Y2K ACT—CONFERENCE REPORT

Mr. McCaIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to lay aside the pending business and turn to the conference report to accompany H.R. 775. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The committee on conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 775), to establish certain procedures for civil actions brought for damages relating to the failure of any device or system to process or otherwise deal with the transition from the year 1999 to the year 2000, and for other purposes, having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses this report, signed by a majority of the conferees.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the Senate will proceed to the consideration of the conference report.

(The conference report is printed in the Record of June 29, 1999.)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, debate on the conference report is limited in the following manner:

The Senator from Arizona, Mr. Mccain, 20 minutes;
The Senator from Connecticut, Mr. Dodd, 15 minutes;
The Senator from Oregon, Mr. Wyden, 15 minutes;
The Senator from Vermont, Mr. Leahy, 10 minutes;
The Senator from South Carolina, Mr. Hollings, 50 minutes.

Immediately following that debate, the Senate will proceed to a vote on the adoption of the conference report with no other intervening action or debate.

The Senator from Arizona, Mr. Mccain. Mr. President, I don't intend to use all of my time. I intend to yield 5 minutes to the Senator from Washington. I have talked to other Members who have time under this agreement. For the benefit of my colleagues, I think we will not use all of the time as outlined in the unanimous-consent agreement.

I am pleased to urge the final passage of the conference report on H.R. 775. This has been a long and arduous process. While there have been times when the bill appeared to be moving slowly, or even dying, I was always confident we would do the right thing and pass this final law morning, as we pressed the deadline for completion of the conference report. Final revisions and drafting were made with every effort and good faith intention to respond to the generalized requests of the White House. Challenges to the integrity, professionalism and honor of the conferees and staff are unwarranted. This is a fair bill that reflects a bipartisan compromise.

Perhaps the recent vote just a few minutes ago in the House might indicate that is an overwhelming view in the other body. I am sure the vote in the Senate will also indicate overwhelming support for this legislation.

During the conference, the Senate and the House proponents of the legislation agreed to at least 10 substantive changes to the bill. These significant compromises were in addition to 10 or more major concessions made in the Senate from the time it was passed by the committee until its passage on the floor. These revisions and compromises have resulted in a more narrowly tailored piece of legislation but one that will still accomplish everything we set out to accomplish when the bill was introduced in January.

We know the provisions of the bill:

The 30-day notice and 60-day remediation period allows prompt resolution of problems without time-consuming and expensive litigation
It provides that defendants are responsible for the share of harm they cause, with some exceptions to ensure that consumers are made whole
It requires plaintiffs to mitigate damages
It penalizes defendants who intentionally defraud or injure plaintiffs; or who are bad actors
It provides liability protection for those not directly involved in a Y2K failure
It assures that someone will not lose his house if a mortgage payment cannot be made or processed because of a Y2K failure
It suspends in three years.
It does not deny the right of anyone to redress legitimate grievances.

This legislation will encourage an atmosphere of cooperation in solving problems, rather than rushing to the courthouse. Emphasizing the need to talk out and resolve differences rather than litigating them will be helpful not only now but into the future. I hope we will move away from the litigious nature of our country today.

I am especially pleased at the level of bipartisan and bicameral cooperation in bringing this legislation to fruition. This bill demonstrated the true ability of both parties and both bodies of Congress to work together for the good of the country. The efforts on both sides of the aisle and both sides of the Capitol to achieve consensus have been tireless. This conference has truly been a civics class example of how Congress can rise above special interest demands to do the right thing in the public interest.

Mr. President, there are many who have contributed to this effort, particularly during the conference with the House. I want to especially mention the steadfast support and efforts of both Senator Dodd and Wyden. They worked late into the night this week to negotiate with the White House and assure the President's support.

I thank my two colleagues, Senator Dodd and Senator Wyden. This bill passed the Commerce Committee 11-9 on a strict bipartisan vote. Thanks to the efforts of those two individuals, who have been tireless, we were able to not only work with the other side of the Capitol, but the White House. Senator Wyden and Senator Dodd have better relations with the White House than I ever could have was a significant and, frankly, critical part of this legislation that we made. I again extend my deep appreciation to them.

It did not win them the "Miss Congeniality" award in their own caucus—something I am familiar with on this side of the aisle.

My appreciation, as well as a certain amount of sympathy, goes out to them. In all seriousness, without their efforts we would not be here.

I also think they would join me in expressing appreciation to Congressman Goodlatte and Congressman Davis on the other side. Congressman Goodlatte and Congressman Davis started with a piece of legislation far more restrictive—if that is the right word—in the opinion of some, a lot better.

The fact is, they were willing to agree to the movement in the compromises that were made. They clearly could have held their ground and we could not have moved forward.

By the way, Congressmen Goodlatte, Davis, and Sensenbrenner were the originators of this legislation.

I also thank Senator Gorton, Senator Feinstein, Senator Hatch, and Senator Bennett.

It reminds me of the old line of Jack Kennedy after the Bay of Pigs: Victory has 1,000 fathers and defeat has 1 poor lonely orphan.

Along with that philosophy, I thank the staff members on both sides of the aisle and both sides of the Capitol: Carol Grunberg of Senator Wyden's office, Sharon B. Browne of Senator Dodd's staff; Jeanne Bumpus of Senator Gordon's staff; Larry Block with Senator Hatch; Steven Wall on Senator Lott's staff; Laurie Rubenstein with Senator Lieberman; Tania Calhoun of the Y2K Committee; Diana Schacht of the House of Representatives; Phil Kiko, of Congressman Sensenbrenner's staff; Amy Herrink, of Congressman Davis's staff; and Ben Kline of Congressman Goodlatte's staff.

Finally, I thank the coalition that got behind this legislation. Their help was as broad as any coalition of businesses—large, small, and medium-sized—I have seen in my experience here in the Senate.

I thank the National Association of Manufacturers, the Chambers of Commerce, and hi-tech groups, including ITAA, ITI, and BSA.

I ask unanimous consent a list of the year 2000 coalition members be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in this RECORD.

We dropped the preemptive standards for punitive damages. We made sure that bad actors were not going to get a free ride. We restored joint liability for defendants who knowingly committed fraud. There were extra damages for plaintiffs. Mr. President, we restored that and we restored limited liability for directors and officers. That is what we began with after it left the Senate Commerce Committee and why I was pleased to join with Chairman McCain. Then, Senator Dodd is the Democrats' leader on these technology issues and who has given me, as a junior Member of this body, so much counsel, came along and made an additional set of important changes so as to particularly protect small businesses. We also went further with respect to officers and directors, and we made sure that plaintiffs were not going to face tougher evidentiary standards because of the good work done by the Senator from Connecticut.

Then we went to the conference committee and there were 10 major changes made to address concerns of the White House. In the area of proportionate liability, we doubled the orphan share for the solvent defendants, we tripled the orphan share for defendants when the plaintiffs were bad actors, and we assured that individual consumers facing insolvent defendants were made whole.

We made a number of changes in the class action area. We boosted the monetary threshold. In committee, when we began it was at $1 million. Now it is at $10 million. We boosted the class size from 50 to 100 plaintiffs. We also added provisions to make sure cases could be dealt with under remand provisions to assist the consumer.

Finally, there were changes in securities law to exempt private securities claims under this act, strong provisions with respect to contract enforcement, and a lot of the important issues that our colleague from North Carolina has raised with respect to economic loss, we stipulated the economic loss rules would apply in a number of instances so as to give the consumer yet another tier of protection.

Our Nation needs a game plan for Y2K. This legislation is not going to solve all of the Y2K problems that crop up early in the next century. But what we wanted to do was ensure that we do not compound the problems we know are going to occur. We are doing it in a way that is going to ensure consumers are made whole, that bad actors face the stiffest of penalties, and at the same time we do not encourage mindless litigation that does nothing other than drain the vitality out of our economic prosperity.

I have believed for a long time that failure to pass legislation in this area would be similar to lobbing a monkey wrench into the Nation's technology engine which is driving our prosperity. This legislation gives us the opportunity to keep that prosperity going. I am very honored to have had the opportunity to be part of this effort.

I pay special thanks, in wrapping up my remarks, to my colleague, Senator Dodd, the Democratic leader on these technology issues. A little bit after midnight, Mr. President, I believe it would be early Tuesday morning—this relatively young Senator was getting a little pooped and beginning to wonder how much longer I could keep going. The distinguished Senator from Connecticut said: This is not an option. We chose to stay and watch this legislation gets done. I say to my pal from Oregon, I am going to be talking to the President of the United States tonight.

I looked at my watch and I thought: Well, it is quarter to 1. This is going to be interesting, to learn a little bit more about this call. But in fact, as a result of the efforts of Senator Dodd, the work that was done by Chairman McCain and his staff and a variety of colleagues on both sides of the aisle in the early morning hours, on Tuesday we consummated the 20 major changes that were made in this legislation to ensure we had a bipartisan bill. So I have to tell you, this legislation, which was on the ropes early Tuesday morning, not a lot of us thinking that it was going down for the count, now is a bill that our body can be proud of. It is a genuine compromise. I am not going to continue further because I know there are a number of colleagues who who wish to speak as well. But I do want to pay tribute to a number of our staff who put in these extraordinary hours.

I see Marti Allbright and Mart Buse over there, with Chairman McCain; Senator Dodd's staff as well, Carol Grunberg, who is here with me, is sort of the Senate's Bionic Woman. She just kept going when it was so important to keep the parties together.

I am proud to be a part of this effort. I look forward to what I hope will be a successful conference vote in the Senate before too long. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, how much time is reserved under the unanimous consent agreement for the Senator from Vermont?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 10 minutes.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, this conference report on the Y2K liability protection bill is being roundly praised, but not universally. Not universally. And it should not be. This bill is worse than the bill the Senate passed only a few weeks ago. The conference report provides expanded legal protections, especially at the expense of consumers, and I believe it raises serious constitutional questions. I do not support it because it is an unjustified wish list for special interests that are or might become involved in Y2K litigation.

The conference report greatly expands the scope of the Senate-passed bill by amending this act to apply to a potential Y2K failure. In fact, section 4 of the bill was amended during the conference to apply to the act’s legal restrictions for a potential Y2K failure that could occur or has allegedly caused harm or injury before January 1, 2003. Let me ask, what is a potential Y2K failure? We know that the bill was amended last Thursday that it was an expansive definition that had been expressly rejected during House Judiciary Committee proceedings. It certainly was not accepted here. Lo and behold, like the ‘Lady of the Lake’ in the story of one coming out of the ether during the conference.

Not really even during the conference. In fact, that may be one reason the conference was never called to meet for a second time to go over the proposals to amend or to even vote on these matters, because it was easier to have matters not considered by the House or the Senate or the conference or voted on, but those that came from somewhere—not from us. But the House did not do enough.

In fact, after the first truncated meeting was adjourned and a possible follow up meeting was postponed Tuesday morning, the conference was never called back into public session to debate the proposal or even permit amendments to be offered and voted on. I predicted at the first and only preliminary meeting of the conference that I would not be allowed an opportunity to improve the bill by adding balance or adding protections for at least even get a vote on it. I am sorry to report that I was correct. In fact, the conference report was filed without any follow up meeting or votes by the conference committee.

That is an interesting way of doing things. If we have a lobby that does not want something, like the juvenile justice bill that passed—they do not want it because they lost on the gun issues—why, it comes to a screeching halt: We are studying it, we are reviewing it, we want to talk about this, we need to have time for votes, we have to have a conference and go thoroughly into it.

We have another lobby that says we want this Y2K bill: We do not like the bill that passed the Senate, and the House did not do enough for us. Will you throw a bunch of stuff in, don’t vote on it, don’t talk about it, don’t have any procedure, just toss it in, because this is what we want, and, oh, by the way, we want it right now, we need it in the next conference. This vagueness of a potential Y2K failure will also add to more future litigation instead of curbing it. From a bill that is supposed to deter frivolous litigation, this new, vague definition will produce more lawsuits and may give special legal protection to many more companies than the Senate-passed bill.

These special legal protections include: 90-day waiting period to file a lawsuit, heightened pleading requirements, duty to anticipate and avoid Y2K damages, overriding implied warranties under State law, proportionate liability. All of these special legal protections still apply to small business owners and consumers in this so-called compromise. In fact, the bill, as presently drafted, would preempt consumer protection laws of each of the 50 States.

I have to ask: Why does this bill create new protections for large corporations while taking away existing protections for ordinary citizens? Maybe they do not have as much influence at the conference.

Many consumers may not be aware of potential Y2K problems in the products they buy for personal, family, or household purposes. They just go to the store and buy it to work. They are going to find a real surprise if there is something in there that does not work. One thing that will not work is the usual remedies they expect out of the consumer protection laws.

This bill as presently drafted would preemp the consumer protection laws of each of the 50 states and restrict the legal rights of consumers who are harmed by Y2K computer failures.

Why is this? It offers new protections for large corporations while taking away existing protections for the ordinary citizen? We all know that individual consumers do not have the same knowledge or bargaining power in the marketplace as businesses with more resources.

Many consumers may not be aware of potential Y2K problems in the products they buy for personal, family or household purposes. They just go to the local store or neighborhood mall to buy a home computer or the latest software package. They expect their new purchase to work. What if it does not, due to a Y2K problem?

Then the average consumer should be able to use his or her home state’s consumer protection laws to get a refund, replacement part or other justice. But not under this bill.

The conference report also greatly expands the jurisdiction of the federal courts to consider Y2K cases under its class action provisions—now throwing Y2K cases into Federal court if a plaintiff seeks an award of punitive damages. Again, this expansion of the Senate-passed bill is unjustified.

It could be legal malpractice for an attorney not to seek punitive damages at the beginning of a case, when the complaint is filed and before discovery of all the facts has commenced. This provision makes no sense and may cause great harm.

Chief Justice Rehnquist and the Judicial Conference soundly rejected this approach months ago. The Judicial Conference found that shifting Y2K cases from state courts ‘holds the potential for overwhelming the federal courts, resulting in substantial costs and delays.’ I wonder who pays for that? It is not us.

In addition, the Judicial Conference concluded ‘the proposed Y2K amendments are inconsistent with the objective of preserving the federal courts as tribunals of limited jurisdiction.’ They have rejected the state court judges, as reflected in the position of the Conference of Chief Justices. They note that these Y2K bills ‘pose a direct challenge to the principles of federalism underlying our system of government.’ They describe these bills as ‘radically altering the complementary role of the state and federal courts. The Chief Justices of our state courts remind us: ‘The founding fathers created our federal system for a reason that Congress should be extremely reticent to overturn.’’

I thought the Administration had also rejected this approach.

Mr. President, I suspect that the sweeping federal procedural and substantive changes to state law in this conference report will not pass constitutional muster when challenged. The conference report does not create a federal cause of action for Y2K lawsuits. Instead, the bill forces federal rules and liability protections on state-based claims and procedures. This will result in the dismissal of claims that might otherwise succeed under state law and clearly usurps the ability of state legislatures to make and enforce the laws for their citizens.

The conference report is an arrogant dismissal of the basic constitutional principle of federalism. Given the Supreme Court’s recent rulings on the power of the States in relation to the federal government, I predict the Supreme Court will strike down this new law as unconstitutional.

We in Congress should not be trampling on the rights of the States to set the legal procedures for their courts and define the legal rights for their citizens.

On May 1, 1999, Assistant Attorney General Eleanor Acheson outlined the Department of Justice’s views on this legislation. The Department of Justice concluded that: ‘‘The McCain-Wyden-Dodd proposal modifies tort and contract law so as to reduce the liability of potential Y2K defendants, it reduces the incentive for potential defendants to avert Y2K failures. In a similar fashion, we do not believe that modifying the rules of liability that apply to meritorious tort and contract actions will deter frivolous Y2K claims, which by definition will be filed regardless of the rules of liability. Instead, the modification in the McCain-Wyden-Dodd bill seems more likely to curtail legitimate Y2K lawsuits.’’

I agreed with the Department of Justice on May 1, 1999, when this letter... was written, and I agree with this letter today. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the full text of the Department of Justice's views as of May 1, 1999, be printed in the RECORD at the conclusion of my remarks.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEAHY. This conference report is telling the business community: Don't worry, be happy if it comes to Y2K. But don't worry about trying to protect the consumers, because the Senate and the House are going to protect you; all you have to worry about is yourself, not those who buy your products.

If they take that attitude using this bill as a shield, it only makes Y2K computer problems worse next year instead of fixing them this year. The best defense against any Y2K lawsuit is to be Y2K compliant in 1999, not waiting for a problem to happen and in the year 2000 say: Oh, wait a minute, they took care of us in the Congress; too bad, we're home free.

That is why I hosted a Y2K conference in Vermont to help small businesses prepare for Y2K. That is why I taped a Y2K public service announcement in my home state. That is why I cosponsored Senator Bond and Senator KERRY's new law, the "Small Business Year 2000 Readiness Act," to create SBA loans for small businesses to eliminate their Y2K computer problems now. That is why I introduced, with Senator Dodd as the lead cosponsor, the "Small Business Y2K Compliance Act," S. 962, to offer new tax incentives for purchasing Y2K compliant hardware and software.

These real measures will avoid future Y2K lawsuits by encouraging Y2K compliance now.

Last year I joined with Senator HATCH to pass into law a consensus bill known as "The Year 2000 Information and Readiness Disclosure Act." We worked on a bipartisan basis with Senator BENNETT, Senator DODD, the Administration, industry representatives and others to reach agreement on a bill to facilitate information sharing to encourage Y2K compliance.

The new law, enacted less than nine months ago, is working to encourage companies to work together and share Y2K information. The test results so far promote company-to-company information sharing while not limiting rights of consumers. That is the model we should use to enact balanced and narrow legislation to deter frivolous Y2K litigation while encouraging responsible Y2K compliance.

Unlike last year's Y2K information sharing law, this conference report is not narrow or balanced. Instead it is an unjustified wish list for special interests that could become involved in Y2K litigation.

The coming of the millennium should not be an excuse for cutting off the rights of those who will be harmed. It should not be an excuse for turning out our States' civil justice system upside down. It should not be an excuse for immunizing those who recklessly disregard the coming problem to the detriment of American consumers.

The Administration has, all along, advocated Y2K legislation as long as it serves three important goals: (i) giving companies every incentive to be Y2K compliant; (ii) encouraging resolution of Y2K problems without resort to litigation; and (iii) deterring frivolous Y2K lawsuits without deterring legitimate Y2K claims. We are convinced, however, that the McCain-Wyden-Dodd bill does not achieve these goals.

In fact, that bill may significantly undermine the "safe harbor" provisions of the McCain-Wyden-Dodd proposal modifies tort and contract law so as to reduce the liability of potential Y2K defendants, it reduces the incentive for potential plaintiffs to avert Y2K failures. In a similar fashion, we do not believe that modifying the rules of liability that apply to meritorious tort and contract actions will deter frivolous Y2K claims, which by definition yield no damages. As applied to businesses with greater financial resources, this yields time.

Because of the concerns I have outlined, the Department remains opposed to S. 96, even as modified by Senator DODD's proposed amendments.

The Office of Management and Budget has advised us that from the perspective of the Administration's program, there is no objection to the submission of this letter.

Sincerely,

ELEANOR D. ACHESON,
Assistant Attorney General,
U.S. Department of Justice.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I yield sufficient time as may be necessary under the time I am allotted under the agreement.

Mr. President, a notable author once stated that "decades surrounding a new millennium are periods of severe disruptions and cultural transformations." In the context of American politics, it appears that this state of being is coming upon us before the 21st century officially arrives.

From the manner in which this legislation has been considered, and unfortunately, from its ultimate passage, it appears that this country is embarking upon a serious transformation of America's constitutionalism.

For 200 years, we have honored a system of federalism that recognized the appropriate balance between States and the Federal Government concerning the administration of civil law. Civil disputes unrelated to constitutional claims were considered to be reserved to the states and local citizens. But this cherished notion of states’ rights is no longer seen to be the case. Now, upon the tide of promoting materialism, and more specifically, the so-called growth of technology, it appears that federalism, as well as the constitutional rights of American citizens, are becoming not only dishonored, but for sale as the best bidder.

There are some who will support this legislation today upon the grounds that this is a bill limited in scope. Nothing could be further from the truth. This legislation includes some of the broadest limitations ever imposed on consumers’ civil remedies, including severe restrictions on the recovery of economic losses and the ability to pursue class action suits.

The majority’s claims about the recovery of economic losses greatly exceed the degree to which economic losses will be recoverable under the bill. In reality, the legislation will forbid the recovery of economic losses in almost every situation.

The inference majority contends that the class action provision has been made more pro-plaintiff because of the change made to the monetary requirement—from $1 million to $10 million—and the change made to the class size requirement, which is now 100 members. However, the conference majority failed to highlight the decision by the conference committee to add a provision that allows any class action suit to be removed to federal court in the event the suit includes a claim for punitive damages. The addition of this provision has expanded the federalization of class actions suits well beyond the provision in the original bill.

The conference report states that my provisions that protect credit protection has been revised to reflect the true intent of the provision, which was to prevent consumers from losing their mortgages because of Y2K failures. However, the purpose of the provision was not to singularly protect mortgages, but to protect consumers against adverse actions in relation to all debt-related transactions, including automobile loans and credit card obligations.

I know that many of my colleagues on this side of the aisle will vote for final passage because of the President’s decision to sign this bill. I am most disappointed in the President’s decision. When the President announced and carried out his veto of the products liability bill three years ago, I applauded. He stated then that there was no justification for broad restrictions on punitive damages, joint and several liability, and broad preemption of State law. He reiterated those concerns on punitive damages, joint and several liability, and preemption of State law. He reiterated those concerns. I remind myself that the conference report states that the conference committee to add a provision that allows any class action suit to be removed to federal court in the event the suit includes a claim for punitive damages.

We went to all that trouble with King John to get trial by our peers, and now a lot of lawyers with business consultants want to abolish juries.

Mr. President, when I hear the expression by my distinguished chairman about a victory for the Nation and such nonsense from the distinguished Senator from Ohio about the consumers not getting the shaft—that is exactly what they are getting. I know that many of my colleagues on the other side of the aisle will vote for this bill. When the President announced that the legislation will also be minimal at best. From the perspective of directors and officers, the provisions that provide for federal standards regarding the liability of officers and directors in Y2K provisions are virtually completed. The ABA is not opposed to the argument that it is appropriate to provide for federal standards regarding liability of officers and directors in Y2K provisions. It is not opposed.

The American Bar Association opposes enactment of H.R. 775 in either the form that passed the Senate on June 15, 1999, or the form that passed the House of Representatives on May 12, 1999, . . . The American Bar Association believes that the rights of the States should not be trampled in the rush to enact legislation to address concerns about Y2K. Traditionally, legal principles governing tort and contract actions have been the province of the States, not the Federal Government. The legal issues likely to be presented by the Year 2000 problem are not unique.

We tried our best to protect the consumers. You name the consumer organization in America—Public Citizen, Consumers Union—they are all still opposed to this conference report.

I stand here with a letter which the American Bar Association recently wrote:

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

American Bar Association,
Consumer Affairs Office,

Hon. Trent Lott,
U.S. Senate. Majority Leader of the Senate,
Washington, DC.

Dear Mr. Majority Leader: We understand that the Administration and key members of Congress are continuing to try to resolve differences with respect to H.R. 775, Y2K liability legislation. Last Friday, the ABA’s Board of Governors met in Boston and adopted a new position regarding this legislation. I am writing to you to express the American Bar Association’s views on this legislation.

The American Bar Association opposes enactment of H.R. 775 in either the form that passed the Senate on June 15, 1999, or the form that passed the House of Representatives on May 12, 1999. The ABA is supportive of efforts to impose a reasonable waiting period before a lawsuit could be brought and encouraging potential litigants to utilize alternative dispute resolution methods during this period. The ABA is also supportive of encouraging the disclosure of known Y2K defects and of encouraging businesses, with appropriate antitrust laws, to cooperate in the development and implementation of remediation of Y2K defects. However, the ABA strongly opposes provisions in the versions of the legislation that passed both in the House and in the Senate that would: (1) provide for federal standards regarding the extent of punitive damages; (2) preempt the state laws to place a federal cap on punitive damages; (3) limit the liability of officers and directors in Y2K proceedings; (4) allow for removal of almost all Y2K class actions; and (5) limit the ability of the state laws to place a federal cap on punitive damages. The ABA also opposes the fee-shifting provisions of section 506 of H.R. 775 as passed by the House.

The ABA believes that the rights of the states should not be trampled in the rush to enact legislation to address concerns about Y2K. Traditionally, legal principles governing tort and contract actions have been the province of the States, not the Federal Government. The legal issues likely to be presented by the Year 2000 problem are not unique. Except for some regulatory action undertaken by federal and state agencies, there is little in the nature of special Y2K law. Disputes arising from Year 2000 computer failures likely will involve garden variety claims of negligence, fraud, breach of warranty, breach of contract, insurance coverage and the like. There is no reason to believe that the standards applicable to non-Y2K-related tort, contract and class action claims are not appropriate for resolution of lawsuits involving the Year 2000 problem.

The ABA believes that it is doubtful that H.R. 775, as passed by either House, would encourage more or better Year 2000 remediation, or more or better disclosure about Year 2000 readiness. In fact, we believe that the opposite result is the more likely. Many businesses are inspired to undertake their Year 2000 remediation projects with a higher degree of diligence precisely because of potential legal liability from violating the standards of liability breeds uncertainty, and prudent business people frequently opt not to spend money in the face of uncertainty. Where the relevant law of the jurisdiction in which businesses now operate is fairly certain, any new federal law will only muddy the waters. In light of the almost certain constitutional challenges and the necessity of litigation to interpret a new law in the various states, the efficacy of any new legislation will also be minimal at best.

Moreover, proposed legislation has the potential to penalize organizations that have been the most diligent in their Year 2000 preparations. Many companies have spent millions of dollars in time and money extensively completing their projects, perusing innumerable tests and drills. Some are spending an inordinate amount of time meeting with their legal advisors and members of the business community by sharing the knowledge they have learned. These efforts should be encouraged. However, by raising the bar for bringing and sustaining legal actions, Congress may stifle the very resources those companies who through their own foresight spent their resources to adequately deal with Year 2000 issues. Those who choose not to spend sufficient resources could have a competitive advantage. In short, whatever benefits the proposed legislation may have are likely to be too little, too late and to re-award the pending petitions.

The fee-shifting provisions of Section 508 of H.R. 775, as passed the House, would preempt federal, state and local statutes and court rules to apply a modified "lossers pay" or fee-shifting court rule with respect to any Year 2000 claim for money or property. They would require that if either side rejected a settlement offer prior to trial and did less well at trial than the offer, that party would be responsible for the fees and costs of the other party from the date on which the last offer was made by the adverse party.

Section 508 would force parties either to accept a settlement offer or run the risk of incurring the fees of the other side. This would encourage "low-ball" settlement offers by the defendant rather than a realistic appraisal of the value of the case. Only the wealthy claimant would be able to run the risk of fees; in particular, the middle-class claimant who has some assets to lose would be in the greatest jeopardy. In a clear case of liability, the advantage might be paid for by a counterparty's fee demand. But in all cases, the risk of litigation would be greater for someone who believes their claim or defense is just.

The American Bar Association does not endorse court rules or statutes that provide for fee-shifting based upon rejection of settlement offers. Such proposals would deter those who lack the financial wherewithal to absorb not only their own legal fees but also those of their adversaries from filing meritorious claims or defending meritorious positions. They favor the litigant with financial muscle, provide a disincentive to all claimants with limited financial means and encourage settlement by gamesmanship rather than encouraging realistic appraisals. Ultimately they erode our country's concept of equal justice under the law.

Although the ABA does not support court rules or statutes that provide for fee-shifting based upon rejection of settlement offers, it adopted policy in February 1996 suggesting that if such a statute or rule is being contemplated, certain safeguards outlined in an "offer of judgment procedure" be incorporated in such a statute or rule. We would be happy to provide you with a copy of this offer of judgment procedure should you wish to review it and to answer any questions you may have about the ABA policy on this matter.

Please let me know if I can provide you with additional information or otherwise be of assistance to you on this matter.

Sincerely,

ROBERT D. EVANS.

Mr. HOLLINGS. No Governor, no Attorney General, no State legal group supports this legislation. On the contrary, there is a letter here from the Conference of Chief Justices of the several States in opposition to this measure.

I ask unanimous consent to have that printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Hon. Tom Daschle, Minority Leader, U.S. Senate, Hart Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C.

Dear Senator Daschle:

We, as President of the Conference of Chief Justices (CCJ), on behalf of our Conference members, want to express our concern with S. 96 and H.R. 775 in their current form.

We understand that S. 96 and H.R. 775 are attempts to address the serious problem of potential litigation surrounding the Y2K issue. However, we believe that these proposals would be contrary to the principles of federalism underlying our system of government. We are particularly concerned that each bill would in effect replace established state class action procedures in favor of removal to the Federal courts on most cases. The members of CCJ seriously question the wisdom of such an action.

In this regard, CCJ agrees with the position of the U.S. Judicial Conference as submitted by Judge Walter Stapleton to the Senate Judiciary Committee on April 13, 1999. His testimony points out that:

"State legislatures and other rule-making bodies provide rules for anger and that state law claims into class-wide litigation in order to achieve certain litigation economies of scale. By providing for class treatment, state policymakers seek to treat that the state's own resources can be best deployed not through repetitive and potentially duplicative individual litigation, but through streamlined class treatment. H.R. 775 could deprive the state courts of the power to hear much of this class litigation and might well create incentive for claimants to prefer a state forum to bring a series of individual actions. Such individual litigation might place a greater burden on the state courts and thwart the state's policies of more efficient disposition.

Federal jurisdiction over class litigation is an area where change should be approached with caution and careful consideration of the underlying relationship between state and federal courts."

We emphasize that State courts presently handle 95 percent of the nation's judicial business. State and Federal courts have developed a complementary role in regard to class treatment. H.R. 775 could radically alter this relationship. It is not enough to argue these bills affect only a segment of commerce, or that resolution of the problem of price fixation is in convenient. It is a bad precedent that could have future ramifications. The founding fathers created our federal system for a reason that Congress should be extremely reticent to overturn.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me directly, or contact Tom Henderson or Ed O'Connell who staff our Government Relations Office. You can be reached at (703) 840-0000.

DAVID A. BROCK,
President, Conference of Chief Justices.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Certainly everybody wants money. I want money. You want money. The system wants money. The White House is going crazy after money. Heaven above, everyone knows everybody wants money.

If you think this is just a spurious analysis or a spurious argument, let's go back. Here it is: "GOP Vies for Backing of High-Tech Leaders. Party Aims to Exploit Y2K Vote. . . ."
In what may prove to be a faint hope, Simon Rosenberg, executive director of the New Democrat Network, said that high-tech leaders are going to see the GOP drive this week: "It's a wake-up call. If you want to catch up on high tech. But this challenge of which party is going to be the one that most adapts to the new realities and the new challenge is a long time."

Mr. HOLLINGS. Here is the same: "Congress Chasing Campaign Donors Early and Often" about Y2K. That is from the New York Times, dated June 14.

The article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

From the New York Times, June 14, 1999

CONGRESS CHASING CAMPAIGN DONORS EARLY AND OFTEN

(By Alison Mitchell)

WASHINGTON, June 13--As campaign finance legislation languishes, Congress has gone on an all-out funding-raising binge driven by the battle for control of the House, competition for money with the Presidential campaigns and an array of incentives to scare off challengers.

In a sign of just how intense the money chase has been between Senate and House campaign committees, for the first time, they created their own special programs to court and cater to donors willing to give them $100,000 in each of the two years of the 2000 campaign cycle.

Unabashed by the debate over President Clinton's use of the White House to court deep-pocketed donors, the two houses have offered generous contributors an array of incentives, like access to party leaders, special issue briefings and meetings in lush locales.

In the case of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, which is led this year by Representative Patrick J. Kennedy of Rhode Island, that even includes a weekend at the Kennedy family compound in Hyannisport, Mass., as close as it gets to a Democratic shrine.

"If we're going to raise more money," said Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, "we're going to have to do it in bigger chunks."

The creation of the groups is a sign of how the 2000 battle for Congress is causing an escalation in the pursuit of so-called soft money, the kind of unrestricted contributions from wealthy individuals and labor unions that the parties have used to get around the post-Watergate contribution limits.

By law, an individual can give only $20,000 a year to the party committees to use for the direct purpose of electing a Federal candidate. So the bulk of these $100,000 donors, which can be used for activities like party building or advertisements advocating issues.

One such money was largely the purview of the national political parties, not their Congressional arms. But last year the Congressional committees became more aggressive in raising soft money, which can be used for activities like party building or advertisements advocating issues.

figures at the end of this month. But the Republicans say they beat the Democrats in the first quarter in traditional donations by 2 to 1, raising over $7 million, and also topped the Democrats in soft money. In June 30, Republicans expect to raise more than $7 million at a gala for both the House and Senate.

The Republicans traditionally bring in far more money than the Democrats.

The fund-raising drive is equally intense for independents. Particularly in the House, any incumbent who could face a competitive race in 2000 is working overtime to raise as much money as possible by June 30, the next deadline for the Federal Election Commission. Almost every night there is at least one fund-raiser somewhere in the vicinity of Capitol Hill.

The election commission reports are used by political strategists and donors to judge the potential strength of candidates. And in many cases the size of these bank accounts can draw in more donors—or scare them away from a competitor, helping determine whether a strong challenger should jump into a race.

House Republicans are pushing incumbents who already face significant challengers or who drew less than 55 percent of the vote in 1998 to try to have $500,000 in each of their campaign accounts by the end of the month.

Mr. Davis of Virginia says he knows the importance of the June 30 filing deadline. When he was trying to decide whether to challenge the incumbent Democrat, Leslie Byrne, he looked at her campaign bank account. “She had only $25 grand in the bank and I said, ‘Maybe I can do this,’” he said. “If she had had $250,000 in the bank, I would have run.”

House Democrats are trying to make sure that all their freshmen in seats that may not be safe have about $150,000 in their accounts by the end of the month: “It’s a race focused and intense effort,” said David Plouffe, the executive director of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee.

In some cases the House Democrats say they have challengers lined up and are helping them, too.

Patrick Byrne, who lost by a whisker to Representative Donald L. Sherdan of Pennsylvania in one of the closest House races of 1998, traveled to Washington last Wednesday for a fundraiser with Representative Stephen A. Gephardt or Missouri, the minority leader, who helped him raise $50,000.

Congressmen have also joined the sweepstakes. Speaker J. Dennis Hastert, for example, is now spending Mondays, Fridays and weekends raising money for House members, hopscotching the country.

He plans to take a four-day tour of California later this month to try to raise $2 million at 16 events, most of it for House candidates. His aides say he has raised $5 million this year for candidates and the party.

Mr. Gephardt, who would supplant Mr. Hastert as Speaker if the Democrats were to win back the House majority, is also on the circuit. Last week he helped raise money for Mr. Casey and for Representative Carolyn McCarthy of Long Island, attended a Rhode Island event with Mr. Gore and flew home to Missouri to appear with Mrs. Clinton. His aides say that by June 30, he will have raised $4 million.

Representative Tom Delay of Texas, the majority whip, has mobilized his entire whip organization of House members to help the Republicans in vulnerable districts. In a program he calls Romp, for Retain Our Majority Program, he has asked these members to raise $3,000 each for the 10 incumbents.

And all the House Republican leaders have helped raise money for a new group called the Republican Majority Issues Committee, which is trying to raise $25 million to get out the conservative vote in critical Congressional districts.

The Democrats have called for an investigation of the group because it is not registered with the Federal Election Commission as a campaign organization or disclosing its fund-raising.

Mr. Gephardt, an ally of Mr. Delay, who is forming the group, said it was not required to register because it would not be endorsing candidates or giving money to candidates,” Mr. Gephardt said. “We are going to be an independent committee that will educate voters on where candidates stand on conservative issues.”

Mr. HOLLOWS. You think it is not timely on money? Here at 2 o’clock this afternoon an article was printed regarding Governor Bush. I guess to be more respectful. He is liable to be President. It reads, Governor Bush. “At a breakfast this morning Bush gets big support from Silicon Valley.” He got all the executives out there. He just pledges all these things, I am telling you right now, way better than the distinguished chairman. And the distinguished chairman does a pretty good one. I ask unanimous consent to have this printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Bush Gets Big Support From Silicon Valley.

(By Alan Elsner, Political Correspondent)

PALO ALTO, CA (Reuters)---Republican presidential front-runner George W. Bush's money-raising juggernaut roared through Silicon Valley Thursday, drawing support from a stellar list of high-tech industry titans.

Bush, the governor of Texas, has smashed all previous records by raising more than $36.3 million in the first half of the year. He began the second half with a fund-raising breakfast that had been expected to bring in an additional $5 million. It seemed likely to far exceed that estimate.

“This is not my first trip to this incredible land called Silicon Valley. This is my first trip as a presidential candidate,” an elated Bush said, before quickly correcting himself to say, “As soon-to-be-president of the United States.”

Among the executives there to greet him were Cisco Systems chief executive John Chambers, Microsoft executive vice president Robert Herbold, Oracle Corp. (Nasdaq: ORCL—news) president and CEO Ray Allen, Intel Corp. (Nasdaq: INTC—news) chairman Gordon Moore, eBay chairman and CEO Meg Whitman, Hewlett Packard president Lew Platt, Knight Ridder chairman and CEO of the stockbroker company that bears his name.

It was a highly impressive turnout from a region that Vice President Al Gore, who may be Bush’s Democratic presidential opponent in next year’s election, has been courting for years. But Bush had already raised more money from Silicon Valley than Gore in the first three months of this year.

Executives said they were attracted by Bush’s program of supporting innovation, breaking barriers and removing government regulation.

“The governor has strong support from the high-tech industry that is driven by ingenuity, not government,” said Herbold. “It’s great to have a candidate focused on those fundamentals,” said Herbold.

Lane added: “This industry needs support from government to continue growing and the Republicans and Bush have been more supportive of business aspects of building the economy.”

Bush, who leads the field for the Republican presidential nomination by a wide margin and has a 10 to 20 percentage point advantage over Gore, told the attendance of so many prominent executives at his fund-raiser sent an important message that would be noted all across the country.

In speech, Bush pledged to “forge the side of innovation over litigation every single time” and put forward a number of general ideas of what he might do as president. He would reduce the threat of massive litigation arising from the Year 2000 computer bug known as Y2K. He gave grudging praise to President Clinton, who this week struck a compromise with Congress to limit liability awards.

Bush has promised to fight for meaningful tort reform to limit lawsuits against business, a favorite Republican theme. He also proposed making the Internet a duty and tariff-free zone worldwide and promised to combat theft of U.S. intellectual property.

Bush said he would work to impose limits on the export of civilian computer technology while still protecting militarily sensitive technology.

He also proposed a permanent tax credit for research and development. Currently, the credit, worth about $2.5 billion, needs to be renewed annually by Congress.

Bush’s unprecedented fund-raising prowess has led some commentators to predict the race for the Republican presidential nomination is virtually over before it has begun.

Only publisher Steve Forbes, who can draw on a vast personal fortune, will be able to come close to matching Bush’s financial resources.

Of the other Republicans, Arizona Sen. John McCain has a war chest of $6.1 million and the rest of the field is under $3.5 million.

Bush also outpaced Gore in fund raising by two-to-one.

Mr. HOLLOWS. So the record is made with respect to money. Ordinarily, we have the rule—I want to be within the Senate rules of the dignity code. But we do have a problem with the reality. No one is asking for this except those in the money chase. And, yes, it is bipartisan. There isn’t any question about that.

But this is a shabby performance. It is a sad day in the history of the Senate. Now what really occurred when we went into that conference is that the House receded to the Senate except for a minor amendment. We voted on it. Then they started negotiating on the fix, so as to ensure everybody was on board. They knew they were going to get a bill. The Senator from Connecticut then made the call to the President after midnight. I thought the only person who could get the President after midnight was Monica.

The White House sent five veto letters. Yet, the President plans to sign the bill, notwithstanding.

How emblematic of this administration. We fought like tigers to get this economy going with the 1993 budget. We cut spending. We did it with 300,000 Federal employees. We got the economy going even though we could not get a single vote on the other side.
Then later, of course, the President joined the other side, went down and threw all of his friends in Congress overboard saying we taxed them too much. Then we had GATT. Then we had the NAFTA with Mexico, and he threw that overboard. He is throwing, of course, that has been an abomination.

You cannot get to reality. They said it was going to increase trade. We went from a $5 billion-plus to a $20 billion-minus deficit. That was going to pay the Medicare worker better. He is leaving home 20 percent less pay. It was going to solve the immigration problem. It is worse. It was going to solve the drug problem. They have a narcodemocracy down there.

But the President threw that crowd overboard. Now he throws overboard the consumers, middle America, after five veto messages on a much worse bill.

The Senator from Vermont is right on target. There isn’t any question, when they put out this sheet here—even from my side—in the policy committee meeting there at lunch: How the conference report improves on the Senate-passed bill proportionate liability, that is if they are not part of a class.

If by chance they are part of a class, their suit is automatically removable to federal court, in the event the claim seeks punitive damages. The President said he would never federalize class actions. They claim the bill preserves the authority of states to void contracts. But I can list a number of contracts that would be illegal under State law but would be enforceable under the conference-reported bill. So contracts which were entered into on a fraudulent or unconstitutional basis would still be enforced.

I will never forget the distinguished Senator from North Carolina; he tried to instruct the Senator from Oregon on economic damages.

I will give you the case. The client comes in. I am an old-time lawyer, and I represent clients. You have to tell them the truth. The poor client comes in and says: Hollings, I’ve got a $10,000 computer I bought last year, and now it has crashed. It is not Y2K compliant. They put the burden in on buying the office. best of the best, President Reagan. He gave a voluntary restraint agreement to the semiconductor industry because they were going broke. Intel had given up one of their particular display chips, if you remember. They were going out of business. They hung on, and we instituted Semi-Tech. When I went into the Intel plant in Dublin, Ireland, the manager there, Mr. Frank McCabe, said: Senator, we would have never had all of this if you hadn't put the $500 million in Semi-Tech. That is government.

They will become vehicles for profit by select members of the trial bar, not to rectify wrongs done to consumers or to businesses.

Ultimately, an avalanche of frivolous lawsuits seeking to reap a bonanza from the consumer problem will occur. It is considered a crippling effect on our economy, especially on the technology-based businesses that are creating the lion’s share of new jobs in our Nation today. This bill would slow the knee-jerk rush to the courthouse. It says to those who would seek litigation as a first resort: Look before you leap. It focuses businesses and consumers on fixing the problems, not fighting over them, and getting on-line, rather than getting in line at the courthouse. It encourages them to resolve differences in a conference room, not a courtroom.

This conference report is narrowly crafted to address frivolous Y2K-related litigation, and only frivolous Y2K-related litigation. Its carefully circumscribed scope was acknowledged — albeit reluctantly — the night before last by Mr. Mark Mandell, president of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America. He had this to say about the conference report:

"It is positive that this unique response to a unique situation will be law for only three years and that the legal rights of anyone who suffers a physical injury are preserved. I commend him for the responsibility of that statement. He is the head of the trial lawyers in this country. I quickly add that he is not endorsing this bill; he disagrees with it, but he has framed it right. It is a unique answer to a unique problem that, for 36 months, we want on the books to avoid the potential problems that can affect our society.

These are two important points that deserve to be restated:

First, as I said, this is only a 3-year bill. It works no permanent changes in our legal system. It circumscribes backward and totally exempts consumers who allege they have suffered physical injury as a result of a Y2K failure.

In addition, the conference report contains several other responsible and modest provisions that weed out frivolous lawsuits, do no injury to tort law and, most important, allows America’s businesses to continue to create jobs.

This bill establishes a 90-day period before a suit can be filed to at least create a reason why for the potential to remedy the defects and avoid expensive, time-consuming litigation.

We are not going to guarantee the problem will get fixed in that 90 days, but it will sort of call a timeout for 90 days, 3 months, to try to solve the problem. That is not a radical idea. It is not a radical idea at all to try to get people to work out their differences. That may be a radical idea if your motivation is to get to the courthouse as fast as you can. To that end, it is a radical idea. But to the businesses and consumers who would like to be made whole and have the problem fixed, having a cooling-off period for 90 days as we try to solve this problem is not asking too much in a 3-year bill.

The bill also requires plaintiffs to plead with particularity about the nature of the harm allegedly done to them, and the monetary amount of damages they are claiming as a result of that harm. That is another "radical" idea — that you have to allege with some specificity what caused the problem. I know that is a bad idea if you would like to sort of use boilerplate language and race to the courthouse. If you are a plaintiff and you ought to know what you are charged with, what the plaintiff thinks you have done wrong. That ought not to be a radical deviation from the norm. For 36 months, we are going to require that.

That ought to be permanent law, in my view, but in this bill it lasts only 36 months.

The bill also prevents plaintiffs from recovering damages that they could have reasonably and foreseeably avoided. Again, another radical idea. To discourage plaintiffs from suing the so-called "deep-pocket" defendants, the bill establishes a rule of proportionate liability.

As a general matter, it holds the defendant responsible only for the harm it causes, and not for the harm caused by other defendants. Again, what a radical idea that is. If you are fractionally responsible, they would like you to have to pay the whole tab. Again, I appreciate their desire. It’s not something you shop around, and, if you can find anybody with deep pockets who may have handled the box for 5 minutes, then you can get them in a court, and, boom, you can hit them for the total amount.

That is what has caused as many problems as anything else — the lack of proportionality and balance.

At the same time, we don’t allow that provision of proportionality to apply, or it is not a proportionately, or excepted. We make several reasonable exceptions in the interest of fairness. Plaintiffs who sue as individuals, rather than as members of a larger class, may recover jointly and severally from any defendant, even if they are marginally involved, thus helping to ensure that individual consumers will fully recover damages.

The bill contains other provisions to ensure that irresponsible, reckless, or intentionally wrongdoers are in no way shielded and are fully responsible for their actions. Defendants that commit intentional torts will be held jointly and severally liable, even if only fractionally, including for economic losses.

In addition, defendants who knowingly make false statements about the Y2K readiness of their goods or services may not seek mitigation of damages when plaintiffs rely in good faith on such statements that is yet another consumer protection contained within this conference report.

There are still other improvements that have been made here, largely at the behest of the Administration — improvements, which, in my view, strengthen the legislation. For instance, the class action provisions. Members of a class of under 100 people, and with claims under $10 million, can stay in State court.

We made change after change to accommodate the concerns that were raised—many of them reasonable concerns. I might add-to make this a stronger and a better bill than we are trying to avoid frivolous lawsuits for 36 months. We are trying to solve the problem. I again want to thank the committee chairman and other colleagues who have played such an important role.

Lastly, I thank this President of the United States. When I saw the President—not at 1:30 in the morning, but he was in my State last Monday—I mentioned this bill to him in a conversation that may have lasted 1 minute. I said: We will have the Y2K issue up in 36 days or so, and I said: I would like to sign a bill. I think it is important to have one. But there have to be changes in this legislation before I can sign it. If you can get those changes and work with our staff, I will take a look at it.

That is not an unreasonable statement for an American President to make on an issue like this that confronts our country in 383 days. We went to work that night and worked on these changes. It was late in the evening.

When I, along with my colleague from Oregon, submitted the final proposal to the President of the United States, he said, to his credit: If you can make one more change in this particular area, then I think I could support this bill.

That is how this happened.

He is being ridiculed today because he tried to get a bill done to do something about a problem that affects, or will affect, or could affect, millions of people in this country. He ought not be ridiculed. He ought to be commended for it. Yes, he could have caved in and gone along. I know a lot of his staff and others didn’t want him to sign this bill. But this President went to work, and he listened to the proposal. He made some suggestions, and he said: If you can accommodate or meet me part way here on some of these ideas, then I would be willing to sign this bill into law.

As a result of those efforts, he could have said to me on Monday afternoon: I am sorry, there isn’t anything you can do with this bill; I am just flat out against it. That would have been the end of it, frankly. I wouldn’t have stayed up half the night trying to work out differences. But he said try. We did. And we reached that level of support, or a level of achievement which he then said he would support, and that brought us to the point of getting this legislation done.

Again, there is nothing perfect about it. I am fully aware that there may be
I think this is a good effort to try to minimize those difficulties, to avoid lawsuits and solve the problems, and make this country stronger when it comes to the interest of the 21st century.

Let me again thank my colleagues who persisted in their efforts to reach this point. I also want to recognize the staff who were so instrumental in bringing us to this point; particularly: Marti Albright and Mark Buse of the Committee; Manus Croslin and Larry Block of the Judiciary Committee; J eanne Bumpus with Senator Gorton; Robert Cresanti, Tania Calhoun, and Wilke Green of the Year 2000 Committee; Carol Grunberg with Senator Wyden; David Hantman with Senator Wyden; Senator Feinstein; Laurie Rubenstein with Senator Lieberman; and Steven Wall with Senator Lott.

I thank my colleague for yielding, and I urge adoption of the conference report.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I yield such time as necessary to the distinguished Senator from North Carolina.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Carolina.

Mr. EDWARDS. Thank you, Mr. President.

Let me say, first, that there are two very important reasons that this has been an extraordinarily difficult issue for me. First of those reasons is that I have extraordinary respect for the Senator from Arizona, the Senator from Connecticut, and the Senator from Oregon. They are friends of mine. They are good Americans. They are people who care about this country. They care about it deeply. I don't question their motives for one moment. I believe they are doing what they think is right.

The second reason is that I began this hearing with my colleagues desperately wanting to support some kind of Y2K bill.

The problem with the way the debate has been conducted is that the focus of my colleagues from Oregon, from Arizona, and from Connecticut has been on things we all agree on. We all agree—speaking for myself—that we should create incentives for computer companies to solve these problems, that we should create incentives for people who buy computers to work with those folks to solve the problems, and to mitigate whatever damage or loss they may sustain.

We all believe there ought to be a cooling-off period. At least I believe there should be a cooling-off period. I do not think we want folks rushing to the courthouse the first time a problem rears its ugly head. I think we should have reasonable, thoughtful alternative dispute resolution.

I think all of those things are good things. They are laudable. They are things that people who buy a computer in good faith, and who are beneficiaries of these things, are going to want. They are things that we support and believe in. On those subjects, and on the subject of preventing frivolous litigation, I am totally in agreement with my colleagues who support this bill.

The problem is, we are not focusing on the single, most fundamental problem in this bill, which is that in 99 percent of the cases small businesses and consumers who suffer losses as a result of an irresponsible act by a computer company in respect to Y2K can recover nothing but the cost of their computer. They can't recover their lost wages. They can't recover their actual lost profits. They can't recover their overheating. If they are run out of business, they are just stuck.

Unfortunately, what we have here is what I am afraid happens too often in our Washington. The little guy loses, and the big guy wins.

There is no question that the computer industry has a powerful voice in this body. The people who are going to be damaged and hurt by this bill don't even speak it yet. They largely are completely unaware of it. The small business men and women of this country and consumers in small towns all over North Carolina and across the United States, who know that they are going to suffer losses, that they are going to be put out of business. They do not know that. My question to my colleague is, Who speaks for them?

We have heard the voices loudly, clearly, powerfully, and articulately for powerful, big business. There are many things I will support industry on that I believe are in the best interests of America. The problem is, the people who are going to be injured by this bill, the people who are going to be put out of business, the people who by all accounts—my colleagues from Oregon and Connecticut have just conceded—will have real and legitimate losses, and when asked who speaks for them, the answer is that no one speaks for them. They don't give big money to campaigns. They don't even know what is going to happen to them yet. They are out there and are innocent victims. Who is the voice for the little guy in this debate?

These losses we have talked about—I am eliminating frivolous lawsuits. I am eliminating causes that ought to be resolved, things that ought to be resolved by discussion between the seller and the buyer, all of those things that we are all in agreement on—I am talking about that little business guy or woman in Murfreesboro, NC, who bought a computer. He was injured by this bill. The computer company is not Y2K compliant, and the computer company is not Y2K compliant. They lose their business. They have lost thousands and thousands of dollars, and they are literally out of business.

That loss—no matter what we do in this Senate, no matter what we do in this Congress, and, with respect, no matter what the President signs in the Oval Office—that loss will not go away. It will be there, and it will not disappear.

There is a fundamental concept we all have to recognize when we come to the vote. Those who vote for this bill have made a conscious decision. As long as we are willing to recognize that decision, I will respect the vote. That decision is this: We have made a conscious decision that losses—some are real and legitimate, out-of-pocket losses—losses suffered by business men and women all over this country—that losses are going to be shifted. We are going to move them from the responsible party to the innocent party. In this case, the innocent party is the consumer; is somebody who cannot pay their employees anymore; is somebody who has no cash-flow because their manufacturing operation has been shut down because of a Y2K problem.

The bottom line is this: We are making a judgment on the floor of the Senate that those real and legitimate losses which everyone concedes are going to occur—that is the "nut" of this. Everything else we agree on. I come with my colleagues in eliminating frivolous lawsuits, about alternative dispute resolution, about cooling off periods, about trying to do everything in our power to solve these problems. The nut of this problem is, what happens to the little guy who suffers a real loss?

When this conference report passes on the floor of the Senate later tonight, we have made the judgment that we will shift that loss. We are going to shift it on to the people who have no voice, who don't even know they are victims. They are not sitting in our offices. They are not sitting there because they don't know they have been hurt yet. We are going to shift the loss to them. We are going to make sure that multimillion-dollar and multibillion-dollar businesses bear as little of that loss as possible. That is exactly what this bill does. It is that simple.

For all of the rhetoric on the floor, it is not about lawyers. It is about the people who make computers. It is about the people who make computer chips. It is about the people who buy computers. Those are the parties to this transaction.

The bill that came back from conference is worse than the bill that went to conference. It is worse for a very simple and fundamental reason: It create[s] multiple avenues of recovery to innocent people who get hurt by the Y2K problem. A job that was already extraordinarily difficult, for them to recover for what happened to them, has become almost impossible at this point.

I say with complete respect to my colleagues who have argued vehemently on the floor that this is a 3-year bill, that it will sunset in 3 years, and for that reason it is not bad, that the argument for a 3-year period. Every Y2K problem that will come into existence will happen during that 3-year period—99 percent. By its very nature this problem will show its ugly head in the year 2000 or the year 2001. Essentially, we are going to cover every single Y2K problem that can come into existence.

One bit of language that has been referred to in the bill that proponents claim to have this report. What the Senate passed version has to do with the issue of recovery of economic losses such as lost profits, lost overhead, lost income. A phrase reads: "A party to a Y2K action making a tort claim other than a claim of intentional tort" it is fine -- "arising independent of a contract."

I have spent the last 20 years of my life as a practicing lawyer. This is what that phrase means. If a computer person walks into a small business anywhere in this country and makes a fraudulent misrepresentation, intentionally misrepresents the Y2K compliance of their product, lies, commits criminal fraud, and induces somebody to sign a contract on that basis, and in fact, if the contract itself contains fraudulent misrepresentations, what that person can recover is the cost of their computer.

They are victims of criminal fraud. I want the American people to hear this. They are not voiceless. They are victims of criminal fraud. The people can get back is the cost of their computer.

This bill started with a good purpose. It is supported by Members of the Senate whom I have extraordinary respect for, Mr. McCain. I yield 5 minutes to the Senator from Arizona.

Mr. McCAIN. I have only been in this body for 13 years. I have never heard quite such a mischaracterization of legislation as the Senator from North Carolina just displayed.

I yield 5 minutes to the Senator from Washington.

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, the success of legislation in a matter of considerable controversy in our society is always built upon the foundation of compromise. This relatively short debate on the final passage of H.R. 775 is a perfect example of that compromise. The Senator from North Carolina was responsible for the final form of this bill, listed all of the changes that he required in order to approve of this legislation. The Senator from Connecticut spoke eloquently of the way in which he worked with legislation to change a "no" into a "yes," and make this legislation a reality.

As a result of this bill, they can recover absolutely nothing but the cost of their computer.

It is wrong. It violates every concept of justice that exists in the United States and has existed for the last 200 years.

We can do the things that my colleague want to do: Get rid of frivolous lawsuits, induce people to solve these problems, get people to work together, not go into court. We can do all those things, and we can accomplish those things. But we can do it without gutting the right of the little guy who has a real and legitimate claim and has suffered a tremendous loss, been put out of business, without taking away that very fundamental right.

Those people are going to be sitting in our offices, they have one last question to my colleagues: When those men and women are sitting in your offices in February, March, and April of the year 2000, saying: I have been put out of business, who do I go see? Who do I go see about this? I am out of business. Computer people made fraudulent misrepresentations in my contract. They were reckless in the way they made their product. I never knew it. I am out of business.

They are sitting on our couch in our offices, and they look in our eyes and say: Who do I go see about this problem? Maybe some of my colleagues have an answer to that question. Unfortunately, I do not.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. McCAIN. I have only been in this body for 13 years. I have never heard quite such a mischaracterization of legislation as the Senator from North Carolina just displayed.

I yield 5 minutes to the Senator from Washington.

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, the success of legislation in a matter of considerable controversy in our society is always built upon the foundation of compromise. This relatively short debate on the final passage of H.R. 775 is a perfect example of that compromise. The Senator from North Carolina was responsible for the final form of this bill, listed all of the changes that he required in order to approve of this legislation. The Senator from Connecticut spoke eloquently of the way in which he worked with legislation to change a "no" into a "yes," and make this legislation a reality.

My very good friend, the chairman of the Commerce Committee, the Senator from Arizona, spoke of the fact that both the original House bill and the original Senate bill were much more sweeping and much more decisive in dealing with this Y2K problem. He deserves an extraordinary degree of our thanks and our admiration for working constantly and tirelessly toward a successful conclusion, even though that conclusion is not something he regards as wholly satisfactory.

I fall on his side of that debate. I think we should have done much more. I am, in fact, a radical reformer in this area of law. I believe the American economy and has caused such significant changes for the good in the lives of people all around the world.

This bill is by no means perfect. In the view of this Senator it lacks the precision because it is not all-encompassing enough. It is, however, at least a modest step in the right direction, one supported not only by the technology companies that are responsible for the computer revolution but by the consumers and consumers as well.

So with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle, I wholeheartedly recommend the passage of this legislation to the Senate and look forward with satisfaction to the President's approval of this bill.

Mr. HOLLINGS addressed the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BENNETT). The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, once again I do not yield from the statement made that this has been one shabby charade. I intended to, and did, take the President to task, and I do so. You don't send five veto messages and then come with a sorry bill, a worse compromise. It is obvious. You can look at it on the face of it. It did not take care of the consumers. Senator LEAHY tried to. It was what we adopted in the Congress last year, in the securities bill, in the other measure; we always take care of the consumers. But here the one group penalized, sidelined, damaged, if you please, are the consumers of America.

I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD the letter from Public Citizen, opposing the bill, opposing this report.

There being no objection, the article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

PLEASE OPPOSE THE SENATE Y2K IMMUNITY BILL

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE: On behalf of Public Citizen's 150,000 members, we thank you for your vote against passage of H.R. 775, the Y2K immunity bill. We urge you to continue to stand up for consumers and small business owners by voting against the Senate-passed version of the legislation. Y2K immunity legislation has been brought to the House floor. Although this measure is somewhat “less extreme” than the version of the bill that you opposed when the first iteration was brought to the House floor, it will make it next to impossible for those who stand against Y2K claims to seek full and fair compensation in state courts.

Both the Senate and House Y2K bills bestow special legal protections upon companies responsible for manufacturing and selling technology products and computer systems that will not work in the year 2000—often to those companies that knowingly sold Y2K defective products within the last few years, and even to those that are still selling defective products even if any employees; this kind of blanket protection from accountability is unfair and unwise. Not only will these bills preempt important consumer protections under law, they also undermine Y2K readiness by sending a message that Congress will not allow companies to be held responsible for their acts and omissions. They will lead to more Y2K failures and injuries, not fewer.

The Senate bill has not, but many, of the most extreme provisions of the House bill has made the House bill unacceptable. For example, the Senate proposal contains:

A mandate that, to receive punitive damages, a plaintiff must prove applicable state law standards for punitive damages by clear and convincing evidence—a higher standard than is needed under many state laws; this provision would make it harder to hold the most irresponsible defendants liable.

In addition, the bill also imposes a cap on punitive damages of $50,000 or three times actual damages, whichever is less, in cases involving defendants with 50 or more employees; this cap applies no matter how egregious the defendant’s behavior unless the plaintiff can prove by clear and convincing evidence that the defendant was specifically intended to harm the plaintiff—an extremely difficult standard for a plaintiff in a civil case to meet.

The bill makes it extremely difficult for plaintiffs to prove the liability of defendants in most instances—even for defendants that are substantially responsible for causing a Y2K failure—with no requirement that defendants take any steps to avoid Y2K failures in the first place to receive liability limitation; this change in laws would leave many injured individuals and small businesses consumers without full compensation.

A provision to allow defendants to remove most state Y2K class actions into federal court was added by the Senate Conference of the United States, chaired by distinguished executive assistant, Mr. John Podesta. I ask unanimous consent that the letter signed by Mr. HOLLINGS be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, this is the letter we received from the distinguished executive assistant, Mr. John Podesta. I ask unanimous consent this be printed in the RECORD.

Not the Federal Government. We all know that.

The legal issues likely to be presented by the year 2000 problem are not unique.

We know that. He said it is not unique, it is not a radical idea, it is not a radical idea to say what is wrong, specify what is wrong. When the computer breaks down, I don’t know what is wrong. Who does? It is like in the Food and Drug Administration, when there is bad food we have good product liability; we have a Food and Drug Administration. These products they have within their own purview, the proprietary information on the manufacturer, so if there is a product that breaks down, they know where it is. We cannot find it ordinarily. But here, they really sidelined middle America, consumers and the poor small businessmen.

They said that is a radical idea. It is a radical idea. It goes against the entire thrust of the safety principles we experience here in America. We have a safe product. We can depend on the food. You can depend on the products. The European Union is now following strict liability and joint and several liability that we have here in America. A radical idea to run to the courthouse? We are not running to the courthouse.

It is a litigious society, but we will show tort claims are down and business is up; domestic cases, rights cases for this right, that right; environmental cases, are up. Tort liability cases are down.

This here really legalizes torts, it legalizes negligence, it legalizes fraud, all in the name of something that happens 6 months from now when, by their own measure they say we ought to have 90 days to fix it. Unreasonable? The Senator from California, she came and said: Let’s get rid of all the lawyers, just use those 90 days to require the manufacturer to fix it; that’s all we need. We don’t need a rush to the courthouse.

