The Secretary is authorized to provide for the participation by the United States in the Information Sharing Centre located in Singapore, as established by the Regional Cooperation Agreement on Combating Piracy and Armed Robbery against Ships in Asia (ReCAAP).

SEC. 5108. IMPORTANCE OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS TRAINING TO NATIONAL SECURITY.

(a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the Department is a crucial national security agency, whose employees, both Foreign and Civil Service, require the best possible training at every stage of their careers to prepare them to promote and defend United States national interests and the health and safety of United States citizens abroad;

(2) the Department's investment of time and resources with respect to the training and education of its personnel is considerably below the level of other Federal departments and agencies in the national security field, and falls well below the investments many allied and adversarial countries make in the development of their diplomats;

(3) the Department faces increasingly complex and rapidly evolving challenges, many of which are science and technology-driven, and which demand the continual, high-quality training and education of its personnel;

(4) the Department must move beyond reliance on "on-the-job training" and other informal mentorship practices, which lead to an inequality in skillset development and career advancement opportunities, often particularly for minority personnel, and towards a robust professional tradecraft training continuum that will provide for greater equality in career advancement and increase minority participation in the senior ranks;

(5) the Department's Foreign Service Institute and other training facilities should seek to substantially increase their educational and training offerings to Department personnel, including developing new and innovative educational and training courses, methods, programs, and opportunities; and

(6) consistent with existing Department gift acceptance authority and other applicable laws, the Department and Foreign Service Institute may accept funds and other resources from foundations, not-for-profit corporations, and other appropriate sources to help the Department and the Institute enhance the quantity and quality of training offerings, especially in the introduction of new, innovative, and pilot model courses.

(b) TRAINING FLOAT.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of State shall develop and submit to the appropriate congressional committees a strategy to establish a "training float" to allow for up to 15 percent of the Civil and Foreign Service to participate in long-term training at any given time. The strategy should identify steps necessary to ensure the implementation of the training priorities identified in subsection (c), sufficient training capacity and opportunities are available to Civil and Foreign Service officers, the equitable distribution of long-term training opportunities to Civil and Foreign Service officers, and the provision of any additional resources or authorities necessary to facilitate such a training float, including programs at the George P. Schultz National Foreign Affairs Training Center, the Foreign Service Institute, the Foreign Affairs Security Training Center, and other facilities or programs operated by the Department of State. The strategy shall identify which types of training would be prioritized, the extent (if any) to which such training is already being provided to Civil and Foreign Service officers by the Department of State, any factors incentivizing or disincentivizing such training, and why such training cannot be achieved without Civil and Foreign Service officers leaving the workforce. In addition to training opportunities provided by the Department, the strategy shall consider training that could be provided by the other United States Government training institutions, as well as nongovernmental educational institutions. The strategy shall consider approaches to overcome disincentives to pursuing long-term training.

(c) PRIORITIZATION.—In order to provide the Civil and Foreign Service with the level of education and training needed to effectively advance United States interests across the globe, the Department of State should—

(1) increase its offerings—

(A) of virtual instruction to make training more accessible to personnel deployed throughout the world; or

(B) at partner organizations to provide useful outside perspectives to Department personnel;

(2) offer courses utilizing computer-based or assisted simulations, allowing civilian officers to lead decisionmaking in a crisis environment; and

(3) consider increasing the duration and expanding the focus of certain training courses, including—

(A) the A-100 orientation course for Foreign Service officers, and

(B) the chief of mission course to more accurately reflect the significant responsibilities accompanying such role.

(d) OTHER AGENCY RESPONSIBILITIES.—Other national security agencies should increase the enrollment of their personnel in courses at the Foreign Service Institute and other Department of State training facilities to promote a whole-of-government approach to mitigating national security challenges.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would remove the additional direction regarding the A-10 and F-35 comparison report.

We note that the A-10 divestment prohibition is 1 year in duration and we are concerned about the potential impacts during that period on the modernization of the A-10 fleet and the implementation of currently planned and budgeted Air Force basing actions. We note the Air Force intends to invest $5.0 billion to rebuild Tyndall Air Force Base (AFB), Florida, to ensure that Tyndall becomes an Air Force Base of the Future as previously declared by then-Secretary Barbara M. Barrett. We note that the Congress has already appropriated approximately $3.0 billion rebuilding Tyndall after the devastating hurricane, and the Congress believes this investment to date should not be squandered.

Therefore, we direct the Secretary of the Air Force to submit a report, not later than May 1, 2022, to the congressional defense committees that assesses the potential impact of a 1-year delay in implementing the planned basing actions for 3 F-35 squadrons at Tyndall AFB and the cost of mitigating any potential delay to ensure the planned 3 squadrons of F-35s and associated operations and support personnel are ready to begin operations not later than the original September, 2023, plan.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would require: (1) A report from the Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff regarding requirements for a Bridge Tanker aircraft; and (2) A report from the Secretary of the Air Force de-tailoring aspects of the Bridge Tanker program and plans for the so-called KC-Z follow-on tanker program.

Inventory requirements and limitations relating to certain air refueling tanker aircraft (sec. 137)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 134) that would address KC-135 and KC-10 retirements and limit the Air Force from moving KC-135 from primary mission aircraft inventory to backup aircraft inventory in the Air Force Guard and Reserve. The House provision would allow the Air Force to retire 14 and 12 KC-10 aircraft in fiscal years 2022 and 2023, respectively. The House provision would also allow the Air Force to retire 18 KC-135 aircraft in fiscal year 2022.

Minimum inventory of tactical airlift aircraft (sec. 138)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 134) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to retain a minimum of 279 C-130 aircraft through fiscal year 2026. The House bill would also require that the Air Force achieve certain conditions before modifying the flying mission of any Air National Guard tactical airlift unit.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 141) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to maintain a total active aircraft inventory of 292 C-130 aircraft through fiscal year 2023.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would delete the conditions that would have to be achieved before modifying the flying mission of any Air National Guard tactical airlift unit.

We note the Secretary of the Air Force indicated his support to realign Mansfield-Lahm Airport, Ohio, as the preferred alternative for re-missioning and beddown of a Cyber Warfare Wing by fiscal year 2023. We support the Secretary of the Air Force's decision to reduce the C-130 mission in Ohio and urge the Secretary to ensure that such a reduction at Mansfield-Lahm Airport is conducted concurrent with the establishment of the new Cyber Warfare Wing.

Report relating to reduction of total number of tactical airlift aircraft (sec. 139)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 138) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to submit a report, not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, relating the Air Force's plan to reduce the total number of tactical airlift aircraft.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require the Secretary to report on certain issues not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, including:

- (1) The justification for such reduction;
- (2) An explanation of whether and to what extent the Secretary considered domestic operations as part of the justification;
- (3) An analysis of the role of domestic operations during concurrent contingency operations;
- (4) Analysis of the C-130 aircraft force structures recommended to support wartime mobility requirements as set forth in the Mobility Capability and Requirements Studies (MCRS) conducted under:
  - (a) section 144(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2018 (Public Law 115-91); and
  - (b) section 1712 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020 (Public Law 116-92);
- (5) The Secretary's justification for any increased risk that may result from accepting a C-130 aircraft force structure smaller than the force structure recommended by either MCRS; and
- (6) An explanation of whether and to what extent the Secretary may have consulted with Governors of States that may be affected by any the planned reduction or realignment as part of the decision making process.

Subtitle E—Defense-Wide, Joint, and Multiservice Matters

Implementation of affordability, operational, and sustainment cost constraints for the F-35 aircraft program (sec. 141)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 141) that would limit the total quantity of F-35 aircraft that could be procured and maintained in the aircraft inventory by the Secretary of the Air Force and the Secretary of the Navy based on existing affordability cost constraints that have been determined by each Secretary.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require the Secretaries to establish sustainment cost constraint goals on October 1, 2025, and if the services are unable to meet those cost goals, reductions in total procurement of F-35 aircraft would become effective on October 1, 2029.

Transfer of F-35 program responsibilities from the F-35 Joint Program Office to the Department of the Air Force and the Department of the Navy (sec. 142)

Limitation on availability of funds for air-based and space-based ground moving target indicator capabilities (sec. 143)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 161) that would prohibit the duplication of effort across multiple programs to provide air- and space-based ground moving target indicator (GMTI) capability across multiple services and agencies until the Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, in consultation with the Secretaries of the military departments and applicable agency heads, provides to the congressional defense committees a list of all procurement and research and development efforts funded with Department of Defense or other executive agency resources, as well as how those efforts will provide real-time information to the warfighter through the Joint All Domain Command and Control efforts of the Department.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a review of all established and planned efforts to provide air- and space-based ground moving target indicator capability to identify, eliminate, and prevent redundancies of efforts across the Department of Defense. The Department would be precluded from obligating more than 75 percent for any of these programs until the Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff submits to the congressional defense committees the following information:

- (1) A list of all procurement and research and development efforts relating to the GMTI capability;
- (2) A description of how the efforts described in the GMTI programs will provide real-time information to relevant military end users through the use of air battle managers;
- (3) A description of how the programs comply with the joint all domain command and control requirements and standards of the Department, and Joint Requirements Oversight Council-validated GMTI requirements; and
- (4) An identification of any potential areas of overlap between these GMTI capabilities.

Limitation on availability of funds for procurement of aircraft systems for the armed overwatch program (sec. 144)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 142) that would prohibit the expenditure of certain funds by the Department of Defense for the procurement of Armed Overwatch aircraft until the Secretary of Defense provides the congressional defense committees with the airborne intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance acquisition roadmap for the U.S. Special Operations Command (SOCOM) required by section 165 of the William M. (Mac) Thornberry National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2021 (Public Law 116–283).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 162). The agreement includes the Senate provision.

We direct the Director, Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation, to review SOCOM's Armed Overwatch program and submit an independent assessment to the congressional defense committees at the same time as the submission of the President's budget request for fiscal year 2023. At a minimum, the independent assessment shall evaluate the total number of Armed Overwatch aircraft necessary to fulfill the requirements of special operations forces in light of changes to global force posture and increasing threats to manned aircraft since the requirement for such aircraft was validated by the Commander, SOCOM.

Analysis of certain radar investment options (sec. 145)

The Senate amendment included a provision (sec. 132) that would require the Director of the Office of Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation (CAPE) to conduct an independent review of the three radar systems supporting current Aegis combat systems of the Navy and the Missile Defense Agency in the fiscal year 2022 through fiscal year 2027 timeframe. The Director would be required to submit a report on the results of that analysis not later than March 1, 2022, to the congressional defense committees.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would modify the required analysis to include the AN/SPY-3 radar system.

We note that the House report accompanying H.R. 4350 (H. Rept. 117–118) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 directed a similar review of radars.

Review and briefing on fielded major weapon systems (sec. 146)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 143) that would require a report on the Department of Defense's processes for the management of strategic risk with respect to major weapon systems capabilities and capacities, including ensuring major weapon systems' suitability for current and emerging military threats to U.S. forces and accomplishment of their missions, and identifying for modernization by either upgrade or replacement any weapon systems that are not capable of effectively accomplishing their military purpose or are excess to operational requirements. The provision would also require the Comptroller General of the United States to review such report and provide a briefing and report to the congressional defense committees on their assessment of such report.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with technical amendments.

We expect the briefing to describe the key factors the Secretary of Defense considers when assessing the effectiveness and costs of fielded major weapons systems, assessing tradeoffs, and developing strategies and plans. The briefing should also: (1) Assess the extent to which the Secretary of Defense is able to evaluate a major weapon system's ability to meet operational requirements at regular intervals and efficiently determine if such system should continue to be used or replaced and divested; (2) Identify those fielded major weapon systems the Department of Defense replaced or divested since January 1, 2010; (3) Identify fielded major weapon systems that the Secretary plans to divest by December 31, 2035; and (4) Identify the major weapon system upgrade and replacement efforts planned for the same period, to include an assessment of how the replacement major weapon system will meet current and future operational requirements in the National Defense Strategy. We direct the Comptroller General to assess the Secretary's briefing and provide a report to the congressional defense committees on that assessment, not later than 180 days after the Secretary delivers the required briefing.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Plan for ensuring sources of cannon tubes

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 115) that would direct the Secretary of the Army to develop and implement an investment and sustainment plan to ensure the sourcing of cannon tubes for the purpose of mitigating risk to the Army and the industrial base.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We recognize the unique contributions of Watervliet Arsenal as a historic and necessary part of the Nation's defense industrial base, particularly in its long-standing role as the historic sole source of cannon tubes. We recognize the enduring requirement for a Government capability for the expertise and skilled labor that is provided by Watervliet and the important services they provide to national defense and readiness. We direct the Secretary of the Army to provide to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than March 31, 2022, an update on analysis, decision-making, and planning to qualify U.S. based sources of cannon tube supply limited to low rate production in support of research, development, and prototyping or, if necessary, to mitigate short-term risk in production for fielded systems as outlined in the Army's April 2021, report to Congress titled "Assessment of Investment and Sustainment for Procurement of Cannon Tubes."

