The House met at 3 p.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Ms. SCANLON).

DESIGNATION OF THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE
The Speaker pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, Washington, DC, May 14, 2020. I hereby appoint the Honorable MARY GAY SCANLON to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

NANCY PELOSI, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

PRAYER
The Chaplain, the Reverend Patrick J. Conroy, offered the following prayer:

Compassionate and merciful God, thank You for giving us another day.

As Members return and are making their way back to the Capitol, we ask that You keep them safe from infection as they pass through areas of relatively high social contact.

Bless the men and women whose work in the travel industry places them at heightened risk during this pandemic. May all who travel these days be mindful of the safety of all around them in their use of face masks, and other cautions, as recommended by the Centers for Disease Control.

May everything done today and in the days to come be for Your greater honor and glory.

Amen.

THE JOURNAL
The Speaker pro tempore. Pursuant to section 7(a) of House Resolution 891, the Journal of the last day’s proceedings is approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The Speaker pro tempore. The Chair will lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

The Speaker pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CLERK OF THE HOUSE
The Speaker pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Clerk of the House of Representatives:

Hon. NANCY PELOSI, Speaker, House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR MADAM SPEAKER: Pursuant to the permission granted in Clause 2(h) of Rule II of the Rules of the U.S. House of Representatives, the Clerk received the following message from the Secretary of the Senate on May 14, 2020, at 2:47 p.m.:

That the Senate passed with amendments H.R. 6172.

With best wishes, I am,

Sincerely, ROBERT F. REEVES, Deputy Clerk.

RECESS
The Speaker pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess subject to the call of the Chair.

Accordingly (at 3 o’clock and 3 minutes p.m.), the House stood in recess.

☐ 2112

AFTER RECESS

The Senate met at 10:30 a.m. and was called to order by the President pro tempore (Mr. GRASSLEY).

PRAYER
The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Almighty God, guide our lawmakers today to think of themselves as Your faithful servants eager to do Your bidding. May they strive less for success and more for faithfulness, realizing that You expect dependability from them.

Lord, give them the wisdom to believe that though they may plant and water the seeds of our Nation’s destiny, only You can bring the harvest. As they look to You, the Lord of the harvest, soothe their doubts and calm their fears. And Lord, we thank You for the many courageous staffers who enable the Senate to function.

We pray in Your gracious Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The President pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The senior assistant legislative clerk will call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, I ask permission to address the Senate in morning business for 1 minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

REGULATORY ENFORCEMENT REFORM
Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, an important part of my job—and I hope for every Senator—is hearing the views, in my case, of Iowans but in the case of my colleagues, the citizens of their States. But it is not every day that we hear about the executive branch of government and its bureaucracy making an effort to listen to the American people. Fortunately, that is changing under this administration.

I have advised the people of Iowa, and I am advising them again—and, hopefully, my colleagues will have their constituents take advantage of it—that this administration in January, through the White House, put out a call to Americans who deal with Federal regulations to share their ideas on how to ensure that those who face regulatory enforcement have due process and get a fair shake. Those ideas will now be used to make regulatory enforcement fairer. Take advantage of this opportunity.

Americans who face a burden of complying with regulations should have a voice in making the process better, and I applaud this administration for listening to the American people.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader is recognized.

CORONAVIRUS
Mr. MCCONNELL. Madam President, this pandemic is weighing heavily on the American people. Roughly, 14 million Americans have been infected, more than 80,000 have died, and unemployment has not been this high since World War II.

Just a few months ago, millions of hard-working men and women were thriving and optimistic. They were making big plans across kitchen tables. Now all of that is in chaos.

The Chairman of the Federal Reserve reported that nearly 4 in 10 American households that earn less than $40,000 a year had somebody get laid off in the month of March alone. This emergency is very serious, so the Senate’s response has been serious.

In March, Senate Republicans designed and the full Senate passed the CARES Act. It pushed trillions of dollars to working families, job creators, and medical professionals. We sent direct cash to almost 130 million Americans. We delivered hundreds of billions of dollars in paycheck protection loans to small businesses, saving tens of millions of American jobs. We helped State and local governments defray coronavirus costs. We funded healthcare providers and testing. Even now, its programs are still taking effect, still coming online, still helping.

The Senate took a blank sheet of paper and turned it into the largest rescue package in history.

We have taken this crisis seriously, but the House Democrats have taken a totally different approach. While we finalized the CARES Act, the House parachuted in with miscellaneous liberal demands that were completely unrelated to COVID-19—solar energy tax credits, airline emissions. One senior House Democrat called the virus a "tremendous opportunity to restructure things to fit our vision." One Senate Democratic colleague asked: "How many times are we going to get a shot at a $1 trillion-plus program?" They told us exactly what they were up to, so we ignored the leftwing wish list and stayed serious, and the CARES Act is still helping Americans bridge these temporary shutdowns.

So let’s fast-forward to today. The Democratic House is still not back in Washington. Its constitutional duty... stations are still unmanned, but the Democrats cannot stop salivating over the possibilities for partisan gain.

Former Vice President Biden says he sees this tragedy as an “incredible opportunity . . . to fundamentally transform the country.” Biden said it is an “incredible opportunity . . . to fundamentally transform the country.”

Speaker PELOSI said: “I see everything as an opportunity.”

A letter of the Congressional Progressive Caucus said: “For me, the leverage is that there is enormous suffering.” “The leverage is that there is enormous suffering.” There are 80,000 Americans who have died and more than 20 million who have lost their jobs. I call that a crisis; they call it leverage.

This week, the Speaker published an 1,800-page seasonal catalog of leftwing oddities and called it a coronavirus relief bill. So here we go again. It includes a massive Tax Code giveaway to high earners in blue States. Working families are struggling to put food on the table, but the House Democrats are prioritizing millionaires on the coasts. It would stand another hour of checks—listen to this—specifically for illegal immigrants. Can you believe it? We forgot to have the Treasury Department send money to people who are here virtually on the sidelines substantively and literally. They had already gone home. Nearly 2 months later, the Senators are back at our duty stations with new precautions. We have been back for 2 major weeks. We do not have major hearings on the pandemic. We are legislating and confirming nominees. Yet the House is still at home. And when it does contribute, it is not serious.

The House Democrats have checked their clergy of their own homes. Let me say that again. The Democrats’ supposed coronavirus bill includes tax-payer-funded studies to measure diversity and inclusion among the people who profit off of marijuana.

The word “cannabis” appears in this bill 68 times—more times than the word “job” and 4 times as much as the word “hire.” Maybe that is just as well because when their proposal does try to treat the coronavirus crisis, it proposes stifling, anti-work policies that would only make it harder for Americans to get their jobs back. For example, they literally propose to raise taxes on small business and drain more cash from the pockets of Main Street families, to harvest whether they want to or not. Then there is the cherry on top. It is the bold new policy from the Washington Democrats that will kick the coronavirus to the curb and save American families from this crisis. Here it is—new annual studies on diversity and inclusion within the cannabis industry. There is not one study but two of them. Let me say that again. The Democrats’ supposed coronavirus bill includes tax-payer-funded studies to measure diversity and inclusion among the people who profit off of marijuana.

For example, they literally propose to raise taxes on small business and drain more cash from the pockets of Main Street families, to harvest whether they want to or not.

Forget about making law; this thing even fails as a messaging bill. That is what is so remarkable. The House Democrats had a blank slate to write anything they wanted to define the modern Democratic Party—any vision for the society that they wanted—and here is what they came up with: tax breaks for small businesses, giveaways to blue State millionaires, government checks for illegal immigrants, and sending diversity detectives to inspect the food industry. The House gave itself no assignments for 2 months except to develop this proposal. Yet it still reads like the Speaker of the House pasted together some random ideas from her most liberal Members and slapped the word “coronavirus” on top of it—an unserious product from an unserious House majority that has spent months dealing itself out of the crisis.

The House Democrats have been missing in action for months. While the Senate was passing the CARES Act, the Democratic House was on the sidelines substantively and literarily. They had already gone home. Nearly 2 months later, the Senators are back at our duty stations with new precautions. We have been back for 2 major weeks. We do not have major hearings on the pandemic. We are立法ing and confirming nominees. Yet the House is still at home. And when it does contribute, it is not serious.

The House Democrats have checked out of this crisis governing. They have locked lefts of their own homes. Look, here in the real world, the Senate Republicans are working seriously to help the country reopen. The crushing unemployment figures, even with the CARES Act, show that no amount of Federal spending could substitute for the entirety of the U.S. economy. We need to be smart, and we need to be safe, but we have to find a more sustainable middle ground.

This week, Chairman ALEXANDER and the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions heard from Dr. Fauci. We have top experts on exactly this subject. There are at least two big things our Nation will need to start recovering: stepped-up testing nationwide and legal liability protections so that K–12 schools, universities, charities, and employers are not invaded by trial lawyers the instant they unlock their doors.

On testing, fortunately, the Senate has already done a great deal. The executive branch and especially the State are in the driver’s seat, but we have already spent billions of dollars to help scale up testing nationwide. On legal liability reform, the work lies ahead of us. As my Republican colleagues and I have made clear, strong legal protections will be a hard redline in any future legislation.

That is what is happening here in the Senate—serious leadership on a serious crisis like we have been doing for months. This half of the Capitol is doing our job.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

USA FREEDOM REAUTHORIZATION ACT OF 2020—Continued

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume consideration of H.R. 6172, which the clerk will report.

The senior assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 6172) to amend the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act of 1978 to prohibit the production of certain business records, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority whip.

CORONAVIRUS

Mr. THUNE. Madam President, as the majority leader just pointed out, the Senate has been and will be focused on responding to the coronavirus crisis in this country in a way that hopefully will enable the American people to recover and that will restore our economy—that will get us back to normal. As he pointed out, that requires dealing with the health emergency as well as with the economic emergency crisis that has been created by this.

With respect to the health emergency, the leader pointed out that there are literally tens of billions of dollars being spent now on vaccine research, on anti-viral therapeutics, and on testing. We believe that, in order for us to get our economy fully back, we have to deal with the health emergency in front of us, so dollars have been made available—hundreds of billions of dollars—to healthcare providers, hospitals, doctors, nursing homes, and providers who are on the frontlines of this crisis and trying to deal with the challenges it presents every single day. That is what we have focused on. In addition, we have focused on the economic crisis and the impact it has had on our small businesses and on our workers.

The thinking that has been included in the bills that have already been passed here in the U.S. Senate—now we have No. 4—and have been signed into law by the President have been singularly focussed on trying to assist people and get them through this time as a bridge to hopefully get the worst of this behind us and get us to a time at which the economy begins to open up again.

Clearly, the focus was on helping families, especially small families who particularly needed the help the most get some additional financial assistance. So checks went out—$1,200 per individual, $2,400 per married couple, and $500 for each additional child—there is a significant plus-up in the unemployment insurance accounts—to the tune of $600 per person per week for individuals in this country—on top of what their States might already pay. There is a significant number of dollars being put out there for people who have lost jobs through no fault of their own.

These are pro-worker pieces of legislation, pro-unemployed people legislation. These are pro-small business—keep workers employed. They do want to keep those jobs, hopefully, until that time when the economy starts to regain, so they heavily subscribe to this program.

Interestingly enough, there has been a lot of talk on the other side, as there usually is—a demagoguing of how this helps rich people and all of that. Yet the average loan in the most recent round of PPP funding is about $80,000 on a payroll of about $28,000. Businesses can use that principally for payroll. Seventy-five percent has to be used to be able to keep their employees employed, to keep those jobs there, while 25 percent has to be used for some fixed cost, which might be utilities, which might be rent, which might be debt service, those types of things. The whole purpose of the program is to keep workers employed. It is a pro-worker program, and it has been from the very beginning.

Then also, for those who through no fault of their own have lost jobs and have been laid off, there has been a significant plus-up in the unemployment insurance accounts—to the tune of $600 per person per week for individuals in this country—on top of what their States might already pay. There is a significant number of dollars being put out there for people who have lost jobs through no fault of their own.

As I said, responding to this coronavirus crisis has been and will continue to be at the top of our agenda for the foreseeable future.

Madam President, in addition to our pandemic response, the Senate is also focused on the other priorities on which the American people are relying on us to take care of—from funding the government to protecting our Nation. This week the Senate is taking up legislation to reauthorize three expired provisions of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, including the provision that allows the FBI to wiretap lone wolf terrorists—terrorists not affiliated with a specific terrorist organization—and the roving wiretap provision that prevents the FBI from having to seek a new wiretap warrant each time a terrorist suspect changes his phone number.

These provisions lapsed in March, after the House blocked a temporary extension that was passed unanimously in the Senate, leaving law enforcement and intelligence officials without key tools in their anti-terrorism fight. I expect the Senate will pass this bill today, and I hope the House will move quickly to send it to the President's desk.

Every day, our law enforcement and intelligence personnel are engaged in the difficult and, at times, dangerous work of tracking terrorist threats. We need to make sure they have the tools they need to do their jobs and to keep us safe. The bill combines extensions of these key anti-terrorism tools with new accountability measures that will ensure that law enforcement is held to the highest standards when pursuing surveillance of suspected terrorists and their associates.

I urge my colleagues to support this legislation when we vote on it later today.

REMEMBERING TOM COBURN

Madam President, I would like to take a moment to pay tribute to my friend and a former Member of this body, Senator Tom Coburn, who died in March.

Tom and I first met in the House of Representatives, where we both served, and then came to the Senate at the same time as part of the class of 2005. I have been privileged to meet many principled men and women in my time in this service, nationally, but Tom was one in a million. He was fiercely principled and uncompromising, often to the chagrin of fellow Senators. He didn’t care if he were 1 against 99 if he believed he was right. He stuck to his guns come hell or high water. He voted against politically popular legislation and bills that no other Senator would oppose. Yet he held the enduring respect of his constituents and, indeed, of his colleagues, proving that sometimes principle can win over lasting friendship than compromise. He was here for a purpose—in particular, to protect our children and grandchildren from the burden of an ever-increasing national debt by exposing government waste and Washington’s spending habits.

He got into fierce fights on the floor in service to that mission, but he knew how to keep fights to the office. Prickly on the floor, outside of it, he was warm and personal, and he didn’t let politics get in the way of friendships. As he once said himself, he disagreed with President Obama on 95 percent of the issues, but that didn’t stop him from developing a lasting friendship with the President or from working with him on legislation when he was in the Senate.

No discussion of Tom would be complete without mentioning his deep faith. He was an outspoken witness for Christ. If you were his friend, as I was privileged to be, he was interested not just in your present good but in your eternal good as well.

As I said earlier, Tom Coburn was one in a million, and it will be a long time before we see his like again. That is a particularly great loss because the Senate should always have a Tom Coburn—a man or woman of uncompromising principle, of fierce dedication to the national good, someone willing to stand alone in defense of the right, who provides a constant reminder that principle is more important than politics. and that what is important is not winning elections but doing the right thing.

My thoughts and prayers are with his wife, Carolyn, and his daughters, Callie, Katie, and Sarah, and his nine grandchildren.

Your husband, your father, and your grandfather is sorely missed.

I yield the floor.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SCOTT of Georgia). The Democratic leader is recognized.

CORONAVIRUS

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, it has been 2 weeks since Leader McConnell called us back into session. In that time, it was announced that 30 million Americans filed for unemployment. Just this morning, we learned another 3 million Americans filed jobless claims this week. Yet the Republican leader has scheduled exactly zero votes—zero—on legislation related to claims this week. Yet the Republican leader has yet to feel the urgency of acting immediately. How many of our Republican Senators have had to rush us back to work before we have time to use a Senate committee to try to slander the President's political opponent? What world are they in? How out of touch can they be?

We are in the middle of a public health and economic crisis, and Senate Republicans are diving head-first into the muck, pursuing diversionary, partisan conspiracy theories to prop up President Trump when President Trump should be focused on solving this crisis—once again trying to achieve what the President tried to achieve in the Ukraine scandal by another means, sullying his opponent with baseless conspiracy theories. Don't our Republican friends see the folly of following President Trump in this regard? Don't they know the American people are wise to this kind of stuff? There are over 30 million people without work, tens of thousands losing their lives, and pursuing baseless conspiracy theories is what the Republican majority seems to be focused on.

Unfortunately, Republicans in Congress aren't the only ones unwilling to act urgently and in the best interest of the moment. President Trump and his administration are guilty of the same offense. Yesterday, Dr. Fauci—one of the most respected health experts in the country—warned that the reopening of schools and businesses too quickly could lead to unnecessary suffering and death. Asked about Dr. Fauci's comments, President Trump said Dr. Fauci "wants to play all sides of the equation... [T]o me—it's not an acceptable answer."

President Trump, Dr. Fauci isn't playing all sides of the equation. He is giving you one side of the equation: the truth—the truth, President Trump, without you lurking over his shoulder or contradicting him at a press conference or yelling at a reporter who asks a legitimate question.

We don't need Dr. Fauci to tell us there are risks to reopening too soon and without proper preparation. That is obvious to just about everyone. That is the truth. But President Trump just inerterately abases the truth if it doesn't fit with the fantasy he has constructed in his head. The first fantasy was that it was a hoax. The second fantasy was that it will go away in the warm weather.

Well, here we are. It is May. Has it gone away, Mr. Trump? Is it a hoax, Mr. Trump? No, of course not.

Now, one of his latest—that Fauci is making things up or is wrong. He will rush us back to work before we have the proper testing, and we will pay a price. That is what the scientists tell us, and they know best. They are not politicians.

Thankfully, in this big, grand, diverse, and beautiful country, you cannot suppress the truth for too long. Over the past week, a parade of truth tellers has begun. On Tuesday, it was
Dr. Fauci; on Wednesday, Jerome Powell; today, HHS official Rick Bright is testifying in the House. The President may try to shroud the truth from the American people or even from himself, but eventually, inevitably, the truth will come out. This Administration has dealt with this crisis. It is one of the worst performances by a President in American history.

The American people have been following stay-at-home orders for months on end, doing their part to slow the spread of this disease. Those many millions who sacrificed their routines and livelihoods have bought this country precious time to prepare for life after the pandemic; precious time to ramp up testing; produce PPE, and formulate a plan for nationwide contact tracing. What has the Trump Administration done with this precious time? They have wasted it—wasted it.

The President wants to reopen the country as quickly as possible but couldn’t have less interest in the strategies that would allow us to do it safely.

President Trump, do you want to get the country open quickly? Do you want to get people back to the malls and rid of stay-at-home orders? Or do you want to do it safely, with precautions and testing and tracing, to avoid a resurgence of the disease, and then have to go back to lockdowns?

And while the House bill made improvements, it is still flawed. The House version still allows large-scale collection of Americans’ sensitive information, and it would allow the FISA Courts to prevent abuses. We should learn the lesson of October 2001 and not rush this through the Senate. We should include amendments to better protect Americans’ civil liberties.

The amendment that prohibits collection of Americans’ internet website browsing and internet search history information that prohibits collection of Americans’ privacy rights and liberty interests.

In October 2001, I was 1 of 66 Members in the House of Representatives who voted against the PATRIOT Act. It was not an easy vote, but in the years since, it’s clear that we were right because the PATRIOT Act ultimately allowed the government to invade the privacy of millions of innocent Americans.

Exhibit 1: section 215 of the act. Section 215 of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, or FISA, is now before us. We have an opportunity to reform this statute, to protect both our constitutional rights and our security. In the immediate aftermath of 9/11 Congress hurriedly passed the PATRIOT Act, which authorized extraordinarily broad authority to the Executive and the executive branch that threatened America’s and Americans’ privacy rights and liberty interests.

