House of Representatives

The House met at 2 p.m. and was called to order by the Speaker.

PRAYER
The Chaplain, the Reverend Patrick J. Conroy, offered the following prayer:

God of Heaven and Earth, we give You thanks for giving us another day. We ask Your blessing upon the Members of the people's House. Imbue them with wisdom, inspire them to act with justice, and empower them to work toward legislative solutions to the many challenges facing our Nation.

Bless all the people of our Nation during these days of Senate deliberation. While this action draws much attention nationally, may the work of our citizens' hands issue forth in the betterment of their own lives and the strength and vitality of their local communities.

And may all that is done this day be for Your greater honor and glory.

Amen.

THE JOURNAL
The SPEAKER. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House her approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. GONZALEZ) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. GONZALEZ of Ohio led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

HONORING LIANE DOUGHERTY
(Mr. ROSE of New York asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. ROSE of New York. Madam Speaker, I rise today to pay respect and honor to my great teacher, Liane Dougherty. Mrs. Dougherty passed away on December 5, 2019. She taught me in history class more than 20 years ago at Poly Prep, where she was a mentor. She is survived by her husband, Francis, and her children, Max and Sophie.

Her students recall—myself included—that, each and every day, she would approach the classroom with grace, compassion, incredible wisdom and intellect. I can say without a doubt, I would not be a Congressman today without Mrs. Dougherty.

There is only one person in all of America being honored on the floor of the United States House of Representatives today, and that is Liane Dougherty. She is deserving of that, the best teacher I could ever ask for.

Madam Speaker, may she rest in peace. We will always honor her incredible legacy.

CELEBRATING NATIONAL SCHOOL CHOICE WEEK
(Ms. FOXX of North Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. FOXX of North Carolina. Madam Speaker, since 2011, National School Choice Week has been recognized as the largest annual celebration of opportunity and education in the world.

In North Carolina, over 2,313 school choice events are scheduled for this week, including events in my district at the Quality Education Academy High School in Winston-Salem and at the DT Early Learning Center in Wilkesboro.

Unfortunately, the media continues to conjure up misleading claims about school choice, and it is time we corrected the record. School choice is not about picking winners and losers; it is about letting families choose the educational options that meet the unique needs of their children.

A high-quality education is an indispensable tool, and America's children deserve nothing less than an education that empowers them to reach their greatest potential.

HONORING GLENN SMITH
(Mr. GONZALEZ of Ohio asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. GONZALEZ of Ohio. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the life of U.S. Navy veteran Glenn Smith, a Stark County World War II veteran who passed away last week at the age of 95.

Glenn was a Navy Seabee and served our country from August 1943 to July 1945. He was born in Indiana County, Pennsylvania, where his father was a coal miner for over 50 years.

In a story familiar to many in the heartland, Glenn made it through the Great Depression by scrapping steel for extra money. He would grow up to be part of the greatest generation to ever live, the generation that freed the world from tyranny.

Glenn was drafted into the Navy at age 19 and shipped out alongside 7,600 other men to Honolulu on Christmas Eve 1943. Glenn would go on to serve in the Pacific theater and, at the end of the war, was flown from Saipan to Pearl Harbor, where he took the USS Constellation home.

My office had the honor of presenting Glenn, in October of last year, with his military service medals earned during World War II. Glenn received the World War II Victory Medal and Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal.

Madam Speaker, today we remember Glenn’s life and service and thank him...
It is such an honor to represent nearly one-third of all active-duty marines, who, like Corporal McDonell, are always faithful to their fellow marines, communities, and our Constitution.

HONORING SPECIALIST JOSEPH A. RAYMOND

(Mr. JOYCE of Pennsylvania asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. JOYCE of Pennsylvania. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize Specialist Joseph Raymond of East Berlin, Pennsylvania, for outstanding achievement during the Soldier of the Year board for the 1st Battalion, 108th Field Artillery.

Specialist Raymond’s outstanding skills and high level of motivation contributed directly to him being selected as the Soldier of the Year, competing at the 56th Stryker Brigade Combat Team Soldier of the Year board.

Specialist Raymond’s exceptional performance reflects great credit upon himself, the 1st Battalion, 108th Field Artillery, the 56th Stryker Brigade Combat Team, the Pennsylvania Army National Guard, and the United States Army.

He is a credit to Adams County, to our Commonwealth, and to the entire United States of America.

Madam Speaker, today I salute Specialist Joseph Raymond and congratulate him and his entire family.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. JUDY Chu of California). Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until approximately 4:45 p.m. today.

Accordingly (at 2 o’clock and 12 minutes p.m.), the House stood in recess.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. KAPTUR) at 4 o’clock and 12 minutes p.m., the House stood in recess.

NEVER AGAIN EDUCATION ACT

Mr. NORCROSS, Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 943) to authorize the Secretary of Education to award grants to eligible entities to carry out educational programs about the Holocaust, and for other purposes, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill as follows:

H.R. 943

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Never Again Education Act”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

The Congress finds the following:

(1) The United States has demonstrated a commitment to remembrance and education about the Holocaust through bilateral relationships and engagement in international organizations such as the United Nations and the International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance; the United States works to promote Holocaust education as a means to understand the importance of democratic principles, use and abuse of power, and to raise awareness about the importance of genocide prevention today.

(2) The Congress has played a critical role in preserving the memory of the Holocaust and promoting awareness, including by authorizing the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum as an independent establishment of the Federal Government to ensure that “the study of the Holocaust become part of the curriculum in every school system in the country”, as well as by establishing a national Holocaust Remembrance Day in 1978.

(3) 75 years after the conclusion of World War II, with the decreasing number of eyewitnesses and growing distance of students and their families from this history, it is important to institutionalize education about the events of the Holocaust such as the German Nazis’ racist ideology, propaganda, and plans to lead a state to war and, with their collaborators, kill millions—including the systematic murder of 6,000,000 Jewish people; as well as the persecution and murder of millions of others in the name of racial purity, political, ideological, and behavioral grounds, among them Roma, the disabled, the Slavs, Communists, Socialists, Jehovah’s Witnesses, and homosexuals.

(4) As intolerance, antisemitism, and bigotry are promoted by hate groups, Holocaust education provides a context in which to learn about the danger of what can happen when hate goes unchallenged and there is indifference in the face of the oppression of others; learning how and why the Holocaust happened is an important component of the education of citizens of the United States.

(5) Today, those who deny that the Holocaust occurred or distort the true nature of the Holocaust continue to find forums, especially online; this denial and distortion discredits those who were persecuted, and murders, making it even more of a national imperative to educate students in the United States so that they may explore the lessons that the Holocaust provides for all people, to sensitize communities to the circumstances that gave rise to the Holocaust, and help youth be less susceptible to the falsehood of Holocaust denial and distortion and to the destructive messages of his history, it is imperative to educate students in the United States so that they may explore the lessons that the Holocaust provides for all people, to sensitize communities to the circumstances that gave rise to the Holocaust, and help youth be less susceptible to the falsehood of Holocaust denial and distortion.

(6) Currently, 12 States (California, Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, and Rhode Island) require by law that schools teach students about the Holocaust; more schools and teachers, including in historically underrepresented communities, can and should deliver quality Holocaust education.
For more than 30 years, the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum has worked to build and support the field of Holocaust education, and advance the quality and accessibility of Holocaust education at the local, State, and national levels, by engaging teachers and students across disciplines and grade levels.

The federal government, through support for educational activities of national museums established under Federal law, can assist teachers in efforts to incorporate historical instruction on human rights atrocities, including the Holocaust, in curricula.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) ANTI-SEMITISM.—The term "anti-Semitism" means a certain perception of Jews, which may be expressed as hatred toward Jews. Rhetorical and physical manifestations of antisemitism are directed toward Jewish or non-Jewish individuals or their property, toward Jewish community institutions and religious facilities.

(2) DIRECTOR.—The term "Director" means the Director of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum.

(3) ELIGIBLE PROGRAM PARTICIPANT.—The term "eligible program participant" means—

(A) a high school teacher, a teacher of one of the middle grades, or a school leader of a high school or an elementary school that includes one of the middle grades (as such terms are defined in section 801 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 7801));

(B) an educational leader or expert who is not employed by a local educational agency (as defined in section 801 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 7801)) or an elementary school or secondary school (as such terms are so defined) that is independent of any local educational agency;

(C) a prospective teacher enrolled in a program of postsecondary education coursework or preserve clinical education;

(D) the Holocaust: the term "Holocaust" means the systematic, bureaucratic, state-sponsored persecution and murder of 6,000,000 Jews by the Nazi regime and its allies and collaborators in the era of the Holocaust, German authorities also targeted other groups because of their perceived "racial inferiority", such as Roma, the disabled, and Soviet prisoners of war, as well as other political, ideological, and behavioral grounds, among them Communists, Socialists, Jehovah’s Witnesses, and homosexuals.

(5) HOLOCAUST DENIAL AND DISTORTION.—The term "Holocaust denial and distortion" means discourse and propaganda that deny the historical reality and the extent of the extermination carried out by the Nazis and their accomplices during World War II, known as the Holocaust. Holocaust denial refers specifically to any attempt to claim that the Holocaust did not take place, or that the Holocaust distortion refers to efforts to excuse or minimize the events of the Holocaust or its principal elements, including collaborators and other types of professional leadership audiences.

(6) HOLOCAUST EDUCATION CENTER.—The term "Holocaust education center" means an institution that furthers the teaching and learning about the Holocaust by offering programs, internships, and training for teachers and other types of professional leadership.

(7) HOLOCAUST EDUCATION PROGRAM.—The term " Holocaust education program" means a program that has as its specific and primary purpose to improve awareness and understanding of the Holocaust and educate individuals on the lessons of the Holocaust as a means to raise awareness about the importance of preventing genocide, hate, and bigotry among all people.
The Holocaust was the systematic and state-sponsored persecution and murder of 6 million Jews and an additional 5 million others who the Nazis deemed inferior. Yet, while it might seem hard for the older generations to believe, many younger Americans today do not know the basic facts about the Holocaust.

A new study from the Pew Research Center found that half of Americans know that 6 million Jews were killed in the Holocaust. The research found that education and trips to Holocaust museums directly impact respondents' knowledge. The figures highlight the need for greater Holocaust education in America.

Today, anti-Semitism is on the rise. I hosted an event last week with leaders of the Jewish community and law enforcement. They talked about their security concerns, and they made a pledge to stand up for others by challenging bigotry in any form.

We must stand against hate and educate one another to prevent and stop the rise of anti-Semitism.

Soon, younger generations will not be able to hear from Holocaust survivors, as we have firsthand. They will depend on their schools and their teachers to learn the facts.

We were recently in Belgium on a trip led by Speaker Pelosi to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the Battle of the Bulge, where over 19,000 Americans died in that battle, joining with the Allies to fight against hate and evil.

We won, and after World War II, we said, "Never again." But we realize that hatred and evil are not truly defeated. As Elie Wiesel once said: "Wherever human beings are subjected to the deprivations of life, never again touches mankind."

Sadly, the hate and anti-Semitism that fueled the horrors of the Holocaust has not been extinguished from all corners of the globe or driven out of every heart.

In recent months, we have seen a startling rise in anti-Semitism and vicious high-profile attacks on Jewish life across the country, tearing at the very fabric of our society.

It has been little over a year since the massacre at the Tree of Life synagogue in Pittsburgh, which was the deadliest attack on Jewish life in our nation's history.

Just last month, a Beverly Hills synagogue was vandalized, a machete-wielding assailant terrorized a Hanukkah celebration in my home State of New York, and a gunman targeted a kosher grocery store in Jersey City.

As we condemn these horrific acts, we must also ensure that our children understand the dangers of rising anti-Semitism and that they recognize its history.

Yet, as the number of living Holocaust survivors and eyewitnesses continues to decline, studies show that the Holocaust is fading from public memory. By educating students about the horrors of the Holocaust, we can take proactive measures to reject the hate and bigotry that is fueling this dangerous trend.

Our bipartisan bill, which has nearly 300 cosponsors in the House, will provide teachers throughout the country with the resources and training they need to teach our children the important lessons of the Holocaust and the consequences of intolerance and hate.

It will amplify the important work being done by the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, leveraging a combination of public and private funds to develop and disseminate high-quality Holocaust education resources, which can then be adopted by our local schools and included in their curriculum.

This bill has the support of more than 1,800 Holocaust survivors from 38 States, nearly every State with living Holocaust survivors, as well as 350 organizations from across the country.

Its consideration today is the result of passionate advocacy from its supporters and the bipartisan efforts from the Education and Labor Committee.

Madam Speaker, I strongly encourage all of my colleagues to vote "yes" on H.R. 943, the Never Again Education Act, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NORCROSS. Madam Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCOTT), the chairman of the Education and Labor Committee.

Mr. SCOTT of Virginia. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 943, the Never Again Education Act.

With each passing year, there are fewer and fewer people who can provide firsthand accounts of the horrors of the Holocaust. We have a responsibility to ensure that the lessons of the Holocaust are not forgotten.

As we confront a disturbing rise of anti-Jewish bigotry and acts of hate, let us invest in the minds of young people today to understand the destructive powers of intolerance and how to use that knowledge to embrace understanding and insight.

Madam Speaker, I thank Chairwoman Maloney, Mr. Bacon, Mr. Norcross, and Ms. Stefanik for their leadership, and I encourage my colleagues to support the bill.

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. Bacon).

Mr. BACON. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of the Never Again Education Act.

Madam Speaker, I recognize Congresswoman Maloney for her decades of leadership on this issue, as well as Congresswoman Stefanik, who served as a cosponsor on this bill.

Today, we have 300 of our Members cosponsoring this bill, compared to only 53 Members in the last Congress, and it took the leadership of many to make today a reality.

Madam Speaker, I also thank the Nebraska State Education Association for raising awareness of this bill to their counterparts at the National Education Association. We appreciate their efforts to secure the NEA endorsement.

As we remember the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz and other Nazi death camps, we must pledge to each other and ourselves to never forget the victims and the lessons learned.

This cannot be a partisan issue. We must remember that the fight against anti-Semitism is an American endeavor and does not belong to Republicans or Democrats. Stamping out this evil is an endeavor for all humanity. If we allow it to become the agenda of just a single party or to be used as a partisan weapon, then we will provide the fertile ground for the growth of this evil.

Anti-Semitism and all of its manifestations are plain evil, and the Holocaust illustrates the ultimate and horrible endpoint of where hatred leads.

As the firsthand witnesses of these crimes pass away, it becomes incumbent upon us to ensure that they are never forgotten and that their pain and suffering never become just a footnote in history.

In addition, the eyes of future generations are upon us, and this legislation is needed now more than ever. According to recent studies, nearly half of our millennials are unaware that 6 million Jews were murdered, and two-thirds of American millennials surveyed were not familiar with Auschwitz. Another statistic shows that over 60 percent of religious hate crimes are anti-Semitic in nature.

Our schools need the resources that this bill provides, and education is one of our strongest tools against anti-Semitism. This bill is especially important considering the increase in anti-Semitic attacks in this country and around the world.

Even in my home State, we have seen this evil. Most recently, the South Street Temple in Lincoln, Nebraska, was the target of anti-Semitic vandalism. Last November, the Temple Israel Cemetery in Omaha was desecrated. The cemetery attack also happened near Veterans Day, which, unfortunately, provided a dark reminder that the cause of defending freedom and combating hate never rests and that this is a cause that we all share the responsibility for, to fight.

When liberating the camps, General Eisenhower brought journalists, government officials, and military personnel to the camps, as he told us, "the evidence should be immediately placed before the American and British publics in a fashion that would leave no room for cynical doubt."

Today, we continue that legacy. Our work today is a continuation of what General Eisenhower wanted. Today, we continue that legacy to ensure that this will never happen again, and we do this partially through education.

We never forget so that "never again" will happen.

Mr. NORCROSS. Madam Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI), the Speaker of the House.

Ms. PELOSI. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding and for his leadership in bringing this important bipartisan legislation to the floor. I thank Congresswoman MALONEY for her relentless advocacy in this regard.

Madam Speaker, I rise to join my colleagues on this International Holocaust Remembrance Day in support of the Never Again Education Act, strong, bipartisan legislation to ensure that "never again" are simply not words but a solemn, sacred pledge to be fulfilled with action.

Madam Speaker, I salute CAROLYN MALONEY, a longstanding leader in this effort to educate the next generation about the Holocaust. I also thank Chairman BOBBY SCOTT for his leadership in this regard and for his cooperation in bringing this to the floor.

I thank all of our Members who have worked on this overwhelmingly bipartisan effort reflecting the strong bipartisan commitment of this entire Congress to standing with the Jewish community and allies to ensure Holocaust education remains front and center in our schools.

Last week, I had the great and solemn honor of leading a bipartisan congressional delegation to Poland and Israel to mark the 75th anniversary since the liberation of Auschwitz. I see two of our colleagues who were on the trip, Mr. DEUTCH and Mr. SCHNEIDER, who brought so much to that delegation. Both of them serve on the board of the Holocaust Memorial Museum.

At Auschwitz, I walked on grounds scarred by a virtually unspeakable evil, where more than 1 million innocents were murdered. I was especially affected because—as my colleagues have heard me say—of what my father said on the House floor on March 2, 1943.

[Madam Speaker quoting from the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.]

On that day, my father said: "Action not pity can save millions now—extinction or hope for the remnants of European Jewry?—it is for us to give the answer." He was pleading for Soviet Jews in the midst of the Holocaust.

He said: "Daily, hourly, the greatest crime of all time is being committed. A defenseless and innocent people is being slaughtered in the greatest but a solemn, sacred pledge to be fulfilled with action.

When liberating the camps, General Eisenhower brought journalists, government officials, and military personnel to the camps, as he told us, "the evidence should be immediately placed before the American and British publics in a fashion that would leave no room for cynical doubt."

Today, we continue that legacy. Our work today is a continuation of what General Eisenhower wanted. Today, we continue that legacy to ensure that this will never happen again, and we do this partially through education.

We never forget so that "never again" will happen.

Mr. NORCROSS. Madam Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI), the Speaker of the House.

Ms. PELOSI. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding and for his leadership in bringing this important bipartisan legislation to the floor. I thank Congresswoman MALONEY for her relentless advocacy in this regard.

Madam Speaker, I rise to join my colleagues on this International Holocaust Remembrance Day in support of the Never Again Education Act, strong, bipartisan legislation to ensure that "never again" are simply not words but a solemn, sacred pledge to be fulfilled with action.

Madam Speaker, I salute CAROLYN MALONEY, a longstanding leader in this effort to educate the next generation about the Holocaust. I also thank Chairman BOBBY SCOTT for his leadership in this regard and for his cooperation in bringing this to the floor.

I thank all of our Members who have worked on this overwhelmingly bipartisan effort reflecting the strong bipartisan commitment of this entire Congress to standing with the Jewish community and allies to ensure Holocaust education remains front and center in our schools.

Last week, I had the great and solemn honor of leading a bipartisan congressional delegation to Poland and Israel to mark the 75th anniversary since the liberation of Auschwitz. I see two of our colleagues who were on the trip, Mr. DEUTCH and Mr. SCHNEIDER, who brought so much to that delegation. Both of them serve on the board of the Holocaust Memorial Museum.

At Auschwitz, I walked on grounds scarred by a virtually unspeakable evil, where more than 1 million innocents were murdered. I was especially affected because—as my colleagues have heard me say—of what my father said on the House floor on March 2, 1943.

[Madam Speaker quoting from the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.]

On that day, my father said: "Action not pity can save millions now—extinction or hope for the remnants of European Jewry?—it is for us to give the answer." He was pleading for Soviet Jews in the midst of the Holocaust.

He said: "Daily, hourly, the greatest crime of all time is being committed. A defenseless and innocent people is being slaughtered in the greatest..."
Europe. Their psychology of despair and helplessness would be transformed into one of hope for revenge and survival. A Jewish army will give a meaning to their suffering with a meaning for the world.

They will then realize that they cease being helpless victims and become partners in the global struggle for a better world, in which they will live in freedom and equality as all other human beings.

The Jews of Palestine and the stateless Jews want to fight as Jews. They want to prove to the world that the Jews can be more than “the persecuted people”—that Jews can die in other ways than through murder. They want the right to fight for the world’s freedom, under their own banner.

To die, if needs be, but to die fighting.

Of course, these are not all the practical proposals which the human mind is capable of conceiving. It is unfair to ask for a single solution to such a disastrous problem. What we must realize is that it is our duty not to resign ourselves to the idea that our brains are powerless to find any solution; not to resign ourselves to the idea that the forces of democracy are too weak to enforce such a solution.

Remember when a few thousand British soldiers were put in chains by the Germans? How swift the retaliation? And how practical.

The Germans chained no more British soldiers. Remember when a tiny town in Czechoslovakia was horribly “punished”? How swift the hurricane of world indignation that answered.

There have been no more Lidice.

Remember when small and encircled Sweden opposed vigorously and stubbornly the expulsion of Norwegian Jews. The Germans abandoned their plan.

The Jews of Norway are still there.

The American sense of justice and decency and American ingenuity must also find ways to overpower the diabolical plan to exterminate the Jewish people. It must find a way now, before millions more perish.

It is, therefore, our primordial demand that an intergovernmental commission of military experts be appointed with the task of elaborating ways and means to stop the wholesale slaughter of the Jews in Europe. This is the challenge, before the terrible homicidal maniac extends his policy of extermination to other peoples; before he dares introducing poison gas and bacteriological warfare.

Remember that for years the Germans rehearsed the Jews what they later practiced on other peoples. Therefore, we have decided to launch an all-out campaign to save European Jewry. We will spare no efforts and have no rest until the American public will be fully informed of the facts and aroused to responsibilities.

We believe in the overwhelming power of public opinion as the greatest, if not the only, weapon of democracy. Governments in democratic countries like the United States and Great Britain can act only when they feel sure that they are backed by a powerful movement of public opinion. We plead with everyone to help and to cooperate in this sacred campaign we have launched. Join in this fight, write to your Congressmen, contribute so that this message may be carried to every city and hamlet in the United States as is being done Great Britain. You are part of the collective conscience of America. This conscience has never been found wanting.

Ms. PELOSI. Madam Speaker, after Auschwitz, our delegation then traveled to Yad Vashem where we mourned the loss of—believe this—1.5 million little children, killed in this most evil of atrocities.

Before we left Washington, in Krakow, Poland, and throughout the time in Israel, we were blessed to meet with and hear the testimony of survivors. The message we saw to us was this: “Never forget.”

As Elie Wiesel, one of the most important voices of conscience that has ever lived said: “If we forget, the dead will be killed. If we forgive, we are guilty, we are accomplices. The rejection of memory . . . would doom us to repeat past disasters, past wars.”

“Remembering the Holocaust, Fighting Anti-Semitism” was the theme of the Yad Vashem observance. It is the charge that we carry with us.

We must always remember the horrors of the Holocaust, particularly now as the forces of evil that led to the Shoah, are reawakening, and, therefore, we must not only remember the Holocaust, but fight anti-Semitism.

Today, around the world, an epidemic of anti-Semitism and bigotry is spreading with appalling hate crimes being perpetrated everywhere from supermarkets to synagogues. Disturbingly, we have seen a rise of anti-Semitic attacks here in America.

230 years ago, President George Washington, under whose gaze we stand today, our patriarch, wrote to the Jewish community that our Nation “should be glorious for giving to bigotry no sanction, to persecution, no assistance.”

Yet, from New York, to California, to Pittsburgh innocents are being attacked and lives are being brutally threatened, and too often, bigotry and persecution have been allowed to foster. More needs to be done.

Last spring, the House proudly passed H. Res. 183, which condemns anti-Semitism “...as hateful expressions of intolerance that are contradictory to the principles and values of our great democracy.”

And soon after, we passed legislation to secure Jewish places of worship, which is now law.

Today, with this legislation, the House is taking another step to fulfill our pledge of: “Never again” thanks to all of our Members.

This legislation authorizes funding for the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum to support and strengthen their efforts to develop accurate, relevant, and accessible resources; to promote understanding about the Shoah, and the dangers of intolerance in our time.

We must educate the world about the dangers of what can happen when hate goes unchallenged, and when oppression is met with indifference.

Some of us were there the day the Holocaust Memorial Museum was dedicated. Elie Wiesel spoke so powerfully that rainy day, and years later, I was honored to return to the museum to speak at Elie’s memorial service.

Inside the Holocaust Memorial Museum in the Hall of Remembrance before the eternal flame, the words of Deuteronomy are inscribed in stone. It says: “Only guard yourself and guard your soul carefully, lest you forget the things your eyes saw, and lest these things depart your heart all the days of your life, and you shall make them known to your children, and your children’s children.”

With this legislation, we pledge to keep alive the memory of the Shoah so that we can fulfill the promise: “Never again.”

I anticipate an overwhelming, unanimous vote in support of this bipartisan legislation, and I thank my colleagues for their leadership on both sides of the aisle for making that victory possible.

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. JOYCE).

Mr. JOYCE of Ohio. Madam Speaker, I thank Congresswoman STEFANIK and my colleagues on the other side of the aisle for bringing this important legislation to the floor.

Madam Speaker, I rise today on the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz in support of H. R. 943, the Never Again Education Act.

I am proud to be a cosponsor of this bipartisan bill, to give schools and teachers across the United States the resources needed to incorporate Holocaust education into their classrooms and teach our children the consequences of intolerance and hate.

Sadly, we have seen a rise in anti-Semitism across the country, fueling horrific violence, including the shooting at the Tree of Life synagogue in Pittsburgh, and recent attacks over the holidays in New York.

Last year in our home State of Ohio, a 20-year old was arrested before he could carry out a violent attack against the Youngstown Jewish Community Center. I stand with Ohio’s Jewish community against all anti-Semitic threats and remain committed to ensuring that all Americans can practice their religion peacefully, without fear.

The freedom of religion is a fundamental right provided to all American citizens in the Constitution. Any threat to this right is an attack on one of our core pillars of our democracy and must be confronted. But the fact of the matter is that responding to anti-Semitism is not enough.

We must work to prevent it from ever taking root in the first place. That is why I cosponsored the Never Again Education Act. As the number of living Holocaust survivors decline, studies show that the Holocaust is fading from public memory.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I yield the gentleman from Ohio an additional 1 minute.

Mr. JOYCE of Ohio. Madam Speaker, unfortunately, the same cannot be said about anti-Semitism.

By educating our children on one of the cruellest times in human history, we can help eradicate the hatred that fuels these terrible acts. It is more important than ever before that we reaffirm our commitment to defeating anti-Semitism in all of its forms and ensure the stories of Holocaust survivors live on.

My father is one of the brave American soldiers who risked his life to defeat the scourge of Nazism during World War II, and I am proud to continue his fight against anti-Semitism here in Congress.

I strongly encourage all of my colleagues to vote ‘yes’ on H.R. 943, the Never Again Education Act.

Mr. NORCROSS. Madam Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. CAROLYN B. MALONEY), the lead sponsor of the bill. Mrs. CAROLYN B. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding, and for his incredible leadership.

Madam Speaker, I rise today to urge my colleagues to vote ‘yes’ on my bipartisan, bicameral, biennial legislation, H.R. 943, the Never Again Education Act, which has over 300 cosponsors.

On this day, 75 years ago, Auschwitz-Birkenau was finally liberated, but not before more than 1 million people were murdered there. We mark this day International Holocaust Remembrance Day as we witness the rise of anti-Semitism, racism, and bigotry across our country and around the world.

In fact, we observe this day of remembrance just weeks after the rise of violent anti-Semitic attacks in New York, including an attack at a rabbi’s home during the festival of Hanukkah.

An Anti-Defamation League report recorded that over 1,800 of these acts happened in 2018 alone. And yet, as we speak out against these attacks and stand against hate with our Jewish communities, we are also called to act.

Condemnation alone is not enough. We need to do all we can to create community and ensure these incidents don’t happen in the first place.

We need to make a better future, one of understanding, acceptance, and mutual respect.

We must make sure our children and students understand the dangers of rising anti-Semitism.

In the resolution establishing today as International Holocaust Remembrance Day, the United Nations asked each member Nation to ‘develop educational materials that will inculcate future generations with the lessons of the Holocaust in order to help prevent future acts of genocide.’

As a former teacher, I know that our children are not born with hate in their hearts, and it is up to us to make sure that they never learn it.

We need to give our teachers the resources they need to teach about the Holocaust and the dangers of bigotry and hate. This is not an easy subject matter for our students to understand, and our teachers need support, lesson plans, guest speakers, and training.

So along with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle, I introduced H.R. 943, which will expand the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum’s already impressive educational programs by requiring the museum to develop and disseminate accurate, relevant, and accessible resources to improve awareness and understanding of the Holocaust, and educate individuals on a means to promote the importance of preventing genocide, hate, and bigotry against any group of people.

By providing $10 million over 5 years to support key programs like having traveling exhibits at a centralized website, a database, where educators can find curriculum and lessons plans that are appropriate for every age group; to develop and disseminate and implement principles of sound instruction; and to increase engagement with the Education and Labor Committee; the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum; and the Jewish community organizations, which all worked together to promote Holocaust education.

Today, on this Holocaust Remembrance Day, I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of H.R. 943, the Never Again Education Act, so that we can hold true to the promise of ‘never again.’

Mrs. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NORCROSS. Madam Speaker, I yield 2½ minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. DEUTCH).

Mr. DEUTCH. Madam Speaker, I thank my friend, Congressman NORCROSS, for yielding. I am thankful for Congresswoman MALONEY’s leadership and commitment to Holocaust education. I appreciate Chairman SCOTT’s leadership in helping to bring this bill to the floor.

I am thankful to all of my colleagues, Democratic and Republican alike; the Education and Labor Committee; the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum; and the Jewish community organizations, which all worked together to promote Holocaust education.

Last week, I was honored to participate in a bipartisan delegation led by Speaker Pelosi that visited Auschwitz-Birkenau. It was my first time there, and I walked through the gates where more than 1 million people perished.

The magnitude of the effort of the Nazis to try to eradicate the Jewish people was shocking. I was shaken by the site of the crematorium, the gas chambers, and the piles of hair, glasses, personal effects, and everything gathered in a way to dehumanize the Jews before they were even slaughtered.

It has been 75 years since Auschwitz was liberated, and today, there are few remaining survivors who can share their stories firsthand. Six million Jews were killed in the Holocaust. We must carry on and honor their memories as a stark and enduring warning to future generations. But recent polls show that we are failing to live up to that solemn responsibility. Less than half of Americans know how many Jews were killed in the Holocaust. We must do better.

Some States like my home State of Florida mandate Holocaust education as part of the public school curriculum.
I am proud to represent Holocaust survivors living in south Florida. In my district, those survivors, their children, their grandchildren, and all of us who work to elevate their stories work so hard to make sure that this education is a part of every student’s education.

But not every State has the resources, whether textbooks or survivors and their powerful testimony. That is why this legislation is so important. It will empower the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum to promote Holocaust education around the country. It will do the vital work of bringing Americans together to say “never again.”

When we visited Yad Vashem, almost 50 countries in the world sent their leaders to speak up to remember the Holocaust and to speak out against anti-Semitism. President Macron pointed out that anti-Semitism is a poison.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. NORCROSS. Madam Speaker, I yield the gentleman from Florida an additional 30 seconds.

Mr. DEUTCH. There are deadly attacks and anti-Semitic violence that is almost regular in occurrence, but with all of this poison of anti-Semitism, education is our antidote.

Today, on International Holocaust Remembrance Day, I am proud the House of Representatives is working to give the words “never again” real meaning and real purpose by educating American students about the horrors of the Holocaust and the responsibility that all of us have to fight anti-Semitism and hatred.

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NORCROSS. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. SUOZZI).

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Madam Speaker, I thank my colleague for his leadership in moving this bill forward and my colleagues in the House for passing this bill later this evening.

I rise today in support of H.R. 943, the Never Again Education Act, of which I am proud to be a cosponsor.

Today is International Holocaust Remembrance Day, marking the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz—Poland’s largest death camp and genocidal machine that killed more than 6 million Jewish men, women, and children.

It also marks the continuation of our ongoing responsibility to keep as a promise made after the Holocaust: “never again,” never again to allow the evils unleashed by anti-Semitism, extremism, and hatred to fester, never again to stand idly by in the face of genocide.

Last week, I had the solemn honor to visit Auschwitz with a bipartisan congressional delegation led by Speaker Pelosi. Standing before the gas chambers and furnaces, seeing what seemed like infinite piles of personal belongings taken from the victims, endless piles of hair of the people murdered at Auschwitz, I felt a deep responsibility to fulfill the promise once again.

Yet, today, in this moment, we are witnessing an increase in anti-Semitism and hate crimes specifically here in the United States. In 2018, a gunman walked into the Tree of Life synagogue in Pittsburgh and killed 11 people. It was the worst anti-Semitic attack in our Nation’s history, but it was not the first. In 2019, in Poway, a kosher grocery in New Jersey, and a Hanukkah celebration in Muncie—across the country are increasing numbers of verbal and physical assaults, vandalism, and other acts of anti-Jewish hate. The numbers are truly horrifying.

Here we are in this moment, 75 years since the horrors of the Holocaust came into full view, close to a time when there will be no survivors left to tell their stories.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. NORCROSS. Madam Speaker, I yield the gentleman from Illinois an additional 15 seconds.

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Yet, anti-Semitism is just as dangerous today as it was then, and a key lesson of the Holocaust is more important than ever, that in the face of a dramatic rise in anti-Semitism, we must not—and cannot—remain silent.

This act is a step toward that aim by empowering the Holocaust Memorial Museum to develop and distribute national education materials for teachers across the Nation. Only by standing strong in our fight against these threats in our time and on our watch can we live up to the sacred promise of “never again.”

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote “yes.”

Mr. NORCROSS. Madam Speaker, may I inquire how much time remains on either side, please.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New Jersey has 2¼ minutes remaining. The gentlewoman from New York has 12½ minutes remaining. Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NORCROSS. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. SUOZZI).

Mr. SUOZZI. Madam Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 943, the bipartisan Never Again Education Act, of which I am proud to be a cosponsor.

Never again is, sadly, not assured. Today, as we mark the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz and honor the memory of 6 million Jews murdered in the Holocaust, it is more important than ever that we come together to fight anti-Semitism.

Anti-Semitism is real, and it is growing. I have seen it in my own community. Overall crime is down dramatically, but hate crimes are rising. Anti-Semitic graffiti was found spray-painted not once but twice at the Holocaust Memorial and Tolerance Center in my hometown of Glen Cove in Nassau County.

Why is it happening? Divisive rhetoric is one cause. Nefarious use of social media by the haters and by our foreign adversaries who wish to foment civil unrest is another. But most important is ignorance.

The ignorance regarding the Holocaust is shocking, with over 50 percent of Americans ignorant of the fact that over 6 million Jews were killed during the Holocaust.

We must recognize that education is the best tool to fight ignorance. That is why the Never Again Education Act is so very important.

I recently traveled to Belgium to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the Battle of the Bulge. In preparation, I read the book “Band of Brothers.” In the book, it described how soon after the Battle of the Bulge, literally miles away from the concentration camps they were about to liberate in just a few weeks, the soldiers were debating whether the Holocaust was real. Or, was it just propaganda?

Think of it: literally miles away from the camps just weeks before liberation, after millions of people had already been killed, and they were questioning whether or not it was real. Imagine, 75 years later, how much scarier that ignorance is 75 years later.

If we do not use the lessons of history to make enlightened moral choices, we risk turning a blind eye to the same threats in our time and on our watch. We can help ensure that “never again” is assured for future generations.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this important, bipartisan legislation.

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consider to close.

Madam Speaker, more than 70 years ago, people around the world pledged to never again stand by in silence as an oppressed people were annihilated. As years continue to pass since the horrors and atrocities of the Holocaust, it is clear that we must do more to honor the victims and carry them on in our memories.

In fact, a recent survey found that two-thirds of millennials cannot identify the important role that the Holocaust played in World War II, including the fact that fewer than 2 million Jews were killed during the Holocaust.

Today, on the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz, we have the opportunity to reaffirm our commitment to remembrance, that we remember.
helps honor the legacy of Holocaust survivor and Nobel laureate Elie Wiesel.

By shining a light on the horrors of the Holocaust and educating our youth about the dangers of anti-Semitism, we further our commitment to Wiesel's call for the effort "never again.

I thank Mrs. MALONEY for her decades of leadership on this bill and for working on the improvements that we are voting on today, and I thank all of those who have worked on this important issue.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote "yes," and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. NORCROSS. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Right up the road from where I live in New Jersey, there is a woman, Rose-lie Simon, a Holocaust survivor, who settled there right after World War II. She returned this past week to Auschwitz for the first time since she was a prisoner there in 1945, when she was 12 years old. She said the following:

I was a survivor and I look back on what I went through. I want to go back as a human being, not as an inmate.

We must honor Rosalie and many like her and all of the survivors and victims by supporting H.R. 943, the Never Again Education Act, to ensure the Holocaust is never forgotten and never repeated.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. DAVID P. ROE of Tennessee. Madam Speaker, I express support for H.R. 943, the Never Again Education Act. Today, January 27, marks Holocaust Remembrance Day, as well as the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz. We, as a society, have an enduring obligation to not only educate ourselves, but also future generations, on the atrocities that took place from 1933 to 1945 so that they are never repeated again.

Mr. DAVID P. ROE of Tennessee. Madam Speaker, on behalf of my colleagues to promote religious tolerance and respect, for taking up this vital piece of legislation, and for the leadership on this bill and for theMerchant Marine Act of 2020''.

SEC. 3. CONGRESSIONAL GOLD MEDAL.

(a) AWARD AUTHORIZED.—The Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President pro tempore of the Senate shall make appropriate arrangements for the award, on behalf of Congress, of a single gold medal of appropriate design to the United States merchant mariners of World War II, in recognition of their dedicated and vital service during World War II.

(b) DESIGN AND STRIKING.—For the purposes of the award described in subsection (a), the Secretary of the Treasury (in this Act referred to as the "Secretary") shall strike the gold medal with suitable emblems, devices, and inscriptions, to be determined by the Secretary.
(c) AMERICAN MERCHANT MARINE MUSEUM.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Following the award of the gold medal under subsection (a), the gold medal shall be given to the American Merchant Marine Museum, where it will be available for display as appropriate and available for research.

(2) DUPLICATE MEDALS.—It is the sense of Congress that the American Merchant Marine Museum should make the gold medal given to the Museum under paragraph (1) available for display elsewhere, particularly at appropriate locations associated with the United States Merchant Marine and that preference should be given to locations affiliated with the United States Merchant Marine.

SEC. 4. DUPLICATE MEDALS.

Under such regulations as the Secretary may prescribe, the Secretary may strike and sell duplicates in bronze of the gold medal struck under section 3, at a price sufficient to cover the costs of the medals, including labor, materials, dies, use of machinery, and overhead expenses.

SEC. 5. ACTION OF MEDALS.

(a) NATIONAL MEDALS.—Medals struck under this Act are national medals for purposes of chapter 51 of title 31, United States Code.

(b) NUMISMATIC ITEMS.—For purposes of section 5134 of title 31, United States Code, all medals struck under this Act shall be considered to be numismatic items.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Guam (Mr. SAN NICOLAS) and the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. HILL) each yield 5 minutes to the Chair.

Mr. HILL of Arkansas. Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this bill, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SAN NICOLAS. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in strong support of H.R. 5671, the Merchant Mariners of World War II Congressional Gold Medal Act of 2020. This legislation is particularly timely, as the Board of Visitors of the United States Merchant Marine Academy, of which I am a member, is meeting on campus next week in Kings Point, Long Island, in my district.

The United States Merchant Marine Academy is the only service academy whose students engage in combat during times of war. In fact, over 7,000 of these students answered our Nation's call to duty. Six hundred are still alive today, but 142 of them did not make it back from World War II.

Edwin J. O'Hara was one of those students. In 1942, Edwin O'Hara was just another 19-year-old cadet and signed on aboard the new Liberty ship SS Stephen Hopkins in San Francisco, California.

On one foggy, hazy night aboard the ship, a German raider appeared out of the mist and began firing at close range. Bullets rained down on the crew, wounding the armed guard commander and taking him out of action. O'Hara, just a student, who was nearby, rushed forward to take his place, firing the shells left until being mortally wounded by enemy fire. Only 19 of the 60 men aboard O'Hara's ship made it to the lifeboat that night. O'Hara was not one of them. For his brave sacrifice, Edwin O'Hara was posthumously awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

President Franklin Roosevelt similarly stated:

The men of our American Merchant Marine have pushed through despite the perils of the submarine, the dive bomber, the surface raider. They have relied only to their jobs at sea again and again, because they know, they realized their life line to the battlefront would be broken if they did not carry out their mission, that vital, vital part of the global war.

Indeed, America as ally, as arsenal of democracy, as manufacturer of the critical war material necessary to win in Europe and win across the Atlantic would be lost were it not for the merchant mariners.

These men deserve the recognition of this gold medal. Of the 250,000 World War II merchant mariners who were part of that global struggle, fewer than 2,000 merchant mariner veterans are believed to still be alive today. It is imperative that we commemorate their service, their sacrifice, their leadership, their integral role in the victory of the Atlantic and the Pacific in World War II.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this bill, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SAN NICOLAS. Madam Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. SUOZZI).

Mr. SUOZZI. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 5671, the Merchant Mariners of World War II Congressional Gold Medal Act, introduced by Representative GARAMENDI. This act will award a Congressional Gold Medal, an extremely high honor, to the merchant mariners who served our country during World War II.

These mariners paid a heavy price in service to their country, suffering the highest casualty rate of any branch of U.S. Armed Forces during World War II. An estimated 9,300 mariners lost their lives, and another 12,000 were wounded to make sure our uniformed servicemen could keep fighting.

Unfortunately, their sacrifices are commonly underappreciated and often overlooked. They were not even considered veterans until Congress remedied that disservice in 1988, and many of our histories of World War II give them a passing mention or do not recognize their vital role in ensuring the success of the Allied forces.

Now, on the 75th anniversary of the Allied victory in World War II, let us give these heroes the recognition they so richly deserve.

I thank Mr. GARAMENDI for introducing this bill this Congress, and I urge Members to vote ‘yes.’

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HILL of Arkansas. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in support of H.R. 5671, the Merchant Mariners of World War II Congressional Gold Medal Act of 2020.

Madam Speaker, it is fair to say that, when we look back on the many victories of World War II, unfortunately, too often, our Merchant Marine, our merchant mariners are overlooked. It is this exact reason why this Congress has come together to pass this bill to honor these brave sailors and their legacy.

During wartime, merchant mariners became an auxiliary to the Navy; and, although they were trained to intercoastal bulk cargo routes for dangerous near-coastal and transatlantic shipping, hauling vital war cargo for our Allies.

It is in this exact scenario that 250,000 merchant mariners found themselves when World War II broke out. Many of these brave men perished at sea. In fact, Madam Speaker, I in 26 never made it home.

Madam Speaker, the merchant mariners who survived World War II were finally awarded veteran status in 1988. And if you walk down The Mall here in the Nation’s Capital, you will find the World War II Memorial, and you will find the seal of the merchant mariners—which reads, ‘In Peace and War—Honoring those lost during World War II.’

The importance of the merchant mariners was not lost on our former Chief Executives. President Eisenhower, when he was the General of the Army, stated:

When final victory is ours, there is no organization that shared its credit more deservedly than the Merchant Marine.

Despite this danger, some 215,000 civilian merchant marines served with courage to establish and maintain critical supply lines, ensuring that vital supplies, cargo, and personnel reached Allied forces in both Europe and Asia. Though they had no military standing or government benefits, these civilian mariners often faced German U-boat assaults.

These brave mariners paid a heavy price in service to their country, suffering the highest casualty rate of any branch of U.S. Armed Forces during World War II. An estimated 9,300 mariners lost their lives, and another 12,000 were wounded to make sure our uniformed servicemen could keep fighting.

Indeed, America as ally, as arsenal of democracy, as manufacturer of the critical war material necessary to win in Europe and win across the Atlantic would be lost were it not for the merchant mariners.

These men deserve the recognition of this gold medal. Of the 250,000 World War II merchant mariners who were part of that global struggle, fewer than 2,000 merchant mariner veterans are believed to still be alive today. It is imperative that we commemorate their service, their sacrifice, their leadership, their integral role in the victory of the Atlantic and the Pacific in World War II.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this bill, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SAN NICOLAS. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 5671, the Merchant Mariners of World War II Congressional Gold Medal Act, introduced by Representative GARAMENDI. This act will award a Congressional Gold Medal, an extremely high honor, to the merchant mariners who served our country during World War II.

This legislation is particularly timely, as the Board of Visitors of the United States Merchant Marine Academy, of which I am a member, is meeting on campus next week in Kings Point, Long Island, in my district.

The United States Merchant Marine Academy is the only service academy whose students engage in combat during times of war. In fact, over 7,000 of these students answered our Nation’s call to duty. Six hundred are still alive today, but 142 of them did not make it back from World War II.

Edwin J. O’Hara was one of those students. In 1942, Edwin O’Hara was just another 19-year-old cadet and signed on aboard the new Liberty ship SS Stephen Hopkins in San Francisco, California.

On one foggy, hazy night aboard the ship, a German raider appeared out of the mist and began firing at close range. Bullets rained down on the crew, wounding the armed guard commander and taking him out of action. O’Hara, just a student, who was nearby, rushed forward to take his place, firing the shells left until being mortally wounded by enemy fire.

Only 19 of the 60 men aboard O’Hara’s ship made it to the lifeboat that night. O’Hara was not one of them. For his brave sacrifice, Edwin O’Hara was posthumously awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

Brave men and women like O’Hara at the Merchant Marine Academy in Kings Point, as well as the mariners who served across the country, deserve the highest recognition. Sadly, many of these midshipmen did not even receive veteran status until 1988. But it is not too late. It is time we recognized their sacrifice and award them the much-deserved Congressional Gold Medal.

I applaud my colleagues, all of them, for supporting this and Congressman John Garamendi, especially, for his leadership, and I ask my colleagues to support our merchant mariners.

Mr. Hill of Arkansas. Madam Speaker, I am prepared to close, and let me say in closing what a pleasure it is to work with my friend from Guam on this bill to recognize our merchant mariners.

I thank my friend from New York (Mr. Stoccoz) who has the privilege every day of representing the Merchant Marine Academy on Long Island.

Let’s come together as a Congress and support this important effort to recognize those who gave so much to save the world and make the world safe for democracy. We couldn’t have done it without our merchant marines and their bravery across the seas.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. San Nicolas. Madam Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

I am pleased that this bipartisan bill honors those who answered this Nation’s call to duty, regardless of the danger and without expectation of accolades.

This bill incorporates relevant technical changes introduced by the Senate and includes the additional recognition of the students of the Merchant Marine Academy who lost their lives in service to their country. It is time that we give these courageous mariners the recognition they have more than earned.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join me in support of this important piece of legislation, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Guam (Mr. San Nicolas) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 5671.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

ADVANCING RESEARCH TO PREVENT SUICIDE ACT

Mr. McAdams. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 4704) to direct the Director of the National Science Foundation to support multidisciplinary research on the science of suicide, and to advance the knowledge and understanding of issues that may be associated with several aspects of suicide including intrinsic and extrinsic factors related to areas such as wellbeing, resilience, and vulnerability, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the bill. The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 4704
Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE. This Act may be cited as the “Advancing Research to Prevent Suicide Act.”

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) the rate of Americans dying by suicide is on the rise, increasing 16.7 to 14.0 deaths per 100,000 people between 1999 and 2017.

(2) Suicide is the tenth-leading cause of death among people in the United States and the second-leading cause of death for young people between the ages of 15 and 34.

(3) The National Science Foundation funds research that is improving our basic understanding of factors with potential relevance to suicide, including potential relevance to prevention and treatment.

(4) Despite progress in mental health research, current gaps exist in scientific understanding and scientific knowledge of human neuromotor, cognitive, perceptual, behavioral, and environmental factors with potential relevance to suicide.

SEC. 3. NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION RESEARCH.

(a) The Director of the National Science Foundation, in consultation with the Director of the National Institutes of Health and the Director of the National Institute on Mental Health where appropriate, shall, subject to the availability of appropriations, award grants on a competitive, peer-reviewed basis to institutions of higher education (or consortia of such institutions) to support multidisciplinary, fundamental research with potential relevance to suicide, including potential relevance to prevention and treatment, including but not limited to—

(1) basic understanding of human social behavior;

(2) the neural basis of human cognition;

(3) basic understanding of linguistic, social, cultural, and biological processes related to human development across the lifespan;

(4) basic understanding of perceptual, motor, cognitive, and social processes, and their interaction, in typical human behavior;

(5) basic understanding of the relevance of drug and alcohol abuse;

(b) To promote the development of early career researchers, in awarding funds under subsection (a) the National Science Foundation shall encourage applications submitted by early career researchers, including doctoral students or postdoctoral researchers.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Utah (Mr. McAdams) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Gonzalez) each will control 2 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Utah.

Mr. McAdams. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to re- vise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on H.R. 4704, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Utah?

There was no objection.

Mr. McAdams. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may con- sume.

Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of my bipartisan legislation, H.R. 4704, the Advancing Research to Prevent Suicide Act, which directs the National Science Foundation to support fundamental, multidisciplinary research to further our understanding of suicide.

In Utah and across the country, communities are facing a mental health crisis. Public health and medical professionals are tracking an alarming rise in the rate of death by suicide, a 30 percent increase from 2000 to 2016 occurring in nearly every State.

Suicide is now the second leading cause of death among Americans age 15 to 24 and the first cause of death for Utahns in the same age range. Behind the statistics are heart-wrenching stories, such as the one I heard in Utah last month.

A local television news anchor courageously told her family’s personal story. Her 44-year-old brother, who was a physical therapist working toward a doctorate degree, died by suicide. She thought their family was doing well, but what she did not know was that her husband had struggled with depression in secret for years.

A week after his death, she went through his phone and noticed a call to a national suicide hotline. The call was placed the day before he died. He didn’t say anything to his wife, not that he was struggling or having a hard time.

Now, she is using her platform in the newsroom to talk about her experience and break the stigma that surrounds mental illness. People need to understand, she says, that this is not something to be ashamed of and to ensure that we can get help and support to those who find themselves in crisis.

In developing this legislation, I recently convened a panel of experts in Utah, including health care providers, advocates, and community leaders. One constituent shared with me that her school district has had three students die by suicide in this school year alone.

The immense tragedy of this—young people who die far too early—has left an entire community grieving and reflecting upon how we can help those in need.

This epidemic has led to much-needed intervention in Utah to identify and support those at risk and those in crisis. It has also brought new attention to the need to understand suicide and to help develop interventions to support people at risk.

Now we understand human behavior, our social ties, and the environments in which we live connects us to understanding what puts people at risk of suicide and how we can support those in crisis, not to mention the changing issues that people face, particularly young people, from social change and the constant presence of technology that reshape how we live, how we connect, and how we communicate.
This legislation will contribute to the foundational research that we need to give our mental health professionals the tools to save lives.

Madam Speaker, I am proud to have developed the Advancing Research to Prevent Suicide Act with my colleagues and Representative ANTHONY GONZALEZ of Ohio, to direct research into these questions and issues through the National Science Foundation. The National Science Foundation is a cornerstone of our Nation’s scientific efforts and leadership. It supports fundamental research in many key fields related to our understanding of suicide—social behavior, cognition, development, genetics, and so much more.

I extend my thanks to the teams at the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention and the American Psychological Association for their insight and endorsement of this legislation. I also thank Chairwoman JOHNSON and her staff for their support and cosponsorship of this bill and for her leadership on our committee to address the scientific and research issues facing our Nation today.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this bipartisan bill that will support our national efforts to address the suicide crisis, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GONZALEZ of Ohio. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 4704, the Advancing Research to Prevent Suicide Act. I was proud to join my friend, Congressman MCADAMS, in introducing this legislation, and I thank him for his leadership and his efforts to reduce suicide rates.

H.R. 4704 directs the National Science Foundation to support multidisciplinary research to discover the root causes of the growing suicide epidemic across the United States. The research to Prevent Suicide Act will work to address suicide from all angles. The research authorized under this bill will look at social and economic factors, the use of technology, and the stigma associated with mental health conditions.

Madam Speaker, just this past week, I participated in a suicide prevention roundtable organized by my office to hear from local community leaders and stakeholders about the ongoing efforts to prevent suicide among youth and veterans and to stop suicide contagions from spreading. I left the meeting encouraged by the ongoing efforts in my community, but I also left knowing that there is still much to be done.

Madam Speaker, I want to provide my colleagues with some raw data to give a full picture of the scope of the crisis in our country and in my home State of Ohio.

