

Sadly, some in the Republican Leadership have not demonstrated a concern for the children. The obstruction of the House-passed border bill dishonored our values, denigrated our immigrant heritage, and endangered little children.

Every day that Senator MCCONNELL delays this bill—and every vote against it—is a stain on the collective conscience of the Congress. I urge a strong, bipartisan vote of conscience for this legislation.

Ms. KUSTER of New Hampshire. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

NOT VOTING—1

Moulton

□ 2003

Ms. SHALALA, Messrs. MCEACHIN, BRINDISI, STAUBER, Mses. HERRERA BEUTLER, CLARKE of New York, and WILSON of Florida changed their vote from "aye" to "no."

Messrs. GREEN of Tennessee, MEADOWS, NORMAN, and HARRIS changed their vote from "no" to "aye."

So the amendment was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. AGUILAR). The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read the third time.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. MAST. Mr. Speaker, I have a motion to recommit at the desk.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is the gentleman opposed to the bill?

Mr. MAST. In its current form, absolutely.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will report the motion to recommit.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mr. Mast moves to recommit the bill H.R. 397 to the Committee on Education and Labor with instructions to report the same back to the House forthwith with the following amendment:

In section 4(b)(1)(C), strike “and” at the end of clause (iv), redesignate clause (v) as clause (vi), and insert after clause (iv) the following:

(v) the plan will not knowingly engage in a commerce-related or investment-related boycott, divestment, or sanctions activity in the course of interstate or international commerce that is intended to undermine the existence of, penalize, inflict economic harm on, or otherwise limit commercial relations with Israel or persons doing business in Israel or Israeli-controlled territories for purposes of coercing political action by, or imposing policy positions on, the Government of Israel; and

Mr. MAST (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to dispense with the reading.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Florida?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Florida is recognized for 5 minutes in support of his motion.

Mr. MAST. Mr. Speaker, this amendment is very simple. It would prohibit pension plans receiving loans under this bill from engaging in the Boycott, Divestment, and Sanctions movement against Israel.

Understanding this MTR does not take a lot of words.

Mr. Speaker, I hear colleagues who must believe that BDS is a 1-day event occurring, so that is why it makes it even more important for us to speak about this MTR.

Now, understanding this MTR takes very few words. Let me be very blunt about this. Yesterday, as was aptly pointed out, this Chamber passed a bipartisan resolution—398 in support, 17 opposing—which opposed any efforts to delegitimize the State of Israel, condemning the BDS movement as dangerous and anti-Semitic.

Today, let’s simply continue that progress, understanding that BDS equals anti-Semitism. While anti-Semitism may be a political investment by some, it has no place in managing retirement pensions, and BDS has no place in this House.

Let us say simply, let us agree, let us plant our bipartisan flag that anti-

Semitism and BDS will have no home here in Congress and no home in this bill.

It is simple. If you are one of the 398 Members who voted last night to condemn the BDS movement, then you should support this MTR, stand with our ally Israel, and continue to combat this anti-Semitic movement.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Illinois is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong opposition to the motion to recommit offered by my Republican colleagues.

I oppose the Boycott, Divestment, and Sanctions movement, full stop. It is a movement that denies the Jewish people’s connection to the land of Israel, refuses to accept the basic idea of a Jewish state, and seeks to delegitimize Israel in international forums, on college campuses, and in global commerce.

Yesterday, this body voted overwhelmingly to condemn the global BDS movement. Mr. Speaker, 398 votes in favor—189 Republicans and 209 Democrats—united together to affirm the vital relationship between the United States and Israel, our most important ally and closest strategic partner in a difficult region in the world.

We expressed our strong, bipartisan support for a negotiated two-state solution as the best way to justly resolve the Israeli-Palestinian conflict and ensure a future for two peoples living side by side in peace, security, and prosperity.

As the lead sponsor of that resolution, I believe I speak with credibility when I say this motion to recommit, in the context both of last night’s vote and today’s critically important legislation, would not, in any way, help the fight against the global BDS movement or strengthen the U.S.-Israel relationship.

Yesterday’s bipartisan vote sent a clear, united message. Today, my Republican colleagues are undercutting this achievement with a cynical, partisan gimmick, continuing a dangerous effort to make Israel a wedge issue. It must stop.

Mr. Speaker, the underlying legislation is too important for this political ploy. We have an opportunity to pass legislation addressing a national emergency, the multiemployer pension crisis that threatens the financial security of Americans across the Nation and leaves the taxpayers on the hook for more than $100 billion over the 10-year budget window.

Let me remind my colleagues that these retirees did everything right. They planned for their retirement, people like those in the gallery today who chose, year after year, to contribute to their pensions instead of taking a wage increase.

If you support these hardworking Americans, vote “no” on this motion.

If you believe the rare effort in this House to achieve bipartisan progress is too important to undermine with cynical partisan games, vote “no” on this motion.

If you believe it is critical that the United States-Israel relationship remains bipartisan to ensure Israel’s long-term security and find a path to peace, vote “no” on this motion.

Yesterday, we spoke in a united voice in support of our ally. Let’s do it again today in support of these workers and vote down this motion.

Mr. Speaker, I yield the remainder of my time to the gentlewoman from Michigan (Ms. STEVENS).

Ms. STEVENS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this cynical, partisan motion to recommit.

The bill before us today is not a bailout. It is a backstop. It is a solution to a boiling point that we ignore at the peril of more than a million workers who are now faced with financial catastrophe in retirement.

If we do nothing with this multiemployer pension crisis, taxpayers will pay the price.

If we do nothing, our Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation will tumble.

If we do nothing, 1.3 million hardworking Americans will lose what they paid into their entire working life.

To the teamster who has played by the rules, to the carpenter who is already seeing a drop in his monthly benefits, we are here today to do something.

But the ringing irony, that the very people opposing this bill are some of the very people who rushed to vote to pass a tax relief act for the wealthiest corporations and the biggest banks, ballooning our deficit by $1.9 trillion. We scratch our heads and we ask, Why is it that you cannot lift a finger for the middle class?

Today, we deliver for the American people, and we save the pensions of those who have never asked for anything.

Take it from me, my friends, I know what it is like to be on the phone with the PBGC when the auto industry needed our help.

I know what that means when they tell us that these plans will run insolvent by 2025.

I know what it is like to be working in the Department of the Treasury during the largest economic crisis of our times; when Republicans and Democrats came together, shelving political dogma, to make a uniquely Federal problem right.

Butch Lewis is a good deal, and the kind of deal you make to protect our middle class and the economic security of so many. This is what you do.

Make government work for us. Contribute to the best action in the outcome of the very people—pass Butch Lewis.

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the previous question is ordered on the motion to recommit.

There was no objection.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the noes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Mr. MAST. Mr. Speaker, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This is a 5-minute vote.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 200, noes 232, not voting 0, as follows:

SEC. 15. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

It is the sense of the Congress that the men and women of the U.S. Border Patrol should be commended for continuing to carry out their duties in a professional manner, including caring for the extraordinarily high numbers of family units, unaccompanied alien children, and single adults processed in United States Customs and Border Protection facilities referenced in this Act.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Illinois is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. KINZINGER. Mr. Speaker, this motion to recommit is very simple. It affirms this Chamber's appreciation of and support for the men and women of the United States Border Patrol.

We in this Chamber know that we can debate and disagree all day long every day, and we have more than enough issues to argue about on a regular basis, but this institution makes laws. We pass the laws, and we expect those laws to be carried out faithfully.

This motion to recommit today is about recognizing the men and women of our U.S. Border Patrol who carry out the very laws that we pass for their hard work and for their dedication.

Without question, we are facing a crisis on our southern border.

Without question, we are facing a crisis on our southern border, and our facilities are overcrowded and overwhelmed. And lacking the resources, our personnel, our CBP agents are overworked, and I can tell you this because I saw it firsthand.

Now, I didn't go in a windbreaker and get a photo op. I didn't start a livestream. Mr. Speaker, I went as a lieutenant colonel in the Air National Guard on a deployment to the mission in Arizona, to the border.

And for me, going to Arizona with my unit in late February was a nice respite from the bitter cold of Illinois, but what I saw truly opened my eyes to the crisis at hand and the shortcomings that our CBP agents face with their limited resources.

This, by the way, was my fourth deployment to the border, and it was only my first under President Trump.

So what does that mean? Yes, that means that my three other border missions and my other deployments came under President Obama, who also saw the crisis at the border and the dire humanitarian concerns.

In February, I watched from above as border agents struggled to thwart migrant groups that would systematically stagger their attempts to run and cross the open border.

My fellow guardsmen shared their accounts of agents giving their last water bottles to dehydrated migrants. My fellow guardsmen shared various accounts, and one was about agents giving their last bottle of water as they came across people who were dehydrated and in a bad situation, often risking their own safety and their own health.

While my mission was nice in February, today it is pretty hot out in the desert. These agents are still expected, by their oath and by the direction of the laws of this body, to walk miles through terrible terrain that, in many cases, cannot even be accessed by vehicles. They are often met with a foot chase, sometimes with multiple people or with dangerous cartel members.

And sometimes this happens even at the end of their shift, so it means that later they are going to have to call home. They are going to have to tell their loved ones that they are not going to be home to tuck the kids in bed or say good night because duty calls.

I listened to defeated Customs and Border Protection agents talk about the emotional and physical tolls that this crisis was taking on them and their family as they grappled with these impossible tasks, and more than once it was mentioned to me the toxic rhetoric used in describing them in many cases in terms reserved for just our enemies.

I saw the compassion in a CBP agent during one of my missions as he helped a young woman we found in the desert to safety after she was left for dead by her cartel handlers because they got spooked and they ran and abandoned her.

These coyotes work for the cartels, and these cartels make money on two primary products: people and drugs. Human lives are viewed as nothing more than commodities for them, and this is what I saw firsthand. This is what I experienced with the hard-working men and women of our border, who are often the first and only defense against such tragedy.

And it is true, the CBP has effected over 3,800 migrant rescues so far this fiscal year risking their own lives to save others. If you remove CBP, you will cost lives.

And maybe people don't want to believe that, maybe it doesn't fit a narrative, but it is an undeniable fact. We have placed an unprecedented burden on our agents asking them to handle some really tough things, and for that they have been villainized.

The CBP's facilities were not designed as long-term or even short-term
