The House met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. Cuellar).

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC, December 5, 2019.

I hereby appoint the Honorable Henry Cuellar to act as Speaker pro tempore this day.

MORNING-HOUR DEBATE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 3, 2019, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning-hour debate.

The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties. All time shall be equally allocated between the parties, and in no event shall debate continue beyond 11:50 a.m. Each Member, other than the majority and minority leaders and the minority whip, shall be limited to 5 minutes.

AND STILL I RISE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Green) for 5 minutes.

Mr. Green of Texas, Mr. Speaker, and still I rise, with my mnemonic notes.

And still I rise, Mr. Speaker. I rise because I love my country. And because I love my country, I do not rise with any degree of schadenfreude. I take no pleasure in what this House is about to do. I am not gleeful.

I rise because I believe that we must do what Dr. King called to our attention when he said that, on some issues, you must do that which is neither safe nor politic nor popular. You do it because conscience tells you it is the right thing to do.

I rise to announce that I believe that we are about to do the right thing. And I know that we are doing the right thing for a multiplicity of reasons, one of which is you cannot allow the Chief Executive Officer to send a letter of ab solute, intractable defiance indicating that there will be no level of cooperation with the lawful constitutional body that is investigating actions—actions taken by the President.

You cannot allow this kind of recalcitrance to exist, because, if you do, there are no guardrails. We cannot allow a President to move through the land without guardrails. He has to know that there are boundaries.

So I rise to say, today, that this House is moving in a historic direction, that, when it is written across the pages of time that this House took the action that I believe it will take, I think we will all find that it was the right thing to do.

I rise also to say this: The Constitution allows a President to be impeached more than once. If we impeach now or at some time in the near future for one issue that we dearly should, then we find later that the President has other issues that merit impeachment, we can impeach again. There is no limit on the number of times.

I don’t think you do it needlessly. Every time I have called it to the attention of this House, there was purpose and reason behind it, and I believe that we can do it more than once if it becomes necessary.

I think the Senate ought to act. I think the Senate ought to convict. But if the Senate does not convict, it does not mean that the House is now hamstring and cannot move forward again with impeachment.

So I rise with no degree of schadenfreude. I rise with love of country and heart, and I rise understanding that Dr. King was eminently correct: There are times when we must do that which is neither safe nor politic nor popular. We do it because it is the right thing to do.

I rise because I believe we are embarking upon the right course for this House and for our history.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members are reminded to refrain from engaging in personalities toward the President.

STEMMING THE TIDE OF OPIOID OVERDOSES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from North Carolina (Ms. Foxx) for 5 minutes.

Ms. Foxx of North Carolina, Mr. Speaker, while still more work needs to be done to confront our Nation’s challenges with opioids, I am pleased to report that my home State of North Carolina is working to stem the tide and has witnessed a drop in opioid overdoses.

In my district, Surry County and its healthcare professionals, first responders, and addiction counselors deserve recognition as contributing to the county witnessing a drop of over 75 percent in opioid-related emergency room visits within the last year.

This comes as we implement one of the most significant bills that Congress passed last year, the comprehensive SUPPORT for Patients and Communities Act.

I helped introduce that legislation with bipartisan colleagues, and I am glad to report that the bill is achieving its goal in stemming the tide of addiction by improving prevention and public health efforts, enhancing treatment and recovery programs, and providing communities more tools in their fight.

Again, Mr. Speaker, more work needs to be done to confront our Nation’s challenges with opioids, but Congress laid the groundwork for this work to be done at the State and local level with the passage of the SUPPORT for Patients and Communities Act.

A HISTORIC FIGHT FOR FREEDOM AND AUTONOMY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from the Virgin Islands (Ms. PLASKETT) for 5 minutes.

Ms. PLASKETT. Mr. Speaker, I want to spend my 5 minutes to tell a story, a history story from the Virgin Islands.

This month and for the next 6 months in the Virgin Islands, we commemorate a historic fight for freedom and autonomy. On the small, 20-square-mile island of St. John, one of the earliest and longest lasting slave rebellions began on November 23, 1733. This rebellion was preceded by uncomparable conditions that slaves were living in on the island of St. John in the Virgin Islands. Conditions were devastating. The life expectancy of slaves in the Virgin Islands never went above the age of 30 years old, and this rebellion was caused by a pestilence of insects that placed 1,000 enslaved people of St. John at risk of starvation.

This caused an unprecedented amount of slaves to run away, what we call on the island “marooning,” living in the bush. This led to the vicious and inhumane Slave Code of 1733. The new rules threatened amputation, breaking on the wheel, burning alive, and other brutal punishment for those who ran away.

This, then, led to 150 slaves, all of whom were part of the Akwamu tribe from Ghana, to begin an uprising. The Akwamu hoped to turn St. John into an Akwamu-controlled state.

On the evening of November 23, the slaves entered the fort on Coral Bay with cane knives concealed in bundles of wood. They proceeded to kill all of the soldiers at the fort. Others across the island, many who were able to escape, escaped to the island of St. Thomas, where they took word to the governor. The governor then, under pressure, sent troops, sent soldiers to St. John, who were then also destroyed.

The next 10 weeks saw guerilla-style warfare between the troops and the Akwamu rebels. Afraid that the rebellion would spread to the nearby island of Tortola, the British sent reinforcements. They were quickly dispatched and quickly rode back to Tortola.

Again, John Maddox, a privateer from the island of St. Kitts, made a deal with the Danish officials to aid the quelling of St. John. He, too, was not successful.

William Vessup, an owner of a plantation, who was in dispute with the Danes, began to lure slaves onto a ship, the organizers of the rebellion, and told them that they would give them food and support if they would come on the ship. They did not fall for the trickery, and he also was dispatched.

It wasn’t until the Spanish Armada and the French came that this rebellion was able to be quelled in 1734, almost 6 months later; and with it, many were jailed. Some were sent to St. Croix to work to death, which was what they decided to give to them, and many also decided not to go back into slavery and jumped off of a cliff on the island to their death—but to freedom.

These 150 Akwamu on the island of St. John were some of the first African people in the Americas to have a sense of freedom, as volatile and short-lived as it might have been.

It is important to acknowledge, however, that, for the majority of enslaved people on the islands of St. John, St. Thomas, and St. Croix, neither outcome would lead to freedom. The enslaved people on the island of St. John and the rest of the Danish West Indies would ultimately wait another 114 years for the next rebellion for their freedom to come.

CELEBRATING THE CAREERERS OF THREE CENTRE COUNTY PUBLIC SERVANTS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. THOMPSON) for 5 minutes.

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, recently, I had the pleasure of traveling back to Pennsylvania’s 15th Congressional District to celebrate the careers of three dedicated public servants in Centre County.

Last month, Centre County Treasurer Richard Fornicola and Centre County Controller Chuck Witmer served their last day at the Centre County Courthouse and began their much-deserved retirements.

Rich Fornicola began his term as Centre County treasurer in January 2000 and has worked diligently over the past two decades overseeing every penny that was received and disbursed by Centre County, including hunting permits and fishing licenses, as well as overseeing bids for county contracts.

Chuck Witmer has spent 15 years in public service in Centre County, having served as the deputy controller for just under 4 years before being elected to serve as county controller. Over the years, Chuck has exhibited fantastic leadership that includes overseeing the county ledger, seeing the budget is adhered to, completing the county audit, and more.

This week, Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts Deb Immel will be serving her last day at the courthouse as well. Debra began her career in Centre County in 1976 as a department clerk and quickly rose through the ranks of deputy prothonotary and acting prothonotary. In 1999, Debra was elected to her current position and has served in county government ever since.

Mr. Speaker, together, these individuals have given more than 90 years of service to Centre County, and they have worked hard to make Centre County a better place to live. I would like to congratulate Rich and Chuck and Debra on their retirements and wish them all the best in their new life chapter.

HONORING THE LIFE AND SERVICE OF COACH JOHN MCKISSICK

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. CUNNINGHAM) for 5 minutes.

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of longtime Summerville High School football coach, Hall of Famer, John McKissick, who passed away on Thanksgiving Day.

Coach McKissick was the greatest high school football coach our country has ever seen. In fact, he held the record for the most wins of any football coach anywhere at any single level. Over the course of his 62-year career, he led the Green Wave to 10 State championships and 621 wins.

Coach McKissick was a mentor and a father figure to thousands of student athletes. In total, he coached over 5,000 young men throughout his career.

I had the honor of attending his funeral earlier this week, and I got to meet several of his former players, many in their fifties, sixties, seventies, and even eighties, who all told me about the incredible impact he had on their lives.

He famously told his players that it is not about the Xs and Os; it’s about the Jims and the Joes. He called his players his boys. He treated them like family because they were, and that feeling was mutual.

It is impossible to imagine high school football or Summerville without him, but his amazing legacy will live on forever.

May God bless his family, his friends, former players, and the entire Summerville community.

RECOGNizing THE NEWBERRY FIRE DEPARTMENT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. NORMAN) for 5 minutes.

Mr. NORMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the heroic actions by members of the Newberry Fire Department.

On March 1, 2019, the alpha shift, comprised of Captain Andrew Morris, Lieutenant Brian Beck, Senior Engineer Benjamin Dukes, firefighter Richard Doran, and volunteer firefighter Barry Brown, were working a wreck on Third Street when they received an urgent call of a hit-and-run incident on Louis Rich Road.

The firefighters responded to the call and found the victim of the hit and run completely unresponsive. The firefighters immediately performed CPR on the victim and as a result of these actions, the person gained a pulse and began breathing. The brave actions of these dedicated public servants resulted in a life being saved, and in the words of the late Prime Minister of Great Britain Winston Churchill, who said the following: There are times when doing one’s best is not good enough. One must do what is required. The brave firefighters of Newberry Fire Department’s alpha shift did what was required, and as a result, a life was saved.

CONGRATULATING SARI FELDMAN ON HER RETIREMENT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. FUDGE) for 5 minutes.

Ms. FUDGE. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to recognize and congratulate Sari Feldman on her recent retirement as the executive director of the Cuyahoga County Public Library.

Ms. Feldman began her tenure at the Cleveland Public Library in 1997 as head of community services, later serving as deputy director. In 2003, Ms. Feldman was named the executive director of the Cuyahoga County Public Library where she oversaw one of the country’s busiest public libraries for 16 years.

Ms. Feldman’s leadership was instrumental to strengthening the libraries across Cuyahoga County and ensuring they were prepared to engage and serve the community in the 21st century.

Throughout her time as executive director, she directed an expansive $110 million capital improvement program for the county’s libraries and navigated the library system through significant cuts in State funding without reducing hours or service.

From 2015 to 2016, Ms. Feldman also served as the president of the American Library Association, a testament to her importance not only to northeast Ohio but to the entire Nation.

Mr. Speaker, I thank Ms. Feldman for her enduring leadership, service, and dedication to engaging and empowering the Cuyahoga County community.

I congratulate her successor, Tracy Strobel, the new executive director for the Cuyahoga County Public Library.

As a northeast Ohio native with decades of experience, I trust Tracy will continue to advance Cuyahoga County Public Library’s mission of being at the center of community life where reading, lifelong learning, and civic engagement thrive.

AMERICANS SHOULD RENEW IN THEIR HEARTS OUR NATION’S MOTTO

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CONAWAY) for 5 minutes.

Mr. CONAWAY. Mr. Speaker, our Nation’s motto of “In God We Trust” is inscribed on the wall above our heads. The word “trust” is typically defined as to have confidence, faith, or hope in someone or something. In this case, it is obviously trust in God.

To have confidence or faith or hope in God requires that we know something about God. This knowledge is gained by reading and studying the inspired word of God, which is, of course, the Bible. God has revealed Himself to us in the pages of the Bible, and to trust in God means that we also trust His teachings as revealed in the Bible.

Among those teachings is a prescription for the way we should lead our lives, the way we should treat each other, and how we should rely on God and His teachings to, in fact, trust in Him.

John Adams wrote that only a moral and religious people can self-govern. In my opinion, the morals to which he is referring are laid out in God’s teachings in both the Old Testament and the New Testament.

Almost every day we hear someone ask for God’s blessings on our Nation. The next time you hear someone ask for God to bless our Nation, please ask yourself what it is about America and our Nation asking God to bless? Just what is there about our Nation that is, in fact, blesssable?

Are we asking God to bless the killing of more than 61 million babies in the last 40 years? Are we asking God to bless the rampant and incivility that permeates much of our public discourse? These and other issues cause me to fear that we are on the verge of being an unblesssable Nation.

The Old Testament is replete with times when God’s chosen people, the Nation of Israel, would stray so far from His teachings that He would subjected them to awful events and terrible circumstances to cause them to turn their hearts back to Him. I believe that we are on that same destructive path. We must ask ourselves what should we do to turn our Nation’s heart back to God? There is no legislative fix for this problem. The path to a blesssable Nation must start in the heart of each one of us. To return to the moral high ground that has allowed our Nation to prosper under God’s blessings, we must each have a moral code to live by.

For me that moral code is the Judeo-Christian code found in God’s Word. That is the moral code of each of us. It is the code that is based on truth, not on whims or feelings. This awakening of more than 61 million babies in the last 40 years.

Christian code found in God’s Word.

Some days I am better at it than others, however, and sometimes I fall back. As I try to live by His teachings every day. Some days I am better at it than others, however, but each of us must have a moral code that is based on truth, not on whims or feelings. This awakening must start now.

It can start by claiming God’s promise to the Nation of Israel that applies to our Nation, as well. It is found in II Chronicles 7:14, which says: “If my people, who are called by my name will humble themselves and pray and seek my face, turning from their wicked ways,” emphasis on wicked ways, “then I will hear them from heaven, and I will forgive their sin, and heal their land.” Each of us individually and our Nation as a whole has never needed that promise more than we need it today.

Mr. Speaker, we should renew in our hearts every day our Nation’s motto, “In God We Trust.”

DEMOCRACY IS FACING A CONSTITUTIONAL CRISIS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Michigan (Mrs. LAWRENCE) for 5 minutes.

Mrs. LAWRENCE. Mr. Speaker, more than 200 years ago, the delegates of the Constitutional Convention gathered in Philadelphia to help chart a path forward for the newly independent United States of America.

After deliberation, the Framers established a system of government with three equal branches, the legislative, executive, and judicial, to provide a system of checks and balances to ensure no single branch had too much power. After years of control by a foreign power, our Framers understood the importance of self-governance and ensuring no monarch could once again rule over our country.

Now, more than 200 years since the ratification of our Constitution, our democracy faces a constitutional crisis that the Framers never could have imagined. The office of the President of the United States, the leader of our Country, has compromised our national security to advance self-interest, this President has been complicit in Russian aggression.

That same system of checks and balances described in the Constitution over 200 years ago is now under attack. My colleagues and I, along with the Members of Congress, take an oath of office when stepping into this amazing place of our Republic to be leaders in our country, to protect, to preserve, and defend the Constitution of the United States as long as we hold office. As a part of that oath, it is my constitutional duty to protect the Constitution from all threats, even within our own government.

This June, I announced my support for the House of Representatives to begin an impeachment inquiry. In the 6 months since then, with new details revealed weekly and daily, my support for the House impeachment inquiry has never been stronger. This President has jeopardized our national security to advance self-interest, this President has been complicit in Russian aggression. voted to approve a comprehensive report outlining actions regarding Ukraine and the obstruction of justice. For 2 weeks last month, the American people heard various witnesses share their account of the President and the things that were happening in our government.

As an African American I stand here today, Mr. Speaker, and I am very sensitive to any action to oppress my right to vote. My history as an African American in this country causes me to be very perturbed. Furthermore, the report details a concerted effort by the White House to defy authorized congressional subpoenas for documents, a right the Supreme Court has affirmed Congress possesses.

During the Constitutional Convention, it was noted that Madison rose and asked his colleagues two questions: "Shall any man be above justice? Shall that man be above it who can commit the most extensive injustice?"

With great honor comes great responsibility. That responsibility has been ignored, and it has been demonstrated in the office of our President that his only interest is his self-interest and not that which is the best interest of the American people.

Mr. Speaker, Congress will be tasked with making a decision that will likely alter the course of history. However, taking the evidence into account, this is not a difficult decision. When history looks back, I will be one of the Members of Congress who kept my oath, who served and voted to protect, preserve, and defend the Constitution of the United States.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members are reminded to refrain from engaging in personalities toward the President.

RECOGNIZING DR. LYNN AND SAM COFIELD

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Kentucky (Mr. Comer) for 5 minutes.

Mr. Comer. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in special recognition of my lifelong friends, Drs. Lynn and Sam Cofield of Trigg County, Kentucky, for their remarkable careers and outstanding contributions to their local community and beyond. This year marks their retirement, and I want to congratulate Lynn and Sam for many decades of success.

Lynn and Sam met while attending veterinary school at Auburn University. They married in 1984 and bought the Trigg County Veterinary Clinic located in Cadiz, Kentucky. While practicing veterinary medicine, they also managed a 160-acre farm they called Riverview West. They raised a herd of purebred Charolais cattle and quickly rose to prominence among the cattle industry. Producing and exhibiting Charolais became passions for Lynn and Sam, who continued to expand their influence in the agriculture community.

From 1986 to 1991 Lynn served as Kentucky Junior Charolais Association adviser where he was one of her many students who traveled the livestock show circuit with the Cofield family. Lynn was also active in many organizations over the years ranging from 4H and FFA to Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association.

Mr. Comer. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to recognize the work of the Kentucky Magistrates and Commissioners Association headquartered in Frankfort, Kentucky.

On October 30, 2019, the Association provided over 600 new pairs of shoes to Monroe County schools. The shoes were delivered to my hometown and my former school Tompkinsville Elementary. I am deeply grateful to the elected magistrates and commissioners who made this donation on behalf of the KMCA. Their actions represent the best of the Commonwealth and make me proud to represent one of its six congressional districts.

I want to particularly thank several members of the KMCA from the Monroe County Fiscal Court: Magistrates Jamie Veach, Roger Deckard, Ricky Bartley, Ricky Graves, and Mark Williams, in addition to county judge, Mitchell Page. I also want to thank my good friend, J.C. Young, executive director of the Kentucky Magistrates and Commissioners Association for spearheading the effort.

Mr. Comer. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to recognize Greg Schneider for his dedication to the advancement of ag education.

Greg Schneider was recently awarded the honorary American FFA degree through his commitment to the advancement of ag education. The degree recognizes those who have gone beyond valuable daily contributions to make a positive difference in the lives of their students.

The Royal cheerleading squad has displayed dedication, hard work, and spirit for them that have placed for first in the semi-State competition, the Royals returned to the State competition for a victorious first place win.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the Eastern Hancock High School cheerleading squad for winning the Indiana Cheer Championship Varsity D division.

Mr. Comer. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Greensburg Community High School agriculture teacher and FFA adviser Kris Baker.

Kris' work has earned her the 2019 Early Career Special Education Administrator Award. Ms. Baker won the award for her dedication to autism education and assistive technology at Earlywood Educational Services.

Mr. Speaker, I thank Kris for the work she has done for those in need, and I congratulate her on this honor.

RECOGNIZING SHELBYVILLE CENTRAL SCHOOL'S KRIS BAKER

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the Shelbyville Central Schools' special education coordinator, Kris Baker, for winning a prestigious education award.

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the New Palestine High School football team for winning the Indiana high school Class A football state championship. This marks the second year in a row the Dragons have gone undefeated. I applaud Coach Kyle Ralph, who now has an 88-4 record in his 7-season tenure at New Pal.

Mr. Speaker, I also congratulate the whole team for their hard work in this fantastic accomplishment. Congratulations to all the Dragon nation.

CONGRATULATING NEW PAL FOOTBALL

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the Eastern Hancock High School cheerleading squad for winning the Indiana Cheer Championship Varsity D division.

Award from the U.S. Department of Labor.

This marks the second year in a row that Analytical Engineering, Inc., has earned this esteemed award. They were 1 of only 12 companies in Indiana to win this award by hiring and retaining veterans.

As a Beirut veteran myself, I appreciate companies like Analytical Engineering for taking care of those who have served our country.

SEND NDAA TO PRESIDENT

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to urge my Democratic colleagues to stop playing political games and send the NDAA to President Trump’s desk.

The NDAA has been a bipartisan piece of legislation that we, as Congress, have passed for 58 straight years. The NDAA is essential for our men and women in uniform and for our National Defense Strategy.

Now, in the final hour, House Democrats want to wedge partisan policies into this bill. As Democrats continue to divide Congress over nondefense issues, they play right into the hands of our enemies.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to stop indulging in this political theater and pass the NDAA.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until noon today.

Accordingly (at 10 o’clock and 34 minutes a.m.), the House stood in recess.

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker at noon.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, the Reverend Patrick J. Conroy, offered the following prayer:

God of light, we give You thanks for giving us another day.

Once again we come to You to ask wisdom, patience, peace, and understanding for the Members of this people’s House.

Give them the generosity of heart and the courage of true leadership to work toward a common solution to the many issues facing our Nation.

As true statesmen and women, may they find fortitude to make judgments to benefit all Americans in their time of need.

May all that is done this day be for Your greater honor and glory.

Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day’s proceedings and announces to the House her approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. SCHNEIDER) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. SCHNEIDER led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair will entertain up to 15 requests for 1-minute speeches on each side of the aisle.

WE ARE RUNNING OUT OF TIME

(Mr. SCHNEIDER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Madam Speaker, climate change is an immediate and existential threat to our national security, economy, and the future we leave to our children.

This is a global problem that requires urgent international solutions, but the Trump administration is dangerously squandering this crucial moment. Quite simply, we are running out of time.

By formally beginning withdrawal from the Paris climate agreement, the President is ceding American leadership on climate and actively undermining critical efforts to curb emissions and transition to a clean energy economy.

As signatory countries around the world meet this week for a conference in Madrid, I am introducing a resolution, joined by more than 100 of my House colleagues as original cosponsors, condemning the administration’s actions. This resolution sends a strong message that the House opposes the President’s reckless, irresponsible decision to abandon the climate agreement, and we stand ready to fulfill the commitments that our Nation made under the Paris Agreement to address the climate threat.

I urge my colleagues to join me in this clear call for global action and critically needed U.S. leadership.

WAGES ARE RISING IN SOUTH CAROLINA

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON. Madam Speaker, yesterday, Jessica Holdman with The Post and Courier reported that wages in South Carolina rose faster than expected this year and will continue to rise. I was alerted to this by Gary David and Christopher Thompson on WVOO by iHeartRadio. I am grateful for President Donald Trump’s actions to increase wages by reducing taxes and regulations.

According to Doug Woodward, economist with the University of South Carolina’s Darla Moore School of Business, this is the best job market we have seen in a generation. USC economist Joey Von Nessen says, “workers are in high demand right now, and we are seeing strong wage growth as a result. This includes wage growth for workers across the pay scale, with those on the lower end benefiting the most.”

By creating jobs, raising wages, and consistently working to promote opportunities, President Trump is continuing his record of keeping his promises. I am grateful that President Trump is focused to work for American families and jobs, despite the failed Russian hoax and today the impeachment hoax.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and we will never forget September the 11th in the global war on terrorism.

CUTS TO SNAP AFFECT EVERYONE

(Mrs. DAVIS of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. DAVIS of California. Madam Speaker, I want to talk about the administration’s move to cut hundreds of thousands of people from SNAP, our Nation’s safety net for those faced with food insecurity.

By the USDA’s own estimates, nearly 700,000 people will be hurt by this policy. 700,000, that is appalling. That is 700,000 people who will struggle to feed themselves while they work towards getting back on their feet. That is 700,000 people who will have to decide whether to pay their bills or go hungry.

But this doesn’t just affect those who will be cut from the food assistance program, this affects everyone. SNAP dollars are spent in local small businesses and help bring money to struggling communities. Simply put, this rule will make more people go hungry and hurt our communities in the process.

In Congress, we worked together on this issue. We reached a consensus, and we passed bipartisan legislation. So this policy is not what we passed, and it is not what the American people want. I am calling on this administration to stop this cruel policy.

RECOGNIZING BITTLE PORTERFIELD

(Mr. CLINE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CLINE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to memorialize Roanoke businessman Mr. Bittle Porterfield, III, who contributed greatly to the arts, education, and business community throughout southwest Virginia.

Among the many civic leadership roles held during his lifetime, Mr. Porterfield served on the Virginia Council on Higher Education, was president of the Taubman Museum of Art, and the Roanoke Valley Chamber of Commerce in addition to being chairman of both the Roanoke Valley Business Council and the United Way of Roanoke Valley.

Mr. Porterfield believed in Roanoke's potential and knew that the Star City could play a pivotal role in cultural development. As a veteran, a Roanoke native, and an innate leader, Mr. Porterfield believed that it was his life's purpose to serve others and his community.

I am grateful for the commitment and passion Bittle Porterfield had for the Roanoke Valley and wish to extend my deepest sympathies to his family for their loss. May they find peace in knowing that his legacy of service will live on through the countless lives he touched.

CALLING ATTENTION TO LYME DISEASE

(Mr. DELGADO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. DELGADO. Madam Speaker, I rise today to call attention to an urgent issue in upstate New York. Lyme and tick-borne diseases are deeply prevalent in my district, New York 19, and across the country.

From 2007 to 2017, Lyme disease cases rose by 78 percent in my district. Approximately half of adult deer ticks in the State carry the bacteria that causes Lyme disease. We should be doing all we can to address this and invest in more effective ways to both diagnose and treat this disease.

That is why this week, I, along with fellow members of the bipartisan Lyme Disease Caucus, introduced legislation to supplement congressionally appropriated funding for research with the Stamp Out Lyme Disease Act. Our bill would create a postage stamp to raise awareness about the disease and directly support medical research to treat and cure tick-borne illnesses.

I urge the House to take up this legislation and move us closer to a cure.

RECOGNIZING THE REPEAL OF PROHIBITION

(Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the repeal of prohibition. On this day in 1933, the 21st Amendment was ratified, ending the prohibition of alcohol.

Today, throughout Pennsylvania, breweries, wineries, and distilleries have become one of the Commonwealth's fastest growing industries, and quite frankly, agri-businesses. Pennsylvania is home to more than 300 wineries, which produce more than 1.6 million gallons of wine each year. This equates to roughly $1.4 billion in economic impact.

Recently, Woody Lodge Winery, a disabled veteran and female-owned business from Cambria County, racked up six awards at the Atlantic Seaboard Wine Association competition, including two best-in-category awards.

The craft beer industry is also booming. Each year, craft brewers pump nearly $6 billion into Pennsylvania's economy and are responsible for more than 100,000 jobs and generate $2.2 billion in wages. For the past three years, Pennsylvania has been the number one producer of craft beer in the Nation.

As we look back on 13 long years of prohibition in this country, let's raise a glass to how far we have come in the 96 years since.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE STAND BEHIND THE INTERNATIONAL FIGHT TO COMBAT CLIMATE CHANGE

(Ms. BROWNLEY of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. BROWNLEY of California. Madam Speaker, this past week I had the privilege to join Speaker Pelosi and several of my colleagues at the 2019 United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change in Madrid, commonly known as COP25.

Our visit sent a message: No matter what the current President says or does, the American people stand behind the international fight to combat climate change. We are still in.

Our only chance to stop the climate crisis is for the entire world to come together on solutions to stop pollution, protect public health, and build a clean energy economy that is truly encouraged and reinvigorated by the world leaders I met in Madrid who were deeply passionate and understand the urgency in finding ways forward on this global crisis.

I pledge to bring that passion back to the House as a member of the Select Committee on the Climate Crisis as we continue our work to put together an action plan for both Congress and our country.

ADDRESS URGENT PRIORITIES OF AMERICA

(Mr. CICILLINE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. CICILLINE. Madam Speaker, it has been less than a year since Democrats took back the majority in the House. In that short time, we have passed nearly 400 bills to get government working for the people again, by increasing access to quality, affordable healthcare and protecting coverage for preexisting conditions; by raising family wages; by making bold investments in rebuilding our Nation's infrastructure; and by cleaning up corruption in Washington and getting the government to work for the people again.

We have sent more than 275 bipartisan bills to the Senate, where MITCH MCCONNELL is refusing to vote on them. These bills include legislation to protect and strengthen coverage for preexisting conditions, to ensure equal pay for equal work, and to fight back against the debilitating effects of climate change and ban offshore drilling.

We also voted to give 33 million Americans a long-overdue pay raise by raising the minimum wage, provide Gold Star families with much-needed tax relief, and secure our Nation's elections.

Yet, MITCH MCCONNELL has described himself as the “grim reaper” and won’t take up any of this legislation.

We are busy doing the work of the American people. We have passed over 375 bipartisan bills that are sitting in the Senate. It is time for the Senate to take up these bills and address the urgent priorities of the American people.

HONORING TREVON TYLER

(Ms. STEVENS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

One of their beautiful Christmas trees was selected by the President and First Lady to adorn the Blue Room in the White House during this holiday season.

The Snyder’s magnificent 23-foot Douglas fir was personally delivered last week by the Snyder family to the White House, where they were greeted by First Lady Melania Trump.

Mahantongo Valley Farm has been in the Snyder family for over 200 years, but this is the first time one of their trees has won the National Christmas Tree Contest. There are over 13,000 Christmas tree farms across the country, making this a truly remarkable accomplishment.

Madam Speaker, I would like to thank the Snyder family for their contribution to this wonderful Christmas tradition and for making Pennsylvania and particularly Pennsylvania’s Ninth District very proud.

HONORING MAHANTONGO VALLEY FARM FOR WHITE HOUSE CHRISTMAS TREE

(Mr. MEUSER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. MEUSER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Mahantongo Valley Farm owners Larry and Joanne Snyder, who reside in Pennsylvania’s Ninth District and whose farm is located in Schuylkill and Northumberland Counties.

One of their beautiful Christmas trees was selected by the President and First Lady to adorn the Blue Room in the White House during this holiday season.

The Snyder’s magnificent 23-foot Douglas fir was personally delivered last week by the Snyder family to the White House, where they were greeted by First Lady Melania Trump.

HONORING TREVON TYLER

(Ms. STEVENS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)
Ms. STEVENS. Madam Speaker, last week, tragedy struck the South Lyon community in Oakland County, Michigan, as we learned of the death of Trevon Tyler.

Just 17 years old, Trevon died from complications following knee surgery. "Trevon was a beloved member of the South Lyon community and a member of the South Lyon East High School football team. His coach called him "the nicest, most fun-loving, caring kid." He "walked with a pretty big pep in his step. He always said hi to everybody. Everybody loved him. He was a little bit of a joker, had this big laugh, always made you smile."

Trevon's incredible family, friends, classmates, and teammates are all heartbroken by his passing. His life was cut tragically short, but he will always be remembered by that smile, his laugh, his friendship, and his contributions to our community.

Today, we are called to live our lives more like Tre, with joy and love at the forefront.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CLERK OF THE HOUSE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. ScWELL of Alabama) laid before the House the following communication from the Clerk of the House of Representatives:

OFFICE OF THE CLERK,
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, DC, December 5, 2019.

Hon. NANCY PELOSI,
The Speaker, House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MADAM SPEAKER: Pursuant to the permission granted in Clause 2(b) of Rule II of the Rules of the U.S. House of Representatives, the Clerk received the following message from the Secretary of the Senate on December 6, 2019, at 9:04 a.m.:

That the Senate passed without amendment H.R. 5277.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely,

CHERYL L. JOHNSON.

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 4, VOTING RIGHTS ADVANCEMENT ACT OF 2019, AND PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H. RES. 326, EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES REGARDING UNITED STATES EFFORTS TO RESOLVE THE ISRAELI-PALESTINIAN CONFLICT THROUGH A NEGOTIATED TWO-STATE SOLUTION

Mr. RASKIN. Madam Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up H. Res. 741, providing for consideration of the sense of the House of Representatives regarding United States efforts to resolve the Israeli-Palestinian conflict through a negotiated two-state solution and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 741

Resolved, That upon adoption of this resolution it shall be in order to consider in the House the bill (H.R. 4) to amend the Voting Rights Act of 1965 to revise the criteria for determining which States and political subdivisions are subject to section 4 of the Act, and for other purposes. All points of order against consideration of the bill are waived. The amendment in the nature of a substitute recommended by the Committee on the Judiciary now printed in the bill, modified by the amendment printed in part A of the report of the Committee on Rules accompanying this resolution and preamble, as amended, is adopted. The bill, as amended, shall be considered as ordered on the bill, as amended, and on any further amendment thereto, to final passage without intervening motion except: (1) one hour of debate equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on the Judiciary; and (2) one motion to recommit with or without instructions.

SEC. 2. Upon adoption of this resolution it shall be in order without intervention of any point of order to consider in the House the resolution (H. Res. 326) expressing the sense of the House of Representatives regarding United States efforts to resolve the Israeli-Palestinian conflict through a negotiated two-state solution and reported a rule, House Resolution 741, providing for consideration of two measures.

First, the rule provides for consideration of H.R. 4, the Voting Rights Advancement Act of 2019, under a closed rule. The rule self-executes a manager's amendment offered by Chairman Nadler and provides one motion to recommit.

Additionally, the rule provides for consideration of H. Res. 326, expressing the sense of the House of Representatives regarding United States efforts to resolve the Israeli-Palestinian conflict through a negotiated two-state solution, under a closed rule.

The rule self-executes two manager's amendments offered by Chairman Nadler and provides one hour of debate equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Madam Speaker, the Voting Rights Act of 1965 is one of the great legislative achievements of American history. It is perhaps the greatest single statute of the 20th century, in a century of great statutes, including the National Labor Relations Act and the Fair Labor Standards Act.

But the Voting Rights Act was born out of the blood, sweat, and tears of the American civil rights movement; in the wake of Freedom Summer; in the murders of Schwerner, Chaney, Goodman, and other civil rights heroes; and after the famous March on Washington, where Dr. King made his "I Have a Dream" speech.

The Voting Rights Act transformed American politics by bringing into our elections millions of voters who had been disenfranchised for centuries after the Civil War ended. It changed the nature of politics in the Deep South and across the United States, and it changed the politics of the United States Congress as well.

Theoretically, the 13th, 14th, and 15th Amendments had solved the problem of disenfranchisement after the Civil War. The 13th Amendment abolished slavery; the 14th Amendment established equal protection; and the 15th Amendment banned discrimination in voting. But after the dismantling of reconstruction, African Americans were subjected to a regime of disenfranchisement that included violence, terror, grandfather clauses, literacy tests, poll taxes, and an ever-expanding panoply of devices, tricks, and tactics to keep Black people from being able to register to vote and to participate in elections.

The civil rights movement and President Lyndon Johnson fought for the Voting Rights Act, which passed in 1965 and which included a package of strong remedies targeting discriminatory voting practices and devices in the areas where discrimination was most egregious and virulent.

A key component of the Voting Rights Act was section 5, the preclearance requirement, which compelled covered States—that is, the States to which it applied—to stop discriminating and to subject all changes in their voting practices to the Department of Justice or to the United States District Court for the District of Columbia.

States were covered if they had used illegal voting discrimination devices like literacy tests, poll taxes, and character exams, and if fewer than 50 percent of the people were registered to vote or allowed to participate.
The Voting Rights Act was challenged immediately in litigation called South Carolina v. Katzenbach, but in 1966, the Supreme Court rejected arguments that the Voting Rights Act violated the Constitution.

The Supreme Court said Congress may use any rational means to effectuate the constitutional prohibition on race discrimination in voting. It upheld the preclearance requirement against attack.

Specifically, it was said by South Carolina that it violated the so-called equal footing doctrine, but the Supreme Court said that the equal footing doctrine applied to the admission of States and not to the Congress’ power under section 5 of the 14th Amendment or section 2 of the 15th Amendment.

All of this worked for the Voting Rights Act to usher in a new era of real democracy in America. The preclearance requirement meant that the States, counties, and jurisdictions that had been discriminating had to submit to the Department of Justice or to Federal court their plans for changes. That worked to enfranchise millions of voters across America. It worked to prevent the rejection of thousands of African American elected officials at the local, State, and Federal levels.

The genius of section 5 was that jurisdictions had to submit potentially discriminatory changes before they are done. Anybody can go ahead and sue under section 2 after an election is over, but then it is too late because the harm has already been done, the election has taken place. So even if you win in court, the court is not going to require all the voting to take place again, so it is too late at that point.

Section 5 puts the burden on the potentially discriminating parties to prove to the Congress that they are not discriminating when they make changes in voting laws.

It works all the way up until 2013, when the Supreme Court rendered its 5-4 decision in Shelby County v. Holder. The Shelby County case struck down the section 4(b) formula for which States were covered, declaring that this formula was now out-of-date because it went back many, many decades to the 1960s and 1970s and that the Congress would need to update the formula to address current needs in the field and to show that the formula relates to the current problems that we are targeting.

The Court said specifically that coverage was based on decades-old data and eradicated practices, like literacy tests, which don’t exist anymore. So when it got struck down, dozens of States and counties that were previously required to preclear changes related to voting didn’t have to do it anymore. They can vote very quickly, almost instantly, to roll back various kinds of voter protections and to pass strict voter identification laws, to pass massive voter purges, to implement cuts to early voting, to close polling places, and so on.

I am going to read from one of the witnesses who testified before the House Judiciary Committee, Kristen Clarke, the president and executive director of the Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights, who said:

“We have vetted complaints from tens of thousands of voters in Shelby County, many revealing systemic voting discrimination. In short, this is how Shelby County has institutionalized democracy. We have seen the resurgence of discriminatory voting practices, some motivated by intentional discrimination, and this discrimination has been most intense in the very jurisdictions that were once covered by section 5. They range from the consolidation of polling sites to make it less convenient for minority voters to vote to the curtailing of early voting hours, the purging of minority voters from the rolls under the pretext of list maintenance, strict photo ID requirements, abuse of signature match verification requirements . . . the threat of criminal prosecution, and more."

Second, we have seen increased levels of recalcitrants in hostility among elected officials who institute and re-institute discriminatory voting changes with impunity.

Third, the loss of public notice regarding changes in voting practices that could have a discriminatory effect is significant.

Fourth, the public no longer has the ability to participate in the process of reviewing practices before they take effect.

Fifth, the preclearance process had an identifiable deterrent effect that is now lost.

