The House met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker.

MORNING-HOUR DEBATE

The SPEAKER. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 5, 2016, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning-hour debate. The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties, with each party limited to 1 hour and each Member other than the majority and minority leaders for morning-hour debate. The Chair will now recognize Members for 5 minutes, but in no event shall debate continue beyond 11:30 a.m.

ZERO TOLERANCE FOR RAPE

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Poe) for 5 minutes.

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, two Stanford students were biking one night when they noticed a half naked woman lying motionless behind a dumpster with a male student on top of her. When they confronted the attacker, the man took off in the darkness of the night. The Good Samaritans were able to catch the coward and knock him to the ground. The woman, just 22 years of age at the time, was being raped, and the rapist was caught in the act.

When the victim regained consciousness, she was on a gurney, covered with pine needles, and was bleeding. Her assailant was Brock Turner, a scholarship swimmer at Stanford. Brock was found guilty of sexual assault on three counts. His sentence? A mere 6 months in prison and 3 years probation. Because the judge said “a prison sentence would have a severe impact on him.” Well, isn’t that the point? Mr. Speaker, the punishment for rape should be longer than a semester in college. The defendant’s dad called it a "steep price to pay for 20 minutes of action." Clearly, Brock is a chip off the old block and daddy will never be named father of the year.

For many victims, Mr. Speaker, rape is a fate worse than death. Here is why. Because rape victims say that after being raped, they die emotionally many times; and with homicide, one dies only once.

After the sentencing, the brave victim read, Mr. Speaker, a 7,200-word statement to her attacker, the rapist. She said in part:

“I tried to push it out of my mind, but it was so heavy I didn’t talk, I didn’t eat, I didn’t sleep, I didn’t interact with anyone. I became isolated from the ones I loved the most. After I learned about the graphic details of my own sexual assault, the news article listed his swimming times, saying ‘by the way, he’s really good at swimming.’

“I was the wounded antelope of the herd, completely alone and vulnerable, physically unable to fend for myself, and he chose me. During the investigation, I was pummeled with narrowed, pointed questions that dissected my personal life, love life, past life, family life, inane questions, accumulating trivial details to try and find an excuse for this guy who had me half naked before even bothering to ask for my name.

“My damage was internal, unseen, I carry it with me. You took away my worth, my privacy, my energy, my time, my safety, my intimacy, my confidence, my own voice.

"While you worry about your shattered reputation, I can’t sleep alone at night without having a light on, like a 5-year-old, because I have nightmares of being touched where I cannot wake up. I did this thing where I waited until the sun came up and I felt safe enough to sleep.”

Mr. Speaker, I was a prosecutor and the justice system are on their side. Justice demands the judge be removed. The defendant should receive more time in prison. The people, over 30 years. I met a lot of rape victims and learned how these attacks sometimes devastate their lives.

This judge got it wrong. There is an archaic philosophy in some courts that sin ain’t sin as long as good folk do it.” In this case, the court and the defendant’s father wanted a pass for the rapist because he was a big-shot swimmer. The judge should be removed.

The rapist should do more time for the dastardly deed that he did that night. This arrogant defendant has appealed the sentence. I hope the appeals court does grant the appeal and make it right and overturn the pathetic sentence and give him the punishment he deserves.

As a country, Mr. Speaker, we must change our mentality and make sure that people recognize sexual assault and rape for the horrible crimes that they are. As a grandfather of 11, I want to know that my granddaughters are growing up in a society that has zero tolerance for this criminal conduct. No means no. A woman who is unconscious does not even have the ability to consent or fight back.

Victims, like this remarkable woman, must know that society and the justice system are on their side. Too often the focus is on defending, protecting, and excusing sex offenders like Brock Turner. The entitlement mentality, being a good college athlete, and self-righteousness do not trump justice.

In 6 months, when Brock Turner is out of prison, he will return to his life, but the life of the victim may never be the same. The criminal has given her a life sentence of mental pain, anguish, and turmoil. Mr. Speaker, when rape occurs, the criminal is trying to steal the very soul of the victim. Justice demands the judge be removed. The defendant should receive more time in prison. We, the people, wearing was missing, and I felt too empty to continue to speak. That I was also afraid, that I was also devastated. That day we drove home and for hours in silence my younger sister did not know what happened, but called that day and said, ‘I was really worried about you last night, you scared me, did you make it home okay?’ I told her the truth when I learned. I had called him that night in my blackout, left an incomprehensible voicemail, that we had also spoken on the phone, but I was slurring so much, that he had repeatedly told me to go find [my sister]. Again, he asked me, ‘What happened last night? Did you make it home okay?’ I said yes, and hung up. That’s my story.

You said, Being drunk I just couldn’t make the best decisions and neither could she. Alcohol is not an excuse. It’s a fact? Yes. But alcohol was not the one who stripped me, fingered me, had my head dragging against the ground, with me almost fully naked. Having too much to drink was an amateur mistake that I admit to, but it is not criminal. Everyone in this room has had a night where they have regretted drinking too much and done something to them that they have a hard time forgetting. To say that drinking too much is not the same as regretting sexual assault, you are not taking the responsibility of the woman who has had a night where they have regretted drinking too much. Regretting drinking is not the same as regretting sexual assault.

On that morning, all that I was told was running a lot lately. There are times I did not want to be touched. I have to relearn to trust people. You are beautiful, you are to be valued, respected, definitely, unquestionably, you are untouchable, a small voice in this story. That we are looking out for one another. To have known all of these people, to have felt the love and support, is something I will never forget.

And finally, to girls everywhere, I am with you. On nights when you feel alone, I am with you. When people dismiss you, I am with you. I fought every day for you. So never stop fighting, I believe you. As the author Anne Lamott once wrote, ‘Light-houses don’t go running all over an island looking for boats to save; they just stand there shining.’ Although I can’t save every boat, I hope that by speaking today, you absorbed a small amount of light, a small knowing that you can’t be silenced, a small satisfaction that justice was served, a small assurance that we are getting somewhere, and that big knowing is important, unquestionably, you are untouchable, you are beautiful, you are to be valued, respected, undeniably, every minute of every day, we are powerful. You can take that away from you. To girls everywhere, I am with you. Thank you.

CARBON TAX AND OIL TAX

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. NEWHOUSE). The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER) for 5 minutes.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the comments from my friend from Texas. They are important to consider.

I am going to shift gears for a moment. I have another issue to talk about today. To a certain extent, I have great sympathy for my Republican colleagues. They have been stuck with a standard-bearer for their party, who is a bigot, a bully, a liar, a misogynist, with no discerning qualifications with the high offices that they are seeking. But they are not helping themselves by trying to shift the subject of debate here on the floor of the House.
Tomorrow, we are going to be taking a stand against a couple of what they think are unpopular ideas. It is too bad that the proposals we will be debating on were never considered by our Ways and Means Committee. One, a sense of Congress that a carbon tax is bad for the economy. And the other, opposition to the President's proposal for a $10 a barrel fee on oil.

The carbon tax ironically is something that most of the economists who have written in the past about whether they are conservative, liberal, Republican or Democrat—agree would be a good policy for this country. A carbon tax is the most efficient way to deal with the serious problems of carbon pollution that is already harming the economy.

Look at the disruption of the fishing industry and the widespread flooding we have seen that has been unprecedented. We are about to go into another egregious forest fire season with huge costs economically, as well as to forest health. We have wildly unpredictable weather—unprecedented heat. In Portland, Oregon, last weekend, it was 100 degrees for both days.

A carbon tax would harness market forces to be able to change that direction rather than other initiatives. A carbon tax actually can be designed to cushion impacts on low- to moderate-income people. In fact, it actually could be designed to help low- to moderate-income people. A blanket dismissal of what economists think is our best economic environmental protection is shortsighted. It is too bad that we didn't debate it in committee.

The other resolution, the opposition to the President's barrel tax, misses the point entirely. It suggests that that is somehow going to be detrimental. Wait a minute. The barrel fee would be used to rebuild and renew America. We have been in a desperate situation. We haven't raised the gas tax since 1993. It has made it almost impossible to move forward with a robust transportation bill to deal with the problem. America is falling apart while we are falling behind. That is why seven red Republican States last year raised the gas tax. We couldn't even talk about it here in Congress.

Using a barrel fee of $10 per barrel will enable us to make significant investments in rebuilding and renewing America. The Standard & Poor 500 research couple of years ago noted that investment in infrastructure has a significant impact on the economy. $1.2 billion creates almost 30,000 jobs, creates $2 billion worth of economic activity, reduces the Federal deficit $200 million, and we get the benefit of improved infrastructure.

That is why every major interest group supported raising revenues for transportation. When I introduced the gas tax increase, it was supported by the American Chamber of Commerce, the AFL-CIO, by truckers, AAA, engineers, and contractors. Virtually everyone who builds, uses, maintains, or owns American infrastructure said, Raise this fee, help us rebuild and renew America.

I think the only thing wrong with the President's proposal is that it is several years too late. We should have been debating this from the outset, particularly when petroleum prices have fallen precipitously, and when America's infrastructure continues to deteriorate. It is sad that we didn't have a robust debate in committee. We will have a little bit of discussion tomorrow. But it is too little and too late.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would remind Members to refrain from engaging in personalities toward presumptive nominees for the Office of President.

HONORING GENERAL GORDON SULLIVAN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York (Mr. GIBSON) for 5 minutes.

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor retired General Gordon Sullivan for his accomplishments in over 54 years of total service to the soldiers, veterans, family members, the civilians of the United States Army, and this great Nation.

General Sullivan, raised in Quincy, Massachusetts, was commissioned a second lieutenant of armor in 1959. After a distinguished career spanning 36 years in uniform and serving in command level throughout the Army, his career culminated as the 32nd chief of staff of the United States Army.

On the occasion of his retirement from the Army, former Senator Bob Dole spoke of General Sullivan's caring leadership, sage counsel, and common-sense approach as he navigated the Army through a challenging period of significant downsizing and restructuring.

Senator Dole stated, "Our Army will sorely miss General Sullivan, but it is stronger and better for his service. The legacy he leaves—a ready Army, a future force that will be unmatched, and the deep love and devotion of his soldiers—is fitting of this great man."

After serving in uniform for almost four decades, General Sullivan continued to advocate on behalf of the Army as president of the Association of the United States Army for the past 18 years. His tireless efforts, ensuring our soldiers and their families had the best training and resources and that our veterans returning from combat received the best care, have been unmatched and are a true testament to this great man of character and conviction.

Under General Sullivan's executive leadership, the Association of the United States Army broadly expanded support and outreach to the Army families, the Army National Guard and Army Reserve, and the Department of Army Civilians by the promotion, establishment, and support of countless programs and events at the national and local levels.

Additionally, the Association of the United States Army continuously contributed millions of dollars to veteran and soldier support programs, such as the Fisher House Foundation, the Center for the Intrepid, and the Army Emergency Relief.

Mr. Speaker, I first met General Sullivan 18 years ago, which was the week he started as the president of AUSA, when I served as an escort officer for the Senior Conference at the United States Military Academy at West Point. I was serving on the faculty at that time. I was struck by General Sullivan's graciousness, his humility, and the way he lived his life by conviction and integrity. I remain a huge fan to this day.

Mr. Speaker, I rise on behalf of a grateful Nation to thank General Gordon Sullivan and his family for their over five decades of service to our Army. His leadership has directly enhanced the readiness of the United States Army. I ask my colleagues to join me in saluting him and in wishing him well in his retirement.

THE COURT OF PUBLIC OPINION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. BUTTERFIELD) for 5 minutes.

Mr. BUTTERFIELD. Mr. Speaker, it is utterly disappointing that Donald J. Trump chose to use the court of public opinion in his attempt to defend against a civil fraud claim involving Trump University.

Last week, Donald Trump made disparaging statements about the trial judge. He suggested that the trial judge is incapable of objectively judging the unacceptable because of his Mexican heritage. He went on to say that the judge was a hater of Donald Trump's. The footage is being played over and over on television, and many of my colleagues on both sides of the aisle, to their credit, have found these statements to be unacceptable.

In my humble opinion, Mr. Speaker, these statements rise to the level of contempt of court. They are racially based, and the litigant should be sanctioned. The Trump statements are perceived by millions of people to be race based and a discredit to the judiciary. It must be addressed.

Based on my years as a lawyer and as a judge, it is clear that, if a litigant feels that the judge cannot be fair and impartial in a case, the litigant has a duty to inform his counsel. Counsel then has an obligation to file motions of recusal that set out, with particularity, the grounds for the motion. This was not done, and I suspect it was not done because there is no such motion. If the attorneys chose to make such a reckless claim, the attorneys would be subject to discipline.
What would motivate a litigant in a class action civil fraud case to announce to millions of people that the judge is incapable of objectively judging his case because of his Mexican heritage?

It is bizarre. It is suspicious behavior.

One explanation is that the litigant, unable to convince his attorney to address these issues in court, wants to intimidate the judge and eventually force the judge off the case, which would slow the administration of justice and would postpone the trial for months, even years. The court system, Mr. Speaker, does not work that way.

These statements have put the attorneys in an ethical dilemma of whether they should repudiate the statement or not. Codes of Professional Conduct require an attorney to address client misconduct, to address it with the bar, to address it with the court, and to seek guidance on further representation.

Mr. Speaker, this is an egregious violation of client misconduct. The court and the attorneys bear responsibility for protecting the integrity of the judiciary and the judicial system. Donald Trump's lawyers must avow or disavow their client's misconduct. The integrity of an independent judiciary is clearly impacted by these inappropriate statements.

RELEASE WILDIN ACOSTA FROM DETENTION

Mr. BUTTERFIELD. Mr. Speaker, yesterday, Riverside High School in Durham, North Carolina, held its graduation ceremony. Among the pomp and circumstance, one student who should have graduated with his class was, sadly, absent.

Wildin Acosta is a Honduran national who fled his country after the violence and threats to his life became so great that he felt it was safer to escape it. He traveled a harrowing 17-day journey to the United States, all at the tender age of 17. He was classified as an Unaccompanied Minor and was eventually reunited with his parents in Durham, where he planted deep roots in the community and thrived at Riverside High School.

Instead of graduating yesterday with his classmates, he sits in an ICE detention facility in Georgia after being arrested by ICE agents while he was on his way to school. Led by his classmates, the Durham community has been unanimous in calling for the end of recent ICE raids that have spread fear throughout our community and schools.

Mr. Speaker, I, too, stand in support of Wildin, and I continue to fight for his release. I encourage my colleagues to join with me and to implore the ICE Director and the Department of Homeland Security Secretary to use their discretion to release Wildin and others like him from detention.

REMEMBERING CAPTAIN JEFFREY KUSS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York (Mr. KATKO) for 5 minutes.

Mr. KATKO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to the life of Marine Corps Captain Jeffrey Kuss, a pilot with the Navy’s elite Blue Angels flying squadron, who tragically lost his life in a fatal crash just over 1 week ago.

This week is the first-ever Navy Week in Syracuse, New York, in my district, which is marked by a series of local one-on-one events and forums that are focused on translating the mission of the U.S. Navy to our community.

The week was expected to culminate with a performance of the Blue Angels at the Syracuse Hancock International Airport Airshow. Tragically, Marine Corps Captain Jeff Kuss, a married father of two young children, was killed when his jet crashed 2 miles from a runway near Nashville, Tennessee.

Captain Kuss, a native of Durango, Colorado, devoted his life to serving our country as a U.S. marine—joining the Blue Angels in September of 2014. At 32 years old, he had accumulated more than 1,400 flight hours and 175 carrier-arrested landings. His decorations include the Strike-Flight Air Medal, the Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medal, and various personal and unit awards.

While the Syracuse Airshow will go on without the Blue Angels this weekend, our community is deeply saddened by the loss of this fallen pilot, and the show will celebrate and pay tribute to his life.

As Captain Kuss’ family and the Blue Angels team grieve this tremendous loss, this weekend, central New York will remember and honor his life and service to our great Nation. Semper Fi Marine.

MUHAMMAD ALI—THE GREATEST

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DANNY K. DAVIS) for 5 minutes.

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, Muhammad Ali was, indeed, the greatest, and he spent considerable time in Chicago. Therefore, I got the opportunity to meet and know him. On occasion, I would visit with my friends Frank Liske, Wallace Davis, Jr., and Ralph Metcalf, Jr., and we would visit with him in his Kenwood home and at meetings. Although Muhammad Ali was born and raised in Louisville, Kentucky, those of us who lived in Chicago got to meet him because of his relationship to the Honorable Elijah Muhammad, who was with the Nation of Islam, and because of his involvement and engagement with the larger community. Muhammad Ali was not only the best boxer in the world during his heyday, he was a genuine hero to everyday people who felt that he was a part of them.

In 1966, 2 years after winning the heavyweight title, he refused to be conscripted into the military, citing his religious beliefs and opposition to the American involvement in the Vietnam war. He was eventually arrested, found guilty of draft evasion, and stripped of his boxing titles. He successfully appealed in the U.S. Supreme Court, which overturned his conviction in 1971.

Mr. Speaker, does not work that way.

Mr. Speaker, I, too, stand in support of the gentle from New York (Mr. ZELDIN) for 5 minutes.

Mr. ZELDIN. Mr. Speaker, this is an egregious violation of client misconduct.

As health challenges arise and seniors budgeting based on a fixed income, we should do everything we can to ensure that those who need medical care are given special attention to quality and affordable health care as a result of ObamaCare. There are also serious concerns over the solvency of Social Security and Medicare, which many seniors rely on for both financial and healthcare security.

As health challenges arise and seniors budgeting based on a fixed income, we should do everything we can to ensure that those who need medical care are given special attention to quality and affordable health care at an affordable price without having to jump through hoops. They also should be assured that the programs and benefits they rely on will always be there for them. ObamaCare has significantly impacted our seniors and their access to quality and affordable health care. I frequently hear concerns about lost doctors, canceled policies, and higher premiums and deductibles.

Earlier this year, Congress passed the Restoring Americans’ Healthcare Freedom Reconciliation Act, which would repeal many of the flawed major provisions under ObamaCare over a period of 2 years—specifically, many of the harmful mandates and taxes—so that we can increase seniors’ access without compromising quality of care or efficiency. It is important to improve the quality of health care in our country for our Nation’s seniors.

Congress has also taken action to improve Medicare. Over the past year, the House has passed a number of bills, including the Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act, the Medicare Beneficiary Preservation of Choice Act, and the Medicare Advantage enrollment bill—all proposals that would protect and preserve Medicare for our seniors who rely on it as well as to restore and expand the Medicare open enrollment period.

The House also took action and made significant reforms to Social Security and Medicare, saving millions of seniors from significantly increased healthcare costs. By working in a bipartisan fashion, Congress was able to stave off a massive premium hike for seniors who utilize Medicare part B. Without this action, approximately 8 million seniors across our country would have been subjected to a 52 percent premium hike for Medicare part B. In this bipartisan effort, action was taken to prevent a 20 percent across-the-board cut to Social Security disability benefits.

Moreover, in working across the aisle with my colleagues in the House, we were able to repeal the sustainable growth rate formula, also known as the doc fix, to prevent there being a 20 percent cut to Medicare. This action alone has been seen as the most significant Medicare reform that has taken place in years. Without this legislation, which is now law, many doctors would have simply stopped accepting new Medicare patients or would have even ceased in accepting Medicare altogether.

Congress has also been committed to passing legislation and securing funding to expand seniors’ access to the most innovative technologies and treatments so that we can diagnose and treat diseases as early as possible.

Last year, the House passed the 21st Century Cures Act, bipartisan legislation I cosponsored in Congress to improve and modernize our Nation’s healthcare. This legislation would have helped to replace the unsustainable growth rate formula and would have provided the next generation of cures. It was a bipartisan effort, action was taken to prevent a 20 percent across-the-board cut to Social Security disability benefits.

Manufacturing is an incredibly important industry in the State of Minnesota, and it brings billions of dollars to our economy every year, making it a key pillar of Minnesota’s economy. I commend Sign-Zone for bringing quality and excellent products to our community, and I also thank them for contributing to an industry that is so critically vital to our State.

Congratulations, Sign-Zone, and thank you for what you contribute to the great State of Minnesota.

MINNESOTA’S OWN PRESIDENTIAL SCHOLAR

Mr. EMMER of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to celebrate one of Minnesota’s best and brightest, Sartell High School senior Gopi Ramanathan, who was recently named a 2016 Presidential Scholar.

Every year, up to 161 students can be named Presidential Scholars, making it one of the highest awards a high school student can receive. It is safe to say that this achievement has gone to an incredibly bright young man.

Gopi Ramanathan has had an exceptionally successful high school career, and his resume includes a very long list of accolades and achievements. He is a two-time champion of the Minnesota State Math league, and he was deputy captain of the United States team that took first place at the 2013 National Geographic World Geography Bee.

Additionally, he is a member of the National Honor Society, a Big Brother mentor, a member of the student council, the president of the Minnesota Association of Student Councils, and a member of the Sartell soccer team.

Perhaps most notably, Gopi earned a perfect score of 36 on his ACTs, an accomplishment that puts him in the top one-tenth of 1 percent of students across this country.

It is an honor to recognize a student of such distinction here today, and I can say with absolute certainty that we will see more great things to come from this young man in the future.

ANOKA EDUCATOR HONORED AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Mr. EMMER of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Anoka High School math teacher Paul Kelley for recently being honored at the White House in a ceremony for exceptional educators.

In addition to teaching math at Anoka High School for the past 29 years, Mr. Kelley serves on the board of directors for the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. Along with four other teachers from around the country, Mr. Kelley was nominated for this recognition by the staff at the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics headquarters.

During the ceremony at the White House, Paul had the chance to meet hundreds of other extraordinary teachers as well as the Secretary of Education, John B. King, and Deputy Assistant to the President for Education, Roberto Rodriguez. Mr. Kelley also heard from President Obama, thanking the educators for their roles in educating tomorrow’s generation. A good teacher molds minds, sparks creativity, and gives students keys that can open all of life’s doors. Congratulations, Mr. Kelley, on your recent achievement, and thank you for helping Minnesota students achieve their full potential.

THE STATE OF HOMELESSNESS IN AMERICA

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from California (Ms. MAXINE WATERS) for 5 minutes.

Ms. MAXINE WATERS of California. Mr. Speaker, today I rise once again to discuss the horror of homelessness in America and to call attention to the Republicans’ so-called poverty agenda that simply ignores the fact that men, women, and children are sleeping on the streets of America, eating out of garbage cans, and using our sidewalks as restrooms.

Homelessness is one of the most tragic and disappointing reminders of the overwhelming poverty in this country. According to the latest estimates, almost 600,000 Americans are homeless.

It is a problem in every district, and it affects people from very different walks of life: 37 percent of the homeless population are represented in families, 15 percent are chronically homeless, 8 percent are veterans, and 6.5 percent are children.

While there is a claim that some progress has been made to decrease homelessness in some communities, a lot more needs to be done, especially in some of our largest cities where homelessness is, sadly, increasing exponentially: in my hometown of Los Angeles, homelessness increased 20 percent between 2014 and 2015; in New York City, homelessness increased 11 percent between 2014 and 2015; and in Chicago, there was an 8 percent increase in that timeframe.

As public policymakers and Members of Congress, we have a responsibility to deal with problems and circumstances that undermine and harm our way of life. We are the stewards of the American people. And home is where the heart is. In every religion, there is a reference to feeding the hungry, housing the homeless, and clothing the naked.

Where are the Republican Members who regularly hold prayer meetings, who attend church on Sunday in their districts, but yet they are supporting this fake poverty agenda that does not even mention homelessness? Where are the Members who claim to honor our veterans, yet walk past them on the sidewalk in their tents and sleeping under our bridges?

We know that we can functionally end homelessness and alleviate poverty in this country. We know that Federal resources and the social safety nets are incredibly effective at lifting up struggling families. We know that if we properly support the Department of Housing and Urban Development and other Federal agencies that we could provide the necessary funds and provide the social services that our neighbors need to get off the streets.

What we need is, simply, the political will to get it done. Unfortunately, we do not have the support from Republicans whose sham of a poverty agenda released this week would only exacerbate homelessness and punish the poor.

Take the Republican approach to housing assistance, for example. For years, they have cut funding for HUD programs, leaving more than 75 percent of eligible families without any housing help at all. And their latest poverty plan recycles some of the most harmful changes Republicans have sought for our housing programs. They refuse to acknowledge the realities of unaffordable rents that require families to earn almost triple the minimum wage to be able to afford a modest two-bedroom apartment.

And they want to impose these so-called work requirements that simply don’t work if you ignore the already high unemployment rates in certain areas as well as the need to invest in job training, education, child care, and other social services to make it possible for individuals to obtain stable employment. What the Republicans have put forth is truly the wrong way forward.

Fortunately, Democrats know what it takes; and when we talk about issues of homelessness in particular, there is a very simple solution to this very real problem. That is why I have introduced H.R. 4888, the Ending Homelessness Act of 2016.

Now, a lot of people will say: Oh, my goodness, did you see how much money is in this bill? They devolve over $13 billion over 5 years to housing assistance programs and create the housing units and services that we so desperately need to get people off the streets.

ADDRESSING THE NATIONAL DEBT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Florida (Mr. CURBELLO) for 5 minutes.
Mr. CURBELO of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to discuss one of the most serious issues facing the United States: the staggering national debt of over $19 trillion. This equates to $55,409 for every person living in our country. The national debt has grown to almost $9 trillion since President Obama was sworn in, here in Congress, we must work together to debate solutions that will address our country’s debt and get our fiscal house back in order.

Every day, families in south Florida sit around the dinner table and make tough decisions on how they will spend their money. They stick to their budgets, and their government should be no different.

Last October, I was proud to support a 2-year bipartisan budget agreement that implemented new caps on discretionary spending for both fiscal years 2016 and 2017. Too often, enormous sums are wasted due to unpredictable budget cycles and government shutdowns. With the adoption of this 2-year budget, Congress was able to reduce wasteful government spending by providing certainty to agencies as they plan for the future.

The budget agreement contains reforms to entitlement programs. It is important that we protect Social Security, Medicare, and Medicaid—the invaluable safety net for those who need the help—while working to implement reforms to make these programs solvent for future generations.

Mr. Speaker, I will continue to work with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to advance solutions that will rein in our national debt. It is our duty as elected officials to leave our children and grandchildren the same economic opportunities as previous generations had. That is my highest priority in Congress.

RECOGNIZING JOSEPH GEBARA

Mr. CURBELO of Florida. Mr. Speaker. It is my privilege to recognize Mr. Gebara as he retires from his post as president of the Miami-Dade County Council PTA/PTSA. Mr. Gebara has been integral to the organization’s mission of unlocking the potential present in every child.

Mr. Gebara, who held his post since 2014, has always maintained an unwavering focus on his goals, and has used his position to effectively serve our community. For years he has been at the heart of the movement which seeks to engage with south Florida families and provide them with the tools necessary to empower their children and set them on a path towards success.

Mr. Gebara has been firmly rooted in the south Florida community which is evident through his service as board member of The Children’s Trust as well as chairman of the Miami-Dade Public Schools Title I District Advisory Council. In those roles, Mr. Gebara worked tirelessly to facilitate collaboration between educators, families, and community members as well as increasing inclusivity so that every voice was heard, respected, and taken into consideration.

I commend Mr. Joe Gebara for his service to the south Florida community, and congratulate him on a job well done. Mr. Speaker, I can personally attest to the fact that he is the most passionate advocate for children and families in our schools that I know.

HOMESTEAD VETERANS CLINIC

Mr. CURBELO of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to offer my strong support for the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs in establishing a new VA medical clinic in Homestead, Florida. As it currently stands, the Homestead Veterans Affairs Community Based Outpatient Clinic rents a medical office that does not meet the demands of veterans and their families.

With the establishment of a new clinic, Homestead would be able to serve more than 10,000 military personnel, veterans, and eligible family members in Miami-Dade and Monroe Counties, which would be a substantial improvement from its current capabilities.

Though this new clinic would be a step forward, there is still significant work that must be done to help our veterans and their families. The brave men and women deserve more easily accessible options, and I will continue fighting for them.

Supporting our troops and veterans is essential to paying our profound debt of gratitude to the very people who have put their lives in danger to defend our country. That is why we must stop the efforts to repeal the healthcare law. Instead, we must come together to make sure we expand access, ensure the marketplace is working, and keep health care affordable for all Americans in this great country.

Every Member of Congress has a responsibility to the next generation and the one after that. We are responsible for our future. We face a short 12-week session in this 114th Congress. What will we accomplish during this time? Will we vote on partisan bills that will go nowhere? Or will we face the challenges affecting our Nation and the world? Or will we, once and for all, think of the children and ensure future generations inherit a nation that remains the global leader, full of opportunities?

We hold the power to make things better for our kids and grandkids. For my grandson and all grandchildren, the future of public education doesn’t put students and families into 6-figure debt. Every child deserves a world-class education that provides them with the knowledge and skills to achieve their dreams and uphold our place as a global leader in innovation.

For my grandson and grandchildren of his generation, I will continue to be a vocal advocate on the need to create a just and equal criminal and juvenile justice system that is worthy of our children. We spend $12,000 to educate a child in America, but we are willing to spend more than $150,000 to imprison that child for 1 year. And yet every year funding for education ends up on the chopping block.

How will we justify that?

My grandson was born into a great country, but sometimes, Mr. Speaker, this Congress does not live up to the potential that this Nation deserves. A child in the United States is less likely to die from a disease than from a gunshot. We are better than that, Mr. Speaker. It is our responsibility to address this reality.
We must work together for my grandson and all the children of his generation to make sure our parks are greener, our air is cleaner, to cure the sickness that is taking our climate, to make sure that a father or mother, no matter what their economic circumstances, does not have to worry that their child’s bathwater is poisoned. This is our job.

It is our job to be leaders, and I will work with my colleagues every day to live up to what our grandchildren deserve. I have been elected officials spew the same line: “We are mortgaging our children’s future.” Our parents and grandparents invested in our Nation, and we have reaped those benefits. It is time that we do the same for future generations.

That is what has made us the greatest economy in the world: investing in our roads and bridges, investing in schools and hospitals, in forward-thinking legislation that will serve others. ToCors wants to come. Now more than ever, I understand just how important it is that we work together and create solutions so that our children will live a better life.

YOUTH PROMISE ACT

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Webster of Florida). The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Yoho) for 5 minutes.

Mr. YOHO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to call attention to an incredibly important piece of legislation that will provide essential funding for programs which will go miles toward helping every young person in America who has maybe had a misstep reach their potential and achieve their American Dream.

As I travel my district, I am so impressed as I meet some of the most incredible young people in north central Florida. They have the capability of literally changing the world and the capability of bettering their communities and setting a positive example for the youth that will follow in their footsteps.

Unfortunately, too many will fall victim to the circumstances in which they were born. Too many will become familiar with the inside of a juvenile detention facility, as the image of the classroom fades from memory, and the all-too-familiar reality of life behind bars begins to materialize. I want to stress that if this happens to even just one child, that is one child too many.

We live in the greatest nation on Earth. We tell our children they can be whatever they want to be when they grow up. Yet we know the reality for some is that as these very words are spoken, there is no truth to them. These are the youth who fall subject to the cradle-to-prison pipeline, and it is unacceptable.

These are the children in our communities, children who go to school with our own kids and, yes, in some cases even our own children. We have the ability to change their reality. H.R. 2197, the Youth PROMISE Act, will do just that. The Youth PROMISE Act establishes a PROMISE Advisory Panel of State representatives as well as local PROMISE Coordinating Councils, which will develop and implement evidence-based programs and mentorship opportunities.

These practices will occur on a community level, working with families, working with schools, non-profits, juvenile justice advocates, and law enforcement officers to intervene early in a child’s life to prevent them from starting down a path that can easily define the remainder of their lives.

Last Congress, the Youth PROMISE Act garnered the bipartisan support of over 130 Members of this body in Congress, yet it sat in committee for nearly 2 years. This Congress, the Youth PROMISE Act has sat in the House Committee on Education and the Workforce for over 400 days without action.

Our youth cannot continue to wait. There are many issues that Congress deals with which Republicans, Democrats, and Independents cannot agree upon, but this is not one of them. If they have not already, I urge my colleagues to co-sponsor this vital piece of legislation. I urge leadership in the House and the Senate to bring up this bill for a vote, a vote for our challenged youth so that they may continue the great posterity of this Nation.

HONORING THE LIFE OF MARIA L. GUTIERREZ

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. Costa) for 5 minutes.

Mr. COSTA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of a good friend and community leader, Maria L. Gutierrez. Maria led her life with purpose. She wanted to make a positive difference, and there is no doubt that she did that. She served as the general manager of Univision in Fresno, California, and led the television station to be one of the highest-ranking stations not only in the San Joaquin Valley, but in the Nation.

She was a strong advocate for immigration reform, equal rights for women, and worked hard to bring more water to the Valley. She cared, she had a big heart, and she was a role model for all who knew her.

We miss Maria dearly, especially that big smile that she always had on her face. Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join me and Maria’s family and friends in paying tribute to her life. May she rest in peace.

IMMIGRANT HERITAGE MONTH

Mr. COSTA. Mr. Speaker, I rise to recognize June as Immigrant Heritage Month.

We are a Nation of Native Americans and of immigrants past and immigrants present. That is America. For over 250 years, since the formation of the United States, immigrants have helped make our country what it is today. They add energy and value with each generation to the tapestry that makes up our country.

California’s San Joaquin Valley, which I proudly represent, is home to people whose families come from all over the world. Their story is our story. It is one of achieving the American Dream, which is my family’s story.

I am fortunate to represent and live in an area with some of the hardest working people you will ever meet in your life who have made lasting contributions to the San Joaquin Valley’s agriculture economy, businesses, education, and healthcare systems. Their contributions have had positive impacts not only in California, but throughout the Nation.

Arabic, Armenian, Italian, Portuguese, Sikh, and Hmong immigrants are among the many who have come from Asia, the Americas, Africa, and Europe to call America their home.

These immigrant families, for generations, have been the backbone of our working class. I am proud to be a cornerstone of a place that we call the United States of America. They are living out the American Dream, and their children and grandchildren continue to add value and make a positive difference in our valley and the Nation.

Degrading immigrant communities is not an American value. Name-calling is not a virtue and never should be condoned. Insinuating that someone is not qualified based on their ethnicity and heritage is completely unacceptable, especially coming from someone who wants to be leader of the free world.

The sad reality is that some individuals are going to use hateful rhetoric to tear us apart. It is wrong. But we must continue to add value and make a positive difference in our valley and the Nation.

Immigrant families, for generations, have been the backbone of our working class. I am proud to be a cornerstone of a place that we call the United States of America. They are living out the American Dream, and their children and grandchildren continue to add value and make a positive difference in our valley and the Nation.

Degrading immigrant communities is a cornerstone of a place that we call the United States of America. They are living out the American Dream, and their children and grandchildren continue to add value and make a positive difference in our valley and the Nation.

Wrongly questioning a judge’s objectivity because of his ethnic background is pure and simple racism. It is not the American way. We are better than that. And, Mr. Trump, you should apologize for your hurtful statements.

Instead of talking about a wall to keep people out, our next President should focus on comprehensive immigration reform so that we can fix our Nation’s broken immigration system. As I said, we are a Nation of immigrants. And that is one of the reasons why the United States is the greatest Nation in the world, period.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues and all Americans to join in celebrating immigrant communities throughout our great Nation by recognizing June as Immigrant Heritage Month.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would remind Members to refrain from engaging in personalities toward Recently, West End Ambulance and the Phoenixville Fire and Police Departments responded to a call for help. These devoted crews assisted an individual who went into cardiac arrest. Through their swift efforts to administer CPR, the responders were able to save a life.

The Chester County EMS Council recognized the responders for their expertise on May 28, coinciding with National Emergency Medical Services Week, which honors those serving on our communities every day. Mr. Speaker, I commend and thank these and all firefighters, officers, EMTs, and paramedics for their service.

STATE OUTREACH FOR LOCAL VETERANS EMPLOYMENT

Mr. COSTELLO of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak about a bill I introduced in the House called the SOLVE Act, short for the State Outreach for Local Veterans Employment Act.

The SOLVE Act will provide Pennsylvania, and all States, with critical flexibility to utilize existing grant funds in the way that best serves the needs of each State’s unique veteran population. The American Legion, Paralyzed Veterans of America and National Guard Association of the United States, have all endorsed this commonsense bill. I encourage my colleagues to cosponsor this bill as well.

RECOGNIZING WILSON SOUTHERN MIDDLE SCHOOL

Mr. COSTELLO of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise to recognize Wilson Southern Middle School as one of six exemplary middle schools in Pennsylvania recognized as a school to watch. I also thank the teachers, administrators, parents, faculty, and students for their hard work in making Wilson Southern Middle School such an exceptional middle school. We are very proud of you.

BRINGING POSTPARTUM DEPRESSION OUT OF THE SHADOWS

Mr. COSTELLO of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak in support of Bringing Postpartum Depression Out of the Shadows Act.

Every year, one in seven new mothers experiences perinatal depression, impacting babies and families for years to come. This bipartisan legislation, which I have cosponsored with Congresswoman KATHARINE CLARK of Massachusetts, would help those suffering receive the treatment they need. States would receive Federal funding to establish, expand, or maintain programs for screening and treatment of maternal depression.

Thanks to the tireless efforts of mental health advocates, we have reached over 65 bipartisan cosponsors in the House. I am respectfully encouraging other Members and their staffs to look at this bill and join as cosponsors. It is the right thing to do as we seek to proactively address issues of postpartum depression in communities across this country.

THREE BRANCHES OF GOVERNMENT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON LEE) for 5 minutes.

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Speaker, I am a Member of the United States Congress and a very—I hate to use the term proud, but I am proud to have been a member of the Judiciary Committee for the number of years that I have served in this august place.

As I serve, I am well aware of the importance of the Constitution and the very sacred responsibility that we have in protecting it. So I thought that, as a lawyer who has practiced and one who has served as an associate municipal court judge in my hometown of Houston, Texas, it would be important to remind Members of the established three branches of government and the responsibilities that each hold, but focus in particular on the executive—this branch of the United States.

In Article II, the Constitution, says: “The executive Power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America.” It uses the term that “he should hold.” And, in particular, it acknowledges that he or she should take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

Article III establishes our judicial power. In particular, with respect to Federal courts: “all Cases, in Law and Equity, arising under, the Constitution, the Laws of the United States, and Treaties made, under their Authority.”

All of these cases have jurisdiction under our Federal court system. So, the Federal courts and jurists are of keen importance.

One would wonder how we establish the need for the rule of law and separation of powers. It came first from 1215, King John’s Magna Carta, which indicated that no one should be imprisoned, dispossessed, outlawed, exiled, or in any way destroyed, except by lawful judgment of his peers and the law of the land.

I know that when I sat as a member of the bench, I would look at petitioners and I would hope that even though my history was that of a former slave, being an African American—when I say a former slave, descendants of such; the history of African Americans is such—and I would hope that my background would not have countered the fairness that I would have rendered to anyone who came before me.

Judicial independence is something that should hold. The Founders understood that judges who are able to apply the law freely and fairly are essential to the rule of law.

The Constitution guarantees our rights on paper, but this would mean nothing without an independent judiciary to protect them. That means our judges in the Federal system should not be intimidated or influenced or protected from the influence of the other branches, as well as shifting popular opinion.

This insulation is referred to as judicial independence. It allows our Federal judges to make decisions based on what is right, under the law, without facing political attacks as not getting re-elected; or, personal, such as getting fired or having their salary lowered.

As a member of the Judiciary Committee, I have often joined with the late Henry Hyde, then the chairman, who wanted to raise the salaries of our Federal judges.

So I think it is imperative to come before this body, my colleagues, to raise great angst when someone’s ethnicity is called out as a reason that they cannot be fair.

I am appalled that we have come to this in 2016, where, if I were to symbolically ascend to a Federal bench, or maybe the colleagues who many of us and the Senate have supported and the President has nominated—the diverse bench that represents Asians, Hispanics, African Americans, and women and men, Anglos, Caucasians—anyone would raise a question.

I have been before a court and not welcomed that decision. There have been many reasons why I was not pleased with that decision. But I could not raise the question of race.

And so I think it is worth contemplating that freedom has a kind of public discourse where the race of a Federal judge is raised. Remember what I said: judicial independence warrants that we, in fact, cannot intimidate the bench and not, in fact, deny the freedom of the court to decide cases based on facts and the law, not based on public opinion, the views of special interests groups, or even a judge’s own personal belief.

The right of every citizen to a fair trial is a cornerstone of our democracy. Why should anyone be diminished, and why should the petitioner independently attempt to intimidate based on race? It is appalling. It is absurd.

So I ask all of my colleagues, as protectors of the Constitution and people who are here making laws, to independently go out to the highways and byways of life and condemn those words. Need I say who it is? Condemn those words and condemn this kind of discourse.

I would offer to say that anyone who has said those words and who pretends to put themselves forward to uphold the Constitution for right cases and wrong cases, ever. I ask my colleagues to condemn those actions.

Mr. Speaker, the Deering Estate’s future will be just as important as its past to all of south Florida. The Deering Estate is indeed a jewel in our already beautiful south Florida treasures.

CONGRATULATING ARMANDO VALLADARES

The Speaker pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. Ros-Lehtinen) for 5 minutes.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate my dear friend and a true patriot, Ambassador Armando Valladares, for being awarded the Canterbury Medal, the highest honor bestowed by The Becket Fund for Religious Liberty.

Armando Valladares spent 22 years in Castro’s gulags. He endured unconscionable torture while in prison. Why, Mr. Speaker? Because Armando refused to put a sign on his desk saying that he supported Fidel Castro.

No matter how much abuse he endured in prison, Armando fought his jailing every day. He protected his conscience from the constant and ongoing attacks of the brutal Communist dictatorship.

Earlier this year, Ambassador Valladares wrote about President Obama’s misguided and dangerous overtures to the Castro regime—one-sided negotiations. In a recent op-ed that Armando Valladares wrote, he said: “In agreeing to meet with Raúl Castro, Obama rewards a regime that rules with brutal force and systematically violates human rights.”

Ambassador Valladares, thank you for your courage. Thank you for your principled stand against the Castro regime. Godspeed, my friend.

COMMEMORATING DEERING ESTATE’S 100TH ANNIVERSARY

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to recognize the 100th anniversary of one of south Florida’s most notable cultural, historical, environmental, and archaeological treasures, the Charles Deering Estate, located in my beautiful congressional district.

Charles Deering, the first chairman of the board of International Harvester, bought the property in the year 1916. Now, as a jewel of the Miami-Dade County Parks, Recreation and Open Spaces system, the 444-acre Deering Estate serves as a center of community life in the very groovy village of Palmetto Bay.

It also conserves globally endangered native plant communities and is a focal point for the ongoing Biscayne Bay coastal wetlands restoration that aims to re-create more natural freshwater flow and to slow saltwater intrusion into our drinking water sources as sea levels rise. And the sea levels are, indeed, rising due to global climate change.

Mr. Speaker, the Deering Estate’s future is expected to be just as important as its past to all of south Florida. The Deering Estate is indeed a jewel in our already beautiful south Florida treasures.

BREAKING THE PROMISE

The Speaker pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. McClintock) for 5 minutes.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, the House is expected to take up the PROMESA bill today regarding the Puerto Rican debt crisis. This bill has serious implications to every taxpayer in the country.

PROMESA applies a form of chapter 9 bankruptcy to the general obligation bonds of Puerto Rico that are guaranteed by the Commonwealth’s constitution.

Article VI, section 8 of Puerto Rico’s constitution explicitly provides that “interest on the public debt and amortization thereof shall first be paid.”

Well, this bill ignores the Puerto Rican constitution and breaks that promise, and here’s why this is so important to the rest of the country:

Every State government has similar constitutional provisions that guarantee its general obligation bonds. This is what allows States to borrow at extremely low interest rates because their debt is constitutionally guaranteed and, therefore, the risk of default is extremely low.

If Congress is willing to undermine a territory’s constitutionally guaranteed bonds today, there is every reason to believe it would be willing to undermine a State’s guarantee tomorrow. This, in turn, invites credit markets to question such guarantees as being no longer secured on constitutional bedrock but, rather, dependent upon the shifting whims of Congress. This, in turn, means the value of these bonds is devalued, and interest rates paid by taxpayers on that debt will increase.

The Governors of six States have already raised this warning, and the U.S. Virgin Islands, whose credit is directly undermined by PROMESA, wants out of the bill for the same reason.

Now, PROMESA could have respected the $18 billion of constitutionally guaranteed debt and focused instead on re-structuring the $54 billion of Puerto Rican municipal debt that is not constitutionally guaranteed. After all, there is no reason to treat San Juan’s municipal debt any differently than San Jose’s. But constitutionally issued treasuries are fundamentally different, and its reliability must be maintained.

Tellingly, supporters of this bill voted down just such an amendment in committee.

Supporters have said they have added this turn by inserting instructions to the courts that “respect the relative lawful priorities in the constitution, other laws or agreements.” But ironically, one of those “other laws” the control board is instructed to respect is the government’s repudiation of that debt.

Furthermore, the same section instructs the control board to provide “adequate funding for public pension systems and other contractually defined benefits.” The only possible interpretation of this provision is that the sanctity of the sovereign debt is subject to balancing and, therefore, subordination to junior claims by the control board.

Just last week, Treasury Secretary Jack Lew and the White House admitted that this was both the intent and effect of the bill.

Meanwhile, another provision of PROMESA prevents lawful bondholders from enforcing their claims in court for a period of 6 months but doesn’t prevent the government from paying out junior claims during this period. Indeed, in anticipation of this bill, the new budget for Puerto Rico increases general fund spending, while it radically reduces its debt service payments.

Honoring the rule of law and maintaining the Commonwealth’s full faith and credit guarantee would be a powerful signal to bond markets that the United States stands by its promises, even when it is inconvenient.

Under current law, it is in the interest of both sides, debtor and creditor, to work out terms that both can live with to restructure and repay this debt. Indeed, until the prospect of a congressional rescue arose, Puerto Rico was negotiating terms of a debt restructuring with the mutual consent of its creditors.

It is also in the interest of the people of Puerto Rico to uphold the full faith and credit clause of their constitution, which, under current law, is at the mercy of this bill, for them to reenter the credit market once their affairs are put back in order.

Puerto Rico faces both crisis and opportunity: a crisis born of slavish devotion to failed economic policies and an opportunity to replace those policies with proven free market solutions that can create a fresh start for the people of Puerto Rico and shine as a beacon of hope for other similarly afflicted States.

I fear the net result of this legislation will be to spread the crisis to other States with heavy debts by increasing their debt service costs.

PAYING TRIBUTE TO J. RANDY JACKSON

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia, Mr. Westmoreland, for 5 minutes.

Mr. WESTMORELAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to my friend, a friend of Georgia’s Third Congressional District, and a friend of all Georgians, J. Randy Jackson, chief administrative officer for Kia Motors Manufacturing Georgia, who tragically passed away on the afternoon of May 20, 2016.

Randy was the first American employee hired for Kia’s plant in Georgia. He not only became the public face for Kia Motors in Georgia, but an advocate for the continued creation and development of employment opportunities for Georgians.

When he came to Kia, and when Kia came to West Point, Georgia, West Point was a struggling city affected by the textile plant closings. But under Randy’s leadership ability to bring people together for the good of all, both inside and outside that town, he thrived. We have ‘ived.’

Today, Kia is responsible for 15,000 jobs at the plant and in the surrounding community.

Mr. Jackson played a key role in hiring thousands of those employees. A passionate worker, his enthusiasm for Kia and creating jobs cultivated a workplace that both blended corporate business and human needs.

Randy had an almost unique way about him. Somehow, he was able to be comfortable while projecting that he had full control over every situation that might arise.

Randy’s way was a remarkable blend of personality, caring, and expertise.

Randy’s presence was felt beyond the walls of Kia—and will be for many years to come. He was, for example, involved in the THINK Academy, which strives to support the education of future generations of good employees.

While Randy Jackson was a dedicated company man, he was also a devoted family man. He is survived by his wife of 35 years, Deborah Jackson. He was the proud father of two children, James Randall Jackson, Jr., of Kentucky, and Jennifer Caley Jackson of Georgia. His parents, James Edward and Pauline Greer Jackson of Macon, Georgia, and a sister, Delbra Jackson Hayes of Perry, Georgia, also survive him. Mr. Jackson was a very passionate worker, his enthusiasm for his beloved Rat Terrier, Rambo Brodie.

Randy lived a life of hard work and love. He inspired those around him “to make every day better than yesterday.” His loss will be felt not only at Kia and in the entire community. He made both better from his presence.

At the plant, they talk about the Kia Way, emphasizing teamwork and problem solving to make progress. We all know that Randy’s way was the Kia Way. The community and the plant will go on; the plant helped to make sure that it would, but it won’t be quite the same without him.

Thanks, Randy, and until we meet again.

HONORING PORT ALLEGANY, PENNSYLVANIA ON ITS 200TH ANNIVERSARY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania, Mr. Thompson, for 5 minutes.

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to observe the 200th anniversary of the community of Port Allegany, McKean County, in Pennsylvania’s Fifth Congressional District.

Port Allegany was founded in 1816 as Canoe Place, located just 30 miles from the headwaters of the Allegheny River. True to its name—Port Allegany, which was bestowed in 1838—the settlement served as a port along the river for Native Americans and pioneers who would stop to build or repair canoes before traveling along the river.

Later in its history, Port Allegany became known for its glass manufacturing.

The first plant of the Pittsburgh Corning Corporation was constructed there in 1937, and glass block used in construction all over America are still built there.

Today you can still find people enjoying the outdoors in the settlement first known as Canoe Place. Tourism is a big part of the town’s economy, with visitors enjoying canoeing, kayaking, and fishing.

The celebration of Port Allegany’s anniversary will kick off Sunday and run through June 18 with plenty of activities, including an ice cream social, Pioneers Day picnic, a car cruise, and wagon rides.

HONORING FORMER OIL CITY POLICE OFFICER STANLEY FEDOREK

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of Stanley Fedorek, a former police officer in Oil City, located in Venango County in Pennsylvania’s Fifth Congressional District. Mr. Fedorek was recognized just this week as the oldest member of the Fraternal Order of Police in Pennsylvania at the age of 98.

Fedorek has been a member of the Fraternal Order of Police for 68 years and received a certificate of appreciation and a commemorative letter from the organization.

Mr. Speaker, Stanley Fedorek is also a veteran, serving as a first sergeant in the United States Army in Italy during World War II. He joined the Oil City Police Department following his discharge and served as an officer up until 1968. He later worked security at Mellon Bank.

Mr. Fedorek has only missed two meetings in his time as a member of the Fraternal Order of Police, and he was still driving himself to those meetings at 98 years of age.

Mr. Speaker, I thank Mr. Fedorek for his service to the Oil City community and to our Nation.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until noon today.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. WALBERG) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. WALBERG led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will entertain up to 15 further requests for 1-minute speeches on each side of the aisle.

FOREST TREE DAMAGE TOLL AND FIRE DANGER

(Mr. LAMALFA asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LAMALFA. Mr. Speaker, years of drought have left a terrible toll on the forests of the Sierra Nevada in California. The Forest Service estimates that there are at least 40 million trees that have died in California alone. The scope of this challenge is almost unbelievable, and the danger it presents is nearly unavoidable. However, there are steps that we can take to address it.

While it is refreshing that the Forest Service is finally using the categorical exclusions that have been authorized under the recent farm bill to speed forest management projects, it won't be enough to prevent forest fires of devastating sizes and scopes. The Forest Service should rapidly increase the numbers of public-private partnerships it engages in and allow the private sector to remove the dead trees that are just waiting for a spark.

The Senate should act immediately to pass H.R. 2647 and allow forest fires.

to be funded like earthquakes, hurricanes, and other natural disasters so as to end the diversion of forest management funding that limits preemptive fuel reduction work.

We also need to incentivize technologies like the usage of biomass, which can make productive use of damaged trees and brush, et cetera, and can generate long-term renewable power—base-load, reliable power.

Congress should act to extend the same tax incentives that wind and solar power receive to biomass plants, which don’t just create power but do so more reliably and which have the additional benefit of consuming wood and slash that would otherwise burn in our forests, causing pollution. This would also bring jobs back, which are much needed in the rural part of America.

MUHAMMAD ALI

(Ms. HAHN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. HAHN. Mr. Speaker, last week, the world lost a champion. Muhammad Ali was a professional boxer and a three-time heavyweight champ, but what truly made him “The Greatest” was what he did outside of the ring.

He had quick reflexes but a quicker wit. He was introduced to the world as a fighter, but he chose to hang up his gloves to stand up against the war. At a time when racism pushed so many people down, Muhammad Ali had the audacity to speak up—and people listened.

I was lucky to have met Muhammad Ali several times. He spent much of his time in Los Angeles, and he became close with my dad, L.A. County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn. They were allies in the fight for civil rights and for working families.

I have a Muhammad Ali story.

In 1987, my dad suffered a debilitating stroke that left him partially paralyzed shortly before he was up for reelection that year. Muhammad Ali actually showed up at my parents’ home in South Los Angeles one day, and he told my father that he would personally push him door-to-door in his wheelchair if that is what it took to get him reelected.

You can imagine what that meant to my dad, to me, and to all of the neighborhood kids who actually saw Muhammad Ali do that with my dad. I will never forget that moment, and the world will never forget Muhammad Ali.

HONORING CAPTAIN BRADLEY LONG

(Mr. McHENRY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. McHENRY. Mr. Speaker, I rise with a heavy heart to pay tribute to Captain Bradley Long, a fallen firefighter from my district.

Captain Long was a dedicated public servant and was born to be a firefighter. In fact, he started volunteering as a junior firefighter when he was just 14 years old at the Sherrills Ford-Terreille Fire and Rescue. He followed in his father’s footsteps, who had fought fires for 25 years. Though he was a full-time firefighter with the Newton Fire Department, he also continued to serve as volunteer at Sherrills Ford-Terreille Fire and Rescue, which is where he was serving when he died in a diving accident while attempting to rescue a missing swimmer.

Following his death, Captain Long’s father described how Bradley loved what he did and how he loved helping people, and that is what he was doing when he gave his life. Captain Long is the epitome of a public servant, and he will be deeply missed.

CONGRESS MUST PASS THE EQUALITY ACT

(Ms. GRAHAM asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, somewhere in America today there is a young person who, all of a sudden, realizes that he or she is gay. They are afraid that, if their parents find out, they may be tossed out of the house, that their classmates will taunt them, and there are still politicians who say that they are not equal.

For years, these young people didn’t believe they had any options, but today, because of the work of the LGBT community and because of leaders like Harvey Milk, they have hope. They can run for public office; they can serve in our military; they can marry whom they love. They have hope for a better future, but there is still work to be done.

Across the country, including in Florida, LGBT Americans can still be discriminated against. That is why Congress must pass the Equality Act.

We must pass it because it is the right thing to do. We must pass it for the young person who is still scared and struggling. We must pass it to give them hope.

COMMENORATING SOUTH CAROLINA STATE GUARD WEEK

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, this week, South Carolina honors and pays tribute to the dedicated men and women of the South Carolina State Guard.

The unpaid volunteers of the State Guard are always prepared for challenging events in the community. They respond quickly to work to help families recover after natural disasters. The South Carolina State Guard was crucially involved in flood relief last October. This 1,000-year flood devastated many neighborhoods. Members from all three brigades of the State Guard worked around the clock in filling sandbags and in assisting engineers and law enforcement.

I was grateful to visit disaster relief centers firsthand, which was coordinated with the State Guard, and I was accompanied by Representatives Kirkman Finlay and Chip Huggins.

Our citizens really appreciate the command staff of the South Carolina State Guard for leading and inspiring these members: Major General Thomas Mullikin, Brigadier General Richard Lott, Warrant Officer Verrell Lott, Jr., and Command Sergeant Major Mark Freeman.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and may the President, by his actions, never forget September the 11th in the global war on terrorism.

Our sympathy to the people of Tel Aviv as the latest victims of Islamic terrorists.

HONORING OFFICER VERDELL SMITH

(Mr. COHEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I express and join with the people of the City of Memphis who are mourning the loss of another law enforcement officer.

Officer Verrell Smith, Jr., served 18 years as a Memphis policeman. He also served his country in the United States Navy.

Last weekend, a man went wild in Memphis and shot three different people and then had his car hurtling at a high speed in the wrong direction on a one-way street toward a busy intersection of Beale and B.B. King. Officer Smith tried to clear the intersection of civilians to save them from tragedy. Unfortunately, Officer Smith was struck by the car and died.

Officer Verrell Smith’s funeral will be tomorrow. He leaves behind a family, particularly two children, Chelsea and Verrell, Jr.; his stepchildren; his grandmother; his father, O’ Dell Smith, Sr.; and siblings.

Law enforcement put themselves in danger all the time to protect us. We appreciate their service. We mourn the loss of Officer Smith, a life of service.

150TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE CROSWELL OPERA HOUSE

(Mr. WALBERG asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. WALBERG. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in recognition of the 150th anniversary of Michigan’s oldest theater, the Crosswell Opera House.

The Crosswell, located in the heart of Adrian, Michigan, is one of the oldest continuously operated theaters in the United States. Named for Charles M. Crosswell, an Adrian resident and Michigan’s 17th governor, the auditorium first opened its doors in 1866 and has played host to many distinguished figures throughout the years, including Susan B. Anthony, Frederick Douglass, and Edwin Booth.

Today, the 650-seat auditorium is an official Michigan historic site and has been restored to its original 19th century splendor.

The Croswell is a gem within our community that continues to maintain its reputation as the epicenter for the arts in southeastern Michigan.

Please join me today in honoring all of those involved in the theater’s fine tradition of excellence as we celebrate their 150th year anniversary.

REJECTING RACISM

(Mrs. BUSTOS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. BUSTOS. Mr. Speaker, this week, we have seen a very clear difference between our two parties. I would remind my colleagues that this is the year 2016. It is not 1916. It is not 1816.

We, as a Nation, have come so far. But there was a time when I, as a woman, would not have been allowed to vote, let alone speak on the floor of this Chamber.

There was a time when our friends on the Congressional Black Caucus or our friends in the Congressional Hispanic Caucus, also, would not have been welcomed among these hallowed halls.

You know what, we are better than that.

We know that the diversity of our Nation makes us greater. So whenever racism rears its ugly head, all of us, Democrats and Republicans, have an obligation to reject it.

Mr. Speaker, I have been very disturbed to see so many of my Republican colleagues trying to tiptoe around the offensive behavior of the new leader of their party, Donald Trump.

I urge all of my colleagues to do the right thing and reject racist policies without any ifs, ands, or buts.

RECOGNIZING ILLINOIS’ 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT SERVICE ACADEMY APPOINTEES

(Mr. LAHOOD asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to applaud the impressive individuals who will be representing Illinois’ 18th Congressional District at three of the most prestigious academic institutions in our Nation, our U.S. service academies.

Earlier this year, I nominated 22 individuals from my district, and seven of them have been accepted and will begin their service at the Air Force Academy, West Point, and the Naval Academy this summer.

I was privileged to meet with these young men and women in my district last Friday, and the talent among these seven is indeed inspiring and diverse. These cadets and midshipmen are not only at the top of their class in academic achievements, but they also excel in extracurricular activities. We have a State wrestling champion, a hockey player who will be playing for the Air Force Academy, and a competitive golfer who will be playing at the Naval Academy.

Most importantly, I was struck by their earnest commitment to serving our country. Many of these students come with a legacy of military service. We even have an aspiring Navy Seal and a JAG attorney in this group.

I want to congratulate Randy Menywether, II, Matthew Helmich, Faith Kim, Trevor Stone, Eric Betts, August Will, and Morgan Riley.

Thank you to these students for their commitment to our country, and to their families for raising them, and to those in our Illinois communities who have helped them reach this accomplishment. I wish them much success.

CELEBRATING DR. ALLAN WOLFSON

(Mr. RUIZ asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. RUIZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise to congratulate a dear friend and mentor of mine, Dr. Allan Wolfsong, program director of the emergency medicine residency at the University of Pittsburgh, for his retirement.

Abby trained me in emergency medicine, which has benefited thousands of patients I have cared for. He is the longest active serving residency program director in emergency medicine. Among his over 360 trainees are several deans of medical schools and chairs of departments of emergency medicine.

He is so respected by his peers that he has been recognized and honored by many prestigious organizations. He received the National Emergency Medicine Residents Association’s Residency Director of the Year award in 2012. He even wrote the premier textbook of emergency medicine.

He loves to teach, loves to mentor, loves emergency medicine, loves his residents, and loves to have a good time. Abby, you know what I mean.

You trained me to be an advocate for my patients. I carry that can-do, problem-solving, patients-first advocacy with me now in Congress. First and foremost and always an emergency physician.

Abby, congratulations and thank you.

HURRICANE PREPAREDNESS

(Mr. BILIRAKIS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BILIRAKIS. Mr. Speaker, today I rise in support of H.R. 4775, the Ozone Standards Implementation Act. Under the Clean Air Act, the EPA has used the National Ambient Air Quality Standards to impose costly and burdensome regulations on American manufacturers and the American people.

By the EPA choosing to lower the NAAQ Standards further, many businesses and the American people will suffer while still struggling to meet the original standards. American businesses have already spent billions of dollars and years of planning to meet the 75 parts per billion original Disasters can strike at any time, often with little warning. Just days ago, my district was hit by Tropical Storm Colin. The winds and heavy rains were intense, causing dangerous flooding. It is important that we have a plan in place.

We must all be prepared with supply kits filled with potential lifesaving items, like flashlights, radios, and batteries. It is also crucial to follow local weather forecasts and heed any emergency warnings.

The best way to guarantee safety is thorough preparation. My Web site at Bilirakis.house.gov as well as FEMA.gov both have important resources available to you.

This year, be sure you are ready and safe.

POVERTY

(Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, nearly 47 million people are living in poverty in the United States. That is about 10 times the total population of Los Angeles. And, Mr. Speaker, no matter how hard these families work and no matter how much these families save, they are still not able to get ahead.

These families struggle to feed themselves and their children. They struggle to save for a home. They struggle to live the American Dream that we all yearn for, and that is unacceptable.

That is why I support expanding programs, which I believe help and provide a social safety net. Essential programs like the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program or Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, and the Free and Reduced Lunch Program serve specific community needs.

Mr. Speaker, we need to bring legislation to the floor that will help families, help families to help themselves get ahead, proven programs. Let’s not condense or cut them. Let’s work on legislation to help these families.

OZONE STANDARDS IMPLEMENTATION

(Mr. ALLEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, today I rise in support of H.R. 4775, the Ozone Standards Implementation Act. Under the Clean Air Act, the EPA has used the National Ambient Air Quality Standards to impose costly and burdensome regulations on American manufacturers and the American people.

By the EPA choosing to lower the NAAQ Standards further, many businesses will suffer while still struggling to meet the original standards. American businesses have already spent billions of dollars and years of planning to meet the 75 parts per billion original.
standard and will now find themselves unable to meet the new requirements. We can’t and shouldn’t change the rules in the middle of the game.

Businesses across America and in Georgia 12, like many paper mills and manufacturers that are economic drivers in our area, have already spent billions to make our air cleaner.

H.R. 4775 ensures that States and counties have the needed flexibility and time to comply with these standards while keeping our air clean and safe.

I am proud to support this bill and commend my colleagues in the House for passing it this week.

HATEFUL RHETORIC
(Mr. CROWLEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, if I were to stand here today and read an agenda on attacks on immigrants, Muslims, women, and families living in poverty and even the judicial system, you would laugh. That was the campaign platform for the Republican candidate for President. But every one of those hasn’t just come from “Con Man Don.”

They have been embraced, affirmed, and in many cases even inspired by this Republican Congress. So you could be forgiven for being confused because the truth is they are all one and the same.

We are used to this hateful rhetoric coming from the other side of the aisle. Sometimes it is masked in legislation; sometimes not so much.

But when the leader of their party, their standard-bearer, “Con Man Don” makes racist and discriminatory remarks as easily as if he were reciting the alphabet, it begs the question: “What do Republicans stand for?”

You only have to look at all they have in common with “Con Man Don,” a candidate they have even admitted has made racist statements. It is clear they stand with “Con Man Don,” but it is also clear who they don’t stand with, that is, the American people.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would remind Members to refrain from engaging in personalities toward presumptive nominees for the Office of President.

CASTNER RANGE NATIONAL MONUMENT
(Mr. O’ROURKE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. O’ROURKE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to acknowledge the 110th anniversary of the Antiquities Act.

From the first national monument, Devil’s Tower in Wyoming that was designated in 1906, to the Statue of Liberty in New York, and Glacier Bay in Alaska, over 188 designations have been made by 16 Presidents, most of them Republicans. While the last 110 years have arguably been successful for this country, we can do better.

Today’s national monuments and the people who visit them do not reflect the great diversity of this country. That is why I ask my colleagues to join me in supporting the Castner Range National Monument Act.

The Castner Range is in El Paso, Texas. It is 7,000 acres of pristine Chihuahuan desert. Rocky Mountain wilderness surrounded by a community that is 85 percent Mexican American.

The last 110 years have been great. I ask my colleagues to support me and join me in keeping that the next 110 years are even better.

DENOUNCE THE HATEFUL RHETORIC
(Mr. VEASEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. VEASEY. Mr. Speaker, I am calling on House Republicans to denounce the hateful rhetoric coming from the leader of their party.

Week after week, House Republicans, my colleagues, publicly announce their endorsement of Donald Trump. They aren’t just endorsing the candidate, but also the hateful and discriminatory agenda set by their party’s Presidential nominee.

House Republicans cannot continue to support him and denounce his inflammatory rhetoric, including the demonization of our friends that are Hispanic and Muslim, at the same time.

Mr. Speaker, it is time for Republicans to step up. It is time for them to step up to the plate and do the right thing and denounce this bigotry. You can’t pretend that the things that your party’s leader is saying aren’t hurting and divisive to the American public.

Mr. Speaker, it is time to do the right thing, step up, come up with an agenda that is good for all Americans, and stop pretending as if the things that the leader of your party is saying isn’t hurtful.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would, again, remind Members to refrain from engaging in personalities toward presumptive nominees for the Office of President.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CLERK OF THE HOUSE

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 5278, PUERTO RICO OVERSIGHT, MANAGEMENT, AND ECONOMIC STABILITY ACT
Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 770 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 770
Resolved, That at any time after adoption of this resolution the Speaker may, pursuant to clause (2)(b) of rule XVIII, declare the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the purpose of consideration of the Committee Print 114-57. That amendment in the nature of a substitute shall be considered as read. All points of order against that amendment in the nature of a substitute are waived. No amendment to that amendment in the nature of a substitute shall be considered as read. All points of order against that amendment in the nature of a substitute are waived.

Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Natural Resources, I call up the Castner Range National Monument Act, H.R. 5278, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That is 85 percent Mexican American. The Castner Range is in El Paso, Texas. It is 7,000 acres of pristine Chihuahuan desert. Rocky Mountain wilderness surrounded by a community that is 85 percent Mexican American.

The last 110 years have been great. I ask my colleagues to support me and join me in keeping that the next 110 years are even better.
Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS), pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Alabama?

There was no objection.

Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 770 provides for consideration of H.R. 5278, the Puerto Rico Oversight, Management, and Economic Stability Act, or PROMESA. The resolution provides for a structured rule and makes in order eight amendments.

This bill addresses a very serious issue, the financial situation in Puerto Rico. The Government of Puerto Rico has racked up over $118 billion in debt. They have already defaulted on portions of their debt in May, and they face another deadline on July 1. The territory has reached a point where they can no longer meet the basic demands of their citizens.

The Constitution makes clear that Congress has the authority over territories. Article IV, section 3, clause 2 of the Constitution states: "The Congress shall have Power to dispose of and make all needful Rules and Regulations respecting the Territory or other Property belonging to the United States . . ." After hearing calls for greater autonomy, in 1950 Congress recognized Puerto Rico's authority over internal matters through passage of the Federal Relations Act. Congress also approved Puerto Rico's constitution in 1952.

So the control they demanded, and with that, they attempted to become a liberal paradise by raising taxes, expanding government programs, and spending at unsustainable rates. To help pay for these policies, Puerto Rico issued billions of dollars in bonded debt that they can no longer pay back. Now they are demanding help, which puts Congress in a very difficult position.

The fact that we have reached this point is a direct result of the President and his Treasury Department being asleep at the switch. They either were not paying attention to the financial situation in Puerto Rico or they were paying attention and chose to do nothing.

I want to highlight a few important things about this bill. First, this bill is not a bailout. The American taxpayers did not create this problem, and we shouldn't send their money to something they did not cause.

What really worries me is that if Congress doesn't act on this legislation, then we will find ourselves in a position at some point facing serious pressure to vote on a true actual bailout of Puerto Rico. That would be a grave mistake.

As the president of Americans for Tax Reform noted in an op-ed for the National Review, "Congress needs to step in now; otherwise, a huge taxpayer bailout is the likely outcome. PROMESA is the best, most fiscally responsible way to prevent a bailout from occurring."

This bill does not include a single penny of new money. In fact, the Congressional Budget Office found that this bill would have "no significant net effect on the Federal deficit." So let's try and get this problem resolved in a fiscally responsible way that does not use taxpayer dollars.

Second, the policies in Puerto Rico have led to this problem, so it is important that the legislation address some of these policies and require greater accountability. The bill does this through the creation of a seven-person financial Oversight and Management Board which is responsible for the development of budgets and fiscal plans for Puerto Rico.

The bill also includes some commonsense policy changes that will hopefully ease the burdens on the Puerto Rican people. For example, it gives the Government a chance to address the costly new overtime rule from taking effect and giving them flexibility with minimum wage requirements for young workers.

Through better oversight and regulatory reforms, it is my belief the Puerto Rican economy can grow and the country can get back on a more stable financial footing.

I want to make one thing very clear. I and every Member of this House have great empathy and appreciation for the Puerto Rican people because they did not cause this problem. I have had the honor of traveling to Puerto Rico and visiting this beautiful place. I enjoyed meeting the people and really appreciate what they've done. I believe it is important what we can in a responsible manner to support the Puerto Rican people.

Ultimately, I wish this legislation wasn't necessary, but the reality of the situation demands action. So I call on my colleagues to support this rule, support the underlying bill, and let's address this problem in a responsible way without a bailout.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend, the gentleman from Alabama, for yielding me the customary 30 minutes for debate.

The people of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico face an urgent fiscal crisis, and this institution's delay in addressing this crisis has left the United States citizens on that island in dire straits.

In June of 2015, Puerto Rico's Governor stated that the Commonwealth would not be able to pay its debts. Now Puerto Rico faces a $2 billion interest and principal payment on July 1. It is unlikely the Commonwealth will be able to make this payment. So I am pleased that, finally, after a full year, this body has decided that the citizens in the Commonwealth deserve relief from this growing humanitarian disaster.

However, now that legislation has been brought forward to deal with this issue, I fear that the solution to this problem presented here will hobble the workers of Puerto Rico for some time to come. While the bill accomplishes much by way of addressing the debt crisis in Puerto Rico, it also hamstrings workers by expanding the subminimum wage on the island.

This legislation expands the application of the Federal subminimum wage to those under 25 years old and extends the application of this subminimum wage to those workers from 90 days to up to 4 years. Just for reference, the subminimum wage that will now be paid to workers under 25 and younger and for up to 4 years is $4.25 an hour—$4.25 an hour—a full $3 per hour less than the workers in the States make when, indeed, the workers in the United States ought be making $15 an hour.

The bill would also delay implementation of the Department of Labor's rule on overtime pay until the GAO completes a study, which could take up to 2 years. This means that under the provisions of this bill, the young people of Puerto Rico will be paid a subminimum wage, and the rest of the workers on the island will not be eligible for the new overtime rules, losing out on hard-earned money for working long hours.

While some legislative solution is necessary in order to responsibly address Puerto Rico's debt crisis, these provisions are unconscionable. It is long past time that we start treating our fellow citizens to the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico—as well as the District of Columbia and the Virgin Islands and American Samoa and Guam and the Marianas—with dignity and respect, not with provisions to limit their ability to earn the same amount of money for their hard work as any other American. It is all right for them to go to war and die—and they do in sometimes disproportionate numbers—but we don't want to see to it that they receive an appropriate wage.

What really worries me is what is not found in the bill, which is any money to address the Zika virus on the island. Make no mistake, the fiscal situation and the response to this virus are linked. I know that there will be provisions that the House passed $633 million, the Senate passed $1.2 billion, and they will go to conference, but I am talking specifically about this financial crisis and Puerto Rico's problem.

Given the financial situation on the island, there are grave concerns about the Commonwealth's ability to handle an outbreak of the virus. Already there
Mr. Speaker, in the last year and a half, this Congress has held nine hearings on Puerto Rico, a U.S. territory, home to 3.4 million American citizens. These hearings confirmed that Puerto Rico is in jeopardy right now. Not next year. Now. Island residents are relocating to the States in unprecedented numbers. The Puerto Rican Government, on the brink of collapse, a victim of decades of inequality at the Federal level and mismanagement at the local level.

The government and its instrumentalties have $70 billion in bonded debt; three public agencies on the island have already defaulted on payments to creditors, and larger defaults appear imminent. Puerto Rico’s three main pension systems are severely underfunded, placing at risk the retirement security of over 300,000 individuals. The government of Puerto Rico has lost access to the credit markets, so it cannot borrow money to meet current obligations.

All objective observers, including virtually every major editorial board in the Nation and the government of Puerto Rico, know Puerto Rico must restructure its debts—ideally, through voluntary agreements with creditors, but through a court-supervised process, if necessary. It is regrettable that we are at this point. It is reality. We must confront this challenge with courage and candor.

PROMESA gives Puerto Rico the critical tool it lacks; namely, a legal mechanism to restructure its debts in an orderly way, ensuring the sacrifices will be shared in a fair and equitable manner.

Without PROMESA, the Puerto Rican Government is likely to collapse, participants in pension plans will be terribly damaged, and most bondholders could lose their investments. Absent this bill, almost nobody will win and nearly everybody loses. Now, PROMESA pairs debt restructuring authority with the creation of an independent oversight board to help the Puerto Rican Government better manage its public finances, balance its budgets, become more efficient and transparent, and regain access to the credit markets.

There are some Puerto Rican politicians who seek broad debt restructuring authority from Congress, but oppose an oversight board. This is not a realistic option, and would result in Puerto Rico receiving nothing.