Rush to the courthouse? That implies you are going to get a rush judgment. Try to get 12 jurors to agree on anything today. You cannot get 12 Senators.

They surely have gotten something very easily. Surely, it was not unreasonable to at least say you have to fix the problem, in return for expansive restrictions on plaintiffs’ rights.

Instead, they say you have to find out what is wrong and specify it before they do anything. Come on. They say that is in behalf of the consumers of America? And that is a good measure and it is a victory for America? No, Mr. President; this is a sad day when the moneys in campaigns are not just taken to get elected, are not taken just to buy the office, but when they buy the principles in order to cater to a crowd to pass this kind of legislation.

How much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 10 minutes 37 seconds.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I want to take a few moments to speak on behalf of the conference report. As you know, the negotiations over the details of the Y2K Act entered their final phase last Friday, during the weekend, and through Monday and Tuesday of this week with the kind of good will and hard work and diligence, particularly of Senators McCain, Dodd, and Wyden, we were able to craft a compromise bill which addresses every one of the major concerns of the White House. Let me quote the final bill reflects the spirit of compromise. But I must admit that I believe the original Judicial and Commerce Committee bills—along with the House bill—would have been far more effective in dealing with the problem of the expected frivolous and massive Y2K litigation—than the current compromise measure. But because of the overwhelming importance and need for this bill, both sides acted in good faith and reached an equitable settlement. Let me explain the depth and breadth of the changes that were made.

First of all, the House, recognizing the urgent need to pass this legislation, acceded to the far more lenient Senate bill. In practice, this meant that twice major provisions of the House bill were dropped, ranging from elimination of both caps on director and officer liability to caps on attorneys’ fees. In the conference negotiations, seven further important concessions were made. Finally, in negotiations with the White House led by Senator Dodd, we agreed to six further significant modifications to the bill. Mr. President, I have a list of these changes. I also have a letter from John Podesta to Senator Dodd, dated June 29, that enumerates the changes requested by the White House and—except for minor technicalities—agreed to by the conference. I ask unanimous consent that these two documents be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

THE Y2K ACT

1. CONCESSIONS MADE ON Y2K ACT SINCE HOUSE & SENATE ACTION

House receded to the Senate, which means: No caps on Directors and Officers liability; Applies current state standards for establishing punitive damages, instead of new preemptive federal standard; Cap on punitive damages no longer applies when defendant specifically intended to injure the defendant; Removed cap on punitive damages for larger businesses; Restore principle of joint liability for defendants who knowingly commit fraud. (House bill provided for several, but not joint, liability); Definition of Y2K failure narrowed and targeted directly on year-2000 date-related data; Dropped provisions dealing with attorney fees; Added sunset provision limiting applicability of Act; Three major exceptions to proportional liability rule added. These exceptions and, indeed, the proportionate liability section itself, were taken from recent securities law sponsored by Senator Dodd; Dropped the reasonable efforts defense or Federal rules for admissibility of reasonable efforts; Dropped Federal rule for heightened state of mind requirement; Restored substitution of Federal question for minimal diversity standard.

2. FURTHER CONCESSIONS

Revised definition of Y2K act—strike “harm or injury resulted from a defendant’s intentional act [and] [to replace with] the WH formulation of “harm or injury [that] arises from or is related to” an actual or potential Y2K failure. Add definition to preemption language. Securities claims exclusion—Rejected WH formulation that private securities claims should be exempted from the bill. New provision would allow provisions of the securities law to stand only if conflicts with provisions of the Y2K Act. We also agreed to exempt from the Y2K Act’s application of securities law the duty to mitigate section.

Revised language on duty to mitigate—Added an exception for intentional fraud (unlike pre-existing federal statute) that provides an unjustifiable reliance on defendant’s misrepresentations. Also exempted securities claims from this section.

Revised language on Economic Loss Rule—Added the approach of the Kerry Amendment, which allow for economic damages where the defendant committed an intentional tort (except where the committed misrepresentation or fraud regarding the attributes or capabilities of the project or service that forms the basis for the underlying claims.

Warranty and contract preservation—Addition to existing language, makes clear that contract terms can be voided by state law in light of Y2K Act’s application of securities law (Sec. 13(a) and (b)).

Removal of limitation on class actions—Two changes: (1) to discourage the filing of all state class actions in federal court, we increase the jurisdictional amount from $1 million to $2 million. The House’s requirement that there must be 50 or more plaintiffs to remove state class actions to federal court; and (2) to prevent state class actions, which have been removed to federal court and the judge remanded the class action as not proper in federal court (does not meet the criteria of FRCP 23), such remands will be without prejudice allowing the class action to be refiled in state court (and, if appropriate, amended and returned to federal court).

Punitive—Punitive damage cap for small business—50 or less employees—which is the lesser of $250,000 or 3 times compensatory damages. The cap does not apply to defendant acted with specific intent to injure the plaintiff.

CONCESSIONS PROPOSED BY SENATOR DODD

Proportionate Liability; Double orphan share for all solvent defendants; Triple orphan share for defendants proven by plaintiffs to be had actors; Exempt individual consumers from individual, class actions. Class Actions; Increase monetary threshold to $5 million; Increase class size exemption to 100 plaintiffs; Securities; Exempt all private securities claims from Y2K Act, except from bystander provision of that Act (Sec. 13(a) and (b)), etc.

Contract Enforcement—State law governing contracts of adhesion and unconscionability remains enforceable.
Economic Loss: Doctrine will not apply to claims of fraud related to contract formation; Regulatory Relief (Gregg and Inhofe amendments).

Inhofe Exemption applies so long as defendant could not have known of the underlying violation because of a Y2K failure of a reporting system. Similar approach with respect to Gregg. (Special relief not worked out with Administration and others.)

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Washington, DC, June 29, 1999.

Hon. CHRISTOPHER J. DODD,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR DODD: After our discussions regarding the Year 2000 Readiness and Responsibility Act, to limit liability resulting from Y2K failures, I am prepared to recommend to the President that he sign legislation that includes the following changes:

Proportionate Liability—double orphan share for all solvent defendants, triple orphan share for defendants proven by plaintiffs to be bad actors, and exempt individual consumers in individual, but not class, actions.

Class Actions—Increase monetary threshold to $10 million, and increase class size to 100 plaintiffs.

Securities—exempt all private security claims from Y2K Act.

Contract Enforcement—State law governing contracts of adhesion and unconscionability and contracts that contravene public policy remain enforceable.

Economic Loss—Doctrine will not apply to claims of fraud related to contract formation.

Regulatory Relief (Gregg and Inhofe amendments)—Changes made to ensure that the provision would not endanger the environment, public health or safety.

Should the language of the legislation reflect the understanding of the resolution of these issues, I would advise that the President sign this bill. I am hopeful that if these changes are made, legislation can be enacted on a bipartisan basis.

Sincerely,

JOHN PODESTA.

Mr. HATCH. There can be no question that the final bill is more than a fair deal. It balances the need to protect consumers against the need to safeguard business—particularly our high tech industries—from the ravages of unrestrained predatory litigation. Indeed, some experts maintain that litigation over the Y2K bug could cost the world economy over one trillion dollars.

I must emphasize the importance of this. One reason that our economy has been prospering is the beneficial effect of its increasing computerization. The Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Alan Greenspan, has asserted several times that the economy's increased productivity is in part due to computerization and the information revolution. And one of America's biggest high tech industries—from the ravages of unrestrained predatory litigation. Indeed, some experts maintain that litigation over the Y2K bug could cost the world economy over one trillion dollars.

It is important to note that if we do not pass this bill, we might see a repeat of experience in the tobacco litigation. A representative from the industry said that for the past four or five years, the industry had devoted to it and do not have excess revenue to afford it. In addition, small businesses do not want to sue companies with which they have longstanding relationships and whose survival is tied to their own. Yet, these vulnerable businesses see the looming specter of endless litigation on the horizon. Experience shows that total litigation costs related to the Y2K problem will be astronomical. For example, the Gartner Group, an international consulting firm has estimated that more than $1 trillion will be spent on Y2K litigation. Therefore, this legislation, by encouraging resolution of Y2K disputes outside the courtroom and decreasing the number of frivolous lawsuits that small businesses may face, will help to prevent that litigation arising from this problem will not devastate the millions of small businesses that are the engine of our nation's economy.

The small businesses that are troubled about the prospects of Y2K litigation are located on Main Streets all across America, not just Silicon Valley. They are this country's mom and pop groceries, its dry cleaners and its hardware stores. The National Federation of Independent Businesses, the nation's largest small business association, strongly supports this legislation. The NFIB surveyed its members and found that an overwhelming 93 percent support capping damage awards for Y2K suits. The small business community has argued against the need for support of legislation to limit the impact of Y2K suits for the good of this nation and by voting for the conference report today we are not ignoring this view.

The conference report also contains an important amendment that was adopted in the Senate sponsored by Senator GREGG and co-sponsored by me. While the underlying bill will ensure that small businesses do not face financial ruin from costly litigation, the amendment will make certain that our own government does not bankrupt small businesses over the Y2K problem. This amendment will waive Federal civil money penalties for blameless small businesses that have in good faith attempted to correct their Y2K problems, but find themselves inadvertently confronted with Y2K problems. Many of these businesses will already have had their operations disrupted and may be in danger of financial ruin. The Gregg-Bond amendment in the conference report ensures that the Federal government does not push them over the edge. I urge all my colleagues to support the conference report for the sake of our country's small woman and family-owned businesses and to ensure that the economic health of our nation is not imperiled by the Y2K problem in the coming year and beyond.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, as I have stated before, the debate surrounding Y2K Liability is a very important one. The estimated cost associated with Y2K issues vary greatly,
Mr. President, several well-known consultants and firms, including the Gartner Group, have estimated that Y2K litigation could quickly reach as high as one trillion dollars. This potential litigation flood could prevent companies from solving Y2K defects, and as a result could put the high-tech edge in technology.

This bill is especially important to California, where over 20 percent of the nation’s high-tech jobs are located.

And the problem extends beyond high tech companies into the lives of employees, stockholders and customers of a wide range of American business.

We solved part of the Y2K problem last year when Congress overwhelmingly passed legislation to protect companies who make statements about Y2K problems in order to help others predict and solve these problems before they occur.

But we must now take an extra step, in order to encourage companies to work to prevent and fix Y2K problems with minimum delay.

Without this bill, companies may be forced to devote far too many resources to preparing for lawsuits rather than mitigating damages and solving Y2K problems.

And many consultants have come to us and said that they have refused to become involved in defending companies that will solve Y2K problems, for fear that they will open themselves up to being sued later on. They would rather just not get involved.

As a result, the very people capable of fixing Y2K defects are unavailable to perform those fixes.

I believe we face a real problem, and we have tried to craft a real solution.

And crafting that solution has not been easy. On almost a daily basis, we have tried to craft a real solution.

In fact, even before the Conference Committee met over the last week, the White House, trial lawyers, and Senate and other interested parties.

The final, bipartisan bill—now supported by the President—will create a one in a millennium, three-year law. Without it, I believe we could see the destruction or disregard of America’s cutting edge lead in technology.

which certain defendants are "judgment-proof." In cases where a plaintiff cannot recover from certain defendants, the other defendants in the case would each liable for an additional portion of the damages. However, in no case can the defendant be held to pay more than 150 percent of its level of fault. The Conference Committee increased that cap to 200 percent, making it even easier for plaintiffs to recover the fullest possible extent of their damages.

The Conference Committee also inserted provisions in the bill, at the request of the White House, that will allow any individual consumer to recover jointly and severally against defendants for any share of damages that are uncollectible from other, judgment-proof defendants.

And for Y2K class action suits, the bill requires that a majority of plaintiffs have suffered some minimal injury, in order to avoid cases in which thousands of unknowing plaintiffs are lumped together in an attempt to force a quick settlement.

The bill moves many Y2K class actions into federal court for purposes of uniformity, but at the request of the White House the Conference Committee increased the threshold to get federal court from the one million dollar level found in the Senate bill to ten million now. Furthermore, the number of required plaintiffs required to move a class action to federal court has been doubled from fifty to one hundred.

And the punitive damages section, which has been severely curtailed since early versions of the bill, now caps punitive damages for small businesses only—to $250,000 or three times compensatory damages, whichever is lesser.

Another change made to the bill in Conference exempts most intentional torts from the limits on recovery for economic loss.

Finally, the conference report provides that state laws on unconsolability will not apply to cases in which individual terms within a contract should not be enforced—a move further protecting the plaintiff's right to recover.

Each of the changes made before and during the Conference Committee negotiations has narrowed the focus and effect of the bill, while still maintaining the bill's clear intent to allow companies to prevent Y2K problems without undue delay stemming from frivolous lawsuits and meritless claims.

The "one trillion dollar litigation headache" is rapidly approaching, and this Conference report provides some preventative medicine and some anticipatory pain relief in the form of the reasoned, fair, and thoughtful compromise before us.

The four clear rules to be followed in all Y2K cases, and the bill levels the playing field for all parties who will be involved in Y2K suits—plaintiffs and defendants.

Companies and individuals alike will know the rules, and will know what they have to do. And most importantly, the stability that will come from this bill will allow companies to prevent Y2K problems when possible, fix Y2K defects when necessary, and proceed to remediation of damages in an orderly and fair manner.

This bill has been through a tortuous legislative drafting process, with criticisms, suggestions, and changes made from every side and by every sector of our society. So let us pass this conference report today, let us send it to the President, and let us show this nation that the Y2K crisis will not cripple our courts, will not disrupt our economy, and will not put a halt to the technology engine driving our progress towards the twenty-first century.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, as the Senate prepares to vote on the Conference Report on H.R. 775, the Y2K Act, I want to praise the efforts of so many Senate and House Members who have worked diligently to construct an effective, fair bill that will address the important issue of liability as it relates to the possible Year 2000—or Y2K—computer problems. This has been a group effort, teaming members on both sides of the aisle with the private sector. The coalition of high technology businesses, large businesses, small businesses, and others provided the initial momentum that pushed this bill across the finish line.

This bill is constructive, positive legislation. It allows companies in the information technology industry to focus their limited resources on solving Y2K related problems in computer software by preventing frivolous litigation. Litigation which would divert those limited resources away from solving Y2K programming deficiencies.

Mr. President, so many Senators and their staffs have worked to insure the success of this legislation, even when faced with difficult hurdles and odds. The efforts of Senator McCAIN, Senator Wyden, Senator Gordon, Senator Bennett, Senator Dodd, Senator Hatch, Senator Feinstein and others, along with the efforts of the House sponsors and conferees, have brought us to this point.

Mr. President, I am pleased that the House has passed this important bill today by a vote of 404-24. With only 183 days left until the globe turns the page on the calendar to a new century and a new millennium, I urge my colleagues to vote for this important bill. I am confident that this Conference Report will pass the Senate by a wide margin, just as in the House, and I urge the President to sign this bill into law when he receives it.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, we have some demands on this side of the aisle and some obligations. I yield back the remainder of my time.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I ask the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second. The yeas and nays were ordered. The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time having been yielded back, the question is on agreeing to the conference report. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative assistant called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Alaska (Mr. Murkowski) is necessary absent.

The result was announced—yeas 81, nays 18, as follows:

ORDER OF BUSINESS

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I think it is important that we give Members some indication of what the schedule looks like. Senator Daschle and I have been talking about how we can move forward.
I believe we have two amendments that have to be dealt with, with the possibility of votes, at least two votes at 7:30, in order to finish the Treasury-Postal Service appropriations bill. I think there will probably just be one amendment that involves the general government bill. Although there is another amendment that has to be disposed of in that time.

At that point, our plan is to go to the District of Columbia appropriations bill. Work is being done on that now. Senator Daschle and I are ready to announce right now that if we can get that done tonight at a reasonable hour, we will not have any votes on Friday. If we have difficulty, if we can’t get it done tonight, then we will be in with votes tomorrow. We probably are going to have to be in tomorrow anyway. Senator Daschle and I had already planned on being here. We want company. We are still working on nominations tonight, and we might have some we will try to get cleared tomorrow.

Basically, I am saying that if we could get this D.C. appropriations bill completed, then we would not have recorded votes tomorrow. It behooves us all. We are in a good mood now. We are making progress. I urge those who are involved in the D.C. appropriations bill to work aggressively so we can complete this at a reasonable hour tonight. Otherwise, we will see you in the morning at 9:30.

Mr. BYRD. Will the distinguished majority leader yield?

Mr. LOTT. I am delighted to yield.

Mr. BYRD. I hope you will have a session tomorrow without votes. There are many of us who like to make some speeches from time to time. We don’t get the opportunity to do that. I would like to give a speech concerning Independence Day, for example, and there are others.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, as I indicated, I thought we might have to have a session tomorrow anyway because of some wrapup business we may need to do. If we have Senators who would like to speak as to the Fourth of July, that is all the more reason. The key question for all other Senators is, will there be votes tomorrow morning or not. That will depend on finishing the District of Columbia appropriations bill.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I thank the distinguished majority leader.

Mr. LOTT. I yield the floor, Mr. President. I believe we have a D.C. unanimous consent request that is ready now.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUEST—S. 1283

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that we take up and consider the District of Columbia appropriations bill with the following parameters: 40 minutes equally divided on the Coverdell needle exchange amendment, with a second-degree amendment by Senator DURBIN; 30 minutes for Senator DURBIN’s tuition assistance program amendment, and 10 minutes for the opposition; 15 minutes for Senator DURBIN’s sense-of-the-Senate amendment; the Hutchinson managers’ amendment, and a final vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mrs. BOXER. Reserving the right to object, I have not seen the needle exchange amendment, or Senator DURBIN’s second degree, if he has one. I cannot agree to this at this time, until I see the amendment, because it affects a lot of people and it could mean the spread of disease. I need to see the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. We will work with the Senator from California and let her see the amendment. I will ask Mr. COVERDEL to make the amendment available.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senator from Minnesota, Senator WELLSTONE, is to be recognized.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I think I follow Senator DEWINE.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio is recognized.

AMENDMENT NO. 1200

(Purpose: To prohibit the use of funds to pay for an abortion or to pay for the administrative expenses in connection with certain health plans that provide coverage for abortions)

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Ohio [Mr. DEWINE], Mr. ABRAHAM, Mr. BROWNBACK, Mr. SANTORUM, Mr. HELMS, Mr. ASHCROFT, Mr. MCCAIN, Mr. NICKLES, and Mr. HAGEL, proposes an amendment numbered 1200.

The amendment is as follows:

At the end of title VI, add the following:

SEC. . The provision of section shall be available to pay for an abortion or to pay for the administrative expenses in connection with certain health plans that provide coverage for abortions.

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is as follows:

At the end of title VI, add the following:

SEC. . No funds appropriated by this Act shall be available to pay for an abortion, or the administrative expenses in connection with any health plan under the Federal employee health benefit program which provides any benefits or coverage for abortions.

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I rise to offer this amendment on behalf of myself and Senators ABRAHAM, BROWNBACK, SANTORUM, HELMS, ASHCROFT, MCCAIN, NICKLES, and HAGEL.

This amendment would maintain in force the current law restricting Federal funding for abortions only to cases of rape, incest, or life of the mother. Specifically, my amendment would maintain the status quo that limits Federal employee health plans to cover abortions only in the case of rape, incest, and threat to the life of the mother.

In conclusion, this issue has been debated time and time again on the Senate floor. Current law limits abortion availability for Federal employees. Federal employee health plans cover cases of rape, incest, and to save the life of the mother. That has been the position of the Senate, that has been the position of the House, and that was approved last year by a bipartisan vote of both Senators and Representatives from 1983 to 1999, with the exception of only 2 years.

I mention all of this to make it very clear to the Members of the Senate that this amendment does not go new ground. This amendment maintains the status quo. This amendment has been voted on time and time again by this body, and time and time again this body has accepted it.

The principle is a very simple one—one that goes beyond the conventional pro-choice/pro-life debates that we hear on this Senate floor. I think my colleagues know I am pro-life and, therefore, I wish to promote the values protecting life, ratifying life, perfect health, and simply says that the Federal Government, as the employer, is not in the business of funding abortions. My amendment would maintain the status quo that limits Federal employee health plans to cover abortions only in the case of rape, incest, and threat to the life of the mother.

The vast majority of Americans oppose subsidizing abortions. Employers, as a general principle, determine the health benefits享受er coverage. Taxpayers provide a majority share of the funds to purchase health insurance for the Federal civilian workforce. This provision addresses the same core issue and simply says that the Federal Government, as the employer, is not in the business of funding abortions. Abortion is certainly a contentious issue, and we should not ask the taxpayers to pay for it.

In conclusion, this issue has been debated time and time again on the Senate floor. Current law limits abortion availability for Federal employees. Federal employee health plans cover cases of rape, incest, and to save the life of the mother.
We should not go against the will of the people of this country. We should uphold current law, and that is very simply what this amendment does. I reserve the remainder of my time.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I rise today in opposition to the amendment offered by the Senator from Ohio, Mr. DeWine, and I want to tell you why. I hope colleagues will listen to this because this is an amendment that impacts 1.2 million women in America today. It is a law that is aimed directly at them. It will harm them; it will take away their rights.

We do a lot of things around here, and some of them don't really affect real people. This affects real people who happen to be women, 12 million of them, who are hard-working women, who pay for their own health insurance—part of it. Yet, under the Senator's amendment, he says to those 12 million women: You are going to be treated differently from every other working woman in America today just because you happen to work for the Federal Government and just because the Senate has the power to impact you.

I think this is a sad day for us again, a very sad day. Every other woman in America who has a health insurance plan can avail herself of all the legal protection that the known to exist today. They have no problem. Abortion is a legal procedure. Let me repeat that. Abortion is legal in America. That is what this is all about. This isn't a debate about these 1.2 million women, not at all.

It is about the underlying question.

The Senator from Ohio is a leader in the effort to take away a woman's right to choose. He is open about it. He is honest about it. He is forthright about it. Whatever portion should not be legal under any circumstance. And his cosponsors today, if you look at their record, are all in favor of a constitutional amendment banning the right to choose.

What we are seeing is another way to get to the same end. If you can't repeal Roe, if you can't take away a woman's right to choose, take away her right to be able to pay for the procedure which is legal.

Federal employees work hard. They work in every aspect of our lives. Some of them are scientists at the NIH. Some of them work delivering the mail. They work hard.

It seems to me unconscionable that we would say, because we have the power to do it, we would say because of raw legal power, Federal employees, women, you are second-class citizens, and you do not have the same rights as somebody they are hinting of, or American Telephone, or any of the companies, small or large, in this country.

Why is it that the Senator from Ohio doesn't have that in his amendment? Because he can't get it passed. But he has figured out a way because, yes, the Federal Government, every dollar of our benefits package, pays part of the health insurance premium.

So that is the vote. It is true that this has passed a couple of times. We didn't have a debate on it really the last time. I found it very interesting when we started this because my friends came to me and said: Do we really need to have a vote? Do we really need to talk about this? I want to say nothing about this. We have a lot of time to talk about Y2K. We have endless days to talk about Y2K, and then we add another hour and a half to talk about Y2K. When it comes to business, we have a lot of time. But when it comes to taking away the rights of women, of the Senator BOXER. Do you really need to talk about it? Can't we just forget about it? We don't need a vote. We want to go home. I want to go home. But we are about to do again what we have done before, which is to say to these women, you can't be treated like other women.

Everyone who gets up on that side to talk about this—I guarantee it—really wants to outlaw abortion, period.

That is what this is about—make it tougher, make it harder, any hook that they can find to stop a woman from exercising her legal right given to her by the Supreme Court decision, and, by the way, ratified over and over and over again by that Court—even the current U.S. Supreme Court. Yes, it is legal for a woman to have control over her own body. Yes, it is legal, they said. It is within her privacy rights. It gives her dignity. It gives her options. It gives her the ability to take care of her own health.

This is an insult to women who work for the Federal Government.

The Senator from Ohio has no compassion about it—standing up here and looking at the women who work for him; his own staff, by the way, who will be treated as second-class citizens, different from all the other women in this country.

I now yield 10 minutes to the Senator from Washington.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California is recognized.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I thank my colleague from California, Senator Boxer, who has risen to speak. Dedicated, hard working federal employees are basically being asked to limit their constitutional right to choose when they enter federal employment. This amendment treats federal employees like second-class citizens and gives them no ability to decide what kind of health insurance is appropriate to meet all of their health care needs, including reproductive health.

This amendment is not about the federal funding of abortions. This amendment is an assault on women's health. It is a creative way to deny access to abortion services for federal employees and their families. Federal employees should not be captive to the narrow views of a minority of the public. Allowing federal employees to purchase all the health insurance policies that allow them to have an abortion is not direct federal funding of abortion. It is a round-about way to limit some American's abilities to exercise the rights granted them by the Constitution. I, and the majority of Americans, support that right and the Roe versus Wade decision. This Senate should not undermine the fundamental right of women to decide whether to bear a child.

Most of my colleagues know that a majority of the population supports the basic of privacy inherent in the Roe versus Wade decision. Abortion, up to viability, is a personal and private matter. Rather than seeking to overturn Roe versus Wade, they have decided to restrict access with a multitude of creative, but similarly offensive, ways.

By lambasting that insurance companies participating in the Federal Employees Health Benefit Plan deny access to abortion services as part of their defined benefit package, the U.S. Senate is attempting to take a private and difficult decision and add to a woman’s hardship by turning it also into a financial burden.

Many federal employees simply do not have the discretionary income to pay for an abortion. The cost of this procedure, can be high. By removing this health care benefit from all federal insurance plans, we have placed a significant financial burden on employees and their families. For federal employees, the protections guaranteed under Roe versus Wade are seriously jeopardized. Financial barriers can be just as significant as the Roe versus Wade are seriously jeopardized. Financial barriers can be just as significant.

I hope this amendment is defeated and that we can recognize the valuable contributions of all federal employees by not forcing them to surrender their rights and protections as a condition of being a civil servant. I also hope that we can stop these constant assaults on women’s health care and that of their families.

Mr. President, I retain the remainder of our time.

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, let me briefly respond to some of the comments that have been made. This matter has rested many times on the Senate floor. I seriously doubt there will be any new points that I or anyone else will raise.

Sometimes the obvious must be stated. This amendment does not stop abortions. This amendment does not say to any woman what she can or cannot do. This simply says taxpayers are not going to pay for it. It is that simple. It is that basic.

We have to understand, on the average health plan in the Federal Government, 73 percent of the cost is paid for by the Government, which means 73 percent of the cost is paid for by the taxpayers.

We get back to the issue, should the American people, on an involuntary basis, through their taxes, have money taken out of their pay to be used to pay for abortions when many people believe very adamantly that this is wrong? I think the answer is absolutely not, we should not. They have voluntarily taken from taxpayers to pay for abortions, which violates the conscience of many taxpayers.

This is one Senator who doesn’t quote polls too often on the Senate floor. I think it has some relevance about what the American people expect us to do as far as how their taxes are spent. A Fox poll in 1998 asked: Do you think health care plans should pay for any of the cost of an abortion? That answer? Sixty percent said no. The question specifically had to do with the Federal Government paying for these Federal health care plans. Sixty percent said no; 28 percent said yes.

I think it is very clear, with the Federal Government paying almost three-fourths of the cost of these plans and taxpayers paying three-fourths of the cost, we understand what is at stake and what the issue is. It has nothing to do with whether or not a person has a legal right to an abortion. That is a debate for a different day.

Mr. SANTORUM. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. DEWINE. I yield.

Mr. SANTORUM. The Senator from Washington was saying we are restricting someone’s right by not paying for an abortion, which posits the interesting question that right now comes with a guarantee that the Government will pay for that right. We have freedom of speech guaranteed in the Constitution. Does the Government pay for someone who wants to speak? Do the taxpayers pay to put them on television if they want to speak?

Mr. DEWINE. The answer is no.

Mr. SANTORUM. If a group of people want to assemble, does the Government pay for a room or the assembly costs? Is that part of the right of speech—that the Government must pay for the cost of assembling?

Mr. DEWINE. The answer is no.

Mr. SANTORUM. If someone believes in freedom of religion, does that mean the Government should pay the church to make sure people have the freedom to worship, and make sure the freedom of religion is protected?

Mr. DEWINE. The answer is no.

Mr. SANTORUM. That is the obvious question.

A right is a right, but it does not include the right of the Government to pay for the exercise of that right.

Mr. SANTORUM. Is there any prohibition in the DeWine amendment from someone using their own money to purchase insurance to cover abortion?

Mr. DEWINE. No.

Mr. SANTORUM. Is there any prohibition in the DeWine amendment from someone paying for an abortion with their own money?

Mr. DEWINE. No.

Mr. SANTORUM. Will the Senator let me finish?

Mr. DEWINE. Over 70 percent is paid for by taxpayer dollars.

Mr. SANTORUM. What I say again, it is a specious difference to argue that when you go out with your own dollars, you are different from when you have a health plan.

Mr. DEWINE. Than with taxpayer dollars. That is a specious difference? I don’t think so.

Mr. SANTORUM. What the Senator from Ohio is seeking to do is—

Mr. DEWINE. To prohibit an individual to use their own wages to purchase insurance for abortions—

Mr. SANTORUM. Whatever one uses their own wages or is part of a Federal health plan, paid for, in fact by those wages—

Mr. DEWINE. To prohibit the use of your own money, which is a specious argument.

Mr. SANTORUM. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. BOXER. Mr. President, I yield 1 minute to the Senator from New York.

Mr. SCHUMER. I thank the Senator from California.

I rise in agreement with the Senator from California against the amendment of the Senator from Ohio. I make this argument—and I am sorry the Senator from Pennsylvania is not here—if I were to offer an amendment that said you couldn’t use your Federal dollars to buy a handgun from your salary, there would be outrage on that side. They would say: We haven’t made handguns illegal. We don’t think they should be. It doesn’t happen, but for the sake of argument you think handguns should be illegal. But fight it on the issue of handguns, don’t fight it by taking away Federal employees’ rights.

There would be outrage from the very same people who are now saying this.

Mr. SANTORUM. Will the Senator from New York yield?

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I retain the remainder of my time.

Mr. SCHUMER. Will the Senator let me finish?

Mr. DEWINE. I yield to the Senator.

Mr. SANTORUM. Is there any prohibition in the DeWine amendment from someone using their own money to purchase insurance to cover abortion?

Mr. DEWINE. The answer is no.

Mr. SCHUMER. To prohibit an individual to use their own wages to purchase insurance for abortions—

Mr. SANTORUM. Whether one uses their own wages or is part of a Federal health plan, paid for, in fact by those wages—

Mr. DEWINE. To prohibit the use of your own money, which is a specious argument.

Mr. SANTORUM. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mrs. BOXER. We have retained the remainder of our time.

Mr. DEWINE. I yield to the Senator.

Mr. SCHUMER. I thank the Senator from California.

Mr. SANTORUM. The Senator from California.

I reserve the remainder of my time.
Mrs. BOXER. I yield to the Senator. Mr. SCHUMER. I thank the Senator from California for yielding to me to allow me to answer the question of the Senator from Pennsylvania, which is what I was attempting to do. He asked me a question, and he didn't let me answer.

The answer is simple: What you are doing on this amendment is imposing your will on how a Federal employee can spend their money, despite the fact they have the right to choose. It is no different, I argue, from imposing my will on the right of a Federal employee to spend their money—Federal dollars—on the right to, say, buy a handgun. What is good for the goose is good for the gander.

I wouldn't support that amendment for both the reasons I mention. I think you argue right head on—not try to deal with Federal dollars. Second, I am not for abolishing all handguns. However, I say to my colleagues, the analogy I think it shows the fallacy of the argument behind the amendment of the Senator from Ohio.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I strongly oppose the DeWine amendment.

It has been 26 years since the Supreme Court decided the case of Roe versus Wade in 1973. That landmark decision recognized a woman's fundamental constitutional right to choose to terminate her pregnancy. It removed the barriers that for generations had prevented large numbers of American women from obtaining safe and legal medical care to terminate their pregnancies.

In recent years, however, the barriers blocking access to abortion have begun to be rebuilt. This amendment to ban abortion coverage under the Federal Employees Health Benefits Plan is part of that unacceptable effort.

Several million women currently serve in positions that prevent them from voting, working, or living in every state of the nation. Many work for modest pay and depend upon federal health benefits for all aspects of their medical care, including reproductive health services. The amendment offered today would deny those women access to a legal, medical procedure—a constitutional right—and subject them to discrimination, simply because they have chosen to work in public service.

The anti-choice Republican majority in Congress and the right of the nation have spent tremendous employment insecurity, as government has downsized, and eliminated over 200,000 federal jobs. Their COLAs and their retirement benefits have been threatened. They have faced the indignity and economic hardship of three government shutdowns. Federal employees have been vilified as what is wrong with government, when they should be thanked and valued for the tremendous service they provide to our country and to all Americans.

I view this as yet another assault on these faithful public servants. It goes directly after the earned benefits of federal employees. Health insurance is part of the compensation package to which all federal employees are entitled. The costs of insurance coverage are shared by the federal government and the employee.

I know that proponents of continuing the ban on abortion coverage for Federal employees say that they are only trying to prevent taxpayer funding of abortion. But that is not what this debate is about.

If we were to extend the logic of the abortion right to any of those who want a ban, we would prohibit federal employees from obtaining abortions using their own paychecks. After all, those funds also come from the taxpayers.

But no one is seriously suggesting that federal employees ought not to have the right to do whatever they want with their own paychecks. And we should not be placing unfair restrictions on the type of health insurance federal employees can purchase under the Federal Employee Health Benefits Plan.

About 1.2 million women of reproductive age depend on the FEHBP for their medical care. We know that access to reproductive health services is essential to women's health. We know that restrictions that make it more difficult for women to obtain early abortions increase the likelihood that women will put their health at risk by being forced to continue a high-risk pregnancy.

If we continue the ban on abortion services, and provide exemptions only in cases of life endangerment, rape or incest, the 1.2 million women of reproductive age who depend on the FEHBP will not have access to abortion even when their health is seriously threatened. We will be replacing the informed judgement of medical care givers with that of politicians.

Decisions on abortion should be made by the woman in close consultation with her physician. These decisions are made on the basis of medical judgment, not on the basis of political judgements. Only a woman and her physician can weigh her unique circumstances and make the decision that is right for that particular woman's life and health.

It is wrong for the Congress to try to issue a blanket prohibition on insuring a legal medical procedure with no allowance for the particular set of circumstances that an individual woman may face. I deeply believe that women's health will suffer if we do so.

I believe it is time to quit attacking federal employees and their benefits. I believe we need to quit treating federal employees as second class citizens. I believe Federal employees should be able to retain the same quality and range of health care services as their private sector counterparts.

Because I believe in the right to choose and because I support federal employees, I urge my colleagues to join me in defeating the DeWine Amendment.
Mr. NICKLES. How much time remains on both sides?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There are 12 minutes 57 seconds under the control of the Senator from Ohio and 8 minutes 2 seconds under the control of the Senator from California.

Mr. DeWINE. Yield the Senator from Oklahoma 5 minutes.

Mr. NICKLES. On legislative procedure, I have advised my colleagues on both sides to go through the Chair. I think it is not demeaning to ask the Senate to not have exchanges through the Chair. There is a reason for the rule.

I will make a couple of comments concerning this issue. I compliment my friend and colleague from Ohio for raising the issue. This is not about how someone spends their own money, I say to my colleague from New York. Anybody can spend their own money. A Federal employee can spend their own money and pay for an abortion. It is not appropriated under this act. In other words, no taxpayer money shall be used to pay for abortion. That has been the law of the land. We have passed that many times. This administration wants to overturn it. They have not been successful.

I heard one of my colleagues, I believe my colleague from Washington, say it is only a minority, a radical minority. I am not sure if the word “radical” was used, but a small minority that wants to impose its will.

That is not the case. There was a poll taken some time ago that asked, “Should the Government subsidize health care plans to pay for abortion?” and 72 percent said no.

I have heard people say: You are trying to outlaw abortion. That is not the case.

The purpose of the amendment is, we do not want to subsidize abortion and we don’t want it to be a fringe benefit. I have heard people saying this is a “benefit.” It shouldn’t be a benefit. Abortion should not be a fringe benefit that is provided for and subsidized, three-fourths of which is paid for by the Federal Government.

Remember what we are talking about. Abortion happens to take the life of an unborn child.

I heard a colleague say we need a full range of reproductive services, we need reproductive health. What about health of the unborn child? Are we going to have the taxpayers pay to destroy the life of an unborn child? The majority in Congress and overwhelming majority of the American people have said no.

That is what our colleague’s amendment does. It does not take away a woman’s right to choose. It does not outlaw abortion. It just says we should not subsidize it. We should not be using taxpayers’ money to provide a fringe benefit in the Federal employees’ health care plans to help subsidize the destruction of innocent, unborn children.

So I compliment my colleague for the amendment. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment when we vote. I yield the floor.

Ms. LANDRIEU. Will the Senator from Oklahoma yield for a question?

Mr. NICKLES. I will be happy to yield on the time of the Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. I yield 30 seconds.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Louisiana is recognized.

Ms. LANDRIEU. Based on the argument that has just made, would the Senator from Oklahoma then be in favor of repealing all tax benefits—tax subsidies or tax benefits to corporations in America that offer general health care plans to their employees?

Mrs. BOXER. Those that include abortions.

Mr. NICKLES. The answer to your question is no.

Ms. LANDRIEU. I would argue then that this argument makes no sense because this Congress gives hundreds of millions, billions of dollars in subsidies to corporations all over this world that provide health care benefits. I will also argue that the Senator from California is correct; this is picking on a small group of employees.

Mrs. BOXER. I yield an additional minute to my friend.

Ms. LANDRIEU. In my mind, this amendment is not really about abortion one way or the other. It really is about the rights of employees, our employees who we are supposed to protect and treat fairly, men and women alike. It is not about direct subsidy. This is their wages that they earn, that they use to pay for their health care benefits. Since we give subsidies to all corporations everywhere, why can’t we help our own employees for something that is legal? I reserve the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, how much time do I have remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California has 6 minutes 32 seconds. The Senator from Ohio has 10 minutes 23 seconds.

Mrs. BOXER. I yield 2 minutes to my friend from Minnesota. Before I do, I want to make a point. If you heard the Senator from Oklahoma, you heard it right. He says abortion is not a health fringe benefit. So he says it is taking the life of an unborn child. In other words, in his opinion it is murder.

Unfortunately for my friend—Mr. NICKLES. Will the Senator yield?

Mrs. BOXER. I will yield on your time. I am happy to yield on your time. I will yield on your time.

Mr. DeWINE. I yield the Senator 30 seconds.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma is recognized for 30 seconds.

Mr. NICKLES. Through the Chair, I want to caution my colleague. I have been close to making a rule XIX order.
Highton, who are two fellows, be granted the privilege of the floor. I reserve the remainder of our time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. Who yields time?

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, how much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California has 3 minutes 46 seconds. The Senator from Ohio has 9 minutes 58 seconds.

Mrs. BOXER. May I ask if the Senator would like to use his time?

Mr. DeWINE. I see no speakers on our side. I am not prepared to yield back, but we are getting down to the closing at this point.

Mrs. BOXER. I yield a minute and a half to Senator Robb.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Sessions). The Senator from Virginia.

Mr. ROBB. Mr. President, I have not been present for all of the debate this time, but this issue has been before us many times in the past. I stand to oppose the amendment and to speak on behalf of the 12 million Federal employees who would be directly affected by the amendment. If this amendment were to pass, it would take away their health benefit rights which have been negotiated. The bottom line is, and I say this as one who represents a disproportionate number of Federal employees, this would make Federal employees who are eligible for this health benefit, second-class citizens. It would deny to them a benefit that is available to every other woman under every other private health plan that chooses to offer such coverage. I think it would be wrong.

I reserve the remainder of the time, and I thank the Senator from California and the Senator from Washington for their extraordinary leadership, again, on this very important issue.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. BENNETT. Will the Senator from Ohio yield me 3 minutes?

Mr. DeWINE. I yield the Senator from Utah 3 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah is recognized for 3 minutes.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. President, I shall try to stay out of the more contentious part of this debate. But there is a point I think which has been done with the whole health care issue. That is, the health care system in this country is based on employer choice, not individual choice. I have spoken out against that. I did it during the debate on the Clintons' health care program. I have not made much headway, but this debate gives me the opportunity to point out, once again, that the benefits in a health care plan are always determined by the employer and not by the employee.

During the debate over the Clinton health care plan, people would say we should give everybody the same plan that you Senators have. I responded by saying I wish I had the same plan I had before I came to the Senate because I worked for an employer who gave me a better deal than the health care plan adopted by the Federal Government. I happened to be the CEO of that company, and I have something to say about what that deal would be.

I know of health care plans that deny pregnancy benefits. I would not want to work in such a place, having fathered six children. I took great advantage of the pregnancy benefits. But an employer could not do so often say: We can't afford pregnancy benefits. If you are going to have a baby, you are going to have to pay for it yourself.

Fortunately, during the period of time when I had no health care coverage because my employer could not afford it, we did not have any children. We had our six children under plans that provided pregnancy benefits. But it is not unusual for benefits to vary from company to company, from employer to employer, and for the employer to make the decision.

That is the way the system works. I would like to change the system and give the individual the right to control those dollars absolutely, but I know of no program under our current tax laws where that is done, except in the case of the self-employed. Unfortunately, within this Chamber, we have made the decision not to allow the self-employed to deduct the entire cost of that decision.

I add those particular facts to this debate, trying to stay out of the more emotional side of it. I yield the floor.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, how much time do we have left on our side?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California has 2 minutes 21 seconds.

Mrs. BOXER. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. President, abortion is legal in this country, and I know there are many who do not like that. But it is legal. It is a health procedure that impacts on the rights of women, and the Supreme Court has said over and over it is legal.

This amendment by the Senator from Ohio, supported by the Senator from Pennsylvania and others, picks on women. It picks on a procedure only a woman would need. And it says to that woman: You cannot use your own health insurance to access the health care system for this procedure that you decide you want to have because it is legal in this country.

This amendment does not say you cannot use your health care insurance for a vasectomy. It does not target men and say you cannot use your own health insurance for a vasectomy. Some may not like that procedure. It does not say you cannot use your health insurance for Viagra. No, it picks on women. It is wrong.

My friend from Louisiana pointed out that corporations all over America offer their employees this benefit. We subsidize them every day with tax breaks and sometimes even direct payments, and yet we do not touch them. We are picking on 12 million women who work for the Federal Government. It is wrong. These are good women. These are hard-working women. They deserve equal rights. They deserve dignity.

I hope some are listening to this debate and will come over and vote no, or if I move to table, will vote aye to table this amendment.

I reserve whatever few seconds I may have left.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio.

Mr. DeWINE. Mr. President, I yield myself such time as I may consume. How much time is available?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio has 6 minutes 40 seconds and the Senator from California has 2 seconds.

Mr. DeWINE. Two seconds.

Mr. President, this matter has been debated out, and I believe everyone knows what the issue is. It is really not a question, though, of taking anything away from Federal employees. As I pointed out earlier, my amendment simply maintains the status quo. It keeps the current law. It keeps the law that has been in effect virtually for the last decade, with the exception of a 2-year period of time. It does not take anything away.

It simply says taxpayers' dollars will not be used to subsidize the payment for abortions. The vast majority of the American people do not believe their tax dollars should be used for someone else's abortion. Poll after poll has disclosed that. That is all this amendment does.

My amendment would maintain the status quo that limits Federal employee health plans to cover abortions only in the case of rape, incest and threats to the life of a mother. That is what the amendment does. It is very simple. We have voted on it and time again.

I simply ask my colleagues to follow the will of the American people. The American people are the employer in this case. As my colleague from Utah pointed out so very eloquently a moment ago, that is the way every other plan is determined. The taxpayers of this country have the right to determine this plan, and they have the right to say their tax dollars will not be used to fund abortions.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I move to table the DeWine amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion to table is not in order while time remains.
Mr. DEWINE. If the Senator wants to yield back her 2 seconds, I am willing to yield back the several minutes I have left.

Mrs. BOXER. Absolutely. Mr. DEWINE, I yield back the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California?

Mrs. BOXER, Mr. President, I move to table the DeWine amendment and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion to table amendment No. 1200. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Arizona (Mr. Mccain) and the Senator from Alaska (Mr. Murkowski) are necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 47, nays 51, as follows:

NOT VOTING—2

McCain Murkowski

The motion was rejected.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Ohio.

The amendment (No. 1200) was agreed to.

Mrs. HUTCHISON addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas is recognized.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT AGREEMENT—S. 1283

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senator COVERDELL's needle exchange amendment have 30 minutes of debate, 20 minutes under the control of Senator COVERDELL and 10 minutes under the control of Senator BURDIN. At the end of which time Senator COVERDELL will withdraw the amendment; Senator BURDIN's tuition assistance program amendment have 30 minutes of debate, with 20 minutes under the control of Senator BURDIN and 10 minutes under the control of Senator HUTCHISON at the end of which time the amendment will be withdrawn; Senator BURDIN'S sense-of-the-Senate amendment on D.C. quality of life, with 15 minutes under control of Senator BURDIN and 5 minutes under the control of Senator HUTCHISON, at the end of which time there will be a voice vote; Senator DASCHLE'S Rock Creek Park amendment, with 20 minutes under the control of Senator DASCHLE, at the end of which time there will be a voice vote; two amendments by Senator DORGAN, with 5 minutes on each, controlled by Senator DORGAN, at the end of which time they will be accepted by managers, managers' amendments, and then a voice vote on final passage.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DORGAN addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota is recognized.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, there are a number of amendments that Senator DURBIN and I have discussed, which we are prepared to accept. He has a number of them he will mention. Let me mention the amendments by number that we are prepared to accept: No. 1209, by Senator HARKIN, and he will be modifying that in a moment; amendment No. 1213, by Senator TORRICELLI; amendment No. 1212, by Senator WELLSTONE; and amendment No. 1198, by Senator ENZI.

My understanding is that the remaining amendments that are pending will be withdrawn. My understanding, also, is that there is no request at this point for a recorded vote on final passage.

I am happy to yield to the chairman, Senator CAMPBELL.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, the amendment DORGAN mentioned have been cleared with the majority, and we are prepared to accept them.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I am pleased to say that the Torricelli amendment No. 1213 will be accepted as modified, and it is the same case with the Harkin amendment, No. 1209, as modified. That has been cleared on both sides of the aisle.

My understanding, at the moment, is that Senator SCHUMER from New York is not able to clear the Torricelli sense-of-the-Senate amendment No. 1213.

So we have cleared all of the remaining amendments that Senator CAMPBELL and I have mentioned. Amendment No. 1198, a Harkin amendment, as modified; No. 1212 by Senator WELLSTONE; and No. 1198 by Senator ENZI.

AMENDMENTS NOS. 1198, 1209, AND 1212, EN BLOC

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I send three amendments to the desk, en bloc.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from North Dakota [Mr. DOR- GAN] proposes amendments numbered 1198, 1209, and 1212, en bloc.

AMENDMENT NO. 1198

(Purpose: To include Campbell and Uinta Counties to the Rocky Mountain High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas for the State of Wyoming)

On page 48, line 2, strike the period following "HIDTA", insert a colon (:), and after the colon insert the following: "Provided further, that Campbell and Uinta Counties are hereby designated as part of the Rocky Mountain High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area for the State of Wyoming."

(Purpose: To provide additional funding to reduce methamphetamine usage in High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas)

On page 47, strike lines 9 through 11 and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Area Program, $205,277,000 for drug control activities consistent with the approve strategy for each of the designated High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas, of which $7,000,000 shall be used for methamphetamine programs above the sums allocated in fiscal year 1999, $5,000,000 shall be used for High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas that are designated after July 1, 1999 and $5,000,000 to be used at the discretion of the Office of National Drug Control Policy with not less than half of the $7,000,000 going to areas solely dedicated to fighting methamphetamine usage, of which":

Amend page 53, line 3 by reducing the dollar figure by $17,000,000.

Amend page 55, line 2 by reducing the figure by $17,000,000.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I am offering this amendment on behalf of myself, Senator DASCHLE, Senator GRAHAM, Senator BINGAMAN, Senator MURRAY, and Senator JOHNSON. Our amendment is simple and I believe makes common sense. It would give a needed shot in the arm to our war against drugs by modestly increasing funding for the High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas—so-called HIDTAs—under the Office of National Drug Control Policy.

The bill before us freezes funding for this important and successful program. It provides no increases for the existing 31 HIDTAs across the Nation and it provides no funding for new HIDTAs. Our amendment would increase HIDTA funding by $17 million. It would provide $7 million to combat the rising scourge of methamphetamine abuse. It would provide $5 million to increase existing HIDTAs. And it would allot $5 million to allow the establishment and funding of new HIDTAs.

I fully recognize the challenges faced by the distinguished chair and ranking member of the committee. The members of this committee were dealt a bad check and they have done a commendable job within the allocation they were given. However, we believe that we have found a reasonable offset—one that will not undermine the effective functioning of the government.

We would take $17 million—less then 2.5 percent from the General Services Administration account dedicated to the repair and alterations of federal government buildings. There is $524 million in this account and over $300 million of its goes for unspecified projects. I have no doubt that much of these funds are needed, but clearly $17 million could be absorbed or a short deferment of a project could be made in order to make room for a modest increase in our war on drugs.

The need for this increase in the HIDTA program could not be clearer, particularly as it relates to combating methamphetamine abuse. Methamphetamine is sweeping across our Nation, ruining an untold number of lives, and claiming countless numbers of our children.

Our streets as well as our classrooms have become more abundant. But there is a new drug, one that is far more addictive and readily available than heroin, cocaine, or any other illegal narcotic. Methamphetamine is fast becoming the leading addictive drug in this nation. From quiet suburbs, to city streets, to the corn rows of Iowa, meth is destroying thousands of lives every year. A majority of those lives, unfortunately, are our children.

Methamphetamine is commonly referred to as Iowa’s drug of choice. This drug is reaching epidemic proportions as its sweeps from the west coast, ravages through the Midwest, and is now beginning to reach the east. The trail of destruction of human life as a result of methamphetamine is an addiction stretches across America from coast to coast.

To illustrate the violence meth elicits in people, methamphetamine is cited as a contributing factor in 80 percent of domestic violence cases in Iowa and a leading factor in a majority of violent crimes.

The $17 million we provide would be used for increased enforcement and prosecution of drug dealers, additional undercover agents, and to help pay for the tremendous cost of confiscation and clean up of clandestine meth labs.

I believe that we have a window of opportunity as a nation to take a stand right now to defeat the meth scourge plaguing our communities. We will not solve all of these problems, but we will give law enforcement the support that they vitally need in their efforts to defeat this dangerous drug.

While we debate this modest proposal, another family is fighting an uphill battle, and another child is getting hooked by this deadly drug. The time is now to make a stand to protect our communities and our schools by passing this important amendment. I ask my colleagues to support this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now consider amendment No. 1192. I ask for its immediate consideration. It has been accepted by both sides. I urge its adoption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Colorado (Mr. Campbell) proposes an amendment numbered 1192.

The amendment (No. 1192) was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I rise in support of S. 1282, the Treasury and General Government Appropriations bill for FY 2000, as reported by the Senate Committee on Appropriations.

I commend the distinguished chairman and the ranking member for bringing the Senate a carefully crafted spending bill within the Subcommittee's 302(b) allocation and consistent with the discretionary spending caps for FY 2000.

The pending bill provides $27.6 billion in budget authority and $24.7 billion in new outlays for FY 2000 to fund the programs of the Department of the Treasury, including the Internal Revenue Service, U.S. Customs Service, and Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms; the Executive Office of the President; the Postal Service; and related independent agencies. With outlays from prior-years and other completed actions, the Senate bill totals $27.8 billion in budget authority and $28.2 billion in outlays.

For discretionary spending, which represents just under half the funding in the bill, the Senate bill is at the Subcommittee's 302(b) allocation for budget authority, and it is $109 million in outlays below the 302(b) allocation. The President's request is $5.5 billion in both BA and outlays below the President's budget request.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that a table displaying the Budget Committee scoring of the bill be printed in the RECORD. There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I want to thank the managers of this bill for their hard work in putting forth this legislation which provides federal funding for numerous vital programs. However, I am sad to say, once again, I find myself in the unpleasant position of speaking against unacceptable levels of parochial projects in another appropriations bill.

I have asked rhetorically on the floor of the Senate many times when we are going to stop this destructive and irresponsible practice of earmarking special-interest pork-barrel projects in appropriations bills primarily for parochial reasons.

This year's bill is a drastic improvement over last year's bill in that it contains only a little over $291.6 million in wasteful, pork-barrel spending. $293.6 million of waste is much better than $526 million of waste.

Where does all this pork go? Well, as usual, this bill contains millions on top of millions for court house construction and repairs. We have $11,606,000 earmarked for repairs and alterations to the Frank M. Johnson, Jr. Federal Building—U.S. Courthouse in Montgomery, Alabama, and $21,098,000 for repairs and alterations to the Federal Building—U.S. Courthouse Annex in Anchorage, Alaska. I know that these could be cut if we were to have a normal administrative process.

Everyone knows that we are very close to breaking the spending caps. We have not done so as of yet. I hope my colleagues understand that just because we can fund these programs of questionable merit within the spending caps, that does not mean we have the right to spend tax payers' hard-earned dollars in such an irresponsible fashion.

I am constantly amazed by the arbitrary fashion by which the Appropriations Committee chooses to allocate the dollars that should be spent only for important and necessary federal programs.

The examples of wasteful spending that I have highlighted in this floor statement is just the tip of the iceberg. There are many more low-priority, wasteful, and unnecessary projects. Omitted from the extensive list I have compiled, and I ask unanimous consent that the list be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

OBJECTIONABLE PROVISIONS CONTAINED IN S. 1282 THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT, THE UNITED STATES POSTAL SERVICE, THE EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT, AND CERTAIN INDEPENDENT AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS BILL.

BILL LANGUAGE

Department of the Treasury

$900,000 is earmarked for a land grant university in North and/or South Dakota to conduct a research program on the United States/Canadian bilateral trade of agricultural commodities and products.

$926,000 for the Office of Citizenship and Multicultural Affairs in the Department of Justice.

$8,263,000 is earmarked for new construction for the U.S. Border Patrol in the El Paso, Texas, area.

An $11,480,000 earmark for new construction at the Odegard School for Aerospace Education and Training (FLETC) to provide up to $300,000 to a graduate level criminal justice program in a Northern Plains State which can provide training to law enforcement officials and others, including the Border Patrol, to address youth and criminal activity in rural locations.

Report language requesting that FLETC give special consideration to the training facility in the Ogde School for Aerospace Sciences, at the University of North Dakota and at law enforcement training facilities in North Dakota.

An $1,250,000 for the counter-terrorism facility at Glynco, Georgia.

Report language that the “Acquisition, construction, improvements, and related expenses” account covers major maintenance and facility improvements, construction, renovation, capital improvements, and related equipment at FLETC facilities in Glynco, GA and Artesia, NM.

Report language urging the Director of the Drug Enforcement Agency to provide a statement on the impact of drug related crimes.

Report language directing the Director of the Drug Enforcement Agency to give high priority to funding sufficient personnel at ports of entry in the following four states: Montana, Iowa, Colorado, and Nevada.

Report language urging the United States Postal Service, the Executive Office of the President, and certain independent agencies to consider convening a national conference on rural drug crime to include regional conferences in rural areas, as those in South Carolina and Arizona, and to work with the State of Alaska and the State of Vermont when reviewing its staffing requirements.

Report language expressing the Committee’s concerns about the adequacy of staffing levels at the Great Falls, Montana port.

Report language urging the continuation and expansion of the Collaborative Investigation for Drug Trafficking along the Interstate 5 Corridor between the University of North Dakota and the Customs Service for rotorcraft training.

Report language indicating the Committee’s continued support of adequate staffing levels for tax administration and its support of the staffing plans for the Internal Revenue Service facilities in the communities of Marion and Beckley, West Virginia.

Report language indicating that Section 105, an administrative provision of the Interior, National Park Service, the Executive Office of the President, and certain independent agencies, which provides that no reorganization of the field office structure of the Internal Revenue Service Criminal Investigation Division will be printed in the RECORD.

Report language directing the Postal Service to work with the State of Alaska and the Alaska Federation of Natives to develop an inspection program to stop the criminal use of the mail where the U.S. Postal Service is being used to transport drugs to remote villages in Alaska.

Report language indicating the Committee’s keenness that the GSA has announced that it will purchase and deploy ethanol flexible fuel vehicles over the next two years.

Report language encouraging the Director to consider convening a national conference on rural drug crime to include regional conferences in rural areas, as those in South Carolina and Arizona, and to assess the needs of rural law enforcement and the impact of drug related crimes.

An $8,000,000 for additional space at the Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP) to work with the State of North Carolina to develop and implement a plan to designate North Carolina as a High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area with a focus on intensified interdiction along its interstate and national highways.

Report language requesting that GSA review the District Court of Vermont’s proposal to relocate to a new facility, and that the GSA work with the Courts to determine the best address logistically and space concerns at the Burlington Courthouse and Federal Building.

Report language urging the General Services Administration to work with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms to provide the necessary expanded facilities to meet the chronic space needs at the National Tracing Center in Martinsburg, West Virginia.

Report language urging GSA to strongly consider the U.S. Olympic Committee’s (USOC) need for additional space and to give priority to the USOC’s request to gain title or acquire the property located at 1520 Willamette Avenue in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

An $8,000,000 earmark for repairs, alteration, and improvements of the Ronald CAMPBELL, and my colleague from Erie. The Fiscal Year 2000 Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriations bill. In particular, I commend the Senate Appropriations Committee for its support of the High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area program within this bill.

The High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area program was established in 1988 to assist state and local governments to investigate, prosecute and prevent illegal drug production and trafficking. Since 1990, the Office of National Drug Control Policy has designated twenty-six regions of the nation as High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas. Most recently, the States of Ohio, Oregon, and Hawaii were among those areas granted HIDTA status to help improve coordination of drug control efforts. Unfortunately, communities in my home state of Minnesota continue to be threatened by drug abuse and illegal drug trafficking, particularly methamphetamine. In recent years, methamphetamine drug use has been a choice throughout Minnesota, and is closely associated with increased violent crime. In my recent meeting with Office of National Drug Control Policy Director General Barry McCaffrey, he referred to meth as "the worst drug that ever hit America."

The alarming rate of meth production and trafficking has been caused by small, independent organizations that run clandestine laboratories in apartment complexes, farm sheds, and homes, with expensive, over-the-counter-materials. The secretive nature of the manufacturing process involves toxic chemicals, and frequently results in fires, damaging explosions, and destruction to our environment. A constituent from Benson, Minnesota underscored the devastating effects of illegal meth production when he wrote, "The resultant crime and addition problems are destroying small and mid-size communities." The high volume of meth trafficking in Minnesota has placed the Minnesota Federal Courthouse in dire need of repair, and the Administration of Justice Act. "The North- ern Border High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area" that would include the State of Minnesota. It also authorizes $2.7 million in Fiscal Year 2000 to improve coordination of antidrug efforts currently underway by local prosecutors, sheriffs, police chiefs, and state law enforcement officials.

Again, I commend the Senate for its support for the High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area program. I continue to work with law enforcement officials, my colleagues in the Senate, and the Office of National Drug Control Policy to ensure that localities have the assistance they need to protect our communities from crime and drug abuse.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I am concerned about a proposal that was introduced in the Senate Appropriations Committee. As the chairman of the Subcommittee on Energy and Commerce, I will work with my colleagues to oppose this proposal. The proposal would cut $500,000 from the HIDTA program. The HIDTA program is critical to the success of the anti-drug efforts in Minnesota. It provides funding to local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies to investigate and prosecute drug traffickers. The HIDTA program has been instrumental in fighting drug trafficking in Minnesota. It has helped to improve coordination among local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies, and has provided funding to support law enforcement efforts.

The proposal would cut $500,000 from the HIDTA program, which is crucial to the success of the anti-drug efforts in Minnesota. Appropriations, that devotes a large percentage of its aggregate budget to preventing the smuggling of Narcotics into the United States, with an additional $265,000,000. The Appropriations committee, this year, also recognizes the need to effective. Customs Service to react to changing smuggling methods and complex money laundering schemes increased the Customs Service total funding by $335,000,000. This is $335,000,000 over the President's budget estimate and Congress needs to maintain a line of defense and the demand for illegal drugs in the United States remains strong. The U.S. Customs Service is one of our front line drug enforcement agencies that protects America's borders every day from professional drug traffickers and money launderers. Congress needs to fully and adequately fund the salaries and expenses and needed modernization for one of our major first line counter-drug agencies.

I am aware of the hard choices the committee has made in coming upon with the current funding level for Customs. But I strongly feel that we must do more. Not only has legal trade expanded but also has illegal drug trafficking and alien smuggling. We have not supported the modernization or expansion of Customs to keep pace. We cannot maintain our commitment to fighting the smuggling of illegal drugs without more and better.

Professional Liability Insurance for Federal Employees

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I have offered an amendment to the Treasury, Postal and General Government Appropriations bill to ensure that federal managers and law enforcement officials in all federal departments and agencies receive the same benefits concerning professional liability insurance. Today, several federal departments contribute to the costs of professional liability insurance for federal managers and law enforcement officials. Other large federal departments do not contribute to assisting federal managers obtain this insurance.

This professional liability insurance is essential as many federal managers are personally absorbing the significant costs of obtaining legal representation in cases where complaints have been brought against. Often, allegations have been made by citizens, against whom federal officials were enforcing the law and by employees who had performance or conduct problems.

I have been working with Chairman COCHRAN of the Government Affairs Subcommittee on International Security, Proliferation, and Federal Services to address this important issue and I welcome his views on this matter.

Mr. COCHRAN. I agree with Senator WARNER that this is an issue that must be addressed. In prior action, the Congress provided the authority for federal departments and agencies to contribute one-half of the costs of obtaining professional liability insurance for federal managers and law enforcement officials. Unfortunately, this benefit has not been offered by all federal departments. I am committed to working with Senator WARNER to address this issue and to ensure that all federal managers and law enforcement officials are treated fairly.

Mr. WARNER. I thank Chairman COCHRAN for his attention to this issue. This is an important matter that is critical to ensuring that the federal government can attract and retain qualified professionals in federal service.

