COMMEMORATING BLACK HISTORY MONTH

HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, February 4, 2020

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Madam Speaker, this February we recognize and celebrate the 42nd commemoration of Black History Month.

This month we celebrate the contributions of African Americans to the history of our great nation, and pay tribute to trailblazers, pioneers, heroes, and leaders like the 44th President of the United States and First Lady, Barack Obama and Michelle Obama, respectively; Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.; Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall; U.S. Senator Blanche Kelso Bruce; U.S. Congresswoman Barbara Jordan; U.S. Congressman Mickey Leland; Astronauts Dr. Guion Stewart Bluford, Jr. and Mae C. Jemison; activists, intellectuals, authors, artists, and entrepreneurs like Frederick Douglass, Booker T. Washington, James Baldwin, Harriet Tubman, Rosa Parks, Maya Angelou, Toni Morrison, Gwenolyn Brooks, Shonda Rhimes, Ava Duvernay, Oprah Winfrey, and Super Bowl LIV winning quarterback Patrick Mahomes and National Football League Most Valuable Player Lamar Jackson, just to name a few of the countless number of well-known and unsung heroes whose contributions have helped our nation become a more perfect union.

The history of the United States has been marked by the great contributions of African American activists, leaders, writers, and artists.

As a member of Congress, I know that I stand on the shoulders of giants like Shirley Chisholm, John Conyers, JOHN LEWIS, Ronald Dellums, and Barbara Jordan whose struggles and triumphs made it possible for me to stand here today and continue the fight for equality, justice, and progress for all, regardless of race, religion, gender or sexual orientation.

The greatest of these giants to me are Mrs. Ivalita "Ivy" Jackson, a vocational nurse, and Mr. Ezra A. Jackson, one of the first African Americans to succeed in the comic book publishing business.

They were my beloved parents and they taught me the value of education, hard work, discipline, perseverance, and caring for others.

And I am continually inspired by Dr. Elwyn Lee, my husband and the first tenured African American law professor at the University of Houston.

Madam Speaker, I particularly wish to acknowledge the contributions of African American veterans in defending from foreign aggressors and who by their courageous examples helped transform our nation from a segregated society to a nation committed to the never-ending challenge of perfecting our union.

Several years ago about this time, I was honored to join Congressmen JOHN LEWIS and former Congressman Charles Rangel, a Korean War veteran, in paying tribute to surviving members of the Tuskegee Airmen and the 555th Parachute Infantry, the famed "Triple Nickels" at a moving ceremony sponsored by the U.S. Army commemorating the 50th anniversary of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The success of the Tuskegee Airmen in escorting bombers during World War II—achieving one of the lowest loss records of all the escort fighter groups and being in constant demand for their services by the allied bomber units—is a record unmatched by any other fighter group.

So impressive and astounding were the feats of the Tuskegee Airmen that in 1948, it helped persuade President Harry Truman to issue his famous Executive Order No. 9981, which directed equality of treatment and opportunity in all of the United States Armed Forces and led to the end of racial segregation in the U.S. military forces.

It is a source of enormous and enduring pride that my father-in-law, Phillip Ferguson Lee, was one of the Tuskegee Airmen.

Clearly, what began as an experiment to determine whether "colored" soldiers were capable of operating expensive and complex combat aircraft ended as an unqualified success based on the experience of the Tuskegee Airmen, whose record included 261 aircraft destroyed, 148 aircraft damaged, 15,553 combat sorties and 1,578 missions over Italy and North Africa.

They also destroyed or damaged over 950 units of ground transportation and escorted more than 200 bombing missions.

• This "bullet" symbol identifies statements or insertions which are not spoken by a Member of the Senate on the floor.

Matter set in this typeface indicates words inserted or appended, rather than spoken, by a Member of the House on the floor.

They proved that “the antidote to racism is excellence in performance,” as retired Lt. Col. Herbert Carter once remarked.

Madam Speaker, Black History Month is also a time to remember many pioneering women like U.S. Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm; activists Harriet Tubman and Rosa Parks; astronaut Mae C. Jemison; mathematicians like Katherine G. Johnson, Dorothy Vaughan and Mary Jackson authors Maya Angelou, Toni Morrison, and Gwendolyn Brooks; all of whom have each in their own way, whether through courageous activism, cultural or intellectual contributions, or artistic creativity, forged social and political change, and forever changed our great Nation for the better.

It is also fitting, Madam Speaker, that in addition to those national leaders who contributions have made our nation better, we honor also those who have and are making a difference in their local communities.