The National Center for Health Statistics at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention released data ranking suicide as the 10th most common cause of death among Americans of all ages in 2017. Between 1999 and 2017, the suicide rate increased by 33 percent in the United States.

Nationally, the veteran suicide rate is 1 1/2 times the rate of nonveteran adults, with 6,139 veterans dying from suicide in 2017 alone.

Closer to home, according to a report published by the Northeast Ohio Youth Health Survey, between August 2017 and March 2018, the suicide rate among Stark County youth ages 10–19 rose to more than 7 times the national rate and 11 times the 2011–2016 Stark County rate. Furthermore, between 2000 and 2016, suicide rates increased by 36 percent in the entire State of Ohio.

Personally, three of my own college football teammates have taken their lives in the past 12 months alone.

We all know we have a mental health crisis in this country, but for me and my constituents, the suicide problem has impacted far too many close to home, as seen by the suicide rates in Stark County and the State of Ohio.

To date, when students have met with a group of constituents to discuss an international trade or veteran-related policy issue, often, the biggest problem on their mind is the growing suicide threat.

In 2015, the high school near my district suffered from what CDC called a suicide contagion, when six students killed themselves within a 6-month timeframe.

I sincerely believe if we want to make a dent in the issue at hand, we need to be more proactive in finding the causes of suicide clusters and suicide contagions. Our children, our veterans, and our neighbors cannot wait much longer. It is imperative that we dig in and put in the work to find the roots of this crisis.

The more we know about the fundamental causes, the better equipped we will be as a country to tackle the problem head-on, and that is what this bill does.

Madam Speaker, again, I thank Congressman MCADAMS, Chairwoman JOHNSON, and Ranking Member LUCAS for bringing this bill to the House floor today. I am encouraged by the bipartisanship already shown on this initiative, and I look forward to working with my colleagues to see this bill signed into law.

Suicide was the 10th leading cause of death in the United States in 2017 and the second leading cause of death among people ages 10–34.

For our Nation’s veterans, it is an epidemic. We lose 17 veterans in America a day to suicide.

This bill will support basic research at the National Science Foundation that will inform better interventions and improve their outcomes.

Madam Speaker, I again thank Congressman MCADAMS for his work on this bill. I urge my colleagues to support this bill, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. MCADAMS. Madam Speaker, we are facing a suicide epidemic in this country. This legislation will bring resources to address this epidemic and to identify solutions that help to bend the curve and help to prevent future death by suicide.

Madam Speaker, I urge adoption of this important bipartisan legislation, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. JOHNSON of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 4704, the—Advancing Research to Prevent Suicide Act. I want to thank Representative MCADAMS for his leadership in this good bipartisan bill, which I am proud to cosponsor.

Tragically, suicide is a major public health concern in our country. According to the Centers for Disease Control, suicide is the second leading cause of death among young people between ages 10 and 34 and the fourth leading cause of death for individuals between ages 35 and 54.

In 2017, suicide accounted for more than twice as many fatalities as homicide.

Despite decades of research into the complex and multifaceted risk factors and circumstances that contribute to suicidal thoughts and behavior, the rate of death by suicide is rising. In 2017, 18 out of every 100,000 Americans lost to suicide. We haven’t seen a suicide rate this high since World War II.

We must do more to address this crisis. There is a clear need for additional research to improve our understanding of the factors that put a person at risk of experiencing suicidal thoughts and behaviors. The Advancing Research to Prevent Suicide Act directs the National Science Foundation to support much needed research on the science of suicide to inform prevention strategies and save lives.

I want to once again thank Representative MCADAMS for his leadership on this issue. I also want to thank Science Committee Ranking Member LUCAS and Representatives GONZALEZ and BALDERSON for their bipartisan efforts to get this bill to the floor today.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill.
SEC. 2. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) DIRECTOR.—The term "Director" means the Director of the National Science Foundation.

(2) FOUNDATION.—The term "Foundation" means the National Science Foundation.

(3) STEM.—The term "STEM" has the meaning given the term in section 2 of the America COMPETES Reauthorization Act of 2010 (42 U.S.C. 6621 note).

(b) VETERAN OUTREACH PLAN.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Director shall submit to the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate a plan for how the Foundation can enhance its outreach efforts to veterans. Such plan shall—

(1) report on the Foundation’s existing outreach activities;

(2) identify the best method for the Foundation to leverage existing authorities and programs to facilitate and support veterans in STEM careers and studies, including teaching programs; and

(3) include options for how the Foundation could track veteran participation in research and education programs of the Foundation, and describe any barriers to collecting such information.

(c) NATIONAL SCIENCE BOARD INDICATORS REPORT.—The National Science Board shall provide in its annual report on indicators of the state of science and engineering in the United States any available and relevant data on veterans in science and engineering careers or education programs.

(d) ROBERT NOYCE TEACHER SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM.—Section 5(a) of the National Science Foundation Authorization Act of 2002 (42 U.S.C. 1862n-1) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a)(5)—

(A) in subparagraph (A), by striking "and" and inserting "and veterans"; and

(B) in subparagraph (B), by striking the period at the end and inserting "and"; and

(C) in subparagraph (C), by striking "and veterans" before the period at the end;

(2) in subsection (b)(2)—

(A) in paragraph (1) by inserting "students and" and inserting "students and veterans"; and

(B) in paragraph (2), by inserting "and veterans" before the period at the end;

(3) in subsection (c)(2), by inserting "and veterans" before the period at the end;

(4) in subsection (d)(2), by inserting "and veterans" before the period at the end;

(e) GRADUATE TRAINERSHIPS IN COMPUTER AND NETWORK SECURITY RESEARCH UPDATE.—Section 5(c)(6)(C) of the Cyber Security Research and Development Act (15 U.S.C. 7404(g)(6)(C)) is amended by—

(1) in paragraph (4)(B), by inserting "and veterans" before the period at the end; and

(2) in paragraph (4)(B), by inserting "and veterans" before the period at the end.

(f) NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION COMPUT-UTER AND NETWORK SECURITY CAPACITY BUILDING UPDATES.—Section 5(a) of the Cyber Security Research and Development Act (15 U.S.C. 7404(a)) is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1), by inserting "and students who are veterans" after "these fields"; and

(2) in paragraph (3)—

(A) in subparagraph (I), by striking "and" and inserting "or" at the end;

(B) by redesignating subparagraph (K) as subparagraph (I); and

(C) by inserting after subparagraph (I) the following:

"(J) creating opportunities for veterans to transition to careers in computer and network security; and"

(g) GRADUATE TRAINERSHIP IN COMPUTER AND NETWORK SECURITY RESEARCH UPDATE.—Section 5(c)(6)(C) of the Cyber Security Research and Development Act (15 U.S.C. 7404(g)(6)(C)) is amended by—

(1) in paragraph (4)(B), by inserting "and veterans" before the period at the end; and

(2) by redesignating subparagraph (J) as subparagraph (K); and

(h) NATIONAL SCIENCE BOARD INDICATORS REPORT.—The National Science Board shall update annually the indicators of progress toward achieving such objectives; and be used by Federal agencies to assess the effectiveness of Federal programs to facilitate and support veterans in STEM education, career guidance, and work security; and''.

(f) VETERANS AND MILITARY FAMILIES STEM EDUCATION INTERAGENCY WORKING GROUP.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Director of the Office of Science and Technology Policy shall establish, or designate, an interagency working group to improve veteran and military spouse equity and representation in STEM fields.

(2) DUTIES OF INTERAGENCY WORKING GROUP.—An interagency working group established under paragraph (1) shall develop and facilitate the implementation by participating agencies of a strategic plan, which shall—

(A) specify and prioritize short- and long-term objectives;

(B) specify common metrics that will be used by Federal agencies to assess progress toward achieving such objectives; and

(C) identify barriers veterans face in reentering the workforce, including a lack of formal STEM education, career guidance, and the process of transferring military credits and skills to college credits;

(D) identify barriers military spouses face in establishing careers in STEM fields;

(E) describe the approaches that each participating agency will take to address administratively barriers described in subparagraphs (C) and (D); and

(F) identify any barriers that require Federal or State legislative or regulatory changes in order to—

(1) align the educational assistance furnished under section 101(d) of the America COMPETES Reauthorization Act of 2010 (42 U.S.C. 6621(d)) with the needs of such students and administrative action to better align the educational assistance furnished under chapter 33 of title 38, United States Code, with the needs of such students and address the reasons identified under paragraph (3).

(g) REPORT.—Not later than August 1, 2022, the Comptroller General shall submit to Congress a report on the findings of the Comptroller General with respect to the study completed under subsection (a), along with recommendations for such legislative or administrative action as the Comptroller General considers appropriate.

(h) VETERANS AND MILITARY FAMILIES STEM EDUCATION INTERAGENCY WORKING GROUP.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Director of the Office of Science and Technology Policy shall—

(A) not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, submit to Congress the strategic plan required under paragraph (2); and

(B) include in the annual report required by section 101(d) of the America COMPETES Reauthorization Act of 2010 (42 U.S.C. 6621(d)) a description of any progress made in carrying out the activities described in paragraph (2) of this subsection.

(2) SUNSET.—An interagency working group established under paragraph (1) shall terminate on the date that is 3 years after the date that it is established.
Business leaders have expressed concern that the STEM skills shortage will impact their ability to develop new technologies and to grow their companies. The veteran population represents an underutilized pool of talent for our Nation’s STEM workforce. Often, the skills these individuals obtained during their military service are transferrable directly to STEM occupations. We must do more to tap into this diverse, highly skilled, and experienced population to not only strengthen our STEM workforce but also empower veterans to pursue high-paying and rewarding STEM careers.

S. 153, the Supporting Veterans in STEM Careers Act, directs the National Science Foundation to report data on veterans in STEM studies and careers and to develop a plan to increase outreach to those veterans. The bill also creates an interagency committee that will examine how Federal programs and policies can be best leveraged to equip veterans with the skills they need to transition into STEM careers.

S. 153 is a good step toward addressing our STEM skills shortage and creating opportunities for those who have served our country.

Once again, I thank my colleagues in the House and the Senate for their leadership on this very important issue. I also thank Chair Takano from the Committee on Veterans’ Affairs for helping us to expedite consideration of this bill today on the floor.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote “yes” and to send this bill to the President’s desk for signature, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. Gonzalez of Ohio. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of S. 153, the Supporting Veterans in STEM Careers Act. I thank Dr. Neal Dunn and Congressman Conor Lamb, who led the House version of this bill, for their work to support our Nation’s veterans.

S. 153 will help veterans put their training and experience in military service to new and important uses and help America stay competitive in research and innovation on a global scale.

In the last decade alone, jobs requiring some level of STEM expertise have grown by more than 30 percent, including jobs that do not require a bachelor’s degree. Nearly 7 million jobs are unfilled in the United States due to a shortage of skilled workers, many in STEM and related fields.

In my home State of Ohio, we have been focusing on boosting and expanding our cyber defense capabilities to the Ohio Cyber Range. In order for the program to be more efficient and ready for any cyberattack, we need a cybersecurity workforce properly trained in the STEM field.

Madam Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Ms. Johnson).

Ms. Johnson of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise today to support S. 153, the Supporting Veterans in STEM Careers Act.

The future of this Nation will be driven by science, technology, engineering, and mathematics. STEM careers are among the fastest growing and highest-paying occupations. Despite these trends, we are failing to produce enough STEM workers to support the current pace of growth and innovation and ensure we continue to lead the world in science and technology development.

As a Nation, we are forever indebted to the men and women who choose to serve in the military and put their lives on the line to protect the freedoms that we hold dear. At a minimum, we must ensure veterans interested in pursuing STEM careers here at home have the support that they need.

Veterans are uniquely positioned to contribute to our STEM workforce, often having training in cybersecurity, avionics, nuclear physics, and medicine. However, significant obstacles often stand in their way when transitioning to a civilian STEM career.

S. 153 establishes an interagency working group to identify these obstacles and develop a plan for addressing them. The bill also directs the National Science Foundation to improve its outreach to veterans and report on veterans in the STEM workforce. These are important steps for honoring our commitment to our veterans and for ensuring we have a competitive STEM workforce.

I want to thank Representatives Dunn and Lamb, and our colleagues in the Senate, Senators Rubio and Klobuchar, for their leadership on this important issue. I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. Gonzalez of Ohio. Madam Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Dunn).

Mr. Dunn. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of S. 153, the Supporting Veterans in STEM Careers Act, which is about helping veterans to expand veterans’ job and education opportunities in the sciences. I was the proud sponsor of the House version of this bill.

S. 153 gives our veterans the opportunity to acquire new skills and better prepare them for jobs of the 21st century.

At the same time, veterans and transitioning servicemembers represent a valuable, skilled talent pool from which to help meet this critical need.

S. 153 will improve outreach to veterans through the National Science Foundation’s programs to support and train STEM workers. We can serve our veterans and help them translate their experience into meaningful STEM work.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. McAdams. Madam Speaker, I have no other requests for time, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. Gonzalez of Ohio. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I again want to thank Dr. Neal Dunn and Congressman Conor Lamb for their work to support our Nation’s veterans.

This bill will improve outreach to veterans through the National Science Foundation’s programs to support and train STEM workers. We can serve our veterans and help them translate their experience into meaningful STEM work.

I urge my colleagues to support this bipartisan legislation and send it to the President’s desk.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. McAdams. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. Gonzalez of Ohio. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I urge adoption of this measure, S. 153. I commend my colleague for this important legislation and the impact that it will have on our veterans who have served our country and want to continue to serve and provide for themselves and serve in STEM fields.

Madam Speaker, I urge adoption of this measure, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. Johnson of Texas. Madam Speaker, I include in the Record the following exchange of correspondence between myself and Veterans Affairs Committee Chairman Takano. I appreciate his willingness to work with us to pass this bill today and send it to the President for signature.

House of Representatives, Committee on Veterans’ Affairs, Washington DC, January 24, 2020.

Hon. Eddie Bernice Johnson, Chairwoman, Science, Space, and Technology Committee, House of Representatives, Washington, D.C.

Dear Chairwoman Johnson: I am writing with respect to S. 153, the Supporting Veterans in STEM Careers Act. Thank you for... consulting with the Committee on Veterans' Affairs regarding the matters in S. 153 that fall within the Committee's jurisdiction.

As a result of your consultation with us on this matter and in order to expedite the vote to move the bill to the floor, I forego further consideration of S. 153. The Committee on Veterans' Affairs takes this action with our mutual understanding that we do not waive any jurisdiction over the subject matter contained in this or similar legislation, and the Committee will be appropriately consulted and involved in the bill or similar legislation moves forward so that we may address any remaining issues that fall within our jurisdiction.

Finally, I would appreciate your response to this letter confirming this understanding regarding S. 153 and would ask that a copy of our exchange of letters on this matter be included in the Committee Report and the Congressional Record during floor consideration of the measure. Thank you for the cooperation you have worked regarding this matter and others between our respective committees.

Sincerely,

Mark Takano,
Chairman, Committee on Veterans' Affairs.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Proceeding will resume on questions previously postponed. Votes will be taken in the following order:

Motions to suspend the rules and pass the bill, S. 153.

The first electronic vote will be conducted as a 15-minute vote. Pursuant to clause 9 of rule X, remaining electronic votes will be conducted as 5-minute votes.

NEVER AGAIN EDUCATION ACT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule X, the unfinished business is the vote on the motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 943) to authorize the Secretary of Education to award grants to eligible entities to carry out educational programs about the Holocaust, and for other purposes, as amended, on which the yeas and nays were ordered.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. Norcross) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, as amended.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 393, nays 5, not voting 32, as follows:

[Roll No. 23] YEAS—393

[Names of Members]

[Names of Members]

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declared the House in recess subject to the call of the Chair.

Accordingly (at 6 o’clock and 6 minutes p.m.), the House stood in recess.
Mr. GROTHMAN changed his vote from “nay” to “yea.”

So (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

The title of the bill was amended so as to read: “A bill to authorize the Director of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum to support Holocaust education programs, and for other purposes.”

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

MOMENT OF SILENCE IN MEMORY OF FORMER REPRESENTATIVE MIKE FITZPATRICK

(Mr. MCCARTHY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. MCCARTHY. Madam Speaker, I rise in remembrance of Congressman Mike Fitzpatrick who passed away 3 weeks ago after a 12-year battle with cancer.

Mike was a public servant in the best sense of the word, a tireless champion who loved his community and always worked to improve the lives of his neighbors.

His long list of accomplishments—from the conservation of public land as a county commissioner to the creation of the Washington Crossing National Cemetery where he now rests, are achievements that any Representative would be proud to have.

But one cannot accurately capture Mike’s legacy without talking about the kindness that motivated his 20 years of public service.

Years ago, a county park officer called Mike about a homeless man who was living in a park and needed a place to stay. The shelters in town were full and the park officer didn’t know what to do. But Mike Fitzpatrick did. He let the homeless man stay on his couch for the night until he found him shelter the next day.

Not everybody here knows that story. But for those who know Mike, it comes as no surprise. Mike never stopped trying to help his neighbors, even after retiring from Congress and while battling a very terrible disease. He was focused on what the late columnist Charles Krauthammer called “the things that matter,” such as one’s family and community.

For Mike, politics wasn’t a career, but public service was a never-ending commitment—a passion to do good that was rooted in values like patriotism and faith and was shaped by his upbringing in Levittown.

Certainly, Mike will be remembered for his willingness to cross party lines. That is fitting. He believed the measure of a person went beyond their partisan label. His bipartisan spirit has unified this body many times before, and it is once again today, even in one of the most divided times in recent memory.

He did not apologize for being a Republican or a conservative. But in truth, those were not the titles that mattered most to him. It was titles like: “father,” “Catholic,” and “brother” that mattered.

He was faithful and he was honest. He lived with integrity and honor. He brought his skills in his personal life and career into examples of courage, grit, and grace. Most importantly, he never shied away from asking in the words of the old prayer: “Lord, make me an instrument of Your peace.”

In this body, we remember people and their legacies by portraits, and I am sure there will be public memorials for him, but legacies of change last so much longer. In fact, it grows from one generation to generation, like snowball rolling downhill.

Mike’s legacy is right here in Congress and back home in Bucks County. They will be a tribute to one man. It will be an internal reminder of the values he stood for, the hard work, the faith in God, and never giving up.

I want you to join me in expressing our deepest condolences to his family. His wife, Kathy; his mother and father, Mary and Jim; and we all know his brother BRIAN, living in his legacy. May God bring us comfort and strength in this difficult time.

Madam Speaker, to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. HOYER).

Mr. HOYER. Madam Speaker, Kathy, members of the Fitzpatrick family, and Members on both sides of the aisle from Pennsylvania who have lost a dear colleague with whom they served; he served with honor. He served with civility. He served as an example.

Madam Speaker, at a time when rank partisanship has become sadly pervasive in Washington, Mike Fitzpatrick showed a bright and consensus building, civility, and respect.

He was an example that all of us could follow. I was sad to learn of his passing. My thoughts, of course—and I know I speak for all of us, not in a partisan sense but in Republican sense, but in a human sense—are with his wife, Kathleen, their six children, and his entire family which includes our colleague, of course, BRIAN, his brother who succeeded him representing Pennsylvania’s Eighth Congressional District.

Madam Speaker, it speaks volumes that Mike had so many friends here on this side of the aisle in addition to his own side. The words that the Republican leader spoke could be spoken by all of us. That is because he looked past party labels and saw in all of us fellow Americans, drawn to service like he was, eager to do right by our constituents, as he was.

Our colleague from Washington State, Mr. Denny HECK, shared a story about a bill he and Mike were working on together in 2013 when Republicans were in the majority. Mike was the lead sponsor. His party was in charge. But because the bill would have a better chance of getting on the suspension calendar if it were a minority bill, he gave over the lead sponsorship to Denny, giving up the greater measure of credit in order to get the bill done.

That is who he was: getting things done; not taking credit, but getting the substance realized. That was leadership—responsibility and focusing on substance and achievement rather than politics and process.

That was Mike Fitzpatrick. During his two periods of service in this House, Mike made a real difference to keeping children safe online, to help those affected by the housing collapse, and to track and stop the financing of terrorist groups around the world.

He will be remembered by all who served with him, by his constituents, all of his friends, and, certainly, his family; remembered for the kind person that he was, for the thoughtful person he was, for the leader he was, and as an effective legislator, for his good nature and his integrity.

I want to thank my friend, the Republican leader, for leading this tribute, and I want to thank all of those on both sides who have taken the time to share stories about Mike and the impact he had on us, on this House, on Pennsylvania, on America.

The SPEAKER. The Chair now asks all present to rise and observe a moment of silence.

ADVANCING RESEARCH TO PREVENT SUICIDE ACT

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. BARRAGÁN). Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, the unfinished business is the vote on the motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 4704) to direct the Director of the National Institute of Mental Health to conduct multi-disciplinary research on the science of suicide, and to advance the knowledge and understanding of issues that may be associated with several aspects of suicide including intrinsic and extrinsic factors related to areas such as wellbeing, resilience, and vulnerability, as amended, on which the yeas and nays were ordered.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. MCPADAMS) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, as amended.

This is a 5-minute vote.
The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 385, nays 8, not voting 36, as follows:

[Roll No. 24]

YEAS—385

Abraham
DeLauro
Kilmer

Adams
DelBene
Kim

Aderholt
Dellaro

Aguilar
DeLauro
Kilmers

Ali DeSaulnier
King (IA)

Allen
DeSaulnier
King (NY)

Alfred
DeSaulnier

Almond
DesJarlais

Armstrong
Diaz-Balart
Kuster (OH)

Arrington
Dingell
LaHood

Axne
Doggett
Lamb

Babin
Doyle, Michael
Lamborn

Bacon
Doyle, Michael
Langevin

Baier
Dunn
Larsen (WA)

Balderson
Emmer
 Lawson (CT)

Banks
Escobar
Latto

Bar
Enoch
Lawrence

Barragán
Espallat
Lawson (FL)

Beatty
Evans
Lee (NV)

Bera
Ferguson
Lesko

Berman
Finney-Fisher
Lett (CA)

Beyer
Fitzpatrick
Levin (MI)

Biggs
Fleischmann
Lieu, Ted

Bishop (GA)
Fleischmann
Lofgren

Bishop (ND)
Fortenberry
Long

Blinken
Fox (NC)
Lowenthal

Blount
Foster

Bonamici
Frankel Lowey

Bost
Fudge
Lucas

Boyle, Brendan
Fuhrer
Loekemeier

Boyle, Brendan
Gaetz
Lujan

Brooks (IN)
Garamendi
Malinowski

Brown (MD)
Garces (IL)
Malmgren

Brownley (CA)
Garces (TX)
Markey, Brian E.

Buchanan
Gianforte
Maloney, Sean

Buck
Gibbs
Marchant

Bucshon
Gohmert
Marshall

Budd
Golden
Ma

Burchett
Gomez
Matsui

Burges
Gonzalez (OH)
McAdams

Busto
Gonzalez (TX)
McCarth

Bustos
Gooden
McCarthy

Calder
Gottheimer
McAul

Carbajal
Graves (GA)
McClintock

Cárdenas
Graves (LA)
McCollum

Carson (IN)
Graves (MO)
McEachin

Carson (TX)
Green (TX)
McGovern

Cartwright
Green (TX)
McGovern

Case
Grijalva
McKinley

Caskey
Guzman
McNerney

Caucus
Guevara
McNerney

Cauce
Guevara
McNerney

Castor (FL)
Guest
Meeks

Castor (TX)
Haaland
Meng

Chabot
Hanna
Menendez

Chu, Judy
Harder (CA)
Miller

Cicilline
Hartzler
Mitchell

Cicerson
Hawkins
Moosung

Clark (MA)
Hayes
Mooney (WV)

Clarke (NY)
Hern, Kevin
Moore

Clay
Herrera Beutler
Morella

Cleaver
Hice (GA)
Moulton

Clime
Hill (AR)
Mucarzel-Powell

Cloud
Himes
Murphy (FL)

Clyburn
Hollingsworth
Murphy (NC)

Cohen
Horn, Kendra S.
Napolitano

Cole Horford
Neal

Comer
Houlahan
Neguse

Conaway
Hoyer
Newhouse

Connolly
Hudson
Norcross

Cook
Huffman
Norman

Cooper
Huzansky
Nunes

Correa
Hard (TX)
O’Halloran

Costa
Jackson Lee
Ocasio-Cortez

Courtney
Jackson, Joe
O’Malley

Craig
Jeffries
Omar

Crawford
Johnson (GA)
Palazzo

Crenshaw
Johnson (LA)
Pallone

Crist
Johnson (OH)
Palmer

Crow
Johnson (SD)
Pannetta

Cuellar
Johnson (TX)
Pappas

Cunningham
Jordan
Pascarella

Curis
Joyce (OH)
Payne

Dave(Ca) Davide (Kb)
Joyce (PA)
Pence

Davidson (OH)
Kaptur
Perlmutter

Davis (CA)
Katko
Perry

Davis, Danny K.
Katz
Peterson

Davis, Rodney
Keller
Phillips

Dean
Kelly (NY)
Polk

DeFazio
Khanna
Pongr

DeGette
Kildee Pong

Porter
Posey
Presley
Price (NC)
Quigley
Raskin
Ratcliffe
Reed
Rosenthaler
Rice (NV)
Rice (SC)
Richmond
Riggleman
Riley
Rodgers (WA)
Rogers (AL)
Rogers (KY)
Rose
Rose, John W.
Rouzer
Roybal-Allard
Ruiz
Ruppersberger
Rutherford
Ryan
Sabanes
Scalise
Scalise
Schakowsky
Schiff
Schneider
Schrader
Schock
Scott (VA)
Scott, Austin
Scott, David

Bilirakis
Byrne
Cheney
Collins (GA)
Cox (CA)
Engel
Gabbard
Gabbard
Gehrke
Higginson (LA)
Higginson (NY)
Nadler

Bilirakis
Byrne
Cheney
Collins (GA)
Cox (CA)
Engel
Gabbard
Gehrke
Higginson (LA)
Higginson (NY)

NOT VOTING—36

Porter
Posey
Presley
Price (NC)
Quigley
Raskin
Ratcliffe
Reed
Rosenthaler
Rice (NV)
Rice (SC)
Richmond
Riggleman
Riley
Rodgers (WA)
Rogers (AL)
Rogers (KY)
Rose
Rose, John W.
Rouzer
Roybal-Allard
Ruiz
Ruppersberger
Rutherford
Ryan
Sabanes
Scalise
Scalise
Schakowsky
Schiff
Schneider
Schrader
Schock
Schweikert
Scott (VA)
Scott, Austin
Scott, David

Bilirakis
Byrne
Cheney
Collins (GA)
Cox (CA)
Engel
Gabbard
Gehrke
Higginson (LA)
Higginson (NY)

NOT VOTING—36

Bilirakis
Byrne
Cheney
Collins (GA)
Cox (CA)
Engel
Gabbard
Gehrke
Higginson (LA)
Higginson (NY)

REPORT ON RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 3621, STUDENT BORROWER CREDIT IMPROVEMENT ACT; AND PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF SENATE AMENDMENT TO H.R. 550, MERCHANT MARINERS OF WORLD WAR II CONGRESSIONAL GOLD MEDAL ACT OF 2019

Mr. RASKIN, from the Committee on Rules, submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 116–383) on the resolution (H. Res. 811) providing for consideration of the bill (H.R. 3621) to amend the Fair Credit Reporting Act to remove adverse information for certain defaulted or delinquent private loan borrowers who demonstrate a history of loan repayment, and for other purposes, and providing for consideration of the Senate amendment to the bill (H.R. 550) to award a Congressional Gold Medal, collectively, to the United States Merchant Marine and United States Merchant Marine World War II, in recognition of their dedicated and vital service during World War II, which was referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

MEDICAL EDUCATION FOR A DIVERSE AMERICA ACT

(Ms. MUCARSEL-POWELL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. MUCARSEL-POWELL. Mr. Speaker, from maternal mortality rates to inaccurate drug prescrip tions to cardiovascular procedures, it is clear that minority groups experience worse health outcomes in our healthcare system.

Although structural bias is a factor, the unconscious biases of even the most well-intentioned healthcare professionals play a role as well. And we can’t let this continue.

In a district as diverse as Florida’s 26th District, we must do more to ensure that every person, regardless of their background, can get the quality care that they need. That is why I introduced the Medical Education for a Diverse America Act, along with Representative PORTER, which would provide cultural competency and language training to medical students and prepare them to better serve minority populations.

This legislation would help not only patients in south Florida, but all over the country in diverse communities.

OBSEVATION INTERNATIONAL HOLOCAUST REMEMBRANCE DAY

(Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to re-extend his remarks.)

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to observe International Holocaust Remembrance Day, commemorating the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz.

The Holocaust is responsible for the systematic murder of more than 6 million Jews, and it is remembered as one of the darkest periods of modern history.

In the wake of this tragedy, we often utter the words, “never forget.” But, as time passes and memory fades, this can become a challenge.

We have a responsibility, however, to ensure that this chapter of history does not slip through the cracks. Through storytelling, the teaching of history, and great organizations like the Holocaust Museum right here in Washington D.C., we can ensure younger generations truly never forget.

Today, I ask my colleagues to pause and remember the pain caused by the Holocaust and the Nazi regime in Europe. I ask that we recommit ourselves to pursuing liberty and justice for all people across the globe.

The horrors of genocide still pervade the world today. We can honor the memory of the Holocaust victims by speaking out and acting against the perpetrators of such evil today and for years to come.

HONORING DR. JONATHAN HOLLOWAY

(Mr. PAYNE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PAYNE, Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the late Dr. Jonathan Holloway on becoming the first African American president of Rutgers University. Rutgers is getting a leader with exceptional credentials.

Dr. Holloway is the provost and chief academic officer at Northwestern University. He oversees the school’s academic priorities, annual budget, and faculty appointments.

Previously, Dr. Holloway served as the dean of Yale College, the undergraduate school of Yale University. Before that, he was the Edmund S. Morgan Professor of African American Studies, History, and American Studies at Yale University.

Dr. Holloway was appointed to the post on January 11, after a search that included more than 200 candidates. He will start the new position on July 1.

Mr. Speaker, I want to congratulate Dr. Holloway. He will be a welcome addition to an outstanding university.

COMMEMORATING THE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF AUSCHWITZ-BIRKENAU

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina, Mr. Speaker, last week, I was grateful to serve on a congressional delegation to Poland and Israel, led by Speaker NANCY PELOSI, with colleagues E LIOT ENGEL, Chairwoman NITA LOWEY, Chairman TED DEUTCH, with DEBBIE WASSERMAN SCHULTZ and BRAD SCHNEIDER.

On the occasion of the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz-Birkenau, we saw, firsthand, the horrors of the innocent Jews at the death camps.

From the ashes of German Nazism and despotic Soviet communism, Poland is now a dynamic, prosperous democracy.

We were welcomed to Jerusalem by Ambassador David Friedman, then meeting with Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu. At the Fifth World Holocaust Remembrance Day, President Reuven Rivlin introduced Vice President MIKE PENCE, President Emmanuel Macron, Prince Charles, and President Vladimir Putin. Heads of state from over 30 countries attended, and I and fellow co-chair of the Bulgarian Caucus, BRAD SCHNEIDER, were honored to be with President Rumen Radev with our alliance for freedom.

America’s associations with Poland and Israel have never been stronger, citing President Trump’s placing 5,000 American troops in Poland to deter further Russian aggression and Israel still celebrating his moving of the U.S. Embassy to Jerusalem.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and we will never forget September the 11th in the global war on terrorism.

SECRETARY OF STATE POMPEO’S COMMENTS ABOUT UKRAINE

(Ms. KAPTUR asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. KAPTUR, Mr. Speaker, over the weekend Secretary of State Mike Pompeo cast doubt over American support for our Ukrainian allies when he asked veteran NPR reporter Mary Louise Kelly if she thought Americans care about Ukraine and if she could even find it on a map. How insulting.

As co-chair of the bipartisan Congressional Ukraine Caucus and representative of a large Ukrainian American population, I am deeply concerned about what Pompeo was insinuating with his comments to NPR that the administration can do whatever it pleases because the American public doesn’t care about Ukraine. I couldn’t disagree with him more.

Ukraine is the scrumpline for liberty in Europe. Liberty lovers across the world care about Ukraine because its people are facing down Russian aggression. Unfortunately, Pompeo’s comments reflect a larger pattern of the Trump administration advancing pro-Russian causes.

On Secretary Pompeo’s upcoming trip to Ukraine, I would urge him to support liberty in Europe. America and the world paid a heavy price for that.

HONORING DR. JAMES METTS

(Mr. CARTER of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CARTER of Georgia, Mr. Speaker, I rise today to remember the life of Dr. James C. Metts, Jr., who passed away on Monday, January 20, at the age of 88.

Dr. Metts had dedicated his life to public service, working as the Chatham County coroner for more than 40 years. He was appointed to the position in 1961 when the officials associated with Chatham County asked for his help in finding a replacement for the retiring coroner. When nobody signed up to run for the county coroner position, Dr. Metts volunteered himself.

His colleagues remember him as someone who would always answer his phone, call you back, and perform his duties as coroner with class.

In one of his most famous cases, Dr. Metts was called to court to testify about the body of Mr. Danny Hansford, which eventually became the centerpiece for the book, “Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil.”

As a doctor, he continued his public service by working hard to lower the rate of heart attack and stroke deaths by founding the Community Cardiovascular Council.

Dr. Metts will be deeply missed throughout our community. His family and friends will be in my thoughts and prayers in this most difficult time.

HONORING IRENE G. NORMAN

(Mr. BURCHETT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BURCHETT, Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor Yeoman 3rd Class Irene G. Norman, an American hero who served in World War II.

Irene Norman enlisted in the Navy WAVES on October 28, 1944. She began her service in Bronx, New York, where she learned the trade of sheet metal fabrication. She was then assigned to her permanent duty station at Naval Air Station Miami in Florida, where she was responsible for repairing damaged aircraft so that they could continue to be used in the war effort.

Yeoman 3rd Class Norman was honorably discharged in 1946 after 2 years of service to her country. Mrs. Norman returned home and attended Hiwassee College in Madisonville, Tennessee. She went to work for the local newspaper after graduation and did everything, from writing articles to selling ads. She wrote a column for the paper called “Heads and Hearts” that she was very proud of.

Additionally, Mrs. Norman married and raised three wonderful children after she completed her service.

Mr. Speaker, our country’s heroes are the men and women of our Armed Forces, like Mrs. Norman, who served and sacrificed for our freedom. It is my honor to recognize Yeoman 3rd Class Irene G. Norman as the Tennessee Second District’s January 2020 Veteran of the Month.

REMEMBERING RANDALL WISE

(Mr. GAETZ asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GAETZ, Mr. Speaker, today, I rise to honor and remember the life of one of northwest Florida’s great public servants, my friend and one of my mentors, Mayor Randall Wise.
Mayor Randall Wise was born in 1930 in Niceville, Florida, and spent his entire life as a dedicated servant to our town. He began his career in service in the 1950s as a member of the city council. In 1971, he was appointed to the position of mayor, and to the day of his death, he served as mayor. He was one of the longest serving public officials in America, and he was the longest serving mayor in the State of Florida. His leadership reverberated throughout many projects in our community, including a senior center, a library, and more.

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the United States Congress, I recognize this remarkable man for his selfless service to our community, his State, and our Nation. I am grateful for his lasting contributions to our town.

RECOGNIZING NATIONAL HUMAN TRAFFICKING AWARENESS MONTH

(Mr. TAYLOR asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I rise in recognition of National Human Trafficking Awareness Month and the dedicated volunteers who work to end modern-day slavery.

As a parent, there is nothing scarier than the thought of children being removed from their families and trafficked. Sometimes, when we think about human trafficking, we envision terrible situations across the globe, but according to the Texas attorney general, there were more than 300,000 victims of human trafficking just in Texas.

As we bring attention to this far-too-common tragedy, I thank some of the incredible organizations in Collin County that work tirelessly to help survivors. Traffick911, CASA of Collin County, Rescue Her, Treasured Vessels, New Friends New Life, and the Collin County Sheriff's Office are all helping lead the fight against human trafficking.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues in the House of Representatives to join in thanking these organizations and recognizing the importance of spreading awareness about human trafficking today and every day.

REMEMBERING LIBERATION OF AUSCHWITZ

(Mr. FULCHER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FULCHER. Mr. Speaker, 75 years ago today, Allied armies liberated the Nazi concentration camp at Auschwitz. Unfortunately, more than 6 million of God’s children perished before that happened. This can never be forgotten. I agree with General Eisenhower’s comments at the time: Educate people on the atrocities committed so they don’t happen again.

That is why I am proud to have cosponsored the Never Again Education Act. The bill authorizes Federal funds to be used to teach about the Holocaust. Ensuring that citizens know the uncensored truth of history will help punctuate the message that anti-Semitism is abhorrent and will not be tolerated.

Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague, Representative CAROLYN MALONEY from New York, who took the lead on initiating this bill.

Finally, to the families of the victims so tragically lost: They will never be forgotten.

RECOGNIZING NASA DAY

(Mr. HILL of Arkansas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HILL of Arkansas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the 47th Annual March for Life in my home State of Arkansas, which was recently proclaimed by Governor Hutchinson to be January 27, 2020.

In my district, Harding University, a member of the Arkansas Space Grant Consortium, has played an integral role in advancing aerospace priorities for 50 years. Between 1967 and 1979, Harding University’s faculty and students supported NASA’s Skylab and space efforts, including the 1969 landing of Neil Armstrong on the Moon. They conducted research on the long-term effects of space on the human body.

As a part of the Arkansas Space Grant Consortium, a group of 17 colleges and universities that support NASA’s research activities, Harding continues its contribution and maintains strong ties to our Nation’s space program.

I thank Harding University for its commitment to our aerospace priorities, and I appreciate Governor Hutchinson for recognizing the importance of NASA in Arkansas.

47TH ANNUAL MARCH FOR LIFE

(Mr. SMUCKER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. SMUCKER. Mr. Speaker, last Friday marked the 47th Annual March for Life, and for the first time in history, the march was attended by a sitting President.

Since 2017, the Trump administration has established more conscience protections than ever before, but there is still more work to accomplish.

For example, the Born-Alive Survivors Protection Act, which simply requires healthcare professionals to provide medical care to babies born alive during an attempted abortion, has support from nearly 200 bipartisan cosponsors. Yet, despite numerous calls to bring this legislation to the floor, my colleagues and I have been rejected time after time. It is a sad reality that we have to ask our Democratic colleagues to help us end infanticide, but it is a fight we will continue until innocent lives are protected.

Fighting for life also means fighting for individuals who are victims of sexual abuse, rape, incest, and human trafficking. Mr. Speaker, that is why I introduced legislation to unify the new Title X abuse reporting rules, to ensure these victims are protected.

I hope to see these commonsense ideas signed into law and the lives of the unborn protected.

CONFRONTING ANTI-SEMITISM

(Mr. SPANO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SPANO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to confront a cancer that has been rapidly spreading, and that cancer is anti-Semitism, here at home and around the world.

It is unsettling, and it is downright appalling. Day after day, I see new headlines about disparaging rhetoric and violence against the Jewish people.

The Anti-Defamation League reports that 90 percent of European Jews feel threatened with anti-Semitism in their country is increasing, and 40 percent live in daily fear of physical attack.

In 2018, here at home, there were 1,879 reported anti-Semitic incidents in the United States. Our Nation was founded on freedom of religion and diversity, and we must do everything necessary to preserve it.

To that end, today, the House passed H.R. 943, the Never Again Education Act, of which I am a proud cosponsor. It funds Holocaust education programs around the country.

Mr. Speaker, America cannot and will not become a breeding ground for hatred.

RECOGNIZING EAGLE SCOUT DANIEL PAOLELLO

(Mr. VAN DREW asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. VAN DREW. Mr. Speaker, today, I recognize Daniel Paolello from Mullica Hills in south Jersey on his attainment of an Eagle Scout rank.

Eagle Scout is the highest rank obtainable from the Boy Scouts of America. Only a very small percentage of all Boy Scouts will ever make it to this prestigious recognition.

Eagle Scouts continue to be more likely to dedicate their lives to service throughout their entire lives, becoming future leaders in military, business, or politics, and joining the ranks of other Eagle Scouts like Neil Armstrong, Steven Spielberg, and Gerald Ford, just to name a very few.

I was proud to attend Daniel’s Court of Honor ceremony earlier this month.

Mr. Speaker, I extend congratulations to Daniel, and we look forward to big things from him in the future.
Kaylee rang a bell. She is now cancer-and her personal idol, Channel 13 workers at Texas Children's Hospital; the love of mom and dad; the miracle her ovary. Kaylee fought to live. With won a gold medal—her life.

Tolleson. She lives in Fort Bend County, Texas, is the ice-skating woman gold medalist. This is Kaylee mission to address the House for 1 mission. And you spell it E-R-A.

Mr. Speaker, I invite all of America to watch Kaylee skate in the World Olympics in 2026 in Milan, Italy. May God bless Kaylee, and we look forward to watching her on TV.

COMMEMORATING INTERNATIONAL HOLOCAUST REMEMBRANCE DAY

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GOLDEN) said the Speaker's announced policy of January 3, 2019, the gentleman from New York (Mr. ZELDIN) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. ZELDIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous materials on the topic of my Special Order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. Speaker, tonight, over the course of the next hour on this House floor, Republicans and Democrats united are coming together for the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz on International Holocaust Remembrance Day. For all of us, this is an extra special, extra personal moment.

Six million Jews, and millions of others, died during the Holocaust; 11 million people died at Auschwitz alone. Millions of lives were unathomably cut short, tearing apart families, communities, and countries.

Thanks to the heroism of our Nation's Greatest Generation, with their strength, and their will, and their courage, good ultimately triumphed over evil.

There must be a permanent, never-ending, never-yielding commitment to never allow this form of hate and evil to ever rise again. This pledge must include combating anti-Semitism and anti-Israel hate wherever it rears its ugly head, and even when it disguises itself as legitimate.

Today, and every day, we must reaffirm our pledge, “Never Again.”

For everyone who is watching at home, after votes, while we are here, at times we see Republican Special Orders; but this is an important moment in time for us to come together in this Chamber, united, Republicans and Democrats, as Americans, for humanity must ensure that this never happens again.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

COMMEMORATING THE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE LIBERATION OF AUSCHWITZ-BIRKENAU

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 3, 2019, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. WEBER) is recognized for the remainder of the hour.

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today also to commemorate what is an anniversary we shouldn't have ever had to commemorate and be here for, again, the 75th Anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz-Birkenau.

Mr. Speaker, I have been to the concentration camps. I have seen the train tracks where they brought in loads of people in railcars and they herded people like they were cattle. I have seen the ovens. I have seen the gas chambers.

Mr. Speaker, I saw where Dr. Josef Mengele performed experiments on people as if they were lab specimens; many of them women. It is something that we should never have experienced and should never experience again.

Mr. Speaker, today, we do remember what the gentleman from New York said, the six million Jews who tragically lost their lives in the Holocaust. To keep that mind-numbing number in perspective, if we were to take a moment's silence for every Holocaust victim, I would stand up here for 11⅜ years.

It is so imperative that we remember all of those who fought tirelessly to defeat the Nazi regime. With rising levels of anti-Semitic, sentiment, Holocaust spreading in the West today, we should emulate those brave men and women that my good friend, Lee Zeldin talked about, the Greatest Generation who, in their spirit, they fought, and many of them gave all to combat and liberating those downtrodden by the Nazis, those families who were forever destroyed under the German Nazis; liberating them from anti-Semitism in all forms.

Anti-Semitism needs to be defeated today.

So, Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. LOWEY).

Mrs. LOWEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in recognition of International Holocaust Remembrance Day.

Last week, I was honored to join the Speaker’s congressional delegation to Poland and Israel, where we visited Auschwitz and participated in the First World Holocaust Remembrance Day.

We cannot fight the scourge of anti-Semitism without remembering the horrors that can occur when hate is allowed to flourish. As we commemorate this important day, we remember those lost, and let the lessons from the Holocaust guide our work for the future.

As a co-chair of the House Bipartisan Task Force for Combating Anti-Semitism, I will continue to work with my colleagues from both sides of the aisle to identify long-term solutions to this age-old problem.

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Kansas (Mr. MARSHALL).

Mr. MARSHALL. Mr. Speaker, today, January 27, marks International Holocaust Remembrance Day and the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz-Birkenau.

As with every year that we pause to remember the greatest tragedy in human history, we must recommit ourselves to opposing the murderous and racist ideology of anti-Semitism which led to the genocide and death of over six million Jews and 11 million political prisoners at the hands of the Nazi regime.

We must also remember our continuing responsibility to educate the world about the horrible truth of the Nazi atrocities and ensure the lives of those whom brutally murdered are never forgotten.

My fellow Kansan, General Dwight Eisenhower, who, at the time was the Supreme Commander of Allied Forces in Europe, had good reason to understand this responsibility. Upon receiving news of the concentration camps, he quickly visited for himself, stating: “The things I saw beggar description. While I was touring the camp, I encountered three men who had been inmates and by one ruse or another had made their escape. I interviewed them through an interpreter. The visual evidence and the verbal testimony of starvation, cruelty, and bestiality were so overpowering as to leave me a bit sick. In one room, where they were piled up 20 or 30 naked men, killed by starvation, George Patton would not even enter. He said he would get sick if he did so. I made the visit deliberately, in order to be in position to gather the truth of these things if ever, in the future, there develops a tendency to charge these allegations merely to ‘propaganda.’”

After his visit, General Eisenhower ordered all concentration camps to be visited by thousands of soldiers stationed off the front lines, as well as hundreds of German civilians, journalists, Allied forces, and Members of Congress, to ensure the truth reached the public.

By the end of the war, the Nazi regime had succeeded in murdering one-third of the Jewish people in Europe. Its capacity to perpetrate absolute evil and death of over six million Jews, and millions more murdered in the Shoah. We must always remember the Holocaust and recommit to learning the lessons of the Shoah to prevent any attempts of an anti-Semitic nature. We all have an obligation to teach future generations about this evil, and to pledge “Never Again.”

This day is deeply significant to my family and to me. I am the grandson of a World War II veteran who fought the Nazis, and my wife’s grandparents lost their entire family in the Holocaust.

It is critically important that we have come together to commemorate this solemn day, not just to remember the victims of the Holocaust killed by the Nazis in gas chambers and concentration camps simply for being Jews; but also because our history teaches us that we have a responsibility to confront bigotry, hatred, and intolerance wherever it can be found.

Therefore, we cannot, and must not, ignore the stunning rise in anti-Semitism and Holocaust denial across Europe, around the world and, increasingly, here at home in the United States. In recent years, we experienced anti-Semitic attacks we have experienced in New York and New Jersey in recent months.

Furthermore, the mounting evidence that knowledge about the Holocaust is beginning to fade should alarm us. As Elie Wiesel said: “Indifference, after all, is more dangerous than anger or hatred.”

According to a recent survey by Pew Research Center, too many Americans know too little about the Holocaust. For instance, less than half of all adult respondents knew that approximately six million Jews were killed during the Holocaust; and just 43 percent knew that Adolf Hitler became chancellor of Germany through a democratic political process.

Unfortunately, these findings echo a series of surveys conducted in the United States, Canada, Austria, and France in recent years, which also found significant gaps in knowledge about the Holocaust.

We know how critical education, visiting a Holocaust museum, and meeting with survivors can be. That is why I am very proud to cosponsor H.R. 943, the Never Again Education Act, bipartisan legislation introduced by Congresswoman CAROLYN B. MALONEY and Congresswoman STEFANIK, to help support Holocaust education across the country.

This legislation was endorsed last year by the bipartisan Problem Solvers Caucus and has been cosponsored by nearly 300 Members of Congress. And I am very pleased that the House voted to pass this legislation earlier this evening.

I also believe it is more important than ever for our government to commemorate the Holocaust and educate citizens about its history. That is why I worked with my colleagues, Representatives TED DEUTCH and BRAD SCHNEIDER, to ensure that our country properly remembers the horrors of the Holocaust as part of the United States’ commemoration of the 75th anniversary of World War II.

Additionally, I am proud to be a co-sponsor of the TIME for Holocaust Survivors Act, which would provide better care to approximately 80,000 survivors currently living in the United States.

Finally, I am deeply grateful for, and very proud to support the critical, ongoing work of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, the U.S. State Department’s Special Envoy for Holocaust Issues and for Combating Anti-Semitism, and the Holocaust Survivor Assistance Program.

This past fall, a bipartisan group of Members of Congress visited the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum to tour the permanent exhibition. President Clinton observed at the opening of the museum: “One of the eternal lessons to which this museum bears strong witness is that the struggle against darkness will never end and the need for vigilance will never fade away.”

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my colleagues from both sides of the aisle who have gathered here today to commemorate this very solemn day. Given the rise of anti-Semitism here at home and around the world, we need leaders willing to stand up now, and to stand together against anti-Semitism, and all forms of bigotry, hatred, and intolerance, which have no place in our country or world.

Together, as we talk to our families, when I talk to my children, we should always remember the victims of the Holocaust and take care of the survivors and their families.

May God continue to bless the United States of America, watch over them; and let us always remember.
Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. DIAZ-BALART).

Mr. DIAZ-BALART. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, today we stand in support of the International Holocaust Remembrance Day, the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz. I am honored to rise this evening to commemorate the memory of those victims of the Holocaust. January 27 is also the day, again, 75 years ago, when Auschwitz was liberated, a day to remember the atrocities of the Holocaust so we may never allow such a horror to happen again anywhere on this planet.

We must rededicate ourselves to ensuring that we confront evil and oppose all forms of anti-Semitism.

Seventy-five years ago, some have the audacity to deny that the Holocaust happened. Others advocate for boycott, divestment, and sanctions in regard to our democratic ally, the State of Israel.

We have seen shocking anti-Semitic attacks waged against Jewish communities all over the world and even here in the United States. That is why I am so proud to join with my colleagues here in the House from both sides of the aisle in remembering our responsibility to confront indifference to evil whenever evil raises its head.

Last week, I met with friends from the American Jewish Committee back home in the district, and I learned that 25 percent of Jews are afraid to visit their place of worship or to proudly display their deeply held beliefs in public because they are concerned or potentially afraid for their safety.

Just a few weeks after that, the world saw this horrific revelation of the depths of human depravity. That is why, today, on the House floor, we stand united, together. Despite our potential differences, our religious traditions, our backstories, we stand united, together, to reiterate that anti-Semitism will not be tolerated, Mr. Speaker, and that Israel will always have the support of the United States of America.

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Rhode Island (Mr. CICILLINE).

Mr. CICILLINE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today on International Holocaust Remembrance Day, the 75th anniversary of the liberation of the Auschwitz concentration camp, to honor the memories of the 6 million Jews and 5 million others murdered during that last and tell the world that we will never forget. Today, we remember the lives lost during this incredibly dark period in human history.

Jewish children of my generation grew up seeing the dark numbers etched into the arms of friends, neighbors, and family. We heard the stories directly from survivors about the families they loved and lost, the unspeakable brutality they endured, and the freedom they felt so lucky to have secured in here America.

But today's children are the last generation who will have the opportunity to see and hear for themselves the stories of survivors. It is, therefore, our responsibility to keep their voices alive, to tell their stories, to be certain they know this history, and, most importantly, to absorb the lessons of the Holocaust so we can prevent future evil, indifference to evil.

Sadly, we know that, in the United States today, fewer people are learning about the Holocaust. A Pew Research survey recently found that only 38 percent of American teens knew that 6 million Jews were murdered in the Holocaust.

At the same time that Holocaust education is declining, we see a significant rise of neo-Nazi and white supremacist movements being fueled by the ability to communicate online and a rise in anti-Semitic attacks in the United States and around the world.

If there is anything we can do to honor the lives of those killed in the Shoah, it is to ensure that we don’t allow time to erase their stories, their memories.

We can’t just look back. We must apply the lessons learned from the Holocaust, as painful as they are, to fight against hatred, bigotry, intolerance, and to never violate the spirit of Dr. King—“Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere.”

Our burden as policymakers is to make certain that we are engaged in that fight against hatred, bigotry, and all forms of intolerance. I pray on this day of remembrance that we honor those who suffered and died at the hands of Nazi Germany by standing up to injustice wherever we see it.

I thank my colleagues for their support on this somber day, and I urge Americans everywhere to never forget.

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. KUSTOFF).

Mr. KUSTOFF of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I gratefully appreciate the gentleman for helping organize this evening.

Mr. Speaker, today, as we commemorate International Holocaust Remembrance Day and the 75 years since the liberation of Auschwitz, it is important that we honor the 6 million Jewish victims of the Holocaust and the millions of other victims of the evil Nazi regime—we honor their memory, we honor their bravery, and we honor their spirit.

