HONORING CLIFFORD R. HOPE

HON. JERRY MORAN

OF KANSAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. MORAN of Kansas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce legislation naming the post office in Garden City, Kansas after former Congressman Clifford R. Hope.

Mr. Hope represented the 7th Congressional district in Kansas from 1927 to 1957. During those 30 years, Mr. Hope rose in prominence in the House and eventually became the Chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture. In fact, he was the last Republican of the Agriculture Committee prior to the Republican party gaining control of the House in 1994.

During Mr. Hope's political career, he rose first in the Kansas House of Representatives becoming the Speaker of the Kansas House. Following his election to Congress, Mr. Hope became the Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and was deeply involved in establishing many of the agricultural programs still in existence today. In addition to his work on behalf of agriculture, Mr. Hope was a strong advocate for defense programs and was heavily involved in the military programs essential to the war efforts of World War II.

Mr. Speaker, as a fellow Kansan it is with pride that I associate myself with Mr. Hope and I am honored to introduce this legislation.

A TRIBUTE IN MEMORY OF BENNY WATERS

HON. GREGORY W. MEEKS

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. MEEKS of New York. Mr. Speaker, it is with a great sense of loss that I pay tribute to Mr. Benny Waters, a jazz legend and the oldest touring jazz musician, who died on August 11.

Benjamin Arthur Waters was born the youngest of seven children to Edward and Francis Waters on January 23, 1902 in Brigh-ton, Maryland. Mr. Waters started his musical education at age 5 with organ lessons, and he soon moved to reed instruments. While in high school, still in the pre-jazz era, he played syn-copated music with Charlie Miller's band. In his late teenage years he attended the Boston Conservatory of Music, where he studied theory and arranging and gave private clarinet lessons. Among his pupils was Harry Carney, who went on to play baritone saxophone with Duke Ellington.

In 1952, a turning point came in Waters' life when he was asked to join Jimmy Archey's Band for a European tour. The saxophonist decided to stay on in Paris and remained there making it his home while touring festivals and giving concerts in Europe for the next 42 years. Last year, the French government presented Waters with its distinguished "Chevalier Legion d'Honneur."

Failing eyes and the need for cataract surgery brought the saxophonist home and unfortunately resulted in losing his eyesight. Waters' never-failing buoyancy and upbeat spirit brought him to the attention of the "Statesmen of Jazz" Tour, and he was invited to become a founding member. Through his performance, he achieved new stature at home in America. Waters, along with his fellow "Statesmen," contributed his time to Arbors Records for the "Statesmen" CD, and its sales are donated to perpetuate the nationwide and international tours. His most recent recording was "Birdland Birthday—Live at 95."

In blindness, he persevered, averaging 100 dates a year until this year, making a second-floor apartment in Hollis, Queens—a suburban town in my district—his home base. Jazz historians indicate that Benny was one of only six survivors of jazz recording artists of the late 1920s who were still active, along with Claude "Fiddler" Williams, Benny Carter, Lionel Hampton, Spiegel Willcox and Rosy McHargue.

Benny will be missed by his family, friends, colleagues, fans and communities across the world.

AUTHORIZING THE COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY TO INVESTIGATE WHETHER SUFFICIENT GROUNDS EXIST FOR THE IMPEACHMENT OF WILLIAM JEFFERSON CLINTON, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

SPEECH OF

HON. GARY L. ACKERMAN

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 8, 1998

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to voice my strong objections over the Republican resolution ordering an impeachment inquiry against President Clinton. This has become a one-sided, all-out and disgraceful witch hunt into the private life of the President, and I strongly disagree with its objectives and methods.

Although I believe that the President's behavior with Ms. Lewinsky was indefensible and disgraceful, and I certainly do not condone it, it is in no way an impeachable offense. Given the existing evidence, I believe that there is no basis for impeachment of the President. Lying about an extramarital affair, regardless of to whom, does not rise to the level of an impeachable offense, as defined by the Constitution: " * * * the President shall be removed from Office on Impeachment for, and Conviction of, Treason, Bribery, or other high Crimes and Misdemeanors." While the President's behavior was offensive, I believe that it does not fit this definition. I sincerely doubt that the farmers of the Constitution had Kenneth Starr's report—which focused on private sexual behavior—in mind when drafting the impeachment clause.

It is time for us to put this issue behind us and move onto matters that are vital to our nation. Our country has many challenges to confront, and it is imperative that Congress give its attention to the very important issues that affect the daily lives of all Americans—such as improving our education system, protecting Medicare and Social Security, and strengthening the world economy. Over the course of the 105th Congress, we have witnessed an abuse of power.

And it is this Congress that is guilty of the abuse. You see, Mr. Speaker, we abuse the power we have when children go to bed hungry, and we do little or nothing about it.

We abuse our power when Social Security is in trouble and we sit idly by;

We abuse our power when we don't address the problems of the environment, such as polluted waterways and dirty air;

We abuse our power when our health care system is ill, and we don't cure it;

We abuse our power when we allow the tobacco companies to poison our children without regard;

We abuse our power when our campaign financing system needs reform and we ignore it;

We abuse our power when our students are lagging behind those of other nations and we don't address the issue properly;

I think it has become painfully obvious that the Republican leadership wants to simply ignore the priorities that remain important to the general public, while insisting on following through with a purely partisan and never-ending investigation into the private life of our President. This is something that I simply cannot be a party to and that I strongly oppose.

PATRICIA ROBERTS-HARRIS

HON. GLENN POSHARD

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. POSHARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize one of Illinois' most prominent government officials and a dear constituent of Mattoon, Illinois, Mrs. Patricia Roberts-Harris. It is an honor to acknowledge one of the 19th congressional districts own as Mrs. Fran Phillips-Calhoun and the Patricia Roberts-Harris Commemorative Campaign celebrate and organize their energy on a U.S. postal stamp and a biographical book on Pat Harris.

As many of my colleagues may remember, Pat was a distinguished official in both the United States government and the arena of international diplomacy. But before she became the first black female U.S. cabinet member and the first black female ambassador, she was one of Illinois' favorite daughters. A native of Mattoon, she was proud of Illinois and wanted to do more for the United States and the African-American community. Pat was the only daughter born to Bert Fitzgerald and Hildren Brodie Roberts of Mattoon. During her early childhood, Pat's family owned a farm and she attended the local elementary and middle school in Mattoon. By high school age, her family moved to Chicago, where she finished at Englewood High School. Pat later attended Howard University in 1942 and graduated within three years, summa cum laude. She wanted to return back to Illinois and get involved in the Chicago community as an activist at the Young Women's Christian Association (YWCA).

However, it was in Washington where Pat became so well known in the first of numerous prestigious positions. In 1949, she worked for Delta Sigma Theta Sorority as executive director and with Howard University as dean of students and professor of law. She even had