I fully understand the importance of democracy and dignity. As a lifelong advocate for statehood for Puerto Rico, I want full democratic rights for the island on both the national and local level, not fewer democratic rights. My test from day one has been that the board should have the authority to oversee, but not to command and control, the Government of Puerto Rico. PROMESA meets this test.

After intensive negotiations, the bill establishes a reasonable board with powers far less potent than those Congress gave the board it established for the District of Columbia in 1995. If the Puerto Rican Government does its job well, the board will have a limited role and will cease to operate within a few years. PROMESA, like any product of bipartisan compromise, is not perfect. For instance, the minimum wage provision is deeply unacceptable to Puerto Rico, because it simply encourages Puerto Ricans to migrate to the States or otherwise not to seek a job and rely on government assistance.

Nevertheless, I should say that there is almost zero chance this provision will affect a single worker in Puerto Rico, since the government will retain the ability to prevent its use. This bill is the best chance we have to solve the immediate fiscal crisis in Puerto Rico and to place the island on the path to a brighter future. I urge my colleagues to vote “yes” on the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.
If you can’t debate the future of Puerto Rico here in the Congress of the United States, imagine when you give it to seven people unelected by anyone in Puerto Rico or in the United States that can meet in secret. They can meet in secret without informing us of any one of their decisions. If we can’t have a debate about Puerto Rico, if it is so important, why not take time to have a debate about the amendments that are offered by people here.

We are engaged today in a wholly undemocratic activity in one of the world’s greatest democracies. We are debating how we will take power from people who are virtually powerless already.

As I have said throughout this debate, Puerto Rico, by virtue of court cases and the Territorial Clause of the Constitution, “belongs to, but is not a part of the United States.”

I say to all of my colleagues: treat them with dignity, with respect. Do not put blinders on as though they do not exist.

Yes, the Territorial Clause of the Constitution of the United States says that they are a territory and that, therefore, they are property of the United States of America. But I submit to everyone that if the people of Puerto Rico are live human beings with hearts, with souls, and they should demand and receive the respect of any other human. Don’t treat them like a piece of trash. Don’t treat them like an inanimate object that has no right to dignity and to respect, which is what we are doing here today. I cannot vote for this.

President Obama referred to the special place that Kenya owns in his heart because, he says: It will always be a special place because that is the place of the birth of my father.

Let me submit to you that Puerto Rico is the place of the birth of my father. And I cannot come here and turn my back on the place of the birth of my father with this outrageously undemocratic and this outrageously unfair proposal to the people of Puerto Rico.

Think about it. You are imposing a junta, because that is what they are calling it. There will be no difference between this junta and the junta of Pinochet in Chile, as far as the international community is concerned. And why? Because yesterday—and the Speaker did not tell everyone of you that they are live human beings with hearts, with souls, and they should demand and receive the respect of any other human.

Don’t treat them like a piece of trash. Don’t treat them like an inanimate object that has no right to dignity and to respect, which is what we are doing here today. I cannot vote for this.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I yield the gentleman an additional minute. Mr. GUTIERREZ. Mr. Speaker, I yield the gentleman an additional minute.

Mr. GUTIERREZ. And they demand the dignity and the respect that comes. They don’t come here on their knees. They are a proud people. They are a people who want to use their creativity and their energy.

This Congress of the United States has a Congress of Puerto Ricans is in the gallery—they approved a resolution rejecting this junta. Elected by the people of Puerto Rico. And what does the Congress of the United States, the democracy of the world, say? We don’t care.

Today, as we speak, the Senate in Puerto Rico has a resolution rejecting it. And just this past Sunday, every candidate for Governor in Puerto Rico, every last candidate for Governor of Puerto Rico that was successful had in their campaign a rejection of PROMESA.

How many times do the people of Puerto Rico have to reject this proposal so that the Congress of the United States treats them with some respect and some dignity?

And I just want to say: Control board? Where was the last control board we know so much about? Flint, Michigan. And what did the control board do? They poisoned the people—American citizens—in Flint.

Let me suggest to you that if you give power to a control board unelected and unsupervised by anyone here, be careful. Remember Filin. Remember the poisoning of the people and what the control board did there. That is exactly what we should suspect will happen.

People say: Luis, what is your alternative? Our alternative is quite simple: have a conversation. Not a conversation that begins: we will not spend a penny on the people of Puerto Rico. That is the way our conversation went. We will not. You have to show me a solution in which we do not spend a penny.

Well, let me tell you, we spend money. The Jones Act imposed on the people of Puerto Rico the most expensive merchant marine in the world. It costs $500 million a year. Why don’t we lift that? Why don’t we lift that? Why don’t we lift that? Why don’t we lift that? Why don’t we lift that? Because in democracy, we believe they should be free. Why don’t we lift that from them? Medicaid and Medicare. Have you seen the reimbursement schedules to Puerto Rico? They pay the same in the U.S. and receive the same in terms of reimbursements.

In 2006, the wisdom of this Congress was to say to the people of Puerto Rico: we don’t care that you are going to lose hundreds of thousands of jobs. We are eliminating section 936 of the Internal Revenue Code that created jobs.

The people of Puerto Rico want jobs. They want jobs and they want the dignity and the respect of being American citizens. For too long they have been put in charge exploit those workers in the sugarcane field. There have been many times in history when the very same people who have been put in charge exploit their own.

Give us dignity. Give us transparency. Do it at least in the Spanish language so the people can know what is going on. At least King George, when he would come with his decrees—before he burned this building down—would write his decrees in English so that we would understand what he was doing.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members are reminded and requested not to refer to occupant of the gallery.

Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBRENNER).

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I visited Puerto Rico, and believe me when I say the fiscal crisis the island is facing is, in every way, a crisis. Hospitals can’t pay their bills. They have closed wings of the hospital. One hospital is $4 million in debt because they haven’t paid an electric bill.

Some people will point out that this is largely a crisis of Puerto Rico’s own making. They are right; the gentleman from Illinois is wrong.

Puerto Rico has had internal self-government for over 50 years. It wasn’t the Congress that forced Puerto Rico to pile up debt after debt after debt; and it wasn’t the Congress that tapped Puerto Rico on the shoulder and said: You can’t sustain this debt.

There already have been two defaults. There is a $2 billion default coming on the 1st of July because they don’t have the money to even do their debt service; and despite this dire situation, the Puerto Rican Government has increased its spending on everything except, ironically, debt service.

I see what is happening in Puerto Rico as a cautionary tale for us here in Washington and here in the Congress of the United States.

Now, PROMESA is not rewarding bad behavior. If we wanted to reward bad behavior, we would pay billions of dollars in a taxpayer-financed bailout to finance all of this irresponsible borrowing that has been going on in Puerto Rico.

Significantly, this bill does not commit one penny of taxpayer funds to bail out Puerto Rico. The fiscal oversight board is designed to help Puerto Ricans self-finance their way out of their fiscal problems—because they have failed to do so by themselves.

Now, let me say something. I heard the gentleman from Illinois talk about us treating Puerto Rico as a colony. That has not been the case since Mr. Munoz Marín, the legendary Governor of Puerto Rico, persuaded this Congress to give Puerto Rico internal self-government. What has happened here is internal self-government has failed, and that is why we are talking about the next step.

I don’t think many of my constituents in Wisconsin or Mr. DUFFY’s constituents or Chairman BISHOP’s constituents really were concerned about Puerto Rico, but we were; and we stepped up to the plate and offered a solution that has attracted bipartisan support and the support of the administration.

What do we hear from the opponents of this plan? We hear a lot of noise from one of whom just spoke very eloquently? It is wrong. It is bad. We shouldn’t do that. We are ignoring the people of Puerto Rico.

Well, we are not doing that. We are making the Puerto Rican plan. We have had a year to come up with their alternative, and all they do is make fiery speeches against what has been a very long and patient negotiated process. They are not a part of the solution. They are trying to engineer more opposition, and they are a part of the problem.

Pass this rule. Pass this bill. Let’s get Puerto Rico back on track, and this is a way to do it with some help from the oversight board.

Puerto Rico going to have to do this themselves. They haven’t been able to do it without a trap on the shoulder. Too bad there is an oversight board, but that is the only game in town.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, through you, I will advise my friend from Alabama that I have no further speakers, and I am prepared to close whenever he is.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. DUFFY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to another gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. DUFFY), the sponsor of this bill.

Mr. DUFFY. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman from Alabama for yielding.

It is a fascinating debate, where two sides of the political aisle have come together, at the start, from very different vantage points on how to help Puerto Rico but have consistently worked together to find a compromise that all of us think is going to leave Puerto Rico better off than it is today.

I heard the gentleman from Illinois, in his fiery remarks, talking about dignity and respect for the people of Puerto Rico, saying that people in Puerto Rico are being treated like trash.

The economic stats are staggering of what is happening in Puerto Rico: the unemployment rate, it is double that of the mainland; the labor participation rate is 20 points lower than the national average; and thousands of people every month are leaving the island because there is not enough economic opportunity.

If you want to talk about dignity and respect, look at the poverty on the island. Look at the despair on the island. I mean, you have families that are being separated because they have no jobs. They can’t live in their neighborhoods, in their communities with their families because they can’t find an opportunity, so they have to go somewhere else. That is not dignity. That is not respect.

So our Congress has come together with a unified voice to come up with a package that can actually get Puerto Rico on an economic path to prosperity.

Listen, I would love if we can say to the Puerto Rican Government: You guys have to do a better job of managing your debt.

Guess what. It has been a failure, with $73 billion in debt. They can’t get their hands around it. The people have lost trust in the government, and so they are saying: If you look at the polls, we want Congress to act. We want Congress to do something. We can’t get saved at home. Would the U.S. Congress please step in? Would you please help us out?

They are opposed to an oversight board to help manage the finances of the island. They are not opposed to a system to restructure Puerto Rican debt, a system that, by the way, makes sure that the bondholders of Puerto Rico get the loss, not the American taxpayer, because I think this institution believes that we should have the bondholders bear that loss instead of the American taxpayer.

We don’t believe in capitalism on the way up, where you get all the rewards of your investment and bonds, but socialism on the way down, so, if you lose in an investment, the taxpayer will bail you out. That is not what we believe in.

So I guess when I hear opponents who talk about their fathers being born in Puerto Rico and then wanting to die in Puerto Rico, I love the passion, I love the fire, but you have to have a heart and look at what is happening on the island and look at a commonsense bipartisan solution where you have the President of the United States, the Treasury, the gentleman from Puerto Rico (Mr. PERELMI), who has been masterful in helping make sure that we stay on target, we understand what is going on on the island, that we understand what will work and what won’t work, that we have come together, two different parties, actually, the Speaker of the Puerto Rican House engaging with us on how we are going to fix the island.

One quick last point. This is about debt restructuring. This is about getting the finances in order. But this also has to be about economic growth. We incent investment on the island.

Though we haven’t done enough—there is still more to do—both sides have committed to making sure we come up with a strategy and a plan to make sure we have investment in Puerto Rico, so there is more opportunity, more jobs, more tax revenue, and more prosperity for the Puerto Rican people.

I am proud of the work that this House has done on this bill, the different sides, different views, different opinions that have come together to make this bill happen. I would encourage everyone to support the rule and, later today, support this bill.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

There is no doubt that the people of Puerto Rico find themselves in a dire situation, and there is no doubt that this situation has been made worse by the snail’s pace with which the majority has seen fit to address the problems facing the people of Puerto Rico.

Though the restructuring of Puerto Rico’s debt is certainly needed, I worry that the burdens placed upon the residents of the island, through this bill, really only amount to punting on important issues that we will, nonetheless, have to address somewhere down the road while making these important issues all the more complicated when we do get to the business of actually helping the people of Puerto Rico.

I urge a “no” vote on the rule, Mr. Speaker.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Speaker, I yield my-
The sponsor of the bill used two phrases with regard to this legislation that really struck me. He said it is “common sense” and “bipartisan.” Isn’t it a good thing that we have commonsense legislation that is bipartisan? Isn’t that what the people of the United States of America send us here to do?

Let’s come together, as one House, with one voice, help the people of Puerto Rico, and then, together, sit down and learn the lesson of what has happened there so that we don’t repeat those mistakes for our country and end up with the United States of America on the brink of collapse.

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Speaker, I stand before you today to discuss H. Res. 770, the Rule providing for consideration of H.R. 5278—Puerto Rico Oversight, Management, and Economic Stability Act (PROMESA).

Our consideration of PROMESA must be a very thoughtful analysis of an outcome where the people of Puerto Rico will be empowered and be on a path towards a future where working families, their children and pensioners can be on a pathway towards a better future.

PROMESA is a bipartisan measure and effort to assist the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico in restructuring $70 billion in currently unpayable debt, an amount that exceeds the size of its entire economy.

There are a total of 3.548 million people living on the island of Puerto Rico.

Since 2006, Puerto Rico’s economy has shrunk by more than 10 percent and shed more than 350,000 jobs.

More than 45 percent of the Commonwealth’s residents live in poverty—the highest poverty rate of any state or territory.

Furthermore, its 11.6 percent unemployment rate is more than twice the national level.

The challenges facing the people of Puerto Rico have ignited the largest wave of out-migration since the 1950’s, and the pace continues to accelerate.

More than 300,000 people have left Puerto Rico in the past decade with a record of 84,000 people leaving in 2014.

Puerto Ricans suffer from high rates of forced migration due to the better opportunities offered in the United States compared to in the Commonwealth.

The gap between emigrants and immigrants has been continuously widening.

Indeed, this increase in emigrants caused a population decline, the first in its history, and the stateside Puerto Rican population grew quickly.

The median age of male Puerto Ricans is of working age from the ages of 25–49 and similarly for women from the ages of 25–59.

Most of the homes are family-led.

There are about 1,133,600 people in the civilian labor force but only 43 percent of them are employed.

In addition, most of those working in minimum wage jobs.

Over 27 percent of the people in the Commonwealth are on welfare.

The median income in Puerto Rico is only half that of the poorest U.S. state, Mississippi, but welfare benefits are about the same in Puerto Rico as in Mississippi.

Swift action is needed in order to alleviate the pain and suffering of the people of Puerto Rico.

There is no time to waste. H.R. 5278 appears to be an emergency default for Puerto Rico, an American territory where 3.5 million American citizens reside and continue to live in fear for their finances, their families and their future.

On U.S. soil, Puerto Rico will face nearly $2 billion worth of bond payments.

Already, businesses have closed, public worker benefits are in jeopardy, hospital care is restricted and basic governmental functions are at risk.

Should the Puerto Rican government default in early July, it faces certain litigation by its creditors, further erosion of its economy, and an inability to provide basic services to its people.

This measure creates a process for the Commonwealth to restructure their bond debts, avoiding a default that could lead to a humanitarian catastrophe and instead allowing Puerto Rico to return to economic growth and fiscal balance.

It would allow for the creation of a seven-member Financial Oversight and Management Board which will approve annual budgets and fiscal plans.

This fiscal plan must be designed in a way that provides adequate funding for pension obligations.

Also, I have serious concerns about the minimum wage provision of the measure.

Specifically, regarding minimum wage and overtime, H.R. 5278 would extend the application of the existing federal subminimum wage of $4.25 an hour to those under the age of 25 in Puerto Rico for as long as four years, while all other federal jurisdictions pay the subminimum wage to those under the age of 20 for only up to the first ninety days of employment.

We need to continue to work on ways to improve this measure to ascertain that American citizens in Puerto Rico are not languishing in poverty.

Indeed, the measure contains a provision that provides for a delay on the new Department of Labor overtime pay regulation until a Government Accountability Office (GAO) study is completed and the Department of Labor determines whether the rule could negatively impact the economy of Puerto Rico.

Additionally, the measure would create a “Revitalization Coordinator” that works closely with the Oversight Board to determine which energy and other infrastructure projects will be eligible to bypass local environmental, public health, and consumer protection laws.

Let me underscore again that I have serious concerns about the provisions in this measure, not the least of which is the expansion of the subminimum wage, the exemption from the new overtime Rule, and the exclusion of protections for pension benefits.

I commend my Democratic colleagues in their efforts of protecting the environment and wildlife refuge in the Commonwealth.

I look forward to working with my Democratic colleagues and our Republican colleagues across the aisle in continuing to improve the provisions of the measure for the betterment of fellow American citizens in Puerto Rico.

Let me conclude by highlighting that H.R. 5278 is not perfect but so long as we continue to work together in good faith, we can work towards our efforts of ensuring that Puerto Rico does not become a humanitarian crisis.
Mr. CASTRO of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I raise a point of order against House Resolution 771 because the resolution violates section 426(a) of the Congressional Budget Act.

The resolution, in waiving all points of order against consideration of the bill, waives section 425 of the Congressional Budget Act, thereby causing a violation of section 426(a).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas makes a point of order that the resolution violates section 426(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

The gentleman has met the threshold burden under the rule, and the gentleman from Texas and a Member opposed each will control 10 minutes of debate on the question of consideration. Following debate, the Chair will put the question of consideration as the statutory means of disposing of the point of order.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. CASTRO of Texas. Mr. Speaker, this year’s appropriations process has been rocky to say the least. That trend is poised to continue this evening and tomorrow as the House considers the fiscal year ‘17 Legislative Appropriations bill.

Buried in this bill’s committee report is controversial language that forces the Library of Congress to continue using the derogatory term illegal alien in its subject headings. Mr. Speaker, I will explain the background on this issue.

Last month, the Library of Congress announced proposed changes to its subject headings that would replace the illegal alien-related language in Federal code with new terms—noncitizens and unauthorized immigration.

It is not unusual for the Library of Congress to make changes to its subject headings. In fact, each year it makes thousands of such changes. In 2015 alone, there were 4,934 new subject headings that were added. An example of one such change that the Library has made in the past was to replace the word illegal alien with noncitizens.

This sort of evolution of the Library’s subject headings is not unprecedented by any stretch of the imagination. However, what is unprecedented is Congress weighing in on these changes. In fact, the Library has confirmed that this is the first time that Congress will have legislated on any of its subject headings in the history of the Library of Congress. So never before in history has Congress made such a commitment with the Library of Congress about its subject headings, let alone introduced legislation concerning them.

With this bill, that is all about to change. House Republicans are poised to make history by—for the first time ever—interfering in the Library of Congress’ subject headings process to preserve a prejudicial term. Now, I am not going to lump everybody on the other side of the aisle together on this issue. When this bill was marked up in the Appropriations Committee, Ranking Member WASSERMAN SCHULTZ introduced an amendment that would have removed all illegal alien-related language from the legislation’s committee report. In fact, four Republicans in the committee joined Democrats to vote in favor of that measure, and the amendment only failed by one vote.

So there is bipartisan consensus on this matter, and it deserves debate and a vote in the full House of Representatives so that all of us can take a vote where, for the first time—again, this is unprecedented—where Congress is weighing in on a subject heading of the Library of Congress, and it is to force the Library of Congress to continue using the word illegal alien rather than allowing them to do their job and, as they were considering doing, retiring that term.

Yesterday, three amendments were presented to the Rules Committee that would allow this to occur. Astonishingly, the Rules Committee rejected all three of those amendments. In other words, they would have allowed us to debate this and take a vote on it, but the Rules Committee rejected all three of these amendments, preventing a vote on this issue on the floor.

As I mentioned before, Mr. Speaker, the language in the committee report that has sparked this debate refers to a portion of U.S. Code that contains the term illegal alien. I have introduced legislation that would remove the term illegal alien from Federal code and replace it with terms like noncitizens and unauthorized immigration.

So there is bipartisan consensus on this matter, and it deserves debate and a vote in the full House of Representatives so that all of us can take a vote where, for the first time—again, this is unprecedented—where Congress is weighing in on a subject heading of the Library of Congress, and it is to force the Library of Congress to continue using the word illegal alien rather than allowing them to do their job and, as they were considering doing, retiring that term.

Yesterday, three amendments were presented to the Rules Committee that would allow this to occur. Astonishingly, the Rules Committee rejected all three of those amendments. In other words, they would have allowed us to debate this and take a vote on it, but the Rules Committee rejected all three of these amendments, preventing a vote on this issue on the floor.

As I mentioned before, Mr. Speaker, the language in the committee report that has sparked this debate refers to a portion of U.S. Code that contains the term illegal alien. I have introduced legislation that would remove the term illegal alien from Federal code and replace it with terms like noncitizens and unauthorized immigration.

Let me be clear about why I am doing that. First, these folks may not be American citizens, but they are human beings. They are not people from outer space. When we think of the term illegal alien, we don’t think of human beings; we think of people that are from somewhere else.

The word illegal alien has also been used often with although not by everyone—in a pejorative way, in a way that is meant to be pejorative and offensive. It stigmatizes immigrants in this Nation and diminishes the quality of discussion around immigration issues in the public arena. When ugly, belittling names are used to describe groups of people, those terms can make discrimination seem okay.

There is precedent for changing language in our laws and words’ meanings evolve over time. For example, our Federal code previously used the terms lunatic and mentally retarded. Those words have since been taken out.

Just last month, President Obama signed into law a bill that I believe we can all be proud of, which was introduced by my colleague, Congresswoman GRACE MENG of New York, that removes the terms Oriental and Negro from Federal code. It is also time for alien to be added to the list of words we remove from Federal code. So I urge my colleagues, both Republican and Democrat, to stand up for the dignity of all people who call America home and vote in favor of the CHANGE Act.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. WOODALL. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the point of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Georgia is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. WOODALL. Mr. Speaker, I understand that my friend has great passion on this issue. What I love about this Chamber is that it allows people to come and express their passions.

But I serve on the Rules Committee. The Rules Committee has original jurisdiction of the unfunded mandate point of order, and it is designed to prevent Congress from imposing unfunded mandates—rules that we are not going to pay for—on outside institutions: State governments, local governments, and tribal governments.

By definition, this is the legislative branch appropriations bill. It funds the Library of Congress. We are absolutely funding what this bill is asked to do. To debate the merits of the underlying language is absolutely legitimate debate. But to use this point of order, which is almost a textbook definition of what this point of order does not apply to, is a dilatory tactic, Mr. Speaker.

I would ask that we vote to dispense with that, oppose this point of order, and get on to the underlying legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CASTRO of Texas. Mr. Speaker, can I inquire how much time I have remaining?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas has 41/2 minutes remaining.

Mr. CASTRO of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I would make two points. The first is that this is an unfunded mandate because the Library of Congress was already well on its way to changing this term. Now, Congress is instructing it that it cannot do that. There is no way that money is not spent in following the instruction of Congress. So I disagree with the gentleman. This is an unfunded mandate.

In essence, there was no argument from the other side that these words are pejorative, that this word is an anachronism. And, by the way, Mr. Speaker, this word is used in Federal code and applies to people who are here who are undocumented and also people who are citizens. I respectfully disagree with the gentleman. So this is not only an issue of the undocumented foreign national.
I know that, over the years, ours has been a very devout nation, a nation of faith, and that includes many of the people in this body. I, for example, have had an opportunity to visit with the faith study group that meets once a week that talks about the issues of their own personal faith, their own journeys, and the work that they do for their constituents.

As I think about my own district, which is 64 percent Hispanic in San Antonio, it is a town whose creativity, entrepreneurship, and spirit has been infused by the immigrant spirit. These are hardworking, often humble people who don’t ask for much from their government, who work hard to provide for their families and who hardly ever will be heard to complain. Most of them, obviously, are documented; some are not.

But those people who are not and those who are considered resident aliens are human beings, and I believe that our faith would tell us that God considers those folks human beings, not illegals. I don’t imagine that God thinks of those people as illegal. They are fundamentally human beings, and they should be respected.

They are not American citizens. We understand that, and there has been much debate over the last few years about passing comprehensive immigration reform or at least considering it here on the House floor. That hasn’t happened yet. But I do think that each of us should extend some modicum of respect to these people.

Mr. Speaker, I call on my colleagues to join me in voting for the CHANGE Act.

I yield back the balance of my time. Mr. WOODALL, Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, again, I applaud my friend for coming down here and speaking on the underlying bill. I think it is very important that we have these conversations that we will have on the underlining bill. But it is also important, in the name of good government, to use these points of order for the purpose these points of order were intended to be used.

The Library of Congress cannot spend one penny except for those dollars provided in the underlying legislation. Yes, the underlying legislation has mandates for the Library of Congress, but those mandates are funded because that is the only way the Library of Congress can be funded.

This is an incredibly important point of order, Mr. Speaker. The power that we have in this body to dictate to State, local, and tribal government what they must do and then refuse to pay the bill is a dangerous practice that this institution recognized when it created this point of order to avoid.

I hope my friends on both sides of the aisle will continue to bring up unfunded mandates points of order when they are applicable. But I implore my colleagues: Do not take a vote to suggest that a point of order designed to prevent us from putting unfunded costs on local governments should apply when we are funding the responsibilities of the Federal Government. That perverts the intent, and it undermines our ability to use this point of order effectively in the future.

Mr. Speaker, I urge us to allow the House to continue our business for the day. Vote “yes” on the question of consideration of the resolution.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. All time for debate on the point of order has expired.

The question is, Will the House now consider the resolution?

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.
So the question of consideration was decided in the affirmative.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Georgia, chairman of the Select Committee on the Events Surrounding the 2012 Terrorist Attack in Benghazi, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customory 30 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Hastings), pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

Mr. WOODALL. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customory 1 hour to the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. WOODALL. Mr. Speaker, the buzz you hear around this Chamber, I suspect, is enthusiasm for the under- lying bill. This is the legislative branch appropriations bill for FY 2017, and it is the single piece of legislation that enables all of the constituent services that go on from this institution. I want to say that again. Not one act of constituent service would go on anywhere in this country but for this institution that enables all of the constituent services that go on from this institution. I want to say that again. Not one dollar buys less, as every American family knows. We have committed our- selves as an institution to do more with less—thrift beginning at home. Throughout every year that I have been in this institution—I am now in year 13—we have absolutely gone after inefficient programs elsewhere in the government. We have absolutely tried to make a difference in curbing that tidal wave of debt that threatens the next generation, but we have started here in every bill.

Mr. Speaker, folks don't know it. The newspapers always carry the stories of excess on Capitol Hill. I don't know where they find those excess stories, I will tell you. I ask for the spending of my office—for all of the constituent service that we do—is less than was allotted 10 years ago. Inflation corrodes it, and the job market erodes it. Time and time again, every dollar buys less. Every American family knows. We have committed our- selves as an institution to do more with less—thrift beginning at home.

There is a modest increase in this bill from the last cycle to deal with those, for example, like the Library of Congress, the preservation of the Capitol. I support all of those underlying measures, and I sup- port the rule by which we are bringing this measure here again. Thirteen amendments are available by this rule. If we pass the rule, we will then move to the underlying bill, vote on those 13 amendments, and move to final passage.

I urge all of my colleagues to support both the rule and the underlying bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I thank my friend, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. WOODALL), for yield-

Mr. Speaker, I yield the customory 30 minutes for debate.

This legislation, as he indicated, provides $3.48 billion for the House of Rep- resentatives and joint operations of Congress. That is a $73 million increase over the current year’s levels, but more than $150 million below the President's request.

This legislation funds the salaries and expenses for the House of Rep- resentatives, the Capitol Police, the Congressional Budget Office, the Archi- tect of the Capitol, Government Accountability Office, and the Library of Congress.

Today is June 9. Nearly 2 months have passed since my friends in the ma- jority sailed past the statutory dead- line for passing a budget without even voting on it. More than 1,000 days have passed since House Republicans began considering appropriations bills with- out first agreeing to top-line spending levels.

Republicans made passing a budget a top priority this year. They insisted that we would return to regular order. I really wish the American public un- derstood the “regular order” concept. Yet here we are working without a

Mr. Speaker, in another life, as a member of the judiciary, I refused to use that term when discussing persons that were before me. I can't help but laugh at the absurdity of this.

We— and I mean Congress—can't have a conversation about comprehensive immigration reform, yet we are forcing the Library of Congress to readopt politically charged terminology. Why? What is this a priority? The Legislative Branch Appropriations bill is certainly not the appropriate place for a political debate on immigration.

This legislation continues to fund the Energy and Commerce select panel to target Planned Parenthood, which, thus far, has conducted a completely partisan, political witch hunt and come up empty.

This year’s legislation continues to fund the Select Committee on the Events Surrounding the 2012 Terrorist Attack in Benghazi, which has already spent $7 million on just four hearings over the past 2 years in order to smear Secretary Clinton. And what has it produced? Nothing.

I will note that the Select Committee on the Events Surrounding the 2012 Terrorist Attack in Benghazi has over-lapped that with previous investigations that also found nothing. You want to cut wasteful spending. Mr. Speaker? Look no further. Defund the Benghazi hearings.

I am happy to say that the bill provides for Members’ representational allowances for the coming fiscal year. This is 1.5 percent increase over the current level. But when we consider the fact that the MRAs have been cut by nearly 17 percent since 2011—that adds up to $312,000—a mere 1.5 percent increase is clearly inadequate. I can make the argument that, because of that, we are unable to pay young people that come here and keep them with their institutional memory, and in addition we are unable to provide services to our constituents; yet we cut that $312,000 out of the budget, and now we are going to add back a little bit and claim that we are being efficient.

I won’t even go into the salary and the adjustments, but I do want to say that people find it surprising that we are entering this legislation in 2017, year 9, without a cost-of-living increase for Members of Congress. I wonder if that is causing some of them to live in this country, that is causing them to breach tax considerations when they do that and, perhaps, even ethical considerations. But I won’t go into that.

Furthermore, an amendment has been offered that will require a 1 percent cut across the board to the bill’s spending levels. Such a cut would essentially wipe out this already diminutive increase. Members should vote this amendment down.

Side note here, Mr. Speaker: the median rent for a one-bedroom apartment in Washington, D.C., was $2,160 per month last December; and I will remind the Members of this body that many staffers start here at $30,000 or less, the math. We need to take better care of our people.

Mr. Speaker, before I yield back, I feel compelled to mention Speaker Ryan’s new rules governing the appropriations process on the House floor. Three weeks ago, something particularly shameful took place in this room as we debated the Military Construction and Veterans Affairs and Related Agencies Appropriations Act.

An amendment by our colleague and friend, Representative SEAN PATRICK MALONEY, reached the vote threshold needed to pass. Republican leadership, apparently caught off guard, held open the vote for nearly 8 minutes in order to make Republican Members change their vote. They allowed this to happen in the back of the room, and the amendment failed.

And what contentious subject was the amendment focused on? I will tell you. Prohibiting Federal contractors from discriminating against LGBTQ employees. This episode demonstrated just how little courage some Members of the Republican Party have.

A week ago, Representative SEAN PATRICK MALONEY offered his amendment again, this time to the Energy and Water Development and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, and it also failed. That caused such a hubbub that the legislation collapsed on the floor. I will say that again. A provision ensuring that LGBTQ contractors can’t be fired solely because they are LGBTQ proved so contentious to Republicans that they defeated their own appropriations bill—I might add “too” bill—to prevent it from taking effect.

As a result, beginning this month, House Republican leadership is closing down the process and requiring all Members to sign amendments to appropriations measures to the Rules Committee in advance and has announced regular order is being suspended in order to make sure Republicans aren’t caught off guard by “embarrassing” amendments, for instance, ensuring basic civil rights to American citizens.

I note that Representative SEAN PATRICK MALONEY offered his amendment again for the current legislation, but this time Republicans won’t even allow it on the floor for a vote.

So, Mr. MALONEY, offer it again and again so we can continue to point out how ridiculous this is.

This entire process is quickly turning into a joke. Enough already. Why don’t we fold the tent, wait until after the conventions and the November election, and start all over again, because we are doing nothing here.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. WOODALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE

H3591

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from California (Ms. LOFGREN), my good friend. Ms. LOFGREN. Mr. Speaker, this bill, the Republicans in the House look like they are doubling down on vilifying immigrant communities. Now, as part of a longstanding, often-used process for reviewing and updating subject headings, the Library of Congress decided to use the term “noncitizens” and “unauthorized immigration” instead of the pejorative term “illegal alien.” The Library makes these types of changes all the time. It is one of 90 such modifications proposed en masse by the Library this last fiscal year.

When a subject heading is changed, references to previous headings are retained so researchers can use them, but mandating the term “illegal alien,” which is what Republicans are doing in this appropriations bill, is entirely political.

The rider countermands the Library’s professional judgment. Now, it is noteworthy that the Library didn’t choose the term “undocumented immigrant” favored by many because they didn’t want to be political. They just wanted to be fair.

Applying these standards in the past, the Library of Congress changed the subject heading for “Negroes” to “African Americans,” the way we discuss African Americans today. The catalog used to say “cripples.” That makes me cringe. That was changed over time, first to “handicapped” and later to “people with disabilities.” But in this political season, it seems there is no limit to the racial invective that is being hurled around, and this bill plays into that.

Now, to my knowledge, Congress has never before told the Library of Congress what the heading in their card catalog has to be, and that we would do it in this case to promote a term that is so offensive to people is a darn shame.

Now, in the past, we have used the appropriations process to shut down the government. Republicans have done that repeatedly. I would hope that the Republicans in the House would not want to go down that path with this. It is true, this term is used in the statute. Our colleague, Representative CASTRO, has a bill to correct it. I would urge that bill be taken up and this unwarranted measure be rejected.

I include in the RECORD a letter from the American Library Association. The AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION AND ASSOCIATION FOR LIBRARY COLLECTIONS & TECHNICAL SERVICES, April 28, 2016.

Re: Request to Remove “Library of Congress Classification” Amendment from Legislative Branch Appropriations Legislation.

Dear Chairman ROGERS, Ranking MEMBER LOWEY and Members of the COMMITTEE:

We write today on behalf of more than 58,000 members of the American Library Association and the Association for Library Collections & Technical Services (ALCTS): the division of ALA members expert in cataloging and classification. We do so to respectfully urge the House Appropriations Committee to strike language in legislation just adopted by its Legislative Branch Subcommittee that would prohibit the Library of Congress (Library) from implementing an appropriate and thoroughly researched change in its subject heading classifications announced in late May.

Specifically, the Library proposes to replace the terms “Aliens” with “Noncitizens” and “Illegal Aliens” with “Noncitizens” and “Unauthorized Immigration.” While some see politics in this decision, Mr. Chairman, as Library professionals we see only attention to historical detail, intellectual honesty, procedural transparency, and faithfulness to long-standing precepts of librarianship. These have been the hallmarks of cataloging for all of ALCTS’ nearly 60 years and of almost 130 years of library science. Stripped of polemic and sensationalism, these are the facts underpinning the Library of Congress’ frankly routine and professional determination.

The Library of Congress has a long-established, often-used process for reviewing and updating outdated subject headings and establishing new ones as needed that preserves all prior versions of updated headings. Such updates may be proposed from outside or within the Library of Congress, but the Library makes the final decision on all changes to subject headings. Every change proposal individually and typically adopts over a thousand year.

Indeed, the heading change now before the Committee was one of 90 such modifications proposed en masse by the Library in March. When a subject heading is changed, references to previous headings are effectively preserved. Librarians who perform a search for a former heading are certain to be directed to all relevant materials. No document in the Library of Congress’ (or any library’s) collection itself is ever substantively edited, modified, annotated or “corrected” in any way as the result of a subject heading update like the one interdicted by the Subcommittee’s recent action. Only its catalog “label” is altered.

The Library’s process in this case was rigorous, transparent, and consistent with the highest standards of professional cataloging practice. The Library was first asked 18 months ago, quite publicly, to review its use of the cataloging term “illegal aliens” by one of the nation’s preeminent libraries. That request, with modifications, subsequently was echoed by the American Library Association upon debate and approval of a formal Resolution by its more than 180-member Council in January of 2016. A “stakeholders” meeting with all appropriate expert sections from within the Library then was convened just over two months ago at which both outside requests, and the broader issues they raised, were reviewed in detail. It is a measure of the Library’s independence and faithfulness to long-standing precepts of librarianship that, in fact, neither external proposal as submitted actually was accepted. Rather, upon review of the totality of the facts and consistent with venerable cataloging practice, the Library apologetically crafted the proposed policy described above and now before the Committee.

Decisions to update subject heading are based on many considerations, including “literary warrant”: the frequency with which a term is or is not used in print and online resources, the dynamic resource nature, change with and reflect current social structures and norms. For subject headings that refer to groups of people, special attention is paid to leadership by members of the group to self-identify; and avoiding terms that are widely considered pejorative toward the group being described. Applying these same standards in the past, for example, the Library of Congress uneventfully changed the subject classification “Negro migrants” and added “to ‘African Americans’ over a period of years. The catalog term “Cripples” similarly morphed over time, first to “Handicapped” and lately “disabled.” The Library made no move to countermand those expert cataloging determinations.

The Library reasonably and properly concluded in this instance that, when used in reference to people, the long-used terms “illegal” and “alien” have in recent decades acquired derogatory connotations, become pejorative, and been associated with nativist and racist sentiments. As the Library has noted: the heading “Aliens” has been in use by the Library since 1910; “Aliens” came into official use more than 35 years ago; and “Illegal aliens” has been in service for almost a quarter-century. Over that long span of time, and particularly in recent years, referring to undocumented persons (as opposed to forms of conduct) as “illegal” increasingly has been widely acknowledged as dehumanizing, offensive, inflammatory, and even a racial slur.

This shift has been plain and pronounced, as the Library observed, in precisely the kind of dynamic materials that cataloging standards require any Library to assess in evaluating the suitability of a subject heading in use and its prospective modification. Indeed, in many national organizations (including the Associated Press, USA Today, ABC, Chicago Tribune, and Los Angeles Times) categorically have stopped using the word “illegal” to describe human beings as a matter of editorial policy.

Moreover, the Pew Research Center has documented that their actions were not merely anecdotal or aberrant in any way. To the contrary, Pew compared use of the term “illegal aliens” in U.S. newspapers during the same two-week period in 1996, 2002, 2007 and 2013 (all times when immigration matters were much in the news). It found that use of that phrase declined precipitously over the most recent 6-year period surveyed, appearing in 21% of news reports in 2007 but just 5% in 2013: a 76% reduction in use and all-time low.

We understand, Mr. Chairman, why some have chosen to politicize the Library’s proposed subject heading changes discussed above. In light of the foregoing, however, it is clear that any actions that minimize, the Library of Congress’ recent proposed reclassification discussed above are fully consistent with accepted professional cataloging standards and practices. Indeed, we believe that a compelling case can be made that the proposed changes are required by them. We hope that the foregoing description of the standards and practices for our profession, rigorously adhered to and unimpeachably applied by the Library of Congress in this case, will assist the Committee to accept the Library’s new professional cataloging determinations.

Specifically, we urge you and all Members of the Committee to strike all language from any piece of appropriations legislation that would countermand or modify the Library’s recent determinations pertaining to the terms “Aliens” and “Illegal aliens,” and to oppose any other legislation that would have similar effect.

Thank you for this opportunity to provide the Committee with a factual context in which to consider its upcoming actions. Please contact us should you or your staff have any questions, or require any additional information.

Respectfully submitted,

Sari Feldman

Mr. WOODALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

My friend from Florida made reference to regular order earlier and, again, he and I see very much eye-to-eye on that issue. The gentlewoman who just spoke is one of my great friends on the Committee on the Judiciary.

I would like to read the offending language that folks are referring to. It says this in its entirety:

To the extent practicable, the committee instructs the Library to maintain certain subject headings in use and its prospective modification.

That is the offending language. My friend serves on the Committee on the Judiciary. If the Committee on the Judiciary did as she is suggesting and changed the law tomorrow, this language would reflect those changes and would apply to the Library of Congress tomorrow. This isn’t the Committee on Appropriations’ jurisdiction. We can, as open appropriations process allows, make every political point that we want to make on every topic under the Sun, but longstanding policy is not changed in an annual appropriations bill. It is changed by authorizing language that my friends and I have on the Committee on the Judiciary, and I urge them to get to work on it.

There is no question that the examples of the gentleman cited, I am with her 100 percent. We have made those changes, and we are the better for it, but let’s not suggest—again, to my friend from Florida’s point, why don’t folks think Congress is deserving of a pay raise? I listened to my friend de-
The Library reasonably and properly concluded in this instance that, when used in reference to people, the long-used terms “illegal” and “alien” have in recent decades acquired connotations, become pejorative, and been associated with nativist and racist sentiments. Particularly in recent years, referring to undocumented persons (as opposed to forms of conduct) as “illegal” increasingly has been widely acknowledged as dehumanizing, offensive, inflammatory, and even a racial slur. This shift has been plain and present.

In recent years many national news organizations (including the Associated Press, USA Today, ABC, Chicago Tribune, and Los Angeles Times) have stopped using the word “illegal” to describe human beings as a matter of editorial policy; and the Pew Research Center compared use of the term “illegal aliens” in U.S. newspapers during the same two-week period in 1996, 2002, 2007 and 2013 (all times when immigration matters were much in the news). It found that use of that phrase declined precipitously over the most recent 6-year period surveyed, appearing in 21% of news reports in 2007 but just 5% in 2013: a 76% reduction in use and all-time low.

The Library of Congress’ recent proposed reclassifications discussed above are fully consistent with long-standing cataloging standards and practices. Indeed, a compelling case can be made that the proposed changes are required by them. ALA and ALCTS, its division of experts in cataloging, urge the Committee to accept the Library’s apotitical subject heading judgment and, thus, to strike language from any piece of appropriations legislation that would modify or countermand the Library’s apolitical subject heading and, thus, to strike language from any piece of appropriations legislation that would modify or countermand the Library’s recent determinations pertaining to the terms “Aliens” or “illegal aliens,” and to oppose any other legislation that would have similar effect.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. LINDA T. SÁNCHEZ of California), my friend and the ranking member of the Committee on Ethics in this body.

Ms. LINDA T. SÁNCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the consideration of H.R. 5235, a退市 comprehensive immigration reform that yet again dehumanize an entire group of people. It pains me to even say the phrase “illegal alien” out loud because it is pejorative, it is offensive, and has no place in our modern discourse. The Library of Congress is correct to leave this phrase in the pages of history and never to have it uttered again.

The importance of the Library of Congress’ decision to discontinue and remove the outdated phrase cannot be emphasized enough. Libraries nationwide and around the world look to the Library of Congress’ subject headings and other standards to publish information. As lawmakers representing a country of immigrants, Congress should not assist in the dissemination of information that perpetuates racism and promotes hate.

Of course, I am not at all surprised that congressional Republicans would resort to inserting themselves into bibliographic decisions that are normally reserved for librarians, not appropriators or politicians. Republicans hypocritically claim to want to keep government out of people’s lives, but want government to intrude and dictate standards only when it benefits their bigoted views.

Sadly, today’s effort and other past maneuvers to block President Obama’s executive actions on immigration falls in line with the effort to move our country backward. We are better than that. Instead of promoting antiquated and deplorable language, we should be tackling any number of important issues—affordable education, tax reform, and promoting job growth—not librarians and educators how to do their jobs.

Mr. WOODALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Going back to my friend from Florida’s case that we have hardworking men and women here who haven’t had a pay raise in 9 years, if we are a part of a body that perpetuates racism and hate, I don’t want a single one of us to get a penny. I don’t want a single one of us to get a penny. My experience is that is not who we are. That is not who we are at all.

My quick text search of the U.S. Code—and I am a lawyer, but I haven’t read the Code cover to cover—tells me that illegal alien is referenced 32 times and illegal alien is referenced 22 times. Let’s get it changed. If you want to get rid of it, let’s go in and get rid of it. Don’t act like this is beyond our control and if only we can fix the Library of Congress, suddenly we can solve all that ails us.

This is the United States Code. If you don’t like the Code, change the Code. Tell me that we are ineffective and we can’t get that done? We are talking about a title change here, one that we have already done, already this Congress. We eliminated the last reference to “Oriental” in the United States Code. We do these things together, but we don’t do them by accusing one another of promoting racism and hate. We do those things by talking to one another.

Mr. HASTINGS. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WOODALL. I yield to the gentleman from Florida.

Mr. HASTINGS. The Library of Congress has made 90 subject head changes. Why this one? Why does it have to stick and can’t be changed? I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. WOODALL. Reclaiming my time, Mr. Speaker. I’ve said it before and I’ll say it again. The Library of Congress was even in the subject change heading business. It wasn’t until I read a press release from somebody talking about this issue that I even knew this issue existed. But now that I know it exists, I know that it doesn’t exist in subject titles at the Library of Congress. It exists in the United States Code that is the law of the land for the greatest free nation this world has ever known.

You want to talk about shame on us? Shame on us for letting the librarians decide when the debate begins and when the debate ends. It is the United States Code and the responsibility falls to one body and one body only, and that body is here.

I want to go back home, Mr. Speaker. I want to tell my constituents they are getting every dollar’s worth out of this institution and, candidly, I believe they are getting more value today than they were yesterday and they got more value yesterday than they did a week ago or a month ago or a year ago. I think we are getting better. I think we are going to give you an example: We talk about legislative branch funding as if it is some sort of self-serving institution. That is just nonsense. We came here with one job and one job only, and that is to serve our constituents back home. This cycle we have passed the FAST Act, the first long-term transportation funding bill in 20 years. We did it together. We couldn’t do it alone. We did it together.

Mr. Speaker, after 17 years of kicking the can down the road on the sustainable growth rate, that Medicare tag line that threatened care for every single senior citizen on Medicare, 17 years of kicking it down the road, we came together and abolished it forever. For everyone did it together and that is the only way we could get it done. The Visa Waiver Program improvement.

Mr. Speaker, S. 139, the bill that made it easier for people with rare diseases to get involved in clinical trials. Can you imagine? Can you imagine a government that in the name of helping people said: Oh, no, you can’t try that new cure. It might hurt you. When your response is, Mr. Government, I am dying, is my only survival. We fixed that. Of one of many things about what is best about this institution, Mr. Speaker, Time and time again, we come together to solve real problems that real people have asked of us. That is what this funding bill is about.

I hope we are going to move past this bill today. I hope we are going to get back to regular order. It pains me that in an election year, it threatens the first open debate the institution prides itself on. But I think that is just fear. I think we are better than that. I think we are going to get past it. But that is not the debate today.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, would you be kind enough to tell both sides how much time remains.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Florida has 14 minutes remaining. The gentleman from Georgia has 11 minutes remaining.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, if we defeat the previous question, I am going to offer an amendment to the rule to bring up legislation that would disband the select investigative panel of the Committee on Energy and Commerce. Mr. Speaker, this panel is just another waste of taxpayer money. Three House committees, 20 states, one grand jury has already investigated the charges against Planned Parenthood, and none found evidence of wrongdoing.
Mr. Speaker, this panel is conducting a purely partisan, political witch hunt, and it should be disbanded.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert the text of the amendment into the RECORD, along with extraneous material, immediately prior to the previous question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CURIELO of Florida). Is there objection to the vote on the previous question.

There was no objection.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from Illinois (Ms. SCHAKOWSKY), the distinguished ranking member of the select investigative panel, to discuss the proposal.

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to urge my colleagues to defeat the previous question so that Mr. HASTINGS can offer H.R. 789, a shut down the select panel that we call the select panel to attack women's health.

House Republicans created this panel based on a lie and fraudulent videotapes that have been discredited by three Senate committees, 12 States, and a Texas grand jury that actually indicted the video maker. They have used this fraud as a pretext to conduct a lethally dangerous witch hunt aimed at women's health clinics and scientists conducting promising research on diseases like Alzheimer's, MS, and the Zika virus.

Panel Republicans are bullying witnesses and abusing congressional authority in a manner not seen since the days of Senator Joe McCarthy. But this time, people's lives, not just their livelihoods, are at stake.

Republicans have issued dozens of unilateral subpoenas without first seeking voluntary cooperation. They are demanding names of researchers, students, clinical personnel, doctors, and medical students, amassing a database that could be released publicly at any time.

Republicans refuse to put rules in place to protect these names and have reneged on public promises to do so. Instead, they have publicly released names and confidential documents.

They issued a press release naming a doctor who has already faced decades of harassment and violence; disclosed the time and location of his appearance before the panel; and fueled the flames by comparing him to a convicted murderer.

They have repeatedly used inflammatory rhetoric, comparing researchers to Nazi war criminals and echoing words of antiabortion activists that were also used by the gunman who shot 12 people, killing 3, at a Planned Parenthood clinic in Colorado Springs.

Republicans have demanded and obtained information that they have no right or need to know, including records of victims of rape and personal financial information.

The Republicans are abusing power and putting people's lives in danger in pursuit of their agenda to limit legal abortion and a woman's right to choose and to shut down fetal tissue research. Fetal tissue research has historically had broad bipartisan support. It is the basis for research that has saved millions of lives, including the polio vaccine.

The so-called investigative panel has already had a chilling effect on research, siphoning up the supply of needed tissue for research on multiple sclerosis and threatening other diseases, including Alzheimer's and diabetes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, I yield the gentlewoman an additional 1 minute.

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. All I really need is the time to say this:

We should now be ending this dangerous and unjustifiable witch hunt. It is time to say "no" to this panel, and it is time to say "no" to the previous question so that we can finally have a really strong debate on this House floor and finally defund this panel.

Mr. WOODALL. Mr. Speaker, I would advise the gentleman from Florida that I do not have any speakers remaining and I am prepared to close when he is.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON LEE), my good friend.

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the distinguished gentleman from Florida for his management of what is a difficult and trying legislative process and my distinguished friend from Georgia, as well, for his service. Both of them are on the Rules Committee.

It pains me to come to the floor on an appropriations bill when I know that there is so much opportunity for us to be able to work together. I know my good friend from Georgia will understand the pain of which I speak and will also attest to the fact that, in many instances in the appropriations process, we have an open rule and we allow our Members to express themselves on behalf of the people of their congressional districts but, more importantly, the higher goal, and that is, the people of the United States of America.

Let me first express my pain that this bill is the first bill that has come to the floor, when I know that there was vigorous debate and possibilities for the energy and water bill—certainly, in my congressional district, which has seen itself under inches and inches of rain, seeing people die, and losing individuals through these enormous rains and flooding—because we need the kind of infrastructure that we need to have that water. That bill is not being able to pass. Seeing the funding for access to health care, community centers, community health clinics not yet come to the floor; seeing the funding for infrastructure and transit that is so needed in our urban centers, like Houston, Texas, not coming to the floor. And then, of course, the Department of Justice, which is in the middle of dealing with natural disasters and the need for funding with youth justice programs, dealing with a number of issues that are paining Americans; and they need our relief.

Yet the bill that comes to the floor, I must again painfully say, does not have any speakers remaining and I am prepared to close when he is.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. WOODALL. Mr. Speaker, I would advise the gentleman from Florida that I do not have any speakers remaining and I am prepared to close when he is.

Mr. HASTINGS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I yield the gentlewoman an additional 1 minute.

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Speaker, they give our children knowledge. They give our students knowledge. They give all of us knowledge.

Everybody loves a librarian. They give our children knowledge. They give our students knowledge. They give all of us knowledge.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, I yield the gentlewoman an additional 1 minute.

Ms. JACKSON LEE. They give us their best expertise.

Why we would intrude in an administrative process when it goes into nothing that impacts the scheme of the administrative or the legal structure here in the United States: it is to denigrate; it is to insult.

We understand that the word "illegal" does connote that you have violated a criminal act in certain instances. And there are those who are undocumented, noncitizens, et cetera, normalized, that have not violated any criminal laws.

Let me also say to you that defunding of the foolish Planned Parenthood investigation is warranted. Why? In my own home State of Texas, this measles outbreak, the indictment did not go to Planned Parenthood, which was the attempt; but it went to the perpetrators of fraud on Planned Parenthood. There is nothing to investigate.

If you want to investigate, then investigate the lack of access of millions of women in the State of Texas who were using those clinics that Planned Parenthood had.
So my point is this is a bill we must vote against. Vote against the underlying rule and the bill, because it is nothing but fraud and foolishness, and that is not what we should do in this House.

Mr. WOODALL. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, how much time remains?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Florida has 5 1/2 minutes remaining.

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, I rarely speak from the well of the House. I come down here today because, like my good friend from Georgia and many of us in this institution, those of us that have studied the institution genuinely love it and recognize that it is, fundamentally, what makes our Nation great.

When we speak of Congress, we are talking about the House of Representatives and the United States Senate. For a substantial period of time, both in the control of Democrats and Republicans, we have carried ourselves in a way that has caused us to appear dysfunctional. And, in many instances—valid—and we look at us feel that we are unable to get things done.

My younger friend from Georgia pointed out a significant number of things that we did do, and he is correct about that. But he also knows there are a significant number of things that we have not been able to do, largely for the reason that we are not acting in a bipartisan manner—in an openly transparent manner, in many instances—in order to provide for all of the Members of this body to have input.

I came to the well because, as I near my 80th birthday, I am in a different category than many of the younger Members in this institution. Many of the younger Members of this institution are involved in young families. We, the 434 of us that are seated—and we will swear in the 435th a little later today—and the delegates from the territories and the District of Columbia, are in a variety of categories, as Americans. Some substantial number of Members in this body are multimillionaires; a significant number of Members of this body easily qualify to be in the middle class or the upper class; and there are some Members here who are in their own society lives. Fortunately for us, in the 22 years that I have been here, I have seen this body grow in its diversity. More women on both sides, African Americans, Latino Americans, Asian Americans, Native Americans are part of this body from different walks of life. Some of us own our own homes here in the metropolitan Virginia-Maryland area. Some rent apartments. Some are in base- ments. Some are in one room. Some are gathered together because of the expenses. Now, my friend is right. I would like to go home and be able to show to my constituents and to his that we did everything that we could here to make for more efficiency. But I can cite the glut all over our agencies and, at the very same time, I make no apologies to anybody for how hard I work or how hard he works and the fact that we are entering our 9th year without a pay raise.

Now, I think it is wrong for Members of the House of Representatives to live in their offices. Something is drastically wrong with that. Most of them are there for the reason that they can’t afford to live in this town; and somehow or another, we are deserving, as are our staffs, of being paid appropriately.

Mr. Speaker, in closing, I would like to remind my friends of the importance of the legislation we are debating today. This legislation allows us to run our operations here in Congress. Unfortunately, with this legislation, my friends in the majority are continuing their trend of putting politics above policy.

For this reason, I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on the rule and oppose the underlying measure.

And I want to make it very, very clear that the remarks that I made are my remarks. They are not the remarks of the Democrats in this institution. But I know this: I have had a lot of Members on both sides of the aisle say to me that they know that I am correct.

Courage, friends, courage, that is what it takes.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. WOODALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I love watching my friend from Florida speak. The only thing I love more than watching him speak is talking to him one-on-one when the cameras are turned off.

It is not as easy as it ought to be in 2016 to come to the floor of the House and speak one’s mind. Folks are worried about what the newspapers are going to say. Folks are worried about what the news media is going to broadcast. Folks are worried about what the Twitterverse is going to do.

A lot of folks will tell you one thing when the cameras are on and another thing when the cameras are turned off. Mr. Speaker, but ALCEE HASTINGS is not one of those folks. It is the same message no matter who he is talking to and no matter where he is saying it because he comes from a place of conviction, and I love serving with people like that.

Truly, Mr. Speaker, if folks knew that it wasn’t just their Member of Congress that was like that, but it was the one next door, and the one down the road, and the one across the river, and the one upstate, I think we would have a very different discussion about whether Congress is working or whether Congress is failing.

But, Mr. Speaker, when I try to sort through issues out, I don’t even have to go back home to figure out why folks are disappointed. I don’t even have to go back to the public record. I don’t have to go any further than this one debate on this one legislative day.

In our hour in this Chamber, Mr. Speaker, I have heard Members suggest that this House is using tactics not seen since Joe McCarthy. I wouldn’t pay for that. I have heard Members suggest that this House is perpetuating racism and hate. I wouldn’t pay for that. I have heard that there are dastardly things happening in the work of this institution. I am not going to pay for that. I have heard that we have been involved in activities particularly shameful.

Mr. Speaker, I think we have all got a great relationship with the men and women who send us here to serve them. We have a special relationship, and a relationship that I think, and women in this Chamber work except- tionally hard to make good on; but when we use the credibility that we de- velop in that relationship to tell folks that we are broken, to tell folks that the greatest experiment in self-governance that the world has ever known is fail- ing, they believe us. They believe us.

Mr. Speaker, the discussions that we have about the differences that are brought to life on this floor, those are not fail- ures. Those are successes. The back and forth, the fights that we have, the headlines that get made when folks just can’t agree, those are not failures: those are successes.

When the Framers put together this Constitution, Mr. Speaker, they made it hard—they made it hard to change the law of the land. It was supposed to be the rare thing that happened when we came together for agree- ment, and when we did, it was going to be in the best interest of a young Na- tion.

Mr. Speaker, I have heard my colleagues challenge us to defeat this bill today, as if funding the United States Congress is a self-serving action. I don’t know who the self-serving Mem- bers of this institution are, Mr. Speak- er, because I have not met them. My friend from Texas came to the floor, and she said: If we don’t get our work done, NIH will not be funded. And she is right. She said: If we do not get our work done, justice reform will not happen. And she is right. She said: If we do not get our work done, families that are struggling to respond to floods in her home part of the country will not get the dollars. And she is right. She is right.

Mr. Speaker, we are talking about changing the appropriations process to allow a little less openness, and I re- gret that. We are talking about it be- cause, in the name of doing that energy...

THE VOTE ON THE PREVIOUS QUESTION: WHAT IT REALLY MEANS

This vote, the vote on whether to order the previous question on the rule, is not merely a procedural vote. A vote against ordering the previous question is a vote against the Republican majority agenda and inviting a chance to decide the subject before the House is being made by the Member in charge. To defeat the previous question is to give the opposition a chance to decide the subject before the House. Speaker Joseph Cannon (Illinois) said: "The previous question having been refused, the gentleman from New York, Mr. Fitz Gerald, who had asked the gentleman to yield to him for an amendment, is entitled to the first recognition."

The Republican majority may say "the vote on the previous question is simply a vote on whether to proceed to an immediate vote on adopting the resolution . . . [and] has no substantive legislative or policy implications whatsoever." But that is not what they have always said. Listen to the Republican Leadership Manual on the Legislative Process in the United States House of Representatives (6th edition, page 235). Here's how the Republicans describe the previous question vote in their own manual: "Although it is generally not possible to amend the rule because the majority Member controlling the time will not yield for the purpose of offering an amendment, the same result may be achieved by voting down the previous question on the rule. When the motion for the previous question is defeated, control of the time passes to the Member who led the opposition to ordering the previous question, because he then controls the time, may offer an amendment to the rule, or yield for the purpose of amendment."

In Deschler's Procedure in the U.S. House of Representatives, the subchapter titled "Amending Special Rules" states: "a refusal to order the previous question on such a rule (a special rule reported from the Committee on Rules) opens the resolution to amendment and further debate." (Chapter 21, section 21.2) Section 21.3 continues: "Upon rejection of the motion for the previous question on a resolution reported from the Committee on Rules, control shifts to the Member leading the opposition to the previous question, who may offer a special amendment or motion and who controls the time for debate thereon."

Clearly, the vote on the previous question on a rule does have substantive policy implications. It is one of the only available tools for those who oppose the Republican majorities to have any say with the opportunity to offer an alternate plan.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE

H3597

Mr. SHERMAN and Ms. SPEIER and the members of the House of Representatives, be seated.

Mr. DAVIDSON appeared at the bar of the House. The Speaker called for the roll of the House. The roll was opened. There were 416 present. The Speaker then declared those to be present.
Nation, I want to extend our gratitude for your many years of service in the United States Army. Thank you for your dedication to duty, honor, and country.

Though I am dean of Ohio’s delegation, I will not forget that it was yesterday when I was in your shoes. You have worked hard to put together a winning coalition to win a hard-fought campaign, and that takes a dedicated person and a very giving family to make the necessary sacrifices.

To accomplish worthy objectives during your time in Congress, you will want to find issues that you can build coalitions around and then enlist others on both sides of the center aisle in that cause. Perhaps the best advice I can give you is to stay close to the people where you came from in Troy, Ohio; in Clark, Miami, Darke, Preble, and Butler Counties; and as Daniel Webster’s words inspire us through the ages, to efforts to a higher cause, developing the resources of our land, calling forth its powers, building up its institutions, promoting all its great interests, and seeing whether we also, in our day and generation, may not accomplish something worthy to be remembered.

Welcome to the United States House of Representatives to Warren, Lisa, and your family.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Cincinnati, Ohio (Mr. CHABOT), my dear colleague. He is the dean, the longest serving member, on the Republican side.

Mr. CHABOT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding, and I want to thank her for her kind words to our now-colleague, Warren Davidson. As the two longest serving Members from Ohio, she and I have worked together for many years, particularly on matters important to our great State of Ohio. I look forward to continuing to work with her in the future.

Mr. Speaker, Warren Davidson is an American success story. Born and raised in the great State of Ohio, Warren enlisted in the Army right after high school. While serving in Germany, he witnessed the fall of the Berlin Wall. At West Point where he continued to excel, in fact, finishing in the top 10 percent of his graduating class.

For many people, that would be a successful career. But Warren had more to accomplish. In 2000, he returned to Ohio to help out with the family manufacturing business. To prepare himself to run the business, he earned an MBA from the University of Notre Dame, where, not surprisingly, he graduated with honors.

Warren brought the same work ethic and leadership abilities that he employed as an Army officer to grow and expand the family business. Since taking over the business, he has transformed it from a small shop with 20 employees into an enterprise now employing more than 200.

Now Warren brings the lessons that he learned and the wisdom that he gained, both in the military and as a small-business owner, to the people’s House, to Congress. Personally, I think that the benefit is tremendous from his experiences, and I look forward—and I know you also will look forward—to working with him. With that, Mr. Speaker, I would like to welcome Warren Davidson, his lovely wife, Lisa, and their children, Zach and Rachel, to the United States House of Representatives.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Ohio is recognized.

Mr. David. Mr. Speaker, distinguished colleagues, and honored guests, it is a pretty good welcome. I thank you all.

My new colleagues, surely you know how surreal this moment is. Not all of you had the same experience of a special election in a little different. But you have all been here and have been given the trust of your districts to come represent them and serve here, so I am sure you understand how surreal it is having all been here. I am really honored today to have a lot of folks with me. We all know that politics is a team sport. I have no greater teammate than my wife, Lisa. Our family was able to join us. Our daughter, Rachel, and my son, Zach, have been able to come on the floor. They took a fast route to the floor here. My sister, Robin, her husband, Larry, and close to 100 other friends and family were able to come here. So having run campaigns, you all know that it takes maybe a battalion-sized element to put a whole campaign together. So in some way, they are representative of all the hard work that goes on to win a campaign. I could not have been here without them. So I thank you all.

To really have come from the background, just enlisting in the Army, going to West Point, serving in some great units, and growing small manufacturing companies, doing all these things in that heartland, it is pretty, pretty nice. I have been focused on raising a family and growing kids.

Frankly, in October, I was not planning to run for Congress. To come from filing 10 minutes before the deadline, jumping into a very competitive race, I understand that not a ton of you guys wanted the Speaker’s job, and you got drafted. But about 15 other Republicans wanted the district Representative job, so it was very competitive. I am really thankful to have won the race and able to serve here.

It is really an honor to be able to stand here and talk with you, my new colleagues. I look forward to getting to know every one of you on both sides of the aisle. I hope you will take the chance to get to know me. You can probably appreciate drinking from a firehose. I think I had about 2 or 3 hours now, maybe 4 hours, from my first meetings, whereas I think a lot of you had a couple of months from November to January. I really hope to get to know you all.

The founders intended us to have a strong Congress, and especially with the Presidential race the way it is, Congress truly has an opportunity to show real leadership and to be able to have the chance to be here and do the incredibly consequential work, face the challenge, and perhaps be part of solving some great things is an incredible honor. So let’s get around to it.
So the previous question was ordered. The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

Stated for:
Mr. SMITH of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, on rollcall No. 285, I was unavoidably detained. Had I been present, I would have voted “yes.”

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SIMPSON). The question is on the resolution.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Mr. HASTINGS. Mr. Speaker, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This will be a 5-minute vote.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 237, noes 182, not voting 15, as follows:
Mr. DUFFY. Mr. Chair, I thank Congressman BISHOP and the whole Natural Resources Committee for all of the hard work they put into this bill.

This has been a months-long process of working with Democrats and Republicans, leaders of the Commonwealth, Puerto Rican elected officials, all coming together to negotiate, to discuss, to philosophize and then eventually come up with what I think is an excellent resolution to the burning crisis in Puerto Rico. I will take a moment to talk about what is actually happening on the island.

Puerto Rico is $73 billion in debt. That is over 100 percent of GNP. They have people $2 billion of unpaid bills to their vendors. So what does that mean? That means schools are closing down because we don’t have fuel for energy in the schools or for school buses. Hospital wings are closing. Emergency vehicles can’t get anywhere in the island. The island doesn’t have money to pay its bills. This is a true economic crisis. It is a true humanitarian crisis that is taking place in Puerto Rico.

So the question becomes: Does this institution act to help Puerto Rico, or do we continue to negotiate and refine and tweak a bill that will never come to the floor, that will never make it to the Senate, that will never gain the President’s signature? Do we let perfection be the enemy of the good?

I think this is a great bill that is going to actually get Puerto Rico on a path to prosperity, opportunity, and economic growth; that is going to help the people of Puerto Rico who have a dream of living in Puerto Rico stay in Puerto Rico with their families in their communities on the island that they love.

Right now, there is despair. We have thousands of people leaving Puerto Rico every month to come to the mainland because there is no opportunity. This is what debt does to economies. It absolutely crushes them, and it crushes people.

So what do we do? Well, we have a two-pronged approach. Number one, the elected officials in Puerto Rico have known that this issue has been coming for years, and they haven’t been able to get their hands around it, haven’t had the political will to fix the burning problem. So we are going to put into effect an oversight board to actually work with the island government to get its finances and its budgets under control. That oversight board is going to have an opportunity to work on debt restructuring, which is the second prong of this bill. $73 billion in debt, they can’t pay it. People might want to wish that all the bondholders could be paid. They might dream about all the bondholders being paid, but the bottom line is Puerto Rico doesn’t have enough income to pay its bondholders. They can’t pay their vendors, let alone their bondholders.

So we set up a system where the island and the bondholders have a forum in which to negotiate a settlement, a resolution to this massive debt. And if they can’t come up with a resolution or a solution to the debt, they can access the court system, and the courts can help them resolve the disputes in regard to this massive debt. This system is that system that is going to allow for debt restructuring and an oversight board that is going to bring Puerto Rico to a place of economic health. When you can get to a place of economic health, you can start to have a conversation about economic growth; and when you have economic growth, you actually help people, you help families, and you help communities.

Now, there are some who have said that this bill is a bailout. Let me tell you what. I have the definition of a bailout, and a bailout happens when this institution sends taxpayer monies to somewhere else or to somebody else. The bottom line is this bill doesn’t taxpayer money. It is a constitutional question. There is no taxpayer money that is involved.

What we do here is: Hey, listen. If you invested in Puerto Rican bonds and now you have a great loss, well, a great return on your bonds that you might have bought at 50 or 60 cents on the dollar, you took that risk; and if there is a loss, you, the bondholder, are going to bear the loss on that bond, but the taxpayers aren’t going to bear that loss for you.

So I think this is a great compromise, a great package that is going to bring economic health and growth back to Puerto Rico. It isn’t a bailout; it is a great return on your bonds that you might have bought at 50 or 60 cents on the dollar, you took that risk; and if there is a loss, you, the bondholder, are going to bear the loss on that bond, but the taxpayers aren’t going to bear that loss for you.

So I think this is a great compromise. Mr. Chair, I yield myself 5 minutes.

The United States flag has flown over Puerto Rico for more than a century. Those born on the island are American citizens, and more than 200,000 have served in the United States military, including roughly 10,000 serving today. Millions more live on the U.S. mainland but consider Puerto Rico their home.

Mr. Chairman, we are here today because our fellow Americans are suffering, and it is our constitutional responsibility to help them. They are suffering from the effects of a debt crisis more than a decade in the making.

A devastating combination of mismanagement, unfair Federal policies, predatory hedge funds, and desperate budget cuts have destroyed the economy on the island. The monstrous burden of Puerto Rico’s $70 billion debt is swallowing the funds needed to provide health care, education, transportation, and public safety for the Commonwealth’s families.

Almost 100,000 people have left the Commonwealth last year to look for better economic opportunities, which only makes the situation on the island worse. About 80 percent of children in Puerto Rico live in high-poverty areas, compared to about 11 percent of children on the mainland. The island’s poverty rate is about 44 percent, and unemployment is 13 percent.

If Congress fails to act, the island and its people face another decade of further economic and social collapse. Our fellow citizens of Puerto Rico should not have to endure this coming humanitarian crisis. Our colleague, NYDIA VELAZQUEZ, has described the status quo as a “recipe to lose an entire generation to forced migration to the mainland.”

After 6 months of difficult bipartisan negotiations, four hearings, and a series of draft bills, we are here today to consider H.R. 5278. H.R. 5278 will provide the tools necessary to get the economy of Puerto Rico on a more stable footing and allow the Commonwealth to regain access to credit markets.

The bill would allow restructuring of all outstanding debt without favoring any particular creditor; require transparent audits, combined with annual fiscal plans and budgets; and temporarily pause the ongoing flurry of litigation to allow the oversight board to begin its work and create a space for voluntary negotiations.

As I have said throughout this process, this is not a bill that I or Democrats would have written. The oversight board is too powerful and is yet another infringement of the sovereignty of the people of Puerto Rico, and they have a right to find it offensive. The provisions undermining minimum wage and overtime rules don’t belong in the bill. What is worse, they threaten the effectiveness of the overall legislation.

Provisions that should be included—or that are left out protections, an earned income tax credit, equal funding for Medicaid, and a Zika response—are missing. But the reality is that this is the only bill that would attract enough support from my colleagues across the aisle to pass in a Congress which they control. There is no other avenue available to address the crisis. This compromise is the bill we can and should pass.

When measured against a perfect bill, this legislation is inadequate. When measured against the worse economic crisis in Puerto Rico, this legislation is vitally necessary.

I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 5278.

I would like to take a moment to clarify for the record a number of inaccurate and misleading statements in the Committee Report on H.R. 5278. It appears that the Committee Report on H.R. 5278 was prepared based on earlier non-public drafts of the bill—not the version considered by the Committee. Several references plainly do not reflect the current language in H.R. 5278 as introduced or as voted on by the House Committee on Natural Resources during its markup hearing.

The following statement on page 40 of the Committee Report oversimplifies a complex problem facing Puerto Rico and, in my view, mischaracterizes the nature of the territory government’s action: It says, “Puerto Rico’s local politicians have accelerated the crisis on the island through the passage of a local moratorium law, including the imposition of a moratorium on the payment of debt.” Puerto Rico’s passage of a moratorium law was a local response to attempt to address its fiscal and debt emergency in the absence of necessary congressional action. It is mischaracterized and unjustifiably broad to characterize the passage of a local moratorium law as accelerating the crisis.

The Committee Report's summary of section 101 provides that: “[a]dditionally, this section provides for the appointment of seven individuals to the Oversight Board through a process that ensures that a majority of its members are effectively chosen by Republican congressional leaders on an expedited timeframe, while upholding the President’s constitutional role in making appointments.” Let’s be clear. Article IV, section 3, of the Constitution recognizes all seven members of this Puerto Rico Board. To be sure, members of Congress may make suggestions to the President, but the power to appoint members of this territorial entity remains with the President.

The Committee Report’s summary of section 201 is inaccurate in a number of respects. The report states, on page 45, that “[i]mportantly, Fiscal Plans ensure the protection of the lawful priorities and liens as guaranteed by the territorial constitution and applicable local laws, and prevent unlawful inter-debtor transfers of funds.” This interpretation is misleading and does not reflect the language of the bill or the evolution of the language throughout the legislative process. Section 201(b)(1)(N) provides that a Fiscal Plan certifies that Fiscal Plans “respect” the relative lawful priorities or lawful liens under territory laws, not “ensure the protection” of such priorities or liens. The verb “respect” was specifically chosen by the drafters of the bill and carefully considered by the Committee. For instance, at the Committee markup, Representative FLEMING twice offered amendments that would have changed the “respect” language in section 201(b)(1)(N) to “comply with.” The Committee twice rejected those amendments—the first time on a voice vote and the second time on a roll call vote, 16 yeas to 23 nays. The Committee recognized that the verb “comply with” was unduly restrictive and that the Oversight Board needed the flexibility afforded by the verb “respect,” which is more open-ended. For that reason, it is inaccurate for the Committee Report on H.R. 5278 to reflect only legislative text and the Committee’s intent—that Fiscal Plans ensure protection of lawful priorities and liens.

In addition, the summary of section 201 explains that “[w]hile this language seeks to provide an adequate level of funding for pension systems, it does not allow for pensions to be unduly favored over other indebtedness in a restructuring.” But Section 201(b)(1)(C) has nothing to do with relative priorities among various creditors; the provision requires the Board to provide for adequate funding of pension plans and retirement welfare plans, and the manner by which annual budgets comply with the Fiscal Plan. Of course, any restructuring under Title III must be consistent with the Fiscal Plan.

