transport irrigation water over long distances, to remain profitable.

I thank my colleagues Senators CRAPO, BENNET and BARRASSO for joining me in this effort.

Mutual ditch and irrigation companies are primarily associations of farmers who band together to construct and operate water delivery and storage systems for use on semi-arid farmland. For 150 years, mutual ditch and irrigation companies have installed and maintained this kind of infrastructure to convey water to irrigated lands in the West.

These companies can qualify for tax-exempt status if at least 85 percent of their income comes from their member assessments. The 85-percent rule is meant to ensure that the members of tax-exempt cooperatives are not able to enrich themselves by making investments unrelated to their charitable purpose.

Over time, however, the cost to maintain and operate aging water infrastructure has made it impossible for many mutual ditch and irrigation companies to operate solely on member income. If member assessments were large enough to cover the true cost of operations, it would be cost prohibitive for most farmers to use the water to irrigate crops, leading to a loss of irrigated farmland.

To sustain irrigated farmland, ditch and irrigation companies supplement the cost of operations with non-member income from, for example, recreational leases, crossing fees, storage rights and the exchange of water rights. This is a good thing, but this supplemental income can jeopardize the company’s tax-exempt status.

My legislation would exempt certain sources of income from the non-member income test for mutual ditch and irrigation companies. However, to be excluded, the revenue from these sources must be used for the tax-exempt purposes of the company. My legislation specifically requires non-member income to be used for operations or maintenance of the mutual ditch or irrigation company in order to be exempted from the 85-percent test.

Excluding these revenue streams, we can support local agriculture and help ditch and irrigation companies stay in business, while at the same time providing for more efficient use of precious water resources. Further, by requiring that the proceeds be used exclusively for operations and maintenance of the ditch or irrigation company, we will ensure that this income is reinvested in water infrastructure, helping to create new jobs and our agricultural heritage.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the Record.

Without objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

S. 3650
Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “Ditch and Irrigation Company Tax Reform Act”.

SEC. 2. FACILITATE WATER LEASING AND WATER TRANSFERS TO PROMOTE CONSERVATION AND EFFICIENCY.
(a) IN GENERAL.—Paragraph (12) of section 501(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

"(1) TREATMENT OF MUTUAL DITCH OR IRRIGATION COMPANIES.—"

"(i) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a mutual ditch or irrigation company organization, subparagraph (A) shall be applied without taking into account any income received or accrued.

"(ii) FROM THE SALE, LEASE, OR EXCHANGE OF FEE OR OTHER INTERESTS IN REAL PROPERTY, INCLUDING INTERESTS IN WATER,"
"(II) from the sale or exchange of stock in a mutual ditch or irrigation company or like organization or contract rights for the delivery or use of water, or
"(III) the investment of proceeds from sales, leases, or exchanges under subclauses (I) and (II), except that any income received under subclause (I), (II), or (III) which is distributed or expended other than in operations and maintenance of the mutual ditch or irrigation company or like organization shall be treated as non-member income in the year in which it is distributed or expended. For purposes of the preceding sentence, expenses other than operations and maintenance include expenses for the construction of conveyances designed to deliver water outside of the mutual ditch or irrigation company or like organization system.
"(III) TREATMENT OF ORGANIZATIONAL GOVERNANCE.—In the case of a mutual ditch or irrigation company or like organization, where State law provides that such a company or organization may be organized in a manner that permits voting on a basis which is pro-rata to share ownership on corporate governance matters, subparagraph (A) shall be applied without taking into account whether the shareholders have one vote on corporate governance matters per share held in the corporation. Nothing in this clause shall be construed to create any inference about the requirements of this subsection for companies or organizations not included in this clause.".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 604—DESIGNATING THE WEEK OF NOVEMBER 26 THROUGH NOVEMBER 30, 2012, AS NATIONAL NURSE-MANAGED HEALTH CLINIC WEEK

Mr. INOUYE (for himself and Mr. ALEXANDER) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. Res. 604

Whereas nurse-managed health clinics are nonprofit community-based health care sites that offer primary care and wellness services based on the nursing model;

Whereas the nursing model emphasizes the protection, promotion, and optimization of health, the prevention of illness, the alleviation of suffering, and the diagnosis and treatment of illness;

Whereas nurse-managed health clinics are led by advanced practice nurses and staffed by an interdisciplinary team of highly qualified health care professionals;

Whereas nurse-managed health clinics offer a broad scope of services, including treatment to provide primary and chronic illnesses, routine physical exams, immunizations for adults and children, disease screenings, health education, prenatal care, dental care, and drug treatment;

Whereas, as of June 2011, more than 200 nurse-managed health clinics provided care across the United States and recorded more than 6 million encounters annually;

Whereas nurse-managed health clinics serve a unique dual role as both health care safety net access points and health workforce pipeline providers, given that a majority of nurse-managed health clinics are affiliated with schools of nursing and serve as clinical education sites for students entering the health profession;

Whereas nurse-managed health clinics strengthen the health care safety net by expanding primary care and chronic disease management services for vulnerable and medically underserved populations in diverse rural, urban, and suburban communities;

Whereas research has shown that nurse-managed health clinics experience high patient retention and patient satisfaction rates, and nurse-managed health clinic patients experience higher rates of generic medication fills and lower hospitalization rates when compared to similar safety net providers;

Whereas the 2011 report of the Institute of Medicine on the future of nursing highlights the work nurse-managed health clinics are doing to reduce health disparities by bringing evidence-based care to individuals who may not otherwise receive needed services; and

Whereas nurse-managed health clinics offering both primary care and wellness services provide quality care in a cost-effective manner: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That—

(1) designates the week of November 26 through November 30, 2012, as "National Nurse-Managed Health Clinic Week";

(2) supports the ideals and goals of National Nurse-Managed Health Clinic Week; and

(3) encourages the expansion of nurse-managed health clinics so that nurse-managed health clinics may continue to serve as health care workforce development sites for the next generation of primary care providers.

Subtitle D—Other Matters

SEC. 3141. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON OVERSIGHT OF THE NUCLEAR SECURITY ENTERPRISE.

(a) FINDING.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) In 2000, the National Nuclear Security Administration was established as an independent entity within the Department of Energy to manage and secure the nuclear weapons stockpile of the United States and to manage nuclear nonproliferation and naval reactor programs.

(2) Serious security and health incidents continue to occur at sites of the National Nuclear Security Administration.

(3) In 2012, an official of the Government Accountability Office testified to Congress that lax laboratory attitudes toward safety procedures, laboratory inadequacies in identifying and addressing safety problems with appropriate corrective actions, and inadequate oversight by site offices of the National Nuclear Security Administration were responsible for nearly 100 safety incidents since 2000.

(4) On July 28, 2012, three unarmed individuals compromised security at the Y-12 National Security Complex in Oak Ridge, Tennessee, and according to the Government Accountability Office, “gained access to the protected security area directly adjacent to one of the most critically important nuclear weapons-related facilities”.

(5) In June 2006, hackers attacked an unclassified computer system at the National Nuclear Security Administration’s Savannah River Site in New Mexico, and gained access to a file containing the names and social security numbers of more than 1,500 employees of the National Nuclear Security Administration.

(6) As early as February 2005, the Inspector General of the Department of Energy identified problems with the retrieval of badges from terminated employees at Los Alamos National Laboratory and other sites of the National Nuclear Security Administration.

(7) In 2004, a pattern of safety and security incidents that occurred over the course of a year prompted the stand-down of Los Alamos National Laboratory.

(8) The National Nuclear Security Administration, independent of the safety and security reform efforts of the Department of Energy, has launched an overhaul of its contract compliance plan, placing an emphasis on contractor self-policing through an untested “contractor assurance” approach.

(9) The Government Accountability Office has given the contractor administration and project management capabilities of the National Nuclear Security Administration a “high risk” rating due to its misjudgment as to be insufficient qualified Federal acquisition professionals to “plan, direct, and oversee project execution”.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) there is a need for strong, independent oversight of the United States nuclear security enterprise;

(2) any attempt to reform oversight of the nuclear security enterprise that transfers oversight from the Department of Energy to the National Nuclear Security Administration, reduces protections for worker health and safety at facilities of the National Nuclear Security Administration to levels below the standards of the Department of Energy, or transfers construction appropriation account to the military construction appropriation account from the Department of Energy appropriation account, should be carefully evaluated;

(3) the Office of Health, Safety, and Security of the Department, which reports to the Secretary of Energy but is also accountable for routinely reporting to Congress on the performance with respect to safety and security, should include, in addition to the National Nuclear Security Administration, and the role of that Office in overseeing safety and security at the National Nuclear Security Administration, should not be diminished;

(4) any future modifications to the management or structure of the nuclear security enterprise (whether by way that maintains or increases oversight of critical construction, security, and acquisition capabilities);

(5) to the extent possible, oversight of programs of the National Nuclear Security Administration by the Department of Defense should increase to ensure current and future warfighting requirements are met; and

(6) the National Weapons Council should provide proper oversight in the execution of its responsibilities under section 179 of title 10, United States Code.

SA 3192. Mr. COONS (for himself and Mr. INHOFE) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 3254, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of title E of title III, add the following:

SEC. 344. CODIFICATION OF NATIONAL GUARD STATE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM.

SEC. 1246. PLAN FOR PROMOTING THE SECURITY OF AFGHAN WOMEN AND GIRLS DURING THE SECURITY TRANSITION PROGRAM.

(a) Findings.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) According to the Department of Defense’s April 2012 Report on Progress Toward Security and Stability in Afghanistan:

(A) ‘‘U.S. and NATO will continue to degrade the Taliban-led insurgency in order to provide time and space to increase the capacity of the Afghan National Security Forces and the government so they can assume full responsibility for Afghanistan’s security by the end of 2014.’’

(B) ‘‘Transition to Afghan security lead begins in July 2011. Transition to full Afghan security responsibility will be complete country-wide by the end of 2014.’’

(C) ‘‘The security of the Afghan people and the stability of the government are used to judge provincial readiness to move to each successive stage of transition implementation.’’

(D) For each area designated for transition, a transition implementation plan is developed by the Government of Afghanistan, NATO, and ISAF and approved by the Joint Afghan-Taliban Regional Coordination (JANIB). JANIB is also responsible for coordinating areas to enter and exit the transition process.

(E) According to the Department of State, Peace and Security Submitted by the Secretary-General of the United Nations pursuant to Security Council resolution 1325 (2000), ‘‘the suspension of or restriction on women’s enjoyment of their human rights can act as an early warning indicator of impending or renewed conflict. In Afghanistan, restrictions on women’s stability and rights can signal the presence of extremist or insurgent elements in a community.’’

(F) The security of Afghan women and girls in areas under transition will be an important gauge of the transition strategy’s success. Indicators by which to measure women’s security include the mobility of women and girls, the participation of women in local government bodies, the rate of school attendance for girls, women’s access to government services, and the prevalence of violence.

(G) Maintaining and improving physical security for Afghan women and girls throughout the country is critical in order for women and girls to take advantage of opportunities in education, commerce, politics, and other areas of public life, which in turn is essential for the future stability and prosperity of Afghanistan.

(H) Women who serve as public officials at all levels of the Government of Afghanistan face serious threats to their personal security and the security of their families. Afghan female officials have been the victims of violent crimes, but they are generally not afforded official protection by the Government of Afghanistan or NATO.

(I) Protecting the security and human rights of Afghan women and girls requires the involvement of Afghans and boys through their participation in the development and implementation of policies, procedures, and enforcement of policies, procedures, and guidance to better integrate women will help, time will be needed to change the cultural mores that form the basis of many of the current impediments.’’

(3) The United States, the North American Treaty Organization, and United States forces have committed to work with Afghan authorities to improve the work environment and policies to support the human rights of the women and girls of Afghanistan, as evidenced by the following actions:

(A) According to the United States National Action Plan on Women, Peace and Security, ‘‘integrating women and gender considerations into peace-building processes helps promote democratic governance and peace and security and the end of war, and to protect the human rights and cultural values of Afghan women and children during the transition to the future, the United States and its partners must work to create a sustainable, accountable, and effective environment for Afghan women and children to protect their human rights and ensure that they are active participants in all levels of government.’’

(B) The National Action Plan also states that ‘‘the engagement and protection of women as agents of peace and stability will be central to United States efforts to promote security, prevent, respond to, and resolve violent conflict, and protect human rights. This policy applies to United States Government efforts in Afghanistan, where addressing the security vulnerabilities of Afghan women and girls during the transition is an essential step toward long-term stability.’’
(C) The Chicago Summit Declaration issued by NATO in May 2012 states: “We emphasize the importance of full participation of all Afghan women in the reconstruction, political, and security accommodation processes in Afghanistan and the need to respect the institutional arrangements protecting their rights. We remain committed to the implementation of the United Nations Security Council Resolution (UNSCR) 1235 on women, peace and security. We recognize also the need for the protection of children from the damaging effects of armed conflict as required in relevant UNSCRs.”

(12) The Strategic Partnership Agreement signed between the United States and Afghanistan by President Obama and President Karzai in June 2012 states, “Consistent with its Constitution and international obligations, Afghanistan shall ensure and advance the essential role of women in society, so that they may fully enjoy their economic, social, political, civil and cultural rights.”

(b) PLAN TO PROMOTE SECURITY OF AFGHAN WOMEN.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense, in concurrence with the Secretary of State, shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a plan to promote the security of Afghan women during the security transition period.

(2) ELEMENTS.—The plan required under paragraph (1) shall include the following elements:

(A) A plan to monitor and respond to changes in women’s security conditions in areas undergoing transition, including the following actions:

(i) Seeking to designate a Civilian Impact Advisor on the Joint Afghan-NATO Integal Board (JANIB) to assess the impact of transition on male and female civilians and ensure their protection, security and safety, and to include in each area’s transition implementation plan.

(13) members of the United States Armed Forces who served bravely and faithfully for the United States during the Vietnam War were often wrongly criticized for the policy decisions made by 4 presidential administrations in the United States;

(14) the establishment of a “Vietnam Veterans Day” would be an appropriate way to honor those members of the United States Armed Forces who served in South Vietnam and throughout Southeast Asia during the Vietnam War;

(6) The Government of Iran has supplied Hamas with advanced longer range missiles such as the Fajr-4.

