“(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of General Services (in this subchapter referred to as the ‘Administrator’), in consultation with the Director of the Office of Management and Budget (in this subchapter referred to as the ‘Director’), shall conduct a pilot program to be known as the ‘Federal Real Property Disposal Pilot Program’, under which the Administrator, in consultation with the Director, shall determine which 15 Federal Government real properties that are excess or surplus and have the highest fair market value and the greatest potential to sell and shall dispose of such properties in accordance with this subchapter and through an expedited disposal of real property.

“(b) DISPOSAL.—During the five-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of the Excess Federal Building and Property Disposal Act of 2011, the Administrator, in consultation with the Director, shall dispose of real property under the Federal Real Property Disposal Pilot Program through a public auction.

“(c) ADDING PROPERTIES TO THE PILOT PROGRAM.—Not later than 15 days after a property is disposed of under subsection (b), the Administrator, in consultation with the Director, shall designate an additional property, in accordance with subsection (a), to be disposed of under the Federal Real Property Disposal Pilot Program.

“(d) EXCEPTIONS.—The Administrator shall not include for purposes of the Federal Real Property Pilot Program any of the following types of property:

“(2) Properties that are excluded for reasons of national security by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

“(3) Indian and Native Eskimo properties including—

“(7) Properties that the Administrator has determined are suitable for assignment to the Secretary of the Interior for transfer to a State, a political subdivision or instrumentality of a State, or a municipality for use as a public park or recreation area under section 550(e) of this title. In making such determination, the Administrator may consider the appraised value of the property and the highest and best use.

COMMITTEE STATEMENT AND VIEWS

PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 665, the Excess Federal Building and Property Disposal Act of 2011, would streamline the Federal real property disposal process by authorizing a pilot program to expeditiously dispose of real property not meeting the needs of the Federal Government. The legislation requires agencies to select candidate disposition properties for participation in the pilot program and provides the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) authority to choose which properties to place into the pilot program. H.R. 665 exempts the properties in the pilot program from any of the public benefit conveyance requirements described in Title 40, and from the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act requirements. The bill requires participating agencies to be reimbursed for associated administrative expenses and allows them to retain 20% of the net proceeds of a sale. The bill directs 80% of sale proceeds to the Treasury Department for debt reduction. During Full Committee consideration of H.R. 665, a more comprehensive Amendment in the Nature of a Substitute (ANS) was adopted. The section-by-section portion of this report elaborates on the content of the ANS.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

Since 2003, the Government Accountability Office (GAO) has cited Federal real property management as a “high-risk” area for several reasons.¹ GAO has cited concerns about the reliability of real property data, the deteriorating condition of facilities, the large quantity of excess and underutilized properties, an overreliance on leasing, and insufficient security of facilities.² In 2011, GAO narrowed the scope of its concerns, stating that although improvements had been made with regard to the reliability of real property data and building conditions, the other concerns remain.³

The Congressional Research Service (CRS) reports that the Federal Government holds over ten thousand unneeded properties⁴ and spends hundreds of millions of dollars annually on the upkeep and maintenance of these properties.⁵ The government holds over 900,000 buildings and structures,⁶ and approximately 41 million acres of land worldwide.⁷ According to testimony from OMB, the Federal Government currently has approximately 14,000 buildings and structures designated as excess and approximately 76,000 properties classified as underutilized.⁸ GAO testified that in fiscal year 2009 some 45,190 buildings deemed as underutilized cost taxpayers nearly $1.7 billion annually to operate.⁹

Both the Administration and Congress recognize the financial burden of unneeded Federal real property. On June 10, 2010, President Obama issued a memorandum “Disposing of Unneeded Federal Real Estate,” directing OMB to work with agencies to “produce no less than $3 billion in cost savings by the end of fiscal year 2012.”¹⁰ These cost savings were to come from increased sale proceeds, as well as reduced operating, maintenance and energy expenses. This $3 billion goal provides a standard for Congress to evaluate what steps landholding agencies have taken to achieve the directive in the memorandum.

