The House met at 9 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. Collins of Georgia).

DESIGNATION OF THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE
The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC.
September 18, 2014.

I hereby appoint the Honorable Doug Collins to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

JOHN A. BOEHNER,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

PRAYER
Reverend Seretta McKnight, Union Baptist Church, Hempstead, New York, offered the following prayer:

Good morning, Lord God. I acknowledge that You are God alone, large and in charge, and I thank You for being a loving, forgiving, and a just God.

As I stand in these hallowed halls of this House, this chapel of democracy, I ask You to give all those who have the responsibility to represent, provide, and protect we, the people, the courage, conscience, and heart to do the right thing by choosing the principled position over political posturing.

Lord God, allow these to enact the laws that will help and heal, not hurt and harm, we, the people. Give this august body the courage to decrease the divide between the haves and the have-nots, the conscience to consider all of our children as precious, and the heart to lead with love so that this House turns from a house of pain to one of purpose, of promise, and of productivity for we, the people.

Lord God, please bless Speaker Boehner; Leader Pelosi; my Congresswoman, Mrs. McCarthy; and all those who have the challenge to lead for such a time as this.

Lastly, Lord, before I ask You to continue to bless America, bless our President Barack Obama and all those who are in service to this great Nation. Teach us how to bless You, Lord, so that You, God, may continue to bless America.

It is in the name that is above every name that I offer up this petition to the Throne of Grace. I am speaking of my personal Lord and Savior; Jesus Christ is the name in which I pray.

And we all say together, amen.

THE JOURNAL
The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. McCarthy) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mrs. McCarthy of New York led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

WELCOMING REVEREND SERETTA MCKNIGHT
The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. McCarthy) is recognized for 1 minute.

There was no objection.

Mrs. McCarthy of New York. First of all, Mr. Speaker, I would like to certainly welcome the family and friends of our sister, Reverend Seretta McKnight, who just delivered that wonderful prayer opening today's session in the House of Representatives.

Reverend McKnight serves at the Union Baptist Church in Hempstead, New York, on Long Island. She is a product of the Roosevelt Public School System and is a graduate of Syracuse University. Currently, Reverend McKnight is a candidate for a master of divinity degree.

It has been my honor and pleasure to know Reverend McKnight for many years, and I take this time to recognize her for the outstanding service she has provided to local people throughout our unique district and organizations.

I want you to know that she has worked tirelessly with Sisters in the Struggle and several other community-based organizations. She focuses on programs for women and young people. Reverend Seretta McKnight is affectionately known as the "sister minister" to all who are enlivened by her sermons and wisdom.

Again, I thank Reverend McKnight, her family, her friends, and her mother for traveling to join us today in Washington. I salute her for her years of service to the people of the Fourth Congressional District and to the people of this country.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE
The SPEAKER pro tempore. After consultation among the Speaker and the majority and minority leaders, and with their consent, the Chair announces that, when the two Houses meet in joint meeting to hear an address by His Excellency Petro Poroshenko, President of Ukraine, only the doors immediately opposite the Speaker and those immediately to his left and right will be open.

No one will be allowed on the floor of the House who does not have the privilege of the floor of the House. Due to the large attendance that is anticipated, the rule regarding the privilege of the floor must be strictly enforced.
Mr. Speaker, I am grateful and fully aware that this honor goes not to me, but to the people of Ukraine, those brave men and women who are today on the forefront of the global fight for democracy. Forty-five million Ukrainian people are watching this speech in this session of the Congress, seeing and feeling our solidarity and our joint and common strength. And please allow me to speak on their behalf.

I will focus on the one thing that is at the core of Ukraine’s existence today: freedom. There are moments in history when freedom is more than just a political concept. At those moments, freedom becomes the ultimate choice which defines who you are as a person or as a nation.

Ukraine has lived this moment over the last 10 months and became the scene of the most heroic story of the last decade, a synonym for sacrifice, dedication, and the unbreakable will to live free.

The people of Ukraine stood up to the corrupt regime of Yanukovych. They stood their ground during this dramatic winter. More of you were together with us during the last winter, and I thank you for this very important—for us—gesture of solidarity.

The defenders of freedom were willing to sacrifice their lives for the sake of a better future. What is even more amazing is that we and we won. Armed with only sticks and shields, they attacked the special police and chased them away.

The victory gained on Independence Square in Kiev, now known to the whole world as the very international word of “Maidan,” was a victory against police brutality, harassment by the state-controlled media, violence, and intimidation.

There is nothing more impressive than seeing hundreds of thousands of peaceful people forcing out a violent dictator and changing the course of history—the second time in our history.

We call them the "Heavenly Hundred." We revere them as true national heroes, and we applaud their heroism.

Dear ladies and gentlemen, in February, when the world saw that no one could take away Ukraine's freedom, an external aggressor, decided to take away a part of Ukrainian territory. The annexation of Crimea became one of the most cynical acts of treachery in modern history.

I just want to call your attention to the fact that the United States gave up the had largest nuclear potential in exchange for security assurance and was stabbed in the back by one of the countries who gave her that assurance.

I certainly believe that the United States gave up the had largest nuclear potential in exchange for security assurance and was stabbed in the back by one of the countries who gave her that assurance.

with respect to further sanctions against the aggressor. Economic sanctions are important for many reasons. They help to distinguish between good and evil. They help us to defend and stand the moral high ground and not to sink into indifference or appeasement, as pragmatism.

I understand that the wars of the last decade have taken a heavy toll on the economy of the West. And I understand, believe me, that Americans and American citizens and American taxpayers want peace, not war. So do Ukrainian citizens and taxpayers. However, there are moments in history, whose importance cannot be measured solely in percentages of GDP growth.

Ukraine’s war is the only war of the last decade that is purely about values. Ukraine’s war is the war, again, for the freedom, democracy, and European values, and the best evidence of that is the number of members of the Ukrainian Parliament which fortified our association agreement with the European Union.

Our nation decided to be free and democratic. Another nation decided to punish Ukraine for this. The world simply cannot allow this kind of behavior. "Yes, first!”—this is the truth the world and the West would remind Ukraine of over the last years. Now it is Ukraine’s turn to remind the West of this truth.

All I must also say this. There is no way, at no price, and under no condition that we will ever put up with Crimea’s occupation. Ending the occupation and annulling the annexation is not only an integral precondition to a full normalization of the relation between Ukraine and Russia; it is also the integral precondition for Crimea’s own prosperity and modernization.

Until this precondition is fulfilled, I urge America and the world to stand united in sending a signal to the aggressors of today and of the future that the policy and practice of annexation will never be tolerated.

And clearly, I am not talking about a military solution of the Crimean problem. This will be a dilemma for many years; a choice between two ways of life; and two political, economic, and social systems. But I have no doubt that in the long run the system that offers the greater freedom will prevail. It always does.

Dear ladies and gentlemen, the last half year has been a time of ultimate challenge for millions of Ukrainians. It was a time for heroism and sacrifice. For too many, it became the ultimate sacrifice. Let me share with you two human stories that illustrate my point.

On March 3, when the occupation of Crimea just started, there was one man in the Crimean city of Simferopol who did the unthinkable. When millions felt paralyzed and stunned at what was unfolding before their eyes, Reshat Ametov, a 38-year-old father of three, decided not to be silent.

This brave son of the Crimean Tatar people went on a one-man protest in front of the occupied city hall. He did nothing more than hold a sheet of paper that said: “NO to Occupation!” A group of unknown people arrested him and transported him away—in the plain sight of dozens of witnesses, in front of TV cameras. Two weeks later, he was found tortured and executed—Mafia style.

Just the thought of this man’s final tormented minutes sends chills down my spine. I ask myself: what made this hero do what he did? And I can find no other answer than: he did it for freedom, so his children would not face slavery like that of a neo-Stalinist dictatorship.

I am convinced that years from now, when Crimea’s occupation will belong to the past, the Crimean people will think about what he did and salute his braveness—just like I do now.

And I assure you that Ukraine will always stand together with the Crimean Tatar people, whose language, rights, and culture are being trampled upon right now—as they were many years ago under Soviet rule.

I urge America and the world not to be silent about this. It is Ukrainians and Crimean Tatars who are being oppressed in Crimea right now.

And it is time for all the people of goodwill to rephrase John Kennedy’s words from over 50 years ago: “I am a Crimean Tatar”—and there is nothing that would make me give up my freedom.

And let me also commemorate another Ukrainian hero—Volodymyr Rybak, a 42-year-old father of two and a member of the municipal parliament of East Ukrainian Horlivka.

On April 15, he confronted separatists and Russian special operations officers over a separatist flag that they were trying to hoist atop the local administration building. Exactly just like Reshat Ametov, he was abducted and tortured. His last hours must have been unthinkable. His body was badly mutilated.

Today, I stand here in awe of this tragedy and of the courage and sacrifice of this man and of the courage and sacrifice of the millions of Ukrainians.

From the bottom of my heart, I deeply believe that there will be a time—and I am sure very soon—when Horlivka’s central square will be named after Volodymyr and when schoolchildren will bring flowers to his monument.

Dear ladies and gentlemen, make no mistake: Europe’s, and the world’s, choice right now is not the choice between a unipolar and a multipolar system. It is not the choice between different kinds of civilizations. It is a choice between civilization and barbarism.

And while standing at this juncture, before this great trial, the democratic world cannot hesitate. We don’t want to see all the democratic accomplishments of the last decades to be erased and to have been for nothing.

The free world must stand its ground. With America’s help, it will.

Yes, we live in a world that is mutually reliant and interconnected. In this world, the aggression on one democratic nation is aggression against all of us. We fully understand that.

If anyone had doubts about this—if anyone was hoping “to sit it out” while Ukrainians and Russians continue killing each other—this ended on July 17, when a Russian missile launched by a Russian mercenary shot down the civilian Boeing 777 Malaysian flight MH17. Two hundred and ninety-eight innocent, peaceful people, many of whom were flying on their vacations in the south, met their ultimate demise in the steppes of Ukraine.

Their cold-blooded killing—just like the barbaric treatment of their remains afterwards—showed that whoever floods Europe with uncontrolled weapons puts millions of lives at risk forever, for decades.

This was an undisputable brutal act of terror. Unfortunately, it was this tragedy that gave a wake-up call to many in the world about the situation in Ukraine.

Long after wars end, the fear and hate linger on.

How many more deaths will be caused by the handguns handed out, with absolutely no controls or accountability in those regions?

How many innocent children will step on landmines so massively utilized by the separatists?

How many lives will be ruined and souls poisoned by the propaganda machines?

The act of pumping the region full of uncontrolled arms represents a policy of state-funded terrorism—and it needs to stop now.

The cynical downing of the Malaysian Boeing revealed one more important thing: we are now at the forefront of the fight against the terrorism.

And we need to join our efforts to effectively respond to this challenge. With this said, people across the world are asking the same questions:

“Are we on the eve of a new cold war?”

“Is the possibility of a new, terrible, and unimaginable European war there?”

“Is what until recently seemed unthinkable now becoming a reality?”

Sadly, today, the answer to all of these questions is “yes.”

However, we cannot and must not accept this as an inevitability.

As recently as 2008, the then-President of Russia ran his election campaign under the slogan “Freedom is better than non-freedom.” And it was in Russia in the year 2008.

I am sure that, despite the Crimean annexation and the ongoing aggression, millions of Russians still remember that slogan and take it seriously.

Please, let’s remind them. Let’s show them that freedom is not a luxury—as some try to convince them—but a necessity, and a precondition for the true success of a nation.
I am convinced that the people of Ukraine and the people of Russia have enough goodwill to give peace one last chance and prevail against the spirit of hate between our countries. That is why my Presidency began with an open and a one-sided cease-fire, which will last a long 10 days, again, paying a very high price of the killing Ukrainian soldiers, hitting Ukrainian planes, and hundreds wounded. We keep this cease-fire a long 10 days.

Unfortunately, this was not accepted by Russian separatists. That is why we are holding our fire now. That is why two armies stand before each other without massively shedding each other’s blood. And if things work out right, they will not have to.

I am in daily contact with the leaders of the world, including the leader of Russia. The dialogue is not easy, believe me. Over these last months, too much goodwill was destroyed. Too much hate was generated, naturally and artificially. Too many people have died.

Based on that, I feel there is a growing mutual recognition that enough is enough; the bloodshed must stop. The pandemic of hate must be localized and contained.

As President, looking in the eyes of the mothers and wives of the dead soldiers and civilians, believe me, this is my hardest duty.

No one can take it lightly. Today, it is my burden and the burden of President Putin. As he light a candle in a Moscow church to remember those who perished in this war last week, I did the same in Kiev.

And from the bottom of my heart, I deeply, profoundly wish that church candles would be the only things burned in Ukraine from now on.

Over the last months, Ukrainians have shown that they have the courage to stand up to the most powerful enemy. We will never obey or bend to the aggressor. We are ready to fight, but we are a people of peace, and we extend the hand of peace to Russia and to the Russian-inspired separatists.

I am ready to do my utmost to avoid a further escalation and casualties, even at this point, when the war has already started feeding on itself.

Sooner or later, I am absolutely sure peace will return to Ukrainian homes and, despite the tragedy of this war, I am convinced that peace can be achieved sooner rather than later. I am ready to offer the separatists more rights than any part of Ukraine has ever had in the history of the nation.

I am ready to discuss anything—Ukrainian independence, Ukrainian territory, Ukrainian sovereignty—except one thing, Ukraine’s dismemberment. I am confident that, if this war is about the rights and not about the geopolitical ambitions, a solution must—and I am sure will—be found.

Ladies and gentlemen, in 1991, independence came to Ukraine at a very low cost and peacefully; yet the more real this independence became, the higher grew its cost. Today, that cost is as high as it gets.

While fighting this war, we learn to value independence and to recognize the true meaning of human dignity. We ever forget why we need independence. We need it to have a country worthy of the dreams of our ancestors. We need a state that would give its citizens a life of dignity, fairness, and equal opportunity.

To reach this goal, we will have to root out the sins that drained Ukraine’s potential for such a long time and made the two decades of independence a time of lost opportunities. We are painfully aware of these sins—largely inherited from the era of Soviet Union decay—corruption, bureaucracy, and the self-preserving cynicism of political elites.

There is a saying that each people deserve the government it gets. Ukraine’s two recent democracy will within a single decade show that Ukraine as a people is much better than Ukraine as a government. It shows that Ukraine needs and deserves deep and profound modernization in absolutely all spheres, of the kind you have brought economic success to Poland.

Given the current situation in and around Ukraine, the implementation of comprehensive reforms is not a matter of Ukraine succeeding but of Ukraine surviving. Deliberately aware of that, I gave my voters this pledge, and I will stick to it.

With the Ukraine-EU Association Agreement signed and ratified simultaneously in the Ukrainian and the European Parliament, we have a clear path to it.

Ukraine needs more than governance and noncorrupt public administration. Ukraine needs to delegate more powers to the local communities. Ukraine needs to rely more on its strong, vibrant, and dynamic civil society.

Ukraine is building a new model of managing its state and economic affairs, where merit and hard work are duly rewarded. Ukraine needs knowhow, technology, and new startups to become better integrated with the global economy. And, for all that, we need America’s help.

In particular, I ask the Congress to create a special fund to support investments of American companies in Ukraine and to help us with reforming our economy and our justice system. I assure you that all aid received from the West will be utilized by noncorrupt institutions and that the new generation of officials will make sure the funds are distributed effectively.

Ladies and gentlemen, we called our revolution the revolution of dignity. Human dignity was the driving force that took people to the streets. This revolution must result in an education of dignity, an economy of dignity, and a society of dignity.

Humans is what makes Ukraine’s heart beat and Ukraine’s mind look toward a new and better version of itself. Human dignity is the one thing we have to oppose the barbarism of those attacking us.

It is the one thing that we can set against the sea of lies in which the highly sophisticated and well-funded machine of Russian propaganda is trying to drown the truth about Ukrainian democracy.

In the coming years, too many things will depend on Ukrainian success. This success will be determined by Ukraine’s new leadership, by its new political generation, and by the newly mobilized society of Ukraine. Ukraine truly makes a difference.

By supporting Ukraine, you support a new future for Europe and the entire free world. By supporting Ukraine, you support a nation that has chosen freedom in the most cynical of times.

“Live free or die” was one of the mottos of the American Revolutionary War.

“Live free or die” was the spirit of the revolutionary Maidan during the dramatic winter months of 2014, with the significant presence of the Members of the United States Congress, and we thank you for that.

“Live free or die” are the words of Ukrainian soldiers standing on the line of resistance in this war.

“Live free” must be the answer with which Ukraine comes out of this war.

“Live free” must be the message that makes Ukraine and America send to the world, while standing together in this time of enormous challenge.

Thank you.

(Applause, the Members rising.)

At 11 o’clock and 1 minute a.m., His Excellency Petro Poroshenko, President of Ukraine, accompanied by the committee of escort, retired from the Hall of the House of Representatives.

The Assistant Sergeant at Arms escorted the invited guests from the Chamber in the following order:

The Members of the President’s Cabinet
The Acting Dean of the Diplomatic Corps.

JOINT MEETING DISSOLVED

The SPEAKER. The purpose of the joint meeting having been completed, the Chair declares the joint meeting of the two Houses now dissolved.
Accordingly (at 11 o’clock and 2 minutes a.m.), the joint meeting of the two Houses was dissolved.

The Members of the Senate retired to their Chamber.

The SPEAKER. The House will continue in recess subject to the call of the Chair.

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. KINGSTON) at 12 o’clock and 1 minute p.m.

PRINTING OF PROCEEDINGS HAD DURING RECESS

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the proceedings had during the recess be printed in the Record.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 2, AMERICAN ENERGY SOLUTIONS FOR LOWER COSTS AND MORE AMERICAN JOBS ACT; PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 4, JOBS FOR AMERICA ACT; AND PROVIDING FOR PROCEEDINGS DURING THE PERIOD FROM SEPTEMBER 22, 2014, THROUGH NOVEMBER 11, 2014

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 727 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. Res. 727

Resolved, That upon adoption of this resolution it shall be in order to consider in the House the bill (H.R. 2) to remove Federal Government obstacles to the production of more domestic energy; to ensure transport of energy reliably to businesses, consumers, and other end users; to lower the cost of energy to consumers; to enable manufacturers and other businesses to access domestically produced energy affordably and reliably in order to create and sustain more secure and well-paying American jobs; and for other purposes. All points of order against consideration of the bill are waived. The bill shall be considered as read. All points of order against provisions in the bill are waived. The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill and on any amendment thereto to final passage without intervening motion except: (2) two hours of debate equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Ways and Means or their respective designees; and (2) one motion to recommit.

Sect. 3. On any legislative day during the period from September 22, 2014, through November 11, 2014—

(a) the Journal of the proceedings of the previous day shall be considered as approved; and

(b) the Chair may at any time declare the House adjourned to meet at a date and time, within the limits of clause 4, section 5, article I of the Constitution, to be announced by the Chair in declaring the adjournment.

Sect. 4. The Speaker pro tempore to perform the duties of the Chair for the duration of the period addressed by section 3 of this resolution as though under clause 8(a) of rule 1.

Sect. 5. Each day during the period addressed by section 3 of this resolution shall not constitute a calendar day for purposes of section 7 of the War Powers Resolution (50 U.S.C. 1546).

Sect. 6. Each day during the period addressed by section 3 of this resolution shall not constitute a legislative day for purposes of clause 7 of rule XIII.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. POLIS), my friend, pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, today, the House is considering a rule for the consideration of two bills, a package to boost America’s energy production and a package to jump-start our American economy. Combined, these bills will help get America back to work with an America that we can afford.

First, the rule provides for consideration of H.R. 2, the American Energy Solutions for Lower Costs and More American Jobs Act.

This bill would accomplish three important goals for the American family: first, it would create up to 1.2 million good-paying jobs for Americans who are out of work or who are underemployed; second, it would lower—energy prices in America; third, it would draw our country closer to an important goal that we should all share, and that is American energy independence.

Let’s start by identifying the problem. The facts of the case are that the Federal Government is standing in the way of an American energy boom. That means they are standing in the way of American progress and progress for Americans to have jobs and a better life.

For over 6 years, the American people have waited for this administration to approve construction of the Keystone pipeline. Unfortunately, the approval process has been marred by indecision and unnecessary delays.

First, opponents of the pipeline argue that it would be an environmental disaster, but since the major environmental concerns surrounding the project have not been only addressed, but debugged.

Second, opponents of the pipeline argue that it was unsafe; yet study after study after study have shown the pipeline to be safe and an effective means to transport much-needed energy for America’s resources.

The opponents of the Keystone pipeline have run out of excuses, but they continue to delay a decision.

Then there is the Department of Energy, which has been far too slow in approving applications to export liquefied natural gas. The Department has decided on only nine applications submitted to it for the last 4 years.

Twenty-six applications still await action—many, many of which have been delayed by this administration for purely political reasons—another reason to say they are getting in the way of Americans having jobs today. They are getting in the way of American independence for energy.

As a result of these delays, America is squandering an energy boom that could make America, which is the largest producer of natural gas, even better and add to the American economy.

The Department’s broken application process destroys good-paying jobs and hampers our economic growth. The energy revolution already supports 1.7 million high-paying, great jobs in America, and we could add an additional 1.3 million new American high-paying jobs by 2020, but only if the Federal Government will get out of the way of its development.

It also allows our international competitors, such as Russia and Iran, not to be dominant in the marketplace and not to use domination for political power and economic power over other countries in Europe.

The Federal Government has ruled 87 percent of our offshore acreage currently off-limits to energy production. Even worse, the administration doesn’t have a plan to develop these resources. In fact, the administration’s offshore leasing plan for the next 3 years offers no new areas for lease and includes the lowest number of lease sales in history.

This administration’s no new drilling policies have cost Americans jobs. We have forfeited revenue that would help us pay down our national debt and decrease our reliance on foreign sources. More importantly, the American consumer continues to pay higher prices at the pump, nearly
Mr. Speaker, I rise today in opposition to the rule and the underlying bills, the so-called American Energy Solutions for Lower Costs and More American Jobs Act—it is H.R. 2—and the Jobs for America, so-called, Act, H.R. 4. Don’t let the titles of these bills fool you. H.R. 2 and H.R. 4 won’t create any new jobs but would continue to degrade the quality of life and health of the American people.

These bills put more money in the pockets of big industry, corporate welfare, undermine the efficiency of our regulatory activities, and continue to stall for the future of the middle class, while they continue to enrich international conglomerates and corporations.

Not only are these bills bad, but I should add, Mr. Speaker, the House has already voted on all of these bills that are already included in H.R. 2 and H.R. 4 this session—just another waste of taxpayer time and money here debating and voting on bills that have already been passed. Just as the Republican Party is saying that the Affordable Care Act 53 times, so too we are passing many of these bills for the second time here today if that is the decision the House chooses to make.

Now, I think it is clear, all of us here know, that the current law, that the Senate did not take them up after the House passed them. There is no indication or reason to believe that in this new configuration and being lumped together in new and more sinister ways that the Senate will react any more positively.

Sadly, it is quite clear that the majority here in the House are either unable or unwilling to bring forth fresh ideas to jump-start the middle class.

These bills instead are bound to political pandering, rewarding of campaign donors and large corporations in advance of elections, instead of taking advantage of our precious few remaining days of session to address the real problems faced by the American people.

I am also dismayed that both of these bills are being reviewed under a closed rule here today. It was fairly recently here on the floor of the House that we celebrated the diamond jubilee of closed rules, 75 closed rules from the Republican Party. H.R. 2 and H.R. 4 are the 76th and 77th closed rules this Congress. Just before this Chamber breaks for a 6-week-long recess, the majority has shut down the process of regular order and not allowed Republicans or Democrats to make our amendments to improve these bills.

Even though they are not bringing new legislation before us today, we should at least allow—at least allow—Democrats and Republicans to offer their ideas to make these bills better. What is the point in passing the exact same bills without even giving Members of this body the ability to make them better?

I offered two amendments in this bill, which I will speak about later, but, unfortunately, neither was made in order. Other Members of this body also offered great ideas to help improve this legislation, but none were allowed. Instead, we have a restricted rule which has shut out debate from Members on both sides of the aisle. If we can defeat this rule, we can move forward with an open process, encouraging and allowing amendments from both sides of the aisle.

We don’t have the precious time left for political posturing. While we were talking here now, I got a text on my phone that votes are, in fact, canceled for tomorrow. I am not sure if my colleague Mr. Speaker is aware of that. It may be the last day that we are in session before the election.

And yet instead of dealing with immigration reform, there is a bill to pass of more than two-thirds. Instead of protecting LGBT Americans from being fired from their job just because of who they love or who they are, here we are today bringing forward bills that have already passed in different configurations, that would hurt the American people.

This compilation of bills in H.R. 2 is really an oil and gas industry wish list. Now, of course all of us support responsible energy development on Federal lands and private lands, make sure we balance production with our quality of life and health. This bill, however, would prioritize development over all other uses of land and all other values that we hold as a country. This bill would also reduce important protections that we have in favor of speculative energy exploration and development.

Now is not the time to pass a massive corporate giveaway bill to the oil and gas industry, an industry that is already very profitable. They don’t need more taxpayer subsidies just to add to their bottom line, especially not at the expense of our health, our environment, and the enjoyment of our public lands and our quality of life.

While there are many problematic provisions in the bill, several are particularly concerning. One provision in the bill would streamline pipeline approvals, so would allow for the automatic approval of natural gas pipeline projects without any impact studies or opportunities for public comment.

This bill would also discourage environmental analysis, undermine agency decisions like curbing carbon pollution, and yet another provision would prevent the Federal Government from overseeing fracking activities on Federal lands, an issue near and dear to the hearts of my constituents in the State of Colorado.

It is particularly egregious that given that bill has a wish list from the oil and gas industry, that somehow, for those of us who support an all-of-the-above energy approach, it left out the wind energy production tax credit.
The wind production tax credit is a solution that has allowed for rapid scaling of wind power over the past couple of decades. So why would we be doubling down with taxpayer subsidies for the oil and gas industry at the same time we are not even renewing the one important subsidy that wind energy has?

Now, I offered two different solutions for this, and I was hoping either one of them would have been a constructive way to approach this on the floor of the House. And I had an amendment with Mr. PERLMUTTER to simply extend the wind production tax credit for the next 2 years. Now, that would create jobs, encourage private investment, and allow wind energy to compete on a level playing field with the heavily subsidized oil and gas industry.

I also offered another solution—and I am certainly willing to support either—and that solution would be to eliminate the over $40 billion in taxpayer subsidies to the oil and gas industry. If we had gone that route, again, at least wind and solar energy would be able to compete on a level playing field because we would stop doling out our precious taxpayer dollars to an industry that has had record low approval ratings: rehashed, repackaged, partisan bills costing taxpayers $574 billion, enriching the special interests in corporations, and then going on vacation. And people wonder why the American people aren’t thrilled with the United States Congress.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, at this time I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Hooch River, Oregon. (Mr. WALDEN)

Mr. WALDEN. Mr. Speaker, the chairman of the Rules Committee has once. It doesn’t have to be this way. We have another bill coming up later on, H.R. 4, the Jobs for America Act, is a group of 15 bills that have also been previously passed by the House. Many of them serve to attack our processes we have in place to keep American consumers safe. The bill empowers polluters, bogs down agencies that are charged with protecting the public health. None of them have become law, having already been passed, and I think all my colleagues here know that none of them will become law in this new and more sinister configuration.

Now, I would love to see a balanced tax extender package that lowers the Federal deficit, strengthens our economy, can actually pass the Senate and be signed into law, but I think we all know that is not the bill before us today.

H.R. 4 would actually add to the deficit, by breaking tax cuts for many special interests permanent. A $574 billion deficit-busting bill on our last day of session, what a great lead-in to the general election for the Republicans to present a massive, Big Government spending, $574 billion subsidy bill for our consideration. I think the American people understand the contrast and the different approaches that are in play this year.

Now, an amendment I offered, with Mr. BLUMENAUER, which I mentioned earlier, would have offset some of that cost by eliminating the oil and gas industry subsidies to the tune of $40 billion. Now, the bill still would have cost $534 billion, but it would have cost $40 billion less if we had eliminated the oil and gas subsidies. But, again, apparently having a Friday off is more important to my colleagues on the other side of the aisle than having a full and open debate of the merits or lack of merits of this proposal I advanced with Mr. BLUMENAUER.

In summary, I oppose the closed rule in addition to the underlying bills.

Now, we could have shown the American people what would happen end on a positive note, that we could come together and address our broken immigration system, that we could come together to address our deficit; but, instead, we are providing yet another example of why Congress continues to have record low approval ratings: rehashed, repackaged, partisan bills costing taxpayers $574 billion, enriching the special interests in corporations, and then going on vacation. And people wonder why the American people aren’t thrilled with the United States Congress.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. W. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, at this time I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Hooch River, Oregon. (Mr. WALDEN)

Mr. WALDEN. Mr. Speaker, the chairman of the Rules Committee has actually read the bills that are in this package and knows that they are much more than what my colleague and friend from Colorado just described. Because actually, the forestry legislation is something that passed this House 363 days ago in a big bipartisan vote, a big portion of which was written by my Democratic friends PETTER DEFAZIO and KURT SCHRAIDER. That is in this package.

We have another bill coming up later that has twice passed this House unanimously. Those aren’t partisan bills that I represent. I yield my time. Mr. POLIS, to reward donors or anything else. This is about creating jobs in America.

By the way, lots of parts of the world, like my district, need jobs. They need the certainty of jobs. And I don’t know about Colorado, but Oregon and California and a lot of places are going up in smoke, choked with smoke because of forest fires.

The legislation in this package that we are about to over to the Senate one more time, thanks to this rule and thanks to the leadership of this chairman, would allow us to get people back to work in the woods, address the problems of these fires, produce revenues for schoolteachers, for sheriffs and sheriff’s deputies, for search and rescue, for all the basic, fundamental services that matter in rural communities and, I think, matter across the West.

So, if you don’t believe in taking care of your forests, then vote “no” on this rule.

Mr. Speaker, 363 days ago, the House passed H.R. 1526, the Restoring Healthy Forests for Healthy Communities Act. Two days short of a year, the Senate has done nothing—nothing. They failed to pass a single active forestry bill—nothing. Our forests are going up in smoke. We are spending taxpayer dollars to fight the fires, the fires have devastating watersheds. This has to change.

The Federal Government controls over 50 percent of the land in Oregon. In 10 of the 20 counties I represent, they control over half the land. Over the last 30 years, timber harvests on these lands, these Federal lands, has been decreased by 90 percent—nine-zero. Forests aren’t static; they keep growing and they keep dying. We get beetle infestations; we get drought; and then we get fire. Nothing happens after the fire, other than the trees sit there and burn. Then they die; then they rot; then they fall over. There is no productive use. All that needs to change.

A ninety percent reduction in harvest of Federal lands.

Do you know what that means out in our areas where the Federal Government is supposed to be the steward? It means that we haven’t generated and 30,000 American jobs—30,000 American jobs. These are jobs bills we are talking about here. These same rural areas that I represent have poverty rates at 20, 25, 30, even as high as 33.9 percent in Josephine County, right down in here, 33.9.

You want to do something about poverty? Create a job. You want to do something about getting America on track? Pass these bills. We will create jobs. We will generate revenue. We will have positive cash flow in this country for once. It doesn’t have to be this way. We can put people back to work. So Chairman HASTINGS and Chairman BISHOP and myself and others worked on the bipartisan forestry legislation.

As I mentioned, we actually have run this bill through an independent evaluation process to say what does this mean for the people, because there is a portion here that relates just to the O&C lands which are only in Oregon. Democratic Governor—Democratic Governor—John Kitzhaber, his team took a look at our bipartisan bill, and they concluded that it would create or save 3,000 Oregon jobs. These are real jobs. These are real people. These are real families that have been suffering: Three thousand Oregon jobs. They would generate $100 million in revenue or thereabouts. That would pay—pay—for basic services, pay for basic services. 500 million board-feet of timber a year would be harvested. It would be predictable. You would have a privatization agreement.

Twentynine Oregon counties, from Klamath, to Hood River, to Wallowa, including all 20 in my district, 29 Oregon counties passed resolutions supporting this bipartisan legislation. We passed it 363 days ago. The Senate, I don’t know what they do over there, not much productive. We are going to give them another chance.
Yes, the House has passed these bills before. Yes, they passed in a bipartisan manner. We are at the end of our legislative session. It is time, one more time, to make another attempt to pass this into law, to wake up the Senate, to get them to do the right thing.

So support the rule. Let’s move forward. We don’t need more partisan rhetoric here. We need to help America get on its feet. We need to take better care of our forests. We need to take better care of our watersheds. We need to put people back to work in America. And that is what these bills do.

Mr. POLIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MCGOVERN), my colleague on the Rules Committee.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this rule. And for the benefit of my colleagues, I want to be very clear about one of the implications of the language in this rule that is before us.

A vote for this rule is a vote to shut off the mechanisms of the War Powers Resolution for the next 2 months. If any Member of this House has any concerns about the ongoing military operations in Iraq, the potential of U.S. military airstrikes in Syria, or the possible introduction of U.S. combat ground forces into either country, then this rule will tie their hands for the next 2 months.

If any Member introduces a privileged resolution under the terms of the War Powers Resolution, this rule freezes that resolution in place and stops the clock that would normally advance under the War Powers Resolution.

It is perfectly clear that the House will not debate and vote on an authorization for war in Iraq at this time. Unfortunately, it is not clear if any vote will ever happen at any time in this House, even after we come back in November, even though there is a growing bipartisan consensus that such an authorization is needed.

This rule freezes out each and every Member of this House from taking any action to move forward the possibility of a vote on Iraq or Syria under the terms put in place by the War Powers Resolution.

On August 8, the U.S. began daily bombing in Iraq—at first to protect the Yazidis trapped on Mount Sinjar. But almost immediately, the bombing campaign expanded to include infrastructure, and then to provide air support to ground forces into either country, then to protect a major infrastructure, and this week to dislodge ISIL from the environs of Baghdad. For 6 weeks, I have been waiting patiently for the leadership of this House to recognize what we all know is true: the United States is engaged in hostilities and carrying out sustained combat operations in Iraq and that it is time for the House to debate and vote on an authorization.

Yesterday, this House voted to authorize training and equipping Syrian opposition forces. But we have yet to debate and vote on an authorization for the combat operations we are already carrying out. Over 150 air-strikes—bombs falling nearly every day—in Iraq. And if that doesn’t count as sustained combat, then I don’t know what the hell does.

I hear the debate is drafting an authorization, but no such leadership is happening here in the House. The Speaker says he is waiting for the White House to send a request for an authorization to the House. But as I have said before, the President has stated that he thinks he has all the authority in the world that he needs or wants. It is Congress that is failing to carry out its constitutional responsibilities. It is Congress that is shirking its duties. It is Congress that is stopping from the sidelines while avoiding any responsibility for the service-men and -women that we are placing in harm’s way.

In July, this House overwhelmingly passed a resolution that I offered, along with Walter Jones and Barbara Lee, requiring the House to vote on an authorization. And I have been waiting—patiently and respectfully—for the Speaker to schedule such a vote.

Instead, this rule goes in the opposite direction, shutting down the ability of any Member to introduce a privileged resolution and allowing it to mature, as we set forth in the War Powers Resolution.

Now, I understand that this restriction is often included when Congress is in recess for a prolonged period of time. But this time is different, Mr. Speaker, and every Member of this Chamber knows it is different.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. POLIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield an additional 1 minute to the gentleman.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Not only are we engaged in sustained combat operations in Iraq, but the President announced last week that he intends to escalate and expand those military operations, and quite likely extend them to Syria. This is a moment in history when the House should not and must not remain silent, let alone slip out of town. We have a responsibility to respond to this threat.

Until that happens, until we get an ironclad commitment from the leadership of this House that we will debate and vote on an authorization, then I would urge my colleagues to vote down this rule. We have a constitutional responsibility when it comes to war.

Now, I don’t believe we should go into another war, but whether you agree with me or you think we should launch into another war, we have an obligation, a constitutional responsibility and vote on that authorization. We are not doing that. I urge the Speaker to give us that commitment.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The gentleman from Massachusetts well understands that we handled a privileged resolution on the floor where there was a vote a little bit more than a week ago before the vote on Syria.

What the gentleman wants to do is bring Congress back to come and grandstand on the floor for a privileged resolution during the break. The gentleman well understands the rules of the House, the privileges that he is giving a Member and he knows that he has approached me numerous times, as well as the Speaker of the House, who has offered the gentleman every opportunity, under the rules of the House, that any Member would have.

What this very clearly says is we will not start that clock while we are on recess. That is a normal and regular thing for the House to do, for the rules of this House to protect all the Members.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I yield? Mr. SESSIONS. I see no reason to. The gentleman just had time and spoke his words. I thank the gentleman very much.

This time, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from Grandfather Community, North Carolina (Ms. FOXX), the vice chairman of the Rules Committee.

Ms. FOXX. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

The rule is obviously about jobs. It is in addition to its benefits should not be measured in dollars and jobs—that Federal mandates that make it harder for businesses to hire and cash-strapped States, counties, and cities to serve their citizens.

There are some who may not understand why a bill to improve the regulatory process is also a bill about jobs. As a former small business owner, I understand firsthand the concerns job creators have about how lengthy, confusing rules affect their ability to conduct business and provide jobs and opportunities to their employees.

That is why I introduced H.R. 899, the Unfunded Mandates Information and Transparency Act, which we call UMITA, and am glad to see it included in H.R. 4, the Jobs for America Act.

The bill builds upon the bipartisan 1995 Unfunded Mandates Reform Act, also known as UMRA, and will ensure awareness and public disclosure of the cost—in dollars and jobs—that Federal dictates pose to the economy and local governments.

H.R. 899, as included in H.R. 4, does not seek to prevent the Federal Government from regulating. Rather, it seeks to ensure that its regulations are deliberative and economically defensible.

Asking regulators to thoroughly consider and understand the costs of a rule in addition to its benefits should not be

I urge my colleagues to vote “yes” on the rule and the underlying bill.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

I won’t need 1 1⁄2 minutes, but I want to be clear for Members. The privileges are afforded to Members of this House to vote on the war, those privileges are taken away by this rule.

I want to assure the gentleman from Texas, my colleague and my friend, that I am not interested in grandstanding, and any such a suggestion I find offensive, quite frankly. What I am interested in is us doing our job.

And I want to remind my colleagues that war is a big deal. It is a big deal, and it is long past time that this House treated it as such. We have a constitutional responsibility that we are not living up to.

We voted in July overwhelmingly to say that if there are sustained combat operations in Iraq we are going to have a vote on this. Well, there are sustained combat operations in Iraq. We are much more deeply involved today than we were in July. And I predict by the time we come back in November we will be even more deeply involved.

When are we going to do our job? When are we going to vote? That is what my complaint is about. I would say to the gentleman from Texas. My complaint is that we are not living up to our responsibilities.

I thank the gentleman from Colorado for yielding.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I yield

5 minutes to the gentleman from Georgia, and Mr. COLLINS of Georgia. Mr. Speaker,

I appreciate the chairman for yield-

I appreciate the opportunity to speak on this rule and the underlying legisla-

I support these bills that the House will debate and vote on because they will make a difference in the lives of moms and dads who can’t afford life and everything that it entails.

Mr. Speaker, America is searching for the things that matter. They are wanting their government to work and they are wanting their government to

They have broke a breach of faith with us.

I believe when we decide that government should be about the people and for the people, then we are doing exactly what we are supposed to be doing; and that is for liberty and courage, as our Founders said, the pursuit of happiness and not the guarantee of happiness.

When we do that, Mr. Speaker, that is Republican principles at play, that is Republican solutions, and that is what these bills offer today.

Do buy the other argument. Buy the Republican principles that we will help those who need help, and that is the American citizen. That is what I believe in. That is the government I want to see work, not one that hinders people.

Mr. POLIS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire if the gentleman has any remaining speakers.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman have the floor?

Mr. POLIS. Mr. Speaker, I am prepared to close.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to bring up H.R. 15, the comprehensive immigration reform bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Texas yield for the purpose of this unanimous consent request?

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I do not.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas does not yield. Therefore, the unanimous consent request cannot be entertained.

Mr. POLIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I thought it was worth a try here to reduce the deficit by over $200 billion, create several hundred thousand jobs for Americans, secure our border and restore the rule of law but, apparently, going on vacation on Friday is more important.

These are likely the last votes that this Chamber will take before the election. Unfortunately, rather than move forward on protecting our borders, rather than move forward on reducing our deficit, rather than move forward on so many of the important national priorities we have, we are simply taking up bills that have already passed, reconsidering them under new and different ways. There is a word for this kind of legislative activity, and it isn’t “governing.” It is called “pandering.”

Rather than spinning our wheels, we should have taken up the bipartisan comprehensive immigration reform bill. I was hoping that I could have gotten the permission under unanimous consent to bring that up. I am confident we have strong support from Democrats and Republicans in this body to pass that bill and to send it on into law.

Unfortunately, more than a year after the Senate has passed immigration reform, the House still refuses to even take up our bipartisan immigration reform bill that secures our borders and restores the rule of law, reduces our deficit, and creates jobs for Americans; instead, the only votes the House has taken this year on the entire topic of our immigration reform have been to subject DREAMers—who grew up here and know no other country—to deportation and send immigrant children fleeing violence back to their countries, where they face possible persecution or death. Rather than continuing to waste the American people’s time and taxpayer money debating recycled measures over and over again, I wanted to give this body, through my unanimous consent request, one more opportunity to tackle an issue that will get larger and harder to deal with the longer we wait, and that is immigration.

If there are 10 million people here illegally today, Mr. Speaker, if this body continues to try to make us make to bring up a law that would secure our borders and restore the rule of law, there is likely to be 15 million people here illegally in 10 years. You can count on it.

This Nation deserves to have secure borders, we deserve to restore the rule of law, and we deserve to reflect our values as a Nation in our immigration system. I know we have the votes for this bill.

I urge my colleagues to change their plans for tomorrow and, instead, allow us to come back and pass immigration reform so that we can finally solve this issue for our country, restore the rule of law, and end this Congress on a positive note.

Mr. Speaker, if we defeat the previous question, I will offer an amendment to the rule that will allow the House to consider six separate pieces of legislation that are true priorities for jump-starting the middle class: the Paycheck Fairness Act, the Fair Minimum Wage Act, the Bank on Students Emergency Loan Refinancing Act, the Healthy Families Act, the Strong Start for America’s Children Act, and the Bring Jobs Home Act.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert the text of my amendment in the RECORD, along with extraneous material, immediately prior to the vote on the previous question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

There was no objection.

Mr. POLIS. Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote “no” to defeat the previous question. I urge a “no” vote on the rule.
the world are growing, we are finding that our country is stuck at an average rate of 2.2 percent.

We have other countries, for instance, like India, which has a 5 percent growth; Russia has surpassed ours over the last 4 years; and China finds its TDE per capita dropping for the last 2 years; and we are finding that, quarter after quarter, America is even or below, only to ‘‘roar’’ back at a 2 percent level.

Ladies and gentlemen, Members of the House, a package on the floor today is about to talk about our ability—America—to be competitive with the world so that America’s businesses and America’s employers find work not only in America but compete on a global basis.

What Republicans are talking about today is a chance to have America gain back its footing, not with supremacy, but with competitiveness on a world stage, in a world market, where American businesses and American workers—just manufacturing, but other important intellectual properties—are sold to the world.

When America is at its very best, we are leaders in not just freedom but also in economic opportunity, and it spurs competitors around the globe.

Mr. Speaker, what we are about today in our closing is that the Republican Party, through our great Speaker, JOHN BOEHNER, is sending a strong message to the American people that we in the House and representatives recognize that for America to be competitive, for America’s greatest days to be in our future, we must have a comprehensive view of not just the world and our competitiveness, but an opportunity for its citizens—as Congressman COLLINS has said today—to find work, to be entrepreneurial, and to move our country and the world forward. I believe that what we are talking about today makes a difference.

I urge all colleagues to vote ‘‘yes’’ on this resolution, ‘‘yes’’ on the underlying legislation.

The material previously referred to by Mr. POLIS is as follows:

AN AMENDMENT TO H. RRS. 727 OFFERED BY REPRESENTATIVES OF COLORADO

At the end of the resolution, add the following new sections:

SEC. 7. Immediately upon adoption of this resolution the Speaker shall, pursuant to clause 1 of rule XIV, declare the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for consideration of the bill (H.R. 377) to amend the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 to provide more effective remedies to victims of discrimination in the payment of wages on the basis of sex, and for other purposes. The first reading of the joint resolution shall be dispensed with. All points of order against consideration of the joint resolution are waived. General debate shall be confined to the joint resolution and amendments thereto to final passage without intervening motion except one motion to recommit with or without instructions. If the Committee of the Whole rises and reports that it has come to no resolution on the bill, then on the next legislative day the House shall, immediately after the third daily order of business under clause 2(b) of rule XVIII, declare the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for consideration of the bill (H.R. 1010) to provide for an increase in the Federal minimum wage. The first reading of the bill shall be dispensed with. All points of order against consideration of the bill are waived. General debate shall be confined to the bill and shall not exceed one hour equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce. After general debate the bill shall be considered for amendment under the five-minute rule. All points of order against consideration of the joint resolution are waived. General debate shall be confined to the bill and shall not exceed one hour equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce. After the conclusion of consideration of the bill, the Speaker shall, pursuant to clause 2(b) of rule XVIII, declare the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for consideration of the bill (H.R. 851) to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to encourage domestic insourcing and discourage foreign outsourcing. All points of order against consideration of the bill are waived. General debate shall be confined to the bill and shall not exceed one hour equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform. After general debate the bill shall be considered for amendment under the five-minute rule.

SEC. 8. Immediately upon disposition of H.R. 377, the Speaker shall, pursuant to clause 2(b) of rule XVIII, declare the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for consideration of the bill (H.R. 1286) to allow Americans to earn paid sick time so that they can address their own health needs and the health needs of their families. All points of order against consideration of the bill are waived. General debate shall be confined to the bill and shall not exceed one hour equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform, and the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform. After general debate the bill shall be considered for amendment under the five-minute rule. minute rule. All points of order against provisions in the bill are waived. At the conclusion of consideration of the bill for amendment the Committee shall rise and report the bill to the House with such amendments as may have been adopted. The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill and amendments thereto to final passage without intervening motion except one motion to recommit with or without instructions. If the Committee of the Whole rises and reports that it has come to no resolution on the bill, then on the next legislative day the House shall, immediately after the third daily order of business under clause 1 of rule XIV, resolve into the Committee of the Whole for further consideration of the bill.

Sec. 13. Clause 1(c) of rule XIX shall not apply to the consideration of H.R. 377, H.R. 1010, H.R. 4582, H.R. 1286, H.R. 3461, or H.R. 851.

THE VOTE ON THE PREVIOUS QUESTION: WHAT IT REALLY MEANS

This vote, the vote on whether to order the previous question on a special rule, is not merely a procedural vote. A vote against ordering the previous question is a vote against the Republican majority agenda and a vote to allow the Democratic minority to order an alternative plan. It is a vote about what the House should be debating.

Mr. Clarence Cannon’s Precedents of the House of Representatives (VI, 308-311), describes the vote on the previous question on the rule as “a motion to direct or control the consideration of the subject before the House being made by the Member in charge.” To defeat the previous question is to give the opposition a chance to decide the subject before the House. Cannon cites the Speaker’s ruling of January 13, 1920, to the effect that “the refusal of the House to sustain the demand for the previous question passes the control of the resolution to the opposition” in order to offer an amendment. On March 15, 1909, a member of the majority offered a rule resolution. The House defeated the previous question and a member of the opposition rose to a parliamentary inquiry, asking who was entitled to recognition. Speaker Joseph G. Cannon (R-Illinois) said: “The previous question having been refused, the gentleman from New York, Mr. Fitzgerald, who had asked the gentleman to yield to him for an amendment, is entitled to the first recognition.”

The Republican majority may say “the vote on the previous question is simply a vote on whether to proceed to an immediate vote on adopting the resolution . . . [and] has no substantive legislative or policy implications whatsoever.” But that is not what they have always said. Listen to the Republican Leadership Manual on the Legislative Process in the United States House of Representatives, (6th edition, page 135). Here’s how the Republicans describe the previous question vote in their own manual: “Al-though it is generally not possible to amend the rule because the majority Member controlling the time will not yield for the purpose of offering an amendment, the same result may be achieved by voting down the previous question on the rule . . . When the motion for the previous question is defeated, control of the time passes to the Member who led the opposition to ordering the previous question, that Member, because he then controls the time, may offer an amendment to the rule, or yield for the purpose of amendment.”

In Deschler’s Procedure in the U.S. House of Representatives, the subchapter titled “Amending Special Rules” states: “a refusal to order the previous question on such a rule [a special rule reported from the Committee on Rules] opens the resolution to amendment and further debate.” (Chapter 21, section 21.2) Section 21.3 continues: “Upon rejection of the motion for the previous question on a resolution reported from the Committee on Rules, control shifts to the Member leading the opposition to the previous question, who may offer a proper amendment or motion and who controls the time for debate thereon.”

Clearly, the vote on the previous question on a rule does have substantive policy implications. It is one of the only available tools for those who oppose the Republican majority’s agenda and allows those with alternate views the opportunity to offer an alternative plan.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on ordering the previous question.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. POLIS. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CHAIR OF COMMITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION AND INFRASTRUCTURE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the chair of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure; which was read and, without objection, referred to the Committee on Appropriations:

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CHAIR OF COMMITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION AND INFRASTRUCTURE

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: On September 17, 2014, pursuant to section 3307 of Title 40, United States Code, the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure met in open session to consider resolutions to authorize 12 prospectuses. These 12 prospectuses include two alteration projects, one construction project, and three leases included in the General Services Administration’s (GSA) FY 2014 and FY 2015 Capital Investment and Leasing Programs. Six of the prospectuses were included in the Department of Veterans Affairs Construction, Long Range Capital Plans. At the request of the Department of Veterans Affairs, the Committee authorized the leases to be executed pursuant to GSA’s leasing authority in accordance with the provisions of the Public Buildings Act.

Our Committee continues to work to cut waste and the cost of federal property and leases. The resolutions include space reductions, consolidations into government-owned space, and reduction in project scopes, saving $225 million in avoided lease costs.

I have enclosed copies of the resolutions adopted by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure on September 17, 2014.

Sincerely,

BILL SHUSTER,
Chairman.

Enclosures.

COMMITTEE RESOLUTION

ALTERATION—EDWARD J. SCHWARTZ FEDERAL BUILDING AND U.S. COURTHOUSE, SAN DIEGO, CA

Resolved by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the U.S. House of Representatives, that pursuant to 40 U.S.C. §3307, appropriations are authorized for repairs and alterations for the reconfiguration and alteration of space in the Edward J. Schwartz Federal Building and U.S. Courthouse located at 800 Front Street in San Diego, California to consolidate the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement and backfill other tenant agencies, at a design and review cost of $1,997,317, an estimated construction cost of $16,042,940 and a management and inspection cost of $1,688,743 for a total estimated project cost of $19,729,000, a prospectus for which is attached to and included in this resolution. This resolution authorizes the prospectus as amended by the FY2014 Expenditures Plans for Major Repairs and Alterations Program submitted by the General Services Administration on February 7, 2014 and the revised Housing Plan dated August 2014.

Provided, that the General Services Administration shall not delegate to any other agency the authority granted by this resolution.

FY2014 Project Summary

The General Services Administration (GSA) proposes a repair and alteration project for the reconfiguration and alteration of space in the Edward J. Schwartz Federal Building and US Courthouse (Schwartz FB-CT) to consolidate the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement Agency (ICE) and backfill other tenant agencies in space vacated by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and portions of the District Court upon their move to the new San Diego courthouse annex during the first quarter of FY2013. Approximately 184,000 rentable square feet (rsf) of space will be backfilled, building security will be improved to meet tenant requirements, and several of the building systems will be upgraded.

A prospectus for design was submitted in FY2011 which included a full modernization project for the Edward J. Schwartz Federal Building and US Courthouse with an estimated total project cost (ETPC) of $213,056,000. The project was not fully approved at the time. In an attempt to address only the most critical life safety components of the full modernization project and to allow ICE to collocate 3 leased locations into a Federal building, the proposed project has been reduced in scope and cost with a revised cost of $61,136,000.

The project will satisfy ICE's need for approximately 157,000 RSF to consolidate its regional operations from three leased locations. In addition to ICE, components of the Executive Office of Immigration Review, US Attorneys, US Trustees, Magistrate Court, US Bankruptcy Clerk, and Federal Protective Service will backfill the vacant space from leased locations. The backfill will allow the Government to release leased space, reducing the Government’s rental payments to the private sector by over $2,000,000 annually.

Building

The 625,715 rentable square foot (rsf) Edward J. Schwartz Federal Building and US Courthouse, at 880 Front St. in downtown San Diego, was built in 1973. It consists of two adjacent structures, a six-story federal office wing, a five-story court wing, and underground parking and basement offices. The building’s two wings share an upper basement and are connected by a bridge between the fifth and sixth floors. The last major capital project was a $14.2 million HVAC upgrade funded in FY2002.

Tenant Agencies

Judiciary, Department of Homeland Security, Department of Justice, GSA

Proposed Project

Approximately 184,000 RSF of vacated space will be reconfigured for occupancy by ICE, Executive Office of Immigration Review, US Attorneys, the U.S. Bankruptcy Court Clerk, U.S. Trustee, U.S. Magistrate Court, and the Federal Protective Service coming from leased locations in the San Diego area. Two public restrooms will be remodeled for compliance with the Architectural Barriers Act Accessibility Standard (ABAAS). The project includes wall hardening on several facades and the installation of bollards and an anti-ram barrier at the entrance to the garage. Building system upgrades including new automatic transfer switches, a new electric fire pump, new domestic water shut-off valves, a new emergency generator and new quick response fire sprinkler heads will be installed. Precast concrete panels on the south elevation of the building’s office wing will be cleaned and sealed.

Justification

A prospectus for design was submitted in FY2011 which included a full modernization project for the Edward J. Schwartz Federal Building and US Courthouse with an ETPC of $213,056,000. The project was not fully approved at the time. In an attempt to address only the most critical life safety components of the full modernization project, the proposed project has been reduced in scope and cost.

In addition to addressing the critical life safety items necessary in the building the project will also backfill space at the Edward J. Schwartz Federal Building and U.S. Courthouse vacated by tenants moving to the new San Diego Courthouse, improve building security, upgrade building systems, and collocate ICE functions in the San Diego area.

Currently the building falls short of blast and security standards. In addition, failure to repair or replace the outdated and inefficient building systems will cause operating costs to continue to increase and would likely lead to costly system failures. Further deterioration of the building’s systems will make it difficult to backfill the space vacated by tenants moving to the San Diego Courthouse Annex.

FY2014 Project Summary
The General Services Administration (GSA) proposes the final phase of a multi-phase modernization of approximately one-half of the Harry S. Truman (Main State) Building, located at 2201 C Street, NW, Washington, DC. Alterations under this phase involve demolition and build out of the North Court area and the replacement of all HVAC, electrical and plumbing systems, the installation of a fire sprinkler system and replacement of the elevators.

This request amends prospectus PDC-00464, the last prospectus approved in support of the modernization of the Department of State Headquarters, a project that has spanned several decades with the design started in FY1991 and a revised construction completion anticipated for FY2016.

AMENDED PROSPECTUS - ALTERATION
HARRY S. TRUMAN BUILDING
WASHINGTON, DC

Prospectus Number: PDC-0046-WA14

Building
The Harry S Truman building is located at 2201 C Street, NW, Washington, DC. The original portion of the State Department Building, the “Old War Building”, was completed in 1938. It was originally constructed for the War Department, and is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. An addition, “New State”, was constructed in 1960. The building provides approximately 2.6 million gross square feet of administrative and support spaces for the Department of State personnel and associated functions and has 905 inside parking spaces on the site.

Tenant Agencies
Department of State

Proposed Project
GSA is seeking to continue the ongoing multi-phased modernization of the Harry S Truman (Main State) Building. The modernization project for the Main State Department was submitted and approved August 1, 1996.

Phase V work will include demolition and build-out of the west section of the North Court area. The build-out will include replacing all HVAC systems, electrical and plumbing systems, installing an automatic fire sprinkler system with fire pumps, replacing the elevators, and providing all new office and support spaces. In addition, technology has become more efficient since the construction documents were finished, so HVAC and electrical systems will be modified to take advantage of new efficiencies.

Major Work Items (Phase V)

Demolition and Abatement $9,787,000
Special Construction 1,233,000
Exterior Construction 3,019,000
Interior Construction 12,197,000
Conveyance Systems 9,034,000
Plumbing Replacement 871,000
HVAC Replacement 10,644,000
Fire Protection Upgrades 3,212,000
Electrical Systems Replacement 5,811,000
Total ECC (Phase V) $55,808,000
AMENDED PROSPECTUS - ALTERATION
HARRY S. TRUMAN BUILDING
WASHINGTON, DC

Prospectus Number: PDC-0046-WA14

Justification
The proposed project will mitigate fire and life safety risks to the building occupants by providing sprinkler protection and additional means of building egress.

Obsolete systems will be replaced and upgraded in order to reduce the chances of system failure, sustained outages and labor intensive maintenance and operations costs. The mechanical and electrical systems were the original equipment dating from the 1940s and were outdated, undersized, and under capacity for current demands. Maintenance of these obsolete systems was labor intensive, resulting in frequent and prolonged inconvenience to the tenants and effective mission accomplishment.

The project will also address security requirements through wall hardening, progressive collapse mitigation, and blast window installation. While these security improvements are being largely funded by State rather than this prospectus, however the work must be coordinated for construction efficiency and to reduce taxpayer cost.

This prospectus provides for additional authority as a result of escalation of construction costs to complete Phase V.

Summary of Energy Compliance
This project will be designed to conform to requirements of the Facilities Standards for the Public Buildings Service and will implement strategies to meet the Guiding Principles for High Performance and Sustainable Buildings. GSA encourages design opportunities to increase energy and water efficiency above the minimum performance criteria.

FY2014 Project Summary
The General Services Administration (GSA) proposes the site acquisition and construction of a 256,425 gross square foot (gsf) facility in Winchester, Virginia for the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). This facility will support the FBI’s current and future critical record management space needs.

Overview of Project
GSA proposes the design of a new Records Management Facility on an approximately 108-acre site, to be acquired by GSA in Winchester, Virginia. The facility will consolidate FBI’s paper records currently housed within the Washington DC metropolitan area, at field offices across the country and in several national information technology centers. The facility will also provide for National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) compliant records storage for environmentally conditioned, fire-protected space in a secured facility. The proposed facility includes a record management building with office support, visitor screening center, secured service center, guard booth, and surface parking lot.

Tenant Agencies

Federal Bureau of Investigation

Justification

Records management is crucial to the operations of the FBI. Many of the FBI records, which are an integral part of investigations, prosecutions and intelligence analyses the agency conducts, are currently primarily in paper form and dispersed throughout hundreds of locations nationwide.

The proposed centralized facility will promote timely access of FBI records to agents and analysts around the world; support FBI’s long-term goal of converting applicable files into electronic, searchable format; provide a secure environment for FBI’s valuable intellectual property; reduce records space requirements at FBI Field Offices redirecting field office positions to focus on FBI’s operational mission; and enable greater consistency with NARA’s Archive Standards as detailed in 36 CFR 1228 Subpart K. The proposed facility will also provide long term cost savings to the government.

To help FBI efficiently achieve its mission critical record management functions, GSA is proposing to utilize a more technologically advanced storage system known as an Automated Storage and Retrieval System (ASRS). ASRS, an automated and mechanized structure integral to the facility for moving files into storage locations and retrieving them when needed is proving to be a successful system in manufacturing, archival, security, food and beverage operations as well as conventional warehousing.

GSA and FBI have been partnering on this effort for several years. As part of its FY2006 Capital Investment and Leasing Program, GSA submitted a prospectus and received authorization to lease 947,000 rsf of space for 20 years. GSA subsequently amended that request as part of the GSA’s FY2008 Capital Investment and Leasing Program in a prospectus for 626,488 rsf that was authorized by the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works and the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure on December 18, 2007 and January 16, 2008, respectively. However, due to market conditions and the specialized nature of the space, GSA was unable to successfully award a lease. In 2010, the FBI determined that the number one priority was the Central Records Complex (CRC) portion of the project. It was decided that the best way to move forward with meeting FBI’s long term need for its mission critical record management operation was through federal construction of the records management portion of the originally proposed project. This project was proposed as part of GSA’s FY2012 Capital

LEASE—DEPARTMENT OF STATE, NORTHERN VIRGINIA

Resolved by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the U.S. House of Representatives, that pursuant to 40 U.S.C. § 3307, appropriations are authorized for a replacement lease of up to 343,000 rentable square feet of space, including 26 official parking spaces, for the Department of State to collocate the Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations and the Bureau of Administration, Acquisitions and Logistics Management currently located at 1701 N. Ft. Myer Drive and 1735 N. Lynn Street, respectively, in Arlington, Virginia, at a proposed total annual cost of $13,377,000 for a lease term of up to 15 years, a prospectus for which is attached to and included in this resolution.

Approval of this prospectus constitutes authority to execute an interim lease for all tenants, if necessary, prior to the execution of the new lease.

Provided that, the Administrator of General Services and tenant agencies agree to apply an overall utilization rate of 182 square feet or less per person.

Provided that, except for interim leases as described above, the Administrator may not enter into any leases that are below prospectus level for the purposes of meeting any of the requirements, or portions thereof, included in the prospectus that would result in an overall utilization rate of 182 square feet or higher per person.

Provided that, to the maximum extent practicable, the Administrator shall include in the lease contract(s) a purchase option that can be exercised at the conclusion of the firm term of the lease.

Provided further, that the Administrator shall require that the delineated area of the procurement is identical to the delineated area included in the prospectus, except that, if the Administrator determines that the delineated area of the procurement should not be identical to the delineated area included in the prospectus, the Administrator shall provide an explanatory statement to the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives prior to exercising any lease authority provided in this resolution.

Provided further, that the General Services Administration shall not delegate to any other agency the authority granted by this resolution.

Project Summary

The General Services Administration (GSA) proposes a replacement lease of up to 343,000 rentable square feet of space for the Department of State (DOS) to collocate the Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations (OBO) and the Bureau of Administration, Acquisitions and Logistics Management (ALM). OBO is currently housed at 1701 N. Ft. Myer Drive and ALM at 1735 N. Lynn Street, Arlington, VA, under leases that expire June 30, 2014 and December 19, 2015. DOS proposes to improve its office and overall utilization rates from 134 to 100 usable square feet (USF) per person and 201 to 182 USF per person, respectively, by housing an additional 148 personnel in the same amount of usable space as the total of its current occupancies.

\(^1\) The RSF/USF at the current locations is approximately 1.12; however, to maximize competition a RSF/USF ratio of 1.2 is used for the proposed maximum RSF as indicated in the housing plan.

\(^2\) DOS security requirements may necessitate control of the parking at the leased location. This may be accomplished as a lessor-furnished service, under an operating agreement with the lessor, or as part of the Government’s leasehold interest in the building(s).

\(^3\) This estimate is for fiscal year 2015 and may be escalated by 2.0 percent annually to the effective date of the lease to account for inflation. The proposed rental rate is fully serviced including all operating expenses whether paid by the lessor or directly by the Government. GSA will conduct the procurement using prevailing market rental rates as a benchmark for negotiating this lease extension to ensure that lease award is made in the best interest of the government. Lease award shall not exceed the maximum rental rate as specified in this prospectus.

Current Total Annual Cost: $11,727,871 (leases effective July 1, 2004 and December 20, 2012)

Acquisition Strategy

In order to maximize flexibility to acquire space that will house DOS and meet its requirements, GSA may issue a single, multiple award solicitation that will allow offerors to provide blocks of space to meet the requirements in whole or in part. All offers must provide space consistent with the delineated area defined by this prospectus.

Justification

The Bureau of Overseas Building Operations (OBO) and the Bureau of Administration’s Acquisitions and Logistics Management (ALM) are the primary DOS occupants of space leased at 1701 N. Ft. Myer Drive and 1735 N. Lynn Street, Arlington, VA under leases that expire on June 30, 2014 and December 19, 2015. OBO and ALM will require continued housing to carry out their missions.

OBO directs the worldwide overseas buildings program for the DOS and the U.S. Government community serving abroad under the authority of the chiefs of mission. In concert with other DOS, foreign affairs agencies, and Congress, OBO sets worldwide priorities for the design, construction, acquisition, maintenance, use, and sale of real property and the use of sales proceeds.

OBO and ALM work extensively together and with the nearby Bureau of Diplomatic Security. The three bureaus are responsible for the operations and security of all of DOS’s 19,000 plus assets worldwide and collaborate daily to support DOS’s 260 plus embassies and consulates worldwide.

Summary of Energy Compliance

GSA will incorporate energy efficiency requirements into the Request for Lease Proposals and other documents related to the procurement of space based on the approved prospectus. GSA encourages offerors to exceed minimum requirements set forth in the procurement and to achieve an Energy Star performance rating of 75 or higher.

Resolutions of Approval

Resolutions adopted by the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure and the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works approving this prospectus will constitute approval to make appropriations to lease space in a facility that will yield the required rentable area.

Interim Leasing

GSA will execute such interim leasing actions as are necessary to ensure continued housing of the tenant agency prior to the effective date of the new lease. It is in the best interest of the Government to avert the financial risk of holdover tenancy.

Certification of Need

The proposed project is the best solution to meet a validated Government need.

Resolved by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the U.S. House of Representatives, that pursuant to 40 U.S.C. § 3307, appropriations are authorized for a replacement lease of up to 290,000 rentable square feet of space, including 17 official parking spaces, for the Department of Education currently located at 550 12th Street SW, 555 New Jersey Avenue NW, and 1990 K Street NW, in Washington, D.C., at a proposed total annual cost of $14,500,000 for a lease term of up to 15 years, a prospectus for which is attached to and included in this resolution.

Approval of this prospectus constitutes authority to execute an interim lease for all tenants, if necessary, prior to the execution of the new lease.

Provided that, the Administrator of General Services and tenant agencies agree to apply an overall utilization rate of 180 square feet or less per person.

Provided that, except for interim leases as described above, the Administrator may not enter into any leases that are below prospectus level for the purposes of meeting any of the requirements, or portions thereof, included in the prospectus that would result in an overall utilization rate of 180 square feet or higher per person.

Provided that, to the maximum extent practicable, the Administrator shall include in the lease contract(s) a purchase option that can be exercised at the conclusion of the firm term of the lease.

Provided further, that the Administrator shall require that the delineated area of the procurement is identical to the delineated area included in the prospectus, except that, if the Administrator determines that the delineated area of the procurement should not be identical to the delineated area included in the prospectus, the Administrator shall provide an explanatory statement to the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives prior to exercising any lease authority provided in this resolution.

PROSPECTUS – LEASE
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
WASHINGTON, DC

Prospectus Number: PDC-05-WA15

Executive Summary
The General Services Administration (GSA) proposes a replacement lease of up to 290,000 rentable square feet (RSF) of space for the Department of Education (DoEd) in Washington, DC. This requirement is currently housed at three locations: 550 12th Street SW, 555 New Jersey Avenue NW, and 1990 K Street NW, in Washington, DC. Replacement of the leases will enable DoEd to provide continued housing for current personnel while meeting its mission requirements.

DoEd will improve its office utilization rate from 236 usable square feet (USF) per person to 128 USF per person and its overall utilization rate from 335 USF per person to 180 USF per person. In addition to the improved space utilization, the replacement lease will reduce the current requirement by 212,329 RSF.

1 The RSF/USF at the current location is approximately 1.12; however, to maximize competition, a RSF/USF ratio of 1.2 is used for the proposed maximum RSF as indicated in the housing plan.

2 This estimate is for fiscal year 2017 and may be escalated by 2.0 percent annually to the effective date of the lease to account for inflation. The proposed rental rate is fully serviced including all operating expenses whether paid by the lessor or directly by the Government. GSA will conduct the procurement using prevailing market rental rates as a benchmark for the evaluation of competitive offers and as a basis for negotiating with offerors to ensure that lease award is made in the best interest of the Government. Lease award shall not exceed the maximum rental rate as specified in this prospectus.

Proposed Total Annual Cost\(^1\): $14,500,000
Current Total Annual Cost: $19,752,901 (leases effective 4/1/04, 3/11/01, 8/12/99)

Acquisition Strategy
In order to maximize the flexibility in acquiring space to house DoEd, GSA may issue a single, multiple award solicitation that will allow offerors to provide blocks of space able to meet the requirements in whole or in part. All offers must provide space consistent with the delineated area defined by this prospectus.

Justification
The three leases housing this requirement expired as follows and are in holdover: 550 12th St. SW on March 31, 2014; 1990 K St. NW on August 10, 2013; and 555 New Jersey Ave. NW on March 10, 2014; and DoEd requires continued housing to carry out its mission. The personnel housed in the leases at 1990 K St. and 555 New Jersey Ave were originally planning to move to the federally owned Mary Switzer Building. However, the Department of Health and Human Services now plans to fully occupy this building. The current leases will require interim extensions until FY 2017 when the long-term requirement can be executed. The proposed 290,000 RSF will house all DoEd functions and personnel in 212,329 RSF less than the total at the three current leases.

Summary of Energy Compliance
GSA will incorporate energy efficiency requirements into the Request for Lease Proposals and other documents related to the procurement of space based on the approved prospectus. GSA encourages offerors to exceed minimum requirements set forth in the procurement and to achieve an Energy Star performance rating of 75 or higher.

Resolutions adopted by the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure and the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works approving this prospectus will constitute approval to make appropriations to lease space in a facility that will yield the required rentable area.

Resolved by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the U.S. House of Representatives, that pursuant to 40 U.S.C. § 3307, appropriations are authorized for a replacement lease of up to 155,755 rentable square feet of space, including 184 official parking spaces, for the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Baltimore City and Baltimore, Anne Arundel, and Howard Counties, MD to co-locate and reduce requirements currently located at 2600 Lord Baltimore Drive in Woodlawn, Maryland, 11700 Beltsville Drive in Beltsville, Maryland and 1520 Caton Center Drive in Catonsville, Maryland, at a proposed total annual cost of $4,984,160 for a lease term of up to 20 years, a prospectus for which is attached to and included in this resolution.

Executive Summary

The General Services Administration (GSA) proposes a replacement lease of up to 155,755 rentable square feet (RSF) for the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) in Baltimore City and Baltimore, Anne Arundel, and Howard Counties, MD, to co-locate and reduce requirements now housed in three separate leased locations. FBI is currently housed at 2600 Lord Baltimore Drive, Woodlawn, MD, and occupies additional leased space at 11700 Beltsville Drive, Beltsville, MD, and 1520 Caton Center Drive, Catonsville, MD. The current leases expire on July 1, 2014; January 24, 2016; and March 31, 2015, respectively. The FBI requirements housed in Beltsville and Catonsville included in this prospectus represent portions of the space leased at these locations; these leases will be superseded or restructured as appropriate to accommodate the remaining FBI requirements.

FBI will improve its office utilization rate from 145 usable square feet (USF) to 82 USF per person and its overall utilization rate from 381 USF to 258 USF per person. This will be accomplished by terminating almost 40,000 RSF at two leased locations and collocating the functions and employees under the replacement lease for the third location in a total of 155,755 RSF. The consolidated replacement lease at the proposed $32.00 per RSF rental rate will save $2,380,000 annually in lease costs and reduce FBI’s leased footprint by almost 40,000 RSF relative to current occupancies.

II. Description of Project
This project proposes the lease of an approximately 39,000 net usable square foot (NUSF) Outpatient Clinic facility in South Bend, Indiana. The new leased facility will replace the existing Community Based Outpatient Clinic (CBOC) in South Bend, and will enable VA to expand services provided to include outpatient primary care and mental health services to better serve the needs of Veterans and their families.

Approval of this prospectus will constitute authority for up to 20 years of leasing, as well as potential extension of the present lease as may be necessary pending execution of the replacement lease.

III. Priorities/Deficiencies Addressed
This lease addresses two critical issues that will enhance Veteran health care services in the South Bend area. First, the proposed facility will improve the quality of care delivered to Veterans by integrating outpatient care delivery, including primary care and mental health services, into a state-of-the-art building with improved adjacencies. Outpatient services currently contracted out to providers in the South Bend area will be provided at the new facility, allowing VA to have greater control over Veteran healthcare.

Second, the new facility will provide more accessible health care services to Veterans. The leased location will enable VA to expand its service offerings and improve access for Veterans who previously had to travel to other facilities, at a greater distance than the targeted 30-minute drive time, to obtain these outpatient services.

IV. Alternatives to Lease Considered
Alternative 1 – Status Quo: Under the Status Quo, VA would continue to provide limited outpatient services in the South Bend area through contracting out services and an arrangement to house four VA mental health providers at the contracted facility, resulting in decreased continuity of care and costly outsourcing expenses. In addition, the time Veterans spend traveling to the Fort Wayne VA Medical Center (VAMC) for care that is not provided locally suggests the status quo is not acceptable to meet customer satisfaction. Therefore, this alternative is not the most optimal.
Alternative 2 - New Lease (Preferred alternative): This alternative proposes leasing a 39,000 NUSF facility close to the Veteran population that the South Bend CBOC currently serves, and expanding the services currently provided. By pursuing the lease option, VA will provide infrastructure that supports increased integration of services, coordination of care, provider productivity and efficiency, patient satisfaction, compliance with clinical guidelines, access, safety and security. This alternative also provides expanded state-of-the-art clinical space sooner than the new construction alternative, and provides an option that will give VA more flexibility to respond to the changing healthcare needs of Veterans and their families.

Alternative 3 - Contract Out Services: This alternative assumes that all health care services would be contracted out in the community. This alternative is not cost-effective and would result in a loss of quality control over Veteran healthcare. There also may not be sufficient, qualified, private-sector providers in the South Bend area to accommodate the Veteran workload. Therefore, this alternative is the least preferred.

Alternative 4 - New Construction: This alternative assumes the construction of a new, outpatient primary care and mental health facility of approximately 39,000 NUSF. It would provide infrastructure that supports the increased integration of services, coordination of care, provider productivity and efficiency, patient satisfaction, compliance with clinical guidelines, access, safety and security. Flexibility to expand services or change location to better align with workload demand would be difficult in this alternative. In addition, this alternative would require VA to acquire land in the South Bend area for the facility; this not only increases the cost but would delay activation. Therefore, this alternative is the second preferred.

West: Route 17 to I-880 to Route 87 (Guadalupe Parkway)

6. Butler, PA - Health Care Center (HCC) Lease

The new Health Care Center (HCC) will accommodate 168,000 net usable square feet (nusf)/226,800 rentable square feet (rsf) with approximately 1,035 parking spaces. The estimated annual unserviced rent is $6,582,000. This project will relocate outpatient services from the current Butler VA Medical Center (VAMC) to a leased build-to-suit HCC in the vicinity of Butler, PA. The new HCC will expand Butler’s outpatient space to approximately 168,000 nusf to meet increased Veteran demand. This clinic will serve Veterans from the counties of Armstrong, Butler, Clarion, Lawrence and Mercer. This project will allow VA to continue to provide timely access to state-of-the-art primary care, specialty care, mental health and ancillary diagnostic services in a properly sized facility to meet increased workload.

Delineated area - The proposed site must be within a five (5) mile radius of Eagle Mill Road and Benjamin Franklin Highway (422)
Resolved by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the U.S. House of Representatives, that pursuant to 40 U.S.C. § 3307, a replacement lease of up to 91,800 rentable square feet of space, and 544 parking spaces, for the Department of Veterans Affairs for a Community Based Outpatient Clinic in Springfield, Missouri to replace the existing Gene Taylor Outpatient Clinic currently located in Mount Vernon, Missouri, at a proposed unserviced annual cost of $2,749,240 for a lease term of up to 20 years, a prospectus for which, as amended by the respective section of the attached VA Lease Summaries, is attached to and authorized by this resolution.

Approval of this prospectus constitutes authority to execute an interim lease for all tenants, if necessary, prior to the execution of the new lease.

Provided that, to the maximum extent practicable, the lease contract(s) shall include a purchase option that can be exercised at the conclusion of the firm term of the lease.

Provided further, that the delineated area of the procurement is identical to the delineated area included in the prospectus and associated VA Lease Summary, except that, if it is determined that the delineated area of the procurement should not be identical to the delineated area included in the prospectus and associated VA Lease Summary, an explanatory statement shall be provided to the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives prior to exercising any lease authority provided in this resolution.

II. Description of Project

This project proposes the lease of an approximately 68,000 net usable square feet (NUSF) Community Based Outpatient Clinic (CBOC) in Springfield, Missouri, and will include 544 parking spaces. The new CBOC will relocate and expand the 41,000 NUSF Gene Taylor Outpatient Clinic from Mount Vernon, Missouri, where it currently serves over 17,000 unique Veterans. Due to budget limitation, the State of Missouri has elected to close the Missouri Rehabilitation Center (MRC) in Mount Vernon, where the current clinic is located, and will be unable to continue to support the current lease agreement. Moving the CBOC to Springfield, Missouri, will better support the Veterans Health Care System of the Ozarks’ (VHSO) strategic initiatives. The new CBOC will continue to provide primary and specialty care, mental health and ancillary services. The new clinic will also provide sleep studies, radiology, Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI), laboratory, and dental services.

Approval of this prospectus will constitute authority for up to 20 years of leasing, as well as potential extension of the present lease as may be necessary pending execution of the replacement lease.

III. Priorities/Deficiencies Addressed

This lease addresses three critical priorities that will enhance Veteran healthcare services in the Springfield area.

First, it will improve Veteran access to services by locating the replacement CBOC in an area with higher Veteran population. The Upper Western Market of VISN 16 has a significant primary care access gap identified by the Health Care Planning Model. This project will increase the number of unique Veterans within the 30-minute drive time for primary care access by 6,750 Veterans.

Second, the new CBOC will increase clinical capacity for primary and specialty care, mental health and ancillary services, improving patient satisfaction through expanded services, shorter wait times and more timely appointments, and allow for space configurations consistent with patient-centered care principles. Expanding the CBOC by approximately 27,000 NUSF will address the utilization gap in the Upper Western Market by approximately 308,000 outpatient visits in primary care, mental health, specialty, and ancillary services.

Third, the relocated and expanded CBOC will improve efficiency and lower operating costs. The functional relationships in the new space will provide a more efficient layout of departments and rooms. The new building envelope will be more energy efficient than the current MRC. In addition, direct yearly operating costs are expected to be reduced by $2,550,000, including reduced beneficiary travel of $500,000; reduced contracting of diagnostic services of $1,900,000; and reduced contracting of sleep study services of $150,000.

IV. Alternatives to Lease Considered

Alternative 1 - Status Quo: The status quo would continue to lease 41,000 NUSF for the Gene Taylor Outpatient Clinic in the MRC from the State of Missouri. This alternative would continue to contract out laboratory, radiology and sleep studies from the MRC. This option is not optimal for three reasons. First, the State of Missouri is proposing to close the MRC on June 30, 2011. In order to continue to support the existing lease, the MRC has proposed a surcharge to the existing lease of over $1 million per year. This additional funding is needed to staff MRC facility operations after the facility is closed for state operations. Second, due to a significant utilization gap in the VISN 16 Upper Western Market, it is necessary to expand the Gene Taylor Outpatient Clinic to meet demand. Additional space is needed to support in-house laboratory and radiology functions that are currently purchased by contract from the MRC. Third, the existing space at MRC is inefficient. A complete renovation would be needed to bring the space into compliance with VA space planning criteria and life safety guidelines.

Alternative 2 - New Lease (Preferred alternative): This project proposes a build-to-suit lease of approximately 68,000 NUSF to expand and relocate the Gene Taylor Outpatient Clinic to Springfield, Missouri. There are several reasons why this option is the most preferred alternative. First, relocating to Springfield, Missouri would bring the clinic closer to the Veteran population and would reduce the access gap in the VISN 16 Upper Western Market by 6,750 Veterans. Second, the lease would provide additional space for the expansion of services that would reduce the Upper Western Market utilization gaps in primary care, mental health, and specialty care. It would also allow VA to bring in-house, at lower cost, ancillary services such as laboratory and radiology that are currently contracted out. Finally, a build-to-suit lease provides VA with the flexibility to adjust services based on changes in enrollment and Veteran demographics without the up-front investment needed in the new construction alternative.
Alternative 3 – Contract Out Services: This alternative would seek to contract out all services currently offered at the Gene Taylor Outpatient Clinic as well as the projected workload increase. Challenges for this option include maintaining quality of care across numerous contracts and providers and finding sufficient health care capacity in the community to absorb current and projected VA workload. Health care demand in the area has already stressed capacity of private sector resources; nine of 11 counties in the catchment area served by the Gene Taylor Outpatient Clinic are medically underserved. Therefore, this alternative is the least preferred.

Alternative 4 – New Construction: This alternative proposes to purchase 10 acres of land in the Springfield area and construct a 68,000 NUSF outpatient clinic. This alternative shares many of the benefits of the preferred lease alternative. First, relocating in Springfield, Missouri brings the clinic closer to the Veteran population and will reduce the access gap in the VISN 16 Upper Western Market by 6,750 Veterans. Second, the VA-owned facility would provide additional space for expansion of services to reduce the Upper Western Market utilization gaps in primary care, mental health, and specialty care and bring in-house, at lower cost, ancillary services such as laboratory and radiology that are currently contracted out. Third, this alternative will have a longer implementation timeline than the preferred lease option. Therefore, this alternative is the second preferred.

II. Description of Lease

This project will relocate outpatient services from the current Butler VA Medical Center (VAMC) to a leased build-to-suit Health Care Center (HCC) in the vicinity of Butler, PA. The new HCC will expand Butler's outpatient space to approximately 180,000 net usable square feet (NUSF) to meet increased veteran demand. This clinic will serve veterans from the counties of Beaver, Armstrong, Butler, Clarion, Forest, Venango, Lawrence and Mercer. This project will allow VA to continue to provide timely access to state-of-the-art primary care, specialty care, mental health and ancillary diagnostic services in a properly sized facility to meet increased workload.

Approval of this prospectus will constitute authority for up to 20 years of leasing including the initial term, and any renewal options, as necessary, prior to the completion of the proposed lease.

III. Priorities/Deficiencies Addressed

This lease is designed to address quality, access and capacity for Primary Care, Specialty Care, Dental, Laboratory and Pathology, Radiology, Mental Health, and Ancillary and Diagnostic Services. The buildings in which treatment programs currently reside require renovation and significant expansion. By consolidating services in a single building, VA will be able to ensure that patient intake is handled quickly, professionally and privately, and that veterans' health care needs are fully met. A new facility will enhance the care provided to current veterans and provide proper infrastructure for future veteran care in Butler.

The new HCC will benefit the Butler veteran population in many ways. The efficiency of services provided will be enhanced by the collocation of all clinical categories, such as primary care, mental health and specialty care, in one central building. By expanding the available clinical space to meet projected increases in patient workload, quality of life for veterans will also improve due to reduced wait times. Adding space for both individual and group therapy visits will allow for significant expansion of mental health programs. Increasing the number of services provided, particularly specialty care services, will increase veterans’ geographic access to care and thereby improve the quality of life for rural veterans who previously had to drive approximately 60 minutes to Pittsburgh to access these services. The new facility will also provide adequate parking.

This project will allow VA Butler Healthcare to meet this growing workload, while also increasing its focus on long-term care. The HCC will have the capacity to serve more veterans (3,000 more unique veterans), accommodate the expected increase in clinic stops (projected to increase by 81 percent in Ambulatory Care Stops and increase by 151 percent in Mental Health Stops in the next 20 years) and increase panel provider size by 10 percent.

IV. Alternatives to Lease Considered
Alternative 1 - Status Quo: This alternative assumes that the present physical space housing outpatient services at the Butler VAMC would continue to be used for outpatient care with general maintenance only. With this alternative, outpatient services would continue to be located in three separate buildings, maintaining existing inefficiencies and costly operational expenses.

Alternative 2 - Lease (Preferred Alternative): This option assumes the lease of a new, state-of-the-art HCC of approximately 180,000 NUSF. All VA Butler healthcare services, with the exception of the domiciliary and Community Living Center, will relocate to the HCC. It will provide infrastructure that supports the increased integration of outpatient services, coordination of care, provider productivity, efficiency, patient satisfaction, compliance with clinical guidelines, access and safety/security. This alternative solves VA Butler Healthcare’s current space constraints cost effectively without requiring major up-front capital investment.

Alternative 3 - New Construction: This alternative assumes the construction of a new, free-standing comprehensive outpatient facility of approximately 180,000 NUSF. This option would consolidate all outpatient services in a modern outpatient facility. It would provide an infrastructure that supports the increased integration of outpatient services, coordination of care, provider productivity, efficiency, patient satisfaction, compliance with clinical guidelines, access and safety/security. Flexibility to expand/contract services and/or change location depending on workload demand would be difficult under this alternative.

Alternative 4 - Contract out: This alternative assumes the outsourcing of all outpatient care to the community. This alternative is not viable because the Butler community does not have sufficient capacity to support the veteran workload. This alternative is also the least cost effective alternative.

6. Butler, PA - Health Care Center (HCC) Lease

The new Health Care Center (HCC) will accommodate 168,000 net usable square feet (nusf)/226,800 rentable square feet (rsf) with approximately 1,035 parking spaces. The estimated annual unserviced rent is $6,582,000. This project will relocate outpatient services from the current Butler VA Medical Center (VAMC) to a leased build-to-suit HCC in the vicinity of Butler, PA. The new HCC will expand Butler's outpatient space to approximately 168,000 nusf to meet increased Veteran demand. This clinic will serve Veterans from the counties of Armstrong, Butler, Clarion, Lawrence and Mercer. This project will allow VA to continue to provide timely access to state-of-the-art primary care, specialty care, mental health and ancillary diagnostic services in a properly sized facility to meet increased workload.

Delineated area - The proposed site must be within a five (5) mile radius of Eagle Mill Road and Benjamin Franklin Highway (422)
Committee Resolution

LEASE—DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, MOBILE, AL

Resolved by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the U.S. House of Representatives, that pursuant to 40 U.S.C. § 3307, a replacement lease of up to 87,919 rentable square feet of space, and 521 parking spaces, for the Department of Veterans Affairs to replace the existing Community Based Outpatient Clinic in Mobile, Alabama, at a proposed unserviced annual cost of $2,984,028 for a lease term of up to 20 years, a prospectus for which, as amended by the respective section of the attached VA Lease Summaries, is attached to and authorized by this resolution.

Approval of this prospectus constitutes authority to execute an interim lease for all tenants, if necessary, prior to the execution of the new lease.

Provided that, to the maximum extent practicable, the lease contract(s) shall include a purchase option that can be exercised at the conclusion of the firm term of the lease.

Provided further, that the delineated area of the procurement is identical to the delineated area included in the prospectus and associated VA Lease Summary, except that, if it is determined that the delineated area of the procurement should not be identical to the delineated area included in the prospectus and associated VA Lease Summary, an explanatory statement shall be provided to the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives prior to exercising any lease authority provided in this resolution.

II. Description of Project

This project proposes the lease of 65,125 Net Usable Square Feet (NUSF) for a replacement Community Based Outpatient Clinic in Mobile, AL, to replace the existing 35,345 NUSF clinic. The lease will provide for administrative and clinical space consistent with VA CBOC requirements. Space will be allocated to the following general areas: Audiology and Speech Pathology, CCHT, canteen, clinic administration, education, environmental management, eye clinic, HBPC, lab, medical administration, medical specialty clinics, mental health, nursing, patient advocacy, pharmacy, police, primary care, radiology, surgical specialty clinics, Veterans’ service organizations, warehouse, and women’s health.

Approval of this prospectus will constitute authority for up to 20 years of leasing, as well as potential extension of the present lease as may be necessary pending execution of the replacement lease.

III. Priorities/Deficiencies Addressed

This lease addresses functional, utilization and safety deficiencies. The existing clinic is housed in a functionally obsolete clinical building owned by the University of South Alabama. VA occupies 35,345 net usable square feet on the first and sixth floors of a 1940’s era hospital, which has been sublet to various health-oriented businesses since the 1980’s. Due to deteriorating conditions, rising crime rates, and the building’s operational inefficiencies, many of the businesses have strategically relocated to other parts of the city. As a result, VA remains as one of the few tenants in an otherwise empty building. The Primary Care Clinic is run out of a 1970’s era surgery suite and the Mental Health Clinic is housed on a separate floor, in an old inpatient ward. Hallways are narrow and turning radius for wheelchairs is limited. The main reception area is too small for the number of patients; the sub-waiting areas often overflow into the narrow corridors. Other services, such as Audiology and Radiology, also have small waiting rooms. The rest of the clinic is housed on a different floor; it is overcrowded and many new programs can’t be implemented due to lack of square footage. Because of columns and bearing walls, the existing space does not work even in a renovated configuration.
As indicated by staff and Veteran complaints, the current environment is challenging, both logistically and aesthetically. Even before the patient enters the clinic, there are barriers to overcome. For example, the main entrance/reception area is co-located on the side of the building originally designed as an ambulance entrance. In fact, VA still uses the entrance for ambulance pick-ups. Although Veterans may be dropped off at this entrance, there is no parking available for family or other escorts.

IV. Alternatives to Lease Considered

Alternative 1 – Status Quo: Maintain the existing lease. The clinic will continue to be housed in a functionally obsolete clinical building on the first and sixth floors of a 1940’s era hospital. Space, safety and functional deficiencies will remain. Due to these constraints, this option is not preferred.

Alternative 2 – New Lease (Preferred alternative): This option proposes to lease 65,125 net usable square feet (NUSF) for the Mobile Clinic and would provide greater capacity for medical staff to perform in a more appropriately sized, modern facility. The new lease would incorporate all current services and include the addition of new services, such as Home Based Primary Care (HBPC) and the Patient Aligned Care Team (PACT) Model. The Clinic will need more operational and support space to improve staff and patient flow. Based on cost and the positive patient impact, this alternative is the preferred one.

Alternative 3 - Contract Out: This alternative would contract out all services currently provided by the CBOC to private health care providers in the community. This alternative would result in increased annual costs, which would be challenging to financially support. Also, this alternative would face challenges associated with limited existing capacity in the community to absorb VA’s workload. Therefore, this option is the least preferred.

Alternative 4 - New Construction: New construction will address all functional, utilization and safety gap concerns, and agency strategic goals. However, there is a need to reside closer to the Veteran community when demographics change. This makes a permanent site less favorable. In addition, new construction would require land acquisition; this not only increases the cost but would delay activation by at least one year. Therefore, this alternative is the next preferred.

II. Description of Project

This project proposes to lease a replacement, 84,000 net usable square feet (NUSF) Community Based Outpatient Clinic (CBOC), including 672 parking spaces. This leased facility will provide expanded outpatient services to address utilization and space gaps in the Monroe County sub-market area within the Finger Lakes/Southern Tier Market. The current leased Rochester CBOC is 49,190 gross square feet (GSF) and includes 184 parking spaces. Two additional leased sites nearby, at Mt. Hope Avenue (6,364 GSF) and Clinton Crossings (8,091 GSF), are used to offset the space and parking shortages at the CBOC. The current lease is set to expire in October 2016, and the building owner has indicated the lease cannot be renewed.

The replacement Rochester lease will include primary care, women's health, Operation Enduring Freedom / Operation Iraqi Freedom (OEF/OIF), mental health, homeless outreach, home-based primary care (HBPC), specialty services, ancillary services, compensation and pension (C&P), research, residency programs with local affiliates, Veterans Benefits Administration (VBA), Veteran Service Organizations (VSO), and volunteer programs.

Approval of this prospectus will constitute authority for up to 20 years of leasing, as well as potential extension of the present lease as may be necessary pending execution of the replacement lease.

III. Priorities/Deficiencies Addressed

This lease addresses the continuing need to provide primary care, mental health, and specialty care services to Veterans residing in Rochester, NY.

Several programs currently provided at the Rochester CBOC were shown to have both workload and space gaps by the Strategic Capital Investment Plan (SCIP). These services include: ambulatory primary care, geriatrics, and urgent care; medical and other non-surgical specialties; mental health programs; surgical specialties; dental clinic; laboratory and pathology; and radiology and nuclear medicine. These gaps will be addressed in the proposed CBOC replacement facility.

2012 Congressional Submission
IV. Alternatives to Lease Considered

Alternative 1 - Status Quo: The status quo would continue to provide outpatient services in Rochester, Monroe County, NY, in the current, 49,190 GSF leased building until the lease termination date in 2016. After lease termination, this primary care access point would be eliminated, significantly decreasing access to care for Veterans. This alternative would require Veterans in Monroe County to travel to alternative VA facilities to receive primary care, mental health, and specialty care services. Therefore, this option is not the most optimal.

Alternative 2 - New Lease (Preferred alternative): This project proposes to replace the existing lease with a replacement, 84,000 NUSF CBOC to include 332 parking spaces. This replacement lease will allow VA to continue to provide services in Monroe County, and will allow for the required expansion of services to meet current utilization and space gaps at the current CBOC. This alternative was selected because the lease would enable VA to serve a greater number of Veterans, reduce Veteran travel time for some clinical services, and consolidate the three leases into a single location. Furthermore, the lease alternative will provide expanded, state-of-the-art clinical space sooner than the new construction alternative and will provide a more functional and effective healthcare environment to the benefit of Veterans, Veterans' families and medical staff.

Alternative 3 - Contract Out Services: This alternative would seek to contract out all ambulatory, mental health, and specialty care services in the community. This alternative is not cost-effective and would result in a loss of quality control over Veteran healthcare. There also may not be sufficient, qualified, private-sector providers in the Monroe County area to accommodate the Veteran workload. Therefore, this alternative is the least preferred.

Alternative 4 - New Construction: This alternative would require VA to purchase a land parcel and construct a new, 84,000 NUSF facility in Monroe County. This alternative solves utilization and space gaps in the same manner as the lease alternative. However, a permanent site limits the ability to relocate services in the future to adapt to changes in Veteran demographics. In addition, new construction would require land acquisition; this not only increases the cost but would delay activation by approximately one year. Therefore, this alternative is the second preferred.

3. Springfield, MO - Outpatient Clinic

The new Community Based Outpatient Clinic (CBOC) will accommodate 68,000 net usable square feet (nusf)/91,800 rentable square feet (rsf) with approximately 544 parking spaces. The estimated annual unserviced rent is $2,749,000. The new clinic will relocate and expand the existing 41,000 nusf Gene Taylor Community Based Outpatient Clinic from Mount Vernon, Missouri, where it currently serves over 17,000 unique Veterans. The new CBOC will continue to provide primary and specialty care, mental health and ancillary services. The new clinic will also provide sleep studies, radiology, Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI), laboratory, and dental services.

Delineated area - Properties must be located within the delineated area within the following boundaries:

North: Sunshine Street
South: US Highway 60 (properties located up to ½ mile South of US 60 will be considered within the boundary)
East: US Highway 65
West: US Highway 160

4. South Bend, IN - Outpatient Clinic Lease

The new Community Based Outpatient Clinic (CBOC) will accommodate 71,403 net usable square feet (nusf)/96,394 rentable square feet (rsf). The estimated annual unserviced rent is $3,466,515. This CBOC will replace and expand South Bend’s outpatient services to meet increasing Veteran demand, and will include following medical services: primary care; women’s health care; home-based primary care; nutrition; audiology; tele-eye care and optometry; urology; cardiology; dermatology; physical therapy; podiatry; pulmonary function; some ambulatory procedures such as colonoscopies, sigmoidoscopies, endoscopies, and other minor procedures; ancillary services – laboratory, pharmacy, basic radiology, and prosthetic dispensing; and Compensation & Physical (C&P) exams.

The South Bend lease was authorized by Public Law 112-37 in an amount not to exceed $6,731,000. The lease increased from 39,000 nusf to 71,403 nusf from the time the prospectus was submitted and when the lease was authorized.

Delineated area - Properties must be located within the delineated area within the following boundaries:

5. San Jose, CA - Outpatient Clinic Lease

The new Community Base Outpatient Clinic (CBOC) will accommodate 72,000 net usable square feet (nusf)/97,200 rentable square feet (rsf) with approximately 572 parking spaces. The estimated annual unserviced rent is $5,586,000. This project will replace the existing 72,000 nusf CBOC in San Jose, CA. The CBOC will provide primary care, mental health and specialty care, to include audiology, podiatry and optometry. The clinic will also provide ancillary and diagnostic services, to include general x-ray, laboratory, pharmacy and telehealth.

Delineated area - Properties must be located within the delineated area within the following boundaries:

- North: Route 87 (Guadalupe Parkway) to Charcot Avenue
- East: I-880 to Highway 101 to Bernal Road
- South: Route 85 to Cottle Road to Santa Teresa Boulevard to Highway 101
- West: Route 17 to I-880 to Route 87 (Guadalupe Parkway)

6. Butler, PA - Health Care Center (HCC) Lease

The new Health Care Center (HCC) will accommodate 168,000 net usable square feet (nusf)/226,800 rentable square feet (rsf) with approximately 1,035 parking spaces. The estimated annual unserviced rent is $6,582,000. This project will relocate outpatient services from the current Butler VA Medical Center (VAMC) to a leased build-to-suit HCC in the vicinity of Butler, PA. The new HCC will expand Butler’s outpatient space to approximately 168,000 nusf to meet increased Veteran demand. This clinic will serve Veterans from the counties of Armstrong, Butler, Clarion, Lawrence and Mercer. This project will allow VA to continue to provide timely access to state-of-the-art primary care, specialty care, mental health and ancillary diagnostic services in a properly sized facility to meet increased workload.

Delineated area - The proposed site must be within a five (5) mile radius of Eagle Mill Road and Benjamin Franklin Highway (422)
Resolved by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the U.S. House of Representatives, that pursuant to 40 U.S.C. § 3307, a replacement lease of up to 97,200 rentable square feet of space, and 576 parking spaces, for the Department of Veterans Affairs to replace the existing Community Based Outpatient Clinic in San Jose, California, at a proposed unserviced annual cost of $5,586,000 for a lease term of up to 20 years, a prospectus for which, as amended by the respective section of the attached VA Lease Summaries, is attached to and authorized by this resolution.

Approval of this prospectus constitutes authority to execute an interim lease for all tenants, if necessary, prior to the execution of the new lease.

Provided that, to the maximum extent practicable, the lease contract(s) shall include a purchase option that can be exercised at the conclusion of the firm term of the lease.

Provided further, that the delineated area of the procurement is identical to the delineated area included in the prospectus and associated VA Lease Summary, except that, if it is determined that the delineated area of the procurement should not be identical to the delineated area included in the prospectus and associated VA Lease Summary, an explanatory statement shall be provided to the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives prior to exercising any lease authority provided in this resolution.
San Jose, California

II. Description of Project

This project will replace the existing 72,000 net usable square foot (NUSF) San Jose Community Based Outpatient Clinic (CBOC) in San Jose, CA. The existing 72,000 NUSF San Jose CBOC lease is set to expire in 2016 with no additional option years remaining on the existing lease and no opportunity to renew. The replacement lease will be for up to 72,000 NUSF and include at least 576 parking spaces. The San Jose CBOC will provide primary care, mental health and specialty care, to include audiology, podiatry and optometry. The clinic will also provide ancillary and diagnostic services, to include general x-ray, laboratory, pharmacy and telehealth.

Approval of this prospectus will constitute authority for up to 20 years of leasing, as well as potential extension of the present lease as may be necessary pending execution of the replacement lease.

III. Priorities/Deficiencies Addressed

This lease addresses the need to provide ongoing primary care, mental health and specialty care services to Veterans residing in San Jose, CA. The San Jose CBOC is a busy, multi-specialty clinic that treats over 10,000 Veterans annually. The San Jose CBOC is located in Santa Clara County where over 75,000 Veterans currently reside. Maintaining a presence in the San Jose region is critical to ensuring access to health care services for these Veterans, improving the likelihood that Veterans will seek care and comply with clinical treatment plans. A new 20-year lease is required since VA will have to vacate the existing facility no later than November 2016.

Replacing the San Jose CBOC with a new facility in the San Jose region will enable VA PAHCS to provide a state-of-the-art treatment facility using integrated design concepts. The new facility will be designed around the principles of Veteran- and family-centric care; providing space for interdisciplinary team delivery; integration of the family into the treatment plan; and creating space to optimize health and wellness. Continuing service in this region also embodies the goal of being patient-centric by delivering care in a community setting where a substantial number of Veterans live, thereby reducing wait and drive times and eliminating service disparities.

IV. Alternatives to Lease Considered

Alternative 1 - Status Quo: The status quo would continue to provide outpatient services in the existing San Jose CBOC clinic until the current lease expires in 2016. The primary care access point in southern Santa Clara County would be eliminated, significantly decreasing access to care for Veterans. This alternative would require that Veterans residing in Santa Clara County, specifically in the City of San Jose, travel through densely congested traffic corridors to receive basic services in either Palo Alto or Monterey. In addition, this alternative does not provide any opportunity to decompress the Palo Alto Division. As it is the goal of VAPAHCs to improve access to services for Veterans, this option is not the most optimal.

Alternative 2 - New Lease (Preferred alternative): This project proposes to replace the 72,000 NUSF CBOC in San Jose, CA with a new, leased facility after the expiration of the existing lease in 2016. The replacement lease will be for up to 72,000 NUSF and include a minimum of 360 parking spaces. Through the competitive procurement process, this alternative will allow VAPAHCs to identify the best value land parcel and facility for the new clinic. The clinic will be designed to provide state-of-the-art services and incorporate the latest VA clinical delivery models, to include Patient Aligned Care Team practices. Therefore, leasing a facility in the San Jose area to ensure the continued provision of medical services is the preferred alternative.

Alternative 3 – Contract Out Services: This alternative would seek to contract out all ambulatory, mental health and specialty care in the community. As a national health care system, VA has gained a unique level of expertise in providing Veterans services, including the maintenance of a comprehensive medical record, expertise in mental health issues and provision of wellness outreach and education that would be extremely difficult to replicate in a community setting. Relying on a community or contract provider that potentially lacks expertise in Veteran issues to provide treatment to this potentially vulnerable and at-risk patient population poses a risk to Veteran safety. In addition, relying on contract providers to offer these services remains cost prohibitive and is subject to the availability of mental health providers within the community. Therefore, this alternative is the least preferred.

Alternative 4 – New Construction: This alternative would require VAPAHCs to acquire a land parcel and construct a new, 72,000 NUSF facility. A permanent site limits the ability to relocate services in the future to adapt to changes in Veteran demographics and is therefore less favorable. In addition, new construction would require land acquisition; this not only increases the cost, but would delay activation by approximately one year. Therefore, this alternative is the second preferred.

TITLE I—SAVE AMERICAN WORKERS

SEC. 101. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “Save American Workers Act of 2014”.

SEC. 102. REPEAL OF 30-HOUR THRESHOLD FOR CLASSIFICATION AS FULL-TIME EMPLOYEE FOR PURPOSES OF THE EMPLOYER MANDATE IN THE PATIENT PROTECTION AND AFFORDABLE CARE ACT AND REPLACEMENT WITH 40 HOURS.

(a) FULL-TIME EQUIVALENTS.—Paragraph (2) of section 4980H(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended—
(1) by repealing subparagraph (E), and
(2) by inserting after subparagraph (D) the following new subparagraph:
``(E) FULL-TIME EMPLOYEES TREATED AS FULL-TIME EMPLOYEES.—So long for purposes of determining whether an employee is an applicable large employer under this paragraph, an employer shall, in addition to the employee's average hours of service for any month otherwise determined, include for such month a number of full-time employees determined by dividing the aggregate number of hours of service of employees who are not full-time employees for the month by 174.''.

(b) FULL-TIME EMPLOYEES.—Paragraph (4) of section 4980H(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended—
(1) by repealing subparagraph (A), and
(2) by inserting before subparagraph (B) the following new subparagraph:
``(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘full-time employee’ means, with respect to any month, an employee who is employed on average at least 40 hours of service per week.''.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to months beginning after December 31, 2013.

TITLE II—HIRE MORE HEROES

SEC. 201. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “Hire More Heroes Act of 2014”.

SEC. 202. EMPLOYMENT WITH HEALTH COVERAGE UNDER TRICARE OR THE VETERANS ADMINISTRATION MAY BE EXEMPTED FROM THE EMPLOYER MANDATE UNDER PATIENT PROTECTION AND AFFORDABLE CARE ACT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 4980H(c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by adding at the end the following:
``(F) EXEMPTION FOR HEALTH COVERAGE UNDER TRICARE OR THE VETERANS ADMINISTRATION.—So long for purposes of determining whether an employer is an applicable large employer under this paragraph, an employer may elect not to take into account for any month any employee who is employed under a health care program under TRICARE or the Veterans Administration, including coverage under the TRICARE program, or who is covered under a health care program under chapter 17 or 18 of title 38, United States Code, as determined by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, in coordination with the Secretary of Health and Human Services and the Secretary of Defense.''

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall apply to months beginning after December 31, 2013.

TITLE III—AMERICAN RESEARCH AND COMPETITIVENESS

SEC. 301. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “American Research and Competitiveness Act of 2014”.

SEC. 302. RESEARCH GAZETTEER REVISED, SIMPLIFIED AND MADE PERMANENT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (a) of section 41 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended to read as follows:
``(a) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of section 38, the research credit determined under this section for the taxable year shall be an amount equal to—
(1) 20 percent of so much of the qualified research expenses for the taxable year as exceeds 50 percent of the average qualified research expenses for the 3 taxable years preceding the taxable year for which the credit is being determined,
(2) 20 percent of so much of the average basic research payments for the 3 taxable years preceding the taxable year for which the credit is being determined, plus
(3) 20 percent of the amounts paid or incurred by the taxpayer in carrying on any trade or business of the taxpayer during the taxable year (including as contributions) to an energy research consortium for energy research and trade or business of the taxpayer during the taxable year.''

(b) REPEAL OF TERMINATION.—Section 41 of such Code is amended by striking subsection (b).

(c) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—
(1) Subsection (c) of section 41 of such Code is amended to read as follows:
``(1) DETERMINATION OF AVERAGE RESEARCH EXPENSES FOR PRIOR YEARS.—
``(I) SPECIAL RULE IN CASE OF NO QUALIFIED RESEARCH EXPENDITURES IN ANY OF 3 PRECEDING TAXABLE YEARS.—In any case in which the taxpayer has no qualified research expenses in any one of the 3 taxable years preceding the taxable year for which the credit is being determined, the amount determined under subsection (a)(1) for such taxable year shall be equal to 10 percent of the qualified research expenses for the taxable year.''

(2) CONSISTENT TREATMENT OF EXPENSES.—
``(A) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding whether the period for filing a claim for credit or refund has expired for any taxable year taken into account in determining the average qualified research expenses, or average basic research payments, taken into account under subsection (a), research expenses and basic research payments taken into account in determining such averages shall be determined on a consistent basis with the determination of qualified research expenses and basic research payments, respectively, for the credit year.
``(B) PREVENTION OF DISTORTIONS.—The Secretary may prescribe regulations to prevent distortions in calculating a taxpayer's qualified research expenses or basic research payments caused by a change in accounting methods used by the taxpayer during the current year and a year taken into account in determining the average qualified research expenses or average basic research payments taken into account under subsection (a).''.

(2) Section 41(e) of such Code is amended—
(A) by striking paragraph (6) and inserting the following:
``(c) BASIC RESEARCH PAYMENTS.—For purposes of this section—
``(1) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘basic research payment’ means, with respect to any taxable year, any amount paid in cash during such taxable year by a corporation to any qualified organization for basic research but only if—
``(A) such payment is pursuant to a written agreement between such corporation and such qualified organization, and ``(B) such basic research is to be performed by such qualified organization.
``(2) EXCEPTION TO REQUIREMENT THAT RESEARCH BE PERFORMED.—In the case of a qualified organization described in subparagraph (C) or (D) of paragraph (3), subparagraph (B) of paragraph (1) shall not apply.''

(b) by redesigning paragraphs (6) and (7) as paragraphs (3) and (4), respectively, and
(C) in paragraph (4) as so redesignated, by striking subparagraphs (D) and (E) and by redesignating subparagraphs (D) and (E) as subparagraphs (B) and (C), respectively.
(3) Section 41(f)(3) of such Code is amended—
  (A) by striking ‘‘; and, and the gross receipts’’ in subparagraph (A)(i) and all that follows through ‘‘; and before 2014’’,
  (ii) by striking clause (ii) of subparagraph (A) and redesignating clauses (iv), (v), and (vi), thereof, as clauses (iii), (iv), and (v), respectively,
  (iii) by striking ‘‘and (iv)’’ each place it appears in subparagraph (A)(iv) (as so redesignated) and inserting ‘‘and (iii)’’,
  (iv) by striking subparagraph (IV) of subparagraph (A)(iv) (as so redesignated), by striking ‘‘, and shall not include’’, and
  (v) by striking ‘‘(A)’’ in subparagraph (B) and inserting ‘‘(A)’’, and
  (vi) by striking ‘‘(A)(iv)’’ in subparagraph (B)(i)(II) and inserting ‘‘(A)(iii)’’.
(B) by striking ‘‘, and the gross receipts of the predecessor, in subparagraph (A)(iv)(II) (as so redesignated),’’ by striking ‘‘, and the gross receipts of,’’ in subparagraph (B),
(D) by striking ‘‘; or gross receipts of,’’ in subparagraph (B),
(E) by striking subparagraph (C),
(F) Section 45C(b)(1) of such Code is amended by striking subparagraph (D),
(G) by striking ‘‘in General.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 2013.’’
(2) Subsection (b).—The amendment made by subsection (b) shall apply to amounts paid or incurred after December 31, 2013.

(a) In General.— Paragraph (7) of section 1374(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended to read as follows—
  (7) RECOGNITION PERIOD.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 2013.

SEC. 503. BUDGETARY EFFECTS.
(a) Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Scorecards.—The budgetary effects of this title shall not be entered on either PAYGO scorecard maintained pursuant to section 4(d) of the Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act of 2010.
(b) Senate PAYGO Scorecards.—The budgetary effects of this title shall not be entered on any PAYGO scorecard maintained for purposes of section 201 of S. Con. Res. 21 (110th Congress).

SEC. 504. BUDGETARY EFFECTS.
(a) Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Scorecards.—The budgetary effects of this title shall not be entered on any PAYGO scorecard maintained pursuant to section 4(d) of the Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act of 2010.
(b) Senate PAYGO Scorecards.—The budgetary effects of this title shall not be entered on any PAYGO scorecard maintained for purposes of section 201 of S. Con. Res. 21 (110th Congress).
(iii) INFLATION ADJUSTMENT.—In the case of any taxable year beginning in a calendar year after 2014, the $5,000 amount in clause (i) shall be increased by an amount equal to—

(I) such dollar amount, multiplied by

(ii) the automobile price inflation adjustment determined under section 280F(c)(7) for the calendar year in which such taxable year begins by substituting ‘2013’ for ‘1987’ in clause (ii) thereof.

If any increase under the preceding sentence is not a multiple of $100, such increase shall be rounded to the nearest multiple of $100.

(E) DEDUCTION ALLOWED IN COMPUTING MINIMUM TAX.—The aggregate amounts determined under subsection (A)(i), (B)(i)(II) shall be determined without regard to any adjustment under section 56.

(b) EXPANSION OF ELECTION TO ACCELERATE AMT CREDITS IN LIEU OF BONUS DEPRECIATION.—Section 168(k)(4) of such Code is amended to read as follows:

(4) ELECTION TO ACCELERATE AMT CREDITS IN LIEU OF BONUS DEPRECIATION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—If a corporation elects to have this paragraph apply for any taxable year—

(i) paragraphs (1)(A), (2)(D)(i), and (5)(A)(i) shall not apply for such taxable year,

(ii) the applicable depreciation method used under this section with respect to any qualified property shall be the straight line method, and

(iii) the limitation imposed by section 53(c) for such taxable year shall be increased by the amount of the depreciation amount which is determined for such taxable year under subparagraph (B).

(B) BONUS DEPRECIATION AMOUNT.—For purposes of this paragraph—

(I) IN GENERAL.—The bonus depreciation amount for any taxable year is an amount equal to 20 percent of the excess (if any) of—

(I) the aggregate amount of depreciation which would be allowed under this section for qualified property placed in service by the taxpayer during such taxable year if paragraph (1) applied to all such property, over

(ii) the aggregate amount of depreciation which would be allowed under this section for qualified property placed in service by the taxpayer during such taxable year if paragraph (1) did not apply to any such property. The aggregate amounts determined under subclauses (I) and (II) shall be determined without regard to subparagraph (A)(ii).

(ii) PARTNERSHIPS WITH ELECTING PARTNERS.—In the case of a partnership which is a partner in a partnership and which makes an election under paragraph (4) for such partnership, the amount attributable to that partner for the taxable year, for purposes of determining such corporation’s distributive share of partnership items under section 702 for such taxable year—

(I) paragraphs (1)(A), (2)(D)(i), and (5)(A)(i) shall not apply, and

(II) the applicable depreciation method used under this section with respect to any qualified property shall be the straight line method.

(iii) CREDIT ALLOWABLE IN SUBSEQUENT YEARS.—In the case of a partnership in which more than one partner is treated as a single taxpayer for purposes of this paragraph with respect to any class of property for any taxable year, this subsection shall not apply to all property in such class placed in service (or, in the case of a partnership which is a partner in a partnership, to any property in such class placed in service by an electing partner) during such taxable year. An election under this paragraph may be revoked only with the consent of the Secretary.

(iv) COORDINATION WITH ELECTION TO ACCELERATE AMT CREDITS.—Section 168(k)(5)(E) of such Code is amended by striking “section 168(k)(2)(G)” and inserting “section 168(k)(2)(E)”.

(v) Section 469(c)(6)(B) of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

(E) DEDUCTION ALLOWED IN COMPUTING MINIMUM TAX.—Rules similar to the rules of paragraph (2)(E) shall apply for purposes of this paragraph.

(1) COMPUTATIONAL AMENDMENTS.—

(I) Section 168(e)(6)(B) of such Code is amended by striking paragraph (D).

(2) Section 168(k) of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

(6) ELECTION OUT.—If a taxpayer makes an election under this paragraph with respect to any class of property for any taxable year, this subsection shall not apply to all property in such class placed in service (or, in the case of a partnership which is a partner in a partnership, to any property in such class placed in service by an electing partner) during such taxable year. An election under this paragraph may be revoked only with the consent of the Secretary.

SEC. 602. BUDGETARY EFFECTS.

Title II—Financial Services

TITLE I—Small Business Capital Access and Job Preservation

SEC. 101. Short Title.

This title may be cited as the “Small Business Capital Access and Job Preservation Act”.

SEC. 102. Registration and Reporting Requirements by Private Equity Funds Advisors.

Section 203 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (15 U.S.C. 80b-3) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in this paragraph, an investment adviser shall be subject to the registration or reporting requirements of this title with respect to the investment adviser with respect to any fund or funds, provided that each such fund has not borrowed and does not have outstanding a principal amount in excess of twice its invested capital commitments.

“(2) Maintenance of Records and Access by Commission.—Not later than 6 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Commission must—

“(A) require investment advisers described in paragraph (1) to maintain such records and provide access to the Commission such annual or other reports as the Commission may require taking into account fund size, governance, investment strategy, risk, and other factors, as the Commission determines necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors; and

“(B) to define the term ‘private equity fund’ for purposes of this subsection.”

Title II—Small Business Mergers, Acquisitions, Sales, and Brokerage Simplification

SEC. 201. Short Title.

This title may be cited as the “Small Business Mergers, Acquisitions, Sales, and Brokerage Simplification Act of 2014”.

Section 15(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. 78o(b)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(12) Registration Exemption for Mergers and Acquisition Brokers.

“(A) In General.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), an M&A broker shall be exempt from registration under this section.

“(B) Excluded Activities.—An M&A broker is not exempt from registration under this paragraph if such broker does any of the following:

“(i) Directly or indirectly, in connection with the transfer of ownership of an eligible privately held company, receives, holds, transmits, or has custody of the funds or securities to be exchanged by the parties to the transaction.

“(ii) Engages on behalf of an issuer in a public offering of any class of securities that is registered, or is required to be registered, with the Commission under section 12 or with respect to which the issuer files, or is required to file, periodic information, documents, and reports under subsection (d).

“(C) Rule of Construction.—Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to limit any other authority of the Commission to exempt any person from the provisions of paragraph (1) from any provision of this title, or from any provision of any rule or regulation thereunder.

“(D) Definitions.—In this paragraph:

“(i) CONTROL.—The term ‘control’ means the power, directly or indirectly, to direct the management or policies of a company, whether through ownership of securities, by contract, or otherwise. There is a presumption of control of any person who—

“(I) has the right to vote 20 percent or more of a class of voting securities or the power to sell or direct the sale of 20 percent or more of a class of voting securities; or “(II) in the case of a partnership or limited liability company, has the right to vote 20 percent or more of the voting interests of the company.

“(ii) EIGTHLY PRIVATELY HELD COMPANY.—The term ‘eligible privately held company’ means a company that meets both of the following conditions:

“(I) The company does not have any class of securities registered, or required to be registered, with the Commission under section 12 or with respect to which the company files, or is required to file, periodic information, documents, and reports under subsection (d).

