PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 115th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 163

WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 12, 2017

No. 117

House of Representatives

The House met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. BRIDENSTINE).

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC,
July 12, 2017.

I hereby appoint the Honorable JIM BRIDENSTINE to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

PAUL D. RYAN,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

MORNING-HOUR DEBATE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 3, 2017, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning-hour debate.

The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties. All time shall be equally allocated between the parties, and in no event shall debate continue beyond 11:50 a.m. Each Member, other than the majority and minority leaders and the minority whip, shall be limited to 5 minutes.

CONGRATULATING FULBRIGHT RECIPIENTS FROM PENNSYLVANIA'S FIFTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. THOMPSON) for 5 minutes.

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize 16 individuals from Pennsylvania's Fifth Congressional District who have received prestigious Fulbright awards during the 2016–2017 school year.

Congress established the Fulbright Program in 1946. It promotes friendly and peaceful relations between Americans and people of other countries through international educational exchange. Each year, more than 3,000 U.S. students, scholars, artists, and professionals in more than 100 different fields of study are offered Fulbright Program grants to lecture, study, teach English, and conduct research in more than 140 countries.

Today, it is my privilege to recognize the following 16 individuals:

Dr. Farshid Ahrestani of State College, Pennsylvania, a scholar of biology, whose host country was India;

Dr. Luis Ayala Hernandez of State College, Pennsylvania, a scholar of engineering, whose host country was Colombia;

Ms. Maria Barboza of Clarion, Pennsylvania, a student with an English teaching apprenticeship, whose host country is Brazil;

Dr. Samuel Bufford of State College, Pennsylvania, a scholar of law, whose host country was Romania;

Ms. Alice Chen of Bradford, Pennsylvania, a student with an English teaching apprenticeship, whose host country was Taiwan;

Ms. Talia Cowen of State College, Pennsylvania, a student with an English teaching apprenticeship, whose host country is South Korea;

Dr. Zuleima Karpyn of State College, Pennsylvania, a scholar of engineering, whose host country was Colombia;

Ms. Lauren Knoth of State College, Pennsylvania, a student of sociology, whose host country was Finland;

Dr. Gerald LeTendre of Furnace, Pennsylvania, a scholar of education, whose host country was Japan;

Dr. Anthony Robinson of State College, Pennsylvania, a scholar of geology, whose host country was Austria;

Dr. Robert Roeser of State College, Pennsylvania, a scholar of psychology, whose host country is India;

Dr. Heather Snyder of Waterford, Pennsylvania, a scholar of psychology, whose host country was the United Kingdom;

Dr. Jacqueline Stefkovich of State College, Pennsylvania, a scholar of education, whose host country was Croatia;

Ms. Ann Tarantino of State College, Pennsylvania, a scholar of the arts, whose host country was Brazil;

Dr. Andrea Wyman of Edinboro, Pennsylvania, a scholar of library science, whose host country was Azerbaijan; and

Dr. Karl Zimmerer of State College, Pennsylvania, a scholar of geography, whose host country is Spain.

Congratulations to each and every one of you. You have earned this national recognition with your years of study, leadership, and service, and our community is proud of you.

Mr. Speaker, the Fulbright Program is one of the most sought-after exchange programs in the world. It encourages applications from individuals of academic and professional achievement who are current and future leaders in their respective fields. Selected through open, merit-based competition, Fulbrighters represent the excellence and diversity of their societies around the world and in the United States.

Since 1946, more than 370,000 individuals from the United States and 180 countries have participated in the program, including 37 heads of state, 57 Nobel Laureates, 82 Pulitzer Prize winners, and 70 MacArthur Foundation Fellows.

These relationships form a foundation of trust on which the United States may advance global peace and security. I know that the memorable learning experiences individuals encounter through the program will never be forgotten.

I thank all the Fulbrighters, especially the 16 from Pennsylvania's Fifth Congressional District. We are grateful

DEMOCRATIC VALUES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. GUTIÉRREZ) for 5 minutes.

Mr. GUTIÉRREZ. Mr. Speaker, I want to bring to everyone's attention, especially my Democratic colleagues, a troubling incident that transpired over the recess.

It is important that people hear about how women and the LGBT community are treated at the highest levels of the current Puerto Rican government and the values and politics that run deeply throughout the politics of statehood for Puerto Rico.

It is fair to say that in the era of Trump, admitting a Spanish-speaking Caribbean country as the 51st State would depend on the strength of democratic votes, so it is important for my Democratic colleagues in particular to understand who the statehooders really are and what they really stand for, beyond their rhetoric in Washington, D.C.

The president of the senate in Puerto Rico, Thomas Rivera Schatz, is a key leader of the Statehood Party. In a recent interview on NotiUno radio, he was asked about the Financial Oversight and Management Board, known as la Junta de Supervisión Fiscal. This is the controversial board created by Congress a year ago to take over financial and fiscal decisions in Puerto Rico and to prioritize the payment of Puerto Rico's debt to Wall Street.

I was one of the chief opponents of the PROMESA legislation that created the junta, and I have spoken out against it on numerous occasions. But it wasn't what the statehood senate president said about the junta that was so offensive; it is how he talked in public about one of its board members—in fact, the only woman on the board and an appointee nominated by NANCY PELOSI and the Democrats in the House.