In my home city of Houston, there are numerous men and women who are great because they have heeded the counsel of Dr. King who said:

“Everybody can be great because anybody can serve. You only need a heart full of grace. A soul generated by love.”

By that measure, I wish to pay tribute to some of the great men and women who help to make Houston the wonderful, dynamic, vibrant, inclusive, and progressive city that it is.

As we celebrate Black History Month, let us pay tribute to those who have come before us, and pay forward to future generations by addressing what is the number one issue for African American families, and all American families today: preserving the American promise of economic opportunity for all.

Our immediate focus must be to work ‘For The People’ for job creation, and enacting legislation that will foster and lay the foundation for today’s and tomorrow’s generation of groundbreaking activists, leaders, scientists, writers and artists to continue contributing to the greatness of America.

We must continue to preserve the American Dream for all.

Madam Speaker, I am proud to stand here in celebration of the heroic and historic acts of African Americans and their indispensable contributions to this great Nation.

It is through our work in creating possibilities for today and future generations that we best honor the accomplishments and legacy of our predecessors.

HONORING REVEREND DR.

HONORING CAMILO HERMOSILLO

HON. MIKE THOMPSON

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, February 4, 2020

Mr. THOMPSON of California. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the exceptional life of Camilo Hermosillo.

Camilo was born July 28, 1929, in Jalostotitlan Jalisco, Mexico. He was raised in humble circumstances, by a single mother. He often recounted working with his mother in the corn fields for a penny a day. Camilo immigrated to the United States as a young man in 1947 as part of the Bracero program.

His life was built on a foundation of hard work and service, and he was always grateful for the opportunities that the United States provided him. He had many farming and agricultural jobs throughout his life. He worked on the Leveroni Ranch in south Sonoma, where he worked for three generations of Leveronis. He and his wife owned the first Mexican market and restaurant in Sonoma Valley. With his hard work, he was able to purchase three homes in Sonoma County, which he rented out inexpensively to give Latino families a hand up.

An immigrant himself, Camilo understood the barriers that many Latinos must overcome in order to create a happy and successful life in the United States. He dedicated himself and his resources to serving fellow Latino immigrants. He helped find jobs, drove people to the DMV to get their driver licenses, and even housed people in the spare bedrooms of his own home. He found great joy in helping his own family and other Latinos get settled in California.

Camilo is survived by his loving wife, Maria, and their children; Gabriel Hermosillo, Gerardo Hermosillo, Carmen Cervantes, Marco Antonio Hermosillo, Martha Sanchez, and Rebecca Hermosillo. He is preceded in death by his daughter Cecilia Hermosillo. He leaves behind 14 grandchildren, 16 great-grandchildren and a large extended family.

Madam Speaker, Camilo Hermosillo was the kind of father that everyone wishes for, and the kind of person we should all strive to be. It is therefore fitting and proper that we honor him here today.

OPPOSITION TO S. 3201, THE TEMPORARY REAUTHORIZATION AND STUDY OF THE EMERGENCY SCHEDULING OF FENTANYL ANALOGUES ACT

HON. PETER A. DeFAZIO

OF OREGON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, February 4, 2020

Mr. DeFAZIO. Madam Speaker, on January 29, I voted against S. 3201, the Temporary Reauthorization and Study of the Emergency Scheduling of Fentanyl Analogues Act.

Fentanyl, a deadly synthetic drug 50 times more powerful than heroin, is wreaking havoc on Americans across the country. In 2017, there were over 47,000 opioid overdose deaths, and 28,000 of those deaths involved synthetic opioids such as fentanyl. In Oregon, fentanyl use and deaths associated with fentanyl use continue to climb: In 2013, there were 14 related fentanyl deaths in Oregon; In 2018, there were more than 75.

We must do more to combat this epidemic. We should start with aggressively cracking down on major manufacturers. According to the Oregon-Idaho High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area program, most non-pharmaceutical fentanyl and fentanyl analogues that are available in Oregon are illicitly manufactured—primarily in China, as well as in Mexico—and then imported into the United States.

That's why I am a cosponsor of the Fentanyl Sanctions Act. This legislation would require the imposition of sanctions on drug manufacturers in China who knowingly provide synthetic opioids to traffickers, transnational criminal organizations (such as cartels in Mexico who are known to mix fentanyl with other drugs before trafficking them into the U.S.), and financial institutions that assist such entities. It would also authorize new funding for law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat the foreign trafficking of synthetic opioids and urge the president to significantly ramp up diplomatic efforts with China and Mexico to establish multilateral sanctions against foreign synthetic opioid traffickers. I am pleased that this important legislation was included in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020 that was signed into law last year.