At this time I will withdraw my amendment and look forward to working with Chairman COCHRAN, Chairman THOMPSON and other members of the Government Affairs Committee.

Federal Law Enforcement Training Center

Mr. CLELAND. Mr. President, I want to clarify with the ranking member of the Appropriations Committee, that the Subcommittee on all salaries covered by the Treasury Department appropriations bill regarding its appropriation of $80.1 million for salaries and expenses at the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center (FLETC) located in Glync, GA. This appropriation is $6 million less than the $86 million for salaries initially requested by FLETC. It is my understanding that the lion's share of this reduction is simply the result of a realignment based on what the Subcommittee and Committee believe will be the actual workload at FLETC and not an indication of the Committee's intent that there be any reduction in FLETC's ability to fulfill its mission. Does the Senator care to comment?

Mr. DORGAN. The Senator is correct. The $6 million reduction is the result of the Subcommittee's re-estimation of the likely workload at FLETC combined with a small across-the-board cut on all salaries covered by the Treasury Department appropriations bill.

Mr. CLELAND. I thank the Senator. Should the actual workload at FLETC result in an appropriations need beyond what is provided for in this bill, does the Senator believe that the Committee would consider alternative funding sources to ensure FLETC could fulfill its mission?

Mr. DORGAN. The committee recognizes FLETC's important role in providing quality training to the nation's law enforcement personnel, and it is fully supportive of providing the funding necessary to effectively carry out the mission for which it was created.

Mr. COVERDELL. I thank the Senators for their comments and the ranking member for his commitment to FLETC. It is important that Congress preserve FLETC's intent and function and I am glad to know that this bill continues Congressional support for, and commitment to, this important training center.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Yes, and I echo the sentiments of the ranking member.

The amount appropriated by the Committee for salaries and expenses does not indicate a lower level of support for FLETC. The Senators are correct in their understanding of this matter and the Committee will continue efforts to preserve consolidated federal law enforcement training at FLETC.

Mr. COVERDELL. Mr. President, I would like to clarify with the chairman the intent of this bill regarding the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center and its facilities in Glync, GA. Chairman's belief that the appropriations bill now before this body, S. 1282, preserves the intent and function of FLETC and takes the appropriate steps to move forward with FLETC's five-year modernization plan?

Mr. CAMPBELL. I thank the Senator for his question. Yes, I do believe that this bill preserves the intent and function of FLETC. FLETC serves an important role for federal law enforcement training and through this bill I have taken steps to help it toward completion of its five-year modernization.

Mr. COVERDELL. I thank the chairman. I understand that $46.6 million has been funded in FLETC's base construction account and the Committee is directing the Treasury Department to use the money for a chilled water system expansion at FLETC's facility in Glync, GA even though it was not specifically mentioned in the bill or report language.

Mr. CAMPBELL. The Senator is correct. These funds along with $900,000 for the completion of a new classroom in Artesia, NM will complete FLETC's fiscal year 2000 5-year planning requirements and will keep the effort to expand FLETC's capacity moving forward and on time.

Mr. COVERDELL. I thank the chairman for his support of this important program and for his commitment to FLETC's modernization effort.

Mr. CLELAND. I thank the two Senators for their statement. I am very pleased that this bill continues the commitment of the Committee, and the Subcommittee, to the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center. FLETC is a model state-of-the-art facility which is critical to the training of our Nation's law enforcement personnel.

Mr. COVERDELL. Mr. President, I would like to engage the esteemed chairman on a matter important to our Nation's Federal law enforcement training and the Glync, GA site at which this training is conducted. As the chairman knows, the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center was developed to consolidate federal law enforcement training. This was done to ensure efficiency, prevent redundancy, and save taxpayer dollars. The Chairman is also aware that FLETC has a five-year plan for its sites in Artesia, NM and Glync, GA to consolidate the facilities and address a training flow issue. I understand that the Chairman's bill preserves FLETC's intent and keeps the five-year plan moving. into the next fiscal year. Understanding the Chairman’s work continues FLETC’s viability, will he be willing to communicate to the Treasury Department not only his commitment to this program but his desire to see the Treasury take steps downward funding design money for two dormitories at Glycno during this fiscal year?

Mr. CAMPBELL. I thank the Senator for his question and for his comments about FLETC’s role and the Committee’s belief in the value of FLETC. As the Senator from Colorado knows this design money will assist with the dormitories scheduled for full funding in fiscal year 2001. Funding for design money will provide important continuation of and commitment to FLETC’s 5-year plan. I thank the chairman.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I would like to engage the distinguished Senator from Colorado, the Chairman of the Subcommittee, in a colloquy. Mr. President, I want to begin by applauding the Chairman and Ranking Member of the Treasury-General Government Appropriations Subcommittee for what they have done under difficult budgetary circumstances. The Administration’s fiscal year 2000 budget request for Customs included a controversial $312.4 million user fee to fund 5,000 existing Customs personnel. That budget gimmick essentially forced the Committee to either reduce Customs’s planned funds or reduce funds that Customs needs to carry out its mission. Under those difficult circumstances, I believe that Committee made the right choice.

The Customs Service has added to the problem by failing to include comprehensive air interdiction and marine enforcement fleet modernization plans requested by Congress in its Fiscal Year 2000 budget request. Has the subcommittee received either of these plans?

Mr. CAMPBELL. We have not received either of the requested plans from the Customs Service. In my view, the Administration clearly has missed an opportunity. In the absence of these reports and in response to concerns expressed by the Senator from New Mexico and others we have urged the Customs Service to look at cost-effective force multiplying technologies to improve border control and support other federal, state and local law enforcement officials.

Mr. DOMENICI. As the Chairman knows, I believe that the AS350 AStar helicopter is a proven force-multiplier for Customs that has been used along the Southwest border, and elsewhere in the country, to support operations by the Border Patrol, and other federal, state, and local law enforcement agencies. According to information provided to the Committee in the past year these Customs helicopters assisted in the seizure of approximately $14 million, 7,800 pounds of cocaine, almost 25 tons of marijuana, 88 vehicles, 1 aircraft, 12 illegal weapons, 5 vessels, and 210 arrests. In addition, the Executive Director of the Customs Air Interdiction Division, has indicated that AStar is the most cost-effective element of the Customs air fleet. Based on this track record, the AS350 AStar has become the light enforcement helicopter of choice for the U.S. Customs Service.

Mr. President, I understand the budget constraints facing the Subcommittee. I would simply ask that as we proceed with this bill in conference we hear from the Chairman and the distinguished Ranking Member of the Subcommittee, Mr. DORGAN, consider making investments in proven, cost-effective force multipliers—like the AStar helicopters—that can help strengthen law enforcement and improve our efforts to combat the inflow of drugs into this country a funding priority.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, I share the concern expressed by the distinguished Senator from New Mexico about the inflow of drugs into this country. In addition to urging the Customs Service to transmit the requested air and marine modernization plans to the Subcommittee, we worked with the Senator from New Mexico and others to add report language urging the Customs Service to consider additional investments in proven countereffect assets like the AS350 AStar helicopter and other technologies in its current and future plans to try to maximize the effectiveness of Customs countereffect personnel and resources. If additional resources become available to the Committee, cost-effective force multipliers like the AS350 AStars will be among our top countereffect priorities.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I thank the distinguished Chairman.

HARTSFIELD ATLANTA INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, I would like to bring to the attention of the Chairman the tremendous need for the speedy assignment of additional Customs Inspectors for Hartfield at Atlanta International Airport.

There has been a 100% increase in the number of international gates at Hartfield from 1994 to 1999, and yet only a 14% increase in Customs Inspectors during the same period. In addition, there has been a 102% increase in passengers and goods if this problem is not addressed soon.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Is it not true that the INS recently assigned 15 new inspectors to Hartfield to handle the airport’s tremendous growth?

Mr. COVERDELL. Yes, the chairman is correct.

Mr. CLELAND. Mr. President, I would like to state my concern to the chairman on this matter as well. Hartfield recently surpassed O’Hare as the busiest airport in the world. I, too, strongly urge the U.S. Customs Service to address their lack of sufficient personnel at Hartfield and respond as the INS has done in assigning the proper staff to this vital economic engine for the metro Atlanta region.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I thank my two colleagues for their comments on this matter and I encourage the Customs Service to work to address these issues. Mr. President, I know of no further amendments to be offered. I believe we are ready for third reading of the bill. Senator DORGAN is prepared for that. Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I think we are ready for third reading.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I also thank Senator DORGAN for all of his work. I ask now for a voice vote on final passage.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, will we have a recorded vote on the conference report?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Third reading.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Yes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is, Shall the bill pass?

The bill was read the third time. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill having been read the third time, the question is, Shall the bill pass?

The bill (S. 1282), as amended, was passed.

(The bill will be printed in a future edition of the RECORD.)

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LOTT. I move to lay that motion on the table.

Mr. LOTT. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I know there may be some wrap-up statements.

I commend the managers of the Treasury-Postal Service appropriations bill. They have worked together very很好地 throughout. They have been able to complete a bill in 1 day that ordinarily takes days, or as much as a week. I commend them for that.
Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, in light of the vote that just occurred on the Treasury-Postal Service appropriations bill, and the agreement just reached a few moments ago with respect to the District of Columbia Appropriations bill, the Senate has conducted its last vote for the week. There will be no further votes tonight and no votes in the morning.

The next vote will occur on Tuesday, July 13. The Senate will reconvene on Monday, July 12, at noon. However, no votes will occur during Monday's session of the Senate.

Votes will occur during the session of the Senate beginning Tuesday, July 13, through Friday, July 16. There will be votes on Friday, July 16. So be prepared for that. That was under a previously agreed to cloture vote at 10:30 on Friday, the 16th, concerning the Social Security lockbox issue.

We will be in session some tomorrow. But there will be no recorded votes in the morning.

I thank all of our colleagues for their cooperation. Senator DASCHLE and our whip, Mr. LIEBERMAN, and all of our colleagues wanted to make it possible to complete not one but two appropriations bills. I wish all of our colleagues a safe and happy holiday. I look forward to seeing you back on the 12th.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate receives from the House of Representatives the companion bill to S. 1282, the Senate immediately proceed to the consideration of that measure; that all after the enacting clause be stricken and the text of Senate bill S. 1282, as passed, be inserted in lieu thereof; that the House bill, as amended, be read for the third time and passed; that the Senate insist on its amendments, and request a conference with the House on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and that the Chair be authorized to appoint conferees on the part of the Senate; and that the foregoing occur without any intervening action or debate.

I further ask unanimous consent that the bill, S. 1282, not be engrossed; that it remain at the desk pending receipt of the House companion bill, and that upon passage by the Senate of the House bill, as amended, the passage of S. 1282 be vitiated and the bill be indefinitely postponed.

The PRESIDENT PRO Tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, we agreed to a statement, after passage of the bill, of Senator TORRICELLI. I think that was the only one agreed to.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDENT PRO Tempore. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. TORRICELLI. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Colorado for his consideration.

UNFAIR COMMUTER TAX

Mr. TORRICELLI. Mr. President, I have this evening withdrawn consideration of an amendment that I offered with Senator LIEBERMAN, Senator DODD, and Senator LAUTENBERG. But I do so in the hope that in the intervening weeks the Finance Committee will consider this measure with the other commuter tax issues from Connecticut and I will return with Senator LAUTENBERG and offer this in the coming weeks. I rise tonight very simply and very briefly to make our case.

There is nothing more fundamental in this Federal union than the equal protection of the laws. It is the very purpose of the union. A citizen can travel State-by-State, live anywhere in this Nation, and be subject to the same application of the law.

This principle, while 200 years old, is now tested again. Some weeks ago, the State of New York repealed the commuter tax for commuters into the city of New York. That tax had been in place for more than 30 years. But they did a peculiar thing that is offensive to our concept of national union. They repealed the tax for people who live in New York State and commute to New York City, but they retained the tax for the citizens of Connecticut, 80,000 strong, and 250,000 commuters in the State of New Jersey. Those people who I represent alone were contributing $110 million to the city of New York.

It is not as if the legislature of the State of New York in doing this did not recognize they were trampling upon sacred constitutional grounds, because in their State legislation they put a provision that if this was found unconstitutional for anybody, the law would be revoked. It was a political statement. It was not a sincere effort to legislate.

Indeed, as could be predicted, last week a judge did, indeed, rule that it was not only unfair to repeal this tax for New York commuters while imposing it on Connecticut and New Jersey, but it was unfair and a violation of the privileges in the immunity clause of the U.S. Constitution.

I quote the judge who called this residency tax "arbitrary and irrational." The judge further recognized that "the only substantial difference between the two classes of commuters is in the State in which they reside."

It might be argued that the State of New York, having recognized this might be unconstitutional, a judge now having constitutional grounds, that we might let the matter rest. I do not believe that would be in the best interests of the Congress. Indeed, last week, the House of Representatives on a voice vote, without apparent objection, unanimously found this is bad policy and it should never happen again.

The legislation, the Computer Tax Fairness Act, that I have introduced with Senators DODD, LIEBERMAN, and LAUTENBERG, I think this Senate reach the same conclusion. I rise tonight not to offer an amendment but in the hopes of asking the Finance Committee in the next few weeks to review, as the Ways and Means in the House of Representatives has done, to review this legislation, and to reach its own judgment, so in future weeks we can come back to the floor of the Senate and ask the Senate to make an informed judgment.

I believe it is important. Today it may be the people of Connecticut and New Jersey. This is a principle we will visit again. People who live in Indiana may one day commute to Chicago and find the city of Chicago thinks it is a good idea to tax somebody else for their services. I daresay the people of Alabama may one day find they are commuting to Mississippi and finding they are paying a tax subjected only on their own citizens. This is anathema to our national union. It is taxation without representation. It is a violation of privilege of immunities. It is a problem of equal protection. Indeed, it violates our sense of union.

While I do not insist on the amendment tonight, we will return to this moment in the hope that as the courts have found and as the House of Representatives has found, we can once and for all establish this.

Mr. DODD. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. TORRICELLI. I am happy to yield to the Senator.

Mr. DODD. I commend my colleague from New Jersey for taking a leadership role on this.

We should point out to our neighbors in New York how much we appreciate and support our great neighbor. The city of New York is a source of great economic vitality for our region. Our citizens are proud to live in our respective States of New Jersey and Connecticut, happy to work in the State of New York, but we want to be treated equally.

My colleague from New Jersey has rightfully raised this issue and pointed out that almost 100,000 citizens of mine who commute every day to the city of New York, and the almost 300,000 New Jerseyans who commute, have raised a very important issue. We are confident our colleagues from New York are going to be tremendously sympathetic to this injustice that could be heaped on their neighboring States of New Jersey and Connecticut.

I thank my colleague from New Jersey for raising this issue.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, New Jersey State legislature exempted out-of-state residents from paying the New York City payroll tax. But out-of-state residents—including people who live in New Jersey—are not exempt. They're supposed to keep paying the tax.

Constituting between states is an inescapable reality of modern life. As our population grows, the physical boundaries that used to divide one city from another are breaking down.

More and more everyday, our country is becoming a collection of regions. And that's especially true on the east coast, where urban populations are already closer together than they are anywhere else.
should we punish people for this? Is it fair to single people out for harsher tax treatment just because they live in one state and work in another? Of course not. It's economic discrimination. And even worse, it's unconstitutional.

It's especially unfair in the case of New Jersey residents who work in New York City. Those people work hard. And their work brings real, tangible benefits to New York—benefits that translate into a stronger economy for New York City and the rest of the state.

New York needs those commuters. But that fact seems to escape the state's lawmakers. Their message to New Jersey residents is this: "You're second-class citizens. You don't live on our side of the state line, so you don't count."

In 1996 alone, nearly 240,000 New Jersey residents paid $75 million in commuter taxes to New York. And they didn't like paying it, but at least in 1996 the tax was applied with a sense of fair play. Not anymore. Those commuters are plenty mad. And who can blame them?

Commuting to work is a necessity for millions of people. Often, it's an economic necessity. Or a desire to be close to family members.

When you tax people just for driving across state lines to work, you are essentially telling them they shouldn't have a choice about where they live and work.

That is wrong, Mr. President. I ask my colleagues to support this amendment. The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Thomas). The Senator from New York is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SCHUMER. I very much appreciate the encomia that the Senator from Connecticut has given to our State of New York.

I want to thank my colleague from New Jersey for not forcing this dubious amendment tonight. First of all, there are two reasons to reject this amendment. One is that it is moot. Six days ago, as the Senator from New Jersey indicated, a court knocked out the entire commuter tax. To spend time debating this amendment right now, at this late hour, when people are eager to leave, and when the good work of the Senator from Texas and the Senator from Illinois has to be completed, does not make much sense.

Second, I caution that for the Senate to do this amendment without any hearings, without it going to the Finance Committee, might jeopardize all sorts of other complex decisions. Many States have pacts and agreements and covenants with neighboring States. How much this amendment affects those pacts and agreements, I don't know—but neither does anybody else in this Chamber.

To force a legislation which might have an effect on so many things, I am told, without nary a hearing or a discussion, would be a serious mistake. In fact, the Federation of Tax Administrators, on June 21, wrote about the companion bill in the House. They said:

I just what this bill is trying to do that has not already been done is the question. Unfortunately, when Congress attempts to restate existing commuter tax law, the courts are left to cast about for a meaning for the new law. The resulting interpretations lead to countless examples of "unintended consequences." Because of the bill's widespread impact, its confusing language, and the fact that the protections Congress hopes to bestow upon the taxpayers of New Jersey are already firmly established in the U.S. Constitution, the Federation (that is the Federation of Tax Administrators) would urge you at a minimum to withhold consideration of the House companion bill.

So I appreciate the fact we have done that in the House. We will debate this another day, this already moot point, and to not take any further time from my colleagues who are eager to debate other issues.

I yield back the remainder of my time and wish my colleagues a happy Fourth of July.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

OPEN-MARKET REORGANIZATION FOR THE BETTERMENT OF INTERNATIONAL TELECOMMUNICATIONS ACT

Mr. BURNS. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to consideration of S. 376 as reported by the Commerce Committee.

Mr. LOTT. Reserving the right to object, and I will not object, I just want to commend the Senator from Montana for his dogged determination to move this legislation. I am sure that all of its imperfections will be resolved in conference. I commend him for his efforts.

I withdraw my reservation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative assistant read as follows:

A bill (S. 376) a bill to amend the Communications Satellite Act of 1962 to promote competition and privatization in satellite communications and for other purposes.

There being no objection, the Senate passed the bill.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, today the Senate will pass a measure that will usher in a new era in the international satellite communications marketplace.

This bill is the result of months of deliberation among many of my colleagues and builds upon a debate from last Congress.

First and foremost, I extend my appreciation to the distinguished Chair of the Communications Subcommittee, Senator Conrad Burns, for his unrelenting diligence in working with all parties involved, both in the Senate and in the private sector. There were numerous players who had a stake or an interest in this reform measure. Senator Burns was willing to accommodate their perspectives while remaining true to his commitment to move forward. I thank him for that.

Along with Senator Burns, other Members in this Chamber, Senator Breaux, Senator Hollings, Senator Stevens, and others were actively engaged in the process. Their contributions enhanced the final product in a way that I believe will produce a more balanced bill. Let me also recognize Senator John McCain, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee. His leadership and his support has been instrumental in helping to advance this effort and I want to thank him well.

Reaching a unified unanimous, Senate position on legislation of this magnitude was not a simple task. Although the bill garnered widespread agreement on principle, the technical issues have not been easy. Some were complex, given the marketplace transition from one dominated by intergovernmental organizations to one of private sector competition. Other issues were straightforward but contentious. This made it necessary to take the time and work through some of these areas in a fair and open manner. We did, and I am pleased that the Senate has now moved forward.

S. 376 enacts timely reform of a visionary policy adopted by Congress in the early 1960s to blaze the trail of a global communications network. It was the right policy at the right time. A solid foundation was laid as a result, and commercial satellite service has come of age. Now, over 35 years later, it is the right time for Congress to enact another visionary public policy.

One that will move us from a marketplace dominated primarily by intergovernmental organizations to one of competitive, privately owned companies offering viable opportunities and real choices. A marketplace that will reflect today's market realities and encourage robust competition in our new satellite communications community for years to come. Such services are growing in demand, and Congress should act on behalf of consumers. They deserve it.

I always say that nothing could get done in the Senate without dedicated staff. Several individuals worked hard to prepare this legislation for passage. They include Mark Ashby, Lloyd Ator, Mark Buse, Greg Elias, Paula Ford, Leo Giacometto, Carole Grunberg, Maureen McLaughlin, Mike Rawson, Greg Rhode, Mitch Rose, Ivan Schlager, and Howard Waltzman. I thank them all for their time and their efforts.

It is my hope this is the year Congress will pass an international satellite privatization bill.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I rise today to express my concerns about S. 376, the comprehensive international satellite reform legislation. While I commend my colleagues who have worked hard on this very important issue, I am concerned that there is still more work to do to ensure that results that in a truly competitive market.

Comprehensive satellite reform is long overdue. The 1962 Communications Satellite Act is based on a 1960s...
era notion that telecommunications services must be provided by national or international monopolies. This thinking gave rise to two treaty organizations, INTELSAT and Inmarsat, to provide international satellite communications. INTELSAT, a private company, was created by Congress in 1962 and has been the U.S. representative—known as the Signatory—to these intergovernmental organizations. Today, we know that technology and the marketplace demand that this monopoly model must give way to private competition.

S. 376 may be a first step toward reaching the goal of privatizing the treaty organizations and reforming the 1962 Act. But more remains to be done. One important issue that is very troubling to me involves the legal immunity that Comsat enjoys as the U.S. Signatory to INTELSAT. This is a critical issue. The FCC has found that Comsat’s immunity gives it significant competitive advantages. Comsat is a publicly-traded private company. Legal immunity is an extraordinary advantage in the marketplace. It is rare for Congress to grant such a powerful advantage to a private commercial company. Amending the bill so that Comsat would be subject to more careful scrutiny, I understand that Comsat might remain as the U.S. Signatory until INTELSAT is fully privatized, and, therefore, it would retain some official responsibility to represent the U.S. government. I understand that, in that capacity, it might need legal immunity when its actions are acting at the direction of the U.S. government. But in every other action it takes, at INTELSAT or elsewhere, it should not and does not enjoy legal immunity. S. 376 limits Comsat’s legal immunity.

My concern here is a simple one. If Congress by law is bestowing legal immunity on a private company, Congress has an obligation to be very clear and precise about what actions are protected. The provisions in S. 376 that limits Comsat’s immunity is not precise and specific enough. However, the intent and wording is plain that as long as Comsat represents the U.S. officially at INTELSAT prior to its privatization, it may enjoy legal immunity, but that immunity is clearly limited to the actions it takes pursuant to the written instruction it receives from the U.S. government.

While this is clear that Comsat obtains immunity only when it is acting under written government instruction, the language in this bill regarding immunity requires further clarification at conference.

We have a duty to be clear and precise when we grant such an extraordinary benefit as legal immunity to a private company. I raise this today because I want this issue to be further resolved in the Conference Committee, prior to enactment.

I look forward to working with my colleagues, Senators Hollings, McCain, Lott, Stevens, Burns and others on the Conference Committee to ensure that this clarification problem is corrected.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I am pleased that today we will pass S. 376, which concerns the important topic of International Satellite Reform. I have followed this issue with interest for years, in part because of my Foreign Relations Committee work, we have addressed the market access concerns that are a critical part of opening up this industry.

Although it is significant to finally have the Senate on record supporting the need for a competitive restructuring of the international satellite market, this bill will need some work before it can achieve that goal. It does not make sense to address this issue for the first time in over 35 years, and to leave some issues unresolved. I believe that there is room for improvement with respect to balancing incentives and leveraging in making the international marketplace more competitive. Congress needs to move quickly to normalize our relations with Intelsat, and its U.S. component, Comsat.

I urge the Senate to confer with the Commerce Committee to continue their good work by tightening up this bill and removing unnecessary loopholes.

AMENDMENT NO. 1221

Mr. BURNS. There is a managers’ amendment at the desk, and I ask for its consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Montana [Mr. Burns], for himself, Mr. Lott, and Mr. Stevens, proposes an amendment numbered 1221.

Mr. BURNS. I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

SECTION 603 of the Communications Satellite Act of 1962 is amended by striking the new section: "ORBIT" substitute) is amended by striking (a) INTELSAT shall be prohibited from entering the United States market directly to provide any satellite communications services or space segment capacity to carriers other than the United States signatory, nor (b) INTELSAT provides new incentives for INTELSAT's privatization, the Commission shall ensure that the United States signatory is compensated by direct access users for the costs it incurs in fulfilling its obligations under this Act.

On line 21, page 32, Section 612(b), insert "subsection" after the word "under". On line 21, page 32, Section 612(b), replace "consider" with "determine whether".

On line 23, page 32, Section 612(b), insert "exist" after the word "under".

On line 9, page 33, Section 612(b)(4), after "ownership", insert "and whether the affiliate is independent of IGO signatories or former signatories who control telecommunications market access in their home territories."

On line 19, page 35, Section 633(c)(1), after "taxation", insert "and does not unfairly benefit from ownership by former signatories who control telecommunications market access to their home territories."

On line 14, page 37, Section 633(d), insert "and Inmarsat" after "INTELSAT".

Mr. BURNS. I ask unanimous consent that the amendment be considered as read and agreed to, the committee substitute be agreed to, as amended, and the bill be read for the third time and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and any statements pertaining to the bill be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 1221) was agreed to.

The committee substitute, as amended, was agreed to.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, was read the third time, and passed.

(The bill will be printed in a future edition of the RECORD.)

Mr. BURNS. Mr. President, I thank our distinguished Majority Leader and Senator Stevens for working with me, Senator McCain, Senator Hollings, and Senator Breaux on the passage of S. 376 on the Open-Market Reorganization for the Betterment of International Telecommunications Act, better known as "ORBIT."

The passage of ORBIT by unanimous consent today clearly indicates the Senate’s overwhelming support for the approach taken in ORBIT to reform our satellite communications laws. I look forward to working with my good friend in the other body, Chairman Biley, on getting this legislation enacted into law this year.

ORBIT is a truly bipartisan bill that updates the Satellite Communications Act of 1962, expands competition, and encourages new market entrants in satellite communications. It will help to secure the benefits of pro-competitive privatization of INTELSAT by a date certain of January 1, 2002. The bill provides new incentives for INTELSAT’s privatization, while at the same time, carries "tough consequences if INTELSAT fails to achieve this important objective.

The bill also brings needed reform to the U.S. signatory to INTELSAT, Comsat, by removing its special

- District of Columbia Appropriations Act, 2000
  - Mrs. HUTCHISON, Mr. President, at this time I call up Calendar No. 170, S. 1283, the D.C. appropriations bill for fiscal year 2000.

- The PRESIDING OFFICER
  - The clerk will report.

- The PRESIDING OFFICER
  - The legislation assistant read as follows:
    - A bill (S. 1283) making appropriations for the government of the District of Columbia and other activities chargeable in whole or in part against the revenues of said District for fiscal year ending September 30, 2000, and for other purposes.

- The Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

- The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BURNS).
  - The Senator from Texas.

- Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I ask my colleague from Georgia if he would allow me to make a general statement about the bill for about 5 minutes, and then I will defer to Senator DURBIN if he has a statement.

- Mr. COVERDELL. Absolutely.

- Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I am pleased to bring to the Senate floor the bill making appropriations for the government of the District of Columbia for fiscal year 2000. This bill is largely the result of the cooperation between Mayor Williams, the city council, and the Financial Control Board. As a result of the hard work of locally elected officials, the Congress, and the Financial Control Board, we begin to see signs of a healthier financial picture in the District.

- At the end of fiscal year 1998, the District boasted an annual surplus of $445 million. This surplus allowed the District to eliminate the accumulated deficit.

- Having paid that off, the District still realized a $12 million positive fund balance. The District is projecting a $250 million positive fund balance by the end of this year, which is 6 percent of the gross budget. The District's healthy fund balance and improved economic forecasts have helped the District achieve investment grade bond ratings on Wall Street, which will save the District millions in borrowing costs. One of the important provisions in the committee bill creates a mechanism that will help improve this situation even more. It is a commitment to hold a $150 million reserve fund, and there are tight restrictions on the use of the reserve fund. It can now serve as a true "rainy day" fund for the city.

- In addition, the District spends 13 percent of its budget servicing its debt. The highest normal ratio for a city is 10 percent. The reforms envisioned by this bill would bring this more in line with other cities.

- The city's debt was at one time so bad that it was not even rated by the major agencies. The city's bond rating is now investment grade, although it is the lowest rank of investment grade. I think this budget will start the process by which that rating will be upgraded. This is so important for the District to save millions in borrowing costs in the future.

- In addition, our budget has education reform. The committee has provided $17 million for the D.C. College Tuition Assistance Program, subject to authorization.

- The committee tried to address the concerns of the mayor and the council. We certainly intend to improve the education system in the District. We are not where we want to be to make the Capital City the very best city in the whole United States, the beacon for what America is, but we are heading in that direction. It is the goal of Congress to make sure that our Capital City is one that all Americans feel they own and they can be proud of.

- Mr. DURBIN, Mr. President, let me say this is a new assignment for me as a ranking Democrat on the subcommittee on D.C. appropriations. I served in a similar capacity in the House, and I have come to believe that which I am more familiar with each time the appropriation process begins. But it has been a special pleasure to work with the chairman of this committee, Senator KAY BAILEY HUTCHISON of Texas, and with the staff of this committee and Senator DURBIN.

only the minority clerk for this bill but who also serves as the minority deputy staff director for the Appropriations Committee. I appreciate very much Senator Byrd making him available to help me on this my maiden voyage on the Senate Appropriations Committee.

My staff member, Marianne Upton, of the D.C. authorization subcommittee of the Governmental Affairs Committee has worked tirelessly as well, and I extend to Columbia, to just as well as Liz Blevins and Suzanne Bailey of the committee staff.

May I say at the outset that I am heartened at the election of Mayor Williams in the District of Columbia. I do believe it is a new day for the District. The District has a better chance for a better future than it has had in many years. Those of us who had lost faith in the future of the District of Columbia have had it renewed by the earliest days of his administration. He is a man who is a man who is dedicated. He truly wants the very best for the District of Columbia and I am anxious to work with him.

People whom he has hired to this point in his administration include some for whom I have a high regard. Police Chief Ramsey, who was a member of the Chicago police force, was well respected there and I am certain will do a good job here. Terry Gainer, who was the Superintendent of the Illinois State Police, works as an assistant to Chief Ramsey, and he, too, brings extraordinary expertise in the field of law enforcement.

Mr. President, having said that, Senator Hutchinson has explained this unusual situation where the Congress of the United States, the Federal Government, appropriates money to give to a city government, the D.C. government. Of course, that is why we are here this evening. We have a special interest in the District of Columbia, not just because the Capitol is located here, but because we believe, as every American does, that this is our city, too. Whatever our happenings happen to be, the District of Columbia, Washington, DC, is our capital city, and we are very proud of it.

The millions of visitors who come each year really come to enjoy the institutions, the landmarks, the monuments, and all of the things that make this State of Columbia, not just because the Capitol is located here, but because we believe, as every American does, that this is our city, too. Whatever our happenings happen to be, the District of Columbia, Washington, DC, is our capital city, and we are very proud of it.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, under the unanimous consent agreement, at this time we will go to Senator Coverdell’s amendment, and the time will be divided, 20 minutes under the control of Senator Coverdell and 10 minutes under the control of Senator Durbin.

Mr. COVERDELL. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. COVERDELL. Mr. President, under the unanimous consent agreement, at this time we will go to Senator Coverdell’s amendment, and the time will be divided, 20 minutes under the control of Senator Coverdell and 10 minutes under the control of Senator Durbin.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Georgia.

Mr. COVERDELL. I thank the Senator from Texas.

AMENDMENT NO. 1222

(Purpose: To prohibit the use of funds for the distribution of sterile needles or syringes for the hypodermic injection of any illegal drug.

Mr. COVERDELL. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Georgia [Mr. Coverdell], for himself and Mr. Ashcroft, proposes an amendment numbered 1222.

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 2. None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used for any program of distributing sterile needles or syringes for the hypodermic injection of any illegal drug, or for any payment to any individual or entity which carries out any such program.

Mr. COVERDELL. Mr. President, the amendment, in a sense, is a reflection of the comments just made by the Senator from Illinois about some of the difficulties in the Nation’s Capital, and the amendment is drafted in the belief that a needle exchange program in the Nation’s Capital is not conducive to the safety of the citizens of the Nation’s Capital.

I ask unanimous consent that a New York Times article appear in the RECORD, dated April 22, 1998, by James L. Curtis, a professor of psychiatry at Columbia University Medical School and the director of psychiatry at Harlem Hospital, be printed in the RECORD.

Mr. DURBIN. I thank the Senator from Texas.

Ms. Shalala should have defended the Administration’s decision vigorously instead, she chose to placate AIDS activists, who insist that giving free needles to addicts is a cheap and easy way to prevent H.I.V. infection.

This is simplistic nonsense that stands common sense on its head. For the past 10 years, as a black psychiatrist specializing in addiction, I have warned about the dangers of needle exchange programs, which hurt not only individual addicts but also poor and minority communities.

There is no evidence that such programs work. Take a look at the way many of them are conducted in the United States. An addict is enrolled anonymously, without being given an H.I.V. test to determine whether he or she is already infected. The addict is given a coded identification card exempting him or her from arrest for carrying drug paraphernalia. There is no strict accounting of how many needles are given out.

How can such an effort prove it is preventing the spread of H.I.V.? If the participants are anonymous and if they aren’t tested for the virus before and after entering the program?

Studies in Montreal and Vancouver did systematically test participants’ needle-exchange programs. And the studies found that those addicts who took part in such exchanges were two to three times more likely to become infected with H.I.V. than those who did not participate. They also found that almost half the addicts frequently shared needles with others anyway.

This was unwelcome news to the AIDS establishment. For almost two years, the Montreal study was not reported in scientific...
Mr. DURBIN addressed the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER, the Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I believe under the unanimous consent agreement I am given 10 minutes to speak in opposition to this amendment; is that correct? The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct, sir. Mr. DURBIN. Thank you very much, Mr. President.

This is a tough topic. I not only don't care to talk about intravenous drug injection, I can't stand watching it on television.

I find myself in the middle of a debate where you have to face the reality of what this is all about. The reality is that too many people in the District of Columbia—wait a minute—too many people in America have become IV drug users. We are trying to reduce that number, not only because addiction to drugs can ruin your life but also because there are other dangers associated with it, such as HIV and AIDS and hepatitis, and so many other things that cause problems.

I find it interesting that the Senator from Georgia, together, I understand, with the Senator from Missouri, comes here to try to stop the needle exchange program in the District of Columbia, because as we look at a map of the United States showing the States that have needle exchange programs, we see there is a needle exchange program in the home State of the Senator from Georgia and there is a needle exchange program in the home State of the Senator from Missouri.

As you look across the Nation, you see that many States are trying these programs. I am certain that the Senator from Georgia has spent a great deal of time trying to overturn the decision in his own State. That is probably why he comes here in this crusade against the D.C. needle exchange program.

But before we dismiss this as something that might encourage drug use, please, let's look at the facts.

The highest rate of new HIV infections is in [Washington, DC.] AIDS kills in the District like no other cause of death for residents between ages 30 and 44.

I am quoting from a July 1, 1999, Washington Post editorial. I ask unanimous consent that it be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the editorial was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Washington Post, July 1, 1997]

HOW TO SPREAD HIV IN D.C.

When the Senate takes up the District's fiscal year 2000 budget, a floor amendment may be offered to ban a needle-exchange program in the city. A yes vote is a green light to allow HIV to spread unimpeded among intravenous drug users.

The District has strong reason for an effective needle-exchange program. The highest rate of new HIV infections in the nation's capital, AIDS kills like no other cause of death, for residents between ages 30 and 44. The city has the distinction of

As public servants, citizens and parents, we owe our children an unambiguous no use message. And if they should become snared in drugs, we must offer them another way out, not a means to continue addictive behavior.
There is absolutely no evidence that this program in the District encourages addiction. In fact, just the opposite is true. Those who come to these clinics end up getting in programs where they finally—perhaps after a lifetime of addiction—find themselves drug-free so that their babies can be born drug-free.

I am glad that the Senator from Georgia is going to withdraw this amendment. As difficult as it is to talk about some of these issues, we must face the reality that it is part of our responsibility.

The needle exchange program, which he would have restricted, is supported by many groups that I think have great stature in our country: The American Medical Association, the National Academy of Sciences, the American Bar Association, and U.S. Department of Health and Human Services have thrown their weight behind the program.

Last year Congress unwisely added to another District law a prohibition on funding a needle-exchange program. In an act of legislative overkill, it also required that private groups funding their own money on needle-exchange programs lose any federal funds they might receive. That took the Whitman Walker Clinic out of the picture. As a result, a local group receiving only private funds is trying to fight the spread of HIV on a shoestring budget. That’s the wrong way to fight a killing disease. The District should be able to spend its own money on this lifesaving program.

Mr. DURBIN. I will continue:

[Washington, DC] has the distinction of having an AIDS death rate seven times the national average. As if this weren’t tragic enough, the city also has to contend with needle-exchange opponents attacking a program that has—through the Whitman Walker Clinic—reduced the spread of HIV by causing a 29 percent drop in the number of drug injections.

So we have a terrible scourge of HIV and AIDS right here in the Nation’s Capital—seven times the national average. We have a program that tries to convince HIV users, through a needle exchange, to stop it, to go through drug rehab, to end their addiction. And it is successful.

As a result of the program, there was a 29 percent drop in the number of drug injections when the Senator from Georgia says the best thing we can do is eliminate that program. That is an invitation for more HIV and AIDS and more addiction.

Mr. President, 75 percent of the cases of babies born with HIV are due to the use of dirty needles by either the mother or the father, and 70 percent of the cases of women with HIV are due to their own or their partner’s use of contaminated needles.

That is what the debate is all about. It pains me to even talk about this topic. I am not comfortable with it. But I think we have to be honest if we want to deal with public health issues. We should say—and I think it should be a standard—that we will not support a needle exchange program unless it fits two criteria: First, it has a valid public health purpose—and I certainly believe that the Whitman Walker— and for reduction of HIV and AIDS in the District of Columbia is such a valid purpose—and, secondly, it must not encourage addiction to drugs.
National Park Service has yet to announce its final decision. This amendment would simply require them to finish the process within 1 week of enactment—now after 4 years.

The U.S. Park Police has testified repeatedly that communication antennas are needed in Rock Creek Park because large sections of the park lack a reliable communications service. The police rely on commercial wireless communications for their own protection and to respond to the public’s calls. Joggers, medical personnel, and other park users also testified these antennas will provide key links to police and rescue personnel. When someone is injured, rapid response may mean the difference between life and death.

The U.S. Park Police reported in Rock Creek Park over 3,500 safety incidents, including 348 violent crimes, 1,600 criminal offenses, and 1,664 traffic accidents in that 4-year period, from July 1995 to April 1999. When these incidents occur, there is no way for a victim or a Good Samaritan to call 911.

Our amendment ensures the intention of the Telecommunications Act is simply carried out. The act recognizes that public safety should be available for locating the antennae so essential services for wireless communications can be provided.

In many locations in the D.C. area, Federal property holdings are extensive and afford the only reasonable location for such antennae. This amendment supports these initiatives. When the consideration of applications determines that the antennae meet applicable Federal environmental and other requirements, neither the Federal agencies nor local administrations should have any cause to block them.

This amendment clarifies the current law for the Washington region like other jurisdictions and requires approval of these facilities if they meet all the requirements. That is an explanation of my amendment. I hope that, and I appreciate very much, under the unanimous consent agreement, we will have a voice vote on this matter. I certainly hope it can be maintained in conference, because I think this is a critical issue for public safety and also for the need for Federal responsiveness on issues of this import.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, the explanation of the amendment sounded very good. I had not seen the amendment until earlier this evening. I am happy to go forward with a vote on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time on the amendment having expired, the question is on agreeing to amendment No. 1223.

The amendment (No. 1223) was agreed to.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay that motion on the table was agreed to.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I thank the manager of the bill, the Senator from Illinois and my colleague, the Senator from Illinois.

AMENDMENT NO. 1224

(Purpose: To strike Federal funding for the District of Columbia resident tuition support program)

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, the next item on the unanimous consent agreement is Senator DURBIN’s tuition assistance program amendment. Twenty minutes will be given to Senator Durbin, and I will control 30 minutes, at the end of which time Senator Durbin will withdraw.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Illinois (Mr. Durbin) proposes an amendment numbered 1224.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 11, line 1, after the semicolon insert “up to”.

On page 11, line 2, after “resident” insert “college.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, a bipartisan group of legislators, Congressmen from this region, came up with an idea that is a very good one. It is an effort to try to make higher education more affordable among the residents of the District of Columbia.

Washington, DC, does not have a major public university. The young people in D.C. are disadvantaged. People living in the State of Texas, people living in the State of Illinois can consider a number of public universities and colleges and qualify for in-State resident tuition, which is usually much lower than those out of State.

That same benefit is not available for the young people in the District of Columbia by and large, and this scholarship idea, which was promoted by the Clinton administration, as well as local Congressmen and many others in this area, has come forward. It is one that I wholeheartedly support. I think this tuition assistance program is an excellent idea. The estimated cost is about $17 million a year. That sum is appropriated in this bill.

Having predicted, though, I have taken exception to a fact of life in the District of Columbia. I mentioned at the outset that the District of Columbia is going through major reform, major revitalization. We have changed the Federal contribution to help the District go forward. For example, we are paying more Medicaid in the District of Columbia than in my home State of Illinois. We are paying for certain benefits, like a $5,000 tax credit for those first-time homebuyers in the District. It is our intention to encourage the District of Columbia to stand on its own feet.

They have made progress. I give credit to Mayor Williams and the city council for a lot of positive things that have occurred in a very short period of time.

Having said that, though, there is an action by the D.C. City Council which I consider to be the height of irresponsibility. That was a decision by this city council this year to give $59 million in tax cuts to D.C. residents.

Mark my words, any politician would like to stand up and say: I am going to give a tax cut. Everyone applauds. That is a natural applause line. But when you take a look at the District of Columbia and the situation that it faces, it is almost incredible that they would decide at this moment in history that they have $59 million they can’t figure out how to spend; $59 million they want to return in tax cuts, some of them in the neighborhood of $100 or $150 a year, $2 a week, $3 a week, for a total of $59 million. This is a tax cut in a city that has serious infrastructure problems and serious problems when it comes to the very basic things.

I will give you an example. Here we are at the Capitol Building. A lot of my staff members live nearby. One of my staffers said to me the other evening: I am going home.

I said: Do you need a ride?

He said: I just live five blocks away. He paused and said: But come to think of it, a woman was stabbed and murdered in my neighborhood last week.

I said: Do you know what you need in your neighborhood, where murders are occurring? You need a tax cut.

Well, I think we know better. The people in the District of Columbia, more than anything else, need police protection. They need protection because we have the highest murder rate in the Nation right here in the District of Columbia, more than twice the next city in any State in this entire country.

I had some time to look over what has happened with the D.C. Police Department. The D.C. City Council, the D.C. City Council can’t seem to see any need there beyond the current budget. In fact, they want to give away $59 million.

Let me tell you a little bit about the D.C. Police Department. I think it has a good chief. Chief Ramsey comes from Chicago. I think he is making changes. But they wanted to have 3,800 police men in the District of Columbia, and they can’t find them. They found about 3,500, so they are short of the mark of 3,800.

But they wanted to have 3,800 police men in the District of Columbia, and they can’t find them. They found about 3,500, so they are short of the mark of 3,800. Police are the force in the city that they hope to have.

When the new chief took over a year ago, he looked around the District of Columbia Police Department and learned that 75 percent of the telephone calls in the D.C. Police Department were rotary phones. This is like traveling in Eastern Europe after the wall came down and discovering what is left of the Soviet empire. You travel around the D.C. city government and you wonder how in the world did it get so bad.

This D.C. City Council can look beyond that. They can look beyond the fact that the policemen in the District of Columbia were not receiving firearms training a year ago. They can look beyond the fact that the D.C. policemen were not even trained for conducting sobriety tests. Can you imagine that a cop pulled over a speeder who was drunk because only 200 of the policemen, out of 3,800, had been trained in giving a basic sobriety test. In most cities in the Nation, 100 percent of the force receives that training. The one after another, stack up until the people in this position worry more about getting hit in the head than whether they are going to get a tax cut. This is really, in my mind, quite a tragedy. If it were a family situation and you were trying to draw an analogy, the D.C. City Council decided to go out and buy a big screen TV although it couldn't afford to buy a lock for the front door of the house. That is what the tax cut is all about.

Give away $59 million in a city with these problems—that is not wise. As I mentioned earlier, the D.C. public schools really need help. They have brought on some new people in an effort to try to deal with that. I hope it works. But the belief by the D.C. City Council to spend money in summer programs, early childhood development, afterschool programs is unnecessary, really strikes me as insensitive to the reality of the need for improving public education in the District of Columbia.

When the Mayor came and spoke to us, incidentally, he told us something which was troubling—I have a chart that demonstrates it—on children in the District of Columbia. The Casey Foundation took a look at kids in the District of Columbia, kids in Washington, DC. With one exception—and they looked at all the different criteria for children, and that was the high school dropout rate—the District of Columbia ranked worst in the Nation in every category involving children.

D.C. City Council, are you listening? The children you represent in these wards out here are the worst in the Nation in every single category. You can't figure out where to put $59 million, so you want to declare a dividend and give it away.

Why don't you consider, for a moment, the percent of low-birth-weight babies in the District of Columbia, the worst in the Nation in every category—other State; the infant death rate in the District of Columbia is the worst in the Nation, twice the national average; the child death rate; the rate of teen deaths by accident and homicide; the teen birthrate; the percent of teens not attending school and not working; the percent of children living with parents who do not have full-time, year-round employment is last place in the District of Columbia; the percent of children in poverty; the percent of families headed by a single parent is the worst in the Nation.

The D.C. City Council has blunders on when it comes to the kids in the Dis-rate has come down, whether or not children are better off, and whether or not the schools are improved.

The District of Columbia will be held accountable. With that assurance, I can assure those who are listening that if I were on the District's fiscal committee, as I expect to be, I will apply the same standard. To the D.C. City Council, I say: I don't think you can have it both ways. I don't think you can give away the money in a tax cut and meet basic needs in the city. You have to be able to prove to me wrong, I will be watching.

I will be offering a sense-of-the-Senate resolution in a few moments that addresses some of the yardsticks and criteria we hope to use in measuring the performance of the D.C. City Council.

At this point, I ask how much time I have remaining under the unanimous consent request.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 5½ minutes.

Mr. DURBIN. At this point, I ask that my 5 minutes be held until Senator HUTCHISON has an opportunity to respond. If I may close, I will appreciate that.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I have listened to Senator Durbin's arguments on his amendment, and I have to say I am pleased that he is withdrawing the amendment, because I think his amendment is absolutely flat wrong.

Let's talk about what would give kids a chance in the District of Columbia. A better education system would give kids a better chance in the District of Columbia. We are funding health care for children in this District with the Federal programs that are available throughout our country. We are providing better support for education—well, we are not providing it; in fact, I think the District is providing a tax cut that they are doing a good job. They are saying that charter schools should be given a chance, that if a child cannot be given a good public education in this system and that child chooses to go to a charter school, they will have an equal allocation of resources as if they were going to a public school—which a charter school is.

So the District is addressing education, because they want their kids to have a chance. We are putting more in crime prevention in this bill, in crime control, because we do think it is important to clean up neighborhoods. But a very important part of cleaning up neighborhoods is the tax cuts the District consensus budget envisions.

Now, the Senator from Illinois refers to these as giving away $59 million. Well, first of all, I don't think income tax cuts are giving money away. They are letting people who earn the money keep more of what they earn. Now, why would I disagree with the District's decision to do that? Because the District is trying to clean up the neighborhoods, to do exactly what the Senator from Illinois wants to do—that is, have safe and clean neighborhoods throughout the District of Columbia.

The way they are doing this is with, I think, a quite balanced tax cut program. The tax cuts for business will attract business into the city. This city needs more investment. It is a government city. There isn't much commercial activity. The commercial activity will clean up property. It will provide jobs. It will have economic viability. But it will also have more investment in beautification of the city. At the same time, high-tax cuts is something that is being done all over this country by cities that are trying to be progressive and improve their quality of life.

The tax cuts on the income tax side are so modest that I don't see how any one could possibly disagree with them. People in the District who make $10,000 pay 6 percent in income taxes, and it would be lowered to 4 percent. It also gives breaks to the middle-income families that we want to be able to live in the District.

We want to have a full range of families able to live in the District, and we are trying to support the District's efforts to do exactly that—to make this a family-friendly city.

That is why it is so incredible that we would have any opposition to the tuition assistance plan, because one of the factors that a family uses to choose where it goes is higher education potential for their children. I have had people tell me that it is like getting a $25,000-a-year raise to move to Texas because in-State tuition at Texas University is so low. I mean, it is ridiculously low. It is about $1,000.

So a person moving to Texas getting a first-rate education from the University of Texas, Texas A&M, all of our colleges, and universities that are rated in the top 10, top 20, in many fields, have a good bargain.

But what about a child who is growing up in the District of Columbia? They don't have a State university where they have an equal opportunity to go with in-State tuition because people are paying taxes to that State. This bill gives them that equal chance. This bill will equalize out-of-State tuition costs for D.C. students. So if they qualify to go to the University of Maryland, or the University of Virginia, or I hope the University of Texas, they will be able to. I have had added tuition they would have as an out-of-State student with these tuition assistance programs.

I think it is part of the overall strategy of the District to make this city family friendly. They are making every attempt in the budget they presented to us to give them a better chance for education at the grade school, middle school, and high school level. This bill gives them the chance to have out-of-State tuition covered to in-State tuition, where they would qualify anywhere in the country.

This bill gives them more in crime prevention, more in crime control, and it says to businesses: We want you to come to the District, we want you to make an investment in the District, because we want to clean up the neighborhoods; and we know it is going to take a public-private partnership to do it.

But I think this bill is quite balanced. I think the District has done a terrific job in trying to use the money it has—both the Federal budget side and the local budget side—to do what is necessary to attract families back into the District to live, and to keep the families that are here living here. If they don't do something about the income tax rate, they are never going to attract people, because the income tax rates on either side of them in Maryland and Virginia are half of what they are in the District.

I think the Mayor and the council should be commended for saying: We are going to make our city attractive, we are going to do it in a balanced way, and we are going to meet the needs of the children in the District. But every city in the country is looking for ways to make their cities attractive.

I am going to support the District in their efforts to make this city attractive for families. I am going to continue to work with Senator Durbin to try to make sure we are funding crime control in open air drug markets. I am going to continue to work with the District in trying to give charter schools a chance, if public education isn't serving the needs of individual children.

Let's give competition a chance. I think the District has been quite progressive in doing that in their budget.

I defend the tax cuts. I defend the tuition assistance program, which has bipartisan support, and the support of the President and the support of the District. I think we are going to see this city turn around.

I am going to support the council in every way I can. I think they are going in the right direction. I think they are going in the right direction with tuition assistance. I hope Congress will authorize this program so we can put it into effect for the next university year.

I think we will see a lot of activity in the District with people wanting to come here, stay here, and raise their families here. That will be good for every American. That is an attractive, a clean city, and a city that has a low crime rate is going to be a city that every American wants to bring their families to visit as our Capital City.

Thank you, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, how much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 5 minutes 30 seconds.

Mr. DURBIN. Thank you, Mr. President.

I respect what the Senator from Texas has said. I agree with much of what she said. I certainly agree the college tuition assistance program is a good one. I support it.
I hope you can tell from the debate that our point of disagreement is on the tax cut, and my belief is that tax cut money—at least a portion of it—should be dedicated toward making the District a safer place to live, and making the schools better schools—and addressing some of the serious problems the children in this District face, problems which are, frankly, of a third world nature and seem to be ignored by this D.C. City Council.

Let me state again that you shouldn’t take the word of a Senator from Illinois, nor a Senator from Texas, about what D.C. residents are interested in; you should take their own word.

When you look at the surveys of the people of the District of Columbia, Washington, DC, and their priorities, you search down that list for a long way before they start talking about taxes. High on that list is their concern about safety and crime in their neighborhoods. How low could you bring taxes to attract a person into a neighborhood where they felt as though they were not safe?

Some members of my staff who would love to live on Capitol Hill where I live have finally reached the conclusion that they can’t. One member of my staff, after she was mugged a second time on Capitol Hill, and her face was swollen for about a week, gave up and moved out of Washington, DC, to a neighboring suburb. The taxes had nothing to do with that.

I talked to another young couple, just the kind of people who should be living in the District to make a great contribution. They said it finally just wore them down—their concern about crime, their concern about the filth they saw in the streets, and the rats running across the streets as they came home in the evening. It finally just wore them down, and they picked up and moved to a neighboring suburb. They didn’t mention taxes. I am sure it is a concern. Nobody wants to pay any more taxes than they have to.

But I think if this District were more livable when it came to the basics of protecting families in their own homes and neighborhoods that you would attract more people to live in what is otherwise in many places one of the most beautiful cities in America. The Senator from Texas said she wants Washington, DC, to be family friendly. I couldn’t agree more. But first it has to be family safe. Unfortunately, it isn’t close.

When they did a survey of the people in the District of Columbia, 48 percent said they live in fear of crime in their neighborhood. When they asked people in the District of Columbia, they had the highest percentage of residents among 12 cities surveyed indicating the presence of abandoned cars and rundown buildings. When they asked the residents in the District of Columbia whether or not they had problems of public drug sales, they had the highest response in the Nation. Panhandling and begging was the highest in the Nation.

These are quality-of-life issues that need to be addressed by the city council that should get its head out of the clouds and down on the street, talking to the people they represent.

AMENDMENT NO. 1224 WITHDRAWN

Mr. DURBIN. I ask my amendment be withdrawn.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 1224) was withdrawn.

Mr. EFFORDS. Mr. President, the amendment offered by the Senator from Illinois would strike the $17 million which is included in this bill to support a program offering tuition assistance to DC students who are pursuing postsecondary education. As the author of legislation to authorize this program, I strongly oppose the Durbin amendment.

In crafting my legislation—which is cosponsored by Senators HUTCHISON, WARNER, and MOYANIAN—have been responsible for fiscal responsibility. The $17 million included in the DC appropriations bill is the amount recommended in the President’s budget. Although I would agree that any amounts above this figure should come from reduced federal expenditures, I do believe it is appropriate for the Federal government to participate in an effort to place DC students on an even keel with students in other parts of the country.

The authorization process for the DC tuition bill is well underway. Under the leadership of Representative TOM DAVIS and DC Delegate ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON, the House of Representatives approved “The District of Columbia College Access Act” without a dissenting vote. The Senate Subcommittee on Oversight of Government Management, Restructuring and the District of Columbia—chaired by Senator VOINOVICH—recently held a hearing on a legislation modeled after my College Access Program (DC-CAP) which will offer both financial support for students pursuing postsecondary education and assistance to high school students to assure they are prepared to tackle the challenges of higher learning.

An investment in education is one of the most important investments we as a society and we as individuals can make. There are boundless opportunities in the DC area for individuals with education and training beyond high school. DC residents should not be left behind in obtaining the capacity to take advantage of these opportunities.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, as part of last October’s Omnibus Appropriations Bill, a provision (Section 330) in the District of Columbia’s FY 99 appropriations placed a $50 per hour/$1,300 per case cap on attorney’s fees in cases brought under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) in the District.

In signing the bill, President Clinton singled out the cap in his remarks, calling it “unacceptable” and he... pledged to eliminate the cap this year. However, it has again been included in this bill to fund the District. (Sec. 128)

This bill has made it virtually impossible for local special education attorneys to accept cases on contingency, which is required for indigent parents and court-supervised children. Attorneys are forced to demand retainers from these residents, which precludes low-income parents from obtaining legal representation at all. In the end, the poorest kids in the District receive inadequate services from DCPS.

Federal law under the IDEA provides for the recovery of reasonable attorneys’ fees at market rates. IDEA was passed with the understanding that it applied to cases in all jurisdictions. Congress, however, has singled out the District of Columbia and in effect has singled out poor families and children who struggle to get even a basic education.

DCPS spends $165 million per year on about 12,000 special education students. The average per-pupil cost comes out to be $17,000 per year. One in 10 District students are in need of special education program services.

Yet, cases presented to these students are substandard at best. Disabled children wait months, and in some cases years, to have their special education needs evaluated by DCPS. Since DCPS doesn’t have nearly enough special education programs to accommodate students, students spend lengthy periods of time to be placed in an appropriate classroom setting where they can receive essential related services.

In order to get these deserving kids assessed, parents have had to resort to litigation to get their children the services the law allows them. The tangled system of DCPS is un navigable without an experienced attorney and most parents can’t afford to hire and retain attorneys for their children.

So for years, lawyers have sued the system on behalf of thousands of children with physical, emotional or learning disabilities who have not received proper assessments or services. The school system is required to pay legal fees when the child’s case prevails—which has occurred most of the time.

The Washington Times reported in March that DCPS has committed funds to hire eight private attorneys to defend the school in special education cases. It is disconcerting that the District is willing to pay the prevailing rate to “defense” attorney’s to oppose parents, but it claims it can’t afford to pay the prevailing rate to attorneys to represent parents seeking to have their children assessed.

Three class action suits have been filed against DCPS and recently, two of those lawsuits were settled. Under the terms of the settlement, the school system will hire qualified hearing officers to hold hearings or otherwise represent the backlog of hearing requests, estimated at more than 700, by the end of summer. The backlog of some 400 unimplemented decisions will be cleared up in stages, with the goal of reaching compliance with all decisions and agreement by the end of the first semester of the 1999-2000 school year. One more class-action suit against the division remains unresolved.

In one of those cases, Federal District Court Judge Paul Friedman ruled on May 11 that:

$4 million assessed for failure to comply with past court orders “has to be paid”;

The school system violated legal provisions by trying to apply the congressional cap on fees for work performed before the cap was set;

The school system must pay more than $400,000 to one law firm, Feldman, Tucker, Leifer, Fiddel & Bank, which has been handling a class-action lawsuit for several years and has not been paid in the past.

Nothing in the law prevents judges from awarding attorney fees in special education cases that continue longer than the one-year cap imposed this year. The cap would simply be lifted for the reasons or whenever the cap is lifted (“The statute doesn’t tell me I can’t award more than $50 an hour. It tells you can’t pay more that $50 an hour.”)

The special education problems are an embarrassment and need to be resolved. The school system has to address this and the kids are entitled to counsel and counsel deserve to be paid fairly and reasonably for their work and the time.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. This is a matter we can take up in conference.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, according to the unanimous consent agreement, it is now appropriate for Senator Durbin’s sense of the Senate on D.C. quality of life. He has 15 minutes under his control; I have 5 minutes under my control.

I yield the floor to Senator Durbin.

PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. I thank the Senator from Texas. I will make it brief because I have spoken on my concerns about the District of Columbia. My reason for withdrawing the last amendment is my belief that not only is it a high priority of the White House, it is fundamentally a sound program, as I said from the start.

My quarrel is what I consider to be the improper implementation of the D.C. City Council with the so-called tax cut they have enacted. The sense of the Senate, which I make a part of this appropriations bill, says the D.C. City Council has a chance to prove their theory; they have a chance to prove the $59 million in tax cuts is more important than $59 million spent on police protection; $59 million, a part of which could be spent on the schools; $59 million, a part of which could be spent to try to help these poor babies who are suffering from low birth-weight and other problems.

You have your chance. That is what home rule is all about. The sense of the Senate says it is a sense of the Senate that in considering the District of Columbia’s fiscal year 2001 budget, the Senate will take into consideration progress or lack of progress in addressing the following issues: crime, including the number of drug related arrests, the number of people on waiting lists, and the effectiveness of treatment drugs. Remember that HIV-AIDS is seven times more prevalent in the District of Columbia than in other cities.

The third item on the sense of the Senate is management of parolees and pretrial violent offenders, including the number of halfway house escapees, basic steps taken to improve monitoring and supervision of halfway house residents to reduce the number of escapees. Pick up the paper with regularity and you will find that the so-called halfway houses have revolving doors. Those accused of drug and violent crime are back on the street, walking in the neighborhoods of the District of Columbia, shoulder to shoulder with the people who live here and those who come to visit the Nation’s capital.

That has to change. It is one of the criteria which I personally use, and I hope others will use, during the course of this consideration of criteria for future appropriations for the District of Columbia.

Fourth, education including access to special education services and student achievement.

Fifth, improvement in the city’s basic services, including rat control and abatement.

Sixth, the application for and management of Federal grants. This D.C. city government has not even applied for the money it is eligible for from the Federal Government because it has not reached a level of competence and it may mean achieving some in phases. I hope the Mayor is listening, and I hope the members of the D.C. City Council will be responsible for that.

Finally, the indicators of child well-being, which I mentioned earlier. Let’s see next year, when we gather to debate this appropriation, whether the District of Columbia is still in last place among all the States in the Nation in so many categories which reflect the well-being of the children who live here.

AMENDMENT NO. 1227

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Senate regarding the urgent need to address basic quality of life concerns in the District of Columbia)

Mr. DURBIN. I retain the remainder of my time and offer the amendment, which is at the desk.

PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:
The Senator from Illinois [Mr. DURBIN] proposes an amendment numbered 1227.

Mr. DURBIN. I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. . FINDINGS.—The Senate finds the following:

1. The District of Columbia has not made adequate funding available to fight drug abuse in recent years, and the city has not deployed its resources as effectively as possible. In fiscal year 1998, $20,900,000 was spent on publicly funded drug treatment in the District compared to $29,000,000 in fiscal year 1993. The District’s Addictions and Prevention and Education Division, now currently operating only 2,000 treatment slots, a 50 percent drop from 1994, with more than 1,100 people on waiting lists.

2. The District of Columbia has seen a rash of inmate escapes from halfway houses. According to Department of Corrections records, between October 21, 1998 and January 19, 1999, 376 of the 1,125 inmates assigned to halfway houses walked away. Nearly 280 of the 376 escapes were awaiting trial including 2 charged with murder.

3. The District of Columbia public schools system faces serious challenges in correcting chronic problems, particularly long-standing deficiencies in providing special education services to the 1 in 10 District students needing program benefits, including backlogged assessments, and repeated failure to meet a compliance agreement on special education reached with the Department of Education.

