HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 353—ADJOURNMENT OF THE TWO HOUSES OF CONGRESS

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask the Chair to lay before the Senate House Concurrent Resolution 353, the adjournment resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 353) providing for the sine die adjournment of the Second Session of the One Hundred Fifth Congress.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the concurrent resolution, which is nondebatable.

The concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 353) was agreed to as follows:

H. CON. RES. 353

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring). That when the House adjourns on the legislative day of Wednesday, October 21, 1998, or Thursday, October 22, 1998, on a motion offered pursuant to this concurrent resolution by its Majority Leader or his designee, it stand adjourned sine die, or until noon on the second day after Members are notified to reassemble pursuant to section 2 of this concurrent resolution, or until a time designated pursuant to section 3 of this resolution; and that when the Senate adjourns on Wednesday, October 21, 1998, or Thursday, October 22, 1998, on a motion offered pursuant to this concurrent resolution by its Majority Leader or his designee, it stand adjourned sine die, or until noon on the second day after Members are notified to reassemble pursuant to section 2 of this concurrent resolution.

SEC. 2. The Speaker of the House and the Majority Leader of the Senate, acting jointly after consultation with the Minority Leader of the House and the Minority Leader of the Senate, shall notify the Members of the House and the Senate, respectively, to reassemble whenever, in their opinion, the public interest shall warrant it.

SEC. 3. During any adjournment of the House pursuant to this concurrent resolution, the Speaker, acting after consultation with the Minority Leader, may notify the Members of the House to reassemble whenever, in his opinion, the public interest shall warrant it. After reassembling pursuant to this section, when the House adjourns on any day on a motion offered pursuant to this section by its Majority Leader or his designee, the House shall again stand adjourned pursuant to the first section of this concurrent resolution.

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, will the Senator withhold one second, for one more unanimous consent request?

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 138—PROVIDING FOR THE CONVENING OF THE FIRST SESSION OF THE 106TH CONGRESS

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to House Joint Resolution 138 received from the House.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A joint resolution (H.J. Res. 138) appointing the day for the convening of the First Session of the One Hundred Sixth Congress.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the immediate consideration of the joint resolution?

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the joint resolution.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to and the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The joint resolution (H.J. Res. 138) was considered read the third time and passed, as follows:

H.J. RES. 138

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled. That the first regular session of the One Hundred Sixth Congress shall begin at noon on Wednesday, January 6, 1999.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I can announce now that there will be no further votes in the 105th Congress. This resolution just adopted provides for the convening of the 106th Congress at 12 noon on January 6, 1999.

I yield the floor.

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina.

COMMENDATION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. THURMOND. Mr. President, we have accomplished a lot this year. I am very proud of what has been done here in the Senate. No one is due more credit for this than our able leader, Senator LOTT. I just want to commend him for his outstanding accomplishments and the fine cooperation he has given to all of us and for everything he has done for this country.

THANKING SENATOR THURMOND

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, just briefly, I thank the distinguished President pro tempore for the job he has done and for his friendship and help. Truly, one of the most important accomplishments of this Congress was our armed services authorization bill, the Strom Thurmond authorization bill. It was a tough process, a long process, but we got it done largely because of his tenacity and the respect and reverence we all have for Senator Thurmond. And that led, of course, to the appropriations bill and its defense and military construction portions, and it contributed to the additional funds that were added in this omnibus appropriations bill for defense and intelligence for the future of our country.

Thank you, Senator THURMOND, for all you did.

Mr. THURMOND. I thank the able leader.

MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There will now be a period for the transaction of morning business.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SANTORUM). The Senator from Pennsylvania is recognized for 15 minutes.

Mr. SPECTER. I thank the Chair.

OMNIBUS APPROPRIATIONS CONFERENCE REPORT

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I had hoped to make this floor statement in advance of the vote, but I could not be here yesterday. So, I have asked for time this morning to state my reasons for voting against the omnibus appropriations bill. And I do so with a conflict of my own views because I think this bill provides very substantial funding for very many important projects. However, I decided to vote against the bill because of the change from regular order and existing procedures in the appropriations process. The Constitution gives the authority to 100 Members of the Senate and 435 Members of the House, but as the appropriations process went forward the final decisions were made by only four Members.

Mr. ASHCROFT. Mr. President, the Senate is not in order. I would like to hear the Senator, if we could have order in the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will come to order.

Mr. SPECTER. I thank my colleague, Senator ASHCROFT, for asking for order. I would like to hear myself and am having some difficulty.

As I was saying, Mr. President, notwithstanding the fact that this bill contains funding for many, many vital programs for America, I decided on balance to vote against it because it made such drastic changes in existing procedure where the Constitution gives to the Congress the authority to appropriate, 435 Members in the House and 100 Members in the Senate, and as the arrangements were finally worked out, critical decisions were made excluding the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, excluding the chairmen of the relevant subcommittees such as myself, with only the Speaker, the leader of the Democrats in the House, our distinguished majority leader, and the minority leader in the Senate. I think that is very, very problematic.

During the time allotted to me this morning I intend to summarize my views.

Starting first with the accomplishments, it does provide for $83.3 billion