However, I have strong concerns that S. 3201 will expose more individuals to prosecutions and aggressive federal mandatory minimums for even trace amounts of illicit fentanyl and fentanyl analogues, undermine our progress on bipartisan sentencing reform efforts like the First Step Act, and fail to focus our efforts on combatting major illicit fentanyl manufacturers and traffickers.

We must not arrest our way out of this crisis. This epidemic demands thoughtful legislation from Congress, not a knee-jerk response that is likely to exacerbate troubling trends in federal drug prosecutions and incarceration levels.

Given that S. 3201 will extend the Drug Enforcement Administration's (DEA) emergency scheduling of fentanyl-related substances through May 6, 2021, I hope the committees of jurisdiction use that time to develop a balanced, comprehensive approach that protects public health and safety while addressing fentanyl overdoses and reducing the harm of federal mandatory minimums and overincarceration.

HONORING ADVENTIST HEALTH HOWARD MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

HON. JARED HUFFMAN

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, February 4, 2020

Mr. HUFFMAN. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize Adventist Health Howard Memorial Hospital for its recent five-star rating by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services. This rating reflects the hard work and dedication of Adventist Health Howard Memorial's staff and their commitment to high quality, patient-centered care.

In 1925, members of the Willits Development Association discussed the need for a community hospital. This group included Charles S. Howard, the owner of a nearby ranch and the racehorse Seabiscuit. In 1926, Charles Howard's 15-year-old son died in an automobile accident, and the family felt a lack of emergency equipment and access to hospital facilities contributed to his death. Charles Howard donated substantial funds toward the construction of the Frank R. Howard Memorial Hospital to be built in honor of his son. The hospital admitted its first patient in 1928.

Of the more than 4,500 hospitals rated by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) this year, Adventist Health Howard Memorial Hospital is one of only 407 hospitals to receive a five-star rating. This rating is based on the hospital's performance across seven metrics of quality, including patient experience and readmission rates.

In addition to this rating, the hospital recently received a Planetree Gold Certification which reflects "Excellence in Person-Centered Care". It is an evidence-based certification program that provides a framework for healthcare providers to improve overall health and well-being by engaging patients, families, staff, and the wider community in tailoring medical care to meet the needs of individual patients.

Madam Speaker, Adventist Health Howard Memorial Hospital's receipt of these prestigious designations showcases the high standard of care provided by this important rural, critical-access hospital. Please join me in congratulating the leadership and staff responsible for these achievements.

When he became Executive Director, the Food Bank was distributing just 36,000 pounds of food per year from parking lots and churches. 40 years later and due to Mr. Sly's devoted service and leadership, the Food Bank now distributes 25 million pounds of food each year to our community.

Mr. Sly served as Vice Chair of the Board of Directors of Feeding America, the national food bank network, and on the National Council, an elected group of food bank leaders who serve as the voice of the network for Feeding America. He has also served on the Board of Directors of the California Association of Food Banks, and now chairs the Emergency Food and Shelter Board that works to allocate federal funds to hunger and shelter agencies in Contra Costa County. He has served on State Advisory Committees on hunger and has been appointed to several task forces for Feeding America. His commitment to nourishing our community is truly unprecedented and we are grateful for his many contributions.

Jack has been very active with his troop, participating in many scout activities. Over the many years Jack has been involved with scouting, he has not only earned numerous merit badges, but also the respect of his family, peers, and community. Most notably, Jack has earned the rank of Warrior in the Tribe of Mic-O-Say, become a Brotherhood member of the Order of the Arrow, and led his troop as the Senior Patrol Leader. Jack has also contributed to his community through his Eagle Scout project. Jack constructed four raised gardens along the Grain Valley Butterfly Trail in Grain Valley, Missouri.

Madam Speaker, I proudly ask you to join me in commending John "Jack" Martin for his accomplishments with the Boy Scouts of America and for his efforts put forth in achieving the highest distinction of Eagle Scout.

HON. ED PERLMUTTER

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, February 4, 2020

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize and applaud the Severe Weather Shelter Network on being awarded the West Metro Chamber of Commerce Non-profit of the Year Award.

As a Christian ministry, the group welcomes all volunteers who share a passion for aiding individuals experiencing homelessness.

