

raised four children: Pamela, Michael, Curtis (Buddy), and Kevin. Even though he hung up his uniform, Henry continued to serve his community. A man of deep faith, he was a Sunday School teacher and deacon at First Chinese Baptist Church in Phoenix. He became a successful real estate and insurance broker and was known for his contagious energy, charismatic spirit, and love and devotion to his wife and family.

Although Henry had survived the depths of darkness, invisible wounds of the war remained with him. After 40 years of silence, Henry began to speak about his encounters with the horrors of war and his imprisonment by the Nazis. He cared deeply for his fellow veterans and encouraged other POWs to share their own experiences and heal from their memories. He was a past commander and life member of the American Legion and the Disabled American Veterans, and he maintained a lifelong friendship with members of his crew.

The American people must never forget Henry's patriotism and bravery. A man of courage and conviction, our nation is better for his presence among us. Godspeed, Henry.

SUPPORTING THE GROTHMAN
AMENDMENT TO H.R. 2

HON. GLENN GROTHMAN

OF WISCONSIN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, July 13, 2020

Mr. GROTHMAN. Madam Speaker, I include in the RECORD the following letter in support of my amendment to H.R. 2. This letter is from a stakeholder in my district that owns and operates the dam located in waters where invasive species, like Asian carp, have been found.

JULY 9, 2020.

Hon. GLENN GROTHMAN,
*Member of Congress, House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.*

Hon. MARK POCAN,
*Member of Congress, House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.*

DEAR REPRESENTATIVES GROTHMAN AND POCAN: I am writing in strong support of your invasive species amendment to H.R. 2, the INVEST in America Act which passed the House by unanimous consent on July 1, 2020. Alliant Energy deeply appreciates your commitment to this pro-environment measure and for protecting Wisconsin's watersheds.

As you know, an Alliant subsidiary, Wisconsin Power and Light, owns and operates a dam located in Prairie du Sac, Wisconsin, on the Wisconsin River. The Prairie du Sac dam, now over 100 years old, is responsible for the formation of Lake Wisconsin, which serves as an enormous recreational and wildlife resource for our state.

Over a decade ago, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service sought to impose a fishway requirement on the license for the dam, essentially calling for a "fishway" to be installed to allow for the upstream migration of native fish. Since that time, however, scientists and state officials have discovered the existence of non-native, invasive fish species (Asian carp) at the base of the dam. If a fishway were now installed, it seems clear that these invasive species would also be able to migrate—and thereby endanger native fish populations upstream, including Lake Wisconsin.

Your amendment would ensure that, in this particular case, the Fish and Wildlife Service would be required to consider the threats posed by invasive species before imposing a fishway condition on a hydroelectric license. We believe strongly that such decisions should be predicated on the most up to date information available, and your amendment will help guarantee that invasive species are not permitted to threaten the Lake Wisconsin watershed.

Again, thank you for offering your amendment. Please let me know how Alliant Energy may assist you in ushering this much-needed provision into public law.

Sincerely,

DAVID DE LEON,
President—Wisconsin Power and Light Company, Alliant Energy.

GEORGE FUNERAL HOME

HON. JOE WILSON

OF SOUTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, July 13, 2020

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Madam Speaker, on July 7th a centennial celebration was held in Aiken, South Carolina, for the George Funeral Home. The ceremonies were thoughtfully reported by Dede Biles in The Aiken Standard on July 8th.

Pictures accompanying the article were "Several proclamations and resolutions were presented during the Centennial Celebration at George Funeral Home and Cremation Center on Tuesday. Pictured are United States Rep. JOE WILSON, R-S.C., left; South Carolina Rep. Bart Blackwell, R-Aiken; Aiken City Councilwoman and Mayor Pro Tempore Lessie Price; George Funeral Home owner Cody Anderson; S.C. Rep. Bill Taylor, R-Aiken; S.C. Sen. 100 YEARS OF SERVICE

During the George Funeral Home and Cremation Center's Centennial Celebration on Tuesday in Aiken, three grandchildren of founder D.M. George were in attendance.

Edward D. George Jr., Johanna Gibbs and Tommy Gibbs served as bridges between the past and the present.

Edward lived upstairs at the funeral home with his parents, beginning at the age of 9, and he considered it his residence until he graduated from Clemson University in 1962.

Edward's cousin, Tommy, would play "Taps" on the trumpet for military funerals.

"Uncle Albert (George) and daddy (Edward Sr.) would never let me go off to where Tommy was if he was to play "Taps" because they knew we would get in trouble," Edward said. "I would get Tommy tickled so he couldn't play."

Johanna, Tommy's sister, recalled how many of the family members, in addition to her brother, were involved in helping out at the funeral home.

Some drove cars and transported flowers to churches and then to cemeteries.

They also pitched in to perform other tasks.

"There are not too many businesses in Aiken County—and maybe in this state—that have been run continuously for 100 years," Johanna said. "That is something to be proud of."

Cody Anderson is George Funeral Home's current owner. He purchased the business in 2018 from the Foundation Partners Group LLC of Orlando, Florida.

"We appreciate what Cody is doing so very much," Edward said. "George Funeral Home has meant a lot to us over the years, and we are very appreciative that he has continued the compassionate service and the tradition of George Funeral Home. We also appreciate him keeping the George name on the funeral home."

Anderson considers himself the caretaker of the George family's traditions even though he is not a relative.

"When I bought the funeral home, it wasn't about me," Anderson said, "It was about continuing the legacy that was established in 1920. My goal has been to honor that tremendous legacy."

The Centennial Celebration included a program that was held in George Funeral Home's chapel instead of outdoors because of rain.

It included talks by D.M. George's descendants about the history of the business, and there also were presentations of resolutions from the South Carolina House and Senate along with a proclamation from Aiken Mayor Rick Osborn's office.

U.S. Rep. Joe Wilson, R-S.C., spoke briefly, praising the "thoughtful and compassionate" Anderson and his staff for keeping George Funeral Home's legacy of service alive.

South Carolina Gov. Henry McMaster was unable to attend the Centennial Celebration, but he sent a proclamation declaring that Tuesday was George Funeral Home 100th Anniversary Day in the Palmetto State.

Anderson discussed the funeral home's future near the end of the program, which was followed by a reception. He revealed a plan to renovate the chapel, a project that is tentatively scheduled to begin in mid-2021.

"Robert Rich Associates, the architectural firm that redid Joye Cottage, another historical Aiken Winter Colony home, has been selected to blend the chapel interior more architecturally to the original house to complement it," Anderson said.

The program was followed by a reception.

George Funeral Home is at 211 Park Ave. S.W. The former Winter Colony home that was known as "Deodara" has been the location of the business since 1948.