4. Deficiencies in the delivery of basic public services from cleaning streets to waiting program benefits, including backlogged waiting lists, and the effectiveness of treatment slots, the number of people served, the number of people on waiting lists, and the effectiveness of treatment programs.

5. Management of parolees and pretrial violent offenders, including the number of halfway house escapes and steps taken to improve monitoring and supervision of halfway house residents to reduce the number of escapes.

6. Education, including access to special education services and student achievement.

7. Improvement in basic city services, including rat control and abatement.

8. Application for and management of Federal grants.

9. Indicators of child well-being.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I think the Senator from Illinois has a very good sense of the Senate. I think having benchmarks and accountability, we can look at next year is very appropriate. I commend him for caring about these crime issues and the issues that we all want to solve.

I certainly support his amendment and suggest we approve it unanimously.

Mr. DURBIN. I yield the floor. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 1227) was agreed to.

Mr. DURBIN. I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The amendments are as follows:

AMENDMENT NO. 1228

(Purpose: To encourage the Major of the District of Columbia to adhere to the recommendations of the Health Care Development Commission with respect to the use of Medicaid Disproportionate Share payments)

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. . The Mayor, prior to using Federal Medicaid payments to Disproportionate Share Hospitals to serve a small number of childless adults, should consider the recommendations of the Health Care Development Commission that has been appointed by the Council of the District of Columbia to review this program, and consult and report to Congress on the use of these funds.

AMENDMENT NO. 1229

(Purpose: To allow the District of Columbia Public Schools to consider funding of a program to discourage school violence)

On page 13, line 17, insert the following: "Provided that the District of Columbia Public Schools may spend $500,000 to engage in a Schools Without Violence program based on a model developed by the University of North Carolina, located in Greensboro, North Carolina."

AMENDMENT NO. 1230

(Purpose: To require a GAO study of the criminal justice system of the District of Columbia)

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. . GAO STUDY OF DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA CRIMINAL JUSTICE SYSTEM.

Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall:

(1) conduct a study of the law enforcement, court, prison, probation, parole, and other components of the criminal justice system of the District of Columbia, in order to identify the components most in need of additional resources, including financial, personal, and management resources;

(2) submit to Congress a report on the results of the study under paragraph (1).

AMENDMENT NO. 1231

(Purpose: To amend the District of Columbia Code to require the arrest and termination of parole of a prisoner for illegal drug use)

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. . TERMINATION OF PAROLE FOR ILLIGAL DRUG USE.

(a) ARREST FOR VIOLATION OF PAROLE.—Section 205 of title 24 of the District of Columbia Code is amended—

(1) in the first sentence, by striking "If the" and inserting the following: "(a) If the"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

"(b) Notwithstanding subsection (a), with respect to a prisoner who is convicted of a crime of violence (as defined in § 23±1331) and who is released on parole at any time during the term or terms of the prisoner’s sentence for that offense, the Board of Parole shall issue a warrant for the retaking of the prisoner in accordance with this section, if the Board, or any member thereof, has reliable information (including positive drug test results) that the prisoner has illegally used a controlled substance (as defined in § 33±501) at any time during the term or terms of the prisoner’s sentence.

(c) HEARING AFTER ARREST; TERMINATION OF PAROLE.—Section 206 of title 24 of the District of Columbia Code is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, with respect to a prisoner with respect to whom a warrant is issued under section 205(b), if, after a hearing under this section, the Board of Parole determines that the prisoner has illegally used a controlled substance (as defined in § 33±501) at any time during the term or terms of the prisoner’s sentence, the Board shall terminate the parole of that prisoner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendments en bloc.

The amendments (Nos. 1227 through 1231) were agreed to.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DURBIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICCI. Mr. President, I rise in support of S. 1283, the District of Columbia Appropriations bill for FY 2000 as reported by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The bill provides $410 million in new budget authority and $401 million in new outlays for federal contributions to the District of Columbia government. When outlays from prior-year budget authority and other completed actions are tabulated, the Senate bill totals $410 million in budget authority and $405 million in outlays for FY 2000.
I commend the distinguished Chairman of the Subcommittee, Senator HUTCHISON, for her hard work and diligence in fashioning this bill. The bill is exactly at the Senate Subcommittee’s 302(b) allocation. The bill is $17 million in budget authority and $12 million in outlays above the President’s request due to the inclusion of a tuition assistance program for D.C. students who attend out-of-state colleges. The Administration has requested these funds, however, through the Department of Education rather than directly to the District of Columbia.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate Budget Committee scoring of the District of Columbia Appropriations bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Mr. DOMENICI. I urge my colleagues to support the bill.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. That is all the amendments we have pending. If there are no further amendments, I ask that the bill be read for a third time.

The bill was ordered to be read for a third time.

Mr. BYRD addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. BYRD. I will take a couple of minutes to express my appreciation to the two managers of this bill. I chaired the subcommittee on appropriations for the District of Columbia for 7 years, beginning in 1961 and ending in 1968.

This is not just an ordinary city, as we all know. I have traveled in many areas of the world, as have most Senators. I have been in many cities of the world, but this is the only Federal city in the world. This is the only Federal city in the United States. Referring to the words of the Constitution, article I, section 9, it is the seat of the Government of the United States. It is not ‘a’ seat of the Government of the United States, it is the’ seat of the Government of the United States. So it is a unique city. It is the only city of its kind in this country. It is the only City of its kind in the universe.

I compliment these two Senators. It is 20 minutes after 9 o’clock on what will be the last day the Senate will be in session until after next week. These two Senators are here discussing important matters.

As I sat here, I thought this bill is one that the Senate should vote on. Senators should be here and should vote on this bill.

Next year, all things being equal, it is my intention at the present time to see that we have a vote on this bill, a rollcall vote. I think Senators should indicate that much interest in the City of the Federal Government of the United States.

I happen to agree with the distinguished Senator from Illinois in respect to his comments concerning a tax cut. Senators will not find me supporting very many tax cuts, whether it is for the District of Columbia or anywhere else. I have plenty to say about that in due time. But every Senator has a right to his own viewpoint. Every Senator is here representing his own State, trying to do the best he can. That is what I am trying to do. But we all have a responsibility toward this city.

I referred to the job of the distinguished Senator from Texas, Mrs. HUTCHISON, and the distinguished Senator from Illinois, Mr. DURBIN, as being a thankless task. What did I mean by that? That was not spoken in pejorative terms, it was not in derogation of the District of Columbia, but it is a thankless task insofar as getting any credit from the folks back home is concerned. It is just that sometimes, you don't get any Senator any votes back home, if that is what one expects. So in that respect, it is a thankless task.

But we all, all 100 Senators and every person in the United States, owe our thanks to the Senators who give of their time to fulfill this responsibility. It is a responsibility; it is a duty. Nobody wants this job. I didn’t want it, but I held it for 7 years and gave it my best because I thought that the District of Columbia was entitled to the best of my talents, my energy, and whatever limited wisdom I possessed. So we owe that to the District of Columbia. It is our capital. It is our seat of our Federal Government.

So I thank both Senators. They spend a lot of time on this matter, I can tell you, and it is not easy. And they are subject to many criticisms from editors in papers in the District and from editors, probably, in their own States. They are subject to these criticisms. In my case, I say, they won’t get many thanks. But they get my thanks. I hope to call this to the attention of the Senate, as I am now trying to do, as I am saying to the people of the United States who may be watching at this hour: These two Senators are entitled to the thanks and the congratulations of the people of the United States and the people of the District of Columbia.

There are people in the District of Columbia who do not look back with great satisfaction on certain recent years. There is a Delegate to the U.S. House of Representatives. She has the privilege of the floor. She is not sitting in the gallery. The rules say that we cannot call attention to people in the gallery. I hope Senators will read that rule and refresh their memory. I trust the Presiding Officers will keep that in mind in the future and call it to the attention of any Senator who refers to people in the gallery: a person, name those persons. But we can refer to an elected Delegate to the U.S. House of Representatives who has the privilege of this floor. I do that now with respect to Delegate ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON. She is highly respected, highly regarded, and she gives the best of her talents and services to the people of the District of Columbia who elected her. I salute her.

Again, I close by thanking the two fine Senators who have labored here and worked so late. I daresay the Senator from Texas would probably be on her way home, home in Texas. And the Senator from Illinois, I am quite sure, will be on his way home in Illinois. But he had a job to do here. He had a responsibility. I salute him, I thank him, and I yield the floor.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I think that was a very special statement made by the Senator from West Virginia, and I appreciate very much that he loves this Capitol and the seat of Government for all Americans. The fact that he spent 7 years on the Appropriations Committee chairing this subcommittee means that there was a lot of attention and a lot of care paid to this city.

I think he is right. I think we need to make sure this is a job well done. This is every bit as important as what I do for my constituents in Texas, because this is part of what I do for my constituents in Texas, and that is to make this city the one that we all want it to be. And I am very pleased by the far-sighted Senator from Illinois recognizing Delegate ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON. I was going to do that as well, because I have known Delegate NORTON for many years before she was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives. She has the privilege of the floor. She has the privilege of being here in the gallery. She is not sitting in the gallery. She has the privilege of being here in the gallery. She is not sitting in the gallery. She has the privilege of being here in the gallery. She is not sitting in the gallery.
Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, if I might just take a moment of time here to thank the Senator from West Virginia. His kind words are high praise indeed.

This Washington, DC, has many museums which contain many national treasures, but the Senate has its own treasure in the Senator from West Virginia. In relation to this institution is just unparalleled. The fact that he would praise us for staying after 9 o’clock to do our job of course is belied by the fact that he is still here, prepared to say a few words as well, doing his job, as he always does, for the people of West Virginia.

I thank the Senator from West Virginia, as well as my colleague from Texas, for their kindnesses during consideration of this bill.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I thank both Senators.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I think we need to pass the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is the passage of the bill.

The bill (S. 1283) was passed.

(There being no objection, it is so ordered.)

FOREIGN OPERATIONS, EXPORT FINANCING, AND RELATED PROGRAMS APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2000

AMENDMENT NO. 1186, AS MODIFIED

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, I send to the desk a modification of amendment No. 1186, previously agreed to within the foreign operations appropriations bill.

I ask unanimous consent the amendment be so modified.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 1186), as modified, is as follows:

At the appropriate place, insert:

SEC. 599C. The Secretary of the Treasury may, to fulfill commitments of the United States, (1) effect the United States participation in the fifth general capital increase of the African Development Bank, the first general capital increase of the Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency, and the first general capital increase of the Inter-American Investment Corporation; (2) contribute on behalf of the United States to the eighth replenishment of the African Development Fund, the twelfth replenishment of the resources of the African Development Bank, and the first general capital increase of the Inter-American Investment Corporation; (3) contribute on behalf of the United States to the eighth replenishment of the African Development Fund, the twelfth replenishment of the International Development Association. The following amounts are authorized to be appropriated without fiscal year limitation for payment by the Secretary of the Treasury:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Washington.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to a period for morning business, with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RECOVERY OF SALMON RUNS

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, a thoughtful and detailed article appeared about a week ago in the Portland Oregonian indicating public expenditures of close to $1 billion during the current year directed at the recovery of salmon runs in the Pacific Northwest. That is an extraordinarily large amount of money for a purpose of that nature.

A modest portion of it comes from State appropriations of the four States in the Columbia River drainage area. The largest single share of that almost $1 billion is paid for through the charges for electric power produced by the Bonneville Power Administration and others, and, therefore, by the residents of the region, but a very substantial share of that money comes from appropriations approved by this Congress.

As recently as 1 year or 18 months ago, many of the regions in the award were critical of the billions of dollars of spending for this purpose on the grounds that they had shown few, if any results, and that, in fact, salmon runs had declined during that period of time.

That criticism is no longer entirely correct. We have had some recent successes, and I will mention a few of them in just a moment. But I think all would agree that those successes are not at this point a proper return on an investment of almost $1 billion a year.

For example, with the aid and assistance of my friend and colleague, the senior Senator from West Virginia, the Interior appropriations bill for the current year included $20 million appropriated to the State of Washington for these purposes. And this Senator has to confess that he is not entirely certain what the people of the United States have gotten for that $20 million at this point.

This Senator cannot point to a single significant success as a result. Part of the reason, of course, is that in the current year, the spending of that money has not been completed. Part of it is that the programs which it funds are new, and part of it is the fact that the very nature of the salmon resource requires a number of years to tell whether or not any positive results will take place. But nonetheless, we are faced with that very real challenge of determining whether or not we are getting our money’s worth out of these investments.

For the next year, for fiscal year 2000, I can identify in our own work in this body significant amounts of money coming from the energy and water appropriations bill, especially the Army Corps of Engineers, through the agriculture appropriations bill, through the Commerce-State-Justice appropriations bill, particularly close to $100 million for the enforcement and maintenance of a recent treaty signed with Canada on the subject of salmon in the Northwest, through the Environmental Protection Agency, and once again, through the appropriations bill introduced by the Senator from West Virginia and I will manage for the Department of Interior and related agencies.

In addition, of course, there will be those huge amounts of money, close to half a billion dollars a year, through rates charged for electricity by the Bonneville Power Administration and somewhat enhanced appropriations from the four States.

There are many, and I have been occasionally tempted toward this position myself, who will say that if we are not getting our money's worth and if there are so many different entities spending money on salmon recovery, would it not be appropriate to have a single federally appointed salmon czar who would determine how all of this money should be spent?

The argument for that proposition, I think, would be much stronger if there were a single salmon science; that is to say, if we knew precisely what we were doing, if there were one accepted way of going about it for our money in connection with salmon recovery.

Of course, at this point, there is not. There are serious, well-founded debates throughout the country and in the Pacific Northwest as to various, widely different policy prescriptions for salmon recovery.

To have one decisionmaker for all of these expenditures is perhaps not wise, at least until we have learned a good deal more about how we go about attaining our goals.

I do think, however, there could be considerably more coordination than there is at the present time. Three years ago, I persuaded the Congress, as a rider on an appropriations bill, to create a Bonneville Power Administration advisory board to advise the Bonneville Power Administration on how to spend the more than $100 million a year in actual cash grants that it gives for salmon recovery. I had learned in the previous year that those decisions were made by various self-interested parties who awarded almost all of the money themselves without any discernible positive impact at all, and the situation with respect to that roughly 10 percent of the money spent on salmon recovery has been considerably improved by that independent scientific review.

I introduced a bill this year that would expand its authority to all the decisions made by the Bonneville Power Administration, not just direct money grants, but revenue foregone from its power cells, and I hope that the Congress will soon consider and pass that proposal.

Nevertheless, there remains a great deal of room for additional experimentation in connection with salmon recovery.

The bill which will be presented by the Senator from West Virginia and myself in a few weeks for the Department of the Interior will include a modest $4 million figure that will not go directly to the State of Washington, in this case, but will go, I hope, through a nonprofit organization which tells us that it can more than match the money we appropriate and will direct most of its money at private volunteer citizen organizations.

I have found that those organizations do our people more value for the money. Earlier this year, one local group of salmon recovery volunteers joined forces with a landowner on Snow Creek in my State. They received the cooperation of the Association of General Contractors in the State of Washington, an association that has a huge investment in connection with salmon recovery because of the impact of the Endangered Species Act on its ability to build.

Together, these volunteer organizations and private donors and representatives of the building industry have come up with an extremely constructive and almost certainly effective salmon recovery plan for a single stream. Like them, an organization of the kind that we call the Kings River Kings is one of the dozen or more such organizations in the State of Washington, each of which is working on a single stream or group of streams with tremendous volunteer labor and great enthusiasm. But to them, without detailed regulation from the State seems to me to be a wise investment of a modest portion of our money in this respect.

There are some in this body and others who say this is a regional problem and it should be paid for entirely by the region itself. And certainly the people of the Pacific Northwest put a very high value on salmon recovery.

But the way in which they must approach it is certainly somewhat different than any funds the Fish and Wildlife Service has at its disposal.

So the Federal Government, having imposed these requirements, has an obligation to provide substantial assistance to help fund them. Nevertheless, I am here today to say that while this is a very high priority of the Congress, an extremely high priority of the people in my State and the other States in the Columbia River Basin, it is one on which we know and believe we should be held accountable by the Congress. We will do the best job we possibly can with the moneys appropriated by Congress or directed by Congress to see to it that we are successful.

Recent listings in the Puget Sound area now have the Endangered Species Act, for the first time, as having an immense impact on a major metropolitan area in the United States. The people of my State are eager to take on that task. They have asked for modest help from us here. We are giving them that modest help. We will keep Congress and the people of the United States advised of how well we are doing with the general taxpayers' money our colleagues have helped us to provide.

THE ALABAMA STURGEON

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, the story of the efforts to protect the Alabama Sturgeon has been a very long and very ugly one. For many years Congress has been involved. Just three years ago, Congress thought they had put an end to the listing battle when a partnership was formed between the Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) and the Alabama Department of Natural Resources and Conservation. A five-year recovery plan was established to repopulate the Tennessee-Tombigbee with Sturgeon. Now this program has fallen to pieces, because the FWS pulled the plug by taking the dedicated funds and proceeding directly to a formal listing under the Endangered Species Act.

The FWS needs to do the right thing. For me, this means the FWS should honor the partnership it set up with Alabama's Department of Conservation and Natural Resources. This program is at year three of a 5-year program and there is no evidence that the state of Alabama was performing poorly. However, it is clear the FWS wants to renege on the deal. Renege on a program that provides more direct and dedicated funding, and thus more resources, for the Alabama Sturgeon restoration than any funds the Fish and Wildlife Service spent under its own auspices. This simply does not make fiscal or scientific sense.

In both 1993 and 1994 Congress opposed the endangered species listing of the Alabama Sturgeon because of the lack of sound science. Congress also recognized the tremendous economic impact this listing would have on our region. The listing would have caused billions of dollars in river commerce to be disrupted. Nothing has changed in six years—no new science to differ in the economic impact.

The FWS promised that the habitat designation will not require the stopping of dredging. However, someone forgot to tell the FWS office in Daphne, Alabama, what their position is supposed to be. The FWS office in Daphne, Alabama, has stated in writing that maintenance dredging will harm the sturgeon, and thus must not occur. I ask unanimous consent that the attached letter written to the Mobile, Alabama, office of the Army Corps of Engineers on June 17, 1999, be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:
Mr. LOTT. This letter clearly states that dredging can only occur during six months of the year, and at no time can work be conducted across the entire river channel. It is clear to me, and it is clear to all my colleagues in the Chamber, that dredging will be stopped. Also, on May 10, 1999, the FWS office in Daphne, Alabama, again wrote the Mobile Corp about another maintenance dredging project in Mobile. I ask unanimous consent that this letter to the Mobile Corp of Engineers be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

DEAR SIR: This is the report of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service) concerning public notice AL99-01328-S in which the applicant, Kimberly-Clark Corporation, is proposing to maintenance dredge within an existing dry dock slip on David Lake, near Mobile, Mobile County, Alabama. A 200-foot-long by 52-foot-wide area would be dredged to a depth of minus 24 mean low water (MLW). All material would be placed back into the Mobile River within 30 days of the completion of the work.

This report is prepared in accordance with the requirements of the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act (16 U.S.C. 661-667e) and is to be used in your determination of 404(b)(1) guidelines compliance (40 CFR 230) and in your public interest review (33 CFR 320.4) as they relate to protection of fish and wildlife resources.

We believe that this project would have significant impacts on non endangered fish and wildlife resources. However, we have determined that the federally threatened Gulf sturgeon (Acipenser oxyrinchus desotoi—Threatened) and the proposed for listing, Alabama sturgeon (Scaphirhynchus notatus) are located within the Mobile River. Throughout their ranges these species are a permanent resident within the Mobile River. Throughout their ranges these species is a permanent resident within the Mobile River. Therefore, we have determined that the proposed project will likely not affect these species if the following recommendations are adopted and used:

1. No dredging work shall be performed during the months of November through April.
2. No work should be conducted across the entire river channel at any one time. (All underwater activity shall be limited to one general location within the river channel at any time.)
3. No work barges or vessels should be moored in shallow waters along the shorelines from November through April.
4. If the applicant agrees to these conditions, formal consultation under the Endangered Species Act, Section 7, will not be necessary at this time. Implementation of these measures should provide adequate protection.
5. To avoid any impact on Gulf sturgeon inhabiting these waters during winter months or migrating from the Gulf of Mexico. Therefore, if they are followed, no further endangered species consultation will be required for this portion of the project unless: (1) the identified action is subsequently modified in a manner that causes an adverse effect on the listed species; (2) new information reveals the identified action may affect another Federally protected species or a critical habitat in a manner that is not previously considered; or (3) a new species is listed or a critical habitat is designated under the Endangered Species Act that may be affected by the identified action. Our positions on the proposed maintenance dredging project is based on the assumption that Best Management Practices will be followed and the Alabama State Section 401 CWA certification is not violated.

If you have any questions, please contact Mr. Dean Heathcathorn at 334/441-5181.

Sincerely,

E. R. ROACH, Acting Field Supervisor.

Mr. LOTT. This letter stated “dredging, desilting, and spoil disposal carried out in connection with channel improvement and maintenance represent an ongoing threat to these sturgeon species.” Again this proves dredging will be stopped, and the FWS will not hold true to its oral promises here in the Chamber.

During this time frame a lawsuit has also been pending in the United States District Court for the Middle District of Alabama, styled Alabama Sturgeon, et al v. Bruce Babbitt, as Secretary of the Interior, et al. Two months ago, on April 14, 1999, the Court Order noting the parties were engaged in “settlement negotiations” which were likely to lead to dismissal of the lawsuit. Four days later, on April 30, 1999, for some unknown reason the court issued the Order proposing to dismiss the lawsuit upon the payment of $20,000 in attorneys’ fees and costs to the plaintiffs by the government. Neither the Court Order nor the Joint Stipulation of Dismissal and Notice of a Compromise Settlement of Attorney’s fees and Costs makes any attempt to justify the rationale for this result. For some reason the Justice Department apparently decided to simply make a gift of $20,000 to the lawyers in this case.

This Administration has on only given away $20,000 to these lawyers to sweep this lawsuit under the rug, it also stole more than $400,000 designated for sturgeon restoration. I am disappointed by these actions.

It is my firm belief that Alabama’s Federal partner is not motivated by a desire to restore the sturgeon. Clearly, making a decision to list the Alabama Sturgeon as an endangered species, while having no new scientific information must be based in politics—not science. Why an adversarial approach? The solution to this politically driven problem is simple. Let Alabama finish its 5-year program. The Fish and Wildlife Service action is wrong for Alabama. It is wrong for America. We all must continue to press forward in this fight to do the right thing for the Alabama Sturgeon in spite of these actions by FWS.

AMBASSADOR JAMES R. SASSER

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I want to take a moment to call the attention of my colleagues to an important day for one of our former colleagues; and that is, Senator Jim Sasser, who is returning from China where he has served this country very well as one of our former colleagues for 30 years.

He was confirmed in this Senate on December 19, 1995, and with an overwhelming vote.

We are proud of the service he has performed, particularly in recent months, because of the strained relations we have had and the genuine misunderstanding which has existed concerning the bombing of the Chinese Embassy in Belgrade.
I think all of us were proud to see the way former Senator Sasser, Ambassador Sasser, conducted himself, and how all of the American Embassy personnel conducted themselves in that circumstance. I think that is typical of the service that we provided throughout the time he was in China.

We are glad to see him back in the United States. We, of course, look forward to many years of friendship with him in the future.

I think it is worth noting, because I understand he is returning today from China and has distinguished himself in that position and deserves recognition.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I rise to honor one of our former colleagues, Jim Sasser, who today completes his term as United States Ambassador to China. I was honored to serve with Jim Sasser during my first two years as a member of this body. He served the people of Tennessee with distinction. As a member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, I was pleased to support his application to be our ambassador to China both in Committee and on the Senate floor. Although I have serious concerns about United States policy toward China, I believe that Ambassador Sasser served this country admirably during a period of immense strain in the complex relationship between the two countries.

In particular, he displayed enormous poise and courage in the days that followed the unfortunate, tragic, and accidental bombing of the Chinese embassy in Belgrade. For more than four days, Ambassador Sasser and numerous staff members were literally trapped inside the United States embassy in Beijing as thousands of demonstrators chanted anti-American slogans and threw rocks at the embassy from the streets outside. I commend him for the calm and diplomatic manner in which he dealt with this tense situation. He reminded us that ambassadors are more than just the official representatives of the United States; they are also the chiefs of mission with responsibility for the staff of many U.S. agencies, as well as the responsibility for the safety of American citizens living or traveling in the countries in which they serve. Our former colleague carried out all of these functions admirably under difficult conditions.

I wish Ambassador Sasser well in his future endeavors.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I would like now to take a moment to acknowledge the accomplishments of my former colleague and friend J. James Sasser, the United States Ambassador to the People’s Republic of China. I need not remind the Senate of the quality of his leadership as fellow member, and former chairman, of the Budget Committee. It is not his 18 year tenure in the Senate that I want to discuss at this time, nor his distinguished work as Ambassador to China.

Over the past three years, the People’s Republic of China has been transformed both socially and economically. From the reversion of Hong Kong in 1997, to the heightened concern about human rights violations, to the recent developments in Kosovo, it is an understatement to say that the task set before James Sasser was daunting. From the onset of his appointment in 1996, during the Chinese missile testing in the Taiwan straits, James Sasser has worked tirelessly towards a “strong, stable, prosperous China,” and toward the realization of an equally healthy relationship between the two countries.

The frontier of Chinese-US relations is a fast changing one, and Sasser’s efforts have been considerable. Through the continued promotion of tariff reduction he has helped to launch American business towards the exploitation of the Chinese market and helped to secure important trade commitments in the negotiations of the PRC’s accession to the WTO.

There has also been considerable progress on the human rights front during the term of Sasser’s Ambassadorship. Coupled with the release of prominent political and religious leaders, the PRC’s ratification of the International Covenant on Economic and Social Rights is one of the most significant signs of progress with respect to civil rights in China. Sasser has also pioneered agreements with the PRC concerning the nonproliferation of nuclear technology, striving to cooperate on the peaceful uses of energy and halt the spread of nuclear weapons technology.

It is with regret that I acknowledge James Sasser’s departure. His counsel will be greatly missed. His accomplishments as U.S. Ambassador to China will be remembered as important in advancing the opportunity for a sound relationship between the two countries.

I would like to extend my sincere thanks for a job well done.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I want to take a few moments to congratulate one of our former colleagues and a dedicated public servant, James Sasser, who leaves Beijing this week as our longest-serving ambassador to the People’s Republic of China. I commend him for his distinguished and accomplished record in that demanding post.

I was proud to serve with Jim Sasser for eight years here in the Senate. I observed his fine work as Chairman of the Budget Committee, and his service as a key member of the Appropriations, Banking and Government Affairs Committees. He did much for the people of his home state of Tennessee, and for the people of this Nation.

When Senator Sasser assumed the chairmanship of the Budget Committee in 1989, we faced growing budget deficits as far as the eye could see. When he left the Senate in 1995, he had worked to set us on a course of fiscal discipline that I credits largely to the current prosperity and led to the largest budget surpluses in our history. He made the hard choices, he made the tough political judgments, and he displayed tremendous legislative skill in helping put an end to the huge budget shortfalls that plagued our country for far too many years. We were fortunate, then, when Jim Sasser again answered the call to public service when his third term in the Senate came to an end. As our ambassador to China, he has confronted important issues and major problems at a crucial time in our relationship. He traveled first to Beijing during the crisis in the straits of Taiwan in early 1996. He comes home in the wake of the accidental bombing of the Chinese embassy in Belgrade. For more than four and one-half years in between, Ambassador Sasser has worked tirelessly to ensure that such incidents will not fundamentally alter the course of our relations with the world’s most populous nation.

During Ambassador Sasser’s tenure, we have seen the exchange of visits between our two countries and the very successful U.S. tour of Premier Zhu Rongji. Those exchanges highlight the hundreds of less prominent, but no less productive, meetings and negotiations that have taken place at various levels of government and business over these 40 months.

Clearly, we have important differences with the Chinese. They existed before Jim Sasser went to China, and they will persist after his departure. But the interests that unite us—in trade, in a cleaner environment, in combating drugs and terrorism, in controlling the spread of weapons of mass destruction—also remain the same. By Sasser’s work has been common ground on issues, by maintaining a constructive dialogue based on those common interests even at the worst of times. Ambassador Sasser has strengthened one of our most important bilateral relationships. And he has done it with the personal touch and political skill those of use who were privileged to serve with him in the Senate know so well.

So, today, I say thank you to Jim Sasser. Thank you again for your service as a member of the United States Senate, and thank you for skillful diplomacy as our ambassador to China. I know all my colleagues will join me in congratulating Ambassador Sasser for a job well done, and in welcoming him and his wife Mary back home.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, today marks another milestone in the remarkable career of a remarkable former Senator James Sasser of Tennessee. Today, after three-and-a-half tumultuous years, Jim Sasser formally relinquishes his post as U.S. Ambassador to the People’s Republic of China and prepares to return home.

He gave a speech in Beijing the other day and called Jim Sasser “the best Ambassador we have sent to China.” Having served with Jim for 16 years in the United States Senate, I was not surprised at the accolades he has received for his service as U.S. Ambassador in one of the most difficult and sensitive posts in the world.
Jim Sasser is a man of decency, integrity, and honor. Throughout his globe-spanning career, as a lawyer, a United States Senator, and a diplomat, he has never strayed far from his rural west Tennessee roots, where he learned the values that have guided his decisions ever since. In 1989, when I became chairman of the Appropriations Committee, Jim took over the chairmanship of the Senate Budget Committee. Together, we successfully tackled many of the thorny budget and appropriations issues that arose in the early 1990’s. I was privileged to work closely with him for many years on the Senate Appropriations Committee, where he served with distinction as Chairman of the Military Construction Subcommittee.

It is clear that the hard work, talent, and leadership that he demonstrated throughout his Senate career served Jim well when he took over the post of Ambassador to China in 1996. U.S. relations with that nation have experienced dizzying swings during Jim’s tenure, reaching their lowest point when the U.S. embassy in Beijing came under siege during the Kosovo conflict, but Jim has always remained above the fray, with that respect for U.S. and Chinese officials alike. Few of us who know him can forget the haunting photograph of Jim Sasser standing behind the shattered window of the embassy at the height of the anti-American demonstrations in China just two months ago.

Mr. President, four-and-a-half years ago, I stood in this spot to bid Senator Sasser farewell upon his retirement from the Senate. Today, I am pleased to welcome him home to America again. He has served our nation with distinction, and I am confident that he will continue to do so in the coming years wherever the future may lead him.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I rise today to honor a friend and former colleague of many of us in this Chamber, Jim Sasser. Jim will complete his assignment as our Ambassador in Beijing this week, an assignment that has lasted forty months, longer than any previous American Ambassador to China.

After three terms in the Senate, including his excellent leadership as Chairman of the Budget Committee, Jim spent a year in the private sector before taking up residence in Beijing in February of 1996. Since then, Jim has watched over the U.S.-China relationship during an incredibly tumultuous period.

Jim arrived in Beijing just as the crisis began in the Taiwan straits in early 1996. Three years later, he watched over the first exchange of Presidential visits between our two countries when Jiang Zemin visited the United States and President Clinton paid a return visit to China earlier this year. The distinct honor to lead the Congressional delegation accompanying the President to China and can attest that I was profoundly impressed by Jim Sasser’s understanding and management of this critically important and complex bilateral relationship.

Then, most recently, we all watched with great worry and anticipation as Jim oversaw the American response to the demonstrations against the United States. We saw him ably represent and defend American interests during that extremely difficult and tense period.

Jim Sasser has distinguished himself first as the junior Senator, then later as the senior Senator from the State of Tennessee, and finally as Chairman of the Senate Budget Committee where he worked with the White House to secure passage of the 1993 Budget Reconciliation and Deficit Reduction Act, an accomplishment that is in large part responsible for the unprecedented period of economic growth our nation enjoys and the transformation of an escalating federal budget deficit into an impressive surplus.

More recently, Senator Sasser distinguished himself on foreign policy issues, courageously speaking his mind on issues such as the Reagan Administration policies in Central America. He was well respected by his colleagues for his calm, composed, and genial personality. His campaign slogan during his 1976 Senate campaign was “in behalf of a government that reflects our decency.” Senator Sasser lived up to that promise through his distinguished record in the United States Senate.

After returning to private life in 1995, Jim Sasser served as a Fellow at the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University before he was nominated as Ambassador to China. On January 10, 1996, Jim Sasser was sworn in as United States Ambassador to the People’s Republic of China. Knowing that Sino-American relations were at an all-time low, Ambassador Sasser went to the People’s Republic of China with the same diligence that distinguished him as a Senator. The first note that he sent the Chinese Embassy read, “We may doze, but we never close,” typifies the job that Ambassador Sasser did for three remarkable years.

Ambassador to China is one of the most difficult assignments for a diplomat. Dealing with the government of the most populous country in the world can be an intimidating task. Ambassador Sasser rose to the challenge and quickly established amicable relationships with the Premier of China, knowing that Sino-American relations were at an all-time low, Ambassador Sasser went to the People’s Republic of China with the same diligence that distinguished him as a Senator. The first note that he sent the Chinese Embassy read, “We may doze, but we never close,” typifies the job that Ambassador Sasser did for three remarkable years.

of any American Ambassador to China, Jim Sasser has accomplished so much in helping to improve Sino-American relations. His achievements are numerous and commendable. Ambassador Sasser’s service has helped advance cooperation between American and Chinese political and security officials. Economic relations between our two countries have improved under Ambassador Sasser’s leadership including ongoing negotiations for admitting China into the World Trade Organization. In the area of nuclear non-proliferation, Ambassador Sasser has seen the Chinese government address U.S. concerns about providing assistance to rogue nations, as well as issuing a State Council directive controlling export of dual-use items with potential nuclear weapons uses. The U.S. Embassy in China has also helped to secure relief assistance to Chinese earthquake victims. The list of accomplishments of Ambassador Sasser and his corps of diplomatic officials goes on and on. His record as Ambassador speaks for itself.

Although United States-China relations have been damaged by the accidental bombing of the Belgrade embassy, we can say that relations with China are better now than they were 3 years ago when Ambassador Sasser assumed his post in Beijing.

Now that Jim and Mary have returned safely home, I would like to take one final opportunity to thank them and their family for their courageous service and commitment to serving America in China. I have to agree with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger’s assessment of Ambassador Sasser as “the best Ambassador to China we’ve ever had”. To Jim Sasser and his family, I say maholo nui loa, thank you very much, for your service and bid you aloha, welcome home.

CHANGES TO THE BUDGETARY AGGREGATES AND APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE ALLOCATION

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, section 314(b)(5) of the Congressional Budget Act, as amended, requires the chairman of the Senate Budget Committee to adjust the appropriate budget aggregates and the allocation for the Appropriations Committee to reflect an amount provided for an earned income tax credit compliance initiative.

I hereby submit revisions to the 2000 Senate Appropriations Committee allocations, pursuant to section 302 of the Congressional Budget Act, in the following amounts:

THE SUPREME COURT’S END-OF-TERM DECISIONS

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, the Supreme Court ended its term last week with a trio of deeply disturbing decisions regarding the role of the States and Congress in our federal system. In Parden v. Maine, the Court made it impossible for State employees to enforce their rights under the Fair Labor Standards Act, which for decades has guaranteed public and private employees nationwide a fair minimum wage.

In College Savings Bank, the Court deprived private parties of the ability to enforce federal unfair competition law against the States. And in Florida Prepaid, the Court held that Congress can execute its constitutional mandate to protect patents as against States only if the Court is satisfied that there is a sufficient “pattern of constitutional violations” of patent rights by the States. The Court also made an unprecedented suggestion about how we must write legislation: that we must expressly invoke a constitutional provision before it will honor our authority to legislate.

These three decisions, all by the same bare majority, are disturbing on three fronts. First, they seem to be premised on obsolete notions of natural law, with no basis in the text of the Constitution, and they expressly depart from established constitutional precedent. Second, they will make it harder for ordinary Americans to enforce their federal protected rights against the States. Third, they will make it far more difficult for Congress to enforce uniform policies on matters of national concern.

Justice Souter has eloquently explained how the Court’s decisions will harm individuals living in the Aliden case, Justice Souter pointed out that the majority’s decision left Maine’s employees with a federal right to get paid for overtime work, but no way to enforce it. This flies in the face of logic, precedent, and common sense. As every first-year law student knows, where there is a right, there must be a remedy.

The maintenance of State sovereignty is clearly a matter of great importance. For this reason, I have been critical of the increasing intrusion of federal regulation into areas traditionally reserved to the States.

In particular, I have expressed concern about the seeming uncontrolable impulse to react to the latest headline-grabbing criminal caper with a new federal prohibition. This Congress has also extended the federalization of State laws to civil law matters traditionally the province of the States, as in the Y2K bill. But though I watch the federalization of the law with concern, I cannot agree with the Court’s decisions, which privilege States’ rights over those of both the individual citizen and the federal Government. It is one that Congress should forbear from interfering in areas that are adequately regulated by the States; it is quite another thing to say that Congress may not exercise its constitutionally-delegated authority even when the national interest so demands.

We on the Senate Judiciary Committee hear a good deal of rhetoric about judicial activism. Here we have the real thing. The Court’s so-called conservatives, who routinely limit individual constitutional rights on the basis of supposed strict adherence to the constitutional text, have suddenly developed a natural law concept of State sovereignty that even they admit has no basis in the constitutional text.

These conservative activists have reached out to overrule solid legal precedent. Thirty-five years ago, in Parden v. Terminal Railway Company, the Court held that States may lose the community by engaging in ordinary commercial ventures. This makes a good deal of sense.

Why should States that choose to act outside their core sovereign powers and compete in the marketplace get an edge over their regulated private competitors? Certainly, nothing in the Constitution suggests that they should. By overruling Parden, the Court’s “conservatives” abandoned all pretense of judicial restraint.

Let me turn next to the flip-side of the Court’s new emphasis on State’s rights. In strengthening the power of the States, the Court has weakened the power of Congress and the federal Government.

We should, I believe, pay particular attention to the Court’s restrictive reading of Congress’s authority to enforce the Fourteenth Amendment.

This amendment grants the Congress the power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the federal constitutional rights. Last week, for the second time in as many years, the Court invalidated an Act of Congress because of the perceived deficiency of the legislative
The Court, in its decisions, will have far-reaching consequences about how these intellectual property rights may be protected against even egregious infringements and violations by the States. For example, in light of the Court's decisions, will Congress now have to write one law for private universities, libraries and educational institutions, while State-run institutions are free to do whatever they please.

The Religious Liberty Protection Act, which was recently reported by the House Judiciary Committee, is an important congressional effort to protect religious liberty after the Court struck down our previous attempt in the 1997 City of Boerne case. To the extent that will rest on the authority under the Fourteenth Amendment, we must now do the work of an administrative agency to develop an evidentiary record that will satisfy the Supreme Court.

The end-of-term decisions will also make it harder for Congress to design a uniform system that will apply throughout the nation to protect important intellectual property interests. Intellectual property rights are deeply rooted in the Constitution, which provides in Article I that "The Congress shall have power . . . [t]o promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to inventors of copyrighted and patented their respective writings and discoveries." I have worked hard over the years to provide the creators and inventors of copyrighted and patented works with the protection they may need in our global economy.

Yet the Court's decisions have far-reaching consequences about how these intellectual property rights may be protected against even egregious infringements and violations by the States. For example, in light of the Court's decisions, will Congress now have to write one law for private universities, libraries and educational institutions, while State-run institutions are free to do whatever they please. This is a matter that Chairman Hatch and I will have to examine very closely in the Judiciary Committee as we consider a host of intellectual property matters ranging from distance education, database protection, cyberpiracy of domain names, and others.

The Court's new conception of federalism poses an interesting challenge to Congress. Over the coming years, we can expect a flurry of lawsuits aimed at testing the limits of last week's rulings. The Court's decisions are, of course, not the end of the story; they are, in fact, only the beginning. In the interim, however, we need to be prepared. I will work with my colleagues to Congress to fulfill the promise of the Constitution, which guarantees national supremacy to federal law and to federally-protected rights.

At least three paths remain open to us. First, Congress can require States to waive their immunity from suit as a condition of receiving federal funds. Second, since the States are not immune from suit by the federal Government, Congress can empower federal authorities under the Fourteenth Amendment to Congress to fulfill the promise of the Constitution, which guarantees national supremacy to federal law and to federally-protected rights.

I urge all Senators to study the Court's decisions. We need to work together with a clear understanding of the Court's new constitutional order.

KAREN SCHREIER'S CONFIRMATION AS UNITED STATES FEDERAL DISTRICT JUDGE FOR SOUTH DAKOTA

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I rise today to express my appreciation of my colleagues for their overwhelming bipartisan support for confirmation of Karen Schreier as a United States Federal District Judge for South Dakota.

It is of historic note that Karen is about to become the first female federal judge in South Dakota's 110-year history, and her outstanding achievements as an attorney, community leader, and federal judge will serve as a model for countless other talented young women throughout our state—both men and women. Most importantly, however, her ascension to the federal bench is a victory for justice and the rule of law. South Dakota and our nation will be well served by Karen Schreier's tenure as Federal District Judge for South Dakota.

I also must observe that even the most talented of individuals does not achieve the highest career success without the support and assistance of those important people in their lives. I had the great honor and pleasure of serving in the South Dakota legislature with Karen's father, Harold Schreier. Harold represented the very best of public service in our state, and I know that Karen's success would be of enormous pride and satisfaction to him. Karen's mother, Maycie Schreier, has been a wonderful resource in the Flandreau community in her own right, and her values and determination are reflected in her daughter. Karen's husband, Tim Dougherty, is a talented lawyer, community leader and source of never-ending support and encouragement. Tim's father, Bill Dougherty, has for many years been one of South Dakota's foremost political leaders and voice for common-sense and progressive public policy. Bill has been the father of a great deal of legislative accomplishment in our state, but I have a feeling that Karen's success will always be one of his greatest sources of pride.

Mr. President, it is with wonderful personal satisfaction, that I can today offer my congratulations to Karen Schreier on her confirmation. Congratulations as well, to the Schreier and Dougherty families—outstanding South Dakota families, and valued personal friends!
area. I will do all I can to assist in "clean" passage of this legislation, without the burden of multiple amendments that will fracture the consensus that has developed.

S. 1100 simply requires that the designation of critical habitat for an endangered species occur, in the future, after the scientific work necessary to develop a comprehensive recovery plan for that species is completed. That sounds logical to my colleagues, I suspect, but the present Endangered Species Act provides for just the opposite: that is, it requires a designation of habitat before science has told us what a species needs to survive.

I have been asked what relationship exists between S. 1100 and the Rio Grandesilver minnow minnow situation. The answer will clearly depend on how the courts resolve this particular case. However, S. 1100 provides that designation of critical habitat should occur concurrently with the development of a recovery plan. That is a significant step forward, but only a first step. It will also not be the only action taken on the Rio Grande in the future.

A court has forced the Fish and Wildlife Service to prematurely designate critical habitat, a premature designation that everyone agrees could be counter-productive. Mr. President, you know that a full Environmental Impact Statement is required by law in the case of a "major federal action." If any case proceeds out of a full EIS, it is the case of the silvery minnow. The potential impact of this federal action by the Fish and Wildlife Service, compelled by the court, could have consequences well beyond the normal definition of the word "major." At stake is the water, literally the water used every second of every day by all users of the Rio Grande system. Unfortunately, even with legal precedent on the need for an EIS in habitat designations, the Fish and Wildlife Service chose not to do one.

Some try to portray this particular case as one dividing farmers and ranchers from the more extreme environmentalists in our state, a situation described quite accurately and colorfully by Secretary Babbitt earlier this year as "intransigence." Yet, this issue is much broader than that kind of confrontation: hundreds of thousands of users, people who depend upon the Rio Grande for their water in their taps at home, residents of Santa Fe and Albuquerque, and the communities in between, could find their water endangered.

In light of this potential, I believe that a full-scale Environmental Impact Statement must be done on the silvery minnow issue. It is only after we know the impact that critical habitat designation may have on all users, and its relationship to saving the species, that we can intelligently move forward. A BUDGET SURPLUS TO REFORM AMERICA'S PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I want to spend a few moments today to talk about one of the great questions to which I believe the Senate has yet to take a stand. That is the question of reform in our public school system. And Mr. President, I would suggest that today the responsibility to be creative, to be resourceful, and to empower our schools resides right here in the United States Senate.

I am grateful that President Clinton has recently taken a position a number of us have advocated in this age of budget surpluses. Now it's time for all of us to acknowledge that some proportion of these projected budget surpluses should be set aside for education reform—set aside in a lockbox. And, Mr. President, I would suggest that we should all be able to agree that any budget we conclude this year—if it is a major budget that American people's most urgent need—must include more funding for school reform.

Let's be honest—as a society, there is no decision of greater importance to the viability, and the competitiveness of this nation than the way we decide to educate our children. We look to public schools today to educate our children to lead in an information age and a global economy where borders have never been more permeable and the wealth of nations will be determined by the wisdom of their workers—by their level of training, the depth of their knowledge, and their ability to compete with workers around the world.

Mr. President, two hundred years ago Thomas Jefferson told us that our public schools would be "the pillars of the republic"—he was right then, he is right now—but today there is a caveat: those public schools must also be more than ever—the pillars of our economy and the pillars of our communities.

And I would respectfully suggest to you that there has not been a more urgent time to reevaluate the way America's greatest democratic experiment is working—the experiment of our nation's public schools. Those pillars of the republic have never before had to support so heavy a burden as that which we are facing today. In our world of telecommuting; the Internet; hundreds and soon thousands of television channels; sixty, seventy and eighty hour work weeks—there are fewer and fewer places where American come together in person to share in that common civic culture, fewer ways in which we unite as citizens. And more reasons, I believe, why this nation must have a great public school system.

And when we look at the system before us today? I think we must say that—although there are thousands of public schools in this country doing a magnificent job of educating our children to a world class level—too many of our schools are struggling and too many kids are being left behind.

I believe we have a responsibility to be the true friends of public education—and the best friends are critical friends, and it is time that we seek the truth and offer our help to a system that is not doing enough for a large proportion of the 50 million children in our public schools today—children reading at that of 26 million graduating high school students, one-third are below basic reading level, one-third are at basic, only one-third are proficient and only 100,000 are at a world class reading level; children whose parents go out only South Africa and Cyprus on international tests in science and math, with 29 percent of all college freshmen requiring remedial classes in basic skills.

This year we have already passed the Ed-Flex Bill, a step forward in giving our schools the flexibility and the accountability they need to enact reform, making it a matter of law that we won't tie their hands with red tape and that the race ceiling which local school districts are doing all they can to educate our kids, but also emphasizing that with added flexibility comes a responsibility to raise student achievement.

In light of this potential, I believe that a full-scale Environmental Impact Statement must be done on the silvery minnow issue. It is only after we know the impact that critical habitat designation may have on all users, and its relationship to saving the species, that we can intelligently move forward.
We all need to do our part to find a new answer, and Mr. President I would respectfully suggest that in the bipartisan support you see for this approach, there is a different road we can meet on to make it happen.

For the first time in the history of the American people, introducing the kind of comprehensive education reform legislation that I believe will provide us a chance to come together not as Democrats and Republicans, but as the true friends of parents, children, teachers, and principals—to come together as citizens—and help our schools reclaim the promise of public education in this country. We need to ask one question: “What provides our children with the best education?” And whether the answer is conservative, liberal or simply pragmatic, we need to commit ourselves to that course.

Our bill is built on the notion of providing grants for schools with real accountability to pursue comprehensive reform and adopt the proven best practices of other schools—Voluntary State Reform Incentive Grants so school districts that choose to finance and implement comprehensive reform based on proven high-performance models can bring forth change. We will target at-risk students with high numbers of at-risk students and leverage local dollars through matching grants. This component of legislation will give schools the chance to quickly and easily put in place the best of what works in any other school—private parochial or public—with decentralized control, site-based management, parental engagement, and high levels of volunteerism—while at the same time meeting high standards of student achievement and public accountability. I believe public schools need to have the chance to make changes not tomorrow, not five years from now, not after another study—but now—today.

So, Mr. President, I embrace this new framework—every school adopting the best practices of high achieving schools, building accountability into the system—what then are the key ingredients of excellence that every school needs to succeed?

Well, I think we can start by guaranteeing that every one of our nation’s 80,000 principals have the capacity to lead—the talents and the know-how to do the job; effective leadership skills; the will to use an effective way to recruit, hire, and transfer teachers and engage parents. Without those abilities, the title of principal and the freedom to lead means little. We are proposing an “Excellent Principals Challenge Grant” which would provide funds to local school districts to attract principals in sound management skills and effective classroom practices. This bill helps our schools make being a principal the great calling of their time. But as we set sights on recruiting a new generation of effective principals, we must acknowledge what today’s best principals know: principals can only produce results as good as the teachers with whom they must work. To get the best results, we need the best teachers. And we must act immediately to guarantee that we get the best as the United States hires 2 million new teachers in the next ten years, a 50% increase in just seven years. In the Kerry-Smith Bill we will empower our states and school districts to find new ways to hire and train outstanding teachers: through a focus on teacher quality and training—in Title V of this bill—we can use financial incentives to attract a larger group of qualified people into the teaching profession and we can provide real ongoing education and continued training for our nation’s teachers.

This legislation will allow states to reconfigure their certification policies and their teaching standards to address the reality that our standards for teachers are not high enough—and at the same time, they are too rigid in setting out irrelevant requirements that keep school choice better; they make it harder for some who choose to teach. We know we need to streamline teacher certification rules in this country to recruit the best college graduates to teach in the United States. Today, our 80,000 principals are unsucessfully education majors to teach, and liberal arts graduates are only welcomed in our country’s top private schools. Our legislation will allow states to rewrite the rules so principals have a far greater flexibility to hire liberal arts graduates as teachers, graduates who can meet high standards; while at the same time allowing hundreds of thousands more teachers to achieve a more broad based meaningful certification—the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards certification with its rigorous test of subject matter knowledge and teaching ability. This legislation will build a new teacher recruitment system for our schools and the education majors to teach. We will demand a great deal from our principals and our teachers—holding them accountable for student achievement—but Mr. President we also hope to build a new consensus in America that recognizes that you can’t hold someone accountable if they don’t have the tools to succeed.

Our bill helps to close the resource gap in public education: helping to eliminate the crime that turns too many hallways and classrooms into arenas of violence by giving school districts incentives to write discipline codes and create “Second Chance” schools with a range of alternatives for chronically disruptive and violent students—everything from short-term in-school suspension centers, to medium duration in-school suspension rooms, to high quality out-campus alternatives. This legislation will allow states to rewrite the rules so principals have a far greater flexibility to hire liberal arts graduates to teach. We know we need to streamline teacher certification rules in this country to recruit the best college graduates to teach in the United States.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I rise today because I am concerned that there is a growing national crisis in America. Although we do not know its exact dimensions, the early evidence is extremely troubling.

Nearly three years ago, against my objections, Congress passed and President Clinton signed the welfare reform law. The stated purpose of the law was to move people off welfare and toward economic self-sufficiency.

By now, we all know that the welfare caseloads have dramatically declined. The welfare caseloads are at their lowest point in 30 years. Since welfare reform became law, 16 million families have left the welfare rolls. Approximately 4.6 million are no longer receiving cash assistance. Clearly, the law has been successful at moving people off welfare. On this basis, nearly everyone is jumping at the opportunity to proclaim welfare reform as a “success.” But, Mr. President, I have my doubts. How can we call welfare reform a success without knowing what has happened to those people after leaving welfare? How can we call it a success without knowing how people are doing?

Mr. President, declining caseloads do not answer the fundamentally important questions. They don’t tell us if families are moving toward economic self-sufficiency. They don’t tell us if people have been able to escape poverty. They don’t tell us if mothers have been able to find work. They don’t tell us if children have food and are covered by health insurance.

Mr. President, as I have already suggested, I am here today because of my deep concern for the millions of Americans who struggle each day to get by. These are the people who worry about: How to keep a roof over their families’ heads, How to get food in their children’s stomachs, How to earn a wage that pays their bills, and How to obtain medical help when they are sick.

I am especially concerned about our nation’s children who all too often are the innocent victims of poverty.

Mr. President, we live in the richest country in the world. We live in a nation that has been called “an unprecedented period of prosperity.” But Mr. President, this prosperity has not extended to all families and their children. While our country is supposedly doing so well, we’ve got about 14 million—That’s one in five—children living in poverty. And, 6.5 million children live in extreme poverty. Their family income is less than one-half the poverty line.

This poverty has profoundly terrible consequences on the lives of children. On the basis of research, we now know that poverty is a greater risk to children’s overall health status than living in a single-parent family. A baby born poor is less likely to be alive to celebrate its first birthday than a baby born to an unwed mother, a high school dropout, or a mother who smoked during pregnancy.

Mr. President, poor children must walk a gauntlet of troubles that begin even before they are born and often last a lifetime. Not only are poor children more likely to die during childhood, they are:

- More likely to have low birth weights and be born premature; More likely to be small; More likely to be blind; More likely to have serious physical or mental disabilities, and More likely to suffer from stunted growth.

Mr. President, I am worried that welfare reform is making these problems worse. In other words, since welfare reform was enacted, the number of poor children has increased by 20 percent.

Mr. President, we live in the richest country in the world. People who work hard should be able to support their families. But, Mr. President, welfare reform failed to make the commitment—Together, Democrats and Republicans—to give every school the chance to give every child in our country a world class education. That is an investment we can not afford to pass up—and Mr. President, this is the time to do it. I look forward to working with all colleagues, Mr. President, in fashioning a budget that takes serious the American people’s call for real and comprehensive education reform.

WELFARE REFORM

Mr. President, as I have already suggested, I am here today because of my deep concern for the millions of Americans who struggle each day to get by. These are the people who worry about: How to keep a roof over their families’ heads, How to get food in their children’s stomachs, How to earn a wage that pays their bills, and How to obtain medical help when they are sick.

I am concerned that in this time when the budget has not yet been passed, the real answers are being left unanswered. I hope that the drop means that fewer are going hungry. But, I have my doubts.

If people are no longer needy, then how can we account for the fact that 78 percent of cities surveyed by the United States Conference of Mayors for its Report on Hunger reported increases in requests for emergency food in 1998?

If people are no longer needy, then how can we explain why Catholic Charities USA reported early this year that 73 percent of dioceses has increased of as much as 145 percent in requests for emergency food assistance compared to a year before.

Mr. President, how can we account for these findings without questioning whether the reformers’ claims of success are premature?

What is going on here? A story from the New York Times suggests one troubling explanation:

“One welfare recipient was told I correctly . . . that she could not get food stamps without welfare. So, though she was raising a family of five children and sometimes goes hungry, she has not applied [for food stamps]. . . . They referred me to the food pantry,” she said. “They don’t tell you what you really need to know. They tell you what they want you to know.” (4/17/99).

Mr. President, I am here today to propose an amendment. It is an amendment that I hope will receive widespread support. It is a simple and straightforward. It will help us find out how people who have left welfare are doing. It will provide us with the information we need in order to properly evaluate the success or failure of welfare reform.

My amendment would add three more criteria:

- Food participation among poor children.

The proportion of families leaving TANF who are covered by Medicaid or child health insurance, and

The number of children in working poor families who receive some form of subsidized child care.

Mr. President, some of my colleagues might suggest that these additional requirements will be too difficult for the states to meet. I will address this issue in detail in a little while. Right now, let me just reassure everyone that no state will be required to conduct any new surveys. In fact, no state will have to collect any new data. All that my amendment will require is that states report data they already have.

My amendment would add three more criteria:

- Food participation among poor children.

The proportion of families leaving TANF who are covered by Medicaid or child health insurance, and

The number of children in working poor families who receive some form of subsidized child care.
Mr. President, the purpose of my amendment is to help us to understand at a national level what is happening in our country in the wake of welfare reform. I’ve spent a lot of time trying to figure this out and have come to the conclusion that what we currently know is not sufficient. I am not alone in this belief. One of the organizations I work is called NETWORK. It’s a National Catholic Social Justice lobby. The people at NETWORK wrote the following in their recent report on welfare reform:

Even though government officials are quick to point out that national welfare caseloads are at their lowest point in 30 years, they are unable to tell us for the most part what is happening to people after they leave the welfare rolls—and what is happening to people living in poverty who never received assistance in the first place.

Mr. President, although we lack a national portrait, some of the research I read about what is going on in the states deeply concerns me.

For example: In Alabama, a professor found that intake workers gave public assistance applications to only 6 out of 27 under-age pregnant women. When questioned, despite state policy that says that anyone who asks for an application should get one.

In Arizona, after holding fairly steady from 1990 to 1993, the number of meals distributed through Arizona’s state food-pantry network has since risen 50 percent.

In California, tens of thousands of welfare beneficiaries are dropped each month as punishment. In total, half of those leaving welfare are doing so because they did not follow the rules.

In Florida, more than 15,000 families left welfare during a typical month last year. About 3,600 reported finding work, but nearly 4,200 left because they were punished. The state doesn’t know what happened to the other 7,500.

In Georgia, nearly half of the homeless families interviewed in shelters and other homeless facilities had lost TANF benefits in the previous 12 months.

In Iowa, 47 percent of those who left welfare did so because they did not comply with requirements such as going to job interviews or providing paperwork. And in Iowa’s PROMISE OBS experiment, the majority of families punished for failure to meet welfare requirements told researchers that they didn’t understand those requirements.

In my own State of Minnesota, care managers found that penalized families were twice as likely to have serious mental health problems, three times as likely to have low intellectual ability, and five times more likely to have family violence problems when compared with other recipients.

In the Mississippi Delta, workforce replete conclusion that what we currently bus for two hours to their assigned work places, work their full days, and then return—another two hours—home each night. It is no surprise, therefore, that they are having trouble finding child care during these nontraditional hours, and for such extended days.

In New York, a September 1998 survey found that 71 percent of former recipients who last received TANF in March 1997 did not have any employer-reported earnings.

In a rural Appalachian community in Ohio, there is a lack of jobs at decent wages that has resulted in dramatic increases in rural poverty. The Congressional Hunger Center tells us that, “As people are being moved off of the rolls in rural areas, there is very little support structure to help them become self-sufficient—government programs are unavailable due to time limits, there is little private industry in the area, and neighbors struggle to get by on their own.”

And then there is the so-called success story in Wisconsin. Only one in four families that permanently leave welfare have incomes above the poverty line. The typical recipient actually lost income during the year after leaving welfare. Only one in three of those who left welfare increased their income substantially. Wisconsin’s Work First experiment, the majority of families leaving welfare have been able to escape poverty. So far, few families who leave welfare have been able to escape poverty.

And then there is the recent study by Families USA, which presents a very troubling set of findings. Over two-thirds of a million low-income people—approximately 675,000—lost Medical coverage and became uninsured as of 1997 due to welfare reform. The majority (62 percent) of those losing coverage were children, and most of those children were, in all likelihood, still eligible for coverage under Medicaid. Moreover, the number of people who lose health coverage due to welfare reform is certain to grow rather substantially in the years ahead.

Mr. President, sometimes with all these numbers and studies we lose sight of the fact that they are based on the lives of real people who want the best for themselves and their children. But, we must not forget this reality.

Here is the story of one family that one of the Sisters in the NETWORK study worked with.

Martha and her seven-year-old child, David, live in Chicago. She recently began working, but her 37-hour a week job pays only $6.00 an hour. In order to work, Martha must have childcare for David. Since he goes to school, she found a sitter who would receive him at 7 a.m. and take him to school. This sitter provided after school care as well. When Sister Joan sat down with Martha to talk about her finances, they discovered that her salary does not even cover the sitter’s costs.

The data show that people who stopped getting welfare were:

Less likely to get food stamps; Less likely to get Medicaid; More likely to go without food for a day or more; More likely to move because they could not pay rent; More likely to have a child who lived away or was in foster care; More likely to have difficulty paying for and getting child care, and; More likely to say “my life is worse” compared to six months ago.

The National Conference of State Legislatures’ annual state studies with good information about families leaving welfare. It found:

Most of the jobs that former recipients get pay between $5.50 and $7 an hour, higher than minimum wage but not enough to raise a family out of poverty. So far, few families who leave welfare have been able to escape poverty.

And then there is the recent study by Families USA, which presents a very troubling set of findings. nor have a parent with a job. We don’t know for certain how large this population is, but in the NETWORK study 79% of the people were unemployed and not receiving welfare benefits. Of course this study was focused on the hardest core, so we estimate the overall percentage of former recipients who are unemployed. But, it still represents a 50% increase over the level it found before welfare reform.

How are these families surviving? Mr. President, I confess I don’t want to know. These are no longer receiving aid and they don’t have jobs. They are literally falling through the cracks and disappearing. I call these families, which are composed primarily of women and their children, The Disappeared Americans.

We must find out what is going on. That is why this amendment is so important. It will provide us with valuable information we need in order to be responsible policymakers.

Mr. President, this is not the first time I have come to the floor of the US Senate to offer an amendment designed to find out what is happening to poor people in this country. Last month I offered a similar amendment and it lost by one vote. Though 50 Senators voted against it, not one spoke in opposition. Not a single Senator rose to debate me on the merits of the measure. At that time, I promised and I would return to the Senate floor with the amendment, and today I am fulfilling my promise.

Since I first offered the amendment, we have received some valuable input about the best way to gather the kind of data we need to understand on a national level what is going on. In the original amendment, states would have been required to conduct new studies to track all former TANF recipients. In the version of the amendment I offer today, states can simply rely on administration data that they already collect. For example, in order to provide Medicaid and child health insurance data, states would just have to do a match between their TANF and Medicaid/CHIP computer systems. And, if states choose not to apply for the TANF bonus money, they would only need to provide data on a valid sample of former recipients, not the entire population.

In other words, Mr. President, we have worked the amendment to make it significantly less burdensome of the Secretary of HHS and the states.

Frankly, with these changes, I don’t see a reason why anyone would vote against this amendment. If there is going to be opposition, I expect that we will have a debate. Let’s identify our differences and debate them.

Mr. President, let me wrap things up by reminding us all that it is our duty and our responsibility to make sure that the goal of welfare reform for the good of the people actually are doing good for them. Evaluation is one of the key ingredients in good policy making and it does not take a degree in political science to realize what anyone with common sense already knows: When you try something new, you need to find out how it works.