Sense of Congress on Joint Surveillance Target Attack Radar System aircraft

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 136) that would express the sense of Congress on Joint Surveillance Target Attack Radar System aircraft (JSTARS). The House report accompanying H.R. 4350 (H. Rept. 117–118) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 noted congressional concerns about inadequate modernization funding to keep JSTARS relevant for the remainder of its service life and reiterated the need for the Air Force to comply with current law directing the availability of JSTARS to the geographic combatant commanders through the Global Force Management process.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate report accompanying S. 2792 (S. Rept. 117–39) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 expressed concern about the need for the Air Force to: (1) Maintain the current aircraft and make prudent upgrades to the current JSTARS systems until a replacement capability is available; and (2) Follow through on JSTARS modernization plans.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We agree with the views expressed in both the Senate and House reports.

Limitation on availability of funds for retirement of RC–26B aircraft

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 137) that would prohibit the obligation or expenditure of any funds authorized under this Act for the retirement of the RC–26B aircraft, subject to certain exceptions.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

In February, 2020, we received a report from the Secretary of the Air Force responding to section 147 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020 (Public Law 116–92). In that report, the Secretary certified that, among other things, there was no title 10 mission for this aircraft.

The report also said that neither the Department of Defense nor the Air Force needed additional memoranda of agreement for the Departments to provide support to other military forces and civilian authorities.

In June 2020, the Secretary of the Air Force approved an updated divestment plan that would keep the RC–26B operational until April 1, 2023. Despite setting this deadline, the Air Force has yet to provide Congress with the details of how such a plan would be executed and the likely impact to the affected units.

We agree that continuing a year-to-year existence for the RC–26B units is an unsustainable policy, disruptive to personnel and readiness. We encourage the Air Force to reach a solution acceptable to all involved.

Accordingly, we direct the Secretary of the Air Force to provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees, not later than March 1, 2022, outlining the costs, benefits, timeline, and impacts of the Air Force’s plan to divest the RC–26B aircraft by April 1, 2023.

The agreement includes the House provision with a technical amendment.

We are very concerned about recent news of fuel vapor and hydrocarbon intrusion into the aquifer around the Red Hill Bulk Fuel Storage Facility in Honolulu, Hawaii. While we understand that this crisis is on-going and still under investigation, the need for thorough inspection of Red Hill and its supporting infrastructure has never been more apparent. Persistent fuel availability in quantity, location, and secured siting is a key component in ensuring resilient logistical support for sustained forward operations in the Indo-Pacific region and the execution of the National Defense Strategy, including the objectives of maintaining a free and open Indo-Pacific. We will continue to work with the Navy to determine how Red Hill fits into that strategy. We note that because the Red Hill Bulk Fuel Facility is constructed in basalt rock that overlays a key aquifer serving as one of the major groundwater resources for the fresh water needs of the City of Honolulu, including key military installations and associated facilities, if the facility is to remain open it must be operated and maintained to the highest standard possible to ensure the facility presents no material risk to the aquifer and to Honolulu water resources. We further note that adhering to the minimum requirement for safety inspections of the Red Hill Bulk Fuel Storage Facility as required by the American Petroleum Institute 570 standards, may not be sufficient given the gravity of potential harm caused by a fuel leak.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would replace the use of standards with tactics, techniques, and procedures.

We understand that the Department of Defense must operate in a contested and congested electromagnetic spectrum environment and effectively manage electromagnetic emissions in current and future conflicts. We, however, believe that the Department faces challenges in these areas. We are concerned that servicemembers, including at the operational level, are not appropriately trained and equipped for success in the electromagnetic environment. The military services’ emission control tactics, techniques, procedures, and associated training are often inconsistent and inadequate. For this reason, we expect the Department and the military services to review and, where necessary, update emission control-related tactics, techniques, and procedures.

Management of fatigue among crew of naval surface ships and related improvements (sec. 379)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 373) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to implement each of the recommendations for executive action in the Government Accountability Office (GAO) report, published May 27, 2021, titled “Navy Readiness: Additional Efforts Are Needed to Manage Fatigue, Reduce Crewing Shortfalls, and Implement Training” (GAO-21-366). LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

International Security Cooperation Programs

The budget request included $44.9 billion for Operation and Maintenance, Defense-Wide (OMDW), of which $2.1 billion was requested for SAG 4GTD Defense Security Cooperation Agency (DSCA), and of which $1.1 billion is for the International Security Cooperation Programs (ISCP) account.

We note that U.S. Africa Command identified maintaining its annual security cooperation program as an unfunded requirement. We further note the importance of security cooperation programs in the U.S. European Command area of responsibility.

Therefore, we recommend an increase of $59.6 million to OMDW, for SAG 4GTD DSCA for U.S. Africa Command security cooperation programs and activities within the ISCP account, and an increase of $45.1 million to OMDW, for SAG 4GTD DSCA for U.S. European Command security cooperation programs and activities within the ISCP account.

Funding for Army Community Services

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 302) that would increase the funding table authorization for operation and maintenance for Army base operations support, line 100, for Army Community Services by $30.0 million and decrease the funding table authorizations for operation and maintenance for Army Administration, line 440, by $15.0 million and Army Other Service Support, line 480, by $15.0 million.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We believe that the United States should remain energy independent to enhance national security. We also believe the United States should adopt an all-of-the-above energy strategy to diversify and mitigate the risk of becoming energy and materially dependent on vulnerable sources of energy and energy technology that may constrain the operations of the Armed Forces of the United States.

Standards for response actions with respect to PFAS contamination

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 321) that would require the Secretary of Defense to meet or exceed the most stringent standards between an enforceable state standard under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (CERCLA) (42 U.S.C. 9601 et seq.), an enforceable Federal standard under CERCLA, or a health advisory under the Safe Drinking Water Act (42 U.S.C. 300g-1) when performing removal or remediation actions of perfluorooctane sulfonate or perfluorooctanoic acid contamination from Department of Defense or National Guard activities found in drinking water or in groundwater that is not currently used for drinking water.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We are encouraged by the Department of Defense's continuing efforts to certify sustainable aviation fuels for use by military aircraft. We note, however, that this effort has remained in the lab, and that given the trend towards greater incorporation of sustainable aviation fuel in commercial aviation the military departments should take all necessary steps to ensure that they do not fall behind the greater aviation industry. Small scale tests at installations, particularly where they can leverage efficiencies related to partnering with local airports, may help inform the military departments of challenges and benefits related to the greater use of these fuels.

We encourage the Department of Defense to continue research into innovative clean-up technologies including phytoremediation of environmental contamination including mycological and agricultural organic matter.

Report on Air Force progress regarding contaminated real property

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 328) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to submit a report on the Air Force's progress regarding contaminated real property.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 5303).

The agreement does not include these provisions.

We note that certain property on or near Air Force facilities located in the United States are contaminated with harmful perfluorooctanoic acid (PFOA) and perfluorooctane sulfonate (PFOS) chemicals. PFOA and PFOS contamination threatens the jobs, lives, and livelihoods of citizens and livestock who live in contaminated areas. Further, property owners, especially those facing severe financial hardship, cannot wait any longer for the Air Force to acquire contaminated property. We believe that the Secretary of the Air Force should, in an expeditious manner, use the authority under section 344 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020 (Public Law 116–92) to acquire contaminated property, remediate or dispose of it pursuant to Federal and State environmental laws, and provide relocation assistance.

Accordingly, we direct the Secretary of the Air Force to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, a report on the progress of the Air Force in carrying out section 344 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020. The report shall include the following:

- (1) A detailed description of any real property contaminated by PFOA and PFOS by activities of the Air Force;
- (2) A description of any progress made by the Secretary of the Air Force to acquire and remediate or dispose of property pursuant to Federal and state environmental laws or provide relocation assistance pursuant to section 344 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020; and

(3) If the Secretary of the Air Force has not acquired and remediated or disposed of property pursuant to Federal and State environmental laws or provided relocation assistance pursuant to such section, an explanation of why not.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We direct the Undersecretary of Defense (Comptroller) to provide a briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the Department of Defense’s obligations and expenditures for domestic wildfire response activities not later than March 31, 2022. The briefing shall include budget and financial information for fiscal years 2020 and 2021 on total military support provided to the FEMA and other Federal land management agencies for wildfire response as well as to U.S. States, territories, and possessions. The briefing shall include information on the amount of support provided on a reimbursable and non-reimbursable basis and describe how the Department plans and budgets for wildfire-related costs.

We note that many non-tactical vehicle manufacturers are transitioning to alternatively fueled vehicles. These vehicles are becoming increasingly common in the United States’ economy. We encourage the Department of Defense to maximize the adoption of alternatively fueled non-tactical vehicles to the greatest extent practicable. Further, we encourage the Department to maximize its use of existing authorities to facilitate the purchase and use of supporting infrastructure necessary for these vehicles.

Report on clean up of contaminated Army property

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 336) that would require the Secretary of the Army to submit a report on the clean-up of contaminated Army property to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that there are numerous properties that were under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Army, such as former Nike missile sites, but that have been transferred to units of local government. Many of these properties may remain polluted because of activity by the Department of Defense, and this pollution may inhibit the use of these properties for commercial or residential purposes. Knowledge and understanding of the impacts of contaminants from Department of Defense (DOD) activities have developed and changed over time. We believe that the DOD has an obligation to facilitate the clean-up of such pollutants even after the sites have been transferred to local governments.

As such, we direct the Secretary of the Army to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, a report that contains each of the following:

- (1) A plan to facilitate the clean-up of each contaminated property that was under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Army and subsequently transferred to a unit of local government;
- (2) An identification of any site where the Department of the Army has previously conducted clean-up activities but due to contaminants not discovered until after transfer or newly identified contaminants additional clean-up may be necessary;
- (3) An explanation of how any site identified under paragraph (2) is to be prioritized relative to other sites, such as active sites or sites set for transfer;
- (4) A detailed plan to conduct preliminary assessments and site inspections for each site identified under paragraph (2) not later than 5 years after the date of the submittal of the report.

We direct the Secretary of Defense to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, a report on the inventory, maintenance, and repair of aircraft turbine engine rotors by the Department of Defense. The report shall include the following information (disaggregated by aircraft type and military department):

- (1) A total inventory of all replacement aircraft turbine engine rotors produced or procured by department;
- (2) The total production and procurement costs in fiscal year 2021 for such replacement rotors;
- (3) The projected production and procurement costs for such replacement rotors for fiscal years 2022, 2023, and 2024; and
- (4) Any funds invested by the Department to modernize the maintenance and repair of aircraft turbine engine rotors, and to lower associated costs.

The report shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may have a classified annex.

- (1) An analysis of the tactical and logistical benefits and costs of transitioning from multi-component aerospace ground equipment systems to modern, all-in-one systems;
- (2) An overview of plans to replace legacy air start carts with modern aerospace ground equipment technology;
- (3) An analysis of the long-term maintenance and fuel savings that could be realized by the Air Force if the legacy air start cart systems were upgraded to next generation systems;
- (4) An analysis of the average yearly cost to the Air Force of maintaining legacy aerospace ground equipment; and

(5) A comparison of the cost of reconditioning these existing legacy systems compared to the cost of replacing them with modern equipment.

We direct the Secretary of Defense, not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, to provide a briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives that includes, at a minimum, discussion of the following:

- (1) Changes to current practices regarding Air Installations Compatible Use Zones that are necessary to support noise mitigation and insulation efforts relating to existing covered facilities;
- (2) The number of fixed wing aircraft facilities covered by existing Air Installations Compatible Use Zones studies;

Budget justification for operation and maintenance

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 371) that would direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretaries of the military departments, to provide budget justification details for Operation and Maintenance (O&M) accounts, including information displayed by sub-activity group, as detailed in the future years defense program, as well as material readiness objectives and any associated risks to the supply chain.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We continue to be concerned with the lack of transparency in weapon systems sustainment costs within the O&M budget request. We note that the Department of Defense struggles to accurately present these sustainment costs and tie requirements to available resources. This lack of transparency frustrates congressional oversight and taxpayer accountability. It also hinders the ability of the defense industrial base to properly plan and make necessary investments in the supply chain to meet demand changes, which, in turn, can adversely affect readiness. We encourage the Department to review O&M budget justification documents to improve transparency and make more information available on weapon sustainment requirements and associated costs.

Explosive ordnance disposal defense program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 377) that would make structural changes to the Explosive Ordnance Disposal (EOD) program as well as a provision (sec. 913) that would amend section 167(k) of title 10, United States Code, to include “Explosive ordnance disposal” in special operations activities. The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 918) that would transfer the 20th Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear, Explosives Command of the Army to the Army Special Operations Command and a provision (sec. 598) that would add an element to the report regarding the designation of the EOD Corps as a basic branch of the Army.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provisions.