Mr. President, reauthorization of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, or FISA, is now before us. We have an opportunity to preserve both our constitutional rights and our security. In the immediate aftermath of 9/11 Congress hurriedly passed the PATRIOT Act, which authorized extraordinarily broad authority to the Executive and the executive branch that threatened America’s and Americans’ privacy rights and liberty interests.

Section 215 and two other provisions of the PATRIOT Act are up for reauthorization. That is the bill before us. Congress has the opportunity to provide the American people, and it would interfere with the FISA Courts to prevent abuses. We should learn the lesson of October 2001 and not rush this through the Senate. We should include amendments to better protect Americans’ civil liberties.

or significant interpretation of the law. This was a positive step forward to provide independent oversight, but it appears there have been only 16 cases in which amici have actually been appointed. Yet there have been more cases than 16 in which novel issues were raised, so many cases where an independent voice is needed to defend civil rights in FISA Court proceedings.

The recent Department of Justice inspector general report examining 25 FISA Court proceedings underscores this need. The IG found errors and inadequately supported facts in every application. An expanded amicus role is necessary to bring greater accountability to the application process.

I voted in support of the Lee-Leahy amendment that expands amici participation to significant First Amendment activities; to matters where a religious or political organization, a public official or candidate or the news media is involved; for approving new technology or reauthorizing programmatic surveillance.

Third, we must make sure FISA applications are completely accurate and all exculpatory evidence is disclosed. Accurate and transparent accounts are critical to maintaining integrity within our justice system.

The Lee-Leahy amendment strengthens the requirements for accuracy and disclosure of all information—including exculpatory information—in FISA applications. I am pleased this body stood in support of strengthening safeguards in the FISA Court process. However, our failure to protect Americans from the Federal Government looking over their shoulders while they are on the internet and collecting personal information is unacceptable. National security does not require the Federal Government intruding upon the private lives of Americans without probable cause and a search warrant.

Our liberties and freedoms define us as a nation. Either we should reconsider the Wyden-Daines amendment—a motion to reconsider is allowed at this point—or we should vote no on FISA reauthorization. We don’t need to sacrifice our liberties and freedoms for an illusion of security.

One of our Founders way back in this country, Ben Franklin, said it a little bit different, but he said, “A man would give up liberty in the name of security deserve neither.”

REMEMBERING DENNIS CHAVEZ

Now, Mr. President, before I yield the floor today, I would like to commemorate one of New Mexico’s great heroes, Senator Dennis Chavez, who, 70 years ago this week, on May 12, 1950, stood on this floor of the U.S. Senate and was the first in the Senate to sound the alarm against Senator Joseph McCarthy. He had begun his reign of terror that year.

Dennis Chavez was born into a farming family in territorial New Mexico. He had a seventh grade education and went on to become a Georgetown University Law School graduate, the first American-born Hispanic U.S. Senator and, at 27 years, the longest serving Hispanic Senator in the history of our country.

Senator Chavez, or “El Senador,” as we call him in New Mexico, was a man of great integrity. In February 1950, McCarthy had charged—without proof—that there were 205 card-carrying Communists working in the State Department. By March, he accused Owen Lattimore, among others, of being a Communist. That accusation—also without evidence—spurred Senator Chavez to take to the Senate floor, to come down here and to speak out.

He told the Senate:

“I would like to be remembered as the man who raised a voice—and I devoutly hope not a voice in the wilderness—at a time in the history of this body when we seem bent upon placing limitations on the freedom of the individual. I would consider all of the legislation which I have supported meaningless if I were to sit idly by, silent, during a period which may go down in history as an era where we are permitted curtailments of our liberties, a period when we quietly shackled the growth of men’s minds.”

Dennis Chavez

The fact is, we are seeing chilling similarities between the Joseph McCarthy of seven decades ago and the situation we are in today.

Mr. President, this week marks the 70th anniversary of a courageous address to this body. Seventy years ago, on May 12, 1950, the senior senator from New Mexico—Dennis Chavez—was the first to call out the unfairness of Joe McCarthy’s communist witch hunt.

In May of 1950, it was still four and one-half years before the Senate would vote to “condemn” the senator from Wisconsin. But, even at that time, early in McCarthy’s crusade, Senator Chavez recognized the present danger.

The lorem ipsum took to the floor, with 77 other Senators in attendance. That was a time when Senators engaged in genuine, spontaneous debate in this chamber. Senator Chavez counseled his colleagues: “… a man is ultimately remembered by what he does in relation to his times, and the fact that we do our assigned duty may not be enough; sometimes we must step out and sound the alarm.”

And sound the alarm against McCarthy, he said, “any anti-Communist sentiment could be politically costly.”

But Senator Chavez took his chances against Joe McCarthy—in the name of what was right.

He told the Senate that day, “I would like to be remembered as the man who raised a voice—and I devoutly hope not a voice in the wilderness—at a time in the history of this body when we seem bent upon placing limitations on the freedom of the individual. I would consider all of the legislation which I have supported meaningless if I were to sit idly by, silent, during a period which may go down in history as an era where we are permitted curtailments of our liberties, a period when we quietly shackled the growth of men’s minds.”

During that time, in New Mexico, was the first American-born Hispanic elected to the Senate and, at 27 years, remains the longest serving Hispanic Senator in history.

Joseph McCarthy began his reign of terror on February 9, 1950, a speech charging, without proof, that there were 205 card carrying members of the Communist Party working in the U.S. State Department. By March of that year, McCarthy had accused American scholar Owen Lattimore, among many others, of being a Communist. That accusation, again without evidence, was too much for Senator Chavez and it gave rise to his denunciation on the floor of the Senate.

At that time, in 1950, Republicans held the presidency and both houses in Congress. And no matter one’s party— nobody— any anti-Communist sentiment could be politically costly.

But Senator Chavez took his chances against Joe McCarthy—in the name of what was right.
The similarities between Joseph McCarthy and Donald Trump are chilling. Both are demagogues. Both lie to the American people. Both try to destroy reputations and lives based on falsehoods. But the lessons learned from that dark period in our history are lessons we can all learn from today.

First—is the lesson of courage. In 1950, there were few—if any political party—willing to go up against Senator McCarthy. But there were exceptions. Less than a month after Senator Chavez's floor speech, the junior senator from Maine—Margaret Chase Smith—the first woman to serve in both the House and Senate—delivered her “Declaration of Conscience” on the Senate floor. Joined by six other brave Republicans, the “Great Lady of Maine” denounced the “hate and character assassinations” sheltered by the shield of congressional immunity.”

Where is that courage now? There are those in the Senate majority who understand the incompetence of this president. That he has an uneasy relationship with the truth. That his words and actions so often undermine basic American values. But so few ever speak out. No one challenges his lies, his divisiveness, his singular focus on his own ambition to the exclusion of the welfare of American people.

In 1950, there were seven Senate Republicans who challenged Joseph McCarthy. In 2020, who has the courage to stand up to say, “The Emperor has no clothes”?

Second—is the lesson of truth-telling. Senator McCarthy—and his chief counsel and chief henchman, Roy Cohn—stacked lies upon lies, wild accusations upon wild accusations. They attacked hundreds of government employees, those in the entertainment industry, academics, and labor-union activists. Careers were destroyed. Reputations damaged. Lives devastated.

Is this much different than what the President does to those who question, disagree with, testify against him?

The impeachment proceedings against President Trump may seem distant now. But history will remember them. Ambassador Marie Yovanovitch, Lieutenant Colonel Alexander Vindman, Ambassador Bill Taylor, Deputy Assistant Secretary George Kent, Fiona Hill, Pentagon official Laura Cooper, State Department official David Holmes, OMB official Mark Sandy—all told the truth. Stood up to the President’s threats. And all are American heroes.

There is a direct line between Joe McCarthy and Donald Trump: they chose the same lawyer, Roy Cohn. And the President’s threats to the brave men and women who testified are right out of Roy Cohn’s playbook.

Third—is the lesson of demagoguery. Joe McCarthy was a demagogue. His anti-communism met the times. He played upon and fed fear. And he accused those who spoke out against him of disloyalty to the nation.

As Senator Chavez so eloquently put it on the Senate floor that day: “We have embarked upon a course which breeds and feeds upon corruption—a course so dangerous that few dare to oppose the drift lest they be the next marked for destruction.”

But before us today—is Donald Trump—and his demagoguery is even more dangerous. He too plays upon fear—and anger. He accuses the free press of being “enemies of the people.” He rails against immigrants invading our country, stoking hatred and racism.

He promises working class Americans greater prosperity. But, in the end, he gives the tax breaks to the rich, uses the office for personal gain, and ignores the needs of everyday Americans.

And—in the middle of the most devastating pandemic our nation has faced in a century—he’s told the American people no one saw a pandemic was coming, that it’s a hoax, that the virus will “magically” disappear, that we have the best testing system in the world all while promoting snake oil remedies that could actually harm Americans.

But—the American people are not fooled. They see the emptiness of his promises, the division he sows, and the lies he tells.

Seventy years ago, Senator Chavez said: “It matters little if the Congress appropriates hundreds of millions of dollars to check the erosion of soil if we permit the erosion of our civil liberties, free institutions, and the untrammeled pursuit of truth.”

Those words resonate as much today as they did then.

Members of Congress, of this body—must not permit the erosion of our constitutional institutions, must not permit the erosion of truth.

Now—more than ever—we must aspire to the courage of Senator Chavez. History will be the judge—by rewarding courage and exposing cowardice.

I will finish with one passage from 70 years ago. Senator Chavez said: “It matters little if the Congress appropriates hundreds of millions of dollars to check the erosion of soil if we permit the erosion of our civil liberties, free institutions, and the untrammeled pursuit of truth.”

That is our own Senator from New Mexico, Senator Dennis Chavez. Those words resonate as much today as they did then.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kentucky.

Mr. PAUL. The PATRIOT Act was begrotten of the most unpatriotic of ideas—that liberty can be exchanged for security. The history of the PATRIOT Act shows that the exchange is a false one.

As our liberty wanes and wastes away, we find that the promises of security were an illusion. The history of the PATRIOT Act is really a history of how power corrupts and how bias and malfeasance grow when power is unchecked.

The PATRIOT Act allowed a secret court, FISA, to grant generalized warrants to collect personal data from millions of Americans. The spies who run these surveillance programs then lied—for years and years—to us.

One of the most notorious of these liars was James Clapper. When cross-examined under oath by Senator WYDEN, James Clapper denied that the government was collecting data on millions of Americans.

A month later, the whistleblower, Edward Snowden, revealed that Clapper had lied. Snowden revealed that Clapper and others were using the PATRIOT Act to spy on virtually every American. Snowden revealed that the secret FISA Court was allowing a single court order to command the collection of millions of Americans’ personal phone data.

Most Members of Congress had no idea that this was going on. In fact, one of the authors of the PATRIOT Act publicly expressed his shock that such a massive surveillance of Americans was occurring with no notification of Congress.

Clapper and others, though, said that is not true. They justified their actions by saying: We have been briefing the Elite 8 Congressmen.

Who were the Elite 8, and who made them elite? The Elite 8 are the major and minority leaders of the House and the Senate and the majority and minority leader of the Intelligence Committees of the House and the Senate—eight people.

When they were quizzed about this program, most of them said they couldn’t remember ever being briefed on it.

But the real constitutional question is, have we not changed and subverted the Constitution to make eight people more important than millions of Americans?

So this was a program where they were collecting the data on everybody’s phone calls—everybody in America—and you would think there would have to be a debate and approval by Congress, but there were only eight people, and those eight people seemed to be confused that they had approved the program as well.

The idea that a single court order can allow the collection of personal data from millions of people is antithetical to the intentions of the Fourth Amendment.

The Fourth Amendment dictates that the government must identify an individual and the items and the location to be searched. The Fourth Amendment was intended to forbid general warrants or writs of assistance that, historically, Monarchs had used indiscriminately to collect vast amounts of either belongings or possessions of their enemies.

The Fourth Amendment was written to prevent that from happening.

The PATRIOT Act essentially allows for generalized warrants and the bulk collection of personal data. The Fourth Amendment also dictates that a search can only occur when the government proves to a judge that there is probable cause that a crime has been committed. However, under the PATRIOT Act they have lowered the standard.

So there is the constitutional standard—the Fourth Amendment. But, under the PATRIOT Act, the standard now becomes if it is relevant to an investigation. That is a much looser, broader standard, and it is not a constitutional standard.

So the question is, Through these special, secret courts and through the PATRIOT Act, can we allow things that the Constitution actually prevents. What we have done is eroded protections.

So some of us have said the Constitution should still apply to Americans. If you want to look at the data of foreigners or spy on foreign countries or potential terrorists, by all means, do it, but they should still be protected by the Constitution.

The PATRIOT Act doesn’t provide this protection and allows anybody to be investigated if the government can prove that it is relevant to an investigation. That standard is so broad that it could mean almost anything. It is hard to imagine something that could not be argued to be relevant to an investigation.

To those of us who prize the rights guaranteed by the Bill of Rights, the PATRIOT Act is a violation of our most precious rights. The PATRIOT Act, in the end, is not patriotic. The PATRIOT Act makes an unholy and unconstitutional exchange of liberty for a false sense of security. I, for one, will oppose its reauthorization.

Today we are also here, though, to discuss the FISA Court that interacts and uses some of these extra powers, these extraconstitutional powers.

It has been revealed over the last few years that the FISA Court was manipulated, lied to, and ultimately condoned the investigation of a political campaign.

I believe that the authors of the FISA Court, who intended to restrain unconstitutional searches, would be appalled at what the FISA Court has become. They would be appalled that this secret court intended to be used to investigate foreign spies and terrorists was turned into a powerful and invasive force to infiltrate and disrupt the political process.

It should not matter whether you are a Democrat or a Republican or a Libertarian; we should all be appalled at this abuse of power.

The question is, How do we fix it? To my mind, there are two approaches. No. 1, we could try to make the FISA Court less bad by adding procedural hurdles to make it more like a constitutional court or. No. 2, admit that the FISA Court cannot be made constitutional, admit that FISA uses a less-than-constitutional standard when it allows searches to be performed that do not meet the Fourth Amendment.

The Fourth Amendment requires probable cause that you have either committed a crime or are committing a crime. The FISA Court only says the government must prove or assert that there is probable cause that you are connected to a foreign government.

As we have seen, the standards were so lax that when they went to the Trump campaign and said that a certain person will not reveal probable cause. That is not constitutional, and I don’t think we can make it constitutional. I think we should admit that we can’t constitutionally allow Americans to be subjected to a search that doesn’t follow the Fourth Amendment.

I believe there is no fixing the FISA Court to make it constitutional for Americans. I believe the only solution is to exempt Americans from the FISA Court.

If government wants to investigate a political campaign, which should be a very rare and very unusual circumstance, to have the government involved in a political campaign, governments should request a Fourth Amendment search from an article III constitutional court.

Some will say: Oh, it is hard; we will never get it. Guess what—every constitutional warrants are mostly granted the way you should investigate them are granted. But guess what—a judge will be a little reticent to get involved in the political process because they know how heated it is and how important it is to our Republic. But that is the way you should investigate a campaign if you are going to.

Opponents of doing the tried and trusted constitutional way will argue that it takes too long and it is too hard. But guess what—the Constitution was meant to be an onerous standard. The Constitution was meant to be rigorous. Our Founding Fathers understood that justice cannot be achieved in secret courts that neither notify the accused nor allow for legal representation. You can’t find justice where there is no adversarial process, where you don’t get a lawyer.

I think it is high time we quit letting foreign power control our constitutional duty.

Today, I offer an amendment that restores the Constitution for all Americans and forbids the secret FISA Court from ever again meddling in our political process.

Mr. President, I call up my amendment No. 1586 and ask that it be reported by number.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment by number.

The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from Kentucky [Mr. Paul] proposes an amendment numbered 1586.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To amend the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act of 1978 to prohibit the use of authorities under the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act of 1978 to prohibit the use of information acquired under such Act in any criminal, civil, or administrative proceeding or as part of any criminal, civil, or administrative investigation, and for other purposes.)

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 901. LIMITATIONS ON AUTHORITIES TO INVESTIGATE UNITED STATES PERSONS.

(a) FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE SURVEILLANCE ACT OF 1978.

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act of 1978 (50 U.S.C. 1801 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"TITLE IX—LIMITATIONS

"(4) the production of tangible things (including books, records, papers, documents, and other items) concerning a United States person; or

"(5) the targeting of a United States person for the acquisition of information.

"(c) STEPS TAKEN TO PREVENT UNAUTHORIZED USE.—"(1) a"...
Mr. BLUMENTHAL. I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

VOTE ON AMENDMENT NO. 1586

Mr. BLUMENTHAL. Mr. President, I ask that the question be called on the vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The question is on agreeing to the Paul amendment.

Mr. FISCHER. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The amendment (No. 1586) was rejected.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. Cramer. Madam President, I rise today on behalf of the 74 fallen Vietnam veterans who have been forgotten known as the Lost 74.

On June 3 of 1969, the USS Frank E. Evans was participating in a training mission 100 miles from the Vietnam war combat zone, having been sent there in between combat missions; that is to say, neither coming nor going.

During the night, the ship collided with an Allied aircraft carrier and sank, killing 74 sailors. Remember, this is just outside of the combat zone, between combat missions.

These 74 Vietnam veterans died in service to our country. The ship had served on several combat tours and had many more scheduled. The Vietnam Veterans Memorial on the National Mall in Washington, DC, memorializes over 58,000 military members who paid the ultimate sacrifice during the Vietnam war by displaying their names on its wall.

People from around the world come to see the names and pay their respects to those who fought and died for the freedoms we all hold dear.

Yet, because of a technicality, the names of the Lost 74 sailors are excluded from the Vietnam Veterans Memorial. As required by law, veterans must be in war combat zone, having been sent to Vietnam to fight off the Vietnam coast, the names of these sailors have been left off of the wall.

Imagine that. These sailors, deployed overseas in the service of our Nation—they left their homes, their families, their friends, and their loved ones on behalf of our Nation to do the ultimate sacrifice, like every other man and woman who was lost. Yet their names have been left off the iconic memorial constructed in their honor. As a parent, I can’t imagine the pain that some of these families must have felt.

I first learned of this injustice during a talk radio townhall in 2018, when a family member of Fargo resident and Frank E. Evans survivor Nick Grant called in to the program.

After hearing his story, I learned about one of his shipmates, Robert Searle, a fellow North Dakotan from Grand Forks, who was also on board the ship and perished in the accident. Robert enlisted in the Navy Reserve in 1967 and reported to the Frank E. Evans in May of 1969. That year, he married his wife, Theirma.

Robert was on watch in the forward fire room with three other men when the collision occurred. All four were killed. His twin sons were just 4 months old.

North Dakota paid a great price when the USS Frank E. Evans sunk. Yet my State does not grieve alone.

"(c) LIMITATION ON USE OF INFORMATION CONCERNING UNITED STATES PERSONS.—"

"(1) DEFINITION OF AGGRIEVED PERSON.—In this subsection, the term ‘aggrieved person’ means a person who is the target of any surveillance activity under this Act or any other person whose communications or activities were subject to any surveillance activity.

"(2) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (3), any information concerning a United States person acquired under this Act shall not be used in evidence against that United States person in any criminal, civil, or administrative proceeding or as part of any criminal, civil, or administrative investigation.

"(3) USE BY AGGRIEVED PERSONS.—An aggrieved person who is a United States person may use information concerning such person acquired under this Act in a criminal, civil, or administrative proceeding or as part of a criminal, civil, or administrative investigation.

"(d) WARRANTS.—An officer of the United States seeking to conduct electronic surveillance, a physical search, installation and use of a pen register and a trap and trace device, production of tangible things, or targeting for acquisition of information with respect to a United States person as described in subsection (b) may only conduct such activities pursuant to a warrant issued using the procedures described in the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure by a Federal court other than a Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court.

