Vol. 168

WASHINGTON, MONDAY, DECEMBER 19, 2022

No. 197

House of Representatives

The House was not in session today. Its next meeting will be held on Tuesday, December 20, 2022, at 12 p.m.

Senate

MONDAY, DECEMBER 19, 2022

The Senate met at 3 p.m. and was called to order by the President pro tempore (Mr. LEAHY).

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Almighty and merciful God, who has given us grace in times past and hope for the years to come, in these times that try our souls, strengthen us to continue to grow in grace and knowledge.

Lord, bless the Members of this body and the staffs that serve them. Increase their faith as you increase their years. Give them the moral fitness to live lives of integrity and faithfulness. May they not falter under the burdens they are asked to carry in these uncertain days.

Lord, bless them with clear minds and opened eyes that they will not seek to solve tomorrow's problems with yesterday's solutions.

We pray in Your Holy Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The President pro tempore, led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Morning business is closed.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

EXECUTIVE CALENDAR

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will proceed to executive session to consider the following nomination, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read the nomination of Martin J. Gruenberg, of Maryland, to be a Member of the Board of Directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation for a term of six years. (Reappointment).

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Hawaii.

Ms. HIRONO. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SCHUMER. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Ms. HIRONO). Without objection, it is so ordered.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The majority leader is recognized.

ANTI-SEMITISM

Mr. SCHUMER. Madam President, let me start by wishing Jewish Americans everywhere a happy start to Hanukkah.

I celebrated the first night with my family up in New York, and I hope my colleagues who observe Hanukkah were able to do the same.

The story of Hanukkah is, among many things, a story of perseverance in the face of unspeakable hatred. It is also a lesson that hits home this year for many Jewish Americans targeted recently by anti-Semitism.

After decades of hard work, it is terrifying to see today that anti-Semitism is on the rise in America. We must do everything we can to stomp it down.

No matter what our faiths may be, of course, I urge all Americans of goodwill to take a stand against the forces of bigotry and intolerance.

There are many out there who are trying to use their platforms to make anti-Semitism more acceptable in our country, and we must oppose them at every turn.

I have faith that the forces of intolerance will lose in the end, just as they did in the days of Hanukkah when Judah Maccabee led the Jewish people against an oppressive majority.

But the fight is long, and all of us must do our part. So as we continue observing the Festival of Lights, I say to colleagues and to Jewish Americans across the country: Chag Sameach, happy holiday.

And thank God that, in this country, freedom of religion and tolerance is part of our watch word, unlike it was in the old days of Judah Maccabee.

OMNIBUS

On the omni, appropriators are racing around the clock to finish the last major item on our to-do list for 2022: an omnibus package that will keep the government funded into next fall.

It was another extremely busy weekend for appropriators—the Members and their staffs. I was on the phone all day Friday, Saturday, Sunday. Every 10 minutes, another call with my colleagues, with the committees, and my staff—my great staff—who hardly slept this weekend to help finalize a deal.

Sunday night was the first night of Hanukkah, but, unfortunately, I had to spend 75 percent of that night on the phone with my colleagues and staff. My family, of course, was very understanding, and I appreciate that.

Sleep has been hard to come by for many who are part of the appropriations process. And while the world enjoyed a truly heart-stopping World Cup final, staff were on the clock working diligently to keep our government funded. I thank all of them for their great work.

Much of my focus today, tonight, and tomorrow will remain on getting the omnibus done. Despite having a little more work to do, the omnibus continues heading in the right direction. We must wrap the whole process up and vote on final passage before the end of the week.

It won't be easy, but we are working hard so we can get it done before the end of the week and be with our families for Christmas.

Once the omnibus comes before the Senate, I am confident that both sides will find things in it they can enthusiastically support. We all know the omnibus will be the best way to ensure kids, our veterans, our small businesses, and our military continue to have full access to vital services and programs they depend on.

It is not going to be everything anybody wants, that is for sure, but it is far preferable to a CR, which will leave the country high and dry. And it is certainly preferable to a government shutdown.

The omnibus will also allow the Senate to pass the Electoral Count Act into law, which my colleagues on the Rules Committee, Senators KLOBUCHAR and BLUNT, have done great work on. And finalizing the omnibus is critical—absolutely critical—for supporting our friends in Ukraine and for fully implementing bipartisan bills like CHIPS and Science and the PACT Act and more.

So just as both parties cooperated on bipartisan achievements like CHIPS, gun safety, veterans' benefits, Respect for Marriage, and so much more, let's finish this session by passing an omnibus by working together in good faith.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

The Republican leader is recognized.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Madam President, when the Biden administration put out their budget proposal, the Republicans knew it was literally wrong for the country. The administration wanted to cut funding for our Armed Forces, after inflation, while massively increasing spending on nondefense.

Republicans have taken the President's bizarre position and flipped it on its head. The bipartisan government funding bill that Senators LEAHY and SHELBY have finished negotiating does exactly the opposite of what the Biden administration first proposed. This bill provides a substantial real-dollar increase to the defense baseline and a substantial real-dollar cut to the non-defense, nonveterans baseline.

Let me say that again. President Biden wanted to cut defense spending and grow liberal domestic spending in real dollars, but Congress is rejecting the Biden administration's vision and doing the exact opposite. This bill will grow defense spending and cut non-defense, nonveterans spending after inflation.

Just last week, the Senate passed the National Defense Authorization Act on an overwhelming bipartisan basis. Senators on both sides acknowledged that President Biden and his administration had failed—failed—to request the level of resources that our servicemembers and their commanders actually needed. So on a bipartisan basis, we ignored the administration's request and authorized what our Armed Forces actually need.

But the landmark investments in upgrading and modernizing our Armed Forces that we just laid out in the NDAA will not happen unless Congress follows through and appropriates the money to pay the bills. That is what Senators SHELBY and LEAHY have given us the opportunity to achieve: make good on our commitments in the NDAA by following through with actual funding.

Americans want our Nation to remain the preeminent global superpower. We want our country to remain the mightiest civilization the world has ever seen. We want to keep helping Ukraine, keep outcompeting Russia, and keep pace with the huge investments that China is making in their own military and new technologies.

So it is a strange position, to say the least, when Republicans in Congress have to poke and prod a Democratic Commander in Chief into sufficiently funding the men and women that he actually commands. But as I said all along, funding our Armed Forces is a basic governing duty. Republicans were not going to let our Democratic colleagues demand extra leftwing goodies in exchange for doing their job and funding our troops. The President's own party does not get to take our national defense hostage and demand rewards.

So I am grateful that our Democratic colleagues backed down and accepted our position. The bipartisan bill that our colleagues have negotiated equips our Armed Forces with the resources they need while cutting nondefense, nonveterans spending in real dollars.

This is a strong outcome for Republicans and, much more importantly, it is the outcome that our Nation's security actually needs. So I want to thank our distinguished colleague, Senator SHELBY, for his hard work, and I look forward to reviewing the full text soon.

TRIBUTE TO RICHARD C. SHELBY

Madam President, I saved my tribute to the most senior retiring Republican Member for late in the year. But even with mere days remaining until the end of his term, our colleague's calendar has been quite packed, not with fancy farewell parties but with a final chapter of high-stakes negotiations and tireless legislative work on behalf of his State, our Nation, and, in particular, our Armed Forces. It is no surprise that Senator RICHARD SHELBY's final days in the Senate see him running through the tape and burning the literal midnight oil.

The State of Alabama has sent some prolific and powerful Senators to this Chamber over its history, but RICHARD SHELBY has surpassed them all. He is not just the longest serving Senator from Alabama. He is the most influential. Our friend is one of the most effective legislators the U.S. Senate has ever seen.

Growing up outside Depression-era Birmingham, RICHARD SHELBY was not automatically predestined for the halls of power. But even before our friend had grown into the fullness of his commanding stature, I understand that young RICHARD SHELBY was never afraid to throw his weight around, whether he was fighting for his team on the football field or putting himself between a classmate and a bully on a streetcar.

As a young man, there was hardly any academic or athletic test that RICHARD didn't pass with flying colors. But the way I hear it, the most important test was ensuring that a pretty girl named Annette was delivered back home in time for curfew after their first date.

Annette was intrigued by this handsome young man, but she also loved and respected her own family. So she declared that if RICHARD was late dropping her off, the first date would be the last. Thus, a partnership for the ages was born.

And ever since the SHELBYs' first campaign victory in 1970, the people of Alabama have had a natural campaigner, a trailblazing problem-solver, and an intellectual giant looking out for their interests. And, in addition to Annette Shelby, they have also gotten RICHARD in the package deal.

Dr. Annette Shelby has charted a historic course of her own here in Washington, including becoming the first woman to hold a tenured professorship at Georgetown's Business School.

Meanwhile, across the city, the other half of the SHELBY partnership was developing a reputation for visionary leadership here in Congress. Where RICHARD is concerned, the word “visionary” is neither throwaway praise nor exaggeration. It is simply accurate. People around the Senate like to say that RICHARD SHELBY doesn’t just see down the road; he sees down the road and also around the corner.

Our colleague has not just known how to fight for Alabama and the individual issues and debates that each day has brought. He has also invented creative, new, forward-looking visions and missions that nobody else had dreamed of and then, methodically, set about turning them into reality.

RICHARD has trained his efforts on a small number of core priorities at one time, the places he is most convinced he can make an outsized difference. And once one of those big priorities is identified, he has been like a dog after a bone.

Take the city of Huntsville. As the story goes, a few decades ago it was a sleepy town by the Tennessee border. Today, it is a booming technological hub for cutting-edge industries like space exploration and missile defense.

Or take the Port of Mobile. The way I understand it, the spark was an overseas trip where RICHARD saw firsthand the latest international shipping infrastructure that was rapidly taking shape out in Asia. I think the sentiment was more or less this: If Singapore can do this, why not Mobile?

So today, what used to be a small inlet on the gulf coast is now a booming hub for shipping, a transformation that is sending ripples of prosperity across the entire region.

But even our visionary colleague’s prolific foresight occasionally hit its limits. RICHARD’s good friend, our former colleague Phil Gramm, had the good judgment to switch to the Republican Party way back in 1983. He immediately started working on his good buddy to follow suit. But even after a charm offensive that I am told involved multiple White House lunches with President Reagan, even after Robert Byrd had skeptically accused Senator SHELBY of harboring “definite Republican tendencies,” it still took our friend until after the Republicans’ landslide victories in 1994 to finally cross the threshold and join our team. Well, the rest is history.

The iconic phrase “Chairman SHELBY” could refer to our colleague’s time steering sensitive oversight at the helm of the Intelligence Committee, or his mastery of the most complex matters as head of the Banking Committee, or his time lending a steady hand to institutional priorities as Rules Committee chair, or, more recently, the years our colleague has spent in the No. 1 or No. 2 slots on top of the Appropriations Committee, directing the American people’s money into key national priorities, most especially our constitutional duty to provide for the common defense.

But RICHARD’s Washington expertise never came at the expense of his home-State roots—just the opposite. The national renown that RICHARD SHELBY accrued was just a pathway by which his beloved Alabama came to punch more and more above its weight.

A long line of SHELBY staffers have learned that there is no need for a road map or a GPS when they have got the Senator himself in the car. Our friend knows every single backroad and highway exit. He knows every good “meat and three.” And if there is ever time to stop in for lunch or coffee, just pick a spot, and RICHARD will know a handful of the folks inside.

How exactly has our colleague sustained this level of sharpness and influence over such a historic career?

Well, for one thing, I understand the seasoned chairman is a frequent visitor to the “Health Committee.” That is his moniker for the Senate gym.

Likewise, I have it on good authority that, at one point, our friend held the distinction of having more books checked out in his name from the Library of Congress than any other Member in either Chamber.

Occasionally, having such a voracious reader for a colleague can lead to trouble. Years ago, shortly after the passing of President Reagan, I was wrapping up a meeting with my Banking Committee colleague when I half-wondered whether we could find a way to honor the Gipper with a place on our currency. With no particular malice toward Alexander Hamilton in mind, I loosely suggested: What about, perhaps, the $10 bill?

But, alas, little did I know that I was sitting across from the most recent person in America to finish Ron Chernow’s gigantic, newly released biography of Hamilton. This was the book that would go on to inspire the hit musical and spark a big revival of interest in Hamilton. RICHARD SHELBY had spent weeks eating up every single page, admiring Hamilton’s genius more and more with every chapter.

So let’s just say, a few minutes later I was back at the drawing board.

It is difficult to imagine the Senate without RICHARD SHELBY, but I am not too concerned that the opposite will hold true. As much as RICHARD has loved this institution and excelled in it, we know our colleague can imagine life beyond the Senate just fine. There will be even more time to stay a student of history, even more time for duck hunting with good friends. The visionary brainstorming for Alabama and our Nation won’t stop—oh, no. But our friend will get to balance it out with a whole lot more time with his beloved Annette, their two sons, and their grandkids—more time to enjoy the home State that has been literally transformed by RICHARD’s passion and vision.

RICHARD, thank you very much for an outstanding career.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I came to the floor to speak on another topic, but I want to join in the comments of the Republican leader about RICHARD SHELBY of Alabama.

We became friends under different political circumstances when he served in the House of Representatives. It has been my honor to count him as a friend and to have the occasion to travel with him and Annette, his wife, in the past. I am going to miss my friend.

I wish you well, and I am sure you have got some football to watch in Alabama when you get home.

FOR-PROFIT COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

Madam President, in this Congress, the Democrats have shown up for everyday Americans. We passed historic legislation to build infrastructure. We became a global leader in chip manufacturing. We improved gun safety. We protected our climate. These are wins for Americans, and they make headline news.

Today, I want to talk about an issue that may not get the headlines, but it is just as important to fixing our broken student loan system and ensuring that Americans can go to school and participate fully in our economy and maintain our Nation’s competitive edge. I am talking about holding for-profit colleges accountable. I have been coming to the floor for almost 10 years on this topic. I believe, in my heart of hearts, that what is going on here is unfair to students, their families, and taxpayers.

Why is it essential to bring this issue up frequently? Two numbers, and these two will be on the final. So pay close attention. The numbers are 8 and 30. For-profit colleges enroll only 8 percent of America’s college students—8 percent—but they account for 30 percent of Federal student loan defaults.

How can that be—8 percent of the students and 30 percent of the student loan defaults? The answer is obvious. The schools charge too much. They offer too little. Those who don’t drop out end up with worthless diplomas. In a sentence, that is the problem. It is built on a business model, this for-profit college business. It is not built on an educational model.

First, for-profit colleges deliberately lure in first-generation and low-income students with slick marketing that the community colleges can’t even match.

Second, they pressure students to take on as much debt as possible to pay for the courses, and they charge a lot more than community colleges in offering good, quality educational courses.

Third, once the students are enrolled and are on the hook for huge amounts of debt, these for-profit colleges provide low-quality education and very little support. If a student graduates from a for-profit college and ends up with a degree that is practically worthless, finding a working job that will pay them any kind of money to pay back the loan is next to impossible.

They can barely cover basic living expenses, much less pay back their student debt.

I have been calling for greater scrutiny and accountability of the for-profit college industry for years. Despite the well-documented misconduct and fraud of this nefarious industry, the Department of Education continues to provide billions in Federal funds to them each year.

Under the Trump administration's former Education Secretary, Betsy DeVos, for-profit colleges had just an absolute holiday. We witnessed crucial protections like the gainful employment rule, which put sanctions on the worst performing schools, being rescinded. Early on, Secretary DeVos said she was going to prioritize individual students. Instead, by removing these safeguards and this accountability, she left them even more vulnerable to the unscrupulous for-profit colleges. The DeVos Education Department even refused to provide defrauded borrowers with the loan discharges they deserved under borrower defense.