The agreement does not include these provisions.

We note section 1072 of the William M. (Mac) Thornberry National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2021 (Public Law 116–283) directed a study by a federally funded research and development center (FFRDC) to identify and evaluate the roles and responsibilities of the military services involved in the EOD program. This study will include an identification and evaluation of technology, research, and development activities; an identification of gaps in the industrial base; an evaluation of training and retention for EOD servicemembers; an assessment of risk in EOD force structure; and demand for activities in support of both Department of Defense and Federal agencies for EOD activities. We expect this study to be completed imminently.

We recognize ongoing interest in determining ways in which to strengthen the structure and authorities of EOD equities across the Department of Defense.

Therefore, we direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than April 30, 2022, regarding the roles and responsibilities of the military services involved in the EOD program. The report shall be informed by the previously mentioned FFRDC study and cover the feasibility and advisability of the following:

- (1) Assigning the Director of the Defense Threat Reduction Agency to manage the Defense-wide program element funding for the EOD program;
- (2) Designating a Navy explosive ordnance disposal-qualified admiral officer to serve as the co-chair of the EOD program;
- (3) Designating the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Special Operations and Combating Terrorism as the co-chair of the EOD program;
- (4) Amending section 167(k) of title 10, United States Code, to include “Explosive ordnance disposal” in special operations activities;
- (5) Transferring the 20th Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear, Explosives Command of the Army to the Army Special Operations Command within the U.S. Special Operations Command;

(6) Designating an Assistant Secretary of the Army as the key individual responsible for developing and overseeing policy, plans, programs, and budgets, and issuing guidance and providing direction on the EOD activities of the Army;

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We are aware of the ongoing research effort conducted by the Department of the Army, in partnership with the University of Pennsylvania, titled Training Aid Delivery Device 2.0 Training Support for COVID-19 Detection. This research effort will soon complete Phase 2 and is showing promising results. The final phase, Phase 3, is expected to begin as early as December 2021 and projected to last 1 year in duration. We encourage the Department of Defense to fund Phase 3 of this research.

Additionally, we direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than August 1, 2022, on the Department's plans to complete this research effort and to transition this effort to an operational program if the research demonstrates that the effort has merit in sustaining readiness. We note that while both the Department of Defense and the Comptroller General of the United States have previously reported on various aspects of the Military Working Dog program, none of these reports include information on risks associated with dog procurement from foreign sources and whether these animals have the potential to arrive in the United States with foreign diseases that could impact the health of domestically whelped and procured animals. Accordingly, we direct the head of Army Veterinary Services, in consultation with the Air Force as the executive agent for the Military Working Dog program, to provide a report to the Commit-

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

We note the Secretary of the Air Force and Chief of Space Operations requested exemptions from numerous military personnel laws for the U.S. Space Force. For example, the agreement provides relief from limitations on the number of Space Force senior enlisted personnel and field grade officers, along with additional variance authority to overall Space Force end strength requirements. Additionally, this provision would allow the Space Force to select for promotion a greater number of brigadier generals than the law otherwise allows. In all cases, we provided the requested legislative relief but limited the authority to 1 year.

The initial growth of the Space Force may have necessitated some of these variations, but we are concerned that Space Force leadership continues to seek exceptions to military personnel laws that apply to every other service. This trend of repeated, last minute, requests for legislative relief cannot continue. We expect the Space Force to adhere to the laws governing all military personnel.

These steps relate to assessing medical requirements, updating medical screening processes, standardizing operations across the military entrance processing stations, improving aptitude testing, and implementing any improvements identified as a result of this review.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require the Secretaries concerned to add the following steps: determine whether there is geographic variation in the accessions process, review and update the medical waiver process, and review whether there is bias in accessions against dependents of servicemembers and veterans related to any requirement for applicants to submit military medical records as a part of the accessions screening process.

Notice program relating to options for naturalization (sec. 523)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 559J) that would require military recruiters or officers overseeing an enlistment to provide notice of a recruit's options for naturalization under title III of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1401 et seq.) and inform the recruit of existing programs or services that may aid in the recruit's naturalization process. The provision would also grant exclusive authority to prosecutors detailed under this provision to determine whether a reported offense is a special victim offense for the purposes of the section and to exercise authority over any such offense under the UCMJ. The provision would authorize prosecutors detailed pursuant to the section to exercise authority over any reported offense that the prosecutor determines to be related to the special victim offense or committed by a person alleged to have committed a special victim offense. The provision would grant exclusive authority to special victim prosecutors to make a binding determination on convening authorities to prefer or refer charges and specifications for trial by a special or general court-martial; dismiss charges and specifications on behalf of the Government; enter into plea agreements; and determine if an ordered rehearing is impracticable. Finally, the provision would authorize a convening authority to exercise any of the authorities granted to convening authorities under the UCMJ, notwithstanding the exclusive authority granted to prosecutors detailed under the section, in the event such prosecutors decline to exercise authority granted to them under the section.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 531).

The Senate amendment also contained provisions (secs. 562(a) and 562(d)) that would require that the determination of whether to cause charges to be preferred on an accused or to refer charges for certain offenses to general or special courts-martial be made by trial counsel in the grade of O-6 or above, appointed by the chiefs of the military services for this purpose, rather than by convening authorities as they are currently defined under the UCMJ. These provisions would require that these officers not be in the victim's or accused's chain of command.

We expect the implementation of this provision to be consistent with the provisions of section 806 of title 10, United States Code.

Definition of military magistrate, covered offense, and special trial counsel (sec. 533)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 534) that would amend section 801 of title 10, United States Code, to add definitions to the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) for “military magistrate,” “special victim offense,” and “special victim prosecutor.” The provision would define special victim offense as an offense under Articles 117a, 119a, 119b, 120, 120b, 120c, 120d, 125, 128b, 130, and 132 (10 U.S.C. 917a, 919a, 919b, 920, 920b, 920c, 920d, 925, 928b, 930, and 932); conspiracy, solicitation, or attempt to commit such offenses under Articles 81, 82, or 80 of the UCMJ (10 U.S.C. 881, 882, or 880); and the standalone offenses of child pornography, pandering, and prostitution under Article 134 of the UCMJ.

We understand that the Defense Health Agency (DHA) continues to implement a market construct as it transforms the military health system (MHS) into a value-based system focused on medical readiness of the total force and readiness of the medical force. In fiscal year 2022, the DHA plans to establish its regional offices in the European and Indo-Pacific markets and to continue establishment of its small market offices and stand-alone military medical treatment facilities. We encourage the DHA to continue its efforts to integrate the direct care and purchased care components of the MHS through effective market management.

Grant program for increased cooperation on post-traumatic stress disorder research between United States and Israel

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 731) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of State, to award grants to eligible entities to conduct collaborative post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) research between the United States and Israel.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The amendment does not include this provision.

The Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives received a briefing in March 2021, from the Department of Defense (DOD) highlighting the extensive military medical research collaboration between Israel and the United States. We note this long-standing, strong relationship is exemplified by the Shores Meeting, a biennial research conference led by the U.S. Army and the Israel Defense Force (IDF) held since 1978. This meeting includes research discussion and collaboration in the areas of infectious diseases, PTSD and behavioral health sciences, combat casualty care, forensic pathology/identification of victims of mass casualty events, chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear events, naval and undersea medicine, and physiological stress and aerospace medicine. We note that DOD and Israel have either completed or begun 22 collaborative research efforts since 2016 in these research areas with DOD awarding grants to conduct such research. Additionally, the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences and the IDF have had an academic agreement since 2016 covering the coordination of scientific and continuing education programs to include the potential development of specialized courses of military medical instruction.

Pilot program on cryopreservation and storage

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 733) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a pilot program to give up to 1,000 participating servicemembers the opportunity to cryopreserve and store their gametes before deploying to a combat zone.

We direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the legal and ethical issues involving cryopreservation and storage of gametes, including, but not limited to: (1) Ownership, storage, future use, donation, and destruction, including an analysis of the application of State law; (2) Conflicts of law when a storage facility is located in one state and the servicemember is located in another state and perhaps has residence in a third state; (3) Spousal ownership, future use, donation, and destruction issues; (4) Military and Veterans Administration benefits for posthumously conceived children; (5) Conflicts between spouses regarding use and ownership of stored gametes; and (6) The Department of Defense's responsibilities for stored gametes of deceased servicemembers, including ownership and custody issues.

Pilot program on oral rehydration solutions

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 735) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to carry out a pilot program to furnish medically approved oral rehydration solutions to service members.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We understand the importance that proper hydration has on force health readiness. The National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine has determined that the daily fluid intake for men should be 3.7 liters per day, and women should ingest 2.7 liters. In a military training or operational environment, however, fluid intake should be much higher, especially under hot, humid conditions. Therefore, we encourage the Department of Defense to provide servicemembers with oral rehydration fluids when deemed appropriate and necessary to ensure the health of the force.

Authorization of pilot program to survey access to mental health care under military health system

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 736) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to conduct a pilot program to survey access to mental health care in the military health system. The authority to carry out the pilot program would terminate on September 1, 2023.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We remain concerned about the availability and access to mental health care services and the stigma associated with seeking mental health care within the Department of Defense. We note that another section of this Act requires the Department to conduct a pilot program to facilitate access to mental health care appointments. We also note that the Defense Organizational Climate Survey conducted by the Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute (DEOMI) already includes certain questions about access to mental health care and stigma, and a requirement for additional questions for purposes other than measurement of command climate may be problematic. In general, the process to develop new survey questions involves scientific literature reviews, cognitive testing, piloting, and psychometric analysis. This process can take upwards of 12 to 18 months and would require coordination with the Department of Defense Office of People Analytics. Additionally, DEOMI may make additions and changes to such questions on a quarterly basis.

Plan to address findings related to access to contraception for members of the Armed Forces

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 741) that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop and implement a plan to address findings of the report of the Department of Defense related to access to contraception. The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1053).

The agreement does not include these provisions.

We note that this issue is addressed elsewhere in this agreement and emphasize the importance of regular engagements with the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives regarding the threat posed by anomalous health incidents and efforts to ensure prompt medical care for those affected by such incidents.

Sense of Congress on National Warrior Call Day

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 747) that would support the designation of a “National Warrior Call Day” and to encourage all Americans to make connections with those veterans and first responders who may be disconnected from family, friends, and support systems in an effort to support them and reduce the epidemic of veteran suicide.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We express our utmost gratitude and profound respect to our nation’s veterans and first responders. We encourage all Americans to build connections with warriors in an effort to build a sense of community for those veterans and first responders who may be disconnected from family, friends, and support systems, and to contribute to the effort to end the epidemic of veteran suicide.

Pilot program on sleep apnea among new recruits

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 749) that would require the Secretary of Defense, acting through the Defense Health Agency, to carry out a pilot program to determine the prevalence of sleep apnea among servicemembers assigned to initial training.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We received a briefing from the Department of Defense (DOD) on sleep apnea waivers for military accessions in response to a report requirement in the William M. (Mac) Thornberry National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2021 (Public Law 116–283). Over a 5-year period (2014–2018), the DOD reviewed the records of more than a million recruit applicants, and only 48 individuals were disqualified from service for a sleep-related breathing disorder during that period. Moreover, 21 of these 48 individuals requested a medical accession waiver, with 9 applicants’ waivers approved, and each of them were accessed into a military service. We note that a sleep apnea study would likely not be conducive to the recruit training environment as it would require specialized equipment in an environment that may disrupt recruit training protocols. Additionally, we note that a potential sleep apnea study may be better focused on an older cohort of servicemembers who are more likely at greater risk for sleep apnea or other sleep-related breathing disorders.

Survey on effects of COVID-19 mandate on matters relating to recruitment and reenlistment

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 750) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct an anonymous survey to determine the effects that the COVID-19 vaccine mandate issued by the Secretary of Defense on August 24, 2021, had on recruitment to and reenlistment in the Armed Forces.

The agreement does not include this provision.

In a December 2019 briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the Department of Defense reported that the pregnancy-related mortality ratio in the military health system (MHS) is consistently below the ratio for the United States. For the period of 2011 through 2015, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reported a national overall pregnancy-related mortality ratio of 17.2 pregnancy-related deaths per 100,000 live births. Subtitle A—Acquisition Policy and Management

Acquisition workforce educational partnerships (sec. 801)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 801) that would direct the President of the Defense Acquisition University (DAU) to create a program and designate a program manager to partner with outside entities to augment the DAU curriculum with experiential learning opportunities and ensure the entire acquisition workforce receives training related to critical operational challenges. We encourage the President of the DAU to take advantage of this program to engage with experts to ensure the DAU curriculum aligns with educational best practices. We recognize that critical thinking skills are essential in addressing challenges that arise across a range of acquisition workforce tasks, including: procurement decision-making, such as data rights negotiations; managing limited resources due to budget shortfalls; mitigating the effects of extreme weather events throughout the full life cycle of a project; partnering with contractors to attract new companies and ensure supply chain resilience; and enabling rapid and efficient procurement of technologies to respond to technological changes.