It is also important that we pay tribute to the survivors who continue to share their stories to ensure that all of us, especially the younger generations, never forget the grave tragedy that took place. As Elle Wiesel said: “For the dead and the living, we must bear witness.”

Sadly, the frequency and the scale of anti-Semitic incidents in our Nation and across the globe have increased, causing deep alarm. We must continue to speak up, and we must continue to play a spotlight on the ugly resurgence of this hate.

Today, on the annual day of commemoration, my colleagues and I came together and we passed legislation, the Never Again Education Act, which will ensure our children, tomorrow’s leaders, are taught about the horrors of the Holocaust.

I appreciate my colleagues for joining me in being united in our mission to prevent the rise of anti-Semitism around the world, as well as taking this time to honor the victims of the Holocaust.

We must take this opportunity to reflect on the past in hopes of preventing future evildoing. Let us remember the ones who perished in the Holocaust and pray that this never happens again.

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. SCHNEIDER).

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Texas (Mr. WEBER) for yielding. I thank all of my colleagues as we join today and we remember, as we rise in recognition of International Holocaust Remembrance Day, memorializing the genocide of more than 6 million Jews, including 1½ million children. This year’s observance holds special meaning, as it is the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz.

Auschwitz-Birkenau was the largest Nazi death camp, where more than 1.1 million people—men, women, and children—were brutally murdered. The Nazis sent many people, including political dissidents, intellectuals, Roma, and LGBTQ people to Auschwitz; but the vast majority, 90 percent of the victims, were Jewish.

Last week, I had the solemn and profound honor to visit Auschwitz with a bipartisan congressional delegation led by Speaker NANCY PELOSI. We walked through the gas chambers. We stood before the ovens built to burn up to 1,800 bodies each day. We visited the barracks where people slept five to a bunk on three racks high. We saw what seemed like infinite piles of suitcases, shoes, eyeglasses, even human hair collected from the victims by their Nazi killers.

Notably, in a place representing humanity’s greatest crime, where people were denied the ability to even pray to their God, we joined with our Polish hosts to honor the memories of the martyrs by reciting the Kaddish, the Jewish mourners’ prayer.

In 2018, a gunman walked in the halls that followed, we all asked ourselves: How could the Holocaust happen? Could it happen in today’s world? And how do we ensure that such evil never happens again?

A key lesson of the Holocaust is that we cannot remain silent in the face of rising anti-Semitism. Right now, that lesson is more important than ever in the face of a dramatic increase in anti-Semitism around the world, including here in the United States and around the globe. This year, a gun-wielding man walked into the Tree of Life synagogue in Pittsburgh and killed 11 people. It was the worst anti-Semitic attack in our Nation’s history, but it was not the last: a synagogue in Poway, California; a kosher grocery in New Jersey; a Hanukkah celebration in Monsey, New York; across the country, a staggering increase in verbal and physical assaults, vandalization, and other acts of Jewish hate. The numbers are horrifying.

Globally, Jews are being told not publicly wear a yarmulke or other outward symbols of their Jewish identity. Through Europe and increasingly here at home, armed guards are posted outside synagogues, Jewish schools, and community centers. Entire communities are living in fear.

We cannot remain silent. All of us, no matter who we are, where we live, or how we worship, all of us must speak out and condemn both anti-Semitic words and actions whenever and wherever hate raises its ugly head.

In the ages of Greek and Roman empires, we have and will continue to take action to confront anti-Semitism. Last year, the House passed the strongest resolution in our history to clearly state we reject anti-Semitic stereotypes and conspire to cancel out anti-Semitic acts and statements to be hateful expressions of intolerance that are contrary to American values. We passed a bill to secure $90 million in funding to defend vulnerable houses of worship.

Congress continues to help fund the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum to preserve the memory, teach the lessons, and lead the work to stop future genocides. Today, this House passed legislation to increase our commitment to teaching the next generation about the Shoah.

Congress isn’t just focused on anti-Semitism here at home. In 2016 and 2017, the House pressured the administration to fill the vacant position of Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism. Finally, last year, President Trump appointed Elan Carr to this role to coordinate America’s response to anti-Semitism around the world.

As for our trip, after visiting Auschwitz on Tuesday, our group flew to Israel to join delegations from 49 different nations, including 41 heads of state, at a historic commemoration ceremony at Yad Vashem on Thursday. In the largest diplomatic gathering in Israel’s history, flanked by Kings, Prime Ministers, and Presidents, we spoke with one common voice to honor the memories of the 6 million people lost. We celebrated the survivors and the righteous gentiles who defied the Nazis to save thousands of lives, and we renewed our commitment to fight anti-Semitism now and forever.

First, turning home, the group had the chance to meet with several Holocaust survivors and hear their stories. It is said that, by hearing the testimony of a living witness to the Holocaust, we are made witnesses ourselves. As the remaining survivors age, soon there will be a point when we will have lost the last survivor’s voice. We, the living, must work to preserve their stories for future generations.

Only by remembering the lives lost and speaking out against intolerance in our own time can we live up to our sacred promise: Never again.

We remember. We will live up to our promise: Never again.

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. HILL).

Mr. HILL of Arkansas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I commend our bipartisan group of Members on this floor tonight for observing Yom HaShoah, Holocaust Remembrance Day to pay tribute to all those who were affected by the enormity, the calamity, and the horrors of the Holocaust.

Today marks the 75th anniversary of the liberation of the camp at Auschwitz on January 27, 1945.

“For ever let this place be a cry of despair and a warning to humanity, where the Nazis murdered about a half million men, women, and children from various countries of Europe. Auschwitz-Birkenau 1940–1945.

Two years ago, I will never forget reading those words as I paid my respects on a visit to this enormous Nazi death machine. This side of humanity’s greatest failure amongst millennia of human failure was a manufacturing facility. The Nazi’s product: murder.

Laying a wreath at the death wall, kneeling in prayer before the memorial where 6 million Jews were brutally murdered in a genocide that left an indelible mark on the world, I am sure that some of the people standing there disapproved of what the Nazis did, but their disapproval was only silence, and silence is what did the harm."

Today, let us remember the danger of silence. We must courageous, loudly and consistently call out anti-Semitism in all its forms, whether it comes from our adversaries or our friends and whether it is promulgated intentionally or unknowingly. We must strive to do so in a way that truly fosters understanding. Let us also recommit never again to allow people, any people, to be obliterated by others. Let us fight the rising menace of ethnonationalism across the globe, and let us do everything in our power to protect all those who have been deemed enemies of the state, the Rohingya people of Burma to the Iraqi nationals in my own district facing deportation and grave danger.

Only when we have done this can we truly say that we lived up to our promise of “never again.”

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for his remarks.

Mr. Speaker, I now yield to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. TRONE).

Mr. TRONE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Today, we remember one of the darkest chapters in our history, the Shoah, when 6 million Jews were brutally murdered in a genocide that left an indelible mark on humanity.

This year marks 75 years since the liberation of the Auschwitz-Birkenau Nazi death camp.

There alone, 1.1 million people, mostly Jews, were killed. Today, we remember them, and we say again: ‘Never again’.

International Holocaust Remembrance Day serves as a reminder of what depravity humans are capable of when we don’t make it a priority to end hate and intolerance. We must remember the victims now and always, and that includes making Holocaust education a priority in our schools. I am thankful that today my colleagues and I passed legislation to do just that.

There is no place for anti-Semitism, racism, hate, or intolerance in 2020. I join with my colleagues today in saying: “Never again.”

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for being here tonight.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. SHALALA).

Ms. SHALALA. Mr. Speaker, today, on Holocaust Remembrance Day, we mark the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz-Birkenau.

We remember the 6 million Jews, as well as millions of other minority populations, who were systematically murdered by the Nazi regime and its collaborators. We remember the families who were separated and the sacrifices made by those who protected Jewish lives.

Pure evil was committed against Jews, Roma, Catholics, LGBTQ individuals, people with disabilities, and others.

We honor the 10,000 Holocaust survivors who live in south Florida and the nearly 70,000 more who live around the United States.

Mr. Speaker, I also want to honor my friend, Dr. Miriam Klein Kassenoff, who fled Nazi Europe as a child in 1941. An educational specialist for Holocaust studies at Miami-Dade County Public Schools and director of the Holocaust Institute at the University of Miami, Miriam has dedicated her life to educating the new generation of teachers and students about the horrors of the Holocaust.

Mr. Speaker, as we enter this new decade, we recommit ourselves to ensuring that “never again” means never again. We will never stop fighting virulent, hateful anti-Semitism and discrimination wherever and whenever it appears.

In this House, the people’s House, we stand together, united against hate. We stand together in pledging “never again.”

Never again.

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman from Florida for her comments, and I yield to another gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ).

Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, today, we remember the 6 million Jews and millions of others who were systematically murdered in the darkest chapter of human history.

Last week, I had the privilege of traveling with a bipartisan delegation led by Speaker Nancy Pelosi to two nations forever interwoven into the fabric of Jewish history: the first, a monument to tragedy; the second, a beacon of hope.

In Poland at Auschwitz-Birkenau, we saw firsthand the painful cruelty of the Nazi regime. We walked the train tracks that transported innocent people to captivity and the gas chambers, which led to their cruel and inhumane slaugther.

After our time in Poland, I, like so many Jews escaping the horrors they experienced in Europe, traveled to the Holy Land with my colleagues. In Israel, we witnessed hope, the homeland of the Jewish people.

I continued to be inspired to see that such generational trauma experienced by our people could be harnessed into something as powerful as democracy.

At Yad Vashem, Israel’s national memorial to Holocaust victims, we participated in a solemn commemoration to those who did not live to see a homeland that would be theirs. We heard the stories of the lives lost to hate and of the men and women who managed to survive that torture.

I represent one of the first cohorts of Holocaust survivors of the Holocaust populations in the United States. As the last generation of survivors ends their twilight years, it is even more important now that we keep their memories alive and recorded for future generations.

In the face of rising hate and anti-Semitism at home and abroad, we all have a role to play in fighting bigotry wherever and whenever it rears its ugly head. The legislation the House passed today, the Never Again Education Act, which provides teachers with resources to teach children the important lessons of the Holocaust and the consequences of bigotry and hate, is a critically important and vital step.

As co-chair of the Latino-Jewish Caucus and the Congressional Caucus on Black-Jewish Relations and a proud member of the Task Force on Combating Anti-Semitism, I am proud that we have all come together today to organize this Special Order in honor of International Holocaust Remembrance Day.

Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleagues on both sides of the aisle for making this a priority so that we could give voice to the notion of “never again.”

Today, we remember to ensure that never again will the horrors of the past be repeated.

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman being here for tonight’s Special Order, and I yield to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. DEUTCH).

Mr. DEUTCH. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend from Texas for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I am so honored to be here on International Holocaust Remembrance Day with colleagues, Democratic and Republican alike, who understand the importance of giving real meaning to the words “never again.”

Standing at Auschwitz-Birkenau as we did with a bipartisan delegation last week, what you can’t help but be struck by is the effort, the enormous effort that the Nazis went to, to try to destroy the Jewish people, to wipe them from the face of the Earth. Yet, they failed.

The State of Israel is strong, the strong homeland of the Jewish people. I am confident that Adolf Hitler could never have imagined, that the Nazis could never have imagined, Jewish Members of the House, like myself, have the opportunity like the one now to remind America why this is so important.

Like my colleague from Florida, Congresswoman WASSERMAN SCHULTZ, I represent a lot of survivors. Twice a year, our local Jewish family service organization has a program called Cafe Europa. They bring together the survivors from our community for lunch and the opportunity to socialize, to enjoy music, and to be with one another.

They sit the survivors at tables based on the communities in Europe that they came from, communities where the Nazis tried to eradicate all the Jews. Here they are now, most in their nineties, coming together, in this case in south Florida, with the opportunity to be with one another.

What is so remarkable is that at virtually every one of these meetings, there is a moment when a survivor from a community in Europe is able to reunite with another survivor from that community that he or she has not seen since before World War II. They have the chance to share their stories not just with each other, but they get to share their stories with all of us.

Some, like Norman Frajman, a dear friend of mine who lost 126 family members in the Holocaust, was clear when he said, in speaking about Cafe Europa: “We are disappearing, but when I see faces here, it does my heart good. There are still witnesses to this tragedy, and younger generations must learn from these stories as they occur when hatred toward one another occurs. We must replace hate with love.”

Norman is right.

Sylvia Richter, also from south Florida, was at Cafe Europa and said this in describing what happened to her, she said:

My sisters and I were chosen by Dr. Mengele. I was forced to lie about my age and say I was 17 instead of 14. A female Nazi officer wiped black soot off her arm and told me it was my mother, father and siblings that she was wiping away and if I didn’t keep lying, this would be me too. She wiped away those ashes, she wiped away my smile. I never smiled again until 1946.

There are people in America, there are people in the world who deny the Holocaust. There are far too many people who don’t know the details of what happened during the Holocaust, and, sadly, these voices, these survivors will not be with us for too many more years.

That is why this is so important today. That is why it is so important for all of us to come together, to pledge...
“Never again” and to make it mean something.

Mr. Speaker, I am grateful for the opportunity to be here today with my colleagues from both sides of the aisle. There is nothing partisan about standing up to hatred and bigotry and fighting anti-Semitism. That is what we are showing here tonight.

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for his comments, and I yield to the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. COHEN).

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Today, I had the opportunity to attend the anniversary of the liberation of the Auschwitz-Birkenau celebration that was held at the United Nations.

It was a stirring program with testimony from two survivors who told of the awful situation they had to survive, need education in the other circumstance conduct of the Nazis, and a systematic attempt to destroy the Jewish community.

There were survivors, a lady and a man, and the lady said: “Hitler did not win.” She had her family with her, and she said that her family is a sign that Hitler did not win. And he did not win.

But there is anti-Semitism in this world and in this country that is in greater numbers and greater volume and greater threats than any time since the Holocaust. We must stand up to it.

Many of the speakers talked about the importance of education and, indeed, that is important. In 1984, I passed a Holocaust education program in the Tennessee Holocaust Commission, which exists to this day and is now a standing program. We need those programs in States, and we also need education in the classroom.

The bill we passed today was important and good. But we need to do more than just talk about it.

When the Klan raises its ugly head in Charlottesville, Virginia, and other places across the country and we condemn it, I saw the Ku Klux Klan whose whole basis is against African Americans and against Jews because of their race and because of their religion.

Every person who is against anti-Semitism should be against racism, should be against all kinds of intolerance and discrimination because it starts with the Jews, but it never ends with the Jews. The Jews are, indeed, a canary—African Americans have been, too—in the dark rooms in the society and the ugly head of racism and ethnic oppositions based on xenophobic conduct, so we have to be concerned.

When the Klan speaks up, we can’t say in any way at all that there are fine people among the Klan’s people. Nor can we do that with other groups. And when David Duke speaks up, we have to realize that David Duke hates Blacks and hates Jews and needs to be condemned by all people on both sides. I wrote that I am not a big fan of social media. I am not a big fan of social media. I am not a big fan of social media. I am not a big fan of social media. I am not a big fan of social media. I am not a big fan of social media. I am not a big fan of social media. I am not a big fan of social media.

But this is from a man who goes by the name of Julius Goats. I think his real name is A. R. Moxon:

“Historians have a word for Germans who joined the Nazi party, not because they hated Jews, but out of a hope for restored patriotism, or a sense of economic anxiety, or a hope to preserve their religious values, or dislike of their opponents, or raw political opportunism, or convenience, or ignorance, or greed.

That word is ‘Nazi.’ Nobody cares about their motives anymore.’’

The motives which brought about the Nazi Party and the Holocaust need to be confronted in its nascent stages, and we need to do it when the Klan speaks, when David Duke speaks, and others.

So I want to thank everybody who has participated in this Special Order and Mr. WEBER for sponsoring it. It was an honor to be in New York with so many distinguished speakers, and an emotional program about the Holocaust. “Never again.”

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for his comments.

Mr. Speaker, I am grateful to my friends on both sides of the aisle for being here to express those sentiments.

Mr. Speaker, President Roosevelt said that December 7, 1941, was a day that would live in infamy. On this day, 75 years ago, a horrific infamy was revealed—one that should never have been allowed and one that should never ever be allowed.

Mr. Speaker, 1.5 million Jews and their families were subjected not just to a day of infamy, but a lifetime of the memory of that kind of infamy and the effect it had on their families. They will be remembering that horror for a long time. My friend from Florida talked about the people who come back and meet each other since before World War II.

Anti-Semitism, BDS, that kind of infamy should not be allowed anywhere at any time.

Mr. Speaker, let us covenant together that not now, not tomorrow, and not ever, never again will it be allowed. I yield back the balance of my time.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. WEBER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; accorded time.

Mr. Speaker, let us covenant to stand up to this.”

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

Under clause 2 of rule XIV, executive communications were taken from the Speaker’s table and referred as follows:

3623. A letter from the General Counsel, Government Accountability Office, transmitting the Office’s legal decision concerning the withholding of security assistant-funds for Ukraine during fiscal year 2019; to the Committee on Appropriations.

3624. A letter from the Secretary, Department of the Treasury, transmitting the report on the operation of the Stabilization Fund for Fiscal Year 2019, pursuant to 31 U.S.C. 5302(c)(2); Jan. 30, 1934, ch. 6, § 107, 48 Stat. 25, 48 Stat. 25 (Sec. 5302(c)(2)); (96 Stat. 994); to the Committee on Financial Services.

3625. A letter from the Chief of Staff, Media Broadcast, Federal Communications Commission, transmitting the Commission’s final rule — 2014 Quadrennial Regulatory Review — Review of the Commission’s Broadcast Ownership Rules and Other Rules Adopted Pursuant to Section 202 of the Telecommunications Act of 1996 (MB Docket No.: 30-200), and others received January 22, 2020, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 801(a)(1)(A); Public Law 104-121, Sec. 251; (110 Stat. 868); to the Committee on Energy and Commerce.

3626. A letter from the Chief of Staff, Media Broadcast, Federal Communications Commission, transmitting the Commission’s final rule — Examinations of Standards and Procedures for Licensing Non-commercial Educational Broadcast Stations and Low Power FM Stations (MB Docket No.: 19-172) received January 22, 2020, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 801(a)(1)(A); Public Law 104-121, Sec. 251; (110 Stat. 868); to the Committee on Energy and Commerce.

3627. A letter from the Assistant Secretary for Export Administration, Bureau of Industry and Security, Department of Commerce, transmitting the Department — Control of Firearms, Guns, Ammunition and Related Articles the President Determines No Longer Warrant Control under the United States Munitions Lists (USML) [Docket No.: 191107-0079] (RIN: 0694-AF47) received January 22, 2020, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 801(a)(1)(A); Public Law 104-121, Sec. 251; (110 Stat. 868); to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

3628. A letter from the Chairman, Council of the District of Columbia, transmitting D.C. ACT 23-195, “Cottage Food Expansion Amendment Act of 2019”, pursuant to Public Law 93-196, Sec. 602(c)(1); (87 Stat. 814); to the Committee on Oversight and Reform.

3629. A letter from the Chairman, Council of the District of Columbia, transmitting D.C. ACT 23-190, “Anacostia River Toxics Remediation Temporary Amendment Act of 2019”, pursuant to Public Law 93-198, Sec. 602(c)(1); (87 Stat. 814); to the Committee on Oversight and Reform.

3630. A letter from the Chairman, Council of the District of Columbia, transmitting D.C. ACT 23-196, “Closing of a Public Alley in Square 369, S.O. 18003, Act of 2019”, pursuant to Public Law 93-198, Sec. 602(c)(1); (87 Stat. 814); to the Committee on Oversight and Reform.

3631. A letter from the Chairman, Council of the District of Columbia, transmitting D.C. ACT 23-197, “Closures of a Public Alley in Square 369, S.O. 18003, Act of 2019”, pursuant to Public Law 93-198, Sec. 602(c)(1); (87 Stat. 814); to the Committee on Oversight and Reform.

3635. A letter from the Chairman, Council of the District of Columbia, transmitting D.C. ACT 23-195, “Cottage Food Expansion Amendment Act of 2019”, pursuant to Public Law 93-196, Sec. 602(c)(1); (87 Stat. 814); to the Committee on Oversight and Reform.

3636. A letter from the Chairman, Council of the District of Columbia, transmitting D.C. ACT 23-193, “Access to Body-Worn Camera Footage Temporary Regulation Amendment Act of 2019”, pursuant to Public Law 93-196, Sec. 602(c)(1); (87 Stat. 814); to the Committee on Oversight and Reform.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES ON PUBLIC BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS

Under clause 2 of rule XIII, reports of committees were delivered to the Clerk for printing and reference to the proper calendar, as follows:

Mrs. CAROLYN B. MALONEY of New York: Committee on Oversight and Reform.

H.R. 5678. A bill to amend the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to require the development of ethics plans for certain transition teams, and for other purposes (Rept. 116–382). Referred to the Committee on Oversight and Reform.

Mr. KATKO (for himself, Mr. RICHMOND, and Mr. LANGEVIN): H.R. 5680. A bill to amend the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to limit to five years the term of the Director of the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency of the Department of Homeland Security for other purposes; to the Committee on Homeland Security.

Mr. KATKO (for himself, Mr. RICHMOND, Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi, and Ms. JACKSON Lee): H.R. 5681. A bill to amend the Public Health Service Act to require hospitals to submit notice to the Secretary of Health and Human Services before taking certain actions or units or departments, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Commerce.

Mr. KILDEE: H.R. 5682. A bill to amend title 38, United States Code, to furnish hospital care and medical services to veterans, members of the reserve components of the Armed Forces, and dependents who were stationed at Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Oscoda, Michigan, and were exposed to volatile organic compounds for a period of service connection for those veterans and members of the reserve components, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Veterans' Affairs.
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE
H565
January 27, 2020

By Ms. NORTON:
H.R. 5683: A bill to amend the Public Health Service Act to provide for a national program to conduct and support activities toward the goal of significantly reducing the number of cases of overweight and obesity among members of the reserve components, and to the Committee on Energy and Commerce.

By Mr. SARBARANES (for himself, Mr. SCOTT of Virginia, Mr. WITTEN, Mr. CONNOLLY, Mr. BROWN of Maryland, Mr. RUPPERSBERGER, Ms. WEXTON, Mr. HOYER, Mr. TRONE, Mr. BEYER, Mrs. LURIA, Mr. MCEACHIN, Ms. SALTZMAN, and Mr. DYE):
H.R. 5684: A bill to reauthorize the Chesapeake Bay Office of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Natural Resources.

By Mr. CONAWAY (for himself and Mr. BUTTERFIELD):
H. Res. 810: A resolution expressing the sense of the House of Representatives that the Free File program has made vital contributions to the public; to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Ms. LOPFGREN:
H. Res. 812: A resolution making a technical correction to the SFC Sean Cooley and SPC Christopher Horton Congressional Gold Star Family Fellowship Program Act; to the Committee on House Administration.

By Ms. MENG (for herself, Mr. DEUTCH, Mr. ZEILIN, Mr. FITZPATRICK, Mr. HIGGINS of New York, Mr. MONTGOMERY, Mr. McffsKcMEEfJ, Mr. PAPPAS, Mr. ROSE of New York, Ms. NORTON, Mr. GARAMENDI, Ms. STEVENS, Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ, Mr. GALLARDO, Ms. HASTINGS, Mr. CLARK of New York, Ms. WILD, Ms. PORTER, Mr. CARSON of Indiana, Mr. LARSEN of California, Ms. PALMER, Mr. VILALEY, Mr. WIECZORSKII, Mr. BISHOP of Texas, Ms. ESFAILLAT, Mr. COX of California, Ms. BROWNLEY of California, Mr. DANNY K. DAVIS of California, Mr. RUPPERSBERGER, Mr. BEYER, Mr. CASE, Mr. ENGEL, Mrs. LAWRENCE, Mrs. AXN, Mr. BRUNDT, Mr. Himes, Mr. LYNCH, Mr. MALINOWSKI, Mr. CARSON of Indiana, Mr. CRAIG, Mr. SCHANKOWSKII, Mrs. TORRES of California, Ms. VELAZQUEZ, Ms. FRANKEL, Mr. SMITH of New Jersey, Mr. PASCERII, Mrs. LURIA, Mr. SMITH of Washington, Mr. STANTON, Ms. ADAMS, Mr. LEVIN of Michigan, Mr. JEFFRIES, Mr. SEAN PATRICK PALLONIY of New York, and Mr. TLAIB):
H. Res. 813: A resolution recognizing the 75th anniversary of the liberation of the Auschwitz concentration camp; to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and in addition to the Committees on Armed Services, Natural Resources, and the Judiciary, for a period to be subsequently determined by the Speaker, in each case for consideration of such provisions as fall within the jurisdiction of the committee concerned.

By Mr. MONTGOMERY (for himself, Mr. WEZER of Texas, Mr. BIOOS, Mr. WILSON of South Carolina, Mr. MOOLOSAAR, Ms. FOXX of North Carolina, Mr. LAMALFA, Mr. BUSCHON, Mr. NORMAN, Mr. WALKER, and Mr. VRYNE):
H. Res. 814: A resolution expressing support for the designation of the week of January 26 through February 1, 2020, as “National School Choice Week”; to the Committee on Education and Labor.

CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY STATEMENT
Pursuant to clause 7 of rule XII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the following statements, are submitted regarding the specific powers granted to Congress in the Constitution to enact the accompanying bill or joint resolution.

By Mr. VAN DREW:
H.R. 5678: Congress has the power to enact this legislation pursuant to the following:
Article I, Section 8, Clause 18: To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

By Mr. KATKO:
H.R. 5679: Congress has the power to enact this legislation pursuant to the following:
Article I, Section 8—The Congress shall have Power To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.

By Mr. LANGEVIN:
H.R. 5680: Congress has the power to enact this legislation pursuant to the following:
Article I, Section 8—The Congress shall have Power To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.

By Mr. KILDEE:
H.R. 5681: Congress has the power to enact this legislation pursuant to the following:
Article I, Section 8—The Congress shall have Power To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.

By Ms. NORTON:
H.R. 5683: Congress has the power to enact this legislation pursuant to the following:
Article I, Section 8

By Mr. SARBARANES:
H.R. 5684: Congress has the power to enact this legislation pursuant to the following:

Article I, Section 8 of the U.S. Constitution under the General Welfare Clause

ADDITIONAL SPONSORS
Under clause 7 of rule XII, sponsors were added to public bills and resolutions, as follows:

H.R. 20: Mr. HOLLINGSWORTH.
H.R. 333: Mr. GARAMENDI and Mr. GAETZ.
H.R. 344: Mr. COLI and Mr. KIM.
H.R. 369: Mr. NEERS.
H.R. 387: Mr. CRAFORD.
H.R. 887: Mr. FITZPATRICK.
H.R. 619: Ms. MOORE, Mr. SOTO, and Ms. DEJENIE.
H.R. 763: Ms. KUSTER of New Hampshire and Mrs. NAPOLITANO.
H.R. 871: Mr. LEWIS.
H.R. 924: Mr. SMITH of Washington, Mr. COX of California, Mr. CASTRO of Texas, Mr. STEVENS, and Mr. VARGAS.
H.R. 943: Mr. SAFLAN, Mr. SMITH of New Jersey, and Mr. CHABOT.
H.R. 983: Mr. STANTON.
H.R. 1062: Mr. TAYLOR.
H.R. 1074: Ms. BUSTOS.
H.R. 1189: Mr. TRONE.
H.R. 1126: Ms. NORTON.
H.R. 1133: Mr. HARDER of California.
H.R. 1140: Ms. BLUNT ROCHESTER.
H.R. 1155: Mr. HARDER of California.
H.R. 1171: Mrs. KIRKPATRICK and Mr. HARDER of California.
H.R. 1239: Mr. KADING.
H.R. 1296: Ms. PORTER.
H.R. 1329: Mr. ROUDA.
H.R. 1342: Mr. HARDER of California.
H.R. 1379: Ms. ESCOBAR.
H.R. 1394: Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi, Mr. NEAL, and Mr. PORTER.
H.R. 1434: Mr. BURGESS and Mr. RUTHERFORD.
H.R. 1443: Ms. TRAHAN.
H.R. 1521: Mr. KILMER, Mr. CARSON of Indiana, and Mr. JOHNSON of Georgia.
H.R. 1652: Ms. TITUS.
H.R. 1730: Mr. JOYCE of Ohio, Mrs. NAPOLITANO, and Mr. GOTTHEIMER.
H.R. 1754: Mr. GOODMAN.
H.R. 1796: Mr. KILDER and Mr. COLE.
H.R. 1795: Mr. SPANBEE.
H.R. 1873: Ms. OCASIO-CORTEZ and Mr. RYAN.
H.R. 1898: Mr. COMER and Mr. COX of California.
H.R. 1975: Ms. UNDERWOOD and Mr. TAYLOR.
H.R. 1997: Mr. STANTON.
H.R. 2001: Mr. HILL of Arkansas, Mr. HARDER of California, Mr. COOPER, and Mrs. BROOKS of Indiana.
H.R. 2010: Mr. CLINE.
H.R. 2148: Mr. NORCROSS.
H.R. 2153: Ms. WILSON of Florida.
H.R. 2164: Mr. THOMPSON of California and Ms. BARRAGAN.
H.R. 2239: Mr. LEWIS.
H.R. 2314: Mr. DUNCAN.
H.R. 2402: Mr. QUIGLY.
H.R. 2438: Ms. AXN.
H.R. 2456: Mrs. DINGELL, Ms. UNDERWOOD, Mr. THOMPSON of California, Mr. PANETTA, Ms. WILD, and Mr. DEUTCH.
H.R. 2478: Mr. DEFazio.
H.R. 2491: Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi.
H.R. 2571: Mr. CLINE.
H.R. 2577: Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ.
H.R. 2581: Ms. MENG.
H.R. 2616: Mr. SWALWELL of California.
H.R. 2631: Mr. SMITH of Washington.
H.R. 2682: Mr. COX of California.
H.R. 2711: Mr. PORTER, Ms. BLUNT ROCHESTER, and Mr. JOHNSON of Georgia.
H.R. 2742: Mr. BISHOP of Utah.
H.R. 2748: Ms. VELAZQUEZ.
H.R. 2751: Ms. OCASIO-CORTEZ.
H.R. 2775: Mrs. Kirkpatrick.
H.R. 2777: Ms. McCollum.
H.R. 2795: Mr. Fitzpatrick.
H.R. 2802: Mr. Murphy of North Carolina.
H.R. 2816: Mr. Harder of California and Ms. Spanberger.
H.R. 2868: Mr. Richmond.
H.R. 2878: Mr. Womack.
H.R. 2895: Mr. Bishop of North Carolina.
H.R. 2912: Mr. Ryan.
H.R. 2933: Mr. Veasey.
H.R. 2974: Mr. Ryan and Mr. Grijalva.
H.R. 2982: Mr. Griffith.
H.R. 2999: Mr. Khanna, Mr. Smith of Washington, and Ms. Speier.
H.R. 3094: Mrs. Luria, Mr. Lowenthal, Mr. Levin of Michigan, and Mr. Payne.
H.R. 3104: Mr. Deutch, Mr. Huffman, Mr. Trone, Ms. Adams, Ms. Johnson of Texas, Mrs. Luria, Mr. Lowenthal, Mr. Levin of Michigan, and Mr. Payne.
H.R. 3105: Mr. Deutch, Mr. Huffman, Mr. Trone, Ms. Adams, Ms. Johnson of Texas, Mrs. Luria, Mr. Lowenthal, Mr. Levin of Michigan, and Mr. Payne.
H.R. 3180: Mr. Harder of California.
H.R. 3182: Mr. Pence.
H.R. 3332: Ms. Schakowsky.
H.R. 3373: Mr. Harder of California.
H.R. 3374: Mr. Blumenauer, Mr. Malinowski, and Mr. Smith of Washington.
H.R. 3381: Mr. Lowenthal.
H.R. 3441: Ms. Moore.
H.R. 3456: Mr. Phillips.
H.R. 3509: Mr. Horsford, Mr. Ruiz, and Mr. Cleaver.
H.R. 3550: Mr. Beyer.
H.R. 3654: Mr. Hastings and Mr. Massie.
H.R. 3668: Ms. Homan.
H.R. 3714: Mr. Malinowski.
H.R. 3742: Ms. Bass and Mr. DeSaulnier.
H.R. 3749: Mr. Schiff.
H.R. 3815: Ms. Wild, Mr. Quigley, and Mrs. Davis of California.
H.R. 3820: Mrs. Hayes and Mr. Cox of California.
H.R. 3916: Mr. Harder of California.
H.R. 3961: Mr. Price of North Carolina.
H.R. 3962: Ms. Eshoo.
H.R. 3973: Mr. Huffman.
H.R. 4100: Mr. Harder of California.
H.R. 4107: Ms. Porter.
H.R. 4148: Mr. DeFazio, Mr. Takano, and Mr. Sarbanes.
H.R. 4160: Mr. Rooney of Florida.
H.R. 4165: Mr. Hastings and Mrs. Lawrence.
H.R. 4169: Mr. McGovern.
H.R. 4238: Mr. Gosar.
H.R. 4216: Mrs. Lawrence.
H.R. 4365: Mr. Krishnamoorthi.
H.R. 4327: Ms. Underwood.
H.R. 4348: Mr. Nadler, Mr. Keating, and Ms. Bera.
H.R. 4351: Mr. Harder of California.
H.R. 4371: Mr. Harder of California.
H.R. 4393: Mr. Hastings.
H.R. 4447: Mr. Cole.
H.R. 4519: Mr. Harder of California.
H.R. 4527: Mr. Ted Lieu of California.
H.R. 4546: Ms. Grijalva, Ms. Fudge, Mr. Raskin, Mrs. Watson Coleman, Mr. Nadler, Mrs. Carolyn H. Maloney of New York, Mrs. Tonko, Mr. Langevin, Mr. Sablan, Ms. Clarke of New York, Mr. Peters, Mr. Cicilline, Mr. Cardenas, Mr. Engel, and Mr. Ruppersberger.
H.R. 4574: Mr. Massie, Mr. Kilmer, and Ms. Omar.
H.R. 4575: Mr. Johnson of Georgia.
H.R. 4579: Ms. Trone.
H.R. 4722: Ms. Bratton.
H.R. 4789: Mr. Cuellar.
H.R. 4820: Ms. Underwood.
H.R. 4901: Mr. Brendan F. Boyle of Pennsylvania.
H.R. 4913: Mrs. Lawrence.
H.R. 4926: Mr. Bacon and Ms. Posey.
H.R. 4980: Mr. Rutherford.
H.R. 4995: Mr. Morelle.
H.R. 4996: Mr. Walberg.
H.R. 5010: Mr. McCovern.
H.R. 5014: Mr. Morelle.
H.R. 5044: Mr. Harder of California.
H.R. 5069: Mr. Connolly.
H.R. 5117: Mr. Costa.
H.R. 5175: Mr. Kelly of Mississippi and Mr. Kilili.
H.R. 5178: Mr. Phillips.
H.R. 5198: Ms. Pingree and Mr. Ruppersberger.
H.R. 5199: Mr. DeFazio.
H.R. 5243: Mr. Pocan.
H.R. 5283: Mr. Rodgers of Alabama.
H.R. 5297: Mr. Gohmert and Mr. Womack.
H.R. 5299: Mr. Rodney Davis of Illinois.
H.R. 5319: Mr. DeFazio.
H.R. 5340: Mr. Payne.
H.R. 5343: Mr. Payne.
H.R. 5376: Mr. Harder of California, Mr. Balderston, and Mr. Cole.
H.R. 5435: Mr. Beyer and Ms. Norton.
H.R. 5485: Ms. Escobar.
H.R. 5490: Mr. Crenshaw.
H.R. 5546: Ms. Haland.
H.R. 5565: Ms. Haaland.
H.R. 5568: Ms. Haaland and Mr. Grijalva.
H.R. 5581: Mr. García of Illinois and Ms. Barragán.
H.R. 5596: Mr. Williams.
H.R. 5598: Mr. Kildee, Mr. Neguse, and Ms. Schakowsky.
H.R. 5600: Mr. David Scott of Georgia, Mr. Lawson of Florida, Mrs. Murphy of Florida, Mr. Lynch, Mrs. Torres of California, and Mr. Peters.
H.R. 5602: Ms. Frankel, Mr. Lynch, and Ms. Stevens.
H.R. 5619: Mr. Harder of California.
H.R. 5626: Ms. Norton, Ms. Pressley, Mr. Carson of Indiana, Ms. Speier, and Mr. Grijalva.
H.R. 5650: Mr. Fitzpatrick.
H.R. 5659: Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Michael F. Doyle of Pennsylvania.
H.R. 5669: Mr. Fitzpatrick.
H.R. 5671: Mrs. Brooks of Indiana and Mr. Young.
H.R. 5675: Mr. Massie.
H.J. Res. 2: Mr. Keating.
H.J. Res. 6: Mr. Duncan.
H.J. Res. 48: Mr. Neguse.
H.J. Res. 50: Mr. Duncan.
H.Con. Res. 32: Mr. Lewis.
H.Con. Res. 84: Ms. Haaland and Mr. Kilmer.
H.Res. 60: Mr. Johnson of Georgia.
H.Res. 114: Mr. Riggleman.
H.Res. 242: Mr. Neguse.
H.Res. 486: Mr. Balderston and Mr. Bucshon.
H.Res. 512: Mr. Burchett, Ms. Omar, and Ms. Haaland.
H.Res. 621: Mr. Sherman.
H.Res. 672: Mr. Swalwell of California.
H.Res. 678: Mrs. Lesko.
H.Res. 714: Mr. Trone.
H.Res. 716: Mr. Scott of Virginia.
H.Res. 720: Mr. Fitzpatrick and Mr. Thompson of Pennsylvania.
H.Res. 745: Mr. Berman.
H.Res. 751: Mr. Johnson of Georgia.
H.Res. 752: Mr. Cohen.
H.Res. 763: Mr. Cohen.
H.Res. 791: Mr. Burchett, Mr. Cole, Mrs. Lesko, and Mr. Watkins.
H.Res. 792: Mr. Diaz-Balart.
H.Res. 797: Mr. Lawson of Florida.
H.Res. 803: Mr. Yarmuth, Ms. McCollum, and Mr. Rush.
H.Res. 806: Mr. Lawson of Florida, Mr. Foster, Ms. Clarke of New York, Mrs. Bratton, and Ms. Scanlon.
H.Res. 808: Ms. Lofgren.
H.Res. 809: Ms. Dingell, Ms. Eshoo, Mr. Keating, and Mr. Roufa.
H567

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

PROCEEDINGS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES PRIOR TO SINE DIE ADJOURNMENT OF THE 116TH CONGRESS 1ST SESSION

HOUSE BILLS APPROVED BY THE PRESIDENT PRIOR TO SINE DIE ADJOURNMENT

The President, prior to sine die adjournment of the First Session of the 116th Congress, notified the Clerk of the House that on the following date, he had approved and signed bills of the following titles:

December 30, 2019:
H.R. 150. An Act to modernize Federal grant reporting, and for other purposes.

SENATE BILLS APPROVED BY THE PRESIDENT PRIOR TO SINE DIE ADJOURNMENT

The President, prior to sine die adjournment of the First Session of the 116th Congress, notified the Clerk of the House that on the following dates, he had approved and signed bills of the Senate of the following titles:

December 24, 2019:
S. 737. An Act to direct the National Science Foundation to support STEM education research focused on early childhood.

December 30, 2019:
S. 151. An Act to deter criminal robocall violations and improve enforcement of section 227(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, and for other purposes.
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

PROCEEDINGS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
AFTER SINE DIE ADJOURNMENT OF THE 116TH
CONGRESS 1ST SESSION

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED AFTER SINE DIE ADJOURNMENT

Cheryl L. Johnson, Clerk of the House, after sine die adjournment of the First Session of the 116th Congress, reported and found truly enrolled a bill of the House of the following title, which was thereupon signed by the Speaker on January 9, 2020:

H.R. 2476. An Act to amend the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to provide funding to secure nonprofit facilities from terrorist attacks, and for other purposes.

BILLS PRESENTED TO THE PRESIDENT AFTER SINE DIE ADJOURNMENT

Cheryl L. Johnson, Clerk of the House, after sine die adjournment of the First Session of the 116th Congress, reported that on January 6, 2020, she presented to the President of the United States, for his approval, the following bills:

H.R. 1424. An Act to amend title 38, United States Code, to ensure the Secretary of Veterans Affairs permits the display of Fallen Soldier Displays in national cemeteries.

H.R. 2385. An Act to permit the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to establish a grant program to conduct cemetery research and produce educational materials for the Veterans Legacy Program.

Cheryl L. Johnson, Clerk of the House, after sine die adjournment of the First Session of the 116th Congress, further reported that on January 14, 2020, she presented to the President of the United States, for his approval, the following bill:

H.R. 2476. An Act to amend the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to provide funding to secure nonprofit facilities from terrorist attacks, and for other purposes.

HOUSE BILLS APPROVED BY THE PRESIDENT AFTER SINE DIE ADJOURNMENT

The President, after sine die adjournment of the First Session of the 116th Congress, notified the Clerk of the House that on the following dates, he had approved and signed bills of the following titles:

January 7, 2020:
H.R. 1424. An Act to amend title 38, United States Code, to ensure the Secretary of Veterans Affairs permits the display of Fallen Soldier Displays in national cemeteries.

January 17, 2020:
H.R. 2385. An Act to permit the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to establish a grant program to conduct cemetery research and produce educational materials for the Veterans Legacy Program.

January 24, 2020:
H.R. 2476. An Act to amend the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to provide funding to secure nonprofit facilities from terrorist attacks, and for other purposes.

● This “bullet” symbol identifies statements or insertions which are not spoken by a Member of the Senate on the floor.
Matter set in this typeface indicates words inserted or appended, rather than spoken, by a Member of the House on the floor.
The Senate met at 1:05 p.m. and was called to order by the Chief Justice of the United States.

TRIAL OF DONALD J. TRUMP, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

The CHIEF JUSTICE. The Senate will convene as a Court of Impeachment.

The Chaplain will lead us in prayer.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Sergeant at Arms, Michael C. Stenger, made the proclamation as follows:

Hear ye! Hear ye! Hear ye! All persons are commanded to keep silence, on pain of imprisonment, while the Senate of the United States is sitting for the trial of the articles of impeachment exhibited by the House of Representatives against Donald John Trump, President of the United States.

The CHIEF JUSTICE. The majority leader is recognized.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. Chief Justice, as the Chaplain has indicated, on behalf of all of us, happy birthday. I am sure this is exactly how you had planned to celebrate the day.

The CHIEF JUSTICE. Thank you very much for those kind wishes, and thank you to all the Senators for not planning to celebrate the day.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. Chief Justice, pursuant to the provisions of S. Res. 483, the counsel for the President have 22 hours and 5 minutes remaining to make the presentation of their case. The Senate will now hear you.

Mr. Sekulow. OPENING STATEMENT—CONTINUED

Mr. Counsel SEKULOW. Mr. Chief Justice, Members of the Senate, managers, what we have done on Saturday is the pattern that we are going to continue today, as far as how we are going to deal with the case. We deal with transcript evidence. We deal with publicly available information. We do not deal with speculation, allegations that are not based on evidentiary standards at all.

We are going to highlight some of those very facts we talked about very quickly on Saturday. You are going to hear more about that. I want to give you a little bit of an overview of what we plan to do today in our presentation.

You will hear from a number of lawyers. Each one of these lawyers will be addressing a particular aspect of the President's case. I will introduce the issues that they are going to discuss, and, then, that individual will come up and make their presentation. We want to do this on an expeditious but yet thorough basis.

Let me start, just for a very brief few moments, taking a look at where we were. One of the things that became very clear to us as we looked at the presentation from the House managers was the lack of focus on that July 25 transcript. That is because the transcript actually doesn't say what they would like it to say. We have heard—and you will hear more—about that in the days ahead. We know about Mr. SCHIFF's version of the transcript. You heard it. You saw it.

I want to keep coming back to facts—facts that are undisputed. The President, in his conversation, was clear on a number of points, but so was President Zelensky. I mentioned that at the close of my arguments earlier, that it was President Zelensky who said: No pressure, I didn't feel any pressure.

And, again, as this kind of reading of minds of what people were saying, I think we need to look at what they actually said and how it is backed up.

It is our position as the President's counsel that the President was at all time acting under his constitutional authority, under his legal authority, in our national interest, and pursuant to his oath of office. Asking a foreign leader to get to the bottom of issues of corruption is not a violation of an oath.

It was interesting because there was a lot of discussion the other day about Lieutenant Colonel Vindman, and one of the things that we reiterate is that he himself said that he did not know if there was anything of crime or anything of that nature. He had deep policy concerns. I think that is what this is really about—deep policy concerns, depth policy differences.

We live in a constitutional Republic where you have deep policy concerns and deep differences. That should not be the basis of an impeachment. If the bar of impeachment has now reached that level, then, for the sake of the Republic, the danger—put just this aside—but our entire constitutional framework in is unimaginable. Everytime there is a policy difference of significance or an approach difference of significance about a policy, are we going to start an impeachment proceeding?

As I said earlier, I don’t think this was about just a phone call. There was a pattern in practice of attempts over a 3-year period to not only interfere with the President’s capability to gover—his way, they were completely unsuccessful at; just look at the state of where we are as a country—but also interfere with the constitutional framework.

I am going to say this because I want to be brief. We are going to have series of lawyers address you. So it will not be one lawyer for hours and hours.
We are going to have a series of lawyers address you on a variety of issues.
This is how we envision the President’s defense going. We thought it would be appropriate to start with an overview, if you will, of some of the significant historical issues, constitutional issues, involving impeachment proceedings, since we don’t have a long history of that. I think that is a good thing for the country that we don’t, and I think that we would all agree. But if this becomes the new standard, the future is going to look a lot different.

We are going to hear next from my counsel, Judge Kenneth Starr. Judge
Starr is a former judge for the U.S.
Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. He served as the 39th Solicitor General of the United States, arguing cases before the Supreme Court of the United States on behalf of the United States.

I had the privilege of arguing a case alongside Judge Starr—we were talking about this earlier—many years ago.
He also served as the independent counsel during the Clinton Presidency and author of the Starr report. He testified for almost 12 hours before the Judiciary Committee with regard to that report. Judge Starr is very familiar with this process. He is going to address a series of deficiencies, which are legal issues with regard to articles I and II—constitutional implications, historical implications, and legal implications of where this case now stands.

I would like to yield my time right now to, if it please the Chief Justice, Ken Starr.
The CHIEF JUSTICE. Mr. Starr.
Mr. Counsel STARR. Thank you.

Mr. Chief Justice, House Managers, and staff. Members of the Senate, the majority leader, and the minority leader, at the beginning of these proceedings on January 16, the Chief Justice administered the oath of office to the Members of this body and then again on January 20, the Chief Justice was honoring the words of our Constitution, article I, section 3. We all know the first sentence of that article by heart:
"The Senate shall have the sole Power to try Impeachment, when the same is formed by the House of Representatives." That oath or affirmation, in turn, requires each Member of the Senate to do impartial justice.

This constitutionally administered oath or affirmation has been given in every proceeding in this body since 1798. Indeed, to signify the importance of the occasion, the Senate’s more recent traditions call for you, as you did, Chief Justice, to sign the book. And that book is not simply part of the record; it is entrusted to the National Archives. In contrast, Members of the House of Representatives do not take an oath in connection with impeachment. The reasons for this difference are simple.
When an oath or affirmation should be required—the Senate, yes; the House, no. Thus, each Member of the world’s greatest deliberative body now has special—indeed unique—duties and obligations imposed under our founding document.

During the Clinton impeachment trial 21 years ago in this Chamber, the Chief Justice of the United States ruled in response to an objection that was interposed by Senator Tom Harkin of Iowa. The Senators are not sitting as jurors, Senator Harkin noted, and the Chief Justice agreed with that proposition. Rather, the Senate is a court. In fact, history teaches us that for literally decades, this body was referred to in law as the High Court of Impeachment. So we are not a legislative Chamber during these proceedings. We are in a tribunal. We are in court.

Alexander Hamilton has been quoted frequently in these proceedings, but in Federalist 78, he was describing the role of courts—your role—and in doing so, he distinguished between what he called the exercise of judgment on the one hand, which is what courts do, and the exercise of law or policy preferences, if you will, on the other hand.
That is what legislative bodies do.

According to Hamilton, courts were to be, in his word, "impartial." There is that word again. You know, that is a daunting task for judges struggling to do the right thing, to be impartial—equal justice under law. It is certainly hard in life to be impartial. In politics, it is not even asked of one to be impartial. But that is the task that the Constitution chose to impose upon each of you.

"Significantly, in this particular juncture in America’s history, the Senate is being called to sit as the High Court of Impeachment all too frequently. Indeed, we are living in what I think can aptly be described as the ‘age of impeachment.’ In the House, resolution after resolution, month after month, has called for the President’s impeachmanship.

How did we get here, with Presidential impeachment invoked frequently in its inherently destabilizing, as well as acrimonious way? Briefly told, the story begins 42 years ago.

As I have noted, the congressional nightmare of Watergate, Congress and President Jimmy Carter collaboratively ushered in a new chapter in America’s constitutional history.
Together, in full agreement, they enacted the independent counsel provisions of
But the new chapter was not simply the age of independent counsel; it became, unbeknownst to the American people, the age of impeachment.

In the service of the Reagan administration as Counsel and Chief of Staff to Attorney General William French Smith, the Justice Department took the position that, however well-intentioned, the independent counsel provisions were unconstitutional. Why?
In the view of the Department, those provisions intruded into the rightful domain and prerogative of the executive branch of the Presidency.

The Justice Department’s position was eventually rejected by the Supreme Court, but most importantly, in helping us understand this new era in our country’s history, Justice Antonin Scalia was in deep dissent. Among his stinging criticisms of that law, Justice Scalia wrote this: ‘The context of this statute is acrid with the smell of threatened impeachment.’ Impeachment.

Justice Scalia echoed the criticism of the court in which I was serving at the Supreme Court during the Reagan concern, which had actually struck down the law as unconstitutional in a very impressive opinion by renowned Judge
Laurence Silberman.

Why would Justice Scalia refer to impeachment? This was a reform measure. There would be no more Saturday Night Massacres—the firing of Special Prosecutor, as he was called, Archibald
Cox by President Nixon. Government would now be better, more honest, accountable. Independent counsel would be protected. But the word ‘impeachment’ haunts that dissenting opinion, and it is not hard to discover why—because the statute, by its terms, expressly directed the independent counsel to become, in effect, an agent of the House of Representatives. And to what end?
To report to the House of Representatives when a very low threshold of information was received that an im-peachable offense, left undefined, may have been committed.

To paraphrase President Clinton’s very able counsel at the time, Bernie Nussbaum, this statute is a dager aimed at the heart of the Presidency. President Clinton, nonetheless, signed the reauthorized measure into law, and the Nation then went through the long process known as Whitewater, resulting in the findings by the office which I led, the independent counsel, Kenneth E. Starr, and a written report to the House of Representatives. That referral to Congress was stipulated in the Ethics in Government Act of 1978.

To put it mildly, Democrats were very concerned about what had happened. They then joined Republicans across the aisle who, for their part, had been outraged by an earlier independent counsel investigation, that of a very distinguished former judge, Lawrence Walsh.

During the Reagan administration, Judge Walsh's investigation into what became known to the country as Iran-Contra spawned enormous criticism on the Republican side of the aisle who, for their part, had been outraged by an earlier independent counsel investigation, that of a very distinguished former judge, Lawrence Walsh.

The acrimony surrounding Iran-Contra and then the impeachment and the trial and President Clinton's acquittal only served to, as a former senator and Speaker of the House, to bring about the Nation's very first Presidential impeachment. Fa-

And I respectfully submit that the practice which had last been attempted in Britain in 1600 failed to meet modern procedural standards of fairness—fairness.

As Sir William McKay recently re- marked: “Impeachment in Britain is dead.”

Yet, here at home, in the world’s longest standing constitutional Republic, instead of a once-in-a-century phe- nomenon, which it had been, Presi- dential impeachment has become a weapon to be wielded against one’s polit- ical opponent.

In her thoughtful Wall Street Jour- nal op-ed a week ago, Saturday, Peggy Noonan wrote this: “Impeachment has now been normalized. It will not be a once-in-a-generation act but an every-administration act. The Democrats will regret it when the Republicans are hand- ing out the pens (for the signing ceremony).”

