

116TH CONGRESS
1ST SESSION

H. R. 1653

To ensure that the United States recognizes women's varied roles in all aspects of violent extremism and terrorism and promotes their meaningful participation as full partners in all efforts to prevent and counter violent extremism and terrorism, and for other purposes.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MARCH 8, 2019

Ms. FRANKEL (for herself, Mr. CHABOT, Mr. KEATING, Mr. WILSON of South Carolina, Ms. SPANBERGER, Mr. ZELDIN, Ms. MENG, Ms. HOULAHAN, Mr. COHEN, and Mr. FITZPATRICK) introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and in addition to the Committee on Armed Services, for a period to be subsequently determined by the Speaker, in each case for consideration of such provisions as fall within the jurisdiction of the committee concerned

A BILL

To ensure that the United States recognizes women's varied roles in all aspects of violent extremism and terrorism and promotes their meaningful participation as full partners in all efforts to prevent and counter violent extremism and terrorism, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-

2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the "Women and Coun-

5 terning Violent Extremism Act of 2019".

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2 Congress finds the following:

3 (1) Women play diverse roles in violent extremist organizations, including as victims, perpetrators, and preventers.

6 (2) Extremist groups benefit strategically and financially from the subjugation of women. Terrorist groups violate the rights of women and girls, from sexual enslavement and forced marriages to limiting their access to education and public life. Violent extremist groups have used women and girls as rewards for new recruits and as part of their recruitment efforts. According to the 2016 U.S. State Department's Country Reports on Terrorism, "In 2015 and 2016, ISIS abducted, systematically raped, and abused thousands of women and children [in Iraq and Syria], some as young as eight years of age. Women and children were sold and enslaved, distributed to ISIS fighters as spoils of war, forced into marriage and domestic servitude, or subjected to physical and sexual abuse.". In northern Nigeria, Boko Haram has kidnapped and subjected thousands of women and girls to physical abuse, forced labor, forced marriage and sexual abuse.

25 (3) As perpetrators of violent extremism and terrorism, women adopt all roles, including as in-

1 formants, facilitators, recruiters, and suicide bombers.
2 Empowering women may diminish their support
3 for violent extremist organizations by increasing 4 their sense of agency.

5 (4) Seeing women as partners empowers them
6 to detect early signs of radicalization, intervening 7 before individuals become violent and delegitimizing
8 violent extremist narratives. Analysis by the Council 9 on Foreign Relations concluded that, “Anti-ter-10 rorism messages are disseminated quite effectively 11 throughout families and communities by women, who 12 can challenge extremist narratives in homes, schools 13 and social environments, and have particular influ-14 ence among youth populations.”.

15 (5) Extremist groups take strategic advantage 16 of the relative absence of women in police and mili-
17 tary forces. As security officials, women provide dis-18 tinct insights, information, and analyses that can be 19 mission-critical in keeping the peace. They may have 20 access to populations and sites that men do not, al-21 lowing them to gather critical intelligence about po-22 tential security threats.

23 (6) Research has demonstrated a relationship 24 between the security of women and the security of 25 states. According to a Texas A&M study, less em-

1 powerment for women in the household correlates 2 with less stability nationwide, measured by political 3 instability, lack of freedoms, autocracy, corruption, 4 and internal conflict. Countries where women are 5 less empowered at the household level are also more 6 likely to produce foreign fighters going to territory 7 controlled by terrorist organizations.

8 (7) Counterterrorism policy has not been as ef-9 fective at understanding how women can improve se-10 curity efforts. According to the June 2016 U.S. Na-
11 tional Action Plan on Women, Peace and Security, 12 “A narrow understanding of women’s roles in CVE 13 [countering violent extremism] limits policy options
14 and perpetuates strategic blind spots, such as failing 15 to recognize women’s agency as potential mitigators 16 and perpetrators of violence.”.

17 (8) According to a 2015 United States Agency 18 for International Development study of women’s 19 participation in violent extremism, there has been “a 20 marked gap in CVE [countering violent extremism]
21 programming, which has focused mostly on male 22 participation, without a commensurate reflection on 23 and response to female-specific drivers and recruit-24 ment strategies.”.

1 (9) The “Department of State & USAID Joint 2 Strategy on Countering Violent Extremism”, dated 3 May 2016, notes that “women can play a critical 4 role in identifying and addressing drivers of violent 5 extremism in their families, communities, and broader 6 society”; and commits to supporting programs 7 that engage women “as key stakeholders in preventing 8 and countering violent extremism in their 9 communities”. Women are on the front lines of observing 10 and countering extremist violence, including as police officers engaging with local communities to 11 prevent violent extremism, imams and other religious leaders preaching religious tolerance, and as those 12 countering efforts to radicalize their husbands, children, and communities.

16 (10) The Women, Peace, and Security Act of 17 2017 (Public Law 115–68) established that “Women 18 in conflict-affected regions have achieved significant 19 success in moderating violent extremism [and] countering 20 terrorism.”.

21 (11) The Consolidated Appropriations Act, 22 2017 (Public Law 115–31) required the creation of 23 a comprehensive, inter-agency United States Government 24 strategy to support women and girls at risk from 25 extremism and conflict. Congress has also allo-

1 cated $45,000,000 to support women and girls at 2 risk from extremism and conflict.

3 SEC. 3. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

4 It shall be the policy of the United States to recognize 5 women's varied roles in all aspects of violent extremism 6 and terrorism, including as victims, perpetrators, and pre-7 venters, and to promote the meaningful participation of 8 women as full partners in all efforts to prevent and 9 counter violent extremism and terrorism.

10 SEC. 4. AUTHORIZATION OF ASSISTANCE TO WOMEN-LED 11 AND WOMEN'S EMPOWERMENT ORGANIZA-
12 TIONS.

13 The President is authorized to provide assistance to 14 non-United States-based women-led and women's em-15 powerment organizations in foreign countries working on 16 countering violent extremism and terrorism in such coun-17 tries, including for the following purposes:

18 (1) Supporting capacity-building efforts of such 19 organizations and of women preventing and coun-20 tering violent extremism and terrorism, including in 21 the use of conflict analysis tools and methodologies.

22 (2) Ensuring representation of women in work-
23 ing groups and initiatives discussing countering vio-
24 lent extremism and terrorism policies, strategies, 25 and analyses, and seeking the input of such working

1 groups and initiatives in the design of countering 2 violent extremism and terrorism programs, including 3 policies and programs led by the security sector.

4 (3) Supporting projects that advance efforts to 5 prevent or counter violent extremism and terrorism.

6 (4) Encouraging national, regional, and local 7 platforms for information exchange between female 8 activists from countries facing violent extremism or 9 terrorism so they can share experiences and learn 10 best practices.

11 SEC. 5. WOMEN, PEACE, AND SECURITY STRATEGY.

12 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (a) of section 5 of the 13 Women, Peace, and Security Act of 2017 (22 U.S.C.
14 2152j–1; Public Law 115–68) is amended—

15 (1) in paragraph (1), by striking “and” after 16 the semicolon at the end;

17 (2) in paragraph (2), by striking the period at 18 the end and inserting “; and”; and

19 (3) by adding at the end the following new 20 paragraph:

21 “(3) include a section on countering violent ex-22 tremism and terrorism that addresses—

23 (A) women’s contributions to preventing 24 and countering violent extremism and ter-

1 rorism, including through their community, reli-
2 gious, and security roles;

3 “(B) preventing, detecting, and countering 4 women’s involvement in violent extremism and 5 terrorism, including their roles as informants, 6 facilitators, recruiters, and suicide bombers;

7 “(C) how violent extremist and terrorist 8 groups target women and infringe on their 9 rights and safety, and on the broader relation-10 ship between gender-based violence and extre-11 mism and terrorism;

12 “(D) the gender dimensions of disar-
13 mament, demobilization, and reintegration ac-
14 tivities, including women’s positive engagement
15 and participation in such efforts and the disar-
16 mament of women combatants; and

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsection (a) of this section shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this section and apply beginning with the first Women, Peace, and Security Strategy that is required to be submitted pursuant to section 5 of the Women, Peace, and Security Act of 2017 after such date of enactment.

1 SEC. 6. WOMEN AND GIRLS AT RISK FROM VIOLENT EXTRE-

2 MISM AND CONFLICT STRATEGY.

3 Paragraph (2) of section 7059(e) of the Department
4 of State, Foreign Operations, and Related Programs Ap-5 propriations Act, 2017 (division J of Public Law 115–31; 6 relating to the strategy to support women and girls who 7 are at risk from extremism and conflict) is amended by 8 inserting “and every four years thereafter” after “Act”.

9 SEC. 7. TRAINING FOR UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT OFFI-

10 CIALS.

11 Section 6 of the Women, Peace, and Security Act of 12 2017 (22 U.S.C. 2152j–2; Public Law 115–68) is amend-13 ed—

14 (1) in subsection (a), by adding at the end the 15 following new paragraph:

16 “(4) Preventing and countering violent extre-17 mism and terrorism.”; and 18 (2) in subsection (b)(1), by inserting “pre-19 venting and countering violent extremism,” after 20 “resolution.”.

21 SEC. 8. TRAINING PROVIDED BY THE UNITED STATES GOV-

22 ERNMENT.

23 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of State shall seek 24 to increase the participation of women receiving training 25 under the Department of State’s Anti-Terrorism Assist-26 ance (ATA) programs, with the goal of doubling by the

1 date that is three years after the date of the enactment 2 of this Act the total number of women receiving such 3 training as of such date of enactment.

4 (b) ANTITERRORISM ASSISTANCE.—Section 572 of 5 the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2349aa– 6 1) is amended—

7 (1) in paragraph (2), by striking “and” after
8 the semicolon at the end;

9 (2) in paragraph (3), by striking the period at 10 the end and inserting “; and”; and

11 (3) by adding at the end the following new 12 paragraph:

13 “(4) to encourage foreign countries to include 14 women participating in such activities.”.

15 SEC. 9. RESEARCH.

16 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Defense, Sec-
17 retary of State, and the Administrator of the United 18 States Agency for International Development, in consulta-
19 tion with the Secretary of Homeland Security and the Di-20 rector of National Intelligence, shall conduct research on 21 gender and countering violent extremism and terrorism, 22 such as on the following:

23 (1) The root and proximate causes of women’s 24 and men’s participation in terrorist and violent ex-25 tremist organizations.

1 (2) How both violent extremism and countering 2 violent extremism differently impact women and 3 girls versus men and boys.

4 (3) Ways to engage women and girls who are 5 vulnerable to extremist and terrorist behavior.

6 (4) Ways women and girls can assist in identi-7 fying individuals of concern.

8 (5) The intersection of violent extremism and 9 terrorism and the following:

10 (A) Gender-based violence.

11 (B) Women's empowerment at the house-
12 hold level, such as property and inheritance 13 rights, bride-price and dowry, and the level of 14 societal sanction for the killing or harming of 15 women.

16 (C) Adolescent girls' empowerment, such 17 as the level of early, child, and forced marriage, 18 and of girls' access to secondary education.

19 (6) Best practices to support women preventing 20 and countering violent extremism and terrorism.

21 (b) UTILIZATION.—The Secretary of Defense, Sec-
22 retary of State, and the Administrator of the United 23 States Agency for International Development shall utilize 24 the results of research required under subsection (a) to 25 inform programming, including by updating relevant coun-

1 try, regional, and inter-agency strategies, projects, and ac-2 tivities, of the Department of Defense, the Department of 3 State, and the United States Agency for International De-4 velopment, respectively.

5 (c) SUBMISSION TO CONGRESS.—Not later than two 6 years after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Sec-
7 retary of Defense, Secretary of State, and the Adminis-
8 trator of the United States Agency for International De-9 velopment shall jointly submit to the appropriate congres-10 sional committees a report on the results of research re-11 quired under subsection (a).

12 SEC. 10. ANNUAL COUNTRY REPORTS ON TERRORISM.

13 Section 140 of the Foreign Relations Authorization 14 Act, Fiscal Years 1988 and 1989 (22 U.S.C. 2656f) is 15 amended—

16 (1) by redesignating subsections (c) through (e) 17 as subsections (d) through (f), respectively; and 18 (2) by inserting after subsection (b) the fol-19 lowing new subsection:

20 “(c) GENDER ANALYSIS.—

21 “(1) IN GENERAL.—The report required under 22 subsection (a) of this section shall include, for not 23 fewer than five foreign countries considered in such 24 report, a gender analysis of the conflict drivers, 25 power dynamics, and impacts that are relevant to 1 violent extremism in each such country, such as the 2 following:

3 “(A) Terrorist recruitment practices.

4 “(B) Drivers of radicalization.

5 “(C) Women’s participation, status, and 6 agency in their homes, communities, and soci-
7 ety, including whether such women experience
8 subordination, exclusion or gender-based vio-
9 lence.

10 “(D) Access to resources and services.

11 “(2) SELECTION CRITERIA.—Foreign countries
12 shall be selected for purposes of the gender analysis 13 required under paragraph (1) on the basis of the fol-14 lowing:

15 “(A) Low levels of gender equality in such 16 country.

17 “(B) Access necessary to conduct such a 18 gender analysis in such country.

19 “(C) Engagement or attempted engage-20 ment of organizations, including organizations 21 led by women, to empower women to prevent 22 and counter violent extremism and terrorism in 23 such country.

24 “(D) Other criteria as determined by the 25 Secretary of State.”.

1 SEC. 11. REPORT TO CONGRESS.

2 (a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than one year after the 3 date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of State, 4 in conjunction with the Administrator of the United States
5 Agency for International Development and the Secretary
6 of Defense, shall provide a briefing and submit to the ap-7 propriate congressional committees a report on the imple-8 mentation of this Act.

9 (b) PUBLIC AVAILABILITY.—The report required
10 under subsection (a) shall be posted and made available
11 on a text-based, searchable, and publicly available internet 12 website.

13 SEC. 12. DEFINITIONS.

14 In this Act:

15 (1) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMIT-
16 TEES.—The term “appropriate congressional com-17 mittees” means—

18 (A) the Committee on Foreign Relations,
19 the Committee on Armed Services, the Com-
20 mittee on Homeland Security and Govern-
21 mental Affairs, and the Committee on Approp-22 priations of the Senate; and

23 (B) the Committee on Foreign Affairs, the 24 Committee on Armed Services, the Committee
25 on Homeland Security, and the Committee on 26 Appropriations of the House of Representatives.

1 (2) COUNTERING VIOLENT EXTREMISM.—The 2 term “countering violent extremism” means proac-
3 tive actions to counter efforts by violent extremists 4 to radicalize, recruit, and mobilize followers to vio-5 lence and to address specific factors that facilitate 6 violent extremist recruitment and radicalization to 7 violence.

8 (3) TERRORISM.—The term “terrorism” has 9 the meaning given such term in subsection (d) of 10 section 140 of the Foreign Relations Authorization
11 Act, Fiscal Years 1988 and 1989 (22 U.S.C. 2656f).