Sixth, the status quo is not sustainable.

Civil rights organizations are stepping up to fill the void created by the Shelby decision at insurmountable expense.

And finally, this will be the first redistricting cycle in decades in which redistricting takes place without the Voting Rights Act.

That is one example of testimony that we got from all over America about what the Shelby County v. Holder decision meant by dismantling section 5 by knocking out section 4(b) of the Voting Rights Act.

H.R. 4 is doing precisely what the Supreme Court invited us to do in the Shelby County decision: to pass a new coverage formula for the Civil Rights Act preclearance requirement based on new data in a new formula designed to address current contemporary problems.

The Judiciary Committee and the House Administration Committee had a combined total of 17 hearings: 9 on the Judiciary side with its Subcommittee on the Constitution, Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, and 8 in the House Administration Committee's Subcommittee on Elections. They heard about restrictive and discriminatory practices taking place in numerous States across the country, including Texas and Georgia, where, after the end of preclearance, Georgia voters faced a myriad of new voting barriers, including the closing of more than 200 precinct polling places, spoiled voter registration materials, purging of more than 1 million voters in a racially discriminatory way, restrictive voter ID laws, systematic rejection of absentee ballots, and more.

We also looked in North Carolina, which passed a so-called monster voter suppression law, which resulted in race discrimination in accessing the polls, including the closure of dozens of polling sites and long voting lines. The law eliminated same-day voter registration, reduced early voting by a week, curtailed satellite polling sites for elderly and disabled voters, and so on.

Madam Speaker, this legislation is the product of months of the inspection of voting conditions across the United States of America today, and it threads the needle that was offered to us by the Supreme Court in the Shelby County decision by amend-by expressing the sense of this House of Representatives that only a two-state solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict can ensure Israel's survival as a secure democratic state and fulfill the legitimate aspirations for a secure and democratic Palestinian state. Further, the House authorizes Federal courts to impose preclearance requirements on States and political subdivisions that have enacted voting procedures that treat people differently based on race in violation of the 14th and 15th Amendments.

If a Federal court finds a State or a political subdivision to have treated people differently based on race, then the court has discretion now to retain supervisory jurisdiction and impose preclearance requirements as they see fit until a future date at the court's discretion. This is all valid now without this bill.

Section 3 has been utilized recently, in fact. U.S. District Judge Roseenthal issued an opinion in a districting case that required that the city of Pasadena, Texas, be monitored by the Justice Department because it had intentionally changed its city council districts to decrease Hispanic influence.

States should be allowed to implement their own laws regarding their elections and voting security to ensure all results are accurate on election day. State and local governments know more about how to handle their elections than bureaucrats in Washington, D.C.

I applaud State and local governments that are taking the necessary steps to modernize and secure their elections. For example, in Arizona, my home State, we have made continual progress on improving voter turnout and participation.

Mr. Raskin said that the section that was taken out of the courts was genius. Well, I believe the opposite is true.

Arizona was under this outdated preclearance formula, and I can tell you personally that this section was not genius. Both Arizona Democrats and Republicans, alike, thought to have to preclear every single decision that elected election officials made with the Federal bureaucrats in Washington, D.C., was a total disaster.

Arizona now has free, open, and secure elections, despite not being under this Federal control preclearance anymore. Nearly 80 percent of Arizonans vote by mail. We have a robust online voter registration system, so it is easy to register, and we have approximately 1 month of early voting.

While Arizona has made voting easier and more accessible for voters, we have also made our elections more secure by outlining the practice of ballot harvesting. In Arizona, we believe it should be easy to vote and hard to cheat. The policies in Arizona seem to be working, as we have seen in election after election that voter turnout continues to grow.

A couple months ago, I had the opportunity to participate in a field hearing in Phoenix, Arizona, to discuss the Voting Rights Act. There, I spoke with staff of the Maricopa County Recorder, an elected Democrat. She relayed to me how disappointed they were to not have been asked to testify at this hearing as they felt that they had not been able to speak to the story of the successes in Arizona and why they were very concerned about H.R. 4. They did not want the Federal Government to intervene when they were making every single decision they made.

Think about it: They don't want to have to go back to the Federal Government every single time they change early ballots or voting locations. They, instead, are making great progress and strides. Voter turnout has soared. They don't want bureaucrats in Washington, D.C., slowing down important and timely elections.

This rule also includes H. Res. 326. I am curious why my Democratic colleagues decided to bring forward this nonbinding resolution as opposed to bringing up H.R. 336, a bill that I am personally a proud cosponsor of, which is identical to the text of S. 1, the Strengthening America's Security in the Middle East Act of 2019, which passed the Senate by a vote of 77-25—totally bipartisan—on February 5, 2019. Instead of the nonbinding resolution we have before us today, H.R. 336 would take concrete steps to counter the BDS movement against Israel.

Instead, I am saddened the Democrats brought up this resolution, a resolution that supports a two-state solution, without attempting to undermine the President, could have been bipartisan. However, this resolution singles out settlement expansion and annexation. These are some of the most delicate issues in our bilateral relationship with Israel, and it shines a spotlight on them in the middle of an ongoing conflict and concerning developments in the Trump administration.

The resolution spells out specific Palestinian Authority demands without listing critical Israeli preconditions, such as acknowledging Israel's right to exist, taking steps to create an undivided Jerusalem as Israel's capital and providing assurances for Israel's safety and security through a demilitarized zone.

As a whole, this resolution disproportionately criticizes the Israeli Government while failing to recognize the dangerous actions targeting innocent Israelis that further remove the possibility of peace.

We already voted to support a two-state solution over the summer in H. Res. 246 in a bipartisan manner.

So why do we need this partisan bill? So, Madam Speaker, I urge opposition to this rule, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RASKIN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

My good friend from Arizona chides me for having described section 5, the preclearance requirement of the Voting Rights Act, as genius, which is amazing to me because this has been a bipartisan national commitment and a bipartisan commitment in Congress since 1965 when it passed on a bipartisan basis, since 1982 when it was reauthorized on a bipartisan basis, and since 2006 when President Bush signed it, as well, and celebrated it.

So we have had Presidents Bush, Clinton, and Obama, a continuous array of Presidents, supporting it, and Congresses supporting it.

If you don’t have it, here is what happens: the NAACP Legal Defense Fund testified to us about successful litigation they had in Texas against a restrictive voter ID law that had discriminatory racial impact. They won on the lawsuit under section 2, but it was too late.

In the meantime, who was elected in Texas?
A U.S. Senator, all 36 Members of the House of Representatives, a Governor, a lieutenant governor, and so on.

The reason why section 5 is genius and why we need to restore the precoupage formula is because it requires States to submit in advance laws that could be potentially discriminatory.

I was amazed to hear again the language of federalizing control and a Federal takeover of elections when this has been a bipartisan commitment for decades grounded in the Constitution of the United States which tells us in Article I, Section 4 we can regulate elections; Section 2 of the Fifteenth Amendment saying we can regulate elections to prevent race discrimination; Section 5 of the Fourteenth Amendment, and the republican Guarantee Clause, which tells us we must guarantee to people of the States a republican form of government, which means representative government based on democracy.

Finally, I will allow my friend to portray what is going on in her State her way, and she paints a lovely picture. I would just refer her to page 25 of the Judiciary Committee report which says that the Arizona polling places were closed throughout the State, many with significant populations of Latino voters, in advance of the 2016 election. Maricopa County, 31 percent Latino, closed 171 polling places, Mohave County closed 34, and so on. There is another story to be told there which is embodied in the work.

Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. GOTTHEIMER).

Mr. GOTTHEIMER. Madam Speaker, I thank Mr. RASKIN for yielding me time.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of the rule which adopts bipartisan language which I introduced with my good friend, Congressman TOM REED and Congressman TED DEUTCH, reaffirming the United States’ ironclad commitment to providing security assistance to our historic ally, Israel, which, as ever, is key to America’s national security and our own defense, especially in our fight against terrorism.

This vote officially puts to rest the splinter view of adding new conditions on aid to Israel and reinforces our historic commitment to restoring a two-state solution.

I want to thank my good friend, House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman ELIOI ENSEL, for his leadership throughout, and for the language in his minority amendment, Madam Speaker, as we have seen in recent weeks, Israel, the democracy in the region, faces threats like no other country of missile and rocket attacks from terrorists, including Hamas, Hezbollah, and Palestinian Islamic Jihad, as well as the ongoing threat of Iranian-backed forces in Syria.

Vital security assistance to Israel, including missile defense funding for Iron Dome, David’s Sling, and Arrow 3, helps our ally to defend itself and preserve its qualitative military edge in the region. That is why in 2016 under the Obama administration, the U.S. and Israel signed a 10-year Memorandum of Understanding which constituted the single largest pledge of security assistance to Israel in American history. The MOU also increased the amount of defense dollars that go to U.S. businesses here at home, with as much as $1.2 billion a year invested in the United States.

We know that this aid helps save countless lives, and we know that the United States is better off when Israel is fully equipped to defend itself. That is why I led an amendment with my colleagues, Congressman REED and Congressman DEUTCH, which reaffirms our commitment to providing this assistance without additional conditions or exceptions.

Our amendment was cosponsored by a total of 36 Members of Congress, Republicans and Democrats, who know that this assistance should not be subject to politics. I deeply appreciate all of our colleagues’ support for our amendment, for this vital, lifesaving assistance for the bipartisan U.S.-Israel relationship.

This language is absolutely necessary because of the extreme and misguided views of some, especially several current running for our Nation’s highest office, who seemingly believe that assistance to Israel should be held hostage until Israel makes concessions according to their beliefs, including how Israel treats Gaza, which is controlled by the foreign terrorist organization Hamas.

We must stand together in rejecting that harmful view—as one Senator called it, the view of having leverage against Israel, our ally.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New Jersey has expired.

Mr. RASKIN. Madam Speaker, I yield the gentleman from New Jersey 10 additional seconds.

Mr. GOTTHEIMER. Madam Speaker, when our ally, Israel, faces more than 450 rockets fired by Palestinian and Jihad terrorists in Gaza, it must have the ability to defend itself, no matter what.
officials across the country who would be crippled if this bill were to ever become law.

H.R. 4, the Voting Rights Advancement Act, is not a Voting Rights Act reauthorization bill. This is only about preclearance, about the Democratic majority giving the Department of Justice control over all election activity.

While it is not in my committee’s jurisdiction in the House Administration Committee, our Subcommittee on Elections majority held seven field hearings and one listening session across the U.S., encompassing eight different States and over 13,000 miles of air travel. Even with this gargantuan effort, the Democrats were still unable to produce a single voter who wanted to vote and was unable to cast a ballot.

This is a great thing. We ought to celebrate it. Credit should be given to the Voting Rights Act for helping to achieve this. The 2018 midterm election produced the highest voting turnout in four decades according to data from the Census Bureau, especially among minority voters. That, again, should be celebrated.

Sections 2 and 3 of the Voting Rights Act that are currently in effect are continuing to safeguard the public from discrimination at the ballot box. Every eligible American who wants to vote in our country’s elections should be able to cast a ballot. That is why we have the Voting Rights Act, a great example of bipartisanship that is working to help Americans today and protecting Americans from discrimination.

Unfortunately, H.R. 4 is just a political attempt from the Democrats to give the Federal Government more control over how States run their elections. I have now seen four voting bills from the majority come to this floor. All of them have one common theme, and that is to federalize elections. I urge my colleagues to vote against this rule.

Mr. RASKIN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from Alabama (Ms. SEWELL), who has been such a magnificent leader on this legislation.

Ms. SEWELL of Alabama. Mr. Speaker, today I proudly rise to support the rule on H.R. 4, the Voting Rights Advancement Act of 2019.

Voting rights are primal. They are the cornerstone of our democracy. No right is more precious to our citizenship than the right of all Americans to be able to vote. When Americans are not able to cast their ballots, their votes are silenced, and we, especially as elected officials, should be alarmed if any American who wants to cast a ballot is unable to cast a ballot.

What H.R. 4 does is it restores the Voting Rights Act of 1965 by giving a new coverage formula. In fact, the Roberts Court specifically said in striking down section 4(b) that it was outdated. So H.R. 4 is our effort, the efforts of three committees, hours of testimony, lots and lots of stakeholders, and lots and lots of people who were American citizens not able to vote; it is that effort that led to a narrowly tailored new coverage formula. That new coverage formula does not look back to the 1960s or to the 1970s. It looks back 25 years, that is 1994 and going forward. It requires the adjudicated violations of voter discrimination. It is narrowly tailored, and it hits the mark as to what the Supreme Court requires us to do in saying that Congress could feel free to update its coverage formula.

The Supreme Court and Roberts, in his opinion, also said that voter discrimination still existed. It admitted that it still existed. And H.R. 4 is our effort to actually provide a modern-day voter coverage formula that will allow States and localities and the most egregious forms of discrimination to be required to preclear.

The Shelby v. Holder decision originated out of Shelby County, Alabama. I am honored every day to represent Alabama’s Seventh Congressional District. It is a district that knows all too well the importance of voting. You see, it concludes not only Birmingham and Montgomery but my hometown of Selma, Alabama. It was on a bridge in my hometown that our colleague JOHN LEWIS and so many other foot soldiers bled on that bridge for the equal right of all Americans to be able to vote.

This is exactly what H.R. 4 does. It restores the full protections of the Voting Rights Act of 1965. In so doing, it provides a mechanism by which the most egregious States and localities must preclear before the elections. It is so hard to unring the bell once an election has already taken place. So section 2, while it has been used to litigate and to get good results, it only can occur after the election has taken place.

So I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that this is not only an important piece of legislation for our Nation to ensure that every American—Americans who has the ability, who is 18 years of age or older, has the right to access a ballot box.

It is clear to me that since the Shelby v. Holder decision, so many States have now instituted voter discrimination laws. Some of them have been in the guise of voter fraud, but the Brennan Center and so many others have found that voter fraud happens minisculely in any election.

It is not about voter fraud. It is about voter suppression, suppressing the voices of certain Americans. And that is un-American, Mr. Speaker.

Just the 2018 midterm elections alone highlight the voter discrimination that occurred.

In Georgia, the Republican candidate for Governor used his power as Secretary of State to pur 53,000 voter registration records, on hold, nearly 70 percent of which belonged to African American voters.

In North Dakota, Republicans established a new requirement that voters must show an ID that they live at a residential street address. It was not enough that they had a P.O. Box. That law was a barrier to thousands of Native Americans who live on reservations and use P.O. Boxes, rather than residential street addresses.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. DOGGETT). The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Mr. RASKIN. Mr. Speaker, I yield an additional 30 seconds to the gentlewoman.

Ms. SEWELL of Alabama. Mr. Speaker, as my colleague from Maryland has shown, in Maricopa County, Arizona, which I think is where the gentlewoman is from, there is still voter discrimination.

Mr. Speaker, this is a seminal piece of legislation that will restore rights for the people. All of us, Republicans and Democrats, should be about making sure it is easier to vote, not harder to vote.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote for the rule and the underlying legislation, H.R. 4.

Mrs. LESKO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. ZELDIN), my good friend.

Mr. ZELDIN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman from Arizona for yielding me time and for her strong statement opposing the Boycott, Divestment and Sanctions movement, as well as much of the language that is in this resolution, H. Res. 326. This is actually a watered-down version of what we passed last summer. There is nothing in this resolution that we didn’t already pass almost unanimously last summer.

So, what happened? We woke up the day after that resolution passed last summer, and the Republicans wanted to pass legislation with teeth. I know that we have a lot of strong, bipartisan support for passing legislation with teeth, S.I.H.R. 336, legislation that already passed the Senate with almost 80 votes. But, unfortunately, for some of my colleagues, they woke up the next day and instead of wanting to pass legislation with teeth that would do something about it, do something about that strong statement that we made, we have been seeing this resolution passed as the main effort for the second half of this year.

In the last 2 years, Israel has been hit by over 2,600 rockets and mortars, and 1,500 of those rockets were fired from the Gaza Strip into Israel in the past year alone. Last week, every headline in the region was about Israel being bombarded with over 450 rockets, and that was just one moment in time.

This resolution fails to not only recognize these latest attacks but all the persistent assaults on innocent Israelis by Palestinian terrorists. Notice this resolution is reprimanding Israel, but it says nothing about Palestinian terrorists.

My friend on the other side of the aisle who was giving his opening remarks, was reprimanding Israel and didn’t say anything about Palestinian terrorists murdering innocent Israelis; nothing about the pay-to-slay program where the Palestinians financially reward terrorism and incite violence; nothing about denying humanitarian aid, calling jihad an obligation, and saying that they do not recognize Israel as a Jewish state.

This reality is lost in this resolution. This resolution completely fails to mention that Israel has made repeated attempts to offer peace proposals to the Palestinian Authority. Time and again, the Palestinian Authority has rejected peace proposals because they refuse publicly and privately to accept a Jewish state.

This resolution is silent on fundamental facts that shape the way Israel has dealt with this constant threat on its border. This resolution chooses to reference President Obama’s policy toward Israel and intentionally leaves out President Trump’s policy, ensuring a partisan outcome for this resolution.

Support for Israel in this Chamber has long been bipartisan. For whatever reason, the majority is choosing to advance in the resolution tomorrow that is going to have one of the most partisan votes to ever take place regarding Israel in the history of the House of Representatives. Congratulations.

H. Res. 326 undercuts the administration’s efforts to strengthen our critical alliance with our greatest ally, Israel, and the timing of this vote is fooling no one. This resolution is a clear rebuke to the Trump administration’s recent reversal of the Obama administration’s targeting of Israeli with U.N. Security Council Resolution 2334.

If House Democrats want to pass bipartisan legislation with teeth, they should bring S. H. R. 336, which has already passed the Senate, as I mentioned, with strong bipartisan support and was introduced by Congressman Michael McCaul in the House. There is even a discharge petition led by Congressman Brian Mast for this bill that has almost 200 signatures on it. If it came to a vote in this Chamber, it would pass.

How about we focus on passing legislation that gets through the House? It has already been through the Senate. It will be signed by the President. We will be doing something about that strong statement that we made last summer.

I urge all of my colleagues to vote against this rule and against this partisan resolution.

Mr. RASKIN. Madam Speaker, all I will observe is that the gentleman from New York oddly begins by attacking a resolution for being a recycled version of language we have already adopted on a massive bipartisan basis in the House. Then he closes by attacking us for this resolution being partisan and divisive in some way. Obviously, those two things don’t match up.

Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Doggett).

Mr. DOGGETT. Voting rights guarantee all of our other rights. When Americans are obstructed from freely participating in elections, our democracy is imperiled.

This bill, six long years overdue, restores a key provision of the Voting Rights Act that was wrongfully nullified by Republican-appointed justices.

How troubling that a law that President Lyndon Johnson long ago secured now is being obstructed, while our own State of Texas has become ground zero for voter suppression. State Republicans have aggressively, illegally purged voting rolls. They eliminated mobile voting to quash especially minority voters. They enacted a cumbersome voter ID law. And they horribly, illegally gerrymandered our State.

Republicans split 100 voting precincts to create the districts which I serve to to eradicate the most crookedly gerrymandered districts that weaken the accessibility and accountability of Congress Members. A three-judge Federal court with two Republican-appointed judges unanimously condemned Texas redistricting as intentionally racially discriminatory.

Fortunately, the Texas Civil Rights Project, Move ’texas, LULAC, and other groups have challenged the suppression, but this bill is essential to offer the protection that they, and our democracy, deserve.

We need preclearance in Texas. We need preclearance to clear away all the obstacles Republicans insist on imposing to ensure that our State remains a voter nonparticipation State for democracy.

Madam Speaker, let’s support H. R. 4. Mrs. LESKO. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

If we defeat the previous question, I will bring to the floor H. R. 2207, the Protect Medical Innovation Act of 2019, which most people know as the bill that will eliminate the medical device tax.

Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to extend my amendment in the RECORD, along with extraneous material, immediately prior to the vote on the previous question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. Sewell of Alabama). Is there objection to the decision of the gentlewoman from Arizona?

There was no objection.

Mrs. LESKO. Madam Speaker, H. R. 2207 was introduced by Mr. Kind from Wisconsin, and it has 233 bipartisan co-sponsors, including myself.

Since the medical device tax was imposed by the Affordable Care Act, commonly known as ObamaCare, folks have known that it was detrimental to innovation and to patient access to necessary devices and treatments. The 2.3 percent excise tax has been suspended twice because we know it is bad policy. So what are we waiting for?

Madam Speaker, we should be closing this legislation and opening the floor that showcases how we can work together. The American people need to see us united on issues as important as this. We need to stand together when opportunities like these arise to better the lives and help all of our constituents.

H. R. 2207 does just that.

Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Indiana (Mrs. Walorski).

Mrs. WALORSKI. Madam Speaker, I rise today to urge my colleagues to oppose the previous question.

If we defeat the previous question, Republicans will amend the rule to include the repeal of the medical device tax.

The medical device tax takes effect on January 1, 2020, unless Congress acts. Time is of the essence. Yet, my friends across the aisle continue to waste our time and energy and, more importantly, clock time that we need to stop this tax from going into effect.

This is a bipartisan bill with 253 of us cosponsoring it. All I am asking is that the 253 cosponsors get an opportunity before this expires to say stop this, stop the wheels from grinding. Let’s do something that counts for our fellow Americans, for seniors who are the recipients of a lot of these medical device implants.

It brings quality of life. Oftentimes, it brings the extension of very important quality of life to seniors. It is less time in hospitals. It has been proven—back up on people’s feet to engage back in the workforce and their part of the American Dream.

Instead of having nothing happening in a bipartisan way, as our fellow Americans are watching what is happening in this House, if 253 of us agree on this today, we can stop this onerous tax. We can stop costing healthcare and the exorbitant amount of increases sent back down to all of our constituents.

This is a big deal in the State of Indiana, where I come from. What we do in the State of Indiana with 300 medical device manufacturing companies supporting nearly 55,000 good-paying jobs—nationwide, the industry directly employs over half a million people.

H. R. 336, the Protect Medical Innovation Act of 2019, offers a bipartisan opportunity. It brings the extension of very important quality of life to seniors. It is less time in hospitals. It has been proven—back up on people’s feet to engage back in the workforce and their part of the American Dream.

It is no understatement to say that thousands of jobs are at stake if the medical device tax comes back in 26 days. When the tax was in effect for the 3 years of 2012 to 2015, industry lost almost 30,000 jobs nationwide, according to government data.

Madam Speaker, we should be focusing on important, urgent, bipartisan issues like this. We can do something together to make our constituents and to make our Nation better.
I urge my colleagues to support this important bill. Twenty-six days to go. We can work together. Over 250 of us are cosponsoring this legislation.

I ask, on behalf of every citizen, everybody working in the medical device industry, and for the sake of our own economy, to do something that makes sense for this country.

Mr. RASKIN. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time to close.

Mrs. LESKO. Madam Speaker, in closing H.R. 4 is totally partisan, without one Republican cosponsor; and H. Res. 326, another totally partisan bill, ties the Trump administration’s hands and embarrasses Israel.

Madam Speaker, I urge “no” on the previous question, “no” on the underlying measure, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. RASKIN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

I want to thank my friend from Arizona, who rightfully invites us to focus on legislation that will bring us together.

The gentlewoman from Indiana, who I have not had the good fortune of meeting yet, accuses me of wasting not just time, but something called “clock time,” which sounds like a really low blow.

In any event, I think our legislation actually will bring us together and should bring us together. The rule is for two pieces of legislation that I thought ought to have and would have complete bipartisan support.

The first is simply to update the preclearance coverage formula, section 4(b) in the Voting Rights Act, as we were instructed to do by the Supreme Court in the Shelby County v. Holder decision.

The Voting Rights Act is the product of a massive political and social struggle in the country to make America move forward, but it had been supported by huge bipartisan majorities in 1965, in 1982, and in 2006. Yet, today, our friends across the aisle now attack it as a Federal takeover of State elections, which is absolutely flabbergasting that the Republican Party, the party of Lincoln, is now attacking the Voting Rights Act and the preclearance requirement for being some kind of assault on Federalism when it vindicates the right of all Americans to vote, as we are not only authorized to do under the 14th and 15th Amendments, but we are obligated to do under the republican Guarantee Clause to make sure that all Americans are in a representative relationship with their government.

So I invite them to come on back over to this side of the Voting Rights Act.

Obviously, we are all for a two-state solution, as American Presidents of both parties have been for, for the last several decades, so I invite them to come back over for that, too.

This resolution cannot be both a tired rehash of everything we have done in the past, as was claimed, but also some kind of partisan departure. The partisan departure is on their side.

Madam Speaker, I urge a “yes” vote on the rule and a “yes” vote on the previous question.

The material previously referred to by Mrs. LESKO is as follows:

AMENDMENT TO HOUSE RESOLUTION 741
At the end of the resolution, add the following:
SEC. 3. Immediately upon adoption of this resolution, the House shall proceed to the consideration in the House of the bill (H.R. 2297) in the name of the Committee on Ways and Means, and (2) one motion to recommit.
SEC. 4. Clause 1(c) of rule XIX shall not apply to the consideration of H.R. 2297.

Mr. RASKIN. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question was taken; and the yeas and nays were ordered.

The CHAIR. Pursuant to the rule, the yeas and nays were ordered.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

INSIDER TRADING PROHIBITION ACT
GENERAL PROVISIONS
Ms. WATERS. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H.R. 2534 and to insert extraneous material thereon.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. RASKIN). Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from California?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

In the Committee of the Whole
Accordingly, the House has resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the consideration of the bill (H.R. 2534) to amend the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 to prohibit certain securities trading and related communications by those who possess material, nonpublic information, with Ms. SEWELL of Alabama in the chair.

The Clerk reads the title of the bill.

The CHAIR. Pursuant to the rule, the bill is considered read the first time.

General debate shall be confined to the bill and shall not exceed 1 hour equally divided and controlled by the majority and ranking member of the Committee on Financial Services.

The gentlewoman from California (Ms. WATERS) and the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HUIZENGA) each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from California.

Ms. WATERS. Madam Chairwoman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Chairwoman, I rise in strong support of H.R. 2534, the Insider Trading Prohibition Act, introduced by the gentleman from Connecticut, Representative Jim Himes.

This overdue bill creates a clear definition of illegal insider trading under the securities laws so that there is a codified, consistent standard for courts and market participants to better protect the hard-earned savings of millions of Americans and bring certainty to the U.S. securities market.

For nearly 80 years, the Securities and Exchange Commission—that is, the SEC—has sought to hold corporate insiders accountable for insider trading that involves general sales and fraud provisions and rules it has promulgated under those provisions. This has resulted in a web of court decisions that generally prohibit insiders with a duty of trust and confidence to a corporation from secretly trading on material, nonpublic corporate information for their own personal gain.

These insiders are also generally prohibited from tipping outsiders, known as tippees, who then trade on the information themselves, even though they knew it was wrongfully obtained.

But, because there isn’t a statutory definition of “insider trading,” there is uncertainty around who is subject to insider trading prohibitions; and, with various court decisions, liability for this type of violation has shifted.

For example, in 2014, an appeals court added a brand-new requirement that the tippee must not just know that information was wrongfully disclosed but must also know about the specific personal benefit that the insider received.

This decision has severely hampered the SEC’s ability to prosecute insider trading cases and, according to Preet Bharara, the former U.S. attorney for the Southern District of New York “provides a virtual roadmap for savvy hedge fund managers to insulate themselves from tippee liability by knowingly placing themselves at the end of a chain of insider information and avoiding learning details about the sources of obvious confidential and improperly disclosed information.”
So I am pleased that this bill codifies existing case law and overturns this new controversial requirement, creating a clear, consistent standard for the SEC, the courts, and market participants to follow, and does so in a way that, as Columbia Law School professor John Coffee testified before one of our subcommittees, “expands liability in ways that should not be controversial.”

I would like to commend Representative HIMES for his efforts since the bill was marked up in May in committee to ensure that it fairly reflects existing law. In addition to extensive outreach to current and former regulators and prosecutors, investor advocates, and institutional investors, Mr. HIMES also repeatedly engaged with our colleagues on the opposite side of the aisle.

As a result, Ranking Member MCEHNEY will offer an amendment which will remove unnecessary ambiguities, clarify the intent of the bill to reflect existing insider trading case law, and ensure that the bill preserves the SEC’s ability to bring bad actors to justice under other related insider trading laws.

I plan to support this amendment as a reasonable bipartisan compromise, so I urge all Members to support this commonsense bill that makes the definition of illegal trading very clear for all so that the SEC can effectively crack down on corporate insiders who illegally trade on inside information.

Madam Chair, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HUIZENGA. Madam Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Chair, preventing fraud and abuse within our financial system and cracking down on bad actors for illegal insider trading is a nonpartisan priority. This kind of fraud and illegal activity hurts everyday investors, and it also makes our markets less efficient, accurate, and reliable.

Current law prohibits trading on material insider information in breach of a fiduciary duty under the antifraud provisions of the Federal securities law. The Securities and Exchange Commission and the Department of Justice are the Federal agencies tasked with enforcing insider trading. Both agencies regularly use their authority by bringing insider trading cases against bad actors who violate our insider trading laws.

The SEC has not asked for this bill, however, unlike other bills that Republicans have voted for out of this House in this past month. Moreover, Democrats have not fully identified a problem within the current body of the law that inhibits the prosecution of bad actors who illegally trade on material, nonpublic information.

As it is written before us on the floor at this moment, this bill could potentially create more confusion and uncertainty within the law of insider trading. It could even expand liability for good faith traders, which would hurt the efficiencies of our markets, chill vital information gathering, and weaken investor confidence.

Republican and Democrat SEC chairs alike, with vastly different approaches to enforcement matters, have expressed concerns that codifying a prohibition on insider trading into one single statute. Specifically, they voiced concerns that Congress would write a law that could be both overly broad and too narrow at the same time.

I share their concerns with the bill as drafted before us today, and I am pleased to hear that the chair has indicated that the majority will be accepting the ranking member’s amendment shortly.

I am concerned that the current version of the bill, however, does not include an explicit personal benefit test, as set forth by the Supreme Court precedents. I am troubled that an unclear phrase such as “relating to the market” is overbroad and will allow judges and prosecutors to expand the law.

I am also concerned that the bill, as drafted, lacks an exclusivity provision that would make this bill the exclusive law of the land.

Finally, the rule of construction section before us is troubling, because the Financial Services Committee has not even had a chance to debate this specific language. I fear that this language could add confusion and uncertainty around insider trading laws, with some judges and prosecutors using the language to expand the bounds of insider trading law.

I do believe that the ranking member’s amendment goes a distance in clarifying that, but, as I will talk about, I will be having an amendment later on as well that I believe further clarifies that.

Drafting a statute that appropriately and accurately captures the subtleties of insider trading case law and regulations that have been shaped and finessed over decades into one single statute isn’t easy, to say the least.

Achieving bipartisan support also isn’t easy, especially when it involves nuanced and technical substance such as the body of insider trading law. My good friend Ranking Member MCEHNEY, will be offering his amendment momentarily that represents a bipartisan agreement with the author to improve the bill by including some Republican priorities and improving the bill to better track current insider trading law.

As I had mentioned, I will be offering an amendment as well in an attempt to further clarify and improve this proposal.

So while we are unsure exactly what the final product is going to look like here, I do want to commend both Mr. HIMES and Ranking Member MCEHNEY for working together to attempt to reach a bipartisan agreement to improve this bill with the amendment and to make it clear that it is Congress’ intent to codify existing law without broadening it into new areas. I hope that the author of the legislation will accept this amendment.

Madam Chair, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. WATERS. Madam Chair, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Connecticut, Mr. HIMES, the chair of the Strategic Technologies and Advanced Research Subcommittee of the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, and a valued member of the Financial Services Committee.

Mr. HIMES. Madam Chair, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding.

I rise, delighted today by our consideration of H.R. 2534, the Insider Trading Prohibition Act, because, after years of work, we are going to produce a bipartisan product which actually does address a significant challenge in insider trading law, and that is, in general, that, to date, there has existed, remarkably, no specific statutory prohibition on insider trading.

I am a believer, as I know everyone else in this Chamber is, that, if we are going to create criminal or civil liability, the legislators of the Congress of the United States should make specific how and when and under what circumstances we do so. And that is what we are doing today, I am delighted to report, in bipartisan fashion.

But let me back up for a second, for those who don’t sit on the committee or watch this particular space all that closely, just to explain why this is important.

Insider trading is an activity in which somebody who has information that they have been entrusted with, or for which they have paid or come by in some dishonest fashion, uses it to secure a market advantage. They have information that others don’t. They trade on that information, which allows them to get a material gain.

There is a problem with that, quite apart from the notion that it is only insiders or those people who are not acting based on their talent or their intelligence or their hard work, but acting based on who they know or, worse yet, who they might have paid, that they are the ones who benefit from our capital markets. I think that notion sort of strikes at the fundamental sense of fairness that we all carry around.

But, inasmuch as this behavior exists, it is profoundly damaging to the capital markets that are such a hallmark of the United States, and it is damaging because those capital markets rely on the confidence that millions of American families have out there that their hard-earned savings can be put into the market, invested, and redeployed in a way that is fair to those who will benefit and that they are doing so on a level playing field, not competing with people who may have an inside advantage.
Now, the good news here is that, in the generations preceding us, we have, in fact, prosecuted insider trading, but we have done so under antifraud provi- sions of the Securities Acts that were passed in the early 1930s; and, as a result, there is a particularly good fit between the concept of fraud and the concept of insider trading.

And to my friend Mr. HUIZENGA's point, as he knows, this has led to a vast body of court-determined law, starting with the Dirks decision in 1984, moving through Materia, Carpenter, O'Hagan, all court decisions which crafted the concept of liability around insider trading, culminating in the 2014 Newman decision by the Second Circuit, leading then to the Salman decision at the Supreme Court in 2016.

All of these cases that I have mentioned have created uncertainty about the nature of liability and created liability for bad behavior but which did not, in fact, create liability for behav- ior like doing a little extra work to secure an advantage in investments.

It is very, very important to me that this bill be on a bipartisan basis. There is really nothing partisan about this bill. Neither party believes in insider trading or wants to support insider trading. This is not a question of balancing regulation or allocating public resources; this is a question of clarity of law.

So I want to close, apart from just saying that that has been the track record of the establishment and writ- ing the legislation, by thanking Ranking Member McNENNY and Ranking Member HUIZENGA.

There will be an amendment offered by Ranking Member McNENNY which the Democrats support. It does improve the bill, but it is not really a compromise in the sense that it actually makes for a better bill.

But I am pleased to say that, after a lot of hard work, this is, in fact, the product of some very robust engage- ment between the Democratic and Repub- lican Representatives in this Cham- ber. That is not easy to achieve under these circumstances.

So I want to start, first and foremost, by thanking Chairwoman WATERS and Chairwoman MALONEY for their sponsor- ship and then, again, Mr. McHENRY and Mr. HUIZENGA, who committed to really understanding what is a tech- nical concept of fraud and offered some ideas that we will shortly be talk- ing up.

And then, finally, as every Member in this Chamber knows, hard work hap- pens and gets done and leads to success only because of the very, very hard work of the staff on both sides of the aisle. So, before yield- ing back my time to the chairman, I do want to specifically thank Katelynn Bradley, Ben Harney, David Fernandez, and David Karp from the Financial Services staff; Mark Snyder, my legislative director, and Rachel Kelly, his predecessor, from my staff.

And then, on the Republican side, big thanks to Kimberly Betz, McNern Ben- nett, and Jamie Brown.

Madam Chair, I urge passage of this law. This will be a good thing for the confidence in our capital markets. It will be a good thing in reassuring the American public that we can get things done on a bipartisan basis. On that basis, I urge passage of H.R. 2534, the Insider Trading Prohibition Act.

Mr. HUIZENGA, Madam Chair, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. McHENRY), the distinguished ranking member.

Mr. McHENRY. Madam Chair, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. McHENRY), the distinguished ranking member.

Mr. HUIZENGA. Madam Chair, I yield my colleague from Michigan. Our dis- tricts touch in the middle of Lake Michigan, so I have never been to that part of my district, and maybe the gen- tleman has not either, but I appreciate him yielding.

I rise today to urge support of the Insider Trading Prohibition Act.

I want to thank Chairwoman WATERS, Ranking Member McNENNY, as well as Mr. HUIZENGA and Mr. HIMES for their work on this important piece of legislation.

As we have seen far too often in this Congress, partisanship and poison pills can get in the way of progress and good ideas. I think all of us, at our core, agree on that. Although this took a little bit of time, I am pleased that we came here today reaching agreements from earlier in the House.

I spent my time working for a period of time at a publicly traded company. I saw firsthand the importance of having markets that operate efficiently but, also, fairly.

Millions of Americans have retire- ment accounts, 401(k)s, and pensions as it relates to their retirement, and it is critical that those individuals can rely and trust the markets that they are rely- ing on for their end of life.

Millions of Americans are invested in these markets and these investments, the integrity of which is critical. They need to know that we are fighting on their behalf to ensure the game is not rigged to help and favor a privileged few.

This bill includes, in particular, impor- tant clarifications that will im- prove our ability to police insider trading. It also incorporates changes sup- ported by the ranking member in an amendment that I offered that I think provides important clarifications to allow the government to go after the bad guys. This will ensure the bill is targeted at bad behavior and does not inadvertently prevent people from engaging in legitimate trades. It strikes the balance that I think is crucial if we want to have vibrant and trustworthy public markets.

I, again, want to urge my colleagues to support this nonpartisan legislation.

Ms. WATERS. Madam Chair, I re- serve the balance of my time.

Mr. HUIZENGA. Madam Chair, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. McHENRY), the distinguished ranking member.

Mr. McHENRY. Madam Chair, I think the ranking member of the In- vestor Protection, Entrepreneurship, and Capital Markets Subcommittee, Mr. HUIZENGA, for his good work in committee and working on important legislation for economic growth and for his constituents in Michigan.

Madam Chair, preventing and pun- ishing bad actors for illegal insider trading is one of the top priorities of Republicans on the House Financial Services Committee, and illegal activity hurts everyday Main Street investors as well as the integ- rity and the efficiency of our markets.