After Secretary DeVos's indefensible borrower defense policies were struck down in Federal court, she continued to refuse to act even after the court ruled against her, allowing a backlog to build up of—listen to this—230,000 student borrowers who languished under mountains of debt that Secretary DeVos would not relieve them of in any way. The Trump-DeVos Education Department left borrowers hopeless and buried in debt while the taxpayers footed the bills.

As I said, I have called for more accountability over the for-profit college industry for a long time. Luckily, the Biden administration is listening and is reversing the course taken under the Trump administration. I hope it continues to be the case.

Unlike the Trump-DeVos Department of Education, President Biden's Department has processed borrower defense claims as the law requires. This has canceled the student loan debt of nearly 1.1 million borrowers who were defrauded and swindled by predatory for-profit colleges. Legendary names like Corinthian Colleges, ITT Tech, and Westwood turned out to be the worst excuses for higher education in America's history. This has enabled these students to get a chance to start again, to make up for time lost and have a better experience with a for-profit school.

The Biden administration has also issued sweeping student debt relief, which disproportionately helps lower income students, which is the way it should be. Borrowers who attend for-profit colleges borrow an average of $40,700—that is the average for each student—and 71 percent do not graduate on time or at all. That is 71 percent of for-profit school students. For those who do graduate, they often have degrees that are worthless and jobs that are worthless as well.

If the Supreme Court approves President Biden's student loan relief plan, it will help millions of borrowers climb out from a mountain of debt, pay their bills, and even return to a higher education experience that is worthwhile.

To curb future wrongdoings, the Biden administration has also terminated the Federal recognition of a sketchy accrediting agency that long ago failed to meet the mark which, long ago, kept these for-profit schools in business when it shouldn't have.

It has taken the steps, too, to close the infamous 90/10 loophole. That is a loophole that basically says: For-profit colleges do not count GI bill and servicemember benefits as part of their revenues from the Federal Government, resulting in some schools generating more than 90 percent of their revenues from Federal tax dollars.

Listen to what these schools do. They lure kids into the for-profit college experience. They promise them the Sun, the Moon, and the stars. Many of them are of the first generation of their families to ever get near a college. Their parents can't give them much advice because they don't have any lasting experiences to draw from. The students are told: Add up your debt, and don't worry about it. You will pay it all back with the wonderful job that awaits you in your future.

It turns out to be a fraud on them, their families, and the public, and the taxpayers end up holding the bag. This for-profit industry is taking advantage of veterans, too. The GI bill of rights was not designed to be wasted on for-profit schools.

In looking ahead, we need to take steps to ensure that students are protected and that there is real supervision and reform. That is why I recently introduced the Proprietary Education Interagency Oversight Coordination Improvement Act, which has got to be the longest title of any bill I have ever introduced. It creates an interagency task force with the Departments of Education, Justice, Labor, Veterans Affairs, and Defense to improve coordination in dealing with the for-profit college industry.

This is a serious problem. When I think of the thousands of young people I am aware of who have been defrauded by these for-profit schools, I say shame on us and shame on the Department of Education. Let's do right by these young people.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Ms. BALDWIN). The junior Senator from Alaska.

TAIWAN

Mr. SULLIVAN. Madam President, I rise to talk about a very important and, I believe, very bipartisan issue. It is the need for us in the Senate and the entire U.S. Government to focus on the intensifying Chinese Communist Party threat and the People's Liberation Army threat to Taiwan and why it matters.

My remarks will be focusing primarily on the Chinese Communist Party and the leader of that party, Xi

Jinping, not on the Chinese people, who have a proud history, heritage, culture of thousands of years, and, as we have seen over the last several weeks, they are very brave people who simply want more freedom.

In March of 2021, in a Senate Armed Services Committee hearing, I asked the then-INDOPACOM Commander, Admiral Davidson, when he thought there would be an invasion of Taiwan by the PLA and the Chinese Communist Party.

He responded to my question by saying this:

Senator, I think the threat of an invasion of Taiwan is manifest during this decade—in fact, within the next 6 years.

Now, that was 2 years ago almost. His successor, ADM John Aquilino, has confirmed this timeline. The Chairman of the Joint Chiefs, the Director of National Intelligence, the CNO of the Navy, and even the Secretary of State have recently been ringing alarm bells on this timeline as well.

On the heels of the 20th National Congress of the Chinese Communist Party, Xi Jinping has emerged as the ultimate supreme leader, surprising the assessment of even the most seasoned China hands with his audacity. He has packed the Politburo Standing Committee with loyalists, promoted party stalwarts with military intelligence and technology backgrounds, and positioned the Central Military Commission to preside over the conquest of Taiwan.

Take a look at this poster. Those are Chairman Xi and a bunch of his comrades I just talked about. Let's face it. They might look ridiculous in military fatigues—I think they do—but the message of these kinds of propaganda photos is very, very clear, which was just recently sent out by the Chinese Communist Party. It is this: China is preparing for war.

Americans and the rest of the world should take this threat very seriously. I know that our eyes are on Ukraine, which is something we should stay focused on, as defeating authoritarian aggression in Europe is essential to deterring it in Asia, but we can't lose sight of the threat to Taiwan and of what is at stake.

So I want to lay out, today, what will be the consequences of a potential invasion of Taiwan and why I believe vital American interests—security and economic interests—are implicated by that and what we should do—all of us together—to work to deter it. But I would like to begin my remarks by focusing on a different era in a different region of the world.

In 1948, the Soviets cut West Berlin off from food and fuel, and the United States and our allies, led by our powerful military, responded with the Berlin Airlift. Many of you have seen this very famous photo taken during the Berlin Airlift. At the height of this airlift, allied supply flights were landing in West Berlin literally every minute. Think about that. We did that for a year to save this city—to save it from absorption into the tyrannical Soviet orbit and empire. Think about that. With our citizens and our country being very tired and exhausted after World War II, just a couple of years later, somehow, we understood that the stakes mattered in Berlin. Americans look back on the Berlin Airlift as a point of pride for our freedom-loving Nation.

John Kennedy famously visited Berlin in 1963. Before he went, he had seen Berlin as an irritant in the Soviet-U.S. relations. But after declaring himself a Berliner, he came back and recognized that “Berlin is an asset, not a liability, in the wider struggle for Europe” and global freedom.

The United States defended the city and the people of West Berlin during the 20th century because we understood as a country that this city and these citizens of this city stood on the frontline of the struggle between the American-led free world and a powerful, expansionist, authoritarian regime. The same is true of Taiwan today. Taiwan is the 21st century’s West Berlin.

Now, it is not as if American political leaders have disregarded the critical importance of Taiwan. To the contrary, starting with President Eisenhower, there has been a long and bipartisan consensus focused on the security of Taiwan. I have recently been re-reading President Eisenhower’s excellent memoirs, and you will see the importance of Taiwan weaved in and out of the pages of these books. And this, of course, wasn’t just the executive branch. This body in particular, the U.S. Senate, has been the ally of Taiwan during its darkest times. When the United States switched diplomatic recognition from Taipei to Beijing, it was congressional leaders, like Senators Barry Goldwater and Bob Dole, as well as Democrats, like Representative Lester Wolff, who worked on a bipartisan basis to give us the Taiwan Relations Act—one of the most remarkable pieces of foreign policy legislation the U.S. Congress has ever passed, led right here in the U.S. Senate.

The President of the United States, Jimmy Carter, wanted to abandon a longstanding ally, Taiwan, and Congress said no. In the process, America’s legislative body rewrote our relationship with Taiwan, and that is the policy that still exists to this day and drives our relationship with the island democracy.

With this remarkable legislation, Congress laid down the law and policy on Taiwan for generations, including up until today. In 1979, 84 U.S. Senators, including a young Senator named Joe Biden, voted for that important—very important—piece of legislation.

Those stalwart supporters of Taiwan—Republicans and Democrats—understood that the stakes were more than just about the island itself; they encompassed the issues of American leadership in Asia and our commitment, like we demonstrated in Berlin, to prevent a communist power on the march from devouring an outpost of freedom, this time in the Pacific.

Given this history, it is not surprising that the fate of Taiwan has been weaved in and out of the careers of countless Americans, including my own.

Twenty-seven years ago, I was a young marine infantry officer deployed to the Taiwan Strait as part of a marine amphibious ready group and two U.S. carrier strike groups, all in response to the Chinese Communist Party’s aggressive military provocations on the eve of Presidential elections in Taiwan. The Third Taiwan Strait Crisis this period from 1995 to 1996 is now called. This was an important and decisive demonstration of America’s commitment and resolve to an emerging democracy and partner that is still remembered in the region by everybody.

This is a picture of the ship I was on during that time.

Later, I was part of another demonstration of American commitment and resolve when Senators TAMMY DUCKWORTH, CHRIS COONS, and I flew to Taiwan on that aircraft—that is a picture of our flight—where we were able to bring close to a million vaccines to the Taiwanese people. We did this in the face of the Chinese Communist Party’s aggressive attempts to prevent the citizens of Taiwan from receiving this lifesaving medicine from Western countries. And so America responded.

I will never forget my first trip as a U.S. Senator on a codel led by Senator McCain to Taiwan. We were getting on the bus after getting off the airplane, and a State Department official from our de facto Embassy there—the American Institute in Taiwan—greeted the Senate delegation by saying this:

Welcome to Taiwan, a vibrant Democracy of 24 million people, with one of the most innovative economies in the world. A hub of trade and cutting-edge technology, and the only reason this incredible place exists on a map as such is because of the sacrifice and commitment of [the United States of] America—our military, our government, and our [citizens] . . . All Americans should be very proud of this!

That is what he said—very moving, very true. What a powerful greeting.

So American commitment and resolve on Taiwan has been part of our law, our heritage, trade, economics, and military deployments for decades. But I worry that too few Americans know this history and the reason for this commitment. We need to rebuild this understanding to ready ourselves for the test of wills that I believe is approaching.

This starts with all of us doing a better job of explaining to the American people collectively why Taiwan matters. In this regard, one question that I don’t believe has been asked or analyzed enough is a difficult question to contemplate, but it is this: What would the world look like and how would American interests be implicated by a PLA or Chinese Communist Party takeover of Taiwan? So over the last several weeks—actually, several months—I have asked different government agencies, intel agencies, think tanks, and military commands to help me think through this important but little-studied question. Perhaps it is little-studied because it is a difficult and depressing assignment to contemplate.

The Chinese Communist Party and the PLA launched a massive, multipronged, violent military invasion of Taiwan, and U.S. forces either do not get there on time, either decide we are not going to go there at all or actually go to the Taiwan Strait and are defeated by the PLA in their attempt to defend Taiwan. None of this is something that we as Americans want to contemplate; nevertheless, I believe it is our job as leaders to help our fellow Americans understand the ramifications of precisely this scenario today in order to better prevent it from taking place in the future. So let’s look at that world and what it would look like, particularly with regard to American interests.

A successful PLA military invasion and takeover of Taiwan would be a massive blow to the commanding heights of the technology that powers our digital age.

As you can see from this chart, Taiwan dominates the production of the world’s most advanced semiconductors. Secure supplies of advanced computer chips today are as important to our economy and that of our allies as the supply of oil has been for us and our allies for decades previously.

To suddenly be deprived of these advanced computer chips would have a devastating impact on the U.S. and global economies, negatively impacting millions of good-paying jobs. Just look at the impact of the current chip shortage. According to the Commerce Department, in 2021 alone, it cost the U.S. economy $240 billion—one-quarter of a trillion dollars—including 7.7 million fewer cars being produced, because of the low-end chip shortage we have now. This hasn’t just been an inconvenience for those in the market for new cars; this has been devastating in terms of manufacturing jobs in America.

Imagine what would happen if the home to 92 percent of the world’s most advanced semiconductor production, which is what Taiwan is, were taken offline. It would cost us multiple times more than the $240 billion I just mentioned.

All in all, a military conflict over Taiwan, launched by Xi Jinping, could cost the global economy, according to a recent State Department estimate, $2.5 trillion—$2.5 trillion. This sum does not quantify the huge strategic advantage the Chinese Communist Party would gain if it seized the crown jewels of the global economy, which is what they strongly desire, and that is the fabrication of the world’s most advanced computer chips.

This would also present an extraordinary challenge to the United States' ability to defend itself not only abroad but at home.

(Ms. DUCKWORTH assumed the Chair.)

Madam President, as you know, advanced microchips from Taiwan feed directly into our ability to develop and sustain our most sophisticated military weapons—F-35s, radars, missile defenses, just to name a few. This translates into great risk for our national security and, importantly, the men and women in uniform who defend us.

Second, there is Taiwan's geostrategic value—not just economic value—that, of course, would be shattered by a successful PLA invasion of the island.

In his memoirs, President Eisenhower devotes pages and pages to Taiwan. At one point, he says:

If the capture of [Taiwan's] offshore islands should, in fact, lead to the loss of [Taiwan], the future security of Japan, the Philippines, Thailand, Vietnam . . . even Okinawa would be placed in jeopardy and the United States' vital interest would suffer severely.

Last year, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Indo-Pacific Security Affairs Ely Ratner made essentially the same point in his testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Certain critics wrung him up for it. Apparently, calling Taiwan “a critical node within the first island chain” and an “anchor [of] a network of U.S. allies and partners” in Asia, as Assistant Secretary Ratner did, risks offending Beijing's sensibilities.

But, of course, Secretary Ratner and President Eisenhower were correct. Taiwan in the CCP's hands breaks China out of the constraints of this area in the Pacific known as the first island chain, as a CCP takeover of Taiwan has the potential to further push the United States and our forces out into the Pacific to what is called the second island chain, out this far. This includes American territories in Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands, just to name a few.

Madam President, as you know, these aren't just points on a grand strategist's map; residents in Guam and the Mariana Islands are American citizens. They send representatives to Congress. Guam has an enormous U.S. military presence, with tens of thousands of servicemembers and their families. With the first island chain broken, these Americans will come under direct threat from an emboldened China with a massive and growing military.

Here is the other thing: It is highly unlikely that the CCP would stop simply at Taiwan. If history teaches us anything, it is that the appetite of an aggressive authoritarian regime on the march increases with each meal.

For decades, the CCP has focused almost exclusively on building a military, with the objective of conquering Taiwan. Take a look at this forced posture that currently exists across the Taiwan Strait. It is a rather depressing picture. These are the military capabilities in numbers of the Chinese People's Liberation Army, and this is that of Taiwan. If you look at the additional numbers, what each of these means in terms of infantry, naval forces, air forces, it is a massive, massive overmatch right now in this area of the world.

If there is an invasion that is successful, do we really think these forces are just going to stay around Taiwan? No. They are going to shoot out to all other parts of the Pacific and other parts of the world. The Chinese Communist Party and PLA's military will be supercharged for expansion.

President Eisenhower was also deeply concerned about the impact a successful CCP invasion of Taiwan would have on American alliances and our ability to credibly meet our defense treaty obligations to them. This concern continues to today.

We look at our allies in the region—and I want to commend the Prime Minister of Japan, just a few days ago, who stepped up, saw significant challenges—primarily this, the Chinese Communist Party—and is saying: Japan's military is going to grow significantly. That is a hugely important development. It is great news for our national security as we work closely with Japan.

But a Chinese PLA takeover of Taiwan, in my view, would threaten and call into question our treaty military commitments throughout the region: Japan, Korea, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand.

Of course, it is always hard to predict the future, but there is little doubt that a Chinese communist takeover of Taiwan would, in some countries' minds, call into question our alliance commitments. It could cause some countries to build up their own military capabilities, including possibly nuclear deterrence, when they currently don't have them, or to choose a much more accommodating “middle kingdom” posture toward their powerful neighbor.