(9) The Iron Dome system has successfully intercepted hundreds of rockets targeting population centers in Israel.

(10) The Iron Dome system has maintained a success rate of close to 90 percent.

(11) The Government of Israel currently maintains 5 Iron Dome batteries, a number insufficient to protect Israel, but did not receive upon returning home from the war;

(12) It appears that approximately 10 additional Iron Dome batteries are needed to protect all of Israel.

(13) The United States Government, recognizing the threat to Israeli citizens and desirous of promoting peace, approved funding to assist the Government of Israel in procuring Iron Dome batteries.

NATIONAL NURSE-MANAGED HEALTH CLINIC WEEK
Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of S. Res. 603 which was submitted earlier today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the resolution by title.

A resolution (S. Res. 603) designating the week of November 26 through November 30, 2012 as National Nurse-Managed Health Clinic Week.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. INOUYE. Mr. President, today I rise to recognize all of the advanced practice nurses who work in Nurse-Managed Health Clinics in a resolution to designate November 26, 2012 through November 30, 2012 as National Nurse-Managed Health Clinic Week. National Nurse-Managed Health Clinic Week will provide a national platform from which to promote the pivotal services offered by the more than 200 nurse-managed health clinics in the United States. Led by advanced practice nurses, these clinics are a unique model for delivery of primary and preventive care.

Within Nurse-Managed Health Centers, nurse practitioners and other advanced practice nurses deliver high quality and cost-effective services to diverse populations of all age groups and ethnicities. A substantial share of the patients are uninsured or on Medicaid. As a result, Nurse-Managed Health Clinics provide care regardless of a person’s ability to pay. In addition to the provision of health care services, Nurse-Managed Health Centers play an important role in the health profession’s education. Most Nurse-Managed Health Centers are affiliated with colleges of nursing and provide clinical education opportunities to over 3,100 students annually from the fields of nursing, medicine, pharmacy, social work, and public health.

A Senate Resolution will recognize the key role Nurse-Managed Health Centers play. I ask my colleagues to join me in supporting this tribute to Nurse-Managed Health Centers.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table, with no intervening action or debate, and any statements be printed in the RECORD as read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 603) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

S. Res. 603
Whereas nurse-managed health clinics are nonprofit community-based health care sites that offer primary care and wellness services based on the nursing model;
Whereas the nursing model emphasizes the protective promotion, and optimization of health, the prevention of illness, the alleviation of suffering, and the diagnosis and treatment of illness;
Whereas nurse-managed health clinics are led by advanced practice nurses and staffed by an interdisciplinary team of highly qualified health care professionals;
Whereas nurse-managed health clinics offer a broad scope of services, including treatment for acute and chronic illnesses, routine physical exams, immunizations for adults and children, disease screenings, health education, prenatal care, dental care, and drug and alcohol treatment;
Whereas, as of June 2011, more than 200 nurse-managed health clinics provided care across the United States and recorded more than 2,000,000 client encounters annually;
Whereas nurse-managed health clinics serve a unique dual role as both health care safety net access points and health workforce development sites, given that the majority of nurse-managed health clinics are affiliated with schools of nursing and serve as clinical education sites for students entering the health profession;
Whereas nurse-managed health clinics strengthen the health care safety net by expanding access to primary care and chronic disease management services for vulnerable and medically underserved populations in diverse rural, urban, and suburban communities;
Whereas research has shown that nurse-managed health clinics experience high patient retention and patient satisfaction rates, and nurse-managed health clinic patients experience higher rates of generic medication fills and medication refill rates when compared to similar safety net providers;
Whereas the 2011 report of the Institute of Medicine on the future of nursing highlights the work nurse-managed health clinics are doing to reduce health disparities by bringing evidence-based care to individuals who may not otherwise receive needed services; and
Whereas nurse-managed health clinics offering both primary care and wellness services provide quality care in a cost-effective manner: Now, therefore, be it
Resolved, That the Senate—
(1) designates the week of November 26 through November 30, 2012, as “National Nurse-Managed Health Clinic Week’’;
(2) supports the ideals and goals of National Nurse-Managed Health Clinic Week; and
(3) encourages the expansion of nurse-managed health clinics so that nurse-managed health clinics may continue to serve as health care workforce development sites for the next generation of primary care providers.

In 1986, Ferguson earned his Navy Wings and was ordered to the F–14 Tomcat training squadron in Virginia Beach, VA. Later, he joined the “Red Rippers” of VF–11, deploying to the North Atlantic, Mediterranean and Indian oceans onboard the USS Forrestal.

In 1995, he joined the “Checkmates” of VF–211, completing a deployment to the Western Pacific and Persian Gulf enforcing the Iraqi no-fly zone on board the USS Nimitz. Throughout his military career, Commander Ferguson has earned many commendations, including the Legion of Merit, Distinguished Flying Cross, and Navy Strike-Flight Air Medal.

80TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK SYSTEM

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. BOREN. Mr. Speaker, I take this opportunity to recognize the 80th anniversary of the Federal Home Loan Bank System. Chartered by Congress in 1932, the Federal Home Loan Bank system consists of 12 regional banks acting as a reliable source of critical funding for community financial institutions to finance housing and economic development.

The Federal Home Loan Banks provide safe, affordable liquidity to nearly 8,000 banks, thrifts, credit unions, insurance companies and community development financial institutions in every state. As such, they are an essential partner for community and economic development across the country.

The Federal Home Loan Banks operate under a cooperative model with ownership resting in its regional members and a management team focused on safety and soundness. This has protected taxpayers over the FHLBanks’ entire 80-year history. During the recent economic downturn, the FHLBanks received no taxpayer support, and they were a vital player in supporting a broader U.S. housing market recovery.

Lastly, Mr. Speaker, I want to acknowledge the Affordable Housing Program administered by the Federal Home Loan Banks and funded by contributions of 10 percent of the earnings from each of the FHLBanks. This important program represents the largest single source of private sector grants for housing and community development in the country. The Federal Home Loan Banks have distributed approximately $4.6 billion in private grants through their Affordable Housing Program since its inception in 1990. These grants have helped provide 1.5 million housing units to deserving families in every corner of the country.

IN HONOR OF DENNIS DONOHUE
HON. SAM FARR
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. FARR. Mr. Speaker, what an honor it is to recognize the work and achievements of one of the nation’s most remarkable mayors. Dennis Donohue will step down as the Mayor of Salinas in December after serving in that position since 2006. He leaves office after six remarkable years that saw the city gain national attention for its efforts to solidify itself as the center of the nation’s diversified fresh salad economy and turning the city away from its decades-old gang violence problem. Dennis stood at head—and heart—of both of these efforts and his leadership on these and other issues will be felt around California for years.

As a young boy, Dennis’ family moved to Salinas. He graduated from Palma High School in 1972 and, ever since, has been a fixture at Palma sporting events. He earned a BA from the University of San Francisco and an MA from Gannon University in Pennsylvania. He then returned to California where he worked for several years in Silicon Valley’s high tech industry. In 1988, he returned to Salinas to begin a career in agriculture, eventually rising in 1998 to become CEO of Salinas based European Vegetable Specialties, the world’s largest radicchio producer. In 2005–06, he served as Chairman of the Salinas based Grower-Shippers Association of Central California.

In addition to his business leadership, Dennis took on many community service roles. He co-chaired the campaign committee for Measure V, a half-cent sales tax proposition that rescued the City from a fiscal emergency. He helped bring national attention to saving the city libraries by working with the Steering Committee of Rally Salinas!, a coalition formed to fundraise for Salinas's threatened libraries, and a director on the board of the Second Chance Youth Program, a gang-prevention nonprofit, since 1992; and on the Palma High School Board of Directors; and on many other boards, commissions, and community efforts.

Although Dennis is fond of reminding folks that Salinas is the 158th most populous city in the United States, it is still small in comparison to major metropolitan centers. In many ways it retains the feel of a small farm town. That is—except for the curse of a big city gang violence problem. Several years after his 2006 election as Mayor, the city's long standing gang problem erupted in an explosion of youth violence. Dennis helped lead a community wide collaborative effort to bring together law enforcement, social services, faith, and community leaders to begin a sustained and comprehensive response. That effort has drawn national attention and the White House selected Salinas to be among just six cities nationally to participate in a pilot project to turn back gang violence. Helping to put Salinas on the long term path to solving this problem will perhaps be counted as his greatest achievement as Mayor.

Dennis is married to the former Paula Johnson, who grew up on the old Williams Ranch in the Alisal. Paula, an alumna of Notre Dame High School, teaches physical education at Harden Miller Elementary School. They have two adult children, Emily and Allan.

Mr. Speaker, I know I speak for the whole House in thanking Dennis and his family for his service as mayor. I thank him for being my delegate to the 2012 Presidential Electoral College where he proudly supported our president. I personally look forward with pleasure to working with citizen Donohue in the years to come. He will always be remembered for imagining a great city.

IN MEMORY OF CADET FIRST CLASS MATTHEW JOHN PATRICK
HON. PETE SESSIONS
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart that I rise today in memory of Air Force Academy Cadet First Class Matthew John Patrick. Matthew passed away on Friday, September 28, 2012.

Born in Dallas, Texas, Matthew developed a love for flying at an early age and dreamed of becoming a fighter pilot. He joined the Civil Air Patrol where he earned the prestigious Billy Mitchell Award and experienced flying solo for the first time. After graduating from the School of Science and Engineering Magnet in 2009, Matthew entered the United States Air Force Academy where he excelled. He majored in aeronautical engineering and would have graduated in 2013.

I had the privilege of getting to know Matthew during the academy nomination process. Having won numerous math and science competitions, I already knew that Matthew was exceptionally bright. Aside from his academic achievement, I saw his passion when he spoke of his love for flying and of his desire to attend the Air Force Academy. I also noticed that Matthew possessed a quiet confidence, which told me a great deal about his character and his potential. Indeed, I learned that Matthew was a loyal friend, an intelligent and hard working young man of great character, and the type of person who was always willing to lend a helping hand to others. He was unabashedly bold in pursuing his dream. Mr. Speaker, "It is a great loss for the United States Air Force Academy and the State of Texas.

Matthew is survived by his parents, Beverly and Matthew Patrick; his sister, Catherine Ann Patrick; grandparents, Cathy and Jack Robert; and many aunts, uncles, and cousins.

There are no words that can fully express my sorrow. There is nothing I can offer but my prayers to comfort the Patrick family in the midst of this difficult time. May the peace of God be with those he loved and sustain them through this hour of sorrow.

REMEMBERING AND HONORING THE LIFE OF DARIO LORENZETTI
HON. PETER T. KING
OF NEW YORK
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. KING of New York. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of Dario Lorenzetti of Fort Worth, Texas was killed in action in the service of the United States in Ghazni Province, Afghanistan on October 13, 2012. He was an Eagle Scout, a graduate of Saint Andrew Catholic School and Nolan Catholic High School, and a 1993 honors graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, where he was a champion boxer.

Commissioned as an infantry officer, Lieutenant and then Captain Lorenzetti served with distinction in the 75th Ranger Regiment. Those who bear the Ranger Tab follow a creed which reads in part, "Never shall I fail my comrades, and I will shoulder more than my share of the task whatever it may be." Dario exemplified this motto. His military obligation complete, he volunteered to return to government service after America was attacked on September 11, 2001.

He worked overseas on behalf of our national security with courage, dedication and uncommon skill. Dario served in Saudi Arabia, India and finally Afghanistan, where he gave the last full measure of devotion to our country.

Every generation learns the hard truth that our nation's greatest heroes are found among the ranks of those who raise their hands to go forth and protect us, but never return home. Dario's death proves the sad wisdom of this lesson.

His sincere Catholic faith recalled Saint Francis of Assisi's advice that Christians "preach the gospel wherever you go, and if necessary, use words." Dario inspired and led others by quiet example. He will always be remembered by his colleagues and friends for his generosity, humility, kindness, warmth and wit.

Dario is survived by his wife and soulmate Kirstin, and his daughters Arabella, Natalia and Aryanna. There has never been a happier husband or prouder, more doting father of baby girls than Dario Lorenzetti. His family was the center of Dario's life, and his loss to them is irreplaceable. Our prayers go out to them.

OF COLORADO
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize and applaud Kathleen Callender and Heather Callender-Potters for their service to our community and receiving the 2012 Mayor of Golden's Award for Excellence.

Kathleen, founder of Pharmajet, and Heather, chairman of the board of directors, transformed the way vaccines and liquid medications are delivered by developing and marketing a unique, efficient, affordable and lifesaving needle-free syringe. These devices can deliver half a milliliter fixed dose of a liquid medication into the muscle where many vaccines are delivered, or into the subcutaneous layer between the skin and the muscle.

Pharmajet continues to serve communities around the world by creating a safer workplace with less exposure to needle stick injuries and reducing the amount of hazardous sharps medical waste in a way to better control the spread of blood borne HIV and hepatitis from needle reuse.

Pharmajet's mission is to serve individual patients in the community and promote public health in all areas of the world. Their partnership with UNICEF eliminates many of the risks of unsafe injections, along with the 1.3 million deaths per year.

Ms. Callender and Ms. Callender-Potters are champions in the community and throughout the globe. I am honored to congratulate them on receiving the 2012 Mayor of Golden's Award. Excellence. I am sure they will exhibit the same dedication and commitment in all their future endeavors.

CLOTHE A HOMELESS HERO ACT

SPEECH OF

HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE

Tuesday, November 27, 2012

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 6328, the “Jamie Zapata Border Enforcement Security Task Force Act,” which directs the Assistant Secretary of Homeland Security (Transportation Security Administration [TSA]) to transfer unclaimed clothing recovered at airport security checkpoints to local veterans organizations or other local charitable organizations for distribution to homeless or needy veterans and their families. Moreover, it authorizes the Assistant Secretary to enter into agreements with airport authorities for disposing of such clothing.

In my home state of Texas, we have nearly 1.7 million veterans. I represent 18th District in Texas which is home to over 32,000 veterans. Of the 200,000 veterans of military service who live and work in Houston; more than 13,000 are veterans from Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan, and Operation Iraqi Freedom. Veteran homelessness has been a substantial problem going back to at least the Vietnam era.