The Severe Weather Shelter Network partners with community organizations and agencies to provide overnight shelter on life-threatening winter nights for individuals living on the streets. They work with local churches to provide sites to host individuals and families overnight where they can also enjoy a hot, homemade meal and friendly conversation. The group also connects homeless individuals with other much-needed resources.

I extend my deepest congratulations to the Severe Weather Shelter Network for this well-deserved recognition and thank them for their continued service to the community.

Tuesday, February 4, 2020

Ms. ESHOO. Madam Speaker, we rise today to honor Congregation Beth Jacob of Redwood City, California, as it celebrates its 90th Anniversary of service to Jewish residents living between the cities of San Francisco and San Jose. The founders, Polish and Russian immigrants, were among the many Jews who fled Eastern Europe between 1882 and 1910. The Congregation held services in its first synagogue in Menlo Park in 1931. In 1952, the Congregation broke ground for its current facility on Alameda de las Pulgas in Redwood City. In 1979, Beth Jacob suffered a catastrophic fire, and the current facility was rebuilt in 1981.

Congregation Beth Jacob's first leader was Kenneth Carlton Zwerin who served for a decade, followed by numerous rabbis and lay leaders. Rabbi H. David Teitelbaum, a distinguished civil rights activist, led Beth Jacob to join the United Synagogue of Conservative Judaism, an affiliation that continued until 2013. Rabbi Nathaniel Ezray, the Congregation's current leader, took the leadership position in 1995.

Beth Jacob, a vibrant and egalitarian Congregation, is widely known and highly regarded for its leadership in progressive actions within the Conservative movement. For many years, women, LGBTQ individuals, people with disabilities and those who are homeless have been active and important within the Congregation. In fact, Beth Jacob was the first local synagogue to build a ramp so those with limited mobility could reach the Torah. Beth Jacob strives to see the image of God in every person who steps through its doors and believes in the importance of honoring differences.

Madam Speaker, we ask our colleagues to join us in wishing Congregation Beth Jacob many more years of service to our community, and in thanking Beth Jacob for 90 years of providing a welcoming, safe and joyful place of worship to its devoted members. IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, February 4, 2020

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize and applaud retired Wheat Ridge Police Chief Dan Brennan on being awarded the West Metro Chamber of Commerce Steve Burkholder Diamond Legacy Award.

Throughout his career, Chief Brennan left his mark on Jefferson County—from the Lakewood Police Department, to helping create Jeffcom 911 and a regional SWAT Team, to a community approach to policing that addresses the causes of crime, not just the crime.

Brennan began his 42 years in law enforcement with the Lakewood Police Department rising through the ranks from Police Agent to Commander. During his career at Lakewood Police Department, he worked in multiple positions where his leadership and dedication to the community became apparent.

HONORING THE SONOMA VALLEY
FIREFIGHTER HOLIDAY DINNER

HON. MIKE THOMPSON

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, February 4, 2020

Mr. THOMPSON of California. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the Sonoma Valley Firefighter Holiday Dinner and recognize the outstanding efforts of firefighters throughout Sonoma Valley.

At the time, the 2017 North Bay Wildfires were the most devastating in our state's history. We saw firsthand, that wildfires do not respect district or regional boundaries. In response, firefighters from near and far came together to protect our community. Firefighters from all over the valley fought shoulder to shoulder to save lives and property, risking their own lives along the way. Our entire community, both firefighters and civilians alike, left with a renewed sense of comradery and partnership that continues to permeate the area today.

Following this extraordinary united effort, the Glen Ellen Volunteer Firefighter Association extended their annual holiday celebration to their teammates, past and present, from the entire Sonoma Valley Fire and Rescue Authority, as well as the Kenwood and Mayacamas volunteer stations. The holiday dinner honors the incredible sacrifices made by the entire fire community and is a joy to all who participate.

The dinner brings together all current volunteer and career firefighters, department board members, retired chiefs, battalion chiefs, and their spouses. Meals are prepared and delivered to the on-duty firefighters staffing their stations. It is a time to honor past leadership, reflect on the year's successes, and support the Explorer program to help develop future staff. Additionally, there is an opportunity to recognize spouses, widows, and families, as it takes an entire village to support those on the front line.

Madam Speaker, the Sonoma Valley fire agencies are always ready to help and protect our community. Their unparalleled commitment to protecting Sonoma Valley makes them a model for the region. It is therefore fitting and proper that we honor them here today.