During the June 2011 budget deficit reduction debate, the media reported that the sale of surplus Federal real property was suggested as a means to generate revenue to offset spending elsewhere.¹¹ In July 2011, President Obama sent draft real property disposal legislation to Congress. The draft legislation advanced by the President seeks to expedite the disposal of unneeded and underutilized Federal civilian real property assets, with the goal of generating billions of dollars in revenue for the Federal Government. It creates a Civilian Property Realignment Board (CPRB) analogous to the Department of Defense Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) Commission. Under this proposal, the Board would be responsible for recommending properties for disposal. Ultimately, OMB and Congress must approve or disapprove of the entirety of the Board's recommendations in order for the agencies to begin disposing of them. According to the Administration, the legislation would allow the government to realize $15 billion in gross proceeds and other savings from the disposal of Federal real property over a 3-year period, once the Board becomes fully operational.

In a June 27, 2011, letter to the Committee, the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) estimated that the President's proposal would increase direct spending by $60 million over 10 years and could increase discretionary spending by $420 million over 5 years.¹²

The President's legislation, due to cost and approach, would not likely be supported by Congress. H.R. 665 provides a viable, bipartisan alternative by working within the existing real property disposal process rather than creating a novel process.

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

The pilot program and the provisions of the ANS discussed below in greater detail have been introduced in bills and supported during previous Congresses. During the 111th Congress, Representative Chaffetz introduced an almost identical bill to H.R. 665. On February 11, 2011, during the 112th Congress, he reintroduced the bill. It was referred to the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform and then to the Subcommittee on Government Organization, Efficiency, and Financial Management.

On July 27, 2011, the Full Committee held a hearing entitled, "Disposal of Federal Real Property: Legislative Proposals." During the hearing, three legislative proposals were examined. Representative Chaffetz, Representative Quigley, and Representative Denham testified regarding the real property disposal bills they had introduced during the 112th Congress. Representative Quigley's bill and Representative Chaffetz's bill share certain characteristics that differentiated them from Representative Denham's bill, which bears greater similarity to the President's real property disposal proposal.

Darrell Issa, Chairman, Comm. on Oversight & Gov't Reform, June 27, 2011, available at <http://www.cbo.gov/ftpdocs/122xx/doc12270/06-28-IssaLtrProperty.pdf>. CBO also said the proposal would probably not yield significant sale proceeds from the disposal of unneeded Federal properties.¹³

On November 17, 2011, the Full Committee held a business meeting to mark up H.R. 665. Representative Quigley offered an ANS which was supported by Representative Chaffetz. Ultimately, the ANS was accepted and adopted by voice vote.

SECTION-BY-SECTION

A section-by-section summary of the ANS adopted during the Full Committee business meeting follows:

Section 1. Short title

This section is the short title of the bill “Excess Federal Building and Property Disposal Act of 2011.”

Section 2. Federal real property disposal pilot program

This section of the bill creates the pilot program to dispose of unneeded Federal real property in an expeditious and efficient manner with the goal of maximizing profit. According to OMB, there are properties within the Federal real property portfolio which can be sold to raise revenue.¹⁴

Under the pilot program created by this section, the OMB Director, in consultation with the head of the General Services Administration (Administrator), is directed to identify, with input from Federal agencies, 15 real properties to be placed on a rolling list for disposal. These properties must meet certain criteria, such as possessing high fair market value. Certain properties such as United States Postal Service properties and properties owned by Indian and Native Alaskans are excluded from the pilot.

The Administrator is further directed to dispose of the properties through a public auction. This method of disposal was recommended by the CBO. Once a property is auctioned and transferred, the Administrator has 15 days to identify another property to be placed on the list for disposal. This rolling list is also referred to as the real property pilot program. It is authorized for five years.

The Committee anticipates that during the pilot program, the standard disposal process under Title 40 will occur contemporaneously. Pilot properties are exempt from certain statutory constraints to disposal. For example, properties sold as part of the pilot program will not be subject to the requirements of Title V of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act or the public benefit conveyance requirements.

