19 LEADERSHIP AND REGIONALISM

20 SEC. 101. FINDINGS.

21 Congress finds the following:

22 (1) The Pacific Islands—

23 (A) are home to roughly 12,300,000 resi-
24 dents;

1 (B) are spread across an expanse of the 2 Pacific Ocean equivalent to 15 percent of the 3 Earth's surface, including the three subregions
4 of Melanesia, Micronesia, and Polynesia; and

5 (C) face shared challenges in development
6 that have distinct local contexts, including
7 unique environmental challenges and rising sea
8 levels, geographic distances from major mar-
9 kets, and vulnerability to external shocks such 10 as natural disasters in both slow and sudden
11 onset situations.

12 (2) The United States is a Pacific country with 13 longstanding ties and shared values and interests
14 with the Pacific Islands, including through the Com-
15 pacts of Free Association with the Freely Associated 16 States, the Republic of the Marshall Islands, the 17 Federated States of Micronesia, and the Republic of 18 Palau.

19 (3) The United States has vital national secu-
20 rity interests in the Pacific Islands, including—

21 (A) protecting regional peace and security
22 that fully respects the sovereignty of all nations;

23 (B) advancing economic prosperity free
24 from coercion and unfair practices through 25 trade and sustainable development; and

1 (C) supporting democracy, good govern-
2 ance, the rule of law, and human rights and 3 fundamental freedoms.

4 (4) Successive United States administrations
5 have recognized the importance of the Pacific region,
6 including the Pacific Islands, in high-level strategic 7 documents, including the following:

8 (A) The 2015 National Security Strategy,
9 which first declared the rebalance to Asia and 10 the Pacific, affirmed the United States as a Pa-
11 cific nation, and paved the way for subsequent 12 United States engagement with the Pacific Is-13 lands, including several new policies focused on 14 conservation and environmental resilience an-
15 nounced in September 2016.

16 (B) The 2017 National Security Strategy,
17 which includes a commitment to “shore up
18 fragile partner states in the Pacific Islands re-
19 gion to reduce their vulnerability to economic 20 fluctuations and natural disasters”.

21 (C) The 2019 Indo-Pacific Strategy Re-
22 port, which identified the Pacific Islands as 23 “critical to U.S. strategy because of our shared 24 values, interests, and commitments” and com-
25 mitted the United States to “building capacity

1 and resilience to address maritime security; Ille-
2 gal, Unreported, and Unregulated fishing; drug
3 trafficking; and resilience to address climate 4 change and disaster response”.

5 (D) The 2022 Indo-Pacific Strategy Re-
6 port, which recognized the need to engage fur-
7 ther with the Pacific Islands on shared security
8 goals.

9 (E) The 2022 Strategy for Pacific Island
10 Partnership, which outlined goals and methods
11 for deepening the United States partnerships
12 with Pacific Island nations.

13 (F) The 2022 National Security Strategy,
14 which identified the Pacific Islands as an area
15 of particular focus for expansion of regional 16 diplomatic, development, and economic engage-
17 ment in the broader Indo-Pacific.

18 (5) The United States has deepened its diplo-
19 matic engagement with the Pacific Islands through 20 several recent initiatives, including—

21 (A) the Pacific Pledge, which provided an 22 additional $100,000,000 in 2019 and 23 $200,000,000 in 2020, in addition to the for-24 eign assistance that the United States provided 25 annually to the region, to support shared priorities in economic and human development, environmental resilience, and more;

(B) the Small and Less Populous Island Economies (SALPIE) Initiative launched in March 2021 to strengthen United States collaboration with island countries and territories, including in the Pacific Islands, on COVID–19 economic challenges, long-term economic development, climate change, and other shared interests;

(C) the declaration on U.S.-Pacific Partnership of 2022 in which the United States and the Pacific Islands resolved to strengthen their partnership, bolstering Pacific regionalism;

(D) the Partners in the Blue Pacific Initiative, a new initiative, to increase diplomatic engagement and coordination in the region;

(E) the establishment of a U.S.-Pacific Islands Summit held in Washington, DC in 2022 and 2023; and

(F) the increase in the total amount of United States foreign assistance provided to the Pacific Islands, from $302,500,000 in fiscal year 2022 to $466,100,000 in fiscal year 2023.

1 (6) The Boe Declaration on Regional Security,
2 adopted in 2018 by leaders of the Pacific Islands
3 Forum, the central multilateral organization of the 4 Pacific Islands and partners, affirmed that climate 5 change “remains the single greatest threat to the 6 livelihoods, security, and well-being of the peoples of 7 the Pacific” and asserted “the sovereign right of 8 every Member to conduct its national affairs free of 9 external interference and coercion”.

10 (7) The Asian Development Bank has estimated 11 that the Pacific Islands region requires upwards of 12 $2,800,000,000 a year in investment through 2030,
13 in addition to $300,000,000 a year for climate miti-
14 gation and adaptation over the same period.

15 (8) Since 1966, thousands of Peace Corps vol-
16 unteers have proudly served in the Pacific Islands, 17 building strong people-to-people relationships and 18 partnerships demonstrating the United States com-
19 mitment to peace and sustainable development in the 20 region, including supporting education, health, and 21 economic development initiatives. Since having to 22 suspend operations during the COVID–19 pandemic,
23 the Peace Corps has reopened its posts in Fiji,
24 Tonga, Samoa, and Vanuatu and has signed a
25 Memorandum of Understanding with Palau regard-

1 ing its intent to reopen that post by the end of 2 2025. Peace Corps volunteers continue to be in high
3 demand in the Pacific Islands and have been re-
4 quested across the region.