“(II) In the fiscal year ending immediately before the date that the services of the M&A broker are initially engaged with respect to the securities transaction, the company meets either or both of the following conditions, in accordance with the historical financial accounting records of the company:

“(aa) The earnings of the company before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortization are less than $25,000,000.

“(iii) M&A BROKER.—The term ‘M&A broker’ means a broker, and any person associated with a broker, engaged in the business of effecting securities transactions solely in connection with the transfer of ownership of an eligible privately held company, regardless of whether the broker acts on behalf of a seller or buyer, through the purchase, sale, exchange, or redemption of, or a business combination involving, securities or assets of the eligible privately held company. If the broker reasonably believes that—

“(I) upon consummation of the transaction, any person acquiring securities or assets of the eligible privately held company, acting alone or in concert, will control and, directly or indirectly, will be active in the management of the eligible privately held company or the business of the assets of the eligible privately held company; and “(II) if any person is offered securities in exchange for securities or assets of the eligible privately held company, such person will, prior to becoming legally bound to consummate the transaction, receive or have access to the most recent year-end balance sheet, income statement, statement of changes in financial position, and statement of owner’s equity of the issuer of the securities offered in exchange, and, if the financial statements of the issuer are audited, the related report of the independent auditor, a balance sheet dated not more than 120 days before the date of the offer, and information pertaining to the management, business, results of operations for the period covered by the foregoing financial statements, and critical loss contingency of the issuer.

“(E) INFLATION ADJUSTMENT.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—On the date that is 5 years after the date of the enactment of the Small Business Mergers, Acquisitions, Sales, and Brokerage Simplification Act of 2014, and every 5 years thereafter, each dollar amount in subparagraph (D)(ii) shall be adusted by—

DIVISION III—Oversight

SUBDIVISION A—Unfunded Mandates Information and Transparency

SEC. 101. Short Title.

This subdivision may be cited as the “Unfunded Mandates Information and Transparency Act of 2014”.

SEC. 102. Purpose.

The purpose of this title is—

(1) to improve the transparency of the deliberations of Congress with respect to proposed Federal mandates by—

(A) providing Congress and the public with more complete information about the effects of such mandates; and

(B) ensuring that Congress acts on such mandates only after focused deliberation on their effects; and

(2) to enhance the ability of Congress and the public to identify Federal mandates that may impose undue harm on consumers, workers, employers, small businesses, and State, local, and tribal governments.

SEC. 103. Providing for Congressional Budget Office Studies on Policies Involving Conditions of Grant Aid.

Section 302(g) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 (2 U.S.C. 602(g)) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:
“(3) ADDITIONAL STUDIES.—At the request of any Chairman or ranking member of the minority of a Committee of the Senate or the House of Representatives, the Director shall conduct an assessment comparing the authorized level of funding in a bill or resolution to the prospective costs of carrying out any changes to a condition of Federal assistance imposed on State, local, or tribal governments participating in the Federal assistance program concerned or, in the case of a bill or joint resolution that authorizes such sums as are necessary, an assessment of an estimated level of funding compared to such costs.”.

SEC. 104. CLARIFYING THE DEFINITION OF DIRECT REGULATORY ACTION.

Section 421(3) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 (2 U.S.C. 658(3)(A)(i)) is amended by—

(1) in subparagraph (A), by inserting “incorporating” before “or”;

(2) in subparagraph (B), by inserting after “to spend” the following: “: or forgiveness of, or credits for, any such costs”; and

(3) by inserting “in paragraphs (5) and (6) of subsection (b) of section 683(a) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act” after “paragraphs (6) and (7) of subsection (b) of section 683(a) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act”.

SEC. 105. EXPANDING THE SCOPE OF REPORTING REQUIREMENTS TO INCLUDE REGULATIONS IMPOSED BY INDEPENDENT REGULATORY AGENCIES.

Paragraph (1) of section 421 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 (2 U.S.C. 658) is amended by striking “except it does not include the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System or the Federal Open Market Committee”.

SEC. 106. AMENDMENTS TO REPLACE “OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET WITH OFFICE OF INFORMATION AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS”.

The Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (Public Law 104–10; 2 U.S.C. 1511 et seq.) is amended—

(1) in section 106(c) (2 U.S.C. 1511(c))—

(A) in the subsection heading, by striking “OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET” and inserting “OFFICE OF INFORMATION AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS”; and

(B) by striking “Director of the Office of Management and Budget” and inserting “Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs”; and

(2) in section 206(c) (2 U.S.C. 1535(c))—

(A) in the subsection heading, by striking “OMB” and inserting “IRFA”; and

(B) by striking “Director of the Office of Management and Budget” and inserting “Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs”.

SEC. 107. APPLYING SUBSTANTIVE POINT OF ORDER TO PRIVATE SECTOR MANDATES.

Section 422(a)(2) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 (2 U.S.C. 658a(a)(2)) is amended—

(1) by striking “Federal intergovernmental mandates” and inserting “Federal mandates”;

(2) by striking “or 424(b)(1)” after “section 424(a)”.

SEC. 108. REGULATORY PROCESS AND PRINCIPLES.

Section 201 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1531) is amended to read as follows:

“SEC. 201. REGULATORY PROCESS AND PRINCIPLES.

“(a) In General.—Each agency shall, unless otherwise expressly prohibited by law, assess the effects of Federal regulatory actions on State, local, and tribal governments and the private sector (other than to the extent that such regulatory actions incorporate requirements specifically set forth in law) in accordance with the following principles:

“(1) Each agency shall identify the problem that it intends to address (including, if applicable, the failures of private markets or public institutions that warrant new agency action) as well as assess the significance of that problem.

“(2) Each agency shall examine whether existing regulations (or other law) have created, or contributed to, the problem that a new regulation is intended to correct and determine whether those regulations (or other law) should be modified to achieve the intended goal of regulation more effectively.

“(3) Each agency shall identify and assess available alternatives to direct regulation, including providing economic incentives to encourage the desired behavior, such as user fees or marketable permits, or providing information upon which choices can be made by the public.

“(4) If an agency determines that a regulation is the least feasible method of achieving the regulatory objective, it shall design its regulations in the most cost-effective manner to achieve the regulatory objective. To that end, it shall consider incentives for innovation, consistency, predictability, the costs of enforcement and compliance (to the government, regulated entities, and the public), flexibility, distributive impacts, and equity.

“(5) Each agency shall assess both the costs and the benefits of the intended regulation and regulatory action, including new costs and benefits that are difficult to quantify, propose or adopt a regulation, unless expressly prohibited by law, only upon a reasoned determination that the benefits of the intended regulation justify its costs.

“(6) Each agency shall base its decisions on the best reasonably obtainable scientific, technical, economic, and other information concerning the need for, and consequences of, the intended regulation.

“(7) Each agency shall identify and assess alternative forms of regulation and shall, to the extent feasible, specify performance objectives, rather than specifying the behavior or manner of compliance that regulated entities must adopt.

“(8) Each agency shall avoid regulations that are inconsistent, incompatible, or duplicative with its other regulations or those of other Federal agencies.

“(9) Each agency shall tailor its regulations to minimize the costs of the cumulative impact of regulations.

“(10) Each agency shall draft its regulations to be simple and easy to understand, with the goal of minimizing the potential for uncertainty and litigation arising from such uncertainty.

“(b) REGULATORY ACTION DEFINED.—In this section, the term “regulatory action” means any substantive action by an agency (normally published in the Federal Register) that promulgates or is expected to lead to the promulgation of a final rule or regulation, including the receipt of comments of proposed rulemaking and notices of proposed rulemaking.”.

SEC. 109. EXPANDING THE SCOPE OF STATE, LOCAL, AND TRIBAL GOVERNMENTS IMPOSED BY INDEPENDENT REGULATORY AGENCIES.

Section 421(3) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 (2 U.S.C. 1531) is amended to read as follows:

“(3) in section 206 (2 U.S.C. 1536), by striking "Director of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs"; and “(4) in section 208 (2 U.S.C. 1538), by striking "Director of the Office of Management and Budget" and inserting "Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs".

SEC. 110. EXPANDING THE SCOPE OF STATE, LOCAL, AND TRIBAL GOVERNMENTS IMPOSED BY INDEPENDENT REGULATORY AGENCIES.

“(a) General.—Subsection (a) of section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1532) is amended to read as follows:

“(1) the aggregate of all Federal mandates on State, local, or tribal governments, or to the private sector in the aggregate of $100,000,000 or more in any one year, the agency shall submit a written statement containing the following:

“(1) The text of the draft proposed rulemaking or final rule, together with a reasonable explanation of how the proposed rulemaking or final rule will meet that need.

“(2) An assessment of the potential costs and benefits of the proposed rulemaking or final rule, including an explanation of the manner in which the proposed rulemaking or final rule is consistent with a statutory requirement and avoids undue interference with State, local, and tribal governments in the exercise of their governmental functions.

“(3) A qualitative and quantitative assessment, including the underlying analysis, of benefits anticipated from the proposed rulemaking or final rule (such as the promotion of public health, safety, and private markets, the enhancement of health and safety, the protection of the natural environment, and the elimination or reduction of discrimination, including productivity, employment, and international competitiveness), health, safety, and the rural environment.

“(4) Estimates by the agency, if and to the extent that the agency determines that accurate estimates are reasonably feasible, of

“(A) the future compliance costs of the Federal mandate; and “(B) any disproportionate budgetary effects of the Federal mandate upon any particular regions of the Nation or particular State, local, or tribal governments, urban or rural types of communities, or particular regions of the Nation or particular segments of the private sector.

“(6)(A) A detailed description of the extent that such regulatory actions include new public institutions that warrant new agency action, as well as assess the significance of that problem.

“(2) Each agency shall examine whether existing regulations (or other law) have created, or contributed to, the problem that a new regulation is intended to correct and determine whether those regulations (or other law) should be modified to achieve the intended goal of regulation more effectively.

“(3) Each agency shall identify and assess available alternatives to direct regulation, including providing economic incentives to encourage the desired behavior, such as user fees or marketable permits, or providing information upon which choices can be made by the public.

“(4) If an agency determines that a regulation is the least feasible method of achieving the regulatory objective, it shall design its regulations in the most cost-effective manner to achieve the regulatory objective. To that end, it shall consider incentives for innovation, consistency, predictability, the costs of enforcement and compliance (to the government, regulated entities, and the public), flexibility, distributive impacts, and equity.

“(5) Each agency shall assess both the costs and the benefits of the intended regulation and regulatory action, including new costs and benefits that are difficult to quantify, propose or adopt a regulation, unless expressly prohibited by law, only upon a reasoned determination that the benefits of the intended regulation justify its costs.

“(6) Each agency shall base its decisions on the best reasonably obtainable scientific, technical, economic, and other information concerning the need for, and consequences of, the intended regulation.

“(7) Each agency shall identify and assess alternative forms of regulation and shall, to the extent feasible, specify performance objectives, rather than specifying the behavior or manner of compliance that regulated entities must adopt.

“(8) Each agency shall avoid regulations that are inconsistent, incompatible, or duplicative with its other regulations or those of other Federal agencies.

“(9) Each agency shall tailor its regulations to minimize the costs of the cumulative impact of regulations.

“(10) Each agency shall draft its regulations to be simple and easy to understand, with the goal of minimizing the potential for uncertainty and litigation arising from such uncertainty.

SEC. 118. ENHANCED STAKEHOLDER CONSULTATION.

Section 204 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1534) is amended—

(1) in the section heading, by inserting “AND PRIVATE SECTOR” before “INPUT”;

(2) in subsection (a)—

(B) by striking “Federal intergovernmental mandates” and inserting “Federal mandates”; and
(3) by amending subsection (c) to read as follows:
“(c) GUIDELINES.—For appropriate implementation of subsections (a) and (b) consistent with applicable laws and regulations, the following guidelines shall be followed:
“(1) Consultations shall take place as early as possible, before issuance of a notice of proposed rulemaking, continue through the final rule stage, and be integrated explicitly into the rulemaking process.
“(2) Agencies shall consult with a wide variety of State, local, and tribal governments, and impacted parties within the private sector (including small businesses), geographic, political, and other factors that may differentiate varying points of view should be considered.
“(3) Agencies should estimate benefits and costs to assist with these consultations. The scope of the consultation should reflect the cost and significance of the Federal mandate being considered.
“(4) Agencies shall, to the extent practicable—
“(A) seek out the views of State, local, and tribal governments, and impacted parties within the private sector (including small businesses), geographic, political, and other factors that may differentiate varying points of view should be considered.
“(B) solicit ideas about alternative methods of compliance and potential flexibilities, and input on whether the Federal regulation will lead and not duplicate similar laws in other levels of government.
“(5) Consultations shall address the cumulative impact of regulations on the affected entities.
“(6) Agencies may accept electronic submissions of comments by relevant parties but may not use those comments as the sole method of satisfying the guidelines in this subsection.

SEC. 111. NEW AUTHORITIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES FOR OFFICE OF INFORMATION AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS.
Section 208 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1538b) is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 208. OFFICE OF INFORMATION AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS RESPONSIBILITIES.
(a) In general.—The Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs shall provide meaningful guidance and oversight so that each agency’s regulations for which a written statement is required under section 202 are consistent with the principles and requirements of this title, as well as other applicable laws, and do not conflict with the policies or actions of another agency. If the Administrator determines that an agency’s regulations for which a written statement is required under section 202 do not comply with such principles and requirements, are not consistent with other applicable laws, or conflict with the policies or actions of another agency, the Administrator shall identify areas of non-compliance, notify the agency, and request that the agency comply before the agency finalizes the regulation.

(b) ANNUAL STATEMENTS TO CONGRESS ON AGENCY COMPLIANCE.—The Director of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs annually shall submit to Congress, including the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs of the Senate and the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform of Representatives, a written report detailing compliance by each agency with the requirements of this title that relate to regulations for which a written statement is required and all that follows through “shall not” and inserting the following: “written statement under section 202, a written plan under section 203(a)(1) and (2), or compliance with section 205(a) and (b), is required, the inadequacy or failure to prepare such statement (including the inadequacy or failure to prepare any estimate, analysis, statement, or description), to prepare such written plan, or to comply with such section may”.

SEC. 112. RETROSPECTIVE ANALYSIS OF EXISTING FEDERAL REGULATIONS.
The Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (Public Law 104–4; 2 U.S.C. 1511 et seq.) is amended—
(1) by redesignating section 209 as section 218; and
(2) by inserting after section 208 the following new section 209:

SEC. 209. RETROSPECTIVE ANALYSIS OF EXISTING FEDERAL REGULATIONS.
(a) REQUIREMENT.—At the request of the chairman or ranking member of a standing or select committee of the House of Representatives or the Senate, an agency shall conduct a retrospective analysis of an existing Federal regulation promulgated by an agency.

(b) REPORT.—Each agency conducting a retrospective analysis of existing Federal regulations pursuant to subsection (a) shall submit to the chairman of the relevant committee, Congress, and the Comptroller General a report containing, with respect to each Federal regulation covered by the analysis—
(1) a copy of the Federal regulation;
(2) the continued need for the Federal regulation;
(3) the nature of comments or complaints received concerning the Federal regulation from the public since the Federal regulation was promulgated;
(4) the extent to which the Federal regulation overlaps, duplicates, or conflicts with other Federal regulations, and, to the extent feasible, with State and local governmental rules;
(5) the degree to which technology, economic conditions, or other factors have changed in the area affected by the Federal regulation;
(6) a complete analysis of the retrospective direct costs and benefits of the Federal regulation that considers studies done outside the Federal Government (if any) estimating such costs or benefits; and
(7) any litigation history challenging the Federal regulation.

SEC. 113. EXPANSION OF JUDICIAL REVIEW.
Section 401(a) of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1517(a)) is amended—
(1) in paragraphs (1) and (2)(A)—
(A) by striking “sections 202 and 203(a)(1) and (2) each place it appears and inserting “sections 201, 202, 203(a)(1) and (2), and 205(a) and (b);” and
(B) by striking only each place it appears;
(2) in paragraph (2)(B), by striking “section 202 and all that follows through the period a court may compel the agency to prepare such written plan, or comply with such section.”;
(3) in paragraph (3), by striking “written statement under section 202, a written plan under section 203(a)(1) and (2), or compliance with section 205(a) and (b), is required, the inadequacy or failure to prepare such statement (including the inadequacy or failure to prepare any estimate, analysis, statement, or description), to prepare such written plan, or to comply with such section may”.

(b) Section 553(b) of title 5, United States Code, is amended by striking subsections (b) through (e) and inserting the following:

"(b) RULE MAKING CONSIDERATIONS.—In a rule making, an agency shall make all pre-rule making, final factual determinations based on evidence and consider, in addition to other applicable considerations, the following:

"(1) The legal authority under which a rule may be proposed, including whether a rule making is required by statute, and if so, whether by a specific date, or whether the agency has discretion to commence a rule making.

"(2) Other statutory considerations applicable to whether the agency can or should propose a rule or undertake other agency action.

"(3) The specific nature and significance of the problem the agency may address with a rule (including the degree and nature of risks the problem poses and the priority of addressing those risks compared to other matters the agency may address within the agency’s jurisdiction), whether the problem warrants new agency action, and the countervailing risks that may be posed by alternatives for new agency action.

"(4) Whether existing rules have created or contributed to the problem the agency may address with a rule and whether those rules could be amended or rescinded to address the problem in whole or part.

"(5) Any reasonable alternatives for a new rule or other response identified by the agency or other considerations that mandate particular conduct or manners of compliance, but also—

"(A) the alternative of no Federal response;

"(B) amending or rescinding existing rules;

"(C) potential regional, State, local, or tribal regulatory action or other responses that could be taken in lieu of agency action; and

"(D) potential responses that—"(i) specify performance objectives rather than conduct or manners of compliance;

"(ii) establish economic incentives to encourage desired behavior;

"(iii) provide information upon which interested persons under subsection (c) may be informed of the relevant statutory objectives and justify the agency’s action;

"(iv) incorporate other innovative alternatives rather than agency actions that specify conduct or manners of compliance.

"(D) Notwithstanding any other provision of law—

"(A) the potential costs and benefits associated with potential alternative rules and other responses considered under section 553(b)(5), including direct, indirect, and cumulative costs and benefits and estimated impacts on jobs (including an estimate of the net gain or loss in domestic jobs), wages, economic growth, innovation, and economic competitiveness;

"(B) means to increase the cost-effectiveness of proposed rules;

"(C) incentives for innovation, consistency, predictability, lower costs of enforcement and compliance (to government entities, regulated entities, and the public), and flexibility.

"(C) ADVANCE NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING FOR MAJOR RULES, HIGH-IMPACT RULES, NEGATIVE-IMPACT ON JOBS AND WAGES RULES, AND RULES INVOLVING NOVEL LEGAL OR POLICY ISSUES.—In the case of a rule making for a major rule, a high-impact rule, a negative-impact on jobs and wages rule, or a rule that involves a novel legal or policy issue arising out of statutory mandates, not later than 60 days before the agency proposes the rule making is published in the Federal Register, an agency shall publish advance notice of proposed rule making in the Federal Register. In publishing such advance notice, the agency shall—

"(i) include a written statement identifying, at a minimum—

"(A) the nature and significance of the problem the agency may address with a rule, including data and other evidence and information on which the agency expects to rely for the proposed rule;

"(B) the legal authority under which a rule may be proposed, including whether a rule making is required by statute, and if so, whether by a specific date, or whether the agency has discretion to commence a rule making;

"(C) preliminary information available to the agency concerning the other considerations specified in subsection (b);

"(D) in the case of a rule that involves a novel legal or policy issue arising out of statutory mandates, the nature of and potential reasons to adopt the novel legal or policy position upon which the agency may base a proposed rule; and

"(E) an alternative rule objective for the rule and metrics by which the agency will measure progress toward that objective;

"(ii) solicit written data, views or argument from the public on the subject and issues of the rule, including any consideration from interested persons concerning the information and issues addressed in the advance notice; and

"(iii) provide for a period of not fewer than 60 days for interested persons to submit such written data, views, or argument to the agency.

"(D) NOTICES OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING; DETERMINATION OF OTHER AGENCY COURSE.

(1) Before it determines to propose a rule, and following completion of procedures under subsection (c), if applicable, the agency shall, following consultation with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, if the agency thereafter determines to propose a rule, the agency shall publish a notice of proposed rule making, which shall include—

"(A) a statement of the time, place, and nature of public rule making proceedings; reference to the rule and the authority under which the rule is proposed;

"(B) the legal authority under which the rule is required by statute; and

"(C) a description of information known to the agency concerning the other considerations specified in subsection (c);

"(2) After notice of proposed rule making is published.

(A) not later than 60 days after notice of determination of other agency course is published, the agency shall publish a notice of determination of other agency course. A notice of determination of other agency course includes—

"(i) a summary of information known to the agency concerning the considerations specified in subsection (b);

"(ii) a summary of additional information the agency provided to and obtained from interested persons under subsection (c); and

"(iii) a summary of any preliminary risk assessment or regulatory impact analysis performed by the agency and made available to the public.

(B) if the agency thereafter determines to propose a rule, the agency shall publish a notice of proposed rule making, which shall include—

"(i) the alternatives to the proposed rule, and other alternative responses, considered by the agency under subsection (b); and

"(ii) the costs and benefits of those alternatives (including all costs to be considered under subsection (b)(6));

"(C) after notice of determination of other agency course is published.

(A) if the agency did not propose any of those alternatives; and

(1) a statement of whether existing rules have created or contributed to the problem the agency seeks to address with the proposed rule; and

(2) if so, whether or not the agency proposed to amend or rescind any such rules, and why.

All information provided to or considered by the agency, and steps to obtain information by the agency, in connection with its determination to propose the rule, including any preliminary risk assessment or regulatory impact analysis prepared by the agency and information on which the agency expects to rely for the proposed rule, shall be made available to the public by electronic means and otherwise for the public’s use when the notice of proposed rule making is published.

192. If the agency undertakes procedures under subsection (c) and determines thereafter not to propose a rule, the agency shall, following consultation with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, publish a notice of determination of other agency course. A notice of determination of other agency course shall include information required by paragraph (1) if the agency determines to publish a notice of proposed rule making and a description of the alternative response the agency determined to take.

(B) if in its determination of other agency course the agency makes a determination to amend or rescind an existing rule, the agency shall not undertake additional procedures under subsection (c) before it publishes a notice of proposed rule making to amend or rescind the existing rule.

All information provided to or considered by the agency, in connection with its determination of other agency course, including but not limited to any preliminary risk assessment or regulatory impact analysis prepared by the agency and all other information that would be required to be prepared or described by the agency under paragraph (1)(D) if the agency had determined to publish a notice of proposed rule making and, at the discretion of the President or the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, information provided by that Office in consultations with the agency, shall be placed in the docket for the proposed rule and made accessible to the public by electronic means and otherwise for the public’s use when the notice of determination of other agency course is published.

(C) after notice of proposed rule making is published by the agency, the agency shall—providing interested persons an opportunity to participate in the rule making through submission of written data, views, or arguments with or without opportunity for oral presentation.

"(A) if a hearing is required under paragraph (4)(B) or subsection (e), opportunity for oral presentation shall be provided pursuant to subsection (d)(4); or

"(B) when other than under subsection (e) of this section rules are required by statute or at the discretion of the agency to be made on the basis of the evidence or other information upon which the agency bases the proposed rule fail to comply with the Information Quality Act.

"(4)(A) The agency may, upon review of the petition, determine without further process to exclude from the rule making the evidence or other information that is the subject of the petition and, if appropriate, withdraw the proposed rule. The agency shall promptly publish any such determination.

"(B) If the agency does not resolve the petition under the procedures of clause (i), it shall grant any such petition that presents a prima facie case that evidence or other information upon which the agency bases the proposed rule fails to comply with the Information Quality Act, hold the requested hearing not later than 30 days after receipt of the petition, provide a reasonable opportunity for cross-examination at the hearing, and decide the issues presented by the petition not later than 60 days after receipt of the petition.

The agency may deny any petition that it determines does not present such a prima facie case.

"(C) There shall be no judicial review of the agency’s disposition of issues considered and resolved under paragraphs (B)(ii) until judicial review of the agency’s final action. There shall be no judicial review of an agency’s determination to withhold from the rule under paragraph (B)(i) until judicial review of the rule’s basis and purpose.

"(D) Failure to petition for a hearing under this paragraph shall not preclude judicial review of the rule pursuant to the Information Quality Act under chapter 7 of this title.

(e) HEARINGS FOR HIGH-ImpACT RULES.—Following notice of a proposed rule making, receipt of comments on the proposed rule, and any hearing held under subsection (d)(4), and before adoption of any high-impact rule, the agency shall hold a hearing in accordance with sections 556 and 557, unless such hearing is waived by all participants in the rule making other than the agency. The agency shall provide a reasonable opportunity for cross-examination at such hearing. The hearing shall be limited to the following issues of fact, except that participants may waive determination of any such issue:

"(1) Whether the agency’s asserted factual predicate for the rule is supported by the evidence;

"(2) Whether there is an alternative to the proposed rule that would achieve the relevant statutory objectives at a lower cost (including all costs to be considered under subsection (b)(6)) than the proposed rule.

"(3) Whether the evidence and other information upon which the agency bases the proposed rule meets the requirements of the Information Quality Act.

"(4) Whether, if the agency proposes to adopt a rule that is more costly than the least costly alternative that would achieve the relevant statutory objectives (including, in the case of a proposed major or high-impact rule,

(6) upon petition by an interested person who has participated in the rule making, other issues relevant to the rule making, unless the agency determines that consideration of the issues at the hearing would not advance consideration of the rule or would, in light of the nature of the need for agency action, the methodology of the rule making, or the time and place for such hearing, except that such notice may be issued not later than 15 days before a hearing held under subsection (d)(4).

"(f) FINAL RULES.—(1) The agency shall adopt a rule only on the basis of the best reasonably obtainable scientific, technical, economic, and other evidence and information concerning the rule, and the consequences of, and alternatives to, the rule.

"(2) The agency may adopt a rule that is more costly than the least costly alternative that would achieve the relevant statutory objectives only if the additional benefits of the more costly rule justify its additional costs, and whether the rule can be modified or rescinded to reduce costs while continuing to achieve the relevant statutory objectives.

"(3) The agency shall adopt a rule by clause (i) of this subparagraph shall take into account the factors set forth in subsections (b) through (f) of section 553 of this title, and the agency shall adopt a rule only on the basis of the best reasonably obtainable scientific, technical, economic, and other evidence and information concerning the rule, and the consequences of, and alternatives to, the rule.

"(3)(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the agency shall adopt the least costly alternative that would achieve the relevant statutory objectives.

"(B) The agency may adopt a rule that is more costly than the least costly alternative that would achieve the relevant statutory objectives only if the additional benefits of the more costly rule justify its additional costs and only if the agency explains its reasons for doing so based on interests of public health, safety, or welfare that are clearly within the scope of the statutory provision authorizing the rule.

"(4) When it adopts a final rule, the agency shall publish a notice of final rule making. The notice shall include—

"(A) a concise, general statement of the rule’s basis and purpose;

"(B) the agency’s reasoned final determination of need for a rule to address the problem the agency seeks to address with the rule, including a statement of whether a rule is required by statute and a summary of any final regulatory impact analysis prepared by the agency;

"(C) the agency’s reasoned final determination that the benefits of the rule meet or exceed the costs (including all costs to be considered under subsection (b)(6));

"(D) the agency’s reasoned final determination that the evidence and other information upon which the agency bases the proposed rule meets the requirements of the Information Quality Act;

"(E) the agency’s reasoned final determination that no alternative considered achieved the relevant statutory objectives with lower costs (including all costs to be considered under subsection (b)(6)) than the rule; or

"(F) the agency’s reasoned determination that its adoption of a more costly rule complies with the Information Quality Act;

"(G) the agency’s reasoned final determination that the rule is consistent with the Information Quality Act;

"(H) the agency’s reasoned final determination that the rule is consistent with the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(I) why amendment or rescission of such existing rules is not alone sufficient to respond to the problem; and

"(J) whether and how the agency intends to amend or rescind the existing rule separate from adoption of the rule;

"(K) whether the rule is in fact achieving statutory objectives, whether the benefits continue to justify the rule’s costs, and whether the rule can be modified or rescinded to reduce costs while continuing to achieve the relevant statutory objectives;

"(L) whether the rule is consistent with the Information Quality Act;

"(M) whether the rule is consistent with the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(N) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(O) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(P) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(Q) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(R) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(S) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(T) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(U) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(V) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(W) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(X) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(Y) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(Z) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(AA) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(BB) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(CC) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(DD) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(EE) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(FF) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(GG) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(HH) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(II) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(JJ) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(KK) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(LL) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(MM) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(NN) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(OO) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(PP) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(QQ) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(RR) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(SS) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(TT) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(UU) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(VV) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(WW) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(XX) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(YY) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;

"(ZZ) whether the rule is consistent with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs’s final determination that the rule meets those objectives;
1 Right to Petition.—Each agency shall give an interested person the right to petition for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of a rule.

(2) Rule Making Guidelines.—(1) A The Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs shall establish guidelines for agencies, including: (A) An initial and ongoing review, including cost-benefit analysis, of the costs and benefits of proposed and final rules and other economic issues or issues related to risk that are relevant to rule making under this title. The rigor of cost-benefit analysis required by such guidelines shall be commensurate, in the Administrator’s determination, with the economic impact of the rule.

(a) In General.—Chapter 5 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 553 the following new section:

1 553a. Agency guidelines; procedures to issue major guidance; authority to issue guidelines for issuance of guidance.

(a) Before issuing any major guidance, or guidelines that include the proposed or implemented by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System or the Federal Open Market Committee.

(b) Clerical Amendment.—The table of sections for chapter 5 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 553 the following new item:

1 553c. Agency guidelines; procedures to issue major guidance; authority to issue guidelines for issuance of guidance.

A right to petition. Each agency shall give an interested person the right to petition for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of a rule.

(2) Rule Making Guidelines.—(1) A The Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs shall establish guidelines for agencies, including:

(1) make and document a reasoned determination that—

(A) assures that such guidance is understandable and complies with relevant statutory objectives and regulatory provisions (including any statutory deadlines for agency action); and

(B) summarizes the evidence and data on which the agency bases the guidance, and provides a rationale for the decision required by subparagraph (1) by electronic means and otherwise.

1 553a. Agency guidelines; procedures to issue major guidance; authority to issue guidelines for issuance of guidance.

(a) Before issuing any major guidance, or guidelines that include the proposed or implemented by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System or the Federal Open Market Committee. The table of sections for chapter 5 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 553 the following new item:

shall not apply to any rule makings pending or completed on the date of enactment of this title.
SECTION 303. EXPANSION OF REPORT OF REGULATORY AGENDA.

Section 602 of title 5, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a)—

(A) in paragraph (2), by striking "and" at the end and inserting "or a recordkeeping requirement, and" after "any burden which may duplicate, overlap, or conflict with the proposed rule; or"

(B) by redesignating paragraph (3) as paragraph (4); and

(4) by striking paragraph (4) and inserting after paragraph (3) the following:

"(4) a brief description of the sector of the North American Industrial Classification System described by the proposed rule; or an estimate of the classes of small entities to which the proposed rule will apply;"

(C) by inserting after paragraph (3) the following:

"(3) estimating the number and type of small entities to which the proposed rule will apply;"

"(4) describing the projected reporting, recordkeeping, and other compliance requirements of the proposed rule, including an estimate of the classes of small entities which will be subject to the requirement and the type of professional skills necessary for preparation of the report and record;"

"(5) describing all relevant Federal rules which may duplicate, overlap, or conflict with the proposed rule, or the reasons why such a description could not be provided;"

"(6) estimating the additional cumulative economic impact of the proposed rule on small entities beyond that already imposed on the class of small entities by the agency or why such an estimate is not available;"

"(7) describing the "(ii) in the case of an enterprise which is described by a classification code of the North American Industrial Classification System established by the Administrator of the Small Business Administration pursuant to section 3 of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 632) for small business concerns described by such classification code; and"

"(ii) in the case of any other enterprise, has a net worth that does not exceed $7,000,000 and has not more than 500 employees;"

(B) LOCAL LABOR ORGANIZATIONS.—In the case of any local labor organization, subparagraph (A) shall be applied without regard to any national or international organization of which such local labor organization is a part.

(C) AGENCY DEFINITIONS.—Subparagraphs (A) and (B) shall not apply to the extent that an agency, after consultation with the Office of Advocacy of the Small Business Administration and after opportunity for public comment, establishes one or more definitions for such term which are appropriate to the activities of the agency and publishes such definitions in the Federal Register.

SEC. 304. REQUIREMENTS FOR MORE DETAILED ANALYSES.

(a) INITIAL REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ANALYSIS.—Subsection (b) of section 603 of title 5, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(b) Each initial regulatory flexibility analysis required under this section shall contain a detailed explanation of—"

"(1) describing the reasons why action by the agency is being considered;

"(2) the objectives of, and legal basis for, the proposed rule;"

"(3) estimating the number and type of small entities to which the proposed rule will apply;"

"(4) describing the projected reporting, recordkeeping, and other compliance requirements of the proposed rule, including an estimate of the classes of small entities which will be subject to the requirement and the type of professional skills necessary for preparation of the report and record;"

"(5) describing all relevant Federal rules which may duplicate, overlap, or conflict with the proposed rule, or the reasons why such a description could not be provided;"

"(6) estimating the additional cumulative economic impact of the proposed rule on small entities beyond that already imposed on the class of small entities by the agency or why such an estimate is not available;"

"(7) describing the provisions of any other law and which satisfied such requirement.''

(b) FORMAL REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ANALYSIS.—Subsection (a) of section 605 of title 5, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(a) Each initial regulatory flexibility analysis required under this section shall contain a detailed explanation of—"

(1) by inserting "detailed" before "statement" and after "the first place it appears"; and

(2) by inserting "and legal" after "factual".

(e) QUANTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS.—Subsection (e) of section 606 of title 5, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(6) QUANTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS.—In compiling with sections 603 and 604, an agency shall provide—"

"(1) a quantifiable or numerical description of the effects of the proposed or final rule and alternatives to the proposed or final rule; or"

"(2) a more general descriptive statement and a detailed statement explaining why quantification is not practicable or reliable.''

SEC. 305. REPEAL OF WAIVER AND DELAY AUTHORITY; ADDITIONAL POWERS OF THE CHIEF COUNSEL FOR ADVOCACY.

(a) In General.—Section 608 is amended to read as follows:

"(b) Additional powers of Chief Counsel for Advocacy

"(a)(1) Not later than 270 days after the date of the enactment of this section, the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration shall, after opportunity for notice and comment under section 553, promulgate such rules governing agency compliance with this chapter. The Chief Counsel may modify or amend such rules after notice and comment under section 553. This chapter (other than this subsection) shall not apply with respect to the issuance, modification, and amendment of rules under this paragraph.

"(2) An agency shall not issue rules which supplement the rules issued under subsection (a) unless such agency has first consulted with the Chief Counsel to ensure that such supplemental rules comply with this chapter and the rules issued under paragraph (1).

"(b) Notwithstanding any other law, the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration may intervene in any agency adjudication (unless such agency is authorized to impose a fine or penalty under such adjudication), and may inform the agency of the impact that any decision on the record may have on small entities. The Chief Counsel shall not initiate an appeal with respect to any adjudication in which the Chief Counsel intervenes under this subsection.

The Chief Counsel for Advocacy may file comments in response to any agency notice requesting comment, regardless of whether the agency is required to file a general notice of proposed rulemaking under section 553.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—
(1) Section 611(a)(1) of such title is amended by striking ‘‘608(b),’’.
(2) Section 611(a)(2) of such title is amended by striking ‘‘608(b),’’.
(3) Section 611(a)(3) of such title is amended—
(A) by striking subparagraph (B); and
(B) by striking ‘‘(A) A small entity’’ and inserting in lieu thereof—
(‘‘3’’ A small entity’’.

SEC. 206. PROCEDURES FOR GATHERING Comments on Proposed Rules.

Section 609 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by striking subsection (b) and all that follows through the end of section 609.

‘‘(b)(1) Prior to publication of any proposed rule described in subsection (e), an agency making such rule shall notify the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration and provide the Chief Counsel with—

(A) all materials prepared or utilized by the agency in making the proposed rule, including the draft of the proposed rule; and

(B) information on the potential adverse and economic impacts of the proposed rule on small entities and the type of small entities that might be affected.

(2) An agency shall not be required under paragraph (1) to translate the exact language of any draft if the rule—

(A) relates to the internal revenue laws of the United States; or

(B) is proposed by an independent regulatory agency (as defined in section 3502(5) of title 5).

(3) Not later than 15 days after the receipt of such materials and information provided under subsection (b), the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration shall—

(1) identify small entities or representatives of small entities or a combination of both that the agency will contact for the purpose of obtaining advice, input, and recommendations from those persons about the potential economic impacts of the proposed rule and the compliance of the agency with section 603; and

(2) cause a panel consisting of an employee from the Office of Advocacy of the Small Business Administration, an employee from the agency making the rule, and the employee of another independent regulatory agency (as defined in section 3502(5) of title 5), to be convened, after consultation with the members of such panel, submit a report to the agency and, in the case of an agency other than an independent regulatory agency (as defined in section 3502(5) of title 5), the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of the Office of Management and Budget.

(2) Such report shall include an assessment of the economic impact of the proposed rule on small entities, including an assessment of—

(A) the aggregate economic impact, cost that small entities pay for energy, an assessment of the proposed rule’s impact on start-up small entities, and a discussion of any alternatives that will minimize adverse significant economic impacts or maximize beneficial significant economic impacts;

(B) the potential usefulness of the rule in helping small entities.

(3) Such report shall become part of the rulemaking record. In the publication of the proposed rule, the agency shall explain what actions, if any, the agency took in response to such report.

(e) A proposed rule is described by this subsection if the proposed rule is made without regard to whether the agency determined that it has a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities or a combination of small entities.

(f) Upon application by the agency, the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration may request the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of the Office of Management and Budget, the head of the agency (or the delegatee of the head of the agency) to conduct a review of the proposed rule. The plan shall include a section that details how an agency will conduct outreach to and meaningfully include small businesses (including small business concerns owned and controlled by veterans, small business concerns owned and controlled by individuals who are one of the disadvantaged classes (as defined in the Small Business Act)) for the purposes of carrying out this section. The agency shall include in this section a plan that the agency will work with small businesses and gather their input on existing agency rules.

(g) Each agency shall annually submit a report regarding the results of its rulemaking pursuant to this section to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration and, in the case of other independent regulatory agencies (as defined in section 3502(5) of title 5) to the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs and the Office of Management and Budget.

SEC. 207. PERIODIC REVIEW OF RULES.

Section 610 of title 5, United States Code, is amended to read as follows: § 610. Periodic review of rules

(a) Not later than 10 years after the enactment of this section, each agency shall publish in the Federal Register and place on its website a plan for the periodic review of existing rules under this section. Each agency shall include in such plan—

(1) a section that describes how the agency will contact small businesses and gather their input on existing agency rules;

(2) a plan to include in the periodic review of existing rules a determination of the potential adverse and economic impacts of existing rules on small entities.

(b) The plan shall—

(1) identify small entities or representatives of small entities or a combination of both that the agency will contact for the purpose of obtaining advice, input, and recommendations from those persons about the potential economic impacts of the rule and the compliance of the agency with section 603; and

(2) cause a panel to be convened, after consultation with the members of such panel, submit a report to the agency and, in the case of an agency other than an independent regulatory agency (as defined in section 3502(5) of title 5), the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of the Office of Management and Budget.

(c) The plan shall include a section that describes how the agency will conduct outreach to and meaningfully include small businesses (including small business concerns owned and controlled by veterans, small business concerns owned and controlled by individuals who are one of the disadvantaged classes (as defined in the Small Business Act)) for the purposes of carrying out this section.

(d) Each agency shall annually submit a report regarding the results of its rulemaking pursuant to this plan to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration and, in the case of agencies other than independent regulatory agencies (as defined in section 3502(5) of title 5) to the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs and the Office of Management and Budget. Such report shall include the information on the results of the periodic review of existing rules.

(e) Upon publication of any proposed rule described in subsection (e), the agency shall prepare a report in which the agency provides a solicitation of public comments on the proposed rule. The report shall be published in the Federal Register. The agency shall include in such report a statement that the agency determined that the proposed rule has a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

(f) Each year, each agency shall publish in the Federal Register and place on its website a plan for the periodic review of existing rules under this section. Each agency shall include in such plan—

(1) a section that describes how the agency will contact small businesses and gather their input on existing agency rules;

(2) a plan to include in the periodic review of existing rules a determination of the potential adverse and economic impacts of existing rules on small entities.

(g) The plan shall—

(1) identify small entities or representatives of small entities or a combination of both that the agency will contact for the purpose of obtaining advice, input, and recommendations from those persons about the potential economic impacts of the rule and the compliance of the agency with section 603; and

(2) cause a panel to be convened, after consultation with the members of such panel, submit a report to the agency and, in the case of an agency other than an independent regulatory agency (as defined in section 3502(5) of title 5), the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of the Office of Management and Budget.

(h) Each year, each agency shall publish in the Federal Register and place on its website a plan for the periodic review of existing rules under this section. Each agency shall include in such plan—

(1) a section that describes how the agency will contact small businesses and gather their input on existing agency rules;

(2) a plan to include in the periodic review of existing rules a determination of the potential adverse and economic impacts of existing rules on small entities.

(i) The plan shall—

(2) cause a panel to be convened, after consultation with the members of such panel, submit a report to the agency and, in the case of an agency other than an independent regulatory agency (as defined in section 3502(5) of title 5), the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of the Office of Management and Budget. Such report shall include the information on the results of the periodic review of existing rules.

DIVISION IV—JUDICIARY
TITLE I—REGULATIONS FROM THE EXECUTIVE IN NEED OF SCRUTINY
SEC. 101. SHORT TITLE.
This title may be cited as the “Regulations From the Executive in Need of Scrutiny Act of 2014”.

SEC. 102. PURPOSE.
The purpose of this title is to increase accountability for and transparency in the Federal regulatory process. Section 1 of article II of the United States Constitution grants all legislative powers to Congress. Over time, Congress has excessively delegated its constitutional charge while failing to conduct appropriate oversight and retain accountability for the content of the laws it passes. By requiring a vote in Congress, the REINS Act will result in more carefully drafted and detailed legislation, an improved regulatory process, and a legislative branch accountable for the content of the laws it passes. By requiring a vote in Congress, the REINS Act will result in more carefully drafted and detailed legislation, an improved regulatory process, and a legislative branch accountable for the content of the laws it passes. By requiring a vote in Congress, the REINS Act will result in more carefully drafted and detailed legislation, an improved regulatory process, and a legislative branch accountable for the content of the laws it passes.

such committee shall be discharged from further consideration of the resolution and it shall be placed on the calendar. A vote on final passage of the resolution shall be taken on or before the close of the legislative day after its introduction, or before the close of the legislative day after the resolution is reported by the committee or committees to which it was referred, or after such committee or committees have been discharged from further consideration of the resolution.

(d)(1) In the Senate, when the committee or committees to which a joint resolution is referred have reported, or when a committee or committees are discharged (under subsection (c)) from further consideration of a joint resolution described in subsection (a), it is at any time thereafter in order (even though a previous motion to the same effect has been disagreed to) for a motion to proceed to the consideration of the joint resolution, and all points of order against the joint resolution (and against consideration of the joint resolution) are waived. The motion is not subject to amendment, or to a motion to postpone, or to a motion to reconsider the vote by which the motion is agreed to or disagreed to not to be in order. A motion to proceed to the consideration of the joint resolution is agreed to, the joint resolution (and against consideration of the joint resolution) are waived. The motion is not subject to amendment, or to a motion to postpone, or to a motion to reconsider the vote by which the motion is agreed to or disagreed to not to be in order.

(d)(2) In the Senate, debate on the joint resolution, and on all debatable motions and appeals in connection therewith, shall be limited to no more than 10 hours, which shall be divided equally between those favoring and those opposing the joint resolution. A motion to further limit debate is in order and not debatable. An amendment to, or a motion to postpone, or a motion to reconsider the vote by which the motion is agreed to or disagreed to not to be in order shall not be in order.

(e) In the Senate the procedure specified in subsection (c) or (d) shall not apply to the consideration of a joint resolution respecting a nonmajor rule—

(1) after the expiration of the 60 session days beginning with the applicable submission date referred to in section 801(a)(1)(A) was submitted during the period referred to in section 801(d)(1), after the expiration of the 60 session days beginning on the 15th session day after the succeeding session of Congress first convenes.

(2) if the report under section 801(a)(1)(A) was submitted during the period referred to in section 801(d)(1), after the expiration of the 60 session days beginning on the 15th session day after the end of the 60 session days beginning with the applicable submission date referred to in section 801(a)(1)(A).

(f) If, before the passage by one House of a joint resolution of the other House described in subsection (a), that House receives from the other House a joint resolution described in subsection (a), then the following procedures shall apply:

(1) The joint resolution of the other House shall not be referred to a committee.

(2) With respect to a joint resolution described in subsection (a), the term ‘Federal agency’ means any agency as that term is defined in section 551(1).
sec. 104. BUDGETARY EFFECTS OF RULES SUBJECT TO THE CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE STUDY OF RULES.

(a) In general.—Section 1101(a) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:—

"(E) BUDGETARY EFFECTS OF RULES SUBJECT TO SECTION 802 OF TITLE 5, UNITED STATES CODE.—Any rules subject to the congressional approval procedure set forth in section 802 of chapter 6 of title 5, United States Code, affecting budget authority, outlays, or receipts shall be assumed to be effective unless it is not approved in accordance with such section."

"sec. 105. GOVERNMENT ACCOUNTABILITY OF THE CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE STUDY OF RULES.

(a) In general.—The Comptroller General of the United States shall conduct a study to determine, as of the date of the enactment of this Act—

(1) how many rules (as such term is defined in section 801 of title 5, United States Code) were in effect; and

(2) how many major rules (as such term is defined in section 801 of title 5, United States Code) were in effect; and

(3) the total estimated economic cost imposed by all such rules.

(b) Report.—Not later than one year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit a report to Congress that contains the findings and a brief statement of the reasoning therefore in the rule issued.

sec. 106. DEFINITIONS.

In this title:

(1) ANNUAL VOLUME REQUIREMENT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The term "annual volume requirement", with respect to a Forest Reserve Revenue Area, means a volume of national forest materials not less than 50 percent of the sustained yield of the Forest Reserve Revenue Area.

(B) EXCLUSIONS.—In determining the volume of national forest materials or the sustained yield of a Forest Reserve Revenue Area, the Secretary shall not consider non-commercial post and pole sales and personal use firewood.

(2) BENEFICIARY COUNTY.—The term "beneficiary county" means a political subdivision of a State that, on account of containing National Forest System land, was designated as a beneficiary county under title I of the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Act of 2000 (16 U.S.C. 7111 et seq.).

(3) CATASTROPHIC EVENT.—The term "catastrophic event" means an event (including severe fire, insect or disease infestations, windthrow, or other extreme weather or natural disaster) that the Secretary determines will cause or has caused substantial damage to National Forest System land or natural resources on National Forest System land.

(4) COVERED FOREST RESERVE PROJECT.—The terms "covered forest reserve project" and "covered project" mean a project involving the management or sale of national forest materials within a Forest Reserve Revenue Area to generate forest reserve revenues and achieve the annual volume requirement for the Forest Reserve Revenue Area.

(5) FOREST RESERVE REVENUE AREA.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The term "Forest Reserve Revenue Area" means National Forest System land in a unit of the National Forest System designated by the Secretary for forest reserve management for the production of national forest materials and forest reserve revenues.

(B) INCLUSIONS.—Subject to subparagraph (C), the term includes any other provision of law, including executive orders and regulations, the Secretary shall include in Forest Reserve Revenue Areas not less than 50 percent of the National Forest System lands identified as commercial forest land capable of producing twenty cubic feet of timber per acre.

(C) EXCLUSIONS.—A Forest Reserve Revenue Area may not include National Forest System land—

(i) that is a component of the National Wilderness Preservation System;

(ii) on which the removal of vegetation is specifically prohibited by Federal statute; or

(iii) that is within a National Monument as of the date of the enactment of this Act.

"sec. 107. FOREST RESERVE REVENUES.—The term "forest reserve revenues" means revenues..."
derived from the sale of national forest materials in a Forest Reserve Revenue Area.

(7) National Forest Materials.—The term “national forest materials” has the meaning given that term in section 114(e)(1) of the National Forest Management Act of 1976 (16 U.S.C. 472aa(e)(1)).

(8) National Forest System.—The term “National Forest System” has the meaning given that term in section 111(a)(1) of the National Forest Management Act of 1976 (16 U.S.C. 500).

(9) Secretary.—The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of Agriculture.

(10) Sustained Yield.—The term “sustained yield” means the maximum annual growth potential of the forest calculated on the basis of the culmination of mean annual increment using cubic measurement.

(11) State.—The term “State” includes the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

(12) 25-Percent Payment.—The term “25-percent payment” means the payment to States with respect to National Forest System land included in that Forest Reserve Revenue Area under the heading of “FOREST SERVICE” in the Act of May 23, 1908 (35 Stat. 559, 16 U.S.C. 559), and section 13 of the Act of March 1, 1911 (36 Stat. 1274, 16 U.S.C. 466).

SEC. 103. ESTABLISHMENT OF FOREST RESERVE REVENUE AREAS AND ANNUAL VOLUME REQUIREMENTS.

(a) Establishment of Forest Reserve Revenue Areas.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary shall establish Forest Reserve Revenue Areas within each unit of the National Forest System.

(b) Deadline for Establishment.—The Secretary shall complete establishment of the Forest Reserve Revenue Areas not later than 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(c) Purpose.—The purpose of a Forest Reserve Revenue Area is to provide a dependable source of 25-percent payments and economic activity through sustainable forest management for each beneficiary county containing National Forest System land.

(d) Environmental Analysis.—The Secretary shall have a fiduciary responsibility to beneficiary counties to manage Forest Reserve Revenue Areas to satisfy the annual volume requirements.

(e) Determination of Annual Volume Requirement.—Not later than 30 days after the date of the establishment of a Forest Reserve Revenue Area, the Secretary shall determine the annual volume requirement for that Forest Reserve Revenue Area.

(f) Limitation on Reduction of Forest Reserve Revenue Areas.—Once a Forest Reserve Revenue Area is established under subsection (a), the Secretary may not reduce the number of acres of National Forest System land included in that Forest Reserve Revenue Area.

(g) L-P.—The Secretary shall provide a map of all Forest Reserve Revenue Areas established under subsection (a) for each unit of the National Forest System.

1. (1) To the Committee on Agriculture and the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives; and

2. To the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate.

(h) Recognition of Valid and Existing Rights.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary shall conduct covered forest reserve projects within Forest Reserve Revenue Areas in accordance with this section, which shall serve as the sole means by which the Secretary will comply with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4331 et seq.) and other laws applicable to the covered projects.

(i) Environmental Analysis Process for Projects in Forest Reserve Revenue Areas.—

1. Environmental Assessment.—The Secretary shall give published notice and complete an environmental assessment pursuant to section 102(2) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4332(2)) for a covered forest reserve project proposed to be conducted within a Forest Reserve Revenue Area, except that the Secretary is not required to study, develop, or describe any alternative to the proposed agency action.

2. Cumulative Effects.—The Secretary shall consider cumulative effects solely by evaluating the impacts of a proposed covered forest reserve project combined with the impacts of any project that were approved with a Decision Notice or Record of Decision before the date on which the Secretary published notice of the proposed covered project. The cumulative effects of past projects may be considered in the environmental assessment by using a description of the current environmental conditions.

3. Length.—The environmental assessment prepared for a proposed covered forest reserve project shall not exceed 100 pages in length. The Secretary may incorporate in the environmental assessment, by reference, any documents that the Secretary determines, in the sole discretion of the Secretary, are relevant to the assessment of the environmental impacts of a covered project.

4. Deadline for Completion.—The Secretary shall complete the environmental assessment for a covered forest reserve project within 180 days after the date on which the Secretary published notice of the proposed covered project.

5. Treatment of Decision Notice.—The decision notice for a covered forest reserve project shall be considered a final agency action and no additional analysis under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) shall be required to implement any portion of the covered project.

6. Categorical Exclusion.—A covered forest reserve project that is proposed in response to a catastrophic event, that covers an area of 10,000 acres or less, or an eligible hazardous fuel reduction or forest health project identified with section 1032(b) of the Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. 1604(g)(3)(E)(v)) shall not apply to a covered forest reserve project.

7. Application of Land and Resource Management Plan.—Any plan may modify the standards and guidelines contained in the land and resource management plan for the unit of the National Forest System for which the covered forest reserve project will be carried out as necessary to achieve the requirements of this subsection. Section 6(g)(3)(E)(v) of the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. 1604(g)(3)(E)(v)) shall not apply to a covered forest reserve project.

8. Non-Judicial Assessment.—If the Secretary determines that a proposed covered forest reserve project may affect the continued existence of any species listed as endangered or threatened under section 4 of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1533), the Secretary shall issue a determination explaining the view of the Secretary that the proposed covered project is not likely to jeopardize the continued existence of the species.

9. Submission, Review, and Response.—

(A) Submission.—The Secretary shall submit a determination issued by the Secretary under paragraph (1) to the Secretary of the Interior or the Secretary of Commerce, as appropriate.

(B) Review and Response.—Within 30 days after receiving a determination under subparagraph (A), the Secretary of the Interior or the Secretary of Commerce, as appropriate, shall provide a written response to the Secretary concurring in or rejecting the Secretary’s determination. If the Secretary of the Interior or the Secretary of Commerce rejects the determination, the written response shall include recommendations for measures that—

(i) will avoid the likelihood of jeopardy to an endangered or threatened species;

(ii) can be implemented in a manner consistent with the intended purpose of the covered forest reserve project;

(iii) can be implemented consistent with the scope of the Secretary’s legal authority and jurisdiction; and

(iv) are economically and technologically feasible.

10. Formal Consultation.—If the Secretary of the Interior or the Secretary of Commerce rejects a determination issued by the Secretary under paragraph (1), the Secretary of the Interior or the Secretary of Commerce also is required to engage in formal consultation with the Secretary. The Secretary shall complete such consultation pursuant to section 7 of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1536) within 90 days after the submission of the written response under paragraph (2).

11. Administrative and Judicial Review.—

(A) Administrative Review.—Administrative review of a covered forest reserve project shall occur only in accordance with the special administrative review process established under section 105 of the Healthy Forests Restoration Act of 2003 (16 U.S.C. 651).

(B) Judicial Review.—

(A) In General.—Judicial review of a covered forest reserve project shall occur in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act and in accordance with the special administrative review process established under section 105 of the Healthy Forests Restoration Act of 2003 (16 U.S.C. 651), except that a court of the United States may not issue a restraining order, preliminary injunction, permanent injunction, or bill of particulars with respect to a covered forest reserve project in response to an allegation that the Secretary... violated any procedural requirement applicable to how the project was selected, planned, or analyzed.

(b) Bond required.—A plaintiff challenging a covered forest reserve project shall be required to post a bond or other security acceptable to the court for the reasonably estimated costs, expenses, and attorneys fees of the Secretary as defendant. All proceedings in the action shall be stayed until the security is given. If the plaintiff has not complied with the order to post such bond or other security within 90 days after the date of service of the order, then the action shall be dismissed with prejudice.

(c) Recovery.—If the Secretary prevails in the case, the Secretary shall submit to the court a motion for payment of all litigation expenses.

(g) Use of all-terrain vehicles for management activities.—The Secretary may allow the use of all-terrain vehicles within the Forest Reserve Revenue Areas for the purposes of activities associated with the sale of national forest materials in a Forest Reserve Revenue Area.

SEC. 105. DISTRIBUTION OF FOREST RESERVE REVENUE.

(a) 25-percent payments.—The Secretary shall use forest reserve revenues generated by a covered forest reserve project to make 25-percent payments to States for the benefit of beneficiary counties.

(b) Deposit in Knutson-Vandenberg and salvage sale funds.—After compliance with the requirements of subsection (a), the Secretary shall use the forest reserve revenues to make deposits into the fund established under section 3 of the Knutson-Vandenberg Act of 1976 (16 U.S.C. 472a(h); commonly known as the Knutson-Vandenberg Fund) and the fund established under section 103 of the Forest Reserve Management Act of 1976 (43 U.S.C. 710a). [Notes: RMRS–87 and dated April 2000 or any subsequent revision of the report; or (B) Federal land where there exists a high risk of losing an at-risk community, key ecosystem, water supply, wildlife, or wildlife habitat to wildfire, including catastrophic wildfire and post-fire disturbances, as designated by the Secretary concerned.

(ii) Land of the National Forest System (as defined in section 101 of the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.)); or

(iii) land of the National Forest System (as defined in section 101 of the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.)).]

(b) Deposit in Fund of the Treasury.—After compliance with subsections (a) and (b), the Secretary shall deposit remaining forest reserve revenues into the general fund of the Treasury.

SEC. 106. ANNUAL REPORT.

(a) Report required.—Not later than 60 days after the end of each fiscal year, the Secretary shall submit to Congress an annual report specifying the annual volume required in effect for that fiscal year for each Forest Reserve Revenue Area, the volume of forest reserve revenues generated by each Forest Reserve Revenue Area, the average cost of preparation for timber sales, the forest reserve revenues generated from such sales, and the amount of receipts distributed to each beneficiary county.

(b) Form of report.—The information required by subsection (a) to be provided with respect to each Forest Reserve Revenue Area shall be submitted on a single page. In addition to submitting each report to Congress, the Secretary shall also make the report available on the website of the Forest Service.

TITLE II—HEALTHY FOREST MANAGEMENT AND CATASTROPHIC WILDFIRE PREVENTION

SEC. 201. PURPOSES.

The purposes of this title are as follows:

(1) To provide the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior with the tools necessary to reduce the potential for wildfires.

(2) To expedite wildfire prevention projects to reduce the chances of wildfire on certain high-risk Federal lands.

(3) To protect communities and forest habitat from uncharacteristic wildfires.

(4) To enhance aquatic conditions and terrestrial wildlife habitat.

(5) To restore diverse and resilient landscapes through improved forest conditions.

SEC. 202. DEFINITIONS.

In this title:

(1) at-risk community.—The term ‘‘at-risk community’’ has the meaning given that term in section 101 of the Healthy Forests Restoration Act of 2003 (16 U.S.C. 6511).

(2) at-risk forest.—The term ‘‘at-risk forest’’ means:

(A) Federal land in condition class II or III, as those classes were developed by the Forest Service Rocky Mountain Research Station in the general technical report titled ‘‘Development of Coarse-Scale Spatial Data for Wildland Fire and Forest Management’’ (RMRS–87) and dated April 2000 or any subsequent revision of the report; or

(B) Federal land where there exists a high risk of losing an at-risk community, key ecosystem, water supply, wildlife, or wildlife habitat to wildfire, including catastrophic wildfire and post-fire disturbances, as designated by the Secretary concerned.

(3) covered land.—The term ‘‘covered land’’ means:

(i) land of the National Forest System (as defined in section 101 of the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.)); or

(ii) land of the National Forest System (as defined in section 101 of the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.)); or

(iii) that is within a National Monument as of the date of the enactment of this Act.

(4) covered project.—The term ‘‘covered project’’ means a project or a forest health project to reduce surface fuel loads to prevent unnatural fire.

(5) high-risk area.—The term ‘‘high-risk area’’ means:

(i) land of the National Forest System (as defined in section 101 of the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.)); or

(ii) land of the National Forest System (as defined in section 101 of the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.)).

(b) AUTHORIZED PRACTICES.—

(A) in an at-risk forest under section 203 for hazardous fuels reduction, forest health, forest restoration, or watershed restoration, using ecological restoration principles consistent with the forest type in the location where such project will occur;

(B) in a high-risk area under section 206.

(c) EXCLUSION OF CERTAIN AREAS.—The following Federal land may not be designated as a high-risk area:

(1) Inclusion of livestock grazing and timber harvesting.—A hazardous fuel reduction project or a forest health project may include livestock grazing and timber harvest projects carried out for the purposes of hazardous fuels reduction, forest health, forest restoration, watershed restoration, or threatened and endangered species habitat protection or improvement, if the management action is consistent with achieving long-term, ecologically sustainable forest type in the location where such project will occur.

(2) Grazing.—Domestic livestock grazing may be used in a hazardous fuel reduction project or a forest health project to reduce surface fuel loads and to recover burned areas. Utilization standards shall not apply to normal livestock grazing used in such a project.

(3) Timber harvesting and thinning.—Timber harvesting and thinning, where the ecological restoration principles are consistent with the forest type where such project will occur, may be used in a hazardous fuel reduction project or a forest health project to reduce canopy fuel loads to prevent unnatural fire.

(d) PRIORITY.—The Secretary concerned shall give priority to hazardous fuel reduction projects and forest health projects submitted by the Governor of a State as provided in section 206(c) and to projects submitted under the Tribal Forest Protection Act of 2004 (25 U.S.C. 3909).

SEC. 203. HAZARDOUS FUEL REDUCTION PROJECTS AND FOREST HEALTH PROJECTS IN AT-RISK FORESTS.

(a) Implementation.—As soon as practicable after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary concerned is authorized to implement a hazardous fuel reduction project or a forest health project in at-risk forests in a manner that focuses on surface, understory, and ground-layer vegetation using ecological restoration principles consistent with the forest type in the location where such project will occur.

(b) Authorization of appropriation.—(1) Inclusion of livestock grazing and timber harvesting.—A hazardous fuel reduction project or a forest health project may include livestock grazing and timber harvest projects carried out for the purposes of hazardous fuels reduction, forest health, forest restoration, watershed restoration, or threatened and endangered species habitat protection or improvement, if the management action is consistent with achieving long-term, ecologically sustainable forest type in the location where such project will occur.

(2) Grazing.—Domestic livestock grazing may be used in a hazardous fuel reduction project or a forest health project to reduce surface fuel loads and to recover burned areas. Utilization standards shall not apply to normal livestock grazing used in such a project.

(3) Timber harvesting and thinning.—Timber harvesting and thinning, where the ecological restoration principles are consistent with the forest type where such project will occur, may be used in a hazardous fuel reduction project or a forest health project to reduce canopy fuel loads to prevent unnatural fire.

(e) Authorization of appropriation.—The Governor of a State may designate high-risk areas of Federal land in the State for the purposes of addressing—

(1) determined high-risk conditions in existence as of the date of the enactment of this Act due to the bark beetle epidemic or drought, with the resulting imminent risk of unacceptable wildfire.

(2) the future risk of insect infestations or disease outbreaks through preventative treatments to improve forest health conditions.

(f) Authorization of appropriation.—In designating high-risk areas, the Governor of a State shall consult with county government from affected counties and with agencies in connection with the project, shall not be subject to judicial review or to any restraining order or injunction issued by a United States court.

SEC. 204. ENVIRONMENTAL ANALYSIS.

Subsections (b) through (f) of section 104 shall apply to the implementation of a hazardous fuels reduction project or a forest health project under this title.

SEC. 205. STATE DESIGNATION OF HIGH-RISK AREAS OF NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM AND PUBLIC LANDS.

(a) Designation of high-risk areas.—The Governor of a State may designate high-risk areas of Federal land in the State for the purposes of addressing—

(1) determined high-risk conditions in existence as of the date of the enactment of this Act due to the bark beetle epidemic or drought, with the resulting imminent risk of unacceptable wildfire.

(2) the future risk of insect infestations or disease outbreaks through preventative treatments to improve forest health conditions.

(b) Authorization of appropriation.—In designating high-risk areas, the Governor of a State shall consult with county government from affected counties and with agencies in connection with the project, shall not be subject to judicial review or to any restraining order or injunction issued by a United States court.

SEC. 206. STATE DESIGNATION OF HIGH-RISK AREAS OF NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM AND PUBLIC LANDS.

(a) Designation of high-risk areas.—The Governor of a State may designate high-risk areas of Federal land in the State for the purposes of addressing—

(1) determined high-risk conditions in existence as of the date of the enactment of this Act due to the bark beetle epidemic or drought, with the resulting imminent risk of unacceptable wildfire.

(2) the future risk of insect infestations or disease outbreaks through preventative treatments to improve forest health conditions.

(b) Authorization of appropriation.—In designating high-risk areas, the Governor of a State shall consult with county government from affected counties and with agencies in connection with the project, shall not be subject to judicial review or to any restraining order or injunction issued by a United States court.

(1) a component of the National Wilderness Preservation System.

(2) Federal land on which the removal of vegetation is specifically prohibited by Federal statute.

(3) Federal land within a National Monument as of the date of the enactment of this Act.

(d) STANDARDS FOR DESIGNATION.—Designation of high-risk areas shall be consistent with standards and guidelines contained in the land and resource management plan or forest plan for the Federal land for which the designation is being made, except that the Secretary concerned may modify such standards and guidelines to correspond with a specific high-risk area designation.

(e) TIME FOR INITIAL DESIGNATIONS.—The first high-risk areas should be designated not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, but high-risk areas may be designated at any time consistent with subsection (a).

(f) DESIGNATION OF HIGH-RISK AREAS.—The designation of a high-risk area in a State shall expire 20 years after the date of the designation, unless earlier terminated by the Governor of the State.

(g) REDISTRIBUTION.—The expiration of the 20-year period specified in subsection (f) does not preclude the Governor from redesignating an area of Federal land as a high-risk area under this section if the Governor determines that the Federal land continues to be subject to the terms of this section.

(h) RECOGNITION OF VALID AND EXISTING RIGHTS.—The designation of a high-risk area shall not be construed to limit or restrict:

(1) access to Federal land included in the area for hunting, fishing, and other related purposes; or
(2) valid and existing rights regarding the Federal land.

SEC. 206. USE OF HAZARDOUS FUELS REDUCTION OR FOREST HEALTH PROJECTS FOR HIGH-RISK AREAS.

(a) PROJECT PROVISIONS.—

(1) PROPOSALS AUTHORIZED.—Upon designation of a high-risk area in a State, the Governor of the State may may conduct any proposed hazardous fuels reduction or forest health project for the high-risk area.

(2) PROJECT CRITERIA.—In preparing a proposed hazardous fuels reduction project or a forest health project, the Governor of a State and the Secretary concerned shall:

(A) take into account managing for rights of way; watersheds, protection of wildlife and endangered species habitat, safeguarding water resources, and protecting at-risk communities from wildfires; and

(B) emphasize activities that thin the forest to provide the greatest health and longevity of the forest.

(b) CONSULTATION.—In preparing a proposed hazardous fuels reduction project or a forest health project, the Governor of a State shall consult with the appropriate government from affected counties, and with affected Indian tribes.

(c) SUBMISSION AND IMPLEMENTATION.—The Governor of a State shall submit the proposed hazardous fuels reduction projects and forest health projects to the Secretary concerned for implementation as provided in section 203.

SEC. 207. MORATORIUM ON USE OF PRESCRIBED FIRE IN MARK TWAIN NATIONAL FOREST, MISSOURI, PENDING REGULATIONS.

(a) MORATORIUM.—Except as provided in subsection (b), the Secretary of Agriculture may not provide for prescribed fire in Mark Twain National Forest, Missouri, under the Collaborative Forest Landscape Restoration Project until the report required by subsection (c) is submitted to Congress.

(b) EXCPTION FOR WILDFIRE SUPPRESSION.—Subsection (a) does not prohibit the use of prescribed fire as part of wildfire suppression activities.

(c) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than one year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Agriculture shall submit to Congress a report containing an evaluation of recent and current Forest Service management practices for Mark Twain National Forest, including lands in the National Forest, or under management for enrollment in the Collaborative Forest Landscape Restoration Project to convert certain lands into shortleaf pine-oak woodlands, to determine the impact of such management practices on forest health and tree mortality. The report shall specifically address:

(1) the economic costs associated with the failure to utilize hardwoods cut as part of the Collaborative Forest Landscape Restoration Project to reduce the potential loss of hardwood production from the treated lands in the long term;

(2) the extent of increased tree mortality due to excessive heat generated by prescribed fires;

(3) the impacts to water quality and rate of water run off due to erosion of the scorched earth left in the aftermath of the prescribed fires; and

(4) a long-term plan for evaluation of the impacts of prescribed fires on lands previously burned within the Eleven Point Ranger District.

TITIE III—OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD GRANT LANDS TRUST, CONSERVATION, AND JOBS

SEC. 301. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “O&C Trust, Conservation, and Jobs Act.”

SEC. 302. DEFINITIONS.

In this title:

(1) APPLICABLE TERMS.—The terms “Agriculture Act” has the meaning given in part 121 of title 16, Code of Federal Regulations.

(2) BOARD OF TRUSTEES.—The term “Board of Trustees” means the Board of Trustees for the Oregon and California Railroad Grant Lands Trust appointed under section 313.

(3) COOS BAY WAGON ROAD GRANT LANDS.—The term “Coos Bay Wagon Road Grant lands” means the lands recovered to the United States pursuant to the first section of the Act of February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179).

(4) FISCAL YEAR.—The term “fiscal year” means the Federal fiscal year, October 1 through the next September 30.

(5) GOVERNOR.—The term “Governor” means the Governor of the State of Oregon.

(6) O&C REGION PUBLIC DOMAIN LANDS.—The term “O&C Region Public Domain lands” means the lands included in the O&C Region Public Domain lands as of January 1, 2013, each of which is considered to be a separate property unless the Governor determines that the lands are a part of the same property.

(7) O&C TRUST.—The term “O&C Trust” means the Oregon and California Railroad Grant Lands Trust and “O&C Trust” mean the trust created by section 311, which shall have the fiduciary responsibility to act for the benefit of the O&C Trust counties in the management of O&C Trust lands.

(8) O&C TRUST COUNTY.—The term “O&C Trust county” means each of the 18 counties in the State of Oregon that contain a portion of the Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands as of January 1, 2013, each of which is considered to be a separate property unless the Governor determines that the lands are a part of the same property.

(9) O&C TRUST LANDS.—The term “O&C Trust lands” means the surface estate of the lands over which management authority is transferred to the O&C Trust pursuant to section 311(c)(1). The term does not include any of the lands excluded from the O&C Trust pursuant to section 311(c)(2), transferred to the Forest Service under section 321, or Tribal lands transferred under subtitle D.

(10) OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD GRANT LANDS.—The term “Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands” means the following lands:

(A) All lands in the State of Oregon described in section 1 of the Act of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218), regardless of whether the lands are—

(i) administered by the Secretary of the Interior, acting through the Bureau of Land Management, pursuant to the first section of the Act of August 28, 1937 (43 U.S.C. 1181a); or

(ii) administered by the Secretary of the Interior pursuant to the National Forest System pursuant to the first section of the Act of June 24, 1944 (43 U.S.C. 1181g).

(B) All lands in the O&C Region Public Domain lands transferred by the Secretary of the Interior pursuant to the land exchanges authorized and directed by section 2 of the Act of June 24, 1944 (43 U.S.C. 1181l).

(11) RESERVE FUND.—The term “Reserve Fund” means the reserve fund created by the Board of Trustees under section 315(b).

(12) SECRETARY CONCERNED.—The term “Secretary concerned” means—

(A) the Secretary of the Interior, with respect to Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands that are transferred to the management authority of the O&C Trust and, immediately before such transfer, were managed by the Bureau of Land Management; and

(B) the Secretary of Agriculture, with respect to Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands that are transferred to the management authority of the O&C Trust and, immediately before such transfer, were part of the National Forest System; or

(C) the Secretary of the Interior, with respect to any other lands referred to the Forest Service under section 321.

(13) STATE.—The term “State” means the State of Oregon.

(14) TRANSITION PERIOD.—The term “transition period” means the three fiscal-year period specified in section 331 following the appointment of the Board of Trustees during which—

(A) the O&C Trust is created; and

(B) interim funding of the O&C Trust is secured.

(15) TRIBAL LANDS.—The term “Tribal lands” means any of the lands transferred to the Cow Creek Band of the Umpqua Tribe of Indians or the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua, and Siuslaw Indians under title D.

Subtitle A—Trust, Conservation, and Jobs

CHAPTER 1—CREATION AND TERMS OF O&C TRUST LANDS

SEC. 311. CREATION OF O&C TRUST AND DESIGNATION OF O&C TRUST LANDS.

(a) CREATION.—The Oregon and California Railroad Grant Lands Trust is established effective on October 1 of the first fiscal year beginning after the appointment of the Board of Trustees. As management authority over the surface estate of the O&C Trust lands is transferred to the O&C Trust during the transition period pursuant to section 331, the transferred lands shall be held in trust for the benefit of the O&C Trust counties.

(b) TRUST PURPOSE.—The purpose of the O&C Trust is to produce annual maximum sustained revenues in perpetuity for O&C Trust counties by managing the timber resources on O&C Trust lands on a sustained-yield basis subject to the management requirements of section 314.

(c) DESIGNATION OF O&C TRUST LANDS.—

(1) LANDS INCLUDED.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the O&C Trust lands shall include all of the lands containing the stands described in subsection (d) that are located, as of January 1, 2013, on Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands and O&C Region Public Domain lands.

(2) LANDS EXCLUDED.—O&C Trust lands shall not include any of the following Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands and O&C

H7795

September 18, 2014 CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE
(d) Federal lands that were in the National Wilderness Preservation System as of January 1, 2013.

(e) Federal lands within the boundaries of a national monument, park, or other developed recreation area as of January 1, 2013.

(F) Oregon treasuries addressed in subtitle C, and specifically determined for all purposes by coordinates in or derived by reference to the data provided by the Secretary within the time provided by this paragraph, notwithstanding anomalies that might later be discovered on the ground. In cases where the location of the stand boundary is disputed or inconsistent with paragraph (1), the location of the stand boundary on the ground shall be, except as otherwise provided in paragraph (5), finally and conclusively determined for all purposes by coordinates provided by the Secretary as they are located on the ground by the direct or indirect use of global positioning system equipment with accuracy specifications of one meter or less. All actions taken by the Secretary under this paragraph shall be deemed to not involve Federal agency action or Federal discretionary involvement or control.

(4) DATA AND MAPS.—Copies of the data containing boundary coordinates for the O&C Trust lands, and maps, from which such coordinates are derived, and maps generally depicting the stand locations shall be filed with the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives, and the office of the Secretary concerned. The maps and data shall be filed—

(A) not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, in the case of the lands identified pursuant to paragraph (2); and

(B) not later than 180 days following the creation of the O&C Trust pursuant to subsection (a), in the case of lands identified pursuant to paragraph (3).

(5) ADJUSTMENT AUTHORITY AND LIMITATIONS.—

(A) NO IMPACT ON DETERMINING TITLE OR PROPERTY OWNERSHIP BOUNDARIES.—Stand boundaries identified under paragraph (2) or (3) shall not be relied upon for purposes of determining title or property ownership boundaries. If the boundary of a stand identified under paragraph (2) or (3) extends beyond the property ownership boundaries of Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands or O&C Region Public Domain lands, as such property boundaries exist on the date of enactment, the boundary of such stand is deemed adjusted by this subparagraph to coincide with the property ownership boundary.

(B) EFFECT OF DATA ERRORS OR INCONSISTENCIES.—Data errors or inconsistencies may result in parcels of land along property ownership boundaries that are unintentionally separated from the O&C Trust lands that are identified under paragraph (2) or (3). In order to correct such errors, any parcel of land that satisfies all of the following criteria is hereby deemed to be transferred from the O&C Trust lands to the non-Federal lands intermingled with O&C Trust lands, and shall be deemed to involve no Federal agency action or Federal discretionary involvement or control and the laws of the State shall apply to the surface estate of the O&C Trust lands in the manner applicable to privately owned timberlands in the State;

(3) The O&C Trust shall be treated as the beneficial owner of the surface estate of the O&C Trust lands for purposes of all legal proceedings involving the O&C Trust lands.

(b) MINERALS.—

(1) In general.—Mineral and other subsurface rights in the O&C Trust lands are retained by the United States or other owner of such rights as of the date on which management authority over the surface estate of those lands is transferred to the O&C Trust

(2) ROCK AND GRAVEL.—

(A) USE AUTHORIZED.—For maintenance or construction on the road system under section 321, the Forest Service may authorize or for non-Federal lands intermingled with O&C Trust lands, the Board of Trustees may—

(i) utilize rock or gravel found within quarry or extraction areas identified under paragraph (2) or (3) after the date of the enactment of this Act on any Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands and O&C Region Public Domain lands, excluding those lands designated as Forest System pursuant to any Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands or O&C Region Public Domain lands, for purposes of all legal proceedings involving the O&C Trust lands, and shall be deemed to involve no Federal agency action or Federal discretionary involvement or control.

(B) EXCEPTION.—The Board of Trustees shall not construct new quarries on any of the lands transferred to the Forest Service under section 321 or lands designated under subtitle D.
O&C Trust counties in appointing members to the Board. The Governor shall ensure geographical representation among the O&C Trust counties. To the extent practicable, the Governor shall ensure broad geographic representation among the O&C Trust counties in appointing members to the Board of Trustees. The O&C Trust lands are managed by the Board of Trustees in compliance with applicable State law, and the O&C Trust lands shall be independently prepared and audited annually regarding operation of the O&C Trust. The Board of Trustees, in its discretion, determines what delay until markets improve is financially prudent and in keeping with its fiduciary obligation to the O&C Trust counties.

(g) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—

(1) I N GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), judicial review of any provision of this title shall be sought in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. Parties seeking judicial review of the validity of any provision of this title must file suit within 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act and no preliminary injunctive relief or stays pending appeal will be permitted. If multiple cases are filed under this paragraph, the Court shall consolidate the cases. The Court must rule on any action brought under this paragraph within 180 days.

(2) DECISIONS OF BOARD OF TRUSTEES.—Decisions of the Board of Trustees shall be subject to judicial review only in an action brought by an O&C County, except that nothing in this title precludes bringing a legal action against the Board concerning activities that could be brought against a private landowner for the same action.

SEC. 313. BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

(a) APPOINTMENT AUTHORIZATION.—Subject to the conditions on appointment imposed by this section, the Governor is authorized to appoint the Board of Trustees to administer the O&C Trust lands.

(b) MEMBERS AND ELIGIBILITY.—

(1) NUMBER.—Subject to subsection (c), the Board of Trustees shall consist of seven members.

(2) RESIDENCY REQUIREMENT.—Members of the Board of Trustees must reside within an O&C Trust county.

(3) GEOGRAPHICAL REPRESENTATION.—To the extent practicable, the Governor shall ensure broad geographic representation among the O&C Trust counties in appointing members to the Board of Trustees.

(c) COMPOSITION.—The Board of Trustees shall include the following members:

(1) (A) Two forestry and wood products representatives:

(i) one member who represents the commercial timber, wood products, or milling industries and who represents an Oregon-based company with more than 500 employees, taking into account its affiliates, that has submitted a bid for a timber sale on the Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands, O&C Region Public Domain lands, Coos Bay Wagon Road Grant lands, or O&C Trust lands in the preceding five years; and

(ii) one representative of the commercial wood products or milling industries and who represents an Oregon-based company with 500 or fewer employees, taking into account its affiliates, that has submitted a bid for a timber sale on the Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands, O&C Region Public Domain lands, Coos Bay Wagon Road Grant lands, or O&C Trust lands in the preceding five years.

(2) At least one of the two representatives selected in clause (i) and clause (ii) must own commercial forest land that is adjacent to the O&C Trust lands and from which the representative has not exported unprocessed timber in the preceding five years.

(3) One representative of the general public who has professional experience in one or more of the following fields:

(A) Business management.

(B) Law.

(C) Accounting.

(D) Banking.

(E) Labor management.

(F) Transportation.

(G) Engineering.

(H) Public relations.

One representative of the science community who, at a minimum, holds a Doctor of Philosophy degree in wildlife biology, forestry, ecology, or related field and has published peer-reviewed academic articles in the representative’s field of expertise.

(4) Three governmental representatives, consisting of:

(A) two members who are serving county commissioners of an O&C Trust county and who are nominated by the governing bodies of a majority of the O&C Trust counties and approved by the Governor, except that the two representatives may not be from the same county; and

(B) one member who holds State-wide elected office (or is a designee of such a person) who represents a federally recognized Indian tribe or tribes within one or more O&C Trust lands.

(d) TERMS, INITIAL APPOINTMENT, VACANCIES.—

(1) TERM.—Except in the case of initial appointments, members of the Board of Trustees shall serve for five-year terms and may be reappointed for one consecutive term.

(2) INITIAL APPOINTMENTS.—In making the first appointments to the Board of Trustees, the Governor shall stagger initial appointment lengths so that two members have term lengths of one year, two members have four-year terms, and three members have a full five-year term.

(3) VACANCIES.—Any vacancy on the Board of Trustees may be filled within 45 days by the Governor for the unexpired term of the appointee.

(e) CHAIRPERSON AND OPERATIONS.—

(1) CHAIRPERSON.—A majority of the Board of Trustees shall select the chairperson for the Board of Trustees each year.

(2) Meetings.—The Board of Trustees shall establish procedures to carry out its duties. The Board shall meet at least quarterly. Except for meetings substantially involving personnel and contractual decisions, all meetings of the Board shall comply with the public meetings law of the State.

(f) QUORUM AND DECISION-MAKING.—

(1) QUORUM.—A quorum shall consist of five members of the Board of Trustees. The presence of a quorum is required to constitute an official meeting of the board of trustees to satisfy the meeting requirement under subsection (c).

(2) DECISIONS.—All actions and decisions by the Board of Trustees shall require approval by a majority of members, which shall be the number specified in section 311(b). The Board of Trustees may defer sale plans during periods of depressed timber markets if the Board of Trustees, in its discretion, determines that such delay until markets improve is financially prudent and in keeping with its fiduciary obligation to the O&C Trust counties.

(g) STAND ROTATION.—

(1) 100–120 YEAR ROTATION.—The Board of Trustees shall manage no less than 50 percent of the harvestable acres of the O&C Trust lands on a 100–120 year rotation. The acreage subject to 100–120 year management shall be geographically dispersed across the acreage of the O&C Trust lands. The Board of Trustees, in its discretion, determines what delay until markets improve is financially prudent and in keeping with its fiduciary obligation to the O&C Trust counties.

(h) TIMBER SALE PLANS.—The Board of Trustees shall approve and periodically update management and sale plans for the O&C Trust lands consistent with the purposes specified in section 311(b). The Board of Trustees may defer sale plans during periods of depressed timber markets if the Board of Trustees, in its discretion, determines that such delay until markets improve is financially prudent and in keeping with its fiduciary obligation to the O&C Trust counties.

(i) STAND ROTATION.—

(1) BALANCE.—The balance of the harvestable acreage of the O&C Trust lands shall be managed on any rotation age the Board of Trustees, in its discretion and in compliance with applicable State law, determines will best satisfy its fiduciary obligation to provide revenue to the O&C Trust counties.

(j) THINNING.—Nothing in this subsection is intended to limit the Board of Trustees to decide, in its discretion, to thin stands of timber on O&C Trust lands.

(k) SALE TERMS.—

(1) Subject to paragraphs (b) and (3), the Board of Trustees is authorized to establish the terms for sale contracts of timber or other forest products from O&C Trust lands.

(2) SIT ASIDE.—The Board of Trustees shall establish a program consistent with the purposes of the Bureau of Land Management under a March 10, 1959 Memorandum of Understanding, as amended, regarding calculation of shares and sale of timber set aside for purchase by business entities with 500 or fewer employees and consistent with the regulations in part 121 of title 3, Code of Federal Regulations applicable to timber sale sets aside, except that existing shares in effect on the date of enactment of this Act shall apply until the next scheduled recomputation of shares. In implementing its program that is consistent with such Memorandum of Understanding, the Board of Trustees shall utilize the Timber Sale Procedure Handbook and other applicable procedures of the Bureau of Land Management, including the Operating Procedures for Conducting the Five-Year Recomputation of Small Business Share Percentages in effect on January 1, 2013.

(3) COMPETITIVE BIDDING.—The Board of Trustees shall require owners of the Forest Service under section 321.

(3) COMPLIANCE WITH CLEAN WATER ACT.—All roads used, constructed, or reconstructed under the direction of the O&C Trust must comply with requirements of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251 et seq.) applicable to private lands through the permitting processes under the Oregon Forest Practices Act.

(d) PUBLIC ACCESS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), public access to O&C Trust lands shall be preserved consistent with the policies of the Secretary concerning applicable to the O&C Trust lands as of the date on which management of the surface estate of the lands is transferred to the O&C Trust.

(2) RESTRICTIONS.—The Board of Trustees may limit or control public access for reasons of public safety or to protect the resources on the O&C Trust lands.

(e) LIMITATIONS.—The assets of the O&C Trust shall not be subject to the creditors of an O&C Trust county, or otherwise be distributed in an unprotected manner or be subject to anticipation, encumbrance, or expenditure on any purpose for which the O&C Trust was created.

(f) REMEDY.—An O&C Trust county shall have all the rights and remedies that would accrue to a beneficiary under a trust. An O&C Trust county shall provide the Board of Trustees, the Secretary concerned, and the Attorney General with not less than 60 days notice of an intent to sue to enforce the O&C Trust county’s rights under the Act.

(g) R EMEDY.—An O&C Trust county shall have all the rights and remedies that would accrue to a beneficiary under a trust. An O&C Trust county shall provide the Board of Trustees, the Secretary concerned, and the Attorney General with not less than 60 days notice of an intent to sue to enforce the O&C Trust county’s rights under the Act.

(h) DISCRETION.—In general, the Attorney General shall have discretion to settle any issue or dispute in the proceeds of any sale of timber or other forest products from O&C Trust lands.

(1) In general.—As a condition on the sale of timber or other forest products from O&C Trust lands or from lands transferred to the Forest Service under section 321, a payment equal to the evaluation of timber originating from private lands shall be made to the O&C Trust, or contracted party does not exceed 110 percent of the previous year’s payment to the O&C Trust county, adjusted for inflation based on the consumer price index applicable to the geographic area in which the O&C Trust counties are located.

(b) Reserve Fund.—

(1) Establishment of Reserve Fund.—The Board of Trustees shall establish a Reserve Fund, to be derived from revenues generated in excess of operating costs and payments to O&C Trust counties required by subsection (a) and payments into the Conservation Fund as provided in subsection (c), in an amount not to exceed 110 percent of the previous year’s payment to the O&C Trust county, adjusted for inflation based on the consumer price index applicable to the geographic area in which the O&C Trust counties are located.

ty Act of 1988 (Public Law 100–409; 102
Stat. 1086), the Act of March 20, 1922 (16
U.S.C. 485, 486), and the Act of March 1, 1911
(16 U.S.C. 480 et seq.) shall not apply to the land exchange authority provided by this section.
(e) EXCHANGES WITH FOREST SERVICE.—
(1) The Board of Trustees is authorized to engage in land exchanges with the Forest Service if approved by the Secretary pursuant to section 323(c).
(2) The management of O&C Trust lands shall be the same requirements under this subtitle applicable to the other lands that are managed by the O&C Board or the Forest Service.
SEC. 317. PAYMENTS TO THE UNITED STATES TREASURY.
As soon as practicable after the end of the third fiscal year of the transition period and in each of the subsequent seven fiscal years, the O&C Trust shall submit a payment of $10,000,000 to the United States Treasury.
CHAPTER 2—TRANSFER OF CERTAIN LANDS TO FOREST SERVICE
SEC. 321. TRANSFER OF CERTAIN OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD GRANT LANDS TO FOREST SERVICE.
(a) TRANSFER REQUIRED.—The Secretary of the Interior shall transfer administrative jurisdiction over all Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands and O&C Region Public Domain lands not designated as O&C Trust lands by subparagraphs (A) through (F) of section 311(c)(1), including those lands excluded by section 311(c)(2), to the Secretary of Agriculture for inclusion in the National Forest System and administration by the Forest Service as provided in section 322.
(b) EXCEPTION.—This section does not apply to Tribal lands transferred under subtitle D.
SEC. 322. MANAGEMENT OF TRANSFERRED LANDS BY FOREST SERVICE.
(a) ASSIGNMENT TO EXISTING NATIONAL FOR-ESTS.—To the greatest extent practicable, management responsibilities for the lands transferred under section 321 shall be assigned to the Forest Service under the Forest Management Act of 1976 (43 U.S.C.
580c, as added by section 321), or to any unit of the Forest Service under section 321, if the exchange meets the following criteria: (1) The non-Federal lands are completely within the State.
(2) The non-Federal lands have high timber production value, or are necessary for more efficient or effective management of adjacent or nearby O&C Trust lands.
(3) The non-Federal lands have equal or greater value to the O&C Trust lands proposed for exchange.
(4) The proposed exchange is reasonably likely to increase the net income to the O&C Trust lands or to reduce fire danger.
(c) AGRICULTURE.—The Secretary concerned shall not approve land exchanges under this section, that, taken together with all previous exchanges involving the O&C Trust lands, have the effect of reducing fire protection needs.
(d) INAPPLICABILITY OF CERTAIN LAWS.—
Section 3 of the Oregon Public Lands Transfer and Protection Act of 1986 (Public Law 100–409; 102 Stat. 1086), the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 (43 U.S.C.
1701 et. seq.), including the amendments imposed by that Act, that are in effect on the day after the day on which the Secretary rejects the proposed land exchange, shall not apply to the acreage transferred under this section.

members must hold a Doctor of Philosophy degree in wildlife biology, forestry, ecology, or related field and published peer-reviewed academic articles in their field of expertise.

(b) APPOINTMENT.—Members of the Old Growth Review Panel shall review existing, published, peer-reviewed articles in relevant academic journals and establish a definition of old growth are uniquely suited to apply to the ecologically, geographically and climatologically unique Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands and O&C Region Public Domain lands transferred under title D.

SECTION 325. UNIQUENESS OF OLD GROWTH PROTECTION ON OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD GRANT LANDS.

All sections of this subtitle refer to the term "old growth" are uniquely suited to apply to the ecologically, geographically and climatologically unique Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands and O&C Region Public Domain lands transferred under title D, and shall not apply to any lands other than the Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands and O&C Region Public Domain lands managed by the Federal Land Exchange Facilitation Program or the Bureau of Land Management in western Oregon. The definition or definitions shall not apply to Tribal lands.

(c) SUBMISSION OF RESULTS.—The definition or definitions of old growth in western Oregon established under subsection (b), if approved by at least four members of the Old Growth Review Panel, shall be submitted to the Secretary of Agriculture within six months after the date of the enactment of this Act.

CHAPTER 3—TRANSITION

SECTION 331. TRANSITION PERIOD AND OPERATIONS.

(a) TRANSITION PERIOD.—

(1) COMMENCEMENT; DURATION.—Effective on October 1 of the first fiscal year beginning after the appointment of the Board of Trustees under section 313, a transition period of three fiscal years shall commence.

(2) EXCEPTIONS.—Unless specifically stated in the following subsections, any action under this section shall be deemed not to involve Federal agency action or Federal discretionary involvement or control.

(b) YEAR ONE.—

(1) APPLICABILITY.—During the first fiscal year of the transition period, the activities described in this subsection shall occur.

(2) BOARD OF TRUSTEES ACTIVITIES.—The Board of Trustees shall employ sufficient staff or contractors to prepare for beginning management of O&C Trust lands and O&C Region Public Domain lands in the second fiscal year of the transition period. The Board shall be responsible for the preparation of management plans and a harvest schedule for the lands over which management authority is transferred to the O&C Trust during the three-year transition period provided in section 331.

(3) FOREST SERVICE ACTIVITIES.—The Forest Service shall begin preparing to assume management authority of all Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands and O&C Region Public Domain lands transferred under section 321 in the second fiscal year.

(4) SECRETARY CONCERNED ACTIVITIES.—The Secretary concerned shall continue to exercise management authority over all Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands and O&C Region Public Domain lands under all existing Federal laws.

(5) INFORMATION SHARING.—Upon written request from the Board of Trustees, the Secretary of Agriculture shall provide copies of documents or data, however stored or maintained, that includes the requested information concerning O&C Trust lands. The copies shall be provided as soon as practicable and to the greatest extent possible, but in no event later than 30 days following the date of the request.

SECTION 332. O&C TRUST MANAGEMENT CAPITALIZATION.

(a) BORROWING AUTHORITY.—The Board of Trustees is authorized to borrow from available private sources and non-Federal, public sources in order to provide for the costs of organization, administration, and management of the O&C Trust during the three-year transition period provided in section 331.

(b) SUPPORT.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, O&C Trust counties are authorized to loan to the O&C Trust, and the Board of Trustees is authorized to borrow from willing O&C Trust counties, amounts held on account by such counties that are required to be paid to the O&C Trust pursuant to the Act of May 23, 1968 (35 Stat. 260; 16 U.S.C. 500) and section 13 of the Act of March 1, 1911 (36 Stat. 963; 16 U.S.C. 500), except that, upon repayment by the O&C Trust, the obligation of such counties to expend the funds in accordance with such Acts shall continue to apply.

SECTION 333. EXISTING BOUNDARY REVISION.

(a) TREATMENT OF EXISTING CONTRACTS.—Any existing timber or forest land contracts authorized by the Secretary of Agriculture, or by the Board of Trustees, or intrusted to the O&C Trust for the purpose of maintaining or improving the forest resources, shall be continued for the duration of such contracts.

(b) TREATMENT OF PAYMENTS UNDER CONTRACTS.—Payments made pursuant to the contracts described in subsection (a), if any, shall be made as provided in those contracts and not made to the O&C Trust.

SECTION 334. PROTECTION OF VALID EXISTING RIGHTS AND ACCESS TO NON-FEDERAL LAND.

(a) VALID RIGHTS.—Nothing in this title, or any amendment made by this title, shall be construed as terminating any valid lease, permit, patent, right-of-way, agreement, or other right of authorization existing on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(b) TREATMENT OF OLD GROWTH RIGHTS.—Rights previously held under title D, or the Act of March 1, 1911 (35 Stat. 260; 16 U.S.C. 500), that include the right to harvest and use, or the right to use, any lands other than the Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands or O&C Region Public Domain lands transferred under this Act shall be subject to section 315.

(c) SECTIONS 304 AND 305.—The Secretary shall provide copies of documents or data, however stored or maintained, that includes the requested information concerning O&C Trust lands. The copies shall be provided as soon as practicable and to the greatest extent possible, but in no event later than 30 days following the date of the request.

(d) IMPLEMENTATION OF MANAGEMENT PLAN.—The Board of Trustees shall begin implementing its management plan for the O&C Trust lands and revise the plan as necessary.

SECTION 335. MANAGEMENT COOPERATION.

(a) BORROWING AUTHORITY.—The Board of Trustees is authorized to borrow from available private sources and non-Federal, public sources in order to provide for the costs of organization, administration, and management of the O&C Trust during the three-year transition period provided in section 331.

(b) SUPPORT.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, O&C Trust counties are authorized to loan to the O&C Trust, and the Board of Trustees is authorized to borrow from willing O&C Trust counties, amounts held on account by such counties that are required to be paid to the O&C Trust pursuant to the Act of May 23, 1968 (35 Stat. 260; 16 U.S.C. 500) and section 13 of the Act of March 1, 1911 (36 Stat. 963; 16 U.S.C. 500), except that, upon repayment by the O&C Trust, the obligation of such counties to expend the funds in accordance with such Acts shall continue to apply.

(c) MANAGEMENT COOPERATION.—The Board of Trustees and the Secretary concerned shall provide current and future landowners of land intermingled with Oregon and California Railroad Grant lands or O&C Region Public Domain lands does not include any existing access to the lands covered by this subtitle the Secretary concerned shall enter into an access agreement, including appurtenant lands, to secure the landowner the reasonable use and enjoyment of the landowner's land, including the harvest and hauling of timber.
SEC. 351. REPEAL OF SUPERSEDED LAW RELATING TO OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD GRANT LANDS.

(a) REPEAL.—Except as provided in subsection (b), the Act of August 28, 1937 (43 U.S.C. 181a et seq.) is repealed effective on October 1 of the first fiscal year beginning after the appointment of the Board of Trustees.

(b) EFFECT OF CERTAIN COURT RULINGS.—If, as a result of a review authorized by section 321, any provision of this subtitle is held to be invalid and implementation of the provision or any activity conducted under the provision is enjoined, the Act of August 28, 1937 (43 U.S.C. 181a et seq.), as in effect immediately before its repeal by subsection (a), shall be restored to full legal force and effect as if the repeal had not taken effect.

Subtitle B—Coos Bay Wagon Roads

SEC. 341. TRANSFER OF MANAGEMENT AUTHORITY OVER CERTAIN COOS BAY WAGON ROAD GRANT LANDS TO COOS COUNTY, OREGON.

(a) TRANSFER REQUIRED.—Except in the case of the lands described in subsection (b), the Secretary of the Interior shall transfer management authority over the Coos Bay Wagon Road Grant lands to Coos County, Oregon, pursuant to the public land laws of the United States, as of January 1, 2013.

Subtitle C—Oregon Treasures

CHAPTER I—WILDERNESS AREAS

SEC. 351. DESIGNATION OF DEVIL'S STAIRCASE WILDERNESS.

(a) DESIGNATION.—In furtherance of the purposes of the Wilderness Act (16 U.S.C. 1131 et seq.), the Federal land in the State of Oregon administered by the Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management, comprising approximately 190,000 acres, as generally depicted on the map entitled "Devil's Staircase Wilderness Proposal", dated October 26, 2009, is designated as a wilderness area for inclusion in the National Wilderness Preservation System and to be known as the "Devil's Staircase Wilderness".

(b) MAP AND LEGAL DESCRIPTION.—As soon as practicable after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall file with the Committee on Natural Resources of the Senate and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the House of Representatives a map and legal description of the wilderness area designated by subsection (a).

(c) ADMINISTRATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to valid existing rights, the Devil’s Staircase Wilderness Area shall be administered by the Secretaries of Agriculture and the Interior, in accordance with the Wilderness Act and the Oregon Wilderness Act of 1984, except that, with respect to the wilderness area, any reference in the Wilderness Act to the effective date of that Act shall be deemed to be a reference to the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) FOREST SERVICE ROADS.—As provided in section 133(d)(1), the Secretary of Agriculture shall—

(A) decommission any National Forest System road within the wilderness boundaries; and

(B) convert Forest Service Road 4100 within the wilderness boundary to a trail for public recreational use.

(d) TREATMENT OF REVENUES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—All revenues generated from the Coos Bay Wagon Road Grant lands over which management authority is transferred under subsection (a) and deposited in the general fund of the Coos County treasury shall be used as are other unrestricted county funds.

(2) TRUST.—As soon as practicable after the end of the third fiscal year of the transition period and in each of the subsequent seven fiscal years, Coos County shall submit a payment of $400,000 to the United States Treasury.

(3) DOUGLAS COUNTY.—Beginning with the first fiscal year for which management of the Devil’s Staircase Wilderness Area by the Secretary is transferred under subsection (a) generates net positive revenues, and for all subsequent fiscal years, Coos County shall transmit a payment to the general fund of the Douglas County treasury from the net revenues generated from the lands. The payment shall be made as soon as practicable following the end of each fiscal year and the amount of the payment shall bear the same proportion to total net revenues for the fiscal year as the proportion of the Devil's Staircase Wilderness Area in Douglas County in relation to all Coos Bay Wagon Road Grant lands in Coos and Douglas Counties as of January 1, 2013.

SEC. 342. TRANSFER OF CERTAIN COOS BAY WAGON ROAD GRANT LANDS TO FEDERAL SERVICE.

(c) MANAGEMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Interior shall transfer administrative jurisdiction over the Coos Bay Wagon Road Grant lands excluded by paragraphs (1) through (6) of subsection (b) to the Secretary of Agriculture in accordance with the public land laws;

(2) MAP AND LEGAL DESCRIPTION.—As soon as practicable after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall file with the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives a legal description of the wilderness area by this section, with—

(A) the map and legal description shall have the same force and effect as if included in this subtitle, except that the Secretary may correct clerical and typographical errors in the map and description. In the case of any discrepancy between the acreage specified in subsection (a) and the map, the map shall control. The map and legal description shall be on file and available for public inspection in the Office of the Chief of the Forest Service.

(c) ADMINISTRATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to valid existing rights, the Devil’s Staircase Wilderness Area shall be administered by the Secretaries of Agriculture and the Interior, in accordance with the Wilderness Act and the Oregon Wilderness Act of 1984, except that, with respect to the wilderness area, any reference in the Wilderness Act to the effective date of that Act shall be deemed to be a reference to the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) FOREST SERVICE ROADS.—As provided in section 133(d)(1), the Secretary of Agriculture shall—

(A) decommission any National Forest System road within the wilderness boundaries; and

(d) INCORPORATION OF ACQUIRED LAND AND INTERESTS.—Any land within the boundary of the wilderness area designated by this section that is acquired by the United States shall—

(1) become part of the Devil’s Staircase Wilderness Area; and

(2) be managed in accordance with this section and any other applicable law.

(e) FISH AND WILDLIFE.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as affecting the jurisdiction or responsibilities of the State of Oregon with respect to wildlife and fish in the national forests.

(f) PROTECTION OF TRIBAL RIGHTS.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to diminish—

(1) the existing rights of any Indian tribe;

(2) tribal rights regarding access to Federal lands for tribal activities, including spiritual, cultural, and traditional food gathering activities.

SEC. 352. EXPANSION OF WILD ROGUE WILDERNESS AREA.

(a) EXPANSION.—In accordance with the Wilderness Act (16 U.S.C. 1131 et seq.), certain Federal land managed by the Bureau of Land Management, comprising approximately 120,000 acres, as generally depicted on the map entitled "Wild Rogue", dated September 16, 2010, are hereby included in the Wild Rogue Wilderness, a component of the National Wilderness Preservation System.

(b) MAPS AND LEGAL DESCRIPTIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—As soon as practicable after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall file a map and a legal description of the wilderness area designated by this section, with—

(A) the map and legal description shall be made consistent with the Wilderness Act and the Oregon Wilderness Act of 1984, except that, with respect to the wilderness area, any reference in the Wilderness Act to the effective date of that Act shall be deemed to be a reference to the date of enactment of this Act.

(b) MAPS AND LEGAL DESCRIPTIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—As soon as practicable after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall file a map and a legal description of the wilderness area designated by this section, with—

(A) the map and legal description shall have the same force and effect as if included in this subdivision, except that the Secretary may correct clerical and typographical errors in the map and description. In the case of any discrepancy between the acreage specified in subsection (a) and the map, the map shall control. The map and legal description shall be on file and available for public inspection in the Office of the Chief of the Forest Service.

(c) ADMINISTRATION.—Subject to valid existing rights, the Devil's Staircase Wilderness Area shall be administered by the Secretaries of Agriculture and the Interior, in accordance with the Wilderness Act and the Oregon Wilderness Act of 1984, except that, with respect to the wilderness area, any reference in the Wilderness Act to the effective date of that Act shall be deemed to be a reference to the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) FOREST SERVICE ROADS.—As provided in section 133(d)(1), the Secretary of Agriculture shall—

(A) decommission any National Forest System road within the wilderness boundaries; and

(B) convert Forest Service Road 4100 within the wilderness boundary to a trail for public recreational use.

(d) INCORPORATION OF ACQUIRED LAND AND INTERESTS.—Any land within the boundary of the wilderness area designated by this section that is acquired by the United States shall—

(1) become part of the Devil's Staircase Wilderness Area; and

(2) be managed in accordance with this section and any other applicable law.

(e) FISH AND WILDLIFE.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as affecting the jurisdiction or responsibilities of the State of Oregon with respect to wildlife and fish in the national forests.

(f) PROTECTION OF TRIBAL RIGHTS.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to diminish—

(1) the existing rights of any Indian tribe;

(2) tribal rights regarding access to Federal lands for tribal activities, including spiritual, cultural, and traditional food gathering activities.
with the Wilderness Act (16 U.S.C. 131 et seq.).

(d) WITHDRAWAL.—Subject to valid rights in existence on the date of enactment of this Act, the Federal land within the boundaries of the river segments designated as wilderness by this section is withdrawn from all forms of—

(1) entry, appropriation, or disposal under the public land laws;

(2) location, entry, and patent under the mining laws; and

(3) disposition under all laws pertaining to mineral and geothermal leasing or mineral materials.

CHAPTER 3—ADDITIONAL PROTECTIONS

SEC. 371. LIMITATIONS ON LAND ACQUISITION.

(a) PROHIBITION ON USE OF CONDEMNATION.—The Secretary of the Interior or the Secretary of Agriculture may not acquire by condemnation any land or interest within the boundaries of the river segments or wilderness designated by this subtitle.

(b) LAND USE.—Subject to REQUIRING.—Private or non-Federal public property shall not be included within the boundaries of the river segments or wilderness designated by this subtitle unless the owner of this property has consented in writing to having that property included in such boundaries.

SEC. 372. OVERFLIGHTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Nothing in this subtitle or the Wilderness Act shall preclude low-level overflights and operations of military aircraft, helicopters, missiles, or unmanned aerial vehicles over the wilderness designated by this subtitle, including military overflights and operations that can be seen or heard within the wilderness.

(b) SPECIAL USE AIRSPACE AND TRAINING ROUTES.—Nothing in this subtitle or the Wilderness Act shall preclude the designation of special use airspace, the expansion of existing units of special use airspace, or the use or establishment of military training routes over wilderness designated by this subtitle.

SEC. 373. BUFFER ZONES.

Nothing in this subtitle—

(1) establishes or authorizes the establishment of a protective buffer zone around the boundaries of the river segments or wilderness designated by this subtitle; or

(2) precludes, limits, or restricts an activity from being conducted outside such boundaries, including an activity that can be seen or heard from within such boundaries.

SEC. 374. PREVENTION OF WILDFIRES.

The designation of a river segment or wilderness by this subtitle or withdrawal of the Federal land under this subtitle shall not be construed to interfere with the authority of the Secretary of Interior or the Secretary of Agriculture to authorize mechanical thinning of trees or underbrush to prevent or control the spread of wildfires, or authorize creating prescribed burns that threatens areas outside the boundary of the wilderness, or the use of mechanized equipment for wildfire pre-suppression and suppression.

SEC. 375. LIMITATION ON DESIGNATION OF CERTAIN LANDS IN ORANGE.

A national monument designation under the Act of June 18, 1909 (commonly known as the Antiquities Act; 16 U.S.C. 431 et seq.) within or on any portion of the Oregon and California Railroad Grant Lands or the O&C Trust Public Domain of whether management authority over the lands are transferred to the O&C Trust pursuant to section 311(c)(1), the lands are excluded from the O&C Trust pursuant to section 311(c)(2), or the lands are transferred to the Forest Service under section 321, shall only be made pursuant to Congressional approval in an Act of Congress.

CHAPTER 4—EFFECTIVE DATE

SEC. 381. EFFECTIVE DATE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—This subtitle and the amendments made by this subtitle shall take effect on October 1 of the second fiscal year of the transition period.

(b) EXCEPTION.—If, as a result of judicial review authorized by section 312, any provision of this subtitle is held to be invalid and implementation of the provision or any activity conducted under the provision is enjoined, this subtitle and the amendments made by this subtitle shall not have any effect, or if the effective date specified in subsection (a) has already occurred, this subtitle shall have no force and effect and the amendments made by this subtitle are repealed.

Subtitle D—Tribal Trust Lands

PART I—COUNCIL CREEK LAND CONVEYANCE

SEC. 381. DEFINITIONS.

In this part:

(1) COUNCIL CREEK LAND.—The term “Council Creek land” means the approximately 17,519 acres of land, as generally depicted on the map entitled “Canyon Mountain Land Conveyance” and dated June 27, 2013.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to valid existing rights, including rights-of-way, all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to the Council Creek land, including any improvements located on the land, appurtenances to the land, and minerals on or in the land, if the Secretary of the Interior determines that (1) held in trust by the United States for the benefit of the Tribe; and (2) part of the reservation of the Tribe.

(b) Sale or conveyance—Not later than one year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall complete a survey of the boundary lines to establish the boundaries of the land taken into trust under subsection (a).

SEC. 397. MAP AND LEGAL DESCRIPTION.

(a) In general.—As soon as practicable after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall file a map and legal description of the Council Creek land with—

(1) the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate; and
(2) the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives.

(b) Force and Effect.—The map and legal description filed under subsection (a) shall have the same force and effect as if included in this subdivision, except that the Secretary of the Interior may correct any clerical or typographical errors in the map or legal description.

(c) Public Availability.—The map and legal description filed under subsection (a) shall be on file and available for public inspection in the Office of the Secretary of the Interior.

SEC. 398. ADMINISTRATION.

(a) In general.—Unless expressly provided in this part, nothing in this part affects any right or claim of the Tribe existing on the date of enactment of this Act to any land or interest in land.

(b) Prohibitions.—

(1) Exports of unprocessed logs.—Federal law (including regulations) relating to the export of unprocessed logs harvested from Federal land shall apply to any unprocessed logs that are harvested from the Council Creek land.

(2) Non-permissible use of land.—Any real property taken into trust under section 392 shall not be eligible, or used, for any mining activity carried out under Public Law 100–497 (25 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.).

(c) Forest Management.—Any forest management activity that is carried out on the Oregon Coastal land shall be managed in accordance with all applicable Federal laws.

TITLE IV—COMMUNITY FOREST MANAGEMENT DEMONSTRATION

SEC. 401. PURPOSE AND DEFINITIONS.

(a) Purpose.—The purpose of this title is to generate dependable economic activity for counties and local governments by establishing a demonstration program for local, sustainable forest management.

(b) Definitions.—In this title:

(1) Advisory Committee.—The term “Advisory Committee” means the Advisory Committee appointed by the Governor of a State to manage the community forest demonstration area at the request of the Advisory Committee appointed to manage the community forest demonstration area for the State.

(2) Community forest demonstration area.—The term “community forest demonstration area” means a community forest demonstration area established for a State under section 402.

(3) National Forest System.—The term “National Forest System” has the meaning given that term in section 11(a) of the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Act of 2000 (16 U.S.C. 711 et seq.) or as provided in the sixth paragraph under the heading “Forest Service” in the Act of May 23, 1908 (16 U.S.C. 500) and section 13 of the Act of March 1, 1911 (16 U.S.C. 500).

(d) Treatment under certain other laws.—National Forest System land included in a community forest demonstration area shall not be considered Federal land for purposes of—

(1) making payments to counties under the sixth paragraph under the heading “FOREST SERVICE” in the Act of May 23, 1908 (16 U.S.C. 500) and section 13 of the Act of March 1, 1911 (16 U.S.C. 500); or

(2) title I.

(e) Acreage limitation.—Not more than a total of 4,000,000 acres of National Forest System land may be established as community forest demonstration areas.

(f) Recognition of valid and existing rights.—Nothing in this title shall be construed to limit or restrict—

(1) access to National Forest System land included in a community forest demonstration area for hunting, fishing, and other related purposes; or

(2) valid and existing rights regarding such National Forest System land, including rights of any federally recognized Indian tribe.

SEC. 403. ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

(a) APPOINTMENT.—A community forest demonstration area in a State shall be managed by an Advisory Committee appointed by the Governor of the State.

(b) COMPOSITION.—The Advisory Committee for a community forest demonstration area in a State shall include, but is not limited to, the following members:

(1) A member who holds county or local elected office, appointed from each county or local governmental unit in the State containing community forest demonstration area land.

(2) One member who represents the commercial timber, wood products, or milling industry.

(3) One member who represents persons holding Federal grazing or other land use permits.

(4) One member who represents recreational users of National Forest System land.

(c) TERMS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except in the case of certain terms, appointments required by paragraph (2), members of an Advisory Committee shall serve for a term of three years.

(2) INITIAL APPOINTMENTS.—In making initial appointments to an Advisory Committee, the Governor making the appointments shall stagger terms so that at least one-third of the members will be replaced every year.

(d) COMPENSATION.—Members of an Advisory Committee shall serve without pay, but may be reimbursed from the funds made available for the management of a community forest demonstration area for the actual and necessary travel and subsistence expenses incurred by members in the performance of their duties.

SEC. 404. MANAGEMENT OF COMMUNITY FOREST DEMONSTRATION AREAS.

(a) ASSUMPTION OF MANAGEMENT.

(1) CONFIRMATION.—The Advisory Committee appointed for a community forest demonstration area shall assume management authority with regard to the community forest demonstration area as soon as the Secretary confirms that:

(A) The National Forest System land to be included in the community forest demonstration area meets the requirements of subsections (b) and (c) of section 402;

(B) The Advisory Committee has been duly appointed under subsection (a) and is able to conduct business; and

(C) provision has been made for essential management services for the community forest demonstration area.

(2) SCOPE AND TIME FOR CONFIRMATION.—The determination of the Secretary under paragraph (1) is limited to confirming whether the conditions specified in subparagraphs (A) and (B) of such paragraph have been satisfied. The Secretary shall make the determination not later than 60 days after the date of the appointment of the Advisory Committee.

(3) EFFECT OF FAILURE TO CONFIRM.—If the Secretary determines that either or both of the conditions specified in subparagraphs (A) and (B) of paragraph (1) are not satisfied for confirmation of an Advisory Committee, the Secretary shall—

(A) promptly notify the Governor of the affected State and the Advisory Committee of the reasons preventing confirmation; and

(B) make a determination under paragraph (2) within 60 days after receiving a new request from the Advisory Committee that addresses the reasons that previously prevented confirmation.

(b) MANAGEMENT RESPONSIBILITIES.—Upon assumption of management of a community forest demonstration area, the Advisory Committee for the community forest demonstration area shall manage the land and resources of the community forest demonstration area in a manner and use thereof in conformity with this title, and to the extent not in conflict with this title, the laws and regulations applicable to management of Federal forest lands in the State in which the community forest demonstration area is located.

(c) APPLICABILITY OF OTHER FEDERAL LAWS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The administration and management of a community forest demonstration area shall not be considered Federal action and shall be subject to the following only to the extent that such laws apply to the State or private administration and management of forest lands in the State in which the community forest demonstration area is located:

(A) The Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251 et seq.).

(B) The Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7401 et seq.).

(D) Federal laws and regulations governing procurement by Federal agencies.

(2) APPLICABILITY OF NATIONAL AMERICAN GRAVES PROTECTION AND REHABILITATION ACT.—Notwithstanding any provision of an Advisory Committee of management of a community forest demonstration area, the Native American Graves Protection and Rehabilitation Act (25 U.S.C. 3001 et seq.) shall continue to apply to the National Forest System land included in the community forest demonstration area.

(d) CONSULTATION WITH NATIVE AMERICANS.

(1) WITH INDIAN TRIBES.—The Advisory Committee for a community forest demonstration area shall cooperate and consult with Indian tribes on management policies and practices for the community forest demonstration area that may affect the Indian tribes. The Advisory Committee shall take into consideration the use of lands within the community forest demonstration area for religious and cultural uses by Native Americans.

(2) WITH COLLABORATIVE GROUPS.—The Advisory Committee for a community forest demonstration area shall consult with any applicable forest collaborative group.

(e) RECONSIDERATION.—If a section of the community forest demonstration area shall affect public use and recreation within a community forest demonstration area, the Secretary shall provide for a public hearing on the action.

SEC. 405. DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS FROM COMMUNITY FOREST DEMONSTRATION AREA.

(a) RETENTION OF FUNDS FOR MANAGEMENT.

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary appointed for a community forest demonstration area may retain such sums as the Advisory Committee considers to be necessary from funds generated from the management of the community forest demonstration area to fund the management, administration, restoration, operation and maintenance, improvement, repair, and related expenses incurred with respect to the community forest demonstration area.

(b) PAYMENTS TO COUNTIES OR LOCAL GOVERNMENTAL UNITS.—Subject to subsection (a) and section 407, the Advisory Committee for a community forest demonstration area in a State shall distribute funds generated from that community forest demonstration area to each county or local governmental unit in the State in an amount proportional to the funds received by the county or local governmental unit under title I of the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Act of 2000 (16 U.S.C. 7501 et seq.).

SEC. 406. INITIAL FUNDING AUTHORITY.

(a) FUNDING SOURCE.—Counties may use such sum as the counties consider to be necessary from funds available to the counties under section 501 to provide initial funding for the management of community forest demonstration area.

(b) NO RESTRICTION ON USE OF NON-FEDERAL FUNDS.—Nothing in this title restricts the Advisory Committee for a community forest demonstration area from using non-Federal loans or other non-Federal funds for management of the community forest demonstration area.

SEC. 407. PAYMENTS TO UNITED STATES TREASURY.

(a) PAYMENT REQUIREMENT.—As soon as practicable after the close of the fiscal year in which a community forest demonstration area is established and as soon as practicable after the end of each subsequent fiscal year, the Advisory Committee for a community forest demonstration area shall make a payment to the United States Treasury.

(b) PAYMENT AMOUNT.—The payment for a fiscal year under subsection (a) with respect to a community forest demonstration area shall be equal to 75 percent of the quotient obtained by dividing:

(1) the number obtained by multiplying the number of acres of land in the community forest demonstration area by the average annual receipts generated over the preceding 10-fiscal year period from the unit or units of the National Forest System containing that community forest demonstration area by the Secretary;

(2) the total acres of National Forest System land in that unit or units of the National Forest System.

SEC. 408. TERMINATION OF COMMUNITY FOREST DEMONSTRATION AREA.