This, of course, should concern all Americans. The questioning of our Pacific network of alliances that undergird the security of the American homeland by our allies and by balancing and deterring dangers far away from our shores, I believe, makes Americans less safe.

Finally, Madam President, a Chinese communist takeover of Taiwan would give a global boost to the CCP's model of authoritarian governance that Xi has been offering the world.

In the 1930s, during a time of global upheaval, of which there are striking parallels today, many around the world thought that the future of the world lay with fascism. Such a future was alluring to millions. Democracy can be messy. Disagreement—sometimes ferocious disagreement—is the hallmark of representative government. And because of the transparency inherent in democracies, it is there for all the world to see: the good, the bad, and the ugly.

The United States, along with other democracies around the globe, ultimately prevailed against the rise of fascism during World War II. We did so by force of arms but also by appeal to the universal desire for freedom and self-governance that we led. But a military takeover of Taiwan, in the current global climate, could lead many to believe that, as Xi Jinping has put it himself, the CCP's totalitarian vision offers a new choice for humanity, one that relies on techno-authoritarian control rather than self-governance.

We cannot be blind to the implications or the extraordinary new legitimacy that the CCP would gain at home and abroad, and with that would come new forms of CCP aggression throughout Asia and throughout the world.

So, Madam President, the next slide has a summary of a number of these issues of why Taiwan matters. It is actually a slide taken from a slide back in a briefing out at INDOPACOM command, where I serve as a Marine Corps colonel. It is a good summary of what China would gain and what the United States would lose. I won't go through each one of these. I have talked about a lot of them.

But the authoritarian world that the CCP is offering is not what Xi Jinping bills it as. Look at its manifestations today: concentration camps for Uighurs; repression in Hong Kong; prison for peaceful dissidents; no freedom of religion, speech, or assembly; mass censorship and social control; pandemic lockdowns approximating house arrest for millions of citizens guilty of no crime; a cult of personality around a leader who brooks no consent. In a world order built on CCP power and values, freedom and American interests would be unsafe in many parts of the world.

Take a hard look at that. This is why Taiwan matters.

So, Madam President, my purpose today was to paint a picture of what the world would look like in the face of a successful CCP-PLA invasion of Taiwan.

What I want to talk very briefly about next is what we should do about it. I have talked about this slide many times. As a matter of fact, the Presiding Officer and I had a lot of discussions.

But this is where we should be focused. None of us wants a war in the Taiwan Strait; and if one is launched, it is going to be by Xi and the CCP and the PLA. It won't be launched by the United States of America. It won't be launched by Taiwan.

So what do we do? We need to work to deter it. Now, I have often talked about three levels of deterrence that we need in the Taiwan Strait. First is Taiwan's own defense capabilities, like the Ukrainians are showing the world bravely, heroically right now that smaller countries committed to their own self-governance and self-rule can fight and take on giant authoritarian regimes. As the Ukrainians are showing the world today, we need to make sure Taiwan has the capability to do that itself.

As a matter of fact, there are discussions going on right now in the omnibus, and I sure hope the administration weighs in heavily about more assistance for Taiwan to build up its own military and weapons capability.

The second level of deterrence, of course, Madam President, is our ability as a country, with our allies, to come to Taiwan's aid if the President so orders. That has been a constant in the decades-long history. During these different crises when there have been threats by the CCP, the Chinese Communist Party, the PLA, to invade Taiwan, the United States has shown up every time. That is going to be increasingly important. We need the capability to do that.

And, finally, Madam President, a topic you and I have spoken about quite a lot is a third level of deterrence, which actually isn't talked about that much but, in my view and in the view of many of our Intel analysts, could be the most powerful, and that is devastating economic and financial consequences that we should let the Chinese Communist Party know about now that would ensue if they invaded Taiwan: economic, financial, energy.

Madam President, that is why I have been pushing my legislation called the STAND with Taiwan Act. It is legislation that would have very broad-based sanctions that would be triggered against all aspects of the Chinese Communist Party's economy and its leadership, that would be triggered by an invasion of Taiwan by the PLA. This is something I believe we, as the Congress, need to pass. It is something that I have pitched to many of our allies in Europe, in Asia, and it is something that I think could have an enormous, positive deterrent effect in the Taiwan Strait.

So let me conclude with this. With the invasion of Ukraine, it is clear that we have entered a new era of authoritarian aggression led by Xi Jinping and Putin like we saw in the 1930s. For nearly a century, American Presidents have seen Asia and Europe as theaters that, if under hostile control, would put U.S. national security at extreme risk. And generations of Americans have fought and died so that East Asia in Europe would not fall under the dictatorial control of U.S. adversaries.

Both of these theaters are at risk today. The world cannot be neutral in this contest between freedom and authoritarianism, especially in the Indo-Pacific region. American alliances, power, and ingenuity have helped build a world that has provided more freedom and prosperity to more people than ever before.

In fact—think about it, Madam President—the United States democracy, bolstered by our strong military, has done more to liberate humankind from oppression and tyranny—literally, hundreds of millions of people—than any other force in human history.

The Chinese Communist Party has clear plans to reverse all of this. It knows exactly what it wants to accomplish: to make the world safe for its tyrannical government, to profit off the export of its authoritarian model to other countries, to separate America from our democratic allies, and to erode U.S. leadership.

A world governed by Xi Jinping's totalitarian vision would be a world unsafe for America and our friends, and that is why Taiwan is so important and central to the future of the free world. It is a thriving, prosperous Chinese democracy that holds free elections with power bounded by the rule of law. For that reason, it threatens the CCP's central premise that one man ruling in perpetuity by crushing all dissent knows what is best for 1.4 billion people.

The Chinese Communist Party has already crushed Hong Kong, once a bastion of liberty, and the free world barely raised its voice in protest. Should America and the world stand by as China does something similar to Taiwan, a peaceful democracy of 24 million people, that would not simply undermine the security of the Western Pacific, as the Taiwan Relations Act says, but would undermine America's role in the world and the values we as Americans have infused into it? And I believe it would deeply and adversely affect concrete American national security and economic security interests.

So I am committed to working with all of my colleagues—the Presiding Officer has been a leader on many of these issues—working with her and others to make sure that that world never comes to pass. This is why Taiwan matters and we need policies of deterrence—all of them—to prevent its violent takeover by the Chinese Communist Party.

I yield the floor.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, earlier this summer, my Democratic colleagues got through on reconciliation—a strictly partisan way—a bill that provided that the IRS would get $80 billion in mandatory funding, which was meant to double the size of the IRS by 87,000 employees.

This additional $80 billion, which comes on top of its annual appropriation, is over six times more than it received through annual appropriations in 2022. Now, I expect, in the new Congress, starting January 3 next year, there is going to be an attempt to reduce the $80 billion and not go for the 87,000 additional employees. I favor doing just that.

However, in the meantime, the $80 billion and the 87,000 employees is law, and so this unprecedented increase in funding demands that Congress have a comparable increase in congressional oversight of the IRS—exact and unyielding oversight, to be precise. After all, we are talking about 87,000 new employees.

To begin this oversight, Finance Committee Republicans, including this Senator, sent a letter to the Government Accountability Office in October in pursuit of this oversight. In that letter, we asked for information on outstanding issues that the Government Accountability Office has identified at the Internal Revenue Service and the status of recommendations the IRS has failed to implement.

The Government Accountability Office responded to that letter at the end of November, and, as you might quite expect, there are many ongoing and persistent issues. In the November letter, the Government Accountability Office notes that the IRS had 41 unimplemented recommendations related to information systems control deficiencies at the beginning of the fiscal year 2022 audit of IRS's financial statements.

These outstanding recommendations related to information systems control deficiencies are especially concerning given the recent unauthorized disclosure of taxpayer information, contrary to U.S. code section 6103, which guarantees the privacy—or is supposed to guarantee the privacy—of your IRS information.

As you will recall, almost a year and a half ago, ProPublica, a publication, published stories based on “a vast trove of Internal Revenue Service data.”

We are no closer to understanding how ProPublica obtained this confidential taxpayer data now than we were in June of 2021. I have sent multiple letters to the Internal Revenue Service and to the Justice Department requesting updates on their supposed investigations on this matter of how did ProPublica get this private information of individual taxpayers. Yet these Agencies—the IRS and the Justice Department—have failed to provide any information concerning how confidential taxpayer information was disclosed or if additional taxpayer data remains at risk.

In fact, just last week, we learned of another confirmed data breach. The IRS inadvertently redisclosed information from tax returns filed by tax-exempt organizations. This is after the information was already improperly disclosed in September. The IRS clearly has a problem, then, protecting taxpayer information, as the law requires.

Now, the 41 information system deficiencies are only a fraction of the total open recommendations identified by the Government Accountability Office. GAO has said that “as of November 2022, IRS had 176 open recommendations. Fully implementing these recommendations could significantly improve the IRS's operations.”

Despite IRS's shortcomings, my Democratic colleagues handed the IRS $80 billion in additional funding without seeing its plan for the funds or including the additional oversight. So that is why we are calling on additional oversight. It is very important to protect this $80 billion.

Moreover, my Democratic colleagues have heavily weighted the additional funding toward enforcement rather than updating its systems or taxpayer services, because you can hardly call the IRS and get a live person. If you do, you probably don't get the right answers to your questions. So taxpayer service ought to be the No. 1 goal of this additional $80 billion instead of enforcement.

Specifically, more than half of the additional IRS funding is dedicated to enforcement, while less than 5 percent is for taxpayer services. So you can see that taxpayer services isn't high on the agenda of the IRS. The lopsided nature of the IRS funding raises legitimate concerns of overly aggressive tax enforcement.

This is especially true given that 3.2 million tax filers are still waiting for the IRS to process their 2022 tax returns. Countless others are trying to voluntarily comply with the law but can't get anyone at the IRS to answer the telephone. As a result, my office has been flooded with calls from frustrated Iowans requesting assistance in getting the services they need from the IRS.

This is a recipe for disaster. While serving on the 1998 IRS Restructuring Commission, I heard firsthand from small businesses and from individuals about the abusive tactics the IRS can use when enforcement takes priority over taxpayer services.

Given these and other concerns, Senator THUNE and I introduced the IRS Funding Accountability Act. Our bill would place a moratorium on IRS spending its additional funding, other than for taxpayer services, until the IRS submits its spending plan to Congress for approval.

Congress would then have the option to reject the plan.

If Congress approves the spending plan, the IRS and the Treasury would be subject to regular reporting requirements and incur financial penalties for noncompliance—in other words, enhancing Congress's constitutional responsibility of oversight to see that the money spent is intended by Congress.

As the former chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, I understand the necessity for enforcement. Taxpayers should pay what they owe and not a penny less or a penny more. During my time on the Finance Committee, I have worked to provide the IRS with additional tools to identify tax cheats and to collect tax debts that are already due and owed. For instance, I helped create the bipartisan IRS Private Debt Collection Program, which uses private contractors to track down and collect taxes owed to the IRS that they have shelved as a very low priority.

This program has collected nearly $3 billion in net revenue since fiscal year 2019, including over 1.3 billion in the fiscal year of 2022 alone. Every year this program has operated, it has brought more revenue into the Treasury.

Additionally, I offered improvements to the IRS whistleblower program in 2006. This program incentivizes whistleblowers to expose tax fraud by corporations and high-net worth individuals. Since 2007, this program has collected over $6 billion from noncompliant taxpayers.

Both of these proven programs initially received resistance from the IRS. However, I appreciated former Commissioner Rettig's public support for both of these programs.

If President Biden is really committed to closing the tax gap and going after wealthy tax cheats, he should encourage his nominee for IRS Commissioner, Daniel Werfel, to embrace both of these programs.

The IRS has significant and persistent issues that need to be addressed. Congress must exercise robust and aggressive oversight. This is especially true given the outrageous infusion of $80 billion that is mostly geared toward enforcement against the taxpayer.

The IRS must do a better job protecting taxpayer data, provide better taxpayer service, and use its existing enforcement tools and regular appropriations funding more efficiently. Simply put, that is what the taxpayers deserve.

BIODIESEL

Madam President, on another subject matter, biodiesel producers are a vital part of Iowa's rural economy. In 2021, Iowa produced 340 million gallons of biodiesel, which helps Iowa farmers add value to each bushel of soybeans by producing a much needed transportation fuel in addition to high-protein animal feed.

Not only is biodiesel good for Iowa's economy, it is also significantly better for the environment. According to our Department of Energy, greenhouse gas emissions from biodiesel are as much as 74 percent lower as compared to traditional petroleum diesel.

Recently, we have seen rapid growth in the renewable diesel production, which also uses soybeans as a feedstock. Currently, the United States has the capacity to produce about 900 million gallons of renewable diesel. However, if all of the planned investments come to be, within 2 years, the United States will have the capacity to produce 5 billion gallons.

Despite rapid growth in the biodiesel industry, the Environmental Protection Agency has proposed a mere 60 million gallon increase in RFS volumes for 2023. The proposed RFS volume is particularly disappointing given that the Energy Information Administration predicts a 500 million gallon increase.

So it is very clear. It sounds like the EPA has failed to consult with the executive branch's own Energy Department. This bad policy can be corrected because this is just a proposed rule. The EPA has the ability to correct its mistakes in the final rule.

If the EPA fails to account for expected growth in this industry, then the EPA will have failed soybean farmers in the United States—in my State of Iowa as well. This also comes at a time when soybean farmers are making great strides in conservation practices that further reduce carbon emissions and improve soil health.

As the Treasury Department begins to look at the sustainable aviation fuel tax credit in the so-called Inflation Reduction Act that passed last August, they need to acknowledge these advances. I did not support the Inflation Reduction Act because it is chock-full of reckless spending and job-killing taxes.

However, that act tasks and requires the Treasury Department with determining how to measure carbon emissions for a variety of renewable fuels. What Treasury decides could make or break the renewable fuels industry. Treasury must use the best available science for determining carbon emissions.

So I want the Treasury Department to take note: This science is found at the Department of Energy's Argonne National Laboratory. The National Lab has developed a state-of-the-art model for estimating greenhouse emissions by fuel source.

Oddly, for determining the carbon emissions of sustainable aviation fuel, the Inflation Reduction Act directs Treasury to use the International Civil Aviation Organization model or a similar model.

If I was involved in writing the bill, I would have made sure that the Treasury Department could not outsource these important modeling decisions to an international organization when we have got a U.S. laboratory that can tell you how you do it in the most environmentally positive way.

The international model doesn't reflect advances in conservation practices used by American farmers. American farmers are at the cutting edge of conservation practices, and that should be reflected in any model that Treasury adopts.

Farmers across the country stand ready to provide low-cost and low-carbon fuel to consumers on land, air, and sea. However, if the international model is adopted, a sustainable aviation fuel made from homegrown corn and soybeans will be very much short-changed.

As the Treasury Department begins to write these regulations, as a result of the Inflation Reduction Act, it must listen to farmers and our own scientists, particularly the scientists at our own Department of Energy. We should not be awarding tax benefits based on an international model that is very much outdated and very much out of touch and that has shortchanged American innovation as proven by our laboratory in the Department of Energy.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

TURKEY

Mr. MENENDEZ. Madam President, a few days ago, in front of a townhall in northern Turkey, President Erdogan threatened a missile strike on Athens.

Greece is afraid of our missile. They say that the Typhoon Missile will hit Athens.

Then he addressed the Greek people directly and said:

It will, unless you stay calm.

This is a NATO member directly threatening to target Athens, a city of 3 million civilians. According to the United Nations, an intentional attack on civilians—an intentional attack on civilians—is a war crime.