This is a bill that I do support. It has been worked together with the Puerto Ricans. It has been worked together with Representatives GRIJALVA and PERLUSI. I would say most all of the people involved in this recognize this is not everything we would want, but it is the bill, I think, that can help Puerto Rico today and now. It is not a bailout. That is for some people who keep saying it is a bailout. It does not allow taxpayer dollars to be used for paying down the Puerto Rican debt. I held a hearing in February on the oversight board concept, and it was clear that it was needed and it was testified in favor of. I understand some reluctance in Puerto Rico, but let's get this ship righted. Once we get it righted, staffed, and the sails full of wind, then Puerto Rico will have a chance.
I do support the multiple-step process. The bill combats the immediate crisis. It will help out Puerto Rico's ability to take and get credit. We need more long-term solutions, though, about the economic zones in Puerto Rico and how we improve the economy there so they can continue to grow.
I want to compliment Mr. DUFFY's amendment, and I will support Mr. DUFFY and his work on this legislation. I do believe a HUBZone is very necessary in the contracting program. As I mentioned, I have been worked passionately on Puerto Rican issues on the floor of the House. Fifteen years ago, we had a vote about statehood. I passed it by one vote. I am a big supporter of statehood and always have been. It didn't occur. We didn't allow it. Right now, this problem has to be addressed.
I again do compliment Mr. BISHOP, Mr. DUFFY, and members on that side of the aisle. Let's take our American people and Puerto Rico and give them the recognition that is necessary. Let's take and help them now so we can go forth.
Mr. GRIJALVA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. VELAZQUEZ).
Ms. VELAZQUEZ. Mr. Chairman, I want to take this opportunity to really thank Ranking Member GRIJALVA for the important role that he has played throughout this process.
Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the bill. When I was elected to Congress, I understood there would be tough votes. For me, PROMESA is one of those votes. For those of us with ties to Puerto Rico, this a profoundly personal issue.
There is plenty of blame to go around for this situation. San Juan has played a role, but Wall Street has also contributed to this crisis. It is a crisis that is already harming working families that call the island home and, if left unaddressed, it will grow immeasurably worse. So today, I do support a fork in the road: one path—the bill before us—empowers Puerto Rico to restructure 100 percent of its debt; the only other route sends Puerto Rico to the courthouse, where it will be at the mercy of creditors that will inflict further suffering on the island.
Now, some would suggest that if we oppose this bill, somehow a third option will magically appear before us. That is nonsense. The stark reality we face today is that, other than PROMESA, there are simply no other politically feasible options left.
That does not mean that this is a perfect bill. It is not even close. It makes no sense that this bill includes an attempt to pay Puerto Rican workers less than those on the mainland. It is offensive that Puerto Rico must foot a $370 million price tag for an oversight board its residents do not want. And the bill does not address economic growth incentives and healthcare parity, issues at the core of Puerto Rico's crisis.
Despite these shortcomings, I see no alternative. If we do not act, Puerto Rico will continue on its path of deterioration. Basic services are being cut, and these cuts will deepen. More schools will close. More police and firefighters will be terminated. And those who will pay the price are Puerto Rico's most vulnerable: its children, its seniors, and its working families.
We have a profound responsibility to prevent this catastrophe from worsening. Those suffering on the island are my brothers and sisters, my fellow Puerto Ricans.

But, my friends, they are also your fellow citizens. 200,000 Puerto Ricans have fought—and shed blood—in every military conflict since World War I. Now these citizens need our help. This is a responsibility we cannot ignore. You see, when the United States took Puerto Rico—and remember we seized it by force—we did not just obtain a pretty island. We also took on a responsibility to care for the people who live there.

Now, let me say this: Living up to that responsibility does not end with this vote on this bill today. Decisions made by Washington over decades have corroded Puerto Rico's economy. Addressing those problems will require more work by Congress. Until we end the colonial conditions that have subjugated and exploited the island, there will be no long-term recovery.
So this bill alone is not enough. We must pass additional legislation, in the 6 months and beyond, to address Puerto Rico's deep-seated economic challenges and ongoing healthcare crisis. If we do not, then, Washington, we have failed the people of Puerto Rico once more.
Mr. Chairman, this is not the legislation I would have written, but it is the only way we can extend a lifeline to Puerto Rico right now. In many ways, the easy path for me would be to vote "no." Certainly, I have heard the case made by some in the Puerto Rican community.
The CHAIR. The time of the gentleman has expired.
Mr. GRIJALVA. Mr. Chair, I yield an additional minute to the gentlewoman from New York.
Ms. VELAZQUEZ. I thank the gentleman.
Mr. Chair, at the end of the day, I know that if this bill does not pass, people I care about on the island I grew up on will suffer greatly. At least with this legislation, Puerto Rico can begin restructuring its debts and start down a new path toward a brighter future. I urge my colleagues to vote "yes!" on this bill. Please join me in working to address the other long-term challenges confronting Puerto Rico.
In closing, I want to thank all those who worked on this legislation, especially Leader PELOSI, Speaker RYAN, and Whip HOYER. Let me also thank Ranking Member GRIJALVA and Chairman BISHOP for their efforts as wel as my fellow Puerto Rican Members of Congress. And, of course, thanks to the staff who dedicated countless hours crafting this compromise.
Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chair, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. CURBELO). He is from the southern tip of Florida, as close to Puerto Rico as you can get on the mainland.
Mr. CURBELO of Florida. Mr. Chairman, today I rise in support of H.R. 5276, the Puerto Rico Oversight, Management, and Economic Stability Act, or PROMESA. I want to thank Chairman BISHOP and Representative DUFFY, who have shown steadfast leadership in finding practical solutions to address the fiscal crisis in Puerto Rico.
The situation in Puerto Rico is urgent and so is the need for a responsible reform agenda. Hundreds of thousands of citizens have left the island—many have come to Florida—to find better opportunities as a result of the deteriorating economic conditions.
Our friends in Puerto Rico, our fellow American citizens deserve a better future, one that gives them the chance to achieve prosperity on the island. This legislation is an important step forward in helping the island mitigate the existing humanitarian and economic emergency in a responsible way.

The bill also allows the congressional task force to look at impediments to economic growth and poverty reduction, including equitable access to Federal healthcare programs for the island's residents. Serious challenges remain in the healthcare sector—like the impending Medicaid cliff—that could have a detrimental impact on the future of the island.

I also urge my colleagues to vote in favor of my amendment with Mr. JOLLY which will guarantee that addressing the nearly 60 percent of children living in poverty on the island is a top priority. As we work to achieve economic stability on the island, we must also ensure that the mechanisms in this bill benefit the extremely vulnerable child population.

Congress has an important interest in ensuring that Puerto Rico not only survives the current crisis, Mr. Chairman, but that it is able to build a better and more sustainable future. Again, I am very supportive of the bipartisan solutions introduced by H.R. 5278, and I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of the bill and of my amendment which addresses child poverty on the island.

Mr. GRIJALVA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. HOYER), our whip.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Chairman, at the outset, rarely do we see the political courage and intellectual integrity that we have seen in the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. VELÁZQUEZ). I have worked with her for months now trying to get to a solution fair to Puerto Rico and fair to the 3.5 million American citizens who live in Puerto Rico.

I also want to thank my friend José SERRANO, also from New York, also Puerto Rican, for also having thought about this extraordinarily thoughtfully, and it has been difficult. I want to congratulate both of them for coming to the decision that is a terribly difficult one for them that this is, at this juncture, the only alternative to the pain and the suffering of which Ms. VELÁZQUEZ spoke.

I am sure the citizens of Puerto Rico are watching this debate, and they understand this is not a perfect bill. It is not perfect. Mr. SERRANO—Mr. PIERLUISI—lost an election, in my view, because of his fidelity to what he believes is in the island's best interest—would have written.

It forces Puerto Rico to take some bitter medicine, accept an oversight board with hard powers that is unacceptable to many living on the island, and it does not provide additional assistance to the island that is critically needed and ought to be done. Hopefully we can address that.

It is comprehensive, and it will enable the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico to restructure its debt and prevent economic catastrophe. I can assure both sides of the aisle in this Chamber and in the Senate that it is a compromise forged out of a serious consideration of all possible alternatives that could result in bipartisan agreement.

We must not risk the cost of further inaction, which should have acted months ago; but it is not too late to do the right thing. Congress must act before Puerto Rico's next interest payment is due on July 1.

According to The New York Times Editorial Board: This bill “has flaws . . . .” I think both sides would agree to that. The New York Times went on: “. . . but at this late hour, it offers the island its best chance of survival.”

It is, therefore, Mr. Chairman, my advice and urging to our Members that we vote for this bill. We need to come together and pass this bill without any controversial riders.

Again, I want to thank Representatives VELÁZQUEZ and SERRANO and Resident Commissioner PIERLUISI for their leadership, their courage, and their integrity.

Mr. Chairman, we need to pass this bill for the American citizens living on Puerto Rico and to meet the responsibility of which Ms. VELÁZQUEZ spoke so eloquently.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. WESTERMAN), one of the premier members of our committee.

Mr. WESTERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of H.R. 5278. I thank the gentlewoman from Wisconsin, Congressman DUFFY, and Chairman BISHOP for their work in crafting this bipartisan legislation.

H.R. 5278 is a compromise bill designed to save Puerto Rico from economic calamity and prevent a taxpayer bailout. Mr. Chairman, I suggest that the admission from both sides of the aisle that this bill isn't perfect is a testament that this bill is the best solution.

Puerto Rico is in a crisis. The territory has already missed payments on its debt, and more and larger missed payments are on the near horizon. The fiscal and economic conditions of Puerto Rico are unsustainable. Based on the constitutionally delegated power of Congress “to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States,” we have a responsibility to take action on this matter.

This unsustainable debt burden brought on by poor decisions, unforeseen circumstances, and bad investments has crippled their economy. Their unemployment rate is 12.2 percent, and since Puerto Ricans are American citizens, thousands of young people come to the mainland each year to find work. Puerto Rico is spiraling towards a constitutional responsibility to put our territory on a different path and change the economic trajectory.

H.R. 5278 establishes a 7-member oversight board that will have the authority to establish budgets for the territory, require the scoring of legislation so the people of Puerto Rico know the true costs of government programs, and be empowered to veto contracts and executive orders.

Once again, I would like to thank Congressman DUFFY and Chairman BISHOP for their hard work in crafting a bill to get Puerto Rico on the right track without a taxpayer bailout. I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 5278 to stop Puerto Rico's economic death spiral and to lay a foundation for a brighter future in Puerto Rico without spending taxpayer dollars.

Mr. GRIJALVA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. SERRANO).

Mr. SERRANO. Mr. Chairman, when we started these negotiations, with Puerto Rico in a way that is hurting, with both leaderships in the House wanting to do something, I knew that at the end of the day I would be voting for a bill. I knew I had to do that for a very simple reason. Inactivity, inaction was not an option. The only option was to do a bill.

What that bill would look like was my question. What that bill would look like was my challenge and my dilemma. The original bill had some provisions that no one could really defend on either side. We have made a bill now that does have some hard pills to swallow, but then over $70 billion in debt with no signs of being able to pay is more of a bitter pill to swallow. The territory is hurting. The people are hurting.

In fact, if anything comes out of this that is positive, it is the fact that the U.S. Congress is paying attention to Puerto Rico in a way that it hasn't in a long, long time, if at all. We are paying attention, and we want to do something about the situation at hand.

We are not supposed to direct our comments to the gallery or to the TV cameras, so I won't do that. But there are people watching this, and they need to have faith in the fact that both parties have come together to come together with a plan that will bring Puerto Rico back out of this debt situation. And, most importantly, I believe there is a commitment on both sides to work on economic development projects for the future to help Puerto Rico and its economy.

But I couldn't get off this podium today without addressing my most important issue, and that is that the problem with Puerto Rico continues to be the status. As long as Puerto Rico is a colony, a territory of the United States, these issues will come back and other issues will come back.

I once, some months ago, either sarcastically or very profoundly, said that all we were doing if we didn't deal with the status was putting a Band-Aid on a bigger problem. Well, there is a bigger problem, and I think it is time Congress came together with the people of...
Puerto Rico and decided to end the colonial status. But ending the colonial status does not mean tweaking the colony to make it a little better or washing the face of the colony to make it a little more presentable. It means getting rid of the colony and either becoming the 51st State or an independent nation. There is no other solution.

And for us, as the people who promote—and rightfully so—democracy throughout the world, to have a colony for 118 years is wrong. And remember, Puerto Rico didn’t do this by itself. The indifference and inequality created this problem, as much as everything else.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Idaho (Mr. LABRADOR), my good friend, who has done a whole lot of work on this particular bill.

Mr. LABRADOR. I thank the chairman and Mr. DUFFY for the work they and their staffs have done on this critical piece of legislation. I especially want to thank my staffer, Aaron Calker, who worked to make this bill a better bill. We have worked countless hours to improve this bill, and I am proud of the work that we have done.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today as a member of the Natural Resources Committee and as a Representative of Idaho’s First Congressional District to support H.R. 5278.

The debt crisis in Puerto Rico is a result of years of liberal policies where the government carelessly borrowed and overspent, while simultaneously encouraging mismanagement and inefficiency. We cannot view Puerto Rico’s situation in a vacuum. If left unresolved, the financial crisis in Puerto Rico will impact the rest of our Nation.

The bill imposes fiscal reforms without spending a single dollar of U.S. taxpayer money to relieve Puerto Rico’s debt. The bill protects taxpayers from bailing out a government that spent recklessly and avoids setting a horrible precedent that could tempt free-spending States to walk away from their obligations.

Specifically, H.R. 5278 establishes a strong oversight board to require Puerto Rico to balance its budget and achieve fiscal responsibility. The bill includes that ensures that the fiscal plans and any potential re-structuring must honor lawful priorities and liens as guaranteed by Puerto Rico’s constitution and laws.

Every State and municipality in this country relies on bond markets to provide funding for government operations. H.R. 5278 creates the balance that will effectively address the needs of Puerto Rico, while ensuring access to these markets for States and municipalities nationwide.

In my community, a person who was born and raised in Puerto Rico and somebody who is very proud of his Puerto Rican heritage, I love the people, I love the island, and I hope that this bill sets them on the path to fiscal responsibility and a brighter future.

The House must pass this bill to establish the necessary framework to help Puerto Rico put its fiscal house in order, while also protecting the interests of every American.

Mr. GRIJALVA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Puerto Rico (Mr. PIERLUISI), who, at a great risk to himself, continued to push for this compromised bill we have before us; and for that, we are grateful.

Mr. PIERLUISI. Mr. Chairman, I represent Puerto Rico in Congress, and I rise in support of PROMESA.

Puerto Rico is at a crossroads. Since 1898, it has been a territory of the United States, subject to the broad powers of Congress under the Territory Clause.

In 1917, Congress conferred U.S. citizenship on individuals born in Puerto Rico. In the 1950s, Congress authorized and approved a constitution for Puerto Rico, which provides the island with a republican form of government consisting of three branches.

Because Puerto Rico is a territory, my constituents have never been treated equally relative to their fellow U.S. citizens in the States in terms of either democratic rights or economic opportunities. In large part, to compensate for the lack of fair treatment at the Federal level, the Puerto Rican Government has spent beyond its means at the local level, leading to excessive deficits and a debt.

This lack of discipline is regrettable but understandable, since the Puerto Rican Government is seeking to provide a quality of life to island residents comparable to the quality of life in the States. However, let me be plain.

The bill we consider today, PROMESA, is a bipartisan compromise intended to deal with the territory’s unprecedented fiscal crisis, which is severe and immediate. The bill will enable Puerto Rico to restructure its public debt in a fair and orderly manner, while establishing an independent and temporary oversight board to ensure that Puerto Rico has a viable, long-term fiscal plan and balanced budgets and that it sticks to both.

In an emergency, the first step is to stabilize the situation, and I believe PROMESA can accomplish this objective. With legislation, the Puerto Rican Government is likely to collapse, participants in public pension plans will be terribly harmed, and many bondholders could lose their investment.

PROMESA is in the interest of all stakeholders, and the most likely alternative is chaos, litigation, a rapidly deteriorating quality of life in Puerto Rico, and even greater migration to the States. However, let me be plain.

This bill is a first step, but it is not an enduring solution.

The Federal Government and, indeed, the Puerto Rican Government must come to terms with a fundamental fact: so long as my constituents are treated like second-class citizens, Puerto Rico will never have a first-class economy.

Puerto Rico must become a full and equal member of the American family that is both logical next step, or Puerto Rico must join the community of nations as a sovereign country.

Puerto Rico deserves true democracy and true dignity—nothing less—yet things come first. This is the deal with this immediate crisis. We have to save the house in Puerto Rico. Vote “yes” on H.R. 5278.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I, too, would like to express my appreciation and sincere gratitude to the Resident Commissioner of Puerto Rico for his hard work.

I may be known as the historian of this body, but the gentleman from Oklahoma will give a historical perspective.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. LUCAS).

Mr. LUCAS. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to note that there are only a handful of my colleagues on the floor or in the body who were here when the precedent for this process was set in 1954.

Some of my colleagues on this side of the room argue that we are setting a new precedent. We are not. Some of you remember 1994, when I came as a new Member in a special election. Some of you remember the economic chaos, the near collapse of the District of Columbia and the city of Washington. Some of you remember how we were told in those days that you can’t go into certain parts of town because it is not safe. Some remember the stories about how a high percentage—if not almost half—the police cars wouldn’t run at any one time.

I remember waking up one July night and looking out the fifth-floor window of the apartment building I was in as the shots were being fired, a spot not many paces from the corner of First and D Streets where someone had been killed, literally within hundreds of feet of the Federal campus. Washington, D.C., the District of Columbia, was about to collapse into chaos—1994.

So what did we do in 1995? We passed a bill very similar to this. We set up a supervisory board that took control of the finances to help right the ship.

For 2 years, there were tremendously painful decisions made here in Washington, D.C., at the municipal level; but after those 2 years, we had 4 years of balanced budgets, and the Control Act, as it was called, was suspended. It was successful. And the renaissance this town, this community has gone through all started with that bill in 1995.

Now, I am voting for this piece of legislation because I believe my fellow American citizens who live in Puerto Rico deserve the right to have a renaissance, deserve the right to move forward. But we are all Members of elected bodies and we know how tough these decisions and situations are.

Pass this bill; create the supervisory board; give the good citizens of Puerto Rico, our fellow Americans, a chance to benefit, just as Washington, D.C., did. They deserve the chance.

Mr. GRIJALVA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. GUTIERREZ).

Mr. GUTIERREZ. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to this legislation. The people of the enchanted island deserve better. It is my duty to my heritage and to the land where I intend to return someday and where someday—hopefully, not soon—I intend to be buried.

As President Obama said so profoundly when he visited the land of his father’s birth, Kenya, a nation with one of the richest histories of the struggle for freedom against the colonial power, I, too, LUIS GUTIERREZ, am one of the people for the work they do.

The people of the enchanted island deserve better. It is my duty to my heritage and to the land where I intend to return someday and where someday—hopefully, not soon—I intend to be buried.

I cannot add my vote to this bill and go back to Puerto Rico or to the Puerto Rican people in my congressional district in Illinois with my head held high. I cannot and will not, not when I know that the majority of votes that will pass this legislation if it passes today come from the Democratic Party, a party that, for all its flaws, is a party I expect a lot more from in times like this.

At a moment in American history when Latinos are quite literally being dragged through the mud by the other party and maligned and distrusted and disrespected because of where their parents or grandparents were born, I expect my fellow Democrats to stand up tall when the party and its leaders accountable to the people they govern have to step up and begin addressing.

Let me say, I am going to offer a translation in Spanish. (English translation of the statement made in Spanish is as follows:)

This is not my promise. My promise is that the people of Puerto Rico be respected, that we don’t treat them as if they were colonized slaves. I reject this bill. Let me tell you that my promise is clear: to continue my work to defend Puerto Rico. As it is said by the Puerto Rican people: precious, it does not matter what tyrant treats you with bad intentions.

Esta no es mi promesa; mi promesa es que el pueblo de Puerto Rico se respete y que no se trate como si fueran colonizados esclavos. Yo rechazo esta propuesta, y les digo que mi promesa es clara: de trabajar para defender a Puerto Rico. Como se dice en Puerto Rico: preciosa, no importa el tirano te trate con negra malada.

The Acting CHAIR (Mr. COLLINS of Georgia). The gentleman from Illinois will provide the Clerk a translation of his remarks.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBRENNER), one of the cosponsors of this bill.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Chairman, I went to Puerto Rico in March. I have been involved in negotiating this, at the request of the Speaker, literally since the first of this year.

This is difficult. This is something that nobody is happy with. This is something when you are presented with a tough pill to swallow, in the long run, it made our city better and stronger. I would like to truly thank all parties for their hard work on this bill, especially Mr. PIELLI; my good friends from New York, my colleagues Representatives VELÁQUEZ and SERRANO; Ranking Member GRIJALVA; Chairman BISHOP; Leader PELOSI; and Antonio Weiss, at the Treasury Department.

Finally, while some opponents of this bill do not want Puerto Rico to restructure its debt in an orderly, court-supervised process and, in exchange, a temporary, temporary Federal oversight board will help Puerto Rico make the structural reforms necessary to get its finances in order and set it on the path of economic growth.

I would like to truly thank all parties for their hard work on this bill, especially Mr. PIELLI; my good friends from New York, my colleagues Representatives VELÁQUEZ and SERRANO; Ranking Member GRIJALVA; Chairman BISHOP; Leader PELOSI; and Antonio Weiss, at the Treasury Department.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBRENNER), one of the cosponsors of this bill.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Chairman, I went to Puerto Rico in March. I have been involved in negotiating this, at the request of the Speaker, literally since the first of this year.

This is difficult. This is something that nobody is happy with. This is something when you are presented with a tough pill to swallow, in the long run, it made our city better and stronger.

I would like to emphasize that the solution to New York City’s fiscal crisis involved a control board, a debt restructuring, and a $2.3 billion loan from the Federal Government. Puerto Rico isn’t getting any Federal money at all, so a debt restructuring law is really the least we can do to help them.

Finally, while some opponents of this bill claim on this floor that debt restructuring is unnecessary because Congress solved D.C.’s fiscal crisis in the nineties with just a control board, this is fundamentally untrue.

The only reason the D.C. Control Board was able to balance D.C.’s budget so quickly was because it assumed the District’s $4 billion in pension obligations the year after the Control Board was created.

Bond market access is essential to any type of State or municipal financing.

So what do we have? A choice of doing nothing, and we have heard about the severe consequences if we do nothing, or going with something that marks the District of Columbia, which is the Oversight Board.

Now, sure, they are unelected. One of them has to be from Puerto Rico. But the Puerto Rican Government, which has been elected, is the one that caused this problem to begin with. They have increased just about every function of spending on the Island except debt service, and they have borrowed more and more and more, and they don’t have the money to appropriate the money to service the debt.

That is why we are here today, and that is what has got to be fixed. It should be fixed with an oversight board working in conjunction with the Puerto Rican Government, not by a court, or simply by not doing anything. It can be fixed, and Puerto Rico can have a Renaissance because this is about the only practical way out of the mess.

Mr. GRIJALVA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. CAROLYN B. MALONEY).

Congresswoman CAROLYN B. MALONEY of New York asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. CAROLYN B. MALONEY of New York. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of H.R. 5278. This bill is not a perfect bill, but it is a true bipartisan compromise, and it is the only option on the table to address the crisis in Puerto Rico, which is the home to 3.5 million American citizens.

The solution that this bill adopts is simple: It will allow Puerto Rico to restructure its debt in an orderly, court-supervised process and, in exchange, a temporary, temporary Federal oversight board will help Puerto Rico make the structural reforms necessary to get its finances in order and set it on the path of economic growth.
So a control board by itself is not enough. We need to do more. But I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. MACARTHUR), who has worked hard on this particular bill.

Mr. MACARTHUR. Mr. Chairman, we all know about the crisis in Puerto Rico involving 3 million U.S. citizens, and we know the causes, fiscal mismanagement over decades, resulting in nearly $120 billion of bonds and unfunded pension liabilities. Unemployment is two times what it is here on the mainland, and people are fleeing Puerto Rico in droves, especially young people. It is not sustainable.

Mr. Chairman, we decided, as a society, hundreds of years ago, that we were not going to throw debtors into prison, but we were going to allow for the orderly reorganization of debts. And yet, Puerto Rico does not have the basic laws that allow that to take place in this situation. This bill fixes that.

This bill puts equal pressure on bondholders, on the island of Puerto Rico. The bill will require them to work together, and I am pleased to see that we have that. And the bill brings an oversight board to help that happen, to even require that to happen. We have to do this.

But, Mr. Chairman, fixing the debt crisis alone is not going to fix Puerto Rico’s problems. We need growth initiatives. This island will not enjoy an enduring prosperity until this Congress also thinks about how to help Puerto Rico grow.

That is why I introduced a title to this bill; it is just a sense of Congress, but it puts a flag in the ground saying that we have more work to do on growth, and I am really pleased to see a Growth Commission included in the bill.

Mr. Chairman, I have spent a lifetime in business. I have had the privilege of creating thousands of jobs. That doesn’t happen when you have uncertain conditions.

In 1986, we changed the Tax Code in Puerto Rico that treats the return of earnings from that island to the mainland like it is coming from a foreign country, and you can watch the growth rate of Puerto Rico plummet since. Ever since 2006—my date was wrong than see the growth rate plummet over 10 years.

Manufacturing is still half of the island’s economy and yet, it is reduced by half over the last 20 years. We have to do things that make Puerto Rico an attractive business environment.

We all are worried about offshoring. This is an opportunity for near-shoring in a U.S. territory. It is an opportunity to demonstrate pro-growth principles in action; to allow Puerto Rico, an island paradise, to become an economic miracle.

This is the opportunity that I see. I am proud of the bill. Like any bill, it is not perfect. But let’s not let the perfect become the enemy of the good. It is a good bill that deserves our support. I urge my colleagues to vote “yes.”

Mr. GRIJALVA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI). Her time and commitment to the people of Puerto Rico go on to compromise in a bipartisan bill have been the primary drivers to this point on the bill that we have before us.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, I rise and commend the leadership of Chairman BISHOP. I thank the gentleman for bringing us here today, as well as our ranking member, Mr. GRIJALVA, for bringing this compromise legislation to the floor.

It is with the deepest of pride that I join my colleagues, Congresswoman NYDIA VELÁZQUEZ and Congressman JOSÉ SERRANO, in support of this legislation. Although we have concerns about some elements of it, we support it on balance.

I can’t help but mention to my colleagues here that in April, many of you were there when Congress bestowed the Congressional Gold Medal on the legendary 65th Infantry Regiment, a largely Puerto Rican regiment that served with honor et Fidelitas, honor and fidelity, in World War I, on the doorsteps of Nazi Germany.

The bravery of these people of Puerto Rico in droves, especially young people. It is not sustainable.

When I was in the Oval Office with President Obama, I can’t help but mention to my colleagues that in April, many of you were there when Congress bestowed the Congressional Gold Medal on the legendarily brave Borinqueneers.

The Borinqueneers is one of the true great American stories. Their daring on the battlefield helped break down the discrimination facing Puerto Rican and Latino Americans across our country. They enriched our Nation with the strength of their service, through the excellence of their example, and the power of their bravery.

Their valor under fire is nothing short of legendary. The heroic service of the Borinqueneers is one of the true great American stories.

I bring this to mind because on that day in Emancipation Hall, which was crowded with people, and the presentations were led by the bipartisan, bicameral House and Senate, Democrat and Republican. One way is to use the earned income tax credit to give more opportunity there.

So I urge my colleagues to support the legislation. Even though it is not the bill that either one side would have written, it is a compromise. But it will provide the people of Puerto Rico the tools to overcome the crisis and move forward.

After long bipartisan negotiations, we achieved a restructuring process that meets the test of workability. Does it work? Will it happen? This is not a bailout. Some people are trying to describe it as such for some other purposes. I know that my colleague from Puerto Rico, PEDRO PIERLUSI, has explained the urgency of this. I know that we would have, perhaps, had a bill that didn’t have some of the provisions in it that are in it, and we would have preferred to add some better things to the bill, but that is not the choice before us.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, we have an opportunity to make the choice: will the bill alleviate the challenge that the people of Puerto Rico are facing? Our Resident Commissioner, PEDRO PIERLUSI, thinks that this bill does achieve that, and I thank him for his courageous leadership on all of this.

Again, this can be a very passionate discussion. It is an emotional one because it involves the lives of people that some of us know and are part of the lives of our Members, as JOSÉ SERRANO and NYDIA VELÁZQUEZ mentioned. But we have to be dispassionate in how we make a judgment about how we can solve the problem, and we have that opportunity today.

This oversight board that President Obama will appoint is one that will have the opportunity to implement the restructuring as described in this legislation. On a bipartisan basis, we will be submitting names to the President so that he can appoint the oversight board.

It would be my commitment to make sure that the commitment from the House Democrats is for there to be one from Puerto Rico representing the people of Puerto Rico on that board.

In addition to the oversight board, this legislation also contains a task force, a Members’ task force whose task is to look at impediments in Federal law to Puerto Rico’s economic growth. I would hope that that task force would afford us the opportunity to see other ways that we can help the economic growth of Puerto Rico, for the citizens, our fellow citizens in Puerto Rico.

We can talk about parity in relationship to Medicare, Medicaid, and the rest. We can talk about the earned income tax credit, which we enjoy in the United States, and having that be more available in Puerto Rico. We can talk about the earned income tax credit.

So I urge my colleagues to support the legislation. Even though it is not the bill that either one side would have written, it is a compromise. But it will provide the people of Puerto Rico the tools to overcome the crisis and move forward, hundreds of millions of dollars, maybe $1 billion a year.

It will alleviate Puerto Rico from having to commit, because of the restructuring, and will enable it to meet the needs of the people of Puerto Rico as it gets back on its feet.

Puerto Rico’s economic success is important to the United States. Our economic growth and job creation plans must include our fellow citizens in Puerto Rico. I would hope, with the task force; I would hope with future legislation, as we go forward, we will recognize how close our connection is, how important it is for Puerto Rico to survive and express our gratitude to the people of Puerto Rico for the vitality they bring to the United States of America, and for the security that so many Puerto Ricans risk their lives to protect our country.

With that, I urge our colleagues to pray over it and conclude, as our three colleagues, Congresswoman Velázquez, Congressman Serrano, Congressman Peltú here have concluded, that, on balance, we must move forward for the benefit of the veterans, for the people, for their children, for the citizens of Puerto Rico.

I urge an “aye” vote.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 4 minutes.

I appreciate the comments that have been made so far on a bill that I want to think actually has a lot of good in it.

Article 4, section 3 of the Constitution provides Congress not only the power, but also the responsibility to do what is needed dealing with the territories.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Chairman, just this morning, the Supreme Court ruled on a case concerning the territory and a question of double jeopardy. By a 6-2 decision, the Court held that Puerto Rico is not a separate sovereignty because the ultimate source of its power and its constitution is the United States Congress. So, indeed, this reminds us all here today of our duty to assist in the territorial issues.

Now, there are seven titles to this particular piece of legislation. The first two deal with the oversight board that will bring fiscal plans and a budget to the island. Titles III and VI deal with restructuring of the debt if certain criteria are met in the oversight board’s discretion that it include good-faith debt negotiations with its creditors.

Title V is something I think we sometimes overlook because it gives fast-track authority for vital infrastructure projects to be moved by the government of Puerto Rico, especially in the area of energy generation and distribution systems. One of the problems of Puerto Rico is the high energy costs that have caused them to lose jobs. What we are attempting to do is trying to find a way of changing that problem and reducing Puerto Rico’s reliance on diesel fuel to generate their electricity. That is one of the parts of this bill that is extremely important and I think is overlooked sometimes. The final title I am happy about because this has pre-growth portions and reforms in it.

But let it be very clear: this is a conservative bill that is rooted in the Constitution that does not cost the American taxpayers a dime. It is not a bailout. It does not expand the size or scope of the Federal Government, and it does not encroach on State authority.

In fact, I think we have done a pretty good job in trying to solve some problems in a way that can move everyone forward.

At this point, I also want to thank the chairman of the Committee on Education and the Workforce and the Committee on the Judiciary and Small Business Committee for their help with this particular bill, so especially Chairman KLINE, Chairman Goodlatte, and Chairman CHABOT. I do appreciate their help on this particular bill.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

HON. STEVE CHABOT, Chairman, Committee on Natural Resources, Washington, DC.

Finally, I would be pleased to include this letter and any response in the bill report filed by the Committee on Natural Resources to memorialize our understanding, as well as in the Congressional Record.

Thank you for your consideration of my request, and I look forward to further opportunities to work with you this Congress.

Sincerely,

ROB BISHOP, Chairman, Committee on Natural Resources, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: I am writing to confirm our mutual understanding with respect to H.R. 5278, the Puerto Rico Oversight, Management, and Economic Stability Act. Thank you for consulting with the Committee on Education and the Workforce to be discharged from further consideration of this bill or any other legislation that may be similar to this bill or any other similar legislation and will not be considered as precedent for consideration of matters of jurisdictional interest to my Committee in the future. Additionally, I appreciate your committee’s assistance with any additional improvements to the bill within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Mr. GRIJALVA. I yield myself the balance of my time, and thank Leader PELOSI and my colleague, Chairman BISHOP, his staff, and certainly staff on our side of the aisle for their hard work.

It is a bill that is indeed a compromise, and we shouldn’t be ashamed of that. It is a compromise that I wish was more tilted on our side and the things that we wanted. But, Mr. Chairman, those are not the dynamics or the numbers in this House.

The reality of Puerto Rico, the humanitarian demands and needs of the island make us look at this bill not with an eye towards perfection, but with an eye towards what is doable and what can provide some immediate relief and begin the process of stability for the island and for its people, and begin the process of an economic renewal for the island itself.

I want to also acknowledge my colleagues, Mr. PIERLUISI, Ms. VELÁZQUEZ, and Mr. SERRANO. I know how difficult this vote was and how difficult it is to vote on a compromise that does not fully empower and fully acknowledge the self-governance of the Puerto Rican people. I know that. But your endorsement of this bill is very meaningful in that it ties us to a heritage of representation by the Puerto Rican people in this body and to insisting and demanding that the needs of the people of Puerto Rico be recognized fully by this Congress. We recognize them today, as Mr. SERRANO said, but there is much, much more to do.

This vote, by the way, as I close, is not about heritage. More importantly, it is not about selling out one’s heritage. It is about future generations and the opportunities they will have on the island. It is about stability for children, families, and the elderly with a fiscally stable economy and an accountable fiscal system within the island.

While I can understand the political expediency of voting “no,” I think the demands and the urgency to deal with this question compel me—and I hope all my colleagues in this body—to vote “yes.”

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. I yield 4½ minutes to the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. GRAVES), another member of our committee.

Mr. GRAVES of Louisiana. Mr. Chairman, I first want to thank Chairman BISHOP, Ranking Member GRIJALVA, Congressmen LABRADOR, DUFFY, and PIERLUISI, and many others who worked tirelessly on this legislation.

Mr. Chairman, the island of Puerto Rico with a population of under 4 million people has a debt of, by some measure, $100 billion. That is a population less than the State of Louisiana, but a debt more than $100 billion.

We have three options: We can do nothing and continue to allow this island territory to continue spiraling downward in a financial and humanitarian crisis. We can provide financial oversight. We can relieve regulation, help to reignite the economy, and allow for a negotiation between the creditors and the debtor. Or we can pay off the debt and add the already $19 trillion irresponsible debt of the American Government today. Those are the options that are out there.

I will tell you, I also struggled with what the right conservative solution was in this case.

Ultimately, there is just one right answer. Doing nothing will simply worsen the financial condition, will probably put more burden on us to actually bail out the Nation on Congress and on the White House to do that. I oppose a bailout, and I oppose putting taxpayer dollars on the hook to pay off nearly a dozen years of irresponsible spending of the Puerto Rican Government.

So establishing a financial oversight board similar to what was done in Washington, D.C. and providing conditions to negotiate a solution is the right answer. It is the conservative solution.

During committee consideration of the bill, I included an amendment to ensure that Federal taxpayers are not put on the hook for this liability.

Section 210 says: “No Federal funds shall be authorized by this act for the payment of any liability of the territorial or territorial instrumentality.”

Acting CHAIR. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I yield the gentleman an additional 30 seconds.

Mr. GRAVES of Louisiana. Mr. Chairman, this amendment makes it clear: as affirmed by the Supreme Court today and mentioned by the committee chairman, Puerto Rico is different from a State, and the Supreme Court affirmed it. It is not a State. It is a territory of the U.S., and we have a constitutional obligation to prevent a worsening disaster.

This bill does not set a precedent for State and municipal bondholders. It respects the priority of debt by general obligation bondholders and others. It prevents higher cost of borrowing by States and municipalities by controlling the situation. Most importantly, Mr. Chairman, it doesn’t bail out Puerto Rico. It creates a path for financial stability.

Mr. Chairman, I urge support for H.R. 5278.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. GARRETT).

Mr. GARRETT. Mr. Chairman, I come before the House today to support an important piece of legislation that will allow the people of Puerto Rico a path towards economic stability, growth, and prosperity.

Beholden to out-of-control tax-and-spend policies, the Puerto Rican people are experiencing the harsh realities of fiscal irresponsibility and unaccountable government. That is why I strongly support this bill.
We have a moral and constitutional responsibility to address this fiscal crisis which will only get worse if we don’t act. That is why I support this bill and what we must learn from this experience.

Congressional leaders from both parties have let our national debt reach an unsustainable $19 trillion. That is only because the U.S. Government has something that Puerto Rico doesn’t have: the ability to print money and borrow endlessly. So that is why I support this bill which do not spend a single dollar in U.S. taxpayer money to relieve Puerto Rico of its debt.

I have long opposed taxpayer bailouts. Fortunately, this bill prevents the taxpayers from bailing out a government that spent recklessly and provides a conservative solution to force Puerto Rico to spend now responsibly. The bill also avoids setting a horrible precedent that could tempt free-spending lawmakers to pass bills to relieve Puerto Rico to solvency and stability.

Our goal is for Puerto Rico to establish fiscal plans to achieve long-term financial sustainability which will only get worse if we don’t do this.

I rise in support of this bill as one of the more conservative members of the Republican wing of this House. The Acting Chair, the gentleman of Utah, Mr. BISHOP, Mr. Chairman, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentlewoman from Wisconsin (Mrs. LUMMIS). She is the vice-chair of the committee.

Mrs. LUMMIS. Mr. Chairman, we saw a bunch of ads on TV about this bill and about what it would do to the bondholders. So I did some research.

I rise in support of this bill as one of the more conservative members of the Republican wing of this House. The reason I support it is the research I did showed that it wasn’t this widow that bought these bonds, it was large institutional investors. It was investors who knew what they were buying because they read the disclosure documents. It was investors who buy billions of dollars worth of bonds, and they are trying to diversify those portfolios, so they have some high-risk, high-return investments and some low-risk, low-return investments. They have different maturity dates. They come from different jurisdictions. They are well balanced portfolios. Those portfolios were purchased recognizing that some of these bonds might have a higher risk and a higher return.

That higher return comes at a discounted price. So they paid a discount in hopes that they would get the higher return and that these bonds would hold up.

Quite frankly, those bondholders knew what they were getting off at it was even disclosed in the bond documents that Congress might be here today debating this very problem of the island’s inability to repay everything.

Not all general obligation bonds are created equal. The bond purchasers knew what they were getting. This bill is going to allow for the relative-to-each-other agreement among the bondholders about how to treat the bonds.

Mr. Chairman, I fully support the bill.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. RYAN). He also has the title of Speaker of the House.

Mr. RYAN of Wisconsin. Mr. Chairman, I am telling you why, Puerto Rico is in trouble, and we need to act now before that trouble threatens taxpayers.

Let me explain why. Puerto Rico’s government owes $118 billion in bonds in unfunded pension liabilities. It has already defaulted on much of it. Things are only going to get worse.

Now the island is shutting down. You can see it in the news—closed schools, and hospitals are beginning to close. That is today. Tomorrow it could be policemen without cars. It could be blackouts at hospitals. This is a humanitarian disaster in the making.

What is worse, if we do nothing, it could be a mansmade humanitarian disaster.

I know this goes without saying, but it is worth repeating: the Puerto Rican people are our fellow Americans. They pay our taxes. They fight in our wars. We cannot allow this to happen.

I should also say that if we do nothing, the contagion will simply spread. About 15 percent of Puerto Rico’s debt is already held by middle class Americans, and if the government can’t meet its obligations, these families will pay the price—or even worse, taxpayers could be asked to bail it out.

That is simply unacceptable. That is why we are taking action now, to prevent a bailout and to help the Puerto Rican people.

What this bill will do is allow Puerto Rico to restructure its debts and set up an oversight board that will oversee this process. Congress and the President will appoint the members of this board. It will audit Puerto Rico’s books and make sure the restructuring is open and fair. It will also make sure the restructuring honors the agreements. It will make sure the government changes its ways so we don’t have to do this all over again.

Let me set a few things straight. Some people say this will set a bad precedent. Some people say this will encourage reckless spending by the States. No, absolutely not. The bill applies only to territories and not to States.

I also want to point one thing out. The Puerto Rican Government is not out of options. They are trying to diversify their portfolio. The only change is that they pass reforms that will grow the Puerto Rican economy. It gives flexibility on the youth minimum wage so businesses will hire more young people.

I also hear people say that this is a bailout. That is absolutely, categorically, undeniably false. This bill won’t add a single dollar to the deficit. All you have to do is look at the Congressional Budget Office. Not a single taxpayer dollar added to the deficit.

I am telling all Members right now, the best chance to get this bill is to pass this bill. The best chance for creditors to get what they are owed is this bill. This is our responsibility. The Constitution is really clear. The Constitution gives the Congress the duty to oversee legislation for all U.S. territories. Now it is time that we do our constitutional duty.

A lot of people have spent so much time on this legislation. Here is what we are doing. If we see a problem anywhere, it is in a territory where we have a constitutional responsibility, we have to address this problem, and we have to address this problem in a smart way so that we prevent the taxpayer from getting their act together. Taxpayers will be safe.

I also want to thank Rob Bishop from Utah, the chairman of the committee; I want to thank Sean Duffy from Wisconsin; I want to thank Raul Labrador from Idaho; I want to thank Jim Sensenbrenner from Wisconsin; I want to thank Pedro Pierluisi from Puerto Rico; and I want to thank the Members from other States who put so much time into this.

This is a bipartisan bill. This is the best solution in a deepening crisis.
bill has my full support. I urge all of my colleagues in the House to give it their full support as well.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Six months ago, our committee began trying to solve this problem. We had four hearings, countless stakeholder meetings, and got input from expert testimony. Interested parties from all over the place were able to get their input in various drafts of this bill. It was an exhaustive effort, but what happened is at the end of this time we had a good bill. That is the way this process is supposed to work.

It is a bill that is rooted in the Constitution. It doesn't cost the taxpayers, it provides Puerto Rico with the tools to impose discipline over its finances, and led towards an element of prosperity.

In Spanish, I am told that the phrase promesa means promise. This bill is a promise to Puerto Rico for a better life. It is the way we go forward.

I urge everyone's adoption of a great piece of legislation.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. HINGOLO. Mr. Chairman, today I rise in support of H.R. 5278, the “Puerto Rico Oversight, Management, and Economic Stability Act” (PROMESA)—a bipartisan bill providing short-term relief to respond to the humanitarian crisis facing the people of Puerto Rico.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Chair, I rise today to secure the future of Puerto Rico and the well-being of its more than 3.4 million people are of great concern to may colleagues and me. The island's $70 billion debt has made it extremely difficult for the Commonwealth to provide adequate health care, education and public safety for the people of Puerto Rico.

As a result, its people are struggling to access basic public services—as schools and hospitals face daily electricity and water shortages. I am deeply concerned that the island's health care systems have been adversely affected by this debt crisis, making it increasingly difficult to handle a Zika outbreak or other health crises.

As a senior member of the Financial Services Committee, I support giving Puerto Rico the tools to impose discipline over its finances, and led towards an element of prosperity.

I do not support certain provisions in the bill, including sections undermining a minimum wage and protections for pension benefits. However, it is my hope that this bill on balance will help Puerto Rico stave off catastrophe by restoring basic services, with the hope of putting Puerto Rico back on the path toward improving the quality of life of its people.

In closing, Mr. Chair, I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to support H.R. 5278. This bill is not perfect, but it takes a step in the right direction.

Ms. BORDALLO. Mr. Chair, I am disappointed that two amendments I offered yesterday at the Rules Committee were not made in order for debate on H.R. 5278, the Puerto Rico Oversight, Management, and Economic Stability Act (PROMESA). These amendments, along with amendments offered by Rep. KILILI SABLAN of the Northern Mariana Islands on the Earned Income Tax Credit and Rep. AMATA RADEWAGEN of American Samoa on the Child Tax Credit, would have addressed underlying issues that are experienced in all the territories and that contributed to Puerto Rico's debt crisis. My first amendment would have granted the government of Guam flexibility to extend Social Security to all new government hires. The Government of Guam's (GovGuam) current retirement plan will leave many without sufficient means when they retire. As you know, the pension shortfall in Puerto Rico was a key contributor to its current fiscal crisis and local leaders in Guam are working proactively to enact legislation to prevent a similar situation in Guam. Part of their efforts is contingent on enrolling employees in Social Security, and my amendment would have given Guam the flexibility to enroll new hires in Social Security as it works to address retirement shortfalls for its current workforce. The Social Security Act and the CBO have indicated that the amendment would have net positive increase on federal revenues offered a practical, common sense solution to the shortfalls on Guam. It was a proactive attempt to provide GovGuam with the tools it needs to address this systemic issue.

My second amendment would have granted Guam parity in FMAP. The amendment would have eliminated the Medicaid caps on the territories and provide parity with the federal medical assistance percentage in force in the territories. The inequitable treatment of the territories in Medicaid has caused significant financial strain on our local governments and has forced us to contribute a disproportionate share of local dollars when compared to the 50 states and DC. This was a bipartisan amendment supported by all representatives of the territories, and it would have given Guam and the other territories, who are all Americans, on equal footing with those who reside in the States. The cost of providing health care in our jurisdictions, particularly on Guam, inhibits our economies from truly developing. Further, this amendment was modeled off a request contained in President Obama's Fiscal Year 2017 budget request which would have eliminated the caps and put the territories on a path to improving their FMAP. This budget proposal is a critical component of solving the crisis we see in Puerto Rico yet we have been told that it is not supported by the Congress. We have an opportunity to address this inequity, and I feel it is critical that we act with purpose on this matter.

I also want to underscore my disappointment that amendments submitted by my colleagues Ms. SABLAN and Ms. RADEWAGEN were also not made in order. We firmly believe that Puerto Rico's debt crisis cannot be resolved through debt restructuring alone. This debt crisis was caused by underlying issues which have been impacted by the unequal treatment of the territories in certain federal programs. My amendments would have addressed these issues for Puerto Rico and the other territories would help lift a burden and allow our local governments to focus more on economic development and improving infrastructure to support those new economies.

Together our amendments addressed disparities in Medicaid and the application of the Earned Income Tax Credit and the Child Tax Credit, and would have fixed critical issues that contributed to Puerto Rico's debt crisis. We offered these amendments because while Guam's and the other territories' fiscal situations are nowhere near the crisis in Puerto Rico, we had an opportunity to be proactive and eliminate federal policies and programs that are not treating the territories equitably. Put more simply, we could have been proactive in addressing federal law to ensure our other territories are put in a better shape financially.

We simply do not believe that extending the authorities proposed in PROMESA without addressing continued systemic challenges will resolve Puerto Rico's problems, nor will it provide a more secure financial footing in all the territories. I recognize the political challenges that have been undertaken to get this bill to the floor that we are at right now. However, we need to find the political will to address the systemic challenges now, before they become crises later. We are doing all we can to be proactive so that what is happening to Puerto Rico does not happen to the rest of us. I hope the Congress will address the systemic problems so that we can bring parity to the millions of Americans living in the territories and enable the territories' local governments to focus on programs that will enhance their economies.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chair, House Resolution 5278 creates a board of managers to address the fiscal condition of Puerto Rico. However, Puerto Rican officials still have not been held accountable or accepted responsibility for their policies that caused the financial crisis. In fact, just the opposite: the Puerto Rican government ignored its fiscal obligations when it recently voted to approve a moratorium on repaying any of its debt. But it is Puerto Rico and not Congress who should take the first steps to adopt reform measures.

There is no certainty that a financial oversight board would implement any economic growth measures to improve the Island's fiscal condition.

The board has no mandate from Congress to address the bloated government workforce, high taxes, an insolvent pension system, limitations on trade under the Jones Act, and excessive welfare benefits, all of which helped cause the fiscal crisis.

This legislation rewards bad behavior and represents a missed opportunity for Congress to insist on fiscally responsible reforms.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Chair, I rise today before the Puerto Rico Oversight, Management, and Economic Stability Act (PROMESA) has been passed and that we face a catastrophe. The spiral of recession, emigration, debt, and austerity has left the island in dire straits. Puerto Rico faces immediate default on a large portion of its debt and the island might have to halt emergency services if it cannot obtain further credit. This crisis has been developing for a long time, but the problem has grown increasingly unworkable over the past year while this Congress has done nothing. The potential humanitarian consequences of continuing to do nothing have convinced me that despite my grave concerns about what I consider a mere half measure, I must support PROMESA, the Puerto Rico Oversight, Management, and Economic Stability Act (H.R. 5278).
Puerto Rico’s problems go beyond short-term debt service. Federal changes to their unique tax structure have helped push the territory into recession for a decade, which in turn has driven massive emigration elsewhere, which harms their ability to attract investment and furthered the economy’s already further imperiled the Island’s fiscal situation. It is the very definition of an austerity driven destructive cycle.

Correcting its course is no easy task, but Puerto Rico can succeed if they receive two necessary, long-term solutions: a comprehensive economic plan that refocuses on growth, and protection from unpayable debt, an amount that exceeds the Island’s entire economy.

First, an immediate stay on debt collection and payments that would allow time to develop a negotiated resolution, or absent that a bankruptcy process that treats creditors equitably. PROMESA is a bipartisan measure and effort to shoulder some of the pain, but nobody should take unfair losses—least of all the pensioners who can least afford an unequal burden.

Second, an economic development plan that reflects Puerto Rico’s unique challenges, like emigration to the mainland, which hinder the island’s ability to rebuild its tax base and attract new investment. Alternative energy programs and tax incentives should be supported to encourage a more self-sufficient economy. Public health efforts should be directed to the island’s growing problems that disproportionately affect Puerto Rico, such as Zika.

PROMESA, while well intended, simply may not fully address the magnitude of Puerto Rico’s problems. Without an adequate commitment to improving economic stability on the island, talented residents will continue emigrating elsewhere, industry will further wither because of substandard public services, and local fiscal problems will likely escalate. Further, the ridiculous riders that potentially undervalue wages and overtime protections—as well as environmental regulations—represent a cynical effort to take advantage of the Island’s desperate situation. It is a shameful reminder that many in this body see Puerto Rico as a colony unworthy of the privileges we enjoy on the mainland.

I am voting for PROMESA despite my serious concerns because I hope against hope that it will be improved in the Senate. A real recovery strategy—one that gives residents, workers, and pensioners a viable future—is what Puerto Rico needs and deserves.

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Chair, I stand before you today to discuss H.R. 5278—Puerto Rico Oversight, Management, and Economic Stability Act (PROMESA).

Our consideration of PROMESA must be a very thoughtful analysis of an outcome where the people of Puerto Rico will be empowered and be on a path towards progress where working families, their children and pensioners can be on a pathway towards a better future. PROMESA is a bipartisan measure and effort to assist the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico in restructing $70 billion in currently unpayable debt, an amount that exceeds the size of its entire economy.

There are a total of 3.548 million people living on the island of Puerto Rico.

Since 2006, Puerto Rico’s economy has shrunk by more than 10 percent and shed more than 250,000 jobs.

More than 45 percent of the Commonwealth’s residents live in poverty—the highest poverty rate of any state or territory.

Furthermore, its 11.6 percent unemployment rate is more than twice the national level.

The challenges facing the people of Puerto Rico have ignited the largest wave of out-migration since the 1950’s, and the pace continues to accelerate.

More than 300,000 people have left Puerto Rico in the past decade with a record of 84,000 people leaving in 2014.

Puerto Ricans suffer from high rates of forced migration due to the better opportunities offered in the United States compared to in the commonwealth.

The gap between emigrants and immigrants has been significantly widening.

Indeed, this increase in emigrants caused a population decline, the first in its history, and the statewide Puerto Rican population grew quickly.

The median age of male Puerto Ricans is of working age from the ages of 25–49 and similarly for women from the ages of 25–59.

Most of the homes are family-led. There are about 1,133,600 people in the civilian labor force but only 43 percent of them are employed.

In addition, most of those working in minimum wage jobs.

Over 27 percent of the people in the Commonwealth are on welfare.

The median income in Puerto Rico is only half that of the poorest U.S. state, Mississippi, but welfare benefits are about the same in Puerto Rico as in Mississippi.

Swift action is needed in order to alleviate the pain and suffering of the people of Puerto Rico.

There is no time to waste.

H.R. 5278 appears to be an emergency default for Puerto Rico, an American territory where 3.5 million American citizens reside and continue to live in fear for their finances, their families and their future.

On July 1, Puerto Rico will face nearly $2 billion worth of bond payments.

Already, businesses have closed, public worker benefits are in jeopardy, hospital care is restricted and basic governmental functions are at risk.

Should the Puerto Rican government default in early July, it faces certain litigation by its creditors, further erosion of its economy, and an inability to provide basic services to its people.

This measure creates a process for the Commonwealth to restructure their bond debts, avoiding a default that could lead to a humanitarian catastrophe and instead allowing Puerto Rico to return to economic growth and fiscal balance.

It would allow for the creation of a seven-member Financial Oversight and Management board which will approve annual budgets and fiscal plans.

This fiscal plan must be designed in a way that provides adequate funding for pension obligations.

Also, I have serious concerns about the minimum wage provision of the measure. Specifically, regarding minimum wage and overtime, H.R. 5278 would extend the application of the existing federal subminimum wage of $4.25 an hour to those under the age of 25 in Puerto Rico for as long as four years, while all other federal jurisdictions pay the subminimum wage to those under the age of 20 for only up to the first ninety days of employment.

We had to continue to work on ways to improve this measure to ascertain that American citizens in Puerto Rico are not languishing in poverty.

Indeed, the measure contains a provision that provides for a delay on the new Department of Labor overtime pay regulation until a Government Accountability Office (GAO) study is completed and the Department of Labor determines whether the rule could negatively impact the economy of Puerto Rico.

Additionally, the measure would create a “Revitalization Coordinator” that works closely with the Oversight Board to determine which energy and other infrastructure projects will be able to bypass local environmental, public health, and consumer protection laws.

Let me underscore again that I have serious concerns about the provisions in this measure, not the least of which is the expansion of the subminimum wage, the exemption from the new overtime Rule, and the exclusion of protections for pension benefits.

I commend my Democratic colleagues in their efforts of protecting the environment and wildlife refuge in the Commonwealth.

I look forward to working with my Democratic colleagues and our Republican colleagues across the aisle in continuing to improve the provisions of the measure for the betterment of fellow American citizens in Puerto Rico.

Let me conclude by highlighting that H.R. 5278 is not perfect but so long as we continue to work on a bipartisan basis in good faith, we can work towards our efforts of ensuring that Puerto Rico does not become a humanitarian crisis.

We must continue to work together to be our brother’s and sister’s keepers.

It is essential that we stand with the people of Puerto Rico and take action.

It is essential that we continue to work towards an orderly process that promotes the livelihood of U.S. citizens in Puerto Rico and alleviates the crisis.

(m) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) A combination of severe economic decline, and, at times, accumulated operating deficits, lack of financial transparency, management inefficiencies, and excessive borrowing has created a fiscal emergency in Puerto Rico. As a result of this fiscal emergency, the Government of Puerto Rico has been unable to provide its citizens with effective services.

(2) The current fiscal emergency has also affected the long-term economic prospects of Puerto Rico by contributing to the accelerated out-migration of residents and businesses.

(3) A comprehensive approach to fiscal, management, and structural problems and adjustments that exempts no part of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico is necessary, involving independent oversight and a Federal statutory authority to authorize the Government of Puerto Rico to restructure debts in a fair and orderly process.

(4) Additionally, an immediate—but temporary—solution is necessary to stabilize the region for the purposes of resolving this territorial crisis.

(5) The stay advances the best interests common to all stakeholders, including to ensure a functioning independent Oversight Board created pursuant to this Act to determine whether to appear or intervene on behalf of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico in any litigation that may have been commenced prior to the effectiveness or expiration of the stay.

(6) The stay is limited in nature and narrowly tailored to achieve the purposes of this Act, including to ensure all creditors have a fair opportunity to consensually renegotiate terms of repayment based on accurate financial information, and to ensure all creditors have a fair opportunity to, at a minimum, receive a recovery from the Government of Puerto Rico equal to their best possible outcome absent the provisions of this Act.

(6) Finally, the ability of the Government of Puerto Rico to obtain funds from capital markets in the future will be severely diminished without congressional action to restore its financial accountability and stability.

(a) PURPOSE.—The purposes of this section are to—

(1) provide the Government of Puerto Rico with the resources and the tools it needs to address existing and imminent needs; and

(2) allow the Government of Puerto Rico a limited period of time during which it can focus its resources on negotiating a voluntary resolution with its creditors and the implementation of potential debt restructuring;

(3) provide an oversight mechanism to assist the Government of Puerto Rico in reforming its fiscal management and attract investment in Puerto Rico; and

(4) make available a Federal restructuring authority, if necessary, to allow for an orderly adjustment of all of the Government of Puerto Rico’s liabilities; and

(b) In any order, the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives shall be entitled to one sej washing of the provisions of this Act.

(2) VOLUNTARY AGREEMENT PROCESS.—The Chapter 9 Oversight Board, and

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 770, the gentleman from Utah (Mr. Bishop) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Utah. Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, this is the proverbial manager’s amendment. It does have four significant elements, and I think people ought to be aware of in particular amendment.

Finally, and probably most important, the amendment also includes a moving up of the timetable for appointment to the board. This simply says the President will have the appointment of the board up and running by September 15 of this year, and no later than that.

This, I think, has some other technical amendments, which are simply technical, but those are four substantive amendments in the manager’s amendment that help make this what we intend it to be and get us up and running very quickly.

I yield back the balance of my time. The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Utah (Mr. Bishop).

The amendment was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 2 OFFERED BY MR. GRAVES OF MISSOURI

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 2 offered by Mr. Graves of Missouri.

The Acting CHAIR. The amendment is simply a fiscally responsible way to make sure that that doesn’t happen. Failure to maintain Puerto Rico’s mass transit system would cause Tren Urbano to fall into disrepair. We have seen just how disruptive those problems can be right here in our Nation’s Capital. As the chairman of the House Subcommittee on Highways and Transit, I recently held a hearing on the future of transit and reliability of the Metro system here in D.C. Repairs to the Metro have added to congestion problems in this city, and it has caused an untold amount in lost worker productivity. We do not want to see the same problems faced by the Puerto Rican system occur here.

We do not want to see those same problems, especially given the economic situation they are facing.

In the last several years, the Government of Puerto Rico has struggled to pay for Tren Urbano’s operations. At times, outstanding debt for operations has exceeded $20 million. Nevertheless, with the aid of FTA preventive maintenance grants, revenues from passenger fares, and funds from the Puerto Rican Highway and Transportation Authority, Tren Urbano has been able to continue serving the residents of Puerto Rico. It is critical we ensure Tren Urbano is treated as an essential service so that we can protect the hundreds of millions of taxpayer dollars that are already invested in the system.

Mr. Chairman, this doesn’t prioritize anything. It doesn’t put anything at the top of the list. It simply says that this is going to be a part of this process, so we do not lose that investment.

Mr. CAPUANO. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. GRAVES of Missouri. I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts. Mr. CAPUANO. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding.
I want to step up and basically add my name to this and my support and say it is a good amendment. It should pass.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. GRAVES of Missouri. I yield to the gentleman from Utah.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, I also want to support this amendment. Everything is fine with me too.

Mr. GRAVES of Missouri. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES).

The amendment was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 3 OFFERED BY MR. JOLLY

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 3 printed in House Report 114–610.

Mr. JOLLY. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 770, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. JOLLY) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Florida.

Mr. JOLLY. Mr. Chairman, section 409 of this very important legislation creates a congressional task force on economic growth in Puerto Rico. The intent of the task force is to study barriers to economic growth, report back to Congress on changes in Federal law that would spur long-term, sustainable economic growth, job creation, and also attract investment in Puerto Rico. However, in my opinion, the section could be improved by also studying the impact and recommended changes on child poverty on the island of Puerto Rico.

Nearly 60 percent of children under 18 live below the poverty level in Puerto Rico, and roughly 80 percent live in high poverty areas. That is in comparison to only 11 percent who live in high poverty areas here in the continental United States.

This very simple amendment would add to the requirements of the congressional act so that they report back on recommended changes to address and reduce child poverty in the territory.

This amendment has been endorsed by an organization of roughly 600 national and local religious bodies, including the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops, the United Methodist Church, the Presbyterian Church U.S.A., Catholic Charities, the Union for Reform Judaism.

Additionally, on Tuesday of this week, San Juan Archbishop Roberto González Nieves called on Congress to specifically address child poverty in this bill.

Much of the debate has centered around balancing the interests and needs of bondholders and lenders with those of pensioners. I would ask that this body also consider the impact on the least among us. We are all called to serve each other.

This is an opportunity for this body to reflect not just the vision of our Founders, but the calling of our Creator in doing so. These children are American citizens. Their plight deserves our explicit attention.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRJALVA. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time in opposition to this amendment, although I am not opposed to the amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Arizona?

There was no objection.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Arizona is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GRJALVA. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Puerto Rico (Mr. PIERLUISI), the commissioner from Puerto Rico.

Mr. PIERLUISI. Mr. Chairman, I thank Congressman GRJALVA.

I rise to support this thoughtful amendment and to thank its authors, Congressman JOLLY and Congressman CURBELO, both from Florida.

Florida is home to over 1 million individuals of Puerto Rican birth or descent, and will soon pass New York as the State with the largest Puerto Rican population. Many of the Puerto Rican families in Florida are recent arrivals, having relocated from Puerto Rico to the Sunshine State in search of the equality and economic opportunity that they lack on the island.

I also want to thank the organization Jubilee USA, which has been a constructive player in the debate over PROMESA.

This amendment requires the Congressional Task Force on Economic Growth in Puerto Rico, created by section 409 of the bill, to report on recommended changes to Federal policy that would reduce child poverty in Puerto Rico.

I do not want to prejudge the work of the task force, so I will simply say this: poverty in Puerto Rico, including child poverty, is far higher than in any State in the Nation, and it has been far higher for as long as statistics have been available. This demonstrates that the problem is structural in nature. It is rooted in the unequal treatment that Puerto Rico receives under key Federal anti-poverty programs, which is only permissible because Puerto Rico is a territory rather than a State. To reduce poverty, we must end unequal treatment, and to end unequal treatment, Puerto Rico must discard its territorial status in favor of statehood or nationhood.

Mr. JOLLY. Mr. Chair, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRJALVA. Mr. Chair, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York (Mr. SERRANO).

Mr. SERRANO. Mr. Chair, I was not planning to speak, but when I heard Bishop Gonzalez’ name mentioned, I had to say something because he was my parish priest at two different parishes in the Bronx, and if he wants this discussed, then it is something I should rise to and support. He always cared about child poverty in the Bronx when he was my parish priest. Now, as I tell him he is a big shot in Puerto Rico, he is still doing the right thing by God’s work.

Mr. JOLLY. Mr. Chair, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRJALVA. Mr. Chair, in closing, let me thank and commend the gentleman from Florida for this very good amendment. I think it dovetails with the rest of the legislation very well as the gentleman addresses some of the indices in Puerto Rico that require attention—the challenges around poverty that the Puerto Rican people face. It is not often in this Chamber that we talk about poverty. The gentleman is to be commended, and I support the amendment.

Mr. Chair, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. JOLLY. Mr. Chair, in closing, I urge my colleagues to support this very important amendment.

Do the right thing for the very least among us—those children on the island who are facing significant challenges of poverty—so that we, as a body, might respond better to the right policies that address their very real needs. I urge the passage of this amendment.

Mr. Chair, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. JOLLY).

The amendment was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 1 OFFERED BY MR. BYRNE

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 4 printed in House Report 114–610.

Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Chair, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Page 115, line 20, strike ‘‘The’’ and insert ‘‘Not later than 18 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the’’.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 770, the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. BYRNE) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Alabama.

Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Chair, I thank Chairman BISHOP for his leadership on this issue. This has not been an easy task, but he has provided great leadership, and I appreciate it.
I also thank Mr. Graves of Louisiana and Mr. Polis for their amendment at the committee level, which requires a report from the Government Accountability Office that outlines how Puerto Rico reached this point of fiscal insolvency.

My amendment is very straightforward. It would simply set a deadline for the GAO to submit this report within 18 months of the enactment of this bill. Mr. Graves and Mr. Polis are co-sponsors of my amendment, and they agree that setting a deadline is important.

We must figure out how Puerto Rico got to this point in order to avoid another territory’s finding itself in a similar position at some point down the road. I believe having this report and receiving it in a timely manner will, hopefully, go a long way towards preventing a similar situation in the future. This amendment is about accountability, and I urge its adoption.

Mr. Chair, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. Byrne).

The amendment was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5 OFFERED BY MR. BYRNE
The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 5 printed in House Report 114–610.

Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Chair, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

SEC. 411. REPORT ON TERRITORIAL DEBT.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than one year after the date of the enactment of this Act, and thereafter not less than once every two years, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to Congress a report on the public debt of each territory, including—

(1) the historical levels of each territory’s public debt, current amount and composition of each territory’s public debt, and future projections of each territory’s public debt;

(2) the historical levels of each territory’s revenue, current amount and composition of each territory’s revenue, and future projections of each territory’s revenue;

(3) the drivers and composition of each territory’s public debt;

(4) the effect of Federal laws, mandates, rules, and regulations on each territory’s public debt; and

(5) the ability of each territory to repay its public debt.

(b) MATERIALS.—The government of each territory shall make available to the Comptroller General of the United States all materials necessary to carry out this section.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 770, the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. Byrne) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Alabama.

Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Chair, as we have heard over and over again today, this Congress has plenary authority over our territories. Over the course of the last century, this body has rightly delegated this power to provide for home rule for our territories. However, it is abundantly clear that this delegation of power has resulted in no oversight by the Federal Government over the debts that our territories are running up.

In this particular case, out of the blue, we have been told by the United States Treasury that it is our constitutional responsibility to do something to save a territory from years of its own irresponsible fiscal policy. For years, the entire Federal Government was, essentially, asleep at the wheel as one of our territories ran up huge, unsustainable debts until the day arose when the territory could no longer pay. Mr. Chair, I have absolutely no interest in interfering with the home rule of our territories. However, delegated authority can be abused. If we have a constitutional responsibility to intervene to prevent territorial insolvency, we are duty-bound to do so. I am not willing to lose minimal oversight into the large debts that some of our territories are running up. My amendment is simple. It requires a biennial report to Congress on the debt of each territory, the drivers of territorial insolvency, and the effect of Federal policy on each territory’s debt, and the ability of each territory to repay its debt. This will help us provide that minimal oversight.

Unfortunately, Mr. Chair, the very agency that is coming to Congress and asking us to help Puerto Rico—the United States Treasury—has refused to provide this report to Congress, claiming it lacks resources. Let’s be clear. The Department of the Treasury was appropriated $11.9 billion for this fiscal year, and they claim a lack of resources to put together a simple report on five tiny territories. That is astonishing. It is also irresponsible.

In response to the Department of the Treasury offering a compromise, I would take one Treasury report on territorial debt if the Treasury would simply agree to monitor and advise us of what is going on with these territorial governments and what we should do to prevent insolvency.

According to the Treasury, this was even worse. It would represent an unprecedented expansion into the finances and solvency of a U.S. sovereign. Apparently, this administration doesn’t like the Territorial Clause of the Constitution being used at the very last minute to save Puerto Rico.

I don’t blame Puerto Rico for this. I blame the United States Treasury for this. If the United States Treasury is unwilling to do its job, I have changed the text of my amendment to require the GAO to put together this biennial report, and I look forward to seeing its results.

Last night, Mr. Chair, in the Rules Committee meeting, we heard testimony from the representatives of two other territories, who told us that they are concerned that their territories are sliding in the same direction as Puerto Rico’s while the Treasury Department sleeps. Since the Treasury Department won’t take responsibility and do its job, we are going to do our job through the GAO.

I hope my colleagues will join me in doing something to fix this problem before another crisis is upon us. Perhaps, then, we can even get the Treasury and the rest of the Federal Government to wake up. If they don’t, I will have a lot less sympathy the next time they come asking for our help.

Mr. Chair, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRIJALVA. Mr. Chair, I rise in opposition to this amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Arizona is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GRIJALVA. Mr. Chair, this amendment requires the GAO to submit reports every 2 years to the Congress about the public debt and about the ability to pay for the Territories. While the debt crisis in Puerto Rico is, indeed, serious and real, there is no indication that any other territory faces a similar crisis.

The base bill already includes reporting requirements. Requiring more reporting to cover the territories is unwarranted as well as being a waste of the GAO’s limited time to provide more important reports to Congress.

A number of States and localities on the mainland face much more precarious budget situations than do the other territories. We don’t need any more focus on U.S. territories when there is no reason to believe such onerous reporting is really required or justified.

Mr. Chair, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Chair, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Utah (Mr. Bischak).

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chair, there is an old line from the play “1776,” when Stephen Hopkins says: Mr. Chair, I have never seen, heard, or smelled an issue so dangerous it couldn’t be talked about. Hell, yes, I am for debating anything.

This is one of those situations in which you have never seen, heard, or smelled anything that shouldn’t be studied. The information could be vital, and it could be helpful. For that, I urge and support this amendment.

Mr. GRIJALVA. Mr. Chair, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BYRNE. Mr. Chair, I listened to the gentleman’s comments, and I have to tell you, if there is enough in this bill for us to question the Treasury not say that to us? They didn’t say that to us because they know there needs to be a report done. They just don’t want to take the responsibility for doing it. I think this amendment is definitely necessary for us to make sure we are doing our job in exercising our constitutional responsibility.

I reserve the balance of my time.
The irresponsibility of the Treasury Department in not giving this information to us months ago when they knew it was happening or when they should have been happening underlines the need for this. I am putting it on the GAO in this particular amendment, but in the years to come, we need to expect the Treasury to do its job, because it has failed to do so in this circumstance.

I ask the House to adopt my amendment.

Mr. Chair, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GRJALVA. Mr. Chair, a recent report from the U.S. Public Interest Research Group Education Fund rated all 50 States on whether they made transparent budget and spending information available to the public. My own State of Arizona received a grade of a D, so we have some work to do there. The State of Alabama, however, received the grade of a D, placing it fourth from the bottom of all States.

From that, it seems clear, if our goal is budget and spending transparency, perhaps our focus should be on our budget and spending transparency, but in the years to come, we need to expect the Treasury to do its job, because it has failed to do so in this circumstance.

amendment. I also want to thank Congressman DON YOUNG, a steadfast champion for fair treatment for Puerto Rico who is also a cosponsor of this amendment.

The primary purpose of this amendemment is to increase small business activity and promote job creation in Puerto Rico.

The HUBZone program supports ecodlonomically distressed communities throughout the Nation. If the poverty rate or median income in a census tract meets a certain threshold, it is designated as a qualified census tract.

Small businesses located in a qualified census tract can compete for Federal contracts with preference, assuming they meet all other criteria established by law.

However, there is a statutory cap which prevents the combined population of the qualified census tracts within the Metropolitan Statistical Area from exceeding 20 percent of the total population of that area. Although the cap applies nationwide, it has a uniquely negative impact in Puerto Rico. Small firms located in over 60 municipalities in Puerto Rico cannot take advantage of the HUBZone program solely because of the cap. No other U.S.

State or territory comes anywhere close to being as adversely affected by the cap as Puerto Rico.

To promote economic development in Puerto Rico, which is absolutely essential if the territory is going to prosper, our amendment would remove the cap for Puerto Rico for 10 years or until the independent oversight board established by the legislation terminates, whichever occurs first. Based on the best available statistics, this amendment ensures that small firms located in over 80 percent of the census tracts in Puerto Rico may be eligible to area certification for Federal contracts, which should create additional employment opportunities on the island. The amendment will only extend the HUBZone programs to those census tracts in Puerto Rico that would have qualified for the program in the absence of the cap. So it does not constitute an unwarranted expansion of the HUBZone program.

I urge my colleagues to vote "yes"
on this amendment.

AMENDMENT NO. 7 OFFERED BY MR. SERRANO

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 7 printed in

Mr. SERRANO. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will
designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as folows:

At the end of title IV, insert the following:

SEC. 411. DETERMINATION ON DEBT.

Nothing in this Act shall be interpreted to restrict—

(1) the ability of the Puerto Rico Commission for the Comprehensive Audit of the Public Credit to file its reports; or

(2) the review and consideration of the Puerto Rico Commission’s findings by Puerto Rico’s government or an Oversight Board for Puerto Rico established under section 101.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 770, the gentleman from New York (Mr. SERRANO) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York.

Mr. SERRANO. Mr. Chairman, this amendment offered by Ms. VELÁZQUEZ and myself would help clarify that this legislation would not impact the work being done by the Puerto Rico Commis-ion for the Comprehensive Audit of the Public Credit.

This entity, set up by Puerto Rico’s Government, is in the process of examining the massive debt that has been accrued by the territory. In a preliminary report, the commission recently found that a small portion of the debt may have been illegally issued by the government of Puerto Rico, and they need to further examine the issue and its implications.

This amendment simply preserves the ability of this commission to continue their work and for either the government or the oversight board to review and consider any findings that the commission might have. The work being done by the commission could significantly assist both the oversight board and the Puerto Rican Government as the island tries to get back on its feet.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chair, I claim time in opposition, even though I am not opposed to this particular amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. Without objection, the gentleman is recognized for 5 minutes.

There was no objection.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chair, I want to make it very clear that this particular amendment does not override the authority of the oversight board. But because of that, I do support the amendment, and I urge its adoption.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SERRANO. Mr. Chair, I yield
3 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Ms. VELÁZQUEZ), my sister from Yabucoa, Puerto Rico.

Ms. VELÁZQUEZ. Mr. Chair, I represent New York’s Seventh Congressional District.

I rise in strong support of the Serrano-Velázquez amendment.

Throughout the course of this entire saga, it has become increasingly clear that Puerto Rico’s debt is not fully undone.

The island has issued 18 different classes of debt—many of which have been unconstitutional. The Government of Puerto Rico has not been able to meet its obligations, and the result is a web of confusion.

To address this, the Puerto Rico
Commission for the Comprehensive Audit of the Public Credit was created to examine all of the island’s debt, something that is very much needed.

The audit will not only inform the people of Puerto Rico, but also, in many ways, will assist the oversight board in carrying out its mission. Analyzing and assessing all of the island’s $70 billion in debt is long overdue.

Recently, the commission released a preliminary report finding that a small percentage of the debt may have violated the island’s constitution. Such a finding is meaningful and could have ramifications for this legislation’s implementation.

However, this amendment does not oversee the Oversight Board for Puerto Rico while also allowing the local government and the Oversight Board to consider these findings if they so desire.

In summary, this amendment would allow for much-needed sunlight to be shown on the island’s financial situation.

I urge Members to support this amendment. Mr. SERRANO. Mr. Chair, I even everyone to vote for the amendment. I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. SERRANO).

The amendment was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 8 OFFERED BY MRS. TORRES

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 8 printed in

Ms. TORRES. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will
designate the amendment.
Mrs. TORRES. Mr. Chairman, I yield an additional 30 seconds to the gentleman.