(a) TERMINATION AUTHORITY.—Subject to approval by the Governor of the State, the Advisory Committee for a community forest demonstration area may terminate the community forest demonstration area by a unanimous vote.

(b) EFFECT OF TERMINATION.—Upon termination of a community forest demonstration area, the Secretary shall immediately resume management of the National Forest System land that had been included in the community forest demonstration area, and the Advisory Committee shall be dissolved.

(c) TREATMENT OF UNDISTRIBUTED FUNDS.—Any reserved forest revenue area that remain undistributed under section 405 more than 30 days after the date of termination shall be deposited in the general fund of the Treasury for use by the Forest Service in such amounts as may be provided in advance in appropriation Acts.

TITLE V—REAUTHORIZATION AND TERMINATION OF FOREST RESEARCH RESERVE AREAS

SEC. 501. EXTENSION OF SECURE RURAL SCHOOLS AND COMMUNITY SELF-DETERMINATION ACT OF 2000 WITH FULL OPERATING FUND FOREST RESEARCH RESERVE AREAS.

(a) BENEFICIARY COUNTY.—Beginning the month of February 2015, the Secretary of Agriculture shall distribute to each beneficiary... county (as defined in section 102(2)) a payment equal to the amount distributed to the beneficiary county for fiscal year 2010 under section 102(c)(1) of the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Act of 2000 (16 U.S.C. 712(c)(1)).

(b) COUNTRIES THAT WERE ELIGIBLE FOR DIRECT PAYMENTS.—During the month of February 2015, the Secretary of the Interior shall distribute to all counties that received a payment for fiscal year 2010 under subsection (a)(2) of section 102 of the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Act of 2000 (16 U.S.C. 712) payments in a total amount equal to the difference between—

(A) the total amount distributed to all such counties for fiscal year 2010 under subsection (c)(1) of such section; and

(B) $27,000,000.

(2) COUNTY SHARE.—From the total amount determined under paragraph (1), each county described in such paragraph shall receive, during the month of February 2015, an amount that bears the same proportion to the total amount available under such paragraph as that county’s payment for fiscal year 2010 under subsection (c)(1) of section 102 of the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Act of 2000 (16 U.S.C. 712) bears to the total amount distributed to all such counties for fiscal year 2010 under such subsection.

(c) 25-PERCENT AND 50-PERCENT PAYMENTS.—A county that receives a payment made under subsection (a) or (b) may not receive a 25-percent payment or 50-percent payment made under such subsection (a) or (b) of section 102 of the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Act of 2000 (16 U.S.C. 712) bears to the total amount distributed to all such counties for fiscal year 2010 under such subsection.

SEC. 502. RESTORING ORIGINAL CALCULATION METHOD FOR 25-PERCENT PAYMENTS.

(a) AMENDMENT OF ACT OF MAY 23, 1908.—The sixth paragraph under the heading “FOREST SERVICE” in the Act of May 23, 1908 (16 U.S.C. 500) is amended in the first sentence—

(1) by striking “the annual average of 25 percent of all amounts received for the applicable fiscal year and each of the preceding 6 fiscal years” and inserting “25 percent of all amounts received for the applicable fiscal year”;

(2) by striking “said reserve” both places it appears and inserting “the national forest”;

and

(3) by striking “forest reserve” both places it appears and inserting “national forest”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT TO WEEKS ACT.—Section 13 of the Act of March 1, 1911 (commonly known as the Weeks Act; 16 U.S.C. 560) is amended in the first sentence by striking “the annual average of 25 percent of all amounts received for the applicable fiscal year and each of the preceding 6 fiscal years” and inserting “25 percent of all amounts received for the applicable fiscal year”.

SEC. 503. FOREST SERVICE AND BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT GOOD-NEIGHBOR COOPERATION WITH STATES TO CONDUCT FIRE SUPPRESSION ACTIVITIES.

(a) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) ELIGIBLE STATE.—The term “eligible State” means a State that contains National Forest System land or land under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management.

(2) SECRETARY.—The term “Secretary” means—

(A) the Secretary of Agriculture, with respect to National Forest System land; or

(B) the Secretary of the Interior, with respect to land under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management.

(3) STATE FORESTER.—The term “State forester” means the head of a State agency with jurisdiction over State forestry programs in an eligible State.

(b) COOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS AND CONTRACTS AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary may enter into a cooperative agreement or contract (including a sole source contract) with a State forester to authorize the State forester to provide the forest, rangeland, and watershed management, and protection services described in subsection (c) on National Forest System land or land under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management, as applicable, in the eligible State.

(c) AUTHORIZED SERVICES.—The forest, rangeland, and watershed restoration, management, and protection services referred to in subsection (b) include the conduct of—

(1) activities to treat insect infected forests;

(2) activities to reduce hazardous fuels;

(3) activities involving commercial harvesting or other mechanical vegetative treatments; or

(4) any other activities to restore or improve forest, rangeland, and watershed health, including fish and wildlife habitat.

(d) STATE AS AGENT.—Except as provided in subsection (c), a cooperative agreement or contract entered into under subsection (b) may authorize the State forester to serve as the agent for the Secretary in providing the restoration, management, and protection services authorized under subsection (b).

(e) SUBCONTRACTS.—In accordance with applicable contract procedures for the eligible State, a State forester may enter into subcontracts to provide the restoration, management, and protection services authorized under a cooperative agreement or contract entered into under subsection (b).

(f) TIMBER SALES.—Subsections (d) and (g) of section 10 of the National Forest Management Act of 1976 (16 U.S.C. 472a) shall not apply to services provided under a cooperative agreement or contract entered into under subsection (b).

(g) RETENTION OF NEPA RESPONSIBILITIES.—Any decision required to be made under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) with respect to any restoration, management, or protection services to be provided under this section by a State forester on National Forest System land or Bureau of Land Management land, as applicable, shall not be delegated to a State other than the other officer or employee of the eligible State.

(h) APPLICABLE LAW.—The restoration, management, and protection services to be provided under this section shall be provided in accordance with applicable laws, provided by any other law, or provided by the Secretary, as applicable, on a project-to-project basis under existing authorities of the Forest Service or Bureau of Land Management, as applicable.

SEC. 504. TREATMENT AS SUPPLEMENTAL FUNDING.

None of the funds made available to a beneficiary county (as defined in section 102(2) or other political subdivision of a State under this subdivision shall be used in lieu of or to otherwise offset State funding sources for local schools, facilities, or educational purposes.

SEC. 505. DEFINITION OF FIRE SUPPRESSION TO INCLUDE CERTAIN RELATED ACTIVITIES.

For purposes of utilizing amounts made available to the Secretary of Agriculture or the Secretary of the Interior for fire suppression activities, including funds made available from the FLAME Fund, the term “fire suppression” includes reforestation, site reclamation, salvage operations, and replanting occurring following fire damage on lands managed by the Forest Service or the Interior concerning or following fire suppression efforts on such lands by the Secretary concerned.

SEC. 506. PROHIBITION ON CERTAIN ACTIONS REGARDING FOREST SERVICE ROADS AND TRAILS.

The Forest Service shall not remove or otherwise eliminate or obliterate any legally created road or trail unless there has been a specific decision, which included adequate and appropriate public involvement, to de-commission the specific road or trail in question. The fact that any road or trail is a not a Forest System road or trail, or does not operate under the Forest Service Motor Vehicle Use Map, shall not constitute a decision.

SUBDIVISION B—NATIONAL STRATEGIC AND CRITICAL MINERALS PRODUCTION

SEC. 100. SHORT TITLE.

This section may be cited as the “National Strategic and Critical Minerals Production Act of 2014”.

SEC. 100A. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) The industrialization of China and India has driven demand for nonfuel mineral commodities, sparking a period of resource nationalism exemplified by China’s reduction in exports of rare-earth elements necessary for telecommunications, military technologies, healthcare technologies, and clean energy and renewable energy technologies.

(2) The availability of minerals and mineral materials are essential for economic growth, national security, technological innovation, and the manufacturing and agricultural supply chain.

(3) The exploration, production, processing, use, and recycling of minerals contribute significantly to the economic well-being, security, and general welfare of the Nation.

(4) The United States has vast mineral resources, but is becoming increasingly dependent upon foreign sources of these mineral materials, as demonstrated by the following:

(a) Twenty-five years ago the United States was dependent on foreign sources for 30 nonfuel mineral materials, 6 of which the United States imported 100 percent of the Nation’s requirements, and for another 16 commodities the United States imported more than 60 percent of the Nation’s needs.

(b) By 2011 the United States import dependence for nonfuel minerals was more than doubled from 30 to 67 commodities, 19 of which the United States imported 100 percent of the Nation’s requirements, and for another 9 commodities the United States imported more than 50 percent of the Nation’s needs.

(c) The United States share of worldwide mineral exploration dollars was 8 percent in 2006, down from 19 percent in the early 1990s.

(d) In the 2012 Ranking of Countries for Mining Investment, out of 25 major mining countries, the United States ranked last with Papua New Guinea in permitting delays, and towards the bottom regarding government take and social issues affecting mining.

SEC. 100B. DEFINITIONS.

In this subdivision:

(1) STRATEGIC AND CRITICAL MINERALS.—The term “strategic and critical minerals” means minerals that are necessary—

(A) for national defense and national security purposes;

(B) for the Nation’s energy infrastructure, including pipelines, refining capacity, electrical power generation and transmission, and renewable energy production;

(C) to support domestic manufacturing, agriculture, manufacturing, housing, and construction, healthcare, and transportation infrastructure; or

(D) for the Nation’s economic security and balance of trade.

(2) AGENCY.—The term “agency” means any agency, department, or other unit of required under the National Environmental
(5) Preparation of a final document required under the National Environmental
(6) Consultations required under applicable laws.
(7) Submission and review of any comments required under applicable law.
(8) Publication of any public notices required under applicable law.
(9) A final or any interim decisions.
(e) Time Limit for Permitting Process.—
In no case should the total review process described in subsection (d) exceed 30 months unless agreed to by the signatories of the agreement.
(f) Limitation on Addressing Public Comments.—The lead agency is not required to address agency or public comments that were not submitted during any public comment periods or consultation periods produced during the permitting process or as otherwise required by law.
(g) Financial Assurance.—The lead agency will determine the amount of financial assurance for reclamation of a mineral explo-rati or mining site, which must cover the estimated cost if the lead agency were to contract with a third party to reclaim the operations according to the reclamation plan, thereby ensuring that financial assurance is not subject to the maintenance costs for any treatment facilities necessary to meet Federal, State or tribal environmental standards.
(h) Application to Existing Permit Applications.—This section shall apply with respect to a mineral exploration or mine permit for which an application was submitted before the date of the enactment of this Act if the applicant for the permit submits a written request to the lead agency for the permit. The lead agency shall begin implementing this section to such an application within 30 days after receiving such written request.
(1) Strategic and Critical Minerals Within National Forests.—With respect to strategic and critical minerals within a federal administered unit of the National Forest System, the lead agency shall—
(1) exempted mineral resources in Land Use Designations, other than Non-Development Land Use Designations, as described in sections 1601 to 1604 of the Forest and Rangeland Conservation and Improvement Act of 1981 and as others agree not to allow such mining within the area described in the concessions.
(2) apply such exemption to all additional routes and areas that the lead agency finds necessary to facilitate the construction, operation, and maintenance of the areas of identified mineral resources described in paragraph (1); and
(3) continue to apply such exemptions after approval of the Minerals Plan of Operations for the unit of the National Forest System.
In evaluating and issuing any mineral exploration or mine permit, the priority of the lead agency shall be to maximize the development of the mineral resource, while mitigating environmental impacts, so that more of the mineral resource can be brought to the market.
SEC. 104. Federal Register Process for Mineral Exploration and Mining Projects.
(a) Preparation of Federal Notices for Mineral Exploration and Mine Development Projects.—The preparation of Federal Register notices required by law associated with the preparation of any application for mine permit shall be delegated to the organization level within the agency responsible for issuing the mineral exploration or mine permit. All Federal Register notices regarding official document availability, announcements of meetings, or notices of intent to take other action an action shall be originated and transmitted to the Federal Register from the office where documents are held, meetings are held, or the activity is initiated.
SEC. 105. Departmental Review of Federal Register Notices for Mineral Exploration and Mining Projects.—Absent any extraordinary circumstances, each week at the time required by any Act of Congress, each Federal Register notice described in subsection
(a) shall undergo any required reviews within the Department of the Interior or the Department of Agriculture and be published in it final form in the Federal Register no later than 30 days after its initial preparation.

TITLE II—JUDICIAL REVIEW OF AGENCY ACTIONS RELATING TO EXPLORATION AND MINE PERMITS

SEC. 201. Definitions for Title.
In this title the term "covered civil action" means a civil action against the Federal Government containing a claim under section 702 of title 5, United States Code, requiring a declaratory judgment affecting a mineral exploration or mine permit.
SEC. 202. Timely Filings.
A covered civil action is barred unless filed before the date of the enactment of this Act and not more than 60 days after the government receives the complaint.
SEC. 203. Right to Intervene.
The holder of any mineral exploration or mine permit may intervene as of right in any covered civil action by a person affecting rights or obligations of the permit holder under applicable law.
SEC. 204. Expedition in Hearing and Determining the Action.
The court shall endeavor to hear and determine any covered civil action as expeditiously as possible.

TITLE III—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 301. Secretarial Order Not Affected.
Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed as to affect any aspect of Secretarial Order 3234, issued by the Secretary of the Interior on December 3, 2012, with respect to push and oil and gas projects.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CAMP) and the gentleman from New York (Mr.
RANGEL) each will control 60 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Michigan.
There was no objection.

Mr. CAMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Every day, hardworking men and women are struggling. Far too many families haven’t seen a pay raise in years, and many have lost hope and stopped looking for work entirely. H.R. 4, the Jobs for America Act, will strengthen the economy by creating more jobs with higher take-home pay.

The House has already passed dozens of bipartisan solutions that will break down burdensome regulations and promote policies that allow businesses, large and small, to do what they do best: grow, innovate, and hire new workers.

The bill we have before us today, the Jobs for America Act, includes provisions that have strong bipartisan support in both the House and the Senate.

The research and development credit, which has been around for over 30 years, is a proven way to incentivize U.S. companies to innovate, create new products, and invest in the U.S.

The United States is the only country that allows important pieces of its Tax Code to expire on a regular basis. Businesses cannot grow and invest when the Tax Code is riddled with instability and uncertainty.

Making the R&D tax credit permanent also supports good-paying jobs. According to the National Association of Manufacturers, 70 percent of research and development credit dollars are used to pay salaries of R&D workers.

The nonpartisan Joint Committee on Taxation estimates that making the R&D credit permanent could increase the amount of research and development American companies undertake by up to 10 percent. That translates into more workers, higher wages, and increased innovation here in the United States.

This bill would also make permanent bonus depreciation and section 179 expensing at higher levels, allowing businesses, farmers, and ranchers to plan for the future and expand their businesses. The result of that is more jobs and higher wages for hardworking Americans. The Tax Foundation analysis found that permanent bonus depreciation would add $182 billion to the economy and increase wages by 1 percent, which creates 212,000 jobs.

Additionally, the bill would make permanent several expired tax provisions that benefit S corporations, a popular and important business structure that is used by millions of small businesses across the country.

This commonsense effort will give small businesses some much-needed relief from the burdens of the Tax Code, allowing them to invest and create new jobs.

This bill would also reap some of the job-killing provisions of the health care law. The current 30-hour rule in the Affordable Care Act’s employer mandate results in fewer jobs, reduced hours, and less opportunity for Americans.

By changing the definition of “full-time work,” ObamaCare places an unprecedented government regulation on workers. As a direct result, Americans across the country are seeing their hours cut at work and seeing smaller paychecks. At a time when the cost of groceries, gas, and health care keep increasing, lower paychecks are simply unacceptable.

Worse of all, the law hits lower-income Americans the hardest: 2.6 million workers with a median income of under $30,000 are at risk of losing jobs or hours; 89 percent of workers impacted by the rule don’t have college degrees, 63 percent of which are women; and over half have a high school diploma or less.

So simply restoring the definition of “full-time work” to 40 hours will ensure the hardest-working Americans don’t see their hours and wages cut as a result of the health care law.

This bill also ensures that small businesses that hire veterans returning from service overseas, who already have coverage through TRICARE or the VA, are not counted under the employer mandate.

And we repeal the onerous medical device tax, which is stifling medical innovation and hurting jobs. According to a survey by AdvaMed, the medical device tax has already resulted in 14,000 jobs lost in the industry and prevented 19,000 jobs from being created. This tax is contributing to lackluster job creation and hampering medical innovation.

We have strong bipartisan support for repeal of this tax, and for repealing it before even more detrimental harm is done to the workforce and medical community.

These are only a few among a long list of policies that will ultimately get Americans back to work and increase their quality of living. With better jobs, higher take-home pay, and a stronger economy, we can offer a brighter future for our youth and ease the everyday burdens felt by individuals nationwide.

It is time to create an America that works.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I might consume.

It is awkward and embarrassing to stand on this floor to discuss something described as a Jobs for America bill.

Fortunately, we Democrats don’t have to expend much energy because of the lack of credibility that the majority party has with any type of legislation designed to help those people who are without employment.

The irony of this whole thing is that our distinguished chairman spent hours, days, weeks, and months putting together a tax reform bill that, even though it could be challenged in parts, all tax writers and people who respect the necessity of reforming the Tax Code lauded him for the work, the fairness, and, most of all, the lack of partisanship that went into that bill.

Indeed, many of the provisions that are in this bill that could better be described as opportunities for corporates to avoid paying taxes, many of those provisions in this bill were repealed in the chairman’s bill that he presented to the Congress to be considered for reform.

Having said that, it was a fine piece of legislation that gained support by eliminating the very same violations of equity and fair play that are now in this bill.

With a $560 billion tab, $560 billion cost, not paid for, not a promise to pay for. And half of this is to make permanent the extension of bonus appreciation, which all economists, including those in the Congressional Research Service, say that in order to be effective, it should not be made permanent.

In any event, I think, as we go home, we should recognize that there will be opportunity when we come back to really get together and have an effective bill.

To do this, the Republican majority should not bring to the floor bills that have passed the House and been rejected already by the Senate, but should sit down with the administration, with the Senate, with the minority in the House and work out something that is for the good of all Americans.

This happened yesterday, where we had honest, serious disagreements. But at the same time, we came together as a Congress in the House at least on what is good for the country.

So, quite frankly, I don’t think I will be using all of my time because what is before the House today is not a jobs bill but a public relations piece of political advertisement.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CAMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. GOODLATTE), the distinguished chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. GOODLATTE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for yielding, and I very much appreciate his leadership on this issue.

In every State across this country, and in the Commonwealth of Virginia, there are folks still looking for good full-time jobs and businesses who want to hire them but can’t for fear of government imposed regulations that increase expenses.

The administration’s tax, regulate, and spend response to this problem hasn’t worked, and it is incumbent upon us to enact necessary reforms to restore the American economy.
The legislation we consider today includes many provisions to combat excessive regulations that have already been passed by the House of Representatives and await action in the Senate, which has been moribund in dealing with such issues. It would fold over there on the majority leader’s desk, including provisions to re-store the 40-hour workweek, to permanently ban taxation of Internet access, to prevent secret settlement deals between regulated and pro-regulatory plaintiffs in lawsuits, to require bureaucrats to consider the cost of regulations to small businesses, to require agencies to adopt the least costly method of implementing the law, and to require Federal agencies to submit major regulations to Congress for approval. We know these provisions will help spur our economy and create jobs.

America’s labor force participation rate has essentially remained stagnant for the past several months and job creation and economic growth continue to fall short of what is needed to produce a real and durable recovery in our country. It is imperative that we again take the steps that make common sense reforms, return discouraged workers to full-time jobs, and restore America to prosperity.

I urge the Senate to stop stalling and to join us in this effort.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

If we were serious about passing a bill that has been rehashed in this House and no action has been taken upon it, common sense and reason would dictate that we would work with the Democrats, work with the Senate, and work with the President to get one passed.

This bill transcends over eight or nine different legislative committees, and the ranking member—one who has so much jurisdiction over this issue—would share with the House and the country what parts of this bill he believes would create jobs, if any part.

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, I thank Mr. Rangel for yielding.

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, I thank Mr. Rangel for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose H.R. 4, the so-called Jobs for America Act.

Six years ago this week marked the collapse of Lehman Brothers. That bankruptcy on Wall Street quickly spread across the country, taking small business lending to a halt, causing a devastating number of foreclosures, and pushing far too many of our fellow Americans into personal bankruptcy.

In one wake of this devastation, Democrats in Congress worked diligently to put in place serious and comprehensive safeguards to prevent another collapse. And, today, my Republican colleagues continue their hard work to thwart that effort and roll back meaningful reform.

Indeed, this bill, H.R. 4, places significant additional administrative hurdles on our Federal regulatory agencies, particularly on our independent financial regulators, like the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

Certain provisions of this bill would impose requirements on our financial regulators to conduct onerous cost-benefit analysis, to submit their rules for review to the Office of Management and Budget, and to delay effectiveness of major rules until they conduct an unprecedented joint resolution.

Not only would these provisions limit the independence of our Wall Street sheriffs, it would also tie up their already insufficient resources and put them at even greater risk of litigation for every rule. In fact, this bill would create a constitutional crisis by allowing the “do-nothing” Republican Congress to intervene in the actions of our executive branch, which is diligently trying to give effect to key portions of the Wall Street Reform Act.

The effect of this legislative effort would be to grind to a halt all meaningful regulation on everything from payday loans to mortgage services to the types of risky trading that caused the 2008 crisis. And, ironically, it would stop JOBS Act implementation dead in its tracks. Worst, this comes at a time when House Republicans want to hold funding for our financial regulators flat, despite their new responsibilities, the thousands of entities they oversee, and the growth in the complexity and size of U.S. financial markets.

With our economy still recovering from the $14 trillion financial crisis, we simply cannot, under the guise of so-called “job creation,” afford to destroy crucial reforms and hamstring our financial regulators.

I enter the following letter of opposition from Public Citizen into the RECORD.

PUBLIC CITIZEN, Washington, DC

A VOTE FOR THE “JOBS FOR AMERICA ACT” IS A VOTE AGAINST PUBLIC HEALTH AND SAFETY

Republicans still have not learned that a vote for H.R. 4, the “Jobs for America Act,” is not a vote against clean air and water, against food safety, against safe consumer products, against safe workplaces, and against a stable financial system less prone to excessive risk-taking. But that is false. The impact of the “Jobs for America Act” is clear and substantial to more polluted air and water, more dangerous workplaces, more tainted and contaminated food, more dangerous workplaces, and a deregulated Wall Street that could cripple our economy into the next financial crash. By taking regulators “off the beat” and preventing them from updating and modernizing basic health and safety protections, the public is once again dependent on Big Business to “self-regulate.” Our public has seen the disastrous impact of letting industry regulate itself. Call it the Gulf Oil Spill, the West Virginia Chemical Spill, The Upper Big Branch Mine explosion, oil train derailment explosions, or the Wall Street financial meltdown. Regulation is not to make our public even more vulnerable to de-regulatory disasters that put Americans in harm’s way and damage our economy as the “Jobs for America Act” would do.

THE ENORMOUS COSTS OF DEREGULATION

a. West Virginia Chemical Spill: those who were hurt by the damage caused by the spill; including 160 million dollars from the spill. These include small businesses in Charleston who were forced to shut down for days and the many thousands of residents who were forced to stay indoors because of the severe water contamination. http://www.insurancejournal.com/news/south- east/2014/08/12/373726.htm

b. Lake Erie Algae Bloom: a half million Ohio residents were forced to buy bottled water because their water had become so badly contaminated from algae. In 2014, the government estimated algae blooms resulted in 82 million dollars annually in economic damages: http://www.cop.noaa.gov/stressors/c stomies/algae/algae.html

c. Oil Freight Train Explosions: Trains carrying highly explosive tar oil barrels through communities every day without most of those communities even aware of the threat. A massive oil train derailment and explosion in Canada killed five people and will cost 2.7 billion dollars in economic damages over the next decade. http://bangordailynews.com/2014/04/17/news/state/after-end-of-the-world-explosion- boston-town-tries-to-find-hope/

d. Preventable Workplace Deaths and Injuries: Every day, an average of 150 workers die from job injuries or occupational diseases. Every year, the lack of effective workplace safety protections costs our country 250 billion to 330 billion in injuries and illnesses. http://www.afco.org/library/download/126562/3465631/DOTJ2014.pdf

e. Climate Inaction: Blocking or delaying new carbon emission rules from the EPA and other climate change measures will cost our country up to 150 billion dollars annually in economic damage in the future. http://fortune.com/2014/07/28/white-house-in-action-on-climate-costs-150-billion-a-year/

f. BP Oil Spill: This massive environmental disaster in the Gulf ended up costing more than 42 billion dollars in spill remediation costs and harmed thousands of Gulf Coast residents and destroyed many local small businesses. BP has now been found “grossly negligent” in causing the disaster and faces up to $18 billion in fines, some of which will go to Gulf Coast restoration projects http://www.edf.org/blog/2014/05/bp-oil-spill-ruling-costs-jestop-gulf-clean-upworkpaper

g. 2008 Wall Street Crash: The rampant deregulation that led to the crash cost our economy anywhere from 6 trillion to 14 trillion dollars or 50 to 120 million for every US household. In addition, 8.7 million Americans lost their jobs during or immediately following the crash. http://ourfinancialsecurity.org/blogs/wp-content/uploads/2012/09/Costs-The-Financial-Crisis-September-2014.pdf

THE “JOBS FOR AMERICA ACT” WILL NOT CREATE A SINGLE JOB

The bill trades on the fallacy that deregulation leads to job growth by freeing up capital to invest in labor. This is simply no neutral, non-partisan empirical evidence to back this up. In fact, journalists and academics who have thoroughly studied this claim have concluded that deregulation has no overall effect on job growth. The claim that regulations kill jobs is the very definition of a baseless and fabricated talking point.

A thorough investigative report by the Washington Post concluded that regulations

Conservative thinker Richard Morganstan (Resources for the Future): “Based on the available information, there’s not much evidence that EPA regulations are causing major job losses or major job gains.”

Mike Morris, CEO of AEP, one of America’s largest coal-based utilities even admitted EPA regulations will create jobs: “We have to hire plumbers, electricians, painters, folks who do that kind of work when you retrofit a coal plant. “Jobs are created in the process—no question about that.”

A recent and exhaustive exploration of the “job-killing regulation” claim by Academics from across the political spectrum concluded that regulations have no net impact on jobs: http://www.upenn.edu/pennpress/book/3583.html

The editors of “Does Regulation Kill Jobs?” Cary Coglianese and Christopher Corrigan conclude: “the empirical work suggests that regulation plays relatively little role in affecting the aggregate number of jobs in the United States.”

BIG BUSINESS “JOB-KILLING” CLAIMS ARE ALL WAY WRONG

Big Business groups have been making hyperbolic claims about regulations killing jobs for decades and it never comes true. Not only is this talking point patently false, but it also is clearly being proven wrong every time. The following examples are from Public Citizen’s recent report, “It’s an Outrage: Regulations Are Entirely to Blame for Unemployment and a Leading Cause of Death, According to Industry and Allies” http://www.citizen.org/documents/regulations-entirely-to-blame-unemployment-death-report.pdf

1974: OSHA bans the carcinogenic vinyl chloride. The plastics industry claimed that the OSHA regulation would kill 22 million jobs. Those claims were proven completely false and a new factory manufacturing vinyl chloride was developed within a year without any jobs lost.

1975: NHTSA increases fuel efficiency standard. Industry reports warned of 1.5 million job losses. But auto makers had met the higher standard without losing any jobs.

1990: EPA sets new pollution standards under the Clean Air Act. In response to the Business Roundtable (BRT) and National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) responded with doomsday hysterics, claiming up to 2 million jobs would be lost. Those were proven completely false and according to the Investor’s Business Daily, “Pollution has been falling across the board for decades, even while the nation’s population and economy have expanded.

1995: EPA removes lead from gasoline. A Monsanto official testified to Congress that the remove would cost up to 45 million jobs. The removal of lead is now considered one of the biggest public health success stories while gas prices did not dramatically increase and jobs were not lost.

THE NEW INDUSTRY-FUNDED STUDY ON REGULATIONS Doesn’t Pass The Laugh Test

The study just released by the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) is not worth the paper it is printed on. NAM turned to discredited economists whose last study was so poorly done and inaccurate that it was roundly criticized by observers in bipartisan fashion, including by the CRS, Republican economists, and then OIRA Administrator Cass Sunstein. The study brought so much negative attention that the agency which commissioned it, the Small Business Administration, had to formally and publicly disavow it.

Business Media Push Industry-Funded Study On Federal Regulations Experts Call “Bogus”: Reuters and CNBC uncritically promoted a new report claiming that government regulation in the US will cost $2.2 trillion each year, ignoring any benefits of regulation. But the study uses the same flawed methodology as an earlier report by the same authors. It’s been panned by even the organization that commissioned it distanced itself from it. http://www.citizen.org/articles/hot-topic/200732/NAM’s ‘Cost of Regulations’ Estimate: An Exercise in How Not To Do Convincing Econometrics (75 percent) are estimated using a cross-country regression analysis. This cross-country analysis, however, is completely unconvincing and it has been shown that has plagued our lawmaking process to the regulatory process.

1. Regulatory Accountability Act (RAA, H.R. 2122): This bill would re-write dozens of critical public health and safety laws, including the Clean Air Act, to require agencies to choose the least costly rule, not necessarily the one that is most effective at keeping the public safe. It also undermines the independent agencies that are working to put new Wall Street reforms and product safety standards in place. Ironically, the new mandates in this bill do not come with any additional funding for the agencies that implement them. This is the very definition of “unfunded mandates.”

5. The Sunshine for Regulatory Decrees and Settlements Act (H.R. 1493): This legislation targets citizen suits forcing agencies to move forward with overdue and congressionally mandated protections. Consent decrees and settlement agreements have long been an effective way for citizens and the courts with a means of ensuring that Congressional mandates are implemented. These bills would create a mechanism for funding the costs of these regulations, rather than meeting or beating deadlines, the last thing our public needs is more delays.

BOTTOM LINE

A vote for H.R. 4, the “Jobs for America Act,” is a vote against life-saving public health and safety standards and will put American lives at risk without creating any jobs. We need stronger public protections, not a weaker system of safeguards. We need better enforcement of health and safety and environmental rules, not more needless delays.

We urge you in the strongest terms to vote against the “Jobs for America Act.”

Mr. CAMP, Mr. Speaker, at this time, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. HASTINGS), the gentleman from the Natural Resources Committee.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my friend, Mr. CAMP, the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, for yielding me the time to comment on this bill.

Mr. Speaker, this jobs package includes important legislation, H.R. 1526, the Restoring Healthy Forests for Healthy Communities Act, which passed the House almost 1 year ago today. It is a long-term sustainable solution to put Americans back to work, restore forest health, and prevent wildfires.

Our national forests, unless otherwise designated, should be open for multiple uses for recreation to job-creating economic activities. Instead, Mr. Speaker, due to onerous Federal regulations and litigation, our Federal forests have increasingly been shut down.

In the last 20 years, timber harvests have dropped by 80 percent in the last 30 years. We have seen catastrophic wildfires destroy our Federal forests. We have seen loggers, mill workers, and truck drivers put out of work, and we have seen rural communities turned into ghost towns.

It is long past time for the Senate to join with the House to provide better stewardship over our Federal forest lands. It is disappointing and, frankly, unacceptable that a year later the Senate is still sitting on the sidelines. Meanwhile, rural communities continue to suffer.

This legislation requires responsible timber production on at least one half of the Federal Forest Service’s non-environmentally sensitive timber lands.

By restoring active forest management, this bill will create over 200,000 direct and indirect jobs. It also maintains and strengthens the historic sharing of timber receipts with local counties which is essential, given the upcoming expiration of the Secure Rural Schools program.

Instead of having to pay for wildfire suppression, this bill would allow us to reap the benefits of a responsible timber harvest that reduces wildfire threats to our communities.

Mr. Speaker, Congress must act to restore the promise that the Federal Government made over a century ago to actively manage our forests and create jobs for the benefit of rural communities. Today, the House is, once again, living up to this promise. We hope that the Senate will join us and support this commonsense reform of Federal forest management.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Certainly, we all will be getting a lot of mail from the logging companies asking to suppress in order to create jobs. I wish included in this package would have been the earned income tax credit, a bill that keeps people out of poverty by subsidizing their taxes, and a bill that keeps people in school—on their parents’ insurance and out of a cycle of unpayable medical debt.

Well, Mr. Speaker, it is time for the training wheels to come off so that this Chamber can, once again, do the work of the American people.

There is a clear, unmistakable thirst in our country for cooperation, bipartisan solutions, and getting things done. The American people look to the House of Representatives for leadership, not one-sided messaging bills that this Chamber has already warmed up, served yesterday—it was bad—and, today, we are eating the leftovers.

This Chamber has already considered and passed these bills, and they have no chance, no hope, of becoming law. The so-called Jobs for America Act includes a number of dangerous bills that would allow deforestation and remove protections for public health and safety. This legislation will not create a single job.

It exists only to minimize corporate accountability while maximizing the likelihood of dangerous, unsafe conditions in our homes, vehicles, workplaces, and throughout the environment.

It is time to work together to forge real solutions. Mr. Speaker, not the same dangerous legislation that this Chamber has already passed.

Mr. CAMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. KELLY), a distinguished member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. KELLY of Pennsylvania. I thank the chairman for his great work.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to H.R. 4, and I will tell you why: the world is looking for the next great, dynamic and robust company.

This opportunity is off the charts. The opportunity is off the charts. A new day is dawning, a new opportunity is waiting right here within our borders, and the greatest emerging economy the world has ever seen is sitting right here within our borders, and the only thing it is looking for right now is dynamic leadership and direction.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I want to thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania, my friend, who eloquently mentioned how the Congress should and could be working more closely together. Again, I say that yesterday proved it.

I am certain that the eloquent gentleman from Pennsylvania would have to agree that, if we were passing bills in the House and they were not going anywhere, any legislator would have to find out why.

It would seem to me that we would go to the minority party, we would ask... to sit down with the Senate, we would work with the Department of Labor and the administration, and we would do that just before we were going home to attempt to get reelected.

I don't challenge the sincerity of the gentleman from Pennsylvania, but just bringing in bills that you know are not going to pass the Senate, bringing in bills the administration has already said that they would veto is not the way to success. It may be a good political statement, but it is certainly not the way to pass legislation.

I have the great honor to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Cummings), who has distinguished himself nationally in terms of being a legislator with a heart and common sense.

He is the ranking member of the Oversight Committee, that has attempted to show the entire country exactly what is going on and not going on in the Congress. I look forward to his eloquent remarks on this sensitive, important subject.

Mr. CUMMINGS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to H.R. 4. The special interest bills that make up this package have all passed the House before and went nowhere in the Senate. This is not just a waste of time, it is a waste of taxpayer money. Americans work hard for their money, and here we are wasting time, and everybody knows that.

This legislation is simply a gimmick. It hurts me to even say that, but it is, in fact, a gimmick. The Republican leadership in the House cannot fool the American people by passing the same bad bills over and over again.

Just because Republican leadership has slapped the word “jobs” on this bill does not change the fact that the bill will not create jobs, and they know that. We each represent 700,000 people. Those people have sent us here with the mission of making their lives better.

The legislation we are considering today will not help the people we represent. This bill would help big corporations.

Let me give you an example. Under this legislation, private companies would have the ability to weigh in on agency rulemakings before individual citizens and most other stakeholders. That means that oil companies could weigh in on drilling regulations before the American public even gets a chance to submit comments.

Another section of the bill would explicitly prohibit the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs from taking into account benefits when providing total cost estimates for proposed and final rules as required by the bill.

The bill also contains numerous provisions to degrade the regulatory process and make it nearly impossible for agencies to take actions that protect our health, our safety, our air, our water, and our environment.

This is a terrible piece of legislation, and I urge my colleagues to vote against it.

Mr. CAMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Rodney Davis).

Mr. RODNEY DAVIS of Illinois. Thank you, Mr. Chairman, for your service in this great institution.

Mr. Speaker, we are here debating this jobs package because our economy is stagnant. Our unemployment rate hasn’t fallen below 6 percent since this President took office 6 years ago.

Although growing the economy may not remain a priority for the Senate, it may not remain a number one priority for the President, I assure you it is for millions of Americans who can’t find a job or who continue to look for that job promotion or who feel their paycheck isn’t going as far as it should.

My bill, the Hire More Heroes Act, is not a waste of our time, is not a waste of taxpayer dollars, and it overwhelmingly passed this House with only one “no” vote. You can’t get much more bipartisan than that, Mr. Speaker.

It is part of this jobs package because the Senate has yet to take up this bipartisan bill that would help our veterans. This bill will help incentivize small businesses to hire more of our heroes. It takes away a punitive punishment in ObamaCare.

We have been told that we can’t change ObamaCare, but this bill does, and it does because any veteran who gets their health care through the VA TRICARE would count toward a small business’ 50-employee limit which would, in turn, incentivize small businesses who create the jobs in this country to hire more of our veterans.

That is not a waste of taxpayer dollars. That is not a waste of time. Frankly, we need to do what we can to stop what ObamaCare has been doing to small businesses and disincentivizing them from hiring more people and, therefore, lowering our unemployment rate.

This jobs package is crucial. This jobs package is something that we in this House should continue to push. I would urge my colleagues on the other side of the aisle to make sure that they call their colleagues in the Senate and say, “Pass this bill.”

Pass this bill. Do what is right. Help our veterans. Help Americans find jobs.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I would not suggest to the distinguished gentleman from Illinois what he should be doing as a part of the American Taxpayer Relief Act as good as the one that he had. I certainly would not allow it to be included in this piece of political legislation. Because it would serve the veterans of this great country, I would say, give me a break and let the House and the Senate and the President give this legislation a chance.

But I am not in the majority, and I respect that you are doing the best you can with what you have to work with, and I respect you for that.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Van Hollen), who is the ranking member of the Budget Committee.

Mr. Speaker, I thank my good friend from New York for all his good work on these issues.

Just to underscore what he said with respect to Mr. Davis’ proposal, we would love to have that proposal on veterans come before the floor as a stand-alone bill. Of course it has been wrapped into a much larger package that has nothing to do with jobs and everything to do with rewarding special interests at the expense of middle-class families and it is, in fact, a continuation of the failed strategy that responds to every economic challenge with more tax breaks to corporations and more breaks to folks at the very top of the economic ladder, the old, failed trickle-down theory of economics.

There is nothing to raise the minimum wage, nothing to achieve pay equity for women, nothing to invest in America’s infrastructure or our education system. Instead, it is a collection of tax cuts that together would add $572 billion to the deficit over the next 10 years—no attempt to offset that cost.

That is a lot of work in one afternoon, to add over half a trillion dollars to the deficit, totally in violation of the Republican budget that was brought to the floor.

Nor is this a bill that attempts to reform the Tax Code. I have great respect for the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and he did a credible effort in coming up with a reform plan. It wasn’t perfect, lots of things that a lot of people don’t like, but it was a credible effort.

This bill takes us in the opposite direction. When the chairman introduced that bill, the Speaker of this House ran away faster than anybody else from that proposal, and this proposal runs away from it as well.

Let me give you an example. The reform bill that was proposed by Mr. Camp repealed bonus depreciation. This bill adds $270 billion to the deficit by making bonus depreciation permanent.

Mr. Camp’s proposal was revenue-neutral in the first 10 years. This one adds over half a trillion dollars to the deficit, and it doesn’t close a single corporate tax loophole.

Look, if we are going to provide over a half a trillion dollars in tax breaks to large corporations, you would think that our Republican colleagues would at least deal with the issue of inversions, this sweep we see toward more and more corporations changing their
Mr. VAN HOLLEN. I yield the gentleman from Maryland 30 more seconds.

Mr. RANGEL. I yield the gentleman from Maryland 30 more seconds.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. It is so popular on the other side of the Capitol that it appears as though it is included in a Senate bill and, as we talk, is actually being attacked by the Republican minority on the other side. So, at least as relates to the veterans, we should take it out of this hodgepodge that has politically been put together, maybe collectively we can do something for our beloved veterans.

As far as the gentleman from Georgia is concerned, he had a problem in identifying the U.S. company that is going to receive a bonus, that is fleeing their tax obligation.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. VAN HOLLEN) so he can clarify those issues to explain exactly how this provision is costing us.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend.

Look, the Joint Tax Committee has suggested that if we don’t deal with this problem of corporations changing their tax address to escape their responsibilities to the citizens of this country, it will add $20 billion to the deficit, which taxpayers will have to make up.

I want to emphasize the point the gentleman made because Mr. CAMP has called upon Senate Democrats to vote on the Hire Our Heroes bill. In fact, that bill is in the Senate 2-year extender bill in the United States Senate, which is currently being blocked and filibustered by our Republican Senate colleagues.

I would also point out that the cost of that bill, which we all accept, is $700 million added to the deficit. You are now putting it in a package with all the corporate giveaways that doesn’t cost $700 million but, together, costs $573 billion to the deficit, all in an afternoon’s work.

Mr. Speaker, this is an irresponsible bill. We should vote “no.”

Mr. CAMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlemen from Indiana (Mr. YOUNG), a distinguished member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. YOUNG of Indiana. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak in support of H.R. 14, the Jobs for America Act.

In the United States House, we have passed more than 40 individual jobs bills, sent them to the Senate, and they remain untouched by the Democratic majority leader.

Many of the jobs proposals included in this broader package, H.R. 4, have bipartisan support and include commonsense ideas like extending the section 179 tax benefits for small businesses, helping our veterans get back to work, and a repeal of the medical device tax.

Medical device companies, in particular, play an integral role in my home State of Indiana and our economy—more than 71,000 jobs and $44 billion in personal income on account of the industry—and I hear every day how this tax has stifled innovation and led to a decrease in jobs for my fellow Hoosiers.

In 2013, 79 Senators, many of them champions of ObamaCare, took a symbolic vote to eliminate that tax. I hope that the Democrat-controlled Senate will move beyond political symbolism—and for many, political self-preservation—and vote to repeal this tax on innovation, job creation, and patient care.

Finally, I am pleased that two pieces of legislation which I authored are included in H.R. 4. The Save American Workers Act, which is also bipartisan, would simply change the definition of full-time employment within ObamaCare from 30 hours back to the traditional definition of 40 hours.

Now, 40 hours is what everyone agrees is full time, so let’s not further harm small business employees, school cafeteria workers, adjunct university professors, and other hourly workers with this arbitrary change in the definition of ‘full time.’

Also included is the REINS Act. This bipartisan bill aims to relieve much of the regulatory burden on our Nation’s small- and medium-sized businesses and on all Americans who benefit from affordable goods and services.

The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. CAMP. I yield the gentleman an additional 1 minute.

Mr. YOUNG of Indiana. The legislation ensures that, when elected, unaccountable bureaucrats in Washington enact rules and regs that impact our economy, these regulations will be voted on by Congress to ensure that your elected Representatives are held accountable for the laws our constituents are subjected to.

I respectfully urge the American people to take a very close look at H.R. 4 and to demand that the Democratic-controlled Senate bring these bills up for consideration so we can enable people to go back to work and see their personal incomes grow.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DOGGETT), a hardworking gentleman on the Ways and Means Committee, on whose behalf I have been outspoken on all of the issues that concern national security as well as the protection of our economy.

Mr. DOGGETT. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, House Republicans are shutting down this House early today, and they are shutting it down with the same happy talk and tax cut hocus pocus that focuses on this Congress with 21 months ago, last January.

That is when Speaker BOEHNER reserved H. Res. 1 for a form of Miracle-Gro. They were going to sprinkle around Miracle-Gro tax cuts—more sweetheart deals for everyone—and they would grow money faster than it could grow on trees. They have given us so much talk and so many press conferences about how they would do away with all of these complex special interest provisions that Republicans have spent years writing into law for their buddies—into their Tax Code—and we would all have brighter smiles and, certainly, fatter wallets. All of that joy, all of those wonders, would be accomplished debt free.

We wouldn’t burn our neighbor’s dime from the Chinese or the Saudis or from whoever would lend it to us. We would get all that and more with their proposal.

Unfortunately, their old time medicine show sold itself, but it fizzled out rather quickly.

No Democrat stood in the way of their introducing and voting in the Ways and Means Committee on a tax cut Miracle-Gro elixir. There is no reason that they haven’t brought it out here on the floor on any day the Speaker wanted to consider Miracle-Gro. Yet we are here today, closing out, and H. Res. 1 says on the Republican Web site that it is still reserved for the Speaker, as is most attention to any major issue in this country reserved, because these folks don’t want to work here in Washington. Instead, we get to this sorry bill today that is before us that provides more debt, more complexity, and more sweetheart deals.

When we consider the difficult budget choices, Republicans claim that we just don’t have enough money. As much as they would like to provide full funding for Alzheimer’s research, for cancer, for multiple sclerosis, for diabetes, for Parkinson’s, we just don’t have the money. We would like to do more to prevent the many forest fires that are spreading across the country—wildfires of all types—and provide the National Weather Service better funding to deal with drought conditions in our climate and our weather, but we just don’t have the money to do that.

And what about our roads and bridges? We can’t figure out a way to fund them, even to this time next year, because we just don’t have the money.

Yes, we would like each child to be able to accomplish their full, God-given potential, but we just can’t afford to fund from pre-K to post grad. But somehow we can afford more Miracle-Gro today—$600 billion taken right out of the debt, added to the debt.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. DOGGETT. I am for—and I know the gentleman is for—a pro-growth, pro-job creation set of government policies that focus on workforce development, on having the research and technology not only to find cures but to produce another round of jobs.

If we lack the Federal resources to do that, we certainly don’t have the Federal resources to give any more tax breaks to those who have already paid their income tax and have moved beyond political symbolism and special interest provisions that will ultimately fail our economy.

This bill that we have does everything that they said their tax elixir would not do. It borrows money from many to give money to a few who already have the most. This represents the first installment in new national debt, a big chunk of the more than $1 trillion that these Republicans told us they wouldn’t bury us in. They proposed the first big installment today.

They continue a Tax Code that is riddled with special interest tax preferences and giveaways while making a bonus depreciation provision that even funded as a temporary stimulus measure.

The only jobs that this bill is really designed to protect—and the reason that it is here right now before they rush to the airport—are the jobs of the Republican Members of this House of Representatives, and they sure do a good job of trying to accomplish that.

We ought to reject this package that is motivated solely by a looming election for a Republican majority whose biggest contributions to job creation in America have cost us dearly. They stand steadfast against the proposal that the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and one business group after another tells us will grow this economy—that is immigration reform—because they tell us will grow this economy. They wouldn’t bury us in, but they can’t overcome the Know Nothings within their party who stand against the reform that we know would grow so many jobs.

Of course, their major accomplishment that they can point to right now out of this Congress was when they put the country on Cruz control, and it cost us $24 billion in economic growth. Reject this bill.

Mr. CAMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Virginia (Mr. HURT).

Mr. HURT. I thank Chairman CAMP for his leadership on this bill. I thank Chairman HENSARLING for his leadership on the issue that I rise to speak about today.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the Jobs for America Act, H.R. 4.

In Virginia’s Fifth District, our district, there are literally thousands of jobs that exist because of private equity investments. These critical investments allow our small businesses to innovate, expand their operations, and create the jobs that our communities need.
Unfortunately, Dodd-Frank has placed the costly and unnecessary regulatory burden of SEC registration on advisers to private equity while exempting advisers to similar investment funds. These registration requirements do not improve the stability of the financial system and they restrict the ability of private equity to invest capital in small businesses, which would spur job growth.

Instead of complying with costly SEC registration, private equity should be encouraged to invest capital in companies such as Virginia Candela, a company in my district that, through private equity investment, expanded from a garage in Lynchburg to millions of homes across the world.

That is why I, along with my colleagues Representative Cooper and Representative Himes, introduced the Small Business Capital Access and Job Preservation Act, a provision of H.R. 4 which previously passed the House with bipartisan support.

Unfortunately, the Senate has failed to consider this and dozens of other House-passed jobs bills. At a time when unemployment in Virginia’s Fifth District is still too high, the Senate needs to join us in enacting pro-growth policies to spur job creation for our communities.

I ask my colleagues to join me in supporting H.R. 4 to increase the flow of private capital to our small businesses so they can innovate, grow, and create jobs for the American people.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND), my friend and a distinguished, eloquent member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. KIND. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I thank my friend for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I am not quite sure if I have been living in a parallel universe over the last few years, but I thought there was genuine concern in this body about getting a grip on our budget deficits, about trying to get our fiscal house put back in order. Yet here we are, in the eleventh hour, before they cut us loose for the fall campaign season, and we have another bill pending before this body that costs $573 billion—with a B—with not a penny of offset, with not a dime of it paid for. Then people wonder where these budget deficits come from.

While I am not fortunate is some of the policy proposals in this legislation I actually support. We have got five bills coming out of the Ways and Means Committee with some permanent changes to the Tax Code that I happen to agree with, whether it is the R&D—research and development—tax credit; the 179 expensing; the S Corp Modernization bill, which is a bill that I and my friend from Washington State (Mr. REICHERT) introduced earlier this year to help with the corporation business tax; the 15 expensing; and the repeal of the medical device tax—again, legislation that I and my friend from Minnesota, Erik Paulsen, had introduced because we didn’t think it was a good idea for us to be taxing our domestic medical device manufacturers, especially on a pre-revenue basis.

I always believed that, with these changes, there should be no offset, that they should be paid for. That is the fiscally responsible approach to take, and yet we have a $573 billion bill with not one offset. This is following on the heels earlier this year of 15 permanent changes to the Tax Code being reported out of the Ways and Means Committee, at a cost approaching $1 trillion, with none of it being offset.

I would submit that, if we went forward on that type of policy prescription, we might as well forget about comprehensive tax reform because we wouldn’t have any tools left to do anything with.

I give the chairman of the committee, Mr. CAMP, who is going to be retiring at the end of this year, a lot of credit. He did come up with a discussion draft on what comprehensive reform should look like. In that draft, he was making some tough decisions. He was finding offsets to lower rates and simplify the Tax Code in order to make us more competitive in the global marketplace. That is not what is being done here today.

I would request with the Republican leadership that, instead of cutting us loose today, what we ought to be doing is staying in longer and working on a true innovation agenda for our Nation, one that invests in quality educational opportunities for all of our students and good job training programs for workers in transition or for those looking to upgrade their skills so they can be competitive in the global marketplace, the crucial investments we have to make in broadband expansion, basic research funding through NIH and NSF grants and infrastructure modernization that is long overdue. We know we have to do it. Let’s do it now when we need the jobs. That would be a true jobs package that, I think, we could rally around so as to get this economy humming again.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. RANGEL. I yield the gentleman an additional 1 minute.

Mr. KIND. Rather than this dog and pony show and the message piece that is being kicked around by the President in the November elections, I think the American people are a lot smarter than what some people give them credit for. They know we have a fiscal problem that has to be addressed, and I think most people would realize that, if coming forward with yet another bill at a cost of $573 billion, with no offsets and no pay-fors, it is only going to make the situation worse and truly jeopardize the economic opportunities for our children and grandchildren in the future.

Mr. Speaker, it is staying in longer and working on this legislation today, which is a grab bag for powerful special interests, let’s do the tough, heavy lifting that needs to be done. Let’s make these policy changes but in a fiscally responsible way, by finding offsets in the code to pay for them, so we can get our fiscal house put back in order and create the good-paying jobs that America needs today.

Mr. CAMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would just say to my good friend from Wisconsin that that was part of the story. Many of these provisions that are bipartisan in nature, the provisions have been extended time and time again without being “offset,” without being “paid for.”

Look at the research and development tax credit. It has been extended 15 times over a 33-year period. It has never been paid for, but it is temporary, so it doesn’t have the impact on innovation and research and development. That is what drives economies. That is what grows jobs.

Let’s make this permanent. Let’s not be the only nation in the world with a temporary tax policy. Then we wonder why we are not growing. Then we wonder why median incomes are flat or are declining. Then we wonder why people are achieving the American Dream.

Some of my friends have talked about the Senate. They didn’t pay for this. What did they do? They extended some of these policies backwards a year and forward 1 year. How can anybody decide to hire a worker, to build a new building, to buy equipment, to start a new production line on 1 year of policy? This is about permanency, and it is about growing jobs.

I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. PAULSEN), a member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. PAULSEN. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, Americans have been pleading for Congress to take action to spur economic growth and create jobs. And, as Speaker, the House has repeatedly acted to pass bipartisan legislation to get people back to work, and we are doing so once again today.

Today in this jobs bill is a provision that I authored to repeal the destructive medical device tax. It is destructive because it is a tax not on profit but on sales.

The medical device industry directly employs more than 400,000 people across the country and creates $35,000 jobs in my home State of Minnesota. These companies create the lifesaving and life-improving technologies for our patients.

But, because of the President’s new health care law, the device industry is now facing one of the highest effective tax rates in the world. This device tax has already resulted in the loss of 33,000 American jobs. That is the equivalent of the entire Minnesota medical device industry being wiped off the map. Another 13,000 jobs are projected to disappear or now go overseas. And these are good-paying jobs. Mr. Speaker—$60,000 to $80,000 per job. Eighty percent of these companies are small businesses, employing 50 people or less.

I asked one company that I recently visited, with 60 employees: What does the device tax mean to you? It means I have six projects now instead of 10 projects—two fewer engineers and two fewer technicians.

Another Minnesota company that I recently talked to with 20 employees is that is not yet profitable told me that now they are borrowing—they are borrowing—$100,000 a month just to pay the tax. That is crazy.

So companies are cutting back on their research and development. Venture capital is disappearing. And we are seeing less innovation.

The bottom line is, this device tax is so poorly conceived, it kills jobs, it is stifling lifesaving and life-enhancing innovation, and both Democrats and Republicans in the House agree on this.

My legislation to repeal this harmful tax has been introduced along with Senator Grassley in the Senate. This overwhelming bipartisan support to repeal this job-killing tax. But we need the Senate to take action. We need the Senate to stop blocking this bill from moving forward. That way, we can get this done.

Mr. CAMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Rangel), the ranking member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. DANNY K. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my colleague from New York for yielding.

I rise in strong opposition to H.R. 4 because it adds over $500 billion in permanent corporate tax giveaways that could end up causing 1 million hard-working Americans to lose their employer-provided health coverage and do nothing to help the tens of thousands of my constituents and tens of millions of Americans who are experiencing deep poverty, unemployment, and economic distress.

I cannot support adding over $500 billion to our deficit for permanent handouts to big corporations while 3.3 million long-term unemployed go unaided, and while irrational budget cuts strangle education, health, research, and innovation.

This bill marks the height of Republican irresponsibility on both fiscal and policy grounds. I ask, how many millions of low-income students could comprehensive college using Pell grants with the health care reform bill? How many more students would be unable to afford going to college using Pell grants with the health care reform bill?

To the contrary, part-time work became more frequent last year. An estimated 72.7 percent of working men with earnings and 60.5 percent of working women with earnings worked full time, year round in 2013, both at the highest levels since the recession, and far above the 2001-2002 levels. Yet, as critics assert, we’d expect the share of involuntary part-timers—workers who’d rather have full-time jobs but can’t find them—tells a similar story. If health reform were distorting hiring practices, as critics assert, we’d expect the share of involuntary part-timers to be growing. In stead, as the chart (based on Labor Department data) shows, it’s down by 1.5 percent since the beginning of 2009.

My colleague Jared Bernstein finds that this pattern is typical for this stage of a recovery.

Later this week, the House will consider a proposal (part of a so-called “jobs bill”) to raise health reform’s threshold for full-time work from 30 to 40 hours. But this step would make a shift toward part-time employment much more likely—not less so.

Only about 7 percent of employees work 30 to 44 hours (that is, at or modestly above health reform’s 30-hour threshold), but 44 percent of employees work 40 hours a week and thus would be vulnerable to cuts in their hours if the threshold rose to 40 hours. Employers could cut back on the number of employees from 40 to 39 hours so they wouldn’t have to offer them health coverage.

If you exclude workers at firms that already offer health insurance and thus won’t be tempted to cut workers’ hours, more than twice as many workers would face a high risk of reduced hours—a 30-hour threshold—than under the current 30-hour threshold, according to New York University economist Sherry Glid.

There’s little evidence to date that health reform has caused a shift to part-time work. There’s every reason to expect the impact to be small as a share of total employment, as was explained. Any way you cut it, the cutoff for the employer mandate from 30 to 49 hours a week would be a step in the wrong direction.

Mr. Rangel. Now, the gentleman knows also that in order to get a bill passed, it really helps if you get the cooperation of the President of the United States.

I would like to submit a statement for the RECORD from the administration which says that if this bill was to reach class families, I would ask my colleagues to follow the advice of his administration specialists and veto it.

On the other hand, I think it is abundantly clear that the Speaker knows that the President has reached out to him and to the Senate to come together to create jobs.

The Administration wants to work with Congress to make progress on measures that strengthen the economy and help middle class families, including pro-growth business tax reform. The Administration continues to support tax proposals that would benefit the Nation’s economy and small businesses, such as removing permanent and extended expen- result, (Rep. Camp, R-Michigan, and 4 cosponsors)

The Administration strongly opposes House passage of H.R. 4, which incorporates several bills that have previously been passed by the House during this Congress, including a number of bills for which the Administration issued a strong and strongly opposes the Administration Policy strongly opposing passage and indicating that, if presented to the President, his senior advisors would recommend that he veto it.

Mr. RANGEL. Lastly, I would like to say, as the distinguished chair moves on to his retirement from this august body, that for as long as the gentleman has been a member of this Ways and Means Committee that I have admired and I continue to respect the fine work that he has contributed to the committee as well as to this House, and that his honesty, candidness, sincerity, and hard work to make this a better Congress and a better country certainly is appreciated now and will be in the future.

And I would hope that the hard work that he has done on tax reform—which is a complex subject for many to deal with—that we might try to remember him for the fine work that he has done over these years, rather than on the eve of an election, where sometimes the leadership would want to make a political statement.

I, for one, would never associate him with this piece of legislation, but, rather, for the outstanding contributions that he has made year after year, session after session—not for Republicans, not for the committee, but for this great country. I thank him for his friendship over the years.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CAMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I thank the gentleman from New York for those kind remarks and also for the work we have been able to do together over the years.

I remember the first legislation that we really worked together on was the Adoption and Safe Families Act, which was signed into law and has done a lot to move children from a temporary situation into a permanent loving home. And I want to thank the gentleman for his leadership on that and other issues on the committee.

And as a former chairman of the committee, you have sat in the chair I am sitting in right now and know what a challenge it can be at times. But we have done some great work together.

I did like to believe, though, that this legislation would create jobs. And it is not just my opinion. These provisions have been analyzed by the nonpartisan Joint Committee on Taxation, and that indicates that these are all important provisions.

There has been some reference to the fact that we are close to an election. And I think clearly what most Americans are sick of is the dysfunction in Washington, the lack of ability for the two parties to get together, whether it is the Republicans and Democrats in the House or Democrat majorities in the Senate and Republican majorities in the House. And these are all bipartisan provisions. These are all tax provisions that have had significant Democratic support and votes. In the case of the Help Hire Our Heroes Act, I think every Democrat but one voted for it. Clearly these are things that will help create jobs.

And not only do Americans want to see the dysfunction in this body end, but they would like to see something that will help move the economy forward, that will help make their lives better.

If you look at polling—there is certainly a lot of polling out there right now—a lot of Americans know that things are not as good as they should be. I mean, it clearly comes across in the polls how dissatisfied they are. And there are lots of reasons for that, largely because median incomes are declining.

But what is really troubling is that Americans don’t believe that things are going to get better. They are worried for the first time, for their children or their brothers and sisters or their family members or they will not have the same opportunities that many of their parents or some of their friends have had. That is a very troubling situation.

This is legislation that will help move the ball forward on getting some economic growth, some job creation, a stronger economy. And with that stronger economy comes more jobs, higher wages, comes benefits so that people can pay for food and gas and put something aside for their retirement and for their kids’ education.

These are all things that have been extended repeatedly with bipartisan support. As I mentioned, R&D, 30 years; section 179, expensing for small businesses, 10 years; some of the S Corp perform, 12 years—seven times since 2006.

So let’s not have a temporary policy. Let’s not change the permanent. Let’s get this country moving again. Let’s restore that faith that people have had in this country and in the American Dream. Let’s vote “yes” on H.R. 4.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. LANGEVIN. Mr. Speaker, it is with a great sense of disappointment that I deliver my remarks today. For the past 21 months, this House has failed to take any meaningful action to reduce unemployment or boost job creation. We know what the solutions are, and yet unconscionably the Republican leadership has chosen to engage in divisive political gamesmanship rather than taking on the more challenging task of governing, which is what our constituents sent us here to do.

In my home state of Rhode Island, employers are still struggling to find qualified employees to fill available jobs. This skills gap keeps the unemployment rate stubbornly high, while many middle class families are still struggling to make ends meet.

H.R. 4 contains provisions from several bills that have already passed the House and failed to gain traction in the Senate. Instead of more duplicative messaging bills, we should be working with our colleagues across the aisles, and across the Capitol, to incentivize companies to bring jobs back home, invest in advanced research and development, educate and train our workforce for a 21st Century economy, and modernize our infrastructure to improve safety, boost commerce and create jobs.

Certainly the House and Senate have different visions about how to proceed. But when disagreements arise, the process should involve working together to find a solution that can pass both houses and reach the President’s desk. Instead, House Republican leaders have decided the best course of action is to revisit bills that we already know are unacceptable to the Senate. As a fitting coda to the 113th Congress, we will again squander an opportunity to act while millions of Americans still need our help.

This Congress is set to go down in history as the least productive ever. Many members expressed a “death of a thousand cuts,” legislative demand that either we give them everything, or nobody can have anything. It was a year ago that we suffered the first government shutdown in 17 years; a shutdown caused by the House Majority’s inability to compromise and negotiate.

Even by the Speaker’s own criteria of “laws repealed” instead of laws passed, we have been remarkably unproductive. Without any coherent legislative strategy, the Republican Caucus attempted to repeal or undermine the Affordable Care Act over 50 times. However, we still cannot find the time to extend long-term unemployment insurance, fix our broken immigration system, or tackle any of the other challenges that our constituents sent us here to fix.

One of the easiest steps we can take would be to re-authorize the Carl D. Perkins Career and Technical Education Act. This main source of federal funding for career training programs was last re-authorized in 2006 and expired in 2012. There is broad, bipartisan support for revisiting Perkins and updating its provisions to reflect the realities of the 21st Century economy. Advocates across the country support re-authorizing Perkins. Unfortunately, this did not become a priority for the Committee and we are left waiting for action yet again.

There is too much work to be done to waste time on this petty political squabbling. We have the capacity to meet the challenges that face us, but a lack of courage on the part of House leadership keeps us from doing so. It is my sincere hope that in the 114th Congress we return to regular order, negotiate instead of digging in our heels, and solve problems instead of creating them.

Mr. SPEIER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to submit the following:

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE: On behalf of Americans for Financial Reform (AFFFR), we are writing to urge you to oppose H.R. 4, the “Jobs For America Act”. Division III of the legislation contains a number of extremely problematic provisions that would require regulatory agencies to satisfy dozens of additional mandates prior to any regulation of Wall Street, and which would create numerous additional opportunities for large financial firms to block any government action in court. AFFFR has joined the Coalition for Sensible Solutions and Grassroots community organizations in a joint letter opposing these provisions.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE

H7817
We would also like to draw attention to Title I of Division II of this legislation, the ‘Small Business Capital Access and Job Preservation Act’. This legislation would exempt private equity fund advisors from registration and reporting requirements designed to prevent investment advisors from engaging in fraudulent and unethical practices. The Dodd-Frank Act created more transparency for the previous dark market of the private equity returns and the public and private equity fund advisors to the SEC, maintain a code of ethics and a compliance program, and report basic financial information relevant to systemic risk. This legislation would effectively exempt all private equity fund advisors from these requirements.

Since this legislation was voted on as a stand-alone measure in December 2013 as H.R. 1105, the SEC has reported publicly on its basic ‘presence examinations’ of private equity fund advisors pursuant to its new Dodd-Frank Act. These examinations found widespread evidence of abuse of investors and violations of the law. In a recent speech, Andrew Bowden, the SEC’s Director of Compliance Inspections, and Examinations, stated that ‘when we have examined how fees and expenses are handled by advisors to private equity funds, we have identified what we believe are violations of law, material weaknesses in controls over 50% of the time’. The speech details evidence of deception and abuse of investors in other areas as well. As noted, the opaque nature of the private equity model and the limited information rights of investors, outside investors in private equity funds ‘often have little to no chance of detecting’ these abuses on their own.

Given the findings of the SEC in its initial investigations of private equity advisors, it is deeply disappointing to see that the House is once again pursuing a broad exemption from registration, reporting, and associated ethics and compliance requirements for private equity advisors. The passage of ‘The Small Business Capital Access and Job Preservation Act’ would effectively remove the SEC’s most effective tool for addressing the evidence of abuse of investors and violations of the law. In a recent speech, Andrew Bowden, the SEC’s Director of Compliance Inspections, and Examinations, stated that ‘when we have examined how fees and expenses are handled by advisors to private equity funds, we have identified what we believe are violations of law, material weaknesses in controls over 50% of the time’. The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill. The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read the third time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause (c) of rule IX, further consideration of H.R. 4 is postponed.

PERMISSION TO POSTPONE ADOPTION OF MOTION TO RECOMMIT ON H.R. 2, AMERICAN ENERGY SOLUTIONS FOR LOWER COSTS AND MORE AMERICAN JOBS ACT

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the question of adopting a motion to recommit on H.R. 2 may be subject to postponement as though under clause 8 of rule XX.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Washington? There was no objection.

AMERICAN ENERGY SOLUTIONS FOR LOWER COSTS AND MORE AMERICAN JOBS ACT

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to House Resolution 727, I call up the bill (H.R. 2) to remove Federal Government obstacles to the production of more domestic energy; to ensure that portion of that energy reliably to businesses, consumers, and other end users; to lower the cost of energy to consumers; to enable manufacturers and other businesses to access domestically produced energy affordably and reliably in order to create and sustain more secure and well-paying American jobs; and for other purposes, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the title of the bill. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 727, the bill is considered read.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 2

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

Title III—Miscellaneous Provisions

Subtitle A—Northern Route Approval

Sec. 101. Short title.

This subtitle may be cited as the “Northern Route Approval Act”.

Sec. 102. Findings.

The Congress finds the following:

(1) To maintain our Nation’s competitive edge and ensure an economy built to last, the United States must have fast, reliable, resilient, and environmentally sound means of moving energy. In a global economy, we will compete for the world’s investments and the Nation as a whole.

(2) The delivery of oil from Canada, a close ally not only in proximity but in shared values and ideals, to domestic markets is in the national interest because of the need to lessen dependence upon insecure foreign sources.

(3) The Keystone XL pipeline would provide both short-term and long-term employment opportunities and related labor income benefits, such as government revenues associated with taxes.

(4) The State of Nebraska has thoroughly reviewed and approved the proposed Keystone XL pipeline route, concluding that the concerns of Nebraskans have had a major influence on the pipeline route and that the route will have minimal environmental impacts.

(5) The Keystone XL is in much the same position today as the Alaska Pipeline in 1973 prior to congressional action. Once again, the Federal regulatory process remains an insurmountable obstacle to a project that is likely to reduce oil imports from insecure foreign sources.

Sec. 103. Keystone XL Permit Approval.

Notwithstanding Executive Order No. 13387 (3 U.S.C. 301 note), section 301 of title 3, United States Code, and any other Executive order or provision of law, no Presidential permit shall be required for the pipeline described in the application filed on May 4, 2012, by TransCanada Keystone Pipeline, L.P. to the Department of State for the Keystone XL pipeline. To include the Nebraska route evaluated in the Final Evaluation Report issued by the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality in January 2013 and approved by the Nebraska governor. The final environmental impact statement issued by the Secretary of State on January 31, 2014, coupled with the Final Evaluation Report described in the previous sentence, shall be considered to satisfy all requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) and of the National Historic Preservation Act (16 U.S.C. 470 et seq.).

Title IV—Judicial Review

Sec. 104. Judicial Review.

SEC. 107. PERMITS FOR ACTIVITIES IN NAVIGABLE WATERS.

(a) ISSUANCE OF PERMITS.—The Secretary of the Army, not later than 90 days after re- ceipt of an application therefor, shall issue all per- mits under section 404 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1344) and section 10 of the Act of March 3, 1909 (33 U.S.C. 403; commonly known as the Rivers and Harbors Act) necessary for the construction, operation, and maintenance of the pipeline described in the May 4, 2012, application referred to in section 103, as supplemented by the Nebraska route. The application shall be based on the administrative record for the pipeline as of the date of enactment of this Act, which shall be considered complete.

(b) WAIVER OF PROcedural REQUIRE-MENTS.—The Secretary may waive any pro- cedural requirement of law or regulation that it considers desirable to waive in order to accomplish the purposes of this section.

(c) WAIVER IN ABsENCE OF ACTION BY THE SECRETARY.—If the Secretary has not issued a permit described in subsection (a) on or before the last day of the 90-day period referred to in paragraph (1), the permit shall be deemed issued under section 404 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1344) or section 10 of the Act of March 3, 1909 (33 U.S.C. 403), as appropriate, on the day follow- ing such last day.

(d) LIMITATION.—The Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency may not prohibit or restrict any activity or use of an area that is authorized under this section.

SEC. 108. MIGRATORY BIRD TACT ACT PERMIT.

The Secretary of the Interior is deemed to have issued a special purpose permit under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (16 U.S.C. 763 et seq.), as described in the application filed with the United States Fish and Wildlife Service for the Keystone XL pipeline on January 11, 2013.

SEC. 109. OIL SPILL RESPONSE PLAN DISCLOS-URE.

(a) In GENERAL.—Any pipeline owner or op- erator required under Federal law to develop an oil spill response plan for the Keystone XL pipeline shall make such plan available to the public. The plan shall be updated consistent with oil spill response preparedness.

(b) UPDATES.—A pipeline owner or operator required to make available to a Governor a plan under subsection (a) shall make available to such Governor any update of such plan not later than 7 days after the date on which the update is made.

Subtitle B—Natural Gas Pipeline Permitting Reform

SEC. 121. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “Natural Gas Pipelines Permitting Reform Act.”

SEC. 122. REGULATORY APPROVAL OF NATURAL GAS PIPELINE PROJECTS.

Section 7 of the Natural Gas Act (15 U.S.C. 717b) is amended at the end the fol- lowing new subsection:

“(1)(1) The Commission shall approve or deny an application for a certificate of pub- lic convenience and necessity for a prefiled project not later than 15 months after receiv- ing a complete application that is ready to be processed, as defined by the Commission by regulation.

“(2) The agency responsible for issuing any license, permit, or approval required under Federal law in connection with a prefiled project for which a certificate of public con- venience and necessity is sought under this Act shall approve or deny the issuance of the license, permit, or approval not later than 90 days after the Commission issues its final environmental document relating to the project.

“(3) The Commission may extend the time period under paragraph (2) by 30 days if an agency demonstrates that it cannot other- wise complete the process required to ap- prove or deny the license, permit, or approval, and therefore will be compelled to deny the license, permit, or approval. In granting an extension under this paragraph, the Commission shall take into account any assistance the agency as necessary to address conditions preventing the completion of the review of the application for the license, permit, or approval.

“(4) If an agency described in paragraph (2) does not approve or deny the issuance of the license, permit, or approval within the time period specified under paragraph (2) or (3), as applicable, such license, permit, or approval shall take effect upon the expiration of 30 days after the end of such period. The Com- mission shall incorporate into the terms of such license, permit, or approval any condi- tions proffered by the agency described in paragraph (2) that the Commission does not find are inconsistent with the final environ- mental document.

“(b) For purposes of this subsection, the term ‘prefiled project’ means a project for the siting, construction, expansion, or operation of a natural gas pipeline with respect to which a prefilling docket number has been assigned by the Commission pursuant to a prefilling process established by the Commiss- ion for the purpose of facilitating the formal application process for obtaining a cer- tificate of public convenience and neces- sity.’’.

Subtitle C—North American Energy Infrastructure

SEC. 131. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “North American Energy Infrastructure Act”.

SEC. 132. FINDING.

Congress finds that the United States should establish a more uniform, trans- parent, and streamlined process for the siting, construction, connection, operation, and maintenance of oil and natural gas pipelines and electric transmission facilities for the import and export of oil and natural gas and the transmission of electricity to and from Canada and Mexico, in pursuit of a more se- cure and efficient North American energy market.

SEC. 133. AUTHORIZATION OF CERTAIN ENERGY INFRASTRUCTURE PROJECTS AT THE NATIONAL BOUNDARY OF THE UNITED STATES.

(a) AUTHORIZATION.—Except as provided in subsection (b) and section 137, no person may construct, connect, operate, or maintain a cross-border segment of an oil pipeline or electric transmission facility for the import or export of oil or the transmission of electric- ity to or from Canada or Mexico without obtaining a certificate of crossing for the construction, connection, operation, or maintenance of the cross-border segment under this section.

(b) CERTIFICATE OF CROSSING.—

(1) REQUIREMENT.—Not later than 120 days after final action is taken under the Na- tional Energy Policy and Conservation Act of 1999 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) with respect to a cross- border segment for which a request is re- ceived under this section, the relevant official identified under paragraph (2), in con- sultation with appropriate Federal agencies, shall issue a certificate of crossing for the cross-border segment unless the relevant of- ficial finds that the construction, connec- tion, operation, or maintenance of the cross- border segment is not in the public interest of the United States.

(2) RELEVANT OFFICIAL.—The relevant official referred to in paragraph (1) is—

(A) the Secretary of State with respect to oil pipelines; and

(B) the Secretary of Energy with respect to electric transmission facilities.

(3) ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENT FOR ELECTRIC TRANSMISSION FACILITIES.—In the case of a request for a certificate of crossing for the construction, connection, operation, or maintenance of a cross-border segment of an electric transmission facility, the Secretary of Energy shall require, as a condition of issuing the certificate of crossing for the re- quest under paragraph (1), that the cross- border segment of the electric transmission facility be constructed, connected, operated, or maintained consistent with all applicable policies and standards of—

(A) the Electric Reliability Organization and the applicable regional entity; and

(B) any Regional Transmission Organiza- tion or Independent System Operator with operational or functional control over the cross-border segment of the electric trans- mission facility.

(c) EXCLUSIONS.—This section shall not apply to any construction, connection, oper- ation, or maintenance of a cross-border seg- ment of an oil pipeline or electric trans- mission facility for the import or export of oil or the transmission of electricity to or from Canada or Mexico—

(1) if the cross-border segment is operating for such import, export, or transmission as of the date of enactment of this Act, until the date the import, export, or transmission such segment is no longer operating.

(2) if a permit described in section 136 for such construction, connection, operation, or maintenance has been issued;

(3) if a certificate of crossing for such con- struction, connection, operation, or mainte- nance has previously been issued under this section; or

(4) if an application for a permit described in section 136 for such construction, connec- tion, operation, or maintenance is pending on the date of enactment of this Act, until the date the application is denied.

(A) the date on which such application is denied; or

(B) July 1, 2016.

(d) EFFECT OF OTHER LAWS.—

APPLICATION TO OTHER ACTS.—Nothing in this section or section 137 shall affect the application of any other Federal statute to a project for which a certificate of crossing for the construction, connection, operation, or maintenance of a cross-border segment is sought under that other Act.

(2) NATURAL GAS ACT.—Nothing in this sec- tion shall affect the application of the Natural Gas Act for the siting, construction, or operation of any Regional Transmission Organization other than the Electric Reliability Organization identified under paragraph (1), in con- sultation with appropriate Federal agencies, shall issue a certificate of crossing for the importation or exportation of natural gas to Canada and Mex- ico.

Section 3(c) of the Natural Gas Act (15 U.S.C. 717(c)) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

(1) AUTHORIZATION.—Except as provided in subsection (a) to authorize the export or import of any natural gas to or from Can- ada or Mexico.”.
SEC. 135. TRANSMISSION OF ELECTRIC ENERGY TO CANADA AND MEXICO.
(a) REPEAL OF REQUIREMENT TO SECURE ORDER.—Section 133 of the Federal Power Act (16 U.S.C. 824a(e)) is repealed.
(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—
(1) STATE REGULATIONS.—Section 202(f) of the Federal Power Act (16 U.S.C. 824a(f)) is amended by striking— "insofar as such State regulation does not conflict with the exercise of the Commission's powers under or relating to section 202(e)".
(2) SEASONAL DIVERSITY ELECTRICITY EXCHANGE.—Section 602(b) of the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978 (16 U.S.C. 796a–4(b)) is amended by striking "the Commission has conducted hearings and made the findings required under section 202(e) of the Federal Power Act" and all that follows through the period _and inserting— "the Secretary has conducted hearings and finds that the proposed transmission facilities would not impair the sufficiency of electric supply within the United States or would not impede or tend to impede the coordination in the public interest of facilities subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary._".
SEC. 136. NO PRESIDENTIAL PERMIT REQUIRED.
No Presidential permit (or similar permit) required under Executive Order No. 13337 (3 U.S.C. 704 note; Executive Order No. 13423 (3 U.S.C. 301 note), section 301 of title 3, United States Code, Executive Order No. 12038, Executive Order No. 12468, or any other Executive order for the construction, connection, operation, or maintenance of an oil or natural gas pipeline or electric transmission facility, or any cross-border segment thereof.
SEC. 137. MODIFICATIONS TO EXISTING PROJECTS.
No certificate of crossing under section 133, or permit described in section 136, shall be required for a modification to the construction, connection, operation, or maintenance of an oil or natural gas pipeline or electric transmission facility—
1) that is operating for the import or export of oil or natural gas or the transmission of electricity to or from Canada or Mexico as of the date of enactment of the Act; and
2) for which a permit described in section 136 for such construction, connection, operation, or maintenance has been issued; or
3) for which a certificate of crossing for the cross-border segment of the pipeline or facility has previously been issued under section 133.
SEC. 138. EFFECTIVE DATE; RULEMAKING DEADLINES.
(a) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Sections 133 through 137, and the amendments made by such sections, shall take effect on July 1, 2015.
(b) RULEMAKING DEADLINES.—Each relevant official described in section 133(b)(2) shall—
1) not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, publish in the Federal Register notice of a proposed rulemaking to carry out the applicable requirements of section 133; and
2) not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, publish in the Federal Register a final rule to carry out the applicable requirements of section 133.
SEC. 139. DEFINITIONS.
In this subtitle—
1) the term "cross-border segment" means the portion of an oil or natural gas pipeline or electric transmission facility that is located at the national boundary of the United States and that crosses one or more international borders;
2) the term "modification" includes a reversal of flow direction, change in ownership, volume expansion, downstream or upstream interconnection, or other adjustment to maintain the flow (such as a reduction or increase in the number of pump or compressor stations);
3) the term "natural gas" has the meaning given that term in section 2 of the Natural Gas Act (15 U.S.C. 717a); and
4) the term "oil" means petroleum or a petroleum product.
SEC. 201. SHORT TITLE.
This subtitle may be cited as the "Energy Consumers Relief Act of 2014."
SEC. 202. PROHIBITION AGAINST FINALIZING CERTAIN ENERGY-RELATED RULES THAT WILL CAUSE SIGNIFICANT ADVERSE EFFECTS TO THE ECONOMY.
Title II—MAINTAINING DIVERSE ELECTRICITY GENERATION AND AFFORDABILITY
Subtitle A—Energy Consumers Relief
SEC. 201. SHORT TITLE.
This subtitle may be cited as the "Energy Consumers Relief Act of 2014."
SEC. 202. PROHIBITION AGAINST FINALIZING CERTAIN ENERGY-RELATED RULES THAT WILL CAUSE SIGNIFICANT ADVERSE EFFECTS TO THE ECONOMY.
Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency may not promulgate as final an energy-related rule that is estimated to cost more than $1 billion if the Secretary of Energy determines under section 203(3) that the rule will cause significant adverse effects to the economy.
SEC. 203. REPORTS AND DETERMINATIONS PRIOR TO PROMULGATING AS FINAL CERTAIN ENERGY-RELATED RULES.
Before promulgating as final any energy-related rule that is estimated to cost more than $1 billion—
1) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—The Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency shall submit to Congress a report (and transmit a copy to the Secretary of Energy) containing—
(A) a copy of the rule; and
(B) a concise general statement relating to the rule;
(C) an estimate of the total costs of the rule, including the direct costs and indirect costs of the rule;
(D) an estimate of the total benefits of the rule and when such benefits are expected to be realized;
(E) a description of the modeling, the calculations, the assumptions, and the limitations due to uncertainty, speculation, or lack of information associated with the estimates under this subparagraph; and
(F) a certification that all data and documents relied upon by the Agency in developing such estimates—
(I) have been preserved; and
(II) are available for review by the public on the Agency's Web site, except to the extent to which publication of such data and documents would constitute disclosure of confidential information in violation of applicable Federal law;
(E) an estimate of the increases in energy prices, or fuel or natural gas or electricity prices for consumers, that may result from implementation or enforcement of the rule; and
(F) a detailed description of the employment effects, including potential job losses and shifts in employment, that may result from implementation or enforcement of the rule.
2) INITIAL DETERMINATION ON INCREASES AND IMPACTS.—The Secretary of Energy, in consultation with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and the Administrator of the Energy Information Administration, shall prepare an independent analysis to determine whether the rule will cause—
(A) an adverse effect on energy prices for consumers, including low-income households, small businesses, and manufacturers; (B) any impact on fuel diversity of the Nation's electricity generation portfolio or on national, regional, or local electric reliability;
(C) any adverse effect on energy supply, distribution, or use due to the economic or technical infeasibility of implementing the rule; or
(D) any other adverse effect on energy supply, distribution, or use (including a short-fall in supply and increased use of foreign supplies).
3) SUBSEQUENT DETERMINATION ON ADVERSE EFFECTS TO THE ECONOMY.—If the Secretary of Energy determines, under paragraph (2), that the rule will cause an increase, impact, or cost described in that paragraph, the Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Labor, and the Administrator of the Small Business Administration, shall—
(A) determine whether the rule will cause significant adverse effects to the economy, taking into consideration—
(i) the costs and benefits of the rule and limitations in calculating such costs and benefits due to uncertainty, speculation, or lack of information; and
(ii) the positive and negative impacts of the rule on economic indicators, including those related to gross domestic product, unemployment, wages, and business and manufacturing activity; and
(B) publish the results of such determination in the Federal Register.
SEC. 204. DEFINITIONS.
In this subtitle—
1) The terms "direct costs" and "indirect costs" have the meanings given those terms in chapter 2 of the Environmental Protection Agency’s “Guidelines for Preparing Economic Analyses” dated December 17, 2010.
2) The term "energy-related rule that is estimated to cost more than $1 billion" means a rule of the Environmental Protection Agency that—
(A) regulates any aspect of the production, supply, distribution, or use of energy or provides for such regulation by States or other governmental entities; and
(B) is estimated by the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency or the Director of the Office of Management and Budget to impose direct costs and indirect costs, in the aggregate, of more than $1 billion.
3) The term "rule" has the meaning given to such term in section 551 of title 5, United States Code.
SEC. 205. PROHIBITION ON USE OF SOCIAL COST OF CARBON IN ANALYSIS.
(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law or any executive order, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency may not use the social cost of carbon in order to incorporate social benefits of reducing carbon dioxide emissions from new power plants in any cost-benefit analysis relating to an energy-related rule that is estimated to cost more than $1 billion unless and until a Federal law is enacted authorizing such use.
(b) DEFINITION.—In this section, the term "social cost of carbon" means the social cost of carbon as described in the technical support document entitled "Technical Support Document: Technical Update of the Social Cost of Carbon for Regulatory Impact Analysis Under Executive Order 13563", published in the Federal Register on September 24, 2010 (75 FR 5928), or any successor or substantially related document, or any other estimate of the monetized damages associated with an incremental increase in carbon dioxide emissions in a given year.
Subtitle B—Electricity Security and Affordability

SEC. 211. SHORT TITLE.
This subtitle may be cited as the “Electricity Security and Affordability Act.”

SEC. 212. STANDARDS OF PERFORMANCE FOR NEW FOSSIL FUELED ELECTRIC UTILITY GENERATING UNITS.
(a) LIMITATION.—The Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency may not issue, implement, or enforce any proposed or final rule under section 111 of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7411) that establishes a standard of performance for emissions of any greenhouse gas from a new source that is a fossil-fueled electric utility generating unit unless such rule meets the requirements under subsections (b) and (c), as applicable.

(b) REQUIREMENTS.—In issuing any rule under section 111 of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7411) establishing standards of performance for emissions of any greenhouse gas from new sources that are fossil fuel-fired electric utility generating units, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency (for purposes of establishing such standards)—

(1) shall separate sources fueled with coal and natural gas into separate categories; and

(2) shall establish a standard based on the best system of emission reduction for new sources within a fossil-fuel category unless—

(A) such standard has been achieved on average for at least one continuous 12-month period (excluding planned outages) by each of at least 6 units within such category;

(B) each of which is located at a different electric generating station in the United States;

(ii) which, collectively, are representative of the operating characteristics of electric generating units at different locations in the United States; and

(ii) each of which is operated for the entire 12-month period on a full commercial basis; and

(B) no results obtained from any demonstration project are used in setting such standard.

(c) COAL HAVING A HEAT CONTENT OF 8300 OR LESS BRITISH THERMAL UNITS PER POUND.—(1) SEPARATE SUBCATEGORY.—In carrying out subsection (b)(2), the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency shall establish a separate subcategory for new sources that are fossil-fueled electric utility generating units using coal with an average heat content of 8300 or less British Thermal Units per pound.

(2) STANDARDS.—Notwithstanding subsection (b)(2), in issuing any rule under section 111 of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7411) establishing standards of performance for emissions of any greenhouse gas from new sources that are fossil fuel-fired electric utility generating units, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency shall establish a standard based on the best system of emission reduction unless—

(A) such standard has been achieved on average for at least one continuous 12-month period (excluding planned outages) by each of at least 3 units within such subcategory—

(i) which, collectively, are representative of the operating characteristics of electric generation at different locations in the United States; and

(ii) each of which is operated for the entire 12-month period on a full commercial basis; and

(B) no results obtained from any demonstration project are used in setting such standard.

(3) COAL HAVING A HEAT CONTENT OF 8300 OR LESS BRITISH THERMAL UNITS PER POUND.—(1) SEPARATE SUBCATEGORY.—In carrying out subsection (b)(2)(A), the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency shall establish a separate subcategory for new sources that are fossil-fueled electric utility generating units using coal with an average heat content of 8300 or less British Thermal Units per pound.

(2) STANDARDS.—Notwithstanding subsection (b)(2)(A), in issuing any rule under section 111 of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7411) establishing standards of performance for emissions of any greenhouse gas from new sources that are fossil fuel-fired electric utility generating units, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency shall not set a standard based on the best system of emission reduction for new sources within a fossil-fuel category unless—

(A) such standard has been achieved on average for at least one continuous 12-month period (excluding planned outages) by each of at least 6 units within such category—

(i) which, collectively, are representative of the operating characteristics of electric generating units at different locations in the United States; and

(ii) each of which is operated for the entire 12-month period on a full commercial basis; and

(B) no results obtained from any demonstration project are used in setting such standard.

(4) MODIFICATION.—The term “modifications” has the meaning given such term in section 111(a) of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7411(a)), except that such term shall not include any modified source.

(5) IN GENERAL.—The term “new source” has the meaning given such term in section 111(a) of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7411(a)), except that such term shall not include any modified source.

Appendix—Report on Energy and Water Savings Potential From Thermal Insulation

SEC. 221. REPORT ON ENERGY AND WATER SAVINGS POTENTIAL FROM THERMAL INSULATION.
(a) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Energy, in consultation with appropriate Federal agencies and relevant stakeholders, shall submit to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate and the Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives a report on the impact of thermal insulation on both energy and water use systems for potable hot and chilled water in Federal buildings, and the return on investment of installing such insulation.

(b) CONTENTS.—The report shall include—

(1) an analysis of the cost of municipal or regional water for delivered water and the avoided cost of new water; and

(2) a description of national and regional studies of the costs and benefits of energy and water use systems for potable hot and chilled water in Federal buildings.
(2) a summary of energy and water savings, including short term and long term (20 years) projections of such savings.

TITLE III—UNLEASHING ENERGY DIPLOMACY

SEC. 301. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “Domestic Prosperity and Global Freedom Act”.

SEC. 302. ACTION ON APPLICATIONS.

(a) DECISION DEADLINE.—For proposals that must also obtain authorization from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission or the United States Maritime Administration to site, construct, expand, or operate LNG export facilities, the Department of Energy shall issue a decision on any application for the authorization to export natural gas under section 3 of the Natural Gas Act (15 U.S.C. 717b) not later than 30 days after the later of—

(1) the conclusion of the review to site, construct, expand, or operate the LNG facilities required by the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.); or

(2) the date of enactment of this Act.

(b) CONCLUSION OF REVIEW.—For purposes of subsection (a), review required by the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 shall be considered concluded—

(1) for a project requiring an Environmental Impact Statement, 30 days after publication of a Final Environmental Impact Statement;

(2) for a project for which an Environmental Assessment has been prepared, 30 days after publication of such an assessment; and

(3) upon a determination by the lead agency that there is eligibility for a categorical exclusion pursuant National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 implementing regulations.

(c) JUDICIAL ACTION.—(1) The United States Court of Appeals for the circuit in which the export facility will be located pursuant to an application described in subsection (a) shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction over any civil action for the review of—

(A) an order issued by the Department of Energy with respect to such application; or

(B) the Department of Energy’s failure to issue a final decision on such application.

(2) If the Court in a civil action described in paragraph (1) finds that the Department of Energy has failed to issue a final decision on the application as required under subsection (a), the Court shall order the Department of Energy to issue such final decision not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this section.

(3) The Court shall set any civil action brought under this subsection for expedited consideration and shall set the matter on the docket as soon as practical after the filing date of the initial pleading.

SEC. 303. PUBLIC DISCLOSURE OF EXPORT DESIGNATIONS.

Section 3 of the Natural Gas Act (15 U.S.C. 717b) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(g) PUBLIC DISCLOSURE OF LNG EXPORT DESIGNATIONS.—As a condition for approval of any authorization to export LNG, the Secretary of Energy shall require the applicant to publicly disclose the specific destination or destinations of any such authorized LNG exports.”

SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE.

This subdivision may be cited as the “Lowering Gasoline Prices to Fuel an America That Works Act of 2014”.

TITLE I—OFFSHORE ENERGY AND JOBS

Subtitle A—Outer Continental Shelf Leasing Reform

SEC. 10101. OUTER CONTINENTAL SHELF LEASING PROGRAM REFORMS.

Section 18(a) of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1344(a)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(B) In each oil and gas leasing program under this section, the Secretary shall—

(1) prepare an environmental assessment for sale for all outer Continental Shelf planning areas that have the largest undiscovered, technically recoverable oil and gas resources (on a total basis) based upon the most recent national geologic assessment of the outer Continental Shelf, with an emphasis on offering the most geologically prospective parts of the planning area.

(2) The Secretary shall include in each proposed oil and gas leasing program under this section any State subdivision of an outer Continental Shelf planning area that the Governor of the State that represents that subdivision has requested for leasing. The Secretary may not remove such a subdivision from the program until publication of the final program, and shall include all such subdivisions in any environmental review conducted and statement prepared for such program under section 102(2) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4332(2)).

(3) In this paragraph the term ‘available unleased acreage’ means that portion of the outer Continental Shelf that is not under lease at the time of a proposed lease sale, and that has not otherwise been made unavailable for leasing by law.

(4) In the 5-year oil and gas leasing program, the Secretary shall make available for leasing any outer Continental Shelf planning area that—

(i) is estimated to contain more than 2,500,000,000 barrels of oil; and

(ii) is estimated to contain more than 7,500,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas.

(5) To determine the planning areas described in paragraph (4), the Secretary shall use the document entitled ‘Minerals Management Service Assessment of Undiscovered Technically Recoverable Oil and Gas Resources of the Nation’s Outer Continental Shelf, 2006’.”

SEC. 10102. DOMESTIC OIL AND NATURAL GAS PRODUCTION GOAL.

Section 18(b) of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1344(b)) is amended to read as follows:

“(b) DOMESTIC OIL AND NATURAL GAS PRODUCTION GOAL.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In developing a 5-year oil and gas leasing program, and subject to paragraph (2), the Secretary shall determine a domestic strategic production goal for the development of oil and natural gas as a result of that program. Such goal shall be—

(A) the best estimate of the possible increase in domestic production of oil and natural gas from the outer Continental Shelf;

(B) focused on meeting domestic demand for oil and natural gas while reducing the dependence of the United States on foreign energy; and

(C) focused on the production increases achieved through the program at the end of the 15-year period beginning on the effective date of the program.

“(2) PROGRAM GOAL.—For purposes of the 5-year oil and gas leasing program, the production goal referred to in paragraph (1) shall be an increase by 2032 of—

(A) no less than 3,000,000 barrels in the amount of oil produced per day; and

(B) no less than 10,000,000,000 cubic feet in the amount of natural gas produced per day.

CONTRIBUTING TO—The Oil Report annually, beginning at the end of the 5-year period for which the program applies, to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate on the progress of the program in meeting the production goal. The Secretary shall include in the report any production that will prevent meeting the goal.”

SEC. 10103. DEVELOPMENT AND SUBMITTAL OF NEW 5-YEAR OIL AND GAS LEASING PROGRAM.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Interior shall—

(1) by not later than July 15, 2015, publish and submit to Congress a new proposed oil and gas leasing program under section 18 of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1344) for the 5-year period beginning on such date and ending July 15, 2021; and

(2) by not later than July 15, 2016, approve a final oil and gas leasing program under such section for such period.

(b) CONSIDERATION OF ALL AREAS.—In preparing such program the Secretary shall include consideration of areas of the Outer Continental Shelf off the coasts of all States (as such term is defined in section 2 of that Act, as amended by this title), that are subject to leasing under this title.

(c) TECHNICAL CORRECTION.—Section 18(d)(3) of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1344(d)(3)) is amended by striking “outer” in paragraph (3) and inserting “outer” in lieu thereof beginning the date of enactment of this section, whichever first occurs.”

SEC. 10104. RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.

Nothing in this title shall be construed to authorize the issuance of a lease under the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1331 et seq.) to any person designated for the imposition of sanctions pursuant to any section of the Iran Sanctions Act of 1996 (50 U.S.C. 1701 note), the Comprehensive Iran Sanctions, Accountability, and Divestiture Act of 2010 (22 U.S.C. 8801 et seq.), the United States law concerning the Iran Freedom and Counter-Proliferation Act of 2012 (22 U.S.C. 8801 et seq.);”

SEC. 10105. ADDITION OF LEASE SALES AFTER FINALIZATION OF 5-YEAR PLAN.

Section 18(d) of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C.1344(d)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(1) in paragraph (3), by striking “After” and inserting “Except as provided in paragraph (4), after”; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

“(4) the Secretary may add to the areas included in an approved leasing program additional areas to be made available for leasing under the program and documents required under section 102 of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969”
U.S.C. 4332) have been completed with respect to leasing of each such additional area within the 5-year period preceding such addition.

Subtitle B—Directing the President To Conduct New OCS Sales

SEC. 10201. REQUIREMENT TO CONDUCT PROPOSED OIL AND GAS LEASE SALE 220 ON OUTER CONTINENTAL SHELF OFFSHORE VIRGINIA.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding the exclusion from the Outer Continental Shelf Oil & Gas Leasing Program 2012-2017, the Secretary of the Interior shall conduct offshore oil and gas Lease Sale 220 under the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1337) as soon as practicable, but not later than one year after the date of enactment of this Act.

(b) MAKE REPLACEMENT LEASE BLOCKS AVAILABLE.—For each lease block in a proposed lease sale under this section for which the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of the Interior, under the Memorandum of Agreement referred to in section 10206(b), issues a statement—

(1) preserving the ability of the Armed Forces of the United States to maintain an optimum state of readiness through their continued use of the Outer Continental Shelf;

(2) allowing effective exploration, development, and production of our Nation's oil, gas, and renewable energy resources.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(2) VIRGINIA LEASE SALE PLANNING AREA.—The term ‘Virginia lease sale planning area’ means the area of the outer Continental Shelf (as that term is defined in the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (33 U.S.C. 1331 et seq.)) that is bounded by—

(A) a northern boundary consisting of a straight line extending from the northernmost point of Virginia's seaward boundary to the point on the seaward boundary of the United States on the 49th parallel located at 37 degrees 17 minutes 1 second North latitude, 71 degrees 5 minutes 16 seconds West longitude; and

(B) a southern boundary consisting of a straight line extending from the southernmost point of Virginia's seaward boundary to the point on the seaward boundary of the United States on the 49th parallel located at 36 degrees 31 minutes 58 seconds North latitude, 71 degrees 30 minutes 1 second West longitude.

SEC. 10206. EASTERN GULF OF MEXICO NOT INCLUSIONS.

Notwithstanding exclusion of the South Atlantic Outer Continental Shelf Planning Area from the Final Outer Continental Shelf Oil & Gas Leasing Program 2012-2017, the Secretary of the Interior shall conduct a lease sale not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this Act for areas off the coast of South Carolina determined by the Secretary to have the most geologically promising hydrocarbon resources and constituting not less than 25 percent of the leaseable area within the South Carolina offshore administrative boundaries depicted in the 8th Revised Sale Area.

Subtitle C—Equitable Sharing of Outer Continental Shelf Revenues

SEC. 10301. DISPOSITION OF OUTER CONTINENTAL SHELF REVENUES TO COASTAL STATES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 9 of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1338) is amended—

(1) in the existing text—

(A) in the first sentence, by striking “All rentals.” and inserting the following:

’‘(A) disposition of revenues received by the United States as bonuses, rents, and royalties under leases for oil and gas, wind, tidal, or other energy exploration, development, and production on new areas of the Outer Continental Shelf that are authorized to be made available for leasing as a result of enactment of the Lowering Gasoline Prices to Fuel an America That Works Act of 2014, including a lease issued before, on, or after such date of enactment.’’;

and

(B) EXEMPTED LEASE SALES.—This paragraph does not affect the existing authority of the United States to exempt certain lease sales from the requirements of title C of Public Law 109–432; 43 U.S.C. 1331 et seq.

(b) ALLOCATION OF PAYMENTS.—

(1) NATIONAL DEFENSE AREAS.—This title does not affect the existing authority of the Secretary of Defense, with the approval of the President, to designate national defense areas on the Outer Continental Shelf pursuant to section 12(d) of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1341(d)).

(2) PHASE-IN.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—As excepted as provided in paragraph (2), of the new leasing revenues received by the United States each fiscal year, 37.5 percent shall be allocated and paid in accordance with subsection (b) to coastal States that are affected States with respect to the leases under which those revenues are received by the United States.

(B) PHASE-IN.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—As excepted as provided in subparagraph (B), paragraph (1) shall be applied—

(i) with respect to new leasing revenues under leases awarded under the first leasing program under section 18(a) that takes effect after the date of enactment of the Lowering Gasoline Prices to Fuel an America That Works Act of 2014, by substituting ‘‘12.6 percent’’ for ‘‘37.5 percent’’;

and

(ii) with respect to new leasing revenues under leases awarded under the second leasing program under section 18(a) that takes effect after the date of enactment of the Lowering Gasoline Prices to Fuel an America That Works Act of 2014, by substituting ‘‘12.6 percent’’ for ‘‘37.5 percent’’.

(B) EXEMPTED LEASE SALES.—This paragraph shall not apply with respect to any lease issued under title B of the Lowering Gasoline Prices to Fuel an America That Works Act of 2014.

(B) ALLOCATION OF PAYMENTS.—
‘(1) IN GENERAL.—The amount allocated to a coastal State under this subsection—

(A) shall be available to the Secretary for energy and mineral resources on the Outer Continental Shelf, not less than 10 percent, and not more than 25 percent, of the total amounts allocated with respect to the leased tract;

(B) shall be available to the Secretary for energy and mineral resources on the Outer Continental Shelf, not less than 10 percent, and not more than 15 percent, of the total amounts allocated with respect to the leased tract; and

(C) shall be paid at the rate payable for level IV of the Executive Schedule; and

(D) be responsible for ensuring safe and efficient development of energy and minerals resources on the Outer Continental Shelf of the United States; and

(2) MINIMUM AND MAXIMUM ALLOCATION.—

The amount allocated to a coastal State under paragraph (1) each fiscal year with respect to revenues received by the United States in accordance with this subsection each fiscal year shall be—

(A) in the case of a coastal State that is the nearest State to the geographic center of the leased tract, not less than 25 percent of the total amounts allocated with respect to the leased tract;

(B) in the case of any other coastal State, not less than 10 percent, and not more than 15 percent, of the total amounts allocated with respect to the leased tract; and

(C) in the case of a coastal State that is the only coastal State within 200 miles of a leased tract, 25 percent of the total amounts allocated with respect to the leased tract.

(3) ADMINISTRATION.—Amounts allocated under this subsection—

(A) shall be available to the coastal State without further appropriation;

(B) shall remain available until expended; and

(C) shall be in addition to any other amounts available to the coastal State under this Act; and

(D) shall be distributed in the fiscal year following receipt.

SEC. 10402. BUREAU OF OCEAN ENERGY.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is established in the Department of the Interior a Bureau of Ocean Energy (referred to in this section as the “Bureau”), which shall—

(1) be headed by a Director of Ocean Energy (referred to in this section as the “Director”); and

(2) be administered under the direction of the Assistant Secretary of Ocean Energy and Safety.

(b) DIRECTOR.—

(1) APPOINTMENT.—The Director shall be appointed by the Secretary of the Interior.

(2) COMPENSATION.—The Director shall be compensated at a rate of level IV of the Executive Schedule under section 5316 of title 5, United States Code.

(c) DUTIES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Interior shall carry out through the Bureau all functions, powers, and duties vested in the Secretary relating to the administration of safety and environmental enforcement activities related to offshore mineral and renewable energy resources on the Outer Continental Shelf pursuant to the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1334(a)(1)) and the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1331 et seq.) and the administration of the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement.

(2) SPECIFIC AUTHORITIES.—The Director shall be responsible for all safety activities related to exploration and development of renewable and mineral resources on the Outer Continental Shelf.

(A) exploration, development, production, and ongoing inspections of infrastructure;

(B) the suspending or prohibiting, on a temporary basis, any activity, including production under leases held on the Outer Continental Shelf, in accordance with section 9(a)(1) of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1339(a)(2));

(C) cancelling any lease, permit, or right-of-way on the Outer Continental Shelf, in accordance with section 9(a)(2) of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1334(a)(2));

(D) complying with applicable Federal laws and regulations relating to worker safety and other matters;—

(E) requiring comprehensive safety and environmental management programs for persons engaged in activities connected with the exploration, development, and production of mineral or renewable energy resources;

(F) developing and implementing regulations for Federal employees to carry out any inspection or investigation to ascertain compliance with applicable regulations, including health, safety, or environmental regulations;

(G) implementing the Offshore Technology Research and Risk Assessment Program under section 21 of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1344(j)(3));

(H) summoning witnesses and directing the production of evidence;
(I) Section 10402(f) is repealed.

(II) Section 10402(g) is amended to strike the last sentence.

(III) Section 10402(h) is amended to strike—

(1) the word “appropriate” in clause (i), (II), (III), and (IV); and

(2) the word “may” in clause (i), (IV), and (V).
under the same terms and conditions and to the same extent that such discontinuance or modification could have occurred if this title had not been enacted; and

(2) pending such proceedings, and appeals therefrom, and payments made pursuant to such orders, shall issue in the same manner and on the same terms as if this title had not been enacted, and any such orders shall continue in effect until amended, modified, superseded, terminated, set aside, or revoked by an officer of the United States or a court of competent jurisdiction, or by operation of law.

(p) PENDING CIVIL ACTIONS.—Subject to the authority of the Secretary of the Interior; and any order for payment of the Interior under this title, pending civil actions shall continue notwithstanding the enactment of this Act, and in such civil actions, proceedings shall be had, appeals taken, and judgments rendered and enforced in the same manner and with the same effect as if such enactment had not occurred.

(e) REFERENCES.—References relating to the Minerals Management Service in statutes, Executive orders, rules, regulations, directives, or delegations of authority that precede the effective date of this Act are hereby made to the Department, to its officers, employees, or agents, or to its corresponding organizational structure, and to all statutes, regulations, and requirements that apply in relation to the Minerals Management Service immediately before the effective date of this title shall continue to apply.

SEC. 10407. CONFORMING AMENDMENTS TO EXCLUSIVE SCHEDULE PAY RATES.

(a) UNDER SECRETARY FOR ENERGY, LANDS, AND MINERALS.—Section 5314 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to “Under Secretaries of the Treasury (3).” the following:

(b) ASSISTANT SECRETARIES.—Section 5315 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by inserting “Assistant Secretaries, Department of the Interior (6).” and inserting the following:

“Assistant Secretaries, Department of the Interior (7).”

(c) DIRECTORS.—Section 5316 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by striking “Director, Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior.” and inserting the following new text:

“Director, Bureau of Ocean Energy, Department of the Interior.

“Director, Ocean Energy Safety Service, Department of the Interior.

SEC. 10408. OUTER CONTINENTAL SHELF ENERGY SAFETY ADVISORY BOARD.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary of the Interior shall establish, under the Federal Advisory Committee Act, an Outer Continental Shelf Energy Safety Advisory Board (referred to in this section as the “Board”)—

(1) to provide the Secretary and the Directors established by this title with independent scientific and technical advice on safe, responsible, and timely mineral and renewable energy exploration, development, and production activities; and

(2) to review operations of the National Offshore Energy Health and Safety Academy established under section 10403(d), including submitting to the Secretary recommendations to the extent possible, including research and technical advancements.

(b) MEMBERSHIP.—

(1) SIZE.—The Board shall consist of not more than 21 members.

(A) shall be appointed by the Secretary based on their expertise in oil and gas drilling, well design, operations, well containment and oil spill response; and

(B) must have significant scientific, engineering, management, and other credentials and a history of work related to safe energy exploration, development, and production activities.

(2) CONSULTATION AND NOMINATIONS.—The Secretary shall consult with the National Academy of Sciences and the National Academy of Engineering to identify potential candidates for the Board and shall take nominations from the public.

(3) TERM.—The Secretary shall appoint Board members to staggered terms of not more than 4 years, and shall not appoint a member for more than two full consecutive terms.

(4) BALANCE.—In appointing members to the Board, the Secretary shall ensure a balanced representation of industry and research interests.

(c) CHAIR.—The Secretary shall appoint the Chair for the Board from among its members.

(d) MEETINGS.—The Board shall meet not less than 3 times per year and shall host, at least once per year, a public forum to review and assess the safety performance of Outer Continental Shelf mineral and renewable energy activities.

(e) OFFSHORE DRILLING SAFETY ASSESSMENT AND RECOMMENDATIONS.—As part of its duties under this section, the Board shall, not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act and every 5 years thereafter, submit to the Secretary a report that—

(1) assesses offshore oil and gas well control technologies, practices, voluntary standards, and regulations in the United States and elsewhere; and

(2) as appropriate, recommends modifications to the Outer Continental Shelf mineral and renewable energy activities.

(f) REPORTS.—Reports of the Board shall be submitted by the Board to the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate and made available to the public in electronically accessible form.

(g) TRAVEL EXPENSES.—Members of the Board, other than full-time employees of the Federal Government, while attending meetings of the Board or while serving at the request of the Secretary or the Director while serving away from their homes or regular places of business, may be allowed travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, as authorized by section 5703 of title 5, United States Code, for individuals in the Government serving without pay.

SEC. 10409. OUTER CONTINENTAL SHELF INSPECTION FEES.

Section 22 of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (30 U.S.C. 1901 et seq.) is amended by inserting at the end of the section the following:

“(g) INSPECTION FEES.—

(1) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary of the Interior shall collect from the operators of facilities subject to inspection under subsection (c) non-refundable fees for such inspections—

(A) at an aggregate level equal to the amount necessary to offset the annual expenses of inspections of outer Continental Shelf facilities (including mobile offshore drilling units) by the Department of the Interior; and

(B) using a schedule that reflects the differences in complexity among the classes of facilities to be inspected.

(2) OCEAN ENERGY SAFETY FUND.—There is established in the Treasury a fund, to be known as the ‘‘Ocean Energy Enforcement Fund’’ (referred to in this subsection as the ‘‘Fund’’), into which shall be deposited all amounts collected as fees under paragraph (1), which shall be available as provided under paragraph (3).

(3) AVAILABILITY OF FEES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section 332 of title 31, United States Code, all amounts deposited in the Fund—

(i) shall be credited as offsetting collections;

(ii) shall be available for expenditure for purposes of carrying out inspections of outer Continental Shelf facilities (including mobile offshore drilling units) and the administration of the inspection program under this section;

(iii) shall be available only to the extent provided for in advance in an appropriations Act; and

(iv) shall remain available until expended.

(B) USE FOR FIELD OFFICES.—Not less than 75 percent of amounts in the Fund may be appropriated for use only for the respective Department of the Interior field offices where the amounts were originally assessed as fees.

(4) INITIAL FEES.—Fees shall be established under this subsection for the fiscal years in which this subsection takes effect and the subsequent 10 years, and shall not be reduced, raised, or increased unless, as determined by the Secretary, such fees shall be appropriate as an adjustment equal to the percentage by which the Consumer Price Index for the month of June of the calendar year preceding the adjustment exceeds the Consumer Price Index for the month of June of the calendar year in which the claim was determined or last adjusted.

Amounts collected under this subsection shall be deposited under this subsection for facilities that are above the waterline, excluding drilling rigs, and are in place at the start of the fiscal year. Fees for fiscal year 2013 shall be—

(A) $10,500 for facilities with no wells, but with processing equipment or gathering lines;

(B) $17,000 for facilities with 1 to 10 wells, with any combination of active or inactive wells; and

(C) $31,500 for facilities with more than 10 wells, with any combination of active or inactive wells.

(5) FEES FOR DRILLING RIGS.—Fees for drilling rigs shall be assessed under this subsection for all inspections completed in fiscal years 2015 through 2024. Fees for fiscal years 2015 shall be—

(A) $30,500 per inspection for rigs operating in water depths of 1,000 feet or more; and

(B) $18,700 per inspection for rigs operating in water depths of less than 1,000 feet.

(7) BILLING.—The Secretary shall bill designated operators under paragraph (5) within 60 days after the date of the inspection, with payment required within 30 days of billing. The Secretary shall bill designated operators under paragraph (5) within 60 days after the date of the inspection, with payment required within 30 days of billing.

(8) SUNSET.—No fee may be collected under this subsection for any fiscal year after fiscal year 2024.

(9) ANNUAL REPORTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 60 days after the end of each fiscal year beginning with fiscal year 2015, the Secretary shall submit to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate and the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives a report on the operation of the Fund during the fiscal year.
SEC. 10410. PROHIBITION ON ACTION BASED ON NATIONAL OCEAN POLICY DEVELOPED UNDER EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 13547.

(a) Prohibition.—The Bureau of Ocean Energy and the Ocean Energy Safety Service may not develop, propose, finalize, administer, or implement any limit or prohibition on offshore economic activity and overall production, conducted by the Secretary.

(b) Report on Expenditures.—Not later than 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the President shall submit a report to the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives and to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate identifying all Federal expenditures in fiscal years 2011, 2012, 2013, and 2014 by the Bureau of Ocean Energy and the Ocean Energy Safety Service and their predecessors agencies, by agency, account, and any pertinent subaccounts, for the development, administration, or implementation of the coastal and marine spatial planning component of the National Ocean Policy developed under Executive Order No. 13547, including staff time, travel, and other related expenses.

Subtitle E—United States Territories

SEC. 10501. APPLICATION OF OUTER CONTINENTAL SHELF LANDS ACT WITH RESPECT TO TERRITORIES OF THE UNITED STATES.

Section 2 of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1331) is amended—

(1) in paragraph (a), by inserting after—

"(a) IN GENERAL.—Any cause of action that arises from a covered energy decision must"

"control" the following: "or lying within the Continental Shelf adjacent to any territory of the United States";

(2) in paragraph (p), by striking "and"

"(4) The Secretary, acting through the Director of the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management, shall facilitate and support the practical study of geology and geophysics to better understand the oil, gas, and other hydrocarbon potential in the South Atlantic Outer Continental Shelf Planning Area by entering into partnerships to conduct geological and geophysical activities on the outer Continental Shelf."

(2)(A) No later than 180 days after the date of enactment of the Lowering Gasoline Prices to Fuel an America That Works Act of 2014, the Governors of the States of Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia may each nominate for participation in the partnerships—

(i) one institution of higher education located within the territory of the Virginia Air National Guard, or other institution of higher education located within the territory of Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia that demonstrates excellence in geological and geophysical activities under this section after filing a notice with the Secretary 30 days prior to commencement of the activity with any further authorizations relating to seismic research (including data processing).

(4) Withholding subsection (d), nominees selected as partners by the Secretary may conduct geological and geophysical activities under this section after filing a notice with the Secretary 30 days prior to commencement of the activity with any further authorizations relating to seismic research (including data processing).
law requirement, and is the least intrusive means necessary to correct the violation concerned.

SEC. 10705. LEGAL FEES.

Any person filing a petition seeking judicial review of any action, or failure to act, under this subtitle who is not a prevailing party shall pay to the prevailing parties (including intervening parties), other than the United States, any other expenses incurred by that party in connection with the judicial review, unless the Court finds that the position of the person was substantially justified, or that special circumstances make an award unjust.

SEC. 10706. EXCLUSION.

This subtitle shall not apply with respect to disputes between the parties to a lease issued pursuant to an authorizing leasing statute regarding the obligations of such lease or the alleged breach thereof.

SEC. 10707. DEFINITIONS.

In this subtitle, the following definitions apply:

(1) COVERED ENERGY DECISION.—The term "covered energy decision" means any action or decision by a Federal official regarding the issuance of a covered energy lease.

(2) COVERED ENERGY LEASE.—The term "covered energy lease" means any lease under this title or under an oil and gas leasing statute that, in turn, helps to reinvigorate America’s energy future, creates good jobs and careers, as well as the establishment of personnel and material onshore to support expanded access to American resources.

TITILE II—ONSHORE FEDERAL LANDS AND ENERGY SECURITY

Subtitle A—Federal Lands Jobs and Energy Security

SEC. 21001. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the "Federal Lands Jobs and Energy Security Act".

SEC. 21002. POLICIES REGARDING BUYING, BUILDING, AND WORKING FOR AMERICA.

(a) CONGRESSIONAL INTENT.—It is the intent of the Congress that:

(1) this subtitle will support a healthy and growing United States domestic energy sector that, in turn, helps to reinvigorate American manufacturing, transportation, and service sectors by employing the vast talents of United States workers to assist the development of energy from domestic sources;

(2) to ensure a robust onshore energy production industry and ensure that the benefits of energy production support local communities, under this subtitle, the Secretary shall make every effort to promote the development of onshore American energy, and shall take into consideration the socio-economic impacts, infrastructure requirements, and fiscal stability for local communities located within areas containing onshore energy resources; and

(3) the Congress will monitor the deployment of personnel and material onshore to encourage the development of American manufacturing to enable United States workers to benefit from this subtitle through good jobs and careers, as well as the establishment of important industrial facilities to support expanded access to American resources.

(b) REQUIREMENT.—The Secretary of the Interior shall, when possible, and practicable, encourage the use of United States workers and equipment manufactured in the United States in all construction related to mineral resource development under this subtitle.

CHAPTER 1—ONSHORE OIL AND GAS PERMIT STREAMLINING

SEC. 21101. SHORT TITLE.

This chapter may be cited as the "Streamlining Permitting of American Energy Act of 2014".

Subchapter A—Application for Permits to Drill Process Reform

SEC. 21111. PERMIT TO DRILL APPLICATION TIMELINE.

Section 17(p) of the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 226(p)(2)) is amended to read as follows:

"(2) APPLICATIONS FOR PERMITS TO DRILL REFORM AND PROCESS.—

(A) TIMELINE.—The Secretary shall decide whether to issue a permit to drill within 30 days after receiving an application for the permit. The Secretary shall do so for up to 2 periods of 15 days each, if the Secretary has given written notice of the delay to the applicant. The notice shall be in the form of a letter from the Secretary or a designee of the Secretary, and shall include the names and titles of the persons processing the application, the specific reasons for the delay, and a specific date a final decision on the application is expected.

(B) NOTICE OF REASONS FOR DENIAL.—If the application is denied, the Secretary shall provide the applicant—

(1) in writing, clear and comprehensive reasons why the application was not accepted and detailed information concerning any deficiencies; and

(2) an opportunity to remedy any deficiencies.

(C) APPLICATION DEEMED APPROVED.—If the Secretary decides not to issue a permit to drill on the application by the end of the 60-day period beginning on the date the application is received by the Secretary, the application is deemed approved, except in cases in which existing reviews under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) or Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) are incomplete.

