21 SEC. 102. REDWOOD NATIONAL AND STATE PARKS RES-
22 TORATION.

23 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

1 (1) Coast redwoods are an iconic California re-
2 source that represents the beauty and natural gran-
3 deur of the Golden State.

4 (2) These ancient redwood forests contain the 5 tallest trees on Earth, which grow to be more than 6 3,500 years old.

7 (3) Redwood forests serve as the most effective
8 forest-based carbon sink in the world, storing 3
9 times or more carbon per acre than any other forest 10 ecosystem.

11 (4) Healthy old-growth redwood forests provide 12 important ecological benefits, including clean air, 13 habitat for special status plants and animals, and 14 water resources that are critical to the health and 15 sustainability of federally listed salmon fisheries.

16 (5) Redwood forests are true wonders of the 17 world, inspiring more than 31 million visitors every 18 year in California's redwood parks and supporting a 19 multi-billion dollar outdoor recreation economy.

20 (6) The redwood forests of northern California
21 are the ancestral home of several tribal nations,
22 whose members use stewardship and natural re-
23 source management expertise to protect and restore
24 these forestlands.

1 (7) After the 1849 Gold Rush, demand for lum-
2 ber devastated ancient redwood forests and today
3 only 5 percent of the original old-growth coast red-
4 woods remain.

5 (8) Redwood National and State Parks safe-
6 guard more than one-third of the world's remaining
7 old-growth coast redwood forests.

8 (9) These parks contain tens of thousands of 9 acres of redwood forests that have been logged, and 10 require innovative application of science and tech-
11 nology to improve forest stewardship and accelerate 12 forest regeneration.

13 (10) Restoration of these forest ecosystems will 14 hasten the return of healthy old-growth forests,
15 while providing jobs in local communities and en-
16 hancing native habitat for numerous plant and ani-
17 mal species.

18 (11) Redwood National and State Parks are 19 partnering with nongovernmental organizations and 20 tribes to restore these redwood forest ecosystems.

21 (12) Redwood forest restoration benefits the 22 people of California for generations to come.

23 (b) PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENTS.—The Secretary of 24 the Interior is authorized to undertake initiatives to re-
25 store degraded redwood forest ecosystems in Redwood Na-

1 tional and State Parks in partnership with the State of 2 California, local agencies, and nongovernmental organiza-
3 tions.

4 (c) COMPLIANCE.—In carrying out any initiative au-
5 thorized by subsection (a), the Secretary of the Interior
6 shall comply with all applicable law.