Mr. GRAYSON. This is the lesson that we are teaching those young men and women who are supposedly trying to help. The lesson is this: hop on an airplane from San Juan to any district in Orlando for $168, and you can get a 70 percent increase in your wages because that is what the difference is already under current law between what you are talking about, a $4.25 hourly wage and $7.25 that you can earn legally—it is actually more than that under State law—in Orlando. That is not teaching people how to work. It is teaching people to disrespect work.

Mrs. TORRES. Mr. Chairman, how much time do I have remaining?

The Acting CHAIR. The gentlewoman has 1/2 minutes remaining.

Mrs. TORRES. Mr. Chairman, someone living in Puerto Rico needs to make $9.25 an hour to afford a one-bedroom apartment. If the wage is lowered to $4.25, not even two earners could afford to live there.

Mr. Chairman, there is no question that Puerto Rico will need to make sacrifices, but it can’t do so on the backs of its young workforce, American citizens. This provision does not fix Puerto Rico’s problems, and in the long run, it makes them worse.

I urge my colleagues to support my amendment so that Puerto Rico’s recovery doesn’t come at the expense of young, hardworking Americans.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TORRES).

The question was taken; and the Acting Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.

DIRECTING THE SECRETARY OF THE SENATE TO MAKE TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS IN THE ENGROSSMENT OF S. 2328

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Speaker, I send to the desk a concurrent resolution asking unanimous consent for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk reads the title of the concurrent resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Utah?

There was no objection.

The text of the concurrent resolution is as follows:

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That in the enrollment of the bill S. 2328, the Secretary of the Senate shall make the following correction: Amend the long title so as to read: ‘‘An Act to establish an Oversight Board to assist the Government of Puerto Rico, including instrumentalities, in managing its public finances, and for other purposes.’’

The concurrent resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER OF THE HOUSE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Chief Administrative Officer of the House of Representatives:

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER, HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.
Washington, DC, June 8, 2016,
Hon. PAUL D. RYAN, Speaker, House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR Mr. SPEAKER: This is to notify you formally pursuant to Rule VIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives that I have been served with a grand jury subpoena for documents, issued by the United States District Court for the Middle District of Florida.

After consultation with the Office of General Counsel, I have determined that compliance with the subpoena is consistent with the privileges and rights of the House.

Sincerely,

WILL PLASTER, Chief Administrative Officer.
spending and safeguards taxpayer dollars.

Another part of our effort to respect taxpayers was the orderly shutdown of the Open World Leadership Center, which is outdated, and a multimillion-dollar-a-year program that no longer will exist.

Additionally, we continue the freeze on Members’ pay. Now, this was a simple decision for me. If our constituents aren’t getting a raise in this economy, then we shouldn’t either.

Now, it is also worth noting that the Capitol Dome Restoration project is on time and it is under budget. In fact, my office has had a little fun with this, posting pictures each day on social media of the progress of the scaffolding coming off the dome, using the hashtag “Free the Dome.”

We also have a family-themed bill this year. We have worked with Members on both sides of the aisle to make certain that baby-changing stations are available throughout all the House office buildings and in the Capitol. Visiting the Capitol with a new baby can be difficult enough. Young mothers and fathers traveling with their children in tow should have the appropriate facilities available to them, and now they will.

Additionally, with so many mothers-to-be working for the House of Representatives through their pregnancies, the committee wants to ensure that these working moms have access to convenient parking.

Of course, we have also carried on the new tradition of sledding on Capitol Hill. Again this winter, children and adults alike living in the area can sled on the west front of the Capitol—something that, unfortunately, was banned before we changed it last year.

Simply put, this bill makes the Capitol more inviting and accessible to young families.

I would, of course, like to thank the ranking member for her role throughout the process of writing this bill and all the members of our committee for their hard work and their valuable contributions. In seeing this bill through the committee process, a good bill was made even better. Together, we have received and worked through more than 200 submissions from Republicans and Democrats, appropriators and non-appropriators, many of which we have included in this legislation.

We continued conversations with Members of both the majority and the minority up to and through full committee markup, and saw an amendment process that incorporated proposals from both sides of the aisle, including additional resources to better serve our constituents, increased savings dedicated to the Historic Buildings Revitalization Trust Fund, and support for efforts to enhance the security of the Capitol campus.

I would also like to thank all of the staff on both sides of the aisle who have worked on the bill this year. In particular, I am appreciative of the hard work Liz Dawson, Tim Monahan and Shalanda Young, and, of course, Jenny Panone who really stepped up to the plate after we lost our good friend, Chuck Turner.

As a longtime professional staff member of this subcommittee, Chuck has been missed this appropriations season. The appropriations family just isn’t the same without him, and I want to express my continued sympathies to his family, his friends, and those he worked so closely with all these years.

I would also like to thank Jason Murphy and John Donnelly in my personal office, as well Sarah Arkin and Rosalyn Kumar from Ranking Member WASSERMAN SCHULTZ’s office.

Finally, I would like to note the important contributions that Congressman SAM FARR and Congressman SCOTT RIGELL both have made to our subcommittee. Their hard work and dedication has been extremely valuable, and they will be dearly missed by our subcommittee and by this body.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

1/ FY2016 funds provided in Continuing Appropriations Act, 2015 (Public Law 114-53)
2/ FY2015 to Sec. 9 of Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2016 (Public Law 114-113)
Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the Legislative Branch Appropriations bill is a total of $3.481 billion—$72 million above the fiscal year 2016 funding levels. That is a 2.4 percent increase over the year 2015 level, which was enacted in the Legislative Branch Appropriations bill—does not have to absorb such large projects to the detriment of other worthy programs.

While there are many positives in this bill, Mr. Chairman, there are also some issues that we move through the process. One particularly troublesome issue is that the report accompanying this bill includes language seeking to influence the Library of Congress’ process to change its subject headings related to immigration.

The Library of Congress decided in March of this year to begin using the terms “noncitizens” and “unauthorized immigration” for cataloging purposes. They did so after being petitioned by Dartmouth College in 2014—a petition they turned down initially—and then again by the American Library Association earlier this year.

In January of this year, the American Library Association adopted a resolution calling on the Library of Congress to change the heading “illegal aliens” to “undocumented immigrants.”

Now, these are search terms. The Library of Congress uses subject headings to help people find topics based on what they are appropriately to be called. The Library did not adopt the term “undocumented immigrants” but chose to begin to use the two phrases “noncitizens” and “unauthorized immigration.” The new subject headings are still in the process of being considered, as the public will have 60 days to comment on them.

The fact that this project is ongoing makes the inclusion of report language even more problematic.

How can the Library of Congress be expected to go through a fair and open comment period with this language included in the report accompanying the appropriations bill?

My side of the aisle could have certainly pushed to have the Library of Congress reconsider its decision after the Dartmouth petition was turned down in 2014 because many Democrats and Republicans believe that the term “illegal alien” labels a group of people based on what terms they use in their subject headings. The word “illegal” implicitly to be called. The Library did not adopt the term “undocumented immigrants” but chose to begin to use the two phrases “noncitizens” and “unauthorized immigration.”

The new subject headings are still in the process of being considered, as the public will have 60 days to comment on them.

The Register of Copyrights on copyright-related issues. The Copyright Office is within the Library of Congress, it has unique functions that make it necessary to have a strong leader that can answer to Congress and the copyright community when issues arise. The Register of Copyrights should have the freedom to make decisions and be responsive to the copyright community.

I am also happy to see increased funding for the Historic Buildings Revitalization Trust Fund. This is the same fund that we used to save for the downpayment on the Cannon Building Restoration.

This bill provides $17 million for the fund, which is $7 million above fiscal year 2016 funding. I thank the chairman for working with me to sustain this important program.

We requested this trust fund after the construction of the Capitol Visitor Center. That project was over budget by fourfold, and its management was, frankly, an embarrassment. It was an example of ballooning government projects that pull resources away from other worthy initiatives.

The trust fund was created to avoid the pitfalls of the CVC project by creating a reserve of funds that can be used for future large-scale projects. We must put our forward-thinking caps and look 10 to 20 years down the road so that we save appropriately for large-scale projects. This long-term thinking will ensure that our smallest appropriations bill—the Legislative Branch Appropriations bill—does not have to absorb such large projects to the detriment of other worthy programs.

We started the trust fund after the downpayment on the Cannon Building Restoration. The bill provides the Copyright Modernization Project and the Historic Buildings Revitalization Trust Fund.

The bill provides the Copyright Modernization Project with a 17 percent increase. This critical funding will enable the Copyright Office to hire the necessary staff to begin to make technological advancements to improve the way they do business. It is unacceptable in the year 2016 that copyright users cannot make certain requests via paper in the 21st century. That is inefficient and a drag on commerce that is dependent on the copyright system.

There is also report language included that makes it clear that the Library of Congress shall continue to defer to the Register of Copyrights on all copyright-related issues. While the Copyright Office is within the Library of Congress, it has unique functions that make it necessary to have a strong leader that can answer to Congress and the copyright community when issues arise. The Register of Copyrights should have the freedom to make decisions and be responsive to the copyright community.

There is a small increase provided by this bill, the Capitol Police budget increases by $325.3 million. This would increase funding for the Capitol Police by 5 percent, above the 8 percent increase they received in the current fiscal year.

We should value and respect the officers on staff, but I think many Members will join me in raising a skeptical eye when they realize this bill would add 72 new officers and bring the total number of officers to close to 1,900.

Just as mayors and city councils across the country have to balance law enforcement with other city services like repairing aging infrastructure, so must Congress. In the near future, the congressional leadership and committee of jurisdiction will need to have a serious discussion about the appropriate size of the Capitol Police. The officers I speak to don’t complain about not having enough officers, but, rather, about decisions on how the officers they do have are deployed by police leadership. It is fiscally irresponsible to grow the police at this rate.

As Member and committee budgets have been cut, Congress has had to rely on support agencies to fill the gaps in staff expertise. One of those agencies, Mr. Chairman, is the Congressional Research Service, or CRS.

CRS was funded in the bill at $107.9 million, $1 million above the fiscal year 2016 enacted level. At the level included in the bill, CRS remains $4.6 million below the fiscal year 2010 levels. According to CRS, recent funding levels have led to a loss of 13 percent of its purchasing power since 2010.

The $1 million increase provided by this bill, the Capitol Police budget increases by $325.3 million. This would increase funding for the Capitol Police by 5 percent, above the 8 percent increase they received in the current fiscal year.

The $1 million incremental appropriation for CRS’ current staff. CRS’ budget request sought to rebuild the agency. They asked for two defense policy staff, five health policy staff, three education policy staff, two budget and appropriation staff, four technology policy staff, and two data management and analysis staff. None of those staffs will be funded under the bill before us, therefore, denying Congress of an unbiased analysis of these critical policy areas.

Before concluding, Mr. Chairman, I also want to join the chairman in acknowledging the loss of our beloved Chuck Turner. I had the privilege of working with Chuck when I was the chairman of this committee, and he has served both sides of the aisle with integrity, commitment, and love of this institution. His loss was tremendous for the entire Appropriations family, and he will be greatly missed on both sides of the aisle.

I also want to issue a big thanks to Liz Dawson, the majority clerk and her staff, Jenny Panone and Tim Monahan. Many to John, Tom, and Marsha with Chairman Graves’ personal office. Thank you to my team, Shalanda Young on the committee’s minority staff who has worked tirelessly on those issues, but certainly not least, thank you to my personal staff, Rosalyn Kumar and Sarah Arkin.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. ROGERS of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Kentucky (Mr. ROGERS), the chairman of the full Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. ROGERS of Kentucky. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today to support the Legislative Branch Appropriations bill that is before us. This is the third of the 12 bills to make it to the floor. We have passed eight of the bills through the full committee, and 10 of them through the subcommittees. But this bill provides the important funding that Congress needs to do our work on behalf of the American people.

First, I want to express the hallowed halls of this very building, to providing services for our constituents, to funding the agencies that keep us informed and in check, the $3.48 billion in this bill supports the largest and freest democracy the world has ever known.

In total, our funding is increased slightly—$73 million above current levels. That increase is directed to essential health and safety improvements to aging facilities as well as critical needs of this institution, including staff shortages, enhanced security, repairs to aging buildings and infrastructure, and preservation at the Library of Congress, among others.

Unfortunately, rather than focus on these institutions’ value to the public, House Republicans went out of their way to include provisions that ignore these issues, and partisan agenda that wastes taxpayer dollars.

First of all, House Republicans inserted language meant to appease the extreme members of their party by conference by directing the Library of Congress to use the term “illegal alien” in its subject headings for searches rather than the Library’s preferred “noncitizens” or “unauthorized immigration.” This unnecessary interference into the routine work of the Library of Congress politicizes a change meant to help provide the most up-to-date, thorough information.

The inclusion of such language is sadly nothing new for the subcommittee. In the past few years, the majority has spent close to $7 million on a partisan, political Benghazi investigation; $2.3 million defending the Defense of Marriage Act; and is now engaging in shameful, unprecedented attacks on biomedical researchers and women’s health.

Frankly, I am outraged at how the majority on the Select Investigative Panel is conducting its business. The majority’s witch hunt of researchers, including scientists, physicians, and even graduate students, will have real consequences that harm medical advances, and are nothing more than a political charade and waste of taxpayer money. Their request for information and subpoenas without any assertion of wrongdoing are an abuse of authority, a violation of House oversight practices, and a page out of the McCarthyite bullying tactics that mar our legislative process. The panel should be disbanded immediately.

It is unacceptable that we cannot move appropriation bills forward in a bipartisan manner because Republicans would rather play partisan politics with taxpayer dollars than deal with the pressing challenges facing this institution and this country.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Before I recognize my friend from Illinois, I have the deepest respect for... the ranking member of the full committee, Mrs. LOWEY. I know that she represents what she believes very well and eloquently.

But I must point out for clarification, for the RECORD, really what the reporters, I think that is important. I think words are important. I listened very intently to what was shared a minute ago that this committee is directing the Library of Congress to use certain words. She even used certain terms that she said we are prescribing them to use, such as “illegal alien” or “illegal immigrant.” In fact, this is what the committee passed in subcommittee and full committee.

It says:

Now, I read it several times and I saw it in committee, but nowhere in there do I see any specific terms used. It just says can you be consistent with U.S. Code.

I will point out that we are Congress, and they are the Library of Congress. We write laws, and it is important that the Library of Congress reference and refer to the laws that we have written. I will also note that the gentlewoman is also a Member of Congress and has the full ability—and since the subcommittee meeting when we had this first discussion, I have yet to see the bill since it was introduced to change any terminology in the U.S. Code. I have not seen it. I don’t know, Mr. Chairman, if you have seen it. I have not seen it, and I look forward to seeing it.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Will the gentlewoman yield?

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I am glad to hear there is legislation to address their concerns. I think that is the appropriate way. What better way to make that legislation more applicable than to identify here in this legislation the language that is referenced in title 8 could be used. I think that is the right way to go forward.

But to suggest that asking the Library of Congress to use terms that are consistent with the laws of this land that this body has voted on, that the Senate has voted on, and that the President of the United States has signed into law, in some way, pejorative; words that have been used by the Supreme Court just in recent weeks are pejorative, inflammatory, and dehumanizing, I would suggest to the minority that even some of the most liberal justices have used the term “illegal alien” or “illegal immigrant” just in the last couple of weeks and they are not racist, they are not using negative terms, they are not dehumanizing any individual, they are using U.S. law terminology.

I can understand the disagreement with the terms, I can respect that, but I do not think that this is the right way to do it. I think the debate this evening shows us that the majority get away with it.

I will point out that Congress- Mr. RODNEY DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Chairman, I really would like to thank Chairman GRAVES for his leadership on this issue.

I think the debate this evening shows us what part of the problem is when we try to follow the majority’s constitutional appropriations process to spend money wisely that the taxpayers send to Washington, D.C., to spend it wisely on their behalf.

It is less likely these issues that bog down the debate, instead of talking about doing what is right for the upwards of 5 million families that tour our Capitol Grounds each and every year. It becomes a political debate, rather than a debate on how to effectively use taxpayer dollars to ensure that one of the most popular destinations for families, hardworking families, to spend their money to vacation right here in the Capitol, to make sure we spend that wisely so that they have better facilities. The terminology exactly what this bill does, Mr. Chairman.

I want to, again, thank all of those who served on this subcommittee from both sides of the aisle, because we have to get back. What our Forefathers have put forth on how we should spend money in this House, and how we regain the power of the purse.

As I said, upwards of 5 million families from across the Nation come see their government at work each year. I am pleased this bill contains report language that will make it easier for families with infants and small children to visit the Capitol, House and Senate Office buildings by implementing additional changing stations and other family-friendly improvements throughout this Capitol Hill complex.

Mr. Chairman, I say this as the father of twin boys. Trust me, changing stations when they were younger were very, very important. We should make it as easy as possible for families with young children to visit and explore Capitol Hill and our complexes. Minor improvements and changes along these lines can make a huge difference in improving the experience for visitors.

I look forward to working with the Architect of the Capitol in my capacity as a member of the Committee on House Administration to complete these important changes. I will continue to look for ways to work in a bipartisan manner to make our Capitol family-friendly.

Mr. Chairman, I urge passage of this bill.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I will point out that it is not a criminal act to be in the United States as an immigrant. The suggestion in the 21st century that the term “illegal alien” is an appropriate one is similar to suggesting that we continue to use the term “Negro.”

We evolve in this country, and it is understandable that someone who was native to a country of a group of immigrants wouldn’t understand that this term could feel pejorative. So we, as a responsible body, should evolve as society evolves.

To continue to insist that the Library of Congress by law use pejorative terms that they have been petitioned to change by the American Library Association so that researchers can search for the appropriate term when they are doing research is truly unbelievable. To be so committed to racist and bigoted terms that really have no place in the Legislative Branch Appropriations bill is outrageous.

That is why this language should have been deleted. I think it is truly unfortunate that the majority did not have at least the courage to allow my amendment and Congressman CASTRO’s amendment to be made in order so that we could have a proper debate on this subject on the floor of the House of Representatives.

Chair. Members are reminded to direct their remarks to the Chair.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

If I heard the ranking member correctly, she said that somebody who is undocumented in this country, who is not from this country, is not here illegally. I thought I heard that, and I hope I heard it correctly.

I will point out that the Immigration and Nationality Act, section 237(a)(1)(b) reads, in fact—and this is law that was voted on by this body and that was signed into law by the President of the United States, who was elected by the people—that aliens who are present in the U.S. in violation of immigration code are breaking the law and are deportable. That is U.S. law. That is not the majority’s opinion; that is the law. Aliens who can’t get into this country are not an individual’s opinion. That is the law of this land. Now, you can disagree with those laws, and you can disagree with the terminology, but that is the law.

That is the law, in fact, to the point that, in Arizona v. United States, in 2012, Justice Sotomayor asked:

So how—where do they get the records that show that this person is an illegal alien that is not authorized to be here?

Was she being racist? Pejorative? Demagoguing? I don’t think so. I don’t agree with all of her decisions, but I don’t believe that that was her intent when she broached that question there.

I will point out this provision—maybe I should read it again. I will read it again for the ranking member.

To the extent practicable, the committee instructs the Library to maintain certain subject headings that reflect terminology used in title VIII of the United States Code.

That is all it says. It is right here. There is nothing about demagoguing about that. This provision, in fact, was created in consultation, Mr. Chair, with the Library of Congress. Imagine that.

In working with the Library of Congress, we were able to come up with that language. Existing subject headings, including the term “illegal alien,” have been used for years and have been enshrined in law for 100 years. There is nothing new. Supreme Court Justice Thomas pointed out, have used it time and time and time again.

Now, if the Library of Congress adopted the practice of responding to every instance in which there is a perceived offense, it would impact their ability to prioritize the quality of service they provide to patrons every day. We are, actually, helping the Library here. We are not telling them what words to use. We are just saying hey, be consistent with U.S. law. That keeps it pretty simple, I believe.

Mr. Chair, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Before we passed the Civil Rights Act and the Voting Rights Act in the 1960s and when we had the Jim Crow laws, which were an unfortunate stain on our history, there were plenty of people who said that the laws that were in place were doing a favor to Negroes, which is the way they were referred to at the time. For the chairman to suggest that we are doing the Library of Congress a favor by requiring them to continue to use a term that they have been petitioned to stop using, “illegal alien,” is insensitive, inappropriate, outdated, and political.

This is the Legislative Branch Appropriations bill. We are supposed to be discussing how to fund the functions of the legislative branch, and we have just spent an extraordinary amount of time debating the immigration debate that has been raging in this country for far too long.

I guess I shouldn’t be surprised that the majority believes that we should continue to label people as “illegal.” People aren’t illegal. Acts that are committed are illegal, but people are not illegal. Mr. Chair. That is, simply, why the American Library Association, the umbrella policy organization for libraries across this country, has petitioned the Library of Congress to change the use of the term “illegal alien.”

What the majority is doing here, as I said, is setting Congress up as the word police. Where are we going to stop? There are thousands of subject headings that they change at the Library of Congress every year. I can’t imagine how many pages this bill will be when we start referencing and spending time arguing over what they call each of those. It is inappropriate; it is unacceptable; it is a complete waste of time. It injects politics into a bill that is usually and, most often, doesn’t have it.

It is unfortunate that the funding of the Planned Parenthood select committee and that the funding of the Benghazi Select Committee have continued to politicize a bill that should, simply, be an effort for us to make sure that we can sustain the most significant beacon of democracy that the world has ever seen.

Mr. Chair. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

It is remarkable that we are actually spending so much time on this; but we must point out the agency who is watching that we have had 7½ years of an executive who wants to ignore our laws. We have had 7½ years of overreach by the executive branch, of its totally ignoring the laws that have been passed by this body, and just poking us in the eye, saying, I don’t care about the legislative branch. I don’t care about the laws of the land. In fact, I will ignore them, and I will instruct my agencies to do something different.

Yet, I hear it again from the minority that they want to ignore the words, the terms, the definitions, the definitions of the very laws of this land. What message does that send to the youth of our country? What message does that send to law-abiding citizens in our country, that there is a party in Washington, D.C., that, for whatever reason, wants to pick and choose which laws they want to uphold and defend, or which laws or words or terms or definitions in the laws that they will acknowledge or not acknowledge?

We are a Nation of laws. Whether we agree with the laws or we don’t, whether we agree with the terminology or we don’t, we have all been elected by 700,000-plus constituency districts in this country. We can choose. This is the opportunity to do it for the minority party if they like. In fact, throughout our laws, these terms are used. Whether they are agreeable terms or not by the minority, those are the words that are in our laws.

I think we can all agree that the term “illegal alien” does not mean the human being is illegal. This is not an effort to demean anyone. We don’t even identify what terms the Library must use. We just say, Hey, please be consistent with U.S. Code. That is it. The simple fact is that immigrants, if they have entered this country illegally, are, in fact, illegal immigrants. According to U.S. Code, U.S. laws, they have committed a crime. It is not the job of this committee to create an alternate reality whatsoever. The laws are the laws.

Thankfully, the Supreme Court sees it the same way. We have Justice Sotomayor as using the term “illegal alien” a half a dozen times and the Court’s opinion Justice Kennedy, and he joined the Court’s more liberal block as well, using it a number of times. It is very consistent.
I recall it was, maybe, a year or two that the ranking member, on a different occasion, disagreed with me on another term. It was “ObamaCare.” We were having a debate about policies. Mr. Chair, and I used the term “ObamaCare.” She found it offensive, pejorative maybe, very negative, and she wanting to use a different term. I mean, I wish they would have had an opportunity to debate an amendment to delete. We should have had an opportunity to debate an amendment to eliminate the term “illegal alien.” It is inappropriate, used in a negative light. I believe she tried to strike my words during that time. So, if anybody is trying to be word police in this body, maybe it is the ranking member, who has a history of it.

Mr. Chair, I reserve the balance of my time.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY
Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chair, I have a parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIR. The gentlewoman will state her parliamentary inquiry.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Is it not appropriate for the ranking member and the chairman, when we are debating, to go through the Chair when we are having that debate?

The CHAIR. Members are reminded to direct their remarks to the Chair.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. I would ask that you remind the chairman to do so, please.

The CHAIR. Members have been reminded to direct their remarks to the Chair.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would point out that the gentleman from Georgia is absolutely correct. I did raise the issue and I thought it was appropriate to raise the concern that the way the majority meant the term “ObamaCare,” as applied at the time, was intended to be pejorative. Then President Obama embraced the term; so we evolved because President Obama decided that he liked his name would be associated with making sure that 20 million people who now have health insurance but who didn’t before would be associated with his name.

That is all that the American Library Association and the Library of Congress are asking with regard to the people who are labeled as “illegal aliens.” The gentleman from Georgia, it would be understood, is not someone who is labeled that way, so, perhaps, it is understandable that he would not understand why that was offensive.

The American Library Association and the Library of Congress have recognized beyond any term that has been determined to be pejorative is essential. That is called progress. That is called tolerance.

Unfortunately, the Legislative Branch Appropriations bill, through the relevant title VIII in the United States Code, requires, in this bill, the Library of Congress to continue to use the term “illegal alien.” It is inappropriate, unfortunate, and it should be deleted. We should have had an opportunity to debate an amendment to have allowed that to happen.

The majority chooses to hide the fact. I mean, I wish they would have just owned up to it. Mr. Chair, they should have just put it right up in the bill. I don’t know why they didn’t. If they think it is the right thing to do, they should have just put that term right in the bill and spelled out that they expect the Library of Congress to continue to use the term. Title VIII of the U.S. Code shows that they don’t have, necessarily, the courage of their convictions to stand up for that term. Why? Because there are a whole lot of people in this country who think it is offensive, including me and the Members of my party.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I am sorry this is taking so long tonight to reach the admission by the ranking member that this term does not exist in this bill. I mean, she just said it: Why didn’t they just be more explicit? Why didn’t he just use the term? In fact, he is hiding behind the U.S. Code. That is what I just heard from the ranking member.

As Americans, we don’t hide behind the U.S. Code. The U.S. Code is our defense; it is our shield. The laws of this land are what come from one another; so to suggest that one is hiding behind it when, in fact, we are defended by it is really amazing to hear tonight.

I am pleased to hear, though, that the ranking member has acknowledged that nowhere in this legislation do we direct the Library of Congress to use any term other than what is found in and is consistent with the U.S. Code. Mr. Chair, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

What I suggested was that, because the majority realizes that the term “illegal alien” is not something that is appropriate to continue to use as a subject heading, if they had spelled it straight out in the bill rather than hiding what their true intention was behind the reference to the U.S. Code, they probably would have had to have answered a little bit more closely to the fact that they were making this effort.

Now we have been able to at least have this discussion, and I am intentionally not to be able to shine a spotlight on the fact that the majority wishes to continue to label people as “illegal,” wishes to continue to politicize the legislative branch appropriations bill to inject the immigration debate into the funding of the legislative branch, and then set themselves up as the word police with regard to subject headings.

This is what we need our colleagues to wrap their minds around. Mr. Chair—requiring the Library to continue to use an offensive term in their subject headings so that researchers can’t use the term that the American Library Association has deemed more appropriate and not offensive. Instead, they insist on continuing to use an offensive term.

That is unacceptable. It is inappropriate. We are going to continue to insist, and I will not able to support this legislation as a result of the insistence of the majority on labeling an entire group of people “illegal” and politicizing this bill when the Library of Congress should be allowed to let the process work that works for thousands of other changes to their subject headings.

I will also point out, Mr. Chairman, that we do embrace evolution of terminology here. Just in May, a few weeks ago, we finally deleted the last vestiges of the terms “Oriental” and “Negro” from the United States Code. So we do have a process by which we take legislation like that that has been introduced by Congressman JOAQUIN CASTRO, and we allow it to move through the process. That is the appropriate way that we deal with discussion about changes in terminology in the code. We don’t hide it in this bill. We don’t hide it in the branch bill. That is exactly what the majority is doing by insisting that the Library of Congress continue to use that offensive term “illegal alien.”

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I recognize this has been an exciting and tantalizing debate this evening.

Whenever the gentlewoman from Florida is ready to close, I will be ready as well.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chair, how much time do I have remaining?

The CHAIR. The gentlewoman from Florida has 7 minutes remaining.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time to close.

I think it is unfortunate that myself and my colleagues on our side of the aisle don’t feel that we can lend our support to this legislation for a variety of reasons. First, there has been an overwhelming injection of politics into what should be an otherwise solid piece of legislation in which we have done a lot of good work to make sure that the function of the legislative branch are able to make sure that we can exercise our roles and responsibilities as Members of the legislative branch.

Unfortunately, due to the funding of the select committee on Planned Parenthood, which continues the witch hunt into an organization that simply exists to provide millions of women access to quality health care, in which there has been absolutely no evidence whatsoever that there was any wrongdoing, the majority continues to insist on taking the word that is designed to prevent women from getting access to quality, affordable health care.
It also continues funding for the Select Committee on Benghazi, an investigation in which the majority has actually admitted that they found absolutely no wrongdoing. Yet they have not disbanded the committee, and they continue to provide funding for it in this bill.

Lastly, as we have been able to spend a few minutes debating here on the floor, this bill tragically sets the legislative branch up as the word police and Members of Congress as the watchful sentinal over the uses of the terms and subject headings at the Library of Congress. I am glad that we are really carefully protecting the card catalog in the Library of Congress to make sure that we can continue to use offensive terms when researchers look them up in the Library of Congress, like "illegal alien."

This bill makes sure that, instead of evolving, instead of moving forward, instead of letting professionals who work for us to decide what terms should be used in their subject headings, Congress is going to establish ourselves as the word police, politicize something where we should not inject politics, and label people as "illegal." I agree that there should have been an opportunity for us to debate this issue separately. I am glad we have had an opportunity to discuss it here and to expose the majority for wanting to continue a bigoted, offensive term as the subject heading in the Library of Congress. I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time to close.

We have heard a lot tonight about why the minority is opposed to this bill. They are opposed to this bill because of what is not in it. Do you notice that? It is because of what is not in it.

They have yet to talk about the great things, the good things, and what this bill really is about. In fact, they are going to oppose this bill, as they did last year, just because of things that don't exist, that are absent.

I will point out, and I want to remind the chair and the committee, that this is really a good piece of legislation. It is very family friendly, which is one of our major focuses. We have thousands and thousands of visitors each year that come and visit this place, this Capitol Building, this historic beacon of hope for our country and for the world. Visitors come and visit our offices and tour the facilities, and we want it to be family friendly, safe and secure, and a welcoming environment. That is what this bill achieve.

It does that by providing something that is unique, something that I was very passionate about in my days in the State of Georgia, and that is doing zero-based budgeting, something very unique. It is not done in all the other appropriations bills, but it is done in this one, where every agency starts from zero and justifies each expense forward. That is what our constituents expect.

It even does it by eliminating the Open World Center, zeroing out, winding down, and eliminating a program that was in the 1980s when it was first founded. But it is time to wind it down, move on, and use those dollars for something else, changing priorities. That is what this committee was focused on.

It continues the Member pay freeze. As I stated earlier, when our constituents aren't getting a raise in this economy, the Obama economy, then I don't believe we should be getting a raise either. It eliminates that. It freezes that. We do this by also cutting the House budget by 13.2 percent since Republicans took the majority. That is something we don't share enough of. The House has taken the necessary steps to lead by example in cutting our budgets by 13.2 percent since taking the majority in 2010. So why not just use about 13.2, and then use about the Senate. I can't say the same about the executive branch, nor the judicial. But we can say that about our side, because we are leading by example.

Then it has a strong focus on consistent subject headings, something that should have been an opportunity for us to debate this issue separately. I am glad we have had an opportunity to discuss it here and to expose the majority for wanting to continue a bigoted, offensive term as the subject heading in the Library of Congress. I yield back the balance of my time.

Each such amendment may be offered only in the order printed in the report, by a Member designated in the report, shall be considered read, shall be debatable for the time specified in the report, and shall not be subject to a demand for division of the question.

It is now order to consider amendment No. 1 printed in House Report 114–611.

AMENDMENT NO. 2 OFFERED BY MR. ELLISON

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 2 printed in House Report 114–611.

Mr. ELLISON. Mr. Chair, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Page 4, line 22, after the first dollar amount, insert "(reduced by $1,000,000) (increased by $1,000,000)."

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 771, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. ELLISON) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Minnesota.

Mr. ELLISON. Mr. Chairman, we can raise living standards for working families across this country if we use Federal dollars to create good jobs.

My amendment would reprogram funds to create an office of good jobs within the Office of the Chief Administrative Officer. This office would help us ensure that the House’s procurement and contracting decisions encourage the creation of decently paid jobs, support collective bargaining rights, and encourage responsible employment practices. Our amendment does nothing to alter existing procurement, debarment, or contracting processes.

Right now, the U.S. Government is America’s leading low-wage job creator, funding over 2 million poverty jobs through contracts, loans, and grants in corporate America. That is more than the total number of low-wage workers employed by Walmart and McDonald’s combined.

Mr. Chairman, at this point, the Federal Government is leading the race to the bottom through its processes and its failure to capitalize on the procurement process. U.S. workers earn so little that nearly 40 percent use public assistance programs like food stamps and Section 8 to feed their families.

In other words, Mr. Chairman, because these jobs are paid so low that are awarded by the Federal Contractors, Uncle Sam has to subsidize these people, working people, because they are not getting paid enough by the Federal Contractors that employ them.

To add insult to injury, many of these low-wage U.S. contract workers are driven deeper into poverty because their employers steal their wages and break other Federal labor laws. Treating the people who work with us here at the Capitol with dignity and respect is absolutely essential.

It is intended that the appropriation for the Office of the Chief Administrative Officer’s procurement decisions encourage the creation of decently paid jobs, collective bargaining rights, and responsible employment practices. The office’s structure shall be substantially similar to the Centers for Faith-Based and Neighborhood Partnerships located within the Department of Education, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Department of Homeland Security, Department of Health and Human Services, Department of Labor, Department of Agriculture, Department of Commerce, Department of Veterans Affairs, Department of State, Small Business Administration, Environmental Protection Agency, Corporation for National and Community Service, and U.S. Agency for International Development.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chair, I know Mr. ELLISON is well-intended in his amendment. In fact, his amendment was offered during the House debate on the Energy and Water Appropriations bill just recently, and it was rejected by an overwhelming majority on a bipartisan basis. In fact, the vote was 174–245. I know his intentions are well-meaning, and he speaks well to the topic, but this amendment is no more appropriate in this context than it was previously. It ignores the fact that Congress operates an entirely different procurement system than other Federal agencies.

The House has an established procurement process that is in place to ensure that all procurements are executed in a fair and a competitive manner. The function of this amendment would only add additional time to an already sound procurement process.

I oppose the amendment.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. ELLISON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Florida, Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chair, I support my colleague’s amendment.

The aim of this amendment is to create an office of good jobs for the House within the Office of the Chief Administrative Officer. This office would help ensure that the House makes contracting and employment decisions, encouraging the creation of decently paid jobs, implementation of fair labor practices and responsible employment practices.

As the legislative branch, we ought to be setting an example for the Nation when it comes to contracting decisions. Members of Congress who are committed to creating good-paying jobs and supporting workers have a chance with this amendment to see those values reflected right where we work.

This office will help guide the legislative branch in making responsible contracting and employment decisions and do right by the countless men and women who help us perform the people’s business each and every day.

I urge my colleagues to support the amendment by voting “yes.”

Mr. ELLISON. Mr. Chairman, how much time do I have remaining?

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Minnesota has 2 minutes remaining.

Mr. ELLISON. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chair, I think this is a great example to show the openness of this process. In fact, this amendment was offered recently with the Energy and Water Appropriations bill and is applicable to be offered even here today. While I rise in opposition to the gentleman’s amendment, I think it is just a good example of bipartisanship and this open process, of an orderly structured process to get our job done here.

However, this amendment doesn’t achieve what we would hope it would, and that is why I have to rise in opposition.

I mean, it is clear that vendors that do business with the House are already reviewed against the GSA’s excluding parties list, which includes businesses that are then precluded from doing business with the Federal Government for and among other things, violating employees’ legal employment rights.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Chair, let me tell you about a friend of mine named Vee. Vee has been a catering worker here at the House of Representatives for 27 years. She is 67 years old. She says she has next to nothing for retirement. She jokes that she will be working until half an hour before her funeral. In Vee’s own words: We aren’t looking for a handout; we are looking for a hand up.

No one who works for decades should be left without a secure retirement. Retirement insecurity isn’t the only trouble she and her colleagues face. Some of them don’t get healthcare benefits from their employer. Of the 50 catering workers serving Members and visitors to the Hill, only about half have access to year-round health care.

We need to make Federal Government and Federal contractors that we want them to put taxpayers’ dollars in their contracts to use, taking care of Americans who are working for them. This will help raise living standards for all workers.

Let me tell you this, Mr. Chairman, when we see the Federal Government and we see State governments make good jobs the issue, the private sector falls in line. We have seen the Gap, Walmart, talking about raising wages. Why? Because President Obama signed an executive order to say that anyone who works for a Federal contractor has to get paid at least $10.10 an hour. That kind of leadership is what makes the Federal Government not the leader in the race to the bottom but the leader in the race to the top.

Vote “yes” on my amendment. I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I am grateful for the gentleman’s time tonight and taking time on this late evening to express his passion and zeal for workers all across this country. However, with that, because of his amendment and, as I mentioned, the impact that it, in effect, really wouldn’t have, I would have to oppose the gentleman’s amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. ELLISON).

The question was taken; and the Acting Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. ELLISON. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Minnesota will be postponed.

AMENDMENT NO. 3 OFFERED BY MR. BLUMENAUER

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 3 printed in House Report 114–611.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Page 17, line 6, after the dollar amount, insert “(reduced by $100,000) (increased by $100,000)”.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 771, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Oregon.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Chairman, there is a bike share revolution that is spreading across America. Over 70 systems are now operating in 104 cities, including, next month, my hometown of Portland, Oregon. Atlanta’s system opened today. This is an opportunity to provide the bicycle in a more convenient way, where people can rent by the half hour, by the hour, by the day.

We find that research shows that the bike share is safer than regular bicycles. There have been no fatalities recorded in more than 35 million trips across the country so far. It is cheaper. It is a healthier form of transit. Low-cost memberships are available for low-income populations, for example, in Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia and Chicago.

The Nation’s capital is a model for bike share. Launched in 2010, there are now over 350 stations around the D.C. area. Daily ridership is over 9,000. Bike share members report annual savings... of $700 to $800 a year due to riding the bike share.

My amendment suggests that it is time for the Architect of the Capitol to have the Capitol Grounds included in this process, requiring a feasibility study on the installation and operation of bike share stations on the Capitol Grounds.

Right now, the nearest station to House Office Buildings is at the bottom of Capitol Hill, between the busy Independence Avenue and freeway on-ramps. It is not convenient to the millions of visitors that come to Capitol Hill every year. Thinking for a moment about the problems we have got now with the Metro maintenance, every person that takes a bike share is one more person who is not on the road ahead of you or crowded into overcrowded facilities.

I respectfully suggest that this amendment be adopted, that we have $100,000 within the Architect of the Capitol bicyle center to undertake a feasibility study to improve the quality of life, the health, and mobility in and around this vital area of our Nation’s Capital. It is unfortunate that this intense area of activity is underserved.

This amendment would help remedy that.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time in opposition.

The Acting CHAIR. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

There was no objection.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I don’t claim the time in opposition to speak against it. In fact, I am supportive of the gentleman’s amendment, and I appreciate him bringing this up. As a cyclist myself, I can tell you, I understand the importance of making sure, on a campus such as this or in a town such as this or an area such as this, that there is plenty of availability, and the bike share facilities and locations are certainly around here, but we understand that there are some absences or vacancies in spaces near to this campus.

Saying all that, I do respect the Sergeant at Arms and the Capitol Police and some of their concerns that they have expressed, and I would hope that, as the Architect moves forward with a study such as this, that they would take those considerations into effect as well as they put their study together.

I thank the gentleman for his amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BLUMENAURER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Vermont.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the Blumenauer amendment to request a feasibility study on the installation and operation of Capital Bikeshare stations on the Capitol Grounds. I would like to thank Mr. BLUMENAURER for his bike-partisan leadership over the years and for his work on this issue specifically. His passion for cycling is known to and appreciated by so many of us.

Mr. Chairman, Capital Bikeshare opened in 2010 in the District of Columbia and in Arlington, Virginia, which I am proud to represent. Since then, the system has grown steadily to include more than 350 stations. It has changed the way people travel. The U.S. Capitol receives millions of visitors every year, and millions more visit our offices to talk about their issues and concerns. These people are friends, families, and constituents. There are also guests of the United States from all over the world. Capital Bikeshare has been successful precisely because many of these visitors want to see our city up close, from the seat of a bicycle.

Expanding this very successful program to the Capitol Grounds is a great way to give tourists, local commuters, and our staffs an excellent transportation alternative, not to mention the benefits the bicycle has on the environment, individual health, and traffic congestion.

This need is especially great right now as the D.C.’s Metrorail system undergoes extensive, prolonged maintenance. This puts a real strain on all the other modes of transportation in the city.

Capital Bikeshare is beloved by D.C. residents and visitors alike, and we should be setting a strong example by supporting the program and welcoming stations in the place where we work, right here on the Capitol Grounds.

Mr. Chair, I thank Mr. BLUMENAURER for his leadership and urge my colleagues to support the amendment.

Mr. BLUMENAURER. Mr. Chair, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAURER).

The amendment was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 4 OFFERED BY MR. WELCH

Mr. WELCH. Mr. Chairman, I yield to the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chair, I yield to the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. WELCH. I yield to the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chair, I join the chairman in supporting the gentleman’s amendment. This amendment would add approximately 30 lactation rooms to the Capitol Grounds. Working mothers rely on these rooms—and I can speak from experience—to ensure that they can continue to work while breastfeeding their children.

This amendment is about creating the potential for the House Office Buildings and this Capitol to come into compliance with the General Services Administration guidelines for having breastfeeding stations available for women who need them. There are 7,000 women who work here. There are thousands of women who visit on a regular basis, and we don’t have the stations that the women who visit the Capitol, work in the Capitol, work in the House Office Buildings, or visit need to be here in order to take care of their infant children.

It is just amazing to me. JAIME HERRERA BEUTLER is someone we all admire. She can’t be here—she wishes she was—but she is a big advocate of this. What this amendment would do is not cost new money, but it would allow a shift in money, $500,000, from the capital construction and operations account to the Capitol Building and House Office Buildings accounts, appropriating $250,000 each.

The fact is, why wouldn’t we want to be in compliance with the GSA requirements as to the access to the breastfeeding stations for mothers who work and visit here?

Mr. Chair, my hope is that there will be bipartisan support to do something that I think all of us know needs to be done.

Mr. WELCH. Mr. Speaker, I am delighted to be here presenting this amendment. My cosponsor of this amendment, JAIME HERRERA BEUTLER, is unable to be here, but it is relevant. She had a baby 2 weeks ago—this is not her first child—and she is a breastfeeding mother.

Mr. WELCH. I yield to the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chair, I want to thank the gentleman for his thoughtful amendment. We are prepared to accept it, support it.

Mr. WELCH. Mr. Chair, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ), the ranking member of the committee.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chairman, I join the chairman in supporting the gentleman’s amendment. This amendment would add approximately 30 lactation rooms to the Capitol complex. Working mothers rely on these rooms—and I can speak from experience—to ensure that they can continue to work while breastfeeding their children.

This amendment rightfully recognizes that Congress must lead by example to ensure that women can be both mothers and leaders in their field. In fact, my own office right now is serving as a lactation room, and that is because one of my wonderful staff is a nursing mom.

Why? I am happy to do that, it is our responsibility to maintain an environment where all of our employees feel comfortable, including working mothers. Our staff deserves to feel welcome and secure when they are ready to return to work. We should be doing everything we can to encourage working moms to return to the workplace, and it must start here on Capitol Hill.

As we all know, the offices in which we work are inadequate for moms to pump. Our staff is many to an office with open-air cubicles. Having lactation rooms is mandatory, essential, if we want to keep talented women in the workplace.

I want to thank the gentleman for offering this amendment. I urge its support and appreciate the chairmen's support.

Mr. WELCH. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank Chairman GRAVES. I appreciate his support of this amendment. I also want to thank the ranking member for her support. I also thank my cosponsors, Congresswoman MATSUI and Congresswoman FRANKEL, but I especially want to thank and congratulate Congresswoman HERRERA BEUTLER.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. MATSUI. Mr. Chair, I want to thank Chairman WELCH for his leadership on this common sense amendment.

Working mothers are driving our economy forward. Two out of every three women are the sole or equal breadwinner in their households. Many of these women are juggling the responsibilities of caring for their children and supporting their family.

Having workplaces that accommodate the needs of our hard-working American mothers makes our economy stronger. Businesses across the country have made important improvements in their work place standards for women. And the Federal government has too. In fact, the General Services Administration now requires that federal buildings have lactation stations for breastfeeding mothers.

But here in the U.S. Capitol we are not living up to these standards—at the expense of the thousands of women who work in the Capitol and the millions of women who pass through these grounds every day. We need to make working mothers' ability to contribute to our economy easier, not harder.

This amendment simply brings the House of Representatives into compliance with existing laws already on the books and would not require any new funding. It is a common sense step forward for working mothers.

Our Capitol is a symbol of our democracy and should set the highest example for the American people. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. WELCH).

The amendment was agreed to.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chairman, I strongly oppose this amendment, as it takes a meat-ax approach to cutting this bill by $31 million with an across-the-board cut of 1 percent.

The amendment exempts the Capitol Police and its buildings, as well as the Sergeant at Arms. It does not exempt our staff, including the offerer's own staff because it would cut the Members' Representation Allowance. It would also cut the Library of Congress, the Government Accountability Office, the Congressional Budget Office, committees of Congress, and the Office of Compliance.

The Legislative Branch bill, Mr. Chairman, has been flat for 3 years. And this bill finally provides a modest overall increase of 2.1 percent, but because we have not kept up with inflation, each year we are buying less and less for our dollar. The Congressional Research Service, for example, is still below FY 2010 levels and reports it has lost 13 percent of its purchasing power.

We can't continue to do more with less. There is a reason the perception of Congress is damaged. It's damaging our ability to write and analyze legislation and have serious debates because we take the politically expedient route, like the across-the-board cuts, because they play well during town halls. But if we bothered to explain the brain drain within the halls of Congress and the need to boost funding for staff to do oversight, I have the belief that our constituents would understand that.

If Members want a strong legislative branch to ensure oversight of the executive, this amendment should be defeated.

The cut to the MRA is one of the most egregious that would result from this amendment. I happen to think my staff contributes to the well-being of my constituents and are worth every penny we can afford to pay them after years of cuts to the MRA. The MRA is $5.6 million more than in fiscal year 2010. This amendment would cut $5.6 million more.

Mr. Chairman, you get the government you pay for, and I fear that this amendment would do nothing more than hurt the service we are able to provide to our constituents.

I urge defeat of the amendment.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Mr. Chairman, I will have to say that people do like across-the-board cuts. Indeed, many governors, Republican and Democrat alike, use these. From coast-to-coast, they have used these. And our constituents like them.

Why is it that our governors do these? They work. Department heads like to be able to go in there and find a way to cut a little bit more in that budget and still meet the needs that the people have told them they want to see their government meet.

We have $19.3 trillion in debt. We are working to get the cost of government down, but we have to do a little bit more to engage rank-and-file Federal employees and to say to them: It is time for us to get our fiscal house in order.

A penny on the dollar is what our constituents are doing. We should do likewise. It is what our States are doing, because they can’t crank the printing press. They can’t go borrow money. They can’t have more of our debt that is owned by China and Japan and OPEC and the entities that own our debt. They have to have balanced budget amendments. When I was in the Tennessee State Senate, we didn’t go home until we had the budget in balance.

So I would encourage support of this amendment. It is a penny out of a dollar. It is another $1 million in savings.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chairman, as I said, this bill has already taken hit after hit. We are far below the levels that we were at in 2010. We have employees who deserve to be assured that we have enough respect for their professionalism that we are going to fully fund their ability to do their jobs, which is to represent our constituents.

This amendment takes, as I said, a meat-ax approach rather than what the chairman and I worked together to do, which is to develop the substantive portions of this bill related to the funding of the legislative branch in a precision-like way.

It doesn’t make sense. I have never heard of polling that actually asks generic questions of constituents on whether they like or dislike across-the-board cuts. I am not sure what the purpose of electing Members of Congress is if we are going to just make indiscriminate, across-the-board decisions rather than use our brains and build consensus around the decisions that we make.

That is the type of approach that this amendment would take, and it is inappropriate to make sure that we are adequately funding the legislative branch functions so that we can represent our constituents effectively.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Mr. Chairman, the American people think they have taken hit after hit. And they have taken it right in the wallet. They are sick and tired of this. They feel like this economy has taken a meat-ax approach to wellbeing. What they want to see is leadership that will work to get our spending habits under control here in Washington.

This is a great opportunity to lead by example and to say: A penny on the dollar, we are going to do it for the children and for future generations.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chairman, the American people are appreciative and understand that we have been through 75 straight months of private sector job growth, that we have added 29 million people who didn’t have health insurance before and who are now able to go to the doctor when they are sick, that we have cut the deficit by nearly three-quarters, and that we have made progress. And we need to continue to build on that progress and help more Americans have an opportunity to reach the middle class.

All of those things were accomplished through funding the legislative branch. And we need to appropriately fund it, adequately fund it, so we can effectively represent our constituents.

I urge defeat of this ill-advised amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from Tennessee (Mrs. BLACKBURN).

The question was taken; and the Acting Chair announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mrs. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from Tennessee will be postponed.

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 7 printed in House Report 114–611.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I have a parliamentary inquiry.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Georgia will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Could the Chair inform the committee of what the intentions are tonight, about how many amendments we would move for consideration thereon.

The Acting CHAIR. The Chair has just announced that amendment No. 7 is now in order.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chair, I have an additional parliamentary inquiry.

The Acting CHAIR. The Chair would be prepared to entertain a motion to proceed.

Mr. GRAVES of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I move that the Committee do now rise.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Committee rose; and the Speaker pro tem (Mr. AMODEI) having assumed the chair, Mr. BYRNE, Acting Chair of the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reported that that Committee having had under consideration the bill (H.R. 5325) making appropriations for the Legislative Branch for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2017, and for other purposes, had come to no resolution thereon.

CELEBRATING PRIDE MONTH

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BYRNE). Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 6, 2015, the gentlewoman from New Jersey (Mrs. WATSON COLEMAN) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mrs. WATSON COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the subject of my Special Order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from New Jersey? There was no objection.

Mrs. WATSON COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am thrilled to be here on the floor of the House this evening with my Congressional Progressive Caucus and LGBT Equality Caucus as we join millions of Americans and the country in celebrating Pride Month.

Pride Month offers an opportunity to celebrate the incredible achievements of the LGBT community and the progress we have made toward a society that accepts LGBT Americans as equals. It is a chance to honor the trailblazers and leaders that have contributed so much to the lives of LGBT individuals worldwide. And it gives us the space to remind one another that we are all humans, deserving of dignity, acceptance, and equal treatment.

The LGBT community, along with allies like myself, have fought to see the end of discriminatory laws and policies. We have applauded as society itself opens its arms. And we have watched as more and more LGBT “firsts” make their mark in public service, Hollywood, and every corner of our world.

From the Stonewall riots that set the stage for the pride celebrations that we have today, to the end of “Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell” in our Armed Forces, to the landmark Supreme Court decision in Obergefell v. Hodges, to the recent confirmation of the very first gay man to serve as Secretary of the Army, we have made clear, forward progress.

But even as we celebrate the countless achievements of the past few years, we must also acknowledge the continuing uphill battle for LGBT equality. This year has seen a deeply painful wave of laws passed by State legislatures and aimed at legalizing blatant discrimination against the LGBT communities.

There have been recent upticks in transgender violence and, just last week, a disgraceful move by a few Members on the other side of the aisle
Mr. Speaker, I also want to thank my colleague, and I thank the gentlewoman from Texas (Mr. AL GREEN), Mr. Speaker, I yield to my colleague from Texas (Mr. AL GREEN)

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding the time. I would like to thank the leadership for allowing the time. And, Mr. Speaker, I also want to thank my staff and all members of the LGBT Caucus for helping us to produce H. Res. 772. This is the original LGBTQ Pride Month resolution, and I am very proud that persons have signed onto this resolution, so I want to thank all of the cosponsors, original co-sponsors of the resolution.

I am grateful that the President of the United States has recognized Pride Month. President Obama has taken quantum leaps forward in helping us to realize that all persons are created equal and endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, and among them, life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. This is what Pride Month is really all about, these inalienable rights.

I am proud to reign myself and proud to call myself an ally of the LGBT community. I am an ally of this community for many reasons. I would like to just share a few.

I have received invidious discrimination. I know what it is like to be required to drink from the Colored water fountain. I know what it is like to be required to sit in a different area in a theater. I know what it is like to have to ride in a certain place on a bus.

I have felt the sting of invidious discrimination, and my history dictates that I stand against invidious discrimination. I am committed to it, and I am proud to have presented it because there is still great work to be done. We still have 28 States that allow someone to be fired based upon who they are being discriminated against.

So I am proud to have this resolution that we have, and I am proud to have presented it because there is still great work to be done. We still have 28 States that allow someone to be fired for being gay, lesbian, or bisexual. No one should be fired because of who you happen to be. Your performance should determine your position in a place of work.

Unfortunately, in our country, we still have people who will look at someone and conclude that that person should not work in a certain position. Dr. King reminded us that it was the content of character that determines the worth of a person, not what they look like, not what you think they may have as a preference in life, the content of character.

People should be judged upon their merits. They should ascend on merits, and they should fall on demerits, not what they look like or what you think their preferences are.

I was very proud to see “Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell” fall because people ought to be able to ask and to tell who they are and what their preferences are. This ought not be something that we are obeying the law, should not be a means by which you can fire them. People have every right to be themselves.

I was very proud to see “Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell” fall because people ought to be able to ask and to tell who they are and what their preferences are. This ought not be something that we are obeying the law, should not be a means by which you can fire them. People have every right to be themselves.

I am very proud that President Obama, as I indicated earlier, has helped us move forward in this area and in many other areas, because it was on his watch that the Supreme Court of the United States required that all States recognize same-sex marriages, and that they issue licenses to same-sex couples. This was a Supreme Court, but it was a Supreme Court that this President had an impact on.

I am proud that, under this President, we have had the downing of DOMA, the notion that you can discriminate against same-sex couples with their benefits. This President has helped us move forward in areas that were taboo prior to his watch, and I believe that President Obama is going to be rewarded by history for his efforts to ensure that all persons are created equal. I am very proud that the Supreme Court has taken other steps to make sure that equality exists among people.

But finally, as it relates to President Obama, let me just say that his latest effort to make sure that the military lines up to the truth, that the people who serve as Secretaries of their departments are held in high esteem. People who serve in the military are held in high esteem. People who work with the military are held in high esteem. People who serve as Secretaries are held in high esteem, and I thank the President for this very bold and courageous move.

So we are very proud to have this resolution on the floor recognizing Pride Month, and we do so because, in my opinion, every month should be Pride Month. We ought not have a single month that we do this. But until we can overcome some of these greater adversities that are yet to be dealt with, I think we have to continue to celebrate Pride Month.

I am honored to do this tonight with my colleague, and I thank the gentlewoman for the time. I want to assure the gentlewoman that H. Res. 772, the original LGBTQ Pride Month resolution, while it will not pass this Congress, I want to assure the gentlewoman that, in our lifetimes, this resolution will pass a Congress of the United States of America because the Congress of the United States of America is metamorphosing. It, too, is coming to realize that we have to recognize the words of the Declaration of Independence; that all persons doesn’t mean all people of a certain gender; doesn’t mean all persons of a certain hue; doesn’t mean all persons who happen to be from a certain place. It literally means what it says; all persons are created equal, and that all people are endowed by the Creator with these inalienable rights, and that we must bring the LGBTQ community within the purview of all that others enjoy and take for granted as a matter of course.

I thank the gentlewoman for the time.

Mrs. WATSON COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague for his eloquent and inspiring words and encouragement. And I, too, think that this is a metamorphosing body, and I just pray sooner than later.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentlewoman from New York (Mr. TONKO).

Mr. TONKO. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman from New Jersey for yielding. Thank you, Representative WATSON COLEMAN, for leading us in this Special Order that is so significant.

I stand in lending my voice on behalf of the LGBTQ community in the 20th Congressional District of New York, and across the map of New York for that matter, and across the Nation.

We mark Pride Month each year as an opportunity to celebrate the steps that have been taken in the fight for justice, the fight for equality and civil rights for our friends and neighbors in the LGBTQ community.

As we celebrate victories, I believe it is critical that we acknowledge the challenges before us; challenges like archaic bathroom laws that conjure up the ghosts of segregation and separate water fountains; challenges like that of Supreme Court Chief Justices who refuse to obey rulings from the Supreme Court when the highest court dictates that marriage equality is indeed the law of the land; challenges like initiatives that are borne out of fear, out of bigotry, and out of misunderstanding; and even in Washington, D.C., large routine appropriations bills that fail because one side of the aisle simply cannot support an amendment that ensures taxpayer dollars are not awarded to small businesses that, indeed, discriminate. These actions hurt each and every one of us.

When my LGBT friends are robbed of opportunity that hurts my community and local economies in New York’s Capital Region, there needs to be a voice expressed. When LGBT kids are bullied, that teaches those who witness the act that it is okay to diminish the humanity of those that may be different from us.

These challenges are, unfortunately, a natural reaction to the massive strides we have taken in a short couple of years on the way toward equality. That does not make it acceptable, and we must work together to stamp out discrimination of any kind wherever and however it may exist.

Martin Luther King, Jr., has famously said: “The arc of the moral universe is long, but it bends toward justice.”

That is where we are headed. We will get there sooner if we embrace the ideals of tolerance, of togetherness, and certainly of inclusion.

Another civil rights giant, our friend and our colleague, Congressman JOHN Lewis of Georgia, spoke words that I will never forget. He said: “Make good trouble.”

That is exactly what we must do during Pride Month and every month until our goals are achieved.

I thank the Congressional LGBT Caucus and its leadership for assembling us here today. Let’s take this opportunity to recommit ourselves to the noble and simple goal that everyone—that is everyone—has a shot at the American Dream regardless of their creed, regardless of their color, and regardless of their sexual orientation and identity.

Mr. Speaker, I am grateful for the opportunity to share thoughts this evening, and I thank the gentlewoman from New Jersey.

Mrs. WATSON COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from New York for his words and for taking the time to share what I think is a very important issue.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentlewoman from the great State of California (Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ), my colleague.

Ms. SANCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank the gentlewoman from New Jersey for reserving this hour of time for us to talk about something that is incredibly important, the LGBTQ Pride Month.

It is just remarkable to look back just in the time that I have been here in Congress to see the equality that has come about in these years. Just 8 years ago, in my home State of California, there was a proposition to prohibit gay marriage, and it passed. When proposition 8 passed, it was really heartbreaking for not only California’s LGBTQ community and its allies, but really for our families because, quite honestly, every family in some way or another is connected. We have family members who belong to the LGBTQ community.

But we didn’t let this be a setback to us. Like other Americans, LGBTQ Californians believed that they deserved equality under the eyes of the law. So in July of 2013, the Supreme Court finally struck down core components of the 1996 Defense of Marriage Act law that was passed right before I got to this Congress. This important ruling made proposition 8 null and void, returning marriage equality back to my great State of California.

Last year, the Supreme Court guaranteed an individual’s right to marry whomever they love regardless of sex. The Supreme Court recognized what we have known for a long time, that it is wrong to deprive citizens of the right to marry the loves of their lives. They recognize that to do so would be to treat same-sex couples like second-class citizens. Equality, fairness, and respect in the highest court of this Nation.

In our military, LGBTQ service members have also achieved remarkable progress towards equality and ending anti-LGBTQ discrimination. Just 5 years ago, an LGBTQ American could not proudly serve their country in the military. But since the repeal of Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell, our LGBTQ service members are now able to serve openly in our military.

While we celebrate this extraordinary progress, we also have to recognize that we still have a ways to go. There are many States in our country where you can be fired from your job simply because you are gay. Across the country and in Congress, we are still seeing discrimination, discrimination, discrimination. Under our current laws, LGBTQ Americans aren’t guaranteed the vital protections against discrimination. That is why I am a proud sponsor of the Equality Act. It is time for Congress to pass this essential civil rights legislation.

So, once again, I want to thank my colleague from New Jersey for celebrating today and to understand that regardless of sexual orientation, all Americans deserve life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Mrs. WATSON COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my colleague from California.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. SPEIER), Congresswoman SPEIER is another colleague from the great State of California.

Ms. SPEIER of California. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for giving me the opportunity to speak today about LGBT Pride Month.

Pride Month is coming at a crucial time this year. While we have made huge strides in the LGBTQ community over the last few years—from marriage equality to the introduction of the Equality Act—this year has been a treat and an exhilarating reminder of the terrain ahead.

Congress has ground to a halt, from legislative appropriations to the National Defense Authorization Act, as talks of sequestration drag on, and from the contracting system to our own bathrooms. They just can’t help themselves.
We can’t do our job right now, and soon we will be leaving for election season without finishing the appropriations process all because conservatives are obsessed with making discrimination legal. That’s right. They want to make discrimination legal.

Who are they trying to serve?

The American people and corporate America are not standing for this bigoted behavior. Corporations around the country are canceling conventions in States that have passed legislation that prevents transgender bathrooms from being available.

At the entryway to my congressional office stands a California flag bearing the motto of the LGBT movement. It is a mark of how far we have come that such a flag is now commonplace on Capitol Hill, but on this Pride Month, conservatives are debating how best to overturn anti-discrimination provisions and bar their own constituents from using the restroom. This is absolutely ridiculous, and, frankly, a tragic nadir in congressional action.

I am sick and tired of my colleagues saying the discrimination that they are fighting for LGBT Americans, and that they support equality when time and again they have voted just the opposite way.

How about instead of bickering about bathrooms, we look at passing true anti-discrimination laws?

Right now we don’t have laws preventing housing, credit, workplace, or healthcare discrimination. We have lifted the ban on LGBT military service, but our transgender servicemembers continue to serve in the shadows, never knowing if this will be the day they are dismissed. Now is the time to ban so-called gay conversion therapy that prevents transgender bathrooms from being available.

For everyone, anyone, and all of us celebrating this month, I wish you a happy Pride Month.

Mr. Speaker, I conclude my Special Order hour, and I yield back the balance of my time.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted to:

Mr. PAYNE (at the request of Ms. PELOSI) for today and June 10 on account of business in district.

PUBLICATION OF BUDGETARY MATERIAL

Table 4 compares the levels of changes in discretionary appropriations for fiscal year 2016 and the 10-year period of fiscal years 2016 through 2025. This comparison is needed to enforce section 302(c) of the Congressional Budget Act, which creates a point of order against measures that would breach the applicable section 302(b) sub-allocations for the fiscal year and the 10-year period. The table also provides supplementary information on spending in excess of the base discretionary budget limits allowed under section 251(b) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act.

Table 5 displays the current level of advance appropriations for fiscal year 2017 of agencies identified for advance appropriations under section 302(f) of the Congressional Budget Act. The table is needed to enforce a point of order against bills containing advance appropriations that are: (i) not identified in the statement of managers, and (ii) would cause the aggregate amount of such appropriations to exceed the level specified in the budget resolution. In addition, letters from the Congressional Budget Office are attached that summarize and compare the budget impact of enacted legislation that occurred after adoption of the budget resolution against the budget resolution aggregates in force.

If you have any questions, please contact Jim Herz or Jim Bates at (202) 226–7270.

Sincerely,

Tom Price, M.D.,
Chairman.

PRAYER

The President pro tempore. Today's opening prayer will be offered by Steve Berger, pastor of Grace Chapel in Leiper's Fork, TN.

The guest Chaplain offered the following prayer:

Let us pray together.

Almighty God, King of Creation and Ruler of the Universe, we thank You for Your undeniably sovereign, merciful, and benevolent hand in the forming, leading, and blessing of these United States.

Father, thank You for revealing Your passion of Jesus.

There is a purity of his mission in leading a church that is making a difference in our State, and I think making a difference in our country are able to witness someone who I believe to be one of the greatest spiritual leaders in our Nation. He prays daily with his wife Sarah, who happens to be in this Chamber. He prays daily for our Nation. There is a breadth, a forgiveness, and a love for One who is making a difference in our country, leading efforts not only here but around the world to bring people together, and I am so thrilled this Chamber and the people of our country are able to witness someone I believe to be one of the greatest spiritual leaders in our Nation.

I only hope more people would be able to hear from him. Truly, it is a very moving moment for me to have a friend like Steve Berger, who means so much to our State and country, before us. I thank him for his willingness to do this.

The Presiding Officer. The Senator from Tennessee.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, I welcome Steve Berger and thank Senator Corker for arranging for him to be here today. Steve is, indeed, one of our most distinguished Tennesseans. We welcome his family and some of his friends who are with us in the Gallery.

Chaplain Barry Black has reminded us that this tradition of opening the Senate with a prayer has been with us since the Senate began, and the Senate has had a Chaplain before the First Amendment to our Constitution was adopted. This tradition is an essential part of the American character, and having Steve Berger here to help us celebrate that essential part of the American character is a very special moment for me as well as for Senator Corker.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The President pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.
what we are doing on the floor right now. The Defense bill before us will modernize our military and provide our troops with more of the tools they need to confront the threats we face. It will help prepare the next Commander in Chief to meet the complex challenges of tomorrow. It is a serious policy—policy that will keep our country safe, and after years of this administration’s spin and failures, that is what our people deserve.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I just left my “Welcome to Washington,” which I have been having for many years. I had about 25 people from Nevada, my constituents—our constituents—and they asked me what I had done in the Senate that I remember. So I told them a few things. They also asked me if I have a regret, and I do.

It was a call for my friend the Republican leader to talk about foreign policy. My biggest regret is having voted for the Iraq war. I was misled, as a number of people were, but it didn’t take me long to figure that out. I became convinced it was a mistake, and I spoke out loud and clear.

Why was it a mistake? It was the worst foreign policy decision made in the history of our country. That invasion has caused the death of—no one knows for sure but about one-half million Iraqis—500,000 dead men, women, and children. At this stage, because of the invasion, we have now complete instability in Syria. About 300,000 are dead there. Millions have been displaced, driven into Europe and other places. Iran is stronger than they would have been but for the war. The whole Middle East is destabilized.

When President Bush took office, because of the work done in the Clinton administration, we had a balanced budget. Can you imagine that? A balanced budget. We were spending less than we were taking in as a country. When Bush took office, we had a surplus of, over 10 years, $7 trillion. Where is that money now? It has been used with a credit card—a credit card that is that money now? It has been used plus of, over 10 years, $7 trillion. Where

Foreign policy takes a tremendous side down.

When Bush took office, we had a surplus. We were spending less than our revenue. Can you imagine that? A balanced budget. We were spending less than our revenue. Can you imagine that?

Our amendment would also increase money for local police to fight the opioid scourge, to improve our infrastructure around the country, and to do something about the money that has never been provided to take care of the devastation that hit Flint, MI, with the lead in the water. The security of our great country depends on more than bombs and bullets. I support the military. I have my entire career. I know how gallantly they fight.

In my “Welcome to Washington” today, there was a young cadet there. I brought him up first thing to show him off. This young man is one of the finest students in America. He could have gone to school anywhere. Not only was he a good student, he was a good athlete. He chose the Military Academy. He believes in serving his country.

I do everything I can to support the military, but our security depends on more than bullets. It depends on the FBI, Homeland Security, Drug Enforcement Administration, and these many other myriad things that take place in our country that need our attention.

If Republicans pass this amendment of Senator McCains to block a similar increase for the middle class—Senator Reed’s and Senator Mikulski’s amendment—they will have a broken budget agreement, and they will grin the Defense appropriations bill to a halt. We have put everyone on notice. We have done it before, but let me reiterate. If they break the budget agreement with the McCain amendment, the Republicans will be stopping the appropriations process on the Defense appropriations bill. We will not get to the appropriations bill. That is not a threat. It is a fact.

The solution this year is the same as last year’s: stick by the budget agreement and give fair treatment to the Pentagon and nondefense spending. They should work with us.

Mr. President, I see no one on the floor. I yield the floor and ask the Chair to announce the business of the day.
Our guide sat us down on this low wall with the English Channel behind us where the Atlantic Ocean flows in and out and with the 8,000 or so graves in front of us. He then opened up his computer, and there was a picture of General Eisenhower and Walter Cronkite sitting in exactly the same place 20 years after the D-day landing, June 6, 1964. Former President Eisenhower said something like this: You know, Walter, my son graduated from West Point on D-day, and many times over the last 20 years I thought about these young men and the lives they didn’t get to have because of what they were asked to do.

To hear those words spoken by the person who was ultimately the one who asked these brave soldiers to do what they did showed the responsibility he felt 20 years later for the many lives that were lost and those bodies that were brought back to the United States. That Normandy cemetery doesn’t even begin to reflect the lives that were lost. It really made me think when he said: Many times over the last 20 years I thought about these young men and the lives they didn’t get to have because of what they were asked to do.

We have debated this bill for over 50 years now, and we have passed this bill every time we debate this bill, we should think of what those who defend us are asked to do. We should think about men and women who are carrying on the legacy of that generation of D-day and World War II and Vietnam and Korea and wars before that and after and the obligation we have to be sure that they have every possible advantage in any fight. Frankly, we never want to see Americans in a fair fight; we want it to be an unfair fight. We want those who defend us to have the best weapons, best training, best support, and the best of everything so they have every possible advantage when they do what they are asked to do.

This bill came out of committee with three “no” votes. It has strong bipartisan support. It is time to get this work done just as the Senate has done for 54 straight years. This will be the 55th year.

I am particularly glad that this bill takes new steps toward recognizing the sacrifice we ask military families to make. GEN Ray Odierno, the immediate last Chief of Staff of the Army, said that the strength of a country is its military and the strength of the military is its families. Every time we debate this bill, we should think of what those who defend us are asked to do.

This legislation includes language that Senator Gillibrand and I introduced last fall which, for the first time ever, would give families more flexibility if there is a job or educational opportunity for the military spouse. Many times, military families are asked to move a little quicker or stay a little longer. If our language is in the final bill and the President signs it, for the first time ever it will allow families—without being questioned in any detail beyond whether they meet the conditions of the Military Families Stability Act—to go ahead and move so the kids can start school on time, or whatever the case may be. The language in the final bill and the legislation passed this week would stay or a family could stay a little longer so that their spouse can complete any career obligations they may have so they can continue to do what they do. Too many of our military families are unemployed and don’t want to be because their careers are constantly impacted, and the cost of maintaining two residences that those families now have to bear really makes no sense at all. This bill allows us to move forward on that issue.

The bill before us also enhances the capability of the military and security forces of our allies and friendly nations to defeat ISIL, Al Qaeda, and other violent extremist organizations so they are no longer a threat to us. The bill ensures that our men and women in uniform have the advanced equipment they need to succeed in any future combat. The bill reduces strategic risk to the Nation and our military servicemembers by prioritizing the restoration of the military’s readiness so they are able to conduct the full range of all of its activities. We need training dollars, training time, and airplanes that are younger than the pilots who fly them, and this legislation continues to move forward in that area.

It also continues with comprehensive reform to the Transition System that is designed to drive more innovation and ensure more accountability to not take more time than it needs to take, but to be sure that everything is being done with the interest of the taxpayers and the security of the country in mind.

Finally, this bill puts the Senate on record again against the President’s plan to remove terrorist detainees held at Guantanamo Bay. We apparently need to do this over and over again because somebody is just not getting it.

There was a front page article, I believe in the Washington Post this morning, about the absolute certainty of Guantanamo Bay over and over again reenter the fight and kill Americans and our allies. The people who are there now need to be kept there. The Obama administration itself admitted earlier this year that Americans have been killed by terrorists from Guantanamo. By the way, that admission came just days before another dozen inmates were transferred out of Guantanamo.

According to the Director of National Intelligence, nearly one-third of terrorists who have been released from Guantanamo are either confirmed or suspected to be rejoining the fight, and those were supposedly the detainees who could be released. They were supposed to be the most dangerous, the most likely to be back in the fight, and the most likely to inspire others to be in the fight.

The number of detainees released under the Obama administration who were suspected of engaging in terrorism has doubled since July of 2015 according to the Director of National Intelligence. The President of the United States supports and appoints the Director of National Intelligence. This is not some outside person suggesting things that the Obama administration wouldn’t want to hear. This is their Director of National Intelligence and what they wanted is a President who has a real plan to defeat terrorism, and while this bill can’t ensure that, this bill does provide the tools to defeat current terrorists in the Middle East and continue to secure our liberties.

The No. 1 job of the Federal Government is to defend the country. The No. 1 job of those of us in the Congress is to be sure that those who defend the country have what they need to defend the country and to ensure that those who have served this commitment that has been made to them fulfilled, and then some.

It is time to pass this bill for the 55th straight year. We need to do what we should do for those who serve and protect us.

I suggest the absence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to be permitted to engage in a colloquy with the Senator from South Carolina.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 4229

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, we will have a vote around 11:30 a.m. on my amendment that would increase funding under OCO to address the consequences of the nearly $13 billion shortfall from last year. All the reports we hear from the military are that sequestration is killing them. The mismatch of what we are now seeing in the world as compared with a continued $150 billion less than fiscal year 2011 is putting the men and women who are serving this Nation in danger.

I am told there will be a lot of people who will vote against this increase to bring it up just to last year's number—an increase of $18 billion. I say to my colleagues: If you vote no on this amendment, the consequences will be on your conscience. If you ask any leader in uniform today, they will tell you at the lives of the men and women who are serving this Nation in uniform are at risk. I think we have a greater obligation, and that is the men and women who are serving in the military.

The Chief of Staff of the United States Army said: We are putting the lives of the men and women serving in uniform at greater risk. That didn’t come from John McCain or Lindsey Graham. Talk to any military leader in uniform, and they will tell you that sequestration is killing them. Planes can’t fly; parts of the military can’t train and equip. Only two of our brigade combat teams are fully ready to fight. Look at the world in 2011 when we stopped sequestration and look at the world today.

