A BILL

To award posthumously a congressional gold medal to Charles B. Rangel, an American trailblazer and public servant, in recognition of his remarkable life and career in which he elevated the voices and interests of underserved communities, bolstered the reputation of the United States on the global stage, and cofounded the Congressional Black Caucus.

1       Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2       tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3       SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4       This Act may be cited as the “Charles B. Rangel 5       Congressional Gold Medal Act”.

1   SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2       Congress finds the following:

3           (1) Charles Bernard Rangel, born on June 11, 4           1930, in Harlem, New York City, was raised largely 5           by his mother Blanche Mary Wharton Rangel and 6           grandfather Charles Wharton alongside his older 7           brother Ralph, Jr., and younger sister Frances.

8           (2) After dropping out of high school at age 16, 9           Rangel enlisted in the United States Army and 10          served as an artillery operations specialist in the all-11          Black 503rd Field Artillery Battalion in the 2nd In-12          fantry Division from 1948 to 1952 during the Ko-13          rean War.

14          (3) During the Battle of Kunu-ri near the Yalu 15          River on the border of China and North Korea, Ran-16          gel and his fellow soldiers were encircled by Chinese 17          military forces and were subsequently ordered to 18          withdraw by their command.

19          (4) Upon receiving the withdrawal order, then-20          Private First Class Rangel was injured by shrapnel 21          from a barrage of Chinese shells, which struck his 22          back and triggered disarray amongst his comrades.

23          (5) Despite his serious injuries, rank, and an 24          encircled position behind enemy lines, in the middle 25          of the night Rangel led his unit of an estimated 40 26          men through a mountain pass to safety.

1                     (6) For his bravery and sacrifice, Rangel was 2 bestowed the Bronze Star with Valor and Purple
3 Heart, as well as receiving overwhelming admiration, 4 appreciation and lasting respect from his comrades.
5 When asked to reflect on the harrowing episode,
6 Rangel often noted that he had “not had a bad day 7 since”, a phrase that he adopted as the title of his 8 autobiography.

9                     (7) Upon his honorable discharge from the 10 Army with the rank of Staff Sergeant, Rangel re-11 turned to Harlem, finished high school, and used his 12 benefits under the Servicemen’s Readjustment Act 13 of 1944 (commonly known as the “G.I. Bill”; 58 14 Stat. 284, chapter 268) to obtain a Bachelor of 15 Science from New York University where he made 16 the Dean’s List. He subsequently received a full 17 scholarship to attend St. John’s University School of 18 Law, from which he graduated in 1960.

19                     (8) After a tenure in private practice, Rangel 20 was appointed Assistant United States Attorney for 21 the Southern District of New York by Attorney Gen-22 eral Robert F. Kennedy. After leaving the role, Ran-23 gel served as Associate Counsel to the Speaker of 24 the New York State Assembly, a law clerk to Judge 25 James L. Watson on the United States Court of 1 International Trade, and as General Counsel to the 2 National Advisory Commission on Selective Service.

3 (9) The positions he took early in his career en-
4 sured that Rangel would always remain in close 5 proximity to his roots in Harlem, where he met his 6 wife Alma Carter, a social worker, in the mid-1950s, 7 at the Savoy Ballroom. Their loving marriage
8 stretched more than 60 years and included 2 chil-
9 dren, Steven and Alicia, daughter-in-law Adelina, 10 son-in-law Howard, and 3 grandsons, Howard R.
11 Haughton, Joshua R. Haughton, and Charles R.
12 Haughton.

13 (10) Rangel's early political marks can be found 14 on matters and missions of profound significance.
15 He participated in the 1965 Selma to Montgomery
16 March, was elected to replace his mentor Percy Sut-
17 ton in the New York State Assembly, and was one 18 of the pillars in New York's generational political 19 powerhouse, "The Gang of Four", which included
20 New York State Senator Basil Paterson, Manhattan
21 Borough President and Civil Rights Leader Percy 22 Sutton, and David Dinkins, the first black mayor of 23 New York City.

24 (11) Following his election to the House of 25 Representatives in 1970, Rangel quickly rose

1 through the ranks of the Congressional Democrats 2 and was ultimately reelected 23 times.

3 (12) Shortly after his induction to the House in 4 early 1971, Rangel, along with 12 other Black Mem-
5 bers of Congress founded the Congressional Black 6 Caucus. He was elected by his colleagues to lead the 7 Caucus as Chairman in 1974.

8 (13) Rangel energized the national discussion 9 around drug trafficking, later becoming Chairman of 10 the Select Committee on Narcotics, and was a 11 prominent contributor to the work of the Committee 12 on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives on 13 the Watergate Scandal.