"(2) LIMIHATION ON SURVEILLANCE UNDER EXECUTIVE ORDER 12333.—

"Sec. 901. Limitations on authorities to surveil United States persons and on use of information concerning United States persons."

(b) LIMITATION ON SURVEILLANCE UNDER EXECUTIVE ORDER 12333.—

(1) DEFINITIONS.—In this subsection:

(A) AGGRIEVED PERSON.—The term ‘aggrieved person’ means a person who is the target of any surveillance activity under Executive Order 12333 (50 U.S.C. 3001 note; relating to United States intelligence activities) or any other person whose communications or activities were subject to any surveillance activity under such Executive Order.

(B) PEN REGISTER; TRAP AND TRACE DEVICE; UNITED STATES PERSON.—The terms ‘pen register’ and ‘trap and trace device’, and ‘United States person’ have the meanings given such terms in section 901 of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act of 1978, as added by subsection (a).

(2) LIMITATION.—Except as provided in paragraph (3), any information concerning a United States person acquired under Executive Order 12333 (50 U.S.C. 3001 note; relating to United States intelligence activities) shall not be used in evidence against that United States person in any criminal, civil, or administrative proceeding or as part of any criminal, civil, or administrative investigation.

(3) USE BY AGGRIEVED PERSONS.—An aggrieved person who is a United States person may use information concerning such person acquired under Executive Order 12333 in a criminal, civil, or administrative proceeding or as part of a criminal, civil, or administrative investigation.

Mr. PAUL. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.
The Lost 74 encompasses sailors from 29 different States, and the bill before us today represents that diversity, spanning the political aisle.

Before I ask for unanimous consent, I would like to yield some time to the distinguished Senator from New York, the Deputy Leader of the Senate.

Mr. SCHUMER. Madam President, I will be brief because I know my colleagues wish to join in this wonderful activity here to try and get good recognition.

I join my colleague from North Dakota in strong support of a cause near and dear to my heart: the effort to add recognition.

My friend from North Dakota explained, the names of the 74 who died on the USS Frank E. Evans have been omitted because they died just outside of the combat zone, but they had seen the blood of Vietnam. The USS Frank E. Evans had been part of the Tet offensive and was scheduled to return to the combat zone before sinking.

That these men’s lives ended in the tragedy of a training accident rather than in the fire makes for the difference in the final analysis. They went off to war and laid down their lives in the service of the country they loved.

I was fortunate to know Larry Reilly, Sr., of Syracuse, NY—known to us as Chief Reilly, who was serving on the Frank E. Evans alongside his son, Larry Reilly, Jr., on that fateful day in 1969. Larry Sr. survived that day. Junior did not.

For the rest of his life, Chief Reilly petitioned his country to give his son and his fellow shipmates the very least it could give to them—recognition.

I sit in Chief Reilly’s living room, and I have sat on Maryann Buettner’s porch and listened to her tell me all about her son, Gary. Larry had also seen combat in Vietnam and also died in that awful accident.

Chief Reilly passed away 2 years ago this month, but his cause does not die with him. These were living, breathing boys who lost their lives wearing the uniform of this great country. To inscribe their names on a memorial is a small measure of peace for the families they left behind, the rightful recognition of all its sons.

For the rest of his life, Chief Reilly was a Member of the House of Representatives. I looked into his request and introduced an amendment to the 2018 National Defense Authorization Act to inscribe the names of the Lost 74.

While the measure unanimously passed the House, it was blocked here in the Senate. So, when I came to the Senate last year, introducing this legislation was my very first actions and high priorities.

And I have had some success. We have 20 cosponsors—10 Republicans and 10 Democrats—including the chairman and the ranking Democrat on the subcommittee that has jurisdiction. When Members from Montana to Maine, North Dakota to New Hampshire, and New York can come together on an issue as important as honoring the fallen sailors, I would hope this would garner some attention from the Senate. It has.

Last week, the U.S.S. Frank E. Evans Act received its first-ever hearing before a Senate Energy Subcommittee. I thank the chairman and my colleague from Alaska for providing the opportunity for the story of these sailors to be heard.

It was there when I first heard opposition to the bill, however. I have yet to hear any real opposition to the legislation voiced by anyone except the bureaucrats and special interests that would actually be charged with carrying it out. In other words, nobody objects to this except the people who would have to do something about it, and that is a common theme in this town. I have noticed.

For example, the Acting Director of the National Park Service said of the bill: “If passed, it would necessitate substantial modification of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial wall as it exists today.” No kidding. Of course it does. That is the point of the bill.

The idea that we should continue to turn a blind eye to forgotten veterans because the work would be substantial is offensive. It is certainly offensive to those families and the survivors of the Lost 74.

Mr. CRAMER. Madam President, whether North Dakotans, Granite Staters, or New Yorkers, these stories are very moving.

In June of 1969, a few weeks before he reported to the USS Frank E. Evans, the ship that was scheduled to return to the heat of battle in Vietnam, he was planning to return to Vietnam waters once the training exercise was over. So, just like all those other people who were lost in Vietnam, they gave their lives for this country. And just because they were outside some artificially designated combat zone doesn’t mean they shouldn’t be recognized in the same way the others who were lost in Vietnam have been recognized.

Now, the month of May, Memorial Day is approaching, a day during which our Nation honors the men and women who have died while serving in the U.S. military. As we recognize the sacrifices of our fellow Americans, I think it is appropriate that the Senate take up and pass the U.S.S. Frank E. Evans Act, legislation I am honored to cosponsor with my colleague Senator CRAMER from North Dakota because it is legislation that will ensure that every one of the Lost 74—are rightfully honored by adding their names to the Vietnam War Memorial.

I urge my colleagues to support this measure. I thank the Presiding Officer and Senator CRAMER for this effort to ensure that the Lost 74 are recognized.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CRAMER. Madam President, whether North Dakotans, Granite Staters, or New Yorkers, these stories are very moving.

When I first heard from Mr. Grant’s family, I was a Member of the House of Representatives. I looked into his request and introduced an amendment to the 2018 National Defense Authorization Act to inscribe the names of the Lost 74.

While the measure unanimously passed the House, it was blocked here in the Senate. So, when I came to the Senate last year, introducing this legislation was my very first actions and high priorities.

It has.

Last week, the U.S.S. Frank E. Evans Act received its first-ever hearing before a Senate Energy Subcommittee. I thank the chairman and to give the veterans the recognition they deserve or to stand in their way.

Madam President, with that, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources be discharged from further consideration of S. 849 and the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration. I ask unanimous consent that the bill be considered read a third time and passed and that the motion to reconsider be considered made and laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Senator from Alaska.

Ms. MURKOWSKI. Madam President, reserving the right to object, I have the honor to serve as the chairman of the Energy and Natural Resources Committee, which does have jurisdiction over S. 849, the U.S.S. Frank E. Evans Act, but in that capacity as chairman, I now have the unenviable position of having to rise to register an objection at this moment.

I want it to be clear to my colleagues from North Dakota, my colleague from New Hampshire, and all of those for whom this is a measure on which they are seeking this legislative endorsement—know that I have the absolute highest regard for the men and women who serve a form of recognition—a recognition of all those who lost their lives on the Frank E. Evans serve a form of recognition—a recognition of all those who lost their lives in Vietnam. The story that has been relayed here of the USS Frank E. Evans is truly one of the most tragic that occurred during the Vietnam war. I am absolutely sympathetic.

I have had these discussions with my colleague Senator CRAMER. I appreciate the efforts that he is making and that he has made prior to his time here in the Senate to recognize these sailors who gave their lives in the incident.

The reality that we face in the Energy and Natural Resources Committee—again, we are the committee of jurisdiction, as we have the oversight of the National Park Service. But it is not the National Park Service that determines what or who is eligible for inscription. It is the Department of Defense that is responsible for determining whether members’ names are eligible for inscription. This is based on very specific criteria that is set not by those of us here in Congress, not by those of us on the Energy Committee; it is set specifically by the Department of Defense.

As has been raised here on the floor, the criteria do not allow or accommodate the timing. The Evans sailors do not meet the eligibility criteria. The DOD has set out because it was not in the defined combat zone of Vietnam at the time of the 1969 mishap.

I agree with my colleagues that it is indeed unfortunate that we have this designation, this eligibility criteria that has left the honor that is due these sailors open and unaddressed. It is unfortunate that we are here today in a position to object despite the efforts that my staff on the Energy and Natural Resources Committee and I have made to work with Senator CRAMER, work with his team, work with DOD to find an approach that we should all be able to agree on to honor these sailors.

As we are looking for that path, I do stand to object to discharging this bill from the committee, but I will make this commitment: This is a matter that must be addressed. It is long overdue. We will find a way to honor these sailors. But at this juncture, there remain practical, legal, and technical considerations we have to resolve with the text with regard to the effort that my colleague from North Dakota is offering today. At this time, I would like to note my objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. YOUNG). Objection is heard.

The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CRAMER. Mr. President, if I might address a couple of things, first of all, we are here to change legal objections. That is why we are the legislative branch. We are the policymaking branch. The Department of Defense, with which I work, I have for them and particularly for the Secretary—they work for us. We don’t work for them.

I appreciate the commitment of the chairman. I look forward to working with Senator McSally and the committee on getting to a markup and passing the legislation so that we don’t have to submit ourselves to the bureaucracy but, rather, can get things turned around to where the bureaucracy submits itself to the legislative branch.

I thank the President, and I thank my colleagues from New York and New Hampshire and certainly the chairwoman of the Energy Committee and look forward to working on a resolution soon.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill (H.R. 6172), as amended, was passed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Wisconsin.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.
Even the most cynical Americans believe that. They know people play politics all the time, but they don’t think you should play it with their lives.

We know from what happened in Wisconsin that people who show up to vote during this crisis, in fact, risking their health to do it—especially if precautions are not taken. A little over a month ago, both Democratic and Republican voters and Independent voters in Wisconsin stood in long lines for hours in the cold and the rain, wearing garbage bags and homemade masks, to cast their votes. There were just 5 polling locations open in Milwaukee instead of the usual 180 and 2 in Green Bay instead of the usual 30, and two-thirds of Wisconsin’s African-American voters live in Milwaukee.

There is no question that this vast reduction in polling places, without there being the adequate time to transition to mail-in voting, ended up disenfranchising voters, particularly in the cities with less than 100,000 voters. At the same time, we saw people trying to vote in whatever way they could. They tried to mail in their ballots even when it was at the last minute.

Now health officials say that more than half of the states may have become infected with the coronavirus as a result of that election. This is unacceptable. No one should have to choose between exercising the right to vote and protecting the health of themselves and their loved ones. What happened in Wisconsin will be forever etched in the memory of our Nation.

We can’t allow this to happen again.

In the face of this, yesterday, the Wisconsin Supreme Court actually struck down the Governor’s stay-at-home order.

We should actually be taking steps forward now instead of backward. Public health experts have warned of the possibility of another, more serious outbreak of this virus in the fall. Congress must act now to give States the funding they need. We know the States are strapped—that every single State in this country is strapped.

Even if we were to do nothing here, we would know there are going to be States that are going to get humongous requests for mail-in ballots that they have never gotten before. We know that in the State of Wisconsin, Senator Johnson’s State. It is traditionally 62 percent of the people vote by mail. Next-door, in my home State of Minnesota, it is 25 percent. Yes, it is more, but we know it is probably going to at least double—and more—no matter what party you are in.

This is why the Republican Governors are asking for money. They may not agree with everything in my bill, but so many of them are asking for funding to be able to help them send out those ballots and send out the postcards to keep their polling places open, say, for 1 week, 2 weeks, or, we think, 20 days in advance so that people could actually vote and not congregate in one location. That is why this is happening right now.

Nearly 2 months ago, I introduced legislation, the Natural Disaster and Emergency Ballot Act, with Senator Wyden, along with 35 of my colleagues. The bill would simply ensure that every voter could cast a ballot by mail, that those who need it could have expanded access to early-in-person voting, and that States could have the funding and resources that are necessary to safely administer elections.

This week, the House introduced the COVID 4 bill, the fourth COVID relief package, the HEROES Act. It contains the election reforms found in my legislation as well as $3.6 billion to help States protect our elections from COVID-19. That is because mailing mail-in ballots all over the country is going to cost some change. We know that. Yet what is the alternative? Is it telling veterans who served on the battlefield in World War II, like the one I just met yesterday, that they can’t vote or that they have to stand in line? What is the alternative—telling seniors they have to stand in line? No, that is not a good alternative. The alternative is to make sure we expand mail-in ballots.

I know negotiations will occur over the coming days regarding the next relief package. I look forward to working with my Democratic and Republican colleagues.

I am the chairman of the Committee on Rules and Administration is here. Senator Blunt. I look forward to working with him just as we have recently done on remote committee hearings, which have actually, by all accounts, gone pretty well in the Senate over the last few weeks.

I am here today to push for a change that we know needs to be done, and that is to make some changes to make sure the first group of money we will drug the $400 million emergency funding in the first bill—can get to the States, because of some changes that were made to the original proposal that have made it hard for some of our States to be able to get that money out. There is a matching requirement, and we see it already playing out. Utah and Oklahoma have indicated they will only be able to access a portion of the funding they have been provided because they can’t come up with the full matching requirement. Florida has not yet received funds at all because it is working to see if its legislature can accommodate the matched funding.

These are all things we have to work on for this forthcoming legislation, as well as to look at what we did in the first package. There are also issues with the reporting requirements in the bill, but the last thing we want to do is to put an undue burden on the States.

What I really want to focus on now, and the end of my remarks is, the need to pass the legislation in front of us—and I know it will be negotiated—to make sure that we fund and help our States fund our elections. Let's dispel the notion that voting at home is somehow a partisan issue. One of the States with the highest number of mail-in ballots is the State of Utah. It is not exactly a bright-blue State. Another one is Arizona, again, has a high number of people voting from home—because the State of Colorado. This is a State that tends to be a purple State. Then we have blue States, like Oregon and Washington. Then we have a State like Arizona, again, has a high number of people voting by mail. On the other end are States that don't have as many people voting by mail, but we have a mixture of States too. New York is at like 5 percent right now. Then we have a number of States, like Alabama, that don't have a lot of people voting by mail.

We don't think—at least I don't think—that every single person is going to vote by mail in the election this November. The key is to give them options to work with our States so that, if we do provide funding—and I am so hopeful that we will be able to come to some kind of agreement here—they can use that money to expand their votes by mail, because we know that people are going to request it, and also to make sure voting on election day will be safe. There are ways to do that by encouraging more people, if they don't want to vote by mail, to vote early so fewer people will be there on the same day.

What do we see when we look at this? A recent poll shows that in some of the key States across the country, both Republican and Democratic voters—70 to 80 percent of them—want to be able to vote by mail. We have Governors in States like New Hampshire—Republican Governors—in Maryland, and in Ohio who want to vote by mail. That is the way they want to go. We have a secretary of state who is a Republican in the Washington who wants to vote by mail. Her entire State basically votes by mail right now, and they are good people who can talk about why this is working for them and how we can make it work but only if they have the funds. We are not going to be able to give them the funds in, say, October and then be able to make sure this has happened.

In conclusion, 17 States still have Presidential primaries, and numerous others for other offices, and, of course, we have the general election on November 3, which is less than 6 months away. We cannot let more Americans experience what we have just seen happen in Wisconsin with the garbage bags, with the homemade masks with the people getting off work at the hospitals and standing in line. Nobody should have to choose between one's health and one's right to vote.

I am committed to securing additional funding in the upcoming relief package, but we have fixes that we must make to the original funding that we made in the first bill, in the first piece of legislation, and we need to get that money out to our election officials today.

For these reasons, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of a bill at this time so that we mayavorite the provisions of this bill to enhance the funding for election security grants. I further ask that the bill be considered read three times and passed and that the motion to reconsider be considered made and laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Senator from Wisconsin.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, in reserving the right to object, there are many things that the Senator from Minnesota spoke to that I think most of us would agree with.

This COVID crisis has created all kinds of issues that need to be thoroughly discussed and thoroughly debated. I think there are a number of us on this side of the aisle—I am just one standing up—who object to this unanimous consent request. The good news for the Senator from Minnesota is, in talking with those colleagues, they also agree there is a fair number of elements in this bill with which they could get along.

I rise to certainly extend my hand in cooperation with the Senator from Minnesota. Let's work on these things together, although this is not a bill that comes through my committee's jurisdiction. I can say, in my committee, we work across the aisle. Staff does an awful lot of work, and we come to a conclusion. If it is not ready for a particular markup, we go back and get the work done. We frequently pass a piece of legislation by voice vote and then bring it to the floor when it has all been ironed out. There is no dis-agreement, and there is no objection, and we pass those bills by unanimous consent.

I think the problem here is that this bill has never had any kind of committee markup or any committee work whatsoever. So I would just suggest that the Senator from Minnesota work with her committee and her committee chair. I see the committee chair is here in the Chamber. Work on this. Try to find those areas of agreement. Then maybe we could pass this and maybe potentially pass this by unanimous consent. This piece of legislation is not ready. It hasn't gone through that process. As a result, I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

The Senator from Minnesota.

Ms. KLOBUCHAR. Mr. President, I appreciate my colleague's words in that he is willing to work with me on this bill.

We know we need the immediate fixes to the first piece of legislation, but we also need to look forward to the election in front of us. That is to make sure that we help our States to be able to conduct their elections in a safe way so that Democrats, Republicans, and Independents—anyone who wants to vote, whatever party one is in—is able to safely vote.

Let's remember that, while people were lining those streets to vote in Wisconsin, the President of the United States was able to request a mail-in ballot from Palm Beach, FL, and vote in the office of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. That is an image—a split screen—that I don't think anyone wants to see. I think what we want to see is fairness for all Americans. You do that by getting them the funding ahead of time, by getting some fair rules in place that work for everyone, by acknowledging this has never been nor should it be a partisan issue, and by telling all Americans that we have worked this out, that we are getting the funding to the States, that we are working with all of their States, and that we have put in some fair rules so that no American will be denied the right to vote.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Missouri.

NATIONAL POLICE WEEK

Mr. BLUNT. Mr. President, this is National Police Week. It is one of the weeks that I always look forward to.

For years now, it has been an opportunity to spend time with people who protect us—who protect all of us. We get a chance each day to say thank you to the Capitol Police, who work here at the Capitol. As the chairman of the Law Enforcement Caucus, I have lots of opportunities in our State to see officers in groups and one at a time, and I always try to be thankful to them when I see them. Yet this is a time every year when we get a chance to see people from all over the country come to Washington, and it is a chance for us to say thank you to them and thank you to their families.

This year, in particular, Chief Jon Belmar—the just recently retiring chief of the St. Louis County Police Department and good friend who was always there for advice, always brought a big contingent of officers to Police Week. So I am thinking about him and of not seeing him at Police Week in Washington.

I am also thinking about the new chief of the St. Louis County Police Department, Chief Mary Barton. This is a story of over a million people, so it is a substantial job. It is a place to really affect how police work is done. I look forward to spending time with Chief Barton as she moves forward with what she can do to build on what has happened in the department over the years.

Like so much else this year, Police Week is different than it has been before. There are no sounds of hundreds of motorcycles going down the streets of Washington, as we celebrate the week. There are no groups of law enforcement officers or police vehicles from all over the country coming here. I am grateful for them. They protect our safety. This is a job wherein, every day when you leave home, you have no idea what events may come before you that day, and, frankly, your family has no idea what may happen that day.

