A BILL

To amend the Public Health Service Act to increase the number of permanent faculty in palliative care at accredited allopathic and osteopathic medical schools, nursing schools, social work schools, and other programs, including physician assistant education programs, to promote education and research in palliative care and hospice, and to support the development of faculty careers in academic palliative medicine.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

1 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

2 This Act may be cited as the “Palliative Care and 3 Hospice Education and Training Act”.

4 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

5 Congress makes the following findings:

6 (1) Palliative care is interdisciplinary, patient-
7 and family-centered health care for people with seri-
8 ous illnesses. This type of care is focused on pro-9 viding patients with relief from the symptoms, pain, 10 and stress of a serious illness, whatever the diag-
11 nosis. The goal of palliative care is to relieve suf-
12 fering and improve quality of life for both patients 13 and their families. Palliative care is provided by a 14 team of doctors, nurses, social workers, physician as-15 sistants, chaplains, and other specialists who work 16 with a patient’s other health care providers to pro-
17 vide an extra layer of support, including assistance 18 with difficult medical decisionmaking and coordina-
19 tion of care among specialists. Palliative care is ap-20 propriate at any age and at any stage in a serious 21 illness, and can be provided together with curative 22 treatment. Palliative care is not dependent on a life-23 limiting prognosis and may actually help an indi-
24 vidual recover from illness by relieving symptoms, 25 such as pain, anxiety, or loss of appetite, while un-

1       dergoing sometimes difficult medical treatments or 2       procedures, such as surgery or chemotherapy.

3           (2) Hospice is palliative care for patients in 4       their last year of life. Considered the model for qual-
5       ity compassionate care for individuals facing a life-6       limiting illness, hospice provides expert medical care, 7       pain management, and emotional and spiritual sup-8       port expressly tailored to the patient's needs and 9       wishes. In most cases, care is provided in the pa-10      tient's home but may also be provided in free-11      standing hospice centers, hospitals, nursing homes, 12      and other long-term care facilities. In 2014, an esti-13      mated 1,600,000 to 1,700,000 patients received 14      services from hospice, including non-Medicare bene-
15      ficiaries. Nearly 48 percent of all Medicare dece-16      dents in 2014 received care from a hospice program.
17      Hospice is a covered benefit under the Medicare pro-
18      gram. There were 4,025 Medicare-certified hospices
19      serving more than 1,300,000 Medicare beneficiaries 20      in 2014.

21           (3) Despite a high intensity of medical treat-22      ment, many seriously ill patients experience trou-23      bling symptoms, unmet psychological and personal 24      care needs, and high caregiver burden. Numerous 25      studies have shown that adding palliative care can

1 improve pain and symptom control, quality of life, 2 and family satisfaction with care.

3 (4) Health care providers need better education
4 about pain management and palliative care. Stu-
5 dents graduating from medical, nursing and other 6 health professional schools today have very little, if 7 any, training in the core precepts of pain and symp-8 tom management, advance care planning, commu-
9 nication skills, and care coordination for patients 10 with serious or life-threatening illness. Even for spe-
11 cialists, training is lacking. For example, the Accred-
12 itation Council for Graduate Medical Education re-13 quires oncology fellowship programs to integrate 14 competence in palliative care into their curriculum 15 and the American Society of Clinical Oncology has 16 recommended the integration of palliative care serv-17 ices into standard oncology practice at the time a 18 person is diagnosed with metastatic or advanced 19 cancer. Yet a 2015 national survey found hema-20 tology/oncology fellows were “inadequately prepared” 21 to provide palliative care to their patients. Less than 22 half had a rotation in palliative care and 25 percent 23 of fellows reported no explicit teaching on key skills 24 such as assessing prognosis, conducting a family

1 meeting to discuss treatment options, and referral to 2 palliative care.