We direct the President of the DAU to submit a plan for implementing the program established under subsection (a) to the congressional defense committees not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act. The plan shall include a description of the following elements: (1) Support that will be provided for the program by other elements of the Department of Defense to facilitate the engagement of private sector experts; (2) Plans and schedule for the implementation of the program, including future funding and administrative support of the program and modifications to curriculum to achieve the goals of this section; (3) A strategy to develop partnerships with outside organizations as required by this section and integrate with the other programs and initiatives within the Department relating to innovation and outreach to the academic and the private sector; (4) Performance indicators by which the program will be assessed and evaluated; and (5) Additional authorities the President of the DAU may require to carry out the responsibilities under this section.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a briefing on the extent to which domestic procurement waiver information related to Department of Defense programs is publicly available. We note that there are efforts underway to make such waivers available on a public website for all executive branch agencies. Specifically, Executive Order 14005, “Ensuring the Future Is Made in All of America by All of America’s Workers,” released on January 25, 2021, requires the General Services Administration to develop a public website to which the status of agencies’ proposed waivers to Made in America laws, to include the Department of Defense, will be posted. We understand this website is planned to be operational in fiscal year 2022 and expect the Secretary of Defense to provide appropriate information.

Report on violations of certain domestic preference laws (sec. 809)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 807) that would require a contracting officer to refer to the appropriate suspension or debarment official any current or former Department of Defense contractor if the contracting officer believes the contractor has egregiously violated the domestic preference requirements of section 2533a of title 10, United States Code, also known as the Berry Amendment, or section 2533b of title 10, United States Code. We note that the assessment required under section 2509 of title 10, United States Code, should address potential options for data infrastructure, tools, and applications in which the Department of Defense may invest to develop information systems and data analytics capabilities to support the reduction of risks to the defense supply chain.

We expect the assessment to include the extent to which technologies can provide for a map of supply chains that supports analysis, monitoring, and reporting with respect to high-risk subcontractors and risks to such supply chains; and technologies could assist in the assessment of risks to the supply chains by business sector, vendor, program, part, service, or technology. The assessment should also identify the organizations responsible for implementation of and overall operation of the system and for data collection, management, and analyses; a schedule and milestones for procurement and deployment of technologies; resources required for procurement and deployment of technologies, including personnel and funding; implementation risks for procurement and deployment of technologies and plans to mitigate risks to the defense industrial base; and identification of any required updates to policy, guidance, or legislation to support efficient and effective execution of activities under this section.

We note the potential for advanced and commercial data analytics systems and technologies to provide new capabilities to assess and analyze defense supply chains. For example, advances in decision science, commercial data analytics systems, and machine learning techniques may be applied to such an effort. We recommend that the Secretary of Defense consider the development of a database to integrate the current disparate data systems that contain defense supply chain information, and to help provide for consistent availability, interoperability, and centralized reporting of data to support efficient mitigation and remediation of identified supply chain vulnerabilities. We note that the Secretary should ensure that the systems are scalable so as to support multiple users, include robust cybersecurity capabilities, and are optimized for information-sharing and collaboration.

We support Department efforts to develop the implementation plan and report on implementation of the framework as required by section 845 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020 (Public Law 116–92). We support deeper, more meaningful expansion of the national technology and industrial base (NTIB), comprised of the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, and Australia. As the Members of the House of Representatives' Defense Critical Supply Chain Task Force observed, the Department of Defense should leverage the NTIB to shape policy and partnerships with allies. The value of such broad collaboration with the NTIB allies goes beyond acquisition; the network can be a test bed for closer international cooperation and supply chain resiliency. NTIB countries and other close allies and partners face challenges with over-reliance on Chinese and Russian suppliers. Effective policy to reduce the associated supply chain vulnerabilities requires meaningful, sustained dialogue and collaboration. The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would direct the Secretary of Defense to provide an unfunded priorities list for successful SBIR and STTR projects, along with the annual budget request.

Report on Cybersecurity Maturity Model Certification effects on small business (sec. 866)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 848) that would require the Secretary of Defense to, not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, provide a report to certain congressional committees on the effects of implementation of the Cybersecurity Maturity Model Certification framework on small businesses.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would modify elements of the report. The amendment would also expand the reporting requirements to include information on training for small businesses on assessment compliance, efforts to work with non-traditional companies, and a plan for oversight of third-party assessors.

Data on Phase III Small Business Innovation Research and Small Business Technology Transfer program awards (sec. 867)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 842) that would require the Secretaries of the military departments to collect data on Phase III awards under the Small Business Innovation Research and Small Business Technology Transfer programs and submit such data to the President for inclusion in the budget submitted to the Congress under section 1105 of title 31, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would modify the required information to be provided to the Congress with the budget submission to include an identification of the secretaries' list of the five highest performing projects, as determined by the Secretary.

Subtitle H—Other Matters

Mission management pilot program (sec. 871)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 851) that would establish a 5-year pilot program to identify lessons learned and improve mission outcomes by quickly developing and delivering solutions that fulfill critical operational needs in cross-service, cross-domain, and cross-program missions. The pilot is intended to be a case study to show where reforms to the traditional planning, programming, budgeting and execution process are needed if the Department of Defense is to adopt the best practices of agile, innovative organizations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with a clarifying amendment.

We note that this pilot is designed to take a mission-focused approach, rather than a traditional, program-specific approach to address the challenges combatant commanders face when the capability they need to execute a mission is not fulfilled by any of the services' large hardware systems.

In the initial project under the pilot, the Strategic Capabilities Office (SCO) will iterate with prototyping funds either to tweak existing technologies to be used in new ways across services or programs or to prototype technology that could be useful to the U.S. Indo-Pacific Command (INDOPACOM) mission. Currently, SCO is authorized to use only development prototyping funding, while the services, with their train and equip mission, have the procurement dollars needed to establish a program of record and the combatant commands have operation and maintenance dollars to spend in the field. Through SCO's close working relationship with INDOPACOM, SCO can send the capability to INDOPACOM, which will use, test, and submit feedback on the capability to SCO for further iterating. Throughout the pilot, SCO will gather and share, directly with the Deputy Secretary of Defense and the congressional defense committees, lessons learned about where the hurdles are and what changes in budget and/or acquisition authorities would be needed to overcome them.

We further note that the lessons learned from this pilot will provide valuable information for consideration by the members of the Planning, Programming, Budgeting and Execution Commission established elsewhere in this Act as they consider new ways of budgeting and iterative development, testing, and fielding to address operational challenges that fall in between the cracks of the services' program management processes.

Establishment of mission-oriented pilot programs to close significant capabilities gaps (sec. 872)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1281) that would establish a pilot program to close significant capability gaps in high-priority theaters by leveraging private investment resources such as equity and venture capital funding, with a focus on integration challenges in existing platforms and capabilities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a clarifying amendment.

The provision directs the Strategic Capabilities Office (SCO) to orient the pilot program around broad missions or operational challenges, such as maintaining the ability to conduct air operations from Guam or to conduct joint logistics and resupply missions, all amid rapidly worsening threats. However, the provision also provides the SCO the ability to choose other similarly scoped operational challenges.

The provision directs that the pilot must be built to leverage capabilities developed with funding sourced from private investment resources, such as equity or venture capital, and such capabilities should be used to integrate existing Department of Defense platforms and capabilities. Under the pilot, proof of efficacy must be demonstrated within 3 years such that an operational capability can be delivered within 5 years. We strongly believe that solving numerous high-priority operational challenges in a relevant time period will require much more focus on integration of existing capabilities.

The provision directs the SCO to establish coordination mechanisms between stakeholders, develop metrics to assess pilot program progress, and frequently report to the Congress to inform a planned discussion about whether to continue or expand the program.

We further note that the lessons learned from this pilot will provide valuable information for consideration by the members of the Planning, Programming, Budgeting and Execution Commission established elsewhere in this Act as they consider new ways of budgeting and iteratively developing, testing, and fielding capabilities to meet operational challenges inadequately addressed by existing processes.

The pilot should be structured to accommodate and balance risks and rewards for both the Government and the private sector. The private sector investors and performers would assume the risk of up-front investment in capability development and realizing substantial profit by solving hard problems at far less expense than the Government could achieve by traditional program management processes. The Government could appropriately mitigate that risk through, for example, milestone payments for achieving agreed upon performance objectives and otherwise allowing the private sector participants to manage the capability development. The Government could also use existing statutory authorities for guaranteed purchases, as was accomplished in response to the COVID-19 crisis. The Government would mitigate risk by disbursing funds only for successful results.

We note that the SCO, in managing this pilot, would have to function as a “mission manager” discussed and authorized elsewhere in this Act to integrate any commercially provided mission capabilities with existing programs, systems, capabilities, and processes necessary to implement mission solutions.

Independent study on acquisition practices and policies (sec. 873)

The House bill contained provisions (secs. 852 and 855) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to establish a 5-year pilot program to determine the cost competitiveness of the fully burdened cost of drop-in fuels compared with the fully burdened cost of traditional fuel using a commercially available scenario-based strategic sourcing tool and to submit an annual report on the impact of the pilot program. The provisions would also direct the Department of Defense Climate Working Group to assess and develop recommendations for implementing sustainable acquisition practices and policies in regulations and to submit a report on the assessment and recommendations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require an independent study on certain acquisition practices and policies, remove the requirements for the Department of Defense Climate Working Group, and provide technical and clarifying changes.

In evaluating various tools to be used by the acquisition workforce, we encourage the federally funded research and development center to include scenario-based strategic sourcing tools, which can be used to evaluate supply chain effects over time using automated software to model various scenarios relating to contract management, spend analysis, supplier management, sourcing, and external market variables.

Pilot program to incentivize contracting with employee-owned businesses (sec. 874)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 843) that would permit the Secretary of Defense to carry out a 5-year pilot program that allows for the use of noncompetitive procedures for follow-on contracts to qualified businesses wholly owned by an employee stock ownership plan (ESOP). The provision would also require the Comptroller General of the United States to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the Department of Defense’s use of the pilot not later than 3 years after the date of the enactment of this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would limit the follow-on opportunity. We recognize the innovative potential in encouraging non-traditional companies, like businesses wholly owned by an ESOP, to work with the Department of Defense. While there are many companies that have a level of employee ownership, a business wholly owned by an ESOP is different. We are aware of concerns regarding correctly identifying businesses wholly owned through an ESOP, and suggest the Department review Internal Revenue Service form “Schedule K-1 (Form 1120-S)” when looking to make that determination. Additionally, while we aim to bolster the defense industrial base with the provision, we do not intend to make it possible for a business other than a small business to receive the award of a contract that would have otherwise been set aside for small businesses under the requirements of Federal Acquisition Regulation Subpart 19.502.

Guidance, training, and report on place of performance contract requirements (sec. 875)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 819) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to improve contract place of performance data and provide a report to the congressional defense committees on its use.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would make clarifying edits and revise required reporting elements.

Notification of certain intergovernmental support agreements (sec. 876)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2824) that would improve access to certain installation support service contracts for individuals with certain disabilities.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 813).

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would require a notification in fiscal years 2022 and 2023 prior to the Department of Defense allowing exemptions of provisions of chapter 85 of title 41, United States Code, to enter into an intergovernmental support agreement (IGSA) as provided for in section 2679 of title 10, United States Code; a legislative analysis to identify the specific provisions of law that IGSA must be exempted from to support the effective and efficient use of such authority; and the development of a Department-wide policy on the use of IGSA authority, including with respect to the application of other requirements of acquisition law and policy. The amendment also requires a briefing from the Secretary of Defense on the activities taken to implement this section.

We intend the agreement to ensure that current contractors performing services that may be contracted for under IGSA are not unduly displaced. Further, the agreement seeks to clarify seemingly contradictory provisions of law in chapter 85 of title 41, United States Code, and section 2679 of title 10, United States Code, in which the former mandates the preferred or required use of certain contractors in defense acquisition activities while the latter provides for an exception of such requirements. We are concerned this seeming contradiction may result in confusion across multiple levels of installation and contracting management, as well as among the potential performer community.

We also intend for the agreement to support the delineation of a common set of IGSA policies to promote the consistent, effective, and efficient use of such authority and create a common understanding of its use both in government and industry.