I have told a number of officers, in thinking about their families, including the officers here at the Capitol, that they generally have some sense as to whether they are in a moment that could lead to danger or not beyond the normal readiness to serve us but that their families, with their not being with them when they are on the job, have to wonder over and over again during the day what threat may come to the person about whom they care so much as that person protects others.

Each year, one of the memorable events of National Police Week is the candlelight vigil that is held at the Law Enforcement Officers Memorial a few blocks from here. We gather there annually to hear the names of officers who have lost their lives and to bear witness to and be grateful for their service.

Sadly, in the past year, Missouri has lost three dedicated officers.

Last June, Lakeshore Chief of Police Wayne Neidenberg passed away after assisting at the scene of a rollover crash in O’Fallon, MO. Chief Neidenberg had stopped at the scene on his way home, called for assistance, and proceeded on after the situation was stabilized, but before he got out of his car at home, he had a heart attack. We lost Chief Neidenberg at that moment.

He spent his entire career in law enforcement. He served in both the St. Louis County Police Department and in the Lakeshore Police Department. He was an Army veteran. He is survived by Ardell, his wife; Cori, his daughter; and his three sons, Matthew, Darek, and Aaron.

On Sunday, June 23, North County Police Cooperative Officer Michael Langsdorf responded to a complaint of check fraud at a local business in Wellston, MO. The man who has been charged with his murder shot Officer Langsdorf after a struggle inside the store. He had served with the department for only 3 months, but before that, for 17 years, he had been part of the St. Louis City Metropolitan Police force.

At his memorial service, Officer Langsdorf’s son, Kaleb, remembered his dad this way:

They say never to meet your heroes because you’ll end up disappointed. Well, I had the chance to be raised by mine, and he never disappointed. He taught me that a life of rescuing, defending and serving is the only life worth living.

In addition to Kaleb, Officer Langsdorf is survived by Kim, his fiancée; by Olivia, his daughter; and by his future stepchildren, Devin and Katie.

Officer Christopher Walsh joined the Springfield Police Department in 2016. On the evening of Sunday, March 15 of this year, Officer Walsh responded to an active shooter situation at a convenience store. The shooter had opened fire in the store, killing three people and injuring a fourth person. Officer Walsh rushed into harm’s way to protect others from the fire on Officer Walsh and killed him. His fellow officer, Josiah Overton, was injured in the same attack. Officer Walsh was fatally wounded and died the next day.

He was a U.S. Army Reservist. During his 14 years of service in the Reserves, he completed tours in Iraq and Afghanistan. Sheri, his wife, and Morgan, their daughter, will live with his loss for the rest of their lives.

Let me share a passage from Chris’s obituary. Chris, by the way, was the first Springfield officer of the town I live in to be killed on duty since the 1930s. It is a great city with the great, good fortune of its officers’ managing to do their jobs without having a loss like this, but we had one this year.

The quote from his obituary reads:

Christopher Ryan Walsh, a man devoid of vanity and desire for personal glory, and devoted to the welfare of others, would hope that out of these tragic circumstances something beautiful could take root in all of our hearts. Chris’s memory would serve as an example to spur small kindnesses and acts of devotion and service to all of our community, friends and loved ones, to look past the things that separate us and to focus on the things that unite us.

So Police Week is exactly the time to think about the things that unite us, to think about these officers and their courage, to think about their acts of devotion and service, as we remember them.

Congress wants to make sure that law enforcement officers have the support they need and never get into a situation where it’s their officers’ managing to back them up. I am honored to serve as cochairman of the bipartisan Senate Law Enforcement Caucus, which advances legislation that supports the efforts of law enforcement nationwide. Senator Cornyn is the other founder and cochair.

Together, we sponsored the National Law Enforcement Museum Commemorative Coin Act that became law last year. The proceeds of the sales from those coins minted under the law would go to education and outreach about the service and sacrifice of law enforcement officers throughout our country’s history.

I am also a cosponsor of legislation that would provide resources to protect officers’ mental and physical well-being, including the Law Enforcement Suicide Data Collection Act and the Lifesaving Gear for Police Act. I am also a cosponsor of the Thin Blue Line Act and the Back the Blue Act, both of which are designed to better protect police officers and hold perpetrators who attack them accountable.

Through these pieces of legislation and several others, the Congress has a chance to once again show its support of the men and women who serve in law enforcement.

Police Week is different this year. I think we are all particularly appreciative of how law enforcement is having to step up in the crisis of the virus, doing what needs to be done, and again often making way for first responders and others to do what they can to save life and to protect other people who somehow are on the edges of this virus. They deal with people who are isolated in their homes, and because they are isolated, their mental health issues have become bigger issues. This is not an easy time for any of those who serve.

Every year, we remember law enforcement, but this year I think we need to be particularly grateful for those who serve and protect us.

I yield the floor.

TRIBUTE TO THE KENTUCKY DERBY

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, as spring begins to give way to summer, baseball is a singular tradition that unites everyone from across my home State. Even after particularly contentious college basketball seasons, Kentuckians of all backgrounds can look forward to pride of Churchill Downs for the Kentucky Derby. Since 1875, the pride of Louisville has been inextricably linked to the “Most Exciting Two Minutes in Sports.” This year, however, fans couldn’t gather at the Grandstands, the infield, or at a Derby Party. The coronavirus pandemic has changed the daily lives of nearly every American. Even our most sacred traditions have been put on hold as we follow the advice of medical experts to slow the spread of this terrible virus. As a result, the Kentucky Derby has been postponed for the first time since the Second World War. The 146th Run for the Roses will instead take place over Labor Day weekend in September.

Jerry Brewer, a Kentucky native and Washington Post sports writer, put into words the sense of longing felt by so many Kentuckians. In a wonderful column published on what would have been the Kentucky Derby, Brewer captured the essence of “A True American Tradition.”
been Derby weekend. Jerry shared both his personal reflections and our shared emotions. In Louisville, the Derby is more than a single race. Kentuckians spend the weeks before celebrating our people and our heritage. I am grateful that someone with such eloquence could describe Kentucky’s Derby passion.

That is not to say horse racing fans weren’t treated to a race on May 2. Instead of hosting the world’s most anticipated horse race, Churchill Downs creates its own running of Triple Crown winners. In a match of some of horseracing’s biggest names, Secretariat—one of the greatest horses to ever run—completed an all-star victory.

Although a lot will be different about the Labor Day Derby, so much of what makes the Kentucky Derby special will remain the same. Whether at the track or watching from home, fans will still get to sip a mint julep filled with Kentucky’s signature spirit. Longtime residents and first-time visitors alike will feel the sentimental tug as they sing “My Old Kentucky Home.” And the thundering hooves of thoroughbreds will echo in the ears of millions.

The postponement is certainly a disappointment, but I would encourage my fellow Kentuckians not to despair. Our traditions are rooted deeply in the Bluegrass. We will beat this virus, and Kentucky will get the chance to shine once again. Like the champions whose names surround Churchill Downs, Kentucky will get the chance to shine.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Washington Post, May 1, 2020]

ON DERBY-LESS WEEKEND, MISSING MY KENTUCKY HOME

(By Jerry Brewer)

A Kentuckian’s most humbling Kentucky Derby story: About 15 years ago, I hosted the Baltimore Sun, for his first Run for the Roses. Picked him up from the airport. And who knows if even that is safe enough?

But during Derby week, that mentality cleans up and plan anew has arrived. And that’s usually how we are: Mostly for y’all, but mostly we clean up good for us. Mostly rural, largely odd and shockingly complicated. Our long-standing problems with big issues such as race and education are well documented. We see blue in the grass. We love basketball more than we love horse racing. We are known for keeping it real and that’s usually how we are: Mostly for y’all, but mostly we clean up good for us.

CORONAVIRUS

Mr. TENZERTENZER, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD Senator ALEXANDER’s opening statement that he delivered yesterday at the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

COVID-19: SAFELY GETTING BACK TO WORK AND BACK TO SCHOOL

Mr. Alexander. The Committee on HELP will please come to order. First, some administrative matters based on the advice of the Attending Physician and the Sergeant at Arms after consulting with the Department of Health and Human Services and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Individuals in the hearing room are seated 6 feet apart. As a result, there is no room for the public to attend in person. Representative of the press will be working as a pool to relay their observations to colleagues. The hearing may be watched live online. An un-edited recording will be posted on the Committee’s website—www.help.senate.gov.

Witnesses are participating by videoconference in a one-time exception. Some senators, including the chairman, are participating by videoconference. Senators may remove their masks to talk into the microphone, since they are all 6 feet apart. I am grateful to the Rules Committee, Sergeant at Arms, the press gallery, the Architect of the Capitol, the Capitol Police, and our committee staff, Cheng Shek and Evan Griffis, for all of their hard work to help keep all of us safe.

At our hearing last Thursday, I said that all roads back to work and back to school lead through testing and that what our country has done so far on testing so far is “impressive but not nearly enough.” Over the weekend, Sen. Schumer, the Democrat leader, was right to point out that “impressive but not nearly enough” is not nearly enough.

According to Johns Hopkins University, the United States has tested over 9 million Americans for COVID-19. That is twice as many as any other country. We know what China has done—and more per capita than most countries including South Korea, which several committee members have cited as an example of a country doing testing well.

According to Dr. Deborah Birx, the U.S. will double its testing during the month of May and be able to do at least 10 million tests per month. Here is what “impressive” means in Tennessee: First, anyone who is sick, or a first responder or a health care worker, can get tested. So says Sen. Bill Lee is also testing every prisoner, every resident and staff member of a nursing home, offered weekend drive-thru testing, and has deployed testing teams in rural and low income neighborhoods. A Tennessean tests per month. Here is what “impressive” means in Tennessee: First, anyone who is sick, or a first responder or a health care worker, can get tested. So says Sen. Bill Lee is also testing every prisoner, every resident and staff member of a nursing home, offered weekend drive-thru testing, and has deployed testing teams in rural and low income neighborhoods. A Tennessean gets a free test and a free mask at the local public health clinic. The governor’s slogan is “Back in the game. In the hunt. In the fight.”

Gov. Lee sent his testing goals for May to the federal government, as every state has done. The federal government will help make sure the state has the supplies and the labs and hospitals in our state have trouble getting them through the usual commercial hick, and as much as we despise that stereotype, part of us plays along because it helps the beauty of Kentucky remain a secret, never to be swarmed and overtaken by care-less outsiders. But during Derby week, that mentality shifts. We want to shine. Louisville—the only city in the state that feels like a big city—has a relationship to Kentucky—becomes the most gracious host that any sporting event has ever had. Don’t challenge me on that: I can wield a mean pitchfork. When it comes to tailoring every inch of an area to ensure an unforgettable experience for all visitors, Louisville rolls out a red carpet and throws rose petals at your feet.

Rick shook off that weird introduction and loved his first Derby experience. He has been back several times since then. He and my wife seriously, I took her to the Derby; meeting the entire family was a mere afterthought. As a Paducah native who lived in Louisville for several years, there is no greater personal holiday than the first Saturday in May. And so, as the novel coronavirus pandemic keeps us in isolation, there is no stain for me than what I’m experiencing right now.

I have attended 11 Derbies. I have parted during the Derby for just about all 42 of my years. So I chose a full of gatherings at my grandparents’ house in east Louisville, where the scent of mint was more welcome than pine at Christmas time. My adult memories are even better, from trying to cover the event as poetically as the sportswriting legends I grew up reading to, well, acting a fool in the infield during my college days.

Even in Kentucky, with its beautiful rolling hills and horse farms, this is a niche sport. Everyone is a Kentucky Derby fan, though. Our connection to this event is a very powerful and emotional thing.

Derby week is so grand, and we delight in sharing all of the festivities with the world while fighting to keep the Kentucky Oaks—the illustrious Grade I stakes race for 3-year-old fillies held the day before the Derby—a more local event. But over the past 20 years, even the Oaks crowd has surpassed 100,000 with regularity.

Still, the fancy affair turns intimate when “My Old Kentucky Home” is sung before the Derby. We wait all year just to feel alive and relevant in that moment. Soon after, the most anticipated two minutes in sports conclude, and before the time to clean up and plan anew has arrived.

I like the fleeting nature of this joy. The Derby is our cherry blossom. Wait, wait, revel. Go back to waiting. It’s deflating though. Our connection to this event is a very powerful and emotional thing.

channels. Tennessee has tested 4 percent of its population. The governor hopes to increase that to 7 percent by the end of May. That impressive level of testing is sufficient to identify cases back to the source in Tennessee, but as I said last week, it is not nearly enough to provide confidence to 31,000 students and faculty that it is safe to return to the campus of Tennessee Knoxville in August.

Last week I talked with UT Knoxville Chancellor Dr. Shane Speaks about how UT might provide UT students and 20 million other college students or parents of 50 million K-12 students that it is safe to leave their homes and return to 5,000 college campuses and 90,000 schools in the United States. That is where the new shark tank, or RAD X, at the National Institutes of Health that we heard about at our last Thursday committee hearing, is swimming around in that shark tank are dozens of early stage proposals for new ways to create diagnostic tests.

Three weeks ago, Congress gave NIH $1.5 billion to create a competitive environment in which Dr. Francis Collins, the distinguished scientist who directs NIH, can search for the next pandemic. Of course, anyone testing negative one day could test positive the next. But such widespread screening of entire campuses, schools or places of work would help to identify those who are sick and to track down and quarantine those who are exposed. That in turn, should help to persuade parents and students that it is safe to leave home and go back to school.

In addition to more testing by August, I expect us to talk about making sure that treatments available to reduce the risk of death from COVID-19 and about the administration’s plan to do something never before done before by this country—start mass manufacturing a vaccine before you know for sure that it works.

Vaccines and treatments are the ultimate solutions. But, until we have them, all roads lead back to work and back to school go through testing. The more tests we conduct, the better we can identify the small number of those who are sick to track those who have had contact with. Then we can quarantine the sick and exposed instead of trying to quarantine the entire country with disastrous consequences. That is why I am so encouraged by the recent fast tracking of tests, treatments and vaccines how to make them available and deliverable to where they need to be, when they are needed? How can the stockpile be managed better and what should be the role of the President in this direction.

This is a tough hearing to examine how well we are preparing the country to go safely back to work and to school and to determine what more we need to do. First and foremost, we need to get the finger pointing. Who did what wrong? Before we spend too much time finger pointing, I would like to suggest that almost all of us—the United States—underestimated this virus. Underestimated how contagious it would be. How it can travel silently without causing symptoms. How it can be especially deadly among certain segments of the population, including the elderly, those with pre-existing conditions, and minority populations.

At the beginning of March 3 hearing on coronavirus—six weeks after the first case had arrived in this country, when there were only two death in the US from a virus that has since affected 1.5 million people from the front page of the March 1 Sunday New York Times: Much about the coronavirus remains unclear, and it is far from certain that the United States is prepared to deal with a pandemic in the United States and affect many regions at once. With its top-notch scientists, modern hospitals and sprawling public health infrastructure, the United States has the resources to respond to the coronavirus crisis. I have asked each of my colleagues, the distinguished witnesses who are at the heart of the response to the coronavirus crisis. I have asked each of them to summarize their remarks in five minutes. Then we will have a five minute round of questions. I have agreed that we will have this one hearing, and I will per- mit one full round of questions. Sen. Murray will have the opportunity to ask an additional question before we close and all sen- ators will be able to submit questions for the record. There will be other hearings to follow last Thursday’s hearing on testing and this one.

Staying at home indefinitely is not the way to end this pandemic. There is not enough money available to help all those hurt by a closed economy. All roads back to work and back to school lead through test- ing, tracking, isolation, treatment, and vac- cines. This requires widespread testing—millions more tests created mostly by new technologies—to identify those who are sick and who have been exposed so they can be quarantined and, by containing the disease in this way, give the rest of America enough confidence to leave their homes. For the near term, to help make sure those 31,000 UT students and faculty show up in August, we need widespread testing—millions more tests created mostly by new technologies—to identify those who are sick and who have been exposed so they can be quarantined and, by containing the disease in this way, give the rest of America enough confidence to go back to work and back to school.

NATIONAL POLICE WEEK

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, I rise today to honor the bravery and dedica- tion of our Nation’s law enforcement personnel. Even under normal cir- cumstances, police officers put their lives on the line every day to defend our communities; now, as our country struggles through an unprecedented public health crisis, police and women are taking on even more per- sonal risk to keep Americans safe. They deserve our wholehearted grati- tude and respect.

I am proud to cosponsor Senator FEINSTEIN and Senator GRAHAM’s reso- lution designating May 10 through May 16 as National Police Week and empha- sizing our support for the law enforce- ment officers across the United States who work to preserve our safety and security. The resolution also pays re- spect to the many police officers who tragically fell in the line of duty in the last year, including Officer Kyle David Olinger of the Montgomery County, MD, Police Department.

Officer Olinger served with the Montgomery County Police Department for 2 years previously served with the Reading Police Department for 6 years. On April 18, 2019, Officer Olinger succumbed to complications of a gunshot wound he sustained on August 13, 2003, while making a traffic stop at the intersection of Second Avenue and Spring Street in Silver Spring. He observed one of the passengers in vehicle attempting to conceal a handgun under the seat. He ordered the man to drop the weapon before a struggle ensued. The man shot Officer Olinger in the neck, injuring his spinal column. The subject and the three other occupants drove away but were all apprehended a short time later. The man who shot him was convicted of attempted murder and subsequently sentenced. Officer Olinger was paralyzed below his chest because of the shooting. He was married and had two sons. We will not forget his courage and the courage of his brothers and sisters on the force.

Police officers around the country have devoted their lives to protecting us, and we must do everything within our power to protect them, too. During the COVID–19 pandemic, the means ensuring that all law enforcement officers are compensated; law enforcement officers deserve hazard pay for putting themselves in harm’s way during this pandemic in order to keep our communities safe.

Of course, we need to work not just during National Police Week and not just during this health crisis but year-round to show law enforcement officers our gratitude. We must do everything we can to protect them in the line of duty and care for them when their service causes them harm. I will continue fighting to support the heroes who bravely risk their own security to make this country a safer place for all of us.

Mr. KING. Mr. President, each day, our peace officers prepare for work with no guarantee of what the next shift holds. They say goodbye to their loved ones and head out to serve and protect communities throughout Maine and across the country. And unfortunately, sometimes, they don’t return home. These selfless citizens put themselves in dangerous positions day in and day out to ensure the safety of our people. It is a commitment that evokes awe. They are heroes, walking among us, and when they make the ultimate sacrifice, it is on us to ensure that their names and deeds are not forgotten.

So today, I rise to honor those who have made that sacrifice. This week, we celebrate National Police Week. This year’s observance is, obviously, a bit different than usual. There will be no gathering of peace officers from all over the country come to Washington, DC, to honor their fallen brothers and sisters; there will be no in-person candlelight vigil. But though the events are different, the goal is the same: to honor the memory of those who have given so much to protect our communities.

This pandemic will not change our dedication to mourn their loss and honor their service, and this year, we will add 307 names of those who lost their lives in the line of duty to the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial, including two peace officers from my home State of Maine. I want to take this opportunity to share a little more about the legacies these peace officers leave behind.

First: Detective Benjamin James Campbell of the Maine State Police. In the线 was killed on April 3, 2019. Detective Campbell was helping a disabled vehicle in Hampden, ME, when he was struck by a vehicle tire. He was just 31 years old and leaves behind a wife and young son. He served the Maine State Police since 2012 and was promoted to detective in 2017.

When asked to describe Detective Campbell, Maine State Police Col. John Cote put it simply and strongly, “He is one of our very best.” One of our very best—that tells you all you need to know about how his colleagues felt about him—an officer who stopped to help someone, a caring man, and a life taken much too soon.