An estimated 10–16 percent of our nation’s homeless people (between 76,000–136,000) are veterans. Nearly one in seven homeless adults are veterans, as of 2009. More than 67,000 homeless veterans were counted on a given January night in America last year. More than 4 in 10 homeless veterans were found unsheltered.

Almost half of homeless veterans were African American in 2008 despite the fact that only 1 percent of veterans overall are African American.

1.5 million veterans are at risk of homelessness due to poverty, lack of support networks, and dismal living conditions in overcrowded or substandard housing.

30.2 percent of veterans ages 18 to 24 were unemployed according to unpublished 2011 Bureau of Labor Statistics data. Nearly 1 in 10 veterans with disabilities were not employed in 2010.

According to Iraq and Afghanistan Veterans of America, a 2007 survey showed that more than one-third of employers were unaware of protections they must provide to service members, and more than half spent less than 2 percent of their recruitment budget on military advertising and/or did not understand the qualifications of military service.

In that same survey more than half of all veterans were unsure of how to professionally network, and nearly three in four felt unprepared to negotiate salary and benefits and/or unable to effectively translate military skills.

More than 968,000 of veterans ages 18 to 64 had been in poverty in the past year in 2010.

More than 33,000 veterans were housed since 2009 by the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Department of Veterans Affairs in permanent, supportive housing with case managers and access to VA health care.

$31 million of SNAP/food stamps funding in 2008 was spent at military commissaries to help feed military members and their families who struggle against hunger.

A veteran lives in one in five households benefiting from the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program, which provides heating and cooling assistance.

After serving this country and protecting our rights and freedoms, these veterans often sustain debilitating injuries or post-traumatic stress in life less than a task as arduous in the U.S. and an arduous task. It is often difficult for them to find jobs and as they slip further into hopelessness, they become more susceptible to drug abuse and violent acts which can lead to homelessness.

This is a disturbing trend that must end. Surely, in this great nation, we can provide for those who fought to defend us. As our men and women in the armed forces have served us, it is our duty to, in turn, serve them.

H.R. 6328 is a step in the right direction towards finding creative solutions for the basic needs of certain veterans. By using unclaimed clothing that has been left at airports is a wonderful way to help ensure that veterans who have fallen on hard times have access to clothing.

With the epidemic of depression, anxiety, and Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) in our military, along with the burden of long and repeated deployment during our nation’s most recent wars, we must be vigilant about combating the issue of homelessness among our nation’s heroes.

Throughout my tenure in Congress, I have remained committed to meeting both the needs of veterans of previous wars, and to those who are now serving. Veterans have kept their promises to serve our nation; they have willingly risked their lives to protect the country we all love. We must now ensure that we keep our promises to our veterans.

I have introduced and supported legislation that increases medical services to our troops, veterans and their families. I recently introduced a measure that resulted in $500,000 additional funding for PTSD research and treatment. Yet, as we work to improve the physical and mental health of our returning heroes; we must also work to ensure that our service men and women retain their dignity when they return home, and providing them with access to clothes is the least we can do in honor of their service.

I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 6328, the “Clothe a Homeless Hero Act,” on Suspension.

U.N. IS NOT THE FORUM FOR RESOLVING MIDDLE EAST TENSIONS

HON. TED POE

Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, today, the United Nations will vote on whether or not to recognize the Palestinian Authority as a nonmember observer state of the U.N. With 132 nations having already recognized the Palestinian territory as a sovereign state and only 97 votes needed, I suspect the Palestinian Authority’s effort will be successful. Yet, despite a ceasefire reached between Israel and Hamas last week, the Middle East remains a volatile tinder box far from peace. Admitting the Palestinian Authority as a nonmember observer state will hurt, not help, a peace process that is already on shaky ground.

The United States has opposed the Palestinian Authority’s effort from the very beginning because it recognizes the instability that such recognition would create. The Palestinian Authority wants all the benefits of a state, without any of the responsibility. They fully admit that they don’t know what their borders are. By definition, a state is a geographic territory with a defined government. That means, in some countries with border disputes, such as India and Pakistan in the Kashmir region, but the Palestinians have no agreed upon border whatsoever. What is a state if it can’t define its own borders?

The Palestinians themselves agreed to resolve statehood issues at the negotiating table in the Oslo Accords (which means they are required to negotiate bilaterally with Israel). Now they are figuratively walking away from the negotiating table and literally blowing it up with attacks from Hamas. Meanwhile, Israel continues to help the Palestinian economy, including collecting over $100 million a month in taxes for the Palestinians and allowing more and more Palestinians to travel to the West Bank. One thing is for sure: it is not Israel that is holding up the peace process.

With upgraded status at the U.N. come certain benefits. Here lies the real desire for the Palestinian U.N. gambit. A Palestinian state could bring war crimes charges against Israel in the International Criminal Court, putting the fate of Israelis in the hands of some international judge. This Court is so dangerous that even President Obama refuses to allow Americans to be prosecuted by it. The Palestinian Authority remains fiercely committed to bringing Israel to the International Criminal Court. Many of the nations who support Palestinian Authority want all the benefits of a state, without any of the responsibility. They fully admit that they don’t know what their borders are. the Palestinian Authority $495 million. In the same timeframe, President Abbas’ office budget was $72 million yet he refuses to tell us or anyone else how he spends it. There are even press reports that his own salary is $1 million a month. According to their own documents, the Palestinian Authority spent $194 million last year alone on offices that helped promote the Palestinians’ push for recognition at the U.N. The U.S. should immediately cut funding to the PLO by at least $72 million next year and require President Abbas to open up his budget for all to see. The days of giving money away to other nations with no transparency and no consequences for irresponsible behavior should be over.

The United Nations has no business getting involved in the conflict between the Israelis and the Palestinians. Dore Gold, a former Israeli ambassador to the U.N. said: “If there was a U.N. resolution whose first clause was anti-Israel and whose second clause was the earth is flat, the U.N. would pass it.” Peace will not come from decisions made by a corrupt international body. If the Palestinians were committed to peace they would be working with Israel, not hiding behind the U.N. And that’s just the way it is.

RUSSIA AND MOLDOVA JACKSON-VANIK REPEAL AND SERGEI MAGNITSKY RULE OF LAW ACCOUNTABILITY ACT OF 2012

OF NEW YORK
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to remember the life and legacy of Joseph Fleming, fondly known to many as Papa Joe, Joe Cool, The People’s Lawyer, The Master Negotiator and Harlem’s General Counsel. On Monday, September 10, 2012, Harlem’s honorary elite Syrian-American artistes gathered at the historic Abyssinian Baptist Church to celebrate the life of our dear beloved attorney and friend, Joseph Fleming, Esq.

It was a special gathering of people that knew Joseph as clients, as activists, as educators, as business partners, as media personalities, as religious leaders, as entertainers and promoters, as elected officials and as family members and friends. In his very short time here on this earth, my dear friend Joe Fleming lived a life of professional excellence and accomplishment, which included being the best husband in the world, a wonderful and loving complete father, a devoted son, a trusted friend and confident, an author, inventor, entrepreneur, role model, singer, a party animal who danced and laughed with the ladies, but a man who gave all of his unyielding heart to his only true love and partner Temple-Jene. Great men like Joseph Fleming, Esq. are precious gifts we temporarily have in this world, but their assistance and contributions are far remembered and everlasting. Although Joe will be missed, his legacy now lives through his wife, Temple-Jene, his son, Joe Harris, his three daughters, Lavon Robin, Lateefah Shaniere and Terilyn Marshelle, his former wife, Josephine Nanthaniel Fleming, his God-daughter, Nyah Cha’ Ron Uhuru and through Maschil Entertainment, whose mission is to create, produce, and promote music and artists who “make music with a conscious message”. That is indeed a great comfort to all who knew this amazing, articulate, soft spoken, serene and outspoken man, who lived life positive despite pain and discomfort as an example to all of us.

Mr. Speaker, on a very personal note, when I remember Joseph Fleming, I think about myself as D’Artagnan who joined Athos (Joseph Fleming), Porthos (Leon Ellis) and Aramis (Reggie Williams), the Black Musketeers, inseparable friends who live by the motto “all for one, one for all” (“tous pour un, un pour tous”). The friendship and kinship of these amazing three Amigos, The Black Musketeers is a story that bears and dares to be written in the mortals of Harlem’s history, which will tell a story of three very best friends who were always there for me and the community we love so deeply.

I am honored to include the Obituary of our dear beloved Musketeer, Joseph Fleming, Esq.

Joseph Fleming was born January 4, 1951 in Richmond, Virginia to Mary Terry Fleming and the late Rev. Leroy Fleming, Sr. His family moved to Mt. Vernon New York in 1953, and later to the Bronx in 1957. Joseph is a product of the New York City School System, P.S. 103, Olinville Jr. High School, and Evanston High School. He graduated from New York University School of Liberal Arts at its uptown Bronx Campus in 1973, where he received his B.S. Degree in Economics and Political Science. While attending NYU, Joseph was the Founder and one of the Directors of the Educational Development and Community Enrollment Program, a program designed to enroll underprivileged students with promise, but without the grades. He was also President of the Black Students Organization.

Joseph loved the law. At an early age, after watching Perry Mason, he decided he was going to be a lawyer. Upon receiving his Juris Doctor from New York University in 1982, Joseph began work as a law associate in the Law Offices of Reginald F. Lewis. It was an opportunity of a lifetime to be able to gain firsthand experience with one of the top African American attorneys who lived and practiced on Wall Street. Within a couple of years, Joseph knew that his passion for the law would only be truly
HONORING PATRICIA COLEMAN BRACEY

HON. BENNIE G. THOMPSON
OF MISSISSIPPI

Tuesday, November 27, 2012

Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Librarian, Patricia Coleman Bracey, who has possessed a passion for reading since she was a child. Any type of literature or new book that she could put her hands on was, in her words, “like icing on the cake”.

Patricia, or Pat as a lot of people call her, is the oldest of four children born to George and Marie White Coleman of Raymond, Mississippi. She was educated in the Hinds County Public School System and graduated in 1966. She received a B.S. and a Master of Library Science from the University of Mississippi in 1970. She also received a Master of Social Work in 1975.

Patricia began her career as a librarian with the Jackson-Hinds Library System. After retiring from the Jackson Public School District, Patricia continues her service as a librarian. She is a member of the Pine Grove M.B. Church and an associate member of Seven Springs United Methodist Church, both in Raymond.

As a child, Mrs. Bracey’s passion was always reading and finding new books to discover. She inspired many people around her to read anywhere they want to go. She realized this at a young age; therefore, she wanted to help children realize it too. With this passion and drive, Mrs. Bracey felt that she could serve children best as a librarian—and that is exactly what she did. Patricia worked to instill in boys and girls the love of reading and how to correctly use the library and its resources effectively for 32 years at Woodville Heights Elementary School in Jackson, Mississippi.

After retiring from the Jackson Public School District, Patricia continued her service as a librarian with the Jackson-Hinds Library System.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in celebrating the Library and Legacy of Harlem’s General Counsel, Joseph Fleming. Esq. It is my hope that his example will serve as a testament that, with hard work and genuine character, we can achieve our greatest dreams.

MEDICAL PREPAREDNESS ALLOWABLE USE ACT

SPEECH OF

HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE

Tuesday, November 27, 2012

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to debate H.R. 5997, the “Medical Preparedness Allowable Use Act,” which amends the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to authorize the use of Urban Area Security Initiative and State Homeland Security Grant Program funding for enhancing medical preparedness, medical surge capacity, and mass prophylaxis capabilities.

Moreover, this would involve the development and maintenance of an initial pharmaceutical stockpile, including medical kits, and diagnostics sufficient to protect first responders, their families, and immediate victims from a chemical or biological event.

As a proud Member of this body and as the Ranking Member on Homeland Security Transportation Subcommittee on Transportation, I understand the importance of maintaining an unyielding commitment to keeping the American homeland safe from weapons of mass destruction by increasing our preparedness for dealing with chemical, biological, radiological, and nuclear threats, whether they originate from individuals, terrorist organizations, and state sponsors of terror, or horrible accidents.

While much has been done to prepare our first responders for a nuclear, chemical or biological incident in the United States, the healthcare system in this country is not fully prepared.
prepared to handle the resulting mass casualties that would likely result from such an attack.

Thousands of lives could potentially be saved if our medical personnel are adequately prepared and trained for such an occurrence.

The Metropolitan Medical Response System (MMRS) promotes funding to state and local governments to assist in preparing for and responding to mass casualty incidents resulting from acts of terrorism, natural disasters, and other events.

Using the grants, jurisdictions develop response plans, conduct exercises and training, and acquire medical countermeasures and personal protective equipment for dealing with biological events that occur on a large scale.

As it stands, the MMRS program has not been reauthorized or appropriated funds due to recent budgetary constraints.

MMRS Characteristics include: integrated medical response system; detailed system response & operations plans; specially trained responders at all levels; specialized response equipment; specialized medical equipment and pharmaceutical caches; enhanced medical transport and treatment capabilities.

MMRS has 12 MMRS Capability Focus Areas, which include the following: Strengthened Medical Surge; strengthened Mass Prophylaxis; strengthened CB&NE Detection, Response, and Decontamination Capabilities; strengthened Interoperable Communication Capabilities; strengthened Information Sharing and Collaboration Capabilities; expand Regional Collaboration; triage and Pre-Hospital Treatment; medical Supplies Management and Distribution; mass Care (Sheltering, Feeding, and Related Services); emergency Public Information and Warning; fatality Management; volunteer Management and Donations.

H.R. 5997 would authorize use of Urban Area Security Initiative (UASI) and State Homeland Security Grant Program (SHSGP) funding toward the enhancement of medical preparedness, medical surgery capacity, and mass prophylaxis capabilities.

This would effectively allow to MMRS program to continue using these funds, which provide important measures such as a pharmacists, nurses, doctors, medical kits, and diagnostics that will help to protect first responders, their families, and immediate victims from a chemical or biological act of terror or accident.

As Americans, we must ensure that we are adequately prepared for whatever challenges that face in our Nation; and nowhere is that more true than with the potential for large-scale disasters.