Trading on material insider informa- tion in breach of a fiduciary duty is currently prohibited by court-made law under the antifraud provisions of the Federal securities laws that we have. The Securities and Exchange Commis- sion and the Department of Justice have the power to bring insider trading cases and both agencies regularly ex- ercise this power and have done so for decades.

Our body of insider trading laws has been developed through those decades of judicial precedent to protect invest- ors and the markets by punishing bad actors who illegally trade on insider information.

Codifying nuanced case law and regu- lations that have been developed over decades into a single statute is really difficult. It is a very difficult under- taking, and it is, really, a very delicate piece of legislating that must occur.

Both Republicans and Democrats who have served on the Securities and Exchange Commission have expressed concerns about Congress drafting a statute that accurately captures this extensive and expansive body of law without expanding it into new areas, inadvertently, perhaps, or perfectly by design in some areas.

But bipartisanship is never easy. It is a give-and-take. It is a dif- ficult process. I appreciate the gentle- man from Connecticut (Mr. HIMES) for his willingness to work with us in a bipartisan manner. The bill on the floor today is not perfect, and, as the gentleman from Connecticut knows, I have several concerns with this bill. I have concerns about the lack of an explicit personal benefit test consistent with Supreme Court precedent. I am concerned that ambiguous language currently in the bill, such as “relating to the market,” is ripe for activist judges and overzealous prosecutors and private plaintiffs to exploit, leading to greater uncertainty for anyone involved in investing. That is not what we want; that is not what we seek; and that should not be this undertaking. And I also don’t believe that that is the intention of my colleague from Connecticut in the drafting of this bill. I am also troubled that the Rules Committee print before us does not include an exclusivity provision establishing that this bill is the insider trading law just an additional action around insider trading.

Finally, the Rules Committee print includes a rule of construction section that has yet to be vetted through the Financial Services Committee; and with the understanding of the implications of this language, the bill could further open the door for activist judges, overzealous prosecutors, and trial lawyers, creating even more confusion around insider trading law.

That is not good for investors. That is not good for our markets. It is not good for anyone outside of a narrow few that personally benefit through fees around lawsuits.

My amendment, which I will offer in a minute, addresses some of these concerns, and I appreciate my colleague from Connecticut, and I appreciate the chair of the Financial Services Committee, Ms. Waters, for their engagement so that we can actually come to a bipartisan agreement on this important act.

Now, Republicans continue to support sensible bipartisan insider trading bills, such as the one that Chairwoman Waters and I brought forth, or she brought forth, as the first action of our committee on this House floor in this Congress, which was promoting Transparent Standards for Corporate Insiders Act, which we passed out of this Chamber. And starting off with the fact that we are going to be tough on bad actors from the Financial Services Committee and doing it in a bipartisan way shows our seriousness. And this bill before us is an addition to that seriousness that we take against bad actors in our area of jurisdiction.

Finally, I would say this: We currently have out of decades of lawsuits, decades of regulatory enforcement, we have the greatest clarity on insider trading that we have ever had in this Nation, and that is due to two Supreme Court cases, in particular, giving us serious rules of the road. And I think that clarity is good. And what we want out of this legislation is to put in statute what is confirmed and established currently in the marketplace and currently in the courts of law.

This is not to create more confusion or muddiness, but rather, what is a well-regulated, bright-line space that we currently have. And we want to take that consistency that we currently have and establish it in statute. And that is the reason why Republicans have engaged deeply with Democrats and come to some reasonable conclusion on this important matter of banning insider trading.

So Congress will have its say. I believe we will have a bipartisan vote for final passage, if my amendment is adopted, and I would hope that that would take place. And we have had good conversations along those lines, and I think we have workable language that could be acceptable to all in this body.

I want to thank everyone who has participated, but most particularly Mr. Himes from Connecticut. While we don’t agree on every issue—heck, I don’t think you would get reelected in Connecticut if you agreed with me on every issue, nor I in North Carolina in my district—bipartisanship is a hard thing, but if we are going to do big, important things, we have to try for that. And when you are in the majority, it is implicit you have more votes than those in the minority.

So Democrats could pass this bill on their own. They could. And if they wanted to just use this as a political issue, they could just jam the language they have; they could, right? But it was your willingness to reach out, so that we could actually have a big bipartisan vote, rather than a narrow victory. That is also something that is a marker, that most in this country don’t have a chance actually do talk. We may disagree on big things, we may, and from time to time Chairwoman Waters and I have had our public disagreements, but at the same time we have been able to come to terms on important things in our jurisdiction and get things done.

So while that is not the everyday case for this Congress, when it happens, I think we should actually acknowledge it. Not that anybody is going to pat us on the back for it, but we should acknowledge it.

I thank my colleagues on the Democrat side of the aisle for their work, and I thank my colleagues on the Republican side of the aisle for their work, as well.

Mr. HUZIZENGA, Madam Chair, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Madam Chair, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. WATERS. Madam Chair, I yield myself the remainder of my time.

Madam Chairwoman, H.R. 2534, the Insider Trading Prohibition Act, is a legislation that simply spells out the definition of illegal insider trading under the securities laws. It creates clarity for participants in financial markets and empowers the SEC to punish bad actors.

As we have discussed, this bill is supported by groups, including the Council of Institutional Investors, the California State Teachers’ Retirement System, the North American Securities Administrators Association, Healthy Markets, and Public Citizen.

Madam Chair, I thank the ranking member, Mr. McHENRY, for his very kind comments. I thank him for his cooperation. I thank him for recognizing that it is possible to have bipartisan legislation. And I thank him for recognizing that Mr. Himes has worked very hard to ensure that he would have this as bipartisan legislation, rather than simply having the Democrats try to run roughshod over the opposite side of this aisle to get things done.

I urge all Members to vote “yes” on this important bill. Madam Chair, I yield back the balance of my time.
The CHAIR. All time for general debate has expired.

Pursuant to the rule, the bill shall be considered for amendment under the 5-minute rule.

In lieu of the amendment in the nature of a substitute recommended by the Committee on Financial Services, printed in the bill, an amendment in the nature of a substitute consisting of the text of Rules Committee Print 116–39, shall be considered as adopted.

The bill, as amended, shall be considered as the original bill for the purpose of further amendment under the 5-minute rule and shall be considered as read.

The text of the bill, as amended, is as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1 SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Insider Trading Prohibition Act.”

SEC. 2. PROHIBITION ON INSIDER TRADING.

(a) PROHIBITION AGAINST TRADING SECURITIES WHILE AWARE OF MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, while aware of material, nonpublic information relating to such security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, or relating to the market for such security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, if such person knows, or recklessly disregards, that such information has been obtained wrongfully, or that such purchase or sale would constitute a wrongful use of such information.

(b) PROHIBITION AGAINST TRADING SECURITIES WHILE AWARE OF MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, while aware of material, nonpublic information relating to such security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, or relating to the market for such security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, to any other person if—

(1) the other person—

(A) purchases, sells, or causes the purchase or sale of, any security or security-based swap or enters into or causes the entry into any security-based swap agreement, to which such nonpublic information has a material effect on the market price; or

(B) communicates the information to another person who makes or causes such a purchase, sale, or entry while aware of such information; and

(2) such a purchase, sale, or entry while aware of such information is reasonably foreseeable.

SEC. 16A. PROHIBITION ON INSIDER TRADING.

(a) PROHIBITION AGAINST TRADING SECURITIES WHILE AWARE OF MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, while aware of material, nonpublic information relating to such security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, or relating to the market for such security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, if such person knows, or recklessly disregards, that such information has been obtained wrongfully, or that such purchase or sale would constitute a wrongful use of such information.

(b) PROHIBITION AGAINST TRADING SECURITIES WHILE AWARE OF MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, while aware of material, nonpublic information relating to such security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, or relating to the market for such security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, if such person knows, or recklessly disregards, that such information was wrongfully obtained, improperly used, or wrongfully communicated.

(c) PROHIBITION AGAINST TRADING SECURITIES WHILE AWARE OF MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, if such person knows, or recklessly disregards, that such information was wrongfully obtained, improperly used, or wrongfully communicated.

(d) PROHIBITION AGAINST THE WRONGFUL COMMISSION OR COMMUNICATION OF CERTAIN MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, or relating to the market for such security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, if such person knows, or recklessly disregards, that such information was wrongfully obtained, improperly used, or wrongfully communicated.

(e) PROHIBITION AGAINST THE WRONGFUL COMMISSION OR COMMUNICATION OF CERTAIN MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, if such person knows, or recklessly disregards, that such information was wrongfully obtained, improperly used, or wrongfully communicated.

(f) PROHIBITION AGAINST THE WRONGFUL COMMISSION OR COMMUNICATION OF CERTAIN MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, if such person knows, or recklessly disregards, that such information was wrongfully obtained, improperly used, or wrongfully communicated.

(g) PROHIBITION AGAINST THE WRONGFUL COMMISSION OR COMMUNICATION OF CERTAIN MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, if such person knows, or recklessly disregards, that such information was wrongfully obtained, improperly used, or wrongfully communicated.

(h) PROHIBITION AGAINST THE WRONGFUL COMMISSION OR COMMUNICATION OF CERTAIN MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, if such person knows, or recklessly disregards, that such information was wrongfully obtained, improperly used, or wrongfully communicated.

(i) PROHIBITION AGAINST THE WRONGFUL COMMISSION OR COMMUNICATION OF CERTAIN MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, if such person knows, or recklessly disregards, that such information was wrongfully obtained, improperly used, or wrongfully communicated.

(j) PROHIBITION AGAINST THE WRONGFUL COMMISSION OR COMMUNICATION OF CERTAIN MATERIAL, NONPUBLIC INFORMATION.—It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to purchase, sell, or enter into, or cause the purchase or sale of or entry into, any security, security-based swap, or security-based swap agreement, if such person knows, or recklessly disregards, that such information was wrongfully obtained, improperly used, or wrongfully communicated.
Mr. MCHENRY for offering this amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. Mr. HIMES, I thank Ranking Member MCHENRY for strengthening the bill by offering this amendment.

Mr. HIMES. Mr. Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chair, I urge its adoption, and I thank the gentlewoman for working with us on it.

Mr. Chair, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. MERSEREAU. Mr. Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

First, I thank Ranking Member MCHENRY for offering this amendment to H.R. 2534 to help further ensure that this commonsense bill codifies the law against insider trading in a fair manner.

When we marked up the bill in committee in May, I understood that my Republican colleagues had several concerns with the bill but nevertheless voiced their support in hopes of having those concerns addressed before the bill made its way to the House floor.

At the end of the day, those concerns amounted to wanting additional clarity that H.R. 2534 reflected the current judge-made law against insider trading, aside from the controversial 2014 appeals court decision that has been subject to criticism from many sides.

After months of discussion with the bill’s sponsor, Representative HIMES, Ranking Member MCHENRY has crafted this amendment to do just that. In particular, the amendment would clarify that the existing law that requires the SEC to establish some personal benefit to a tipper in cases involving tipper and tippee liability; clarify that the material, nonpublic information that forms the basis of liability may be revealed to any security or to any security if that information would have or reasonably be expected to have a material effect on the market price of that security; and remove the rule of construction to avoid confusion and ambiguity and to ensure that this act is not the exclusive means by which the SEC, the Department of Justice, or private litigants may pursue insider trading.

If the amendment is accepted, I believe that the bill would provide the SEC with clear additional authority to bring to justice corporate insiders and others who take unfair advantage of confidential information. In addition, because the bill uses the same terms identified in the current case law against insider trading, the SEC and market participants can easily understand what those terms mean.

Again, Mr. Chair, I thank Ranking Member MCHENRY for strengthening the bill and I look forward to working with you to join me in supporting this amendment.

Mr. Chair, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. HIMES), the sponsor of this important legislation.

Mr. HIMES. Mr. Chairman, what is the balance of time available?

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from California has 2½ minutes remaining.

Mr. HIMES. Mr. Chair, I thank Ranking Member MCHENRY for yielding me time.

I rise very briefly to welcome the amendment by Mr. MCHENRY. Mr. MCHENRY raised four substantive points. Three of those points are incorporated in this amendment, which we are very happy to accept.

I think it is, again, not a compromise, but an improvement of the bill.

In my very little remaining time, we did have discussions about exclusivity. As the ranking member knows, the idea here is to create a law under which insider trading is prosecuted.

That was the objective.

As the ranking member knows, it is a fairly complicated situation when including specific exclusivity language.

Ultimately, that was not included in the ranking member’s proposed amendment here, but we should continue to work together to make sure that this is about clarifying and simplifying and making more efficient rather than making more complex.

Ms. MERSEREAU. Mr. Chair, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. MCHENRY).

AMENDMENT NO. 2 OFFERED BY MR. HUIZENGA

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 2 printed in House Report 116–320.

Mr. HUIZENGA. Mr. Chair, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Page 3, line 23, strike “aware of” and insert “using”.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 739, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HUIZENGA) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes equally and consecutively.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Michigan.

Mr. HUIZENGA. Mr. Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chair, I will be brief. I am concerned that the bill before us today focuses specifically on awareness of information rather than the use of wrongful information in connection with security trading.
Specifically, this bill defines trading while "aware of" material and nonpublic information or communicating material and nonpublic information as wrongful only if the information was obtained by way of, or its communication or use would constitute: theft, bribery, extortion, or other theft or bribery offense; a violation of Federal computer data and intellectual property protection and privacy laws; conversion, misappropriation, or other deceptive means; and any breach of a fiduciary duty, relationship, a code of conduct, or a personal confidence or trust.

A person violates the bill's prohibitions on trading with and communicating material on nonpublic information so long as this person "knew" the information was wrongfully obtained, actively avoided gaining such knowledge, or recklessly disregarded the wrongful use, communication, or obtaining of this information.

It does not matter, under the bill, whether they know the method by which the information was obtained or communicated or if any benefit actually came from communication of the information.

In short, Mr. Chair, I believe that this would, in turn, allow activist judges and prosecutors to go after individuals regardless of their intention or actual profit from wrongful actions.

That is why my amendment is very simple: it would strike out all occurrences of the phrase "aware of" and insert the word "using." In other words, you can be aware of something, but if you are not going to actually use that information, why would you be held to a criminal standard?

My amendment would have the effect of limiting who can be prosecuted under this bill to people who actually use wrongful information to gain a profit.

As we all know, in our lives, there are all kinds of rumors around us all the time, whether it is about our work life or our family or whatever might be going on, somebody in the neighborhood. It is hard to know what information is actually true or actually accurate.

What we have currently is this assumption that being aware of something makes you criminally liable versus actually using that information. I do not think it would allow any conviction of people who traded and are simply aware of information but perhaps would have traded regardless of their awareness of that information.

I am prepared to support this underlying bill with the adoption of my amendment.

I was pleased to see the adoption of the amendment from the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. McHENRY). I believe these are perfecting amendments. I believe that these are issues that need to be further addressed, and there were—ayes 196, noes 231, a recorded vote.

On the amendment to the underlying bill. Ms. WATERS, Mr. Chair, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. Chair, I urge my colleagues to reject the amendment offered by Mr. HUIZENGA.

Mr. Chair, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. HIMES), the sponsor of this important legislation.

Mr. HIMES. Mr. Chairman, I thank Chairwoman WATERS for yielding me the time.

I rise in reluctant opposition to this amendment because it has been a hallmark of this process that I very much enjoyed working with Mr. MCHENRY and Mr. HUIZENGA. The reason I rise in opposition is really twofold or threefold.

Number one, as Mr. HUIZENGA may recall, the original draft of the bill would make it prosecutable to prosecute somebody who is in possession of material, nonpublic information. My Republican friends correctly pointed out that we are often in possession of information that we may not be aware of. Certainly, if you were to take a look at my email inbox, you would know that to be true. So at the suggestion of the Republicans, we changed the standard from "in possession" to "aware of."

While I know that Mr. HUIZENGA is acting in good faith, I thank him for his effort. We go to a use standard, it would require prosecutors to actually get inside the motivation of why somebody made a trade. They would have to prove that you made this trade because you had inside information.

In support of Mr. HUIZENGA's good faith, I understand where he is coming from, but let's also face that the confluence of circumstances where you have material, nonpublic information and you were going to do that trade at precisely that moment is a very, very rare event.

While I understand where Mr. HUIZENGA is coming from, what I would suggest is, instead of creating probably an impossible prosecutorial burden, let's acknowledge that if in that very rare event where you want to make a trade and you happen to be in possession of material, nonpublic information, let that trade go by. That is rare enough that it shouldn't in any way, I think, speaking as somebody who has spent time in this industry, compromise the effectiveness or the efficiency of our capital markets.

Again, reluctantly, I stand in opposition to Mr. HUIZENGA's amendment. I hope he will nonetheless support the underlying bill.

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Chair, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HUIZENGA).

The question was taken; and the Acting Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Mr. HUIZENGA. Mr. Chair, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered. The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 196, noes 231, not voting 9, as follows: [Roll No. 648]
The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 9 of rule XX, this 5-minute vote on passage of the bill will be followed by 5-minute votes on ordering the previous question on House Resolution 741, and adoption of House Resolution 741, if ordered.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 410, nays 13, not voting 7, as follows:

[Roll No. 689]

| YEAS—410 |

| NOES—231 |

Mses. MCCOLLUM, FUDGE, Messrs. LOEBSACK, PEETERS, SEAN PATRICK MALONEY of New York, PHILLIPS, DANNY K. DAVIS of Illinois, Mrs. LURIA, Mses. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ, MICULARS-Powell, Messrs. MALINOWSKI, NADLER, ROSE of New York, CICILLINE, CLY-BURN, PAYNE, Ms. BASS, and Mrs. HAYES changed their vote from "aye" to "no".

Messrs. BUCHANAN, LAMBORN and JOHNSON of Louisiana changed their vote from "no" to "aye."

So the result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

The Acting CHAIR (Mr. PAYNE). There being no further amendments, under the rule, the Committee rises. Accordingly, the Committee rose; and the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. KENNEY) having assumed the chair; Mr. PAYNE, Acting Chair of the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reported that this Committee, having had under consideration the bill (H.R. 2534) to amend the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 to prohibit certain securities trading and related communications by those who possess material, nonpublic information, and, pursuant to House Resolution 739, he reported the bill, as amended by that resolution, back to the House with a further amendment adopted in the Committee of the Whole.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the rule, the previous question is ordered.

The question is on the amendment. The amendment was agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read the third time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the passage of the bill.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.
The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, the unfinished business is the vote on ordering the previous question on the resolution (H. Res. 741) providing for consideration of the bill (H.R. 4) to amend the Voting Rights Act of 1965 to revise the Voting Rights Act of 1965 to provide for consideration of the resolution (H. Res. 326) expressing the sense of the House of Representatives regarding United States efforts to resolve the Israeli-Palestinian conflict through a negotiated two-state solution.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on ordering the previous question.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yea 228, nay 196, not voting 6, as follows:

for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Madam Speaker, we do have a very solemn responsibility to uphold the rule of law, but it is important to note that Democrats and the majority in the House have worked every day for the American people.

Among the 400 bills that we have supported are: H.R. 986, the Protecting Americans with Preexisting Conditions Act of 2019, legislation that I have consistently worked on for almost a decade; the Equality Act, which gives equality to all people; the Paycheck Fairness Act, to treat women fairly; the Climate Action Now Act to other legislation to recognize the crisis in climate change; national flood insurance, which my constituents in Texas are desperate for; directing the removal of United States Armed Forces from hostilities in the Republic of Yemen; and then, of course, a signature bill that I have written over a 2-year period, the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act, which expands the rights of Native Americans and provides $291 million for our law enforcement and prosecutors.

Finally, let me say, I was very proud to stand for H. Res. 183, condemning anti-Semitism as hateful expressions of intolerance, which are contradictory to the values and aspirations that define the people of the United States, and condemning anti-Muslim discrimination and bigotry against minorities as hateful expressions of intolerance.

We are working on behalf of all of the American people. We ask the other body to work, but we are doing our job for the goodness and the greatness of this Nation.

PENNSYLVANIA’S 12TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT’S ENERGY ECONOMY IS BOOMING

(Mr. KELLER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KELLER. Madam Speaker, the energy economy of Pennsylvania’s 12th Congressional District is booming, creating good-paying jobs and providing low-cost energy to thousands of families across the Commonwealth and our Nation.

As evidence of this, our district is happy to welcome the East Coast-based natural gas company BKV to Pennsylvania’s 12th Congressional District. Next week, BKV will be opening an office in Tunkhannock, Pennsylvania. They will join other natural gas companies in Pennsylvania’s 12th Congressional District in creating jobs, giving back to the community, and helping our rural district thrive with the resources right under our feet.

Pennsylvania’s 12th Congressional District plays an important role in our national energy portfolio, producing between one-tenth and one-twentieth of the country’s entire natural gas supply on any given day.

Energy produced in PA–12 lowers energy costs, creates an energy-independent United States, and allows our allies to no longer be reliant on energy resources from countries that do not share our values.

Natural gas companies have helped with community revitalization and in creating a robust economy of downstream jobs. The present and future of PA–12 is bright because of the natural gas industry, and, for the benefit of my community, our State, and our Nation, I will continue to support its growth and expansion in Congress.

STOP ROBOCALLS

(Mr. LIPINSKI asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LIPINSKI. Madam Speaker, robocalls, just mentioning them is enough to make anyone’s blood boil. Robocalls interrupt our time with family and friends, scam people out of their hard-earned money while spoofing numbers to make calls look local, and even clog up the phone lines of hospital emergency rooms. In 2018, Americans collectively, received 48 billion robocalls.

I cosponsored legislation earlier this year to stop robocalls, and the House voted yesterday to pass the final version, which we expect to be signed into law.

The TRACED Act strengthens penalties and extends the statute of limitations on violations; it requires phone companies to authenticate where calls are coming from and help customers easily block them at no extra charge; and it requires continued work by the Federal Government to combat emerging robocall methods.

This is a clear win for the American people and shows what we can do here when we work together.

VIRGINIA SUPPORTS THE SECOND AMENDMENT

(Mr. RIGGLEMAN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. RIGGLEMAN. Madam Speaker, 40 Virginia localities have declared themselves “Second Amendment sanctuaries,” resolving to support the Constitution and stand against infringements on the Second Amendment.

Across my district, thousands of citizens are rallying outside the meetings of their local government to show their strong support for the rights of gun owners.

Virginia has always been a cradle of constitutional rights. There is no divide between our rural and urban populations. All of us want to defend our rights as citizens of the United States of America.

I represent the same district that James Madison represented in the first Congress. He understood America’s rights to bear arms when he wrote it into our Constitution.

I am a strong supporter of the Second Amendment, and I am proud to stand with the people who are speaking up for their constitutional rights and for the Commonwealth of Virginia.

James Madison would be proud. I know I am.

12 DAYS OF SALT

(Ms. SHERRILL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. SHERRILL. Madam Speaker, on the second day of SALT, my constituents have said to me that they send more money to Washington and get back less than almost any other State in the country. The SALT cap compounds the attack on New Jersey, forcing our residents to send even more money to Washington without a return on that investment.

For every dollar New Jersey sent to Washington in 2017, we got back only 82 cents. That puts us in 49th place, almost dead last in State return on Federal tax dollars. And this was before the Federal Government stripped the full SALT deduction.

Meanwhile, States like Kentucky got back $2.35 for every dollar they sent to Washington. That is nearly three times what New Jersey gets.

The 2017 tax bill unfairly targets States like mine that pay more than their fair share. We fund projects in Kentucky and do not see that same investment, say, on things like infrastructure, for example, in our State.

We need to restore the SALT deduction cap and keep money in the pockets of New Jerseyans so we can continue to power the Nation’s economy.

CONGRATULATING SANGAMON COUNTY’S WILLIAMSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

(Mr. LAHOOD asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LAHOOD. Madam Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Sangamon County’s Williamsville High School, who, last week, won the Class 3A Illinois State football championship, the school’s first ever.

On Friday night at Huskie Stadium in DeKalb, Illinois, the Williamsville Bullets rallied late in the fourth quarter to win a thrilling 46-42 game against Byron High School. With just 3 minutes remaining and Byron leading 42-39, the Williamsville defense stonewalled Byron to force a turnover. The Bullets then marched down the field, and junior quarterback Conor McCormick fired a game-winning touchdown to secure the State title.

The Bullets’ offensive set a 3A championship record with 550 yards of total offense. Wide receiver Brandon Bishop set a record for receiving yards with 230, and quarterback Conor McCormick set the record with 335 passing yards and four touchdowns.

The Williamsville football team has made all of central Illinois proud with their accomplishments this season. The never-give-up spirit that embodied this team was on full display in their State championship, and their historic season is a testament to the hard work of these young men. I congratulate Coach Aaron Kunz and the Williamsville High School Bullets.

And today we stand with those who lost family and friends, and we stand with the heroes who have defended and those who continue to defend our freedoms today and our way of life. We must never forget, and we must always honor their sacrifice.

DEMOCRATS HAVE PLEDGED TO TAKE ACTION

(Mr. MORELLE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MORELLE. Madam Speaker, in January, House Democrats pledged to get to work for the people and take action to uplift the lives of everyday Americans.

I am so proud of the progress we have made and the proposals we have advanced that would have meaningful impacts on our communities. Unfortunately, our partners in the United States Senate have abdicated their responsibility to do the same.

We have sent over 300 bipartisan bills to the Senate so far this year, and not one has been taken up for a vote. This includes legislation to keep our communities safer by enacting universal background checks on all gun sales, legislation that would raise the minimum wage, safeguard our elections, protect people with preexisting conditions, and ensure equal pay for equal work.

We were elected to serve the American people, and I will keep fighting alongside my colleagues in the House to advance legislation that improves the lives of everyone who calls our Nation home. I call upon the United States Senate to do the very same.

THE RIGHT TO VOTE IS SACRED

(Mr. ENGEL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ENGEL. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 4, the Voting Rights Advancement Act.

The right to vote is sacred and must not be infringed upon. Sadly, our Nation has a long and even bloody history of racial voter suppression, but lately that suppression has been supercharged by the terrible decision in Shelby County v. Holder. This case gutted key protections of the Voting Rights Act, allowing for States to prevent certain groups from accessing the ballot through voter ID laws, closing polling locations, and even purging voter rolls.

I will be pleased to vote in favor of H.R. 4, as it represents a major step toward ensuring every citizen has the ability to vote. H.R. 4 will create a new coverage formula for repeated voting rights violations in the last 25 years and establish practice-based preclearance to focus administrative or judiciary review narrowly on suspect voting practices.

With the House approving H.R. 4, we take a major step forward, and I urge prompt action by the other body.

PEACE PROCESS IN UKRAINE

(Ms. KAPTUR asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. KAPTUR. Madam Speaker, next week, leaders from Ukraine, France, Germany, and Russia will meet to discuss a road forward to peace in Ukraine. President Zelensky is determined with a clear mandate to bring to an end Russia’s illegal war on Ukraine.

The question we must ask is: Peace at what cost to liberty?

Russia illegally invaded Ukraine, already leading to the deaths of over 14,000 Ukrainians and the displacement of millions. The enemy of liberty seeks to undermine democratic institutions that have secured peace in Europe since the second World War ended.

During these sensitive negotiations, freedom lovers stand shoulder to shoulder with the Ukrainian people. America will not tolerate any nation that bullies Ukraine into a sham peace that only rewards Kremlin aggression.

We join with the Ukrainian people in welcoming a just peace in Ukraine. However, any peace agreement cannot provide legal cover for Russia’s land grab. Peace can only come to Europe when Russia respects the integrity of Ukraine’s borders.

Madam Speaker, liberty on the European Continent hangs in the balance. Today we must do what is right and stand with Ukraine’s people so that tomorrow we will have a lasting peace and Europe, as well.

CONGRATULATING THE RIVER ROUGE FOOTBALL TEAM

(Ms. TLAIB asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. TLAIB. Madam Speaker, I rise today to give a hearty congratulations to our Panthers, the River Rouge High School football team on winning their first ever state championship. Thirteenth District strong is incredibly proud.

In a dramatic game, our River Rouge Panthers prevailed over setbacks early on to defeat a formidable opponent. This hard-earned victory is a testament to the countless hours of training put in by this dedicated team, as well as the support of its coaches and our parents.

As legendary basketball coach Phil Jackson once said, “The strength of the team is each individual member. The strength of each member is the team.”

Please join me in recognizing our River Rouge High School football team, the Panthers, under Coach Corey Parker for their outstanding accomplishment.

Congratulations, Panthers.

ECONOMIC JUSTICE ISSUES

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. WEXTON). Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 3, 2019, the
Ms. TLAIB. Madam Speaker, today, I am representing the Congressional Progressive Caucus in our Special Order so that we can push forward on a number of urgent economic justice issues. I am really proud to join many of my colleagues today as we talk about housing for all across the United States of America.

Madam Speaker, I yield to the gentlewoman from Minnesota (Ms. OMAR).

Ms. OMAR. Madam Speaker, I rise today to discuss the basic and dire human right that so many of us take for granted, the right to a safe and stable home.

Last week, families across this country gathered around in their dining rooms to give thanks and break bread, but many families in my home district were not sitting around for a holiday dinner. Instead, they were facing an inescapable truth: homes are still in the hospital recovering from their injuries.

After the brave men and women of the local fire department cleared the scene and controlled the blaze, we discovered an almost unbelievable reality. These homes were not equipped with sprinklers. You see, these buildings are so old that it is exempt from laws that require such lifesaving equipment.

And that isn’t the only egregious safety issue that our public housing residents are forced to endure. There has been a ban on building new public housing since the 1990s. In fact, the Cedar-Riverside building that sustained the fire was built in the 1960s. And the Federal Government has been understaffing the repair and maintenance needs of the homes for years. In Minnesota, the backlog of repair needs totals over $300 million. So not only are these homes half a century old, they are practically being held together with little more than hope and masking tape.

Make no mistake, we, as lawmakers, bear responsibility for the deplorable conditions of our public housing and for the deplorable and unsafe conditions of Americans who are living in today. This is our fault. The Federal Government has all but abandoned public housing.

We cannot continue to pretend that we can’t see the crumbling buildings in our districts. We can’t continue to ignore the hundreds of thousands who experience homelessness because of waiting lists for housing assistance. And it goes beyond the homeless population.

Millions of Americans are living every single day in fear of eviction. Twenty-two million Americans are paying more than half of their income in rent, and about 6,300 people are evicted every single day. How can we in Congress call ourselves leaders if we continue to ignore this crisis?

I, for one, refuse to continue down that path. It is time for a bold and progressive solution.

I will be introducing legislation that ensures every public housing unit in this country is equipped with sprinklers, so that we never see another devastating tragedy like the one that befell the Cedar-Riverside district. And we will be demanding accountability from HUD, requiring the agency to report on exactly how many units are not fitted with sprinklers and how much money the agency needs to fix this glaring hazard. But that is not enough.

Last month I introduced Homes for All Act, which would make an historic investment of $1 trillion in public housing and low-income housing and build a record 12 million new homes over the next 10 years. My bill would also ensure that public housing residents are guaranteed access to important wraparound services like employment assistance, child care, and financial literacy courses.

And just as important, my bill would make sure that public housing funding is a mandatory part of our Federal budget, meaning that the government wouldn’t be able to abandon these new homes or neglect their upkeep. Public housing would now be treated like any other important guaranteed source of assistance, like Social Security and Medicare.

While any legislation is bold, it is also absolutely necessary. Every human being has a right to a safe and affordable home. And without an historic investment in our public housing stock and greater accountability for the safety of our residents, we will continue to face tragedies like the ones that claimed the lives of five people in Cedar-Riverside last week. We cannot let that happen, and I will not let that happen.

Madam Speaker, I thank Congresswoman RASHIDA TLAIB for allowing this conversation to take place today.

Ms. TLAIB. Madam Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from California (Mr. GOMEZ).

Mr. GOMEZ. Madam Speaker, I thank Congresswoman TLAIB for allowing this conversation to take place today.

Ms. TLAIB. Madam Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York (Ms. OCASIO-CORTEZ), my good colleague.

Ms. OCASIO-CORTEZ. Madam Speaker, I thank Congresswoman TLAIB for hosting this Special Order hour on housing and our chair for presiding during this very critical conversation.

We are here today to talk about one of the most core, important issues facing the American people, which is housing.

Each and every year, it feels as though the housing crisis is of the lowest income people with a breadth of opportunities, and provide opportunities to climb the economic ladder by redistributing the benefits of homeownership to the lowest income earners.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to cosponsor this important piece of legislation.

Ms. TLAIB. Madam Speaker, I yield to the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. OCASIO-CORTEZ), my good colleague.

Ms. OCASIO-CORTEZ. Madam Speaker, I thank Congresswoman TLAIB for hosting this Special Order hour on housing and our chair for presiding during this very critical conversation.

We are here today to talk about one of the most core, important issues facing the American people, which is housing.

In America, homeownership is how we build wealth, and it determines your family’s likelihood of success. In America, whether you rent or you own, where you live determines where your kids go to school.

In America, it often determines how far you commute to work.

In America, it often determines how far you are from a grocery store and healthy options for food for your family. It also determines what public services are available to you.

But, unfortunately, many low-income individuals and people of color have been denied this opportunity.

We still have an opportunity to make amendments and rectify the inequalities that have persisted in low-income neighborhoods and communities of color.

The Tax Code is one of the most powerful tools we have. That is why I reintroduced the Rent Relief Act. This bill aims to reduce the rent burden by creating a new refundable tax credit for families that are paying more than 30 percent of their income in rent and utilities because no family should be forced to choose between rent and their basic needs. This would put more money in the pockets of families at a time when wages have remained stagnant and housing costs have increased.

This bill has the potential to transform the lives of millions of the lowest income people with a breadth of opportunities, and provide opportunities to climb the economic ladder by redistributing the benefits of homeownership to the lowest income earners.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to cosponsor this important piece of legislation.
country is at its wealthiest, in the city of New York, we are seeing populations of people who are homeless at the highest rates since the Great Depression. But there is another way.

When we start to立法 housing as a human right, we begin to change our priorities and move away from looking at housing as a for-profit commodity for speculation and toward something that should be guaranteed for all Americans at an affordable rate that can be accessible to all working people in America.

That is one of the reasons why I have introduced A Place to Prosper Act, which includes provisions like universal rent control, just cause evictions, a ban on income discrimination, access to counsel, improving the quality of the housing stock, and a disclosures requirement on corporate landlords to rein in bad actors.

Admittedly, I know that the area of housing and construction is one of the largest contributors to carbon emissions, which is why we have also introduced the Green New Deal for Public Housing Act. What that does is that it aims to decarbonize the entire public housing stock in the United States of America.

It is what must be done; it is in accordance with the science; and it changes the very system through which we approach housing away from the volatile boom-and-bust speculative environment and toward a secure and stable economic environment that treats housing as a right.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Madam Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER), my good colleague.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Madam Speaker, I appreciate the gentlewoman’s courtesy in permitting me to speak on this and for organizing what I think is one of the most important discussions that this Congress needs to have.

Housing is fundamental. It has been the major source of wealth generation for middle-class Americans and an even greater source of wealth accumulation for upper income Americans.

But, sadly, it has been a source of discrimination and widening income inequality because of decades of systematic discrimination by the Federal Government against people of color, especially African Americans.

I am embarrassed that in my community, returning World War II veterans were steered away from certain neighborhoods. We had areas where people resisted allowing people of color to move in. The Federal Government did not enforce constitutional antidiscrimination provisions.

Madam Speaker, the consequences of decades of neglect, discrimination, and underinvestment is visible today in most major American cities. It is obvious in my community, where we are seeing a homeless population that is persistent and growing.

We are seeing in communities large and small people who are rent-burdened, as many colleagues have already referenced, with half the people paying more than a third of their income, many of them over half, if they can qualify as renters at all.

The Federal Government has systematically reduced its modest housing footprint, not being involved in new housing construction for low-income and extremely low-income people.

There is no way, despite Ben Carson’s mumbo jumbo, that those people can be self-sufficient, in terms of housing. They need direct government assistance.

The failure to have adequately housed them plays out in our streets. Inadequate housing has health consequences. In fact, we are watching now some of America’s hospital systems realizing that fact and investing in housing opportunities and wrap-around services because people who are not adequately housed actually cost society far more.

We are watching steps that are being taken in the private sector to recognize that this is the quickest way to close that income inequality gap. It is the quickest way to strengthen communities. In fact, it has profound consequences for education.

Children who are housed not in concentrated poverty, but in housing opportunities that integrate them into broader communities have much better performance in schools without increasing the number of teachers, without increasing the per capita spending per pupil. Where those children live is the most profound indicator of future academic success.

I have been troubled with this issue for years. This summer, I spent time developing a report on why the Federal Government needs to get back into the housing game. It is entitled “Locked Out: Reversing Federal Housing Failures and Unlocking Opportunity.” It is available on my website.

Madam Speaker, I am deeply concerned that we finally recognize housing is a fundamental right. The United Nations recognized it as a fundamental human right. And, we are a long way from that point.

We need to invest in reducing the shortage of 7 million affordable rental homes available to extremely low-income people. No State has an adequate supply of affordable homes.

I propose building 12 million new public housing units and fully funding all the maintenance need in the existing public housing stock rather than slowly starving the authorities in their ability to maintain an adequate housing stock.

I think it is past time to create a renter’s tax credit to cover the difference between the rent and wages or making Section 8 vouchers an entitlement program available for all who qualify.

Yes, it will be expensive, but we are already spending huge amounts of money subsidizing housing. The problem there is that the subsidies go to people who need the help the least. The mortgage interest deduction provides most of the support for people at the upper income levels, people who already have housing. In countries around the world that do not even have a mortgage interest deduction, there is no great variation in homeownership rates.

We can adjust that now. There is an opportunity for us, and I have proposed equalizing the benefit of the mortgage interest deduction by converting it into a credit so that it treats people at various income levels equally.

I also think it is past time to eliminate a mortgage interest deduction for second homes, for instance, that money in helping people who don’t have housing today.

It may seem to some that these are ambitious proposals, but I would suggest that the cost of past discrimination and doubling the cost of inaction is far more in terms of wasted human potential, increased law enforcement, increased health costs, and poor academic performance.

Madam Speaker, I deeply appreciate my colleagues coming forward with this discussion and working together on provisions that can make a difference.

