“Sec. 435. Open source screening.”.

PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 2626, the “Strong Visa Integrity Secures America Act,” takes necessary steps to address potential security gaps to strengthen counterterror vetting and screening of individuals applying for entry into the United States.

As a result, this bill increases the number of Immigration and Custom Enforcement (ICE) Visa Security Units (VSU) from 30 to no fewer than 50. This will allow specially trained investigators to conduct in-depth reviews of high-risk visa applicants.

While there are more than 220 visa issuing posts around the world, the Committee understands that each VSU costs an estimated $2.7 million dollars per post. Therefore, the bill expands the Pre-Adjudicated Threat Recognition Intelligence Operations Team (PATRIOT) program, which conducts security checks remotely, to an additional 50 locations. This will allow visa issuing posts with limited space or insufficient workload the benefits of certain visa security vetting activities in the absence of a VSU.

The bill also requires that the Commissioner of U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) establish a system to read embedded chips contained within electronic passports, utilize facial recognition, and collect biometric data at airports of entry. Finally, the Commissioner of CBP must continuously screen individuals issued a U.S. visa against appropriate criminal, national security, and terrorism data bases maintained by the Federal Government as well as social media profiles of certain individuals from high-risk countries.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

Despite a series of improvements made to the visa security screening process since 2001, terrorists and other malicious actors have continued to exploit the visa process to enter the United States. No fewer than 37 terror attacks and plots may have been stopped by increased visa security measures. As a result, H.R. 2626 makes a series of security enhancements to increase the likelihood that terrorists attempting to obtain a visa are stopped well before they depart for the United States.

The Homeland Security Act of 2002 authorized the creation of U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement's Visa Security Program (VSP) for the purpose of interdicting individuals who seek to exploit the visa process to enter the United States.

ICE agents assigned to the VSP provide an additional layer of security beyond the existing background security checks against intelligence community holdings. VSP Agents help adjudicate discrepancies, resolve false name matches, conduct additional investigations, liaise with host government security officials and, in the process, keep suspected terrorists from landing on American soil.

Supporting these efforts is ICE's PATRIOT program. The PATRIOT system remotely vets visa applications against law enforcement, intelligence and immigration data bases to confirm identity, reduce false positives, and quickly identify applicants of concern. This early vetting gives ICE critical lead time to develop new investigations, advance ongoing operations, and coordinate with State Department officers to fill any information gaps through interviews of the applicants.

Imposters, or those who present valid travel documents belonging to another person, have long been a detection challenge for CBP Officers at ports of entry. To confirm identity and reduce the amount of fraudulent documents accepted at the Nation's ports of entry, CBP has conducted a series of pilots to test facial recognition matching technology at several international airports. Electronic passports contain a photograph that can be read and then matched to ensure that the person attempting entry is in fact the true bearer of the travel documents. Preventing imposters from using another's legitimate travel document increases security.

Other gaps addressed in H.R. 2626 include the student visa process, which requires matching of a paper-based I-20 form issued by colleges and universities, along with the computer-based Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS), to identify whether a student is allowed to be admitted in to the United States. This two-part system of paper I-20 and the computer-based SEVIS matching revealed a gap in the course of the Boston Marathon bombing investigation.

Specifically, Azamat Tazhayakov, a national of Kazakhstan and friend of the Tsarnayov brothers, departed the United States in December 2012, after he was academically dismissed from the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth. Tazhayakov's I-20 document was terminated as a result of his dismissal, but he nonetheless retained it. Tazhayakov was able to reenter the United States through a port of entry on January 20, 2013, presenting the no-longer valid I-20. As a result, H.R. 2626 requires DHS to make SEVIS information available to CBP Officers conducting primary inspections at each port of entry to close this gap. SEVIS access by CBP would be limited under H.R. 2626 only for the purpose of screening at ports of entry and conducting primary and secondary inspections.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE LEGISLATION

Section 1. Short Title.

This section provides that this bill may be cited as the “Strong Visa Integrity Secures America Act”.

Sec. 2. Visa Security.

(a) In General.