When we look back down the cor- ridors of time, we see that for almost our first century as a constitutional re- public the sword of Presidential im- peachment remained sheathed. Had there been controversial Presidents? Oh, yes, indeed. Think of John Adams and the Alien and Sedition Acts. Think of Andrew and Henry Clay. Were partisan passions occasionally inflamed during that first century? Of course.

And lest there be any doubt, the early Congresses full well knew how to summon impeachment to the floor, in- cluding against a Member of this body—Senator William Blount, of Ten- nessee. During the Jefferson adminis- tration, the unsuccessful impeachment of Justice Samuel Chase—a surly and partial jurist, who was, nonetheless, acquitted by this Chamber—became an early landmark in maintaining the treasured independence of our Federal judiciary.

It took the national convulsion of the Civil War, the assassination of Mr. Lincoln, and the counter-reconstruc- tion measures aggressively pursued by Mr. Lincoln’s successor, Andrew John- son, to bring about the Nation’s very first Presidential impeachment. Fa- mously, of course, your predecessors in this High Court of Impeachment ac- quitted the unpopular and controver- sial Johnson but only by virtue of Sen- ators from the party of Lincoln break- ing ranks.

It was over a century later that the Nation turned to the tumultuous world of Presidential impeachment, ne- cessitated by the rank criminality of the Nixon administration. In light of the rapidly unfolding facts, including uncovered by the Senate select com- mittee, in an overwhelmingly bipar- tisan vote of 410 to 4, the House of Rep- resentatives authorized an impeach- ment inquiry; and, in 1974, the House Impeachment Committee, after lengthy hearings, voted again in a bipartisan manner to impeach the President of the United States. Importantly, Presi- dent Nixon’s own party was slowly but inerexorably moving toward favoring the removal of their chosen leader from the Nation’s highest office, who had just won reelection by a landslide.

It bears emphasis before this high court that this was the first Presi- dential impeachment in over 100 years. It also bears emphasis that it was pow- erfully bipartisan. It was not just the vote to authorize the impeachment inquiry. Indeed, the House Judiciary chair, Peter Rodino, of New Jersey, was insistent that, to be accepted by the American people, the process had to be bipartisan.

Like war, impeachment is hell or, at least, Presidential impeachment is hell. Those of us who lived through the Clinton impeachment, including Mem- bers of this body, full well understand that a Presidential impeachment is tantamount to domestic war. Albeit, thankfully protected by our beloved First Amendment, it is a war of words and a war of ideas, but it is filled with acrimony, and it divides the country like nothing else. Those of us who lived through the Clinton impeachment understand that in a deep and personal way.

Now, in contrast, wisely and judi- cially conducted, unlike in the United Kingdom, impeachment remains a vital and appropriate tool in our country to serve as a check with respect to the Federal judiciary. After all, in the Con- stitution’s brilliant structural design, Federal judges know, as this body full well knows from its daily work, of a pivotally important feature—indepen- dence from politics—exactly what Alex- ander Hamilton was talking about in Federalist 78: during the Constitution’s term, good behavior; in practical ef- fect, life tenure. Impeachment is, thus, a very important protection for the people against what could be serious article III wrongdoing within that branch.

And so it is that, when you count, of the 63 impeachment inquiries author- ized by the House of Representatives over our history, only 8 have actually been convicted in this high court and removed from office, and each and every one has been a Federal judge.

This history leads me to reflect on the nature of your weighty responsibil- ities here in this high court as judges in the context of Presidential im- peachment—the fourth Presidential im- peachment. I am counting the Nixon proceedings in our Nation’s history, but the third over the past half cen- tury.

And I respectfully submit that the Senate, in its wisdom, would do well in its deliberations to guide the Nation in this world’s greatest deliberative body to return to our country’s traditions when Presidential impeachment was truly a measure of last resort. Mem- bers of this body can help and in this very proceeding restore our constitu- tional and historical traditions, above all, by returning to the text of the Con- stitution itself. It is an example here in these proceedings in weaving the tapestry of what can rightly be called the common law of President impeachment. That is what courts do. They weave the common law. There are indications within the constitutional text—I will come to our history—so that this fundamental question is appropriate to be asked—you are familiar with the arguments: Was there an other violation of established law alleged?

So let’s turn to the text. Throughout the Constitution’s description of impeachment, the text speaks always—always—without exception, in terms of crimes. It begins, of course, with treason—the greatest of crimes against the state and against we the people, but so misused as a bludgeon and parliamentary experience, to lead the Founders to actually define the term in the Constitution itself. Bribery—an iniquitous form of moral and legal corruption and the basis of so many of the 63 impeachment proceedings over the course of our history—again, almost all of them against judges. The many high terms—other high crimes and misdemeanors. Once again, the language is employing the language of crimes. The Constitution is speaking to us in terms of crimes.

Essentially those references, when you count them—count seven, count eight—supports the conclusion that impeachments should be evaluated in terms of offenses against established law but especially with respect to the President. The Constitution requires the Chief Justice of the United States and not a political officer—no matter how honest, no matter how impartial—to preside at trial. Guided by history, the Framers made a deliberate and wise choice to cabin, to constrain, to limit the power of impeachment.

And so it was, on the very eve of the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson, that the eminence scholar and dean of Columbia Law School, Theodore Johnson, that the eminent scholar and wise choice to cabin, to constrain, to limit the power of impeachment.

If you are familiar with the arguments: Yes. Here, no—a factor to be considered as the judges of the high court. Come, the President will, individually, to your judgment.

Even in the political cauldron of the Andrew Johnson impeachment, article XI charged a violation of the controversial Tenure of Office Act. You are familiar with it, and that act warned expressly the Oval Office; that its violation would institute a high misdemeanor, employing the very language of constitutionally cognizable crimes.

This history represents, and I believe, may it please the court, it embodies the common law of Presidential impeachment. These are facts gleaned from the constitutional text and from the gloss of the Nation’s history.

And under this view, the commission of an alleged crime, the violation of established law, can appropriately be considered, again, a weighty and an important consideration and element of a historically supportable Presidential impeachment. Will law professors agree with this? No, with all due respect to the academy, this is not an academic gathering. We are in court. We are not just in court. With all due respect to the Chief Justice and the Supreme Court of the United States, we are in democracy’s ultimate court.

And the better constitutional answer to the question is provided by a rigorous and faithful examination of the constitutional text and then looking faithfully and respectfully to our history.

The very divisive Clinton impeachment demonstrates that, while highly relevant, the commission of a crime is by no means sufficient to warrant the removal of our duly elected President. Why?

This body knows. We appoint judges and you confirm them and they are there for life. Not Presidents. And the President can be up. The Presidency stands alone in our constitutional framework.

Before he became the Chief Justice of the United States, John Marshall, then sitting as a Member of the people’s House, made a speech on the floor of the House, and there he said this: The President is the sole organ of the Nation in its external relations, and its sole representative with foreign nations.

If that sounds like hyperbole, it has been embraced over decades by the Supreme Court of the United States, by Justices appointed by many different Presidents. The Presidency is unique. There is no other system quite like ours, and it has served us well.

As the Presidency, impeachment and removal not only overturns a national election and perhaps profoundly affects an upcoming election, in the words of Yale’s Akhil Amar, it entails a risk, and these are words: "Akhil’s words, Professor Amar’s, "a grave disruption of the government." Professor Amar penned those words in connection with the Clinton impeachment. "Grave disruption of the government." Regardless of what the President did, he said.

And so, the appropriate question: Were crimes alleged in the articles of the common law of Presidential impeachment? In Nixon, yes. In Clinton, yes. Here, no—a factor to be considered as the judges of the high court.

Clearly, the President will, individually, to your judgment.

And so to history. History bears out the point. The Nation’s most recent experience—the Clinton impeachment—even though several Members of Congress, criticized charged crimes. These were matters proven in the crucible of the House of Representatives’ debate beyond any reasonable observer’s doubt.

So too the Nixon impeachment. The articles charged crimes. What about article II in Nixon, which is sometimes referred to as abuse of power? Was that the abuse of power article—the precursor to article I that is before this court? Not at all. When one returns to article II in Nixon—approved by a bipartisan, bi-partisan majority of the House Committee—the article II of Nixon sets forth a deeply troubling story of numerous crimes—not one, not two, numerous crimes—carried out at the direction of the President himself.

And so the appropriate question: Were crimes alleged in the articles of the common law of Presidential impeachment? In Nixon, yes. In Clinton, yes. Here, no—a factor to be considered as the judges of the high court.

Come, the President will, individually, to your judgment.

And so it was, on the very eve of the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson, that the eminence scholar and dean of Columbia Law School, Theodore Johnson, that the eminent scholar and wise choice to cabin, to constrain, to limit the power of impeachment.

And so is it with the President—not a single House Member of the President’s party supported either of the two Articles of Impeachment—tonight, in committee, not on the House floor.

And as to the Presidency, impeachment and removal not only overturns a national election and perhaps profoundly affects an upcoming election, in the words of Yale’s Akhil Amar, it entails a risk, and these are words: "Akhil’s words, Professor Amar’s, "a grave disruption of the government." Professor Amar penned those words in connection with the Clinton impeachment. "Grave disruption of the government." Regardless of what the President did, he said.

And so to history.

The President is the sole organ of the Nation in its external relations, and its sole representative with foreign nations.

January 27, 2020

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE
resolution to impeach President Ronald Reagan was introduced. It was filed, and the effort to impeach President Reagan was supported by a leading law professor whose name you would well recognize, and you will hear it again this evening from Professor Dershowitz. Let me tell you, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, by virtue of the Article of Impeachment: Obstruction of Congress.

This court is very familiar with United States v. Nixon. Its unanimity in recognizing the President’s profound interest in confidentiality, regardless of the world view or philosophy of the justice, the Justices were unanimous. This isn’t just a contrivance; it is built into the very nature of our constitutional order. So let me comment, briefly.

This constitutionally based recognition of executive privilege and then companion privileges—the deliberative process privilege, the immunity of close Presidential advisers from being summoned to the Senate or House—these are all firmly established in our law.

If there is a dispute between the people’s House and the President of the United States over the availability of documents or witnesses—and there is in each and every administration—then go to court. It really is as simple as that. I don’t need to belabor the point.

But here is the point I would like to emphasize. Frequently, the Justice Department advises the President of the possibility of litigation. It could have sought expedition. The Executive has done such thoughtful work with both Democratic and Republican administrations. The office is now headed by a brilliant lawyer who served as a law clerk to Justice Anthony Kennedy. There is the possibility of reaching a settlement with the guidance provided to the President by that office; the House frequently does disagree. But for the President to follow the guidance of the Department of Justice with respect to an interbranch legal and constitutional dispute cannot reasonably be viewed as an obstruction and, most emphatically, not as an impeachable offense.

History, once again, is a great teacher. In the Clinton impeachment, the House Judiciary Committee rejected a draft article asserting that President Clinton—and here are the words that were drafted: “fraudulently and corruptly asserted executive privilege.” Strong words, “fraudulently and corruptly.” That was the draft article.

The House may disagree with the spirit of comity—to protect privileged communications and conversations. I have heard it, in my two tours of duty at the Justice Department: Don’t release the documents, Mr. President. If you do, you are injuring the Presidency. Go to court.

We have concerns about the length of time that the litigation might take. Those of us who have litigated know that sometimes litigation does take longer than we would like. Justice delayed is justice denied. We could all agree with that.

But our history—Churchill’s maxim, study history—our history tells us that is not necessarily so. Take by way of example the Pentagon Papers case—orders issued preventing and sanctioning a gross violation of the First Amendment’s guarantee of freedom of the press, an order issued out of the district court June 15, 1971. That order was reversed in an opinion by the Supreme Court of the United States 2 weeks later. June 15.

The House of Representatives could have followed that well-trod path. It could have sought expedition. The E. Barrett Prettyman Courthouse is 6 blocks down. The judges are there. They are hardworking people of integrity. Follow the path. Follow the path of the law. Go to court.

There would have been at least one problem had the House seen fit to go to court and remain in court. The issue is before you.

But among other flaws, the Office of Legal Counsel determined—and I have read the opinion, and I believe it is correct—that with all respect, all House subpoenas issued prior to the adoption of H. R. 660, which for the first time authorized the impeachment inquiry as a House, all subpoenas were invalid. They were void. With all due respect to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, with all her abilities and her vast experience, under our Constitution, she was powerless to do what she purported to do. As has been said now time and again, especially throughout the fall, the Constitution does entrust the sole power of impeachment to the House of Representatives, but that is the House, its 435 Members elected from across the constitutional Republic—not one, no matter how able she may be. In the people’s House, every person gets to vote, and I know the concept: one person, one vote.

More generally, the President, as I reviewed the record, has consistently and scrupulously followed the advice and counsel of the Justice Department and, in particular, the Office of Legal Counsel. He has been obedient. As you know, that important office—many of you have had your own experiences professionally with that office—is staffed with lawyers of great ability. It has done such thoughtful work with both Democratic and Republican administrations. The office is now headed by a brilliant lawyer who served as a law clerk to Justice Anthony Kennedy. There is the possibility of reaching a settlement with the guidance provided to the President by that office; the House frequently does disagree. But for the President to follow the guidance of the Department of Justice with respect to an interbranch legal and constitutional dispute cannot reasonably be viewed as an obstruction and, most emphatically, not as an impeachable offense.

History, once again, is a great teacher. In the Clinton impeachment, the House Judiciary Committee rejected a draft article asserting that President Clinton—and here are the words that were drafted: “fraudulently and corruptly asserted executive privilege.” Strong words, “fraudulently and corruptly.” That was the draft article.

The House may disagree with the spirit of comity—to protect privileged communications and conversations. I have heard it, in my two tours of duty at the Justice Department: Don’t release the documents, Mr. President. If you do, you are injuring the Presidency. Go to court.

We have concerns about the length of time that the litigation might take. Those of us who have litigated know that sometimes litigation does take longer than we would like. Justice delayed is justice denied. We could all agree with that.

But our history—Churchill’s maxim, study history—our history tells us that is not necessarily so. Take by way of example the Pentagon Papers case—orders issued preventing and sanctioning a gross violation of the First Amendment’s guarantee of freedom of the press, an order issued out of the district court June 15, 1971. That order was reversed in an opinion by the Supreme Court of the United States 2 weeks later. June 15.

The House of Representatives could have followed that well-trod path. It could have sought expedition. The E. Barrett Prettyman Courthouse is 6 blocks down. The judges are there. They are hardworking people of integrity. Follow the path. Follow the path of the law. Go to court.

There would have been at least one problem had the House seen fit to go to court and remain in court. The issue is before you.

But among other flaws, the Office of Legal Counsel determined—and I have read the opinion, and I believe it is correct—that with all respect, all House subpoenas issued prior to the adoption of H. R. 660, which for the first time authorized the impeachment inquiry as a House, all subpoenas were invalid. They were void. With all due respect to to read the President’s trial brief with respect to process. It was Justice Felix Frankfurter, confidante of FDR, brilliant jurist, who reminded America that the history of liberty is in large measure the history of process, procedure.

In particular, I would guide the high court to the discussion of the long history of the House of Representatives—over two centuries—in providing due process protections in its impeachment investigations. It is a richly historical discussion.

The good news is, you can read the core of it in four pages, pages 62 to 66, of the trial brief. It puts in bold relief, I believe, an irrefutable fact. This House of Representatives, with all respect, ought to turn its back on its own established procedures—procedures that have been followed faithfully—fully decade after decade, regardless of who was in control, regardless of political party. All those procedures were torn down by the most noble of builders, the Constitution itself. It is an exit ramp built by the most noble of build- ers, the founding generation. Despite the clearest precedent requiring due process for the accused in an impeachment inquiry but, surely, all the more so in a Presidential impeachment, House Democrats chose to conduct a wholly unprecedented process in this case, and they did so knowingly and deliberately because they were warned at every turn: Don’t do it. Don’t do it that way.

And process—the process of being denied the basic rights that have been afforded to every single accused President in the history of the Republic, even in the raciest of cases. Andrew Johnson seeking to undo Mr. Lincoln’s great legacy—he got those rights—but not here. Due process could have been honored; basic rights could have been honored. The House rules, the House’s traditions could have been honored, but what is done is done. These two articles come before this court, this High Court of Impeachment, dripped with fundamental process violations.

The core of the court— are confronted with this kind of phenomenon, a train of fairness violations. Courts of this country do the right thing. They do impartial justice. They invoke, figuratively or literally, the mandate, in the words of the America’s Constitution. The very first order of our government after “to form a more perfect Union” is to “establish Justice”—to “establish justice.” Even before getting to the words to ‘provide for the common Defense, to promote the general Welfare, to insure domestic Tranquility,” the Constitution speaks in terms of justice—establishing justice.

Courts would not allow this. They would not allow this because—why? They knew, and they know, that the purpose of our founding instrument is to protect our liberties, to safeguard us, but to safeguard us as individuals against the government. Why? In the benevolent words of the preamble, to “secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity.” Liberty under law.

I thank the CHIEF JUSTICE. Mr. Sekulow. Mr. Counsel SEKULOW. Mr. Chief Justice, Members of the Senate, House managers: Judge Starr laid out before you the solemn nature of these proceedings and the solemn nature of these proceedings and what has been laid out before us from both a historical and constitutional perspective.

I want you to think about this, to history, the importance and solemnity of what we are engaged in in this body, with what took place in the House of Representatives upon the signing of Articles of Impeachment—pens distributed to the impeachment managers. A celebratory moment—think about that; think about this—a poignant moment.

We are next going to address a factual analysis. To briefly reflect, my colleague, the Deputy White House Counsel, Mike Purpura, will be joining us in a moment to discuss more of the facts, to continue the discussion that we had on Saturday. But let me just recap very quickly what was laid out on Saturday.

First, the transcript shows that the President did not condition either security assistance or a meeting on anything. The paused security assistance funds aren’t even mentioned on the call. Second, President Zelensky and other Ukrainian officials repeatedly said there was no quid pro quo and no pressure on them to review anything. Third, President Zelensky and high-ranking Ukrainian officials did not even know the security assistance was paused until the end of August, over a month after the July 25 call.
Mr. Counsel PURPURA. So while the security assistance was paused, the administration did precisely what you would expect. It addressed President Trump’s concerns about the two issues that I mentioned on Saturday: burden-sharing and corruption.

A number of law- and policymakers also contacted the President and the White House to provide input on the security assistance issue during this period, including Senator LINDSEY GRAHAM. The process culminated on September 11, 2019. On that day, the President spoke with Vice President PENCE and Senator Ron PORTMAN. The Vice President, in NSC Senior Director Tim Morrison’s words, was “armed with his concerns about foreign aid generally. That meeting? In June of 2017—2017.

Zelensky’s predecessor—in their first conversation with President Zelensky and both the Vice President and Senator PORTMAN related their view of the importance of the assistance to Ukraine and convinced the President that the aid should be resumed immediately. After the meeting, President Trump terminated the pause, and the support flowed to Ukraine.”

I want to take a step back now and talk for a moment about why the security assistance was briefly paused—again, in the words of the House managers’ own witnesses. Witness after witness testified that confronting Ukrainian corruption should be at the forefront of U.S. foreign policy towards Ukraine. Ambassador Volker testified that the President had longstanding and sincere concerns about corruption in Ukraine. The House managers, however, told you that it was laughable to think that the President cared about corruption in Ukraine, but that is not what the witnesses said.

According to Ambassador Volker, President Trump demonstrated that he had a very deeply rooted negative view of Ukraine based on past corruption, and the same position is reflected by Ambassador Volker. Most people who know anything about Ukrainian politics would think that.

Dr. Hill testified:

I think the President has actually quite publicly said that he was very skeptical about corruption in Ukraine. And, in fact, he is not alone, because everyone has expressed great concern about corruption in Ukraine.

The House managers have said the President’s concern with corruption is disingenuous. They said that President Trump didn’t care about corruption in 2017 or 2018 and he certainly didn’t care about it in 2019. Those were their words. Not according to Ambassador Yovanovitch, however, who testified that President Trump shared his concern about corruption directly with President Poroshenko—President Zelensky’s predecessor—in their first meeting in the Oval Office, When was that meeting? In June of 2017—2017. The President also has well-known concerns about foreign aid generally. Scrutinizing and in some cases curtailing foreign aid was a central plank of his campaign platform. President Trump is especially wary of sending American taxpayer dollars abroad when other countries refuse to pitch in.

Mr. Morrison and Mr. Bale both testified at length about President Trump’s longstanding concern with burden-sharing and anti-corruption aid programs. Here is what they said.

(Text of Videotape presentation:)

Mr. RATCLIFFE. The President was concerned that the United States seemed to bear the exclusive burden of assistance to Ukraine. He wanted to see the Europeans step up and contribute more security assistance.

Mr. HALE. We’ve often heard at the State Department that the President of the United States wants to make sure that foreign assistance is reviewed scrupulously and make sure that it is true in the U.S. national interests and that we evaluate it continuously and that it meets certain criteria the President has established.

Mr. HALE. The principle of fair burden-sharing by allies and other like-minded states is an important element of the foreign assistance review.

Mr. Counsel PURPURA. The President expressed these precise concerns to Senator Ron JOHNSON, who wrote:

He reminded me how thoroughly corrupt Ukraine was under the previous regime and his frustration that Europe doesn’t do its fair share of providing military aid.

The House managers didn’t tell you about this. Why not? And President Trump was right to be concerned that other countries weren’t paying their fair share. As Laura Cooper testified, U.S. contributions to Ukraine are far more significant than any individual country, and she also said EU funds tend to be on the economic side rather than for military support. Senator JOHNSON also confirmed that other countries refused to provide the lethal defensive weapons that Ukraine needs in its war with Russia.

Please keep in mind also that the pause of the Ukraine security assistance program was far from unusual or out of character for President Trump. The American people know that the President is skeptical of foreign aid and that one of his top campaign promises was to avoid wasteful spending of American taxpayer dollars abroad.

Meanwhile, the same people who today claimed that President Trump was not genuinely concerned about burden-sharing were upset when, as a candidate, President Trump criticized free-riding by NATO members.

This past summer, the administration paused, reviewed, and in some cases canceled hundreds of millions of dollars in foreign aid to Afghanistan, El Salvador, Honduras, Guatemala, and Lebanon. After some of the reviews of foreign aid undertaken at the very same time that the Ukraine aid was paused.

So what happened during the brief period of time while the Ukraine security assistance was paused? People were gathering information and monitoring the facts on the ground in Ukraine as the new Parliament was sworn in and began introducing anti-corruption legislation.

Notwithstanding what the House managers would have you believe, the reason for the pause was no secret within the White House and the agencies. According to Mr. Morrison, in a July meeting attended by officials throughout the executive branch agencies, the reason provided for the pause by a representative of the Office of Management and Budget was that the President was concerned about corruption in Ukraine and he wanted to make sure Ukraine was doing enough to manage that corruption. In fact, as Mr. Morrison testified, by Labor Day, there had been definitive developments to demonstrate that President Zelensky was committed to the issues he campaigned on: anti-corruption reforms.

Mr. Morrison also testified that the administration was working on answering the President’s concerns regarding burden-sharing. Here is Mr. Morrison.

(Text of Videotape presentation:)

Mr. CASTOR. Was there any interagency activity by either the State Department or the Defense Department coordinated by the National Security Council to look into that at this point? Mr. HALE. We’ve often heard at the State Department that the President of the United States wants to make sure that foreign assistance is reviewed scrupulously and make sure that it is true in the U.S. national interests and that we evaluate it continuously and that it meets certain criteria the President has established.

Mr. HALE. The principle of fair burden-sharing by allies and other like-minded states is an important element of the foreign assistance review.

Mr. Counsel PURPURA. The President expressed these precise concerns to Senator Ron JOHNSON, who wrote:

He reminded me how thoroughly corrupt Ukraine was under the previous regime and his frustration that Europe doesn’t do its fair share of providing military aid.

The House managers didn’t tell you about this. Why not? And President Trump was right to be concerned that other countries weren’t paying their fair share. As Laura Cooper testified, U.S. contributions to Ukraine are far more significant than any individual country, and she also said EU funds tend to be on the economic side rather than for military support. Senator JOHNSON also confirmed that other countries refused to provide the lethal defensive weapons that Ukraine needs in its war with Russia.

Please keep in mind also that the pause of the Ukraine security assistance program was far from unusual or out of character for President Trump. The American people know that the President is skeptical of foreign aid and that one of his top campaign promises was to avoid wasteful spending of American taxpayer dollars abroad.

Meanwhile, the same people who today claimed that President Trump was not genuinely concerned about burden-sharing were upset when, as a candidate, President Trump criticized free-riding by NATO members.

This past summer, the administration paused, reviewed, and in some cases canceled hundreds of millions of dollars in foreign aid to Afghanistan, El Salvador, Honduras, Guatemala, and Lebanon. After some of the reviews of foreign aid undertaken at the very same time that the Ukraine aid was paused.

So what happened during the brief period of time while the Ukraine security assistance was paused? People were gathering information and monitoring the facts on the ground in Ukraine as the new Parliament was sworn in and began introducing anti-corruption legislation.

Notwithstanding what the House managers would have you believe, the reason for the pause was no secret within the White House and the agencies. According to Mr. Morrison, in a July meeting attended by officials throughout the executive branch agencies, the reason provided for the pause by a representative of the Office of Management and Budget was that the President was concerned about corruption in Ukraine and he wanted to make sure Ukraine was doing enough to manage that corruption. In fact, as Mr. Morrison testified, by Labor Day, there had been definitive developments to demonstrate that President Zelensky was committed to the issues he campaigned on: anti-corruption reforms.

Mr. Morrison also testified that the administration was working on answering the President’s concerns regarding burden-sharing. Here is Mr. Morrison.

(Text of Videotape presentation:)

Mr. CASTOR. Was there any interagency activity by either the State Department or the Defense Department coordinated by the National Security Council to look into that at this point? Mr. HALE. We’ve often heard at the State Department that the President of the United States wants to make sure that foreign assistance is reviewed scrupulously and make sure that it is true in the U.S. national interests and that we evaluate it continuously and that it meets certain criteria the President has established.

Mr. HALE. The principle of fair burden-sharing by allies and other like-minded states is an important element of the foreign assistance review.

Mr. Counsel PURPURA. The President expressed these precise concerns to Senator Ron JOHNSON, who wrote:

He reminded me how thoroughly corrupt Ukraine was under the previous regime and his frustration that Europe doesn’t do its fair share of providing military aid.

The House managers didn’t tell you about this. Why not? And President Trump was right to be concerned that other countries weren’t paying their fair share. As Laura Cooper testified, U.S. contributions to Ukraine are far more significant than any individual country, and she also said EU funds tend to be on the economic side rather than for military support. Senator JOHNSON also confirmed that other countries refused to provide the lethal defensive weapons that Ukraine needs in its war with Russia.

Please keep in mind also that the pause of the Ukraine security assistance program was far from unusual or out of character for President Trump. The American people know that the President is skeptical of foreign aid and that one of his top campaign promises was to avoid wasteful spending of American taxpayer dollars abroad.

Meanwhile, the same people who today claimed that President Trump was not genuinely concerned about burden-sharing were upset when, as a candidate, President Trump criticized free-riding by NATO members.

This past summer, the administration paused, reviewed, and in some cases canceled hundreds of millions of dollars in foreign aid to Afghanistan, El Salvador, Honduras, Guatemala, and Lebanon. After some of the reviews of foreign aid undertaken at the very same time that the Ukraine aid was paused.

So what happened during the brief period of time while the Ukraine security assistance was paused? People were gathering information and monitoring the facts on the ground in Ukraine as the new Parliament was sworn in and began introducing anti-corruption legislation.

Notwithstanding what the House managers would have you believe, the reason for the pause was no secret within the White House and the agencies. According to Mr. Morrison, in a July meeting attended by officials throughout the executive branch agencies, the reason provided for the pause by a representative of the Office of Management and Budget was that the President was concerned about corruption in Ukraine and he wanted to make sure Ukraine was doing enough to manage that corruption. In fact, as Mr. Morrison testified, by Labor Day, there had been definitive developments to demonstrate that President Zelensky was committed to the issues he campaigned on: anti-corruption reforms.

Mr. Morrison also testified that the administration was working on answering the President’s concerns regarding burden-sharing. Here is Mr. Morrison.

(Text of Videotape presentation:)}
was more that European countries could do to support Ukraine.

Vice President Pence knew President Trump, and he knew what President Trump wanted to hear from President Zelensky. The Vice President was echoing the Vice President’s focus on corruption and burden-sharing. It is the same, consistent themes every time.

Ambassador Taylor received a similar readout of the meeting between the Vice President and President Zelensky, including the Vice President’s focus on corruption and burden-sharing. Here is Ambassador Taylor.

(Text of Videotape presentation:
Ambassador TAYLOR. On the evening of September 1st, I received a readout of the Pence-Zelensky meeting over the phone from Mr. Morrison during which he told me that President Zelensky had opened the meeting by immediately asking the Vice President about the security cooperation. The Vice President did not respond substantively but said that he would talk to President Trump that night. President Trump did that President wanted the Europeans to do more to support Ukraine and that he wanted the Ukrainians to do more to fight corruption.

Mr. Counsel PURPURA. On September 11, based on the information collected and presented to President Trump, the President lifted the pause on the security assistance. As Mr. Morrison explained, “our process gave the President the confidence he needed to approach the release of the security-sector assistance.”

The House managers say that the talk about corruption and burden-sharing is a ruse. No one knew why the security assistance was paused, and no one was addressing the President’s concerns with Ukrainian corruption and burden-sharing. The House managers’ own evidence—their own record—tells a different story, however. They didn’t tell you about this, not in 21 hours. Why not?

The President’s concerns were addressed in the ordinary course. The President wasn’t caught, as the House managers allege. The managers are wrong. All of this, together with what we discussed on Saturday, demonstates that there was no connection between security assistance and investigations.

When the House managers realized their “quid pro quo” theory on security assistance was falling apart, they created a second alternative theory. According to the House managers, President Zelensky desperately wanted a meeting at the White House with President Trump, and President Trump conditioned that meeting on investigations.

What about the managers’ backup accusations? Do they fare any better than their quid pro quo for security as-cistance? No, they don’t.

A Presidential-level meeting happened without any preconditions at the first available opportunity in a widely televised meeting at the United Nations General Assembly in New York on September 25, 2019. The White House was working to schedule the meeting earlier at the White House or in Warsaw, but those options fell through due to normal scheduling and a hurricane. The two Presidents met at the earliest possible date. President Zelensky ever announcing or beginning any investigations.

The first thing to know about the alleged quid pro quo for a meeting is that by the end of the July 25 call, the President invited President Zelensky to the White House on three separate occasions, each time without any preconditions.

President Trump invited President Zelensky to an in-person meeting on their initial April 21 call. He said: “When you’re settled in and ready, I’d like to invite you to the White House.”

On May 29, the week after President Zelensky’s inauguration, President Trump sent a congratulatory letter, again, inviting President Zelensky to the White House. He said:

As you prepare to address the many challenges facing Ukraine, please know that the American people are with you and are committed to helping Ukraine replace its vast potential. To help show that commitment, I would like to invite you to meet with me at the White House in Washington, D.C., as soon as we can find a mutually convenient time.

Then, on July 25, President Trump personally invited President Zelensky to participate in a meeting for a third time. He said: Whenever you would like to come to the White House, feel free to call. Give us a date, and we’ll work that out. I look forward to seeing you.

Those are three separate invitations for a meeting, all made without any preconditions.

During this time, and behind the scenes, the White House was working diligently to schedule a meeting between the Presidents at the earliest possible date. Tim Morrison, whose reponsibilities included helping to arrange the White House meetings, testified that he understood that aranging the White House visit with President Zelensky was a do-out that came from the President.

The House managers didn’t mention the work that the White House was doing to schedule the meeting between President Trump and President Zelensky; did they? Why not?

Scheduling a Presidential meeting takes time. Mr. Morrison testified that his directorate, which was just one of several, had a dozen schedule requests in with the President for meetings with foreign leaders that we were looking to land and Ukraine was but one of those requests.

According to Mr. Morrison, due to both Presidents’ busy schedule, “it became clear that the ‘earliest opportunity for the two Presidents to meet would be in Warsaw’ at the beginning of September.

The entire notion that a bilateral meeting between President Trump and President Zelensky was somehow conditioned on a statement about investigations is completely defeated by one straightforward fact: A bilateral meeting between President Trump and President Zelensky was planned for September 1 in Warsaw—the same Warsaw we just discussed—without the Ukrainians saying a word about investigations.

As it turned out, President Trump was not able to attend the meeting in Warsaw because of Hurricane Dorian. President Trump asked Vice President Pence to attend in his place, but even that scheduling glitch did not put off their meeting for long. President Trump and President Zelensky met at the next available date, September 25, at the sidelines of the United Nations General Assembly.

As President Zelensky, himself, has said, there were “no preconditions” for his meeting with President Trump. Those are his words: “No conditions.”

You are probably wondering how the House managers could claim there was a quid pro quo for a meeting with President Trump when the two Presidents actually did meet without President Zelensky agreeing to any investigations? Well, the House managers moved the goalpost again. They claim that the meeting couldn’t be just an in-person meeting with President Trump. What it had to be was a meeting at the Oval Office and in the White House. That is nonsense.

Putting to one side the absurdity of the House managers trying to remove a duly-elected President of the United States from office because he met with a foreign leader in one location versus another, this theory has no basis in fact.

As Dr. Hill testified, what mattered was that there was a bilateral Presidential meeting, not the location of the meeting. She said:

[It wasn’t always a White House meeting per se, but definitely a Presidential-level, you know, meeting with Zelensky and the President. I mean, it could’ve taken place in Poland, in Warsaw. It could’ve been, you know, meeting with Zelensky and the President. I mean, it could’ve taken place in Poland, in Warsaw. It could’ve been, you know, a proper bilateral in some other context. But, in other words, a White House-level Presidential meeting.

The House managers didn’t tell you about Dr. Hill’s testimony. Why not? In fact, just last week they said that President Zelensky still hasn’t gotten his White House meeting. Why didn’t they tell you about Dr. Hill’s testimony? How else do we know that Dr. Hill was right? Because President Zelensky said so on the July 25 call.

Remember, when President Trump invited President Zelensky to Washington on the July 25 call, President Zelensky said he would be “happy to meet with you personally” and offered to host President Trump in Ukraine or. On the other hand, meet with President Trump on September 1 in Poland. That is exactly what the administration planned to do.
If it weren’t for Hurricane Dorian, President Trump would have met with President Zelensky in Poland on September 1, just as President Zelensky had requested and without any preconditions. As it happened, President Zelensky met with the Vice President instead and just a few weeks later met with President Trump in New York—all without anyone making any statement about the investigations. And, once again, not a single witness in the House record that they compiled and developed under their procedures that we have discussed and will continue to discuss, provided any firsthand evidence that President ever linked the Presidential meeting to any investigations. The House managers have seized upon Ambassador Sondland’s claim that Mr. Giuliani’s requests were a quid pro quo for arranging a White House visit for President Zelensky. But, again, Ambassador Sondland was only guessing based on incomplete information. He testified that the President had told him there was an understanding that a meeting with President Zelensky. Why, then, did he think there was one? In his own words, Ambassador Sondland said that he could only repeat what he heard “through Ambassador Volker from Giuliani.” So he didn’t even hear from Mr. Giuliani himself. But Ambassador Volker, who is the supposed link between Mr. Giuliani and Ambassador Sondland, thought that such talent overlinked Ambassador Volker testified unequivocally that there was no linkage between the meeting with President Zelensky and Ukrainian investigations. I am going to read the full questions and answers because passing this passage is key. This is from Ambassador Volker’s deposition testimony. Question. Did President Trump ever withhold a meeting with President Zelensky or delay it because he already had a meeting planned with President Zelensky until the Ukrainians committed to investigate the allegations that you just described concerning the 2016 Presidential election? Answer. The answer to the question is no, if you want a yes-or-no answer. But the reason the answer is no is we did have difficulty scheduling a meeting, but there was no linkage like that. Question. You said that you were not aware of any linkage between delaying the trip and the Ukrainians committing to investigate the allegations that you just described concerning the 2016 Presidential election. Is that accurate? Answer. Correct.

Over the past week, on no fewer than 15 separate occasions, the House managers played a video of Ambassador Sondland testifying that the administration of the investigations was a prerequisite for a meeting or call with the President—15 times. They never once read to you the testimony that I just did. They never once read to you the testimony that Ambassador Volker refuted what Ambassador Sondland claimed he heard from Ambassador Volker. Here is what we know. President Trump invited President Zelensky to meet three times without preconditions. The White House was working behind the scenes to schedule the meeting. The two Presidents planned to meet in Warsaw. Ambassador Zelensky had asked, and ultimately met 3 weeks later without Ukraine announcing any investigations. No one testified in the House record that the President ever said there was a connection between a meeting and investigating the Ukrainians. Plain and simple. So much for a quid pro quo for a meeting with the President.

Before I move on, let me take a brief moment to address a side allegation of a condition for a meeting with President Zelensky, and answers because this passage is vital to single a downgrading of the relationship between the United States and Ukraine. That is not true. As I am sure everyone in this room can greatly appreciate, the authors had to align for the VP to attend. First, dates of travel were limited. For national security reasons, the President and Vice President generally avoid being out of the country at the same time for any more than a few hours. The President had scheduled trips to Europe and Japan during the period when our Embassy in Ukraine anticipated the Ukrainian inauguration would occur, at the end of May or in early June. Jennifer Williams testified that the Office of the Vice President advised the Ukrainians that, if the Vice President were to participate in the inauguration, the ideal dates would be around May 29, May 30, May 31, or June 1, when he would be in the United States. She said “if it wasn’t one of those dates, it would be very difficult or impossible” for the Vice President to attend.

Second, the House managers act as if no other priorities in the world could compete for the administration’s time. The Vice President’s Office was simultaneously planning a competing trip for May 30 in Ottawa, Canada, to participate in an event supporting passage of the ‘North Atlantic Canada Agreement. Ultimately, the Vice President traveled to Ottawa on May 30 to meet with Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and to promote the passage of the USMCA. This decision, as you know, advanced the top administration priority and an issue that President Trump vigorously supported.

What you did not hear from the House managers was that the Ukrainian inauguration dates did not go as planned. On May 16—May 16—the Ukrainians surprised everyone and scheduled the inauguration for just 4 days later, on May 20—Monday, May 20. So think about that: May 16, May 20. Get everybody—security, advance, everyone—to Ukraine. Jennifer Williams testified that it was very short notice, so it would have been difficult for the Vice President to attend, particularly since they hadn’t sent out the advance team.

George Kent testified that the short notice left almost no time for either proper preparations or foreign delegations to visit and that the State Department scrambled on Friday the 17th to try and figure out who was available. Mr. Kent suggested that Secretary of Energy Perry be the anchor for the delegation, as “someone who was a person of stature and whose job had relevance to our agenda.” Secretary Perry led the delegation, which also included Ambassador Sondland, Ambassador Volker, and Senator Johnson. Ambassador Volker testified that it was the largest delegation from any country there, and it was a high-level one. The House managers didn’t tell you that? Why not?

The claim that the President instructed the Vice President not to attend President Zelensky’s inauguration is based on House manager assumptions with no evidence that the President did something wrong.

Finally, as I am coming to the end, if the evidence doesn’t show a quid pro quo, what does it show? Unfortunately for the House managers, one of the few things that all of the witnesses agreed President Trump has done that strengthened the relationship between the United States and Ukraine and that he has been a more stalwart friend to Ukraine and a more fierce opponent of Russian aggression than President Obama. The House managers repeatedly claimed that President Trump doesn’t care about Ukraine. They are attributing views to President Trump that are contrary to his actions. More importantly, they are contrary to the House managers’ own evidence.

I don’t take it for it. Ambassadors Yovanovitch, Taylor, and Volker all testified to the Trump administration’s positive new policy toward Ukraine based especially on President Trump’s decision to provide lethal aid to Ukraine. Ambassador Taylor testified that President Trump’s policy toward Ukraine was a substantial improvement over President Obama’s policy. Ambassador Volker agreed that America’s policy toward Ukraine has been strengthened under President Trump, whom he credited with approving each of the decisions made along the way. Ambassador Yovanovitch testified that President Trump’s decision to provide lethal aid to Ukraine isn’t about policy, but about President Trump’s commitment to getting everybody—security, advance, everyone—to Ukraine.

(Text of Videotape presentation:)

Ms. STEFANIK. The Trump administration has indeed provided substantial aid to
There being no objection, at 2:52 p.m., the Senate, sitting as a Court of Impeachment, recessed until 3:17 p.m.; whereupon the Senate reassembled when called to order by the CHIEF JUSTICE.

The CHIEF JUSTICE. The majority leader is recognized.

Mr. McCONNELL. It is my understanding that, having consulted with the President’s lawyers, we are looking around at 6 p.m. for dinner, and we will plow right through until 6 p.m.

The CHIEF JUSTICE. Thank you. President’s counsel can continue with their case.

Mr. Counsel SEKULOW. Thank you, Mr. Chief Justice.

Mr. Chief Justice. Members of the Senate, House managers, there has been a lot of talk in both the briefs and in the discussions over the last week about one of our colleagues, former mayor of New York, Rudy Giuliani.

Mayor Giuliani was one of the leaders of the President’s defense team during the Mueller Investigation. He is mentioned 531 times—20 in the brief and about 511, give or take, in the arguments, including the motion day.

We had a robust team that worked on the President during the Mueller probe, consisting of Mayor Giuliani, Andrew Economo, Stuart Roth, Jordan Sekulow, Ben Sisney, Mark Goldfeder, Mayor Giuliani, of course, and Marty Raskin, as well as Jane Raskin, the in-house counsel and one of the leading attorneys on the Mueller investigation for the defense of the President.

The issue of Mayor Giuliani has come up here in this Chamber a lot. We thought it would be appropriate now to turn to that issue, the role of the President’s lawyer, his private counsel, in this proceeding. I would like to yield my time, Mr. Chief Justice, to Jane Se-

Mr. Counsel RASKIN. Mr. Chief Justice, Majority Leader McCONNELL, Members of the Senate.

I expect you have heard American poet Carl Sandburg’s summary of the trial lawyer’s dilemma:

If the facts are against you, argue the law. If the law is against you, argue the facts. If the facts and the law are against you, pound the table and yell like hell.

Well, we have heard the House managers do some table-pounding and a little yelling, but, in the main, they have used a different tactic here, a tactic familiar to trial lawyers, though not mentioned by Mr. Sandburg. If both the law and the facts are against you, present a distraction, emphasize a sensational fact or perhaps a colorful or controversial public figure who appears on the scene, then distort certain facts, ignore others, even when they are the most probable, make conclusory statements, and insinuate the shiny object is far more important than the actual facts allow: in short, divert attention from the holes in your case.

Rudy Giuliani is the House managers’ colorful distraction. He is a household name. He is a legendary Federal prosecutor who took down the Mafia, corrupt public officials, Wall Street racketeers. He is the crime-busting mayor who cleaned up New York and turned it around, a national hero of America’s more than, and, after that, an internationally recog-

The CHIEF JUSTICE. The majority leader is recognized.

Mr. McCONNELL. It is my understanding that, having consulted with the President’s lawyers, we are looking around at 6 p.m. for dinner, and we will plow right through until 6 p.m.

The CHIEF JUSTICE. Thank you. President’s counsel can continue with their case.

Mr. Counsel SEKULOW. Thank you, Mr. Chief Justice.

Mr. Chief Justice. Members of the Senate, House managers, there has been a lot of talk in both the briefs and in the discussions over the last week about one of our colleagues, former mayor of New York, Rudy Giuliani.

Mayor Giuliani was one of the leaders of the President’s defense team during the Mueller Investigation. He is mentioned 531 times—20 in the brief and about 511, give or take, in the arguments, including the motion day.

We had a robust team that worked on the President during the Mueller probe, consisting of Mayor Giuliani, Andrew Economo, Stuart Roth, Jordan Sekulow, Ben Sisney, Mark Goldfeder, Mayor Giuliani, of course, and Marty Raskin, as well as Jane Raskin, the in-house counsel and one of the leading attorneys on the Mueller investigation for the defense of the President.

The issue of Mayor Giuliani has come up here in this Chamber a lot. We thought it would be appropriate now to turn to that issue, the role of the President’s lawyer, his private counsel, in this proceeding. I would like to yield my time, Mr. Chief Justice, to Jane Se-

Mr. Counsel RASKIN. Mr. Chief Justice, Majority Leader McCONNELL, Members of the Senate.

I expect you have heard American poet Carl Sandburg’s summary of the trial lawyer’s dilemma:

If the facts are against you, argue the law. If the law is against you, argue the facts. If the facts and the law are against you, pound the table and yell like hell.

Well, we have heard the House managers do some table-pounding and a little yelling, but, in the main, they have used a different tactic here, a tactic familiar to trial lawyers, though not mentioned by Mr. Sandburg. If both the law and the facts are against you, present a distraction, emphasize a sensational fact or perhaps a colorful or controversial public figure who appears on the scene, then distort certain facts, ignore others, even when they are the most probable, make conclusory statements, and insinuate the shiny object is far more important than the actual facts allow: in short, divert attention from the holes in your case.

Rudy Giuliani is the House managers’ colorful distraction. He is a is repeat what he heard through Ambassador Volker from Giuliani, whom he presumed spoke to the President on the issue. And by the way, as Mr. Pur-pura has explained, the person who was actually speaking to Mr. Giuliani, Amb-sador Volker, testified clearly that there were two communication events, one with President Zelensky and Ukrainian investigations.

The House managers also make much of a May 23 White House meeting during which the President suggested to his Ukraine working group— including Ambassadors Volker and Sondland, that they should talk to Rudy. The managers told you that President Trump gave a directive and a demand that the group needed to work with Giuliani if they wanted him to agree with the Ukraine policy they were proposing, but those words, “directive” and “demand,” are misleading. They misrepresent what the witnesses actually said.

Ambassador Volker testified that he understood, based on the meeting, that Giuliani was only one of several sources of information for the President, and the President simply wanted officials to speak to Mr. Giuliani because he mentions these things about Ukraine. As Volker put it, the President’s comment was not an instruction but just a comment. Ambassador Sondland agreed. He testified that he didn’t take it as an order, and he added that the President wasn’t even specific about what he wanted us to talk to Giuliani about.

So it may come as no surprise to you that after the May 23 meeting, the one during which the House managers told to you the President demanded that his Ukraine team talk to Giuliani, neither Volker nor Sondland even followed up with Mr. Giuliani until July, and the July followup by Mr. Volker happened only because the Ukrainian Government put it in touch with him. Volker testified that President Zelensky’s senior aide, Andriy Yermak, approached him to ask to be connected to Mr. Giuliani.

House Democrats also rely on testimony that Mayor Giuliani told Ambassadors Volker and Sondland that in his view, to be credible, a Ukrainian statement on anti-corruption should specifically mention investigations into 2016 election interference and Burisma.

But when Ambassador Volker was asked whether he knew if Giuliani was “conveying messages that President Trump wanted conveyed to the Ukrainians,” Volker said that he did not have that impression. He believed that Giuliani was doing his own communication about what he believed he was interested in.

But even more significant than the reliance on presumptions, assumptions, and unsupported conclusions is that the managers place in any fair context Mr. Giuliani’s actual role in exploring Ukrainian corruption. To hear their presentation, you might think that Mayor Giuliani had parachuted into the President’s orbit in the spring of 2019 for the express purpose of carrying out a political hit job. They would have you believe that Mayor Giuliani was only there to dig up dirt against former Vice President Biden, who evidently was the President
Trump’s rival in the 2020 election.

Of course, Mr. Giuliani’s intent is no small matter here. It is a central and essential premise of the House mangers’ case that Mr. Giuliani’s motive was, indeed, to advance the President’s political objectives. The managers taken at the President’s direction. But what evidence have the managers actually offered you to support that proposition? On close inspection, it turns out virtually none. They just say it over and over and over.

And they offer you another false dichotomy. Either Mr. Giuliani was acting in an official capacity to further President Trump’s political objectives or he was acting as the President’s personal attorney, in which case, they conclude, ipse dixit, his motive would only be to further the President’s political objectives.

The House managers point to various of Mr. Giuliani’s public statements in which he is clear and completely transparent about the fact that he is, indeed, the President’s personal attorney. There you have it. Giuliani himself explains that he is the President’s personal attorney, and therefore he had to have been acting with a political motive to influence the 2020 election.
No other option, right? Wrong. There is, of course, another obvious answer to the question, what motivated Mayor Giuliani to investigate the possible involvement of Ukrainians in the 2016 election? The House managers know what the answer is. It is in plain sight, and Mr. Giuliani has told any number of news outlets exactly when and why he became involved in the investigation.

It had nothing to do with the 2020 election. Mayor Giuliani began investigating Ukraine corruption and interference in the 2020 election way back in November of 2018—a full 6 months before Vice President Biden announced his candidacy and 4 months before the release of the Mueller report. when the biggest false conspiracy theory in circulation that the Trump campaign had colluded with Russia during the 2016 campaign was still widely circulating.

As The Hill reported: “As President
Trump’s highest profile defense attorney, the former New York City mayor, often known simply as ‘Rudy,’ believed the Ukrainians’ evidence could assist in his defense against the Russia collusion investigation and former Special Counsel Robert Mueller’s final report.”

So Giuliani began to check things out in late 2018 and early 2019.

The genesis of Mayor Giuliani’s investigation was reported by numerous other media outlets, including CNN, which related that Giuliani’s role in Ukraine could be traced back to November 2018, when he was contacted by someone he describes as a well-known investigator. The Washington Post and many other news outlets reported the same information.

So, yes, Mayor Giuliani was President Trump’s personal attorney, but he didn’t do it on a political errand. As he has stated repeatedly and publicly, he was doing what good defense attorneys do.
He was following a lead from a well-known private investigator. He was gathering evidence regarding Ukrain-ean election interference to defend his client against the false allegations being investigated by Special Counsel Mueller, but the House managers didn’t even allude to that possibility. Instead, they just repeated their mantra that Giuliani’s motive was purely political.
That speaks volumes about the bias with which they have approached their mission.

The bottom line is, Mr. Giuliani defended President Trump vigorously, repeatedly, and publicly throughout the Mueller investigation and in the non-stop congressional investigations that followed, including the attempted Mueller redo by the House Judiciary Committee, which the managers would apparently like to sneak in the back door here.

The House managers may not like his style—you may not like his style—but one might argue that he is everything Clarence Darrow said a defense lawyer ought to be: an outrage, a gadfly, a blasphemous, a rogue, a renegade. The fact is, in the end, after a 2-year siege on the Presidency, two inspector general collections, and a $32 million special counsel investigation, it turns out Rudy was spot-on.

It seems to me we are keeping score on who got it right on allegations of FISA abuse, egregious misconduct at the highest level of the FBI, alleged collusion between the Trump campaign and Russia, and supposed obstruction of justice in connection with the special counsel’s investigation. The score is Mayor Giuliani 4, Mr. SCHIFF 0. But in this trial, in this moment, Mr.
Giuliani is just a minor player—that shiny object designed to distract you.

Senators, I urge you most respectfully: Do not be distracted.

Thank you, Mr. Chief Justice.

I yield back to Mr. Sekulow.

Mr. Counsel SEKULOW. Mr. Chief Justice, Members of the Senate, and House managers, we are going to now move to a section dealing with the law. There are two issues in particular that my colleague Pat Philbin, the Deputy White House Counsel, will be addressing, issues involving due process and legal issues specifically dealing with the second Article of Impeachment: Obstruction of Congress. So I yield my time now, Mr. Chief Justice, to Mr.
Philbin.

Mr. Counsel PHILBIN. Mr. Chief Justice, Senators, Majority Leader MCCONNELL, Minority Leader SCHUMER, the other day, as we opened our presentation, I touched on two areas: some of

January 27, 2020
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE
S589
the due process violations that characterized the proceedings in the House and some of the fundamental mischaracterizations and errors that underpinned the House Democrats’ charge for obstruction. I will complete the presentation today on those points to round out the fundamentally unfair procedures that were used in the House and their implications in this proceeding before you now and also address in detail the purported charges of obstruction in the second Article of Impeachment.

On due process, there are three fundamental errors that affected the proceedings in the House. The first is, as I explained on Saturday, the impeachment inquiry was unauthorized and unconstitutional from the beginning.

No committee of the House has the power to launch an inquiry under the House’s impeachment power unless the House itself has taken a vote to give that authority to a committee. I noted that, in cases such as Rumely v. United States and United States v. Watkins, the Supreme Court has set out these principles, general principles derived from the Constitution, which assign authority to each Chamber of the legislative branch—to the House and to the Senate—but not to individual members or to subcommittees. For an authority of the House to be transferred to a committee, the House has to vote on that.