We just had the Republicans pass the largest transfer of wealth in America’s history, adding $2 trillion to our national debt and doing nothing to deal with the housing crisis. In fact, it created housing burdens in States by wiping out the deduction for State and local income taxes, for instance.

I think it is time for us to stop paying for failure, to reassess our policies, to reverse decades of past discrimination, and to do things that will make a difference for American families.

Ladies and Gentlemen, Madam Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. EVANS), my good colleague.

Mr. EVANS. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman, my colleague from the great city of Detroit and from Michigan, for showing this leadership. “None of us are home until all of us are home.” This is the slogan of Project HOME, an organization in my district that empowers individuals to break the cycle of poverty and homelessness, starting with permanent supportive housing.

Safe, affordable housing is the basis of stability and well-being. Secure housing improves health outcomes, improves children’s performance in school, and can break generational cycles of poverty. But given the skyrocketing cost of rent, which is outpacing incomes, secure housing is out of reach for many low-income families.

Lacking a fixed address makes it harder to land a job, enroll children in school, apply for assistance and benefits.
The affordable housing shortage is a crisis in my district and in many other cities and neighborhoods across the Nation. I represent Philadelphia, a city which has a poverty rate of around 25 percent. Let me repeat that, a city with a poverty rate of 25 percent. Most low-income renters spend at least half of their income on housing. This leaves no room for unexpected expenses such as medical bills, which can quickly send vulnerable families into housing instability, eviction, and, sometimes, homelessness.

We must increase funding for programs that help the most vulnerable, including children, people with disabilities, and seniors, such as homeless assistance grants and the housing choice voucher program.

Those living in poverty, including 400,000 in the city of Philadelphia, are struggling to find safe and affordable places to live. Over 40,000 families are on the Philadelphia Housing Authority waiting list—40,000 are on that list.

Most low-income renters in Philadelphia receive no government assistance with their housing costs, driving many to rely on alternative arrangements to secure shelter.

These are steps that we can take to address this growing crisis. We must invest in preserving existing public housing and improving health and safety through increased funding for the Public Housing Fund and the Public Housing Capital Fund.

In the city of Philadelphia, the Philadelphia City Council recently passed a right to counsel law, providing attorneys for low-income families facing evictions.

But millions of Americans in other cities and communities face evictions every year. This lack of access to legal representation has led to unjust evictions. I am an original cosponsor of the Eviction Prevention Act, which creates grants to provide legal representation to those facing eviction.

It is not an accident that two Members who stood up here are also members of the Ways and Means Committee, as I am. We all recognize that we can use the Tax Code to lift our neighbors to the advantage of the city’s fine cultural amenities. I want to thank my sister in service, Representative Ilhan Omar, for providing us with a vision for the future of housing: housing as a right; housing as a guarantee; housing as a basic necessity; housing as a tool for learning. It is traumatic to not have a home. we choose to spend our money is a direct reflection of our values.

Representative OMAR’s Homes for All Act invests a total of $1 trillion into our Nation’s affordable housing stock. I was proud to be an original cosponsor of the Homes for All Act, which was co-sponsored by Senator WARREN’s American Housing and Economic Mobility Act.

However, it is the work of activists and agitators on the ground that has pushed this issue to the forefront. While there is still much to do, I am heartened by the efforts of my colleagues, and I associate myself with all of their thoughtful and impassioned comments and legislative proposals highlighted during this Special Order hour.

We must continue to mobilize, to organize, and to legislate until Homes for All is no longer a promise, but a guarantee.

Ms. TLAIB, Madam Speaker, I know from Detroit, and from every other of the 11 other surrounding communities, for us, being the third poorest congressional district in the country, housing is critical, critical not only for economic stability, but also in providing a safe haven for many of our families across the district.

Poverty is complex. A number of factors, including State and Federal policies, poverty and racial and gender inequities, have resulted in so much increased poverty, especially among children. In Detroit, poverty requires that deep public investment in housing and other infrastructure, healthcare access, and public school investment, coupled with criminal justice reform policies designed to repair a history of segregation and continued exploitation.

Less than a year, Madam Speaker, into its enactment, the opportunity zone program has already resulted in millions of dollars of wasteful spending and possible corruption.

ProPublica published an article, titled: “How a Tax Break to Help the Poor Went to NBA Owner Dan Gilbert.” The article contained disturbing details that were in the Trump tax scam had appeared that a tax program supposedly designed to benefit the poorest among us is now being used to reward political donors and wealthy investors. I have asked the Committee on Ways and Means to investigate the actions by billionaire Dan Gilbert, and I have also asked the Treasury to respond to some of those questions.

This is why instead of these tax breaks for the wealthy and for billionaire-led development, I have proposed the BOOST Act.

The BOOST Act would give 3 to $6,000 to families making less than $100,000. It would instantly lift up 45 percent of Americans living in poverty now. Sixty-four million children would be instantly uplifted out of poverty. The BOOST Act would be paid for by repealing the Trump tax scam. In there, Madam Speaker, you saw not only the opportunity zones, but a number of tax breaks for the wealthy that only benefited the folks who are corporate-led who have actually been tainting our process to get access to affordable housing in this Chamber.

So I ask my colleagues, as we propose many fixes to access affordable housing and to repair some of the historic segregation zoning laws and the continued exploitation among many of our neighbors, that we also make sure that we are not expanding that corruption within our government is not expanding and that we are holding those accountable who are trying to taint that process.

So I really appreciate my colleagues, members of the Congressional Progressive Caucus, in standing strong for housing as a human right.

Many of the proposals you see forward, Madam Speaker, will only determine whether or not we can implement it in a way that is just and is very democratic and, again, has really clear oversight. Things like the opportunity zone are not the direction that we need our country to go in, and I am looking forward to the legislation that would not only ask for repealing the opportunity zone but actually use it for land trust and community trust funds, things that will be rooted within communities and help those who, again, are seeing homeownership among communities of color decrease, seeing increases between 30 to 50 percent of their income going towards rent. I think the way we have to do it is all those goals, not only providing housing, but also making sure that we are implementing it in a way that is just and fair.

Madam Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GREEN).

Mr. GREEN of Texas. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for the opportunity to speak, and I commend her for her stellar effort to bring justice to the housing circumstance in our country.

I am honored to say that I did visit her congressional district, and we had a field hearing that was quite successful. She truly is engaged and involved in making a difference in her community.

Madam Speaker, I was there in 2008 when we had the housing crisis. I remember when Secretary Paulson came before the committee. He was there in need of some funds for what were called toxic assets. He was there because the market was in a free fall. He was there because there was an imminent crisis that had to be contained.

I remember him asking for a large sum of money with few pages, probably less than 5 pages. He wanted us to infuse capital into a process that would allow us to purchase these toxic assets. He was indicating to us that this was an emergency. He did not ask for hundreds of millions of dollars. He did not ask for tens of billions of dollars. He requested hundreds of billions of dollars.

I do recall that I spoke to constituents, and being the judicious person that I was, I did pay attention to my constituents who encouraged me and insisted that I not bail out the big banks. That was the language that was used: Do not bail out the big banks. A.I. was not in this process, and I was just contacted to my constituents. When we took the vote on the floor to accord the sum of 700 some billions of dollars, I remember standing over in the door and looking at the vote. I could also see the stock market and the same time. As the bill was failing, the stock market was failing. It was a day that I will never forget. I went back home, and I visited with my constituents.
The constituents said to me: Al, what is wrong with you? You did not vote to save my 401(k). You let the market fall. You could have voted to support us.

I learned an invaluable lesson that day. And I learned that there are things when you have to do what you know to be the best thing, even when your constituents might stand in opposition to it. That is the lesson that I carry with me to this day. I came back. We had a second vote, and I voted for the funds necessary to deal with the toxic assets.

One of the reasons why I was so concerned about this was because I understood what was happening. There were instruments that were in the marketplace that were not suitable for everyone. We had something called a 227 and a 228; 3 years, 2 years of a fixed rate, and then 27 years or 28 years of a variable rate. This was not suitable for everyone. We had no-doc loans, meaning no documents necessary, and you could walk into a bank and get some money by which you could acquire a loan, Madam Speaker. We had negative amortization, a process that allowed you to at some point continue to owe more than you initially borrowed.

We had something called the yield spread premium. The yield spread premium allowed the person who originated your loan to originate a loan for you for an amount in excess of what you qualified for. Here is how it worked: That person would check to see what you were eligible for as a rate. You could qualify for a loan at 5 percent, but at that time because of the yield spread premium, the person originating could come out and say, good news, I have a loan for you for 8 percent. You qualify for 5, you get a loan for 8 percent interest, and the person would never have to tell you that you qualified for the 5 percent. The money between 5 and 8 was called the spread, and the spread on that spread could be shared with the person who originated the loan and the lender, the yield spread premium.

Poor people, well, people who are of little means who acquired homes with these 227s and 228s, that I mentioned where the rate would go up and down, they lost homes. It is said that in the African American community a generation of wealth was lost—a generation. The community is still recovering from the 2008 downturn.

But, first off, what is the greatest threat to our society? I am going to argue it is actually the coming mountain of debt. It is not Republican or Democrat, it is called demographics. There are 74 million of us baby boomers, 74 million baby boomers were born in an 18-year period, we have our earned entitlements coming, and we functionally have no cash in the bank for them. So this board is really, really important, and I can’t believe I don’t see it in everyone’s office here.

This is a 30-year window. Let’s actually just pull out Social Security and Medicare. Madam Speaker, you do realize that if you look at Social Security and Medicare from the numbers, we have $23 trillion in the bank. Now, this one is not inflation adjusted, so these are raw numbers, but $23.1 trillion, if you want to be accurate, in the bank, but when we roll Social Security and Medicare in and their financing cost—the money has to be borrowed to keep the promises—we are functioning at $103 trillion in debt.

It is math. It is not Republican or Democratic. It is demographics. We are getting older as a society. Since 1971, our birthrates have been below replacement rates. We need to deal with the reality of math, but as this place now proceeds, we will make math partisan. But the math will always win. It breaks my heart because there are things we can do policy-wise that make it work, that keep us under or right about that 95 percent debt-to-GDP, and we survive our demographic bubble. But we have people around here that say crazy things that have no basis in economics, no basis in the math, no basis in our demographics. The cruelty they are bringing down on our society and my 4-year-old daughter, destroying her future, is because of the unwillingness to own a calculation.

So, one more time, if we pull Social Security and Medicare out of our 30-year window, we have $23 trillion in the bank. If we put them back in, we are $103 trillion in debt in that 30-year window. Remember, just the growth of Social Security, Medicare, healthcare entitlements, just the growth every 5 years equals the entire Defense Department.

When you hear some of our brothers and sisters on the left come behind the microphone and say, “Well, if we would just reduce defense spending,” you can wipe out all of defense spending, and in 5 years, you are back where you began. That is the issue. That is the single thing that destroys our economic vitality for the future. But once again, it would require owning a calculator.

PRESCRIPTION DRUG PRICING

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 3, 2019, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. SCHWEIKERT) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. SCHWEIKERT. Madam Speaker, what we are going to do today is actually sort of a little follow-up with a couple of other things sprinkled in here.

I want to walk through, once again, some of the numbers and some of the good things that have happened. I want to talk also about H.R. 3, which is a reference pricing bill that has gone through Ways and Means in regard to pharmaceuticals that actually I don’t think anybody understands what the numbers are on how Europe and those actually do set drug pricing and to understand the rationing that will be coming with that.
It is lots of people’s fault, but it is Congress’ fault, but it is decades old.

Here is where most of that comes from. If you take some of the math for a couple that retires today—it is not their fault; this is just the math—they will have put about $161,000 into Medicare. They are going to receive just shy of $500,000 out. Take that, functionally, $300,000-plus difference, multiply it by 74 million, and now you understand the driver of our debt.

You will hear people come behind the microphone and say, “Well, it is waste and fraud,” or, “We don’t tax rich people enough.” Those are all absurd. The percentage of tax revenues as the percentage of GDP is within the margin. Waste and fraud, yes, we need to deal with it, but it would be a fraction of these numbers.

Remember, we are about to come up on the 2-year anniversary of tax reform. This last fiscal year, unlike every economist that the left brought to us—of course, there is an Armageddon—and I know that is mean, but it is true.

Things that were being said on this floor when we debated tax reform, reforming our system: “Oh, revenues are going to crash.” The world is coming to an end. “We are going to Armageddon.”

We went up over 4 percent in what they call receipts growth last year. Our problem is that we spent dramatically more than that. I think our spending was approaching almost 7 percent growth because we had so many things added to spending. About half of that 7 percent is just, once again, demographics. But we grew revenues even with the tax reform slightly over 4 percent.

There should have been joy around here, if you think about where we are economically. You all saw the applications for unemployment today, 10,000 down from where the projection was.

Once again, we are demonstrating the laws of economics are a miracle. They are remarkable. I don’t think there is anyone living today who has lived in a time that is economically stable, when you look at our labor markets, when you look at wage growth, the lack of inflation.

There should be joy on this floor, talking about the miracle of our brothers and sisters who were being written off just a couple years ago because they didn’t have a high school education, didn’t have the skill, were going to be part of the permanent underclass.

It turns out those folks who were willing to write off those brothers and sisters, those Americans, were wrong. That population—and I hate this term, but we use it—the lower quartiles of economic ascension, skill sets, were being written off, they have had the fastest movement of income. You saw the number, if anyone cares about these things.

Last year, a single woman, no partner in the house: 7.6 percent growth in wages. These are numbers that I can tell you from being on the Joint Economic Committee for years that every economist we would bring in would look at us like we were out of our minds if we predicted numbers like that. Where is the joy?

The fact of the matter is there has been more progress in the last 24 years for our brothers and sisters who have physical issues, have had substance abuse issues, have had criminal records, these sorts of things, coming back into the labor force.

There is this thing called U-6 data, U-4 data, right now. When you see the unemployment rate and all this information of workers who might be—we use the term “marginally attached” and haven’t been looking, who quit looking, the number of those who are moving into the labor force that we barely give any credit for when we see the top-line number because the top-line number is those who are looking.

There is an economic miracle happening right now when you see the robustness, the stability of our labor markets. Shouldn’t the debate on this floor be: It is working for our brothers and sisters who we have always said were poor or that we were writing off. Something is working for them. How do we keep doing more? How do we make sure those that are working and avoid the crazy policies of just a couple years ago that didn’t work, that punished these populations?

These are the folks who had just a really crappy decade. They fell further behind when they were some sort of math out there, and it is not all put together. I am being maybe a little pathologically optimistic here, but there are some preliminary numbers that last fiscal year could be the very first year in modern times where income inequality did not grow and potentially shrank. It is not because wealthy people didn’t make more money. It is because poor people made more money than they had before.

Where is the discussion of how we do more of this?

It turns out, for all those out there who are busting their backsides, working, paying into programs like Social Security and Medicare, why aren’t we being honest with them that the scale of the unfunded nature is devastating? If you are a young person today, do understand that when you hit your peak earning years, your tax rate will have to be double today’s just to maintain these same benefits. There is a path, but that path requires a whole bunch of things.

It is going to be my very last board. If this breakthrough pharmaceutical would make you healthy for 1 more year and costs more than $38,000, it is not purchased. It is not part of the formula. That is what the Democrats are demanding we need to import into this country.

So understand that the Democrats are about to say a year of you being healthy is not worth $38,001. I don’t think they know that. I don’t think anyone who has read at this point knows how this handful of European countries builds their pricing mechanisms, but they do it by scarcity.
They basically say, “Hey, I know this would cure you for the next year, but you are out of luck. It is over $38,000 here in Great Britain, so you are on your own.”

At a certain level, this is just incredibly cruel. How could you look some- one in the eye and say: “I value your life at $38,000 for a year of you being healthy.” But that is the cruelty that is being discussed.

At first, it sounds really wonderful: “Hey, we are going to lower drug prices by using reference pricing.” But the fact of the matter is, how do you tell Americans that what this means is not only are you not going to be able to have these things that keep you healthy anymore because they are going to be outside the price window, but the other thing is there was a major report put together early this week that also said a substantial num- ber of the drugs, like 100-plus, that are in the pipeline, that are about to cure our biggest killers who alone are a part of that 5 percent of the chronic conditions that is the majority of our healthcare spending, those cures are going to stop because they are really expensive, real- ly risky, really hard to put together.

There is a whole list of things that are going to get crushed.

The pharmaceutical industry, for all the frustrations, they will go back to what they were doing a couple of decades ago, saying they are just going to do a derivative on an existing drug, so, therefore, they have very little re- search costs. They already know what their profit margin is. It is nice and safe to do.

The things the Republicans did in this Congress, where we did the CURES Act a few years ago, where we created a pipeline to cure people, that pipeline is about to get crushed.

You have to understand the cruelty of this. This is just math. This is what other countries do on their formula.

If you really wanted to crash the price of pharmaceuticals, it turns out, yes, there is a whole list of things that are bipartisan: the way you deal with the capital that is used for the invest- ments, the way you do the patents, the way you allow competing types of bio- logics and others come to market.

But there is another crazy thought experiment here that almost no one has ever talked about. Do you realize that half the pharmaceuticals that will be picked up today, so half the pharmaceu-icals someone is going through a drive-through for or walking into their pharmacy for right now, half of them will not be used or will not be used properly? Just part of the thought exper- iiment.

They will not be used or will not be used properly. That is going to cost the country about half a trillion dollars this year. It is 16 percent of the total U.S. healthcare expenditures because people don’t take their prescribed phar- macaceuticals properly, and they get sick and die.

It turns out we have all sorts of things we could do. But it requires the creativity. Let’s face it, this is an absolute creativity-free as well as a math-free zone.

The little bottle that has the top that tells you when grandma has opened it so that you know she is tak- ing her pharmaceuticals that keep her alive, we have that technology. It is not very expensive. It changes drug ef- ficacy usage because you know when you took it.

How many of you know someone that has multiple pharmaceuticals they take, and they have to take them at certain parts of the day? We now have little distribution devices. There are several of them on the market that drop the pills, tell you the time, let you know if it’s right. The fact of the matter is, how do you tell Medicare and, functionally, that is the ultimate driver of our future debt and, unless we have a disruption in healthcare costs—

how we finance, but disruption in the cost. Let me give you a single example of what the investment in cures means. I know this chart is almost impos- sible to read, but the simple point is about 30 percent of Medicare spending is going to be diabetic care—diabetes is complex. We now pay more than the production of insulin. There are autoimmune responses. There is 1 and 2. It is complex, but do the thought experiment with me.

We have spent almost the year having H.R. 3, we have, functionally, done nothing.

Do you remember all the promises of what we are going to work bipartisan be- cause we have a Republican Senate and then, obviously, the left, the Demo- crats, control the House here? We are going to do all these creative things to- gether. And we have done none of it.

We have spent lots of time on impeach- ment. We have pushed out a trade agreement that is the most crazy in their policy sets to satiate the radicalized face of the Democrats.

I am sorry. I know that is mean, but it is true.

So let’s take a step backwards and pull out our calculators and under- stand, once again, that 30-year window, $103 trillion of debt—if you actually normalize it to inflation adjusted. Okay. So it is, at today’s discount rate—I am not sure. It would probably be somewhere in the $83 trillion of debt, inflation adjusted.

So here is our argument: Get the things that grow the economy right. We have demonstrated getting the Tax Code right has produced a miracle of economic growth in the way of labor participation. Our brothers and sisters, people, are working. And it turns out those have cascade effects in every- thing from health to there will be falls in substance abuse use. We see great things happening.

But with economic growth, we have to get immigration correct. We have to get trade correct. We have to get the way we regulate, using technology. In- stead of a 1938 model of fill out lots of paperwork and shove it in a file cabinet, and when you want you pull out our calculators and understand, once again, that 30-year window, $103 trillion of debt—if you actually normalize it to inflation adjusted. Okay. So it is, at today’s discount rate—I am not sure. It would probably be somewhere in the $83 trillion of debt, inflation adjusted.

In- stead of a 1938 model of fill out lots of paperwork and shove it in a file cabinet, and when you want you pull out the file cabinet so we can sue you, using crowdsourcing technology where you know, if you screw up, we catch you instantly and we can fix it right then. There are amazing changes right here.
more talent-based so you maximize economic growth so we can keep our economic promises?

How do you encourage people to be in the labor force?

One of the very odd things we see in the data is that December, a year ago, suddenly we saw in the data statistics millennial females moving into the labor force at substantial numbers but millennial males still substantially underperform. Why? Is this the opting crisis? Are there other factors?

We need to know those sorts of things because, it turns out, when we have entire quartiles of our population who are underperforming in the labor market, it has really bad societal cascade effects.

So let’s work on policies that get as many folks as who are interested. Whether you be retirement age or that millennial male, what do we have to do as a society to encourage, to prod, to push for you to be in the labor force? Because that is important not only to you as an individual, but it is really important to the country’s economic stability.

Technology disruption: We just talked about the curative drugs that are coming. We also can talk about the sensors and the other things that are going to allow us to stay healthy. How do we update the laws so that thing like that flu kazoo isn’t illegal?

There is a reason you didn’t go to Blockbuster Video last weekend. Technology changes. We need to make sure our law sets are sympathetic to the changes that can reduce our prices in healthcare, to protect the environment and so many other things.

Yet we are decades behind in the way we write laws here and understanding how to future-proof those laws so when we have disruptive technologies—and anyone who is really interested in this, pull out your phone. Go to a search engine, and go look up “MIT ambient air capture” and look at the miracle they have here.

If what they have published is correct on, now, their price per ton—they believe they can pull CO2 right out of the air or do it right over a smokestack. If those numbers are correct, we now have a major change in CO2 emissions in the world because of our ability now, at amazing prices, to be able to pull it almost right out of the air.

These technologies are here. Why aren’t we talking about them on the floor, and how to encourage more of it and how to get it rolled out in society, not only here, but across the world? Because, if you actually care about global warming—or climate change or whatever the current pop term is—it turns out there are amazing technology disruptions that are here.

The only problem is they don’t allow you to control other people’s lives; they just solve the problem. And are we about solving the problem or just the things that they who are often the Members of this body?

And then other things: The earned entitlements. You have earned your Social Security. You have earned your Medicare. Are there things we can do in those benefits to encourage you to stay healthier; to, if you feel like it, work; to actually, instead of taking your benefits, say how long would you like—if we gave you a spiff, would you wait?

There is tinkering you can do here that actually makes the programs more sound. And if you do it all together, we believe we have a model that provides an economic future where we are not destroyed by the growing debt.

But there is no single answer. It is going to have to be almost a holistic approach of lots of types of policies woven together, and every single one of them needs to be about the reality of our demographics.

And now the experiment I will ask you all to engage in: Watch the floor this week and see how many people will ever come behind these micro-loans with the trillions of economic growth and survival of this country because of what is about to happen, the debt that is about to crush us and the fact that we are not talking about it. Instead, we are busy, basically, doing levels of absurdity there.

The cruelty you have just also subjected my 4-year-old daughter to—and her economic future—you should all be ashamed of yourselves, ourselves, myself, because there is a path. The problem is this path doesn’t ideologically situate those who have just gone so extreme.

But the math is real, the math works, and the math, Madam Speaker, always wins.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

IMMIGRATION POLICY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 3, 2019, the Chair recognizes the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. GROTHMAN) for 30 minutes.

Mr. GROTHMAN. Madam Speaker, obviously, most of the newspapers, insofar as people still read newspapers, most of the TV shows in the last month have focused on the impeachment hearings. And we all know that, at the end of the day, impeachment or no impeachment, President Trump is not going to be removed in the next year.

So the question is: Why are we spending so much time on impeachment?

I have felt, in the long-term future of America, the most significant thing going on right now is what is going on with immigration policy in the United States; and as long as this impeachment hearing has taken the top of the page in the newspaper, immigration is at the bottom of the page.

I believe one of the primary reasons for keeping immigration from the public is in order to know what is going on in immigration or what isn’t going on in Congress with regard to immigration.

At its worst, we allowed over 140,000 people in this country in May. President Trump has been asking for help in this crisis, and he has gotten no—or virtually no help from Congress. Nevertheless, things that President Trump has done on his own have reduced that flow, if only temporarily.

I mention again, 145,000 people caught and processed in May and probably over another 10,000 people not even processed. That number has gone down to around 45,000 in September, and we believe it will go lower in October. This is largely because of things that President Trump has done on his own.

He has negotiated with the Mexican Government—to a certain extent, under threat of tariffs—to put Mexican troops on the southern border. The Mexican Government is policing the interior of its country for people trying to work their way north, and President Trump has reached agreements with the triangle countries of Central America, the countries of Guatemala, El Salvador, and Honduras, and they are currently taking people coming from farther south who need asylum.

President Trump has also—we wish he was doing more here, but he began building a wall, and we are working our way toward adding another 450 miles of wall by the end of next year. This is a significant improvement toward what it should be, but we are still well short of where we want to be about children being separated from their parents. This is something that Congress can solve on its own.

Right now, if children try to come here, single children from Mexico and Canada, they are returned to their parents to make their families whole. In a loophole in the law, if children come here from countries other than Canada and Mexico, we are bound to keep them and separate them from their families.

Congress should act, and the same logic applies to children from Canada. If we apply to Venezuela or Honduras or Guatemala. We have no business allowing the current law to continue in
Mr. GROTHMAN. Madam Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GROTHMAN, Madam Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

68. The Speaker presented a petition of the County Commissioners of Gaines County, TX, relative to a Resolution respectfully asking the leadership of the United States Senate and the United States House of Representatives to fully support and vote to ratify the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement, which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.
The Senate met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the President pro tempore (Mr. GRASSLEY).

PRAYER
The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.
Majestic God, Your name fills the Earth. In spite of our challenges, You continue to rule with Your love, wisdom, and power. Grant that our lawmakers may not forget the many dangers, toils, and snares You have already brought our Nation through.

Lord, give our Senators the wisdom to know that You continue to direct the steps of the faithful and that we have nothing to fear. Spirit of God, arise within our hearts and prepare us for the task of this day. Surprise us again with Your ability to transform dark yesterdays into bright tomorrows, doing for us more than we can ask or imagine.

We pray in Your great Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The President pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. HYDE-SMITH). The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent to address my colleagues for 1 1/2 minutes as in morning business.

WORLD BANK

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, I believe I have developed a reputation among my colleagues, and hopefully among my constituents, for transparency in the issue of the public’s business should be public. That applies to how the World Bank loans U.S. dollars. The World Bank is right now trying to sneak through a new policy that offends me.

I received word that the World Bank is planning to vote right now, as I speak, on a new country partnership framework with China. That framework commits the World Bank to providing China with billions of dollars in loans indefinitely. What is odd about this is that China is now the world’s second largest economy and its per capita income is well above the levels at which countries are supposed to graduate from needing World Bank assistance. In other words, China should stand on their own two feet without help from the American taxpayers or even indirectly through the World Bank.

It happens that our country is the World Bank’s largest contributor, and the spending bill that funds the World Bank includes a provision for a big capital increase from the American taxpayers to the World Bank. With this legislation pending, we in the Congress have an opportunity to weigh in and we should take that opportunity to make sure that American taxpayer dollars don’t go to China, particularly when China is using their own money and investing in the Belt and Road Initiative to get influence around several countries on the face of the Earth.

I will have more to say later on this topic.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. McCONNELL. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader is recognized.

BUSINESS BEFORE THE SENATE

Mr. McCONNELL. Madam President, for weeks now, the Republicans have been asking the Democrats to take off their impeachment blinders and let Congress legislate for the American people. We have argued that American families deserve better than this partisan paralysis, where the Democrats literally obsess over impeachment and obstruct everything else.

This very morning, for example, the Speaker gave a speech on national television to push forward her rushed and partisan impeachment, with not one word on the outstanding legislation the American people actually need—nothing on the USMCA or the NDAA or funding for our Armed Forces. It is all impeachment, all the time. Only in this town, only in Washington, does anybody think it is OK for our Armed Forces to go unfunded and for a major trade deal to go unpassed, because the Democrats are too busy hosting a panel of law professors to criticize President Trump on television instead of being busy on the things the American people actually need us to address.

The Kentuckians I represent cannot believe our military commanders are being denied certainty, our men and women in uniform are being denied stable funding, and 176,000 new American jobs are being held up all because the Democratic leadership thinks there is more political advantage in obstruction than in doing their jobs. Well, the servicemembers and personnel in the Kentucky National Guard and at Fort Campbell, Fort Knox, and the Blue Grass Army Depot aren’t going to simply stop doing their jobs. No, they are counting on us to pass critical defense legislation that reforms housing and spousal employment programs, that invests in construction, readiness, and

NOMINATIONS

Mr. MCCONNELL. Madam President, on another matter, while we wait for our Democratic colleagues to let this legislation move forward, the Senate has used the time to confirm millions of President Trump’s impressive nominees for the Federal courts.

Some of my friends across the aisle complain that we devote too much time to nominations. First, I would like to remind everyone that district judges are the kinds of nominations that, historically, have sailed right through the Senate in big groups by voice votes. If our Democratic colleagues want to spend less time voting on a district judge, they should take it up with the Democratic leader, who is forcing us to take cloture vote after cloture vote. As of this morning, we have taken cloture votes on 81 district judge nominees.

By this point in President Obama’s Presidency, we had taken one cloture vote on a district judge nominee. Let me say that again. As of this morning, we have taken cloture votes on 81 district judges. By this point in President Obama’s Presidency, we had taken one cloture vote on a district judge nominee—just one.

At the comparable point in the two previous Presidencies preceding President Obama’s, combined, we had not taken a single cloture vote on a district judge’s nomination—not one. Yet, 3 years into the Trump Presidency, there have been 81 cloture votes and counting just on district judges. So there is your answer on floor time.

More broadly, I want to take a moment to tell the story why I and millions of other Americans care so much about having Federal judges who believe in the radical notion that words matter and that a judge’s job is to follow the law and the Constitution.

Take, for example, the subject of religious freedom. The liberty of conscience and the freedom to live out our faiths has been a foundational principle for the Republic’s earliest days. Many of the first Europeans who arrived in America were fleeing religious persecution. James Madison wrote that religion “must be left to the conviction and conscience of every man; and it is the right of every man to exercise it as these may dictate.”

Judge Amy Coney Barrett, now a circuit judge in Nebraska, was attacked by the Democrats as it doesn’t impact the rest of your region until it means freedom to go to a church for an hour on Sundays as long as it doesn’t impact the rest of your life. That shrunken interpretation is nothing like what our Founders intended, and, candidly, I am not sure how much longer the modern Democratic Party will even believe in that.

A few months ago, a Democrat who is running for President told CNN that the government should take away the tax-exempt status of churches and religious institutions that disagree with leftist positions. He was not some fringe candidate. He was a guy whom the Democrats and the mainstream media had likened to John F. Kennedy. He was openly suggesting the Federal Government should punish churches if liberals don’t like their social views—how appalling.

These disturbing signs have not been limited to the courts or to the Democratic campaign trail. Absurd anti-religious arguments have appeared right here in the Senate. In the last several years, some of our Democratic colleagues have tried, literally, to impose religious tests on nominees for Federal office. Just take the “no religious test” clause and the First Amendment and throw them right out the window. Get rid of them.

Judge Brian Buescher, now a district judge in Nebraska, was attacked by two Democrats on the Committee on the Judiciary for being a faithful Catholic and a member of the main-stream, worldwide Catholic group the Knights of Columbus. He was attacked for being a member of the Knights of Columbus? In written questions, one Senator called standard Catholic teachings “extreme positions” and asked if he would dial down his personal faith practice if confirmed. That question was in the Committee on the Judiciary of this Senate.

As our colleague Senator Sasse observed at the time, the Democrats were transparently implying that Brian’s religious beliefs and his affiliation with his Catholic, religious, fraternal organization might make him unfit for service. It was plainly unconstitutional.

Judge Amy Coney Barrett, now a circuit judge on the Seventh Court of Appeals, was likewise subjected to a religious test during her confirmation hearing. One Democratic Senator literally asked: Do you consider yourself an orthodox modernization, and that locks in—listen to this—the largest pay raise in a decade.

These bills touch every single State. Of course, there are major national and international issues at stake, as well, but the Democrats are still holding the NDAA hostage—a partisan wish-list that is meant to appease trial lawyers, public sector unions, and their own far-left base. They are holding up the NDAA over unrelated, nongermane, leftwing wish-list items.

Meanwhile, the Speaker and the Democratic leader are withholding their assent from important bipartisan provisions like the Caesar Syria Civilian Protection Act, which has previously passed both Houses and has been modified to resolve all concerns by the committees of jurisdiction. Unlike the Democratic leader’s rhetoric on Syria in recent weeks, this bill would actually do something to stand up for the Syrian people and hold Assad accountable. So I urge the Democratic leader will allow this important demonstration of our support for the Syrian people to go forward.

In the meantime, as if to underscore that the Democrats’ top priority is performing special elites at the people’s business, I understand the Speaker of the House spent part of this week in Madrid, talking about climate change. She took an international flight to discuss carbon emissions. So the Speaker’s trip to Spain, lambenting President Trump’s decision to pull us out of the Paris Agreement. Maybe she pitched her conference’s Green New Deal—its socialist plan to hurt our economy for American families—while bigger emitters like China go roaring right by.

As an aside, over the past 15 years, the United States’ carbon emissions have actually fallen significantly. We are still trying to recover from the recession in 2009, yet we have actually fallen significantly. We continue to emit more and more every year. China already emits, roughly, twice as much as the United States, and it is increasing every year.

Kentucky and many other States know exactly what happens when Washington Democrats ignore these facts and decide America needs to take on unilateral economic pain for no meaningful change in global emissions. We are still trying to recover from the Democrats’ last “War on Coal.” We certainly don’t need the Speaker of the House to promise the Europeans that she is going to start a new one. So working Americans and their families are not well served by the Democrats’ political performance art. What they are not well served by the Democrats’ political performance art. What they Catholic? She was asked that in the Committee on the Judiciary.

Another offered this bizarre and ominous remark: “The dogma lives loudly within you, and that’s a concern.”

So, look, these warning signs on religious freedom are literally popping up everywhere in modern political life, rears its head. Religious freedom in America has never—never—meant and will never mean solely the freedom to worship privately. It has never meant and will never mean the ability to practice only a subset of faiths acceptable to some subset of politicians. What it means is the right to live your life according to the dictates of your faith and your conscience, free from government coercion.

If those statements strike anybody in this Chamber as remotely controversial, that is exactly why President Trump, Senate Republicans, and millions of Americans are focused on confirming Federal judges who will apply the Constitution as it was originally written.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Morning business is closed.

EXECUTIVE SESSION
EXECUTIVE CALENDAR
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will proceed to executive session to resume consideration of the following nomination, which the clerk will report.

The senior assistant legislative clerk read the nomination of Richard Ernest Myers II, of North Carolina, to be United States District Judge for the Eastern District of North Carolina.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina.

FOSTERING UNDERGRADUATE TALENT BY UNLOCKING RESOURCES FOR EDUCATION ACT
Mr. SCOTT of South Carolina. Madam President, first, I thank the Democratic leader for the opportunity to move forward on this unanimous consent.

As in legislative session, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of Calendar No. 212, H.R. 2486.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the bill by title.

The senior assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 2486) to reauthorize mandatory funding programs for historically Black colleges and universities and other minority-serving institutions.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. SCOTT of South Carolina. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the Alexander-Murray amendment at the desk be agreed to and the bill, as amended, be considered read a third time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 1255), in the nature of a substitute, was agreed to, as follows:

(Purpose: In the nature of a substitute.)

The amendment is printed in today’s Record under “Text of Amendments.”

The amendment was ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time.

Mr. SCOTT of South Carolina. Madam President, I know of no further debate on the bill, as amended.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Democratic leader.

Mr. SCHUMER. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senators from South Carolina, Tennessee, Washington State, and Alabama be allowed to speak for brief moments on the great job they have done and that I be given back my leadership time at 10:50.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Tennessee.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Madam President, on behalf of all of us, I want to thank the Democratic leader for his courtesy and his support on this. He and Senator McCONNELL have made it possible for us to do this.

I am going to limit my remarks to a couple of minutes, and then Senator MURRAY and then Senator SCOTT, Senator COONS, Senator JONES are here, and we will finish by 10:50.

Madam President, it is hard to think of a piece of legislation that would have a more lasting impact upon minority students in America than the bill that the Senate just passed.

I believe, in doing so, we have improved the provision in the House bill that was sent to us. That is what we did; we amended a House bill that we are now sending back to them. We have been working with leaders in the House to make sure that our bill is something the House can accept and pass. We hope that will happen in the next couple of weeks, and here is the result of it happening: No. 1, a big step for historically Black colleges and minority institutions—permanent funding at the level of $255 million a year for those institutions—serving nearly 2.5 million minority students. That is No. 1.

The second big step is one that Senator MURRAY and I and our committee, Senator JONES, Senator BENNET, Senator KING, and many others have been working on for 5 years to simplify the form that students use to apply for Federal aid for college. Twenty million families fill out what is called the FAFSA, a Federal aid form, every year; then we have students who borrow more than $100 billion a year. What we have done in this bill is reduce the complexity of filing that FAFSA form by saying to students: You don’t have to give your Federal tax information to the government twice. We will take the up to 22 questions that are a part of the 108-question FAFSA, and we will eliminate them, and if the student gives his or her express consent, the Internal Revenue Service will answer those questions for the student.

I want you to tell you how many times students, parents, college presidents, Federal aid counselors have told me that the application and the verification of this information has discouraged low-income students from coming to college.

Five and one-half million of the twenty million students who fill out these forms have the accuracy of those forms questioned. This will eliminate that for most of the students because they will have to give that information to the government only once.

I want to thank Senator MURRAY especially for her work on this. We work together on the Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee in the Senate, but Senator SCOTT, Senator RICHARD BURR of North Carolina—which has the largest number of historically Black colleges—and Senator JONES of Alabama have also been crucial with their support.

I yield the floor to Senator MURRAY.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Washington.

Mrs. MURRAY. Madam President, HBCUs, Tribal colleges, and other minority-serving institutions—or MSIs—are an essential part of our entire higher education system, and those institutions serve nearly 6 million undergraduate students, a large majority of whom are students of color or Native students.

Funding for those critical institutions should never be up for debate, and now, because of this, it will not be. I am so glad we have reached a bipartisan deal that will permanently fund HBCUs and MSIs.

I know many of our colleagues worked very hard on this, but I especially want to thank Senator JONES for his leadership in pushing to make sure this got done, as well as my partner...
Mr. JONES. Madam President, I am rising today with just, for lack of a better term, an incredible amount of hope and excitement—something we don’t always see on the Senate floor these days. We go through so many routine measures. We go through so many things, but today is truly a day of hope and excitement and optimism because we are on the verge of a significant moment for our Nation’s historically Black colleges and universities and all minority-serving institutions that in our partisan world we are living in and in our partisan America, people across this country are tuning in right now or at least will follow what is happening on the floor of the Senate today, where a bipartisan coalition has come together for a significant and important segment of our population that deserves the same economic and educational opportunities as everyone else.

Fourteen months ago, I came to this Chamber to introduce a permanent extension, an increase of funding for these important institutions of education. Nearly half of all the funding they receive was set to run out on September 30, 2019. We secured a quarter of the Senate as co-sponsors of the bill, and we laid out an ambitious proposal.

In the new Congress, with the clock ticking down toward the deadline, we offered a more modest but bipartisan cure, which means the looming fiscal cliff. But our goal and the goal of everyone here and the goal of all of those, including my friend Senator Alexander, was to always reach the ultimate goal of permanent funding, a permanent solution for these important institutions.

All told, these schools serve 6 million students across the country. They are often the foundation upon which families begin to build generational wealth. Students who go to college but generational wealth in communities that have long faced systemic barriers to doing so. They create good, sustainable jobs. They are part of the very foundation of our higher education system in this country and in my State in particular.

With all the due respect to my friend Senator Murray from Washington, there is a little controversy about who has the most HBCUs. I would claim that Alabama does with 14, but that is for debate of another day. But we can all agree that supporting these schools and the students they serve is not a partisan issue. I think we can all agree on that. I think we have shown that we can agree that funding should never become a political football. We have all been working toward the same goal.

To say the least, I am so deeply relieved that today we forged this bipartisan compromise that will allow these schools the funding and the certainty that they need and continue fulfilling their important mission.

I sincerely especially want to thank my colleagues on the HELP Committee and Chairman Alexander and Ranking Member Murray in particular for their leadership and willingness to reach across the aisle and find the common ground for the better good of this community. I also want to thank my friend Senator Scott from South Carolina for joining me on what we have done over the last couple of years to introduce the FUTURE Act and to push it forward.

I believe—and I have said this for so long—that we have so much more in common than we have that divides us. This is just one example. It is why I hope folks across the country are looking and see that we can come together and we can be unified.

I am grateful today because in addition to the permanent funding of HBCUs and minority-serving institutions, this agreement, as the Senator from Tennessee said, includes a long overdue first big step toward simplifying the FAFSA application.

Even with a law degree, I can tell you that with my kids, trying to do that made me pull out what little bit of hair I have left. I didn’t need to do that. It is just a frustrating process. It can be so intimidating that students or their parents just walk away. In Alabama alone, kids walked away from millions of dollars of Federal financial aid and grants, not just loans. The FASFA as it is today can be a huge barrier for students who want to go to college.

The proposal we have on the table now will help save taxpayers and make the FAFSA process less painful by cutting up to 22 questions from the form. It lays the groundwork for a broader FAFSA reform that Senator Alexander and I have been working on to cut even further to between 17 to 30 questions.

But getting across the finish line today is not just about renewing funding or cutting redtape. At their core, these issues are about opening doors of opportunity for young people who have talent and motivated to go to college and in life, but they have not necessarily had the financial means or the family connections to do so. This is about making sure we empower every young person in this country to reach their full potential and then pay it forward for future generations. That is what gives me hope standing here today. It is what makes me excited today.

Again, I want to thank my colleagues for the incredible effort—Senators Alexander and Murray in particular. Our hearts have always been in the right place. We have always moved the ball forward knowing that the long-term goal was to help these families for generations to come.

Thank you, Madam President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware.

Mr. COONS. Madam President, today is about a moment of hope. Today is about a moment of genuine bipartisanism made possible by the discipline and determined leadership of Senators ALEXANDER of Tennessee and MURRAY of Washington State.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

I rise to join my friend and colleague, the Senator from Alabama, who has just given remarks following the Senator from South Carolina. At a moment when the world is witnessing American viewers on their televisions is partisan division and dysfunction in the Senate and the House, I just want to remind all of us that we can get good, important, and significant things done together, as just happened on the floor a few moments ago.

For generations, American families have worked and saved and strived to send their children to college, but for a long time, our Nation’s original sin—the sin of slavery and racism—has left a long shadow and a stain on access to the critical opportunity of higher education. In much of our Nation, for decades, African Americans were denied entry to most of our colleges and universities. Today, students face unreasonably high barriers to higher education.

The establishment of historically Black colleges and universities, HBCUs, and other minority-serving institutions of higher learning has been a critical answer to that tragic history of discrimination.

Men and women who founded HBCUs refused to accept a system of higher education that denied opportunity to African Americans, and over decades, HBCUs have risen to become one of our Nation’s finest academic institutions. They have educated hundreds of thousands of young men and women who have gone on to do incredible things and to be some of our Nation’s greatest leaders.

That is why all of us who have come on the floor today, Republicans and Democrats, have acted to make a permanent commitment to supporting HBCUs and minority-serving institutions of higher education. I am particularly excited about this legislation because my home State of Delaware is home to the Delaware Center for Neuroscience Research, a partnership of institutions working to advance our understanding of our brains and how we form thoughts, memories, and feelings that may help unlock the key to addiction and other challenges our country faces. It is also home to OSCAR, the Optical Science Center for Applied Research, which is helping speed the detection of disease, supporting our soldiers and equipping the NASA Mars rovers with improved sensors. Delaware State has been the lead institution on grants from NASA, NSF, and NIH in just the last few years.

We are all proud of Delaware State. The funding stream last year provided $880,000 in critically needed funding for STEM, faculty, research, and students. Let me last reference something that my colleagues have all spoken to: the streamlining of the free application for Federal student aid, or FAFSA, which impacts 20 million American families.

I spent a long time—roughly 20 years of my life—actively involved in the national ‘I Have a Dream’ Foundation. This long-worked-for opportunity for young people from families with no means or experience of attending higher education. I myself sat with dozens of young Delawareans and struggled as we finished the FAFSA forms. I am so grateful for the opportunity to join this bipartisan coalition and look forward to even more progress in the months and years ahead.

Thank you.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. Madam President, the Democratic leader is recognized.

Mr. SCHUMER. Madam President, first, let me thank my colleagues from the great State of South Carolina, for their eloquent words.

As an African-American leader from South Carolina, a State that is home to one of the finest historically Black colleges and universities serving Black, Hispanic, and Native American populations, I want to tell you how proud I am of our Nation’s fine academic institutions and the students they serve.

I appreciate their words, and I think far more appreciated than their eloquent words is the fact that we are getting this done, finally. I am so glad for it.

Let me just add my words of support for the FUTURE Act. A few minutes ago, as I mentioned, we passed the FUTURE Act by unanimous consent. I am so glad and grateful that the Senate came together today to give these institutions and the students they serve the certainty needed to continue focusing on their important mission.

In America, we believe in ladders up. People should have to climb those ladders. No one is going to put them up on a pedestal. But there should be the ladders there so that if somebody wants to work hard, they are given fair opportunity and barriers—sometimes barriers based on bigotry and discrimination—in their way.

One of the best ladders-up we have in America is our HBCUs. HBCUs make up 3 percent of colleges and universities, but they produce 27 percent of African-American students with bachelor degrees in STEM fields, 80 percent of African-American judges, 40 percent of African-American engineers, 50 percent of African-American lawyers, and 40 percent of African-American college graduates.

So this is one fine ladder-up, as are our other institutions that spend much time helping Hispanic Americans and Native Americans as well. We need these ladders-up to be part of the American dream. We should help them whenever we can. Tribal colleges and universities serving Black, Hispanic, and Native American populations serve more than 130,000 American Indians and Alaska Natives, the most under-served group in higher education. Hispanic-serving institutions have grown by nearly 40 percent since 2009, helping the Latino community make big inroads in college enrollment and completion. They now enroll 66 percent of Hispanic undergraduate students but account for only 15 percent of nonprofit colleges.

So all three of these types of institutions—the HBCUs, the colleges and universities serving American Indians and Alaska Natives, and Hispanic-serving institutions—are amazing ladders up. They are essential for making higher education accessible, affordable, and attainable for all Americans; essential for having that bright Sun—the American Dream—actually shine on people instead of it being some words that are meaningless to them.

This is a very fine moment, and I want to thank all of those who put this all together and made it happen. We can celebrate. Most of the things that pass by UC around here—or many of them—are really kind of small and narrow. This is not. This is very important. And my salute to those who made it happen, whom I mentioned earlier.

Madam President, now on a less happy subject, this morning the Speaker of the House instructed House committee chairs to begin drafting articles of impeachment against the President of the United States. That is a very solemn duty and solemn undertaking.

We need these ladders. They are part of the American dream. They are essential for making higher education accessible, affordable, and attainable for all Americans; essential for having that bright Sun—the American Dream—actually shine on people instead of it being some words that are meaningless to them.
personal political interests of the President of the United States. The gravity of those charges demands that Senators, if Articles of Impeachment are served to us, to put country over party and examine the evidence without prejudice or partisanship, which is why it is so disheartening, confounding, and deeply disappointing that, at this historic moment, I heard the Republican leader criticizing in such strident terms the process of the impeachment inquiry in the House for being too short and not including enough witnesses or due process for the President.

I respond on two counts. First, the Republican leader is simply wrong to suggest that the House process has been anything but deliberate, even-handed, and serious. Speaker PELOSI, the House Intelligence Committee, and the House Judiciary Committee are proceeding exactly how the witnesses legislation prescribes. But, second, it is the height of hypocrisy to criticize the House process for being too short and not including enough witnesses when the Trump administration is the one blocking inquiry from testify. What hypocrisy? How can a leader even say it with a straight face? Will this febrile obesiance to President Trump never cease? Are they so afraid of him that they can’t admit the obvious truth and twist themselves in pretzel knots to make arguments that are so spurious? It is the height of hypocrisy to criticize the House for not including enough opportunity for the President to make his defense when the President is refusing to participate. It is the height of hypocrisy to say that there are not enough witnesses when we don’t hear a peep out of the Republicans urging the President to allow the witnesses that the House wanted to come forward.

This hyperventilation about the length of the House process and the number of witnesses is simply ridiculous. The Trump administration is responsible for many of these things, not the Democrats. Everyone knows that. Everyone knows they have gone to court to block witnesses and documents.

I remind my colleagues, if the Articles of Impeachment are indeed passed by the House, Leader MCCONNELL and Senate Republicans must work with Democrats to set the parameters of a fair and impartial trial. Every Member of the Senate should support a fair proceeding. The President is running a fair process now. We must do the same in the Senate if it comes to that.

All week, I have been urging my Senate Republican colleagues not to spread or even speculate about the dangerous conspiracy theories about Putin—interfered in the 2016 elections. The myth was invented by Putin’s intelligence services to deflect blame away from Putin while driving a wedge between the United States and Ukraine, one of Putin’s top goals. When certain Senate Republicans are parroting Putin’s talking points, we have a serious problem.

Hopefully, the overwhelming criticism of the Members who did that this week have convinced them to stop and back off in the Republicans’ absurd denial of fact and total defense of President Trump, even when it is obvious that he is not telling the truth. We have new evidence, and maybe the lowest of all was the mounting of Putin’s conspiracy theory about Ukraine.

Now, another insidious conspiracy theory arose, that cold water this morning. The truth comes out. Republicans, sooner or later. Another theory was doused with cold water when it was reported that Attorney General Barr’s handpicked prosecutor had reportedly found no evidence that the FBI probe into the Trump campaign was a setup. Republicans in the House, conservative media personalities, FOX News, and other blind partisan loyalists to the President have long conjured and peddled these deep-state conspiracy theories without evidence. The Attorney General is even using the resources of the Justice Department—which could be exposing Chinese Communist Party’s spies or tracking would-be radical terrorists or fighting epidemics or responding to attacks on cities across the country—to investigate the origins of the 2016 probe. Attorney General Barr’s actions are presumably in the hopes of turning up evidence to support these far-fetched theories.

Well, too bad, Republicans. Too bad, hard right. The Attorney General’s handpicked prosecutor found no evidence to these conspiracy theories, that the investigation of President Trump was started with evil and political intent. The only evidence we have is that the outlandish loyalist theories peddled by President Trump and his allies to defend this administration are totally baseless.

National Security

Now, on another note, airport face scans, this morning, it was reported that the Trump administration will propose a rule to require U.S. citizens to have their faces scanned whenever they enter or exit the United States. This sounds like something out of China. Currently, all U.S. citizens are allowed to opt out of facial scans when entering or exiting the country. Now, the Trump administration is poised to remove that option and make facial scans mandatory for all travelers, including U.S. citizens.

I have significant concerns about what this policy would mean for the privacy of every American citizen. Just last year, a cyber attack of CBP compromised the personal information—in this case, it was license plates—and facial data of just under 100,000 people. Imagine if DHS were required to retain the facial data of every American who travels in and out of the country.

There are, of course, legitimate questions about whether the Federal Government is legally allowed to collect and store this data. Those questions must be answered before—not after—the Trump administration moves forward with its new rules. On something as serious as this, Congress should debate this issue.

Regardless, I see no reason why the current opt-out policy must change, and I will work with privacy advocates in the Senate, like my friend Senator MARKEY, to legislatively prevent the administration from moving forward.

Another issue, robocalls, the House of Representatives yesterday passed bipartisan legislation to cap on the tens of billions of robocalls that plague Americans every year. All of us are bothered by these dand robocalls. They come at the worst times, and they are on and on. You can’t even shut them off.

Last year alone, Americans were battered by 48 billion—billion—robocalls. That is 150 calls per person, per year. Robocalls are annoying. They are persistent, and beyond that, many of them are dangerous to consumers. Foreign companies can make thousands of calls with a push of a button and can charge Americans simply for picking up the call. Can you believe that? Many are designed to scam elderly Americans. We have heard about elderly Americans who are frightened and send their life savings to these criminal callers. Many of the calls target institutions like hospitals and slow down important businesses.

The TRACED Act passed by the Senate in May and recently amended and passed by the House requires phone companies to block robocalls without charging consumers and will give the Justice Department and the FCC better tools to prosecute scammers who prey on unsuspecting—many elderly—Americans. I am proud to support the original Senate bill. I pushed hard to move it forward. The Senate should now take action on the amended and expanded robocall legislation from the House and pass it before the year is out.

As we saw with the recent legislation to the democratic protests in Hong Kong, when there is bipartisan consensus on an issue, we can move swiftly to enact bipartisan legislation. These moments, unfortunately, are far too rare under Leader MCCONNELL, who has avoided the consideration of legislation on the floor, even when it has bipartisan support, but I hope as we enter the final few weeks of the year, Leader MCCONNELL will address the issue of robocalls and send this bipartisan to the President’s desk.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SCOTT of Florida). The Senator from Texas.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I know the American people, when they see what is happening in Washington, think that we fight all the time and we disagree about everything, but let me just agree with my friend, the democratic leader, on the issue of the nuisance of robocalls.

But as important as that is to our quality of life and to protecting vulnerable seniors and others who may be misled by some of these deceptive calls, some of the most basic functions of the Federal Government have not been fulfilled, like appropriating the money that is necessary to support our men and women in uniform. The bipartisan spending bill that we agreed to in August has been walked back by our Democratic friends, and we find ourselves with a lot of uncertainty here at the end of the year in terms of what the future may hold in terms of our ability to actually get anything done, things like pass a highway bill.

That is one thing that Republicans and Democrats can all agree on, is our disdain for traffic and congestion.

That is one thing we can work on together, we could work together to bring down drug prices, particularly the out-of-pocket costs for consumers with high deductibles and high co-pays. We could pass USMCA, the U.S.-Mexico-Canada Trade Agreement. All of these are bipartisan projects, but unfortunately, they are now all held captive by this impeachment mania which has stricken the House of Representatives, and it is scheduled to come over here to the Senate probably around the end of the year, depending on the schedule that Speaker Pelosi keeps in the House.

Impeachment

So while there are plenty of good ideas out there about things that we can work on together on a bipartisan basis, we all know that the Senate and the Congress has limited bandwidth. We can’t do everything we want to do. We need to prioritize. I would hope that our priorities would be the American people’s priorities and not the political priorities of partisans in Washington, DC, but unfortunately, it looks to me like the partisans are winning and the people are losing. We need to keep fighting against that. But that is where we are right now, particularly with Speaker Pelosi’s announcement this morning that the House is now going to proceed to draft Articles of Impeachment, something that has only been done four times in our Nation’s history. This will be the fourth time.

We know what the outcome is likely to be with the 67-vote threshold here in the Senate, and I think all of us in America listened or have been exposed to anyway the various arguments on both sides of the question, but don’t really know exactly what anything new is going to come out of this. A lot of this is rehashed over and over again ad nauseam in order to justify a partisan impeachment process less than 1 year before the next general election. I would think it should be a little bit cautious about 535 Members of Congress working here in the Nation’s Capital reversing the decision made by more than 60 million Americans in the last Presidential election. That is a very sobering and serious matter indeed, but, unfortunately, I don’t see this issue getting the kind of sober and serious consideration that the Founders contemplated or that the American people deserve.

Mr. President, on another topic, a number of our colleagues here in Washington have undertaken a radical approach when it comes to providing the energy that our country needs. As a matter of fact, if you think about it, it is because America’s energy production is produced by the oil and gas industry here in America today that the average price of gasoline is now probably roughly $2.50 per gallon.

In Austin, TX, where I live, you can drive from the airport to my home, and you can see gas prices at $2.15 a gallon. It is cheap relative to the historical prices. And you think about what that means in terms of consumers, regular, everyday working folks and families. It saves money on everyday expenses, and other things that are important to them in their lives and not spend all of their income on filling up their gas tank. That is a huge, huge gift to the American people and consumers, but, unfortunately, they are now all held captive by this impeachment mania which has stricken the House of Representatives, and it is scheduled to come over here to the Senate probably around the end of the year, depending on the schedule that Speaker Pelosi keeps in the House.

The best evidence of how extreme this proposal is, is when it came up for a vote in the House. Not a single Senator voted for it—that includes all of the cosponsors of the proposal. That is not exactly a profile in courage, to tell the American people this is the solution to completely eliminate the most affordable and reliable sources of energy. For what? Well, in pursuit of net zero emissions. I will talk more about that in a moment.

We remember earlier this year they introduced the Green New Deal—arguably the most extreme energy and climate proposal this country has ever seen. The Green New Deal is chock-full of utopian ideas but completely devoid of any pragmatic plans to implement any of its pie-in-the-sky proposals. It puts a range of unrealistic environmental and socialist policies under one big green umbrella with an unaffordably high price tag.

The best evidence of how extreme this proposal is, is when it came up for a vote in the House. Not a single Senator voted for it—that includes all of the cosponsors of the proposal. That is not exactly a profile in courage, to tell the American people this is the solution to completely eliminate the most affordable and reliable sources of energy. For what? Well, in pursuit of net zero emissions. I will talk more about that in a moment.

Some of them have said they also want to ban the export of crude oil. This month, for the first time in 70 years, America became a net exporter of oil. I will talk more about that in a moment.

Some are saying they even want to go so far as to ban the use of natural gas. Natural gas has been responsible for taking formerly coal-fired powerplants and putting them into a cleaner, more efficient source, which have reduced emissions by a substantial amount, but, no, in pursuit of their pie-in-the-sky utopian dreams, the ideologues want to eliminate something that has been a very substantial improvement in terms of reduction of emissions while providing affordable energy.

I think it is safe to say that we all agree—Republicans, Democrats, Independents, everybody—we should do what we can to protect our environment. In fact, we live here. We breathe the air. We drink the water. We should all be equally concerned about the environment.

I really think some of these proposals are nothing more than virtue signaling. They are not a solution to a problem. All of these folks are trying to paint the energy industry as the enemy in the process. Every good story needs a villain, and our friends on the left have been trying to paint the energy industry that has provided that cheap gasoline so people can drive to work, take their kids to school, or go about their business. Our friends on the left have been trying to paint the energy industry that has provided that cheap gasoline so people can drive to work, take their kids to school, or go about their business. It is really the enemy, our friend. Well, it is just not the case.

By the rhetoric you are hearing, you would think oil and gas companies have bankrupted the country, ruined our international alliances, and sent the entire globe into an energy famine. Well, that is not true. It is just the opposite.

When you talk about global energy security, American oil and gas has reversed the tide of the energy landscape in our favor and supported our friends and allies around the world in important ways.

Our colleagues proposing these unworkable and unaffordable mandates would be wise to look at how the global energy landscape has changed over the last half century and consider the broader consequences of their proposal.

As America’s energy security is a critical priority to our economy and our friends around the world, we need to rewind just a bit to the 1970s. At that time, the vast majority of the world’s oil and gas came from the Middle East, giving these nations a great deal of power. In fact, you may remember back in 1980 President Jimmy Carter announced something called the Carter Doctrine. He said if any foreign power should attempt to block the flow of oil through the Straits of Hormuz, it would be an act of war. That is what Jimmy Carter said in 1980, such was our reliance on imported energy from the Middle East. Our country dealt with that problem, and we addressed it responsibly and effectively.

We know another indication of our dependence on imported energy is when the United States supported our friend and ally Israel in the Yom Kippur war of 1973. OPEC, the organization of petroleum exporting countries, primarily in the Middle East countries, banned the sale of crude oil to the United States. Those who are old enough to remember, remember that prices quadrupled, some States banned neon signs to cut down on energy usage because they were worried about the energy that would be necessary to create that electricity, and a number of towns asked for citizens not to even put up Christmas lights. This was because our source of oil and gas was cut off from the Middle East. OPEC, at that time, was our dependence. Despite strong domestic production, we were still relying heavily on imports. Once that supply was cut off, we were caught flat-footed.

The energy oil embargo brought to light the risk of our energy independence and underscored the need for America to do something about it. There was a consensus—has been a consensus—that we needed to grow our supplies here at home so we were less dependent on imports. So less than 2 years later, Congress, thinking we were doing a good thing, put a ban on export American crude because we thought we needed it here and didn’t want to export it abroad.

Over the next four decades, a lot has changed. Advancements in the energy sector, including hydraulic fracturing and horizontal drilling, have dramatically increased the production of American energy. As I said, for the first time in 70 years, America has become a net exporter of oil. That is how dramatically this has turned around.

In the process, we have achieved our goal of reducing our reliance on imported energy dramatically from dangerous and unsettled regions of the world. Like many, those of us who knew him during his lifetime. He aptly described Russia as a gas station masquerading as a country. Russia’s ability to export that energy to other countries was the lifeline for their allies and friends. Seven European countries depended on Russia for 80 percent of their gas, and on the whole, one-third of the gas Europe consumed came from Russia.

When all our allies are looking to our adversaries for basic needs like heating, electricity, and fuel, that is a real problem. It is a strategic vulnerability not only for those countries but also for the United States.

Our friend John McCain had quite a sense of humor, and he would say, that is a good thing, and build strategic gas interconnectors between countries. He believed in the idea of America that has been working to diversify their energy supply, which is a good thing, and build strategic gas interconnectors between countries. He believed in the idea of America that has been working to diversify their energy supply, and we turned that from a gas to a gas exporter.

We know another indication of our dependence on imported energy is when the United States supported our friend and ally Israel in the Yom Kippur war of 1973. OPEC, the organization of petroleum exporting countries, primarily in the Middle East countries, banned the sale of crude oil to the United States. Those who are old enough to remember, remember that prices quadrupled, some States banned neon signs to cut down on energy usage because they were worried about the energy that would be necessary to create that electricity, and a number of towns asked for citizens not to even put up Christmas lights. This was because our source of oil and gas was cut off from the Middle East. OPEC, at that time, was our dependence. Despite strong domestic production, we were still relying heavily on imports. Once that supply was cut off, we were caught flat-footed.

The energy oil embargo brought to light the risk of our energy independence and underscored the need for America to do something about it. There was a consensus—has been a consensus—that we needed to grow our supplies here at home so we were less dependent on imports. So less than 2 years later, Congress, thinking we were doing a good thing, put a ban on export American crude because we thought we needed it here and didn’t want to export it abroad.

He believed in the idea of America that has been working to diversify their energy supply, and we turned that from a gas to a gas exporter.

When it comes to innovation, I have introduced legislation—and a number of our other colleagues have too—to increase research dollars going into alternative ways to deal with energy production, like electricity. For example, there is a small natural gas-fired power plant in Las Vegas, Nevada, which I visited with our friend Senator Collins from Maine—that emits zero carbon dioxide. That is a boon to the environment, and I think it also provides a solution to the oil and gas industry because what they do is pipe the CO₂ off the back end, and they use it to inject into the ground in the oilfields, so they produce more oil and gas. It is called secondary recovery.

Here at home, it is easy to take dependable energy for granted. We do it all the time. We don’t worry about having the energy to cook our dinner at night or refill our cars’ gas tanks. We take that all for granted. But the truth is, in countless countries in the world and for the majority of the world, it is a completely different story.

For our friends who advocate these utopian ideas like the Green New Deal, I don’t begrudge their desire to improve the environment. I would ask them to be more pragmatic when it comes to trying to solve the problem. I would ask them: Are you really trying to solve a problem? If you are, we want to work with you to reduce emissions, but our goal is to keep the prime fantasy that will not work and we can’t afford, count me out. If you want to solve the problem, count me in.

American energy is simply powering the world. It is strengthening global security and lifting millions of people out of poverty. We need to continue to harness the power of one of our country’s greatest national assets.

S6871
I will conclude there. I will continue to share some of my thoughts on the importance of American energy on the Senate floor. It is a topic bigger than one floor speech, and it will hopefully remind and encourage all of the Members of the Senate to work toward energy independence and help keep energy affordable, which will improve the standard of living and the quality of the lives of all Americans. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Colorado.

REMEMBERING LAUREN BRUNER

Mr. GARDNER. Mr. President, on September 10, just a few months ago, Lauren Bruner, a veteran of Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941, passed away. Mr. Bruner wasn’t just any veteran. He was a veteran who served on the USS Arizona during the attack that morning.

On Saturday, December 7, millions of Americans across the country will pay tribute to the attack at Pearl Harbor National Cemetery to commemorate what happened that morning, which brought the United States fully into the Second World War. Aboard the USS Arizona were 1,512 officers, sailors, and marines. The attack that day on December 7 of them, 127 brave people survived that morning. Lauren Bruner, who passed away September 10, was one of four who were on that ship that December morning in 1941 who have survived.

Lauren Bruner was a pilot and a navy aviator. A line of duty pilot in the United States military. He went on to command ships. He went on to fight the Second World War, and our veterans today who live and continue to live a legacy that was given to them that December 7 morning.

On Saturday, as we join our families and do weekend work, I hope we will take a little bit of time to reflect once again on a dark chapter in American history that led to a great American conflict. I know与众不同 that the men and women who served our country, to the men and women who fight for our Nation each and every day, to the people like Ken Potts and Lou Conter and Donald Stratton, who continue to remind us each and every moment why this Nation is worth fighting for.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Washington.

TAX REFORM

Ms. CANTWELL. Mr. President, I come to the floor today to talk about the importance of passing the expired tax credit provisions for many small businesses and industries that support families and help revitalize economic, depressed communities, and those that are underserved.

We all know that 2 years ago, the Republicans and President Trump enacted a $2 trillion tax break for large corporations, and there was a lot of lobbying in favor of that. But we have seen that legislation passed. Yet, when it comes to these provisions, which are just about tax certainty in the Tax Code that has been there for decades that really needs to be reauthorized, Congress is not getting the job done, and we need to come to terms now about why it is so important to help small businesses have tax certainty in the code, to help families and communities, and to get this provision done by December 31.

We all know how important it is that these individuals, green energy companies, economic development, and many other aspects of the Tax Code are being basically held hostage—since, I believe, 2017—by Congress’s inattention to this issue. Our Tax Code is most effective when we have certainty, predictability, and when we have made decisions out of Congress that we think we do want to incent and motivate investment.

This Chamber in Congress helped make sure that the gentleman who threw that rope, that lifeline from the USS Vestal to the USS Arizona, received full recognition for the act of heroism. Joe George went for decades without recognition for his act of bravery to save these six sailors. He was able to receive just a couple of years ago, on December 7, 2017, the Bronze Star, in recognition of his acts.

Donald Stratton marked the last time that Donald Stratton was able to join the memorial service to commemorate December 7, Pearl Harbor.

I have this picture here that I will show of Donald Stratton, who again yesterday was brought into our lives, which will improve the standard of living and the quality of the lives of all Americans. for corporations, you should at least give small businesses and individual taxpayers the certainty they deserve in the Tax Code.

These provisions have been in the Tax Code for a long, long time. This is not new. It is not as if we haven’t done this before. But instead of taking care of today’s Tax Code before December 31, people are off making grandiose discussions.

I get it that some people on this side of the aisle want to change the way we do things and make corrections to the Tax Code, and other people on our side of the aisle would like to make a $100 billion investment in child tax credit. Look, I am appreciative of that discussion, but quit waging that battle, and do our day job, and take the Tax Code and the expiring provisions, and give taxpayers certainty by the 31st of this month.

Another example is that the expired provisions would help address the high cost of higher education by allowing students and families to deduct up to $4,000 for tuition and other high education costs. With total student loan debt of $1.5 trillion and average student debt of over $31,000, provisions like these on deductibility are very important.

On employment and economic development, nearly 26 percent of the provisions that are expiring are related to incentivizing employment investment in lower income communities.

The new markets tax credit. There is probably not a Member in the Senate who has not had a jurisdiction in their State use the new markets tax credit as one of the most effective economic development and community tools. This credit encourages private investments in low-income communities. Since the program was enacted in 2000, the new markets tax credit has delivered over $36 billion in project financing to more than 6,000 projects and created 1 million jobs.

Why can’t we have certainty on the new markets tax credit by December 31 of this year? There is no reason.

The new markets tax credits expire, and where are we going to be on building affordable housing, healthcare facilities, community clinics, research and technology incubators, and mixed-use commercial programs? I see no reason why we can’t get this job done. I have been working with Senators Carper and Kennedy on a bill that would make this program permanent, and, hopefully, we wouldn’t have to go through this routine every year.

But take another example. The work opportunity tax credit has been an incredibly effective tool in helping individuals, including veterans, to find gainful employment. The work opportunity tax credit provides up to $2,400 for hiring a certified person, including veterans and people receiving SNAP and TANF benefits. We know this program did well. In the State for each person certified to receive the tax credit, there is a net savings of $17,700 in Federal subsidies. Where is the voice for people who say: Let’s give a tax credit and put people to work and actually reduce Federal subsidies? Oh, we are letting it expire again and giving uncertainty in the Tax Code.

Why? I am not sure because people are too busy in a big debate instead of getting our basic tax extension homework done. Let’s not continue to fail. Let’s get out here and give these work opportunity tax credits the predictability people would like to see. In 2013, Washington had over 26,000 individuals certified with the tax credit, helping them find employment, and that represented a total of $42 million in savings.

All of these issues I am talking about—investments in our communities, investments in tax credits that give businesses certainty so they can continue to drive down costs, investments in low-income communities, incentivizing employment investment in child tax credit, helping them find employment, and that represented a total of $42 million in savings.

I urge all of my colleagues to vote for Judge Myers’, or soon-to-be Judge Myers’, confirmation when it comes up later today.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Carolina.

Mr. BURR. Mr. President, I also rise today to voice my strong support for the President’s nomination of Professor Richard Myers to serve as a judge in the Eastern District of North Carolina. I might add for my colleagues that it is the longest court vacancy in the history of our Judicial System. Professor Myers was reported out of committee on a strong bipartisan vote on October 31. I am pleased that the Senate will today consider his nomination.

I want to give my colleagues some additional insight into a man whom we are asking them to vote on and that goes beyond his stellar legal credentials. The first thing I want my colleagues to know is that Professor Myers embodies a work ethic and diligence that we reserve in a lot of our judges. As an immigrant from Kingston, Jamaica, Professor Myers is a first-generation college student in his family. He worked his way through his undergraduate degree at the University of North Carolina School of Law and began a legal career as a clerk for Judge David Sentelle of the DC Circuit Court of Appeals.

Second, Professor Myers will be a judge who understands the value of public service, having made a career change from practicing at a prestigious private firm to contributing to our Nation’s justice system following the attacks of September 11, 2001. He said that his change in career was something I felt that I could do and that I owed to a country that had been really good to my family.

He did this first in the Central District of California and then in the Eastern District of North Carolina. Professor Myers has taken his different path of service at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, instructing the next generation of lawyers to be people who, in his own words, “do the right thing every day.”

If confirmed, Professor Myers will serve on the Eastern District of North Carolina and, as Senator Tillis said, will hold court in Wilmington. Ironically, this court is currently meeting in the building that once housed the Wilmington Morning Star, his first job as a reporter. However, when considering Professor Myers’ story, it seems fitting that someone with the character, work ethic, and servant’s approach to life will be returning to the building for his first post-college job wearing the robe of a Federal judge. I have faith in Professor Myers’ ability to do the right thing every day in this critically important role, and I am grateful for the opportunity to speak on his behalf to our colleagues. This is well-deserving, and he will be an incredibly effective serving judge in our district court system. I urge my colleagues to support him unanimously.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the presence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BURR. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. FISCHER). Without objection, it is so ordered.

The question is, Will the Senate advise and consent to the Myers nomination?

Mr. BURR. Madam President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

EXECUTIVE CALENDAR

Mr. CORNYN. Madam President, I announce that the resolution read the nomination of Robert M. Duncan, of Kentucky, to be a Governor of the United States Postal Service for a term expiring December 8, 2025. (Reappointment)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUEST—S. RES. 150

Mr. MENENDEZ. Madam President, I come to the floor again to seek unanimous consent for a resolution that commemorates the Armenian genocide.

In October, the House of Representatives passed a version of this resolution by a vote of 405 to 11—405 to 11. This vote was historic, and I applaud the bipartisan courage of those in the House to stand up for what is right.

For those here in the Senate who would consider objecting to this request, I urge you to think long and hard about what it means for your reputation, what it means for history, and what it means for the Senate as an institution. History is watching, and it will not look kindly on those who object to recognizing genocide.

In recent speeches before the Senate, I have laid out the case for why we must move forward on this resolution.
The simple threshold question for this body comes to this: Do we recognize a clear case of genocide when it happens, or do we let a country like Turkey determine our own views, determine our own sense of history, determine our own moral obligation, and determine the public record—a Turkey that today is committing atrocities against the Kurds in Syria, a Turkey that has teamed up with Russia and the Kremlin in purchasing the S-400 air defense system recently used it against an American F-16 to see if it works, and a Turkey that works to block forward movement in NATO on key national security objectives of the United States?

At what point do we say enough is enough? At what point do we simply move forward and acknowledge the truth? The truth is that the Armenian genocide happened. It is a fact. To deny that is to deny one of the monstrous acts of history. This denial is a stain on the Senate and our country. We have an opportunity to right that wrong and put the U.S. Senate on the right side of history.

Let us again review some of that history here today. More than 104 years ago, the Ottoman Empire launched a systemic campaign to exterminate the Armenian population through killings, forced deportations, starvation, and other brutal matters. How do we know this? How do we know this? Because U.S. diplomats were there. They wrote it down and sent it back to the State Department in Washington.

Henry Morgenthau, the U.S. Ambassador to the Ottoman Empire from 1913 to 1916, wrote this in his memoir: When the Turkish authorities gave the orders for these deportations, they were merely giving the death warrant to a whole race; they understood this well, and, in their conversations with me, they made no particular attempt to conceal this fact. I am confident that history of the human race contains no such horrible episode as this. The great massacres and persecutions of the past seem almost insignificant when compared to the sufferings of the Armenian race in 1915.

That is what Henry Morgenthau said. On June 5, 1915, the U.S. consul in Aleppo, Jesse Jackson, wrote to Ambassador Morgenthau, saying: There is a living stream of Armenians pouring into Aleppo from the surrounding towns and villages.

The Ottoman government has been appealed to by various prominent people and even by those in authority to put an end to these conditions, under the representations that it can only lead to the greatest blame and reproach, but all to no avail. It is without doubt a carefully planned scheme to thoroughly extinguish the Armenian race.

On July 24, 1915, in a report to Ambassador Morgenthau, the U.S. consul in Harput, Leslie Davis, stated: “Any doubt that may have been expressed in previous reports as to the Government’s intention in sending away the Armenians have been removed. . . . It has become clear that the plan is not simply to destroy the Armenian race as a race. . . . Everything was apparently planned months ago.

In an October 1, 1916 telegram to Secretary of State Robert Lansing, U.S. Charge d’Affaires Hoffman Philip wrote, “The Department is in receipt of ample details demonstrating the horrors of the anti-Armenian campaign. For many months past I have been told that the method the Turks are employing in dealing with the situation from an international standpoint would be to flatly threaten to withdraw our Diplomatic Representative from a country where such barbarous methods are not only tolerated but actually carried out by order of the existing government.” And finally, Abram I. Elkus, who served as the United States Ambassador to the Ottoman Empire from 1916–17, telegraphed the Secretary of State on October 17, 1916, stating “In order to avoid opprobrium of the civilized world, which the continuation of massacres [of the Armenians] would arouse, Turkish officials have now adopted and are executing the unmentionable, and I ask unhesitatingly through starvation, exhaustion, and brutality of treatment hardly surpassed even in Turkish history.”

That continues to verify that these diplomats saw the truth with their own eyes. They appealed to their superiors in Washington. They did their job, and the historical record proves it. Now it is up to individual U.S. Senators to do your job.

The Government of Turkey has funded lobbyists willing to trumpet lies and make excuses for these atrocities. The Turkish Government and its sympathizers have advocated for restrictive laws on expression and against legislation that recognizes the Armenian genocide. They will stop at nothing to bury the truth. I hope that individual Senators will not once again fall for it.

Any apprehension, any trepidation on the part of Senators who believe this resolution will somehow do irreparable harm to our relationship with Turkey is simply unfounded. Twenty-seven countries have recognized the genocide in one form or another. Some saw trade increases in Turkey following their recognition. Twelve members of NATO have recognized the genocide. They still work with Turkey on defense issues. They still have embassies in Ankara. Their relationships were not irreparably harmed. Belgium, Canada, the Czech Republic, France, Germany, Greece, Italy, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Poland, and the Slovak Republic all did the right thing.

I say to my friends and colleagues that genocide is genocide. Senators in this body should have the simple courage to say it plainly, say it clearly, and say it without reservation.

In every session of Congress since 2006, I have introduced or cosponsored resolutions affirming the facts of the Armenian genocide. When I was chair of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, I was proud to preside over the passage of an Armenian genocide resolution out of the committee.

The work continues here today. If we are not successful this afternoon, I know we are not going to stop until we are. I am not going to stop until I go through every single Senator who is willing to come to the floor and issue an objection on behalf of the administration in this body. Americans need to know who stands in support of recognizing the genocide and who opposes it.

I thank Senator CRUZ for joining me in this effort. He has been stalwart in making the case on behalf of Armenian communities in the United States.

I thank the 27 additional Senators who have been willing to stand up for a true, clear-eyed vision: Senators VAN HOLLEN, RUBIO, STABENOW, GARDNER, MARKET, CORNYN, WARREN, ROMNEY, PETERS, PORTMAN, FEINSTEIN, WYDEN, DUCKWORTH, REED, SCHUMER, UDALL, HARRIS, WHITEHOUSE, SANDERS, KLOBUCHAR, CARDIN, BOOKER, CASEY, BENNET, ROSEN, BROWN, and CORTEZ. I thank them all. I thank you for your courtesy, your courage, and your commitment.

I yield to my colleague from Texas. The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. YOUNG). The Senator from Texas.

Mr. CRUZ. Mr. President, I am proud to join with my colleague from New Jersey in urging the Senate to take up and pass the bipartisan Menendez-Cruz resolution affirming U.S. recognition of the Armenian genocide.

From 1915 to 1923, the Ottoman Empire carried out a forced deportation of nearly 1.5 million Armenians, of whom 1 million were killed. It was an atrocious genocide. That it happened is a fact and an undeniable reality. In fact, the very word “genocide,” which literally means the killing of an entire people, was coined by Raphael Lemkin to describe the horrific nature of the Ottoman Empire’s calculated extermination of the Armenians.

We must never be silenced in response to atrocities. Over 100 years ago, the world witnessed an atrocity from which Armenians suffered and were murdered, and many people today are still unaware of what happened.

With this resolution, we are saying that it is the policy of the United States of America to commemorate the Armenian genocide through official recognition and remembrance. We have a moral duty to acknowledge what happened to 1.5 million innocent souls. It is the right thing to do.

As my colleague from New Jersey pointed out, 12 NATO nations have similarly recognized the Armenian genocide. Yes, Turkey is a NATO ally, but allies can speak the truth to each other. We should never be afraid to tell the truth, and alliances grounded in lies are themselves unsustainable. Additionally, in the coming days, the Foreign Relations Committee will be marking up an enormous package of sanctions on Turkey.

The horse has left the barn. There is no good reason for the administration to object to this resolution, and the effect of doing so is to deny recognition of the chilling moment of history.

Let me begin by echoing the optimism the Senator from New Jersey expressed. We may well see an objection here today, as we did when Senator MENENDEZ and I previously came to the Senate floor and sought to pass this just a couple of weeks ago, but I believe that in the coming days and weeks, we will get this passed and that this objection, I hope, will be only temporary. I look forward to the day—hopefully very, very soon—when all 100 Senators, Democrats and Republicans, are united in simply speaking the truth, recognizing the genocide that occurred, and making perfectly clear that America stands against genocide.

Mr. CRAMER. Mr. President, reserv- ing the right to object, I don’t think there is a member of the U.S. Senate who doesn’t have serious concerns about Turkey’s behavior both historically and currently. In fact, I support the spirit of this resolution. I suspect 99 of my colleagues do. At the right time, we may pass it, as Senator Cruz has stated; however, I don’t think this is the right time. If there is a right time, this certainly isn’t it. It is large- ly because just hours ago, our Presi- dent returned from the NATO summit in London. I think this was a topic of discussion with the leadership from Turkey—this being the acknowledgement of genocide, as well as the purchase of the S–400.

I want to have a clear readout of the President’s interaction and dialogue with President Erdogan and our delega- tion’s negotiations with Turkey before adopting this resolution. I don’t think we can take the risk of undermining the complex and ongoing diplomatic efforts which are in our national security interests.

I, too, want to be on the right side of history. I believe we will be on the right side of history, but these negotia- tions that the President is currently in are a part of getting on the right side of history.

I appreciate the ongoing conversations and still hope we will be able to overcome the challenges in the bilateral relationship with Turkey. We know where the challenges are, and we all share the goal of seeing them appropriately addressed, but there is no good alternative right now. In my view, adoption of this resolution today is unnecessary and might very well under- mine that diplomatic effort at a key time.

I do not intend to continuously object to this resolution, but I believe it is appropriate for me to do so at this time, so I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

The Senator from New Jersey. Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, once again, I am deeply disappointed. This is the third time a Senator, Mr. MENENDEZ, Mr. President, once again, I am deeply disappointed. This is the third time a Senator, Senator Menendez, has come to the floor to object to the resolution—the recognition of the genocide resolution. There is never a good time. There is never a good time. There is always the right time, however, to recognize geno- cide as genocide.

My colleague from North Dakota ac- tually sponsored H. Res. 220, the Arme- nian genocide resolution, affirming “the proper commemoration and con- stant condemnation of the Armenian genocide as an international standing in preventing moder- n-day genocides” when he was a Member of the House of Representa- tives. He was right then. He was right then. The time was right then, and the time is right now.

President Erdogan was here in the United States a couple of weeks ago. There was a meeting at the White House. A few of my colleagues had the privilege of joining the President ex- pressing their discontent. Erdogan has been given options—a way out of the di- lemma that Turkey has put themselves in with the S–400. Basically, they were told either return to Russia and de- stroy them in our presence and/or give them to us, which, of course, Russia will never allow that to happen, for us to have their technology.

There was a deadline. It was yester- day. I waited until today to make sure that in fact we wouldn’t intercede in Turkey’s leadership, which that possibility, Turkey, in the interim, while this is going on, they used the S–400 to fire at an F–16 to see if they could take it down. Really? Really?

So this premise that there was a meeting in NATO—well, there was a meeting in Washington, and then there was a meeting in NATO. They still haven’t done anything on the S–400. They still haven’t exercised any of the options that have been given to them.

I just want my colleagues to know that I intend to engage the President and all those who want to be listed on the wrong side of history, they have the option of doing so. I am not going to cease until we do what is morally and principally right, and that is to recognize the Armenian genocide as a host of other nations have done as well.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Sen- ator from Delaware.

Mr. COONS. Mr. President, I serve on the Senate Judiciary Committee, as a member of the Bar Association of Dela- ware, and a Member of the Delaware State Senate. I am concerned about the transforma- tion of our Federal judiciary under this current administration. I am particularly concerned about rising issues around qualification and compet- ency. Let me speak to that, if I might, for a few minutes.

This Senate is doing precious little in terms of legislating, but we are moving at a breakneck pace to confirm Presi- dent Trump’s judicial nominees—roughly, 150 so far. During the entire 8 years of the previous administration, 55 circuit court judges were confirmed. Nearly that same number have been confirmed in just 3 years of the Trump administration—48. Nearly one in seven of all U.S. district court judges currently serving have been appointed by President Trump.

I am deeply concerned about the quality of some of these nominations. Some have never taken a deposition, argued a motion, let alone tried a case in a court of law. President Trump, the professional association of lawyers, has ranked nine of President Trump’s nominees as “not qualified,” which is an exceptionally unusual and striking step for them to take.

This isn’t about whether the Presi- dent’s nominees are conservative or not. I understand that elections have consequences and that a Republican President will more often than not nominate conservative judges. I have, in some cases, joined my Democratic colleagues in supporting qualified nominees put forward by the administra- tion who have won support from their home State Senators and ad- vanced through a bipartisan judicial nomination and confirmation process in our committee, but let’s be clear. I will not stand by while this administra- tion rams through nominees who are not just Republican and not just conservative but demonstrably un- qualified to serve.

I can’t support nominees with deeply concerning records about their com- mitment to justice and to advancing a commonsense juris prudence. I am not going to set a standard any lower than what has been required in previous ad- ministrations to merit a seat on the Federal bench for many, many years.

We have heard in this Chamber and around this country that the quality of the Federal bench and the capabilities and the experience and the values and the integrity of those who serve on Federal benches across this country is an absolutely essential piece of our Constitution and our ordered liberty.
We have worked together on ways to improve healthcare planning for people who are in the late stage of illness to make sure that they get the care that they want and don’t get a lot of care that they don’t want and so that they have a chance to have their dignity and desires to be honored.

We have been long adherent of a bipartisan budget, and I am delighted that the bipartisan bill that Senator Enzi and I have put together will create a budget. I am not sure we will be able to get that done before Senator Isakson leaves, but one way or the other, his interest in bipartisan budgeting will live on, I hope, successfully when we pass that.

We had a parity question about children’s mental health hospitals that weren’t getting counted and, therefore, weren’t getting access to funding for the medical interns who come, and Johnny helped me fix that. It helped, I am sure, hospitals in Georgia, but it was particularly helpful to me for our Children’s Hospital in Rhode Island.

We have a lot of Rhode Islanders who were killed in the Lebanon Marine barracks bombing, and there has been litigation against Iran for its responsibility for those deaths. It is not easy to collect a judgment on a foreign government, and Johnny has been very helpful to me in our joint efforts on Iran terror victims’ judgments, helping us let the lawyers collect against assets of the Government of Iran.

Then, we regularly have done National Mentoring Month resolutions together.

But for all the things we have done together, that is not what I am going to miss about Senator JOHNNY ISAKSON. He is just one of the most decent, kind, good people who I have come across anywhere in my life and, certainly, one of the most decent and kind Members of the Senate.

With my very sincere apologies, JOHNNY, for missing the correct day, I hope you will understand how much it mattered to me to be elsewhere and why I had to be there. I come to this floor, belatedly, to wish you all my very best with great affection and great respect.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

Tribute to Johnny Isakson

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. Mr. President, I come to the floor today because I missed an important occasion in the Senate. We had a celebration recently of one of our most beloved Members, Senator Johnny Isakson of Georgia.

There wasn’t much that could keep me away from that, but there was no Senator going to Madrid to the conference of the parties to consider the Paris Climate Agreement. Speaker Pelosi asked me to come on her delegation to be bicameral. As I think most people in this body know, I am pretty animated on that subject and couldn’t say no. There are not many other things that could have kept me away.

I want to come now and make up a little bit for being absent that day and express my gratitude for Johnny’s friendship to me over the years. I had the pleasure of going with him to the D-day anniversary on a codell that he led with his usual graciousness and presence. I was kind enough to join quite early on the bipartisan Senate Oceans Caucus I started and has been a very helpful part of that endeavor.
There appears to be a sufficient second. The clerk will call the roll. The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. THUNE. The following Senators are necessarily absent: the Senator from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON), the Senator from Kansas (Mr. MORAN), the Senator from Alaska (Ms. MURKOWSKI), the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. PAUL), the Senator from Georgia (Mr. PERDUE), and the Senator from South Dakota (Mr. Rounds).

Further, in present and voting, the Senator from Kansas (Mr. MORAN) would have voted “yea.”

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from New Jersey (Mr. BOOKER), the Senator from California (Ms. HARRIS), the Senator from Minnesota (Ms. KLOBUCHAR), the Senator from Vermont (Mr. SANDERS), and the Senator from Massachusetts (Ms. WARREN) are necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The Senator for Louisiana.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, last week, of course, was Thanksgiving, a day that we all set aside in America to give thanks. And I am always thankful that, we as a country, are grateful for our many blessings that have been bestowed upon us.

I know I say that to myself. So I thought to myself, a few minutes ago, I would mention two things that I am especially thankful for, even though this isn’t Thanksgiving, but it is another day that the Lord has blessed us with.

The first thing—and there are many things that I am thankful for, but the first thing I am thankful for is that I want to mention today is the many public servants who care for and protect American taxpayer money.

I want to highlight one in particular: the Chairman of the FCC, over many obstacles, announced that he was going to hold a public auction for the C-band.

Why is that important? We all have a cell phone now, and many of us have iPads and computers. The internet has changed the way we work and change our lives. It has made it more complicated, of course, but on balance, I think the internet has been good for our lives.

We are about to move into a new phase of telecommunications called 5G. It stands for fifth generation. It is really an extraordinarily fast internet. It can carry huge amounts of data. The ingenuity of the American people takes my breath away.

I am particularly impressed with 4G, and 5G is going to be 10 times faster. It is going to make things possible like telemedicine, where a specialist in a field of surgery through robotics and now an incredibly fast internet can operate on a sick patient 1,000 miles away and save his or her life, thanks to 5G. We will be able to hook up all of our devices through 5G, saving time. It will give us more precious time to spend with our family. There will be driverless cars. Maybe I will not see them in my lifetime, but my grandchildren will. And those cars may well save someone’s life, thanks to 5G.

5G is going to be 100 times faster. It is going to be mind-blowing. It is going to be truly transformative and make American ingenuity of the American people take my breath away.

The American taxpayer not only would get the upfront money—about $60 billion. That is just the upfront money—$60 billion. That would build 7,000 miles of interstate in this country.

The FCC auctions off different airwaves all the time. In fact, the FCC in the last 25 years has held right around 100—I think it is 93—public auctions where anybody who wants to, any company that wants to—competition, moral good—can come in and bid for that part of the airwaves. The good people at the FCC have brought in to the American taxpayer about $123 billion in the last 25 years by auctioning off these airwaves and giving everybody a fair chance in a fully transparent way in front of God and country. That is the way it ought to be.

But a lot of swamp creatures were pushing hard for this private sale. The American taxpayer not only would get the $60 billion, they would lose control of the C-band, which, according to the Communications Act, doesn’t belong to me, doesn’t belong to the businesses; it belongs to the American people.

We can’t let our guard down. I have learned in my short 3 years here that those swamp creatures—if they can’t get in the front door, they are going to try the side door, if they can’t make it through the side door, they are going to try the back door. We have a lot of swamp creatures at stake here, so we have to remain vigilant.

I want to thank Ajit Pai for standing up. He made the right people mad.
That is easy to talk about, but it is hard to do. It takes courage, and he did it, and I wanted to single him out. The second thing I want to say is thankful for, among so many things, is this: I am so thankful for our neighbors in Canada and for the wonderful country with extraordinarily friendly, decent, and God-fearing people.

Our leaders squabble sometimes. That is just the way life is. Sometimes good friends have disagreements. We are having a few little disagreements right now. But on this beautiful Thursday, I just wanted to come and say how thankful I am that Canada is our friend and that I am able to call them friends and how grateful I am for all 37 million of the fine men, women, and children in that great country.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the question be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I come to the floor this afternoon to discuss two issues: one dealing with the World Bank and another one dealing with the Department of Defense's inability to get clean audits.

Today the World Bank is releasing its country partnership framework with China. Reportedly, this includes $1 billion to $1.5 billion of loans to China per year and $500 million to $1 billion in private sector investment.

Keep in mind that the World Bank was created to help economic development in the world's poorest countries. China is now the world's second largest economy after the United States. Also, the United States is the World Bank's largest contributor. I think many Americans would question why so many American tax dollars are going to this portion of the world. China is now the world's second largest economy.

I have written a letter to the Bank President, Malpass, asking questions about these systemic concerns. Moreover, I questioned why a country like China, whose economy has far surpassed the threshold at which it is supposed to graduate from rural bank funding, is now and forever still taking loans.

The World Bank was created for a very worthwhile purpose—to help poor countries that cannot, on their own efforts, assess capital markets. China today has well surpassed the World Bank's graduation threshold and have access to capital markets. Yet American taxpayers are called on to do more. Yet China then continues to borrow, on average, $2 billion a year from the World Bank, making it one of the Bank's top borrowers—the second largest economy in the world and one of the Bank's top borrowers.

Countries like China or Russia that have been the most economic progress should not seek to maintain access to the Bank's preferential lending rates and technical support. Moreover, these are our two major geopolitical foes.

I have previously highlighted China's influence and propaganda efforts, including its foreign investment in universities as just an example of other things I looked at in the case of China. Russia's illegal occupation of territory in Georgia and Ukraine and its support of foreign influence activities at American universities as just another example of other things I looked at.

China's foreign investment has led to the Bank's ability to get clean audits.

In a statement on August 29, the World Bank stated that it had conducted supervision missions twice a year since the project started and that these missions included a review of social safeguards and a monitoring and evaluation review. The World Bank found "no evidence from subsequent reviews that funds were diverted, misused, or used for activities not in line with project objectives or World Bank policies and criteria."

However, just last month, the Bank raised the environmental and social risk ratings from moderate—the second lowest level—to substantial and then to high—the highest level. It is very disappointing that very little happened in upgrading the risk assessments on this project until after congressional attention, even with an internal whistleblower raising the matter. This seems like a failed process to me when routine audits and a whistleblower raised the matter, and despite increasingly concerning reports in the media about mistreatment and abuse.

I question whether the Bank's oversight processes are adequate, given its own assessments saw no issue with these intern camps that go by the professional name of Technical and Vocational Education and Training Project—and I am referring particularly to those in Xinjiang Province.

sustainability problems, and where China is a dominant creditor in the key position to address these problems."

The World Bank, again using American tax dollars, should not be lending to wealthy countries that violate the human rights of their citizens and attempt to dominate weaker countries through their loans, whether it is done for military reasons or for economic reasons.

The State-Foreign Operations Appropriations bill contains funding and authorization for a large capital increase for the World Bank. In other words, what I just said—the Senate is going to face this issue. I have developed an amendment to this bill that would insert language requiring the U.S. representative to the World Bank to work to defeat any project in a country that has reached the World Bank’s own “graduation threshold” and, secondly, that is designated by the State Department as a “country of particular concern for religious freedom” or is on the watch list for such designation. Both of those would include China and Russia at this point. Countries with broadly documented violations of international norms, human rights, and religious freedom should be given the leeway of accessing preferential loans that then limit access to other countries in need.

In other words, the second largest economy in the world—China—by getting a loan from the World Bank at the same time they violate the human rights of their people—developing countries that need the loans and resources are not getting them because they are going to the wealthy nations.

DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS

Mr. President, now to my second and last issue of the day, I want to report on the Pentagon’s most recent audit. Unfortunately, I don’t come with tidings of comfort and joy. Instead, I come with tidings of bad news. The Department of Defense has failed another test of fiscal fitness yet again.

Last year, Congress authorized more than $700 billion for the Department of Defense. That is a heck of a lot of money. That is why it is a big deal that the Pentagon is unable to account for the hundreds of billions of taxpayer dollars it spends from one year to the next year.

Every dollar that Congress approves for the Defense Department is crucial for our security. We must ensure that America’s sons and daughters in uniform are well paid and well equipped to defend our great country. That is why I work tirelessly to hold the Pentagon accountable.

The good news is I am Iowa-stubborn. As a taxpayer watchdog, I won’t let go of this bone until I see results.

There is always bad news after you announce good news, so the bad news is that the Pentagon’s books are a big fiscal mess. In fact, the Defense Department is the very last Federal agency to comply with a Federal law—decades old—requiring an annual audit.

It took 28 years after Congress enacted a law requiring every Federal agency to conduct an annual audit for the Pentagon to get its ducks in a row. Unfortunately, the results are not what they are quacked up to be.

As required by the Chief Financial Officers Act, the bean counters at the Department of Defense disclosed their financial assessments for fiscal year 2019 to the Office of Inspector General, and then the IG deployed 1,400 auditors to 600 sites around the world. These auditors of these 600 different sites surveyed $2.9 trillion in assets and tallied $2.8 trillion in liabilities. After spending $1 billion to conduct this audit, the Department of Defense inspector general was unable to issue a clean opinion, and that is the goal we seek.

Just like other Departments can get clean opinions, why can’t the Defense Department do so? The case is that year after year, the Pentagon is unable to account for resources coming in and tax dollars going out.

Let me clarify for everyone listening just what happens when big spenders aren’t held accountable. Tax dollars are ripe for wrongdoers to harvest, and, as we all know, that is precisely what we call the Defense Department, with bases and contractors stationed around the globe, Pentagon spending is vulnerable to waste, fraud, and abuse.

As a Pentagon watchdog, I have approached the Pentagon’s spending nearly 50 times over my years of service here in the Senate to continually call attention to this wasteful spending by the Department of Defense. At the same time, I haven’t avoided calling attention to wasteful spending in any agency of the Federal Government, but the Department of Defense has gotten the majority of my attention. During this period of time, I have written countless oversight letters and launched inquiries that I have encouraged my colleagues to ramp up their oversight work so we can work together to fix what is broken.

The top dogs at the Pentagon have undertaken countless reform efforts, so I am not saying they don’t recognize it and try to do something about it, but after all these decades, they have not succeeded.

At the same time, besides undertaking countless reform efforts, they also haveegasus. They have testified that real solutions are underway. Yet the results of the fiscal 2019 audit leaves this Iowa Senator underwhelmed. Tax dollars are still leaking through the Pentagon ledgers like a sieve. The plumbing is broken. When the fiscal faucets are cranked wide open, at full throttle, with no internal controls welded in place to prevent leaking, tax dollars are flushed down the drain.

Over many years of oversight, dozens of top brass in the Defense Department and the top brass of U.S. military have come to my office to offer explanations for wasteful spending, particularly after the Pentagon is on the receiving end of unflattering headlines. They have polished their skills when it comes to dodging tough questions posed by my oversight letters. They are also well prepared to rationalize hundreds of billions of dollars for their budget.

It is entirely reasonable and the responsibility of each of our lawmakers, including this one, to expect that they also have the ability to show us where these money goes. I have approached dialogue with our Nation’s military leaders in good faith, but time and again, I have been disappointed. The Defense Department’s inability or unwillingness to make necessary and overdue changes is quite unacceptable. The buck stops here, of course. As representatives of the American people, we owe it to our constituents.

The Defense Department is the largest Federal agency. Those same military leaders plead for additional funding to defend our Nation, fight our enemies, and protect our interests abroad. Those military leaders discuss the growing threat of cyber attacks, aging and obsolete equipment, and say that cuts to their budget would hurt our men and women in uniform.

National defense, as we all know, is the No. 1 priority of the Federal Government under the Constitution, so Congress is understandably reluctant to deny money that military leaders say they need. That, in turn, is the reason earning a clean audit is shoved to the back burner at the Defense Department.

Congress and the Pentagon need to reach an understanding. Fiscal accountability and military readiness are not mutually exclusive. It is not an either/or scenario. Earning a clean bill of fiscal health would strengthen military funding and be necessary increases to defense spending in Congress and among the American people.

Money somehow seems to simply get lost at the Defense Department. It is unreasonable to concede that it is OK for military inventory to vanish into thin air. It boils down to sloppy bookkeeping and antiquated accounting systems that can’t generate reliable transaction data.

The problem starts at the top and filters down throughout the five quarters of the Pentagon. Let’s consider the recent debacle with the TransDigm Group, the Defense Department’s Office of Inspector General released a report on spare parts that the Pentagon purchased from TransDigm. The result of that report exposed the rinse-and-repeat fiscal shenanigans corroding the accounting systems. In the report, the IG analyzed 113 contracts between January 2015 and January 2017. It reviewed 47 spare parts the Defense Department purchased from TransDigm. In that window of time of only 2 years, TransDigm overcharged the Defense Department by more than $16 million.

I will go out on a limb and suggest that Americans would rather spend $16 million for the Defense Department on our men and women in uniform rather than overpaying for spare parts rip-offs to a defense contractor.

Congress can’t sign blank checks to the Defense Department. We must work to ensure every dollar is present and accounted for. The Nation’s strongest military in the world is managed by a Defense Department where taxpayer dollars seem to vanish without explanation, without receipts, and without accountability. Over the years, I have collected a laundry list of Pentagon waste, fraud, and abuse.

I have exposed $1,200 reheatable coffee cups and $14,000 toilet seat lids. The dirty laundry just keeps piling up, and at the same time it is piling up, it is soaking the taxpayer.

These wasteful expenditures represent just the tip of an iceberg. The simple truth is the Defense Department can’t keep track of or doesn’t seem to care where tax dollars are spent. Internal controls are weak and, in some cases, nonexistent. That has been reinforced by this second audit for which the Department of Defense inspector general can’t give a clean audit.

For a second time, I would suggest that what the law of 28 years ago tries to accomplish is that every Department get a clean audit—a clean opinion on their audit. Let me repeat for a second time that Defense Department is the only agency of the Federal Government that can’t do that. The Defense Department, repeating again, is the only agency that hasn’t been able to审计 their bills. The Defense Department should approach spending no differently. That is why I pushed for new Defense Secretary Esper, the proof is in the pudding. From one administration to the next, it has been the same story. Business goes on as usual.

From the top of the chain of command to the rank and file, there is a pervasive mindset that assumes no one is watching over them and that no one cares. For four decades, this Senator has been watching, and this Senator cares. I am disgusted each time I discover another example of wasteful spending.

So I am here this very day, as I have been dozens of times before in my service in the Senate, to ask my colleagues in both the Senate and House of Representatives to join me in a crusade to stop wasteful spending at the Defense Department. There is a saying that goes something like this: no guts, no glory. Well, wasteful spending is gutless and goes right through the taxpayers. There is no glory in that, and people might wonder then, why does this Senator bother?

I have fought fiscal mismanagement at the Defense Department for these many decades. I have launched investigations after investigation and come to the floor of the Senate to talk until I am blue in the face. Billions of dollars have been poured into a decades-long effort to right the fiscal ship at the Defense Department. The Pentagon has hundreds and hundreds of partial orders, two complete audits, and endless technology updates to modernize its IT and accounting systems. Yet no one can tell us when, if ever, a clean audit might be possible. How can that be? After nearly 30 years of effort, there is no solution.

The Department of Defense can develop the most advanced weapons systems to defend the world, but it can’t deploy something as simple and common as an accounting system that is capable of capturing payment transactions and generating reliable fiscal and financial data. That is why it is a cakewalk for crooks to rip into the Pentagon’s money from both ends and use a front end loader to free load their way through this money pit.

Without a clean audit on the foresee-able horizon, there is no evidence to catch anyone’s hands in the Pentagon cookie jar. The only way we will root out fraud and wasteful spending is by knowing where the money is being spent.

That brings me back to square one as I finish. We need a clean audit and a re-liable accounting system. As I mentioned earlier, I am Iowa stubborn, and, by God, I am willing to work with my colleagues and go toe-to-toe with any administration, Republican or Democrat. I will work as long as it takes until we see eye to hold the Defense Department accountable once and for all.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BROWN). The Senator from Maryland.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, I rise to commemorate the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change COP25th Conference of the Parties, or COP25, which is taking place in Madrid until December 12 this year. I do so despite the cloud cast by President Trump’s announcement of his intention to withdraw the United States from the Paris Agreement.

The Paris Agreement is a landmark effort to reduce global greenhouse gas emissions in an effort to limit the global temperature increase in this century to 2 degrees Celsius above preindustrial levels while pursuing means to limit the increase to 1.5 degrees.

The COP meetings now routinely represent the largest multilateral diplomatic events in the world. This year’s conference is designed to take the next critical steps in the U.N. climate change process. Framework Convention on the implementation guidelines of the Paris Agreement COP24 in Poland last year, a key objective is to complete several matters with respect to the full operationalization of the Paris climate change agreement.

Article 28 of the Paris Agreement specifies that after joining, no country can withdraw for 3 years, after which a 1-year waiting period must occur before withdrawal takes effect. The Trump administration recently filed with the United Nations, making November 4, 2020, the earliest possible date the United States can be out of the agreement.
Withdrawal could not come at a costlier time. In an analysis I requested to review the Federal approach to prioritizing and funding climate resilience projects that address the Nation’s most significant climate risks, the Government Accountability Office notes that the United States has at least 100 cities, states, and territories whose costs exceeded $1 billion each in 2018 alone.

GAO, an independent, nonpartisan agency that examines how taxpayer dollars are spent and is known as the congressional watchdog, reported that the total estimated costs reached at least $91 billion in damage to public and private property.

The cost of recent weather disasters has illustrated the need to plan for climate change risks and invest in climate resilience,” the report says. “Investing in climate resilience can reduce the need for far more costly steps in the decades to come.”

The Paris Agreement establishes a global commitment to green adaptation that consists of, one, enhancing adaptation capacity; two, strengthening resilience; and three, reducing vulnerability to climate change in the context of the temperature goal of the agreement. It aims at strengthening the national adaptation efforts, including through support and international cooperation. It recognizes that adaptation is a global challenge faced by all, including the United States.

Because recently withdrawal will not formally take effect until November 4, 2020, the U.S. team’s posture at COP25 remains largely unchanged. A group of dedicated career civil servants will be on the ground.

Moreover, 2 years ago, numerous U.S. States, cities, Tribal nations, businesses, faith groups, universities, and others enhanced their presence at major international events, including COP meetings, to maintain and encourage progress toward its national climate pledges.

I am proud that nearly 100 Maryland legislators “Are Still In.” They comprise dozens of businesses—many small. We have over 10 cities, 6 counties, cultural institutions, faith and healthcare organizations, 20 universities, including my alma mater, the University of Maryland School of Law in Baltimore, and investors, such as the State treasurer of Maryland. They are all still in.

More importantly, for our purposes here today, the report underscores just how crucial Canada and Mexico are for Arkansas’ economy. The World Trade Center Arkansas, which has played a valuable role in connecting businesses in my State with international partners for over a decade, recently released a report that summarizes trade and jobs data for the Natural State.

The center’s report underscores the value trade brings to my State’s economy and reinforces the fact that the path to a more prosperous, long-term outlook for Arkansas is through opening additional markets for our farmers, manufacturers, and small businesses. The report notes that, as of September 2019, trade in Arkansas supported nearly 350,000 jobs. This represents approximately 26 percent of the State’s total employed labor force. It points to a direct correlation between job numbers and trade, documenting that trade-related jobs in the State have grown six times faster than total employment over the past few years.

More importantly, for our purposes here today, the report underscores just how crucial Canada and Mexico are for Arkansas’ economy. The Natural States exports to Canada amounted to $1.2 billion last year. Our exports to Mexico totaled $870 million in that same time span. Combined, these two countries account for a third of Arkansas’ total exports. Nearly 69,000 jobs in my State are dependent on trade with Canada, and another 41,000 are tied to trade with Mexico.

Melvin Torres, the center’s director of Western Hemisphere and European Trade, praised Arkansas’ effective partnership with both countries for creating this symbiotic and successful relationship.” That relationship will only grow with the ratification of the USMCA.
The ratification of the USMCA, along with the recent deals that have been struck with South Korea and Japan, will show the rest of the world that the U.S. is open for business. Proving that the U.S. is negotiating in good faith to reach mutually beneficial outcomes for all parties that are involved could really make a difference in ongoing trade standoffs.

The House leadership needs to get on the stick. The USMCA is too important for our Nation's economic future for it to be sitting in limbo while House Democrats focus on partisan issues.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BOOZMAN). The majority leader.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to legislative session for a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

EQUAL PAY

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, this past October, the young women who make up the Burlington High School girls soccer team in Burlington, VT, made a statement: The time for equal pay is now. All they are looking for is for their leaders—leaders like us in Congress—to show the courage to make it happen.

It all began one Friday night in October, when, after scoring a goal to put them ahead in the closing minutes of a game against neighboring rivals South Burlington, four exuberant members of the soccer team removed their jerseys to reveal T-shirts emblazoned with this simple phrase: “#EqualPay.”

The reception to their silent statement was reminiscent of that moment when the U.S. Women’s National Team made history in July, winning its second consecutive World Cup title. After the team was invited to play an extra $4 for the $25 T-shirt: 16 percent of the cost, to represent the pay gender gap in Vermont. Their story was reported by local outlets like VTDigger and the Burlington Free Press, and it was featured on “Good Morning America” and on CNN. It even reached across the pond, where the UK’s Daily Mail featured the team’s advocacy. I ask unanimous consent that the report from VTDigger be printed in the Record for the benefit of the Congress.

The lesson here is simple, and the voices could not be clearer: Equal pay for equal work should not be controversial, nor should it be challenged. Yet today in Vermont, a woman makes just 84 cents for every dollar made by a man. In some States, the gap is as wide as 70 percent. It is inexplicable. It is inexcusable. And it needs to stop.

Marcelle and I are proud to support the young women of the Burlington High School soccer team. We proudly wore our #EqualPay shirts outside the U.S. Capitol, standing in solidarity with these young Vermonters and with women everywhere who are simply demanding what should be theirs: equal pay for equal work.

Earlier this year, after the U.S. Women’s National Team’s inspiring victory at the World Cup, I reintroduced a simple resolution calling for the Federation Internationale de Football Association, FIFA, to immediately eliminate gender inequality and treat all athletes with the same respect and dignity, regardless of gender. It is straightforward. It is common sense. And it is past due.

Following the October game, the referee who issued the yellow card bought one of the team’s #EqualPay shirts for himself. I find in that action a simple metaphor: There is simply no longer support for arcane practices that never should have existed. We should heed the call of the generation and tell these discriminatory practices, not just in sports but across the workforce.

Equal pay for equal work should be the right of every person. It is as simple as that.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

BURLINGTON GIRLS SOCCER TEAM MAKES WAVES WITH EQUAL PAY ACTIVISM

By Aidan Quigley

BURLINGTON—The Burlington High School girls soccer team members were so big to us, and with each thing every- thing is bigger,” Wool said. “As of right now, I don’t think it’s going to get smaller for a while.”

The team was “fuming” when they received yellow cards at Friday’s game, Worden said.

As four of the girls received yellow cards, the crowd chanted “equal pay.”

“The good thing about the card was hearing everybody had our back,” senior center back/mid Maggie Barlow said. “That was one of the moments we were like, ‘wow, we have this fans cheering for us.’”

Coach Jeff Hayes said some members of the South Burlington team came over the referees and requested that they not card their opponents. The cards were an exciting moment for the team, he said.

The four players who received yellow cards had to be temporarily taken out of the game and were not able to check back in before South Burlington equalized minutes later. The game ended in a 1-1 tie.

The effort was applauded by Brandi Chastain, a longtime member of the U.S. national team who famously removed her jersey in celebration of her penalty kick goal which won the 1999 World Cup.

“Thank you @bhsgirlssoccer for standing up, celebrating and taking your jerseys off for #equalpay Proud of you @roblemakers,” Chastain tweeted Saturday.

Removing a jersey as part of a goal celebration—a popular goal celebration—is an automatic yellow card under the regulations of FIFA, soccer’s worldwide governing body.

Vermont Sen. Patrick Leahy tweeted a photo of himself and his wife, Marcelle, both wearing the #equalpay jerseys. “Marcelle and I stand with you!” Leahy tweeted.

The team has worked with Change The Story, a national initiative which works to address the wage gap and advance economic opportunities for women in the state. Women in Vermont earn 84 cents to every dollar earned by men, according to Change The Story.

Jessica Nordhaus, director of strategy and partnerships for Change The Story, said the organization has been working with logistics and strategy. She said it has been a good opportunity to talk to young people about the wage gap, which isn’t on track to close until 2048.

“They’re doing the math and thinking, ‘How old will I be in 2048?’” Nordhaus said. “We’ve just been so thrilled to see them take this issue on and do some of the activism that raises awareness about pay inequity.”

The team is selling the jerseys for $25, with a looser fit for women’s style jersey for $29.80. The women’s jersey is 16% more expensive, which is meant to even the wage gap.

The jerseys have #EqualPay on the front with the BHS Seahorse logo and Change The Story across the sleeves.

Funds raised in the sales will go to a local youth soccer Greater Burlington Girls Soccer League. The players are hoping the funds raised can help with outreach across the city and help make participants in the soccer league more reflective of the demographics of the city.

“We want them to be able to give scholarships to girls who aren’t able to play,” Barlow said. “We’re working on widening access for all different kinds of people and making sure girls have the means to fund that.”

The team finished its regular season with a 9-4-1 record, receiving the fourth seed in the Division 1 playoffs. Burlington will face off with 13th seed Brattleboro Wednesday in the first round of the playoffs.

Hayes said he is excited for the playoffs and that the activism is bringing the team even closer together.

“It just brought this team so together,” Hayes said. “They’re so cohesive when they are using their voices. They’re making waves in the community, and they’re good waves.”

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE INTER-AMERICAN FOUNDATION

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, for 50 years the Inter-American Foundation, IAF, has partnered with grassroots organizations and underserved populations throughout Latin America and the Caribbean to advance U.S. interests by helping to improve the lives of the hemisphere’s poorest people, supporting civil society, and strengthening democratic institutions. I want to take this opportunity today, on IAF’s 50th anniversary, to comment briefly on IAF’s accomplishments and on the unique value of small-grant, community-led development.

In 1969, Congress established IAF as an independent development agency charged with identifying and investing in community development accomplishments. IAF awards small grants, averaging $280,000 over 4 years, directly to local organizations, eliminating costly intermediaries and ensuring programs are led and implemented locally. IAF also requires grantees to contribute or mobilize their own cash or in-kind resources, helping to ensure sustainability and local investment in project success. On average, each dollar invested by IAF is leveraged $1.31 for every $1 invested by IAF.

According to IAF, in fiscal year 2019 alone, it awarded $18.5 million to 97 grassroots organizations in 24 countries and mobilized $20 million in grantees’ own resources. IAF grantees created more than 2,500 partnerships with other organizations to share experiences and advance their missions, trained more than 200,000 people in new leadership and technical skills, and contributed to the creation of 11,000 new or improved jobs.

IAF’s development model illustrates that if modest resources and technical support are provided directly to communities and their grassroots organizations, they can design their own solutions, and invest in their own communities, then local ownership, self-reliance, and sustainable development are possible.