3 (5) The American Board of Medical Specialties
4 and the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical 5 Education provided formal subspecialty status for 6 hospice and palliative medicine in 2006, and the 7 Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services recognized 8 hospice and palliative medicine as a medical sub-9 specialty in October of 2008.

10 (6) As of February 2017, there were a total of 11 127 hospice and palliative medicine training pro-12 grams accredited by the Accreditation Council for 13 Graduate Medical Education. For the 2016–2017
14 academic year, these programs were training 327 15 physicians in hospice and palliative medicine. Some 16 programs include an additional track in pediatrics, 17 geriatrics, research, or public health. Fewer than a 18 dozen of these ACGME-accredited training programs 19 focus solely on pediatric palliative medicine though 20 data show an increasing prevalence of children with 21 complex chronic conditions who could benefit from 22 such specialized care.

23 (7) There is a large gap between the number of 24 health care professionals with palliative care training 25 and the number required to meet the needs of the 1 growing population of individuals with serious or 2 life-threatening illness. In 2015, 75 percent of U.S.

3 hospitals with 50 or more beds had a palliative care
4 program though not all these programs have in place 5 the interdisciplinary team necessary to provide com-
6 prehensive, high-quality palliative care. Hospital
7 data reported to the National Palliative Care Reg-8 istry show that in 2015 only 44 percent of programs 9 met national staffing standards set by the Joint 10 Commission, even when including unfunded posi-11 tions. Among the 56 percent of programs without 12 complete interdisciplinary teams, 30 percent have no 13 physician, 10 percent have no advanced practice reg-14 istered nurse or RN, 54 percent have no social work-15 er and 70 percent have no chaplain. Looking at just 16 physician specialists, 2017 projections by the George 17 Washington University Health Workforce Institute 18 show that current training capacity for hospice and 19 palliative medicine is not sufficient to provide hos-20 pital-based care and keep pace with growth in the 21 population of adults over 65 years old. The short-22 ages are exacerbated when considering the current 23 rapid expansion of community-based palliative care, 24 such as in outpatient and home-based settings. A 25 separate survey of physicians in the field found that,

1 if the rate of those entering and leaving hospice and 2 palliative medicine maintains, there will be no more 3 than 1 percent absolute growth in this physician
4 workforce in 20 years, during which time the num-5 ber of persons eligible for palliative care will grow by 6 over 20 percent. The study’s authors project this will 7 result in a ratio of one palliative medicine physician 8 for every 26,000 seriously ill patients by 2030.

9 (8) According to the National Academy of Med-10 icine, there is a “need for better understanding of 11 the role of palliative care among both the public and 12 professionals across the continuum of care so that 13 hospice and palliative care can achieve their full po-14 tential for patients and their families”.

15 SEC. 3. PALLIATIVE CARE AND HOSPICE EDUCATION AND 16 TRAINING.

17 (a) IN GENERAL.—Part D of title VII of the Public
18 Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 294 et seq.) is amended

18 cluding geriatric education centers established 19 under section 753 or 865, to provide for edu-
20 cation and training focused specifically on pal-

14 tive medicine;

15                   “(B) be based in a hospice and palliative

24           “(4) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this sub-

9           long-term care settings.

10           “(5) TARGETS.—A Palliative Care and Hospice

5 CENTIVE AWARDS.—

6 “(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall award
7 grants or contracts under this subsection to individ-

17 suing a doctorate, masters, or other advanced 18 degree with a focus in palliative care or related 19 fields in an accredited health professions school; 20 and

6 hospice, or long-term care settings for a minimum of 7 5 years under guidelines established by the Sec-8 retary.

9           “(4) PAYMENT TO INSTITUTION.—The Sec-10 retary shall make payments for awards under this 11 subsection to institutions which include schools of 12 medicine, osteopathic medicine, nursing, social work,

14 dentistry, and pharmacy, or other allied health dis-15 cipline in an accredited health professions school or 16 program (such as a physician assistant education 17 program) that is approved by the Secretary.

18           “(f) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There 19 are authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section,