I come to the floor today to condemn the recent actions of the Turkish President, which are not only disturbing, they are totally unacceptable. For years, Erdogan has pursued repressive, anti-democratic policies at home and abroad, from criminalizing insults of Turkey and freedom of expression, to the suppression of dissent and political opposition figures. Erdogan has jailed and silenced so many pro-democracy and human rights activists that at one point, there were more lawyers and journalists in Turkish jails than anywhere else in the world.

His government continues to try to hide the truth about the Armenian genocide, prosecuting writers and historians. In 2008, one of the journalists who wrote about the genocide was assassinated on the streets of Istanbul.

As violent as Erdogan's tenure has been at home, his foreign policy has been absolutely awful. On the eve of Baku's war in Nagorno-Karabakh, Turkey sold Azerbaijan $77 million of military equipment that was used to attack innocent Armenians.

It is no surprise that Erdogan met in Tehran this summer with the Russian and Iranian Presidents, some of the world's most brutal dictators. Just look at the leaders he collaborates with. It is because he shares their world view, and you can see this clearly in the way he approaches the region.

Five decades after Turkey's illegal occupation of Cyprus, Erdogan is still stoking divisions on the island. Last year, he proposed reopening the Cypriot town of Varosha in an attempt to spread Turkish influence. That is a violation of U.N. Security Council resolutions that was condemned by the European Union. This September, Erdogan threatened to reinforce the already 40,000 Turkish troops in Cyprus with more land, naval, and aerial weapons, ammunition, and vehicles. Clearly, Erdogan looks at Putin's illegal annexation of parts of Ukraine and is taking note. That is what makes President Erdogan's recent comments about launching missile attacks on Greece so disconcerting.

We have seen Erdogan challenge Greek sovereignty repeatedly. This summer, he sent fighter jets over the Greek islands in the Aegean Sea. His threats to strike Athens fit a pattern of Turkish claims to what is Greek territory. He has said Turkish forces may land in Greece "suddenly one night."

He seems to be increasing his illegal autocratic behavior in the runup to the elections in Turkey next year. In November, he launched an air, artillery, and drone assault on Kurdish cities in northern Syria and suggested ground forces would soon follow. "Payback time," Turkey's Ministry of National Defense tweeted, announcing the operation against the Kurds who have long been a target of Erdogan's wrath, attacking the very forces that are essential U.S. partners in combating ISIS, and in doing so, putting at risk U.S. troops in Syria.

He has been out for revenge at home too. Just last week, one of Erdogan's political rivals, the popular mayor of Istanbul, was sentenced to prison for 2½ years. The charge? Insulting members of the Supreme Electoral Council. The charge was insulting members of the Supreme Electoral Council. That would be the equivalent of an American being put in jail for 2½ years for insulting some State electoral commission or the Federal Election Commission or any entity as such. And in case the prison sentence didn't send a clear enough message, the court also imposed a political ban on the mayor.

Erdogan might be using this aggression and oppression as a diversion, no doubt, from the dire failure of his own economy, he might be doing it out of spite, or he might be doing it because he is a thug. But one thing is clear: The United States must take the Turkish President's actions seriously. Those who just simply say: Oh, well, he is a lot of bluster—they do so at risk. They said Putin was bluster, and we have a war in the European continent.

We need to hold Erdogan accountable for his behavior when he violates international laws or challenges democratic norms or allows his forces to commit human rights abuses. That is why I am calling for free and fair elections in Turkey. I am asking the international community of democracies to condemn Erdogan's jailing of his political opponent. I want our allies to use their leverage to try to prevent further incursions into northeastern Syria. And I am demanding that Erdogan end all overflights of Greece and pull every last Turkish soldier out of Cyprus.

I think, given all of his recent behavior, the United States should not be putting F-16 fighter jets in President Erdogan's hands. That is why, as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, I will not approve any F-16s for Turkey until he halts his campaign of aggression across the entire region. I am sure this won't make me many friends in Ankara, and President

Erdogan has criticized me personally, calling me an enemy of the state. But if standing up to human rights abuses makes me an enemy of Erdogan's; if calling out Turkey, under Erdogan, for arming Azerbaijan and enabling the massacre of innocent Armenian civilians makes me an enemy of Erdogan's; if demanding Turkey recognizes Greek and Cypriot sovereignty makes me an enemy of Erdogan's, that is a badge I will wear with honor.

So to my colleagues here in the Senate, I will close by saying do not be afraid to stand up for American values in the face of Erdogan's aggression.

To the international community, do not hesitate to hold Turkey accountable for violating international law.

To the citizens living in the shadow of Erdogan's Typhoon missiles, do not forget the United States stands shoulder to shoulder with you.

To those people in Turkey who still hope for a free, democratic future, do not give up. One day soon, with your bravery, peace and prosperity will return to your homeland.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Tennessee.

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the confirmation vote on the Gruenberg nomination occur following the completion of my remarks and those of Senator BROWN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TENNESSEE

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Madam President, I have always believed that serving the people of Tennessee requires that I meet them right there in their communities, and I bring their ideas to Washington to put those perspectives to work. What we do on Capitol Hill gets a lot of attention, but back home is where the real work of making this country work really gets done.

So this year, I have completed another of my tours of all 95 counties; that is every county in our State. At every stop, I met with local officials, business owners, civic leaders, and citizens who really keep these communities afloat. That is a task that my Democratic colleagues have made almost impossible with their massive spending bills and their attacks on small businesses.

In so many ways, their situation mirrors that of thousands of families struggling under recordbreaking inflation and broken supply chains. During teletownhall calls with Tennesseans in each of our 95 counties, this was a constant refrain: They are finding more month at the end of their paycheck than paycheck at the end of their month. From the moment their feet hit the floor in the morning until they put their heads on the pillow at night, Tennesseans are counting their pennies and wondering when the Democrats are going to put their radical agenda aside and go back to putting the American people first.

In spite of the mess the Democrats have made with the national economy, Tennessee communities are growing because their local leaders follow the same rules with their county coffers as they do with their small business or household budgets: They spend within their means, they only buy what they need, and they keep their paperwork in order.

Washington would do well to follow their example and embrace two key pieces of legislation I introduced this year. In response to the 40-year high inflation the Democrats caused with their spending spree, I filed a resolution to raise the Senate voting threshold to two-thirds of all Senators for all spending bills if inflation is higher than 4 percent. I also introduced the IRS User Fee Reduction Act. This bill would lower IRS user fees by 95 percent for those with a gross income of less than $5 million and allow these small businesses to use the services the IRS offers without getting hit with a massive bill.

Times are hard enough for taxpayers without having to worry that their government is working against them. We saw plenty of evidence this year showing that the bureaucracy is actively preventing growth and development.

The commencement of the massive Blue Oval City project in Haywood County, TN, was clogged in permitting redtape and agency misalignment. It took a remarkable effort to straighten that out, but we got the job done, and now they are on their way to creating thousands of jobs.

Before this fall, the McKellar-Sipes airport in Jackson, TN, had been without TSA service for 13 years; but by working with the folks in Jackson and with the TSA, I was able to get that service set up for outgoing passengers. Now this area of west Tennessee has reliable commercial air transportation.

But, remember, getting rid of redtape, getting it out of the way, this is something our local governments had to fight for, and it shouldn't be that way.

Meanwhile, Tennessee farmers are in the fight of their lives over a combination of unsustainable fuel and fertilizer prices, and regulatory burdens so heavy they are destroying the concept of the family farm.

They are the reason I called on the Biden administration to pursue energy independence, and they are the reason I will keep fighting to implement an "Operation Warp Speed" for American-produced energy.

The government's job is not to micromanage. Our job is to give these businesses the tools they need to create the environment that they need for jobs growth to take place.

That is what we did when we passed the DRIVE Safe Act to make it easier for the trucking industry to hire and train the workers they need to ease the strains on our supply chains.

It is what Senator MENENDEZ and I did when we introduced our Supply Chain Database Act, which became law this year. Soon, manufacturers will have access to the information they need to meet demand.

This will make a huge difference in Hamblen County, TN. Morristown is home to more than 109 manufacturing companies. About 25 percent of the jobs available in Morristown are associated with these manufacturers, which is about double the national average.

This focus on using innovation to help local economies flourish is making a difference elsewhere in Tennessee. The Oak Ridge National Lab is home to Frontier, which is the world's fastest supercomputer and the first ever exascale computer. It is also a magnet for talent. People and businesses are moving to East Tennessee to take advantage of the jobs and the other opportunities that our investment in Oak Ridge has created.

Elsewhere in Oak Ridge, high school students are already benefiting from investment in research and education opportunities in advanced manufacturing. And the Smart Factory Institute in Cleveland, TN, is running a state-of-the-art vocational training facility that is revolutionizing workforce development and training. None of this would be happening if Washington had ignored the requests of local leaders.

This year, I brought the same local focus to my work with the healthcare industry. Rural hospitals are struggling in every State; and in Tennessee, this is leaving thousands of people without access to basic healthcare.

The telehealth expansion policies that became mainstream during the pandemic saved lives and brought healthcare to people who had never had easy access to a doctor. This year, I fought to make those expansions permanent, and I also persuaded CMS to keep the low-wage index hospital policy on the books. For at least another year, this will protect rural hospitals from losing out on the reimbursements they need to keep the doors open. And if rural patients need to fill a prescription after a doctor's visit, they will be able to do so.

I secured a new rule that would prohibit PBMs from clawing back fees from community pharmacists. This will bring some much needed stability to those businesses and allow them to keep serving rural customers.

And this kind of targeted support is paying off. In March, we broke ground on the stand-alone Fentress County emergency department. It took more than a few phone calls with CMS to sort out the waivers, but we got it done, and now we are doing the same work in Clay County.

Tennessee is home, also, to the finest military community in the country. And this year, they had to wait until the 11th hour to see if the Senate would come through with a defense authorization bill.

It had been dangling over their heads since July, and they are truly relieved to see that it finally passed. And I want to thank my colleagues on the Armed Services Committee for supporting the amendments I submitted on behalf of Tennessee servicemembers and their families.

They are the most important element of our national defense, which is why I championed the repeal of the COVID vaccine mandate. I believe that no one brave enough to don that uniform should have to choose between taking a shot and losing their job.

Tennessee's military community was ecstatic to hear that the U.S. Senate agrees with me on that statement. We have a duty to take care of our men and women in uniform during and after their service. That is why I fought to include support for workforce development and STEM training in the NDAA and why I will keep fighting for expanded access to community care so once those servicemembers return to civilian life, they will be able to see a doctor close to home when they need to see them.

As much as Tennesseans focus on national security, they are equally concerned with safety in their own communities. Since mid-2019, America's largest cities have seen a significant rise in violent crime.

In Tennessee, law enforcement officials are struggling due to a lack of funding and manpower. The Restoring Law and Order Act, which I introduced earlier this year with Senator HAGERTY, will provide much needed resources to law enforcement so that they can get drugs off the streets and put criminals behind bars and keep them there.

I truly hope that my Democratic colleagues will agree that this sounds much more effective than defunding these police departments. We need to get this bill passed and to the President's desk.

And just this month, President Biden signed my Speak Out Act into law. This bans the use of predispute nondisclosure agreements in situations involving sexual misconduct. I want to thank Senator GILLIBRAND for working so hard on this legislation with me.

And I also want to thank Senator BLUMENTHAL for working with me to get Reese's Law across the finish line. Now, this will require new safety standards for toys and other products to prevent children from swallowing button batteries.

Safety was a key theme of the work we did together on the Committee for Consumer Protection this year. As we explored ways that we could rein in Big Tech, we looked to regain control over your "virtual you," your presence online, and also to introduce competition into the tech sector.

This past February, Senator BLUMENTHAL and I introduced the Kids Online Safety Act after a series of hearings that exposed Big Tech's disregard for the safety of its underage users.

We also worked closely together on the Open App Market Act, which will stop tech giants from stifling competition in the App Store marketplace.

Both of these bills have earned extensive bipartisan support, and I see no reason why we won't be able to get them across the finish line very soon.

I want to conclude by thanking the thousands of local officials and leaders and the Tennesseans who dedicate so much of their time and their energy to making Tennessee a wonderful place to call home.

I am grateful for their hard work and their willingness to work with me for a better Tennessee.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio.

NOMINATION OF MARTIN J. GRUENBERG

Mr. BROWN. Madam President, I rise to urge my colleagues to join me in supporting the nomination of Martin Gruenberg to be a member and chairperson of the board of directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation—what most of America knows as FDIC. Mr. Gruenberg is an extraordinary and qualified nominee who came out of the Banking and Housing Committee with bipartisan support. He has been confirmed by the U.S. Senate, unanimously, five times.

Senator TOOMEY, the ranking member of the Banking Committee, someone whom I have not always agreed with on nominations, voted in favor of Mr. Gruenberg's nomination as part of a bipartisan package to fill the FDIC Board.

I thank my departing friend from Pennsylvania for his support and his cooperation.

Mr. Gruenberg's credentials speak for themselves: a career public servant, the longest-serving member of the FDIC board. As I said, the Senate has confirmed him unanimously five times. He has been nominated and confirmed over and over again.

He first joined the FDIC in 2005 after spending 25 years on Capitol Hill and working as a senior counsel on the Senate Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs Committee for Senator Sarbanes.

As the Presiding Officer knows, this committee has just been known as the Banking Committee for some time, and the Banking Committee was, essentially, Wall Street's committee. When I took over as chair, we emphasized this committee is Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs. Its priorities are housing; its priorities are public transit; its priorities are making the banking system safer, not just to do the bidding of Wall Street.

Since joining the FDIC, Mr. Gruenberg served as chair, as vice chair, acting chair, and member of the FDIC. Take a minute and think about that in his qualifications: chair, vice chair, acting chair, and member.

I have served on the Banking and Housing Committee since 2007. I don't remember any FDIC nominee, or I am not sure I remember any nominee for anything that has had that kind of experience, that level of expertise.

Since becoming acting chair in February 2022, Mr. Gruenberg has wasted no time getting to work for the American people. He has focused on strengthening the Community Reinvestment Act to expand access to credit and investments in low- and moderate-income communities.

He is reviewing the FDIC's bank merger process to ensure it assesses the impact bank mergers have on competition and on access to financial services in communities across the country.

We all know that as banks have gotten larger and larger, gargantuan in many ways compared to what their sizes were during the disaster of 15 years ago—and we know that that can be a problem for our economy. So he is going to look at that much more closely than others.

Under his leadership, the FDIC evaluates the risk posed by cryptocurrencies and digital assets to consumers and to the overall safety and soundness of the banking system.

As I said during his nomination hearing, Mr. Gruenberg has seen our financial system at its highest and its lowest points. During the financial crisis when Wall Street and big corporations crashed our economy, Mr. Gruenberg worked on a bipartisan basis with then-FDIC Chair Sheila Bair to pick up the pieces.

He helped to restore—alongside her, helped to restore—a Republican, I would add—trust and confidence that our money in banks is safe.

He helped implement reforms passed by Congress to strengthen capital requirements and protect depositors from future financial crisis.

He brings this experience and dedication with him as our country emerges from the pandemic. I can think of no better person to serve as chair of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation than Marty Gruenberg.

Before I conclude, I want to note that, in addition to Mr. Gruenberg, the Senate is considering the nomination of two other seats to the FDIC Board. Once we have Mr. Gruenberg and the other two FDIC nominees, Travis Hill and Jonathan McKernan, confirmed—both Republicans—the agency will have in place for the first time since 2015 a full board of directors. So almost a decade it has been, three-fourths of a decade since this FDIC has had a full board of directors.