IAF’s small-grants model also enables it to be nimble and responsive to changing conditions on the ground, including natural and man-made disasters. In recent years, IAF has used its network of grantees in Brazil, Colombia, Ecuador, and Peru to support thousands of displaced Venezuelans and the communities where they have relocated.

After the signing of the Colombia Peace Accords in 2016, IAF launched the Colombian Peacebuilding Initiative and invested nearly $2 million in 23 local Colombian organizations to support community-level peacebuilding and reconciliation.

In Central America, IAF has 98 projects addressing the causes of migration and targeting criminal gangs in order to help families and communities resist such violence. And since June 2019, IAF has awarded $650,000 in grants to civil society organizations across the Eastern Caribbean focused on strengthening community-led disaster mitigation and preparedness planning.

IAF’s successful approach to development is why we increased funding in the fiscal year 2020 State and Foreign Operations Appropriations bill, which was reported unanimously by the Appropriations Committee in September. Increased funding would enable IAF to support a greater number of meritorious grant proposals, as the foundation was able to fund only 7 percent of the almost 800 proposals received in fiscal year 2019.

Regrettably, this model of donors directly supporting small-scale, local initiatives to design, implement, and sustain their own development solutions is more compelling than the rule. I hope IAF’s 50th anniversary serves not only as an opportunity to commemorate its many accomplishments, but also to reflect on the need to expand IAF’s approach to development across the U.S. Government.

(At the request of Mr. SCHUMER, the following statement was ordered to be printed in the RECORD.)

VOTE EXPLANATION

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I was absent, but had I been present, I would have voted no on rollover vote 378, the confirmation of Executive Calendar No. 353, John L. Sinatra, Jr., of New York, to be United States District Judge for the Western District of New York.

Mr. President, I was absent, but had I been present, I would have voted no on rollover vote 379, the confirmation of Executive Calendar No. 478, Sarah E. Pitlyk, of Missouri, to be United States District Judge for the Eastern District of Missouri.

Mr. President, I was absent, but had I been present, I would have voted no on rollover vote 380, the confirmation of Executive Calendar No. 381, Douglas Russell Cole, of Ohio, to be United States District Judge for the Southern District of Ohio.

Mr. President, I was absent, but had I been present, I would have voted no on rollover vote 382, the confirmation of Executive Calendar No. 460, David B. Barlow, of Utah, to be United States District Judge for the District of Utah.

ARMS SALES NOTIFICATION

Mr. RISCH. Mr. President, section 36(b) of the Arms Export Control Act requires that Congress receive prior notification of certain proposed arms sales as defined by that statute. Upon such notification, the Congress has 30 calendar days during which the sale may be reviewed. The provision stipulates that, in the Senate, the notification of proposed sales shall be sent to the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

In keeping with the committee’s intention to see that relevant information is available to the full Senate, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD the notifications which have been received. If the cover letter references a classified annex, then such annex is available to all Senators in the office of the Foreign Relations Committee Trove Room 2243.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

COOPERATION AGENCY,
Arlington, VA.

Hon. JAMES E. RISCH,
Chairman, Committee on Foreign Relations,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: Pursuant to the reporting requirements of Section 36(b)(5)(C) of the Arms Export Control Act (AECA), as amended, we are forwarding Transmittal No. 20–0A. This notification relates to enhancements or upgrades from the level of sensitivity of technology or capability described in the Section 36(b)(1) AECA certification 08–60 of August 1, 2008.

Sincerely,
CHARLES W. HOOVER,
Lieutenant General, USA, Director.
Enclosures

TRANSMITTAL NO. 20–0A
Report of Enhancement or Upgrade of Sensitivity of Technology or Capability (Sec. 36(b)(5)(C), AECA)

(i) Purchaser: Government of Italy.
(ii) Sec. 36(b)(1) AECA Transmittal No.: 08–60; Date: August 1, 2008; Military Department: Air Force.
(iii) Description: On August 1, 2008, Congress was notified by Congressional certification transmittal number 08–60 of the possible sale, under Section 36(b)(1) of the Arms Export Control Act, of 4 MQ–9 Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (UAV), 3 Mobile Ground Control Stations, five years of maintenance support, engineering support, test equipment, ground support, operational flight test support, communications equipment, technical assistance, personnel training/ equipment, spare and repair parts, and other related elements of logistics support. These UAVs included AN/DPY–1 Synthetic Aperture Radar/ Ground Moving Target Indicator (SAR/GMTI) systems with 0.3 to 3 meter resolution. The estimated total cost was $330 million. Major Defense Equipment (MDE) constituted $50 million of this total.

On November 18, 2009, Congress was notified by Congressional certification transmittal number 09–60 of the possible sale, under Section 36(b)(1) of the Arms Export Control Act, of two unarmed MQ–9 Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (UAVs), one (1) Mobile Ground Control Station, maintenance, support, engineering support, test equipment, ground support, operational flight test support, communications equipment, technical assistance, personnel training/ equipment, spare and repair parts, and other related elements of logistics support. These UAVs included AN/DPY–1 Synthetic Aperture Radar/ Ground Moving Target Indicator (SAR/GMTI) systems with 0.3 to 3 meter resolution. The estimated total cost was $63 million. MDE constituted $36 million of this total.

On December 17, 2009, Congress was notified by Congressional certification transmittal number 09–69 of the possible sale, under Section 36(b)(1) of the Arms Export Control Act, of a performance upgrade of the AN/DPY–1 SAR/GMTI systems aboard the four MQ–9s UAVs previously notified on transmittal 08–60. This notification related to enhancements or upgrades to the level of sensitivity of technology or capability described in the Section 36(b)(1) AECA certification 08–60 of August 1, 2008.

There was no increase in cost of MDE for this upgrade.

This transmittal reports the addition of Major Defense Equipment items beyond what was originally notified to include:

1. Retrofit of five (5) existing MQ–9A Block 1 Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (UAV) to Block 5;
2. Retrofit of two (2) existing MQCS Block 30;
3. Addition of three (3) MQ–9A Block 5;
4. Addition of Spectral Targeting Systems (MTS–B) AN/DAS–1A;
5. Addition of eight (8) General Atomics AN/APY–8 Lynx (exportable) Synthetic Aperture Radar (SAR)/Ground Moving Target Indicator (GMTI) Systems, with Maritime Wide Area Search (MWAS) capability;
6. Addition of Mobile Ground Control Station (MGCS) Block 30, and;

The retrofit, addition of aircraft, and inclusion of the above listed MDE not enumerated in the previous notifications will result in a net increase in MDE costs of $180 million and non-MDE costs of $330 million. These new capabilities will represent the entirety of Italy’s MQ–9 program, which will now increase in size from $383 million to $711 million.

Significance: As Italy continues with its plans to develop a robust MQ–9A fleet, it has requested additional aircraft. Enhancement of Italy’s MQ–9A aircraft will provide strike capabilities in support of surveillance, and reconnaissance (ISR) capability. The proposed sale increases Italy’s capability to participate in European and NATO security initiatives and to foster the foreign and national security policies of the US by enhancing the ISR and strike capability of a major ally.

Justification: Italy is a major political and economic power in NATO and a key democratic partner of the United States in ensuring peace and stability around the world. Italy requests these capabilities to provide the defense of deployed troops, regional security, and interoperability with the United States.

Sensitivity of Technology:

1. The MQ–9A Block 5 Unmanned Aerial System (UAS) is UNCLASSIFIED.
2. The high-jam countermeasures required for training, operation, and maintenance is SECRET.
3. The MQ–9A Block 5 is a Medium Altitude, long-endurance (MALE) remotely piloted aircraft that can be used for surveillance, military reconnaissance, and targeting missions. Real-time missions are flown under the control of a pilot in a Ground Control Station (GCS). A datalink is maintained that uplinks control commands and downlinks video with telemetry data.
4. Line-of-Sight (LOS) communications is enabled through Ku-Band Satellite Communication (SATCOM) and provides the pilot with direct manual inputs by the crew through preprogrammed mission programs.
5. Preprogrammed missions are planned and uploaded by the pilots using the Force 524D and are executed through the control of an onboard suite of redundant computers and sensors.
6. The Selective Availability Anti-Spoofing Module (SAASM) is enabled through Ku-Band Satellite Communication (SATCOM) of the aircraft and provides the pilot with direct manual inputs by the crew through preprogrammed mission programs.
7. Preprogrammed missions are planned and uploaded by the pilots using the Force 524D and are executed through the control of an onboard suite of redundant computers and sensors.
8. The Selective Availability Anti-Spoofing Module (SAASM) provides all-weather surveillance, high altitude target acquisition, tracking, range finding, and laser designation for the Hellfire missile and for all tri-service and NATO laser-guided munitions.

a. The Raytheon Multi-Spectral Targeting System-B (MTS–B) integrates electro-optical (EO), infrared (IR), laser designation and laser illumination capabilities to provide detection, ranging, and tracking capabilities specifically for high-altitude applications.

b. The AN/APY–8 Lynx Radar system provides all-weather surveillance, high-altitude target acquisition, tracking, range finding, and laser designation for the Hellfire missile and for all tri-service and NATO laser-guided munitions.

c. The AN/APY–8 Lynx Block 20 Synthetic Aperture Radar and Ground Moving Target Indicator System provides all-weather surveillance, tracking and targeting for military and commercial customers from manned and unmanned vehicles. The AN/FY–8 Lynx Radar system can perform long-range surveillance, high-altitude target acquisition, tracking, range finding, and laser designation for the Hellfire missile and for all tri-service and NATO laser-guided munitions.

d. The Honeywell H–764 Adaptive Configurable Embedded Global Positioning System/Inertial Guidance Unit (EGI) contains the Force 524D GPS Receiver card with Selective Availability Anti-Spoofing Module (SAASM). The Force 524D is a 24-channel SAASM based GPS receiver with precise positioning service capability built upon Trimble’s next generation GPS technology. The Force 524D retains full compatibility with the proven Force SGS while adding new functionality to interface with the digital antenna electronics to significantly improve performance on the host platform and enable increased platform mobility.

FUTURE ACT

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, today, the Senate passed a solution that Senator MURRAY and I reached to permanently fund historically Black colleges and universities and other minority serving institutions.

It is hard to think of a piece of legislation that would have more of a lasting impact on minority students and their communities.

This legislation does two things: First, it provides permanent funding—that is fully paid for—for HBCUs and other Minority-Serving Institutions attended by over 2 million minority student.

Second, after 5 years of bipartisan effort, it greatly simplifies the free application for Federal student aid—the

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE S6885
December 5, 2019
FAFSA— that 20 million families, including 8 million minority students, fill out every year to qualify for Federal student aid.

This bipartisan provision—which was sponsored by Senators MURRAY, WURTELEIN, and GARDNER—passed the Senate by unanimous consent last December—stops families from having to give their same tax information to the Federal Government twice—first to the IRS, then again to the Department of Education. Students give information to the IRS and then the Department of Education to share tax return data, which eliminates up to 22 questions on the FAFSA with one click.

It should eliminate most of the so-called verification process, which is a bureaucratic nightmare that 5.5 million students go through annually to make sure the information they gave to the Department of Education is exactly the same as they gave to the IRS. The president of East Tennessee State University recently told me that half the students applying to ETSU go through verification at some point.

According to the Department of Education, it helps taxpayers by eliminating up to $6 billion each year in mistakes—both in overpayments and underpayments—in Pell grants and student loans.

It has taken 20 years to reach this result, and it would not have happened without Jeff Appel, a longtime staff member at the Department of Education who recently passed away, and Secretary DeVos and Secretary Mnuchin’s commitment to getting this over the finish line.

In addition, I want to thank the staff who have been instrumental in getting the proposal to this place: on Senator MURRAY’s staff, Kara Marachione, Bryce McKibben, Mary Barry, and Evan Schatz. Conor Sheehey with Senator SCOTT. Christopher Toppings with Senator BURR. Corey Linehan with Senator COONS. And from my staff, Robert Moran, Lauren Davies, Andrew LaCasse, Mary Catherine Cook, and David Cleary.

The final step to simplify the FAFSA is to pass additional legislation that will reduce the 108 questions on the FAFSA to a total of between 18 and 30 questions and make Pell grants predictable so students can know how much aid they will receive to attend college.

I and Senators MURRAY, SCOTT, BURR, and COONS worked together to reach this result and I am glad the Senate passed it today so it can be sent to the House and signed into law by the President before the end of the year.

Mr. SCOTT of Florida. Mr. President, Florida is the Nation’s greatest melting pot, a people from all over the Nation choosing to make Florida their permanent home. Our State has the best colleges and universities in the Nation, including many Historically Black Colleges and Universities and Minority Serving Institutions. As Governor of Florida, I made historic investments in higher education and fought to keep higher education affordable so more students can get a great education in Florida.

As Senator, I will continue to fight to make sure every child has access to a quality education at a price they can afford. Our Historically Black Colleges and Universities and Minority Serving Institutions are critical to the success of our State and the future of our children, and I will always work to support their mission.

The best way to support our colleges and universities is to make sure our economy is thriving so we have the resources we need to invest in education. That’s why I was so careful about how we are spending taxpayer dollars. I have concerns any time the Government permanently funds a program, no matter what that program is. Funding anything permanently means there is little to no accountability or oversight. We must be careful to regularly review our funded program to make sure taxpayers are always getting the best return on their investment.

TRIBUTE TO MAJOR JORDAN KAHN

Mr. MANCHIN. Mr. President, I rise today to acknowledge the service of my defense fellow, Maj. Jordan Kahn, who is approaching the end of his assignment with my office as part of his experience in the U.S. Air Force Legislative Fellowship Program.

Major Kahn joined my office in January and his dedication, work ethic, and intelligence quickly made him a trusted voice on my legislative team. A proud member of the U.S. Air Force, as well as being a graduate of both the U.S. Air Force Academy and the U.S. Air Force Weapons School, Jordan has deployed to defend our country multiple times, and because of his service, our Nation is safer. Most importantly, Jordan is a devoted husband and father, and I have had the pleasure of watching his family grow over the last year. In November, his wife Becky gave birth to their second son Haden, and his firstborn son Harrison has now dutifully taken on the responsibility of big brother.

As Major Kahn moves on to his next assignment, I have full faith that he will continue to excel as a leader in the Air Force and would trust him in the most demanding and sensitive positions within our Armed Forces. I extend my sincere thanks for his service to our Nation and our office and wish him and his family continued success in his future endeavors.

TRIBUTE TO BETH WALSH, CLAIRE PICHETTE, THOMAS REDMON, AND JUSTINE HURLEY

Mr. DAINES. Mr. President, this week I have the honor of recognizing four Montana school teachers for their passion and dedication to teaching math and science to young Montanans.

Beth Walsh from East Valley Middle School, Claire Pichette from Helena High School, Thomas Redmon from Daly Elementary, and Justine Hurley from White Sulphur Springs Elementary School have all been awarded the Presidential Award for Excellence in Mathematics and Science Teaching between 2017 and 2018.

The Presidential Award for Excellence in Mathematics and Science Teaching is an incredibly high honor for school teachers across the country and no easy task to receive. A committee of Montana math and science teachers select finalists from a collection of statewide applications followed by a national panel of distinguished scientists, mathematician, and educators who select four national award winners from those finalists.

These teachers won the Presidential Award for their superior abilities to educate young Montanans on mathematics and science ranging from kindergartners to seniors in high school. They show passion for their profession daily, and this award is a symbol of that passion. We are lucky to have such highly qualified teachers educating Montana students.

It is my honor to recognize Beth Walsh, Claire Pichette, Thomas Redmon, and Justine Hurley for their exemplary work educating Montana students. They are a true testament to the incredible education system we have throughout Big Sky Country.

REMEMBERING DR. WOODIE FLOWERS

Ms. HASSAN. Mr. President, today I would like to recognize the life of an extraordinary individual, Dr. Woodie Flowers.

As an engineer, a professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology—MIT—and an integral part of FIRST—for Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology—Woodie helped educate and inspire people in New Hampshire, across the country, and around the world.

I first had the privilege of meeting Woodie in the 1980s when I was doing legal work for MIT. Almost immediately, I recognized his curiosity and eagerness to learn, his patience and understanding, and his desire to collaborate and work effectively. Woodie extended that ethos and enthusiasm for education to every aspect of his life, including through his groundbreaking leadership at MIT and FIRST.

Throughout his career, Woodie brought a unique vision to his work and frequently stressed that technology is changing at a pace that the human brain simply cannot keep up with. This understanding and concern led him to emphasize the importance of teaching critical thinking and an allegiance to objective truth, which he posted weekly against the tribalism and binary thinking afflicting our society.

As part of his efforts to bridge division and expand human understanding, Woodie served as a mentor to countless students during the weekly Woodie in a speaking program. His lessons were submitted:

- Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, today I recognize Alexander Reinke, an intern in my Washington, DC, office, for all of the hard work he has done for me, my staff, and the State of South Dakota over the past several months.

Will is a graduate of Altoona Area High School in Altoona, PA. Currently, he is attending American University in Washington, DC, where he is pursuing a degree in communications, law, economics, and government. He is a hard worker who has been dedicated to getting the most out of his internship experience.

I extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to Will for all of the fine work he has done and wish him continued success in the years to come.

TRIBUTE TO WILLIAM SHUSTER DIXON

- Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, today I recognize William Shuster Dixon, an intern in my Washington, DC, office, for all of the hard work he has done for me, my staff, and the State of South Dakota over the past several months.

Dixon is a graduate of Altoona Area High School in Altoona, PA. Currently, he is attending American University in Washington, DC, where he is pursuing a degree in communications, law, economics, and government. He is a hard worker who has been dedicated to getting the most out of his internship experience.

I extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to Will for all of the fine work he has done and wish him continued success in the years to come.

TRIBUTE TO ANTHONY BORDA

- Mr. THUNE, Mr. President, today I recognize Anthony Borda, an intern in my Washington, DC, office, for all of the hard work he has done for me, my staff, and the State of South Dakota over the past several months.

Anthony is a graduate of Nutley High School in Nutley, NJ. Currently, he is attending American University in Washington, DC, where he is majoring in political science. He is a hard worker who has been dedicated to getting the most out of his internship experience.

I extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to Anthony for all of the fine work he has done and wish him continued success in the years to come.

TRIBUTE TO EDWARD HALL

Ms. ROSEN. Mr. President, today it is my honor to pay tribute to Edward Hall, an incredible 96-year-old Nebraskan, whose story began when he answered the call to defend his country. Ed lied about his age to enlist in the Army Air Corps and began his military service in the mess hall cleaning up and preparing for the day when he and his fellow troops heard an explosion. This was the beginning of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, and Ed, like many of the men on Hickam Field, stopped what he was doing to respond to this attack on the American Base. Without hesitation, Ed put his life on the line, joining in to rescue his fellow servicemembers injured in the ongoing attack. Along with an Army officer, Ed commandeered a truck and began driving around the flight line picking up the injured to move them to the base hospital in spite of coming into direct fire from Japanese aircraft.

Upon returning from his third round of picking up the injured, Ed's truck was strafed by a Japanese Zero fighter and taken out of action, but Ed kept at it, as he knew helping the injured was his priority. As the bodies of the dead and injured continued to mount, Ed grabbed a 45-caliber pistol off one of his fallen comrades in order to have the means to defend himself from the attack as enemy planes buzzed the skies above him. He would go on to keep that pistol for the remainder of the war.

As the attack on Pearl Harbor ended, the recovery of the base began as Ed and other survivors began dealing with the aftermath of the attack and preparing for our formal entry into World War II in the Pacific theater. Ed kept going, as many of the members of that “greatest generation” did throughout World War II, embodying the American spirit of tenacity when faced with the greatest adversity, the spirit that eventually led to our success in defeating tyranny and enabling freedom across the world at the end of the Great War in 1945.

Mr. President, to Edward Hall, I join citizens across Nevada and the Nation in sending our sincere gratitude to him for his service to the United States. It is heroes like Ed whose service has kept our communities, States, Nation, and world safe. His service during World War II is a testament to his experience.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. McCONNELL:

S. 2986. A bill to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to conduct a study to assess the suitability and feasibility of designating certain land in the State of Kentucky as the Kentucky Wildlands National Heritage Area, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2986

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Kentucky Wildlands National Heritage Area Study Act”.

SEC. 2. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) HERITAGE AREA.—The term “Heritage Area” means the Kentucky Wildlands National Heritage Area.

(2) SECRETARY.—The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of the Interior.

(3) STATE.—The term “State” means the State of Kentucky.

(4) STUDY AREA.—The term “study area” means—

(B) any other area in the State that—

(i) has heritage aspects that are similar to the heritage aspects of the areas described in subparagraph (A); and

(ii) are adjacent to, or in the vicinity of, the areas described in that subparagraph.

SEC. 3. STUDY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, in consultation with the residents of the State and local heritage organizations, shall conduct a study to assess the suitability and feasibility of designating the study area as a National Heritage Area, to be known as the “Kentucky Wildlands National Heritage Area”.

(b) REQUIREMENTS.—The study shall include analysis, documentation, and determinations on whether the study area—

(1) has an association of natural, historic, cultural, and cultural resources that—

(A) represent distinctive aspects of the heritage of the United States;

(B) are worthy of recognition, conservation, interpretation, and continuing use; and

(C) would be best managed—

(i) through partnerships among public and private entities described in paragraph (5); and

(ii) by linking diverse and sometimes non-contiguous resources and active communities;

(2) reflects traditions, customs, beliefs, and folklife that are a valuable part of the story of the United States;

(3) provides outstanding opportunities—

(A) to conserve natural, historic, cultural, or scenic features; and

(B) for recreation and education;

(4) contains resources that—

(A) are important to any identified themes of the study area; and

(B) retain a degree of integrity capable of supporting interpretation;

(5) includes residential, business interests, nonprofit organizations, and State and local governments that—

(A) are involved in the planning of the Heritage Area;

(B) have developed a conceptual financial plan that outlines the roles of all participants in the Heritage Area, including the Federal Government;

(C) have demonstrated support for the designation of the Heritage Area;

(6) has a potential management entity to work in partnership with the individuals and entities described in paragraph (5) to develop the Heritage Area while encouraging State and local economic activity;

(7) could impact the rights of private property owners with respect to private property; and

(8) has a conceptual boundary map that is supported by the public.

SEC. 4. REPORT.

Not later than 3 years after the date on which funds are first made available to carry out this Act, the Secretary shall submit to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate and the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives a report that describes—

(1) the findings of the study under section 3; and

(2) any conclusions and recommendations of the Secretary.

By Mr. WYDEN (for himself and Mr. Cassidy):

S. 2989. A bill to amend title XI of the Social Security Act to clarify the mailing requirement relating to social security account statements; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I along with Finance Committee member Senator Cassidy are introducing a bill to make a common-sense, low-cost change to the law that will help American workers help themselves when preparing for retirement: The Know Your Social Security Act. This bill is simple: it clarifies the law about Congressional intent so that every worker over 25 receives a Social Security statement in the mail each year, unless the worker has accessed their statement online or declined to receive the statement in the mail.

The history of the Social Security statement runs right through the Senate and the “powerful” Committee on Finance. Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan summed up the intent very well: “All of us pay into Social Security but rarely, until we become beneficiaries, do we ever hear from Social Security. . . . in every paycheck, we see money withheld for Social Security, but we hear nothing.” The Social Security statement has three goals: to provide workers with information about their Social Security benefits, to help workers plan for the future, and enable workers to review their earnings records.

After enactment and once fully phased in, every worker aged 25 and older received an annual statement from Social Security starting in the year 2000. After a few years, Social Security’s website allowed workers to obtain a Social Security statement online. At the time, the online option was a good step forward in customer service. But as technology and workers advance in technology shortchanged good intentions. Due to tight budgets, SSA came to view the online option as “providing” the worker with a statement and fulfilling their responsibilities under the law. SSA stopped mailing the statements in 2011 in order to shift resources toward other priorities. Currently, only individuals over the age of 60 who are not receiving benefits receive statements through the mail.

Paper statements delivered through the mail are desirable because no action is necessary by the worker and the statements are already in the worker’s hands, allowing them to think about the future. Research has shown that workers provided with statements are significantly more likely to save, more certain about their retirement income, and have higher satisfaction with their finances relative to those who are not provided with any type of financial planning materials. Providing Social Security statement through the mail is a simple policy that could help many workers more effectively plan for their retirement, identify fraud, and correct earnings records, and better understand their stake in Social Security.

Ways and Means Social Security Subcommittee Chairman JOHN LARSON and Ways and Means Committee Member VERN BUCHANAN are introducing the companion bill in the House of Representatives. We have received letters of endorsement from AARP, the Coalition for Paper Options, Justice in Aging, the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, Paralyzed Veterans of America, Social Security Works, The Arc of the United States and the Senior Citizens League. I ask that the letters be included in the Record following my remarks.

I hope my colleagues in the Senate will join us and cosponsor the Know Your Social Security Act. Together, we can work towards better retirement outcomes for all Americans.

AARP, Washington, DC, December 5, 2019.

Hon. Ron Wyden,
Ranking Member, Committee on Finance,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

Hon. Bill Cassidy,
Chairman, Senate Finance Committee,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

Dear Ranking Member Wyden and Senator Cassidy:

On behalf of our nearly 38 million members and all older Americans nationwide, AARP is pleased to endorse the Know Your Social Security Act. This bipartisan bill would ensure that workers receive Social Security statements, in the hands of millions of Americans, to help them more effectively plan for retirement, identify fraud and correct records, and better understand their stake in Social Security.

Social Security is an essential financial planning tool that provides key information on individual’s earnings and payroll tax contributions record, as well as an estimate of their earned monthly benefits. When Social Security sends this statement through the mail, more Americans are able to better plan for their future, not only due to an increased understanding of their Social Security benefits, but also any gaps in their current retirement planning. Providing an annual reminder of one’s Social Security status to all workers each year. This legislation would clarify SSA’s duty and ensure that workers understand the Social Security benefits they are earning over time.

Many people are not fully aware of the level of Social Security benefits they could receive when they retire, nor do they realize the benefits available to themselves and their family members in the event that they experience a disability that limits their capacity to work, or in the event that they pass away leaving young children, or other eligible survivors. The Know Your Social Security Act would provide this important information, as required, to ensure that workers know what benefits are available to them and their loved ones, allowing them to better plan for retirement as they age.

We believe it is not only SSA’s obligation to send these statements, but that it is vital to the well-being of workers who need to be fully informed about their potential Social Security benefits in order to make decisions about their own working lives, and their retirement. While those who choose to get this information electronically and decline a paper statement have not limited their awareness of the benefits they may receive in the future, others who do not make this choice should receive the statement in the mail as required under the law. For these reasons, Justice in Aging supports this bill.

Sincerely,

Tracey Gronniger, Director of Economic Security.

Hon. John B. Larson,
Chairman, Subcommittee on Social Security, Committee on Ways and Means, Washington, DC.

Hon. Vern Buchanan,
Washington, DC.

Hon. Ron Wyden,
Washington, DC.

Dear Chairwoman Larson, Congressman Buchanan, Ranking Member Wyden and Senator Cassidy:

On behalf of the millions of members and supporters of the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, I am writing to endorse your bill, the Know Your Social Security Act. This important legislation requires the Social Security Administration to resume annual mailing of Social Security statements to all of the estimated 150 million American workers who are eligible to receive them, and have not otherwise accessed them through their My SSA account.

For nearly a decade now, SSA has unilaterally nullified section 1143 of the Social Security Act by refusing to mail annual statements to workers, even though section 1143 is unambiguously clear that such statements are required. The Know Your Social Security Act clarifies that mailings are required, a measure that is deeply appreciated by our members.

The Social Security statement is one of the many enduring legacies left to the nation by one of its most distinguished lawmaking leaders, Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York. He regarded the statement as a simple and efficient way of building public support and understanding for Social Security. Not surprisingly, Senator Moynihan’s simple, common sense amendment worked as intended while SSA was producing the statements each year. In fact, the bipartisan Social Security Advisory Board of 10 years ago found that SSA’s own survey data showed “...a link between increasing public confidence and receipt of a statement.” Those who receive a statement not only experience higher knowledge of Social Security than non-recipients, but also exhibit greater confidence in the program and the people who run it.

The statement also raises workers’ awareness of the need for retirement planning by focusing attention on their future retirement income. It brings clarity to an often confusing and perplexing subject by providing workers with an individualized statement of their Social Security benefits, whether retirement, survivors or disability insurance. From there, workers can determine how much more they need to save for the future. Because the statements were intended to reach people early in their working lives, they provided an invaluable service.

Another important function of the Social Security statement, if it were to be delivered annually as Congress intended, would be to enable workers to compare the amounts of the wage records maintained by SSA for each worker. As the statement indicates, workers are encouraged to review the chart showing their earnings, compare amounts reflected on SSA’s records with information from the worker’s own records. Workers are further advised that only they can perform this function and that they should report discrepancies to SSA as soon as possible.

We have been especially concerned that, with the shift to online delivery, SSA’s statement effort reached only those who are approaching retirement age. Fewer workers have been able to check the accuracy of SSA’s wage records. The annual statement, when it was being provided, helped to assure that if errors were made in the reporting of wages that they could be quickly discovered and corrected while the required evidence would still be readily at hand. Since SSA has suspended the statements recently each year and have declined to have them mailed to all eligible workers, we are concerned that many errors in SSA’s records will go undetected and that some workers’ benefits will be reduced as a result.

As mentioned earlier, one function performed by annual distribution of Social Security statements was to inform workers of the kinds of benefits that are provided by Social Security. The statements focused on retirement, survivors, and disability benefits. In other words, the statements were an invaluable annual tutorial of what Social Security is all about. And knowledge about Social Security is vitally important to the successful functioning of the program. We see that reflected in recent work that finds that one reason for the seemingly inexplicable recent decline in disability applications is related to the suspension of the statements. Clearly, restoration of annual production and mailing of the annual statements, as is required in the Know Your Social Security Act, is long overdue.

When it was being mailed to all eligible workers, the Social Security statement was able to play a critical role in building and strengthening public confidence in Social Security. It provided workers with the only meaningful pre-retirement information that they have in an individualized application to SSA. It is this harm to the program and the benefits they could expect when they retire or otherwise qualify for benefits. SSA’s decision to end annual mailings has harmed many workers. It is time for SSA to undo this harmful decision and to follow the clear, unambiguous requirements of the law to mail statements to all eligible workers. We applaud you for your leadership in introducing the Know Your Social Security Act, and look forward to working with you to enact this important measure.

Sincerely,

MAX RICHMAN, President and CEO,

DEAR SENATORS WYDEN AND CASSIDY,

Chairman, Ways and Means Social Security Subcommittee, House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

Chairman, Senate Finance Committee,

Dear Chairman Wyden and Senator Cassidy,

Chairman Larson and Representative Buchanan: Paralyzed Veterans of America (PVA) is pleased to support the Know Your Social Security Act. PVA is the nation’s only Congressionally chartered service organization solely dedicated to representing veterans with spinal cord injuries and/or disorders. Many of our members are among the nine million veterans who receive Social Security retirement or disability benefits. Others are among the millions of veterans and military service members and their families who will at some point in their lives benefit from the system.

For many years, the Social Security Administration (SSA) issued paper earnings statements each year. Distressingly, more and more private and public services are being shifted to individuals. This should not happen with Social Security. As technology continues to progress, there is a tendency for administrators to lean more on its capabilities and move communications with consumers and constituents online. Electronic communication is, no doubt, desired in many situations. However, the most important financial documents, including the Social Security earnings statements, should default to postal mail as intended by the original law.

That the earnings statements be mailed is vital for everyone, including those who have access to high speed computing. Of course, not everyone even has this kind of access. For example, a 2018 Pew Research Survey found that one in four Americans living in rural areas lack reliable access to high speed internet service. Other polling found that Americans, even those between ages 18 and 29, prefer not to receive important information from SSA online.

We applaud your effort to clarify the requirement that annual Social Security earnings statements be mailed. We are confident that the Know Your Social Security Act will help strengthen Social Security. We look forward to working with you to see this excellent bipartisan legislation become law quickly.

Sincerely,

BRENNER ANSLEY,
Associate Executive Director, Government Relation,
Representative Larsson, Washington, DC.

Senator Wyden, Washington, DC.

Representative Buchanan, Washington, DC.

Senator Cassidy, Washington, DC.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE LARSSON, REPRESENTATIVE BUCHANAN, SENATOR WYDEN, AND SENATOR CASSIDY: The Arc of the United States writes in support of the Know Your Social Security Act. The Arc is the largest national community-based organization advocating for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD) and their families.

Social Security statements are a crucial tool to help recipients plan for their future by providing accurate information about their earnings and future benefits. In addition, the statement raises awareness about all Social Security benefits, including about their Social Security benefits in the development and quality of their families.

We are concerned that recent changes that the Social Security Administration has made to all Social Security statements to a limited population means that many people are not receiving this crucial information. To have access to the website, despite the importance of Social Security benefits to these households; using library or other public internet sources is more likely to have internet access at home and be able to access the website, despite the importance of Social Security benefits to these households; using library or other public internet sources is less likely to have internet access at home and be able to access the website, despite the importance of Social Security benefits to these households;

Without mailed statements, those households may have no access to the crucially important information about their Social Security benefits in the statement necessary to plan for their future development and quality of their families.

For these reasons, we strongly support the Know Your Social Security Act. Please contact Bethany Lilly at lilly@thearc.org with any questions or if you would like to further discuss these issues.

Sincerely,

BETHANY LILLY,
Director of Income Policy.

THE SENIOR CITIZENS LEAGUE,

Hon. Vern Buchanan,
Washington, DC.

Hon. Bill Cassidy,
Washington, DC.

Hon. John Larson,
Washington, DC.

Hon. Ron Wyden,
Washington, DC.

DEAR CONGRESSMEN BUCHANAN, CONGRESSMAN LARSON, SENATOR CASSIDY AND SENATOR WYDEN: On behalf of the approximately one million members and supporters of The Senior Citizens League (TSLC), I would like to thank you for being true champions for Social Security beneficiaries.

The Senior Citizens League lends its enthusiastic support to the “Know Your Social Security Act.” Every American who pays into Social Security has a right to see a written statement from Social Security to ensure their record is accurate, and to learn the estimated amount of their benefits. A printed record is important for those who do not have the means to routinely access their record electronically and it serves as a critical planning tool for determining the best retirement dates. Regular receipt of these statements serves to remind and educate older workers of the benefits of staying in the workforce. Doing so strengthens retirement benefits and Social Security and strengthens our national economy.

As such, TSCL salutes you for introducing legislation that clarifies that the requirement in the Social Security Act for SSA to provide an annual Social Security Statement means providing it by mail. The bill also clarifies that SSA can provide an on-demand statement electronically when the individual chooses electronic delivery for that request; and that SSA has met its requirement to mail an annual Statement if an individual chooses to receive their statement electronically in the prior year and has declined to receive their Statement by mail for that year.

We look forward to informing our supporters about your leadership on this important issue in Congress. In the meantime, if we may be of assistance to you or your staff in any way, please do not hesitate to call upon us. Again, thank you for being a positive voice for America’s seniors.

Sincerely,

RICK DELANEY, Chairman.

By Mr. THUNE:

S. 2990. A bill to require that the Federal Government procure from the private sector the goods and services necessary for the operations and management of certain Government agencies, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs.

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2990

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Freedom from Government Competition Act of 2019.”

SEC. 2. FINDINGS. Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Private sector business concerns, which are free to respond to the private or public demands of the marketplace, constitute the most productive, efficient, and effective sources of goods and services.

(2) Competitive private enterprises are the most productive, efficient, and effective sources of goods and services.

(3) Unfair Government competition with the private sector of the economy is detrimental to the United States economic system.

(4) Unfair Government competition with the private sector of the economy is at an unacceptable high level, both in scope and in dollar volume.

(5) Current law and policy have failed to address adequately the problem of unfair Government competition with the private sector of the economy.

(6) It is in the public interest that the Federal Government establish a consistent policy to rely on the private sector of the economy to provide goods and services necessary for or beneficial to the operation and management of Federal agencies and to avoid unfair Government competition with the private sector of the economy.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS. In this Act, the term “agency” means—

(1) an executive department as defined by section 101 of title 5, United States Code;

(2) a military department as defined by section 102 of such title; and

(3) any establishment as defined by section 104(1) of such title.

SEC. 4. PROCUREMENT FROM PRIVATE SOURCES. (a) POLICY.—In the process of governing, the Federal Government shall compete with its citizens. The competitive enterprise system, characterized by individual freedom and initiative, is the primary source of national economic strength. In recognition of this principle, it has been and continues to be the general policy of the Federal Government to rely on commercial sources to supply the products and services the Government needs;

(b) GENERAL RULE.—Except as provided in subsection (c) and notwithstanding any other provision of law, each agency shall obligate for goods and services for which the use of the private sector is necessary for or beneficial to the accomplishment of its authorized functions by procurement from private sources.

(c) Exclusions.—Subsection (b) shall not apply to an agency with respect to goods or services if—

(1) the goods or services are required by law to be produced or performed, respectively, by the agency; or

(2) the head of the agency determines and certifies to Congress in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Administrator of the Office of Management and Budget that—

(A) Federal Government production, manufacture, or provision of a good or service is necessary for the national defense or homeland security;

(B) a good or service is so critical to the mission of the agency or so inherently governmenal in nature that it is in the public interest to require production or performance, respectively, by Government employees;

(C) there is no private source capable of providing the good or service.

(d) METHOD OF PROCUREMENT.—The provision of goods and services under subsection (c) shall be performed by an entity in the private sector through—

(1) the divestiture of Federal involvement in the provision of a good or service;

(2) the award of a contract to an entity in the private sector, using competitive procedures, as defined in section 132 of title 41, United States Code, and section 2902 of title 10, United States Code; or

(3) conducting a public-private competitive sourcing analysis in accordance with the procedures established by the Office of Management and Budget and determining that using the assets, facilities, and performance of the private sector is in the best interest of the United States and that production or performance, respectively, by the private sector provides the best value to the taxpayer.