Preparing for large and debilitating disasters has become an inconvenient but necessary facet of modern America, a task that our government has met head on since 9/11. This bill will help to ensure that the resources are there in order to make those preparations.

DEPUTY LARRY GILDER
HON. TED POE
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, today I am honored to recognize Jefferson County Deputy Larry Gilder, who was presented with a Life Saving Award during a ceremony on October 30, 2012. Deputy Gilder put himself into harm’s way on two separate occasions this year alone, earning him accolades and the title of “hero.”

During a routine patrol in Beaumont, Texas, on October 12, 2012, Deputy Gilder came across an 18-wheeler loaded with heavy equipment that was stuck on a railroad track. Gilder used his vehicle to block traffic so they could attempt to dislodge the vehicle with no success. The truck could not move. Deputy Gilder went to make an assistance call and saw the wrong way—a train headed straight towards them.

Thinking quickly, Deputy Gilder alerted his dispatcher and began to get the driver out of the vehicle. Thanks to the noise and commotion, the driver never heard the train. They were able to move him into safety while Gilder had enough time to move his vehicle out of the way of the train. Mere seconds later, the trailer was destroyed. No injuries were reported, including the son of the driver, who was asleep in the cab. Deputy Gilder saved three lives that day, including his own.

This was not the first incident where Deputy Gilder went above and beyond in the line of duty. Earlier this year, Deputy Gilder and his partner came upon a trailer on fire. A woman found herself trapped inside with the fire growing and time running out. They were able to rescue the woman, and Deputy Gilder suffered injuries due to his daring escape. When asked about the injuries, he responded that he would do anything for the citizens of Jefferson County.

President Ronald Reagan once said that “Heroes may not be braver than anyone else. They are just braver for five minutes longer.” Thanks to two daring moves by Deputy Larry Gilder, lives were saved. He is a true American hero.

And that’s just the way it is.

HONORING HARLEM’S HISTORIAN AND BLACK FILMMAKER WILLIAM “BILL” MILES

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL
OF NEW YORK
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor the life and legacy of Harlem’s historian and Black Filmmaker, William “Bill” Miles. William Miles was born in Harlem, New York, and has used his deep knowledge and experience of Harlem to produce films that tell unique and often inspiring stories of Harlem's history. Based in New York City at THIRTEEN/WNET New York Public Media, William Miles produced many films dedicated to the African-American experience that have been broadcast nationwide over the Public Broadcast System. In 1990, Miles' interest in films and historical documentaries was nurtured through 25 years of restoring archival films and early feature classics for Billiam Shows, Inc. and the Walter Reade Organization in New York City. Bill Miles breakthrough film was Men of Bronze, which premiered at the New York Film Festival in 1977 and was later broadcast on PBS. This film tells the story of the black American soldiers of the 369th Infantry Regiment, known as the Harlem Hellfighters, who, because of segregation in the U.S. Army, fought under the French flag in World War I. The regiment spent more time in the front-line trenches than any other American unit, fighting alongside French, Moroccan, and Senegalese soldiers. First organized in 1916 as the 15th New York National Guard Infantry Regiment and manned primarily by black enlisted soldiers with both black and white officers, the 369th Infantry is known for being the first African-American regiment to serve with the American Expeditionary Force during World War I. The regiment was nicknamed the Harlem Hellfighters and the Black Rattlers, in addition to several other nicknames. Federalized in 1917, it prepared for service in Europe and arrived in Brest in December. The next month, the regiment became part of the 93rd Division ( Provisional) and continued its training, now under General John J. Pershing. In March, the regiment finally received its Federal designation and was reorganized and reequipped according to the French model. That summer, the 369th was integrated into the French 161st Division and began combat operations. Dubbing themselves "Men of Bronze," the soldiers of the 369th were lucky in many ways compared to other African Americans in 1918 France. They enjoyed a continuity of leadership, commanded throughout the war by one of their original organizers and proponents, Colonel William Hayward. Unlike many white officers original organizers and proponents, Colonel William Hayward respected his troops, dedicated himself to their well-being, and leveraged his political connections to secure support from New Yorkers. Spending over six months in combat, perhaps the longest of any American unit in the war, the 369th suffered approximately fifteen hundred casualties but received only nine hundred replacements. Unit histories claimed they were the first unit to cross the Rhine; they performed well at Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Wood, earning the epithet "Hell Fighters" from their German adversaries. Recording with the 369th, an integral part of the Fourth French Army, fought on the front until the Armistice. During the Meuse-Argonne Offensive the 369th showed exceptional bravery, especially on September 29, 1918, during the liberation of Fierbois when a third of the regiment suffered casualties. Whereas African American valor usually went unrecognized, during its service, the regiment suffered 1500 casualties and took part in the following campaigns: Champagne-Marne, Meuse-Argonne, Champagne-Picardie, Brousse, and Loos. At the close of World War I, the regiment was reorganized as a club and Johnson battled with a bolo knife. John son was the first American to receive the Croix de Guerre (Cross of War) awarded by the French government. By the end of the war, 171 members of the 369th were cited for their heroism and decorated with the Croix de Guerre and Legion of Honor. Upon their return to the United States, the Harlem Hellfighters were honored by the City with a victory parade up Fifth Avenue. During World War II, the 369th distinguished itself at Okinawa, and later fought in the Korean, Vietnam, Persian Gulf Wars and the War on Terror in Afghanistan. The unit serves today as the 369th Sustainment Brigade.

Mr. Speaker, as a Korean War Veteran and Member of the 369th Harlem Hellfighters Veterans Association, I included this comprehensive review of the 369th Regiment as documented in film by our beloved William "Bill" Miles because these brave Men of Bronze were game fighters that fought as proud Americans to protect and serve our nation.

As I continue to talk about the great work of my dear friend William Miles, I must also recognize his best known artistic document, I Remember Harlem, a four part comprehensive series, which chronicles the history and changes of the Village of Harlem and changes from the beginning in the early 1600s through the early 1980s. The program's episodes include segments on Harlem's early history and settlement, the Harlem Renaissance, the Great Depression in Harlem, the Civil Rights Movement and political activism in the era of Malcolm X, and the problems and redevelopment of the '70s. Miles spent three years researching materials for I Remember Harlem, which traced Harlem's 350-year history. As a visual counter to the oral histories in the film, Miles unearthed archival photographs and motion picture stock footage along with newly discovered interviews and never before seen by the general public. In early 1982, one year after it was broadcast, I Remember Harlem won an Alfred I. DuPont Columbia University citation and an American Film Festival Award.

Bill Miles, president of Miles Educational Film Productions, Inc. produced and directed The Different Drummer: Blacks in the Military (1983) concentrated on African-American soldiers in recent decades. A three-part documentary that explores the history of blacks in the military, the program, "From Unknown Soldiers," examines the earliest black involvement in the military, from the Civil War to World War I; Part Two, "The Troops," continues that history from World War II to the war in Vietnam; Part Three, "From Gold Bars to Silver Stars," features interviews with today's highest-ranking black officers, who describe their how they rose up the military ladder.

Miles's three-part program Black Champions (1986) dealt with a three-part chronicle of the history and achievements of black athletes in America. The documentary used rare archival footage to illustrate how many black champions, both famous and little-known, successfully challenged racism to achieve a level of prominence almost always denied them in other areas of American life. "Who Will Wear the Crown?" (Part One) examines early black participation in sports, focusing on the athletic departments of segregated Negro colleges during the first half of the 20th century. "New York Integration: The Facts" (Part Two) explores black pioneers who became superstars in the white sports arena. "Looking For Tomorrow: Black Athletes and the Sporting Life" (Part Three) focuses on the world of corporate sports and the financial and personal pressures that facing its stars. Important topics included the impressive performances of various black athletes at the 1936 Berlin Olympics, Jackie Robinson's integration of Major League Baseball, Althea Gibson's achievements in tennis, and the careers of early black football stars.

Miles co-produced the film on literary legend James Baldwin: The Price of a Ticket, which debuted in 1989 as an episode of PBS's American Masters series. James Baldwin: The Price of the Ticket captures on film the passionate intellect and courageous writing of a man who was born black, impoverished, and gifted, by using striking archival footage to evoke the atmosphere of Baldwin’s formative years—the Harlem of the 30s, his father’s fundamentalist church and the émigré monde of postwar Paris. Newsreel clips from the record Baldwin made in Paris, interviews with friends and colleagues, and cinéma vérité footage on the drama of the Civil Rights movement.

The film also explores his quiet retreats in Paris, the South of France, Istanbul and Switzerland—places where Baldwin was able to write away from the racial tensions of America. Baldwin engaged with newsreel films, much of it rare and never before seen by the general public. In early 1980, one year after it was broadcast, I Remember Harlem won an Alfred I. DuPont Columbia University citation and an American Film Festival Award.

Danny Glover. The Black West episode depicts the story of African Americans of the early western frontier of the late 19th century. The segment salutes the black cowboys of the western wilderness who fought alongside their Native American and white counterparts during the development of the frontier. The contributions of these nearly forgotten African Americans are portrayed through realistic reconstructions, including a special segment on cowboy Bill Pickett, one of the best rodeo performers of all time.

Mr. Speaker, Bill Miles’ life’s work is dedicated to exploring the entire African American Experience including the history, culture, and achievements of African Americans from their arrival in America in the 16th century to their achievement as scientists, aeronautical scientists, and engineers. Mr. Miles has won an Emmy Award, has been nominated for the Oscar, and was inducted into the Black Filmmaker’s Hall of Fame. Among numerous other awards garnered both at home and abroad, he has received the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Association for Independent Video and Filmmakers, AIVF in acknowledgment of his outstanding contribution to the history of African American in the medium of film. I ask you and my colleagues to join me in a very special congressional salute to Hollywood and Black Filmmaker William “Bill” Miles, a titan of a man who has documented the history and contributions of African Americans and the Black American Experience with film, a camera and a lens.}

HONORING LOGAN’S CONSTRUCTION COMPANY FOR ITS COMMITMENT AND SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

OF MISSISSIPPI
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a leader and innovator of the community. Mr. Melvin Logan, owner of Logan’s Construction Company in Sharkey County, Mississippi, has opened Logan Construction Company. Mr. Logan has been a thriving force in the community for more than thirty years.

Mr. Logan was born and raised in Rolling Fork, Mississippi, to the late James and Thelma Logan. At an early age, Logan developed a passion for building things and working with his hands. After graduating from Alcorn State University and spending years perfecting his craft with a local contractor, Logan’s dream became reality.

In 1976, at the age of twenty-six, Melvin opened Logan’s Construction Company. Initially the primary focus of Logan Construction was the renovation of properties until 1978 when Mr. Logan expanded his craft after being approached to build a house. After successfully tackling this challenge, Logan’s Construction Company secured a surplus of contracts, becoming the number one builder of new homes and remodeling in the Sharkey County area.

Logan’s attention to detail and quality workmanship has garnered him the reputation of being the community expert of helping customers with their desired projects from conception to completion.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing Logan’s Construction Company and Melvin Logan for his entrepreneurial spirit and continued dedication to serving the Sharkey County community.

JAMIE ZAPATA BORDER ENFORCEMENT SECURITY TASK FORCE ACT

SPEECH OF
HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to debate the Senate Amendment to H.R. 915, the “Jamie Zapata Border Enforcement Security Task Force Act,” which amends the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to establish within the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) the Border Enforcement Security Task Force (BEST), which shall establish units to enhance border security by addressing and reducing border security threats and violence.

More specifically, this Border Enforcement Security Task Force will achieve its goal of border security enhancement by (1) facilitating collaboration among federal, state, local, tribal, and foreign law enforcement agencies to execute coordinated strategies in furtherance of border security and homeland security; and (2) enhancing information-sharing, including the dissemination of homeland security information among such agencies.

As the Representative for the 18th Congressional District of Texas, I am deeply concerned about spill-over violence along the border between my state and Mexico. The recent increase in drug trafficking-related violence in Mexican cities, such as Juarez and Nuevo Laredo, is cause for concern, particularly in the neighboring U.S. cities of El Paso and Laredo, TX.

In fact, in 2010, the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) issued a safety alert to law enforcement officers in the El Paso area warning that drug trafficking organizations and associated gangs may target U.S. law enforcement.

The BEST program is currently administered by DHS, and involves information sharing and law-enforcement operations between personnel from federal, state, local, tribal, and foreign law-enforcement agencies to combat criminal activity near the United States border.

There are currently 34 BEST units. Since inception in June of 2005, these DHS-led task forces made 10,024 criminal arrests; 6,641 administered search warrants; 5,802 indictments; and 4,999 convictions. They seized over 88,500 pounds of cocaine; 870,748 pounds of marijuana; 4,669 pounds of methamphetamine; 4,383 pounds of ecstasy; 1,404 pounds of heroin; 3,866 vehicles; 14,243 weapons; 2,920,155 rounds of ammunition; and in excess of $111.8 million in U.S. currency and monetary instruments.

Additionally, BEST units have initiated approximately 8,490 investigations.

Jamie Zapata was a Homeland Security Investigations Special Agent from Brownsville, Texas. While on assignment in Mexico on February 15, 2011 while serving on assignment in Mexico for United States Immigration and Customs Enforcement.

This bipartisan bill, named in Jamie Zapata’s honor, seeks to enhance our nation’s abilities to deal with the dangerous activities occurring near our borders and, hopefully, prevent the tragic deaths of more of our agents. These are men and women who put their lives on the line in order to protect our country’s interests.

We know that this program works and has provided American citizens with improved border security and greater security throughout the United States.

I urge my colleagues to support the “Jamie Zapata Border Enforcement Security Task Force Act,” which will ensure that our agents tasked with securing our border, who work under extremely perilous circumstances, are better protected through enhanced information sharing and greater collaboration between agencies.

TED RAiNS
HON. ED PERLMUTTER
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize and applaud Ted Rains for his service to our community and receiving the 2012 Mayor of Golden’s Award for Excellence.

Ted exemplifies a commitment to the community through innovation that is unprecedented. As captain of the Golden Optimists Bicycle Recycle Program, Ted repaired and distributed thousands of free bicycles to the residents of Golden and the metro area, as well as students of the Colorado School of Mines. However, Ted did not stop with his mission in Golden. He has also rebuilt and donated bikes to Native American reservations and citizens of Mexico, Haiti, and Tanzania.