14 (14) Due to his growing influence, Rangel was 15 granted a position on the coveted Ways and Means 16 Committee and was elevated to serve as Deputy Ma-17 jority Whip under Speaker Tip O'Neill.

18 (15) Rangel used his newfound power in Con-19 gress to secure Federal support for programs that 20 benefitted his congressional district and other con-21 stituencies.

22 (16) He authored and supported legislation and 23 programs that uplifted vulnerable populations like 24 Child Care and Development Block Grants, the Low 25 Income Housing Tax Credit, the Earned Income

1        Tax Credit, the Work Opportunity Tax Credit, Em-2        powerment Zones, and Temporary Assistance for 3        Needy Families.

4                (17) He introduced measures to ensure that 5        human rights and democratic principles were re-6        flected in international business activity, including 7        an amendment rescinding tax credits for companies 8        doing business in apartheid South Africa.

9                (18) To ensure that the diplomatic corps re-
10       reflected the diversity of the United States, Rangel es-11       tablished the Charles B. Rangel International Af-12       fairs Fellowship Program in partnership with How-13       ard University, which now has more than 200 alum-14       ni serving in posts around the world.

15               (19) Rangel was also the primary force behind 16       the African Growth and Opportunity Act (19 U.S.C.
17       3701 et seq.), the first Act to provide incentives for 18       United States trade with sub-Saharan Africa, which 19       he authored and advanced despite significant polit-20       ical headwinds. He subsequently worked with Presi-
21       dent George W. Bush, to pass the AGOA Accelera-22       tion Act of 2004 (19 U.S.C. 3701 note), which 23       synergized and expanded on his earlier efforts that 24       instituted the trade program.

(20) Rangel similarly forged a sequence of trade agreements and programs pertaining to Latin America and the Caribbean, including trade preferences for countries in the Caribbean under the Caribbean Basin Economic Recovery Act (19 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.), as expanded by the United States-Caribbean Basin Trade Partnership Act (19 U.S.C. 2701 note) and the Haitian Hemispheric Opportunity through Partnership Encouragement Act of 2008 (19 U.S.C. 2701 note), and the Dominican Republic-Central America-United States Free Trade Agreement.

(21) Rangel was a lifelong champion for veterans, particularly service members who historically faced discrimination both in uniform and upon returning home. As a decorated Korean War veteran himself, Rangel often leaned on his personal experience and legislative authority to spotlight the needs of underserved veterans and ensure they received the benefits, respect, and opportunities they earned through their service. Rangel spearheaded legislation to close systemic gaps in Federal veterans programs, establish the Office of Minority Veterans, expand access to services of the Department of Veterans Af-

1 fairs, and strengthen the G.I. Bill, veterans housing 2 programs, and small business opportunities.

3 (22) As one of the few Korean War veterans
4 serving in Congress, Rangel sponsored and secured
5 enactment of legislation establishing National Ko-6 rean War Veterans Armistice Day on July 27th in 7 the section 127 of title 36, United States Code, to 8 honor his fellow veterans. He also deepened United 9 States-Korea relations through founding the Con-10 gressional Caucus on Korea, facilitating passage of 11 the United States-Korea Free Trade Agreement, and 12 passing resolutions that strengthen the bilateral 13 strategic alliance, promote peace and stability on the 14 Korean Peninsula, and support Korean American 15 family reunification efforts.

16 (23) As Dean of the New York Congressional 17 Delegation, he led his colleagues in the wake of the 18 9/11 attacks to pass measures that provided funding 19 to recovery efforts and relief to families that were 20 impacted, such as the extension of unemployment 21 benefits and provided health benefits to 9/11 first 22 responders and survivors.

23 (24) In 2007, Rangel became Chair of the pow-24 erful Ways and Means Committee. In that role, he 25 was instrumental in the development and passage of

1       the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act 2       (Public Law 111–148; 124 Stat. 119), which has 3       provided coverage to an estimated 20,000,000 unin-
4       sured or underinsured people of the United States.
5       He also ensured that United States territories like 6       Puerto Rico were not left out of this landmark law.

7                     (25) Rangel's exceptional life was heavily 8       marked by his extraordinary accomplishments in the 9       military, various government roles, and elected of-10      fice, which led to economic and social advancements 11      for his fellow servicemembers, constituents of his 12      district, underserved communities across the coun-13      try, and people around the globe.

14                    (26) During his congressional career, Rangel 15      crafted and passed numerous measures of signifi-16      cance, including several that remain foundational to 17      our military, diplomatic corps, healthcare system, 18      international trade relationships, and tax code.