Ana Matosantos has impeccable, bipartisan qualifications and also happens to be an openly gay woman. So during the interview, the senate president and statehood leader referred to Ms. Matosantos as Mr. Matosantos, using the masculine pronoun "senor." He did it multiple times so that listeners would not miss his disdain for lesbians and for women. It was no accident or slip of the tongue. Given an opportunity to apologize or backtrack, Rivera Schatz has declined to back down.

This is not the first time he has displayed his contempt for women and for the gay and lesbian community. His agenda is clear, and he knows he has many like-minded allies in Puerto Rico's statehood movement.

Every time he has had an opportunity to block civil and human rights protections for LGBT individuals, he does so. He goes out of his way to belittle gay and lesbian citizens even when they are the victims of hate crimes.

To be clear, I don't see Rivera Schatz as one bad apple. He is a bad apple that exemplifies and is a voice for the other leaders in his party.

So as a Puerto Rican and as a supporter of equality, all of this is deeply disturbing to me. Gender and LGBTQ equality issues are deeply engrained values of the Democratic Party, and I think they are core issues that bind Democrats together: issues of justice, opportunity, and fair play.

So when the leaders of the statehood movement in Puerto Rico call upon Democrats in Congress to speak about equality and justice for Puerto Ricans, I want my colleagues to think about the agenda they are pursuing in Puerto Rico and the extent to which they have a very different approach to fairness and equality on the island.

In closing, I would like to offer a few words to the Puerto Rican people in their own language, Spanish, and I will provide a translation to the desk.

(English translation of the statement made in Spanish is as follows:)

Core values of equality and fair treatment values I know most Puerto Ricans hold deeply in our hearts.

So when the Statehood Party allows divisive and polarizing figures like Senator Rivera Schatz to be their face and their leading advocate in the Senate, it makes me and many others skeptical about the arguments we hear from people who support statehood say the words "equality" and "justice" in Washington, but fight against equality and justice in Puerto Rico.

How can they be taken seriously about equality when their agenda in the legislature is to take away those rights from women, the LGBT community, students, peaceful protesters and others?

That is the fundamental hypocrisy I have pointed out to my Democratic colleagues, right now and in private meetings and correspondences.

If the statehood movement is really committed to equality, they should act accordingly and not just use it as a slogan when it suits them.

Los valores de la igualdad y del trato justo y equitativo son valores fundamentales que la mayoría de los puertorriqueños atesoramos profundamente en nuestros corazones.

Así que cuando el Partido Estadista, el PNP, permite que figuras polarizantes y divisivas como el Senador Rivera Schatz sean su cara y su principal representante en el Senado, eso me hace a mí y a muchos otros sentirnos escépticos en cuanto a los argumentos de los estadistas que usan palabras como "igualdad" y "justicia" en Washington, pero luchan en contra de la igualdad y la justicia en Puerto Rico.

¿Cómo esperan que se les tome en serio al hablar de "igualdad" cuando su agenda en la Legislatura es el quitarles derechos a las mujeres, a la comunidad LGBT, a los estudiantes, y a los que se manifiestan y protestan pacíficamente?

Esta es la fundamental hipocresía que le he señalado a mis colegas Demócratas, aquí, ahora, y en reuniones privadas, y a través de correspondencia.

Si el movimiento estadista en realidad tuviese un compromiso con la igualdad, actuarían conforme a la igualdad y no meramente usando el término como un lema cuando les conviene.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Illinois will provide a translation of his remarks to the Clerk.

CELEBRATING THE PHILHOWER FAMILY'S 100TH ANNUAL FAMILY REUNION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. LANCE) for 5 minutes.

Mr. LANCE. Mr. Speaker, on September 7, 2017, the Philhower family will have its 100th annual family reunion. I am proud to join my fellow family members in celebrating this very special occasion. My great-grandmother was Elizabeth Philhower Lance.

The Philhowers were some of the earliest settlers of Hunterdon County, New Jersey. The patriarch of the Philhower family was Philip Wulhauer, who emigrated from Germany on the ship the Patience, landing in the port of Philadelphia on September 16, 1738, at the age of 24. He met his wife, Anna Maria, on their voyage to the Colonies. Together they traveled to Hunterdon County, New Jersey, to start a new life.

Philip went on to lease 14 acres in what is now Tewksbury Township in 1758 and established the Philhower homestead, which was first a log cabin that included one room and a loft. Shortly after, he built the house that still stands on the property. It was constructed of mortar, lime, sand, and clay, and its walls are 18 inches thick.

The Philhower homestead had grown to 100 acres when the house was completed. The Philhowers have occupied the land since then and have spread their roots all over Hunterdon County, all over the State of New Jersey, and, indeed, all over the rest of the country.

Among the family names entwined in the Philhowers are Apgar, Sutton, Fleming, Hoffman, and Lance. Philhowers have represented Hunterdon County in many of the military conflicts that have faced our Nation. They have also been farmers, millers, physicians, ministers, merchants, bankers, and educators.

In 1917, the Philhowers held their first family reunion at their homestead, attended by nearly 400 descendants of Philip and Anna Maria. This fine tradition has continued over the last century, usually marked by a turkey dinner, finance meeting, and exchanging of family mementos at Cokesbury United Methodist Church in Hunterdon County. This year, however, family members will travel back to the