(D) DENIAL OF PERMIT.—If the Secretary decides not to issue a permit to drill in accordance with subparagraph (A), the Secretary shall—

(1) provide to the applicant a description of the reasons for the denial of the permit;

(2) allow the applicant to resubmit an application for a permit to drill during the 60-day period beginning on the date the applicant receives the denial from the Secretary; and

(3) any resubmitted application not later than 10 days after the date the application is submitted to the Secretary.

(E) FEE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other law, the Secretary shall collect a single $6,500 permit processing fee per application for a permit to drill at the time the application is submitted to the Secretary.

(2) TREATMENT OF PERMIT FEE.—Of all fees collected under this paragraph, 50 percent shall be transferred to the field office where they are collected and used to process royalty leases, and permits under this Act subject to appropriation."

Subchapter B—Administrative Protest Documentation Reform

SEC. 21121. ADMINISTRATIVE PROTEST DOCUMENTATION REFORM.

Section 17(p) of the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 226(p)) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(4) PROTEST FEE.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall collect a $5,000 documentation fee to accompany each protest for a lease, right of way, or application for permit to drill.

(B) TREATMENT OF FEE.—Of all fees collected under this paragraph, 50 percent shall remain in the General Fund to be collected and used to process protests subject to appropriation.

Subchapter C—Permit Streamlining

SEC. 21131. MAKING PILOT OFFICES PERMANENT TO IMPROVE ENERGY PERMITTING ON FEDERAL LANDS.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary of the Interior (referred to in this section as the "Secretary") shall establish a Federal Permit Streamlining Project (referred to in this section as the "Permit Project") at the Bureau of Land Management field office with responsibility for permitting energy projects on Federal land.

(b) MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall enter into a memorandum of understanding for purposes of this section with—

(A) the Secretary of Agriculture;

(B) the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency; and

(C) the Chief of the Army Corps of Engineers.

(2) STATE PARTICIPATION.—The Secretary may request that the Governor of any State with energy projects on Federal lands to be a signatory to the memorandum of understanding.

(c) DESIGNATION OF QUALIFIED STAFF.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 30 days after the date of the signing of the memorandum of understanding under subsection (b), the Secretary shall designate a signatory as the "Office of Permit Streamlining Project Manager" to—

(A) the consultations and the preparation of biological opinions under section 7 of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1536);

(B) permits under section 404 of the Clean Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1344); and

(C) regulatory matters under the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7401 et seq.).

(2) DUTIES.—Each employee assigned under paragraph (1) shall—

(A) not later than 90 days after the date of assignment, report to the Bureau of Land Management Field Managers in the office to which the employee is assigned;

(B) be responsible for all issues relating to the permit projects that involve the authorities of the employee’s home agency; and

(C) participate as part of the team of personnel working on proposed energy projects, planning, and environmental analyses on Federal lands.

(d) ADDITIONAL PERSONNEL.—The Secretary shall assign to each Bureau of Land Management field office identified in subsection (b) any additional personnel that are necessary to ensure the effective approval and implementation of energy projects administered by the Bureau of Land Management field offices, including inspection and enforcement relating to energy development on Federal land, in accordance with the multiple use mandate of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 (43 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.).

(e) FUNDING.—Funding for the additional personnel shall come from the Department of the Interior reforms identified in sections 21111 and 21211.

(f) SAVINGS PROVISION.—Nothing in this section affects—

(1) the operation of any Federal or State law; or shall meet the same standing requirements as challengers before a United States district court.

Subchapter E—Knowing America’s Oil and Gas Resources

SEC. 21151. FUNDING FOR OIL AND GAS RESOURCE ASSESSMENTS.

(a) In General.—The Secretary of the Interior shall provide matching funding for joint projects to conduct oil and gas resource assessments on Federal lands with significant oil and gas potential.

(b) Cost Sharing.—The Federal share of the cost of any action under this section shall not exceed 50 percent.

(c) Resource Assessment.—Any resource assessment under this section shall be conducted by a contractor with the United States Geological Survey.

(d) Authorization of Appropriations.—There is authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary to carry out this title a total of $50,000,000 for fiscal years 2015 through 2018.

CHAPTER 2—OIL AND GAS LEASING CERTAINTY

SEC. 21201. SHORT TITLE.

This chapter may be cited as the “Providing Certainty for American Energy Act of 2014”.

SEC. 21202. MINIMUM ACREAGE REQUIREMENT FOR ONSHORE LEASE SALES.

In conducting sales as required by section 17(a) of the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 226(a)), each year the Secretary of the Interior shall perform the following:

(1) The Secretary shall offer for sale no less than 25 percent of the annual nominated acreage not previously made available for lease. Acreage offered for lease pursuant to this paragraph shall not be subject to protest and shall be eligible for categorical exclusions under section 390 of the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (42 U.S.C. 15942), except that it shall not be subject to the test of extraordinary circumstances.

(2) In administering this section, the Secretary shall only consider leasing of Federal lands that are available for leasing at the time the lease sale occurs.

SEC. 21203. LEASING CERTAINTY.

Section 17(a) of the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 226(a)) is amended by inserting “(1)” before “before all sales” and, by adding at the end of the following:

(2)(A) The Secretary shall not withdraw any covered energy project affected by this Act by indefinitely delaying issuance of project approvals, drilling and seismic permits, and rights of way for activities under such a lease.

(C) No later than 18 months after an area designated as open for leasing by Oil Shale and Tar Sands Resources to Address Land Use Allocations, any covered energy project issued under this Act by the Secretary shall commence development.

(2)(B) The Secretary shall not infringe upon lease rights under this Act by indefinitely delaying issuance of project approvals, drilling and seismic permits, and rights of way for activities under such a lease.

(2)(C) The Secretary shall not cancel or withdraw any lease parcel after a competitive lease sale has occurred and a winning bidder has satisfied the last payment for the parcel.

(2)(D) Notwithstanding any other law, the Secretary shall issue all leases sold no later than 30 months from the date that the lease sale is made.

(2)(E) The Secretary shall not cancel or withdraw any lease parcel after a competitive lease sale has occurred and a winning bidder has satisfied the last payment for the parcel.

(2)(F) After the conclusion of the public comment period for a planned competitive lease sale, the Secretary shall not cancel, defer, or withdraw any lease parcel announced to be auctioned in the lease sale.

(2)(G) No later than 60 days after a lease sale under this Act, the Secretary shall adjudicate any lease protests filed following a lease sale. If after 60 days any protest is left unsettled, said protest is automatically denied and appeal rights of the protestor begin.

(2)(H) No additional lease stipulations may be made after the date of the final consultation and agreement of the lessee, unless the Secretary deems such stipulations as emergency actions to conserve the resources.
oil shale resources, under the terms offered in the solicitation of bids for such leases published on January 15, 2009 (74 Fed. Reg. 10).

(b) COMMERCIAL LEASE SALES.—No later than January 1, 2016, the Secretary of the Interior shall hold no less than 5 separate commercial lease sales in areas considered to have the most potential for oil and gas development, as determined by the Secretary, in areas nominated through public comment. Each lease sale shall be for an area of not less than 25,000 acres, and in multiple lease blocks.

CHAPTER 4—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 24101. RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.

Nothing in this subtitle shall be construed to authorize the issuance of a lease under the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 181 et seq.) to any person designated for the imposition of sanctions pursuant to—

(2) Executive Order No. 13622 (July 30, 2012), Executive Order No. 13628 (September 12, 2012), or Executive Order No. 13645 (June 3, 2013);

(3) Executive Order No. 13224 (September 23, 2001) or Executive Order No. 13338 (May 11, 2004);

Subtitle B—Planning for American Energy

SEC. 22001. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “Planning for American Energy Act of 2014”.

SEC. 22002. ONSHORE DOMESTIC ENERGY PRODUCTION STRATEGIC PLAN.

(a) In General.—The Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 181 et seq.) is amended by redesignating section 44 as section 45, and by inserting after section 3 the following:

``SEC. 44. QUADRENIAL STRATEGIC FEDERAL ONSHORE ENERGY PRODUCTION STRATEGY.

 ``(a) IN GENERAL.—(1) The Secretary of the Interior (hereafter in this section referred to as ‘Secretary’), in consultation with the Secretary of Agriculture with regard to lands administered by the Forest Service, shall develop and publish every 4 years a Quadrennial Federal Onshore Energy Production Strategy. This Strategy shall direct Federal land energy development and department resource allocation in order to promote the energy and national security of the United States in accordance with Bureau of Land Management’s Comprehensive Land Management Plan, and the use of Federal lands as set forth in the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 (43 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.).

 ``(b) In developing this Strategy, the Secretary shall consult with the Administrator of the Energy Information Administration regarding the methodology used to arrive at its estimates for purposes of this section.

 ``(c) The Secretary has the authority to expand the energy development plan to include other energy production technology sources or advancements in energy on Federal lands.

 ``(d) The Secretary shall include in the Strategy a plan for addressing new demands for transmission lines and pipelines for distribution of oil and gas across Federal lands to ensure that energy produced can be distributed to areas of need.

 ``(e) TRIBAL OBJECTIVES.—It is the sense of Congress that a federally recognized Indian tribe may elect to set their own production objectives as part of the Strategy under this section. The Secretary shall work in cooperation with recognized Indian tribes to set production objectives as part of the Strategy under this section.

 ``(f) EXCERPTARY.—The relevant Secretary shall have all necessary authority to make determinations regarding the allocation of Federal lands for oil and natural gas resources to the United States; and

 SEC. 23001. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “National Petroleum Reserve Alaska Access Act”.

SEC. 23002. SENSE OF CONGRESS AND REAFFIRMING NATIONAL POLICY FOR THE NATIONAL PETROLEUM RESERVE IN ALASKA.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the National Petroleum Reserve in Alaska remains explicitly designated, both as to location and as a special segment of public lands, for providing oil and natural gas resources to the United States; and
(2) accordingly, the national policy is to actively advance oil and gas development within the Reserve by facilitating the expeditious exploration, production, and transportation to the Continental natural gas from and through the Reserve.

SEC. 23003. NATIONAL PETROLEUM RESERVE IN ALASKA: LEASE SALES.

Section 17(b)(1) of the National Petroleum Reserve-Alaska Act (30 U.S.C. 3506(a)(1)) is amended to read as follows:

"(1) issue—

SEC. 23004. NATIONAL PETROLEUM RESERVE IN ALASKA: PLANNING AND PERMITTING. (a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of the Interior, in consultation with other appropriate Federal agencies, shall facilitate and ensure permits, in a timely and environmentally responsible manner, for all surface development activities, including for the construction of pipelines and roads, necessary to—

(1) develop and bring into production any areas within the National Petroleum Reserve in Alaska that are subject to oil and gas leases; and

(2) transport oil and gas from and through the National Petroleum Reserve in Alaska in the most direct manner possible to existing transportation or processing infrastructure on the North Slope of Alaska.

(b) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall ensure that any Federal permitting agency shall issue permits in accordance with the following timeline:

(1) Permits for such construction for transportation of oil and natural gas produced under existing Federal oil and gas leases with respect to which the Secretary has issued a permit to drill shall be approved within 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) Permits for such construction for transportation of oil and natural gas produced under Federal oil and gas leases shall be approved within 6 months after the submission to the Secretary of a request for a permit to drill.

(c) PLAN.—To ensure timely future development of the Reserve, within 270 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall submit to Congress a plan for approved rights-of-way for a plan for pipeline, road, and any other surface infrastructure that may be necessary for exploration, production, and transportation that will ensure that all lessee tracts in the Reserve are within 25 miles of an approved road and pipeline right-of-way that can serve future development of the Reserve.

SEC. 23005. ISSUANCE OF A NEW INTEGRATED ACTIVITY PLAN AND ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT STATEMENT.

(a) ISSUANCE OF NEW INTEGRATED ACTIVITY PLAN.—The Secretary of the Interior shall, within 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, issue—

(1) a new proposed integrated activity plan from among the non-adopted alternatives in the National Petroleum Reserve-Alaska Integrated Activity Plan and Record of Decision issued by the Secretary of the Interior and dated February 21, 2013; and

(2) an environmental impact statement under section 102(2)(C) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4332(2)(C)) for issuance of oil and gas leases in the National Petroleum Reserve-Alaska to promote efficient and maximum development of oil and natural gas resources of such reserve.

(b) NULLIFICATION OF EXISTING RECORD OF DECISION, IAP, AND EIS.—Except as provided in subsection (a), the National Petroleum Reserve-Alaska Integrated Activity Plan Record of Decision issued by the Secretary of the Interior and dated February 21, 2013, including the integrated activity plan and environmental impact statement referred to in that record of decision, shall have no force or effect.

SEC. 23006. DEPARTMENTAL ACCOUNTABILITY FOR DEVELOPMENT.

The Secretary of the Interior shall issue regulations not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act that establish clear requirements to ensure that the Department is supporting development of oil and gas leases in the National Petroleum Reserve-Alaska.

SEC. 23007. DEADLINES UNDER NEW PROPOSED INTEGRATED ACTIVITY PLAN.

At a minimum, the new proposed integrated activity plan issued under section 23005(a)(1) shall—

(1) require the Department of the Interior to respond within 5 business days to a person who submits an application for a permit for development of oil and natural gas leases in the National Petroleum Reserve-Alaska, acknowledging receipt of such application; and

(2) establish a timeline for the processing of each such application, that—

(A) specifies the time frames and actions on permit applications; and

(B) provide that the period for issuing each permit after submission of such an application shall not exceed 60 days without the concurrence of the applicant.

SEC. 23008. UPDATED RESOURCE ASSESSMENT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Interior shall complete a comprehensive assessment of the geothermal resources of the Reserve, in cooperation and consultation with the appropriate Federal agencies, shall facilitate and ensure permits, in a timely and environmentally responsible manner, for a plan for pipeline, road, and any other surface infrastructure that will ensure permits, in a timely and environmentally responsible manner, for a plan for pipeline, road, and any other surface infrastructure that may be necessary for exploration, production, and transportation of oil and natural gas produced from leases included in the integrated activity plan and environmental impact statement issued under this section, cooperatively use fossil fuel resources within the National Petroleum Reserve in Alaska, including all conventional and unconventional oil and natural gas.

(b) COOPERATION AND CONSULTATION.—The Secretary shall cooperate and consult with the appropriate Federal agencies, the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, and the United States Geological Survey in cooperation and consultation with the appropriate Federal agencies, the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, and the United States Geological Survey to develop a comprehensive assessment of all technically recoverable fossil fuel resources within the National Petroleum Reserve in Alaska, including all conventional and unconventional oil and natural gas.

(c) TIMING.—The Secretary shall ensure that any Federal permitting agency shall issue permits in accordance with the following timeline:

(1) Permits for such construction for transportation of oil and natural gas produced under existing Federal oil and gas leases with respect to which the Secretary has issued a permit to drill shall be approved within 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) Permits for such construction for transportation of oil and natural gas produced under Federal oil and gas leases shall be approved within 6 months after the submission to the Secretary of a request for a permit to drill.

(d) FUNDING.—The United States Geological Survey may, in carrying out the duties under this subsection, cooperatively use resources and funds provided by the State of Alaska to conduct research and development to obtain the highest return to the Federal government and the State of Alaska of the oil and natural gas generated in the National Petroleum Reserve-Alaska.

Subtitle D—BLM Live Internet Auctions

SEC. 24001. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “BLM Live Internet Auctions Act”.

SEC. 24002. INTERNET-BASED ONSHORE OIL AND GAS LEASE SALES.

(a) AUTHORIZATION.—Section 17(b)(1) of the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 226(b)(1)) is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (A), in the third sentence, by inserting “, except as provided in subparagraph (C)” after “by oral bidding”; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

“(C) in order to diversify and expand the Nation’s onshore leasing program to ensure the best return to the Federal taxpayer, re- place the current process, and secure the lease in a manner that the Secretary may conduct onshore lease sales through Internet-based bidding meth- ods. Each individual Internet-based lease sale shall conclude within 7 days.”.

(b) REPORT.—Not later than 90 days after the tenth Internet-based lease sale conducted under the authority made by subsection (a), the Secretary of the Interior shall analyze the first 10 such lease sales and report to Congress the results of the analysis. The report shall include—

(1) estimates on increases or decreases in such lease sales, compared to sales conducted by oral bidding;

(A) the number of bidders;

(B) the average amount of bid;

(C) the highest amount bid; and

(D) the lowest bid; and

(2) an estimate on the total cost or savings to the Department of the Interior as a result of such sales, compared to sales conducted by oral bidding; and

(3) an evaluation of the demonstrated or expected effectiveness of different structures for lease sales which may provide an opportunity to better maximize bidder participa- tion, ensure the highest return to the Fed- eral taxpayers, maximize opportunities for fraud or collusion, and ensure the security and integrity of the leasing program.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of the end of the items relating to title XXVI the following:

“Sec. 2607. Appraisal reform.”

SEC. 25000. STANDARDIZATION.

As soon as practicable after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall implement procedures to ensure that each agency within the Department of the Interior that is involved in the review, approval, and oversight of oil and gas activities on Indian lands shall use a uniform system of reference numbers and tracking systems across all Indian lands and activities.

SEC. 25004. ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS OF MAJOR FEDERAL ACTIONS ON IN-DIAN LAND.

Section 102 of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4332) is amended by inserting “(a) IN GENERAL.—” before the first sentence, and by adding at the end the following:

“(b) REVIEW OF MAJOR FEDERAL ACTIONS ON INDIAN LANDS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—For any major Federal action on Indian lands of an Indian tribe re-ing the preparation of a statement under subsection (a)(2)(C), the statement shall only be available for review and comment by the members of the Indian tribe and by any other individual residing within the affected area.

(2) REGULATIONS.—The Chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality shall develop regulations to implement this section, including descriptions of affected areas for specific major Federal actions, in consultation with Indian tribes.

“(3) DEFINITIONS.—In this subsection, each of the terms ‘Indian land’ and ‘Indian tribe’ has the

“(4) CLARIFICATION OF AUTHORITY.—Nothing in the Native American Energy Act, except section 25006 of that Act, shall give the Secretary any additional authority over energy projects on Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act lands.

SEC. 25005. JUDICIAL REVIEW.

(a) TIME FOR FILING COMPLAINT.—Any energy related action must be filed not later than the end of the 60-day period beginning on the date of the final agency action. Any energy related action not filed within this time period shall be barred.

(b) INTERLOCUTORY VENUE AND DEADLINE.—

An energy related action—

(1) shall be brought in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia; and

(2) shall be resolved as expeditiously as possible, and in any event not more than 180 days after such cause of action is filed.

(c) INTERLOCUTORY REVIEW.—An interlocutory order or final judgment, decree or order of the district court in an energy related action may be reviewed by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit.
The D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals shall resolve such appeal as expeditiously as possible, and in any event not more than 180 days after such interlocutory order or final judgment, decree or order of the district court was issued.

(d) LIMITATION ON CERTAIN PAYMENTS.—

Notwithstanding section 1304 of title 31, United States Code, no award may be made under section 504 of title 5, United States Code, or under section 2142 of title 28, United States Code, on any judgment entered pursuant to a tribal resource management plan or an agreement or expended from the Claims and Judgment Fund of the United States Treasury to pay any fees or other expenses under such sections, to any person or party in an energy related action.

(e) LEGAL FEES.—In any energy related action, if the court finds that neither of the parties substantially prevailed, the court shall award the prevailing party reasonable fee for fees and other expenses incurred by that party in the action. If the court finds that one of the parties substantially prevailed, the court shall award the prevailing party a percentage of fees and other expenses incu-red by both parties to the amount of fees and other expenses incurred by the party that substantially prevailed.

(1) DEFINITIONS.—For the purposes of this section, the following definitions apply:

(1) AGENCY ACTION.—The term ‘agency action’ has the same meaning given such term in section 551 of title 5, United States Code.

(2) INDIAN LAND.—The term ‘Indian Land’ has the same meaning given such term in section 2003 of the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (Public Law 109–58; 25 U.S.C. 3501), including land that is subject to an allocation under the under the Native American Claims Settlement Act (Public Law 92–203; 43 U.S.C. 1601).

(3) ENERGY RELATED ACTION.—The term ‘energy related action’ means a cause of action that—

(A) is filed on or after the effective date of this Act; and

(B) seeks judicial review of a final agency action to issue a permit, license, or other form of agency permission allowing:

(i) any person or entity to conduct activities on Indian land, which activities involve the exploration, development, production or transportation of oil, gas, coal, shale gas, oil shale, geothermal resources, wind or solar resources, geothermal energy facilities, coal gasification, biomass, or the generation of electricity; or

(ii) any Indian Tribe, or any organization of two or more entities, at least one of which is an Indian tribe, to conduct activities involving the exploration, development, production or transportation of oil, gas, coal, shale gas, oil shale, geothermal resources, wind or solar resources, geothermal energy facilities, coal gasification, biomass, or the generation of electricity, regardless of where such activities are undertaken.

(4) ULTIMATELY PREVAIL.—The phrase ‘ultimately prevail’ means, in a final enforceable judgment, the court rules in the party’s favor on at least one cause of action which is an umbrella or the preliminary injunctive injunction, administrative stay, or other relief requested by the party, and does not include circumstances where the final agency action is modified or amended by the issuing agency unless such modification or amendment is required pursuant to a final enforceable judgment of the court or a court-ordered consent decree.

SEC. 25006. TRIBAL BIOMASS DEMONSTRATION
PROJECT.

The Tribal Forest Protection Act of 2004 is amended by inserting after section 2 (25 U.S.C. 3115a) the following:

“SEC. 3. TRIBAL BIOMASS DEMONSTRATION
PROJECT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—For each of fiscal years
2014 through 2018, the Secretary shall enter into demonstration contracts with Indian tribes to carry out demonstration projects to promote biomass energy production (including biofuel, heat, and electricity generation) on Indian land and in nearby communities by providing reliable supplies of woody biomass from Federal land.

(b) DEFINITIONS.—The definitions in section 2 shall apply to this section.

(c) DEMONSTRATION PROJECTS.—In each fiscal year for which projects are authorized, the Secretary shall enter into up to 10 contracts or other agreements described in subsection (a) to carry out at least 4 new demonstration projects that meet the eligibility criteria described in subsection (d).

(d) ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA.—To be eligible to enter into a contract or other agreement under this subsection, the Secretary shall submit to the Attorney General an application

(1) containing such information as the Secretary may require;

(2) that includes a determination of—

(A) the Indian forest land or rangeland under the jurisdiction of the Indian tribe;

(B) the demonstration project proposed to be carried out by the Indian tribe.

(e) SELECTION.—In evaluating the applications submitted under subsection (c), the Secretary—

(1) shall take into consideration the factors set forth in paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 2(e) of Public Law 108–278; and whether a proposed demonstration project would—

(A) increase the availability or reliability of local or regional energy;

(B) enhance the economic development of the Indian tribe;

(C) improve the connection of electric power transmission facilities serving the Indian tribe with other electric transmission facilities;

(D) improve the forest health or watersheds of Federal land or Indian forest land or rangeland; or

(E) otherwise promote the use of woody biomass; and

(2) shall exclude from consideration any merchantable logs that have been identified by the Secretary for use in carrying out this Act;

(f) IMPLEMENTATION.—The Secretary shall

(1) ensure that the criteria described in subsection (c) are publicly available by not later than 120 days after the date of enactmation of this section; and

(2) to the maximum extent practicable, consult with Indian tribes and appropriate tribal organizations before deciding which projects should be approved.

(g) REPORT.—Not later than September 20,
2015, the Secretary shall submit to Congress a report that describes, with respect to the reporting period—

(1) each individual tribal application received under this section; and

(2) each contract and agreement entered into pursuant to this section.

(h) INCORPORATION OF MANAGEMENT
PLANS.—In carrying out a contract or agreement under this section, on receipt of a request from an Indian tribe, the Secretary shall incorporate into the contract or agreement, to the extent practicable, management plans (including forest management and rangeland management plans) in effect on the Indian forest land or range-land of the respective Indian tribe.

(i) TERM.—A stewardship contract or other agreement entered into under this sec-section—

(1) shall be for a term of not more than 20 years; and

(2) may be renewed in accordance with this section for not more than an additional 10 years.”

SEC. 25007. TRIBAL RESOURCE MANAGEMENT
PLANS.

Unless otherwise explicitly exempted by Federal law enacted after the date of the enactment of this Act, all activities conducted or resources harvested or produced pursuant to a tribal resource management plan or an integrated resource management plan approved by the Secretary of the Interior under the National Indian Forest Resources Management Act (25 U.S.C. 3101 et seq.) or the American Indian Cultural Resource Management Act (25 U.S.C. 3701 et seq.), shall be considered a sustainable management practice for any Forest Service, standard, benefit, or requirement that requires a demonstration of such sustainability.

SEC. 25008. LEASES OF RESTRICTED LANDS FOR PURSUIT OF SUSTAINABILITY.

Subsection (e)(1) of the first section of the Act of August 9, 1955 (25 U.S.C. 415(e)(1); commonly referred to as the “Long-Term Leasing Act”), is amended—

(1) by striking “except a lease for” and inserting “including leases for”;

(2) in subparagraph (A), by striking “25” the first place it appears and all that follows and inserting “99”;

(3) in subparagraph (B), by striking the period and inserting “; and”;

(4) by adding at the end the following:

“(C) in the case of a lease for the exploration, development, or extraction of mineral resources, including geothermal resources, for periods of at least 25 years or such shorter period that 51 percent of the stock is owned by such individuals or, in the case of a lease that 51 percent or more is owned, managed, and controlled. The business owner has the ability to perform in the area of specialty or expertise without reliance on either the finances or resources of a firm that is not owned by a woman.

SEC. 25009. NON-APPLICABILITY OF CERTAIN RULES.

No rule promulgated by the Department of the Interior regarding hydraulic fracturing used in the extraction of oil or gas resources shall have any effect on any land held in trust or restricted status for the benefit of Indians except with the express consent of the beneficiary on whose behalf such land is held in trust or restricted status.

TITLE II—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 20101. ESTABLISHMENT OF OFFICE OF ENERGY EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary of the Interior shall establish an Office of Energy Employment and Training, which shall oversee the hiring and training efforts of the Department of the Interior’s energy planning, permitting, and regulatory agencies.

(b) DIRECTOR.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Office shall be under the direction of a Deputy Assistant Secretary for Energy Employment and Training, who shall report directly to the Assistant Secretary for Energy, Lands and Minerals Management, and shall be fully employed to carry out the functions of the Office.

(2) DUTIES.—The Deputy Assistant Secretary for Energy Employment and Training shall perform the following functions:

(A) Developing and recommending to the Secretary programs and policies aimed at expanding the Department’s hiring of women, minorities, and veterans into the Department’s permitting and inspection agencies.

(B) Designing and recommending to the Secretary programs and policies aimed at expanding the Department’s hiring of women, minorities, and veterans into the Department’s permitting and inspection agencies. Such programs and policies shall include—

(i) recruiting at historically black colleges and universities and minority-serving institutions, women’s colleges, and colleges that typically serve minority populations;

(ii) sponsoring and recruiting at job fairs in urban communities;

(iii) placing employment advertisements in newspapers and magazines oriented toward minority and women-owned businesses;

(iv) partnering with organizations that are focused on developing opportunities for minorities, veterans, and women to be placed in Department employment, and full-time positions relating to energy;

(v) where feasible, partnering with inner-city high schools, girls’ high schools, and high schools with majority minority populations to demonstrate career opportunities and the path to those opportunities available at the Department;

(vi) coordinating with the Department of Veterans Affairs and the Department of Defense in the hiring of veterans;

(vii) any other mass media communications that the Deputy Assistant Secretary determines necessary to advertise, promote, and educate about opportunities at the Department.

(C) Develop standards for—

(i) equal employment opportunity and the racial, ethnic, and gender diversity of the workforce and senior management of the Department;

(ii) increased participation of minority-owned, veteran-owned, and women-owned businesses in the programs and contracts with the Department.

(D) Review and propose for adoption the best practices of entities regulated by the Department with regards to hiring and diversity policies, and publish those best practices for public review.

(c) REPORT.—The Secretary shall submit to Congress an annual report regarding the actions taken by the Department of the Interior agency and the Office pursuant to this section, which shall include—

(1) a statement of the total amounts paid by the Department to minority contractors;

(2) the successes achieved and challenges faced by the Department in operating minority, veteran or service-disabled veteran, and women outreach programs;

(3) the challenges the Department may face in increasing the number of women employees and contracting with veteran or service-disabled veteran, minority-owned, and women-owned businesses; and

(4) any other information, conclusions, and recommendations for legislative or Department action, as the Director determines appropriate.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section, the following definitions shall apply:

(1) MINORITY.—The term “minority” means United States citizens who are Asian American, Pacific Islander American, Black American, Asian Pacific American, Hispanic American, or Native American.

(2) MINORITY-OWNED BUSINESS.—The term “minority-owned business” means a business that is owned, managed, and controlled by those minority group members who shall report directly to the Assistant Secretary for Energy, Lands and Minerals Management, and shall be fully employed to carry out the functions of the Office.

(3) the challenges the Department may face in increasing the number of women employees and contracting with veteran or service-disabled veteran, minority-owned, and women-owned businesses; and

(4) any other information, conclusions, and recommendations for legislative or Department action, as the Director determines appropriate.

(E) Review.—The Secretary shall submit to Congress an annual report regarding the actions taken by the Department of the Interior agency and the Office pursuant to this section, which shall include—

(1) a statement of the total amounts paid by the Department to minority contractors;

(2) the successes achieved and challenges faced by the Department in operating minority, veteran or service-disabled veteran, and women outreach programs;

(3) the challenges the Department may face in increasing the number of women employees and contracting with veteran or service-disabled veteran, minority-owned, and women-owned businesses; and

(4) any other information, conclusions, and recommendations for legislative or Department action, as the Director determines appropriate.

(F) the woman business owner has the ability to perform in the area of specialty or expertise without reliance on either the finances or resources of a firm that is not owned by a woman.

SEC. 2. AMENDMENT.

This subdivision may be cited as the “Department of Veterans Affairs and the Department of Defense. The Secretary must be served by the North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) code assigned to the procurement; the SDV must unconditionally own 51 percent of the SDVOSBC; the SDV must control the management and daily operations of the SDVOSBC; and the SDV must hold the highest officer position in the SDVOSBC.

(B) VETERAN-OWNED BUSINESS.—The term “veteran-owned business” means a business that can verify through evidence documentation that 51 percent or more is veteran-owned, managed, and controlled. The business must be open for at least 6 months. The business owner must be a United States citizen or legal resident alien and honorably or otherwise-connected disability discharged from service.

SUBDIVISION B—BUREAU OF RECLAMATION

CONDUCT HYdropower DEVELOPMENT EQUITY AND JOBS ACT

SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE.

This subdivision may be cited as the “Bureau of Reclamation Conduit Hydropower Development Equity and Jobs Act.

SEC. 2. AMENDMENT.

Section 9 of the Act entitled “An Act authorizing construction of water conservation and utilization projects in the Great Plains and arid semiarid areas of the United States,” approved August 11, 1938 (16 U.S.C. 390e-7; commonly known as the “Water Conservation and Utilization Act”), is amend—

(1) by striking “in connection with” and inserting “in connection with” and (2) by inserting at the end the following:

“(b) Notwithstanding subsection (a), the Secretary is authorized to enter into leases of power privileges for electric power generation, transmission, or distribution, other than those leases for power production, transmission, or distribution that are constructed under this Act, and shall have authority in addition to and alternative to any authority in existing laws relating to particular projects, including small conduit hydropower development.

(c) When entering into leases of power privilege contracts for a project or division under subsection (b), the Secretary shall use the processes applicable to such leases under section 9(c) of the Reclamation Project Act of 1939 (43 U.S.C. 485h(c)).

(1) Lease of power privilege contracts shall be at such rates as, in the Secretary’s judgment, are sufficient to cover the annual operation and maintenance cost of the project and such fixed charges, including interest, as the Secretary deems necessary. Lease of power privilege contracts shall be for periods not to exceed 40 years.

(e) No findings under section 3 shall be required, and lease under subsection (b), if all right, title, and interest in installed power facilities constructed by non-Federal entities pursuant to a lease of power privilege, and direct revenues derived therefrom, shall remain with the lessee unless otherwise required under subsection (g).

(2) Any agreement for the purposes of the project or division, including turbines and appurtenant facilities, at Bowman Dam, in consultation with the Bureau of Land Management, shall analyze any impacts to the Outstandingly Beautiful Areas of Oregon in conjunction with the City of Prineville, the City of Redmond, the Oregon Association for the Outdoors, the Oregon Governor’s Natural Resources Council, and the Oregon State Historic Preservation Office, and shall take such actions as may be necessary to provide for periods not to exceed 40 years.

(i) Nothing in this section shall alter or affect any agreements in effect on the date of the enactment of the Bureau of Reclamation Conduit Hydropower Development Act of 1982 (43 U.S.C. 390aa et seq.), the Bonneville Power Administration to purchase power for the applicable reserved conduit, or to the irrigation district or water users association receiving water from the applicable reserved conduit. The Secretary shall determine a reasonable timeframe for the irrigation district or water users association to accept or reject a lease of power privilege offer. If the irrigation district or water users association elects not to accept a lease of power privilege offer, if the Secretary shall offer the lease of power privilege to other parties using the processes applicable to such leases under section 9(c) of the Reclamation Project Act of 1939 (43 U.S.C. 485h(c)).

(1) The Bureau of Reclamation shall apply its categorical exclusion process under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) to small conduit hydropower development under this section, excluding siting of associated transmission facilities on Federal lands.

(2) The term ‘small conduit hydropower’ means any facility producing 5 megawatts or less of electric capacity.

SUBDIVISION C—CENTRAL OREGON JOBS AND WATER SECURITY ACT

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the ‘‘Central Oregon Jobs and Water Security Act’’.

SECTION 2. WILD AND SCENIC RIVER; CROOKED, OR.

Section 3(a)(72) of the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act (16 U.S.C. 1274(a)(72)) is amended as follows:

(1) By striking ‘‘15-mile’’ and inserting ‘‘14.75-mile’’.

(2) In subparagraph (B)——

(A) by striking ‘‘8-mile’’ and all that follows through ‘‘Bowman Dam’’ and inserting ‘‘7.75-mile downstream from the toe of Bowman Dam’’; and

(B) by adding at the end the following:

‘‘The developer for any hydropower development, including turbines and appurtenant facilities, at Bowman Dam, in consultation with the Bureau of Land Management, shall analyze any impacts to the Outstandingly Beautiful Areas of the Wild and Scenic River that may be caused by such development, including the future need to undertake routine and emergency repairs, and shall propose mitigation for any impacts as part of any license application submitted to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.’’.

SEC. 3. OTHER THAN THE 17 CUBIC FEET PER SECOND.

Section 4 of the Act of August 6, 1956 (70 Stat. 1058), as amended by the Acts of September 14, 1959 (73 Stat. 554), and September 18, 1964 (78 Stat. 954), is further amended by adding at the end the following:

‘‘SEC. 6. Other than the 17 cubic feet per second release provided for in section 4, and such other releases as may be necessary to comply with the Army Corps of Engineers’ flood curve requirements, the Secretary shall, on a ‘first fill’ priority basis, store in and release from Prineville Reservoir, whether from Prineville Dam, or a combination thereof, the following:

(1) 68,273 acre-feet of water annually to fill all 16 Bureau of Reclamation contracts existing as of January 1, 2011, and up to 2,740 acre-feet of water annually to supply the McKay Creek lands as provided for in section 5 of this Act.

(b) The Secretary may enter into contracts to purchase up to 10,000 acre-feet of water annually, to be made available to the North Unit Irrigation District pursuant to a Temporary Water Service Contract, upon the request of the North Unit Irrigation District, consistent with the same terms and conditions as prior such contracts between the District and the Bureau of Reclamation.

(c) As a provision in this Act, nothing in this Act—

(1) modifies contractual rights that may exist between contractors and the United States under Reclamation contracts;

(2) amends or reopens contracts referred to in paragraph (1); or

(3) modifies any rights, obligations, or requirements that may be provided or governed by Oregon State law.’’.

SEC. 5. OCHOCO IRRIGATION DISTRICT.

(a) EARLY REPAYMENT.—Notwithstanding subsection 213 of the Reclamation Reform Act of 1982 (43 U.S.C. 390mm), any landowner within Ochoco Irrigation District in Oregon, may repay, at any time, the construction costs of the project facilities allocated to that landowner’s lands within the district. Upon discharge, in full, of the obligation for repayment of the construction costs allocated to that landowner’s lands within the district, those lands shall not be subject to the ownership and full-cost pricing limitations of the Act of June 17, 1962 (43 U.S.C. 371 et seq.).

(b) Authorization to proceed with the implementation of that Act, including the Reclamation Reform Act of 1982 (43 U.S.C. 390aa et seq.),
SEC. 44. STATE AUTHORITY FOR HYDRAULIC FRACTURING REGULATION.

The Department of the Interior's reclamation contracts are modified, without further action by the Secretary of the Interior, to—

(a) IN GENERAL.—Each State shall submit to the Bureau of Land Management a copy of its regulations that apply to hydraulic fracturing operations on Federal land.

(b) Certification.—Upon the request of a landowner who has repaid, in full, the construction costs of the project facilities allocated to that landowner's lands owned within the Secretary of the Interior shall provide the certification provided for in subsection (b)(1) of section 213 of the Reclamation Reform Act of 1992 (43 U.S.C. 390mm).

(c) Contract Amendment.—On approval of the district directors and notwithstanding project authorizing legislation to the contrary, the reclamation contracts are modified, without further action by the Secretary of the Interior, to—

(1) authorize the use of water for hydraulic fracturing purposes, including water for oilfield purposes, in order for the district to engage in, or take advantage of, conserved water projects and temporary instream leasing as authorized by Oregon State law; and

(2) include within the district boundary approximately 2,742 acres in the vicinity of McKay Creek, resulting in a total of approximately 44,997 acres within the district boundary;

(3) classify as irrigable approximately 685 acres within the approximately 2,742 acres of lands included within the vicinity of McKay Creek, where the approximately 685 acres are authorized to receive irrigation water pursuant to Oregon State law, and have in the past received water pursuant to such State water rights; and

(4) provide the district with stored water from Prineville Reservoir for purposes of supplying up to the approximately 685 acres of lands added within the district boundary and classified as irrigable under paragraphs (2) and (3) with such stored water to be supplied on an acre-per-acre basis contingent on the transfer of existing appurtenant McKay Creek water rights to instream use and the State issuance of water rights for the use of stored water.

(d) Limitation.—Except as otherwise provided in subsections (a) and (c), nothing in this section shall be construed to—

(1) modify contractual rights that may exist between the district and the United States under the district's Reclamation contracts;

(2) amend or reenact the contracts referred to in paragraph (1); or

(3) modify any rights, obligations or relationships that exist between the district and its landowners as may be provided or governed by Oregon State law.

SUBDIVISION D—STATE AUTHORITY FOR HYDRAULIC FRACTURING REGULATION; EPA HYDRAULIC FRACTURING RESEARCH

TITLE I—STATE AUTHORITY FOR HYDRAULIC FRACTURING REGULATION

SEC. 101. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “Protecting States' Rights to Promote American Energy Security Act”.

SEC. 102. STATE AUTHORITY FOR HYDRAULIC FRACTURING REGULATION.

The Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 181 et seq.) is amended by redesignating section 44 as section 44D and by inserting after section 43 the following:

"SEC. 44. STATE AUTHORITY FOR HYDRAULIC FRACTURING REGULATION.

(a)(1) In General.—The Department of the Interior shall not enforce any Federal regulation, guidance, or permit requirement relating to hydraulic fracturing, or any component of that process, relating to oil, gas, or geothermal production activities on or under any land in any State that has regulations, guidance, or permit requirements for that activity.

(2) "B" State Authority. —The Department of the Interior shall recognize and defer to State regulations, permitting, and guidance, for all activities related to hydraulic fracturing, or any component of that process, relating to oil, gas, or geothermal production activities on Federal land.

(b) TRANSPARENCY OF STATE REGULATIONS.—

(1) In General.—Each State shall submit to the Bureau of Land Management a copy of its regulations that apply to hydraulic fracturing operations on Federal land.

(2) Availability.—The Secretary of the Interior shall make available to the public State regulations submitted under this subsection.

(c) TRANSPARENCY OF STATE DISCLOSURE REQUIREMENTS.—

(1) In General.—Each State shall submit to the Bureau of Land Management a copy of any regulations of the State that require disclosure of chemicals used in hydraulic fracturing operations on Federal land.

(2) Availability.—The Secretary of the Interior shall make available to the public State regulations submitted under this subsection.

(d) HYDRAULIC FRACTURING DEFINED.—In this section the term "fracturing fluid system" means the process by which fracturing fluids (or a fracturing fluid system) are pumped into an underground geologic formation at a calculated, predetermined rate and pressure to generate fractures or cracks in the target formation and thereby increase the permeability of the rock near the wellbore and improve production of oil, gas, or geothermal fluids.

SEC. 103. GOVERNMENT ACCOUNTABILITY OFFICE STUDY.

(a) STUDY.—The Comptroller General of the United States, in consultation with, and summarizing the findings of, a study examining the economic benefits of domestic shale oil and gas production resulting from the process of hydraulic fracturing. This study will include—

(1) State and Federal revenue generated as a result of shale gas production;

(2) jobs created both directly and indirectly as a result of shale oil and gas production; and

(3) an estimate of potential energy prices without domestic shale oil and gas production.

(b) REPORT.—The Comptroller General shall submit a report on the findings of such study to the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives within 30 days after the end of the current session of Congress.

SEC. 104. TRIBAL AUTHORITY ON TRUST LAND.

The Department of the Interior shall not enforce any Federal regulation, guidance, or permit requirement relating to hydraulic fracturing (as that term is defined in section 44 of the Mineral Leasing Act, as amended by section 102 of this Act), or any component of that process, relating to oil, gas, or geothermal production activities on or under any land held in trust or restricted status for the benefit of Indians, except with the prior consent of the beneficiary on whose behalf such land is held in trust or restricted status.

TITLE II—EPA HYDRAULIC FRACTURING RESEARCH

SEC. 201. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “EPA Hydraulic Fracturing Study Improvement Act”.

SEC. 202. EPA HYDRAULIC FRACTURING RESEARCH.

In conducting its study of the potential impacts of hydraulic fracturing on drinking water resources, with respect to which a request for information was issued under Federal Register Vol. 77, No. 218, the Administration on Natural Resources and Environment Protection Agency shall adhere to the following requirements:

(1) Peer review and information quality.—Prior to issuance and dissemination of any final report or any interim report summarizing the Environmental Protection Agency's research on the relationship between hydraulic fracturing and drinking water, the Administrator shall—

(A) consider such reports to be Highly Influential Scientific Assessment reports, and require peer review of such reports in accordance with guidelines governing such assessments, as described in—

(i) the Environmental Protection Agency's Peer Review Handbook 3rd Edition; and

(ii) the Environmental Protection Agency's Scientific Integrity Policy, as in effect on the date of enactment of this Act; and

(B) require such reports to meet the standards and procedures for the dissemination of influential scientific, financial, or statistical information set forth in the Environmental Protection Agency's Guidelines for Ensuring and Maximizing the Quality, Objectivity, Utility, and Integrity of Information Disseminated by the Environmental Protection Agency, as applicable, and as described in guidelines issued by the Office of Management and Budget under section 515(a) of the Treasury and General Government Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106–56).

(2) Probability, uncertainty, and consequence.—In order to maximize the quality and utility of information developed through the study, the Comptroller General shall ensure that identification of the possible impacts of hydraulic fracturing on drinking water resources included in such reports be accomplished by objective estimates of probability, uncertainty, and consequence of each identified impact, taking into account the risk management practices of States and Indian tribes. Estimates of probability, uncertainty, and consequence shall be as quantitative as possible given the validity, accuracy, precision, and other quality attributes of the underlying data and analyses, but no more quantitative than the data and analyses can support.

(3) RELEASE OF FINAL REPORT.—The final report shall be publicly released by September 30, 2016.

TITLE III—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 301. REVIEW OF STATE ACTIVITIES.

The Secretary of the Interior shall annually review and report on all State activities relating to hydraulic fracturing.

SUBDIVISION E—PREVENTING GOVERNMENT WASTE AND PROTECTING COAL MINING JOBS IN AMERICA

SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE.

This subdivision may be cited as the “Preventing Government Waste and Protecting Coal Mining Jobs in America”.

SEC. 2. INCORPORATION OF SURFACE MINING STREAM BUFFER ZONE RULE INTO STATE PROGRAMS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 503 of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 (30 U.S.C. 1233) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(c) STREAM BUFFER ZONE MANAGEMENT.—With the requirements under subsection (a), each State program shall incorporate the necessary rule regarding excess spoil, coal mine waste, and buffer zones into its program. The requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) are incorporated into the regulations of the United States by reference. The requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) shall be of the same force and effect as if they had been set out as regulations of the United States."

(b) Section 476 of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 (30 U.S.C. 1251) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(j) SURFACE PROTECTION.—With the requirements under subsection (a), each State program shall incorporate the necessary rule regarding excess spoil, coal mine waste, and buffer zones into its program. The requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) are incorporated into the regulations of the United States by reference. The requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) shall be of the same force and effect as if they had been set out as regulations of the United States."

(c) Section 503 of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 (30 U.S.C. 1233) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(k) SURFACE PROTECTION.—With the requirements under subsection (a), each State program shall incorporate the necessary rule regarding excess spoil, coal mine waste, and buffer zones into its program. The requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) are incorporated into the regulations of the United States by reference. The requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) shall be of the same force and effect as if they had been set out as regulations of the United States."

(d) Section 505 of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 (30 U.S.C. 1235) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(l) SURFACE PROTECTION.—With the requirements under subsection (a), each State program shall incorporate the necessary rule regarding excess spoil, coal mine waste, and buffer zones into its program. The requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) are incorporated into the regulations of the United States by reference. The requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) shall be of the same force and effect as if they had been set out as regulations of the United States."

(e) Section 476 of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 (30 U.S.C. 1251) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(m) SURFACE PROTECTION.—With the requirements under subsection (a), each State program shall incorporate the necessary rule regarding excess spoil, coal mine waste, and buffer zones into its program. The requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) are incorporated into the regulations of the United States by reference. The requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) shall be of the same force and effect as if they had been set out as regulations of the United States."
the Office of Surface Mining and the Director of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, and the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement’s consideration and review of comments submitted by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service during the rulemaking process in 2007.

(2) STUDY OF IMPLEMENTATION.—The Secretary shall—

(A) at such time as the Secretary determines all States referred to in subsection (a) have fully incorporated the necessary rule referred to in paragraph (1) of this subsection into their State programs, publish notice of such determination;

(B) during the 5-year period beginning on the date of enactment of this Act, assess the effectiveness of implementation of such rule by such States;

(C) carry out all required consultation on the benefits and other impacts of the implementation of the rule to any threatened species or endangered species, with the participation of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service and the United States Geological Survey; and

(D) upon the conclusion of such period, submit a comprehensive report on the impacts of such changes to the Committees on Natural Resources of the Senate, including—

(i) an evaluation of the effectiveness of such rule;

(ii) an evaluation of any ways in which the existing rule inhibits energy production; and

(iii) a description in detail of any proposed changes that should be made to the rule, the justification for such changes, all comments on such changes received by the Secretary from such States, and the projected costs and benefits of such changes.

(3) LIMITATION ON NEW REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall not approve any regulations under this Act relating to stream buffer zones or stream protection before the date of the publication of the report under paragraph (2), other than a rule necessary to implement paragraph (1)."

(b) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

(1) 'agency' means any agency, department, or other entity of the Federal Government.

(2) 'category of projects' means 2 or more projects related by project type, potential environmental impacts, geographic location, or another similar project feature or characteristic.

(3) 'environmental assessment' means a concise public document which a Federal agency is responsible that serves to—

(A) briefly provide sufficient evidence and analysis for determining whether to prepare an environmental impact statement or a finding of no significant impact;

(B) aid an agency's compliance with NEPA when no environmental impact statement is necessary; and

(C) facilitate preparation of an environmental impact statement when one is necessary.

(4) 'environmental impact statement' means the detailed statement of significant environmental impacts required to be prepared under NEPA.

(5) 'environmental review' means the Federal agency procedures for preparing an environmental impact statement, environmental assessment, or categorical exclusion, or other document under NEPA.

(6) 'environmental decisionmaking process' means the Federal agency procedures for undertaking and completing any environmental permit, decision, approval, review, or study under any Federal law other than NEPA for a project subject to an environmental review.

(7) 'environmental document' means an environmental assessment or environmental impact statement, and includes any supplemental document or document prepared pursuant to a court order.

(8) 'finding of no significant impact' means a document that is prepared by a Federal agency briefly presenting the reasons why a project, otherwise subject to a categorical exclusion, will not have a significant effect on the human environment and for which an environmental impact statement therefore will not be prepared.

(9) 'lead agency' means the Federal agency preparing or responsible for preparing the environmental document, or that—

(i) has been designated to be the lead agency;

(ii) is responsible for preparing the environmental document;

(iii) has the authority to conduct an environmental review of the project; or

(iv) is responsible that serves to—

(A) briefly provide sufficient evidence and analysis for determining whether to prepare an environmental impact statement or a finding of no significant impact;

(B) aid an agency's compliance with NEPA when no environmental impact statement is necessary; and

(C) facilitate preparation of an environmental impact statement when one is necessary.

(10) 'NEPA' means the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.).

(11) 'project' means major Federal actions that are construction activities undertaken with Federal funds or that are construction activities that require approval by a permit or regulatory decision issued by a Federal agency;

(12) 'project sponsor' means the agency or other entity, including any private or public nonprofit or private entity, that is responsible for a project or is otherwise responsible for undertaking a project; and

(13) 'record of decision' means a document prepared by the lead agency under NEPA following an environmental impact statement that states the lead agency's decision, identifies the alternatives considered by the lead agency in reaching its decision and states whether all practicable means to avoid or minimize environmental harm from the alternative selected have been adopted, and if not, why they were not adopted.

(14) 'PREPARATION OF ENVIRONMENTAL DOCUMENTS.'—Upon the request of the lead agency, the project sponsor is directed to prepare any document for purposes of an environmental review required in support of any project or approval by the lead agency if the lead agency furnishes oversight in such preparation and independently evaluates such document and the document is approved and adopted by the lead agency prior to taking any action or making any approval based on such document.

(15) 'ADOPTION AND USE OF DOCUMENTS.'—NEPA for a project (except for supplemental environmental documents prepared pursuant to a court order), and, except as otherwise provided by law, the lead agency shall prepare a finding of no significant impact or environmental assessment. After the lead agency issues a record of decision, no Federal agency responsible for making any approval for that project may rely on a document other than the environmental document prepared by the lead agency.

(b) Upon the request of a project sponsor, a lead agency may adopt, use, or rely upon secondary and cumulative impact analyses included in any environmental document prepared under NEPA for projects in the same geographical area, provided that the secondary and cumulative impact analyses provide information and data that pertains to the NEPA decision for the project under review.

(2) STATE ENVIRONMENTAL DOCUMENTS; SUPPLEMENTAL DOCUMENTS.—

(A) Upon the request of a project sponsor, a lead agency may adopt a document that has been prepared for a project under State laws and procedures as the environmental impact statement or environmental assessment for the project, provided that the State laws and procedures under which the document was prepared provide environmental protection and opportunities for public involvement that are substantially equivalent to NEPA.

(B) An environmental document adopted under subparagraph (A) is deemed to satisfy the lead agency's obligation under NEPA to prepare an environmental impact statement or environmental assessment.

(C) In the case of a document described in subparagraph (A), the lead agency shall prepare and publish a supplemental document to the extent that the lead agency determines that—

(i) a significant change has been made to the project that is relevant for purposes of environmental review; and

(ii) there have been significant changes in circumstances or availability of information relevant to the environmental review for the project.

(D) If the lead agency prepares and publishes a supplemental document under subparagraph (C), the lead agency may solicit comments from Federal agencies and the lead agency shall prepare a supplemental document for a period of not more than 45 days beginning on the date of the publication of the supplemental.

(E) A lead agency shall issue its record of decision or finding of no significant impact, as appropriate, based upon the document adopted under subparagraph (A), and any supplements thereto.

(F) CONTemporaneous PROJECTS.—If the lead agency determines that there is a reasonable likelihood that the project will have significant environmental impacts, the lead agency shall prepare an environmental impact statement for the project within the period of time immediately preceding the date that the lead agency makes that determination, the lead

DIVISION C—JUDICIARY

SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE.

This division may be cited as the “Responsibly and Professionally Invigorating Development Act of 2014” or as the “Rapid Act”.

SEC. 2. COORDINATION OF AGENCY ADMINISTRATIVE OPERATIONS FOR EFFICIENT DECISIONMAKING.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 5 of part 1 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by inserting after subchapter II the following:

'§ 560. Coordination of agency administrative operations for efficient decisionmaking

(a) CONGRESSIONAL DECLARATION OF PURPOSE.—The purpose of this subchapter is to establish a framework and procedures to streamline, increase the efficiency of, and enhance coordination of agency administrative operations of the regulatory review, environmental decisionmaking, and permitting processes for projects undertaken, reviewed, or funded by Federal agencies. This subchapter will ensure that agencies administer the regulatory process in a manner that is efficient so that citizens are not burdened with regulatory ex-" agency may adopt the environmental document that resulted from that environmental review or similar State procedure. The lead agency may adopt such an environmental document prepared under State and procedures only upon making a favorable determination on such environmental document pursuant to paragraph (2)(A).

(2) REQUIREMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The lead agency shall be responsible for inviting and designating participating agencies and shall coordinate with the participation of Federal, State, and local agencies and officials to become participating agencies for the project. The lead agency shall provide the invitation or notice of the designation in writing.

(2) FEDERAL PARTICIPATING AGENCIES.—Any Federal agency that is required to adopt the environmental document of the lead agency for a project shall be designated as a participating agency for the purpose of the project. The lead agency shall initiate the environmental review or similar State procedure. The lead agency shall receive a project initiation notice under paragraph (1) by inviting or designating agencies to become participating agencies, or, where the lead agency determines that no participating agencies are required for the project, by taking such other actions that are reasonable and necessary to initiate the environmental review.

(3) INVITATION.—The lead agency shall identify, as early as practicable in the environmental review or similar State procedure, any agencies other than an agency described in paragraph (2) that may have an interest in the project, including, where appropriate, Governors of affected States, and heads of appropriate tribal and local (including county) governments, and shall invite such identified agencies and officials to become participating agencies and view the project. The invitation shall set a deadline of 30 days for responses to be submitted, which may only be extended by the lead agency for good cause shown. Any agency that fails to respond prior to the deadline shall be deemed to have declined the invitation.

(4) EFFECT OF DECLINING PARTICIPATING AGENCY INVITATION.—Any agency that declines a designation or invitation by the lead agency to be a participating agency shall be provided with written comments on the document prepared under NEPA for that project or taking any measures to oppose, based on the environmental review, any permit, license, or approval related to that project.

(5) EFFECT OF DESIGNATION.—Designation as a participating agency under this subsection does not imply that the participating agency—

(A) supports a proposed project; or

(B) has any jurisdiction over, or special expertise with respect to evaluation of, the project.

(6) COOPERATING AGENCY.—A participating agency may also be designated by a lead agency as a cooperating agency pursuant to the regulations contained in part 1500 of title 40, Code of Federal Regulations, as in effect on January 1, 2011. Designation as a cooperating agency shall have no effect on designation as participating agency. No agency that is not a participating agency may be designated as a cooperating agency.

(7) COORDINATION REVIEWS.—Each Federal agency shall—

(A) carry out obligations of the Federal agency under another applicable law concurrently with the environmental review required under NEPA; and

(B) in accordance with the rules made by the Council on Environmental Quality pursuant to subparagraph (A), make all other actions required under such rules, policies, and procedures as may be reasonably necessary to enable the agency to ensure completion of the environmental review and environmental decision-making process in a timely, coordinated, and environmentally responsible manner.

(g) A cooperating participating agency shall limit its comments on a project to areas that are within the authority and expertise of such participating agency. Each participating agency identified in such comments the statutory authority of the participating agency pertaining to the subject matter of its comments. The lead agency shall not consider or include in any document prepared under NEPA, any comment submitted by a participating agency that concerns matters that are outside of the authority or expertise of the commenting participating agency.

(3) INVITATION.—The lead agency shall—

(1) carry out obligations of the Federal agency under another applicable law concurrently with the environmental review, the methodologies used and how the methodologies were selected.

(2) NOT EVALUATION OF INAPPROPRIATE ALTERNATIVES.—When a lead agency determines that a project is needed for a purpose and need for a project, that alternative is not required to be evaluated in detail in an environmental document.

(c) PREFERRED ALTERNATIVE.—At the discretion of the lead agency, the preferred alternative for a project, after being identified, may be developed to a higher level of detail than other alternatives in order to facilitate the development of mitigation measures or concurrent compliance with other applicable laws if the lead agency determines that the development of such higher level of detail will not prevent the lead agency from making an impartial decision as to whether to accept, reject, or alter an alternative which is being considered in the environmental review.

(5) EMPLOYMENT ANALYSIS.—The evaluation of each alternative in an environmental document should include an assessment that the potential effects of the alternative on employment, including potential short- and long-term employment increases and reductions and shifts in employment.

(b) COORDINATION AND SCHEDULING—

(1) COORDINATION BY LEAD AGENCY.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The lead agency shall establish and implement a plan for coordinating public and agency participation in the environmental review and schedule for a project or category of projects to facilitate the expeditious resolution of the environmental review.

(B) SCHEDULE.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—The lead agency shall establish as part of the coordination plan for a project, after consultation with each participating agency, the project sponsor, a schedule for completion of the environmental review. The schedule shall include deadlines, consistent with subsection (i), for decisions under any other Federal laws (including the issuance or denial of a permit or license) relating to the project that is covered by the schedule.

(ii) FACTORS FOR CONSIDERATION.—In establishing the schedule, the lead agency shall consider factors such as—

(I) the responsibility of each participating agency under applicable laws;

(II) resources available to the participating agencies;

(III) the overall size and complexity of the project;

(IV) overall schedule for and cost of the project;

(V) the sensitivity of the natural and historic resources that could be affected by the project; and

(VI) the extent to which similar projects in geographic proximity were reviewed or subjected to environmental review or similar State procedures.

(C) COMPLIANCE WITH THE SCHEDULE.—All participating agencies shall comply with the time periods established in the schedule or with any modified time periods, where the lead agency modifies the schedule pursuant to subparagraph (D).

(D) IF a LEAD AGENCY SHALL DISREGARD and shall not respond to or include in any document prepared under NEPA, any comment or information submitted by a participating agency that is outside the time period established in the schedule or modification pursuant to subparagraph (C) that agency’s comment, submission or finding.

(b) IF a PARTICIPATING AGENCY FAILS to object to the lead agency decision, the lead agency may make a determination which the lead agency shall take into consideration in the time period established by law or by the lead agency, the agency shall be deemed to have concurred in the decision, finding or request.

"(C) CONSISTENCY WITH OTHER TIME PERI-dods.—A schedule under subparagraph (B) shall be applied in accordance with any other relevant time periods established under Federal law.

"(D) MODIFICATION.—The lead agency shall
(i) lengthen a schedule established under subparagraph (B) for good cause; and
(ii) shorten a schedule only with the concurrence of the cooperating agencies.

"(E) DISSEMINATION.—A copy of a schedule under subparagraph (B), and of any modifications to the schedule, shall be—
(i) provided within 15 days of completion or modification of such schedule to all participating agencies and to the project sponor; and
(ii) made available to the public.

"(F) ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITY OF LEAD AGENCY.—With respect to the environmental review for any project, the lead agency shall have supervisory and environmental oversight responsibilities, such actions as are necessary and proper, within the authority of the lead agency, to facilitate the expedited resolution of the environmental issues, including

"(i) DEADLINES.—The following deadlines shall apply to any project subject to review under this section: the lead agency shall, within 90 days of the approval of any Federal law relating to such project (including the issuance or denial of a permit or license) is required to be made, the following deadlines shall apply:

"(1) PROJECT INITIATION DEADLINES.— The lead agency shall complete the environmental review within the following deadlines:

"(A) ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT STATEMENT PROJECTS.—For projects requiring preparation of an environmental impact statement—
(i) the lead agency shall issue an environmental impact statement within 2 years after the earlier of the date the lead agency receives the project initiation request or a Notice of Intent to Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement is published in the Federal Register; and
(ii) in circumstances where the lead agency has determined that an environmental action is required and determined that an environmental impact statement will be required, the lead agency shall issue the environmental impact statement within 2 years after the date of publication of the Notice of Intent to Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement in the Federal Register:

"(B) ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT PROJECTS.—For projects requiring preparation of an environmental assessment, the lead agency shall issue a finding of no sigificance impact or publish a Notice of Intent to Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement in the Federal Register within 1 year after the earlier of the date the lead agency receives the project initiation request or a Notice of Intent to Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement is published in the Federal Register;

"(C) EXTENSIONS.—In the event that the lead agency determines that an extension of the environmentally significant action, or the issuance of a permit, license, or other similar application for approval related to a project prior to the record of deci-ion or finding of no significant impact, such Federal agency shall act not later than the end of a 90-day period beginning—
(i) after the earlier of the date the lead agency receives the project initiation request or a Notice of Intent to Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement is published in the Federal Register; and
(ii) the deadline is extended by the lead agency for good cause.

"(D) DEADLINES FOR DECISIONS UNDER OTHER LAWS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, in any case in which a decision under any other Federal law relating to the undertaking of a project being reviewed under NEPA (including the issuance or denial of a permit or license) is required to be made, the following deadlines shall apply:

"(1) PROJECT INITIATION DEADLINES.— If a Federal agency is required to approve, or otherwise to act upon, a permit, license, or other similar application for approval related to a project prior to the record of decision or finding of no significant impact, such Federal agency shall act not later than such other date that is otherwise required by law, whichever event occurs first.

"(2) OTHER DECISIONS.—With regard to any approval or other action related to a project by a Federal agency that is not subject to subparagraph (A), each Federal agency shall act within 90 days of the date of the issuance of the final environmental impact statement or issuance of other final environmental documents, or no later than such other date that is otherwise required by law, whichever event occurs first.

"(E) DISSEMINATION.—At any time upon request of a project sponsor, the lead agency shall promptly conserve all comments and public comments for the project:

"(i) the deadline is extended by the lead agency for good cause.

"(ii) the deadline is extended by the lead agency for good cause.

"(iii) the deadline is extended by the lead agency for good cause.

"(IV) FAILURE TO ACT.—In the event that a final decision is not made, the lead agency shall inform the public of the reasons for the delay.

"(V) LIMITATION ON USE OF SOCIAL COST OF CARBON.—

"(i) GENERAL.—In the case of any environmental review or environmental decision-making process, a lead agency may not use the social cost of carbon.

"(ii) DEFINITION.—In this subsection, the term ‘social cost of carbon’ means the social cost of carbon as described in the technical support document entitled ‘Technical Support Document: Technical Update of the Social Cost of Carbon for Regulatory Impact Analysis Under Executive Order No. 12866’, published by the Interagency Working Group on Social Cost of Carbon, United States Government, in May 2013, revised in November 2013, or any successor thereto or substantially similar document as the lead agency determine in good cause.

"(j) ISSUE IDENTIFICATION AND RESOLUdation.

"(1) Cooperate.—The lead agency and the participating agencies shall work coopearticulating the reasons for any such decision or finding of no significant impact and the length of time it took the agency to complete the environmentally significant action, or the issuance of a permit, license, or other similar application for approval.
license, or approval issued by the agency for an action subject to NEPA, including the date the complaint was filed, the court in which the complaint was filed, and a summary of the regulations for which judicial review was sought; and

(4) the resolution of any lawsuits against the agency that sought judicial review of a permit, license, or approval issued by a Federal agency for an action subject to NEPA.

(m) LIMITATIONS ON CLAIMS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a claim arising under Federal law seeking judicial review of a permit, license, or approval issued by a Federal agency for an action subject to NEPA shall be barred unless—

(A) in the case of a claim pertaining to a project for which an environmental review was conducted and an opportunity for comment was provided, the claim is filed by a party that submitted a comment during the environmental review on the issue on which the agency acted, and such comment was sufficiently detailed to put the lead agency on notice of the issue upon which the party seeks judicial review; and

(B) filed within 180 days after publication of a notice in the Federal Register indicating that the permit, license, or approval is final pursuant to the law under which the agency acted, unless a shorter time is specified in the Federal law pursuant to which judicial review is allowed.

(2) NEW INFORMATION.—The preparation of a supplemental environmental impact statement, when required, is deemed a separate final agency action and the deadline for filing a claim for judicial review of such action shall be 180 days after the date of publication of a notice in the Federal Register announcing the record of decision for such action. Any claim alleging a deficient environmental impact action on the basis of a supplemental environmental impact statement shall be limited to challenges on the basis of that information.

(3) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to create a right to judicial review or place any limit on a claim for judicial review of any action taken, unless a shorter time is specified in the Federal law pursuant to which judicial review is allowed.

(4) CATEGORIES OF PROJECTS.—The authorizations granted under this subchapter may be exercised for an individual project or a category of projects, as determined by the Council on Environmental Quality.

(o) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The requirements of this subchapter shall apply only to environmental reviews and environmental decisionmaking processes initiated after the date of enactment of this subchapter. In the case of a project for which an environmental review or environmental decisionmaking process was initiated prior to the date of enactment of this subchapter, the provisions of subsection (i) shall apply, except that, notwithstanding any other provision of this section, in determining a deadline under such subsection, any applicable period of time shall be calculated as beginning from the date of enactment of this subchapter.

(p) APPLICABILITY.—Except as provided in subsection (p), this subchapter applies to all projects for which a Federal agency is required to undertake an environmental review or make a decision under an environmental regulation for which a Federal agency is undertaking an environmental review.

(q) SAVINGS CLAUSE.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to supersede, amend, or modify sections 134, 135, 139, 325, 326, and 327 of title 23, sections 5303 and 5304 of title 49, or subsection C of title I of division A of the Moving Ahead for Progress in the 21st Century Act and the amendments made by such subtitle (Public Law 112–141).

(b) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents for chapter 5 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the items relating to subchapter II the following:

‘‘SUBCHAPTER IIA—INTERAGENCY COORDINATION REGARDING PERMITTING’’.

§ 560. Coordination of agency administrative operations for efficient decisionmaking.

(c) REGULATIONS.—

(1) COUNCIL ON ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this subchapter, the Council on Environmental Quality shall amend the regulations contained in part 1500 of title 40, Code of Federal Regulations, to implement the provisions of this division and the amendments made by this division, and shall by rule designate States with laws and procedures that satisfy the criteria under section 560(a)(2)(A) of title 5, United States Code.

(2) FEDERAL AGENCIES.—Not later than 120 days after the date that the Council on Environmental Quality amends the regulations contained in part 1500 of title 40, Code of Federal Regulations, to implement the provisions of this division and the amendments made by this division, each Federal agency with regulations implementing the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) shall amend such regulations to implement the provisions of this division.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 2.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Oregon (Mr. Hastings) and the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DrFaZio) each will control 60 minutes.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself as much time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I stand here on the House floor, only a few hundred yards away from the Senate, and it feels as if we are worlds apart. In the House, we are listening to the American people who are telling us that it is time to expand American energy production.

Hardworking Americans know how important our natural resources are to them and their livelihoods. They need it to commute to and from work. It fuels the buses that take our kids to school. It powers the businesses on Main Street.

It provides jobs and improves the livelihoods of millions of Americans who are struggling to make ends meet in President Obama’s economy; and, Mr. Speaker, Sunday, it will power the Jumbotron at CenturyLink Field in Seattle as the Seahawks take on the Broncos.

Unfortunately, on the other side of the Capitol, these calls to expand American energy production are falling on deaf ears. The House has passed dozens of energy bills, including a number from the House Natural Resources Committee, on which the Senate has failed to act. By doing so, they are standing in the way of American job creation, affordable energy, and increased national security.

H.R. 2, the American Energy Solutions for Lower Costs and More American Jobs Act, would protect and expand American energy production by removing this administration’s roadblocks and preventing unnecessary bureaucratic red tape.

Mr. Speaker, since President Obama took office, total Federal offshore oil production has dropped 13 percent, Federal offshore natural gas production has dropped by nearly one-half, and the Obama administration has placed over 85 percent of America’s offshore acreage off limits.

Onshore, Mr. Speaker, it is the same story. This administration has had the 4 lowest years of Federal acres leased for offshore oil and gas production going back to 1988. It has also pledged to impose a duplicative layer of red tape on hydraulic fracturing, which would only hurt American job creation.

The Obama administration has already waged a war on our coastal jobs. Coal is a reliable and affordable energy resource that provides 30 percent of America’s electricity and supports millions of American jobs.

Unfortunately, with one proposed regulation by the Obama administration, those jobs could disappear. Their rewrite of the stream buffer zone rule could cost 7,000 coal jobs and cause economic harm in 22 States.

But there is good news, and the good news are the provisions in these bills. These provisions are a direct response to the Obama administration’s actions that have locked up our energy resources. The bill would end the regulatory delays blocking the construction of the Keystone XL pipeline.

After nearly 6 years of review, this is a commonsense solution that would eliminate the need for a Presidential permit, addresses all other necessary Federal permits, and limit litigation that would delay the project.

The bill would also expand offshore energy production. It would require this administration to responsibly move forward with new offshore energy production in areas that contain the most oil and natural resources. What a novel idea, going where the product is, and those areas include areas off the Atlantic and the Pacific coasts.

It also requires the administration to hold oil and natural gas lease sales that have been delayed or canceled, such as offshore of Virginia. This expanded offshore production would generate over $1 billion in new revenue to the Federal Treasury and create up to 130,000 jobs.

Mr. Speaker, the bill would expand onshore energy production. It would reform the leasing and permitting process to remove unnecessary delays, set clear rules for the development of U.S. oil shale resources, and establish Internet-based auctions for leases. It would also help foster expanded energy production on tribal lands.

The bill would stop the Federal Government from imposing duplicative Federal hydraulic regulations and prevent it from implementing job-destroying coal regulations. It would help protect consumers from EPA regulations that could destroy jobs and increase energy costs.

Firstly, Mr. Speaker, the bill would expand production of clean, renewable hydropower by removing outdated barriers and streamlining the regulatory process. It would authorize hydropower development at existing manmade water canals and pipes at 12 Bureau of Reclamation projects.

Mr. Speaker, the American Energy Solutions for Lower Costs and More American Jobs Act is a common sense action plan to create over 1 million new jobs and provide financial incentives to hardworking Americans who are feeling the squeeze of higher gasoline and electricity prices. It would strengthen our economy and—probably more importantly in this unsettled world—increase America’s energy security.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this important bipartisan piece of legislation, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Well, Mr. Speaker, I would start out by saying this feels like Groundhog Day, but I have already done that when we brought up these same bills multiple times in the past. I could start, as I did the last time we considered this package of bills, by reading a statement from the last time we debated these bills and then pretend to get angry at my staff because they gave me a statement that is 8 months old, but I made that the point last time we debated this energy package on the floor.

Mr. Speaker, the House has passed nearly all the provisions in this bill at least two times. Now, I think most Americans still remember high school civics. The House passes a bill; they send it to the Senate.

The Senate either takes it up or not; and, if they do, then we work out our differences on the conference committee and send it to the President for signature. We just keep sending the same bills over to the Senate under the premise that, somehow, they will do something because it has been sent multiples times from the House. It hasn’t worked in the past, and it won’t work in the future.

This package really also ignores reality. We are producing more natural gas than we ever have and more oil than in over 25 years. We are projected to be the number one oil producer in the world in the next few years.

Meanwhile, thanks to a worldwide glut of oil, gas prices are going down. They are the lowest they have been this time of year since 2010, except perhaps in my State, where we are getting price-gouged because we don’t have a refinery.

If Republicans really cared about keeping gas prices low for American consumers, they would take a serious look at the fact that we are exporting 1.6 million barrels of gasoline and diesel every day. There is no shortage.

We are exporting 1.6 million barrels a day; yet truckers are paying extraordinarily high diesel prices because we are exporting more and more diesel and saying, “Well, you have got to pay the same price they are going to pay in Europe.”

Mr. Speaker, inside the Beltway here, we don’t really deal with facts and statistics very much; so, today, we will take up and pass the same tired legislation for the second, third, or fourth time so any Republican Members who are unhappy with a bill that has to do with what they have been productive on this issue.

This is just an opportunity to check the energy box again and again so you can try to get voters to check the box for you in the primary, in the general, in the primary, in the general, in the primary. Whatever bill, but we are not legislating; instead, we are wasting time and taxpayer money to put on a rerun show.

If you are going to do a rerun show, at the risk of sounding like a broken record, will you do the same?

Every time we have come to the floor to debate another legislative fish wrap this summer, I have brought up the same issue, Western wildfires.

Now, this poster shows Weed, California—or what is left of it. A wildfire destroyed half the town and over 150 homes. In my home State, a major fire is burning 10 miles away from the town of Estacada, threatening over 150 homes, forcing evacuations, and forcing the Governor to use the State’s conflagration act to mobilize emergency resources.

In the West, there are over 50 active fires burning, one in the Willamette Forest outside of Eugene and Springfield. It is costing $1 million a day with attempts to keep it from running toward a town. Two days ago, the Forest Service said they have $179 million left for suppression.

Last week alone, they spent $150 million on wildfires. That means, next week, while we are out of session, they will run out of money, and they will do what they always do: they will start pulling back money from the fuel reduction, forest health, and other programs to fight the fires.

You can’t stop fighting the fires. These fires are enormous, unnatural, and unprecedented in many ways. On top of that, we have a drought which might or might not have to do with climate change, which the other side of the aisle doesn’t believe in, but, nonetheless, they are a fact.

Now, it doesn’t have to be this way. We could do something real. We have the rarest thing in Washington, D.C.—a bipartisan—that means Democrats and Republicans are on a bill. 52 House Members, including myself, 52 Republicans on a bill—bicameral—similar bill, same bill in the Senate—supported by Democrats and Republicans, and, lo and behold, it is a bill supported by President Obama.

Maybe that is why they won’t even hold a hearing on it or move it—because the President supports it—despite the fact that it would deal with a very real problem.

We aren’t investing enough money in a regular fashion to get ahead of the fire problem in the West and to do the fuel reduction and the forest health we need. The agencies don’t have enough in their budgets, and, every year, in fact, they overspend their firefighting budgets, and they have to cancel projects and other needed activities.

There has been no hearing on the bill. We can’t find time to hold a hearing on a bill that has to do with wildfires that are burning up the West. We can’t find the time; instead, we are going to pass these bills for the second, third, fourth, or sixth time. We can’t find the time. We are too busy here pretending.

We have 196 Democrats who have signed a petition to overrule the Republican leadership and bring that bill to the floor of the United States House of Representatives. Fifty-two Republicans cosponsors of that bill in the Senate.

Many of them have active fires burning in their districts; and will they defy their leadership and do something that is needed for Americans in the Western United States, needed for our natural resources, and needed to prevent these towns from burning down? No. They can’t do that. They will not sign the petition.

So here we are. Western communities are burning. You can pretty much step out the door and smell the smoke from here. We have a potential solution to get ahead of this problem in the future and deal better with it, but, instead, we are wasting time here today passing, yet again, bills that have already been passed and have already been sent to the Senate, but we will send them over to the Senate again, and they can put them on the same stack of paper.

If you look at these pictures, we are wasting the second-to-last day—well, maybe it is not the last day, actually—on repeat because we have to get home for elections.

I mean, we don’t need to pass the budget for the year, the appropriations bills. We don’t need to take more meaningless consideration of what we are getting into in the Middle East and spend more time on it, and we can’t certainly find any time to deal with the wildfire issue. Let’s just pretend.

Yet, again, you get to check a pointless box, and I don’t think the American people are going to be fooled.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.
Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. WALDEN), my colleague from Oregon, across the Columbia River from my district.

Mr. WALDEN. I thank the chairman of the Natural Resources Committee who has been most helpful in our endeavors in the West on the issues of private property, water rights, improving the health of our forest, and diminishing wildfires through active forest management.

I want to thank him again for his legislation and one that a number of us have shared in helping draft, H.R. 1526, which has been part of our jobs package that we are again sending over to the Senate because they have done nothing in the area of improving forest health and management and stopping these horrible wildfires that we are all trying to deal with—because they are much more than just a budgeting issue, although that is important, it really is about how do you get ahead of these fires, have active management, generate revenues, and generate jobs.

Mr. Speaker, another bill that we are taking up again in the House is one that I have sponsored twice in this House unanimously—unanimously—in the last couple of years.

This will be the third time in less than 3 years we have acted. Why are we doing that? Because, at some point, we hope to wake up the Senate to where they actually will take up this issue and pass it because it means jobs for Crook County, which has a very high unemployment rate and a very high poverty rate.

It means better water quality for fish because we changed a designation on a dam that will allow the water to come out in a better way by adding renewable, carbon friendly hydropower to be generated off this dam. It would create 50 jobs for Oregon when they do the hydro piece. The water will come out better, and it will be better for the fish.

The city of Prineville—you talk about drought—the city of Prineville has several hundred residents who cannot access city water because they don’t have enough of it.

This legislation will free up 5,100 acre feet of water that will take care of the city of Prineville for some time to come and allow them to actually take care of their water with city water. They will pump it out downstream, and water will stay instream for—I think it is something like 20 miles upriver from Bowman Dam.

There is 80,000 acre feet of water sitting unallocated in this reservoir. We take to 90 90 90 90 acres of it. The city is going to pay the appropriate price so there is no cost to the Treasury. It will serve 500 homes, and we have got a bunch of data centers that have come up in Prineville.

This needed to make sure they have access to water for cooling. Apple and Facebook and a couple of others need access to this, and all we do is fix an errant boundary decision made many years ago that laid down the boundary of wild and scenic right across the top of the dam.

Now, there is nothing wild or scenic about a dam unless you are falling off the 90 90 90 90 acres. It was temporary, and that has been there a quarter mile downstream.

Beyond that, there are benefits for Ochoco Irrigation District farmers to ensure they will continue to operate their family farms for generations to come. We make sure there is enough water behind the dam for flat water recreation and fishing, which is an important part of the economy there. And we worked with the tribes and others to expedite the McKay Creek restoration project, which will result in increased water flows for redband trout and summer steelhead, a project long supported by the Warm Springs Tribe and the Deschutes River Conservancy.

Just like other bills in this package, this is a good, commonsense piece of legislation. It has achieved overwhelming—in fact, in the House, unanimously—support.

We look forward to working with the Senate, but it is hard to dance with yourself. It is just no fun. So we need a dance partner over in the Senate that will come to the table so we can take this year of, pull it together in a package that can finally get to the President’s desk.

I don’t know what else you do. You try again. You never quit trying. And that is what this package of bills is all about. One more time before we leave town, trying to create jobs in America, do the right thing for the environment, and take care of problems at home, that is what this is about.

We hope the Senate will finally take a look at these bills in a meaningful way and be able to work with the House on terms and work these things out.

So I commend the chairman of the House Natural Resources Committee for all his work over the years, but especially for the work he and I have done together to improve forest health, improve forest jobs, improve water quality, take care of these issues that are so important to the rural West.

Mr. DeFAZIO. I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. JEFFRIES).

Mr. JEFFRIES. I thank the distinguished gentleman from Oregon for yielding as well as for his leadership.

Mr. Speaker, once again, as we stand on the brink of a 7-week recess, we are here in this Chamber considering a package of warmed-over bills that will be dead on arrival when it reaches the Senate. It is an empty legislative vessel that has no meaningful port of destination. We stand on a Joyce ride that is going to damage the health and treasure of the American people.

That is not to suggest, Mr. Speaker, that the House majority hasn’t been busy during the 113th Congress. This majority has been busy unleashing a parade of horrors on the American people.

The House majority, Mr. Speaker, began by bringing to the American people sequestration, tens of billions of dollars of painful cuts to important domestic programs that will adversely impact the American people.

This House majority, Mr. Speaker, has been busy busy busy enacting a 16-day reckless government shutdown, costing the American people $24 billion in lost economic productivity.

Mr. Speaker, this House majority has been busy engaging in vigilation with defaulting on our debt, threatening the full faith and credit of the United States of America, resulting in an increase in interest rates.

This House majority, Mr. Speaker, has been busy enacting a reckless Republican budget: $137 billion in cuts to nutritional assistance to the American people, many of whom have gone hungry; $290 billion in cuts to higher education; $72 billion in cuts to Medicaid—enacted by this House majority in a reckless Republican budget.

We failed to enact a minimum-wage increase despite the fact that you have got working families living in poverty while going to work each and every day.

We failed to enact comprehensive immigration reform, fixing a broken immigration system, giving life to the American Dream for those who otherwise now living in the shadows.

We have failed to invest in transportation and infrastructure.

We failed to renew unemployment insurance, leaving millions of Americans on the battlefield of the Great Recession.

What are we doing here on the final day? We would just ask the American people to ponder this question: What grade should you give the House majority during the 113th Congress?

I would suggest, humbly, there are only two options: D for “disaster” and F for “failure.”

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. TERRY), the author of this legislation.

Mr. TERRY. Mr. Speaker, Doc HASTINGS, I really appreciate your leadership on energy issues and natural resources issues. It has just been incredibly important to our Congress.

I want to thank my colleagues for allowing me to bring this package here today because this is a commonsense energy approach that grows our economy, creates jobs, and ensures our energy is affordable and reliable.

Yes, Mr. Speaker, for those who are of these, or all of them, have already been voted on at some point in time over the last couple years. It is important that we continue to push the Senate into taking up these energy bills so we can expect energy engaging investments.

Too many of the rules and regulations coming out of this administration are making energy more costly
Speaker, I rise today in opposition to and was given permission to revise and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GREEN). I am proud to lead this effort in support of our energy sector and send American gas and renewable energy and provides the regulatory certainty energy producers need to produce American-made energy. This creates American jobs, increases revenue for State and local governments, and promotes economic development across the economy.

This bill will modernize the permit process for natural gas pipelines. This is important because we need more natural gas for manufacturing, electrical production, and as a transportation fuel.

There is an abundant supply of natural gas here in North America and it has been proven to be cheaper and cleaner, but I believe it is greatly underutilized. We need to make natural gas a priority, which this bill does.

Our country is blessed to have these abundant natural resources. We must do everything in our power to make sure that our policies support resource development, minimize the red tape that strangles our job creators.

I am proud to lead this effort in support of lower cost energy and more American jobs. With these policies, we can make real progress towards reducing prices at the pump and protecting families.

Mr. WAXMAN. I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GREEN).

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in opposition to H.R. 2. Here are we, the next day after we passed bipartisan legislation with a majority on both sides, and now today we come up with H.R. 2, which has a combination of bills that this House has already considered.

And what we are doing this last day of voting, then, before we go home to campaign, passing a bill that has zero chance of becoming law.

H.R. 2 is an affront to the bipartisan work we have done in the Energy and Commerce Committee. Over the past year, the members of our committee have worked together to craft legislation that would support the dramatic energy renaissance our country is experiencing. Unfortunately, H.R. 2 that we are considering today is not reflective of this hard work, some of the compromises we did.

Instead of working to improve the decision-making made by Federal agencies, H.R. 2 seeks to eliminate Federal authority. Instead of expediting export permits, H.R. 2 opens the door to sending U.S. gas to countries that are not even our friends.

Instead of respecting the balance we worked so hard to establish between the State and Federal Government, H.R. 2 rescinds all the authority for our government in State affairs.

It is my hope that we would stop wasting time on these bills that have no bipartisan support and work together to pass legislation in a bipartisan fashion.

We actually have addressed a number of these bills already on this House floor. Everyone, Democrat or Republican, has acknowledged that the energy sector has common ground. We may not always agree on what fuel mix we have or how to best serve our country, but we can agree that the energy sector is vital to our economy and our independence.

The bills included in H.R. 2 include bills I have cosponsored and worked hard to craft with my Republican and Democratic colleagues. It is disappointing that our leadership would use this window of opportunity to pass bills that harm our environment, create uncertainty in our economy, and ultimately delay job growth and energy development.

In the Energy and Commerce Committee, we work across party lines to draft bills that solve the problems of the American people and American industry. We work to ensure that the EPA, the Environmental Protection Agency, is promulgating rules that make not only economic sense, but, as well, environmental sense. We work to support our natural resources sector and send American gas and refined products overseas to benefit our U.S. economy and balance of trade.

All of these things will garner bipartisan support and establish the U.S. and North America as the world energy leader. But this H.R. 2 takes away all that we have worked for for almost 2 years, and that is why I oppose H.R. 2.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker. I yield 2 1/2 minutes to the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. LAMBORN), the subcommittee chairman on the Natural Resources Committee.

Mr. LAMBORN. I thank the chairman for recognizing me and for his conversation today to examine energy policies of our country over many years.

I am pleased that this package of energy legislation includes legislation I introduced and that has previously passed the House, H.R. 1965, the Federal Lands Jobs and Energy Security Act.

H.R. 2 will help ensure the successful production of onshore and offshore energy and provides the regulatory certainty energy producers need to produce American-made energy. This creates American jobs, increases revenue for State and local governments, and promotes economic development across the economy. H.R. 2 promotes an all-of-the-above energy strategy, streamlining regulations and expediting the production of both conventional and renewable energy. It will ensure that the Bureau of Land Management has the resources they need to expeditiously process permits for all energy projects on Federal land.

The Obama administration has made energy production on Federal land so burdensome and so uncertain that conventional and renewable energy producers are avoiding Federal lands in favor of State and private lands. That is where permits are approved in a timely fashion and are not subject to burdensome and obstructionist lawsuits, and projects can move forward in a stable environment.

In my home State of Colorado, a permit for an energy project can be approved in 27 days for State land projects. For a project on Federal land in Colorado, the Obama administration takes nearly a year to approve the same permit. This delay in approvals not only delays energy production, it delays job creation and revenues to State and local governments.

Energy producers should not have to choose between whether to produce energy on Federal versus State land just because of permit timelines, lawsuits, and regulations.

This legislation injects much-needed certainty into every step of the energy production process. It will ensure timely permit approvals, allow Bureau of Land Management field offices to have the resources they need for energy permits, open up offshore areas for energy production, and ensures that our Nation has a plan for our future energy needs.

I urge my colleagues to join me in strong support of this critical legislation.
Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire how much time is remaining.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. WOMACK). The gentleman from California has 47 1/2 minutes remaining. The gentleman from Washington has 44 minutes remaining.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. MORAN).

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank my very good friend and our leader from California for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this bill.

So this is the last day we are in session until after the elections. But rather than consider substantive legislation today—or really at any point in this session—that would have extended long-term unemployment benefits, or simplify the Tax Code, or reform our immigration system, or extend expiring tax provisions, or lower foreign trade barriers with new trade authority, or invest in our Nation’s deteriorating public infrastructure, we are going home.

Mr. Speaker, the list goes on and on of what we could and should be doing. But we are wasting what limited our time remains debating a compilation of bad anti-environmental legislative proposals that this Chamber has already passed.

These bills will not be considered by the Senate, and they are bills that the President has already expressed his intention of vetoing if they were to get through the Senate.

It is disappointing, but it is not surprising.

With the vote on this bill, this Chamber will have voted 218 times just this session to weaken existing laws that protect our health and our environment; 58 times this session we voted to block action on climate change; 43 times to weaken the Clean Air Act; and 75 times to weaken the Clean Water Act.

Mr. Speaker, more oil is being produced now during the Obama administration than at any point in the previous 25 years. Our dependence on foreign sources of oil is at a record low. Gasoline prices are actually stabilizing or in decline in many parts of the country.

But with this bill, we will be waiving environmental reviews and advancing more drilling in areas that pose potential harm to the environment and to other American jobs and industries, such as the tourist industry, the fishing industry, and many other industries that don’t seem to be given equal weight but are certainly equally or more important than the industries that we are trying against all odds to protect.

Mr. Speaker, the climate is warming. The only place where a majority of the American people are in denial is here in this Chamber.

I have seen a poll that shows that 53 percent of all self-identified Republican under the age of 34 think politicians who deny climate change are either—and I am quoting here; obviously, these would not be my words, but I am quoting—either “ignorant,” “out of touch,” or “crazy.”

So I will let the majority of young Republicans have the last word. Mr. Speaker. But the point is, I oppose this measure, and I urge my colleagues to do so as well by voting “no.”

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to yield 2 1/2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. MARINO).

Mr. MARINO. Mr. Speaker, H.R. 2 is a practical bill that would lower costs for energy, create over 1 million long-term jobs, improve our energy security, and substantially reduce red tape.

This is exactly the type of bipartisan legislation Congress should be passing to revitalize our economy and create jobs.

According to an April 2014 report issued by the U.S. Government Accountability Office, the average wait time for an environmental impact study in 2011 was running 4.6 years. This is the highest average since 1997 and includes projects with wait times of 10 to 20 years.

The World Bank and International Finance Corporation’s recent Ease of Doing Business index embarrassingly ranked the U.S. 34th in the world in the category of “dealing with construction permits.”

This is no longer a political game. This is costing the United States real dollars and jobs.

Today, the Environmental Protection Agency and other regulatory bodies are filing numerous claims to deny and delay companies from receiving permits for as long as 10 to 15 years just to break ground.

At a time when our economy is lagging and job creation is moving at a very slow pace, this is an outrage. The RAPID Act would set hard deadlines for agencies to approve or deny permits. The RAPID Act would also crack down on prolonged lawsuits, creating a window of 180 days for any claim challenging a permit decision.

This bill would also substantially streamline the process by empowering lead agencies to manage environmental reviews efficiently from start to finish to avoid waste and duplication of efforts among the bureaucratic agencies.

Mr. Speaker, simply because the leader of the Senate, HARRY REID, will not allow over 260 bills to go to the floor doesn’t mean that we should refrain from continuing to do our job here. My constituents back home deserve this legislation and America deserves this legislation, and we will continue to fight on a daily basis to make sure that we improve the economy and create jobs.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. CAPP). my colleague and good friend.

Mrs. CAPP. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, here we go again.

H.R. 2 is yet another example of the majority’s backward energy policy, which doubles-down on dirty fossil fuels instead of investing in a clean energy future. I strongly oppose it. While these bills will make the insignificant part of our energy mix for years to come, they are really only one piece of a very large energy puzzle.

So rather than focusing on dead-end, shortedighted policies, we should be considering comprehensive energy legislation that looks at the big picture. We should be investing in cutting edge research, high-tech innovations, and new clean energy technologies. We should be increasing energy efficiency, modernizing the electric grid, and promoting sustainable energy.

And we should be taking action to reduce toxic greenhouse gas emissions and finally embrace the overall science of climate change.

Not only does H.R. 2 do nothing to address the serious environmental problems we face, it also creates new ones. H.R. 2 overrides the expressed will of voters in my congressional district and California have repeatedly rejected new offshore drilling. That is why voters in my congressional district and California have repeatedly rejected new offshore drilling. Yet this bill ignores these wishes and explicitly requires new oil drilling off the central coast of California and in other areas.

I find it ironic that the same majority that decries “an overreaching Federal Government” seems to have no qualms about forcing new drilling upon local populations against their expressed wishes.

I have submitted several amendments to the Rules Committee to address this in this legislation and other problems with this bill, but none of these were made in order. The majority has prohibited consideration of any and all amendments. No debate, no votes.

And if these weren’t enough reasons to oppose H.R. 2, the bill is also completely unnecessary because the House has already passed every single provision included in this bill.

H.R. 2 is nothing more than 13 previously passed bills stapled together with a new bill number on the top.

Even worse, this is the third time this Congress, and the fifth time in 4 years, that we are voting on the exact same offshore drilling expansion legislation.

Stapling old bills together doesn’t make this a new idea.

One would think that after nearly 4 years in control of this House the majority would have come up with some new ideas by now. But sadly they just found a bigger staple machine.

H.R. 2 is simply a political gimmick and a waste of taxpayer time and money. This is no way to legislate.

September 18, 2014 CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE H7845
Mr. Speaker, the American people expect better from us. They expect us to find common ground and work together across party lines to solve our Nation’s problems. And there is certainly no shortage of problems we could be working on right now. Strengthening our economy means passing comprehensive immigration reform, making college more affordable, rebuilding our crumbling infrastructure. And that list does not even include the multitude of energy challenges that this bill completely ignores.

This is what the American people are calling for. They are calling on Congress to stop the political gimmicks, they are calling on us to help create middle class jobs to support working families, and they are calling on us to get to work and build a more prosperous and sustainable energy future for our Nation.

H.R. 2 accomplishes none of these things. This bill is simply harmful energy policy and an embarrassing waste of time.

I urge my colleagues to reject this bill and join us in working toward a clean, more sustainable, energy future for the American people.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. CASSIDY).

Mr. CASSIDY. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleagues from Nebraska, Mr. TERRY, Chairman Upton, and Chairman HASTINGS for incorporating important provisions that I have worked on in this bill, specifically provisions that would prevent or roll back onerous EPA regulations and provisions that would greatly increase revenue sharing among Gulf States, adding billions to Louisiana’s coastal restoration effort to build hurricane protection to protect not just our State but energy infrastructure.

Now, we have passed these bills before, sometimes three times before, and there are over 40 jobs bills this Chamber has passed that have gone nowhere in the Senate. The bills sit on Majority Leader HARRY REID’s desk. Senator REID and his colleagues like to speak of helping the middle class, but when it comes to a jobs bill they talk and we act.

Now, Louisiana and Louisiana’s workers are greatly benefiting from America’s energy renaissance. There are over 66 industrial projects—worth some $90 billion—that will break ground over the next 5 years in Louisiana, creating tens of thousands of new jobs for working Americans.

The only thing that can stop these jobs is Federal regulation. For example, some proposed EPA rules would destroy 117,000 jobs in Louisiana alone. Sometimes I think my colleagues on the other side of the aisle are so busy saving these that they will sacrifice the American family. My, my, I think we save the Earth by first saving the family.

We should be rolling out the red carpet for these jobs, not the red tape. But already the red tape has made these jobs more difficult and life more difficult for these families.

We have seen the price of utilities, gasoline, groceries, and, of course, health insurance increased under President Obama’s administration.

Mr. Speaker, I yield the gentleman 30 additional seconds.

Mr. CASSIDY. These jobs are at risk when President Obama blocked the ability to construct pipeline infrastructure or blocked exploration and production off the Outer Continental Shelf or places hurdles in front of the exportation of liquefied natural gas and when EPA proposes job-killing regulations driving blue-collar jobs to foreign countries.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill. I urge the Senate to pass the dozens of job-producing bills this House has passed and that have been stalled at the majority leader’s desk for months.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. Tonko).

Mr. TONKO. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from California for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, the bill before us today is yet another exercise that explains why the public has such a low opinion of Congress.

We have considered this package of bills before. The Senate will not take it up. The President and administration would not approve it. We are wasting valuable time on our last day in session before the lameduck period.

This bill does more to benefit big fossil fuel and mining interests. It would allow them to extract fossil fuels and minerals from our coastlines and public lands with no serious consideration of public health, the environment, or of the many other business interests that rely on a clean, healthy environment to support their continued success.

Our Nation has real challenges. We need faster, broader job growth in all regions of our country and in all sectors of our economy. We need a national energy policy that provides more energy security through efficiency and expanded use of renewable energy resources.

We need an energy policy that recognizes and deals with the challenges of climate change. We need a thoughtful path forward that enables a transition to the energy sector of the future that brings workers and communities into this new model productively and profitably.

We need to invest in our transportation and water infrastructure—infrastructure that is in need of repair, in need of rebuilding, and in need of redesign—to meet our needs into the future. The financing structure in place today and the Federal resources being devoted to these essential systems is outmoded and inadequate.

We need to do more to address the lingering problems from the financial debacle that crashed the economy in 2007. Too many of our citizens are still struggling under heavy debt loads as a result of the housing bubble, the stagnant wages, student loans, unemployment, and underemployment.

Our Tax Code needs revision to spur business investment, to bring down the deficit, and to make the Code fair for all taxpayers. We need to invest in research and development, the lifeline of innovation and progress; instead, this legislation proposes to provide more to a sector of the economy that is already thriving.

Oil and gas production are at record levels, as are the profits of these industries. This bill continues the same old energy policy that we have been following for decades and ignores the mounting social and environmental costs associated with its continuation. This package doubles down on carbon emissions because it is a fossil fuel only policy.

With this proposal, we ask our citizens to accept greatly reduced public health and environmental protection just to support our domestic use of these fuels, but to enhance our exports of fossil fuels.

It is sad and ironic that, during the week of the 50th anniversary of the Wilderness Act and of the Land and Water Conservation Fund—laws that recognize all the values of public lands and resources to current and future generations and that have provided so much—that we are considering this bill.

H.R. 2 represents a narrow view of natural resources as assets to be exploited for short-term profit by this generation with little regard for our stewardship responsibility to our children and to our grandchildren. If we do not act decisively and soon, our generation’s legacy will be one of short-sightedness and wasted opportunity.

We have ignored real challenges for far too long. We need to demonstrate the vision, the courage, and generosity that previous generations expressed on our behalf. We need to stop making policy in increments of months and do what we were sent here to do, govern by working together and compromising to find solutions with consideration of the present and an eye to the future with bold plans and initiatives.

Generally, I am a big fan of recycling, but H.R. 2 is only suitable for disposal. This is a deeply flawed piece of legislation. I cannot support it, and I strongly urge my colleagues to reject it.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. SCALISE), the distinguished majority whip.

Mr. SCALISE. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the distinguished gentleman from Washington for yielding and for his leadership over the years. We are going to miss him in this House, but I appreciate him leading on these energy efforts as he has over the years. I want to also thank my colleague from Nebraska (Mr. TERRY), for bringing this bill forward.

This is a jobs bill, but this is also a bill about American energy security, and, Mr. Speaker, it is a bill about national security.

Let’s go through each of those. First of all, this bill green-lights the Keystone pipeline. Here, you have got a bill that has been sitting on Barack Obama’s desk for 6 years, Mr. Speaker, where 40,000 jobs hang in the mix, and President Obama continues to say “no.”

We are finally saying “yes” to 40,000 American jobs, a great investment in a trading partner in Canada. We can get energy from Canada that we would no longer have to get from Middle Eastern countries who don’t like us, Mr. Speaker.

What this bill also does is opens up some of those vast natural resources throughout the Outer Continental Shelf that are closed right now off the coast of places like Virginia, Alaska, and, you know in Louisiana, where in our State we have said those extra revenue sources—that money that would be coming into our treasury—would help us reduce the national debt, but the revenue-sharing States would also be able to play a role in that.

If a State wants to help produce energy for America, they can also help our own economy. In our State, we said we want to focus on restoring our coast, putting that buffer in place that block the storm. If you miss the ISIL, you know that the ISIL makes over $2 billion a day from the oil fields they control that funds their terrorist activities?

Let’s become energy secure as a Nation and get the energy security that goes with it, the jobs that go with it and all the great access to those resources that improve our economy.

I urge adoption of the bill.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Montana (Mr. DAINES), a hardworking member of the Natural Resources Committee.

Mr. DAINES. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 2, the American Energy Solutions for Lower Costs and More American Jobs Act.

New tea that fueled a 21st century energy boom, but Americans are still paying way too much for everyday expenses like gas, groceries, and electricity. That is why the House has passed dozens of bills to lower energy costs and create jobs, a bill that I introduced—and passed—called the Bureau of Reclamation Conduit Hydropower Development Equity and Jobs Act.

It passed unanimously last year. This is commonsense legislation. It would expand hydropower production in a number of Western States. It creates jobs while lowering electric prices for thousands of families.

Whether it is from approving the Keystone XL pipeline to stopping these out-of-touch regulations on our coal industry, the House is fighting to protect and grow American energy and the jobs it supports.

In fact, in Montana alone, more than 5,000 jobs depend on coal, and thousands of middle class families rely on coal-fired power for an affordable source of energy. Fifty-one percent of the electric supply in Montana comes from coal.

Construction of the Keystone pipeline will not only create thousands of good jobs, it is going to help keep energy prices low for Montana families. Let me tell you why.

I was out traveling in eastern Montana in my pickup, I visited the NorVal Electric Co-op in Glasgow, Montana. It will provide power for a future Keystone pump station on the pipeline.

If Keystone is built, NorVal will be able to keep their consumers’ electric rates flat for the next 10 years, but, if it is not built, we expect that rates will grow upwards of 40 percent for those ratepayers over the course of the next decade.

These are hardworking Montana families, many of them living paycheck to paycheck, many on fixed incomes, that we will help with the Keystone pipeline.

Unfortunately, tomorrow marks the 6-year anniversary from the time the first permit to build the Keystone pipeline was filed. It took the Canadians 7 months to approve it. We are now at 6 years and waiting with this President.

The American people have waited far too long. That is why the House has passed legislation to approve its construction, but the Senate refuses to act. It is time for the Senate and the President to join us in fighting for solutions to create jobs, lower energy costs, and protect middle class American families.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. GOODLATTE), the distinguished chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. GOODLATTE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chair-
EPA on existing coal-fired plants and new coal-fired plants.

We all understand that the President of the United States views that the number one issue facing mankind today is climate change, and, while we all recognize that there is climate change, we do not view it as the most important issue facing man today.

Because of the President’s position—his extreme view—he is dictating to the EPA to take positions that are damaging to the coal industry but, make no mistake, this is far more important than the coal industry, damaging the electricity produced from coal.

Now, what does that mean to the American people?

Well, how many of you are aware that CO2 emissions in America today are lower than they have been for 20 years?

America does not have to take a backseat to any country in the world. And yet, this President, with his EPA, has passed regulations that make it impossible to build a new coal plant in America and in an amount that makes it commercially feasible to do.

So here we are in America, doing a better job than any other country in the world, and yet this President, because of his extreme views, makes it impossible to build a new coal plant.

Now, I would be the first to admit that a new coal plant is not going to be built in America because our natural gas prices are very low. We are fortunate, with the development of shale, that gas prices are extremely low.

But what if we find ourselves in the position that they found themselves in Europe?

Gas prices coming from Russia are so high that they started mothballing their natural gas plants to produce electricity and started building new coal plants, and last year, they imported 53 percent of the coal exports from America. So, in Europe, they have that flexibility.

But in America we don’t have that flexibility. So, if gas prices go up, which they may very well do, then we can’t build a new coal plant because it is too expensive and the technology is not there to meet the extreme, stringent emission standards set by EPA.

So this legislation would stop that, and it would say, EPA, you can regulate CO2 emissions, but you can build a new coal plant if you use the best available control technology.

Now, what do we do—you know, next June EPA is coming out with a new regulation that, in effect, will federalize the electricity-generating business in America for the first time. EPA is setting standard emission caps for every State in America. We already know that in Kentucky they have identified 15 coal units that will be closed down. And guess what? When they adopted this regulation, they did not do any thorough reliability studies.

Now, we all recognize that renewables play an important role, but they cannot be the base load of electricity production in America. And if America is going to remain competitive in the global marketplace, we have to have low-cost, abundant, affordable, reliable electricity.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. I yield the gentleman an additional 30 seconds.

Mr. WHITFIELD. So all we are saying today is that it’s not reasonable. This legislation will allow EPA to regulate CO2 emissions, but you can build a new coal plant if you use the best available control technology. And if you want to regulate existing plants, you adopt the regulation, but Congress will set the effective date.

The President is going to be gone from office when all of these regulations really start hitting, and America is going to be hit in its ability to compete in the global marketplace.

Mr. Speaker, I urge passage of this legislation.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 2 minutes.

I am going to have to more say about this legislation later, but I want to comment on just the views that were just made to us by gentleman from Kentucky.

He suggested that we don’t need to do anything more about climate change because greenhouse gas emissions are falling in the United States. Well, that is not an accurate story, because while U.S. greenhouse gas emissions did fall in 2008 and 2009 during the economic recession, since that time our overall emissions have grown. Cumulatively, U.S. emissions grew, not fell, in 2010 and 2011, the most recent years for which data is available.

But the fact of the matter is that if coal is being displaced by natural gas, it is not because of any regulation; it is because the market forces are moving in that direction.

And why do we want to say that is wrong? Let the market work its will.

But unless we regulate the emissions from powerplants that cause greenhouse gases to be spewed into the air, we are neglecting the major reason we have climate change in this country today.

This bill would prevent the EPA from doing anything about the problem. Burning coal would be completely unregulated, and we continue to add greenhouse gases to our atmosphere.

I think that this is hiding their heads in the sand, denying that there is climate change, denying that we need to do anything about it, pretending like it is not a problem. This is a disservice to the American people and the future of our economy.

Those businesses that develop the technologies for the future, which will be technologies that reduce carbon pollution, will be the ones where the economies are going to be benefited, not those that deny the problem and do nothing about it.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. JOHNSON).

Mr. JOHNSON of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, today I rise in strong support of H.R. 2, the American Energy Solutions for Lower Costs and More American Jobs Act.

This important legislation will unleash America’s energy potential, create thousands of jobs, and stop the administration from destroying tens of thousands of jobs. I urge all of my colleagues to support it.

Representative LAMBORN and I sponsored the Preventing Government Waste and Protecting Coal Mining Jobs in America Act, which is a portion of this package. This specific title of the bill stops the administration’s efforts to virtually eliminate underground mining in the Eastern United States, costing thousands of jobs, skyrocketing energy costs for all Americans.

Since President Obama came into office, his Department of the Interior has tried to rewrite the stream buffer zone rule, the President’s preferred rule would cost at least 7,000 direct jobs and thousands more indirect jobs. This estimate is the administration’s own estimate, and it could potentially be much worse.

As the President’s rewrite of the rule has been ongoing now for 5 years, has cost taxpayers millions of dollars, and has been the subject of an ongoing investigation by Chairman HASTINGS and the House Natural Resources Committee.

As we have seen across the administration, the Interior Department has largely refused to turn over documents and recordings to the committee in a clear violation of the House’s oversight authority. The administration is clearly holding back information that they know would be damaging to their efforts.

The House has previously passed this legislation on two separate occasions, both times on a bipartisan basis. Unfortunately, the Senate has refused to even consider the legislation either time.

I specifically want to thank Chairman HASTINGS and Chairman LAMBORN for their efforts and leadership on this issue. Without their investigation of the Department on this rulemaking process, we might not have been able to stop it from going forward. However, we will continue our oversight and make sure that the Department doesn’t try to push through a rule in their final 2 years.

Again, I thank the chairman for his hard work not only this particular title of H.R. 2, but for his work and leadership on the entire package. This legislation will be a big step forward toward energy independence and security, and I urge all of my colleagues to support the legislation.
Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 5 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, this bill is not a new bill to be presented on the House floor. It is a compilation of bills that have already been proposed and passed, for the most part, on a partisan Republican basis.

People have complained on the other side of the aisle that their bills didn’t go anywhere. Well, they didn’t go anywhere, didn’t have a prayer of going anywhere in the other body, the U.S. Senate. The President of the United States said he would veto it.

They can’t pass a bill in the House with Republican votes and put it into law. So if they can’t pass a law without working with the Democrats and reaching compromises, what Republicans think is the most effective thing to do is to say it over and over and over again.

Let’s not forget, we know that our Republican colleagues didn’t like the Affordable Care Act, sometimes known as ObamaCare, so on this House floor we voted over 50 times to repeal it. The problem we are going to repeal it and replace it. Well, we never heard what they are going to replace it with. They just wanted to repeal it. Well, they didn’t repeal it when they passed the first vote, and they didn’t repeal it when they passed the 50th vote. But they thought if they say it over and over again and do it over and over again, they would get somewhere, I presume.

When psychologists talk about this, they call it perseveration, saying the same thing over and over again.

But I don’t think this is a reasonable way to legislate. If they want to legislate and you don’t have the power, you have to compromise. You have to talk with the President. You have to talk with the Senate majority. You have to talk with your own colleagues. But the Republicans don’t want to talk to anybody except themselves over and over and over again.

Let me give you an example. Since Republicans took control of the House less than 4 years ago, they have cast over 500 antienvironmental votes. They have voted over 500 times to weaken protection for public health and the environment, to let polluters off the hook, and even to deny science.

Well, I presume they think that is a good idea. They have voted against clean renewable energy and energy efficiency policies. They voted to turn taxpayer dollars to oil companies. They have voted to allow more toxic mercury pollution in our air and more contaminants in our drinking water.

I suppose they think that is a good idea. I personally don’t agree with them nor, I think, do the American people.

They have voted repeatedly to deny the reality of climate change and block any action to cut carbon pollution. They don’t want a cap-and-trade. They don’t want a price on carbon. They don’t want the EPA to regulate.

What is their plan? Well, their plan is to deny the existence of climate change and pretend it is not doing any harm.

We have kept track of these votes that we consider antienvironmental, and there were over 300 antienvironmental votes last Congress, and today Ranking Member DEFAZIO and I released another report that there were over 200 more antienvironmental votes in this Congress.

Now, Republicans like to complain about the cost of war on coal. It is a fantasy. But there is a war on the environment that is being waged on the floor of the House, and the bill before us today is proof of that. It contains dozens of antienvironment provisions.

Let me give you an example. A law with security for America. We know, many of us, that climate change is harming us today through droughts and fires and floods and more, and we know that it will endanger our children’s future if we don’t act.

Democrats, for the most part, have recognized the threat and we know that we can tackle it while, at the same time, growing jobs and our economy.

How do we know this? Because that was the history of the Clean Air Act.

Every time we strengthened the Clean Air Act, industry opponents said it would cost too much, it would weaken our economy, it would mean lost jobs, but when we acted, we found that our air is cleaner and our economy is stronger.

Republicans take a much different approach. They refuse to admit that climate change is real because then, if they did, they would have to do something about it. Their policies embodied in this bill deny the problem and threaten our future.

Remember the health care debate? We said it is not fair to discriminate against people.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. WAXMAN. I yield myself 2 additional minutes.

We said it was not fair to discriminate and deny, allow insurance companies to deny the chance for people with pre-existing conditions to buy insurance.

The Republicans said, Oh, yeah, we don’t think that is a good idea, but they didn’t have a plan to do anything about it. They were happy to let it continue.

They wanted to say it was okay for insurance companies to put caps on the amount that the government would pay. They wanted a system where people were priced out of insurance; if they couldn’t afford it, well, that is just too bad.

They deny the realities of what has been happening to millions of Americans, and now we have a health care law that is benefiting millions of Americans.

This bill is not about health care, but they are denying these environmental problems and they are trying to keep Federal agencies from doing their job.

Powerplants are the single largest uncontrolled source of carbon pollution in the United States. EPA has proposed critically important regulations to cut carbon pollution for powerplants in a balanced, cost-effective, commonsense way.

These rules would cut smog, and they would stop deadly particulate pollution. They would save thousands of lives per year and avoid tens of billions of dollars in costs, but this bill eliminates EPA’s authority to issue any rules. Nothing can happen.

Mr. Speaker, powerplants aren’t the only source of carbon pollution. Tar sands are another big source. They produce 17 percent more carbon pollution than conventional oil, yet this bill grants a regulatory earmark to the Canadian Keystone XL pipeline, effectively exempting it from all U.S. Federal permitting requirements, including ones that apply to every other major construction project in the United States.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. WAXMAN. I yield myself an additional 1 minute.

This bill creates a new process to rubberstamp every other pending and future tar sands pipeline. It even exempts these massive projects from the National Environmental Policy Act by limiting the NEPA review, which was adopted by Congress overwhelmingly on a bipartisan basis, to only a tiny sliver of the pipeline only where it crosses the border. There are many other anti-environmental provisions. This bill would allow the Department of Energy to veto the rules established by the EPA, even though they are not within the jurisdiction or the expertise of the Department of Energy.

This all may make sense to the oil companies, and this may be a giveaway to the Koch Brothers, but I don’t think Americans would agree that this is a good bill. Energy interests should not automatically trump everything else we care about, such as raising healthy children.

Mr. Speaker, I hope my colleagues will vote against this bill. We have had it on the floor too many times, and I hope that we defeat it this time.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GOHMERT), a member of the Natural Resources Committee.

Mr. GOHMERT. Mr. Speaker, my late mother used to say maybe I should be a college professor because I really do enjoy educating people, and nothing gives me more thrill than to help educate people here on the floor.

My friend says that Republicans deny what is happening to millions of people. No. Actually, there are 11 million people who are not working today who are working when Obama took office and who are not retired. They just gave up looking for jobs. We care deeply about those people.
When it comes to climate change, my friend says the Republicans continue to deny its existence. Climate change is real. It is a fact. Where I live it happens four times a year. It is real. We acknowledge that. It is a real thing.

Now, in my friend says that coal would be completely unregulated. He is right if he is talking about HARRY REID, but if HARRY REID will bring these bills to the floor, my friend is going to see Democrats either vote for them or lose their seats. They know they have to support them, because it helps real Americans.

Now, what our President and others on the other side of the aisle don’t acknowledge is the fact that the policies they have supported help Big Oil. They help the Solyndras and those kinds of folks, but the fact is, even when President Obama proposed what he called a “jobs bill,” 95 percent are drilled and operated by independent oil companies. They are regulated. If we really want to help America, we need to pass this bill and force HARRY REID to either deal with it or lose his position as majority leader.

My friend had previously talked about wilderness areas. National parks are suffering. Why? Because this administration and my friends across the aisle and HARRY REID want to blow money on solar companies that won’t work, yet, actually, if this administration were not reducing the number of permits from 60 to 60 percent from what they were under President Clinton, then we would have all the money we would need to have the most wonderful wilderness areas and national parks that you can imagine.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I won’t take 25 minutes to rebut the statement that was just made. I yield myself 3 minutes.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I won’t take 25 minutes to rebut the statement that was just made. I yield myself 3 minutes.

I am impressed by the statement we had from a man who is trying to educate this country. He is incorrect in that Republicans worry about 11 million people not working. I don’t know if that number is right or wrong, but we have got millions of people without jobs today. It is because the Congress is busy passing, over and over again, bills to gut independent oil companies and the energy industry, and not to help people get jobs.

Now, they care so much about them, but they won’t give them unemploy-ment compensation. They care so much about them that they want to take away their food stamps. They care so much about them that they don’t want to allow them to have a minimum living wage. They care so much about them that they want them to go to the lowest paying jobs, they can possibly find, and if they can’t find them, well, it must be their own fault.

HARRY REID is the majority leader in the Senate. The Senate allows amend-ments to any bill—they don’t have to be germane to the issue. Representatives, no bill or amendment can be offered unless it is germane or permitted under the rule, and the Rules Committee is controlled by the Repub-lican leadership in the House.

If we were allowed to have voted on an immigration bill that passed overwhelmingly on a bipartisan basis in the Senate, it would have passed the House, but we were denied that opportunity. If we had been al-lowed to vote on background checks on gun purchases so that we wouldn’t find guns and assault weapons in the hands of the people who are a danger to their communities because of mental illness, or who have criminal records where they have also been accused for illegal purposes, that would have passed. Even a majority of the National Rifle Asso-ciation supports that kind of measure.

Let’s not be so pious as we educate the American people to say, “Oh, in the Senate, they can’t even consider these things,” because, in the House, we are denied every day an opportunity to talk about many things. Let me give you another example that is pertinent to this debate.

The Energy and Commerce Com-mittee has jurisdiction over the issue of climate change. We have not been able to get a single hearing that would bring in the scientists to tell us why they are concerned about climate change, to tell us all the pronounce-ments from consensus discussions among scientists internationally and here from the Institute of Medicine and the National Academy of Sciences and others as to why they think this is a problem that we have got to deal with. If you don’t even allow the scientists to talk, you are purposely encouraging your own ignorance and acting upon it.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I won’t take 25 minutes to rebut the statement that was just made. I yield myself 3 minutes.

I reserve the balance of my time.
That is what our LNG export bill does.

Many of America’s energy solutions that we are voting on today are part of the package that received, yes, strong bipartisan support in the House, but Senate Leader Reid has failed to bring any of them to the floor for a vote on.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. I yield the chairman an additional 30 seconds.

Mr. UPTON. Creating jobs and keeping energy affordable is a subject that should rise above partisanship. Today, we are giving the Senate yet another shot to try to put politics aside and American families first. We welcome the Senate to join us as we say “yes” to American jobs and “yes” to American energy.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire of the chairman how many more speakers he has?

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I will advise the gentleman that we still have several more. I will advise you when we get down to that point, but we do have several Members still waiting to speak.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. BILLIRAKIS).

Mr. BILLIRAKIS. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the American Energy Solutions for Lower Costs and More American Jobs Act. This bill is a substantive step towards making affordable energy prices and job creation across the country.

Today’s average gas price of $3.28 is well up from the $2.35 per gallon in 2009. Not only are gas prices up, but so are the prices of groceries and the prices for heating and cooling your home.

Among other important measures, this bill would approve the Keystone pipeline. Friday marks 6 years of delays on Keystone by this administration. That is too long for a job-creating measure. Domestic energy production helps middle class Americans with their everyday costs.

Vote “yes” for the middle class. Vote “yes” for jobs and more affordable energy. Vote “yes” on this bill.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

you know, they made good judgments every 2 years. Sometimes, some of us don’t like what that judgment is—but, in their wisdom, they created one of the Houses that is controlled by the Democrats, and, in their wisdom, they created a House that is controlled by Republicans.

Now, just by the very definition of that, clearly, you are going to have two different views—clearly, you are going to have two different views. I acknowledge that, and I doubt if anybody on the other side would dispute that too.

