

Congress granted American citizenship to the residents of Puerto Rico in 1917. This bill provides a congressionally recognized framework for the 3.8 million people of Puerto Rico to freely express their wishes regarding their options for full self-government for the first time in almost a century of U.S. Administration.

Puerto Ricans have been the largest body of U.S. citizens which do not enjoy the privileges usually accorded to citizenship, including voting representation in Congress and the right to vote in Presidential elections.

Puerto Ricans are the largest group of Hispanic citizens in the U.S. and have only a second class citizenship.

H.R. 856 rectifies the problem of second class citizenship by empowering the people of Puerto Rico to become fully enfranchised, either outside of or wholly within the scope of the U.S. Constitution, through the exercise of their right of self-determination.

More than 340,000 soldiers from Puerto Rico have served in the U.S. armed forces since 1917, and more than 8,000 Puerto Ricans have died fighting for America in the U.S. armed forces.

H.R. 856 creates a constitutionally sound process to resolve the status of Puerto Rico.

Inaction is costing the U.S. taxpayer, in that the 3.8 million U.S. citizens of Puerto Rico will continue to enjoy a free ride exemption from the Federal income taxes the rest of us pay.

A vote against H.R. 856 will continue to deny the people of Puerto Rico the right of self-determination, the very same right which the U.S. so consistently and forcefully advocates in the rest of the world among its allies.

TRIBUTE TO ANNIE CHAU

HON. ANNA G. ESHOO

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 5, 1998

Ms. ESHOO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Annie Chau, a dedicated community leader who is being honored as a "Young Woman of Excellence" by the San Mateo County Women's Hall of Fame.

Annie Chau was born in Hong Kong and immigrated to the United States in 1991. Over the past seven years, she has made remarkable contributions to San Mateo County. As a San Mateo High School student, she has held the positions of Class Treasurer and Vice President of the International Club, in addition to being part of the school's math team, marching band, and local Amnesty International chapter. Ms. Chau has volunteered with children as a reading tutor, an art instructor, and an activity assistant. Further, she represents the youth of the community through her work on the San Mateo County Youth Commission and the Foster City Youth Advisory Council. Annie Chau has achieved a 4.0 GPA and she has been repeatedly recognized for her academic accomplishments in science, math, Latin and Spanish, along with all her volunteer efforts.

Mr. Speaker, Annie Chau is an outstanding leader and I salute her for her remarkable contributions and commitment to our community. I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring and congratulating her on being chosen a "Young Woman of Excellence" by the San Mateo County Women's Hall of Fame.

HONORING ROSEMARY LOMBARD

HON. THOMAS J. MANTON

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 5, 1998

Mr. MANTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Rosemary Lombard. Rosemary is held in the highest esteem by the Irish American community for her overall integrity, leadership and commitment to the preservation of Irish culture and tradition. She has ably chaired and actively participated in numerous major civic, religious, and charitable causes over the years.

Rosemary is a first generation Irish American of Counties Mayo and Sligo heritage. She was born in Washington Heights, Manhattan and was instilled at an early age with a love of Ireland and all things Irish. During her life, she has served tirelessly in the preservation of Irish culture and tradition. Most important of these traditions is the strong and fervent belief in the attainment of human rights for all people of Ireland.

Having her Bachelor's and Masters degrees from Hunter College, and an Educational Leadership Certificate from Manhattan College, Rosemary served as a past President, founding member and Director of the Irish Teachers Association. In addition, she was a past Chairperson of the Irish American Heritage and Cultural Week Committee of the New York City Board of Education. She also broke ground by being the first woman President of the Mayo Society. Her other posts have included: Treasurer of the St. Patrick's Day Parade and Celebration Committee; delegate to the St. Patrick's Day Parade for over 25 years; President of the Ladies Ancient Order of Hibernians, Division 3; United Irish Counties Association's Second Vice President; charter member of the Irish American Heritage Museum; Secretary of the 46th Police Precinct Council, Board Member of the Fordham Civic Association; and Member of the Board of Directors of the Irish Institute.

I think you will agree with me that Rosemary has contributed enormously to our community and deserves much recognition for her dedicated years of service. Today, I pay tribute to Rosemary Lombard and her tireless efforts and know my colleagues will join with me in recognizing her tremendous contributions to education about Irish American heritage and human rights.

COMMENDING THE BRAZOS VALLEY YOUTH TROUPE FOR THEIR ACHIEVEMENTS

HON. KEVIN BRADY

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 5, 1998

Mr. BRADY. Mr. Speaker, I am proud to rise in recognition of the Brazos Valley Youth Troupers, who have just spent their spring break taking on Broadway. These talented youth were the first group chosen by Camp Broadway to attend their performing arts instructional camp in New York City. Selected for their wealth of acting experience, this group of 10 to 17-year olds have represented their community of Bryan, Texas with excellence in all of their achievements.