The DC Circuit has distilled the principles from those cases this way: “To issue a valid subpoena, a committee or a subcommittee must conform strictly to the resolution establishing its investigatory powers.” That was the problem here in that there was no such resolution. There was no vote from the House authorizing the issuance of subpoenas under the impeachment power. So this inquiry began with nearly two dozen invalid subpoenas. The Speaker had the House proceed on nothing more than a press conference in which she purported to authorize committees to begin an impeachment power. Under the Constitution, she lacked that authority.

As the chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, Peter Rodino, pointed out during the Nixon impeachment inquiry:

Such a resolution [from the House] has always been passed by the House. . . . It is a necessary step if we are to meet our obligation.

So we began this process with unauthorized subpoenas that imposed no compulsion on the executive branch to respond with documents or witnesses. I will be coming back to that point, that threshold foundational point, when we get to the obstruction charge.

The second fundamental due process error is that the House Democrats essentially abandoned the principles that have governed impeachment inquiries in the House for over 150 years. I will touch on just a few points and respond to a couple of points that the House managers have made.

The first is denying due process rights. The House proceedings were a huge reversal from the positions the House Democrats themselves had taken in the recent past, particularly in the Clinton impeachment proceeding.

I believe we have Manager NADLER’s description of what was required. Perhaps not. Manager NADLER was explaining that due process requires at a minimum notice of the charges against you, the right to be represented by counsel, the right to cross-examine witnesses against you, and the right to present evidence. All of those rights were denied to the President.

Now, one of the responses that the managers have made to the defect that we pointed out in the secret proceedings, where Manager SCHIFF began those hearings in the basement bunker, is that, well, that was really just best investigative practice; they were operating like a grand jury and were fooled by that. Those hearings operated nothing like a grand jury.

A grand jury has secrecy primarily for two reasons: to protect the direction of the investigation so others don’t know what’s being called in and what they are saying—to keep that secret for the prosecutor to be able to keep developing the evidence—and to protect the accused because the accused might not ever be indicted.

In this case, all of that information was made public every day. The House Democrats destroyed any legitimate analogy to a grand jury, because that was all public. They made no secret that the President was the target. They issued vase calumnies about him every day. They didn’t keep the direction of their investigation secret. Their witness lists were published daily, and the direction of the investigation was open. The testimony that took place was selectively leaked to a compliant media to establish a false narrative about the President.

If that sort of conduct had occurred in a real grand jury, that would have been a criminal violation. Prosecutors cannot conduct a trial in secret for Federal criminal rules, it is a criminal offense to be leaking what takes place in a grand jury.

Also, the grand jury explanation provides no rationale whatsoever for this second round of hearings. Remember, after the basement bunker—after the secret hearings where the testimony was prescreened—then the same witnesses who had already been deposed were put on in a public hearing where the President was still excluded.

Ask yourself, what was the reason for that? In every prior Presidential impeachment in the modern era where there have been public hearings, the President has been represented by counsel and could cross-examine witnesses. Why did there have to be public, televised hearings where the President was excluded? That was nothing more than a show to make the President blocked out of any hearings for 71 of the 78 days of the so-called investigation?
I would submit because their process was never about finding truth. Their process was about achieving a predetermined outcome on a timetable and having it done by Christmas, and that is what they achieved.

Now, the third elemental due process error is that the whole foundation of these proceedings was also tainted beyond repair because an interested fact witness supervised and limited the course of the factual discovery, the course of the hearings. I explained the other day that Manager SCHIFF said, for a reason, potentially, because of his office’s contact with the so-called whistleblower and what was discussed and how the complaint was framed, which all remained secret, to limit inquiry into that, which is relevant.

The whistleblower began this whole process. His bias, his motive, why he was doing it, what his sources were—that is relevant to understand what generated this whole process, but there was nothing there.

So what conclusion does this all lead to—all of these due process errors that have infected the proceeding up to now?

I think it is important to recognize the right conclusion is not that this body, this Chamber, should try to redo everything—to start bringing in new evidence, bring in witnesses because the President wasn’t allowed witnesses below and redo the whole process. And that is not what we want.

One is, first, as my colleagues have demonstrated, despite the one-sided, unfair process in the House, the record that the House Democrats collected through that process already shows that the President did nothing wrong. It already exonerates the President.

But the second and more important reason is because of the institutional implications it would have for this Chamber. Whatever precedent is set, whatever the Chamber accepts now as a permissible way to bring an impeachment proceeding and to bring it to this Chamber becomes the new normal. And if the new normal is going to be that there can be an impeachment proceeding in the House that violates due process, that doesn’t provide the President or another official being impeached due process rights, that fails to conduct a thorough investigation, that doesn’t come here with facts established, then that becomes the investigatory body and start redoing what the House didn’t do and finding new witnesses and doing things over and getting new evidence, then, that is going to be the new normal, and that will be the way in which this Chamber has a judicial function, and there will be a lot more impeachments coming because it is a lot easier to do an impeachment if you don’t have to follow due process and then come here and expect the Senate to do the work that the House didn’t do.

I submit that is not the constitutional function of this Chamber sitting as a Court of Impeachment, and this Chamber should not put its imprimatur on a process in the House that would force this Chamber to take on that role.

Now, I will move on to the charge of obstruction in the second Article of Impeachment.

Accepting that Article of Impeachment would fundamentally damage separation of powers under the Constitution by permanently altering the relationship between the executive and the legislative branches. As President SCHIFF pointed out in his opening argument, the second Article, House Democrats are trying to impeach the President for resisting legally defective demands for information by asserting established legal defenses and immunities based on legal advice from the Department of Justice’s Office of Legal Counsel. In essence, the approach here is that House Democrats are saying: When we demand documents, the executive branch must comply immediately, and the assertions of privilege or defenses to our subpoenas are further evidence of obstruction. We don’t have to go through the constitutionally mandated accommodations process to work out an acceptable solution with the executive branch. We don’t have to go to the courts to establish the validity of our subpoenas.

At one point, Manager SCHIFF said that anything that makes the House even contemplate litigation is evidence of obstruction. Instead, the House claims it can jump straight to impeachment.

What this really means, in this case, is that they are saying for the President to defend the prerogatives of his office, to defend the constitutionally grounded principles of executive branch privileges of immunities is an impeachable offense.

If this Chamber accepts that premise, that what has been asserted here constitutes an impeachable offense, it will forever damage the separation of powers. It will undermine the independence of the executive and destroy the bounds between the legislative and executive branches that the Framers crafted in the Constitution.

As Professor Turley testified before the House Judiciary Committee, “basically, impeachment on this obstruction theory would itself be an abuse of power . . . by Congress.”

And I would like to go through that in a little more detail and explain why, if my hypothesis is not correct, I will start by outlining what the Trump administration actually did in response to subpoenas, because there are three different actions—three different legally based assertions for resisting different subpoenas that the Trump administration made.

I pointed out on Saturday that there has been this constant refrain from the House Democrats that there was just blanket defiance, blanket obstruction, as if it were unexplained obstruction—just, we won’t cooperate with that. That is not true. There were very specific legal grounds provided, and each one was supported by an opinion from the Department of Justice’s Office of Legal Counsel.

So the first is executive branch officials declined to comply with subpoenas that had not been authorized, and that is the point I made at the beginning. There was no delegation of power to the House. Without a vote from the House, the subpoenas that were issued were not authorized. And I pointed out that in an October 18 letter from White House Counsel that specific ground was explained: The letter was not just from the White House counsel. There were other letters. On the screen now is an October 15 letter from OMB, which explains:

Absent a delegation by a House rule or a resolution of the House, none of your committees have been delegated jurisdiction to conduct an investigation pursuant to the impeachment power under article I, section 2 of the Constitution.

The letter went on to explain that legal rationale—not blanket defiance. There were specific exchanges of letters explaining these legal grounds for resisting.

The second ground, the second principle that the Trump administration was that was asserted was that the subpoenas purported to require the President’s senior advisers, his close Advisers, to testify.

Following at least 50 years of precedent, the Department of Justice’s Office of Legal Counsel advised that three senior advisers to the President—the Acting White House Chief of Staff, the Legal Advisor to the National Security Council, and the Deputy National Security Advisor—were absolutely immune from compelled congressional testimony. And based on that advice from the Office of Legal Counsel, the President directed those advisers not to testify.

Administrations of both political parties have asserted this immunity since the 1970s. President Obama asserted it as to the Director of the Office of Political Strategy and Outreach. President George W. Bush asserted it as to his former counsel and to his White House Chief of Staff. President Clinton asserted it as to two of his counsel. President Reagan asserted it as to his counsel, Fred Fielding, and President Nixon asserted it. This is not something that was just made up recently. There is a decades-long history of the Department of Justice providing the opinion that senior advisors to the President are immune from compelled congressional testimony, and it is the same principle that was asserted here.

Now, there are important rationales behind this immunity. One is that the President’s most senior advisers are essentially his alter egos, and allowing Congress to subpoena them and compel them to come testify would be tantamount to allowing Congress to subpoena the President himself and force him to come testify, but that in separation of powers would not be tolerated. Congress could no more do that with the President than the President could force Members of Congress to come to the White House and answer to him. There is also a second and important rationale behind this immunity, and that relates to executive privilege. The immunity protects the same interests that underlie executive privilege. The Supreme Court has recognized executive privilege that protects the confidentiality of the communications with the President and deliberations within the executive branch. As the Court put it in United States v. Nixon, "The privilege is fundamental to the operation of government and inextricably rooted in the separation of powers under the Constitution." So the Supreme Court has recognized the executive needs this privilege to be able to function. It is rooted in the separation of powers.

As Attorney General Janet Reno advised President Clinton, this is not a partisan issue. This is not a Republican or Democrat issue. Administrations of both parties have asserted this principle of immunity for senior advisers.

And why does it matter? It matters because the Supreme Court has explained that the fundamental principle behind executive privilege is that it is necessary confidentiality in communications and deliberations in order to have good and worthwhile deliberations, in order to have people provide their candid advice to the President. Because if they knew that what they were going to say was going to be on the front page of the Washington Post the next day or the next week, they wouldn’t tell the President what they actually thought. If you want to have good decision making, there has to be some confidentiality.

This is the way the Supreme Court put it: “Human experience teaches that those who expect public dissemination of their remarks may well temper candor with a concern for appearances and for their own interests to the detriment of the decision-making process.” That was also from United States v. Nixon.

So those are exactly the interests that are protected by having senior advisers to the President be immune from compelled congressional testimony. Because once someone is compelled to sit in the witness seat and start answering, it is very hard for them to protect that privilege, to make sure that they don’t start revealing something that was discussed.

For a small circle of those close to the President, for the past 40 to 50 years, administrations of both parties have insisted on this principle.

Now, the other night, House managers, when we were here very late last week, suggested that executive privilege was a distraction, and Manager NADLER called it "nonsense." Not at all—it is a principle recognized by the Supreme Court—a constitutional principle grounded in separation of powers.

They also asserted that this immunity has been rejected by every court that has addressed it, as if to make it seem that lots of courts have addressed this. They have all said that this theory just doesn’t fly. That is not accurate. That is not true.

In fact, in most instances, once the President asserts immunity for a senior adviser, the accommodations process between the executive branch and the legislature begins, and there is usually some compromise to allow, perhaps, some testimony, not in open hearing but in a closed hearing or a deposition, perhaps to provide some other information instead of live testimony. There are limits.

But in the only two times it has been litigated, district courts, it is true, rejected the immunity. One was in a case involving former counsel to George W. Bush, Harriet Miers. The district court rejected the immunity immediately upon appeal, the Court of Appeals of the DC Circuit stayed that decision. And that decision means—to stay that district court decision—that the appellate court thought there was a likelihood of success on appeal, that the executive branch might succeed, or, at a minimum, that the issue of immunity presented “questions going to the merits, so substantial, difficult, and doubtful as to make them a fair ground for litigation.” The first decision was stayed.

The second district court decision is still being litigated right now. It is the McGahn case that the House has brought, trying to get testimony from former counsel to President Trump, Donald McGahn. That case was just argued in the DC Circuit on January 3. So there is no established law suggesting that this immunity somehow has been rejected by the court. It is still being litigated right now. It is an immunity that is a standard principle asserted by every administration in both parties for the past 40 years. Asserting that principle cannot be treated as obstruction of Congress.

The third action that the President took—the second action—related to the fact that House Democrats’ subpoenas tried to shut out executive branch counsel, agency counsel from the depositions of executive branch employees. Now, the Office of Legal Counsel concluded that congressional committees may not bar agency counsel from assisting an executive branch witness without contravening the legitimate prerogatives of the executive branch and that attempting to enforce a subpoena while barring agency counsel would be "unconstitutional."

The President relied on that legal advice here. As Judge Starr pointed out, the President was consulting with the Department of Justice, receiving advice from the very respected Office of Legal Counsel, and following that advice about the constitutional prerogatives of his office and the constitutional prerogatives of the executive branch. Again, although both political parties have recognized the important role that agency counsel plays.

In the Obama administration, the Office of Legal Counsel stated that the privilege of agency counsel could potentially undermine the President’s constitutional authority to consider and assert executive privilege where appropriate.

So why is agency counsel important? As I explained, the executive privilege of confidentiality for communications with the President for internal deliberative communications of the executive branch—are important legal rights. They are necessary for the proper functioning of the executive branch, and the agency counsel is essential to protect those legal rights.

When an individual employee goes in to testify, he or she might not know—probably would not know—that he or she is covered by executive privilege or deliberative process privilege—not things the employees necessarily know, and their personal counsel, even if they are permitted to have their personal counsel with them—so that personal attorney for employees don’t know the finer points of executive branch confidentiality interests or deliberative process privilege. It is also not their job to protect those interests. They are the personal lawyer for the employee who is testifying, trying to protect that employee from potential legal consequences.

We usually have lawyers to protect legal rights, so it makes sense when there is an important legal and constitutionally based right at stake—the executive privilege—that there should be a lawyer there to protect that right for the executive branch, and that is the principle that the Office of Legal Counsel enjoys.

This also doesn’t raise any insurmountable problems for congressional investigations for finding information. In fact, just as recently as April of 2019, the House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform asked accommodation with the Trump administration after the administration had declined to make someone available for a deposition because of the lack of agency counsel. That issue was worked out and accommodation was made, and there was some testimony provided in other circumstances. So it doesn’t always result in the kind of escalation that was seen here—straight to impeachment. The accommodation process can work things out.

House Democrats have pointed to a House rule that excludes agency counsel, but, of course, that House rule cannot override a constitutional privilege.
So those are the three principles that the Trump administration asserted. Now I would like to turn to the claim that somehow the assertion of these principles created an impeachable offense.

The idea that asserting defenses and immunity—legal defenses and immunity in response to subpoenas, acting on advice of the Department of Justice—is an impeachable offense is absurd and is dangerous for our government. Let me explain why.

How obstruction theory is wrong first and foremost because, in a government of laws, asserting privileges and rights to resist compulsion is not obstruction; it is a fundamental right. In Bordenkircher v. Hayes, the Supreme Court explains that to “punish a person because he has done what the law plainly allows him to do is a due process violation of the most basic sort, and for an agent of the State to pursue a course of action whose objective is to penalize a person’s reliance on his legal rights is patently unconstitutional.”

This is a principle that in the past, in the Clinton impeachment, was recognized across the board, that it would be improper to suggest that asserting rights is an impeachable offense. Harvard law professor Laurence Tribe said: “The allegation that invoking privileges and otherwise using the judicial system to shield information… is an abuse of power that should lead to impeachment and removal from office is not only frivolous, but also dangerous.”

Manager NADLER said that the use of a legal privilege is not illegal or impeachable itself—a legal privilege, executive privilege. Minority Leader SCHUMER, in the Clinton impeachment, expressed the same view:

(Text of Videotape presentation:)

Mr. SCHUMER. To suggest that any subject of an investigation, much less the President of the United States, is abusing power and interfering with an investigation by making legitimate legal claims, using due process and asserting constitutional rights, is beyond serious consideration.

Mr. Counsel PHILBIN. That was exactly correct then and it is exactly correct now.

More important than simply the principle that asserting rights can’t be considered obstruction, when the rights the President has asserted are based on executive privilege, when they are constitutionally grounded principles that are essential for the separation of powers and for protecting the integrity of the presidency, it is abusing power and interfering with the investigation to call that obstruction is to turn the Constitution on its head. Defending the separation of powers cannot be deemed an impeachable offense without destroying the Constitution. Accepting that approach would do permanent damage to the separation of powers and would allow the House of Representatives to turn any disagreement with the Executive over information demands into a supposed basis for removing the President from office.

It would effectively create for us the very parliamentary system that the Framers sought to avoid because, by making any demand for information and goading the Executive to a refusal and treating the refusal as impeachable, the House would effectively be able to function with a no-confidence vote power. That is not the Framers’ design. The legislative and executive branches frequently clash on questions over information, including about congressional demands for information. These conflicts have happened since the founding.

In 1796, George Washington, our first President, resisted demands from Congress for information about the negotiation of the Jay Treaty, and there have been conflicts between the Executive and the Congress in virtually every administration since then about congressional demands for information.

The Founding Fathers expected the branches to have these conflicts. James Madison pointed out that “the legislative, executive, and judicial departments… must, in the exercise of its own amendment of the Constitution according to its own interpretation of it.” It was recognized that there would be friction. Similarly in Federalist 51, Madison pointed out that “the great security against a gradual evaporation of the powers in the same department consists in giving to those who administer each department the necessary constitutional means and personal motives to resist encroachment of the others.” This is checks and balances, this friction, this clashing between the branches. It is not evidence of an impeachable offense. It is the separation of powers in its practical operation. It is part of the constitutional design.

Executive must be free to resist claims to its powers. Madison accepted the view that these disagreements have been resolved is through the constitutionally mandated accommodation process. Courts have explained that the branches are required to engage in an accommodation process to resolve disagreements where there is a clash over a demand for information.

As the DC Circuit has explained, when Congress asks for information from the executive branch that triggers “an implicit constitutional mandate to their optimal accommodation of the needs of the conflicting branches,” the goal is to accommodate the needs of both branches to reach a compromise.

If that accommodation process fails, Congress has other tools at its disposal to address the problem. The House traditionally has proceeded to contempt—to vote on a contempt resolution. In recent times, the House has taken the position that it may sue in the courts to determine the validity of its subpoena and secure an injunction to enforce them.

The House managers have pointed out that the Trump administration, when sued in the McGahn case, has taken the view that those cases are not justiciable in article III courts. That is correct. That is the view of the Trump administration; that was the view of the Obama administration. So there is that resistance in that court cases to the jurisdiction of the court. They have resisted and goading the Executive to a refusal making any demand for information, the House becomes supreme. There is no need for them to go to court. The House has the power; the courts have no power; the House is the final word. That is the view of the Trump administration. If you claim that our subpoena is invalid, we don’t have to do anything to address that concern; we will just impeach you because resistance is obstruction of Congress.

The House put it this way in their report to the Judiciary Committee. They effectively said that the House is the judge of its own powers, because what they said was “the Constitution gives the House the final word.” That is on page 154 of the House Judiciary Committee report.

What that is essentially saying—they point to the fact that article I, section 2, gives the House “the sole Power of Impeachment,” and they claim because it has the sole power of impeachment, the courts have no role; the House is the final word; it is the judge of its own powers. But that is contrary to constitutional design. There is no power that is unchecked in the Constitution. There is no power that is given to the House simply means that power is given solely to the House, not anywhere else.
The Constitution does not say that the power of impeachment is the paramount power that makes all other constitutional rights and privileges and prerogatives of the other branches fall away. The Framers recognized that there could be partisan impeachments and there could be impeachments for the wrong reasons, and they did not strip the executive branch of any of its needs for protecting its own sphere of authority and its own prerogatives unless the Constitution. Those principles of executive privilege and those immunities still survive, even in the context of impeachment.

The power of impeachment is not like the House can simply flip a switch and say now we are in impeachment, and they have constitutional kryptonite that makes the powers of the executive eliminated. So when there are these conflicts, even in the context of impeachment inquiry, the executive branch has to assert its privileges and prerogatives under the Constitution, and, indeed, it must in order to protect the institutional interests of the Office of the Presidency and to preserve the proper balance between the branches of government.

Professor Turley, rightly, pointed out that by claiming Congress can demand any testimony or documents and impeach any President who dares to go to the courts, House Democrats were advancing a position that was intolerable and abusive of impeachment. Other scholars agree.

In the Clinton impeachment, Professor Susan Low Bloch testified that “impeaching a President for invoking lawful privileges is a dangerous and ominous precedent.” It would achieve exactly the result that Gouverneur Morris, one of the Framers, warned against at the Constitutional Convention. He explained that “when we make him (referring to the President) answerable to Justice however we should take care to provide some mode that will not make him dependent on the Legislature.”

That is exactly what this Article of Impeachment would do. It would make the President dependent on the legislation because any demand for information, be it by Congress, could be used as a threat of impeachment to enforce compliance by the executive. The very theory of the House Democrats has asserted is that there can be no assertions of privileges and no constitutionally based prerogatives of the Executive to stand in the way.

If that theory were true, virtually every President could have been impeached. Virtually every President has asserted, at one time or another, these constitutional prerogatives. President Obama famously, in the Fast and Furious investigation, refused to turn over documents that led to his Attorney General having to testify in contempt, and that didn’t lead to impeachment. It could be a long list. Professor Turley testified there could be a very long list of Presidents who would have to be distinguished if the principles being asserted now in this case were applied to all past Presidents in history.

Now, House Democrats have given a few different justifications for this approach, but they can be reconciled with the Constitution. They say that if we cannot impeach the President for this obstruction, then the President is above the law. Not so. I think I pointed out that the President is still subject to the law, and relying on the legal advice from the Department of Justice to make his arguments based on long-recognized constitutional principles, and, indeed, is making the fundamental point, with respect to the subpoenas, that it is Congress that is not above the law. It is the House. The House has to follow the law as well. It has to issue valid subpoenas. And if the law isn’t followed, those subpoenas are null and void, and the Executive doesn’t have to comply with them.

The House Democrats say that they shouldn’t go to the courts because the courts have no role in impeachment. I think I pointed out that the House Democrats can’t say that they have the sole power of impeachment, that it is a paramount power, and that no other branch plays any role in providing a check on how the power is exercised. And in addition, the House Democrats are saying the courts.

In the McGahn case that they are litigating right now, they have asserted that is part of the impeachment inquiry. The Trump administration has explained that it was not validly part of the impeachment inquiry, but that is the ground on which they are litigation under.

They say that they have no time for the courts. I think what that really means is they have no time for the rule of law, the rule of law, which is one of the core principles in our country. The other day, one of the House managers actually said on the floor of the Senate that they had to get it moving. They couldn’t wait for litigation. They had to impeach the President before the election. That is not a valid reason to not pursue litigation in the courts.

I think it is relevant to bear in mind what sort of delay are we talking about? In the McGahn case that I alluded to, it was the House managers that didn’t file a lawsuit until August. By November—November 25—they had a decision from the district court, and it was appealed on appeal in the DC Circuit on January 3. For litigation, that is pretty fast, and it can go faster.

In the Nixon case, during Watergate, the special prosecutor to cover a subpoena on April 18, 1974. On May 20—so in less than a month—the district court denied a motion to quash the subpoena. On May 31, the Supreme Court agreed to hear the case, granting cert before judgment in the Court of Appeals, and on July 24, the Supreme Court issued the decision. That is lightning fast.

So when there is urgency to the case, when there is a need to move, there can be expedition in the courts, and a decision can be had in a timely manner.

In the one case that actually arose from these impeachment proceedings, it was the House that derailed the case. There was the case involving Deputy National Security Advisor Charlie Kupperman, because when he received a subpoena, he went to court and asked the court for a declaratory judgment explaining what his obligations were: Should he take the directive from the President that he was immune and not go or should he obey the subpoena? Now, in that case, he filed suit on October 25. The court, within a few days, set an expedited briefing schedule, but the House withdrew the subpoena on November 5, just 11 days later, in order to moot the case.

So I think litigation is a viable avenue, along with the accommodation process, as a first step. Then, if the House believes it can go to court and win, then it can litigate the law and litigate the validity of its subpoenas, that is also available to them, but impeachment as the first step doesn’t make any sense.

I should point out, in part, when the House managers say they didn’t have time to litigate, they didn’t have time to go to the courts, but they now come to this Chamber and say this Chamber should issue some more subpoenas, this Chamber should get some witnesses that we didn’t bother to fight about, what do you think will happen then? That there will not be similar assertions of privilege and immunity? That there wouldn’t be litigation about that?

Then, this goes back to the point that I made. If you put your imprimatur on a process that was broken and say, yes, that was a great way to run things, this was a great package to bring here, and we will clean up the mess and issue subpoenas and try to do all the work that wasn’t done, then that becomes the new normal, and that doesn’t make sense for this body.

A proper way to have things handled is to have the House—if it wants to have impeachment here ready for trial—do the investigation. The information it wants to get, if there is going to be resistance, that has to be resolved, and it has to be ready to proceed, not transfer the responsibility to this Chamber to do the work that has been done.

They also assert that President Trump’s assertion of these privileges is somehow different because it is unprecedented, and it is categorical. Well, it is unprecedented, perhaps, in the sense that there was a broad statement that a lot of subpoenas wouldn’t be complied with, but that is because it was unprecedented for the House to begin these proceedings without voting to authorize the committee to issue the subpoenas. That was the first unprecedented step. That is what had never happened before in history. So, of course, the response to that would be, in some sense, unprecedented. The President simply pointed out that without that vote, there were no valid subpoenas.

There have also been categorical rejections in the past. President Truman, when he had a Committee on American Activities, in 1948, issued subpoenas to his administration, issued a directive to the entire executive branch that any subpoena or demand or request for information, reports, or files in the nature described in those subpoenas shall be respectfully declined on the basis of this directive, and he referred also to inquiries of the Office of the President for such response as the President may determine to be in the public interest. The Truman administration responded to none of them.

A last point on the House Democrats’ claim that privileges simply disappear because this is impeachment power of the House. They have referred a number of times to United States v. Nixon. The Supreme Court decision, suggesting that that somehow determines that when you are in an impeachment inquiry, executive privilege falls away. That is not true. In fact, United States v. Nixon did not in any way involve a congressional subpoena. It was a subpoena from the special prosecutor, and even in that context, the Court did not state that executive privilege simply disappears. Instead, the Court said: “It is necessary to resolve these competing interests”—they are the interests of the judicial branch in administering a criminal prosecution in a case where the evidence was needed—“these competing interests in a manner that preserves the essential functions of each branch—foreign relations and national security matters. And it even held out the possibility that in the field of foreign relations and national security, there might be something approaching an absolute executive privilege. That is exactly the field we are in, in this case—foreign relations and national security matters.

Another thing you have heard is that President Clinton voluntarily cooperated with the investigation that led to his articles. We have produced tens of thousands of documents. That is not really accurate. That was only after long litigation again and again about assertions of privilege. He asserted numerous privileges. The House Judiciary Committee then explained “during the Lewinsky investigation that senior advisers to receive candid advice and information from their top aides—privileged.” And he referred also to inquiries of the Office of the President for such response as the President may determine to be in the public interest. The Truman administration responded to none of them.

Unlike the House in this case, Independent Counsel Starr first negotiated with the White House. And then I sat down with his aides and got them to resolve. Ultimately, the House managers argued that all of the problems with their obstruction theory should be brushed aside and the President’s assertions of immunities and defenses have to be treated as something nefarious because, as Mr. NADLER said: “It is our abuse of power through repeated privilege assertions of executive privilege by at least five of his aides.”

The Framers recognized that there would be partisan illegitimate impeachments. In Federalist No. 65, Hamilton and Madison forewarned about impeachments that reflected what he called “the persecution of an impeachable officer or designating majority in the House of Representatives.” That is exactly what this case presents.

Justice Story recognized that the Senate provides the proper tribunal for trying impeachments because it was believed by the Framers to have a greater sense of obligation to the future, to future generations, not to be swayed by the passions of the moment.

One of the essential questions here is, Will the Chamber adopt a standard for impeachment—a diluted standard—because that fundamentally disrupts, damages, and alters the separation of powers in our constitutional structure of government? Because that is what both the first article—for reasons that Judge Starr and Professor Dershowitz have covered—and the second article, the obstruction charge, would do.

I will close with a quotation from one of the Republican Senators who crossed the aisle and voted against convicting President Andrew Johnson during his impeachment trial. It was Lyman Trumbull who I think explained the great principle that applies here. He said:

“One [we] set the example of impeaching a President for what, when the excitement of the hour shall have subsided, as insufficient causes, no future President will be safe . . . and what then becomes of the checks and balances of the constitution, so carefully devised and so vital to its perpetuity? They are all gone.

Thank you, Mr. Chief Justice.

I will yield to Mr. Sekulow.

Mr. Counsel SEKULOW, Mr. Chief Justice, Members of the Committee, House managers, Mr. Philbin just concluded on the importance of executive privilege.

Professor Turley, who testified before the House, said we have three branches of government, not two. If you impeach a President, if you make a high crime and misdemeanor out of going to court, it is an abuse of power. It is your abuse of power.

With regard to executive privilege, it was Mr. NADLER who called it “executive privilege and other nonsense.”

When Attorney General Holder refused to comply with subpoenas, President Obama invoked executive privilege, arguing “compelled disclosure would be inconsistent with the separation of powers established in the Constitution”—“executive privilege and other nonsense.”

Manager SCHIFF wrote that the White House assertion of executive privilege is based on a precedent that has been recognized and has recognized the need for the President and his senior advisors to receive candid advice and information from their top aides—executive privilege and other nonsense.

We talked about this the other night. The nonsense is to treat the separation of powers and constitutional privileges as if they are asbestos in the ceiling tiles. You can’t touch them. That is not the way the Constitution is designed.

We are going to now turn our attention to a separate topic. It is one that... has been a lot on the floor here and will be discussed now.

Presenting for the President is the former attorney general for the State of Florida, Pam Bondi. She is also a career prosecutor. She has handled countless cases. I yield my time to Tom Cotton.

Senator Cotton, you are going to discuss an issue that the House managers have put pretty much at the center of their case, and that is the issue of corruption in Ukraine, particularly with regard to a company known as Burisma.

Mr. Chief Justice, Senators, Members of the Senate, when the House managers gave you their presentation, when they submitted their brief, they repeatedly referenced Hunter Biden and Burisma.

They spoke to you for over 21 hours, and they referenced Biden or Burisma over 400 times. And when they gave these presentations, they said there was nothing—nothing—to see. It was a sham.

In their trial memorandum, the House managers described this as baseless. Why did they say that? Why did they invoke Biden or Burisma over 400 times? The reason they needed to do that is because they are here saying that the President must be impeached and removed from office for raising a concern, and that is why we have to talk about this today.

They say sham. They say baseless. They say this because if it is OK for someone to say, “hey, you know what, maybe there is something here worth raising,” then, their case crumbles.

They have to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that there is no basis to raise this concern, but that is not what public records show.

Here are just a few of the public sources that flagged questions surrounding this very same issue. The United Kingdom’s Serious Fraud Office, the United Kingdom’s Serious Fraud Office opened a money laundering investigation into the oligarch, Zlochevsky, and the company Burisma. The very next month, April 2014, according to a public report, Hunter Biden quietly joins the board of Burisma.

Remember, early 2014 was when Vice President Biden began leading Ukraine policy. Hunter Biden came to join Burisma’s board in 2014. He was brought on the board by Devon Archer, his business partner. Devon Archer was college roommates with Chris Heinz, the stepson of Secretary of State John Kerry. All three men—Hunter Biden, Devon Archer, and Chris Heinz—had all started an investment firm together.

Public records show that on April 16, 2014, Devon Archer meets with Vice President Biden at the White House. Just 2 days later, on April 18, 2014, Hunter Biden quietly joins Burisma. That is according to public reporting.

Remember, this is just 1 month after the United Kingdom’s Serious Fraud Office opened a money laundering case into Burisma, and Hunter Biden joins their board.

And not only 10 days after Hunter Biden joins the board, British authorities seized $33 million in British bank accounts connected to the oligarch, Zlochevsky, and the company Burisma. Did Hunter Biden leave the board then? No. The British authorities also announced that they had started a criminal investigation into potential money laundering. Did Hunter Biden leave the board? No.

What happened was, then—and only then—did the company chose to announce that Hunter Biden had joined the board after the assets of Burisma and its oligarch owner, Zlochevsky, were frozen. And the criminal investigation had begun. Hunter Biden’s decision to join Burisma raised flags almost immediately.

One article from May 2014 stated that, “the appointment of Joe Biden’s son to the board of the Ukrainian gas firm Burisma has raised eyebrows world over.”

Even an outlet with bias for Democrats pointed out Hunter Biden’s activities created a conflict of interest for Joe Biden. The article stated: “The move raises questions about a potential conflict of interest for Joe Biden.”

Even Chris Heinz, Hunter Biden’s own business partner, had grave concerns. He thought that working with Burisma was unacceptable. This is Chris Heinz. He was worried about the corruption, the geopolitical risk, and how bad it would look. So he wisely advised Hunter Biden and Devon Archer’s appointments to Burisma.

He didn’t simply call his stepfather, the Secretary of State, and say: I have a problem with this. He didn’t tell his friends today Hey, guys, I am not getting on the board. I want nothing to do with this.

He went so far as to send an email to senior State Department officials about this issue. This is Chris Heinz. He wrote:

Apparantly, Devon and Hunter have joined the board of Burisma, and a press release went out today. I can’t speak [to] why they decided to, but there is no investment by our firm in their company.

What did Hunter Biden do? He stayed on the board. What did Chris Heinz do? He subsequently stopped doing business with his college roommate Devon Ar-cher and his friend Hunter Biden. Chris Heinz’ spokesperson said the lack of judgment in this matter was a major catalyst for Mr. Heinz ending his business relationship with Mr. Archer and Mr. Biden.

Now, the media also noticed. The same day, an ABC News reporter asked Obama White House Press Secretary Jay Carney about it. Here is what happened.

(Text of Videotape presentation)

One article from May 2014 stated that, “the appointment of Joe Biden’s son to the board of the Ukrainian gas firm Burisma has raised eyebrows world over.”

Even an outlet with bias for Demo-crats pointed out Hunter Biden’s activities created a conflict of interest for Joe Biden. The article stated: “The move raises questions about a potential conflict of interest for Joe Biden.”

Even Chris Heinz, Hunter Biden’s own business partner, had grave concerns. He thought that working with Burisma was unacceptable. This is Chris Heinz. He was worried about the corruption, the geopolitical risk, and how bad it would look. So he wisely advised Hunter Biden and Devon Archer’s appointments to Burisma.

He didn’t simply call his stepfather, the Secretary of State, and say: I have a problem with this. He didn’t tell his friends today Hey, guys, I am not getting on the board. I want nothing to do with this.

He went so far as to send an email to senior State Department officials about this issue. This is Chris Heinz. He wrote:

Apparantly, Devon and Hunter have joined the board of Burisma, and a press release went out today. I can’t speak [to] why they decided to, but there is no investment by our firm in their company.

What did Hunter Biden do? He stayed on the board. What did Chris Heinz do? He subsequently stopped doing business with his college roommate Devon Archer and his friend Hunter Biden. Chris Heinz’ spokesperson said the lack of judgment in this matter was a major catalyst for Mr. Heinz ending his business relationship with Mr. Archer and Mr. Biden.

Now, the media also noticed. The same day, an ABC News reporter asked Obama White House Press Secretary Jay Carney about it. Here is what happened.

(Text of Videotape presentation)

One article from May 2014 stated that, “the appointment of Joe Biden’s son to the board of the Ukrainian gas firm Burisma has raised eyebrows world over.”

Even an outlet with bias for Democrats pointed out Hunter Biden’s activities created a conflict of interest for Joe Biden. The article stated: “The move raises questions about a potential conflict of interest for Joe Biden.”

Even Chris Heinz, Hunter Biden’s own business partner, had grave concerns. He thought that working with Burisma was unacceptable. This is Chris Heinz. He was worried about the corruption, the geopolitical risk, and how bad it would look. So he wisely advised Hunter Biden and Devon Archer’s appointments to Burisma.

He didn’t simply call his stepfather, the Secretary of State, and say: I have a problem with this. He didn’t tell his friends today Hey, guys, I am not getting on the board. I want nothing to do with this.

He went so far as to send an email to senior State Department officials about this issue. This is Chris Heinz. He wrote:

Apparantly, Devon and Hunter have joined the board of Burisma, and a press release went out today. I can’t speak [to] why they decided to, but there is no investment by our firm in their company.

What did Hunter Biden do? He stayed on the board. What did Chris Heinz do? He subsequently stopped doing business with his college roommate Devon Archer and his friend Hunter Biden. Chris Heinz’ spokesperson said the lack of judgment in this matter was a major catalyst for Mr. Heinz ending his business relationship with Mr. Archer and Mr. Biden.

Now, the media also noticed. The same day, an ABC News reporter asked Obama White House Press Secretary Jay Carney about it. Here is what happened.

(Text of Videotape presentation)

One article from May 2014 stated that, “the appointment of Joe Biden’s son to the board of the Ukrainian gas firm Burisma has raised eyebrows world over.”

Even an outlet with bias for Democrats pointed out Hunter Biden’s activities created a conflict of interest for Joe Biden. The article stated: “The move raises questions about a potential conflict of interest for Joe Biden.”

Even Chris Heinz, Hunter Biden’s own business partner, had grave concerns. He thought that working with Burisma was unacceptable. This is Chris Heinz. He was worried about the corruption, the geopolitical risk, and how bad it would look. So he wisely advised Hunter Biden and Devon Archer’s appointments to Burisma.

He didn’t simply call his stepfather, the Secretary of State, and say: I have a problem with this. He didn’t tell his friends today Hey, guys, I am not getting on the board. I want nothing to do with this.

He went so far as to send an email to senior State Department officials about this issue. This is Chris Heinz. He wrote:

Apparantly, Devon and Hunter have joined the board of Burisma, and a press release went out today. I can’t speak [to] why they decided to, but there is no investment by our firm in their company.

What did Hunter Biden do? He stayed on the board. What did Chris Heinz do? He subsequently stopped doing business with his college roommate Devon Archer and his friend Hunter Biden. Chris Heinz’ spokesperson said the lack of judgment in this matter was a major catalyst for Mr. Heinz ending his business relationship with Mr. Archer and Mr. Biden.

Now, the media also noticed. The same day, an ABC News reporter asked Obama White House Press Secretary Jay Carney about it. Here is what happened.

(Text of Videotape presentation)

One article from May 2014 stated that, “the appointment of Joe Biden’s son to the board of the Ukrainian gas firm Burisma has raised eyebrows world over.”

Even an outlet with bias for Democrats pointed out Hunter Biden’s activities created a conflict of interest for Joe Biden. The article stated: “The move raises questions about a potential conflict of interest for Joe Biden.”

Even Chris Heinz, Hunter Biden’s own business partner, had grave concerns. He thought that working with Burisma was unacceptable. This is Chris Heinz. He was worried about the corruption, the geopolitical risk, and how bad it would look. So he wisely advised Hunter Biden and Devon Archer’s appointments to Burisma.

He didn’t simply call his stepfather, the Secretary of State, and say: I have a problem with this. He didn’t tell his friends today Hey, guys, I am not getting on the board. I want nothing to do with this.

He went so far as to send an email to senior State Department officials about this issue. This is Chris Heinz. He wrote:

Apparantly, Devon and Hunter have joined the board of Burisma, and a press release went out today. I can’t speak [to] why they decided to, but there is no investment by our firm in their company.

What did Hunter Biden do? He stayed on the board. What did Chris Heinz do? He subsequently stopped doing business with his college roommate Devon Archer and his friend Hunter Biden. Chris Heinz’ spokesperson said the lack of judgment in this matter was a major catalyst for Mr. Heinz ending his business relationship with Mr. Archer and Mr. Biden.

Now, the media also noticed. The same day, an ABC News reporter asked Obama White House Press Secretary Jay Carney about it. Here is what happened.

(Text of Videotape presentation)
When speaking with ABC News about his qualifications to be on Burisma's board, Hunter Biden didn't point to any of the usual qualifications of a board member. Hunter Biden had no experience in natural gas, no experience in the energy sector, and no experience with Ukraine’s energy affairs. As far as we know, he doesn’t speak Ukrainian. So naturally the media has asked questions about his board membership. Why was Hunter Biden on this board? (Text of Videotape presentation:)

Ms. Counsel BONDI. Let’s go back and talk about his time on the board. Remember, he joined Burisma’s board in April 2014, while the United Kingdom was still in money laundering case against Burisma and its owner, the oligarch Zlochevsky. On August 20, 2014, 4 months later, the Ukrainian prosecutor general’s office initiates a money laundering investigation into the same oligarch, Zlochevsky. This is one of 15 investigations into Burisma and Zlochevsky, according to a recent public statement made by the current prosecutor general.

On January 16, 2015, prosecutors put Zlochevsky, the owner of Burisma, on whose board Hunter Biden sat, on the country’s wanted list for fraud—while Hunter Biden is on the board.

Then British court orders that Zlochevsky’s $23 million in assets be unfrozen. Why was the money unfrozen? Deputy Assistant Secretary Kent testified to it.

(Text of Videotape presentation:)

KENT. That is our strong assumption, yes, sir.

Ms. Counsel BONDI. Also testified that the Ukrainian prosecutor general’s office actions led to the unfreezing of the assets. After George Kent’s confirmation, that prosecutor was out. Viktor Shokin became prosecutor general. This is the prosecutor you will hear about later, the one Vice President Biden has publicly said he wanted out of office.

In addition to flagging questions about previous prosecutors’ actions, George Kent also specifically voiced other concerns—this time to the Vice President’s Office—about Hunter Biden. In February 2015, he raised concerns about Hunter Biden to Vice President Biden’s Office.

(Text of Videotape presentation:)

KENT. In a briefing call with the National Security staff in the Office of the Vice President in February 2015, I raised my concern about previous prosecutors’ actions about the oligarch Zlochevsky, the owner of Burisma, while the vice president’s anticorruption office in Ukraine was investigating Burisma and its owner, Zlochevsky.

And it wasn’t just one reporter who asked questions about the line between Burisma and the Obama administration. As we learned recently through reporting on FOX News, on January 19, 2016, there was a meeting between Obama administration officials and Ukrainian prosecutors.

Ken Vogel, journalist for the New York Times, asked the State Department about this meeting. He wanted more information about the meeting “where U.S. support for prosecutions of Burisma Holdings in New York” and “whether there was a conflict between the U.S. support for investigation of the oligarch Zlochevsky and the Vice President himself. This is a special envoy to President Obama.”

And it wasn’t just one reporter who asked questions about the line between Burisma and the Obama administration. As we learned recently through reporting on FOX News, on January 19, 2016, there was a meeting between Obama administration officials and Ukrainian prosecutors.

Ken Vogel, journalist for the New York Times, asked the State Department about this meeting. He wanted more information about the meeting “where U.S. support for prosecutions of Burisma Holdings in New York” and “whether there was a conflict between the U.S. support for investigation of the oligarch Zlochevsky and the Vice President himself. This is a special envoy to President Obama.”

Around the time of the reported story—January 2016—a meeting between the Obama administration and Ukrainian officials and a Ukrainian press report, as translated, says: The U.S. Department of State made it clear to the Ukrainian authorities that it was linking the $1 billion in loan guarantees to the dismissal of Prosecutor General Viktor Shokin.

Now, we all know the Obama administration, from the words of Vice President Biden himself—he advocated for the prosecutor general’s dismissal.

There was ongoing involvement into the oligarch Zlochevsky, the owner of Burisma, at the time. We know this because on February 2, 2016, the Ukrainian prosecutor general obtained a renewal of a court order to seize the Ukrainian oligarch Zlochevsky is “suspected of committing a criminal offense of illicit enrichment.”

Over the next few weeks, the Vice President had multiple calls with Ukraine’s President Poroshenko. Days after the last call, on February 24, 2016, a DC consultant reached out to the State Department to request a meeting to discuss Burisma. We know what she said because the email was released under the Freedom of Information Act. The consultant explicitly invoked Hunter Biden’s name as a board member.

In an email summarizing the call, the State Department official says that the consultant noted that two high-profile citizens are affiliated with the company, including Hunter Biden as a board member. She added that the consultant talked with Under Secretary of State Novelli about getting a better understanding of how the United States came to the determination that the country is corrupt.

To be clear, this email documents that the U.S. Government had determined Burisma to be corrupt, and the consultant was seeking a meeting with an extremely senior State Department official to discuss the U.S. Government’s position. Her pitch for the meeting was to use Hunter Biden’s name, and according to the email, the meeting was set for a few days later.

Later that month, on March 29, 2016, the Ukrainian Parliament finally votes to fire the prosecutor general. This is the prosecutor general investigating the oligarch, owner of Burisma, on whose board Hunter Biden sat.

Two days after the prosecutor general is voted out, Vice President Biden announces that the United States will provide $335 million in security assistance to Ukraine. He soon announces that the United States will provide $1 billion in loan guarantees to Ukraine.

Let’s talk about one of the Democrats’ central witnesses: Ambassador Yovanovitch. Yes. In May 2016, Ambassador Yovanovitch was nominated to be Ambassador to Ukraine. Here is what happened when she was preparing for her Senate confirmation hearing. (Text of Videotape presentation:)

Representative RATCLIFFE. Congresswoman Stefanik had asked you how the Obama-Biden State Department had prepared you to answer questions about Burisma and Hunter Biden specifically. Do you recall that?

Ambassador YOVANOVITCH. Yes.

Representative RATCLIFFE. Out of thousands of companies in the Ukraine, the only one that you recall the Obama-Biden State Department preparing you to answer questions about was the one where the Vice President’s son was on the board, is that fair?

Ambassador YOVANOVITCH. Yes.

Ms. Counsel BONDI. So she is being prepared to come before all of you—and talk about world issues, going to be in charge of the Ukraine, of you—and talk about world issues, fair?

President’s son was on the board, is that a question? Burisma.

Years later now, former Vice President Biden publicly details what we know happened: his threat to withhold more than $1 billion in loan guarantees unless Shokin was fired.

Here is the Vice President.

(Text of Videotape presentation:)

Vice President BIDEN. I said I’m not—we are not going to give you the billion dollars. They said: You have no authority. You’re not the President. The President said—I said: Call him. I said: I’m telling you, you are not getting the billion dollars. I said: You are not getting the billion. I’m going to leave here in, I think it was about 6 hours. If the prosecutor is not fired, you’re not getting the money. Well, son of a bitch. (Laughter.) He got fired. And they put in place someone who was solid at the time.

Ms. Counsel BONDI. What he didn’t say on the video—according to the New York Times, this was the prosecutor investigating Burisma, Shokin.

What he also didn’t say on the video was that his son was being paid significantly less by the oligarch, owner of Burisma to sit on that board.

Only then does Hunter Biden leave the board. He stays on the board until April 2019. In November 2019, Hunter Biden signs an affidavit saying he “has been unemployed and has no other ‘monthly income since May 2019.’”

This was in November of 2019, so we know, from after April 2019 to May 2019 through November 2019, he was unemployed, by his own statement—April 2019 to May 2019.

Despite his resignation from the board, the media continued to raise the issue relating to a potential conflict of interest.

On July 22, 2019, the Washington Post wrote that fired Prosecutor General Shokin “believes Hunter was because of his interest in the company,” referring to Burisma. The Post further wrote that “had he remained in his post, he would have questioned Hunter Biden.

On July 25, 2019, 3 days later, President Trump speaks with President Zelensky. He said:

The other thing, There’s a lot of talk about Biden’s son, that Biden stopped the prosecution and a lot of people want to find out about that so whatever you can do with the Attorney General would be great. Biden went around bragging that he stopped the persecution so if you can look into it . . . It looks horrible, a disaster.

The House managers talked about the Bidens and Burisma 400 times, but they never gave you the full picture. But here are those who did: The United Kingdom’s Serious Fraud Unit; Deputy Assistant Secretary of State George Kent; Ukrainian newspaper columns of the ABC White House reporter; ABC “Good Morning America”; the Washington Post; the New York Times; Ukrainian law enforcement; and the Obama State Department itself. They all thought there was cause to raise the issue about the Bidens and Burisma.

The House managers might say, without evidence, that everything we’ve heard said has been debunked, that the evidence points entirely unequivocally in the other direction. That is a distraction.

You have heard from the House managers. They do not believe that there was any concern to raise here, that all of this was based on them. And they are saying is that there was a basis to talk about this, to raise this issue, and that is enough.

I yield my time.

The CHIEF JUSTICE, Mr. Sekulow, Mr. Counsel SEKULOW. Mr. Chief Justice, Majority Leader MCCONNELL, Democratic Leader SCHUMER, House managers, Members of the Senate, this will be our last presentation before dinner.

The next lawyer representing the President is Eric Herschmann. He is a partner in the Kasowitz firm, the law firm which has been representing the President for over two decades. He is a former prosecutor and trial lawyer, and he ran a natural gas company in the United States.

He is going to discuss additional evidence the House managers ignored or misstated and how other Presidents might have measured up under this new impeachment standard.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. Mr. Chief Justice, Members of the Senate, I am Eric Herschmann. I have the honor and privilege of representing the President of the United States in these proceedings. I have been carefully listening to and reviewing the House managers’ case. That case pretty much boils down to one straightforward contention—that the President abused his power to promote his own personal interest and not our country’s interests.

The House managers say that the President did not take the steps that they allege for the benefit of our country but only for his own personal benefit. If that is wrong, if what the President had wanted would have benefited our country, then the managers have not met their burden, and these Articles of Impeachment must be rejected. As we will see, the House managers do not come close to meeting the burden.

Mr. Chief Justice, last week, Manager SCHIFF said that the investigations had been debunked; they were sham investigations. Now we have the question: Were they really?

The House managers in the over 21 hours of the presentation deposed by the House managers have never found the time to support those conclusory statements. Was it, in fact, true that any investigation had been debunked? The House managers do not Section 27, 2020
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE
S599

identify for you who supposedly conducted any investigations, who supposedly did the debunking, who discredited it. Where and when were any such investigations conducted? When were the results published? And much more was left unanswered.

Attorney General Bondi went through for you some of what we know about Burisma in its millions of dollars in payments to Vice President Biden’s son and his son’s business partner.

There is no question that any rational person would understand what happened. I am going to go through some additional evidence, which was easily available to the House managers but which they never sought or considered.

Based on what Attorney General
Bondi told you in this additional evidence, you can judge for yourself whether the conduct was suspect. As you know, one of the issues concerned
Hunter Biden’s involvement with the Ukrainian natural gas company, which paid Hunter Biden millions of dollars while his father was Vice President and was in charge of the Ukrainian portfolio during the prior administration. I will get to those supposedly discredited allegations identified by the House managers concerning the Prior administration. I will get

When asked how much money Burisma was paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. But
when asked how much money Burisma was
paying him, he responded
he doesn’t want to “open his kimono”
and disclose how much. He does refer to
public reports about how much he was
being paid, but as we now know, he was
being paid far more than was reported.
time was Hunter in charge of the company’s legal affairs.”

Which is it? What was Hunter Biden doing at Burisma in exchange for millions of dollars? Who knows? What were they looking to hide so much for his corporate governance and transparency?

But let’s take a step back and realize what actually transpired, because the House managers would have us believe this had nothing at all to do with our government, nothing at all to do with our country’s interests, nothing at all to do with our Vice President, nothing at all to do with the State Department. It was simply private citizen Hunter Biden doing his own private business. It was purely coincidental that it was in his father’s portfolio in Ukraine, in the exact sector—the energy sector—that his father said was corrupt.

But we have a document here—again, something that House managers did not show you or even put before the House managers on these baseless Articles of Impeachment. If you look at that email, it is an email from Chris Heinz. And as Attorney Bondi already told you, he is the stepson of the then-Secretary of State John Kerry, and he was a foreign business partner with Hunter Biden and Devon Archer. Our Secretary of State’s stepson and our Vice President’s son are in business together.

It was sent on May 13, 2014, to the official government email addresses of two senior people at the State Department. These two people are the Chief of Staff to the Secretary of State and the Special Adviser to the Secretary of State. The subject line in the email is not “corporate transparency.” It is not “corporate governance.” It is not “here’s a heads-up.” The subject line is “Ukraine.”

Chris Heinz certainly understood the sensitivity to our U.S. foreign policy. What is Secretary of State’s stepson say about Hunter Biden and Devon Archer? He says this:

Apparently Devon and Hunter both joined the board of Burisma and a press release went out today. I can’t speak to why they decided to, but there was no investment by our firm in their company.