An agency that participates in the pilot program and GSA are reimbursed for administrative costs. Proceeds from sales under the pilot program are required to be distributed as follows: 98 percent to the General Fund of the Treasury and two percent to a grant fund for homeless assistance.

With the two percent proceeds, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is authorized to make grants to non-profit entities for the purchase or rehabilitation of real property suitable to assist the homeless. The HUD Secretary is directed to give preference to nonprofit entities located in the areas in which real property is being sold through the pilot program.

This section also requires the GAO to conduct a study of the effectiveness of the pilot program.

Section 3. Duties of the General Services Administration and executive agencies

This section directs GSA to issue guidance for agencies regarding the development of real property plans. Agencies are required to continuously monitor their real property portfolio and dispose of any unneeded properties in a timely manner. GSA is required to report (one time) on the efficacy of this section three years after enactment.

Section 4. Enhanced authorities with regard to preparing properties to be reported as excess

This section applies to the standard disposal process under Title 40. Specifically, it amends 40 U.S.C. 572(a)(2) to allow GSA and the agencies to be reimbursed for the costs associated with the disposal of real property. After costs are paid, proceeds are distributed pursuant to Section 6, described below.

Section 5. Enhanced authorities with regard to reverted real property

This section amends 40 U.S.C. 572(a)(2)(A) to allow GSA to be reimbursed for the direct and indirect costs associated with a reversion of real property and the disposal of reverted real property. It should be noted that reverted real property at one time or another likely underwent the standard disposal process.

This section also allows the Administrator to dispose of reverted real property through sale under certain circumstances and places certain requirements on these types of disposals. Prior to selling reverted real property, the GSA Administrator shall allow public benefit conveyances.

Section 6. Agency retention of proceeds

This section amends 40 U.S.C. 571 to allow the net proceeds of a sale of real property conducted under the standard disposal process to be returned to the agency that conducted the disposal for the purpose of continuing disposal activities and maintenance to properties. Any remainder shall go to the Treasury for deficit reduction. It also allows proceeds from the sale of personal property to be deposited into the Treasury.

Section 7. Federal real property database

This section codifies the requirement for a Federal real property database and requires GSA to publish the existing database, which the Committee understands is owned by OMB and managed by GSA. This section allows classified information and national security sensitive information to be excluded from publication.

Section 8. Sustainable disposal of property

This section directs agencies to recycle at least 50 percent of construction and demolition materials.

Section 9. Streamlining the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act

This section streamlines the McKinney-Vento homeless review process. Under Title V of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act, a surplus Federal property must be made available to entities servicing the homeless before it can be conveyed for other public use.¹⁵ This section excludes national security properties from the review conducted by HUD. By excluding national security properties, the standard disposal process should become more efficient.

Under the current process, HUD publishes available properties in the Federal Register. According to HUD, this is an onerous requirement. This section repeals that requirement and directs HUD or GSA to publish the available properties on a website.

EXPLANATION OF AMENDMENTS

The provisions of Representative Quigley’s ANS adopted during the Committee Business Meeting are explained in the Section-by-Section above.

Representative Connolly introduced an amendment to Section 2 of the ANS that was accepted. His amendment gives the Administrator of the General Services Administration the discretion to except from the pilot program those properties the Administrator deems suitable for use as parks or recreational space pursuant to 40 U.S.C. 550(e). This Title allows the Administrator to assign surplus real property to the Secretary of the Interior for sale, lease, or transfer to a state, locality, or municipality. The amendment requires that in making the determination to except parcels of real property from the pilot, the Administrator should consider the “appraised value of the property and the highest and best use.” Appraised value has the plain language meaning. It is the market value of real property as determined by the opinion of a qualified appraiser. “Highest and best use” is a real estate term which “means an appraiser’s supported opinion of the most probable and legal use of a property, based on market evidence, as of the date of valuation.”¹⁶

This amendment is not intended to impede the pilot program created under Section 2 of the ANS. It should be emphasized that the Administrator’s use of this exclusion is intended to be rare and under circumstances in which a parcel of surplus real property has little or no economically beneficial value or use.