Subsection (a) amends section 428(e) of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to assign DHS employees at not fewer than 50 consular and diplomatic posts that issue visas. The assignment of these employees, referred to as Visa Security Units (VSU), and the decision as to what consular or diplomatic posts to assign them to must be done in a risk based manner based on certain criteria provided for in the legislation. This subsection further provides that the assignment of these employees is at the sole discretion of the Secretary of Homeland Security, and not the Secretary of State.

The Committee strongly supports the Visa Security program, and believes that having trained ICE agents at VSUs abroad is the most effective way to ensure the validity of visa applicants at high-risk posts. While remote screening is also conducted on visa applications where VSUs are located under the PATRIOT program, forward deployed agents improve cooperation with consular officers, increase technical assistance, and enable access to a number of government data bases for more thorough vetting of a visa applicant prior to and during the course of a consular interview. ICE currently has 30 operational VSUs.

(b) Counterterrorism Vetting and Screening.

This subsection requires visa applicants be screened against the appropriate criminal, national security, and terrorism data bases maintained by the Federal Government.

(c) Training and Hiring.

This subsection requires the Secretary of Homeland Security to work through the Commissioner of U.S. Customs and Border Protection and the Director of Immigration and Customs Enforcement to train any employees posted at consular and diplomatic posts.

The Committee believes training of State Department personnel by ICE or CBP is underutilized under the VSP, and such training would provide security benefits to employees in consular and diplomatic posts.

(d) Pre-Adjudicated Visa Security Assistance and Visa Security Advisory Opinion Unit.

This subsection amends the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to mandate that at an additional 50 diplomatic consular posts at which DHS employees are not permanently stationed have visa applications vetted remotely. The selection of those 50 posts is also done in a risk-based manner.

While expansion of VSP to 50 posts does not cover the nearly 224 total visa-issuing consular posts, it is a cost effective and responsibly incremented approach to improving visa security abroad and reduces the opportunity for visas to be used for terrorists to reach our shores. As a result, the Committee supports expansion of remote vetting to screen visas issued at additional posts where VSUs do not currently exist, but where coverage of such posts could occur via partnerships with other law enforcement agencies or Department of State.

Finally, this subsection mandates that the Secretary establish a Visa Security Advisory Opinion Unit that can respond to requests from the Secretary of State to conduct visa security reviews on visa applications using information maintained by the department, including terrorism association and criminal history.

Originally recognized through Appropriations legislation, the ICE Security Advisory Opinion Unit lacks a formal legislative authorization. The Committee supports ICE's Security Advisory Opinion efforts and recognizes it as a vital part of the Visa Security process.

Sec. 3. Electronic Passport Screening and Biometric Matching.

(a) In General.

Section 3 amends the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to add the following sections.

Proposed section 434 requires the Commissioner of U.S. Customs and Border Protection to screen electronic passports by reading each passport's embedded chip and utilize facial recognition to screen travelers at U.S. airports of entry.

The proposed section requires the passport screening to be conducted on U.S. citizens, nationals of countries participating in the Visa Waiver Program, and nationals of any other foreign country that issue passports with readable chips. The facial recognition requirements will only apply to nationals from countries participating in the Visa Waiver Program.

The Committee believes electronic passports that contain embedded chips that include biometric information greatly improve passport and travel security. While these passports have recently been required, screening against the biometrics contained on the chips does not typically occur upon entry into the United States. The Committee believes the security value of the electronic passports is maximized when the embedded information contained in the e-passport is read, and matched to positively identify an individual seeking admission into the United States. Lastly, as biometric technology is deployed to airports of entry, the Committee will require that CBP report annually on the types of technology used, if and how much U.S. citizen biometric data is collected at each airport, and what CBP does with this sensitive data. This report is intended to ensure that privacy protections remain at the forefront as CBP deploys this technology.

Proposed section 435 mandates the Commissioner of U.S. Customs and Border Protection to continuously screen individuals issued a visa, and those in the United States or arriving soon as part of the Visa Waiver Program, against the appropriate criminal, national security, and terrorism data bases maintained by the Federal Government.

The Committee is concerned that screening of individuals with visas does not occur on a recurring or continuous basis. This gap may provide opportunities for exploitation where a previously vetted individual may be issued a visa to enter the United States, then subsequently listed on a data base of concern, and be able to enter the country without derogatory information flagged by subsequent reviews. The continuous vetting provided for in H.R. 2626 would provide greater security and ensure individuals issued a visa, but not currently in the United States, have their visa or ESTA revoked, if warranted.

(b) Clerical Amendment.

This subsection makes clerical amendment to the table of contents to the Homeland Security Act of 2002.

Sec. 4. Reporting of Visa Overstays.

Section 4 amends current law to mandate that the Department of Homeland Security issue a report to Congress regarding visa overstays. The report must include, among other data: numerical estimates of the number of aliens who overstayed their visa from each county; the number of aliens within all classes of non-immigrant visa categories and appropriate sub-categories that overstayed their visa; and the percentage of aliens who arrived at a land point of entry.

The Committee believes that the Fiscal Year 2015 and 2016 Visa Overstay reports issued by the Department are a step in the right direction but neither offers a complete picture of the visa overstay problem. For example, the first visa overstay report to Congress since the Department of Justice last reported them in 1996 only included data on foreign nationals traveling on a B1 and B2 travel visa for business or tourism, as well as those admitted under the Visa Waiver Program through an air or sea port of entry. Though the fiscal year 2016 expanded the scope to include foreign nationals admitted under student and international exchange visas, the latest report still does not capture the entire universe of visa overstays, including those individuals who depart via land and pedestrian ports of entry, Mexican citizens traveling on a Border Crossing Card, Canadian nationals, or the other categories of visa categories.

In the absence of a biometric, or even complete biographic exit system, CBP must expand their overstay report to all visa categories and entry modes to present Congress with a complete picture of the State of visa overstays.

Sec. 5. Student and Exchange Visitor Information System Verification.

This section mandates the Secretary of Homeland Security ensure that information collected in SEVIS is available to CBP Officers for the purposes of conducting primary inspections of aliens seeking admission into the U.S. at all ports of entry.

The Committee believes that student visas may be one of the preferred routes for terrorist exploitation. The current system requires matching of a paper-based I-20 form issued by colleges and universities, with the computer-based Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS), to identify whether a student is allowed to be admitted in to the United States. This two-part system of paper I-20 and the computer-based SEVIS matching adds an additional level of complexity, and was revealed as a security vulnerability in the course of the Boston Marathon bombing investigation. Specifically, Azamat Tazhayakov, a national of Kazakhstan and friend of the Tsarnayov brothers, departed the United States in December 2012, after he was academically dismissed from the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth.

According to reports, this lapse occurred in part because Customs and Border Protection officers at primary inspection did not have access to the Immigration and Customs Enforcement's SEVIS data base, to verify whether a student's I-20 was valid.

While the Committee understands that interim measures have been made since 2013, and that SEVIS is available in secondary screening, allowing CBP to screen against SEVIS during the course of primary inspection will close existing gaps in the entry system, and is in line with previous plans for upgrades to the SEVIS system. The Committee, however believes that access to the SEVIS database by CBP be limited only for primary inspections as stated in H.R. 2626 and not wholesale access for other purposes.

Sec. 6. Social Media Review of Visa Applicants.

Proposed section 436 mandates the DHS Secretary to review the social media accounts of certain visa applicants who are citizens of, or reside, in high-risk countries as determined by the Secretary, based on certain criteria provided for in the legislation. This shall be implemented to the greatest extent possible, in a risk-based manner, and on an individualized basis. In order to develop the technology necessary to implement this section the Secretary is required to collaborate with the head of the national laboratory within the Department's laboratory network with relevant expertise, the head of the relevant university based center within the Department's centers of excellence network and other available Federal research, as appropriate.

The Committee believes that screening visa applicant social media accounts will enhance the visa vetting capabilities of the U.S. Government both in the early stages of a visa application and at the issuance phase. It will allow for continued monitoring of high-risk non-immigrant visa holders during the time of visa application, issuance, and entry into the United States. This screening has the potential to identify additional derogatory information during the visa pre-issuance vetting phase which may otherwise be unknown.

The Committee is pleased that DHS sees value in social media vetting. The Committee acknowledges the technical challenges related to the vetting of social media for all categories of visas, which is why we limited the mandate for this vetting to a smaller subset of the high risk countries and visa applicants.

Proposed section 437 requires the Secretary, to the greatest extent possible, review open source information on visa applicants in a risk-based manner.

CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED
