

This bipartisan bill will bring our national healthcare system up to speed in the 21st century by taking advantage of the latest science and expediting the availability of safe and more effective treatments for all Americans.

Mr. Speaker, today there are more than 10,000 known diseases and conditions, but the United States of America only has cures and treatments for roughly 500 of them.

Diseases such as cancer, Parkinson's, and Alzheimer's will take the lives of roughly 1.8 million people this year in the United States alone. This 21st Century Cures Act will help change that, and it is an important step toward helping save the lives of our love ones.

Having served for nearly 30 years in the healthcare field, I applaud my colleagues on both sides of the aisle for passing this legislation.

TRIP FOR FREEDOM

(Mr. CURBELO of Florida asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CURBELO of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I want to strongly urge my colleagues to visit an exhibition happening right now in the Rayburn foyer.

The graphic display, which includes a remarkable collection of photos, is entitled the Venezuela of Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow. It is a reminder of the hard work being done every day by Venezuelans and Venezuelan Americans in their pursuit to restore democracy in a country ravaged by economic turmoil and a regime filled with corrupt leaders who will persecute anyone who voices disagreement.

It is more important now than ever for the United States to remain firm in our support for the people of Venezuela. We must remain strong in solidarity with the people who fight for a truly democratic Venezuela free from tyranny and the fear of a regime that promotes violence against its own people.

Again, I encourage my colleagues to take advantage of this opportunity to join the Educational Foundation for Democracy and IVAC in the promotion of a better future for Venezuelans and everyone in our hemisphere.

IRAN NUCLEAR NEGOTIATIONS

(Mr. DOLD asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. DOLD. Mr. Speaker, another deadline has passed, and Iran continues to act like it has leverage. What is worse, by its action, the administration seems to agree.

Make no mistake about it, Iran desperately needs a deal to relieve its crippling sanctions. Given the parade of U.S. concessions over the past 19 months, we are a long way from the starting point of demanding that Iran's nuclear program be affirmatively and unequivocally dismantled.

Mr. Speaker, there should be no wiggle room that allows any path to a nuclear weapon. Yet Iran's violations of interim agreement have been met with shrugs and painful-to-see justifications by this administration.

How can we trust Iran to uphold any deal when it has clearly proven untrustworthy?

Why would we give the greatest state sponsor of terror another $150 billion that even the administration acknowledges may go to fund terrorism against the United States, Israel, other democracies, and our allies around the globe?

It is time to walk away, reestablish our leverage, and force Iran back to the table on our terms.

RECOGNIZING PHILLIP BURR

(Mr. STEWART asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. STEWART. Mr. Speaker, I want to take a moment to recognize one of my own constituents, Phillip Burr, from Burrville, Utah.

Phillip has dedicated his career to providing electricity to rural Utah while working for one of my favorite companies, Garkane Energy. He has also spread that passion globally, making trips to such places as Bolivia and, most recently, Haiti.

We all know that electricity is a critical element to improving quality of life and increasing access to basic necessities like healthcare, education, and clean water. After learning Haiti has less than 15 percent of its population with regular access to electricity, Phillip traveled there to help build a diesel solar hybrid distribution system that will provide safe, affordable, and reliable power to more than 1,600 consumers.

This type of service is what makes America great. I am honored to recognize him for his example of humanitarian service and to thank him for all the work he has done in his community and around the world.

Mr. Burr, I salute you.

125 YEARS OF STATEHOOD FOR WYOMING

(Mrs. LUMMIS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. LUMMIS. Mr. Speaker, today, the great State of Wyoming, the Equality State, is celebrating her 125th anniversary of statehood.

Wyoming is a wondrous place, boasting our Nation's first national park, first national forest, and first national monument. Wyoming's scenic treasures are second to none in the world.

Our vast stores of resources—coal, uranium, timber, oil, gas, soda ash, and rare earth elements—all provide critical resources for our Nation.

Wyoming's freedom-loving, hard-working people have a deep sense of place and seamlessly weave the fabric of stewardship into it, inspiring the entire country and, really, the whole world.

I am proud to call Wyoming America's 44th star, my love, my life, and my home. I wish her a blessed 125th year of statehood.

BIRTHDAY WISHES

(Mr. KELLY of Mississippi asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KELLY of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, today, July 10, I rise to celebrate my son's birthday. I also rise in honor of my father's birthday, which was yesterday, and he would have been 74.

A representation of the future, I recognize John Forest Kelly, known to us as JFK. He was born in 1995 and will be 20 today.

In honor of the past, yesterday was my father, big John Kelly's birthday. He was born July 9, 1941. He was a great man and an inspiration to me. He served in the Mississippi Army National Guard from 1959 until he turned 60 in 2001 and retired as a first sergeant.

THANKING VIETNAM VETERANS

(Mr. LAMALFA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LAMALFA. Mr. Speaker, this last Wednesday, we took time out here in the Capitol to honor and remember our Vietnam veterans. This week was the 50th anniversary for the first deployment of our troops in Vietnam.

A lot of times, it is a war that wasn't understood by the American people or appreciated. What is wrong about that is that our troops were not always appreciated for what they did for us. They did it without complaint, they did it with sacrifice, and they did it with honor. So for us here in the Capitol to finally come around to that ideal and honor them was a very good thing.

For our Vietnam troops, we do appreciate you. We will do all we can to help you as you work through VA, as you work through Agent Orange. We know many of you are suffering these things, and you are not getting enough help from our Federal Government or that recognition.

So in recognition of what happened here this week on the 50th anniversary of the first deployment, we say to our Vietnam veterans: Welcome home, and God bless you.

SANCTUARY CITIES MUST END

(Mr. BABIN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BABIN. Mr. Speaker, the tragic killing of Kathryn Steinle at the hands