What is the most telling thing about this? It is clear that the Chief of Staff and the Special Assistant to the Secretary already knew who Devon was because Mr. Heinz did not include his last name. It is just “Devon.” They obviously knew who Hunter was because, again, it is Hunter Biden. This is Chris Heinz saying: “I can’t speak to why they decided to join the board of Burisma. He is the business partner—not that there were good corporate reasons that they are going there for corporate governance, not that they are there to enhance corporate transparency, not that they are there to further policy, not that they are there to help fight corruption in Ukraine, not that they are there to ensure boards of directors’ compensation and benefits are publicly disclosed—nothing like that. He cannot say those things because he knows Devon and Hunter well and he knows they have no particular qualifications, whatsoever, to do those things, especially for a Ukrainian gas company.

Instead, Mr. Heinz is planning to go on the record that Hunter and Devon were doing through official channels to take pains to dissociate himself from what they were doing. And what did the State Department do with this information that the Secretary of State passed on to them that they needed to know? Apparently, nothing. They did not tell Mr. Heinz to stay away. They did not tell Mr. Heinz there is no problem—nothing. But all this, the House managers want us to believe, does not even merit any inquiry. Anyone asking for one, anyone discussing one is now corrupt.

Do it matter in an inquiry why a corrupt company in a corrupt country would be paying our Vice President’s son? It is not “a raise.” It is not “corporate transparency.” It is not “corporate governance.” It is not “meritorious.” The email subject was “corporate governance” and the subject line was “heads-up.” The subject line is “corruption.”

Here’s a heads-up.” The subject line is “corruption.” It is not “corporate transparency.” It is not “corporate governance.” It is not “meritorious.” The email subject was “corporate governance” and the subject line was “heads-up.” The subject line is “corruption.”

And I ask you, why would it not merit an investigation? You know something else about Vice President Biden? Well, back in January of 2018, as you heard, former Vice President Biden bragged that he had pressured the Ukrainians—threatened them, indeed, coerced them—into firing the state prosecutor who reportedly was investigating the very company that paid millions of dollars to his son. He bragged that he gave them 6 hours to fire the prosecutor or he would cut off $1 billion in U.S. loan guarantees.

(Text of Videotape presentation:) Vice President BIDEN. I said: We’re not going to give you the billion dollars. They said: You have no authority. You’re the Vice President. The President said—I said: Call him. I said: I’m telling you, you’re not getting dollars. I said: You’re not getting the billion. I’m going to be leaving here in—I think it was, what—6 hours. I looked at him and said: I’m leaving in 6 hours. If the prosecutor is not fired, you’re not getting the billion.

Well, son of a bitch, he got fired, and they put in place someone who was solid at the time.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. Are we really to believe it was the policy of our government to withhold $1 billion of guarantees to Ukraine unless they fired a prosecutor on the spot? Was that really our policy? We have all heard continuously from the managers and many agree about the risks to the Ukrainians posed by the Russians. We have heard the managers say that a slight delay in providing funding to Ukraine endangers our national security and jeopardizes our interests and, therefore, the President would immediately be removed from office. Yet, they also argue that it was the official policy of our country to withhold $1 billion unless one individual was fired within a certain matter of hours. Was that really or could it ever be our United States policy?

According to the House managers’ theory, we were willing to jeopardize our relationships with Ukraine unless the person who happened to be investigating Burisma was promptly fired. Are we going to jeopardize a Ukrainian economy because a prosecutor was not fired in the 6-hour period Vice President Biden demanded? Does anyone believe that even should have been our U.S. foreign policy? And, just in case, the managers or others tried to argue: No, no, no, he wasn’t serious about that; he was just bluffing. What kind of message would that send to the Russians about our support for the Ukrainians that we would bluff and bluff with the Ukrainian economy?

From 2014 to 2017, Vice President Biden claimed to be on a crusade against corruption in Ukraine. He repeatedly spoke about the need to root out corruption was endemic in Ukraine, hobbled Ukraine, how Ukraine faced no more consequential mission than confronting corruption, and he encouraged Ukraine to close the space for corrupt government officials who rigged the system. The Vice President railed against monopolistic behavior where a select few profit from so many sweetheart deals that has characterized that country for so long.

On his last official visit to Ukraine, 4 days before he left office, he spoke out against corruption and oligarchy, that eats away like a cancer, and against corruption, which continues to eat away at Ukraine’s democracy within. Why was Vice President doing this? Was he so concerned about corruption in Ukraine—even singling out that country’s energy sector—because corruption in Ukraine is a critical policy concern for our country?

During his whole time, what else was happening? His son and his son’s business partner were raking in over $1 million a year from what was regarded as one of the most corrupt Ukrainian companies in the energy sector, owned and controlled by one of the most corrupt oligarchs. Were Vice President Biden’s words and advice to Ukraine just hollow? According to the House managers, the answer apparently is yes, they were empty words, at least when it came to anyone questioning how his own sweetheart deal, his own son’s deal with Ukraine’s corruption and oligarchy.

Again, to raise Manager SCHIFF’s own question: What kind of message did this send to future U.S. Government officials? Your family can accept money from foreign corrupt companies? No problem. You can pay family members of our highest government officials, and no one is allowed to even ask questions.

What was going on? We have to just accept now the House managers’ conclusory statements, like “sham,” “discrediting,” even though no one has ever investigated why. And can you imagine what House Manager SCHIFF and his fellow Democratic Representatives would say if it were President Trump’s children on an oligarch’s payroll? And when it finally appeared that a true Ukrainian corruption fighter had assumed the country’s Presidency, President Trump was not supposed to—he was not permitted to—follow up on Vice President Biden’s own words about fighting corruption and try to make those words something other than empty?

According to the House managers, Ukrainian corruption is now only a private interest. It no longer is a serious important concern for our country. Now I want to take a moment to cover a few additional points about the July 25 telephone call in which the House managers believe that the President of the United States, in their words, was shaking down and pressuring the President of Ukraine to do his personal bidding.

First of all, this was not the first telephone call that the President of the United States had with other foreign leaders. Think about this for a moment. It was routed through the Situation Room. It was a scheduled call. There were other people on the call. There were other people taking notes. Obviously, the President was aware of that fact.

The House managers talked about the fact that the President did not follow the approved talking points as if the President—any President—is obligated to follow approved talking points. The last time I checked—and I think this is clear to the American people—President Trump knows how to speak his mind.

Do you remember the fake transcript that Manager SCHIFF read when he was before the Intelligence Committee—his mob, fake reading of the call? Well, I prosecuted organized crime for years. The type of description of what goes on—what House Manager SCHIFF tried to create for the American people—is completely detached from reality. It is as if we were supposed to believe that mobsters would invite people they do not know into an organized crime meeting to sit around and take notes to establish their corrupt intent.

Ironically, it is the House managers who were the only people who actually made the decisions—President Zelensky, President Trump—to them, it was not critical, it was not material, and it was definitely never a quid pro quo. What was important to President Zelensky was not an Oval Office meeting but the lethal weapons that President Trump supplied to Ukraine and the sanctions that President Trump enforced against the Russians. That is what the transcript of the July 25 call demonstrates.

Let us now consider what President Zelensky told President Trump: I would be very happy to come and would be happy to meet you personally and get to know you better . . . On the other hand, I believe that was a quid pro quo, that the President withheld this critical Oval Office meeting that would deter the Russians and save the Ukrainians because he wanted something personal.

Now, if that were, in fact, critical to President Zelensky for the safety of his own citizens, he would have immediately jumped at the opportunity to come to the Oval Office, especially when President Trump offered him exactly what he wanted on that call. Let’s see what President Zelensky actually said when he was invited to Washington on that call.

He does not say: Oh, this is what I would like to do. It is critical for my people. We will arrange it in a meeting. His response is:

I would be very happy to come and would be happy to meet you personally and get to know you better. . . . On the other hand, I believe that was a quid pro quo, that the President withheld this critical Oval Office meeting that would deter the Russians and save the Ukrainians because he wanted something personal.

When we look at the evidence that is before us, it is clear that the only people who talked about having an Oval Office meeting were lower level government employees who thought it was a good idea. But for the principals involved, those who actually make the decisions—President Zelensky, President Trump—to them, it was not critical, it was not material, and it was definitely never a quid pro quo. What was important to President Zelensky was not an Oval Office meeting but the lethal weapons that President Trump supplied to Ukraine and the sanctions that President Trump enforced against the Russians. That is what the transcript of the July 25 call demonstrates.

Trump supposedly wanted President Zelensky only to announce an investigation, not conduct it, but that contention makes no sense. President Trump’s call with President Zelensky was July 25, 2019—almost a year and a half before our next election. Would only a bare announcement so far in advance, with no followup, really have had any effect on the election, as the managers claim? Would anyone have remembered the announcement a year or more later?

Ironically, it is the House managers who have put Burisma and its connection to the Bidens front and center in this proceeding, and now the voters will know about it and probably will remember it. Be prepared for what you wish for.

Manager SCHIFF—well, there he goes again. He is putting words in the President’s mouth that were never there. Again, look at the transcript of the July call. President Trump never asked about any announcement of any type of investigation, and President Zelensky told President Trump: I guarantee, as the President of Ukraine, that all the investigations will be done openly and publicly. That is what I can assure you.

What happened next?

The House managers say President Zelensky did not want to get mixed up... in U.S. politics, but it is precisely the Democrats who politicized the issue. Last August, they began circulating the wagons in trying to protect Vice President Biden, and they are still doing it in these proceedings. They contend that the issue, involving a trillion of dollars of payments by a corrupt Ukraine company—owned by a corrupt Ukraine oligarch—to the son of the second highest officeholder in our land, who was supposed to be in charge of fighting corruption in Ukraine, to be a sham, debunked. But there has never been an investigation, so how could it be a sham—simply because the House managers say so?

Which brings me to yet another one of the House managers’ baseless contentions—that President Trump raised the matter with President Zelensky because Vice President Biden had just announced his candidacy for President. But, of course, it was far from a secret that Vice President Biden was planning to run.

What had, in fact, changed?

First, President Zelensky had been elected in April, in an anti-corruption platform, his party took control of the Ukrainian Parliament. That made it the opportune time to raise the issue because finally there was a receptive government in Ukraine that was committed to fighting precisely the kind of highly questionable conduct displayed by Burisma in its payments to Hunter Biden and his partner, just as Joe Biden had raised years before.

There are two other things.

In late June, ABC News ran a story entitled “Hunter Biden’s foreign deals. Did Joe Biden’s son profit off of his father’s position as Vice President?”

Then, just a couple of weeks before President Trump’s telephone call with President Zelensky, the New Yorker magazine—not exactly a supporter of President Trump’s—ran an expose—“Will Hunter Biden Jeopardize His Father’s Presidency?”—and went through some of the facts that we do know about Hunter Biden’s involvement with Burisma and his involvement with the Chinese company.

The New Yorker reporter—again, this was in July, just a couple of weeks before the phone call—said that some of Vice President Biden’s advisers were worried that Hunter would expose the Vice President to criticism. A White House aide told the New Yorker reporter that Hunter’s behavior invited questions about whether he was “leveraging access for his benefit.” The reporter wrote: “When I asked members of Biden’s staff whether they did raise their concern with the Vice President, several of them said they had been too intimidated to do so.”

“Everyone who works for him has been screamed at,” a former adviser told the reporter. “I don’t know whether anyone has been intimidated by Vice President Biden or has been screamed at by him about Burisma or his son’s involvement.”

Do we want the type of government where questions about facially suspect conduct are suppressed or dismissed as illegitimate because someone is intimidating or screaming at or is just too important? No. That is precisely when an investigation is most important.

Last Thursday night, Manager JEFFRIES provided us with the Democrats’ standard for abuse of power. He said: “Abuse of power occurs when the President exercises his official power to exact personal benefit while ignoring or injuring the national interest.”

Mr. JEFFRIES and the House managers contend that, under this standard, President Trump has committed an impeachable offense and must be immediately removed from office. But if Manager JEFFRIES’ standard applies, then where were these same Democrats’ calls for impeachment when uncontroversial, smoking-gun evidence emerged that President Obama had violated their standard?

The American people understand this basic notion as equal justice under the law. It is as American as apple pie. Yet the House managers want to apply their own version of justice, a justice here, which applies only to their political opponents. They want one system of justice for Democrats and another system of justice for everyone else. You do not need to take my word for it; let’s walk through the facts.

On March 26, 2012, on the eve of the 2012 Nuclear Security Summit in Seoul, South Korea, President Obama met with Russian President Dmitry Medvedev to discuss one of the pressing issues in the U.S. national security interests—missile defense.

How important was the issue of missile defense to the strategic relationship between the United States and Russia?

As President Obama’s Defense Secretary Robert Gates said in June 2010, upgraded missile interceptors in development “would give us the ability to protect our troops, our bases, our facilities and our allies in Europe.”

There was no meeting of the minds on missile defense. The Russians hate it. They have hated it since the late 1960s. They will always hate it, mostly because we will build it, and they won’t.

During the Nuclear Security Summit, President Obama had a private exchange with Russian President Medvedev that was picked up on a hot microphone.

(Text of Videotape presentation:)

President OBAMA: This is my last election. After my election, I have more flexibility.

President MEDVEDEV: I understand. I will transmit this information to Vladimir, and I stand with you.

President Obama said:

On all these issues, but particularly missile defense, this can be solved, but it’s important for me to go through this.

President Medvedev responded:

Yeah, I understand. I understand your message about space. Space for you.
his reelection and influence the 2012 U.S. Presidential election to his advantage.

In doing so, President Obama used the powers of the Presidency in a manner that compromised the national security of the United States and undermined the integrity of the U.S. democratic process. He thus ignored and injured the interest of the Nation.

Does it sound familiar, House managers? It should, as the case against President Obama would have been far stronger than the allegations against President Trump.

President Obama’s abuse of power to benefit his own political interests was there and is here now for everyone to hear. It was a direct, unquestionable quid pro quo. No mind reading was needed there. Where were the House managers then?

And that points out the absurdity of the House managers’ case against President Trump. It was President Obama, not President Trump, who was weak on Russia and weak on support to Ukraine.

President Obama caved to Russia and Putin’s demands for defense when he decided to scrap the U.S. plans to install missile bases in Poland. Yet he criticized Senator Romney during the 2012 Presidential campaign when Senator Romney said Russia was the greatest geopolitical threat to the U.S. (Text of Videotape presentation:)

President Obama. I’m glad that you recognize that al-Qaeda’s a threat because a few weeks ago when you were asked what’s the biggest threat the United States faces America, you said Russia. Not al-Qaeda, you said Russia, and the 1980s are now calling to ask for their foreign policy back because, you know, the Cold War’s been over for 20 years.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. Now, when it is politically convenient, the Democrats are saying the same thing that President Obama criticized Senator Romney for saying. In fact, they are basing their entire politicized impeachment on an inversion of reality. This claim that President Trump is not supporting Ukraine far more than the prior administration.

President Obama caved on missile defense in late 2009. His hot mic moment occurred in March 2012. His reelection was 8 months later. Two years later, in March 2014, Russia invaded Ukraine and annexed Crimea. President Obama refused to provide lethal aid to Ukraine to enable it to defend itself. Where were the managers then?

The House managers would have the American people believe that there is a threat—an imminent threat—to the national security of our country for which the President must be removed immediately from the highest office in the land because of what? Because he had a phone call with a foreign leader and discussed corruption? Because he paused for a short period of time giving away our tax dollars to a foreign country? No. The theory was this:

It is absurd on its face. Not one American life was in jeopardy or lost by this short delay, and they knew it. And how do we know that they knew it? Because they went on vacation after they adopted the Articles of Impeachment. They did not cancel their recess. They did not rush back to deliver the Articles of Impeachment to the Senate. They did not rush to parliament that supposed terrible imminent threat to our national security. What did they do?

(Text of Videotape presentation:)

Speaker PELOSI. Urgency.

Mr. SCHIFF. Timing is really driven by the urgency.

Mr. SWALWELL. The urgency.

Mr. NADLER. Nothing could be more urgent.

Mr. RICHMOND. The urgency.

Speaker PELOSI. And urgent. And urgent.

Mr. SWALWELL. There is an urgency, you know, to this.

Mr. NADLER. Then we must move swiftly. Mr. SWALWELL. We don’t have time to screw around.

Speaker PELOSI. It’s about urgency.

Mr. TAPPER. House Speaker NANCY PELOSI is still holding on to the Articles of Impeachment.

Mr. Counsel HERSCHMANN. Urgency? Urgency, for which you want to immediately remove the President of the United States? You sat on the articles for a month—the longest delay in the history of our country. They adopted them on Friday, December 13, 2019—Friday the 13th—went on vacation, and finally decided after one of their Democratic Presidential debates had finished and after the BCS football championship game, that it was time to deliver the Articles of Impeachment.

What happened to their national security interest argument? Wasn’t that the reason that they said they had to rush to vote? Is it urgent, they told us. No due process for this President. It is a crisis of monumental proportion. Our national security is at risk every additional day that he is in office, they tell us.

The House managers also used the same excuse for not issuing subpoenas for testimony. They said no time for it, for the normal judicial review. They even complained about the judicial review process sitting in this Chamber before the Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court—a judicial review in which the judge agreed to an expedited schedule. Even that was not good enough for them when they issued the subpoenas.

One of the lawyers for the subpoenaed witnesses wrote to the House general counsel: “We are dismayed that the House committees have chosen not to join us in our position that the judicial branch of this momentous constitutional question as expeditiously as possible.”

He continued: “It is important to get a definitive judgment from the judicial branch determining their constitutional duty in the place of conflicting demands of the legislative and executive branches.” Isn’t that the point? Isn’t that how our system of government works? Isn’t that how it has always worked? Isn’t that how it is supposed to work?

These same Democrats defended other administrations who fought judicial review of congressional subpoenas, and I think we all remember Fast and Furious.

The same attorney, when he wrote to the House chair, said:

The House chairmen, Mr. SCHIFF and Mr. NADLER, have chosen to use their subpoena power to obstruct the President’s right to delay or otherwise obstruct the committees’ vital investigatory work.

He continued:

Nor has this lawsuit been coordinated in any way with the White House any more than it has been coordinated with the House of Representatives. If the House chooses not to pursue through subpoenaed testimony, let the record be clear that is the House’s decision. If they come before you and blame the administration and they blame you if you don’t subpoena witnesses and have them before you.

Yet even in the face of this overwhelming evidence, they claim that the President is to blame for their decision to withdraw their own subpoenas or not issue others. Their choice, but the President is responsible. That is one of their claims. It is ludicrous.

They are blaming the President because they decided to use their own power to seek judicial review and enforcement of their own subpoenas and for some witnesses never even issued subpoenas. In their minds, that is impeachable.

Manager NADLER spoke eloquently back before the House Judiciary Committee hearing in December of 1998. He said:

There must never be a narrowly voted impeachment or an impeachment substantially supported by one of our major political parties and largely opposed by the other. Such an impeachment would lack legitimacy, would produce divisiveness and bitterness in our politics for years to come, and will call into question the very legitimacy of our political institutions.

Manager NADLER was right then, and it is equally true today. Divisiveness and bitterness. Divisiveness and bitterness. Listen to his words: Impeachments by one party cause divisiveness and bitterness in our country. That is what a partisan impeachment leads to. Sadly, when Manager NADLER eloquently warned against divisiveness and bitterness, the House did not follow his admonition. They did not heed his advice, and that is one of the reasons we are sitting here today with Articles of Impeachment that are not found in our Constitution or the evidence and are brought simply for partisan politics.

This is a sad time for all of us. This is not a time to give out souvenirs, the pens used to sign two Articles of Impeachment, trying to improperly impeach our country’s representative to the world.

This is not the time to try to get digs in that the President will always be impeached because we had the majority and we could do it to you and we did it to you. It is wrong. It is not what the American people deserve or want.

Sadly, the House managers do not trust their fellow Americans to choose their own President. They do not think that they can legitimately win an election against President Trump, so they need to rush to impeach him immediately. That is what they have continually told the American people, and that—that is a shame.

We, on the other hand, trust our fellow Americans to choose their President. Choose your candidate. Let the Senators who are here who are trying to become the Democratic nominee try to win that election, and let the American people choose.

Maybe they are concerned that the American people like historically low unemployment. Maybe the American people like that their 401(k) accounts have done extremely well. Maybe the American people like prison reform and giving people a second chance.

Tellingly, some of these House managers worked constructively with this administration to give Americans a second chance. That was the public interest, and that is what the country demands. That is what society deserves.

Maybe the American people like an administration that is fighting the opioid epidemic. Maybe the American people like secure borders. Maybe the American people like better trade agreements with our biggest trading partners. Maybe the American people like other countries sharing in the burden when it comes to foreign aid. Maybe the American people actually like their current President—a President who has kept his promises and delivered on them.

If you think Americans want to abandon our prosperity and our unprecedented successes under this President, then convince the electorate in November at the ballot box. Do not try to improperly interfere with an election that is only months away, based on these Articles of Impeachment.

In your trial memorandum that you submitted here before the Senate, you speak about the Framers of the Constitution believing that President Trump's alleged conduct is their “worst nightmare” and that they would be horrified.

In fact, sadly, sadly, it is the House managers’ conduct in bringing these baseless Articles of Impeachment that would clearly be their and our worst nightmare. That is what society deserves.

The CHIEF JUSTICE. The majority leader is recognized.

RECESS

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. Chief Justice, I think we are looking at a 45-minute break for dinner.

I ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in recess.

There being no objection, at 6:01 p.m., the Senate, sitting as a Court of Impeachment, recessed until 6:48 p.m., and thereupon reassembled when called to order by the Chief Justice.

The CHIEF JUSTICE. The Senate will come to order. Ready to proceed?

Mr. Counsel SEKULOW. Yes, sir.

Mr. Chief Justice. Members of the Senate, House managers, we are going to do two things this evening. We are going to first hear from former independent counsel Robert Ray. He is going to discuss issues of how he was involved in the investigation, the legal issues, the methods that he used that worked, and then we will conclude this evening with a presentation from Professor Dershowitz.

With that, I yield my time, Mr. Chief Justice, to Robert Ray.

Mr. Counsel RAY. Mr. Chief Justice, Members of the Senate, distinguished House managers, and may it please this Court of Impeachment, I stand before you today in defense of my fellow Americans, who in November 2016 elected Donald Trump to serve the people as their President. Their reasons for that vote were as varied as any important decisions are, but their collective judgment, accepted as legitimate under our Constitution, is deserving of my respect.

For only the third time in our Nation’s history, the Senate is convened to try the President of the United States on Articles of Impeachment.

Those articles do not allege crimes. The Constitution’s history, the Senate’s history, the Supreme Court’s history, and historical practice all dictate that well-founded Articles of Impeachment allege both that a high crime has been committed, and that, as such, removal from office is warranted only when such an offense also constitutes an abuse of the public trust; that is, in the case of the President, a violation of his oath of office. Both are required and neither one, by clear and unmistakable evidence, is shown here by these Articles of Impeachment.

I am here this evening in this Chamber distinctly privileged to represent and defend the President of the United States on the facts, on the law, and on the constitutional principles that must be placed before the Members of the Senate, in deciding the great question of whether these articles warrant, with or without witnesses, the removal of the President from office.

Because there is and can be no basis in these articles on which the Senate can or should convict a President on what is alleged, the President must not be removed from office. That judgment is reserved to the people in the ordinary course of elections, the next of which is months away.

Now, 40 years ago, in 1980, I first came to Capitol Hill as a legislative intern for a Congressman who only 6 years earlier had played an important and critical role in the impeachment proceedings against President Richard Nixon. The Congressman of whom I speak, whom I came to respect immensely, served then, in 1974, in the House Judiciary Committee. He was tasked in the summer of 1974, together with his colleagues, in evaluating and determining which House managers here have, Articles of Impeachment. Those articles included the crime of obstruction of justice, abuse of power, and obstruction of Congress. But unlike how House managers—and, indeed, the entire House—45 years later in December 2019 proceeded here, bipartisan consensus in 1974, among both House Democrats and House Republicans, was the only public cause.

Indeed, it became apparent then, that narrow partisan views aside, the House Judiciary Committee would step into the breach only insofar as evidence of criminal Presidential conduct warranted.

The tapes of Oval Office conversations involving the President provided that evidence. The Supreme Court, in effect, overruled the claim of executive privilege and ordered the release of the tapes to the House Judiciary Committee.

As a result, 3 days later, the high crime of obstruction of justice, including suborning perjury tethered to a secret tape of 6 days earlier, was impeached. 2 days after that, alleging abuse of power, was approved by the House Judiciary Committee by a vote of 27 to 11 and 28 to 10, respectively.

The second Article of Impeachment alleged, among other things, unlawful use of the CIA and its resources, including covert activity in the United States and interference with the law enforcement actions of the FBI to advance the coverup; that is, the criminal conspiracy to obstruct justice charge in the first Article of Impeachment.

The crimes alleged were serious, involving unlawful electronic surveillance of an opposing political party, putting bush money out of a White House safe to burglars and other conspirators to silence cooperation with law enforcement, and attempts to alter testimony under oath.

Six Republican House committee members joined all 231 Democrats in supporting those two articles. My Congressman was among those six Republican House Members. Another one of the six was then a young Congressman from Maine, who later became a Member of this body, Senator Susan Collins. My Congressman was among those six Republicans. A third of the six was Rep. Bill Cohen. A third of the six was Representative Caldwell Butler, a Republican from Virginia, whose papers are housed at Washington and Lee University in Lexington, VA, in the State where I grew up and where I later went to law school.

Together, these six Republicans made history. They did so with no sense of triumph—in today’s parlance, no fist bumps—but in the words of my Congressman, only “with deep reluctance” and only because the evidence was clear and unmistakable and the activities by the President in a criminal coverup that was—in the concluding language of the first Article of Impeachment—“contrary to his trust as President.”

As to the third article in the Nixon impeachment, that article charging obstruction of Congress did not enjoy bipartisan support but instead was voted on by the House Judiciary Committee along party lines by a vote of 21 to 17. Republicans objected then to the third article in the face of the President’s good-faith prior claim to executive privilege by withholding certain evidence until such time as the matter was definitively resolved by the Supreme Court.

My point in mentioning these three votes by the House Judiciary Committee is simply this: Count votes, and do the math. I understand that you all have not observed your phones and, thus, a calculator app, so I will do it for you.

A 27-to-11 vote was not only bipartisan, as I have indicated, but overwhelmingly so—indeed, over 70 percent; that is to say, greater than a two-thirds supermajority.

That vote sent a powerful signal to the full House and indeed the Senate that impeachment was overwhelmingly bipartisan and, therefore, politically and legally irresistible.

President Nixon’s fate was sealed, and the result was inevitable. Thus, less than 2 weeks after that initial committee vote on impeachment, the President resigned.

During the course of those proceedings, my Congressman commented simply and plainly that it was, in his words, “a great American tragedy.” But the greater point was—and is—that impeachment was never designed or intended to be used as a tool and was to be undertaken only as a last resort.

This then brings me to what was intended by the Framers of the Constitution relative to impeachment. That subject was not, I say, addressed at some length by my colleague Professor Dershowitz, but, for now, let me just say that much has been said by House managers in reliance on Alexander Hamilton’s oft-quoted statement in Federalist No. 65. That is the one repeated over and over in context, and it is in favor of an expansive scope of jurisdiction by Congress over alleged offenses.

In Hamilton’s words, “... which proceed from misconduct of [a] public [official constituting] the abuse or violation of some public trust.” The irony that Hamilton—the greatest proponent in this country of executive and Presidential authority that perhaps ever lived—should be front and center in this partisan impeachment effort to remove a duly elected President from office is apparently lost on House impeachment managers. I dare say that Hamilton would roll over in his grave at the end of Wall Street in New York City to know that, contrary to what he explicitly acknowledged in Federalist No. 69, a President can only be removed from office “upon conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.” We should just read the word ‘crime’ right out of the impeachment clause of the Constitution and proceed merrily along the way toward an impeachment trial, with witnesses, no less, of a President duly elected by the people. And for what? Articles of Impeachment that do not even allege crimes.

President Trump is right. That course, if sustained, cheapens the impeachment process and, thus, is an American tragedy.

Indeed, during the impeachment trial 21 years ago in January 1999, none other than President Clinton’s highly respected White House Counsel Charles Ruff stood up and evoked, as the managers do, that the phrase ‘other high crimes and misdemeanors’ was really meant to encompass a wide range of offenses . . . simply flies in the face of the clear intent of the framers, who carefully chose their language, knew exactly what those words meant and knew exactly what risk they intended to promote against.”

Counsel Ruff went on to explain: One of those concerns and risks was that “impeachment be limited and well defined.”

For our purposes here, what is required is both that crimes be alleged and that those crimes be of the type that, in particular, are so serious that they—again, in Mr. Ruff’s words—“subvert our system of government and would justify overturning a popular election.” Otherwise, what you have—in Tocqueville’s words—is legislative tyranny.

I respectfully submit, Members of the Senate, taken in its proper context, that is what Alexander Hamilton well understood and meant, and so did my Congressman. That Congressman was, of course, Mr. A. actually, he was not really a junior but Hamilton Fish IV. His great-grandfather was also Hamilton Fish, who was born in 1908, later served as Governor of New York, a U.S. Senator immediately before the Civil War, and, notably, as President Ulysses Grant’s Secretary of State. But at the time back in 1980, what I didn’t realize—even though now, perhaps, it is so obvious—the original Hamilton Fish was named after his parents’ best friend other than Alexander Hamilton himself.

What Congressman Hamilton Fish, from the Watergate era, courageously understood is the same historical lesson that Jeffrey A. Engel, founding director of the Center for Presidential History at Southern Methodist University, has written about in a coauthored 2018 book on impeachment:

“The charge must be treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors. It must be one for which clear and unmistakable proof can be produced. Only if the evidence actually produced against the President is indeed irrefutable such that his own conscience—his will of 63 million people, like me, who voted for President Trump—accept his guilt of the offense charged in order to overwhelmingly persuade a supermajority of Americans, and, thus, their Senators, of malfeasance, warranting his removal from office.

And, finally, because it is the President of the United States, after all, that we are talking about here, the repository of and entrusted under the Constitution with all of the executive power of the United States—in other words, an entire branch of government—removal from office cannot be based upon an impeachable offense or offenses which are nothing more than—paraphrasing President Gerald Ford now—whatever a partisan majority of the House of Representatives considers them to be.

To supplement that cited statement 56 years ago, in 1970, from then-Congressman Jerry Ford in connection with the prospect of potentially impeaching a Supreme Court Justice, Ford pointedly clarified that executive branch impeachments are different because voters can remove the President, the Vice President, and all persons holding office at their pleasure at least every 4 years. To remove a President in midterm—it has been tried before and never done—would indeed, he said, require crimes of the magnitude of treason and bribery.

Professor Akhil Amar of Yale Law School made largely the same point during the Clinton impeachment about the danger presented through Presidential impeachment of transforming an entire branch of government:

When they remove a duly elected President, they undo the votes of millions of ordinary Americans on Election Day. This is nothing that Senators should do lightly, lest we slide toward a kind of parliamentary government that our entire structure of government was designed to repudiate.

In hammering home the constitutional uniqueness of Presidential impeachments, he emphasized the case of Richard Nixon and distinguished it from Andrew Johnson; that is to say, only when extremely high crimes and gross abuses of official power indeed pose a threat to our basic constitutive system, a breakdown and truly as malignant to democratic government as treason and bribery, he reasoned; would the Senate ever be justified in nullifying the votes of millions of Americans and removing a President from office.

My point is this: History—our American history—matters. To listen to how the House managers would have it, Articles of Impeachment are merely—as Chuck Ruff warned a generation ago—empty vessels into which can be poured a smattering of charges, even those considered and abandoned.

At least in the case of President Clinton’s impeachment, the articles actually charged crimes. The Senate thereafter, determined by its vote in that case, and in effect, that while those crimes—perjury and obstruction of justice—may have been committed, those crimes were not high enough crimes damaging to the body politic to warrant the President’s removal from office.

That judgment was, of course, within this body’s discretion to render, and it has been accepted as such by the country—whether you agreed with it or
The lesson for me was a simple one that I am sure every American citizen, whatever their own experience or political perspective, can understand: Be humble and act with humility. Never be too sure that you are right.

In short, I was absolutely mindful that such a crime was committed, but we are going to say that the President’s conduct was criminal nonetheless. Aside from being exceedingly unfair to say something criminal and not stand behind the allegation and actually charge it, it just ain’t so.

By the way, the demand characterization apparently creeps into this phone call largely as the result of Army LTC Alexander Vindman’s testimony where he equates a request based upon his military experience, and having listened in on the call, by a superior officer—in this case, the Commander in Chief—as the same thing as an order in the chain of command.
While all of this may be true in the military, it goes without saying that President Zelensky, as the leader and head of a sovereign nation, was not and is not in our military chain of command.
I say that to you, Members of the Senate, as the son of a U.S. Army colonel and Vietnam war veteran buried in Arlington National Cemetery and as the father of a U.S. Army major currently serving with President Trump’s Space Force Command in Aurora, CO,
near Denver.
With all due respect, Lieutenant
Colonel Vindman’s testimony in this regard is at best, I submit to you, distorted and unpersuasive.
Next, there’s an implicit link between foreign aid and the investigations, or the announcement of them, is weak. The most that Ambassador Gordon Sondland was able to give was his presumption that such a link likely ex-estisted. That presumption was flatly contradicted by the President’s express denial of the existence of a quid pro quo to Ambassador Sondland as well as to Senator Ron Johnson.
The President was emphatic to Ambassador Sondland. The President said:
I want nothing. I want no quid pro quo. I just want Zelensky to do the right thing, to do what he ran on.
And to Senator Johnson, the same
two words: “No way.”
Recognizing this flaw in the testimony, House managers have focused instead on an alternate quid pro quo
rationale, that the exchange was conditioned on a foreign head-of-state meeting at the White House in return for Ukraine publicly announcing an investigation of the Bidens.
In the House Judiciary report, it states as follows: “It is beyond question that the two words: ‘No White House
is constituting a ‘formal exercise of government power’ within the meaning of McDonnell.”
Not so fast. Actually, the Supreme Court in McDonnell helpfully boiled it down to only those acts that constitute the formal exercise of government power
and that are more specific and
focused than a broad policy objective.
An exchange resulting in meetings,
events, phone calls, as those terms are typically used, would not be formalized. According to the Supreme Court’s definition of an official act, do not count.
The fact that the meeting involved was a formal one, with all of the trappings of a state visit by the President and the host, and the President of the United States, makes no difference. The Supreme Court is talking about an official act as a formal exercise of decision-making power, not the formality of the visit. Even if the allegation were true, this could not constitute a quid pro quo.
I should know. I argued, in effect, the contrary proposition in United States
v. Sun-Diamond before the Supreme Court over 20 years ago in 1999. That proposition lost—unanimously. The testimony was 9 to 0.
In any event, the coveted meeting—and it was, after all, just a meeting, a social event, not a meeting of heads of state and Vietnam war veteran buried in Arlington National Cemetery and as the father of a U.S. Army colonel and Vietnam war veteran buried in Arlington National Cemetery and as
the father of a U.S. Army major currently serving with President Trump’s Space Force Command in Aurora, CO,
near Denver.
With all due respect, Lieutenant
Colonel Vindman’s testimony in this regard is at best, I submit to you, distorted and unpersuasive.
Next, there’s an implicit link between foreign aid and the investigations, or the announcement of them, is weak. The most that Ambassador Gordon Sondland was able to give was his presumption that such a link likely ex-estisted. That presumption was flatly contradicted by the President’s express
denial of the existence of a quid pro
quo to Ambassador Sondland as well as
to Senator Ron Johnson.
The President was emphatic to Ambassador Sondland. The President said:
I want nothing. I want no quid pro quo. I just want Zelensky to do the right thing, to
do what he ran on.
And to Senator Johnson, the same
two words: “No way.”
Recognizing this flaw in the testimony, House managers have focused
instead on an alternate quid pro quo
rationale, that the exchange was conditioned on a foreign head-of-state meeting at the White House in return for Ukraine publicly announcing an investigation of the Bidens.
In the House Judiciary report, it
states as follows: “It is beyond question that the two words: ‘No White House
is constituting a ‘formal exercise of government power’ within the meaning of McDonnell.”
Not so fast. Actually, the Supreme Court in McDonnell helpfully boiled it
down to only those acts that constitute
the formal exercise of government power
and that are more specific and
focused than a broad policy objective.
An exchange resulting in meetings,
events, phone calls, as those terms are typically used, would not be formalized. According to the Supreme Court’s definition of an official act, do not count.
The fact that the meeting involved
was a formal one, with all of the trappings of a state visit by the President and the host, and the President of the United States, makes no difference. The Supreme Court is talking about an official act as a formal exercise of decision-making power,
not the formality of the visit. Even if the allegation were true, this could not constitute a quid pro quo.
I should know. I argued, in effect, the contrary proposition in United States about who is right. Law review articles have been written about it, one as recently as last June in the Harvard Law Review.
Congress, through its arm, the GAO, had an opposing view from that of the administration and OMB—big surprise.
I am reminded of one of President
Kennedy’s famous press conferences, where he was asked to comment about a report that the Republican National Committee had voted that concluded he was a total failure as President. He famously quipped: “I am sure that it was passed unanimously.”
That is all that this is here: politics.
No more, no less. And in the end, what are we talking about? The temporary hold was lifted and the funds were released, as they had to be under the law and as acknowledged was required by none other than Acting Chief of Staff
Mick Mulvaney, 19 days before the end of the fiscal year on September 11, 2019.
In any event, an alleged violation of the Impoundment Act cannot more sus-tain an Impeachment Article than can an assertion of executive privilege in opposition to a congressional subpoena, amounting to a final decision of a court ordering compliance with that subpoena.
Mere assertion of a privilege or objection in a legitimate interbranch dispute is a constitutional prerogative. It should never result in an impossi-bable offense for abuse of power or obstruction of Congress. And, yet, in a last-ditch effort to reframe its first Article of Impeachment on abuse of power, House managers, as part of the House Judiciary Committee, have gone back into history—always a treacherous endeavor for lawyers. They now argue that President Andrew Johnson’s impeachment, from over 150 years ago following the end of the Civil War and during reconstruction, was not about a violation of the Tenure of Office Act, which, after all, was the violation of law charged as the principle Article of Impeachment but, instead, rested on his use of power with illegitimate motives.
In an ahistorical sleight of hand worthy only of the New York Times recent “1619” series—a series, by the way, roundly criticized by two of my Princeton Civil War and reconstruction history professors as inaccurate—House managers now claim that President Johnson’s removal of Lincoln’s Sec-tary of War Edwin Stanton without Congress’s permission in violation of a judicial statute, later found to be unconstitutional, is best understood under separation of power principles, that has constitutional implications with the benefit of revisionist hindsight to be motivated not by his desire to violate the statute but on his illegitimate use of power to undermine reconstruction, to suppress, and as a form of American Indians following the Civil War.
That all may be true, but it is another thing altogether to claim that that motive actually was the basis of Johnson’s impeachment. Professor Laurence Tribe, who was the source for this misguided reinterpretation of the Johnson impeachment, simply substitutes his own self-described, far more compelling basis for Johnson's removal from office from the one that the House of Representatives actually voted on and the Senate considered at his impeachment trial.

There has been an awful lot of that going on in this impeachment, and the Senate must have at least one other courageous Senator from one of the states previously—and publicly—that it would have been better, in attempting to spur action by a foreign government in coordinating law enforcement efforts with our government, to have done so through proper channels. While the President certainly enjoys the power to do otherwise, there is consequence to that action, as we have now witnessed. After all, that is why we are all here.

But it is another thing altogether to claim that such conduct is clearly and unmistakably impeachable as an abuse of power. There can be no serious question that this President, or any President, acts lawfully in requesting foreign investigations into possible corruption, even when it might potentially involve another politician.

To argue otherwise would be to engage in the specious contention that a President, for no more than any candidate enjoys absolute immunity from investigations during the course of a campaign.

I can tell you that is not the case from my own experience. I did so during 2000 in investigating Hillary Clinton while she was running for office to become a U.S. Senator from New York, to which she was elected.

My point simply is this: This President has been impeached and stands on trial here in the Senate for allegedly doing something indirectly about which he was entirely permitted to do directly. That cannot form a basis as an abuse of power article sufficient to warrant his removal from office.

Turning now to the second Article of Impeachment, as we argued in our written trial brief, at the outset, it must be noted that it is at least a little odd for House managers to be arguing that President Trump somehow obstructed Congress when he declassified and released what is the central piece of evidence in this case. And that is, of course, the transcript of the July 25 call, as well as the call with President Zelensky that preceded it on April 21, 2019.

Release of that full call record should have been the end of this claim of obstruction, but apparently not. Instead, again, relying on the United States v. Nixon, House managers have proffered a broad claim to documents and witnesses in an impeachment inquiry, notwithstanding the Nixon court's limited holding that an objection by the President based on executive privilege could only be overcome in the limited circumstances presented there where the material was integral to the preparation of the defense by his coconspirators in pending cases awaiting trial following indictments. In other words, a defendant's Sixth Amendment right to a fair trial in collateral proceedings was what the court actually found dispositive in rejecting the President's claim of privilege to prevent Congress from gaining access to the Watergate tapes.

All subsequent administrations have defended that narrow exception against any general claim of access to executive branch confidential communications, documents, and witnesses who are the President's closest advisers.

Thus, it should be a matter of accepted wisdom and historical premise that a President cannot be removed from office for invoking established legal rights. The general standard, not just from the Whitewater inquiries, but also from the impeachment of President Johnson based on executive privilege could have been the end of this claim of obstruction, but apparently not. Instead, again, relying on the United States v. Nixon, House managers have proffered a broad claim to documents and witnesses in an impeachment inquiry, notwithstanding the Nixon court's limited holding that an objection by the President based on executive privilege could only be overcome in the limited circumstances presented there where the material was integral to the preparation of the defense by his coconspirators in pending cases awaiting trial following indictments. In other words, a defendant's Sixth Amendment right to a fair trial in collateral proceedings was what the court actually found dispositive in rejecting the President's claim of privilege to prevent Congress from gaining access to the Watergate tapes.

All subsequent administrations have defended that narrow exception against any general claim of access to executive branch confidential communications, documents, and witnesses who are the President's closest advisers. Thus, it should be a matter of accepted wisdom and historical premise that a President cannot be removed from office for invoking established legal rights. The general standard, not just from the Whitewater inquiries, but also from the impeachment of President Johnson based on executive privilege could have been the end of this claim of obstruction, but apparently not. Instead, again, relying on the United States v. Nixon, House managers have proffered a broad claim to documents and witnesses in an impeachment inquiry, notwithstanding the Nixon court's limited holding that an objection by the President based on executive privilege could only be overcome in the limited circumstances presented there where the material was integral to the preparation of the defense by his coconspirators in pending cases awaiting trial following indictments. In other words, a defendant's Sixth Amendment right to a fair trial in collateral proceedings was what the court actually found dispositive in rejecting the President's claim of privilege to prevent Congress from gaining access to the Watergate tapes.

Thus, it should be a matter of accepted wisdom and historical premise that a President cannot be removed from office for invoking established legal rights. The general standard, not just from the Whitewater inquiries, but also from the impeachment of President Johnson based on executive privilege could have been the end of this claim of obstruction, but apparently not. Instead, again, relying on the United States v. Nixon, House managers have proffered a broad claim to documents and witnesses in an impeachment inquiry, notwithstanding the Nixon court's limited holding that an objection by the President based on executive privilege could only be overcome in the limited circumstances presented there where the material was integral to the preparation of the defense by his coconspirators in pending cases awaiting trial following indictments. In other words, a defendant's Sixth Amendment right to a fair trial in collateral proceedings was what the court actually found dispositive in rejecting the President's claim of privilege to prevent Congress from gaining access to the Watergate tapes.

Thus, it should be a matter of accepted wisdom and historical premise that a President cannot be removed from office for invoking established legal rights. The general standard, not just from the Whitewater inquiries, but also from the impeachment of President Johnson based on executive privilege could have been the end of this claim of obstruction, but apparently not. Instead, again, relying on the United States v. Nixon, House managers have proffered a broad claim to documents and witnesses in an impeachment inquiry, notwithstanding the Nixon court's limited holding that an objection by the President based on executive privilege could only be overcome in the limited circumstances presented there where the material was integral to the preparation of the defense by his coconspirators in pending cases awaiting trial following indictments. In other words, a defendant's Sixth Amendment right to a fair trial in collateral proceedings was what the court actually found dispositive in rejecting the President's claim of privilege to prevent Congress from gaining access to the Watergate tapes.
White House Counsel Don McGahn’s testimony, grand jury material, and other documents has been drawn out since April of last year, I can only say in response: Boo-hoo.

Did I think at the time that many of those claims of privilege were frivolous and an abuse of the judicial process? Of course. And, indeed, that was the determination of the House Judiciary Committee during the Clinton impeachment. What did they do about it? Nothing. The committee properly concluded that the House assertions of privilege, even if ill-founded, did not constitute an impeachable offense. Did I believe that the Clinton administration’s actions in this regard have adversely impacted our investigation? You bet I did. And I said so in the final report. But never did I seriously consider that those efforts by the White House, although endlessly frustrating and damaging to the independent counsel’s investigation, would constitute the obstruction of justice or any related impeachable offense for obstruction of Congress. Instead, I and my colleagues did the best that we could in reaching an accommodation with the White House where possible or through litigation, when necessary, in order to complete the task at hand, to the best of our ability to do so.

Any contention that what has transpired here involving this administration’s assertion of valid and well-recognized legal ethics, and even courses of action that I have seen in my own life and for my own experience, even in Washington, DC.

Well, Members of the Senate, this, what lies before you now, is just such a big thing. The next election awaits. Election day is only 9 months away.

As Senator Dale Bumpers eloquently concluded in arguing against President Clinton’s removal from office:

That is the day when we reach across this aisle and hold hands, Democrats and Republicans, and laugh at our political losses, and then move on from the decision. It is a solemn event, a Presidential election, and it should not be undone lightly or just because one side has political clout and the other one doesn’t.

Otherwise, as Abraham Lincoln warned us during his first inaugural address:

If the minority will not acquiesce . . . the government must cease.

So that rejecting the majority principle, anarchy . . . in some form, is all that is left.

This impeachment and the refusal to accept the results of the last election in 2016 cannot be left to stand. For the reasons stated, the Articles of Impeachment, therefore, should be rejected, and the President must be acquitted.

Members of the Senate, thank you very much.

With that, Mr. Chief Justice, I yield back to Mr. Sekulow.

Thank you.

Mr. Counsel SEKULOW. Mr. Chief Justice, we are going to now delve into the constitutional issues for a bit and our presenter is Professor Alan Dershowitz. He is the Felix Frankfurter Professor Emeritus of Harvard Law School. After serving as a law clerk for Judge David Bazelon of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, he served as a law clerk for Justice Arthur Goldberg at the U.S. Supreme Court. At the age of 28, Professor Dershowitz became the youngest tenured professor at Harvard Law School. Mr. Dershowitz spent 50 years as an active faculty member at Harvard, teaching generations of law students, including several Members of this Chamber, in classes ranging from criminal law to constitutional law, criminal procedure, constitutional litigation, legal ethics, and even courses on impeachment. He will address the constitutional issues raised by these articles.

Mr. Counsel DERSHOWITZ. Mr. Chief Justice, distinguished Members of the Senate, our friends, lawyers, fellow lawyers, it is a great honor for me to stand before you today to present a constitutional argument against the impeachment and removal not only of this President but of all and any future Presidents who may be charged with the unconstitutional grounds of abuse of power and obstruction of Congress.

I stand before you today as I stood in 1973 and 1974 for the protection of the constitutional and procedural rights of Richard Nixon, whom I personally abhorred, and whose impeachment I personally favored; and as I stood for the rights of President Clinton, whom I admired and whose impeachment I strongly opposed. I stand against the application and misapplication of the constitutional criteria in every case and against any President without regard to whether I support his or her parties or policies. I would be making the very same constitutional argument had Hillary Clinton, for whom I voted, been elected and had a Republican House voted to impeach her on these unconstitutional grounds.

I am here today because I love my country and our Constitution. Everyone in this room shares that love. I will argue that our Constitution and its terms, high crimes and misdemeanors, do not encompass the two articles charging abuse of power and obstruction of Congress. In offering these arguments, I stand in the footsteps and in the spirit of Justice Benjamin Curtis, who was of counsel to impeached President Andrew Johnson and who explained to the Senate that “a greater clout and the other one doesn’t.

Otherwise, as Abraham Lincoln warned us during his first inaugural address:

If the minority will not acquiesce . . . the government must cease.

So that rejecting the majority principle, anarchy . . . in some form, is all that is left.

This impeachment and the refusal to accept the results of the last election in 2016 cannot be left to stand. For the reasons stated, the Articles of Impeachment, therefore, should be rejected, and the President must be acquitted.

Members of the Senate, thank you very much.

With that, Mr. Chief Justice, I yield back to Mr. Sekulow.

Thank you.

Mr. Counsel SEKULOW. Mr. Chief Justice, we are going to now delve into the constitutional issues for a bit and our presenter is Professor Alan Dershowitz. He is the Felix Frankfurter Professor Emeritus of Harvard Law School. After serving as a law clerk for Judge David Bazelon of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, he served as a law clerk for Justice Arthur Goldberg at the U.S. Supreme Court. At the age of 28, Professor Dershowitz became the youngest tenured professor at Harvard Law School. Mr. Dershowitz spent 50 years as an active faculty member at Harvard, teaching generations of law students, including several Members of this Chamber, in classes ranging from criminal law to constitutional law, criminal procedure, constitutional litigation, legal ethics, and even courses on impeachment. He will address the constitutional issues raised by these articles.

Mr. Counsel DERSHOWITZ. Mr. Chief Justice, distinguished Members of the Senate, our friends, lawyers, fellow lawyers, it is a great honor for me to stand before you today to present a constitutional argument against the impeachment and removal not only of this President but of all and any future Presidents who may be charged with the unconstitutional grounds of abuse of power and obstruction of Congress.

I stand before you today as I stood in 1973 and 1974 for the protection of the constitutional and procedural rights of Richard Nixon, whom I personally abhorred, and whose impeachment I personally favored; and as I stood for the rights of President Clinton, whom I admired and whose impeachment I strongly opposed. I stand against the application and misapplication of the constitutional criteria in every case and against any President without regard to whether I support his or her parties or policies. I would be making the very same constitutional argument had Hillary Clinton, for whom I voted, been elected and had a Republican House voted to impeach her on these unconstitutional grounds.

I am here today because I love my country and our Constitution. Everyone in this room shares that love. I will argue that our Constitution and its terms, high crimes and misdemeanors, do not encompass the two articles charging abuse of power and obstruction of Congress. In offering these arguments, I stand in the footsteps and in the spirit of Justice Benjamin Curtis, who was of counsel to impeached President Andrew Johnson and who explained to the Senate that “a greater clout and the other one doesn’t.

Otherwise, as Abraham Lincoln warned us during his first inaugural address:

If the minority will not acquiesce . . . the government must cease.

So that rejecting the majority principle, anarchy . . . in some form, is all that is left.

This impeachment and the refusal to accept the results of the last election in 2016 cannot be left to stand. For the reasons stated, the Articles of Impeachment, therefore, should be rejected, and the President must be acquitted.

Members of the Senate, thank you very much.

With that, Mr. Chief Justice, I yield back to Mr. Sekulow.

Thank you.

Mr. Counsel SEKULOW. Mr. Chief Justice, we are going to now delve into the constitutional issues for a bit and our presenter is Professor Alan Dershowitz. He is the Felix Frankfurter Professor Emeritus of Harvard Law School. After serving as a law clerk for Judge David Bazelon of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, he served as a law clerk for Justice Arthur Goldberg at the U.S. Supreme Court. At the age of 28, Professor Dershowitz became the youngest tenured professor at Harvard Law School. Mr. Dershowitz spent 50 years as an active faculty member at Harvard, teaching generations of law students, including several Members of this Chamber, in classes ranging from criminal law to constitutional law, criminal procedure, constitutional litigation, legal ethics, and even courses on impeachment. He will address the constitutional issues raised by these articles.

Mr. Counsel DERSHOWITZ. Mr. Chief Justice, distinguished Members of the Senate, our friends, lawyers, fellow lawyers, it is a great honor for me to stand before you today to present a constitutional argument against the impeachment and removal not only of this President but of all and any future Presidents who may be charged with the unconstitutional grounds of abuse of power and obstruction of Congress.