When we talk about sending bills that we think are important from here over to the Senate—and, by the way, I should add that within this package of bills were a number of bills that came out of the House Natural Resources Committee that I have the privilege to chair. Every one of them, every one of them passed with bipartisan support. That means there are Democrats that voted for it.

Here is the issue: if the Senate, then, has a different view on these topics than we do, then fine. Pass a bill. Pass a bill. Pass a bill. There is a difference between the House version and the Senate version, we have a means to work that out. It is called going to conference, but the fact is the Senate hasn’t passed anything.

So how do you go to conference? The only way that we find that we could make our point over and over and over again is to say, “Okay. We will send it over. Maybe somebody, somebody in the other body will finally get the message and say, “Maybe we ought to pass it.”

Finally, I just want to make another point too. I had the privilege of serving on the Rules Committee for 12 years, and, yes, the Rules Committee, in a larger body like the House, does set the rules for debate.

When the Democrats were in the majority, they set the rules for debate that we criticized. Obviously, they were criticized because we are agreeing to the rules for the debate, but my friend from California said that the Senate doesn’t work that way with rules. They work by unanimous consent, that anybody can offer an amendment on any bill.

Well, that may be, that may be how the Senate rules work, but, when it is manipulated by the majority leader, all that goes away. It is a process that—that doesn’t work. I don’t know a whole lot about the Senate rules—but it is a process called filling the amendment tree, amendments to be offered, and the majority leader fills the tree, and nobody has an amendment.

If it is bad, so bad over there in the last 6 years that the junior Senator from Alaska, the junior Senator from Alaska who has been there for 6 years has not had an opportunity to offer one amendment on the floor, and the junior Senator happens to be a member of the majority party. You talk about openness. There is no openness that way.

We feel in this body here that the best way to make the case by debating bills that we think are important for the American people—jobs bills, energy bills, energy security bills—the best way to do that is to continue to send the same stuff over to the Senate. Maybe, maybe—because hope springs eternal, at least from my perspective—they will take one of these up.

All they have to do, by the way, is take up one of these bills and change it and send it back over here, and we will negotiate the differences. I doubt they haven’t even done that. You see, that was never acknowledged during this whole debate of defense of what the Senate has or has not done, but, as a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, that is exactly what has happened, and that is why we are where we are.

Mr. Speaker, this is, once again, a very good bill that deals with energy and energy security and American jobs. I urge its passage, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SANFORD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to support this bill. I believe in energy independence, as do the people represent at home, and accordingly am supportive of opening up these offshore areas—but I do not think this should be done without adequate assurance and input of coastal states that might be affected were something to go wrong. This fits with what I have consistently heard from people up and down the coast.

Not all decisions must be made in Washington, and the idea of a drilling rig going up just a few miles from our coast without having to acknowledge any degree of state input to me is the codification of Washington control. Some may be for a drilling rig these few thousands of feet from their local beach, others may be against it—but in keeping with the principal of federalism, that decision needs to be made by those affected—not an unelected government worker in DC.

Toward that end, I introduced a bill, H.R. 3051, the Coastal States Extension Act of 2013, which would allow the states to negotiate the difference, but they—when they have—when they haven’t even done that. You see, that was never acknowledged during this whole debate of defense of what the Senate has or has not done, but, as a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, that is exactly what has happened, and that is why we are where we are.

agencies to pretend that climate change has no impact on our communities, and limit oversight on drilling projects on federal lands—will not improve our energy security. They will endanger our health and resources.

There is nothing new in today's debate. This package resurrects the same old ideas that the Majority has been pushing, without result, since 2011. Rather than working together for the American people, they are recycling the same partisan agenda. Our constituents deserve better. I urge a no vote.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. All time for debate has expired.

Pursuant to House Resolution 727, the previous question is ordered on the bill.

The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.
The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read the third time.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Mr. Speaker, I have a motion to recommit the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is the gentleman opposed to the bill?

Mr. SCHNEIDER. I am opposed in its original form.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will report the motion to recommit.

The Clerk reads as follows:

Mr. Schneider moves to recommit the bill H.R. 2 to the Committee on Natural Resources and the Committee on Energy and Commerce with instructions to report the same back to the House forthwith with the following amendment:

Add at the end the following:

DIVISION D—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 1. POLICING EXCESSIVE SPECULATION IN ENERGY MARKETS.

The Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 181 et seq.) is amended by redesignating section 44 as section 45, and by inserting after section 45 the following:

"SEC. 44. REVENUES TO BE MADE AVAILABLE TO THE COMMODITY FUTURES TRADING COMMISSION.

"(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF TREASURY ACCOUNT.—The Secretary of the Treasury (in this section referred to as the 'Secretary') shall establish an account in the Treasury of the United States:

"(b) DEPOSIT INTO ACCOUNT OF CERTAIN REVENUES GENERATED BY THIS ACT.—The Secretary shall deposit into the account established under subsection (a) $10,000,000 of the total of the amounts received by the United States each fiscal year under leases issued under this Act or any plan, strategy, or program under that Act:

"(c) AVAILABILITY AND USE OF FUNDS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), the amounts in the account established under subsection (a) shall be made available to the Commodity Futures Trading Commission to use its existing authorities to limit excessive speculation in energy markets:

"(2) SUBJECT TO APPROPRIATIONS.—The authority provided in paragraph (1) may be exercised only to such extent, and with respect to such amounts, as are provided in advance in appropriations acts:

SEC. 2. PROTECTING NATIONAL SECURITY.

Any lease issued pursuant to this Act shall specify that United States oil, petroleum products, and natural gas shall not be exported to any nation, corporation, or person that—

(1) provides material support to al Qaeda, the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant, or other terrorist organizations;

(2) is a state sponsor of terrorism; or

(3) steals American technology or intellectual property through cyber-attacks such as Russia and China.

SEC. 3. NO EXPEDITED PERMITTING FOR CORPORATIONS THAT RELEASE TOXIC AIR POLLUTANTS FROM PETROLEUM COKE.

Section 17(p)(2) of the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 229(p)(2)), as amended by section 2111 of division B of this Act, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(c) EXPEDITED PERMITTING FOR CORPORATIONS THAT RELEASE TOXIC AIR POLLUTANTS FROM PETROLEUM COKE.—Subparagraphs (A), (B), (C), and (D) shall not apply to any corporation or other person that owns petroleum coke stored at a petroleum coke facility, or owns or operates such a facility, that—

(1) releases toxic air pollutants that harm air quality or contaminate drinking water; and

(2) is located within 5 miles of a school, hospital, or nursing home.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Illinois?

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Objection is heard.

The Clerk will read.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk continued to read.

As I read this legislation, I asked myself a simple question: What in this bill would roll back commonsense safeguards that protect the communities I represent and the Great Lakes upon which we depend from poisoning by harmful pollutants emitted from powerplants?

This bill would reduce the quality of our drinking water and threaten the safety of the air we breathe. This bill would deny the necessity of combating climate change through the regulation of greenhouse gases, even as the communities I represent and the communities around our country have been ravaged by unprecedented severe weather events that can only be attributed to the effects of climate change.

This bill does not create a healthier environment for our children; instead, it sacrifices our ability to pass future generations their rightful legacy of a clean, healthy, and dynamic natural world.

For these and other related reasons, I offer an amendment to this legislation. This amendment would seek to limit the release of toxic air pollutants around schools, hospitals, and nursing homes from the massive storage of petroleum coke in populated areas.

This toxic dust, when improperly stored, can easily become an airborne pollutant which the EPA has shown to cause severe health effects to the heart and lungs. It would ensure that we safeguard our strategic resources by denying U.S. oil and gas exports from being sold to any country, company, or individual that supports or harbors terrorist organizations, including ISIS or al Qaeda.

Denying our enemies these critical resources is in the vital national security interest of the United States.

Finally, this amendment would empower the Commodity Futures Trading Commission to combat energy speculation which manipulates fuel prices and distorts markets, harming consumers at the gas pump.

Increasing these efforts will bolster transparency for consumers while discouraging bad actors from gaming energy markets for financial gain.

Like many of my colleagues in this Chamber, I want to pursue an energy policy that utilizes an all-of-the-above strategy, including renewable energy and innovative technologies to save consumers money at the pump and lower their home energy costs.

Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, the underlying legislation does not achieve this goal, and, in fact, would do harmful damage to our environment and the health of our communities. My amendment would be a step forward rather than several steps backward in the underlying bill.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to support this commonsense amendment, and yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the gentleman’s amendment.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is recognized for 5 minutes to debate the bill.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, this is probably my last opportunity to respond to a Democratic motion to recommit, and I have heard a whole gamut of them in the time that I have had the privilege to do that, and I kind of surmise, from reading the motion to recommit, that he is talking about energy and energy supply.
Well, Mr. Speaker, that is precisely what the underlying legislation is all about. My friends on the other side of the aisle talked about how oil and gas production has gone up in the United States—increased in the United States—which it has.

But, Mr. Speaker, he left out the important part: it is not because of this administration, it is in spite of this administration’s actions, because all of that activity is increasing on State and private lands where they don’t have the burdensome regulation from the Federal Government inhibiting that growth.

However, the focus of this legislation is to do exactly the same thing which happened on private and State lands on Federal lands because, if you have a problem with supply, what is the best way to respond to that? You increase the opportunity for supply.

What does that do to the marketplace? In the long run, it tends to lower prices. Who benefits? American people, American jobs.

Mr. Speaker, I just simply want to say these motions to recommit have been procedural motions. They have been political motions over time, not that that isn’t something we deal with on the floor, but, once again, it is a motion that, I think, is not worthy of passing.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to reject—the motion to recommit and vote for the underlying bill, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion to recommit.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to reject—the motion to recommit and vote for the underlying bill, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the previous question is ordered on the motion to recommit.

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion to recommit.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the yeas appeared to have it.

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of today, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until approximately 6 p.m. today.

Accordingly (at 5 o’clock and 20 minutes p.m.), the House stood in recess.

□ 1801

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. Womack) at 6 o’clock and 1 minute p.m.

JOBS FOR AMERICA ACT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 1(c) of rule XIX, further consideration of the bill (H.R. 4) to make revisions to Federal law to improve the conditions necessary for economic growth and job creation, and for other purposes, will now resume.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. BISHOP of New York. Mr. Speaker, I have a motion to recommit at the desk.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is the motion to recommit the bill (H.R. 4) to the Committee on Ways and Means with instructions to report the same back to the House forthwith with the following amendment:

Add at the end of division I the following new title:

TITLE VIII—STOP CORPORATIONS FROM OUTSOURCING AMERICAN JOBS

SEC. 801. CREDIT FOR INSOURCING EXPENSES.

(a) In General.—Subpart D of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"SEC. 45S. CREDIT FOR INSOURCING EXPENSES."

"(a) In General.—The term ‘eligible insourcing expenses’ means—"

"(1) any trade or business, and"

"(2) any line of business, or functional unit, which is part of any trade or business.

"(b) 100 Percent Credit.—The term ‘expanded affiliated group’ means an affiliated group as defined in section 1564(a), determined with respect to section 1540(b)(3) and by substituting ‘more than 50 percent’ for ‘at least 80 percent’ each place it appears in section 1504(a). A partnership or any other entity (other than a corporation) shall be treated as a member of an expanded affiliated group if such entity is controlled (within the meaning of section 954(d)(3)) by one or more members of such group which treated as a member of such group by reason of this paragraph.

"(5) Expenses Must Be Pursuant to Insourcing Plan.—Amounts shall be taken into account under paragraph (1) only to the extent that such amounts are paid or incurred pursuant to a written plan to carry out the relocation described in paragraph (1).

"(6) Operating Expenses Not Taken into Account.—Any amount paid or incurred in connection with the establishment or elimination of a business unit shall not be treated as an amount paid or incurred in connection with the establishment or elimination of such business unit.

"(c) Increased Domestic Employment Requirement.—No credit shall be allowed under this section unless the number of full-time equivalent employees of the taxpayer for the taxable year ending before the first taxable year in which such eligible insourcing expenses were paid or incurred for purposes of this section was greater than the number of full-time equivalent employees of the taxpayer in the second taxable year ending before the first taxable year in which such eligible insourcing expenses were paid or incurred. For purposes of paragraph (1), any full-time equivalent employee (as otherwise defined in section 45R(e)) paid with respect to services performed within the United States. All employers treated as a single employer under subsection (b), (c), (m), or (o) of section 414 shall be treated as a single employer for purposes of this subsection.

"(d) Credit Allowed Upon Completion of Insourcing Plan.—"

"(1) In General.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), eligible insourcing expenses shall be taken into account under subsection (a) in the taxable year during which the plan described in subsection (b)(5) has been completed and all eligible insourcing expenses pursuant to such plan have been paid or incurred.

"(2) Election to Apply Employment Test and Claim Credit in First Full Taxable Year. —The taxpayer may elect to claim the credit in the first taxable year after the taxable year described in paragraph (1).

"(3) Possessions Treated as Part of the United States.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘United States’ shall be treated as including each possession of the United States (including the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands).

"(4) Regulations.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations or other guidance as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this section."

"(b) Credit to Be Part of General Business Credit.—Subsection (b) of section 38 of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new item:"

"(45) Credit for insourcing expenses."
paid or incurred after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(e) Application to United States Possessions.—

(1) Payments to Possessions.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall make periodic payments to each possession of the United States which does not have a mirror code tax system in an amount equal to the loss to that possession by reason of section 45B of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. Such amount shall be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, under which such possession will promptly distribute such payment to the residents of such possession.

(2) With Credit Allowed Against United States Income Taxes.—No credit shall be allowed against United States income taxes under section 45B of such Code to any person—

(A) to whom a credit is allowed against taxes imposed by the possession by reason of such section, or

(B) eligible for a payment under a plan described in paragraph (1)(B).

(3) Definitions and Special Rules.—

(A) Possessions of the United States.—For purposes of this section, the term “possession of the United States” includes the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

(B) Mirror Code Tax System.—For purposes of this section, the term “mirror code tax system” means, with respect to any possession of the United States, the income tax system of such possession if the income tax liability of the residents of such possession under such system is determined by reference to the income tax laws of the United States as if such possession were the United States.

(C) Treatment of Payments.—For purposes of this section, the term “mirror code tax system” includes the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

(D) Regulations.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations or other guidance as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this section, including regulations increasing the threshold percent applied by substituting ‘80 percent’ for ‘60 percent’ for purposes of paragraph (3)(B)(ii).

(E) Application of Certain Definitions and Rules.—

(1) Definitions.—For purposes of this section, the terms ‘specified outsourcing expense’, ‘business unit’, and ‘expanded affiliated group’ shall have the respective meanings given such terms in section 45B.

(2) Operating Expenses Not Taken into Account.—A rule similar to the rule of section 45B(b)(6) shall apply for purposes of this section.

(F) Special Rules.—

(1) Application to Deductions for Depreciation and Amortization.—In the case of any portion of a specified outsourcing expense which is not deductible in the taxable year in which paid or incurred, such portion shall neither be chargeable to capital account nor amortizable.

(2) Possessions Treated as Part of the United States.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘United States’ shall be treated as including each possession of the United States (including the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands).

(G) Regulations.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations or other guidance as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this section, including regulations increasing the threshold percent applied by substituting ‘80 percent’ for ‘60 percent’ for purposes of paragraph (3)(B)(ii).

(4) Earnings and Profits Determined Without Regard to Specified Outsourcing Expenses.—Subsection (c) of section 862 of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(4) Earnings and Profits Determined Without Regard to Specified Outsourcing Expenses.—For purposes of this subsection, earnings and profits determined for a foreign corporation shall be determined without regard to any specified outsourcing expense (as defined in paragraph (4)).

(H) Clerical Amendment.—The table of sections for part IX of subchapter B of chapter 1 of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

“Sec. 2981. Outsourcing expenses.”

(I) Effective Date.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to amounts paid or incurred after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Title IX—Stop Corporations from Moving Overseas to Avoid Paying Taxes

Sec. 901. Modifications to Rules Relating to Inverted Corporations.

(a) In General.—Subsection (b) of section 7874 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended to read as follows:

“(b) Inverted Corporations Treated as Domestic Corporation.—

(1) In General.—Notwithstanding section 7874(b)(2), if a corporation shall be treated for purposes of this title as a domestic corporation if—

(A) such corporation would be a surrogate foreign subsidiary for purposes of section 7874(b)(2) were applied by substituting ‘80 percent’ for ‘60 percent’, or “(B) such corporation is an inverted domestic corporation.

(2) Inverted Domestic Corporation.—For purposes of this subsection, a foreign corporation shall be treated as an inverted domestic corporation if, pursuant to a plan or a series of related transactions—

(A) the entity completes after May 8, 2014, the plan or related transactions—

(i) substantially all of the assets of, or substantially all of the properties constituting a trade or business of, a domestic partnership, and

(ii) after the acquisition, either—

(1) more than 50 percent of the stock (by vote or value) of the entity is held by—

(I) in the case of an acquisition with respect to a domestic partnership, by former shareholders of the domestic partnership by reason of holding stock in the domestic corporation, or

(II) in the case of an acquisition with respect to a domestic partnership, by former partners of the domestic partnership by reason of holding a capital or profits interest in the domestic partnership, or

(2) the management and control of the expanded affiliated group which includes the entity occurs, directly or indirectly, primarily within the United States, and such expanded affiliated group has significant domestic business activities.

(3) Exception for Corporations with Substantial Business Activities in Foreign Country of Organization.—A foreign corporation described in paragraph (2) shall not be treated as an inverted domestic corporation if after the acquisition the expanded affiliated group which includes the entity has substantial business activities in the foreign country in which or under the law of which the entity is created or organized when compared to the total business activities of such expanded affiliated group. For purposes of subsection (a)(2)(B)(iii) and the preceding sentence, the term ‘substantial business activities’ shall have the meaning given such term under regulations in effect on May 8, 2014, except that the Secretary may issue regulations increasing the threshold percent applied by substituting ‘80 percent’ for ‘60 percent’ in any of the tests under such regulations for determining if business activities constitute substantial business activities for purposes of paragraph (2).

(4) Management and Control.—For purposes of paragraph (2)(B)(ii)—

(A) In General.—The Secretary shall prescribe regulations for determining in which the management and control of an expanded affiliated group is to be treated as occurring, directly or indirectly, primarily within the United States. The regulations prescribed under the preceding sentence shall apply to periods after May 8, 2014.

(B) Executive Officers and Senior Management.—Such regulations shall provide that the management and control of an expanded affiliated group shall be treated as occurring, directly or indirectly, primarily within the United States if substantially all of the executive officers and senior management of the expanded affiliated group who exercise day-to-day responsibilities are making decisions involving strategic, financial, and operational policies of the expanded affiliated group are based or primarily located within the United States or if in fact exercise such day-to-day responsibilities shall be treated as executive officers and senior management regardless of their title. Such regulations may also provide for significant downstream activities. For purposes of paragraph (2)(B)(ii), an expanded affiliated group has significant domestic business activities if at least 25 percent of—

“(A) the employees of the group are based in the United States,

“(B) the employee compensation incurred by the group is incurred with respect to employees based in the United States,

“(C) the assets of the group are located in the United States, or “(D) the income of the group is derived in the United States, determined in the same manner as such determinations are made for purposes of determining domestic business activities under regulations referred to in paragraph (3) as in effect on May 8, 2014, but applied by treating all references in such regulations to ‘foreign country’ or ‘foreign countries’ as references to ‘the United States’. The Secretary may issue regulations reducing the threshold percent in any of the tests under such regulations for determining if business activities constitute significant domestic business activities for purposes of this paragraph.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Clause (1) of section 7874(a)(2)(B) of such Code is amended by striking “after March 4, 2003,” and inserting “after March 4, 2003, and before May 9, 2014.”.

(2) Subsection (c) of section 7874 of such Code is amended—

(A) in paragraph (2)—

(i) by striking “subsection (a)(2)(B)(i)” and inserting “subsection (a)(2)(B)(i) and (b)(2)(B)(i)”;

(ii) by inserting “or (b)(2)(A)” after “(a)(2)(B)(i)” in subparagraph (B);

(B) in paragraph (3), by inserting “or (b)(2)(B)(i), as the case may be,” after “(a)(2)(B)(i)”;

(C) in paragraph (5), by striking “subsection (a)(2)(B)(i)” and inserting “subsections (a)(2)(B)(i) and (b)(2)(B)(i)”, and

(D) in paragraph (6), by inserting “or inverted domestic corporation,” as the case may be,” after “surrogate foreign corporation”.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years ending after May 9, 2014. SEC. 902. TAX BENEFITS DISALLOWED IN CASE OF INVERTED CORPORATIONS.

In the case of a foreign corporation treated as an inverted domestic corporation under section 7874(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, none of the provisions of this title shall be applied and administered as if the provisions of, and amendments made by, this division (other than this title) had never been enacted.

Add at the end of the bill the following:

DIVISION VI—PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF THE MIDDLE CLASS JANUARY START AHEAD

SEC. 101. The Speaker of the House of Representatives shall, as if pursuant to clause 2(b) of rule XVIII of the Rules of the House, declare the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for consideration of the bill (H.R. 3977), the Paycheck Fairness Act. The first reading of the bill shall be dispensed with. All points of order against further consideration of the bill are waived. General debate shall be confined to the bill and amendments thereto to final passage without intervening motion except one motion to recommit with or without instructions. If the Committee of the Whole rises and reports that it has come to no resolution on the bill, then on the next legislative day the House shall, immediately after the third daily order of business under clause 1 of rule XIV of the Rules of the House, resolve into the Committee of the Whole for further consideration of the bill.

SEC. 106. Clause 1(c) of rule XIX of the Rules of the House shall not apply to the consideration of H.R. 377, H.R. 1010, H.R. 4582, H.R. 1286, or H.R. 3461 pursuant to this Division.

SEC. 107. It shall not be in order in the House to consider any measure or motion waiving the requirements of this Division.

Mr. BISHOP of New York (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to dispense with the reading.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New York is recognized for 5 minutes in support of his motion.

Mr. BISHOP of New York. Mr. Speaker, this is the final amendment to the bill. I am going to request that it be sent back to committee. If adopted, the bill will immediately proceed to final passage.
Mr. Speaker, my straightforward amendment adds three important provisions to the underlying bill that, unfortunately, continue to be ignored by the majority.

First, this amendment declares that any company engaged in the offshoreing of American jobs will be ineligible for Federal tax breaks.

I think that every Member of Congress can agree that if a company wants to ship domestic jobs overseas, U.S. taxpayers should not be expected to pick up the tab; yet H.R. 4, as currently written, does nothing to prevent outsourcers from receiving Federal tax breaks. My amendment addresses this egregious omission.

Second, the amendment prevents hardworking American families from subsidizing so-called inverted domestic corporations. It is important to remember that an inverted domestic corporation is a business that is incorporated in the United States but whose leaders have chosen to incorporate overseas.

These businesses typically reincorporate on foreign soil in order to avoid paying family sick leave, and early childhood development.

This Congress has the opportunity to make clear that it will not tolerate Tax Code manipulators taking advantage of tax breaks and sticking the middle class with the bill.

Finally, my amendment allows the House to move the economy forward by bringing up for consideration components of the Democratic jump-start agenda: pay equity, an increased minimum wage, student loan refinancing, paid family sick leave, and early childhood education.

These policies have the overwhelming support of the American people and are needed if we are to see seriously the goal of strengthening the middle class and making it possible for families to get their slice of the American Dream. Unsurprisingly, the House has been adding this impending recession of any of these pressing issues, but we can today, by passing this amendment.

Rather than take up these important issues, the Republican majority instead prepares to adjourn the House for a 54-day recess, this impending recession of any of these pressing issues, but we can today, by passing this amendment.

In fact, the U.S. House of Representatives will have been in session for a grand total of 8 days in the 101-day span between August 1 and November 12. The American people sent us here to work and find solutions facing their family each and every day. This is simply unacceptable.

Mr. Speaker, more work needs to be done. Let’s pass this amendment and actually get to work on addressing the mounting and diverse needs of our constituents. The time for political games is over; the time for action is now.

I urge a “yes” vote on the motion to recommit, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Speaker, I oppose the motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Ohio is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Speaker, the motion to recommit does not solve the problem that the gentleman talked about. There is nothing in the bill that will solve the problem that the gentleman talked about, and it is about lowering corporate rates and going to a territorial system, which all other countries in the world have been successful in stopping the problem from happening.

America has not led. America has fallen behind. The gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CAMP) has led. He has a draft that seeks to solve this problem. There hasn’t been any leadership from the House Democrats. There hasn’t been any leadership on the issue from Senate Democrats, and there certainly hasn’t been any leadership from the White House.

Everything in this bill before us today, Mr. Speaker, is bipartisan, meaning Democrats and Republicans have supported it. Everything in this bill, Mr. Speaker, will help Americans create American jobs. There is no reason not to support this bill, except what is happening in November.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on the motion to recommit and vote “yes” on this American job-creating bill.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion to recommit. The motion was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. BISHOP of New York. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.
Mssrs. HANNA, FARENTHOLD, CULBERSON, TIPTON, TURNER, and Mrs. HARTZLER changed their vote from "yea" to "nay."

So the motion to recommit was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

Stated for:

Mrs. DAVIS of California. Mr. Speaker, on rocall No. 512, I had been present, I would have voted "yea."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the passage of the bill.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. MCDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the House, I would like to offer Doctor, Congressman, General Heck our warmest and most sincere congratulations.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, 5-minute voting will continue.

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The unfinished business is the vote on the motion to recommit the bill (H.R. 2) to remove Federal Government obstacles to the production of more domestic energy to ensure transport of that energy reliably to businesses, consumers, and other end users; to lower the cost of energy to consumers; to enable manufacturers and other businesses to access domestically produced energy affordably and reliably in order to create and sustain more secure and well-paying American jobs; and for other purposes, offered by the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. SCHNEIDER), on which the yeas and nays were ordered.

The Clerk will redesignate the motion.

The Clerk redesignated the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion to recommit.

The Clerk redesignated the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question on the passage of the bill. The yeas and nays were ordered. The question was taken; and the result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered. The SPEAKER pro tempore. This is a 5-minute vote.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 226, nays 193, nays 222, not voting 16, as follows:

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE
September 17, 2014

Mr. ROYCE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Foreign Affairs be discharged from further consideration of the resolution (H. Res. 707) condemning all forms of anti-Semitism and rejecting attempts to justify anti-Jewish hatred or violent attacks as an acceptable expression of disapproval or frustration over political events in the Middle East or elsewhere, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the text of the resolution.

CONDEMNING ALL FORMS OF ANTI-SEMITISM

Mr. ROYCE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Foreign Affairs be discharged from further consideration of the resolution (H. Res. 707) condemning all forms of anti-Semitism and rejecting attempts to justify anti-Jewish hatred or violent attacks as an acceptable expression of disapproval or frustration over political events in the Middle East or elsewhere, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the text of the resolution.

PROVIDING FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF MICHAEL LYNTON AS A CITIZEN REGENT OF THE BOARD OF REGENTS OF THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

Mr. HARPER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on House Administration be discharged from further consideration of the joint resolution (S.J. Res. 40) providing for the appointment of Michael Lynton as a citizen regent of the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The text of the joint resolution is as follows:

S.J. Res. 40

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That, in accordance with section 5581 of the Revised Statutes (20 U.S.C. 43), the vacancy on the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution, in the class to which the late A. Cordova of Indiana became a member on March 13, 2014, is filled by the appointment of Michael Lynton of California, for the term of 6 years, beginning on the date of enactment of this joint resolution.

The joint resolution was ordered to be read a third time, was read the third time, and passed, and a motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

So the bill was passed. The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

PERSOINAL EXPLANATION

EXPRESSING THE CONDOLENCES OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES TO THE FAMILIES OF JAMES FOLEY AND STEVEN SOTLOFF AND CONDEMNING THE TERRORIST ACTS OF THE ISLAMIC STATE OF IRAQ AND THE LEVANT

Mr. ROYCE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Foreign Affairs be discharged from further consideration of House Resolution 734, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. Res. 734

Whereas James Foley and Steven Sotloff were highly respected journalists whose integrity and dedication were a credit to their profession;

Whereas James Foley and Steven Sotloff embodied the spirit of our Nation’s First Amendment liberties, including the freedom of the press;

Whereas James Foley and Steven Sotloff made significant contributions to our Nation through their courageous reporting of events in Libya, Syria, and elsewhere; and

Whereas the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL) is a terrorist organization responsible for committing barbaric acts against United States citizens, religious and ethnic minorities, and those who do not subscribe to ISIL’s depraved, violent, and oppressive ideology: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—
  (1) strongly condemns the terrorist acts of ISIL, including the barbaric and deplorable murders of James Foley and Steven Sotloff;
  (2) salutes James Foley and Steven Sotloff for their unwavering and courageous pursuit of journalistic excellence under the most difficult and dangerous of conditions;
  (3) mourns the deaths of James Foley and Steven Sotloff; and
  (4) offers condolences to the families, friends, and loved ones of James Foley and Steven Sotloff.

The resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

HOUR OF MEETING ON TOMORROW

Mr. ROYCE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that when the House adjourns today, it adjourn to meet at noon tomorrow.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Ms. Curtis, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate has passed without amendment a bill and a joint resolution of the House of the following titles:

H.R. 4323. An act to reauthorize programs authorized under the Debbie Smith Act of 2004, and for other purposes.

H.J. Res. 124. Joint resolution making continuing appropriations for fiscal year 2015, and for other purposes.

A SPECIAL BIRTHDAY TRIBUTE TO KERMIT WOMACK

(Mr. WOBACK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. WOBACK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to offer special birthday wishes to someone very important to me, my father, Kermit Womack.

Dad turns 80 years old tomorrow, and it is a special honor to recognize him for his many outstanding accomplishments.

He is a 35-year veteran of the National Guard in Missouri and Arkansas. As an accomplished broadcaster, owning and operating five broadcast stations in Arkansas, his ‘‘old school’’ philosophy of community-involvement radio is legendary. He is also a dedicated cattlemaster.

Mr. Speaker, Dad is also a great family man. He raised seven children and taught them the important and valuable lessons of life, and he should know because, as a child in humble circumstances, Dad won a three-State FFA public speaking contest and a scholarship to pay his way through college.

Dad, on the eve of your 80th birthday, I want America to know the importance you have meant to your family, the communities you serve, the Nation, and this grateful Congressman. Happy birthday.

CLINICAL RESEARCH EFFORTS

(Mr. PETERS of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)
Mr. PETERS of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to highlight the valuable and lifesaving contributions of America’s clinical research efforts and to urge my colleagues to support my resolution to make September clinical research innovation month.

Innovative scientific research are critical to ensuring America’s future competitiveness. San Diego understands this and has become a hub for innovation and technology.

Clinical research organizations are components of our leading innovation sector and across the country. They are fundamental to the development of drugs, biologics, and medical devices that are changing the face of health care in America.

Mr. Speaker, last year alone, clinical research efforts led to over 85 new drugs approved by the FDA, aiding in the fights against cancer, diabetes, Alzheimer’s, and many other ailments.

Clinical research connected to the veterans hospital in San Diego is looking for the best ways to treat our brave men and women as they return home.

The lifesaving innovations coming out of clinical research are helping people across the country live longer and healthier lives, and I encourage my colleagues to join me in establishing clinical research innovation month.

THE ISLAMIC STATE IN THE LEVANT

(Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, it is hard to overstate the threat posed by ISIL. Former U.S. Ambassador to Iraq and Afghanistan Ryan Crocker recently stated:

I call it al Qaeda version 6.0. They are far more organized, equipped, and funded. They are a determined and capable enemy who has the space and time to keep the streets of Union City safe, and he will be sorely missed.

I also wish Brian well as he enters the next phase of his life. I am sure he is looking forward to spending more time with his wife and children. After so many years of hard work for the people of Union City, this opportunity is well-deserved.

RECOGNIZING UNION CITY POLICE CHIEF BRIAN FOLEY

(Mr. SWALWELL of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SWALWELL of California. Mr. Speaker, it is my honor to recognize Union City Police Chief Brian Foley as he retires at the end of September after almost 30 years of service.

Brian grew up in California before graduating from California State University, Chico, with a degree in business administration. In 1986, Brian joined the Union City Police Department, fulfilling a dream of becoming a police officer. He worked for the Union City Police Department in a variety of areas, including crime scene investigator, homicide detective, and SWAT team member. His hard work and skills propelled him into leadership roles such as SWAT team leader, sergeant, captain, and—since January 2012—chief.

On behalf of the residents of Union City and the 15th Congressional District, I want to thank Chief Foley for his years of dedicated and courageous service. He has played a key role in helping to keep the streets of Union City safe, and he will be sorely missed.

I also wish Brian well as he enters the next phase of his life. I am sure he is looking forward to spending more time with his wife and children. After so many years of hard work for the people of Union City, this opportunity is well-deserved.

RECOGNIZING DR. BINDUKUMAR KANSUPADA OF YARDLEY, BUCKS COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA

(Mr. FITZPATRICK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I rise before you today to recognize Dr. Bindukumar Kansupada of Yardley, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, a member of the Eighth Congressional District, my constituent, and my good friend.

As a cardiologist, successful business man, and faithful community servant, Dr. Kansupada has been an incredible asset for the health and well-being of the families that call the Delaware Valley home.

As a member of both my physician’s advisory and Indian American communities, Dr. Kansupada’s talents and experience have been a vital part of my legislative and outreach efforts as we work together to provide Bucks County families with the type of patient-centered health care solutions that keep our communities happy and healthy.

Mr. Speaker, I am honored to call Dr. Kansupada a personal friend of mine, and I look forward to partnering with him in the future so that Bucks County continues to be a great place to live, to work, to raise a family, and to grow old in.

JIHADISTS KILLING AMERICAN SOLDIERS

(Mr. GOHMERT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GOHMERT. Mr. Speaker, an article today by Andrew McCarthy that I want to read in part.

Meanwhile, back in Afghanistan . . . Bill Roggio reports that jihadists have killed four American soldiers. Three were killed in a suicide bombing in Kabul and the Taliban have claimed responsibility. A fourth was killed in a so-called “green-on-blue” assassination. He was an American there to train “moderate Islamist allies” at a military base in western Afghanistan, and one of these Afghans shot him dead and wounded two others before finally being killed.

It was the fourth green-on-blue attack this year against Americans. There has been a life of Major General Harold Greene, the highest ranking American officer since the of Georgetown University, and he was reported missing. He is a graduate of Georgetown University, and he was 31st birthday in Syria. On August 13, he was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks. (From the National Review Online, Sept. 18, 2014)

TRAINING ‘MODERATE ISLAMISTS’—FOUR MORE AMERICANS KILLED IN AFGHANISTAN

(And by Andrew C. McCarthy)

Meanwhile back in Afghanistan . . . the Long War Journal’s Bill Roggio reports that jihadists have killed four American soldiers. Three were killed in a suicide bombing in Kabul for which the Taliban have claimed responsibility. A fourth was killed in a so-called “green-on-blue” assassination—i.e., he was an American there to train our “moderate Islamist allies” at a military base (in Western Afghanistan), and one of these Afghans shot him dead and wounded two others before finally being killed.

It was the fourth green-on-blue attack this year. In fact, the last one, August, which claimed the life of Major General Harold Greene, the highest ranking American officer since the Vietnam War to be killed in combat—being murdered at an American base while preparing to deploy for combat against jihadists (is considered “workplace violence”). As Bill explains, green-on-blue attacks are down, from 44 in 2011. As we went to press, mostly because of the U.S. draw-down and reduced “partnering” with the “moderate” Afghan forces (because doing so has proven perilous).

Nevertheless, Bill observes that the Taliban “have devoted significant efforts to stepping up attempts to kill” U.S. and allied forces. Mullah Omar has bragged that the Taliban “cleverly infiltrated the ranks of the enemy” in accordance with a plan hatched in 2011. As I’ve noted before, the Taliban knows an enemy in accordance with a plan hatched in 2011. As I’ve noted before, the Taliban knows how to make the U.S. draw-down and reduced “partnering” with the “moderate” Afghan forces (because doing so has proven perilous).

As a result of his service in San Antonio, their police department is more well-respected, more well-trained than ever in San Antonio’s history. Chief McManus I first met when he was testifying before the legislature and I served as chair of the committee on criminal jurisprudence.

I know well his passion for law enforcement and his passion for people. We will miss him dearly at the city, but we wish him well in his future endeavors.

HONORING THE RETIREMENT OF WILLIAM McMANUS

(Mr. GALLEG O asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GALLEG O. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to say thank you to Bill McManus, William McManus, who has announced his retirement as the chief of the San Antonio Police Department in the seventh largest city in the country.

Chief McManus has been on board in San Antonio for some 8 years, but he brought with him 30 years of experience in law enforcement in such areas as diverse as narcotics, tactical positions, criminal investigations, internal investigations, the full range of experience.

As a result of his service in San Antonio, their police department is more well-respected, more well-trained than ever in San Antonio’s history.

Chief McManus I first met when he was testifying before the legislature and I served as chair of the committee on criminal jurisprudence.

I know well his passion for law enforcement and his passion for people. We will miss him dearly at the city, but we wish him well in his future endeavors.

HONORING JAZZ LEGEND JOE SAMPLE

(Ms. JACKSON LEE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor and mourn a great American in my district. His name is Joe Sample. He made people happy by the wonderful jazz that he played.

Born in 1939, in his high school he joined with his band and created the Jazz Crusaders. In doing so, he enjoyed a wonderful career that saw him working with people such as Miles Davis, George Benson, Jimmy Witherspoon, B.B. King, Eric Clapton, Steely Dan, and the Supremes. He incorporated jazz in many things that he did, but he also understood gospel, blues, Latin, and the classical form.

In talking to his family this week, and to his family and his wife, I give them my deepest sympathy.

He said he was proud of his gospel music album.

We are saddened that he has lost his life in his battle against lung cancer. I am delighted to salute him as a great American who shared his talent with young people, who was kind to those with whom he grew up, who made Texas proud, and certainly is renowned throughout this great community of Houston and the Nation. I urge the people at 5, Joe Sample never left his love of music and always tried to share it and be a representative of the value of what music is to children and the American people.

I ask this Congress to acknowledge with me this great hero, Joe Sample, a musician, an American, someone who we can be proud of that lived good in this country.

MAKE OUR ENERGY MORE RELIABLE AND MORE AFFORDABLE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 3, 2013, the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. TERRY) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader.

Mr. TERRY. Mr. Speaker, today the House passed a commonsense approach to make our energy more reliable and more affordable. Our vote today would create jobs and secure our energy future by making us dependent on North American resources, not OPEC, Venezuela, or others.

I am proud to lead this effort in support of lower energy costs and more American jobs. With commonsense policies like these, we can make real progress toward reducing prices at the pump and protecting families from higher monthly electric bills. Lower energy costs also mean lower prices for groceries and other consumer goods; and by producing more American energy, we can create more American jobs. These are the issues that families struggle with at the kitchen table every night and keep you awake at night.

But House Republicans have put forward a positive bipartisan solution to strengthen our energy policy that will allow us to begin fostering the development and use of our own energy resources. Today the House acted. We passed commonsense energy legislation that takes advantage of our abundant North American energy and puts our country on a path to better infrastructure.

With this approach is simple. It is a package of 13 bills the House has already passed on a bipartisan basis, including three of which were even voice-voted. They are not controversial.

For instance, this bill includes the Natural Gas Pipeline Permitting Reform Act that would expedite and modernize the Federal review process for natural gas pipeline permits to help facilitate the construction of new pipeline infrastructure. This bill passed with 26 Democrats in support.

It also includes H.R. 6, the Domestic Prosperity and Global Freedom Act, sponsored by my good friend Cory Gardner from Colorado. This would...
President lacks the leadership to make Senate as well. House, it is one of the few issues that has strong bipartisan support in the United States. It would approve the permit for the Keystone pipeline, which directly related to the construction of the pipeline project and downstream jobs. During the construction of the pipeline, it would contribute $2 billion in wages to the economy in the United States—$2 billion. The administration acknowledged that by not building the Keystone pipeline, we had actually increased carbon emissions by 28 to 41 percent. Many people come up to me and say, I don’t get how it would reduce. The reality is, the alternative is, the pipeline would go down into the coast pipeline will go down into the Panama Canal and over to the east. So when you use the energy taken to ship it to China and then refined in China with less pollution controls and emission controls in their refineries than we have in the United States, you will actually be increasing the CO2 carbon emissions.

Now, like every other piece of legislation in this package, this is stuck in the Senate and being held hostage by the majority leader. Time is of the essence before the clock runs out on this Congress. So this package of energy bills to grow our economy actually does HARRY REID a favor.

Instead of having to schedule 13 different bills, Mr. Speaker, he only has to bring up one. We have nearly 400 bills that this House Chamber has sent to him that have not been acted upon. Let’s make it easier, package them together, and if he passes ten of the bills like this then maybe we are making some real progress.

The Senate floor wants the comprehensive package and to hold one vote to meet our national energy needs and grow our economy. Mr. Speaker, I ran to make our country energy independent, to have the level of security, national security, when you can be in control of your own economy and destiny. In my view, the cornerstone of a dynamic economy is your own energy and your own resources. You compare the countries that have the resources that they can control themselves and not be dependent on others and you see the strongest economies in the United States. This is what America is about. It creates security. And I just don’t understand why our majority leader—the majority leader in the Senate—won’t bring these great bills to the Senate floor. In fact, I think he is scared they are going to pass, and they will. They have a great deal of support. So let’s say “yes” to American energy, “yes” to more affordable energy in the United States.

I would like to recognize the gentleman from Indiana to say a little bit more on how we secure America’s energy.

Mr. BUCSHON. Thank you for yielding, Congressman TERRY.

I rise today in support of American energy and the families that it supports.

Mr. Speaker, American families are struggling. Many are living paycheck to paycheck as the price of everything continues to rise: a gallon of gas, a gallon of milk, electrical costs. And do you know who the rising electrical bills, every mine in the State, and they employ thousands of Hoosiers. Next door, in southern Illinois, more coal mines, which employ Hoosiers. Coal not only keeps the lights on in Indiana, but it puts food on the table for Hoosier families.

I have been to several coal mines recently, went down in the coal mine—because I like going down in coal mines since I did it when I was a kid—and talked to the hardworking men and women who every day are working these jobs. And I keep hearing the same thing, Mr. Speaker: Washington regulations are crushing our business and I am afraid for my job, what that may mean to my family.

The fact is that coal is being mined cleaner and safer than it ever has. Despite what this administration would have you believe, the coal industry has made great strides in protecting our environment while providing low energy costs for their consumers. But every time they invest their own money to improve their mines, this administration moves the goalpost. They do this without consideration of how many jobs they are eliminating in the United States. We have to make sure the energy costs for their consumers.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

H7865

Mr. Speaker. September marks the sixth birthday of natural gas exports. We have an abundant supply of natural gas here in the United States, an abundance of which will allow other countries to become dependent upon us for their energy needs. Now our Energy and Commerce Subcommittee, several of us on the Republican side went to North Dakota last year to visit the oilfields. We flew in at night. When you fly over western North Dakota at night, it looks like you are flying over an oilcake with lots of candles. Those candles are flaring off natural gas because the price is so low and it is so plentiful that it just makes better economic sense to burn it off. So we need to find additional resources and tap them for the natural gas. They are already there: exporting, transportation. We just need to focus more on those.

Just today we heard in a joint meeting with Congress from the President of Ukraine about the security in his own country and the strong partnership with the United States. Can you imagine how much weaker Russia would be if Ukraine was more dependent or would use North American U.S. natural resources? Former Obama National Security Adviser General Jim Jones testified before the Senate that Vladimir Putin uses energy as a weapon. I believe that we would be using our energy resources as our weapon. And by expediting the permitting processes for liquefied natural gas terminals, it would allow us to export natural gas to countries like Ukraine and our European partners and Japan.

These policies to develop natural gas would further cement U.S. leadership in the world and grow our economy and create jobs here at home. Secondly, this package includes the Electricity Security and Affordability Act. That would protect an affordable and diverse electricity portfolio by providing reasonable alternatives to the EPA’s greenhouse gas emissions rule. It would allow the EPA to develop practical solutions for new coal-fired powerplants, including just saying that you can’t implement a rule until the technology exists.

 Doesn’t that make sense to have a rule that the technology can actually comply with instead of making a rule where there is no technology allowing you to comply with it? I wonder if there is another agenda behind that.

Lastly, this includes H.R. 3, the Northern Route Approval Act, which would approve the permit for the Keystone XL pipeline.

Tomorrow marks the sixth birthday of the Keystone pipeline. This permit and approve it. It not only less time than it has taken to review the cornerstone of a dynamic economy is your own energy and your own resources. You compare the countries that have the resources that they can control themselves and not be dependent on others and you see the strongest economies in the United States. This is what America is about. It creates security. And I just don’t understand why our majority leader—the majority leader in the Senate—won’t
In my district, two coal-fired power plants are closing because of this administration’s energy policies. It is not just coal jobs that are being threatened. Indiana’s manufacturing jobs are beginning to feel the impact of these harmful energy regulations. You see, it makes up around 28 percent of our gross State product. We are a huge manufacturing State; in fact, the highest percentage of gross State product in the country. Indiana also leads the Nation in manufacturing employment, and low-cost energy is part of the reason. But the plants in my district are telling me they may not be able to survive when Washington continues to squeeze them more and more. How can Alcoa, with 3,000 jobs, stay open in my district if their energy costs double or triple? We can bring more manufacturing to the United States, Mr. Speaker, more jobs—which is what this is about—if we just get Washington, D.C., out of the way of our businesses.

Yesterday, in a committee hearing, I asked the EPA to visit my district and, for that matter, other coal-producing States, to hear our story and listen to what my constituents have to say. While waiting for their response, the House is working.

I am proud to have supported H.R. 2, the American Energy Solutions for Lower Costs and More American Jobs Act. This comprehensive package that has been championed by my colleague from Nebraska TERRY included the best energy ideas that the House has produced this Congress. The most important piece of this legislation is it will ensure every American access to affordable, reliable energy.

This legislation approves the Keystone pipeline, the most studied pipeline in history, which even the President’s own State Department has determined will not negatively impact the environment. This project is critical to our future energy needs, but, unfortunately, this administration has been blocking his project for years for politics. While they turn their back on our Nation’s energy needs, they have been implementing new regulations that have been costing our Nation billions of dollars. It just doesn’t make sense.

Part of H.R. 2 includes Representative DUNCAN's Energy Consumers Relief Act, which ensures congressional oversight of energy-related rules costing more than $1 billion. This commonsense bill will allow Congress to have oversight of some of those billion dollar regulations that are crushing American consumers. It breaks the administration’s bad habit of getting back to science and common sense.

H.R. 2 also included legislation that helps speed up the permitting process on Federal lands, protects our Nation’s electrical grid, and protects coal mining jobs. Most of these bills had already passed the House and are sitting over in the Senate waiting for action. They are wasting their time. In fact, they are waiting for a hearing. Waiting for a debate amongst our Senators about the energy solutions the House has passed.

I understand that the Senate at this point—or at least one party in the Senate—is not going to agree with these ideas, but let’s have a discussion about it. Let’s hear your ideas in the Senate to lower our Nation’s energy costs. The House has spoken. This is what our constituents expect of us, Mr. Speaker, an honest, vigorous debate about the issues facing our Nation.

Doing nothing is not an energy policy, and it is no way to legislate. I hope our friends across the Capitol and the President are watching and learning from the House’s example.

Mr. Speaker, finally, in closing, I want to say we need to tap our energy resources. We are on the verge of an energy renaissance in the United States, a manufacturing renaissance. What does this mean? Low-cost energy, lower costs for their energy, we want manufacturing in America, and we will act.

And that is what we all want, that is why we are here, that is why we ran for office, Mr. Speaker, to help people. It provides for lower costs. We are doing it in a cleaner way than we ever have before. Mr. Speaker, let’s not look right in the face of success in creating jobs and look the other way.

I am hopeful that the Senate will take up some of the House-passed bills, including this one, before the end of the year. If not, Mr. Speaker, the next Congress in this House will act again to show the American people we want lower costs for their energy, we want good-paying jobs, we want manufacturing in America, and we will act again and, hopefully, the Senate in the next Congress can see it to where they will step forward and act.

Mr. TERRY. Thank you, Mr. BUCSHON.

You mentioned manufacturing and how important it is to our State. The reality is also that manufacturing is reliant on affordable and reliable energy.

I am the chairman of the Commerce, Manufacturing, and Trade Subcommittee under Energy and Commerce. We did a series of hearings, Mr. Speaker, on manufacturing in the United States. We had industries of all sorts testify in front of our committee. I left that series of hearings very optimistic about manufacturing in the United States, because what we are seeing is many manufacturers returning to the United States.

There was one common theme to every one of the manufacturers that were moving to the United States or returning to the United States, and it was affordable and reliable energy. Many of them use natural gas, whether it is the steel industry that is having a resurgence right now—or by the way, a beginning job in the steel industry—and, yes, they are looking for workers right now—$77,000.

That is the middle class that is being harmed right now. We need to create those jobs, expand those jobs, but you need affordable and reliable energy.

So what is this administration doing? They pass a rule on existing electrical generation plants. Those existing plants, not ones yet to be built, and they say you have to lower your emission rates to the level of using natural gas. So when we talk about Mr. BUCSHON and Mrs. BROOKS, who is going to come up here and talk about the impact on coal and jobs, that is the war on coal. They aren’t using “don’t use coal”; they just put the number of emission particulates below what you can get if you use coal.

But now, here is what happens in a State like Nebraska. The State of Nebraska has older coal-fired plants, most of them are smaller, in our rural areas of Nebraska. They won’t be able to afford to pay for all of the changes that have to occur to meet that. And, by the way, with this rule is not even finalized yet, but when it becomes finalized these plants have until June 30, 2016. We are in September of 2014. That is less than 2 years that they have to prepare.

That is why some of these rules are just so ridiculous and so obvious in how they are attacking our energy sector and making affordability and reliability a question mark.

Now I would like to yield to the gentleman from South Carolina, JEFF DUNCAN.

Mr. DUNCAN of South Carolina. I want to thank the gentleman from Nebraska for his leadership on energy, and for having this opportunity to discuss with the American people the impact of regulations like the one you are talking about. The impact of the rules and regulations the Obama administration has put forward with coal-fired power plants.

In my State of South Carolina, with the number of power plants that we had that are coal-fired generated, we will see rates go up. And, as you say, they have got until 2016. Well, the Obama administration will leave office in 2016, and that is when you are really going to see the impact of rates going up in States like Nebraska, that are using coal, and others that use coal. The Obama administration won’t feel the impact and the pressure from the voters because they will no longer be in office.

But let me tell you about a winning message, and that is jobs, energy, and the Founding Fathers, things we have talked about this week as we passed this energy package.

Jobs. Let’s unleash and unbridge that innovative and entrepreneurial spirit in America. Let Americans create jobs with the understanding that government creates jobs, but the government creates government jobs.
Americans create American jobs, and they do that through energy. Energy is a segue to job creation, and, if you dispute that fact, go to North Dakota, Oklahoma, Texas, or Louisiana. Look at the jobs that are created there. There are low unemployment rates, even negative unemployment rates, in North Dakota.

It is an energy-driven economy. Jobs and energy. Energy is a segue to job creation. Our Founding Fathers unleashing that entrepreneurial spirit, understanding limited government, free markets, and individual liberties.

We do that by simple things like approving the Keystone pipeline to bring that friendly Canadian oil down to the refineries where we have capacity in this country, working with our best and largest trading partner to the North.

It just makes sense as you approach American energy independence. If we as a nation approach American energy independence, why not North American energy independence, working with the Canadians and also looking south to Mexico, which just did away with the nationalization of their energy sector, privatizing more and more of Pemex and the other energy resources, opening up the Transboundary Hydrocarbon Agreement area in the western gap? A million and a half acres are now open to production on the Mexican and U.S. sides of the western gap.

In South Carolina, we want offshore energy production. I want to applaud the Palmetto Policy Forum for a study they just put out that shows the economic impact. When people think about energy jobs and offshore, they think about the guys in the hard hats and the oily uniforms turning the drill on the derrick.

But guess what? It is all the jobs that are offshore to support that effort offshore. Those are the pipefitters and the welders and the welders and the auto body mechanics and the supply vessels and the heating and air repair guys that get out to the rigs and repair the heating and air and the refrigeration and other things that are going on out there because it is a way of life.

Those guys are onshore, at home, and they are eating at their local restaurants and buying their attorneys and going to their churches and tithing. They are joining the United Way and the chamber of commerce and sponsoring those ball teams.

It is a trickle down. The first domeino that falls is for us to allow offshore drilling.

The bill we passed this week does a lot. I want to applaud the Energy and Commerce Committee, but I also want to applaud Doc HASTINGS and the Natural Resources Committee.

It increases offshore production, increases onshore production. It opens up that Federal land that is currently off the table for oil and gas production, but also wind, solar, and transmission lines and all the things that happen, that is now off the table on Federal land out West.

Look at a map of the West. There are a lot of sunny areas out there in the desert; but guess what? You own it. Your taxpayer dollars set it aside. It is Federal lands, but it is off-limits. Even if you believe in solar and wind power, you can’t have that on Federal land because it is on the table for that type of production as well.

This prevents duplicative hydraulic fracturing regulations. Guess what? We have got an abundance of natural gas in this country, and we are finding more and more every day onshore. We can build LNG terminals. We heard a great speech from the President of Ukraine today. If we could export LNG from America to Ukraine, lessening taxpayer dollars on Russian gas and also export the technology that we have for fracturing, they want that technology because they want to lessen their dependence on Russian gas.

It is because that he mentioned over and over today, Mr. Speaker, and that was “freedom.” Freedom. Freedom from Russian gas and that dependence. Europe wants it because they are dependent on Russian gas as well.

Let’s export the LNG, the gas that we are producing in abundance in this country, and let’s help our allies in Europe and Ukraine.

All that we need, all the bills that we talked about, we have had an absent Senate when it comes to energy independence, and we have had an absent White House when it comes to energy independence, other than supporting Solyndra and other green initiatives and wasting taxpayer dollars.

We need real things that work. It takes 24/7 base load power in this country to make the engines of the economy work, 24/7. What does that mean? Base load? What does that mean? That means when you flip the light switch and the lights come on; and, when the companies that are manufacturing products all over this great land cut those machines on, this power supply is available to turn the engines of the economy, producing American jobs, producing American manufacturing items.

That happens with 24/7 base load power that comes from coal, natural gas, and, in my home State, from nuclear power. All of the things we should support while we continue to work on the necessary components for wind and solar to actually work, and that is the storage capacity, because wind and solar is intermittent.

The sun doesn’t always shine, and the wind doesn’t always blow, but I will tell you what works, and that is the proven technologies of oil and gas, nuclear, hydro, the things that we are talking about in the bills we passed today that actually work.

Jobs, energy, and our Founding Fathers. Let’s put Americans to work.

Let’s unleash that innovative and entrepreneurial spirit. Let’s have an energy-driven economy, and we can do it.

South Carolina wants to be a part of that. Nebraska is already a part of that. Indiana—I have talked with Indiana folks that are here. South Carolina wants to be a part of that as well.

I thank the gentleman for his leadership on this.

Mr. TERRY. Thank you. I appreciate that.

I now yield to Mrs. BROOKS from Indiana.

Mrs. BROOKS of Indiana. Thank you to the gentleman from Nebraska for bringing together my colleagues, with tremendous energy—my colleagues who have the energy to talk about this package of bills that will encourage investment in our infrastructure, lower energy prices, and create good-paying jobs for millions of Americans.

My home State of Indiana is especially well-positioned, according to Chairman UPTON’s and what they are calling in Energy and Commerce the “architecture of abundance” that is embodied in the bill that we just voted on and passed.

Last week, the commissioner of Indiana’s Department of Environmental Management testified before the Energy and Commerce Committee that, in fact, 28,000 Hoosiers are employed in the coal industry and that our State sits on top of a 300-year supply of this abundant resource.

By rolling back the disastrous proposed EPA regulations on coal-fired gas plants, this bill will save Hoosiers 32 percent on their electric rates and keep our businesses competitive.

As the Nation’s leading manufacturing State, Indiana heavily contributes to the oil and gas extraction business by producing the equipment that makes the energy renaissance possible.

In fact, the industry already contributes $16.6 billion to the Hoosier economy, while supporting over 136,000 jobs. H.R. 2 will expedite LNG export applications and approve the Keystone pipeline initiatives that we know would add billions of annual GDP to our economy and create tens of thousands of good-paying jobs.

Make no mistake, I also fully understand the value that renewable resources play in our energy mix. My district alone is home to two ethanol plants, a wind farm, and a newly opened solar plant.

Renewables bolster Indiana’s local economies while supporting 53,000 Hoo- sier jobs. This is a massive growth sector in our State, and H.R. 2 would continue to promote the development of alternative sources of energy for the benefit of our economy and the environment.

The Congressman from Nebraska’s bill makes pipelines more feasible; and, as the nonpartisan Congressional Research Service found, ‘pipelines provide safer, less expensive transportation than railroads’ that currently carry gas and oil.
Pipelines mean fewer spills, less emissions from vehicles transporting fuel, and better access to natural gas which produces 30 percent less emissions than petroleum.

Republicans are committed to a responsible energy-related policy that protects our children from pollutants and preserves our pristine wildlife for generations to come.

However, American ingenuity and technological advancements have allowed U.S. energy-related emissions to fall to their lowest levels in nearly two decades, showing we can tap into our vast natural resources while still being responsible stewards of our environment.

Indiana Governor Mike Pence and 14 other Governors recently wrote to the President:

The economic health of our Nation depends on accomplishing a balanced energy and environmental policy.

Madam Speaker, that is exactly what this is. But, clearly, we have not injected into this particular conversation, and that is the renewables.

I am proud that our local power district has 30 percent of their energy produced by wind, a renewable source. I personally think that solar is going to be, over time, a significant part of a portfolio, but maybe not in the way that many people think because many people think of filling the desert with these solar panels.

The reality is that technology today is to be integrated into buildings. Think of your office building’s windows generating power. That is exciting technology that is in the research labs right now, so we need to include that.

I am not sure how people listening may think that we really haven’t injected into this particular conversation, and that is the renewables.

I want to thank you for bringing that up.

Mrs. BROOKS of Indiana. Thank you. And the diverse all-of-the-above energy policy, if we use renewables in addition to oil and gas, that creates even more jobs, and I applaud you for your effort to always think about the environment as well.

Mr. TERRY. Thank you.

I want to yield to the gentleman from Georgia. I don’t know if you are a Bulldog or not, but you are in Congress.

I now yield to ROB WOODALL, the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. WOODALL. I thank my friend from Nebraska. We are all Bulldogs in Georgia, even those folks who went to the trade school in downtown Atlanta known as Georgia Tech. We are Bulldogs at heart.

I want to thank you for leading this hour tonight because, so often, when folks think about what we do here, they are thinking about Republican and Democrat. This is a bipartisan platform. Folks get mired down in philosophical debates.

What you have done here tonight is get into the core of what I think we all, as Americans, are talking about energy security. We are talking about an all-of-the-above energy strategy that lowers energy prices, puts more money in the pockets of every single family through lower prices, and creates job opportunities not just in your State or my State, but all across this country, and, Madam Speaker, that provides us with energy security.

I grew up in the seventies. I remember the gas lines. I remember sitting outside. That was our great President from the State of Georgia that was presiding in those days, and I will never forget President Reagan’s first inaugural address.

He was talking about the challenges that we were facing as Americans. He was talking about the big dreams that it was going to take to overcome those challenges. He conceded that they were big dreams, but he said, “Why shouldn’t we dream those dreams?” Because, after all, we are Americans, we are Americans.

What my friend from Nebraska said about the oil exploration in Canada really struck me. The debate about whether or not we should build a pipeline to bring Canadian energy down into America to provide American jobs, American construction, American manufacturing, and there are those who say, “Well, no, don’t do it because it would be better if that oil stayed in the ground.”

That is not a choice. That is not an option that is anywhere in this House or that is anywhere within our jurisdiction. Do we want to artificially curtail the energy that our country needs? No. We are Americans. Because, after all, we are Americans, we are Americans.

What my friend from Nebraska said about the bill is that it is important numbers. We have that opportunity.

In essence, that is what this bill does because we have had 30, 40, 50 Democrats involved in the bills and voting for them and so the most frequent ones is: Why don’t you do the bills that you do agree on?

Arabia of coal. And the administration is trying to singlehandedly tie the hands of the energy industry not to exploit—and I mean “exploit” in the best possible sense of the word; I mean “exploit” in the utilize, in the harness, in the worst meaning that off the table. That is not an environmental decision. That is a jobs decision, and we feel that in each and every one of our districts.

Madam Speaker, there are a lot of ways to be a crisis, like this institution. You can run this institution with the iron fist that says “my way or the highway,” or you can run this institution with those commonsense ideas that speak to every single American family.

Polls think this is an election year. I say to my friend from Nebraska, and they think that that brings out the worst in this body. What I want to say to you, under your leadership, these bills that you have here tonight, these bills that were passed back in 2016, some of the most preeminent number in priority here at the House of Representatives, what you are leading is that language, that bill, that opportunity that puts America first before being a Republican or a Democrat way down the line.

I think that is what folks are looking for. I think good policy is good politics. I think doing the right thing for the right reason is better than having the right commercial at the right time.

It matters, and it matters to me that we have leaders like you who carry that message. I am grateful to you for leading the hour tonight. I am grateful to you for including me in it, and I am grateful to you for yielding me the time.

Mr. TERRY. And I am grateful you stayed long enough to speak tonight. You did a great job, and I really appreciate the work and effort you do to secure America's future.

In conclusion, Madam Speaker, energy, again, is the cornerstone of our economy. Sometimes we speak rather scientifically. I won’t speak scientifically. In the terminology, does it really affect me, not as a Member of Congress, but, you know, we represent 600,000 or 700,000 people in our districts. What we are trying to do is just secure the energy future, our country will continue to be the greatest country in the world.

I yield back the balance of my time.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mrs. WALORSKI). The Chair will remind all persons in the gallery that they are here as guests of the House and that any manifestation of approval or disapproval of proceedings is in violation of the rules of the House.

MILITANT ISLAMISM

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 3, 2013, recognizing the gentleman from Florida (Mr. CLAWSON) for the remainder of the hour as the designee of the majority leader.

Mr. CLAWSON of Florida. Madam Speaker, I would like to start by commending the Congressman from Nebraska. Having invested across borders in many different countries around the world, I believe that good-paying American jobs come mostly from competitiveness.

In order for our companies to be competitive and produce good-paying American jobs, we need competitive energy prices. Therefore, I support this bill and think that it can produce lots of great jobs in America. I, for one, drive an automobile made by Americans in America.

Yesterday, I voted “no” on the proposal to train and arm Syrian rebels. I did so because I am convinced that we will not be taking the allied nations together and behind a much broader and very long-term plan with the goal of ending militant Islamic extremism. It is a clear and present danger to the Middle East region and, yes, beyond. We can all agree, ISIS must be eliminated. But moving forward, it would be a mistake to focus solely on ISIS. ISIS is only one part of a widespread metastasizing cancer of hatred, intolerance, and violence.

We are facing a cancer of militant Islamism, with cells under various names in dozens of countries. In planning the elimination of ISIS, we, with a coalition of the willing, must do so, recognizing it as part of an overall global disease. Success requires a broad, diverse, and longstanding international coalition committed to defeating the cancer of militant Islamism once and for all.

Now America is uniquely qualified to provide the leadership, including the airpower and mission command structure; but this time, the funding, military equipment, and ground forces must be provided by others.

Too many times in the past, the United States has borne an extremely disproportionate part of these burdens. This time it must be understood that U.S. forces are not going to be the combat boots on the ground, nor will the American taxpayer be paying the bill.

It is time for our allies, especially the Arab and Muslim nations, those most significantly and most immediately threatened, to step up. They need to provide the resources, especially the ground forces that are needed in this conflict. And coalition plans and action plans going forward must be guided by an overarching strategic vision of a world someday, somehow free of militant Islamism. That must be our cause.

Success will begin but not end with the containment, isolation, and, over time, elimination of ISIS and other militant cells, wherever and whenever they emerge.

One by one, Islamic militant organizations must be eradicated around the world. They must be eliminated from the Middle East, from the Near East, like places in North Africa, and south Asia. Any additional cancer cells or seeds of cancer in Europe, the U.S., or elsewhere must be also be eliminated.
The coalition must also follow the money and take actions to halt all financing for militant jihadists from banks, oil revenues, and states sponsoring terrorism. The coalition must be united long term behind a goal of a world where today’s oppression, intolerance, violence, brainwashing, and genocide give way to liberty, religious and ethnic tolerance, and opportunity for all, regardless of one’s sex, faith, or ethnicity.

The coalition must also address the root causes of the cancer, something we have been avoiding up until now, something that presents an additional challenge of monumental proportions. This requires understanding conditions that become recruitment tools for jihadist organizations.

Impoverished areas, especially those with disadvantaged Muslim populations, must evolve to where they can provide information, education, skills training, and economic opportunities for their young people to counter environmental conditions that are so ripe for radicalization by radical jihadists. Those conditions are huge, even generational. Handouts are not the answer, in my view. The coalition must address these issues with the nations involved and with moderate Muslim leaders, providing their assistance wherever possible. Ultimately, the battle for the hearts and minds must be won by voices of moderation and opportunity in rejection of extremist voices who offer only hatred and bloodshed.

Schools and hospitals and, yes, even mosques must condemn and combat violence and militant jihad.

Moderate Muslim leaders must be encouraged to speak out against extremism.

This does require courage. And as moderate Muslims emerge, the coalition must stand ready to defend and support them against those who would try to silence their voices. Over time, any and all teachings of hatred and intolerance must be brought to an end.

As with cancer in our bodies, the worst thing to do is to deny it, ignore it, minimize it, or hope that it will just go away on its own. Or fail to call it by its proper name. And when a cancer metastasizes, we must accept that we cannot treat it on its own location.

For decades, we have been fighting the cancer of militant Islamism sort of like playing Whac-A-Mole. Whenever an Islamic threat pops up of radical nature, be it in the Near East or in the Middle East, New York, London, Nigeria, Sudan, Southeast Asia, or elsewhere, be it an organized effort or even a lone wolf, we react to it and try to smash it away, only to see another Whac-A-Mole pop up soon after in a different location.

After decades of rising Islamism, the Middle and Near East regions have seen leadership voids filled by Islamic radicals. These threats are forgotten or driven out by revolutions or internal civil wars, the resulting voids are being filled by others, many of whom are bad players. Often the new leaders are worse than those they replace.

Transforming nations from totalitarian to a sustainable form of representative governance poses huge challenges, as we have seen in recent years.

This challenge will not end with the elimination of ISIS. Am I overstating my concerns? I don’t think so.

I am convinced that America must lead the civilized world and accept the nature and breadth and complexity of global militant Islamism and call it by its name. And lead a coalition resolved to stay the course and end this cancer once and for all.

We must stop kicking this cancer down the road to jeopardize future generations.

It is neither naive nor idealistic to suggest that the world must unite behind the long-term goal of ending radical global militant Islamism. Because the alternative is simply not acceptable.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

GREEN THE ECONOMY: SAVE THE WORLD

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 3, 2013, the gentleman from California (Mr. SWALWELL) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. SWALWELL of California. When it comes to climate change, we are facing a stark choice in America. We can do nothing and see if it happens or we can do something, protect our children, and actually grow jobs and our economy.

If you believe climate change is not happening, if you are a denier of climate change, you do not need to listen any further.

But I do have a wall that I would like to put your name on. I call it the Wall of Climate Denial. Heck, let’s put this wall on the National Mall. And I would like to invite my colleagues across the aisle to put their names on it. And that way our children and grandchildren can visit this wall decades from now and see for themselves who acted on climate change and who stood in the way.

If we act, we can start to change course, and that wall would only be a monument to a way of thinking that was on the wrong side of science.

If we do not act, it will be a monument to those responsible for the massive loss of human life and economic productivity. It will also be, if we do not act, likely, a wall that is under-water.

Global climate change is one of the greatest challenges that we face. And I agree with the previous speaker: there is no question one of the most immediate threats that we face in our country right now is defeating and wiping out ISIS.

Last September, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change released a report which states with a 95 percent certainty that human activities are responsible for climate change.

This report was based on a rigorous review of thousands of scientific papers published by over 800 of the world’s leading scientists making it clear that if we do not act on climate change, if we don’t take the necessary steps to halt this change, the repercussions for humans across this globe and the environment will be catastrophic.

We need to move forward now at this moment to take the necessary steps to combat the warming of our planet before these impacts become inevitable.

I represent the East Bay in California, where people understand the effects of climate change and are willing to do whatever is necessary to take the big steps, do the big things, take some risk to address this and grow our economy.

We are facing big energy challenges in this country and around the world. But we know that our old, dirty methods are not sustainable.

We know that the dynamics of the energy marketplace are shifting. Far from being stagnant and hopeless, we are now seeing an unprecedented amount and an unprecedented pace of change that was unpredictable even a few years ago.

For instance, renewables are penetrating at a remarkable rate, with growth in wind alone outpacing natural gas in 2012.

Our responsibility is to make sure that our country is prepared for whatever changes the markets may experience.

Overreliance on a limited range of technologies and finite resources is unreasonable. We know that the United States consumes 25 percent of the world’s oil. But, at best, we only have 3 percent of the U.S. oil reserves. This is not a problem that we can drill our way out of. That is only a short-term bridge.

Our strength will lay in our ability to transition to new, cleaner, more sustainable resource energy future.

We must be competitive and not let ourselves get behind. As Washington bickers, our competitors are pulling out every imaginable stop to capitalize on the booming clean-energy economy. It is time for us to get serious about creating green energy policy to enable us to compete more globally.

A recent article in The New York Times over the weekend pointed out how ahead of the game our competitors are pulling out every imaginable stop to capitalize on the booming clean-energy economy.

It is time for us to get serious about creating green energy policy to enable us to compete more globally.

A recent article in The New York Times over the weekend pointed out how ahead of the game our competitors are pulling out every imaginable stop to capitalize on the booming clean-energy economy. Germany will soon be getting 30 percent, 30 percent of their power, from renewable sources. By contrast, in 2013, renewable sources of energy accounted for only about 10 percent of the United States’ energy consumption and 10 percent of electricity generation.

Are we any less capable than Germany of harnessing the energy from the wind and the sun?
I believe, Madam Speaker, we are not. We are not less capable. But right now, we might be less willing.

Step one in addressing climate change is admitting that it is a problem. Too often in Washington we see this false choice, this debate that if we accept climate change then it is going to kill jobs, and we should do, therefore, nothing about it.

But if we don’t accept climate change as a problem, we will never be singing off the same sheet of music. Once we sing off the same sheet of music, we can start to take the steps necessary to address that climate change is indeed a problem.

There is overwhelming consensus among scientists across our globe that it is a problem.

Here is what we know: the current warming trend is a particular concern because it is very likely that it is based on human-induced activities.

The heat-trapping nature of carbon dioxide was demonstrated in the mid-19th century. Ice cores drawn from Greenland, Antarctica, and tropical mountain glaciers show that the Earth’s climate responds to changes in solar output, and the Earth’s temperature is as high in greenhouse gas levels as they were in the past.

Large changes in climate happened very quickly, geologically speaking—in tens of years, not millions or thousands.

How about sea-level rise? Global sea level is rising. Soft glacial ice was melted from the oceans in the 18th and 19th centuries.

As far as global temperature rise, all three major levels of global surface temperatures showed that the Earth has warmed since 1880. Most of this warming occurred since 1970, with 20 of the warmest 20 years having occurred since 1981, and 10 of the warmest years occurring in the past 10 years.

The oceans are also rising and warming. The oceans have absorbed much of this warming. The heat of the oceans has warmed by 75 degrees Fahrenheit since 1870.

Extreme events, the number of record high temperature events in the United States, have been increasing, while the number of record low temperature events has been decreasing, since 1950. The U.S. has also witnessed increasing numbers of intense windfall events.

So once we can address and accept that climate change is occurring, we can address the false debate of do we do anything or do we do something?

And I submit to America that if we do something, not only can we address climate change, save the world, protect our children, we can actually create jobs.

My district is home to several businesses and initiatives that are fighting to green our economy and combat global warming but that are also economically advantageous.

In my district, we have a program called i-GATE, or the Innovation for Green Advanced Transportation Excellence. I-GATE is a regional incubator in the Tri-Valley specializing in growing green technology startups. With a network that includes two national laboratories, Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory and Sandia National Laboratories, with over 70,000 scientists, investors, and advisers, and leading universities and corporate partners, i-GATE has created a unique ecosystem for growing the startups that are working to address our biggest energy challenges.

The startups that i-GATE incubates are working to create better lithium ion batteries, provide region- and crop-specific information to farmers on how climate change could change and affect their crop revenue, and create low-cost diagnostics to screen for life-threatening diseases. Now, their ribbon-cutting called Siluria Technologies. It is in Hayward, California. And they are pioneering the direct production of liquid fuels and chemicals made from clean, abundant natural gas and renewable methane.

Since its opening in 2013, Siluria has demonstrated how their technology can be employed to produce gasoline, an achievement that paves the way for the first such commercial facilities producing liquid fuels in 2017.

This year, Siluria unveiled a first-of-its-kind development for producing cleaner fuels from natural gas and renewable methane.

This accomplishment is an important milestone in moving forward. It represents the last scale-up step prior to full commercialization of Siluria platform technology.

Then there is UltraCell, James Kaschmitter, a former employee of Lawrence Livermore National Lab, founded the company UltaCell in Livermore, California. They are designated as a veteran-owned small business, making compact high power, long endurance, off-grid portable power.

I also want to tell you the story of a small business in Dublin, California. I visited this small business when they put solar panels on their rooftop just a few weeks ago.

Now, the business owner is admittedly a pretty conservative guy. And so I asked him, I said: ‘You’re putting solar on your rooftop. You know, solar is often affiliated with addressing climate change and investing in renewables, and sometimes conservatives don’t always agree with that.’

Well, the business owner told me: ‘Eric, this is going to reduce my energy bill, which is about the equivalent cost of a supermarket, by hundreds of thousands of dollars every year.’

He used a small company in my district called Cool Earth Solar which also came out of our national laboratories; they are funded by privately-funded research dollars that were put into our national laboratories, and then they transferred that out to the private market and created this technology that a small conservative business owner is using in my district to save money so he can create more jobs. We can green the economy, save the world, and protect our planet for our children.

Then there are the two national laboratories. Sandia National Laboratories is home to the Combustion Research Facility. The Combustion Research Facility is public-private partnership, and I stress these public-private partnerships because the Federal Government cannot do this alone.

We could spend the money on the basic research to get this to the market, but we need committed actors in the private sector to make this successful. It is a public-private collaboration with industry, including General Motors, Cummins, ExxonMobil, and Caterpillar.

Siluria’s technology is focused on the advanced combustion strategies required by industry to develop a new generation of high-efficiency clean engines.

Then there is the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory which is also in my district, and it is home to the National Ignition Facility, also known as NIF. NIF is the largest and most energetic inertial confinement fusion device built to date, and it is the largest laser in the world. Fusion holds the promise of providing a practically limitless supply of clean energy to the world.

Across the country, there are other national laboratories, including Argonne National Laboratory, which is the home to the Joint Center for Energy Storage Research.

This world class research is working towards developing new technologies that move beyond lithium ion batteries and store at least five times more energy than today’s large-scale batteries at a cost. Then there is the Idaho National Laboratory, managing the Feedstock Process Demonstration Unit.

Look at this: across America, different laboratories are harnessing their local resources. The PDU provides an industrial-scale research system for testing feedstock formulation processes, collecting process data, and producing larger quantities of formulated feedstocks for conversion testing, a key step to getting a new biofuel to the market.

There are also very interesting ventures across America taking place in a bipartisan way to address climate change.
change. Launched in October 2013, the Risky Business project focuses on quantifying and publicizing the economic risks from the impacts of a changing climate.

Risky Business was cochaired by a bipartisan group of leaders, Hank Paulson, Michael Bloomberg, and Tom Steyer. The Risky Business project has found that our economy is vulnerable to an overwhelming number of risks from climate change and that the current path will only make these risks worse.

Climate change is our planet’s way of charging compound interest. They find that the longer we wait to pay down our climate debt, the more it will cost the American economy, and the harder it gets to adapt. There is no such thing, they find, as “business as usual” and that the only path forward for businesses and individuals is to act now to reduce these risks.

Their assessment found that, if we act immediately, we can still avoid some of the worst impacts and significantly reduce the odds of costly, catastrophic climate outcomes, but only if we start changing our business and public policy decisions today.

The purpose of Abba’s letter to American business leaders and investors is to get into the game, to get into the game of climate investment. America’s businesses are fully capable of rising to this challenge of climate change, and we must do more now, just as we are seeing done in Germany.

This is not a problem for another day. The investments that we are making today, this week, this month, this year will determine our economic future.

They point to short-term problems and long-term problems. In the short term, we are going to see the cost of coastal property and infrastructure. Within the next 15 years, higher sea levels combined with a storm surge will likely increase the average annual cost of coastal storms along the Eastern coast and the Gulf of Mexico by $2 billion to $3.5 billion. Adding in potential changes in hurricane activity, the likely increase in annual losses grows to about $7.3 billion.

How about agriculture? California is a leader in interreligious dialogue. For example, in 2008, he led the Muslim delegation to the Catholic-Islamic Forum.
and he did that kind of work on many, many occasions.

Last week, we talked about Bosnia since the conflict and the genocide of the 1990s, about where Bosnia is today and where it needs to go.

I would like to share with my colleagues what Reis Ceric had to say, Dr. Ceric briefed and updated us on Bosnia’s struggle to hold itself together, build its economy, and integrate into NATO and the European Union.

He talked about a country where, 19 years after Srebrenica and the horrific genocide that occurred there and the Dayton Peace Accords, ethnic divisions remain strong and, in many ways, have hardened as a generation has grown up in a system that classifies people into one of three ethnic communities—Bosniak, Serb, or Croat—and in a system that diminishes the rights of anyone that does not belong to one of those communities, including Jews and Roma.

In Bosnia today, only ethnic Bosniaks, Serbs, and Croats can be elected to the legislature—the House of People. Bosnia, in the President’s words, is a legacy of the Dayton Peace Accord brokered under American watch.

While this design was probably necessary at the time to stop the genocide and aggression of the day’s time and expanding Europe, it clearly violates our basic values of freedom and equality.

As a result, in Bosnia today, all persons are not equal and—based on race, religion, and ethnicity—entire segments of the population are excluded from full political participation.

The Dayton Peace Accords were a tourniquet to end the genocidal conflict in 1995. However, that is all they were really intended to be. Dayton was never intended to operate as Bosnia’s Constitution, certainly not for 19 years.

As a result of Dayton’s severe limitations on its democracy, Bosnia cannot be fully integrated into Euro-Atlantic structures. Without amending the Dayton Accords to respect basic human rights and political rights of one person-one vote, Bosnia will never even be a candidate for the European Union.

So a question mark hangs over Bosnia’s future, as ethnic activists continue to partition the country and threaten daily to secede, taking large swathes of ethnically-cleansed territories with them. Such action might lead to a revival of hostilities.

What further aggravates the conditions is the official campaign of misinformation and outright denial of genocide by some government officials of the Republika Srpska, the smaller of Bosnia’s two entities.

Milorad Dodik, the President of the Republika Srpska, is publicly calling for the public square to be cleared, and boulevards after indicted war criminals such as Ratko Mladic and Radovan Karadzic; yet Dayton provides no mechanism by which Bosnia, Madam Speaker, can be fully democraized.

Significant leadership by Bosnian leaders is going to be absolutely necessary to break through the stalemate created by interests, and, of course, the United States must do its part to ensure that the Bosnian dream of a robust democracy, respect for the fundamental human rights, and rule of law is reached. I respectfully submit that delay is denial and that the Bosnians deserve better.

Madam Speaker, the United States has a special responsibility to Bosnia. We could have done more for them in the 1990s, I know, I was here.

I held hearing after hearing, traveled to the former Yugoslavia repeatedly, joined by other colleagues like Frank Wolf, trying to get this country to stand up and assist those who were being victimized by an invasion; instead, we left it to the Europeans in the 1990s, and, unfortunately, it was a train wreck.

We could have lifted the arms embargo on Bosnia earlier, which may have prevented the genocide. I would note, parenthetically, that I was the sponsor of legislation to lift the egregiously-flawed arms embargo that hindered both the Croats’ and the Bosnians’ ability to defend against aggression.

Only after the tragic and preventable Srebrenica genocide in early July 1995—and thanks to the leadership of some of us in the House and Senate—did our government move into action and broker the peace deal.

Bosnians, Madam Speaker, of every ethnicity and faith look to the United States to help move the country forward. I agree with Reis Ceric that, without American leadership and help to evolve the Dayton Accords toward a democratic constitution, the situation will likely fester and get worse.

Madam Speaker, in the 1990s, throughout the Balkan war, Reis Ceric was a powerful, persistent, reasonable, and dynamic voice for peace, human rights, the rule of law, and accountability for genocide.

Reis Ceric is a good friend of mine and truly an inspiring man of God.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Madam Speaker, I would like to address another issue before the House today.

Madam Speaker, 5 years ago, about 5 feet from where I am standing right now, President Obama told lawmakers and the American public in a specially called joint session of Congress on health care reform that, “Under our plan, no Federal dollars will be used to fund abortion.”

That was September 9, 2009. In an eleventh hour ploy to garner support from a remnant of pro-life congressional Democrats absolutely needed for passage of ObamaCare, the President issued an executive order on March 24, 2010, that said:

“The Affordable Care Act maintains current Hyde amendment restrictions governing abortion policy and extends those restrictions to newly-created health insurance exchanges.

It turns out, Madam Speaker, that those ironclad promises made by the President himself are absolutely untrue.

Agree or disagree with public funding of abortion—and a significant majority of Americans oppose it—but no one likes to be misled. Today, as I think back on my colleagues’ floor, the growing number of Americans are recognizing that abortion is violence against children and hurts women.

Abortion methods rip, tear, and dismember or chemically poison the fragile bodies of unborn children. There is nothing benign, compassionate, or just about an act that utterly destroys a baby and often physically, psychologically, or emotionally harms the mother.

Remember, the President stood here and then, in his executive order, said that the act maintains the Hyde amendment restrictions governing abortion and extends those restrictions to the newly-created health insurance exchanges. That is what the executive order said, and yet, now, we know that is absolutely untrue.

A comprehensive Government Accountability Office report released this week documents massive new public funding for abortion in the President’s new health care law.

Like so many of the President’s promises that litter the political landscape, GAO has found that, in 2014, taxpayers are funding over 1,000, let me repeat that—1,000 ObamaCare plans that subsidize abortion on demand that includes abortion, except in the cases of rape, incest, or to save the life of the mother.

Again, if you fund the insurance plan, the purchase of a plan, it is a violation of the Hyde amendment that the President said he would honor.

According to the Government Accountability Office, in their findings, every ObamaCare taxpayer-funded health insurance plan in my own State of New Jersey, Connecticut, Vermont, Rhode Island, and Hawaii pays for abortion on demand, every one of them.

In New York, a whopping 405 out of 426 ObamaCare plans subsidize abortion on demand. In California, it is 86 plans out of 90; in Massachusetts, 109 out of 111; in Oregon, 92 out of 102; in Washington, 23 of the 34 plans; and so it goes.

According to the Congressional Budget Office, or CBO, their April 2014 estimate, Madam Speaker, between 2014... and 2004, taxpayer subsidies to buy ObamaCare health plans will total $555 billion, making taxpayers unwittingly, wherever they live, complicit in abortion.

GAO has also found that even an accountable fund in ObamaCare requiring premium payers to be assessed a separate, monthly abortion surcharge is being completely ignored. The surcharge would have added some modicum of transparency so individuals would know whether they are purchasing plans for abortion or anti-abortion health insurance plan.

Senator Ben Nelson of Nebraska summed up the plain meaning—the absolutely plain meaning—of the law when he said that you have to write two checks, one for the abortion coverage and one for the rest of the premium.

According to the GAO, none of the 18 insurance companies they interviewed are billing the abortion surcharge separately. None. So much for the rule of law.

Last year, Members of Congress and some staff were barred from any further participation in the Federal Employee Health Benefits plan, the FEHB, and compelled on to ObamaCare exchanges.

After months of misinformation, obfuscation, and delay, I finally learned that, of the 112 plans offered on the exchange for my family, 100 of those plans pay for abortion on demand, a clear violation of the Smith amendment, a Hyde-like amendment that I first sponsored on the floor back in 1983 and has been the law of the land for all of these years, except for 2 years during the Clinton administration.

Madam Speaker, Americans throughout the country have raised very serious questions that they find it nearly impossible to determine whether the plan that they are purchasing finances or subsidizes the killing of unborn children—there is little or no transparency—hence the request by several Members of Congress, including our distinguished Speaker, Speaker Boehner, that the Government Accountability Office investigate.

As the November 15 open enrollment approaches for ObamaCare, we have no reason now to believe that the President’s promise of this most transparent government in history will give consumers useful information about the abortion coverage.

First, we were told it wouldn’t be in there—again, a promise made right from this podium, Madam Speaker—and then by way of executive order; and, now, we can’t even find out clearly and unmistakably, which plans include abortion and which do not.

To end President Obama’s massive new funding of abortion on demand, Madam Speaker, last January, the House of Representatives passed my bill—a totally bipartisan bill—otherwise known as the No Taxpayers Funding for Abortion and Abortion Insurance Full Disclosure Act.

Madam Speaker, when our friend and colleague on the other side of this building, Henry Reid, was a Member of the House, he was as pro-life as Henry Hyde. Now, as a majority leader, he refuses to even allow H.R. 7 and its companion bill offered by Senator Wicker to come up for a vote.

With respect to the distinguished Senator and on behalf of the weakest and most vulnerable, the unborn children and those who will be hurt by abortion—their moms—I respectfully ask that he reconsider and post the legislation for a vote.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

UNITED STATES TAX CODE

The Speaker pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 3, 2013, the Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. Woodall) for 30 minutes.

Mr. WOODALL. Madam Speaker, I appreciate the recognition. I appreciate you staying with me into the evening tonight.

I wish I could tell you I was bringing you good news, but I am bringing you some bad news. It is bad news that you have already heard. I have the most recent Tax Foundation rankings of international tax competitiveness.

We talk so much about jobs and the economy. We talk about how to make a difference in the lives of middle class families. We talk about jobs that are moving overseas. We talk about whether or not we are going to grow this economy. This is the ranking of the most competitive Tax Codes in this country.

I want you to think about, Madam Speaker, what those things are that we can do to be more competitive in this country.

We could lower everyone’s wages. That would make it cheaper to build things in this country. I think that is an awful idea.

We could increase environmental regulations. That would make things easier and cheaper to build in this country. That is an awful idea.

One of the things we could do, though, is deal with our tax system, a tax system that, so says the Tax Foundation, is the 22nd worst tax system of the 34 OECD countries—22nd worst in tax competitiveness.

Now, they are looking at everything. They are looking at individual taxes. They are looking at corporate taxes. You have seen the numbers on the end, Madam Speaker, you get to the international tax rules rank. That is how well we work with the rest of the world with our tax system. America ranks dead last.

Why do I bring that up, Madam Speaker? I bring it up because I am reading from our Treasury Secretary, Jack Lew, his comments at the Urban Institute last week. He’s talking about American corporations moving their headquarters overseas. Not moving a factory overseas, but moving their international headquarters overseas. And he says this:

This practice allows the corporation to avoid their civic responsibilities while continuing to benefit from everything that makes America the best place in the world to do business.

Worst place in the world to do business, that is what the Tax Foundation tells us.

I read on from Jack Lew’s speech. He said:

The best place in the world to do business: our rule of law, our intellectual property rights, our support for research and development, our universities, our innovative and entrepreneurial culture, our skilled workforce.

Again, speaking about the practice of moving your headquarters overseas, he says:

That may be legal, but it is wrong, and our laws should change. By effectively renouncing their citizenship, these companies are eroding America’s corporate tax base.

That means all other taxpayers will have to shoulder their responsibility.

I go again to a Tax Foundation chart, Madam Speaker. It is a chart of what the rate is. And you can’t see what the individual corporate tax rates are, but what you can see is the green lines here. That is the average corporate tax rate. Around the world, it is 25 percent.

You see another green line, that is the weighted average by the size of the economy. That of course gives more weight to the larger economies on the planet. That goes up to 29 percent.

And at the bottom of this chart, Madam Speaker, you see in red the United States of America, with the absolute highest corporate tax rate in the world. By our own design—and I say our own design—and I say our own design—I have not gotten to vote corporate tax. Madam Speaker, since I have been in this Chamber for 3½ years, but by our design as a nation we have created the absolute worst place to do business on the entire planet.

Our Treasury Secretary calls companies who observe that and make changes because of that so that our grandmothers and our grandfathers and our pension programs and everyone who relies on the success of those companies in order to meet their fixed income demands so that those companies can succeed, he calls that a shirking of civic responsibility.

I am on the floor tonight, Madam Speaker, to suggest that it is not those companies that observed that America is the worst on the planet and move elsewhere that are shirking their responsibilities. It is those of us in this Chamber, those of us on Capitol Hill, those of us in Washington, D.C., who are responsible for this corporate tax rate.

It is we who are shirking our civic responsibilities because we can do better.

I know it is getting late, Madam Speaker, and I hate to take you... through the math, but when we talk about tax codes and why they are so bad, it is the math that matters. This is the tax liability for a corporation doing business in the United States of America.

Let’s say you earned $1,000. You are going to pay a 35 percent rate. You are going to add State taxes to that rate as well. It is going to be about 39.1 percent, on average, about $391 out of every $1,000. So at the end of the day, you are able to take home $609 to pay your salaries, to invest in your business, to grow your company—$609. That is an American company doing business in America.

How about a Canadian company doing business in Canada? Same $1,000 worth of income. They are paying a 15 percent tax rate at the national level. They are also having a provincial tax rate added to that, totals to about 26.5 percent, $265. They are taking home $735.

You earn $1,000 worth of income as an American company doing business in America, you take home $609. You earn $1,000 in income in a Canadian company doing business in Canada, you take home $735.

I know what you are thinking, Madam Speaker. You are thinking that’s apples to oranges. One is doing business in America; one is doing business in Canada. Let’s look further.

Let’s say we take those same two companies, that one American company, that one Canadian company, and let’s say they are both doing business in the United States of America. They earn $1,000. They pay $391 in taxes. They are at the highest corporate tax rate in the world. That American company takes home $609.

Go to the Canadian company doing business in America. They earn that same $1,000. They pay that same highest corporate tax rate that America has, the highest in the world. They take home $609. Whether you are the U.S. company or the Canadian company, you say business in America, you pay the same tax.

I know what you are thinking, Madam Speaker. You are saying, Well, what is the argument here? What is the issue that we have to come together and solve? It is this issue right here, Madam Speaker.

Let’s say you are not doing business in America. Let’s say you are doing business in Canada. We are going to take that American company, we are going to take that same Canadian company, and we are going to look at what happens when they are doing business in Canada.

That American company earns $1,000. It pays the Canadian Government $265. The Canadian company raises $1,000, and they pay the Canadian Government $265. But it is what happens next that makes America one of the worst tax codes in the world.

When you try to bring that $735 you have left over back to America, you pay American taxes on top of what you have already paid Canada.

So the U.S. corporation doing business in Canada earns $1,000; they end up with $650 at the end of the day. The Canadian company doing $1,000 worth of business in Canada pays their taxes, ends up with $735 at the end of the day. That is why companies are moving headquarters. That means whatever country you raise the money in, you pay the tax in; and when you bring that money back to your home country, you are not double-taxed one more time.

This is the issue we ought to be talking about. We should not be talking about patriotism. We should be talking about common sense as it relates to having America compete in a global economy.

I ask you, Madam Speaker, if we have the absolute worst corporate tax rate in the world, if we have the least competitive international tax system in the world, what do you think is going to happen to international businesses when they make their decision about whether or not to locate in America? They decide no. They decide no.

Madam Speaker, I want to talk just a little bit about what President Obama has said. It is called corporate inversion. When you move your headquarters from America, you acquire a different company overseas, you make that your international headquarters, it is called a corporate inversion. You may have seen that in the news. Here is what President Obama’s has had to say about it:

Even as corporate profits are higher than ever, there is a small but growing rube of big corporations that are fleeing the country to get out of paying taxes.

Fleeing the country to get out of paying taxes.

President Obama goes on. He says, I say “fleeing the country,” but they are not actually doing that. They are not going anywhere. They are keeping their business here, but they are moving their headquarters. They don’t want to give up the best universities, the most competitive ecosystem, the best military, the advanced research. They just don’t want to pay, so they are technically renouncing their U.S. citizenship.

Well, that sounds very similar to what I read from Jack Lew a little bit earlier. That is the party line coming out of the White House. I go on. President Obama says:

These businesses are playing by the rules, but these companies are cherry-picking the rules and it damages our Nation’s finances. It makes it harder to invest in things like job training.

He says:

I am not interested in punishing these companies, but I am interested in economic patriotism.

As a government, we have crafted the most punishing tax code on the face of this Earth. We have created the longest list of disincentives to locate your business in our country which is available anywhere on the planet today.

And the question the President is asking is: I don’t want to punish these companies, but where is their economic patriotism?
Madam Speaker, where is our economic patriotism? The Tax Code is something we created. Do you believe for a moment if the 435 of us in this Chamber got together to write the Tax Code today we would write the absolute worst tax code available anywhere on planet Earth? I don’t think so. If we designed this Tax Code from scratch, we would have done something very different, but this is where we would have ended up.

I will close with this from the President:

Now, the problem is this loophole. They are using it in our tax laws, but it is actually legal. My attitude is I don’t care if it is legal; it is wrong.

I don’t care if it’s the law of the land, I don’t care if it’s the law, they shouldn’t do it anyway.

When I think about the law, Madam Speaker, I don’t know where you go, but I go to the courts for answers. And it is interesting that this idea of economic patriotism—this isn’t the first time we have heard it—it has been argued in court time and time again.

I quoted the Second Circuit, affirmed by the Supreme Court:

Anyone may so arrange his affairs that his taxes shall be as low as possible; he is not bound to choose that pattern which best pays the Treasury. There is not even a patriotic duty to increase one’s taxes.

We have had the suggestion: economic patriotism, you should pay more, you should pay more. It is not our fault, it is the Congress; it is not our fault, it is the government; it is your fault as the job creator out in America, you should be doing something different.

We saw this again, another Second Circuit case:

Over and over again the courts have said that there is nothing sinister in so arranging one’s affairs as to keep taxes as low as possible. Everybody does so, rich or poor alike, and nobody owes any public duty to pay more than the law demands. Taxes are enforced extractions, not voluntary contributions. To demand more in the name of patriotism is mere cant. Taxes are extractions, not voluntary contributions.

Madam Speaker, I want to say to all of my colleagues, everybody in the administration: If you don’t believe you are paying enough in taxes, we can give you an address to the Treasury Department where you can mail your check. Taxes are extractions. If you are interested in a voluntary contribution, I can tell you where to mail your check.

Tax law exists to provide certainty, not just certainty to employers, but also to investors, also to entrepreneurs, also to families, also to employees, to those folks who show up to work day in and day out. The law provides us with certainty.

We, as a government, have created the worst tax environment on the planet in which businesses, and the leader of our government wants to blame the companies that have stuck with us day in and day out for the last 50 years. The wonder isn’t that companies are leaving us today. Madam Speaker; the wonder is that companies didn’t leave us long ago. It is a punishing environment to do business in America.

So what is the solution? Because, Madam Speaker, you know I am not going to come down here and identify a problem and not talk to you about how to solve it. But before I get to my solutions, I want to talk to you about President Obama, whom I quoted tonight; what Secretary of Treasury Jack Lew, whom I quoted tonight, what they have to say about the solution, and it is this: the best way to level the playing field is through tax reform that lowers the corporate tax rate, closes wasteful loopholes, and simplifies the Tax Code for everybody. I am with him 100 percent—with him 100 percent. What the President has said here, I support 100 percent.

That is not what he is saying on the campaign trail. He is saying: any business that tries to do what is best for its employees, what is best for its shareholders, and what is best for its customers is unpatriotic. If they choose to try to improve the lot of their workers, their shareholders, and their employees that somehow there is an obligation to subject yourself to what this Congress and this White House, this country, has created, a monstrosity of a tax code.

Maybe Jack Lew is different idea as Treasury Secretary. He says:

Only tax reform can solve the problems in our Tax Code that lead to inversions.

I know what you are thinking, Madam Speaker. You are wondering if I brought the wrong slides to the floor tonight. You are wondering if I made some sort of terrible mistake. Because I have been talking about how President Obama said it was unpatriotic, how he said it was their fault, how he said they ought to fix it, they ought to stay. And Jack Lew said it is their fault, they have a duty, they ought to fix it, and they ought to stay.

No. These are the very same men saying something entirely different. Because they know, not on the campaign trail, but in the serious rooms where they are talking about serious policy, that the only way to take America into this next century, the only way to make us the most competitive Nation on the planet, the only way to get back in America, back from overseas, is fundamental Tax Code reform.

Burger King can’t do fundamental Tax Code reform, only the Congress can. Tim Hortons can’t do fundamental Tax Code reform, only the Congress can. Warren Buffett can’t do fundamental tax reform, only this Congress can. We can and we should. In fact, our Ways and Means chairman, DAVE CAMP, Madam Speaker, has tried.

Let me go on and just get the other side of the issue from folks here on Capitol Hill. I quoted folks in the White House and the administration. House Speaker JOHN BOEHNER says this, talking about all these statements about unpatriotic behavior:

Instead of dividing people for political advantage, the President can endorse our push for comprehensive tax reform or convince some Democrats to act. Let’s solve the real problem here.

Because it is the real problem here: the worst tax code on the planet. We have done this to ourselves.

House Ways and Means chairman, DOVE CAMP:

Everyone agrees that tax reform is the only solution that will both keep companies from moving their headquarters out of the United States and, more importantly, encourage more businesses to grow, hire, and increase wages for American workers.

Folks, that is what it is about: grow, hire, increase wages for American workers. It is not about passing a mandatory minimum wage. That is going to kill jobs. It is going to increase some people’s salaries at the expense of others. It is not about doing away with environmental protections. We support environmental protections.

Obviously, there are some regulations that make no sense, but those regulations that we need need those. It is not going back to the time when rivers were on fire and our environment was at risk. The answer is in fundamental Tax Code reform so that we can grow, so that we can hire, so that we can increase American wages.

And over on the Senate side, Chairman RON WYDEN, Democratic Senate Finance Committee Chairman RON WYDEN, says this:

America should not be part of a race to the bottom. It is clear that America must establish a more efficient and competitive corporate tax rate.

People wonder why it is we can’t get things done here, Madam Speaker. You and I wonder why it is we can’t get more done. It is because when folks are on the campaign trail, they tell one story. They tell a story that divides us. They tell a story that tells us who to blame. They tell a story about the big corporations who happen to provide a lot of jobs to a lot of American families. But that is not the story they tell. They tell the story of greed and perversion in the Tax Code.

But when they get down to serious policy conversations, when they get off the campaign trail and start talking about what really makes a difference, they all agree fundamental tax reform makes the difference.

Now, how are we going to get there? We have seen the shenanigans that go on that prevent us from going there, we have seen the desperate need that requires that we get there. How are we going to get there?

Well, Madam Speaker, the President’s Council on Jobs and Competitiveness has been clear on this topic. This is President Obama’s Council on Jobs and Competitiveness.

We have to view our corporate tax rates as part of our national package for attracting job-creating investment.
I will give you a hint, Madam Speaker. If you want your corporate tax rates to be part of a package for attracting jobs in national investment, you don't want them to be the worst in the world, you want them to be the best in the world. The President's Council knows this.

Our system of corporate taxation hurts business competitiveness and American workers and it cries out for reforms. The President's Council says our corporate Tax Code hurts American business competitiveness. They don't conclude that businesses are evil and greedy and out to stick it to American taxpayers. They conclude that businesses are struggling and trying, but it is our Tax Code that is the albatross around their neck:

A growing body of research also shows that in a world of mobile capital, workers bear a rising share of the burden of the corporate income tax in the form of reduced employment opportunities and lower wages.

Madam Speaker, I am going to read that again, because we don't have that conversation enough. These are not my words, these are the words of the President's Council on Jobs and Competitiveness:

A growing body of research also shows that in a world of mobile capital, workers bear a rising share of the burden of the corporate income tax in the form of reduced employment opportunities and lower wages.

The United States of America, worst international competitiveness anywhere on the planet, worst international tax code anywhere on the planet. The United States of America, highest corporate tax rate anywhere on the planet, largest disincentive to do business anywhere on the planet.

The President's Council on Jobs and Competitiveness:

These giant corporate tax rates don't punish corporations, they punish American workers.

My friends, Madam Speaker, we don't have corporations that pay taxes, we have corporations that raise prices. We don't have corporations that pay taxes, we have corporations that lower wages. We don't have corporations that pay taxes, we have corporations that lower return on capital. Corporations don't pay taxes, they collect taxes. They collect them from the people who buy their products, they collect them from their employees in those lower wages, they collect them in lower returns to capital—their shareholders, our seniors on those fixed incomes. High corporate tax rates don't punish corporations, they don't punish employers, they punish employees, they punish middle class American families.

Madam Speaker, the President's Council recommended a move to that territorial tax system I talk about. They recommended eliminating this vestige of an older time when capital was not so mobile, a vestige only seven countries in the world still use. We are the largest economy to still use it. It disadvantages us more than it does anybody else. The President's Council recommends eliminating that territorial tax system, not double-taxing. It says:

The current worldwide system makes investing . . . in the United States more expensive from a tax point of view than reinvesting them abroad, where they are not subject to additional corporate income tax.

Think about the lunacy of that, Madam Speaker. In the name of so-called "taxpayer economy" by bringing in more revenue through higher tax rates, what we do to American companies is discourage them from bringing money home and investing it here, and instead encourage them to keep the money overseas and invest there.

I don't know what you are thinking of when you are thinking of investment. I am thinking of building a new factory, I am thinking of expanding productivity of your workers, I am thinking of those things that grow economies.

The President's Council says our Tax Code encourages those things to happen for our citizens. I want to encourage those things to happen for our citizens. Corporate tax reform is the answer.

Madam Speaker, I am going to close in a place that makes me happy. I told you I had bad news when I got down here to start. I did have bad news. The bad news is we have tied one arm of the American economy behind America's back. We have burdened ourselves with the worst Tax Code the world has ever seen, and we are demanding that American companies follow our disastrous model or else face the accusation that they are somehow unpatriotic. That has been the White House's solution to a slow economy and rapid job deterioration.

Madam Speaker, what you can't see on this poster is Ronald Reagan's solution to some of those very same challenges. Because when he was elected in 1980, he faced some of those very same economic challenges we are facing here today. And Ronald Reagan came together with the U.S. House of Representatives, led by Democrats, and passed fundamental tax reform for the last time it was passed in this country—1986—last large tax reform that we had in this country. They said he couldn't do it. They said he couldn't do it, Madam Speaker. They said it was too big.

He did two things that this White House, this administration, has not done, and that I implore them to do, Madam Speaker—two things.

Number one, he didn't just talk about it, he released a proposal of his own. He didn't just release one proposal, his Treasury Department released two proposals. Our Treasury Department giving speeches on why it is a corporation's fault, Ronald Reagan's Treasury Department offering solutions; two entire fundamental tax reform proposals for the Congress to examine, improve, and pass.

Ronald Reagan said this, Madam Speaker. He said:

Just as sure as Ruth could hit home runs and Rose can break records, during this session of the Congress, America's tax plan will become law. But it's going to take all of us of you letting the folks in Washington know you that you want this change made. He led, Madam Speaker. I thank you for your leadership, I ask my colleagues for their leadership, and, together, we can make sure that American jobs come first and the American economy is first in the world.

With that, Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted to:

Mrs. CAPITO (at the request of Mr. McCARTHY of California) for today and for the balance of the week on account of a death in the family.

Congress has the power to enact this legislation pursuant to the following:
Under the 10th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, “The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively.” Congress shall have Power to dispose of and make needful Rules and Regulations respecting the Territory or other Property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to Prejudice any Claims of the United States on any particular State.

Currently, the federal government owns approximately 29 percent of all land in the United States. The U.S. Constitution specifically addresses the relationship of the federal government to these lands. Article IV, Section 3, Clause 2—the Property Clause—gives Congress full authority over federal property including the National Park System. The U.S. Supreme Court has described Congress’s power to legislate under this Clause as “without limitation.” This bill falls squarely within the express Constitutional power set forth in the Property Clause.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Eternal God, who restores peace in human hearts, thank You for Your many blessings. Guide our lawmakers so that they may will Your purposes and become instruments of Your providence. Today, help them to speak words that will leave them without regret. May they play their part in these momentous times so that their labors will withstand the scrutiny of history and the judgment of posterity. May Your Spirit rule in our lives, teaching us to sacrifice our comforts for the good of others. Use us today as ambassadors of Your will.

We pray in Your majestic Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The President pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

SCHEDULE

Mr. REID. Mr. President, following my remarks, the Senate will be in recess subject to the call of the Chair for the joint meeting with the President of Ukraine.

When the Senate reconvenes, it will be in a period of morning business until 1 p.m., with the time equally divided and controlled between the two leaders or their designees. The Republicans will control the first half and the majority will control the final half.

At 1 p.m. the Senate will proceed to the consideration of H.J. Res. 124, the continuing resolution. There will be up to 4½ hours of debate prior to a series of rollovall votes followed by several voice votes on executive nominations. Senators should expect the votes to begin around 5 p.m.

TRIBUTE TO JERRY LINNELL

Mr. President, in ancient Greece the keeping of history was considered so important that Clio, daughter of Zeus, was believed responsible for recording all that occurred on Earth—everything.

In the Senate we don’t have Greek gods in charge of keeping our records, but we do rely on the superhuman efforts of a group of official reporters who transcribe every word we say. It is a hard, hard job. Official reporters have to accustom their ears to all sorts of accents from across our country, find ways to spell newly invented words, try to listen to what I don’t say very loudly, and all the other issues they have to deal with, and they have to suffer through talking filibusters. In fact, they may be the only people who dislike filibusters more than I do.

Today I recognize just one of those hard-working official reporters—the chief reporter of debates of the Senate Jerry Linnell, who is retiring at the end of this month. For 32 years Jerry has been a staple here in the Senate, ensuring that the words of Senators past and present are correctly recorded for the American people. While he has been here, he has witnessed many events. He has seen five different Presidents occupy the White House, worked with eight different majority leaders, transcribed speeches on everything from the Berlin Wall to Senator Byrd’s legendary lectures on the history of the Senate.

I wish Jerry all the best in his well-deserved retirement. I have no doubt that he and his wife Jane will keep busy spending time with their 7 children and 11 grandchildren. And, of course, Jerry will have his Washington Nationals to follow.

It has been a pleasant respite for me to spend time with Jerry talking about baseball. He takes trips around the country that make me so envious—watching different teams in different stadiums. I think he has watched a baseball game in almost every Major League Baseball stadium in America, and I am very envious of that.

The Senate is a better place because of Jerry’s 32 years here. I, along with every other Member of this body, thank Jerry for his many years of service.

CONTINUING RESOLUTION

Mr. President, yesterday the House of Representatives passed a continuing resolution to keep our government from shutting down for the next 3 months. In addition to keeping the government operating, this measure includes provisions important to our national security, such as funding to combat ISIS— an evil organization—by training and equipping vetted Syrian opposition forces and aid to fight the spread of Ebola.

It is not perfect; that is for sure. But no legislation is. In this era of radical ideologies and endless obstruction, the funding resolution before us is infinitely better than the alternatives—another shutdown of our government.

I think it speaks volumes that Speaker BOEHNER, Leader PELOSI, the

* This “bullet” symbol identifies statements or insertions which are not spoken by a Member of the Senate on the floor.
Republican leader, and I are supporting this legislation. That should say a lot to the American people. As every Senator knows, the funding bill we approve must first have passed the House of Representatives, and it did that. Breaking up the legislation the House sent us is not a viable option at this juncture. We need to complete our work on the House-passed resolution as soon as possible. We have an agreement in place to vote on this measure no later than 5:30 p.m. this evening. With the cooperation of Senators, we could vote even earlier today.

There is one final unanimous consent request.

Authorization to Appoint Escort Committee

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the President of the Senate be authorized to appoint a committee on the part of the Senate to join with a like committee on the part of the House of Representatives to escort His Excellency Petro Poroshenko into the House Chamber for the joint meeting today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BOOKER). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Recognition of the Minority Leader

Mr. MCBRIDE. Mr. President, it frequently happens when we head into a recess that we have to say a reluctant farewell to some member of the Senate family. So before I yield the floor, I wish to say a word of thanks to Jerry Linnell, who has been a fixture here for more than 3 decades as an official reporter of debates and for the past 15 years as a somewhat hidden fixture up on the fourth floor as the chief reporter.

It is a tough job having to listen to the rest of us drone on every day, and as chief reporter Jerry has had the inenviable task of reviewing every single word we have said. In his traditional suspenders, Jerry is a friendly and unmistakable presence up on the fourth floor, guiding his team through their daily rounds and maintaining a level of professionalism and integrity that has always been a key characteristic of the office.

It is a proud group. Back in the 1930s Senator Huey Long is said to have donated his own personal Bible to the office so they would have a handy reference when he quoted from it. It quickly became a tradition for new reporters to sign it when they were hired and then once they left.

In a sign of how dedicated these reporters are, only 35 names have been entered in the Bible over the past 80 years. So it is a very venerable fraternity, one that has its roots in article I of the Constitution. We thank Jerry for his many, many years of dedicated, honorable service.

I know Jerry and his wife Janet look forward to spending more time with their many children and grandchildren. After listening to us for all those years, I think he deserves it.

You have done your time. You have done it well. The entire Senate family thanks you, Jerry, all the best. I yield the floor.

Reserve of Leader Time

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

Joint Meeting of the Two Houses—Address by the President of Ukraine

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate stands in recess subject to the call of the Chair in order to attend a joint meeting of Congress.

Thereupon, the Senate, at 9:29 a.m., recessed subject to the call of the Chair, and the Senate, preceded by the Deputy Sergeant at Arms, Mike Stenger, the Secretary of the Senate, Nancy Erickson, and the Vice President of the United States, Joseph R. Biden, Jr., proceeded to the Hall of the House of Representatives to hear an address delivered by His Excellency Petro Poroshenko, President of Ukraine.

(The address delivered by the President of Ukraine to the joint meeting of the two Houses of Congress is printed in the proceedings of the House of Representatives in today's Record.)

Whereupon, at 11:11 a.m., the Senate, having returned to its Chamber, reassembled and was called to order by the Presiding Officer (Mr. BOOKER).

Morning Business

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will be in a period of morning business until 1 p.m., with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each, and with the time equally divided between the two leaders or their designees, with the Republicans controlling the first half.

The Senator from Texas.

Unanimous Consent Request—S. 2779

Mr. CRUZ. Mr. President, I rise today to ask that Republicans and Democrats in the Senate to come together and unanimously pass legislation to address the threat of American citizens fighting for ISIS and bringing our statutory system into the 21st century to protect the national security interests of our Nation.

As the American people are now painfully aware, the so-called Islamic State in Iraq and Syria, or ISIS, has emerged as the new face of the radical Islamist that has ravaged the West in recent decades. This virulent jihadist group—so extreme they got kicked out of Al Qaeda, which I will note is not easy to do—is rampaging across Syria and Iraq in a campaign of oppression and genocide, including the wholesale extermination of Christians, of Jews, of Muslim minority sects, Yazidis—indeed, any who do not share their radical Sunni theology.

While other terrorist organizations have been content with a parasitic relationship with state sponsors of terrorism—notably Syria and Iran—ISIS has a new agenda, which is to establish its own state or caliphate. They now control territories the size of Indiana, with oilfields they can exploit on the black market to the tune of some $1.5 million a day. Their ranks have grown in the last 3 months alone from roughly 10,000 to now more than 30,000.

Unless some regional jihadists, ISIS also represents a direct and growing threat to our citizens here at home, and increasingly to our homeland itself. Just this week there were news reports of an online posting urging individual jihadists in the United States to attack targets such as Times Square, the Las Vegas strip, and even locations in my home State of Texas, with homemade pipe bombs. This is not the first time we have heard such threats, but we have to take them seriously. ISIS has made clear that its goal is not simply to establish a caliphate in the Middle East; its desire is to impose Sharia law on the Muslim population and to exterminate any religious minorities, and that desire is not confined by geography. The leader of ISIS, Abu al-Baghdadi, was released from a detention camp in Iraq in 2009, he reportedly remarked to Army COL Kenneth King, “See you in New York.” This danger, this evil intends to come home to America.

ISIS has in recent weeks graphically demonstrated their eagerness to murder American civilians by beheading two journalists, gruesomely demonstrating on the world stage their hatred for America. This is not a situation where if we simply leave ISIS alone, they will leave us alone. This is a case where America’s national security interests demand a serious response, which should be both to attack ISIS directly and to take them out in its claimed caliphate, as well as to defeat threats against the attacks ISIS is planning to execute here at home.

The Obama administration’s approach to this crisis has unfortunately lacked a clear focus on that issue. It doesn’t help that ISIS is surrounded by regional chaos borne out of a Syrian civil war, and ISIS has exploited the inherent political weakness in Iraq. However, while both the crisis in Syria and the upheaval in Baghdad are unfortunate, concerning situations, we cannot allow resolving them to become precursors to any military action we might need to take against ISIS.

All too often, the Obama administration’s proposals threaten to become embroiled in the midst of these political crises. For example, they have made training and equipping the Free Syrian Army a cornerstone of their plan to fight ISIS. But just this week, the leader of the Free Syrian Army reportedly warned he would not participate in the fight against ISIS unless we pledged to join in his fight against Syrian dictator Bashar al-Assad.
While this is certainly understandable from his perspective, resolving the Syrian civil war is not our mission nor the job of the military and we should not be making the Free Syrian Army, whose focus is Assad, central to the American plan of defending our Nation against the threat of ISIS.

The administration’s ISIS policy is also marked by internal confusion that further demonstrates a lack of focus on what should be our clear mission. The President and Secretary of State repeatedly insisted that there will be no American boots on the ground in Iraq and Syria, as he wants any action to be led by others, even while he increases U.S. personnel in the country by a few hundred here and a few hundred there. Earlier this week, his top general, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, admitted there would be a change in advice to the President to recommending ground troops—

The Army would change his advice to the President of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, admitted there would be a change in advice to the President to recommending ground troops—which demonstrates a lack of focus on our mission and what ценности the President envisions relates to the administration.

I am, therefore, going to be asking Secretary Hagel to blow up a car bomb in Times Square.

President envisions relates to the administration.

Either way, Secretary Hagel agreed with my characterization of the risks posed that Americans will take U.S. passports after fighting with ISIS, after training with ISIS, to come back and commit unspeakable acts of terror here at home. Secretary Hagel agreed that this risk was significant. It seems only prudent to address that threat.

I am, therefore, going to be asking for unanimous consent for the Senate to pass the Expatriate Terrorist Act of 2014, which will make fighting for ISIS, taking up arms against the United States, an affirmative renunciation of American citizenship.

I should note the Expatriate Terrorist Act is very similar to the bipartisan legislation proposed by Senators Joe Lieberman and Scott Brown in 2010 to address Americans who were joining Al Qaeda overseas, notably the radical cleric Anwar al-Awlaki, or here at home Faisal Shahzad, who attempted to blow up a car bomb in Times Square.

The Expatriate Terrorist Act has applicability beyond the immediate threat of ISIS. It is an important adjustment of our existing laws governing the renunciation of citizenship.

To reflect the threat posed by nonnationals, the legislation from the Senate of State Hillary Clinton said concerning the Brown-Lieberman legislation:

United States citizenship is a privilege. It is not a right. People who are serving foreign powers—are clearly in violation of that oath which they swore when they became citizens.

Or in this case, foreign terrorists—

The Expatriate Terrorist Act of 2014 is on the heels of our current law. It is one small step in a larger and necessary effort to refocus our ISIS strategy that I urge President Obama to consider immediately.

We also urgently need to address the question of citizenship and how it changes when members of our southern border so our failure to defend ourselves does not become a weakness that ISIS and other terrorists exploit to carry out unspeakable acts of terror here at home.

The American people expect Republicans and Democrats to join together to speak in one uniform voice when it comes to protecting the national security and when it comes to protecting the lives of Americans here at home.

If we fail to address this issue, the consequence will be that Americans fighting alongside ISIS today may come home tomorrow with a U.S. passport, may come home to New York or Los Angeles or Houston or Chicago. Innocent Americans may be murdered if the Senate does not act today.

Therefore, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of Calendar No. 554, S. 2779, I further ask consent that the bill be read a second time and passed and the motion to reconsider be considered made and laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Senator from Hawaii.

Ma. HIRONO. Mr. President, reserving the right to object. This bill has not been brought before the Judiciary Committee, which has jurisdiction over these issues. This bill affects fundamental constitutional rights and should be given the full deliberation of the Senate.

Legislation that grants the government the ability to strip citizenship from Americans is a serious matter raising significant constitutional issues. Again, we have not had the opportunity to fully consider and register a significant bill.