My colleague serves on the Armed Services Committee and spent about 33 years as a member of the United States military, even as a regular visitor to Kabul and Baghdad. I think he understands that what we are doing with sequestration and voting against this amendment, in my view, is putting the lives of the men and women who are serving in harm’s way at greater risk. Have no doubt about it. There will be further attacks in Europe, and there will be further attacks in the United States of America. We won’t be ready, and the responsibility for it will be on those who vote no on this amendment.

I recognize my colleague.

Mr. GRAHAM. I thank the Senator.

Here is the issue: To those who are a slave to these sequestration caps, to those who believe sequestration and this budget and the sequester that we are involved with is going to save the country, boy, I couldn’t disagree with you more. We haven’t moved the debt needle at all.

Discretionary spending is not the reason. We are spending at a 2008 level. So these blind, across-the-board cuts limited to discretionary spending and a lot of programs that are not even subject to sequestration are not moving the debt needle; they are destroying the ability to defend this country.

The theory we are advocating here today is that there is an emergency in the U.S. military that needs to be addressed and we should be able to add money. The U.S. military, the Department of Defense, based on an emergency that is real and not be limited by caps that are insane.

Here is the issue: Is there an emergency in terms of operations and maintenance? Are we putting the ability to modernize our force at risk in an emergency situation because we don’t have enough money to fight the wars we are in and modernize the force for the wars to come?

If you don’t believe us, here is what the Commandant of the Marine Corps said about the current state of readiness: “Our aviation units are currently unable to meet our training and mission requirements, primarily due to Ready Basic Aircraft shortfalls.”

I can tell you that in the Marine Corps, we have F-18s that have a problem meeting combat status. I can tell you today that the Army is stretched unlike any time I have ever seen. I can tell you today that the Navy is robbing Peter to pay Paul to keep the ships on the ocean, and with the nuclear threat of defense spending, they are having to forgo modernization to deal with readiness, to deal with the ability to fight the war. I can tell you that the Commandant of the Marine Corps is going to take six B-22s out of Spain that are used to rescue consulates and embassies that come under attack in Africa because we need those planes to train pilots, and if we don’t bring back those planes, we are not going to have an airworthy B-22 force at a time when we need it.

We are creating a hole and a vacuum in our ability to protect our diplomats and U.S. citizens.

Mr. MCCAIN. May I ask my colleague whether he is aware that, at a hearing, General Milley, the Chief of Staff of the U.S. Army, testified that the Army risked not having ready forces available to provide flexible options to our national leadership and, most importantly, risked significantly increased U.S. casualties.

I say to my colleagues who are going to vote against this, you are taking on a heavy burden of responsibility of incurring significantly increased U.S. casualties in case of an emergency. The military is not ready. We are at $100 billion less than we were in 2011 when sequestration began, and the world has changed dramatically.

I can’t tell you my disappointment to hear that the chairman of the Appropriations Committee—I don’t know if my colleague knows this—said he is going to vote against it, using some rationale that they are increasing it by some $7 billion. That is insane. That is not only insane, it is irresponsible, and most importantly, it is out of touch. I say to my colleague and the chairman of the subcommittee, you are out of touch with what is going on in the world and in the U.S. military. You better get it right.

Mr. GRAHAM. I will add that anybody who doesn’t believe there is an emergency in the U.S. military is not listening to the U.S. military and has not been following the consequences of what we have done over the last 5 or 6 years in terms of cuts to the military.

Over the last 7 or 8 years, we cut $1 trillion out of the U.S. military. We are on track now to have the smallest Army since 1940, the smallest Navy since 1915, and the smallest Air Force in modern times. We are on track to spend half of what we normally spend in time of war. Normally we spend about 4.5 percent of GDP to defend this Nation; we are on track by 2021 to spend 2.3 percent of GDP.

I want to say this: In my view, this is an emergency. I want you to go back home and explain to those who are busting their ass to fight this war, who can’t fly equipment because it is too dangerous, who are having to cannibalize planes to keep some planes in the air, who are stretched so thin that it is creating high risk.

Here is what the Chief of Staff of the Army said: “I characterize us at this current state at high military risk.” This is the Chief of Staff of the Army telling all of us that the Army is in a high state of risk because of budget cuts.

This $18 billion will restore money that has been taken out. That will have a beneficial effect now and is absolutely essential. It will give us 15,000 more people in the Army. And if you are in the Army, you would like to have some more colleagues because you have been going back and forth, back and forth. So we need more people in the Army, not less.

We need 3,000 more marines. If anybody has become the burden of this war, it is the U.S. Marine Corps. Here is what I say: Let’s hire more marines.

Let’s start listening to what is going on in the military.

The whole theory of this amendment is that we have let this deteriorate to the point that we have an emergency situation where we are putting our men and women’s lives at risk because they don’t have the equipment they need and the training opportunities they deserve to fight the war that we can’t afford to lose, and you are going to vote no because you are worried about budget caps.

Oh, we love the military. Everybody loves the military. Well, your love doesn’t help them. Your love doesn’t buy a damn thing. If you love these men and women, you will adequately fund their needs. If you care about these people, you will adjust the budget so they can fight a war on our behalf.

We are up here arguing about everything. The state of politics in America makes me sick. This looks like one thing we can agree on—Libertarians, vegetarians, Republicans, and Democrats—that those who are fighting this war deserve better than we are giving them.

So I want to tell you, when you come and vote against this amendment because you are worried about the budget caps, well, the Budget Committee is not going to fight this war.

To my friends at Heritage Action, I agree with you a lot. You are saying they who vote no will ad-just the budget so they can fight a war on our behalf.

We talk about a head-in-the-sand Congress. You talk about people who are so worried about special interest groups and concepts that have absolutely no basis in reality.
If you fully implement sequestration, all you will do is gut the military and some nondefense programs that really matter to us. You won’t change the debt at all. So don’t go around telling people you are getting us to a balanced budget. You are not. The money is in entitlements, and we are not doing a damn thing about it.

Ryan-Murray added some money, and I want to thank him, but it wasn’t enough. I want to thank the appropriators for adding $7 billion, but it is not nearly enough. The $18 billion that is in this amendment goes to buy air planes—14 F-18s, 5 F-35s, 2 F-35B. There is $200 million to help the Israelis with their missile defense program.

What this buys is more people, more equipment, more training opportunities at a time when we need all of the above. It breaks the cap because we are in an emergency situation. These caps are straining our ability to defend this Nation. This is why we have broken the military. This is a small step forward. This is not nearly what we need, but this $18 billion will provide some needed relief to the people who have been fighting this war for 15 years.

I hope and pray that you will start listening to those we put in charge of our military and respond to their needs, and this is a small step in the right direction.

If we say no to this amendment, God help us all. And you own it. You own the state of high risk. If you vote no, then as far as I am concerned, you bet- ter never say “I love the military” anymore because if you really loved them, you would do something about it.

Mr. McCAIN. I also point out to my colleagues that, as a sign of priorities around this place, yesterday we had a vote on medical research—nearly $1 billion that had nothing to do with the military but was a place where the Willy Sutton syndrome took place, and it was a 5-percent increase. The appropriators could increase by 5 percent medical research which has nothing to do with the military, but they won’t add money that the military could use to defend this Nation. There is no greater example of the priorities around this place.

I see my colleagues are waiting. I just want to point out what voting no means for us.

Voting no would be a vote in favor of another year where the pay for our troops doesn’t keep pace with inflation or private sector advocates. For the fourth year in a row, the military will receive less of a pay raise than the rate of inflation. If you vote no, that is what you are doing.

If you vote no, it would be a vote in favor of cutting more soldiers and more U.S. marines at a time when the operational requirements for our Nation’s land forces for the Middle East, Africa, Europe, and Asia are growing. Every time you turn around, you will see that there are more troops deployed in more places, whether it be Iraq, Syria, Libya, the European Reassurance Initiative. Every time you turn around, there is more deployment—more deployments in the Far East and the Asian-Pacific regions. Every time you turn around, there is more obligations of the military, albeit incrementally. Yet we are going to cut the funding while we increase the commitments we have. So you would be voting in favor of cutting more soldiers and marines at a time when the American forces and the operational requirements of our Na- tion’s land forces are growing.

Voting no would be a vote in favor of continuing to shrink the number of aircraft that are available to the Air Force, Navy, and Marine Corps at a time when they are already too small to perform their current missions and are being forced to cannibalize.

We have people who are having to go to the boneyard in Tucson, AZ, and take parts from planes that haven’t been operational for years. That is how bad the system has become thanks to sequestration. Our maintainers—these incredible enlisted people—are working 16 to 18 hours a day trying to keep these planes in the air.

When an Air Force squadron came back, of their 20 airplanes, 6 were flyable.

There was a piece on FOX News the other day about how, down in Beaufort, SC, the F-18 squadron—they are having to hunt down the parts so they can take parts from so that they can keep other planes flying. They are ex- hausted. They are exhausted, these young marines. And by the way, don’t think they are going to stay in when they are subjected to this kind of work environment.

Voting no would be a vote in favor of shrinking the number of aircraft. They are too small, and their current missions are being forced to cannibalize their way through the week.

Voting no would be a vote in favor of letting arbitrary budget caps set the timeline for our mission in Afghan- stan instead of giving our troops and our Afghan partners a fighting chance at victory.

Voting no is a vote in favor of con- tinuing to ask our men and women in uniform to perform more and more tasks with inadequate readiness, inade- quate equipment, inadequate numbers of personnel, and inadequate levels of risk in the missions themselves. It is unfair to them. It is wrong. It is wrong.

For the sake of the men and women in the military who put their lives on the line as we seek to defend this Na- tion, I hope my colleagues on both sides of the aisle will make the right choice. For 5 years we have let politics, not strategy, determine what resources we give our military servicemembers. Our military commanders have warned us that we risk sending young Ameri- cans into a conflict for which they are not prepared.

I know that the vast majority of my colleagues on both sides of the aisle recognize the mistakes of the past 5 years in creating this danger. This is a reality. This is the reality our soldiers, sailors, airmen, and marines are facing. So I say it doesn’t have to be this way. It doesn’t have to be this way. And if you vote no, as my colleague from South Carolina said, “You are in favor of the military. Don’t be that hypocritical.” Just say that you are continuing to put the lives of these men and women who are serving in the military, in the words of the Chief of Staff of the U.S. Army, “in greater danger.” That is your responsibility. But just don’t say—don’t go home and say how much you appreciate the men and women in the military, because when you vote no, you are depriving them of the ability to defend this Na- tion and themselves.

I yield the floor.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to the amendment proposed by the senior Senator from Arizona. We Republicans and Democrats have fundamentally different approaches to providing for our troops, our national security agencies, and our government.

Democrats are committed providing the funding necessary to protect our Na- tion, grow our economy, invest in re- search, and shelter the most vulner- able. Republicans have a different ap- proach. They accept massive cuts to almost every agency and only provide de- fense budget relief for all of our na- tional security agencies, including Homeland Security, the FBI, and many others. Republicans haven’t been will- ing to do that so we must figure out how to allocate funding with the exist- ing budget agreement.

The amendment offered by the chair- man of the Armed Services Committee is a return to gridlock. Last year’s at- tempt to provide only the Defense De- partment with additional OCO funds resulted in a stalemate and a 3-month long continuing resolution. Do we have to repeat this failed strategy again?

The answer is no. The chairman of the Appropriations Committee and I took a different approach in drafting the Defense appropriations bill, no poi- son pill riders, stick to the budget deal, eliminate wasteful spending proposals, and reinvest in our priorities.

If you compare the results in the De- fense appropriations bill to the amend- ment proposed by the chairman of the Armed Services Committee, here is what you will find: His proposal vio- lates last year’s budget deal with $18
The legislation to reauthorize was carried by the Senator from North Dakota, as well as Senators CANTWELL and MURRAY, after Republican obstruction caused it to lapse for the first time in its 80-year history. That a shame it was that it lapsed. The Ex-Im Bank is one of the key tools in our toolbox for supporting and growing manufacturing jobs across the country. We talk about increasing good-paying manufacturing jobs. Both sides of the aisle do that regularly. Then, when it comes to supporting the Ex-Im Bank, they obstruct one of the best tools we have. They vote no. Now they have found a clever way to stop it from working, because it won’t have a quorum.

The Ex-Im Bank provides necessary financing for domestic manufacturers to compete with foreign companies that are heavily subsidized or are being lost because they have access to their own domestic import bank. To purposefully prevent the Ex-Im Bank from being able to properly function is like having America unilaterally disarm in the global competition for exports and good-paying manufacturing jobs here at home.

But there are a small band of folks—ideologues—so ideologically opposed to the Bank that they want to see that it can come to a screeching halt. They will use every trick in the book to do it. That is what they are doing now. Opponents of the Bank are hamstringing the agency by denying it the staff it needs to operate.

We are losing $50 million a day in exports. Some of these come from my home State of New York. We have not only GE, which makes turbines, a large percentage of which are exported. They are world leaders in their field, and they tell us that depend even more on the Ex-Im Bank than the rest of the agencies that work together to keep America safe.

The Ex-Im Bank provides necessary financing for domestic manufacturers to compete with foreign companies that are heavily subsidized or are losing business to Siemens and other foreign companies. We have lost some little companies that depend even more on the Ex-Im Bank because it gives them the ability to get their products and goods into the markets overseas. We don’t want to hear my colleagues on the other side of the aisle talk about how they care about jobs, how they care about building America and building our exports, as long as they continue to play this trick and hamstring the Ex-Im Bank from functioning. Mr. President, as I said, I rise today to support my friend and colleague the Senator from North Dakota and echo her comments: We should have a full complement of Board members at the Ex-Im Bank, and at the very least they must have enough to reach a quorum and continue to conduct its business.

I also want to thank her for her tireless efforts to get the Export-Import Bank reauthorized last year. The legislation to reauthorize the bank was carried by the Senator from North Dakota, as well as Senators CANTWELL and MURRAY, after Republican obstruction caused it to lapse for the first time in its 80-year history. That is a shame it was that it lapsed.
The Ex-Im Bank is one of the key tools in our toolbox for supporting and growing manufacturing jobs across the country. It provides the financing necessary for domestic manufacturers to compete with foreign companies that are heavily subsidized or owned entirely by their governments or simply have access to their own domestic Ex-Im Bank.

To purposefully prevent the Ex-Im Bank from being able to properly function is to hamstring the agency by denying it the staff they need to operate.

But there is a small band of folks who are so ideologically opposed to the bank that they will do anything they can to see it come to a screeching halt. And they will use every trick in the book to do it.

That is what we are seeing now. Opponents of the bank are hamstringing the agency by denying it the staff they need to operate.

Right now, the Export-Import Bank is unable to approve any of the financing deals over $10 million because the Bank only currently has two members serving on its five-member board.

This is a problem because the Board needs at least a quorum of three to approve financing for large deals.

But the Banking Committee has so far refused to even consider a third nomination to the Board of the Export-Import Bank and has given no indication that it even plans to hold a hearing on the nomination any time soon.

It can’t be because the chairman opposes the nominee’s politics or views— the nominee is a Republican, irony of ironies. The President has put forward Mark McWatters, a former staffer for Republican HENSARLING, the Republican Chairman of House Financial Services.

The delay on the nomination has nothing to do with the nominee or his qualifications and everything to do with keeping the Ex-Im Bank from doing its job.

The delay, as Senator HEITKAMP pointed out, has real consequences:

30 major projects in the pipeline valued at more than $10B are now mired in the pipeline. The Export-Import Bank out of business when we should be making sure that it can issue credit for manufactured U.S. products to be sold in overseas markets.

Why is manufacturing so important?
Manufacturing is important because it pays a decent wage. It allows American workers to go from working class to middle class. It helps secure the economy that are stable for families who are sending their kids to school, and because it helps people move up to a better quality of life.

I am competitive in general. I don’t want to lose a manufacturing base. And I also don’t want to lose a middle class. What has happened is that the conservative views of the Heritage Foundation have thwarted the Export-Import Bank, and U.S. manufacturers have decided to put their manufacturing overseas. Think about it. How long is a company or a business going to put up with the fact that they don’t have an export credit agency here in the United States?

Now, can a big manufacturer get its own credit? Sure it can. Sure, it can go and get credit. But can you ask it to sell in a global market? I will give you an example of a manufacturer in our State, SCAFCO, which sells manufactured grain silos to many countries in South America, in South, and all across the world. Do you think they are going to finance every single deal they do? No, because they have to put money into their manufacturing facilities so they can stay competitive, and so they can have the best silos being produced.

If they limited their business to only deals they could finance, they would have very limited business. Think about it. Whom do we make that requirement of? It is the customer who is buying the exported product who needs the business to get credit. It is the customer who is out there that wants to purchase what are great U.S. products who is having trouble. Think about it. You couldn’t have a number of nations trying to change your economy toward agriculture or you could be a small Asian country that is trying to upgrade the quality of life.

It could be, just as Prime Minister Modi said yesterday, that they want to diversify their energy portfolio. Well, guess what? We are holding that up and not allowing all of those countries to buy U.S. energy products simply because we refuse to have a working bank. How is that? Is it so hard to do?

Manufacturing is important because it pays a decent wage. It allows American workers to go from working class to middle class. It helps secure the economy that are stable for families who are sending their kids to school, and because it helps people move up to a better quality of life.

But right now, political posturing has handicapped the Ex-Im Bank, one of our countries most reliable tools to increase America’s economic competitiveness in our global economy.

In my home State of Washington, there are nearly 100 businesses, the majority of them small or medium-sized, that used the Bank’s services last year to help sell to overseas markets. We are talking about everything from apples to airplane parts, beer, wine, software, medical training supplies, and beyond.

The reality is that people in other countries want American-made products. That is a great thing because these businesses support tens of thousands of jobs in our country and keep our economy moving.

The Export-Import Bank is the right kind of investment because it expands the access of American businesses to emerging foreign markets that create jobs right here at home.

Do you know what it costs taxpayers? Not a single penny. In fact, the Export-Import Bank reduces our national debt.

The Export-Import Bank exists. The full Senate voted to reauthorize it. And it is our jobs as legislators to ensure that government agencies have the staff they need to do the job we ask them to do.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Washington.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, I am here today to support the strong statement from the Senator from North Dakota and the strong support for a fully functioning Export-Import Bank because it creates American jobs and helps our businesses, large and small, and, in fact, reduces our national debt.

But right now, political posturing has handicapped the Ex-Im Bank, one of our countries most reliable tools to increase America’s economic competitiveness in our global economy.

going to go where credit financing exists. So, by not moving forward on a fully functioning export credit agency in the United States, all you are doing is helping to ship jobs overseas. It has to stop.

We make great products in the United States. We are competitive. Our workforce is skilled. I will be the first to say that we need a more skilled workforce. I am all for providing our workforce with education and skills and the resources our country has because innovation is our competitive advantage.

But if we make great products and then we hamstring the financing of those products—developing countries don’t have the same banking and financial tools and edge that we have in the United States—you are basically saying: We are not going to sell our products. I am a big proponent of winning in the international marketplace. I am a big proponent of saying that the middle class is growing around the globe, and one of the United States’ biggest economic opportunities is to sell products to that middle class outside of the United States. That rising middle class means they can purchase more U.S. products. Well, they can’t if we don’t have a credit agency that finances exports. So why are we down here this morning without a Defense bill that is now being discussed?

Well, we are here because there are more than $10 billion of deals and transactions that are in the Export-Import Bank pipeline. Yesterday, Prime Minister Modi was here. The Indian Government has announced that Westinghouse would finalize contracts with the Nuclear Power Corporation of India to build six nuclear reactors by 2030. Well, those deals won’t get done if you don’t have an export credit agency to finance those deals.

The United States Senate is currently considering the National Defense Authorization Act. Last month, the Aerospace Industries Association and the National Defense Industrial Association wrote letters to Senate leadership urging them to make sure that we had a functioning bank. They pointed out that without a quorum, multibillion-dollar exports of aircraft, satellite, and other things won’t get done.

So we just had this little argument on the Senate floor about how we are going to vote on this bill and whether we are going to have balance with our other domestic spending. By not supporting and moving forward on the export credit agency, you are also making defense in the United States more expensive because you are not allowing that same technology—that we have decided meets our export controls, but we are willing because these are partners of ours—to sell that defense. You are making that difficult.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the Record this letter from the Aerospace Industries Association and the National Defense Industrial Association, basically saying you are making it more expensive for us to do business as a country in defense because you also will not allow the export of that defense. There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

AEROSPACE INDUSTRIES ASSOCIATION, NATIONAL DEFENSE INDUSTRIAL ASSOCIATION, May 17, 2016.

HON. MITCH MCCONNELL, Senate Majority Leader, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

HON. HARRY REID, Senate Minority Leader, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATE MAJORITY LEADER MCCONNELL, AND SENATE MINORITY LEADER REID:

On behalf of the American aerospace and defense industry and our dedicated workforce, we are writing to urge Senate hearings and confirmation on the nomination of J. Mark McCawters to the Board of Directors for the U.S. Export-Import Bank. If his nomination is successfully approved, a fully functioning bank will play an important role in leveling the playing field for U.S. exports, creating new U.S. companies, and strengthening our strategic alliances throughout the world.

Last year, we were heartened to see a bipartisan, bicameral supermajority vote overwhelmingly in favor of long-term reauthorization of the Ex-Im Bank. However, the Bank is currently incapable of funding large-scale export activities. While the Bank is accepting new applications, the Bank’s Board of Directors must have a quorum to act on transactions valued at $10 million or more. In the absence of a quorum, potential multi-billion-dollar export sales of aircraft and satellites are at risk, hurting not only major manufacturers, but the small and medium-sized companies that support them.

The global market is fiercely competitive. U.S. manufacturers need fair trade policy measures to level the playing field. Other countries are aggressively utilizing their Export Credit Agencies (ECAs) as a tool to advance their national interests, and availability of financing (instead of the quality of products) is a key discriminator if we do not have our own ECA. Our competitors are also boosting support from their ECAs, including—but not limited to—a broader scope of programs.

Without the Bank supporting some of these investment-heavy exports, U.S. industrial production will decline, reducing revenue, innovation, and high-skilled, high-wage jobs throughout the aerospace and defense supply chain. The fact that this will lead to higher unit costs for the military systems our armed forces buy seems to be dismissed or ignored. Also, we are only now recovering our market share in the commercial satellite market caused by over-restrictive export controls, which had a similar detrimental impact on our national security space industrial base.

In addition to supporting U.S. export sales, the Bank is an important foreign policy tool for the U.S., not just as it bolsters American presence and influence abroad. By developing closer economic ties to other countries, we enhance not only our economic interests, but also our security. Countries which engage in close trading and commerce with each other increasingly align around common interests in global stability and security.

The Board is instrumental to the agency’s day-to-day operations, since it manages the Bank’s reforms and approves its transactions. The long-term reauthorization approved by Congress in 2015 contained risk-management provisions that require action from the Bank’s Board of Directors in order to be implemented, including the appointment of a Chief Ethics Officer and the establishment of a Risk Management Committee. The appointment of those provisions—or consider any other reforms—without a quorum. We urge the Senate to move swiftly on the pending nomination for the Ex-Im Bank’s Board of Directors.

Sincerely,

DAVID F. MELCHER, Lieutenant General, USA (Ret.), President & CEO, Aerospace Industries Association.

CRAIG R. MCKINLEY, Special Assistant, USAF (ret.), President & CEO, NDIA.

Ms. CANTWELL. Mr. President, I am on the floor with my colleague from North Dakota because we feel passionately about this issue. We are frustrated with the shenanigans that have gone on with the export credit agency. I say “shenanigans” because for a long time people said: Oh, well, there aren’t the votes. We can’t get this done. We don’t have the votes.

Well, when you lift the veil behind some very conservative, threatening tactics, there is majority support, in both the Senate and the House of Representatives, for this export credit agency.

Now, one committee is trying to bottle up a nominee—if he doesn’t like the nominee, come up with a different name. Come up with two names. Who cares? But what really is happening is that those on the other side of the aisle are enabling one individual to thwart the biggest manufacturing economic opportunity our country has to secure manufacturing jobs in the United States of America. Let’s build great products. Let’s have a credit agency that can finance deals to developing nations, and let’s go after countries buying U.S. products. Why on Earth are we continuing these shenanigans so somebody can say to the Heritage Foundation: I got you one more trophy for your shelf.

That is not what America is about. America is about competing, succeeding, and growing economic opportunity.

I thank my colleague from North Dakota for her leadership on the Banking Committee in trying to move this effort forward and all of my colleagues who care about manufacturing who are willing to come to the floor and make this point.

Time is running out this session, before the summer recess, for us to get this done. It is time to get it done.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Ms. HEITKAMP. I say thank you to my colleague from Washington.

Mr. President, the level of frustration we have over this issue is unparalleled. We hear platitudes in the Senate.
They usually start with: We believe in the will of the people. Let’s do the will of the people.

Guess what. We had this debate. We had the debate about whether we should have an entity called the Export-Import Bank. We had that debate. It was long fought. We shut down the bank for the first time in 60 years. We shut down the bank, stopping exports for the United States of America, costing jobs in the United States of America.

We won that fight, and we didn’t win it by a little. We didn’t win it by just a margin. We won supermajorities—supermajorities—in the Senate and supermajorities in the House. When we were told the House would never pass a stand-alone bill, they passed a stand-alone bill by 70 percent—70 percent—of the vote.

Doesn’t that tell you the people of this country should have a vote through their elected representatives? Today, what is it? Does not that vote, the will of the people to have this entity, beyond all of the arguments for why this entity is critically important? One person—one person, for whatever reason.

This is why people have lost faith with their government. This is why people don’t believe we can get anything done here anymore—because even though wefight the fight, even though we win the fight, we don’t win the fight because we need a quorum at the Bank to do any deal over $10 million.

We have a nominee. You must say: Well, it must be a raving liberal, right? This nominee? No, it is the Republican nominee who represented and worked for one of the most conservative Members—in fact, an anti-Export-Import Member of the House of Representatives. That is our nominee. There is nothing wrong with this nominee. It is not wrong that we are debating the legitimacy of a Republican nominee. It is not our side.

How do we believe in manufacturing, believe in the American dream, and believe we can be part of a global economy, when 95 percent of all potential consumers in the world—guess what. They don’t live here.

If we are going to be competitive, if we are going to be participating in that global economy—which we must—then we must be competitive. We cannot be competitive without an export credit agency. It is just that simple, and we are not going to be competitive. So don’t say you are for trade or manufacturing, when you are not willing to take the risk because some ideology on the other side has decided that is a black mark.

Earlier, Senator MCCAIN made a passionate plea and Senator LINDSEY GRAHAM talked about Heritage. Who is running this place? When the Heritage Society can stop a deliberation by simply putting a checkmark next to a piece of legislation and when once again we have this being held up in the backrooms of the Senate—not openly, but in the back rooms—who is running the place and who really believes in trade? Who really believes in manufacturing? Who really believes in the middle class?

I will tell you, my passion on this doesn’t just come because I think it is a horrible trajectory for the future, for the horrible future of our American economy, my passion on this comes when I hear stories. These are real. They are not pretend stories. When I hear stories that “We are going to take our manufacturing out of this country.” We are going to lose jobs, and we are going to lose those jobs very quickly. In fact, when we shut down the Bank, we already lost jobs—but we are going to lose jobs.

Do you know what I think about? Because this is where I live. This is where I am from. I think about that factory worker on the floor of that manufacturing facility being given a pink slip and told his job is going overseas, her job is going overseas because they have a better business climate.

Think about that. You have a good job, providing for your family, believing you are doing everything right, and now because of, really, one person, that person is getting handed a pink slip. Where is the accountability for that? Where is the accountability to that family? When are we going to learn that it is this disarray in American lives that has cost this body and this Congress its reputation for no good reason?

I wish to close before I turn it over to my colleagues with just a couple of statistics because, quite honestly, I get sick and tired of the characterization that this only applies to large facilities like Boeing, GE, and Caterpillar. I am tired of that. Let me tell you. In North Dakota, we have 16 suppliers. These are small businesses who have done creative things in an environment that you wouldn’t think would be successful. They are suppliers to Boeing. What happens when Boeing cannot do a deal? What happens when they move their operation someplace else and the requirement is that those parts be manufactured in that country? What happens? Guess what. Those 16 manufacturers are injured. Those 16 manufacturers have their livelihoods in their hands. It is not because they didn’t produce a quality product, but because they didn’t do everything they needed to do to be successful.

Just last week, the Wall Street Journal reported that 390 high-paying American manufacturing jobs are headed to Canada. That is a direct result of the last reauthorization back in 2015. I think we can clearly expect many more of these stories. I would ask my colleagues: Who is going to go to that manufacturer and ask them what they said to talk to the children who now have a father who no longer has a job or a mother who no longer has a job and say: Because someone told me, I am not going to do it. I am not going to support you. I don’t represent you. I represent an ideology here.

This is a tragedy at so many levels. I guess I naïvely thought, when you win, and when you win by big majorities, you ought to win for at least more than a day.

I stand ready to fight this fight. I stand ready to attach and do everything we can to either an act of legislation or to get a patch or legislation that will, in fact, provide opportunities for the Bank to function. I will do everything I can because when I go to bed at night, I don’t think about the Boeing and the GE executive. That is not whom I think about. I think about that person on the factory line who is working every day putting food on the table for their children and how this dysfunction here is costing them their livelihood and their security. That is a tragedy we can’t ignore.

Mr. President, I yield the floor to my colleague from Indiana.

Mr. DONNELLY. Mr. President, I echo the words of my colleague from North Dakota.

I have 6.5 million bosses in Indiana. These think tanks out here, these other organizations, they are not my boss. That family who wants to make sure there is a paycheck coming into the house, and all mom and dad wants is a chance to go to work, they are whom we should be working for—for the same people my colleague from North Dakota works for in Bismarck, in Fargo, in Minot, in Bismarck, in Maryville, in Lafayette, and all of these suppliers around my State whose jobs are dependent on these export opportunities that we are walking away from by standing against the Export-Import Bank.

Here we are again, on the floor of the U.S. Senate, talking about our responsibility to do our job and to consider the President’s nominees to important Federal offices. We are talking about, Mark McWatters, is a Republican nominee for the Board of Directors for the Export-Import Bank, and we are all lined up on this side to support him. It is the official export credit agency of the United States. It helps American companies—so many in my State of Indiana—create jobs, an opportunity, and a chance for people to go to work, put a roof over their kids’ heads, to be able to retire with dignity, and to be able to compete in a global economy.

That is what this is about. Every other country you look at has one of these export-import banks. It is helping their organizations, their business, and their countries compete.

Each of us speaking today worked closely with Senator HEITKAMP last year to reauthorize the Bank. It was a strong, overwhelming bipartisan vote in support of reauthorization. It demonstrated the need for this entity that helps create American jobs at no cost to taxpayers and, in fact, sends money back to the Treasury.
In 2014, the Ex-Im Bank supported 164,000 American jobs. That is 164,000 moms and dads who are able to have dignity, a job, take care of their children, and be a tremendous credit to their community. That is what this is about: $27.5 billion in exports and it returned 99.6 cents on the dollar. It creates jobs, reduces the deficit, and spurs economic growth. Despite widespread support, our inaction here keeps the Bank from being in operation. In order to approve certain financing, the Bank needs a minimum of three Senate-approved Board members. We have two.

McWatters’ nomination has been pending in the Senate Banking Committee for 5 months. All it takes is a vote. Requests to confirm the nominee by unanimous consent have been rejected.

American companies are struggling to compete against foreign competitors that benefit from currency manipulation, intellectual property theft, and other foreign barriers. Yet a handful of Senators are making life more difficult by not considering this nomination. If we are not willing to stand up for our own companies, for our own workers, then what are we doing?

It is disappointing that an important tool for economic growth isn’t being utilized simply because some in the Senate refuse to do our job. The American people expect better; the American people deserve better, and the workers of this country deserve better. I yield back the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah

Mr. LEE. Mr. President, what my distinguished colleagues from North Dakota and Indiana are proposing is to unleash the Export-Import Bank from the constraints under which it currently operates and to begin authorizing transactions above $10 million. Between 2007 and 2014, 84 percent of the Bank’s subsidy and loan guarantee deals exceeded $10 million—84 percent—and the vast majority of those were given to the wealthiest, most well-connected businesses in America that should have no problem at all obtaining financing in the open market.

The Export-Import Bank represents so much of what the American people resent and despise about Washington, DC. This is a Great Depression era relic, one that lives on today and has grown into one of the most treasured relics for favoring banks. It is a favored relic for well-heeled lobbyists, big government, and politically favored businesses. It is an 82-year-old case study in American corporate welfare, and for some reason this Senate continues to support it.

Ex-Im has managed to live through more than 30 corruption and fraud investigations into its system of doling out taxpayer-backed subsidies and loan guarantees to foreign buyers of U.S. exports. In 2013, for half of the financing deals within the Export-Import Bank’s portfolio, Ex-Im was either unable or unwilling to provide any justification whatsoever connected to its mission. That is $18.8 billion in estimated export value that apparently had no connection to either business or national security. If it did, Ex-Im didn’t bother to offer that up.

Many of Ex-Im’s supporters claim the Bank’s main function is to support small business. That sounds nice, but the problem with it is that this claim is trumped by the greatest amount of scrutiny. Look at the institution’s track record. Only one-half of 1 percent of all small businesses in America benefit from Ex-Im financing—one-half of 1 percent. And even that tiny figure may well be an overestimation, may well overstate the case, because Ex-Im uses such a broad definition of the term small business.

Confirming this nominee would allow Ex-Im to return to its old ways of apportioning the pot for the largest corporations, in coordination with the largest banks, all with the backing of American taxpayers.

Permanently ending the Export-Import Bank would be a small but important action toward reining in the cost and, most importantly, fairness to our economy and fairness to our government. It would prove to the American people that their elected representatives in Congress have the courage to eliminate one of the most objectionable and most costly regulatory compliance—our regulatory system—and other cozy relationships between political and economic insiders, providing a breeding ground for cronyism and for corruption. So long as this Senate remains unwilling to close Ex-Im, we should, at the very least, make sure it does not have the ability to further advance its cronyist agenda.

If you want to talk about harming competitiveness, let’s talk about that. If we want to have that discussion, let’s begin that discussion now. If you want to know what harms competitiveness in America, including and especially the kind of competitiveness that has tended to foster the development of the greatest economy the world has ever known—the kind of competitiveness that makes it possible, where it exists, for small businesses to make it onto the big stage—let’s look at Federal regulations.

Federal regulations are a big deal in this country, regulatory reform being arguably 20 years ago to learn the Federal regulatory system was imposing some $300 billion a year in corporate compliance costs—regulatory compliance costs. Those regulatory compliance costs might be borne immediately and initially by big corporations, by small corporations, mostly by businesses, but you know who pays for it? Hard-working Americans. In fact, some have described this effect as sort of a backdoor, invisible, and very regressive tax on the American people.

So when I first learned of this problem, I started thinking of it this way. This is an additional $300 billion a year the American people are essentially paying into the Federal Government because everything they buy—goods and services—becomes more expensive. They also pay for it in terms of diminished wages, unemployment, and underemployment, but they do pay for it. They pay disproportionately at the middle and at the low end of the economic spectrum in America.

Unlike our actual tax system—our visible tax system—which is highly progressive, our backdoor invisible tax system is highly regressive. Some have estimated this regulatory compliance cost—just complying with Federal regulations—today costs the economy some $2 trillion a year, meaning this has multiplied roughly sevenfold just in the last 20 years.

If you don’t think that is a significant impediment to competitiveness in America, I don’t know what is. This is a problem. And some have estimated that each and every American household pays some $15,000 more each year for goods purchased simply because of Federal regulations. This hurts competitiveness. So do our high tax rates; these harm competitiveness.

I stand with the senior Senator from Alabama and I support him in his objection.

I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota

Ms. HEITKAMP. Mr. President, will the Senate from Utah yield for a question?

Mr. LEE. Yes.

Ms. HEITKAMP. Mr. President, I share my colleague’s concerns about overregulation and the burden of regulation. I have been fighting regulation that makes no sense here in Congress, and so I agree with him. But that is not what we are talking about today. We are talking about the Export-Import Bank.

I would ask my colleague: What percentage of all transactions at the Export-Import Bank go to small business, as defined by the Bank?

Mr. LEE. Mr. President, as my colleague is asking the question, I assume she has the answer.

Ms. HEITKAMP. I do.

Mr. LEE. And I am sure she is prepared to tell us that.

Ms. HEITKAMP. Well, obviously, I do want to maybe make some points that are contrary to some of the discussion that my colleague just had.

Ninety percent of all Ex-Im transactions are with small businesses that are under $10 million. The amount of transactions over $10 million is huge; I will give you that. But, again, we talk about the supply chain that goes into those transactions over $10 million.

The Peterson Institute recently estimated the United States is losing $50 million in exports each day this nomination is not confirmed.

We have had disagreements with the Senator from Utah over the Ex-Im Bank —disagreements we debated when we reauthorized the Bank. So I would ask the Senator from Utah: Why not move the confirmation of McCawthers to the floor so my colleague can have a full-throated debate about the Bank? Why not have a full-throated debate instead of hiding that nomination in the Banking Committee and using that structure to thwart what in fact a majority of both bodies of the Congress and the President have done when they reauthorized the Bank?

Mr. LEE. I am grateful to respond to both points made by my distinguished colleague, the Senator from North Dakota.

In the first place, as to the need to have a full-throated debate, I welcome that. That is exactly what we need. It is what I have been wanting to have for a long time. But last year, instead of having a full-throated debate specifically about Ex-Im, we saw Ex-Im attached to a much larger package that a lot of people were determined to support, regardless of what else was in there. So a lot of people voted for that package, regardless of how they might feel about the Export-Import Bank. But as for a full-throated debate, yes, that is exactly what we need. We would get that if we could actually debate the reauthorization of Export-Import on its own merits, as we should have done last year. We were deprived of that opportunity, so now we are using every opportunity we can to have a real full-throated debate. That is why we are doing this. That is exactly the reason we want to do this.

As to the figure the Senator cited with respect to the percentage of loans going to small business, sure, if one wants to talk about the number of actual loans made, one can make that number much larger. But look at the number that I think is more significant: Only one-half of 1 percent of the number that I think is more significant: Only one-half of 1 percent of all small businesses in America actually benefit from Ex-Im financing. That is a pretty significant deal when one looks at how much of the lending authority in the total dollar amount the Export-Import Bank supplies to larger businesses and to businesses, regardless of their size, that could in fact obtain financing in the open market.

Again, we are not back in the Great Depression anymore. This is a Great Depression era relic. So regardless of what my colleague may think about the Great Depression era dynamics at play that caused those serving in this body and the House of Representatives in the 1930s to put this program in place, we have other challenges today. And many of those challenges are created by the government itself—by the government being too big a presence within our marketplace, inuring ultimately to the benefit of big business and harming everyone else.

Ms. HEITKAMP. Mr. President, I see other colleagues here ready to make presentations, but I just want to make two final points.

If my colleagues want a full-throated debate, then move the nomination onto the floor and out of the committee. Let’s have the debate. My colleagues are using the nomination to reemphasize and relegate the Ex-Im Bank. Let’s do it.

In the meantime, let’s appreciate that in spite of everything that is being said here, we need the Bank to be competitive. We need the Bank to make sure that we can, in fact, manufacture in this country. And that is something that gets lost in all the rhetoric.

I think one of the things we have an obligation to think about is all those jobs that are going to go somewhere else and all those Americans who are going to stand in the line for unemployment benefits and who are going to get their pink slips. And who in the U.S. Senate wants to line up at the factory door as they are walking through the last time and shake their hand and say: You know, too bad you lost your job.

So I yield the floor, and I intend to have further debate about the Export-Import Bank.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would note that Senator Klobuchar is here and she, I believe, wanted to participate in the discussion about the IMF, but we shortly have a vote, and we would very much like to proceed. The majority leader is here also.

I am prepared to speak now on the pending Reed amendment that we are going to go to a vote on at 11:15.

Ms. MIKULSKI. We need to talk about the bill.

Ms. KLOBUCHAR addressed the Chair.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I believe I have the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island has the floor.

Mr. REED. I yield the floor to the majority leader.

AMENDMENT NO. 4549

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to make some brief remarks with respect to the Reed amendment that is pending, before our vote. Senator Mikulski would like to also, and I note the chairman is here. But I ask unanimous consent that when I finish my brief remarks, Senator Mikulski be recognized.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REED. I thank the Chair.

Mr. President, we have had a very extensive and very thoughtful debate about the underlying amendment by Senator McCain to increase OCO spending by $18 billion strictly for Department of Defense operations and functions, and those are very critical and very important.

There have been two principles we have followed over the last several years when it comes to trying to push back the effects of sequestration. Those principles have been that the security of the United States is significantly affected by the Department of Defense’s operations, but not exclusively. Indeed, there are many functions outside the parameters of the Department of Defense that are absolutely critical and essential to the protection of the American people at home and abroad: the FBI, the Department of Homeland Security, the CDC. So that has been one of the principles.

The other principle we recognize is that that in lifting these temporary limits we have to do it on an equal basis.

What the amendment Senator Mikulski and I have offered does is embrace these two principles. We would add an additional $18 billion to the chairman's $18 billion. That would encompass the broader view of national security, and do so in a way that I think is very sensible, and allow us to go forward as we have in the past.

All of us recognize the extraordinary sacrifices made by the men and women of our Armed Forces and the fact that they continue to serve as the frontline of the defense in so many different aspects. But we also recognize that defending our interests means agencies outside the Department of Defense—the State Department, Homeland Security—that have absolutely critical and indispensable roles in our national security.

Reflecting on the comments before about the potential for incidents both here and abroad, if we go back to 9/11, that was not a result of a failure to have trained Army brigades or marine regiments or aircraft carriers at sea; that was a failure in a new agency in the processing of passengers getting on airplanes; that was a failure to connect intelligence that one FBI office had that was not shared effectively. Those threats to the United States will not be directly remitted to increase resources to the Department of Defense. Resources have to go to these other agencies as well. I think that is something we all recognize, and that is what is at the heart of what we are doing.

In the last decade we have seen a host of other threats, particularly cyber threats, which were rudimentary back in 2001, 2002, and 2003. Now we see them as ubiquitous—not rudimentary—and threatening and with an increasing sort of sophistication. I recall that in a hearing Senator Collins and I had with the Department of Transportation and the Department of Housing and Urban Development, we asked the IG: What is the biggest issue that you think is facing your Departments right now? Both said it is the issue of cyber security—protecting the data we have, protecting the records we have, protecting ourselves from being an unwitting conduit into even more sensitive government systems.

So within our amendment, we propose significant resources for cyber protections throughout the Federal Government—Homeland Security, Health and Human Services, Housing, and Urban Development, et cetera. These are essential, and I think the American people understand that.

We also understand that our infrastructure is critical to our economic well-being and our economic growth. Part of our dilemma going forward and one of the reasons we are locked in this sequestration battle is that unless we are growing our economy, we will be continually faced with difficult challenges about what we fund, how we fund it, how we provide the revenue to meet these obligations. One of the surest ways to increase our growth is to invest in our infrastructure.

I think what we are proposing makes sense in two fundamental ways. It recognizes—as I think everyone does—that our national security is not exclusively related to the programs and functions of the Department of Defense and that our national security is a function not just of our military, intelligence, and other related agencies, but the vitality and strength of the country, the ability to grow and to afford these investments in defense, in homeland security, and make it clear. We make it clear in this legislation that that is our proposal. And the stakes are clear: We want to go ahead and support a broad-ranged increase in investments.

The final point I will make is that this is all in the shadow of the ultimate issue, which is getting rid of sequestration—not just for one part of the government but for the entire government. If we don't address that next year, we are going to end up in an extraordinarily dire situation.

With that, I ask my colleagues sincerely and very fervently to support the Reed-Mikulski amendment. I think that would put us on the track to true national security.

With that, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ROUCH). The Senator from Maryland.

MS. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, how much time does our side have?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no divided time. We have a vote scheduled at 11:15 a.m. but no divided time.

MS. MIKULSKI. Well, I will be quick in my remarks.

First, I just want to comment about real leadership and how blessed we are to have what we have. I compliment both the chairman and the ranking member of the Armed Services Committee. The chairman, Senator MCCAIN, is a graduate of the Naval Academy and is a well-known and well-respected war hero who for his entire life has stood for defending America. Our ranking member, Senator JACK REED of Rhode Island, is a West Point graduate and a paratrooper, so he knows what it is like to make big leaps for the defense of the country. They have done their best to do a bill. They found that their budget allocation is very tight, and we understand that.

What we seek here is parity in what the gentleman from Arizona, Senator MCCAIN, is offering as his amendment, and he has spoken thoroughly and eloquently about it. Senator REED has spoken eloquently about how not all national security is in the Department of Defense, and we need more money for the State Department, Homeland Security. There are others in our part of the bill, the nondefense discretionary part, to research and development and also investments in health and education.

There are those who would say: Well, Senator MIKULSKI, you know what Senator MCCAIN wants to do. Yes. You know what Senator REED wants to do. Not all defense is in DOD. Yes. But aren’t you being squishy? No. I am not being squishy at all when we talk about the needed nondefense discretionary for research and others.

Very quickly, when we won World War II, Roosevelt made it clear that it was our arsenal of democracy that enabled one of the greatest fighting machines ever assembled to be successful. We need to continue to have an arsenal of democracy. That arsenal of democracy will always be cutting edge and maintain its qualitative edge because of what we will do with research and development, often in civilian agencies, whether it is the Department of Energy that will produce more trucks, whether it is the National Science Foundation working with others to make us even more advanced in computational capacity so that we have the best computers to defend us, not only in cyber security but in others.

There is a new kind of arsenal of democracy, and we need to have a strong economy and we need to have continued research and development to maintain our qualitative edge.

Let’s go to the wonderful men and women who serve our military. Only 2 percent of the population signs up, but when they sign up, boy, are we proud of them. We share that on both sides of the aisle. But what GEN Martin Dempsey, the former head of the Joint Chiefs—himself a decorated hero—said to me was this: Senator MIKULSKI, out of every four people who want to enlist in our military, only one is taken because only one will be fit for duty. One category can’t pass because they can’t pass the physical fitness. They have too many physical problems.

Well, why is that?

Then the other won’t be taken by the military because they fail the literacy and the math—a failure of education. There is an increasing category because of issues with either addiction or emotional problems.

So we need to look at our total population. We need a totally strong America to have a strong defense.

I know some people say what I want to do and some of my colleagues want to do—we not only want to maintain parity in the Budget Act consistent with our votes and our principles, but look at that. Also, when we vote, we know what is at stake, what we want to do. We want to maintain our arsenal of democracy. We want to maintain our cutting edge and our qualitative edge. We also want our young men and women to be fit for duty, whether it is for military service or other service to the Nation.

I know the gentleman from Arizona is waiting. I have now completed my remarks, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

MR. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Maryland. She is tough and principled, a great representative of her State, and she has been a friend for many years. I thank

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 43, the nays are 55.

Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected.

Under the previous order, there will now be 6 minutes of debate, equally divided, prior to the vote.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, today I will vote against Senator McCain's amendment No. 4229, the $18 billion of additional spending for the Department of Defense. I support the troops and their mission, especially Maryland's nine military bases. While there are many items I would like to see more money for, I believe we can meet the needs of our national defense within the budget caps. For fiscal year 2017, the Department of Defense appropriations bill reported unanimously by the Appropriations Committee last week did that.

The Defense appropriations bill accomplishes this without a budget gimmick. It uses base funding to provide $600 million to meet Israel's missile defense, an increase of $455 million above the request. The McCain amendment offers only $465 million. Appropriations will add $600 million to Israeli defense.

Let's look at new, modern ships. The McCain amendment authorizes $90 million less for the littoral ships than what we do. We put in $475 million. The McCain amendment adds nothing to an account for the National Guard and Reserve. The Defense appropriations bill adds $900 million for the Guard and Reserve equipment account so they can recapitalize themselves, so they can be part of our fighting military for our Commander in Chief.

Also, we can look at something like the Arctic. There is a threat from the Arctic. Senator MURKOWSKI from Alaska has spoken eloquently about it. We have money in here for polar icebreakers. The Russians have 6, and we have 1 in Antarctica. This helps the shipbuilding industry and so on.

We can do this in Defense appropriations. I urge the rejection of the McCain amendment. We can meet our national defense without a budget gimmick.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, facts are stubborn things. They add $7 billion. We want $16 billion to restore the cuts from last year.

So I say to the Senator from Maryland: Facts are stubborn things. The fact is this amendment increases spending by $18 billion, which brings us up to last year's level.

Look at how the world has changed in the last year. Look at the commitments that this Nation has assumed as a result of a failed Obama foreign policy.

It increases the military pay raise to 2.1 percent. The current administration budgets 1.6. It fully funds our troops in Afghanistan. It stops the cuts to end strength and capacity. For example, it cancels a planned reduction of 15,000 active Army soldiers.

We can do this in Defense appropriations. I urge the rejection of the McCain amendment. We meet our national defense without a budget gimmick.

We have ships that can't sail and planes that can't fly and pilots that can't train. Do you know our pilots are flying less hours than Russian and Chinese pilots? Do you know our pilots are flying less hours than Russian and Chinese pilots? Don't you think that's a problem?

We can do this in Defense appropriations. I urge the rejection of the McCain amendment. We meet our national defense without a budget gimmick.

It addresses the Navy's ongoing fighter shortfall and USMC aviation readiness. It supports the Navy's shipbuilding programs, necessary to fund the national policy and restores the cut of 1 littoral ship. That is the job of the authors. You are doing the job of the authors. I say to the Senator from Maryland, and that is wrong. It is up to us to authorize, not you. It is your job to fund, not to authorize.

So what is a "no" vote going to do, my friends?
It is going to be a vote in favor of another year where the pay for our troops doesn't keep pace with inflation. In voting no, you are cutting more soldiers and marines in operational requirements. Voting no will be a vote in favor of continuing to shrink the number of aircraft that are available to the Air Force, Navy, and Marine Corps. Voting no would be a vote in favor of letting arbitrary budget caps set the timeline for our mission in Afghanistan. Voting no is a vote in favor of continuing to ask our men and women in uniform to continue to perform more and more tasks.

As the Chief of the U.S. Army has said, if we continue these cuts, we are putting the lives of the men and women in the military in danger. If you vote no, don’t go home and say you support the military, because you do not. I yield.

CLOTURE MOTION

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Pursuant to rule XXII, the Chair lays before the Senate the pending cloture motion, which the clerk will state.

The bill clerk read as follows:

CLOTURE MOTION

We, the undersigned Senators, in accordance with the provisions of rule XXII of the Standing Rules of the Senate, do hereby move to bring to a close debate on the Senate amendment No. 4229 to S. 2943, an act to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2017 for the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. By unanimous consent, the mandatory quorum call has not been waived.

The question is, Is it the sense of the Senate that debate on amendment No. 4229, offered by the Senator from Arizona, Mr. McCain, to S. 2943, shall be brought to a close?

The yeas and nays are mandatory under the rule.

The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk called the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from Vermont (Mr. SANDERS) and the Senator from Virginia (Mr. WARNER) are necessary absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. FISCHER). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The yeas and nays resulted—yeas 56, nays 42, as follows:

[Proposal to allow unanimous consent for action on share-in-savings contracts] On page 508, strike line 10 and all that follows through "(d) Training..." on line 15 and insert the following:

Section 2332 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end of the following new subsection:

"(e) Training..." Mr. McCaskill. Madam President, I believe we are waiting for the Senator from Utah.

I yield.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. FLAKE. Madam President, I have five unanimous consent requests for committees to meet during today's session of the Senate. They have the approval of the majority and minority leaders.

I ask unanimous consent that these requests be printed in the RECORD.
It is crucial that Congress act to provide additional visas for the SIV program. The most recent figures from the State Department suggest that at least 10,000 applicants in the SIV processing backlog and our troop presence in Afghanistan continues, we can only expect more endangered Afghan allies to seek our help, adding to the backlog. The Department of Homeland Security has estimated that an additional 4,000 Afghan SIVs for the year would allow it to continue to process and issue visas in Fiscal Year 2017. If this program fails far short of the need, it is evident we have serious national security implications.

I am also concerned that Congress may limit eligibility for SIV applicants. The U.S. military presence in Afghanistan relies on allies who serve as translators, security personnel, and in a multitude of other functions. All of these adjective for the U.S. mission, whether the work directly or indirectly with U.S. forces.

Afghans who served the United States in non-military capacities or in support of the Department of State face serious threats as a result of their service. He goes on to say: If this program falls far short of the need, it will have serious national security implications.

We have received similar letters from:

- Hon. Senator John McCain, who was head of the forces in Afghanistan, and from
- Hon. Representative Adam Smith, who is currently the general and commander of the joint support of United States Forces-Afghanistan.
- Ryan Crocker, a former Ambassador in Afghanistan, has been very eloquent in the need to continue to support this program and make sure those Afghans who have stood with our American soldiers can come to the United States.
- Madam President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD these letters and this article from Ryan Crocker.

Here (p. 172) is no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

- Hon. Senator JOHN MCCAIN, Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.
- Hon. Senator RICHARD S. JURGENS, Jr., Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, DC.
- Hon. Representative MAC THORNBERRY, Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, DC.
- Hon. Representative ADAM SMITH, Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, DC.
- Hon. Senator CHARLES GRASSLEY, Hart Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.
- Hon. Senator PATRICK LEAHY, Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.
- Hon. Representative BOB GOODLATTE, Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, DC.
- Hon. Representative JOHN CONVES, Jr., Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, DC.
-uestions from you and from other members of Congress and the Senate. The stories of these interpreters and translators are heart-wrenching. They followed and supported our troops at great personal risk, ensuring the safety and effectiveness of Coalition members on the ground. Many have been injured or killed in the line of duty, a testament to their commitment, resolve, and dedication to support our interests. Continuing our promise of the American dream is more than in our national interest, it is a testament to our decency and long-standing tradition of honoring our allies.

Afghanistan faces a continuing threat from both the Afghan Taliban and extremist networks. We must remain committed to helping those Afghan who, at great personal risk, have helped us in our mission. This is the second year the Afghan Special Forces (ASDF) and Security Forces (ANDSF) are in the lead for security. They are fighting hard and fighting well for a stable, secure Afghanistan. The vast majority of the SIV applicants have served as interpreters and translators for our troops. They have exposed themselves and their families to provide critical situational awareness and guidance, both of which have helped save countless Afghan, American and Coalition lives.

Thank you for your continued support of American troops in Afghanistan.

Very Respectfully,

John F. Nicholson
General, U.S. Army, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS,
United States Forces-Afghanistan.
Kabul, Afghanistan.

Hon. John McCain,
Chairman, Armed Services Committee,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

Dear Mr. Chairman, I am writing you to express my strongest support for the Special Immigrant Visa Program.

Since our arrival in Afghanistan, U.S. forces have relied upon our Afghan partners, especially our linguists, to perform our mission. Many have suffered through with us through the most harrowing ordeals, never wavering in their support for our soldiers, our mission, and their own country. Many have been injured or killed in the line of duty.

Unfortunately, their support of our missions has resulted in our Afghan partners facing threats from insurgent groups throughout the country. They frequently live in fear that they or their families will be targeted for kidnappings and assassinations. Many have suffered this fate already. The SIV program offers hope that their sacrifices on our behalf will not be forgotten.

After several ups and downs, the program remains an extremely important way for the United States to protect those who assisted us. By December 2014, the Department of State had issued all 4,000 Afghan SIVs allocated under the Consolidated Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year (FY) 2014. As you know, the FY15 National Defense Authorization Act granted additional SIVs to Afghan applicants. The State Department’s Status of Afghan Special Immigrant Visa Program report in April 2015 shows there are more than 3,000 Afghan Special Immigrants that have been submitted. Each week, I receive several personal requests and inquiries from linguists and others who have worked with, or continue to work with, U.S. forces, seeking assistance with the Afghan SIV program. I understand how important this program remains to our Afghan partners, as well as our own forces.

I believe a provision of the Resolute Support Mission-U.S. Forces-Afghanistan, much has changed and the Afghan National Defense Security Forces (ANDSF) are in the lead to secure the country. We have a willing and strategic partner whose interests are aligned with our own. The ANDSF is taking the fight to the enemy this fighting season and are performing well. Our prospects for long-term success and a strategic partner have never been better. We would not be in this position without the support and leadership of the U.S. Congress. The American people, the men and women who have served here with distinction, and our Afghan partners.

I urge Congress to ensure that continuation of the SIV program remains a prominent part of any future legislation on our efforts in Afghanistan. This program is crucial to our ability to protect those who have helped us so much.

Thank you for your support for America’s Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, and Marines.

Sincerely,

John F. Campbell,
General, U.S. Army, Commanding.

[From the Washington Post, May 12, 2016]

DON’T LET THE U.S. ABANDON THOUSANDS OF AFGHANS WHO WORKED FOR US

The House will soon consider the National Defense Authorization Act, an annual piece of legislation that sets policy for the military. If not reformed, the current form, the United States will break faith with the Afghans who served with U.S. troops and diplomats.

To me, this is a very personal issue. I was the U.S. ambassador to Iraq from 2007 to 2009 and the U.S. ambassador to Afghanistan from 2011 to 2012. I observed firsthand the like of the Afghan interpreters who risked their lives trying to help their own countries by helping the United States. During my time in Afghanistan, I had the pleasure of working with the Afghan interpreter who risked their lives every day to work for the betterment of their country and ours. It takes a special kind of heroism for them to serve alongside us.

Two men continue to stand out in my memory for their service to our nation. Taj, for instance, worked for the U.S. government for more than 20 years; he returned from Pakistan after the fall of the Taliban as the first local Stafford in the reopened embassy. He was there when I first raised our flag in early 2002. His outreach to imams to discuss religious tolerance and women’s rights under the Taliban produced measurable results in fighting extremism.

Taj, under the leadership of Reza, helped connect embassy leadership with politicians and thought leaders, supporters and critics, to hear their concerns and ideas. To protect these brave men and their families, I can use only their first names here.

As a result of their service, many allies like Taj and Reza have faced—and continue to face—security threats so serious that they are unable to remain in their home countries. From 2006 to 2009, I worked closely with the Afghan Special Immigrant Visa (SIV) programs for Afghans and Iraqis that enable our brave partners to come to safety in the United States because of the sacrifices they made on our behalf. Although Iraq and Afghanistan “special immigrants” do not technically come as refugees under the law, that is exactly what they are, in essence, persecuted people because of their political actions and in urgent need of protection. Reza, for example, faced Taliban death threats for his work assisting our embassy and now lives in the United States.

In an era of partisan rancor, this has been an area where Republicans and Democrats have agreed. Congress continued to support policies aimed at protecting our wartime allies by renewing the Afghanistan SIV program annually—demonstrating a shared understanding that taking care of those who took care of us is not just an act of basic decency; it is also in our national interest. American credibility matters. Abandoning these Afghans who worked and continue to support the United States abroad.

There is still time to save and strengthen this essential program. The Washington Post reported that the Senate Armed Services Committee, under the leadership of the late Senator John McCain (R-Ariz.) and Jeanne Shaheen (D-N.H.), have kept these essential visa programs intact, and I hope they can do the same this year. Congress should both expand this essential program and work to fix the delays in processing that are weakening it.

This is truly a matter of life and death. I know hundreds of people who have been threatened because of their affiliation with the United States. Some have been killed.

Today, many are in hiding, praying that the United States keeps its word. We can and must do better.

Mrs. SHAAHEEN. Madam President, as Senator Risch said, the amendment we have offered has been very carefully crafted. It has been made in consultation among those who have had concerns about the program and those of us who believe it is critical we continue to support it. This is something all of those who have been watching this program have now agreed to, and I hope the objection the we are hearing are coming from one, that I think is unrelated to this issue, can be addressed.

I close with a story that says to me how important this program is. Senator McCain and I had the opportunity 2 years ago to sit down with a former Army captain, a man named Matt Zeller, and his interpreter, an Afghan named Janis Shinwari, who had just been allowed into the United States. When I asked Matt Zeller how he met Janis, he said that one day while he was cleaning his gun, his response was that they had met basically when he and his unit were under attack from the Taliban and he was knocked out in that attack. When he woke up, it wasn’t he and fellow unit members of the military who were watching over him, it was Janis Shinwari who had just been allowed into the United States and had protected Matt and the fellow members of his unit.
I think that says so much about how important these interpreters and those who have provided support to our men and women on the ground in Afghanistan have been. What will we say the next time we want somebody to help, when we need help in a country where our soldiers are fighting? If they can look back and say: You didn’t keep your word, United States, so why should we help you now?

This is our opportunity to continue to keep our word, to continue to make sure the soldiers who helped us in Afghanistan, who protected our men and women on the ground there, are able to come to the United States when they are threatened, when their families are threatened, and be safe.

I certainly hope we can work out the objection we are hearing from some Members and that we can support this very carefully crafted compromise to make sure we protect those who have helped protect us.

I yield to the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon.

INDUSTRIAL HEMP FARMING ACT

Mr. WYDEN. Madam President, we are working on the very important Defense Authorization Act for the fiscal year of 2016. This has been a long time coming. Another year has gone by since the Defense Authorization Act for 2014 was passed. This bill would authorize the Defense Department to take a more influential role in helping farmers in the United States. It would also raise the profile of hemp as an economic opportunity. It has been sitting on the Senate floor for months now. It is time to turn this into law and give our hard-working farmers—and I note the Presiding Officer knows a bit about farming—I want to give our farmers an opportunity to grow hemp and make a profit and revenue for their important enterprises in America, and I hope my colleagues will support the legislation.

With that, Madam President, I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. REED. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REED. Madam President, we have been moving steadily through this authorization bill. I once again commend the leadership of Chairman McCain. It really began months ago when the Chairman decided that he was going to do an in-depth analysis of the Department of Defense, calling upon experts from an extraordinary range of academic, military, and diplomatic leaders. As a result, we became much more knowledgeable than we were previously about things within the Department that we should very carefully review and perhaps change. In fact, because of his leadership, this is the most fundamental revision of the Goldwater-Nichols procedures that were adopted three decades ago. We have spent a lot of time discussing important issues, but I don’t think we have given quite enough credit to the work that the Chairman and our colleagues have done with respect to some of these important reforms.

One area that we worked on together is developing statutory authority for cross-functional teams within the Office of the Secretary of Defense. One of the challenges that Goldwater-Nichols faced, and faced successfully, was to integrate military and civilian leaders. They came up with the concept of jointness, which now we assume has always been there, but that was not the case 30 or 40 years ago. Because of the inspiration of the concept and because of the emphasis in the assignment process of moving forward and having an assignment not in your branch of service but in a job that required the integration of other services, that approach made a significant, fundamental change on the effective operation of our armed forces today, and we take it for granted.

Similarly, we want to take that type of approach not just in the services and Another important aspect to note in talking about very fundamental Goldwater-Nichols reform is the role of the Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. That person has the responsibility to head the Joint Requirements Oversight Council—JROC—which is the counterpart to the Joint Requirements Oversight Council, the JROC lays out for all the services what types of equipment they need, what requirements they are fulfilling—whether it be an undersea craft or a new aviation platform. After listening to the numerous comments before us, our observation was that the Vice Chairman might have been in a sense first among equals, but there were more consensus decisions without a focal point of leadership. What we have done in this legislation is make it clear that the Vice Chairman is indeed the leader of that group, so he or she will someday have the ability to make decisions after getting advice from the other members of the JROC.

But it said be what is perceived today as a sort of quid pro quo between services: The Navy might want a particular ship, and in return for that particular ship, they will be amenable to a proposal by the Air Force for a particular aviation platform. What we have now is that the Vice Chair will be able—not only as the official formal head of this but also as the chief adviser to the Chairman—to say: No, we have looked at this not from the perspective of the service but from the perspective of the Joint Chiefs and our role as giving advice to the President so that we can go ahead and give a decision that is not based upon anything else.

AMENDMENT NO. 4608 TO AMENDMENT NO. 4607
Mr. REED. Madam President, at this juncture I call up Reid amendment No. 4603.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is as follows:

The senior assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. REED], for Mr. REED, proposes an amendment numbered 4603 to amendment No. 4607.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the end, add the following:

This Act shall be in effect 1 day after enactment.

Mr. REED. Madam President, to continue briefly, we are again spending a great deal of time on an important issue, and we have more important issues that will emerge. But I think it is long overdue to cite what we have done in just a small part under the leadership of the chairman to make fundamental changes to the operation of the Department of Defense. I am confident that years from now, when the nation reviews Goldwater-Nichols, they will talk about MCCAIN, what the McCain amendments did and what the McCain bill did. I think that is a fitting tribute to the chairman. I also think it is ultimately what we are all about here. It is going to make sure that the men and women in the field who wear the uniform of the United States have the very best leadership in the world, the best leadership at the Chairman’s level, all the way down to their platoon leader and commander. I want to make sure we noted that. With that, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. Madam President, may I say to my very modest friend from Rhode Island that anything that has the MCCAIN name on it has a hyphenated name and the REED name on it because what we have accomplished in the Senate Armed Services Committee would be absolutely impossible without the partnership we have. I cannot express adequately my appreciation for the cooperation and the friendship we have developed over many years. As I have said probably 200 times, despite his poor education, he has overcome that and has been a very great contributor to—

Mr. REED. Will the chairman yield?

If I had the opportunity to go to a football school and not an academic institution, I would be better off today.

Forgive me, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. MCCAIN. Madam President, hopefully we are going to pass the resolution that will allow interpreters to come to the United States under a special program.

I have received letters, and correspondence from literally every military leader and diplomatic leader who has served in Iraq and Afghanistan.

I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the Record copies of those letters and correspondence.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Hon. John McCain, Chairman, Armed Services Committee, United States Senate, Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Chairman, I would like to express my support for the continuation of the Special Immigrant Visa (SIV) program. It is my firm belief that abandoning this program would significantly undermine our credibility and the 15 years of tremendous sacrifice by thousands of Afghans on behalf of Americans and Coalition partners. Failure to demonstrate a shared understanding of their sacrifices and honor our commitment to any Afghan who supports the International Security Assistance Force and Resolute Support missions could have grave consequences for these individuals and bolster the propaganda of our enemies.

During my previous three tours in Afghanistan, I have seen many Afghans put themselves and their families at risk to assist our forces in pursuit of stability for their country. Stories of Afghan interpreters and translators are heart-wrenching. They followed and supported our troops in combat at great personal risk, ensuring the safety and effectiveness of Coalition members on the ground. Many have been injured or killed in the line of duty, a testament to their commitment to support our interests. Continuing our promise of the American dream is more than in our national interest, it is a testament to our decency and long-standing tradition of honoring our allies.

Afghanistan faces a continuing threat from both the insurgency and extremist networks. We must remain committed to helping those Afghans who, at great personal risk, have helped us in our mission. This is the second year the Afghan National Defense and Security Forces (ANDSF) are in the lead for security. They are fighting hard and fighting well for a stable, secure Afghanistan. The vast majority of the SIV applicants have served as interpreters and translators for our troops. They have exposed themselves and compromised the safety of their families to provide critical situational awareness and guidance, both of which have helped save countless Afghan, American and Coalition lives.

Thank you for your continued support of American troops in Afghanistan.

Very Respectfully,

JOHN W. NICHOLSON,
General, U.S. Army, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS,
UNITED STATES FORCES—AFGHANISTAN.
Kabul, Afghanistan.

Hon. JOHN MCCAIN,
Chairman, Senate Armed Services Committee,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN, I am writing you to express my strongest support for the Special Immigrant Visa Program.

Since our arrival in Afghanistan, U.S. Forces have relied upon our Afghan partners, especially our linguists, to perform our mission. They have consistently been there with us through the most harrowing ordeals, never wavering in their support for our soldiers, our mission, and their own country. Many have been injured or killed in the line of duty.

Unfortunately, their support of our mission has resulted in threats from insurgent groups throughout the country. They frequently live in fear that they or their families will be targeted for kidnappings and death. Many have suffered this fate already. The SIV program offers hope that their sacrifices on our behalf will not be forgotten.

After several ups and downs, the program remains an extremely important way for the United States to protect those who assisted us. By December 2014, the Department of State had issued all 4,000 Afghan SIVs allocated under the Consolidated Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year (FY) 2014. As you know, the Defense Authorization Act provides 4,000 additional SIVs for Afghan applicants. The Department’s Status of Afghan Special Immigrant Visa Program report shows there are between 8,000 SIV applications that have been submitted. Each week, I receive several personal requests and inquiries from linguists and others who have worked with, or continue to work with, U.S. Forces, seeking assistance with the Afghan SIV program. I inform them how we are working closely with Congress to obtain adequate SIV allocations each year. This shows just how important this program remains to our Afghan partners, our U.S. Forces.

Since I assumed command of the Resolute Support Mission/U.S. Forces-Afghanistan, much has changed and the Afghan National Defense Security Forces (ANDSF) are in the lead to secure the country. We have a willing and strategic partner whose interests are aligned with our own. The ANDSF is taking the fight to the enemy this fighting season and are performing well. Our prospects for long-term success and a strategic partner have never been better. We would not be in this position without the support and leadership of the U.S. Congress, the American people, the men and women who have served here with distinction, and our Afghan partners.

I urge Congress to ensure that continuation of this program remains a prominent part of any future legislation on our efforts in Afghanistan. This program is crucial to our ability to protect those who have helped us so much.

Thank you for your support for America’s Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, and Marines. Sincerely,

JOHN F. CAMPEL, General, U.S. Army, Commanding.

From: David Petraeus
Date: May 12, 2015

DEAR CHAIRMAN, I write to express my support for the Afghan Special Immigrant Visa (SIV) program and to state that additional SIVs are desperately needed.

Throughout my time in uniform, I saw how important our in-country allies are in the performance of our missions. Many of our Afghan allies have not only been mission-necessary—serving as the eyes and ears of our own troops and often saving American lives—they have risked their own and their families’ lives in the line of duty. Protecting those allies is as much a matter of American national morality as it is American national security. I ask for your help in meeting our obligations and to additional Afghan SIVs to bring our allies to safety in America.

It is crucial that Congress act to provide additional visas for the SIV program. The most recent figures from the State Department suggest that at least 10,000 applicants remain in the SIV processing backlog; as our troop presence in Afghanistan continues, we can expect more endangered Afghan allies to seek our help, adding to the backlog. The Department of State has indicated that an additional 4,000 SIVs would be required to continue to process and issue visas in Fiscal Year 2017. If this program fails far short of the need, it will have serious national security implications.

I am also concerned that Congress may limit eligibility for SIV applicants. The U.S. military presence in Afghanistan relies on local partners who serve as translators, security personnel, and in a multitude of other functions. All of these individuals are vital to the U.S. mission, whether they work directly or indirectly with U.S. forces. Many have served the United States in non-military capacities or in support of the Department of State—either as a result of their service. They are currently eligible for the SIV program and their eligibility should remain intact.

Thank you for your support of the Special Immigrant Visa program. Congress must ensure that the SIV program for our Afghan allies—one of the truly non-partisan issues in Washington—meets the needs of those we seek to help.

Sincerely,

DAVE PETRAEUS.

Mr. MCCAIN. For the sake of illustration, I would like to quote from a couple of the letters I have. One is from General Nicholson, who today is our commander of resolute support, United States Forces-Afghanistan. I won’t read the whole letter, but I would like to quote it because I think it is very compelling.

General Nicholson says:

‘‘During my previous three tours in Afghanistan, I have seen many Afghans put themselves and their families at risk to assist our forces in pursuit of stability for their country. The stories of these interpreters and translators are heart-wrenching. They followed and supported our troops in combat at great personal risk, ensuring the safety and effectiveness of Coalition members on the ground. Continuing our promise of the American dream is more than in our national interest, it is a testament to our decency and long-standing tradition of honoring our allies.’’

I would like to repeat General Nicholson’s last sentence: ‘‘Continuing our promise of the American dream is more than in our national interest, it is a testament to our decency and long-standing tradition of honoring our allies.’’

I would not put it any better than General Nicholson did.

Finally, I would like to quote from a letter by General Campbell, who was my predecessor. General Campbell said:

I am writing you to express my strongest support for the Special Immigrant Visa (SIV) program.

Both of the individuals I just quoted served multiple tours—not one, not two, sometimes as many as five—in Iraq and Afghanistan over the last 14 years. These leaders know what the service and sacrifice of these Afghans and Iraqis have produced: our military has been the difference between the work and loss of their lives since they are the No. 1 target of the Taliban in Afghanistan.

I hope my colleagues, by voice vote, will agree to increase the visa program so that we can allow these people to come to the United States of America because they have some doubts about—their citizenship, their commitment to democracy, their adequacy, the kind of people they are.

Well, these people have already proven their allegiance to the United States of America because they have put their lives on the line. Some of them had their family members murdered, but I want to ask—in what kind of society will we be living if the kind of citizens of this country they will be. I believe that an overwhelming majority of my colleagues agree that, as General Nicholson said in his letter, it is a moral obligation. I think we will all be better after we get this done.

I note the presence of probably the most well-informed Member of the U.S. Senate on budgetary issues, the Senator from Georgia.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SASSÉ). The Senator from Georgia.

Mr. PERDUE. Mr. President, first, I want to thank the distinguished Senator from Arizona, the chairman of the Armed Services Committee, and the ranking member, Senator Reed, for their tireless work in doing God’s work here, and that is making sure we provide for the needs of our men and women in uniform around the world.

There are only 6 reasons why 13 Coalition got together in the first place. One of those six was to provide for the national defense. That is what we are talking about this week.

As we debate the National Defense Authorization Act this week, I personally would like to add a little different perspective to this debate.

In my opinion, today the world is more dangerous than at any time in my lifetime. We have major threats from various perspectives. No. 1, we see the rise of traditional rivals—Russia, China—and ever-more aggressiveness from both. We see the rise of ISIS and attendant networks around the country supporting terrorism and the Islamic State. We see the proliferation of nuclear capability among rogue nations, such as North Korea and Iran. We see the hybrid warfare, including cyber warfare, that is being perpetrated today. What we are not talking about is the growing arms race in space. All this adds to a very dangerous world that is very mobile and puts people right here in the United States in danger, as we have seen already.

As we face these increasing threats, though, at the very time we need our military to be strongest, we are disinvesting in our military.

You can see from this chart that over the last 30 years or so, we have had decreases in the QDRs and all of our defense budgets. We have disinvested in the military for different reasons. First we had President Carter, then we had President Clinton, and now we have President Obama. We have disinvested in the military to the point that today we are spending about 2 percent of our GDP on our military, and that is about $600 billion in round numbers. The 30-year average is 4 percent. That difference, that 1 percentage point of difference, is $200 billion.