(e) CONTRACTED ACTIVITIES.—The head of an agency may utilize Federal employees to provide goods or services previously provided by an entity in the private sector upon completion of a public-private competitive sourcing analysis described in subsection (d)(3), and after making a determination that the provision of such services by Federal employees provides the best value to the taxpayer.
SEC. 5. STUDY AND REPORT.

The Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall transmit to the Congress a report prepared pursuant to the Federal Activities Inventory Reform Act of 1998 (Public Law 105–270; 31 U.S.C. 501 note) and shall carry out a study to evaluate the activities carried out in each agency, including those identified as commercial and inherently governmental in nature in the inventory prepared pursuant to the Federal Activities Inventory Reform Act of 1998, and each fiscal year thereafter. The report shall include—

(1) an evaluation of the justification for exempting activities pursuant to section 4(c); and

(2) a schedule for the transfer of commercial activities to the private sector, pursuant to section 4(d), to be completed within 5 years after the date on which such report is transmitted to the Congress.

AMENDMENTS SUBMITTED AND PROPOSED

SA 1255. Mr. SCOTT, of South Carolina (for Mr. ALEXANDER (for himself, Mr. MURRAY, Mr. SCOTT of South Carolina, Mr. JONES, Mr. BURR, and Mr. COONS)) proposed an amendment to the bill H.R. 2486, to reauthorize mandatory funding programs for historically Black colleges and universities and other minority-serving institutions.

TEXT OF AMENDMENTS

SA 1255. Mr. SCOTT, of South Carolina (for Mr. ALEXANDER (for himself, Mr. MURRAY, Mr. SCOTT of South Carolina, Mr. JONES, Mr. BURR, and Mr. COONS)) proposed an amendment to the bill H.R. 2486, to reauthorize mandatory funding programs for historically Black colleges and universities and other minority-serving institutions; as follows:

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE. REFERENCES.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the “Fostering Undergraduate Talent by Unlocking Resources for Education Act” or the “FUTURE Act”.

(b) REFERENCES.—Except as otherwise expressly provided, whenever in this Act an amendment is expressed in terms of an amendment to, or repeal of, a section or other provision, the reference shall be considered to be made to a section or other provision of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (34 U.S.C. 1001 et seq.).

SEC. 2. CONTINUED SUPPORT FOR MINORITY-SERVING INSTITUTIONS.

Section 347(b)(1)(A) of title 20 (20 U.S.C. 1067q(b)(1)(A)) is amended by striking “for each of the fiscal years 2008 through 2019” and all that follows through the subhead “For fiscal year 2020 and each fiscal year thereafter.”

SEC. 3. SECURE DISCLOSURE OF TAX-RETURN INFORMATION TO CARRY OUT THE FUTURE EDUCATION ACT OF 1965.

(a) AMENDMENTS TO THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE OF 1986.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Paragraph (3) of section 6103(l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended to read as follows:

“(3) DISCLOSURE OF RETURN INFORMATION TO CARRY OUT THE HIGHER EDUCATION ACT OF 1965.—

“(A) INCOME-CONTINGENT OR INCOME-BASED REPAYMENT AND TOTAL AND PERMANENT DISABILITY DISCHARGE.—The Secretary shall, upon written request from the Secretary of Education, disclose to officers, employees, and contractors of the Department of Education as specifically authorized and designated by the Secretary of Education, only for the purpose of (and to the extent necessary in) establishing enrollment, renewal, enrollment, administering, and conducting analyses and forecasts for estimating costs and determining eligibility for, and amount of, Federal student financial aid under such parts of title IV of such Act, for taxable years specified by such Secretary:

(i) The filing status of such taxpayer.

(ii) The adjusted gross income of such taxpayer.

(iii) The adjusted gross income of such taxpayer.

(iv) Total number of exemptions claimed, or total number of individuals and dependents claimed, as applicable, on the return.

(v) The amount of any net earnings from self-employment (as defined in section 1402), wages (as defined in section 3401(a) or 3401(a)), taxable income from a farming business (as defined in section 280A(e)(4)), and investment income for the period reported on the return.

(vi) The total income tax of such taxpayer.

(viii) Amount of any credit claimed under section 25A for the taxable year.

(ix) Amount of individual retirement account contributions and payments to self-employed SEP, Keogh, and other qualified plans which were deducted from income for the taxable year.

(x) The amount of any tax-exempt interest.

(xi) Amounts from retirement pensions and annuities not included in adjusted gross income for the taxable year.

(xii) If applicable, the fact that any of the following schedules (or equivalent successor schedules) were filed with the return:

(I) Schedule A.

(II) Schedule B.

(III) Schedule C.

(IV) Schedule E.

(V) Schedule F.

(VI) Schedule H.

(xiii) If applicable, the fact that Schedule C (or an equivalent successor schedule) was filed with the return showing a gain or loss greater than $50,000.

(xiv) If applicable, the fact that there is no return filed for such taxpayer for the taxable year.

(xv) The term ‘mitigating risks’ means, with respect to the programs described in subparagraphs (A) and (B), oversight activities by the Office of Inspector General of the Department of Education as authorized by the Inspector General Act of 1978, as amended, and (B) reducing the net cost of improper payments to Federal financial aid recipients.

Such term shall not include the conduct of criminal investigations or prosecutions. Thereafter in this Act, and in the application of this Act, ‘mitigating risks’ means, with respect to the programs described in subparagraphs (A) and (B), oversight activities by the Office of Inspector General of the Department of Education as authorized by the Inspector General Act of 1978, as amended, and (B) reducing the net cost of improper payments to Federal financial aid recipients.

Such term shall not include the conduct of criminal investigations or prosecutions. The preceding sentence shall only apply to the extent that the taxpayer with respect to whom the return information relates provides consent for such disclosure to the Secretary of Education as part of the application for Federal student financial aid under title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

(D) REQUIREMENT OF NOTIFICATION OF RESULTING ERROR. Subparagraphs (A) and (B) shall apply to any disclosure of return information with respect to to a taxpayer only if the Secretary of Education has provided such notification to the taxpayer required by section 494 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 prior to such disclosure.

(2) CONFIDENTIALITY OF RETURN INFORMATION.—Section 6103(a)(3) of such Code is amended by inserting “, (13)(A), (13)(B)” after “(7)”.

(3) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Section 6103(p)(4) of such Code is amended—

(A) by inserting “(A), (13)(B)” after “(13)” each place it occurs, and

(B) by inserting “, (13)(A), (13)(B)” after “(14)(10)” each place it occurs.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to disclosures made under section 6103(l)(13) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (as amended by this section) after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 4. NOTIFICATION OF REQUEST FOR TAX RETURN INFORMATION.

(a) In General.—Part G of title IV (20 U.S.C. 1088 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“SEC. 494. NOTIFICATION OF REQUEST FOR TAX RETURN INFORMATION.

“(1) The Secretary shall advise students and borrowers who submit an application for Federal student financial aid under this title of a loan based on permanent and total disability, as described in section 437(a), or who request an income-contingent or income-based repayment plan on their student loans (as well as that of parents and spouses who sign such an application or request or a Master Promissory Note on behalf of those students and borrowers) that the Secretary has the authority to request that the Internal Revenue Service disclose their tax return information (as well as that of parents and spouses who sign such an application or request or a Master Promissory Note on behalf of those students and borrowers) to officers, employees, and contractors of the Department of Education as authorized under section 6103(l)(13) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, to the extent necessary for the Secretary to carry out this title.

SEC. 5. INCREASED FUNDING FOR FEDERAL PELL GRANTS.

Section 401(b)(7)(A)(iv) (20 U.S.C. 1070a(c)(7)(A)(iv)) is amended—

(1) in subclause (X), by striking “$1,430,000,000” and inserting “$1,455,000,000”; and

(2) in subclause (XI), by striking “$1,145,000,000” and inserting “$1,170,000,000.”

SEC. 6. REPORTS ON IMPLEMENTATION.

(a) In General.—Not later than 180 days after the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Education and the Secretary of the Treasury shall issue joint reports to the Committees on Health, Education, Labor, and Pension’s subcommittees on Education and Labor and Ways and Means of the House of Representatives regarding the amendments made by this Act. Each such report shall include, as applicable—

(1) an update on the status of implementation of the amendments made by this Act;

(2) an evaluation of the processing of applications for Federal student financial aid, and applications for income-based repayment and income contingent repayment, under title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1070 et seq.), in accordance with the amendments made by this Act, and

(3) implementation issues and suggestions for potential improvements.

(b) USE OF FUNDS.—For purposes of subsection (a), the term “specified date” means—

(1) the date that is 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act;

(2) the date that is 120 days after the first day that the disclosure process established under section 6103(l)(13) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended by section 3(a) of this Act, is operational and accessible to officers, employees, and contractors of the Department of Education (as specifically authorized and designated by the Secretary of Education), and

(3) the date that is 1 year after the report date described in paragraph (2).

PRIVILEGES OF THE FLOOR

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Angel Ventling, a State Department fellow in my office, be granted floor privileges for the remainder of the day.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MERRILL’S MARAUDERS CONGRESSIONAL GOLD MEDAL ACT

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs be discharged from further consideration of S. 743 and the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (S. 743) to award a Congressional Gold Medal to the soldiers of the 5307th Composite Unit (Provisional), commonly known as “Merrill’s Marauders”, in recognition of their bravery and outstanding service in the jungles of Burma during World War II.

There being no objection, the committee was discharged and the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the bill beengrossed for a third reading, was read the third time, and passed as follows:

S. 743

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Merrill’s Marauders Congressional Gold Medal Act”.

SECTION 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that—

(1) in August 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and other Allied leaders proposed the creation of a ground unit of the Armed Forces that would engage in a “long-range penetration mission” in Japanese-occupied Burma to—

(A) cut off Japanese communications and supply lines; and

(B) capture the town of Myitkyina and the Myitkyina airstrip, both of which were held by the Japanese;

(2) President Roosevelt issued a call for volunteers for a “dangerous and hazardous mission” and the call was answered by approximately 3,000 soldiers from the United States;

(3) the Army unit composed of the soldiers described in paragraph (2)—

(A) was officially designated as the “5307th Composite Unit (Provisional)” with the code name “Galahad”; and

(B) later became known as “Merrill’s Marauders” and referred to in section as the “Marauders” in reference to its leader, Brigadier General Frank Merrill;

(4) in February 1944, the Marauders began their approximately 1,000-mile trek through the dense Burmese jungle with no artillery support, carrying their supplies on their backs or the pack saddles of mules;

(5) during their march to Myitkyina, the Marauders fought victoriously against larger Japanese forces through 5 major and 30 minor engagements; and

(6) after the 1-month trek to Myitkyina, the Marauders faced hunger and disease that were exacerbated by inadequate aerial resupply drops; and

(7) malaria, typhus, and dysentery inflicted more casualties on the Marauders than the Japanese;
(8) by August 1944, the Marauders had accomplished their mission, successfully disrupting Japanese supply and communication lines and taking the town of Myitkyina and the Myitkyina airstrip, the only all-weather airstrip in Northern Burma;

(9) after taking Myitkyina, only 130 Marauders out of the original 2,750 were fit for duty and all remaining Marauders still in action were evacuated to hospitals due to tropical diseases, exhaustion, and malnutrition;

(10) for their bravery and accomplishments, the Marauders were awarded the “Distinguished Unit Citation”, later redesignated as the “Presidential Unit Citation”, and a Bronze Star; and

(11) though the Marauders were operational for only a few months, the legacy of their bravery is honored by the Army through the modern day 75th Ranger Regiment, which traces its lineage directly to the 5307th Composite Unit.

SEC. 3. CONGRESSIONAL GOLD MEDAL.

(a) AWARD AUTHORIZED.—The Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President pro tempore of the Senate shall make appropriate arrangements for the award, on behalf of Congress, of a single gold medal of appropriate design to the soldiers of the 5307th Composite Unit (Provisional) (referred to in this section as “Merrill’s Marauders”), in recognition of their bravery and outstanding service in the jungles of Burma during World War II.

(b) DESIGN AND STRIKING.—For the purposes of the award referred to in subsection (a), the Secretary of the Treasury (referred to in this Act as the “Secretary”) shall strike and sell duplicates in bronze of the gold medal struck under section 3, at a price sufficient to cover the costs of the medals, including labor, materials, dies, use of machinery, and overhead expenses.

(c) SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.—

ORDERS FOR MONDAY, DECEMBER 9, 2019

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it adjourn until 3 p.m., Monday, December 9; further, that following the prayer and pledge, the morning hour be deemed expired, the Journal be approved to date, the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day, and morning business be closed; further, that following leader remarks, the Senate proceed to executive session and resume consideration of the Bumatay nomination; and finally, that the cloture motions filed during today’s session ripen at 5:30 p.m. on Monday.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL MONDAY, DECEMBER 9, 2019, AT 3 P.M.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent that it stand adjourned under the previous order.

There being no objection, the Senate, at 3:57 p.m., adjourned until Monday, December 9, 2019, at 3 p.m.

TRIBUTE FOR MOHAMMED CHOWDHURY

HON. MAX ROSE
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Mr. ROSE of New York. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Mohammed K. Chowdhury, a Staten Island resident. Mr. Chowdhury is an activist, community organizer, and civil servant who has spent his life fighting to make the world a better place.

Mr. Chowdhury was born in rural Bangladesh. Beginning as a college student, he fought to better the lives of rural Bangladeshis in a whole host of areas, including education, infrastructure, healthcare, and communications. He also pushed for democratic reforms, fighting against autocratic government and ensuring that everyone would have the right to vote.

Upon moving to the United States, Mr. Chowdhury did not stop trying to better his communities. He has served as a civil servant in both the New York City and New York State systems. In both jobs, he was an active union member. He currently serves as the Council Leader for the New York State Public Employees Federation (PEF) Division 349.

Mr. Chowdhury has consistently fought on behalf of Staten Island’s South Asian community. In 2015, he became the Staten Island Chapter Secretary of the Alliance of South Asian American Labor (ASAAL) in 2015. By 2016, he had risen to become the National Secretary of the ASAAL. Under his leadership, ASAAL has grown to include 12 chapters across five states.

Mr. Chowdhury’s work to raise the voice for the voiceless and build coalitions between labor and community organizations should serve as an example to all of us. With a vision for the future, a desire to bring people together, and a tenacious work ethic, we truly can enact change.

So, Madam Speaker, I ask my colleagues in the House to join me in honoring Mohammed Chowdhury’s work to make communities across the world, from Staten Island to rural Bangladesh, a better place.

CELEBRATING TELEGRAM NEWSPAPER’S 75 YEARS OF LOCAL JOURNALISM

HON. RASHIDA TLAIB
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Ms. TLAIB. Madam Speaker, I rise today in tribute to the Telegram Newspaper, a local paper serving the Wayne County communities of Detroit, Ecorse, and River Rouge.

Founded in 1944, the Telegram is a multicultural community newspaper that is distributed weekly with the goal of connecting citizens within the region by publishing information that educates, enlightens, uplifts and empowers its readers. The Telegram has been in continuous publication since its inception and continues to be unique in its approach to providing news the community turns to for local, state and national information.

We are especially proud of the Telegram’s legacy as an African American-owned and run business and its outstanding commitment to the communities it serves. Their staff has developed partnerships with local schools, businesses, non-profit organizations, and city governments. They also participate in volunteer opportunities and provide media sponsorships for community events. The Telegram is helping to prepare the next generation of media personnel by establishing internship programs with local colleges & high schools. They expose youth to newspapers through the Newspapers in Education Program and Write Steps Internship Program.

Please join me in saluting publisher Gina Steward and the Telegram Newspaper for seventy-five years of local reporting.

IN MEMORY OF MR. LARRY N. WOFFORD

HON. SANFORD D. BISHOP, JR.
OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Madam Speaker, it is with a heavy heart and solemn remembrance that I rise to pay tribute to a great man and dear friend of longstanding, Mr. Larry N. Wofford. Larry passed away on Tuesday, December 3, 2019, and a funeral service will be held on Saturday, December 7, 2019, at 11:00 a.m. at the Chapel of Vance Brooks Funeral Home in Phenix City, Alabama.

A native son of Columbus, Georgia, Larry was born on August 1, 1944, to the union of the late Claude Newton Wofford and Zola Coker Wofford. He retired from AT&T where he faithfully worked for over 47 years. During his distinguished career, he served as President, Communication Workers of America (CWA) Local No. 3212 for over 38 years; President, CWA Retirees for over five years; member of five Bargaining Committees; member of Telephone Pioneers of America; President, Chattahoochee Valley Labor Council for four years; and was actively involved with the Georgia Boy Scout Youth Homes in LaGrange, Georgia for over 25 years. Former Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm once said that “Service is the rent that we pay for the space that we occupy here on this earth.” Larry paid his rent and he paid it well.

He will be remembered for his insightful and optimistic spirit, his passion for helping others, and his immense love for his family. He leaves behind a great legacy in how life should be lived and warm cherished memories in the lives of those who knew him.

While he was preceded in death by his parents, he is survived by his loving wife, Sue, and a host of family, friends, and colleagues in the labor movement, who will miss him dearly. On a personal note, I am proud to have called Larry my friend. He was always encouraging and supportive of my career in the Georgia General Assembly and in the United States Congress and I will be forever grateful for his friendship, advice, and counsel over the years.

Madam Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me, along with my wife, Vivian; and the more than 730,000 residents of Georgia’s Second Congressional District in saluting Mr. Larry N. Wofford for his lifelong dedication to serving working men and women and mankind in general. I would also like to ask my colleagues in the House to join us in extending our deepest sympathies to Larry’s family, friends, and loved ones during this difficult time. We pray that they will be consolled and comforted by an abiding faith and the Holy Spirit in the days, weeks, and months ahead.

RETIEMENT OF MS. PAULA KOCHER BARNES

OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Mr. LEWIS. Madam Speaker, today, I rise to recognize Ms. Paula Kocher Barnes on her retirement from the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) and for her decades of public service.

For over 40 years, Ms. Barnes served our country—most recently as deputy associate general counsel for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) in the Office of the General Counsel located in Georgia’s Fifth Congressional District.

It took some time for Ms. Barnes to make her way to our wonderful city. A native daughter of Iowa, Ms. Barnes completed her undergraduate degree at Coe College in Cedar Rapids. She continued her studies at Emory University’s School of Law, where I believe Metro Atlanta infused her spirit. Ms. Barnes began a career in federal service at the Department of Education in 1980 and joined the HHS Office of the General Counsel in the Region IV Atlanta Office a couple of years later.

After five years in the regional office, Ms. Barnes transitioned to the CDC’s Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR), where she continued her federal career for the next 32 years. During her tenure with the ATSDR, Ms. Barnes served on the front lines of implementing policy at the intersection of environment and health policy, an issue that is near and dear to my heart. As an attorney-advisor, Ms. Barnes worked to implement the Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act, a monumental bill which became public law the same year that I was elected to Congress.

As a senior attorney, Ms. Barnes continued this important effort by providing key counsel matter set in this typeface indicates words inserted or appended, rather than spoken, by a Member of the House on the floor. for interagency initiatives and memoranda on environmental health policy. In January 2014, the Centers for Disease Control promoted Ms. Barnes to the prominent position of deputy associate general counsel for the CDC/ATSDR Branch. Over the years, she contributed to litigation efforts regarding the Agent Orange exposure studies. The Federal Advisory Committee Act-National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) Diesel Study, Freedom of Information Act, ATSDR cost recovery, and the preeminent Hanford Downwinders case.

Ms. Barnes also managed to find the time to advance scholarship and policy in her professional field by contributing to numerous publications, including two prominent public health law textbooks and several articles. In addition, she served as an adjunct professor at Georgia State University’s and Emory University’s law schools and as a guest lecturer at Duke University.

During her esteemed career, Ms. Barnes played a critical role in several significant public health activities and events, including emergency responses to the September 11th tragedy, anthrax threats, Ebola Virus, Zika, and several major natural disasters. Our nation and the global family are forever grateful for Ms. Barnes and so many other CDC employees who help keep us safe, healthy, and alive.

Today, I would like to thank Ms. Barnes for her 41 years of federal service, for her dedication to public health, public service, and education. As she prepares for a well-deserved retirement, I wish Ms. Barnes the very best as she embarks upon this next chapter.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. JOE CUNNINGHAM
OF SOUTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Madam Speaker, on December 3–4, 2019, I was absent from the House chamber. I remained in my district in South Carolina to attend to a family matter. Accordingly, I was unable to vote on five legislative measures on the floor.

Had I been present and voting, I would have voted as follows:

Aye on Roll Call No. 643: H. Res. 546, On Motion to Suspend the Rules and Agree, Disapproving the Russian Federations inclusion in future Group of Seven summits until it respects the territorial integrity of its neighbors and adheres to the standards of democratic societies.

Aye on Roll Call No. 644 S. 178, On Motion to Suspend the Rules and Pass, as Amended, Uighur Intervention and Global Humanitarian Unified Response Act.

Aye on Roll Call No. 645: H. Res. 739, On Motion Ordering the Preliminary Questions to the Rule providing for consideration of H.R. 2534, the Insider Trading Prohibition Act.

Aye on Roll Call No. 646: H. Res. 739, On Agreeing to the Rule providing for consideration of H.R. 2534, the Insider Trading Prohibition Act.

Aye on Roll Call No. 647: S. 151, On Motion to Suspend the Rules and Pass, as Amended, Pallone-Thune Telephone Robocall Abuse Criminal Enforcement and Deterrence Act.

HONORING THE SERVICE OF WHITNEY DOTSON

HON. MARK DESAULNIER
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Mr. DeSaulnier. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the service of long-time community advocate, Whitney Dotson.

Whitney Dotson’s commitment to the good of his community is demonstrated by his career with the East Bay Regional Park District. Beginning as an appointed member of the Park District Advisory Committee, he later was elected to the Board of Directors where he worked on his passion for parks and health.

During his many years on the Board of Directors, Whitney has supported several significant projects, including the Atlas Road Bridge at Point Pinole, restoration of Albany Beach, and preservation of the North Richmond Shoreline. He also supported the completion of two Bay Trails, one between Pinole Shores and Bayfront Park and the other between Berkeley and Albany. Director Dotson fought to prevent commercial and residential development of the Breuner Marsh at Point Pinole, which was renamed the Otosco Family Marsh. Through this project, Director Dotson was able to continue the work of his father, Reverend Richard Dotson, to keep the marsh a natural place for everyone in the community to enjoy.

Director Dotson has been described by his colleagues as tirelessly pursuing environmental protections in his community.

Director Dotson’s service extends beyond his work with the East Bay Regional Park District. He is the president of the North Richmond Shoreline Open Space Alliance, Associate Director of the Neighborhoood House of North Richmond, and Vice Chair of the Community Advisory Group. Throughout his tenure with the East Bay Regional Park District and through his philanthropic work, Director Dotson has fought to preserve open space and ensure a clean and healthy environment for generations to come.

Director Dotson departs the East Bay Regional Park District with a legacy of championsing the environmental well-being of his community. We wish him great luck and joy in retirement.

IN HONOR OF LADY LIBERTY DAY

HON. LANCE GOODEN
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Mr. GOODEN. Madam Speaker, the following Proclamation is in honor of Lady Liberty Day:

Whereas, in 1986, the City started planning, a pavilion that would house three flag poles—one for the American flag, the State flag and initially the Texas Sesquicentennial flag; and

Whereas, the pavilion was to provide a base structure for the placement of the Lady Liberty statue and to light flag poles at night; and

Whereas, the City is proud to be able to re-dedicate the redesigned and rebuilt Lady Liberty Monument, bringing back a much-loved City landmark and gateway to the City; therefore, be it

Resolved, I, Lance Gooden, representative of the 10th District of Texas, do hereby recognize the 7th day of December 2019, as Lady Liberty Day.

TRIBUTE TO YOUNG STAFF MEMBERS FOR THEIR CONTRIBUTIONS ON BEHALF OF THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF TEXAS AND THE UNITED STATES

HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Madam Speaker, as Members of Congress we know well, perhaps better than most, how blessed our nation is to have in reserve such exceptional young men and women who will go on to become leaders in their local communities, states, and the nation in the areas of business, education, law, government, philanthropy, the arts and culture, and the military.

We know this because we see them and benefit from their contributions every day. Many of them work for us in our offices and they do amazing work for and on behalf of the constituents we are privileged to represent.

Madam Speaker, I believe there is no higher calling than the call to serve a cause larger than ourselves. That is why I ran for public office. I was inspired to serve by President Kennedy who said, “Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country,” and by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. who said: “Everybody can be great because anybody can serve. . . . You only need a heart full of grace. A soul generated by love.”

By this measure, there are several other great young men and women who served as volunteers this year in my offices. They may toil in obscurity but their contributions to the constituents we serve are deeply appreciated. That is why today I rise to pay tribute to three extraordinary young persons for their service to our constituents.

Ms. West has never shied away from standing up for what she believes in. As an advocate, she doggedly pursues better for her community. She has remained active in the fight for civil rights, working with organizations like the NAACP to ensure equity for people of color and for her community. She continues to fight for a better quality of life. Whenever it’s avocating for resources or uplifting her neighbors, it is clear that she believes in the good of people and future of Detroit.

Please join me in wishing Ms. Jean West the happiest of birthdays.

the opportunity to enjoy nature. Mayor Ditslear was also instrumental in attracting SMC, a Japanese pneumatic technology company, to make a massive investment in the Noblesville community creating over 600 new jobs by locating their North American headquarters to the city.

As Noblesville continued to grow and expand to new heights under Mayor Ditslear’s leadership, the Mayor and his team also led initiatives with fellow civic leaders and local business owners to maintain the vitality and attractiveness of downtown Noblesville. A long-time sector of commerce in the city, and the location of the Hamilton County Seat since 1824, downtown Noblesville has been the epicenter of Hamilton County since its inception. Working with groups such as Noblesville Main Street and various local businesses, Mayor Ditslear was able to encourage continued growth and revitalization of downtown Noblesville. Initiatives such as First Fridays, Jazz on the Square, and Small Business Saturdays, helped to build a sense of community that has made downtown Noblesville the focal point of the city once again.

By focusing on the infrastructure of the city, improving parks and community spaces, promoting quality education, and even playing a role in founding the Roots of Life Community Church with his wife, Head Pastor Teri Ditslear, Mayor Ditslear has impacted his city as both a government official and a committed, longtime resident.

On behalf of all Hoosiers, I thank Mayor Ditslear for his many years of service to the city and people of Noblesville, Indiana. I wish him, his wife and fellow civic leader, Pastor Teri Ditslear, and his family the best in a well-deserved retirement.

HONORING THE SERVICE OF JERRY BROWN

HON. MARK DeSAULNIER

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Mr. DeSAULNIER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the service of an esteemed leader in Contra Costa, Jerry Brown.

After a decade of leadership, Jerry Brown, a member of the Contra Costa Water District (CCWD) where he served the people of our county, Jerry will be leaving at the end of the year. His 18 years at CCWD were supported by his strong educational background in mechanical engineering, civil engineering, and business administration. Prior to joining us in the Bay Area, Jerry started his career with the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power.

During his tenure with CCWD, Jerry held various leadership positions and was appointed General Manager in September 2010. Throughout his career, he has worked in the water planning industry to ensure the proper management of the water system facilities and secure water quality and supply to the public. His leadership has played a crucial role in creating a water policy through his participation on various boards and committees such as the Bay Area Council, the Association of Metropolitan Water Agencies, and the California Urban Water Agencies. Above all, Jerry has placed his focus on customer service. Some of his notable accomplishments during his tenure at CCWD include constructing resilient and climate-adapted facilities and cultivating a strong safety culture within the organization.

HONORING THE SERVICE OF JERRY BROWN

TRIBUTE TO THE LOBOSCO ASSOCIATION

HON. MIKIE SHERRILL
OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Ms. SHERRILL. Madam Speaker, I rise to honor and recognize the history of the Lobosco Association, which will celebrate the 60th Lobosco Association Christmas Party on December 8, 2019 in Fredon, New Jersey. Four generations will gather to celebrate the strength of their family. They remain bound by the ideals of the first Loboscos who immigrated to this great nation and, through their sacrifices, enabled their descendants to attain the American Dream.

The Association has helped the Lobocosos support one another, gather together, and strengthen the bonds of family. Family has been a constant throughout the years. The Association’s dedication to Italian-American history and culture has kept its members deeply rooted to their shared ties and able to continue growing towards the future.

The Association began on April 28, 1957, when the descendants of Michele and Vincenza Lobosco first organized the group. They formed the Lobosco Association to strengthen the bonds of family and lend support to one another. The family’s journey to Paterson, New Jersey, began with the early death of the family’s patriarch, Michele. From their humble beginnings in the small coastal town of San Consilina, Italy, seven of the ten surviving children came to Paterson to establish new roots and provide their children with greater opportunities. According to their children with greater opportunities. An-
Jerry has been a strong partner and advocate for the needs of the Delta, and I have enjoyed our working relationship. Please join me in congratulating Jerry for his dedicated service, and in wishing him luck in his future endeavors.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

CELEBRATING THE 100TH BIRTHDAY OF FRANCES BARBER MCCOMMONS

HON. J. LUIS CORREA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, December 5, 2019

Mr. CORREA. Madam Speaker, I rise today to celebrate the 100th birthday of Frances Barber McCommons from the City of Anaheim, California.

Born on November 10, 1919 in McCrory, Arkansas, Frances has lived a rich and blessed life filled with raising her five children and serving in her neighborhood and at her church where she was a Sunday School teacher of 4- and 5-year-olds for more than 50 years.

Frances spent her childhood in Arkansas as the eldest of seven children. She graduated at 16 as class salutatorian. At 18, Frances married her childhood sweetheart, J.R. McCommons, and started life as a farmer’s wife. Frances, J.R., and their first four children were honored in 1949 as “The Farm Family of the Year for Woodruff County.” Frances and J.R. were married 58 years and were true life partners.

In 1955, the family moved to California, settling in Anaheim, where they lived in a neighborhood in East Anaheim surrounded by orange groves. It was here that they had another child. All five of their children would later attend and graduate from Anaheim High School.

Frances and J.R. were lay leaders in the Orange County Southern Baptist Association and helped start three churches: Crescent Southern Baptist Church in Anaheim and Lincoln Avenue Baptist Church in Orange.

In 1966, Frances and J.R.’s son, Michael McCommons, was killed in Vietnam while serving in the United States Army. He was posthumously awarded The Bronze Star with the V Device for Valor and Heroism in Combat and The Purple Heart. As a Gold Star Mother, Frances served veterans’ organizations and worked with other Gold Star Mothers to support veterans and families of those who were killed in service to their country.

For many years, Frances’s personal ministry was encouraging and celebrating others’ achievements, birthdays, and other life events through personal notes, cards, and letters. Frances remained involved in the lives of the grandchildren she taught in Sunday School and continued to celebrate their lives with them through adulthood.

Her life revolves around her immediate family and her large extended family, including eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. She is still an avid reader and remains interested in current events and the news. As someone whose livelihood was once dependent on the farm, Frances still loves watching the changes in the weather.

Please join me in wishing my constituent, Frances Barber McCommons, a happy 100th birthday and many more years of good health and happiness.

INTRODUCTION OF THE BANK MERGER REVIEW MODERNIZATION ACT

HON. JESÚS G. “CHUY” GARCÍA
OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, December 5, 2019

Mr. GARCÍA of Illinois. Madam Speaker, I rise today to support the Bank Merger Review Modernization Act.

When big banks get bigger, consumers and taxpayers usually end up losing.

Unprecedented concentration in the banking sector is hurting consumers, who pay more for critical financial services when their banks are merged out of existence. Since the 1980s, consolidation has swept the banking industry, with the number of FDIC-insured banks in the United States dropping from more than 15,000 in 1984 to less than 5,000 in 2018. Numerous studies have shown that bank mergers are associated with higher costs of credit, reductions in lending, and decreases in small business formation and local property prices.

Concentration in the banking sector also poses risks to financial stability. A wave of bank mergers by Bank of America, Citigroup, JPMorgan, and Wells Fargo in the late 1990s created the “too-big-to-fail” banks that became so central to the 2008 financial crisis. Rather than scrutinizing the considerable risks that bank mergers pose, the regulatory agencies tasked with reviewing these mergers have increasingly “rubber stamped” them. Bank merger approval rates are at historic highs.

Last month, the Federal Reserve and FDIC approved the largest merger since the crash when they gave the green light to the merger between BB&T and SunTrust.

I am concerned that the reviewing agencies are not giving adequate attention to the systemic risks that these giant megabanks pose. I am also concerned that the considerable harms to consumers are not being considered when mergers are reviewed. The Bank Merger Review Modernization Act strengthens the bank merger review process to give the CFPB and consumers a voice, and to require that the systemic costs of too big to fail institutions are taken into full account.

I urge this body to curb the creation of too big to fail banks and pass this bill.

RECOGNIZING CHRISTOPHER FOSS

HON. ERIC SWALWELL

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, December 5, 2019

Mr. SWALWELL of California. Madam Speaker, I rise to recognize the dutiful work of my constituent, Dublin City Manager Christopher Foss, on the occasion of his retirement after nearly 40 years of service in local government.

Chris began his career in local government as a deputy city manager for Burbank, California, where he eventually served as the economic development director. In these roles, he enriched Burbank’s economy and local business environment.

In 1999, Chris began serving as the economic development director for my hometown of Dublin. He implemented a variety of economic development programs to bolster and retain the business community. Under Chris, Dublin’s economy flourished, and his work had a lasting impact on the economic endurance and vitality of the Tri-Valley.

Chris served five years as assistant city manager before being promoted to city manager in 2014. His five-and-a-half-year tenure as city manager can be characterized by his superb relationship building, sound fiscal practices, and collaborative leadership style.

Under Chris’ leadership, Dublin vastly expanded its network of parks, constructed a new affordable housing project as well as key commercial projects, and increased its footprint in the medical and biotech communities.

Our community also has Chris to thank for the construction of several community facilities. One such example is the School of Imagination, to serve children with special needs. The influx of new jobs and services through these projects supports the sustainability of economic progress in our community.

Chris draws support from his amazing family. That network includes his loving wife Lisa, son Jordan, daughter-in-law Lizzie, and grandson Henry.

I want to thank Chris for the contributions he has made to the communities he has served, especially Dublin. His passionate leadership and enduring commitment to our community are very much appreciated.
RECOGNIZING JERRY REVISH

HON. JOYCE BEATTY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Mrs. BEATTY. Madam Speaker, on behalf of the residents of Ohio’s Third Congressional District, I salute Jerry Revish on his illustrious broadcasting career of 42 years.

In 1972, Jerry got his start in his hometown of Youngstown, Ohio at WBBW Radio and in June 1980 he became a reporter for WBNSTV.

Over the course of his more than four decades in journalism, Jerry won 13 Emmy awards, four Edward R. Murrow Awards, and the Silver Circle Award from the National Association of Black Journalists for a series of reports on the liberation of Haiti and a half-hour documentary on the new South Africa.

His reporting skills have taken him around the world.

He was the first Columbus TV reporter to go to Saudi Arabia to cover the Persian Gulf War, and he has reported from Haiti, Barbados, South Africa, Bosnia, Bahrain, Cuba, and Japan.

Among his numerous career highlights, Jerry covered many national political conventions, Ohio State University bowl games, the dedication of the Vietnam War Memorial Wall, the Lucasville State Prison Riot, and the September 11th terrorist attack. He also interviewed President Barack Obama and helped Columbus bodybuilder Walter Smith—wrongfully convicted of rape—win his freedom through DNA testing.

In 2005, Jerry was inducted into the Ohio Broadcasters Hall of Fame.

Outside of the newsroom, Jerry is the founder and senior pastor of the Unity Temple Church of God in Christ in Columbus, Ohio alongside his wife of 45 years, Danielle.

As he signs off at 10TV, I salute Jerry Revish for his commitment to excellence and service to Central Ohio—and wish him all the best as he begins the next chapter of his life.

HONORING THE LIFE AND LEGACY OF SEBASTIAN J. ARESCO

HON. ROSA L. DELAURO
OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, December 5, 2019

Ms. DELAUNO. Madam Speaker, I rise with the heaviest of hearts that I rise today to join the many family, friends, and colleagues who have gathered to pay tribute to a very special member of the Middlefield, Connecticut community, Sebastian J. AreSCO, who lost his battle with cancer late last week. Public servant, veteran, friend, and mentor, Seb’s loss will be felt by many.

Born in Middletown, Connecticut, Seb was a member of the United States Air Force and proudly served our country with distinction during the Vietnam War. He did not speak a lot about his time in the service, however, he spent countless hours with his fellow veterans throughout his life. He could often be found at events and programs sponsored by the local VFW, Seb was a member of the American Legion, and he was a part of the Saint Colman Church community. In his professional life, Seb was a proud employee of the State of Connecticut—an auditor with the State Treasurer’s office for several decades before his retirement just a few years ago. In his spare time, he could often be found at the shore, enjoying a day of fishing, grabbing a lobster or whole belly clam roll at Lenny and Joe’s Fish Tale, or simply enjoying the tranquility of the ocean.

Seb took great pride in his military and state service, but he was perhaps best known for his work in the political arena. He was raised to understand the importance of our political process and his life experiences highlighted them even more so. He wanted to make a difference in his community, and he did so through hard work and service on various Boards and Commissions in Middlefield, but it was his leadership as the Chair of the local Democratic Party—a position which he held for more than thirty years—where Seb excelled. Seb was one of those rare individuals who valued his time, energy, and even his home to ensure that every member of his community was encouraged to participate in the political process. He was a mentor to many as they became involved in local government and navigated elected office. He also had a unique understanding of how local, state, and federal government could work together to improve the quality of life for all. Though Middlefield is one of the smaller communities in Connecticut, Seb’s dedication, passion, and commitment earned him the respect and admiration of political leaders across the state.

Put simply, Seb was one of the good ones. He had a quiet strength and heart of gold. I, like so many others, consider myself fortunate to have known him as a friend. He will be deeply missed by family, friends, and the community to which he dedicated so much of his time and energies. His tireless efforts as a veteran, state employee, and community leader made a real difference in the lives of others and I am honored to have this opportunity to stand and pay tribute to the life and legacy of Sebastian J. AreSCO. I extend my deepest sympathies to his daughters, Amanda and Andrea, as well as his longtime companion, JoAnn, at this most difficult time.