In just two years, the Brazos Valley Youth Troupe has performed for the Olympic Torch Relay, appeared in Andrew Lloyd Webber's Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, and now studied under the direction of various Tony Award winners on Broadway. The troupe's performance in Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat drew rave reviews from the national touring cast they performed with, as well as the audience. With Camp Broadway, sixteen youth from the troupe traveled to New York City, took classes from the likes of Carol Channing and famed director George C. Wolfe, and met with the cast and crew of Titanic in an educational workshop—all at their own expense. In a short period of time, these youths were able to raise $1000 per student to cover their expenses of participating in Camp Broadway.

Mr. Speaker, I commend the efforts of young citizens such as these involved in Brazos Valley Youth Troupe. They reflect the commitment and direction that makes our nation strong. They found a goal and went for it—making themselves a success and, in turn, a success of their community. I join with the citizens of Bryan in applauding them for their accomplishments and encourage them to use that ambition in all their future endeavors.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF FRANK BROWN

HON. JULIAN C. DIXON

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 5, 1998

Mr. DIXON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Mr. Frank Brown, a loving, devoted father and family man, decorated veteran, and a successful businessman who passed away in Los Angeles on December 21, 1997.

Frank was born on January 27, 1918, in Old Town, a section of Lewisville, Arkansas. His mother, Kate Bradley, and grandparents Kathryn and Abe, instilled in Frank and his sisters Bernice and Daisy, the solid foundation and commitment to community and family that would serve as his guiding principle for years to come. Following his graduation from Lewisville High School, Frank moved to Shreveport, Louisiana, where he worked in a lumber mill and played first base for one of the few semiprofessional black baseball teams, the Shreveport Black Sports.

Frank answered his country's call in World War II, serving in the United States Army's 870th Engineering and Aviation Battalion in the South Pacific. He received numerous citations and medals for his distinguished military service and was honorably discharged in 1945. Upon leaving the Army, Frank realized one of his longtime goals of building a home for his mother in Arkansas.

From Arkansas Frank moved to Los Angeles, California, where he married Odessa Brown, another Lewisville native, on May 21, 1946. Frank and Odessa produced five children: Marion, Gwendolyn, Kathleen, Frank, and Reginald. In Los Angeles, Frank pursued a career as a glazier and worked for years to break the color line in the once-segregated Glazier and Glass Workers Union, Local 636. He finally became a member of Local 636 in 1953 and in 1965, founded Brown's Glass Company—Los Angeles' first Black-owned glass business. Recognizing the importance of his achievement to the black community in Los Angeles, Frank took the opportunity to share his knowledge and expertise with aspiring entrepreneurs by teaching at the Los Angeles Trade Technical College. He retired from the glass business in 1985 after more than 40 years in the profession.

Aside from his professional accomplishments and love for his family, Frank's other passion was his membership in the Prince Hall Affiliation of the California Jurisdiction and several other fraternal organizations. After many years of dedicated and exemplary service, the United Supreme Council honored him with the 33rd Degree—one of the highest honors that can be achieved in Masonry.

Frank was also active in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and the Los Angeles branch of the Urban League. A dedicated and devout Christian, Frank was a member of Los Angeles' famed Trinity Baptist Church for over fifty years. For more than thirty of those years, he served as a member of the Deacon Board, regularly and steadfastly participating in church projects, including the construction of Trinity's current sanctuary. In November 1997, during its 80th anniversary celebration, Trinity paid tribute to Frank for his selfless and enduring commitment to his church family.

Mr. Speaker, I was privileged to know Frank Brown; his and Odessa's daughter—Gwendolyn Brown Byrd—served as my Legislative Director for several years prior to her appointment as Deputy Assistant Secretary for Health, Budgets and Programs at the Pentagon. He was a wonderful family man; a gentleman who instilled in his accomplished children the importance of family and commitment to public service and community. It is, therefore, fitting that his life be recognized in this manner. I ask that my colleagues join me in remembering his contribution to community and in extending our heartfelt condolences to his beloved family.

HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS IN BELARUS

HON. CHRISTOPHER H. SMITH

OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 5, 1998

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I—along with my colleagues Reps. GILMAN, WOLF, PORTER, HOYER and MARKEY—rise today to introduce a resolution voicing concern about serious limitations on human rights in Belarus, a country of 10 million people located in eastern Europe. Belarus has an old and rich—and often tragic—history. This century, the people of Belarus suffered the horror of both Nazi and Soviet totalitarianism. More recently, they were ravaged by the 1986 Chernobyl nuclear disaster, the legacy of which profoundly haunts Belarus to this day. Today, the rights and liberties of the Belarusian people are being eroded by their own authorities.

As a participating State of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE), Belarus has pledged to abide by its commitments under the Helsinki Final Act and subsequent agreements of the OSCE. Yet since the election of President Alyaksandr Lukashenka in 1994, basic rights and freedoms have come under increasing assault in clear violation of Belarus' freely undertaken commitments under the OSCE.