Report on requests for equitable adjustment in Department of the Navy (sec. 877)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 599D) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to provide a report to the congressional defense committees on the processing of Requests for Equitable Adjustment by the Department of the Navy.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

Military standards for armor materials in vehicle specifications (sec. 878)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 855) that would require the Secretary of the Army to establish military standards for high hardness armor in combat vehicle specifications and provide a report to the congressional defense committees on the establishment of those standards and the strategy for their incorporation into combat vehicle specifications.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a modifying amendment.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Special emergency reimbursement authority

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 802) that would grant the Department of Defense new reimbursement authorities for contractors during a declared pandemic.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (Public Law 116–136), also known as the “CARES” Act, was enacted on March 27, 2020, in response to the COVID–19 pandemic. Subject to certain conditions, section 3610 of the CARES Act allowed agencies to reimburse paid leave, including sick leave, when a Federal contractor provides to keep their employees or sub-contractors in a ready state.

We are keen to understand the extent to which the authority provided in section 3610 of the CARES Act was, and continues to be, used on Department of Defense contracts and whether providing a similar authority to the Department permanently is in the national security interest.

Accordingly, we direct the Secretary of the Defense to provide a briefing, not later than March 1, 2022, and a report not later than April 1, 2022, to the congressional defense committees regarding the Department’s use of section 3610 of the CARES Act. Such briefing and report shall include the following elements related to section 3610 of the CARES Act: (1) Summary of Department implementation policy; (2) Reimbursements paid by the Department listed by contractor, amount paid, appropriation used to pay such reimbursement, and justification; (3) Reimbursements pending payment or a payment decision by the Department listed by contractor, amount requested, and justification; (4) Reimbursements denied by the Department listed by contractor, amount requested, and justification; (5) Benefit to the industrial base; (6) Benefit to the Government; (7) Specific examples of negative impacts avoided or mitigated; (8) An assessment of the extent to which making permanent this authority or similar authority would be in the national security interest; (9) Specific legislative or policy recommendations; and (10) Other related matters the Secretary considers appropriate.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 804) that would establish a minimum hourly wage for employees of Department of Defense contractors performing a covered contract.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Diversity and inclusion reporting requirements for covered contractors

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 805) that would require each covered contractor awarded a major contract to provide to the Secretary of Defense an annual report, for the duration of such major contract, on diversity and inclusion. The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to provide to the congressional defense committees an annual report summarizing the reports provided to the Secretary by contractors and for such reports to be publicly available.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We encourage defense contractors to promote diversity in leadership, in the workforce, and on corporate boards, and to establish measurable goals to achieve such diversity. We note that efforts to increase geographic, racial, and gender diversity, and to increase employment for veterans and military dependents, may result in improved outcomes to support the National Defense Strategy.

Competition requirements for purchases from Federal Prison Industries

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 817) that would amend section 3905 of title 10, United States Code, to enhance competition and market research requirements for products offered for sale by the Federal Prison Industries (FPI).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that the Congress established the Federal Prison Industries to help manage, train and rehabilitate inmates through employment. The Congress established a 5 percent threshold in section 827 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110–181), under which the Department of Defense (DOD) was to acquire products produced by FPI, as long as the products met the needs of the Department in terms of quality, performance, and price. We are aware of concerns about the decline in FPI's revenue generated from sales to DOD and Federal agencies. In light of improvements in the ability of Federal agencies to better mine acquisition data, increases in the simplified acquisition threshold and the advent of e-commerce portals, we direct the Comptroller General of the United States to assess: (1) How the Department identifies opportunities to acquire products from FPI; (2) The contracting approaches and vehicles used to do so; (3) What oversight is conducted to ensure compliance with applicable laws and regulations; and (4) Any other issues the Comptroller General deems relevant to help inform congressional oversight and future legislation. We further direct the Comptroller General of the United States to brief the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on preliminary observations by December 1, 2022, and provide a complete report at a mutually agreed upon date.

Department of Defense contractor professional training material disclosure requirements

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 818) that would require the Secretary of Defense to require all Department of Defense contractors to disclose certain training materials for review.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Extension and revisions to never contract with the enemy program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 822) that would extend and revise the "Never Contract with the Enemy" program initially authorized under the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2015 (Public Law 113-291).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that the Secretary of Defense has indicated interest in extending and expanding this authority. We believe that the Secretary of Defense needs to provide more justification for this legislative request, including an analysis of the impacts to defense missions that the lack of this authority has had, analyses of other acquisition authorities or practices which may provide the equivalent legal authorities to the Secretary, and an analysis of the interaction of the proposed authorities with existing acquisition policies and practices. We look forward to reviewing future requests for authority in this area and any supporting justification and analyses.

Further prohibition on acquisition of sensitive materials

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 833) that would amend section 2533c of title 10, United States Code, to add covered companies to the existing prohibition of sensitive materials from non-allied foreign nations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We are concerned that sensitive materials might be acquired from covered nations (as defined in section 2533c of title 10, United States Code) despite current prohibitions. Accordingly, we direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than March 1, 2022, on known efforts by covered nations to bypass current prohibitions, as found in section 2533c. The briefing shall include concerns the Department of Defense may have, ideas for mitigating these efforts, and any other information the Secretary finds relevant.

Enhanced domestic content requirement for major defense acquisition program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 834) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide to the congressional defense committees a report assessing the domestic source content of any procurement and would increase over a period of several years the domestic content requirements for the purposes of chapter 83 of title 41, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Ensuring consideration of the national security impacts of uranium as a critical mineral

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 837) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of Energy and the Secretary of Commerce, to conduct an assessment of the effect on national security that would result from uranium ceasing to be designated as a critical mineral by the Secretary of the Interior under section 7002(c) of the Energy Act of 2020, Division Z, Title VII of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021 (Public Law 116–260). The provision would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report on the findings of the assessment to the congressional defense committees and would restrict the alteration or elimination of the designation of uranium as a critical mineral until such report is submitted.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note our outstanding questions and concerns that would result from uranium ceasing to be designated as a critical mineral under section 7002(c) of the Energy Act of 2020, Division Z, Title VII of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021. We will continue to pursue this matter through normal oversight processes and urge the administration to engage with the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives in advance of changes to the current designation.

Statement of policy and determination related to covered optical transmission equipment or services

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 838) that would require the Secretary of Defense to commence a process to make a determination whether procurement of covered optical transmission equipment poses an unacceptable risk to national security under section 2 of the Secure and Trusted Communications Networks Act of 2019 (47 U.S.C. 1601).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 853) that would require a review and determination with respect to optical fiber transmission equipment for Department of Defense purposes.

The agreement does not include either provision.

Supply of synthetic graphite for the Department of Defense

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 839) that would require the Secretary of Defense to deem synthetic graphite material to be a strategic and critical material for defense, industrial, and civilian needs and, to the maximum extent practicable, acquire synthetic graphite material.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that section 849 of the William M. (Mac) Thornberry National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2021 (Public Law 116–283) directed the Department of Defense to analyze sourcing and industrial capacity for synthetic graphite and other strategic materials. In addition, section 848 instructed the Department to acquire strategic and critical materials from sources within the United States prior to purchasing from key allies. We believe that creating domestic demand for synthetic graphite will bolster the existing industry to ensure it can provide the Department, industry, and civilian needs with a secure supply of synthetic graphite.

We urge the Secretary of Defense, to the maximum extent practicable, to acquire synthetic graphite material, which is a strategic and critical material for defense, industrial, and civilian needs, in the following order of preference: (1) From sources domestically owned and produced; (2) From sources located within the United States or the national technology and industrial base; (3) Suppliers in other allied nations; or (4) From other sources, as appropriate.

Clarification of duties of Director of Small Business Programs

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 841) that would clarify that the duties of the Department of Defense's Director of Small Business Programs include strengthening the small businesses in the national technology and industrial base.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Support for industry participation in global standards organizations

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 846) that would require the Small Business Administration to establish a program under which grants would be awarded to eligible small businesses to support their participation in meetings and proceedings of standards development organizations in the development of voluntary technical standards.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We support the intent of the provision, but note that implementation of the proposed grant program is better suited for agencies that: (1) Have jurisdiction and expertise over the subject matter;

(2) Would be in a better position to determine which meetings and proceedings should be the object of these grants as well as which small businesses are the most appropriate candidates; and (3) Can more effectively develop the selection processes to ensure potential recipients meet small business eligibility criteria.

Pilot program on defense innovation open topics

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 847) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a defense innovation open topic activities pilot program using the Small Business Innovation Research Program (SBIR).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We commend the Air Force for looking at new and innovative ways to solve problems by using open topics for their SBIR program. Open topics provide increased flexibility for small businesses and the military services to innovate and modernize in unexpected ways. We encourage all of the military services to use open topics for their SBIR programs. Additionally, we direct the Secretaries of the military departments to provide a briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than March 1, 2022, on the breakdown of open topic and traditional announcements in the SBIR program of each military service and to include any pertinent transition data.

Report on improvements to procurement technical assistance programs

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 856) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment and not later than March 1, 2022, to provide to the congressional defense committees a report on the implementation of certain recommendations made by the Government Accountability Office to improve procurement technical assistance programs.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment, to submit to the congressional defense committees, not later than March 1, 2022, a report on the status of the implementation, including a schedule for implementation, of the three recommendations set forth in the report of the Government Accountability Office (GAO), published March 31, 2021, titled "Procurement Technical Assistance Program: Opportunities Exist for DOD to Enhance Training and Collaboration" (GAO-21-287), to improve procurement technical assistance programs established under chapter 142 of title 10, United States Code.

Report on commercial item determinations

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 857) that would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment to, not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, provide to the congressional defense committees a report on commercial item determinations and would further require the Under Secretary to make public such report on an appropriate, publicly available website.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment to submit a report on commercial item determinations to the congressional defense committees, not later than January 1, 2023. The report shall contain an accounting of the training available for the acquisition workforce related to commercial item determinations and price reasonableness determinations under Federal Acquisition Regulations Part 12, including a description of the training, duration, periodicity, whether the training is optional or mandatory, and the date on which the training materials were last substantially revised. The report shall also contain an assessment of the extent to which the current acquisition workforce has completed the aforementioned trainings. We further direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment to deliver to the congressional defense committees the report in unclassified and publicly releasable formats, as appropriate.

Pilot program to transition digitally secured manufacturing technologies

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 858) that would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering to carry out a pilot program to promote the development and effective transition of digitally secured manufacturing technologies to covered defense contractors. The provision would require an annual report on participation in and impact of the pilot program for the duration of the program and would authorize the transfer of $3.0 million for the program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering to develop a plan to ensure the transition, as appropriate, of manufacturing technologies funded by the Department of Defense and developed by manufacturing innovation institutes to defense contractors that support: (1) Enhancing and securing the supply chain for manufacturing of weapon systems; and (2) Ensuring increased quality and decreased costs of such cybersecurity capabilities in manufacturing technologies.

We further direct the Under Secretary to provide to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than September 30, 2022, a briefing on such plan.

Briefing on expanded small unmanned aircraft systems capability

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 859) that would require the Secretary of Defense to, not later than January 30, 2022, provide a briefing to the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives on the evaluation of the Department of Defense of commercially available small unmanned aircraft systems (sUAS) with capabilities that align with Department of Defense sUAS priorities, to include the Defense Innovation Unit's (DIU) Blue sUAS 2.0 list.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We agree that the Department of Defense (DOD) should continue to prioritize vetting and approving commercially available sUAS that meet the requirements of section 848 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020 (Public Law 116–92). Policy-compliant, cybersecure sUAS will support modernization efforts across DOD, especially in the Army, Marine Corps, and U.S. Special Operations Command. Accordingly, we direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a briefing, not later than April 1, 2022, to the congressional defense committees on the evaluation of commercially available sUAS with capabilities that align with Department of Defense sUAS priorities, the status of DIU’s Blue sUAS effort, and the feasibility of adding end-to-end integrated collection and analysis sUAS solutions to Blue sUAS.

Waiver authorization streamlining

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 860) that would make certain modifications to increase flexibilities in the waiver process under section 637 of title 15, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Modifications to Government-wide goals for small business concerns

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 861) that would make certain modifications to United States Code to increase government-wide goals for the level of participation of certain categories of small businesses in Federal contracting.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Duties of small business development center counselors

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 862) that would require the Administrator of the Small Business Administration to establish a cyber counseling certification program or approve a similar existing program in order to certify the employees of lead small business development centers to provide cyber planning assistance to small business concerns.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Comptroller General report on mergers and acquisitions in the defense industrial base

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 863) that would require the Comptroller General of the United States, not later than March 1, 2022, to provide to Congress a report on the impact of mergers and acquisitions of defense industrial base contractors on the procurement processes of the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We direct the Comptroller General of the United States to submit to the congressional defense committees, not later than September 30, 2023, an assessment of Department of Defense actions to monitor and assess the effects of potential mergers and acquisitions on its defense industrial base.