Second, the memorial will include the name of Perley Morrison Sprague, Chief of the Rockport Police Department. Sadly, Chief Sprague suffered a major cardiac event on November 15, 1996, and died as a result. A son of Maine, Chief Sprague embodied a life of service. He was born in Bangor in 1948. He was a Coast Guard veteran, serving in Vietnam, and held numerous public safety positions in Maine, including as a member of the Portland Police Department and the Department of Marine Resources, where he served for 21 years and worked his way up to chief of the bureau of the marine patrol. In 1995, he accepted his final position as the Rockport chief of police. Once at Rockport, he was described as a man with new ideas and visions for hiring and training. He lived a life of service, and Maine will never forget him.

As we mourn the loss of these heroes, we must do our part to lift up the loved ones and communities left behind. May God bless Detective Campbell, Chief Sprague, and the others around the country who lost their lives. And may God continue to watch over those peace officers who go to work, with no guarantee they will return. They are examples for us all, and Maine will never forget them.

105TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ARMENIAN GENOCIDE

Mr. REED. Mr. President, today I want to join my friends in the Armenian community in solemnly observing the 105th anniversary of the Armenian Genocide. While we could not commemorate the Armenian Genocide in Rhode Island as we normally would due to the pandemic, I know we are united in our belief in the bright future and resilience of the Armenian people.

More than a century ago, one of the worst tragedies of the 20th century began when the Young Turk leaders of the Ottoman Empire executed more than 200 prominent Armenians. What followed was an 8-year campaign of massacre and oppression. By 1923, an estimated one and a half million Armenians were killed and over a half a million survivors were exiled.

These atrocities affected the lives of every Armenian living in Anatolia Minor and beyond. The U.S. Ambassador to the Ottoman Empire during this dark time, Henry Morgenthau, Sr., unsuccessfully pleaded with President
Wilson to take action and later remembered the events of the Genocide, saying, "I am confident that the whole history of the human race contains no such horrible episode as this. The great massacres and persecutions of the past seem almost insignificant when compared to the sufferings of the Armenian race in 1915."

Those who survived the Armenian Genocide, however, persevered due to their unbreakable spirit. Survivors of the Armenian Genocide contributed greatly to the fluids in which they established new homes and communities, including the United States. That is why we not only commemorate this grave tragedy each year, but also take the time to celebrate the traditions and the contributions of the Armenian people. Indeed, my home State of Rhode Island continues to be enriched by our strong and vibrant Armenian-American community.

I was pleased when a resolution to commemorate and officially recognize the Armenian Genocide passed the Senate in December. We must find a way to come together to recognize the truth of what happened, and support and assist those facing persecution today.

As ranking member on the Senate Armed Services Committee and a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, I also remain committed to supporting assistance to Armenia to strengthen security, promote economic growth, and foster democratic reforms and development.

As we remember the past, we remain committed to forging a brighter future. We must continue to guard against hatred and oppression so that we can prevent such crimes against humanity from happening again.

Thank you.

NEUROFIBROMATOSIS AWARENESS DAY

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, the Children's Tumor Foundation is observing May 17, 2020, as neurofibromatosis—NF—Awareness Day to educate the public about this rare genetic disorder that impacts more than 2 million people around the world. It is estimated that 1 in every 3,000 births is diagnosed with NF; yet it is still is relatively unknown to the public.

NF affects all populations equally, regardless of race, ethnicity, or gender. The disorder causes tumors to grow on nerves throughout the body and can also affect development of the brain, cardiovascular system, bones, and skin. Further, the disorder can lead to blindness, deafness, bone abnormalities, disfigurement, learning disabilities, disabling pain, and cancer.

The Children's Tumor Foundation leads efforts to promote and financially support world-class medical research aimed at finding effective treatments and, ultimately, a cure for NF. They do this by actively fostering collaborative partnerships in both science and industry to speed the drug research and development process through a number of consortia.

In kind, the Children's Tumor Foundation is working around the clock to improve access to quality patient care through its national NF clinic network. It provides patient and family support through its information resources, youth programs, and local chapter activities.

Much remains to be done in raising public awareness of NF to promote early diagnosis, proper management and treatment, prevention of complications, and support for research.

NF affects children all across the world; and in recognition of this important initiative and the tireless research taking place, I support recognizing May 17, 2020 as Neurofibromatosis Awareness Day.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

TRIBUTE TO DARCY SCHINDLER

Mr. DAINES. Mr. President, this week I have the honor of recognizing Darcy Schindler of Granite County for his work to ensure his community during the ongoing coronavirus pandemic.

Darcy has been a committed and passionate science teacher over the past 27 years. He joined the teaching ranks at Drummond High School 20 years ago, where he continues to mentor and encourage countless students.

When the coronavirus pandemic began spreading across the country, Darcy was hearing stories from his friends working in the medical and dental fields, that they were having a tough time finding protective masks. Darcy decided to take action and began volunteering his time and resources to create protective masks for our healthcare heroes and first responders on the frontlines of this ongoing coronavirus pandemic in Montana.

With the school's permission, Darcy used the school's 3D printer to produce the protective masks. With support from those in the community, along with his own time and resources, Darcy has shipped well over 100 masks across Montana. He has not taken any payments for his shipments. He only asks that they instead make a donation to the Drummond Schools Science Fund to help his students.

It is my honor to recognize Darcy Schindler for his efforts to support our healthcare heroes and our first responders. His selflessness and commitment to serve others is an extraordinary example of how Montanans are stepping up in the face of this pandemic to help one another. I thank Darcy Schindler for his efforts to help the Drummond community and communities all across Montana.

200TH ANNIVERSARY OF OAKLAND COUNTY

Mr. PETERS, Mr. President, I rise today to recognize the 200th anniversary of my home, Oakland County, MI. Established March 28, 1820, and situated just north of Detroit in southeastern Michigan, Oakland County has, over the past 200 years, transformed from a small rural settlement to a thriving economic hub.

On January 11, 1805, Congress established the Michigan Territory, but nearly a decade later the area remained largely unsettled due to the realization that it was too difficult even for the heartiest of pioneers. The territory began to modernize and attract settlers under the strong leadership of Governor Lewis Cass, appointed in 1813 by President James Madison as a reward for his military service in the War of 1812.

Avon Township, now Rochester and Rochester Hills, became the first area settled in Oakland County thanks to a settlers from New England, New York, and southern Canada. Governor Cass requested the remaining territory carefully be surveyed, which revealed a bounty of fertile land ripe for settlement in the area now known as Pontiac. Therefore, on March 28, 1820, Cass established Oakland County and designated the central city of Pontiac—no more than a day's journey from any point in the county—as county seat. In this newly established seat, Cass allocated land to erect a courthouse, jail, cemetery, market, schoolhouse, and several churches. At this time, Oakland County had a population of 330.

It is crucial to recognize the inhabitation and development of the land prior to the arrival of European settlers. Native Americans from the Chipewa, Ottawa, and Potawatomi Tribes, collectively known as the Anishinaabe, occupied the region for thousands of years prior. Early European explorers to Michigan recorded the Anishinaabe development of the land, noting their key paths and roadways. When forming the county, settlers continued to use and build upon these thoroughfares, many of which still exist to this day.

The Shiawassee Trail is now Shiawassee Street in Farmington; Saginaw Trail is part of Dixie Highway; and Grand River Trail is now US 12. The Anishinaabe trails—no more than a day's journey from any point in the county—as county seat. In this newly established seat, Cass allocated land to erect a courthouse, jail, cemetery, market, schoolhouse, and several churches. At this time, Oakland County had a population of 330.

Today, 200 years since Governor Cass established Oakland County, I recognize the transformation of this rural community to the home of 62 cities, townships, and villages, 11 colleges and universities, and a center for industrial and technological development. The economy employs over 650,000 workers, with the largest industries being manufacturing, health care, hospitality, technology, and professional, scientific, and technical services. In addition to its robust private sector, Oakland County is... the base for over 11,000 nonprofit organizations. But what truly makes Oakland County unique are the parks, museums, beaches, downtowns, and theaters enjoyed by the diverse population of residents from all backgrounds, faiths, and identities. As a fifth-generation Michigander living in Oakland County, I am honored to ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing the rich history of the region as well as this significant milestone. I wish Oakland County continued growth and prosperity in the years ahead.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTION

By Mr. Carper (for himself and Mr. Alexander):

S. 3735. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to extend and modify the credit for alternative fuel vehicle refueling property; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Carper. Mr. President, I rise to talk about my legislation titled America's Clean Fuels Infrastructure Act, which I am introducing today with my good friend, the senior Senator from Tennessee. Our legislation would improve and expand the existing Alternative Fuel Vehicle Refueling Property Investment Tax Credit, which is commonly known as "30C."

The Securing America's Clean Fuels Infrastructure Act is about giving Americans a real choice when it comes to transportation, and it's about economic opportunity at a time when Americans need it most. On America's roads and highways today, gas stations are rarely farther than the next corner or next exit. That's not necessarily true for cleaner fuels. In order to meet our clean air goals and lead the world in clean vehicle manufacturing, Americans must have greater access to hydrogen refueling and electric charging stations. Our legislation improves upon current tax credits to better incentivize companies to make investments today—rather than later—in the construction of clean fuel vehicle infrastructure nationwide.

Currently, 30C provides a 30 percent investment tax credit for alternative fuel vehicle refueling property, which includes electric charging stations and hydrogen refueling stations. This tax credit expires on December 31, 2020. Today, the 30C investment tax credit, as it is structured and interpreted by the Internal Revenue Service, only allows the credit to be used on a per-location basis rather than on a per-device basis, which means that only one charging station per public parking garage could qualify for the credit. That current structure and interpretation of the credit makes it difficult to finance multiple charging or refueling stations at one location, or to finance expansions of one location in the future. The Securing America's Clean Fuels Infrastructure Act makes clear that the 30C investment tax credit can be applied to each item of refueling property (such as each charger) rather than per location.

Additionally, the current $30,000 cap on business investments does not provide adequate support for installation of today's fast-charging electric vehicle stations or hydrogen refueling stations. The Securing America's Clean Fuels Infrastructure Act increases the 30C investment tax cap for business investments from $30,000 to $200,000 for each item of refueling property.

Finally, this legislation will also extend the credit for eight more years, to December 31, 2028, ensuring that the business community has the certainty needed to make long-term investments in clean fuels infrastructure.

Our legislation is a commonsense way Congress can spur economic investments in our nation's aging infrastructure, help reduce transportation pollution, and support the millions of Americans that are considering buying a clean car today or in the future. That is why this bipartisan legislation has won broad support from the business and environmental communities. This is legislation that I commend to my colleagues for their serious consideration.

By Mr. Rubio (for himself, Mr. Menendez, Mr. Risch, Mr. Gardner, Mr. Wyden, Mr. Cornyn, Mr. Blumenthal, Mr. Daines, Mr. Coons, Mr. Moran, Mr. Kaine, Mr. Grassley, Mr. Van Hollen, Mr. Cotton, Mr. Merkley, Ms. Warren, Mrs. Gillibrand, Mr. Markey, Mr. King, Mr. Toomey, Mr. Brown, Mr. Durbin, Mr. Braun, Mr. Leahy, Mr. Peters, Mr. Sasse, Mr. Cardin, Ms. Collins, Mr. Sanders, Mrs. Feinstein, Mr. Reed, Mr. Warner, Mr. Casey, Mrs. Capito, Mr. Inhoffe, Mr. Rounds, Mr. Lankford, Ms. Klobuchar, Mrs. Murray, Mr. Booker, Mr. Whitehouse, Ms. Harris, Mr. Tillis, Mr. Hawley, Mr. Scott of Florida, Mr. Bennet, Mrs. Blackburn, Ms. Smith, Mr. Young, Ms. McSally, Mr. Romney, Mr. Cruz, Mr. Cramer, Mr. Crapo, Mr. Hoeven, Mr. Boozman, Mrs. Shaheen, Ms. Hassan, Ms. Cortez Masto, Mrs. Loeffler, Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Scatz, Mr. Portman, Mrs. Fischer, Ms. Sinema, and Mr. Thune):

To condemn gross human rights violations of ethnic Turkic Muslims in Xinjiang, and calling for an end to arbitrary detention, torture, and harassment of these communities inside and outside China. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.
(a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the “Uyghur Human Rights Policy Act of 2020”.
(b) TABLE OF CONTENTS.—The table of contents for this Act is as follows:

Sec. 1. Short title; table of contents.
Sec. 2. Statement of purpose.
Sec. 3. Findings.
Sec. 4. Sense of Congress.
Sec. 5. Updating statement of United States policy toward the People's Republic of China.
Sec. 6. Imposition of sanctions.
Sec. 7. Report on human rights abuses in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.
Sec. 8. Report on protecting citizens and residents of the United States from infiltration and radicalization.
Sec. 9. Report on security and economic implications of repression in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.

SEC. 2. STATEMENT OF PURPOSE.
The purpose of this Act is to direct United States resources to address human rights violations and abuses, including gross violations of human rights, by the Government of the People’s Republic of China through the mass surveillance and internment of over 1,000,000 Uighurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.

SEC. 3. FINDINGS.
Congress makes the following findings:
(1) The Government of the People’s Republic of China has a long history of repressing Turkic Muslims and other Muslim minority groups, particularly Uighurs, in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region. In recent decades, Chinese government policies have systematically discriminated against these minority groups by denying them a range of civil and political rights, limiting the freedom of expression, religion, and movement, and the right to a fair trial.
(2) In May 2014, the Government of the People’s Republic of China launched its latest “Strike Hard Against Violent Extremism” campaign, using wide-scale, internationally-linked threats of terrorism as a pretext to justify pervasive restrictions on and serious human rights violations of members of ethnic minority communities in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region. The August 2019 report of former Governor of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region Party Secretary Chen Quanguo to be Party Secretary of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region accelerated the crackdown across the region. Scholars, human rights organizations, journalists, and think tanks have provided ample evidence substantiating the establishment by the Government of the People’s Republic of China of internment camps. Since 2014, the Government of the People’s Republic of China has detained more than 1,000,000 Uighurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups in these camps. The total ethnic minority population of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region is estimated at 13 million, the time of the last census conducted by the People’s Republic of China in 2010.
(3) The Government of the People’s Republic of China’s actions against Uighurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region constitutes a grave violation of international human rights laws and norms, including—
(A) the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination, to which the People’s Republic of China has acceded;
(B) the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment of the People’s Republic of China has signed and ratified;
(C) the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, which the People’s Republic of China has signed; and
(D) the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.
(4) Senior Chinese Communist Party officials, including current Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region Party Secretary Chen Quanguo, who executes Chinese government policy in the region, and former Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region Party Deputy Party Secretary Zhu Hailun, who crafted many of the policies implemented in the region, bear direct responsibility for gross human rights violations committed against Uighurs, ethnic Kazakhs, ethnic Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups. These abuses include the arbitrary detention of more than 1,000,000 Uighurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups, separation of working age adults from children and the elderly, and the integration of forced labor into supply chains.
(5) Those detained in internment camps in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region have described forced political indoctrination, torture, beatings, food deprivation, and denial of religious, cultural, and linguistic freedoms. These victims have confirmed that they were told by guards that the only way to secure their release was to demonstrate sufficient political loyalty. Poor conditions and lack of medical treatment at such facilities appear to have contributed to the deaths of some detainees, including the elderly and infirm.
(6) Uighurs and ethnic Kazakhs who have obtained permanent residence or citizenship status in other parts of China that are exempted from threats and harassment from Chinese officials. At least 5 journalists for Radio Free Asia’s Uighur service have publicly detailed their experiences of harassment in Xinjiang. The Uyghur Autonomous Region has endured in response to their work exposing the Government of the People’s Republic of China’s abusive policies.
(7) In September 2018, United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights Michelle Bachelet noted in her first speech as High Commissioner that China’s actions are “deeply disturbing allegations of large-scale arbitrary detentions of Uighurs and other Muslim communities, in so-called reeducation camps across Xinjiang.”
(8) In 2019, the Congressional-Executive Commission on China concluded that, based on available evidence, the establishment and actions of the internment camps in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region may constitute “crimes against humanity.”
(9) On December 31, 2018, President Donald J. Trump signed the B阐释ted Defence Initiative Act of 2018 (Public Law 115–409), which—
(A) condemns the People’s Republic of China’s “extraordinary detention, invasive and omnipresent surveillance, and lack of due process in judicial proceedings”; and
(B) authorizes funding to promote democracy, human rights, and the rule of law in the People’s Republic of China; and
(C) supports sanctions designations against any entity or individual that—
(i) violates human rights or religious freedoms; or
(ii) engages in censorship activities.
SEC. 4. SENSE OF CONGRESS.
It is the sense of Congress that—
(1) the President should—
(A) condemn abuses against Uighurs, ethnic Kazakhs, ethnic Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups, and other persons by authorities of the People’s Republic of China; and
(B) call on such authorities to immediately—
(i) close the internment camps;
(ii) lift all restrictions on, and ensure respect for, human rights; and
(iii) allow people inside the People’s Republic of China to reestablish contact with their loved ones, friends, and associates outside the People’s Republic of China;
(2) the Secretary of State should consider strategically employing sanctions and other tools under the International Religious Freedom Act of 1998 (22 U.S.C. 6401 et seq.), including measures resulting from the designation of the People’s Republic of China as a country of particular concern for religious freedom under section 6402(d)(1)(A)(ii) of such Act (22 U.S.C. 6422(b)(1)(A)(ii)), that directly address particularly severe violations of religious freedom;
(3) the Secretary of State should—
(A) work with United States allies and partners and through multilateral institutions to condemn the mass arbitrary detention of Uighurs, ethnic Kazakhs, ethnic Kyrgyz, and members of other ethnic minority groups in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region; and
(B) coordinate closely with the international community on targeted sanctions and visa restrictions.
(4) journalists of the Uyghur language service of Radio Free Asia should be committed for their reporting on the human rights and political situation in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region despite efforts by the Government of the People’s Republic of China to silence or intimidate their reporting through the detention of family members and relatives of detainees.
(5) the United States should expand the availability of and capacity for Uyghur language programming on Radio Free Asia in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region;
(6) the Federal Bureau of Investigation and appropriate United States law enforcement agencies should take steps to hold accountable persons from the People’s Republic of China or individuals acting on their behalf who harass, threaten, or intimidate persons within the United States; and
(7) United States companies and individuals selling goods or services or otherwise operating in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region should take steps, including in any public financial filings, to assure that—
(A) their commercial activities are not contributing to human rights violations in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region or elsewhere in China; and
(B) their supply chains are not compromised by forced labor.
SEC. 5. UPDATING STATEMENT OF UNITED STATES POLICY TOWARD THE PEOPLE’S REPUBLIC OF CHINA.
Section 901(b) of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 1990 and 1991 (Public Law 101–246; 104 Stat. 84) is amended—
(1) by redesignating paragraphs (7), (8), and (9) as paragraphs (8), (9), and (10), respectively; and
(2) by inserting after paragraph (6) the following:
“(7) United States policy toward the People’s Republic of China should be explicitly linked to the situation in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region, specifically as to whether, and to what extent, the People’s Republic of China—

“(A) the internment of Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups in internment camps has ceased and is not evidenced in other parts of China; and

“(B) the government of the People’s Republic of China has ended particularly severe restrictions of religious and cultural practices in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region;”

SEC. 6. IMPOSITION OF SANCTIONS.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and not less frequently than annually thereafter, the President shall submit a report to the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate, the Committee on Foreign Relations of the House of Representatives, and the Committee on Financial Services of the House of Representatives on the activities of any foreign person, including any official of the Government of the People’s Republic of China, that the President determines is responsible for any of the following with respect to Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups, or other persons in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region:

(A) Torture.