COMMITTEE CONSIDERATION

On November 17, 2011, the Committee met in open session and ordered reported favorably the bill, H.R. 665, as amended, by voice vote, a quorum being present.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO THE LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

Section 102(b)(3) of Public Law 104–1 requires a description of the application of this bill to the legislative branch where the bill relates to the terms and conditions of employment or access to public services and accommodations. This bill would streamline the Federal real property disposal process by authorizing a pilot program to expeditiously dispose of real property not meeting the needs of the Federal government. As such this bill does not relate to employment or access to public services and accommodations.

H.R. 665 does not include any congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits as defined in clause 9 of rule XXI.

COMMITTEE ESTIMATE

Clause 3(d)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives requires an estimate and a comparison by the Committee of the costs that would be incurred in carrying out H.R. 665. FEBRUARY 24, 2012.

Hon. DARRELL ISSA,
Chairman, Committee on Oversight and Government Reform,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for H.R. 665, the Excess Federal Building and Property Disposal Act of 2011.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Matthew Pickford.

Sincerely,

DOUGLAS W. ELMENDORF.

Enclosure.

H.R. 665—Excess Federal Building and Property Disposal Act of 2011

Summary: H.R. 665 would amend the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act (Property Act) to facilitate the disposal of federal real property. The legislation would establish a five-year pilot program to expedite the disposal of excess and surplus federal property.

CBO estimates that enacting the bill would increase net direct spending by $100 million over the 2012–2022 period because it would authorize the General Services Administration (GSA) and other federal agencies to spend proceeds from the sale of federal property that are expected to be collected under current law. Enacting H.R. 665 would not affect revenues. Because the legislation would affect direct spending, pay-as-you-go procedures apply. In addition, CBO estimates that implementing the legislation would cost $2 million over the 2012–2017 period, assuming the availability of appropriated funds.

H.R. 665 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA) and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

Estimated cost to the Federal Government: The estimated budgetary impact of H.R. 665 is shown in the following table. The costs of this legislation fall within budget function 800 (general government) and all budget functions that contain landholding agencies, except 050 (national defense).

	By fiscal year, in millions of dollars—
	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2013–2017	2013–2022
	CHANGES IN DIRECT SPENDING ^a
Estimated Budget Authority	20	20	20	20	20	0	0	0	0	0	100	100
Estimated Outlays	20	20	20	20	20	0	0	0	0	0	100	100

^a In addition to the costs shown above, CBO estimates that implementing H.R. 665 would cost $2 million over the 2013–2017 period for administrative and reporting costs related to property disposal, assuming the availability of appropriated funds.

Basis of estimate: For this estimate, CBO assumes that H.R. 665 will be enacted in fiscal year 2012, that the necessary funds will be provided for each year, and that spending will follow historical patterns for similar programs.

The Federal Property and Administrative Services Act governs the disposition of most federal properties. That act and other statutes that govern real estate transactions of specific agencies and programs generally require agencies to allocate excess property to other public purposes before offering it for sale. As a result, in most years, only a small portion of excess federal property is typically sold to the public. The remaining properties are transferred to public agencies and institutions through public benefit conveyances. The act also allows GSA to retain 12 percent of the proceeds from sales to cover the costs of auction fees and appraisals. The net proceeds from such sales are deposited in the Treasury as offsetting receipts. Under current law, proceeds from such transactions usually cannot be spent without further Congressional action. Under current law, CBO estimates that net receipts from the sale of surplus property governmentwide will total about $20 million per year.