I credit President Biden for making this a priority. I credit Laura and Mohammad and others on my staff for making this a priority, and I credit the Senate Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs for doing this: first time since 2015, a full board of directors.

I urge my colleagues to support Mark Gruenberg's nomination to the FDIC Board.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Colorado.

AFFORDABLE AND SECURE FOOD ACT

Mr. BENNET. Mr. President, this weekend, families all across America will sit down in their dining rooms for a holiday meal, and they are going to have to pay more for that meal than they ever have before. They are going to have to pay more for bread and more for butter, potatoes, eggs, vegetables. Literally, almost everything that is going to be on America's tables this holiday season is going to be more expensive than it has ever been.

Although there are several reasons for that phenomenon, somewhere at the very top is the profound labor shortage that exists in American agriculture. Today, America's farmers and ranchers are short more than 100,000 workers all across this country to plant seeds, to pick berries, to raise cattle, and to do the hard, essential work of feeding this country.

It is why growers all across America are banging down the doors of this Capitol, pleading with us to fix the broken H-2A system for farmers.

It is obvious to everybody who has had anything to do with this system that it is completely broken. There is no argument that can be made that it is not. To start, the H-2A program is not even open to year-round jobs. That is just the beginning of the trouble. That is every dairy in America who has to milk their cows two or three times a day, including the holidays. It is every mushroom grower, livestock producer, horse breeder that needs those year-round visas.

The H-2A program is also hopelessly and embarrassingly outdated. To qualify for a visa, this ancient program requires farmers to put a physical advertisement in a local newspaper, if there is a local newspaper, if they can find one. They can't advertise online. That is prohibited in the year 2022.

And you have to reapply for the H-2A visa every single year, which is an incredible burden on farmers and on farm workers. It is the last thing they need.

And, finally, the existing program does nothing to protect farmers from dramatic spikes in labor costs from year to year. They can't plan for the future. They have no idea what kind of uncertainty they are going to have to deal with when it comes to wages.

I am thinking of farmers like Bruce Talbott, who grows peaches in Palisade, CO. The labor shortage hurts Bruce in two ways: One, he doesn't have enough people to pick everything he grows, so he is forced to leave money on the table every single year; and, second, this labor shortage is driving up labor costs, which are now 80 percent of the total costs of his operation. And we are seeing this all over the country.

You see it right here: H-2A wages up almost 50 percent in the last 10 years. By the way, this is all wages down here. And this is what has happened to wages in farming and ranching in this country. It has grown so much faster than the rest of the workforce, and it is pushing family farms and ranches to the edge of a cliff, and, sadly, a lot of them are going over that cliff or considering moving their operations from the United States to Mexico.

Since 2007, America has lost 190,000 farms, almost all of them small family farms. That is nearly 10 percent of the farms in this country, and some industries, like dairy, have been hit even harder. Between 2003 and 2020, the number of dairy farms in America fell by over half, by 55 percent.

That is not just bad for dairy farms. It is bad for the communities that they are in and that they support, and it is bad for this country. If we don't deal with this, this country is on track, believe it or not, to become dependent on foreign food imports.

You can see it here. This is the export line, and here is the projected import line. We are right at the point where we could be a net importer of food for the first time in my lifetime, maybe the first time in forever. I don't know.

I don't want us to rely on other nations to feed America. We have the most productive agriculture sector in the world. And yet, because of this labor problem, we are going to accept the idea that we should be a net importer of food from other countries? That is terrible for our economic security, for our food security, and, I would argue, for our national security as well.

Just on the economic point, Colorado's agriculture generates over $40 billion a year for our State's economy. Nationwide, there are nearly 20 million jobs in food and agriculture-related industries. That is 1 in every 10 jobs in this country. And over $1 trillion of our GDP is agriculture.

And I think people—especially people who don't work in agriculture, don't think about agriculture, don't live in maybe a rural area—they tend to forget that literally every single sector of our economy depends on agriculture. You can't have an economy without food. There has never been one.

So when we talk about the crisis in American agriculture that I am here on this floor to address today, we have to understand that the stakes could not be higher. At the same time we have that issue, there are hundreds of thousands of undocumented farm workers living in the shadows in this country. These men and women are breaking their backs every single day to feed America—women like Lulu Guerrero, who lives in Weld County, CO.

She gets up at 3 o'clock in the morning every single morning to plant crops like watermelons and tomatoes and pumpkins. She has been doing that for 20 years. I have met people in my State who have been doing it for 30 years, who have been doing it for 40 years—with no status, with no protections, with no legal recourse if somebody tries to take advantage of them—many of them with U.S. citizens who are their children, people who can't go back and forth to see their relatives south of the border when somebody dies.

This has been going on for decades, and we have ignored this problem in part because the food keeps showing up somehow, miraculously, in our grocery stores, as if somebody waved a wand to put it there.

These workers have broken their backs to support their families, to support the United States of America, to make sure that we are fed. The least we can do for our own country is to bring them out of the shadows of the law.

The status quo is terrible for workers, it is terrible for businesses and farms, and it is terrible for American families who have seen their grocery bills go through the roof.

Look at this. I am not saying all of that is the labor shortage, but a huge amount of that is the labor shortage. In the last year alone, grocery prices have shot up about 12 percent—faster than at any time in 40 years, as you can see from this slide.

And it is everything. I won't read all of these, but it is everything. The price of apples is up 7 percent. The price of milk is up 15 percent. And I guarantee you that is as a result of people unable to find people to do that work. And eggs are up almost 50 percent.

These aren't nice to have. None of these are nice to have for the American people. These are essential to a well-balanced meal to a family being able to feed itself in America. That is why Congress has to finally fix this H-2A program, and we have the opportunity to do it.

There is good news. We have a plan to fix it, the Affordable and Secure Food Act. Our proposal builds on legislation. This is an important point. You know, sometimes people over here blame the House of Representatives for not getting done what needs to get done for this country. In this case, they have passed this bill twice—or a version of this bill twice—in a bipartisan fashion. There were Republican Members of Congress over here last week imploring Republican Members of the Senate to please pass this bill, which from the grower's perspective, by the way, is an improvement over the bill that passed in the House.

The Farm Workers Union and many of the growers in this country have come together to support this legislation, and there is a good reason why it had bipartisan support in the House. And now, from the perspective of the other side of the aisle, in many ways, it is actually a better bill. Our bill opens the H-2A program to year-round jobs for the first time ever, and that is going to mean dairy farmers and mushroom growers can finally access the labor that they need, that they can't access today.

It creates wage certainty for farmers, saving them $23 billion over the next 12 years. I want to say that again: $23 billion over the next 12 years, because now people are going to know what the wage increases are going to look like. They are going to be predictable. They have been agreed to. And that results in the savings of $23 billion. That is $2 billion more over that period of time than the savings that were achieved in the House bill for growers.

It requires E-Verify for farm workers nationwide. That is going to help with the chaos at the border because people are now going to know that they are not going to be able to come here and work illegally or in an undocumented fashion in agriculture. So they will be less likely to want to come.

And, finally, the bill establishes a pathway for undocumented farm workers to apply for a green card after they have worked in agriculture for at least a decade, passed a background check, and paid a penalty.

That is not amnesty. It is a recognition that anybody who has spent a decade breaking their back to feed America should have the opportunity to apply for lawful status.

Are we really going to accept as a definitional matter for this country that we want fields filled with indentured servants in the United States of America? Is that really where we are as a nation?

I don't think so. That is not what people in Colorado believe. No matter what party they are in, they don't believe that. They think we should fix this problem. They know how hard-working the people are who are working in our fields and on our ranches and at our dairies.

And that is why this bill is broadly supported not just in Colorado but all across the country—by farmers and labor, by immigration advocates, by businesses, by the American people. The vast majority of the American people know we need to fix this.

And this morning—this isn't meant for anybody to read; I will get to that in a moment—but over 240 groups from all across America, including from New Mexico and from Colorado, sent a letter supporting this bill. And I am not going to read all—I am tempted to read all 240, and there isn't anybody here tonight. But let me just give you a sense of the breadth and the depth of the support of this bill.

The signers of this bill include the International Fresh Produce Association, the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, the National Milk Producers Federation, the National Farmers Union, the National Thoroughbred Racing Association, the American Honey Producers Association, the American Mushroom Institute, the American Sugarbeet Growers Association, the California Apple Commission, the California Association of Winegrape Growers, the Colorado Potato Legislative Association.

Let me just tell you how hard it is for our potato producers in Colorado to deliver that incredible crop when we finally have created a situation where Mexico has to import our potatoes and can't just keep them out, which is what they have been doing for years and years and years, but they can't find folks to do the work. With the rise in input costs that farmers and ranchers have to deal with, with the drought that the Colorado potato growers are dealing with in the San Luis Valley that I know the Presiding Officer knows so well—you know, you would think that the least we could do is solve a problem that could be solved. That is a major headache for them and for their colleagues all across the country—like the Food Producers of Idaho, the Georgia Blueberry Commission, the Idaho Hay and Forage Association, Land O'Lakes, the Lone Star Milk Producers, the Maine Potato Board, the Michigan Nursery & Landscape Association, the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture.

As I read this list, do you know the one thing these people don't have in common? They are not Democrats or Republicans. They are just trying to deliver agricultural products to the American people. That is all they are trying to do. And they live in red States, and they live in blue States. They live all over the United States of America.

The National Pecan Federation, the New York Apple Association, the North Carolina Potato Association, the Ohio Dairy Producers Association, the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, Premium Peanut, the Society of American Florists, the National Asparagus Council, the United Dairy Farmers of Florida, the Utah Tart Cherry Marketing Board, the Virginia Apple Growers Association, the Washington State Tree Fruit Association, the Western Growers—and let me say something about the Western Growers.

In 2013, I had the privilege of being part of the Gang of 8 that negotiated the comprehensive immigration reform bill that passed this floor with 68 votes. It was led on the Republican side by John McCain and by Jeff Flake and MARCO RUBIO and LINDSEY GRAHAM. We had four Democrats on our side. And, I have to say, in the 14 years I have been in this place, that was the best work we have done as a body. We dealt with this tough issue of immigration, and we dealt with all aspects of it—11 million people who were undocumented had the chance to earn a tough but fair pathway to citizenship in this country and come out of the shadows.

We dealt with all the visa issues that have been driving the country crazy all this year—business visas and agriculture visas.

I negotiated the agriculture provisions of this bill with Senator RUBIO and Senator FEINSTEIN and Senator Hatch.

And we had the most progressive Dream Act that had ever been conceived, much less voted on, as part of that bill.

It also had $40 billion border security in it. People forget that part. Every single Democrat voted for a bill that had $40 billion of border security. That is a heck of a lot more money than Donald Trump ever spent to build his wall—that medieval device.

That $40 billion, which was a bipartisan effort, again, was meant to spend—was meant to spend the money on 21st-century technology so we could see every inch of the border so border crossings could actually be much better policed than they are today.

I will come back to this later in the speech, but I am not somebody who believes we should have a border that is not secure. I believe we should have a secure border. I think we should. I think the American people expect that we will. And I came to this floor—I think it was in May—to say that I thought it was wrong for the Biden administration to lift title 42 without a plan to address the border, and we are seeing the effects of that, I think, today.

That shouldn't be an excuse for making lives more miserable for people working in American agriculture. It shouldn't be an excuse for driving food prices up for families. It shouldn't be an excuse for compromising our economic independence, our food security, and our national security.

We have in front of us a negotiated agreement that passed the House of Representatives with a bipartisan vote. We have an agreement that has been negotiated over here that is more generous to producers than the one that passed the House of Representatives, and it has all this support from all these people all over the country. I am not going to read every single one of these names, but you get the idea. These are people who probably, I would guess—many of them probably agree on nothing politically, but they agree on this. They agree on this. Part of that is because the situation they are confronting is so dire, and part of it is because they have helped produce a good piece of legislation that should get its chance.

(Mr. SCHATZ assumed the Chair.)

(Mr. HEINRICH assumed the Chair.)

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the letter with all these names be printed in the RECORD so I can spare you listening to all the names.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

DECEMBER 16, 2022.

Hon. CHUCK SCHUMER,

Majority Leader.

Hon. MITCH MCCONNELL,

Minority Leader.

DEAR MAJORITY LEADER SCHUMER AND MINORITY LEADER MCCONNELL: The undersigned agricultural organizations urge the Senate to support and pass Sen. Bennet's legislation, the Affordable and Secure Food Act by the end of the year to address the workforce crisis threatening farms across the United States. The ongoing farm workforce crisis is hindering agricultural production and contributing to food price inflation. We must address this now, so our producers can continue to grow, feed, clothe, and fuel our nation.

Sen. Bennet's legislation provides stability for our existing workers and makes key reforms to the H-2A program, the visa program producers use to hire legal temporary workers to supplement the available U.S. workforce. While the bill is not perfect, it provides a significant step forward by providing access to guest workers for many sectors in the industry and will account for real cost savings for farmers and consumers across the country. The House has passed legislation on this issue, and it is now time for the Senate to act before the end of the year. Without immediate action by the Senate, the federal government's outdated policies, insufficient domestic workforce, and a challenging guest worker program are forcing many farmers to consider whether they can continue in labor-intensive agriculture.

The country cannot afford for the Senate to miss this opportunity to provide stability to both farmers and farmworkers. We implore the Senate to pass legislation to address our agricultural workforce challenges and ease inflationary pressure on food costs for all Americans.

Mr. BENNET. I will end with this. There is a vegetable farmer in Brighton, CO, whom I have known for many, many years. His name is Robert Sakata. His dad started Sakata Farms in 1944 after he was released from a Japanese-American internment camp, where he was interned during World War II. For almost 80 years, Sakata Farms has been a critical ingredient of our Colorado economy—a staple of Colorado, to put it in food terms, but when Robert visited my office in the last couple of years, he handed me fliers advertising his equipment for sale.

I said: Robert, why are you selling your implements? Why are you doing that?

He loves what he does. He is so passionate about what he does. He is so passionate about the people who work side by side with him to produce incredible fruits and vegetables in Colorado. But he told me that he was selling because he didn't have enough labor to harvest his vegetable crop. Today, they no longer grow vegetables at Sakata Farms; they only grow row crops. Is that the future we want for American agriculture? It is not what we want in Colorado.

I have heard stories like that, like Robert Sakata's story, all over my State and all over this country for the last decade. We don't have to accept the loss of the next 10 percent of America's family farms. We don't have to accept hundreds of thousands of people living in the shadows when they work every single day. They are breaking their backs—I don't use that term lightly—working in some of the worst conditions that there are to work in to feed the American people, to give us economic security and food security and provide for our national security.

We shouldn't accept crushing food prices for families just because this Congress can't reform an antiquated H-2A program. We can do something about it this week before we go home, with this proposal.

Sometimes the politics of an issue like this seems so hard that you are defeated on it before you even get started. That has not been the case with this coalition of people from all over America. They have all they can contend with every single day.

As I said, with rising input costs, with the trade issues that we have been dealing with, they have every reason in the world not to spend a moment trying to actually pass this piece of legislation, but it is so important because this labor issue is so critical to the future of American agriculture, and they know it, and they have a sense of urgency about it. They want us to overcome our fears and our political concerns, to come together and do what the House of Representatives did, which is pass a bipartisan bill. I guarantee you, if we do that, if we do that here in this Chamber, when people go home, what they are going to hear is this: Thank you. Thank you for listening to us. Thank you for respecting our work in American agriculture. And thank you for standing up for our country during a difficult economic moment in world history.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SCHATZ. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Ms. SMITH). Without objection, it is so ordered.