(B) Cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment.

(C) Prolonged detention without charges and trial.

(D) Causing the disappearance of persons by the abduction and clandestine detention of those persons.

(E) Other flagrant denial of the right to life, liberty, or the security of persons.

(2) FORM.—The report required under paragraph (1) shall be submitted in unclassified form, if possible, and classified in accordance with section 3 of the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.) to the extent necessary to block and prohibit all transactions in property and interests in property of a foreign person identified in the report required under subsection (a)(1) if such property and interests in property—

(A) are in the United States;

(B) come within the United States; or

(C) come within the possession or control of a United States person.

(b) IMPOSSIBILITY FOR VIAS, ADMITTANCE, OR PAROLE.

(A) VIAS, ADMISSION, OR PAROLE.—An alien described in subsection (a)(1) is—

(i) inadmissible to the United States;

(ii) ineligible to receive a visa or other documentation to enter the United States; and

(iii) otherwise ineligible to be admitted or paroled into the United States or to receive any other benefit under the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1101 et seq.).

(B) CURRENT VIAS REVOKED.—

(1) in general.—An alien described in subsection (a)(1) is subject to revocation of any visa or other entry documentation regardless of when the visa or other entry documentation is or was issued.

(2) immediate effect.—A revocation under clause (1) shall—

(i) take effect immediately; and

(ii) cancel any other valid visa or entry documentation that is in the alien’s possession.

(c) PENALTIES.—The penalties provided for in subsections (b) and (c) of section 206 of the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1705) shall apply to a foreign person that violates, attempts to violate, conspires to violate, or causes the violation of paragraph (1) to the same extent that such penalties apply to a person that commits an unlawful act described in subsection (a) of such section 206.

(d) IMPLEMENTATION.—The President may take all actions necessary to carry out this section.

(e) WAIVER.—The President may waive the application of sanctions under this section with respect to a person identified in the report required under subsection (a)(1) if the President determines and certifies to the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate, the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives, and the Committee on Financial Services of the House of Representatives that such a waiver is in the national interest of the United States.

(f) EXCEPTIONS.—

(1) EXCEPTION FOR INTELLIGENCE ACTIVITIES.—Sanctions under this section shall not apply to any activity subject to the reporting requirements under title V of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1947 (50 U.S.C. 3091 et seq.) or any authorized intelligence activities of the United States.

(2) EXCEPTION TO COMPLY WITH INTERNATIONAL OBLIGATIONS AND FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT ACTIVITIES.—Sanctions under subsection (c)(2) shall not apply with respect to an alien if admitting or paroling the alien into the United States may terminate the application of the provisions of this section (1) to the same extent that such penalties apply to a person that commits an unlawful act described in subsection (a) of such section 206.

(g) IMPORTATION.—

(1) ADMISSION; ADMITTED; ALIEN.—The terms “admission,” “admitted,” and “alien” have the meanings given those terms in section 101 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1101).

(2) FOREIGN PERSON.—The term “foreign person” means a person that is not a United States person.

(3) UNITED STATES PERSON.—The term “United States person” means—

(A) a United States citizen or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence to the United States; or

(B) an entity organized under the laws of the United States or any jurisdiction within the United States, including a foreign branch of such an entity.

SEC. 7. REPORT ON HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES IN XINJIANG UYGHUR AUTONOMOUS REGION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of State, in consultation with the heads of other relevant Federal departments and agencies and civil society organizations, shall—

(1) submit a report on human rights abuses in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region to the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives; and

(2) make the report described in paragraph (1) available on the website of the Department of State.

(b) MATTERS TO BE INCLUDED.—The report required under subsection (a)(1) shall include—

(1) an assessment of the number of individuals detained in internment camps in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region;

(2) a description of the conditions in such camps for detainees, including, to the extent practicable, an assessment of—

(A) methods of torture;

(B) efforts to force individuals to renounce their faith; and

(C) other serious human rights abuses;

(3) to the extent practicable, an assessment of—

(A) the number of individuals in the region in forced labor camps;

(B) a description of the methods used by the People’s Republic of China authorities to “reeducate” detainees in internment camps, including a list of government agencies of the People’s Republic of China in charge of such reeducation;

(C) the consequence of the use and nature of forced labor in and related to the detention of Turkic Muslims in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region, including a description of forced compliance and industries directly benefitting from such labor; and

(4) an assessment of the level of access to Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region granted to the Government of the People’s Republic of China to foreign diplomats and consular agents, independent journalists, and representatives of nongovernmental organizations;
(7) an assessment of the mass surveillance, predictive policing, and other methods used by the People’s Republic of China to violate the human rights of persons in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region;
(8) a description of the frequency with which foreign governments are forcibly returning Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and other refugees and asylum seekers to the People’s Republic of China;
(9) a description, as appropriate, of United States diplomatic efforts with allies and other nations—
(A) to address the gross violations of human rights in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region; and
(B) to protect asylum seekers from the region; and
(10) the identification of the offices within the Department of State that are responsible for leading and coordinating the diplomatic efforts referred to in paragraph (9).

SEC. 8. REPORT ON PROTECTING CITIZENS AND RESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES FROM INTIMIDATION AND COERCION.

Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Director of National Intelligence, in consultation with the Secretary of State, shall submit a report to the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate, the Select Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives, the Committee on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives, and the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence of the House of Representatives that outlines all of the efforts to protect United States citizens and residents, including ethnic Uyghurs and Chinese nationals legally studying or working temporarily in the United States, who have experienced harassment or intimidation within the United States by officials or agents of the Government of the People’s Republic of China.

SEC. 9. REPORT ON SECURITY AND ECONOMIC IMPLICATIONS OF REPRESSION IN XINJIANG UYGHUR AUTONOMOUS REGION BY THE GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE’S REPUBLIC OF CHINA.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Director of National Intelligence, in coordination with the Secretary of State, shall submit a report to the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate, the Select Committee on Intelligence of the House of Representatives, and the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence of the House of Representatives on the matters described in subsection (b).

(b) MATTERS TO BE INCLUDED.—The report required under subsection (a) shall include—
(1) an assessment of the national and regional security threats posed to the United States by the policies of the Government of the People’s Republic of China in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region;
(2) a description of—
(A) the acquisition or development of technology by the Government of the People’s Republic of China to facilitate internment and mass surveillance in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region, including technology related to predictive policing and large-scale data collection and analysis; and
(B) the threats that the acquisition, development, and use of such technologies pose to the United States;
(3) a list of Chinese companies that are involved in—
(A) constructing or operating the internment camps in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region; or
(B) providing or operating mass surveillance technology in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region; and
(4) a description of the role of the Xinjiang Production and Construction Corps in internment in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.

(c) FORM OF REPORT.—The report required under subsection (a) shall be submitted in an unclassified form, but may contain a classified annex.

SEC. 10. CLASSIFIED REPORT.

The Director of National Intelligence, in consultation with the Select Committee of the Intelligence Community as the Director deems appropriate, shall submit a classified report to the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate and the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence of the House of Representatives that assesses the ability of the United States Government to collect and analyze intelligence regarding—
(1) the scope and scale of the detention and forced labor of Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups in the People’s Republic of China;
(2) the gross violations of human rights perpetrated inside the internment camps in Xinjiang and addressed in paragraph (7); and
(3) other policies of the Government of the People’s Republic of China in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region that constitute gross violations of human rights.

By Mrs. FEINSTEIN (for herself, Mr. CORNYN, and Ms. HARRIS):
S. 3746. A bill to amend the Higher Education Act of 1965 to include certain employment as a health care practitioner as eligible for public service loan forgiveness, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I rise today to talk about an issue of critical importance to California: doctor shortages.

First, I want to express my deepest appreciation and gratitude to the entire medical community, particularly the doctors, nurses, and support staff who have been on the frontlines of the coronavirus pandemic. Amidst a severe shortage of protective equipment, they nevertheless continue to work around the clock to save countless lives. I— and my colleagues—are eternally grateful to you.

I have heard from countless Californians who have said the same thing: we need more doctors.

That is why Congress established the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program in 2007 to encourage doctors to pursue careers at public and nonprofit facilities, especially in areas experiencing physician shortages. As a result, physicians who provide care in a nonprofit or public hospital can have their student debt forgiven by the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program.

However, when the Department of Education issued implementing guidance for the program, it unintentionally excluded California and Texas physicians from being eligible to receive loan forgiveness. Under state law in California and Texas, doctors are prevented from being directly employed by corporations, including nonprofit organizations. As a result, physicians in California and Texas who provide medical services at nonprofit hospitals do not qualify for the Public Service Loan Forgiveness program.

To make matters worse, the United States is facing a shortage of physicians. According to the Association of American Medical Colleges, our Nation can expect a shortage of up to nearly 122,000 physicians by 2032 as demand for physicians continues to grow. California alone will need an additional 10,000 primary care doctors.

During this difficult and challenging time, it is clear that more medical professionals are needed. And long after this pandemic ends, we will still need more doctors to provide high-quality care in both rural and urban areas.

That is why I am pleased to introduce the bipartisan “Stopping Doctor Shortages Act.” This legislation would help attract more doctors to public service and address the physician shortage by fixing a loophole that prevents thousands of doctors from participating in the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program.

According to the California Medical Association, this bill alone could bring as many as 10,000 physicians to California over the next ten years.

Similar legislation, introduced in the House by Representatives JOSH HARDER, PAUL COOK, JOAQUIN CASTRO, DAN CRENSHAW, and KAREN BASS, also enjoys bipartisan support.

I would like to thank Senators JOHN CORNYN and KAMALA HARRIS for their support on this critical issue and for cosponsoring the bill.

I ask my colleagues to join us to right a wrong and pass the “Stopping Doctor Shortages Act” in a timely manner as we continue to find ways to overcome the coronavirus pandemic and save lives.

Thank you, Mr. President. I yield the floor.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 578—CONDEMNING THE GOVERNMENT OF IRAN’S STATE-SPONSORED PERSECUTION OF ITS Baha’I MINORITY AND ITS CONTINUED VIOLATION OF THE INTERNATIONAL COVENANTS ON HUMAN RIGHTS

Mr. WYDEN (for himself, Mr. RUBIO, Mr. DURBIN, and Mr. BOOZMAN) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

(1) deplored the religious persecution by the Government of Iran of the Baha’i community; and
(2) called upon the United Nations Commission on Human Rights to consider the systematic persecution by the Islamic Republic of Iran of its Baha’i minority."
(2) would hold the Government of Iran responsible for upholding the rights of all Iranian nationals, including members of the Baha’i Faith; whereas according to the United States Commission on International Religious Freedom’s 2017 annual report, “Since 1979, [Iranian] authorities have killed or executed more than 1,000 Baha’is and have dismissed from government and university jobs (in Iran)”; whereas the Report of the United Nations Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the Islamic Republic of Iran (A/74/188), dated July 18, 2019, provides, in part—

(1) the Iranian authorities and the Iranian criminal justice system regard the Baha’is as “unprotected infidels”;

(2) “The Baha’i Faith is regarded as a ‘mislabeled sect’ and Baha’i worship and religious practices are deemed heresy”;

(3) “Baha’is have been murdered with impunity and violations of their human rights have not been investigated”;

(4) members of the Baha’i Faith “frequently face charges such as ‘breaching national security’ or ‘propaganda activities against the holy regime of the Islamic Republic of Iran’ or ‘propaganda activities against the regime in the interests of the Baha’i sect’”;

(5) in 2018, more than 1,168 Baha’is have been arrested and charged with vaguely worded offenses”;

(6) “There were a total of 95 Baha’is reportedly arrested in 2017, compared with at least 84 in 2017 and 81 in 2016.”

(7) “On 1 January 2019, the court of appeal of Isfahan reportedly convicted, in separate judgments, nine Baha’i citizens to a total of 48 years of prison. They had been charged with ‘membership of the illegal Baha’i community’ and ‘propaganda against the regime by spreading the Baha’i Faith in the society’.”

(8) Since 2007, in response to a letter from the Secretary of the United States Public Supervision Office of the Islamic Republic of Iran to police commanders throughout the country, Baha’is have been banned from specific professions, to halt their entry into high earning businesses; and

(9) “Since 2013, there have been more than 803 incidents of violations of economic rights of the Baha’i Faith; the Baha’i Code of the Islamic Republic of Iran to criminalize historically protected activities, such as the right to work, education, and freedom of movement. The UN Special Rapporteur on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights issued a statement in 2018 noting that the Baha’i community in Iran ‘is subjected to a widespread and effective pattern of social pressures not to hire Baha’is or to dismiss them if their religious affiliation becomes known’.”

Whereas the Baha’i International Community has documented more than 26,000 items of anti-Baha’i propaganda in Iran’s official and semi-official media since January 2014; whereas since 2019, the Government of Iran has excluded Baha’is from obtaining national identification cards, which are required for accessing basic everyday necessities, including obtaining a passport, making bank transactions, and getting work permits; whereas the Iranian Parliament (formally known as the ‘Islamic Consultative Assembly’) is considering a bill to amend Articles 499 and 500 of the Islamic Penal Code of the Islamic Republic of Iran to criminalize all activities in support of any religious minority that is not recognized under Iran’s constitution; whereas the Government of Iran is a party to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, done at New York December 19, 1966, and the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, done at New York December 16, 1966, and is in violation of its obligations under such covenants; whereas section 105 of the Comprehensive Iran Sanctions, Accountability, and Divestment Act of 2012 (Public Law 112-158) amends and expands the authorities established under the Comprehensive Iran Sanctions, Accountability, and Divestment Act of 2010 (Public Law 111-195) to sanction Iranian human rights abusers; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) condemns the Government of Iran’s state-sponsored persecution of its Baha’i minority and its continued violation of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights;

(2) calls on the Government of Iran—

(A) to immediately release the imprisoned or detained Baha’is and all other prisoners held solely on account of their religion;

(B) to end its state-sponsored campaign of hate propaganda against the Baha’i Faith; and

(C) to reverse state-imposed policies denying equal opportunities to higher education, earning a livelihood, due process under the law, and the free exercise of religious practices;

(3) calls on the President and the Secretary of State, in cooperation with responsible nations—

(A) to immediately condemn the Government of Iran’s continued violation of human rights; and

(B) to demand the immediate release of prisoners held solely on account of their religion; and

(4) urges the President and the Secretary of State to utilize available authorities to impose sanctions on officials of the Government of Iran and other individuals directly responsible for serious human rights abuses, including abuses against the Iranian Baha’i community.

Whereas the Baha’i International Community has documented more than 26,000 items of anti-Baha’i propaganda in Iran’s official and semi-official media since January 2014; whereas since 2019, the Government of Iran has excluded Baha’is from obtaining national identification cards, which are required for accessing basic everyday necessities, including obtaining a passport, making bank transactions, and getting work permits; whereas the Iranian Parliament (formally known as the ‘Islamic Consultative Assembly’) is considering a bill to amend Articles 499 and 500 of the Islamic Penal Code of the Islamic Republic of Iran to criminalize all activities in support of any religious minority that is not recognized under Iran’s constitution; whereas the Government of Iran is a party to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, done at New York December 19, 1966, and the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, done at New York December 16, 1966, and is in violation of its obligations under such covenants; whereas section 105 of the Comprehensive Iran Sanctions, Accountability, and Divestment Act of 2012 (Public Law 112-158) amends and expands the authorities established under the Comprehensive Iran Sanctions, Accountability, and Divestment Act of 2010 (Public Law 111-195) to sanction Iranian human rights abusers; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) condemns the Government of Iran’s state-sponsored persecution of its Baha’i minority and its continued violation of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights; whereas there has been bipartisan support in the United States to lead efforts to address global health needs, as evidenced by initiatives such as the President’s Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR) and the President’s Malaria Initiative; whereas most recently, the United States led the global effort to stem the spread of Ebola, thereby avoiding a global pandemic and American deaths; whereas these bipartisan investments in global health have helped not only save countless lives around the world, but also MSF the United States; whereas an outbreak of coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) was first identified in December 2019, with a global pandemic declaration by the World Health Organization on March 11, 2020; whereas at least 82,400 individuals in the United States are known to have died due to COVID-19 as of May 13, 2020; whereas a long-term, sustainable solution will require international access to a vaccine; whereas the COVID-19 outbreak continues to place extreme pressure on health systems and supply chains worldwide, impacting international travel, trade, and all other several aspects of international exchanges, and requiring a coordinated global effort;

Whereas the interconnectivity of our globalized world means an infectious disease can travel around the world in as little as 24 hours;

Whereas United States Federal agencies have engaged in and supported certain research and development efforts to combat coronaviruses, which may yield potential discoveries related to vaccine candidates;

Whereas domestic and domestically supported Federal agencies for COVID–19 only classify a small fraction of the potential COVID–19 vaccine candidates undergoing studies and clinical trials;

Whereas only international collaboration and coordination can ensure equitable access to safe, effective, and affordable therapeutics and vaccines against COVID–19 and other diseases among Americans and others around the world;

Whereas the United States has not yet joined “Solidarity”, an international clinical trial to rapidly identify effective treatments for COVID–19;

Whereas the United States has not yet joined the Coalition for Epidemic Preparedness Innovations that work to accelerate the development of vaccines against emerging infectious diseases and enable equitable access to these vaccines during outbreaks;

Whereas the United States opposes stronger international efforts to combat COVID–19 within GAVI, the Vaccine Alliance, in light of 20 and undermined such collective efforts and possible access for the United States to their successes;

Whereas, on April 24, 2020, the United States declined to participate in a virtual event led by a number of multilateral institutions, government leaders, and public health leaders from around the world to accelerate new COVID–19 health technologies;

Whereas, on May 4, 2020, the United States declined to participate in a subsequent virtual summit led by the President of the European Commission, where nations around the world–excluding the United States–pledged more than $8,000,000,000 to quickly develop vaccines and treatments to fight COVID–19; and

Whereas, on June 4, 2020, the United Kingdom will host another virtual international summit on accelerating the development of a vaccine for COVID–19, including to support GAVI, the Vaccine Alliance: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) recognizes the historic leadership role of this Nation in stemming global health crises in the past;

(2) commends the historic achievements of the international community in addressing global health crises, such as the eradication of smallpox and dramatic progress in reducing cases of polio and Ebola;

(3) encourages the international community to continue its collaboration and coordination to mitigate and prevent the further spread of COVID–19;

(4) commends the promising research underway to develop COVID–19 therapies and a vaccine within the United States and with support from Federal agencies;

(5) acknowledges the vast international research enterprise and collaboration underway to study an expansive range of drug and vaccine candidates;

(6) urges renewed United States leadership and participation in any global initiatives and therapeutic and vaccine development and delivery to address COVID–19 and prevent further American deaths; and

(7) urges the United States Government to boost funding for, and strengthen collaboration with, key multinational institutions at the forefront of responding to COVID–19 such as the Coalition for Epidemic Preparedness Innovations; GAVI, the Vaccine Alliance; and the Solidarity trial.