What I am concerned about is that as we sit here facing these additional threats today, we have the smallest Army since World War II, the smallest Navy since World War I, and the oldest and smallest Air Force ever. According to the Congressional Budget Office, the security plan is even worse than that. It says that in the next 10 years we will continue to disinvest in our military down to 2.6 percent of our GDP. That is another estimated $100 billion of reduction. This is a new low that I believe we cannot continue to afford.

As we look at our overall defense spending authorization levels today in this NDAA bill, we are falling short of where we need to be based on the threats we face. Don’t just take my word for it. The last defense budget that Secretary Bob Gates actually proposed was in 2011. That was the last one proposed before sequestration took place, and that was the last defense budget that was based on the actual assessment of the threats against our country, not arbitrary budget limitations. His estimate at that time for this fiscal year 2016, was $646 billion. As for 2017, our top-line estimate right now—what we are trying to get approved—is $602 billion. That is a far cry.

By the way, Secretary Gates’ estimate was before ISIS, before the Benghazi attacks on our Embassy, before Russia seized Crimea, before Russia went into the Ukraine, and before China started building islands in the South China Sea. I can go on. How did we get here?

Today, financially, we have an absolute financial catastrophe. In the last 7 years, we have borrowed about 30 percent of our GDP, which is a Federal Government. It is projected that over the next 10 years we will again borrow about 30 percent of what we spend as a Federal Government.

My argument has been that we can no longer be debt hawks; we have to also be defense hawks. By the way, those two can no longer be mutually exclusive.

In order to solve the global security crisis, I believe we need to solve our own financial debt crisis. We all know we have $19 trillion of debt today. What is worse, though, is that CBO estimates that is going to grow to $30 trillion over the next decade unless we do something about it.

This chart shows the real problem. Right now, the problem is not discretionary spending, which is actually down from around $4 trillion in 2008 to about $1.1 trillion today. So discretionary spending is—now, we may have gotten there the wrong way. We used the sequestration to do that. But I would argue that discretionary spending is not where the major problem is today. The major probably is in the entitlements, the Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, pension and benefits for Federal employees, and the interest on our debt.

We have been living in an artificial world where interest rates have been basically zero. We are paying fewer dollars on the Federal debt today—fewer dollars than we were in 2000 when our debt was one-third of what it is today. To deal with the global security crisis, we need to be honest about what we are spending on our military.

Can we afford to be a great power at all times? Sometimes. Today we have national security priorities that aren’t getting properly funded, and yet we know we are spending money inefficiently.

First of all, we have missions that we are able to make happen. I would like to look at the marine expeditionary units around the world. These are the MEUs around the world. I visited a couple of these, by the way. Because of defense cuts, there aren’t enough amphibious ships for the marine to have, that is known as theater reserve force, also known as MEUs. As a result, for missions like crisis response and Embassy protection in Africa, for example, we now have a Special Purpose MAGTF covering this task based on the ground in Moron, Spain.

I personally visited with those people. The best—I mean the very best of America is in uniform around the world taking care of our business and being our interest in freedom here at home. Even this force in Moron, Spain, is seeing a cut in their fleet size of airplanes. They are self-contained. They can get themselves from where they are to the point of crisis very quickly, but we are cutting their ability to do that because of limitations from a financial standpoint.

Another example is the recapitalization program for the Joint Surveillance Target Attack Radar System, or what we call JSTARS. The No. 1 priority for Air Force is a critical provider of ISR ground targeting and battlefield command and control to all branches of our military in almost every region of the world.

As the old fleet is reaching the end of its service, we would like to have a new fleet come online quickly. The problem is we are seeing a projected gap of 7 years where that capability will no longer be available in full force for the people who need it the most—people on the ground and in harm’s way.

We are not able to fund the military at the force size we need either. As a result, we are putting greater pressure on personnel, burning up our troops, putting pressure on families, and elongating our deployments. They spend more time on rotations internationally and not enough time with their families at home, and it is causing problems. It is creating turnover, problems with families, and so forth.

The forces we have are not getting the training they need. For example, two-thirds of Army units are only training at the squad and platoon levels, not the formation levels. We have Air Force pilots actually leaving the service today because they cut back so dramatically on training flights. These examples highlight why we need to scrutinize every dollar we spend on defense so we can ensure these dollars go to our critical requirements of protecting our men and women around the world.

To that end, we need to improve fiscal accountability at the DOD and highlight where we are not currently fulfilling. For example, our Department of Defense has never been audited. Even today, we cannot dictate to the DOD that they provide an audit.

Can you imagine Walmart doing that? The answer is this: We are too big, too complicated, and it is just too difficult to do. Can you imagine Walmart calling the SEC and saying: Sorry, we are not going to comply with your requirements. The DOD is not going to comply with those requirements.

I think we should withhold funds to the accountable agency until a plan is produced that would also allow the Pentagon to keep track of its military equipment. It has been 13 years since that law was passed, and yet they are still not in compliance. This is all just about funding our military, but we also have to be responsible. The men and women in uniform and on the frontlines deserve that.

Firstly, there is a critical need we discussed earlier, JSTARS, Senator Isakson and I have been working to get the replacement fleet ready to go sooner rather than later to eliminate this gap. This fleet must get online faster than the current plan or we face a potential 7-year gap.

I am committed to ensuring that we have what we need to support our service men and women around the world. These efforts will make the Pentagon accountable for our funds and prioritize responsibilities. This debate is all about setting the right priorities, not just here at home with the military but also with other domestic programs and mandatory expenditures. This debate is all about setting the right priorities to make sure we can do what the Constitution calls on us to do, and that is to provide for the national defense.

The national debt crisis and our global security crisis are interlocked inextricably. We are not going to have the flexibility of providing for national defense until we solve this national debt crisis. Our servicemen, servicewomen, and combatant commanders don’t have and will not have the training, equipment, and preparation they absolutely need to fulfill their missions as they face growing threats. It is time that Washington faces up to this crisis.

This is not just about the NDAA. This is about the future of our country and the future of our very way of life. We simply have to come to grips with the situation we find ourselves in. We have to make sure we find a way to address this crisis so every year going forward we don’t have this drama of finding a way to fund our forces to protect our country. We simply have to come to grips and set the right priorities required to defend our country.

I thank the Presiding Officer. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mrs. ERNST. Mr. President, for more than 23 years, I had the great honor of serving in the Army Reserve and National Guard. But this time, I was really surprised that I was able to gain firsthand experience of working alongside the unbelievable men and women in uniform, whose character, honor, and love of our country has led them to sacrifice so selflessly for it. During my time in the military, I had the honor of serving in the Army Reserve and National Guard. It was during this time, more than 23 years I had the great honor of serving in the Army Reserve and National Guard.

As a company commander during Operation Iraqi Freedom, what was so important to me, other than bringing every member of our unit home safely, was ensuring my troops received what they needed when they needed it. Unfortunately, given the nature of war and the learning curve our military had in its first large-scale military deployment since Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm, that did not always happen. However, as the war went on, our military adapted and our troops were able to receive the equipment they needed to do the job.

Even though I am now retired from the military, I still have the privilege of serving our men and women in uniform, just in a different capacity, as a Senator and a member of the Armed Services Committee. It has been an honor to work with Chairman McCain, Ranking Member Reed, and the other distinguished members of the committee on another vital annual Defense bill.

Over the past year, my colleagues and I have worked to produce a bill that enhances the capabilities of our military against current and future threats. This bill will impart much needed efficiencies in the Department of Defense that will result in saving American taxpayer dollars and allow the Department to provide greater support to our warfighters through eliminating unnecessary overhead, streamlining Department functions, reducing unnecessary general officer billets, and modernizing the military health care system.

Furthermore, we have found ways to enhance the capabilities of our warfighters, ensuring our troops have the training opportunities in order to be prepared to execute their assigned missions. This means more rotations to national training centers and more effective home station training for our troops who are being sent into harm’s way around the world.

Our military leaders have stressed that readiness is our number one priority. Adequately funding their request for readiness keeps faith with our service members and ensures that our men and women in uniform have the best chance to come home to their loved ones. However, while we have adequately funded the Department’s readiness needs, sequestration has led us to prioritize readiness over DOD modernization. I believe this is a risky proposition with respect to ensuring our servicemembers are well equipped to confront the advanced equipment, vehicles, ships, and aircraft to confront technologically advanced adversaries, such as Russia and China, in a potential future conflict.

However, as the war went on, our military adapted and our troops were able to receive the equipment they needed to do the job.

Even though I am now retired from the military, I still have the privilege of serving our men and women in uniform, just in a different capacity, as a Senator and a member of the Armed Services Committee. It has been an honor to work with Chairman McCain, Ranking Member Reed, and the other distinguished members of the committee on another vital annual Defense bill.

Over the past year, my colleagues and I have worked to produce a bill that enhances the capabilities of our military against current and future threats. This bill will impart much needed efficiencies in the Department of Defense that will result in saving American taxpayer dollars and allow the Department to provide greater support to our warfighters through eliminating unnecessary overhead, streamlining Department functions, reducing unnecessary general officer billets, and modernizing the military health care system.

Furthermore, we have found ways to enhance the capabilities of our warfighters, ensuring our troops have the training opportunities in order to be prepared to execute their assigned case is in good, well-trained, and experienced hands.

Also included in this bill is a provision I authored with Senator McCaskill of Missouri, which combats retaliation within our military. We cannot allow an assault on one unit to taint another, who come forward seeking justice, and this provision will work to curb the culture of retaliation in our ranks.

Other provisions I pushed to have included in the committee report seek to enhance support to our men and women defending our Nation on the frontlines, but they would also create safeguards which will help ensure your taxpayer dollars are being spent properly within the DOD.

The subcommittee has continued full hearings on all matters of importance. This includes my Program Management Improvement Accountability Act, which is a bipartisan piece of legislation that solves problems with program and project management that have plagued the Federal Government for decades, especially in the Department of Defense. We have read about these failures in the media, IG reports, and the GAO High Risk List. Many projects are grossly overbudget, delayed, or do not meet previously stated goals.

Ultimately, by strengthening its program management policies, the DOD and other Federal agencies will better account for and utilize taxpayer dollars. It will also improve its ability to complete projects on time and on budget, which leads to getting our troops the advanced equipment and weapons they need as soon as possible.

In closing, I want to thank again my colleagues for their work on this bill, but perhaps especially in the Department of Defense. We have heard about these failures in the media, IG reports, and the GAO High Risk List. Many projects are grossly overbudget, delayed, or do not meet previously stated goals.

I want to start by thanking all the members of the Strategic Forces Subcommittee for putting in another year of hard work. I would especially like to thank our Subcommittee Chairman, my colleague from Alabama, Senator Sessions, for the strong partnership we have built over the past 2 years in leading this committee together. I want my colleagues to note that Senator Sessions and his staff worked closely together with me and my staff in developing elements of the bill pertaining to the Strategic Forces Subcommittee.

Together with our colleagues on the subcommittee, we have built bipartisan support and worked on important issues in this bill—no small feat when we are talking about things like nuclear weapons and defending against missile threats from Iran and North Korea.

I also thank the tremendous professionals on our staff, both Republican and Democratic, whose expertise and dedication to serving the national interest are essential to this bill’s success.

In developing the base language for the NDAA, the Strategic Forces Subcommittee held five hearings and a number of briefings on topics ranging from nuclear policy and deterrence, to missile defense, to protecting our satellites in space during a time of rapidly changing threats from potential adversaries who seek to exploit the fragile nature of these assets.

In the area of nuclear forces, our subcommittee has prioritized the need to update our Nation’s nuclear command and control infrastructure to ensure our ability to communicate with our nuclear forces in times of national crisis.

We have also examined the role of our Nation’s deterrent policy toward Russia and approved $28 million to shore up our NATO nuclear mission, and above the funding for the European Reassurance Initiative. These funds will help provide much needed upgrades to the readiness of our dual-capable aircraft and other activities to exercise our nuclear mission in support of NATO.

Within the Department of Energy’s National Nuclear Security Administration, we continue to fully authorize the W-76-2 submarine missile warhead life extension program, where upward of two-thirds of our deterrent will exist upon full implementation of the New START Treaty.

We also continue to extend the B61 gravity bomb in support of our NATO allies, and we have fully authorized the life extension of the W80 cruise missile warhead, which will support the air leg of our triad.

The subcommittee has continued full support of the Senate-authorized Cooperative Threat Reduction Program, which marks its 25th anniversary this year. I would like to thank Senator Lugar and Senator Nunn for their extraordinary service to this Nation. This program, named for my fellow Hoosier predecessor, Senator Richard Lugar, combat nuclear proliferation by helping nations detect nuclear materials crossing their borders and by securing nuclear materials in their countries to keep them out of the hands of terrorists.

In addition to working with nuclear material, the program also addresses biological threats, helping other nations secure dangerous pathogens. In the case of the Ebola epidemic, the program was able to help the 101st Airborne Division develop rapid field diagnostics to quickly screen infected patients from those who simply had a fever unrelated to the disease. Many have credited this program’s quick response, combined with the capabilities of the 101st Airborne, with reversing the tide of the Ebola epidemic before it spread to large cities.

In the area of cutting-edge hypersonic systems, the bill provides full funding for programs like conventional prompt strike that aim to even the global playing field on hypersonic systems development.

According to public reports, Russia and China are prioritizing the development of hypersonic weapons and making troubling progress relative to our own. If we are to maintain our Nation’s technological edge over our potential adversaries, we need to invest in this critical area of research and development.

While the House authorizers and appropriators have allocated funds for the conventional prompt strike, I am surprised and troubled to see that the Senate Appropriations Committee has proposed cutting this program by almost half. I hope to work with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to address this issue and restore full funding to conventional prompt strike in the coming months.

In the area of electronic warfare, our subcommittee has fully authorized the Commander of U.S. Strategic Command to coordinate and develop joint execution plans to operate and fight in a domain that includes electronic jamming and other means that disrupt our fragile electronic systems. Russia has a long-established doctrine in this area, but ours has been lacking. This provision will help reverse that trend.

In the area of missile defense, the subcommittee has fully authorized the President’s budget for the Missile Defense Agency and authorized additional funding for key development areas, including the redesigned kill vehicle, the multi-object kill vehicle, and an improved ground-based interceptor booster.

The NDAA also requires a review of DOD’s strategy and capabilities for countering cruise and ballistic missiles before they are launched, and it directs the Department of Defense to conduct a flight test of the GMD system at least once each fiscal year. The bill provides funding above and beyond the President’s budget request for our collaborative missile defense programs with Israel, including Iron Dome, David’s Sling, and Arrow. However, a program unopposed by Iran’s growing ballistic missile arsenal, I believe these programs require additional funding, particularly for procurement related to David’s Sling and the Arrow systems. These programs are more important than ever and have my full support.

In the area of space, the NDAA addresses a number of important issues... related to our critical satellite-based capabilities. This week we commemorated the 72nd anniversary of D-day. Anyone who knows the history of the Normandy invasion knows how critical a role weather forecasting can play in the success or failure of a mission. This year, it is time for America to close DOD's ability to provide weather data to our troops around the world, par-goal has become a topic of debate, par-particularly given the deteriorating re-

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The

Mr. President, I present to the Senate the nomination of

Mr. President, almost a year ago exactly I met with a remarkable woman. She was wise, gracious, and funny, but I think what struck me most about her was her idealism. Cassandra Quin Butts believed in the revolutionary promise on which our Nation was founded; that all men and women are created equal. She spent her entire working life trying to expand that promise.

On the day we met, her nomination to serve as U.S. Ambassador to the Bahamas had been blocked for more than a year for reasons entirely unrelated to her qualifications. That did not make her cynical. It did not diminish her determination. She was always willing to know if there was anything she could do to help. It was typical. Cassandra Butts asked the question, How can I help?

Sadly, Ms. Butts will never receive the vote she deserved on her nomination to be Ambassador. She died over a week ago at the far-too-young age of

50. She felt ill for a few days, had seen a doctor, and died peacefully in her sleep before learning of her diagnosis, acute leukemia.

Cassandra Butts was a longtime friend of President Obama and First Lady Michelle Obama. Ms. Butts and the future President met during their first days of Harvard Law School in the financial aid office. Neither one of them came from families that could simply write checks for tuition. In a statement mourning her passing, the President and First Lady remembered

Ms. Butts and said as "a citizen, always pushing, always doing her part to advance the causes of opportunity, civil rights, development, and demo-

"Cassandra," the Obama's wrote,

"was someone who put her hands squarely on that arc of the moral universe, and she knew how critical it was close to power. She left the White House in November 2009 to serve as Ambassador to the Bahamas. From 2004 to 2008, she served as Senior Vice President for Domestic Policy at the Center for American Progress—with a few breaks in service to help her old friend. When Barack Obama was elected President, Cassandra Butts was there, helping him to get his office up and running.

Later, she helped her old friend the President launch his historic Presidential campaign. When he won, Casandra Butts was there again to offer advice on transition. She stayed on to serve the President as Deputy White House Counsel. Among the lasting marks she leaves on our democracy,

Cassandra Butts helped shepherd through this Senate the nomination of the first Latina ever to serve on the U.S. Supreme Court, Justice Sonia

Sotomayor. Ms. Butts was a remarkable humble person, especially for one who worked do so close to power. She left the White House in November 2009 to serve as Senior Advisor at the Millennium Challenge Corporation. During her time there, she kept an exhausting schedule, traveling to some of the poorest places on Earth, searching for innovative ways to use America's leadership and ingenuity to help lift desperately poor people, especially women and children, out of crushing poverty.

It saddens me that Ms. Butts never had the opportunity to serve as Ambassador because she could have had so many ideas that she would have brought to represent America's values and help the people of the Bahamas.

She had hoped that being an African-American woman, it would help to un-advance the causes important to equality. While he waited for a vote on her nomination, Cassandra Butts represented our Nation well on the world stage in a different capacity. She served with distinction as Senior Advo-

Accounts of her life will always lead off with the fact that she was a close friend, both professional and family, but that was only part of the story. Cassandra Butts was a friend to countless people around the world, from the famous to the voiceless. She was a seeker of truth and justice. She was also warm and funny, smart and passionate. She was her recent. She loved jazz, the UNC Tar Heels, fast cars, especially her BMW.

She left this world too soon and she will be missed. Loretta and I wish to extend our condolences to her many friends and family, especially her mother Mae Karim, her father Charles Norman Butts, her sister and brother-in-law, Deidra and Frank Abbott, her two nephews whom she adored, Austin and Ethan Abbott.

It is sad reality that as I stand here today and pick up this publication on the desk of every Senator, the Executive Calendar for the Senate of the United States, and turn to look at it closely, I find in this calendar, on page 5, the name of Cassandra Butts, waiting for the Senate to approve her position as the Ambassador to the Bahamas.

She waited and waited and waited. Eventually she passed away, waiting on the Senate Calendar to serve this country. When the Senators who had a hold on her for all this period of time were asked: Why? Why did you hold up this woman, one of them was very candid and said: We knew she was close to the President, and if we stopped her, we knew the President would feel the pain. I hope today we all feel the pain that this lady can no longer have the distinction of ending her fabulous public career as our Ambassador representing the United States to the Bahamas.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Hoeven). The Senator from New Hampshire.

Ms. AYOTTE. Mr. President, I come to the Senate floor to talk about an issue I have worked on for a number of years and something I feel very strongly about; that is, our detention and interrogation policy. Since this administration took office, based on a campaign promise, the President has sought to close Guantanamo Bay.

This administration has continued to release individuals held at Guantanamo—dangerous terrorists, with backgrounds, whether it is involvement with Al Qaeda or involvement with the Taliban or other groups. Just recently, they have released another 11 individuals from Guantanamo Bay. One of the issues that has troubled me most about this is that I think it is very important the administration continue to talk about this going on, but so much of this is happening in the cloak of darkness. So much of it is an unwillingness of this administration to level with the American people about the terrorist affilitions and activities of current and former Guantanamo Bay detainees.

We have seen the most recent example of that which is troubling. On May 23, the Special Envoy for Guantanamo Detention Closure, testified before the House Foreign Affairs Committee that there have been Americans who have died because of Guantanamo Bay detainees. He was asked about this in this House hearing. My assumption is one of the reasons he was asked about it is because 30 percent of those who were held at Guantanamo—terrorists who have been released from Guantanamo—are suspected or confirmed of reengaging in terrorism. Apparently, Mr. Lewis was asked, and he said there have been Americans who have died because of Guantanamo detainees who have been released.

So a fair question—a very important question—is to understand what these former detainees have done in terms of attacking Americans or our NATO allies who have worked with us to fight terrorists in places around the world.

That was a question I posed to this administration. Based on what Mr. Lewis, who is the Special Envoy for Guantanamo Detention Closure said, I asked the administration for information about those who have been killed by Guantanamo detainees. On May 23 the administration responded to me, but their answers to my questions were classified in such a way that even my staff with a top secret security clearance could not review the response. I was able to review the response.

What I want to be able to do is to give information to the American people so they can understand the response, because this administration continues to push to close Guantanamo. They continue to release terrorists from two countries around the world, and they continue to refuse to tell the American people—hiding behind classification—who the people are who are being released in terms of their backgrounds and in terms of terrorist affiliations. They have been releasing a name and the country they are transferred to—but no information to the American people about the terrorist background of these individuals, no information to the American people. We cannot know individuals have been released, what they have been engaged in, and whether they have been engaged in prior attacks on Americans or our allies. I believe the American people have a right to know.

On Tuesday I also wrote a followup letter to the President urging him to provide without delay an unclassified response to understand how many Americans and our NATO partners have been killed by former Guantanamo detainees and which former detainees committed these terrorist attacks, so we can understand what we are facing.

Unfortunately, we don’t know. But in the Washington Post today there was an article that reported that 12 former Guantanamo detainees were involved in attacks on Americans after their release. The estimate in the Washington Post report is close than these detainees have killed about a half dozen Americans.

Why should the American people have to rely on the ability of the Washington Post to tell us about who these people are? I appreciate the reporting of the Washington Post, but I believe the American people deserve an answer directly from this administration. Since Mr. Lewis testified that Guantanamo detainees have been involved in attacking Americans, the administration has to provide the Alex detainees from Guantanamo, with more than two dozen likely to be released in the coming months. Again, 30 percent are suspected or confirmed of re-engaging in terrorism—people such as Ibrahim al-Qosi, affiliated with Al Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula, who was released by this administration in 2012 to Sudan. He has joined back up with Al Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula, which is headquartered in Yemen. Previously, what has been revealed about him publicly is that he trained at a notorious Al Qaeda camp as a member of Osama bin Laden’s elite security detail.

What is more troubling is that he is now back with Al Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula. He is a leader and a spokesman for this group, and he is urging attacks on American and our allies. That is what is at stake when we think about the security of the American people. Yet the policy that this administration and this President keep pushing is to close Guantanamo. They are trying to take de facto steps to close Guantan\mao by releasing people without any information to the American peoples.

In this Defense authorization bill that is pending on the floor, in the Armed Services Committee I have included a provision that would prohibit international release or transfer of any detainee from Guantanamo until the Department of Defense submits to Congress an unclassified report on the individual’s previous terrorist activities and affiliations, as well as their support or participation in attacks against the United States or our allies.

The administration keeps claiming that it is in the best interests of the United States—in our national security interests—to close Guantanamo. I fully disagree with that argument. But if that is what they really believe, why have they not told the American people, when they release the terrorists who are held at Guantanamo, whom these people have been involved with and whether they have been involved with attacks on Americans or our all-lies. Instead, they give the name and the country they are going to. That is all they are telling the American people. If it is in our national security interests, they will fully tell the American people why they believe in transferring or releasing these terrorists to third parties, and if they do not tell the American people the truth about who is being released and what they have been involved in, I think the American people, if they know that information, will side with my view of this. We already know that in the appropriation bill for the last 2 years for the authorization bill for the last 2 years, there is basically an unlimited purchase of Russian rocket engines. In the negotiations that I have been trying to move forward so I could satisfy the appropriators, there is no doubt who has the best interest at heart; they are talking to—the people I am negotiating with—Boeing, Lockheed, and the outfit called ULA, which is the two of them. This is a classic example of the influence of special interests over the Nation's priorities. But more importantly, they are so greedy that they were willing to put millions of dollars into the pockets of these individuals, two of whom have been sanctioned by the United States of America and one of whom has been sanctioned by the EU—crones of Vladimir Putin. It is really remarkable, this nexus of special interests that end up profiting for these individuals millions of dollars, which I will talk about in a minute.

Really, I may again that this is why we see the American people being cynical about Washington—this tight relationship between this conglomerate of two of the biggest defense industries in America—Boeing and Lockheed—being with an expenditure of tens of millions of tax-payer dollars. It is really remarkable.

In the authorization bill we put a strict limit on it, and in the Committee on Appropriations, which we already knew how basically an open door. So that is why I was trying and will continue to try to have a simple amendment which says that we will not provide money to any company or corporation that would then profit these people who have been sanctioned by the United States of America in two cases, and in one case by the European Union. Why have they been sanctioned? Because of their invasion of the Ukraine.

So when we talk about things that are unsavory, this is probably one of the most unsavory issues I have been involved in during my many years here. It was 2 years ago when Vladimir Putin began his campaign in Eastern Europe, dismembering a sovereign nation. Today, we are facing an increasingly belligerent Russian Government, and we know that Putin continues to occupy Ukraine, he threatens our European Union. Why have they been sanctioned? Because of their invasion of the Ukraine.

Admiral Stavridis, I have heard from many others in the same way.

Here we are with a clear influence of ULA, which is Lockheed and Boeing—two of the largest defense industries in America with, guess what, their headquarters in Alabama and guess what, their headquarters in Illinois. Guess who is leading the charge to continuing to place basically unending dependence on Russian rockets. Guess who. You can draw your own conclusion.

So let me go on. Let's talk about these individuals for a minute. I would like to discuss how continuing to buy these RD–180 engines would have us do business with a Russian Government and directly enrich Putin's closest friends who are a group of corrupt cronies and government apparatchiks, including persons the United States and the European Union have sanctioned in relation to Russia's invasion of Ukraine and the annexation of Crimea. With the backing of a personal friend, as many others in America with, guess what, guess who, United Launch Alliance. This new state-owned space corruption, in fact, swallows up dozens of other Russian companies.

To be clear, Roscosmos is not a privately owned corporation facilitating business with the Russian Government. It is the Russian Government. As a state corporation, it furthers state policy and is controlled by apparatchiks who have agency authority from Putin to do his bidding. So there should be no confusion; Roscosmos is part of the very same military industrial base that conducts bloody operations in Ukraine and Syria.

Under Roscosmos, Putin is no longer using Russian shell companies or offshore corporations to sell Russian rocket engines to line the pockets of his most trusted friends. Roscosmos is directly controlled by many of them. If you look at their highest level, the individuals who control the company look like a who's who of U.S. sanctions—officers and directors who have been individually sanctioned by the United States, the European Union or control other companies that have been similarly sanctioned in connection with Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

Let's start with Sergey Chemezov. There he is. Sergey Chemezov is the man at the very top of this chart. Chemezov is the most influential member of the Roscosmos supervisory board and appears to finance operations of Roscosmos through a bank he controls as part of his giant, state-owned defense corporation, Rostec.

As CEO of Rostec, Chemezov controls roughly two-thirds of Russia's defense sector and employs more than 900,000 people, which is approximately 1.2 percent of the whole Russian workforce. This has led some in the Russian government to refer to him as the "shadow defense industry minister."

More importantly, Sergey Chemezov is a close personal friend of Putin and is sanctioned with Putin in Communist East Germany during the 1980s. The two lived together in an apartment complex in Dresden. Chemezov is said to be Putin's KGB mentor. Chemezov accumulated his wealth and gave him a competitive business advantage, but the truth is that his meteoric rise was fueled by a series of Kremlin-backed takeovers of prominent Russian companies, and now Roscosmos has been added to the list. Both Chemezov and his state-owned defense corporation Rostec are targeted by U.S. sanctions. I repeat, they and his company are targeted by U.S. sanctions, as is the Rostec-owned bank Novikombank, which finances Roscosmos's operations.

Another target of U.S. sanctions is the Roscosmos' chief executive officer. He has been sanctioned by the European Union. Recently, he was the head of Russia's largest car manufacturer. This car company is Buhanka, which is said to be taken over by Chemezov's behemoth defense corporation Rostec, and Chemezov later served on the company's board as both chairman and deputy chairman. Komarov is Chemezov's protégé.

To put it simply, Chemezov hand-picked Komarov—a man with little or no experience in the space industry—to run Roscosmos. Chemezov leveraged his position as CEO of Rostec and his access to Putin to make sure that Roscosmos's new head is someone he can control. This gives Chemezov the ability to manage Roscosmos from the shadows, much as he has done with Russia's defense industry. Think of Komarov's relationship to Chemezov as Dmitry Medvedev's relationship to Putin.

Finally, we have Dmitry Rogozin. Yet another target of U.S. sanctions, Rogozin has served as Deputy Prime Minister of the Russian Federation and as the so-called space czar since 2011. Remember, he has been sanctioned by the United States of America; he is now the space czar in Russia. He is also the chairman of Roscosmos's board of directors and has overseen the transformation of Roscosmos into its new form, a massive state-owned corporation.

Not surprisingly, during his tenure, Rogozin has been part of a period of unprecedented corruption. He has publicly acknowledged "a systemic crisis from which the space agency is yet to emerge." He also attributes recent financial scandals and criminal activities to a "moral decline of space industry managers. I want to emphasize this. These are Rogozin's words, not mine. The Russian space czar, who has overseen the restructuring of Roscosmos, publicly admits that individuals running the state-owned corporation are hopelessly and fatally corrupt.

In May 2015, the Russian Audit Chamber reported that in fiscal year 2014 alone, Roscosmos misappropriated approximately $1.8 billion. In fact, the report claimed that Rogozin disappeared. The report cited gross financial violations, such as improper use of funds, misuse of appropriated funds, and violations in financial reporting methods. The number was so shocking that Rogozin first thought they must be wrong. They finally concluded that "[the original Roscosmos organization] is among the biggest and least disciplined [of government agencies] that blatantly ignore regulatory requirements and best practices in state procurement orders."

And this is from Russia's own internal government watchdog, the rough equivalent of the U.S. Government Accountability Office, GAO.

Despite these threats, we still manage to funnel hundreds of millions of dollars to Chemezov, Komarov, Rogozin, and countless other Russian soldiers. It must be time to bring our access to space. Just last year, he declared:

We are not going to deliver the RD–180 engines if the United States will use them for non-civil purposes. We also may discontinue servicing the engines that were already delivered to the United States.

I am here to tell you that we are subsidizing the Russian military industrial complex at the expense of our own national interests, and we must end this dangerous addiction before it is too late.

So here we are, my friends, with a blatant, incredible story of people who are so involved in the Russian invasion of Ukraine that they were sanctioned. They were sanctioned by the United States of America and other countries. They are now in charge of the Russian rocket program. They are the ones into whose pockets go the hundreds of millions of dollars we spend on these Russian rockets.

We have this incredible alliance of Boeing and United that is unbelievable in this consortium of the two biggest defense industries in America that has such control over the body that they will continue to subsidize and pay hundreds of millions of American dollars to corrupt crooks—people and money that will fuel Putin’s activities. And we all know that his indiscriminate bombing in Syria is slaughtering thousands of innocent people and driving thousands into refugee situations. It is Vladimir Putin who is bombing the people we train and equip.

By the way, as we might have seen in the two couple of days, Bashar al-Assad has said that there is going to be no peace, that he is going to regain control of the entire country of Syria, making a farce and a joke out of the so-called ceasefire that was orchestrated by Secretary of State, who went to Moscow on bended knee to beg his buddy Lavrov to agree to a ceasefire that really never existed. The point is, we do have a supply of rocket engines. Admittedly, they are more expensive. I will freely admit that. But we also have a number of other corporations—not just SpaceX—but Blue Origin, and there are a number of others—that are developing rocket engines. If we look at what SpaceX just did, they were able to land a rocket for the first time so it is reusable. Their space launch—they were reusing it. There will be other breakthroughs thanks to these entrepreneurs like Elon Musk and Jeff Bezos and others who are taking charge, when this old consortium, this old military industrial complex called ULA, is running things and we are paying them $800 million a year to do nothing but stay in business.

My friends, I would also point out one other aspect of this. The Appropriations Committee’s job is to appropriate. It is the authorizing committee that does the authorizing. What was in the appropriations bill in numerous markups that the Defense Appropriations Subcommittee has had. I guarantee you that. So they took it upon themselves on an issue such as this to put in their own version, which is obviously controlled by Alabama and Illinois.

So that is what is wrong with this system. That is what is wrong with this body. That is what is wrong. And the American people are beginning to figure it out, and they don’t like it, and they demand free competition. And if we do, in this bill is language that will cost up to $1.5 billion because that is what this bill will force to be done—legislation that will result in a $1.5 billion to $5 billion tax increase.

I pointed out yesterday—and lost a vote—that in 1992 we spent $20 million on medical research out of the Defense appropriations, out of American tax dollars. Today, it is $1 billion worth of medical research, most of which has nothing to do with the men and women who are serving this country.

I note the presence of the Senator from Colorado. I am sure he may even know these individuals. I would like for him to know that they are crooks. They are crooks, they are corrupt, and they are butchers. So I would like for him to meet them as he continues to advocate for the status quo, which is a totally unacceptable expenditure of our tax dollars, which, indeed, are used to kill Americans. That is a heavy responsibility. I would say to my new friend in the Senate, the Senator from Colorado. That is a heavy responsibility. These guys are killing people and they are spending these dollars, murderers and thugs. That is something I would be proud of.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Colorado, Mr. GARDNER, Mr. President, I have great respect for my colleague from Arizona. The service he has given to this country and the sacrifices he has endured are tremendous, and nobody can underestimate what he has done for this Nation.

I don’t think anybody here would ever think they have done that in whatever legislative action they take. So while we may disagree on certain issues or agree with a different course of action, I believe everybody wants to do what is best for their Nation.

When it comes to this particular issue of having access to space, having reliable access to space, maintaining competition in our industry so that we place money in the pocket of our taxpayers who are serving this country and the sacrifices he has endured are tremendous, and nobody can underestimate what he has done for this Nation.

26. 2015, talks about the need for this program.

Intelligence Director James Clapper and Defense Secretary Ash Carter on May 11, 2015, together said:

We are working diligently to transition from the Russian-made RD-180 rocket engine into domestically sourced propulsion capabilities, but are concerned that section 1608 presents significant challenges to doing so while preserving assured access to space.

They care about the security of this Nation. They care about the secure future of this Nation.

In fact, just a few days ago, in an article from former General Shelton, four-star commander in the U.S. Air Force, he talked about the need to move away from these rockets to transition to an American-made rocket but in the meantime not allow our capability, our capability, or our competition to suffer.

Here is what it would cost. This is what it would cost. Here is the graph. This is what the American taxpayers would be paying—35 percent more. $1.5 billion to a $5 billion increase in spending if the language of the bill, as it is written today, goes into law. That is not something in the cloak of national security in the mailroom trying to come up with figures. That is what the experts agree will happen.

While this body is talking about there is not enough money to fund defense, this body is voting on amendments to increase spending on defense, the same policies enshrined in this bill would cost up to $5 billion more. If we truly want to pull back and we have resources needed to defend this country, let’s not self-inflict $5 billion worth of harm when we all agree to transition to an American-made system. Let’s do so in a way that relies on the ability to do what is right with competition, with reliability, instead of transitioning to a system that can’t even get off the ground without Russia’s engines are essential for now. General Shelton begins: “The U.S. Senate is debating the 2017 National Defense Authorization Act.” An amendment proposed “would provide relief” from the restrictions that are facing right now, “recognition that the current draft legislation would significantly harm the national security space program.”

A four-star general in service to our Nation has said that if we don’t change the bill as it is written, it would significantly harm the national security space program. General Shelton is the former commander of Air Force Space Command. I think he knows what he is talking about. I think he is an expert. I can find more quotes from others.

The NASA Administrator believes that, without this language, we are going to increase costs in NASA, not just the Department of Defense, and we are going to hurt our ability to access space and access launches.

You talk to the intel communities—intel communities that believe they would lose the capacity to launch satellites that provide missile launch detection that can protect our people and our country.

Yes, let’s make sure we transition, yes, let’s make sure we change the status quo, but let’s do it in a way that is smart, that protects the interests of the American people. That is what this amendment is about, and we can all agree to that.

Mr. President, I would like to change topics quickly, if I could.

MARION KONISHI AND CAMP AMACHE PILGRIMAGE

Mr. President, just a couple of weeks ago in Colorado, Channel 9 News in Denver reported that a bus was going to leave Denver to make a four-drive hour trip to the site of where some 7,000 people lived, worked, and called home during much of World War II. Ten weeks after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed Executive Order 9066, creating internment camps for people of Japanese descent. One of those camps was in Colorado.

Just a couple of weeks ago marked the 40th year that Japanese Americans have made a formal pilgrimage to that camp. Those 7,000 people lived in barracks, formed their own schools, planted gardens, and had beauty parlors and Boy Scout troops. Their sons volunteered to fight and die for the country that imprisoned their parents. Many of the visitors to the camp were elderly, in their nineties. There were some college students who made the visit as well, amongst the people who visited Camp Amache just a couple of weeks ago in Colorado.

Her name is Marion Konishi. It was her first visit to Camp Amache since she left the camp more than 70 years ago. She was a valedictorian, and 73 years ago she gave a speech as the head of her class. Just a few weeks ago, she returned to Camp Amache where she reread that speech again for the first time.

I thought I would read excerpts of that speech today, her speech titled “America, Our Hope is Anew.” June 25, 1943.

One and a half years ago I knew only one America—an America that gave me an equal chance in the struggle for life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. If I was asked then—“What does America mean to you?”—I would answer without any hesitation and with all sincerity—“America means freedom, equality, security, and justice.”

The other night while I was preparing for this speech, I was in the same question—“What does America mean to you?” I hesitated—I was not sure of my answer. I wondered if America still means and will mean freedom, equality, security, and justice when some of its citizens were segregated, discriminated against, and treated so unfairly. I knew I was not the only American seeking a home.

Then I remembered that old saying—all the answers to the future will be found in the past for all men. So mindful of the searchlights reflecting in my windows, I sat down and tried to recall all the things that were taught to me in my history, sociology, and American life classes. This is what I remembered.

America was born in Philadelphia on July 4, 1776, and for 167 years it has been held as the home, the only home, the common home. America has guaranteed to each and all, native and everyone foreign, the right to build a home, to earn a livelihood, to work, to vote, speak, think, act— as a free man equal to every other man.

Every revolution within the last 167 years which had for its aim more freedom was won by her constitution from an oppressed people has ever gone unanswered by her. America froze, shockless in the snow at Valley Forge, and battled for her life at Gettysburg. She gave the world its greatest symbols of democracy: George Washington, who freed her from tyranny; Thomas Jefferson, who defined her democratic course; and Abraham Lincoln, who saved her and renewed her faith.

Sometimes America failed and suffered. Sometimes she made mistakes, great mistakes. Sometimes she almost failed and tried to rectify all the injustice that flowed from them. . . . Her history is full of errors and mistakes, but America has learned and has marched forward onward toward a goal of security and peace and a society of free men where the understanding that all men are created equal, and that all men whatever their race, color, or religion be given an equal opportunity to save themselves and each other according to their needs and abilities.

I was once again at my desk. True, I was just as much embittered as any other evacuee. But I had found in the past the answer to many questions. I had faith in America—faith in the America that is still alive in the hearts, minds, and consciences of true Americans today—faith in the American sportsmanship and attitude of fair play that will judge citizenship and patriotism on the basis of actions and achievements and not on the basis of physical characteristics.

Can we the graduating class of Amache Senior High School, still believe that America means freedom, equality, security, and justice? Do I believe this? Do my classmates believe this? Yes, with all our hearts, because in that faith, in that hope, is my future, our future, and the world’s future.

To Marion Konishi, today Marion Kobukata, her husband Kenneth, who served in the 42nd, thank you for sharing these words 73 years later.

Mr. President. The PRESIDING OFFICER, the Senator from Arizona.

Mr. McCARTY. Mr. President, you have a choice here. You can believe the Senator from Colorado, you can believe the Secretary of Defense, you can believe the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency; you can believe the Director of the National Security Agency; you can believe the CIA, former Director of the National Security Agency; Michael Morell, former Deputy Director and Acting Director of the Central Intelligence Agency; Michael Rogers, former Chairman of the House Select Committee on Intelligence; John Redd, and there are many more. All of them are saying they support what I am trying to do. It is interesting that the Senator from Colorado would completely ignore the view and position of the most respected people in America. I respect the Senator from Colorado. I do not compare his credentials to that of the former Secretary of Defense. The way. Americans for Tax Reform is in opposition to the proposal to lift the ban on the rocket engines. They point out America has spent over $6 billion—$1 billion that they have spent on this.

Also, there was an interesting incident that happened maybe a couple of months ago where an individual who is an executive from this outfit called SpaceX made a speech that had a lot of interesting comments in it. He obviously didn’t know that it was being recorded. The interesting thing is that this man, Brett Toebey, vice president of engineering for ULA, said during a lecture at the University of Colorado in Boulder, CO, last week that the Department of Defense had “bent over backwards to lean the field to ULA’s advantage in a competition with new market entrant SpaceX.” An executive of ULA alleges that the Defense Department has “bent over backwards” to lean the field in favor of ULA. If that isn’t a graphic example of what is going on here, then I don’t know what is. He also said that because of the SpaceX competition, they were going to have to make their workforce smaller and change the way they do business. For all of these years they have not had any competition, but the Defense Department has bent over backwards to lean the field to ULA’s advantage in a competition with the new market entrant Space Exploration Technologies. I wish to remind the Chair that about 10 years ago there was an idea for Boeing to build a new tanker. It smelled very bad. I, my staff, and others pursued that up with executives from Boeing going to jail. Unfortunately, this is another one of those examples that contributes to the profound cynicism of the American people about how their money is spent.

I have a choice. They can believe the Senator from Colorado, and I am sure that the Senator from Illinois will come to the floor because that is where Boeing is headquartered. They will talk about all of these things, and then you can compare that with Leon Panetta—probably one of the most respected men in America and one of the great Secretaries of Defense. General Hayden, Michael Morell, James Rogers, James Stavridis, and all of these people who have no dog in this fight. They don’t have anything based in their State that would affect their State’s economy. They have no wealth of experience and current security of this country—‘losing/delaying the capability to place position and navigation, communication, missile warning, nuclear detection, intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance satellites in orbit would be significant.” The Administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said before the Senate when asked about what would happen with the loss of these rockets: They are counting on these rockets to be able to get the number of engines that would satisfy the requirements for NASA to fly the Dream Chaser when it comes around in 2019.

The Dream Chaser already has a re-supply service contract for the International Space Station. It is designed to fly on top of one of these rockets. If we were to change that, it would no longer be true that that rocket available, and they would undergo significant cost and delay in trying to retrofit the rocket just like the Orion space program.

We can talk about more experts. In April of 2015, the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics said:

“There’s going to be a period of time where we would like to have the option, possibly, of using RD-180s if necessary. There are much more expensive options available to us but we prefer not to go that way.

We have shown the chart of how expensive it would be, and now I want to show one final chart.

I want to talk about how much money is being spent on rocket engines, I would like to point out this chart. If we are concerned about crookedness from Russia, then let’s talk about other areas where we are importing from Russia.

This is from 2013. If you look at where we are, engines and motors represent .32 percent of this pie chart. That is how much money is being spent on importing engines and motors from Russia. Let’s look at something like nickel. Nickel is .59 percent of our imports from Russia. Engines and motors represent only .32 percent of that.

We are going to continue to have a very good debate in this body. I think Members can come at this from a different approach, and I look forward to working out a solution that all Members can be proud that we have done what is best for our country, our taxpayers, and our security.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. McCAIN. I know the Senator from Utah is waiting. We have a choice: Believe those who have a vested interest in continuing this purchase of Russian rocket engines or believe some of the most respected people in America who say we don’t need to do it. That is what the choice is here.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah.

Mr. LEE. Mr. President, I rise today to discuss and urge my colleagues to support amendment No. 448, the due process guarantee amendment.
This amendment addresses a little known problem that I believe most Americans would be shocked to discover even exists. Under current law, the Federal Government has proclaimed the power—has arrogated to itself the power to detain indefinitely, without formal trial, U.S. citizens and lawful permanent residents who are apprehended on American soil.

Let that sink in for just a minute. If you are a U.S. citizen or a U.S. green card holder and you are arrested on American soil, it is commonly expected of supporting a terrorist group or other enemy of the United States, the Federal Government has claimed the power to detain you indefinitely without formally charging you or without offering you a trial.

I am not talking about American citizens who travel to foreign lands to take up arms against the United States military and are captured on the battlefield. I am talking about U.S. citizens who are apprehended right here in the United States of America.

Under current law, even they can be imprisoned for an unspecified—in fact, unlimited—period of time without ever being charged and without the benefit of a jury trial to which they are entitled.

You don’t need to be a defense attorney to recognize what an outrage this is. Arresting U.S. citizens on American soil and then detaining them indefinitely without charge or a trial is an obvious deviation from the constitutional right to due process of law.

The last time the Federal Government exercised such power and did so without congressional authorization was during the internment of Japanese Americans during World War II. Congress responded by passing a law to prevent it from happening again. Of course, such legal protection should not need to be codified into Federal statute. It is the first place, but they did it anyway.

The Fifth Amendment of the Constitution states in no uncertain terms that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. Then again, as James Madison reminded us, if men were angels, no government would be necessary.

In the wake of World War II, Congress passed and President Nixon signed the Nondetention Act of 1971, which states: "No citizen shall be imprisoned or otherwise detained by the United States except pursuant to an Act of Congress." Those last few words are absolutely crucial: "except pursuant to an Act of Congress." The Nondetention Act of 1971 recognized, as I believe most Americans do, that in some cases—in some grave, treacherous, unfortunate cases—indefinite detention of U.S. citizens may, in the eyes of some, be deemed necessary, but the point is that the Federal Government does not have the inherent power of indefinite detention. The expectation to which such power can even be said to exist within our constitutional framework at all is a question that many of us would regard as at least debatable.

Certainly only an act of Congress, such as an authorization for the use of military force, or AUMF, or perhaps a declaration of war, can give the Federal Government the power to detain U.S. citizens indefinitely without trial, even those who were apprehended on American soil. It may sound as though section 1021 meets the “Act of Congress” threshold established by the Nondetention Act of 1971, but importantly it fails to explicitly state the reason. Here is why: The language of section 1021 merely presumes that the 2001 AUMF gives the Federal Government the power to detain U.S. citizens indefinitely without having to prove anything, even such an explicit grant of such power appears nowhere at all in the 2001 AUMF.

My amendment would resolve this problem. In clear and straightforward language, my amendment clarifies that the alleged enemy who is currently in charge of the government who makes a grievous mistake, like rounding up the Japanese. So we have to be careful. That is what the amendment does do and, just as importantly, on what this amendment does do. So it is time that we finally pass this amendment, and I urge each of my colleagues to do so.

Mr. PAUL. Four years ago we passed legislation under the Defense Authorization Act of Congress that allows the American Government to detain an American citizen without a trial. Think about that. One of our basic rights, one of our most important rights is the right to a trial, to be represented, to have a jury of our peers.

You say: Well, it will never be used. Yes, well, President Obama recognized this. He said: This is a terrible power, and I promise never to use it. Any power that is so terrible that a President says he is not going to use it should not be on the books.

As the Senator from Utah said, it is not about having laws that require angels to be in charge of your government. Someday there will be someone in charge of the government who makes a grievous mistake, like rounding up the Japanese. So we have to be very careful about giving power to our government. That is what the challenge is here.

Many will say: Well, we are at war, and in a war you have to have the law of war.

What is the law of war also known as? Martial law. But this is a war that does not seem to have an end. They are not asking for a 1- or 2-year period in which there won’t be trials; they are asking us to relinquish our right to trial for a war that may have no end.

I want you to imagine this. Who could these enemy combatants be who may not get trials? Imagine you are an Arab-American in Dearborn, MI, and you just happen to be someone who makes a grievous mistake. Maybe that person is a bad person and maybe there is a connection, but shouldn’t a person in Dearborn, MI, have a right to defend themselves in court and say; I was just sending an email to them and I said a few stupid things, but I am not a terrorist. Shouldn't they get the right to defend themselves?

We should be very careful that, as we fight this long war, we don't wake up one day and say we won the war, but we lost what we stood for. We lost the Bill of Rights. We lost it to our soldiers. I know soldiers who lost two arms and a leg fighting for us, and they come home and they were fighting for the Bill of Rights. That is what this should be about—protecting the Bill of Rights while they are gone.

So the question I have for my esteemed colleague is—some will say: Well, they get a hearing. They get a habeas hearing. They go before a judge. Isn't that due process?

Is a habeas hearing equivalent to due process?

Mr. LEE. No. No. Due process can include habeas, but someone might say habeas corpus is the beginning of due process, not the end. Sometimes it occurs at the beginning, sometimes at the end, but regardless of when in the process it occurs, a habeas proceeding does not encompass the sum total universe of what due process means.

You can't read the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, and Eighth Amendments of the U.S. Constitution to see that what happened in the version of NDAA that we passed in 2011 was an affront to the constitutional order. It was an aberration.

We are not asking for anything drastic. All we are asking here is that before the government takes this step—the type of drastic step you are describing—that at a minimum we require Congress to expressly authorize that. Is that really too much?

For those who would say that we are at war, we are in danger—and I understand those who don't like our way of life. They even perhaps want to do us harm. For those who would say that we are at war and we have to take that into account and consider that, my response is, OK. If that is the case, then let's at least do it the way we are supposed to do it. Let's at least have that discussion rather than doing it by subterfuge, rather than doing it under a cloud of uncertainty, rather than doing it by implication. We need to do so expressly. That is all this amendment does.

Mr. PAUL. Let me clarify in a followup question. If an American citizen goes to Syria and fights with ISIS and is captured on the battlefield, this amendment would not mean they get a trial.

Mr. LEE. No.

Mr. PAUL. They could still be held as an enemy combatant.

Mr. LEE. That is correct. This wouldn't cover them at all because that person is outside the United States. That person is captured on the battlefield outside the United States. That person wouldn't be covered under this amendment.

Mr. PAUL. Let's also be clear on what we are talking about. People who have been defined as enemy combatants are not always holding a weapon. You can have a propagandist. You have had propagandists who have been killed overseas who were propagandists for the enemy. So it is conceivable that an American citizen could be exchanging information and saying something degrading to and referring to in favor of the enemy, and that could be considered to be—that person is now a propagandist.

My point is, shouldn't they have a day in court to determine the facts and have representation as opposed to being plucked up and saying: You are going to Guantánamo Bay for the rest of your life because you made some criticism, and now the state has deemed you an enemy.

Mr. LEE. That is absolutely right, and that is precisely why we need these protections. That helps illustrate the slippery-slope nature of this problem. And it also emphasizes why it is that there are some who want to make sure this power exists in the government, that we must pass legislation affirmatively making it so, expressly providing that power rather than doing it indirectly. That is all our amendment does.

This is indeed a slippery slope. If all you have to do to indefinitely detain someone without charge, without trial, suspending their rights under the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, and Eighth Amendments—if that is all you have to do, is charge them in a certain way, then our constitutional protections have become weakened, indeed, to a dangerous degree.

Mr. PAUL. Is it currently true that this amendment is being blocked by one Senator from gaining a vote?

Mr. LEE. We are trying to get a vote.

This got a vote in 2012. It included 67 votes from the Senate for President. We got 67 votes from some Members—including at least one person whom you may be thinking of who has objections to it now. We need this to get a vote. If we are voting on other amendments, which we should be doing, this should get a vote. Nobody has explained to me why this should not at a minimum receive a vote. If somebody doesn't like this, fine, let them vote against it. But we should have a vote on this because this is relevant to the Defense Authorization Act. It was the National Defense Authorization Act passed in 2011 that was the vehicle for enacting this into law.

Mr. PAUL. One concluding point I would like to make would be that we have time in the Senate body to vote about which rockets we are going to use, made in which State and in which country. Shouldn't we take time to vote about the abrogation or possible abrogation of the Bill of Rights, of the right to a trial by jury?

I think this is an eminently important issue, should not be pushed under the rug, and that no one should be afraid to take a stand. Not everyone will agree, but we should be allowed to take a stand on the Senate floor, openly debate, and have a vote on whether you will have your right to trial by jury.
except pursuant to an act of Congress." That sounds good, but it didn’t go far enough.

Despite the shameful history of the indefinite detention of Americans and the legal controversy since 9/11, some in the Hamdi and Padilla support their view. However, the Hamdi case involved an American captured by the United States military on the battlefield in Afghanistan. Yaser Esam Hamdi was a U.S. citizen who took up arms on behalf of the Taliban. He was captured on the battlefield in Afghanistan, not on United States soil. That is the difference. While the Supreme Court did effectively uphold Hamdi’s military detention, the Supreme Court did not accept the government’s broad assertion of executive authority to detain citizens without charge or trial.

In fact, the Hamdi decision says clearly that it covers only “individuals falling into the limited category we are considering,” and did not foreclose the possibility that indefinite detention of a U.S. citizen would raise a constitutional problem at a later date.

Since Hamdi was decided in 2004, decisions by the lower courts have contributed to the legal ambiguity when it comes to the detention of U.S. citizens apprehended in our very own country. You can look at the case of Jose Padilla. He is a U.S. citizen arrested in Chicago in 2002. Padilla was initially detained by the Bush administration under a material witness warrant based on the 9/11 terrorist attacks and was later designated as an enemy combatant who allegedly conspired with Al Qaeda to carry out terrorist attacks, including a plot to detonate a dirty bomb in the United States.

Padilla was transferred to a military brig in South Carolina, where he was detained for 3½ years while seeking his freedom by filing a writ of habeas corpus in Federal court. Now, it is important to note that Padilla was never charged with attempting to carry out the dirty bomb plot. Instead, he was released from military custody in November 2005 and transferred to civilian Federal custody in Florida, where he was indicted on other charges in Federal court related to terrorist plots overseas.

In a 2003 decision by the Second Circuit known as Padilla v. Rumsfeld, the court of appeals held that the 2001 authorization for use of military force, which we call the AUMF, did not authorize Padilla’s military detention. The decision stated: “We conclude that clear Congressional authorization is required for detentions of American citizens. Although section 18 U.S.C. Section 401 (2000), the Non-Detention Act, prohibits such detentions absent specific Congressional authorization.”

So the Padilla case bounced back and forth from the Second Circuit up to the Supreme Court and then to the Fourth Circuit. The legality of his military detention was never conclusively resolved. Thus there remains ambiguity about whether a congressional authorization for the use of military force permits the indefinite detention of United States citizens arrested on United States soil.

So let me say that 12 years—let me repeat, 12 years—after Padilla was initially arrested and detained, he was finally sentenced to 21 years in prison in 2014.

The simple point is that we can protect national security while also ensuring that the constitutional due process rights of every American captured within the United States are protected. That is what this amendment would do. Like the amendment that passed in the Senate last week, this amendment would prevent the government from using a general authorization for the use of military force to apprehend Americans at home and detain them without charge or trial indefinitely. So no one could be picked up and not charged and held indefinitely.

It states very simply in our legislation: “A general authorization to use military force, a declaration of war, or any similar authority, on its own, shall not be construed to authorize the imprisonment or detention without charge or trial of a citizen or lawful permanent resident of the United States.”

The amendment also modifies the existing subsection (a) of the Non-Detention Act, so it covers lawful permanent residents of the United States and ensures that any detention is consistent with the Constitution.

So new subsection (a) will read: “No citizen or lawful permanent resident of the United States shall be imprisoned or otherwise detained by the United States without a judicial determination that an individual is an enemy combatant in the Constitution and pursuant to an Act of Congress that expressly authorizes such imprisonment or detention.”

Now, let me explain the impact of these changes to the law. First, the U.S. Government will continue to be able to detain U.S. citizens or lawful permanent residents on a foreign battlefield pursuant to an authorization to use military force, like what we passed in 2001, that allows the authorities to detain Al Qaeda, ISIL, and affiliated terrorist fighters.

In other words, if the government needs to detain an enemy combatant on a foreign battlefield under a post-9/11 detention statute, the government has the authority to detain Al Qaeda, ISIL, and affiliated terrorist fighters.

Second, when acting with respect to citizens or lawful permanent residents apprehended at home, the amendment makes clear that a general authorization for the use of military force does not authorize the detention, without charge or trial, of citizens or green card holders like Padilla, who are apprehended inside the United States. Instead, they should be arrested and charged like other terrorists captured in the United States.

Now, the simple point is that indefinite military detention of Americans apprehended in the United States is not the American way and must not be allowed. In the United States, the FBI and other law enforcement and intelligence agencies have proven time and again that they are up to the challenge of detecting, stopping, arresting, and convicting terrorists found on United States soil.

Our law enforcement personnel have successfully arrested, detained, and convicted terrorists, both before and after 9/11. Specifically, there were 580 terrorism-related convictions in the Federal criminal courts between 9/11 and the end of 2014. That is according to the Department of Justice.

More recently, Federal prosecutors have charged 85 men and women around our country in connection with ISIL since March of 2014. Suspected terrorists can still be detained within the United States. Some, including some that are terrorism-related, can be held as material witness as part of a Federal grand jury proceeding. Our law enforcement personnel have successfully arrested, detained, and convicted terrorists, both before and after 9/11. Specifically, there were 580 terrorism-related convictions in the Federal criminal courts between 9/11 and the end of 2014. That is according to the Department of Justice.

Similarly, the bill expands what is commonly called the PATRIOT Act, which provides that an alien may be detained for up to 6 months if their release will threaten the national security of the United States or the safety of the community or any person.

Simply put, there is no shortage of authority for U.S. law enforcement to take the necessary actions to protect the homeland. Some may ask why this legislation protects green card holders as well as citizens. Others may ask why the bill does not protect all persons apprehended in the United States from indefinite military detention.

Let me make clear that I would support providing the protections in this amendment to all persons in the United States, but the premise is that there is political support to expand it to cover others besides U.S. citizens and green card holders. We went through this in 2012. I believe, before the Presiding Officer was here. The premise was to prevent the Federal Government from moving in and picking up Americans and holding them without charge or trial, as was done with Japanese Americans after World War II.

Finally, with the passage of this, we will close out that chapter once and for all. So this is not about whether citizens apprehended in the United States, like Jose Padilla or others who would do us harm, should be captured, interrogated, incarcerated, and severely punished. They should be to the fullest extent the law allows, but not an innocent American picked up off the street and held without charge or trial—perhaps because of the person’s name or looks or heritage.

So what about how a future President might abuse his or her authority to indefinitely detain people militarily here in the United States? Our Constitution gives everyone in the United States basic due process rights. The Fifth Amendment provides that “no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law.” This is a basic tenet of our Constitution and our values.

People are entitled to notice of charges, to an opportunity to be heard, and to a fair proceeding before a neutral arbiter. In criminal cases, the accused also has a right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of their peers. So these protections are really a sacred part of who we are as Americans. I think it is something we all take great pride in, and now it is, once again, the time. We did this in 2012, in the fiscal year 2013 NDAA bill.

It received 67 votes on this floor. I would hope that we would not be blocked from taking another vote on this. We experimented with indefinite detention during World War II. It was a mistake we grew out of, and a betrayal of our core values. So let’s not repeat it.

I want to thank Senator LEE, Senator TOM UDALL, Senator PAUL, Senator CRUZ, and others who have worked with us on this issue over the years. I urge my colleagues to support the amendment.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Washington.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, when we are here to protect and defend women of this country to go to war on our behalf, we make a solemn promise to take care of them, to support them while they are abroad, and take care of them when they come home. As a daughter of a World War II veteran, this is a promise I take very seriously, and I know that my colleagues do too.

One aspect of this promise that I have been proud to fight for is the idea that we should help warriors who have sustained injuries or disabilities achieve their dream of starting families. This is something that is hard for many people to think about, but it is a reality for far too many men and women, people like Tyler Wilson. He is a veteran I met who is paralyzed and nearly died in a firefight in Afghanistan.

After years of surgery and rehab and learning an entirely new way of living, he met Crystal, the woman he wanted to spend the rest of his life with. Together, they wanted to start a family. I believe we have an obligation as a nation to help them. That is why I have been fighting to expand VA care to pay for IVF treatments for people like Tyler. It is why I was so encouraged that 6 months ago the Pentagon announced a pilot program to allow servicemembers who are getting ready to deploy—the very men and women who are willing to put their lives on the line in defense of our country—an opportunity for cryopreservation.

That is a practice already widely used among the general population. It gives our deploying members not only the ability to have options for family planning but to try to prevent them from being injured on the battlefield, but it gives them peace of mind. It says they don’t have to worry about choosing between defending their country or a chance at a family someday. As Secretary Ash Carter said himself, this was a move that “honors the desire of our men and women to commit themselves completely to their careers, or to serve courageously in combat, while preserving the ability to have children in the future.”

I couldn’t agree with that sentiment more. While the pilot program was not groundbreaking and, in fact, has been used by the British Armed Forces for years, the Pentagon’s announcement spoke volumes about having respect for servicemembers who are willing to risk suffering catastrophic injuries on our behalf to tell them: No matter what happens on the battlefield, you will be there for you with the best care available.

I applaud Secretary Ash Carter for his leadership. It is the right thing to do for our young men and women who have been promised that their service is complete. That is why I was so shocked by one line in this massive NDAA bill before us, a line that brings me to the floor today. Blink and you will miss it. On page 1,455 of the 1,600-page bill, in one tiny line on a funding chart, you will find an attempt to roll back access to the care members of our military earned in their service to our country.

That line—that simple little line—will zero out the very program that helps men and women fulfill their dreams of having a family, even if they go on to suffer catastrophic injuries while fighting for our behalf. The very program that Secretary Carter got off the ground just 6 months ago, the promise the Pentagon made, this bill throws in the trash.

Taking away that dream is wrong. It is not what our country is about. While I don’t know how or why that line got into the bill, I do know that it was my hope to shine a light on it in the hopes that we can get this fixed before it is too late.

In the past day, I have talked to both the chair and ranking member, and I am hopeful that we can change course. Quick to honor our military members with their words, but our servicemembers need to see that same commitment with their actions.

That is why I am here today urging my colleagues to keep this vital service intact for members of our military. We can take action that truly shows our servicemembers and our veterans that we understand this service is a cost of war and it is a cost that we, as a country, are willing to take on.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida.

Mr. NELSON. Mr. President, I am going to try to thread sense out of some of the discussion that has been going on, which has been quite detailed and very esoteric, with regard to the Russian rocket engine which is the main engine in the tail of the Atlas V rocket—the first stage of the Atlas V.

Why is there a Russian engine? In the early 1990s, at the time of the disintegration of the Soviet Union, the United States went in to try to help secure the nuclear material and nuclear weapons. It was clearly in the interest of the United States and her allies that those nukes not get into the hands of rogue nations or rogue groups.

At the same time, it was clearly in the interests of the United States that we try to prevent all of the experts, the Russian scientists and engineers that had been involved in the Russian or the Soviet Union’s rocket program—and it was an exceptional program—from going to rogue nations or to rogue governments. Read: Iran.

Thus it became apparent, when U.S. scientists, engineers, and space pioneers visited the Russian engine plant, that it was this extraordinary engine that had this high compression with liquid oxygen as a fuel and also kerosene. As a result, it was clearly in the interests of the United States not only to prevent loose nukes and scientists leaving but to keep them interested and employed. Remember, this was in a Soviet Union that was disintegrating at the time.

Therefore, private companies in the United States arranged to buy the Russian engines and keep them employed and, at the same time, to obtain the idea of the Russian rocket engine. The United States would manufacture the same Russian engine, but its manufacture would be done in the United States. That intention was never carried out.

As a result, that leads us to where we are today. Today, we still buy the Russian engines. On average, that is costing us $88 million a year. How much is that of the total expenditures that we buy from Russia in other goods? It is less than a percent. In fact, that $88 million a year, on average, is one-third of 1 percent that is purchasing this excellent engine. That excellent engine happens to be the workhorse engine of... the Atlas V, which is our most reliable rocket for military launches, as well as future NASA launches, as well as commercial launches of communications satellites in orbit.

The whole fracas that has been engulffing this Defense bill has been how now that we have some Russian Federation, where it was so important for us to keep employing its scientists and engineers 25 years ago, today is being led by a former KGB agent, Vladimir Putin. He is doing things that we don’t like. They have been doing things in Ukraine and he takes a part called Crimea. He is pushing into eastern Ukraine and he is doing all kinds of bad things there that is threatening the freedom of the people of Ukraine.

As articulated by Senator McCain, naturally we would not want to continue to buy those Russian engines, which is basically helping Vladimir Putin, even though it is minuscule—less than one-third of 1 percent of the total dollars that we buy from Russia.

So that brings us to this point: How do we get out of the mess? How we get out of the mess is that we build our own engine. We should have done that years ago. But now we can actually build our own engine and not plug into the same rocket, because if it is a different engine you cannot plug into the same rocket in the Atlas V. You have to basically plug it into a different rocket. As we speak, there is now a competition going on to develop a replacement engine. In one case, it is called the BE-4. In another case it is called an Aerojet Rocketdyne engine. That competition is going to continue, but we can’t do it overnight. So it is going to take some time.

An optimistic estimate might say that the engine is ready in about 2019, and then you have to test-fire in the new rocket that you have developed. So a realistic time of when the new engine is available is at the end of the year 2022. So what do we do to make sure we have the rockets to have assured access to space between now and the end of 2022? That is what all this discussion is on the floor.

On the one hand, there is a very successful company called SpaceX. They are now certified with a rocket called the Falcon 9, and that rocket has won some competitions and has put payloads in space, including one Defense Department payload. There may be more, but I do know that they have been certified for the Department of Defense.

Its competitor is the other company, United Launch Alliance, which is a combination of Boeing and Lockheed. They have been successfully launching the Atlas V without a miss for years and years. I think the successful number of rocket launches is something in excess of 50 or maybe 60. Thus, it is a proven workhorse.

We never want to get to the position where we have just one rocket company, because if something happened, you want to have a backup because we have to get satellites into space to protect our national security, and we have to do it over this period of time from now until the end of 2022. Therefore, how do you keep them going alive if you eliminate the ability of being able to buy the Russian engine? That is what all of the very emotional and very well-meaning speeches on the floor have been about—in one case, United Launch Alliance, and in another case, SpaceX. For the good of our country, we have to build until we can develop, test, and successfully fly the replacement engine for the Russian engine.

As we speak, these discussions, by the way, that have been going on over the past several weeks, and with intensity over the past few days, continue. It is certainly my hope that we are going to get resolution and can get an agreement on this and a way to go forward so that we can get this issue behind us and move on with a defense bill that is so important to the future of this country.

Mr. President, I wanted to lay out the predicate of what this is all about. When you start getting into the weeds, you get all kinds of details and that is why the number of launches, all of it boils down to what this Senator has just shared. So I hope we get resolution. And since I am basically an optimist, I think we will.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona is recognized.

Mr. Mccain. Mr. President, just to continue—and I do with some reluctance—on this whole issue of rocket engines, as I mentioned earlier, there is an individual who is one of the head executives of ULA who was recorded, and in the recording he talks about ULA and the relationship and how they have an “in” with the Department of Defense, and I just want to quote from his recording talking about the rocket engine. He said:

But unfortunately, it’s built by the Soviet Union, and there’s a couple of people, one person in particular, this guy right here. John McCain, who basically doesn’t like us. Remember, this is an employee of ULA.

He continues:

He’s like this with Elon Musk, and so Elon Musk says, why don’t you guys go, why don’t you—I mean, moving faster. But the problem with that is, Mr. President, we can’t afford to afford to-apples basis, that we will take you to 125 million dollars per launch vehicle, and on the best day you’ll see us bid at 125 million dollars, or twice that number, and if you were to take and add in that capabilities cost, it’s closer to 100 percent. So SpaceX will take them to court if they don’t, so they have demonstrated ability to say, if you do not allow us to compete on an apples-to-apples basis, that will take you to court, and you will lose.

So if you saw just recently, they bid the second GPS—III launch, ULA opted to not bid there because the government was not happy with us not bidding that contract because they had felt that they’d bent over backwards to lean the field in our advantage.

I repeat, this is what an executive of ULA said. “Because the government was not happy with us not bidding that contract because they had felt that they’d bent over backwards to lean the field in our advantage.” That is from an executive of ULA. Is there any better evidence of what they value?

Continuing the quote from the recording:

But we even said we don’t bid, because we saw it as a cost sheet up between us and ULA, and we needed to take it and figure out how to bid these things much lower cost. And the government can’t just say ULA’s got a great track record, they’ve got 106 launches in a row, and 100 percent mission success and we can give it to them on a silver platter even though their costs are two or three times as high.

Two or three times as high. Mr. President, this is what makes the American people cynical about the way we do business.

Before I suggest the absence of a quorum, let me just say that we are going to be moving the amendments on interpreters and Guantanamo, and so I alert my colleagues that we will be doing that shortly.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. Sullivan. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. Sullivan. Mr. President, I rise to speak in support of what we have been doing on the Senate floor the past 2 weeks—moving forward on the National Defense Authorization Act. I wish to pay a compliment and my deepest respect to the chairman of the Armed Services Committee, to the ranking member, and to all the members of the Armed Services Committee who have worked with us to move forward on this Congress and every Congress for the last half century.

Our forces are under strain at a time when Henry Kissinger said before the Congress and every Congress for the last half century. Our forces are under strain at a time when Henry Kissinger said before the
Here is what some of our top military officials have told our committee about the threats that are rising globally and the dramatic reduction in our military forces. Chief of Staff of the Army, GEN Mark Milley, recently stated that due to cuts and threats, our Army is in a posture of "high military risk" when it comes to being ready enough to defend our interests. That is a very serious statement by the Chief of Staff of the Army, "high military risk" for our military and the ability of the United States to do its mission. He also said that when it comes to Russia and its new aggressiveness, we are "outranged and outgunned."

Let me spend a little bit of time on the new challenge from Russia. There are many provisions in this bill—which is why it is so important—that will strengthen our military threat with regard to Russia—something that, as a Senator from Alaska, I am very concerned about.

Nobody spoke more eloquently and compellingly about our country's credibility than President Reagan when he stated that his philosophy of dealing with our potential adversaries was that "we maintain the peace through our strength; weakness only invites aggression." And he matched his rhetoric with credible action. That is what we need to do with regard to the NDAA, and that is why it is so important that we move forward and pass this bill.

But the Russian threat is not just in Europe; it also in the Arctic, and those threats—we are hearing more and more in committee testimony on and what the Russians are doing. For example, there are 4 new Arctic brigades; a new Arctic command; 14 operational airfields in the Russian Arctic by the end of this year; up to 50 airfields by 2020; a 30-percent increase in Russian special forces in the Arctic; 40 Russian Government-financed privately owned icebreakers in development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge land development right now, including 3 new nuclear-powered icebreakers; huge... trying to come to some agreement to address those issues, and I think the legislation before us does that.

The concern, as I understand, isn't about this program and about what is in this program; it is about individuals who have their own issues unrelated to this program. I also understand that we all have our issues, but that is not what we ought to be voting on at this point.

The Senator pointed out that Ryan Crocker, who served both in Afghanistan and Iraq, has talked about the importance of this program, as have so many of our generals and those who have served. I want to quote from an op-ed piece he wrote last month about the importance of Congress addressing this program. He said:

"In an era of partisan rancor, this has been an area where Republicans and Democrats have acted together. Congress has continued to support policies aimed at protecting our warfighters and our allies in ways that are consistent with the overall interests of our country. This is part of the constant effort by some to close Guantanamo Bay and bring the detainees here on the Senate floor today with the national defense authorization bill, which we prohibit those detainees from being brought to the United States and housed in a facility in the United States."

In fact, the Attorney General and the Secretary of Defense have, on numerous occasions, confirmed that the President has no legal authority to close Gitmo or to transfer detainees to the United States. For some reason, the national defense authorization bill, as it came out of the committee, provides for the planning and designing related to construction of a facility here.

This amendment strikes that language, and it reaffirms what we have heard from the President's national defense authorization bill, we said there had to be a plan provided by the administration that outlines in significant criteria and detail, what would be involved in bringing those detainees to the United States. As I am opposed to that in the first place, I am opposed to that in the second place. I would add that plan that we keep looking for, it has yet to be, in any specificity, granted to us to see in Congress.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. Moran may not ask Congress to allow, at the appropriate time, that this bill be made in order for consideration for a vote by the Senate as an amendment to this bill.

Mr. MCCAIN. There are a number of Members on both sides of the aisle who have had the honor of serving in Iraq and Afghanistan, and particularly some of the newer members have added enormously to the Armed Services Committee. There is also one member of Congress who has served many years of Active Duty, has served in Afghanistan as many as 33 times. He has had an up close and personal relationship with these brave interpreters who literally put their lives on the line in assisting people like Colonel Graham and all others as they were able to accomplish their mission, which they would not have been able to do if it had not been for the outstanding service and sacrifice of these interpreters.

Mr. GRAHAM. Thank you, I compliment Senator Shaheen and all those involved in trying to get to yes. The people who had concerns about your amendment, I understand their concerns. You are able to find a way to accommodate those concerns. This is sort of how the legislative process works. You get to yes when you can. But why this is important to America and particularly to me—Senator Sullivan served some time in Afghanistan as a marine working with the Embassy dealing with detainee operations. I did about 140 days on the ground in Iraq and Afghanistan, mostly in Afghanistan, as a Reservist. I did my Reserve duty, 1 week, 2 weeks at a time, with Task Force 435 that was in charge of detainee operations at Bagram prison. That unit's job was to advise the commanders about who to put in Bagram, what requirements were, to make sure somebody in Bagram prison under U.S. custody, and also to build up the rule of law, where the rule-of-law field forces would go out to different parts of Afghanistan and work with the police and the judiciary to try to build capacity.

During my experience in Afghanistan, I learned something that is, quite frankly, overwhelming to this day, how brave some people in Afghanistan are to change their country. There was one interpreter—and I am certainly not going to use his name—who was there the entire time I did my Reserve duty. I retired last year. This man was invaluable. It is not just interpreting the language and repeating what we said. It is also the opportunity to be here on the Senate floor today with the national defense authorization bill, which we prohibit those detainees from being brought to the United States and housed in a facility in the United States. It is the context that he made over and over time to make sure the coalition forces could accomplish their mission. Of all the power we owe a debt to as Americans, it is these interpreters and those who have assisted our forces. They have taken a skill set we did not have, which is local knowledge, and they have applied that skill set to helping our efforts to protect America but, equally important, to protect their homeland, Afghanistan.