Exemption of certain contracts awarded to small business concerns from category management requirements

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 864) that would exempt certain contracts awarded to small business concerns from category management or successor strategies for contract consolidation.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Prohibition on contracting with persons with willful or repeated violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 865) that would prohibit the head of a Federal department or agency from contracting with individuals who have willfully or repeatedly violated the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (Public Law 75-718).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that the conference report (H. Rept. 116-617) accompanying the William M. (Mac) Thornberry National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2021 directed the Department of Defense to enter into an agreement with the Acquisition Innovation Research Center (AIRC), established by section 835 of the National Defense Authorization Act of Fiscal Year 2020 (Public Law 116-92), to report on the extent to which existing statutory and discretionary debarment procedures address the Department's interests and to identify any gaps in the current requirements for statutory debarment as a result of labor law violations. The report will include recommendations on statutory and regulatory changes needed to improve the transparency, efficiency, and effectiveness of the current debarment system as it relates to labor law violations.

We note that the AIRC study is ongoing and encourage the academic researchers to refine the focus of their efforts to study and make recommendations related to: (1) The impact of labor violations on the supply chain, balanced with the need to consider participation by small businesses, which tend to be more adversely impacted by debarment; (2) The availability of Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) records to Department of Defense contracting officers and the need for increased transparency and workforce training on labor laws and FLSA enforcement; and (3) The extent to which the current discretionary model of debarment best serves the Government's interest, or whether an adjudicatory model should be considered.

We direct the Secretary of Defense to support the execution of AIRC study with appropriate resources, and access to data, information, and personnel.

We anticipate the results of this study will bring to light new information that is not widely available or understood, therefore, not later than 60 days after the conclusion of this AIRC study, we direct the Secretary to provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees on the study's findings and what legislative changes the Department would propose, if any, in response to AIRC recommendations.

We support rigorous oversight of labor laws and the need to protect the Department from doing business with individuals and companies who pose a business risk to the Government. We further re-emphasize that contractors cited for violations such as failing to pay minimum wage and overtime and keep accurate records could be replaced with more responsible contractors to improve the integrity of the defense industrial base.

Report on duplicative information technology contracts

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 867) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report on efforts within the Department of Defense to reduce duplicative information technology contracts.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees, not later than May 31, 2022, on the efforts within the Department of Defense to reduce duplicative information technology contracts.

Reestablishment of commission on wartime contracting

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 868) that would reestablish the Commission on Wartime Contracting and modify the duties of that organization.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We acknowledge the valuable work of the Commission on Wartime Contracting and the 30 recommendations made in 2011 to improve contingency contracting in Iraq and Afghanistan. The Department of Defense (DOD) issued an action plan in 2013 to implement 16 of those recommendations. We are concerned that in a report published by the Government Accountability Office (GAO) on September 30, 2021, titled "Contingency Contracting: DOD Has Taken Steps to Address Commission Recommendations, but Should Better Document Progress and Improve Contract Data" (GAO-21-344), the Comptroller General found the information system used by the Department of Defense to track and report information about contracts and contractor personnel supporting contingency operations is not able to track and report information by the type of applicable contingency operations that DOD contracts and contractors have supported. The GAO report also observed that DOD's Operational Contract Support Functional Capabilities Integration Board has not continued to update and document the status of the Commission's recommendations. Without the ability to identify data on operations, exercises and other activities that are considered contingency operations within the information system, we are concerned that DOD is unable to fulfill the Commission's vision for reform of oversight and management of contingency contracting operations. We note it is also more difficult for DOD planners to identify and make decisions on contractor personnel or the capabilities needed to support them.

Therefore, to provide additional oversight through better monitoring and reporting on the Department's contractor personnel, we direct the Secretary of Defense to implement the recommendations of the GAO report and provide a progress briefing to the congressional defense committees not later than July 1, 2022.

The provision would further require the Secretary to provide to certain congressional committees an interim briefing on the analysis conducted, not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and a final report on the same, not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

quirements relating to combating trafficking in persons by contractors, in an appropriate time period; and (6) Assess the resources and staff required to support oversight of combating trafficking in persons, including resources and staff to validate annual combating trafficking in persons self-assessments by elements of the Department.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 901) that would modify the requirement for a person appointed as the Secretary of Defense to be 10 years relieved from Active Duty as a commissioned officer and apply the limitation to commissioned officers in a pay grade of O-6 and above. The provision would also allow the appointment of a person as Secretary of Defense notwithstanding the limitation if the Congress were to enact a joint resolution of approval.

retary of a military department to be 7 years relieved from Active Duty as a commissioned officer. The provision would also require that a commissioned officer in a pay grade of O-6 or below be 7 years relieved from Active Duty before being appointed as the Secretary of Defense. Finally, the provision would require that a person appointed as a Secretary of a military department, or as the ASD SOLIC, be 7 years relieved from Active Duty as a commissioned officer of a regular component of an armed force.

Clarification of treatment of Office of Local Defense Community Cooperation as a Department of Defense Field Activity (sec. 902)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 911) that would clarify that the Office of Local Defense Community Cooperation is to be treated as a Department of Defense Field Activity.

Enhanced role of the Under Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering on the Joint Requirements Oversight Council (sec. 903)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 5211) that would amend section 181 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would make the Undersecretary of Defense for Research and Engineering (USD R&E) the Chief Technical Advisor to the Joint Requirements Oversight Council (JROC), add an element to the JROC's mission, and require a report and study on the role of the USD R&E in the JROC. The amendment also requires an independent report and Secretary of Defense recommendations on potential further adjustments to the USD R&E role in the JROC process.

We note that the JROC, as required under section 181 of title 10, United States Code, assesses joint military capabilities and gaps to establish joint requirements for weapons systems, as well as identifies new joint military capabilities based on advances in technology and concepts of operation. By statute, the performance of these tasks has been a military function, relying on the unique expertise of senior military leadership in military operations and concepts.

We further note that since the JROC was established in 1986, technologies, including advanced materials, biotechnology, information technology in general, and artificial intelligence in particular, have seen remarkable advances affecting nearly all aspects of the U.S. economy and national security. Coincident with these changes has been a change in sources of funding for technology and development. During the Cold War, the Federal Government dominated research spending and held a key role in the maturation of technology. Now, commercial technology investment in research and development vastly outpaces Government spending, with product development cycles occurring at an increasingly rapid pace.

We believe that technology continues to hold a central role in military capability, but as the sources of technology shift, the processes for identifying and integrating this technology into military capabilities also needs to shift. Therefore, the JROC must evolve to be fully informed by the rapidly shifting set of technological possibilities. We emphasize that the ever-increasing integration of military operations and technology requires a range of backgrounds and perspectives to inform prioritization, which is the intent of the participation of key advisors in the JROC.

The designation of the USD R&E, who is already the principal advisor to the Secretary of Defense on matters related to technology, as the Chief Technical Advisor to the JROC is intended to assist the Department of Defense in taking full advantage of technological possibilities, on-ramping new technologies into military operations, and identifying new, affordable, and effective means of achieving military ends.

We also note that the USD R&E should support efforts to include more technical rigor and realism in the development and approval of requirements, so that acquisition programs are not initiated in a manner that leads to technical failures or excessive costs.

Implementation of repeal of Chief Management Officer of the Department of Defense (sec. 904)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 902) that would modify the implementation of the repeal of the requirement to establish the position of Chief Management Officer of the Department of Defense.

The provision would further modify implementation dates regarding the Service Acquisition Executive of the Department of the Air Force for Space Systems and Programs and allow the Secretary of the Air Force to assign Senior Procurement Executive authorities for space systems and programs to the Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Space Acquisition and Integration.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require certification by the Secretary of Defense and a Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation review if the Secretary appoints the DOD Chief Information Officer (CIO) as the responsible senior official, as well as technical amendments. The amendment would also strike the subsection limiting funds.

We view the appointment of the DOD CIO as the responsible senior official with skepticism given the inherent warfighting integration requirements that the senior official will oversee. We believe the office of the CIO does not have the expertise, staffing level, nor the authorities to ensure or promote electromagnetic spectrum superiority in operational environments throughout the combatant commands. We also note the Electromagnetic Spectrum Operations Cross Functional Team's significant work advancing electromagnetic spectrum operations throughout the Department of Defense. However, we encourage the Secretary of Defense to transfer the Electromagnetic Spectrum Operations Cross Functional Team's functions and responsibility to a permanent entity to ensure consistent leadership of electromagnetic spectrum operations when appropriate.

Management innovation activities (sec. 908)

We are concerned with the potential for extreme weather to negatively impact military installation resilience in a manner that could have a deleterious impact on readiness within the areas of responsibility of geographic combatant commands. However, we note that the existing authority for the CCIF allows funds to be used for purposes that include training and joint exercises as well as command and control and classroom education. We encourage a permissive reading of those authorized uses to allow funds to be used for infrastructure and facility resilience support of existing authorized CCIF activities.

We note that the Department’s joint task force support to law enforcement is an important tool for countering narcotics flows, terrorist networks, transnational criminal organizations, and dangerous human, wildlife, and other trafficking.

We support the efforts by the Department to formalize with partner departments and agencies intra-governmental understandings regarding the structure and extent of such support. Further, we note that Department support to interagency partners should be well-considered and prioritized on those efforts that further U.S. defense interests.

Therefore, we direct the Secretary of Defense to provide the congressional defense committees a briefing, not later than March 31, 2022, on the Department’s efforts to negotiate and conclude formal arrangements with partner departments and agencies governing the Department’s provision of support under the section 1022 authority. We strongly support the issuance of Department of Defense guidance on May 5, 2021, that clearly articulates the role of the ASD SOLIC in the oversight of and advocacy for U.S. Special Operations Command. Though long overdue, we believe this guidance is a meaningful signal of the Department's commitment to fully implement the ASD SOLIC reforms mandated by the Congress.

We look forward to continuing to work with the Department to institutionalize the "service secretary-like" responsibilities of the ASD SOLIC as the Principal Staff Assistant reporting directly to the Secretary of Defense and the civilian official tasked with exercising authority, direction, and control of all special operations-peculiar administrative matters relating to the organization, training, and equipping of special operations forces. We appreciate the commitment of the Department to ensure the ASD SOLIC is included in senior leader fora and maintains dedicated resources and grows to a level commensurate with its increased responsibilities.

Lastly, we strongly support the planned addition of 15 personnel to support the ASD SOLIC's "service secretary-like" responsibilities, as proposed in the President's budget request for fiscal year 2022. However, we direct the Department to conduct an updated manpower study to validate the number and types of personnel necessary to support the activities of the Secretariat for Special Operations and consider the issuance of additional agreements, understandings, arrangements, and similar instruments necessary to formalize the "service secretary-like" role of the ASD SOLIC.

We further note that recent National Defense Authorization Acts have included several provisions intended to improve Department of Defense policies, sharpen congressional oversight and improve public transparency related to civilian casualties. Finally, we believe completing DPRI Guam is crucial to ensure lines of communication remain intact should a regional contingency arise and completion of these projects will also aid in contested logistics for the area.

We expect that the Department of Defense will ensure that the future years defense program will reflect this shift in U.S. national security priorities and include the budgetary changes necessary to implement this shift, including any potential cost savings as a result of drawing down U.S. personnel and contractors from the U.S. Central Command area of responsibility. We also note this shift will require a realigning of military posture and force structure to engage in great power competition and encourage the Department to work closely and transparently with the Congress on the costs as this realignment goes forward.

Under section 20311 of title 52, United States Code, FVAP has authority to establish pilot programs to test the feasibility of new election technology. Previous pilot programs using this authority have helped States acquire secure ballot transmission technologies. A recent FVAP technology pilot program (called Electronic Absentee System for Election Grants) ended in 2018 with the expiration of eligible funds. We encourage the Department to consider a third round of grants to address the key issue that has been identified in FVAP research: (1) Reducing the time it takes for UOCAVA citizens to receive and return their ballots; and (2) Increasing the usability of electronic blank ballot delivery.

We note the readiness concerns regarding the availability of adequate USAR training access in Puerto Rico. The agreement does not include this provision.

We express interest in the idea of the Department of Defense delaying delivery of budget details for a small portion of the President's budget request to create another opportunity for innovation in the yearly Program Objective Memorandum process that develops the Department of Defense budget. Many of the projects that might be funded by such an idea have been seen in prior years in omnibus reprogramming requests or in informal requests by the Department of Defense after the President's budget request has been delivered. However, the idea would require much further discussion and development to answer questions about implementation.

Therefore, we direct the Deputy Secretary of Defense to provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees, not later than June 1, 2022, on the feasibility of delaying the delivery of budget details for a small portion of the Department of Defense budget.