DON YOUNG ALASKA NATIVE HEALTH CARE LAND TRANSFERS ACT OF 2022

Mr. SCHATZ. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of H.R. 441, which was received from the House.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the bill by title.

The senior assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 441) to provide for the conveyance of certain property to the Tanana Tribal Council located in Tanana, Alaska, the conveyance of certain property to the Southeast Alaska Regional Health Consortium located in Sitka, Alaska, and the conveyance of certain property to the Alaska Native Tribal Health Consortium located in Anchorage, Alaska, and for other purposes.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. SCHATZ. I ask unanimous consent that the bill be considered read a third time and passed and that the motion to reconsider be considered made and laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (H.R. 441) was ordered to a third reading, was read the third time, and passed.

The senior assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 3308) to authorize the Colorado River Indian Tribes to enter into lease or exchange agreements and storage agreements relating to water of the Colorado River allocated to the Colorado River Indian Tribes, and for other purposes.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill, which had been reported from the Committee on Indian Affairs, with an amendment to strike all after the enacting clause and insert in lieu thereof the following:

(c) EFFECT.—Nothing in this Act prohibits the Secretary from agreeing with the CRIT and the State to a modification to an agreement entered into under subsection (a) (including an appendix or exhibit to the agreement) if the modification—

(1) is in compliance with this Act; and

(2) does not otherwise require congressional approval under section 2116 of the Revised Statutes (commonly known as the “Indian Trade and Intercourse Act”) (25 U.S.C. 177) or any other provision of law.

SEC. 11. NO EFFECT ON THE CRIT DECREED ALLOCATION.

PREVENTING CHILD SEX ABUSE ACT OF 2022

The amendment (No. 6549) in the nature of a substitute was agreed to as follows:

(Purpose: In the nature of a substitute)

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Preventing Child Sex Abuse Act of 2022”.

SEC. 2. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

The sense of Congress is the following:

(1) The safety of children should be a top priority for public officials and communities in the United States.

(2) According to the Rape, Abuse & Incest National Network, an individual in the United States is sexually assaulted every 68 seconds. And every 9 minutes, that victim is a child. Meanwhile, only 25 out of every 1,000 perpetrators will end up in prison.

(3) The effects of child sexual abuse can be long-lasting and affect the victim’s mental health.

(4) Victims are more likely than non-victims to experience the following mental health challenges:

(A) Victims are about 4 times more likely to develop symptoms of drug abuse.

(B) Victims are about 4 times more likely to experience post-traumatic stress disorder as adults.

(C) Victims are about 3 times more likely to experience a major depressive episode as adults.

(5) The criminal justice system should and has acted as an important line of defense to protect children and hold perpetrators accountable.

(6) However, the horrific crimes perpetrated by Larry Nassar demonstrate firsthand the loopholes that still exist in the criminal justice system. While Larry Nassar was found guilty of several State-level offenses, he was not charged federally for his illicit sexual contact with minors, despite crossing State and international borders to commit this conduct.

(7) The Department of Justice has also identified a growing trend of Americans who use charitable or missionary work in a foreign country as a cover for sexual abuse of children.

(8) It is the intent of Congress to prohibit Americans from engaging in sexual abuse or exploitation of minors under the guise of work, including volunteer work, with an organization that affects interstate or foreign commerce, such as an international charity.

(9) Federal law does not require that an abuser’s intention to engage in sexual abuse be a primary, significant, dominant, or motivating purpose of the travel.

(10) Child sexual abuse does not require physical contact between the abuser and the child. This is especially true as perpetrators turn increasingly to internet platforms, online chat rooms, and webcams to commit child sexual abuse.

(11) However, a decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit found the use of a webcam to engage in sexually provocative activity with a minor did not qualify as “sexual activity”.

(12) Congress can address this issue by amending the definition of the term “sexual activity” to clarify that it does not require interpersonal, physical contact.

(13) It is the duty of Congress to provide clearer guidance to ensure that those who commit crimes against children are prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

SEC. 3. INTERSTATE CHILD SEXUAL ABUSE.

Section 2423 of title 18, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (b), by striking “with a motivating purpose of engaging in any illicit sexual conduct with another person” and inserting “with intent to engage in any illicit sexual conduct with another person”;

(2) by redesignating subsections (d), (e), (f), and (g) as subsections (e), (f), (g), and (i), respectively;

(3) in subsection (e), as so redesignated, by striking “with a motivating purpose of engaging in any illicit sexual conduct” and inserting “with intent to engage in any illicit sexual conduct”; and

(4) by inserting after subsection (g), as so redesignated, the following:

“(h) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—As used in this section, the term ‘intent’ shall be construed as any intention to engage in illicit sexual conduct at the time of the travel.”.

SEC. 4. ABUSE UNDER THE GUISE OF CHARITY.

Section 2423 of title 18, United States Code, as amended by section 3 of this Act, is amended—

(1) by inserting after subsection (c) the following:

“(d) ILLICIT SEXUAL CONDUCT IN CONNECTION WITH CERTAIN ORGANIZATIONS.—Any citizen of the United States or alien admitted for permanent residence who—

“(1) is an officer, director, employee, or agent of an organization that affects interstate or foreign commerce;

“(2) makes use of the mails or any means or instrumentality of interstate or foreign commerce through the connection or affiliation of the person with such organization; and

“(3) commits an act in furtherance of illicit sexual conduct through the connection or affiliation of the person with such organization, shall be fined under this title, imprisoned for not more than 30 years, or both.”;

(2) in subsection (f), as so redesignated, by striking “or (d)” and inserting “(d), or (e)”; and

(3) in subsection (i), as so redesignated, by striking “(f)(2)” and inserting “(g)(2)”.

SEC. 5. SEXUAL ACTIVITY WITH MINORS.

MORNING BUSINESS

TRIBUTE TO TRACY COUNCILL

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, Marcelle and I have been involved with a wonderful charity for more than 20 years, with Marcelle on its board for over a decade. Tracy's Kids helps children with cancer or blood disorders cope with the emotional toll imposed by their disease and its treatment. Tracy Councill, the heart and soul of that program and a woman who has made a difference in the lives of tens of thousands of patients, siblings, and parents, is retiring after 31 years.

The following announcement by Matt Gerson, founder and president of Tracy's Kids, underscores the positive impact that she has made over the course of her career: "Big News—Tracy is retiring from Georgetown after 31 years. Her service has been indispensable for the patients, siblings, and parents she helped guide through their darkest times. Her announcement is eliciting expressions of gratitude from the medical professionals with whom she served, and throughout the Art Therapy community she influenced.

"I recognized a long time ago that Tracy was put on this earth to do what she does. Because of the model that she developed at Georgetown, Tracy's Kids has fundamentally changed the standard of care for pediatric oncology in the region—and beyond. Her patience, compassion, commitment, and professionalism—along with that accent—have been invaluable to thousands of children and families.

"Tracy is as heroic to her admirers as better-known GOATs. Our Giant Of Art Therapy has trained and inspired generations of students who aspire to be as impactful. Grateful parents know that they could not have confronted the exhausting chapter of their lives without her. Part of her legacy will be paid forward by former patients who are now Art Therapists themselves—as well as the ones pursuing careers in art disciplines from jewelry making to film.

"She will still serve as the Tracy's Kids Program Director, and continue to teach, lecture, and publish on how to help kids and families develop strategies for coping with scary procedures, communicate with doctors and nurses, and express the fears that might lead to nightmares and social isolation.

"I knew nothing of Art Therapy when we met 25 years ago. If anything, I was a bit skeptical. But because of her, when you walk into a clinic served by Tracy's Kids you will likely see children with infusions in their arms, crayons in their hands and smiles on their faces. She has created environments where kids can just be kids—not 'sick kids.' And because they feel so comfortable, patients and their siblings actually look forward to going to the clinic—a sentiment we hear over and over and find hard to believe each and every time.

"Please join me in wishing Tracy and Don the very best in their retirement and much success and enjoyment in the endeavors that lie ahead."

Marcelle and I appreciate all she has done and also send Tracy and Don our best wishes.

RECOGNIZING DARN TOUGH VERMONT

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, veterans make a valuable addition to any workplace. Vermont companies know this, which is why most employers in the State do their best to recruit former servicemembers. But some go far beyond others in their commitment to employing veterans. Darn Tough Vermont is one such company. Since the Darn Tough brand was created in 2004, consumer interest in the company's famous socks has steadily grown. This is because of the dependability and durability their products are known for. But the nearly 500 employees at Darn Tough, a disproportionately high amount of which are veterans, are what ensures this reputation.

Darn Tough has always been committed to hiring veterans whenever possible. As a trusted supplier of the military, the company understands why it is former servicemembers stand apart from others when it comes to reliability, team orientation, and performing under stress. They know that hiring a veteran is not only a good thing to do; it is an excellent investment for an employer to make. This is why more than 7 percent of employees hired by Darn Tough over the last calendar year were veterans.

In November, the U.S. Department of Labor recognized Darn Tough for its commitment to hiring veterans by awarding them a 2022 HIRE Vets Medallion "gold tier" Award. The award is given to a company who can show that 7 percent of the people it hired in a calendar year are veterans. It can also be awarded to companies who retain more than 75 percent of their annual veteran hires for 12 months or more. Darn Tough exceeded the Labor Department's award criteria in both of these areas. Meeting these benchmarks is doubly impressive, considering veterans make up only 4.7 percent of Vermont's civilian labor pool.

I am always heartened when I learn of a Vermont business who receives honors for so clearly integrating Vermont's values into their operations, which is why I would like to recognize Darn Tough Vermont for leading the State in veteran's hiring and receiving the U.S. Department of Labor's 2022 HIRE Vets Medallion Award. Their commitment to producing the finest products and their demonstrated dedication to veterans make this company one truly worthy of our praise.

I ask unanimous consent that an article from VT Digger on this achievement be printed into the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From VT Digger]

DARN TOUGH VERMONT, THE NORTHFIELD SOCK MANUFACTURER, IS GETTING RECOGNITION FOR ITS COMMITMENT TO HIRING AND RETAINING MILITARY VETERANS

"It's just good to be around more people that are veterans," said Jim Decker, chief technology officer at Darn Tough.

Decker, who has worked for the company since 2019, served in the U.S. Army from 1985 to 1989. He joined Darn Tough in 2019, when the company employed about 185 people. The company has experienced explosive growth in the last three years, and it employs nearly 500 people now, he said.

Last month, Darn Tough was awarded a 2022 HIRE Vets Medallion Award from the U.S. Labor Department. Darn Tough is the only Vermont company to have earned the award in the four years that it has been presented.

The awards are based on the percentage of workers hired and retained who are military veterans. To earn the "gold" tier award, the company had to show that 7% of the people it hired in a calendar year were veterans.

"And that's not an easy mark to make, because the overall national percentage of veterans is 5.4%," said Randall Smith, director of the Labor Department's HIRE Vets Medallion program. In Vermont, veterans account for 4.7% of the civilian labor force, Smith said.

One goal of the award, Smith said, is to let veterans know about companies that do an especially good job of hiring and retaining veterans. The program posts a map of award-ees.

Lawrence Forsyth, veterans services coordinator at the Vermont Department of Labor, estimated that Vermont has about 40,000 veterans, many of them older veterans of World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War.

He said the small number of veterans in Vermont, compounded by the fact that it does not have an active military post, makes it hard for employers to hire veterans.

However, Forsyth said, veterans are "adaptive. They're resilient. They're very team-oriented and they perform under stress. Why wouldn't someone want to hire them?"

Forsyth said he goes four times a year to a recruiting event at Fort Drum in New York to persuade people leaving the military, as well as veterans living there, to move to Vermont. He said he works in partnership with the Vermont State Police, the Vermont National Guard and the Vermont Air National Guard to recruit people leaving active-duty military service.

Forsyth encourages businesses interested in attracting people leaving the armed services to visit the website for Skillsridge, a U.S. Department of Defense program that pays for internships for up to 160 days, which "could turn into a full-time job," he said.

He said he has placed five veterans through that program in the past two years.

One way Darn Tough retains the veterans it hires is by identifying the skills they bring from their military service, said Jennifer No, the company's talent acquisition recruiter.

"What we do internally is we continue to build on those skills and develop them to positions like the (chief technology officer)," No said.

Businesses could also earn the "gold" award by retaining 75% of the veterans they hired in a calendar year for 12 months or more, Smith said. Forsyth said Darn Tough excels in retention, in addition to recruitment.

"They're always a go-to organization that I send people to," he said.]

TRIBUTE TO JANET GREEN-TUCKER

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I would like to take a moment to recognize an important person who is critical to the functioning of the U.S. Senate and, more importantly, who has been an important part of the lives of many young Senate families for over three decades.

Janet Green-Tucker, affectionately known as Ms. Janet, will be retiring at the end of this month after 36 years of service as a teacher at the Senate Employees Child Care Center. Having joined the center just a few short years after its opening on February 27, 1984, Janet personified the sense of warmth, skill, patience, and community that are well known to the Senate families.

We have all had teachers who touched our lives, providing guidance during difficult times or sparking our imaginations. Janet has done so for hundreds of children over the years, nourishing young minds at a critical time in their development. She was a walking encyclopedia of wisdom for all families. In fact, at least one of Janet's former students is now a parent herself, making her a "grand-teacher!" For many years she was one-half of the "Green Team" alongside fellow teacher, Phyllis Green, who also retired earlier this year after an impactful decades long career at the center.

Janet is especially beloved by many families on my staff whose children had the privilege of being taught by her: Rayn, Leo, Alex, William, Avery, and Harry. Even children who weren't in her class could always count on a comforting hug in the hallway from Janet. Janet is also adored by her colleagues. She was always willing to go above and beyond, to support fellow teachers new and old, take care of monthly playground inspections, and lend a hand throughout the center no matter the task. And as an avid baker, Janet's colleagues were more than happy to taste her latest treats and would fight for the last crumb.

During the past 36 years, Janet also raised twin boys of her own, Jarad and Jarron, alongside her husband Marvin, and is now looking forward to spending time with her grandchildren. In 2014, Senator Tom Harkin aptly described the teachers and administrators at the Senate Employees Child Care Center as the "unsung heroes" of the Senate. It is my privilege to sing the praises of Janet as one of those unsung heroes.

I wish her all the best as she embarks on a well-earned retirement.

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, this explanation reflects the status of negotiations and disposition of issues reached between the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence and the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence for the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2023.

The explanation shall have the same effect with respect to the implementation of this act as if it were a joint explanatory statement of a conference committee.

I ask unanimous consent that the explanatory statement for the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2023 be printed into the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT ON THE INTELLIGENCE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2023, SUBMITTED BY MR. SCHIFF, CHAIRMAN OF THE HOUSE PERMANENT SELECT COMMITTEE ON INTELLIGENCE

The following is the Explanatory Statement (the "Explanatory Statement") to accompany the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2023 ("the Act"), which has been included as Division F of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2023. The Explanatory Statement reflects the result of negotiations between the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence and the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence (together, "the Committees"). The Explanatory Statement shall have the same effect with respect to the implementation of the Act as if it were a joint explanatory statement of a conference committee.

The classified nature of U.S. intelligence activities prevents the Committees from publicly disclosing many details concerning their final decisions regarding funding levels and policy direction. Therefore, the Committees have prepared a classified annex—referred to here and within the annex itself as "the Agreement"—that contains a classified Schedule of Authorizations and that describes in detail the scope and intent of the Committees' actions.

The Agreement authorizes the Intelligence Community (IC) to obligate and expend funds as requested in the President's budget and as modified by the classified Schedule of Authorizations, subject to applicable reprogramming procedures.