In addition, objections to this bill are detailed in two letters, both dated September 4, 2014. The letters are from the bipartisan Constitution Project and the American Civil Liberties Union.

I ask unanimous consent that these letters be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

The CONSTITUTION PROJECT.

Washington, DC, September 17, 2014.

DEAR SENATOR: On September 5, 2014, Senator Ted Cruz (R-TX) introduced the Expatriate Terrorist Act (ETA). According to Senator Cruz, the bill is a common sense counterterrorism tool that would strip U.S. citizenship from Americans who fight with or support foreign terrorist organizations planning to pre-constitutional right of due process, since one cannot actually be said to have committed the acts specified in §1481(a)(7)—each of which are crimes against the United States—until and unless those acts have been proven to a jury beyond a reasonable doubt. As the Supreme Court expressly held in Kennedy v. Mendoza-Martinez, Congress cannot deprive an individual of a protected citizen as a “punishment” absent the procedural safeguards of a criminal trial."

Congress has precious little time left before adjourning until November to decide how and under what authority to address the situation in Iraq and Syria. Members should spend this time debating these grave questions, and not spend time engaged with needed and likely unconstitutional legislation. In the event that Senator Cruz moves forward with the Expatriate Terrorist Act, I urge you to oppose it.

Sincerely,

David Cole,
Hon. George J. Mitchell Professor in Law and Public Policy at Georgetown University Law Center; co-chair of the Constitution Project’s Liberty and Security Committee.

AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION,
Washington, DC. September 17, 2014.

Re Oppose Cruz Bill S. 2779, Expatriate Terrorists Act. S. 2779 Is Unnecessary and Dangerous.

Dear Senator: The American Civil Liberties Union urges you to refrain from co-sponsoring—and if offered—S. 2779, the Expatriate Terrorists Act, which is sponsored by Senator Ted Cruz. The bill would strip U.S. citizenship from Americans who have not been convicted of any crimes, but who are suspected of being involved with designated foreign terrorist organizations. S. 2779 is dangerous because it would attempt to dilute the rights and privileges of citizenship, one of the core principles of the Constitution. As the Supreme Court explained in 1967 in Afroyim v. Rusk, “the Fourteenth Amendment was designed to, and does protect every citizen of this Nation against a congressional forcible destruction of his citizenship, whatever his creed, color, or race. [It creates] an constitutional right to remain a citizen in a free country unless he voluntarily relinquishes that citizenship.” The bill is also unnecessary because existing laws already provide significant penalties for U.S. citizens who engage in acts of terrorism.

The Supreme Court has consistently found that citizenship is a fundamental constitutional right that cannot be taken away from U.S.-born citizens unless voluntarily renounced. An already overbroad federal statute, 8 U.S.C. §1481, provides that an American can lose his or her nationality by performing either of the following broad categories of acts with the intention of relinquishing his or her nationality:

- acts that affirmatively renounce one’s American citizenship, such as taking an oath of allegiance to a foreign government or serving as an officer in the armed forces of a foreign nation;
- committing crimes such as treason or conspiracy to overthrow the U.S. government, or being a member of, or providing training or material assistance to, any designated foreign terrorist organization.” This implicates several constitutional concerns.

- First, the material assistance provision added by the bill would treat suspected provision of material assistance as an act that affirmatively renounces one’s American citizenship. Thus, unlike treason or conspiracy to overthrow the U.S. government, this provision would not require a prior conviction. It would only require an administrative finding by an unspecified government official that an American is suspected of providing material assistance to a designated foreign terrorist organization with the intention of relinquishing his or her citizenship. This provision would treat American constitutional right to due process, including by depriving them of citizenship based on secret evidence, and without the right to a jury trial and accompanying protections enshrined in the Fifth and Sixth Amendments. In sum, the bill turns the whole notion of due process on its head. Government officials do not have the power to strip citizenship from American citizens who never renounced their citizenship and were never convicted of a crime.

- Second, the material assistance provision suffers from the same constitutional flaws that plague other material support laws, and goes far beyond what the Supreme Court has held is constitutionally permissible when First and Fourth Amendments rights are at stake. In 2010, the U.S. Supreme Court dismissed Holsten v. Humane Law Project that teaching terrorist groups how to negotiate peacefully could be enough to be found guilty of material support. That logic might apply to criminal conduct; it should not cause an American to lose his or her citizenship.

For these reasons, the ACLU urges you to refrain from co-sponsoring S. 2779, and oppose if it is offered for a vote. Please contact Arjun Sethi if you have any questions regarding this letter.

Sincerely,

Laura Murphy,
Director, Washington Legislative Office.
Arjun Sethi,
Legislative Counsel, Washington Legislative Office.

Ms. HIRONO. Mr. President, I object to the unanimous consent. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

The Senator from Texas.

Mr. CRUZ. Mr. President, I would note that the objection from my friend from Hawaii observed that this legislation has not gone through the Judiciary Committee, and that is true. It is true, of course, because the Senate is expected to adjourn this week as Senators return to their home States to campaign for their re-election. If we were to go through the Judiciary Committee, it would mean it would not pass in time to prevent Americans fighting right now with ISIS from coming back and murdering other Americans. There is an urgency and exigency to this situation.

This is also legislation the Senate considered before. As I noted, it was bipartisan legislation. Joe Lieberman, Scott Brown, Hillary Clinton are all in one accord.

It is unfortunate the Democratic Senators chose to object to this, to prevent this commonsense change in law.

I would note when it comes to constitutional concerns. I don’t know if anyone in this Senate has been more vigorous or more consistent in terms of defending the constitutional rights of Americans than I have endeavored to be during my short election year politics and more service to the men and women whom all of us are obliged to protect.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Republican leader.

Ukraine

Mr. McCONNELL. Earlier we had an opportunity to hear from Ukraine's President Petro Poroshenko. Ukraine is a friend of the United States and it has looked to the West to meet naked Russian aggression.

As President Poroshenko’s speech reminded us, there are objectives that bind our countries, such as the pursuit of freedom and self-determination for our own people. Let’s make it clear. We stand with Ukraine. We stand with the Ukrainian people in their struggle against external aggression and we stand with them in their struggle to secure the rights and liberties each of us enjoy in America.

THE CONTINUING RESOLUTION
Mr. MCCONNELL. On a different matter, today the Senate will consider House legislation to fund the government and address the threats of Ebola and ISIL.

These are important issues. Many Members on both sides plan to support this legislation. I know others have some concerns too. I understand those concerns. I share some of them, but while no bill is perfect, I believe this legislation is worth supporting.

I would like to thank my fellow Senator, Senator ROGERS, for his leadership and work on this bill because it does a lot of important things and all without raising discretionary spending. It would reauthorize important counternarcotics operations that help keep our children and communities safe and it would extend the Internet Tax Freedom Act until December, giving us a chance to secure a permanent extension.

It would block some of the administration’s discretionary policies against Kentucky coal and help address the administration’s veterans crisis by providing more resources to address the backlog and investigations into potential wrongdoing that is a positive step toward the more comprehensive reforms Republicans would like to see.

Critically, the legislation would provide authorization to train and equip a moderate Syrian opposition ground force, a key component of the President’s efforts to disrupt, dismantle, and defeat ISIL.

While I am concerned about the ability of the coalition to generate sufficient combat power to defeat ISIL within Syria, I do support the President’s efforts to begin the process. The authorization is of limited duration and it now contains important reporting requirements that will allow Congress to assess and oversee this program to measure whether the mission is actually being accomplished by the administration.

The Ebola crisis is another area where the President deserves congressional support. As you know, he recently announced several messages to contain the spread of the disease in Africa and prevent it from reaching our shores.

Accordingly, the bill contains additional resources to support research and bolster our Nation’s effort in assisting Africa to manage this growing crisis.

In summary, this isn’t perfect legislation, but it begins to address many of our constituents’ top concerns without raising discretionary spending. It positions us for better solutions in the months ahead.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. HOEVEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak for 35 minutes for the purpose of engaging in a colloquy with my colleague on the issue of the Keystone XL Pipeline.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

KEYSTONE XL PIPELINE
Mr. HOEVEN. Mr. President, tomorrow is the sixth anniversary of the application for approval of the Keystone XL Pipeline. Six years. Six years ago, September 4, 2008, a company applied for permit for approval to cross the Canadian border to build the Keystone XL Pipeline from Hardisty, Canada, down to Cushing and ultimately the Gulf coast, to provide oil to move oil not out of Canada but oil from States such as my State of North Dakota, of light, sweet Bakken crude, oil from Montana, to our refineries here in the United States. Six years ago, that application was filed, effective tomorrow. So we are here today to talk about the need not only for a decision on the Keystone XL Pipeline but for approval of this vitally important project.

The reality is we can make this country energy secure, energy independent, working with our closest friends and allies, Canada. But to do it we not only need to develop all of our resources, our energy resources in this country, and work with Canada as they develop their energy resources, but we need the infrastructure to transport energy, we need the infrastructure capability to move the energy where it is needed, to our consumers.

That is what the Keystone XL Pipeline project is all about. This is truly about building the roads, the rails, the pipelines, the transmission, the energy infrastructure we need as a vital part of our energy plan for this country. We have bipartisan support. We have 57 Senators who support this legislation—57 Senators, I think by next year we will have 60.

So while we sit here and wait—now for 6 years, effective tomorrow 6 years, waiting for a decision from the President on the Keystone XL Pipeline—ultimately I believe this decision will be made by the American people, as it always is and as it always should be. Because I believe that after these elections in November as we go into next year we will not only have 57 Senators who support this project, we will have over 60.

Then Congress will pass legislation, a bill that we have submitted, a bipartisan bill we have pending before this body right now. We will pass it. We will attach it to something the President will not veto. The House has already passed this legislation. Because over 70 percent, I think in the most recent poll, of the American people want this project. They want this project approved.

So here after 6 years—we are going to talk about some of the history of this and all of the work we have done. But before I do that, I want to turn to my colleague from Wyoming, somebody who truly understands the threats of the American people to build our energy future and we not only need to produce that energy, we need the infrastructure to transport it safely, effectively, and well.

I wish to call on the Senator from Wyoming for his remarks on this sixth anniversary of the application, waiting for approval, waiting for a decision from the administration on the Keystone XL Pipeline, for his thoughts and for his comments. I turn to the good Senator from Wyoming.

Mr. BARRASSO. Mr. President, here is his thoughts as to why this project is still awaiting a decision from the administration, after the President told us, told our caucus last year, at a caucus we had here in an adjacent room, that we would have a decision by the end of 2013. Why are we here still awaiting a decision on behalf of the American people?

Mr. BARRASSO. Mr. President, I appreciate and want to salute the significant leadership we have seen on this issue from the Senator from North Dakota. He has been a stalwart fighter, very focused on this issue, and focused on putting together a bipartisan coalition of supporters. Americans want the job creation. They want the energy. They want the decision. We have an opportunity, but we have been waiting 6 long years.

The Senator from North Dakota is absolutely right. It was at a meeting in the Republican conference where the President of the United States came in. I asked the specific question: When will we expect an answer so we can get moving with the jobs and the energy that the American people are asking for?

President Obama said: Well, by the end of the year. He said that almost a year and a half ago. It was the end of the year 2013 that the promise was going to be fulfilled. Now here we are halfway—beyond halfway—through 2014. Nothing yet. Not a thing from the White House, a White House held hostage by environmental extremists who are trying to block important jobs and important energy and this important project.

We are here in the Senate today and the majority leader is ready to close this place down until after the elections. He closed it down—if you count the number of days from the beginning... of August, all through August, a few days in session in September, but most of September not in session, and then all of October up through the election, you are talking 3 months, with the Senate in session for just 2 weeks. It is embarrassing. What is the accountability? We are sure not getting it from the majority leader. The majority leader ought to bring this for a vote today. But he is not going to. He is going to shut down the Senate today, making sure that there is the energy not there for the American people. The Keystone XL Pipeline bipartisan support is an excellent example of a project that could help us from the standpoint of energy security, from the standpoint of economic growth, the standpoint of helping our economy getting people back to work.

But yet the majority leader is not going to allow a vote today, 6 years in waiting on this specific important project. I would say to my friend and colleague from North Dakota, I know our friends and colleagues from Oklahoma and Georgia are here on the floor, I want to hear their comments as well. I salute the Senator from North Dakota for his continued leadership, for his fight, and let him continue to work to make America better, in terms of jobs, in terms of the economy, and in terms of energy. I know the Senator will not stop until we finally get this project approved, completed, and constructed.

Mr. Hoeven. I wish to thank the Senator from Wyoming for his diligence and for his work. This is a bipartisan issue. We have legislation now with 57 supporters that is pending before this body. In fact, we have passed this legislation. We actually had passed very similar legislation, different only in the respect that it called on the President to make a decision—this was back in 2012. I think we had 73 votes on this. I would presume that the President does not have the ability to make a decision to approve. We are here to do that.

I say to my friend from North Dakota, and I don't want to sound disrespectful, but $50 million of that is his own money, and he has that out there right now. I am going to quote him:

"It is true that we expect to be heavily involved in the midterm elections. Fifty million of his own money. We are looking at a bunch of ... races. ... My guess is that we'll end up being involved in 8 or even more races."

The Keystone Pipeline would create 42,000 jobs and tens of thousands more. If you talk to the State of Oklahoma, about one-third of all those jobs are in the State of Oklahoma.

Keystone is just the tip of the iceberg. When we look at this chart, we can see all of the domestic energy resources that are being developed around the country right now. We are going through a shale revolution, and the only thing getting in its way is the Federal Government.

Look at this next chart. I can remember back when people considered the only oil States to be west of the Mississippi, the Western United States. But with the Marcellus coming through, you could argue—and I have seen the argument in the State of Pennsylvania—it provides the second-most jobs in that State. Yet they need to be aware that this is what is happening in the United States.

If we look at this map, it shows what we could do if we also had the Federal lands included in that. In fact, a discussion of the shocking things we hear when we talk about the Federal lands is that in the past 6 years—and that is since President Obama has been there, and he has done everything he could to retard the progress of oil and gas since he came to office. The production on State lands is up 61 percent—that is in 6 years, up 61 percent—and natural gas is up 33 percent. However, on Federal lands—land the President can affect—oil production is down 6 percent. How can production be up 61 percent on State lands and down 6 percent on Federal lands? I think that shows the commitment that is there.

ICF International is a well-respected consulting firm. It is not Republican or Democratic. They recently released a report that says U.S. companies will need to invest $641 billion over the next 20 years in infrastructure to keep up with growing oil and gas production. What I find interesting is that according to the analysis, spending on these new pipelines alone will create 432,000 new jobs. It goes on and on talking about this.

I asked the same question: How could it be—6 years ago I thought that this was a piece of cake, that this was going to be done. What is the argument against it? There are people who fight against fossil fuels. That is alive and well. But they know they are going to be producing it anyway, and if it goes to China, they are going to have to go through the refining process, and they don't have any restrictions on emissions in China. So the argument is that if they do it, there are going to be more emissions—if they find that to be so offensive—than if we do it here in the United States where we have the capability to produce and have the jobs here.

When I go back to Oklahoma, people say: What are the arguments against it? I try to explain the argument they are using, but they don't buy it. Of course, I am in Oklahoma talking to normal Oklahomans. Anyway, good luck. We are going to do all we can to make this a reality. We are going to win this eventuality, but I am afraid we have the opposition of this administration, and unless we get that turned around, we will have to wait for another President.

Mr. HOEVEN. I would like to thank the Senator from Oklahoma and pick up on a point he made very well. He made a number of points that are extremely compelling, but one of the points he made is that overall, since about 2008, 2009, that area, our oil production in America is up 40 percent. So people say: Well, we are producing 40 percent more oil than we did in 2008, 2009. I just want to go to a map that President Obama put together. That President Obama, by reducing the amount of oil we have to import into this country, we were below 50 percent. Now we are closing in on 60 percent and more oil that we produce. Together with Canada and Mexico, which also have increased, in terms of the oil that we consume, we produce in this country or get, as I say, from our closest allies and working on getting to 80 percent.

Well, people would say that is very good, but the Senator from Oklahoma made a very important point. Understand that is because we are up 60 percent in oil production on private land—on private land. We are actually down in terms of our production on public land; we are down between 6 and 7 percent. So when you net the two, we are up about 40 percent, but that is because we are up about 60 percent on private land.

I will give an example of how that works on the ground. In North Dakota, 90 percent of the land is privately owned, so our oil production is growing tremendously. As I said, we are at about 1.1 million barrels a day and on our way to 1.4 million barrels a day in a few more months.

In Alaska, on the other hand, production is going down because their land is 90 percent public land and a very small percentage is private land. They can't get the permits and they can't build the infrastructure, so the amount of oil they produce is declining. The Alaskan pipeline can carry 2 million barrels of oil a day. It is down to less than 600,000 and declining. This is at a time when we are still getting oil from the Middle East and we are dealing with entities that have little faith in the United States of America, and now we do it on one pad covering 1.280 acres. In the old days—and again maybe my friend from Oklahoma would like to think of how many wells they would have to drill and how much infrastructure and well derricks and pumps they would have to have. We go 2 miles underground, and then we drill laterals 3 miles long. Eighteen wells all on one site. Think of how much we have reduced the environmental footprint with that technology. Think of how much less ground we are using, and we do it on one pad covering 1.280 acres. In the old days—and again maybe my friend from Oklahoma would like to think of how many wells they would have to drill and how much infrastructure and well derricks and pumps they would have to have. We go 2 miles underground, and then we drill laterals 3 miles long. Eighteen wells all on one site. Think of how much we have reduced the environmental footprint with that technology. Think of how much less ground we are using, and we do it on one pad covering 1.280 acres going out 3 miles in all directions from one eco-pad. So it is not just about energy,
I would say to my friend from Oklahoma, it is also better environmental stewardship.

Mr. INHOFE. It is also about technology. All of the environmentalists or extreme environmentalists who are trying to fight this battle against fossil fuels, they ought to be rejoicing that we have this technology now.

When we talk about the number of wells, it is now past 1 million wells that have been used using hydraulic fracturing. By their own admission, there has never been one documented case of groundwater contamination. So the answer is that there is no reason not to do it.

This is our opportunity to be independent. We could be independent in a matter of weeks if we had the opportunity to export.

It is not just private land, it is private and State land. All of the increase we have had of 6 percent, we talk about, is all private and State land. How is it possible that increase could take place on State land while on Federal land it goes down 6 percent? That tells the whole story.

Mr. HOEVEN. I have one more question for my friend from Oklahoma before I turn to my good friend from the State of Georgia.

Answer, please, if you would. As we produce this energy domestically—so we are producing energy here, we are creating economic activity, we are creating revenue without raising taxes from a growing economy. We are helping national security because we are not getting oil from the Middle East or Venezuela or places that are hostile to our interests. Now we are talking about environmental stewardship. We are talking about minimizing the footprint with these new technologies. Why would we not want to move that product as safely as possible, with the best technology and the most safeguards? Why isn’t that an environmentally sound decision as well?

Mr. INHOFE. I have often said and many of the people who are very conscious about the environment—as I am and others—have said this is the answer. I remember years ago when I was very young, I worked in the oilfields. I can remember there were small wells all over the place, of course, at that time there wasn’t an effort. Now they have cleaned things up, and nothing is greater in terms of the technology that has come along for the environment than what we have experienced.

When we think about what is happening all over the world—I am glad the Senator mentioned this—with ISIS and all of these problems we have right now, I believe we are facing a greater threat right now militarily than we have before. And that is where a lot of our energy is coming from, and it doesn’t have to.

A good friend of the Senator and a good friend of mine named Harold Hamm—he is from Oklahoma, but he does a lot of work up there—I asked him a question in relation to the President repeatedly saying: Well, if we were to go ahead and develop this on Federal lands, it would take 10 years before that would reach the economy. I was on a friendly TV show, and I called up Harold Hamm and I asked, Harold, I am going to ask you a question, and be careful in the way you answer it because I am going to use your name and your answer on national TV. If we were to set up someplace like New Mexico on Federal land that had not been touched before, how long would it take that first barrel of oil to reach the economy?

Without hesitating, he said: Seventy days.

I said: Seventy days? Well, that is 10 weeks, not 10 years.

Then he went on to say what would happen each week for those 10 weeks. I have never been refuted since we used that.

In addition to all the arguments we are using, just think about what our oil independence, our energy independence could be in this country. It is all there for the taking. This is the key element to make that happen.

Mr. HOEVEN. I thank the Senator from Oklahoma, who has been a leader in energy for so many years.

This morning we were addressed by the President of Ukraine. Look at their situation. Because they haven’t developed their own energy resources and because they don’t have their own infrastructure, they are now dependent—Ukraine is dependent, along with most of the European Union, on Russia for their energy.

They get more than one-third of their energy from Russia. So at the same time that Russia is invading Ukraine, the European Union is reluctant to stand with the United States and our other allies on strong sanctions to prevent that type of aggression. Why? Because they get their energy from Russia.

So when we talk about building the infrastructure we need in this country to work with our closest friend and ally, Canada, to make sure we are energy secure and that we do not need to get energy from places such as the Middle East or Venezuela or other places that may have interests that are anti-American. We think about how important it is for the security of our country with what is going on in the Middle East with ISIL, and see what is going on in Ukraine and Eastern Europe, and Russian aggression.

So I turn to our colleague from Georgia, who has also been a staunch supporter of this project, and ask him what is going on in terms of national security, the situation we face today, and why in the world would we not be building—not only producing our energy ourselves, but developing these new technologies we are talking about that produce energy with better environmental stewardship and building the infrastructure to move it to our refineries and move it to our consumers.

Why are we waiting 6 years for a decision that would enable us to do that very thing on behalf of the American people?

Mr. ISAKSON. I am pleased to join with the distinguished Senator from the State of North Dakota, and I am pleased to join with the Senator of Oklahoma.

I am pleased to speak as an American from a State that is a net consumer, not producer, of energy. The Senator’s State is a great producer of energy. Senator Inhofe’s State is a great producer of energy. Georgia is a great consumer. We don’t have a lot of oil or natural gas or coal, but I am here because I have a lot of experience in my lifetime—a lot of it with national security issues and with economic issues. Our ability or our failure to approve the Keystone Pipeline and fracking is, very simply, professional malpractice.

I wish to refresh everybody’s memory. This is the sixth anniversary of a law to the President of the United States. Do we know what it is the 35th anniversary of? The Arab oil embargo.

I was a real estate salesman in 1970 when something called the misery index was developed. Does the Senator know what the misery index was? We had double-digit inflation, double-digit unemployment, and double-digit interest rates. Why? Because the Arab oil embargo in the middle 1970s brought America to its knees.

This real estate agent salesman used to have to wait for 2 hours in a line at an ExxonMobil station with a $10 bill to get my ration of gasoline in the 1970s. Why? Because we depended on the Middle East and OPEC to supply us with energy.

We sit here on the cusp of being a net producer of energy. We can use it in our national defense, we can use it in our national security, and we can use it to improve the economy. We have the technology. We have the energy that we know we have available to us, and if we bring in the energy safely and environmentally soundly, as we know we have available to us, we can rule our foreign policy and our economy based on our own strength and not as dependents on anybody else.

Thirty-five years ago is not just a time of the misery index, but it was a time of failed U.S. foreign policy. Remember, it was the late 1970s when the Iranian took the American Embassy hostage in Iran and for 445 days held the strongest military power in the world hostage. Why? In large measure because they controlled petroleum to our country. So it is a national security threat.

When the President of the Ukraine spoke today, he didn’t say this, but I will say it: If America was producing the oil and energy it could with the Keystone Pipeline and with fracking, if America was exporting to foreign countries, we could replace Russia in a heartbeat and be the net supplier of energy to the Ukraine and to Germany.
Mr. HOEVEN. That is absolutely correct. We have the dates of the approval of five different environmental impact statements right here, all finding no significant environmental impact.

Mr. ISAKSON. So that is No. 1.
No. 2, there is no question that being independent in energy makes us a stronger country in terms of our national defense and our foreign policy; is that not correct?

Mr. HOEVEN. That is correct.

Mr. ISAKSON. No. 3, we will have more jobs, more employment, less inflation, and a more vibrant economy if we were developing this petroleum; is that not correct?

Mr. HOEVEN. That is correct.

Mr. ISAKSON. Then I think, knowing the quality and the intellect of the 100 Members of the Senate, there is no doubt that if the leader would bring this vote to the floor today, we would get more than 60 votes to move America forward and say: This Congress is ready to act. We are not in professional malpractice; we in fact are doing good for the American people. We want energy and we want it now.

Mr. HOEVEN. I thank the good Senator from Georgia.

I understand that our time has expired. I ask unanimous consent for 1 minute to wrap up this colloquy.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Ms. HERTZKAMP). Without objection?

Mr. HOEVEN. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HOEVEN. On the facts and on the merits—which is how we have to make decisions for the American people—this is a project about energy, producing energy here at home so we don't have to get it from the Middle East. We know what is going on with the Middle East with ISIL and other organizations that are creating huge problems and that are a danger not only to this country but to this world.

It is about energy here at home and working with our closest friend and ally, Canada. It is about jobs. The State Department itself says more than 40,000 jobs are created with this project. It is about economic activity; a $5.3 billion project and not one penny of federal spending, just private investment. It is about national security, as we have talked about.

But it is also about congestion on our rails. It is about making sure we don't waste the oil that is already there. We have so much congestion, we have accidents, and we have seen that happen. It is about harvest and moving ag products from the heartland throughout the country. It is about using the latest, greatest technology to make sure we produce more energy more dependably and with better environmental stewardship than without the project.

Six years. It is time for this body to step forward on behalf of the American people. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida.
the authority to strike now to protect the interests of the United States—and I expect President Obama will do that. I am talking about in Syria.

It is clear the President has already appropriately started the attacks, and has done so very well and successfully in the Kurdish region and other regions of northern Iraq, and that will continue as the Secretary feels he has the authority, and I happen to agree. But when it comes to Syria—and that is where the head of the ISIS snake is; and I think to kill that snake, you have to go to where the head is and chop it off—I think it is a mistake for us to go home. I think it sends a very bad message not only to our countrymen, but it sends a very bad message to our allies and to our enemies. The opposite message would be sent if we would discuss these matters and come together with a resolution of an authorization for the use of military force and to have clearly stating that ISIS is unified to go after this insidious, evil, brutal, uncivil kind of force. It would send a message of unity not only to our allies, this country of ours, but to our enemies.

Madam President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Madam President, what is the order?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. We are in a period of morning business with Senators allowed to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

Mrs. BOXER. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that I be able to speak until I conclude. It may go over that time, but not by much.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

CONTINUING RESOLUTION AND ISIL

Mrs. BOXER. Thank you so much, Madam President.

I am here because I want to respond to the colloquy that was held on the Keystone Pipeline, but before I go there, I do want to make remarks about the very important vote we are going to be taking today both to keep the government open and to give the President the ability to train and equip vetted Syrian moderates so they can help us take the fight to ISIL.

It is a privilege to serve on the Foreign Relations Committee. I have served on it for a very long time, and yesterday we had an important hearing where the Secretary of State laid out the President’s plans for how we are going to meet this threat posed by ISIL.

I have to say, before I explain the three options you have as an American as far as which option you embrace, I think I need to lay out the view of this organization ISIL or ISIS. There are different ways to describe them. They are an outgrowth of Al Qaeda in Iraq, which came about because of the catastrophic Iraq war that was based on false premises, that put us in the middle of a civil war, and created the worst sectarian tensions. One of my proudest moments was voting no on that.

Then the Bush administration said Saddam Hussein was involved with 9/11, that he had nuclear weapons, and none of it was so. None of it was so. As a result we got in the middle of this war.

We were told it would last 6 months, and then a year went by, another year, years, years, and it became one of our worst wars, where 4,000-plus Americans dead, tens of thousands wounded, some with very serious wounds—they will never get over them—and I would say well over $1 trillion that drew us into a terrible recession when we had previously had surpluses. What a nightmare. So that is the beginning of ISIL, an outgrowth of Al Qaeda.

There were two authorizations for the use of military force that I got to vote on. One of them was right after 9/11 when I voted to go after bin Laden, and Al Qaeda and any other affiliate organization that would come out of Al Qaeda. That is one I voted for. That is why I believe the President has the authority, based on that document, to move forward and take the fight to ISIL.

The other authorization for use of force was permission to go into Iraq and go after Saddam Hussein. I voted no on that. I think it is important to the American people to remember why we are facing trouble, but it is what it is. There are some who say—because there are three approaches here—do nothing. There are some who say do nothing. My view is: How can we possibly do nothing in the face of a group that has beheaded two innocent freelance journalists? How can you do nothing in the face of a group that sells 14-year-old girls as slaves? How can you do nothing in the face of a group who, if they don’t sell a 14-year-old as a slave and they let her live, give her to a warlord as a reward? How do we sit back and do nothing?

We saw what they did to minorities, the Yazidis. They said: Either you convert, flee, or we will kill you. We cannot sit back. They did it to Christians. They did it to Turkmen. They have taken hostages including more than 40 Turkish hostages representing the country or what are the nationalities, but we know their intent. This is a quote from them, that they are going to make sure their threat for American blood is quenched. This is a sick situation, and to the people who say do nothing, I say to them: I understand your concern for unintended consequences, but don’t count me in your camp, because I cannot do that.

I am so cautious when it comes to voting to go to war when it is not easy. We don’t know every single thing that can happen, can go wrong. Things do go wrong. But my view is in this case if I were to sit back and say I am too afraid, I am too nervous, that is exactly the wrong signal to send a group of terrorists such as this. I have never seen a group like this. So one path is to do nothing.

The other path is to start the Iraq war all over again in this Chamber, pounding the table: Troops on the ground. Send our American troops back. No way, no way. I am not going to send our troops back to the middle of a civil war. We are going to do is another way—President Obama’s strategy, which is the moderate strategy here. It is to take our intelligence, our strategy, our Air Force assets, and make sure those in the region who have the most at stake—remember, ISIL has killed more Muslims than anybody else—that they will be the boots on the ground. We see that strategy is working in Iraq.

It is early. We don’t know how it is going to play out. There are some who say do nothing. I am here because I want to respond to the colloquy that was held on the Syrian authorization for the use of military force, based on that document, to give Mr. Obama the ability to assist those who can help us take the fight to ISIL.

I wanted to be clear today where I stand. There are three choices, and I choose the path President Obama has put together: I think the vote in the House was a very important vote yesterday because it showed there is a majority of Democrats and Republicans who can come together.
Following that, we were in the House this morning to hear the President of Ukraine. It was very touching and very moving. President Poroshenko laid out in the most beautiful language, I thought, because of its simplicity, the beauty of freedom, and what they are fighting for. What I loved so much about it was the fact that his speech united everybody in the room. There wasn’t one group that sat down or didn’t stand up to express their appreciation for what his countrymen are going through.

I hope we can get behind this President in this fight against the terror group that is probably the best-funded terror group ever in existence, the most barbaric I have ever seen. I hope there will be a good vote today. I think that would send a very important message that we are sincere and will bring more people to our coalition.

KEYSTONE PIPELINE

Mrs. BOXER. Madam President, I said I was going to talk about an issue I know the Presiding Officer and I don’t agree on. I have total respect for her view. The people of her State are so lucky to have her fighting their fight on energy. The people of my State have a disagreement. We are very fearful about climate change. So we are also worried about the health impact of the tar sands.

I am going to make a few comments about why I think we should disrupt the process that is happening now with Keystone. It is a well-established process for considering projects such as this. The purpose of the review process isn’t just to waste time. It is to deter- mine whether the construction of the Keystone tar sands pipeline is in fact in the national interest. This is important. It is a major project.

In the past, Republicans have attempted to circumvent the review process for Keystone by creating short-cuts that in my opinion put our families’ health at risk.

I want to show you a chart. It shows you that tar sands oil is one of the filthiest kinds of oil on the planet.

Let’s look at a place in Texas where we see the tar sands oil being refined. This is Port Arthur. We have had visits from the Port Arthur community, and they said, please, we want to bear wit- nes to the dangers of what it looks like when these tar sands are burned. It hurts the health of our people. Residents along the gulf coast are suffering from asthma, respiratory ill- ness, skin irritation, and cancer, and to get to the gulf coast the tar sands will be transported by pipeline through communities in environmentally sensi- tive areas in six States. It will pass through key sources of drinking water.

Look what happened in West Virginia when they couldn’t drink the water there. It was a nightmare.

We have had experience with tar sands. People talk about how the pipeline is one thing, but it is what goes through it that is critical, and what is going to go through it if it gets built is the dirtiest, filthiest kind of water we know.

What happens in places such as Detroit and Chicago, where they store the black bitumen? We can look at this. This is what it looks like. It looks like filthy, dirty pollution, and unfortunately for the people, that is what it is.

When the wind is blowing, we see black clouds containing concentrated heavy metals. Children playing base- ball have been forced off the field to seek cover to avoid the black dust that pelts their homes and cars. Petcoke dust is a particulate matter, which is the most harmful of all air pollutants. Why? Its particles are so small, they lodge in your lungs and cause terribly severe asthma attacks, aggravate bronchitis and other lung diseases, and reduce the body’s ability to fight infec- tions. Asthma affects 12 out of every 26 children—and 7 million of those are chil- dren.

If I could, I would ask the people in the gallery how many of them have asthma or know someone who has asth- ma. I know a lot of them would raise their hands in my judgment. We don’t need more asthma.

There are other ways to go, and my State and other countries are proving it. We can move to clean energy. We need to have a comprehensive human health standard for the tar sands that would go through that pipeline because human health is important. If you can’t breathe, you can’t work. It is as simple as that. If you can’t breathe, you can’t go to school and get an edu- cation. If you can’t drink the water, it is a serious problem.

While my Republican friends come down and say: Let’s bypass all of this evidence and move forward, that is a dangerous idea. It is a dangerous idea. I went to China about a year ago. You cannot see one foot in front of the other in China. That is how bad the air is because they don’t care about the environment. They say: Oh, we don’t need rules; we don’t need regulations. Build, build, build. Do it, do it, do it. Go and get it out of the ground.

There are moments we need to look at what we are doing. We are doing great right now on energy. Under this President we have become more energy efficient. This is not the time to do it, there are places to get energy, but it has to be clean and it has to be good.

We have just come out of the hottest August ever known to humankind since we began keeping the records in the 1800s. Climate change is so real, the only place they don’t know it is here in the United States Senate. They don’t know. Hear no evil, see no evil, speak no evil. Everything is great. Every- thing is good.

My colleague from Vermont is brilliant on this point, and we know the Keystone tar sands pipeline will create 7 million more carbon than domestic oil. This is a dirty, filthy oil that is the equivalent of adding 5.8 million new cars to the road, or eight new coal power- plants.

The State Department has concluded that the annual carbon pollution from just the daily operation of the pipeline will be the same as adding 300,000 cars. On the deliberative side of this, we will go backward on climate change. We cannot afford to do it.

I know people get impatient with de- cisionmaking—whether it is deciding how to take the fight to ISIL—and I am glad I have an executive President who didn’t just say: Do this and this. He thought about it and came up with an idea for a coalition to do it right.

When you are looking at something such as the Keystone XL Pipeline, which is going to vastly increase the importation of this filthy, dirty oil, we ought to take our time.

My very last point. I am so proud to chair the Environment and Public Works Committee. Four former Repub- lican EPA Administrators who served under Presidents Nixon, Reagan, George H.W. Bush, and George W. Bush spoke out on the need to address the danger of climate change.

Really, this is not about bipartisan- ship. It is about the courage of scientists in telling us climate change is real and caused by human activity. Please, let’s take our time. When we are faced with a project that will set us back—the dirtiest, dirtiest oil—a picture is worth a thousand words, and this is not what I want to leave to our children.

I thank the Presiding Officer and yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Sen- ator from Vermont.

Mr. SANDERS. Madam President, I think Senator BOXER not only for her remarks today but for her years and years of commit- ment to the environmental committee and pointing out the danger of climate change and the toxicity in our air.

ISIS

Mr. SANDERS. Madam President, I rise today to discuss the dangerous and brutal extremist organization called ISIS, the terrorist army, which in re- cent months has overrun vast swaths of Iraq and Syria and is a serious threat to the stability of the region, and, in fact, to the international community.

But before I do that, I also want to say that ISIS is not the only major problem facing our country. It would be a real tragedy if, in our legitimate concerns about the dangers of ISIS, we continue to ignore the very serious problems that are taking place right here in the United States and America, and impacting tens of millions of work- ing families.

There are crises here at home we have ignored for too long. Real unem- ployment today is 12 percent, youth unemployment is 28 percent. We can’t ignore. The minimum wage nation- ally is at a starvation wage of $7.25 an hour. We cannot ignore that reality.

We have to raise the minimum wage.
Women earn 77 cents to the dollar that men earn. That is unfair. We cannot ignore the issue of pay equity. We have to do something about that.

Senator Boxer was just on the floor talking about the planetary crisis of global warming. The fact is virtually the entire scientific community is united in telling us that global warming is real. It is significantly caused by human activity. It is also causing devastating problems in our country and around the world. We cannot turn a blind eye to the crisis of global warming.

Last week many of us voted to overturn the disastrous Citizens United Supreme Court decision that allows billionaires the ability to spend unlimited sums of money to buy elections which will benefit candidates who support the rich and the powerful. My point is that while we address the very serious problems in the Middle East—and these are very serious problems—we cannot take our eye off the ball. Even serious issues facing tens of millions of Americans.

The issue involving ISIS, in my view, is enormously complex. Just one example is Syria. The Assad government is a dictatorship which has killed many thousands of innocent people and has used chemical weapons against its own citizens—and these are the good guys. The decisions we make now in Syria, in Iraq, and in the Middle East must be made with great thought and consideration.

As you know, President Obama has been attacked time and time again because he publicly stated a while ago that “we don’t have a strategy yet” for dealing with ISIS. Frankly, I applaud the President for trying to think through this incredibly complicated issue and not making rash decisions which would make a very bad and dangerous situation even worse and more dangerous.

I remember back in 2002—I was in the House of Representatives then—when George W. Bush and Dick Cheney said they did have a strategy. They were tough, they were forceful, they acted boldly, they acted swiftly, but, unfortunately, what they did was dead wrong. In fact, it was the worst foreign policy blunder in the recent history of America and opened up a can of worms we are trying to deal with today.

Frankly, I must say I am not impressed with all of the tough talk. I want the United States to work hard and that will, in fact, lead to the destruction of ISIS, not sound bites that may be effective in a political campaign. I will take a few moments to lay out some of my concerns. First, President Obama is absolutely right when he said this struggle will not be successful unless there is a strong international coalition. Let’s be clear: ISIS is a terrorist threat not only to the United States but to Britain, France, Germany, countries throughout Europe, and, in fact, to nations throughout the world.

More importantly, ISIS, which wants to establish a new caliphate, which includes many countries across a large geographical area, is a major threat in the region to countries such as Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Turkey, Qatar, Iran, Jordan, and other countries.

I very much appreciate the hard work that the State Department and Secretary of State Kerry have undertaken in trying to put together an international coalition that will effectively fight ISIS. We all know how difficult that effort is, but at this point it appears to me the kind of coalition we need has yet to form.

In my view, ISIS will never be defeated unless the countries in the region—the people in the region, the Muslim world, including Sunni and Shia nations—stand up to this threat. I know how hard President Obama and Secretary of State Kerry are trying, but we are nowhere near where we need to be in terms of building this coalition at this moment.

It may seem to some people to know that Saudi Arabia—a country run by an autocratic royal family worth hundreds of billions of dollars and one of the wealthiest families in the world—is a country which was the world’s fourth largest defense spender in 2014. Most people do not know that. According to a Reuters article from earlier this year and I quote—“Saudi Arabia beat Britain to become the world’s fourth largest defense spender in 2013.” In other words, Saudi Arabia is now spending more money on arms than the military is the United Kingdom.

The article goes on to cite a report by London’s International Institute for Strategic Studies which estimated that Saudi Arabia was spending over $59 billion, a figure researchers said was extremely conservative, pushing it above Britain at $57 billion or France at $52 billion. Once again, Saudi Arabia is spending more on their military than is Britain or France.

Another article from Bloomberg provides additional details on Saudi Arabia’s military strength. It cites that “in 2011, the U.S. Government signed an agreement with Saudi Arabia valued at $29 billion.” That is the end of the quote from Bloomberg. But according to Military Balance, “The Royal Saudi Air Force has more than 300 combat capable aircraft, including 81 F–15 C and D fighter aircraft, 172 advanced F–15 S Typhoon and Tornado fighters capable of ground attack, dozens of C–130 transport aircraft and that is what the Saudi Arabian Air Force has.”

Let me also quote from an article in Forbes which details the strength and numbers of many of the militaries in the Middle East. The article notes:

Countries in the region have more than enough power to destroy the Islamic State. Turkey has an army of 400,000. Iran has nearly as many in the army and paramilitaries. Iraq has a roughly 300,000 army and some 300,000 police. Saudi Arabia has nearly 200,000 army, national guard, and paramilitary personnel. Syria’s military, though strategically upgrade one can estimate 100,000, plus paramilitaries. Jordan has 74,000 in the army. The Kurdish Peshmerga numbers in the tens of thousands. All of these of Iraq and Kurdistan have some air force ground attack capabilities.

Furthermore, not only are countries in the region not stepping up in the fight against ISIS but, believe it or not, several of these Gulf states are empowering ISIS and Al Qaeda-related groups through their financial contributions. A recent article in the Washington Post noted:

Kuwait, a U.S. ally whose aid to besieged simple nations has been largely by the United States this year, is also the leading source of funding for al-Qaeda-linked terrorists fighting in Syria’s civil war.

Now, think back not so long ago when the United States of America went to war to push Saddam Hussein’s troops out of Kuwait and restore the royal ruling family. Today we find that “Kuwait is the leading source of funding for al-Qaeda-linked terrorists fighting in Syria’s civil war.”

The article goes on to state:

‘‘the amount of money that has flowed from Kuwaiti individuals and through organized charities to Syrian rebel groups such as Jihab al-Nusea totals in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Kuwait is hardly alone in this effort. As Treasury Department Under Secretary Cohen stated:

A number of fundraisers operating in more permissive jurisdictions—particularly in Kuwait and Qatar—are soliciting donations to fund extremist insurgency to meet legitimate humanitarian needs.

On and on it goes. Why is all of this of enormous consequence? The answer is pretty obvious. The worst action we can take now is to allow ISIS to portray this struggle as East versus West and Muslim versus Christians, as the Middle East versus America. That is exactly what they want and that is exactly what we should not be giving them. In other words, this is not a question of whether young men and women in Vermont or in North Dakota or in any other State of this country should be putting their lives on the line to defend the billionaire families of Saudi Arabia when Saudi Arabian troops are not in the struggle. This is not just whether the taxpayers of our country and not the billionaire ruling families of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, and other countries should be paying for this war; more importantly, it is an understanding that at the end of the day, this war will never be won by the United States alone but it must be won by the people in the region.

Should we, as the most powerful military in the world, be of help to those people struggling against ISIS? The answer is obviously yes. Along with the international community, we should be strongly supportive of those countries in the region that are standing up to ISIS. And I personally believe President Obama is absolutely right in his judgment to judge the strikes of which, at this point, have shown some success. But at the end of the day, in my view, the United States of America is cannot and should not lead this effort. We must be supportive of other countries in the region who are standing and fighting against the ISIS terrorist organization, but this fight will have to be fought by countries in the region that are, in fact, most threatened by ISIS. They cannot stand aside. They cannot say: Hey, go for it, United States. Thank you, American taxpayers.

But we in Saudi Arabia—no, we don’t want our young people involved in this war. We don’t want our airplanes involved in the attacks. We don’t want our billions to go into this war. Thank you, America. It is really nice of you to do that. By the way, while you do that, we may play both sides of the issue and some families may actually fund terrorist organizations. But we really do appreciate your stepping to the plate because we are not doing that.

So that is where we are today. It is a very complicated, difficult situation. Again, President Obama and Secretary Kerry for trying to work through this. But this is what I worry about: I worry very much that supporting questionable groups in Syria—so-called moderates who are outnumbered and outgunned by both ISIS and the Assad government—I worry very much that getting involved in that area could open the door to the United States, once again, being involved in perpetual warfare. And what happens when we start to have a first American plane get shot down or the first American soldier is captured? What happens then? I am hearing from some of our Republican colleagues who are already talking about the need for U.S. military boots on the ground. That is what they are talking about today, and that concerns me very, very much.

So I am going to vote against this continuing resolution because I have very real concerns about the United States getting deeply involved in a war we should not be deeply involved in. At the end of the day, if this war against this horrendous organization called ISIS is going to be won, it will have to be Saudi Arabia, it will have to be Iraq, it will have to be the people of Syria. It will have to be the people of that region saying: No, we are not going to accept an organization of terrorists such as ISIS. And we should be there to help, as should the United Kingdom, as should France, as should Germany. This has to be an international coalition. But the last thing we need is the United States being the only major military power involved in this war.

So I thank the Chair. I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. Madam President, what is the order before the Senate?

CONTINUING APPROPRIATIONS RESOLUTION, 2015

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will proceed to the consideration of H.J. Res. 124, which the clerk will report by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows: A joint resolution (H.J. Res. 124) making continuing appropriations for fiscal year 2015, and for other purposes.

AMENDMENT NO. 3851

Mr. REID. Madam President, I have an amendment to the joint resolution that has already been filed at the desk. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from Nevada [Mr. Reid] proposes an amendment numbered 3851.

The amendment is as follows: On page 19, line 15, strike “30 days” and insert “29 days”.

Mr. REID. I ask for the yeas and nays on that amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 3852 TO AMENDMENT NO. 3851

Mr. REID. There is now a second degree amendment which has also been filed at the desk. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from Nevada [Mr. Reid] proposes an amendment numbered 3852 to amendment No. 3851.

The amendment is as follows: In the amendment, strike “29” and insert “28”.

MOTION TO COMMIT WITH AMENDMENT NO. 3853

Mr. REID. I have a motion to commit H.J. Res. 124 with instructions which has been filed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the motion.

The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from Nevada [Mr. Reid] moves to commit the bill to the Committee on Appropriations with instructions to report back forthwith with the following amendment numbered 3853.

The amendment is as follows: On page 19, line 15, strike “not later than 30 days after the enactment of this joint resolution” and insert “By October 31, 2014”.

Mr. REID. I ask for the yeas and nays on that amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 3854

Mr. REID. I have an amendment to the instructions at the desk. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from Nevada [Mr. Reid] proposes an amendment numbered 3854 to the instructions of the motion to commit.

The amendment is as follows: In the amendment, strike “October 31” and insert “October 20”.

Mr. REID. I ask for the yeas and nays on that amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 3855 TO AMENDMENT NO. 3854

Mr. REID. I have a second degree amendment at the desk. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The cloture motion having been presented under rule XXII, the Chair directs the clerk to read the motion.

The legislative clerk read as follows: CLOTURE MOTION

Mr. REID. I ask unanimous consent that the motion waive be considered under Rule XXII be waived.

Mr. REID. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. I ask unanimous consent that the filing deadline under rule XXII for first-degree amendments to H.J. Res. 124 be at 2 p.m. this afternoon and that the filing deadline for second-degree amendments be at 3:30 p.m. today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Ms. Hirono). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. I ask unanimous consent that the motion to table an amendment to the joint resolution, as provided under the previous order, be in order during the time for debate and, if made during the debate, the vote on the motion to table occur immediately after all debate time has been used and yielded back on H.J. Res. 124; further, that if a budget point of order is made, the motion to consider the amendment and the vote on the motion to waive occur following the vote on the motion to invoke cloture on H.J. Res. 124.

Mr. REID. I ask unanimous consent that the motion to table an amendment to the joint resolution, as provided under the previous order, be in order during the time for debate and, if made during the debate, the vote on the motion to table occur immediately after all debate time has been used and yielded back on H.J. Res. 124; further, that if a budget point of order is made, the motion to consider the amendment and the vote on the motion to waive occur following the vote on the motion to invoke cloture on H.J. Res. 124.

Res. 124.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. There will be up to 4 hours 30 minutes equally divided between the two leaders or their designees.

I now suggest the absence of a quorum. I ask unanimous consent that the time be charged equally on both sides.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Madam President, I rise today to bring to the floor H.J. Res. 124. It is the continuing funding resolution for fiscal year 2015.

Let me explain where we are. We are in the closing hours before the Senate takes the recess before the fall elections. In the middle of all that, on October 1, our fiscal year begins. If we don’t have a bridge between now and December 11 or around that, we could face a government shutdown. We do not want a government shutdown. We want to make sure we provide funding and make sure the government will not be shut down and that after the election we can return and do due diligence and pass this in a more comprehensive way.

Our job as the Appropriations Committee in Congress is to put money in the Federal checkbook each year to keep the Federal Government functioning. The American people want their government to work as hard as they do. They want us to combat the threats against the United States of America. They want us to honor our commitments to our veterans. They want us to meet the compelling human needs of American people, and they want us to have an opportunity ladder so the American people can have a fair shot.

What we do is, we provide funding one year at a time. September 30 is our fiscal New Year’s Eve. October 1 is the first day of the fiscal year. If Congress leaves before we pass the continuing resolution, the government could shut down. We don’t want another government shutdown. I believe there is support on both sides of the aisle not to do that.

We know from last year that it was a terrible situation. Thousands of Federal workers were paid not to work. Other personnel, such as FBI agents, had to work for IOUs, even using their own money to put gas in their car as they pursued the people who wanted to undermine us. We know we don’t want a government shutdown.

What is our goal for this continuing resolution? To avoid a government shutdown but to do more than that. To do no harm to existing programs so that we can meet our compelling human needs, the national security needs of the United States of America, and continue those public investments in innovation that make America the exceptional Nation and often the indisputable Nation.

It allows us also to lay ground dealing with ISIL, to maintain we support those needs of Ukraine and NATO, and also to work on a global basis to stamp out Ebola.

What I want to say to my colleagues, who will look at this bill and scrutinize it, is the continuing resolution is only from now until December 11. Remember, it is a temporary stopgap bill. Also, it is at current levels of funding. So I want to say that there are no new programs and there is no new funding. As I said, it meets these needs.

I worked very closely with my House counterpart, the distinguished gentleman from Kentucky, Mr. Hal Rogers, the chair of the Appropriations Committee in the House. We worked very hard to do bills where we thought we could bring individual ones to the Nation. Well, it did not work out that way because one party stopped me from bringing bills to the floor. I am sorry we do not have that omnibus, but nonetheless the Senate is considering appropriations bills on the floor and also the demand for 60-vote thresholds. That is a debate for another day.

So where are we in this continuing resolution? As I said, it keeps the government running through December 11, operating at the same amount of money as fiscal year 2014, with the same items and the same programs and the same restrictions. People might say: How do we do that? How will that be cut? We put the necessary resources to protect the Nation, to deal with ISIL, to make sure we support those needs of Ukraine and NATO, and also to work on a global basis to stamp out Ebola.

the President has chosen to ignore the fact, thereby avoiding an honest discussion with the American people.

Nevertheless, I believe today it is important that we give the moderates in the region a fighting chance. If proper training and equipment can do their job, we should support it until it becomes clear that we must pursue other means to achieve our goals. When that time comes, I expect Congress to have a full and open debate on that issue. But for now, Congress has been asked to take responsibility to carefully track what the administration is doing with any funds that it reprograms for this assistance and how this fits into a broader regional strategy.

The language in this bill will ensure that the administration provides the information to the Congress that we need to do our job. Once again, support for this continuing resolution will achieve two important goals: one, avoiding a government shutdown, and maintaining spending levels currently in the law—very important. For these two reasons, I will be supporting the bill.

During the break that we are about to go on, and when we return in November, Senator MIKULSKI, the chair of the Appropriations Committee, and I will be working closely on an omnibus bill to put in place funding for the remainder of the fiscal year. It is my hope that we will be able to, once again, reach an agreement and complete the work of the committee before this Congress adjourns. I believe that this is an achievable goal as long as both sides come to the table with reasonable expectations. We have done it before, I expect that we can do it again.

Mr. PAUL. Madam President, if there is a theme that connects the dots in the Middle East, it is that chaos breeds terrorism. What much of the foreign policy elite fail to grasp, though, is that intervention to topple secular dictators has been the prime source of the chaos. From Hussein to Assad to Qaddafi, it is the same history—intervention to topple a dictator. Chaos ensues and radical jihads emerge. The pattern has been repeated time and time again.

Yet what we have here is a failure to understand, a failure to reflect on the outcome of our involvement in Arab civil wars. They say nature abhors a vacuum. Radical jihads have again and again filled the chaotic vacuum of the Middle East. Secular dictators, despots who, frankly, do terrorize their own people, are replaced by radical jihads, who seek terror not only at home but abroad.

Intervention, when both choices are bad, is a mistake. Intervention, when both sides are evil, is a mistake. Intervention that destabilizes the Middle East is a mistake. Yet here we are again, wading into a civil war. I warned a year ago that involving us in Syria's civil war was a mistake, that the incapable irony is that some day the arms we supply would be used against us or Israel. That day is now.

ISIS has grabbed up from the United States, from the Saudis, and from the Qatars weapons by the truckload. We are now forced to fight against our own weapons, and this body wants to throw more weapons into the mix. Even those of us who have been reluctant to get involved in Middle Eastern wars feel, now that American interests are threatened, that our consulate and our embassy are threatened. We feel that if ISIS is left to its own devices maybe they will fulfill what they have boasted of and attack our homeland.

So, yes, we must now defend ourselves from these barbarous jihadists. But let's not compound the problem by arming feckless rebels in Syria who seem to be merely a pit stop for weapons that are really on their way to ISIS. Remember clearly that the President and his Republican allies have been clamoring for over a year for air-strikes against Assad. Assad was our enemy last year. This year he is our friend. Had all of those air strikes, though, occurred last year in Syria, to the Turks or Israel might have made a difference. Realize that the unintended consequences of involving ourselves in these complicated, thousand-year-long civil wars lead to unintended consequences. Had we bombed Assad last year, ISIS would be a lot lighter and ISIS may well be in Damascus had we bombed Assad last year.

Had the hawks been successful last year, we would be facing a stronger ISIS, likely in charge of all Syria and most of Iraq.

Intervention is not always the answer and often leads to unintended consequences. The hawks will argue no, no, it is not intervention that led to this chaos, we didn't have enough intervention. They say if we had only given the rebels more arms, ISIS wouldn't be as strong now. The only problem is the facts argue otherwise.

We did give arms and assistance to the rebels through secret CIA operations, through our allies, through our erwhile allies. We gave 600 tons—let me repeat that—we gave 600 tons of weapons to the Syrian rebels for the years 2013 alone. We gave 600 tons of weapons and they cry out and say we haven't done enough?

Perhaps they are giving it to people who don't want to fight. Perhaps the fighters from ISIS are taking the weapons we give to the so-called moderate rebels. It is a mistake to send more arms to the Syrians.

According to the U.N. records, Turkey, in the space of a 4-month period, sent 47 tons in addition to the 600 tons of weapons. They sent 29 tons in 1 month. But there are rumors that the Turks are not quite that discriminating, that many of these weapons either cause the moderate Syrian rebels to be not very good at fighting, well, there are videos online of the Free Syrian Army, the army our government wants to give more arms to. We see them with Mi-8 helicopters, we see them with shoulder-launched missiles, and yet we see them lose battle after battle.

We see American-made TOW antitank weapons in the hands of Hamas in northern Gaza, and also in the hands of the moderate group. The Wall Street Journal reported that Saudi Arabia has been providing weapons such as this to the rebels. It also detailed millions of dollars in direct U.S. aid to the rebels.

We have not even been sitting around doing nothing. Six hundred tons of weapons have already been given to the Syrian rebels. What happened during the period of time we gave 600 tons of weapons to the moderate rebels in Syria? ISIS grew stronger.

They say the definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over, expecting a different result. We gave 600 tons of weapons to the rebels and they got weaker and weaker and ISIS grew stronger.

Perhaps by throwing all of these weapons into the civil war, we actually degraded Assad’s ability to counter them. So perhaps Assad might well have taken care of the radical jihadists and de-stabilized the use of the weapons. Perhaps we have created a safe haven.

The other night the President said in his speech that it will be a policy of his administration to leave no safe haven for anyone who threatens America. It sounds good, except for the past 3 years, we have been creating a safe haven for ISIS. ISIS has grown stronger because we have been arming the resistance that ISIS is part of.

A New York Times article reports that Qatar has used a shadowy arms network to move shoulder-fired missiles to the rebels. According to Gulf News, Saudi Arabia has also partnered with Pakistan to provide a Pakistan version of a Chinese shoulder-launched missile. It doesn’t sound like a dearth of weapons, it sounds like an abundance of weapons.

Iraqi officials have accused Saudi Arabia and Qatar of also funding and arming ISIS at the same time.

Kuwait—a Sunni majority country bordering Iraq—has funneled hundreds of millions of dollars to a wide range of opposition forces throughout Iraq and Syria, according to the Brookings Institute.

According to the New York Times, over 1 year ago the CIA began training Syrian rebels in nearby Jordan, thousands of them, delivering arms and ammunition. Over this period of time, what has happened? ISIS has grown stronger. Perhaps sending more weapons into the Syrian civil war is not working.

The New York Times also reports huge arms and financial transfers from Qatar to the Syrian rebels beginning as early as 3 years ago. No one really knows where these are going to wind up.

Jane’s Terrorism and Insurgency Center noted that the transfer of Qatari weapons to targeted troops has the same practical effect of transferring the weapons to al-Nusra, a violent jihadist group. Let me repeat. Jane’s defense analysts say that if you give the weapons to moderate—the so-called moderate rebels—it is the same as giving it to al-Nusra.

The New York Times further detailed that even Sudan has been sending antitank missiles and other arms to Syria. It is hard to believe there are not enough weapons floating around over there.

So the idea that these rebels haven’t been armed is ludicrous. It is also ludicrous to believe that we know where all the money and all the arms and all the ammunition will wind up or who will benefit from these arms.

Why? Because we don’t even know who these groups are, even if we think we do. The loyalty shifts on a daily basis. The groups have become amorphous with alleged moderates lining up side by side with jihadists, not to mention that, guess what, some of these people don’t tell the truth.

Finally, moderates have been now found to sell their weapons. In fact, there are accusations by the family of Steven Sotloff—who was recently killed by the barbarians—that he was sold by the moderate rebels to the jihadists.

The Carnegie Endowment says there are no neat, clean, secular rebel groups. They don’t exist. They reiterate the point: you can’t be fighting a very dirty war with no clear good guys on either side.

The German Ambassador to the United States has acknowledged this. The Germans are arming the Kurds. They are not sending anything into Syria. It is a mess, and they are concerned that the weapons they send into Syria will wind up in the wrong hands.

Many former officials are very forthright with their criticism. According to the former ambassador to Iraq and Syria, our arms have been given to the wrong people. We need to do everything we can to figure out who the non-ISIS opposition is because, frankly, we don’t have a clue.

Think about this. We are voting or obscuring a vote in a spending bill to send $500 million worth of arms to Syria, to people who we say are the vetted moderate Syrian rebels. Guess what. One of the men with the most knowledge on the ground, who has been our ambassador to Syria, says we don’t have a clue who the moderates are and who the jihadists are. And even if they tell you they are the moderates, they say: Oh, we love Thomas Jefferson. Give us a shoulder-fired missile. We love Thomas Jefferson.

Can you trust these people? The rebels are all over the map. There are said to be 1,500 groups. It is chaos over there. We will be sending arms into chaos.

The largest coalition is the Free Syrian Army, which currently has three different people who claim to lead the Free Syrian Army. We don’t even know who is in charge of the Free Syrian Army. They voted out one guy, in another guy, and he didn’t even know what they were voting for.

There are estimates that half of the Free Syrian Army has defected, many to al-Nusra, Al Qaeda, and to ISIS. These are the people your representatives are going to vote to send arms to. Half of them have defected. Half of them are now fighting with the jihadists. We have proven time and again that we don’t know how to vet these leaders.

Two groups that were initially provided U.S. aid and help last year are good examples. A top official of Ahrar al-Sham, one of the largest rebel groups at the time, announced publicly that he now considers himself to be allied with Al Qaeda.

Just yesterday, our most recent ambassador to Syria, Robert Ford, said the moderate forces have and will tactically ally with Al Qaeda, with Al Qaeda-linked al-Nusra.

Listen carefully. Your representatives are sending $500 billion to people who will tactically ally with Al Qaeda.

I asked Secretary Kerry: Where do you get the authority to wage this war? He says: From 2001.

Some of the people fighting weren’t born in 2001. Many of the people who voted in 2001 are no longer living.

We voted to go to war in Afghanistan and I supported going into that war because we were attacked and we had to do something about it. But the thing is, that vote had nothing to do with this—absolutely nothing to do with this.

You are a dishonest person if you say otherwise. That sounds pretty mean-spirited. Hear it again. You are intellectually dishonest if you argue that something passed in 2001, to deal with the people who attacked us in 9/11, has anything to do with sending arms into Syria. It is intellectually dishonest—and to say otherwise, you are an intellectually dishonest person.

I said it yesterday: Mr. President, you are doing is illegal and unconstitutional.

The response from Secretary Kerry was: We have article II authority to do whatever we want.

It is absolutely incorrect. We give power to the Commander in Chief to execute the war, but we were explicit that the wars were to be initiated by Congress.

There was debate over this. There were reports of Thomas Jefferson’s opinion about how this was the legislative function. There were letters in the Federalist Papers from Madison talking how they precisely took this power from the Executive and gave it to the legislative body.

We hear: Oh, we will do something in December.

What happens between now and December? An election.
The people of this body are petrified, not of ISIS, but of the American voter. They are afraid to come forward and vote on war now. We should have a full-throated discussion of going to war, but we shouldn’t put it off until December.

Secretary Kerry was asked: Will there be Sunni allies in this war on the ground, fighting to overturn ISIS? The ones, precisely—maybe who may have been funding it, which is Saudi Arabia—who should be the first troops in line. The first volley, should not be U.S. GIs, they should be Saudi Arabians, Qatars, Kuwaitis, and Iraqis—but they should not be Americans.

According to the Washington Free Beacon, some of the people we have been supplying and some of the people we continue to supply arms to aren’t so excited about Israel.

Surprise.

One of them remarked: Their goal is to topple Assad, but when they are done with Assad, their goal is to return all Syrian land occupied by Israel.

Mark my words. I said the great irony here would be that someday our dollars and our weapons would be used against us and Israel. They will.

We will be fighting—if we get over there with troops on the ground—against arms that we supplied to feckless rebels, that were immediately snatched and taken by ISIS. We will be fighting our own weapons.

Mark my own words, if these people get a chance, they will attack Israel next.

These are among the many problems I have in arming the Syrian opposition. Who are we really arming? What would be the result? Where will the arms end?

There are too many here who believe the answers to these questions when all indicators are otherwise—or maybe even when it is unknowable—they continue to believe something that frankly is not provable and not true.

I am a skeptic of this administration’s policies, but this is a bipartisan problem. This is not a Republican or a Democratic problem, this is a bipartisan problem.

I do share the administration’s belief that the radical jihadists in this region are a threat to America, but they need to think through how we got here. Radical jihad has run amok in the Middle East. When American weapons have toppled secular dictators. There weren’t radical jihadists doing much of anything in Libya until Gadhafi was gone. He kept them in check.

Was Gadhafi a great humanitarian? No. He was an awful despot. But his record in the Middle East was far superior to the one of radical jihadists. These are not the groups we want to see strengthen or they are not quelled by arms we give to these groups.

I supported the decision to go into Afghanistan after 9/11. There are valid reasons for war, but they should be few and far between. They should be very importantly debated and not shuffled into a 2,000-page bill and shoved under the rug.

When we go to war, it is the most important vote any Senator will ever take. Many on the other side have been better on this issue. When there was a Republican in office, there were loud voices on the other side. I see an empty Chamber.

There will be no voices against war because this is a Democratic President’s war. The hypocrisy of that is profound. This nearly could resound in an empty Chamber. Where are the voices on the other side who were so hard on George Bush who, by the way, actually did come to Congress? And we voted on an authorization of force. Agree or disagree, but we did vote on it. But now we are going to fight the war for 3 or 4 months, see how it is going, see how the election goes, and then we are going to come back and maybe we will talk about the use of authorization of force, maybe we will have amendments.

Colin Powell wrote in his autobiography:

War should be the politics of last resort. And when we go to war, we should have a purpose that our people understand and support.

I think that is well thought out. I think that he had it right. America should only go to war to win. We shouldn’t go to war sort of meandering our way through a spending bill. War should only occur when America is attacked, when it is threatened or when our American interests are threatened or attacked.

I spent about a year—and I will probably spend a couple more years—trying to explain to the American people why Secretary Clinton made terrible decisions in Benghazi not defending the consulate—not the night of, not the day after, not the talking points—the 6 months in advance when security was requested. This is one of the reasons it persuades me that, as reluctant as I am to be involved in Middle Eastern wars, sometimes you need to do something.

We either have to leave Iraq or we have to protect our embassy and protect our consulate. I think there are valid reasons for being involved, and I think we are doing the right thing but just in the wrong way.

If we want to have less partisan sniping about war, if we want to unify the country, think back to December 8, 1941. FDR came before a joint session of Congress and he said, this day which will live in infamy, and he united the country. People who had previously been opposed to war came forward and said: We can’t stand this attack. We will respond. We will be at war with Japan.

He didn’t wait around for months. He didn’t wait and say: Let’s wait until the midterm elections, and then we will come back maybe in a lame-duck—if there is a lame-duck—and maybe we will discuss whether the Japanese should be responded to.

This is a serious business, but we make it less serious by making it political, hiding and tucking war around. By tucking war away into a spending bill we make it less serious. We don’t unify the public. Then, as ISIS grows stronger or they are not quelled by sending arms to feckless allies in Syria, what happens? Then they come back again and again. There is already the drumbeat. There are already those in both parties who insist that we must do something. I am not sending American soldiers—I am not sending your son, your daughter or mine—over to the middle of that chaos.

The people who live there need to stand up and fight. The Kurds are fighting. They seem to be the only people who are really capable of or willing to fight for their homeland. The Iraqis need to step up and fight. It is their country. If they are not going to fight for it, I don’t think we need to be in the middle of their fight.

Am I willing to provide air support? Am I willing to provide intelligence and drones and everything we can to help them? Yes. We have been helping. them for 10 years. We have a lot invested. So I am not for giving up, but it is their war and they need to fight. And I expect the Saudis to fight, and the Qataris and the Kuwaitis.

Even our own State Department says there is no military solution here that is going for the Syrian people and that the best path forward is a political solution. Is someone going to ultimately surrender? Is one side going to wipe out the other?

Part of the solution here is that civilized Islam needs to crush radical Islam. Civilized Islam needs to say to radical Islam: This does not represent our religion. The beheading of civilians, the rape and killing of women does not represent Islam.

The voices aren’t loud enough. I want to see civilized Islam on the front page of the newspaper and international TV saying what they will do to wipe out radical Islam. I want to see them on the frontlines fighting. I don’t want to see people sitting in a discotheque in Cairo. I want to see them on the frontlines fighting a war to show the Americans and to show the world that there is a form of civilized Islam that doesn’t believe in this barbarity.

The United States should not fight a war to save face. I won’t vote to send our young men and women to sacrifice life and limb for a stalemate. I won’t vote to send our Nation’s best and brightest to throw money to. I wouldn’t fight for anything less than victory.

When American interests are at stake, it is incumbent upon those advocating for military action to convince Congress and the American people of that threat.

Too often the debate begins and ends with a conclusion. They say: Well, our national interest is at stake. That is the conclusion. The debate is: Is the national interest at stake? Is what we are going to do going to work? I would think we would debate for days and this Chamber would be full.

Before I came here, I imagined that when war was discussed, everybody would be at their desk and there would be a discussion for hours on end on whether we would go to war. Now it seems to be some sort of geopolitical chess game or checkers: Let’s throw some money. What is $500 million? Which is yet another problem around here.

But when we go to war, the burden of proof lies with those who wish to engage in war. They must convince the American people and convince Congress. Instead of being on television, the President should have been before a joint session of Congress—and I would have voted to authorize force. But it needs to be done according to the Constitution.

Not only is it constitutional, but there is a pragmatic or a practical reason why the President should have come to us. It galvanizes people, it brings people together. Both sides vote for the war, and it is a war of the American people—not a war of one man. Until there is a vote—if there ever is one—this is one man’s war.

Our Founding Fathers would be offended, would be appalled to know that one man can create a war. We were very fearful of one man—one from Europe with constant war, where brothers fought cousins and fathers fought sons, where everybody was related and they fought continuously. We didn’t want a king. We wanted the people, through the Congress, to determine when we went to war.

This President was largely elected on that concept. I didn’t vote for the President, but I did admire, when he ran first for Congress, that he said: President should unilaterally take a country to war without the authority of Congress. That is what President Obama said. He was running against the wars of the previous administration. People voted for him for that very reason, but he became part of the problem. He now does everything that he criticized. It is what the American people despise about politics.

When they say we have a 10-percent approval rating, it is because of this hypocrisy. Because we don’t obey the law, because we don’t engage in important debate, and because we stuff war and shuffle war into a spending bill.

Bashar al-Assad is clearly not an American ally. He is an evil dictator. But the question is: Will his ouster encourage stability or will it make the Middle East less stable? With his ouster, will that replenish in? What are the odds that the moderate rebels, who have lost every battle they have ever engaged in, will be the rulers in Damascus? If we succeed in degrading Assad where someone can get to him, we will have ISIS. We will have radical Islam in the Middle East. Will it be better or worse? We have to ask: Are these Islamic rebels our allies?

I am reminded of the story of Sarkis Al-Zajim. He lived in a city called Maaloula, a village of Aramaic Christians. It is one of the few remaining villages in the Middle East where they speak the language that Jesus spoke. As the marauding Islamic rebels came into town on the same side of the war—who knows who funded them or where they got the arms—but when the Islamic rebels came and marauded into town, Sarkis Al-Zajim stood up. He is a Christian. He lives and sides with the Christians or we are going to lose the Christians. So Sarkis Al-Zajim lives in Maaloula, speaks Aramaic, stands up, and says: ‘‘I am a Christian, and if you must kill me for this, I do not object to it!’’ And these were his last words.

I don’t want whoever those moderates are, but they are fighting on the same side that we are arming and we don’t know who they are.

Our former Ambassador to Iraq and Syria says he is one of who the non-ISIL rebels are. For all we know, the rebels that killed Sarkis Al-Zajim could well be part of the so-called vetted opposition.

When they win, will they defend American interests? Will they recognize Israel? If we want to have a good question, why don’t we ask the vetted moderate Syrians how many will recognize Israel. I am guessing it is going to be the moderate rebels. We wish to engage moderates in the battle against ISIS. But it seems to me the battle against ISIS and those jihadists in Syria says we have no clue who the moderates are. They are fighting on the same side of the war—who knows who funded them or where they got the arms—but when the Islamic rebels came into town on the same side of the war—who knows who funded them or where they got the arms—but when the Islamic rebels came and marauded into town, Sarkis Al-Zajim stood up. He is a Christian. He lives and sides with the Christians. The other side up here will argue: Well, we are only sending it to the moderates in Pakistan; otherwise, the radicals will take over. Well, the moderates are the ones with Asia Bibi on death row. I wouldn’t send a penny to these people. How will they use this money? Will they send the money to those who are imposing Sharia law?

Sharia law has the death penalty for infidelity, marriage, death penalty for conversion—apostasy—and death penalty for blasphemy.

In Pakistan right now—a country that billions of our dollars flow to, that the vast majority of the Senate loves and will send billions more of our dollars to if they can get it from us—in Pakistan, Asia Bibi is on death row. She is a Christian. Do you know what her crime was? They say blasphemy. She went to drink from a well and the well was owned by Muslims. As she was drawing water from the well she began hurling insults. Then they began hurling stones. They were stoning her and beating her to death with sticks. The police came, and she said, thank God, They arrested her and put her in jail because the Muslims said that she was saying something about their religion. Heresy is life in prison, death. These are the countries we are sending money to.

The other side up here will argue: Well, we are only sending it to the moderates in Pakistan; otherwise, the radicals will take over. Well, the moderates are the ones with Asia Bibi on death row. I wouldn’t send a penny to these people. Why would we send money to people who are going to impose Sharia law? Maybe we should just have a rule: No money to countries that hate us.

Will these rebels, whom we are going to vote to give money to, tolerate Christians or will they pillage and destroy ancient villages such as Sarkis Al-Zajim’s church and village?

The President and his administration haven’t provided good answers because they don’t exist. As the former Ambassador said: They don’t have a clue.

Shooting first and aiming later has not worked for us in the past. The recent history of the Middle East has not been a good one. Our previous decisions haven’t worked for us in the past. The recent history of the Middle East has not been a good one. Our previous decisions haven’t worked for us in the past. The recent history of the Middle East has not been a good one.
President Obama’s new position as President, which differs from his position as candidate, is that he is fine to get some input when it is convenient for us—maybe after the election—but he is not really interested enough to say that it would bind him or that he would attack Congress and come to us tomorrow and ask for permission. He thinks “maybe whenever it is convenient and you guys get around to it.”

Secretary Kerry stated explicitly that his understanding of the Constitution is that no congressional authorization is necessary. I say, why even bother coming back in December? They kind of like it. They like the show of it. They understand it might have some practical benefit. But it is theater and show. If you are going to commit war without permission, it is the theater and show to ask for permission. The President said basically article II grants him the power to do whatever he wants. Why do we have a Congress? Why don’t we just rescind the whole thing? Oh, that is right, that is what we are getting ready to do. It is election season.

The President and his administration view this view just as a courtesy but not as a requirement. Even if Congress votes against it, he said he would do it anyway. He already has authority; why would it stop him?

Article I, section 8, clause 11 gives Congress the power alone to declare war. If Congress does not approve this military action, the President must abide by the decision.

But it worries me. This President worries me, and it is not because of ObamaCare or Dodd-Frank or these horrific pieces of legislation. As I travel around the country, when people ask me “What has the President done? What is the worst thing he has done?” it is the usurpation of power, the idea that the President is the one who has the power to declare war. Which is why there is a lot that is above that separation. If you want to tremble and worry about the future of our Republic, listen to the President when he says: Well, Congress won’t act; therefore, I must. Think about the implications of that.

Democracy is messy. It is hard to get everybody to agree to something. But the interesting thing is that had he asked, had he come forward and done the honorable thing, we would have approved it. We approved the authorization of force. It would have been overwhelming had he done the right thing, but he didn’t come forward and ask. He didn’t come forward and ask when he amended the Affordable Care Act. He didn’t come forward and ask when he amended immigration law and he is not coming forward to ask on the most important decision we face in our country; that is, a decision to go to war.

Our Founders understood this and debated this. This is not a new debate. Thomas Jefferson said the Constitution gave “one effectual check to the dog of war by transferring the power to declare war from the Executive to the Legislative body.” Madison wrote even more clearly:

The power to declare war, including the power of judging the causes of war, is fully and exclusively vested in the legislature.

There was no debate. Founding Fathers were unanimous. This was our power. To do it when it is convenient after the election is to abdicate our responsibility and is to make a serious discussion a travesty.

There is something more significant than this, and we are going to stuff it in a bill. We are going to stuff it in a 2,000-page bill and not talk about it, not vote on it individually. Our leaders must be held accountable. If we don’t, there will be no end to the war. The ridiculous and the absurd must be laid to rest. We have all heard it before.

Toppling Qadhafi led to a jihadist wonderland in Libya. Toppling Hussein led to chaos in Iraq with which we are still involved. Toppling Assad will lead to more chaos and greater danger to America from the jihadists.

The mosh-covered, too-long-in-Washington crowd cannot help themselves: War, war, what we need is more war. But they never pay attention to the results of the last war. Their policies and the combination of feckless disinterest, fraudulent redlines, and selective combativeness have led us to this point.

Yes, we must confront ISIS, in part for penance for the President’s role in the chaos of the last war. Their policies and the combination of feckless disinterest, fraudulent redlines, and selective combativeness have led us to this point.

But let’s not mistake what we must do. As the interventionists clamor for boots on the ground, we should remember that the war against Hussein, Qadhafi, and Assad were not a threat to us. It doesn’t make them good, but they were not a threat to us. We should remember that the war against Hussein, the war against Qadhafi, and the war against Assad have all led to chaos.

That intervention enhanced the rise of radical Islam and indelibly led to more danger for Americans.

Before we arm the so-called moderate Muslims in Syria, remember what I said a year ago: The ultimate irony is you will not be able to overcome is that someday these weapons will be used to fight against Americans. If we are forced onto the ground, we will be fighting against those same weapons that I voted not to send a year ago.

We must protect ourselves from radical Islam, but we should never ever have armed radical Islam, and we should not continue to arm radical Islam. To those who will say, “Oh, we are just giving to the moderates, not to the radicals,” it is going and stopping temporarily with the moderates and then on to ISIS. That is what has been going on for a year. Somehow they predict that something different will occur. We have enabled the enemy and we must not repeat that.

Sending arms to so-called moderate Islamic rebels in Syria is a fool’s errand and will only make ISIS stronger. ISIS grew as the United States and her allies were arming the opposition. So, as we have sent 600 tons of weapons, ISIS has grown stronger. You are going to tell me that 600 tons of more weapons will defeat ISIS?

The barrel-dwelling purveyors of war should admit their mistakes and not compound them. ISIS is now a threat. We will fight ISIS, a war that I accept as necessary largely because our own arms and the arms of our allies—Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar—have enabled our new enemy ISIS. Will we ever learn?

President Obama now wishes to bomb ISIS and arm the Islamic rebels’ allies at the same time. We are on both sides of a civil war. The emperor has no clothes. Let’s just admit it. The truth is sometimes painful.

If we arm ourselves from radical Islam, but we should never ever have armed radical Islam, and we should not continue to arm radical Islam. To those who will say, “Oh, we are just giving to the moderates, not to the radicals,” it is going and stopping temporarily with the moderates and then on to ISIS. That is what has been going on for a year. Somehow they predict that something different will occur. We have enabled the enemy and we must not repeat that.

Thank you. I yield back my time.

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, the provision in the continuing resolution before us authorizes the President to train and equip forces with the shared objectives of the interests and objectives are aligned with ours so that they can fight on their own behalf, much as we have done elsewhere in the world—for example, a number of African countries which we have helped support their own freedom and independence, their own efforts to go after the terrorists who terrorized them. We have done that pursuant to provisions we have included in previous Defense authorization bills.

This year, as our President has known as a very important member of our committee, when the Armed Services Committee marked up the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2015, we approved a similar Syria train-and-equip provision by a bipartisan vote of 29 to 13.

While ISIS is currently focused on building an Islamic caliphate in the Middle East, its poisonous ideology is hostile not only to the region but to the world, and there is a real risk that the Somali model could become a launching pad for future terrorist attacks against the United States and its friends and allies. ISIS is terrorizing the Iraqi and Syrian peoples, engaging in kidnappings, killings, persecutions of religious minorities, and attacking schools, hospitals, and cultural sites.

The threat to Americans and American interests was dramatically and tragically brought home recently by the brutal beheading of American journalists James Foley and Steven Sotloff and British aid worker David Haines.

The President has announced a four-pronged strategy to degrade and ultimately defeat ISIS. Those four prongs are a continued increased support to Iraqi, Kurdish, and Syrian opposition forces on the ground; second, a systemic campaign of airstrikes against ISIS; third, improved intelligence and efforts to cut off funding and recruiting; and fourth, continued humanitarian assistance to ISIS’s victims.

Our senior military leaders support the President’s strategy. When General Dempsey testified before the Armed Services Committee, I asked whether he personally supports the President’s strategy, and of course I asked the question exactly that way—‘‘Do you personally support the President’s strategy?’’—so that we would get his own answer and not simply the answer he might feel he has to give because of his Commander in Chief’s position.

When we ask military officers for their own personal position, that is what they must give us. When we have confirmation hearings, we ask them that question. Will you give us your own personal opinion when you come before us even though it might differ from the administration in power?

That is one of the questions we ask on every confirmation, and, of course, if we don’t get the answer that they will, there will not be a confirmation.

So we asked and I asked as my first question a few days ago whether General Dempsey personally supports the President’s strategy, and his response was, ‘‘I do.’’ He explained that the best way forward runs ‘‘through a coalition of Arab and Muslim partners and not by the United States alone. The security of the United States.’’ Training and equipping the moderate Syrian opposition is a critical step. As General Dempsey explained, we need to build a force of vetted, trained moderate Syrian troops. ‘‘We take on ISIL in Iraq or Syria as long as ISIL enjoys the safe haven in Syria, it will remain a formidable force and a threat.’’

Some colleagues have expressed the concern that this new military effort could lead to a quagmire that we entered with the Iraq invasion in 2003, but what we are voting on here is virtually the opposite of what was voted on in the 2002 Authorization for the Use of Military Force in Iraq. I voted against the Iraq authorization in 2002. I am voting for this train-and-equip authority today. The differences are huge between what was voted on in 2002 and what we are voting on today.

First, in 2003, we invaded Iraq and threw out Saddam Hussein’s government. This year, by contrast, the Iraqi Government has requested our assistance against ISIS. This request has taken on ISIL in Iraq and Syria as long as ISIL enjoys the safe haven in Syria, it will remain a formidable force and a threat.

Second, in 2003, the United States and Britain invaded Iraq with token support from a handful of Western partners. It was a unilateral approach without visible participation or support from Arab or Muslim nations. It helped spawn Iraqi resistance, including Al Qaeda in Iraq, the predecessor to ISIS. Al Qaeda in Iraq and ISIS didn’t exist before our invasion of Iraq in 2003. They are a direct response to our unilateral action in Iraq. This year, by contrast—and what a contrast—we are seeing the participation of key Arab and Muslim States in the region and their active, visible role will be critical to the effectiveness of any international action.

Our senior military and civilian leaders recognize, as General Dempsey testified before our committee, that ISIS ‘‘will only be defeated when moderate Arab and Muslim populations in the region reject it.’’

The recent international conferences in Jeddah and Paris were a good start, with a number of Arab States declaring their shared commitment—and this was a public statement—to develop a strategy ‘‘to destroy ISIL wherever it is, including in both Iraq and Syria,’’ and joining in an international pledge ‘‘we will do what is necessary’’ to achieve this goal.

The contrast to the Iraq invasion of 2003 is particularly sharp with regard to ground combat troops. In 2003, all 200,000 American combat troops invaded Iraq. Only after years of relentless ground combat operations were we able to get our troops out. This year, by contrast, the President’s policy is that ground combat operations, including in Syria will not be carried out by us, but by Iraqis, Kurds, and Syrians. While the United States and a broad coalition of nations, including Arab and Muslim countries, will support this effort, there is no plan to use American combat forces on the ground.

As General Dempsey explained to the Armed Services Committee, U.S. forces ‘‘are not participating in direct combat. There is no intention for them to do so.’’ You would, I read the press coverage of his testimony, so I will repeat it in the same hope that may be true this time state here will be covered. General Dempsey said we ‘‘are not participating in direct combat. There is no intention for them to do so.’’ General Dempsey was talking about the U.S. Armed Forces.

General Dempsey added a caveat that if circumstances change, he might, for instance, recommend to the President that U.S. advisers be authorized to accompany Iraqi security forces into combat. He was clear that these comments were focused on how our forces could best and most appropriately advise the Iraqis on their combat operations.

 Senator GRAHAM asked General Dempsey whether he thought they could defeat ISIL without us being on the ground. The question he asked was: ‘‘Do you think they (ISIL) without us being on the ground, just say yes,’’ and General Dempsey responded, ‘‘Yes.’’

I saw that in all of one newspaper article across the country.

Our senior military leaders, of course, reserve the right to reconsider their recommendations based on conditions on the ground. I would expect that General Dempsey would say, just as General Petraeus and General McChrystal must be free to change a recommendation to the President if circumstances on the ground change. That is a very different statement from what the press put into General Dempsey’s mouth when they interviewed him. General Dempsey suggested we may need U.S. combat forces. The direct answer of General Dempsey was: We have no plan to do it. We believe they can do it without us, and of course, if conditions change, we might make a different recommendation, or at least might make a different recommendation to the Commander in Chief.
At the end of the day, of course, the President, who is the Commander in Chief, and not the military, will establish policy. Even if conditions change and even if General Dempsey decided to recommend a different role for U.S. ground combat troops, it would just be that, a recommendation.

The struggle against ISIS in Iraq and in Syria will be a long and hard one and we should give it our support. We cannot take the place of Iraqis and Syrians. They must purge the poison they have in their country. Terrorist groups, such as ISIS and Al Qaeda, must be purged by the people they plague, but we can help these people get rid of this poison.

We are already working with Muslim and Arab countries that are openly uniting against a poisonous strain of Islam. It threatens them even more than it threatens us. This has to be an Iraqi and Syrian fight—an Arab and a Muslim fight—and not a Western fight if it is going to be successful. It is highly destructive to our efforts to bring about a broad coalition if Congress and the President appear disunited.

We are asking Arab and Muslim countries to openly take on a plague, a cancer, a poison in their midst. That is what we are asking of them. There has been too much behind-the-scenes support, too much quiet support or opposition, too much inconsistency from a number of Arab and Muslim countries. So what the President and Secretary Kerry are doing is not just helping to organize a broad coalition of Western and Muslim countries to go after this strain, this threat that is in their midst, what we are asking them to do is to do it openly so their people see that their governments, and indeed their people, are threatened by this terror poison in their midst. What is critical, and what is so hugely different is this time it will be an international coalition going after terrorists and not just a Western invasion of a Muslim country.

It would be, again, destructive of our efforts to get open support in the Muslim and Arab world for going after these terrorists—this strain called ISIS—if Congress and the President are disunited. So we should give our support to the provision authorizing the training and equipping of vetted, moderate Syrian opposition forces. I hope we do it on a bipartisan basis here, making sure it is not just the Administration but also bicameral. What an important statement that will be to the very countries that are seeking to help rid themselves of this cancer.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. TESTER. Madam President, when we head to the Senate floor, we make choices. We first choose how to get here—whether to take the subway or walk. We choose whether to stop and talk to a colleague or two along the way. We also choose whether to speak to the press, and normally there are plenty of reporters available to speak to. And many of my colleagues are often picky about who we talk to. I like talking to reporters just fine, but my staff gets a little nervous.

Last week, after coming out of the secure briefing on the situation in the Middle East, I was talking to the first reporter I saw because in that briefing no one asked how much this war with ISIL would cost or how we were going to pay for it. At the end of the briefing I asked those questions myself. But it is telling that no one up to that point had asked the United States Congress about how much this war with ISIL costs. Will it be added to our debt? Will our grandchildren once again have to pay for our choices today?

I also asked what domestic programs will be cut if this war is an unpaid war. Will they cut improvements to our highways, Head Start, Violence Against Women Act funding? Will they cut education,{$\ldots$}We are asking Arab and Muslim countries to openly take on a plague, a cancer, a poison in their midst. That is what we are asking of them. There has been too much behind-the-scenes support, too much quiet support or opposition, too much inconsistency from a number of Arab and Muslim countries.

The struggle against ISIS in Iraq and in Syria will be a long and hard one and we should give it our support. We cannot take the place of Iraqis and Syrians. They must purge the poison they have in their country. Terrorist groups, such as ISIS and Al Qaeda, must be purged by the people they plague, but we can help these people get rid of this poison.

We are already working with Muslim and Arab countries that are openly uniting against a poisonous strain of Islam. It threatens them even more than it threatens us. This has to be an Iraqi and Syrian fight—an Arab and a Muslim fight—and not a Western fight if it is going to be successful. It is highly destructive to our efforts to bring about a broad coalition if Congress and the President appear disunited.

There has been too much behind-the-scenes support, too much quiet support or opposition, too much inconsistency from a number of Arab and Muslim countries. So what the President and Secretary Kerry are doing is not just helping to organize a broad coalition of Western and Muslim countries to go after this strain, this threat that is in their midst, what we are asking them to do is to do it openly so their people see that their governments, and indeed their people, are threatened by this terror poison in their midst. What is critical, and what is so hugely different is this time it will be an international coalition going after terrorists and not just a Western invasion of a Muslim country.

It would be, again, destructive of our efforts to get open support in the Muslim and Arab world for going after these terrorists—this strain called ISIS—if Congress and the President are disunited. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. TESTER. Madam President, when we head to the Senate floor, we make choices. We first choose how to get here—whether to take the subway or walk. We choose whether to stop and talk to a colleague or two along the way. We also choose whether to speak to the press, and normally there are plenty of reporters available to speak other nations to our cause. When we convince someone of the merit of our argument, when we form strong alliances that stand the test of time, when we act in concert with other nations, our word and our acts become stronger, and the world takes notice.

We are told today that other countries will respond, that other folks are joining the fight. But actions speak louder than words. I, for one, would like to see more of it before I vote to commit America’s taxpayers’ money to this fiasco.

Eleven years ago, we invaded Iraq without a real coalition, and we built our argument on false pretenses. Moving forward, we must have a real debate, a sound strategy, and an endgame.

This body is historically the world’s greatest deliberative body. It was here that men such as Daniel Webster and Henry Clay deliberated. We are not having that kind of debate today. We are not gathering more information. There were committee hearings this week, but the die is cast, the wheels are in motion. As we say in Montana, the horse is out of the barn, the cows are out to pasture.

There are 1,600 American troops in Iraq right now who deserve a real debate. Many of them have husbands, wives, children, families. I do not know that I can say with certainty to them: Don’t worry, we are training the right people to kill the right people on the ground in Iraq. If America is wrong about who we train and who we arm in Syria, my fear is that these 1,600 servicemen will be joined again by tens of thousands more. For their sake and the sake of the American taxpayer, we need a fuller debate that will have a real impact on the decisionmaking process here in this Senate, and more of that debate should have happened before now.

I serve on the Senate Appropriations Committee. I know we must fund the government and prevent a shutdown. That is the responsible thing to do. The cost of last year’s shutdown on Montana business was extraordinary and unnecessary, and I do not want to repeat that fiasco. That is why I will be voting for that continuing resolution later today.

I know some folks are opposed to this continuing resolution because they think we need greater agreement on bills individually. I appreciate that and I agree. But the fact is, the Appropriations Committee—under the chairmanship of Chairwoman Mikulski, who is on the floor right now, and Senator Shelby—has worked hard and worked in a bipartisan way to try to make that happen. They have tried to reinvigorate this committee and make sure the Senate fulfills our constitutional responsibility to make the hard choices about how we spend taxpayers’ money. Ironically, some of the folks who have said they don’t like passing the CR are the very same folks who have made it harder to pass the bipartisan bills that come out of that Appropriations Committee. Talk about playing down to the American people’s already low expectations for Congress.

So we have no choice other than to pass the CR today. But I am tired of spending without a plan. I am tired of getting caught up in fighting wars in the Middle East, performing the same actions and expecting a different result. I am tired of repeating history without learning its lessons.

We can do this for the sake of our troops, for the sake of our taxpayers, for the sake of our kids, for the fate of our Nation and the world, we must.

With that, I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Baltimore Orioles

Ms. MIKULSKI. Madam President, we have had some excellent debate here today on a very consequential matter of arming these so-called Syrian moderates. I know the Senator from Maine, Mr. King, will be coming here shortly to participate in that debate, and I think this is a very good activity.

While we wait for Senators to come to the floor, I wish to take a few minutes to speak about the Baltimore Orioles. This in no way minimizes the debate going on now, but while we have the time for some of the Senators coming who want to emphasize this topic, I want to take a little bit of a breather here.

As my colleagues can see, I am wearing the Orioles’ colors on the Senate floor today, and while we must address issues, we have to remember the kinds of things that make America great. In this continuing resolution, in addition to dealing with intense foreign policy needs and intense foreign policy crises, we have to remember that we are actually funding both our national security and the Department of Defense and very important domestic programs, including preschool, NIH to find cures for autism and Alzheimer’s, and so on. We also want to not only keep the government going but remember what is so great about our country.

Of course, baseball is one of the things that makes our country great. That is why I rise today to congratulate the Baltimore Orioles who won the American East title. As I said, I wear their colors today on the floor and I hope to wear them at Camden Yards.

My home team not only represents my State, Maryland, the American East, including the Yankees, the Red Sox, the Rays, the Blue Jays, but this is our year.

The Orioles are celebrating their 60th anniversary in Baltimore. The O’s, as we affectionately call them, arrived in 1954. I was a high school girl. I remember the excitement of the team coming, our first major league team. We played AAA up until then. There was a big parade and down Charles Street, Charm City was charmed by this new baseball team.

There have been many amazing events that have occurred since then, and, of course, fantastic and legendary players, including Frank Robinson, Jim Palmer, Eddy Murray, “Iron Man” Cal Ripken, Jr. We remember our coaches such as Earl Weaver, who got the fans excited, and, of course, we remember Cal Ripken, Sr., who taught us the Orioles way.

So this year we have a team that, once again, is energized and on its way to the playoffs.

Anyone who has watched the Orioles this season at Camden Yards knows that this is a true team effort. The American East title was made possible by clutch hits and home runs, spectacular catches and gutsy pitching. When the All-Star players weren’t on the field, workhorse veterans and promising young rookies stepped up night after night.

Yes, there is Oriole magic. We have our manager, Buck Showalter, who, as my colleagues know, is a laugh a minute. I am joking. If my colleagues watched at Mr. Showalter, they know he doesn’t crack a smile, but he sure teaches his players how to crack the bat. His attention to the big picture and to the smallest detail is the way he has taught his team to function.

We think we are on our way to what is called the battle of the beltways. It is conceivable that we will be playing the Washington Nationals who have just won the National League East title, and it’s a trend we’ve seen in the District of Columbia. We are as excited for them as we are about ourselves, and we can’t wait to meet. I am hoping for this.

Three cheers for the Baltimore Orioles who have earned this fantastic title. We won’t stop until we have a pennant flying high over our stadium.

I want to congratulate the entire Orioles organization, from the managers to the front office, and the owner of the team, Buck Showalter, to the Angelos family many years ago from being sold out of town. Peter Angelos stepped up to the plate and saved it and kept the team in Baltimore, and he has kept the team on the go. Now that fantastic team, under great leadership, wonderful players, and the best fans in both leagues, is looking forward to the playoffs.

We are also looking forward to not only the game, but it is the spirit of community that is in Baltimore. Our city hall in the evening is lit up in orange. When we travel the city, we see people wearing the colors and laughing and giving each other shoulder to shoulber and high fives. When people come to Baltimore now to go visit a great institution such as Johns Hopkins, whether a person is an orderly or a facilities manager, or whether a person is a Nobel Prize winner, everybody is wearing the same. Whether people are Black, White, Hispanic, Latino, men, women, we are all there. That is because it is about baseball. It is about a team. It is about America. It is about the land of the free and the home of the brave.

So let’s keep our government open. Let’s be on the playing field and in the competition for jobs and opportunity. And I will be back for the lameduck, gloat.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maine.

Mr. KING. Madam President, I rise today to speak about ISIS—the threat, what we can do about it, and what we must do about it.

Where are we during this debate? Why are we conducting airstrikes? This is a clear and present danger to the United States of America. This group has done everything but send us an email saying we are coming for you. They have made committed statements. We will see you in New York. They brutally murdered two of our citizens.

If they have free rein in the area that is as big as the State of Indiana, I suppose, between eastern Syria and western Iran, they have, undoubt- edly, will come a time when they will strike here and in Europe and in other parts of the world.

I am here today to support the provi- sion of the continuing resolution that will allow us to begin the arming, equipping, and training of the Syrian moderate opposition.

Why do we even have this discussion? Because the most fundamental respon- sibility of any government anywhere, any time is to protect our citizens. The preamble of the U.S. Constitution says that one of the fundamental purposes listed in the preamble is to “provide for the common defense” and “insure domestic tranquility”—a basic func- tion of any government. This is why we are having this debate today.

This arming and equipping provision is not a panacea. It is not going to end the war. It is not going to be easy. It is no sure thing.

A friend said to me this morning: It is the least worst option. It is one that we must undertake. It has to be part of the solution because to root out ISIS, whose headquarters are in Syria—not Iraq—there are going to have to be troops. There are going to have to be combat troops. There is no such thing as a surgical war.

Where are those troops going to come from? Not from the United States—they have to come from within the Syrian opposition itself.

This is also important as a gesture to the coalition we are building to con- front this threat. Having a credible coal- ition—which I will expand upon in a moment—is an incredibly important part of this entire strategy. Without a functioning real coalition, it is impos- sible, it is an impossible task. This cannot be a U.S. war. This cannot be a war of the West against this so-called Islamic State. It has to involve partic- ularly those neighboring the region.

I am also supportive of the general strategy the President outlined, but I think there are several points that need to be absolutely emphasized. One is the importance of the coalition. We cannot have a coalition that just holds our coat while we do the fighting. They have to be engaged in an active way—not just writing checks.

If we try to do this ourselves, not even if we were inclined to do this with our own troops, it wouldn’t work. These have to be local faces on the ground. There are going to be boots on the ground, but they are not and should not and cannot be ours.

The second thing that is so impor- tant in this discussion is that the President outlined the other night is a trustworthy, inclusive government in Baghdad. The reason ISIS was so successful in this sweep through northern Iraq and into Mosul was that they were swimming in a regime that was discredited and was floundering in the Sunni regions of Iraq where the local tribes and Sunni leaders have been alienated and systematically ex- cluded from the government in Baghdad.

If the government in Baghdad cannot build credibility with that group, this is a hopeless enterprise. Prime Min- ister al-Abadi needs to channel his inner Mandela. He has to be inclusive of even the people who were his en- emies and the enemies of his sect at a prior time.

This has to be a government that can be trusted. Really what is going on is a battle for the loyalty of the Sunni popu- lation of Iraq to see whether they are going to join this brutal so-called Islamic State or to the govern- ment of the country in Baghdad. That is the challenge that is before that gov- ernment today.

So far the signs are positive, but we are still in the very first weeks of this regime. But that has to be a crucial element of our strategy. So these are two pieces that are largely out of our control.

We can try to build a coalition. We can try to build a government in Baghdad, but these folks have to do it themselves. We cannot be the police- men of the Middle East.

The third piece is building the Syrian opposition. The same goes for Al- Raqqa, the headquarters of ISIS in Syria. There are going to have to be people on the ground, and they are not going to be Americans. They have to come from the Syrian opposition, and that is why that is an important ele- ment of our strategy.

I am very much in another discussion we have to have. Unfortunately, the calendar doesn’t allow us to have it today. I believe there must be a new authorization for the use of military force. The authorization that was passed right after September 11, 2001, has been stretched and strained to the point where if it is allowed to become the justification for anything, there is nothing left of the Constitution that says Congress shall be the one to declare war.

I have gone back and looked at the history of that clause. Very interest- ingly, the original draft of the Con- stitution said Congress shall declare war. At the time, the Framers realized that Congress would not be the right entity to execute the war itself, to make the battlefield decisions. The Framers were ad- bland that the momentous decision for our country when the threat has to be in the branch of the government most representative of the people.

They went through history—in the 4th Federalist they talked about how the battle for power was between executives, princes, kings mischievously and often on weak grounds got their coun- tries engaged in war. They made a conscious decision that this responsibility was left with the Congress. Unfortu- nately, over the years, not to the late 1940s, we allowed that clause to atrophy. We allowed the Executive to take more and more responsibility and power and unilateral authority.

People are saying: Well, this President is acting unilaterally. This is nothing new. This goes back to Harry Truman and the Korean war. This isn’t some- thing that Barack Obama invented.

Presidents naturally want more au- thority. They do have the power to de- fer our country when the threat is imminent and real, but they don’t have the power to commit American armed forces in any place, at any time, under any circumstances.

We have a constitutional respon- sibility to consider this matter, to debate it, to argue about the terms of what the authorization should be—how it should be limited in duration, geog- raphy, target, in means of confronta- tion with the enemy. That is what we must do.

Finally, beyond this AUMF, beyond ISIS, assume for a moment we are tremen- dously and utterly successful over the next 6 months, a year, 2 years, and ISIS is gone, the problem is history has taught us someone will take their place.

The real issue is radical jihadism. We have to have a strategy to deal with this threat in the long term that doesn’t in- volve trying to just kill them as they come forward. It was characterized re- cently as geopolitical Whac-A-Mole. We stop them in one place, and it comes up somewhere else, and we all know about Al Qaeda, al-Nusra, Al Qaeda, Al Qaeda in the Arabian Penin- sula, and Boko Horam.

We have to be talking about and de- veloping a strategy to deal with this threat, said the Congress, and to the rest of the world on a more long-term basis than simply having continuous—what amounts to—battles against elements of these people.
Why are they doing this? What is attracting young people to this destructive philosophy, and how can we best counteract that? I believe we have to make a decision today.

As I said, I also think we have to make a decision before the end of the year as to what the scope, limits, and authority of the President are in this matter. We can try to avoid it, but I don’t believe we can.

On December 1, 1862, Abraham Lincoln wrote a message to the body, and the conclusion of that message was that we cannot escape history. It will light us down from one generation to the next. I believe that we need to stand and debate, argue, refine, and finally reach a conclusion so that the American people can understand what we are doing and why.

The Executive will have clear authority. The rest of the world will know that this is the United States of America taking this position—not a President and not a few Members of Congress. That is a responsibility I believe we are ready to assume. This is a threat. It must be met, and we must participate in the decision to meet it.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Ms. AYOTTE. Madam President, I come to the floor to say a couple of things. At the end of his speech, he used the motto of my home State—the State of New Hampshire: Live Free or Dye. In New Hampshire we are very proud of that motto. It came from a statement during the American Revolution from General John Stark, and it really showed how important it is that we stand with the people of Ukraine during this trying time with the aggression they are facing from Russia.

I come to the floor to say a couple of things. At the end of his speech, he used the motto of my home State—the State of New Hampshire: Live Free or Dye. In New Hampshire we are very proud of that motto. It came from a statement during the American Revolution from General John Stark, and it really showed how important it is that we stand with the people of Ukraine during this trying time with the aggression they are facing from Russia.

I have had the privilege of going to Ukraine twice, both in March and also to October 2014. In both instances, I was very struck by the patriotism, by their love for America, and their gratefulness for our support.

As we heard President Poroshenko say to all of us today, now more than ever they need American support. There is something I have been calling for—for a while, in fact. When I went there in March—and also I had the privilege of traveling with Senator DONNELLY—it was a bipartisan codel—and in May, both of those instances we had the request for lethal assistance so that the Ukrainian military would have the arms they need to defend themselves against this Russian aggression.

So today we also heard President Poroshenko call upon us again to provide the support for the Ukrainian military. They have fought and continue to fight and die for their own independence, freedom, and territorial integrity. The least we can do is provide them lethal assistance.

As President Poroshenko rightly said today: Blankets and night vision goggles are important, but one cannot win a war with a blanket. I would hope all of us stood together today, both Democrats and Republicans, to say we stand with the people of Ukraine.

I know this afternoon the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has come together and marked up a very important aid package to Ukraine which contains lethal assistance for their military.

I would hope our President would see that on a bipartisan basis we stand with the people of Ukraine and we must provide them with this assistance they need.

Finally, I would say that the Budapest Memorandum that President Poroshenko mentioned today is very important.

We were a signatory to that memorandum, as was Russia. In that memorandum, the signing of it, Ukraine gave up their nuclear weapons in exchange for our assurances that we would respect their sovereignty, security assurances, and their territorial integrity. Obviously, Russia has trampled all over this. But I would say the least we can do is provide this lethal assistance they have asked for given that they gave up their nuclear weapons.

We signed on to that agreement. We should support them in their time of need so that they can defend their sovereignty. What country ever again is going to give up their nuclear weapons if we will not even give them basic military assistance when their country is invaded the way Ukraine has been invaded by Russia?

Now is our time and our moment. We all stood together in the House Chamber today for the people of Ukraine. What matters is our actions, not just our words and our standing ovations.

I hope we will stand with the people of Ukraine. I call upon our President to provide lethal assistance to the people of Ukraine and the support and tougher sanctions on Russia—economic sanctions—for their invasion and their total disrespect for the sovereignty of the country of Ukraine.

I would defer to my colleague, Senator MCCRACKEN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Ms. WARRIN). The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. I always appreciate it when the Senator from New Hampshire defers to me—a rare occasion, I might add.

I rise today to speak in support of the continuing resolution on which we will vote. I do not do so because I approve of the bulk of the CR. I certainly do not approve of the process that got us here. It is a broken, dysfunctional process that deserves and has received the scorn and disdain of the American people. Long ago we should have been taking up these bills one by one. But that is not why I come to the floor today.

I am voting for this CR for one particular reason: It would help the Department of Defense train and equip moderate, vetted Syrian opposition forces to fight the barbaric terrorist army that calls itself the Islamic State, commonly known as ISIS. I will support it. It is long overdue support for the brave Syrians who are fighting on the frontlines against a common terrorist enemy.

The current plan could have been decisive 2 years ago. Two years ago it could have been decisive. It is not now. We are talking about 5,000 whom we are going to train over a period of a year or more. They are going to be fighting against an estimated 31,500 fighters.

There are many seminal events that have taken place in this conflict. One of the main ones was when 2 years ago the President overruled the majority of players in his national security team when he overruled their unanimous and passionate argument to arm and train the Free Syrian Army.

The administration says that U.S. forces will not have a combat role. Why does the President insist on continuing to tell the enemy what he will not do? Why is it that the President of the United States keeps telling the people who are slaughtering thousands: Don’t worry, we won’t commit ground troops. Why does he have to keep saying that? Obviously—at least one would draw the conclusion—because of political reasons.

Secretary of Defense Robert Gates has said to say, I do not know of a man who is more respected than former Secretary of Defense Gates under both Republican and Democratic Presidents.

He said:

The reality is, they’re not going to be able to be successful against ISIS strictly from the air or strictly depending on the Iraqi forces or the Peshmerga or the Sunni tribes acting on their own.

Gates continued:

So there will be boots on the ground if there is going to be a hope of success in the strategy. I think that by continuing to repeat that—

That the United States will not put boots on the ground—the President, in effect, traps himself.

That is the opinion not of John MCCAiN and Lindsey GRAHAM. It is the opinion of Robert Gates and every military expert I have talked to, ranging from the architects of the surge, to former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and, confidentially, leaders in the party today.

The President said he will expand airstrikes in Syria, but they have testified that the President will not have forward air controllers on the ground to direct airstrikes, which makes them obviously effective.

As we read today in the Wall Street Journal—this is remarkable, my friends—President Obama will be personalizing responsibility on every single life lost in Syria. I talk to my colleagues: I saw that movie before—it was called Vietnam—many years ago when President Lyndon Johnson used to select the targets in the Oval Office or the Situation Room. Now we have a President of the United States who is selecting targets of which he has no fundamental knowledge whatsoever. It is really remarkable.

We are going to train and equip these people to fight. Yet we are not going to take out the assets Bashar Assad uses to kill them—the air attacks, the barrel bombs; the indiscriminate killing of innocent women, men, and children; 192,000 dead in Syria; 150,000 languishing in his prisons. We are not going to do anything to even give these people, the Free Syrian Army, the weapons with which to counter these air attacks which are so brutal and outrageous.

I would like to yield to my friend from South Carolina to make a couple of comments. One, the argument I have heard made here is that there are no moderates in Syria. Well, I think arguably one of the most important and impressive individuals I have run into is Ambassador Ford, who has really been a hero in this whole exercise. He says there are moderates in Syria. They can fight. They have been fighting. They have been doing incredible work with incredible sacrifice.

I am trying to find his quote from when he testified before the Foreign Relations Committee yesterday. He did a magnificent job in doing so, as usual, in my view. I cannot seem to find it, but I would point out that he says not only can they fight, they have been fighting, and they have been doing a heroic job in doing so. That is also the opinion of people who know. So there are moderates. If we train and equip them, they can be effective. The problem is that we have not done too little; it is we have done too much. We have weakened Assad and hurt his ability to fight. ISIS, ISIS is a problem for the Middle East.

If ISIS is a problem for the Middle East, I wonder what the Australians think today? Australian police detained 15 people Thursday in a major counterterrorism operation, saying the intelligence indicated that a random violent attack was being planned in Australia. We know what their object is. It is to strike the United States of America.

I say in response to these uninformed colleagues of mine who say the Free Syrian Army cannot fight: Syrian forces are seen stepping up attacks on rebels as U.S. sets site on ISIS.

Time after time there have been places ISIS has controlled and the Free Syrian Army has come in and then Bashar Assad attacks because they want to defeat them.

The fact is I see the critics come here on the floor of the Senate and talk about why everything is wrong, why nobody will fight, why we cannot arm the right people. Well, what is their solution? Do they really believe they can articulate by ISIS that they want to attack the United States? Do they really believe the premise articulated by ISIS that they want to attack the United States? Do they really believe the premise articulated by ISIS that they want to attack the United States? Do they really believe the premise articulated by ISIS that they want to attack the United States? Do they really believe the premise articulated by ISIS that they want to attack the United States? Do they really believe the premise articulated by ISIS that they want to attack the United States? I yield 5 minutes for my colleague from South Carolina.

Mr. GRAHAM. Do we have time remaining?

Mr. MCCAIN. How much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Republicans currently have 67 minutes remaining.

Mr. GRAHAM. I will be very quick.

I will vote for the continuing resolution because I do not want to shut the government down. I agree with Senator Feinstein that it is the right process, but we are where we are. I think the issue people are focusing on about the continuing resolution is the changing of the training of the Free Syrian Army from title 50, a covert program, to title 10, the Department of Defense, where it will be out in the open.

The reason I support the appropriation and the change in title 10—I think this is a long-overdue effort on our part to build up Syrian forces that can confront both Assad and ISIL, enemies of the United States.

To my colleagues who worry about the people we train and the arms we give falling into the wrong hands, I would say that there is nothing we can do in this area without some risk. But when I think that there are no Syrian soldiers who believe exist who would fight against Assad and ISIL, I do not believe you quite understand what is going on in Syria. I would say that the vast majority of Syrians have two things in common: They want to overthrow Assad and they want to get ISIL out of their country. ISIL is mostly non-Syrians. They came from the vacuum created by a lack of security. When Hezbollah and Russians pulled out of Syria, Assad was abandoned by us and the rest of the world and ISIL was able to fill in that vacuum. These are foreign fighters.

So to my colleagues who talk about how they worry, I worry too. I worry about doing nothing. I worry about finding an excuse not to do anything. It bothered me when Republicans embraced the position of President Obama just a few weeks ago that it was a fantasy to train the Syrians to fight for Syria. I do not think it is a fantasy to train Syrians to fight for Syria because they want to. This whole revolution against Assad was not to overthrow him and replace Assad with ISIL.

The people who think the average Syrian wants to be dominated by ISIL instead of Assad, really, I do not think they appreciate what is going on in Syria. That is selling the Syrian people short.

Having said that, the limitations of what the Free Syrian Army can do at this point are real. I think as many as possible makes sense to me. My goal is to keep the war over there so it does not come here. From an American point of view, I think it would be a huge mistake not to provide training and resources to those people in the region—in Syria—to do the fighting because we have common enemies.

Those who say this is too risky, what is your alternative? If we do nothing, ISIL will therefore grow, and the threat to our homeland will continue to increase.

It is long past time to blunt the momentum of this vicious terrorist organization. A Free Syrian Army composition makes perfect sense to me. Whatever risk is associated with that concept is well worth it at this point.

When we talk about Iraq, I hope the Iraqi Government can reconstitute itself and its military capabilities. The Kurds are hanging on in the north with our help. But to dislodge ISIL from Iraq and take back Fallujah and Mosul and other cities, as General Dempsey indicated, would be a very difficult military mission. In my point of view, the last thing America wants to do is take ISIL on in Iraq and Syria and fail.

If you do believe that it is about our homeland and that it is not just about the Middle East, allowing ISIL to defeat any force we throw at it makes them larger and more lethal over time. So the worst possible outcome is to form a coalition in Syria of Arab countries and Iraqis are defeated by ISIL because we do not provide them the capabilities they lack.

President Obama’s insistence of no boots on the ground is the Achilles’ heel to his strategy. This is a military strategy. I believe, designed around political promises. This is not the military strategy you would create to destroy or devastate ISIL. President Bush made many mistakes in Iraq, but to his credit he changed the strategy in a manner that allowed us to succeed.

One thing I have learned over the past 13 years, you can have a lot of troops doing the wrong thing and it will not matter. When you leave no troops behind, that is a mistake. And if you have too few troops doing the right thing, it will not matter.

The President is right about this. We don’t need to reinvade Iraq or Syria. We don’t need the 62nd Airborne to go in with 100,000 troops behind it, but we do need to provide the capabilities on the Iraqis and any future coalition to deal with Syria that is lacking in that part of the world.
Like it or not the American military is second to none. The special forces capability we have can really be decisive in this fight. To every American, this is not only about them over there, this is about us here.

The hurting the sooner that ISIL is defeated, the more decisive ISIL is defeated, and the sooner that day comes about, the safer we are at home. I urge the President to not take options off the table. I am voting for this change in strategy regarding the Free Syrian Army because I think it is long overdue. When the President does the right thing, I want to be his partner. Mr. President, if you will come up with a strategy to destroy and defeat ISIL that makes sense, I will be your best ally and try to help you on this side of the aisle. This is a first step in the right direction, but when you play out this strategy, which you are trying to do, I think it will not work unless you actually get the assistance in a greater level to the Iraqi military and to any coalition you could create in Syria.

The last thing I want this body to understand is this is the last best chance we will get put ISIL back in a box so they can't wreak havoc in the Middle East and grow in strength. The stronger they are over there, the more endangered we are over here.

It is in our interests to help our Arab allies and our Iraqi allies destroy ISIL. It is not just about those people over there. Lines of defenses in the war on terror make perfect sense to me.

The best way to keep this fight off our shores is to engage the people who will help us carry the fight to the common enemy. ISIL is not only an enemy of Islam, it is an enemy of mankind, and failing to defeat these people will resonate here very quickly.

We have a chance. Let's take advantage of that. It is nothing, we can do in a war on terror without risk, but now we are fighting an Army, not an organization. If we defeat ISIL, the war is not over. This is a generational struggle. But if you do defeat ISIL, as a turning point in our favor—if they survive our best attempt to defeat them—God help us all.

I yield back.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. BEGICH. I wasn't planning to speak on the floor. I will speak for a couple of minutes, but I appreciate my colleagues who have just spoken and their conversation, as well as many others who have spoken on the floor.

Let me make my position very clear. This conversation I am having right now is not about the CR. It is going to pass. It is going to move forward. We have to keep operating. The artificial threat that it might be shut down if we don't vote in a certain way with regard to the government is not factual.

The CR is going to pass. The House passed it. People don't want to see a problem as they had a year and a half ago, so I feel very confident with where we are and the CR. But I agree with the comment that this issue, regarding what is going on with Syria, should be a separate issue, should be debated separately. It shouldn't just be shoved into a continuing resolution for the purpose of getting all of this done because we all think we have to leave by Thursday night or Friday morning.

It is a very significant issue. One I have already made my statement very clear after the President spoke that despite my colleagues on the other side—two of them ISIL on the floor—I want to make sure I correct what they said—we just have differences of opinion and views.

We hear statements that people aren't informed or they don't want to do anything, that is not the factual basis here. We have different views when it comes to the issues of conflict in this world, where America should sit, what we should be doing, how we should act, what our foreign partners should be and what they should be doing. It has nothing to do with the government being shut down, the CR or being uninformed. I think this body is well informed. We have had many hearings. Two of us.

The question is just our view of where we stand on the issue of do we arm the rebels in Syria to do something we hope they will do. That is the question, and that is the debate we are in right now. I appreciate at least the limited time we have on it.

Let me make my position very clear. I have made it clear before, but I want to say it again. I do not support the arming of rebels in Syria.

In the Appropriations Committee we had an amendment on this, which I voted for—not to make sure the funding didn't pass, but I think it was a statement that was important. This is not a newfound belief. I support the President. Is this a new effort, strategy, and things are moving in the right direction.

As a matter of fact, yesterday or the day before Baghdad was being moved on by ISIL. Let me make it clear, ISIL, ISIS, whatever you want to call them, they are a terrorist group.

To say they are called the Islamic State, they are not a state. They are a bunch of terrorist thugs. Let's be honest about it. When they made a move on Baghdad, we came in at the request of the Government of Iraq to give air support. We did and then we pushed them back and continued to follow up. That seemed to work in that situation.

Here we are in a situation of do we arm the rebels, do we have in combat troops, humanitarian aid? What is our role in this endeavor?

I disagree with my President, and when I say that, the President of the Democratic Party. It doesn't mean I agree with him that often. There are times when we disagree quite a bit on many issues, but on this one I disagree. Arming the rebels and who they are today and who they might be 12 months from now—I don't know.

I think the bigger issue is also the Arab countries. I understand we have seen in the past few days they are starting to have conversations and wanting to participate, but this is their country, their region. What do they do? Where are they stepping up to the plate?

Here we are, once again, going to have to solve some civil war issues in the Middle East. Instead, the countries in the region are saying, well, maybe we will help a little here, help a little there. They need to step up to the plate, as well as the faith and religious leaders in that region because these terrorists are a threat to the region and to our country.

The photos we have seen of the beheadings are horrific, outlandish, and outrageous. Don’t get me wrong. This is a bad organization and should be dealt with. But we need the countries there to assist us in a much more aggressive way.