As policy makers—regardless of our ideology or intuitions—it is our role to ensure that the programs we enact to provide for American families’ well-being are effective and produce the outcomes we intend.

We need to know what is happening with the families who are affected by welfare reform. We need to know whether our policies are helping low income mothers and their children build a path to escape poverty and move toward economic self-sufficiency.

As I have already explained, the data we do have does not provide us with all the information we need. We need to go beyond simply assuming that welfare and food stamp declines are “good” news.

The Swedish sociologist Gunnar Myrdal once said, “Ignorance is never random.” Sometimes we choose not to know what we do not want to know. In the case of welfare reform, we must have the courage to find out.

PLIGHT OF THE DOMESTIC OIL AND GAS INDUSTRY

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, the Wall Street Journal yesterday wrote: What is not in dispute is how hard a hit small domestic oil took during the recent downturn in oil prices. While larger oil companies with their huge assets and integrated businesses were able to weather the storm, many of the smaller producers, which operate on low margins and miniscule volumes, lurched toward ruin.

These small producers, who mop up the tailings of the country’s once-great oil fields primarily in the West and the Midwest collectively produce about 1.4 million barrels of oil daily, an amount roughly equivalent to that imported to Saudi Arabia. And the total number of subsistence wells, defined as those producing less than 10 barrels of crude a day or less were abandoned at an accelerated rate during the downturn, experts say.

Independent oil and gas producers have wells in 32 States. Senators from these producing States have heard the story from the producers, oil and gas service small businesses, Governors, mayors and county commissioners. The situation was so bad in Oklahoma that the Governor held a special session of the legislature. In New Mexico, we have oil and gas producers organizing marches and rallies calling attention to their crisis. When the oil and gas industry suffers, so does Federal, State and local governments. The recent oil and gas crisis has cost States and localities $2.1 billion in lost royalties alone.
program for oil, gas and steel—two important core industries. I am hopeful that the House will quickly name conferees and move the bill through the legislative process. Domestic oil and gas production is America's true national strategic petroleum reserve and we need to make sure there is an industry in the U.S. capable of meeting our strategic oil and gas needs.

I ask unanimous consent that an article that appeared in the June 30, 1999, Wall Street Journal be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

OIL PRODUCERS FILE ANTIDUMPING SUIT
GROUP OF INDEPENDENT FIRMS SAYS FOUR COUNTRIES SOLD CHEAP PRICES IN U.S.

(By Helene Cooper and Christopher Cooper)

WASHINGTON—Thirty years ago, after a two-day debate over the difference between material and immaterial injury, the U.S. Supreme Court gutted America's dense antidumping laws, Sen. Russell Long issued a commentary still bandied about in international trade corridors today. The ante was up, he said, "The odds look like the difference between mambu-jumbo and jumbo-jumbo." Yesterday, that same mambu-jumbo erupted into a to-do that could smash consumers right in the wallets—and just before an election year, no less. A group of independent oil producers has filed an antidumping suit with the Commerce Department and the International Trade Commission. The oil companies—representing an industry that 20 years ago was kept to prices 83 to 90% of the market—today are data that the four countries "dumped" cheap oil on the U.S. market in 1998 and 1999.

The group, called Save Domestic Oil Inc., wants the Clinton administration to impose dumping duties on oil from the four alleged offenders—Mexico, Venezuela, Saudi Arabia and Iraq—which together account for more than half of the oil imported into the U.S.

The duties requested range from 33.37% (Mexico) to 177.52% (Venezuela). Many of the bigger U.S. oil companies, which import much of their oil in Japan at higher prices than the oil sold in the U.S. at below the cost of production—the most widely accepted definition of dumping. Saudi Arabia, they complain, sold oil in Japan at higher prices than the oil it sold in the U.S.

Most trade lawyers say the oilmen have a good shot at victory. That's because U.S. antidumping laws, which were a way to limit imports in the 1930s, has been refined by successive lawmakers to heavily favor the plaintiff. Indeed, in more than 90% of the cases filed, the Commerce Department finds in favor of the plaintiff.

The case will work its way through the Commerce Department and the International Trade Commission. The Commerce Department has 60 days to decide whether to initiate an investigation. If the investigation goes forward, the department has 13 months to determine whether dumping occurred. The ITC then determines whether "material injury" to the oilmen occurred. Duties, if warranted, would follow.

The four countries deny the allegations and say they will fight them. Roberto Mandini, president of Venezuelan state oil monopoly Petroleos De Venezuela SA, says that country's oil is "not even close to $10 earlier this year before rebounding in the second quarter.

And the total amount in the cartel was likely exceeded by the Interstate Oil and Gas Compact Commission as one of 10 barrels of crude a day or less, were abandoned at an accelerated rate during the downturn, experts say.

EFFECTIVE EXPORT CONTROLS

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I wish to call attention to an important Governmental Affairs Committee hearing on export controls held last week.

In August 1998, the Chairman of the Governmental Affairs Committee requested the Inspectors General of the Departments of Commerce, Defense, Energy, State, and Treasury and the Central Intelligence Agency to conduct a review of their export license processes and to follow-up on an earlier set of reports that were done in 1993.

In their reports and at the hearing, the Inspectors General raised a number of important issues, which I believe, will require further oversight and clarification. These issues are especially important in light of the recent Cox Committee Report which highlighted espionage activities at our National Laboratories and the release of classified nuclear information. As we begin to debate the reauthorization of the Export Administration Act, the recommendations made by the Inspectors General should be considered in this context.

The Inspectors General concluded that the export control processes work relatively well, but they also highlighted additional issues that the Congress should continue to monitor. Certain of these issues are:

Inadequate monitoring by our National Laboratories of foreign visitors, who may be exposed to controlled technology which may require an export license.

Inadequate analysis by all of the agencies of the cumulative effect of dual-use and munitions list exports to a particular country or end-user.

Need to upgrade certain computer systems used in the export process.

Improve monitoring of conditions placed on licenses to ensure that sophisticated items are not diverted.

Enhance the processes for pre-license checks and post-shipment verifications of certain exports.

Enhance training and guidance of Licencing Officers.

I look forward to the Governmental Affairs Committee holding further hearings on this subject. We must ensure that the United States maintains an efficient and effective export control system. Further, an additional oversight on this issue will help ensure that exports of dual-use and munitions items will not go to rogue nations or individuals.
Our hearing last week raised important national security and proliferation issues, and I commend Senator Thompson and Senator Lieberman, the ranking member of the Governmental Affairs Committee, for their leadership.

CBO COST ESTIMATE OF S. 1287

Mr. MURkowski. Mr. President, in compliance with paragraph 11(a) of rule XXV of the Standing Rules of the Senate, the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources has obtained a letter from the Congressional Budget Office containing a cost estimate of the costs of S. 1287, the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1999, as reported from the Committee. In addition, pursuant to Public Law 104-4, the letter contains the opinion of the Congressional Budget Office regarding whether the S. 1287 contains intergovernmental mandates, as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA). We estimate that the costs incurred by state and local governments would not significantly exceed the threshold established in the law ($50 million in 1999, adjusted annually for inflation). This bill contains no new private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA.

Estimated cost to the Federal Government: The estimated budgetary impact of this bill is shown in the following table. The costs of this legislation fall within budget functions 270 and 050 (energy and defense).

| Basis of estimate: This estimate is based on DOE’s current plan for the nuclear waste program, and for purposes of this estimate, CBO assumes the bill will be enacted before the end of fiscal year 1999.
| Pay-as-you-go considerations: None. |

Additional costs would be incurred after 2004 to construct a permanent repository at Yucca Mountain if the NRC issues a license to the department. In its December 1998 report, Analysis of the Total System Life Cycle Cost of the Civilian Radioactive Waste Management Program, DOE estimates the cost to complete the program is approximately $26.6 billion in 1996 dollars.

Backup storage. Section 102 would direct DOE to establish a program to assure availability of nuclear waste that the NRC determines cannot be stored at a utility’s site, provided that such a program would be focused on the immediate costs associated with DOE’s failure to begin disposing of waste in 1998. DOE would be required to transport this waste to the Yucca Mountain site following authorization to construct a permanent repository there, or to transport it to a privately run facility for nuclear waste. DOE could incur additional discretionary costs, for building waste storage capacity at the Yucca Mountain site before the facility opened or transporting waste from a private storage facility (if any), but CBO estimates that costs would be avoidable delay in the schedule for disposing of waste.

Settlement agreements. Section 105 would allow DOE to enter into settlement agreements with any utilities that were scheduled to have nuclear waste removed from their sites by DOE starting on January 31, 1998. If a utility waives any claim for damages against the United States because of DOE’s failure to begin disposing of waste in 1998, then the department may take title to the utility’s waste, provide waste storage casks to the utility, operate an existing dry cask storage facility for the utility, or compensate the utility for providing storage for this waste at the utility’s site. The bill would restrict DOE from making expenditures from the Nuclear Waste Fund to pay any settlement agreement that would otherwise be incurred under the existing contracts for nuclear waste disposal between DOE and nuclear utilities.

This estimate does not include any additional discretionary costs for settlement agreements that may be entered into between DOE and nuclear utilities as a result of entering into agreements under the State and Local Government Consent Decree. DOE and the states have negotiated a consent agreement that is consistent with the standard contract for nuclear waste disposal between the department and the nuclear utilities, and these parties may reduce the amount of the nuclear waste fee (referred to as “fee credits”) paid to the government by the utilities in the event of an avoidable delay in the schedule for disposing of waste. CBO has assumed that DOE and those utilities that have experienced an avoidable delay in the disposal of their waste will choose to invoke this provision of their contracts and that the mandatory nuclear waste fee will be reduced by a total of about $400 million over the 2000–2004 period.

Basis of estimate: This estimate is based on DOE’s current plan for the nuclear waste program, and for purposes of this estimate, CBO assumes the bill will be enacted before the end of fiscal year 1999. We assume DOE would apply to the NRC for authorization to build a permanent repository at the Yucca Mountain site by March 31, 2002, so that the NRC may decide whether to authorize construction by December 31, 2006, as directed by section 203 of this bill. Yucca Mountain. This legislation would authorize DOE to proceed with its Civilian Radioactive Waste Management Report of july 1998. This plan calls for continuing to evaluate the Yucca Mountain site as a permanent repository for nuclear waste and applying for a construction license from the NRC in 2002, if the site appears to be viable for this use. Based on information from DOE, CBO estimates that this effort would require expenditures averaging nearly $400 million annually and totaling about $2 billion over the 2000–2004 period. Additional costs could be incurred after 2004 to construct a permanent repository at Yucca Mountain if the NRC issues a license to the department. In its December 1998 report, Analysis of the Total System Life Cycle Cost of the Civilian Radioactive Waste Management Program, DOE estimates the future cost to complete the program is approximately $26.6 billion in 1996 dollars.

Backup storage. Section 102 would direct DOE to establish a program to assure availability of nuclear waste that the NRC determines cannot be stored at a utility’s site, provided that such a program would be focused on the immediate costs associated with DOE’s failure to begin disposing of waste in 1998. local, or tribal governments, shipments on nuclear waste for surface storage at the Yucca Mountain site, as authorized by the bill, probably would increase the cost to the state of planning and complying with existing federal requirements. CBO cannot determine whether these costs would be considered the direct costs of a mandate as defined by UMRA.

Additional spending by the state would support a number of activities, including emergency communications, emergency response and planning, training, inspections, and escort of waste shipments. These costs are similar to those that the state would eventually incur under current law as a result of DOE's licensing plan for Yucca Mountain. This bill would, however, authorize DOE to receive and store waste at Yucca Mountain once the NRC has authorized construction of a repository at that site and would set a deadline of December 31, 2006, for the NRC to make that decision. This date is about three years earlier than DOE expects to begin receiving material at the site under current law.

Other impacts. This bill would authorize planning grants of $155,000 to each state. In addition, tribes whose jurisdiction radioactive waste would be transported and annual implementation grants for those tribes after they have completed their plans. Further, the bill would prohibit shipments through the jurisdiction of any state or tribe that has not received technical assistance and funds for at least three years.

Estimated impact on the private sector. This bill contains no new private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA.

Previous CBO estimate: On May 4, 1999, CBO prepared a cost estimate for H.R. 45, the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1999, as ordered reported by the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources on April 21, 1999. The provisions of the bill ordered reported by the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources and H.R. 45 are different and the two cost estimates reflect those differences. In particular, H.R. 45 would authorize construction of an interim repository at the Yucca Mountain site, while the Senate bill does not contain any similar provision. In contrast to H.R. 45, the Senate bill contains provisions relating to settlement agreements between DOE and nuclear utilities and to backup storage.

Estimate approved by: Paul N. Van de Water, Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

ASIAN ECONOMIC AND SECURITY POLICY

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, when we look at Asia these days, Americans' primary focus is on China and the many difficult challenges that we face in that relationship. Next on our list of what we are watching in the region is Japan where our economic and security relationship ranks as the linchpin of our policy in East Asia. These days, however, Japan seems to get scant attention from either the public or the policy-making community. That is a mistake, but I will leave that issue to another.

After Japan in our focus comes the Korean Peninsula where we are concerned particularly about North Korea and its nuclear weapons development, missile technology, military adventurism, possible economic collapse, and internal instability. As we continue down the list of important things to think about in Asia, we come to Indonesia and the future of economic and political reform and internal stability in that broad region.

Some may differ with my analysis, but it appears to me that, right or wrong, these days, our nation is looking at Asia in this way. Today, however, I would like to call the Senate's attention to two important developments in other countries in Asia, specifically Southeast Asia, that are not on this list. These developments have been reported in our media, but generally, on the back pages. They should not be ignored, because they relate to America's broad strategy toward the region where our interests are in security, stability, and open markets.

Two developments are the passage by the Philippine Senate of a U.S.-Philippine Visiting Forces Agreement and the progress being made toward completion of a U.S.-Vietnam trade agreement.

After a decade of stable democracy and economic reform, the Philippines may be the strongest economy in Southeast Asia after Singapore. Security ties, however, have remained at a very low level since the end of the base arrangement in 1991. This changed dramatically two years ago when the Philippine Senate ratified the new Visiting Forces Agreement.

This arrangement, typical of the relationships we have with many of our allies, allows us to apply U.S. military law to American soldiers and sailors overseas. Its ratification will permit us to renew joint military exercises, pay naval port visits, and develop a stronger and more cooperative relationship than we have had in the decade since the Philippines and President Estrada and the Philippine Senate deserve great credit for their statesmanship in bringing these talks to conclusion.

The Visiting Forces Agreement also comes at an opportune time. Disputes between Southeast Asian states and China in the South China Sea are becoming more frequent. The financial crisis forced most Southeast Asian nations to concentrate on internal economic issues. The agreement shic issues. We have taken a number of steps in the past few years—lifting the trade embargo, normalizing diplomatic relations, dispatching Pete Peterson as Ambassador, and concluding a Copyright Agreement, all in association with the commitment for full cooperation on resolving POW/MIA issues. As time passes, a normal and productive relationship with Vietnam will contribute immensely to stability and security in the southern Pacific.

We are now negotiating an agreement that would begin to open the Vietnamese market to foreign trade and investment. This will support economic reform and market opening in Vietnam while also creating new commercial opportunities for Americans in a market of 80 million people. The strategic implications of this agreement, which will move us down the road to a normal bilateral relationship with Vietnam, are important. It will strengthen Southeast Asia, reduce incentives for conflicts in the wider Asian region, and place the United States in a stronger regional position.

Of course, an agreement must be meaningful in trade policy terms. It is not a WTO accession and, therefore, need not meet WTO standards, but it should include elements such as reform of trading rights and opening of key service sectors, in addition to other market-opening steps. For our part, if the Vietnamese are willing to conclude such an agreement, we should proceed rapidly to grant them Normal Trade Relations. This is in our trade and commercial interest, and also in our strategic interest. The opportunity to integrate Vietnam more fully into the Asian and world economies, I encourage our Administration, and the Vietnamese government, to complete the Commercial Agreement expeditiously.

We should, parenthetically, also proceed to Normal Trade Relations with Laos, where a trade agreement has already been completed.

The Philippine Visiting Forces Agreement and the bilateral trade agreement with Vietnam, once completed, mean we have taken additional steps toward creating a post-Cold War framework involving open trade and security relationships in the Pacific. This is very much in our national interest.

CHEMICAL WEAPONS CONVENTION

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, as the ranking member of the Subcommittee on International Security, Proliferation and Nuclear Security, I want to stress the importance of the United States' implementation of the Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Production, Stockpiling and Use of Chemical Weapons and on Their Destruction, commonly referred to as the Chemical Weapons Convention (CWC).

The Convention is an important multilateral agreement that serves to reduce the threat posed by chemical weapons. It bans the development, production, stockpiling, and use of chemical weapons by signatory states. The Convention also requires the destruction of all chemical weapons and production facilities by signatory states. The United States does not, however, prohibit the manufacture, use, and consumption of chemicals that could be used as warfare agents or their precursors chemicals as long as these chemicals are used for legitimate peacekeeping purposes.

Although the Convention has been in force for 2½ years, the United States is not in the compliance because the administration has not yet submitted the required industrial declarations to the International Organization on the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons. This is a disappointment since the United States played a central role in spearheading development of this treaty.

Most of our allies have complied with their treaty obligations, but it is likely that they will not agree to a second round of inspections until the United States has submitted declarations and U.S. industry has undergone inspections.

The United States has the largest chemical industry in the world. This industry is involved in legitimate production, use, consumption, export, and import of chemicals subject to verification under the Convention. The United States must serve as a model of compliance with the Convention to build confidence with our friends and foes and also to ensure that chemical weapons are never used again.

However, the administration still has not issued regulations for industry to comply with the declaration and inspection requirements under the treaty.

The American chemical industry is poised to comply with our treaty obligations. I hope the administration quickly issues these regulations so the United States is in compliance with our treaty obligations.

TRIBUTE TO NELSON RHONE

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to Nelson Rhone who will be retiring from the Senate on July 7, 1999. Nelson began his Senate career December 21, 1964, as a laborer with Sergeant at Arms' custodial service operation. During his tenure with the Sergeant at Arms office, Nelson also worked in the Legislative Garage as a garbage attendant and driver. In 1988, Nelson was promoted to Labor Foreman in the Sergeant at Arms' Environmental Service operation.

The late SenatorRhone here does not adequately convey the affection and respect he has earned at all levels of this institution. He is one of those rare individuals who, by virtue of both his tenure and his character, come to represent all that is best in the Senate of the United States.

In describing him, the word that immediately comes to mind is "gentleman." These days, that can seem like a quaint or old-fashioned term, but it is the most accurate compliment for someone like Nelson, who, by personal example, has set a standard for others to follow. It is an understatement to say that we will miss him. He is a gem. Now, after 21½ years of devoted service to the Senate, he is retiring to spend more time with his wife, Mary Jane, and his family. Nelson is an avid bowler and enjoys traveling. He and Mary Jane look forward to having the time to travel and spend more time with their friends and family.

Nelson has been a dedicated and valuable member of the Senate community, and I know all members join me in wishing him many years of health and happiness.

MARCIA KOZIE

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, today Marcia Kozie, who heads up my office in Fairbanks, will retire from Federal service. She has served in this capacity since 1981.

When I think of my Fairbanks office, I think of an advisor and friend, Marcia Kozie. She knows everyone in town and plays an active role in involving Federal, State, and local governments. If I want to know the whole story, I call Marcia. I know the old addage goes, "no one is irreplaceable," but Marcia's boots will be difficult to fill. For me these many years and her calm demeanor and soothing voice can smooth out many wrinkles we often encounter.

When you cross the threshold of the Fairbanks office, you are always welcomed by a cheerful smile, a kind word and a sysytematic Marcia Kozie has always had these winning ways, even during the most difficult of times. We all sometimes shoot the messenger by mistake, but Marcia's demeanor has always worked like a charm. Her ability to see the glass half full instead of empty, her cool head in times of crises and her genuine concern for my constituency have been worth more to me and Nancy and my office than a ton of Alaska gold. You just can't buy this kind of service.

Even though Marcia made her way to Alaska via Vermont, New Hampshire, Colorado, and Texas, she lived in the Fairbanks community for over 19 years before she came to work for me. In typical Marcian on all the issues involved or herself in the community getting involved with her three children and their activities, her husband Walt's business and many philanthropic groups who provided a special insight into Fairbanks community.

She told me in her first interview that even though she had not worked for many years, she was adaptable and proficient in whatever the task. She continued by saying this was a God-given talent and that she didn't think He had taken it away from her, yet. And I have never regretted that decision to hire Marcia. While her Federal service will end, I know she will be devoting her time to spreading those God-given talents around the community.

She will be missed by all the staff members in both the Washington, DC, and State offices. It is with deep appreciation and gratitude that I thank her for 19 years of a job well done. As a matter of fact, the mayor of Fairbanks has proclaimed today, June 30, 1999, as Marcia Kozie Day in Fairbanks.

Good-bye, my loyal friend. Thank you for your service to this country, the State of Alaska and the people of Fairbanks.

MEDITICARE HOME HEALTH EQUITY ACT OF 1999

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, on June 10th we held a hearing on home health care in the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations Subcommittee where we examined how the so called "reforms" of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997 were holding up. I continue to believe that the answer to that question is, "not well." That is why I am joining with my colleague from Maine, Senator Collins, the Chairman of the PSI Subcommittee, in introducing an important bill, the Medicare Home Health Equity Act of 1999.

Home health care agencies provide a vital service to many elderly Americans. In my own state of Michigan, there are over 1.3 million Medicare beneficiaries. Over 100,000 of these beneficiaries use the services of Michigan's 223 home health agencies. People prefer to recuperate in their own homes, and it is also less costly for the government since the alternative is nursing home care, which is extraordinarily expensive for the Medicare program.

I am concerned about potential access problems. Although HCFA and the GAO have reported that they have not seen a decline in access for beneficiaries, the home health care witnesses that spoke before the PSI Subcommittee all stated that they believed there was an access problem. In fact, Barbara Markham Smith, from the George Washington University Medical Center, testified that "many seriously ill patients, especially diabetics, appear to have been displaced from Medicare home care." Sometimes it takes a while for the people in the field to actually get the numbers back to the people in Washington and I think this is one of those instances.

We all know that during the early 90's home health care expenditures grew at a rapid pace. According to the GAO, Medicare spent $3.7 billion to pay for home health visits in 1990 compared to $17.8 billion in 1997. This growth led to changes, like the interim payment system, (IPS) that were implemented under the Balanced Budget Act. While some of the changes under the Balanced Budget Act were good, some of the changes are now negatively impacting Medicare beneficiaries.

I have heard from many constituents regarding health care provider concerns under the Balanced Budget Act and the various regulations that HCFA has imposed. In fact, last year, I received some 1500 letters from both home health care providers and beneficiaries. I echo their concerns when I say that the interim payment system penalizes cost efficient home health providers, like those in Michigan, while rewarding higher cost agencies.

Not only does the IPS penalize agencies that attempted to keep their costs down in 1994, but the new regulations which HCFA has imposed on the agencies are quite burdensome. There is no more poignant story to demonstrate the undue burdens being placed on home health care providers than that of Linda Stock of Michigan, a home health care provider. This month Ms. Stock testified before the PSI Subcommittee about the problems that home care providers were having, particularly cost efficient home care providers like her own. Last week Ms. Stock called to let me know that she has resigned from her job because she did not feel that she could ask her staff to implement regulations such as OASIS (Outcome and Assessment Information Set) and the 15 minute incremental home health reporting requirement. It is tragic that a committed health care provider such as Linda Stock would feel the need to resign from her job rather than implement regulations which she believed were unfair to both beneficiaries and providers.

So what can be done in the face of these problems? I believe that the bill we are introducing today, if enacted, could go a long way towards helping seniors who so desperately need the health care provider such as Linda Stock called to let me know that she has resigned from her job rather than implement regulations such as OASIS (Outcome and Assessment Information Set) and the 15 minute incremental reporting period. It is tragic that a committed health care provider such as Linda Stock would feel the need to resign from her job rather than implement regulations which she believed were unfair to both beneficiaries and providers.

(3) The bill will increase the per beneficiary cost limit for agencies with limits below the national average to the national average cost per patient over a three year period or until the Medicare home health prospective payment system implementation.

(4) The bill will revise the surety bond requirement for home health agencies to more appropriately target fraud.

(5) The bill will extend the IPS overpayment recoupment period to three years without interest.

(6) The bill will eliminate the 15 minute incremental reporting period.

(7) The bill temporarily maintains the Periodic Interim Payment (PIP) program, a program that permits HCFA to make payments to agencies based on historical payment levels prior to the final settlement of claims and cost reports.

I believe that this bill provides an opportunity for us to move forward in solving some of the problems caused by the Balanced Budget Act. We should pass this common sense bill that will ensure that home care is accessible to those seniors who so desperately need it.

THE VERY BAD DEBT BOXSCORE

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, at the close of business yesterday, Wednesday, June 30, 1999, the federal debt stood at $5,638,700,248,334.54 (Five trillion, six hundred thirty-eight billion, seven hundred eighty million, two hundred thirty-four dollars and fifty-four cents).

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS

The following petitions and memorials were laid before the Senate and were referred or ordered to lie on the table as indicated:

POM-231. A resolution adopted by the House of the Legislature of the State of Michigan relative to the Kyoto Protocol on greenhouse gas emissions; to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 96

Whereas, The people of Michigan join other Americans in concern that emissions of carbon dioxide and other greenhouse gases may pose a risk of adding to natural long-term changes in climate, such as warming of the Earth, shifts in climate patterns and weather conditions, and other atmospheric aberrations; and

Whereas, Scientists are continuing to investigate and debate the merits of existing evidence of climate change. Researchers are developing more information about the extent, causes, and solutions related to greenhouse gases; and

Whereas, Michigan's citizens want government leaders to seek affordable, effective ways to address climate change; and

Whereas, in July 1997, the United States Senate adopted Senate Resolution 98, which directs the United States not to adopt any agreement from the Kyoto Protocol summit on climate change that would commit this nation to limits or reductions in greenhouse gas emissions without also requiring other major emitting nations to do so; and

Whereas, Despite well-documented uncertainties about the scientific basis of climate change and contrary to the directives contained in Senate Resolution 98, the United States signed the Kyoto Climate Treaty. This treaty, often referred to as the Kyoto Protocol, commits this nation to reducing its emissions of greenhouse gases to amounts that are seven percent below their 1990 levels by the year 2000 and 7.5 percent below their 1990 levels by the year 2008; and

Whereas, Energy provides valuable services to citizens through the heating and cooling of homes, transportation, processing of fuel, and other services vital to our citizens' well-being and our security; and

Whereas, Attainment of the Kyoto Protocol targets will not mitigate climate changes or its effects, but according to the United States Department of Energy's Energy Information Administration, it may cause the loss of 2.4 million jobs throughout most industry sectors and increase the price of electricity (up to 86%), gasoline (66 cents per gallon), fuel oil (76%), and natural gas (147%); and

Whereas, Studies at the Heartland Institute and the Stanford Center show that the Kyoto Protocol would increase production costs and cut farmers' incomes by one-quarter to one-half. This would force many families off the land, decrease agricultural exports, and increase food prices, which would be especially detrimental to America's poorest families; and

Whereas, The United States Energy Information Administration, meeting the emissions reduction targets in the Kyoto Protocol could cost the average family $4,000 per year beginning in 2010 resulting from the increase in the price of utilities, fuel, and consumer goods and services. It is projected to cause the loss of 65,000 jobs in Michigan; and

Whereas, Other alternatives to reducing greenhouse gas emissions, such as research and development and voluntary emissions reduction programs, should be investigated and considered. It is vital to use a balanced approach to promoting economic progress and protecting the environment; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That we oppose the provisions of the Kyoto Protocol and memorialize the United States Senate not to ratify the Kyoto Climate Treaty. We urge federal authorities to consider strategies to protect the environment that apply to all nations, including insurance alternative, voluntary proposals to reduce greenhouse gases; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, the President of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, and the members of the Michigan congressional delegation.

POM-232. A resolution adopted by the House of the Legislature of the State of Illinois relative to Social Security; to the Committee on Finance.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 95

Whereas, Social Security is America's premier family protection system, providing working families with crucial income insurance in the event of retirement, death or disability of a family wage earner; and

Whereas, Social Security is the only secure source of income for the overwhelming majority of Americans, with two in three older American households relying on Social Security for half or more of their income; and

Whereas, Many of the proposals being discussed would require sharp and misguided benefit cuts, including raising the retirement age and reducing the cost of living adjustments; and

Whereas, The Board of Trustees of the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance and Disability Insurance Trust Funds are reporting that Social Security is secure and can pay full benefits until 2032, with 70 to 75 percent of benefits covered by expected revenues after that time; and

Whereas, Many Americans are concerned about Social Security's long-term financial viability; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the Ninety-First General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That (1) Congress should take steps soon to strengthen Social Security so that all citizens can be assured that the program will be there for them; (2) Social Security should continue to provide an unbroken foundation of economic security for millions of Americans, even in the event of the retirement, death or disability of a family wage earner; and (3) Social Security benefits should not be subject to the whims of the market, and private investment accounts should never be substituted for the core defined benefits Social Security currently provides; (4) Working families should be able to count on full disability and survivor protection; and (5) Americans who do not spend full careers in the paid workforce because they work at home, care for children, the elderly, or family members should not be penalized by reform; and

Resolved, That suitable copies of this resolution be presented to the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, the President of the United States Senate, and each member of the Illinois congressional delegation.

POM-233. A resolution adopted by the House of the Legislature of the State of Illinois relative to the Social Service Block Grant/Title XX program; to the Committee on Appropriations.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 160

Whereas, Congress and the White House have funded the Social Service Block Grant/Title XX program at a relatively stable level for the past 5 years; and

Whereas, The FFY 1999 funding level for this program unexpectedly dropped 17% during budget negotiations at the close of the last congressional session; and

Whereas, This federally funded program is almost exclusively devoted to community based human services throughout the State of Illinois, including adoption services, case management services for victims of domestic violence, youth development services, day care for children, employment development services, family support, foster care for children, substance abuse, among other funded services, extending into every county and legislative district in the State serving over 130,000 individuals or families in Illinois; and

Whereas, The National Conference of Mayors, the National Council of State Legislatures, and the National Governors Conference have all strongly recommended the restoration of full funding to this important program; therefore be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the Ninety-First General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That the Illinois congressional delegation be informed of our concern regarding this essential source of funding for critically important State programming and services, and be it further

Resolved, That the Illinois House of Representatives urges the Illinois congressional delegation to influence and guide the federal budgeting process for FFY 2000 and beyond to restore full funding for the Social Service Block Grant/Title XX program and incrementally increase funding for this essential program as future federal budget opportunities present themselves; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the members of the Illinois congressional delegation immediately.

POM-234. A resolution adopted by the House of the Legislature of the State of Illinois relative to the proposed "Dollars to the Classroom Act"; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 2

Whereas, H.R. 2 is a bill that was introduced this year in the U.S. House of Representatives to send more dollars to the classroom and for certain other purposes; and

Whereas, In this bill, Congress urges the Department of Education, states, and local educational agencies to work together to ensure that not less than 95% of all funds appropriated for elementary and secondary education programs administered by the Department are spent on education programs, and to this end to hire full-time teachers, including those hired during their summers; the bill also provides for an educational flexibility program under which the Secretary of Education allows a State educational entity to waive statutory and regulatory requirements for the State educational agency or any local education agency or school and provides for the modification of State and local rules applicable to bonds used to finance public schools; therefore be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the Ninety-First General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That we urge the U.S. Congress to pass H.R. 2; and be it further

Resolved, That suitable copies of this resolution be delivered to the Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, the President pro tempore of the U.S. Senate, and each member of the Illinois congressional delegation.

POM-235. A resolution adopted by the House of the Legislature of the State of Illinois relative to the adoption of the Clean Air Act “Clean Air Act of 1990”; and

Whereas, The elimination of federal estate and gift taxes will result in tax savings to the citizens of this State; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the Ninety-First General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That we encourage the United States Congress to pass H.R. 2; and be it further

Resolved, That suitable copies of this resolution be delivered to the Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, the President pro tempore of the U.S. Senate, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, and each member of the Illinois congressional delegation.

POM-236. A resolution adopted by the House of the Legislature of the State of Illinois relative to Phase II Reformulated Gasoline; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

Whereas, The federal Clean Air Act requires a new type of motor fuel to be sold in the Nation’s ozone non-attainment areas beginning January 1, 2000; and

Whereas, This new fuel is known as Phase II Reformulated Gasoline or RFG; and

Whereas, Illinois has 2 ozone non-attainment areas: the 8-county Chicago Metropolitan area which will have to sell Phase II RFG exclusively and the 3-county Metro-east area; and

Whereas, Most of the present Phase I RFG fuel sold in the Chicago Metropolitan area, through a partnership between corn growers, ethanol processors, and gasoline refiners and marketers, contains 10% ethanol; and

Whereas, The Chicago RFG market accounts for 400 million gallons of ethanol demand, making it the foundation of the domestic ethanol industry today; and

Whereas, The General Assembly is greatly concerned that present United States Environmental Protection Agency regulations for Phase II Reformulated Gasoline be severely limited or prohibit the blending of ethanol in gasoline by refiners, especially in the summer months, thereby endangering the Illinois ethanol industry’s core market; and

Whereas, To date, the Chicago Area and Illinois have made extraordinary progress in the development of the Clean Air Act’s RFG; and

Whereas, The EPA’s proposed Phase II RFG regulations for January 1, 2000, constitute a real threat to the economic viability of Illinois’ ethanol industry and Illinois’ gasoline refining industry; and

Whereas, Illinois’ ethanol industry supports over 50,000 jobs in the corn farming and ethanol industries in major facilities in Peoria, Decatur, and elsewhere in the State; and

Whereas, Illinois’ gasoline refining and marketing industry employs over 40,000 Illinois workers, including 6 major refineries producing over one million barrels a day of gasoline and other products in the Chicago area, St. Louis area, and Southeastern Illinois area; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the Ninety-First General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That we urge, support, and encourage Governor George Ryan’s decision to immediately engage the Administrator of the United States Environmental Protection Agency in the process of resolving the technical challenges of using ethanol in Phase II RFG; that the dialogue shall include presentation of recent research data supporting the economic and environmental benefits and the request that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency permit the continued use of ethanol under phase II of the RFG Program in a way that will not economically disadvantage Illinois’ ethanol and gasoline refining industries; and be it further

Resolved, That the Illinois air quality modeling is required as a necessary component of the presentation to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the General Assembly will support funding for the Illinois EPA to conduct the modeling; and be it further

Resolved, That suitable copies of this resolution be delivered to the Governor, the Director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, the Administrator of the United States Environmental Protection Agency, the President of the United States, and each member of the Illinois congressional delegation.

POM-237. A resolution adopted by the Legislature of the State of Alaska relative to the Kosovo conflict and to Alaskans serving in the military forces in the area of the conflict; to the Committee on Armed Services.

Whereas, Alaskans in the military services have been called on to participate in the Kosovo conflict and are likely to be called on to serve there in increasing numbers; and

Whereas, these Alaskans are and will be serving in the interest of the United States with dedication, honor, and commitment; be it

Resolved, That the Alaska State Legislature expresses its heartfelt concern for the safety of the United States military personnel and the families of the refugees who are fleeing Kosovo, and, therefore, urge President Clinton and the Congress to use whatever means available to bring to an end the conflict in a just and reasonable manner that will, if possible and in a manner that will help secure a just and lasting peace in the region; and be it further

Resolved, That the Alaska State Legislature requests the Alaska Legislative Council to direct the Legislative Affairs Agency to send the following message to all Alaskans and military personnel stationed in Alaska who are serving in the United States armed forces in the Kosovo conflict: “The members of the Alaska State Legislature thank you heartily for your efforts in stopping the barbaric actions of Slobodan Milosevic in Kosovo and for laying a foundation for a just and lasting peace in the region. We commend your bravery and dedication. We wish you a safe and speedy return home.”

Resolutions of the Ninety-First General Assembly of the State of Alaska: The Honorable Hal G. Linker, Speaker of the Alaska House of Representatives; the Honorable William S. Cohen, Secretary of Defense; the Honorable Ted Stevens and the Honorable Frank Murkowski, U.S. Senators; and the Honorable Don Young, U.S. Representative; Brigadier General Dean Cash, Commanding General, U.S. Army, Alaska; Brigadier General Phillip Oates, Adjutant General, Alaska National Guard; and Colonel George Cannell, Director, Alaska Air National Guard.

S. Co. Res. 43. A concurrent resolution entitled the "Military Lands Withdrawal Act of 1999"; to the Committee on Appropriations; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

By Mr. Hollings:

S. 1312. A bill to ensure full and expedient enforcement of the provisions of the Communications Act of 1934 that seek to bring about competition in local telecommunications, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

THE TELECOMMUNICATIONS COMPETITION ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 1999

Mr. HOLLINGS, Mr. President, I rise to introduce, S. 1312, the Telecommunications Competition Enforcement Act of 1999.

The United States has a telecommunications system that is unequalled. We have worked hard to ensure that consumers in all parts of the country have access to this system and enjoy services at an affordable price. Therefore, we expected that the Bell companies would open their markets to competition and therefore, under the 1996 Act, could not enter the long distance market. Once the Bell companies realized that they were not going to get into the local distance market, they complied with the 1996 Act, they began a strategy of litigation to delay competition into their local markets and hold on to their monopolies. They appealed the FCC's decision to the Court of Appeals and, ultimately, to the Supreme Court. Having lost in those forums they have now come to Congress seeking changes to the Act that only three years ago they championed. As a result bills have been introduced in the Senate and the House that significantly amend the 1996 Act, harm competition in the local markets, and slow the delivery of advanced, affordable services to consumers.

Therefore, I introduce this legislation as part of a continuing effort to promote competition in the local telecommunications markets. I am frustrated by the broken promises of the Bell companies that not a single Bell company has adequately opened its local phone market to competition since the enactment of the Telecommunications Act of 1996. According to the Wall Street analysts, at the end of last year new entrants had only 2.5 percent of all access lines while Bell companies and incumbent local exchange carriers continued to control over 97 percent of those lines.

Three years ago when we passed the 1996 Act, Bell companies proclaimed that they would open their markets immediately and begin competing. In fact, they and their lawyers helped write the 14 point checklist—their roadmap into the long distance market in their region. All these companies have had to do to provide long distance service in their regions is to follow that roadmap and meet the requirements of Section 271.

I remember the excitement by the local phone companies at the time of the 1996 Act. On March 5, 1996, Bell South-Alabama President, Neal Travis, stated that the "Telecommunications Act now means that consumers will have more choices... We are going full speed ahead... and within a year or so we can offer [long distance] to our residential and business wireline customers." And, on February 8, 1996, USWest's President of Long Distance, Richard Coleman, issued this statement: "The Inter-LATA long distance potential is a tremendous business opportunity for USWest that will bring a connection to clear they want one-stop shopping for both their local and long distance service. We are preparing to give them exactly what they've been asking for." He went on to predict that USWest would meet the 14 point checklist in a majority of its states within 12-18 months.

Ameritech's chief executive office, Richard Notebaert February 1, 1996.
noted his support of the 1996 Act by stating that, “[t]he real open competition this bill promotes will bring customers more choices, competitive prices and better quality services . . . [T]his bill will rank as one of the most important and far-reaching pieces of federal legislation passed this decade . . . It offers a comprehensive communications policy, solidly grounded in the principles of the competitive marketplace. It’s truly a framework for the information age.”

Those were the statements of the local phone companies in 1996. What has happened since then? The answer is very little. In fact, rather than meet their promises, the local phone companies were in federal court challenging the FCC’s implementation of the Act less than one year after its enactment. In addition, only five applications for Section 271 relief have been filed at the FCC—and none have met the requirements of section 271. On more than one occasion, the FCC’s decision to deny a 271 application has been upheld by the D.C. Circuit Court. One of the regional Bell companies even challenged the constitutionality of section 271—a challenge that was met by appeals court, and the Supreme Court refused to hear. Today, there are no 271 applications on file at the FCC and not a single application has been presented to the FCC since July 1998.

What this means for the customer is that the choice and the local competition we tried to create with the passage of the Telecommunications Act has been thwarted by the very companies that promised to compete. Instead, they have chosen to litigate, complain, and combine. Just two days ago, the Chairman of the FCC decided to grant SBC and Ameritech approval to merge their operations. In permitting the merger to go forward, the FCC has conditioned approval on future performance which SBC has met in the three years since the passage of the 1996 Act. In fact, on the same day conditional approval of the SBC and Ameritech merger was announced, SBC agreed to pay $1.3 million to settle disputes surrounding alleged violations of sections of the 1996 Act dealing with the provision of long distance service. One company will now control one-third of all access lines in the United States even though its market share has not met the section 271 checklist. The repeated violations of section 271 have been carried on by the very companies that promised to provide competition to consumers inside and outside their region. They are already providing DSL service to customers inside their region. And, under the 1996 Act, Bell companies can provide long distance service in their region once they open their local markets. We must hold to this principle if we want consumers to have a choice of service providers. In fact, a number of Bell companies are working to meet Section 271 requirements. I applaud those attempts which, if successful, will provide consumers high-quality voice, data, graphics, and video telecommunications using any technology.

Regardless, nothing in the 1996 Act prevents phone companies from providing long distance services to consumers inside and outside their region. They are already providing DSL service to customers inside their region. And, under the 1996 Act, Bell companies can provide long distance service in their region once they open their local markets. We must hold to this principle if we want consumers to have a choice of service providers. In fact, a number of Bell companies are working to meet Section 271 requirements. I applaud those attempts which, if successful, will provide consumers high-quality voice, data, graphics, and video telecommunications using any technology.

Therefore, I reject their proposed legislative solutions, and instead, forward a different proposal. By 2001, five years will have passed since the Telecommunications Act became law. I believe, it is reasonable to expect Bell companies to have at least one-half of their markets in their region open to competition by 2001 and all of their markets open to competition by 2003. The legislation that I introduce today accomplishes just that. My bill requires the Federal Communications Commission to assess a forfeiture penalty of $100,000 per day if a Bell company has not opened its telecommunications network facilities in states in which the repeated violations have occurred.

While these penalties may appear severe, severe action needs to be taken to force dominant market providers to open their markets to competition. During the debate over the Telecommunications Act, we did not include such a strong approach. Rather, we settled on a rational and reasonable set of procedures—endorsed by the local phone monopolists—that provided incentives to open their local markets while preserving the integrity of the premier communications networks in the world. That approach seemed particularly palatable in light of the statements issued at the time of enactment of the 1996 Act by the local phone companies promising an early opening of the local phone market pursuant to the requirements of the Section 271 checklist.

Today, our communications networks remain the envy of the world and the development of innovative advanced services is accelerating rapidly. Unfortunately, the rollout of those services, once the competition we tried to create with the passage of the Telecommunications Act became law, is increasingly being thwarted by the failure of Bell companies to open their markets to competition. Those same monopolists told us their markets... would be open months ago. This legislation seeks to hold them to their word.

I ask consent that a summary of the bill be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the summary was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

THE TELECOMMUNICATIONS COMPETITION ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 1999

SUMMARY

A Bell Operating Company (BOC) is required to meet the market opening requirements of the section 271 checklist of the Telecommunications Act of 1996 for half of the states in its region by February 8, 2003. The FCC shall assess a forfeiture penalty of $100,000 for each day a BOC is in violation of this requirement.

A BOC is required to meet the market opening requirements of the section 271 checklist of the Telecommunications Act of 1996 for all the states in its region by February 8, 2003. The FCC is required to assess a forfeiture penalty of $100,000 for each day a BOC is in violation of this requirement.

Upon petition by any interested party, the FCC is directed to investigate whether incumbent local exchange carriers (ILEC) with more than 5 percent of the nation’s access lines (that are not Bell Companies) have opened their markets to competition pursuant to Section 251(c) of the Telecommunications Act of 1996.

A determination that such ILECs are not in full compliance with Section 251(c), the FCC shall set forth the reasons for non-compliance and grant 60 days for the ILEC to come into compliance. Absent such compliance after that 60 day period, the FCC is required to assess a civil forfeiture penalty of $50,000 for each day of the continuing violation and order the company to cease and desist in marketing and selling long distance services to new customers.

If upon meeting the checklist requirements, a BOC fails to meet one or more provisions of the checklist, the FCC shall impose a forfeiture of $100,000 for each day of the continuing violation. If upon meeting the requirements, the BOC knowingly, willfully, and repeatedly fails to meet one or more provisions of the checklist, the FCC shall require the BOC to divest its telecommunication network facilities within 180 days in states in which repeated violations have occurred.

JUSTIFICATION

The Telecommunications Act of 1996 required Bell Operating Companies (BOCs) to open their markets to competition. Yet, not a single BOC has met the market opening requirements of the Section 271 checklist. No Section 271 applications have been filed at the FCC since July 1996. Only five applications have been filed since 1996—none of which complied with Section 271.

In the three years since enactment, however, the BOCs have pursued a strategy of stonewalling and litigation that has delayed implementation of the Act. Critical interconnections, unbundling, collocation, and resale requirements of the Act.

Now, BOCs are seeking legislative relief from the requirements of the Telecommunications Act. They argue that they will provide rural America with advanced communications services, but only if they are allowed to provide long distance service to their current customers. The truth is that BOCs can provide advanced services today. However, to get into the long distance market, they must open their local markets to competition. This bill provides an incentive for them to do just that.

By requiring a date certain by which the local phone monopolies must open their markets, and by accompanying that requirement with federal enforcement authority, we can be assured that consumers will obtain the benefits of local competition.

By Mr. LEAHY (for himself, Mr. DeWINE, and Mr. ROBB):

S. 1334. A bill to establish a grant program to assist State and local law enforcement in deterring, investigating, and prosecuting computer crimes; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

COMPUTER CRIME ENFORCEMENT ACT

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, today I rise to introduce the Computer Crime Enforcement Act. This legislation establishes a Department of Justice grant program to support state and local law enforcement officers and prosecutors to prevent, investigate and prosecute computer crimes. I am pleased that Senator DeWINE, with whom I worked closely and successfully last year on the Crime Identification Technology Act, and Senator Robb, who has long been a leader on law enforcement issues, support this bill as well.

Computer crime is quickly emerging as one of today's top challenges for state and local law enforcement officials. A recent survey by the FBI and Telecommunications Industry Institute found that 62% of information security professionals reported computer security breaches in the past year. These breaches in computer security resulted in financial losses of more than $120 million from fraud, theft of proprietary information, sabotage, computer viruses and stolen laptops. Computer crime has become a multi-billion dollar problem.

I am proud to report that the States, including my home state of Vermont, are reacting to the increase in computer crime by enacted tough computer crime control laws. For example, Vermont's new law makes certain acts against computers illegal, such as accessing any computer system or data without permission; accessing a computer to commit fraud, remove, destroy or copy data or deny access to the data; damaging or interfering with the operation of the computer system or data; and stealing or destroying any computer data or system. These state laws establish a firm groundwork for electronic commerce, an increasingly important sector of the Vermont economy and of the national economy. Now, all fifty states have enacted some type of computer crime statute.

Unfortunately, too many state and local law enforcement agencies are struggling to afford the high cost of enforcing and prosecuting computer crime statutes. The Computer Crime Enforcement Act would provide a helping hand by authorizing a $25 million grant program to help the states receive Federal funding for improved education, training, enforcement and prosecution of computer crime. Our bill will help states take a byte out of computer crime.

Congress has recognized the importance of providing state and local law enforcement officers with the means necessary to prevent and combat cyber attacks and other computer crimes through the FBI's Computer Analysis and Response Team (CERT) Program and the National Infrastructure Protection Center. Our legislation would enhance that Federal role by providing each state with much-needed resources to join Federal law enforcement officials in collaborative efforts to fight computer crime.

In Vermont, for instance, only half a dozen law enforcement officers among the more than 900 officers in the state have been trained in investigating computer crimes and analyzing cyber evidence. As Detective Michael Schirling of the Chittenden Unit for Special Investigations recently observed in my home state: "The bad guys are using computers at a rate that's exponentially greater than our ability to respond to the problem."

Without the necessary educational training, technical support, and coordinated information, our law enforcement officials will be hamstring in their efforts to crack down on computer crime.

Computers have ushered in a new age filled with unlimited potential for good. But the computer age has also ushered in new challenges for our state and local law enforcement officers. Let's provide our state and local partners in crime fighting with the resources that they need in the battle against computer crime.

I urge my colleagues to support the Computer Crime Enforcement Act and its quick passage into law.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the Computer Crime Enforcement Act be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

S. 1334

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Computer Crime Enforcement Act."

SEC. 2. STATE GRANT PROGRAM FOR TRAINING AND PROSECUTION OF COMPUTER CRIMES.

(a) In general.—Subject to the availability of amounts provided in advance in appropriation Acts, the Office of Justice Programs shall make a grant to each State, which shall be used by the State, in conjunction with units of local government, State and local courts, other States, or combinations thereof, to—

(1) assist State and local law enforcement in enforcing State and local criminal laws relating to computer crime;

(2) assist State and local law enforcement in educating the public to prevent and identify computer crime;

(3) assist in educating and training State and local law enforcement officers and prosecutors, to conduct investigations and forensic analyses of evidence and prosecutions of computer crime;
(4) assist State and local law enforcement officers and prosecutors in acquiring computer and other equipment to conduct investigations and forensic analysis of evidence of computer crimes; and
(5) facilitate and promote the sharing of Federal law enforcement expertise and information about the investigation, analysis, and prosecution of computer crimes with State and local law enforcement officers and prosecutors, including the use of multijurisdictional task forces.

(b) USE OF GRANT AMOUNTS.—Grants under this section may be used to establish and develop programs to—
(1) assist State and local law enforcement in enforcing State and local criminal laws relating to computer crime;
(2) assist State and local law enforcement in educating the public to prevent and identify computer crime;
(3) educate and train State and local law enforcement officers and prosecutors to conduct investigations and forensic analyses of evidence and prosecutions of computer crime;
(4) assist State and local law enforcement officers in acquiring computer and other equipment to conduct investigations and forensic analysis of evidence of computer crimes; and
(5) facilitate and promote the sharing of Federal law enforcement expertise and information about the investigation, analysis, and prosecution of computer crimes with State and local law enforcement officers and prosecutors, including the use of multijurisdictional task forces.

(c) ASSURANCES.—To be eligible to receive a grant under this section, a State shall provide assurances to the Attorney General that the State—
(1) has in effect laws that penalize computer crime, such as penal laws prohibiting—
(A) fraudulent schemes executed by means of a computer system or network;
(B) the unlawful damaging, destroying, altering, deleting, removing of computer software, or data contained in a computer, computer system, computer program, or computer network;
(C) the unlawful interference with the operation of or denial of access to a computer, computer program, computer system, or computer network;
(2) an assessment of the State and local resources, including criminal justice resources being devoted to the investigation and enforcement of computer crime; and
(3) a plan for coordinating the programs funded under this section with other federal, state, and local law enforcement programs, including directly funded local programs such as the Local Law Enforcement Block Grant program described under the heading ‘‘Indian Reservation Crime Reduction Programs, State and Local Law Enforcement Assistance’’ of the Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Office of Justice Programs, and the U.S. Department of Justice. (4) MINIMUM AMOUNT.—Unless all eligible applications submitted by any State or unit of local government within such State for a grant under this section have been funded, not less than 25 percent of the amount appropriated in each fiscal year for grants pursuant to this section, except that the United States Virgin Islands, American Samoa, Guam, and the Northern Mariana Islands each shall receive 25 percent.
(f) GRANTS TO INDIAN TRIBES.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the Attorney General may use amounts made available under this section to make grants to Indian tribes for use in accordance with this section.

By Mr. BINGAMAN:
S. 1315. A bill to permit the leasing of oil and gas rights on certain lands held in trust for the Navajo Nation or allotted to a member of the Navajo Nation, in any case in which there is consent from a specified percentage interest in the parcel of land under consideration for lease to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I rise to talk about a bill that I have sent to the desk. It relates to a very serious problem faced by a large number of Navajo people in my State. The issue is referred to as ‘‘fractionated lands.’’

Around the turn of the century, the Federal Government attempted to force Indian people to assimilate by breaking up traditional tribal lands and allotting parcels of land to individual tribal members. In New Mexico, this policy created what is known as the ‘‘checkerboard,’’ because alternating tracts of land are now owned by individual Navajos, the state, the federal government, or private landowners. A Navajo allotment was generally 160 acres. Under the allotment system, the Navajo owner was granted an undivided interest in the entire parcel. The heirs of the original owner also inherit an undivided interest, geometrically compounding—or fractionating—the number of owners of the original 160 acres.

This allotment policy, coupled with other federal laws governing Indian land ownership, land management, and probate, have not served the Navajo people well during this century. I am introducing legislation today to help address this problem.

Mr. President, I’d like to take a few minutes to illustrate why the legislation I am proposing is needed. If a Navajo was allotted a 160-acre parcel and had four heirs, the heirs did not inherit 40 acres each when the original owner died. Rather, each heir inherited a 25 percent undivided interest in the full 160-acre allotment. Going forward, when the current four owners died, assuming again four heirs each, sixteen heirs would inherit a 6.25 percent undivided interest in the entire allotment. The next generation would result in 64 heirs each with a 0.078125 percent undivided interest. And so forth.

What makes this situation so unique is that each heir inherits an undivided interest in the allotment. Over time, individual owners may inherit tiny fractions in many different allotments around the reservation. In my state, there are about 4,000 individual allotments covering nearly 700,000 acres. At this point, these 4,000 Navajo allotments have a total of 40,000 listed owners, and the number grows every day. It doesn’t take a Ph.D. in math to figure out what’s wrong with this policy.

Mr. President, in a recent town meeting with Navajo allottees in Nageezi, New Mexico, a small chapter house in the Northeast section of the Navajo Reservation, the allottees talked about the serious problems that fractionated ownership has caused. Over 100 members of the Navajo Nation came from as far away as Aneth, Utah, to speak at the meeting. As you know, the Navajo Nation extends into three states, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah, and there are allottees living in all three states.

Record keeping of individual land ownership has become a nightmare. In many cases, owners can no longer be located. Also, ownership can be clouded when an owner dies without a legal will—a common situation in Indian Country.

Some individuals do not even realize they own one or more of these allotments. Often, individuals are surprised to find out that they are an heir to an allotment on another reservation.

Mr. President, we all recognize there are serious problems with BIA’s management of its trust responsibilities for allotted lands in New Mexico. The management problems were brought out very clearly at a joint Senate hearing in March. The hearing also revealed that the extent to which BIA’s allotment policy contributed to BIA’s current trust management problems.

On the Navajo reservation, a three-year pilot project is underway in Farmington, New Mexico, to try to unravel some of the management problems with allotted lands. This project, called the Farmington Indian Minerals Office, or FIMO, is trying to cut through the red tape created by three different Bureaus in the Department of Interior, BIA, BLM, and MMS, which share responsibility for management of allotted lands. The FIMO has worked hard to assist Navajo allottees determine who their fellow allottees are and what land each allottee owns. I support the efforts of FIMO. If this legislation is passed, FIMO could accomplish even more on behalf of the Navajo allottees in the three states.

Mr. President, over the years, Congress has tried to deal with the problem of fractionated lands, and has failed every time. The long history oftrust management problems suggests this problem is not going to be corrected quickly. Developing and implementing a comprehensive solution is going to take time. The Indian Land Working Group is one of the leaders in this area and has submitted a proposal for Congress to consider. I applaud the efforts of Senators CAMPBELL and INOYE and the members of the Indian Affairs Committee for taking on this difficult issue. Some of the provisions include improved record keeping and estate planning programs, and new processes for consolidating fractionated lands. I look forward to working with the Committee to craft a comprehensive solution.

While the larger issue of fractionated ownership is being considered by the Senate, I believe it is appropriate to consider a stop-gap measure to help stimulate near-term economic development on fractionated Navajo lands.
Two reasons exist: (1) 11 to 50 owners of an allotment, 100 percent of the owners must there exists 11 to 50 owners of an allotment, 100 percent of the owners must consent to a lease of their land. To illustrate, over the last 12 years, millions in leasing bonuses has been paid to the state and federal government for leases in the checkerboard region of New Mexico, while only $27,000 has been paid to owners of Navajo allotments.

The problem lies in the 1909 Mineral Leasing Act. The Act requires all persons who have an undivided interest in any particular parcel to consent to its lease. In the case of Navajo allottees, 100 percent of the owners must consent to a lease of their land. Because of the fractionated land problem, obtaining 100 percent consent is often impossible because many owners cannot be located. Consequently, the Navajo allottees are precluded from the benefit of full use of their land.

The bill I am introducing today will facilitate the leasing of Navajo allotted land for oil and gas development. In the case of non-Indians, most states already allow leases with less than 100 percent consent of the owners as long as all persons who own an interest receive the benefits from the lease. My bill simply extends similar benefits to Navajo allottees. The bill would authorize the Secretary of the Interior to approve an oil or gas lease connected to Navajo allotted lands when less than 100 percent of the owners consent to such a lease. A similar bill was passed in the 105th Congress to facilitate mineral leasing of allotted lands on the Ft. Berthold Reservation in North Dakota.

My bill proposes a graded system for lease approval. In situations where there are 10 or fewer owners of an allotment, 100 percent of the owners must consent to a lease. However, where there exists 11 to 50 owners of an allotment, only 80 percent of the owners need consent. And, with more than 50 owners, 60 percent consent would be required. This graded system was suggested to allottees.

Mr. President, unemployment on the Navajo Reservation now exceeds 50 percent. The opportunities for economic development on this land are few. It is not appropriate for the federal government to continue to deprive the legal owners of Navajo allotted lands the option to develop their land as they choose. This bill is a small step toward correcting the mistakes of the past and is one big step towards providing ecoomical prosperity for future generations of Navajo allottees.

The bill has the support of the Navajo Nation and the Shi Shi Keyah, the principal Navajo Allottees' Association.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that a resolution from the Shi Shi Keyah Association and a letter from the Navajo Nation be printed in

Hon. JEFF BINGAMAN,
U.S. Senate.

Hart Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.

Senator Bingaman asked me for scheduling the May 18, 1999 meeting that the Nageezi Chapter. The Navajo Nation appreciates your interest in the problems faced by Navajo people regarding their allotted lands in northwestern New Mexico.

The Navajo Nation supports your efforts toward solving the problems engendered by increased ownership interests held by Navajo individuals in allotted lands. We support the intent of the bill, provided that it is supported by a consensus of Navajo individuals that will be actual. In addition, we can support most of the particulars of the bill, although the Navajo Nation would request some minor revisions to the bill before it is introduced, as below.

Initially, we are concerned whether a consensus of affected Navajo individuals support the proposed bill. The Navajo Nation is concerned that the Shi Shi Keyah Association apparently opposes the bill, as indicated in a letter to you dated March 11, 1999 from the Association's attorney, Mr. Shiishoosh Shi Shi Keyah Association comprised of Navajo individuals numbering in the thousands.

The approach suggested by Mr. Taradash, the conveyance of fractionalized interests into family trusts, appears to com-

EFFECT OF APPROVAL. Ð On approval by the Secretary under paragraph (1), an oil or gas lease or agreement shall be binding upon each of the beneficial owners that have conented in writing to the lease or agreement and upon all other parties to the lease or agreement and shall be binding upon the entire undivided interest in a Navajo Indian allotted land covered under the lease or agreement."

Finally, the Navajo Nation respectfully requires that all references to the "Navajo Tribe" be changed to refer to the "Navajo Nation," and that the reference be deleted in section 1(a)(3) to the Navajo Tribe as "including the Alamo, Ramah and Cañoncito bands of Navajo Indians." The term "Navajo Nation" is the legal name of the Navajo Nation, and by Navajo Nation statute is prefended over the term 'Navajo Tribe.' We must object to the reference to the three bands (but not others) because of the possible negative inference that there exists some ambiguity as to which bands are constituent parts of the Navajo Nation.

There is no such ambiguity now, and we wish to avoid creating any. The reference can be deleted without causing any uncertainty in the definition.

Unfortunately, fractionalized interests remains a significant problem within the Navajo Nation, as we understand it is also within our Indian nations. The Navajo Nation would like to work your office and with other members of Congress on comprehensive, long-term solution to this problem. If you have any questions, or need additional information, please contact the Navajo Nation Wash-

By Mr. AKAKA (for himself, Mr. MOYNIHAN, Mrs. FEINSTEIN, Mr. WELLSTONE, Mrs. MURRAY, and Mr. LAUTENBERG):

S. 1317. A bill to reauthorize the Welfare-to-Work program to provide additional flexibility to improve the administration of the program; to the Committee on Finance.

WELFARE-TO-WORK AMENDMENTS OF 1999
Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I rise to introduce a bill that would continue a program vital to helping welfare recipients who face the greatest barriers to finding and securing employment, called the Welfare-to-Work Amendments of 1999. My bill targets resources to families and communities with the greatest need, simplifies eligibility criteria for participation, and helps non-custodial parents get jobs to enable them to make child support payments. It also opens more resources to Native Americans, the homeless, those with disabilities or substance abuse problems, and victims of domestic violence.

This is an amendment proposal unveiled by the Clinton Administration earlier this year and introduced as H.R. 1452 by Representative BENJAMIN CARDIN of Maryland. I would also like to thank my colleagues Senators MOYNIHAN, FEINSTEIN, WELLSTONE, MURRAY, and LAUTENBERG for joining me as original cosponsors of my bill.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that a letter which I received from the Secretary of Labor, Alexis Herman, be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

SECRETARY OF LABOR,
Washington, July 1, 1999.

Hon. DANIEL K. AKAKA,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

Dear Senator AKAKA: I congratulate you on the introduction of the “Welfare-to-Work Amendments of 1999.” I am pleased that your legislation joins that introduced by Rep. Benjamin Cardin earlier this year and as H.R. 1452.

I would also like to thank my colleagues Senators MOYNIHAN, FEINSTEIN, WELLSTONE, MURRAY, and LAUTENBERG for joining me as original cosponsors of my bill.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that a letter which I received from the Secretary of Labor, Alexis Herman, be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

Simplified eligibility criteria which continues to focus on long-term welfare recipients but provides that at least one, rather than two, specified barriers to employment must be met.

The provisions of even greater flexibility to serve those with the greatest challenges for employment of long-term welfare recipients who are victims of domestic violence, individuals with disabilities, or homeless as eligible to participate.

