

Drew McNaughton is the enrichment coordinator for Montpelier's public schools. Schools across the state have shut down due to the virus that causes COVID-19. So McNaughton has been working from home.

While at home he's decided to help organize a group of volunteers in the Marshfield and Plainfield areas who can go to stores to pick up items for those who may not be able. "It seemed like the natural thing to do. It seems like a natural response for a community to take care of the vulnerable populations," he said.

Health officials have said those that are older, have chronic health conditions or have a compromised immune system are most at risk from the virus. People are being told to stay home as much as they can and to stay at least six feet away from others in effort to keep the virus from spreading. Some who have tested positive for the virus or are showing symptoms are being told to stay home and self-isolate for 14 days.

McNaughton has been promoting the effort on Front Porch Forum and so far 22 people have signed up to volunteer. Those who volunteered have agreed to share their contact information with those looking for items to be delivered.

So far he said there's only been one request for delivery: a resident who needed heart medication. But McNaughton believes that will change the longer this goes on and the stricter the isolation requirements during the pandemic.

"There's going to be more people sheltering in place and it's going to be up to the healthy and the young to step up for once. The millennials are going to be facing an actual challenge," he said.

He said one of the hard parts about the pandemic is the anxiety people are feeling due to the uncertainty of how long this will go on with no defined end date.

"To me, that's the unnerving part," he said.

To help pass the time, he said he's been doing projects around the house and doing things outside. He said he would bet plenty of people will have renovation projects completed by themselves by the time this is all over.

"A lot of amateur carpenters are going to emerge," he said.

TRIBUTE TO DWIGHT GARDNER

Mr. BENNET. Madam President, I rise to honor the career of Dwight Gardner, who recently announced his retirement after providing decades of service to the State of Colorado. He most recently served on my staff as the regional director for southeast Colorado. Dwight has been a tireless advocate for the farmers, ranchers, and communities across our State. For decades, he has worked on behalf of communities throughout the region, from Pueblo to Raton Pass on the New Mexico border, and from the headwaters of the Arkansas River in Leadville, high in the Rockies, to the town of Holly in Prowers County.

Early in his career, Dwight worked alongside his brother to support the farmers of the Arkansas Valley as a cropduster. Living through the era of "buy and dry" land purchasing to divert water to meet the needs of a growing Front Range, Dwight understood early the value of advocacy for rural Colorado.

In 2000, he was elected to the first of two terms as a Crowley County Commissioner, and in that role, he was selected as chairman of the Southern Colorado Economic Development District to represent the interests of the 14 counties in the region. In 2007, my predecessor, Senator Ken Salazar, asked Dwight to join his office. I was fortunate that Dwight agreed to continue his service in my office in 2009.

Dwight employs a formidable array of skills to serve the southeast region of Colorado effectively. He builds strong relationships with people; he possesses a deep knowledge and respect for the heritage of Colorado; and he provides a constant presence when the issues demand it. He has engaged in the battle for Federal funds to build the long-promised Arkansas Valley conduit. He was witness to the important preservation of our national heritage at Camp Amache and Sand Creek. He helped shepherd the critical economic opportunity represented by the continuation of the Southwest Chief railroad line.

From local food production to manufacturing, from the decommissioning of the Pueblo Chemical Depot to establishing good neighbor relations at Fort Carson's Pinon Canyon Maneuver site, Dwight has been a steady presence and road warrior as he has advanced the common good across hundreds of miles of beautiful southern Colorado.

Going forward, I will miss Dwight's humility, his candor, and his keen understanding of what it means to be a son of rural America, attributes so needed as we work our way toward a better future. I am comforted to know that the next generation, represented by his grandsons Noah, Devlan, and Gatlan, have the benefit of his guidance. Colorado is grateful for his service.

TRIBUTE TO KARA FOUR BEAR

• Mr. CRAMER. Madam President, I want to congratulate Kara Four Bear, the principal at the New Town, ND, Middle School, for being one of two educators in the Nation to be presented with the Presidential Cybersecurity Education Award.

The U.S. Department of Education received nominations for 43 educators from 23 States for this inaugural award. Kara Four Bear's selection was based on her passion for developing digital literacy and safety skills in her students and then helping them make real-world connections with what they learn.

She has led her school in establishing robust, global, and relevant education programs using curriculum provided from the National Integrated Education Research Center. This curriculum challenges students to put into practical use their lessons in topics such as cyber ethics and cyber law.

They start this curriculum as sixth graders and continue through middle school and high school. Through various class projects and State, regional, and national competitions, they explore science, technology, engineering, and mathematics and the careers available in these fields.

This Presidential Cybersecurity Education Award was established on May 2, 2019, by President Trump's executive order on America's Cybersecurity Workforce. The Department of Education was charged with creating this award within 1 year and in consultation with the Deputy Assistant to the President for Homeland Security and Counterterrorism at the National Security Council and the National Science Foundation.

Because the demand for STEM careers continues to grow in my State, our Nation, and around the world, there is a critical need for students to excel in these subjects. Because women continue to be underrepresented in careers focusing on computer science and cybersecurity, the challenge is even greater to encourage girls to develop the creative thinking and problem-solving skills needed in these careers at an early age.

The New Town students joined young North Dakota women from Bismarck, Fargo, Grand Forks, West Fargo, Sheyenne, and Williston schools last month in the Girls Go CyberStart competition, sponsored by the SANS Institute. North Dakota had the highest nationwide participation per capita for the second year in a row, and I commend all who participated in this competition.

Inspirational educators like Kara Four Bear are leading the way to increase opportunities for North Dakota students to prepare for careers in the field of cybersecurity. I thank her for her passion for cyber education and for being an inspiration to what can be done to successfully create this level of excellence in schools across the Nation.●
