PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

The U.S. bankruptcy process is not optimally designed for the orderly resolution of financial institutions for many reasons, including these institutions' interconnectedness and, in the case of larger and more interconnected institutions, a potential to pose "systemic risk" to the broader financial system. H.R. 1667, the "Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act of 2017,” amends chapter 11 of title 11 of the United States Code (Bankruptcy Code) to better address the unique challenges presented by the insolvency of a financial institution and better allow such an institution to be resolved through the bankruptcy process.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR THE LEGISLATION

A. BRIEF OVERVIEW OF CHAPTER 11

Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code is designed primarily to allow a business to restructure its debt obligations while maintaining its operations. The underlying principle is that a business in its entirety is more valuable than each of its assets valued independently. Preservation of a business through chapter 11, and in turn its enterprise value, can benefit both creditors, who should receive a higher recovery as a result of a debtor’s restructuring than they would otherwise obtain through a liquidation, and debtors, who benefit from the ability to continue their business operations. Employees, suppliers, customers, and others can also benefit if debtors continue their business operations.

A chapter 11 case begins by the filing of a petition for relief with the relevant bankruptcy court. Once the petition is filed, an “automatic stay” is put into place that prevents, with some exceptions, creditors from taking actions to recover their debts. The automatic stay allows a debtor the breathing room necessary to organize its operations, negotiate with creditors, and achieve consensus on a chapter 11 plan. The inflection point of a chapter 11 case is the chapter 11 plan, which dictates what each of the creditors will receive as a recovery. The chapter 11 plan must be approved by the debtor’s creditors and the bankruptcy court. Once a chapter 11 plan is approved, creditors of the debtor may only pursue recoveries as provided by the chapter 11 plan, and the reorganized company is treated as a new corporate entity.

There are generally two primary paths for a debtor to restructure under chapter 11. The first path is a traditional reorganization of a debtor’s capital structure. A simple example of this type of reorganization would involve a debtor’s shareholders not receiving any recovery on account of their shares, and the debtor’s secured creditors becoming the new equity holders of the reorganized company. The second path is a sale of a debtor’s primary business, with the proceeds of the sale used to provide recoveries to the debtor’s creditors. The sale of a business as a whole is distinct from a liquidation, in that the enterprise typically will continue to operate in a substantially similar form under new, third-party ownership. In a liquidation, the debtor’s assets likely will be sold in piecemeal fashion or simply handed over to creditors.

B. THE EXISTING BANKRUPTCY CODE AND ADDRESSING FINANCIAL INSTITUTION INSOLVENCIES

The bankruptcy process has been the traditional mechanism for handling the orderly resolution of distressed companies in the United States because of bankruptcy’s established history of laws, precedent, and impartial administration. According to a report by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) and the Bank of England, “[t]he U.S. would prefer that large financial organizations be resolvable through ordinary bankruptcy.”<sup>1</sup> However, the report added that “the U.S. bankruptcy process may not be able to handle the failure of a systemic financial institution without significant disruption to the financial system.”<sup>2</sup> Of note, smaller financial institutions can also restructure their operations under the Bankruptcy Code in the event of material financial distress or failure.

In the wake of the 2008 financial crisis, the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act,<sup>3</sup> directed the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (Federal Reserve) and the Governmental Accountability Office (GAO) to study the Bankruptcy Code and international issues related to the insolvency of financial institutions as part of an overall effort to reduce systemic risk within the financial sector.<sup>4</sup> The studies identified a number of issues specific to the resolution of insolvent financial institutions and discussed theories regarding how to address such issues, without offering specific recommendations or independent opinions regarding potential revisions to the Bankruptcy Code.<sup>5</sup>

Following these reports, the FDIC published a notice detailing its intended method for implementing its resolution/orderly liquidation authority under Title II of the Dodd-Frank Act, a non-bankruptcy resolution process the Dodd-Frank legislation made available for large, “systemically important” financial institutions.<sup>6</sup> The FDIC’s method, referred to as “single point of entry,” relies on placing a parent holding company into receivership while maintaining the operations and solvency of its operating subsidiaries.<sup>7</sup> Under this approach, the FDIC would be appointed as the receiver of the parent holding company and could transfer the parent company’s assets into a bridge financial holding company, impose losses on the shareholders and creditors of the parent company, and eventually transition ownership of the bridge financial company into private hands.<sup>8</sup>

Some commentators have suggested that the “single point of entry” approach should also be made available in the Bankruptcy Code.<sup>9</sup> One of the proposed methods to amend the Bankruptcy Code to facilitate the use of this approach creates an entirely new subchapter within chapter 11, referred to as “subchapter V,” dedicated to addressing the insolvency of a financial institution.

Another leading proposal is referred to as “chapter 14” and would introduce an entirely new chapter to the Bankruptcy Code, with substantially similar amendments to the Bankruptcy Code as subchapter V. One significant difference between these two approaches is that chapter 14 may not incorporate the relevant case law related to other components of chapter 11 that remain undisturbed under both approaches, while subchapter V clearly maintains such case law.<sup>10</sup>

As explained in additional detail below, the subchapter V proposal is designed to address the unique issues presented by a financial institution's bankruptcy. Subchapter V would, among other elements: apply to financial institutions; confer explicit standing to the financial institution's primary regulators in the institution's bankruptcy proceeding; designate a select group of bankruptcy judges to oversee these bankruptcies; and, provide specialized treatment for derivative contracts. Advocates of this approach argue that a transparent judicial process that allows for the reorganization, rather than liquidation, of a large financial institution is a preferable resolution strategy because of, among other things, the benefits of due process.<sup>11</sup>

C. THE CHALLENGES PRESENTED BY A FINANCIAL INSTITUTION INSOLVENCY AND HOW THE FINANCIAL INSTITUTION BANKRUPTCY ACT ADDRESSES THESE CHALLENGES

There are a number of challenges posed by the insolvency of a financial institution, particularly the insolvency of a large, multinational financial institution. The resolution of a financial institution must be swift, transparent and account for the potential impact on the general financial system, due to the typically liquid and quickly transferable assets of a financial institution. While the existing Bankruptcy Code possesses many of the provisions necessary to resolve a large, failing firm, commentators have suggested that improvements are needed to resolve effectively a financial institution.<sup>12</sup>

As explained above, commentators generally agree that the "single point of entry" approach is the most efficient proposal to provide for an expeditious resolution of a financial firm.<sup>13</sup> H.R. 1667, the "Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act of 2017" adopts the proposed method of creating a new subchapter within chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code to allow the "single point of entry" approach to be utilized in the bankruptcy process. H.R. 1667 allows the debtor holding company that sits atop the financial firm's corporate structure to transfer its assets, including the equity in all of its operating subsidiaries, to a newly-formed bridge company over a single weekend.<sup>14</sup> The debt, any remaining assets, and equity of the holding company will remain in the bankruptcy process and absorb the losses of the financial institution. Identifying the debt and equity to remain in the bankruptcy process allows existing creditors of the debtor to price appropriately their dealings and investment with the debtor prior to any bankruptcy proceeding.

<sup>14</sup>Given the sensitivity of banking relationships and the financial marketplace, practicalities dictate that this transfer must be performed over the course of a period when the financial markets are not open.

Furthermore, the subchapter V “single point of entry” approach allows all of the financial institution’s operating subsidiaries to remain out of the bankruptcy process. Keeping these entities out of an insolvency proceeding is particularly helpful for multi-national firms that otherwise could be required to comply with multiple, and potentially conflicting, insolvency jurisdictions. The following is a graphical representation of the “single point of entry” approach in bankruptcy.

Day 2 of Bankruptcy

The amendments to the Bankruptcy Code contained in H.R. 1667 also account for the potential of a financial firm's insolvency to impact the general financial markets, often referred to as systemic risk. H.R. 1667 provides that key financial regulators are granted explicit standing in subchapter V cases in order to give the presiding bankruptcy judge the benefit of their views when considering pending motions. Additionally, the legislation allows the presiding bankruptcy judge to consider the impact of a decision on financial stability in the United States before issuing a final judgment on any motion. Both of these provisions are designed to account for the potential of systemic risk in a subchapter V case.