I stand before you today as I stood in 1973 and 1974 for the protection of the constitutional and procedural rights of Richard Nixon, whom I personally abhorred, and whose impeachment I personally favored; and as I stood for the rights of President Clinton, whom I admired and whose impeachment I strongly opposed. I stand against the application and misapplication of the constitutional criteria in every case and against any President without regard to whether I support his or her parties or policies. I would be making the very same constitutional argument had Hillary Clinton, for whom I voted, been elected and had a Republican House voted to impeach her on these unconstitutional grounds.

I am here today because I love my country and our Constitution. Everyone in this room shares that love. I will argue that our Constitution and its terms, high crimes and misdemeanors, do not encompass the two articles charging abuse of power and obstruction of Congress. In offering these arguments, I stand in the footsteps and in the spirit of Justice Benjamin Curtis, who was of counsel to impeached President Andrew Johnson and who explained to the Senate that “a greater clout and the other one doesn’t.

Otherwise, as Abraham Lincoln warned us during his first inaugural address:

If the minority will not acquiesce . . . the government must cease.

So that rejecting the majority principle, anarchy . . . in some form, is all that is left.

This impeachment and the refusal to accept the results of the last election in 2016 cannot be left to stand. For the reasons stated, the Articles of Impeachment, therefore, should be rejected, and the President must be acquitted.

Members of the Senate, thank you very much.

With that, Mr. Chief Justice, I yield back to Mr. Sekulow.

Thank you.
will then examine why the Framers selected the words they did as the sole criteria authorizing impeachment. In making my presentation, I will transport you back to a hot summer in Philadelphia and a cold winter in Washington. I will introduce you to patriots and ideas that helped shape our great Nation.

To prepare for this journey, I have immersed myself in a lot of dusty old volumes, 18th and 19th century. I ask your indulgence as I quote from the wisdom of our Founders. This return to the days of yesteryear is necessary because the issue today is not what the criteria of impeachment should be, but what a legislative body or a constitutional body might today decide are the proper criteria for impeachment of a President but what the Framers of our Constitution actually chose and what they expressly and implicitly intended.

I will ask whether the Framers would have accepted such vague and open-ended terms as “abuse of power” and “obstruction of Congress” as governing criteria. I begin that review of the history that they did not and would not accept such criteria for fear that these criteria would turn our new Republic into a British-style parliamentary democracy in which the Chief Executive’s tenure would be, in the words of James Madison, father of our Constitution, “at the pleasure” of the legislature.

The conclusion I will offer for your consideration is similar, though not identical, to what is advocated by the late respected Justice Benjamin Curtis, who, as you know, dissented from the Supreme Court’s notorious decision in Dred Scott, and who, after resigning in protest from the High Court, served as counsel to President Andrew Johnson in the Senate impeachment trial. He argued that “there can be no crime, there can be no misdemeanor without a law, written or unwritten, express or implied.”

In so arguing, he was echoing the conclusion reached by Dean Theodore Dwight of the Columbia Law School, who wrote in 1867, just before the impeachment, that “unless the crime is specifically named in the Constitution”—treason and bribery—“impeachment, like indictments, can only be compelled by the constitutional text. Treason, bribery, and other high crimes and misdemeanors are high crimes. Other high crimes and misdemeanors must be akin to treason and bribery. Curtis cited the Latin phrase “Noscitur a sociis” for my pronunciation—referring to a classic rule of interpretation that when the meaning of a word that is part of a group of words is uncertain, you should look to the other words in that group that provide interpretive context.

The late Justice Antonin Scalia gave the following current example. If one speaks of Mickey Mantle, Rocky Marciano, Michael Jordan, and other great competitors, the last noun does not mean the last. According to Senator William Pitt Fessenden later put it, “Judge Curtis gave us the law, and we followed it.”

Senator James W. Grimes echoed Curtis’s argument by refusing to accept the interpretation of high crimes and misdemeanors that changes “according to the law of each Senator’s judgment, enacted in his own bosom after the alleged commission of the offense.” Though he desperately wanted to see President Johnson, whom he despised, out of office, he believed that an impeachment removal without the violation of law would be “construed upon approval of impeachments as part of future political machinery.”

According to Professor Bowie, Justice Curtis’s constitutional arguments may well have contributed to the decision by at least some of the seven Republican dissenters to defy their party and vote for acquittal, which was secured by a single vote.

Today, Professor Bowie has an article in the New York Times in which he repeats his view of “impeachment requires a crime, but he now argues that the Articles of Impeachment do charge crimes. He is simply wrong. He is wrong because in the United States v. Hudson—a case decided almost more than 200 years ago now—the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that Federal courts have no jurisdiction to create common law crimes. Crimes are only what are in the statute book.

So Professor Bowie is right that the Constitution requires a crime for impeachment but wrong when he says that common law crimes can be used as a basis for impeaching even though they don’t appear in the statute books.

Now, I am not here arguing that the current distinguished Members of the Senate are in any way bound—legally bound—by Justice Curtis's arguments or those of Dean Dwight, but I am arguing that you should give them serious consideration—the consideration to which they are entitled by the eminence of their author and the role they may have played in the outcome of the closest precedent to the current case

I want to be clear. There is a nuanced difference between the arguments made by Curtis and Dwight and the argument that I am presenting here today based on my reading of history. Curtis argued that there must be a specific violation of preexisting law. He recognized that, at the time of the Constitution, there were no Federal criminal statutes. Of course not. The Constitution established a national government, so we couldn't have statutes prior to the establishment of our Constitution and our Nation.

This argument is offered today by proponents of this impeachment on the claim that the Framers could not have intended the criteria for impeachment to criminal-like behavior. Justice Curtis addressed that issue and that argument head-on.

He pointed out that crimes such as bribery would be different crimes by the laws of the United States, which the Framers of the Constitution knew would be passed. In other words, he anticipated that Congress would soon enact statutes punishing and defining crimes such as burglary, extortion, perjury, and the like. He anticipated that, and he based his argument, in part, on that.

The Constitution already included treason as a crime, and that was defined in the Constitution itself, and then it included other crimes; but what Justice Curtis said is that you could include laws, "written or unwritten, express or implied"—by which he meant common law, which, at the time of the Constitution, there were many common crimes—and they were enforceable, even federally, until the Supreme Court, many years later, decided that common law crimes were no longer part of Federal jurisdiction.

So the position that I have derived from history would include—and this is a word that will upset some people—criminal-like conduct akin to treason and bribery. There need not be, in my view, conclusive evidence of a technical crime that would necessarily result in a criminal conviction. Let me explain.

For example, if a President were to receive or give a bribe outside of the United States and outside of the statute of limitations, he could not technically be prosecuted. But the Framers, of course, had a different view. They were justifiably afraid that a President might commit acts of bribery, extortion, perjury, or obstruction of justice, he could be charged with these crimes as impeachable offenses because these crimes, though not specified in the Constitution, are akin to treason and bribery. This would be true even if some of the technical elements—time and place—were absent.

What Curtis and Dwight and I agree upon—and this is the key point in this impeachment case; please understand what I am arguing—is that purely non-criminal conduct, including abuse of power and obstruction of Congress, are outside the range of impeachable offenses. That is the key argument I am presenting today.

This view was supported by text writers and judges close in time to the Founding. William Blackstone, whose 1819 treatise on criminal law was a Bible among criminal law scholars and others, defined "high crimes and misdemeanors" as "such immoral and unlawful acts as are nearly allied, and in equal guilt, to a felony; and yet, owing to the absence of some technical circumstances"—technical circumstances—"do not fall within the definition of a felony." Similar views were expressed by some State courts. Others disagreed; but Curtis and Dwight are rejected, I think, because they were supported by the justices of the Supreme Court, many years later, decided that common law crimes—and they were expressed by some State courts.

Curtis's considered views and those of Dwight, Russell, and others, based on careful study of the text and history, are not "bonkers," "absurdist," "legal claptrap," or other demeaning epithets thrown around by partisan supporters of this impeachment. As Judge Starr pointed out, they have the weight of authority. They were accepted by the generation of the Founders and the generations that followed. If they are not accepted by academics today, that shows a weakness among the academics, not among the Founders. Those who disagree with Curtis's textual analysis are obliged, I believe, to respond with more literate interpretations, not name-calling.

If Justice Curtis's arguments and those of Dean Dwight are rejected, I think then proponents of impeachment must offer alternative principles and alternative standards for impeachment and removal.

We just heard that, in 1970, Congressman Gerald Ford, whom I greatly admired, said the following in the context of an impeachment of justice: "[A]n impeachable offense is whatever a majority of the House of Representatives considers it to be at a given moment in history," et cetera. You all know the quote.

Congresswoman MAXINE WATERS recently put it more succinctly in the context of a Presidential impeachment. Here is what she said:

Impeachment is whatever Congress says it is. There is no law.

But this lawless view would place Congress above the law. It would place Congress above the Constitution. For Congress to ignore the specific words of the Constitution itself and substitute its own judgments would be for Congress to disagree that it is accusing the President of doing—and no one is above the law. The President and not Congress.

This is precisely the kind of view expressly rejected by the Framers, who feared having a President serve at the "pleasure" of the legislature, and it is precisely the view rejected by Senator James Grimes when he refused to accept corruption and other crimes and misdemeanors that would change "according to the law of each Senator's judgment, enacted in his own bosom."

The Constitution requires, in the words of Gouverneur Morris, that the impeachment of a President for impeachment offense must be "enumerated and defined." Those who advocate impeachment today are obliged to demonstrate how the criteria accepted by the House in this case are enumerated and defined in the Constitution.

The compelling textual analysis provided by Justice Curtis is confirmed by the debate in the Constitutional Convention, by the Federalist Papers, by the writings of William Blackstone, and, I believe, by the writings of Alexander Hamilton, which were heavily relied on by lawyers at the time of the Constitution's adoption.

There were at the time of the Constitution's adoption two great debates over impeachment laws that went on, and it is very important to understand the distinction between these two great debates. It is hard to imagine today, but the first was, Should there be any power to impeach a President at all? There were several members of the founding generation and of the Framers of the Constitution who said no—who said, no, a President shouldn't be allowed to be impeached. The second—and the second is very, very important in our consideration today—is, If a President is to be subject to impeachment, what should the criteria be? These are very different issues, and they are often erroneously conflated.

Let's start with the first debate.

During the broad debate about whether a President should be subject to impeachment, proponents of impeachment used such terms as "unfit," "obnoxious," "corrupt," "misconduct," "misbehavior," "negligence," "malpractice," "perfidy," "treachery," "incapacity," "peculation," and "mal-administration." They worried that a President might "pervert his administration into a scheme of speculation and oppression"; that he might be "corrupted by foreign influence"; and—yes, this is important—that he might have "great opportunities of abusing his power."

Those were the concerns that led the Framers to decide that a President must be subject to impeachment, but not a single one of the Framers suggested that the need for impeachment and removal mechanism should automatically be accepted as a specific criterion for impeachment. Far from it.

Gouverneur Morris aptly put it: "[C]orruption and some other offenses . . . ought to be impeachable, but . . . the cases ought to be enumerated and defined."
The great fallacy of many contemporary scholars and pundits, and, with due respect, Members of the House of Representatives is that they fail to understand the critical distinction between the broad reasons for needing an impeachment mechanism and the carefully enumerated and defined criteria that should authorize the deployment of this powerful weapon.

Let me give you a hypothetical example that might have faced Congress or, certainly, will face Congress.

Let us assume that there is a debate over regulating the content of social media—whether we should have regulations or criminal, civil regulations over Twitter or Facebook, et cetera. In the debate over regulating the social media, proponents of regulation might well cite broad dangers, such as false information, inappropriate content, hate speech. Those are good reasons for having regulation; but when it came to enumerating and defining what should be prohibited and what broad dangers would have to be balanced against other important policies, and the resulting legislation would be much narrower and more carefully defined than the broad dangers that necessitated some regulation.

The Framers understood and acted on this difference, and I am afraid that many scholars and others and Members of Congress fail to see this distinction, and they cite some of the fears that led to the need for an impeachment mechanism. They cite them as the criteria themselves. That is a deep fallacy, and it is crucially important that the distinction be sharply drawn between arguments made in favor of impeaching and the criteria then decided upon to justify the impeachment specifically of the President.

The Framers understood this, and so they got down to the difficult business of enumerating and defining precisely which offenses, among the many that they feared might occur, should be impeachable as distinguished by those left to the voters to evaluate.

Some Framers, such as Roger Sherman, wanted the President to be removable by “the National legislature” at its “pleasure,” much like the Prime Minister can be removed by a simple vote of no confidence by Parliament. That view was rejected.

Benjamin Franklin opposed decidedly the making of the Executive “the mere creature of the legislature.”

Gouverneur Morris was against “a dependence of the Executive on the Legislature, considering the Legislature”—you will pardon me for quoting him—a “creature of the legislature.”

James Madison expressed concern about the President being improperly dependent on the legislature. Others worried about a feeble executive.

He and others made arguments against turning the new Republic into a parliamentary democracy, in which the legislature had the power to remove the President, the Framers set out to strike the appropriate balance between the broad concerns that led them to vote for a provision authorizing the impeachment of the President and the need for specific criteria not subject to legislative abuse or overreach. Among the criteria proposed were: malpractice, neglect of duty, malconduct, neglect in the execution of office, and—and this word we will come back to talk about—maladministration.

It was in response to that last term, a term used in Britain, as a criteria for impeachment that Madison responded: “So vague a term will be equivalent to a tenure during the pleasure of the Senate.”

Upon hearing Madison’s objections Colonel Mason withdrew “maladministration” and substituted “other high crimes and misdemeanors.”

Had a delegate proposed inclusion of “abuse of power” or “obstruction of Congress” as enumerated and defined criteria for impeachment, history strongly suggests that Madison would have similarly opposed it, and it would have been rejected.

I will come back to that argument a little later on when I talk specifically about abuse of power.

Indeed, Madison worried that a partisan legislature could even misuse the word “misdemeanor” to include a broad array of noncrimes, so he proposed moving the trial to the nonpartisan Supreme Court. The proposal was rejected.

Now, this does not mean, as some have suggested, that Madison suddenly changed his mind and favored such misuse to expand the meaning of “misdemeanor” to include broad terms like “misbehavior.” No, it only meant that he feared—he feared that the word “misdemeanor” could be abused. His fear has been proved prescient by the misuse of that term, “high crimes and misdemeanors,” by the House, in this case.

Now, the best evidence that the broad concerns cited by the Framers to justify impeachment were not automatically accepted as criteria justifying impeachment is the manner by which the word “incapacity”—focus on that word, please—incapacity was treated.

Madison and others focused heavily on the problem of what happens if a President becomes incapacitated. Certainly, a President who is incapacitated should not be allowed to continue to preside over this great country. And everyone seemed to agree that the possibility of Presidential incapacity is a good and powerful reason for having impeachment.

But when it came time to establishing criteria for actually removing a President, “incapacity” was not included. Why not? Presumably because it was too vague and subjective a term.

And the problem is this: any impeached President in the end of the Woodrow Wilson second term, he was not impeached and removed.

A constitutional amendment with carefully drawn procedural safeguards against abuse was required to remedy the daunting problem of a President who was deemed incapacitated.

Now, another reason why incapacitation was not included as impeachable offenses is because it is not criminal. It is not a crime to be incapacitated. It is not akin to treason. It is not akin to bribery, and it is not a high crime and misdemeanor.

The Framers believed that impeachable offenses must be criminal in nature and akin to the most serious crimes. Incapacity simply did not fit into this category. Nothing criminal about it.

So the Constitution had to be amended to include a different category of noncriminal behavior that warranted removal.

I urge you to consider seriously that important part of the history of the adoption of our Constitution.

I think that Blackstone and Hamilton also support this view.

There is no disagreement over the conclusion that the words “treason, bribery, or other high crimes”—those words require criminal behavior. The debate is only over the words “and misdemeanors.” The Framers of the Constitution were fully cognizant of the fact that the word “misdemeanor” was a species of crime.

The book that was most often deemed authoritative was written by William Blackstone of Great Britain, and, in that, is what he says about this in the version that was available to the Framers:

A crime, or misdemeanor, is an act committed or omitted, in violation of the [public] law, either forbidding or commanding it. The general definition comprehends both crimes and misdemeanors; which, properly speaking, are mere synonymous terms.

Mere synonymous terms. He went on:

Though, in common usage, the word “crimes” is made to denote such offenses of a deeper and more atrocious dye; while smaller faults, and omissions of less consequence, are comprised under the gentler name of “misdemeanors” only.

Interestingly, though, he pointed out that misdemeanors were not always so gentle.

There was a category called “capital misdemeanors,” where if you stole somebody’s pig or other fowl, you could be sentenced to death, but it was only for a misdemeanor. Don’t worry. It is not for a felony. But there were misdemeanors that were capital in nature.

Moreover, Blackstone wrote that parliamentary impeachment “is a prosecution”—a prosecution—“of already known and established law [presented] to the most high and Supreme Court of criminal jurisdiction”—analogous to this great court.

He observed that “[a] commoner can be impeached but only for high misdemeanors: a peer may be impeached for any crime”—any crime.

This certainly suggests that Blackstone deemed high misdemeanors to be a species of crime.
Hamilton is a little less clear on this issue, and not surprisingly because he was writing—in Federalist No. 65, he was writing not to define what the criteria for impeachment were, he was writing primarily in defense of the Constitution as written and less to define the law. He certainly cannot be cited as in favor of criteria such as abuse of power or obstruction of Congress, nor of impeachment voted along party lines.

He warned that the “greatest danger”—by which he means his words—the greatest danger [is] that the decision will be regulated more by the comparative strength of parties, than by the real demonstrations of innocence or guilt.

In addition to using the criminal terms “innocence” or “guilt,” Hamilton also referred to “prosecution” and “sentence.” He cited the constitutional provisions that states that “the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable to impeachment,” as a reason for not having the President tried before the Supreme Court.

He feared a double prosecution, a variation of double jeopardy, before the same judiciary. These points all sound in criminal law.

But advocates of a broad, open-ended, noncriminal interpretation of “high crimes and misdemeanors” insist that Hamilton is on their side, and they cite the following words regarding the court of impeachment. And I think I heard these words quoted more than any other words in support of a broad view of impeachment, and they are misunderstood. Here is what he said when describing the court of impeachment. He said:

"The subjects of its jurisdiction—

Those are important words, the subjects of its jurisdiction, by which he meant treason, bribery, and other high crimes and misdemeanors.

The subjects of its jurisdiction are those offenses which proceed from the misconduct of public men, or from the abuse or violation of some public trust. They are of a nature which may with peculiar propriety be denominated POLITICAL, as they relate chiefly to injuries done immediately to society itself."

Those are Hamilton’s words. They are often misunderstood as suggesting that the criteria authorizing impeachment include “the misconduct of public men” or “the abuse or violation of some public trust.”

That is a misreading. These words were used to characterize the constitutional criteria that are “the subject of” the jurisdiction of the court of impeachment: namely, “treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.”

Those specified crimes are political in nature. They are the crimes that involve “misconduct of public men” and “the abuse or violation of some public trust.”

Hamilton was not expanding the specified criteria to include—as independent grounds for impeachment—misconduct, abuse, or violation. If anything, he was contracting them to require, in addition to proof of the specified crimes, also proof that the crime must be of a political nature.

This would exclude President Clinton’s or any nonpolitical crimes. In fact, this is his position. Hamilton’s view was cited by Clinton’s advocates as contracting, not expanding, the meaning of “high crimes.”

Today, some of these same advocates, you look at the same words and cite them as expanding its meaning.

Clinton was accused of a crime—perjury—and so the issue in his case was not whether the Constitution required a crime for impeachment. Instead, the issue was whether Clinton’s alleged crime could be classified as a “high crime” in light of the personal nature.

During the Clinton impeachment, I stated in an interview that I did not think that a technical crime was required but that I did think that abusing the public trust could be considered. I said that:

"At that time, I had not done the extensive research on that issue because it was irrelevant to the Clinton case, and I was not fully aware of the conflicting words. So I simply accepted the academic consensus on an issue that was not on the front burner at the time."

But because this impeachment directly raises the issue of whether criminal behavior is required, I have gone back and read all the relevant historical material, as nonpartisan academics should always do, and have now concluded that the Framers did intend to limit the criteria for impeachment to criminal-type acts akin to treason, bribery, and they certainly did not intend to extend it to vague and open-ended and noncriminal accusations such as abuse of power or obstruction of Congress.

I published this academic conclusion well before I was asked to present the argument to the Senate in this case. My switch in attitude purely academic, purely nonpartisan.

Nor am I the only participant in this proceeding who has changed his mind. Several Members of Congress, several Senators expressed different views regarding the criteria for impeachment when the subject was President Clinton than they do now. Where President was Clinton, my colleague and friend Professor Laurence Tribe, who is advising Speaker PELOSI now, wrote that a sitting President could not be charged with a crime. Now he has changed his mind. That is what academics do and should do, based on new information.

If there are reasonable doubts about the intended meaning of “high crimes and misdemeanors,” Senators might consider resolving these doubts by reference to the legal concept known as lenity.

Lenity goes back to hundreds of years before the founding of our country and was a concept in Great Britain, relied upon by many of our own Justices and judges over the years. It was well known to the legal members of the founding generations.

It required that in construing a criminal statute that is capable of more than one reasonable interpretation, the interpretation that favors the defendant should be selected unless it conflicts with the intent of the statute.

It has been applied by Chief Justice Marshall, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, Felix Frankfurter, Justice Antonin Scalia and others.

Now, applying that rule to the interpretation of “high crimes and misdemeanors” would require that these words be construed narrowly to require criminal-like conduct akin to treason and bribery rather than broadly to encompass abuse of power and obstruction of Congress.

In other words, if Senators are in doubt about the meaning of “high crimes and misdemeanors” should incline them toward accepting a narrower rather than a broad interpretation, a view that rejects abuse of power and obstruction of Congress as within the constitutional criteria.

Now, even if the rule of lenity is not technically applicable to impeachment—that is a question—certainly, the policies underlying that rule are worthy and deserving of consideration as guides to constitutional interpretation.

Now, here I am making, I think, a very important point. Even if the Senate were to conclude that a technical crime is not required for impeachment, the critical question remains—and it is the question I now want to address myself to—do abuse of power and obstruction of Congress constitute impeachable offenses?

The relevant history answers that question clearly in the negative. Each of these charges suffers from the vice of being “so vague a term that they will be equivalent of tenure at the pleasure of the Senate,” to quote again the Father our Constitution.

Abuse of power is an accusation easily leveled by political opponents against controversial presidents. In our long history, many Presidents have been accused of abusing their power. I will now give you a list of Presidents who in our history have been accused of abusing their power. Some would be subject to impeachment under the House managers’ view of abuse: George Washington, for refusal to turn over documents relating to the Jay Treaty; John Adams for signing and enforcing the Alien and Sedition laws; and Thomas Jefferson, for purchasing Louisiana without congressional authorization.

I will go on—John Quincy Adams; Martin Van Buren; John Tyler, “arbitrary, despotic and corrupt use of the veto power”; James Polk—and here I quote Abraham Lincoln. Abraham Lincoln accused Polk of abusing the power of his office, “contemptuously disregarding the Constitution, usurping the role of Congress, and assuming the role of dictator.” He didn’t seek to impeach him, just sought to defeat him.

Abraham Lincoln was accused of abusing his power for suspending the writ of habeas corpus during the Civil War; President Grant, Grover Cleveland, William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, William Taft, Woodrow Wilson, Franklin Roosevelt, Harry Truman, Jimmy Carter, Ronald Reagan—concerning Iran-Contra, and now I say, Professor Laurence Tribe said the following: There lies why the Framers may be the most serious breach of duty by the President, a breach that may well entail an impeachable abuse of power”—George H.W. Bush. “The following was released today by the Clinton-Gore campaign: In the past weeks, Americans have begun to learn the extent to which George Bush and his administration have abused their governmental power for political purposes.”

That is how abuse of power should be used, to rhetorically say, it should be issued as statements of one political party against the other. That is the nature of the term. Abuse of power is a political weapon, and it should be levied against political opponents. Let the public decide if that is true.

Barack Obama, the House Committee on the Judiciary held an entire hearing entitled “Obama Administration’s Abuse of Power.”

By the standards applied to earlier Presidents, any controversial act by a Chief Executive could be denominated as abuse of power. For example, past Presidents have been accused of using their foreign policy, even their war powers, to enhance their electoral prospects. Presidents often have mixed motives that include partisan personal benefits, along with the national interest.

Professor Josh Blackman, constitutional law professor, provided the following interesting example:

In the height of the Civil War, President Lincoln encouraged General William Sherman to allow soldiers in the field to return to Indiana to vote.

What was Lincoln’s primary motivation, the professor asks.

He wanted to make sure that the government of Indiana remained in the hands of Republican loyalists who would continue the war until victory. Lincoln’s request risked undercutting the military effort by depleting the ranks. Moreover, during this time, soldiers in the remaining States faced greater risks than did the returning Hoosiers.

The professor continues:

Lincoln had personal motives. Privately, he sought victory for his party, but the President, as a President and as a party leader and Commander in Chief made a decision with life-or-death consequences.

Professor Blackman used the following relevant conclusion from this and other historical events. He said:

Politicians routinely promote the understanding of the general welfare while at the back of their minds considering how these actions impact their popularity. Often the two concepts overlap. What is good for the country is good for the official’s reelection.

That is clear from the language of the Constitution. You cannot turn conduct that is not impeachable into impeachable conduct simply by using words like “quid pro quo” and “personal benefit.”

It is inconceivable that the Framers would have intended so politically loaded and promiscuously deployed a term as “abuse of power” to be weaponized as a tool of impeachment. It is precisely the kind of vague, open-ended, and subjectively loaded term that the Framers feared and rejected.

Consider the term “maladministration.” I want to get back to that term because it was a term explicitly rejected by the Framers. Recall that it was raised, Madison objected to it, and it was then withdrawn, and it was not a part of the criteria. We all agree that maladministration is not a ground for impeachment. If the House were to implicate, misadministration, it would be placing itself above the law. There is no doubt about that because the Framers explicitly rejected maladministration.

Now what is maladministration? It is comparable in many ways to abuse of power. Maladministration has been defined as “abuse, corruption, misrule, dishonesty, misuse of office, and misbehavior.” Professor Brooke in his article in today’s “New York Times” equates abuse of power with “misconduct in office”—misconduct in office—thus supporting the view that, when the Framers rejected maladministration, they also rejected abuse of power as a criteria.

Blackstone denominated maladministration as a “high misdemeanor” that is punishable by “the method of parliamentary impeachment, wherein such penalties, short of death, are inflicted on He included among it imprisonment. In other words, you can go to prison for maladministration. Despite this British history, Madison insisted it be rejected as a constitutional criteria for impeachment because “so vague a term will not do, it is a tenure during pleasure of the Senate,” and it was subsequently rejected and withdrawn by its sponsor.

This important episode in our constitutional history supports the conclusion that the Framers did not accept, whole hog, the British approach to impeachment as some have mistakenly argued. Specifically, they rejected vague and open-ended criteria, even those that carried the threat of imprisonment in Great Britain because they did not want to turn our new Republic into a parliamentary-style democracy in which the Chief Executive could be removed from office simply by a vote of no confidence. That is what they didn’t want.

Sure, nobody was above the law, but they created a law. They created a law by which Congress could impeach, and they did not want to expand that law to include all the criteria that permitted impeachment in Great Britain. The Framers would never have included and did not include abuse of power as an enumerated and defined criteria for impeachment. By expressly rejecting maladministration, they implicitly rejected abuse.

Nor would the Framers have included obstruction of Congress as among the enumerated defined criteria—it, too, is vague and indefinable, especially in a constitutional system in which, according to Hamilton in Federalist No. 78, “the legislative body” is not themselves “the constitutional judge of their own subordinates” and the “act or legislation they put on them” is not “conclusive upon other departments.” Instead, he said, “the courts were designed as an intermediate body between the people [as declared in the Constitution] and the legislature” in order “to keep the latter within the limits assigned to their authority.”

Under our system of separation of powers and checks and balances, it cannot be an “obstruction of Congress” for a President to demand judicial review of legislation he regards as “a crime against humanity.” I have to tell you, I disagree with our President’s climate policies, but that is not a criteria for impeachment. Professor Tribe, as I mentioned, argued that under the criteria of abuse of power, President Ronald Reagan should have been impeached.

Would any American today accept a legal system in which prosecutors could charge a citizen with abuse of conduct? Can you imagine, abuse of conduct? For example, could the Constitution protect against a statute that “either forbids or requires the doing of an act in terms so vague that men and women of common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application.” It is very difficult to imagine criteria that fits this description of what the Supreme Court has said violates the first essential rule of due process more closely than abuse of power and obstruction of Congress.

Another constitutional rule of construction is that, when words can be interpreted in an unconstitutionally vague manner or a constitutional precise manner, the latter must be chosen. You are entitled to use that rule of interpretation as well in deciding whether or not obstruction of Congress or abuse of power can be defined as fitting within the criteria of high crimes and misdemeanors.

For the Senate to remove a duly-elected President on vague, nonconstitutional grounds, such as abuse of power or obstruction of Congress, would create a dangerous precedent and “be construed,” in the words of Senator James N. Grimes, “into approval of impeachment as part of future political machinery.”

This is a realistic threat to all future Presidents who serve with opposing legislative majorities that could easily concoct vague charges of abuse or obstruction of Congress. They would be able to distinguish alleged political sins from constitutionally impeachable offenses. Would any American today accept a legal system in which prosecutors could charge a citizen with abuse of conduct? Can you imagine, abuse of conduct? For example, could the Constitution protect against a statute that “either forbids or requires the doing of an act in terms so vague that men and women of common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application.” It is very difficult to imagine criteria that fits this description of what the Supreme Court has said violates the first essential rule of due process more closely than abuse of power and obstruction of Congress.

Another constitutional rule of construction is that, when words can be interpreted in an unconstitutionally vague manner or a constitutional precise manner, the latter must be chosen. You are entitled to use that rule of interpretation as well in deciding whether or not obstruction of Congress or abuse of power can be defined as fitting within the criteria of high crimes and misdemeanors.

For the Senate to remove a duly-elected President on vague, nonconstitutional grounds, such as abuse of power or obstruction of Congress, would create a dangerous precedent and “be construed,” in the words of Senator James N. Grimes, “into approval of impeachment as part of future political machinery.”

This is a realistic threat to all future Presidents who serve with opposing legislative majorities that could easily concoct vague charges of abuse or obstruction of Congress. They would be able to distinguish alleged political sins from constitutionally impeachable offenses.

In any event, it is the actual articles that charge abuse of power and obstruction of justice—neither of which are in the Constitution. It is the actual articles on which you must all vote, not on the more specific list of means included in the text of the articles.

The Framers understood that if they set the criteria for impeachment too low, few Presidents would serve their terms. Instead, their tenure would be... at the pleasure of the legislature, as it was and still is in Britain. So they set the standards and the criteria high, requiring not sinful behavior—not dishonesty, distrust, or dishonor—but treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

I end this presentation today with a nonpartisan plea for fair consideration of my arguments and those made by counsel and managers on both sides. I willingly acknowledge that the academic consensus is that criminal conduct is required for impeachment and that abuse of power and obstruction of Congress are sufficient. I have read and respectfully considered the academic work of my many colleagues who disagree with my view and the few who accept it. I do my own research, and I do my own thinking, and I have never bowed to the majority on intellectual or scholarly matters.

What concerns me is that during this impeachment proceeding, there have been many attempts to respond to my arguments and other people’s arguments opposed to the impeachment of this President. Instead of answering my arguments and those of Justice Curtis and Professor Bowie and others on their merits and possible demerits, they have simply been rejected with negative epithets.

I urge the Senators to ignore these epithets and to consider the arguments and counterarguments on their merits, especially in a time in which constitutional vagueness of abuse of power and obstruction of Congress.

I now offer a criteria for evaluating conflicting arguments. The criteria I offer I have long called the “shoe on the other foot” test. It is a colloquial variation of the test proposed by the great legal and political thinker, my former colleague, John Rawls. It is simple in its statement but difficult in its application.

As a thought experiment, I respectfully urge each of you to imagine that the person being impeached were of the opposite party of the current President but that in every other respect, the facts were the same.

I have applied this test to the constitutional arguments I am offering today. I would be making the same constitutional arguments in opposition to the impeachment on these two grounds regardless of whether I voted for or against the President, regardless of whether I agreed or disagreed with his or her policies. Those of you who know me know that is the absolute truth. I am nonpartisan in my application of the Constitution. Can the same be said for all of my colleagues who support this impeachment, especially those who opposed the impeachment of President Bill Clinton?

I first proposed the shoe test 20 years ago in evaluating the Supreme Court’s decision in Bush v. Gore, asking the Justices to consider how they would have voted had it been Candidate Bush, rather than Gore, who was several hundred votes behind and seeking a recount. In other words, I was on the other side of that issue. I thought the Supreme Court in that case favored the Republicans over the Democrats, and I asked them to apply the “shoe on the other foot” test.

I now respectfully ask this distinguished Chamber to consider that heuristic test in evaluating the arguments you have heard in this historic Chamber. It is an important test because how you vote on this case will serve as a precedent for voters of the future, from different parties, different backgrounds, and different perspectives vote in future cases.

Allowing a duly-elected President to be removed on the basis of standardless, subjective, ever-changing criteria—abuse of power and obstruction of Congress—risks being “construed,” in the words of Senator Grimes, a Republican Senator from Iowa, who voted against impeaching President Andrew Johnson. How would we answer that question? And I found myself thinking maybe that is a good way to think about it.

The question would go something like this: Imagine you are a U.S. Senator and you are sitting in an impeachment trial. The Articles of Impeachment before you had been passed on a purely partisan basis for the first time in history. In fact, there was bipartisan opposition to the Articles of Impeachment. They have been trying to impeach the President from the moment of his inauguration for no reason—just because he won.

The articles before you do not allege a crime or even any violation of the civil law. One article alleges obstruction of Congress simply for exercising longstanding constitutional rights that every President has exercised. The President was given no rights in the House of Representatives. The Judiciary Committee conducted only 2 days of hearings.

You are sitting through your sixth day of trial. The House is demanding witnesses from you that they refused to seek themselves. When confronted with expedited court proceedings regarding subpoenas they had issued, they actually withdrew those subpoenas.

They are now criticizing you in strong, accusatory language if you don’t capitulate to their unreasonable demands and sit in your seats for months. An election is only months away, and for the first time in history, they are asking you to remove a President from the ballot. They are asking you to do something that violates all past historical precedents that you have studied in class and principles of democracy and take the choice away from the American people. It would tear apart the country for generations and change our constitutional system forever.

Question: What should you do?

Your first thought might be, that is not a realistic hypothetical. That could never happen in America.
But then you would be happy because you would have an easy answer and you can be done with your law school exam, and it would be—you immediately reject the Articles of Impeachment.

Bonus question: Should your answer depend on your political party?
Answer: No.

My second observation is, I actually think it is very instructive to watch the old videos from the last time this happened, when many of you were making so eloquently—more eloquently than we are—the points that we are making about the law and precedent. But that is not playing a game of “gotcha”; that is paying you a compliment.

You were right about those principles. You were right about those principles. And if you will not listen to me, I urge you to listen to yourselves. You were right.

The third observation I had sitting here today is, Judge Starr talked about that we are in the age of impeachment, in the age of constant investigations. Imagine—if all of that energy were being used to solve the problems of the American people. Imagine if the age of impeachment were over in the United States. Imagine that.

I was listening to Professor Dershowitz talking about the shoe-on-the-other-foot rule, and it makes a lot of sense. I would maybe put it differently. I would maybe call it the golden rule of impeachment. For the Democrats, the golden rule could be, do unto Republicans as you would have them do unto Democrats. And hopefully we will never be in another position in this country where we have another impeachment but vice versa for that rule.

Those are my three observations. I hope that is helpful. Those were the thoughts I had listening to the presentations.

At the end of the day, the most important thought is this: This choice belongs to the American people. They will get to make it months from now.

The Constitution and common sense and all of our history prevent you from removing the President from the ballot. There is no basis for it in the facts. There is simply no basis for it in the law. I urge you to quickly come to that conclusion so we can go have an election.

Thank you very much for your attention.
Thank you, Mr. Chief Justice.
The CHIEF JUSTICE. The majority leader is recognized.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 1 P.M. TOMORROW

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. Chief Justice, I ask unanimous consent that the trial adjourn until 1 p.m., Tuesday, January 28, and that this order also constitute the adjournment of the Senate.

There being no objection, at 9:02 p.m. the Senate, sitting as a Court of Impeachment, adjourned until Tuesday, January 28, 2020, at 1 p.m.
HONORING GLOVE CITIES VETERINARY HOSPITAL FOR RECEIVING THE FULTON MONTGOMERY REGIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE THOMAS B. CONSTANTINO ENTREPRENEURIAL AWARD

HON. ELISE M. STEFANIK OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Glove Cities Veterinary Hospital for receiving the Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce Thomas B. Constantino Entrepreneurial Award.

Glove Cities Veterinary Hospital, led by Dr. Mark Will, has built a strong reputation thanks to its kind and professional staff and their commitment to offering high standards of care. The practice was established in 1939 by Dr. Mark “Doc” Crandall in Gloversville and now employs eight licensed veterinary technicians and two client service representatives. Glove Cities Veterinary Hospital is highly involved in the community, conducting an annual Shelter Supply Drive to support the local shelter pets. The practice’s mission is “to promote responsible pet ownership, to communicate compassionately as we educate our clients, and to nurture a longer, more comfortable, and better quality of life for our patients.”

Glove Cities Veterinary Hospital is a staple of the Gloversville community and on behalf of New York’s 21st District, I would like to thank and congratulate Dr. Mark Will and his team for this well-deserved recognition. I look forward to their future success.

CELEBRATING LOU MAIELLO’S 100TH BIRTHDAY

HON. MAX ROSE OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. ROSE of New York. Madam Speaker, I rise today in honor of Mr. Lou Maiello’s 100th birthday.

Born in 1920 to his Italian immigrant parents Elena and Benjamin, Lou is the fourth of seven siblings. He attended PS 78 and Benjamin Franklin High School, then moved out to Idaho as a member of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Eventually Lou moved back to New York City to work for a series of construction companies. At the Rockefeller Construction Company, he met the love of his life, Nancy. Nancy and Lou will celebrate their 64th anniversary in June.

Although Lou retired in 1990, he has kept himself busy. An avid golfer, Lou won the Staten Island Senior League Club Championship against a man 43 years his junior. He followed up his victory a week later with the first hole in one of his golfing career.

During his retirement, Lou learned to paint while watching Bob Ross on PBS. His artwork now hangs in the homes of his friends and family. Lou is also known for his gardening skills, often sharing his harvest with the neighbors.

Lou and Nancy moved to Staten Island in 1960 from the Bronx. They raised their four children, Anne Marie, Barbara, Robert and Rick, in Westerleigh. Lou’s children are all proud of their father and thrilled to be celebrating this huge milestone together, and I ask my colleagues in the House to join me in celebrating with them.

I wish Lou a very happy 100th birthday surrounded by his loving family.

BEYONDHOME

HON. ED PERLMUTTER OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize BeyondHome for receiving the 2019 Non-Profit of the Year Award from the Arvada Chamber of Commerce.

For 30 years, BeyondHome, formerly Colorado Homeless Families, has been helping working families who are experiencing homelessness or who are on the verge of becoming homeless by helping them through difficult periods and ultimately to achieve self-sufficiency for life. BeyondHome housed its first family in December 1988. As of December 2019, it has housed 543 families with children. Of those, 446 families have graduated from BeyondHome achieving full self-sufficiency, including purchasing their own homes, graduating from tech schools, colleges or universities, and increasing their income.

Today BeyondHome’s specific services include affordable housing, career development, counseling, direct financial assistance and resources, and group classes focused on job readiness, nutrition and cooking, parenting or recovering from domestic violence. In 2016, BeyondHome expanded their services to include private trauma-informed therapy for parents and children. Every adult served by BeyondHome is required to complete courses in life skills, parenting, healthy relationships, financial literacy and much more.

BeyondHome continues to play a critical role in the lives of working families. Congratulations on this recognition from the Arvada Chamber, and I extend my deepest appreciation for their contribution to our community.

HONORING CRYSTAL GROVE DIAMOND MINE & CAMPGROUND FOR RECEIVING THE FULTON MONTGOMERY REGIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BARBARA V. SPRAKER TOURISM PARTNER AWARD

HON. ELISE M. STEFANIK OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Crystal Grove Diamond Mine & Campground for receiving the Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce Barbara V. Spraker Tourism Partner Award.

Crystal Grove Diamond Mine & Campground offers visitors a unique and memorable North Country camping experience. In the mines, visitors can personally sift and dig for Herkimer Diamonds, which are only found throughout Herkimer County and the Mohawk Valley. These diamonds are precious to collectors worldwide and recognized for their unique properties and beauty. The grounds also attract campers, who are drawn to the spacious and quiet upstate setting, which is dotted with hardwood trees and traversed by the bubbling Timmerman Creek. Billie Jo and Joel Davis are on-site managers for both the Crystal Grove campsite and mines. The couple was asked to manage the property by their dear friend, owner Marion “Bessie” Bartlett, who passed away in January of 2018. The site is now owned by Bartlett’s children, Christopher Evans and Madigan Evans Rollins.

Crystal Grove Diamond Mine & Campground showcases the natural beauty and treasures of the North Country for all to see. On behalf of New York’s 21st District, I would like to congratulate Billie Jo Davis, Joel Davis, Christopher Evans, Madigan Evans Rollins and their entire team for this well-deserved recognition. I look forward to their future success.

HONORING THE LIFE OF FORMER TORRANCE MAYOR KEN MILLER

HON. TED LIEU OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. LIEU of California. Madam Speaker, I rise to celebrate the life of Ken Miller—a beloved husband, father, and grandfather—who passed away on January 19, 2020 at the age of 97. Ken was a beloved community member who formerly served as the Mayor of the City of Torrance in my congressional district.

Born on August 20, 1922 in Torrance, California, Ken remains the only Mayor of Torrance to have been born in Torrance. After graduating high school in 1941, Ken joined the U.S. Army Air Corps and served in China, Burma, and India during World War II. Upon the conclusion of the war, Ken returned to his education, graduating with a Bachelor of Arts from Occidental College. He later received his teaching credential from the University of Southern California. Shortly after receiving his credential, Ken discovered a love for real estate and founded Ken Miller Real Estate, his business which he ran until his death. Along with his wife, Judy, in 1952, and they married that same year.

Ken’s career in local government began with his service on the Torrance Planning Commission from 1960 to 1962. Ken went on to serve as a City Councilmember from 1962 to 1970. Following his service on the City Council, Ken was elected Mayor in 1970. Ken served two terms as the Mayor of Torrance, leaving office in 1978.

During his tenure as Mayor, Ken successfully spearheaded efforts to impose a two-term limit on the mayoral office through changes to the City Charter. The City of Torrance also owes much of its park space to Ken and his efforts to acquire land for public use. While in office, Ken helped to establish the Torrance Sister City Association, a program that aims to foster relationships between two different countries. Through his efforts, the City of Torrance developed a relationship with the City of Kashiwa, Japan that still exists today.

After ending his political career, Ken co-founded South Bay Bank in 1982, serving as a chairman until 2007. Ken’s civic service commitments extend to his presidency of the Torrance-Lomita Board of Realtors, his board membership at Torrance Memorial Medical Center, and his presidency of the Switzer Center Board of Directors. In 1990, the City of Torrance honored Ken with the Jared Sidney Torrance Award. Ken is survived by his wife, Judy, their three children, Randy, Jim, and Cathy, six grandchildren, and one great-grandson, whom I hope take comfort in the way Ken lived his life serving the city that he loved. Torrance loved him back. May his memory be a blessing to us all.

DWAYNE CAMERON
HON. ED PERLMUTTER
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize Dwayne Cameron for receiving the 2019 Ambassador of the Year Award from the Arvada Chamber of Commerce.

Dwayne has shown incredible commitment to the Arvada Chamber and the Arvada community through his role as an Arvada Chamber ambassador. As an ambassador, he consistently attends events and meetings and offers support and a friendly face to other businesses owners. It is clear Dwayne has a deep understanding of the local business community and is invested in the success of businesses in Arvada.

In addition, Dwayne contributes to the Arvada community through his ownership of the Minuteman Press, a full-service marketing and print and design company based in Arvada. With years of experience and unparalleled expertise in the print industry, Dwayne and his staff offer a variety of offerings—from business cards and brochures, to labels and calendars—but always reliable service and affordable prices.

Congratulations to Dwayne for this recognition from the Arvada Chamber, and I extend my deepest appreciation for his contribution to our community.

HONORING DR. DEXTER CRISS FOR HIS WORK WITH THE PLATTSBURGH STATE GOSPEL CHOIR AND THE LIFE OF HIS SON, DALTON CRISS
HON. ELISE M. STEFANIK
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Dr. Dexter Criss for his work with the Plattsburgh State Gospel Choir and the life of his son, Dalton Criss.

Dr. Dexter Criss is an Associate Professor of Chemistry and Music Director at SUNY Plattsburgh. He has been involved with the Plattsburgh State Gospel Choir since 2001. The choir actively performs on campus, in the community, and throughout the region. They average 25 appearances each year in settings including colleges, campus events, K-12 schools, churches, memorial services, weddings, and other community events. For many years, Dr. Criss has led the choir during the annual Martin Luther King, Jr. Day events.

Sadly, Dr. Criss is not leading the choir in remembrance of Dr. King this year. Dr. Criss’ wife Barbara and his son Dalton were involved in a serious car accident. On August 20th, Dalton tragically passed away from his injuries at just 18 years old, while Barbara remained in critical condition in Burlington. Dalton had just graduated from Peru High School and was planning on beginning his first semester at SUNY Plattsburgh the very next week. Dalton was an accomplished football player and wrestler for Peru High School, winning the Section VII title in the 285-pound class his junior and senior years. He also took after his father in his musical ability, playing drums and bass for the Faith Tabernacle Missionary Baptist Church of Glens Falls.

Dr. Criss’ absence is a further reminder of this tragedy that has rocked the Plattsburgh community. On behalf of New York’s 21st District, I would like to thank Dr. Criss for his amazing work and honor the life of his son, Dalton. My thoughts and prayers are with him and his family.

CELEBRATING THE SERVICE OF SANDRA FERNIZA
HON. RUBEN GALLEGØ
OF ARIZONA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. GALLEGØ. Madam Speaker, I rise today to celebrate Sandra Ferniza’s service to the community of Phoenix. After 5 years of working in my District Office as the Director of Intergovernmental Relations, Sandra has retired. Mrs. Ferniza has been my Constituent Services Director for about 15 years, and she’s been a true asset to our office and our constituents.

Sandra has been a true advocate for her constituents, and she’s been a wonderful mentor to many of our younger staff members. She’s been an asset and an advocate that I have been grateful to have on my team. Her selflessness, attention to detail, and determination are remarkable traits that have allowed her to advance good in Arizona over the entirety of her career.

On behalf of myself, the countless constituents of Arizona’s seventh district that she has helped, and the entire State of Arizona, I want to express my gratitude for the service of Sandra Ferniza. I have no doubt that she will continue to be a leader within the Phoenix community. We will thank her by continuing to dedicate ourselves to constituent services and the improvement of as many lives as possible.

RESOLUTION COMMEMORATING THE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE LIBERATION OF AUSCHWITZ
HON. GRACE MENG
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Ms. MENG. Madam Speaker, I rise today to announce the introduction of a resolution commemorating the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz.

Today, International Holocaust Remembrance Day, marks the 75th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz. On this day in 1945, Allied troops entered the Auschwitz concentration camp and liberated the more than 7,000 still-living prisoners.

During World War II, the Nazi regime systematically killed approximately 6 million Jews, as well as millions of other minority populations. At least 1.3 million of these people were deported to Auschwitz, 1.1 million of whom were murdered.

Today, we not only remember the Jewish lives cut short by the heinous crimes perpetuated by the Nazi regime, but we honor the nearly 80,000 Holocaust survivors still living in the United States and telling their stories to ensure that the adage “never again” is realized.

Anti-Semites in America and around the world continue to invoke Nazi ideology and use symbols like the swastika to vandalize synagogues and Jewish institutions. This resolution emphasizes the importance of Holocaust education in schools, urges Federal agencies and the American people to commit to addressing unchecked intolerance and prejudice, and encourages Federal and local social services agencies to support Holocaust survivors so they may live their remaining years in dignity and comfort.

I thank my colleagues, Congressmen Ted Deutch and Lee Zeldin, for leading this bipartisan resolution with me, to the 98 original co-sponsors of the resolution, and to over a dozen American Jewish organizations who have endorsed it.

I urge my colleagues to join with me and pass this important resolution.

THE CAREER LINKS TEAM AT JEFFERSON COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

HON. ED PERLMUTTER
OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the Career Links Team at Jefferson County Public Schools for receiving the 2019 Behind the Scenes Award from the Arvada Chamber of Commerce.

Jeffco Career Links is a one-stop resource providing tools and building connections between classrooms and careers for industries and schools. Career Links supports the workforce learning opportunities for Jeffco students to ensure their experience is connected to learning targets and real-world experience. The Career Links team is committed to providing support for Jefferson County schools in order to support quality programming and successful career paths for every student.

The Career Links team has been integral in positively shaping conversations with local partners around the skills and knowledge needs to improve Arvada and Jefferson County’s local talent pipeline leading to economic mobility and skill alignment for the future workforce in our community. By connecting and collaborating with industry partners, Career Links helps Jeffco Public Schools train and prepare the future workforce. Their work makes a long-lasting impact on the success of Jeffco students, builds meaningful connections with the local business community, and helps grow the local economy.

Congratulations to the Career Links Team at Jefferson County Public Schools for this recognition from the Arvada Chamber, and I extend my deepest appreciation for their contribution to our community.

HONORING DOLLAR GENERAL DISTRIBUTION CENTER FOR RECEIVING THE FULTON MONTGOMERY REGIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE FMS WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT BUSINESS OF THE YEAR AWARD FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY

HON. ELISE M. STEFANIK
OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the Dollar General Distribution Center in Amsterdam for receiving the FMS Workforce Development Business of the Year Award for Montgomery County.

The Dollar General Distribution Center has a new state-of-the-art and highly efficient facility that was built to support their growing network in New York and throughout the northeast. Dollar General has garnered a great reputation for their commitment to the community and producing quality products that promote a cleaner environment. Strong partnerships are key to developing a great workforce, and Dollar General has worked closely with the Amsterdam Career Center to recruit and interview prospective employees. Additionally, they have held successful hiring events that have attracted hundreds of job seekers from the surrounding community. Dollar General has made significant contributions to community organizations in the North Country, including $5,000 to the Workforce Career Center and a donation to the United Way in Amsterdam to help support their mission.

The commitment Dollar General has made to the community and workforce is significant and on behalf of New York’s 21st District, I would like to thank and congratulate Elijah Braemer and the entire staff for this well-deserved recognition. I look forward to their future success.