Subtitle E—Matters Relating to the Indo–Pacific Region

Extension and modification of Indo-Pacific Maritime Security Initiative (sec. 1241)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1241) that would extend the authority provided by section 1263 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2016 (Public Law 114–92), as amended, known as the Indo-Pacific Maritime Security Initiative, through 2027. The provision would also make various modifications to the authority intended to focus activities and support provided under the authority on multilateral maritime security cooperation and maritime domain awareness.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

Extension and modification of Pacific Deterrence Initiative (sec. 1242)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1242) that would clarify the required budget information related to the Indo-Pacific.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1242).

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a clarifying amendment. We reiterate our strong support for the Pacific Deterrence Initiative (PDI) as means to prioritize Department of Defense efforts in support of enhancing U.S. deterrence and defense posture, reassuring allies and partners, and increasing readiness and capability in the Indo-Pacific region, primarily west of the International Date Line. We note that the PDI budget request for fiscal year 2022 was improperly focused on platforms, including the DDG-51, T-AO fleet oiler, and F-35, as opposed to improving the joint posture and enabling capabilities necessary to enhance deterrence in the Indo-Pacific region. Therefore, we identified approximately $7.1 billion in investments that support and attempt to improve the current posture, capabilities, and activities of U.S. forces in the Indo-Pacific region, as reflected in the budgetary display below, that more accurately reflect a baseline from which to measure progress against the objectives of the PDI. Included in the budgetary display are both new initiatives to improve posture, as well as funding for items, such as flying hours and steaming days, to sustain a baseline steady state presence as of fiscal year 2022. We expect the Department to continue working with the congressional defense committees to ensure future PDI budget requests are more appropriately aligned with the intent of the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives. We intend to identify increases to these baseline activities, new posture initiatives, capability improvements, and other relevant incremental investments primarily west of the International Date Line in future years to form the basis for PDI authorizations and evaluate year-over-year trends. As such, we direct the Deputy Secretary of Defense, not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, to provide the congressional defense committees a briefing on the processes and guidance used to program and budget for the Pacific Deterrence Initiative, including—

- (1) The allocation of fiscal toplines in the program objective memorandum process to support the PDI at the outset of the process;
- (2) The role of the combatant commanders in setting requirements for the PDI;
- (3) The role of the military departments and other components of the Armed Forces in proposing programmatic options to meet such requirements; and
- (4) The role of the combatant commanders, the military departments, and other components of the Armed Forces, the Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation Office, and the Deputy Secretary of Defense in adjudicating requirements and programmatic options—

- (a) before the submission of the program objective memorandum for the Pacific Deterrence Initiative; and
- (b) during program review.

We also believe the Deputy Secretary of Defense, in establishing program objective memorandum guidance for fiscal year 2024, should ensure that the processes and guidance used to program and budget for the PDI be appropriately aligned with the processes and guidance used to program and budget for the European Deterrence Initiative, including through the allocation of fiscal topline for each such initiative in the fiscal year 2024 process.

We further note that the provision requires an independent assessment by the Commander, U.S. Indo-Pacific Command (USINDOPACOM), of the resources, force posture, and other capabilities necessary to implement the National Defense Strategy that should include, among other things:

- (1) The bomber presence, either permanent, rotational, or episodic through dynamic force employment, as well as associated tankers and infrastructure necessary to support an adequate bomber force posture in the USINDOPACOM area of responsibility; and
- (2) An assessment of the military utility of Diego Garcia, British Indian Ocean Territory, and United States territories and possessions in the USINDOPACOM area of responsibility.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a clarifying amendment.

We believe development of critical technologies with military applications is a key component of strategic competition with China. A comparative analysis of U.S. and Chinese efforts should help drive Department of Defense efforts and investments in this critical dimension of competition with China.

We note the expertise of the Strategic Intelligence Analysis Cell (SIAC) within the office of the Deputy Director for Engineering in conducting technological comparative analyses and believe the Office of Net Assessment, Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, and federally funded research development and engineering centers have relevant experience and expertise to support this effort. Furthermore, we understand there are cultural and organizational constraints to the execution of such an analysis and intend for the directed reports to be an initial effort in what should be a longer term and continuous evaluation. We acknowledge the difficulty of fully assessing such a comprehensive topic but believe the value of a comparative analysis to help inform future efforts is critical to winning the strategic competition with China and recognize in-depth comparative analyses may require additional resources for proper execution over the long term.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that several of the reporting elements that would have been required by the Senate provision have been incorporated as part of a provision elsewhere in this Act that would direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a security cooperation strategy for certain combatant commands. We believe that the effectiveness of Department of Defense security cooperation activities in the U.S. Southern Command (SOUTHCOM) area of responsibility is directly tied to maintaining a consistent U.S. presence in the region.

Therefore, we direct the Secretary of Defense, not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report that describes the Department's plan to support the security cooperation strategy for SOUTHCOM required elsewhere in this Act, including:

- (4) Any other matters the Secretary deems relevant.

The required report shall be unclassified but may contain a classified annex.

Clarification of certain matters regarding protection of Afghan allies

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1211) that would modify the Afghan Allies Protection Act of 2009, Division F, Title VI of the Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Public Law 111-8).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We recognize the immense contributions of Afghan nationals who worked through cooperative agreements, grants, and nongovernmental organizations in Afghanistan in support of the United States mission to advance the causes of democracy, human rights, and the rule of law in Afghanistan. We express our sincere gratitude to the men and women of the U.S. Armed Forces who performed heroically by securing Hamid Karzai International Airport and facilitating the evacuation of thousands of U.S. citizens. We affirm that these servicemembers have executed the largest NEO in U.S. history, saving the lives of thousands of men, women, and children. We further commend these servicemembers for their courageous and noble service to their country, having acquitted themselves in a manner that should make every American proud. We honor the service and lives of the 11 Marines, a sailor, and a soldier who gave their lives in service of this mission and affirm that they should be remembered for their valor and humanity, having made the ultimate sacrifice in service to their Nation.

Report on evacuation of United States citizens from Hamid Karzai International Airport

TITLE XIII—OTHER MATTERS RELATING TO FOREIGN NATIONS

The House bill contained several provisions (secs. 1236, 1302, 1303, and 1309A) that would express the sense of Congress on United States' defense posture in Europe, security assistance to the Baltic countries, Georgia, and relating to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Parliamentary Assembly (NATO PA).

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that in addition to reaffirming the commitment of the United States to NATO, would express the sense of Congress on the importance of allies and partners and the need for continued and enhanced cooperation on shared national security interests.

We highlight that the United States has cumulatively allocated over $499.0 million in Department of Defense partner capacity funding for the Baltic countries since fiscal year 2018, including assistance with respect to air defense; maritime situational awareness; ammunition; command, control, communications, computers, intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance; anti-tank capability; special forces; and other defense capabilities. The Department of Defense's comprehensive Baltic Defense Assessment issued in December 2020 reaffirmed the importance of prioritizing assistance to the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania. We note the Secretary of Defense determination within the Baltic Defense Assessment that the authority granted by sections 332 and 333 of title 10, United States Code, affords the most efficient and effective authority to provide such assistance and that attempting to provide the assistance pursuant to alternate authorities would hamper the Department's ability to deliver assistance. The Congress strongly supports the continuation of such assistance.

We note with enthusiasm the signing of the United States-Georgia Memorandum of Understanding in October 2021, and particularly the focus on defense institutional reform within the Georgian Ministry of Defence and Georgia Defence Forces. Such reform efforts are critical to developing Georgia's defense capacity and to ensuring capabilities developed using security assistance are effectively maintained and sustained.

We further note the valuable role played by the NATO PA in reinforcing the cohesion of the alliance by strengthening bonds between the legislatures of NATO ally governments. We urge continued proactive engagement with the NATO PA and its member delegations, further efforts to communicate with and educate the public on the value of NATO and NATO PA, and support for increased inter-democracy and inter-parliamentary cooperation on countering misinformation and disinformation.

We note with concern that the fate of the Sahrawi people of Western Sahara has been unresolved since 1966 when the United Nations first adopted a resolution calling for a referendum on self-determination for the people of Western Sahara. We note that the United Nations has adopted subsequent resolutions reiterating calls for such a referendum. We believe that peace in Western Sahara is in the United States' national interest.

We encourage the Director of the Missile Defense Agency to develop NGI using sound acquisition practices, as outlined in the October, 21, 2020, Government Accountability Office report titled, "Missile Defense: Observations on Ground-Based Midcourse Defense Acquisitions Challenges and Potential Contract Strategy Changes" (GAO-21-135R). These practices include: (1) Emphasizing the use of high technology readiness level components and software across the system to reduce program risk; (2) Conducting critical parts testing of NGI prior to the preliminary design review in order to maximize reliability, producibility, and manufacturability; (3) Commencing rigorous flight testing of the NGI when essential components reach a technology readiness level of seven or higher; and (4) To the maximum extent practicable, promoting industrial base competition via the use of multiple vendors through NGI's critical design review to maximize government return on investment.

The provision would require an annual unclassified report on significant UAP activity, accompanied as appropriate by classified annexes, and bi-annual briefings.

Determination on certain activities with unusually hazardous risks (sec. 1684)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1654) that would express the sense of Congress that the Secretary of the Navy should take maximum practicable advantage of existing statutory authority to provide indemnification for large rocket programs employing “unusually hazardous” propulsion systems for both nuclear and non-nuclear strategic systems, and develop a policy to more consistently apply such authority.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require a report on certain contractor requests related to contracts that may include unusually hazardous risks as well as a review of the Department of Defense’s (DOD) policy and implementation of section 2354 of title 10, United States Code, and chapter 29 of title 50, United States Code, which provide the Government with authorities to indemnify contractors in certain circumstances.

Our intent is to provide a more transparent framework for the Department and its contractors to address such financial risks. We are generally aware of commercial insurance availability for unusually hazardous activities undertaken at the Government’s request by defense contractors, as well as the Government’s application of indemnification laws for such activities that date back to the 1940s.

However, we are concerned that the inconsistent application by the Department of such laws, coupled with an increase in programs that include unusually hazardous risks, could have near-term negative effects on the Department’s ability to field multiple advanced weapons systems. Accordingly, this provision seeks to ensure that the Department gives full consideration to appropriate requests for indemnification of programs with unusually hazardous risks, including obtaining a common understanding with the contractor of available insurance for such programs and how the Government would have the contractor address costs over the limits or sub-limits of such insurance in the event of a catastrophic incident.

In addition, we direct the Comptroller General of the United States to submit a report to the congressional defense committees, not later than February 1, 2023, on policy and recommendations related to the Department’s indemnification of programs that include unusually hazardous risks. This report shall include: (1) Applicable law and policy; (2) Contractor technical and financial risk input; (3) Insurance and coinsurance considerations and factors relating to providing coverage; (4) The costs of such insurance; (5) How the Department has provided indemnification in the past; and (6) Related matters the Comptroller General deems appropriate.

Additionally, the report shall address the following related to the Department of Defense:

(1) How the services and other DOD Components use the two primary indemnification authorities, section 2354 of title 10, United States Code, and chapter 29 of title 50, United States Code;

(2) To what extent the services and other DOD Components have expended funds pursuant to such authorities over the past 15 years;

(3) How unusually hazardous risks associated with work for the Department and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration have been insured previously, as well as similar or predecessor systems;

(4) Whether there are pending requirements, such as hypersonic weapons, that cannot effectively be addressed using the existing indemnification authorities;

(5) Whether who designs or owns the intellectual property does or should matter in deciding whether to approve an indemnification request;

(6) What the different approval processes for such authorities are and whether they are appropriate; and

(7) The extent to which the approval processes for indemnification are consistent and based on appropriate criteria that take into account key factors, including: technical risk, potential hazardous risk, financial risk to the contractor, and available insurance coverage for the specific project including sub-limits, exclusions or other limitations on such coverage.

The report shall also address the following related to defense contractors and insurance providers:

(1) The number of insurance companies that provide coverage for defense contractors working on programs with unusually hazardous risks and how are they similar and different;

(2) How insurance companies determine liability limits for the risks defense contractors are exposed to when developing or producing major weapons systems or performing services like space launch that involve the use of volatile and unusually hazardous materials;

(3) What the factors that insurance companies consider in making such determinations are;

(4) If the Department had been required in the past to indemnify the unusually hazardous risks listed in this section, what the potential cost or liability to the Government would have been;

(5) If the Department did not indemnify such risks, what the potential cost or liability to the contractors would have been;

(6) How the technical and financial risk changes with the size and/or power of a propulsion system or propellant;

(7) How equipment and system safeguards factor into an insurance risk assessment;

(8) How risks that are similarly hazardous as those listed as unusually hazardous in this section are insured in commercial sectors, such as chemical, natural gas, oil, coal, biomedical, nuclear, rockets, and aircraft;

(9) What the range in liability limits among insurance companies that insure defense contractors against unusually hazardous risks is;

(10) What the key factors that result in this range of limits are;

(11) To what extent do or could contractors use multiple insurance companies to cover unusually hazardous risks arising from a single contract;

(12) Whether reinsurance is available for unusually hazardous risks;

(13) If so, what the liability limits of reinsurance are and what the basis of such limits is; and

(14) The circumstances that typically do or do not result in reinsurance being purchased by contractors for unusually hazardous risks.