Ted and Golden Optimists Bicycle Recycle Program have repaired and given a total number of over 9,000 bicycles around the globe and in Golden. Ted truly epitomizes the selfless nature of an outstanding community member and servant.

Mr. Rains is a champion in the community and I am honored to congratulate him on receiving the 2012 Mayor of Golden’s Award for Excellence. I am sure he will exhibit the same dedication and commitment in all his future endeavors.

CONSTITUENTS FOR CASA

HON. TED POE
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, today I am proud to recognize the achievements of three constituents of Texas’s 2nd congressional district: Rose DeRouen, Judge Randy Shelton, and Eleanor Johnson for their work with the organization CASA as Court Appointed Special Advocates. These distinguished citizens received high honors for their volunteer advocacy work for abused and neglected children. With a mission to provide a safe, loving, and permanent home, CASA relies on the work of volunteer advocates for the interests of children overlooked by society. In order to ensure that every child is properly taken care in the eyes of both the law and the community, these volunteers provide judges with detailed information of a child's home life and legal situation to help judges better understand each and every child’s unique story.

Among the many volunteers that help make CASA possible, three Texans have gone above and beyond what is expected, and they have been recognized for their extraordinary efforts. Rose DeRouen earned the Volunteer of the Year award for her selfless and extensive services for children. Judge Randy Shelton was recognized for his honorable services with the Big Voices for Little Texans Judge of the Year award, and Eleanor Johnson was the first ever recipient of the Joseph Gagen Leadership Award.

CASA and their advocates have done right by their community, and, most importantly, right by children in need. Their efforts have been an exemplary manifestation of American values in local communities, and Texas's 2nd congressional district is blessed to benefit from the work of these outstanding Americans. And that's just the way it is.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE OUTSTANDING WORK OF OUTLOOK NEBRASKA, INC.

HON. LEE TERRY OF NEBRASKA
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. TERRY. Mr. Speaker, today, I rise to recognize—Outlook Nebraska, Incorporated—an organization that I've had the pleasure of visiting and seeing firsthand the positive impact they have in the lives of so many. This organization is part of the AbilityOne Program, which enables more than 50,000 Americans and 3,300 wounded warriors nationwide, who are blind or severely disabled, to work and provide products and services to federal and commercial customers.

Today in America, seventy percent of blind and visually impaired working-age adults are not employed. Opportunities provided by Outlook Nebraska and the AbilityOne Program have played an important role in bringing people with disabilities into the workforce. As one of Outlook's employees said to me, "They looked at me for my abilities—not my disabilities." The AbilityOne Program affords Americans who are blind or disabled the opportunity to acquire job skills and training, receive good wages and benefits, and gain greater independence and a better quality of life. I applaud Outlook Nebraska and the work it does each day to open doors of opportunity for Americans who are blind or disabled.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE 45TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE UNITED PALACE CATHEDRAL

OF NEW YORK
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor, recognize, and celebrate the United Palace Cathedral's 45th anniversary and 45 years of ministry's services to the community.

The United Palace Cathedral has been an important institution of the Northern Manhattan community with an esteemed reputation of devotion to our families and youth. The congregation, providing service and hope, to the poor, middle class and immigrant communities. The church has united the community and provided a welcoming place to practice the Christian faith. United Church, under the leadership of our pastoral beloved founder REVEREND IKE, is a place of worship for thousands of people of various races, faiths, and social strata. It is also a classic, architecturally grand, international, inter-cultural Center for the Arts.

For the past 45 years, the United Palace Cathedral has been an exemplary manifestation of American values in local communities, and Texas's 2nd congressional district is blessed to benefit from the work of these outstanding Americans.

And that's just the way it is.
Mr. Griffin had held steadfast to the dream of owning his own business since he was a teenager. After leaving the job because of a failed promise for a raise, he found himself unemployed and married with two children. It was at this point he began to give his dream serious thought—an auto repair business. He was new to the auto repair business, so he decided to start off small and slowly build up.

Mr. Griffin said he was led by God to go to the bank and ask for a loan. Once there, he was informed that chances of him getting a loan were almost impossible since he was no longer employed nor did he have any kind of collateral. However, Mr. Griffin said the loan officer decided to “give him a chance” and grant him a loan for $17,000 because he “looked like an honest man that would keep his word.” In 1998, Griffin obtained a small lot and built a building which would serve as his shop. He did not have any tools, so he began purchasing tools a few at a time.

Mr. Griffin relied on what he learned from books and what his grandfather taught him about working on cars. His first big job was the repair of an engine in which he earned $600. As time went on, he gained more customers, and was able to buy more tools than he could imagine, which lead him to be an established self taught mechanic.

After his business grew, he decided to go to the bank to apply for a second loan in order to purchase a tow truck. This time, using his mother’s land as collateral, he obtained an $8,000 loan. He purchased a used tow truck for $6,000 from a dealership in Greenwood, Mississippi and used the remaining $2,000 to make necessary repairs to the truck. He was now an auto shop owner with his own tow service.

Now, fourteen years later, Griffin Auto Repair Shop is still a thriving business. Griffin credits the success and longevity of his business to it being “built and ran on faith” from its beginning to now. “I kept my word and provided fair prices and that kept me with good customers from all around and they’ve been good customers for many years, said Griffin.”

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing Griffin Auto Repair Shop for its dedication and passion for serving its customers.

DHS ACCOUNTABILITY ACT OF 2012

SPEECH OF
HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE

Tuesday, November 27, 2012

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 5913, the "DHS Accountability Act of 2012," which establishes an independent advisory panel in the legislative branch to: (1) comprehensively assess the management structure and capabilities related to the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), and (2) make recommendations to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of DHS management.

Moreover, the advisory panel is tasked with directing the panel to examine: (1) the efficiency and effectiveness of the management structure and capabilities (2) the extent to which unnecessary duplication exists in such management structure and capabilities and how any such duplication negatively affects the mission of protecting the United States; (3) the extent to which management of key homeland security missions is centralized under DHS; (4) options to reduce or eliminate harmful waste and duplication of effort in DHS; and (5) measures to evaluate DHS’s progress in reducing and eliminating waste and duplication from its management structure and capabilities.

As the Ranking Member of Homeland Security Subcommittee on Transportation, I am familiar with the challenges facing the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) as the various agencies within the department work to ensure the safety of all Americans. Like most other agencies, DHS and the agencies within it are facing budget cuts amidst the rising cost of ever present threats.

I want to recognize the outstanding work and progress that this body, in cooperation with the United States Senate and the executive branch, has made in learning from the events of 9/11. Together, we have taken steps toward the implementation of policies that have made our nation more secure from terrorism, including the creation of the Department of Homeland Security in 2002.

With over 200,000 employees and encompassing numerous agencies and various other components, DHS is the 3rd largest cabinet level department.

There were certain flaws in our security apparatus that failed us on 9/11 which include the lack of information-sharing between agencies charged with determining who should and should not be permitted to enter our borders, as well as friction and difficulties that resulted from some of the overlapping responsibilities of those agencies.

DHS was created to resolve some of these difficulties, and although it has made great strides, more work remains to be done.

The advisory panel created by the H.R. 5913 will be instrumental in assisting Congress and the Department of Homeland Security in achieving missions vital to America while trimming waste and improving its efficiency and efficacy.

It is essential that this Congress work in tandem with the Department of Homeland Security to ensure that the nation is protected from threats to our homeland. Because it will help to facilitate this important process, I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 5913, the “DHS Accountability Act of 2012.”

IN TRIBUTE TO VENTURA COUNTY’S LAW ENFORCEMENT

HON. ELTON GALLEGGY

Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. GALLEGGY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in tribute to the dedicated and professional members of the law enforcement community with whom I have had the privilege to serve during my more than 30 years of public service.

It’s impossible to name them all. When I was mayor of Simi Valley, California, I rode with patrol officers to see first-hand the challenges our men and women in uniform face on a daily basis. Those on the front lines of public safety deserve our enduring thanks and respect.

But over the years, I have established partnerships with certain extraordinary people, including Ventura County District Attorneys Greg Totten and Mike Bradbury and Sheriffs Al Jalaty, John Gillespie, Larry Carpenter, and Bob Brooks.

Al Jalaty was Sheriff when I was first elected to the Simi Valley City Council. He set the standard for those to come after him, demanding compassion and common sense from those under his command. John Gillespie began the technological modernization of the department. Larry Carpenter helped lead the charge to change the California Constitution to ensure that the first function of government is to protect the public, and in passing a county ordinance to ensure proper funding. Bob Brooks continued to modernize the department, particularly after 9/11, and instituted Six Points of Honor that established the foundation for the department’s core values.

I worked closely with each and every one of these distinguished lawmen to ensure they had support from the federal government to provide the tools and training necessary to keep Ventura County safe. But it was their dedication, service, and vision that has kept Ventura County ranked among the safest counties in the nation.

In addition to their role in prosecuting criminals, District Attorneys Mike Bradbury and Greg Totten are responsible for legislation I introduced that became federal law. Mike Bradbury was presented with a problem of prosecuting the makers of videos showing the killing of small animals. Because of jurisdictional issues, it was hard to prove a crime on a local level. I introduced a bill making it a federal crime. It sailed through the House and Senate and was signed by the President in December of 1999. Prior to it becoming law, about 3,000 different videos were sold over the Internet. The next day, virtually none were available.

Because of a 2004 law, DNA matches in cold cases skyrocketed, creating a huge backlog for prosecutors Greg Totten and I discussed the problem and I introduced a bill to provide federal grants to local prosecutors to help prosecute DNA cold cases. My bill was included in the Children’s Safety Act of 2005 and signed into law the following year. Greg Totten not only tirelessly championed funding for the grants, he also worked diligently to make the program a success. Consequently, murderers have paid for their crimes.

Mr. Speaker, public safety is the number one responsibility of government. I have been honored to know and work with dedicated law enforcement professionals who I believe are among the best in the nation. I am honored not only to call each of them District Attorney and Sheriff, but friend. I know my colleagues join me in paying tribute to Ventura County District Attorneys Greg Totten and Mike Bradbury and Sheriffs Al Jalaty, John Gillespie, Larry Carpenter, and Bob Brooks, and all those in law enforcement who make our communities safe.

CELEBRATING THE LIFE OF WEST HARLEM'S BELOVED ADVOCATE PATRICIA ARLENE JONES

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL
OF NEW YORK

Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to celebrate the life of West Harlem's beloved businesswoman, managing director, visionary, community resident and advocate Patricia Jones, who unexpectedly passed away on Friday, November 16, 2012. On Tuesday, November 27, friends, residents and community leaders gathered at Convent Avenue Baptist Church to reflect and celebrate the life of our beloved Pat Jones, who was a faithful and dedicated public servant to residents, nonprofit and businesses throughout West Harlem and the City of New York.

It is with great sorrow that my wife Alma and I and joined members of the West Harlem Local Development Corporation, Community Planning Board 9, elected officials representing the New York State Legislature and the New York City Council in mourning the unforeseen death of our beloved Pat Jones who left an unforgettable and indelible mark in all of our political and community hearts and minds. We are truly thankful for her decades of service to our community, and for the many memories that I will personally cherish forever.

Great women like our beloved Pat Jones are precious gifts we temporarily have in this world, but their assistance, contributions and accomplishments are far remembered and everlasting. Pat was a dear friend and was known to many of us as a brilliant hardworking community leader who dedicated her life work to fighting for and expanding historic and land-mark preservation, positive community, public safety, health care, environmental justice and education.

Patricia Arlene Jones was born on July 17, 1953 in Flushing, Queens, New York. She was the youngest of four children of Darline Clark Jones and Herman Lee Jones. Pat's family affectionately called her Trisha. Young Trisha was baptized by the late civil rights Preacher, Reverend Timothy P. Mitchell at the historic Ebenezer Baptist Church in Flushing, Queens. Trisha graduated from Flushing High School and was a member of the senior class. At the Arista Club, a student organization dedicated to educational excellence. She matriculated to Michigan State University in East Lansing, Michigan majoring in Mathematics. Pat graduated from Michigan State in 1975 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Business Administration.

Pat was recruited by Price Waterhouse Cooper where she worked as an audit manager for over five years. She moved on to J.P. Morgan & Company where she managed over 100 finance employees and eventually rose to become the first African American woman to serve as a Managing Director. During her tenure, Pat also served as a manager of diversity, establishing mentoring programs for African American employees, and establishing a women's speaker series featuring powerful professionals including former U.S. Senator, First Lady and current United States Secretary of State, the Honorable Hillary Rodham Clinton, and former National Security Advisor and United States Secretary of State, the Honorable Condoleezza Rice. Managing Director Jones was elected J.P. Morgan's after 17 years of service. Pat was also a Certified Public Accountant and played key leadership roles in organizations such as American Women for Economic Development and the American Institute of CPAs. Highly respected for her achievements in business, Pat was mentioned in the 1981 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America.

Pat, an accomplished businesswoman and retired Managing Director, volunteered and joined Manhattan Community Board 9 in 2001 to advocate and serve on behalf of the West Harlem community, where she owned her home and which she loved so much. Pat's dedication, professional skill and wit led her to be elected 2nd Vice Chair of the Board, serving 3 terms from 2004 to 2007. In 2008, Pat was re-elected to serve for two consecutive terms, from 2008 to 2010, receiving the admiration and support of her fellow board members. Pat concurrently co-chaired the Manhattanville Rezoning Task Force, as well as Chair of the 197–A Planning Committee. I am also proud to say that Pat Jones was appointed to the Board of Directors of the Upper Manhattan Empowerment Zone, which is one of nine federal zones established by President William Jefferson Clinton, by legislation I authored and sponsored in the House of Representatives.

More significantly, history will remember Pat Jones as the co-author and chief navigator of the historic Community Benefits Agreement between Columbia University and the City of New York on behalf of West Harlem Community Planning Board 9. After successfully negotiating the 197–A Plan for Community Board 9 through the New York City Planning Commission approval process, Pat Jones was elected to fill one of the Community Board seats on the West Harlem Local Development Corporation.