In an illegitimate November 1996 referendum to amend the 1994 Constitution, President Lukashenka amassed sweeping powers over parliament and the judiciary. In his quest for more power, Lukashenka has ignored the constitutionally established system of separation of powers. Virtually all power rests in the hands of Lukashenka, who has resorted to rule by decree. Following the 1996 referendum, Lukashenka disbanded the Supreme Soviet (parliament) and created a new legislature, which is largely subordinate to his authoritarian rule. The resolution I am introducing today urges President Lukashenka to restore the rights of the pre-November 1996 parliament, which, having been duly elected on the basis of democratic elections in 1995, is the only legitimate parliament in Belarus.

Similarly, Lukashenka has also undermined the judicial branch. The previously independent Constitutional Court has been brought entirely under his control, and independence of the judiciary in Belarus is no longer guaranteed.

Belarus has been rife with violations of human rights over the last few years, bringing to mind the bygone Soviet era. Freedoms of expression, and association and assembly are severely restricted. The state controls almost all media outlets. The few genuinely independent newspapers and radio stations have been harassed or shut down. Journalists critical of the regime have been denied accreditation; some have been jailed. Opposition leaders and other individuals who criticize the president or government have been intimidated, beaten, or detained. Non-governmental organizations face obstacles and have been subjected to harassment. The Belarusian Soros Foundation, for instance, which had donated some $13 million to educational, humanitarian, cultural and media projects in Belarus, was forced to close its office there last September as a result of the Belarusian Government's orchestrated campaign of harassment. Demonstrations during the last few years have resulted in short-term detentions—with detainees held incommunicado—fines and police violence against demonstrators and even bystanders.

Mr. Speaker, one can provide a litany of specific instances, but allow me to highlight just two recent cases. Last August, police in the Belarusian town of Stolptsy detained 19-year-old Alexei Shidlauski and 16-year-old Vadim Labkovich—both members of the youth branch of the opposition Belarusian National Front. They were charged for "malicious hooliganism" for allegedly writing on walls appeals for freedom in Belarus and for replacing on several buildings the official red-green Belarusian flag with the red-white-red "independent" Belarusian flag, which President Lukashenka banned in 1995. The young men spent six months in pre-trial detention under very difficult conditions. Just last week, a Miensk court sentenced Vadim Labkovich to a one-and-a-half-year suspended prison term and Alexei Shidlauski to one-and-a-half-year prison term in a strict regime colony. Human Rights Watch, whose representatives were present at the trial, condemned the proceedings as a "show trial and a mockery of justice."

In late December, Yuri Khashchevatsky, an internationally renowned film director and a member of the Belarusian Helsinki Committee was beaten unconscious by two unidentified men, in what human rights observers strongly believe to be a politically-motivated assault. Khashchevatsky had directed a documentary film called "An Ordinary President", which is critical of President Lukashenka. The film won several international prizes, but has been effectively banned in Belarus. Mr. Speaker, I can cite numerous other instances of specific violations of human rights and civil liberties and the Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe (Helsinki Commission), which I Co-Chair, has detailed information concerning such violations. We have and we will continue to make our views about these matters known to the Belarusian government.

Mr. Speaker, all of the post-communist countries in the region face formidable obstacles in their transition to democratic states based on the rule of law. We recognize that the oppressive legacy of communism and of Soviet rule cannot be overcome overnight. Some of the post-communist countries have made greater progress towards reform; in others, progress has been more erratic, but in virtually all, there has been progress. Belarus, however, appears to be the only country in the region which has witnessed serious backsliding and a turn to the Soviet past. Immediately following its 1991 independence, Belarus appeared to be off to a good start in establishing its democratic credentials, but even those limited reforms have been reversed as Lukashenka has steadily tightened his grip.

Belarusian officials, including President Lukashenka, have complained about Belarus' isolation from the international community, as more and more countries and international bodies have taken Belarus to task over the curtailment of human rights and civil liberties there. The OSCE, for instance, has repeatedly called upon the Government of Belarus to respect human rights and democratic principles, to enter into dialogue with the opposition and to ensure freedom of the media. Lukashenka fails to realize the consequences of his actions and his government's failure to abide by international commitments. The international community has not isolated Belarus—President Lukashenka is isolating Belarus.

After nearly a year of difficult negotiations and several false starts, Belarus and the OSCE agreed to an OSCE Advisory and Monitoring Group, which will assist the Belarusian authorities in promoting democratic institutions and in complying with other OSCE commitments. This Group, which is now commencing its work and which will be located in the Belarusian capital of Minsk, can play a truly constructive role in helping Belarus improve its human rights situation. Let me assure you that I will watch closely the willingness of the Belarusian Government to cooperate with the OSCE Advisory and Monitoring Group.

Mr. Speaker, If the Belarusian Government abides by its commitments under the Helsinki Final Act and subsequent OSCE agreements, its isolation from the international community will disappear and its relations, not only with the United States, but with its neighbors in the region, will improve dramatically.