Study by Public Interest Declassification Board relating to certain tests in the Marshall Islands (sec. 1685)

The review and assessment to be conducted by the commission would include a threat assessment, a detailed review of nuclear weapons policy and strategy of the United States, and recommendations as to the most appropriate strategic posture and most effective nuclear weapons strategy. The Commission's report would be due to the Congress and the executive branch not later than December 31, 2022.

The House bill contained no such provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that adds four members appointed by the leadership of the House and Senate. The amendment reduced the number of members selected by the chairperson and ranking minority member of the congressional defense committees in subsection (b) of the original Senate provision so that the total number of members remains at twelve.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Sense of the Senate on NATO security and nuclear cooperation between the United States and the United Kingdom

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1545) that would express the sense of the Senate that the strategic deterrents of the United States, the United Kingdom, and the French Republic are the supreme guarantee of the security of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), and that nuclear cooperation between the United States and the United Kingdom in particular is in the national security interest of the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We believe that the United States strategic nuclear deterrent, and the independent strategic nuclear deterrents of the United Kingdom and the French Republic, are the supreme guarantee of the security of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and continue to underwrite peace and security for all members of the NATO alliance.

The security of the NATO alliance also relies upon nuclear sharing arrangements that predate, and are fully consistent with, the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons, done at Washington, London, and Moscow on July 1, 1968, and entered into force March 5, 1960 (commonly referred to as the "Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty"). Such arrangements provide for the forward deployment of U.S. nuclear weapons in Europe, along with the supporting capabilities, infrastructure, and dual-capable aircraft dedicated to the delivery of U.S. nuclear weapons, provided by European NATO allies.

In parallel to the independent commitments of the United States and the United Kingdom to the enduring security of NATO, the nuclear programs of the United States and the United Kingdom have enjoyed significant collaborative benefits as a result of the cooperative relationship formalized in the Agreement for Cooperation on the Uses of Atomic Energy for Mutual Defense Purposes, signed at Washington on July 3, 1958, and entered into force August 4, 1958, between the United States and the United Kingdom (commonly referred to as the "Mutual Defense Agreement"). We believe that the unique partnership between the United States and the United Kingdom has enhanced sovereign military and scientific capabilities, strengthened bilateral ties, and resulted in the sharing of costs.

As the international security environment deteriorates and potential adversaries expand and enhance their nuclear forces, the extended deterrence commitments of the United Kingdom play an increasingly important role in supporting the security interests of the United States and allies of the United States and the United Kingdom. Additionally, the extension of the nuclear deterrence commitments of the United Kingdom to members of the NATO alliance strengthens collective security while reducing the burden placed on United States nuclear forces to deter potential adversaries and assure allies of the United States.

We believe it is in the national security interest of the United States to support the United Kingdom with respect to the decision of the Government of the United Kingdom to maintain its nuclear forces to deter countries that are “significantly increasing and diversifying their nuclear arsenals” and “investing in novel nuclear technologies and developing new ‘warfighting’ nuclear systems” that could threaten NATO allies, as outlined in the March 2021 report of the Government of the United Kingdom titled, “Global Britain in a Competitive Age: The Integrated Review of Security, Defence, Development and Foreign Policy.”

As the United States continues to modernize its aging nuclear forces to ensure its ability to continue to field a nuclear deterrent that is safe, secure, and effective, the United Kingdom faces a similar challenge. We believe that bilateral cooperation on such programs as the Trident II D5 weapons system, the common missile compartment for the future Dreadnought and Columbia classes of submarines, and the parallel development of the W93/Mk7 warhead of the United States and the replacement warhead of the United Kingdom, will allow the United States and the United Kingdom to responsibly address challenges within their legacy nuclear forces in a cost-effective manner that meets national requirements and preserves independent, sovereign control; is consistent with each country’s obligations under the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty; and supports nonproliferation objectives.

We believe that continued cooperation between the nuclear programs of the United States and the United Kingdom is essential to ensuring that the NATO alliance continues to be supported by credible nuclear forces capable of preserving peace, preventing coercion, and deterring aggression.

Sense of the Senate on maintaining diversity in the nuclear weapons stockpile

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1546) that would express the Sense of the Senate that is in the national security interest of the United States to maintain no fewer than two distinct types of deployed nuclear weapons per leg of the nuclear triad in order to ensure adequate confidence in the functionality of the U.S. nuclear weapons stockpile.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We believe that in order to ensure adequate confidence in the functionality of the U.S. nuclear weapons stockpile, the National Nuclear Security Administration must maintain sufficient diversity in the designs and types of nuclear weapons it makes available to the Department of Defense.

Additionally, we believe that the Department should leverage that diversity to field a force with an appropriate mix of capabilities and technological distinctiveness to ensure that the U.S. nuclear deterrent remains capable of meeting military requirements, even during the unlikely event of a technical issue that renders one particular type of nuclear weapon temporarily or permanently unsuitable for deployment.

Sense of the Senate on ground-based strategic deterrent

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1547) that would outline a series of findings emphasizing the importance of continuing with the Ground-Based Strategic Deterrent (GBSD) program as a means of maintaining a U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile capability and the advantages such a program offers in contrast to extending the life of the current Minuteman III system. The provision would also express the sense of the Senate that prioritizing execution of the GBSD program before retirement of the Minuteman III intercontinental ballistic missile system is in the national security interest of the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We believe that: (1) Intercontinental ballistic missiles are a critical component of the U.S. nuclear deterrent, providing the ability to hedge between legs of the nuclear triad in the case of a component-wide failure in another leg; (2) The continued development of the GBSD system, and its eventual replacement of the Minuteman III intercontinental ballistic missile, is needed to maintain an effective intercontinental ballistic missile capability into the future; (3) Ensuring the continued effectiveness of the U.S. nuclear deterrent through modernization programs such as the GBSD may also increase opportunities for effective arms control in the future by enhancing the confidence of the United States in the sustainability and effectiveness of each leg of the triad, once replaced with modern equivalents; and (4) It is in the national security interests of the United States that the Department of Defense prioritize an effective and cost-efficient execution of the GBSD program before the retirement of the Minuteman III intercontinental ballistic missile in the mid-2030s.

Norms of behavior for international rules-based order in space

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1605) that would require covered officials to submit a report to the National Space Council with a list of prioritized objectives with respect to establishing norms of behavior in space.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We direct that within 90 days of the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Under Secretary of Defense for Policy, the Commander, U.S. Space Command, and the Chief of Space Operations submit to the National Space Council a list of prioritized objectives with respect to establishing norms of behavior to be addressed through bilateral and multilateral negotiations for verifiable rules-based order in space, including with respect to events that create space debris, rendezvous and proximity operations, and other appropriate matters. Concurrent to the submission to the National Space Council, the Secretary shall also submit the list to the congressional defense committees.

Leveraging commercial on-orbit satellite servicing

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1610B) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Director of National Intelligence and the Administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, to submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report, not later than December 3, 2021, that (1) identifies critical investment areas for the further development and usage of commercial on-orbit servicing, assembly, and manufacturing (OSAM) technologies and capabilities, and (2) includes a plan for interagency engagement in the standardization and adoption of commercial OSAM interfaces for government space systems.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees, not later than March 31, 2022, on critical investment areas for the further development and usage of commercial OSAM technologies and capabilities to support Department of Defense title 10 space architectures.

Report on sensing to assist fighting wildfires

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1610C) that would require a report on the capabilities of the Department of Defense to assist fighting wildfires through the use and analysis of satellite and other aerial survey technology.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 6501).

The agreement does not include these provision.

We direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Director of National Intelligence and any other head of an agency or department the Secretary determines appropriate, to submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report on capabilities to assist fighting wildfires through the use and analysis of satellite and other aerial survey technology, not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act. The report shall include the following:

- (1) An examination of the current and future sensing requirements for the wildfire fighting and analysis community;
- (2) Identification of assets of the Department of Defense and intelligence community that can provide data that is relevant to the requirements under paragraph (1), including an examination of such assets that: (a) are currently available; (b) are in development; and (c) have been formally proposed by a department or agency of the Federal Government, but that have not yet been approved by the Congress;
- (3) With respect to the assets identified under paragraph (2)(a), an examination of how close the data such assets provide comes to meeting the wildfire management and suppression community's needs;
- (4) An identification of the total and breakdown of costs reimbursed to the Department of Defense during the 5-year period preceding the date of the report for reimbursable requests for assistance from lead departments or agencies of the Federal Government responding to natural disasters;

(5) A discussion of issues involved in producing unclassified products using unclassified and classified assets, and policy options for the Congress regarding that translation, including by explicitly addressing classification choices that could ease the application of data from such assets to wildfire detection and tracking;

(6) Identification of options to address gaps between requirements and capabilities to be met by additional solutions, whether from the Department of Defense, the intelligence community, or from the civil or commercial domain;

(7) A retrospective analysis to determine whether the existing data could have been used to defend against past fires; and

(8) Options for the Department of Defense to assist the Department of Agriculture, the Department of the Interior, the Department of Energy, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the National Institute of Standards and Technology, the National Science Foundation, and State and local governments in identifying and responding to wildfires.

For the purposes of this report, the term “intelligence community” has the meaning given to that term in section 3 of the National Security Act of 1947 (50 U.S.C. 3003) and the term “appropriate congressional committees” means the following:

(1) The Committee on Armed Services, the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry, the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, and the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate.

(2) The Committee on Armed Services, the Committee on Agriculture, the Committee on Natural Resources, the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology, and the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence of the House of Representatives.

Report on space debris

The House bill contained provisions (secs. 1610 and 6499A) that would require the National Space Council and Secretary of Defense to each submit to the appropriate congressional committees reports on the effects of space debris in low-earth orbit.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provisions.

The agreement does not include these provisions.

We direct the National Space Council, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, to submit a report, not later than June 30, 2022, to the congressional defense committees, the Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation of the Senate and the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology of the House of Representatives a report on the risks posed by man-made space debris in low-earth orbit, including the remediation of such risks and outlines of plans to reduce the incident of such space debris. The report shall also assess the risks space debris orbiting the Earth imposes on night sky luminance, collision risk, radio interference, astronomical data loss by satellite streaks, and other potential factors relevant to space exploration, research, and national security; and the current and future impact of low-earth orbit satellites on night sky luminance and how such satellites may impact space exploration, research, and national security.

DIVISION B—MILITARY CONSTRUCTION AUTHORIZATIONS

Summary and explanation of funding tables

Division B of this Act authorizes funding for military construction (MILCON) projects of the Department of Defense. It includes funding authorizations for the construction and operation of military family housing, as well as military construction for the National Guard and reserve components, the Defense Agencies, and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Security Investment Program. It also provides authorization for the base closure accounts that fund military construction, environmental cleanup, and other activities required to implement the decisions in base closure rounds. The tables contained in this Act provide the project-level authorizations for the military construction funding authorized in Division B of this Act and summarize that funding by account.

We continue to believe in the value and appropriateness of providing a full authorization but incremental authorization of appropriations for certain military construction projects. We believe incremental funding of large and complex military construction projects enables the Department to execute additional infrastructure projects in a fiscal year, enables continuous congressional oversight, serves to reduce the significant unobligated MILCON balance, and provides opportunities to adjust the authorization of appropriations level for projects should issues arise or requirements change over the course of construction. In instances where the agreement provides full authorization but incremental authorization of appropriations for certain military construction projects, we expect the Department to award these projects in the year of authorization and not defer award until the full appropriation amount is received.

Short title (sec. 2001)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2001) that would cite division B of this Act as the “Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022”.

assess the contracting approaches used to maintain and upgrade military installations within the United States authorized pursuant to section 2802 of title 10, United States Code.

We are aware of concerns that the Department of Defense may be increasingly relying upon large multiple award task order contracts to maintain or upgrade military bases and facilities, which could impair contracting opportunities associated with local small businesses that are equally qualified and capable of performing the work. We are concerned this shift in how the Department contracts for such work could undermine the local economy and the standing of the Department within the communities in which the bases are located. However, we are also concerned with the potential impacts to Indian tribes and other isolated installations and the ability of the Department to support these groups with contractors within 60 miles if required to do so.

We recognize that there is limited data currently available to assess whether this issue is isolated to certain locations or whether the issue is more widespread. We believe that the review by the Comptroller General will help inform if additional legislation is needed in this area.