SENATE RESOLUTION 580—CONDEMNING ALL FORMS OF ANTI-ASIAN SENTIMENT AS RELATED TO COVID–19

Ms. HARRIS (for herself, Ms. DUCKWORTH, Ms. HIRONO, Ms. CANTWELL, Mr. MARKLEY, Ms. SMITH, Mr. DURBIN, Ms. CORTEZ MASTO, Ms. KLOBUCAR, Mrs. MURRAY, Mr. WARNER, Mr. CARDIN, Mr. CARPER, Ms. ROSEN, Mr. VAN HOLLLEN, Mr. BROWN, Mr. SANDERS, Mr. COONS, Mr. BLUMENTHAL, Mr. WHITEHOUSE, Mr. Kaine, Ms. Warren, Mr. SCHACHT, Mr. CASEY, and Mr. BONGER) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

S. RES. 580

Whereas 23,000 Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders account for 7 percent of the population in the United States;

Whereas over 2,000,000 Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders are working on the frontline of the COVID–19 pandemic in health care, law enforcement, first responder, and transportation, as well as in service industries that involve keeping supermarkets operational;

Whereas the use of anti-Asian terminology and rhetoric related to COVID–19, such as the “Chinese Virus”, “Wuhan Virus”, and “Kung-flu”, have perpetuated anti-Asian stigma;

Whereas, since January 2020, there has been a dramatic increase in reports of hate crimes and incidents against those of Asian descent;

Whereas, according to a recent study, there were over 400 cases of anti-Asian discrimination that put Asian Americans being harassed, assaulted, and scapegoated for the COVID–19 pandemic;

Whereas, in incidents of anti-Asian violence occurring in March 2020, a woman was attacked in a Midland, Texas, a couple was assailed and robbed by a group of attackers in Philadelphia, and a 16-year-old boy was sent to the hospital after being attacked by bullies in Los Angeles, California;

Whereas the increased use of anti-Asian rhetoric has resulted in Asian Americans being harassed, assaulted, and scapegoated for the COVID–19 pandemic;

"(B) PEN REGISTER; TRAP AND TRACE DEVICE; "Pen register", "trap and trace device", and "United States person" have the meanings given such terms in section 901 of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act of 1978, as added by subsection (a).

(2) LIMITATION.—Except as provided in paragraph (3), any information concerning a United States person acquired under Executive Order 12333 (50 U.S.C. 3001 note; relating to United States intelligence activities) shall not be used in evidence against that United States person in any criminal, civil, or administrative proceeding or as part of any criminal, civil, or administrative investigation.
The bill clerk read as follows:
A bill (S. 3744) to condemn gross human rights violations of ethnic Turkic Muslims in Xinjiang, and calling for an end to arbitrary detention, torture, and harassment of these communities outside China;

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to proceeding to the measure?
There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. MCCONNELL. I ask unanimous consent that the bill be considered read a third time and passed, and that the motion to reconsider be considered made and laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (S. 3744) was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, was read the third time, and passed, as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the “Uyghur Human Rights Policy Act of 2020.”

(b) TABLE OF CONTENTS.—The table of contents for this Act is as follows:

Sec. 1. Short title; table of contents.
Sec. 2. Statement of purpose.
Sec. 3. Findings.
Sec. 4. Sense of Congress.
Sec. 5. Updating statement of United States policy toward the People’s Republic of China.
Sec. 6. Imposition of sanctions.
Sec. 7. Report on human rights abuses in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.
Sec. 8. Report on protecting citizens and residents of the United States from intimidation and coercion.
Sec. 9. Report on security and economic implications of repression in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.
Sec. 10. Classified report.

SEC. 2. STATEMENT OF PURPOSE.

The purpose of this Act is to direct United States policy to address human rights violations and abuses, including gross violations of human rights, by the Government of the People’s Republic of China through the mass surveillance and internment of over 1,000,000 Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.

SEC. 3. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The Government of the People’s Republic of China has a long history of repressing ethnic minority communities in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region. The August 2016 appointment of former Tibet Autonomous Region Party Secretary Chen Quanguo to be Party Secretary of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region marked the crackdown across the region. Scholars, human rights organizations, journalists, and think tanks have provided ample evidence substantiating the finding of “crimes against humanity” by the Government of the People’s Republic of China of internment camps. Since 2014, the Government of the People’s Republic of China has detained more than 1,000,000 Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups in these camps. The total ethnic minority population in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region was approximately 13,000,000 at the time of the last census conducted by the People’s Republic of China in 2010.

(2) The Government of the People’s Republic of China has a long history of repressing ethnic minority groups in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region violate international human rights laws and norms, including:

(A) the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination, to which the People’s Republic of China has acceded;

(B) the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment, to which the People’s Republic of China has acceded and ratified;

(C) the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, which the People’s Republic of China has acceded and ratified;

(D) the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

(3) Senior Chinese Communist Party officials, including current Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region Party Secretary Chen Quanguo, who executes Chinese government’s repressive policy in the region, and former Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region Party Secretary Zhou Haiyun, who crafted many of the policies implemented in the region, bear direct responsibility for gross human rights violations committed against Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups. These abuses include the arbitrary detention of more than 1,000,000 Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups, separation of working age adults from children and the elderly, and the illegal detention of millions. These abuses include the arbitrary detention of hundreds of ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups, separation of working age adults from children and elderly, and the illegal detention of millions. These abuses include the arbitrary detention of hundreds of ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups, separation of working age adults from children and the elderly, and the illegal detention of millions. These abuses include the arbitrary detention of hundreds of ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups.

(4) Uyghurs and ethnic Kazakhs who have obtained permanent residence or citizenship in other countries are being subjected to threats and harassment from Chinese officials. At least 5 journalists for Radio Free Asia’s Uyghur service have publicly detailed abuses experienced by members of these communities in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region. The United States has imposed sanctions on some detainees, including the elderly and infirm.

(5) Uyghurs and ethnic Kazakhs who have obtained permanent residence or citizenship in other countries and members of other Muslim minority groups in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region have described forced political indoctrination, torture, brutalization, and denial of religious, cultural, and linguistic freedoms. These victims have confirmed that they were told by guards that the only way to save their loved ones, friends, and associates outside the People’s Republic of China.

(6) The Secretary of State shall—

(A) address human rights violations and abuses, including gross violations of human rights, by the Government of the People’s Republic of China through the mass surveillance and internment of over 1,000,000 Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups, and other persons by authorities of the People’s Republic of China.

(B) call on such authorities to immediately—

(i) close the internment camps;

(ii) lift all restrictions on, and ensure respect for, human rights; and

(iii) allow people inside the People’s Republic of China to reestablish contact with their loved ones, friends, and associates outside the People’s Republic of China.

(7) The Secretary of State shall—

(A) work with United States allies and partners through multilateral institutional venues to condemn the detention of Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.

(B) coordinate closely with the international community on targeted sanctions and visa restrictions.

(8) The journalists of the Uyghur language service of Radio Free Asia should be commended for their reporting on the human rights and political situation in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region despite efforts by the Government of the People’s Republic of China to silence or intimidate their reporting through the detention of family members and relatives in China.

(9) the United States should expand the availability and capacity for Uyghur language programming on Radio Free Asia in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.

SEC. 4. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the President should—

(A) condemn abuses against Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups, and other persons by authorities of the People’s Republic of China.

(B) call on such authorities to immediately—

(i) close the internment camps;

(ii) lift all restrictions on, and ensure respect for, human rights; and

(iii) allow people inside the People’s Republic of China to reestablish contact with their loved ones, friends, and associates outside the People’s Republic of China.

(2) the Secretary of State should—

(A) work with United States allies and partners through multilateral institutional venues to condemn the detention of Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.

(B) coordinate closely with the international community on targeted sanctions and visa restrictions.

(3) the Secretary of State should—

(A) work with United States allies and partners through multilateral institutional venues to condemn the detention of Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.

(B) coordinate closely with the international community on targeted sanctions and visa restrictions.

(4) the journalists of the Uyghur language service of Radio Free Asia should be commended for their reporting on the human rights and political situation in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region despite efforts by the Government of the People’s Republic of China to silence or intimidate their reporting through the detention of family members and relatives in China.

(5) the United States should expand the availability and capacity for Uyghur language programming on Radio Free Asia in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.

(6) the Federal Bureau of Investigation and appropriate United States law enforcement agencies should take steps to hold accountable any entity or individual that—

(i) violates human rights or religious freedoms; or

(ii) engages in censorship activities.
Region should take steps, including in any public or financial filings, to ensure that—
(A) their commercial activities are not contributing to human rights violations in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region or elsewhere in China; and
(B) their supply chains are not controlled by or otherwise linked to the Chinese Communist Party or others.

SEC. 5. UPDATING STATEMENT OF UNITED STATES POLICY TOWARD THE PEOPLE’S REPUBLIC OF CHINA.

Section 901(b) of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 1990 and 1991 (Public Law 101-246; 104 Stat. 84) is amended—
(1) by redesignating paragraphs (7), (8), and (9) as paragraphs (8), (9), and (10), respectively; and
(2) by inserting after paragraph (6) the following:

“(7) United States policy toward the People’s Republic of China shall be explicitly linked to the situation in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region, specifically as to whether—

“(A) the internment of Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, Kyrgyz, and members of other Muslim minority groups in internment camps has ended;

“(B) all political prisoners are released;

“(C) the use of mass surveillance and predictive policing to discriminate against and violate the human rights of members of specific ethnic groups has ceased and is not evident in other parts of China; and

“(D) the Government of the People’s Republic of China has ended particularly severe restrictions of religious and cultural practice in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region;”

SEC. 7. REPORT ON HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES IN XINJIANG UYGHUR AUTONOMOUS REGION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of State, in consultation with the heads of other relevant Federal departments and agencies and civil society organizations, shall—

(1) submit a report on human rights abuses in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region to the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives; and

(2) make the report described in paragraph (1) available on the website of the Department of State.

(b) MATTERS TO BE INCLUDED.—The report required under subsection (a) shall include—

(1) an assessment of the number of individuals detained in internment camps in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region;

(2) a description of efforts to force individuals to renounce their faith; and

(3) other serious human rights abuses:
It certainly seems to be a different approach than the one taken by the House. Earlier this week, House Democrats released a so-called coronavirus relief bill. You might say they kind of mailed it in because they haven’t been here for the last 2 months. They have an absolutely staggering pricetag—$3 trillion, with a ‘t.’ That is more than we spent in the first four coronavirus response bills combined.

I tell my constituents, when I am talking to them on a videoconference call or teleconference, that 2 months ago, I never would have imagined that the Senate would be voting on trillion-dollar bills, but now apparently the House wants to make this a routine and do it fast and particularly without much debate.

As astounding as that figure is, the biggest issue with that bill isn’t the cost or the fact that Speaker Pelosi and her party drafted it in secret but that they released a 300-page bill text on Tuesday, and they plan to vote on it tomorrow. Unbelievable.

It would be an understatement to say there are concerns with this kind of legislation. I would call it legislative malpractice, to be kind. It is not just from Republicans or the administration or the American people; the Speaker’s own Members are begging for additional time to review this massive bill. Unlike the previous coronavirus response bills passed here in Congress, there have been no bipartisan discussions in the production of that bill from the House—not with House Republicans, not with the administration, and certainly not with us. I can assure you that this legislation looks just like the kind of product that you would expect from that type of flawed process. It is partisan; it is unaffordable; it is unrealistic; and it stands absolutely no chance of becoming law.

We all know that legislation drafted in a vacuum by one political party in one Chamber isn’t a good-faith effort to try to survive, much less address, this pandemic crisis. It is a political statement as much as anything else, a liberal wish list which, if passed—which it will not be—would sink us further in debt without the benefit of addressing the problems we are actually facing.

When this legislation was announced, Speaker Pelosi said:

We all know we must put more money in the pockets of the American people. This is absolutely necessary for our economy’s survival, but it is also a stimulus to the economy.

But the ones set to reap the biggest benefits from this bill aren’t the ones struggling to make ends meet. Actually, what Speaker Pelosi is appar- ently trying to do is benefit a few of the wealthiest people in America.

This legislation would reinstate the so-called SALT deduction—the State and local tax deduction—and thus that burden of subsidizing the wealthiest people in the bluest parts of the country on the rest of us. We were able to cap that in a fair and realistic way in the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act.
Prior to that tax reform, taxpayers who itemized their returns could deduct the amount of State and local taxes they paid with no limit. So, if you lived in a high-tax State like New York, there was no limit to your ability to deduct taxes. Well, now, the people of Indiana, the people of Texas, and the people of other States who more responsibly dealt with their fiscal affairs.

Now, for the average American, this change has been a big blow on the radar screen. For the millionaires and billionaires, though, the ones Speaker Pelosi’s bill would benefit most directly, this was a huge blow.

People say, well, the wealthy ought to pay more. Well, OK. Here is a way for them to do it in the right way, but it is also a way to hold your State and local jurisdictions accountable for the high taxes they pass, only to previously allow those taxes to be deducted from the Federal income tax, so this is a matter of political accountability for them, too.

I am sure the wealthiest Americans were delighted to see that the Democrats’ response to what Speaker Pelosi called a catastrophic failure of our Nation’s history would allow them, once again, to reap the benefits of this no-limit deduction. If the SALT cap were removed, they would receive an average tax cut of nearly $60,000. That is higher than the household income for many Texans and many Americans. To make matters worse, this would sink our country further in debt.

The nonpartisan Joint Committee on Tax estimates that doing away with the SALT cap would cost about $700 billion over the next 7 years, with almost 95 percent of the benefit going to those making at least $200,000 and more than half going to those making more than $1 million a year.

Now, I realize that is only a small portion of the bill. After all, it is a $3 trillion bill. So let’s dive into a couple of other things—changes, for example, they would make in unemployment insurance. The CARES Act we passed—I think it was March 25—expanded unemployment benefits to include workers who would not typically be eligible for those benefits, the self-employed and independent contractors.

Slowly but surely, businesses across this country are starting to reopen their doors—safely and gradually reopen their doors—and many are facing an unlikely burden, which is now getting people to come back to work. Over the last several weeks, I have heard Texas businesses struggling to rehire their employees because they are making more from unemployment than they would if they worked.

And it is not an isolated issue. According to the Textrack Workforce Commission that administers our unemployment insurance program, 80 percent of the people are making more money on unemployment than they were when previously employed—80 percent.

Now, that clearly was a mistake in the underlying bill. It is true that, when you do something that big and that fast, you are going to make some mistakes, but nobody can think this is sound public policy: to pay people more for not working than when they do work.

Here is what House Democrats do. They extend that mistake through next January, providing even less of an incentive for workers to find new jobs. The United States can’t be the success story of the United States because it is immoral to expect someone to go back to work because they are making more for not working than when they do work.

I am not blaming Treasury. I am just saying, they are covering up, and they are working 24/7, but let’s see how what we have already done will work before we continue to shovel more money aimlessly out the door.

Earlier this week, the Judiciary Committee held a hearing to examine liability around the coronavirus pandemic. One of our witnesses was Kevin Smartt, a Texan from Bonham, TX—the home of Sam Rayburn—who is CEO and President of Kwik Chek food stores. I think he has 47 fast-food stores. In his opening statement, he outlined the steps Kwik Chek took to protect the safety of its employees and customers while continuing to provide access to essential items like food and fuel.

They followed the constantly shifting guidelines from the CDC and other Federal, State, and local government agencies and adjusted and adapted accordingly. Like millions of businesses across the country, Kwik Chek implemented strict cleaning protocols. They installed sneeze guards in their stores, put markers on the floor to help customers maintain social distancing, and they made every effort to obtain masks and hand sanitizer, but have often struggled to overcome supply disruptions.

In his testimony, Kevin said:

Unfortunately, despite trying to do everything we can to protect the health and safety of our customers and employees during this pandemic, my company has been on our back because our doors have remained open. That’s just not right. We are all in this together, and my businesses shouldn’t be burdened by the liability threats we face just because they serve their communities.

I found this is a common fear for businesses small and large alike, as... well as for our dedicated healthcare professionals. Can you imagine serving on the frontline of this fight against the pandemic, doing everything you can possibly do to help people who are sick and injured, and, despite acting in good faith to protect employees, customers, or patients, we know that a certain element of the bar are lining up to file opportunistic lawsuits against these hard-working men and women, people who I think we all consider to be heroes.

Across the country, lawsuits have already begun rolling in by the hundreds. Unless we take action, we are going to wake up from this pandemic only to find ourselves in a legal nightmare.

Now, I want to be clear. Bad actors don’t deserve blanket immunity. We are all in agreement on that point, but hard-working Americans who are trying to do the best thing and follow, in good faith, the guidance that their government gives them deserve a safe harbor from frivolous litigation and nuisance lawsuits. This Chamber is full of lawyers—Democrat lawyers, Republican lawyers—who are well aware of just how damaging this unlimited litigation that will ensue will be on our economic recovery.

While House Democrats have been crafting their dead-on-arrival liberal wish list, we have been working on legislation which can and should gain bipartisan support and protect our frontline workers in the process. We are working on legislation to provide liability protections for the men and women who have supported us through this crisis and who will be the key to our recovery from this crisis. We simply must protect those who have acted in good faith from having to defend costly legal battles—only to win—only to lose their business because they can’t survive that additional burden—going through the pandemic, the shutdown, only to find, just when you think you are coming out of it, that you are being drowned with litigation costs.

I believe we should continue to provide an opportunity to seek legal recourse for those who act willfully or exercise reckless disregard for the health and safety of others. Those are the kinds of cases that deserve, in my opinion, access to compensation.

Make no mistake, our country’s road to recovery isn’t going to be easy, and we have already caught a glimpse of the next epidemic, the lawsuit epidemic, that is waiting around the corner.

Unlike House Democrats, who are moving full-speed ahead, the Senate has chosen to tap the brakes and figure out the best way to avoid hitting the brakes, economically and from a public health perspective.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent that it stand adjourned under the previous order, following the remarks from the Senator from the great State of Alaska.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alaska.

TRIBUTE TO ADAM CRUM AND DR. ANNE ZINK

Mr. SULLIVAN. Mr. President, it is Thursday, and I am back on the Senate floor, partaking in one of my favorite times of the week, which is to come down to the floor and talk about somebody who is making a great difference in my State. We call this individual our Alaskan of the Week. To those who watch the floor back home, sometimes the rules are a bit and recognize more than one person. We just call them the Alaskans of the Week, with an "s." Pandemic or no pandemic, I think it is still important that we come down and recognize, particularly during these challenging times, people who are making a difference in our State and across our country.

As I mentioned last week, this pandemic is definitely testing the character of our Nation. You might remember, right when it was hitting, some reporters from the Washington Post wrote a story, saying that Americans are going to be tested and that they don't think they are going to be able to pass—maybe not like they had in World War II and what we've done with the mettle, the toughness, and the resiliency of Americans might not be able to get us through this. That was the Washington Post—classic, clueless, inside-the-beltway reporting.

My remarks from the floor—this was about 6 weeks ago—I said: You ought to come up to Alaska, Washington Post, and see my constituents, or maybe come out with my marines and see the marines.

You have to know America. Alaska is America, and we are going to pass this test as a nation, and we are—all across the country and certainly in my great State. In small, rural villages and in urban centers, from the tundra to the rainforests, all across the State, people are helping each other. They are passing out food. They are helping the elderly, making sure they are not lonely. They are tending to those in need and are displaying generosity, strength, and amazing resilience. The paper should write more about that.

Our frontline workers have now become our national heroes. Some of them are working day in and day out to ensure that our grocery stores are stocked, that the goods are transported, that the buildings are maintained, that our telecommunication systems are running, that our airplanes are flying, that our hospitals are open, and that our community healthcare workers can give care. The list of what we all know, goes on and on and on.

Because of those back home, because of these great Americans all around our country, and because of what is happening in my State with our State's leadership. Alaska has done well from a health standpoint in terms of this virus. Knock on wood, of course—and I am doing it—things could change. They could change anywhere. They certainly could change in Alaska, but so far so good.

Alaskans are known for their rugged individualism. Alaskans are not naturally people who automatically follow orders without having a good reason to do so, but almost everybody across our State has taken this virus seriously in their helping one another and in their following the guidance that has been given by our State’s leaders. I chalk that up to good leadership from our very attentive mayors—city mayors, borough mayors—to our local leaders across the State, to our Governor, Mike Dunleavy, and to the healthcare team he put together in his administration that was ready when this pandemic hit.

