Name: Guerline Jozef
Title and organizational: Executive Director, Haitian Bridge Alliance
Name of the Committee: House Committee on Foreign Affairs
The date: March 12, 2021
Title of the hearing: Hearing on “Policy Recommendations on Haiti for the Biden Administration”
The situation unfolding in Haiti today presents a significant challenge to the people of Haiti, the Haitian Asylum seekers at the US-Mexico borderlands, the region, and Haitian nationals living in the United States. As of 2019, the Haitian population in the United States is estimated to be close to a million.

1 Haiti was not always a migrant-sending country. Haiti fought and became the first free Black republic after it declared independence from France and ended slavery in the 19th century and was a destination for migrants for more than a century. But since then, years of dictatorships, devastating natural disasters, high levels of corruption, and foreign interference have held Haitians back from achieving prosperity and stability.

In January 2010, the country suffered a cataclysmic earthquake that killed between 220,000 and injured more than 300,000 people, injured hundreds of thousands more, and destroyed an enormous share of the country’s infrastructure. A widespread cholera outbreak introduced inadvertently by UN relief workers brought death and despair and together with subsequent natural disasters, including Hurricane Matthew in 2016, further exacerbated the country’s ability to recover and rebuild.

In addition to dealing with the significant lingering effects of these national and public health disasters, Haiti today must deal with a rapidly escalating political crisis that began after much-disputed 2015 election and took a turn after President Jovenel Moïse decided not to step down in February 2021 – the official end of his term according to his opponents understanding of the Haitian Constitution. Accusing Moïse of dictatorship and against his decision to stay in power beyond the term limit, thousands of Haitians have participated in protests, many in the capital of Port-au-Prince. The fresh political unrest and the constitutional crisis comes in the midst of increasing instances of kidnappings-for-ransom that has skyrocketed by 200 percent from 2019 to 2020, which led many schools and other institutions to close. Haitians accuse President Moïse of supporting these gangs to help suppress his opposition. Haiti’s ability to respond to the many challenges it is facing is hampered significantly by the absence of a functioning legislature and the total lack of elected mayors throughout the country.

According to reports, an internal report by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) within the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) recently concluded that “based on a recent analysis of conditions in Haiti, USCIS believes that Haitians removed to Haiti may face harm upon return to Haiti.” Nevertheless, in recent months DHS has deported or expelled thousands of Haitians including pregnant women and children as young as just two (2) months old to face that very risk of harm. Rather than continuing to pursue this harmful strategy, the Biden administration has several tools at its disposal to protect the safety of Haitian nationals here, asylum seekers at the US-Mexico borderlands and in the country and to help promote stability and recovery.

1. The Biden administration should immediately redesignate Haiti for Temporary Protected Status

The Biden administration should respond to the current crisis by redesignating Haiti for Temporary Protected Status (TPS). Based on the rising political unrest, growing authoritarian activities, and proliferation of gangs in the middle of an ongoing pandemic, Haiti is going through “extraordinary and temporary conditions” that makes it unsafe for Haiti nationals residing in the United States to return to the country. Haiti was designated for TPS in 2010 following the earthquake and redesignated in 2011 due, in part, to the cholera outbreak. The designations were extended regularly—including during the first months of the Trump administration—until they were set for termination toward the end of 2017. While the terminations have been prevented from taking effect due to ongoing litigation, the Biden administration can end the uncertainty experienced today by tens of thousands of Haitian TPS holders in the U.S. and extend protection to additional Haitian nationals facing the threat of deportation and expulsion by redesignating the country for TPS. Such a redesignation would permit qualifying Haitian nationals to continue their stay in the United States with work authorization and protections against deportation.

---

nationals in the United States to live and work lawfully, simultaneously promoting their own safety and the country’s efforts to achieve stability.

2. The Biden administration should immediately Stop all deportations and expulsions to Haiti

We strongly urge the government to halt all deportation and expulsion flights to Haiti. While nationwide unrest and political turmoil bring Haiti to “the verge of explosion,” Immigration and Customs Enforcement (“ICE”) has deported more than 1000 people to Haiti in furtherance of its goal of deporting 1,800 by mid-February. According to credible sources, the February 9, 2021 flight included five pregnant women, including two women who were almost at full term, risking the health and safety of these expectant mothers. The flight also reportedly included twenty-six children, including eighteen toddlers who were three years old or under. Children at this stage in their development are subject to lasting trauma and mental health disorders8 caused by their families’ imprisonment, mistreatment, and deportation by ICE. We strongly urge the government to stop expelling Haitian asylum seekers to Mexico, as it did on February 3, 2021, when it forcefully removed dozens of Haitians to Ciudad Juarez from El Paso, Texas. Some of these families reported that U.S. immigration authorities threw away their personal belongings after holding them in detention for days. They did not have a chance to file for asylum, and now face significant risk of exploitation and anti-Black violence in Mexico because they stand out as Black migrants and do not speak Spanish. Further, conditions on the U.S.-Mexico border become more dangerous by the day. Last month, Mexican police were charged in the massacre of 19 migrants on the border. Only the migrants’ charred bodies, many too burned to be identified, were found. In recent months, there have been reports of Haitian and other women and their newborns being sent to Mexico immediately after giving birth.