Today we heard from the President of Ukraine. He came to a joint session of Congress. Why did he come? Because he believes in democracy. He is fighting for his country. He needs our help and he is asking for our help. He is not hiding behind closed-door meetings and trying to negotiate ways that they can’t be seen asking for help. He is asking because he wants to believe in democracy, what is right for his country. He is fighting for his homeland. His line—and I remember in his speech that he gave today, this morning—was you don’t have to create the democracy, you just have to defend it.

But here we are in the Middle East with unusual allies because it is a convoluted situation. In some ways, we participated, but we also have to have the Iraqi Government be more sustainable. That means inclusion, which they have never done. They are trying, but we have had to put pressure on them because now ISIL has moved into their country. As we know, some of those Arab countries, through some of those well-funded people, funded ISIL. But now they have been asked to do things and they have had to put pressure on them because now ISIL has moved into their country. We have helped them do it. We have made a mistake. Now we need the United States to come in again.

What is the long-term plan for sustainability in the Middle East, to get rid of these terrorist organizations that every single one of those countries knows is bad for them? They know it.

But they don’t step up to the plate enough. Every time we have to step up, and America? Who cares? It is our country. We have been told to don’t know how many funerals, how many hospitals.

Are we asking—I heard some of my colleagues here now talking about combat troops. Absolutely not—and I absolutely do not.

It is time for the Arab countries to step up, get over their regional differences, and know this is one organization, this terrorist organization, ISIS, ISIL—whatever you want to call them—and fund for them. And do it to the extent that is the right thing to do. We have seen this before in other areas of the world, and they need to stand and be more aggressive. That means combat troops on the ground for them, for them to do it, for them to step up to the plate.

ISIS is a terrorist organization, and they are making money off of oil, oil wells they have captured, shipping it out through one of our “allies.” Why don’t we just dismantle these oil wells through airstrikes stop their cash flow for them.

Probably we are not going to do it because I am sure we are hearing from people: Well, that is not really their oil. We will take them out, and then we will get our oil back. They own the oil right now because they are using it to fund their $3 million-a-day operation. Take out their oil wells, take out their cash flow. Then get the Arab countries to step up and do not arm with U.S. dollars and weapons the rebels of today may not be the rebels of tomorrow.

Thank you for the opportunity to let me come to the floor and say my piece. It is going to be an interesting vote. I know the CR will pass. I will be in the minority but it is important we put on the record where we stand on this issue.

Don’t get me wrong. I believe they are a threat to the United States, and when they threaten our assets, our people, we will be on it and we will deal with them.

Yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maryland.

Ms. MIKULSKI. I know the distinguished Senator from Illinois is scheduled to speak.

I just want to make clear that the threat of a shutdown is not an idle threat. I respect the views of the Senator from Alaska, a member of my own party, and if he is going to vote against the CR because he is saying: Oh, it will pass. It is an artificial threat.

The Senator is entitled to his views and certainly his vote on what he thinks is in the best interests of the Nation, but we have to pass the CR, and I would note it is not an artificial threat.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The assistant majority leader.

Mr. DURBIN. There are moments when Members of the Senate have to reflect on the responsibility we are given—extraordinary moments, unlike other votes that we cast—because at least part of this important spending bill has military implications, and it will have a Marketplace influence in the Middle East. Reality tells us people will die if there is conflict. Of course we hope it will be the enemy, but we know better. Even some of our people are at risk to die in any military undertaking. So every Member of the Senate should take this vote seriously, and I am sure they do.

I remember October 11, 2002, as if it were yesterday. I was here in the Senate, weeks away from an election, and we were debating the invasion of Iraq. The buildup to this vote was overwhelming. The President and others—the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense, the head of the CIA, and a long list—had made the case to the American people that there was a continuing threat of mass destruction in the hands of Saddam Hussein; and that if we didn’t move in, strike, and stop him, they could threaten our allies, friends, and even the United States. We debated that and voted on it. It was late at night on October 11, 2002.

I remember that vote as if it were yesterday. At the end of that vote, 23 of us had voted no against the invasion of Iraq—one Republican, Senator Chafee of Rhode Island, and 22 Democrats.

I went down to the well of this Chamber and there were two of my colleagues there, Paul Wellstone of Minnesota and Kent Conrad of North Dakota. I said to Paul, he was up for reelection: I hope this doesn’t cost you your seat—because he had voted no as well.

He said: It is all right if it does. This is what I believe, and this is why I am going to vote. I thought to myself: He may not return to the Senate. Tragically, he did not. He was involved in a plane crash just days later that took his life and the life of his wife and a staff member. But it is the gravity and the importance of this job, of this Chamber, and of this vote.

What we are being asked to do by the President is much different than what we were asked to do in 2002, when it came to the invasion of Iraq. The President has identified a threat to the United States. It is called the Islamic State, ISIL. It is an emerging group that has broken out of extremist groups in the Middle East, and it is on the march.

It is taking all of the tangible assets of cities such as Mosul, raiding their banks, breaking into the vaults, taking their money, taking over oil fields and gas fields—producing a small economy and budget which is growing by the day. This is not the typical terrorist group which we have seen in the late 20th and early 21st centuries, and, in the process, in their wake, they are killing people right and left.

The butchery, the savagery of this group is really unheard of in modern times. It hearkens back to the barbarism of centuries ago. To behead two innocent Americans—can we imagine to do it with a camera running? It is just unfathomable. People are going through even today as they think about this. This is part of their tactics, to intimidate the United States. They have tried to take over the United States. Now they have done it to a British captive, and they promise to do it again. More. They are serious. They want to take over Syria and Iraq. Should we care? Of course we should.

But what did we learn from the invasion of Iraq? What did we learn after spending 8 years there that would bring us back in any way? Well, here is what we learned.

We learned that putting American military on the ground—the best military in the world—is no guarantee of victory. We lost 4,476 American lives in Iraq; over 30,000 came home with serious injuries that still need to be cared for to this day. We added $1 trillion to our national debt because under the previous administration wars weren’t paid for, they were just added to the debt. And we have chaos in Iraq today.

Here is what the President is suggesting, and I think he is on the right track. We are not going to put in ground forces and combat troops. Instead, we will rely on the Iraqi Army to fight for the future of Iraq. We will help them, we will support them with logistics, equipment, direction, air support, but they have to be on the front-line making their lives.

Secondly, he said we are going to put together a coalition.

The United States ought to think twice in this century about how many more Muslim countries we want to be involved in invading, and what the President has said that is my starting point; we will be part of a coalition that includes Arab and Muslim countries that believe, as we do, that ISIL is reprehensible and needs to be fought back.

I think the President’s premise is sound. Not putting in combat troops is essential. Putting the burden on the Iraqis is absolutely critical, and I support him in those three efforts.

The vote today. It is not about Iraq; it is about Syria. What are we going to do in Syria? Syria has just been a free-for-all of violence, terrorism, deceit, and carnage for 3 years. Three million people have been displaced, some 1,500 other military groups. They have neighborhood militias protecting families and neighborhoods.

What the President has called for is a challenge: Find moderate opposition forces who do not align with Assad that are willing to fight ISIL and stop them in Syria. That is our vote. That is what the Title 10 authorization does. It allows the United States to train and equip moderate opposition in Syria to fight these forces. We have some pretty strict language in here—I just took a look at it again and I have read through it a couple of times now—about reporting back to committees: Let us know your progress.

So this is where we are. This continuing resolution will be the law of the land, if it passes, until December 11. If I am not mistaken—the Appropriations Committee chair, Senator Mikulski, nods in the affirmative—until December 11.

So what are we doing now is setting up a course of action in Syria to work with the moderate opposition to train and equip them to fight off this ISIL group. We will be back. After the elections we will back. We will be able to measure the progress that has been made.

Then come December 11, we have a much larger question to ask: What do we do from that point forward? Will we continue the strategy? Assuming we do, I believe—and many of my colleagues share the belief—we have a special responsibility given us by the Constitution that says the American people declare war—not the President—and the American people do it through Members of Congress.

So I will come back and start the debate on it is knowing an authorization for the use of military force—a modern version, a new version applying to this situation—and it will be through the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the Armed Services Committee.

It is a debate that is long overdue. The President has invited us to do this.

He believes he has the authority to go forward, but he said to Congress: If you want to be part of this, I welcome your participation.

Well, let’s accept that challenge. So I will be supporting this continuing resolution. I will be supporting the title 10 authorization until December 11 to start seeing if we can form a force of moderate groups in Syria to fight back on ISIL while we are working in Iraq to do the same. I think we have no choice but to do this—but to do it thoughtfully, without combat troops, with clear accountability and responsibility to this Congress that has faced up to the understanding that there are many Arab and Muslim nations that agree with us that ISIL is reprehensible.

Secretary of State John Kerry told us yesterday they have had meetings with the Chinese, with the Russians, with the Iranians who have spoken up and said: We have to stop this group. They are going to destroy the Middle East. I think we have to take that seriously, and that is why I will be supporting this effort.

I know some of my colleagues disagree. I remember my thinking on that October night in 2002, that we should hold back and not get involved in Iraq, and I think I was right. I think history proves that. If I have looked at that with a critical eye and with the understanding that this is not the end of the debate, this is not the end of the conversation. This is our step forward in ridding the world of this savage group that is killing so many innocent people, and we are going to do it as part of a coalition and alliance. That to me is the thoughtful and sensible way to address this.

We will have time to review our decision on a regular basis, as we should, to hold this President and any President accountable as we move forward. But this is something we absolutely must do as a Nation at this moment in time. So I will be supporting this resolution, H.J. Res. 124, and I urge my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. DURBIN. I also wish to say a word to Senator Kerry, who has been working night and day since he left the Senate, as Secretary of State, and testified yesterday. I know what he is trying to achieve. I salute him for that and of course the President as well.

Let me hope that one thing emerges from this. I remember serving in the House of Representatives, and we voted on the invasion of Kuwait under President George H.W. Bush. I had my questions about that. I voted no. The House voted yes to go forward with that foreign policy. The Speaker of the House, Tom Foley, if I am not mistaken, followed that vote, where we decided to go forward with the Kuwaiti invasion, with a resolution saying that now the foreign policy had been decided by this country, we should stand together in a bipartisan fashion to support our men and women in uniform who were certainly in this to stop what happened, and we all voted for it—even those of us who disagreed with the policy.

Even after this vote on Iraq where 23 of us had voted no, virtually all of us voted yes for the resolution for military needed. My thinking was: DURBIN, even if you disagree with the Iraqi invasion, what if that were your son over there? Wouldn’t you want him to have everything he needs to come home safe? You bet.

What I hope will emerge, even after the heat of debate over this whole question of ISIL and how we deal with them, is this coming together—a bipartisan coming together—behind our troops, behind our pilots, behind those advisers on the ground. Let us show them solidarity behind their effort if we decide to vote to go forward. There is too much partisan division, and it certainly ought to stop at the water’s edge when it involves support for our men and women in uniform.

So at the end of this vote today, I hope we will see emerging a bipartisan consensus that we are going to work as a Nation to accomplish our goal to end this terrorism as best we can or slow it down in this part of the world and stand behind the men and women of our Nation who are willing to risk their lives in service to that cause.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alabama.

EXECUTIVE AMNESTY

Mr. SESSIONS. Madam President, in a few moments Senators in this Chamber will cast one of the most important votes they will ever cast in the Senate.

With this vote, Senators will make a simple but vital decision. It is a decision that will steer the future course of our country and our Congress—and particularly the Senate.

With this vote, Senators will decide whether their allegiance is to President Obama and his agenda, Majority Leader Reid and the liberal borders lobby, or whether their allegiance is to the American worker, the constitutional order, the American people, and this Nation’s sovereign laws.

The choice could not be more clear. Do we as a Nation have the right to control our borders? Do we? That is the question every Senator will be answering today.
President Obama has announced to the entire world that he will implement a sweeping unilateral Executive amnesty—only after the midterm elections, not before, as he promised, because there is concern among his Members of Congress that it won’t be politically popular. This amnesty by Executive order will give work permits—contrary to law—and Social Security numbers—contrary to law—to as many as 5 to 6 million people, the White House tells us, or there are illegally, illegally entered the United States, specifically overstayed their visas or defrauded U.S. immigration authorities.

With a casual stroke of a pen, the President is preparing to nullify the immigration laws of the United States. He is preparing to wipe away the lawful protections which every American worker in this country is entitled to. He is preparing to assume for himself—himself alone—the absolute power to decide who can enter our country, who can work in our country, who can be in our country by the millions, regardless of what the law says, what the citizenry says, and what the Constitution says. These immigration rules—who can come, work, and live in the country—are now prohibited from enforcement. Immigration officers—"are now prohibited from arresting illegal aliens solely on the charges of illegal entry or visa overstays—the two most frequently violated sections of immigration law."

The policies of this administration represent an open invitation to millions who enter the United States on visas each year. People come lawfully on visas for brief periods of time. The president of the ICE officials’ council warned: "ICE agents—Immigration and Customs Enforcement officers—are now prohibited from arresting illegal aliens solely on the charges of illegal entry or visa overstays—the two most frequently violated sections of immigration law."

The policies of this administration represent an open invitation to millions who enter the United States on visas each year. People come lawfully on visas for brief periods of time. The president of the ICE officials’ council warned: "ICE agents—Immigration and Customs Enforcement officers—are now prohibited from arresting illegal aliens solely on the charges of illegal entry or visa overstays—the two most frequently violated sections of immigration law."—The American people are beginning to understand that these policies represent in truth a collapse of immigration enforcement.

What about our asylum system? Here is what the House Judiciary Committee reports on asylum, which is when we accept people from around the globe who are subjected to serious oppression.

Asylum approval rates overall have increased dramatically in recent years. The vast majority of aliens who affirmatively seek asylum are now successful in their claims. At the same time, an internal Department of Homeland Security report shows that at least 70 percent of asylum cases contain proven or possible fraud.

Seventy percent contain proven or possible fraud. Still they are being approved overwhelmingly for entry, and once approved for asylum, they are entitled to all social welfare benefits.

What about our visa screening process, the people who come on visas? Here is what Kenneth Palinkas had to say on that. Mr. Palinkas is the president of the National Citizenship and Immigration Services Council, representing 12,000 immigration case workers and adjudicators at the USCIS. Here is just a fraction of his dramatic report delineating and detailing the problems they are facing today.

USCIS adjudicators are pressured to rubber stamp applications instead of conducting diligent case reviews and investigations. The current system at USCIS encourages all applications to be approved, discouraging proper investigation into red flags and discouraging the denial of any application. USCIS has been turned into an "approval machine."

This is the man who represents the officers doing this everyday, and what he says is true.

Large swaths of the Immigration and Nationality Act are not effectively enforced for illegal immigrants and visa holders, including laws regarding public charges as well as visas for certain periods of time. It encourages them to unlawfully overstayed their visas or defrauded U.S. immigration authorities.

Now consider what will happen to our system of immigration if the President goes through with his plan that he has announced after the election to provide unilateral Executive amnesty by Executive order to illegal workers and visa violators here today. What immigration law will be left after that?

The government is not enforcing the law with respect to visa overstays, illegal entry, illegal work, asylum fraud, document fraud, workplace fraud, and on and on and on. We ignore immigration law for young people, for older people who came with younger people, for the parents of older people who came as younger people, for people with relatives, for people traveling alone, for people traveling with families, who entered before a certain date, for people who entered after a certain date, people who entered through an airport or seaport, for people who do show up in court, for people who don’t show up in court. We have made a million excuses for not enforcing the law.

And when millions more enter illegally asking for their amnesty in the future, asking for their amnesty now that others got before them, will the President print work permits for them, too? What moral basis will remain to deny future unlawful immigrants work authorizations, jobs, and amnesty in the future?

I am sure this will make the activists, the politicians and certain billionaire executives who enjoy dinner parties at the White House, very happy that the President is doing these things. But what about what is good for America? What about what is in the interest of the American people? America, the masters of the universe don’t get to meet at the White House and decide how to run this country.
When the American people learned what was in the Senate amnesty and guest worker bill that doubled the number of guest workers for which every single Senate Democrat voted, the people said no, no, no, and the House stopped the plan. But now the same people who voted this bill as working with the White House to extract the same benefits by Executive fiat, by Executive order. They had at least 20 secret meetings in July and August alone with the White House to plan this strategy. These measures, we are informed, would include a massive expansion in the admission of new foreign workers, including more workers for information technology giants who are laying off Americans, in fact, more than they are hiring. We learned from Rutgers Professor Hal Salzman that two-thirds of all new IT jobs are now already being filled by foreign guest workers. Can you imagine that? We are turning out thousands of IT graduates, but two-thirds of the jobs are being filled by foreign workers, and wages are falling.

Americans wish to see record immigration levels—these high lawful levels of immigration that we have—reduced, not increased, by actually a 3-to-1 margin. But the proposal they are pushing and advocating would double the number of lawful workers while not dealing effectively with the unlawful flow. Yet Senate Democrats are colluding with the White House to support the surge of these numbers. Studies show wage declines among all wage earners since 2009. There is a wage decline among all American workers. Wages have fallen since 2009, but the declines on a percentage basis are the greatest for our lower income workers. The people having the hardest time getting by have received the biggest percentage drop. Does this not concern our leaders? Has no one paid any attention to this fact?

So far our Senate Democratic Caucus has enabled the administration’s lawless scheme every step of the way. Not one Senate Democrat has supported the House plan that would stop this Executive amnesty. The House-passed legislation would bring it up for a vote. Not one has. The Senate passed a bill to block this Executive order, and this entire Democratic caucus.

This Senate has violated the laws that limited spending that we voted for and spent more than allowed. It has blocked amendments to such a degree that the entire heritage of free debate and free rights to amend laws has been violated and damaged substantially in this Senate.

If we leave town without having passed a bill to block this Executive order, then it will be a permanent stain on the Senate, the constitutional order, and this entire Democratic caucus.

I know the pressure is to stay hitched and stay in line, but Senate Democrats must stand up and be counted. The House of Representatives has acted. The American people want action. The House of Representatives passed a bill to block this Executive order, and this entire Democratic caucus.

Mr. CRUZ. Mr. President, we have a crisis in this country. We have a crisis at our southern border that is producing some 90,000 unaccompanied children coming into this country. These kids are being victimized. These kids are being physically and sexually abused by violent coyotes and drug cartels.

The American people understand we have a crisis, and the American people want action. The House of Representatives understands we have a crisis. The House of Representatives has acted. Yet I am sorry to say the majority leader and the Democrats in this body refuse to allow any action to address this crisis.

The crisis at the border is the direct consequence of President Obama’s lawlessness. Just 3 years ago, in 2011, there were roughly 6,000 unaccompanied kids coming into this country, and then in 2012, a few months after his re-election, President Obama unilaterally granted amnesty to some 800,000 people who entered the country illegally as children. The predicted consequence is that if... you grant amnesty to those who enter illegally as children, it creates an enormous incentive for more and more children to enter illegally. As a result, we have seen the numbers go from 6,000 unaccompanied kids 3 years ago to approximately 90,000 this year, and next year, according to Homeland Security, there will be 145,000 little boys and little girls illegally smuggled, victimized, and brutalized.

This needs to stop. We need leadership in Washington. We need leadership in both Houses of Congress. We need leadership from both Republicans and Democrats. Yet not only do President Obama and the Senate Democrats refuse to do anything to solve this problem, but, I am sorry to say, it is even worse.

In recent weeks President Obama told the American people he intends to grant even more amnesty. The first illegal amnesty of some 800,000 people was not enough, so in his view we need more. The second amnesty to 5 or 6 million more people is now quite familiar with because it is what the majority leader has done over and over to shut down every single amendment from every Member of this body.

To be fair, majority leaders in both parties have used this trick in the past. The previous six majority leaders used the procedural trick of filling the tree a total of 40 times. The current Democratic majority leader has used it almost 90 times since 2007. The current majority leader has used it more than double what his six previous predecessors did. Roughly two-thirds of the time this procedural trick has been employed, it has been by the majority leader of this body.

What does that do? What does that do is it says legislation in this body will shut down the right of amendments for every Senator. What it says to the 26 States of New York and California: the State of Massachusetts, the State of Maryland, the States of New York and California. Your views don't matter. Why? Because the majority leader has stripped your Senators of the right to offer any amendment on any topic whatsoever.

The majority leader has done that nearly 90 times—including on this congressional law—that set of laws already on the books. There is no amount of money Congress can spend, there is no new law that could solve this crisis, if the President and the leadership of his party continue down their lawless path.

There are several steps the President can take—and he can take those steps immediately—that do not require any action by Congress or another dime from the American people. The most important action he could take and he can take—and he can take those steps now: he can exercise his prosecutorial discretion and end the DACA program which provides administrative amnesty and work permits to those who have entered the United States illegally as minors. He also needs to resist the temptation to further expand DACA to millions of additional adults and send a strong message to respond quickly by returning those who enter the United States illegally back to their home countries funded.

By announcing to the world that he will not enforce our Nation’s laws by requiring the Department of Homeland Security to process and return those who have already come here unlawfully, the President of the United States is encouraging hundreds of thousands of children and adults to make a very dangerous journey to the United States illegally. He is encouraging families to pay coyotes controlled by drug cartels thousands of dollars to smuggle their children into this country. That is truly the humanitarian crisis we now face.

This continuing resolution—the continuing resolution now before the Senate—provides funds for the DACA Program and any other Executive amnesty the President may choose to implement illegally.

I, along with my friends and colleagues from Alabama and from Texas, wish to offer an amendment prohibiting funding to process prospective applications, but the majority has objected, so we will attempt to table the Reid amendment in order to allow that vote.

The President’s threat to widen the scope of DACA is only going to make matters worse—matters in this pronounced humanitarian crisis we are facing along our border—which is why I agree with my friends, Senators Sessions and Cruz, that, at the very least, we must take steps to prevent the President from providing any more executive amnesty.

ISIS

Now I wish to speak about some other issues related to the continuing resolution and, in so doing, I wish to point out that one of the most important and solemn duties we have as Members of the Senate is to authorize the use of military force and ask the brave men and women in our armed services to put their lives in harm’s way. It is, I believe, a gross dereliction of that duty, and an insult to those same men and women, to tack on a military authorization to this must-pass resolution now before the Senate so Members of Congress can hurry back to their home States. If the United States is going to escalate our involvement in a brutal conflict overseas, if we are going to send American troops to harm and train Syrian rebels for their fight against ISIS, we need to debate that decision on its own merits and not take this up simply as a condition of providing ongoing funding for the Federal Government as a whole. That is the only way for this House to receive the kind of attention and respect that it truly deserves. We owe it to our men and women in uniform to separate any military authorization from this must-pass spending bill to keep the government funded. If that means we do not get home early, so be it. The lives of our troops, the lives of our soldiers, sailors, airmen, and marines, and those who support them, and the security of the United States are simply far too important.

I believe, as does the President of the United States, that ISIS is a threat to the Middle East and will take any opportunity it gets to kill Americans. Every committee has been asked to debate and discuss openly and in an official Senate forum the specifics of the President’s plan. And even those of us who sit on those committees are still in need of much more information. I have had concerns for the past year as a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee with the proposed tactic of arming the Syrian rebels after hearing testimony from our own intelligence and defense leaders that what we are doing to as the “rebels” are, in fact, fragmented and decentralized. Their memberships are fluid and often lacking in common goals, leadership, and levels of moderation.

This is borne out in press reports from the region about, in fact, a few months ago I asked General Austin, the commander of CENTCOM, if the United States would guarantee that the assistance we are supplying to moderates in Syria—the then-nominal aid—is not being used by or to the benefit of extremist groups that want to attack the United States.

His answer was:

No, we cannot guarantee the assistance we provide doesn’t fall into the wrong hands. Undoubtedly, some weapons and funds flowing into Syria wind up in the hands of extremists . . . . The extremists work closely with all factions of the opposition and is often aware of the logistics and humanitarian shipments into Syria. At times, they even acquire and disseminate these shipments to the local populace. This, in turn, boosts the propaganda war.

That is probably why hardly a month ago—just a little over a month ago—President Obama called the idea of arming Syrian rebels a “fantasy”—a fantasy that was, as he put it, “never in the cards.” Now he is seeking authorization for it. In less than a month, what was once a fantasy is now apparently the strategy. What was never in the cards is now not only in the cards but is a card that he is actually playing. And doing so as an afterthought, thrown on to a must-pass bill with an entirely different purpose and function.

On Tuesday in the Armed Services Committee hearing, when I asked Secretary Hagel why the President changed his mind on arming and training Syrian rebels, Defense Secretary Chuck Hagel could not provide an explanation. This is troubling, to say the least. If there has been some change over the last month in national security threats or the capabilities and intentions of Islamic State of Iraq and Syria (ISIS) group, why has the President not shared this with our Secretary of Defense? Or if there hasn’t been a change, then is there some reason other than American national security that may have caused the President to reverse course. The American people deserve answers to these and other related questions.

Another important issue that deserves full and open debate is that this is about more than just arming rebels to fight terrorists. It became clear through answers from administration officials in our Senate Armed Services hearing Tuesday that the Administration believes that a new government and political structure in Syria is needed for these rebel groups to be successful.

No one doubts that President Assad is a tyrant, one who has exacted terrible measures on his very own citizens, but our constituents need to understand—I want to be very clear on this point. If we are indeed standing up and supporting a new government—that the idea of arming Syrian rebels, the potential for new kinds of military action, certainly the ongoing saga in Ukraine or also what is going on in our own country. Students are not being able to afford college, families are not being able to afford to buy a home and wages are frozen. We are pushing people to a standard of living less than what they had.

The people of the middle class are fighting hand-to-hand to stay middle class. Those who might want to get there are seeing opportunity saw down. When we wanted to bring bills to the floor in a regular order and bring up regular appropriations that had both money and policy where people could have debated them in an orderly way, we had cluster bombs of parliamentary procedure thrown on where people hid behind votes on motions to proceed.

Some of the biggest critics today saying, why don’t we stay and debate this, and so on? I don’t think the seriousness of the issues, whether they are about arming Syrian rebels, the potential for new kinds of military action, certainly the ongoing saga in Ukraine or also what is going on in our own country. Students are not being able to afford college, families are not being able to afford to buy a home and wages are frozen. We are pushing people to a standard of living less than what they had.

I am telling you, as I travel in Maryland, my constituents feel Washington means less and less relevance to them. They are also wondering: What is it that you do to get things done? They are asking these questions. You know what, they ought to ask these questions.

I am not going to take up the time. I want to know that other colleagues are coming to speak on the floor. This whole thing about we have to stay and we have to do it—we have to do our business during the whole year. We can’t do it in the last 3 hours, coming up on the crunch of the end of the fiscal year. All year long we have an opportunity to debate. All year long we have the opportunity to debate issues in our committee process and on the floor. I feel pretty strongly about this. I hope that others who feel strongly, too, join a reform effort so we can honor the traditions of the Senate and protect the rights of the minority. But, hey, let’s get back to the majority rules, regular order, and a debate that occurs all year long on issues and not just in a crisis environment.

Ms. MIKULSKI: I object.

The Senator from Maryland.

Ms. MIKULSKI. I have heard a good part of the afternoon: Why can’t we stay and debate this, and so on? I don’t think the seriousness of the issues, whether they are about arming Syrian rebels, the potential for new kinds of military action, certainly the ongoing saga in Ukraine or also what is going on in our own country. Students are not being able to afford college, families are not being able to afford to buy a home and wages are frozen. We are pushing people to a standard of living less than what they had.

The people of the middle class are fighting hand-to-hand to stay middle class. Those who might want to get there are seeing opportunity saw down. When we wanted to bring bills to the floor in a regular order and bring up regular appropriations that had both money and policy where people could have debated them in an orderly way, we had cluster bombs of parliamentary procedure thrown on where people hid behind votes on motions to proceed.

Some of the biggest critics today saying, why don’t we stay here and debate, have been some of the biggest obstacles in insisting on bringing bills up in regular order. So here we are today in the regular order. We have had much enlightened conversation that was actually to hear leaders talk about this and differences of opinions in the most civil way, with intellectual rigor and firmness of conviction.

That is what we should be doing. I would like to see. This is why we need to reform ourselves. We like to talk a lot about reforming the country, changing Barack Obama, but we need to reform ourselves. We need to stop hiding behind cloture votes and motions to proceed, where you need 60 votes to just barely come up and salvage the face. So if you are not going to go into this today, but I think we need to go into this. We need to take a look at ourselves and examine ourselves—how we can keep the traditions the same, protect the rights of the minority. But when all is said and done, the American people are fed up that more gets said than done and more gets said about saying things, and so on.

I am telling you, as I travel in Maryland, my constituents feel Washington Training and equipping a fighting Syrian force is one urgent element in the broader plan.

We in the Senate must provide this authority, as our colleagues in the House did yesterday. In Iraq we have the Iraqi security forces and Kurdish Peshmergas committed to combating ISIL and partnering with us to do so. At this point in time we do not have such a force to partner with inside of Syria.

Let me be clear-eyed about what this challenge is. It is messy and complicated and not at all easy. There is no silver bullet. But without a trained, equipped, and capable moderate opposition force to fill the void, as we conduct airstrikes against ISIL, we would essentially be opening the door to Assad and his Russian- and Iranian-backed regime forces to regain lost territory.

Imagine how our adversaries will celebrate if we fail to build a force that is capable, trained, and committed to defeating the barbarism of ISIL and Assad.

The administration was posed with the question yesterday: Why now? Why train these forces now, 4 years into this civil war?

There are several answers:

First, we have been working with these moderate armed groups for over 2 years now. We know them.

Second, there is no real alternative to building a local opposition force to take the fight on in Syria unless you are talking about American boots on the ground. That is not in play here.

Third, the region is standing with us in training and creating the ability to assist these Syrian rebels. It is truly a remarkable development that Saudi Arabia, for example, is willing to publicly discuss its support and publicly disclose that it will host and contribute to our train-and-equip mission in Iraq.

Fourth, if we do not provide this support, our partners will quietly support from the shadows. They view the threat coming from Iraq and Syria with ISIL with such urgency that they are going public loudly and assertively.

I am clear-eyed about the enormity of the challenge. There is risk. But at this point, given the rapidity of ISIL’s advance and the savagery of its actions, we must be willing to take some risk to degrade this brutal, barbaric organization. The fact is that Sunni neighbors across the region are lining up to join this mission.

The moderate Syrian forces we will train can pressure ISIL in Syria, the Iraqis from Iraq, and we pressure ISIL from the air. The question is, Why now? The response to the question is this: Yesterday I held—as the Presiding Officer knows, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee passed legislation last year to increase lethal assistance to the moderate rebels battling Assad in a bipartisan way. We do not get do-overs, so we cannot change what was not done. We cannot change what has already happened. But we can change what exists on the ground in Syria today. We can influence what happens going forward and work together to set conditions for how it ends.

Yes, Vice President Biden, our exceptional former U.S. Ambassador to Syria, probably our greatest expert on Syria and the rebels particularly, and until recently our senior State Department official working with the moderate opposition—could not have had more knowledge and access. In response to questions I posed to him about whether a moderate armed opposition still exists for us to train and arm, he said: Yes, they exist. Yes, they are already fighting ISIL. Yes, they share our view that a radical, extremist Islamic State should not be imposed on Syria. That conflict will only end with a political deal or negotiated settlement.

In response to questions about whether ISIL is recruitment potential, whether we can find enough fighters who are moderate who will pass our vetting standards to receive our training, he said: Yes. We know them. We have provided them with nonlethal assistance, which they have used responsibly.

By the way, he described them as being pretty resilient in the face of being outgunned, that they are still engaged and fighting for their own future.

He also said: We have talked politics with them, meaning understanding where their mindset is as it relates to the future.

In fact, Mr. Ford said that the problem has always been that there were more willing fighters than there were guns and ammunition.

In response to whether the moderate armed Syrian opposition shares our goal of degrading ISIL, the answer was also affirmatively yes.

The force we train and arm will fight ISIL because ISIL is threatening their supply lines and has butchered hundreds of members of the moderate Syrian opposition. In Syria, the moderate opposition has been mired in a two-front war—one against ISIL and the other against Assad and his regime backers—for years. The language in the amendment to the CR reflects this reality. We are training and arming a force that will defend the Syrian people from ISIL attacks and also promote conditions for a negotiated settlement to end the conflict in Syria—in other words, going after Assad’s security forces.

Finally, Ambassador Ford lamented that if we do not go forward with this proposal to train and equip the moderate armed opposition, Assad will likely become even more convinced that his strategy all along has worked. His strategy is clearly failing. He is the only viable alternative to ISIL and radical extremists and that we will eventually resolve ourselves to working with him.

Let me conclude by saying that the only course of action at this point in time is for us to commit to the grinding work of building a viable alternative, which is the moderate armed Syrian opposition.

The problem is this: We are not going to happen overnight, but it certainly will not happen if there is not a moderate, capable alternative to Assad, a group that is neither radical nor has the barbarism of ISIL, nor the nihilistic, barrel bomb-dropping of Assad.

Imagine how our adversaries will celebrate if we fail to build a force that is capable, trained, and fighting for their own future.

To end the conflict in Syria—in other conditions for a negotiated settlement, it will be difficult and not at all easy. There is risk. But at the end of the day that we can defeat ISIL, but without an open-ended check.

With that, I urge support for the CR.

Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, I wish to express my disappointment about a number of great issues, as Senator Enzi and many other Western States. The continuing resolution before us does not include critical funding that nearly 1,900 counties in 49 States rely on.

Local governments are responsible for providing fire protection, law enforcement, sanitation, public health, and education, to our constituents. They provide these services largely by raising local revenue, including property taxes. In States where there is little federally owned land, local communities have a large number of private homeowners to help provide these services. But in States such as my home State of Wyoming, the Federal Government owns much of the land. The problem is that these Federal lands cannot be taxed. The Payment in Lieu of Taxes program, or PILT, has been in place for decades and is, essentially, the Federal Government’s property taxes. Last year’s omnibus appropriations package did not fund PILT. Instead, the Farm bill provided 1 year of PILT funding. And since Congress has not passed appropriations bills through regular order this year but is leaving fiscal year 2014 funding on autopilot. PILT isn’t addressed in the legislation we are considering today. Yet local governments must still provide critical fire, law enforcement, and health services and for the people who work on them. What are we supposed to tell our communities that rely on this money for 40 to 80 percent of their budgets?

This body cannot fail to address this issue this year. To do so would break a promise we have made and would force communities to reduce or even eliminate the vital resources upon which their citizens rely. But we should not just address the issue for this year. We need to stop playing games with PILT and find a way to ensure it is adequately and fairly funded for years to come in a way that does not rob Peter to pay Paul.

Yes, the Federal Government is out of money. We are going to have to prioritize. But I would submit that PILT needs to be one of those priorities. PILT represents a promise the Federal Government made to counties and local governments all across the Nation. We are looking to see how we will keep that promise. If we fail to do so, it will have an impact on almost every one of our States.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I come to the floor today to express support for the continuing resolution which funds the government through December 11.

One provision in the bill I would like to focus on relates to our fight against the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant, or ISIL. I believe there is an urgent need to confront this terrorist group, and Congress can help this effort by supporting President Obama’s plan and voting for the continuing resolution.

The CR includes a provision to provide the Defense Department with the authority for the U.S. Armed Forces to train and equip an opposition force capable of confronting ISIL.

I believe we must come together in large numbers—Democrats and Republicans—to pass this provision as quickly as possible. A strong bipartisan majority would give the Obama administration and the American people a strong sense of unity and purpose as we all grapple with the threat of ISIL. We must give the President the tools he needs to succeed. Providing the Defense Department with this authority is just one part of the comprehensive strategy, but it is an important one.

The President has said he has the legal authority to conduct airstrikes in Iraq and Syria and has laid out his strategy. After the election there will be ample time to debate the strategy further and potentially vote on a new authorization of military force, but in the meantime, we must pass the authority— at this time the only authority the administration has asked Congress to approve. If ever there were a time to unite behind President Obama, that time is now.

ISIL is like no other terrorist organization we have seen. It has become a ruthless terrorist army that occupies territory and controls civilian populations through fear, intimidation, and brutality.

It controls large swaths of land in two nations. In Syria it controls nearly one-third of the country, and in Iraq it effectively controls as many as 14 cities.

According to a recent CIA estimate, ISIL may have as many as 30,000 fighters— and separately there may be up to 25,000 Sunni tribesmen who have associated themselves with ISIL forces.

ISIL has looted heavy weaponry— including artillery, tanks and armored vehicles—from the battlefield. Much of that equipment is now being used against innocent civilians and our partners on the ground. ISIL has killed tens of thousands of people. They kill with abandon, including the brutal massacre of hundreds of Iraqi and Syrian soldiers, stripped, bound and buried in shallow graves. ISIL is also well-funded through criminality, ransom payments, extortion and the sale of oil. ISIL controls much of the territory and resources is topped only by its level of brutality.

Over the past few weeks, I have personally reviewed photos, videos and personal stories of ISIL’s countless victims. I have read the heartbreaking testimony of Americans and British hostages, and pictures of the crucifixion of many innocent civilians, including a girl as young as 6 years of age. I have seen photos of heads staked on fence posts and films of the mass-execution of Iraqi and Syrian army units. In one gory report, after ISIL took control of two oilfields in eastern Syria from the al-Sha’ita tribe, they summarily executed 700 tribesmen. I have read stories of women bound to trees and forced to be sexual prizes for ISIL fighters who performed well in battle. There are reports that thousands of Yazidi women have been taken as slaves and I have read the testimonials of the few who were lucky enough to escape. They describe being confined, eating only once a day, being given away as wives, raped and abused at the hands of ISIL fighters. I have seen devastating footage of Yazidis and Christians literally running for their lives from approaching ISIL forces, faced with the choice of death or conversion. When one Yazidi girl was surrounded by ISIL fighters, she said, ‘‘I’ve never felt so helpless in my 14 years. They had blocked our path to safety, and there was nothing we could do.’’

The lack of humanity is shocking and despicable. It is pure evil and it should haunt the world. And while ISIL is now limited to Syria and Iraq, it has made clear its intentions are to bring the fight to the United States and our allies.

In Iraq, a major concern of mine is that their next attack will be our enemy. ISIL is planning an attack against the United States, but we also had no clear understanding of al-Qaeda’s specific plotting in the days before 9/11 an attack that would claim nearly 3,000 American lives.

ISIL’s territorial control, resources, brutality and intention to broaden their attacks make it clear that we must act. I support the President’s actions to confront and ultimately destroy ISIL.

As he has said, we will expand air strikes against ISIL targets, including in Syria: maintain a united international coalition— with Arab countries— that will contribute to the fight in a meaningful way; encourage continued political reconciliation in Baghdad to diminish ISIL’s support from Sunni tribes; halt the flow of foreign fighters and resources to ISIL; and provide weapons to the Kurdish peshmerga, Iraqi security forces and moderate forces inside Syria.

Action is currently underway in many of those areas. Air strikes have helped defend key infrastructure such as the Mosul Dam and protected civilians in Amirli and Mt. Sinjar. More recently, the President has expanded the air campaign by going on the offensive and attacking ISIL on the outskirts of Baghdad.

Secretaries Kerry and Hagel have been building a coalition with international partners, including much of Europe and at least 10 Arab nations. New Iraqi Prime Minister Haidar al-Abadi is in the process of finalizing the Cabinet and has made sincere efforts to bridge the sectarian divide. These are all steps in the right direction. Today, the necessary action before us is to pass this CR, which provides limited authority to train and equip a military force to fight ISIL on the ground. The President has ruled out putting U.S. ground forces in combat roles for now, so we must have partners that can take the fight to ISIL. Without such a force, ISIL will continue to enjoy a safe haven in eastern Syria and once ISIL is pushed out of territory, the Assad regime or other extremists could fill the vacuum.

In July 2012, ISIL leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi said: ‘‘The mujahidin have also sworn they will make you suffer more pain than that caused by Usama [bin Laden]. You will meet them in your own country, God willing.’’

In January of this year, during his radio address, Baghdadi added: ‘‘Our last message is to the Americans. Soon we will be in direct confrontation, and the sons of Islam have prepared for such a day. So watch out for us, for we are with you, watching.’’

Finally, in a video posted on August 19, 2014, the executioner of James Foley stated his way: ‘‘O ye, Obama, to deny the Muslims their rights of living in safety under the Islamic Caliphate will result in the bloodshed of your people.’’

We have no specific information that ISIL is planning an attack against the United States, but we also had no clear understanding of al-Qaeda’s specific plotting in the days before 9/11 an attack that would claim nearly 3,000 American lives.

I believe the American people are ready to fight. They want to do the right thing: end this brutal and vicious terrorist organization. And they want us to do everything we can to protect the American people and our allies around the world.”
Bolstering this fighting force is critical to our goal of degrading and destroying ISIL. While it is just one part of the President’s plan, it will work in conjunction with our ongoing diplomatic, intelligence, military and economic efforts.

The continuing resolution includes the authority the Defense Department needs to begin training such a force. The provision also requires the administration to produce a plan to explain how we will reach the moderate opposition, which fits within the President’s larger regional strategy to defeat ISIL. It also requires regular reports to Congress to keep us informed of the training activities.

We already know Saudi Arabia is prepared to host a training program, and I suspect other Arab states will help fund it. But without this authority in this CR, U.S. troops and trainers will not be able to participate in this essential program. Regardless of whether we waited too long to confront ISIL, we now have a strategy that we need to support to turn the tide. U.S. airstrikes in Iraq have protected the people and prevented a humanitarian catastrophe. As we now take the fight directly to ISIL, Congress needs to give the President the tools he needs to ramp up the battle.

This is a matter of national security and I hope members of both parties will come together to support the President’s request.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, the Senate is about to vote on a continuing resolution to fund the Federal Government from October 1 to December 11. This vote should not be necessary. There is no good reason why we are not voting on fiscal year 2015 appropriations bills to fund the government the way we used to rather than a continuing resolution that keeps the government on autopilot despite many new and compelling needs.

Chairwoman McCULLOCH of the Appropriations Committee and her counterpart in the House, Chairman ROGERS, have made this argument as well as any two people could. It is unacceptable that the Congress, which has the power of the purse, fails to use that power in a responsible manner. Passing annual appropriations bills should be a priority for both parties, and I hope that between now and when this short-term CR expires, we can do our job and finish the bills those bills which were reported by the Appropriations Committee months ago—and send them to the President.

Nine months ago, when the fiscal year 2014 omnibus was enacted, no one anticipated the Ebola epidemic, which has infected thousands of people and today threatens all of Africa, thus, there is little funding available to combat it. The Defense Department, USAID, CDC, and others are scrambling to reprogram funds from other important programs.

Nine months ago, no one envisioned the surge in young migrants from Central America, and so the Departments of State, Homeland Security, Justice, Health and Human Services, and the U.S. Agency for International Development are reprogramming funds. But it is not nearly enough to address the horrific gang violence and endemic poverty in the countries that are contributing to the flow of refugees across our border.

Nine months ago, did anyone here predict that ISIS would be routing the regime of Assad, decimating Americans, and seizing control of territory? Did anyone foresee Russia’s intervention in Ukraine? Did anyone foresee that we would be sending U.S. military advisors to Nigeria to help track down hundreds of school girls kidnapped by Boko Haram? There is no money in the budget for any of this, so we are robbing Peter to pay Paul.

Fiscal Year 2015 appropriations bills have been reported out of committee with strong bipartisan support. Let’s debate the amendments. We can vote. That is what we should be doing instead of kicking the ball down the road for another 2½ months.

Obviously, we all recognize the need to keep the Federal Government operating. As much as I disagree with this approach, I would vote for the continuing resolution to avoid a government shutdown. But this vote does far more than that. It authorizes the President under title 10 of the U.S. Code to provide training and weapons to Syrian rebel forces. In other words, we are authorizing U.S. military intervention in Syria’s civil war which for the past 2 years the administration has strongly advised against and doing so by backing that authority onto a short-term spending bill to keep the government operating.

As much as I believe the United States should support the fight against ISIS as a component of the President and Secretary KERRY for their efforts to build a coalition to that end, I am not convinced that the President’s plan to intervene in Syria can succeed. There are too many unanswered questions about the composition, intentions, allegiances, and capabilities of the so-called “moderate” Syrian rebels who, like the Iraqi militias that openly admit to atrocities, are accountable to no one.

There is too little clarity about the White House’s intentions, particularly when there is talk of unilateral air attacks against ISIS by U.S. forces inside Syrian territory. There has been too little discussion of the potential consequences of this strategy for the brutal Assad regime which also opposes ISIS, for the anti-ISIS coalition, or for Iran’s or Russia’s ability to expand their influence in that region.

We have been assured that recipients of U.S. military equipment are vetted and that the use of the equipment is monitored. Yet we have seen U.S. military vehicles and weapons worth millions of dollars in the hands of ISIS and other anti-American groups in Iraq and Libya. Who can say who else has gotten their hands on them, or that the weapons we provide the Syrian rebels will not be used against innocent civilians or end up in the hands of our enemies?

The House resolution we are voting on addresses this issue narrowly, requiring vetting only as it relates to association with terrorists or Iran. It says nothing about vetting for gross violations of human rights, as would be required for assistance for foreign security forces under the Leahy Amendment.

The administration says we need to defeat ISIS. I don’t disagree. ISIS is a barbaric enterprise that has no respect for human life and poses a grave threat to anyone it encounters, including Americans. Yet that is what the previous White House said about Al Qaeda. I don’t disagree; ISIS is a barbaric enterprise that has no respect for human life and poses a grave threat to anyone it encounters, including Americans. Yet that is what the previous White House said about Al Qaeda. Did anyone foresee Russia’s intervention in Ukraine? Did anyone foresee that we would be sending U.S. military advisors to Nigeria to help track down hundreds of school girls kidnapped by Boko Haram? There is no money in the budget for any of this, so we are robbing Peter to pay Paul.

Fiscal Year 2015 appropriations bills have been reported out of committee with strong bipartisan support. Let’s debate the amendments. We can vote. That is what we should be doing instead of kicking the ball down the road for another 2½ months.

Obviously, we all recognize the need to keep the Federal Government operating. As much as I disagree with this approach, I would vote for the continuing resolution to avoid a government shutdown. But this vote does far more than that. It authorizes the President under title 10 of the U.S. Code to provide training and weapons to Syrian rebel forces. In other words, we are authorizing U.S. military intervention in Syria’s civil war which for the past 2 years the administration has strongly advised against and doing so by backing that authority onto a short-term spending bill to keep the government operating.

As much as I believe the United States should support the fight against ISIS as a component of the President and Secretary KERRY for their efforts to build a coalition to that end, I am not convinced that the President’s plan to intervene in Syria can succeed. There are too many unanswered questions about the composition, intentions, allegiances, and capabilities of the so-called “moderate” Syrian rebels who, like the Iraqi militias that openly admit to atrocities, are accountable to no one.

There is too little clarity about the White House’s intentions, particularly when there is talk of unilateral air attacks against ISIS by U.S. forces inside Syrian territory. There has been too little discussion of the potential consequences of this strategy for the brutal Assad regime which also opposes ISIS, for the anti-ISIS coalition, or for Iran’s or Russia’s ability to expand their influence in that region.

We have been assured that recipients of U.S. military equipment are vetted and that the use of the equipment is monitored. Yet we have seen U.S. military vehicles and weapons worth millions of dollars in the hands of ISIS and other anti-American groups in Iraq and Libya. Who can say who else has gotten their hands on them, or that the weapons we provide the Syrian rebels will not be used against innocent civilians or end up in the hands of our enemies?

The House resolution we are voting on addresses this issue narrowly, requiring vetting only as it relates to association with terrorists or Iran. It says nothing about vetting for gross violations of human rights, as would be required for assistance for foreign security forces under the Leahy Amendment.

The administration says we need to defeat ISIS. I don’t disagree. ISIS is a barbaric enterprise that has no respect for human life and poses a grave threat to anyone it encounters, including Americans. Yet that is what the previous White House said about Al Qaeda. Since 9/11, numerous offshoots of Al Qaeda and other terrorist groups have cropped up not only in South Asia but throughout the Middle East and into east and north Africa. And one of those groups, formerly affiliated with Al Qaeda, is ISIS. Some say ISIS is worse than Al Qaeda. If ISIS is defeated, who comes next?

Not long ago the President said the sweeping 2001 authorization for the use of military force against those responsible for the 9/11 attacks should be repealed. Yet the White House recently cited it as a basis for attacking ISIS. Alternatively, the White House says the President has the authority he needs under the 2002 authorization for the use of military force to defeat Saddam Hussein. No objective reading of those resolutions supports that conclusion. Yet here we are about to embark on another open ended war against terrorism, albeit, thankfully, without U.S. ground troops.

Can we help combat ISIS, and we must, but the Governments of Iraq, Saudi Arabia, and others in that region—some of which have vast wealth—need to show they share that goal at least as much as we do, not just by their statements but by their actions.

They should take the lead. We can support them, although Saudi Arabia, besides being a major oil supplier, has supported the worst of the Assad-ism, and that the Governments of Iraq, Saudi Arabia, and others in that region—some of which have vast wealth—need to show they share that goal at least as much as we do, not just by their statements but by their actions.

They should take the lead. We can support them, although Saudi Arabia, besides being a major oil supplier, has supported the worst of the Assad-ism, and that...
The Iraq war was a disaster for this country. The families of Americans who gave their lives or were grievously injured will suffer the consequences for many years to come. It caused lasting damage to our national reputation and to the image and readiness of our armed forces. Yet I worry that other than trying to avoid another costly deployment of U.S. ground troops, we have learned little from that fiasco. The Middle East is no place to intervene militarily without a thorough understanding of the history and centuries-old tribal, religious, and ethnic rivalries that have far more relevance than anything we might think we can achieve.

Does that mean there is no role for the United States in that part of the world? Of course not. But rather than set goals that may or may not be realistic but will almost certainly have profound and potentially dangerous unintended and unanticipated consequences, let’s have a real debate that thoroughly considers all the options, all the costs, all the pros and cons. This is far too important a decision to be dealt with in such a cursory manner.

So I will vote no, with the hope that in November or December we will revisit this issue and have the real debate we are avoiding today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida.

Mr. RUBIO. Mr. President, I know that the hour is late and that my colleague from Oklahoma wishes to speak as well. I know Senators are eager to vote, I will not be long, but I will try to be concise in what I am about to say.

I came to the Senate primarily motivated by many different things, but one of the things that truly motivated me was the fiscal state of our country, the fear that our current spending patterns are not just unsustainable but threaten our future and impede our ability to achieve what I believe is our destiny—another American century.

The Iraq war has been here and I have had an opportunity placed before me to vote on a short-term spending matter, I have voted against it—because I felt they ignored our long-term problems of spending in this country. It did not deal with them in a responsible way.

Once again, today we are confronted with a short-term spending bill that we are asked to approve; otherwise, the government will shut down and the world will stop spinning. But today's question is a little different from the ones that have been posed to us in the past. The one before us today has deeply imbedded in it an issue of national security.

For the better part of 3 years, I have argued that what is happening in Syria is in our national interest. Many, quite frankly, in my own party but also in the White House disagreed with my view. They felt that it was a regional conflict or one that could be handled by limited action for that amount of time until today we have largely watched as events have unfolded in Syria without carefully explaining to the American people why we should care.

But I believed then—and I think I have been proven right by recent events—that what happened in Syria and what was happening in Syria was in our national interests because if we failed to influence the direction of that situation, it would leave open a space for radical jihadists from all over the world to establish an operation space from which they could carry out their plots not just against us but all free and freedom-loving people and peace-loving people.

Sadly, that is what has happened in Syria. A protracted conflict has left open spaces, and foreign radical jihadists from everywhere on this planet have flowed to the deserts of Syria, where they set up organizations not just designed to topple Assad but to establish an Islamic caliphate that oversees multiple countries in the Middle East and ultimately will target us. I say 'target us' because that caliphate cannot exist unless they drive America from the region. The way they intend to drive us from that region is by terrorizing us. Those efforts began recently when we saw the brutal murder of two brave young Americans—including one from my home State—for doing nothing other than being present and being from America.

Now we find ourselves in this situation. I feel the President and, as I said, people in both parties have taken too long to realize what a threat this is. I believe that the options before us now are not as good as they would have been had we dealt with this 2 years ago, 3 years ago, or even 6 or 9 months ago. We have plenty of time in the weeks and months and years to come to debate what should have been done. I anticipate I will be involved in that debate because there are lessons to be learned from that. But today, as leading this country, we are asked to decide what we do now. What do we do now when confronted with a very real threat that, left uncorrected, will become a very real danger for the people we represent here in this country?

President Obama came forward with a plan—a plan that I wish he had come forward with 6 months ago, that I called for 3 months ago. But I suppose, as in most things, better late than never. Even if late may mean that our chances of success have been minimized, even if it will cost more money, and even if it will now take longer, better late than never.

That is the question before us now. I wish we had a separate debate on this issue. I wish we had a separate debate on this issue with regard to arming moderate rebel elements in Syria because there are real reasons to be concerned not just about whom we are arming but whether.

I wish we had more time to debate the broader plan and come before this body and ask for an authorization for the use of force, although I think there is a compelling argument to be made that for immediate action, the President, as the Commander in Chief, does not need that authorization. We were not given that opportunity. What they are cheating is not just the political process for in that debate we would have been able to inform the American people so they too would have learned more about this, but as a nation we could have come to a consensus about what the right thing to do is. But in the end, that is not the opportunity before us now. We are asked to decide things in this Chamber that are in the best interests of our country even if they did not work out the way we wanted them to or did not develop the way we wanted them. That is what is before us here today.

I say this to you without a shadow of a doubt, as I said weeks ago: If we do not confront and defeat ISIL now, we will have to do so later. It will take a lot longer. It will be much costlier and even more painful. We will confront ISIL one way or the other—I believe the sooner, the better.

What we are asked to do now is appropriate funding to arm moderate rebel elements in Syria. There is no guarantee of success. There is none. But there is a guarantee of failure if we do not even try. Try we must for one fundamental reason: If we fail to approve this bill, the President will say that America is not truly engaged, that Americans are willing to talk about this but are not willing to do anything about it.

So despite my concerns about the underlying bill and the budgeting it entails, I will support this resolution because I think it is in the best interests of our national security.
I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time for the minority has expired.

Mr. COBURN. I have an inquiry of the Chair. It was my understanding that I had 4 minutes remaining on our side of the aisle. Our time had simply run out.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is aware of that arrangement.

Mr. COBURN. What I would simply do is ask unanimous consent that I have 7 minutes to make a statement.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Ms. MIKULSKI. If the Senator can stick to 7 minutes, we have no objection.

Mr. COBURN. I can stick to 7 minutes. I will hear the gavel come down and I will quit.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the motion of the Senator from Oklahoma is accepted and the Senator is recognized.

Mr. COBURN. First, I give praise to the chair and the ranking member of the Appropriations Committee for the cooperative nature of the committee this year in terms of inserting good government amendments into appropriations bills. It was a real pleasure to be able to work with them and to put some of the oversight results that we have done over the past few years into appropriation bills.

The bill we have on the floor, even though the chair is supporting the bill, is not her bill. It is a bill that came to her from House Republicans. So any criticism I might have of the bill is certainly not directed toward the chair of the Appropriations Committee. But it is important to be reminded of what the Congress told the American people less than 2 years ago, that we were going to go on a diet, and then 1 year ago, that we had the Ryan-Murray agreement.

I will outline where we are with what we are getting ready to vote on, because we are about $47 billion above what we agreed to in the Ryan-Murray budget, and that doesn’t include emergency funding.

Appropriators didn’t write this bill. This bill came out of the House. We understand the timing of it, we understand the process. But this bill doesn’t keep us on the path to the American public that we said we were going to keep.

That is No. 1.

No. 2 is the chair of the Appropriations Committee attempted to put bills on the floor, and she was open to amendments Committee who made that decision to use false savings. They are not real savings.

So we are not going to be honest.

Well, I am going to be honest. The American public, the Senate, and the authors of this bill in the House will be lying to you if you believe the numbers in this bill. They are not true.

That is not the chair of the Appropriations Committee who made that decision, it was the House appropriators who made that decision to use false savings to create a false set of achievements.

Finally, and I think I am about out of time, I would say there is one other aspect that disturbs me about this bill.

We have a mess in the Middle East today. Sitting on the Intelligence Committee and sitting on Homeland Security, I don’t disagree we ought to be involved in terms of getting after ISIS, but I think we ought to recognize that we created the problem in the first place. We created a vacuum that allowed that to flourish.

I will state my assessment of where we are. We now have recognized this threat and we have a political plan but no real policy plan to confront ISIS.

Having just heard from both the head of the CIA and also the Defense Department in response to the President’s plan, what I can tell you is we know that something needs to be done, but your government doesn’t yet know what to do.

I know there is authorization for monies in here. We need it. We are going to have to fight it. But let’s be very clear, as Members of this body, to ask the important questions so that we don’t go down a road that is made even worse. We have the brain power in the Senate, the experience, and the gray hair to do that.

I ask my colleagues to be very careful with this; this is going to happen. This CR is a terrible way to run the government. The appropriations chair doesn’t want to run it this way, but let’s be very careful on the questions we ask in the future.

I thank the chair of the Appropriations Committee for her kindness in yielding me the time.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Ms. HITEKAMP). The Senator from Maryland.

Ms. MIKULSKI. I hope to say a few words to the Senator from Oklahoma before he leaves the floor. We are in the closing hours of not only this debate but of this session of Congress. I say to the Senator from Oklahoma, as a brin thinking about the end of his time in Congress, I think back to his time served in the Senate, the experience, and the gray hair we have the brain power to do that.

I thank the Senator for his service in the Senate.

Also, hopefully, when we return, we can work on an omnibus to incorporate the very reforms around waste, duplication, and folly that we worked together on on a bipartisan basis.

Mr. COBURN. I thank my colleague, Ms. MIKULSKI. Madam President, we are in the closing hours of debate. There are two other Senators who will be coming to speak. I hope they will be here sooner. There is a lot going on, and I want to encourage colleagues, as we get ready, to urge a vote on passage of the continuing resolution.

This measure will keep government going through December 11. But make no mistake, this is government on auto pilot.

I hope to be back in December, shoulder to shoulder with Senator SHELBY, whose work on a comprehensive funding legislation—in other words, an omnibus—

This is Washington speak. I mean, really, we use words nobody understands: continuing resolutions, omnibus, monies to do this,_count on the President. In plain English, it would mean taking all 12 subcommittees that are in charge of funding the government through due diligence and putting together a comprehensive funding bill that can be debated, scrutinized, debated, and voted on.

We have done our work over the year. I am very proud of my subcommittee chairman, the ranking members who have put bipartisan bills, and their staffs. We can do an omnibus when we come back that will enable us to make the choices we need to do, meet our national security needs, the compelling human needs of the country, and we have an opportunity ladder for our people who are middle class to stay there or those who want to work hard to do better to be able to get there, and to also make those investments in innovation, research, and development that create the new ideas for the new jobs that keep us as an exceptional Nation.

I do hope we get final passage. I do hope also when we return after the election, we can do this comprehensive funding bill.

Again, I thank Senator SHELBY of Alabama and all of the other members of the Appropriations Committee who worked so hard with the ranking members. We had a series of debates and votes. We worked very hard. Yet I wish people would come to our committees, as they were categorized by civility, intellectual rigor, and scrutiny of IG and GAO reports. We worked very hard to accomplish the mission of those agencies to keep our government strong and to get value for the taxpayer.

Again, thanks to my colleagues on the other side of the aisle, led by Senator SHELBY of Alabama.

I yield the floor and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

DEBBIE SMITH REAUTHORIZATION ACT OF 2014

Mr. LEAHY. I see my good friend, the senior Senator from Texas, on the floor, and I am about to ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of H.R. 4323.

Before I do, Senator CORNYN has been very interested in this. This is the Debbie Smith Reauthorization Act. I have been working with Debbie Smith since her bill was first introduced in 2001. He is probably one of the few Senators who was here with me at that time when I first supported it. It is to improve access to rape kits, testing, and services for survivors of sexual assault.

Senator CORNYN has been a strong supporter. I know he also supports the Justice for All Act as well, something he cosponsored, and the distinguished Republican leader has.

I would like to get them all passed. I realize one Republican—not the Senator from Texas—is objecting to passing the Justice for All Act, and I don’t want to pit one against the other.

Because at least this one expires this month, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of H.R. 4323, which was received from the House.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerks will report the bill by title.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 4323) to reauthorize programs authorized under the Debbie Smith Reauthorization Act of 2004, and for other purposes.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the bill be read a third time and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements related to the bill be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. McCONNELL. Simply reserving the right to object, and obviously I am not going to object, I am very happy we could do this important piece of legislation. I have had an opportunity to get to know Debbie Smith pretty well, as Senator CORNYN and Senator LEAHY have. We have met on several occasions.

The bill passed the House of Representatives a few months ago on a voice vote. We tried to clear it when it came over here. Unfortunately, there was an objection on the other side of the aisle. But I am glad we are where we are and that the bill will be reauthorized.

It is certainly fitting for Congress to pass this bill that is named for such a tireless advocate for those who suffered this terrible abuse.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. CORNYN. Madam President, reserving the right to object, and I won’t object, let me use this occasion to say to the chairman of the Judiciary Committee how much I appreciate his leadership and cooperation.

Obviously, Senator McCONNELL, Senator LEAHY, and I are all cosponsors of the bigger piece of legislation, the Justice for All Act. I share Senator LEAHY’s concern that this bill is sponsored by the Republican leader—that we pass that today. But since we can’t do that, and since we are engaged in the art of the possible, this is a good outcome—not just for Debbie Smith, who, as we have all heard, has been a tireless advocate for testing this backlog of rape kits, which holds extraordinary power to both identify the perpetrators in sexual assaults and exonerate people who are not implicated by a DNA test, but as we know, we have had a huge backlog, and the Debbie Smith Reauthorization Act renewal is bipartisan legislation that will provide funds for law enforcement officials to deal with the national scandal, which the rape kit backlog is.

Amidst the frustration we all experience in the Senate from time to time, this is good news and this represents progress.

I will agree with the unanimous consent request. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maryland.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Reserving the right to object—and obviously I too won’t—on behalf of all the women of the Senate, I thank Senator LEAHY for his consistent, persistent leadership on this issue, and Senator CORNYN.

This is how the Senate ought to work—on a bipartisan basis, meeting a compelling need, and then being able to move it in an expeditious way. But for rape victims everywhere to know that we can deal with this backlog and because good men stood up for women who have been wronged really is one of the edifying moments of today.

I thank the Senators for it and withdraw my objection.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The request is agreed to.

The bill (H.R. 4323) was ordered to a third reading, was read the third time, and passed.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, I will continue to work with the distinguished senior Senator from Texas on the Justice for All Act. Ninety-nine Senators agree to pass it and only 1 is objecting. It requires a rollcall vote when we come back in November. I hope we can have that rollcall vote perhaps in a timely rotation. And with 99 Senators who say they support it, the 1 Senator who has been blocking it can vote against it. But those of us who have been in law enforcement know how important it is.

I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

CONTINUING APPROPRIATIONS RESOLUTION, 2015—Continued

Ms. MIKULSKI. Madam President, how much time do we have remaining? The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is 3½ minutes.

Ms. MIKULSKI. In the spirit of moving the bill forward, I yield back all remaining time.

AMENDMENT NO. 3852

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the question is on agreeing to the motion to table amendment No. 3852.

The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. JOE BIDEN. Foreign policy advisor to then-Senator Joe Biden.

In sum, the nominee before us today is a long history of experience working on non-proliferation issues. It remains a priority of mine to enact a national policy to store our nuclear waste. Nuclear waste is piling up all around the country and we are losing millions of dollars every year in the absence of a coherent policy. This is why I have introduced and will continue to push, legislation which establishes an interim national policy to safely store our nuclear waste.

It should be obvious that this is precisely the type of issue that Dr. Sherwood-Randall will be adept at navigating, and I look forward to working with her on this and many other issues.

In sum, the nominee before us today is an accomplished and a dedicated American public servant.
It is with great pleasure that I support her nomination today and I thank my colleagues for their vote to confirm her.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will now resume legislative session.

BANK ON STUDENTS EMERGENCY LOAN REFINANCING ACT—MO

Mr. CHAMBLISS. I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TRIBUTE TO MARTHA SCOTT POINDEXTER

Mr. CHAMBLISS. It is with great pride and a touch of sadness that I stand here today to pay a special tribute to Martha Scott Poindexter, my dear friend and trusted confidant. Martha Scott is leaving the staff of the Senate after a long and distinguished career in public service.

Martha Scott has dedicated most of her professional life to the Congress, serving over 20 years in both the House of Representatives as well as the Senate. She was with me in my first agricultural hearing in the House, and as I prepare to retire from the Senate this year, she was with me today in one of my last hearings as the vice chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence.

I owe much of my success as a legislator to Martha Scott. She has served as my legislative assistant in the House, legislative director when I first entered the Senate, and later as my staff director for both the agriculture and intelligence committees.

It is no exaggeration to say that Martha Scott is one of the brightest, most talented, and well-connected individuals on Capitol Hill. She is a natural leader and manager who exemplifies a tremendous character and dedication that traditionally defines the term a public servant.

Martha Scott is an enthusiastic team player with a special talent for finding solutions to complex problems and rallying support behind her. Those are enormously helpful traits on the Hill, especially in recent years when it seemed as though finding solutions has taken a back seat to partisanship.

But those are not the characteristics that define Martha Scott. Rather, those who work with her and who have known her professionally and personally are most often struck by her tremendous heart and kindness. Her infectious laugh always brings a smile to the faces of friends nearby. This place just won’t be the same without it.

Above all, she is a good person, loyal to the cause, and committed to always doing what is right. All she asks in return is that people say her first name correctly, Martha Scott. It is not Martha. We Southerners can be very particular that way, and we like double names. What began in the junior position in the office of Senator COCHRAN nearly 24 years ago blossomed into a distinguished public service career that is nearly unmatched by our peers. Martha Scott has served and been involved in so many historic events and helped author legislation that has touched and impacted the lives of all our citizens, but don’t expect Martha Scott to tell anybody that. That is just not her style.

Whether it is her work on the Committee on Appropriations, the Committee on Agriculture, the Select Committee on Intelligence, or as a member of my personal legislative staff, Martha Scott has selflessly committed herself to the people we represent, whether it is the cotton farmer from the Mississippi Delta, the soldier in Afghanistan, or the thousands of intelligence professionals who serve our country every day.

Martha Scott has always kept our Nation’s best interests at heart.

Finding a natural love of politics and policy drove Martha Scott to be a key player in the legislative process that touches everyone’s life, through the last 25 years, as well as the recent controversial debates on cyber security and intelligence collection.

My colleagues and I trust Martha Scott’s judgment impeccably. Her exceptional performance has earned our respect and admiration, and it has inspired a generation of staff members who have had the privilege to work with her and learn from her. Her legacy will remain a part of the Senate for many years to come.

Martha Scott has a profound commitment to family and her roots in the delta define her. Growing up on the family farm provided a strong foundation, and work ethic that one only gets in rural Mississippi.

Guided by her loving parents and the constant support of her sisters, Martha Scott has not only won the admiration of those for whom she has worked, but for those who have worked for her.

To her husband, Robert, we thank you for allowing us to take up so much of her time, especially in this very special year. My colleagues and I owe a deep debt of gratitude to each and every member of Martha Scott’s family.

Martha Scott has been a part of my staff for 20 years, which means she has been a part of my family for 20 years. She has watched my children mature and my grandchildren grow up, and they have all come to know and love her. She has been an inspiration to so many people, but most importantly she has been an inspiration to me. While everybody is going to miss her, I am the one who is going to miss her the most.

So Martha Scott, to you we say: Congratulations on a life after the Senate. Just know how much, No. 1, we are going to miss you, but secondly and most importantly, your country is going to miss you. We appreciate your tremendous commitment and service to our country.

God bless you and God bless your family.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware.

THE UNITED STATES POSTAL SERVICE

Mr. CARPER. Mr. President, as we finished the last series of votes we were talking about the range of difficult issues we face in this chamber, also in our country—a series of issues including what to do about ISIS and how to confront this latest threat, whether or not to provide aid to the moderate rebels in Syria and what form should that aid take, continued concerns that flow from Ukraine, and the areas there along the border with Russia, cyber attacks, data breaches, Ebola outbreaks, folks trying to get into our country from all different directions, especially from Central America, and hard issues to deal with. Try though we may, it is hard to fix them.

As my colleague who serves with us on homeland security knows, it is a busy neighborhood where we have jurisdiction. It is not that the problems are intractable. They are just hard issues, and some of them may take years to fully resolve.

But I might say as well, the economic recovery has continued now for 5 years and it has been stop and go. Every now and then we have some great encouraging news, and sometimes it is less so. But today we have encouraging news.

I wish to talk a little bit about this as we talk about the economy and lead into a discussion of where the postal system of our country actually has played a role in strengthening our economic recovery.

Every Thursday, as my colleague knows the Department of Labor puts out information. Among the things they promulgate on Thursdays is how many people filed for unemployment insurance in the last week. They put this every Thursday, except maybe on Thanksgiving or maybe on a Christmast.

On the Thursday of the week that Barack Obama and Joe Biden were sworn in as President and Vice President, they put out a number that said 628,000 people filed for unemployment insurance. Any time that number is above 400,000, we are losing jobs in this country, and any time it is under 400,000, we are adding jobs in this country. It was 628,000 that week 5½ years ago.

Slowly but surely, that number has dropped and has continued to drop. It bounces up and down a little bit. Since it may go up and down from week to week, we do a 4-week running average and that kind of balances out the blips. The number has dropped from 628,000 people 5½ ago to 400,000 people and to 300,000 people. We got the new report today from the Department of Labor, and 280,000 people filed last week for unemployment insurance.

Why should we feel so good about that? Because that number is the lowest we have been below 400,000 since the year the recession actually began—certainly since 2009. That would suggest as kind of a forerunner what will come in for the job numbers for the month of September, which we will get at the beginning of October. I am encouraged by that.

There are a number of things we can do and ought to do to continue to strengthen the economic recovery. I won’t go into all those, but one I want to mention deals with the U.S. Postal Service. Not everybody says the Postal Service has much to do with the economy, but it does. There are about seven million or 8 million jobs in the United States that depend to one extent or the other on having an efficient, vibrant Postal Service.

For a number of years, the Postal Service has been struggling in some cases to survive. The Postal Service has cut, cut, cut in order to try to right-size their enterprise. In the last 10 or so years they have reduced their workforce from almost 900,000 to about 500,000—or almost in half. They have reduced the number of processing centers across the country from about 600 or 700 mail processing centers to actually less than half that, a little over 300. They have closed 25,000 to 40,000 post offices across the country, and over 10,000 of those today—they haven’t really closed post offices, but what they did is a bunch of offices that didn’t do much business, those post offices are still open in many cases, but they are open 2 hours, 4 hours, 6 hours a day rather than 8 hours a day with a fully paid postmaster. So they have found a way to not close a lot of post offices but to reduce their costs there, and they are still struggling. Every 3 months are out with their financial reports, and the financial reports indicate they are either losing money or may be close to breaking even.

As the Presiding Officer knows, this is an issue I think about a whole lot. He does, too. The Senator from Alaska and their colleague from Alaska, along with his colleague from Alaska, are still struggling. Every 3 months they are out with their financial reports, and the financial reports indicate they are either losing money or may be close to breaking even.

So what did the Postal Regulatory Commission do? They agreed to let the Postal Service raise the rates, which works out to a 4.3-percent increase. It is not permanent, but it is for a period of maybe a year. The Postal Service is asking us to make that 4.3-percent increase in their new permanent revenue baseline.

What does that mean for mailers if we make it permanent? For folks who are nonprofit—we always get mail from nonprofit organizations. That is part of the whole reason that the Postal Service is so successful. It is the way to run elections. The Postal Service is asking us to make that 4.3-percent increase—has gone up from 10 cents a letter to 11 cents. It has gone up by one penny. I believe the cost of mailing a magazine has also gone up by one or two pennies, from approximately 25 to 27 cents. The cost of mailing a catalog has gone up by one or two cents, from approximately 45 cents to 47 cents, and that is with the 4.3-percent increase.

The Postal Service has said to the Congress: Allow that temporary 4.3-percent increase to remain and to become part of our revenue baseline. I think we should do that. I know a number of other mailers do as well.

That is one of the things they are asking us to do. Among the other things they are asking us to do is they want to actually deliver items they haven’t been able to deliver before, including wine, beer, and spirits. FedEx and UPS can do that, and postal services in many other countries can do that. Our Postal Service cannot do that. It is not to balance their budget for them, but it would make a big difference. I believe it could be worth a couple million dollars a year in profitability. That is something they would like to be able to do.

FedEx is not interested in being Google or Apple or any company like that. It is not interested in being a postal service to all people. There are a couple things they can do and would like to do that would work into the digital economy. They are not big deals, but they make sense with respect to the Postal Service and their capabilities and would actually enable them over time to make some revenues as well.

The Postal Service delivers ballots, initially in Oregon, later in Washington State, and this year in Colorado. People can file their taxes absent and vote by mail in Oregon and vote by mail in Oregon. They do it in Washington State. This year they are starting to do it in Colorado.

What we have learned from experience is that folks who vote by mail vote more often, more frequently, and what we hear from States that do this is that it is actually a cost-effective way to run elections. The Postal Service would like to do more of that, and we should encourage that as well.

Another area that the Postal Service might have some opportunities is they would like to collocate more operations with State and local governments in small communities where they have space at the post office and get State and local folks to locate some activities there.

One great idea they had in some of the bigger, more densely populated places is that the Postal Service has opened up large facilities—not like a regular post office—where people can go get passports. There is a facility on the outskirts of L.A. where over the course of the day hundreds—maybe even 1,000 people or more come in and get their passports. It is a service that is provided. The Postal Service makes some revenue from doing that.

If we ever pass comprehensive immigration reform and we have 10 million or so people in this country who are here undocumented—and immigration reform doesn’t give them the right to citizenship, it doesn’t make them a citizen, but I think if the Senate passed an immigration reform bill, it would give the Postal Service an opportunity for people to have some kind of legal status. How are they going to get that? Where are they going to get that?

If we passed immigration reform, there would be an opportunity for the Postal Service to offer delivery in every community in our Nation and which already does a passport business for a lot of people, to help meet that need, and my hope is they will have that opportunity.

There are some things they are asking us to do. In short, what they are asking us to do is to give them the ability to generate revenues and to be able to meet their capital needs.

The Postal Service needs to be capitalized. They need new vehicles. They have 190,000 vehicles.

We have this chart. This is 2014, and down here is about 10 years down the road. What we are looking for is to provide money over this 10-year period of time to the Postal Service, which is in every community in our Nation and which already does a passport business, which is in every community in our Nation and which already does a passport business, to make them competitive. One of the ways to make them competitive is with respect to vehicles. They have 190,000 vehicles. The average age is 22 years.

I have a 13-year-old Chrysler Town and Country minivan. Yesterday I drove it down here from Wilmington, DE. I usually take the train. The train was down 2 days ago. I drove home last night and it just went over 377,000 miles. Most Postal Service vehicles are not 13 years old like my minivan; they are almost twice as old and easily have twice as much mileage as my minivan. My wife thinks I ought to trade in my minivan, and since the day I will. We should give the Postal Service the wherewithal to trade up—not just to get new, more energy-efficient vehicles that may have twice the fuel economy and reduce emissions but also vehicles that are sized for the products the Postal Service delivers. In this digital economy, it is an opportunity for the Postal Service to deliver a lot more packages and parcels of all kinds.

They are delivering groceries in a number of places around the country, and they need vehicles that are sized differently and that are more ergonomically appropriate for the folks who are driving the vehicles.

This is a new technology. Anybody buying a new car lately knows the technologies that are in vehicles. It is amazing what we can do. I wouldn’t know that, given the age of my vehicle, but my friends tell me about the amazing things they can do with theirs.

Postal vehicles are the world’s largest delivery vehicles. A vehicle that is 22 years old, there are not many gee-whiz technology items on those vehicles, but there could be. As an example, let’s say my desk here defines a rural area for delivery for a letter carrier someplace around the country. It could be Alaska; it could be Delaware. As the rural letter carrier covers this area, the technology is available so that the residents somewhere along there could pick up a package here or leave a package there for the general public. How could we communicate with their customers in any number of ways and provide better customer service.

Additionally, when you walk into a post office these days, for the most part they look similar today to what they did 5, 10, 15, 20 years ago almost without exception. There are so many things we can do in terms of technology to provide better services at post offices that we are not doing.

We can provide better, more efficient services and friendlier services as well. We have 25 mail-processing centers in the country. I visited one of them with Senator Heidi Heitkamp in North Dakota about 3 or 4 months ago. We visited this small mail-processing center in her beautiful State. We went into the back operating area of the mail-processing center, and there was a fellow there who was about 50 years old. He was lugging around these big boxes. The next day, I was carrying them around and trying to get them over to a barcode reader, and he was putting them in a huge pouch so they could be mailed.

There is equipment that could readily process big boxes like that, smaller packages, and parcels. We don’t have equipment like that in most of our mail-processing centers. If we did, we could offer better, faster, timelier, more cost-effective service.

This is where we can use the Postal Service, among the things the Postal Service could do if they had $30 billion over the next 10 years is replace their larger, more densely populated places with smaller, more cost-effective service.

We are trying to do with the Postal Service. The things the Postal Service could do if they had $30 billion over the next 10 years is replace their fleet of 190,000 vehicles with more energy-efficient vehicles that are appropriately sized for the kinds of packages they deliver. The approximately 300 mail-processing centers could be retrofitted with mail-processing equipment that actually reflects what the mail service delivers in the 21st century. The post offices themselves could have the same equipment. There is new technology and investments that would enable better service as well. That is what the Postal Service could do if they had the money.
Sometimes when people think of the Postal Service they think the Postal Service is not really innovative; they don’t come up with a bunch of ideas. It turns out that they are even more innovative than I and a lot of other people thought they were.

I want to mention a couple of things they have begun doing that I think are noteworthy. They ought to be able to do more. If they could, they actually could make money and have the money to make capital investments and not be a burden to taxpayers of this country.

This morning in San Francisco, CA, at around 3 a.m., in 32 ZIP Codes, the U.S. Postal Service delivered groceries to people. They delivered them to homes, in some cases to businesses, to apartments, to high-rises. They delivered groceries. They also delivered the mail later in the day, but from 3 a.m. to 7 a.m. the Postal Service in 32 ZIP Codes delivered groceries. They have been doing it for over a month, and I understand they are doing it for Amazon. I understand Amazon is pleased and the Postal Service is pleased with it. Amazon customers like it, and the Postal Service can do this and make money. It is not doing anything else with the trucks from 3 a.m. to 7 a.m., and it just works. It just works.

The Postal Service is doing this for Amazon, but they are reaching out to 100 grocery chains across the country and asking, ‘is this what we do for Amazon in San Francisco. How would you like us to do this for you?’

My guess is this will turn into a good piece of business, but they need the vehicles to enable them to do this, and they need money for capital investment.

Some people think the only thing the Postal Service has done creatively in years is flat-rate boxes. You know, if it fits, it ships. It is a great product. It is still growing by around 4 or 5 percent a year. But there are a bunch of other things they can do and want to do. They need money for capital investment.

About a year ago they started delivering for Amazon—not everywhere but in a couple hundred ZIP Codes—on Sundays. It worked pretty well. And this past Sunday they delivered packages and parcels through Amazon—not to 200 ZIP Codes but I think to over 5,000 ZIP Codes. They enables them to do next-day delivery that includes Sunday. It is a nice piece of business and it is growing, but in order to continue to grow it, the Postal Service needs vehicles that are right-sized for that sort of business and a lot of them, potentially a lot of them.

Another thing the Postal Service is doing—and this is a product which I have used and a product which I think is going to have growing utilization across the country. It is called Priority Mail Express.

I went to a post office in Delaware not long ago. I wanted to send my sister a Mother’s Day gift.

I said: I want this to get there in 2 days. They asked: Do you want it insured? I said: Not really.

They said: Well, if you send it by Priority Mail Express, we can guarantee delivery in 1 day, or we can guarantee delivery in 3 days. We can track it for you for free.

And I think they said the first $100 of insurance is free.

I said: This is great. I will take 2 days. The Insurance is fine.

As it turns out, I am not the only person who is using Priority Mail Express. It is available not just 2 or 3 days a week. It is available for delivery 7 days a week. If somebody has something they want to mail this Saturday and have it delivered on Sunday, they can do so with Priority Mail Express. They can do it and get next-day delivery. They can do it and get free tracking. They can get insurance up to $50 or $100 on whatever is being mailed. That is going to be a great product. I think it is going to make flat-rate boxes—well, not look like a second-class citizen, but it is going to make flat-rate boxes look modest by comparison.

These are the sorts of things our folks at the Postal Service like to do—to deliver not only mail but to deliver groceries, to be able to deliver tomorrow, deliver on Sunday. And it is true that in a day and age that we worry about postal service going from 6 days a week to 5, that right now they are a 7-day-a-week operation. I think there is reason to believe they will grow even more.

There are some who say that rather than passing the sort of legislation the Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee reported out on a bipartisan vote earlier this year, there is some alternative legislation. We should simply give the Postal Service the money to let them do what they do. I think people thought they were.

I wish to close by saying that I am more hopeful note, and I say to the members of our committee, and especially to the Presiding Officer, thanks for trying to make sure the Postal Service continues to be a linchpin within our economy, whether it happens to be Alaska, Delaware, or even South Dakota.

I want to say that I do agree that the time has come to act and that is exactly what we will enable them to do.

With that, I will yield the floor. I don’t know if the Senator from South Dakota would like to take the floor, but I do want to thank you.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Dakota.

CELEBRATING THE 125TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE STATE OF SOUTH DAKOTA

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, I rise today along with my colleague from South Dakota, Senator JOHNSON, to commemorate South Dakota’s 125th anniversary of Statehood. One hundred twenty-five years ago, on November 2, 1889, President Benjamin Harrison shuffled the Act of Admission Papers for North and South Dakota to ensure that no one knew which State entered the Union first. To this day, we still don’t know which act President Harrison signed first.

South Dakota is perhaps best known as the home of the Shrine of Democracy at Mount Rushmore, which opened to the public just 50 years after South Dakota attained statehood. This monument captures the way of life and governance structure that we have in South Dakota. Our elected officials take the concerns of their constituents to heart and ensure that our State is bettering the lives of its citizens in a fiscally responsible manner.

We believe in limited government which provides room for individuals and businesses to grow and thrive. Our model of free enterprise has allowed businesses to flourish in South Dakota, and as a result, is one of the best States in the country to start a business.

We consistently have one of the lowest unemployment rates in the country, which is currently at 3.7 percent. Our labor force and our economy are driven by our State’s top industries of tourism and agriculture. The 28,000
South Dakotans who work in our tourism industry ensure that people from all over the world enjoy our great places. Tourists enjoy visiting Mount Rushmore, of course, but also seeing the sights throughout the Black Hills and the Badlands, the Corn Palace in Mitchell, the Crazy Horse Memorial, and the falls in Sioux Falls.

In addition to welcoming Americans from coast to coast, South Dakota is feeding our Nation and our world. Each year, one South Dakota farmer produces enough food to feed 158 people. South Dakota ranks in the top 10 States for wheat, corn, soybeans, alfalfa, and sunflowers. We are also in the top 10 States of bison, honey, sheep, and beef. In all, South Dakota’s agriculture industry contributes $26 billion annually to our economy.

While the productivity of our farmers and ranchers is unmatched, all hard-working South Dakota families contribute to our State’s success. Whether they are educating our children, serving in our growing health care and financial services sectors, conducting research in our college laboratories, hard work is what binds South Dakotans together and has made our State’s experiment of help each other when disaster strikes.

Today I wish to honor the spirit that has endured in our State for the last 125 years by celebrating this special anniversary.

CELEBRATING SOUTH DAKOTA’S 125TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. President, today, I join with my colleagues, the junior Senator from South Dakota, in celebrating the birth of our home State, which entered the union 125 years ago on November 2. I’m a fourth generation South Dakotan, and my great-grandfather was a homesteader in what was then known as the Dakota Territory. As I have learned growing up in Canton and from the generations of my family that came before me, being a South Dakota instills in oneself a unique kind of work ethic and a drive to do good unto others.

South Dakotans know how to deal with adversity. We know how to help each other when disaster strikes. Last year, a devastating blizzard hit much of western South Dakota, causing millions of dollars in damage and killing tens of thousands of head of livestock. Without blinking an eye, neighbors were out helping neighbors who lost power. They donated their time and money to help ranchers who lost their livelihoods. Recovery would not have been possible without the inherent attitude that South Dakotans have to help one another.

South Dakotans also have a lot to celebrate this year. The ag industry has driven our economy, creating jobs and spurring economic development in rural communities. Our State also boasts some of the Nation’s most popular tourist destinations including the Badlands, the Black Hills National Forest, the world’s only Corn Palace, and some of the best pheasant hunting in the country. Mount Rushmore in the Black Hills also symbolizes democracy and enables all Americans to remember and celebrate our history. The Crazy Horse Monument, which is still a work in progress, honors the legendary Lakota warrior. South Dakota is also home to nine Native American tribes, each having its own distinct cultures and traditions.

There is an awful lot to be proud of in our State, from the attitude we have as individuals to what we have built during our 125 year history. Throughout this year, South Dakotans have taken part in a number of activities to celebrate our State’s history, heritage, and the celebrations will continue in the weeks ahead. I am honored to play just a small role in this celebration by joining with my colleagues in offering this resolution, and I urge all of our colleagues to join me in celebrating the birth of our State.

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of S. Res. 566, which was introduced earlier today, the PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The bill clerk reads as follows:

A bill (S. Res. 566) celebrating the 125th anniversary of the State of South Dakota.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. THUNE. I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, and the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table with no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 566) was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to consideration of S. Res. 566, which was introduced earlier today, the PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeds to call the roll.

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AWARENESS MONTH

Mr. MORAN. Mr. President, October—next month—is Domestic Violence Awareness Month. It is not expected that the Senate will be in session next month and I would like to use this opportunity to visit just a moment about domestic violence in an effort to create a greater awareness and to work to eliminate this plight among many families and many individuals across the country.

Domestic violence is an issue that impacts way too many Americans. In fact, it affects so many homes, and yet it is something that is rarely spoken about publicly. Right now, because of actions of professional athletes, domestic violence is in the news and it is on our minds. But this attention needs to continue when the sports writers quit writing and when the news reporters and camera crews quit covering and they move on to the next story.
Many Americans assume domestic violence doesn’t occur in their neighborhood, it doesn’t occur among their friends, but unfortunately that is not the case. Domestic violence does not discriminate by race, gender, age group, education or social status. We can’t ignore the ugly truth about domestic violence. In fact, it is not just a problem for women; it is also a problem for children and men who are often victims.

In large communities, in small communities across the country and across, unfortunately, my State of Kansas, too many Americans, too many Kansans find themselves placed in danger by the very people who are supposed to love and care for and protect them. Each year, more than 2 million women are victims of domestic violence across the country. In Kansas alone, it is estimated that 1 in 10 adult women will suffer from domestic abuse this year. These are damning statistics that tell us whether we realize it or not, someone we know is enduring physical and psychological abuse today, tomorrow, this week. We have a responsibility to help the hopeless—those who are often too afraid to speak out for themselves. I rise tonight to try to give voice to those who are victims and to acknowledge professionals and volunteers who provide care and the services those victims need.

On a single day last year, shelters and organizations in Kansas served more than 720 victims, and similar organizations around the country served more than 66,000 victims each day. I visited one of those organizations last year, the Kansas SAFEHOME. It is a tremendous organization that serves the greater Kansas City area. SAFEHOME provides more than just a shelter for those needing a place to live or to escape from abuse. They provide no-cost advocacy, counseling, an in-house attorney, and assistance in finding employment. The agency also provides education in the community to prevent abuse.

Each year SAFEHOME helps thousands of women and children reestablish their lives without violence. The employees and volunteers there are making huge differences in the lives of many. I have often said on the Senate floor that what happens in Washington, DC, matters, but I know we change the world one person, one soul at a time, and it is happening and in settings similar to it across Kansas and around the country, lives are being changed and improved.

Despite the important and the honorable and noble work that organizations such as SAFEHOME are performing, they are often faced with uncertainty regarding the Federal support they will be receiving. The good news is that last year Congress was able to move past politics and pass legislation to reauthorize the Violence Against Women Act. I sponsored and voted for that legislation and in my view it provides crucial, critical resources for victims of domestic violence and empowers our justice system to act on their behalf. Just as crucial, it works to prevent abuse from occurring in the first place. This legislation is having a real impact on the lives of Kansans because survivors now have access, for example, to legal services, through the Legal Assistance to Victims grant project, established in 2012 by the Kansas Coalition Against Sexual and Domestic Violence.

One survivor expressed how grateful she was for the program because, as she said, “I didn’t know what I would have done without it.” Without the assistance of this program, she may have had to go to court without legal representation, knowing that her perpetrator already had an attorney representing him. With that legal representation, her perpetrator was held accountable for his actions.

Throughout our country, more than one in three women still suffer from domestic violence, sexual assault, or to escape from abuse. They provide shelter for those needing a place to live and no-cost advocacy, counseling, and assistance in helping their lives without violence. The SAFEHOME provides more than just a haven.

One in three women still suffer from domestic violence during their lifetime, and in this setting and in settings similar or to escape from abuse. They provide shelter for those needing a place to live and no-cost advocacy, counseling, and assistance in helping their lives without violence. The SAFEHOME provides more than just a haven.

Last year, the Kansas SAFEHOME. It is established in 2012 by the Kansas Coalition Against Sexual and Domestic Violence.

Statements on Introduced Bills and Joint Resolutions

By Mr. Kaine (for himself, Ms. Baldwin, and Mr. Portman):

S. 2867. A bill to amend the Higher Education Act of 1965 to provide for the participation of career and technical education teachers; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. Kaine. Mr. President, school districts across the nation are facing serious shortages in high-quality career and technical education, CTE, teachers. When CTE teachers have real-world experience in a related industry before entering the classroom, students not only benefit from their hands-on knowledge but also look to them as career role models. Through grants in the Higher Education and Opportunity Act of 2008, many teacher residency partnerships already exist between postsecondary institutions and local schools to train prospective educators, but none are CTE focused. This is why I am pleased to introduce with my colleagues, Senator Baldwin and Senator Portman, the Creating Quality Technical Educators Act, which would create a teacher-training grant partnership to give aspiring CTE teachers the preparation necessary to mirror their success in the business world with that in the classroom. The Creating Quality Technical Educators Act will foster CTE teacher training partnerships between high-needs secondary schools and postsecondary institutions to create a 1-year residency initiative for prospective teachers and includes teacher mentorship for a minimum of 2 years. This bipartisan bill amends the Higher Education Act and would give aspiring CTE teachers the experience necessary to succeed in the classroom, where students can benefit from their work experience and credibility. The Creating Quality Technical Educators Act would take an important step to ensure students in communities of all sizes have access to high-quality CTE teachers and career-training programs.

By Mr. REED (for himself, Mr. LEVIN, Mr. MARKEY, Mrs. SHAHEEN, and Ms. WARREN):

S. 2868. A bill to establish a statute of limitations for certain actions under the Securities and Exchange Commission, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, today I am introducing legislation that extends the time period the Securities and Exchange Commission, SEC, would have to seek civil monetary penalties for securities law violations.

The legislation is necessary in light of the Supreme Court's decision in Gabelli v. SEC in which the Court held that the 5 year clock to take action against wrongdoing starts when the fraud occurs, not when it is discovered. In effect, Gabelli has made the SEC's job of protecting investors even tougher by shortening the amount of time that the SEC has to investigate and pursue securities law violations.

Financial fraud has evolved significantly over the years and now involves multiple parties, complex financial products, and elaborate transactions that are executed in a variety of securities markets, both domestic and foreign. As a result, many of the critical facts necessary to initiate an action may go undetected for years. Securities law violators may simply run out the clock, now with greater ease in the aftermath of Gabelli.

Couple this with the fact that while we have given the SEC even greater responsibilities, Congress, despite my ongoing efforts to urge otherwise, has not provided the agency with all the resources necessary to carry out its duties. As a result, the SEC is not only underfunded, but also understaffed. A recent study conducted by the Banking Committee that "if the SEC does not receive sufficient additional resources, the agency will be unable to fully build out its technology and hire the industry experts and other staff needed to oversee and police our areas of responsibility, especially in light of the expanding size and complexity of our overall regulatory space."

To give just one example of the impact of this resource shortfall, Chair White also testified that "in 2004, the SEC had 19 examiners per trillion dollars in investment adviser assets under management. Today, we have only 8." The legislation would address these challenges by extending the time period the SEC has to take action. Since the SEC last restructured its exam teams in 2004, the SEC's exam division has reduced its headcount by 30%.

Specifically, this bill extends the time period the SEC has to seek civil monetary penalties from five years to ten years. It recognizes the reality of the complexity and volume of market participants; the expanding size, and police our areas of responsibility, especially in light of the expanding size and complexity of our overall regulatory space."

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, today, I rise to reintroduce the Incentives to Educate American Children, or I-TEACH, Act of 2014. With teacher retention rates on a steady decline nationwide, it is my hope that this legislation will encourage our best and brightest teachers to remain in the classroom.

In the past two decades, the number of years of experience for the average teacher has decreased from 15 years to 5 years. Almost half of our education workforce today has less than ten years of experience. This is partly because teachers continue to be paid less than those employed in other fields. In 2004, the average wage of other workers earning approximately 79 percent of the average wage of other workers with a bachelor's degree. In addition, their salaries have remained static since 2009, with the average starting salary for a new teacher estimated at just $36,141. At the same time, college debt levels continue to increase. The average student graduating in 2014 had $33,000 worth of student debt, making it difficult for young, eager graduates to pursue a career in teaching while paying down student loans and other living expenses.

No dedicated young person should have to decide that they simply cannot afford to be a teacher. If passed, the I-TEACH Act would invest in our most critical educators by providing a $1,000 refundable tax credit to teachers serving in rural or high poverty schools. It would also provide every teacher, regardless of school district, the opportunity to receive a $1,000 refundable tax credit if they receive accreditation from the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards. This means that a National Board Teacher in a rural or high poverty school would be eligible to receive $2,000 in refundable tax credits.

In so doing, the bill would align the SEC's statute of limitations with the limitations period applicable to complex civil financial fraud actions initiated pursuant to the Financial Institutional Reform, Evaluation, and Enhancement Act of 1989, FIRREA. For over 2 decades, the Department of Justice has benefited from FIRREA, which allows the DOJ to seek civil penalties within a 10-year time period against persons who have engaged in fraud against financial institutions. The SEC, which pursues similarly complex financial fraud cases, should have the same time necessary to bring wrongdoers that violate the securities laws to justice.

I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this legislation.

S. 2860. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to provide a tax incentive to individuals teaching in elementary and secondary schools located in rural or high unemployment areas and to individuals who achieve certification from the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, today, I rise to reintroduce the Incentives to Educate American Children, or I-TEACH, Act of 2014. With teacher retention rates on a steady decline nationwide, it is my hope that this legislation will encourage our best and brightest teachers to remain in the classroom.

In the past two decades, the number of years of experience for the average teacher has decreased from 15 years to 5 years. Almost half of our education workforce today has less than ten years of experience. This is partly because teachers continue to be paid less than those employed in other fields. In 2004, the average wage of other workers earning approximately 79 percent of the average wage of other workers with a bachelor's degree. In addition, their salaries have remained static since 2009, with the average starting salary for a new teacher estimated at just $36,141. At the same time, college debt levels continue to increase. The average student graduating in 2014 had $33,000 worth of student debt, making it difficult for young, eager graduates to pursue a career in teaching while paying down student loans and other living expenses.

No dedicated young person should have to decide that they simply cannot afford to be a teacher. If passed, the I-TEACH Act would invest in our most critical educators by providing a $1,000 refundable tax credit to teachers serving in rural or high poverty schools. It would also provide every teacher, regardless of school district, the opportunity to receive a $1,000 refundable tax credit if they receive accreditation from the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards. This means that a National Board Teacher in a rural or high poverty school would be eligible to receive $2,000 in refundable tax credits.

In so doing, the I-TEACH Act will provide meaningful incentives to teachers willing to serve in rural or high poverty schools, as well as rewarding quality teachers for staying in the classroom and continuing their professional development by earning National Board certification. Today, the majority of States see the value in this effort, providing some type of financial incentive to National Board certified teachers, and this refundable tax credit will work in tandem with those efforts. My home State of West Virginia, for example, offers a $3,500 bonus for National Board teachers. If I-TEACH is enacted, a National Board today, in my State, I earn a nearly 12 percent bonus. That is a clear sign of appreciation for their hard work and a meaningful incentive to continue teaching.

Our teachers are among the most important members of our society. They inspire and educate our children, preparing the next generation for success. They deserve our respect and full support, and that is why I urge my colleagues to work with me to enact I-TEACH and invest in our children's education.

By Mr. MCCONNELL:

S. 2882. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to allow certain individuals a credit against income tax for contributions to 529 plans, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, today, I am proud to offer legislation that will make it easier for American families to pay for their child's higher education. This legislation is the Enhanced 529—Setting Aside for a Valuable Education, or Enhanced 529—SAVE, Act of 2014. This legislation will make the 529 college savings plans more accessible to lower and middle-income families.

A 529 plan is a tax-advantaged savings plan that is designed to encourage Americans to save for future college costs. 529 plans can be sponsored by states, state agencies, or educational institutions and they are authorized by Section 529 of the Internal Revenue Code.
Code. I championed efforts to ensure that 529 plans would be 100 percent tax-free at the Federal level. In 2001, I authored the Setting Aside for Valuable Education, orSAVE, Act, which was included in a tax package that became law. In 2006, I helped make the tax benefits permanent.

The Enhanced 529–SAVE Act will make 529 plans more accessible by encouraging employers to contribute to an employee’s 529 plan. My bill would exclude up to $500 of an employer’s contribution from an employee’s gross income. This will help families and individuals save more for higher education expenses.

The Enhanced 529–SAVE Act will also create an incentive for lower-income families and individuals to save money for college by allowing the individual that contributes to the 529 plan to qualify for the Saver’s Credit, which is an income-based, non-refundable tax credit up to $4,000.

The Enhanced 529–SAVE Act is similar to H.R. 529, introduced in the House of Representatives by Congresswoman Lynn Jenkins of Kansas. I want to commend her for her leadership on this important issue. I urge my colleagues to consider and pass the Enhanced 529–SAVE Act, and I look forward to its eventual passage.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2882

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Enhanced 529 - Setting Aside for a Valuable Education Act” or the “Enhanced 529 - S.A.V.E. Act.”

SEC. 2. CREDIT FOR CONTRIBUTIONS TO 529 SAVING ACCOUNTS.

(a) In general.—Paragrap"h (1) of section 25B(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by striking “qualified retirement savings” each place it appears and inserting “qualified savings.”

(b) Regulations.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after calendar year 2014.

(c) CREDIT FOR CONTRIBUTIONS TO QUALIFIED TUITION PROGRAMS.

(1) In general.—The term “qualified tuition program” means any program of—

(A) the State of the United States in which the taxpayer resides, or

(B) an educational institution that is tax-exempt under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(2) Definitions.—

(A) Qualified education assistance plan.—The term “qualified education assistance plan” means a written plan with respect to which the educational institution is the administrator of the plan.

(B) Student.—The term “student” means an individual who is a beneficiary of a qualified education assistance plan and who is eligible to receive a grant or loan under such plan.

(3) Interim report.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall report to Congress within 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act concerning the implementation of this section.

SEC. 3. EXCLUSION FROM GROSS INCOME FOR EMPLOYER CONTRIBUTIONS TO QUALIFIED TUITION PROGRAMS.

(a) In general.—The exclusion from gross income of employer contributions to qualified tuition programs is hereby extended to the following:

(1) The amount excludable in any year from gross income of an employee under section 127(a) for calendar year 2002 or subsequent years shall not exceed $500.

(2) The exclusion from gross income of employer contributions to qualified tuition programs shall be increased by an amount equal to the maximum exclusion under section 127(a) for calendar year 2002 or subsequent years.

(3) The exclusion from gross income of employer contributions to qualified tuition programs for any taxable year after calendar year 2002 shall not exceed $500.

(4) The exclusion from gross income of employer contributions to qualified tuition programs for any taxable year beginning after calendar year 2014 shall not exceed $500.

(5) The exclusion from gross income of employer contributions to qualified tuition programs for any taxable year beginning after calendar year 2015 shall not exceed $500.

(b) Effective date.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after calendar year 2002.

(c) REMARKS.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after calendar year 2014.
S. 2887. A bill to expand access to transportation services for individuals with disabilities; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, 24 years ago, Congress passed the Americans with Disabilities Act. I will never forget the day, July 26, 1990, the ADA was signed into law. It was one of the proudest days of my legislative career.

The ADA set forth four great goals for individuals with disabilities—equality of opportunity, full participation, independent living, and economic self-sufficiency. In many ways, we have been successful in making progress toward these goals. We have increased the accessibility of our buildings, our streets, even our parks, beaches and recreation areas. We have made our books and TVs, phones, computers, and other technology more accessible. And for many Americans with disabilities, our workplaces have become increasingly more open and accessible.

America is far more inclusive, today, for individuals with disabilities. But our work is still far from complete.

According to new data released this week, almost 30 percent of people with disabilities are living in poverty, and fewer than one in three individuals with a disability participate in the workforce. This is further evidence that we are far from realizing the ADA’s goal of economic self-sufficiency for all people with disabilities.

Today, the Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee, which I chair, released a report titled “Fulfilling the Promise: Overcoming Persistent Barriers to Economic Self-Sufficiency for People with Disabilities.” In our report, we detail many of the barriers that adversity impact the economic well-being of individuals with disabilities—including the lack of accessible transportation and the lack of accessible housing. These barriers don’t only impact individuals with disabilities who are living in poverty; they also impact individuals with disabilities who are striving to reach the American dream as members of the middle class.

That is why, today, I am introducing three bills that I believe will begin to address these barriers to individuals with disabilities, S. 2887, S. 2888, and S. 2889. The first bill, the Universal Home Design Act, will increase the availability of housing for individuals with disabilities. The second, the Accessible Transportation for All Act, will increase the availability of accessible passenger cars and taxis. The third, the Exercise and Fitness for All Act, will increase the availability of exercise and fitness equipment that is accessible to individuals with disabilities, which will help individuals with disabilities maintain and improve their health through appropriate physical activity.

I am confident that these three bills, along with the Community Integration Act, and the recently passed Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act, will help provide the framework for a future of continued opportunities, inclusion and advancement for individuals with disabilities in America. I urge my Senate colleagues to support these important bills.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Accessible Transportation for All Act”.

SEC. 2. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

1. Accessible Vehicle for Hire.—The term “accessible vehicle for hire” means a vehicle used in a demand responsive system by private entities to provide non-fixed route transportation service, including taxi service and transportation network operator vehicle(s), which—

A. is designed to enable persons who use wheelchairs or other mobility devices to be transported, and to remain in their wheelchairs or other mobility devices if they so choose; and

B. affords independent access for people with disabilities to all in-vehicle functions generally available to other passengers in such vehicles, including credit card payment devices.

2. Accessible Passenger Car.—The term “accessible passenger car” means a passenger car that is designed to enable persons who use wheelchairs or other mobility devices as a result of a significant mobility impairment—

A. to independently enter and exit the car via a ramp, lift, or similar device that permits access to the driver’s seat, while remaining in a manual wheelchair, power wheelchair, or other mobility device;

B. to safely store a wheelchair or other mobility device in the car, if desired; and

C. to independently operate the car, including through using hand controls or other optional modifications.

3. Accessible Taxi Vehicle.—The term “accessible taxi vehicle” means an accessible vehicle for hire operated by a taxi company that provides immediate service through on-street hailing or on-demand dispatch by telephone or electronic means.

4. Administration.—The term “Administration” means the Federal Transit Administration.

5. Administrator.—The term “Administrator” means the Administrator of the Federal Transit Administration.

6. Discriminatory Terms or Conditions.—The term “discriminatory terms or conditions” includes—

A. denial of participation (as described in section 302(b)(1)(A)(i) of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 12182(b)(1)(A)(i))); and

B. participation in an unequal benefit (as described in section 302(b)(1)(A)(ii) of such Act).

C. the imposition or application of eligibility criteria described in section 302(b)(2)(A)(i) of such Act;

D. a failure to make reasonable accommodations in its practices, or procedures (as described in section 302(b)(2)(A)(ii) of such Act).

E. imposing a surcharge for the use of an accessible taxi or an accessible for-hire vehicle by a person with a disability; and

F. failing to permit an individual with a disability to receive service with his service animal.

7. For Hire Transportation Company.—The term “for hire transportation company” means a public or private entity providing a demand responsive system, including a taxi service, a transportation network company, or other public or private entity providing transportation service or access to non-fixed route transportation services.

8. Passenger Car.—The term “passenger car” has the meaning given the term “passenger automobile” in section 3201(a) of title 49, United States Code.

9. Secretary.—The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of Transportation.

10. Transportation Network Company.—The term “transportation network company” means a company that uses a digital network, a software application, or other means to connect a passenger to transportation network services provided by a transportation network operator.

11. Transportation Network Operator.—The term “transportation network operator” means an individual who operates a motor vehicle that is—

A. owned or leased by the individual;

B. not licensed as a taxi or other public vehicle for hire; and

C. used to provide services through a transportation network or transportation network company.

SEC. 3. ACCESSIBILITY AND NONDISCRIMINATION.

1. Adequate Provision of Accessible Vehicles.—Any person who owns, leases, operates, or arranges for the operation of transportation services to members of the public through a for hire transportation company, taxi service, or transportation network company shall provide, or arrange for, the adequate provision of accessible vehicles for hire to serve individuals with disabilities who require such services.

2. Rights of Disabled Individuals.—An individual with a disability may not, as a result of such disability—

A. be denied full and equal access to appropriate and usable transportation by a person providing transportation services, including services—

1. by a transportation network company;

B. through a for hire transportation company;

C. through a taxi service; or

D. by a driver, owner, or operator of a taxi vehicle; or

E. be subject to discriminatory terms or conditions by any person who owns, leases, or operates a transportation service, or arranges for such transportation services, to members of the public, including the services set forth in subparagraphs (A) through (D) of paragraph (1);

F. applicable remedies and procedures.—The remedies and procedures set forth in sections 308(a) and 305 of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 12188(a) and 12205) shall be available to any person aggrieved by the failure of a person to comply with this section.

SEC. 4. MODEL ACCESSIBLE TAXI COMPETITION.

1. In General.—

2. Competition Authorized.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall organize a national competition to design 1 or more model accessible taxi vehicles.

3. Purpose.—The purpose of competition under this section shall be to develop 1 or more designs for an accessible taxi vehicle which, without additional modification, can be manufactured for an amount not to exceed the sum of the average manufacturing cost of a minivan that is generally available for purchase by consumers in the United States.

(b) ELIGIBLE COMPETITORS.—Any automobile manufacturer that manufacturers vehicles for sale in the United States may submit a proposal for the competition authorized under this section, regardless of size.

(c) GUIDELINES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator shall establish guidelines for the competition authorized under this section in accordance with paragraphs (2) through (5).

(2) COST.—A proposal may not be selected for a cash prize under subsection (d) unless the Administrator determines that the cost for manufacturing the proposed accessible taxi vehicle does not exceed the average manufacturing cost of a minivan that is generally available for purchase by consumers in the United States.

(3) COLLABORATION REQUIREMENT.—Each proposal submitted under this section shall represent designs collaboratively developed by—

(A) an eligible automobile manufacturer; and

(B) at least 1 national organization serving people with disabilities.

(4) ADOPTABILITY.—Proposals submitted under subsection (b) shall be judged on whether the design for an accessible taxi vehicle represents a design that a local taxi commission could realistically adopt. The Administrator shall encourage commissioners to seek feedback on their designs from members of a local taxi commission before such submission.

(5) VEHICLE ATTRIBUTES.—Each proposal submitted under this section shall describe the specifications of the proposed accessible taxi vehicle, including—

(A) the features and the extent to which such features allow for the full inclusion of individuals with various disabilities;

(B) estimated highway and city fuel economy;

(C) the cost of the vehicle;

(D) the extent to which the vehicle provides adequate space for passengers and any mobility devices necessary to comply with applicable regulations;

(E) the relative comfort provided for passengers with disabilities and others; and

(F) available luggage or storage space.

(c) The Administrator shall convene a selection panel to select the winning proposals for the competition that includes representatives from the taxi industry, the transportation industry, and the disability community.

(e) PAYMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator shall award automobile manufacturers that are selected pursuant to subsection (d) with cash prizes in an amount to be determined by the Administrator.

(2) VEHICLES AVAILABLE FOR PURCHASE.—There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out this section.

SEC. 6. MODEL ACCESSIBLE PASSENGER CAR COMPETITION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator shall award automobile manufacturers that are selected pursuant to subsection (d) with cash prizes in an amount to be determined by the Administrator.

(b) ESTABLISHMENT.—Chapter 1 of title 49, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"116. Accessible Taxi and For-Hire Transportation Board

"(a) IN GENERAL.—There is established in the Administration an Accessible Taxi and For-Hire Transportation Board (referred to in this section as the "Board").

"(b) MEMBERSHIP.—The Board shall be composed of 9 members, who shall be appointed as follows:

(1) PUBLIC MEMBERS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation shall appoint 5 people with disabilities or a developmental disability to the Board.

(B) TERM.—Each public member appointed under this paragraph shall be appointed for a 2-year term.

(2) ADMINISTRATION REPRESENTATIVES.—The Administrator shall designate 2 officials of the Administration to represent the Administrator on the Board.

(3) TAXI INDUSTRY MEMBERS.—The Secretary shall appoint 2 members from the taxi and for-hire transportation industry to the Board.

(4) CHAIRPERSON.—The Secretary shall designate a Chairperson of the Board from among the appointed public members of the Board.

(d) MEETINGS.—The Board shall meet at the call of the Chairperson, but not less frequently than 4 times per year.

(e) DUTIES.—The Board shall conduct activities to increase the availability of accessible taxis and other for-hire vehicles, including:

(1) coordinating with the Federal Transit Administration to provide information and technical assistance to local municipalities, taxi commissions, and for-hire transportation companies (as defined in section 2 of the Accessible Transportation for All Act)—

(A) to increase the availability of accessible taxi vehicles and accessible vehicles for hire; and

(B) to facilitate improvements to access to taxis and other accessible for-hire transportation options for people with disabilities;

(2) submitting an annual report to the Secretary that includes studies, findings, conclusions, and recommendations about the availability of accessible taxi vehicles and accessible vehicles for hire throughout the Nation, including—

(A) the number of accessible taxi vehicles and accessible vehicles for hire in the various States and localities, including in the 25 most populated cities in the United States;

(B) improvements, increases, or changes in the availability of accessible taxi vehicles and accessible vehicles for hire to access to taxis and other for-hire transportation in the States, localities, and cities referred to in subparagraph (A); and

(C) any State or local policies, ordinances, regulations, or statutes that led to the increases or changes referred to in subparagraph (A); and

(D) barriers to further increases in the availability of accessible taxi vehicles and accessible vehicles for hire; and

(3) making recommendations about how best to address the barriers described in subparagraph (D).
“(A) IN GENERAL.—Any term used in paragraph (1)(B), which is defined in section 2 of the Accessible Transportation for All Act shall have the meaning given such term in such section, as in effect on the date of the enactment of this paragraph.

“(B) QUALIFIED TAXI COMPANY.—The term ‘qualified taxi company’ means a person that provides passenger service for a fixed fare by a taxicab and is licensed to engage in the trade or business of furnishing such transportation by a Federal, State, or local authority having jurisdiction over transportation furnished by such person.”.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to expenses paid or incurred in taxable years beginning after the date of the enactment of this Act.

By Mr. HARKIN.

S. 2888. A bill to promote the provision of exercise and fitness equipment that is accessible to individuals with disabilities; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2888

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Exercise and Fitness For All Act.”

SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Individuals with disabilities can maintain and improve their health through appropriate physical activity.

(2) In the 2008 Physical Activity Guidelines for Americans (referred to as the “Guidelines”), the Department of Health and Human Services recommends that individuals with disabilities, who are able, participate in regular aerobic activity.

(3) The Guidelines also recommend that adults with disabilities, who are able, do muscle-strengthening activities of moderate or high intensity on 2 or more days a week, as these activities provide additional health benefits.

(4) The Guidelines recommend that when adults with disabilities do not follow the Guidelines, they should engage in regular physical activity according to their abilities and avoid inactivity.

(5) Unfortunately, many individuals with disabilities are unable to engage in the recommended exercise or fitness activities due to the inaccessibility of exercise or fitness equipment.

(6) Physical inactivity by adults with disabilities can lead to increased risk for functional limitations and secondary health conditions.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purposes of this Act are—

(1) to encourage exercise and fitness service providers to provide accessible exercise and fitness equipment for individuals with disabilities; and

(2) to provide guidance about the requirements necessary to ensure that such exercise and fitness equipment is accessible to, and usable by, individuals with disabilities.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) in paragraph (1) of section 44 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended—

(A) by striking ‘‘paid or incurred by an eligible small business’’ and inserting ‘‘paid or incurred—

‘‘(A) by an eligible small business’’;

‘‘(B) by striking ‘section’,’ and inserting ‘‘section, and’’; and

‘‘(C) by inserting at the end following—

‘‘(B) by an eligible small business which is a qualified taxi company for the purpose of purchasing or adapting a vehicle for use as an accessible taxi vehicle that meets the guidelines established under section 8 of the Accessible Transportation for All Act,’’ and

(2) by adding at the end following:

‘‘(d) COLLABORATION.—Each planning or project developed under this section—

(1) set yearly goals for the number and availability of accessible taxi vehicles, accessible vehicles for hire, and other accessible for-hire transportation options for people with disabilities; and

(2) may examine how to reduce costs through the use of low-cost model taxis and other means.

‘‘(f) PERSONNEL MATTERS.—

(1) TRAVEL EXPENSES.—The members of the Board may not receive compensation for the performance of services for the Board, but shall be reimbursed for the cost of attending meetings and traveling per diem in lieu of subsistence, at rates authorized for employees of agencies under subchapter I of chapter 57 of title 5, United States Code, while away from their homes or regular places of business in the performance of services for the Board. Notwithstanding section 1922 of title 31, United States Code, the Secretary may accept the voluntary uncompensated services of members of the Board.

(2) STAFF.—The Secretary may designate such staff as may be necessary to enable the Board to perform its duties.

(3) DETAIL OF GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES.—Any Federal Government employee, with the approval of the head of the appropriate Federal agency, may be detailed to the Board without reimbursement, and such detail shall be without interruption or loss of civil service status or privilege.

‘‘(g) FACILITIES, EQUIPMENT, AND SERVICES.—The Secretary shall make available to the Board necessary office space and furnish the Board with such arrangements respecting financing as may be appropriate, with necessary equipment, supplies, and services.’’

SEC. 4. REQUIREMENTS FOR STATE STRATEGIC PLANS FOR IMPROVING ACCESSIBILITY AND ACCESSIBLE TAXI VEHICLES AND ACCESSIBLE VEHICLES FOR HIRE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 18 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator, in collaboration and consultation with the Access Board established under section 502 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 U.S.C. 792), shall promulgate regulatory standards, in accordance with this section, including—

(1) accessibility standards for accessible taxi vehicles and accessible vehicles for hire; and

(2) service standards for vehicles referred to in paragraph (1).

(b) ACCESSIBILITY STANDARDS.—Accessibility standards for accessible taxi vehicles and accessible vehicles for hire promulgated under this section shall ensure that such vehicles are fully accessible to, and usable by, passengers with disabilities, including individuals that use wheelchairs or other mobility devices.

(c) SERVICE STANDARDS.—Service standards for accessible taxi vehicles and accessible vehicles for hire promulgated under this section shall, at a minimum, ensure that such vehicles—

(1) are readily available in a manner (including in coordination with other, nonaccessible taxi vehicles or non-accessible vehicles for hire in the area being served);

(2) can be requested using a variety of technological methods or systems; and

(3) are operated by individuals who are trained in properly loading, unloading, securing, and transporting individuals with disabilities.

SEC. 5. TAX-CREDIT FOR EXPENDITURES FOR ACCESSIBLE TAXI VEHICLES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (c) of section 44 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1) of the section—

(A) by striking ‘‘paid or incurred by an eligible small business’’ and inserting ‘‘paid or incurred—

‘‘(A) by an eligible small business’’;

‘‘(B) by striking ‘section’,’ and inserting ‘‘section, and’’; and

‘‘(C) by inserting at the end following—

‘‘(B) by an eligible small business which is a qualified taxi company for the purpose of purchasing or adapting a vehicle for use as an accessible taxi vehicle that meets the guidelines established under section 8 of the Accessible Transportation for All Act,’’ and

(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this Act is—

(1) to encourage exercise and fitness service providers to provide accessible exercise and fitness equipment for individuals with disabilities; and

(2) to provide guidance about the requirements necessary to ensure that such exercise and fitness equipment is accessible to, and usable by, individuals with disabilities.
(2) ACCESSIBLE EXERCISE OR FITNESS EQUIPMENT.—The term “accessible exercise or fitness equipment” means exercise or fitness equipment that is accessible to, and can be independently used and operated by, individuals with disabilities.