The classified Schedule of Authorizations is incorporated into the Act pursuant to Section 6102 of the Act. It has the status of law. The Agreement supplements and adds detail to clarify the authorization levels found in the Act and in the classified Schedule of Authorizations.

This Explanatory Statement incorporates by reference, and the Executive Branch shall comply with, all direction contained in the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Report to accompany the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2023 (S. Rept. 117-132) and in the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence Report to accompany the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2023 (H. Rept. 117-546). The Agreement supersedes all classified direction related to programs and activities authorized by the Schedule of Authorization.

The Executive Branch is further directed as follows:

ENFORCEMENT OF CYBERSECURITY REQUIREMENTS FOR NATIONAL SECURITY SYSTEMS

Section 6309 is intended to codify, for the elements of the IC, the key elements of the "Memorandum on Improving the Cybersecurity of National Security, Department of Defense, and Intelligence Community Systems" issued by the White House on January 19, 2022, also known as NSM-08, and any successor policy guidance. The section also requires agencies (1) to meet the deadlines established under those requirements and (2) to prioritize resources in a manner to fully implement the requirements established by the deadlines.

INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY EXPERTS PANEL ON ANOMALOUS HEALTH INCIDENTS

The Committees are committed to protecting and supporting IC and other federal government personnel who have experienced debilitating, unexplained attacks, or anomalous health incidents, while serving their country. The Committees are also focused on transparency in reporting by those agencies whose personnel have been affected by anomalous health incidents.

Therefore, the Committees direct that the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), as part of the reporting required by Section 6412 of the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2023, submit a plan to implement the recommendations of the IC Experts Panel on Anomalous Health Incidents. The Committees further direct that the Department of State Bureau of Intelligence and Research, as part of the assessment required by Section 6810 of the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2023, submit a plan to implement the recommendations of the IC Experts Panel on Anomalous Health Incidents.

STAFFING OF OFFICE SUPPORTING CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY WORKFORCE WELLBEING

Section 6416 of the Act establishes an Office to support the physical, mental, and overall wellbeing of eligible CIA employees and certain other individuals affiliated with the Agency. The Committees recognize the Agency's need for appropriate flexibility and therefore did not legislatively mandate minimum staffing levels for the Office. However, Section 6416 does require the Director of the CIA to assign to the Office "a sufficient number of individuals, who shall have no official duties other than duties related to the Office while so assigned." The Committees fully expect the Agency, consistent with the Agency's plan that was briefed to the Committees, to staff the office with at least 10 full-time individuals. The Committees direct the Agency to promptly notify the Committees if the Office has less than 10 individuals assigned to the Office on a full-time basis.

INTELLIGENCE ASSESSMENT OF EFFECTS OF COUNTERTERRORISM STRIKES

The Committees direct the Director of the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA), in coordination with the directorates of intelligence of the combatant commands, to prepare an intelligence assessment of the effects of counterterrorism strikes conducted by the Armed Forces on targets outside of areas of active hostilities during the 5-year period preceding the date of the enactment of the Act. The assessment shall include:

- (1) an analysis of the strike's short- and long-term effects on the capability and intent of the terrorist group to conduct external operations, particularly operations targeting the United States, U.S. persons, or U.S. facilities;
- (2) an analysis of the strike's effects on the recruitment of the terrorist group;
- (3) an analysis of the strike's effects on local perception of the terrorist group, the host country, and the United States;
- (4) an identification of the number and quality of finished intelligence products that assessed the effects that a U.S. counterterrorism strike would have, or did have, against specific terrorist individuals or groups; and
- (5) recommendations to improve the efficacy, accuracy, and timeliness of intelligence analysis to increase the strategic effect of counterterrorism strikes.

The Committees further direct the Director of the DIA to submit to the congressional intelligence committees and the congress-sional defense committees, within 180 days of the enactment of the Act, a report containing both this intelligence assessment and judgments regarding the following questions:

(1) What percentage of counterterrorism strikes covered by the intelligence assessment had a short-term effect on the planned external operations of the terrorist group, particularly operations targeting the United States, U.S. persons, or U.S. facilities?

(2) What percentage of counterterrorism strikes covered by the intelligence assessment had a long-term effect on the planned external operations of the terrorist group, particularly operations targeting the United States, U.S. persons, or U.S. facilities?

The report may be submitted in classified form, except that the judgments shall be in unclassified form. For purposes of this direction, the term "counterterrorism strikes" means an air strike conducted by the U.S. Armed Forces targeting a specific individual that is not a defensive strike conducted to reduce imminent danger to the U.S. Armed Forces or specifically designated partner forces of the United States, and the term "external operations" means violent operations conducted outside the terrorist group's country or region of origin.

REPORT ON EFFORTS OF THE FBI TO IDENTIFY AND PROMOTE DIVERSE CANDIDATES

The Committees direct the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, within 90 days of the enactment of the Act, to submit to the congressional intelligence committees and to post on the public website of the Bureau a statistical report on the status of efforts by the Bureau to identify and promote diverse candidates over the past five fiscal years. For Supervisory Special Agent program managers, Field Supervisory Special Agents, Assistant Special Agents in Charge, Special Agents in Charge, and senior executives, the report shall include tables of figures that break down by race and gender the following information:

- (1) The total number, and the percentage, of Special Agents who applied for such positions;
- (2) The total number, and the percentage, of Special Agents who were interviewed for such positions;
- (3) The total number, and the percentage, of Special Agents who were selected for such positions; and
- (4) The average number of times a Special Agent applied for such position before selection.

For purposes of this direction, the term "senior executives" means Deputy Assistant Director, Assistant Director, Executive Assistant Director, Associate Deputy Director, and Deputy Director.

The Committees further direct that the report shall include, with respect to GS-14 and GS-15 positions, tables of figures that break down by race and gender the following information:

- (1) The total number of individuals in such positions, and the percentage of such individuals, who retired over the past five fiscal years; and
- (2) The total number of individuals in such positions, and the percentage of such individuals, who retired early over the past five fiscal years.

REPORT ON IMPROVING OPPORTUNITIES FOR WOMEN AND MINORITIES FOR PROMOTIONS IN THE INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY

The Committees direct the Director of National Intelligence, in consultation with the heads of the elements of the IC, to submit to the congressional intelligence committees within 120 days of the enactment of the Act a consolidated report on specific steps taken by each element to enhance opportunities for women and minorities for promotions across all mission categories of the IC, and to reduce the gap among gender, racial, and ethnic categories at senior levels of the IC. The report shall contain a strategic plan from each element of the IC on the following:

- (1) Overcoming any barriers or obstacles identified in the report;
- (2) Proposing new or enhanced mentoring programs or similar workplace forums to support women and minority officers of the IC who are interested in or may qualify for promotion opportunities or other career advancements;
- (3) Recommending additional steps and initiatives to achieve diversity among senior roles in the IC; and
- (4) Addressing any gaps in relevant tools, resources, or authorities.

BRIEFINGS ON INTELLIGENCE ACTIVITIES IN CYBERSPACE

The Committees direct the Secretary of Defense, on a quarterly basis, to provide to the congressional intelligence committees and the congressional defense committees a briefing, with respect to the covered period, on the intelligence activities occurring in cyberspace conducted by United States Cyber Command in support of current and future offensive or defensive cyberspace operations.

SUBMISSION OF CERTAIN LEGISLATIVE PROPOSALS TO THE CONGRESSIONAL INTELLIGENCE COMMITTEES

The Committees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional intelligence committees any legislative proposal that (1) is proposed by the Secretary of Defense to Congress, (2) has been approved by the Office of Management and Budget, and (3) involves a grant, expansion, modification, or cessation of authority involving the intelligence, intelligence-related, or tactical intelligence activities of the Department of Defense. The Committees further direct that any such legislative proposals submitted to the congressional intelligence committees be accompanied by a brief explanation of the proposal.

OFFICE OF GLOBAL COMPETITION ANALYSIS

The Committees encourage the President to establish an Office of Global Competition Analysis ("the Office") to conduct analysis relevant to United States leadership in science, technology, and innovation sectors critical to national security and economic prosperity relative to other countries, and to support policy development and decision making across the federal government to ensure United States leadership in science, technology, and innovation sectors critical to national security and economic prosperity relative to other countries, particularly those countries that are strategic competitors of the United States.

The analysis conducted by the Office should cover:

- (1) United States policies that enable technological competitiveness relative to those of other countries, particularly with respect to countries that are strategic competitors of the United States;
- (2) United States science and technology ecosystem elements, including regional and national research and development capacity, technology innovation, science and engineering education and research workforce relative to those of other countries;
- (3) United States technology development, commercialization, and advanced manufacturing ecosystem elements, including supply chain resiliency, scale-up manufacturing testbeds, access to venture capital and financing, technical and entrepreneurial workforce, and production, relative to those of other countries;

(4) United States competitiveness in technology and innovation sectors critical to national security and economic prosperity relative to other countries, including the availability and scalability of United States technology in such sectors abroad;

(5) trends and trajectories, including rate of change in technologies, related to technology and innovation sectors critical to national security and economic prosperity;

(6) threats to United States national security interests as a result of any foreign country's dependence on technologies of strategic competitors of the United States; and

(7) threats to United States interests based on dependencies on foreign technologies critical to national security and economic prosperity.

The priorities of the Office should be established in coordination with the Director of the Office of Science and Technology Policy, the Assistant to the President for Economic Policy, the Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, and such other officials as the President considers appropriate.

In carrying out the activities of the Office, the Committees expect:

(1) the Office will solicit input on technology and economic trends, data, and metrics from relevant private sector stakeholders, including entities involved in financing technology development and commercialization, and engage with academia to inform the analyses;

(2) the Office will acquire, access, use, and handle data or information in a manner consistent with applicable provisions of law and policy, including laws and policies providing for the protection of privacy and civil liberties, and subject to any restrictions required by the source of the information.

(3) the Office will receive access, upon written request, to all information, data, or reports of any Executive agency that the Office determines necessary to carry out its activities, to include commercially available information that may not be publicly available; and

(4) consistent with applicable law, the heads of departments or agencies within the Executive will detail personnel to the Office in order to assist the Office in its activities.

The Committees direct the President to submit to the appropriate congressional committees, within 180 days of the date of enactment of the Act, a report analyzing the need for the Office, including recommendations regarding the administrative structure of the Office, as well as a detailed spending plan that includes administrative costs.

VOTE EXPLANATION

Ms. WARREN. Mr. President, had there been a recorded vote, I would have voted no on the confirmation of Executive Calendar No. 1109, Candace A. Bond, of Missouri, to be Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the United States of America to the Republic of Trinidad and Tobago.

Had there been a recorded vote, I would have voted no on the confirmation of Executive Calendar No. 1108, Shefali Razdan Duggal, of California, to be Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the United States of America to the Kingdom of the Netherlands.

Had there been a recorded vote, I would have voted no on the confirmation of Executive Calendar No. 2455, Bijan Sabet, of Massachusetts, to be Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the United States of America to the Czech Republic.

TRIBUTE TO LIEUTENANT COLONEL JEFFREY "SLANDER" ENTINE

Mr. COTTON. Mr. President, I would like to take a few moments to recognize Lt. Col. Jeffrey "Slander" Entine, who has worked in my Senate office for the past year as a defense fellow. Lieutenant Colonel Entine is a patriot who has served our country nobly and made it a safer and better place. It has truly been a pleasure to have him in my office.

Lieutenant Colonel Entine graduated from Florida State University in 2006. After graduation, he commissioned as a second lieutenant and set off for pilot training in Mississippi. Lieutenant Colonel Entine stood out early during pilot training. Not only was he the distinguished graduate of his class, but he was also the best rated student pilot with the highest academic grade in his class.

Later, Lieutenant Colonel Entine deployed for 6 months to Kandahar Air Base, Afghanistan, flying F-16s. He flew 63 combat missions, earned three Air Medals, and was named the outstanding performer of the 480th Expeditionary Fighter Squadron's deployment.

He then went through the crucible of Weapons School, which forges promising airmen into leaders and tactical experts. Again, he distinguished himself in this challenging environment. When Lieutenant Colonel Entine graduated from Weapons School in December 2016, he became the chief of weapons and tactics in the 55th Fighter Squadron at Shaw Air Force Base. Shortly after arriving, he overhauled the base's training program. His boss said the new plan was "the best he's ever seen" and rated him first out of the 27 company-grade officers in the squadron.

In October 2017, Lieutenant Colonel Entine shipped off to Afghanistan again—this time to Bagram Airfield, not far from Kabul. He deployed as the wing weapons officer, where he advised the operations group commander and wing commander on tactics. He also worked with special operations forces conducting raids across the country. On one such raid in April 2018, Lieutenant Colonel Entine coordinated with two formations of F-16s, two AC-130s, three MQ-9 drones, and a ground controller who was on his very first combat mission during a day-long firefight with ISIS-K fighters. Lieutenant Colonel Entine employed weapons six times during the battle, three times within danger-close distances, and twice dropped bombs just 30 meters from friendly troops. Thanks to his heroic efforts, no Americans died, three were safely evacuated, and scores of enemy fighters were killed. And that was just one combat sortie out of the more than 70 he flew during a 180-plus-day deployment. Lieutenant Colonel Entine received the Air Medal with C device, a medal just beneath the Distinguished Flying Cross, for his courageous exploits that day. The Air Force Association also awarded him the Lieutenant General Clare Chennault award in 2018 as a “most outstanding aerial tactician.”

After 10 years on the frontlines, Lieutenant Colonel Entine moved to Florida, where he served in an operational test squadron. While there, he invented a method to use air-to-ground laser-guided rockets to shoot down cruise missiles. In December 2019, Lieutenant Colonel Entine proved the concept by shooting down a target drone over the Gulf of Mexico using an air-to-ground rocket. Lieutenant Colonel Entine and his team later recognized that the Air Force and Navy’s premier air-to-air missile, the AMRAAM, could reach ranges much longer than advertised, prompting the Air Force to launch its longest-ever air-to-air missile test in May of 2021.

Unsurprisingly, given his tireless tinkering and work ethic, Lieutenant Colonel Entine’s performance reports remained stellar. He left Eglin as top-rated major out of 158 and headed to Washington, DC, to represent the Air Force in Congress as a defense fellow.

While serving in my office, Lieutenant Colonel Entine solidified his position as a key member of my team. He quickly became a trusted adviser, especially concerning my duties as the AirLand Subcommittee Ranking Member on the Armed Services Committee. A true visionary, Lieutenant Colonel Entine led my initiative on a rated officer retention amendment which was incorporated into the FY23 NDAA. His fellow Air Force pilots owe Lieutenant Colonel Entine a debt of gratitude for his tireless work to provide his service with four additional retention related authorizations as part of this initiative. In total, Lieutenant Colonel Entine drafted nearly 70 pieces of legislation demonstrating an incredible ability to unify staff over bipartisan policy issues. Lieutenant Colonel Entine undoubtedly proved his worth as a member of my team, helping notch countless legislative victories.

Beyond legislation, Lieutenant Colonel Entine demonstrated an exceptional talent for hearing and nomination preparation and staff work. His work in this arena was distinct from any fellow we have had previously and, I suspect, that we will have ever again. This type of preparation is one of the most crucial functions of my staff, and Lieutenant Colonel Entine distinguished himself as an invaluable member of the team. Our office greatly benefited from his talents and keen insights. He attended over 58 Senate Armed Services Committee Hearings and staffed over 60 engagements.