All the letters from those who were in command can say it better than I can. I had a small glimpse as a military lawyer over about a 5-year period coming in and coming out, and all I can tell you is what I saw was amazing, and it moved me beyond measure. I got to meet their family. The interpreters had families. I got to know them. They have children. They have wives. All the ones I know were male, but I know there are females helping, too. I can tell you, if there is any way for this body to pass Senator Shaheen’s amendment, you would be doing our country and those who helped us under the most dire situation a great service.

As to how the body works, I wish I could get everything I wanted. I have not been able to do that in life or in the Senate. I wanted to have a vote on the Ex-Im Bank because it shut down. It was objected to because it is not germane. I understand that. I am disappointed, but I am not going to stop the whole bill because I didn't get what I want. There are other people who are offering amendments that are very important to them. Ex-Im Bank is very important to people of my home state. There is a process. The Ex-Im Bank is about jobs that are important to Americans. This is about lives. This is about the here and now. This is not about what might happen one day. Maybe if something happened, maybe we will do this or maybe we will do that. This is about people who have already stepped out. This is the here and now. There is nothing hypothetical about this debate. There are thousands of people who have risked their lives to help us, and we are trying to get some of them out of Afghanistan to the safety of the United States, honoring their service to make sure other people in the future would also have the chance to bring up his amendment—by the way, I offered Senator Moran an amendment on Selective Service? He said: That is not my priority. My priority is homegrown terrorism.

The enemy is actively involved in trying to get people on their side who live among us. All I can say is, the things that have changed over the last few years are all for the worse, not the better, and this amendment is literally life and death. I honest to God beg and try are at an all time high, in my opinion. In 2012, ISIL didn’t even exist. Today they are trying to penetrate the homeland. The Homeland Security Secretary said what keeps him up at night is homegrown terrorism.

If we don’t do this and those people are killed and their families murdered is not 100 percent of what she wanted. She had to give up thousands of visas just to find a way to move forward. All I can say is that this really is a big deal. People’s lives are at stake. This—is not just an issue. All I can say is that I hope we can find it among ourselves to get to yes on this and what Senator Moran is trying to do. If we can’t, we can’t, but let me tell you this: Senator Lee objected to my Ex-Im Bank amendment in committee. He had every right to do so. It wasn’t germane. It is very important to me. We are losing thousands of jobs. South Carolina is losing hundreds of jobs because the Bank shut down. I will still fight to get back operating, but what I will not do is to make the people of South Carolina is to put the lives of those in Afghanistan at risk. I don’t think I am helping the people in South Carolina by making it harder for us to fight and win a war we can’t afford to lose. I can’t live with myself knowing what is coming their way.

This is not a matter of “what if” to me. I have been there, I have seen it, and people are literally going to die. My amendment is important to me, and it is integral to the economy of South Carolina and the Nation. I did not get my way, but I am not going to stand in the way of people being able to avoid being killed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mrs. SHAFEEN. Mr. President, will my colleague from South Carolina yield for a question?

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, I would be glad to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mrs. SHAFEEN. Mr. President, the Senator from South Carolina talked about the fight against ISIL and how that is spreading across the Middle East. What kind of message does it send to the Taliban, ISIL, and other terrorist groups, should they hear that we are defeating this program that was designed to help those people who helped us?

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, that is a great question. They are called night letters. Let me tell you how this works. I was in Kandahar with the rule of law field forces, and we were trying to build up the capacity of their judges in Kandahar. The judges were being killed in large measure, so it was pretty hard to find anybody who wanted to be a judge.

We hardened the site, and we put some American troops, along with Afghans who have never been to Iraq and Afghaniboth of them, but I would like a vote on my amendment as well. This is an issue I have worked on for 5 years. This issue arose 5 years ago when a provision was slipped into the NDAA that we passed that year that I think raises serious concerns to me.

I have worked with my colleague, the senior Senator from California, and Senators on both sides of the aisle, and put together a proposal to deal with that language. We put that in and had a vote on it in 2012, and 67 Members of this body voted for it, including some of the people who have spoken in the last few minutes. This is an issue that became a part of our law because of the NDAA 5 years ago. It is appropriate to bring this up now.

Moments ago, the Senator from South Carolina made reference to an objection I made to an amendment of his within the Senate Armed Services Committee on which he and I serve. It is true that I made an objection because the committee had some jurisdictional issues. There are reasons why certain amendments aren’t jurisdictionally proper within the committee. There was a reason I didn’t bring up the amendment that I wanted to vote on the committee because of a jurisdictional issue. I was told last year and this year that if this is an amendment you want to bring up, the appropriate time to do so is on the floor and not in committee. The reason I did that is that there are jurisdictional issues present within the committee.

Again, I don’t have a problem with the Shaheen or Moran amendments. I will support both of them. All I am asking for is to give me a vote on my amendment as well.

Therefore, I ask that the unanimous consent be modified to include my amendment—amendment No. 4448.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Arizona so modify his request?

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, I reserve the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, No. 1, I will object, and let me tell you why. The last time we had a hearing about the issue of whether or not an American citizen can be held as an enemy combatant if they collaborate with Al Qaeda or ISIL. Since 2012, things have changed for the worse.

To my friend from Utah, your amendment should be in the Judiciary Committee. That is where primary jurisdiction exists. I am chairman of the Crime, Terrorism, and Homeland Security Subcommittee. I promise that we will have a hearing about your idea that never made it in the NDAA, and we will see what has changed from 2012 till now. I think that is much better than having a debate on the Senate about something this important that will last 30 minutes or an hour.

I would argue to the American people that the rise of ISIL has changed the game. If you read their literature, they are talking about how it is easier to penetrate America than it is to get somebody to come here. When you listen to the FBI and Homeland Security director, their No. 1 fear is homegrown terrorism.

Here is my view: We will debate the substance of this later. I think the best thing we can do is pass these two amendments. The Ex-Im Bank was brought up by Senator SCHUMER, and Senator SHELBY objected. He has every right. Senator LEE came on the floor and talked about what a bad idea the Bank is, and he has every right to do so.

In order to allow these two people to go forward, the Senator has to get a vote on his amendment. That is what this is all about. I didn’t get my amendment. I wish that we could have had a vote on the Ex-Im Bank authorization. It really does matter to me. I didn’t get that.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, if I could finish my thought, what I would suggest to Senator LEE is that the prudent thing for us to do is to have an amendment in the last one we had was in 2012. Listen to the FBI Director and Homeland Security Secretary and see why they feel so strongly about homegrown terrorism and see if we can find a way to move forward. But what the Senator from Utah and Senator LEE talked about is that there is not one American being held as an enemy combatant today. There are thousands of people who have helped us in Afghanistan who will be killed if we don’t do something about it.

The Senator from Utah and I will never agree on this issue, and I respect my friend greatly. I believe we are fighting a war, not a crime. I will never agree that because you are an American citizen and have collaborated with the enemy and work actively with Al Qaeda and ISIL to attack your homeland and not be held under the law of war, which we have been doing for decades in other wars.

I do believe in due process. As the law is written today, if our military or intelligence community picks up someone they believe is collaborating with ISIL or Al Qaeda, someone covered as an enemy combatant, they can be held, but they can be held only if a Federal judge says they can be held. You do get a hearing under the habeas corpus statute. The government has to prove you are, in fact, an enemy combatant.

The last time we had this debate, it was suggested this was a slippery slope. What prevents you from being held as an enemy combatant if you went to a tea party rally? That was pretty offensive to me then, and it is really offensive to me now. The idea that somehow American soil is not part of the battlefront blows me away.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, I will in a moment.

Let me make this real to you. We will have a big debate. I would love to have a hearing.

This guy pictured here, Ammar al-Awlaki. He is dead, thank God. He was an American citizen and head of Al Qaeda in Yemen. President Obama put him on the kill list, and we killed him. That is good. Well done, Mr. President.

If you are an American citizen and you go to Yemen and join Al Qaeda, I hope you get killed too. If we capture you, you will have your day in court to argue that you are not part of Al Qaeda, that we have it all wrong, and the government has to prove that you in fact are. But if the government can make that argument, the last thing I want somebody like this to hear is “Hey, you have a right to remain silent.” I don’t want these people to remain silent; I want to hold them as enemy combatants and gather intelligence. I don’t want to put them in Federal court and act like it is not part of the war. I don’t want to criminalize the war; I want to make sure you have due process, consistent with what others have said—there is not one American being held as an enemy combatant today. There are thousands of people who have helped us in Afghanistan who will be killed if we don’t do something about it.

The last time we had this debate, it was 2012. Listen to the FBI Director and Homeland Security Secretary and see why they feel so strongly about homegrown terrorism and see if we can find a way to move forward. What Senator LEE and his staff have read him his Miranda rights and we couldn’t hold him to find out under military interrogation what he knows about this attack and future attacks. What you do when you go down this road is you stop the ability to gather intelligence at a time we need more information, not less.

I am not going to belabor this point any more. As you can tell, I strongly disapprove of having this debate now without another hearing, going down this road, because so much has changed. And I hope you respect where I am coming from. I respect your passion. I hope you respect my passion on this.

Here is the point: I didn’t get all I want, and I am not going to stop the process for others who have done a good thing. Here is what you are going to do because you are worried about something that is not real at this moment because nobody is in custody. You are objecting to finding a solution for something that is real for the moment.

Senator MORAN, what you are worried about is real.

So all I am asking is that before we can get to yes, let’s get to yes, and if you can’t get everything you want because somebody is passionate on the other side, don’t stop everybody else from getting what they want. That, to me, just makes a stronger country, a better Senate.
no sense to me. I am sure you are sincere about it. I think it weakens the ability to defend this Nation at a time when we need all the defenses we can get.

I am not suggesting that you would be replaced by your government, thrown in jail, accused of being a Qaeda or ISIL member, and nobody ever hears from you again and you never get a chance to speak. That is not the law, and it has never been the law.

I plead with the Senator, please, please, let’s take this issue to the Judiciary Committee where it belongs. Let’s have a hearing, mark up the bill in Judiciary, and then do whatever you want to do. Don’t stop these two amendments. That is all I am asking.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, let me also mention a couple of facts. As of 10 o’clock this morning, there were 537 amendments that had been filed—537 amendments—which is always the case with the Defense authorization bill. I am sure that every Member who filed those amendments wanted a vote and a debate on every single one of them, as is their right, but the fact is that we can’t do that for a whole variety of reasons, presidential objections, et cetera. So if every Senator blocked every vote because his or her amendment is not being considered, obviously we would never do anything, which is why we have done so little here on this bill.

Now we are talking about the lives of men who have put it on the line for the men and women who are serving. Don’t we have some sense of perspective and priority here? People are going to die, I tell the Senator from Utah. They are going to die if we don’t pass this amendment and take them out of harm’s way. Don’t you understand the gravity of that? Can’t you understand that your issue on extended detaining is an important one, but don’t you understand these people’s lives are in danger as we speak? They have been marked for death. They have been marked for death. Why do you think General Petraeus and General Nicholson and Ryan Crocker and all our most respected military leaders say with great urgency—they say with urgency that we have to do this because they are going to die. They are going to be killed. Doesn’t that somehow appeal to your sense of compassion for these people?

Mr. LEE. If the Senator will yield, I will answer—

Mr. McCAIN. Let me finish.

Don’t you understand what is at stake here? Do you respect General Petraeus, General Nicholson, and General McChrystal? Every one of them has written to us and said that these people’s lives are in danger and that this is a moral issue.

So you are going to object because your amendment is being blocked, as so much of what I am saying has been blocked. Many, many amendments are blocked. If that is good or bad, I don’t know, but people object.

Now we are talking about a compelling humanitarian issue that is far more important than humanitarian because we abandon these people, and you can’t expect people in future conflicts or in these conflicts we are in to cooperate and help the United States of America if we abandon them to a cruel and terrible death.

This is a serious issue. This is not something that we like to maneuver around what the steering committee wants and how we are going to do all these other things. We have to get this down in, and we will have the Heritage Foundation write a letter or something like that. This is a matter of life and death, and that issue and challenge is immediate.

So I appeal to the Senator from Utah’s humanity, for his compassion, for his ability to save lives here, and let this go through, as the most respected military and diplomatic leaders in the world have urged us to do. I appeal to the life-or-death situation that will entail a lot of deaths if you block this legislation.

Mr. GRAHAM. I object to the modification.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection to the modification is heard.

Is there objection to the original request?

Mr. LEE. I object to the original request.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

The Senator from Utah.

Mr. LEE. Mr. President, I have been asked by a couple of my colleagues why it is that I couldn’t just have the good sense to let their amendments go through, I say let’s do it. Let’s have it right now, I support the amendment.

Let’s vote on it right now. Let’s vote on Senator MORGAN’s amendment right now, and let’s vote on mine right now.

Now the comparison has been made by the Senator from South Carolina that because he didn’t get his vote because someone objected this morning to his amendment dealing with the Export-Import Bank, that I should also have my amendment blocked.

It is important to realize that the Export-Import Bank was not created by a previous iteration of the National Defense Authorization Act. The provision I am objecting to here and the provision I am trying to address here was, in fact, part of an earlier iteration of the National Defense Authorization Act. It was passed in 2011 with, I believe, far too little consideration, without the American people being aware of what they were doing, and it remains on the books to this day.

The current argument made by my friend from South Carolina is an interesting one, which is that this needs more of an airing, needs more of a hearing. He has promised me now a hearing on the Judiciary Committee where he said: As much as I appreciate that gesture, that is not enough.

Let me replay a couple of things. First of all, I have been working on this for 5 years. I got a vote on it 4 years ago, and 67 Senators voted for it. It was removed in a conference committee. Someone said there was confusion as to why it was removed in a conference committee; regardless, it was removed. I have been trying ever since this iteration of the Defense authorization act, to get another vote on it.

I served on the Armed Services Committee, and I was told by the chairman, my distinguished colleague, the senior Senator from Arizona, that I told him I wanted to bring it up in committee. He said: You can’t bring it up in committee because there is a jurisdictional issue with the Judiciary Committee. That is better dealt with on the floor.

I said: OK. I will deal with it on the floor.

We got to the floor. I was blocked from operating on the floor. It didn’t happen.

So this year I was told: You can’t bring it up in committee. There is a jurisdictional issue. You are best served waiting for the floor for that.

I said: OK. I will wait for the floor. I brought it up again this year. Now I have been told by the chairman of the Armed Services Committee, the senior Senator from Arizona, that we will deal with it next year. I have been told by the Senator from South Carolina that he will deal with it at some unknown point in the future—less markup, just a hearing—in a subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee which he chairs.

So we are talking about an issue now that was brought up 5 years ago, and I am being told again and again to wait, to wait more. This is an issue that got the vote of 67 Members of our body 4 years ago. This is an issue that was brought about by a previous iteration of the National Defense Authorization Act. This is the appropriate vehicle in which to address this.

This is not a frivolity. This is not just some nicety. This is not some parochial interest. This is a basic human rights interest. This is an interest that relates to some of the most fundamental protections in the U.S. Constitution.

When you say that you want to lock up American citizens detained on U.S. soil without charge, without trial, to be kept on the floor. It didn’t happen.

I served on the Armed Services Committee, and I was told by the chairman, my distinguished colleague, the senior Senator from Arizona, that I told him I wanted to bring it up in committee. I am all in favor of the Shaheen amendment. I am all in favor of the Moran amendment. Let’s have a vote on those two amendments and on the amendment that I have proposed, an amendment that is limited and an amendment, I should note here, that would foreclose the ability of this body down the road to identify the changed circumstances of the sort that some of my colleagues have referred to. It simply says that if the government is going to do this, there has to be a plain statement of that; it has to do so expressly; that Congress must expressly authorize this kind of action either in a declaration of war or an authorization for the use of military force. I don’t think that is too much to ask, especially given the types of constitutional protections we are dealing with.

If, in fact, we are going to call the American homeland—if, in fact, we are going to call the territorial jurisdiction of the United States—a part of the battlefield, ought we not to have a declaration of war, an authorization for use of military force that identifies it as such? I mean, after all, the precedents that we are talking about, the precedents upon which this theory is based are premised on this idea that you have enemy combatants who become part of an enemy’s fighting force, as was the case of Ex parte Quirin, where you had American citizens going over to Germany, putting on German uniforms, fighting for the Germans. That was part of that war. They were enemy combatants on the battlefield.

There was Ex parte Milligan, where you had Confederate rebel soldiers who became part of an enemy’s fighting force that states so expressly. That is the sole justification for my amendment. I don’t think that is unreasonable. In fact, I think that is necessary.

So I would like to get this done. I would like to get this done. We can get this done today. Let’s have votes on all three amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I guess, finally, I woke up in the middle of the night last night thinking about this issue. It made me think of a long time ago when I saw a lot of brave Americans die, some of them in aerial combat. Several times I thought that perhaps I could have prevented their deaths by being a better airman or taking certain actions. It bothers me to this day.

I can’t imagine how it must bother someone who is literally signing the death warrants of some people who in their innocence decided they would help their country. I could not bear that burden. I believe that what we are doing here by blocking this amendment that allow would these wonderful people, as described by all of our leaders, to leave a place where death is almost certain—at least in the case of some of them—because of some exercise that would have no immediate effect, is that we are blocking this ability to save lives. I do not understand why.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. ROUNDs. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be dispensed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. ROUNDs. Mr. President, as the Senate continues to consider the National Defense Authorization Act, the NDAA, I rise today to discuss an amendment in support of my constituents who are military retirees, as well as military retirees in many other States.

My amendment would change a provision being proposed in this bill that requires military retirees and their families who don’t have easy access to a military treatment facility, such as on base, to unfairly pay higher copays for their prescription medications. TRICARE provides health care services for our servicemembers, our military retirees, and their families.

Using TRICARE, military retirees can get free prescription drugs at a military treatment facility. In other words, our military retirees who live close to a base have no copays for their prescription drugs. However, if they draw these prescriptions from a retail pharmacy or through the TRICARE-approved mail order system, they are required to make a copayment.

My amendment deals with a provision in today’s bill that directs the Department of Defense, or DOD, to implement these copayments that military retirees obtain from a retail pharmacy or through mail order rather than a military treatment facility. The provision will require those military retirees who live far away from a base, without easy access to a military treatment facility, to get their prescriptions and to pay more for their use of retail pharmacies and mail order.

Why would anybody seek to make it more expensive for military retirees to receive a benefit they have been promised just because they live far away from a military treatment facility? The answer is simple. It is sequestration. We are making cuts to an existing budget. This provision was inserted as a cost-saving measure, one that tries to balance and measure out the costs based upon or demanded by sequestration.

But we are doing it on the backs of military retirees. It is better to help military retirees, as described by all of our leaders, to leave a place where death is almost certain—at least in the case of some of them—because of some exercise that would have no immediate effect, is that we are blocking this ability to save lives. I do not understand why.
and I emphasize “in rural areas”—$2 billion over the next 10 years. I don’t think it is fair for us to make those who live in rural areas—rural areas like South Dakota—to pay a higher copay because of where they live.

We must listen more to these men and whom who made incredible sacrifices to protect our country that they would be able to have adequate health insurance coverage, including access to prescription drugs and medicines. It is not fair to make them bear a $2 billion cost for our military men simply because of where they live. My amendment would stipulate that if a military retiree lives more than 40 miles from a military treatment facility, they would not be saddled with this additional copay.

Further, my amendment would require an assessment by the Department of Defense of the added costs that would be borne by these military retirees and their families as a result of increased TRICARE prescription drug copays. This will enable Congress to make reasonable future decisions with regard to increased TRICARE prescription drug copays that may have a disproportionate impact on those living distant from military treatment facilities.

I appreciate the opportunity to discuss my amendment, which would rectify a serious effect on military retirees and their families.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Wyoming.

Mr. BARRASSO. Mr. President, like many people in this body, I was home last week in Wyoming honoring the sacrifice of America’s veterans. Every day we see evidence of just how much America relies on our men and women in uniform to keep us safe, to keep us free, to fight for our freedoms, to fight for our safety. Every day we get fresh reminders that the world continues to be a very dangerous place.

So to me it is disturbing that the Democrats in Washington have done so much to slow down our efforts to provide for America’s troops—troops we need for our national defense. The National Defense Authorization Act that we are debating here sets important policies and priorities that have a great effect on our national security.

A strong American military is absolutely essential—essential as we need to address the world’s dangers that we face overseas before they become direct threats here at home.

So when I consider legislation like this, I try to keep one thing in mind: If we want to make America safe and secure, then we need to provide the greatest possible security for our country while maintaining the greatest possible freedom for the American people and also at the same time improving America’s standing in the world.

So when I look back over the past 7 years, I have to ask the Obama administration—ask of the Obama administration—and ask all Americans and anyone listening in today—how the Obama administration’s foreign policies have met the goals of greatest possible security, greatest possible freedom, and improving our standing in the world. I say this in far too many cases, in far too many parts of the world, the only honest conclusion is that the policies of the Obama administration have actually failed. Now, I am not the only one that thinks so. I found it very interesting when you take a look at President Jimmy Carter’s what he had to say when he was asked about this. He said this about President Obama: “I can’t think of many nations in the world where we [the United States] have a better relationship now than we did when [President Obama], took over.”

He went on to say that the United States’ influence, prestige, and respect—think about this: influence, prestige and respect—in the world is probably lower now than it was 6 or 7 years ago. This is a former President of the United States, a Democratic President of the United States, Jimmy Carter.

So let’s look at some examples. It has been more than 5 years since the start of the uprisings in Syria. In August of 2011, President Obama responded by calling on Bashar Assad to step aside. A few months later, Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said that it was too late to stop it. “At some point, the Assad regime would fall.” Well, that was more than 4 years ago. Assad is still there. “A matter of time,” she said.

The Obama administration did not back up its words, and any meaningful support for the moderate opposition in Syria was not there. They did nothing. The President did nothing to enforce the so-called redline that he drew on Assad’s use of chemical weapons for only as long as Assad would not use chemical weapons, and the President of the United States did nothing.

The administration’s weak response in Syria essentially gave away a green light for Assad to continue and a green light for Russia to come in and pump up and protect Assad. So I find it interesting when you take a look at what the President of the United States has done. If you go to the Washington Post for Tuesday, June 7, this was the headline:

Empty words, empty stomachs. Syrian children continue to face starvation as another Obama administration promise falls by the wayside.

That is what we see with Barack Obama, another Obama administration promise falling by the wayside. Thousands and thousands and hundreds of thousands killed. The President’s redline became a green light. So the invitation came for Russia to come in. They have done it. But far too many people have learned the lesson.

Well, what else has Russia done over the past 7 years? Remember how the Obama administration launched its so-called Russian reset? President Obama was so intent on resetting the U.S. relations with the Kremlin that he showed a complete lack of resolve. He gave Russia one concession after another in the new START treaty. That was in 2010. He had only become President in 2009. In 2010, there was one concession after another.

President Obama showed Vladimir Putin that the American President, Barack Obama, could easily be pushed around. Under this treaty, America is cutting our nuclear arsenal while Russia is expanding theirs. It was allowed by the treaty. This is the President’s “best he could do.” Russia responded to the reset. We remember Hillary Clinton there pressing the reset button. Russia responded to the reset of relations by sending troops into Ukraine, by annexing Crimea. Russia moved.

President Obama shows weakness, and Russia moves. Yes, Vladimir Putin is a thug. When President Obama shows little strength, Putin does things that thugs do. But that is the Obama administration for you. The administration’s policy on Russia has not provided the greatest possible security for America—not at all.

Let’s look at Iran. Last week President Obama gave a very political speech at the graduation ceremony at the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs.

He criticized Republicans for questions about the treaty with Iran over their illicit nuclear weapons program, he said it was this or war. He thought the treaty was so great he didn’t want the Senate to have a chance to review it. That was it, his way or no.

In his State of the Union Address in January, he said that because of the new deal with Russia, “the world has avoided another war.” These are President Obama’s words.

This is complete fiction, complete fiction. The choice was never between his deal and another war. It was a choice between a bad deal and a better deal, and President Obama chose a bad deal.

As they say in the military, if you want it bad enough, you get it bad. And that is what we got, a lesson President Obama apparently never learned.

I have learned from an interview with one of the President’s top advisers that this was something the administration knew all along. This adviser, Ben Rhodes, bragged about creating an echo chamber to help deceive—intentionally designed to deceive the American people about the agreement.

Let’s go back. Before the nuclear deal, there was actually an international ban on Iran testing ballistic missile technology. A ban was in place. What is happening today? Well, Iran is right back to doing the tests.

I remember the administration promising the inspectors would get access to...
Iran’s nuclear facilities. They said anywhere, anytime, 24/7. That is what Ben Rhodes said. It turns out it is more like 24 days, not 24/7. That is the kind of notice that now is needed prior to access.

So how is it working for Iran? Well, the Iranian economy is benefiting from access to $100 billion because the Obama administration gave them sanctions relief. What are they going to do with the money? Build rockets, build hospitals, help educate the young? Don’t count on it because even the President’s National Security Advisor admits some of this money is going to be used by Iran to keep supporting terrorist groups. We see it. We know it.

President Obama wanted to get a deal with Iran so badly that he got a very bad deal, a bad deal—not for him—but for the majority of the American people. The President and his foreign policy team were willing to say anything to sell this deal to the American people. The administration’s policy in Iran has not provided the greatest possible freedom and security for America while maintaining the greatest possible freedom and security for America. The President and his foreign policy team were willing to say anything to sell this deal to the American people.

I could go on and on talking about more places around the world. Members of this body are fully aware. The American people are fully aware of the failures of this administration. The American people still do not feel, with any degree of confidence, that Washington can be trusted. The American people no longer have a better relationship now than when President Obama took over.

So President Obama is going to spend the rest of his time in office trying to create an echo chamber. He will try to convince people around the world that his foreign policy has been a success, but The Economist magazine recently noted America, under President Obama, has been a foreign policy—in their words—“pushover.”

As Congress considers this vital national security legislation, the National Defense Authorization Act, I think it is important that we honestly evaluate what the President’s record really is, and today the world is less safe, less secure, and less stable than it was 7 years ago. The President and all the people who have been a part of his foreign policy team over the years will say whatever it takes to try and hide and deflect attacks. It is time to block out the echo chamber. It is time to ignore the spin. We need to make sure we are providing the greatest possible security for America while maintaining the greatest possible freedom for the American people and improving the country’s image around the world. That is our responsibility as a legislative body.

For decades upon decades, America has been the most powerful and respected nation on the face of the Earth. Under President Obama, American power has declined and respect around the world has evaporated.

President Obama was given the Nobel Peace Prize in 2009. It was completely undeserved, and it deserves to be removed from him if something like this could actually be done. Unfortunately, it is not possible to revoke a Nobel Peace Prize if it should be. That prize remains undeserved.

American men and women in uniform deserve better than what they have gotten from their Commander in Chief. It is now up to Congress to make sure they receive the equipment, and the technology they need to protect our country and our citizens. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arkansas.

Mr. President, the Federal Government’s No. 1 responsibility is to protect the American people. As the Obama administration approaches its final months, the American people still do not feel, with any degree of confidence, that Washington can be trusted. The Islamic State terror group has repeatedly encouraged sympathizers in the West to launch domestic attacks. In the group’s self-declared Caliphate in Syria and Iraq, it continues to carry out atrocities on a daily basis.

ISIS has no intention of letting up, and the President’s strategy of scattering terrorists is doing little to slow the growth of terror groups’ strength. A group President Obama once dubbed the JV team is attempting to open the way for a new approach. It is this mentality that the President and his aides used to justify not calling jihadi attacks what they are, radical Islamic terrorism. The President has convinced himself that radical Islamic terrorism will not be a threat if we just call it something else. Clearly, this is not true.

It is the same mindset that thinks closing Gitmo and moving dangerous terrorists to U.S. soil is the right thing to do, and it is how we ended up with a deal that does nothing to prevent Iran from going nuclear but instead emboldens it to belligerently threaten the United States, our allies like Israel, and our neighboring Arab States...

The regime in Tehran acts as if it is virtually untouchable as a result of the Obama administration’s agreement. Iran has no intentions of being a responsible, peaceful player in the international stage and instead is capable of hitting Westerners at home. Radical Islamic terrorism will not be a threat if we just call it something else. Clearly, this is not true.

As the Senate considers this vital national security legislation, the National Defense Authorization Act, I think it is important that we honestly evaluate what the President’s record really is, and today the world is less safe, less secure, and less stable than it was 7 years ago. The President and all the people who have been a part of his foreign policy team over the years will say whatever it takes to try and hide and deflect attacks. It is time to block out the echo chamber. It is time to ignore the spin. We need to make sure we are providing the greatest possible security for America while maintaining the greatest possible freedom for the American people and improving the country’s image around the world. That is our responsibility as a legislative body.

For decades upon decades, America has been the most powerful and respected nation on the face of the Earth. Under President Obama, American power has declined and respect around the world has evaporated.

The administration was so determined to sell this deal that it engaged in a propaganda campaign, enlisting outside groups to create an “echo chamber” and feeding material to a press corps that White House staffers said “knew nothing” about diplomacy. The administration took extreme steps to keep the uncomfortable truths from the American people by removing a damaging exchange about whether officials lied about secret talks with Iran in this ill-advised Iran deal.

All of this just adds to the perception that the Obama administration was willing to go to any length to get this deal done, no matter how bad it is for our national security.

Senate Republicans have tried to correct this, of course. We wanted to stop this ill-advised Iran deal, but the minority leader forced his caucus to protect the President’s legacy.

We have taken efforts to force the President to present a coherent plan to deal with ISIS abroad and protect Americans here at home. That plan is still nonexistent.

We have inserted language into law after law to prevent the closure of Gitmo. In fact, the President is once again threatening to do it, and we are currently considering, in part, due to the language that prevents closure of the facility.

We should not be moving dangerous terrorists out of Gitmo. If anything, we should be moving more terrorists into Gitmo. The state-of-the-art facility is more than serving its purpose for detaining the worst of the worst, obtaining valuable intelligence from them, and keeping these terrorists who are bent on destroying America from returning to the battlefield.

A report from the Washington Post yesterday indicates that the Obama administration has evidence that about a dozen detainees released from Gitmo have launched attacks against the United States or allied forces in Afghanistan that have resulted in American deaths.

As the threat posed by ISIS grows, Gitmo remains the only option to house these terrorists. Any facility on U.S. soil is not an option. It never was with Al Qaeda terrorists, nor can it be with ISIS terrorists.

The President has failed to understand the gravity of these terrorists posing a threat to our homeland. ISIS and other terrorist groups around the globe are pledging allegiance to the group and, as we have seen in Paris, Brussels, and San Bernardino, they are committed to and capable of hitting Westerners at home.

The President has never presented a strategy to Congress for eliminating ISIS, and our sporadic airstrikes have done little to stop the group from pressing forward and attempting to strengthen its global reach.

While ISIS grows and the United States sits idly by, Iran, Russia, China, and North Korea have ramped up their belligerent actions, putting our security at risk around the world. This will only continue to increase if we continue to chase the diplomacy to the point where it puts the safety of the American people at risk, to the point where any leverage the United States started with is gone, and to the point where a withdrawal from conflicts with enemies brings on it is easier allow someone else to fight the battle.

We are trying to fix the problems created by the Obama administration’s failures so we can restore the confidence of the American people that their military is working to protect them here and abroad. Passage of the bill before us this week is a good step in the right direction.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Indiana.

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, I am not on the floor to interrupt any kind of debate relative to this bill, but given the fact we are at a stalemate situation what nobody’s on the floor. I thought I would at least highlight a foreign policy speech I have been wanting to give. I plan to do it in significant detail on Monday, if the hours work out as I think they will.

Let me just take this short amount of time to summarize some of what I have been thinking and that I think is something my colleagues and all of us ought to be thinking about in terms of our foreign policy. Of course, it is related to our national defense, and that is what we are working today supporting our military. It is unfortunate we are in the situation we are in, but nevertheless I wish to take a few minutes to discuss what the next President will be inheriting—whomever that President turns out to be, a Republican or Democrat and potentially, I guess I should say, an Independent, although I don’t think that will happen.

The next President is going to be faced with a bucket full of foreign policy issues that President is going to have to deal with. As I said, I hope to speak next week at some time in greater length about the challenges our President will face, but let me summarize a few key points that deserve further discussion among my colleagues, and, hopefully, by the Presidential candidates during the election campaign.

It is clear to me, and I believe it is clear to my Senate colleagues, that the President has failed to clearly define American role and a coherent strategy to pursue that goal. It is equally clear that his vision of America’s role has been woefully inadequate to respond to the growing crises throughout the world.

Someone earlier here mentioned, and I had mentioned before, that the world is on fire. The Director of National Intelligence, James Clapper, with 51 years of service in the intelligence world, has said he has never seen anything like this in his 51 years of service—one that will affect the multitude of crises that exist around the world and that we are confronted with. As the world’s leading Nation—the Nation that has provided freedom for hundreds of millions, if not billions, of people by taking the lead to fight terrorism, to fight the evil that exists in this world—it is important we understand America’s decisions. The decisions made by America’s leaders have had an impact on events around the world.

For nearly 8 years, we have been trying to read the President’s foreign policy tea leaves to divine his purposes and methods of a foreign policy that, to me, is chaotic, ad hoc, and directionless. We don’t know what the administration is trying to accomplish—whether we should or should not engage and at what cost it would be. These all remain mysteries to us here in the Senate, where we have an obligation to advise and consent on foreign policy, and to the American people, who continue to ask us: What is going on here? What is America’s role? What are we doing? What should we be doing? What is the debate?

The task is made even more daunting by the crisis-ridden world we now face. The next President will face foreign policy across the globe, but three stand out that I would especially like to touch on this evening and that I think are especially dangerous. Those three are the Middle East, Europe, and Russia.

Let’s look at the Middle East. The region is disintegrating. We are now in the midst of the most profound and dangerous redefinition of the region since the end of the Ottoman Empire in 1917. Borders, regimes, stability, and alliances are being swept away with no clear successors.

In the center of all of it is ISIS—the most lethal, best funded, dangerous terrorist organization in history—created and metastasized in a vacuum largely, unfortunately, of our own making.

At the same time, the civil war in Syria is continuing into its sixth year. The war has created nearly 300,000 dead, with millions of refugees and internally displaced persons and with no end in sight.

Iran continues its long history of destabilizing, hostile activities in the region, now growing its disruptive capacity in the wake of the misbegotten nuclear deal.

Europe is dealing with the largest refugee migrant flow since World War II. This migration is entirely unsustainable, unmanageable, threatening European unity and individual state stability. This crisis could unravel the EU itself and cost trillions of euros. More than that, it is a humanitarian disaster.

The Supreme Allied Commander Europe, General Breedlove, in a discussion I had with him not that long ago, correctly said the migration flow has been “weaponized.” He argues the migration crisis has become a cover for issues that exist around the world and that we are confronted with. As the world’s leading Nation—the Nation that has provided American leadership in our age. The administration’s infamous reset of Russian policy, loudly championed at the time by Mrs. Clinton, by the way, preceded Russia’s invasion and annexation of a neighbor. Russia, having the so-called reset with Russia, Russia has acquired a vastly greater role in the Middle East, where Russia had not before been present, much less dominant. It has demonstrated reliability as a modern capable military partner, in contrast with our own unreliability.

These are just three of the crises the next President will face. James Clapper, speaking at a public hearing before the Senate Select Intelligence, handed out the current assessment of the crises the world faces. It was 29 pages long, with eight regional crises—I named three of them—and each one of them posing a significant danger to our own people here in the United States.

Since that reset, Russia has acquired a vastly greater role, as I have said. The next President is going to have to face not just these three major crises but many, many more, and I will talk about some of them next week.

We need a policy from this President and from the White House that is based on a clear linkage to U.S. national interests and that will articulate a coherent strategy to guide policy and actions that we take; that will be an accurate assessment of consequences, both short-term and long term; that will be transparent, with candor and realism that will have resources adequate to secure the defined policy or task that is being laid out; and that will show strength and leadership coming from the Nation that every other free nation in the world depends upon for guidance, for strength, as an ally or coalition.

The American people are yearning for a coherent foreign policy that is clear-eyed, articulate, transparent, and with common sense. They want to see it, they want to understand it, and we have an obligation to let them know what it is. We are not going to get that out of this administration. That is clear. There continues to be confused, behind-the-curve reaction to world events and a lack of a solid policy to deal with it.

If the next President can give the American people a coherent foreign policy that is clear-eyed, articulate, consistent, and with common sense, we will once again begin to reassert ourselves in terms of being a nation dedicated to finding peace and solutions to major crises around the world. But if we remain guessing about purpose, direction, many more, and I will talk about some of them next week.

We will once again begin to reassert ourselves in terms of being a nation dedicated to finding peace and solutions to major crises around the world. But if we remain guessing about purpose, direction, many more, and I will talk about some of them next week.

With that, I yield the floor, as I notice another of my colleagues on the floor to speak.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak for up to 10 minutes as in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

GASPEE DAYS

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. Mr. President, I come here, as I do every year in the Senate, to commemorate the anniversary of a brave blow that Rhode Island struck for liberty and justice—the Gaspee Affair of 1772.

On the night of June 9, and into the morning of June 10, 1772, in the waters of Rhode Island, a band of American patriots chased back against their British overlords and drew the first blood of the struggle that would become the American Revolution.

American schoolchildren, the pages here in this room, and all of us no doubt learned in their history books of the Boston revelers who painted their faces and pushed tea into Boston harbor. But those same history books often omit the tale of the Gaspee, a bloodier saga, which occurred more than a year earlier.

As tensions with the American colonists grew, King George III stationed revenue cutters, armed customs patrol vessels, along the American coastline to prevent smugglers from evading the payment of taxes, and impose the authority of the Crown. One of the most notorious of these ships was the HMS Gaspee, stationed in Rhode Island’s Narragansett Bay. The Gaspee and its captain, Joseph Dudingston, were known for destroying fishing vessels, unjustly seizing cargo, and flagging down ships that had properly passed customs inspection in Newport only to interrogate and humiliate the crew inwardly.

“The British armed forces had come to regard almost every local merchant as a smuggler and a cheat,” wrote author Nick Bunker about that era. Rhode Islanders chafed at this egreious treatment, and were ready to strike out at the oppressive work of the Royal Navy.”

As the Gaspee gave chase, Captain Lindsey veered north toward Pawtuxet Cove, toward the shallows off Namquid Point. When the Gaspee attempted to stop the sloop that ran routes to New York and New England, he was prepared for a brief, fight that ensued:

Dudingston shouted down the hatch, calling for his crew to hurry on deck whether they had clothes on or not, and then ran to the starboard bow, where the first of the raiding boats were coming alongside the ship. He swung at the attackers with his sword, pushing the first attempted boarder back into the boat. Then a musket shot rang out. The ball tore through the lieutenant’s left arm, breaking it, and into his groin. He fell back on the deck. With a blazing sword, the raiders beat the British seamen back down the hatchway and over the sides of the ship. Swinging axe handles and wooden staves, the raiders beat the British seamen back down the hatchway and kept them below decks. Dudingston struggled and collapsed in his own blood at the companionway to his cabin at the stern of the ship.

The struggle was over. One of the Rhode Islanders, a physician named John Mawney, tended to Dudingston’s wounds. The patriots commandeered the Gaspee, loaded the British crew into the longboats and took them ashore, and then set combustibles along the length of the Gaspee. They set her ablaze, and watched from a hillside onshore as the ship burned.

The fire reached the ship’s magazine, this is what ensued. The Gaspee was no more. You can be sure that the British authorities immediately called for the heads of the American saboteurs. An inquiry was launched and a lavish commission was posted. But even though virtually all of Rhode Island knew about the attack, investigators were able to find no witnesses willing to name names. The entire colony seemed affected with the terrible case of amnesia.

William Staple’s “Documentary History of the Destruction of the Gaspee” describes this distinct cloudiness of Rhode Island memories. James Sabin said he could give no information relative to the assembling, arming, training or leading on the people concerned in destroying the schooner Gaspee.”

Stephen Gulley said: “As to my own knowledge, I know nothing about it.” John Cole said he “saw several people collected together, but did not know any of them.”

William Tayer was asked: “Do you know anything?” He said a simple “No.”

D. Hitchcock said: “We met at Mr. Sabin’s, by ourselves, and about 8 o’clock, I went to the door, or, finally, kitchen, and saw a number of people in the street, but paid no attention to them.”

Arthur Fenner said: “I am a man of seventy-four years of age, and very infirmed, and at the time said schooner was taken and plundered, I was in my bed.”

Completely frustrated by the Rhode Islanders’ stonewalling, the British commissioners dropped the inquiry, finding it “totally impossible at present to make a report, not having all the evidence we have reason to expect.”

Nick Bunker wrote, “The British had never seen anything quite like the Gaspee affair. . . . Like the Boston Tea Party, their attack on the ship amounted to a gesture of absolute denial: A complete rejection of the empire’s right to rule.”

Rhode Islanders had grown accustomed to and fiercely protective of a level of personal freedom unique in that time. “Even by American standards,” says Bunker, Rhode Island “was an anomaly, a孕期 case of popular government.”

As Frederic D. Schwarz noted in American Heritage magazine, one of the exasperated British investigators even scorned the Rhode Island Colony as “a downright democracy.”

This Rhode Island independence streak was well known to the British imperialist. But the burning of the Gaspee foretold greater struggles to come. In the words of Commander Armstrong:

“J. Lynch and his officers were beginning to realize there was something more dangerous out on the water and in American harbors. Alongside the salt air and the smell of wet canvas was the scent of treason. A revolution began on the sandbar of Namquid Point—in the spot that bears the name Gaspee on today’s charts of the Narragansett Bay.”

Oh, and Boston: Nice job a year later with the tea bags.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I am proud to stand once again with Senator GILLIBRAND in support of the Military Justice Improvement Act.

Two years ago, Congress enacted a number of commonsense reforms as part of the National Defense Authorization Act. These changes were mostly good, commonsense measures, and I supported them; however, they were not sufficient.

As I said at that time a year ago, we are past the point of tinkering with the current system and hoping that does the trick. I urged the Senate at that time to support bold actions that would make sexual assault in the military a thing of the past.

Unfortunately, those of us arguing for the Military Justice Improvement Act of 2016, were told to wait and see if the reforms that were included would work, while leaving in place the current military justice system. Well, we have had time to see if things have really changed. They have not. The rate of sexual assault in the military is unchanged.

Fourty-two percent of servicemember survivors who reported retaliation were actually encouraged to drop the issue by their supervisor or someone else in the chain of command. That means a crime was committed, and you shouldn’t bother to report the crime.

A majority of servicemember survivors indicated that they were not satisfied with the official actions taken against the alleged perpetrator.

Their responses showed that survivors lacked sufficient confidence in the military justice system to report the crime. Isn’t that awful. If we didn’t have confidence in the local police to report a crime, we know just how high the crime rate would be. But if someone supposed somebody is going to tell me that can’t apply to the military, but it does. In fact, there has been a decrease in the percentage of survivors willing to make an unrestricted report of sexual assaults.

Two years ago, when military leaders were arguing against the reforms Senator GILIBRAND and I and others were advocating, Congress was provided with data from military sexual assault cases that we now know was very misleading. But those statistics and data, quite frankly, carried great weight with a lot of our colleagues here in the Senate. We were told at that time that military commanders were taking cases that were “declined” by civilian prosecutors. The implication was very clear, as we were told that things will be all right; the military system results in prosecutions that civilian prosecutors turn down.

An independent report by Protect Our Defenders and reported by the Associated Press shows that there was no evidence that the military was taking cases that civilian prosecutors would not take.

When Senator GILIBRAND and I wrote to the President asking for an independent investigation of how this misleading information was allowed to be presented to Congress, guess what. We received a response from Secretary Carter, and that response said it was all a misunderstanding. The Secretary’s response went into a semantic discussion of the meaning of certain terms.

Apparently, in the military justice system, when a civilian prosecutor declines to prosecute a case, it is listed as a “declination.” Such a situation is very different—very different—from a civilian prosecutor refusing to prosecute a case. If the military asks the civilian prosecutor to defer to the military’s jurisdiction or if it is done by mutual agreement, it is not a case of a civilian prosecutor turning down a prosecution.

As I said, a review of the cases used to back up the Department of Defense’s claims last year found no evidence that civilian prosecutors had refused those same prosecutions. Nevertheless, that was the clear implication of the statistics published by the Pentagon last year, and we were all sucked into that.

The response to our letter to President Obama claimed that the authors of that review just didn’t understand the meaning of the term “declined” as it is used in the military justice system. The reality is that the information the Pentagon provided to Congress was obviously presented in a very misleading way.

So this question: When military leaders claimed that civilian prosecutors had declined to prosecute cases that the military then prosecuted, would it have had the same impact if they added a footnote saying that, in this context, “declined” doesn’t really mean declined?

To summarize, the reforms we were told would reduce military sexual assaults hadn’t worked. And, folks, if a rape is a rape, and a rape is a crime, and it needs to be prosecuted, and, of course, a chief rationale for opposing our reform of the military justice system was based on very misleading data, as I hope I have made very clear.

So how many more lives need to be ruined before we are ready to take bold action? If a sexual assault isn’t prosecuted, predators will remain in the military, and that results in a perception that sexual assault is actually tolerated, which destroys morale, and it also destroys lives. The men and women who have volunteered to place their lives on the line deserve better.

Taking prosecutions out of the hands of commanders and giving them to professional prosecutors, who are independent of the chain of command, will help ensure impartial justice for the men and women of our armed services. That is what Senator GILIBRAND’s and my amendment is all about.

Let’s not be sucked into certain arguments that we have been sucked into in the past. Let’s stand up and change the culture of the military so that people are prosecuted when they do wrongdoing. Let’s get it done, and get it done on this reauthorization bill.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, one of the issues being discussed this week is the restrictions on the transfer of Guantanamo detainees to the United States. In November 2015 and in previous years, President Obama has signed annual defense bills that include a prohibition on the use of Federal funds to close Guantanamo. The National Defense Authorization Act, NDAA, for 2017 keeps this crucial prohibition.

Today I want to discuss one of the often-overlooked reasons why that prohibition should continue: the troubling immigration implications of transferring dangerous terrorist detainees from Guantanamo to the United States.

This is a serious issue with serious consequences, and it wasn’t always been considered as prominently as it should be. A March 2016 report by the Center for Immigration Studies highlighted this problem, and I will mention that report again in a moment.

About 80 detainees remain at Guantanamo today. In April of this year, nine detainees were released and returned to Saudi Arabia. According to media reports, one of the most dangerous, Rubel, was released to Saudi Arabia. And he was still committed to jihad and killing Americans. He and the rest of the nine released terrorists could very well return to the battlefield after their so-called rehabilitation program in Saudi Arabia.

Rowan Scarborough of the Washington Times writes that this is exactly what has happened with about 30 percent of the detainees that were released from Guantanamo: they have resumed or are suspected of restarting terrorist activity.

In fact, Obama administration officials have admitted that these detainees are killing Americans. As the Washington Post reported earlier this week, “at least 12 detainees released from the prison at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, have launched attacks against U.S. or allied forces in Afghanistan, Pakistan, and Yemen.” These numbers will likely increase as our intelligence agencies continue to obtain information. Clearly, these detainees are a deadly group who should be held in Guantanamo for as long as necessary.

Fortunately, right now the NDAA specifically forbids spending taxpayer funds to transfer any of these detainees to the United States. That is why, in a CNN interview earlier this year, Secretary of Defense Ash Carter stated that transferring Guantanamo prisoners to the United States is against the law.

But Secretary Carter also said “there are people in Gitmo who are so dangerous we cannot transfer them to the custody of another government no matter how much we trust that government . . . . we need to find another place and it would have to be the United States.” But that is exactly what we want to avoid. These individuals are too dangerous for any other country, aren’t they too dangerous to bring to the U.S. as well? Why would we bring these jihadist terrorist detainees into the United States when this would pose significant national security risks to the American people?

What particularly worries me about Secretary Carter’s statement is that any transfer of Guantanamo detainees to the United States would apply highly ambiguous legal doctrines that could mean these terrorists would eventually be released on the streets in our homeland.

Very serious questions arise from this proposition, as the immigration implications of such a potential transfer are far from clear. Some of those questions include: What sort of immigration status would the Guantanamo detainees have? May Guantanamo detainees apply for asylum? What immigration benefits would the Guantanamo detainees be eligible for? Perhaps most important, how would U.S. courts rule on these issues, particularly if a future court decides that the war on terror has ceased? We’ve seen Federal courts in the past grant Guantanamo detainees greater rights than Congress intended.

It is my understanding that if these detainees are transferred to the United States, it would likely be done by granting them “parole” status. Immigration parole does not constitute an admission to the United States, but provides permission to enter the United States provided to be provided on a case-by-case basis, based on “urgent humanitarian reasons” or “significant public benefit.”

As an initial matter, I don’t see how paroling any of these terrorists into the country would be said to be either a humanitarian gesture or one that constituted a “significant public benefit.” But in addition to that concern, there is almost no precedent for immigration parole being used as a means of indefinite detention of aliens on U.S. territory. It should be used as a means to an end, such as bringing a criminal to the U.S. to serve as witness in a trial or allowing certain individuals in the U.S. to obtain emergency medical care.

Consequently, as the Center for Immigration Studies report I mentioned before recently put it, “If the Guantanamo detainees are transferred to the United States, we are faced with the very real likelihood of open-ended immigration parole, which rely on indefinite imprisonment under undefined, little-understood rules and protocols.”

Given these legal uncertainties, the matter of bringing these detainees to the United States who will not be tried for their terrorist activities, or who the administration otherwise intends to hold indefinitely, are writs of habeas corpus and complaints of violations of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

The war on terror has no end in sight, so these legal actions would inevitably arise as a result of the detainees’ newly established presence on American soil and the indefinite nature of their detention.

I would further expect Federal courts to be particularly willing to entertain such writs or other legal actions if any of the detainees are tried for their crimes but not found guilty. And the risk of finding sympathetic, activist judges surely is heightened in the cases of the 28 detainees already cleared for transfer but who have not yet been released.

Even if some detainees are prosecuted and found guilty, they would serve a sentence, be ordered removed from the United States, and, ideally, be removed from our country upon the sentence’s completion. But what happens particularly if one of these detainees, from their home country—is willing to take them? This would be very likely, as statistics provided by the Department of Homeland Security show there are many countries who will simply not allow the hardcore terrorist Guantanamo detainees back into their country. Countries like Iran, Pakistan, China, Somalia and Liberia, just to mention a few, won’t take custody of these enemy combatants. Alternatively, if one country, or another country, is willing to take them but that country is also likely to mistreat them to gain information about their terrorist activities? In that case, our obligations under the Convention Against Torture would prohibit us from returning the detainees to those countries.

If any of those removable detainees do remain in the United States, we won’t be able to keep them detained for very long. As the Supreme Court ruled in Zadvydas v. Davis that the United States may not indefinitely detain removable aliens just because no other country would accept them. In order for the U.S. Government to justify the detention of foreign nationals longer than six months, the basic rule is that the government must show there is a “significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future.” The Zadvydas decision has thus set a precedent that dangerous, deportable aliens who have completed their sentences, but who cannot be deported to other countries, cannot continue to be indefinitely detained and must be released.

Equally concerning, if a trial were to take place that resulted in a sentence of anything other than capital punishment or life in prison, then the Zadvydas precedent would most likely require the release of the terrorist within 6 months of the completion of his or her sentence. The danger any such releases could present has unfortunately already been illustrated. The Zadvydas decision has already resulted in extraordinary violence against Americans and threats to public safety.

In the last 3 years, almost 10,000 criminal aliens have been released from U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement custody because of Zadvydas. Too many of these aliens are released because the U.S. cannot obtain legal means to remove them to their home countries. This has real consequences.

For example, in Hillsdale, NY, a criminal alien who had been convicted of sexually abusing a 12-year-old girl was released onto American streets when his home country of Bangladesh refused to take him back after he had served his sentence. After his release, he proceeded to go on a rampage of theft and violence culminating in the brutal murder of a young woman.

Given that the Obama administration already allows the release of convicted, dangerous, criminal aliens into our communities, I am deeply concerned that a similar situation would eventually arise with terrorism suspects from Guantanamo to the United States. Bringing these hard-core terrorists to the United States would be tantamount to injecting a disease into our society.

As you can see, the potential transfer of these detainees presents a real problem with serious consequences. Many decisions will have to be made and discussions had regarding the viability of transferring these hardcore terrorist detainees to the United States.

If the Obama administration decides to transfer these detainees to the continental United States, this illegal action would force serious constitutional issues that could lead to an impasse. The matter of bringing hardcore terrorists into the United States would undoubtedly go before the Supreme Court. Pushing to close Guantanamo and bringing these hardcore terrorists to the United States without exhausting all alternative options is especially risky to the American people as it pertains to national security and public safety.

I refer my colleagues to the Center for Immigration Studies Web site and the March 2016 report by Dan Cadman entitled, “The Immigration Implications of Moving Guantanamo Detainees to the United States.”

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kansas.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. President, in a moment I am going to ask unanimous consent to address an amendment of mine to the national defense authorization bill, amendment No. 4666.

There is legislation I have introduced with a number of my colleagues that then is reflected perhaps identically in the amendment I hope we will consider this evening. This amendment is related to the National Labor Relations Act, which was one of the legislation exempted Federal, State, and local governments but did not explicitly mention Native American government from the purview of the National Labor Relations Act. Despite that not being mentioned for 70 years, the NLRB honored the sovereign status of tribes accorded to them by the U.S. Constitution. In fact, there is a good argument that the reason tribal governments were not listed in the Labor Relations Act was because the Congress made clear the sovereign nation of tribes. So for 70 years, they were not affected by the NLRB. Unfortunately, in my view, beginning in 2004.
the NLRA reversed its treatment of tribes and legally challenged the right of tribes to enact so-called right-to-work laws.

The amendment I have offered to this bill is pretty straightforward. The National Labor Relations Act is amended to provide that any enterprise or institution owned and operated by an Indian tribe and located on tribal lands is not subject to the NLRA.

This narrow amendment protects tribal sovereignty and gives tribal governments the ability to make the best decisions for their people. The amendment seeks to treat tribal governments no differently from other levels of government, just like we treat cities and counties across the country.

So we have a basic question in this amendment: Does this amendment to the NLRA arrest jurisdiction in a tribal land-labor dispute? Instead, the amendment is part of an agenda to undermine the rights of American workers. We have seen it regularly. We see it in State capitals. We saw it in my State capitol 5 years ago when the Governor sought to take collective bargaining rights for public employees.

For the first and only time in American history, voters in a statewide election saw noDesk collective bargaining rights. It was the only time it ever happened, and it was by 22 percentage points.

The amendment is part of an agenda to undermine the rights of American workers, including 600,000 employees of tribal casinos—75 percent of them are not nonnative Indians, non-Indians. Courts have upheld the application to the tribes of Federal employment laws, including Fair Labor Standards Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Employment Retirement Income Security Act, and title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

In addition to harming the thousands of already organized workers at companies with 50 or more employees of tribal casinos—75 percent of them are not nonnative Indians, non-Indians. Courts have upheld the application to the tribes of Federal employment laws, including Fair Labor Standards Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Employment Retirement Income Security Act, and title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act. In addition to harming the thousands of already organized workers at companies with 50 or more employees of tribal casinos—75 percent of them are not nonnative Indians, non-Indians. Courts have upheld the application to the tribes of Federal employment laws, including Fair Labor Standards Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Employment Retirement Income Security Act, and title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Sovereignty is an important aspect of tribal relations with their tribal members. It is something tribes take very seriously, and in my view, it is something Members of the Senate should take very seriously, in part because it is the right policy, and perhaps even more importantly, it is the right moral position to have. And of equal value, it is what the Constitution of the United States says.

The legislation on which this amendment was based was passed by the House of Representatives in a bipartisan vote. Even our former colleague, the late Senator Daniel Inouye of Hawaii, wrote in 2009 that “Congress should affirm the original construction of the NLRA by excluding Indian tribes in the definition of employer.”

This amendment presents Congress with an opportunity to reaffirm the constitutional recognition of tribes and the rights accorded to them under the supreme law of our land.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to set aside the pending amendment and call up my amendment, amendment No. 4066; that there be 10 minutes of debate, equally divided; and that if I lose or yield at the end of the time, the Senate vote in relation to the amendment with no second-degree amendment in order prior to the vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. (Mr. Sullivan.) Is there objection?

The Senator from Ohio.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, and I will explain if I could.

First of all, this doesn’t belong in NDAA. This is not a defense issue, but I would like to talk more substantively about it and then make another statement.

I strongly support tribal sovereignty. I know my colleagues appreciate Senator Moran’s genuine interest in this. He is my friend. We have worked on a number of issues in banking together. We don’t agree on this, but that is the way things are. I do believe both sides of the aisle do support tribal sovereignty.

This amendment, though, is not about tribal sovereignty. It is about undermining labor laws—laws that protect the rights of workers to organize and collectively negotiate—one of America’s great values that more than almost anything—other than democratic government—created and maintained a middle class, organizing and bargaining collectively. Specifically, the amendment attempts to overturn NLRA decisions that have asserted the Board’s jurisdiction over labor disputes on tribal lands.

The Board has methodically evaluated when they do and don’t have jurisdiction on tribal lands by using a very carefully constructed test to determine that the Board’s jurisdiction would not violate tribal rights and does not interfere in exclusive right to self-governance.

In a June 2015 decision, the NLRA employed that test and did not assert jurisdiction in a tribal land-labor dispute. Instead, the amendment is part of an agenda to undermine the rights of American workers. We have seen it regularly. We see it in State capitals. We saw it in my State capitol 5 years ago when the Governor sought to take collective bargaining rights for public employees.

For the first and only time in American history, voters in a statewide election saw noDesk collective bargaining rights. It was the only time it ever happened, and it was by 22 percentage points.

The amendment is part of an agenda to undermine the rights of American workers, including 600,000 employees of tribal casinos—75 percent of them are not nonnative Indians, non-Indians. Courts have upheld the application to the tribes of Federal employment laws, including Fair Labor Standards Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Employment Retirement Income Security Act, and title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

We are here because we strongly believe that in Congress we should be working on ways to boost economic security for more families and help our economy grow from the middle out, not from the top down. A fundamental part of that is making sure our companies—with the top down. A fundamental part of that is making sure our companies—and make no mistake—undermine labor laws—laws that protect the rights of workers with safe workplaces and treat them with respect. Unfortunately, Senator Blumenthal and I have come to the floor to speak against a provision that would seriously undermine the spirit of bipartisanship that we have cultivated thus far.

As it stands, this bill contains a provision that would help shield defense contractors that steal money out of their workers’ paychecks or refuse to pay the minimum wage. It would help protect the companies that violate workplace safety laws while receiving taxpayer dollars, and it would allow companies with a history of discriminating against women, people of color, and individuals with disabilities to continue receiving Federal contracts, and to me that is unacceptable.

For too long, the Federal Government has awarded billions of taxpayer dollars to companies that rob workers of their paychecks and fail to maintain safe working conditions. To help right those wrongs, President Obama issued the Fair Pay and Safe Workplaces Executive order, and I was very proud to support him.

Under the new proposed guidelines, when a company applies for a Federal contract, they will need to be upfront about their safety, health, and labor violations over the past 3 years. That way, government agencies can consider an employer’s record of providing workers with a safe workplace and paying workers what they have earned before granting or renewing Federal contracts. To be clear, the new rules do not prevent these companies from winning Federal contracts. The new protections will just improve transparency so government agencies are aware of the company’s violations and can help them come into compliance when the law. These are worker protection laws that are already on the books, including laws that affect our veterans, such as the Vietnam Era Veterans’ Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974. These businesses should not have to compete with corporations that cut corners and put their workers’ safety... at risk or cheat workers on their paychecks. It will also have another benefit. Some of these same irresponsible companies that exploit their workers are also irresponsible when it comes to staying on schedule and on budget.

One report found that among the companies that have the highest number of workplace violations between 2005 and 2009, one-quarter of them also had significant performance problems like cost overruns and schedule delays. So these new rules will help the Federal Government choose contractors that are actually efficient and effective, which in return will help save taxpayer dollars.

Rewarding efficient and effective contractors should be a bipartisan goal, but unfortunately some of my colleagues want to give defense contractors a special carve-out from these crucial accountability measures and, to me, that is unacceptable.

It is time to stop rewarding Federal contractors with a history of violating workers’ rights. That is why I support the amendment of my colleague from Connecticut, which will make sure the Defense Department considers all companies’ full record before awarding or renewing their Federal contracts.

Like many of my colleagues, I am focused on leveling the playing field for companies that do the right thing by their workers, protect American taxpayers, and provide a clean and secure environment for workers. That is why I remain strongly opposed to the damaging provision in the underlying bill, and I do hope our colleagues will join us in supporting our amendment to undo the carve-out and allow these critical protections for our workers to be implemented as they were intended.

I thank the Presiding Officer.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BLUMENTHAL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BLUMENTHAL. Mr. President, the amendment I filed, Blumenthal No. 4255, will not be made pending, but I want to emphasize the importance of the amendment and hope I can work with my colleagues on the substance of it because it is so profoundly important to fairness in the workplace and the protection of American workers.

My friend and colleague, the Senator from Washington, Patty Murray, has spoken on this issue within the last few minutes, and I join her in supporting the critical Executive order issued by the President called the Fair Pay and Safe Workplaces Executive Order.

The President’s position is that companies doing business by the Federal Government to disclose whether they violated any of the 14 longstanding labor laws protecting American workers included in this Executive order. There is no requirement to disclose a mere allegation or claim of a violation of one of those laws, rather, the Executive order requires, very simply, disclosure of a determination by a court or administrative body of an actual violation. In effect, this Executive order would be gutted by the National Defense Authorization Act now on the floor of this Congress, and the amendment I was intending to offer is the very same amendment that is in the NDAA markup and supported by groups like Easter Seals and Paralyzed Veterans of America. They worry that the language in this law that we now have before us will do a damaging injustice to our veterans and constituents with disabilities and thousands of other employees working under Federal contracts.

I am proud to be joined in this effort by not only Senator Murray but also Senator Gillibrand, Brown, Sanders, Leahy, Baldwin, Merkley, Boxer, Casey, and the ranking member of the committee with jurisdiction over this bill, Senator Jack Reed of the Armed Services Committee, where the Presiding Officer and I sit.

We need to ensure that the Fair Pay and Safe Workplaces Executive Order applies across all Federal agencies and to all workers, or as many as possible. That is why we are all left to make a heroic effort to protect workers and taxpayer dollars. It is not only about workers, it is also about taxpayer dollars.

The laws that are covered here are sort of the bread-and-butter protections of all Federal workers and all workers, generally, such as the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Family and Medical Leave Act, and the Civil Rights Act. Other laws that may be more obscure are also covered, but they also have the same protections, and this measure and those laws are designed to protect veterans and women from harmful, debilitating discrimination, among other wrongful practices.

Let’s be very clear. Most companies covered by Federal contracts play by the rules and obey the law. All they would need to do is literally check a box confirming that they are in compliance. There are no big administrative expenses or elaborate bureaucratic hurdles. They just need to check a box to confirm that they are in compliance. For the small subset of companies with compliance issues, the contracting agency would take information about violations into consideration in the procurement process. This is not a barrier. They can still be considered, but they would then try to work with the company to make sure it comes into compliance with the law.

The basic theory of this Executive order is a matter of common sense. It is true about blacklisting companies. It is about ensuring that companies that want to do business with the Federal Government follow the law and provide a safe, equitable, and fair workplace.

Those are the companies we can trust in being our partners in carrying out the Federal Government’s work, as long as they obey the law and are in compliance with it.

Companies that violate those laws should not receive taxpayer dollars. Companies that violate the law, very bluntly, are creating an unlevel playing field and forcing law-abiding companies into an unfair competition for contracts. They can cut corners, save money by in effect violating the law, present lowball offers, and when they are hired, provide poor performance—again, wasting Federal funds to the detriment of taxpayers.

Of course, it is not just about dollars—important to the taxpayer—but about workers. Every year, tens of thousands of American workers are denied overtime wages. Unlawfully discriminated against in hiring and pay, they have their health and safety put at risk. We need a strong and consistent, unequivocal statement by not only Senator Murray but also our Armed Services Committee that the Federal Government do business only with companies that meet the same standards as companies working with the Federal Government, an onerous source of leverage requiring compliance with Federal protections, just in letter but in spirit. We must very simply allow for consistent and appropriate application of this Executive order to ensure that workers or contractors under the defense laws have the same protections as other workers.

The NDAA provision that guts this Executive order must be removed at some point. It may not happen in our consideration of this measure now, but my hope is that we can work with colleagues and overcome the potentially harmful effects of this provision.

I look forward, in fact, to a collegial effort to make sure that we provide long-term protections to American workers through this Executive order.

Thank you, Mr. President.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SASSÉ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SASSÉ. Mr. President, why is it that Washington also jumps blindly into a groupthink with the first divide into blue shirts, retreat into our tribes, and then try to figure out how we can inflict maximum damage on each other? That is not how adults in the communities across our country solve their problems, and that is not how they would like us to be solving our problems, but that is actually what is happening right now.

The legislation before the Senate is supposed to be about national security, which is the first and most important duty of the Federal Government. Republicans and Democrats, all 100 Members of this body, tell ourselves and tell our constituents that we love and want to support and provide for the troops. I want that to be true. Thus, I think we should be able to agree that national security is far more important than trying to run up partisan scores in another culture war battle. By the way, culture war battles are almost never settled well by compulsion, by government, and by force.

But here we are, getting ready to have divide again, this time over the issue of women in the draft, and I want to ask why.

Let me ask a question that should be obvious. Why are we now fighting about drafting our sisters, our mothers, and our daughters into a draft that no one anywhere is telling us they need? Seriously, where is there any general who has appeared before us and said that the most pressing issue or even a pressing issue about our national security challenges and efforts at the present time is that we don’t have enough people to draft? Where has that happened? Who has said it? Because I have been listening, and I haven’t heard a single person from the national security community come before us and say: Do you know what we need? We need more people in the draft. I haven’t heard that conversation anywhere.

This fight about women in the draft is entirely unnecessary, and wisdom should be our guide. Instead of trying to unnecessarily divide, we have enough big, real, and important fighting we should be doing around here. Why would we take on unnecessary fighting?

So before we send out our press releases and before we decide to condemn people that are on the other side of a culture war battle, why don’t we just pause and together agree on this one indisputable fact: We have the best all-volunteer force right now. We are not drafting anybody, and no one is recommending that we draft anybody. So why are we having this fight?

Rather than needlessly dividing the American people over a 20th century registration process, why wouldn’t we do this: Why wouldn’t we pause, stop the expansion of the draft, stop to study the purposes of the draft, and actually evaluate whether we need a draft? Maybe we do, but let’s actually evaluate it before we start fighting over the most controversial pieces of it.

Let’s not start by fighting about who to add to the draft. Let’s not start by trying to import culture warring into a national security bill. Let’s start by asking if we are really certain we need the draft.

I am introducing a simple amendment, and I hope that this body could agree that its aim is common sense and its aim is to deescalate our bitter conflicts. My simple amendment would replace the NDAA’s controversial draft provisions with three relatively non-controversial and I think much more important—steps.

No. 1, my amendment would ask the Senate to admit that the draft, which last had a call, by the way—the last call of the draft was in December of 1972. I was 10 months old, and I think I am 5 years older than the youngest Member of this body. The last time there was a call in the draft was December of 1972. We should probably admit that it is time for a reevaluation just maybe continuing on autopilot.

No. 2, it would sunset the draft 3 years from now unless this body decides that we have consulted the generals and we can tell the American people that we need the draft to continue. Then this body could debate who does the draft 3 years in the future unless we would act to restore the draft.

No. 3, it requires the Secretary of Defense to report back to this body—to report back to the Congress—in 6 months on the merits of the Selective Service System rather than simply continuing it on status quo autopilot, unscrutinized.

Again, this isn’t asking the Secretary of Defense to wade into the culture wars or to take a lead in any social engineering. By the way, I am the father of two girls, so there is nobody who is going to outbid me on the limitless potential of young women in American life, but that is not what this legislation is about. The issue is about the Secretary of Defense reporting back to us after consulting with the generals and telling us one of three things.

I think it was a pretty simple question. We should have the Secretary of Defense come back before Congress in 6 months and say to us one of three things. Either, A, the all-volunteer forces we are actually using right now are sufficient and they think the draft is obsolete, in which case the sunset of the draft wouldn’t happen. B, they would tell us that after consideration they believe the draft is still necessary and some version of the present draft should be continued; or, C, they actually think we have a deficit of human capital to potentially draft, and they think we need an expansion of the draft. Then this body could debate who do we expand it to.

But let’s first have the Secretary of Defense consult the generals, come back to us in 6 months, and say: A, an all-volunteer force is sufficient and they would not recommend an expansion of the draft. Then this body could debate who do we expand it to.

Maybe we will say we should have men who are older than 26 years added to the draft. Maybe we should add women. Maybe there will be some other configuration of people we would add to the draft. But until we know we need more people in the draft or that we need a draft we don’t need to dive headlong into what would be the most controversial version of this debate.

Again, the generals are probably going to tell us they are fine with an all-volunteer force, but we don’t know that. Why so don’t we have them report back before we start bickering.

One of the fundamental purposes of this body is to debate the biggest issues facing the Nation and to do so in an honorable way. That is what the Senate is for. The reason we have a Senate is to debate—not abstractions—but to address and ultimately solve the most important challenges that the Constitution in present circumstances demands we take on. Right now, women in the draft isn’t really one of those issues, so I don’t know why we would start fighting about it and dividing so many of the American people about it.

If there is any Senator who believes that the purposes of the NDAA should be to have a culture war fight, humbly I would invite him or her to come to the floor and please make that case. If there is a reason we should have a culture war fight in the context of the NDAA, tell us why we should do it. But, if not, let’s avoid unnecessary cultural division and stick with the actual national security tasks that are before us today.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GARDNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for unanimous consent be approved.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. GARDNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate be in a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

REMEMBERING DR. JAMES CRASE

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I wish to pay my tribute to a distinguished Kentuckian and talented physician who has sadly passed away. Dr. James Crase, a good friend of mine who was a veteran and a former State senator, departed this life on May 28. He was 78 years old.

Dr. Crase, born in Letcher County, KY, practiced medicine for over 53 years, 40 of those years in his beloved hometown of Somerset, KY. He served as chief of staff at the Lake Cumberland Regional Hospital.

As a Somerset doctor, he provided care to over 10,000 patient families and was named "Citizen Physician of the Year" by the Kentucky Academy of Family Practice. He previously practiced medicine in Berea, KY, McKee, KY, and in Norfolk, VA with the U.S. Navy.

Dr. Crase was elected to the Kentucky Senate in 1994 and became well known for his dedication to constituent service. After retiring from his medical practice, he helped create ClubMD, a healthcare clinic that focused on improving the patient experience.

Dr. Crase was deeply involved with the community and committed to volunteer service with many organizations, including the Lake Cumberland Lincoln Club, the Lake Cumberland Performing Arts, the Kentucky Medical Association, the Berea College Board of Trustees, the Somerset Community College Athletic Directorship, the First Presbyterian Church of Somerset, the Lake Cumberland Regional Hospital, the Pulaski Civil War Round Table, and the United Way.

Elated and I wish to send our deepest condolences to Dr. Crase’s family and many beloved friends during their time of grief. Dr. Crase was a friend, a caring and empathetic physician, and a devoted public servant. The Commonwealth of Kentucky is poorer for his loss.

An area publication, the Lexington Herald-Leader, published an article detailing the life and career of Dr. James Crase. I ask unanimous consent that said article be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Lexington Herald-Leader, June 1, 2016]

LONGTIME SOMERSET PHYSICIAN JAMES CRASE DIES AT 78

(By Bill Estep)

James D. Crase, a longtime Somerset physician who served a partial term in the state Senate, died May 28. The Letcher County native was 78.

Crase was a U.S. Navy veteran who worked as a physician for 53 years, including more than 40 years in Somerset, where he served as chief of staff of the Lake Cumberland Regional Hospital and an elder at First Presbyterian Church.

Crase's obituary said he was proud to have served a partial term in the state Senate in December 1994 to finish the term of a lawmaker who had been convicted in a corruption case.

Republicans control the Kentucky Senate now, but were in the minority then. In a newspaper commentary, Crase expressed some frustration about the relative lack of power of the minority, and with the legislative process.

"First, one must convince his or her own party to support the measure. Then comes the dubious chore of convincing the opposing party of its merits, thus the trades—you vote for mine, I'll smile upon yours," Crase wrote. He did not seek election to a full term in 1996.

U.S. Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell said in a statement Wednesday said Crase will be missed.

"As a veteran and former state senator, Dr. Crase was deeply involved in communities and worked tirelessly to improve the lives of his constituents," McConnell said.

Crase is survived by three children.

(At the request of Mr. Reid, the following statement was ordered to be printed in the RECORD.)

VOTE EXPLANATION

- Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I regret I was not present for the June 8, 2016, vote on the motion to invoke cloture on the compound motion to go to conference on H.R. 2577, the Departments of Transportation, and Housing and Urban Development, and Military Construction and Veterans Affairs appropriations bill, and the Zika supplemental appropriations bill.

Had I been present, I would have voted yes on cloture. This bipartisan bill supports our Veterans, invests in our nation’s transportation, and provides funding to address the Zika virus. Additionally, I would have supported the Nelson motion to instruct conferences and opposed the Sullivan motion to instruct conferences.

SECTION 2152 OF THE FEDERAL AVIATION REAUTHORIZATION BILL

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I wish to discuss the issue of preemption and ask to engage in a colloquy with Senators TILLIS and NELSON.

I come to the floor today to discuss the Federal Aviation Administration Reauthorization Act of 2016, which passed the Senate on April 19 by a vote of 95 to 3. This bipartisan work that went into negotiating this bill, and I hope that the House will take it up.

However, there is unfinished business with this bill: the need to remove section 2152. This provision of the bill would preempt any State or local laws related to the operation, manufacture, design, testing, licensing, registration, certification, operation, or maintenance of an unmanned aircraft system including airspace, altitude, flight paths, and unmanned aircraft requirements, purpose of operations, and pilot, operator, and observer qualifications, training, and certification.

