CELEBRATING SCORING SENSATION RAKIYAH SELLERS

(Mr. PAYNE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PAYNE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to celebrate a scoring sensation in my district, Rakiyah Sellers. The senior guard at College of Saint Elizabeth scored her 1,000th career point in February.

She began her basketball career at the Ivy Hill Elementary School in Newark, New Jersey. From there, she continued to shine as a standout player for the Lady Jaguars of Newark's Arts High School.

Her scoring milestone came in a Colonial States Athletic Conference semifinal. Her team, College of Saint Elizabeth, beat Notre Dame of Maryland University 76–51.

In the conference final, Rakiyah had 4 points, 2 assists, 2 blocks, and 3 steals. Unfortunately, her Eagles of Saint Elizabeth lost to the Keystone Giants 72–61, but that does not dim her accomplishment. She is a shining star of Newark, and I am proud to highlight her today.

While studying at Purdue, he met his wife, Betty J. Fordice, and the two were shortly wedded to one another. The following year of their marriage, Dr. Rice answered the call for his country and served in the United States Army infantry in Korea.

After serving in the military, Dr. Rice returned to Indiana, where he taught public school while pursuing his advanced degrees at Purdue.

In 1967, Dr. Rice was appointed to lead the Evansville campus of Indiana State University. By 1985, under his leadership, the campus became its own separate university, the University of Southern Indiana.

During his tenure, the University of Southern Indiana grew in enrollment