I am going to talk about the healthcare team. It has been led by the commissioner of the Alaska Department of Health and Social Services, Adam Crum, and by Alaska’s chief medical officer, Dr. Anne Zink. Both of them are our Alaskans of the week. They have both worked day and night throughout these past several weeks since this pandemic has hit our Nation, has hit my State, and they have been trying day and night to keep our fellow Alaskans safe. As I mentioned, both are more than deserving of this very, very prestigious award. They have risen to the challenge in so many impressive ways in working for their State and their country.

As Alaskans do, both of them have interesting life stories, compelling life stories. Let me tell you a little bit about both of them.

Adam Crum lives in Wasilla with Colleen, his wife. He was born and raised in Alaska. He grew up on the Kenai Peninsula and went to Homer High School. He was a graduate there and a good football player. He went to Northwestern and played college ball. You line up the Crum brothers, you have the Crums, his siblings. They are a big family—impressive family. Adam’s two brothers all played college ball—Joey at Puget Sound, Richie at the University of Idaho, and Cody at West Texas A&M. Their dad also played at the University of Arkansas. Like I said, when you line up the Crum brothers, you look like you have a serious pro-football offensive line right there. It is an impressive family.

Adam enjoyed Northwestern and playing ball there, but on his first visit back home from college, he began to realize just how unique the great State of Alaska was where he grew up. He said: ‘For me, I really didn’t appreciate it until I actually went somewhere else.

Like all of us who love the outdoors, the scenery, the diversity, the opportunities, when he moved back from college, he was committed to coming back to our State to serve our State. He went into his family business. He got his master’s degree in public health from Johns Hopkins University. Then, when Governor Dunleavy, whom I mentioned, was elected in November of 2018, Adam was offered the job of commissioner of Health and Social Services.

His starting date was going to be December 3, 2018, but in Alaska, there are always adventures and challenges, and on November 30, the south central part of our state had a huge shock, a huge earthquake—7.1. There were cracking and collapsing roads and highways. It damaged buildings, destroyed schools, knocked out power, and sent people outside and under furniture. It really damaged homes. So Adam, who was going to start this job in 3 days, said: I am going to start now. He moved up the start date and got to work.

It was a crash course in health emergency operations. Brand new on the job, his Health and Human Services department was in touch with all the hospitals, all the prisons, the elder care facilities, the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs. He watched and led these operations, everybody working together. Here is the miracle: In this huge earthquake during rush hour in Alaska, not one life was lost. It was remarkable—literally a miracle. He learned how to work together in emergency operations. That exercise was invaluable with what came next, and we all know what came next—the pandemic which has rocked our State, our country, and really our world.

Alaska’s chief medical officer, Dr. Anne Zink, appears with Commissioner Adam Crum and Governor Dunleavy nearly every night to address Alaskans and our media in a press conference about what is happening to the health of our State and this coronavirus. Versions of this scene happen nearly every night across the country as Governors are addressing their public. But I am willing to venture to say that there is a marker of success with these conferences, is this: how much the people are trusting of what is being told to them. I would state that Alaska’s healthcare team, Commissioner Crum and Dr. Zink, have passed with flying colors.

Dr. Zink is certainly one of the stars of this nightly show as she appears from her yurt in her backyard in Palmer, AK. She has become so popular in Alaska that there is even a Facebook page dedicated to her called ‘Think like Zink.’ Rorie Watt, Juneau’s city manager, actually wrote an ode in her honor. It is a lengthy poem, and it starts like this:

Oh Alaska, I love you and it feels like we are teetering on the edge of where can guide and steer us? The unflappable Dr. Zink!

You know if a poem is written about you, you are doing a good job.

Dr. Zink was raised in Colorado with physical therapy father and an engineer mother. She worked as a stranger to Alaska. She worked as a mountain guiding in Alaska during college. So after getting her M.D. from Stanford, she made her way back to our great State 11 years ago and has worked as an ER doctor in the Matanuska Valley.

Last July, she was with her family in Bhutan on a yearlong sabbatical when she got a call from Adam Crum, asking her to come to be the State’s Chief Medical Officer. Commissioner Crum, speaking like a true Big Ten football player, said: “She was my number 1 draft pick.”

So Commissioner Crum made the smart decision to bring on Dr. Zink to the medical team and healthcare team that he leads. Commissioner Crum and Dr. Zink have, along with the rest of the country, been closely watching the virus mutate from China to the United States since the early stages. Remember what happened when the State Department brought our diplomats home from Wuhan. A plane load of our diplomats were coming home, and they had to stop in Anchorage on January 28 for a refueling stop. We later learned that nobody on the plane actually had the virus, but Commissioner Crum and Dr. Zink started to get our State a 14-day quarantine still in place for our citizens, contacting local and Tribal medical facilities. They were in constant coordination with the CDC. They were in communications with all the State agencies and divisions and, very, very importantly, with the Federal government.

This began their outreach to our citizens. They have continued that frenzied pace ever since, working day and night with the Governor’s office to try their best to keep the virus at bay, to keep our citizens healthy, and so far it is working.

Like other places, businesses in Alaska have been shut down and are now slowly beginning to open back up. We are trying to open back up and keep our citizens healthy, but we need to get our economy open and moving again.

Among the other precautions, the Governor established a ban for a time on travel throughout the State and a 14-day quarantine still in place for anybody who comes from outside of Alaska to the State. Commissioner Crum said that mandate was probably the most effective thing they have done so far to keep the virus from spreading.

That doesn’t mean it can’t flare up in Alaska. It has flared up in other parts of our country. For example, we have some 200 villages that are not connected by roads and many of which do not have healthcare facilities. If they do have them, they are very, very limited. These communities were hit very hard by the Spanish flu, so there is a lot of trepidation in rural Alaska.

We have a fishing season that will start and will begin to bring people in from out of State—thousands of people—to work in Alaska. This is very important for our economy, but the communities need to feel safe. I have raised this issue with the President, the Vice President, and the Chief of Staff, and to their credit they have responded.

As a matter of fact, right now we have a doctor from DHS who is going around the State, with Dr. Zink and others, who was sent there by Admiral Bret Giroir, the HHS Assistant Secretary, in charge of testing. They are all out there. They are going to be in Kodiak, Bristol Bay, and Cordova, trying to make sure that our fishing communities are ready.

When the admirals called me, he said: We are working with the State, Senator LIVAN. This direction is from the highest levels of officials in the White House to get out there and bring resources to your fishing communities, and I will say, working with Dr. Zink, she is one of the top medical officers in the country. This is Admiral Giroir speaking about Dr. Zink.

So as you can tell, the utmost diligence is required and so is planning, communication, and bringing people along, particularly when you are asking them to take extreme measures. Again, because of the leadership we have, it is something that I think so far is going well in our State.

Commissioner Crum said:

Alaskans are contrarian by nature. They want to be educated. They don’t want to be forced. When they were told that it was the right thing to do, to comply with the mandates—that if we do this now, it will hurt less later—they did it.

Alaskans did this, Commissioner Crum continued:

It was the most painful thing I’ve ever done—asking people to close their businesses. But not as painful as it was for the people who actually had to shut down their business. But Alaskans complied and we worked together.

True leaders emerge during times of crisis. We are grateful that these two leaders emerged for us in Alaska. They are working, along with the Governor and the rest of his team, to do a very good job for our State.

Like I said, we aren’t past this. We have enormous challenges in our Nation and huge economic challenges in our State, but we know a few things. We have good people at the top who are guiding us, and we know that Alaskans will do the right thing when they are asked by these people. We also know that we are resilient, our State, our people, and our Nation.

In a recent interview, Dr. Zink said that one of her big takeaways throughout this entire pandemic is just how important resilience is and how very resilient Alaska is. She said, “Adversity can bring out the best and worst in people, and we have a choice to grow in response to the challenges or crumble from them.”

Well, as I mentioned at the beginning of my remarks, I am convinced that Alaska will grow from these challenges and that America will grow from these challenges, and I am convinced that what we are seeing all around our State and our Nation is amazing generosity, people working together through these difficult times. We will emerge stronger and more resilient.
HON. SCOTT R. TIPTON
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 14, 2020
Mr. TIPTON. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize Sergeant Buck Wenzel of Custer County, Colorado for his valuable service as a law enforcement officer and community leader for over 40 years and to wish him well in his retirement.

As a young adult, Buck served as a law enforcement officer with the Security Forces of the U.S. Air Force. Since 1977, Buck has served the Third Congressional District in various capacities as a community leader and law enforcement official at the Pueblo County Sheriff’s Office and the Custer County Sheriff’s Office. Buck graduated from the Colorado Law Enforcement Training Academy in November 1978 and shortly thereafter served in a Patrol Division as a Patrol Deputy.

He was transferred in 1981 to the Investigations Division, where as a Detective he specialized in violent crimes. A few years later, he was tasked with creating a Field Training and Evaluation Program for all new recruit patrol deputies. Later, Buck served as an Instructor at the Law Enforcement Academy and as a supervisor for SWAT. Because of his exemplary service, he was promoted in 1988 and sent to the Northwestern School of Police Staff and Command at Northwestern University in Chicago. He received the Kremling Honorable Mention upon graduation.

In 2001, Buck was tasked with absorbing Colorado State University’s Police Department and establishing a contractual Sheriff’s Office Policing Division for the university. During his last 10 years of service at the Pueblo County Sheriff’s Office, he served as the Senior Operations Commander for the Operations Bureau partaking in duties such as daily and long-term planning of the Bureau and Divisions which included Field Training, SWAT, and 9-1-1. Several years later in 2007, Buck retired from the Pueblo County Sheriff’s Office.

For his service, Buck has received innumerable awards and commendations including honorable mentions, sheriff commendations, and team commendations. Additionally, he received the 2005 National Alliance on Mental Illness Heroes in the Fight Award, 2005 Pueblo County Uniformed Officer of the Year Award, and 2014 Custer County Sheriff’s Office Officer of the Year Award. Now retired from law enforcement, Buck continues his work as Mayor of Silver Cliff and as a Chairperson of the Custer County 9-1-1 Authority Board.

Madam Speaker, Buck has dutifully served his country and community for almost his entire life. He has more than earned his retirement. I wish him the best of luck in this next stage of life and look forward to seeing his future contributions to the community.

HON. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 14, 2020
Ms. JOHNSON of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize and congratulate AT&T CEO Randall L. Stephenson on his retirement after an extraordinary career of service.

Mr. Stephenson began his career with Southwestern Bell Telephone in 1982 in Oklahoma. He served as the company’s senior executive vice president and chief financial officer from 2001 to 2004, and from 2004 to 2007 he was chief operating officer, after which he took over as chief executive officer. He was also appointed to AT&T’s board of directors in 2005.

Under Mr. Stephenson’s guidance, AT&T has committed $550 million since 2008 to its signature philanthropic initiative, AT&T Aspire, which drives innovation in education to promote student success in school and the workplace. He also led AT&T’s breakthrough “It Can Wait” campaign—an education and awareness program to reduce distracted driving. The program has amassed more than 40 million pledges of support. Additionally, in 2018, Warner Media unveiled an industry-first Diversity and Inclusion Policy for talent in front of and behind the camera.

Madam Speaker, Mr. Stephenson’s contributions to the city of Dallas, state of Texas, these United States, and across the globe are truly immeasurable. Therefore, on behalf of the U.S. House of Representatives and Texas’ 30th Congressional District, I ask that my colleagues join me in congratulating Mr. Stephenson for reaching this milestone and wish him a fruitful retirement.

HONORING FRANCIS M. HAGER
OF INDIANA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 14, 2020
Mr. PENCE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor my friend and fellow veteran, Francis M. Hager, who recently passed away at the age of 87 in Columbus, Indiana.

Early in his life, Frank chose a path of service to our country by enlisting in the U.S. Army. After completing his service, he went on to pursue a career in engineering and worked at Cummins Engine Company for 35 years where he designed and patented several innovations.

Frank was a pillar of the Columbus community and a faithful member of the St. Bartholomew Church. He trained altar servers for over 50 years, sang in the choir, delivered communion to nursing homes, and was a welcomed face to all members of the parish. Frank valued spending time with his family and served as a role model for future generations through his civic leadership and commitment to country.

The Pence family is lucky to have considered Frank a close friend. He was a generous person who will be remembered fondly and greatly missed.

May God rest his soul and bring comfort to his family and friends as we mourn his loss and celebrate Frank’s life here on earth.

HON. ANDY KIM
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 14, 2020
Mr. KIM. Madam Speaker, I rise today because my community has lost a leader, a mentor, a friend, and a father. Corporal Rory Patrick Hamill of the United States Marine Corps tragically passed away on May 1, 2020 at the age of 31.

Rory leaves behind not just a legacy of decorated service to his country, but also of leadership, compassion and a commitment to helping those in need. Rory deployed three times with 2nd Battalion, 8th Marines in Iraq and Afghanistan before his medical retirement in 2012. During his time in service, Rory received the Navy and Marine Corps Commendation Medal with Combat “V” for valorous actions in direct contact with an enemy.
two Combat Action Ribbons as well as many other awards, medals, and citations. Rory was also awarded the Purple Heart by President Obama for the many injuries he sustained during his deployments, including the loss of his right leg.

Upon his retirement from the Marine Corps, Rory found his calling in learning about himself and Post Traumatic Growth, which led him to a career in motivational speaking. Rory also volunteered with the Veterans Diversion Program at the Ocean County Prosecutors office where he acted as a mentor to veterans who had found themselves in the legal system as a result of their experiences while serving. Most recently, Rory was enrolled in an accelerated Masters Program in pursuit of a degree in Social Work at Monmouth University, where he worked to identify successful pathways for Post 9/11-era Veterans to reintegrate into their communities in New Jersey.

Rory’s commitment to his community and to those struggling is best said in his own written words: “The more we share our pain, open up and discuss our mental health; the more power we take away from those same traumas that affect us, and the more we can begin to heal. In sharing my story, I have found purpose, catharsis, and humility. I have found my life’s purpose in helping those who suffer as I used to. . . .” “This is what I live for. Helping my fellow brothers and sisters, showing them that there is a way to overcome any obstacle in their path; whether during service, or after.”

Rory’s impact on the veteran community was immeasurable, and his passing is a tragedy for our state and nation. It is now up to us to continue his legacy, to lift each other up and be there for those in our community that are struggling as Rory would have. My heart goes out to his family, his three children, and all of the friends who Rory touched through his work over the years. He will truly be missed.

Mr. YOUNG. Madam Speaker, with great pleasure, I rise today in recognition of Ms. Ruth “Ruthy” Hebard and her recent draft to continue her basketball career at the professional level, in the Women's National Basketball Association (WNBA). On Friday, April 17th, Ms. Hebard was drafted by the Chicago Sky as their eighth overall pick.

Ms. Hebard played forward at West Valley High School in Fairbanks, Alaska where she was chosen twice as USA Today's Alaska Player of the Year, an incredible accomplishment. She led West Valley High to many state tournaments and when she graduated, became the first player in their school history to have her jersey retired.

After high school, Ms. Hebard went on to play at the collegiate level for the University of Oregon where, this year, she was selected for the First-team All-American. Ms. Hebard is the second unanimous All-American basketball player in program history. Throughout her collegiate career for the Oregon Ducks, Ms. Hebard played in 144 games, playing an average of 28.7 minutes per game, and scoring 16.4 points per game.

Additionally, Ms. Hebard has played on the U.S. National Team leading the team to many titles and awards. Madam Speaker, Ms. Ruthy Hebard is an inspiration to all Americans, especially young girls and all young people pursuing athletic success. I ask my fellow Members to congratulate Ms. Ruthy Hebard in her incredible accomplishments and wish her well as she continues on to the Chicago Sky.

AUTHORIZING REMOTE VOTING BY PROXY IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND PROVIDING FOR OFFICIAL REMOTE COMMITTEE PROCEEDINGS DURING A PUBLIC HEALTH EMERGENCY DUE TO A NOVEL CORONAVIRUS, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES; MISCELLANEOUS MEASURE; HEROES ACT

Committee on Rules: Full Committee held a hearing and a markup on H. Res. 965, authorizing remote voting by proxy in the House of Representatives and providing for official remote committee proceedings during a public health emergency due to a novel... coronavirus, and for other purposes [Original Jurisdiction Hearing]; and a hearing on H.R. 6800, the “HEROES Act”. H. Res. 965 was ordered reported, without amendment. The Committee granted, by record vote of 8–4, a rule providing for consideration of H. Res. 965, Authorizing remote voting by proxy in the House of Representatives and providing for official remote committee proceedings during a public health emergency due to a novel coronavirus, and for other purposes, and H.R. 6800, the “Heroes Act”. The rule provides for consideration of H. Res. 965, Authorizing remote voting by proxy in the House of Representatives and providing for official remote committee proceedings during a public health emergency due to a novel coronavirus, and for other purposes, under a closed rule. The rule provides that upon adoption of this resolution it shall be in order without intervention of any point of order to consider H. Res. 965. The rule provides one hour of general debate equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Rules. The rule provides that the resolution shall be considered as read. The rule provides for consideration of H.R. 6800, the “Health and Economic Recovery Omnibus Emergency Solutions Act”, under a closed rule. The rule provides that upon adoption of this resolution it shall be in order to consider H.R. 6800 without intervention of any question of consideration. The rule provides two hours of general debate equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Appropriations. The rule waives all points of order against consideration of the bill. The rule provides that the amendment printed in the Rules Committee report shall be considered as adopted and the bill, as amended, shall be considered as read. The rule waives all points of order against provisions in the bill, as amended. The rule provides that clause 2(e) of rule XXI shall not apply during consideration of the bill. The rule provides one motion to recommit with or without instructions. The rule provides that until completion of proceedings enabled by the first two sections of the resolution, the Chair may decline to entertain any intervening motion (except as expressly provided herein), resolution, question, or notice; and the Chair may decline to entertain the question of consideration. Section 4 of the rule provides that on any legislative day during the period from May 19, 2020, through July 21, 2020: the Journal of the proceedings of the previous day shall be considered as approved; and the Chair may at any time declare the House adjourned to meet at a date and time to be announced by the Chair in declaring the adjournment. The rule provides that the Speaker may appoint Members to perform the duties of the Chair for the duration of the period addressed by section 4 of the resolution. The rule provides that each day during the period addressed by section 4 of the resolution shall not constitute a calendar day for the purposes of section 7 of the War Powers Resolution. The rule provides that each day during the period addressed by section 4 of the resolution shall not constitute a legislative day for purposes of clause 7 of rule XIII. The rule provides that each day during the period addressed by section 4 of the resolution shall not constitute a calendar or legislative day for purposes of clause 7(c)(1) of rule XXII. The rule provides that each day during the period addressed by section 4 shall not constitute a legislative day for the purposes of clause 7 of rule XV. The rule provides for consideration of concurrent resolutions providing for adjournment during the month of July, 2020. The rule provides that it shall be in order at any time through the calendar day of July 19, 2020, for the Speaker to entertain motions that the House suspend the rules as though under clause 1 of rule XV, and that the Speaker or her designee shall consult with the Minority Leader or his designee on the designation of any matter for consideration pursuant to this section. The rule waives the requirement of clause 6(a) of rule XIII for a two-thirds vote to consider a report from the Committee on Rules on the same day it is presented to the House with respect to any resolution reported through the legislative day of July 21, 2020. Testimony was heard from Chairman Lowey, Chairman Pallone, and Representatives Hoyer, Rodney Davis of Illinois, Bergman, Bishop of North Carolina, Byrne, Jordan, Pence, Cole, and Grothman.