An additional element of H.R. 1667 intended to address systemic risk is the amendments to the Bankruptcy Code that deal with the types of transactions through which systemic contagion can most readily spread and that financial institutions engage in routinely—derivative and similarly-structured transactions. Currently, the Bankruptcy Code contains exemptions for counterparties to derivative and similarly-structured transactions to collect on outstanding debts notwithstanding the commencement of a chapter 11 case and the consequent “automatic stay.” This exemption stands in contrast to the treatment of other contracts and debts under the Bankruptcy Code, which typically results in requiring creditors to wait until a chapter 11 plan is approved before they receive a recovery on account of their relationship with the debtor. H.R. 1667 overrides the exemption for derivative and similarly-structured transactions contained in the Bankruptcy Code by imposing a temporary two-day stay that would allow for the effective transfer of the financial institution's operations to a bridge company. Without this override of the existing exemption, counterparties to derivatives and similarly-structured transactions could terminate their relationships with a financial institution debtor upon the commencement of a bankruptcy case, which likely would endanger the successful transfer and continued operation of the bridge company and potentially threaten other entities within the broader financial system.<sup>15</sup>

H.R. 1667 contains key protections for counterparties to derivative contracts. For example, section 1188(b) of the bill requires the financial institution to perform its contractual obligations during the stay, the failure of which results in the termination of the stay.<sup>16</sup> This provision ensures that the financial institution continues to perform such that counterparties are protected during the brief stay period. Additionally, to the extent the financial institution wishes to transfer its derivative contracts to the bridge institution, all of the contracts between the financial institution and the counterparty must be transferred.<sup>17</sup> This ensures that the financial institution cannot “cherry pick” between the contracts it has with a particular counterparty. Additionally, the financial institution must transfer all related claims and collateral along with the to-be transferred derivative contracts.<sup>18</sup> This provision ensures that the counterparty has all of its rights and collateral preserved at the bridge company. Finally, immediately following the transfer, a derivative contract counterparty may terminate the contract based on any provision predicated on the non-performance of a contractual obligation. In sum, derivative contract counterparties have a host of protections afforded to them within H.R. 1667.

Notably, 18 major financial institutions have separately and voluntarily agreed to include a 48-hour stay in their derivative contracts with each other to the extent any of the financial institutions are subject to a “resolution action.”<sup>19</sup> In other words, these institutions already have voluntarily incorporated the 48-hour stay concept included in H.R. 1667. However, these voluntary agreements are not comprehensive and some parties who enter into derivative contracts are not subject to the voluntary 48-hour stay.

H.R. 1667 also expressly acknowledges the speed by which a financial institution must be resolved in order to mitigate financial contagion. To that end, the legislation includes specific and expedient timeframes for the commencement of a case as well as court approval of the transfer of assets to the bridge company.

The bill also recognizes that overseeing a subchapter V case requires a presiding bankruptcy judge to have a certain level of expertise and experience with either financial industry cases or large corporate reorganizations. To that end, H.R. 1667 contains provisions that require the advance designation of bankruptcy judges who can be available to hear these cases.

The 18 financial institutions subject to the agreement are: Bank of America Merrill Lynch; Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi UFJ; Barclays; BNP Paribas; Citigroup; Crédit Agricole; Credit Suisse; Deutsche Bank; Goldman Sachs; HSBC; JP Morgan Chase; Mizuho Financial Group; Morgan Stanley; Nomura; Royal Bank of Scotland; Société Générale; Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group; and UBS.

conducted a hearing entitled “The Bankruptcy Code and Financial Institution Insolvencies.”<sup>20</sup> The witnesses at the hearing were: the Honorable Jeffrey M. Lacker, President of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond; Professor Mark J. Roe, David Berg Professor of Law, Harvard Law School; and Donald S. Bernstein, Partner and head of Davis Polk & Wardwell LLP’s Insolvency and Restructuring Practice and past chair of the National Bankruptcy Conference. At the hearing, witnesses testified that a financial institution’s bankruptcy presents unique issues that the existing Bankruptcy Code could be equipped better to address.

On March 26, 2014, the Subcommittee conducted a hearing entitled “Exploring Chapter 11 Reform: Corporate and Financial Institution Insolvencies; Treatment of Derivatives.”<sup>21</sup> The witnesses at the hearing were: Professor Michelle Harner, Reporter for the American Bankruptcy Institute Commission to Study the Reform of Chapter 11, University of Maryland; Professor Thomas H. Jackson, William E. Simon School of Business, University of Rochester; the Honorable Christopher Sontchi, U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware; Seth Grosshandler, Partner, Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton, LLP; and Jane Vris, Millstein & Co, on behalf of the National Bankruptcy Conference. During this hearing, the Subcommittee received testimony in support of amending the Bankruptcy Code to create a subchapter V under chapter 11 to allow the resolution of a financial institution through the bankruptcy process, using the single-point-of-entry approach.<sup>22</sup>

In addition, on July 15, 2014, the Subcommittee conducted a legislative hearing on a discussion draft of the Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act. The witnesses at the hearing were: Donald S. Bernstein, partner and head of Davis Polk & Wardwell LLP’s Insolvency and Restructuring Practice and past chair of the National Bankruptcy Conference; Stephen E. Hessler, Partner, Kirkland & Ellis, LLP; Professor Thomas H. Jackson, William E. Simon School of Business, University of Rochester; and, Professor Stephen J. Lubben, Seton Hall University School of Law. All four witnesses, including the Minority witness, testified that they believed the Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act, subject to certain modifications, should be enacted into law.

Following the July 2014 hearing, the Committee received informal staff-level comments on the discussion draft of the Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act from, among others, the Federal Reserve, the FDIC, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, the National Conference of Bankruptcy Judges, the National Bankruptcy Conference, and the International Swaps and Derivatives Association. The comments received from these parties served as the basis for revisions to the discussion draft.

On September 9, 2014, Rep. Spencer Bachus (R-AL), together with Rep. Bob Goodlatte (R-VA) and Rep. John Conyers, Jr. (D-MI) introduced H.R. 5421, the “Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act of 2014.” On September 10, 2014, the Judiciary Committee reported H.R. 5421 favorably to the House by voice vote. On December 1, 2014, the House passed H.R. 5421 under suspension of the rules. The introduced version of H.R. 2947 was identical to the House-passed version of H.R. 5421.

On July 7, 2015, Rep. David Trott (R–MI), together with Representatives Goodlatte, Rep. Conyers, and Tom Marino (R–PA) introduced H.R. 2947, the “Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act of 2015.”

The introduced version of H.R. 2947 was identical to the House-passed version of H.R. 5421. On July 9, 2015, the Subcommittee conducted a legislative hearing on H.R. 2947. The witnesses at the hearing were: Donald S. Bernstein, partner and head of Davis Polk & Wardwell LLP’s Insolvency and Restructuring Practice and past chair of the National Bankruptcy Conference; Stephen E. Hessler, Partner, Kirkland & Ellis, LLP; and, Richard Levin, Partner, Jenner & Block, LLP, on behalf of the National Bankruptcy Conference. All of the witnesses testified in support of the Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act, subject to certain modifications.

During Committee consideration of H.R. 2947, a substitute amendment was adopted by the Committee. The amendment made several revisions to the introduced version of the bill. First, it removed the Federal Reserve’s ability to initiate an involuntary bankruptcy petition and the related expedited judicial review process for such a petition. All of the witnesses at the July 9, 2015 Subcommittee hearing testified in support of this revision, stating that the Federal Reserve already has sufficient regulatory power to induce a financial institution to seek a subchapter V bankruptcy.<sup>23</sup> Second, the amendment clarified that the chief judge of the Court of Appeals for the district in which the subchapter V case will be commenced will be the person who randomly selects the bankruptcy judge from the pre-designated pool of judges. This revision reflected comments provided by the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts. Finally, the legislation made several clarifying technical revisions to the introduced text. On March 23, 2016, the Judiciary Committee reported H.R. 2947 favorably to the House by a vote of 25 to 0. On April 12, 2016, the House passed H.R. 2947 under suspension of the rules.

