

I think in all instances he asked us as Americans to be truthful, to accept the truth, to acknowledge the truth, and not to run away from the truth. Racism does exist in this Nation, and it is for us, as Americans, to work together to live in harmony. I think Dr. King would want us to do that.

So the anniversary of his assassination is not a time of sadness, but commemoration and commitment to the fact that each of us will try to overcome the devastation of racism and the fact that we isolate ourselves from other groups. President Clinton's recent visit to Africa, now almost finished, should signal the importance of Americans reaching out to all diverse groups.

Dr. King would be smiling, and he would hope that as we debate issues of national prominence, as we speak around this country, Dr. King would want us to use his words in truth and to recognize that what he wants for this Nation is equal opportunity for all. Until that date comes, I can imagine Dr. King somewhere continuing his fight, his oration, his speech, his non-violent way, but never giving up until there is racial harmony in this Nation.

COMMENDING DR. AND MRS. SHELTON H. SHORT, III, FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF SCHOLARSHIP FUND AT RANDOLPH-MACON COLLEGE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. GOODE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GOODE. Mr. Speaker, I rise this evening to commend Dr. and Mrs. Shelton H. Short, III, of Clarksville, Virginia, for establishing a $100,000 permanent scholarship fund at Randolph-Macon College in honor of Dr. Short's late father. The scholarship fund is designed to assist students from Boydton, Virginia, the first site of Randolph-Macon College, as well as students from surrounding communities.

Dr. Short and his wife Jean are distinguished citizens and active participants in their community in Mecklenburg, Virginia. Their families contributed in significant ways to that community, the Commonwealth of Virginia, and the Nation over the course of at least 2 centuries.

Indeed, Dr. Short is a descendent of the late Congressman William O. Goode, who served in the body from 1841 to 1843 and from 1853 to 1859. Although I am not privileged to be a relative of the former congressman, he was a prominent Virginian who served as Speaker of the Virginia House of Delegates and wrote the original charter of Randolph-Macon College.

Shelton and Jean Short are to be applauded for their generosity and their commitment to the education of young men and women at Randolph-Macon college, an institution of higher learning on which their family has had such a significant and tremendous impact.

Mr. Speaker, I include for the RECORD the article from the May 21 issue of the Mecklenburg Sun.

The article referred to follows:

SCHOLARSHIP EMPHASIZES R-MC TIES TO BOYDTON

BOYDTON.—A Clarksville couple has honored the memory of the late Shelton Hardaway Short, Jr. by establishing a $100,000 permanent scholarship fund to Randolph-Macon College in his honor.

As benefactors of the scholarship, Shelton H. Short, III and his Jean were center stage at a ceremony Wednesday night in Boydton announcing the fund. They were joined by Dr. Ladell Payne, president of Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, local elected officials and about 100 onlookers at the Mecklenburg County Courthouse.

The scholarship is designed to reward deserving college students from Boydton who will serve as ambassadors of the college's roots in Boydton. If no eligible students apply from the town, the scholarship will go to students in Mecklenburg, Brunswick and other surrounding counties. The gift is meant to underscore the historic ties between Randolph-Macon, which was founded in Boydton, and Southside Virginia.

In remarks to the audience, Short noted that his father "would be pleased that the scholarship given in his name would bring closer the links between Randolph-Macon as it was in its founding home of Boydton in 1930, with Randolph-Macon of today and tomorrow in Hanover County, Virginia." Short also said his father would wish "that the recipient of the Boydton scholarship consider himself or herself as a goodwill ambassador representing Boydton, Southside Virginia" and surrounding areas.

According to Short, the criteria for winning the scholarship will go beyond academic and extracurricular achievements and address the character of potential applicants. The newly-endowed award is need based and will go to academically promising students in Boydton and surrounding areas.

Applicants "should consider making straight A's in good manners, a neat appearance and helpfulness to others as well as classwork," said Short. "To me straight A's in Greek or geometry are meaningless without good manners and a sincere desire to help others."

"We would ask the town fathers and town mothers of our area, and especially Boydton, to impress upon the winner the necessity of being a goodwill ambassador for Boydton, Randolph-Macon College's place of birth. What the student does will reflect back upon Boydton—good or otherwise."

Short said Boydton students would be the first choice for the scholarship, followed by students in the rest of Mecklenburg County and Brunswick County. Other areas included in the scholarship's territory are Granville, Halifax, Vance and Warren Counties in North Carolina, and Charlotte, Dinwiddie, Greensville, Halifax, Lunenburg and Nottoway Counties in Virginia. Students from the North Carolina counties of Mecklenburg and Brunswick will also be eligible, Short said.

Short described his father, Shelton Hardaway Short, III as a "modest gentleman" who loved Randolph-Macon College. "He loved the original town of Randolph-Macon's birthplace—Boydton—as well as Randolph-Macon's present and future locality, Ashland. Shelton H. Short, Jr. dedicated, designed and donated the official flag for Randolph-Macon in 1968 and used as a centerpiece for the College's ensign a photo of the central structure of Randolph-Macon as it stood in Boydton in the 1930s."

At age 16, Shelton H. Short, Jr. left home in Brunswick County, Va. to enroll at Randolph-Macon in Ashland. His education there was interrupted by World War I, and he volunteered for the U.S. Army infantry as a teenager. After being assigned to training school at Virginia Military Institute, Short went to Plattsburg, N.Y. and was commissioned as a second lieutenant. When the war ended, he returned to R-MC and graduated as a member of the Class of 1919 with a bachelor's of art degree.

After volunteering for the Army in World War I, Short returned to the military at the age of 43 to serve his country during World War II. He became a major in the U.S. Marine Corps and served in the reserves after the surrender of Germany and Japan in 1945.

At Randolph-Macon, his volunteer spirit and energy were readily apparent—he was President of the Cotillion Club, an officer in Kappa Alpha, and centerfielder for the Yellow Jackets baseball team, even playing the day Babe Ruth and the Boston Red Sox played the Yellow Jackets in an exhibition game. After completing his degree, he turned his attention to the local business community, serving as president of Jeffreys Motor Company in Chase City and chairman of the Board of Trustees of Jeffreys-Spaulling Manufacturing Company and of Jeffreys-McElrath Manufacturing.

He also owned and operated several farms and was a prominent tobacco and tree farmer. He was director of Jeffreys Lumber, Inc., Home Telegraph and Telephone and Virginia Forestry, among other companies. In addition, he served for 4 years as a director of Peoples Bank and Trust Co. and its successor, Fidelity American Bank and Central Fidelity, all in Chase City.

Short also worked to better the community by serving on the Mecklenburg School Board and the Town Council of Chase City. He served in the Virginia House of Delegates from Mecklenburg County and served on the Virginia Economic Development Commission under three governors. A life-long member of the Methodist Church, he served on the Chase City Centenary United Methodist Church Board of Stewards for much of his adult life. He was also a Trustee of the former Blackstone College for Women.

The first winner of the Honorable Shelton H. Short, Jr. Scholarship will be announced in the fall, said Dr. Payne, R-MC President. The scholarship will reinvigorate the ties between Boydton and the college, he noted.