Pat took on the leadership role as Chair of the West Harlem Local Development Corporation (WHLDC) at a very difficult and contentious time during the negotiating process. Many long mornings, afternoons and evenings shepherding through the complex personalities and agendas was no easy task by any means, but somehow Pat was able to move the WHLDC above and beyond those personalities and agendas, which led to one of the most significant Community Benefits Agreement ever achieved in the City of New York and in the nation that will positively enhance and improve the quality of health, environment, education and affordable living for all the residents of Community Board 9, West Harlem and beyond.

The origin and purpose of the West Harlem Development Corporation are connected with the 25-year expansion project of Columbia University in the City of New York. This educational mixed-use complex that began in 2009 will eventually span 17 acres and will include academic, commercial, cultural, and community facility space as well as open space. It is bounded by West 125th Street to the south, West 133rd Street to the north, Broadway to the east, and the Harlem River on the west. The integrated teaching and academic research campus would create 6.8 million gross square feet in 16 buildings at a projected cost of $6.28 billion.

A consequence of the expansion project is the Community Benefits Agreement (CBA) which is a legally enforceable document between a real estate developer and a community that binds the developer to provide agreed-upon benefits. The West Harlem Community Benefits Agreement between the West Harlem Local Development Corporation and the Trustees of Columbia University in the City of New York was signed on May 18, 2009, initiating phase one of the Columbia University's Manhattanville Expansion project.

In 2005, Community Board 9 of New York City voted to approve the creation of the local development corporation to engage in negotiations with Columbia University on behalf of the community of West Harlem. It was initially incorporated on March 16, 2006 as the D9 Local Development Corporation, a nonprofit New York State entity. Subsequently, an amendment was filed to change the name to West Harlem Local Development Corporation (WHLDC).

Through Pat's effective and determined leadership, and with the support of our elected body of public officials, the WHLDC was able to negotiate a total of $300 million in CBA benefits for housing, employment and economic development, education, transportation, arts and culture, community facilities and historic preservation, which included $150 million from the City of New York to preserve affordable housing.

It also included $150 million from Columbia University, which included the creation of a $20 million Affordable Housing Fund, up to $4 million in related legal services; a $30 million commitment for a planned Demonstration Community K–8 Public School to be established in conjunction with Teachers College; $76 million in Columbia University's financial contributions to a benefits fund that will be paid out in installments over sixteen years, which allows the WHLDC to determine the programmatic uses of these funds; $20 million worth of access to Columbia University services and facilities to be apportioned over twenty-five years ("In-Kind contributions"); and a commitment from Columbia University to provide "Advice and Guidance" to the WHLDC on a range of issues and programs.
During Pat’s amazing community career she served as Chair of the Board of Trustees for the Children’s Arts Carnival, Treasurer of the Hamilton Heights-West Harlem Community Preservation Organization, Member of the Board of the Harlem Venture Group, Treasurer of the Hamilton Heights Homeowners Association (HHHA) and Chair of HHHA’s Annual House and Garden Tour Committee.

Let me share with you a poem Patricia Jones authored in the 4th Grade, entitled I am Thankful, “I am thankful for many things. One is that I have a nice home and wonderful parents. I have children of my own. I have homes as we do, and some do not even have parents. I am thankful for the schools we have in New York because some children in other countries don’t have schools and need the education badly. Many people in the United States are grateful for the world peace we have. In some countries people have to do what their leaders say to do, and they don’t have the right to do what they want to, and to tell their feelings. I am very grateful for all the things that I have, and I hope that many people all over the world have the things that I have.”

Mr. Speaker, Pat Jones was a strong black woman, who understood the true meaning of commitment, sacrifice, hard work and effort. She now takes her place alongside our other Freedom Sisters of extraordinary women who, while less prominent in the media, shaped much of the spirit and substance of civil rights, social and economic justice in America, just as our beloved Pat Jones, whose important historical contribution to the West Harlem community will surely be missed. I ask you and my colleagues to join me in this very special congressional salute to West Harlem Advocate, Patricia Arlene Jones.

HONORING THE DELTA BIG FOUR
OF MISSISSIPPI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor an extraordinary gospel group, The Delta Big Four of Lambert, Mississippi. A group that believes in praising God in song.

The members of the Delta Big Four were nurtured in a Christian home and taught the word of God. Their parents, the late Willie, Sr. and Daisy Nobell McCray, had sixteen children and family time and music were important in the home. Most evenings the family composed and sang spirituals together. The family used the old washboard for music.

In the 1950s, the group was called the Delta Big Four because the group originally began with four members: Ollie, Sr. and Melissa, James Lee, and Alberta. Although other members were added, the name remained. Rosley joined the group as one of the leads; she also could write and arrange. Because of her ability to write songs to fit the group, the group developed a uniqueness of their own.

At the ages of four and five, the original members travelled to various churches, towns, and states praising God. Years later, they were blessed to appear on the radio stations with the likes of Theo “Bless My Bones” Wade of WDIA in Memphis, Tennessee and Early Wright of WROX in Clarksdale, Mississippi, the first African-American Radio Personalities in the South and on WQMA with James Figgs and James Wilson. The exposure truly benefited this young and talented group of singers. They soon had their own radio programs on both WROX and WQMA. The group was featured regularly on Early Wright’s Gospel Extravaganzas. Major recording artists touring the Delta and the Mid South sought them out as an opening act, including the Mighty Cloud of Joy, Staple Singers, Pilgrim Jubilee, Swan Silvertones, Dixie Hummingbirds, and the list goes on.

In the early 1960s, the Delta Big Four was one of the first local quartet gospel groups to introduce musical instruments to their performances. They recruited a young but talented high school student, Larry Sims, as guitarist. Prior to that time, most local artists sang acappella. Although many churches were not accustomed to instruments other than pianos, it turned out to be one of the best decisions they would ever make. Very soon, groups all over began to follow their lead. Larry trained Ollie and James Lee to play the lead and bass guitars, respectively, before leaving the group.

They got the attention of Ory May, a Memphis television personality, who introduced the group on the television program “Ory May’s Gospel Show.” They were also featured on a gospel singing show on WMC- TV Channel 5 and a producer for Peacock Records. In 1967, the group recorded their first record, “Story of the Blind Man.” Later, “Lord, Guide Me;” “Lord Why I’m Traveling;” “Me and the Devil Had a Wrestle, But I Won;” “Standing on a Solid Rock;” and “Lord If I am Too High, Bring Me Down.”

Other family members were added throughout the years: Ruthie Ann, Ollie, Jr. and Andrew, the sons of Ollie, Sr. and Melissa replaced Ollie, Sr. and James Lee on the guitars. The group decided to add James Edward because his voice and style fit most of the songs Rosie wrote. This also proved to be a wise move for the group. Ollie, Jr. soon thereafter entered the ministry and left the group. Fortunately for the group, James Edward was an accomplished guitarist. The group added another musician, Quincy Twilley on drums. Every member sang lead and chorus, the mix they were seeking, the catalog of songs and the personnel to meet the demand of the group. The group has spent more than fifty years performing traditional quartet gospel music. Today, most of their time is spent in the choir at Sykes Chapel Missionary Baptist Church and working with the next generation of the Delta Big Four, led by Tiffany Griffin and Larry Strickland, Jr., who are the great-grandchildren of the original members.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing the Delta Big Four as an inspirational gospel group.

MANDATORY OPERATIONAL CONTROL REPORTING AND PERFORMANCE MEASURES ACT OF 2012

SPEECH OF
HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, November 27, 2012

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to debate H.R. 6025, the “Mandatory Operational Control Reporting and Performance Measures Act of 2012,” which provides for annual reports to Congress from the Secretary of Homeland Security on the status of operational control of the international land and maritime borders of the United States, as well as, unlawful entries through those borders.

As a Ranking Member of Homeland Security Committee Transportation Subcommittee, I recognize the essential role that the Committee and this Congress play in securing our borders from terrorism, drug trafficking, and illegal immigration. This bill represents a unique accomplishment that builds upon the substantial efforts of federal, state, and local law enforcement, as well as Congressional creation of effective border policy. I recognize that this bill seeks to provide additional information to Congress that will be helpful to that process going forward.

Section 2 of the Secure Fence Act of 2006 requires the Secretary of Homeland Security to “take all actions the Secretary determines necessary and appropriate to achieve and maintain operational control over the entire international land and maritime border of the United States.” The section defines operational control to mean “the prevention of all unlawful entries into the United States, including entries by terrorists, other unlawful aliens, instruments of terrorism, narcotics, and other contraband.”

As the Representative for the 18th Congressional District in Houston, Texas, border security and integrity are of paramount importance to both me and my constituents. The Port of Houston is a 25-mile-long complex of public and private facilities located just a few hours’ sailing time from the Gulf of Mexico. Its services link Houston with 1,053 ports in 203 countries.

The port is ranked first in the United States in foreign waterborne commerce, second in total tonnage, and sixth in the world. It generates about $11 billion annually and provides over 287,000 direct and indirect jobs in Texas. As the port plays such a large role in the US economy it is crucial that we maintain its integrity and security.

H.R. 6025 is designed to gauge the performance of the Department in achieving operational control, so that Congress may provide additional legislation, tools, and resources as necessary.

More specifically, this bill will provide for annual reports on (1) the number of miles of the international land and maritime border between the United States and Canada and the United States and Mexico that are under operational control, cumulatively and by sector; and (2) the estimated number of individuals who unlawfully enter the United States annually, the estimated number of individuals unlawfully present in the United States as of the date of each such report, and the number of individuals unlawfully present in the United States who voluntarily exited the United States in the preceding year.

Border security and immigration enforcement are enormous tasks requiring extensive resources. The Federal Government aims to, and must, work with State and local authorities to share the responsibilities and the common goal of a safe and secure America.

In spite of the many examples of successful initiative and cooperative efforts, there are plenty of legitimate concerns that must be taken into account when discussing the best way to ensure that America’s borders are secure. Significant improvements in technology and infrastructure have been made to the efforts the Federal Government is making to improve border security and immigration enforcement. Reports like the one proposed today are important to achieving our long term goals.

TRIBUTE TO ERIC MATZNER
HON. KEN CALVERT
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor and pay tribute to a good friend of mine, Eric Matzner, of Palm Springs, California, the son of Carrie (née Hurley) and James Glover. His parents, postal workers, were active in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and yell “Heil Hitler.” Any civilian who did not address authority or Hitler in this way was either beaten or killed. Those who survive must wear yellow arm bands bearing the Star of David to separate the Jews from the rest of the population.

Eric’s father owned a jewelry store. Before long, the store was taken from him, forcing his parents to make the biggest decision of their lives. Should they stay, not knowing what lay ahead? Or, should they sacrifice virtually everything they’ve ever known and flee for the freedom of America? They stayed hidden until they escaped Austria on November 9, 1938. As it turns out, history will remember this night as Kristallnacht, the “Night of Broken Glass.” The attack against Jews that evening was swift. Many were killed and thousands incarcerated in concentration camps. Eric vividly remembered the sound of broken glass and the smell of burning buildings. On that night they left Austria behind.

They found themselves on a boat, headed for the country of which they had only heard and dreamed of to start a new life. It was a treacherous trip. Steerage was cramped and miserable. Many people become violently ill throughout the trek across the ocean. They were allowed to take one bag each. Few valuables, possessions or family treasures survived the voyage.

After the long ocean journey, a large figure slowly appeared in the distance: the Statue of Liberty. It was a sight that Eric would remember forever.

As a young man, Eric excelled at baseball and football. He met Elaine Heritage (my mother) at Drexel University in 1951. They dated for a few years and later married. It was a challenge at first with my father being Jewish and my mother being Methodist, but they overcame these differences. Due to my father’s childhood experiences, his four children were taught that differences in people are to be embraced, not condemned. It is a wonderful part of our heritage to have been raised with both religions and such diversity.

Eric was an early salesman for TV Guide, and held jobs in advertising in the 1960s. He was an original “Mad Man!” His creative selling was legendary, and influenced many young salespeople who are all successful today.

As I think about my father’s journey, I believe he was alive because of the foresight of his parents to escape Austria, a strong will to live, modern medicine and the drugs that were available to him. If not for these, I do not believe my father would have lived to be 86 years old and to have been a warm, loving husband to my mother, Elaine, a father to his four children, a grandfather to his five grandchildren and a great grandfather to my son’s son.

No one, not even my father, could imagine that he would see the year 2012. Although he was immobile in his final years, he never complained. He lost most of his short term memory, but retained most of his long term memories. With his ever present smile, we smiled with him, when on nearly every day he said, “I’m telling you, this might be the best day of my life.”

IN CELEBRATION OF THE HARLEM ARTS ALLIANCE ADVOCACY WEEK 2012 “HARLEM AT THE CROSSROADS: SUSTAINING OUR ARTS AND CULTURAL RESOURCES”

OF NEW YORK
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to recognize the Harlem Arts Alliance, Inc. as they celebrated their Sixth Annual Arts Advocacy Week 2012 at The City College of New York Aaron Davis Hall, The Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture, The Manhattan Neighborhood Network’s El Barrio Firehouse Community Center, The Studio Museum in Harlem, The ImageNation and The Dwyer Cultural Center. HAA recognizes the correlation between a community’s vitality and economic health and its vibrant cultural life and is committed to fostering the development of Harlem’s artists, arts institutions and cultural organizations for the benefit of artists, residents, local businesses and tourists alike.

The HARLEM Arts Alliance (HAA) is a not-for-profit arts service organization committed to nurturing the artists, arts leaders creating an exciting array of vital collaborative efforts to promote the arts in communities.

This year’s theme “Harlem at the Crossroads: Sustaining Our Arts and Cultural Resources,” highlights the need to maintain and preserve some of the city’s most stellar arts organizations, artists, individuals and entities and to help them to secure and sustain the critical resources needed to continue their missions. HAA Chairman Voza Rivers and Executive Director Michael Unthink have billed this year’s advocacy week as the Harlem Arts Summit. The undertaking involves the collaboration of key Harlem arts institutions, artists and arts leaders creating a year round calendar of events showcasing the Uptown arts landscape.