(3) EXERCISE OR FITNESS EQUIPMENT.—The term “exercise or fitness equipment” means devices such as accessible treadmills, stair climbers or step machines, stationary bicycles, rowing machines, weight machines, circuit training equipment, cardiovascular equipment, strength equipment, or other exercise or fitness equipment.

(4) EXERCISE OR FITNESS SERVICE PROVIDER.—The term “exercise or fitness service provider” means any person with a disability as defined in section 3 of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 12131); and provides exercise or fitness equipment for the use of its patrons.

(5) INDIVIDUAL WITH A DISABILITY.—The term “individual with a disability” means any person with a disability as defined in section 3 of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 12102).

(6) ACCESSIBLE EXERCISE OR FITNESS EQUIPMENT.—The term “individuals with disabilities” means more than one individual with a disability.

SEC. 4. EXERCISE AND FITNESS ACCESSIBILITY GUIDELINES.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF GUIDELINES.—Not later than 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Access Board shall develop and publish guidelines for exercise or fitness service providers regarding the provision of accessible exercise or fitness equipment, strength equipment, or other exercise or fitness equipment.

(b) CONTENTS OF GUIDELINES.—The guidelines described in subsection (a) shall—

(1) be consistent with the Standard Specification for Universal Design of Fitness Equipment for Inclusive Use by Persons with Functional Limitations and Impairments of the American Society for Testing and Materials (ASTM F962-13) (and any future revisions thereto);

(2) ensure that—

(A) exercise or fitness equipment is accessible to, and usable by, individuals with disabilities; and

(B) individuals with disabilities have independent entry to, use of, and exit from the exercise or fitness equipment, to the maximum extent possible; and

(3) take into consideration the following:

(A) Whether the exercise or fitness service provider is a new or existing facility.

(B) Whether the exercise or fitness service provider is staffed or not.

(C) Additional assistance on the use of the accessible exercise or fitness equipment (including specific accessibility features) for individuals with disabilities.

(D) The size and overall financial resources of the exercise or fitness service provider.

(E) The availability of closed captioning of video programming displayed on equipment and televisions provided by an exercise or fitness service provider.

(c) REVIEW AND AMENDMENT.—The Access Board shall periodically review and, as appropriate, amend the guidelines, and shall issue the resulting guidelines as revised guidelines.

SEC. 5. TAX CREDIT FOR EXPENDITURES TO PROVIDE ACCESSIBLE EXERCISE OR FITNESS EQUIPMENT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Paragraph (1) of section 44(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended—

(1) by striking “paid or incurred by an eligible small business” and inserting “paid or incurred—

(A) by an eligible small business;”;

(2) by striking “section,” and inserting “section,” and “;”;

(3) by inserting at the end the following:

“(B) by an eligible small business which is an exercise or fitness service provider for the purpose of providing for use by individuals with disabilities accessible exercise or fitness equipment that meets the guidelines established by the Access Board under section 4 of the Exercise and Fitness for All Act.

Any term used in subparagraph (B) which is defined in section 3 of the Exercise and Fitness for All Act shall have the meaning given such term, in effect on the date of the enactment of such subparagraph.”

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to expenses paid or incurred in taxable years beginning after the date of the enactment of this Act.

By Mr. HARKIN:

S. 2889. A bill to require compliance with established universal home design guidelines, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2889

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Universal Home Design Act of 2014”.

SEC. 2. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act—

(A) the term “accessible” (except when used in the context of accessible format) means—

(A) consistent with—

(i) subpart D of part 36 of title 28, Code of Federal Regulations (or any corresponding similar regulation or ruling); and

(ii) appendices B and D to part 1191 of title 28, Code of Federal Regulations (or any corresponding similar regulation or ruling); and

(B) independently usable by individuals with disabilities, including those who use a mobility device such as a wheelchair;

(3) COVERED DWELLING UNITS.—The term “covered dwelling unit” means a dwelling unit that—

(A) is a detached single family house, a townhouse or multi-level dwelling unit (whether detached or attached to other units or structures), or a ground-floor unit in a building of not more than 3 dwelling units;

(B) is designed as, or intended for occupancy as, a residence;

(C)(i) was designed, constructed, or commissioned, contracted, or otherwise arranged for construction, by a person or entity who, at any time before the design or construction of the unit, received Federal financial assistance for any program or activity;

(ii) is purchased by a person or entity using assistance that is provided or guaranteed under a program that provides Federal financial assistance for homeownership or (iii) is offered for purchase by a person or entity using amounts that are provided or guaranteed under a program that provides Federal financial assistance for homeownership or

(D) is made available for first occupancy after the expiration of the 30-month period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(4) DEPARTMENT.—The term “Department” means the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

(5) FEDERAL FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE.—The term “Federal financial assistance” means—

(A) any assistance that is provided or otherwise made available by the Federal National Mortgage Association, Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, any Federal Home Loan Bank, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, or any program or activity of the Department of Housing and Urban Development or the Department of Veterans Affairs, through any grant, loan, insurance, guarantee, contract, or any other arrangement, after the expiration of the 1-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act, including—

(i) any grant, subsidy, or other funds; (ii) real or personal property or any interest in or use of such property, including—

(I) transfers or leases of the property for less than the fair market value or for reduced consideration; and

(II) proceeds from a subsequent transfer or lease of the property if the Federal share of the fair market value is not returned to the Federal Government;

(iii) any tax credit, mortgage or loan guarantee, or insurance; and

(iv) community development funds in the form of obligations guaranteed under section 108 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5308); and

(6) INDIVIDUAL WITH A DISABILITY.—The term “individual with a disability” means an individual with a disability, as defined in section 3 of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 12102).

(7) INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES.—The term “individuals with disabilities” means more than 1 individual with a disability.

(8) PERSON OR ENTITY.—The term “person or entity” includes 1 or more individuals, corporations (including not-for-profit corporations), partnerships, associations, labor organizations, joint-stock companies, joint venture corporations, joint-stock associations, trusts, unincorporated associations, trustees, trustees in cases under title 11 of the United States Code, receivers, and fiduciaries.

(9) SECRETARY.—The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

(10) UNIVERSAL HOME DESIGN.—The term "universal home design" means the inclusion of architectural and other landscaping features that allow basic accessibility within a dwelling unit, with a disability who cannot climb stairs, including an individual who uses a mobility device such as a wheelchair.

SEC. 3. ESTABLISHMENT OF UNIVERSAL HOME DESIGN GUIDELINES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Access Board, in consultation with the Secretary, shall develop and issue guidelines setting forth the minimum technical criteria and scoping requirements for a covered dwelling unit to be in compliance with universal home design under this Act.
ASSISTANCE.—Each applicant for Federal financial assistance an assurance, at such time and in such manner as the head of the agency may require, may grant as relief, as the court finds appropriate, any permanent or temporary restraining order, or other order (including an order enjoining the defendant from violating section 3 or 4 of this Act or ordering such affirmative action as may be appropriate).

(c) REGULATIONS.—Not later than 6 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall issue regulations, in an accessible format—

(1) to carry out the provisions of this Act; and
(2) that include accessibility standards that are consistent with the guidelines issued under subsection (a).

(d) REVIEW AND AMENDMENT.—

(1) The Access Board, in consultation with the Secretary, shall—

(A) periodically review and, as appropriate, amend the guidelines issued under subsection (a); and
(B) issue such amended guidelines as revised guidelines.

(2) Secretary.—Not later than 6 months after the date on which the guidelines are issued under subsection (a), the Secretary shall issue regulations, in an accessible format—

(1) to provide long-term transportation infrastructure that strengthens communities overseen by a diverse selection panel, including state Departments of Transportation, local jurisdictions, port authorities, and representatives from air quality and safety organizations. This innovative proposal would encourage communities to compete against their peers, and stretch to make the most of every dollar. Recognizing that each state and region has different transportation needs, the panel would create criteria specific to their state's needs, such as improving the movement of freight, or connecting low-income communities to jobs. The bill would also require a metric-based, objective, fully transparent process based off critical criteria, such as return on investment, job creation, and reducing environmental impacts.

The most cost-effective and economically important projects will rise to the top, which will help communities across the country meet the great challenge of maintaining aging infrastructure and preparing for future growth with constrained funding.

I look forward to working with my colleagues to build further support for this legislation and continue working to provide long-term transportation investment that strengthens communities across the nation.

By Ms. COLLINS (for herself and Mr. NELSON):
S. 2906. A bill to amend title 31, United States Code, to adjust for inflation the amount that is exempt from administrative offsets by the Department of Education for defaulted student loans; to the Committee on Finance.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, today Senator NELSON and I are introducing legislation to limit the amount the Federal Government can garnish from Social Security benefits for unpaid student loan debt. Our bill would adjust the garnishment floor for inflation and index it going forward, to make sure that garnishments do not force seniors into poverty.

According to a recent study by the Government Accountability Office, GAO, the number of borrowers who have experienced garnishments to Social Security retirement, survivor, or disability benefits to repay student loans has increased over time. In 2001, about 31,000 Social Security beneficiaries had their benefits garnished to pay defaulted student loans. In 2013, this number had grown to approximately 155,000 beneficiaries, an increase of 400 percent.

The Affordable Care Act limits the amount the federal government can garnish from monthly Federal benefits. In 1998, this amount was set at $750 per month, and since then, it has not been raised or adjusted for inflation. This means that the federal government garnishes Social Security benefits so long as the beneficiary is not left with less than $750 per month. Fifteen years ago, this was above the poverty line, but as a result of inflation, the $750 limit now represents just 81 percent of the poverty threshold for a single adult 65 or older.

GAO found that if the garnishment limit had been indexed to match the rate of increase in the poverty threshold, in 2013, 68 percent of all borrowers whose Social Security benefits were garnished for Federal student loan debt would have kept their entire benefit. This means that in more than 2/3 of all cases involving the garnishment of Social Security benefits for unpaid student loan debt, the senior was forced into poverty. Indexing the floor to keep up with cost of living would keep this from happening.

I urge my colleagues to support this legislation to protect the financial security of seniors facing garnishment for unpaid student loan debt.

Mr. NELSON. Mr. President, today I announce my support of the Social Security Garnishment Modernization Act. I once again want to thank and commend Senator COLLINS, my co-sponsor on this legislation and co-leader on the Senate Special Committee on Aging. This is the fifth bill I have co-sponsored with Senator COLLINS as a direct result of a hearing we have held in the Aging Committee.

Earlier this month, our Committee examined the growing problem of seniors facing student loan debt in retirement. A senior with student loan debt who reaches the age of 65 has a one in four chance of being in default on that loan. If a senior still has student loan debt by the time he reaches 75, there’s a better chance than not that the senior is in default on those loans.

The consequences for being in default on those loans in retirement can be devastating. The Department of Education can direct the Treasury Department to garnish a substantial portion of a senior’s monthly Social Security payment. A 60-year-old with just $750 a month, well below the official monthly poverty threshold of $991, this figure has not been updated since the late 1990s. This bill would update the amount of money protected from garnishment to inflation and index it for inflation going forward so that a senior today would get to keep $1,072 a month even if he was in default on his student loans.

This bill could help people like 72-year-old Janet Lee Dupree of Citra, FL, whose Social Security check was garnished for a $3,000 loan she took out in the early 1970s. With interest and fees, that loan ballooned to $15,000, which means that Janet likely be in debt the rest of her life. If this bill passed, she would get to keep more of her hard-earned Social Security benefits that she needs to get by and pay for health care costs associated with two chronic and debilitating diseases.

We need to fix this problem soon because the next wave of retirees is coming, and a substantial number of them are still carrying student loan debt. Nearly 18 million people ages 50 to 64 owe on their student loans, and one in five of those people are already in default, meaning they could face garnishment once they start taking Social Security benefits. We need to protect today’s retirees and tomorrow’s retirees so that they have enough money to live with dignity.

By Mr. REED (for himself, Mr. HARKIN, and Mr. WHITEHOUSE):

S. 2906. A bill to provide for the treatment and extension of temporary financing of short-time compensation programs; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, today I am joined by Senators HARKIN and WHITEHOUSE in introducing the Layoff Prevention Extension Act of 2014. This bill would extend the financing and grant provisions for the work sharing initiative of the summer of 2015 and the $100 million in implementation grants awarded this year. My bill would extend both of these deadlines by one year so States with existing work sharing programs and those that are looking to enact a program can qualify for Federal support.

I urge my colleagues to join me in passing this bill to keep American workers on the job and encourage more States to enact work sharing programs that enjoy broad support in States that currently have them and economists on both sides of the spectrum.

By Mrs. FEINSTEIN:

S. 2908. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to expand eligibility for the refundable credit for coverage under a qualified health plan, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, the Affordable Care Act includes important provisions for improving access to health insurance for millions of Americans. Unfortunately, especially in high-cost geographic areas, some in the middle class are facing high insurance premiums.

If you make a penny over $45,860, you lose all Federal assistance for purchasing health insurance through the new exchanges. This is especially hard for individuals between the ages of 50 and 64, who are facing higher premiums but do not yet qualify for Medicare.

I have received thousands of calls and emails about access to health insurance. The high costs are a real problem. For example, Dave, one of my constituents from Livermore, CA, wrote to me to share how this policy has affected him. Dave is 60 and self-employed, making $65,000 per year. He signed up for a plan through the new health insurance exchange to cover himself and his wife. If they made just $3,000 less per year they would have qualified for a subsidy and paid $491 for the second lowest cost silver plan. Since they are just over the threshold, the full cost of this plan is $1,552. They decided to go with less robust coverage and still pay $1,147 for a bronze plan. Under this plan, Dave and his wife could get a better plan for less than half of what they pay now.

Another constituent, Dan, lives in Riverside, CA, and is 62 years old. He wrote to me and explained that his premium is just barely too high to receive help with his health insurance premiums and that he just can’t afford it. Currently, the second lowest cost silver plan for Dan and his wife would be $1,141 per month. Under this legislation, they would be able to afford health insurance.

The way the law is currently designed, there is a steep subsidy cliff.
This should gradually reduce, in a way that provides some help for more middle-income Americans so they pay no more than 9.5 percent of their income in health insurance premiums.

The Affordable Health Insurance for the Middle Class Act would do just that. This legislation extends the current subsidy up to 600 percent of the Federal poverty level, which is $68,940 for an individual. As an individual makes more, their subsidy goes down.

I am particularly concerned about older individuals who need medical care but face premium simply cannot afford. In California, it is estimated that approximately 360,600 individuals between the ages of 50–64 who do not qualify for Medicare or have employer-based coverage would see premiums greater than 9.5 percent of their income. Nearly 98,000 of these are expected to remain uninsured due to the cost. This is a simple fix to improve the law that will further increase access to coverage.

The bill is paid for by a nominal increase in the federal cigarette tax, which amounts to five cents per pack.

I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting the Affordable Health Insurance for the Middle Class Act. It is commonsense to have a gradual decline in the federal assistance for health insurance and help those who are just out of reach of affording it on their own.

I look forward to working with my colleagues on this important issue.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 561—EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF THE SENATE THAT RECENTLY PROPOSED MEASURES THAT WOULD REDUCE TRANSPARENCY AND PUBLIC PARTICIPATION AT THE INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF INSURANCE SUPERVISORS (IAIS) SHOULD BE DISAPPROVED BY UNITED STATES REPRESENTATIVES TO THE IAIS

Mr. HELLER (for himself and Mr. Tester) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs:

Whereas the International Association of Insurance Supervisors (IAIS) establishes global insurance standards that the United States and other countries are expected to implement and are graded on their compliance with; Whereas heretofore, the procedures of the IAIS were relatively transparent for observers; Whereas on August 4, 2014, the IAIS proposed eliminating public observers from its meetings starting on January 1, 2015, significantly reducing the transparency of its activities and only allowing certain parties to attend; Whereas representatives of United States consumer advocacy organizations have just recently made such observations; Whereas the IAIS proposed procedures would provide far less transparency and participation than the procedure afforded to interested stakeholders in the United States by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC); Whereas performance transparency produces the best regulation and the proposed procedures will reduce transparency; and Whereas United States State insurance regulators have always been the largest portion of funding to the IAIS have already publically expressed opposition to the proposed reduction in IAIS transparency; Now, therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that—

1) the International Association of Insurance Supervisors’ (IAIS) proposed procedures will reduce transparency and access to IAIS supervisory standard development by United States stakeholders including those representing consumers;

2) the proposed procedures specifically authorize the unfair and unequal treatment of interested parties by allowing the IAIS to selectively admit certain parties and exclude others at key meetings;

3) all representatives of the United States at the International Association of Insurance Supervisors should oppose these new procedures and instead advocate more transparency and public participation by the IAIS;

4) should the IAIS adopt the proposed procedures or any similar reductions in transparency, United States representatives to the IAIS should make every effort to ensure that proper transparency is restored; and

5) all United States representatives to the IAIS should work to ensure that their activities are transparent to Congress and United States stakeholders, and that United States representatives to the IAIS should regularly communicate to United States stakeholders through timely comprehensive reporting and in-person discussions.

Whereas United States State insurance supervisors' (IAIS) proposed procedures or any similar reductions in transparency, United States representatives to the IAIS should make every effort to ensure that proper transparency is restored; and

(2) the proposed procedures specifically authorize the unfair and unequal treatment of interested parties by allowing the IAIS to selectively admit certain parties and exclude others at key meetings;

(3) all representatives of the United States at the International Association of Insurance Supervisors should oppose these new procedures and instead advocate more transparency and public participation by the IAIS;

(4) should the IAIS adopt the proposed procedures or any similar reductions in transparency, United States representatives to the IAIS should make every effort to ensure that proper transparency is restored; and

(5) all United States representatives to the IAIS should work to ensure that their activities are transparent to Congress and United States stakeholders, and that United States representatives to the IAIS should regularly communicate to United States stakeholders through timely comprehensive reportings and in-person discussions.

Whereas the International Association of Insurance Supervisors (IAIS) establishes global insurance standards that the United States and other countries are expected to implement and are graded in their compliance with; Whereas heretofore, the procedures of the IAIS were relatively transparent for observers; Whereas on August 4, 2014, the IAIS proposed eliminating public observers from its meetings starting on January 1, 2015, significantly reducing the transparency of its activities and only allowing certain parties to attend; Whereas representatives of United States consumer advocacy organizations have just recently made such observations; Whereas the IAIS proposed procedures would provide far less transparency and participation than the procedure afforded to interested stakeholders in the United States by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC); Whereas performance transparency produces the best regulation and the proposed procedures will reduce transparency; and Whereas United States State insurance regulators have always been the largest portion of funding to the IAIS have already publically expressed opposition to the proposed reduction in IAIS transparency; Now, therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that—

1) the International Association of Insurance Supervisors’ (IAIS) proposed procedures will reduce transparency and access to IAIS supervisory standard development by United States stakeholders including those representing consumers;

2) the proposed procedures specifically authorize the unfair and unequal treatment of interested parties by allowing the IAIS to selectively admit certain parties and exclude others at key meetings;

3) all representatives of the United States at the International Association of Insurance Supervisors should oppose these new procedures and instead advocate more transparency and public participation by the IAIS;

havens for cybercriminals: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that the President should immediately launch international negotiations with the governments of the world’s leading powers for new, effective extradition treaties with countries with which the United States has no current extradition authority, as well as renegotiate old, ineffective treaties, in order to combat more effectively international cybercriminals, including those who target the credit card information of United States citizens.

SENATE RESOLUTION 564—HONORING CONSERVATION ON THE CENTENNIAL OF THE PASSENGER PIGEON EXTINCTION

Mr. BROWN (for himself and Mr. PORTMAN) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Environment and Public Works:

Whereas the Senate recognizes the importance of conserving natural habitats for bird populations and preserving the Nation’s biodiversity;

Whereas the death of Martha, the last passenger pigeon, on September 1, 1914, at the Cincinnati Zoo, and the extinction of the passenger pigeon helped to catalyze the American conservation movement of the early 20th century, resulting in new laws and practices that prevented the extinction of many species;

Whereas the story of the passenger pigeon can serve as a cautionary tale and raise awareness of current issues related to human-caused extinction, explore connections between humans and the natural world, and inspire people to build sustainable relationships with other species;

Whereas the passenger pigeon (Ectopistes migratorius) was once the most abundant bird in North America, with a population exceeding 3,000,000,000 and with flocks so large that they could darken the skies for hours and even days at a time;

Whereas due to unregulated market hunting in the 19th century and deforestation, the passenger pigeon population plummeted toward extinction;

Whereas Project Passenger Pigeon, a consortium of over 150 institutions, scientists, conservationists, educators, artists, musicians, filmmakers, and others throughout the Nation, is using the centenary of the extinction of the species to tell the story of the passenger pigeon; and

Whereas the story of the passenger pigeon, once a symbol of never-ending natural abundance, and its subsequent extinction is unique in the annals of the history of the United States:

Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate commemorates the importance of this centenary, our natural heritage, the sustainability of our ecosystem, and the conservation of our Nation’s wildlife.

Mr. LEVIN (for himself, Mr. KIRK, Ms. STAHENOW, and Ms. BALDWIN) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

Whereas the water resources of the Great Lakes Basin are precious public natural resources, shared by the Great Lakes States and the Canadian Provinces;

Whereas since 1969, the United States and Canada have worked to maintain and improve the water quality of the Great Lakes through water quality agreements;

Whereas more than 40,000,000 people in Canada and the United States depend on the fresh water from the Great Lakes for drinking water;

Whereas Ontario Power Generation is proposing to build a permanent geological repository for nuclear waste less than one mile from Lake Huron in Kincardine, Ontario, Canada;

Whereas nuclear waste is highly toxic and can take tens of thousands of years to decompose to safe levels;

Whereas during the 1980s when the Department of Energy, in accordance with the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 (42 U.S.C. 10101 et seq.), was exploring potential sites for a permanent nuclear waste repository in the United States, the Canadian Government expressed concern with locating a permanent nuclear waste repository within the shared water basins of the 2 countries; and

Whereas a spill of nuclear waste into the Great Lakes could have lasting and severely adverse environmental, health, and economic impacts on the Great Lakes and the people that depend on them for their livelihood; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate—

(1) the Canadian Government should not allow a permanent nuclear waste repository to be built within the Great Lakes Basin;

(2) the President and the Secretary of State should take appropriate action to prevent the Canadian Government from approving a permanent nuclear waste repository from being built within the Great Lakes Basin; and

(3) the President and the Secretary of State should work together with their Canadian Government counterparts on a safe and responsible solution for the long-term storage of nuclear waste.

SENATE RESOLUTION 566—CELEBRATING THE 125TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE STATE OF SOUTH DAKOTA

Mr. THUNE (for himself and Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

Whereas South Dakota joined the Union as a State on November 2, 1889;

Whereas South Dakota serves as a breadbasket for the United States and the world; and

Whereas the agriculture industry in South Dakota produces a $25,600,000,000 economic impact each year;

Whereas South Dakota is among the top 10 producers in the United States of 9 different crops;

Whereas South Dakota is among the top 10 producers in the United States in 5 different animal production areas;

Whereas South Dakota is a land of opportunity and free enterprise;

Whereas South Dakota has an outstanding system of education at every level, teaching students to become leaders and innovators in a variety of fields;

Whereas South Dakotans have gone on to serve proudly and in disproportionately high numbers in the United States Armed Forces; Whereas the US$ South Dakota was commissioned in 1942 and valiantly served in the Pacific during World War II;

Whereas South Dakota is honored to be home to 9 Native American tribes;

Whereas South Dakota boasts the highest mountains between the Appalachians and the Rockies;

Whereas South Dakota supports environmental conservation as home to 6 National parks;

Whereas people from all over the United States travel to South Dakota every year to participate in an annual tradition ofbeansant hunting that has spurred tourism and economic growth and has maintained a heritage important to South Dakotans for generations; and

Whereas South Dakota came to symbolize the commitment of the United States to freedom and democracy by way of the world-famous Mount Rushmore: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate commends and celebrates South Dakota and its people on the State’s 125th anniversary.

SENATE RESOLUTION 567—EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING THE POSSIBLE EASING OF RESTRICTIONS ON THE SALE OF LETHAL MILITARY EQUIPMENT TO THE GOVERNMENT OF VIETNAM

Mr. MCCAIN (for himself, Mr. LEAHY, Mr. CORZINE, Mr. WHITEHOUSE, and Mr. CARDIN) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) Vietnam is an important emerging partner with which the United States increasingly shares strategic and economic interests, including improving bilateral and multilateral capacity for humanitarian assistance and disaster relief, upholding the principles of freedom of navigation and peaceful resolution of international disputes, strengthening an open regional trading order, and maintaining a favorable balance of power in the Asia-Pacific region;

(2) the Government of Vietnam has recently taken modest but encouraging steps to improve its human rights record, including signing the United Nations Convention Against Torture and other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment, adopted by the United Nations General Assembly December 10, 1984, increasing registrations for places of worship, taking greater action to combat human trafficking, reviewing the Criminal Code, and beginning high-level engagement with the United States and international human rights nongovernmental organizations;
Whereas early recognition, diagnosis, and treatment can prevent sepsis fatalities; and

Whereas September 2014 is an appropriate month to designate as ‘National Sepsis Awareness Month’ to raise awareness of sepsis and encourage educating patients, families, health care providers, and government agencies on the importance of early detection as the key for patients to survive sepsis; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, that the Senate designates the month of September 2014 as ‘National Sepsis Awareness Month’;

SENATE RESOLUTION 569—DESIGNATING SEPTEMBER 23, 2014, AS ‘NATIONAL FALLS PREVENTION AWARENESS DAY’ TO RAISE AWARENESS AND ENCOURAGE THE PREVENTION OF FALLS AMONG OLDER ADULTS

Mr. NELSON (for himself, Ms. COLLINS, Ms. MIKULSKI, and Mr. SANDERS) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

Whereas millions of Americans over age 65 or older (referred to in this preamble as ‘older adults’) are the fastest-growing population in the United States;

Whereas the number of older adults in the United States is expected to increase from 35,000,000 older adults in 2000 to 79,700,000 older adults in 2040;

Whereas each year, 1 out of every 3 older adults in the United States falls;

Whereas falls are the leading cause of fatal and nonfatal injuries among older adults;

Whereas in 2010, the total direct medical cost of fall-related injuries for older adults, adjusted for inflation, was $30,000,000,000;

Whereas between 2004 and 2014, the rate of death from fall-related injuries in the United States has risen sharply;

Whereas the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimate that if the rate of increase continues, the annual cost of injuries from falls will reach an estimated $67,700,000,000 by 2020; and

Whereas evidence-based programs show promise in reducing falls by utilizing cost-effective strategies, such as exercise programs to improve balance and strength through exercise programs, improve comprehensive clinical assessments, and reduce hazards in seniors’ homes. That is why today I have put forth this Resolution to designate September 23, 2014, as National Falls Prevention Awareness Day. I thank my colleagues Senator COLLINS, Senators MIKULSKI and SANDERS for joining with me in support of National Falls Prevention Awareness Day. National Falls Prevention Awareness Day seeks to raise awareness and encourage the prevention of falls among older adults. The 72 member organizations of the Falls Free Coalition and the falls prevention coalitions in 42 States and the District of Columbia have worked tirelessly to improve education and awareness about preventing falls among older Americans. We will continue to foster and encourage these coalitions and ensure the safety and independence of our older adults as they age in their homes.

SENATE RESOLUTION 570—DESIGNATING OCTOBER 17, 2014, AS ‘NATIONAL ALTERNATIVE FUEL VEHICLE DAY’

Mr. MANCHIN (for himself, Mr. BURR, Mr. ROCKEFELLER, Ms. MIKULSKI, and Mr. Brown submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

S. Res. 570

Whereas the United States should reduce dependence on foreign oil and enhance energy security by creating a transportation sector that is less dependent on oil;

Whereas the United States should improve air quality in the United States by reducing emissions from the millions of motor vehicles that operate in the United States;

Whereas the United States should foster national expertise and technological advancement in cleaner, more energy-efficient alternative fuel and advanced technology vehicles;

Whereas a robust domestic industry for alternative fuels and alternative fuel and advanced technology vehicles will create jobs and increase the competitiveness of the United States in the international community;

Whereas the people of the United States need more options for clean and energy-efficient transportation;

Whereas mainstream adoption of alternative fuel and advanced technology vehicles will produce benefits at the local, national, and international levels;

Whereas consumption and businesses require a better understanding of the benefits of alternative fuel and advanced technology vehicles;

Whereas first responders require proper comprehensive training to be fully prepared for any precautionary measures that they may need to take during incidents and extrications that involve alternative fuel and advanced technology vehicles;

Whereas the Federal Government can lead the way toward a cleaner and more efficient transportation sector by choosing alternative fuel and advanced technology vehicles for the fleets of the Federal Government;

Whereas Federal support for the adoption of alternative fuel and advanced technology vehicles can accelerate greater energy independence for the United States, improve the environmental security of the United States, and address global climate change: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(A) designates September 17, 2014, as “National Alternative Fuel Vehicle Day”;

(B) proclaims National Alternative Fuel Vehicle Day as a day to promote programs that involve alternative fuel and advanced technology vehicles;

(C) encourage the adoption of Federal policies to advance and adopt alternative, advanced, and emerging vehicle and fuel technologies in order to reduce the dependence of the United States on foreign oil.

SENATE RESOLUTION 571—DESIGNATING SEPTEMBER 30, 2014, AS “UNITED STATES–INDIA PARTNERSHIP DAY”

Mr. Warner (for himself, Mr. Cornyn, and Mr. Menendez) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. Res. 571

Whereas the United States, the oldest democracy in the world, will welcome the Prime Minister of India, the leader of the largest democracy in the world, to the Nation’s capital, on September 30, 2014;

Whereas the United States–India relationship is built on mutual respect for common values, including democracy, the rule of law, market economics, and ethnic and religious diversity, and is bolstered by strong people-to-people connections, including a 3,000,000 strong Indian American diaspora;

Whereas the inherent, tremendous value on the relationship between the United States and India, and the bipartisan Senate India Caucus comprises 42 Senators and is the largest country-specific caucus in the Senate;

Whereas the Indian general election of 2014 was the largest election in Indian history, proving that democracy in India is as strong as it is encompassing of its religious, ethnic, socioeconomic, and cultural diversity;

Whereas the President of the United States congratulated the Prime Minister of India after his party’s election victory and emphasized the “deep bond and commitment to promoting economic opportunity, freedom, and security—that is the bond that unites the United States and India;”

Whereas the 2 largest democracies in the world, the United States and India, have further “deepened” political, business, nonprofit organizations, nongovernmental organizations, artists, entertainers, athletes, scientists, engineers, doctors, nurses, universities, schools, and faiths and the dignity of their citizens by demonstrating the value of an enlightened democratic rule of law, a peaceful government, and freedom from terror, tyranny, and oppression;

Whereas the relationship between the United States and India is vital to promoting stability, democracy, and economic prosperity in the 21st century;

Whereas bilateral trade between the United States and India increased from $19,000,000,000 in 2000 to $95,000,000,000 in 2013; whereas in 2013, the United States exported goods to India totaling $35,000,000,000 and generating 168,000 jobs in the United States; and whereas in 2013, the United States invested more than $28,000,000,000 in India, generating more than 500,000 jobs in India: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates September 30, 2014, as “United States and India Partnership Day”;

(2) proclaims September 30, 2014, as “United States and India Partnership Day”;

(3) recognizes the completion of 4,000 ballistic missile submarines and their devoted families for their continued dedication and sacrifice.

SENATE RESOLUTION 572—COMMORATING THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE WILDERNESS ACT

Mr. Wyden (for himself, Mr. Sessions, Mr. Udall of Colorado, Mr. Alexander, Mr. Udall of New Mexico, Mr. Portman, Mr. Bennet, Mr. Burr, Mr. Harkin, Mr. Kirk, Mr. Markley, Mr. Durbin, Mr. Levin, Ms. Stabenow, Ms. Cantwell, Mr. Johnson of South Dakota, Mr. Menendez, Mr. Reid of Nevada, Mr. Walsh, Mrs. Boxer, Ms. Feinstein, Mr. Booker, Mr. Blumenthal, Ms. Klobuchar, Mrs. Murray, Mr. King, Mr. Coons, Mr. Casey, Mr. Schatz, Ms. Hirono, Mr. Tester, Mr. Heinrich, Mr. Franken, Mr. Sanders, Mr. Merkley, Mr. Warner, Ms. Baldwin, Ms. Mikulski, Mr. Cardin, Mr. Rockefeller, Mr. Murphy, Mrs. Hagan, and Ms. Warren) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. Res. 572

Whereas the United States Submarine Force recently completed the 4,000th deterrent patrol of a ballistic missile submarine (SSBN); whereas this milestone is significant for the Submarine Force, its crews and their families, the United States Navy, and the entire country; whereas this milestone was reached through the combined efforts and impressive achievements of all of the submariners who have participated in such patrols since the first patrol of USS George Washington (SSBN 598) in 1960;

Whereas, as a result of the dedication and commitment to excellence of the Sailors of the United States Submarine Force, ballistic missile submarines have always been ready and vigilant, reassuring United States allies and deterring anyone who might seek to do harm to the United States or United States allies;

Whereas the national maritime strategy of the United States recognizes the critical need for strategic deterrence in today’s uncertain world;

Whereas the true strength of the ballistic missile submarine lies in the extremely tall, non-maneuverable, vulnerable, and motivated Sailors who have voluntarily chosen to serve in the submarine community;

Whereas the inherent stealth, unparalleled firepower, and nearly limitless endurance of the ballistic missile submarine provide a credible deterrent for any enemies that would seek to use force against the United States or United States allies: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) congratulates the Sailors of the United States Submarine Force upon the completion of 4,000 ballistic missile submarine (SSBN) deterrent patrols; and

(2) honors and thanks the crews of ballistic missile submarines and their devoted families for their continued dedication and sacrifice.

Whereas the United States–India relationship is a special and permanent bond;

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

September 18, 2014

Henry David Thoreau, Willa Cather, George Perkins Marsh, Mary Hunter Austin, David James Duncan, and John Muir, poets such as William Cullen Bryant, and painters such as Thomas Cole, Frederic Church, Frederic Remington, and Albert Bierstadt, and Thomas Moran, helped define the distinct cultural value of wild nature and concept of wilderness in the United States; Wherein Senator Stephen W. Hildebrand, Democrat Theodore Roosevelt, who reveled in outdoor pursuits, have sought to ensure the widest use of natural resources, so as to provide the greatest good for the greatest number of people's needs; Whereas luminaries in the conservation movement, such as scientist Aldo Leopold, writer Howard Zahniser, teacher Sigurd Olson, biologists Olaus, Adolph, and Margaret "Mardy" Murie, and conservationists David Brower and Marjory Stoneman Douglas, envisioned and ardently advocated for a national system of protected wilderness areas and believed that the people of the United States could and should protect and preserve wilderness so that wilderness lasts well into the future; Whereas legislators such as Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, a Democrat from Minnesota, Senator Clinton P. Anderson, a Democrat from New Mexico, and Representative John Saylor, a Republican from Pennsylvania, introduced versions of the Wilderness Act into Congress and worked tirelessly along with colleagues for 8 years to secure its passage with bipartisan votes of 78 to 12 in the Senate and 373 to 1 in the House of Representatives; Whereas President Lyndon B. Johnson signed the Wilderness Act into law in the Rose Garden on September 3, 1964; Whereas, over the 50 years since the enactment of the Wilderness Act, various Presidents from both parties, leaders of Congress, and experts in the land management agencies within the Departments of the Interior and Agriculture have expanded and improved the system of wilderness protection created by the Wilderness Act; Whereas the Wilderness Act instituted an unambiguous national policy to recognize the national value of the United States as a valuable resource and protect wilderness for the good of future generations; Whereas wilderness provides billions of dollars of ecosystem services in the form of safe drinking water, clean air, and recreational opportunities; Whereas 44 States have protected wilderness areas; and Whereas President Gerald R. Ford stated that the National Wilderness Preservation System "serves a basic need of all Americans, even those who may never visit a wilderness area—the preservation of a vital element in our national heritage" and that "wilderness preservation ensures that a central facet of our Nation can still be realized, not just remembered"; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(2) recognizes and commends the extraordinary work of the individuals and organizations involved in building and maintaining the National Wilderness Preservation System; and
(3) is grateful for wilderness, a tremendous asset the United States continues to preserve as a gift to future generations.

SENATE RESOLUTION 574—DESIGNATING THE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 20 THROUGH SEPTEMBER 27, 2014, AS "NATIONAL ESTUARIES WEEK" Mr. WHITEHOUSE (for himself, Mrs. SHAHAN, Ms. CANTWELL, Mr. WARNER, Mr. BLUMENTHAL, Mr. MENENDEZ, Mr. BOOKER, Mr. REED of Rhode Island, Ms. WARNER, Ms. MURKOSKI, Mr. COONS, Mr. MARKEY, Mr. NELSON, Mr. DURBIN, Ms. LANDRIEU, Mrs. MURRAY, Mrs. BOXER, Ms. HIRONO, Mr. KING, Ms. COLLINS, Mrs. GILLIBRAND, Ms. BALDWIN, Mr. CARDIN, Mr. COCHRAN, Mrs. FEINSTEIN, Mr. HASCUP, and Ms. AYOTTE) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

WHEREAS the estuary regions of the United States constitute a significant share of the economic activity of the United States, with as much as 42 percent of the gross domestic product of the United States generated in coastal shoreline counties; WHEREAS the population of coastal shoreline counties in the United States increased by 39 percent from 1970 to 2010 and is projected to continue to increase; WHEREAS not less than 1,900,000 jobs in the United States are supported by marine tourism and recreation; WHEREAS the commercial fishing, recreational fishing, and seafood industries rely on healthy estuaries and directly support 1,681,000 jobs in the United States; WHEREAS in 2010 commercial fish landings generated $5,100,000,000 and recreational anglers took more than 70,000,000 fishing trips and spent $24,600,000,000; WHEREAS estuaries provide vital habitats for countless species of fish and wildlife, including many species that are listed as threatened or endangered species; WHEREAS estuaries provide critical ecosystem services that protect human health and public safety, including water filtration, flood control, shoreline stabilization, erosion protection, and maintenance of coastal communities during hurricanes and storms; WHEREAS the United States has lost more than 110,000,000 acres of wetland, or 50 percent of the wetlands of the United States, since the first European settlers arrived; WHEREAS some bays in the United States that were once filled with fish and oysters have become dead zones filled with excess nutrients, chemical wastes, harmful algae, and marine debris; WHEREAS changes in sea level can affect estuarine water quality and estuarine habitats; WHEREAS the Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972 (16 U.S.C. 1451 et seq.) provides the policy for the United States to preserve, protect, develop, and, if possible, restore or enhance the resources of the coastal zone of the United States, including estuaries, for current and future generations; WHEREAS 24 coastal and Great Lakes States and territories of the United States operate a National Estuary Program or contain a National Estuary Reserve; WHEREAS scientific study leads to a better understanding of the benefits of estuaries to human and ecological communities; WHEREAS Federal, State, local, and tribal governments, national and community organizations, and individuals work together to effectively manage the estuaries of the United States; WHEREAS estuary restoration efforts restore natural infrastructure in local communities in a cost-effective manner, helping to create jobs and reestablish the natural functions of estuaries that yield countless benefits; and WHEREAS the week of September 20 through September 27, 2014, has been designated as "National Estuaries Week" to increase awareness among all people of the United States, including Federal Government and State and local government officials, about the importance of healthy estuaries and the need to protect and restore estuaries: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates the week of September 20 through September 27, 2014, as "National Estuaries Week";
(2) supports the goals and ideals of National Estuaries Week;
(3) acknowledges the importance of estuaries to sustaining employment in the United States and the economic well-being and prosperity of the United States;
(4) recognizes that persistent threats undermine the health of the estuaries of the United States;
(5) applauds the work of national and community organizations and public partners that promote public awareness, understanding, protection, and restoration of estuaries;
(6) reaffirms the support of the Senate for estuaries, including the scientific study, preservation, protection, and restoration of estuaries; and
(7) expresses the intent of the Senate to continue working to understand, protect, and restore the estuaries of the United States.

SENATE RESOLUTION 575—DESIGNATING SEPTEMBER 2014 AS "NATIONAL PROSTATE CANCER AWARENESS MONTH" Mr. SESSIONS (for himself, Mr. SHELBY, Mr. CARDIN, Mr. MORAN, Mrs. BOXER, Ms. AYOTTE, Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota, Mrs. FEINSTEIN, Mr. MARKEY, Mr. COCHRAN, Mr. MENENDEZ, Mr. BLUNT, Mr. VITTER, Mr. WYDEN, and Mr. CHAMBLISS) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

WHEREAS over 2,900,000 families in the United States live with prostate cancer; WHEREAS 1 in 7 males in the United States will be diagnosed with prostate cancer in their lifetime; WHEREAS prostate cancer is the most commonly diagnosed non-skin cancer and the second leading cause of cancer-related deaths among males in the United States; WHEREAS the National Cancer Institute estimates that, in 2014, 233,000 men will be diagnosed with, and more than 29,000 men will die from prostate cancer; WHEREAS 40 percent of newly diagnosed prostate cancer cases occur in males under the age of 65; WHEREAS approximately every 7.5 seconds, a male in the United States turns 50 years old and increases his odds of developing cancer, including prostate cancer; WHEREAS African-American men suffer from a prostate cancer incidence rate that is up to 60 percent higher than that for white males and have double the prostate cancer mortality rate than that of white males; WHEREAS obesity is a significant predictor of the severity of prostate cancer; WHEREAS the probability of obesity will lead to death and high cholesterol levels is strongly associated with advanced prostate cancer;
WHEREAS males in the United States with 1 family member diagnosed with prostate cancer have a 33 percent chance of being diagnosed with the disease, males with 2 close family members diagnosed have a 65 percent chance, and males with 3 family members diagnosed have a 97 percent chance;

WHEREAS screening by a digital rectal examination and a blood test can detect the disease in the early stages, increasing the chances of survival for more than 5 years to nearly 100 percent;

WHEREAS 2 percent of males survive more than 5 years if diagnosed with prostate cancer after the cancer has metastasized;

WHEREAS there are no noticeable symptoms of prostate cancer while it is in the early stages, making screening critical;

WHEREAS ongoing research promises further improvements in prostate cancer prevention, early detection, and treatment; and

WHEREAS educating people in the United States, including health care providers, about prostate cancer and early detection strategies is crucial to saving the lives of males and preserving and protecting families: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates September 2014 as "National Prostate Cancer Awareness Month";

(2) declares that steps should be taken—

(A) to raise awareness about the importance of screening methods for, and treatment of, prostate cancer;

(B) to increase research funding to a level that is commensurate with the burden of prostate cancer;

(i) screening and treatment for prostate cancer;

(ii) the causes of prostate cancer may be discovered;

(iii) a cure for prostate cancer may be developed; and

(C) to continue to consider ways for improving access to, and the quality of, health care services for detecting and treating prostate cancer; and

(3) calls on the people of the United States, interest groups, and affected persons—

(A) to promote awareness of prostate cancer;

(B) to take an active role in the fight to end the devastating effects of prostate cancer on individuals, families, and the economy; and

(C) to observe National Prostate Cancer Awareness Month with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 44—PROVIDING FOR A CONDITIONAL ADJOURNMENT OR RECESS OF THE SENATE AND AN ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. REID submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. Con. Res. 44

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate recesses or adjourns on any day from Thursday, September 18, 2014, through Tuesday, October 14, 2014, on a motion offered pursuant to this concurrent resolution by its Majority Leader or his designee, it stand re- cessed or adjourned until 12:00 noon on Wednesday, October 15, 2014, or such other time on that day as may be specified by its Majority Leader or his designee, or until the time of any reassembly pursuant to section 2 of this concurrent resolution, whichever occurs first; and that when the House is in recess or adjourned at the start of any legislative day from Thursday, September 18, 2014, through Friday, November 7, 2014, on a motion offered pursuant to this concurrent resolution by its Majority Leader or his designee, it stand adjourned until 2:00 p.m. on Wednesday, November 12, 2014, or until the time of any reassembly pursuant to section 3 of this concurrent resolution, whichever occurs first.

SEC. 2. (a) The Majority Leader of the Senate or his designee, after concurrence with the Minority Leader or his designee, shall notify the Members of the Senate to reassemble at such place and time as he may designate if, in his opinion, the public interest shall warrant it.

(b) After reassembly pursuant to subsection (a), when the Senate adjourns on a motion offered pursuant to subsection (a), the Majority Leader or his designee, the Senate shall again stand adjourned pursuant to the first section of this concurrent resolution.

SEC. 3. (a) The Speaker or his designee, after consultation with the Majority Leader of the House, shall notify the Members of the House to reassemble at such place and time as he may designate if, in his opinion, the public interest shall warrant it.

At the end of subtitle D of title XII, add the following:

SEC. 1258. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON OPPORTUNITIES TO STRENGTHEN THE ALLIANCE: STATES-REPUBLIC OF KOREA RELATIONSHIP.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the alliance between the United States and the Republic of Korea has served as an anchor for stability, security, and prosperity on the peninsula, in the Asia-Pacific region, and around the world;

(2) the people and the Governments of the United States and the Republic of Korea continue to adapt the alliance to serve as a linchpin of peace and stability in the Asia-Pacific region, recognizing the shared values of democracy, human rights, and the rule of law as the foundations of the alliance;

(3) the people and the Governments of the United States and the Republic of Korea share deep concerns that North Korea’s nuclear and ballistic missiles programs and its repeated provocations pose grave threats to peace and stability on the Korean Peninsula and Northeast Asia, recognize that both nations are determined to achieve the peaceful denuclearization of North Korea, and remain fully committed to continuing close cooperation on the full range of issues related to North Korea;

(4) the Governments of the United States and the Republic of Korea are working closely together to realize a Korean denuclearization, free of nuclear weapons, from the fear of war, and peacefully reunited on the basis of democratic and free market principles;

(5) the United States Government supports the goals and vision articulated in President Park Geun Hye’s March 28, 2014, Dresden Address on unification to include family reunification, humanitarian assistance targeting mothers and children, infrastructure projects, cultural and educational exchange programs, and reconfirms its commitment to help realize such goals and vision; and

(6) the United States Government supports the concrete steps that President Park has taken to proceed to the creation of the Presidential Committee on Unification and the proposal to create an International Peace Park at the DMZ.

(7) the United States Government fully recognizes that the United States-Korea alliance will play a pivotal role in achieving unification on the Korean Peninsula;

(8) the Governments of the United States and the Republic of Korea are strengthening the combined defense posture on the Korean Peninsula;

(9) the Governments of the United States and the Republic of Korea have decided that due to the evolving security environment in the region, including the enduring North Korean nuclear and missile threat, the current timeline to the transition of wartime operational control (OPCON) to a Republic of Korea-lead defense in 2015 can be reconsidered; and

(10) the United States Government welcomes the Republic of Korea’s ratification of a new five-year Special Measures Agreement, which establishes the framework for Republic of Korea contributions to offset the costs associated with the stationing of United States Forces Korea on the Korean Peninsula.

Mr. BROWN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of title VII, add the following:

Subtitle D—Mental Health Exposure Tracking

SEC. 741. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the "Mental Health Exposure Military Official Record Act of 2014.

SEC. 742. PRELUDE.

The purpose of this subtitle is to implement a significant event tracker (SET) system to train and enable members of the Armed Forces, including members of the reserve components thereof, to track exposures to traumatic events and address mental health issues incurred after service.

SEC. 743. DEFINITIONS.

In this subtitle:

(1) UNIT COMMANDER DEFINED.—The term "unit commander" means an individual in the chain of command with authority over the member concerned under the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

(2) D REPORTABLE EVENT INCLUDES.—The term "reportable event" includes—

(A) a kinetic combat patrol;

(B) witnessed loss of life, dismemberment, or significant physical injury in a combat operation, expeditionary operation, or peace-time regular training;

(C) an injury or exposure that may constitute a traumatic brain injury (TBI), including a concussive or mechanical event involving the head that occurs in a combat operation, expeditionary operation, or peace-time regular training;

(D) victimization or witnessing of a sexual assault; and

(E) any other event determined by the Secretary of Defense to be potentially traumatic to an affected individual.

(3) RESERVE COMPONENT DEFINED.—The term "reserve component" means a reserve component of the Armed Forces as defined in section 10101 of title 10, United States Code.

SEC. 744. REQUIREMENT TO IMPLEMENT SET SYSTEM.

Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall prescribe regulations to implement the significant event tracker system described under subsection (b) of this title referred to as the "SET system".

SEC. 745. SIGNIFICANT EVENT TRACER (SET) SYSTEM.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary of Defense shall establish a SET system to track, report, and summarize individual exposures to traumatic events for the purpose of enabling former members of the Armed Forces, including members of the reserve components thereof, to show evidence of possible traumatic events incurred during their service.

(b) RECORDING OF EVENTS.—

(1) RESPONSIBILITY.—

(A) UNIT COMMANDERS.—A unit commander may enter a reportable event that affects the entire unit and its members or delegate to a leader of a subunit of the unit commander's command the entry of reportable events affecting the subunit.

(B) INDIVIDUAL REPORTING.—A unit commander may choose to delegate event reporting to the individual members of units who are employed for short-term, temporary (less than 30 days) detachments and individual augments which, by the nature of their mission, preclude the persistent inclusion in one common reviewing unit. The delegate may be until a predetermined date such as the end of a deployment or on a 30-day basis, as determined by the unit commander.

(C) MEDICAL TREATMENT FACILITY.—A medical treatment facility may directly enter a reportable event affecting a member of the Armed Forces undergoing treatment at such facility for an injury identified by a military medical personnel or as reported by a member of the Armed Forces to such an individual.

(d) COMMAND REVIEW.—The Secretary of Defense shall issue guidance regarding the entry of reportable events involving members of the Armed Forces that occur while in duty status outside of military installations and are initially reported to the local non-military law enforcement or non-military medical facility.

(F) REPORTING OF PREVIOUS INCIDENTS FOR CURRENTLY SERVING SERVICEMEMBERS.—The Secretary of Defense shall issue guidance regarding the potential entry of past reportable events involving currently serving members of the Armed Forces that occurred earlier in their career.

SEC. 746. SIGNIFICANT REPORTED INFORMATION.—Each entry for a reportable event shall include the following information:

(A) Name, date, location, and unit.

(B) Duty Status.

(C) Type of event.

(D) Whether a physical injury was sustained as a result, and if so, the extent of such injury.

(E) Information as required by the Secretary of Defense.

(c) VERIFICATION OF EVENTS.—

(1) EVENTS REPORTED BY INDIVIDUALS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—A reportable event entered by an individual member under subsection (b)(1)(A) shall be reviewed by the unit commander for purposes of verifying, contesting, or denying the event.

(B) VERIFICATION TOOLS.—In reviewing reportable events under subparagraph (A), the unit commander shall use all available verification tools, including Department of Defense reports, unit historical creditable witnesses such as patrol leaders, and any other evidence deemed appropriate by the unit commander.

(c) GUIDANCE.—The Secretary of Defense shall issue guidance designed to ensure that entries submitted to a unit commander for review are handled accurately with discretion, and in a timely manner, recognizing the challenges posed by operational tempo and competing time demands.

(2) EVENTS REPORTED BY THE UNIT COMMANDERS OR DELEGATES.—Reportable events entered by a unit commander or delegate under subsection (b)(1)(A), other than reportable events involving victimization or witnessing of a sexual assault, shall be submitted directly to the secure central tracking database under subsection (e).

(d) COMMAND REVIEW.—

(1) AUTHORITY AND RESPONSIBILITY.—The commanding officer has responsibility for reviewing and determining the disposition of a reportable event involving the member submitted pursuant to paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (b). The Secretary of Defense, assigned to each secure central tracking database under subsection (e).

(2) DISPOSITION.—The commanding officer shall, in accordance with guidance issued by the Secretary of Defense, assign to each reportable event one of the following designations:
(A) Approved, in the case of clear documentation and verification of the facts and the individual's exposure.
(B) Approved/Contested, in the case of clear documentation and verification of the occurrence of the event, but where the commanding officer has reasonable doubt for approval of the reportable event.
(C) Contested, in the case of questionable documentation or verification, but where the commanding officer has reasonable doubt for denial of the reportable event.
(D) Denied, where there is no clear evidence of the facts or the member's exposure.

(3) NON-REMoval of DESIGNATION.—Each reportable event that is approved, contested, or denied under subsection (2) shall be entered into the secure central tracking database and may not be removed or deleted, regardless of designation.

(4) Create secure central tracking database.—

(1) STORAGE of INFORMATION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—All reportable events shall be submitted to a secure central tracking database, either indirectly pursuant to subsection (d), or directly pursuant to paragraphs (3) or (4) of subsection (c) or, in the case of a reportable event involving victimization or assisting of a sexual assault or paragraph (2) of subsection (c). The database shall serve as the central repository for all reports generated in connection with non-military and military service of the Armed Forces, including for purposes of preparing the member's official SET record upon separation from service.

(B) ADDITIONAL LIMITATIONS on ACCESS.—

(i) CLASSIFIED and SENSITIVE OPERATIONS.—The secure central tracking database shall include measures to ensure that information related to classified and sensitive operations is coded so as to document the event without violating operational security concerns.

(ii) SEXuAL ASSAult CASEs.—The secure central tracking database shall include measures to ensure that information related to sexual assault cases in the secure central tracking database is coded in order to protect privacy and to correctly reflect the status, and protect the integrity, of ongoing investigations.

(iii) CONFIDENTIALITy of INDIVIDUAL records.—An individual member’s complete SET record and individual entries may not be reviewed by the member’s unit command or management of command and may not be used by anyone for the purpose of evaluating promotion, reenlistment, or assignment issues.

(C) USE BY MEDICAL TREATMENT FACILITIES.—Medical treatment facilities shall be provided access to the secure central tracking database for purposes of entering reportable events under section (b)(1)(C) and for the limited purpose of purposes of diagnosing patterns and trends related to crimes committed inside their jurisdiction. The summary shall not include specific information about events, evidence, or individual members, including private personal information such as names and social security numbers.

(D) USE BY MILITARY LAW ENFORCEMENT and CRIMINAL INVESTIGATIVE SERVICES.—Military law enforcement and criminal investigative services shall be provided general access to the secure central tracking database for purposes of examining reportable events and generating official SET records in order to find evidence related to crimes committed inside their jurisdiction. The summary shall not include specific information about events, evidence, or individual members, including private personal information such as names and social security numbers.

(E) AMENDING OFFICIAL SET records for Purposes of MILITARY and NON-MILITARY DISCIPLINARY and JUDICIAL PROCEEDINGS.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—An individual member's complete SET record and individual entries may, with the explicit consent of the member, be reviewed, evaluated, and shared with others.

(ii) In the case of a military disciplinary or judicial hearing or proceeding, the member's military and civilian legal representative or representatives, unit commander, or military judge for the purpose of addressing concerns related to such hearing or proceeding; and

(iii) In the case of a non-military disciplinary or judicial hearing or proceeding, the member’s civilian legal representative or representatives for the purpose of addressing concerns related to such hearing or proceeding.

(F) Access in CASES of MENTAL INCPACITY.—The Secretary of Defense shall process the complaints and access to a servicemember's SET record for servicemembers who have been determined to be mentally incapable and are unable to provide their own consent or objection to the release of personal information.

(G) UNIT COmandER REVIEW.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—As provided in clause (ii), unit commanders may only view individual pending entries that have been submitted to them for review and designation, and may not view previous entries that have already been reviewed and designated.

(ii) ADMINISTRATIVE ACCESS.—Unit commanders may only access entries that have already been reviewed for purposes of entering reportable events relating to a member of the Armed Forces, including for purposes of preparing the member’s official SET record upon separation from service.

SA 3876. Mr. PAUL submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of title B of title X, add the following:

SEC. 7047. PROHIBITION ON TERMINATION OF C-130 ACTIVE ASSOCIATE UNITS OF THE AIR FORCE.

(a) PROHIBITION.—The Secretary of the Air Force may not—

(1) terminate any C-130 active associate unit of a reserve component of the Air Force in existence as of October 1, 2013;

(2) reduce the number, or number, or airmen assigned to C-130 active associate units of the reserve components of the Air Force to fewer than the number authorized for assignment, to such units as of October 1, 2013; or

(3) reduce the number of aircraft assigned to C-130 active associate units of the reserve components of the Air Force from the number so assigned as of October 1, 2014.

(b) OFFSET.—The amount authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2015 by title XV maintenance is hereby reduced by $13,850,000.

SA 3878. Mr. BEGICH (for himself and Ms. HIRONO) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of title D of title XXVIII, add the following:

SEC. 2835. LAND CONVEYANCE, WAINWRIGHT, ALASKA.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section 102 of the Naval Petroleum Reserves Production Act of 1976 (43 U.S.C. 201 et seq.), the Secretary of the Air Force shall convey to the Olgoonik Corporation, an Alaska Native Corporation established under the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (43 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.), by quitclaim deed all right, title, and interest of the United States in the parcels of real property described in subsection (d) and as authorized by the President as the Bureau of Land Management, Alaska Native Interest Site in the National Petroleum Reserve near Wainwright, Alaska, that is currently subject to a right-of-way reservation issued to the United States Air Force by the Bureau of Land Management, BLM case file number F-81468.

(b) CONSIDERATION.—As consideration for the conveyance under subsection (a), the Corporation shall pay to the Secretary an amount that is not less than the fair market value of the property conveyed, as determined by an independent appraiser selected by the Secretary and in accordance with the Uniform Appraisal Standards for Federal Land Acquisitions (41 U.S.C. 402 et seq.), and the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice.

(c) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—

(1) PAYMENT REQUIRED.—The Secretary shall require the Corporation to cover costs that are incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, or to reimburse the Secretary for such costs, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a).

(2) TREATMENT OF AMOUNTS RECEIVED.—Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(d) PROPERTY DESCRIPTION.—The parcel of real property conveyed in subsection (a) consists of Lots 1, 2, and 3, Survey 2252, approximately 1,518.95 acres, including improvements thereon.
(e) DATE OF TRANSFER.—The conveyance under subsection (a) shall take place as soon as practicable after any necessary environmental remediation activities at the parcel are certified by the applicable State or Federal Government entities as complete.

(f) REMEDIATION ACTIVITIES.—The Secretary of the Air Force shall retain responsibility for the implementation and completion of remedial action upon the parcels of conveyed real property described in subsection (b) as well as for implementation of any necessary actions at and around the parcel to address contamination identified in the future where the contamination was the result of Air Force activities.

(2) SMALL COMMUNITY OF RIGHT OF WAY PERMITS AND LEASES.—Upon completion of the conveyance, all existing right-of-way grants or leases issued by the Bureau of Land Management or the Air Force authorizing use of the parcels by the Air Force or Olgoonik Corporation shall be revoked.

(b) ABBREVIATION OF ENVIRONMENTAL CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SA 3880: Mr. UDALL of New Mexico submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to preclude military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

On page 69, after line 19, add the following:

SEC. 317. BROWNFIELDS UTILIZATION, INVESTMENT, AND LOCAL DEVELOPMENT.

(a) EXPANDED ELIGIBILITY FOR NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS.—Section 104(k)(1) of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 9604(k)(1)) is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (G), by striking ''or'' after the semicolon;

```

(i) a facility that generates renewable electricity from wind, solar, or geothermal energy; and

(ii) any energy efficiency improvement project at a facility, including combined heat and power and district energy.
```

(iii) REQUIREMENT FOR ADMINISTRATIVE COST.—The Administrator shall establish a program to provide grants—

```
(i) to eligible entities to carry out inventory, characterization, assessment, planning, feasibility analysis, design, or remediation activities to locate a clean energy project at 1 or more brownfield sites; and

(ii) to capitalize a revolving loan fund for the purposes described in clause (i).

```
(B) MAXIMUM AMOUNT.—A grant under this paragraph shall not exceed $500,000.
```

```
(II) design and performance of a response action; or
```

```
(III) monitoring of a natural resource.
```

```
```

(j) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator shall—

```
(1) by striking 'The Administrator' and inserting the following:
```

```
(i) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator; and
```

```
(2) by inserting after clause (i) the following:

```
(ii) REQUIREMENTS.—In carrying out the program under clause (i), the Administrator shall give priority to small communities, Indian tribes, rural communities, or small business enterprises to support the development and expansion of clean energy industry in the proposed area in which the multipurpose brownfield sites are located.
```

```

(k) ALLOWING ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS FOR PROGRAMS.—In section 104(k)(1) of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 9604(k)) (as redesignated by subsection (b)(1)), subsection (b)(1) is amended—

```
```

SEC. 354. USE OF AIR NATIONAL GUARD AND AIR NATIONAL GUARD RESERVE FOR INITIAL ARMY RESPONSE TO FIGHTING WILDFIRES.

(a) INTERAGENCY AGREEMENTS.—Subject to subsection (b), in order to prevent the loss of life and reduce property losses from wildfires, section 155(a)(4) of title 31, United States Code, shall not apply to limit the use of interagency agreements with the Air National Guard or Air Force Reserve to procure the services of a unit of the Air National Guard or Air Force Reserve to construct and maintain firefighting assets, excluding privately contracted fixed-wing aerial firefighting aircraft, including Modular Airborne Fire Fighting System (MAFFS) units, in the airborne response to fighting wildfires.

(b) LIMITATIONS.—Section 155(a)(4) of title 31, United States Code, shall not apply to interagency agreements described in subsection (a) only when a requesting agency determines that—

(1) privately contracted fixed-wing aerial firefighting aircraft are unavailable; or

(2) there is an unfilled request for fixed-wing aerial firefighting aircraft, including MAFFS units, to perform an initial airborne response; or

(3) fixed-wing aerial firefighting aircraft, including MAFFS aircraft, are needed to supplement privately contracted fixed-wing aerial firefighting aircraft.

(c) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section shall be interpreted as diminishing the role of contractor owned and operated fixed-wing aircraft as the primary source of aerial firefighting assets for the Federal wildland firefighting agencies.

SEC. 2862. STUDY.

Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense, after consultation with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, shall submit a report to Congress that—

(1) describes the options to use the Brownfields program to redevelop domestic defense facilities that are no longer used by the military for the purposes of revitalizing local communities; and

(2) describes potential grant funding opportunities between the two agencies to advance redevelopment of unused domestic defense facilities; and

(b) CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

September 18, 2014

(a) In General.—Section 402 of the Pension Protection Act of 2006 (29 U.S.C. 1053) is amended by redesignating subsection (j) as subsection (k), and by inserting after subsection (i) the following new subsection:

"(j) Determining the Amortization Period for the First Plan Year Commencing on January 1, 2014.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The rules of paragraphs (3) and (4) shall apply in the case of a plan and plan year that—

"(A) made an initial election under subsection (a)(2) before January 1, 2013, and

"(B) satisfies the requirements of paragraphs (3) and (4) as of the date of the enactment of this Act.

"(2) REFORMED AMORTIZATION PERIODS BEGINNING IN 2014.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The rules of paragraphs (3) and (4) shall apply in the case of a plan and plan year that—

"(A) made an initial election under subsection (a)(2) prior to January 1, 2008, and

"(B) satisfies the requirements of paragraphs (3) and (4) as of the date of the enactment of this Act.

"(2) REQUIREMENTS.—The requirements of this paragraph are satisfied if—

"(A) no applicable benefit increase (as defined in subsection (b)(3)(B)) takes effect at any time during the period beginning on November 29, 2011, and ending on the day before the first day of the first plan year beginning in 2014, and

"(B) the requirements of subsection (b)(2)(A)(i) are satisfied as of January 1, 2013, for the plan for which the initial election under subsection (a)(2) was made (treating the plan year commencing on January 1, 2013, as the first applicable plan year for purposes of such requirements).

"(3) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Effective for the first plan year beginning on, or after January 1, 2014, and for each subsequent plan year through the end of the 17-year period described under subparagraph (A), the plan sponsor shall apply section 303 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 and section 430 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 by—

"(1) determining the amortization period as a 17-year period beginning on January 1, 2005, and

"(2) amortizing any funding shortfall in equal annual installments over the portion of the 17-year amortization period remaining as of the date of the enactment of the Brownfields Utilization, Investment, and Local Development Act of 2013 (with all previously established shortfall amortization periods considered fully amortized),

"(3) calculating the funding shortfall as the product of $2.25 percent (rather than the segment rates calculated on the basis of the corporate bond yield curve) in determining the funding target and shortfall amortization periods, and

"(4) excluding any plan-related expenses expected to be paid from plan assets during the plan year.

"(4) AUTOMATIC REVOCATION OF ELECTION MADE UNDER THE PRESERVATION OF ACCESS TO CARE FOR MEDICARE BENEFICIARIES AND PENSION RELIEF ACT OF 2010.—In the case of a plan sponsor that elected to defer the increase in the minimum funding standard for fiscal years 2009, 2010, and 2011 under section 303(c)(2)(D)(iv) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 and section 430(c)(2)(D)(iv) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, the election shall be revoked notwithstanding subclause (II) of section 303(c)(2)(D)(iv) of such Act and section 430(c)(2)(D)(iv) of such Code, respectively.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to plan years ending after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SA 3895. Mr. RUBIO submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows: At the end of subtitle A of title XII, add the following:

"SEC. 1213. INCREASED MILITARY ASSISTANCE FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF UKRAINE.

"(a) In General.—The President is authorized to provide defense articles, defense services, and training to the Government of Ukraine for the purpose of counteracting offensive weapons and reestablishing the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Ukraine, including littoral weapon systems, crew weapons and ammunition, counter-artillery radars to identify and target artillery batteries, fire control, range finder, and optical and guidance equipment, tactical troop-operated surveillance drones, and secure command and communications equipment, pursuant to the provisions of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2751 et seq.), the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2151 et seq.), and other relevant provisions of law.

"(b) Report Required.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the President shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report that includes—

"(1) a detailed description of the anticipated defense articles, defense services, and training to be provided pursuant to this section;

"(2) a timeline for the provision of such defense articles, defense services, and training; and

"(3) a list of defense articles, defense services, and training authorized to be provided by subsection (a) that have been requested by the Government of Ukraine but are not being provided and an explanation with respect to why such defense articles, defense services, and training are not being provided.

"(c) Authorization of Appropriations.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary of State $550,000,000 for fiscal year 2015 to carry out activities under this section.

"(2) AVAILABILITY OF AMOUNTS.—Amounts authorized to be appropriated pursuant to paragraph (1) shall remain available for obligation and expenditure through the end of fiscal year 2015.

"(d) Authority for the Use of Funds.—The funds made available pursuant to subsection (c) for provision of defense articles, defense services, and training shall be used to procure such articles, services, and training from the United States Government or other appropriate sources.

"(e) Definitions.—In this section:

"(1) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES.—The term ‘appropriate congressional committees’ means—

"(A) the Committee on Foreign Relations, the Committee on Appropriations, and the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate; and

"(B) the Committee on Foreign Affairs, the Committee on Appropriations, and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives.

"(2) DEFENSE ARTICLE; DEFENSE SERVICE; TRAINING.—The terms ‘defense article’, ‘defense service’, and ‘training’ have the meanings given those terms in section 47 of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2772).

SA 3896. Mr. RUBIO submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows: At the end of subtitle C of title X, add the following:

"SEC. 1025. TRANSFER OF NAVAL VESSELS TO CERTAIN FOREIGN RECIPIENTS.

"(a) Transfers by Grant.—The President is authorized to transfer vessels to foreign governments for purposes of defense, pursuant to section 516 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2321), as follows:

"(1) The Government of Mexico, the OLIVER HAZARD PERRY class guided missile frigates USS CURTS (FFG–38) and USS MCCUSKY (FFG–41).

"(2) The Government of Thailand, the OLIVER HAZARD PERRY class guided missile frigates USS RENTZ (FFG–46) and USS VANDERGRIFT (FFG–45).

"(b) Transfer by Sale.—The President is authorized to transfer the OLIVER HAZARD PERRY class guided missile frigates USS TAYLOR (FFG–49), USS GARY (FFG–51), and the guided missile frigates USS FT McCLERNAND (FFG–55) to the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office of the United States (which is the Taiwan instrumentality designated pursuant to section 552 of the Taiwan Relations Act (22 U.S.C. 2339a) on a sale basis under section 21 of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2781).

"(c) Alternative Transfer Authority.—Notwithstanding the authority provided in subsections (a) and (b) to transfer specific vessels to specific countries, the President is authorized, subject to the same conditions that would apply for such country under this Act, to transfer any vessel named in this Act to any other country that the President determines that the total number of vessels transferred to such country does not exceed the total number of vessels authorized for transfer to such country by this Act.

"(d) Grants Not Counted in Annual Total of Transferred Excess Defense Articles.—The value of a vessel transferred to another country on a grant basis pursuant to authority provided by subsection (a) or (c) shall not be counted against the aggregate value of excess defense articles transferred in any fiscal year under section 516 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2321).

"(e) Costs of Transfers.—Any expense incurred by the United States in connection with a transfer authorized by this section shall be charged to the recipient not withstanding subsection (a)(1) of section 516(e) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2321).

"(f) Repair and Refurbishment in United States Shipyards.—To the maximum extent practicable, the President shall require, as a condition of the transfer of a vessel under this section, that the recipient to which the vessel is transferred have such repair or refurbishment of the vessel as is needed, before the vessel joins the naval forces of that recipient, performed at a shipyard located in the United States, including a United States Navy shipyard.

"(g) Expiration of Authorization.—The authorization to transfer a vessel under this section shall expire at the end of the 3-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SA 3897. Mr. RUBIO submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows: At the end of subtitle C of title X, add the following:

SEC. 1247. REPORT ON NON-COMPLIANCE WITH THE INF TREATY.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The Russian Federation is in material breach of its obligations under the Treaty between the United States of America and the Russian Federation of a ground launched战役 weapon, ballistic missile with a range of between 500 and 5,500 kilometers, including details on festivities under the Intermediate-Range and Shorter-Range Missiles, signed at Washington December 8, 1987, and into effect subsequently modified to the Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty (or "INF Treaty").

(2) This behavior poses a threat to the United States, its deployed forces, and its allies.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the President should hold the Russian Federation accountable for being in material breach of its obligations under the INF Treaty; and

(2) the President should demand the Russian Federation completely and verifiably eliminate the military systems that constitute the material breach of its obligations under the INF Treaty.

(c) REPORT.—

(1) GENERAL.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and every 90 days thereafter, the President shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report that includes the following elements:

(A) A description of the status of the President's efforts, in cooperation with United States allies, to hold the Russian Federation accountable for being in material breach of its obligations under the INF Treaty and obtain the complete and verifiable elimination of its military systems that constitute the material breach of its obligations under the INF Treaty.

(B) The President's assessment as to whether it remains in the national security interests of the United States to remain a party to the INF Treaty, and other related treaties and agreements, while the Russian Federation is in material breach of its obligations under the INF Treaty.

(C) Notification of any deployment by the Russian Federation of a ground launched ballistic missile defense system with a range of between 500 and 5,500 kilometers.

(D) A plan, prepared by the Secretary of Defense, for the research and development of United States systems for which there is a military requirement but the flight test or deployment of which is prohibited by the INF Treaty as well as a description of the military countermeasures being developed by the United States to respond to Russia's potential deployment of systems current prohibited by the INF Treaty.

(E) A plan developed by the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Director of National Intelligence and the Defense Threat Reduction Agency (DTRA), to verify that Russia has fully and completely dismantled any ground launched cruise missiles or ballistic missiles with a range of between 500 and 5,500 kilometers, including details on facilities, personnel, and equipment need access to only inspectors need to talk with, how often inspectors need the accesses for, and how much the verifications and dismantling would cost.

(2) FORM.—The report required under paragraph (1) shall be submitted in unclassified form but may contain a classified annex.

SEC. 1248. JUDICIARY REPORT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The appropriate congressional committees shall—

(1) the Committee on Foreign Relations, the Committee on Armed Services, and the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate; and

(2) the Committee on Foreign Affairs, the Committee on Armed Services, and the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence of the House of Representatives.

SEC. 1298. Mr. RUBIO submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for defense activities of the United States government for the fiscal year 2015 and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows: At the end of title XII, add the following:

Subtitle E—Palestinian Authority Reform

SEC. 1271. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the "Palestinian and United Nations Anti-Terrorism Act of 2014".

SEC. 1272. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) On April 23, 2014, representatives of the Palestinian Liberation Organization and Hamas, a designated terrorist organization, signed an agreement to form a government of national conciliation.

(2) On June 2, 2014, Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas announced a unity government as a result of the April 23, 2014, agreement.

(3) United States law requires that any Palestinian government that "includes Hamas as a member, or over which Hamas exercises undue influence", only receive United States assistance if certain certifications are made to Congress.

(4) The President has taken the position that the current Palestinian government does not include members of Hamas or is influenced by Hamas and has thus not made the certifications required under current law.

(5) The leadership of the Palestinian Authority has failed to completely denounce and distance itself from Hamas' campaign of terrorism against Israel.

(6) President Abbas has refused to dissolve the power-sharing agreement with Hamas even as Hamas rockets and other threats have targeted Israel since July 2, 2014.

(7) President Abbas and other Palestinian Authority officials have failed to condemn Hamas' extensive use of the Palestinian people as human shields.

(8) The Israeli Defense Forces have gone to unprecedented lengths for a modern military to limit civilian casualties.

(10) The United Nations Human Rights Council has a long history of taking anti-Israel actions while ignoring the widespread and egregious human rights violations of many other countries, including some of its own members.

(11) On July 16, 2014, officials of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Pal- estine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) discovered 20 rockets in one of the organization's schools in Gaza, before returning the weapons to Palestinian officials rather than dismantling them.

(12) On multiple occasions during the conflict in Gaza, Hamas has used the facilities of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestinian Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), to store weapons, harbor their fighters, and conduct attacks.
‘(A) a no official, employee, consultant, contractor, subcontractor, representative, or affiliate of UNRWA—
   (i) is a member of Hamas or any United States-designated terrorist group;
   (ii) has propagated, disseminated, or incited anti-Israel, or anti-Semitic rhetoric or propaganda;
   (B) no recipient of UNRWA funds or loans is a member of Hamas or any United States-designated terrorist group.

‘(2) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES—In this subsection, the term ‘appropriate congressional committees’ means—
   (A) the Committees on Foreign Relations, Appropriations, and Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs of the Senate; and
   (B) the Committees on Foreign Affairs, Appropriations, and Oversight and Government Reform of the House of Representatives.’.

SEC. 1277. ISRAELI SECURITY ASSISTANCE.

The equivalent amount of all United States contributions withhold of the Palestinian Authority, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East under this subtitle is authorized to be provided to—

(1) the Government of Israel for the Iron Dome missile defense system and other missile defense programs; and

(2) underground warfare training and technology and assistance to identify and deter tunneling from Palestinian-controlled territories into Israel.

SA 3899. Mr. RUBIO submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of subtitle P of title X, add the following:

SEC. 332. REPORT ON EASTERN RANGE SUPPORT FOR LAUNCHES IN SUPPORT OF NATIONAL SECURITY.

(a) In general.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Air Force shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the requirements and investments needed to modernize the Eastern Range off the coast of Florida to support launches in support of United States defense and commercial interests.

(b) Contents.—The report required under subsection (a) shall include the following elements:

(1) The results of the assessment into the failure of the intercontinental ballistic missile defense program funds available to the Army to ensure that the end strengths of the Army do not fall below the end strengths contemplated in the 2014 Quadrennial Defense Review and accompanying defense guidance.

(8) Such other information or updates as the Secretary considers appropriate.

(c) FORM.—The report required by subsection (a) shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

SA 3901. Mr. VITTER submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

On page 222, between lines 23 and 24, insert the following:

(8) With respect to each military medical treatment facility covered by the study that serves a major training center of the Armed Forces, an assessment whether the Secretary consulted with the appropriate military department concerned with respect to the frequency of high-temperature or other severe conditions.

(9) An assessment of the capability of each medical facility in the surrounding area of a major training center of the Armed Forces to treat battlefield related injuries, including whether such facility has a helipad capable of receiving medical evacuation aircraft pilot patients arriving from the primary evacuation aircraft platform used by such training center.

SA 3902. Ms. MURKOWSKI (for herself and Mr. BEGICH) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by her to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

On page 221, between lines 11 and 12, insert the following:

SEC. 2835. CONVEYANCE OF FEDERAL PROPERTY LOCATED IN THE NATIONAL PETROLEUM RESERVE IN ALASKA.

(a) Definitions.—In this section:

(1) CORPORATION.—The term ‘Corporation’ means the Oligonik Corporation, an Alaska Native corporation established under the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (36 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.).

(2) SECRETARY.—The term ‘Secretary’ means the Secretary of the Interior.

(b) CONVEYANCE.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act and after the date of completion of the appraisal required under subsection (d)(1)(B), the Secretary shall convey to the Corporation by quitclaim deed for the amount of consideration determined under subsection (d)(1)(A), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property described in subsection (c).

(c) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The parcel to be conveyed under this subsection consists of approximately 1,518 acres and improvements comprising a former Distant Early

(b) table of contents.—the table of contents of this act is as follows: sec. 1. short title; table of contents. sec. 2. findings; purpose. sec. 3. definitions. sec. 4. regulation and enforcement. sec. 5. uniform national standards and requirements for the regulation of discharges incidental to the normal operation of a vessel; the secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (b) of the secretary an amount not less than the fair market value of the property to be determined as provided in subparagraph (b).

section 2. findings; purpose.

(a) findings.—congress makes the following findings:

(1) beginning with enactment of the act to prevent pollution from ships in 1980 (22 u.s.c. 1901 et seq.), the united states coast guard has been the principal federal authority charged with administering, monitoring, and prescribing regulations relating to the discharge of pollutants from vessels engaged in maritime commerce and transportation.

(2) coast guard estimates there are approximately 21,560,000 state-registered recreational vessels, 75,000 commercial fishing vessels, and 3,000 freight and tanker barges operating in the united states waters.

(3) from 1973 to 2005, certain discharges incidental to the normal operation of a vessel were exempted by regulation from otherwise applicable permitting requirements.

(4) over the 32 years during which this regulatory exemption was in effect, congress enacted statutes on a number of occasions dealing with the administration of discharges incidental to the normal operation of a vessel, including—

sec. 3. definitions.

(a) act to prevent pollution from ships (33 u.s.c. 1901 et seq.) in 1980;

(b) the nonindigenous aquatic nuisance prevention and control act of 1990 (16 u.s.c. 4701 et seq.);

(11) VESSEL.—The term ‘‘vessel’’ means every watercraft or artificial contrivance used, or practically or otherwise capable of being used, as a means of transportation on water.

SEC. 4. ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator, shall establish and enforce uniform national standards and requirements for the regulation of discharges incidental to the normal operation of a vessel. The standards and requirements shall—

(1) be based upon the best available technology economically achievable; and

(2) supersede any permitting requirement or prohibition on discharges incidental to the normal operation of a vessel under any other provision of law.

(b) ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator, shall—

(1) be based upon the best available technology economically achievable; and

(2) supersede any permitting requirement or prohibition on discharges incidental to the normal operation of a vessel.

SEC. 5. UNIFORM NATIONAL STANDARDS AND REQUIREMENTS FOR THE REGULATION OF DISCHARGES INCIDENTAL TO THE NORMAL OPERATION OF A VESSEL.

(a) REQUIREMENTS.—

(1) BALLAST WATER MANAGEMENT REQUIREMENTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the requirements set forth in the final rule, Standards for Living Organisms in Ships’ Ballast Water Discharges (77 Fed. Reg. 33969 (June 8, 2012)), as corrected at 77 Fed. Reg. 33969 (June 8, 2012)), shall be the management requirements for a ballast water discharge incidental to the normal operation of a vessel until the Secretary revises the ballast water performance standard under subsection (b) or adopts a more stringent State standard under subparagraph (B) of this paragraph.

(B) ADOPOTION OF MORE STRINGENT STATE STANDARD.—If the Secretary makes a determination under section 6 to adopt a more stringent State standard under subparagraph (b) of section 10, the Secretary shall adopt the more stringent ballast water performance standard specified in the statute or regulation that is the subject of that State petition in lieu of the ballast water performance standard in the final rule described under subparagraph (A).

(2) INITIAL MANAGEMENT REQUIREMENTS FOR DISCHARGES OTHER THAN BALLAST WATER.—Not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator, shall issue a final rule establishing best management practices for discharges incidental to the normal operation of a vessel other than ballast water.

(b) REVISED BALLAST WATER PERFORMANCE STANDARD REVIEW.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the feasibility review under paragraph (2), not later than January 1, 2022, the Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator, shall issue a final rule revising the ballast water performance standard under subsection (a)(1) so that a ballast water discharge incidental to the normal operation of a vessel will contain—

(A) less than 1 organism that is living or has not been rendered harmless per 10 cubic meters that is 50 or more micrometers in minimum dimension and more than 10 micrometers in minimum dimension; and

(B) less than 1 organism that is living or has not been rendered harmless per 10 millimore of such practices would substantially reduce the impacts on navigable waters of discharges incidental to the normal operation of a vessel other than ballast water.

(3) In conducting a review under paragraph (1), the Secretary, the Administrator, and the heads of other appropriate Federal agencies as determined by the Secretary shall consider the criteria under section 9(b)(2).

(4) REVISION AFTER DECENTRAL REVIEW.—The Secretary shall initiate a rulemaking to revise 1 or more best management practices for such discharges after a decennial review if the Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator, determines that revising 1 or more practices in such standards would result in a scientifically demonstrable and substantial reduction in the risk of the introduction or establishment of aquatic nuisance species.

(2) REVISION STANDARDS FOR DISCHARGES OTHER THAN BALLAST WATER.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator, may include in a decennial review under this subsection best management practices for discharges covered by subsection (a)(2). The Secretary shall initiate a rulemaking to revise 1 or more best management practices for such discharges after a decennial review if the Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator, determines that revising 1 or more practices in such standards would result in a scientifically demonstrable and substantial reduction in the risk of the introduction or establishment of aquatic nuisance species.

SEC. 6. TREATMENT TECHNOLOGY CERTIFICATION.

(a) CERTIFICATE REQUIRED.—Beginning 1 year after the date that the requirements for testing protocols are issued under subsection (i), no manufacturer of a ballast water treatment technology for a vessel less than 79 feet in length and engaged in commercial fishing or the normal operation of a vessel under this Act shall sell, offer for sale, introduce or deliver for introduction into interstate commerce, or import into the United States for sale or resale, a ballast water treatment technology for a vessel unless the treatment technology has been certified under this section.

(b) CERTIFICATION PROCESS.—

(1) EVALUATION.—Upon application of a manufacturer, the Secretary shall evaluate a ballast water treatment technology for a vessel unless the treatment technology has been certified under this section.

(2) APPROVAL.—If after an evaluation under paragraph (1) the Secretary determines that the treatment technology meets the criteria, the Secretary shall certify the treatment technology for use on a vessel or a class, type, or size of vessel.
established by the Coast Guard unless the Secretary determines such discharge poses a substantial risk of introduction or establishment of an aquatic nuisance species; (C) vessels subject to a geographic restriction issued as a condition under section 3309 of title 46, United States Code, or an equivalent restriction issued by the country of registry of the vessel; (D) continuously take on and discharge ballast water in a flow-through system that does not introduce aquatic nuisance species into navigable waters; (2) a ballast water discharge incidental to the normal operation of a vessel consisting entirely of water suitable for human consumption; (3) a ballast water discharge incidental to the normal operation of a vessel in an alternative compliance program established pursuant to section 8; (c) VESSELS WITH PERMANENT BALLAST WATER.—No permit shall be required or prohibition enforced under any other provision of law for, nor shall any ballast water performance standard under this Act apply to, a vessel that carries all of its permanent ballast water in sealed tanks that are not subject to discharge. (d) VESSELS OF THE ARMED FORCES.—Nothing in this Act shall be construed to apply to vessels operated by the Department of Defense (other than a time-chartered or voyage-chartered vessel). (2) In consultation with the Secretary, as designated by the Secretary of the department in which the Coast Guard is operating.

SEC. 8. ALTERNATIVE COMPLIANCE PROGRAM. (a) In General.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator, may promulgate regulations establishing 1 or more compliance programs as an alternative to ballast water management regulations issued under section 5 for a vessel that— (1) has a maximum ballast water capacity of less than 8 cubic meters; (2) is less than 3 years from the end of the useful life of the vessel, as determined by the Secretary; or (3) discharges ballast water into a facility for the receipt of ballast water that meets standards promulgated by the Administrator in consultation with the Secretary. (b) by FACILITY STANDARDS.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator, in consultation with the Secretary, shall promulgate standards (1) the receipt of ballast water from a vessel into a reception facility; and (2) the disposal or treatment of the ballast water under paragraph (1).

SEC. 9. JUDICIAL REVIEW. (a) In General.—An interested person may file a petition for review of a final regulation promulgated under this Act in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. (b) Contents; Deadline.—A petition shall— (1) request the review of the final regulation; (2) specify a list of the provisions of law, this Act, the rules and regulations promulgated under this Act; and (3) specify a list of the reasons for challenging the regulation. (c) Exception.—Notwithstanding subsection (b), a petition that is based solely on grounds that arise after the date on which the regulation was published in the Federal Register shall be treated as if it were filed on or before the date on which the regulation was published in the Federal Register.

SEC. 10. EFFECT ON STATE AUTHORITY. (a) In General.—No State or political subdivision thereof may enforce a statute or regulation with respect to ballast water discharges incidental to the normal operation of a vessel that specifies a ballast water performance standard that is more stringent than the ballast water performance standard under section 6(a)(1)(A) and is in effect on the date of enactment of this Act, after consultation with the Administrator and any other Federal department or agency the Secretary considers appropriate, makes a determination that (1) compliance with any performance standard specified in the statute or regulation can in fact be achieved and detected; (2) the techniques necessary to comply with the statute or regulation are commercially available; and (3) the statute or regulation is consistent with obligations under relevant international treaties or agreements to which the United States is a party. (b) PETITION PROCESS. (1) Submission.—The Governor of a State seeking to enforce a statute or regulation under subsection (b) shall submit a petition requesting the Secretary to review the statute or regulation. (2) CONTENTS; DEADLINE.—A petition shall— (A) be accompanied by the scientific and technical information on which the petition is based; and (B) be submitted to the Secretary not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act. (3) DETERMINATIONS.—The Secretary shall make a determination on a petition under this subsection not later than 90 days after the date that the petition is received.

SEC. 11. APPLICATION OF OTHER STATUTES. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, this Act shall be the exclusive statutory provision adopted or enforce any statute or regulation of the State or political subdivision with respect to a discharge incidental to the normal operation of a vessel affecting the tidelands of such State. (b) SAVINGS CLAUSE.—Notwithstanding subsection (a), a State or political subdivision thereof may enforce a statute or regulation of the State or political subdivision with respect to ballast water discharges incidental to the normal operation of a vessel that specifies a ballast water performance standard that is more stringent than the ballast water performance standard under section 6(a)(1)(A) and is in effect on the date of enactment of this Act, after consultation with the Administrator and any other Federal department or agency the Secretary considers appropriate, makes a determination that (1) compliance with any performance standard specified in the statute or regulation can in fact be achieved and detected; (2) the techniques necessary to comply with the statute or regulation are commercially available; and (3) the statute or regulation is consistent with obligations under relevant international treaties or agreements to which the United States is a party.

Mr. WICKER submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of title H of title X, add the following:

SEC. 1087. TREATMENT OF AGREEMENTS FOR NURSING HOME OR LONG TERM CARE, ADULT DAY HEALTH CARE, OR OTHER EXTENDED CARE SERVICES.

Section 17201(c)(1) of title 38, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph: "(C) An agreement entered into under subparagraph (A) may not be treated as a Federal contract for the acquisition of goods or services and is not subject to any provision of law governing Federal contracts or the acquisition of goods or services.''

SA 3906. Mr. RUBIO submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows: On page 163, strike line 19 and all that follows through page 164, line 3, and insert the following: the uniformed services are increased by 1.8 percent for enlisted member pay grades, warrant officer pay grades, and commissioned officer pay grades below pay grade O-7. (b) APPLICATION OF THE GOVERNMENT-WIDE LEVEL II CEILING ON PAYABLE RATES FOR GENERAL AND FLAG OFFICERS. Section 281(a)(2) of title 37, United States Code, shall be applied for rates of basic pay payable for commissioned officers in pay grades O-7 through O-10 during calendar year 2015 by using the rate of pay for level II of the Executive Schedule in effect during 2014.

(d) INCREASE IN AMOUNT FOR MILITARY PERSONNEL.—The amount authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2015 by section 421 for military personnel is hereby increased by $600,000,000.

SA 3907. Mr. CHAMBLISS submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows: At the end of title V of title V, add the following:

SEC. 27. PAYMENTS FOR ELIGIBLE FEDERALLY CONNECTED CHILDREN.

SA 3908. Mr. SESSIONS submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of subtitle D of title XXVII, add the following:

SEC. 233. LAND CONVEYANCE, GORDO ARMY REVIEW CENTER, GORDO, ALABAMA.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary may convey, without consideration, to the town of Gordo, Alabama (in this section referred to as the "Town"), all right, title, and interest of the United States in a parcel of real property, consisting of approximately 3.79 acres and located at 25226 Highway 82 in Gordo, Alabama, for the purpose of permitting the Town to use the parcel for municipal government purposes.

(b) REVERSIONARY INTEREST.—If the Secretary of the Army determines at any time that the real property conveyed under subsection (a) is not being used in accordance with the purpose of the conveyance set forth in subsection (a), all right, title, and interest in and to such real property, including any improvements thereon, shall, at the option of the Secretary, revert to and become the property of the United States, and the United States shall have the right of immediate entry onto such real property. A determination by the Secretary under this subsection shall be made on the record after an opportunity for a hearing.

(c) ALTERNATIVE CONSIDERATION OPTION.—In lieu of providing the reversionary interest under subsection (b), if the Secretary of the Army determines that the conveyed property is not being used in accordance with the purpose of the conveyance, the Secretary may require the Town to pay to the United States an amount equal to the fair market value of the property, excluding the value of any improvements on the property constructed by the Town, as determined by the Secretary.

(d) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—The Secretary of the Army shall require the Town to cover costs (except costs for environmental remediation of the property) to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for such costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs for environmental documentation, and any other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts are collected from the Town in advance of the Secretary incurring such actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the Town.

(e) TREATMENT OF AMOUNTS RECEIVED.—

(1) CONSIDERATION.—Amounts received as consideration under subsection (c) shall be credited to the establishment established by section 572(b)(5) of title 40, United States Code, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and liabilities, as amounts in such account.

(2) REIMBURSEMENT.—Amounts received as reimbursement under subsection (d) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyance. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(f) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary of the Treasury.

(g) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—(1) The Secretary of the Army may require the Town to pay to the United States, for the purpose of permitting the Town to use the parcel for municipal government purposes, any additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SA 3909. Mr. MORAN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of subtitle D of title XXII, add the following:

SEC. 234. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON CONSIDERATION OPTION FOR ADVANCED MATERIALS PERFORMANCE CENTER WITHIN THE NATIONAL CENTER FOR MANUFACTURING INNOVATION.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The National Center for Advanced Materials Performance was established in 2005.

(2) Since it was established, the National Center for Advanced Materials Performance has accelerated advancements in processing and fabrication technologies for the purpose of refining and enhancing the composite material property shared database process in partnership with the Department of Defense, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Federal Aviation Administration, and the Composite Materials Handbook-17 (CMH-17).

(3) Through the joint collaboration of the Department of Defense, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and the Federal Aviation Administration, the National Center for Advanced Materials Performance reduces the time required for certification of new composite materials by a factor of four and the cost of certification by a factor of ten.

(4) The processes and procedures of National Center for Advanced Materials Performance in processing and materials utilization benefit the Department of Defense and reduces Federal spending.

(5) According to the Air Force Research Laboratory, databases of the National Center for Advanced Materials Performance eliminate redundant materials qualification and increase material trade study efficiencies; two measurable benefits in times of fiscal austerity.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that the Department of Defense should consider the National Center for Advanced Materials Performance a center within the National Network for Manufacturing Innovation to complement the framework of the National Network for Manufacturing Innovation, improve national security, and reduce Federal spending.

SA 3910. Mr. BLUNT submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

SEC. 1412. ENHANCING DOMESTIC DEFENSE-RELATED PRODUCTION CAPABILITIES.

(a) POLICY OF THE UNITED STATES.—It is the policy of the United States that, in order to ensure domestic manufacturing capabilities essential to national defense, the Federal Government should encourage and facilitate the development of a reliable domestic supply of minerals and metals necessary to defense-related production.

(b) ENCOURAGEMENT OF DOMESTIC DEFENSE-RELATED METALS AND MINERALS SUPPLY.—To implement the policy of subsection (a), the Federal Government shall take such measures as outlined in the Reconfiguration of the National Defense Stockpile Report, to encourage and facilitate the development of adequate sources of domestic supply of metals and minerals necessary to defense-related production.

SA 3911. Mr. INHOFE submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of the bill, add the following:

SEC. 601. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the "Alternative Fuel Vehicle Development Act".

SEC. 602. ALTERNATIVE FUEL VEHICLES.

(a) MAXIMUM FUEL ECONOMY INCREASE FOR ALTERNATIVE FUEL AUTOMOBILES.—Section 32901(a)(1)(D) of title 49, United States Code, is amended by striking "electric automobile" and inserting "an electric automobile or, beginning with model year 2016, an alternative fueled automobile that does not use a fuel described in subparagraph (A), (B), (C), or (D) of section 32901(a)(1)".

(b) MINIMUM DRIVING RANGES FOR DUAL FUELED PASSENGER AUTOMOBILES.—Section 32901(c)(2) of title 49, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (B), by inserting "or" after "model year 2016", and before the semicolon;

(2) in subparagraph (C), by inserting a period at the end of the provision after "automobile or";

(c) ALTERNATIVE FUEL VEHICLES.—Section 32901(c)(2) of title 49, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1), as redesignated, by striking "2019" and inserting "2015"; and

(2) in subparagraph (C), by adding at the end the following: "Beginning with model year 2016, if the Secretary prescribes a minimum driving range of 150 miles after "at least 200 miles"; and"

(d) PROCUREMENT OF ALTERNATIVE FUEL VEHICLES.—Section 32901(d) of title 49, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1), by striking "and" after "any" and inserting a period at the end of the provision after "automobile or";

(2) in paragraph (2), in the section heading, by striking "fuel propelled" and inserting "carbon fuel"; and

(3) in paragraph (3), by striking "acts" after "automobile" and inserting "fuel propelled automobile"; and
(d) ELECTRIC DUAL FUELED AUTOMOBILES.—Section 32905 of title 49, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by redesignating subsections (e) and (f) as subsections (f) and (g), respectively; and

(2) by inserting after subsection (d) the following:

(‘‘e’’) ELECTRIC DUAL FUELED AUTOMOBILES.—

‘‘(1) IN GENERAL.—At the request of the manufacturer, the Administrator may measure the fuel economy for any model of dual fueled electric automobile manufactured after model year 2015 that is capable of operating on electricity in addition to gasoline or diesel fuel, if the manufacturer establishes and obtains the written consent of the Secretary for dual fueled electric automobiles, by dividing 1.0 by the sum of—

(A) the percentage utilization of the model on gasoline or diesel fuel, as determined by a formula based on the model’s alternative fuel range, divided by the fuel economy measured under section 32904(c); and

(B) the percentage utilization of the model on electricity, as determined by a formula based on the model’s alternative fuel range, divided by the fuel economy measured under section 32904(a)(2).

‘‘(2) ALTERNATIVE UTILIZATION.—The Administrator may adopt the utility factor established under paragraph (1) for alternative fueled automobiles that do not use a fuel described in subparagraph (A), (B), (C), or (D) of section 32904(a)(2) in a manner prescribed under section 32905(a)(1).

(3) ALTERNATIVE CALCULATION.—If the manufacturer does not request that the Administrator calculate the manufacturing incentive in accordance with the model’s alternative fuel range, the Administrator shall calculate such incentive for such automobiles manufactured by such manufacturer after model year 2015 in accordance with subsection (b).’’.

(e) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 32906(b) of title 49, United States Code, is amended by striking subparagraph (c), as redesignated section 32906(e)(c) and inserting the following:

‘‘SEC. 603. HIGH OCCUPANCY VEHICLE FACILITIES.

Section 166 of title 23, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking the matter preceding paragraph (1) and inserting the following:

‘‘(1) military working dogs have been valuable to the Armed Forces in support of military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of subtitle F of title III, add the following:

SEC. 354. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON VALUE OF MILITARY WORKING DOGS.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) military working dogs are expected to provide useful mission support.

(2) military working dogs are expected to provide useful mission support.

(3) the joint nature of the military working dog, search and rescue, and guard duties; and

(4) the joint nature of the military working dog, search and rescue, and guard duties.

(5) through a coordinated effort between the Department of Defense, after consultation with the Secretary of Defense, for military construction, and for Defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

SEC. 737. REVIEW AND REPORT ON TECHNOLOGIES USED TO TREAT CANCER.

(a) REVIEW.—The Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs and the Director of the National Institutes of Health, shall seek to enter into an agreement with the National Research Council to conduct a review of the following:

(1) The range of technologies currently used to treat cancer, including emerging technologies used in the United States or abroad.

(2) The strategies and plans of the Department of Defense to treat cancer through the use of emerging technologies, including cancer therapy, and how those strategies and plans compare to the strategies and plans of the medical community at large.

(3) The feasibility and advisability of the Department entering into agreements with research partners outside the Federal Government, including institutions of higher education.
education, to study technologies used to treat cancer, including emerging technologies.

(b) Report.—Not later than one year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the National Research Council shall submit to the Secretary of Defense, the congressional defense committees, the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pension of the Senate, and the Committee on Education and the Workforce of the House of Representatives a report on the results of the review conducted under subsection (a) and any recommendations that were identified during such review.

SA 3915. Mr. Kaine submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of subtitle B of title XXVIII, add the following:

SEC. 2813. ACCEPTANCE OF IN-KIND GIFTS ON BEHALF OF HERITAGE CENTER FOR THE NATIONAL MUSEUM OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY.

(a) Authority to accept design and construction funds from industry sources.—Subtitle B of section 4722 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by striking “accept funds from the Army Historical Foundation and insert “accept funds and in-kind gifts, including services, construction materials, and equipment used in construction, from the Army Historical Foundation and industry donors”.

(b) Acceptance of in-kind gifts.—Subsection (e)(1) of such section is amended by striking “of a value of $250,000 or less”.

SA 3916. Ms. Klobuchar (for herself and Mr. Schumer) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by her to the bill S. 2410, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2015 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of title X of division A, add the following:

Subtitle I—Metal Theft Prevention Act

SEC. 1090. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “Metal Theft Prevention Act of 2014”.

SEC. 1091. DEFINITIONS.

In this subtitle—

(1) the term “critical infrastructure” has the meaning given the term in section 1016(e) of the Uniting and Strengthening America for National Security Against Terrorism Act of 2002 (42 U.S.C. 15602(e));

(2) the term “specified metal” means metal that—

(A) is marked with the name, logo, or initials of a city, county, State, or Federal government entity, a railroad, an electric, gas, or water company, a telephone company, a cable company, a retail establishment, a beer supplier or distributor, or a public utility; or

(B) has been altered for the purpose of re-moving, concealing, or obliterating a name, logo, or initials described in clause (i) through burning or cutting of wire sheathing or other means; or

(3) the term “recycling agent” means—

(A) a broker, wholesaler, who has a written record of the payment that the recycling agent has made for the purchase of specified metal to the recycling agent; and

(B) other person who commits an offense described in subsection (a) shall be fined not more than 10 years, or both.

(b) PENALTY.—A person who commits an offense described in paragraph (1) shall be fined not more than $10,000 for each violation.

SEC. 1092. THEFT OF SPECIFIED METAL.

(a) OFFENSE.—It shall be unlawful to knowingly steal specified metal—

(1) being used in or affecting interstate or foreign commerce;

(2) the theft of which is from and harms a State or local law enforcement authority or as otherwise directed by a court of law.

(b) PURCHASES IN EXCESS OF $100.—

(1) In general.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), a recycling agent may not pay cash for a single purchase of specified metal of more than $100. For purposes of this paragraph, more than 1 purchase from the same supplier shall be considered to be a single purchase.

(2) EXCEPTION.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply to a recycling agent that is subject to a State or local law that sets forth a maximum amount for cash payments for the purchase of specified metal.

(c) RECORD RETENTION PERIOD.—A recycling agent shall maintain any record required under this subsection for not less than 2 years after the date of the transaction to which the record relates.

(d) CONFIDENTIALITY.—Any information collected or retained under this section may be disclosed to any Federal, State, or local law enforcement authority or as otherwise directed by a court of law.

(e) PURCHASE OF STOLEN METAL.—It shall be unlawful for a recycling agent to purchase any specified metal that the recycling agent—

(A) knows to be stolen; or

(B) should know or believe, based upon commercial experience and practice, to be stolen.

(f) CIVIL PENALTY.—A person who knowingly violates subsection (a) shall be subject to a civil penalty of not more than $10,000 for each violation.

(g) RECORDING REQUIREMENTS.—

SEC. 1094. TRANSACTION REQUIREMENTS.

(a) RECORDING REQUIREMENTS.—

SEC. 1095. REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—

A recycling agent shall maintain a written or electronic record of the purchase of specified metal.

(a) AUTHORITY TO ACCEPT DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION FUNDS FROM INDUSTRY SOURCES.—Subtitle B of section 4722 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by striking “accept funds from the Army Historical Foundation and insert “accept funds and in-kind gifts, including services, construction materials, and equipment used in construction, from the Army Historical Foundation and industry donors”.

(b) Acceptance of in-kind gifts.—Subsection (e)(1) of such section is amended by striking “of a value of $250,000 or less”.

identifies the seller, the amount paid, and the date of the purchase. (c) Civil Penalty.—A person who knowingly violates subsection (a) or (b) shall be subject to a civil penalty of not more than $5,000 for each violation, except that a person who commits a minor violation shall be subject to a penalty of not more than $1,000.

SEC. 1095. ENFORCEMENT BY ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Attorney General may bring an enforcement action in an appropriate United States district court against any person that engages in conduct that violates this subtitle.

SEC. 1096. ENFORCEMENT BY STATE ATTORNEYS GENERAL.

(a) In General.—An attorney general or equivalent regulator of a State may bring a civil action in the name of the State, as parens patriae on behalf of natural persons who commit a violation of section 1092 of this title or who commit a minor violation of such section, based on the theft of specified metal by such person, to:

(A) the potential and actual harm to the public from the offense, including any damage to critical infrastructure;

(B) the amount of loss, or the costs associated with replacement or repair, attributable to the offense;

(C) the level of sophistication and planning involved in the offense; and

(D) whether the offense was intended to or had the effect of creating a threat to public health or safety, injury to another person, or death;

(2) account for any additional aggravating or mitigating circumstances that may justify exceptions to the generally applicable sentencing ranges;

(3) conforme with other relevant directives and with other sentencing guidelines and policy statements; and

(4) assure that the sentencing guidelines and policy statements adequately meet the purposes of sentencing as set forth in section 3553(a)(2) of title 16, United States Code.

SEC. 1098. STATE AND LOCAL LAW NOT PREEMPTED.

Nothing in this subtitle shall be construed to preempt any State or local law regulating the sale or possession of metal, the recording of such transactions, or any other aspect of the metal recycling industry.

SEC. 1099. EFFECTIVE DATE.

SA 3932. Mr. PRYOR (for Mr. CRAPO) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 2040, to exchange trust and fee land to resolve land disputes created by the re-alignment of the Blackfoot River along the boundary of the Fort Hall Indian Reservation, and for other purposes; as follows:

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “Blackfoot River Land Exchange Act of 2014”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS; PURPOSES.
(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that—
(1) the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes, a federally recognized Indian tribe with tribal headquarters at Fort Hall, Idaho—
(A) adopted a tribal constitution and by-laws on March 31, 1936, that were approved by the Secretary of the Interior on April 30, 1936, pursuant to the Act of June 18, 1934 (25 U.S.C. 461 et seq.) (commonly known as the “Indian Reorganization Act”);
(B) has entered into various treaties with the United States, including the Second Treaty of Fort Bridger, executed on July 3, 1868; and
(C) has maintained a continuous government-to-government relationship with the United States since the earliest years of the Union;
(2) in 1867, President Andrew Johnson designated by Executive order the Fort Hall Reservation for various bands of Shoshone and Bannock Indians;
(B) the Reservation is located near the cities of Blackfoot and Pocatello in southeastern Idaho.
(3) article 4 of the Second Treaty of Fort Bridger secured the Reservation as a “permanent home” for the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes;
(4) according to the Executive order referred to in paragraph (2)(A), the Blackfoot River, as the river existed in its natural state,
(1) is the northern boundary of the Reservation; and
(2) flows in a westerly direction along that northern boundary;
(B) within the Reservation, land use in the River watershed is dominated by—
(i) rangeland;
(ii) dry and irrigated farming; and
(iii) residential development;
(4) in 1964, the Corps of Engineers completed a local flood protection project on the River
(A) authorized by section 294 of the Flood Control Act of 1950 (64 Stat. 170); and
(B) sponsored by the Blackfoot River Flood Control District No. 7;
(B) the project consisted of building levees, replacing irrigation diversion structures, replacing bridges, and channel realignment; and
(C) the channel realignment portion of the project severed various parcels of land located contiguous to the River along the boundary of the Reservation, resulting in Indian land being located north of the Re-aligned River and non-Indian land being located south of the Blackfoot River; and
(5) beginning in 1999, the Cadastral Survey Office of the Bureau of Land Management conducted surveys of—
(A) 25 parcels of Indian land; and
(B) 19 parcels of non-Indian land; and
(6) the enactment of this Act and separate agreements of the parties would represent a genuine resolution of the disputes described in subsection (b)(1) among—
(A) the Tribes; and
(B) the allottees; and
(C) the non-Indian landowners.
(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act are—
(1) to resolve the land ownership and land use disputes resulting from realignment of the River by the Corps of Engineers during calendar year 1964 pursuant to the project described in subsection (a)(4)(A); and
(2) to achieve a final and fair solution to resolve those disputes.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.
In this Act:
(1) ALLOTTEE.—The term “allottee” means an heir of an original allottee of the Reservation who owns an interest in a parcel of land that is—
(A) held in trust by the United States for the benefit of the allottee; and
(B) located north of the Re-aligned River within the exterior boundaries of the Reservation; and
(2) BLACKFOOT RIVER FLOOD CONTROL DISTRICT NO. 7.—The term “Blackfoot River Flood Control District No. 7” means the governmental subdivision in the State of Idaho, located at 75 East Judicial, Blackfoot, Idaho, that—
(A) is responsible for maintenance and repair of the Re-aligned River; and
(B) represents the non-Indian landowners relating to the resolution of the disputes described in section 2(b)(1) in accordance with this Act.
(3) INDIAN LAND.—The term “Indian land” means any parcel of land that is—
(A) held in trust by the United States for the benefit of the Tribes or the allottees; and
(B) located north of the Re-aligned River; and
(C) identified in exhibit A of the survey of the Blackfoot River Flood Control District No. 7, which is located at—
(i) the Fort Hall Indian Agency office of the Bureau of Indian Affairs; and
(ii) the Blackfoot River Flood Control District No. 7.
(4) NON-INDIAN LAND.—The term “non-Indian land” means any parcel of fee land that is—
(A) located south of the Re-aligned River; and
(B) identified in exhibit B, which is located at the areas described in clauses (i) and (ii) of paragraph (3)(C).
(5) NON-INDIAN LANDOWNER.—The term “non-Indian landowner” means any individual who holds fee title to non-Indian land and is represented by the Blackfoot River Flood Control District No. 7 for purposes of this Act.
(6) REALIGNED RIVER.—The term “Re-aligned River” means that portion of the River that was realigned by the Corps of Engineers during calendar year 1964 pursuant to the project described in section 2(a)(4)(A).
(7) RESERVATION.—The term “Reservation” means the Fort Hall Reservation established by Executive order during calendar year 1867 and confirmed by treaty during calendar year 1868.
(8) RIVER.—The term “River” means the Blackfoot River located in the State of Idaho.
(9) SECRETARY.—The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of the Interior.
(10) TRIBES.—The term “Tribes” means the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes.

SEC. 4. RELEASE OF CLAIMS TO CERTAIN INDIAN AND NON-INDIAN LANDS.
(a) RELEASE OF CLAIMS.—Effective on the date of enactment of this Act—
(1) all existing and future claims with respect to Indian land and the non-Indian land and all right, title, and interest that the Tribes, allottees, non-Indian landowners, and the Blackfoot River Flood Control District No. 7 may have had to that land shall be extinguished;
(2) any interest of the Tribes, the allottees, or the United States, acting as trustee for the Tribes or allottees, in the Indian land shall be extinguished under section 2116 of the Revised Statutes (commonly known as the “Indian Trade and Intercourse Act”) (25 U.S.C. 177); and
(3) to the extent any interest in non-Indian land transferred into trust pursuant to section 5 violates section 2116 of the Revised Statutes (commonly known as the “Indian Trade and Intercourse Act”) (25 U.S.C. 177), that transfer shall be valid, subject to the condition that the transfer is consistent with all other applicable Federal laws (including regulations).

(b) DOCUMENTATION.—The Secretary may execute and file any appropriate documents (including a plat or map of the transferred Indian land) that are suitable for filing with the Bingham County clerk or other appropriate county official, as the Secretary determines necessary to carry out this Act.

SEC. 5. NON-INDIAN LAND TO BE PLACED INTO TRUST FOR TRIBES.
Effective on the date of enactment of this Act, the non-Indian land is to be considered to be held in trust for the United States for the benefit of the Tribes.

SEC. 6. TRUST LAND TO BE CONVERTED TO FEE LAND.
(a) IN GENERAL.—As soon as practicable after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transfer the Indian land to the Blackfoot River Flood Control District No. 7 for use or sale in accordance with subsection (b).
(b) USE OF LAND.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—The Blackfoot River Flood Control District No. 7 shall use any proceeds from the sale of land described in subsection (a) according to the following priorities:
(A) To compensate, at fair market value, each non-Indian landowner for the net loss of land to that non-Indian landowner resulting from the implementation of this Act.
(B) To compensate the Blackfoot River Flood Control District No. 7 for any administrative or other expenses relating to carrying out this Act.
(2) REMAINING LAND.—If any land remains to be conveyed or proceeds remain after the sale of the land, the Blackfoot River Flood Control District No. 7 may dispose of that remaining land or proceeds as the Blackfoot River Flood Control District No. 7 determines to be appropriate.

SEC. 7. EFFECT ON ORIGINAL RESERVATION BOUNDARY.
Nothing in this Act affects the original boundaries of the Reservation as established by Executive order during calendar year 1867 and confirmed by treaty during calendar year 1868.

SEC. 8. EFFECT ON TRIBAL WATER RIGHTS.
Nothing in this Act extinguishes or conveys any water right of the Tribes, as established in the agreement entitled “1990 Fort

SEC. 3. IMPROVING THE SHARING AND USE OF DATA BY GOVERNMENT AGENCIES TO CURB IMPROPER PAYMENTS.

The Improper Payments Elimination and Recovery Improvement Act of 2012 (31 U.S.C. 3321 note) is amended—

(1) in section 5—

(A) in subsection (a)(2), by striking subparagraph (A) and inserting the following:

"(A) The death records maintained by the Commissioner of the Social Security Administration, an agency that obtains information on deaths or incarcerated individuals directly from the Commissioner of Social Security pursuant to an agreement under section 205(r) or sections 202(x) and 161(e) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 405(r), 405(x), 1382(e)) or the Department of the Treasury—";

(B) in subsection (b)—

(i) redesignating paragraph (5) as paragraphs (6) and (7); and

(ii) by inserting after paragraph (4) the following:

"(5) USE OF DEATH AND PRISONER INFORMATION.—";

"(A) The death records maintained by the Commissioner of the Social Security Administration, and the head of any other agency that obtains information on deaths or incarcerated individuals directly from the Commissioner of Social Security pursuant to an agreement under section 205(r) or sections 202(x) and 161(e) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 405(r), 405(x), 1382(e)) or the Department of the Treasury—";

"(B) The Do Not Pay program shall include the recommendations to Congress in the Do Not Pay Initiative to verify payment or use data analytics performed as part of the Do Not Pay Initiative for the purpose of detecting, preventing, and recovering improper payments to help ensure the Do Not Pay Initiative is appropriately established and sustained as a multi-agency initiative with the Federal Government with respect to the death of individuals who are recipients of such benefits."

"SEC. 7. IMPROVING THE USE OF DEATH DATA BY GOVERNMENT AGENCIES.

"(a) PROMPT REPORTING OF DEATH INFORMATION BY THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE AND THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this section, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Commissioner of Social Security, shall establish a procedure under which each Secretary shall, and on a periodic basis, submit to the Commissioner information relating to the deaths of individuals. The Commissioner shall, to the extent practinonce, provide for the use of death information submitted under this subsection for the purpose specified in clause (i) of section 205(c)(3)(B) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 405(r)(3)(B))."

"(b) GUIDANCE BY THE OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET.—";

"(1) GUIDANCE TO AGENCIES.—Not later than 6 months after the date of enactment of this section, and in consultation with the Council of Inspectors General on Integrity and Efciency and other relevant Federal, State, and local agencies, and Indian tribes and tribal organizations, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall issue guidance for each agency or component of an agency that operates or maintains a database of information relating to beneficiaries, annuity recipients, or any purpose described in section 205(r)(3)(B) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 405(r)(3)(B)) for which improved data matching with databases relating to the death of an individual (in this section referred to as ‘death databases’) would be relevant and necessary regarding implementation of this section to provide or components access to the death databases no later than 6 months after such date of enactment.

"(2) PLAN TO ASSIST STATES AND LOCAL AGENCIES AND INDIAN TRIBES AND TRIBAL OR-GANIZATIONS.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this section, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall develop a plan to assist States and local agencies, and Indian tribes and tribal organizations, in providing electronically to the Federal Government the data indicating the death of individuals, which may include recommendations to Congress for any statutory changes or financial assistance to States and local agencies, and Indian tribes and tribal organizations that are necessary to ensure States and local agencies and Indian tribes and tribal organizations can provide such records electronically. The plan may include recommendations for the authorization of appropriations or other funding to carry out the plan."

"(c) REPORTS.—"

"(1) REPORT TO CONGRESS ON IMPROVING DATA MATCHING REGARDING PAYMENTS TO DE-CREASED INDIVIDUALS.—Not later than 270 days after the date of enactment of this section, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, in consultation with the heads of other State and local agencies and Indian tribes and tribal organizations, shall submit to Congress a plan to improve how States and local agencies and Indian tribes and tribal organizations that provide benefits under a federally-funded program will improve data matching with the Federal Government with respect to the death of individuals who are recipients of such benefits."

"(2) ANNUAL REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this section, and for each of the 4 succeeding years, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall submit to Congress a report regarding the implementation of this section. The first report submitted under this paragraph shall include the recommendations of the Director required under subsection (b)(2).

"(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the terms ‘Indian tribe’ and ‘tribal organization’ have the meanings given those terms in section 4 of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (25 U.S.C. 450b)."

SEC. 5. DATA ANALYTICS.

"(a) PROMPT REPORTING OF DEATH INFORMATION TO THE JUDICIAL AND LEG-ISLATIVE BRANCHES AND STATES.—Section 5 of the Improper Payments Elimination and Recovery Improvement Act of 2012 (31 U.S.C. 3321 note) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(h) REPORT ON IMPROPER PAYMENTS DATA ANALYSIS.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of the Improper Payments Agency Cooperation Enhancement Act of 2014, the Secretary of the Treasury shall submit to Congress a report which shall include a description of—

"(1) data analytics performed as part of the Do Not Pay Initiative for the purpose of detecting, preventing, and recovering improper payments, which may include investigation or review of pre-award, post-award, and post-payment analysis, which shall include a description of any analysis or investigations incorporating data analytics for identifying, detecting, preventing, and recovering improper payments, which may include investigation or review of information from multiple Federal agencies or programs; and

"(2) the metrics used in determining whether the analytic and investigatory efforts have reduced, or contributed to the reduction of, improper payments or improper payment issues;

"(b) review of multiple Federal agencies and programs for which comparison of data could show payment duplication; and

"(C) review of other information the Secretary of the Treasury determines could provide useful information in identifying, detecting, preventing, and recovering improper payments, which may include investigation or review of information from multiple Federal agencies or programs; and

"(2) the metrics used in determining whether the analytic and investigatory efforts have reduced, or contributed to the reduction of, improper payments or improper payment issues;"

"(b) GUIDANCE BY THE OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET.—";

"(1) GUIDANCE TO AGENCIES.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this section, and for each of the 4 succeeding years, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall submit to Congress a report regarding the implementation of this section. The first report submitted under this paragraph shall include the recommendations to Congress in the Do Not Pay Initiative to verify payment or use data analytics performed as part of the Do Not Pay Initiative for the purpose of detecting, preventing, and recovering improper payments, which may include investigation or review of information from multiple Federal agencies or programs; and

"(2) the metrics used in determining whether the analytic and investigatory efforts have reduced, or contributed to the reduction of, improper payments or improper payment issues;"