A strong focus on hard-to-employ 20 percent of the WtW Formula Grant funds to help noncustodial parents participate in the workforce who have exhausted Temporary Assistance to Needy Families fulfill their responsibilities to their children by committing to work and pay child support.

An increase in the reserve for grants to Indian tribes from the current 1 percent of the total to 10 percent, and an authorization for Indian tribes to apply directly to the Department of Labor for WtW Competitive Grants.

A procedure which allows unallotted formula funds to be used to award competitive grants in the subsequent year, providing a preference in awarding these funds to those local applicants and tribes from States that did not receive formula grants.

The development of streamlined reporting requirements through the Department of Labor.

The establishment of a one percent reserve of Fiscal Year 2000 funds for technical assistance which includes sharing of innovative and promising strategies for serving noncustodial parents.

In addition to the changes proposed by the Administration, the legislation also provides for:

- The inclusion of children aging out of foster care as eligible service recipients and the addition of job skills training and vocational educational training.
- While our welfare reform efforts have resulted in some success, much remains to be done. Reauthorizing the WtW program, together with the Administration’s proposals to provide welfare-to-work housing vouchers, transportation, and employer tax credits, will provide parents the tools they need to support their children and succeed in the workforce. Your introduction of the “Welfare-to-Work Amendments of 1999” provides significant opportunities to hard-to-employ welfare recipients to help the transition to stable employment and assist noncustodial parents in making meaningful contributions to their children’s well-being.

Sincerely,

Alexis M. Herman.
would need public support. The Welfare-to-Work program became an essential component of the Administration's welfare reform effort by providing recipients with a good alternative to welfare.

Since 1994 and the number of people in the system dropped by a record number: forty percent from a peak of about five million families in 1994 down to three million families as of June, 1998, according to the General Accounting Office. However, the job is not finished. Welfare-to-Work is needed now more than ever because those remaining on the rolls are increasing likely to have multiple barriers to employment such as poor work experience, inadequate English or computer skills, or substance abuse problems.

We need to invest much more to help these individuals reach self-sufficiency than we did in those who have already left welfare-these individuals might have already had an educational record of all skills or gained family support behind them to help them to their feet. In contrast, Welfare-to-Work participants are the welfare recipients who need the most help. In addition, extending Welfare-to-Work will have more important than TANF recipients and their children reach welfare time limits in 19 states by year's end and have their benefits reduced or completely removed.

Third luck cases, Mr. President. These are the people who continue to be left out of the economic boom of the 1990s. And these are the people whom Welfare-to-Work was designed to help. If we let the program expire this year, even if states have three years from the date of award to spend their program funds, we will be saying to these people, "We've forgotten the promises we made to you in 1996 that we would continue to help you. Now, there is no more help for you."

This would be particularly harmful in my state of Hawaii which has struggled due to the Asian financial crisis and has been the only state where welfare rolls have increased. Welfare-to-Work has assisted many of Hawaii's welfare recipients through this period of financial hardship for the state by helping them find unsubsidized employment. The program must be extended so that it may help other recipients and their families in my beleaguered state.

My bill not only extends the Welfare-to-Work program, but it also makes a number of important improvements to the program that states, counties, and cities have requested. Currently, most funds allocated to Welfare-to-Work state formula grants cannot be used because of eligibility criteria that are difficult to meet. Currently, an individual must have been receiving assistance for 21 months to be eligible for Welfare-to-Work within 12 months of reaching the maximum period for assistance. In addition, they must have two of three characteristics, including: lacks a high school diploma or GED and has low math or reading skills; has a poor work history; or requires substance abuse treatment for employment. These criteria have excluded many TANF applicants who, for instance, may have a GED or high school diploma but still cannot read. These criteria have proven unrealistic.

Instead, under my bill, criteria would be changed to require participants to have one out of seven characteristics: lacks a high school diploma or GED, has English reading writing, or computer skills at or below the 8th grade level; has a poor work history; requires substance abuse treatment for employment; is homeless; has a disability; or is a victim of domestic violence. This revision in eligibility criteria would allow the program to better match the participant pool. It is necessary because current criteria have left more than 90 percent of Welfare-to-Work state formula grants unspent. In Hawaii, only 126 of our TANF recipients have been eligible to participate in the program, and this figure would double under my bill. Furthermore, officials of the Hawaii Department of Human Services which administers Welfare-to-Work in my state predict that unless the Federal law is changed, it is unlikely that they will be able to refer clients in sufficient numbers to meet WTW expectations.

Similar situations exist in all states, and these criteria revisions respond to State and local entities that have been doing the work of Welfare-to-Work and want to serve as many participants as possible. In Texas, 21,000 people would be able to participate in the program, according to the U.S. Department of Labor. Under my bill, figures like this could be seen across the nation, and more people in need would be able to find employment.

A related improvement contained in my bill is that it transfers any unallocated Welfare-to-Work formula grant funds into the competitive grant program. This competitive grant program has been tremendously popular.

Out of the 1400 applications submitted requesting a total of $5 billion, only 126 applications for $470 million in funds were awarded in FY 1998. This portion of Welfare-to-Work needs more funding. Under my bill, preference is given to applications submitted from states that did not receive a formula grant.

Mr. President, my bill also provides a re-emphasis on the whole family. This past Father's Day, I had the opportunity to celebrate with several of my constituents and their families, as it was a day to celebrate and honor the family. However, many fathers were not as fortunate as myself and were not able to celebrate with their children because they didn't have school diploma or GED and did not receive custody of the children. Even worse, many of these fathers are dismissively labeled "dead beat dads" because they are not a presence in their children's lives and do not pay child support. What we have found, Mr. President, is that many of these fathers do not want to abandon their children. Rather, they are "dead broke dads" and face the same barriers to employment as their counterparts who do not.

In addition, extending Welfare-to-Work will help these non-custodial fathers find employment that will make it easier for them to participate in Welfare-to-Work. Currently, non-custodial parents face the same problems in attempting to qualify for Welfare-to-Work as other applicants because of the same overly-restrictive criteria. Under my bill, the eligibility requirements for non-custodial parents will be revised to allow them to demonstrate that they are unemployed, underemployed, or have difficulty paying child support. In addition, at least one of the following characteristics must apply to the minor child or non-custodial parent: the child or non-custodial parent has been on public assistance for over 30 months, or is within 12 months of becoming ineligible for TANF due to a time limit; the child is receiving or eligible for TANF; the child has left TANF within the past year; or the child is receiving or eligible for food stamps, Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Medicaid, or the Children's Health Improvement Program (CHIP).

The bill increases funding for non-custodial parents by requiring that at least 20 percent of state formula funds be used for this population. The bill also provides that a non-custodial parent will enter into an individual responsibility contract with the service provider and state agency to say that he or she will reestablish paternity, and establish and enforce a child support order, make regular child support payments, and find and hold a job. These revisions are an attempt to permit and encourage non-custodial parents to provide for their children, become more involved in their children's lives, and pursue better lives for themselves and their families.

Mr. President, Native American communities will benefit from my bill from a doubling of the Native American set-aside from $15 million to $30 million. This funding increase is necessary because Native Americans currently receive less than one percent of the total Welfare-to-Work funds but serve 32 percent of total program participants, according to a recent U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Welfare-to-Work Evaluation. In recognition of their sovereignty, the bill also provides Native American tribes with flexibility in designing programs that are effective for their territories. It is a gross understatement to say that our Native American communities have not had the chance to experience the economic success that our nation has been enjoying. We must do what we can to make up for this shortfall, fulfill our Federal responsibilities to Native Americans, and help establish children in Native American communities who face obstacles to self-sufficiency.

Mr. President, children who leave foster care at age 18 make up another hard-to-help population that faces numerous employment barriers. My bill introduces new support for these individuals when they attempt to start out on their own by allowing them to take advantage of Welfare-to-Work programs. According to DOL, 20,000 children leave foster care annually. Of these, 32 to 40 percent receive some type of government assistance within the first 18 months after leaving the foster care system. This bill provides funds to help them find alternatives to welfare as they leave their state care system.

My bill simplifies Welfare-to-Work reporting requirements so that the program can be evaluated effectively. This evaluation will allow Congress and DOL access to better statistics on how the program is performing nationwide. In addition, one-percent of the funds are provided for technical assistance so that DOL can ensure cooperation between states, local governments, TANF and child support agencies, and community-based organizations. It is estimated that all are able to work together and be better able to provide services to those who are in need.

Finally, the bill eases Welfare-to-Work’s “work first” requirements that mean that TANF recipients must find jobs first, before they are able to take advantage of stand-alone programs such as job training, basic education or vocational education programs. My bill would designate these as allowable work periods. Welfare-to-Work. This change is in response to requests from states who want to use program funds to better prepare recipients for the workforce before sending them off to a job. This approach seeks to improve TANF recipients’ chances at maintaining steady employment.

Although my colleagues may have disagreed on welfare reform in the past, Welfare-to-Work is a program that all should be able to support. It represents the state/local partnership, as well as a partnership between government, private industry, and community-based organizations. It encourages people to take responsibility for themselves, find work, and contribute to their families and society in a meaningful way. We cannot abandon these welfare recipients who are the most difficult to employ and must instead invest in them in a way that will help them find jobs paying a living wage, become self-sufficient, and allow them to break out of the cycle of dependency on public assistance.

I would again like to thank my colleagues Senators MOYNIHAN, FEINSTEIN, WELLSTONE, MURRAY, and LAUTENBERG for joining me as original cosponsors of my bill, and I urge other colleagues to join us in supporting this important Welfare-to-Work reauthorization bill.

S. 1318. A bill to authorize the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development to award grants to States to supplement State and local assistance for the preservation and promotion of affordable housing opportunities for low-income families; to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

AFFORDABLE HOUSING PRESERVATION ACT OF 1999

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, today I am pleased to introduce with Senator KERRY, Senator GRAMS, and SENATOR WELLSTONE the Affordable Housing Preservation Act of 1999.

My work on this bill began several weeks ago out of discussions with Vermont housing advocates and private section 8 property owners, and as well with Senator ALLARD, Senator GRAMS, and Senator GRAMM concerning consideration of the Financial Modernization bill. We all acknowledge that this issue has rapidly become a serious national problem—one where thousands of low income elderly, disabled, and families with children are increasingly unable to afford privately-owned low income housing units.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Andrew Cuomo and Commissioner Appar recently took the step of exercising authority provided by Congress to use additional vouchers to stem the tide of Section 8 opt outs and prepayments. The Affordable Housing Preservation Act will provide a more permanent solution to this crisis.

The JEFFORDS/KERRY Affordable Housing Preservation Act will establish a matching grant program that provides money to states and localities that are willing to put up some of their own funds for the purposes of preserving affordable housing. In order to receive a grant under this program, the owner would have to commit to maintaining the existing affordability restrictions for a minimum of 15 years.

In addition, the legislation will encourage transfer of ownership of these properties to non-profit housing corporations that work closely with residents. We believe that non-profit ownership will, in the long run, ensure the maximum possible commitment to affordability at the lowest possible cost. The current ownership structure for assisted housing constantly puts us in this bind of having to provide more and more money just to keep what we have already built and paid for. With non-profits, we will not face the constant drain of opt-outs, prepayments or expiring affordability restrictions. Nonetheless, private owners who want to continue to provide affordable housing will be eligible under this bill.
I appreciate the efforts of Senator Jeffords in facing this problem head-on. We are facing an increasing crisis in affordable housing. Ironically, this crisis worsens as the strong economy pushes rents ever higher, out of the reach of many and into the hands of the poor. This legislation will help us preserve this crucial affordable housing resource.

In the long run, however, preservation of affordable housing, while necessary, is not enough. We need to find ways to fund the construction of new, affordable, multifamily housing for low income and working families, and we need to fund the 100,000 additional vouchers we authorized in last year's public housing bill. This is not just a poor person's issue. In many states around the country—Massachusetts

New Jersey, Alaska, and others—a family would need to work as many as three full time jobs at $7 per hour, well above the minimum wage, just to afford the rent on a typical 2 bedroom apartment. This is unsustainable economically, and it is simply not fair.

In sum, Mr. President, the Jeffords-Kerry bill builds effectively on efforts HUD is taking to save existing housing stock. Now, we need to provide the funding to make sure these efforts can move forward, as we consider longer term solutions in the months ahead.

By Mr. Bond:

S. 1319. A bill to authorize the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development to renew project-based contracts for assistance under section 8 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 at up to market rent levels, in order to preserve as affordable low-income housing, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

Save My Home Act of 1999

Mr. Bond. Mr. President, I stand before you today to introduce the Save My Home Act of 1999. This legislation is intended to provide a blueprint for HUD to address the problem of owners opting out of the section 8 program by not renewing their section 8 project-based contracts. This is a housing crisis. In Missouri alone, over 14,000 multifamily housing projects with over 1 million units will expire over the next 5 years. Nationwide, section 8 contracts on over 23,000 units will expire over the next 5 years. Nationwide, section 8 contracts on over 14,000 multifamily housing projects with over 1 million units will expire over the same period of time.

The "Save My Home Act of 1999" will restate and reemphasize the need for HUD to use its best efforts to renew all expiring section 8 project-based contracts. The bill also provides new authority for swapped "or enhanced" and "sticky" vouchers to ensure that families in housing for which owners do not renew their section 8 contracts will be able to continue to live in their housing with the Federal government picking up the additional rental costs of the unit. The use of sticky vouchers is intended as a last resort. HUD must push for the renewal of the section 8 project-based contracts first. The bill also addresses the problem that the cost of this housing reflects the true market value of the rental units. This has been a huge problem and will continue to be a problem until HUD develops the capacity and expertise to appraise, review, and finance nonmultifamily housing projects.

This legislation is needed because HUD has, until recently, refused to renew section 8 project-based contracts at market levels. In response to this policy, many owners of this housing have refused to renew their section 8 contracts and the housing has been converted to market rate housing and lost as affordable, low-income housing inventory. This means that the assisted low-income families in this housing will lose their homes because the new rents will be too high for the section 8 rental subsidies. This is a huge problem, especially for the elderly and for persons with disabilities who have come to see this housing as their homes.

And this has become a crisis. For example, according to the National Housing Trust, during 1998 alone, owners of 219 properties with some 25,488 units section 8 units voluntarily opted out of receiving federal rental subsidies under the section 8 project-based program. Moreover, it has been estimated that we are losing another 3,000 section 8 units a month because of HUD's inaction. I wish we had better numbers but HUD is not providing us or the housing advocates with this information, and it is not clear that HUD even has this information.

However, I do want to be clear about the parameters of section 8 opt-out crisis. HUD has failed to implement the authority to renew section 8 contracts at the market rent, but has failed to implement this authority. Congress in the Multifamily Assisted Housing Reform and Affordability Act of 1997, as enacted on October 27, 1997 in the VA/HUD FY 1998 Appropriations bill, provided HUD with the authority to renew section 8 contracts at the market level. This was almost 2 years ago, and HUD has only announced recently, a rental level policy that it has not yet been able to implement. And despite press releases to the contrary, I am not convinced that HUD intends to renew these contracts except with an additional push from the Congress.

I also want to be clear about funding. HUD has enough funds to pay for section 8 contract renewals, even though HUD would have you believe otherwise. In particular, HUD has at least $2 billion on the books. Congress has excess of what is needed for renewing all expiring section 8 contracts this year. Instead of committing any of these funds for the renewal of section 8 project-based contracts, HUD has dedicated these funds as part of its FY 2000 budget for general section 8 contract renewals. Nevertheless, this money is available now and can be used to renew these expiring section 8 contracts. The real problem is that HUD does not have the "will" or "commitment" to fund these contracts. In fact, the biggest problem is commitment because you cannot legislate commitment. We need to find a way to make HUD renew these section 8 project-based contracts.

HUD's lack of commitment on section 8 project-based housing has been a problem through this Administration. From the start, both HUD and the Administration have had a stated policy of opposing section 8 project-based assistance in favor of vouchers. And this is true whether we are talking about elderly housing, housing for persons with disabilities, or housing that is located in very low vacancy areas, such as rural areas where there is no available housing or high-cost urban areas like Boston and San Francisco. This has been a problem in the past with the Section 202 program and with the Market-to-Market inventory.

One final point is that I know there is interest in both the House and Senate in funding a grant program to assist in the sale of section 8 projects to nonprofits and tenant groups. While I support the concept of selling section 8 projects to nonprofits and tenant groups, I am concerned by the thought of buying projects that the Federal Government has already paid for several times over. This program sounds like another reiteration of the preservation program which we misguided funded over several years through the VA/HUD Appropriations Subcommittee, resulting in fraud and abuse as we vastly overpaid the value of these projects when we could have been using those funds for more fiscally responsible, affordable housing purposes.

I look forward to working with interested Members of Congress on these very important issues.

By Mr. Craig:

S. 1320. A bill to provide to the Federal land management agencies the authority and capability to manage effectively the Federal lands and for other purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Public Lands Planning and Management Improvement Act of 1999

Mr. Craig. Mr. President, the bill I am introducing today represents a significant modification of S. 1253, which I introduced in the last Congress. This bill is the result of 15 oversight hearings that my Subcommittee on Forests and Public Land Management held during the 104th Congress. These hearings involved over 200 witnesses, representing all points of view, and reviewing all aspects of the management of the Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management lands. The overwhelming conclusion from all of these witnesses—developers and environmentalists and government employees alike—was that the statutes governing federal land management—the 1976 Federal Land and Policy Management Act and the 1976 National Forest Management Act—are antiquated, and in need of updating. These statutes were passed by Congress in the mid-1970s to help solve land management problems. Today, they are a large part of the problem.

I look at laws as “tools” for helping professional land managers and resource scientists who help establish priorities and make management decisions. These tools are essentially used as the slide-rule and computer punch cards that were the tools used by land managers at the time that these statutes were passed.

As a consequence of this oversight review during the 104th Congress, and subsequent oversight hearings since, I drafted S. 1253 and circulated it at the outset of the 105th Congress. That draft, and the subsequently-introduced bill were, in turn, the subject of six informal workshops and another eight formal, legislative hearings to review the concepts embodied in both the first draft and the subsequently-introduced bill. The ideas that emanated from the oversight hearings were modified to reflect the suggestions of witnesses, and in recognition of how resource management problems have subsequently evolved.

Also, during the course of the last eighteen months, we have held additional hearings, reviewed subsequent correspondence, and enjoyed additional dialogue about how to best modify the 1976 statutes. For instance, we held one hearing where all four of the former Chiefs of the Forest Service and one former Bureau of Land Management Director shared their views about the current state of federal land management, and where legislative action could assist their successors in discharging the public trust more effectively.

During this time period there has been at least one seminal decision from the Supreme Court. In Ohio Forestry Association versus Glickman, the Supreme Court has, in my view, significantly devalued the importance of the land management planning process authorized under the National Land Management Act, and probably FLPMA as well. In that decision, the Court denied standing to challenge resource management plans, essentially on the basis that no real decisions are made. While properly decided on the basis of existing law, I believe that decision produced the wrong result insofar as effective management is concerned.

The bill I am introducing today would explicitly set a new course, reversing the effect of this decision in order to make resource management plans more meaningful documents. In various other ways of a less significant nature, the bill I am introducing today also reflects the product of court decisions that have been rendered during the period that we have been reviewing the legislation.

The bill that I am introducing today is also the direct result of four important pieces of information. Let me describe each of these in turn.

First, we were informed at the extraordinary pair of hearings with the President of the Wilderness Society as the sole witness. These hearings were held before the Senate Committee of Scientists Report, also issued earlier this year. I commend this report to the consideration of all Congress members. In that report, we find ourselves in agreement with the Committee of Scientists, particularly with regard to defining a new mission for the Forest Service. We would submit that this is needed for the Bureau of Land Management as well—though even that was beyond the Committee's charter. One area where the Committee's views are unclear is whether or not these improvements can be made exclusively through the rule-making process. The Committee seems to be of two minds about this. It is clear to us that the kinds of changes the Committee seeks cannot be accomplished through regulation. They must involve fundamental statutory changes to the agencies' missions. Any other path, in our view, doomed to failure.

Finally, we were informed at the time of the Administration's budget submission that the Administration would be sending forward a series of seven important legislative proposals for improving federal land management. We were pleased that the Administration had at last come to the conclusion that legislative changes are necessary.

This has been a source of intense dialogue between myself, Secretary Glickman, Undersecretary Lyons, and others in the Administration for more than two years. Given this recognition on their part, we felt duty-bound to wait for these proposals before going forward. In the bill I am introducing today, we have adopted, in pertinent part, five of the Administration's seven legislative proposals. A sixth proposal is the subject of a separate piece of legislation that was introduced in the House yesterday (HR 2390). I am working on a companion Senate bill to introduce shortly. Thus, I found the Administration's proposals something that I could agree with, and want to be responsive to.

So, my work product is the result of a large number of sources of information. It has taken at least six months longer to produce than I anticipated it would, but in the interest of: (1) securing the support of the Society of American Foresters and Committee of Scientists; (2) evaluating the Society of American Foresters' report; and (3) being responsive to the Administration's legislative proposals, I believe the wait was worthwhile.

We are now moving with additional hearings on this proposal confident that we are on the correct path to improve the quality of federal land management and, through a variety of means, increase public support for the future management of our federal forest lands.

We invite both the Administration and Members on both sides of the aisle to join us in this effort. We move forward knowing that this proposal, like any other, is a working draft that will by necessity change, probably significantly, as we move forward.

However, we also move forward knowing that legislative change in this area is both inevitable and vital. It is clear to me that this area of public discourse vitally needs a vibrant legislative debate and a new legislative charter that our land managers can be provided with tools a little more modern than the slide-rule and mainframe computer punch cards.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that additional material be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the material ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS. Ð This legislation—"Public Lands Planning and Management Improvement Act of 1999"—provides new authority and gives greater responsibility and accountability to the Forest Service, Department of Agriculture, and Bureau of Land Management (BLM), Department of the Interior, for planning and management of federal lands under their jurisdiction. The two statutes governing the agencies’ land planning and management—the National Forest Management Act (NFMA) and the Federal Land Policy and Management Act (FLPMA)—are now more than two decades old. This legislation preserves those laws’ policies and requirements while it updates those laws to reflect the agencies' subsequent performance and experience.

The need for new statutory authority is one of the principal findings of a recent report on the planning and management of national forest and BLM lands commissioned by the Society of American Foresters (SAF), entitled "Options for Governing Forests and Grasslands into the Next Century." This legislation has devoted significant attention to the legislation. It has been the subject of 8 hearings and 6 workshops, including one hearing in which 4 former chiefs of the Forest Service and one former director of the BLM spoke about the need for legislation to modernize the existing statutory base for federal land planning and managing, and analyzed this bill through the prisms of their experiences as agency heads, and two hearings in which the President's National Resources Committee provided an in-depth critique of the bill's provisions. Toward the end of 1998, the legislation was substantially altered to accommodate numerous recommendations of, and to address a number of concerns raised by, the many witnesses.

In the Spring of 1999, two important documents were published: (1) the SAF-commissioned critique of Forest Service and BLM planning and management and call for legislation; and (2) the report of the Committee of Scientists appointed by the Friends of Agriculture to provide advice in the course of a new rulemaking governing Forest Service planning. Sustaining the People's Lands: Recommendations for Stewardship of the National Forests and Grasslands into the Next Century. This bill was redrafted again before its introduction to incorporate many suggestions from these two documents. As a result of the two rewrites, this legislation is significantly different from, and reflects a much broader array of views and ideas than did, its predecessor in the 105th Congress. It is significantly different from, and reflects a much broader array of views and ideas than did, its predecessor in the 105th Congress.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.—This section contains numerous findings which explain the need for this legislation. Many of these findings are shared by the Committee of Scientists and SAF reports, and the language of the most prominent findings cite those documents. The findings—

Note the widespread public support for the twin principles of federal land management—multiple use and sustained yield—imposed on Forest Service lands in NFMA and on BLM lands in FLPMA.

Recall that NFMA and FLPMA, enacted in 1976, established resource management planning processes as the means to apply these land management principles to the federal lands.

State that, in the 2 decades since the enactment of NFMA and FLPMA, fundamental flaws in the planning processes have been exposed and the dissolution of all stakeholders.

Find that these flaws threaten the planning and decision-making processes and undermine the agencies' ability to fulfill their statutory land management responsibilities and to accomplish management goals outlined in scientific studies.

Note that Congress' desire for planning to be completed within discrete time frames and to provide secure management guidance has not been achieved.

Describe how planning has yet to be completed, 2 decades after the enactment of NFMA and FLPMA, that the Forest Service and BLM are now engaged in an apparently perpetual planning cycle that deprives both the agencies and the public of stable and predictable management of federal lands.

State that the two levels of planning contemplated by NFMA and FLPMA have been managed by the agencies and the courts to include various planning exercises on multiple, often conflicting, broad-scales that, in many cases are focused on only a single resource, are conducted without the procedural and public participation safeguards required by those laws, and result in guidance that conflicts with the planning that is conducted in accordance with those laws.

Find that the procedures and requirements of NFMA and FLPMA often are not comparable, and even conflict, with procedures and requirements of other, more generally applicable environmental laws. The result is often the deferral of land management and decision making authority from the land management agencies—the Forest Service and BLM—to other environmental agencies—most notably the Society of American Foresters (SAF), Fish and Wildlife Service, and National Marine Fisheries Service—that do not possess comparable land management expertise.

Find "without doubt" that Congress has failed to reconcile the procedures and requirements of other environmental laws with the planning and management processes established by NFMA and FLPMA.

State that the land management planning is conducted without regard for likely funding constraints and that the agencies' budgets and Congressional appropriations are not linked to the plans.

Describe how the Forest Service and BLM retain planning and management authority, are often paralyz by an escalating number of administrative appeals and lawsuits.

Note that existing law does not recognize, nor integrate into planning, important new laws such as ecosystem management and the Endangered Species Act, and that these laws do not incorporate into federal land planning and management without statutory authority or clear public use of the public.

State that new processes developed by stakeholders to participate in federal land planning and decision making, such as the collaborative deliberations of the Quincy Library Group and Applegate Partnership, are not recognized or encouraged by NFMA and FLPMA.

Find that these laws in planning and land implementation, the administrative and judicial challenges, have escalated the land management costs and thereby reduced land management capability.

Note that FLPMA and NFMA were enacted when federal land ecosystems were regarded generally as healthy, but numerous watersheds are degraded, species are declining because of habitat loss, and forested areas are being degraded or are threatened by an unprecedented forest health crisis.

State that monitoring to develop an adequate basis for planning and to determine if planning and management plans are adequate for wild and scenic rivers, and that the conditions created by the existing flaws in the planning and management processes have led to a situation where the new management plans are not presented in time for consideration during planning of funding constraints and, during budget setting of funding needs for, plan implementation.
SEC. 102. MISSION OF THE LAND MANAGEMENT AGENCIES.—A common theme of the SAF report (pp. 17-38), the Committee of Scientists report (pp. xiv-xvi), and a 1996 GAO report entitled "Forest Service Decisionmaking: A Framework for Improving Performance." (p. 5) is the need for a new mission statement for the agencies. Section 102 requires the Forest Service and BLM that provides guidance beyond the multiple use and sustained yield principles and incorporates the newer management concepts concerning ecosystem lands, management, and biological diversity. This section provides that new mission statement. It is to manage the federal lands to assure their sustainability, and productivity of the land ecosystems. The new mission statement is consistent with that objective, to furnish a sustainable flow of multiple goods, services, and amenities from a full range and diversity of natural habitats of native species in a dynamic manner over the landscape, and to designate discrete areas to conserve or exchange for certain uses. This section was rewritten, consistent with the Committee of Scientists and SAF reports' recommendations, to accord priority to ecosystem-based planning and to ensure that the agencies are to deliver amenities as well as goods and services.

SEC. 103. SCIENTIFIC BASIS FOR FEDERAL LAND AND RESOURCE MANAGEMENT.—The Congress finds that the planning process is time-consuming and costly, this section is the need for a new mission statement for the agencies. Section 102 requires the Forest Service and BLM that provides guidance beyond the multiple use and sustained yield principles and incorporates the newer management concepts concerning ecosystem lands, management, and biological diversity. This section provides that new mission statement. It is to manage the federal lands to assure their sustainability, and productivity of the land ecosystems. The new mission statement is consistent with that objective, to furnish a sustainable flow of multiple goods, services, and amenities from a full range and diversity of natural habitats of native species in a dynamic manner over the landscape, and to designate discrete areas to conserve or exchange for certain uses. This section was rewritten, consistent with the Committee of Scientists and SAF reports' recommendations, to accord priority to ecosystem-based planning and to ensure that the agencies are to deliver amenities as well as goods and services.

SEC. 104. LEVELS OF PLANNING.—To reduce the proliferating number of federal land planning exercises, this section limits the levels of Forest Service and BLM planning to two—multiple-use resource management plans for designated planning units and site-specific planning for management activities. Two agencies are given complete discretion to designate planning units of whatever level they consider appropriate in which to conduct the resource management planning. The agencies may also conduct analyses or assessments of resources or areas other than the planning units (including ecoregion assessments as provided in Part F of this title). The results of these analyses or assessments may be applied to the federal lands by amending or revising the applicable resource management plans.

This section establishes a 3-year deadline for amending or revising existing resource management plans to include policies developed in planning conducted outside of the two planning levels. No new planning under the non-complying planning will no longer apply to the federal lands at the end of the 3-year period.

SEC. 105. CONTENTS OF PLANNING AND ALLOCATIONS OF DECISIONS TO EACH PLANNING LEVEL.—To eliminate redundant planning that is time-consuming and costly, this section assigns specific analyses to the two planning levels. Each non-complying planning will no longer apply to the federal lands at the end of the 3-year period.

SEC. 106. PLANNING DEADLINES.—To break the cycle of perpetual planning, this section would set deadlines for conducting the two planning levels. These deadlines are: (1) for resource management planning—36 months for plan preparation, 18 months for amendments as defined by regulations, 12 months for amendments defined as non-significant activities by regulations, and 12 months for management activity planning; (2) for management activity planning—12 months for planning significant activities, and 9 months for planning non-significant activities. All of these deadlines are longer than those in the predecessor bill, and the agencies should identify which issues are decided at which levels of the decisionmaking process.

This section requires that resource management plans contain 5 basic elements. It identifies specific analyses and decisions by statute. In addition, the 5 basic elements are generally applicable to the entire planning unit, but rather to provide guidance for determining specific requirements suitable for the precise, specific, and detailed activities for the sites during the planning of individual management activities.

The agencies are tasked with describing the plan in a manner that provides a basis for monitoring required by section 116 and adaptive management required by section 117. This requirement is new to this bill and is recommended by SAF report (p. 57): "The goals and outputs (including fiscal expectations and downstream effects) should be set forth in a manner that provides a basis for monitoring, evaluating, and reporting agency performance." Additionally, the resource management plans are required to contain a statement of historical uses, and trends in conditions of the resources covered by the plans; a comparison of the projected results of the basic elements of past performance and a discussion of any expected, significant changes in management direction, including any steps to be taken to ameliorate or reverse the potential and economic consequences that might result from those changes; (3) a schedule and procedure for monitoring plan implementation, management of the agencies and trends in the covered resources' uses and conditions as required by section 116 (4) criteria for determining when circumstances on the covered federal lands warrant adaptive management of the resources as required by sections 116(a)(3) and 117(c). The requirement to compare projected results with past performance discusses significant differences is a new element in this bill that is recommended in the SAF report (p. 57): "The plans should compare and contrast the goals and outputs, and survival, the future, high-lighting situations where a significant change in direction is proposed." The requirement for a schedule and procedure for monitoring plan implementation through the Committee of Scientists report ("An adequate plan contains the methods and proposed measurements for monitoring . . .") (p. 108) and the SAF report ("The [planning] decision document needs to specify the monitoring process.") (p. 27).

The provision is intended to reduce plan redundancies and the time consumed in repetitive planning requires the agencies to address the notice-and-comment making specific analyses and decisions to each of the two planning levels (as recommended in the SAF report (p. 59): "Forest planning regula-tion should identify which decisions must be made at each planning level"). The agencies may not conduct or re-consider those analyses or decisions in the planning level hitherto assigned. This section also assigns a number of analyses and decisions by statute. In addition, the 5 basic elements are generally applicable to the entire planning unit, but rather to provide guidance for determining specific requirements suitable for the precise, specific, and detailed activities for the sites during the planning of individual management activities.

The agencies are tasked with describing the plan in a manner that provides a basis for monitoring required by section 116 and adaptive management required by section 117. This requirement is new to this bill and is recommended by SAF report (p. 57): "The goals and outputs (including fiscal expectations and downstream effects) should be set forth in a manner that provides a basis for monitoring, evaluating, and reporting agency performance." Additionally, the resource management plans are required to contain a statement of historical uses, and trends in conditions of the resources covered by the plans; a comparison of the projected results of the basic elements of past performance and a discussion of any expected, significant changes in management direction, including any steps to be taken to ameliorate or reverse the potential and economic consequences that might result from those changes; (3) a schedule and procedure for monitoring plan implementation, management of the agencies and trends in the covered resources' uses and conditions as required by section 116 (4) criteria for determining when circumstances on the covered federal lands warrant adaptive management of the resources as required by sections 116(a)(3) and 117(c). The requirement to compare projected results with past performance discusses significant differences is a new element in this bill that is recommended in the SAF report (p. 57): "The plans should compare and contrast the goals and outputs, and survival, the future, high-lighting situations where a significant change in direction is proposed." The requirement for a schedule and procedure for monitoring plan implementation through the Committee of Scientists report ("An adequate plan contains the methods and proposed measurements for monitoring . . .") (p. 108) and the SAF report ("The [planning] decision document needs to specify the monitoring process.") (p. 27).
report ("deadlines for decisions should therefore be set") (p. 46) recommend planning deadlines.

SEC. 107. PLAN AMENDMENTS AND REVISIONS. This section ensures that the 5 basic elements of the resource management plans are accorded equal dignity and that one element is not sacrificed to achieve another. It prohibits the Forest Service and BLM from applying a policy to, or making a decision on, a resource management plan, in preparing, amending, or revising each resource management plan, the Forest Service and BLM must consider, and explain whether, the plan is consistent with the existing forest land management plan.

The mechanism for challenge is a petition in obtaining change, to challenge the plan. The section authorizes any person to challenge a plan after the deadline solely on the basis of one or more of the lands' commodity or resource management plans, amendments, and revisions. The section provides a procedure for citizens who believe a plan has become inadequate after the deadlines have passed to seek change in the plan and, if unsuccessful in obtaining change, to challenge the plan. The section encourages these independent committees to prepare planning recommendations for the federal lands by imposing the requirement on the agencies that they include those recommendations as alternatives in the EISs or EAs which accompany the preparation, amendment, or revision of the plan. The section requires that the Forest Service and BLM to provide to any independent committees an alternative is adopted sufficient funds to monitor the alternative's implementation. The section establishes deadlines for challenging resource management plans, amendments, and revisions. The section establishes deadlines for challenging resource management plans, amendments, and revisions. The section establishes deadlines for challenging resource management plans, amendments, and revisions. The section provides a statutory basis for the relatively new ecosystem management concept that this new concept may not supersede other statutory mandates. This section requires that the Forest Service and BLM consider and discuss ecosystem management in preparing, amending, or revising the relevant resource management plans, amendments, and revisions. It also states that these principles are to be applied consistent with, and may be considered as a part of, the other requirements of this legislation, FLPMA, NFMA, and other environmental laws applicable to resource management planning, and those other committees must be broadly represented of the interests affected by planning. If the agency fails to respond to or deny the petition or stay request, the petitioner may file suit immediately against the plan. If the agency fails to respond to or deny the petition or stay request, the petitioner may file suit immediately against the plan. The principal change in this section was in emphasizing the collaborative planning concept.
the Wilderness Society. It adds the opportunity for a petitioner to seek a stay of any activities subject to the petitioned plan amendment.

SEC. 115. FULLY ALLOCATED COSTS ANALYSIS.—This section implements two critical recommendations in the SAF report (p. 62): “A persistent criticism of the Forest Service is that annual appropriations have not always matched the funding assumptions. Forest or area plans should explain how the goals and targets of the plan with the resources made available in any fiscal year can be achieved. In the absence of additional funding, annual reporting on agency performance can then compare and contrast the goals and targets of the plan with the resources made available in any fiscal year.”

SEC. 116. MONITORING FUNDS.—This section establishes a Public Lands Monitoring Fund for BLM lands and Forest Service lands to fund the monitoring of the local, multi-interest committees under the NEPA processes associated with decision-making. The section also establishes a Public Lands Monitoring Fund for Forest Service lands to fund the monitoring required by section 116 or to monitor the implementation of ecoregions. The funds provided in this section are provided in this section. The funds are to be used, without appropriations, to conduct the monitoring required by section 116 or to monitor the implementation of ecoregions. The funds are provided in this section.
independent basis to regulate non-federal lands. Finally, as the analyses are non-decisional, this section provides that they will not be subject to the consultation requirements of the Endangered Species Act. (Most critically, analyses do not produce action or decision. New procedures shall not be made to function under the NEPA processes associated with decision making.” Committee of Scientists report, p. 95.)

This section states three requirements on the basis of new information, law, or regulation until after a petition for plan amendment or revision is filed and a decision is made on it. This section also clarifies that suits concern-ning resource management plans and management activities are to be decided on the administrative record.

Several changes were made to this section to respond to concerns expressed by the President of the Wildlife Society.

SEC. 201. PURPOSES.—The purposes of this title are to eliminate primarily procedural conflicts among, and coordinate, the various land management and environmental laws without reducing—indeed enhancing—environmental protection. A wide variety of reports from diverse sources have consistently sounded the theme that conflicting laws have made management of federal lands more difficult. Among these reports are both the Committee of Scientists report (p. xli) and the SAF report (pp. 23-24), the 1992 Office of Technology Assessment report Forest Service Planning: Accommodating Uses, Protecting Outputs: Ecosystems (p. 59), and the 1997 GAO report Forest Service Decision-making: A Framework for Improving Performance (p. 11). The SAF report at p. 233 summarizes the detrimental consequence: “Because [other federal and state] agencies have different missions, they interpret statutes and regulations differently. The result, too often is that they fail to agree on land management decisions. In recent cases, land management has been guided as much by decisions of the regularly agencies as by the resource agencies.” The SAF report finds that legislation is required to address this problem; the Committee Scientists report (p. xii), which focuses on recommendations to improve Forest Service regulations, opines that, as to this problem, legislative action may be nec-agement practices, it is critical that management agencies should be given broad authority and responsibility to meet all environmental requirements. Consultation is appropriate, but other federal and state agencies should not have the responsibility for approving land management activities. If the federal land management agencies do not act in a prudent, responsible fashion, their actions should be subject to local legal challenges.”

SEC. 202. ENVIRONMENTAL ANALYSIS.—This section describes how compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act will occur in resource management planning and planning for management activities. It requires that EIS be prepared whenever a renamed management plan, amendment, or revision is filed and a decision is made on it. (Plan amendments may have either and EIS or EA depending on their significant.) This section also provides that, for revision is filed and a decision is made on it. The EA for the management activity is to be tiered to the EIS for the ad-plicable resource management plan. The agency should analyze the EA for the management activity if it determines the nature or scope of the activity’s environmental impacts is substantially different from, or greater than, the changes or scope of impacts analyzed in the EIS on the applicable resource management plan.

SEC. 203. WILDLIFE PROTECTION.—This section addresses the relationship of the Endangered Species Act to federal land planning and management. It provides that a certification by which the Forest Service and BLM can become certified by the Fish and Wildlife Service to conduct the consultation responsibilities normally assigned to the Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Marine Fisheries Services by section 7 of the ESA. If they are certified, the two land management agencies will have the authority to prepare the Biological Opinions for listed species under the ESA just as they now prepare EISs under NEPA.

Second, this section addresses situations in which the applicable management plan may have to undergo consultation because of a new designation or threatened species or of a species’ critical habitat, or new information about an already designated species or habitat. This section requires that a decision be reached as to whether consultation is required on the plan within 90 days of the new designation, and that any amendment to or revision of the plan be completed within 12 or 18 months, respectively, after the new designation. It also allows land management agencies to continue under the plan while it is being amended or revised, if those activities either separately undergo consultation concerning the new species or the time frame is determined not to require consultation.

SEC. 204. WATER QUALITY PROTECTION.—This section establishes the relationship of the Clean Water Act (CWA) to federal land planning and management. It provides that any management activity that constitutes a non-point source of water pollution is to be considered in compliance with applicable CWA provisions if the State in which the activity will occur certifies that it meets best management practices for their financial equivalent. The agency, however, may choose not to seek State certification and satisfy the separate applicable CWA requirements.

SEC. 205. AIR QUALITY PROTECTION.—This section addresses the relationship of the Clean Air Act (CAA) to federal land planning and management. It provides that a Forest Service forest supervisor or BLM district manager (after providing an opportunity for review by the appropriate Governor) finds that a prescribed fire will reduce the risk or danger of wild fire and will be conducted in a manner that minimizes impacts on air quality to the extent practicable, the prescribed fire is deemed to be in compliance with applicable CAA provisions.

SEC. 206. MEETINGS WITH USERS OF THE FEDERAL LANDS.—This section addresses the relationship of the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA) to federal land planning and management. It clarifies that the agency may meet with violating FACA with one or more actors or groups of actors, federal permits, leases, contracts or other authorities for use of the federal lands; other than persons who conduct activities on the federal lands for anyone other than the management of lands adjacent to the federal lands.

TITLE III—DEVELOPMENT OF A GLOBAL RENEWABLE RESOURCES ASSESSMENT

SEC. 301. PURPOSES.—The purpose of this title is to establish the Global Renewable Resources Assessment and Renewable Resource Program administered by the Forest Service under the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 with a Global Renewable Resources Assessment administered by an independent National Council on Renewable Resource Policy.

SEC. 302. GLOBAL RENEWABLE RESOURCES ASSESSMENT.—This section emphasizes the vital importance of renewable resources to national and international social, economic, and environmental well-being, and of the need for a long-term perspective in the use and conservation of renewable resources. To achieve this, this section directs that a Global Renewable Resources Assessment be prepared every 5 years. The Assessment must include: (1) an analysis of national renewable resources supply and demand; (2) an inventory of national and international renewable resources, including opportunities to improve these resources; (3) an analysis of management programs of other countries ensures sustainable and production of such resources; (4) a description of national and international research programs on renewable resources; (5) a discussion of policies, laws, etc. that are expected to affect significantly the use and ownership of public and private renewable resources; and (7) recommendations for administrative and legislative initiatives.

SEC. 303. NATIONAL COUNCIL ON RENEWABLE RESOURCES POLICY.—This section establishes the National Council on Renewable Resources Policy. Its functions are the preparation of the Global Renewable Resources Assessment and the periodic submission to the Forest Service, BLM, and four Committees of Congress of recommendations for administrative and legislative changes or initiatives.

The Council has 15 members, 5 each appointed by the President, President pro tempore of the Senate, Speaker of the House. The Chair is to be a member of the Council. This section requires the President to submit the Council’s recommendations to the appropriate Committees of Congress within 90 days of the new designation, and that any amendment to or revision of the plan be completed within 12 or 18 months, respectively, after the new designation.

This section strives to ensure the independence of the Council in three ways. First, it requires that the Council submit its budget, request concurrently to both the President and the Appropriations Committees of Congress. Second, it requires concurrent submission of the Assessment, analyses, recommendations to Executive Branch officials or agencies and the four Committees of Congress. Finally, it prohibits any attempt by a federal official or agency to influence the Assessment, analyses, recommendations, or testimony for approval, comments, or review.

SEC. 304. REPEAL OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF THE FOREST AND RANGELAND RENEWABLE RESOURCES PLANNING ACT.—This section repeals the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act that directs the Forest Service to prepare a Renewable Resource Assessment and Renewable Resources Assessment.

TITLE IV—ADMINISTRATION

PART A. IN GENERAL

SEC. 401. CONFIRMATION OF THE CHIEF OF THE FOREST SERVICE.—This section provides for Senate confirmation of appointments to the position of Chief of the Forest Service. It is not thereby establishing the same appointment procedures as those applicable to the Director of the BLM. This section also sets certain eligibility requirements for the appointment: (1) a degree in a scientific or engineering discipline that is relevant to federal land management; (2) 5 years or more experience in land management activities and research concerning the management of federal lands or other public lands; and (3) 5 years or more experience in administering an office or program with a number of employees equal to, or greater than, the average number of employees in national forest supervisors’ offices.

SEC. 402. INTERAGENCY TRANSFER AND INTERCHANGE AUTHORITY.—This section authorizes the BLM to transfer between them adjacent lands not exceeding 5,000 acres or exchange adjacent lands not exceeding 10,000 acres without transfer of funds; (2) to be effective 30 days or more after publication of Federal Register notice; (3) not to affect any legislatively restricted lands involved; and (4) subject to valid existing rights. In response to the testimony of the President of the Wilderness Society, a proviso is added that absolutely prohibits modification or removal of any special designation of, or any special management direction applicable to, lands transferred or interchanged under this section that was made or provided by statute, except by another Act of Congress. The proviso also provides that administrative designations may be altered or removed only with the agreement of the applicable resource management plans.

SEC. 403. COMMERCIAL FILMING ACTIVITIES.—This section requires the agencies to issue permits and charge fees for commercial filming and still photography on federal lands. It is modeled on S. 568, introduced by Senator Thomas.

Criteria for setting the fee for commercial filming are based on the scale of the filming activities and their potential impact on the federal lands. The agencies are also to recover any costs they incur as a result of the filming activities. The activities are required to issue permits and collect fees for still photography when models or props not part of the federal lands or resources are used, and may issue permits and collect fees when there is a likelihood of resource impact, disruption of public use, or risk to public health or safety.

The fees and costs collected under this section are to be retained in a special account in the Treasury and used, without appropriation, for high-priority visitor or resource management activities in the federal land units where the permitted activities occurred.

SEC. 404. VISITOR FACILITIES IMPROVEMENT DEMONSTRATION PROGRAMS.—This section is modeled on legislation for the Forest Service for the Administration’s FY 2000 budget request. It directs the agencies to develop demonstration programs to evaluate the use of private funding for the construction, rehabilitation, maintenance, and operation of federally owned visitor centers on federal lands. Each agency is authorized to undertake up to 15 projects. Public, profit, or nonprofit groups are selected competitively to develop and operate new, or improve and operate existing, visitor facilities. Terms of the projects are to be based on the agencies’ estimates of the time necessary for the concessionaires to depreciate their capital investment in the projects, but in no case more than 30 years. If a project is terminated or revoked, the agency or succeeding concessionaire will purchase any remaining assets at their fair market value, so long as the agencies are fully depreciated. The agencies are also authorized to sell existing federally owned visitor facilities at fair market value, so long as the proceeds are used to purchase lands that will be consistent with the applicable resource management plans.

The agencies are directed to charge concessionaires competitive bids, and those fees are to be used, without appropriation, for enhancing visitors and services and facilities. The concessions must provide bonds 5 years before the end of the project to ensure that the visitor facilities will be in satisfactory condition for future use. The Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior are each required to submit a report to the four Committees of Congress evaluating the demonstration project and making recommendations on whether to make the program permanent.

SEC. 405. FEES FOR LINEAR RIGHTS-OF-WAY USES. This section provides that the Forest Service prepared by the Forest Service for the Administration's FY 2000 budget request. It directs each agency to collect rental fees for all linear rights-of-way for power lines, roads, pipelines, etc. under section 501 of FP LMA and the Act of February 25, 1923, except for rights-of-way that are exempt by law or regulation.

SEC. 406. FEES FOR PROCESSING RECORDS REQUESTS. To discourage inordinately broad "fishing expedition" requests under the Freedom of Information Act that severely tax agency funding and personnel, this section prohibits the waiver or reduction of fees for any single request to the Forest Service or BLM that will cost in excess of $1000 for a single request or for multiple requests of any one party within a 6-month period.

SEC. 407. OFF-BUDGET STUDY. The SAF report speculates (pp. 27-28) that under certain assumptions the BLM and the Forest Service could become a profit center.

SEC. 408. EXEMPTION FROM STRICT LIABILITY FOR THE RECOVERY OF FIRE SUPPRESSION COSTS. Section 501 of FP LMA directed the Secretary of Agriculture to promulgate regulations governing liability of users of federal lands to be accessed. Finally, it clarifies that the nonfederal land or interests in land until NEPA is satisfied.

PART B. NONFEDERAL LANDS

This part seeks to increase the timeliness and cost effectiveness of Forest Service and BLM decisionmaking which directly affects private parties.

SEC. 409. ACCESS TO ADJACENT OR INTERMINGLED NONFEDERAL LANDS. This section establishes procedures for processing applications for access to federal land as guaranteed by section 1323 of the Alaska National Interests Lands Conservation Act (ANILCA). First, this section requires that the forest planning process be completed within 180 days and, if it is not, the access be deemed approved. It sets a 15-day deadline for notifying the applicant whether the access is approved or denied. The section makes clear that the analyses conducted under the National Environmental Policy Act and Endangered Species Act are to consider the effects of the construction, maintenance and use of the access across the federal lands not the use of the nonfederal lands subject to the access agreement. Any restrictions imposed on the access grant pursuant to section 1233 of ANILCA may limit or condition the construction, maintenance and use of the federal lands, but not the use of the nonfederal lands to be accessed.

SEC. 410. EXCHANGES OF FEDERAL LANDS FOR NONFEDERAL LANDS. This section establishes procedures for exchanges under, and amends, section 206(b) of FP LMA. As any management or use of federal lands or interests in lands newly acquired under an exchange will be required to undergo full National Environmental Policy Act and Endangered Species Act analyses, this section provides that on the exchange itself an EA satisfies the environmental analysis requirements of section 102(2) NEPA and any consultation required under ESA will be completed within 45 days instead of the 90-day period provided by section 7 of ESA. Further, this section provides that any exchange involving management or use of federal lands or interests in lands newly acquired under an exchange will be required to undergo full National Environmental Policy Act and Endangered Species Act analyses. This section also explicitly states that no management activity may be undertaken on any newly acquired federal lands or interests in lands until NEPA and ESA are fully complied with and, if necessary, the applicable resource management plan is amended, processed, and documentation required that processing of the exchange must be completed within one year of the date of submission of the exchange application. Further, the nonfederal land or interests in land in the exchange are to be appraised without restrictions imposed by federal or State law to protect an environmental or resource in the sale or in the exchange. For example, the nonfederal land or interests in land in the exchange are to be appraised without restrictions imposed by federal or State law to protect an environmental or resource in the sale or in the exchange. This section also allows the Forest Service and BLM to offer for competitive bid the exchange of federal lands or interests in land that meets certain conditions. It also authorizes agencies to identify early or "prequalify" federal lands or interests in land for exchange. Further, when an exchange involves school trust lands, the agency concerned may waive the normal NEPA assessment under section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act if it enters into an agreement with the State that ensures State protection of archaeological resources or sites to the maximum extent practicable. Further, this section authorizes the Forest Service to exchange federal lands or interests within the National Forest System or acquired under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act of 1937.

This section establishes special funds with a cap of $12,000,000 for the agencies to use, subject to appropriations, for processing land exchanges (including making cash equalization payments to equalize values of exchange properties). Finally, the maximum value of lands in an exchange which may be purchased by the Forest Service for the purposes of improving forest health management activities or amount of forest health credits the Forest Service and BLM can receive under NEPA if they enter into an agreement with the State that ensures State protection of archaeological resources or sites to the maximum extent practicable. revenues than they cost and are not to be considered in determining the revenue effects of individual forest, Forest Service region, or national forest products sales programs.

Appropriated funds can be used to offset the costs of forest health management activities associated with forest products or any other forest products contract (typically when the total cost of such activities would otherwise exceed the value of the offered forest products materials or likely fail to generate interest in the sale), but only if those funds are derived from the resource function or functions which would directly benefit from the performance of these activities and appropriated in the fiscal year in which the sale is offered. The amount of any appropriated funds to be paid for forest health management or associated activities assigned forest health credit, the purchaser could elect to defer a portion of the final payment for the future years equal to the value of forest health credits assigned to the activity. If the purchaser normally would be required to pay for all the forest products material valued as forest health credit to which the credits are assigned in a sale advertisement, the purchaser could elect to defer a portion of the final payment for the future years equal to the value of forest health credits assigned to the activity.

This section sunsets in 5 years, but previous actions for sale of forest products with forest health credits provisions remain in effect under the terms of this section after that time. To assist the Congress in determining whether this section should be reenacted, the Forest Service and BLM are required to monitor the performance of sales contracts with forest health credits and submit a joint report to Congress assessing the contracts' effectiveness and whether continued use of such contracts is advised.

SEC. 413. SPECIAL FUNDS.—This section gives permanent status to the funds for salary expenses of special forest products of the Forest Service and BLM and expands their purposes to allow the funds to finance the entire array of forest health enhancement projects.

SEC. 414. PRIVATE CONTRACTORS.—To ensure that processing of sales of forest products is accomplished in a timely manner in an era of severe budget and personnel constraints, this section encourages that the agencies, to the maximum extent possible, use private contractors to prepare the sales. To ensure the integrity of sale decision-making, this section also requires the agencies to include contractors' work in the sales process, making any decisions on the sales and bars the contractors from commenting on or participating in the sales' decisions.

SEC. 415. SPECIAL FOREST PRODUCTS.—This section is modeled on legislation prepared by the Forest Service for the Administration's FY 2000 budget request. It directs the Forest Service to collect fees for the fair market value (established by appraisal methods or bidding procedures) of special forest products harvested from national forest lands and the costs of harvesting and monitoring the harvesting. Special forest products are defined as any vegetation or other life form not excluded from fees by regulation. The Forest Service shall use the fees collected under this section for conducting inventories of special forest products and addressing any impacts from harvesting activities, and the recovered costs for administration of the program.

TITLe V— Micellaneous

SEC. 501. REGULATIONS.—This section requires the Forest Service to promulgate rules to implement this legislation within a year and a half of its enactment.

SEC. 502. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—This section authorizes appropriations to implement this legislation for 10 fiscal years after enactment. It also sunsets at the same time all other statutory authorizations for the Forest Service and BLM for management of the federal lands.

SEC. 503. EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section provides that this legislation will take effect upon its enactment, and admonishes that no decision or action authorized by this legislation is to be delayed pending rulemaking.

SEC. 504. SAVINGS CLAUSES.—This section ensures that nothing in this legislation conflicts with the law pertaining to the revested Oregon and California Railroad and Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands in Oregon. Further, this section bars construing any provision of this legislation as terminating any valid lease, permit, or other right or authorization of use of the federal land existing upon enactment and as altering in any way any Native American treaty right. Finally, this section provides that all actions under this legislation are subject to valid existing rights.

SEC. 505. SEVERABILITY.—This final section contains the standard severability clause.

By Mr. WELLSTONE (for himself and Mrs. MURRAY):

S. 1321. A bill to add title III of the Family Violence Prevention and Services Act and title IV of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 to limit the effects of domestic violence on the lives of children, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

CHILDREN WHO WITNESS DOMESTIC VIOLENCE PROTECTION ACT OF 1999

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, today, I am introducing the Children Who Witness Domestic Violence Protection Act. My legislation, which I am joined by Senator MURRAY in offering today, is a comprehensive first step towards confronting the impact that witnessing domestic violence has on children. This bill addresses the issue from multiple perspectives, including mental health, education, child protection services, supervised visitation centers, law enforcement, and crisis nurseries.

There are many facets to the serious problem we have with violence in our country. The evening news brings violent images from around the world into our homes every day. We also witness through various media the violent images or hear stories of violence that has occurred in our own communities and in our schools. Like Columbine High.

Images of violence bombard our children from the movies, video games, or from television programs. But there is a type of violence most frightening to children that is not in the spotlight. Increasingly, children are witnessing real-life violence in their homes. In fact, it is in their own homes that many children witness violence for the first time.

Over 3 million children are witness to violence in their homes each year, and it is having a profound impact on their development. Frequently, these children are physically injured by the violence. But always, they carry with them lasting emotional scars from having been exposed to the threat and trauma of injury, guilt or, in some cases, dying. This exposure to domestic violence changes the way children view the world. It may change the value they place on life itself. It affects their ability to learn, to establish relationships, and to cope with stress.

Witnessing domestic violence, has such a profound impact on children, placing them at high risk for anxiety, depression, and, potentially, suicide. Further, these child victims may exhibit more aggressive, antisocial, and fearful behaviors. They are also at greater risk of becoming future offenders.

Studies indicate that children who witness their fathers beating their mothers, or even just hearing violence, are at higher risk of having serious emotional problems, including slowed development, sleep disturbances, and feelings of helplessness, depression and anxiety. Many of these children exhibit more aggressive, antisocial, fearful and inhibited behaviors. Also they also show lower social competence than other children.

Children from homes where their mothers were abused have also shown less skill in understanding how others feel and in examining situations from the other's perspective. Compared to children from non-violent households, even one episode of violence can produce post-traumatic stress disorder in children.

Exposure to family violence, many studies suggest, is the strongest predictor of violent delinquent behavior among adolescents. It is estimated that between 20 and 40 percent of chronically violent adolescents have witnessed extreme forms of family violence.

Recent studies have demonstrated that up to 50% of children who come before the juvenile dependency court on allegations of abuse and neglect have been exposed to domestic violence in their homes.

In a Justice Department funded study of children in Rochester, NY, children who had grown up in families where domestic violence occurred were 21 percent more likely to report violent delinquency than those not exposed. Children exposed to multiple forms of family violence reported twice the rate of youth violence as those from non-violent families.

A 1994 survey of 115 mothers in the waiting room of Boston City Hospital's Primary Care Clinic found that by age 6, one in ten children had witnessed a knitting or shooting. An additional 18 percent of the children under six had witnesses pushing, hitting or yelling. Half of the reported violence occurred in the child's home.

Many children actually see their father, stepfather, or mother's boyfriend... not only beat their mothers but rape them as well. Although some parents believe that they succeed in shielding their children from the batterer's aggression, children often provide detailed accounts of the very events which adults hoped they did not witness. Research indicates that parents severely underestimate the extent to which their children are exposed to violence.

Children who witness domestic violence are at high risk for learning difficulties. Reports by children and by adults of their memories of childhood experiences indicate that parents severely underestimate the extent to which their children are exposed to violence.

Another important part of my legislation is funding to increase the availability of supervised visitation centers. Since domestic violence often escalates during separation and divorce, and visitation is frequently used as an opportunity for abuse, this provision is designed to help children from further exposure to violence. It creates a grants program which domestic violence service providers can apply for on a competitive basis to create family visitation centers. Use of these centers can minimize stressful and potentially dangerous interactions among family members. In addition, the centers provide judges with a further tool to deal with problematic visitations when there has been a history of violence.

On July 3, 1996 5 year old Brandon and 4 year old Alex were murdered by their father during an unsupervised visit. Their mother Angela was separated from Kurt Frank, the children's father. During her marriage, Angela was physically and emotionally abused by Frank, and Frank had hit Brandon and split open his lip when he stepped in front of his mother during a domestic violence incident. Angela had an Order of Protection against Kurt Frank, but during custody hearings her request for her husband to only receive supervised visits was rejected. Kurt Frank murdered his two sons during an unsupervised visit. We must do better for the 3 million children witnesses still living out their nightmares. Law enforcement officers are those who find traumatized children hiding behind doors, beneath furniture, in closets. They are generally the first to arrive and their ability to recognize and address the needs of the children is critical.

This legislation also addresses domestic violence and the people who work to protect our children from violence. There is a significant overlap between domestic violence and child abuse. In families where one form of family violence exists, there is a likelihood that the other does, too. In a national survey, researchers learned that 56 percent of the men who frequently assaulted their wives also frequently abused their children.

The problem is that Child Protective Services or domestic violence organizations have not separated out programs to address one of these forms of violence, yet few address both when they occur together in families. My bill creates incentives for local governments to collaborate with domestic violence agencies in administering their child welfare programs.

Under my legislation, funds will be awarded to States and local governments to work collaboratively with community-based domestic violence organizations to: Provide training to the staff, supervisors, and administrators of child welfare service agencies and domestic violence programs, including staff responsible for screening, intake, assessment, and investigation of reports of child abuse and neglect; assist agencies in recognizing that the overlap between child abuse and domestic violence places both children and adult victims in danger; develop relevant protocols for screening, intake, assessment, and intervention; and increase the safety and well-being of child witnesses of domestic violence as well as the safety of the non-abusing parent.

In conclusion, we must pass this legislation for children who are traumatized by what they have seen. We must stop this legislation for children like Brandon and Alex who deserve to have our protection from harm.

Please join me in the protection of children who witness domestic violence.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to print the summary of the bill as follows:
The Children Who Witness Domestic Violence Protection Act of 1999—Summary

This bill will provide training to both child welfare and domestic violence workers to assist them in recognizing the treating domestic violence as a serious problem threatening the safety of both children and adults. Funds will be awarded to States and local governments to work with one or more community-based programs to provide training and assistance to workers in the area of domestic violence as it relates to cases of child welfare.

Training will include teaching staff to recognize the overlap between child abuse and domestic violence which places both children and adult victims in danger, and developing methods for identifying the presence of domestic violence in child welfare cases. Staff will also be taught how to increase the safety and well-being of child witnesses of domestic violence as well as the safety of the non-abusing parent. Protocols will be developed for law enforcement, probation and other justice agencies in order to ensure that justice system interventions and protections are readily available for victims of domestic violence served by the social service agency.

Authorization of appropriations for child welfare worker training is $5,000,000 for 3 years (totaling $15,000,000).

Supervised Visitation Centers

This bill increases the availability of visitation centers for visits and visita tion exchange of child witnesses and their parents. It provides money which domestic violence service providers can use to establish an operate supervised visitation centers. Authorization of appropriations for safe havens from the Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund is $20,000,000 for 3 years (totaling $60,000,000).

Law Enforcement: Police Officer Training

This bill provides training to law enforcement officers in how to care for children who have witnessed domestic violence. Police officers will be trained in child development and issues related to domestic violence so that they may recognize those children who have witnessed domestic violence. Police officers will be taught how to meet children’s immediate needs at the scene of violence. Authorization of appropriations for law enforcement officer training from the Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund is $3,000,000 for 3 years (totaling $9,000,000).

Crisis Nurseries

This bill provides funds to States to assist private and public agencies and organizations to provide crisis nurseries for children. Families faced with domestic violence need a safe place for their children during times of crisis. Authorization of appropriations for crisis nurseries of $15,000,000 for 3 years (totaling $45,000,000).