On Monday, October 1, the Harlem Arts Summit honored three extraordinary cultural icons who have contributed greatly to African American Arts and Culture: the Village of Harlem and our great nation: activist and actor Danny Glover, legendary theatrical producer Vy Higgins and pioneering arts producer and consultant Mikki Shepard.

Danny Glover was born in San Francisco, California, the son of Carrie (née Hunley) and James Glover. His parents, postal workers, were active in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Vy has won numerous honors for providing excellent products and services to African-American audiences. In addition to her success behind the microphone at several major New York stations, notably WBLS-FM, WWRL-AM and WKRS-FM, she’s also excelled in other domains. One of her first publications was a 1970s magazine providing opportunities for black photographers, graphic designers and media salespeople to hone their crafts. Unique NY Magazine, which she published and edited, was a lifestyle magazine for African-Americans and tourists. Another of her successful publishing ventures was “This Is My Song: To pass the legacy of gospel music on,” an illustrated book for children. In 1996, Vy Higgensen founded Mama Foundation for the Arts as a conduit for her philanthropic work. The nonprofit is dedicated to nurturing talented black singers, musicians, and arts administrators. As the Foundation’s executive director, she’s the primary force behind its programs including the acclaimed, Gospel for Teens. Product spokesperson, public relations professional, Grammy and Tony Awards Nominee and six-time South Carolina State Senator, the list of Vy Higgensen’s credits go on. Vy Higgensen was the recipient of the Harlem Arts Summit/Harlem Arts Advocacy Week 2012 Lifetime Achievement Award.

Arts Producer and Consultant Mikki Shepard is currently a consultant for the world famous Apollo Theater. In this capacity, Mikki is part of the senior executive staff and creates institutional policies and oversees programming, marketing and development. Her past consultant work in the arts focused on organizational development, strategic program development and assessment, strategic planning and implementation. Mikki’s clients included: The Ford Foundation, Heinz Endowments, Media Democracy Fund, New Jersey Performing Arts Center, Jacob’s Pillow, Opera America, Future of Music Coalition, and the National Black Arts Festival. Mikki was the Director for the Arts and Humanities at the Rockefeller Foundation and Artistic Director/Executive Producer of 651ARTS. As Producer, Mikki Shepard presentations included: Jazz in the Americas, National Black Arts Festival, Women In Jazz, Lost Jazz Shriners and an international new works program, Africa Exchange. She also produced and created for the Brooklyn Academy of Music (BAM) over 25 major performing arts events, such as DanceAfrica, Steps In Time, a Tap Dance Festival, DanceBlack America, a festival and PBS special celebrating 300 years of black dance in America. Mikki also currently serves as the Chair of the Boards of the Mertz Gilmore Foundation; and on the Boards of the Brooklyn Community Foundation, Brooklyn Academy of Music (BAM), the National Endowment for the Arts, and the Brooklyn Academy of Music (BAM). Mikki Shepard was the recipient of the Harlem Arts Summit/Harlem Arts Advocacy Week 2012 Arts Leadership Award.

Today’s Challenge, Tomorrow’s Promise,” introduced by accomplished actress, director, producer and Harlem resident, Tamara Tunie (Law and Order SVU) and moderated by multimedia journalist, Katti Gray at Aaron Davis Hall. The event aimed to continue building Harlem’s legacy as a cultural Mecca, Harleman Arts Summit 2012 is presented by the HARLEM Arts Alliance in collaboration with key Harlem organizations including Columbia University, Greater Harlem Chamber of Commerce, 125th Street Business Improvement District, Studio Museum in Harlem, Aaron Davis Hall/City College of New York, The Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture, Harlem Business Alliance, Harlem Stage/The Gatehouse, Caribbean Cultural Center, Harlem Community Development Corporation, New Heritage Theatre Group, MIST Cinemas and Manhattan Neighborhood Network (MNNe)—El Barrio Firehouse Community Media Center.

Major support for the Summit is provided by the Upper Manhattan Empowerment Zone Development Corporation, New York City Department of Cultural Affairs (New York State Council on the Arts and The National Endowment for the Arts. Let me take this opportunity to thank all of our Harlem Arts Advocacy Week community sponsors, supporters and collaborators as we celebrated “Harlem at the Crossroads: Sustaining Our Arts and Cultural Resources” during the Sixth Annual Harlem Arts Advocacy Week 2012.

Mr. Speaker, the Harlem Arts Alliance under the great leadership of Chairman Voza Rivers and Executive Director Michael Unthank has contributed daily to the survival and enhancement of Harlem’s beloved cultural artist and arts organizations. During these economically challenging times for our arts and cultural organizations, I ask my colleagues to join me in supporting the Harlem Arts Alliance as they continue their advocacy for the arts on behalf of the Village of Harlem and a very grateful nation.

RECOGNIZING MIKE BIDDLE, PRESIDENT AND FOUNDER OF MBA POLYMERS

HON. GEORGE MILLER

Thursday, November 29, 2012

MR. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today and invite my colleagues to join me in recognizing and congratulating Mike Biddle, President and Founder of MBA Polymers, a plastics recycler and one being awarded the 2012 Gothenburg Award for Sustainable Development.

In receiving this prestigious award, which is considered the equivalent of a Nobel Prize for the Environment, Mr. Biddle joins a distinguished list of past recipients, including UN Secretary General Kofi Annan, Vice President Al Gore, and the former Prime Minister of Norway and Director General of the World Health Organization, Gro Harlem Brundtland.

The United Nations estimates nearly 85 billion pounds of plastics are discarded around the world every year. Yet due to the difficulties involved in separating and sorting through the different types of plastics, only a small fraction of these plastics are recycled, while the rest is tossed in landfills, burned, or shipped to third world countries for environmentally toxic and often dangerous extraction methods.

A self-described “garbage man,” Mike Biddle set up a lab in his garage in Pittsburg, California nearly twenty years ago to begin experimenting with ways to sort and recycle complex plastics in an attempt to turn these landfills into what he calls “above ground mines.” Since then, Mr. Biddle has developed and patented a 30-step plastics recycling system that includes magnetically extracting metals, sorting them by polymer type, and producing graded pellets to be reused. What is truly remarkable is that this process uses less than ten percent of the energy required to make plastic from oil while carrying little of the risk to the environment.

Mr. Biddle should be commended; his story illustrates the sort of progress that can be made towards an economically and environmentally responsible solution to plastics waste around the world. However, his story is also illustrative of a greater problem we face here in the United States. While MBA Polymers remains headquartered in Richmond, California, the company’s main processing facilities operate in China, Austria, and the United Kingdom, where their respective governments have implemented forward thinking, effective recycling regulations that ensure a steady stream of complex plastics and materials for MBA Polymers to utilize.

While the United States produces more electronics and plastics waste per capita than any other country in the world, rather than take advantage of this resource, U.S. brokers ship nearly ninety-five percent of the plastics waste that is collected here overseas. In short, we are literally shipping jobs overseas because of our failure to implement a competing plastics recycling program in the U.S.

As we are paying to ship plastics to third-world countries with little labor protection and no environmental controls, many countries in Europe and Asia are reaping the benefits of reusing and recycling their waste products. Furthermore, in doing so, we are adding to our dependency on foreign oil by needlessly consuming petrochemicals to make plastics, while simultaneously adding to the concentration of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere at a time when all nations should be focused on reducing our carbon footprint.

The United States cannot afford to continue to watch from the sidelines while foreign countries become more energy efficient, more economically competitive, and enhance their energy and natural resource security—all while creating good, sustainable jobs. A national policy of plastics and waste recycling in the U.S. would be a win-win.

Again, I applaud Mr. Biddle and his team at MBA Polymers for winning this important award, and I look forward to working with my colleagues in Congress to help create an environment in which Mr. Biddle’s successes can be realized here at home.

A TRIBUTE TO LIEUTENANT COLONEL MORTON SALK
HON. MIKE McIntyre
OF NORTH CAROLINA
Thursday, November 29, 2012
Mr. McIntyre. Mr. Speaker, I rise with sorrow today following the passing of Lieutenant Colonel Morton Salk of Wilmington, North Carolina. Mr. Salk served as a bombardier in World War II and was also a beloved member of our community, a devoted family man, and a dear friend to many. Mr. Salk passed away on November 10, 2012, at the age of 93, and he will be dearly missed.

Mr. Salk grew up in Providence, Rhode Island, and dedicated a majority of his life to the service of his country. He served as a member of the 243rd Coastal Artillery, Narragansett Bay Harbor Defenses and was on active duty from January 17, 1941. He trained as a gun commander of the 12” disappearing cannon and then was transferred to the Aviation Cadet Program and subsequently earned flight wings as a bombardier. He was soon advanced to a triple-Allied-bomber bombardier, navigator, and radar operator.

On August 24, 1943, Mr. Salk volunteered to become part of a crew for a mission to bomb an airfield in Hankow, China. His plane was leading the mission’s formation as these American airmen came under direct attack. A 20 mm shell crashed through the windshield of Mr. Salk’s plane, fatally wounding the pilot and incapacitating the co-pilot. Although he was not a pilot, Mr. Salk pulled the pilot from his seat and proceeded to fly the plane for 15 minutes, saving at least eight U.S. Airmen.

Mr. Salk earned a number of honors for his heroic actions, including the Purple Heart, Air Force Commendation Medal, Air Defense Service Medal, National Defense Service Medal, and the Distinguished Flying Cross represented by General Chennault of the Flying Tigers for completing 57 missions. After the war, Mr. Salk continued his service as a flying officer with the United States Air Force for 25 years before retiring as a Lieutenant Colonel.

Mr. Speaker, Lieutenant Colonel Morton Salk was a fine patriot and I have the utmost respect for his bravery. Though a humble man, his efforts garnered him praise from the press, fellow citizens, and elected officials. His courage will continue to serve as an inspiration to us all. May God bless his family, and may we always remember the life of Lieutenant Colonel Morton Salk.

MICHAEL LEMOV’S PEOPLE’S WARRIOR: THE LEGACY OF JOHN MOSS
HON. DAVID E. PRICE
Thursday, November 29, 2012
Mr. PRICE. Mr. Speaker, December 5 will mark the fifteenth anniversary of the death of John Moss of California, one of the most important members to serve in this body in the last century. Moss’s life and landmark achievements have recently been recounted in People’s Warrior by Michael Lemov, who served as his chief counsel for eight years, and I want to direct colleagues’ attention to this important book.

Moss’s landmark achievements have endured, warranting the insightful accounts Lemov has given of their sometimes tortuous paths to passage: the Freedom of Information Act, which served as his chief counsel for eight years, and I want to direct colleagues’ attention to this important book.

The Federal Trade Commission.
John Moss was first elected to the House in 1952 and was appointed to what was then called the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee four years later. In the 1960s, as the Senate Commerce Committee under Sen. Warren Magnuson undertook major consumer protection initiatives, Moss fought to overcome resistance to such measures on the House Committee and then, as Chairman of the Commerce and Finance Subcommittee, to make the House a full partner in their development.

Moss, alongside his close friend John Dingell, was also a key figure in House reform. The two of them fought for years to give Commerce subcommittees more autonomy and resources as a means of opening the Committee to member initiatives and making it more hospitable to progressive legislation. In the mid-1970s, as reform came to both the Committee and the House, Moss gained election as Chairman of the Commerce Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations. He took full advantage of loosened full committee control and enhanced resources to greatly step up subcommittee activity. By the time Moss retired in 1979, Ward Sinclair of the Washington Post described him as “the man who perfected oversight.”

As a young political scientist studying Congress, and the Commerce Committees in particular, in the 1970s, I recognized the significance of Moss’s role. Mike Lemov’s insights were indispensable as I sought to understand the movement toward decentralization and reform on the Committee and then the impact of reform on the performance of oversight. Mike talked with me for hours and opened many doors. In a chapter I contributed to Legislative Reform (edited by Leroy Rieselbach, 1978), I concluded that, while reform had provided the conditions for an invigorated, more independent oversight role for the Commerce Committee, the most important factor by far was the selection of a chairman with the energy, determination, and vision to seize the opportunities the situation offered. John Moss. And one of Moss’s greatest assets was the entrepreneurial Chief Counsel who came with him from the Commerce and Finance Subcommittee during Moss’s chairmanship. Brohyll’s role serves as a reminder of an era when partisan disagreements were no less strongly felt, but members nonetheless often found a way to work through them to constructive outcomes.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, and on behalf of colleagues, I want to thank Mike Lemov for his own effective public service, which he has extended with this inspiring and instructive account of one of the giants in our institution’s history.

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize and applaud Ms. Tracy Evanko, for her service to the community and receiving the 2012 Mayor of Golden’s Award for Excellence.

IN RECOGNITION OF BOB McCULLOUGH, SR. RECIPIENT OF THE 2012 MARCELLA R. BROWN FOUNDATION AWARD

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor, recognize, and celebrate Mr. Bob McCullough Sr., recipient of the Marcella R. Brown Foundation’s Founder’s Award.

My good friend Bob McCullough Sr., is the Founder & Co-Founder of several community organizations such as the Rucker Pro Tournament Summer Professional Basketball League, Harlem Professional Inc., National Association of Each One Teach One Inc., John Hunter Camp Fund, Rucker Professionals Hall of Fame, Bob Douglass Hall of Fame, 133rd & 134th streets Alumni Association and the Pelham Fritz Basketball League.

I am glad that the Marcella R. Brown Foundation has chosen to recognize Bob for all his service and devotion. The Marcella R. Brown Foundation Inc. is a well regarded organization that seeks to provide assistance to youth who want to pursue a higher education. They give financial support in the form of scholarships and provide opportunities for youth to get valuable work experience with non-profit organizations and select governmental agencies.

Bob McCullough is a legendary Benedict College athlete who holds a spot in the upper echelon of all-time great basketball players in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. A heralded New York schoolboy athlete, he was recruited by Coach John E. Brown and scored 2,135 points for a 28.4 points per game career average during his three years with the Benedict College Tigers.

McCullough displayed textbook-pure shooting and was quicker than everybody guarding him. He made clutch-shots dripping down the court then, faked out for respectable 10 to 17-foot jumpers that invariably went in the basket. In 1964-65, he was the second leading scorer in the nation averaging 36.4 points per game. He netted over 45 points on four occasions, 49 points twice and a single career high of 51 points against South Carolina State Bulldogs.