On March 22, 2017, Rep. Marino, together with Representatives Goodlatte, Conyers, and David Cicilline (D–RI) introduced H.R. 1667, the “Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act of 2017.” The introduced version of H.R. 1667 was identical to the House-passed version of H.R. 2947, with one minor change to refine the director exculpation provision of the bill.

HEARINGS

On March 23, 2017, the Subcommittee on Regulatory Reform, Commercial and Antitrust Law conducted a hearing on H.R. 1667, the Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act. The witnesses at the hearing were: the Honorable Mary F. Walrath, U.S. Bankruptcy Judge District of Delaware; John B. Taylor, the Mary and Robert Raymond Professor of Economics at Stanford University and the George P. Shultz Senior Fellow in Economics at Stanford University’s Hoover Institution; Stephen E. Hessler, Partner, Kirkland &

Ellis, LLP; and, Bruce Grohsgal, the Helen S. Balick Visiting Professor in Business Bankruptcy Law at Widener University.

Three of the four witnesses, testified that they believed the Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act should be enacted into law. The fourth witness, Mr. Grohsgal, recognized that bankruptcy is a viable alternative to resolution under Title II of Dodd-Frank, but voiced concerns that, among other things, H.R. 1667 may increase the moral hazard of directors of a failing institution through indemnification provisions contained in the bill. All three other witnesses, however, testified that H.R. 1667, as drafted, properly incentivizes directors to address the institutions problems expeditiously without fear of unnecessary legal liability.<sup>24</sup> Mr. Hessler noted that the only board decisions protected under the Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act are a “good faith filing of a petition to commence a case” and “any reasonable action taken in good faith” in contemplation of the filing or asset transfer decision.<sup>25</sup> In addition, “[i]f it can be shown that the challenged actions were taken in bad faith or were unreasonable, the board could be liable.”<sup>26</sup> The Bankruptcy Code currently provides the ability to appoint an examiner or trustee to assume and perform the management duties of the debtor “for cause, including fraud, dishonesty, incompetence, or gross mismanagement of the affairs of the debtor by current management, either before or after the commencement of the case.”<sup>27</sup>

COMMITTEE CONSIDERATION

On March 29, 2017, the Committee met in open session and ordered the bill H.R. 1667 favorably reported by voice vote, a quorum being present.

COMMITTEE VOTES

In compliance with clause 3(b) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee advises that no roll call votes occurred during the Committee’s consideration of H.R. 1667.

COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT FINDINGS

CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE COST ESTIMATE

In compliance with clause 3(c)(3) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee sets forth, with respect to the bill, H.R. 1667, the following estimate and comparison prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office under section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974:

CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, March 30, 2017.

*Chairman, Committee on the Judiciary,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.*

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for H.R. 1667, the Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act of 2017.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact is Kathleen Gramp.

KEITH HALL.

Enclosure.

H.R. 1667—Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act of 2017

Summary: H.R. 1667 would establish a new bankruptcy process for certain financial institutions with assets of more than $50 billion. The new process could assist institutions that may be too complex to resolve through bankruptcy proceedings under existing laws. CBO estimates that enacting the legislation would have no significant net effect on the federal budget.

Pay-as-you-go procedures apply because enacting the legislation could affect direct spending and revenues related to bankruptcy proceedings and other programs aimed at resolving the failure of banks and other financial firms. However, CBO estimates that those effects would not be significant.

CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 1667 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year period beginning in 2028.

H.R. 1667 contains no intergovernmental mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA).

H.R. 1667 would impose a private-sector mandate, as defined in UMRA, on entities that have certain types of contracts with bank holding companies or large financial institutions that enter the bankruptcy process established under the bill. Because of uncertainty about both the number and value of contracts that would be affected and the amount of losses that would occur as a result of the bill, CBO cannot determine whether the cost of the mandate would exceed the annual threshold established in UMRA for private-sector mandates ($156 million in 2017, adjusted annually for inflation).

Basis of estimate: The new bankruptcy procedures in H.R. 1667 could affect the cash flows of federal programs that are currently available to resolve the failure of financial institutions. For example, it is possible that some firms eligible to use the new bankruptcy process also could use the current procedures of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) to resolve their financial difficulties. The FDIC is authorized to resolve financial problems for large, systemically important financial firms that become insolvent or are in danger of becoming insolvent.

Using the FDIC's resolution program under current law is contingent on certain conditions, including a finding by the Secretary of the Treasury that the bankruptcy process would not be appropriate for the resolution of a firm's financial difficulties. If the necessary conditions are met, the FDIC may borrow funds from the Treasury to finance resolution activities and must collect fees from other large financial firms to offset the cost of any losses; those transactions occur through the Orderly Liquidation Fund (OLF). Although any spending from the OLF for resolution activities would initially increase federal outlays, those costs would subsequently be offset by income received from selling the assets of the firm or from assessing fees. CBO anticipates that the secretary would use the OLF primarily during times of economic distress for complex financial institutions that require significant levels of capital or liquidity support. There is a very small chance that such a condition could occur in any year.

CBO expects that implementing H.R. 1667 would increase the probability that some financial firms would use the bankruptcy process instead of the FDIC process described above. The effects of that change on the cash flows of the OLF would depend on economic, legal, and strategic factors that are difficult to quantify. CBO expects that the types of financial institutions with difficulties that could be resolved under the bankruptcy provisions in H.R. 1667 would be those that otherwise would have had a negligible net effect on the budget (for example, the failure of a single firm with financial losses and liquidity requirements that largely could be covered by nonfederal resources). Shifting those types of cases from the FDIC to the bankruptcy courts probably would have no significant net effect on the budget.

Pay-As-You-Go considerations: The Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act of 2010 establishes budget-reporting and enforcement procedures for legislation affecting direct spending or revenues. CBO estimates that any changes in direct spending and revenues under H.R. 1667 would be insignificant over the 2017–2027 period.

Increase in long-term direct spending and deficits: CBO estimates that enacting the legislation would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2028.

Estimated impact on state, local, and tribal governments: H.R. 1667 contains no intergovernmental mandates as defined in UMRA.

Estimated impact on the private sector: H.R. 1667 would impose a private-sector mandate, as defined in UMRA, on entities that have certain types of contracts with bank holding companies or large financial institutions that enter the bankruptcy process established under the bill. The bill would limit the contractual rights that those entities have under current law by imposing a temporary stay on actions to terminate or modify such contracts for 48 hours after a bankruptcy petition is filed. Limiting the ability of those entities to take such actions as collection of collateral, acceleration of debt, or closeout netting of derivatives during that two-day period could cause them to incur losses. The cost of the mandate would amount to any losses sustained by such parties as result of the stay.

As the bankruptcy process under the bill is reserved for large financial institutions, the potential losses for the parties affected by a stay could be quite substantial. However, because of uncertainty about both the number and value of contracts that would be affected and the amount of losses that would occur as a result of this provision, CBO cannot determine whether the cost of the mandate would exceed the annual threshold established in UMRA for private-sector mandates ($156 million in 2017, adjusted annually for inflation).

Estimate prepared by: Federal costs: Kathleen Gramp; Impact on state, local, and tribal governments: Rachel Austin; Impact on the private sector: Logan Smith.

Estimate approved by: H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

DUPLICATION OF FEDERAL PROGRAMS

No provision of H.R. 1667 establishes or reauthorizes a program of the Federal government known to be duplicative of another Federal program, a program that was included in any report from GAO to Congress pursuant to section 21 of Public Law 111–139, or a program related to a program identified in the most recent Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance.

DISCLOSURE OF DIRECTED RULE MAKINGS

The Committee estimates that H.R. 1667 specifically directs to be completed no specific rule makings within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. § 551.

PERFORMANCE GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

The following discussion describes the bill as reported by the Committee.

Section 1. Short title

Sets forth the short title of the legislation as the “Financial Institution Bankruptcy Act of 2017.”

Section 2. General provisions relating to covered financial corporations

Subsection (a) amends Bankruptcy Code section 101, which defines various terms used throughout the Bankruptcy Code, to add the definition of “covered financial corporation.” In sum, the term is defined as a bank holding company, as defined in the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956 (BHCA),<sup>28</sup> or a corporation that: exists for the primary purpose of owning subsidiaries; has consolidated assets of $50 billion or more; and derives annual gross revenues from activities that are financial in nature as defined in the BHCA or with respect to which at least 85% of the company’s consolidated assets are financial in nature as defined in the BHCA.<sup>29</sup>

Subsection (b) of the bill amends Bankruptcy Code section 103, which specifies those provisions that apply to the Bankruptcy Code’s substantive titles. Subsection (b) provides that subchapter V of chapter 11 (as added by the legislation) will only apply to chapter 11 cases in which a covered financial corporation is the debtor. To be clear, to the extent a covered financial corporation could utilize the chapter 11 process and chooses not to invoke the subchapter V process, that covered financial corporation can still choose to pursue a “traditional” chapter 11 case.

Subsection (c) amends Bankruptcy Code section 109, which sets forth the eligibility criteria to be a bankruptcy debtor, to provide that a covered financial corporation is eligible to be a chapter 11 debtor.

Subsection (d) amends Bankruptcy Code section 1112, which authorizes conversion of a chapter 11 case to a chapter 7 case or the dismissal of the chapter 11 case under certain, specified circumstances. This subsection adds new subsection (g) to section 1112 to permit the conversion of a subchapter V case to a chapter 7 case, if: (1) a transfer approved under new section 1185 (as added by the bill) has been consummated; (2) the court has ordered the appointment of a special trustee under new section 1186 (as added by the bill); and (3) the court finds that such conversion is in the best interest of creditors and the estate.

Subsection (e)(1) amends Bankruptcy Code section 726(a)(1) to accord first payment priority to the fees, costs, and expenses of a special trustee appointed under new section 1186. Subsection (e)(2) makes two amendments to Bankruptcy Code section 1129(a), which sets forth the requirements for confirmation of a chapter 11 case. First, it requires the fees, costs, and expenses of a special trustee to have been paid or for the subchapter V plan to provide for such payment. Second, it requires the court to find that confirmation of a subchapter V plan is not likely to cause adverse effects on financial stability in the United States.

Subsection (f) provides that a U.S. Trustee will recommend to the court the amount of a bond necessary in the event of a trustee appointment in a subchapter V case.

Section 3. Liquidation, reorganization, or recapitalization of a covered financial corporation

Section 3 inserts a new subchapter V into chapter 11 designed to address a bankruptcy of a covered financial corporation. All further references are to the new sections added to chapter 11 by the bill.

§ 1181. Inapplicability of other sections

Specifies that Bankruptcy Code sections 303 (authorizing the commencement of an involuntary bankruptcy case, under certain circumstances) and 321(c) (which permits the United States Trustee to serve as a trustee in a bankruptcy case) do not apply to a subchapter V case. Also, specifies that Bankruptcy Code section 365 does not apply to the transfer under subchapter V. Sections 1185, 1187, and 1188 provide a complete list of considerations for the bankruptcy court regarding the transfer of assets, executory contracts, unexpired leases and qualified financial contracts such that section 365, which deals with the transfer and assignment of executory contracts and unexpired leases, is unnecessary in the context of a subchapter V case.

§ 1182. Definitions for this chapter

Defines the following terms: Board; bridge company; capital structure debt; contractual right; qualified financial contract; and special trustee.

§ 1183. Commencement of a case concerning a covered financial corporation

Subsection (a) authorizes the voluntary commencement of a subchapter V case if the debtor states under penalty of perjury that it is a covered financial corporation.

Subsection (b) provides that a subchapter V case commenced by the debtor constitutes an order for relief.

Subsection (c) shields a debtor's board of directors from any liability to shareholders, creditors or other parties in interest for a good faith filing of a subchapter V petition or any reasonable action taken in good faith in contemplation of such a petition or a transfer under sections 1185 and 1186, as added by the bill.

Subsection (d) requires the debtor's counsel to provide as much advance notice as practicable, without disclosing the identity of the potential debtor, to the chief judge of the court of appeals for the circuit embracing the district in which the debtor's counsel intends to file the petition for relief about the potential subchapter V case. This allows time for the chief judge to select randomly the presiding bankruptcy judge from the pool of pre-designated experienced bankruptcy judges. Additionally, this allows the selected bankruptcy judge time to prepare for weekend bankruptcy proceedings.

Provides the Federal Reserve, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency of the Department of the Treasury, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, and the FDIC with standing in a subchapter V bankruptcy case.

§ 1185. Special transfer of property of the estate

On request of the debtor, subsection (a) authorizes the bankruptcy court to order a transfer of estate property and the assignment of executory contracts and unexpired leases to a bridge company after notice and a hearing that must occur not less than 24 hours after commencement of the case. This subsection also clarifies that all property transferred is no longer property of the estate. Subsection (a) further provides that Bankruptcy Code section 363 (concerning sales of bankruptcy case assets) apply to such transfer, unless otherwise specified.

Subsection (b) requires not less than 24 hours' notice of the hearing under subsection (a), to be provided either by electronic or telephonic means, and identifies who must receive such notice.

Subsection (c) provides that the court may not order a transfer unless it determines by a preponderance of the evidence that: (1) the transfer is necessary to prevent serious adverse effects on financial stability in the United States; (2) the transfer does not provide for the assumption of any capital structure debt by the bridge company; (3) the transfer does not provide for the transfer of the debtor's equity; (4) the debtor has demonstrated that the bridge company is not likely to fail to meet the obligations of any debt, executory contract, qualified financial contract or unexpired lease assumed and assigned to such company; (5) the bridge company after the transfer has adequate provision for fees, costs, and expenses of the special trustee; (6) all of the bridge company's equity securities are transferred to a special trustee; (7) adequate provision has been made for the payment of the expenses of the bankruptcy estate and the special trustee; and (8) the bridge company has governing documents and initial directors and senior officers that are in the best interests of creditors and the estate.

With respect to property of the estate that is subject to a lien securing a debt, executory contract, unexpired lease or agreement of the debtor, subsection (c)(3) specifies that the transfer of this secured property may not be authorized unless:

(A) the bridge company assumes such debt, executory contract, unexpired lease, qualified financial contract or agreement, and the property remains subject to such lien securing such debt, executory contract, unexpired lease, qualified financial contract or agreement and the court determines that assumption of such debt, executory contract, unexpired lease, qualified financial contract or agreement by the bridge company is in the best interests of the estate; or

(B) such property is being transferred to the bridge company in accordance with the provisions of section 363.

Subsection (d) requires the bridge company to: (1) not have any property (e.g., executory contracts, unexpired leases, qualified financial contracts) or debts immediately prior to the transfer; and (2) have equity securities that are property of the estate, which may be sold or distributed subject to the limitations contained in subchapter V.

Requires the section 1185 transfer order to provide that the debtor transfer to the special trustee all of the equity securities in the bridge company, and for the bridge company's equity to be held in trust for the sole benefit of the estate, subject to the payment of the special trustee's fees, costs, and expenses. The court must approve the trust agreement as being in the best interests of the estate. The trust must exist solely for the purpose of holding, administering, and disposing of the bridge company's equity securities. Subsection (a)(2) requires the debtor to confirm to the court that the Federal Reserve was consulted regarding the identity of the proposed special trustee and advise the court of the results of such consultation.

Subsection (b) specifies that the trust agreement governing the trust must satisfy certain requirements. These requirements include: (1) the trust must provide for the payment of the special trustee's fees, costs, expenses, and indemnities from the assets of the debtor's estate; (2) the special trustee must prepare a quarterly report to the estate that is filed with the court; (3) the special trustee must provide information about the bridge company as reasonably requested by a party in interest to prepare a disclosure statement for a plan providing for distribution of any securities of the bridge company; (4) as long as the equity securities of the bridge company are held by the trust, the special trustee must file with the court a notice regarding any change in the management of the bridge company, its governing documents, and any material corporate action of the company; (5) any sale of any equity securities of the bridge company may not be consummated until the special trustee consults with the FDIC and the Federal Reserve regarding such sale, and discloses the results of such consultation with the court; and (6) the proceeds of the sale of any equity securities of the bridge company by the special trustee must be held in trust for the benefit of, or transferred to, the estate.

Subsection (c)(1) requires the special trustee to distribute the trust assets in accordance with a confirmed chapter 11 plan on its effective date or as ordered by the court if the subchapter V case is converted to a case under chapter 7. Subsection (c)(2) specifies that the office of the special trustee terminates as soon as practicable after final distribution.

Subsection (d) specifies that after the transfer of the bridge company's equity is made to the special trustee under this section, such trustee is subject only to applicable nonbankruptcy law and the trustee is no longer subject to the control of the bankruptcy court.

§ 1187. Temporary and supplemental automatic stay; assumed debt

Extends the "automatic stay" triggered by the filing of a chapter 11 case to creditors who entered into contracts, leases, agreements and debt contracts with the debtor or its affiliates. Contrary to the typical automatic stay, which often can extend for the duration of the bankruptcy case and only is for the benefit of the entities that file for bankruptcy, the stay provided for under this section extends both to the debtor and to its affiliates. This section provides for temporary relief so that the debtor's and its affiliates' essential contracts, leases and agreements that are critical for the future operation of the bridge company can be transferred without disruption. The stay that benefits the debtor expires no later than 48 hours after the commencement of the case, or earlier if the transfer order is entered, or the case is dismissed, within the 48-hour time period. In order to allow the bridge company to operate, the stay covering ipso facto clauses, or contract provisions that relate to the insolvency of the debtor or the commencement of a bankruptcy case, continues for the benefit of affiliates. This extension of the stay to affiliates terminates if the transfer order does not provide for the transfer of the affiliate's interests to the bridge company, the case is dismissed, a transfer order is denied, or after 48 hours if a transfer order has not been ordered.

This section also provides that certain Bankruptcy Code provisions authorizing the termination of the automatic stay apply, subject to the satisfaction of the relevant conditions contained in those sections of the Bankruptcy Code.

This section also allows the bridge company to assume debts, executory contracts (other than a qualified financial contract), or unexpired leases of the debtor notwithstanding anti-assignment provisions contained in those contracts. To the extent that a default has occurred in these contracts, other than a default predicated on the assignment of the contract, the bridge company must cure the default, compensate the counterparty for the default, and demonstrate to the bankruptcy court that the bridge company will satisfy its obligations under the contract going forward.

Qualified financial contracts are excluded from this section because their treatment is provided for in section 1188. Capital structure debt is also excluded from this section because that debt remains in the bankruptcy case and those creditors will receive their recoveries through the traditional bankruptcy process.

§ 1188. Treatment of qualified financial contracts and affiliate contracts

Extends the “automatic stay” triggered by the filing of a chapter 11 case to creditors who entered into derivative, repurchase, and similarly constructed contracts with the debtor and its affiliates. In a typical chapter 11 case, these contracts are not subject to the automatic stay and creditors may exercise certain contractual remedies upon the filing of a bankruptcy case. This section provides that creditors are prohibited from exercising a limited set of rights. The stay with respect to qualified financial contracts of the debtor expires on the earlier of: (1) 48 hours from the commencement of the case; (2) the transfer of the contracts to the bridge company; or (3) the bankruptcy court's entry of an order denying the transfer to the bridge company. The stay with respect to qualified financial contracts of the debtor's affiliates expires on the earlier of: (1) 48 hours from the commencement of the case if the bankruptcy court does not enter a section 1185 transfer order; (2) entry of an order denying a section 1185 transfer; (3) entry of a section 1185 transfer order that does not include the transfer of the affiliate's qualified financial contracts; or (4) the case is dismissed. The anti-assignment provisions of qualified financial contracts are restored when more than fifty percent of the bridge company's equity is no longer held by the special trustee.

While the automatic stay is in place, the debtor and its affiliates are required to perform all payment and delivery obligations under the qualified financial contracts. Any failure to fulfill these obligations results in an automatic termination of the stay. Furthermore, any failure to fulfill these obligations during any period of time results in a breach of the relevant qualified financial contract.

In order to transfer a qualified financial contract to the bridge company, the terms of the contract must continue to be honored and all of the obligations must continue to be performed. Furthermore, all of the qualified financial contracts between the entity and the debtor and/or its affiliates must be transferred to the bridge company. This provision is intended to prevent against “cherry picking” transfers of only a select number of contracts. Additionally, the financial institution must transfer all related claims and collateral along with the to-be transferred derivative contracts. This provision ensures that the counterparty has all of its rights and collateral preserved at the bridge company.

This section is critical to ensure that the bridge company can continue to operate the debtor’s business in the normal course following the transfer.

§ 1189. Licenses, permits, and registrations

Provides that the bridge company will retain the debtor’s and its affiliates’ rights and obligations under the debtor’s and its affiliates’ licenses, permits and registrations. In other words, the bridge company will continue to operate under these contracts just as the debtor operated prior to the commencement of the bankruptcy. Furthermore, the bridge company will be subject to the same regulatory oversight as the debtor following the transfer. This section also overrides all nonbankruptcy laws to prevent the termination or modification of any federal, state or local license, permit, or registration that the debtor or an affiliate had immediately before the commencement of the case, if a request is made to transfer property of the estate under section 1185 and such default is based on certain ipso facto events.

§ 1190. Exemption from securities laws and special tax provisions

Provides the same exemption granted to the securities (or equity) of a typical debtor company to the securities of the bridge company. Specifically, this provision clarifies that with respect to Bankruptcy Code section 1145 (which exempts the offer or sale of securities from certain federal, state and local laws requiring registration of such offer and sale if it occurs under a plan), a bridge company’s security shall be deemed to be the security of the debtor’s successor under a plan if the court approves the disclosure statement for the plan as having adequate information about the bridge company and its securities.

§ 1191. Inapplicability of certain avoiding powers

Provides for an exemption from the avoidance powers contained in the Bankruptcy Code for the transfer from the debtor to the bridge company. In other words, this prevents a subchapter V transfer, or certain aspects of the transfer, from being unwound at a later date.

§ 1192. Consideration of financial stability

Allows, but does not require, the bankruptcy court to consider the financial stability in the United States when rendering decisions related to a subchapter V case.

Section 4. Amendments to Title 28, United States Code

§ 298. Judge for a case under subchapter V of title 11

Provides that the Chief Justice of the United States will designate at least ten experienced bankruptcy judges to be available to hear subchapter V bankruptcy cases. Bankruptcy judges may request that they be considered for such designation by the Chief Justice. Further, this provision clarifies that the district courts will not have jurisdiction over the issues related to the appointment of a special trustee and the formation of the bridge company.

(2) The court may not convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter if the court finds and specifically identifies unusual circumstances establishing that converting or dismissing the case is not in the best interests of creditors and the estate, and the debtor or any other party in interest establishes that—

(f) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, a case may not be converted to a case under another chapter of this title unless the debtor may be a debtor under such chapter.

SUBCHAPTER II—THE PLAN

(3) The plan has been proposed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law.

(4) Any payment made or to be made by the proponent, by the debtor, or by a person issuing securities or acquiring property under the plan, for services or for costs and expenses in or in connection with the case, or in connection with the plan and incident to the case, has been approved by, or is subject to the approval of, the court as reasonable.

(5)(A)(i) The proponent of the plan has disclosed the identity and affiliations of any individual proposed to serve, after confirmation of the plan, as a director, officer, or voting trustee of the debtor, an affiliate of the debtor participating in a joint plan with the debtor, or a successor to the debtor under the plan; and

(ii) the appointment to, or continuance in, such office of such individual, is consistent with the interests of creditors and equity security holders and with public policy; and

(B) the proponent of the plan has disclosed the identity of any insider that will be employed or retained by the reorganized debtor, and the nature of any compensation for such insider.

(6) Any governmental regulatory commission with jurisdiction, after confirmation of the plan, over the rates of the debtor has approved any rate change provided for in the plan, or such rate change is expressly conditioned on such approval.

(7) With respect to each impaired class of claims or interests—

(A) each holder of a claim or interest of such class—

(i) has accepted the plan; or

(ii) will receive or retain under the plan on account of such claim or interest property of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, that is not less than the amount that such holder would so receive or retain if the debtor were liquidated under chapter 7 of this title on such date; or

(B) if section 1111(b)(2) of this title applies to the claims of such class, each holder of a claim of such class will receive or retain under the plan on account of such claim property of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, that is not less than the value of such holder's interest in the estate's interest in the property that secures such claims.

(8) With respect to each class of claims or interests—

(A) such class has accepted the plan; or

(9) Except to the extent that the holder of a particular claim has agreed to a different treatment of such claim, the plan provides that—

- (B) with respect to a class of claims of a kind specified in section 507(a)(1), 507(a)(4), 507(a)(5), 507(a)(6), or 507(a)(7) of this title, each holder of a claim of such class will receive—
- (i) if such class has accepted the plan, deferred cash payments of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, equal to the allowed amount of such claim; or
  - (ii) if such class has not accepted the plan, cash on the effective date of the plan equal to the allowed amount of such claim;
- (C) with respect to a claim of a kind specified in section 507(a)(8) of this title, the holder of such claim will receive on account of such claim regular installment payments in cash—
- (i) of a total value, as of the effective date of the plan, equal to the allowed amount of such claim;
  - (ii) over a period ending not later than 5 years after the date of the order for relief under section 301, 302, or 303; and
  - (iii) in a manner not less favorable than the most favored nonpriority unsecured claim provided for by the plan (other than cash payments made to a class of creditors under section 1122(b)); and
- (D) with respect to a secured claim which would otherwise meet the description of an unsecured claim of a governmental unit under section 507(a)(8), but for the secured status of that claim, the holder of that claim will receive on account of that claim, cash payments, in the same manner and over the same period, as prescribed in subparagraph (C).
- (10) If a class of claims is impaired under the plan, at least one class of claims that is impaired under the plan has accepted the plan, determined without including any acceptance of the plan by any insider.
- (11) Confirmation of the plan is not likely to be followed by the liquidation, or the need for further financial reorganization, of the debtor or any successor to the debtor under the plan, unless such liquidation or reorganization is proposed in the plan.
- (12) All fees payable under section 1930 of title 28, as determined by the court at the hearing on confirmation of the plan, have been paid or the plan provides for the payment of all such fees on the effective date of the plan.
- (13) The plan provides for the continuation after its effective date of payment of all retiree benefits, as that term is defined in section 1114 of this title, at the level established pursuant to subsection (e)(1)(B) or (g) of section 1114 of this title, at any time prior to confirmation of the plan, for the duration of the period the debtor has obligated itself to provide such benefits.

(14) If the debtor is required by a judicial or administrative order, or by statute, to pay a domestic support obligation, the debtor has paid all amounts payable under such order or such statute for such obligation that first become payable after the date of the filing of the petition.

(15) In a case in which the debtor is an individual and in which the holder of an allowed unsecured claim objects to the confirmation of the plan—

(A) the value, as of the effective date of the plan, of the property to be distributed under the plan on account of such claim is not less than the amount of such claim; or

(B) the value of the property to be distributed under the plan is not less than the projected disposable income of the debtor (as defined in section 1325(b)(2)) to be received during the 5-year period beginning on the date that the first payment is due under the plan, or during the period for which the plan provides payments, whichever is longer.

(16) All transfers of property under the plan shall be made in accordance with any applicable provisions of nonbankruptcy law that govern the transfer of property by a corporation or trust that is not a moneyed, business, or commercial corporation or trust.

(17) In a case under subchapter V, all payable fees, costs, and expenses of the special trustee have been paid or the plan provides for the payment of all such fees, costs, and expenses on the effective date of the plan.

(18) In a case under subchapter V, confirmation of the plan is not likely to cause serious adverse effects on financial stability in the United States.

(b)(1) Notwithstanding section 510(a) of this title, if all of the applicable requirements of subsection (a) of this section other than paragraph (8) are met with respect to a plan, the court, on request of the proponent of the plan, shall confirm the plan notwithstanding the requirements of such paragraph if the plan does not discriminate unfairly, and is fair and equitable, with respect to each class of claims or interests that is impaired under, and has not accepted, the plan.

(2) For the purpose of this subsection, the condition that a plan be fair and equitable with respect to a class includes the following requirements:

(A) With respect to a class of secured claims, the plan provides—

(i)(I) that the holders of such claims retain the liens securing such claims, whether the property subject to such liens is retained by the debtor or transferred to another entity, to the extent of the allowed amount of such claims; and

(II) that each holder of a claim of such class receive on account of such claim deferred cash payments totaling at least the allowed amount of such claim, of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, of at least the value of such holder's interest in the estate's interest in such property;

(ii) for the sale, subject to section 363(k) of this title, of any property that is subject to the liens securing such claims, free and clear of such liens, with such liens to at-

- tach to the proceeds of such sale, and the treatment of such liens on proceeds under clause (i) or (iii) of this subparagraph; or
- (iii) for the realization by such holders of the indubitable equivalent of such claims.
- (B) With respect to a class of unsecured claims—
- (i) the plan provides that each holder of a claim of such class receive or retain on account of such claim property of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, equal to the allowed amount of such claim; or
- (ii) the holder of any claim or interest that is junior to the claims of such class will not receive or retain under the plan on account of such junior claim or interest any property, except that in a case in which the debtor is an individual, the debtor may retain property included in the estate under section 1115, subject to the requirements of subsection (a)(14) of this section.
- (C) With respect to a class of interests—
- (i) the plan provides that each holder of an interest of such class receive or retain on account of such interest property of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, equal to the greatest of the allowed amount of any fixed liquidation preference to which such holder is entitled, any fixed redemption price to which such holder is entitled, or the value of such interest; or
- (ii) the holder of any interest that is junior to the interests of such class will not receive or retain under the plan on account of such junior interest any property.
- (c) Notwithstanding subsections (a) and (b) of this section and except as provided in section 1127(b) of this title, the court may confirm only one plan, unless the order of confirmation in the case has been revoked under section 1144 of this title. If the requirements of subsections (a) and (b) of this section are met with respect to more than one plan, the court shall consider the preferences of creditors and equity security holders in determining which plan to confirm.
- (d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, on request of a party in interest that is a governmental unit, the court may not confirm a plan if the principal purpose of the plan is the avoidance of taxes or the avoidance of the application of section 5 of the Securities Act of 1933. In any hearing under this subsection, the governmental unit has the burden of proof on the issue of avoidance.
- (e) In a small business case, the court shall confirm a plan that complies with the applicable provisions of this title and that is filed in accordance with section 1121(e) not later than 45 days after the plan is filed unless the time for confirmation is extended in accordance with section 1121(e)(3).

- (2) the transfer does not provide for the assumption of any capital structure debt by the bridge company;
- (3) the transfer does not provide for the transfer to the bridge company of any property of the estate that is subject to a lien securing a debt, executory contract, unexpired lease or agreement (including a qualified financial contract) of the debtor unless—

(A)(i) the bridge company assumes such debt, executory contract, unexpired lease or agreement (including a qualified financial contract), including any claims arising in respect thereof that would not be allowed secured claims under section 506(a)(1) and after giving effect to such transfer, such property remains subject to the lien securing such debt, executory contract, unexpired lease or agreement (including a qualified financial contract); and

(ii) the court has determined that assumption of such debt, executory contract, unexpired lease or agreement (including a qualified financial contract) by the bridge company is in the best interests of the estate; or

(B) such property is being transferred to the bridge company in accordance with the provisions of section 363;

(4) the transfer does not provide for the assumption by the bridge company of any debt, executory contract, unexpired lease or agreement (including a qualified financial contract) of the debtor secured by a lien on property of the estate unless the transfer provides for such property to be transferred to the bridge company in accordance with paragraph (3)(A) of this subsection;

(8) after giving effect to the transfer, adequate provision has been made for the fees, costs, and expenses of the estate and special trustee; and

(9) the bridge company will have governing documents, and initial directors and senior officers, that are in the best interest of creditors and the estate.

(d) Immediately before a transfer under this section, the bridge company that is the recipient of the transfer shall—

(1) not have any property, executory contracts, unexpired leases, qualified financial contracts, or debts, other than any property acquired or executory contracts, unexpired leases, or debts assumed when acting as a transferee of a transfer under this section; and

(2) have equity securities that are property of the estate, which may be sold or distributed in accordance with this title.

§ 1186. Special trustee

(a)(1) An order approving a transfer under section 1185 shall require the trustee to transfer to a qualified and independent special trustee, who is appointed by the court, all of the equity securities in the bridge company that is the recipient of a transfer under section 1185 to hold in trust for the sole benefit of the estate, subject to satisfaction of the special trustee's fees, costs, and expenses. The trust of which the special trustee is the trustee shall be a newly formed trust governed by a trust agreement approved by the court as in the best interests of the estate, and shall exist for the sole purpose of holding and administering, and shall be permitted to dispose of, the equity securities of the bridge company in accordance with the trust agreement.

(2) In connection with the hearing to approve a transfer under section 1185, the trustee shall confirm to the court that the Board has been consulted regarding the identity of the proposed special trustee and advise the court of the results of such consultation.

(b) The trust agreement governing the trust shall provide—

(2) that the special trustee provide—

(A) quarterly reporting to the estate, which shall be filed with the court; and

(B) information about the bridge company reasonably requested by a party in interest to prepare a disclosure statement for a plan providing for distribution of any securities of the bridge company if such information is necessary to prepare such disclosure statement;

(3) that for as long as the equity securities of the bridge company are held by the trust, the special trustee shall file a notice with the court in connection with—

(A) any change in a director or senior officer of the bridge company;

(B) any modification to the governing documents of the bridge company; and

(C) any material corporate action of the bridge company, including—

(i) recapitalization;

(ii) a material borrowing;

(iii) termination of an intercompany debt or guarantee;

(iv) a transfer of a substantial portion of the assets of the bridge company; or

(v) the issuance or sale of any securities of the bridge company;

(4) that any sale of any equity securities of the bridge company shall not be consummated until the special trustee consults with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Board regarding such sale and discloses the results of such consultation with the court;

(5) that, subject to reserves for payments permitted under paragraph (1) provided for in the trust agreement, the proceeds of the sale of any equity securities of the bridge company by the special trustee be held in trust for the benefit of or transferred to the estate;

(6) the process and guidelines for the replacement of the special trustee; and

(7) that the property held in trust by the special trustee is subject to distribution in accordance with subsection (c).

(c)(1) The special trustee shall distribute the assets held in trust—

(A) if the court confirms a plan in the case, in accordance with the plan on the effective date of the plan; or

(B) if the case is converted to a case under chapter 7, as ordered by the court.

(2) As soon as practicable after a final distribution under paragraph (1), the office of the special trustee shall terminate, except as may be necessary to wind up and conclude the business and financial affairs of the trust.

(d) After a transfer to the special trustee under this section, the special trustee shall be subject only to applicable nonbankruptcy law, and the actions and conduct of the special trustee shall no longer be subject to approval by the court in the case under this subchapter.

§ 1187. Temporary and supplemental automatic stay; assumed debt

(a)(1) A petition filed under section 1183 operates as a stay, applicable to all entities, of the termination, acceleration, or modification of any debt, contract, lease, or agreement of the kind described in paragraph (2), or of any right or obligation under any such debt, contract, lease, or agreement, solely because of—

(A) a default by the debtor under any such debt, contract, lease, or agreement; or

(B) a provision in such debt, contract, lease, or agreement, or in applicable nonbankruptcy law, that is conditioned on—

(i) the insolvency or financial condition of the debtor at any time before the closing of the case;

(ii) the commencement of a case under this title concerning the debtor;

(iii) the appointment of or taking possession by a trustee in a case under this title concerning the debtor or by a custodian before the commencement of the case; or

(I) of the debtor at any time after the commencement of the case;

(II) of an affiliate during the period from the commencement of the case until 48 hours after such order is entered;

(III) of the bridge company while the trustee or the special trustee is a direct or indirect beneficial holder of more than 50 percent of the equity securities of—

(aa) the bridge company; or

(bb) the affiliate, if all of the direct or indirect interests in the affiliate that are property of the estate are transferred under section 1185; or

(IV) of an affiliate while the trustee or the special trustee is a direct or indirect beneficial holder of more than 50 percent of the equity securities of—

(aa) the bridge company; or

(D) any agreement under which an affiliate issued or is obligated for debt.

(3) The stay under this subsection terminates—

(A) for the benefit of the debtor, upon the earliest of—

(i) 48 hours after the commencement of the case;

(ii) assumption of the debt, contract, lease, or agreement by the bridge company under an order authorizing a transfer under section 1185;

(iii) a final order of the court denying the request for a transfer under section 1185; or

(iv) the time the case is dismissed; and

(B) for the benefit of an affiliate, upon the earliest of—

(i) the entry of an order authorizing a transfer under section 1185 in which the direct or indirect interests in the affiliate that are property of the estate are not transferred under section 1185;

(ii) a final order by the court denying the request for a transfer under section 1185;

(iii) 48 hours after the commencement of the case if the court has not ordered a transfer under section 1185; or

(iv) the time the case is dismissed.

(4) Subsections (d), (e), (f), and (g) of section 362 apply to a stay under this subsection.

(b) A debt, executory contract (other than a qualified financial contract), or unexpired lease of the debtor, or an agreement under which the debtor has issued or is obligated for any debt, may be assumed by a bridge company in a transfer under section 1185 notwithstanding any provision in an agreement or in applicable nonbankruptcy law that—

(1) prohibits, restricts, or conditions the assignment of the debt, contract, lease, or agreement; or

(2) accelerates, terminates, or modifies, or permits a party other than the debtor to terminate or modify, the debt, contract, lease, or agreement on account of—

(A) the assignment of the debt, contract, lease, or agreement; or

(B) a change in control of any party to the debt, contract, lease, or agreement.

(c)(1) A debt, contract, lease, or agreement of the kind described in subparagraph (A) or (B) of subsection (a)(2) may not be accelerated, terminated, or modified, and any right or obligation under such debt, contract, lease, or agreement may not be accelerated, terminated, or modified, as to the bridge company solely because of a provision in the debt, contract, lease, or agreement or in applicable nonbankruptcy law—

(A) of the kind described in subsection (a)(1)(B) as applied to the debtor;

(B) that prohibits, restricts, or conditions the assignment of the debt, contract, lease, or agreement; or

(C) that accelerates, terminates, or modifies, or permits a party other than the debtor to terminate or modify, the debt, contract, lease or agreement on account of—

(i) the assignment of the debt, contract, lease, or agreement; or

(ii) a change in control of any party to the debt, contract, lease, or agreement.

(2) If there is a default by the debtor under a provision other than the kind described in paragraph (1) in a debt, contract, lease or agreement of the kind described in subparagraph (A) or (B) of subsection (a)(2), the bridge company may assume such debt, contract, lease, or agreement only if the bridge company—

(A) shall cure the default;

(B) compensates, or provides adequate assurance in connection with a transfer under section 1185 that the bridge company will promptly compensate, a party other than the debtor to the debt, contract, lease, or agreement, for any actual pecuniary loss to the party resulting from the default; and

(C) provides adequate assurance in connection with a transfer under section 1185 of future performance under the debt, contract, lease, or agreement, as determined by the court under section 1185(c)(4).

§ 1188. Treatment of qualified financial contracts and affiliate contracts

(a) Notwithstanding sections 362(b)(6), 362(b)(7), 362(b)(17), 362(b)(27), 362(o), 555, 556, 559, 560, and 561, a petition filed under section 1183 operates as a stay, during the period specified in section 1187(a)(3)(A), applicable to all entities, of the exercise of a contractual right—

(1) to cause the modification, liquidation, termination, or acceleration of a qualified financial contract of the debtor or an affiliate;

(2) to offset or net out any termination value, payment amount, or other transfer obligation arising under or in connection with a qualified financial contract of the debtor or an affiliate; or

(3) under any security agreement or arrangement or other credit enhancement forming a part of or related to a qualified financial contract of the debtor or an affiliate.

(b)(1) During the period specified in section 1187(a)(3)(A), the trustee or the affiliate shall perform all payment and delivery obligations under such qualified financial contract of the debtor or the affiliate, as the case may be, that become due after the commencement of the case. The stay provided under subsection (a) terminates as to a qualified financial contract of the debtor or an affiliate immediately upon the failure of the trustee or the affiliate, as the case may be, to perform any such obligation during such period.

(2) Any failure by a counterparty to any qualified financial contract of the debtor or any affiliate to perform any payment or delivery obligation under such qualified financial contract, including during the pendency of the stay provided under subsection (a), shall constitute a breach of such qualified financial contract by the counterparty.

(c) Subject to the court's approval, a qualified financial contract between an entity and the debtor may be assigned to or assumed by the bridge company in a transfer under, and in accordance with, section 1185 if and only if—

(1) all qualified financial contracts between the entity and the debtor are assigned to and assumed by the bridge company in the transfer under section 1185;

(2) all claims of the entity against the debtor in respect of any qualified financial contract between the entity and the debtor (other than any claim that, under the terms of the qualified financial contract, is subordinated to the claims of general unsecured creditors) are assigned to and assumed by the bridge company;

(3) all claims of the debtor against the entity under any qualified financial contract between the entity and the debtor are assigned to and assumed by the bridge company; and

(4) all property securing or any other credit enhancement furnished by the debtor for any qualified financial contract described in paragraph (1) or any claim described in paragraph (2) or (3) under any qualified financial contract between the entity and the debtor is assigned to and assumed by the bridge company.

(d) Notwithstanding any provision of a qualified financial contract or of applicable nonbankruptcy law, a qualified financial contract of the debtor that is assumed or assigned in a transfer under section 1185 may not be accelerated, terminated, or modified, after the entry of the order approving a transfer under section 1185, and any right or obligation under the qualified financial contract may not be accelerated, terminated, or modified, after the entry of the order approving a transfer under section 1185 solely because of a condition described in section 1187(c)(1), other than a condition of the kind specified in section 1187(b) that occurs after property of the estate no longer includes a direct beneficial interest or an indirect beneficial interest through the special trustee, in more than 50 percent of the equity securities of the bridge company.

(e) Notwithstanding any provision of any agreement or in applicable nonbankruptcy law, an agreement of an affiliate (including an executory contract, an unexpired lease, qualified financial contract, or an agreement under which the affiliate issued or is obligated for debt) and any right or obligation under such agreement may not be accelerated, terminated, or modified, solely because of a condition described in section 1187(c)(1), other than a condition of the kind specified in section 1187(b) that occurs after the bridge company is no longer a direct or indirect beneficial holder of more than 50 percent of the equity securities of the affiliate, at any time after the commencement of the case if—

(1) all direct or indirect interests in the affiliate that are property of the estate are transferred under section 1185 to the bridge company within the period specified in subsection (a);

(2) the bridge company assumes—

(A) any guarantee or other credit enhancement issued by the debtor relating to the agreement of the affiliate; and

- (B) any obligations in respect of rights of setoff, netting arrangement, or debt of the debtor that directly arises out of or directly relates to the guarantee or credit enhancement; and
- (3) any property of the estate that directly serves as collateral for the guarantee or credit enhancement is transferred to the bridge company.

§ 1189. Licenses, permits, and registrations

(a) Notwithstanding any otherwise applicable nonbankruptcy law, if a request is made under section 1185 for a transfer of property of the estate, any Federal, State, or local license, permit, or registration that the debtor or an affiliate had immediately before the commencement of the case and that is proposed to be transferred under section 1185 may not be accelerated, terminated, or modified at any time after the request solely on account of—

- (1) the insolvency or financial condition of the debtor at any time before the closing of the case;
- (2) the commencement of a case under this title concerning the debtor;
- (3) the appointment of or taking possession by a trustee in a case under this title concerning the debtor or by a custodian before the commencement of the case; or
- (4) a transfer under section 1185.

(b) Notwithstanding any otherwise applicable nonbankruptcy law, any Federal, State, or local license, permit, or registration that the debtor had immediately before the commencement of the case that is included in a transfer under section 1185 shall be valid and all rights and obligations thereunder shall vest in the bridge company.

§ 1190. Exemption from securities laws

For purposes of section 1145, a security of the bridge company shall be deemed to be a security of a successor to the debtor under a plan if the court approves the disclosure statement for the plan as providing adequate information (as defined in section 1125(a)) about the bridge company and the security.

§ 1191. Inapplicability of certain avoiding powers

A transfer made or an obligation incurred by the debtor to an affiliate prior to or after the commencement of the case, including any obligation released by the debtor or the estate to or for the benefit of an affiliate, in contemplation of or in connection with a transfer under section 1185 is not avoidable under section 544, 547, 548(a)(1)(B), or 549, or under any similar nonbankruptcy law.

§ 1192. Consideration of financial stability

The court may consider the effect that any decision in connection with this subchapter may have on financial stability in the United States.

CHAPTER 85—DISTRICT COURTS; JURISDICTION

§ 1334. Bankruptcy cases and proceedings

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, the district courts shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction of all cases under title 11.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (e)(2), and notwithstanding any Act of Congress that confers exclusive jurisdiction on a court or courts other than the district courts, the district courts shall have original but not exclusive jurisdiction of all civil proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in or related to cases under title 11.

(c)(1) Except with respect to a case under chapter 15 of title 11, nothing in this section prevents a district court in the interest of justice, or in the interest of comity with State courts or respect for State law, from abstaining from hearing a particular proceeding arising under title 11 or arising in or related to a case under title 11.

(2) Upon timely motion of a party in a proceeding based upon a State law claim or State law cause of action, related to a case under title 11 but not arising under title 11 or arising in a case under title 11, with respect to which an action could not have been commenced in a court of the United States absent jurisdiction under this section, the district court shall abstain from hearing such proceeding if an action is commenced, and can be timely adjudicated, in a State forum of appropriate jurisdiction.

(d) Any decision to abstain or not to abstain made under subsection (c) (other than a decision not to abstain in a proceeding described in subsection (c)(2)) is not reviewable by appeal or otherwise by the court of appeals under section 158(d), 1291, or 1292 of this title or by the Supreme Court of the United States under section 1254 of this title. Subsection (c) and this subsection shall not be construed to limit the applicability of the stay provided for by section 362 of title 11, United States Code, as such section applies to an action affecting the property of the estate in bankruptcy.

(e) The district court in which a case under title 11 is commenced or is pending shall have exclusive jurisdiction—

(1) of all the property, wherever located, of the debtor as of the commencement of such case, and of property of the estate; and

(2) over all claims or causes of action that involve construction of section 327 of title 11, United States Code, or rules relating to disclosure requirements under section 327.

(f) This section does not grant jurisdiction to the district court after a transfer pursuant to an order under section 1185 of title 11 of any proceeding related to a special trustee appointed, or to a bridge company formed, in connection with a case under subchapter V of chapter 11 of title 11.