The Children Who Witness Domestic Violence Protection Act is a comprehensive first step toward confronting the problem that witnessing domestic violence has on children. Over 3 million children in the United States witness domestic violence in their homes each year. These children are at a high risk for aggression, depression, learning difficulties, school failure, delinquency, and even suicide. The attitudes a child develops concerning the use of violence and conflict resolution in their own relationship are also affected. Children living in homes where domestic violence occurs are at a greater risk of being abused themselves. This bill addresses the needs of children witnesses domestic violence by providing for mental health and education services, school-based programs, crisis nurseries and educational programs to provide training and assistance to community professionals about the impact of domestic violence on children.

Authorization of appropriations for law enforcement officers is $5,000,000 for 3 years (totaling $9,000,000). This bill also provides training to law enforcement officers in how to care for children who have witnessed domestic violence.

Domestic violence agencies will provide counseling and crisis nurseries of $15,000,000 for 3 years (totaling $45,000,000).

Mental Health

Multi-System Interventions for Children Who Witness Domestic Violence.

This bill will provide nonprofit agencies with funding to bring various services together to design and implement intervention programs for children who witness domestic violence. These working partnerships will involve counselors, courts, schools, health care providers, battered women’s programs and others. Intervention programs will provide counseling and advocacy for child witnesses and their families, strategies to ensure the safety and security of the children and their families, and outreach and training to community professionals about the impact of domestic violence.

Funds can be used to develop new programs or to carry out programs that have been successful in other communities. Authorization of appropriations for the multi-system interventions is $5,000,000 for 3 years (totaling $15,000,000).

Education

Combatting the Impact of Witnessing Domestic Violence on Elementary and Secondary School Children.

This bill will create opportunities for domestic violence community agencies and elementary and secondary schools to work together to address the needs of children who witness domestic violence. Domestic violence agencies will work with schools to provide domestic violence training to school officials so they can understand how witnessing domestic violence affects the children in their schools. Educational programming and materials will be provided to students and adults to help address the problems of children witnessing domestic violence. Authorization of appropriations for combating the impact of witnessing domestic violence on school children is $5,000,000 for 3 years (totaling $15,000,000).

The Children Who Witness Domestic Violence Protection Act of 1999—Summary

This bill will provide training to both child welfare and domestic violence workers to assist them in recognizing the treating domestic violence as a serious problem threatening the safety of both children and adults. Funds will be awarded to States and local governments to work with one or more community-based programs to provide training and assistance to workers in the area of domestic violence as it relates to cases of child welfare.

Training will include teaching staff to recognize the overlap between child abuse and domestic violence which places both children and adult victims in danger, and developing methods for identifying the presence of domestic violence in child welfare cases. Staff will also be taught how to increase the safety and well-being of child witnesses of domestic violence as well as the safety of the non-abusing parent. Protocols will be developed for law enforcement, probation and other justice agencies in order to ensure that justice system interventions and protections are readily available for victims of domestic violence served by the social service agency.

Authorization of appropriations for child welfare worker training is $5,000,000 for 3 years (totaling $15,000,000).

Supervised Visitation Centers

This bill increases the availability of visitation centers for visits and visitation exchange of child witnesses and their parents. It provides money which domestic violence service providers can use to establish an operate supervised visitation centers. Authorization of appropriations for safe havens from the Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund is $20,000,000 for 3 years (totaling $60,000,000).

Law Enforcement: Police Officer Training

This bill provides training to law enforcement officers in how to care for children who have witnessed domestic violence. Police officers will be trained in child development and issues related to domestic violence so that they may recognize those children who have witnessed domestic violence. Police officers will be taught how to meet children’s immediate needs at the scene of violence. Authorization of appropriations for law enforcement officer training from the Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund is $3,000,000 for 3 years (totaling $9,000,000).

Crisis Nurseries

fact that genetic testing only indicates that an individual may be predisposed to a disease—not necessarily whether that disease will develop.

This issue is already touching the lives of many Americans. For example, a survey by the American Management Association of over 1,000 companies indicated that 5% of responding employers currently do genetic testing of their employees. While that number may sound small, its more than the number of companies who test for HIV status. And of those companies who do genetic testing on their employees, 19% have chosen not to hire an individual and 10% have dismissed an employee based on the genetic test results.

Anecdotal evidence suggests that fear of discrimination already has inhibited people who may be susceptible to disease from getting genetic testing. In some cases, this means that gene carriers will miss out on early diagnosis, even prevention. If consumers avoid taking advantage of available diagnostic tests out of fear of discrimination, they may suffer much more serious—and more expensive—health problems in the long run.

The proposal to ban employment discrimination is clearly supported by the American people. A recent national poll by the National Center for Genome Resources demonstrates that an overwhelming majority of those surveyed—89%—think that employers should be prohibited from obtaining information about an individual's genetic conditions, risks, and predispositions.

We will pay the price in more than increased health care costs if we allow genetic information to be used in a discriminatory manner. Discrimination based on genetic factors can be as unjust as that based on race, national origin, religion, sex or disability. In each case, the government, the courts, or the community has found that no legitimate purpose justifies the exclusion of qualified individuals from employment, education, housing, or other opportunities to people.

We know the Federal and State laws currently offer only a patchwork of protections against the misuse of genetic information. While the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 took important first steps toward prohibiting genetic discrimination in health insurance, it left large gaps. For example, it does not prohibit insurers from requiring genetic testing or from disclosing genetic information and offers no protection at all for people who must buy their insurance in the individual market.

While several States—including my own—have enacted legislation prohibiting health insurance discrimination, these laws cannot protect more than 51 million American individuals in employer-sponsored, “self-funded” health plans. Additionally, few States have chosen to address the issue of employment discrimination or the separate issue of the privacy of genetic records.

I have personal experience that this issue is not a partisan issue. Two years ago, my distinguished friend and colleague, Senator Neumiller, and I introduced the first bills on this critical topic addressed both insurance and employment discrimination.

Last year, along with many of my Democratic colleagues, I joined Senator Snowe of Maine in supporting strong legislation protecting patients from genetic discrimination in insurance.

Today I am pleased to join my colleagues, Senator Daschle, Senator Harkin, and Senator Kennedy, in introducing comprehensive legislation to safeguard the privacy of genetic information and to prohibit health insurance or employment discrimination based on genetic information.

Specifically, this legislation, which we call the Genetic Nondiscrimination Health Insurance and Employment Act, would prohibit health insurers from discriminating based on genetic predisposition to an illness or condition and would prevent insurers from requiring applicants for health insurance to submit to genetic testing.

This bill would also address the concerns about employment discrimination arising from genetic testing. It would provide workers the ability to translate the entire genetic code, revealing each individual’s unique genetic blueprint, into useful knowledge, perhaps the most important advances in medicine since the invention of antibiotics.

Armed with this knowledge, individuals and families can make informed choices about their health care, including, in some cases, even taking steps to prevent the disease or to detect and treat it early.

Unfortunately, phenomenal advances in our understanding of genetics have outpaced the protections currently provided in law. Thus, the potential also exists for this remarkable new information—which is making such a difference in people's lives in terms of their health—this information could always be used by health insurers, employers, or others to deny health coverage or job opportunities to people.

As we gather this information that a person may be, based upon their genetic makeup, knowing you have a probability or a likelihood later in life of contracting certain diseases. That allows that individual and that family early on to take the steps through diet and/or medication, prescriptions, and so forth, to avoid the possibility of contracting those dread diseases.

That is profound information. It could make a huge difference to be able to know early on about a predisposition based upon your genetic makeup, knowing you have a probability or a likelihood later in life of contracting certain diseases. That allows that individual and that family early on to take the steps through diet and/or medication, prescriptions, and so forth, to avoid the possibility of contracting those dread diseases. That is the great news. It is phenomenal. It is happening at such a pace, it is hard to believe.

have a condition and you keep that from an employer and they hire you and they want to know whether or not you have a condition. I don't think anyone ought to be allowed to deny revealing information that an employer ought to know. A genetic condition that information ought not to deprive you of a job or health insurance just because that genetic information indicates that may be the case.

This is what happens. While I visited this wonderful Genetic Testing Center at Yale recently, I met with some patients and the researchers who do this work. They asked me to pay attention and listen to a couple of patients with whom they work.

Keith Hall has been a patient at Yale for several years, since he was first diagnosed with something called tuberous sclerosis. Let me explain what that is. It is a genetic disease that causes tumors of the brain, kidney, and other organs, and sometimes mental retardation. Currently, the family insurance covers the exorbitant cost of medication that keeps her healthy—about $33,000 a year. Ashley faces the prospect of being denied coverage when she gets older.

While we as a nation welcome these scientific achievements—we will be able to determine in the case of both Keith and Ashley that they have a predisposition for tuberous sclerosis or genetic nutritional disorders—if both this child and this individual were to be denied employment or insurance because of a genetic predisposition because that information becomes available, that is wrong and it needs to be corrected.

This legislation is designed to try to provide this kind of protection to people as we move forward with the wonderful information gathering of genetic information.

The issue is too important to ignore for another year. Each day that passes, more individuals suffer discrimination. Each day we fail to act, more families, more individuals suffer discrimination. The advances we have made recently in understanding human genome have the potential to lead to better diagnosis and treatment, and ultimately to the prevention and cure of many diseases and disabilities.

Yet the discrimination in health insurance and employment, and the fear of potential discrimination, threaten our ability to conduct the very research we need to understand, treat, and prevent genetic disease. Moreover, discrimination—and the fear of discrimination—threaten our ability to use new genetic technologies to improve human health.

Let me give you just a few examples:

In the early 1970s, some insurance companies refused coverage and some employers denied jobs to African-Americans who were identified as carriers for sickle cell anemia, even though they were healthy and would never develop the disease. A more recent example, in a survey of people with families with genetic disorders, 22% indicated that they, or a member of their family, had been refused health insurance on the basis of their genetic information.

And a number of researchers have been unable to get individuals to participate in cancer genetics research. Fear of discrimination is cited as the reason why.

But this is more than just about numbers and anonymous individuals, it's about real people—including my own family. As many of you know, both my sisters died from breast cancer. And other members of my family have had cancer. I would want to know whether my children are carriers of BRCA1 and BRCA2 mutations? Should I counsel them to disclose our family history to their health care providers?

Right now, I'm torn. I know that if my family is to have access to the best available interventions and preventive care, they should be tested, and they should disclose our family's medical history to their physicians. But, conversely, if they are to get any health care at all, they must have access to health insurance. Without strong protections against discrimination, access to health insurance is currently in question.

In 1995, I introduced an amendment during the markup of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act. My amendment clarified that group health plans could not establish eligibility, continuation, enrollment, or pre-existing condition requirements based on genetic information. My amendment became part of the manager's package that went to the floor, and it ultimately became law.

HIPAA is a good first step. We should be proud of that legislation. Yet if our goal is to ensure that individuals have access to health insurance coverage and to employment opportunities—regardless of their genetic make-up—we need a comprehensive anti-discrimination protection.

Our proposed legislation offers such protections. Let me describe them in brief:

First, this legislation prohibits insurers and employers from discriminating on the basis of genetic information. It is essential to prohibit discrimination both at work and in health insurance coverage. If we only prohibit discrimination in the insurance context, employers who are worried about future increased medical costs will simply not hire individuals who have a genetic predisposition to a particular disease.

Second, under our proposal, health insurance companies would be prohibited from disclosing genetic information to other insurance companies, industry-wide data banks, and employers. If we really want to prevent discrimination, we should not let genetic information get into the wrong hands.

Finally, if protections against genetic discrimination are to have teeth, we must include strong penalties and remedies to deter employers and insurers from discriminating in the first place.

In closing, let me say that this legislation will ensure that every American will enjoy the latest advances in scientific research and health care delivery, without fear of discrimination on the basis of their sensitive genetic information. All of us should be concerned about this issue, because all of us have genetic information that could be used against us. As we move into the new millennium, everyone should enjoy the benefits of 21st century technologies—and not be harmed by 21st century discrimination.

I applaud the commitment of my colleagues and others who have taken on this issue and look forward to working with the rest of my colleagues to pass federal legislation that will prohibit genetic discrimination in the workplace and in health insurance.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, the Nation is making extraordinary progress in biomedical research. The National Institutes of Health will have developed a working draft of the entire human genome by next spring. Comparative knowledge of the human sequence will enable researchers to identify large numbers of mutations associated with disease. Understanding the molecular basis of hereditary diseases will expedite the search for more effective treatments and cures. The benefits for patients are likely to be unparalleled in the history of medicine.

But this new scientific knowledge also raises a number of ethical, legal, and social questions. The National Institutes of Health is dealing with many of these challenges through programs funded by the National Human Genome Research Institute.
Congress also has a key role to play in this process, especially in dealing with genetic discrimination, which is an increasingly serious problem in health insurance and the workplace. A 1996 study in "Science and Engineering Ethics" reported more than 2300 cases of discrimination against individuals with genetic predispositions to certain diseases, even though the individuals have no symptoms of the disease as yet. For example, some employers have used genetic screening to identify African Americans with the gene mutation for sickle cell anemia. Those with the sickle cell gene mutation were denied jobs, even though many were only carriers of the mutation and would never become ill themselves.

In other cases, persons at risk for Huntington's disease have been denied health insurance and have lost their jobs. Similar concerns are arising in the wake of research showing a genetic basis for breast cancer. Ethnic groups who were participants in research to identify disease-related genes are increasingly concerned about the adverse effects on their insurance coverage and their jobs. Even at the National Institutes of Health, 32% of women offered a test for a genetic screening related to breast cancer refused to take the test, citing concerns about possible discrimination and the loss of privacy.

To deal with this issue, Senator DASCHLE, Senator HARKIN, Senator Dodd, and I are introducing legislation to ban genetic discrimination by both health insurers and employers. Our proposal is the culmination of years of work and debate over genetic discrimination. The proposal that we are introducing today is based on our belief that neither your health insurer nor your employer should be able to discriminate against you based upon your genetic information. In this era, when many people obtain their health insurance through their employer, it is especially critical that both health insurers and employers are prohibited from disclosing genetic information to each other. Proposals that do not address both the insurance and the employment aspects of the issue will not truly prevent genetic discrimination.

Our legislation prohibits health insurers from setting premiums and denying eligibility on the basis of genetic information. Because we believe that genetic testing will become a more widespread practice, we have specifically prohibited insurers from requiring or requesting genetic testing of all patients. Our bill prohibits insurers from suggesting or requiring patients to undergo genetic testing. Because insurers do not need to know genetic information for most situations, our bill prohibits them from requesting, collecting, or purchasing genetic information. In addition, the bill does not allow health insurers to share genetic information with each other, to disclose genetic information to industry-wide rating organizations, or to make genetic information available to employers. We know that employers are beginning to collect genetic information and discriminate against applicants and employees. Many examples illustrate the problem on a personal level, such as the story of Christine, in Milwaukee, WI. One of Christine's parents developed Huntington's disease, which meant that Christine had a 50% chance that she had a mutant gene that would cause her to develop the disease. Christine decided to undergo a genetic test to determine whether she had inherited the mutation. She traveled to the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor for the test. Christine's test was negative.

A co-worker in the small firm where Christine worked overheard Christine making the arrangements for the test and told Christine's supervisor. Her supervisor was initially sympathetic and offered to help. Christine then underwent the genetic test and learned that she had indeed inherited the mutation and would therefore eventually develop the disease. When Christine shared this information with her supervisor, she was fired, despite a history of many evaluations. Now, because of Christine's experience, none of her siblings are willing to have the genetic test.

This type of blatant discrimination must be stopped. Our legislation prohibits employers from collecting genetic information from any source, including health insurers, and from making any type of employment decision based on genetic information.

We should be concerned that genetic discrimination, because we all have mutations in our genes, and medical researchers are discovering new relationships between genes and diseases. Without legislative action, genetic discrimination will intensify as more genes associated with specific diseases are discovered, and as genetic testing becomes more common. Earlier this week, Vice President Gore proposed a challenge to the biomedical research community—to identify all genes associated with cancer by the year 2002. Our legislation is supported by the Alliance to Genetic Support Groups, the National Partnership for Women and Families, the American Civil Liberties Union, and Hadassah.

Congress should act quickly to pass legislation to ban genetic discrimination in health insurance and the workplace, so that we can benefit from those research advances without the threat that people will lose their jobs or their health insurance.

I ask unanimous consent that their letters of support be printed in the Record. There being no objection, the letters were ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

Hon. TED KENNEDY, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR KENNEDY: On behalf of the National Breast Cancer Coalition (NBCC), I am writing to express our leadership in offering the Genetic Nondiscrimination in Health Insurance and Employment Act of 1999. As you know, NBCC is a grassroots advocacy organization made up of over 500 organizations and tens of thousands of individuals, their families and friends. We are dedicated to the eradication of the breast cancer epidemic through action and advocacy. Addressing the complex privacy, insurance and employment discrimination questions raised by the genetic discoveries is one of our top priorities.

Discrimination in health insurance and employment is a serious problem. In addition to the risks of losing one's insurance or job, the fear of potential discrimination threatens both a woman's decision to use new genetic technology to receive the best medical care from her physician. It also limits the ability to conduct the research necessary to understand the cause and find a cure for breast cancer.

The Kassebaum-Kennedy Health Insurance Reform Act (1996) took some significant steps toward extending protection in the area of genetic discrimination in health insurance. But it did not go far enough. Moreover, since the enactment of Kassebaum-Kennedy, there have been incredible discoveries at a very rapid rate that offer fascinating insights in the biology of breast cancer, but that may also expose individuals to an increased risk of discrimination based on their genetic information.

Because of the discovery of BRCA1 and BRCA2, breast cancer susceptibility genes, we now face the reality of a test that can determine if a woman is at risk of heritable breast cancer. Genetic testing may well lead to the promise of improved health. But if women are too fearful to get tested, they won't be able to take advantage of the future benefits genetic testing might offer.

We commend your efforts to go beyond Kassebaum-Kennedy to protect all individuals—not just those in group health plans—against protection discrimination in the health insurance and employment venue based on their genetic information. The Genetic Nondiscrimination in Health Insurance and Employment Act of 1999 would also guarantee important protections against rate hikes based on genetic information, would prohibit insurers from demanding access to genetic information contained in personal records on family histories, and would restrict insurers' release of genetic information.

The passage of this legislation, and the protection it offers, are especially important for women with a genetic predisposition to breast cancer, but also for women living with breast cancer, their families, and the millions of women who will be diagnosed with breast cancer. We look forward to working with you towards getting the Genetic Nondiscrimination in Health Insurance and Employment Act of 1999 enacted this year.

Thank you again for your outstanding leadership, and please do not hesitate to call me or NBCC's Government Relations Manager, Jennifer Katz if you have any questions.

Sincerely, FRAN VISCO, President.

Hon. EDWARD KENNEDY, Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR KENNEDY: On behalf of Hadassah's 300,000 members, I would like to thank you, as well as Senators Daschle, Dodd, and Harkin for introducing "The Genetic Nondiscrimination in Health Insurance and Employment Act of 1999." The very information that may save someone's health or life should under no circumstances be used to deny them the insurance coverage needed to pay for this care. The issue of genetics-based discrimination by both insurance companies and employers has come to be of particular concern to the Jewish community. Over the past few years, studies have shown that certain populations experience heightened hereditary susceptibility to certain genetic mutations and their corresponding diseases. In particular, women of Ashkenazi or Eastern European Jewish descent have been found to demonstrate a distinct genetic predisposition to both breast and ovarian cancers. Most recently, there have been scientific findings linking colon cancer to Ashkenazi Jews.

Unfortunately, as Jews and other at-risk populations have sought to learn more about their genetic backgrounds, they have been confronted by genetics-based discrimination. As a result of this discrimination, many individuals choose not to receive genetic testing, or to even participate in research studies. As scientists continue to identify the genetic “markers” for more and more diseases, the issue of genetic discrimination stands to confront each and every one of us—men and women alike—regardless of ethnic heritage.

Hadassah has been active in support of similar legislation, such as H.R. 306, sponsored by Representative Louise Slaughter (D-NY), regarding health insurance discrimination. We are optimistic that similar endeavors from your office, and from those of your colleagues, will continue to expand the scope and prominence of this issue. Hopefully, our combined efforts will insure the passage of this legislation, and ultimately result in the elimination of genetics-based discrimination in both health insurance and employment. Please sign Hadassah on as supporters of this effort.

I look forward to working with you on this important piece of legislation. If you have any additional questions, or would like our assistance, please contact Ms. Tana Senn, Director of American Affairs/Domestic Policy. Again, we applaud your efforts in addressing this crucial issue.

With admiration and appreciation,

MARLENE E. POST,
National President.

DEAR SENATOR KENNEDY: The American Civil Liberties Union is a national, private, non-profit organization of more than 250,000 members dedicated to preserving the principles of liberty embodied in the Bill of Rights and the U.S. Constitution. The ACLU applauds the efforts of Senators Daschle, Dodd, Harkin and Kennedy in their continued efforts to promote awareness of the current and future problems of genetic discrimination. We are in full support of the Genetic Nondiscrimination in Health Insurance and Employment Act of 1999 and ask that the issue of genetic discrimination be given complete and immediate attention.

Sincerely,

Hon. EDWARD M. KENNEDY,
U.S. Senate,
Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR KENNEDY: I want to thank you for once again, taking the lead on an issue of great importance to women. The National Partnership for Women & Families is proud to endorse your bill, “The Genetic Nondiscrimination In Health Insurance and Employment Act of 1999.”

We believe that genetic discrimination is the next bottleneck to the future of medicine. The job of deciphering every gene found in the human body—more than 80,000 in all—is proceeding at record speed. Just a decade ago, geneticists could only imagine the potential of prenatal tests to look for birth defects. Today, more than 550 genetic tests are being used for the diagnosis of disease, and millions of women and men with genetic disorders and their families have found them a means for improved prevention, detection, and treatment of diseases like breast and ovarian cancer. Unfortunately, without adequate protection against genetic discrimination, the medical benefit from genetic advances may be outweighed by the fear of discrimination by insurers and employers. Your bill will alleviate that fear and allow women and men to benefit from medical and scientific progress. Thank you once again for all your hard work on this issue.

Sincerely yours,

JUDITH L. LICHTMAN,
President, National Partnership for Women & Families.

By Mr. MCCONNELL (for himself and Mr. BUNNING):
S. 1232. A bill to amend the Federal Power Act to ensure that certain Federal power customers are provided protection by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

THE TVA CUSTOMER PROTECTION ACT

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I have come to the Senate floor today to introduce a bill known as the TVA Customer Protection Act. This legislation will implement a number of consumer protections that will make TVA accountable to ratepayers and better prepare TVA to compete in a restructured electricity market. I am pleased to have Senator Bunning as an original cosponsor on this bill.

The legislation I am introducing, which is virtually identical to the legislation I introduced in the 105th Congress, provides Valley ratepayers protections against unchecked and unjustified increases in their power rates. Included in this bill are checks against future increases in TVA’s massive debt. This bill will put an end to TVA’s ability to compete unfairly with its regional distributors and will prohibit TVA from including international forays that have no relevance to its responsibility to provide low-cost power to the Valley.

Finally, this bill also codifies an agreement between TVA and several industry associations to limit TVA’s authority as a government entity to compete with small businesses in non-electric services.

Mr. President, TVA is a federal corporation that was first established in 1933, to cultivate the Tennessee River valley’s fifth largest river, and to bring economic development to this once poverty stricken region. Today, TVA provides power to nearly all of Tennessee and to parts of six other states covering over 80,000 square miles and serving eight million consumers. The bulk of TVA’s power sales are made through municipal and cooperative distributors, which in turn are responsible for delivering power to homes, offices and farms in the Valley. TVA has exclusive power contracts with its distributors and the three-member TVA board sets the retail rates offered by distributors.

Mr. President, TVA has not achieved significant success, it has not come without a price. Today, TVA customers are paying a premium for TVA’s excesses and mismanagement. For example, TVA has accumulated an enormous debt of nearly $26 billion, despite its monopoly status and the Board’s unilateral rate making authority. As a result, in 1998, TVA customers paid an astronomical 30 cents of every dollar in electricity costs. When you add TVA’s interest charge of 30 cents to the 11 cents the Federal Government, makes Uncle Sam look like a conservative financial planner. When compared to the average regulated public utility, which pays a mere 7 percent in finance cost, it is obvious that this isn’t a good deal for TVA ratepayers.

In a 1994 study, the General Accounting Office determined that TVA’s financial condition “threatens its long-term viability and places the federal government at risk.” One through years of unaccountability and fiscal irresponsibility could a power company have ever reached this level of debt, despite the fact that TVA is a monopoly provider of electricity.

As a result of TVA’s fiscal mismanagement and bloated budgets, TVA rates are higher than those of FERC-regulated utilities in Kentucky. Since 1988, wholesale power rates of regulated utilities in Kentucky have steadily fallen, while TVA’s wholesale power rates have remained at the same level, albeit higher than Kentucky utilities. Then, in 1997, TVA was forced to raise rates by 7 percent in an effort to get its fiscal house back in order. It is apparent that due to TVA’s past financial mismanagement, thousands of Kentuckians are paying more for power than Kentucky residents who are outside the TVA fence.

Mr. President, another way to quantify the impact of TVA’s fiscal irresponsibility is to compare the electric rates paid by Kentuckians. Mr. President, I have a chart here that displays the rate premiums paid by the 211,427 TVA customers living in Kentucky. I have used the rates filed by Kentucky Utilities and TVA’s publicly disclosed rates between 1999 and 2003. Based on these rates, Kentuckians will pay an average of $50 million more annually for the privilege of being served by TVA. Over the next five years this additional cost will be offset by TVA’s “accountability and fee.” It is painfully clear the Kentuckians who are served by TVA are getting a raw deal from this New Deal program.
Mr. President, I have come to the conclusion that TVA needs to be made more accountable for its actions. Not more accountable to Congress or the President, but the people TVA is charged to serve—Valley customers.

In my desire to provide TVA customers with a clear picture of TVA’s financial situation including its rates, charges and costs. The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) is authorized under the Federal Power Act with regulating electric utilities. FERC currently provides regulatory oversight to over 200 utilities for wholesale and transmission power rates to ensure that their electric rates and charges are "just and reasonable and not unduly discriminatory or preferential." At present, TVA is entirely exempt from these necessary regulations allowing it to operate as a self-regulating monopoly, with no such mandate for openness, fairness or oversight.

Mr. President, I am not alone in this belief. The distributors serving Memphis, Tennessee, Knoxville, Tennessee, and Paducah, Kentucky, share my views that TVA should fully comply with the FERC authority. Recently, before the House Commerce Committee, Mr. Herman Morris, Jr., President and CEO of the Memphis Light, Gas and Water Division testified before the House of MLGW and the Knoxville Utilities Board that FERC would "provide a new forum for resolving disputes regarding TVA transmission, wholesale sales pricing, terms and conditions." Mr. Morris went on to say that FERC jurisdiction is "necessary to provide Tennessee Valley distributors the same level of protection that the rest of the country enjoys."

Requiring TVA to comply with FERC regulations will serve two purposes. First, it will allow customers to accurately evaluate TVA’s wholesale and transmission power contracts at 2 percent below any rate offered by Bristol. I find this to be entirely unacceptable, especially applied to one of its own customers. It is my belief that since TVA’s activities were performed in a commercial endeavor, they should be held to the same standards as any other corporation under the antitrust laws.

Mr. President, I am concerned that TVA is willing to subject themselves to federal antitrust laws, so long as they aren’t subject to any penalties. Mr. President, I have some advice for TVA.

If you can’t pay the fine, don’t do the crime.

Finally, this legislation limits TVA’s ability to branch out into other businesses beyond power generation and transmission. TVA has attempted to diversify into equipment leasing as well as engineering and other contracting services in direct competition with other Valley businesses. I don’t believe that TVA should be permitted to use its considerable advantages, like its tax-exempt status, to compete against Valley businesses. TVA has signed a Memorandum of Agreement with Valley businesses not to compete against them.

My legislation codifies that agreement. Mr. President, I hope these reforms will offer TVA customers—both distributors and individuals alike—the means to make TVA more accountable and put an end, once and for all, to TVA’s unaccountability and unchecked fiscal irresponsibility. I want to put an end to TVA membership premium and let all Kentuckians benefit from some of the lowest power rates in the nation.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that additional material be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

purposes of the anti-trust laws.

(b) APPLICATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the anti-trust laws (including the availability of any remedy for violation of an antitrust law) shall apply to the Tennessee Valley Authority notwithstanding any determination that the Tenssee Valley Authority is a corporate agency or instrumentality of the United States or is otherwise engaged in governmental functions."
Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, today I rise to introduce the Citizen Congress Act, a bill which will end the five greatest perks and privileges which separate the Members of Congress from the American people, and which will eliminate taxpayer-funded financial incentives which encourage Members to become life-long legislators. In the past two Congresses, I have introduced a more broad version of this legislation. However, in the past two years, I want to focus on removing the top five taxpayer-funded financial incentives which encourage Senators and Representatives to remain in office as career politicians. I believe that the elimination of these five special privileges will return Congress to the institution our fore-fathers established.

As we approach the two-hundred and twenty-third anniversary of the founding of our great country, we should reaffirm that our Founding Fathers envisioned a Congress of citizen legislators who would leave their families and communities for a short time to write legislation and pass laws, and then return home to live under those laws they helped create to pass. Today, we remain committed to passing a term limit amendment to the Constitution, and I support term limits for Members of Congress, and I remain committed to passing a term limit amendment to the Constitution, and I support term limits for Members of Congress.

The legislation I introduce today represents an achievable step toward making Congress more responsive and responsible to the American people. The Citizen Congress Act will eliminate the five greatest financial incentives for Members to become life-long legislators, and will put them on equal footing with the majority of Americans. The proposals of this legislation include: eliminate the taxpayer subsidy element of Congressional pensions; require public disclosure of Congressional pensions; eliminate automatic COLA’s for Congress; eliminate automatic COLA’s for Congress; and require a roll call vote on all Congressional pay increases.

Eliminating the taxpayer subsidy of Congressional pensions, reforming the overall Congressional pension system represents a remarkable improvement. With the Citizen Congress Act, Senators and Representatives will no longer be eligible for pensions that far exceed what is available in the private sector and are padded with matching taxpayer dollars. Instead, Members will have access to the same plans as other federal employees and private citizens,

SEC. 8. SAVINGS PROVISION.
(a) Definition of TVA Distributor.—In this section, the term “TVA distributor” means a cooperative organization or publicly owned electric power system that, on January 2, 1998, purchased electric power at wholesale from the Tennessee Valley Authority under an all-requirements power contract.

(b) Effect of Act.—Nothing in this Act or any amendment made by this Act—
(1) subjects any TVA distributor to regulation by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission; or
(2) abrogates or affects any law in effect on the date of enactment of this Act that applies to a TVA distributor.