This provision of the bill would be effective on the date of enactment prior to the FAA promulgating any regulations in these areas.

When this came to my attention, as a former mayor, I became very alarmed about the possible reach of this provision and how it might impact local communities, State parks, schools, infrastructure, and other areas with a strong State or local interest.

So I filed two amendments, and, ultimately, the managers of this bill—Chairman THUNE and Ranking Member NELSON—agreed to accept an amendment to strike the provision from the underlying bill.

This is amendment No. 3704, filed by myself and Senator TILLIS, and cosponsored by Senators BLUMENTHAL, PERSPEDE, LEE, and MARKEL.

I would now like to yield, if I could, to my colleague from North Carolina, Mr. TILLIS.

Mr. TILLIS. As a former State legislator, very much agree with what my colleague from California has said. In North Carolina, we worked hard to get the regulatory and legislative framework right for this new technology. In fact, we commissioned a legislative research committee to propose legislation and obtained input from stakeholder prior to the bill’s passage. You see, not all wisdom resides at the Federal Government. Our system is designed to let States and localities weigh factors that bureaucrats in Washington might not consider, such as potential privacy concerns, law enforcement operations, search and rescue, natural disaster mitigation, infrastructure monitoring—the list goes on.

I would add that it was my understanding as well that Chairman THUNE and Ranking Member NELSON had graciously agreed to accept this amendment and that it had been cleared as part of a group of noncontroversial amendments. I was disappointed to see that package held up over a disagreement on unrelated matters between other Members. I am encouraged, however, by the chairman’s and ranking members’ commitment to continue addressing our concerns in conference committee.

Mr. NELSON, Mr. President, my distinguished colleague from North Carolina, Mr. TILLIS, is correct. Chairman THUNE and I did agree to accept this amendment as part of a package of 26 amendments agreed to by all but one of our colleagues.

While I am disappointed that these amendments could not clear the full Senate, including one that preserves certain State and local powers to deal with public safety concerns regarding drones, I will work with Chairman THUNE to address this and other issues in the conference committee once the House has acted.

REMEMBERING TERESA SCALZO

Mr. TOOMEY. Mr. President, today I wish to honor Ms. Teresa Scalzo, who recently passed away after a 23 year legal career focused on public service, supporting the victims of violence and sexual assault, and advancing the prosecution of those horrible crimes. After a battle with an aggressive cancer, Teresa passed away on Monday, May 23, 2016.

A native of Easton, PA, Teresa earned a law degree from Temple University School of Law in 1993. Over the next 23 years, she held numerous legal positions, all focused on giving victims... a voice and advancing the prosecution of these complex cases.

Most recently, Teresa served as the deputy director of the U.S. Navy Judge Advocate General’s Corps Trial Counsel Assistance Program. In this position, Teresa served as senior policy adviser for the Department of Defense Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office, director of the National Center for the Prosecution of Violence Against Women, chief of the sex crimes unit at the Northampton County District Attorney’s Office, and a member of the sexual assault response team at the National Sexual Violence Resource Center.

Teresa radiated that special balance of determination and compassion that enabled victims of sexual assault and family violence to find their voices in the pursuit of justice. In recognition of her accomplishments, she received the 2009 Visionary Award from Ending Violence Against Women International. In 2001, she received the Allied Professional Award for Outstanding Commitment to Victims’ Services from the Crime Victims Council of the Lehigh Valley.

I would like to recognize Ms. Scalzo’s honorable commitment and exceptional service to victims, the justice system, and our country. She is survived by her mother Marie; her brother Carl; his wife Theresa; and their nephew and nieces, Brett, Paige, and Maggie. It is an honor to stand in recognition of this compassionate advocate and seeker of justice.

REMEMBERING COE SWOBE

Mr. HELLER. Mr. President, today I wish to remember a true Nevada statesman and dedicated public servant, former Nevada State Assemblyman and State Senator Coe Swobe. I send my condolences and prayers to his man and State Senator Coe Swobe. I am appreciative of his hard work and in-kind support for victims of sexual assault and to hold perpetrators accountable. Among the many prestigious and important positions throughout her career, Teresa served as senior policy adviser for the Department of Defense Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office, director of the National Center for the Prosecution of Violence Against Women, chief of the sex crimes unit at the Northampton County District Attorney’s Office, and a member of the sexual assault response team at the National Sexual Violence Resource Center.

It is an honor to stand in recognition of this compassionate advocate and seeker of justice.

CENTENNIAL OF THE WYOMING DENTAL ASSOCIATION

Mr. BARRASSO. Mr. President, I am honored to recognize the Wyoming Dental Association as it celebrates its 100th anniversary. This historic milestone marks the success of the organization’s efforts to assist its members in the mission of improving the oral health of residents. Today, I join citizens across the Silver State in celebrating the life of an outstanding Nevadan, Coe Swobe.
Wyoming’s communities. I am pleased to offer my sincere appreciation to the members of the Wyoming Dental Association as they celebrate their centennial.

NATIONAL JERKY DAY

Mr. ROUNDS. Mr. President, today I remind my fellow Americans of National Jerky Day on June 12, 2016. Jerky has been a staple of the American diet since the birth of our Nation because of its portability and high protein content. Early settlers learned bison jerky preparation techniques from Native Americans. Lewis and Clark cured and ate jerky over the course of their historic expedition. Now, our astronauts consume jerky aboard the International Space Station. The production of jerky is also an important component of our national economy. Companies from coast to coast employ thousands of workers to produce American-made jerky and distribute it internationally. Our Nation’s farmers and ranchers produce high-quality products that help make the best jerky in the world.

Therefore, I encourage my fellow citizens to enjoy a nutritious jerky snack in celebration of National Jerky Day on Sunday, June 12, 2016.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

STRATHAM’S 300TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

Ms. AYOTTE. Mr. President, today I wish to honor the 300th anniversary of the town of Stratham, New Hampshire. Stratham is located in southeast New Hampshire, in a region inhabited by Native Americans for thousands of years before the arrival of Europeans on our shores. It was first settled in 1631, and in 1709, the residents petitioned for the creation of their own town in order to build a school, church, and meeting house. Lieutenant Governor George Vaughn granted residents permission, on March 20, 1716, to colonize the town of Stratham and the surrounding communities. It was this that “it was given for the free use and enjoyment of the residents of Stratham and the surrounding communities.” In 1666, the town of Stratham celebrated their 250th anniversary and residents have gathered every year since to celebrate their founding at what is now known as the Stratham Fair. A Land Protection Committee was created in 2002, and a decade later, over 543 acres or nearly 6 percent of the town of Stratham has been conserved and protected permanently.

Today Stratham is home to the headquarters of the Timberland Corporation and to the only Linds & Sprungli factory in the States. This year, on the occasion of Stratham’s 300th Anniversary of its founding, I join more than 7,000 residents in commemorating the rich heritage and valuable contributions to the State of New Hampshire and our Nation.

REMEMBERING GARY DIGIUSEPPE

Mr. BOOZMAN. Mr. President, today I wish to acknowledge the life of Gary John DiGiuseppe who passed away on April 23, 2016. Gary was a man who knew the importance of dedication and hard work. He was fiercely dedicated to his family and his life’s work. He was a man who possessed a broad base of invaluable knowledge. He shared it eagerly through his radio shows and literature. He worked as an agricultural reporter for 35 years. To others in his field, he was known as a true professional of agriculture.

Many knew Gary as the man who started their mornings off with a friendly voice. He was an accomplished talk show host and writer. He was known for doing an excellent job reporting on conferences and interviews. There are few who do not trust his educated opinion. His writing has also been published in the “Arkansas Money & Politics” magazine.

Gary was often referred to as an asset, trustworthy, and well informed. In addition, he was well versed in other aspects of life. He was an accomplished musician and stood firm on his important principles through determined discipline.

Gary always represented situations clearly and fair in his reporting. I was happy to talk with him about the agricultural topics that he was researching and reporting on.

He maintained a passion for learning and teaching all aspects of agriculture. I am remembering Gary today as a true friend of Arkansas agriculture. My thoughts and prayers go out to Gary’s wife, Mary, and his entire family. I humbly offer my gratitude and appreciation for one of Arkansas’ finest agriculture advocates.

TRIBUTE TO COLTER SCULLY

Mr. DAINES. Mr. President, I would like to acknowledge an exceptional Montanan, Colter Scully. Colter is a rising senior at Powell County High School and is preparing for his board of reviews to complete his Eagle Scout application. Three years ago, Colter was inspired to create a frisbee-golf course in his community. Thanks to his leadership and perseverance, the course was opened on May 31, 2016.

Colter’s scoutmaster, Tom Burbhart, describes Colter as a natural outdoorsman and leader, who leads quietly and kindly but has earned the following and respect of his peers. Tom says, “What sets Colter apart is once he sets his mind to something he’s going to do all that he needs to do to see it through.” Eagle Scouts applicants must present a community project that requires planning, coordination, and future thinking. Colter created a dynamic team of individuals who came together to provide the communities of Deer Lodge and Powell with a tobacco-free and entertaining activity.

The Eagle Scout is one of the highest performance-based achievements a wish to recognize the accomplishments of Colter in earning his Eagle Scout rank. Colter had to secure 21 merit badges ranging from first-aid and camping to environmental science and family life, while holding leadership positions. Colter has humbly served Troop 229 as quartermaster, patrol leader, and senior patrol leader.

He embodies the boy scout oath to do his best, to serve God and his country, and to help others at all times in all aspects of life. At Powell County High School, Colter is an honor student who puts forth his best work, earning a 4.0 GPA, while juggling three sports: football, basketball, and track. There is no doubt that this young man’s hard work and dedication will be rewarded. As an Eagle Scout, he will be joining the ranks of impressive individuals such as Neil Armstrong and Gerald Ford. I hope you will join me in wishing him the best luck as he prepares for his Eagle Scout board of review.

TRIBUTE TO WILLIAM PARK

Mr. HELLER. Mr. President, today I wish to recognize an upstanding Nevadan, William Park, who has served as a volunteer firefighter for the Smith Valley Fire Protection District for over 50 years. It gives me great pleasure to recognize his years of hard work and dedication to creating a safe environment for the Smith Valley community.

Mr. Park joined the Smith Valley Fire Protection District as a volunteer firefighter in 1966. He was one of the first Emergency Medical Services, EMS, instructors in the State as part of the Professional Rescue Instructors of Nevada, where he trained hundreds of emergency medical technicians. In just 10 years, Mr. Park rose in the ranks and was selected to serve as assistant fire chief and later fire chief of the District. In the late 1970s, Mr. Park’s construction company, Park Construction, rebuilt the Smith Valley Fire Protection District’s Wellington Station, growing the facility to two apparatus bays. By 1980, he became the

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. GRASSLEY (for himself and Mr. LEAHY):

S. 3045. A bill to amend title 18, United States Code, to reform certain forfeiture procedures, and for other purposes; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, today I am introducing the DUE PROC- ESS Act. I am very pleased that Sen- ator LEAHY is a cosponsor of the bill. This legislation will make important reforms to the practice of civil asset forfeiture.

The Senate Judiciary Committee held hearings last year on the problems associated with civil asset forfeiture. This is an area where a person may have been convicted of no crime, and in fact is often not even charged with a crime, can nonetheless lose his property if the property is suspected to be owned as a result of wrongdoing. Civil asset forfeiture is a place in our soci- ety, including gaining control over as- sets used to further terrorism and the drug trade. But there have been ex- cesses, and this bill is designed to ad- dress many of them.

Working together in a bipartisan and bicameral way, we have had months long discussions about how to draft legislation to improve the fairness of criminal asset forfeiture. The bill that I am introducing today has been introduced and passed through the House Judici- ary Committee on a bipartisan voice vote. It is the result of these bipartisan and bicameral discussions. The Senate should consider the same bill.

The DUE PROCESS Act broadens the timelines for an owner to challenge forfeitures. It extends protections in existing law to judicial forfeitures, not only administrative forfeitures. The government must provide greater no- tice to owners whose property has been seized, including notice of the rights that they may invoke to regain their property and their right to be rep- resented by counsel in contesting a for- feiture either judicially or administratively. The property owner is given more time to respond to the seizure. Very often owners are not even notified when their property is seized or when the government seizes without any judicial finding of criminal wrongdoing.

The problems associated with civil asset forfeiture need to be addressed. In various ways, it would be pref- erable to make changes that go beyond those in this bill. However, we do want to work with law enforcement and address their legitimate interests and concerns. I can assure them that we will continue to talk as this legisla- tion works its way to Senate passage.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENEATE RESOLUTION 485—TO EN- COURAGE THE GOVERNMENT OF THE DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF THE CONGO TO ABIDE BY CON- STITUTIONAL PROVISIONS RE- garding THE HOLDING OF PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS IN 2016, WITH THE AIM OF ENSUR- ING A PEACEFUL AND ORDERLY DEMOCRATIC TRANSITION OF POWER

Mr. FLAKE (for himself, Mr. COONS, Mr. ISAKSON, and Mr. DURBIN) sub- mitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on For- eign Relations:

S. RES. 485

Whereas the United States Government has supported and will continue to support the democratic process of the Demo- cratic Republic of the Congo (in this resolu- tion referred to as “the DRC”) to choose their government in accordance with their constitution and all relevant laws and regulations;

Whereas the constitution of the DRC re- quires that elections be held in time for the inauguration of a new president on December 19, 2016, when the current presidential term expires;

Whereas, on March 30, 2016, the United Na- tions Security Council adopted resolution 2277, which called upon the Government of the DRC and its national partners, including the CENI (Independent National Electoral Commission), “to ensure a transparent and credible electoral process, in fulfillment of their primary responsibility to create prop- erty conditions for the forthcoming elec- tions . . . scheduled for November 2016 in ac- cordance with the Constitution” and urged the Government of the DRC and all relevant parties to ensure an electoral environment conducive to a “free, fair, credible, inclusive, transparent, peaceful, and timely electoral process, in accordance with the Congolese constitution”;

Whereas events in the DRC over the last year and a half have called into serious ques- tion the commitment of the Government of the DRC to hold such elections on the re- quired timeline, and President Joseph Kabila has not publicly committed to stepping down at the end of his term;

Whereas there are 12 presidential elections slated to take place on the continent of Afri- ca by the end of 2017, and what transpires in the DRC will set an important example for the leaders of these countries;

Whereas many observers have expressed concern that failure to move ahead with elections in the DRC could lead to violence and instability inside the DRC, which could reverberate throughout central Africa’s Great Lakes region: Now, therefore, be it

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE
Resolved, That the Senate—
(1) urges the Government of the DRC and all other relevant parties to engage in a credible, independently-monitored, and technical dialogue to reach consensus on a way forward on establishing a detailed electoral calendar and organizing elections;
(2) urges the Government of the DRC to respect the constitution of the DRC and, as constitutionally required, to ensure a free, open, peaceful, and democratic transition of power;
(3) expresses its solidarity with the people of the DRC to choose their own government in an atmosphere free of violence, threats, and intimidation by the government or other parties, including the release of Fred Bauma and Yves Makwambala;
(4) commits to maintain vigilance and scrutiny of the electoral process in the DRC, to help ensure that all United States Government activities contribute fully and robustly to the abovementioned objectives; and
(5) encourages the use of all available and appropriate means to ensure these objectives, including the imposition of targeted sanctions on individuals or entities responsible for violations of human rights violations and undermining democratic processes in the DRC.

First, I would like to thank the Democratic staff: Amy Hall, Sarah Levin, Melanie Egorgin, Daniel Foster, JC Cannon, and Daniel Jackson. And on the Republican side: Emily Murry, Lisa Grabert, Nick Uehlecke, and Taylor Trott.

I would also like to thank the staff at CMS: Ira Burney, Anne Scott, Lisa Yen.

And the staff at the House Office of Legislative Counsel: Ed Grossman—Ed has been there for as long as I have been here, so any bill that gets out of here without Ed looking at it is a pretty rare bill—and Jessica Shapiro, who was instrumental in drafting this legislation and for years has taken a leading role in drafting countless other Medicare bills in the House.

Finally, I would like to thank the staff of the Congressional Budget Office who worked on this bill: Tom Bradley, Lori Housman, Kevin McNells, and Jameela Kowalczyk.

We appreciate their hard work.

SUPPORTING GOAL OF ENSURING ALL HOLOCAUST VICTIMS LIVE WITH DIGNITY, COMFORT, AND SECURITY
— SPEECH OF
HON. LOIS FRANKEL
OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, June 7, 2016

Ms. FRANKEL of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of this resolution, which urges the German government to ensure that Holocaust victims live with dignity, comfort, and security in their remaining years. Today there are approximately 500,000 Holocaust survivors living around the world. Within the next decade, it is estimated that at least 50 percent of them will pass away. The 300 welfare agencies serving Holocaust victims worldwide desperately need support to help the most isolated, disabled, and vulnerable survivors receive critical services.

A Holocaust survivor in South Florida, who is 95 and a widower, sadly illustrates this need. He survived a Hungarian forced labor battalion and two concentration camps, Mauthausen and Günskirchen. He now requires assistance with everyday activities including bathing, dressing, and meal preparation. He receives a total of 32 hours a week of home care funded by the Claims Conference and the U.S. government. He has unmet needs of 50 hours per week and would greatly benefit from increased funding from the German Government.

I urge support for this critical resolution to allow Holocaust survivors to live their remaining years with dignity.

CELEBRATING ERIKA VOYZEY AS A THREE-TIME HIGH SCHOOL TRACK & FIELD STATE CHAMPION
— SPEECH OF
HON. BILL SHUSTER OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Erika Voyzez, an exceptional high school track & field athlete from Tyrone, Pennsylvania.

Erika has been a track and field athlete to watch since 2013, when she competed in the PIAA state championship as a freshman. She managed to finish 11th, jumping 5′ 2″, but this was only the beginning of her illustrious career.

The next year, she returned to the PIAA state championship as a sophomore and secured her first state championship with a jump of 5′ 7″. And the next year, she returned as a junior to beat her personal best and become the first female athlete from Tyrone to win two state championships, with a jump of 5′ 8″.

Well Mr. Speaker, I am proud to say that Erika raised the bar yet again, this year taking first place as a senior, and achieving an outstanding 5′ 10″ jump earlier in the season. With this milestone, she tied the PIAA record that has been held since 1979 and became the only three-time PIAA state champion in Tyrone Area High School’s history.

Perhaps Erika’s most impressive aspect, though, is that she never neglected her education in pursuit of her passion. This past week, Erika graduated from Tyrone Area High School where she was the salutatorian. Starting this year, Erika will attend the University of Miami, where she will be a student athlete. Erika will double major in Aerospace Engineering and Mechanical Engineering, as well as competing on the track team.

Today I am honored to recognize Erika Voyzez’s tremendous achievements, and I look forward to her future accomplishments. I have no doubt that she will continue doing what she has always done—raise the bar and clear new heights, both athletically and academically.

RECOGNIZING THE LEADERSHIP OF MIKE GRAYUM TO THE NORTHWEST INDIAN FISHERIES COMMISSION AND THE PUGET SOUND REGION

HON. DEREK KILMER OF WASHINGTON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. KILMER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Mike Grayum, who will retire this year after 11 years as the Executive Director of the Northwest Indian Fisheries Commission (NWIFC) in Washington State. Mike is one of NWIFC’s original employees and has served in various positions with the Commission since 1976.

NWIFC is stronger, more unified, and better positioned to serve its member Tribes because of Mike’s service and leadership. Born out of the Boldt Decision over 40 years ago, NWIFC has been a critical voice in natural resource policy at the local, state, and federal levels. Mike has played an integral role in developing that voice and crafting policies to support NWIFC’s mission and help navigate often-challenging issues.

In addition to its ability to assist member Tribes in their resource management practices, Mike partnered with past NWIFC Chair Billy Frank Jr. and Current Chair Lorraine Loomis in educating elected officials, government agency staff, and the public at-large on Tribal Treaty Rights, including producing the vital document Treaty Rights at Risk. Mike has played an important role in protecting these sacred cultural practices and joined countless Tribal Leaders from around the region in highlighting their importance to past, present, and future generations.

Mr. Speaker, for the past four decades, Mike Grayum has fiercely advocated for policies to protect our environment, restore natural habitat for salmon and other species, and recover Puget Sound. He has undoubtedly served as a mentor to younger staff at NWIFC and member Tribes and has helped grow the next generation of stewards of our environment and protectors of Tribal Treaty Rights. Thankfully, NWIFC is blessed to have Justin Parker continue that tradition and lead these efforts in the future as the next Executive Director.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to join Tribal Leaders, environmental advocates, local elected officials, and salmon lovers from throughout the Pacific Northwest in expressing my gratitude today in the United States Congress for Mike Grayum’s 40 years of leadership and dedication. As the proud Representative of Washington’s 6th Congressional District in the House of Representatives, I offer my best wishes for a happy retirement.

HONORING GOREVILLE HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL TEAM

HON. JOHN SHIMKUS
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. SHIMKUS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to acknowledge the outstanding success of the Goreville High School Baseball Team.

The Goreville Blackcats defeated Dozer Park 17–7 on June 4 to give the school the 2016 Class 1A boys' baseball state title. After finishing second in 2010 and third in 2011, this is the Blackcats' first state title, and it was achieved in record-breaking fashion. Coming to bat trailing 7–3 in the bottom of the fifth inning, Goreville pushed across 14 runs, the most runs in one inning by any team at the state tournament since the IHSA went to its current format in 1984. As a result, Goreville's 17 runs set a new Class 1A record. I know a great deal of hard work and dedication went into this team victory, and I would like to congratulate boys athletic director Todd Tripp, head coach Shawn Tripp, and assistant coaches Kenton Parmley and Bryan Webb, who worked hard to help Goreville achieve this victory.

HONORING MR. LYNN MAURICE STINSON

HON. BENNIE G. THOMPSON
OF MISSISSIPPI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Lynn Maurice Stinson, who is a chairman, leader, and educator.

Lynn Maurice Stinson was born in Grenada, MS in 1947 to Minnie Louise Stinson and Sam Metcalf. He was raised by his maternal grandparents, Julian B. and Susan Stinson. A lifelong dedication to his education was at Grenada Colored School and Willia Wilson Elementary in Grenada. Stinson graduated from Carrie Dotson High School in Grenada, MS in 1966.

Stinson's desire to continue his education led him to enroll in Coahoma Community College in Clarksdale, MS where he earned an Associate of Arts degree. Stinson then chose to attend Jackson State University in Jackson, MS where he earned a Bachelor's of Science degree in Education. Stinson returned back to his home area and began his career in education at Stinson Elementary in Greenwood, MS. His first position was teaching the integrated study of the Social Sciences and humanities to promote civic competence to 7th and 8th grade students. Stinson's passion was to help each student reach their full potential. He always reminded his students to dream big and work even harder.

A few years later, Stinson transferred to Threadgill Elementary, also in Greenwood, MS where he taught Social Studies. He later transferred to Greenwood Middle School and eventually retired in 2003 with 30 years of service. Stinson has been a strong supporter of education and those committed to working in the field of education. He is a past president of the Mississippi Association of Educators (MAE) in Greenwood, MS. Stinson also used his skills to help adults in his hometown, Grenada, by teaching GED night classes for several years.

In Stinson's early years, he was a participant in the Civil Rights Movement as the community worked to secure equal rights for all citizens. The reality of past conditions and his firsthand knowledge of the effort to open doors to African Americans has driven Stinson to continue his service to the community after his retirement.

Stinson presently holds the position of Election Commissioner for the City of Grenada. He has served in this position since 2005 with a top priority of assuring that the election process in Grenada is fair to all, and with the highest level of integrity. Stinson also serves on the Board of Trustees for Holmes Community College where he is the chairperson of the Insurance Committee.

Stinson is a proud member of the 100 Black Men of Grenada, Inc., where he serves as the chairman of the Education Committee. Stinson is involved in supporting youth and young adults as they strive to prepare themselves for their future and the workforce.

Stinson is a dedicated member of Belle Flower Missionary Baptist Church in Grenada, MS, and has served many years on the deacon board. He also serves as chairman of finance for the Grenada Baptist District Association Men's Department.

When he is not volunteering and participating in church activities, he enjoys traveling and playing golf.

He has been married to Queen Brooks Stinson for 43 years. They have one daughter, Monica Stinson, who resides in Brandon, MS. Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing Mr. Lynn M. Stinson, a Chairman, Leader and Educator for his dedication to serving others and giving back to the African American community.

IN HONOR OF THE HOLY MONTH OF RAMADAN

HON. HENRY C. "HANK" JOHNSON, JR.
OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. JOHNSON of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise to show support for the Muslim community in Georgia, as well as the Muslim community worldwide, as they prepare for the month of Ramadan.

Ramadan is a holy month in the religion of Islam dedicated to spiritual reflection and personal growth. For 30 days, Muslims will refrain from vulgarity, bad behavior and unfavorable habits, along with abstaining from food and drink from sunrise to sunset.

In the wake of national discrimination and intolerance, the Fourth District has been working to build a community that is welcoming and accepting to Muslims and practitioners of all faiths. Recently, Gwinnett County began an outreach initiative called “Building Bridges” that connects government officials to Muslims and other diverse groups. In DeKalb County, local officials have been visiting mosques and meeting with local Muslim leaders in an effort to build a strong, trusting relationship. Such efforts to build understanding and good will with members of the Muslim community can be seen throughout the various cities of the Fourth District. In 2015, 125 people came together in Stone Mountain for a rally to welcome new refugees—this at a time when refugees were being rejected and attacked in our public discourse, politics, and media. The city of Clarkston has been called a “safe haven” for refugees for years. The leaders and citizens of Clarkston have done an excellent job of integrating refugees into the community, helping them learn to adjust to American culture, and providing access to housing, education, and job opportunities.

I commend my district for its efforts to be inclusive, welcoming, and hospitable, and I fully support and encourage initiatives that help bridge cultural gaps while ensuring a safe, friendly and nurturing community.

For Muslims, this next month is devoted to charity, loved ones, community, peace and faith—values that are universally respected, particularly in the great state of Georgia.

I join my constituents within the Fourth Congressional District in sending the best of regards to the Muslim community during this significant month, and wishing all Muslims a Ramadan Kareem.

HONORING THE 70TH ANNIVERSARY OF SAN JOAQUIN MEMORIAL HIGH SCHOOL

HON. JIM COSTA OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. COSTA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to celebrate the 70th anniversary of San Joaquin Memorial High School— a private Catholic high school located in Fresno, California, in the heart of the San Joaquin Valley.

San Joaquin Memorial High School was founded in 1946, as the only Catholic high school in the greater Fresno area that is part of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Fresno. Named after the men and women of the San Joaquin Valley who gave their lives serving our country during World War II, San Joaquin Memorial is the first Diocesan Catholic High School in the Monterey-Fresno Diocese. Since its founding the school has grown from being a small high school, to serving over 600 students today.

Over the last 70 years, many generations of students have walked the halls of San Joaquin Memorial, and have continued on to become leaders throughout the Central Valley, and beyond. San Joaquin Memorial mission has always been dedicated to developing future citizens and leaders. Memorial promotes a standard of excellence that challenges students through a rigorous college preparatory curriculum, and faith based program. These programs are designed to challenge students to become active, and engaged members of their communities in order to enhance their learning experience.

In addition to being top academic achievers, students also perform hundreds of hours of community service to the greater Fresno community through San Joaquin Memorial’s Service-Leadership program. Service-learning offers students the opportunity to process what they learn in the classroom, and apply it by serving their community in a variety of ways. Each year, students are required to serve at least twenty hours in their communities, through a variety of local charities. Many students choose to volunteer with many community-based organizations that serve the neediest of people in the Central Valley, including serving meals at the Poverello House, Community Food Bank, Catholic Charities, and volunteering on Kids Day to raise money for Valley Children’s Hospital.

When young men and women graduate from San Joaquin Memorial, they are prepared to enter college, and ninety-nine percent of all Memorial graduates do attend a four-year university upon graduation. Memorial works to inspire their students to become compassionate and conscientious leaders, so that they are equipped to serve their communities in a variety of professions.

San Joaquin Memorial is an inclusive community that embraces diversity and challenges each student to reach their full potential. Many outstanding alumni have walked Memorial’s halls and now have established themselves in distinguished careers in law, medicine, business, education, government, technology, the military, sports, and other notable fields. As an alum of San Joaquin Memorial, it gives me great pleasure to celebrate this momentous occasion with the students, faculty, staff, and fellow alumni of Memorial.

Mr. Speaker, it is with great respect that I ask my colleagues in the House of Representatives to join me in recognizing San Joaquin Memorial High School of Fresno, as they celebrate its 70th anniversary. I extend my best wishes for the school’s continued success in shaping the lives of young students, creating model citizens, and serving our communities throughout the Valley, and our nation.

THE SPIES AMONG US—AND GOVERNMENT ABUSE OF 702 A

HON. TED POE
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, almost 3 years have passed since Edward Snowden revealed the extent of surveillance that was occurring on U.S. citizens. Edward Snowden is no patriot. However, the alarming information about the NSA’s abuse of power he revealed cannot be ignored.

Until Snowden, most Americans were unaware that their own government was tramplng on their Fourth Amendment rights. Most people did not know their every move could be tracked by Big Brother. They trusted that this agency acted purely in the interest of national security to keep us safe. Post 9/11 and with two ongoing wars, many believed that government surveillance—including warrantless searches and seizures—was limited to foreign nationals, not American citizens. That would be consistent with federal law and the Constitution. But unfortunately, this is not always the case.

In recent years, we have learned that the agency has misused and expanded the intent of Section 702 of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA). NSA uses Section 702 as a means to gather not only data but content and to allow law enforcement to later search this data for information about American citizens without a warrant. Because it gathers and searches the content of individual communications, I believe Section 702 is more intrusive than even Section 215 which has garnered significant attention.

FISA permits the collection of such data of a suspected agent of a foreign power, but the federal government is also storing and later searching the content of emails, text messages and phone calls of American citizens—all without a warrant.

In the course of this collection, the data of American citizens, many of which have done nothing wrong or illegal, gets collected. That kind of reverse targeting of American citizens is not what Congress intended, is inconsistent with the Constitution, and it must stop. It’s time for Congress to reign in this blatant violation of American privacy and stop the warrantless searches of Americans. This issue—protecting the Fourth Amendment—has unified liberals and conservatives. My colleague Congressman LOFGREN and I may not agree on every issue before Congress, but we agree on this 100 percent.

Earlier this year, Congresswoman ZOE LOFGREN (D–CA), Congressman THOMAS MASSIE (R–KY) and I introduced H.R. 2233, the End Warrantless Surveillance of Americans Act.

The bill would prohibit a warrantless search of government databases for information that pertains to U.S. citizens. It would also forbid government agencies from mandating or requiring “back doors” into commercial products that can be used for surveillance. The legislation requires an amendment we offered to the USA Freedom Act when it came up last year.

Failure to address this gaping loophole in FISA leaves the constitutional rights of millions of Americans vulnerable and unprotected. This bill also means that our government does not force companies to enable its spying activities. The NSA has and will continue to violate the constitutional protections guaranteed to every American unless Congress intervenes. Until we fix this and make the law clear, citizens can never be sure that their private conversations are safe from the eyes of the government.

Last year, the House of Representatives overwhelmingly passed similar legislation as an amendment to DOD Appropriations and I unanimously passed one provision of this bill as an amendment to the DoJ appropriations bill. Yet, we have still not seen any action on the standalone bill. Why wouldn’t Congress move on an issue that has so much bipartisan support?

We need to push this standalone legislation and also push that 702 be significantly reformed when FISA is reauthorized to ensure that information regarding American citizens can NEVER be searched by law enforcement unless it was collected through a search authorized by a warrant. Technology may change but the Constitution does not.

It is our duty to make this right and ensure that the Fourth Amendment rights of the people we represent will no longer be trampled on by the NSA. The Fourth amendment right against unlawful search and seizure must be protected in both the physical and digital worlds at all times. Thank you for coming today and I look forward to working together to work towards this goal.

And that is just the way it is.

IN RECOGNITION OF CALDONIA “PEACHES” ANDERSON

HON. DEBbie DINGELL

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mrs. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Caldonia “Peaches” Anderson on a distinguished career with the UAW and for receiving the UAW Local 600 “Spirit of King Award” for 2016.

Peaches was born and raised in Detroit, Michigan, graduating from Detroit Central High School in 1964. After her graduation, she was married and had two children. She came from a hard working union family, and in 1969, she chose that path as well and was hired at the Ford Motor Company, where she worked at the Brownstown Plant and became a member of UAW Local 600. It was local that she has loved for so many years since then.

In her time with Local 600, Peaches became deeply involved with the local and fighting for the rights of all members in the workplace. She served as an alternate Committee person, Chair of the Women’s Committee, Unit Recording Secretary, Co-Chair of the Education Department Training Program, and Employee Resource Coordinator. Due to her hard work, she was asked to join the Local 600 staff, and then was asked to join the UAW National Ford Department where she worked as the Joint Programs Coordinator on Special Programs until her retirement in 2008. At that time, she had retired having worked for over 39 amazing years.

If there was a job that needed doing, Peaches was and is there. She is the bedrock of a community that works hard to help others and fights for equality for all. She knows the challenges so many working men and women face; as an obstacle, For Peaches, it is always “let’s take it on, what do we need to do?” She is tireless in her commitment to everyone.

After she retired, Peaches continued to serve her brothers and sisters in the UAW now serving as the President of the UAW Local 600 retirees chapter. Peaches has focused her energy on taking care of her mother Ernestine and on being a wonderful mother to her children and a loving wife to her husband Alonzo. She is also deeply involved in the community, she is politically active, and she volunteers faithfully at her church. It is amazing to see all of the things Peaches continues to do and always with a smile on her face. As everyone has come to know about her, she lives by the Peaches Rule which is to “treat people like she wanted to be treated.” Peaches is one-of-a-kind, and I am honored to be able to call her a friend.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me today to honor this dynamic “Peaches” Anderson for her invaluable contributions to our community. I thank her for her leadership and friendship, and wish her many years of success and happiness.

IN HONOR OF JAMES A. BUSSEY, SR.

HON. SANDFORD D. BISHOP, JR.

OF GEORGIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate and celebrate his 90th birthday, a dear friend of long standing to my wife, Vivian and me, Mr. James A. Bussey, Sr. A 90th birthday celebration was held on Saturday, June 4, 2016 at 5:00 pm at the National Infantry Museum and Soldier Center in Columbus, GA. David Viscott once said that, “The purpose of life is to discover your gift. The Work of life is to develop it. The Meaning of life is to give your gift away.” Mr. James Bussey has given his life away in service to others and he’s still better for it.

James Andrew Bussey was born in Harris County, GA in 1926 and attended Spencer High School, where he graduated in 1944. Upon graduation, James was accepted into Morehouse College in Atlanta, GA, where he remained for one year before marrying Ms. Marguerite Lindsey in 1947 and moved to Columbus, GA.

Mr. Bussey is an industrious man who worked two jobs every week to support his family because he wanted to provide a better life for them. He constantly had to fight the scourge of racism and because of this, he left Columbus in 1957 to move to Washington, DC where he obtained employment at the Washington Hotel. But, the tetch of racism was not far behind as Mr. Bussey discovered that his weekly pay of $30 was $20 less than his White counterparts. Left with a heavy heart, Bussey immediately returned to Columbus.

Because of his grit, determination and unwavering faith in God, Mr. Bussey found employment as a mail handler with the United States Postal Service. He took pride in delivering the mail and especially enjoyed the East Highland route, which allowed him to visit his mother and grandmother, frequently. Becoming a Mail Handler allowed Mr. Bussey to connect with his community on a personal level and he was known to sing as he walked with joy along his daily route. In addition, he would support and assist community members with literacy troubles, and would read and respond to mail whenever asked. Mr. Bussey’s dedication to his job as a Mail Handler and passion for members of his community granted him the recurring opportunity to drive the postal vehicle in the annual Christmas parade, in Columbus.

Mr. Bussey retired from the United States Postal Service in 1976, and upon his retirement, returned to college with his undying resilience and dedication, where he earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from Columbus College in 1988. Mr. Bussey became a proud member of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., and to this day lives by their mission to promote brotherhood and service to all mankind.

Furthermore, Mr. Bussey is a longtime active member of St. James AME Church where he is an officer, a member of the Sons of Allen, and a soloist with the choir. He has volunteered with the Columbus Ambassadors of the Columbus Visitors Bureau and has appeared on stage at the Liberty Theater as an adult performer in musical productions at the Three Arts and River Centers.

Mr. Bussey continues to live a selfless and generous life, serving as a proud Christian, husband, father and friend and has been blessed with four children, James Jr., Janet, Margaret and Michael. I have known Mr. Bussey and the Bussey family for almost 50 years. He is one of the finest human beings that I have ever met in my lifetime. None of the success that he has obtained in life would have been possible without the love and support of his loving wife, Marguerite. He is an example of what Jesus meant when he said, “He that is great among you shall be a servant and he that is greatest among you shall be a servant unto all.”

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me and my wife, Vivian, along with the more than 730,000 constituents of the Second Congressional District in extending our best wishes to James A. Bussey, Sr. on his 90th birthday. As we celebrate another year of this outstanding citizen, I would do well to follow the example of his legacy of striving to improve the quality of life of others giving the gift of his extraordinary life away for the betterment of humanity.

Mr. DANNY K. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I wish to recognize and celebrate the 110th anniversary of the Antiquities Act this week. The National Antiquities Act was signed into law by President Theodore Roosevelt on June 8, 1906. This legislation serves as a historic cornerstone in conservation, allowing our presidents to protect public lands with national or notable importance by designating national parks and monuments.

The Antiquities Act remains a critical tool in preserving our American history and in educating our American and foreign visitors about the American experience. These parks preserve our nation’s landscapes that reflect the diverse beauty of our country—such as Katmai National Monument in Alaska, Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming, the Petrified Forest in Arizona, Papahanaumokuakea Marine National Monument in Hawaii, Mojave Trails in California, Marianas Trench Marine National Monument in the Northern Mariana Islands, and Grand Sequoia National Monument in California. These parks reflect the history of people who called our land home—such as the Aztec Ruins in New Mexico, Russell Cave in Alabama, the Gila Cliff Dwellings in New Mexico, the Navajo National Monument in Arizona, and Ellis Island in New York.

Further, these parks reflect the history of our nation’s birth, struggles, and growth as well as citizens who played key roles in these histories such as Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Castle Cliff, Robert Peary, Lewis and Clark, John Muir, and Frontenac. These lands reflect the spirit of the Antiquities Act and the values that make our nation great.

These lands protect our nation’s birth, struggles, and growth as well as citizens who played key roles in these histories such as Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Castle Cliff, Robert Peary, Lewis and Clark, John Muir, and Frontenac. These lands reflect the spirit of the Antiquities Act and the values that make our nation great.
and monuments is well documented in our American culture—in songs that praise “our redwood forests” or our “purple mountain majesties,” music that captures the emotion of the Grand Canyon, and images of the Statue of Liberty that move our spirits and evoke our patriotism.

In my home City of Chicago rests the Pullman National Monument and Historic District that honors the 1894 factory strikes and their role in our nation’s labor and civil rights movements. The Pullman District reflects the long history that the City of Chicago has with the birth of the Union Movement. I am proud to represent “Teamsters Row” in Chicago, the home of this important national labor union that champions the rights of workers.

In closing, I am pleased to recognize the 110th anniversary of the Antiquities Act and honor the substantial impact the Act has made in the preservation of our national and cultural history and environmental treasures.

RECOGNIZING MRS. LINDA CANLAS ON HER RETIREMENT FROM FAITH RINGGOLD ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

HON. ERIC SWALWELL OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. SWALWELL of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise to recognize Mrs. Rosalinda Valencia “Linda” Canlas on her retirement as Principal from Faith Ringgold Elementary School in Hayward, California.

Linda has been an active proponent of public education throughout her career. She has instilled a sense of leadership, moral courage, and personal responsibility in the many students that have had the privilege to be seated in her classroom. Her dedication to those students who were not well served by other schools is commendable.

While serving as principal, Linda has actively sought to implement a program to improve the quality of education, introducing effective teaching practices, standards-based curricula and a culture of effective collaboration between school staff and parents. Her efforts have proven to be successful, with Faith Ringgold seeing a 28 percent increase in academic performance over a three-year period.

She was elected as a Trustee to the New Haven Unified School Board in 2010, and she has served as a Board Member, the Clerk, and the Board’s President. She helped spearhead the movement to rename Ilion-Vera Cruz Middle School, honoring the farm labor leaders who worked alongside Cesar Chavez.

Linda’s dedication to our community extends beyond her commitment to education. She is an active member of her local parish, and serves as a committee member of the Ukulele Festival of Northern California. She has also raised her family to share in her dedication to public service. She is the proud mother of two daughters. One is now a licensed attorney and the other is beginning a career of her own as a public school teacher.

Linda’s commitment to the students at Faith Ringgold and in schools across the Hayward and New Haven Unified School Districts is truly extraordinary. I want to acknowledge her for her dedication to a sustainable future and congratulate her on her well-deserved retirement.

CELEBRATING THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF TONY AND JULIET CAMPOS

HON. JIM COSTA OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. COSTA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Tony and Juliet Campos on their 50th anniversary. Individually, Tony and Juliet each have a lot to be proud of, but together, as a couple, their accomplishments and passion to give back to the community are truly remarkable.

Tony and Juliet met in 1966 at a wedding in Fresno, California. At the time, Juliet was working in her hometown of Chino, California, and Tony was trying to make it in the sheep herding business. As a new immigrant from Orondritz, Spain, Tony knew it was fate when he met a young lady whose family emigrated from a Basque town just a couple hundred miles away from Orondritz.

In 1966, they were married in Chino and moved to Caruthers, California. Tony and Juliet partnered with Tony’s brothers, and started a modest farming operation, Campos Brothers Farms. Tony’s business savvyness and charisma along with Juliet’s tenacity, quick wit and humor complimented each other perfectly, and their small business turned into one of the largest almond processing plants in the country.

Tony and Juliet’s success reaches far beyond their family business. They are parents of three, Steven, Joe, and Jeannine and grandparents of ten, Vanessa, Antonio, Audrey, Ava, Grace, Mathieu, Olivia, Vivian, Sophia, and George. Faith and family are most important to Tony and Juliet, and whether you are a long distance relative, friend, or business colleague, you will always be treated with the utmost respect.

Giving back to the community has always been a priority for Tony and Juliet. Most recently, Juliet was recognized by California State University, Fresno with the Common Threads Award for her contributions to the agriculture industry and philanthropic endeavors. And last August, Tony was honored at Fresno State’s Ag One Community Salute for his contributions to agriculture and service to the community.

Mr. Speaker, it is with great respect that I ask my colleagues in the U.S. House of Representatives to join me in recognizing Tony and Juliet Campos on their 50th anniversary.

Ms. CLANTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a remarkable public servant, the late Ms. Jana Leigh Clanton. Jana was born January 24, 1996 in Flowood, Mississippi. Jana confessed Christ at an early age and joined Mt. Able Missionary Baptist Church under the leadership of Rev. Willie A. Travis, Sr., where she was a faithful steward, serving as a clerical volunteer at the church secretarial staff and a member of the Mt. Able Anointed Believers Praise Dance Ministry.

Jana was a Presidential Scholar at Tougaloo College, where she majored in English with an emphasis in Pre-Law and was a student leader, serving as a member of the Student Government Association, a member of Alpha Lambda Delta honor society and member of the Tougaloo Ambassadors for Meritorious Scholars (T.A.M.S.), student recruitment association.

Jana graduated with honors from Madison Central High School in May 2014, most recently became licensed as a Certified Pharmacy Technician, and accepted a position at CVS Pharmacy. Though she loved science, Jana’s dream was to become the first African American Female U.S. Supreme Court Justice.

To her family, Jana was affectionately known as “Jana Pooh Pooh”. She will always be remembered for her willingness to help others and for her passion for reading. Jana always lived life on her own terms and never met a stranger. Together, they moved from Flowood to Cleveland, Mississippi.

She leaves to mourn her death, her loving and devoted parents, Minister Johnny L. and Vicky L. Clanton, Sr.; her adoring and loving siblings, Waikinya J. S. and Johnny L. Clanton, Jr.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing Jana Leigh Clanton.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE HEROISM OF CPL. PHILIP E. LOUR

HON. BARBARA COMSTOCK OF VIRGINIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mrs. COMSTOCK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the incredible heroism of one of my constituents, Cpl. Philip E. Lour, a veteran of World War II, a leader, and an American patriot. Mr. Lour first began serving our country immediately after graduating from high school at the age of 17. He enlisted in the U.S. Army Air Corps, in 1942, where he quickly developed an interest in communications, and eventually an expertise in Morse code. However, life had different plans for him.

After he was accepted into the Army Specialized Training Program, Mr. Lour soon found himself heading to the front lines due to the program being shut down. Mr. Lour fought in one of the war’s most infamous battles, the Battle of the Bulge, where he survived the surprise Nazi assault that incurred the highest casualties for any operation in World War II in Europe. In January, 1946, Mr. Lour retired from the Army as a hero and patriot with the thanks of a grateful nation.

Mr. Lour’s service to our nation did not end upon returning home. After graduating from Yale University with a degree in engineering, achieved through the GI Bill, he went on to work for the National Advisory Committee of Aeronautics (NACA). His work at NACA continued for eight years before he transitioned to operational analysis at Langley Air Force Base in Newport News, Virginia. He eventually retired as Deputy Director for the Concepts Analysis Agency in the Department of the Army.

Mr. Lour’s long career of service to our nation speaks volumes of his character. He exemplifies hard work, leadership, bravery, and ambition in all aspects of his life, from his education to his service abroad. His dedication to the United States serves as a model for all Americans.

I am honored to recognize Mr. Lour today for his selfless contributions to our great nation. Whether it has been fighting on the front lines in WWII, or by making his neighborhood more beautiful with his extraordinary azalea garden, it is clear that Mr. Philip E. Lour has dedicated his life to improving the lives of those around him. He is respected and loved by many.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that my colleagues join me in saluting Philip E. Lour for his lifetime of service to the United States of America. I wish him all the best in his future endeavors.

IN MEMORIAM OF MICHAEL RATNER

HON. JOHN CONYERS, JR.
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today, with my colleague Congresswoman BARBARA LEE, to pay tribute to Attorney Michael Ratner, a fearless champion for justice and peace, who passed away on Wednesday, May 11, 2016, at the age of 72.

For nearly half a century, the talented and tenacious Michael Ratner brought cases with the Center for Constitutional Rights in U.S. courts related to war, torture, and other human rights violations. Throughout his decades of legal service, he was and remains a giant in the field on Constitutional law and the law of war.

He was born in Cleveland on June 13, 1943. His father, Harry, was a Jewish immigrant from Russia, and his mother, the former Anne Scott, helped resettle refugees after World War II, during which numerous family members of the couple were killed. After graduating in 1966 from Brandeis University, Michael Ratner earned his juris doctorate from Columbia Law School. He took a year off of law school to work for the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund on a Baltimore school desegregation case. He then clerked in Manhattan for Judge Constance Baker Motley, the first African American woman to serve on the federal bench.

In 1971, Ratner joined the Center for Constitutional Rights, a nonprofit organization headquartered in Manhattan. From 1984 to 1990, he served as the Center’s legal director and became the Center’s president in 2002 serving until 2014. He was also president of the National Lawyers Guild and of the European Center for Constitutional and Human Rights.

Ratner brought cases for war crimes and other human rights violations all over the world. Seeking to hold Bush administration officials accountable for torture, he filed cases under the Universal Jurisdiction principle in international courts, including in Germany, Spain, Canada, Switzerland, and France.

Ratner also oversaw litigation that successfully challenged New York City’s stop-and-frisk policing tactic. Under his leadership, the Center for Constitutional Rights was the first human rights organization to stand up for the human rights of Guantanamo detainees. Ratner was a founding member of the Guantanamo Bay Bar Association which grew to include more than 500 attorneys. This Association provided pro bono representation to prisoners at Guantanamo—one of the largest mass defense efforts in U.S. history. Michael acted as counsel in the landmark case Rasul v. Bush, which was the first successful Guantanamo case in the United States Supreme Court.

He is survived by his wife, Karen Ranucci, a video producer; his children, Jake and Ana; his sister Ellen and his brother Bruce.

Mr. Speaker, we ask that all our colleagues join in honoring the life and work of Attorney Michael Ratner. He will truly be missed, but he will live on through the work of the countless social justice lawyers and activists he inspired.
Mrs. Smith has pushed to be a role model not only for her children and grandchildren, but to all in her community. Ms. Louise Smith for her dedication for change and serving her community.

HONORING LOUISE SMITH
OP MISSISSIPPI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016
Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a resourceful and ambitious mother, Mrs. Louise Smith. Mrs. Smith has shown what can be done through hard work, dedication, and a desire to live a productive life.

Louise Smith was born on February 21, 1925 in Laurel, Mississippi. Mrs. Smith married Samuel Smith on March 10, 1946 and together they had 11 children, 5 boys and 6 girls. They moved to Yazoo City, Mississippi in the 1950s. When the youngest child was enrolled in kindergarten, Mrs. Smith enrolled in beauty school and later received her license to become a hairstylist. She and her good friend, Dorothy Casey, co-owned a beauty salon in downtown Yazoo City which opened in early 1970s and remained open for over 30 years. When you stopped by to get your hair done, you not only received a great hair styling, but you also got many words of wisdom with a little gospel to lift up your spirits until the next time you came.

Mrs. Smith was once a member of Chapel Hill Baptist Church on Brickyard Hill in Yazoo City with her husband and children. There she and several other women met and formed a gospel group known as the Gospel Caroleettes. Her husband sang with them as well. The Gospel Caroleettes not only sang in church but at various Christian events spreading the news of the gospel. They also sang on the radio station WAZF each Sunday morning.

Mrs. Smith left Chapel Hill Baptist Church with her husband and children to become a member of New Zion Baptist Church where her son, Rev. Willie E. Smith, is the pastor. There she not only served as a Mother of the church, but also works with the Mission women. Mother Smith taught Sunday School and sang in the choir at New Zion.

Mrs. Smith has been a mother and/or grandmother figure to many in the church and in her neighborhood; always welcoming others into her home, which has always displayed an array of beautiful flowers in the yard and many green plants indoors for comfort, decoration and fresh air. Louise enjoys gardening and preparing vegetables from her garden on Sundays for her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and any other visitors from the community.

Ms. Smith has been pushed to be a role model not only for her children and grandchildren, but to all in her community. Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing Mrs. Louise Smith for her dedication for change and serving her community.

HONORING PATRICIA DERIAN, CHAMPION OF HUMAN RIGHTS
HON. DAVID E. PRICE
OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016
Mr. PRICE of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to remember Patricia Derian, former State Department human rights chief, who, as the Washington Post reported, "helped save thousands of lives by giving humanitarian concerns greater weight in U.S. foreign policy." Patt, who grew up in Virginia and first gained a national reputation as a fighter for civil rights in Mississippi, died on May 20 at the home she and her husband, Hodding Carter III, shared in Chapel Hill, NC.

Patt graduated from the University of Virginia nursing school in 1952 and moved with her then-husband to Jackson, Mississippi. After Hodding was fired for Head Start, she volunteered for Head Start, fought to integrate public schools, and participated in the 1968 challenge to the state's all-white Democratic National Convention delegation. She also served as president of the Southern Regional Council and on the executive committee of the American Civil Liberties Union.

In 1976, Patt took a leadership role in Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign. President Carter appointed her State Department coordinator for human rights and humanitarian affairs, a position Congress upgraded to Assistant Secretary. "If you want a magnolia to decorate foreign policy," she told future Secretary of State Warren Christopher, "I'm the wrong person. I expect to get things done."

Patt Derian proved as good as her word, ruffling numerous feathers along the way. She persuaded the President to exert influence over international lending institutions by opposing loans to Argentina, Ethiopia, Laos, Uruguay, and other human rights violators. She helped engineer the release of thousands of political prisoners in Indonesia, Bangladesh and Pakistan. Her reports to Congress shed light on previously ignored subjects such as labor practices, women's rights, and female genital mutilation. Jacobo Timerman, an Argentine journalist imprisoned and tortured over many years, credited Ms. Derian with helping engineer his release and saving "thousands and thousands of lives.""In 1978, Patt married Hodding Carter, a well-known Mississippi journalist who was then Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs. They relocated to Chapel Hill in 2005, where my wife Lisa and I came to treasure their friendship and their commitment to civil and human rights. In 1978, Patt married Hodding Carter, a well-known Mississippi journalist who was then Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs.

Because of Patt’s tireless work on behalf of human rights, President Carter said upon her death, “countless human rights and democracy activists survived that period, going on to plant the seeds of freedom in Latin America, Asia, and beyond.” She was a great humanitarian who was not afraid to challenge the constraints generally placed on diplomacy and foreign policy. As a result, we now have a broader, morally-grounded view of our country’s interests and of what we stand for in the world. That is a legacy of major importance: that we recommit ourselves to it as we remember Patt Derian with gratitude and affection.

IN RECOGNITION OF DR. KAREN RUE’S RETIREMENT
HON. MICHAEL C. BURGESS
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016
Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Dr. Karen Rue, Superintendent of Schools at Northwest ISD. Dr. Rue is retiring from this leadership position after over ten years of exemplary public service to its students, faculty and staff.

During her term as superintendent, Dr. Rue skillfully met the challenges of a rapidly growing school district. Dr. Rue guided NISD’s transformation from an educational entity serving 8,700 students in a largely rural area to a more suburban district with an expanded enrollment of more than 21,000. She successfully shepherded the passage of three bond elections, with the overwhelming support of the community, to meet this dynamic growth. During this period, academic performance was increased to ensure that graduates would be equipped for success in higher education and prepared to compete in a global workforce. During Dr. Rue’s tenure, the district saw the opening of two new high schools, Byron Nelson and V.R. Eaton. Additionally, she was instrumental in the implementation of community-based accountability, the expansion of specialized NISD academies and the development of the Outdoor Learning Center.

Dr. Rue has been nationally recognized as a leading proponent of the importance of a digital learning environment to equip all students to be “future ready.” She was selected to participate in the Connected Superintendents Summit at the White House, was named one of the nation’s Top 50 Innovators in Education by the Center for Digital Education and was chosen as a finalist in the eSchool News Tech-Savvy Superintendent Awards program. In addition, she was elected by her peers to serve as president of the Texas Association of School Administrators and was named Region XI Superintendent of the Year. Dr. Rue is also a dedicated community leader, having served as President of the Northwest Communities Partnership and as a director of the 3W Coalition.

Cumulatively, Dr. Rue has dedicated 37 years to improving the quality of American education in the Northwest ISD. As Dr. Rue stands at the end of a remarkable career, I urge all of you to join me in recognizing her for this remarkable career.”
public education. She began her impressive career as a 6th grade teacher, then served as Executive Director of Elementary Education at Katy ISD, and as Superintendent of Schools of Tuloso-Midway ISD before assuming her position as superintendent of schools for NISD. I salute Mr. Rue for his exemplary character and extend best wishes upon her retirement and future endeavors. It is my privilege to represent Northwest ISD in the U.S. House of Representatives. Dr. Rue’s positive impact and dedicated service to Northwest ISD will not soon be forgotten.

HONORING YAZOO CITY ALUMNAE CHAPTER OF DELTA SIGMA THETA SORORITY, INC.

Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a group of women who has shown what can be done through hard work, dedication and a desire to serve their community. Yazoo City Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. The Yazoo City Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. has served the Yazoo County community and the State of Mississippi through informational meetings, social and civic engagement.

The Yazoo City Alumnae Chapter was granted their 30th chartering in the state of Mississippi on February 2, 1997. Francine Wallace and Edwina Fox, in 1985, had the idea to create a chapter in Yazoo and placed an article in the local newspaper. Other Delta’s in the area quickly responded, desiring to continue the mission to which they had pledged themselves in their college years and together they worked with the state leadership, the southern Region Manager and the national Headquarters to achieve this objective. Not being swayed, it took several attempts to acquire the approvals to establish the Yazoo City Alumnae Chapter. The Yazoo City Deltas traveled to the State Cluster to share their desire to focus on the high rate of teenage pregnancies in Yazoo County as it was the highest rate in the state of Mississippi. Relating their dedication to fighting this devastating trend, the Southern Region Manager, on their second attempt approved the chartering of the Yazoo City Alumnae Chapter. On February 2, 1997 at the St. Stephen United Methodist Church 12 members, Mary Ann Brewer, Teresa Bonner, Diane Delware, Zeliee Delware, Sandra Younger, Tamara Dodd, Edwina Gordon-Fox, Marilyn Hathorne, Gloria Elayne Owens, Francine Wallace, the late Juanita Scott-Washington and Mary Joshua Young stood and committed to carry out the public service mission of their beloved sisterhood throughout Yazoo County. Thus, this was the beginning of the Yazoo City Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing the Yazoo City Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. for its dedication to serving others and giving back to the community.

HONORING THE LIFE OF MRS. VALERIE BENDER

Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. COSTA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the life of Mrs. Valerie Bender. Mrs. Bender passed away on April 29, 2016, at the age of 80 as she valiantly battled breast cancer for seven years. Known by all who met her as a selfless individual, Mrs. Bender led a prolific career as a reporter and was loved deeply by friends and family.

Mrs. Bender began her journalism career as a reporter in Florida. After having moved to Virginia and working there for a short time, her merits earned her the esteemed role of managing editor at the Wilmington News Journal. Mrs. Bender went on to work at the Fresno Bee where she served for 20 years. While at the Fresno Bee, she held a variety of different positions that included serving as Features Editor, Assistant Managing Director, Director of Community Publications, and Vice President of Custom Publications. In February 2014 Mrs. Bender was named President and Publisher of the Merced Sun-Star, a role that was certainly well earned and deserved.

Among her many activities and passions, Mrs. Bender was an advocate for breast cancer awareness and was deeply passionate about art. She made it a point to promote art programs among the young women that she met and went on to become part of Sistah’s Just Surviving, a support group for cancer survivors. Mrs. Bender was viewed as a role model by members of the group because of her genuine and loving personality. Furthermore, Mrs. Bender was on the board of trustees at the Fresno Art Museum and showed constant support for young up-and-coming artists in the community. She was able to take her passion for art and effortlessly apply it to her career. During her time at the Fresno Bee, she became so well known for her “eye-popping” art design that she was called away by other McClatchy newspapers for assistance in making their papers more appealing for up to several weeks at a time.
Throughout her battle with cancer, Mrs. Bender continued to work tirelessly and contributed in numerous ways to the Fresno Bee. She was known for her kindness and fierce devotion to her friends and family. In the wise words of Mrs. Bender, "Life is precious and while easy to say, why me?" The most important thing is still family and friends . . . I have a husband and a daughter who love me."

Mr. Speaker, it is with great respect that I ask my colleagues in the House of Representatives to honor the life of Mrs. Valerie Bender. Often compared to feminist icon Rosie the Riveter, Mrs. Bender was a source of inspiration for all those she touched. She was a loving mother, wife, and journalist and everyone around her benefitted greatly by having her in their lives.

HONORING NORTH CAROLINA STATE UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES: 2016 NATIONAL MEDAL FOR MUSEUM AND LIBRARY SERVICE

HON. DAVID E. PRICE
OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. PRICE of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the North Carolina State University Libraries on receiving the 2016 National Medal for Museum and Library Service. This prestigious award, offered annually by the Institute of Museum and Library Services, is the nation’s highest honor given to museums and libraries for exceptional service to their communities.

The North Carolina State University Library system has transformed how libraries involve the community to understand, learn, and participate in a myriad of educational activities. The system strengthens North Carolina’s K–12 education pipeline, increases the public’s literacy, and prepares tomorrow’s researchers with college- and workforce-ready skills.

Through cutting-edge programming at all of their locations, North Carolina State University has built a library system that can support the university’s students and advanced research, while also serving as an incubator for Triangle businesses. This library was one of the first to leap into the digital age, and has been a terific example for other academic research libraries around the world. Their creative recruitment tactics for librarians and their crowdsourcing of ideas from student committees have made this library an invaluable asset to our state.

There are several key spaces for students, faculty, and the community to utilize at the North Carolina State University Libraries. These include digital media editing and production spaces, as well as gaming spaces for creating simulations and virtual environments. Library patrons have access to the D.H. Hill Makerspace, which is equipped with 3D printers, scanners, and laser cutters for users to explore a variety of ideas. There is even an Immersion Theater where students and faculty can display their work on a panoramic screen—I recently had the opportunity to experience this immersive space and appreciated historic speech given by John Donne in 1622.

North Carolina State University Libraries are one of just ten recipients of the National Medal for Museum and Library Service. NC State Libraries have had a remarkable impact on the entire state of North Carolina. There were approximately 2.25 million visitors to the library last year, with nearly 12,000 registered visitors from 76 countries, 42 states, and 46 counties in North Carolina.

As we congratulate all the libraries’ leaders, it is also important to recognize Susan K. Nutter, winner of the 2016 Association of College and Research Libraries’ (ACRL) Academic/Research Librarian of the Year. As the Vice Provost & Director of Libraries, Susan has been at the forefront of building the innovative library system we see today.

Mr. Speaker, once again, I offer congratulations to the North Carolina State University Libraries—and each of the other nine National Medal winners—for achieving this distinction for their path-breaking innovations and dedication to serving their communities.

HONORING JALEXIS EVANS

HON. BENNIE G. THOMPSON
OF MISSISSIPPI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a remarkable student, Ms. Jalexis Evans.

Jalexis is the daughter of Latoya Lee and Samuel Evans and the granddaughter of Shirley Evans and the late Glenda Nelson. She is a native of Mount Bayou, Mississippi where she attended John F. Kennedy Memorial High School before being accepted into the Mississippi School for Mathematics and Science in Columbus, Mississippi. While attending John F. Kennedy she was class president, the founder of the mentorship program, “Girl Talk”, and a cheerleader. In her spare time, she volunteers in her community with organizations such as St. Gabriel’s Mercy Center, New Life Church, and local nursing homes.

One of the greatest impacts she believes she has made is with the mentoring program she initiated. This program was created solely to help empower, encourage, and equip young girls in the community. They’ve done things such as visit nursing homes, make Christmas with kindergartners, and host a tea party for young ladies in middle school to teach proper etiquette.

Jalexis also spends time playing piano and guitar. During her tenure at John F. Kennedy she played the trumpet in the marching band. A passion of Jalexis is caring for the youth in her community. Though she believes involvement in the community is crucial, she also believes her education will take her far. She works diligently to ensure that her future goals are within her grasp. Attending the Mississippi School for Mathematics and Science has granted her many more opportunities to do so. At this school and in Mississippi, she has created the best educational opportunity for high schoolers in the Magnolia state while enriching her knowledge on cultural diversity. Jalexis aspires to enroll into Tulane University where she desires to attend the Tulane Accelerated Physician-Training Program and earn her medical degree. She plans to become a pediatrician and work with children after attending medical school. She has yearned to be a doctor since the young age of three. Her love for children pushed her to wards the field of pediatrics and her grandmother’s fight with cancer led to her interest and passion for oncology. It also instilled within her a strong determination to find a cure for cancer.

She pursues success in her everyday life by continuing to be an example and role model to her sisters: SaMaria, Cylione, and Lylze, and to be helpful in anyway she can while still achieving her goals day by day.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing Ms. Jalexis Evans for her educational achievements and dedication to other youths.

HONORING THE WORLD WAR II AND KOREAN WAR VETERANS OF ILLINOIS

HON. MIKE QUIGLEY
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor the World War II and Korean War veterans who traveled to Washington, D.C. on June 8, 2016 with Honor Flight Chicago, a program that provides World War II and Korean War veterans the opportunity to visit their memorials on The National Mall in Washington, D.C. These memorials were built to honor their courage and service to their country.

The American Veteran is one of our greatest treasures. The Soldiers, Airmen, Sailors, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen who traveled on June 8th answered our nation’s call to service during one of its greatest times of need. From the European Campaign to the Pacific Asian Theater to the African Theater, these brave Americans risked life and limb, gave service and sacrificed much, all while embodying what it is to be a hero. We owe them more gratitude than can ever be expressed.

I welcome these brave veterans to Washington and to their memorials. I am proud to submit the names of these men and women for all to see, hear, and recognize, and I call on my colleagues to rise and join me in expressing gratitude.

HONORING MS. TY'RIANNE PERRY
HON. BENNIE G. THOMPSON
OF MISSISSIPPI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Ty'Rianne Perry.

Born Ty'Rianne Perry to great parents, Ty'Rianne has played a big part in community service and helping out her peers. She has participated in the breast cancer awareness walk. Ty'Rianne volunteers at the Boys and Girls Club once a month. She also tutors and mentors young children. She volunteers at the Golden Living Nursing Home where she plays games and reads stories to the patients.

Ty'Rianne is highly respected among friends. She speaks up for children and people who cannot speak up for themselves. She is very outspoken.

She also participates in a Blood Drive twice a year. Ty'Rianne loves helping others. She had the opportunity to participate in the Chick-fil-A Leader Academy. She also went to Camp John Hay for selected teenagers who volunteered at Boys and Girls Club. Ty'Rianne has walked in the MLK March many times. She encourages everyone to make a difference in their community and get up and help out.

Mr. Speaker please help us to congratulate Ms. Ty'Rianne Perry for making a difference in her community.

SUPPORT FOR THE REGION OF TIBET
HON. F. JAMES SENSENBRENNER, JR.
OF WISCONSIN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to offer a statement of my support for the region of Tibet. I have, during my tenure in the House of Representatives, been a strong supporter of the region of Tibet. There should be no divisiveness between political parties on the issue of Tibet and protecting their citizens from the repressions that they face around the world.

Tibet is a unique region, and I hope that future actions in the House of Representatives will continue to support the Tibetan community in finding sustainable peaceful solutions. The repression of Tibetans around the world has prompted the United States to take action to protect Tibetan citizens in their constant struggle for religious and cultural freedom. That is why in June of last year, Representative CASTRO and I introduced the Tibetan Refugee Assistance Act, which would provide visas to Tibetan refugees.

Our bill would address the plight of Tibetan citizens who have been displaced from their homes for a multitude of reasons, and would be an incredibly useful step in the right direction for future relations between Tibet and the United States. The bill would provide 3,000 immigrant visas over a three-year period to Tibetan citizens who have been displaced.

I first traveled to India and met His Holiness the Dalai Lama in 2008, and it is an experience that I surely will never forget. The unique privilege of meeting with the head of state and spiritual leader of Tibet was one that led me to an even greater appreciation of Tibet, and brought me to first introduce legislation in 2008 supporting Tibetan refugees.

Eight years later we look at the same issue. This is not a new problem, as the epidemic has been occurring for years. We hope to make significant progress to aid many of these displaced Tibetans who have yet to free themselves from the rule of the Chinese government.

On behalf of the 5th District of Wisconsin, I welcome His Holiness the Dalai Lama to the United States and ask for continued perseverance from my colleagues on this issue. I hope to find a peaceful and manageable solution for the region of Tibet.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION
HON. EARL BLUMENAUER
OF OREGON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, had I been present for the vote on the Question of Consideration of the Resolution, the Rule for H.R. 5325, Legislative Branch Appropriations Act, 2017 (Roll Call Number 283), I would have voted “no.”

Had the question failed, Rep. Castro would have been able to offer his bill H.R. 3785, Correcting Hurtful and Alienating Names in Government Expression (CHANGE) Act. H.R. 3785 would strike the term “illegal alien” from federal law and replace it with the term “undocumented foreign national.” Rep. Castro offered an amendment in Rules Committee to H.R. 5325, which was not made in order, that would reverse House Republican language restricting the Librarian of Congress from implementing changes to subject headings from “illegal alien” to “undocumented immigrant.”

I support the Library of Congress’s decision to no longer use the subject heading “illegal alien” and instead use “noncitizens” and “unauthorized immigration.” The phrase “illegal alien” is offensive and dehumanizing to many, and I support the Library’s thoughtful decision.

HON. DINA TITUS OF NEVADA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Ms. TITUS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize and celebrate the 50th anniversary of the American Civil Liberties Union of Nevada. I would like to thank current Executive Director Tod Story for his leadership and tireless work on behalf of the ACLU and people of Nevada.

I would also like to recognize the 50th anniversary celebration honorees: Jan Jones Blackhurst, Paula Francis, Colin Seale, Sheila Leslie, and Richard Siegel. Congratulations on 50 years of great work. Thank you for your contributions to our community, and here’s to 50 more years defending the rights and liberties of Nevadans. Count on me to be your friend and advocate in Washington.

HONORING MS. NETTIE JACKSON UPON HER RETIREMENT

HON. DAVID SCOTT
OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. DAVID SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Ms. Nettie Jackson who has dedicated her life to helping folks live healthier lives. Ms. Jackson is retiring today after 25 years of service at the American Heart Association.

Her list of accomplishments is long, including 12 years of participation in my annual health fair. She has been involved in key legislation in Georgia including the Georgia Smoke Free Act and the Automated Defibrillator Public Access Law. She’s been involved in lowering the instances and causes of strokes by bringing in National Ambassadors for the Organization for the Power to End Stroke Caucus, facilitating the AHA/ASA First Power Awards in Atlanta, and leading receptions to bring Power to End Stroke Ambassadors together from all over the Southeast United States. She helped coordinate the “Straight From The Heart: Sister To Sister Conference”, and Walking for Wellness hosted at Spelman College among other conferences and workshops for healthcare professionals.

She has been recognized for her outstanding work with several awards including: NAACP State Conference Woman of Distinction, Concerned Black Clergy Community Service Award, Morehouse School of Medicine Inaugural Torch Awards, Georgia Ethnic Health Network Advocacy Award, Georgia Secretary of State Outstanding Citizen Award and the American Heart Association’s Rome Betts Award which is the National Staff of Excellence Award. She will be missed by the many people whose lives she has touched, but her retirement is certainly well earned.

I rise today to ask my colleagues to join me in thanking Ms. Nettie Jackson for her many great works and to wish her a wonderful retirement.

HONORING MAYOR RAMSAY

HON. CARLOS CURBELO
OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. CURBELO of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the passing of one of Monroe County’s most respected and decent public servants. Richard “Dick” Ramsay, a former Marathon mayor and city councilman, small-business owner and airplane pilot, passed away on Monday at the age of 74.

A true visionary that worked tirelessly to better his community, Mayor Ramsay played a pivotal role in the incorporation of Marathon, FL. He possessed a genuine passion for the Florida Keys, passion that was reflected in his dedication to public service. When Dick moved to Marathon, he purchased Surfside gas station near the Vaca Cut Bridge. Upon retirement is when Dick decided to become active with municipal issues. Dick’s contributions to Marathon are both significant and extensive. He served three two-year terms on the City Council and expressed great interest in issues concerning Marathon Florida Keys International Airport. One of his many successful projects was the newly installed U.S. Customs and Border Protection Facility, which now allows international flights to clear U.S. Customs in Marathon for the first time in decades.

Beloved by his family, his friends, and his community, Dick Ramsay will be dearly missed by all. I am honored to have been able to call him my friend. My thoughts and prayers go out to the Ramsay family and the Florida Keys for the loss of such an active and caring member of the community.

CELEBRATING LGBT PRIDE MONTH

HON. FRANK PALLONE, JR.
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to recognize the continued struggle for LGBT equality as we celebrate National LGBT Pride Month this month.

I am, and will continue to be, an ally of the LGBT community in its fight for a more equal and just future. LGBT rights are human rights and our diversity of identities and experiences makes us a stronger and more dynamic nation.

I remember just 20 years ago standing in the House chamber voicing my strong opposition to and voting against the Defense of Marriage Act. A lot has changed since that vote, and marriage equality is now the law of the land.

Despite that progress, LGBT individuals are still marginalized and discriminated against every day. And so our fight for equality continues. A couple weeks ago, I visited Highland Park, in my district, the 6th District of New Jersey, where the Board of Education unanimously voted for a policy ensuring transgender rights. The new policy—one of the strongest and most inclusive policies in the country—protects transgender students’ privacy and allows all students to access school bathrooms, locker rooms, and programs based on their affirmed gender. I am proud to represent such an inclusive and accepting community.

So as we in Congress work to pass critical legislation—such as the Equality Act, which would include sexual orientation and gender identity as protected classes in much of our civil rights legislation—to promote a more equal society, I will continue to recognize the voices and people in the towns and cities I represent, who fight hard every day to build more open and accepting neighborhoods and communities.

I stand with the LGBT community in New Jersey—and across the country—in celebrating diversity and equality and in reaffirming the commitment to secure a future free of irrational fear, prejudice, and discrimination.

CONCERNS ABOUT TURKISH CIVIL SOCIETY

HON. DAVID SCOTT
OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 9, 2016

Mr. DAVID SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today out of concern for the welfare of one of our most important NATO allies; the Republic of Turkey. I need not remind this House that Turkey is an indispensable ally in the fight against ISIL, and the effort to restore stability in the Middle East. Nor do I need to remind the members of this body that Turkey bears a burden of biblical proportions as it struggles to safely host almost three million refugees while simultaneously defending against an unprecedented wave of terror attacks. The geopolitical vicissitudes in Turkey’s vicinity present the most serious challenge to Turkish territorial integrity since the founding of the Republic.

However, history has consistently shown that great civilizations do not fall to outside forces unless they are rife with internal turmoil. Under its current leadership, Turkey has regretfully embarked in a troubling direction. Once considered the shining example of a vibrant democracy with the potential to mediate between the Middle East and West, crackdowns on civil society under President Erdogan have forced many of us to reassess the nature of our countries’ partnership. Repressive policies against political opposition, journalists, and women rights advocates constitute just a few of these concerns. Questionable use of antiterrorism laws to molest financial institutions, corporations, and academics associated with political opposition such as the Gulen movement raise concerns about Turkey’s continued commitment to democratic principles. In a robust republic, civic organizations such as the Gulen movement cannot and should not be designated as terrorist organizations without evidence for the sake of political expediency.

There can be no doubt about America’s continued commitment to defend our NATO allies; nor can we forget the substantial military buildup in Armenia, where Putin has deployed advanced fighter aircraft and attack helicopters just 25 miles from the Turkish border. This is the same NATO border that Russian military aircraft have regularly violated, culminating in the downing of a Russian bomber by Turkish defense forces. However, we must not forget the prerequisite requirements to be a member of the NATO alliance; that each member of the alliance be “determined to safeguard the freedom, common heritage and civilization of their peoples, founded on the principles of democracy, individual liberty and the rule of law.” It is my hope that President Erdogan’s administration will remember this commitment to democratic principles even in the face of regional instability.