We strongly urge the government to end President Donald Trump’s “Title 42” order that allows Customs and Border Protection (“CBP”) and ICE to deport migrants apprehended at the border, as in the El Paso case mentioned above, without allowing them to pursue asylum claims. The Biden Administration’s 100-day moratorium on deportations, which has been temporarily stayed by a Texas Federal Court, did not include protection against Title 42 expulsions. Moreover, notwithstanding the Texas court order, the Administration retains the ability to use prosecutorial discretion in its detention and removal decisions.

Under the Trump Administration, deportation flights soared in the midst of the coronavirus pandemic, despite numerous reports that detention and deportations put people at great risk of contracting the virus. Deportation flights also export the virus to countries like Haiti that lack the health and other infrastructure to adequately control this deadly pandemic. In addition, “Title 42” (of the U.S. Code) expulsions, as intended, have resulted in a complete border shut down under the false pretext of public health, and denied many of the over 380,000 immigrants expelled under Title 42 in 2020 their right under international human rights law and U.S. law to state a claim of fear of persecution or torture. The vast majority of the young families being deported to Haiti have risked their lives in a long, dangerous, and traumatic journey from Haiti, up through South and Central America, to the U.S. Mexico border, only to be summarily expelled without the chance to request asylum.

We strongly urge the government to halt all flights to Haiti pending review of policies and practices concerning immigration enforcement, which have resulted in systemic discrimination against Black asylum seekers and other Black immigrants. Just one victim of this negligent and discriminatory system is Paul Pierrilus, who was deported to Haiti on February 2, 2021, even though he was not born in Haiti, has never been to Haiti, and is not a Haitian citizen. The only just and appropriate remedy is to return Mr. Pierrilus to his family in New York, who themselves are U.S. citizens.

We are incensed but not surprised by these deportations to Haiti; Haitians have historically been denied access to the United States and continue to be disproportionately denied such access, despite conditions that clearly qualify them to refuge under the law. In fact, the immigration prison system as we know it today, with a goal of mass detention and summary deportation, was started in the early 1980s in response to the thousands of Haitian migrants fleeing the Duvalier dictatorship.

3. The Biden administration should restart the Family Reunification Parole Program

During the Obama administration, to promote the health and safety of Haitian nationals who were the beneficiaries of approved family-based immigration petitions, DHS created a program to parole into the United States certain individuals so that they could be reunited here with their families while they wait for a visa number to become available. The program was a smart and entirely lawful effort to use the statutory tool of humanitarian parole to facilitate lawful migration to the United States and promote family unity. That program was effectively terminated during the Trump administration as part of its overall slash-and-burn efforts toward legal immigration and should promptly be resumed by the Biden administration.

4. The Biden administration should consider restoring the ability of Haitians to participate in the H-2A program

In 2012, the Obama administration added Haiti to the list of countries whose nationals are eligible to participate in the H-2A program.9 This program allows qualified applicants of the eligible country to apply for agricultural jobs in the United States. But the Trump administration removed the designation barrning Haitians from accessing these jobs and denying them an opportunity to not only help Haiti through remittances but also help the U.S. economy.10 While there are clear benefits of adding Haiti to the H-2A program, there have been valid and major concerns raised about the working and living conditions of workers with -A visas compounded by their disincentive to raise their voices against mistreatment given that their visa status is tied to their jobs. These concerns must be addressed to ensure that the workers are protected against exploitation.

---

In conclusion, we are demanding that this Administration stop these deportations and expulsions immediately. We note the Haitian government’s irresponsibility in agreeing to receive Haitian Asylum seekers given the political turmoil, which shows a disregard for the well-being of our brothers and sisters who will face severe hardship or even death upon their return. We continue to hope that the Biden-Harris Administration will change course and not continue the same draconian, cruel, evil, and inhumane practices of the Trump Administration. President Biden and Vice President Harris specifically promised the Haitian community and other immigrant communities that they would build back better. We need them to take bold action, Stop the expulsion and deportation of Haitian asylum seekers including women and children as young as 2 months old, provide much needed protection, and honor their promises to our Haitian-American and immigrant communities. We demand that we Black immigrants including asylum seekers are given the opportunity to be welcomed with dignity.

Anpil men, chay pa lou!

---

More Resources:

Customs and Border Protection, FY 2020 Nationwide Enforcement Encounters: Title 8 Enforcement Actions and Title 42 Expulsions (2020),

A Journey of Hope: Haitian Women’s Migration to Tapachula, Mexico, IMUMI, Haitian Bridge Alliance, Center for Gender & Refugee Studies (Jan. 12, 2021),

Jacqueline Charles, He wasn’t born in Haiti. But that didn’t stop ICE from deporting him there, lawyer says, Miami Herald (Feb. 2, 2021),

New York Times (Feb. 10, 2021),

Newsweek // Exclusive: Hundreds of Rights Leaders Demand U.S. End Haiti Deportations // 6/19/20

Haitian Bridge Alliance and UndocuBlack Network // Press Release: BREAKING: ICE Deports Black Immigrants On First Day of Black History Month // 2/1/21

https://www.uscis.gov/humanitarian/temporary-protected-status/temporary-protected-status-designated-country-haiti

A decade after the earthquake, Haiti still struggles to recover
UNICEF report

Haiti history -

Moïse Refusal to Exit Locks Haiti – And Haiti's Diaspora – In Constitutional Crisis

Insight Crime - Barbecue

Haiti’s Painful Evolution from Promised Land to Migrant-Sending Nation

Economic impacts of H-2 visa eligibility for Haiti

How the Haitian refugee crisis led to the indefinite detention of immigrants