

House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROGERS of Alabama. Madam Speaker, America is over 6 weeks into the ObamaCare rollout, and things are just a mess. Folks are still having problems signing up. But even more painful are the letters people are receiving, canceling their health insurance plans. Families and individuals are being forced into different and, oftentimes, more expensive plans.

Recently, I asked folks to let me know how their premiums were being affected. One person contacted me that their premiums went up $200 a month. Another family contacted me that their policy was canceled, and their premium is going up $740 per month.

The President promised, from the beginning, if you like your health care plan, you will be able to keep your health care plan, period. But that has turned out not to be the case, and he knew it all along.

ObamaCare has many flaws, but forcing people off their plans when they were promised they could keep them is really starting to hit home now. That is why I strongly support H.R. 3350, the Keep Your Health Plan Act. The legislation would allow health care plans on the individual market to remain available so people could have the option to keep their current health insurance if they want to.

I still believe the best path forward is to get rid of ObamaCare, but for now, we should support this bill to help hardworking Americans keep their health insurance.

SUPER TYPHOON HAIYAN

(Ms. SPEIER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. SPEIER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to extend my condolences to the thousands of families both in the Philippines and here in the United States who have lost loved ones due to Super Typhoon Haiyan, the deadliest natural disaster in the history of this region.

I proudly represent the largest population of Filipino Americans in the continental United States, and many of them are in anguish right now wanting to know whether or not their loved ones are still alive. The question that some may ask is, Well, why should we help?

Well, there are the obvious humanitarian reasons, but more importantly, we must never forget that in World War II, President Roosevelt sought to have Filipinos take arms and fight for us—some 250,000 of them—during World War II. We must help.

We have sent the USS George Washington, which has arrived today. Seven other ships are on their way. There are C-130s and Ospreys that have also been put in operation.

The gentleman from California, Congressman HONDA, and I have introduced a resolution, and I hope the House will take it up swiftly, seeking support for the Filipino people and providing the aid they need.

THE PRESIDENT'S HEALTH CARE LAW

(Mr. BENISHEK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BENISHEK. Madam Speaker, I am holding a copy of a letter that one of my constituents received informing him that his current health care plan—a plan that he was satisfied with and that he was able to afford—is being canceled, thanks to regulations imposed by the President's health care law.

Thousands of letters like this one have gone out to hardworking citizens in northern Michigan.

I asked my constituents to reach out to me about their experiences so I could hear firsthand about the impact of this disastrous overhaul. I received over 200 responses in a matter of days.

Patrick from Cheboygan will see his annual health insurance bill rise by over $6,000 on January 1, 2014. Russell from Amasa was finally able to log onto the President's Web site after 14 straight days of trying, only to discover that the closest equivalent option for his plan will be far too expensive for him to afford.

I ask all of my colleagues to join me in order to repeal this disastrous health care law and work together in order to promote affordable, patient-centered reforms.

SAFE CLIMATE CAUCUS

(Mr. HUFFMAN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. HUFFMAN. Madam Speaker, I rise today to once again speak about the issue of climate change that is affecting every country, but as the World Bank has found, the impacts are not distributed equally. It is likely that the poorest nations on Earth will be the hardest hit.

The U.N. ranks the Philippines as the country that is third most vulnerable to the effects of climate change because of its geography, its poverty, and the state of its infrastructure.

As all of my colleagues know, one of the most powerful storms on record tore through Asia this past week—and the Philippines in particular. In the wake of Typhoon Haiyan, many thousands are dead and hundreds of thousands more are homeless and desperate for help.

As we learn more about the devastation, I ask my colleagues to pay careful attention to the words of Yeb Sano, head of the Philippines delegation to the U.N. climate talks:

What my country is going through as a result of this extreme climate event is madness . . . Typhoons such as Haiyan and its impacts represent a sobering reminder to the international community that we cannot afford to procrastinate on climate action.

He is right.

The Philippines tragedy is the latest wake-up call on climate change. So let's wake up.

OBAMACARE CANCELATIONS

(Mr. COBLE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, how many times did we hear the President promise the American people that if they liked their health care plan, they could keep their health care plan?

It doesn't matter how many times, Madam Speaker, you say something if it simply isn't true.

The fact is that Americans all across this country are getting letters from their insurance companies telling them their plans have been canceled. These are moms, dads, students, seniors, people who work diligently and who should be able to count on their health insurance when they need it.

What does ObamaCare offer them? Maybe they lose their plan altogether. Maybe their rates are going up. Maybe they can't visit the doctors and hospitals they have been using for years.

Madam Speaker, this has happened.

I urge victims to speak out. Go to the House Republican Web site at gop.gov and share your story.

VALLEY'S FIRST HONOR FLIGHT

(Mr. COSTA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. COSTA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak on behalf of our valley's first Honor Flight.

Recently, my colleagues, Representatives VALADAO and NUNES, and I honored the service of San Joaquin Valley veterans—as Tom Brokaw noted, perhaps America's Greatest Generation. These 69 men took off from Fresno and landed here in our Nation's Capital to see the monuments to their service to our country, most of them for the first time. In their youth, these men bravely but humbly answered their Nation's call.

Decades later, our first San Joaquin Valley Honor Flight came to Washington, where they witnessed the changing of the guard and remembered those of their fellow soldiers who did not make it home.

I also want to thank Congressmen HALL and DINGELL, who shared stories with them.

This forever grateful Nation is better for the men's sacrifices and the lives they led when they returned home to their farms, their storefronts, and their practices throughout the Valley to build a better life for themselves and our Nation.