Furthermore, Lieutenant Colonel Entine represented me on multiple staff delegations, conducting much needed oversight and research on my behalf. On his trip to Honolulu, HI, to visit INDOPACOM, Lieutenant Colonel Entine was a key interlocutor, ensuring that my personal staff was well prepared to engage in technical discussions regarding the needs of the Air Force. His insights have helped shape my policy objectives for years to come. Lieutenant Colonel Entine also participated in a Naval Embark, a critical component of our oversight agenda related to my duties on the Seapower Subcommittee of the Armed Services Committee. I also remain grateful for the sacrifices of Lieutenant Colonel Entine’s family, as he spent time away from home, many hours, and late nights to ensure this crucial work was completed. Lieutenant Colonel Entine has had a remarkable career and he has a promising future ahead. He is exactly the kind of man and servicemember that our military needs in leadership. For these reasons and more, I was honored to have Lieutenant Colonel Entine in my office this year. Lieutenant Colonel Entine Slander thank you for your service to Arkansas and to the United States of America.

TRIBUTE TO DEAN A. WILLIAMS

Ms. SINEMA. Mr. President, I rise today to honor supervisory air interdiction agent Dean A. Williams for his steadfast service to the United States for the past 36 years and to wish him well on his retirement from Air and Marine Operations—AMO—U.S. Customs and Border Protection—CBP—Department of Homeland Security.

Born in Indiana and raised in New York City and Oklahoma, Dean attended Oklahoma State University and Tulsa Junior College. He earned an associate degree in respiratory therapy and later worked in a neonatal intensive care unit. Being a patriot and adventure seeker, Dean was drawn to military service and joined the Navy to pursue a career as a naval aviator.

In 1986, Dean reported to Naval Aviation Officer Candidate School, where he excelled in academics and physical fitness. Upon graduation, he was assigned to Naval Flight Training in Pensacola, FL, and earned his Wings of Gold. During his time serving on active duty in the Navy, Dean distinguished himself on missions, piloting the Navy’s medium lift, multimission helicopter, the SH-60 Seahawk, and also on several deployments aboard naval ships, where he held leadership positions, including Aviation Department Head aboard the USS Denver (LPD-9).

After his honorable discharge from the Navy in 1996, Dean furthered his education, earning a bachelor of science from Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University. In 1997, he chose to continue his service to the United States by joining the U.S. Border Patrol, employing his skills as a senior patrol agent and pilot in San Diego and along the southwest border. In 2005, Dean became an air interdiction agent (pilot) for AMO and was later promoted to supervisory air interdiction agent. At AMO, Dean served not only as a skilled helicopter and unmanned aircraft system pilot, but also in other integral positions, including northern border program manager and critical incident response team manager.

As accomplished as Dean has been in his previous roles, it is in his position as a congressional liaison where he excelled the most. In 2014, Dean was hand-picked by AMO leadership to represent the Agency as a member of the Border, Air, and Marine Operations Team at the CBP Office of Congressional Affairs. In this role, Dean served as the key adviser and subject matter expert on all AMO-related matters before Congress, including drafting legislation, responding to congressional inquiries, and carefully planning and executing congressional and staff delegation visits. He has been a stalwart supporter of AMO policy and funding priorities, especially those that support AMO personnel in the field. Notably, Dean is recognized as the main driver for the 2016 passage of Public Law 114-250, which makes all CBP law enforcement agents eligible for law enforcement availability pay. His determination to pass this legislation earned him respect both at AMO and on Capitol Hill.

In 2017, Dean was selected to serve as an AMO congressional fellow on Capitol Hill. He first served in the office of Senator Heidi Heitkamp, where he provided subject matter expertise on border security, air operations, and unmanned aircraft systems. In 2018, Dean became a fellow on the staff of the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Subcommittee on Government Operations and Border Management, which I chair. Committee members and staff alike greatly benefited from Dean’s wise counsel, friendly demeanor, and outstanding knowledge of border security, specifically air operations in Arizona and along the southwest border. His willingness to share his expertise and to dig in on critical policy matters was invaluable to the staff. His high-level work added greatly to the overall success of the subcommittee. Although he returned to AMO Headquarters in 2020, I am pleased that he continued to work closely with the subcommittee and other offices on Capitol Hill on AMO matters right up to his retirement.

Dean Williams’ 36 years of devoted service to our great Nation is a shining example of a life deserving of our gratitude. His meaningful contributions, talent, and endearing sense of humor have enriched us all. Dean will be missed, but I am happy to know that he will be able to spend more time with his wife Denise and his dog Ace. As they say in the Navy, I wish Dean fair winds and following seas in retirement.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

RECOGNIZING MONTANA WEST ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

• Mr. DAINES. Mr. President, today I have the distinct honor of recognizing and congratulating Montana West Economic Development for its 25 years of service to the communities of north-west Montana. As a small, private non-profit, MWED has spent the last quarter century working to attract, launch, and grow businesses.

From their launch in the late 1990s, MWED has worked to help diversify local economies and attract capital investment. Their vision has always been the long-term health of the northwest Montana economy. From maintaining and growing economic drivers such as rail and timber, to growing new businesses in the manufacturing, tech, and service sectors, their work has provided substantial support and opportunities to grow northwest Montana's economy. They have also provided loans and services to launch dozens of local small businesses and run the Montana Procurement Technical Assistance Center to help local companies with the government contracting process.

I have had the pleasure of working with MWED on a number of projects including the construction of the Kalispell Bypass and the Kalispell CORE and Rail project. They believe in their community and advocate strongly for its needs. Despite facing obstacles, MWED staff always maintains a can-do attitude and works to find solutions while maintaining the trust of community leaders.

Congratulations to Montana West on their 25th anniversary. I look forward to working with them on more projects for years to come.●

STATEMENT ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. PADILLA:

S. 5293. A bill to provide for the designation of areas as Health Enterprise Zones to reduce health disparities and improve health outcomes in such areas, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. PADILLA. Mr. President, I rise to introduce the Health Enterprise Zones Act of 2022.

The COVID-19 pandemic has brought to light the severity of inequities in the U.S. healthcare system. Latinos and African Americans experienced the highest death and infection rates during the pandemic.

But inequitable access to quality, affordable healthcare is not unique to the past 18 months. Centuries of structural and systemic racism continue to result in poorer health outcomes in communities of color. Historically, these communities are underserved by health professionals, which both causes and further exacerbates health disparities.

That is why I am proud to introduce The Health Enterprise Zones Act of 2022, which uses a market-based approach to incentivize increased health provider participation in structurally disadvantaged areas.

This bill would direct the Department of Health and Human Services to designate health enterprise zones based on measurable and documented health disparities in areas with poor health outcomes.

These zones would be eligible Federal grants for projects to reduce health disparities and provide healthcare providers employee tax credits, a 10 percent Medicare reimbursement bonus, and student loan repayment.

I want to thank Representative ANTHONY BROWN for introducing the House companion, and I look forward to working on this bill into the next Congress. I hope our colleagues will join us in taking this key step to achieving health equity.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 874—EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF THE SENATE THAT THE ACTIVITIES OF TRANSNATIONAL CRIMINAL ORGANIZATIONS, INCLUDING THE USE OF ILLICIT ECONOMIES, ILLICIT TRADE, AND TRADE-BASED MONEY LAUNDERING, POSE A RISK TO THE INTERESTS OF THE UNITED STATES AND ALLIES AND PARTNERS OF THE UNITED STATES AROUND THE WORLD

Mr. CASSIDY (for himself, Mr. WHITEHOUSE, and Mr. WYDEN) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. RES 874

Whereas trade-based money laundering is a form of money laundering that disguises proceeds of crime by moving value through international trade transactions;

Whereas the transnational nature and complexity of trade-based money laundering make detection and investigation difficult;

Whereas drug trafficking organizations, terrorist organizations, and other transnational criminal organizations have succeeded at trade-based money laundering despite the efforts of United States law enforcement;

Whereas trade-based money laundering includes other offenses such as tax evasion, disruption of markets, profit loss for businesses, and corruption of government officials;

Whereas trade-based money laundering can result in the decreased collection of customs duties as a result of fraudulent cargo manifests;

Whereas trade-based money laundering can decrease tax revenue collected as a result of the sale of underpriced goods in the marketplace;

Whereas trade-based money laundering is one mechanism by which counterfeiters infiltrate supply chains;

Whereas drug trafficking organizations collaborate with Chinese criminal networks to launder profits from drug trafficking through Chinese messaging applications;

Whereas, on March 16, 2021, the Commander of the United States Southern Command, Admiral Faller, testified to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate that transnational criminal organizations “market in drugs and people and guns and illegal mining, and one of the prime sources that underwrites their efforts is Chinese money-laundering”;

Whereas the deaths and violence associated with drug traffickers, the financing of terrorist organizations and other violent non-state actors, and the adulteration of supply chains with counterfeit goods showcase the danger trade-based money laundering poses to the United States;

Whereas trade-based money laundering undermines security and the rule of law in countries where it takes place;

Whereas the United States is facing a drug use and overdose epidemic, as well as an increase in consumption of synthetic drugs, such as methamphetamine and fentanyl, which is often enabled by Chinese money laundering organizations operating in coordination with drug-trafficking organizations and transnational criminal organizations in the Western Hemisphere that use trade-based money laundering to disguise the proceeds of drug trafficking;

Whereas the presence of drug traffickers in the United States and their connection to international threat networks, as well as the use of licit trade to further their motives;

Whereas drug-trafficking organizations frequently use the trade-based money laundering scheme known as the “Black Market Peso Exchange” to move their ill-gotten gains out of the United States and into Central and South America;

Whereas trade-based money laundering can be combated effectively if the intelligence community, law enforcement agencies, the Department of State, the Department of Defense, the Department of the Treasury, the Department of Homeland Security, the Department of Justice, and the private sector work together;

Whereas drug-trafficking organizations, terrorist organizations, and other transnational criminal organizations disguise the proceeds of their illegal activities behind sophisticated mechanisms that operate seamlessly between licit and illicit trade and financial transactions, making it almost impossible to address without international cooperation; and

Whereas the United States has established Trade Transparency Units with 18 partner countries, including with major drug-producing and transit countries, to facilitate the increased exchange of import-export data to combat trade-based money laundering; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the activities of transnational criminal organizations and their networks, and the means by which such organizations and networks move and launder their ill-gotten gains, such as through the use of illicit economies, illicit trade, and trade-based money laundering, pose a risk to the interests of the United States and allies and partners of the United States around the world;

(2) in addition to considering the countering of illicit economies, illicit trade, and trade-based money laundering as a national priority and committing to detect, address, and prevent such activities, the President should—

(A) continue to assess, in the periodic national risk assessments on money laundering, terrorist financing, and proliferation financing conducted by the Department of the Treasury, the ongoing risks of trade-based money laundering;

(B) finalize the assessment described in the Explanatory Statement accompanying the Financial Services and General Government Appropriations Act, 2020 (division C of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2020 (Public Law 116-93)), which directs the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network of the Department of the Treasury to thoroughly assess the risk that trade-based money laundering and other forms of illicit finance pose to the United States;

(C) work expeditiously to develop, finalize, and execute a strategy, as described in section 6506 of the Anti-Money Laundering Act of 2020 (title LXV of division F of Public Law 116-283; 134 Stat. 4631), to counter—

(i) the activities of transnational criminal organizations, including illicit trade and trade-based money laundering; and

(ii) the illicit economies such organizations operate in;

(D) coordinate with international partners to implement that strategy, exhorting those partners to strengthen their approaches to combating transnational criminal organizations; and

(E) review that strategy on a biennial basis and improve it as needed in order to most effectively address illicit economies, illicit trade, and trade-based money laundering by exploring the use of emerging technologies and other new avenues for interrupting and putting an end to those activities; and

(3) the Trade Transparency Unit program of the Department of Homeland Security should take steps to strengthen its work, including in countries that the Department of State has identified as major money laundering jurisdictions under section 489 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2291h).

SA 6549. Mr. KELLY (for Mr. GRASSLEY (for himself and Mr. OSSOFF)) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 4719, to protect children against sexual abuse and exploitation, and for other purposes; as follows:

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Preventing Child Sex Abuse Act of 2022”.

SEC. 2. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

The sense of Congress is the following:

(1) The safety of children should be a top priority for public officials and communities in the United States.

(2) According to the Rape, Abuse & Incest National Network, an individual in the United States is sexually assaulted every 68 seconds. And every 9 minutes, that victim is a child. Meanwhile, only 25 out of every 1,000 perpetrators will end up in prison.

(3) The effects of child sexual abuse can be long-lasting and affect the victim's mental health.

(4) Victims are more likely than non-victims to experience the following mental health challenges:

(A) Victims are about 4 times more likely to develop symptoms of drug abuse.

(B) Victims are about 4 times more likely to experience post-traumatic stress disorder as adults.

(C) Victims are about 3 times more likely to experience a major depressive episode as adults.

(5) The criminal justice system should and has acted as an important line of defense to protect children and hold perpetrators accountable.

(6) However, the horrific crimes perpetrated by Larry Nassar demonstrate firsthand the loopholes that still exist in the criminal justice system. While Larry Nassar was found guilty of several State-level offenses, he was not charged federally for his illicit sexual contact with minors, despite crossing State and international borders to commit this conduct.

(7) The Department of Justice has also identified a growing trend of Americans who use charitable or missionary work in a foreign country as a cover for sexual abuse of children.

(8) It is the intent of Congress to prohibit Americans from engaging in sexual abuse or exploitation of minors under the guise of work, including volunteer work, with an organization that affects interstate or foreign commerce, such as an international charity.

(9) Federal law does not require that an abuser's intention to engage in sexual abuse be a primary, significant, dominant, or motivating purpose of the travel.

(10) Child sexual abuse does not require physical contact between the abuser and the child. This is especially true as perpetrators turn increasingly to internet platforms, online chat rooms, and webcams to commit child sexual abuse.

(11) However, a decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit found the use of a webcam to engage in sexually provocative activity with a minor did not qualify as "sexual activity".

(12) Congress can address this issue by amending the definition of the term "sexual activity" to clarify that it does not require interpersonal, physical contact.

(13) It is the duty of Congress to provide clearer guidance to ensure that those who commit crimes against children are prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

SEC. 3. INTERSTATE CHILD SEXUAL ABUSE.

Section 2423 of title 18, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (b), by striking "with a motivating purpose of engaging in any illicit sexual conduct with another person" and inserting "with intent to engage in any illicit sexual conduct with another person";

(2) by redesignating subsections (d), (e), (f), and (g) as subsections (e), (f), (g), and (i), respectively;

(3) in subsection (e), as so redesignated, by striking "with a motivating purpose of engaging in any illicit sexual conduct" and inserting "with intent to engage in any illicit sexual conduct"; and

(4) by inserting after subsection (g), as so redesignated, the following:

"(h) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—As used in this section, the term 'intent' shall be construed as any intention to engage in illicit sexual conduct at the time of the travel."

SEC. 4. ABUSE UNDER THE GUISE OF CHARITY.

Section 2423 of title 18, United States Code, as amended by section 3 of this Act, is amended—

(1) by inserting after subsection (c) the following:

"(d) ILLICIT SEXUAL CONDUCT IN CONNECTION WITH CERTAIN ORGANIZATIONS.—Any citizen of the United States or alien admitted for permanent residence who—

"(1) is an officer, director, employee, or agent of an organization that affects interstate or foreign commerce;

"(2) makes use of the mails or any means or instrumentality of interstate or foreign commerce through the connection or affiliation of the person with such organization; and

"(3) commits an act in furtherance of illicit sexual conduct through the connection or affiliation of the person with such organization, shall be fined under this title, imprisoned for not more than 30 years, or both."

(2) in subsection (f), as so redesignated, by striking "or (d)" and inserting "(d), or (e)"; and

(3) in subsection (i), as so redesignated, by striking "(f)(2)" and inserting "(g)(2)".