RECOGNIZING SOUTHEAST PENNSYLVANIA’S NEWEST EAGLE SCOUTS FOR 2019

HON. BRIAN K. FITZPATRICK
OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Madam Speaker, the following individuals have attained the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest achievement of the Boy Scouts of America. Since its inception in 1911, only four percent of boy scouts achieve this rank after a lengthy review process.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Troop No.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Adam Jason Chast</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aj Olczak</td>
<td>121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alex Vincent Hudzinski</td>
<td>607</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander John Peppiatt</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander Spear</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andrew Friedman</td>
<td>82</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andrew John Lapiere</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andrew Joseph Coleman</td>
<td>91</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andrew Michael DiDomenico</td>
<td>147</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andrew Prock</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andrew R. Iannaccone</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andrew Schmitz</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andrew Seth Van Siclen</td>
<td>52</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Troop No.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Austin Cervasio</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Avil Gajjar</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Avishan Q. Bewtra</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Benjamin Armourg</td>
<td>48</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Benjamin Vouk</td>
<td>210</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brady Christopher Stipanoff</td>
<td>230</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brandon Michael Dorsey</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brandon Switzer</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brendan Skowronnek</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bragan Donovan</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Caleb Kiser</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Caleb Y. K. Cho</td>
<td>542</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Carl J. Stone</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Carl Sebastian Di Giorgio</td>
<td>52</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Christopher Gasiwski</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Christopher Rowan Haskell</td>
<td>147</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colby Ryan Dehleus</td>
<td>91</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cole Michael Stansley</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cole Schenman</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colin McGuire</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Connor Crawford</td>
<td>137</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Connor James Ericht</td>
<td>210</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Daniel Featherstone</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Daniel Schmid</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Daniel Stimson</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>David McGee</td>
<td>547</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dean Taipale</td>
<td>137</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eric Nawecki</td>
<td>229</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ethan Engelman</td>
<td>41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ethan Marschean</td>
<td>99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ethan Patrick McAuley</td>
<td>153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Evan Agee</td>
<td>137</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Evan Wicaga Wadley</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ezra Greenberg</td>
<td>50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F. Gearharttavick</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gabriel John Hagen</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gabriel Lloyd</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gary Gibson</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>George Vicente</td>
<td>137</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gerrit Alt</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gunner Lee Mullin</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Henry Price</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Isaac Danofski</td>
<td>27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Armstrong</td>
<td>46</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Collins</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Kraynak</td>
<td>303</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Manahan</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Stuecky</td>
<td>27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Walsh</td>
<td>102</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jake Allen Anderson</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jake Ambrester</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jake Robert Pepe</td>
<td>547</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James Cullen Jr.</td>
<td>385</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James Eric Lande</td>
<td>52</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jared John Lepper</td>
<td>147</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jayden Riesinger</td>
<td>27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Andrew Horgan</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Burkett Yates</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Gerard Barry</td>
<td>230</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John J. Roache</td>
<td>99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Williams Joyce</td>
<td>547</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jordan Steel</td>
<td>172</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joseph Kozner</td>
<td>187</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joseph P. LAmorte</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joseph Roger Peller</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Josh Jabloniski</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joshua Michael Ware</td>
<td>507</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joshua N. Maier</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Justin Harshinihger</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>JV Flath</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kyle Horn</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kyle Mack</td>
<td>27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louis F. Schmidt III</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Luke Alexander Ramalho</td>
<td>145</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Luke Eric Andre</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matthew Corso</td>
<td>48</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matthew Davies</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matthew Hammond</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Michael Jacob Humbert</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matthew Nurse</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matthew Thomas Finn</td>
<td>380</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matthew Walters</td>
<td>169</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Miles Coller</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nestor Beltran</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nicholas Cebula</td>
<td>542</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Mr. PERLMUTTER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor CG Roxane LLC for receiving the FMS Workforce Development Business of the Year Award for Fulton County.

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the career and service of Big Bear Lake City Manager Jeff Mathieu, who will retire from his position on January 27, 2020. Before coming to Big Bear Lake, Jeff Mathieu served the cities of Santa Monica and Long Beach for a combined 31 years. He came to Big Bear Lake in 2006, where he immediately hit the ground running. He has been responsible for numerous capital improvement projects, including major street improvements, the construction of new trails, the upgrade of city parks, and the creation of the iconic Boulder Bay Park. Additionally, Mathieu spearheaded the Village Renaissance Project which transformed the Village “L” into one of the most popular attractions in Big Bear Lake.

Jeff Mathieu has been an outstanding city manager, and I am grateful to have had the pleasure of working with him during my entire career in Congress and the California State Assembly. He truly embodies the term public servant, and his leadership, experience, and dedication to improving Big Bear Lake will be sorely missed.

IN MEMORY OF FIRE CHIEF TIM TITTLE

HON. MICHAEL C. BURGESS
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. BURGESS. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the career and service of Tim Tittle, Fire Chief for the City of Lewisville, Texas. He served with the Lewisville Fire Department for over four decades and was named Fire Chief in 2011. His lifelong commitment and dedication to service have been an inspiration to all who knew him.

LIMB LOSS AWARENESS MONTH

HON. ED PERLMUTTER
OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize Kevin Garcia, Communications Supervisor at Jeffcom 911, for his exceptional performance and contributions to our community and for his recognition of an Industry Professional by the NG911 Institute.

Kevin is one of 20 Communication Supervisors at Jeffcom 911, overseeing the day-to-day operations of a large Communications Center and the management of 118 Emergency Communication Specialists. As a dispatcher of 23 years, Kevin played a critical role in Jeffcom 911’s first 18 months of operations since launching as the new consolidated regional communications center. Kevin was one of the select few line-level personnel involved in the implementation of the Public-Safety Answering Point (PSAP) and 24 agencies that serve 600,000 residents and produced a call volume of 971,254 emergency and non-emergency calls.

Kevin was instrumental in using his experience for developing organizational policy and user guides for a multitude of systems, including individual training for major upgrades on the ‘Safe-to-Tell’ software—which was particularly time sensitive for informing local School Resource Officers of potential threats to staff and students and permitted the 911 operators to be a force-multiplier for management as a leader on the operations floor and has solidified himself as the “go-to” Supervisor for guidance on any issue.

Over the past year, Kevin has also served as an instructor in the Jeffcom 911 Academy, a six-week course for training new Emergency Communication Specialists, where he has provided over 40 hours of instruction and brings both experience and great passion to the training. Congratulations to Kevin for earning recognition as an Industry Professional from NG911, and I extend my deepest appreciation to Kevin Garcia for his leadership and contributions to Jeffcom 911 and the Jefferson County community.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. BURGESS. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the career and service of Tim Tittle, Fire Chief for the City of Lewisville, Texas. He served with the Lewisville Fire Department for over four decades and was named Fire Chief in 2011. His lifelong commitment and dedication possible to run an enterprising and sustainable business while also focusing on employing adults with development disabilities. Congratulations on the recognition from the Arvada Chamber, and I extend my deepest appreciation for their contribution to our community.

HONORING CENTURY LINEN & UNIFORM FOR RECEIVING THE FULTON MONTGOMERY REGIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CENTENNIAL BUSINESS AWARD

HON. ELISE M. STEFANIK
OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Century Linen & Uniform for receiving the Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce Centennial Business Award.

Century Linen & Uniform is a legacy company headquartered in Fulton County since 1915. The company was founded in Gloversville as Robison & Smith, and the name was changed in 2015 to mark a new era for the “next 100 years” of the company. Today, the company has over 400 employees operating out of three locations, including a brand-new facility in Fulton County. They serve a range of customers, including acute healthcare facilities, surgery centers, nursing homes, assisted living centers, doctors’ offices and other businesses throughout New York State and western Massachusetts. Their weekly laundry output, now at 500,000 pounds, is expected to rise to over one million pounds in the future.

CEO Richard Smith attributes the success of Century Linen “to hard work, consistency with our business philosophy, focusing on our core values and having a properly trained and educated workforce.”

Century Linen and Uniform has been providing jobs and investment to our communities for over 105 years. On behalf of New York’s 21st District, I would like to congratulate Richard Smith and the entire Century Linen & Uniform for this well-deserved recognition. I look forward to their future success.

MARKING NATIONAL SCHOOL CHOICE WEEK 2020

HON. JACKIE WALORSKI OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mrs. WALORSKI. Madam Speaker, I rise today to mark National School Choice Week and recognize all the students in Indiana’s 2nd District.

I believe every child in America should have access to a high-quality education in a safe and welcoming environment. Nothing should stand in the way of a child receiving a world-class education, and parents should have the ability to make decisions about their children’s education.

School choice gives students the opportunity to find the path to success that works best for them, especially in the face of obstacles in their own school district. Look no further than the examples set in my community in northern Indiana, where students cross district lines to attend public schools that offer programs not available in their own school district. These programs equip students in Indiana with the tools to succeed and set them apart from their peers. Hoosier families have the freedom to put their children first so they can achieve their goals.

Education is power, and all Americans have the right to tap into that power and put their best foot forward. It is important that our state and local governments are equipped to ensure teachers, students, and school administrators have the resources and tools they need to learn, teach, and grow.

Madam Speaker, on behalf of 2nd District Hoosiers, I affirm that National School Choice Week is critical in the fight to ensure our children have limitless potential and bright futures.

HONORING THE JUvenile DIABETES RESEARCH FOUNDATION FOR ITS FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

HON. TOM REED
OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. REED. Madam Speaker, today I rise to recognize the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation and its Western New York Chapter upon its fiftieth anniversary. For years, this organization has been the leading global organization to fund Type One Diabetes research, and I am honored to recognize their work today.

Type One Diabetes is an autoimmune disease that causes the pancreas to stop producing insulin suddenly, and has no link to diet or lifestyle and impacts both adults and children.

The Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation was founded in 1970 upon the desire to cure Type One Diabetes. The organization was founded by parents hoping to find a cure for their children who had the disease. Since that time, the organization has worked to cure this disease that affects so many by raising funds and advocating for research. Currently, there are dozens of locations across the nation and six international affiliates. The organization has raised more than two billion dollars for research.

This organization has done great work throughout the country, including the Western New York Chapter that I have often been involved with over the years. This year, we are glad to also be celebrating the Gala’s twentieth anniversary, Journey To A Cure Gala, one of the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation of Western New York’s largest fundraisers. This extraordinary event draws about six hundred community members together, united for the cause of raising funds for Type One Diabetes research.

Given the above, I ask that this Legislative Body pause in its deliberations and join me to honor the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation and its Western New York Chapter upon its fiftieth anniversary.
HON. ED PERLMUTTER
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize Ron Slinger for receiving the 2019 Chairman’s Choice Award from the Arvada Chamber of Commerce.

Ron’s extensive involvement, leadership and contributions in Arvada have resulted in a significant and long-lasting impact in the community. His sense of humor and kindred spirit brings positive energy and perspective to any opportunity he undertakes. In addition, Ron positively impacted the community through active and abundant volunteerism, leadership and advocacy. He is a true advocate for the Arvada Chamber and has fully dedicated himself to the betterment of the community.

Recently Ron took a new position as President of Milken Community College but has left a legacy in our community that will be difficult for anyone to fill. Congratulations to Ron on this recognition from the Arvada Chamber, and I extend my deepest appreciation for his contribution to our community.

HONORING TOWNSEND LEATHER FOR RECEIVING THE FULTON MONTGOMERY REGIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE EDWARD L. WILKINSON INDUSTRY OF THE YEAR AWARD

HON. ELISE M. STEFANIK
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Townsend Leather for receiving the Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce Edward L. Wilkinson Industry of the Year Award.

Townsend Leather Co., Inc. in Johnstown has been offering high-quality leather products to its customers for the past 50 years. This third-generation-business, founded in 1969 by Albert “Red” Kucel, along with his wife Dorothy and their children, now employs more than 160 partners. They maintain 128,000 square feet of manufacturing space in three buildings on Townsend Avenue, complemented by the recent opening of a 62,000 square foot building on Grove Street. Known by many as “The Stitch,” this new space is located in a refurbished 1900s knitting mill. Townsend Leather Co. offers a wide range of residential, hospitality/hotel and corporate applications including jet interiors, as well as for luxury motor coaches, show cars and yachts in more than 1,000 colors, textures, and qualities.

Townsend Leather Co. is an industry leader and reflects the best qualities of the business community in the North Country. On behalf of New York’s 2nd District, I would like to congratulate the entire Townsend Leather team for this well-deserved recognition. I look forward to their future success.

HONORING DR. JAMES DENNIS
HON. MIKE BOST
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. BOST. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Dr. James Dennis, President of McKendree University in Lebanon, Illinois, for dedicating a quarter century to strengthening the school’s mission and expanding its national profile.

Born in Los Angeles, Dr. Dennis had teaching in his DNA. With both his parents working as teachers, he spent his childhood living on a college campus, where he gained his passion for reading and learning. After receiving a Ph.D. in education and a law degree, Dr. Dennis began his career at the University of Southern California before beginning his tenure at McKendree in 1994. Dr. Dennis has helped transform the local college into a large university with a high percentage of out-of-state and international students. One of Dr. Dennis’s most important goals is to create a relationship with every student that he can; he wants them to understand how much he values their success. When he’s not focused on administration of university, Dr. Dennis enjoys traveling and spending time with his five grandchildren.

Madam Speaker, please join me in recognizing Dr. James Dennis for his commitment to making McKendree University a top destination for young people charting their path for a lifetime of success.

INTRODUCTION OF THE PROMOTING HEALTHIER LIFELONG IMPROVEMENTS IN FOOD AND EXERCISE ACT OF 2020

HON. ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON
OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Ms. NORTON. Madam Speaker, I rise to introduce the Promoting Healthier Lifelong Improvements in Food and Exercise Act (LIFE Act), which authorizes a national initiative to attack a major health problem in the United States that cannot be remedied through the health care system alone. Increasing rates of overweight and obesity are now found among Americans of every age, race and major demographic group, and threaten the health of Americans like no disease or condition. In fact, the key to eliminating many of the most serious health conditions is not only to reduce overweight and obesity; and develop intervention in the workplace and community settings.

In 2017, estimates from the CDC National Center for Health Statistics showed that since 1971 to 1974, the percentage of children and adolescents who are obese has increased from 5 percent to 18.5 percent. The CDC also reports that Type 2 Diabetes, once considered an adult disease, is now widespread among children. The rising cost of the health care system, including insurance premiums, reflects this epidemic. Today, chronic diseases, many of which are caused or exacerbated by overweight and obesity, account for 70 percent of all deaths in the U.S., and 75 percent of U.S. medical care costs. A focused national health initiative would provide guidance to the states to engage in similar programs, as mayors of some cities have done.

A national focus could lead to changes, such as greater participation in high school physical education classes, which dropped from 42 percent in 1991 to 25 percent in 1995 and has remained constant through 2015. Changes in nutrition are equally critical because more than half of all young people consume too much fat, a factor in the increase of overweight youth. Data also show an increase in unhealthy eating habits for adults and no change in physical activity.

To cite an example of the need for action, the District of Columbia is one of the fittest cities in the United States, according to a 2019 study by the American College of Sports Medicine, yet even here, obesity continues to be a severe problem. Approximately one-fifth of District residents are considered obese. Most of the obesity epidemic is exercise-and-food-related.

I urge support of this important bill to mobilize the country now before entirely preventable health conditions, which often begin in childhood, overwhelm the nation’s health care system.

THRIVE WORKPLACE

HON. ED PERLMUTTER
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize Thrive Workplace for receiving the 2019 Chairman’s Choice Award from the Arvada Chamber of Commerce.

Since opening in Arvada just one year ago, Thrive Workplace—or Thrive West Arvada—has proved their commitment to the Arvada community by offering a place for individuals and businesses to come together, they have shown their investment in the success of local entrepreneurs and businesses and their focus
I look forward to their future success.

Realty LLC for this well-deserved recognition.

like to congratulate Lana and the Ruggiero community has led to her continued success.

family.

She previously served as treasurer of the Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce, President of the Positive Community Magazine, and has been honored numerous times; including as a top producing agent and REALTOR, as well as three conference rooms of varying sizes and a private rooftop deck. Thrive West Arvada has become the “go-to” spot, from lunch-and-learns to corporate training sessions for the whole team, happy hours for networking and so much more, our new venue is equipped with the versatility to meet the needs of teams large and small. It is also conveniently located near RTD’s G Line and I-70, connecting the thriving Arvada community to downtown Denver. Congratulations to Thrive Workplace for the recognition from the Arvada Chamber, and I extend my deepest appreciation for their contribution to our community.

HONORING RUGGIERO REALTY LLC FOR RECEIVING THE FULTON MONTGOMERY REGIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SMALL BUSINESS AWARD

HON. ELISE M. STEFANIK OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Ruggiero Realty LLC for receiving the Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce Small Business Award.

Small businesses are the backbone of our economy and I am proud of the strong small business community in the North Country. Lana Ruggiero, owner of Ruggiero Realty LLC, is a Fulton County native and lifelong resident of Gloversville. Lana holds numerous real estate designations, is a notary public, and has been honored numerous times; including as a top producing agent and REALTOR of the year in Fulton County. She is very active in the community and in various business organizations, currently serving as a member of the Fulton-Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce, President of the Gloversville Women’s Alumni Club, and on the board of the Parkhurst Field Foundation. She previously served as treasurer of the Fulton County Board of REALTORS, and throughout her sixteenth year as a REALTOR, Lana attributes her success to her desire to serve her clients as if they were part of her own family.

Lana’s deep knowledge and passion for the community has led to her continued success. On behalf of New York’s 21st District, I would like to congratulate Lana and the Ruggiero Realty LLC for this well-deserved recognition. I look forward to their future success.

HONORING CINDY DACH

HON. GREG STANTON OF ARIZONA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. STANTON. Madam Speaker, I rise today to celebrate the achievements of Cindy Dach, a leader and visionary entrepreneur in Arizona. Throughout her career and in every endeavor she takes on, Cindy has always been tireless in her pursuit to make our community a better place for everyone. Cindy’s work was recently acknowledged with the 2019 ATHENA Businesswoman of the Year award, an honor from the Greater Phoenix Chamber awarded to women who demonstrate excellence in leadership, community service, and mentorship.

That Cindy should be awarded an honor in the name of the Greek goddess Athena is fitting. Like Athena, Cindy is a force a nature, who lives her life with fearlessness, bravery, and authenticity. It was these qualities that led her to co-found the Roosevelt Row Community Development Corporation. The organization revitalized a downtown neighborhood into the Roosevelt Row Arts District, now a walkable arts district in Phoenix’s urban core, nationally known for its arts and cultural events, rotating exhibits and wonderful local restaurants.

Most emblematic of her spirit of service is Cindy’s role as co-founder and CEO of Changing Hands bookstore, a gathering place for people all over the Valley to exchange ideas. The bookstore has served as a touchstone in our community for more than 45 years, and has hosted presidents and leaders including Barack Obama, Hillary Clinton, Jimmy Carter, and Madeline Albright. Cindy has also helped inspire a generation of young women to build and create in their own art studios, craft breweries, and boutiques on Roosevelt Row. While Cindy has been a pillar of Roosevelt Row for decades, she is saving space and a saving grace for women in business. Not only does she lend square footage of her own properties, but she also mentors and actively supports female entrepreneurs in the arts district.

I urge my colleagues to join me in celebrating Cindy Dach as a leader and entrepreneur behind the helm of a rising Phoenix. I'm grateful for the opportunity to witness her work and to call her a friend.

HONORING CINDY DACH

HON. GREG PENCE OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. PENCE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor my friend and fellow veteran, Lonnie Gilbert Nefouse, who recently passed away at the age of 73 in Carmel, Indiana. Early in his life, Lonnie chose a path of service to our country. Lonnie defended our stars and stripes with the courage and selflessness that will continue to make our nation great for generations to come. This is evident in the many honors he was awarded including a Bronze Star Medal and a Purple Heart.

Not only was Lonnie a patriot, but a pillar of our Hoosier community and a true family man. He valued spending time with his family and served as a role model for future generations through his civic leadership and commitment to country.

The Pence family is lucky to have considered Lonnie a close friend. He was a generous person who will be remembered fondly and greatly missed.
HONORING CREEK’S EDGE ELK FARM & CRUM CREEK CSA FOR RECEIVING THE FULTON MONTGOMERY REGIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AGRICULTURAL BUSINESS OF THE YEAR AWARD

HON. ELISE M. STEFANI
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Ms. STEFANI. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Creek’s Edge Elk Farm & Crum Creek CSA for receiving the Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Business of the Year Award. Creek’s Edge Elk Farm & Crum Creek CSA is a collaboration between two local family farms that seek to offer the broader community a wide selection of locally-raised, high-quality, healthy meats. The farms, owned by husband and wife team Israel and Stacy Handy of Handy Hills Farm; and Susan Keith of Creek’s Edge, work together to market their products to customers throughout Montgomery and Fulton counties, as well as the Little Falls, Cooperstown and Cherry Valley areas. They have made significant investments in their farms and work tirelessly to ensure that their customers have high confidence in their products. Creek’s Edge Elk Farm & Crum Creek CSA takes pride being able to provide the community with meats from healthy, well-cared for animals because as they say, “not everyone is able to raise a steer or pig in their backyard.”

Agriculture is an essential component of the economy in Northern New York and Creek’s Edge Elk Farm & Crum Creek CSA exemplify the best of North Country agriculture. On behalf of New York’s 21st District, I would like to congratulate Israel Keith, Israel Handy, and Stacy Handy for this well-deserved recognition. I look forward to their future success.

RECOGNIZING MARTIN FERRELL NEVINS

HON. GREGORY F. MURPHY OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. MURPHY of North Carolina. Madam Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to Martin Ferrell Nevins of Elizabeth City, North Carolina on the occasion of his 100th birthday. A native of Iowa, Mr. Nevins, or “Matty” as he was known to friends, enlisted in the Coast Guard in 1941. During WWII he was a boatswain’s mate aboard ships in San Francisco and Alas-ka. By the end of WWII Matty had advanced to Aircraft Structural Mechanic. He retired from active duty in 1962 as a Chief Aviation Structural Mechanic. From 1962 to 1980 he worked as a civilian at the Coast Guard Base in Elizabeth City, and retired as Superintendent of the Aircraft Repair Division. He was then awarded the Distinguished Citizen Service Award for his 38 years of service to the Coast Guard.

After his retirement, Marty enjoyed spending more time with his wife Helen. He also volunteered with Meals on Wheels, served as an officer in his Kiwanis Club, and tutored others in reading, writing and basic math. Matty was quoted as saying: “If you take something from the community, you ought to give something back, and Elizabeth City has given us so much.”

Unfortunately, Mr. Nevins is predeceased by his wife Helen who passed away in 2007 at the age of 92; and also by their daughter Christine, who lost her courageous battle with cancer in 2013.

Madam Speaker, please join me in honoring this incredible, dedicated public servant, Mr. Martin Ferrell Nevins.

RECOGNIZING MAJOR THORNTON

HON. BILL POSEY
OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. POSEY. Madam Speaker, in celebration of Black History Month, I rise today in recognition of Major Milo Thornton, an exemplary constituent of mine and African American Pioneer who has served our community for 23 years in law enforcement.

Major Thornton began his career in 1997, as a correctional deputy with Saint Lucie County’s Sheriff Office, under the leadership of the now retired Sheriff Robert “Bobby” Knowles. After a year and a half tenure, he became a patrolman with the Vero Beach Police Department.

Major Thornton quickly rose through the ranks, being hired by Sheriff Raymond at Indian River County Sheriff’s Office four years later, becoming sergeant in 2012, receiving assignment to uniform patrol, and in 2016 being promoted to lieutenant, where he was reassigned to criminal investigations. In this role, he was afforded the opportunity to attend advanced training courses that would prepare him for the rest of his career. He worked closely with general assignment detectives, the narcotics division and criminal analysts to get to the bottom of various criminal investigations.

In 2017, Sheriff Deryl Loar promoted Major Thornton to the rank of captain, reassigning him to the Uniforms Operations Division in which he oversaw the operations of all men and women who patrol the county, special operations, including the K9 Unit, Traffic Unit, Agriculture and Marine Unit, among many others. Additionally, he worked with dispatchers in the Communications Unit and the Victims Assistance Unit.

In 2019 he was again promoted, this time to rank of major, where he was to serve in the Bureau of Administration. In this position, he managed aspects of human resources, information technology, homeland security, Judicial Services, and the School Resource Unit, just to name a few.

Major Thornton also serves our community in many capacities outside of his day job, one of which, as an adjunct instructor at Indian River State College, his alma mater where he earned his Associates and Bachelor’s degrees. He has worked within their College of Public Safety Training for 14 years now, teaching subjects such as Introduction to Law Enforcement, Criminal Investigations, and Interviewing and Report Writing.

Major Thornton is a member of the International Associations of Chiefs of Police, a graduate of the Southern Police Institute’s Command Officers Development Course (class No. 80) at the University of Louisville, and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement Leadership Academy (class No. 28). In his free time, Major Thornton serves as volunteer board member of several charities and non-profit organizations.

On February 18, 2020 in celebration of Black History Month, the Indian River County Board of Commissioners will honor Major Thornton’s longstanding service to the community. The Board is dedicated to celebrating African American Pioneers in the community such as Major Thornton, who have paved the way for future generations.

I ask my colleagues in the U.S. House of Representatives to join me in recognizing Major Thornton for his dedication to protecting residents and his service to our community.

RECOGNIZING THE PUBLIC SERVICE AND RETIREMENT OF GAIL STOLL PATTON

HON. CAROL D. MILLER OF WEST VIRGINIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Mrs. MILLER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize Gail Stoll Patton, who is retiring from her position as Executive Director of Unlimited Future Inc. Mrs. Patton has been involved in the start-up of many small businesses in the Greater Huntington region. She is a visionary, a dreamer and has left quite a legacy behind for others to enact. She is a friend.

Mrs. Patton is truly a dedicated community member whose work has sought to significantly benefit the life in Southern West Virginia and the Tri-State Region surrounding Huntington. She is happily married to her husband Paul, and they own their own business, Top Hat Ballroom, a social ballroom dance studio. She also has two daughters, Phoebe and Lydia and two grandsons.

Mrs. Patton has devoted much of her life to ensuring the success of small businesses, especially those operated by women and people of color. In 2018, she was instrumental in securing a $1 million grant from the Rockefeller Foundation and the Chan Zuckerberg Initiative to increase economic opportunities in the Tri-State area. This grant went toward improving the economy of 100 local communities.

Mrs. Patton has proven time and time again that she is a true asset to Huntington and the Mountain State. She helped lead the creation of The Wild Ramp, a year-round, non-profit farmers market-based in Huntington, West Virginia. It has already helped support countless local farmers and producers and revitalize the economy in the Central City District. It is because of people like Mrs. Patton who make me proud to represent West Virginia’s Third Congressional District. Madam Speaker, I would like to again formally recognize Mrs. Patton for this momentous achievement. I ask you and my colleagues to join me in sending her gratitude and best wishes upon her retirement.
HONORING THE CAMP HILL LIONS GIRLS SOCCER TEAM ON THEIR UNDEFEATED CHAMPIONSHIP

HON. SCOTT PERRY
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. PERRY. Madam Speaker, I rise today to offer my heartfelt congratulations to the Camp Hill Lions Girls Soccer Team for their victory at the PIAA Class A State Soccer Championship, and for their excellence throughout their undefeated, untied, 2019 season.

Led by Coach Jared Latchford—just named the Pennsylvania Soccer Coaches Association “Girls Class A Coach of the Year”—the Lions dominated the season, achieving a stunning overall record of 25–0–0.

This is the Lions' second appearance in the State Championship in the last three years. They were able to take an early lead in their contest against Shady Side Academy, and hold it throughout the game. Aggressive and selfless offense, vigilant defense, and stellar goalkeeping earned the Lions a 2–0 victory, and their first State Championship trophy.

These amazing athletes are the epitome of remarkable dedication and discipline, outstanding skill, exceptional sportsmanship, and an unyielding team spirit. Their dedication to excellence—to say the least—earned them this Championship.

On behalf of Pennsylvania’s Tenth Congressional District, I commend and congratulate the Camp Hill Lions for their incredible performance. We’re proud of them.

IOWAN OF THE WEEK—DAVID WOLNERMAN IN RECOGNITION OF INTERNATIONAL HOLOCAUST REMEMBRANCE DAY

HON. CYNTHIA AXNE
OF IOWA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Mrs. AXNE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor David Wolnerman, a survivor of Auschwitz, Birkenau, and Dachau—and Iowa’s last known Holocaust survivor—in recognition of International Holocaust Remembrance Day.

Those extraordinary men and women, like David, who survived the Holocaust have blessed us by sharing their stories and memorializing their experiences for future generations so that we never forget. Today, I am entering just part of David’s story into the Congressional Record so it may be preserved for our children and their children. David was born in Poland. When the Nazis invaded, David was just 13 years old. He was told he needed to report to a work camp in order to save his family, including his mother, Hannah, his brothers, Abraham, and his sister, Gertrude. The promise was a false one, as David’s family would not survive.

When David first arrived in Auschwitz, he waited in line like so many others did—awaiting an uncertain fate. Some were selected to go left, some selected to go right. David says that God put right words to say that he was 18 years old, and he was sent to the right. Had he told the truth, that he was 13 instead of 18, he would have been sent left with the younger children and those who were ill to be sent to the gas chamber. David’s survival was a miracle. He contacted illnesses like typhus. He was so starved that he weighed 80 pounds when he was liberated on April 29, 1945.

After liberation, he lived in a displaced persons camp in Germany where he met his wife, Jennie. Together, they began to physically recover from the malnourishment, but the mental scars of concentration camps have never left David.

David and Jennie came to America in 1950. They couldn’t speak English but began working at a printing plant. When they had their two sons, Michael and Allen, all David and Jennie wanted for them was a good education. Both Allen and Michael went to Drake University in Des Moines for pharmacy school, and their parents followed them to Iowa. In 2016, Jennie passed away at age 91. She often shared her memories with Iowa schoolchildren, working to ensure that her story—and the stories of her friends and family who perished—would live on. Jennie is remembered for her loving and generous spirit, her matzo ball soup, and as a loving grandmother and mother. Now David remains the last Holocaust survivor in Iowa.

Jennie and David have shared their stories and wisdom with Iowans for years. We must honor them in return by sharing their stories and taking this day to remember the atrocities of the Holocaust. We must remember those who survived, and those who did not. We must remember the sacrifices made by children, just like David.

HONORING KELLY MONTANYE FOR RECEIVING THE FULTON MONTGOMERY REGIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE YOUNG PROFESSIONALS OF THE YEAR AWARD

HON. ELISE M. STEFANIK
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Kelly Montanye for receiving the Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce Young Professional of the Year Award.

Kelly Montanye, a Mayfield resident, is Manager of Community Outreach & Volunteer Services at Mountain Valley Hospice in Gloversville. Over the course of a year, Ms. Montanye successfully rebuilt the volunteer program, achieving a five-fold increase in membership. As Manager, Kelly orchestrates the details of each public event, managing the communications and marketing for the organization. She is also an active volunteer in the community, where she has served as a mentor to students at HFM PTECH, developed an annual fundraising campaign for the NYS Children’s Foundation, served as a Relay for Life captain, and served as a Fulton County Habitat for Humanity Board Member.

Kelly Montanye demonstrates the hard working, community-minded nature that the North Country is known for. On behalf of the constituents of the 9th Congressional District, I thank Habeeb for his service and congratulate him on his award.

HONORING HABEEB QUAIDI
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020

Mr. TAYLOR. Madam Speaker, today, I rise in recognition of National Human Trafficking Awareness Month and the dedicated volunteers who work to end modern-day slavery.

As a parent, there is nothing scarier than the thought of children being removed from their families and trafficked. Oftentimes, when we think about human trafficking, we envision terrible situations across the globe. According to the Texas Attorney General, there are currently more than 300,000 victims of human trafficking just in Texas.
As we bring attention to this far too common tragedy, I would like to thank some of the incredible organizations in Collin County who work tirelessly to help survivors. Traffic 911, CASA of Collin County, Rescue Her, Treasured Vessels, New Friends New Life, and the Collin County Sheriff’s Office are all helping lead the fight against human trafficking.

I ask my colleagues in the House of Representatives to join me in thanking these organizations and recognizing the importance of spreading awareness about Human Trafficking today and every day.

We must continue the battle to keep all children safe.

HONORING MARIA PAPANASTASSIOU
HON. JANICE D. SCHAKOWSKY
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, January 27, 2020
Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the work and dedication of Ms. Maria Papanastassiou, a librarian and Kids’ World assistant manager at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library. Ms. Papanastassiou was one of 10 librarians in the country to receive the national “I Love My Librarian Award” for 2019–2020 from the American Library Association.

Maria Papanastassiou was nominated by her colleagues who felt that through her work, families with diverse needs have found a home and a welcoming, inclusive place at the library. Ms. Papanastassiou works hard to help families connect with one another and receive crucial support.

Ms. Papanastassiou leads play groups for children with Down Syndrome, Cerebral Palsy, sensory processing disorders and language delays. She organizes creative learning opportunities such as story boards with felt characters to help with language development, crafts for fine motor development, instant snow for sensory exploration, a circus tent for children who require low-sensory environments, stepping stones for gross motor skills, and activities to facilitate imaginative play. And she instituted “Early Open for Families” so that children of diverse needs can experience library exhibits in a quiet setting before the library opens the door to the public.

In addition to her service to children with special needs, Ms. Papanastassiou created meetups for parents, caregivers, and development therapists to get together in an informal setting. She also leads the Arlington Heights Memorial Library’s partnership with C.I.T.Y. of Support, a nonprofit that aids families with children in therapy.

My office has worked closely with the Arlington Heights Memorial Library to ensure that our shared constituents receive effective and efficient assistance. My district staff holds regular neighborhood office hours in the library.

Maria Papanastassiou is a dedicated, compassionate and creative librarian and I deeply admire her conscientious work to provide a safe place and learning environment for families with diverse needs. On behalf of the constituents of the 9th Congressional District, I thank Maria for her service and congratulate her on this award.

SENATE COMMITTEE MEETINGS
Title IV of Senate Resolution 4, agreed to by the Senate of February 4, 1977, calls for establishment of a system for a computerized schedule of all meetings and hearings of Senate committees, subcommittees, joint committees, and committees of conference. This title requires all such committees to notify the Office of the Senate Daily Digest—designated by the Rules Committee on the day and time of the meetings, when scheduled and any cancellations or changes in the meetings as they occur.

As an additional procedure along with the computerization of this information, the Office of the Senate Daily Digest will prepare this information for printing in the Extensions of Remarks section of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD on Monday and Wednesday of each week.

Meetings scheduled for Tuesday, January 28, 2020 may be found in the Daily Digest of today’s RECORD.

MEETINGS SCHEDULED
JANUARY 29
9:30 a.m.
Committee on Veterans’ Affairs
Business meeting to consider S. 785, to improve mental health care provided by the Department of Veterans Affairs, S. 2396, to improve the management of information technology projects and investments of the Department of Veterans Affairs, S. 2864, to require the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to carry out a pilot program on information sharing between the Department of Veterans Affairs and designated relatives and friends of veterans regarding the assistance and benefits available to the veterans, S. 324, to establish the Department of Veterans Affairs Advisory Committee on Tribal and Indian Affairs, S. 2594, to amend title 5, United States Code, to modify certain requirements with respect to service and retirement for purposes of veterans’ preference for Federal hiring, S. 850, to extend the authorization of appropriations to the Department of Veterans Affairs for purposes of awarding grants to veterans service organizations for the transportation of highly rural veterans, S. 3110, to direct the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct a study on disability and pension benefits provided to members of the National Guard and members of reserve components of the Armed Forces by the Department of Veterans Affairs, S. 123, to require the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to enter into a contract or other agreement with a third party to review appointees in the Veterans Health Administration who had a license terminated for cause by a State licensing board for care or services rendered at a non-Veterans Health Administration facility and to provide individuals treated by such an appointee with notice if it is determined that an episode of care or services to which they received was below the standard of care, S. 450, to require the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to carry out a pilot program to expedite the onboarding process for new medical providers of the Department of Veterans Affairs, to reduce the duration of the hiring process for such medical providers, S. 3182, to direct the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to carry out the Women’s Health Transition Training pilot program through at least fiscal year 2020, and the nomination of Grant C. Jaquith, of New York, to be a Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims.

FEBRUARY 5
9:30 a.m.
Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe
To hold hearings to examine the power and purpose of parliamentary diplomacy, focusing on inter-parliamentary initiatives and the United States contribution.

CHOB-210
Daily Digest

Senate

Chamber Action

Routine Proceedings, pages S579–S617

Measures Considered:

Impeachment of President Trump: Senate, sitting as a Court of Impeachment, resumed consideration of the articles of impeachment against Donald John Trump, President of the United States.

Senate will continue consideration of the articles of impeachment against President Trump, on Tuesday, January 28, 2020.

Adjournment: Senate convened at 1:05 p.m. and adjourned at 9:02 p.m., until 1 p.m. on Tuesday, January 28, 2020. (For Senate’s program, see the remarks of the Majority Leader in today’s Record on page S617.)

Committee Meetings

(Commitees not listed did not meet)

No committee meetings were held.

---

House of Representatives

Chamber Action

Public Bills and Resolutions Introduced: 7 public bills, H.R. 5678–5684; and 4 resolutions, H. Res. 810, 812–814, were introduced.

Additional Cosponsors: Pages H565–66

Reports Filed: Reports were filed today as follows:

- H.R. 964, to amend the Presidential Transition Act of 1963 to require the development of ethics plans for certain transition teams, and for other purposes (H. Rept. 116–382); and
- H. Res. 811, providing for consideration of the bill (H.R. 3621) to amend the Fair Credit Reporting Act to remove adverse information for certain defaulted or delinquent private education loan borrowers who demonstrate a history of loan repayment, and for other purposes, and providing for consideration of the Senate amendment to the bill (H.R. 550) to award a Congressional Gold Medal, collectively, to the United States Merchant Mariners of World War II, in recognition of their dedicated and vital service during World War II (H. Rept. 116–383).

Recess: The House recessed at 2:12 p.m. and reconvened at 4:45 p.m.

Suspensions: The House agreed to suspend the rules and pass the following measures:

Never Again Education Act: H.R. 943, amended, to authorize the Secretary of Education to award grants to eligible entities to carry out educational programs about the Holocaust, by a 2/3 yea-and-nay vote of 393 yeas to 5 nays, Roll No. 23;

Merchant Mariners of World War II Congressional Gold Medal Act of 2020: H.R. 5671, to award a Congressional Gold Medal, collectively, to the United States Merchant Mariners of World War II, in recognition of their dedicated and vital service during World War II;

Advancing Research to Prevent Suicide Act: H.R. 4704, amended, to direct the Director of the National Science Foundation to support multidisciplinary research on the science of suicide, and to advance the knowledge and understanding of issues that may be associated with several aspects of suicide including intrinsic and extrinsic factors related to areas such as wellbeing, resilience, and vulnerability, by a ⅔ yea-and-nay vote of 385 yeas to 8 nays, Roll No. 24; and

Supporting Veterans in STEM Careers Act: S. 153, to promote veteran involvement in STEM education, computer science, and scientific research. Pages H549–50, H554–55

Recess: The House recessed at 6:06 p.m. and reconvened at 6:25 p.m.

Moment of Silence: The House observed a moment of silence in memory of the late Honorable Michael Fitzpatrick. Page H553

Quorum Calls—Votes: Two yea-and-nay votes developed during the proceedings of today and appear on pages H553–54 and H554–55. There were no quorum calls.

Adjournment: The House met at 2 p.m. and adjourned at 8:37 p.m.

Committee Meetings

STUDENT BORROWER CREDIT IMPROVEMENT ACT; SENATE AMENDMENT TO THE MERCHANT MARINERS OF WORLD WAR II CONGRESSIONAL GOLD MEDAL ACT OF 2019

Committee on Rules: Full Committee held a hearing on H.R. 3621, the “Student Borrower Credit Improvement Act” [Comprehensive CREDIT Act of 2020]; and Senate Amendment to H.R. 550, the “Merchant Mariners of World War II Congressional Gold Medal Act of 2019” [No War Against Iran Act; To repeal the Authorization for Use of Military Force Against Iraq Resolution of 2002]. The Committee granted, by record vote of 8–4, a rule providing for consideration of H.R. 3621, the “Student Borrower Credit Improvement Act” [Comprehensive CREDIT Act of 2020], and the Senate Amendment to H.R. 550, the “Merchant Mariners of World War II Congressional Gold Medal Act of 2019” [No War Against Iran Act; To repeal the Authorization for Use of Military Force Against Iraq Resolution of 2002]. The rule provides for consideration of the Senate amendment with two House amendments: Amendment #1 consisting of the text of Rules Committee Print 116–48, the “No War Against Iran Act”; and Amendment #2 consisting of the text of Rules Committee Print 116–49, to repeal the Authorization for Use of Military Force Against Iraq Resolution of 2002. The rule provides one hour of debate on each House amendment, equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs. The rule waives all points of order against consideration of the motion and provides that the Senate amendment and the motion shall be considered as read. The rule provides that the question shall be divided between the two House amendments, that no further division of the question is in order, and that the divided question shall be considered in the order specified by the chair. The rule provides that if only one amendment is adopted, that amendment shall be engrossed as an amendment in the nature of a substitute to the Senate amendment to H.R. 550. Testimony was heard from Chairman Waters, and Representatives Levin of Michigan, Chabot, and McHenry.

Joint Meetings

No joint committee meetings were held.

NEW PUBLIC LAWS

(For last listing of Public Laws, see DAILY DIGEST, p. D66)

H.R. 583, to amend the Communications Act of 1934 to provide for enhanced penalties for pirate radio. Signed on January 24, 2020. (Public Law 116–109)

COMMITTEE MEETINGS FOR TUESDAY, JANUARY 28, 2020

(Committee meetings are open unless otherwise indicated)

Senate

Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation: Subcommittee on Transportation and Safety, to hold hearings to examine building infrastructure in America, focusing on an overview of the Build America Bureau and the Department of Transportation Rural Transportation Initiatives, 10 a.m., SH–216.

Committee on Foreign Relations: to receive a closed briefing on United States-Iran policy and authorities for the use of force, 9 a.m., SVC–217.

Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs: to hold hearings to examine America’s fiscal path, 9:30 a.m., SD–342.

Select Committee on Intelligence: to receive a closed briefing on certain intelligence matters, 10 a.m., SH–219.

House

Committee on Agriculture, Subcommittee on Conservation and Forestry, hearing entitled “To Review Implementation of Farm Bill Conservation Programs”, 10 a.m., 1300 Longworth.

Committee on Armed Services, Full Committee, hearing entitled “Security Update on the Korean Peninsula”, 10 a.m., 2118 Rayburn.

Committee on Energy and Commerce, Subcommittee on Energy; and Subcommittee on Environment and Climate Change, joint hearing entitled “Out of Control: The Impact of Wildfires on our Power Sector and the Environment”, 10 a.m., 2123 Rayburn.

Subcommittee on Consumer Protection, hearing entitled “Legislation to Promote the Health and Safety of Racehorses”, 10:30 a.m., 2322 Rayburn.

Committee on Foreign Affairs, Subcommittee on the Middle East, North Africa, and International Terrorism, hearing entitled “Escalation with Iran: Outcomes and Implications for U.S. Interests and Regional Stability”, 10 a.m., 2172 Rayburn.

Subcommittee on Africa, Global Health, Global Human Rights and International Organizations; and Subcommittee on Civil Rights and Civil Liberties of the House Committee on Oversight and Reform, joint hearing entitled “Ending Global Religious Persecution”, 2 p.m., 2172 Rayburn.

Subcommittee on Water, Oceans, and Wildlife, hearing on H.R. 4891, the “Western Water Security Act of 2019”; H.R. 5316, the “Move Water Now Act”; and H.R. 5347, the “Disadvantaged Community Drinking Water Assistance Act”, 10 a.m., 1324 Longworth.

Committee on Oversight and Reform, Subcommittee on National Security, hearing entitled “Examining the Trump Administration’s Afghanistan Strategy”, 10 a.m., 2154 Rayburn.

Subcommittee on Government Operations, hearing entitled “Protecting Those Who Blow the Whistle on Government Wrongdoing”, 2 p.m., 2154 Rayburn.

Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, Subcommittee on Economic Development, Public Buildings, and Emergency Management, hearing entitled “GSA Outleases and the Trump Old Post Office Hotel”, 10 a.m., 2167 Rayburn.

Committee on Ways and Means, Full Committee, hearing entitled “Legislative Proposals for Paid Family and Medical Leave”, 10 a.m., 1100 Longworth.

Joint Meetings

Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe: to hold hearings to examine the state of human rights in Crimea, 10 a.m., 210, Cannon Building.

CONGRESSIONAL PROGRAM AHEAD

Week of January 28 through January 31, 2020

Senate Chamber

During the balance of the week, Senate expects to continue to sit as a Court of Impeachment to consider the articles of impeachment against President Trump.

Senate Committees

(Committee meetings are open unless otherwise indicated)

Committee on Armed Services: January 30, to hold hearings to examine United States Africa Command and United States Southern Command in review of the Defense Authorization Request for fiscal year 2021 and the Future Years Defense Program, 9 a.m., SD–G50.

Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation: January 28, Subcommittee on Transportation and Safety, to hold hearings to examine building infrastructure in America, focusing on an overview of the Build America Bureau and the Department of Transportation Rural Transportation Initiatives, 10 a.m., SH–216.

Committee on Environment and Public Works: January 29, to hold hearings to examine stakeholder perspectives on the importance of the United States Chemical Safety and Hazard Investigation Board, 10 a.m., SD–406.
Committee on Foreign Relations: January 28, to receive a closed briefing on United States-Iran policy and authorities for the use of force, 9 a.m., SVC–217.

Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs: January 28, to hold hearings to examine America’s fiscal path, 9:30 a.m., SD–342.

Committee on Veterans’ Affairs: January 29, business meeting to consider S. 785, to improve mental health care provided by the Department of Veterans Affairs, S. 2336, to improve the management of information technology projects and investments of the Department of Veterans Affairs, S. 2864, to require the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to carry out a pilot program on information sharing between the Department of Veterans Affairs and designated relatives and friends of veterans regarding the assistance and benefits available to the veterans, S. 524, to establish the Department of Veterans Affairs Advisory Committee on Tribal and Indian Affairs, S. 2594, to amend title 5, United States Code, to modify certain requirements with respect to service and retirement for the purposes of veterans’ preference for Federal hiring, S. 850, to extend the authorization of appropriations to the Department of Veterans Affairs for purposes of awarding grants to veterans service organizations for the transportation of highly rural veterans, S. 3110, to direct the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct a study on disability and pension benefits provided to members of the National Guard and members of reserve components of the Armed Forces by the Department of Veterans Affairs, S. 123, to require the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to enter into a contract or other agreement with a third party to review appointees in the Veterans Health Administration who had a license terminated for cause by a State licensing board for care or services rendered at a non-Veterans Health Administration facility and to provide individuals treated by such an appointee with notice if it is determined that an episode of care or services to which they received was below the standard of care, S. 450, to require the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to carry out a pilot program to expedite the onboarding process for new medical providers of the Department of Veterans Affairs, to reduce the duration of the hiring process for such medical providers, S. 3182, to direct the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to carry out the Women’s Health Transition Training pilot program through at least fiscal year 2020, and the nomination of Grant C. Jaquith, of New York, to be a Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims, 9:30 a.m., SR–418.

Select Committee on Intelligence: January 28, to receive a closed briefing on certain intelligence matters, 10 a.m., SH–219.

January 29, Full Committee, to receive a closed briefing on certain intelligence matters, 10 a.m., SH–219.

Special Committee on Aging: January 29, to hold hearings to examine protecting seniors from the Social Security Impersonation Scam, 9:30 a.m., SD–562.

Committee on the Budget: January 29, Full Committee, hearing entitled “The Congressional Budget Office’s Budget and Economic Outlook”, 10 a.m., 210 Cannon.

Committee on Energy and Commerce: January 29, Subcommittee on Health, hearing entitled “Improving Safety and Transparency in America’s Food and Drugs”, 10 a.m., 2322 Rayburn.

January 29, Subcommittee on Communications and Technology, hearing entitled “Empowering and Connecting Communities through Digital Equity and Internet Adoption”, 10:30 a.m., 2123 Rayburn.

Committee on Financial Services: January 29, Full Committee, hearing entitled “The Community Reinvestment Act: Is the OCC Undermining the Law’s Purpose and Intent”, 10 a.m., 2128 Rayburn.

January 29, Subcommittee on Housing, Community Development, and Insurance, hearing entitled “Examining the Availability of Insurance for Nonprofits”, 2 p.m., 2128 Rayburn.

Committee on Foreign Affairs: January 29, Full Committee, hearing entitled “Evaluating the Trump Administration’s Policies on Iran, Iraq and the Use of Force”, 10 a.m., 2172 Rayburn.

Committee on Homeland Security: January 29, Full Committee, markup on H.R. 1140, the “Rights for Transportation Security Officers Act”; H.R. 5273, the “Securing America’s Ports Act”; H.R. 1494, the “HBCU Homeland Security Partnerships Act”; H.R. 5680, the “Cybersecurity Vulnerability Identification and Notification Act of 2020”; H.R. 5670, the “Transportation Security Transparency Improvement Act”; H.R. 5678, the “Privacy Office Enhancement Act”; and H.R. 5679, the “CISA Director Reform Act”, 10 a.m., 310 Cannon.

Committee on Natural Resources: January 29, Full Committee, markup on H.R. 1049, the “National Heritage Area Act of 2019”; H.R. 1240, the “Young Fishermen’s Development Act of 2019”; H.R. 2748, the “Safeguarding America’s Future and Environment Act”; H.R. 2795, the “Wildlife Corridors Conservation Act of 2019”; H.R. 2956, to provide for the establishment of the Western Riverside County Wildlife Refuge; H.R. 3599, to amend the Nutria Eradication and Control Act of 2003 to include California in the program, and for other purposes; H.R. 4348, the “Protect America’s Wildlife and Fish In Need of Conservation Act of 2019”; H.R. 4679, the “Climate-Ready Fisheries Act of 2019”; and H.R. 5179, the “Tribal Wildlife Corridors Act of 2019”, 10 a.m., 1324 Longworth.
Committee on Oversight and Reform, January 29, Full Committee, hearing entitled “75 Years After the Holocaust: The Ongoing Battle Against Hate”, 10 a.m., 2154 Rayburn.

Committee on Science, Space, and Technology, January 29, Full Committee, hearing entitled “Losing Ground: U.S. Competitiveness in Critical Technologies”, 10 a.m., 2318 Rayburn.

January 29, Subcommittee on Space and Aeronautics, markup on H.R. 5666, the “National Aeronautics and Space Administration Authorization Act of 2020”, 2 p.m., 2318 Rayburn.

Committee on Ways and Means, January 29, Full Committee, hearing entitled “Paving the Way for Funding and Financing Infrastructure Investments”, 1:30 p.m., 1100 Longworth.

Joint Meetings

Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe: January 28, to hold hearings to examine the state of human rights in Crimea, 10 a.m., 210, Cannon Building.

January 29, Full Committee, to hold hearings to examine human rights and democracy, focusing on obstacles and opportunities in the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe region, 10 a.m., 1334, Longworth Building.
Next Meeting of the SENATE
1 p.m., Tuesday, January 28

Program for Tuesday: Senate will continue to sit as a Court of Impeachment to consider the articles of impeachment against President Trump.

House Chamber

Program for Tuesday: Consideration of measures under suspension of the Rules.

Extensions of Remarks, as inserted in this issue

HOUSE

Axne, Cynthia, Iowa, E87
Bost, Mike, Ill., E84
Burgess, Michael C., Tex., E92
Cook, Paul, Calif., E82
Crawford, Eric A. "Rick", Ark., E82
Fitzpatrick, Brian K., Pa., E81
Gallego, Ruben, Ariz., E80
Lieu, Ted, Calif., E79

Meng, Grace, N.Y., E80
Miller, Carol D., W. Va., E86
Murphy, Gregory F., N.C., E86
Norton, Eleanor Holmes, The District of Columbia, E94
Payne, Donald M., Jr., N.J., E85
Pence, Greg, Ind., E85
Perlmutter, Ed, Colo., E79, E80, E81, E82, E83, E84, E84
Perry, Scott, Pa., E97
Posey, Bill, Fla., E86
Reed, Tom, N.Y., E83
Roe, Max, N.Y., E79
Schakowsky, Janice D., Ill., E87, E88
Stanton, Greg, Ariz., E85
Stefanik, Elise M., N.Y., E79, E79, E80, E81, E82, E83, E84, E86, E87
Taylor, Van, Tex., E87
Walorski, Jackie, Ind., E83

The Congressional Record (USPS 087–390). The Periodicals postage is paid at Washington, D.C. The public proceedings of each House of Congress, as reported by the Official Reporters thereof, are printed pursuant to directions of the Joint Committee on Printing as authorized by appropriate provisions of Title 44, United States Code, and published for each day that one or both Houses are in session, excepting very infrequent instances when two or more unusually small consecutive issues are printed one time. ¶Public access to the Congressional Record is available online through the U.S. Government Publishing Office, at www.govinfo.gov, free of charge to the user. The information is updated online each day the Congressional Record is published. For more information, contact the GPO Customer Contact Center, U.S. Government Publishing Office, Phone 202–512–1800, or 866–512–1800 (toll-free). E-Mail, contactcenter@gpo.gov. ¶To place an order for any of these products, visit the U.S. Government Online Bookstore at: bookstore.gpo.gov. Mail orders to: Superintendent of Documents, P.O. Box 979050, St. Louis, MO 63197–9000, or phone orders to 866–512–1800 (toll-free), 202–512–1800 (D.C. area), or fax to 202–512–2104. Remit check or money order, made payable to the Superintendent of Documents, or use VISA, MasterCard, Discover, American Express, or GPO Deposit Account. ¶Following each session of Congress, the daily Congressional Record is revised, printed, permanently bound and sold by the Superintendent of Documents in individual parts or by sets. ¶With the exception of copyrighted articles, there are no restrictions on the republication of material from the Congressional Record.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to the Superintendent of Documents, Congressional Record, U.S. Government Publishing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, along with the entire mailing label from the last issue received.