The legislation would establish a five-year pilot program to authorize the expedited disposal of excess and surplus federal property. The Director of the General Services Administration, in consultation with the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and using recommendations of affected executive agencies, would be required to always have 15 federal properties available to participate in the program; the program would terminate five years after enactment. Under the pilot program properties could be sold without some of the administrative reviews and determinations that must occur under current law. Agencies and GSA would be reimbursed for certain expenses related to properties disposed of under this program. Any remaining proceeds from those sales would be divided between two accounts: 98 percent would be deposited in the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts, while 2 percent would be spent for homeless assistance grants.

Based on information from OMB and GSA regarding the status of property governmentwide, CBO expects that that the pilot program would not significantly increase the number of properties sold above the number anticipated under current law. In addition, receipts from sales of properties participating in the pilot program would be spent by GSA and other agencies to reimburse them for their expenses associated with the sales. As a result, CBO estimates that the reimbursement of expenses would increase direct spending of sales proceeds expected under current law by about $20 million annually over the 2013–2017 period.

Pay-as-you-go considerations: The Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act establishes budget-reporting and enforcement procedures for legislation affecting direct spending or revenues. The net changes in outlays that are subject to those pay-as-you-go procedures are shown in the following table. Enacting the legislation would have no effect on revenues.

CBO ESTIMATE OF PAY-AS-YOU-GO EFFECTS FOR H.R. 665, THE EXCESS FEDERAL BUILDING AND PROPERTY DISPOSAL ACT OF 2011, AS ORDERED REPORTED BY THE HOUSE COMMITTEE ON OVERSIGHT AND GOVERNMENT REFORM ON NOVEMBER 17, 2011

	By fiscal year, in millions of dollars—

NET INCREASE OR DECREASE (–) IN THE DEFICIT
Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Impact ...	0	20	20	20	20	20	0	0	0	0	0	100	100

Intergovernmental and private-sector impact: H.R. 665 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

Previous CBO estimate: On February 1, 2012, CBO transmitted a cost estimate for H.R. 1734, the Civilian Property Realignment Act, as transmitted to the Congressional Budget Office on January 24, 2012. On December 8, 2011, CBO transmitted a cost estimate for H.R. 1734, as ordered reported by the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure on October 13, 2011. All three pieces of legislation address federal property but have different provisions. Both versions of H.R. 1734 would establish a commission to sell and dispose of federal property, but the version of that legislation reported by the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure would provide the commission with broad authorities to sell and dispose of federal properties (without future Congressional actions). H.R. 665 would not establish a commission but would provide additional authorities to GSA to help facilitate the sale and disposal of federal properties. Those differences are reflected in the estimated cost of the bills.

Estimate prepared by: Federal Spending: Matthew Pickford; Impact on State, Local, and Tribal Governments: Paige Piper/Bach; Impact on the Private Sector: Elizabeth Cove Delisle.

Estimate approved by: Theresa Gullo, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

SUBCHAPTER VII—EXPEDITED DISPOSAL OF REAL PROPERTY

§ 621. Federal real property disposal pilot program

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of General Services (in this subchapter referred to as the “Administrator”), in consultation with the Director of the Office of Management and Budget (in this subchapter referred to as the “Director”), shall conduct a pilot program to be known as the “Federal Real Property Disposal Pilot Program”, under which the Administrator, in consultation with the Director, shall determine which 15 Federal Government real properties that are excess or surplus and have the highest fair market value and the greatest potential to sell and shall dispose of such properties in accordance with this subchapter and through an expedited disposal of real property.

(b) DISPOSAL.—During the five-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of the Excess Federal Building and Property Disposal Act of 2011, the Administrator, in consultation with the Director, shall dispose of real property under the Federal Real Property Disposal Pilot Program through a public auction.

(c) ADDING PROPERTIES TO THE PILOT PROGRAM.—Not later than 15 days after a property is disposed of under subsection (b), the Administrator, in consultation with the Director, shall designate an additional property, in accordance with subsection (a), to be disposed of under the Federal Real Property Disposal Pilot Program.

(d) EXCEPTIONS.—The Administrator shall not include for purposes of the Federal Real Property Pilot Program any of the following types of property:
