PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 1302, the Terrorist and Foreign Fighter Travel Exercise Act of 2017, requires the Secretary of Homeland Security, in coordination with relevant Federal departments and agencies, to develop and conduct an exercise related to the terrorist and foreign fighter threat. It also requires the Secretary to identify and report to Congress any weaknesses at home and abroad that may be exploited by terrorists and foreign fighters. Lastly, the bill requires that the National Exercise Program be designed to include emerging terrorist threats, such as the threat from foreign fighters.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

In September 2015, the final report of the Committee on Homeland Security's Task Force on Combating Terrorist and Foreign Fighter Travel was published (Committee Print 114–B). The report, produced by a bipartisan panel, issued 32 findings and provided more than 50 recommendations for enhancing U.S. security. Among other conclusions, the Task Force report found that the growing complexity and changing nature of the foreign fighter security challenge may be creating unseen gaps in our defenses, yet it has been years since any large-scale “stress test” has been conducted on U.S. government protection and prevention programs against terrorist travel.

The last major government exercise on terrorist travel occurred in 2009. That year, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) managed an exercise centered on the “aftermath of a national terrorist event outside of the United States” and how to prevent “subsequent efforts by the terrorists to enter the United States and carry out additional attacks.” The exercise tested how agencies at all levels of government would respond in such a scenario.

The threat environment has since changed. The 2009 exercise centered on terrorists attempting to enter the country, but as the Task Force report noted, officials today should be just as concerned about Americans leaving the country to train overseas with terrorist groups as foreign fighters. Such individuals can represent a serious security threat to the United States, particularly upon their return to the country; thus, preventing them from joining extremists abroad in the first place should be a top law enforcement goal.

Accordingly, the Task Force report recommended that the Administration should conduct an exercise designed around the foreign fighter threat to test all phases of extremist planning and travel in order to determine how partners at all levels of government on the United States and abroad are currently responding to these scenarios. Such an exercise would help identify weaknesses at home and abroad that may be exploited by terrorists and foreign fighters seeking to travel to and from the United States and overseas terrorist sanctuaries.

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, March 13, 2017.

Hon. MICHAEL MCCAUL,
*Chairman, Committee on Homeland Security,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.*

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for H.R. 1302, the Terrorist and Foreign Fighter Travel Exercise Act of 2017.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact is Robert Reese.

KEITH HALL.

Enclosure.

H.R. 1302—Terrorist and Foreign Fighter Travel Exercise Act of 2017

H.R. 1302 would require the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to develop and carryout national exercises designed to evaluate the nation's preparedness against the threat of foreign fighters and terrorists. Based on information from FEMA, CBO estimates that implementing the legislation would not significantly affect the federal budget over the 2018–2022 period because the new exercises would be integrated into existing programs.

Under current law, at least every two years, the agency conducts a national exercise to evaluate the preparedness of federal, state, local, and tribal governments to respond to catastrophic events—including acts of terrorism—in a coordinated manner. The agency allocated approximately $112 million in fiscal year 2016 for such activities including education and training efforts related to the ability to respond to emergencies.

Under the bill, the agency would develop and conduct an exercise to test the ability to respond to the threat of persons leaving the United States to join or provide material support to terrorist organizations or of foreign fighters attempting to enter the United States. Under the bill, the agency also would be required to integrate those exercises into the national exercises carried out every two years under current law. Based on information from FEMA, CBO estimates that the agency would develop and integrate the new exercises into existing preparedness activities and would incur no significant additional costs.

Enacting H.R. 1302 would not affect direct spending or revenues; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply. CBO estimates that enacting the bill would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2028.

H.R. 1302 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Robert Reese. The estimate was approved by H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

STATEMENT OF GENERAL PERFORMANCE GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

Pursuant to clause 3(c)(4) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, H.R. 1302 contains the following general performance goals and objectives, including outcome related goals and objectives authorized.

This legislation ensures that the Secretary of Homeland Security, in coordination with relevant Federal departments and agencies, develops and conducts a terrorist and foreign fighter travel exercise. It also ensures that the Secretary identifies and reports to Congress any weaknesses at home and abroad that may be exploited by terrorists and foreign fighters.

DUPLICATIVE FEDERAL PROGRAMS

Pursuant to clause 3(c) of rule XIII, the Committee finds that H.R. 1302 does not contain any provision that establishes or reauthorizes a program known to be duplicative of another Federal program.

CONGRESSIONAL EARMARKS, LIMITED TAX BENEFITS, AND LIMITED TARIFF BENEFITS

In compliance with rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives, this bill, as reported, contains no congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits as defined in clause 9(e), 9(f), or 9(g) of the rule XXI.

FEDERAL MANDATES STATEMENT

The Committee adopts as its own the estimate of Federal mandates prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office pursuant to section 423 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act.

PREEMPTION CLARIFICATION

In compliance with section 423 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, requiring the report of any Committee on a bill or joint resolution to include a statement on the extent to which the bill or joint resolution is intended to preempt State, local, or Tribal law, the Committee finds that H.R. 1302 does not preempt any State, local, or Tribal law.

DISCLOSURE OF DIRECTED RULE MAKINGS

The Committee estimates that H.R. 1302 would require no directed rule makings.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE STATEMENT

No advisory committees within the meaning of section 5(b) of the Federal Advisory Committee Act were created by this legislation.

APPLICABILITY TO LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

The Committee finds that the legislation does not relate to the terms and conditions of employment or access to public services or accommodations within the meaning of section 102(b)(3) of the Congressional Accountability Act.
