A BILL

ployees in certain occupations with evidence of unpredictable and unstable scheduling practices that negatively affect employees, and for other purposes.

2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; FINDINGS.

4 (a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the 5 “Schedules That Work Act”.

6 (b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

7 (1) The vast majority of the United States
8 workforce today is juggling responsibilities at home
9 and at work. Women are primary breadwinners or 10 co-breadwinners in 64 percent of families in the 11 United States.

12 (2) Despite the dual responsibilities of today’s 13 workforce, both hourly and salaried workers often 14 have little ability to make changes to their work
15 schedules when those changes are needed to accom-
16 modate family responsibilities.

17 (3)(A) Mothers working in low-wage jobs are 18 more likely to be the primary or sole breadwinner for 19 their families than mothers working in higher-wage 20 jobs. For example, nearly 7 in 10 mothers in the 21 one-fifth of households in the United States with the 22 lowest incomes bring home all or most of their fami-

1 lies' income, compared to less than one-third of their 2 counterparts in the highest-income quintile.

3 (B) At the same time, low-wage workers have 4 the least control over their work schedules and the 5 most unpredictable schedules. Across industries,
6 more than half (55 percent) of low-paid hourly work-
7 ers report that they receive a week or less of notice
8 of their work schedules, and nearly two-thirds (65 9 percent) report that their employer controls the tim-10 ing of their work hours. In some industries, “just-11 in-time” scheduling practices, which base workers’
12 schedules on perceived consumer demand to mini-
13 mize labor costs, are particularly common. Employ-
14 ers using these practices often post work schedules
15 with little notice, vary work hours widely from week
16 to week, cancel shifts at the last minute, and sched-
17 ule employees for “on call” shifts (requiring an em-
18 ployee to call in to work to find out whether the em-19 ployee will have to work later that day) or 20 “clopening” shifts (requiring an employee to work a 21 closing shift at night followed by an opening shift a 22 few hours later). For example, surveys of nearly 23 30,000 hourly workers employed by the 80 largest 24 retail and food service chains in the United States 25 show that—

1 (i) about two-thirds of hourly retail and 2 food service workers receive their work sched-
3 ules with less than 2 weeks' advance notice;

4 (ii) more than one in 4 hourly retail and 5 food service workers have been scheduled for 6 on-call shifts, and half have worked "clopening" 7 shifts; and

8 (iii) only one in 5 hourly retail and food
9 service workers report working a regular day-
10 time schedule.

11 (4) Unfair work scheduling practices make it 12 difficult for low-wage workers to—

13 (A) provide necessary care for children and 14 other family members, including securing and 15 maintaining stable child care;

16 (B) access and receive needed care for the 17 workers' own serious health conditions;

18 (C) pursue workforce training;

19 (D) get or keep a second job, which many 20 workers need to make ends meet;

21 (E) plan for and access transportation to 22 reach worksites; and

23 (F) qualify for and maintain eligibility for 24 needed public benefits and work supports, such 25 as child care subsidies and benefits under the

1 supplemental nutrition assistance program, due
2 to fluctuations in income and work hours.

3 (5) A growing body of research demonstrates 4 that unstable and unpredictable work schedules have 5 significant detrimental impacts on sleep quality, 6 mental health, and happiness, and are associated 7 with unstable child care arrangements and negative 8 health and behavioral outcomes for children. These 9 work schedules—and the work-family conflict they 10 produce—are also associated with higher rates of 11 turnover, which creates further instability for em-
12 ployers and workers. Workers of color are also more 13 likely than their White counterparts, even compared 14 to White coworkers at the same company, to experi-
15 ence unstable work schedules. For example:

16 (A) Unstable work schedules lead to more
17 household economic strain and time conflicts, 18 and hurt the well-being of parents. While 19 household economic strain, time conflicts, and 20 the well-being of parents may all negatively im-
21 pact the health and behavior of a child, a par-22 ent's well-being is the most significant factor in 23 determining the behavior and health outcomes
24 of a child. The more severe the work schedule

1 instability, the worse the child’s behavior and 2 health outcomes.

3 (B) The exposure of a parent to on-call
4 shifts and last-minute shift changes are associ-
5 ated with more unstable child care arrange-
6 ments and with the use of siblings to provide 7 care.

8 (C) Work schedule instability causes more
9 work-family conflict, which increases the chance
10 that a worker will be forced to leave his or her
11 job. This turnover is associated with downward
12 mobility of the worker’s earnings.

13 (D)(i) Relative to White workers, workers 14 of color are more likely to—

15 (I) have cancelled shifts;

16 (II) have on-call shifts;

17 (III) be involuntary part-time work-
18 ers;

19 (IV) have trouble getting time off;

20 and

21 (V) work “clopensing” shifts, as de-
22 scribed in paragraph (3)(B).

23 (ii) The statistics described in clause (i) re-
24 main true after controlling for demographics,
25 human capital, worker power, firm segregation,

1 and discordance with the race or ethnicity of 2 the worker and the manager. Race gaps in job
3 quality are greater for women of color.

4 (E) Workers who receive shorter advanced 5 notice, those who work on-call shifts, those who 6 experience last minute shift cancellation and 7 timing changes, and those with more volatile
8 work hours are more likely to experience hun-
9 ger, residential hardships, and more overall eco-
10 nomic hardship.

11 (6) Unpredictable and unstable work schedules
12 are common in a wide range of occupations, with 13 evidence of particular concentration in food service,
14 retail, cleaning, hospitality, and warehouse occupa-
15 tions. These occupations are critically important to 16 the United States economy.

17 (7) Employers that have implemented fair work
18 scheduling policies that allow workers to have more 19 control over their work schedules, and provide more 20 predictable and stable schedules, have experienced
21 significant benefits, including reductions in absentee-
22 ism and workforce turnover, and increased worker
23 morale and engagement. For example, when Gap
24 Inc. piloted strategies to make work schedules more 25 stable and predictable for employees, the Gap Inc.

1 stores that implemented these strategies experienced 2 higher productivity, and a 7-percent increase in 3 sales, compared to those Gap Inc. stores that did not 4 implement these strategies.

5 (8) This Act is a first step in responding to the 6 needs of workers for a voice in the timing of their 7 work hours and for more predictable schedules.
