

seniors, veterans, disabled individuals, and working families.

That is why I am pleased to announce that this important site has been recognized by the Affordable Housing Tax Credit Coalition as a 2020 recipient of the Charles L. Edson Tax Credit Award, which recognizes excellence in the affordable housing industry and organizations that have demonstrated the most impactful use of the Housing Credit.

Historic Ashe Hospital in Jefferson is no exception. The historic building includes a community room for residents to gather, office space for those now working from home, a library for residents of all ages, and a memory room with artifacts from the original hospital. Wide hallways, tall ceilings, and large windows remind residents of the great public spaces of the past and beautiful views of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Historic Ashe is also located across the street from the Appalachian District Health Department, which delivers services including case management, skilled nursing, physical and occupational therapy, and respite care. Vaya Health of western North Carolina provides a variety of mental health services on-site, and other community partners provide GED classes to those interested, transportation to the local senior center, volunteer opportunities, and a variety of other education and support services.

It is truly a monumental achievement in terms of creative property development and the judicious use of public and private funding to benefit the residents of Jefferson, while contributing to the Nation's vital supply of affordable housing.

Several groups and individuals were instrumental in bringing the project to fruition, including Northwestern Housing Enterprises, Incorporated, Redstone Equity Partners, Foss & Company, Bank of Tennessee, Federal Home Loan Bank of Cincinnati, Tise-Kiester Architects of Chapel Hill, and notably E. G. "Ned" Fowler, President of Northwestern Housing Enterprises.

To everyone involved in the development of Historic Ashe Hospital for affordable housing in Jefferson, I offer my congratulations and gratitude on behalf of the people of North Carolina. Thank you.●