As a freshman in 1961–62, Bob canned 54, 56, and 64 points in exhibition games. In 1963–64, he was the star of Benedict’s national scoring championship basketball team that averaged 101.2 points per game.

McCullough was the first black athlete to be selected for the All-Southern Textile Basketball All-Star Team in Greenville, SC.

He was named to All-American Honorable Mention teams by sportswriters for United Press International and Converse Magazine in 1964. Bob was offered a contract by the Harlem Globetrotters, and was drafted by the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association. He was dropped from the Royals when All-Star guard Oscar Robinson renewed his contract. In 1967, Bob played with the New Jersey Asbury Park Boardwalkers in the Eastern Professional Basketball League, now known as the CBA. He averaged 22 points and five assists per game and was selected to the All-Rookie Team, and played in the Eastern Professional League East/West All-Star Game with NBA Stars Walter Dukes and K. C. Jones among others.

McCullough earned a Master of Science degree from Lehman College and studied additionally at New York University, Cornell University and Hunter College. He is a New York Department of Education licensed school teacher, former counselor for Hunter College, and a published researcher who has lectured at conferences on mentoring in the US and abroad. Bob presented in Vancouver, Canada, New Castle on the Thyme, England, and for the National Association of Black Social Workers in New Orleans as well as Los Angeles, California.

In 1976–80, Bob became the Assistant Director and Counselor of the Fordham University Upward-Bound Program, on the Rose-Hill campus, Bronx, New York. Bob is founding member of the East Harlem Abassian Triangle Inc. that brought Pathmark to Harlem.

Throughout the years Bob McCullough has received numerous honors and awards as the commissioner of the prestigious and renowned Rucker Summer Professional Basketball League and as co-founder of the National Association of Each One Teach One, a youth developmental mentoring program in Harlem.

Bob McCullough Sr., is the Founder & Co-Founder of several community organizations; Rucker Pro Tournament Summer Professional Basketball League, Harlem Professional Inc., National Association of Each One Teach One Inc., John Hunter Camp Fund, Rucker Professionals Hall of Fame, Bob Douglass Hall of Fame, 133rd & 134th streets Alumni Association and the Pelham Fritz Basketball League.

Bob has played a pivotal role in my Congressional District by providing programs and activities that help foster and develop minds and talents of the community youth. Because of his selfless devotion and unwavering dedication, many of your young people will go on to reach their ambitions. It is in that spirit that I ask all my colleagues and our Nation to join me in congratulating the Marcella R. Brown Foundation, Inc., recipient of the Bob McCullough Sr. recipient of the 2012 Marcella R. Brown Foundation’s Founder’s Award.
Mr. BUTTERFIELD. Mr. Speaker, it is with sadness that I rise today to honor the life of Staff Sergeant Rayvon Battle, Jr. of the United States Army. Staff Sergeant Battle lost his life in Kandahar Province, Afghanistan on November 13, 2012, while trying to stop an explosion.

Staff Sergeant Battle was a native of Rocky Mount, North Carolina, which is in my Congressional District. In 2005, he graduated from Northern Nash High School and went on to enlist in the Army where he became a squad leader in the 38th Engineer Company, 4th Stryker Brigade Combat Team, 2nd Infantry Division.

Staff Sergeant Battle was a source of great pride in his hometown because he epitomized what it meant to serve with honor and distinction. This was demonstrated in the various awards and decorations Staff Sergeant Battle received during his career in the Army. Among them include the Bronze Star Medal, the Army Commendation Medal, two Army Achievement Medals, two Army Good Conduct Medals, the National Defense Service Medal, the Afghanistani Campaign Medal with Bronze Service Star, the Iraq Campaign Medal with three Bronze Service Stars, the Global War on Terrorism Service Medal, and the NATO Medal.

Unfortunately, Staff Sergeant Battle perished while serving his country—prematurely ending a promising life and career. He is survived by his wife, Dorris Battle; his father, tends; Mr. Willie Martin were united in Holy Matrimony on October 24, 1928, and they remained married until his death in 1981.

Together they had ten children, Florence, James, Thomas, Charles, Curtis, Amanda, Willie Jr., Willie Mai, Gail, and Lorraine. Mrs. Martin is now the proud grandmother of 34, great-grandmother of 70, and great-great-grandmother of 16. In the words of her family, “To know mom is to know true love.”

Mrs. Martin is a dedicated member of Mt. Olive Baptist Church in Columbia, where she has worshipped faithfully each week for more than fifty years. Her favorite scripture is the first verse of Psalm 91, “He who dwells in the shelter of the Most High will abide in the shadow of the Almighty.” Her favorite hymn is “We’ve Come This Far By Faith.” As she completes a century of life, it is apparent that she is the living embodiment of both.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that you and our colleagues join me in congratulating Mrs. Martin on achieving this milestone and wishing her Godspeed and many more to come.

IN RECOGNITION OF IBEW LOCAL 269

HON. FRANK PALLONE, JR.
OF NEW JERSEY
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate IBEW Local 269 as its members gather to celebrate its 100th Anniversary. The spirit and strength of the IBEW’s founders continues today in Local 269 and its history and service is truly deserving of this body’s recognition.

The founders of the IBEW fought for the benefit of the workers. The founders strived to create workers’ rights, safety measures and apprenticeship training. Today, the IBEW continues the legacy of its founders to make a better life for all, and these principles are evident in Local 269.

IBEW Local 269 ensures that central New Jersey and Bucks County, Pennsylvania receive highly skilled and qualified electrical workers. IBEW Local 269 is committed to upholding its expectation of quality craftsmanship and on-budget projects with a 5-year apprenticeship training program. The specialized members work as wiremen, outside linemen, residential wiremen, and telecommunications technicians to maintain communities.

They are experienced in working in a wide range of areas, including airports, educational institutions, military installations, historical sites and monuments, and many others. Since 1912, the members of IBEW Local 269 have provided proficient service to the community.

Mr. Speaker, once again, please join me in honoring IBEW Local 269 and its 100th Anniversary.

Mr. Marmo’s career in politics spans several decades beginning with his time as a provincial councilor of Canelli in the 1980’s. In the following decade, Mr. Marmo served the commune of Canelli as Mayor. From 1999 until 2005, he held the position of President of the Province of Asti. Currently, Mr. Marmo is a member of the Chamber of Deputies serving the people of Italy as a member of the Commission on Budget and Treasury.

In addition to his political successes, Mr. Marmo is a decorated entrepreneur in the Piedmont region of Italy. He holds the roles of President and Chief Executive Officer of the Cantina Sociale di Canelli-Cooperativa as well as the President of the Cellars of Canelli.
Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to applaud the work of the 269 schools that have been selected by the U.S. Department of Education as 2012 National Blue Ribbon Schools. This prestigious honor recognizes the schools’ accomplishments in improving student academic achievement and in attaining overall academic excellence. I am proud to report that ten of these schools are in Maryland, having been selected as Maryland Blue Ribbon Schools on the basis of sustained high performance or significant improvement in reading and mathematics as measured by Maryland State Assessments. I am particularly proud of the accomplishments of the four National Blue Ribbon Schools—Crofton Meadows Elementary School, Woodholme Elementary School, St. Augustine School, and Saint Peter’s School—that are currently or will soon be located in Maryland’s 3rd District.

The passage of No Child Left Behind in 2002 charged schools with additional responsibilities to measure and report academic progress. These new requirements set a high bar, requiring schools to demonstrate gains in student proficiency and improvements in closing the achievement gap. The National Blue Ribbon Schools exemplify the goals of No Child Left Behind, and serve as exemplars of how best to help children reach their highest potential. As we work toward a long-overdue reauthorization of the Elementary and Secondary School Act (ESEA), we must carefully review the successes of the National Blue Ribbon Schools to identify strategies and best practices that can be shared, and which other schools may benefit from examining and adopting. I look forward to continuing to support the work of the National Blue Ribbon awardees and all schools in Maryland, to ensure that they have the tools and resources they need to continue helping students excel.

IN RECOGNITION OF MR. TODD HARRISON

HON. MICHAEL C. BURGESS
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Mr. Todd Harrison, the former Chief Oversight Counsel to the House Committee on Energy and Commerce. Mr. Harrison was hired by my colleague Mr. UPTON upon attaining chairmanship on the Energy and Commerce Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations. Formerly a state and federal prosecutor, Mr. Harrison’s single-minded commitment to oversight contributed immensely to the atmosphere of accountability fostered by committee staff.

As a husband and father commuting to Washington from New York City on a weekly basis, Mr. Harrison sacrificed greatly to maintain a top-notch oversight staff. His complete dedication to the Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations was exemplified in the work he did with me.

I’m sure that I speak on behalf of every member of the Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigation in saying that Mr. Harrison was a treasured asset and will be missed dearly.

IN TRIBUTE TO U.S. ARMY COL. JOHN MORIARITY (RET.)

HON. ELTON GALLEGGY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. GALLEGGY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in tribute to U.S. Army Col. John Moriarity (Ret.), who chaired my U.S. Military Academy Nominating Board for 26 years.

A graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, Col. Moriarity and the rest of the board, who represented different branches of the armed services, year after year selected the best and the brightest from my district for our military academies. In my 26 years in Congress, they chose more than 250 exceptional young men and women for nomination to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point the U.S. Air Force Academy, U.S. Naval Academy, and U.S. Merchant Marine Academy.

The cadets were challenged and tested for four years. In the end, they became U.S. military leaders charged with defending America and the ideals we cherish. We bid them Godspeed.

Mr. Speaker, I now call on my colleagues to join me in paying tribute to my personal friend Col. John Moriarity (Ret.), both for his service to our country as a U.S. Army officer and for helping to select the next generation of our finest military officers.
PALESTINIAN UNILATERAL DECLARATION OF STATEHOOD

HON. HENRY A. WAXMAN
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, the Palestinian leadership’s decision to seek status as a nonmember observer state in the United Nations General Assembly is a reckless and dangerous move. The General Assembly’s vote to approve this gambit is a new low point for the institution.

I commend President Obama for his unwavering stance opposing the Palestinian motion and the tireless efforts by this Administration to try and avert today’s outcome.

No country has done more than the United States to advance the true cause of Palestinian statehood. No one has done more to undermine that goal than the Palestinians themselves.

Time and again the Palestinian leadership has espoused lofty slogans over substantive achievements. These attempted short cuts have shortchanged the Palestinian people who aspire to achieve genuine statehood with the political, economic and social infrastructure to support a stable, functioning democracy.

Today’s vote undermines the key principle of mutual recognition that has been the foundation of a generation of diplomacy and successive Security Council resolutions concerning the peace process. It threatens to further derail a U.N. system already struggling under the weight of an unrelenting Palestinian agenda to attack Israel in the U.N. Human Rights Council and the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. We now must consider the irreversible damage that could be wrought by irresponsible action in the World Health Organization, the International Court of Justice or the International Criminal Court.

This maneuver will also make it more difficult for the United States to constructively engage the Palestinian leadership and chart a productive path ahead.

At this uncertain time, the one thing that is abundantly clear is that the United States is committed to standing with Israel. We will continue to do all we can to maintain stability and security as we navigate the way forward.

HONORING JANET ORCHARD

HON. LYNN C. WOOLSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today, along with my colleague, Congressman Mike THOMPSON, to acknowledge and honor Janet Orchard’s record of public service upon her retirement from the Cotati City Council.

Ms. Orchard was first elected to the Council in 2002, re-elected in 2004 and 2008 and served as Mayor in 2002, 2006, and 2011.

During her tenure, the Council adopted the city’s mobile home rent stabilization ordinance and formula-based fast food ordinances, and approved Cotati’s first medical marijuana dispensary. She was also instrumental in helping shape the downtown area through her advocacy for the city’s Downtown Specific Plan, the Cotati Arts Project and the establishment of the Cotati Historical Society Museum.

Ms. Orchard conducted all of the research needed to secure the adoption of a living wage ordinance, ensuring that all city employees would receive adequate pay, and was instrumental in the adoption of a policy allowing Cotati to recognize the Mexican Matricula as a form of identification.

Her most enduring legacy is the creation of Falletti Park in downtown Cotati. Slated for high density housing development, Ms. Orchard worked with the property owners and the County Open Space District to save the parcel as a reminder of the city’s rural heritage.

Along with these accomplishments, Ms. Orchard represented the city on the Sonoma County Mayors and Councilmembers Association Legislative Committee, chaired the Citizens Advisory Committee of the Sonoma County Agricultural Preservation and Open Space District, served as a Director of the North Bay Watershed Association and as liaison to the Association of Housing, Community and Economic Development Policy Committee.

Mr. Speaker, although Ms. Orchard is retiring from the Cotati City Council, we are confident that she will continue to be an active participant in civil life in her community. Accordingly, it is both fitting and proper that we acknowledge her today.

HON. ELTON GALLEGLY
Thursday, November 29, 2012

Mr. GALLEGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in tribute to my personal friend, Edward G. Atsinger III, who, with his brother-in-law Stuart Epperson, started with ownership in Christian radio stations in California and North Carolina and grew Salem Communications Corporation into a national Christian media powerhouse. Based in Camarillo, California, Salem Communications purchased radio properties in key markets across the United States and converted them to flourishing Christian talk stations. In the 1990s, Salem expanded beyond Christian Teaching Talk, successfully rolling out formats featuring Contemporary Christian Music, News Talk, Spanish-language Christian and most recently, business programming. In addition, Salem Radio Network is one of the leading full-service networks in the U.S., syndicating talk, news, and music programming to approximately 2,000 Christian-formatted and general market radio stations throughout the country.

In 1999, Salem purchased CCM Magazine—an industry standard in the contemporary Christian music community. Salem Publishing now circulates additional Christian and conservative magazines. Additionally, Salem purchased Townhall.com® in 2006 and conservative political blog HotAir.com in 2010, providing conservative commentary, news, and blogging to an ever-expanding audience. In 2011, Salem launched its Church Products division with the acquisition of Worship House Media, an ecommerce retailer of videos and other multimedia to churches.