SEC. 9. PROVISION OF CONSTRUCTION EQUIPMENT, CONTRACTING, AND ENGINEERING SERVICES.
Section 4 of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act of 1933 (16 U.S.C. 831c) is amended by adding at the end the following:
(m) PROVISION OF CONSTRUCTION EQUIPMENT, CONTRACTING, AND ENGINEERING SERVICES.—
```
(1) In general.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, except as provided in this subsection, the Corporation shall not have to—

(2) ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS.—The Corporation may provide equipment or a service described in subparagraph (1) to—
```
(A) a power customer served directly by the Corporation;
```
```
(B) a distributor of Corporation power; or
```
(C) a Federal, State, or local government entity;

SEC. 10. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.
There are authorized to be appropriated to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission such sums as are necessary to carry out this Act and the amendments made by this Act.

TVA Board Spent More Than $85,000 to Travel in 1998. Knoxville, Tenn.—Credit card receipts show Tennessee Valley Authority board members spent more than $85,000 in 1998 on travel expenses, a newspaper reported on Sunday.

Among the charges are lodging at the Ritz-Carleton hotel near Washington, a casino re-sort in Nevada and a golf club in Mississippi. TVA Chairman Craven Crowell alone took 92 trips, including 12 to foreign countries, The Knoxville News-Sentinel reported.

Crowell’s travel expenses include a $500 hotel bill from a Mississippi casino, $4,500 at attractions with golf courses and more than $200 in liquor. Crowell currently is the only member of the three-member TVA board.

Prosser’s expenses include a $500 hotel bill from a Mississippi casino, $4,500 at attractions with golf courses and more than $200 in liquor. Prosser maintains the expenses are legitimate and he is the victim of retaliation by TVA officials because he investigated TVA employees and attending conferences, according to TVA spokesman Steve Bender. “These are not pleasure trips,” said TVA spokesman Steve Bender. “The chairman is working on these trips.”

The U.S. General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, is probing how TVA Inspector General George Prosser spent TVA expense money, after a written request from Crowell. In June, it was revealed that Prosser’s expenses include a $500 hotel bill from a Mississippi casino, $4,500 at attractions with golf courses and more than $200 in liquor.

Prosser’s expenses include a $500 hotel bill from a Mississippi casino, $4,500 at attractions with golf courses and more than $200 in liquor. Crowell currently is the only member of the three-member TVA board. Johnny Hayes left in January to work in Vice President Al Gore’s presidential campaign, and Bill Kennon’s name is mentioned frequently.

In 1998, Kennon spent $17,995 on 69 trips, and he didn’t return phone calls from the newspaper seeking comment. Hayes spent $17,265 on 35 trips. “I never charged golf, a meal or anything else where I wasn’t on TVA business,” Hayes said.

“I was out with customers constantly,” he said. “I fished with them. I golfed with them. I went to every major convention they had.”

“The real measure is how much they accomplish on the trips,” Ford said.

CITIZEN CONGRESS ACT

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, today I rise to introduce the Citizen Congress Act, a bill which will end the five greatest perks and privileges which separate the Members of Congress from the American people, and which will eliminate taxpayer-funded financial incentives which encourage Members to become life-long legislators. In the past two Congresses, I have introduced a more broad version of this legislation. However, in the past two years, I want to focus on removing the top five taxpayer-funded financial incentives which encourage Senators and Representatives to remain in office as career politicians. I believe that the elimination of these five special privileges will return Congress to the institution our fore-fathers established.

As we approach the two-hundred and twenty-third anniversary of the founding of our great country, we should reaffirm that our Founding Fathers envisioned a Congress of citizen legislators who would leave their families and communities for a short time to write legislation and pass laws, and then return home to live under those laws they helped create to pass. Today, we remain committed to passing a term limit amendment to the Constitution, and I support term limits for Members of Congress, and I remain committed to passing a term limit amendment to the Constitution, and I support term limits for Members of Congress.

The legislation I introduce today represents an achievable step toward making Congress more responsive and responsible to the American people. The Citizen Congress Act will eliminate the five greatest financial incentives for Members to become life-long legislators, and will put them on equal footing with the majority of Americans. The provisions of this legislation include: eliminate the taxpayer subsidy element of Congressional pensions; require public disclosure of Congressional pensions; eliminate automatic COLA’s for Congress; eliminate automatic COLA’s for Congress; and require a roll call vote on all Congressional pay increases.

Eliminating the taxpayer subsidy of Congressional pensions, reforming the overall Congressional pension system represents a remarkable improvement. With the Citizen Congress Act, Senators and Representatives will no longer be eligible for pensions that far exceed what is available in the private sector and are padded with matching taxpayer dollars. Instead, Members will have access to the same plans as other federal employees and private citizens, with no taxpayer subsidy. This will ensure that Members who serve in Congress for many years do not accumulate multi-million dollar pensions at the public’s expense. Automatic cost of living adjustments for Congressional pensions are eliminated in this bill. Additionally, requiring a public roll call vote on pay increases ensures that Members of Congress do not vote themselves a pay increase in the dead of night, as has been the case many, many times in the past.

At a time when everyone is tightening their belts to maintain fiscal responsibility and restore confidence in our government, it is only fitting that Members of Congress eliminate the perks and privileges which separate them from the American people. This is what Tennesseans tell me when I travel across our state, and that is what I am doing with the Citizen Congress Act. I encourage my colleagues to join me in passing this important legislation and bringing Congress another step closer to the American people.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the full text of the bill be printed in the Record. There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1306

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Citizen Congress Act."

SEC. 2. LIMITATION ON RETIREMENT COVERAGE FOR MEMBERS OF CONGRESS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, effective at the beginning of the Congress next beginning after the date of the enactment of this Act, a Member of Congress shall be ineligible to participate in the Civil Service Retirement System or the Federal Employees’ Retirement System, except as otherwise provided under this section.

(b) PARTICIPATION IN THE THRIFT SAVINGS PLAN.—Notwithstanding subsection (a), a Member may participate in the Thrift Savings Plan described by the Office of Personnel Management and the Executive Director (referred to in section 8401(13) of title 5, United States Code) with respect to matters within their respective areas of responsibility.

(c) DEFINITION.—In this section, the terms "Member of Congress" and "Member" have the meaning of the term "Member" as defined under section 8401(2) or 8401(12) of title 5, United States Code.

SEC. 3. DISCLOSURE OF ESTIMATES OF FEDERAL RETIREMENT BENEFITS OF MEMBERS OF CONGRESS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 105(a)(2) of the Legislative Branch Appropriations Act, 1965 (2 U.S.C. 104a; Public Law 89-454, 78 Stat. 550) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(5) The Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House of Representatives shall include in each report submitted under paragraph (1), with respect to Members of Congress, as applicable—"

"(A) the total amount of individual contributions made by each Member to the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund and the Thrift Savings Fund under chapters 83 and 84 of title 5, United States Code, for all Federal service performed by the Member as a Member of Congress and as a Federal employee;"

"(B) an estimate of the annuity each Member would be entitled to receive under chapter 84 of title 5, United States Code, if each Member based on various assumptions of years of service and age of separation from service by reason of retirement provided by Medicare;"

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section shall take effect 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act.
Independent Living Programs, allowing them to provide the day-to-day living needs for 18 to 21-year-olds while they learn valuable life skills. This more comprehensive program with a long transition period will promote the safety, health, and permanency in the lives of these children. It also removes a significant barrier to these children's adoption by ensuring that the families who adopt them have access to the appropriate resources before age 21.

In addition, this bill provides them access to the health and mental health services offered through Medicaid. Numerous studies of adolescents who leave foster care have found that this population has a significantly higher-than-normal rate of school drop outs, out-of-wedlock pregnancies, homelessness, health and mental health problems, poverty, and unemployment. They are also more likely to be victims of crime and physical assaults. My more comprehensive program addresses these grave health and safety concerns by allowing adolescents who age out of or are adopted out of foster care to continue to receive crucial health, and mental health care benefits through the age of 21.

I am heartened by the broad, bipartisan support that the Independent Living Act of 1999, introduced by my colleague, Representative NANCY JOHNSON, received last week in the House. I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this important measure and ask unanimous consent that the full text and summary of the bill printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1327

(c) IMPROVED INDEPENDENT LIVING PROGRAM.—Section 477 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 677) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 477. INDEPENDENT LIVING PROGRAM.

"(a) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this section is to provide States with flexible funding that will enable the States to design and conduct programs—

"(1) to identify children who are likely to remain in foster care during their teenage years and that help these children make the transition to self-sufficiency by providing services such as assistance in obtaining a high school diploma, career exploration, vocational training, job placement and retraining, independent living skill training, in budgeting and financial management skills, substance abuse prevention, and how to maintain their own physical and mental health, including how to access health care, mental health, and community-based peer support services;

"(2) to help children leaving foster care, including those adopted after age 16, obtain the education, training, and services necessary to obtain and maintain employment;

"(3) to help children leaving foster care, including those adopted after age 16 to prepare for and enter postsecondary training and education institutions;

"(4) to provide personal and emotional support for children aging out of foster care, through mentors, the promotion of interactions with dedicated adults, and continued efforts at locating permanent family resources, including adoption, for these children; and

"(5) to provide financial assistance, access to health and mental health care, supervised housing, counseling, employment, education, permanency planning, and other appropriate support and services that promote active and responsible citizenship, healthy development, and community membership for former foster care recipients between 18 and 21 years of age to complement their own efforts to achieve long-term self-sufficiency.

"(b) APPLICATION.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A State may apply for funds from its allotment under subsection (c) for a period of 5 consecutive fiscal years by submitting to the Secretary, in writing, a plan that meets the requirements of paragraph (2) and the certifications required by paragraph (3) with respect to the plan.

"(2) STATE PLAN.—A plan meets the requirements of this paragraph if the plan specifies which State agency or agencies will administer, supervise, or oversee the programs carried out under this section and describes how the State intends to do the following:
"(A) Design and deliver programs to achieve the purposes of this section in such a way that each child’s health, safety, opportunity for a permanent family, and successful, independent, self-sufficient life is a paramount concern.

"(B) Ensure that all political subdivisions in the State are served by the programs, though they may be in a uniform manner.

"(C) Ensure that the programs serve children of various ages and at various stages of achieving independence.

"(D) Involve public and private individuals and organizations familiar with, or interested in addressing, the needs of youths aging out of foster care, including people served by these programs, and, where they exist, organizations of youths who have been in foster care.

"(E) Establish criteria for determining eligibility for benefits and services under the programs, and for ensuring fair and equitable treatment of benefit recipients.

"(F) Cooperate in national evaluations of the effects of the programs in achieving the purposes of this section.

"(G) Designate an independent living coordinator to coordinate the delivery of benefits and services under the programs.

"(3) CERTIFICATIONS.—The certifications required by this paragraph with respect to a plan submitted under section (b) shall include:

"(A) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State will provide services to children who have left foster care after the age of 18 but have not attained 21 years of age.

"(B) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that not more than 30 percent of the amounts paid to the State from its allotment under subsection (c) for a fiscal year will be expended for room or board for children who have left foster care after the age of 16 and have attained 18 but not 21 years of age, and that such room and board services shall be supervised, including interaction between the youths and adults, and the provision of such services shall include a requirement that the participating youths must be actively enrolled in educational, vocational training, or career development programs.

"(C) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that none of the amounts paid to the State pursuant to subsection (c) will be expended for room or board for any child who has not attained 18 years of age.

"(D) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State has consulted widely with public and private individuals and organizations familiar with, or interested in addressing, the needs of youths aging out of foster care, including young people served by the programs under the plan, and where they exist, organizations of youths who have been in foster care, in developing the plan and that the State has given all interested members of the public at least 30 days to submit comments on the plan.

"(E) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State will make every effort to coordinate the State programs receiving funds provided from an allotment made to the State under subsection (c) with other Federal and State programs for youth, especially transitional living youth programs, for which funds have been provided under part B of title III of the J uvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 and funded under the Department of Health and Human Services, local housing programs, programs for disabled youth, and school-to-work programs.

"(F) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that each Indian tribe in the State has been informed about the programs to be carried out under the plan; that each such tribe has been given an opportunity to comment on the plan before submission to the Secretary; and that benefits and services provided under the program will be made available to Indian children in the State on the same basis as to other children in the State.

"(G) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State will use training funds provided under the program of Federal payments for foster care and adoption assistance and training to help foster parents, adoptive parents, workers in group homes, and case managers understand and implement the programs.

"(H) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State will ensure that each adolescent participating in any program under this section will have a personal independent living plan, and that approximately 75 percent of those participating will directly in designing their own program activities that prepare them for independent living and in taking personal responsibility for fulfilling their own needs.

"(I) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State will use Federal payments for foster care and adoption assistance to provide training to help the State develop youth development programs, including those designed to develop an understanding of the youth development process.

"(J) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State will use Federal payments for foster care and adoption assistance to develop career training programs, for youths who are provided with room and board services under such State programs, for youths who have been in foster care before the age of 16, and for youths who are provided with room and board services under such State programs, for youths who have left foster care after the age of 16 but have not attained 21 years of age.

"(K) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State will use Federal payments for foster care and adoption assistance to provide training to help the State develop career training programs, for youths who are provided with room and board services under such State programs, for youths who have been in foster care before the age of 16, and for youths who are provided with room and board services under such State programs, for youths who have left foster care after the age of 16 but have not attained 21 years of age.

"(L) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State has coordinated with and established and is implementing uniform standards and procedures to prevent fraud and abuse in the programs.

"(M) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State will coordinate such training with the independent living program conducted for adolescents.

"(N) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State will use Federal payments for foster care and adoption assistance to provide training to help the State develop youth development programs, including those designed to develop an understanding of the youth development process.

"(O) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State will use Federal payments for foster care and adoption assistance to develop career training programs, for youths who are provided with room and board services under such State programs, for youths who have been in foster care before the age of 16, and for youths who are provided with room and board services under such State programs, for youths who have left foster care after the age of 16 but have not attained 21 years of age.

"(P) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State has consulted widely with public and private individuals and organizations familiar with, or interested in addressing, the needs of youths aging out of foster care, including young people served by the programs under the plan, and where they exist, organizations of youths who have been in foster care, in developing the plan and that the State has given all interested members of the public at least 30 days to submit comments on the plan.

"(Q) A certification by the chief executive officer of the State that the State will make every effort to coordinate the State programs receiving funds provided from an allotment made to the State under subsection (c) with other Federal and State programs for youth, especially transitional living youth programs, for which funds have been provided under part B of title III of the J uvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 and funded under the Department of Health and Human Services, local housing programs, programs for disabled youth, and school-to-work programs.

(3) during any part of which the individual is confined in a jail, prison, or other penal institution or correctional facility pursuant to a conviction of an offense.

"Sec. 805. BENEFIT AMOUNT.

(1) The benefit under this title payable to a qualified individual for any month shall be in an amount equal to 75 percent of the Federal benefit rate under title XVI for the month, reduced by the amount of the qualified individual's benefit income for the month.

"Sec. 806. APPLICATIONS AND FURNISHING OF INFORMATION.

(a) In General.—The Commissioner of Social Security and the Secretary of the Treasury shall promptly notify by mail the individual, the representative payee, the State in which the individual resides, and the appropriate Federal, State, or local agency, of any information concerning qualifications or other material facts, and shall provide for verification of information and other material, and the reporting of events and changes in circumstances, as may be necessary for the effective and efficient administration of this title.

(b) Verification Requirement.—The requirements prescribed by the Commissioner of Social Security under subsection (a) shall preclude any determination of entitlement to benefits under this title solely on the basis of declarations by the individual concerning qualifications or other material facts, and shall provide for verification of additional information as necessary in order to ensure that the benefits are provided only to qualified individuals (or their representative payees).

"Sec. 807. REPRESENTATIVE PAYEES.

(a) In General.—If the Commissioner of Social Security determines that the interest of any qualified individual in the benefits payable under this title will be served thereby, payment of the qualified individual's benefit under this title may be made to a representative payee under this title to whom payment would have been made had the qualified individual been a representative payee.

(b) EXAMINATION OF FITNESS OF PROSPECTIVE REPRESENTATIVE PAYEE.—

(1) Any determination under subsection (a) to pay the benefits of a qualified individual to a representative payee shall be made on the basis of—

(A) an investigation by the Commissioner of Social Security and the Secretary of the Treasury to assure that the representative payee, which shall be conducted in advance of the determination and shall, to the extent practicable, include a face-to-face interview with the person (or, in the case of an organization, a representative of the organization); and

(B) adequate evidence that the arrangement is in the interest of the qualified individual.

(2) As part of the investigation referred to in paragraph (1), the Commissioner of Social Security and the Secretary of the Treasury shall—

(A) require the person being investigated to submit documented proof of the identity of the person; and

(B) in the case of a person who has a social security account number issued for purposes of the program under title II or an employer identification number issued for purposes of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, verify the number;

(3) (C) determine whether the person has been convicted of a violation of section 208, 811, or 1632; and

(4) (D) determine whether payment of benefits to the person in the capacity as representative payee has been revoked or terminated under this section, section 205(j), or section 1631(a)(2)(A)(iii) by reason of misuse of funds paid as benefits under this title, title I, or title XVI, respectively;

(C) REQUIREMENT FOR Centralized File.—The Commissioner of Social Security shall establish and maintain a centralized file, the contents of which shall be updated regularly and which shall be in a form that renders it readily retrievable by each servicing office of the Social Security Administration. The file shall consist of—

(1) a list of the names and social security account numbers or employer identification numbers (if issued) of all persons with respect to whom, in the capacity of representative payee, the payment of benefits has been revoked or terminated under this section, section 205(j), or section 1631(a)(2)(A)(iii) by reason of misuse of funds paid as benefits under this title, title I, or title XVI, respectively; and

(2) a list of the names and social security account numbers or employer identification numbers (if issued) of all persons who have been convicted of a violation of section 208, 811, or 1632.

(2) EXEMPTIONS.—

(1) In General.—The benefits of a qualified individual may not be paid to any other person pursuant to this title, if—

(A) the person has been convicted of a violation of section 208, 811, or 1632;

(B) the person is ineligible to serve as a representative payee; or

(C) except as provided in paragraph (2)(B), the person is a creditor of the qualified individual and provides the qualified individual with goods or services for consideration.

(2) EXEMPTIONS.—

(A) If the Commissioner of Social Security may prescribe circumstances under which the Commissioner of Social Security may grant an exemption from paragraph (1) to a person on a case-by-case basis if the exemption is in the best interest of the qualified individual whose benefits would be paid to the person pursuant to this section.

(B) Paragraph (3) shall not apply with respect to any person who is a creditor referred to in such paragraph if the creditor is—

(i) a relative of the qualified individual and the relative resides in the same household as the qualified individual;

(ii) a legal guardian or legal representative of the individual; and

(iii) a facility that is licensed or certified as a care facility under the law of the political jurisdiction in which the qualified individual resides.

(C) A person who is an administrator, owner, or employee of a facility referred to in clause (iii) and who, in the judgment of the facility owner, or employee, would serve the best interests of the qualified individual;
"(v) a person who is determined by the Commissioner of Social Security, on the basis of written findings and pursuant to procedures prescribed by the Commissioner of Social Security, to be unacceptable to serve as a representative payee.

(C) The procedures referred to in subparagraph (B)(v) shall require the person who will serve as a payee to establish to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Social Security, that—

(i) the person poses no risk to the qualified individual; and

(ii) no other more suitable representative payee can be found.

(e) DEFERRAL OF PAYMENT PENDING APPOINTMENT OF REPRESENTATIVE PAYEE.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), if the Commissioner of Social Security makes a determination described in the first sentence of subsection (a) with respect to any qualified individual's benefit and determines that direct payment of the benefit to the qualified individual would cause substantial harm to the qualified individual, the Commissioner of Social Security may defer (in the case of initial entitlement) or suspend (in the case of existing entitlement) direct payment of the benefit to the qualified individual, until such time as the selection of a representative payee is made pursuant to this section.

"(2) EXCEPTIONS.—

(A) As provided in subparagraph (B), any deferral or suspension of direct payment of a benefit pursuant to paragraph (1) shall be for a period of not more than 1 month.

(B) EXCEPTION IN THE CASE OF INCOMPETENCY.—Subparagraph (A) shall not apply in any case in which the Commissioner of Social Security determines, legally incompetent under the laws of the jurisdiction in which the individual resides.

"(3) PAYMENT OF RETROACTIVE BENEFITS.—Payment of any benefits which are deferred or suspended pending the selection of a representative payee shall be made to the qualified individual or the representative payee as a single sum or over such period of time as the Commissioner of Social Security determines to be in the best interest of the qualified individual.

(f) HEARING.—Any qualified individual who is subject to the provisions of this subsection shall have the opportunity to be heard by the Commissioner of Social Security in accordance with section 205(g) of this title with respect to entitlement to, or the amount of, benefits under this title; and

(g) NOTICE REQUIREMENTS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—In advance of the payment of a qualified individual's benefit to a representative payee under subsection (a), the Commissioner of Social Security shall provide written notice of the Commissioner's initial determination to so make the payment. The written notice shall be provided to the qualified individual, except that, if the qualified individual is legally incompetent, then the notice shall be provided solely to the legal guardian or legal representative of the qualified individual.

"(2) SPECIFIC REQUIREMENTS.—Any notice required by paragraph (1) shall be clearly written in language that is easily understandable to the reader, shall identify the person to be designated as the qualified individual's representative payee, and shall explain to the reader the right under subsection (f) of the qualified individual or of the qualified individual's legal guardian or legal representative to require a hearing.

"(a) A appeal a determination that a representative payee is necessary for the qualified individual;

"(b) the designation of a particular person to serve as the representative payee of qualified individual; and

"(c) the evidence upon which the designation is based and to submit additional evidence.

(h) ACCOUNTABILITY MONITORING.—

"(1) In any case in which the Commissioner of Social Security determines, based on accountability monitoring under which the person shall report not less often than annually with respect to the use of the payments, that the Commissioner of Social Security shall establish and implement statistically valid procedures for reviewing the reports in order to identify instances in which persons are not properly using the payments, the Commissioner of Social Security may use the collection practices whose benefits deductions are authorized.

"(2) SPECIAL REPORTS.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1), the Commissioner of Social Security may require a report at any time from any person receiving payments on behalf of a qualified individual, if the Commissioner of Social Security has reason to believe that the payments are not being used for the benefit of the qualified individual.

"(3) CENTRALIZED FILE.—The Commissioner of Social Security shall maintain a centralized file, which shall be updated periodically and which shall be in a form that is readily retrievable, of—

(A) the name, address, and (if issued) the social security or employer identification number of each representative payee who is receiving benefit payments pursuant to this section, section 205(g), or section 1631a(1); and

(B) the name, address, and social security account number of each individual for whom each representative payee is necessary for the qualification of a particular person to serve as the representative payee.

"(4) The Commissioner of Social Security shall maintain a list, which shall be updated periodically, of public agencies and community-based nonprofit social service agencies which are qualified to serve as representative payees pursuant to this section and which are located in the jurisdiction in which any qualified individual resides.

(i) RESTITUTION.—In any case where the negligent failure of the Commissioner of Social Security to investigate or monitor a representative payee results in misuse of benefits by the representative payee, the Commissioner of Social Security shall make payment to the qualified individual or the individual's alternative representative payee of an amount equal to the misused benefits. The Commissioner of Social Security shall use a good faith effort to obtain restitution from the terminated representative payee.

"SEC. 809. OVERPAYMENTS AND UNDERPAYMENTS.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—Whenever the Commissioner of Social Security finds that more or less than the correct amount of payment has been made to any person under this title, proper adjustment or recovery shall be made, as follows:

"(1) With respect to payment to a person of more than the correct amount, the Commissioner of Social Security shall decrease any overpaid amount to the overpaid person (if a qualified individual) is entitled, or shall require the overpaid person or his or her estate to refund the amount in excess of the correct amount, or, if recovery is not obtained under these two methods, shall seek or pursue recovery by means of reduction by offset, or refusal to pay benefits, or by any other method the Commissioner of Social Security determines to be necessary or proper for the administration of this title. In the course of any hearing, investigation, or other proceeding as the Commissioner of Social Security may, on the Commissioner of Social Security's own motion, hold such hearings and to conduct such investigations and other proceedings as the Commissioner of Social Security may, on the Commissioner of Social Security's own motion, hold such hearings and to conduct such investigations and other proceedings as the Commissioner of Social Security determines to be necessary or proper for the administration of this title. In the course of any hearing, investigation, or other proceeding as the Commissioner of Social Security may, on the Commissioner of Social Security's own motion, hold such hearings and to conduct such investigations and other proceedings as the Commissioner of Social Security determines to be necessary or proper for the administration of this title.

"(b) Waiver of Recovery of Overpayment.—In any case in which more than the correct amount of payment has been made, there shall be no adjustment of payments to, or recovery by the United States from, any person who is without fault if the Commissioner of Social Security determines that the adjustment or recovery would defeat the purpose of this title or would be against equity and good conscience.
hearing before the Commissioner of Social Security even though inadmissible under the rules of evidence applicable to court procedure. The Commissioner of Social Security shall be guided into account any physical, mental, educational, or linguistic limitation of the individual (including any lack of facility with the English language) in determining, with respect to the entitlement of the individual for benefits under this title, whether the individual acted in good faith or was at fault, and in determining fraud, deception, or intent.

"(2) EFFECT OF FAILURE TO TIMELY REQUEST REVIEW.—A failure to timely request review of an initial adverse determination with respect to which an application for any payment under this title or an adverse determination on reconsideration of such initial determination shall not serve as a basis for denial of a subsequent application for any payment under this title if the applicant demonstrates that the applicant failed to so request such a review acting in good faith reliance upon incorrect, incomplete, or misleading information, relating to the consequences of reapplying for payments in lieu of seeking review of an adverse determination, to an officer or employee of the Social Security Administration.

"(3) NOTICE REQUIREMENTS.—In any notice of an adverse determination with respect to which an application for any payment under paragraph (1), the Commissioner of Social Security shall describe in clear and specific language the effect on possible entitlement to benefits of the individual of choosing to reapply in lieu of requesting review of the determination.

"(b) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—The final determination of the Commissioner of Social Security after a hearing under subsection (a)(1) shall be subject to judicial review as provided by any officer or employee of the Federal courts of the United States."

THE FOSTER CARE INDEPENDENCE ACT OF 1999—FACT SHEET

Federal Independent Living Programs (ILP) are designed to assist some of our Nation’s most vulnerable children as they make the transition from foster children to inde-dependent adults. Under current law, teens who are “out of the system” and completely on their own immediately when they turn 18. Many teens need help to make a successful transition to self-sufficiency, especially teens who have spent years in foster care. Programs must be designed to be consistent with the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997, namely that safety and health of the child are paramount. Studies of adolescents who leave foster care have found that these children have a significantly higher than normal rate of school drop out, childbearing, homelessness, health and mental health problems, and poverty.

The Foster Care Independence Act of 1999 is designed to help teens aging out of foster care make a more successful transition to adulthood. It addresses safety by allowing for ILP funds to be used to ensure that the basic needs of housing and food can be provided to these youth. It addresses health by ensuring that teens who are aging out of or adopted out of foster care to continue to receive crucial health and mental health care benefits to the age of 21. Key provisions of the Act include:

Strong Medicaid coverage: Requires states that receiving new ILP monies continue to provide health care, including coverage for mental health needs to foster, or adopted (whose adoptive placements began on or after their 16th birthdays), children up to their 21st birthday.

Funding for Independent Living Services: Allows the funding—up to $95 million per year—for Independent Living Services to enable states to cover teens from 18 to 21, with support services and housing assistance, with language to promote employment and/ or job training. The bill also insures that ILP are supervised and includes a broad array of services based on young people’s developmental and self-sufficiency needs.

Avoids disincentives for adoption of teens: Consistent with the priorities established in the Adoption and Safe Families Act, this bill promotes permanence for teens adopted after 16 to retain eligibility for Independent Living programs, including vital access to health coverage from ages 18-21. This is consistent with the priority that Independent Living Programs are not a substitute for permanency for foster care teens, rather support services to ease the transition for teens who have faced challenges. This allows Independent Living Program services to be concurrent with continued reasonable efforts to locate and achieve placement in adoptive families or other planned permanent settings as required under ASFA.

Quality data, evaluation and outcome measures: Insures that quality data is colclected and evaluated, to enhance programs are effective, and seeks to coordinate with the data collection efforts required under the Adoption and Safe Families Act.

Updated funding formula: Funding formula provides that every state can qualify for new Independent Living Incentives to serve teens aging out of foster care from 18 to 21.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, I rise today to join Senator CHafee and a bipartisan group in the introduction of the Foster Care Independence Act of 1999. I want to thank Senator CHafee for his leadership on behalf of vulnerable young people, including our bipartisan work on this legislation. I also wish to thank the other co-sponsors of this legislation—Senators Reed, Bond, Lautenberg, Monahan, Breaux, Kerrey, Mikulski, and Jeffords. Work on this legislation is based on the foundation created by the bipartisan 1997 Adoption and Safe Families Act.

Our First Lady, Mrs. Clinton, has also been a special leader on behalf of vulnerable children. In 1997, she helped focus the national spotlight on the need to promote adoption. This year, she has helped to focus much needed attention on the challenges facing teenagers who age out of foster care, and that work is helping to improve the system for such teens by expanding the Independent Living program.

In 1997, a unique bipartisan Senate coalition formed to promote adoption and foster care reform. They focused on the most vulnerable children, those subjected to abuse and neglected. After months of hard work, we forged consensus on the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 (ASFA). This law, for the first time ever, established that a child’s health and safety are paramount when family decisions are made regarding children in the abuse and neglect system. The law also stressed the importance of permanency to a child, and it imposed new time frames as goals for permanency. At 16, a youth is considered a minor. In the abuse and neglect system, a minor youth is only able to make decisions regarding his or her own welfare. When a minor youth turns 18, all services stop. The foster family has been living with a youth who could not afford to care for him any longer, but they agreed to allow him to sleep in their garage. He had no access to school, no job, no family. When he turned 18, he had no opportunity to adopt with some of his younger siblings. He immediately said, “Yes!” and when asked by the judge why he would want to be adopted at age 18, he replied, “I will always need a family, and someday, I hope my children will be able to have grandparents.”

Jen James had been in foster care since the age of 6. She had been moved in and out of foster care many times. At age 16, she moved in with a foster family who had been living with a youth who could not afford to care for him any longer, but they agreed to allow him to sleep in their garage. She had no access to school, no job, no family. When she turned 18, she had no opportunity to adopt with some of her younger siblings. She immediately said, “Yes!” and when asked by the judge why she would want to be adopted at age 18, she replied, “I will always need a family, and someday, I hope my children will be able to have grandparents.”

This legislation will provide resources and incentives to states so that more of our young people will have stories that end like Jen’s, and fewer that end like Wendy’s. One of the most significant provisions of ASFA was the assurance of ongoing health care coverage for all children with special needs who move from foster care to adoption. The Foster Care Independence Act is an essential next step in this ongoing process. This important legislation will ensure that health care coverage for our foster care youths does not end when they turn 18. All states who wish to receive the new Independent Living Program money must provide assurance that they will provide health care coverage to these young people through age 21. This legislation will be valuable steps in our efforts to be more able to effectively address the needs of our Nation’s most vulnerable young people, on the brink of adulthood. I urge my colleagues to at this crucial juncture in their lives make the difference between successfully moving on to accomplish their goals, or becoming stuck in an unsatisfying and unhealthy way of life.

Another key focus of ASFA is on meeting the needs of older children who have aged out of foster care and need to make the transition to independent living. Older teens in foster care have a great need for a permanent family. Although we propose to improve the Independent Living program and increase eligibility for young people who are 16 or 17 years old, at age 21, it does end at that time. And yet a youth’s need for a family does not end at any particular age. Each of us can easily recall times when we have had to turn to our own families for advice, comfort or support long after our 18th or 21st birthdays. Many of us are still in the role of providing such support to our own children who are in their late teens or 20s. Therefore, an important provision in this Senate version of the Foster Care Independence Act is the creation of the Independent Living Program. Independent Living programs are not alternatives to permanency planning—young people of all ages need and deserve every possible effort made towards permanence, including adoption. It would be counterproductive to create an incentive for adoption of teenagers. Therefore, our legislation would allow any enhanced independent living services, particularly health care, to continue until age 21 for those teens who are not lucky enough to become adopted after 16 years old.

Independent Living programs were designed to provide young people with training, skill-development and support as they make the transition from foster care to self-sufficiency. In some states, with creativity and innovation, these programs have seen remarkable success in this effort. In other localities, the programs have provided minimal support, and young people have been stuck in an unsatisfying and unhealthy way of life. Each of the states has found a way to serve their youths for whom room and board services are provided also have adult supervision and support. This bill will assist a very vulnerable group of young Americans by ensuring that they have access to: Health Care up to the age of 21; continued efforts to locate a permanent family; a quality Independent Living program providing a broad array of skills, resources and services; and a program that focuses on critical outcomes, especially in the areas of education, career development, and positive lifestyle choices. These will be valuable steps in our efforts to be more able to effectively address the needs of our Nation’s most vulnerable young people, on the brink of adulthood. I urge my colleagues to join us in co-sponsoring and passing this bill.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I rise today with my colleagues Senators Chafee, Rockefeller, Reed, Moynihan, Breaux, Conrad, Jeffords, Mikulski, and others to introduce the Foster Care Independence Living Act of 1999. This important piece of legislation will provide transitional assistance for the estimated 20,000 youths in the United States who “age out” of the foster care system at the age of 18 without a permanent family.

This legislation builds on the Promotion of Adoption, Safety, and Support for Abused and Neglected Children (PASS) Act that I co-sponsored in 1997. The Foster Care Independence Living Act of 1999 increases the funding for the independent living program in order to provide basic living needs, such as housing and food. Additionally, the increased funding provides states the option to grant Medicaid for health care, including mental health needs, to former foster children up to their 21st birthdays as a condition of receiving the increased funding.

This legislation also guarantees that states will provide programs which focus on health, safety, and permanency goals. In addition, the bill allows children who receive aid under the independent living program to have assets totaling $10,000, in contrast to the old requirement of $1,000, which deterred foster children from saving money for a sound future.

Mr. President, at age 18 foster care children are suddenly expected to be adults, able to take care of themselves. That is not a reasonable expectation, especially for kids deprived of a nurturing parent or other caring adult. As these youths age out of foster care without a permanent family or a structure of continued support, many lack the financial resources to maintain employment, and often experience high levels of depression and discouragement. Research has proven that a significant number of homeless shelters users had recently been discharged from foster care. Other studies found that former foster care youth 2½ to 4 years after they “aged out” of foster care found that 46% of the youths had not completed high school, approximately 40% were dependent on public assistance, 41% had been in receipt of Medicaid, and 42% had never been married or fathered a child.

Mr. President, I know first hand how this legislation can impact our nation’s foster care children. In my home state of Missouri, Epworth Children and Family Services, in St. Louis, provides resources needed to help people who fall through the cracks of a system that is not strong enough to help build a future for foster care children “aging out.”

Robin, an 18-year-old foster care youth, was all alone in the world when she entered Epworth’s Independent Living Program. Her father was never a part of her life and her mother was serving time in jail. Motivated by the desire to regain custody of her two-year-old baby boy, Robin started the program with high hopes. However Robin struggled as she worked with the caring staff at Epworth to stretch limited resources to address Robin’s ongoing needs, their system failed Robin. She was removed from Epworth by the Missouri Division of Family Services. Robin needed more support, more staff interaction and resources than the Epworth program could provide.

Mr. President, the Foster Care Independence Living Act of 1999 provides significant assistance to assure that these foster care youth who “age out” of the system are provided with the assistance needed to transition out of foster care into independence. The provision in this bill will assist these youth to begin a supervised and nurtured life outside of the foster care system. The funds, the time and resources they need to enter adulthood are provided by this independent living initiative.

This legislation will help a group of our children in dire circumstances—foster children who reach age 18 still in the custody of the state. They were victims of abuse and neglect and their families proved to be beyond repair. About 20,000 children a year “age out” of the foster care system. They reach 18 and we, in large part, abandon them to the world. Many make their way to our nation’s large cities, many, alas, do not, and these children are more likely to become homeless or end up on public assistance.

More than a decade ago, we recognized that these children needed additional help in preparing for life on their own. I am proud to have helped create the Independent Living program, which provided Federal support for efforts that prepare foster care children for independence. Today we are working on a bipartisan basis to build on this program. The bill we are introducing will double funding for the Independent Living program and increase the use of the funds to assist former foster care children until they reach 21, including, for the first time, help with room and board. As any parent knows, many 19 and 20-year-olds remain in need of family support from time to time. For children who have turned 18, the government is, in effect, their parent and we should do more to help them become independent and self-sufficient, just as other parents do.

The legislation also contains important provisions encouraging states to continue Medicaid coverage for these children so that health care remains available to them.

Mr. President, this legislation has worked. Today I am joined by the Administration and key members of both parties. I would like to particularly thank the First Lady for her leadership in working on behalf of these children. I thank Senator Chafee for his leadership and look forward to working with him and many others to see that it becomes law.
on taxes—associated with employer tax, wage, and unemployment insurance reporting is estimated at $16.2 billion for Fiscal Year 1999. The federal portion of this employer burden is $9.8 billion, the state portion relatively little, perhaps $6.4 billion.

Given what we know about the role small businesses play as the engine of our economy, and given all the expectations we share in terms of the potential for these businesses to push the boundaries of economic growth even further in the new economy, I think we would all agree that we ought to do something to relieve some of the tax filing burdens on these employers, to give them more time and, I think it follows, more capital to focus on job creation in our workforce, not, respectfully, job creation over at the IRS and in the accounting industry.

Let me just read to you what David A. Lifson, speaking on behalf of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, said in his testimony before the Ways and Means Committee, Oversight Subcommittee on “The Impact of Complexity of the Tax Code on Individual Taxpayers and Small Businesses,” May 1999:

“Significant problems arise from the increasing complexity of the tax law. For example: a growing number of taxpayers perceive the tax law to be unfair; it becomes increasingly more difficult to administer the tax law; the cost of compliance for all taxpayers is increasing (of particular concern are the many taxpayers with unsophisticated financial affairs who are forced to seek professional tax return preparation assistance); and, complexity interferes with economic decision making. The end result is erosion of voluntary compliance. By and large, our citizens obey the law, but it is only human to disobey a law if you do not or can not understand it. In a recent Associated Press (AP) poll, 66 percent of the respondents said that the federal tax system is too complicated. Three years ago, just under one-half of respondents in a similar AP poll said that the tax system was too complicated. The poll also showed that more than half of those surveyed, 56 percent, now pay someone else to prepare their tax returns. This is a serious indictment of our tax system. When over half our individual taxpayers are so little versed in the tax code that they have to hire another party to prepare their returns, something is not right.”

Now, Mr. President, I applaud David Lifson’s candor in speaking out for tax simplification. The truth is, when the one industry—accounting—which depends financially on the very complexity and unwieldiness of our tax filing process and the tax code itself, is saying honestly—that the system is too complex, too incomprehensible;—that we need to do something to make the tax filing process work for taxpayers. The burden of tax code complexity is taking a heavy toll. At an April hearing before the Senate Small Business Committee, the General Accounting Office identified more than 200 different federal tax code requirements that potentially apply to small businesses. When a business hires an employee, the business becomes responsible for collecting and paying three federal taxes (income tax withholding, FICA, and FUTA). It also becomes liable for state and local employment taxes. In addition, these taxes include a state income tax and a state unemployment tax. For businesses, each tax presents its own set of rules and regulations. For the small business owner just starting up, these employment tax rules make compliance difficult and confusing—and in too many instances the cumbersome nature of the tax filing process is a disincentive in itself for small businesses to grow.

We need to reverse that course, and, Mr. President, that is exactly just that today—we can simplify the tax filing process for employers by allowing the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and State agencies to combine, on one form, both State and Federal employment tax returns.

As we all know, traditionally, federal tax forms are filed with the federal government and state tax forms are filed with individual states. This necessitates duplication of items common to both returns. Several States have been working creatively with the IRS to implement combined State and Federal reporting of employment taxes, on one form, as a way of reducing the administrative burden on taxpayers. The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 authorized a demonstration project to assess the feasability and desirability of expanding combined reporting. The pilot project was: (1) limited to the State of Montana, (2) limited to employment tax reporting, (3) limited to disclosure of the taxpayer’s identification number, and signature of the taxpayer, (4) limited to a period of five years. On March 29, 1999, the IRS announced the successful testing of the Single-Point Filing Initiative. Several States are currently considering agreements with the IRS to initiate joint-filing of employment taxes. Those States include Maine, Oklahoma, Iowa, South Carolina, Ohio, and Massachusetts. My colleague Senator Baucus and I have been working with the IRS to implement combined State and Federal reporting of employment taxes, on one form, as a way of reducing the administrative burden on taxpayers. By permitting the IRS to share a limited amount of basic taxpayer identity information—information which States already collect separately—both the Federal and the taxpayer, the Single-Point Tax Filing Act will allow the IRS to expand joint-filing beyond its current pilot project.

BACKGROUND

The tax code prohibits disclosure of tax returns and return information, except to the extent specifically authorized by law. Unauthorized disclosure is a felony punishable by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or imprisonment of not more than five years, or both. An action for civil damages also may be brought for unauthorized disclosure. No tax information may be furnished by the Internal Revenue Service or any other Federal agency unless the other agency establishes procedures satisfactory to the IRS for safeguarding the tax information it receives. Implementation of combined State-Federal employment tax reporting has been hindered because the tax code applies restrictions on disclosure of information common to both the State and Federal portions of the combined form.

The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 authorized a demonstration project to assess the feasibility and desirability of combined reporting. The pilot project was: (1) limited to the State of Montana, (2) limited to employment tax reporting, (3) limited to disclosure of the name, address, taxpayer identification number, and signature of the taxpayer, and (4) limited to a period of five GRASSLEY. As a result of language I by my colleagues Senators KERRY and ERRY and its related language in the Senate Finance Committee's report, the waiver would only pertain to joint-filing beyond its current pilot project. The waiver would only pertain to employers that have been in the Single-Point Tax Filing Act will permit the IRS to extend joint-filing beyond its current pilot project. The waiver would only pertain to the disclosure of the taxpayer's name, mailing address, taxpayer identification number, and signature (i.e., taxpayer identity information).

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I want to add my strong support to the Single-Point Tax Filing Act of 1999 introduced by my colleagues Senators KERRY and GRASSLEY. As a result of language I had included in the 1997 Taxpayer Relief Act, Montana is the only state in the nation currently testing a Single-Point Tax Filing system, also known as the Simplified Tax and Wage Reporting System or STAWRS.

The STAWRS pilot project in Montana has been a tremendous success. Earlier this year, the State of Montana and its Department of Revenue received a Regulatory Innovation Award from the Small Business Administration. As a result of this recognition, the Commissioner's Award from the Internal Revenue Service, and the "Hammer" Award by the National Performance Review. These awards were all given in recognition of the pilot project's achievement in dramatically reducing paperwork and cutting red tape for small businesses. I was also honored to receive SBA's Special Advocacy Award for my efforts to have legislation enacted that allowed the pilot project to go forward.

The STAWRS program is designed to help businesses file their paperwork with one office, instead of wading through a blizzard of paper. It's one-stop shopping and will go a long way toward streamlining payroll information, making filing faster and easier. Right now, businesses find themselves reporting the same exact information, on wide variety of forms, to a range of state and federal agencies. This takes time and effort, both of which small businesses would rather put to better use running their businesses. The STAWRS project is intended to eventually make it possible for employers to file a single, one-page report that is then shared by the appropriate revenue agencies. The government will do the work and extract the information they need rather than the employer.

Small businesses are the engine for economic growth in this country. They have created close to two-thirds of America's net new jobs since the 1980s, helping drive our unprecedented economic growth and prosperity. All of this growth has been achieved despite the crushing paperwork requirements that small business owners face. The Single-Point Tax Filing Act gives us an opportunity to reduce this paperwork burden at no cost to the government. I am proud that Montana has taken the lead in reducing paperwork for small business, and strongly believe it should be made available to small businesses in every state, and on a permanent basis.

I urge my colleagues to support the bill.

By Mr. REID:

S. 1329. A bill to direct the Secretary of the Interior to convey certain land to Nye County, Nevada, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

CONVEYANCE OF LAND TO NYE COUNTY, NEVADA

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce legislation to authorize Nye County, Nevada to acquire approximately 800 acres of public land. This conveyance will facilitate the development of both the Nevada Science and Technology Center and the Amargosa Valley Science and Technology Park, part of a larger proposed Nevada Science and Technology Corridor.

The Nevada Science and Technology Center is a proposed interactive science center and museum, highlighting the environment, industries, and technological developments associated with the region. At the center of this art facility will have the potential to draw visitors from the Las Vegas Valley, 80 miles to the southeast, and the 13 million tourists who visit nearby Death Valley on an annual basis. The Center will appeal to people of all ages and backgrounds because it will provide a unique, fun, hands-on experience. Planning for this project is ongoing under the direction of a Nevada registered non-profit organization.

The Amargosa Valley Science and Technology Center is a proposed research and development business park designed to support Department of Energy contractors and suppliers associated with the Nevada Test Site, located immediately to the north of this site. Nye County currently has a $1.5 million grant from the Economic Development Administration in the final stages of review at that agency's regional office. Once finalized, this grant will provide the funding for water and infrastructure necessary for support of both the science center and the research and development park.

The lands proposed for conveyance have been identified for disposal under the Bureau of Land Management's October 1996 Las Vegas Resource Management Plan. Due to the non-profit nature of the Science Center, this portion of land, approximately 450 acres, would be conveyed at no cost. Because the research and industrial park will house commercial operations, the County has agreed to pay a fair market value for these lands, approximately 350 acres. The legislation contains provisions for the no-cost land to revert to the federal government should it be used for purposes other than the science center and related facilities. This legislation will provide the impetus for future development in this area, providing the opportunity for economic growth in Nye County. I urge my colleagues to vote for passage of this bill.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD. Being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1329

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. CONVEYANCE TO NYE COUNTY, NEVADA.

(a) Definitions.—In this section:

(1) COUNTY.—The term "County" means Nye County, Nevada.

(b) SECRETARY.—The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Interior, acting through the Director of the Bureau of Land Management.

(c) PARCELS CONVEYED FOR USE OF THE NEVADA SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY CENTER.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—For the purposes of this section and any other cost to the County, the Secretary shall convey to the County, subject to valid existing rights, all right, title, and interest in and to the parcels of public land described in paragraph (2).

(2) LAND DESCRIPTION.—The parcels of public land referred to in paragraph (1) are the following:

(A) The portion of Sec. 13 north of United States Route 95, T. 15 S., R. 50 E., Mount Diablo Meridian, Nevada.

(B) In Sec. 18, T. 15 S., R. 50 E., Mount Diablo Meridian, Nevada:

(i) The portion of the W 1/2 W 1/2 SW 1/4 north of United States Route 95.

(ii) The portion of the W 1/2 W 1/2 SW 1/4 north of United States Route 95.

(iii) The portion of the W 1/2 W 1/2 SW 1/4 north of United States Route 95.

(iv) The portion of the W 1/2 W 1/2 SW 1/4 north of United States Route 95.

(v) The portion of the W 1/2 W 1/2 SW 1/4 north of United States Route 95.

(vi) The portion of the W 1/2 W 1/2 SW 1/4 north of United States Route 95.

(vii) The portion of the W 1/2 W 1/2 SW 1/4 north of United States Route 95.

(viii) The portion of the W 1/2 W 1/2 SW 1/4 north of United States Route 95.

(B) The parcels described in paragraph (2) shall be used for the construction and operation of the Nevada Science and Technology Center as a nonprofit museum and exhibition center, and related facilities and activities.

(C) REVERSION.—The conveyance of any parcel described in paragraph (2) shall be subject to reversion to the United States, at the discretion of Secretary, if the parcel is used for a purpose other than that specified in subparagraph (A).

(D) PARCELS CONVEYED FOR OTHER USE FOR A COMMERCIAL PURPOSE.—

(1) RIGHT TO PURCHASE.—For a period of 5 years beginning on the date of enactment of this Act, the County shall have the exclusive right to purchase the parcels of public land described in paragraph (2) for the fair market value of the parcels, as determined by the Secretary.

(2) LAND DESCRIPTION.—The parcels of public land referred to in paragraph (3) are the following parcels in Sec. 18, T. 15 S., R. 50 E., Mount Diablo Meridian, Nevada:

(A) E 1/2 W 1/2.

(B) E 1/2 W 1/2 NW 1/4.

(C) The portion of the E 1/2 W 1/2 SW 1/4 north of United States Route 95.

(D) The portion of the E 1/2 W 1/2 SW 1/4 north of United States Route 95.

(E) The portion of the SE 1/4 north of United States Route 95.

(3) USE OF PROCEEDS.—Proceeds of a sale of a parcel described in paragraph (2) shall be deposited in the special account established under section 4(e)(1)(C) of...
Mr. REID. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce legislation to authorize the city of Mesquite, Nevada, to acquire approximately 7,690 acres of public land necessary to provide for urban and economic growth and development of a new commercial airport. This legislation will amend existing public law and allow for the continued expansion of this growing community.

Mesquite is one of the fastest growing cities in the fastest growing State in the Nation according to figures released by the U.S. Census Bureau. Mesquite grew by 441% between 1990 and 1998, increasing in population from 1,872 to over 10,000. This phenomenical growth rate is being fueled by a variety of factors, including the development of new destination resorts and the “discovery” of other recreational opportunities in the tri-state region, Nevada, Arizona, and Utah.

As the tourism industry in the area continues to grow and prosper, a greater capacity for air carrier service will be required to meet the needs of the region. In addition, the city of Mesquite is land locked by public lands. While some relief has been provided via the existing public law, this growth is exceeding demand and the city expects to be out of room within a couple of years. This bill is designed to help with both growth related and air service issues.

Although the existing Mesquite Airport is adequate for general aviation service, terrain precludes the expansion necessary for commercial and cargo service. A new commercial airport is needed to meet the future regional demands. The proposed airport site identified in this bill is a result of an approved Site Selection Study conducted for the Clark County Department of Aviation. This study was funded by the Federal Aviation Administration. Of course, no airport construction activities will begin without completion of a comprehensive Airport Master Plan and environmental review. Once these steps are completed, airport construction will be financed by the City of Mesquite and its business community.

Existing state law requires that the airport site be contiguous with the city limits in order to be annexed. The legislation introduced today will authorize the city to purchase 5,400 acres of public land to meet this connectivity requirement. As some of this land has development potential, the city will be required to pay fair market value for this acreage. The actual airport site of 2,560 acres would be acquired by the city pursuant to existing land acquisition statues related to transportation and airport development.

Mr. President, I request that this legislation be given prompt consideration.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1330

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. CONVEYANCE OF LAND TO CITY OF MESQUITE, NEVADA.

Section 3 of Public Law 99-548 (300 Stat. 3061; 110 Stat. 3009-202) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(e) FIFTH AREA.—(1) RIGHT TO PURCHASE.—For a period of 12 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the city of Mesquite, Nevada, shall have the exclusive right to purchase the parcels of public land described in paragraph (2)."

"(2) LAND DESCRIPTION.—The parcels of public land referred to in paragraph (1) are as follows:

(ii) Sec. 11.

(D) WITHDRAWAL.—Subject to valid existing rights, until the date that is 12 years after the date of enactment of this subsection, the parcels of public land described in paragraph (2) are withdrawn from all forms of entry and appropriation under the public land laws, including the mining laws, and from operation of the mineral leasing and geothermal leasing laws.

By Mr. REID:

S. 1331. A bill to give Lincoln County, Nevada, the right to purchase at fair market value certain public land in the county; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

LINCION COUNTY LANDS ACT OF 1999

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce legislation to provide Lincoln County, Nevada with the exclusive right to purchase approximately 4,800 acres of public land near Mesquite, Nevada. This legislation, to be known as the Lincoln County Lands Act of 1999, will facilitate economic growth and development in one of the most economically distressed counties in the Silver State.

Lincoln County encompasses an area of 10,132 square miles, which is larger than several of the New England states combined. Approximately 98% of the County is owned by the federal government and property tax revenues amount to only $1,106,558 annually. As a result, Lincoln County is hard pressed to provide basic services to its citizens and the County school district in facing a critical situation as its schools are literally crumbling because of a lack of funds to maintain them.
The Lincoln County Lands Act will allow the County to address these economic problems in a positive way.

By allowing Lincoln County to purchase 4,800 acres of public land (less than 1/10th of 1% of the land in the County), at fair market value, this legislation will result in the County's property tax revenues increasing by over $12.9 million annually—an increase of more than 1000%. While this may seem extraordinary, it is a result of land being rapidly and immediately adjacent to the rapidly growing City of Mesquite which is located just over the County line in Clark County, Nevada. Mesquite's growth has created a huge demand for more housing and commercial development that can be best met by allowing Lincoln County to purchase this public land and develop it in a prudent manner. Under this scenario everyone involved is a winner. Lincoln County will gain badly needed property tax revenue, Mesquite gains room for expansion, and the Federal government will be fairly compensated for the sale of public lands.

Another important aspect of this legislation is that it allows for the proceeds of any sale of land pursuant to the Act to be used by the Bureau of Land Management to acquire or otherwise protect environmentally sensitive lands in Nevada, to defray the administrative costs that BLM will incur in processing this land sale, and to develop a multi-species habitat plan for all of Lincoln County. These provisions, similar to those contained in the Southern Nevada Public Land Management Act enacted in 1998, will help ensure that a mechanism exists to fund the conservation and protection of Nevada's natural resources.

Mr. President, the Lincoln County Lands Act is modeled after other legislation that I have successfully sponsored, such as the Mesquite Lands Act of 1971. I previously mentioned Southern Nevada Public Land Management Act. These laws have provided a framework for creating economic growth while protecting the environment and the taxpayer. I am very pleased to be able to build upon these achievements by assisting Lincoln County in a similar manner. I look forward to prompt consideration of this important piece of legislation.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that a transcript of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1331

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE. This Act may be cited as the "Lincoln County Lands Act of 1999".

SEC. 2. SALE OF PUBLIC LAND.

(a) RIGHT TO PURCHASE.—For a period of 10 years after the date of enactment of this Act, Lincoln County, Nevada, shall have the exclusive right to purchase the parcels of public land described in subsection (b).

(b) LAND DESCRIPTION.—The parcels of public land referred to in subsection (a) are the following parcels in T. 12 S., R. 71 E., Mount Diablo Meridian, Nevada:

(1) Sec. 16 NW 1/4 SW 1/4, S 1/2 SW 1/4, SE 1/4.
(2) Sec. 17 SW 1/4, W 1/2 SE 1/4, SE 1/4 SE 1/4.
(3) Sec. 18 SE 1/4.
(4) Sec. 19 E 1/2.
(5) Sec. 20.
(6) Sec. 21 W 1/2.
(7) Sec. 22 W 1/2.
(8) Sec. 23.
(9) Sec. 30 E 1/2.
(10) Sec. 31 E 1/2.
(11) Sec. 32.
(12) Sec. 33 W 1/2 SE 1/4.
(13) Sec. 34 SE 1/4.

(c) NOTIFICATION.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, Lincoln County, Nevada, shall notify the Secretary of the Interior which of the parcels of public land described in subsection (b) the County intends to purchase.

(d) TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF SALE.—All sales of public land under this section—

(1) shall be subject to valid existing rights;
(2) shall be made for fair market value, as determined by the Secretary;
(e) CONVEYANCE.—Not later than 1 year after receiving notification by Lincoln County that the county wishes to proceed with a purchase under subsection (a), the Secretary of the Interior shall convey to Lincoln County the parcels of land selected for purchase.

(f) AVAILABILITY OF SPECIAL ACCOUNT.—

(1) In general.—Amounts in the special account (including amounts earned as interest) shall remain available until expended, for—
(A) development of a multispecies habitat plan for all of Lincoln County, Nevada, to defray the administrative costs that BLM will incur in processing this land sale, and to develop a multi-species habitat plan for all of Lincoln County, Nevada; until the date that is 10 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the public land described in subsection (b) is withdrawn from all forms of entry and appropriation under the public land laws, including the mining laws, and from operation of the mineral leasing and geothermal leasing laws.

SEC. 3. DISPOSITION OF PROCEEDS.

(a) LAND SALES.—Of the gross proceeds of sales of land under this Act in a fiscal year—

(1) 5 percent shall be paid directly to the State of Nevada for use in the general education program of the State;
(2) 10 percent shall be returned to Lincoln County for use as determined through normal county budgeting procedures, with emphasis given to schools, hospitals, and other public facilities in which no amount may be used in support of litigation against the Federal Government; and
(3) the remainder shall be deposited in a special account in the Treasury of the United States (referred to in this section as the "special account") for use as provided in subsection (b).

(b) AVAILABILITY OF SPECIAL ACCOUNT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Amounts in the special account (including amounts earned as interest) shall remain available until expended, for—
(A) the cost of acquisition of environmentally sensitive lands in the State of Nevada, with priority given to land outside Clark County; and
(B) the development of a multispecies habitat conservation plan in Lincoln County, Nevada; and
(C) reimbursement of costs incurred by the Bureau of Land Management in preparing sales under this Act, or other authorized land sales or exchanges within Lincoln County, Nevada, including the costs of land boundary surveys, compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.), appraisals, environmental and cultural clearances, and any public notice.

(2) ACQUISITION FROM WILLING SELLERS.—An acquisition under paragraph (1)(A) shall be made only from a willing seller and after consultation with the State of Nevada and units of local government under the jurisdiction of which the environmentally sensitive land is located.

(3) INTEREST.—Amounts in the special account shall earn interest in the amount determined by the Secretary of the Treasury on the basis of current average market yield on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States of comparable maturities.

S. 1332. A bill to authorize the President to award a gold medal on behalf of Congress to Father Theodore M. Hesburgh, in recognition of his outstanding and enduring contributions to civil rights, higher education, the Catholic Church, the Nation, and the global community; to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

CONGRESSIONAL GOLD MEDAL IN HONOR OF REVEREND THEODORE HESBURGH

Mr. BAYH. Mr. President, I rise today with my good friend and colleague from Indiana, Senator Richard Lugar, to introduce legislation awarding the Congressional Gold Medal to the Reverend Theodore Hesburgh, president emeritus of the University of Notre Dame.

This bipartisan effort recognizes Father Hesburgh for his outstanding contributions to the civil rights movement and to improving higher education. His efforts have provided benefits not only to the people of the United States but to the global community as well.

Over the years, Father Hesburgh has held 15 presidential appointments and remains a national leader in the fields of education, civil rights and development of the world's poorest nations. Most notable among Father Hesburgh's many previous awards is the Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian honor, bestowed on him by President Johnson in 1964.

Mr. President, Father Hesburgh has been a champion of the civil rights movement for more than forty years. He was a charter member of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights in 1957, and served as Chairman of the commission from 1969-72. His relentless pursuit of justice, peace and equality continue to inspire people around the world.

Despite Father Hesburgh's commitment and obligations to Notre Dame and the various commissions he served, he still managed to give a sufficient amount of time and attention to global problems. Father Hesburgh served four Popes in many capacities, including as the permanent Vatican City representative to the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna from 1966-1970. In 1971, he joined the board of Overseas Developing Council, a private organization supporting interests of the under-developed world, and chaired it until 1992. During this time, he led fund-raising efforts that averted mass starvation in Cambodia in the immediate aftermath of the Khmer Rouge.

Notre Dame is perhaps most celebrated for its athletic prowess, but these achievements should not overshadow Notre Dame’s place as a world-class institution of learning and scholarship. When Father Hesburgh stepped down as head of Notre Dame in 1987, he ended the longest tenure among active presidents of American institutions of higher learning. The accomplishments made during Father Hesburgh’s tenure are perhaps best reflected in the significant gains made from the time he took over as the 15th president of Notre Dame in 1952, up until his departure. By the time Father Hesburgh left Notre Dame, enrollment had doubled, the number of faculty had tripled, and the number of degrees offered by the school had grown to over 2,500.

Most strikingly, Father Hesburgh was responsible for making dramatic changes to the University’s composition by admitting women to Notre Dame. He also established several of Notre Dame’s prestigious institutions, both the Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies and the Kellogg Institute for International Studies.

Today, even in retirement, Father Hesburgh continues to be a leading educator and humanitarian, inspiring generations of students and citizens, while generously sharing his wisdom in the struggle for the rights of man.

That is why we rise today to introduce legislation in the Senate honoring this man with a Congressional Gold Medal for his outstanding contributions to the University of Notre Dame, our country and the global community.

Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, I rise today to join Senator BAYH in introducing legislation to bestow a Congressional Gold Medal on Reverend Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., president emeritus of the University of Notre Dame.

In 1952, at the age of 35, Father Hesburgh became the fifteenth president of the University of Notre Dame. He served in that position for a remarkable 35 years. At the time of his retirement in 1987, he had the longest tenure among active American university presidents. Under Father Hesburgh’s leadership and vision, together with the hard work of faculty, staff, alumni, and students, built Notre Dame into one of the premier universities in the United States.

In your book, Golden-domes, they will tell you that Father Hesburgh’s contributions to the University of Notre Dame are as big as the 13-floor library that bears his name. Notre Dame grew exponentially in research funding and enrollment during Father Hesburgh’s presidency. When he assumed the office in 1952, Notre Dame served fewer than 5,000 students. Today it is an internationally recognized university of nearly 10,000 students engaged in every imaginable academic discipline.

More importantly, through his example and direction, Father Hesburgh inspired the university community to pursue excellence and international prominence, but also justice and spiritual meaning. Few universities have succeeded at creating an environment so committed to public service and so rich in its dialogue between the intellectual and the spiritual.

As Father Hesburgh worked to build the University of Notre Dame into what it is today, he simultaneously answered the call to serve his nation and the world. His career has embodied the principle of public service that he espoused at Notre Dame.

Father Hesburgh has held a remarkable 15 Presidential appointments over the years, covering such diverse topics as the peaceful uses of atomic energy and anti-poverty initiatives. He was a charter member of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, created in 1957, and he chaired the commission from 1969-1972. All the while he remained a national leader in education, serving on many commissions and study groups. He chaired the International Federation of Catholic Universities from 1963 to 1970. In this position and through his writings, he was instrumental in redefining the importance of international studies in higher education and the nature and mission of a contemporary Catholic university.

Father Hesburgh also served four Popes as a Vatican representative to the International Atomic Energy Agency and other international assemblies.

The problems of underdeveloped nations have been a special interest of Father Hesburgh. He joined the board of the Overseas Development Council in 1971. His fund-raising work as Chairman of the Peace Mission in Cambodia in 1979 and 1980. He also chaired the Select Commission on Immigration and Refugee Policy between 1979 and 1981. The recommendations of the Commission became the basis of legislation five years later.

Father Hesburgh’s lengthy list of awards include the Medal of Freedom bestowed by President Johnson in 1964. He is also the recipient of 135 honorary degrees, the most ever awarded to an American.

In retirement, Father Hesburgh has become a best-selling author. He still plays a major role in the development of higher education through the institutes he was instrumental in founding at Notre Dame, including the Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies and the Kellogg Institute for International Studies. Father Hesburgh chairs the advisory committee for both institutes.

Despite his innumerable accomplishments, Father Hesburgh has always remained grounded in the campus life of Notre Dame University. He continues to frequently lecture and preside at

S. 1333. A bill to expand homeownership in the United States; to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

PROMOTING HOUSING AFFORDABILITY FOR WORKING FAMILIES ACT OF 1999

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, many Americans are benefiting from today’s robust economy—unemployment is down, the stock market is up and homeownership is at record levels.

Still, this dream is out of the reach of many Americans. In Oregon, where more than 75 percent of jobs do not pay a living wage for a single parent, housing costs have skyrocketed, forcing nearly half of Oregon renters to spend more than 30 percent of their income on housing and utilities. According to the Department of Housing and Urban Development’s guidelines, if someone is spending more than 30 percent of his income on housing, they are considered, cutting into other basic needs such as putting food on the table, taking elderly parents to the doctor or clothing kids for school.
People should not have to choose between feeding their kids or keeping a roof over their heads. The bill that I am introducing, “The Promoting Housing Affordability for Working Families Act of 1999,” will help communities move to affordability housing, so working families will not have to make this choice. Many factors, such as excessive rules and regulations, add to the price of a house. Cities and states must work together to remove these barriers. By working together, they can find solutions to ensure that all families have a place to call home.

Second, the bill requires Federal agencies to examine the impact of their regulations on the cost of housing. Determining this information through a “housing impact analysis” at the outset will save states, communities and, ultimately, families a lot of hassle down the road. The cost-benefit flexibility this bill offers people helps people live in the communities they serve.

Many working families are ready for their first home. They are starting to raise families, move up the ladder at work and are prepared to take on the responsibilities of homeownership. But when they get to the front door, they cannot step over the threshold because they are tied up in unnecessary regulation that drives up home prices. The “Promoting Housing Affordability for Working Families Act of 1999” will help these families untangle this regulatory knot and unlock the door to their first home.

S. 1334. A bill to amend chapter 63 of Title 5, United States Code, to increase the amount of leave time available to a Federal employee in any year in connection with serving as an organ donor, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

ORGAN DONOR LEAVE ACT

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I am pleased today to introduce the Organ Donor Leave Act. This bill would extend the amount of leave available to each calendar year available to federal, state, and local governments who serve as living organ donors from 7 days to up to 30 days. In order to ensure that federal employees who serve as an organ donor have sufficient time to recover from an organ transplant operation.

I am delighted to be joined by Senator FRIST, one of the nation’s leading transplant surgeons and the only active surgeon in Congress, as well as Senators EDWARDS, STEVENS, LEVIN, SARBANES, and DURBIN. The bill we are introducing was introduced by Representative ELIJAH CUMMINGS and marked out of the House Government Reform Committee. Last year, an identical bill passed the House, but not the Senate. It is my pleasure to introduce the bill with such a distinguished list of cosponsors from both sides of the aisle, the Senate will quickly enact this important legislation.

In most instances, an organ transplant operation and post-operative recovery time for a living donor is generally six to eight weeks. In order to address the disparity between the available leave a federal employee may take for an organ donation and the average recovery time, the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) and the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) assisted in the drafting of this legislation to increase the amount of time that may be used for organ donation to 30 days. The amount of leave for a bone marrow donation would remain at 5 days because experience shows that a week is considered adequate recovery time form bone marrow donations.

Since 1954, when the first kidney transplant was performed, there have been hundreds of patients who have received successful transplants from living donors. Unfortunately, there are not enough organs available and over 55,000 Americans currently awaiting organ transplants. There are certain organs, such as a single kidney, a lobe of the lung, a segment of the liver, or a portion of the pancreas, which may be transplanted from a living donor. These operations can reduce the mortality of small children needing liver transplants, and another person can breathe, or free a dialysis patient from their regulations.

According to the University of Southern California Liver Transplant Program, “...with living donors, liver transplants can be performed electively and before patients get extremely ill, thus leading to better outcomes. Another advantage to this approach is the emotional satisfaction donors share with recipients when a life is saved. Our bill has the strong support of the American Transplantation Society, the nation’s largest professional transplant organization, representing over 1,400 physicians, surgeons, and scientists. In a letter expressing support of the Organ Donor Leave Act, the AST noted: “...a lack of leave time has served as a significant impediment and disincentive for individuals willing to share the gift-of-life. This important initiative addresses disparities between leave time and recovery time.” According to AST, the bill would give “...donors the assured assurance that they will be granted an adequate amount of time to recuperate from the life-saving process that they undertake voluntarily.”

Mr. President, this bill has already been passed by the House once, and appears to be on the same course in the Senate. I hope that my colleagues will agree with the other chamber, and urge my colleagues to support moving this life-saving legislation as soon as possible. I ask unanimous consent that a letter from the American Society of Transplantation be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

American Society of Transplantation,
Hon. Daniel Akaka,
U.S. Senate, Hart Senate Office Building,
Washington, DC.
Dear Senator Akaka: The American Society of Transplantation (AST) commends you for your continuing efforts to improve our nation’s system for organ donation and transplantation.

The AST applauds your most recent efforts to improve organ donation by introducing the Senate companion to H.R. 457, which seeks to amend the United States Code, to increase the amount of leave time available to a Federal employee in any year in connection with serving as an organ donor.

Through this legislation, the Federal Government will become a leader in encouraging individuals to perform the valuable public service of donating organs.

In the past, a lack of leave time served as a significant impediment and disincentive for individuals willing to share the gift-of-life. This important initiative addresses disparities between leave time and recovery time. This legislation gives donors the added flexibility they need to adequately recover from the life-saving process that they undertake voluntarily.

As we have discussed in the past, the problems that our nation faces in the allocation of organs and tissues for transplantation, a precious and scarce resource, are complex, and continue to evolve from both a medical and policy perspective. However, the real answer to dealing with the dilemma of allocating and distributing an inadequate supply of organs is through efforts such as yours to increase donation.

On behalf of the thousands of U.S. patients currently awaiting organ transplants, we commend you for your leadership in this area. In addition, we look forward to continuing to work with you in the future to improve the field of transplantation medicine.

Sincerely,

John R. Lake,
President.
John F. Neylan,
Chair, Public Policy Committee.

S. 1336. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to provide a credit to promote home ownership among low-income individuals; to the Committee on Finance.

HOME OWNERSHIP TAX CREDIT ACT OF 1999

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise to discuss the state of home ownership in the U.S., in addition to legislation I am introducing Senator S. 1336, Senator EDWARDS to enable more families to achieve the American dream of home ownership.

Today, we have many reasons to celebrate. Indeed, the national home ownership rates are higher than at any time since 1990. There are currently 67 percent of the non-minority home ownership rates still lag significantly behind those of non-minority households: 45 percent for minorities versus 72 percent for white households. In addition, only 45 percent of low-income households live in owner-occupied homes, as compared to 86 percent of high-income households. These alarming disparities have broad societal implications because of the many economic benefits associated with home ownership. Historically, home ownership has been the key to wealth creation in this country, and wealth in the form of home equity has enabled families to start businesses, finance their children’s education, and cover unexpected expenses. Consequently, unequal home ownership rates lead to wealth disparities. In fact, the median wealth of non-elderly low income home owners is 12 times greater than the median wealth of non-elderly low-income households. These second mortgages have been successful, their effects have been limited. Indeed, the size of these programs, measured by their annual cost—$2.2 billion—pales in comparison to the annual cost of the mortgage and real estate tax deductions.

While these programs have been successful, their effects have been limited. Indeed, the size of these programs, measured by their annual cost—$2.2 billion—pales in comparison to the annual cost of the mortgage and real estate tax deductions.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; FINDINGS; PURPOSES.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the “Home Ownership Tax Credit Act of 1999.”

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Home ownership is of primary importance in building wealth in low-income families.

(2) 67 percent of the wealth that is owned by non-elderly low-income households consists of the equity in their homes; and the median wealth of such non-elderly low-income households is 12 times greater than the median wealth for non-elderly renters with the same level of income.

(3) Only 45 percent of low-income households live in owner-occupied homes, as compared to 66 percent of all households, and 86 percent of high-income households.

(4) According to the Bureau of the Census, in 1993, 88 percent of all renters and 93 percent of renters earning less than $20,000 a year affording a house selling for half of the regional median house price.

(5) There is a 23 percentage point difference in home ownership rates between central cities and suburban cities which is largely the result of the concentration of low-income households in central cities.

(6) The cost of the largest Federal tax incentives for home ownership, the mortgage interest deduction and the real estate tax deduction, is equal to approximately twice the amount of Federal expenditures for direct Federal housing assistance which benefits low-income households.

(7) The mortgage interest deduction and the real estate tax deduction provide little value to low-income households because the itemized tax deductions of low-income households generally do not exceed the standard deduction.

(8) Over 90 percent of the total benefits of the mortgage interest deduction accrue to home buyers with incomes greater than $40,000, and because of the progressive nature of federal income tax rates, even if lower-income households do itemize their deductions, they receive a smaller deduction as a percentage of income than more affluent buyers.

To attack the home ownership disparity between low- and upper-income households, the Federal Government has relied on the Mortgage Revenue Bond (MRB) program, the Mortgage Credit Certificate program, and, to a limited extent, the Low-Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC) program. Under these programs, the Federal Government subsidizes interest rates to reduce monthly mortgage costs for low-income home owners.

While these programs have been successful, their effects have been limited. Indeed, the size of these programs, measured by their annual cost—$2.2 billion—pales in comparison to the annual cost of the mortgage and real estate tax deductions—$58 billion.

Also, while attacking the income constraints that prevent many low-income families from being able to afford monthly mortgage costs, these programs limit low-income homeowners who are straining, such as a lack of savings for a down payment and closing costs, that keep many low-income families from becoming home owners.

During these times of economic prosperity, the opportunity to close the home ownership gap that exists between low-income and upper-income families. To this end, I am introducing legislation to establish a Home Ownership Tax Credit targeted to low-income families. This legislation, which has been developed in conjunction with Harvard’s Joint Center on Housing Studies, the Brookings Institution, and Self-Help Community Development Corporation, would attack the wealth and income constraints that prevent many low-income families from becoming home owners.

Under this legislation, the Federal Government would issue tax credits to participating lenders who would then be obligated to extend either low-interest or zero-interest second mortgages to low-income families. These second mortgages would effectively be used to cover the down payment and closing costs, although a prospective home buyer would still be required to make a small contribution toward the purchase. Families could defer repayment on the second mortgage for 25 years, at which point a balloon payment would come due, or they could repay the second mortgage over 30 years, concurrent with the repayment of their first mortgage. In either event, the interest rate on the second mortgage would be subsidized, which would lower families’ monthly mortgage costs. Also, these second mortgages would eliminate the need for private mortgage insurance, thereby providing additional savings of roughly $50 per month. Under this proposal, families earning as little as $14,500 would, for the first time, have the opportunity of realizing the American dream of home ownership.

Mr. President, I believe this legislation represents a common-sense approach to addressing the home ownership disparity which exists and I would hope my colleagues can be supportive. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that additional material be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1336

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; FINDINGS; PURPOSES.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the “Home Ownership Tax Credit Act of 1999.”

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Home ownership is of primary importance in building wealth in low-income families.

(2) 67 percent of the wealth that is owned by non-elderly low-income households consists of the equity in their homes; and the median wealth of such non-elderly low-income households is 12 times greater than the median wealth for non-elderly renters with the same level of income.

(3) Only 45 percent of low-income households live in owner-occupied homes, as compared to 66 percent of all households, and 86 percent of high-income households.

(4) According to the Bureau of the Census, in 1993, 88 percent of all renters and 93 percent of renters earning less than $20,000 a year affording a house selling for half of the regional median house price.

(5) There is a 23 percentage point difference in home ownership rates between central cities and suburban cities which is largely the result of the concentration of low-income households in central cities.

(6) The cost of the largest Federal tax incentives for home ownership, the mortgage interest deduction and the real estate tax deduction, is equal to approximately twice the amount of Federal expenditures for direct Federal housing assistance which benefits low-income households.

(7) The mortgage interest deduction and the real estate tax deduction provide little value to low-income households because the itemized tax deductions of low-income households generally do not exceed the standard deduction.

(8) Over 90 percent of the total benefits of the mortgage interest deduction accrue to home buyers with incomes greater than $40,000.

(9) Current provisions in the Federal tax code to promote home ownership among low-income households, such as the mortgage revenue bond program, the mortgage credit certificate program, and the low-income housing credit, fail to simultaneously attack the twin constraints of lack of wealth and low income that prevent many low-income households from becoming homeowners.

(c) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act are

(1) to establish a decentralized, market-driven approach to increasing home ownership among low-income households,

(2) to enable low-income households to overcome the wealth and income constraints that frequently prevent such households from becoming homeowners, and

(3) to reduce the disparities in home ownership rates between low-income households and higher-income households and between central cities and suburban cities.
SEC. 2. HOME OWNERSHIP TAX CREDIT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subpart D of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to business real estate development) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 45D. HOME OWNERSHIP TAX CREDIT.

"(a) ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of section 38, the home ownership tax credit determined under this section for any taxable year in the credit period shall be an amount equal to the applicable percentage of the home ownership tax credit amount allocated to such taxpayer by a State housing finance agency in the credit allocation year under subsection (b).

"(2) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE.—For purposes of this section, the Secretary shall prescribe the applicable percentage for any year in which the taxpayer is a qualified lender. Such percentage with respect to any month in the credit period with respect to such taxpayer shall be percentages which will yield over such period amounts of credit under paragraph (1) which have a present value equal to 100 percent of the home ownership tax credit amount allocated to such taxpayer under subsection (b).

(3) ELECTION DISCOUNTING.—The present value under paragraph (2) shall be determined in the same manner as the low-income housing credit under section 42(d)(2)(C).

(b) ALLOCATION OF HOME OWNERSHIP TAX CREDIT AMOUNTS.—

"(1) AMOUNT OF CREDIT.—Each qualified lender shall receive a home ownership tax credit dollar amount for each calendar year in an amount equal to the sum of—

"(i) an amount equal to—

"(I) 15 cents, multiplied by the State population, multiplied by

"(II) 10, plus

"(ii) the unused home ownership tax credit dollar amount under paragraph (1)(A)(i) of any such State for the preceding year.

"(2) QUALIFIED STATE.—For purposes of this section—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The term "qualified State" means a State with an approved allocation plan to allocate home ownership tax credits to qualified lenders through the State housing finance agency.

"(B) APPROVED ALLOCATION PLAN.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term "approved allocation plan" means a written plan, certified by the Secretary, which includes—

"(i) selection criteria for the allocation of credits to qualified lenders—

"(I) based on a process in which lenders submit to the housing finance agency a bid for the value of the credits which includes—

"(II) which gives priority to qualified lenders with qualified home ownership tax credit loans which are prepaid during a calendar year, for credit allocations in the succeeding calendar year,

"(ii) an assurance that the State will not allocate in excess of 10 percent of the home ownership tax credit amount for the calendar year for qualified home ownership tax credit loans which are neighborhood revitalization project loans,

"(iii) a provision that the agency (or an agent or other private contractor of such agency) will follow in monitoring for noncompliance with the provisions of this section and the Internal Revenue Service of such noncompliance with respect to which such agency becomes aware, and

"(iv) such other assurances as the Secretary may require for the purposes of this paragraph.

"(3) QUALIFIED LENDER.—For purposes of this section, the term "qualified lender" means a lender which—

"(A) is a residential depository institution (as defined in section 3 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act), insured credit union (as defined in section 101 of the Federal Credit Union Act), community development financial institution (as defined in section 103 of the Community Development Banking and Financial Institutions Act of 1994 (12 U.S.C. 4702)), or nonprofit community development corporation (as defined in section 633 of the Community Economic Development Act of 1984 (42 U.S.C. 5175a));

"(B) makes available, through such lender or the lender's designee, pre-purchase home ownership counseling for mortgagors, and

"(C) during the 1-year period beginning on the date of the credit allocation, originates not less than 100 qualified home ownership tax credit loans in an aggregate amount not less than the amount of the bid of such lender for such credit allocation.

"(4) CARRYOVER OF CREDIT.—A home ownership tax credit amount received by a State for any calendar year and not allocated in such year shall remain available to be allocated in the succeeding calendar year.

"(5) POPULATION.—For purposes of this section, population shall be determined in accordance with section 166(j).

"(6) COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a calendar year after 2000, the 40 cent amount contained in paragraph (1)(A) shall be increased by an amount equal to—

"(i) such amount, multiplied by

"(ii) the cost-of-living adjustment determined under section 250(b)(1)(B) for such calendar year and year by substituting 'calendar year 1999' for 'calendar year 1992' in subparagraph (B) thereof.

"(B) ROUNDING.—If any amount as adjusted under subparagraph (A) is not a multiple of 5 cents, such amount shall be rounded to the next lowest multiple of 5 cents.

"(c) QUALIFIED HOME OWNERSHIP TAX CREDIT LOAN DEFINED.—For purposes of this section—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The term "qualified home ownership tax credit loan" means a loan originated and funded by a qualified lender which is secured by a second lien on a residence, but only if—

"(A) for purposes of this section, the term "second lien loan" includes—

"(i) a loan made to a mortgagor, for which the interest on the loan is zero percent, and

"(ii) the aggregate of the amount of the principal of the loan made to the mortgagor, and the amount of the interest on the loan made to the mortgagor, to exceed 1 percent of the amount of the purchase price or the appraised value of the residence securing the loan, which is zero percent.

"(B) for purposes of this section, the term "second lien loan" includes—

"(i) a loan which is secured by a second lien on a residence, but only if—

"(I) such amount, multiplied by

"(ii) the interest on the loan is not more than 30 years (or any lesser period of time as determined under subparagraph (C) of section 166(j)),

"(iii) the housing price index published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, based on the date on which the loan is originated, the Internal Revenue Service, or the State housing finance agency (as applicable), as provided in clause (iv), no payment is due on such loan until the sooner of—

"(I) the end of such period, or

"(II) the date on which the residence which secures the loan is disposed of, and

"(iv) requires payment on such loan if the mortgagor receives any portion of the equity of such residence as part of a refinancing of any loan secured by such residence.

"(D) INTEREST.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(G), the interest rate of the loan is zero percent.

"(c) SERVICING FEES.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(I), there shall be no servicing fees in connection with the loan.

"(e) INDEX OF AMOUNT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a calendar year after 2000, the amounts under subparagraphs (B) and (D) of paragraph (1) shall be increased by an amount equal to—

"(i) such amount, multiplied by

"(ii) the interest on the loan for the preceding calendar year, exceeds

"(ii) the housing price index for the preceding calendar year.

"(2) HOUSING PRICE ADJUSTMENT.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the housing price adjustment for any calendar year is the percentage (if any) by which—

"(i) the housing price index for the preceding calendar year, exceeds

"(ii) the housing price index for calendar year 2000.

"(g) MORTGAGOR.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A loan meets the requirements of this subsection if it is made to a mortgagor—

"(A) which owns a residence for the year in which such loan is made, and

"(B) at least 90 percent of the principal amount of the loan is used for the purpose of financing the acquisition or improvement of such residence, or

"(C) at least 80 percent of the principal amount of the loan is used for the purpose of financing the acquisition or improvement of such residence, or

"(D) at least 50 percent of the principal amount of the loan is used for the purpose of financing the acquisition or improvement of such residence;

"(2) BALLOON PAYMENT LOAN.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—A loan is described in this paragraph if such loan—

"(i) meets the requirements of subparagraphs (B) and (C),

"(ii) is prepaid or amortized over a period of 25 years and, except as provided in clause (iv), no payment is due on such loan until the sooner of—

"(I) the end of such period, or

"(II) the date on which the residence which secures the loan is disposed of, and

"(iii) does not prohibit early repayment of such loan, and

"(iv) requires payment on such loan if the mortgagor receives any portion of the equity of such residence as part of a refinancing of any loan secured by such residence.

"(C) SERVICING FEES.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(I), the interest rate of the loan is zero percent.

"(d) MORTGAGOR.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A loan meets the requirements of this subsection if it is made to a mortgagor—

"(A) whose annual income for the year in which the mortgagor applies for the loan is 80 percent or less of the area median gross income for the area in which the residence which secures the mortgage is located,

"(B) for whom the loan would not result in a housing debt-to-income ratio, with respect to such residence, which is less than the debt-to-income ratio which is greater than the guidelines set by the Federal Housing
Administration (or any other ratio as determined by the State housing finance agency or lender if such ratio is less than such guidelines), and

(3) the number of days during any 10 years beginning with the taxable year in which a home ownership tax credit amount is allocated to the taxpayer.

(2) SPECIAL RULE FOR 1ST YEAR OF CREDIT PERIOD.—

(A) In general.—The credit allowable under subsection (a) with respect to any tax year for the 1st taxable year of the credit period shall be determined by substituting for the applicable percentage under subsection (a)(2) the fraction—

(i) the numerator of which is the sum of the applicable percentages determined under subsection (a)(2) as of the close of each full month of such year, during which the taxpayer is a qualified lender, and

(ii) the denominator of which is 12.

(B) Treatment of mortgage insurance.—In the case of mortgage insurance, rules similar to the rules of section 134(e) shall apply.

(3) DISPOSITION OF HOME OWNERSHIP TAX CREDIT LOANS.—If a qualified home ownership tax credit loan is disposed of during any year for which the credit attributable under subsection (a) is allocable to such loan, such credit shall be allocated between the parties on the basis of the number of days during such year the mortgage was held by each and the portion of the total credit allocated to the qualified lender which is attributable to such mortgage.

(4) RECOVERY OF PORTION OF FEDERAL SUBSIDY FROM HOME-OWNER.—

(1) In general.—If, during the taxable year, any taxpayer described in paragraph (3) disposes of an interest in a residence with respect to which a home ownership tax credit attributable to that loan is no longer available under subsection (a), such credit is includible in the gross income of the taxpayer for the year in which such repayment occurs for which the loan is outstanding, determined in the same manner as provided in subsection (f)(2)(A), and

(ii) the number of qualified home ownership tax credits made by such lender in such year.

Penalty under section 6652(j) shall apply to any failure to submit the report required by this paragraph on the date prescribed therefore.

(2) Definition and special rules relating to credit period.—(A) In general.—The credit allowable under subsection (a) for the 1st taxable year of the credit period shall be increased by 50 percent of the gain (if any) on the disposition of such interest.

(B) Exception.—Subparagraph (A) shall not apply to any disposition—

(i) by reason of death,

(ii) which is made on a date that is more than 10 years after the date on which the qualified home ownership tax credit loan secured by such residence was made, or

(iii) in which the purchaser of the residence assumes the qualified home ownership tax credit loan secured by the residence.

(3) Income limitation.—A taxpayer is described in this paragraph if, on the date of the disposition, the family income of the mortgagor is 115 percent or more of the area median gross income as determined under subsection (d)(1)(A) for the year in which the disposition occurs.

(4) Special rules relating to limitation on recapture amount based on gain realized.—For purposes of this subsection, rules similar to the rules of section 143(m)(8) shall apply.

(5) Lender to inform mortgagor of potential recapture.—(A) In general.—The qualified lender shall, at the time the mortgage loan is made, provide written notice to the mortgagor stating that the mortgagor is expected to become the principal residence of the mortgagor, or can reasonably be expected to become the principal residence of the mortgagor within a reasonable time after the financing is provided.

(B) Exception.—Subparagraph (A) shall not apply to any disposition of a mortgage on a residence—

(i) for which the mortgagor was a qualified lender,

(ii) in which the mortgagor is not expected to become the principal residence of the mortgagor within a reasonable time after the financing is provided.

(6) Special rules.—For purposes of this subsection, rules similar to the rules of section 143(m)(9) shall apply.

(1) Definitions and special rules relating to credit period.—(A) In general.—The term ‘credit period’ means—

(i) for purposes of subsection (a) and (b), the period of 10 taxable years beginning with the taxable year in which a home ownership tax credit amount is allocated to the taxpayer,

(ii) for purposes of subsection (d)(1), the number of qualified home ownership tax credit loans made by such lender, and

(iii) the number of qualified home ownership tax credit loans made by such lender in such year.

(B) Effective date.—The amendments made by this section apply to calendar years after 1999.
sold. Lenders also would be able to sell the tax credit mortgages on the secondary market with the tax credits being transferred to secondary market investors.

Only interest rates falling up to 80 percent of the area median income would qualify to take advantage of the home ownership tax credit. The second mortgage could be between 18 and 22 percent of the purchase price of the home, up to $25,000. The second mortgage could be up to $40,000 if used in areas formally targeted for neighborhood revitalization.

Under this proposal, families earning at little as $14,500 would be able to become home owners.

Example: The following example indicates how this proposal would work:

A low-income family identifies a $100,000 home that it wants to purchase. The potential home buyers would visit a lender participating in the tax credit program. Let's assume that the lender would agree to extend an $81,000 first mortgage to the home buyer. Under the tax credit program, the home buyer would only be required to make a $1,000 down payment. Assuming that the home buyer met the eligibility requirements of the home ownership tax credit program, the lender would also agree to extend an $18,000 second mortgage (in the alternative, the home buyer could get the first and second mortgages from different lenders). Closing costs of $2,000 could be financed into the second mortgage, increasing the second mortgage amount to $22,000.

If the second mortgage was a zero-interest 25-year balloon, the home buyer would only pay principal, interest, and insurance on the $81,000 first mortgage for 25 years, or until sale of the home (approximately $540/month). In the alternative, the home buyer could get the first and second mortgages from different lenders. Closing costs of $2,000 could be financed into the second mortgage, increasing the second mortgage amount to $22,000.

In sum, this proposal will allow a low-income family to purchase a $100,000 home with a $1,000 down payment and a monthly mortgage payment of $540 (plus taxes and insurance) throughout most of the life of the first mortgage.

By Mr. GRASSLEY (for himself, Mr. SESSIONS, and Mr. KYL): S. 1337. A bill to provide for the placement of anti-drug messages on appropriate Internet sites controlled by NASA; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

ANTI-DRUG MESSAGES ON INTERNET CONTROLLED SITES

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, today, I am introducing legislation along with Senator Sessions and Senator KyL to help in sending our young people a no-use message on drugs. This parallel effort in the House by Congressman Matt Salmon and it is supported by NASA.

The average age of our young people who first use illegal drugs is 16 and the age of first use is dropping. We need to reverse this trend and prevent drug use among young people. An easy way of contacting them is at our finger tips. NASA's web sites are among the most visited government sites. Thousands of schools have programs that include NASA's programs. The use curriculum I believe it is important to reach out to those young people. Here is a chance to reach millions of young people at no added expense to the taxpayer.

In this bill the NASA administration must work with the Office of National Drug Control Policy to add anti-drug messages on NASA's web sites. With our young people being bombarded by images of violence and drugs from films and TV, this is a way to get the anti-drug message to our children at a young age through a location that we know a large number will see. I urge my colleagues to join me in this effort and support this bill.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1337

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. ANTI-DRUG MESSAGES ON INTERNET SITES.

Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, in consultation with the Director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy, shall place anti-drug messages on appropriate Internet sites controlled by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

By Mr. MURKOWSKI (by request):

S. 1398. A bill entitled the "Military Lands Withdrawal Act of 1999"; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

MILITARY LANDS WITHDRAWAL ACT OF 1999

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I send to the desk the Military Lands Withdrawal Act of 1999. I am introducing this legislation on behalf of the Administration. At this point I am neither prepared to support nor object to any of the specific provisions contained within this legislative proposal. It is my intention however, to hold hearings on this legislation and the need for withdrawal withdrawals contained within it. After those hearings have been held and we have had the benefit of input from the parties most affected by the withdrawals, I am prepared to offer an amendment in the nature of a substitute which makes such needed changes as are identified during the hearing process.

This legislation renews the withdrawals contained within P.L. 99-606, enacted by Congress in 1986. This Congressional action withdrew 7.2 million acres of public land for use by the Department of Defense at six installations. The affected bases are the Barry M. Goldwater Air Force Range in Arizona, Nellis Air Force Base and Naval Air Station Fallon in Nevada, the McGregor Army Range in New Mexico, and Fort Wainwright and Fort Greely in our state of Alaska. These withdrawals were for a period of 15 years ending in 2001.

I have a deep abiding recognition of the unique and critical role all of these military bases play in our national defense strategy and on the economies of the states within which they are located. However, I also understand that the issues surrounding the renewal of these withdrawals are complex and varied. Congress's ability to resolve these issues will ultimately define success or failure for this entire round of withdrawals. What we hope to have a lasting impact on these bases military mission, their local economies, and the environmental protection of the public lands. It is my firm belief that only through the Congressional hearing process can the concerns of all affected parties be recorded and factored into the renewal of these base withdrawals.

I am committed to the prompt consideration of this legislation. However, taking into consideration the fact that these withdrawals do not expire until 2001, I believe it is prudent that we move this legislation at a pace which allows both the public and our colleagues the opportunity to participate in a meaningful way and in the proper forum.

By Mr. DURBIN. S. 1399. A bill to provide for the debarment or suspension from Federal procurement and nonprocurement activities of persons that violate certain labor and safety laws; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

FEDERAL PROCUREMENT AND ASSISTANCE INTEGRITY ACT

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I am pleased today to introduce legislation to improve the efficiency and protect the integrity of Federal procurement and assistance programs, by ensuring that the Federal Government does business only with responsible contractors and participants.

The United States General Accounting Office [GAO] has found that billions of dollars in Federal procurement contracts and assistance are going to individuals and corporations which are violations of our nation's labor and employment laws. In 1995, the GAO reported that more than $23 billion in Federal contracts were awarded in fiscal year 1993 to contractors who violated labor laws. That is 13 percent of the $182 billion in Federal contracts awarded that year. Part of the reason for this, the GAO found, is that the National Labor Relations Board, which enforces our nation's labor laws, does not know whether violators of the law are receiving Federal contracts.

In 1995, the GAO reported that $38 billion in Federal contracts in fiscal year 1994 were awarded to contractors who had violated workplace health and safety laws. That is 22 percent of the $176 billion in Federal contracts of $25,000 or more which were awarded that year. The GAO found that 35 people died and 55 more people were hospitalized in fiscal year 1994 as a result of injuries at the worksites of Federal contractors who violated health and safety laws.
safety laws. These contractors were assessed a total of $10.9 million in penalties in fiscal year 1994—while being awarded $38 billion in Federal contracts. The GAO concluded that, although federal agencies have the authority to deny contracts and federal assistance to companies that violate Federal laws, this authority is rarely used in the case of safety and health violations. The GAO found that federal agencies do not require or receive information about which contractors are violating health and safety laws—even when contractors have been assessed large penalties for egregious or repeat violations.

The Federal Government should not ignore the health and safety records of companies that apply for federal contracts and assistance. A report published this week in the Archives of Internal Medicine concludes that job-related injuries and illnesses in the United States are more than 13 million Americans were injured from job-related causes in just one year—more than four times the number of people who live in the City of Chicago. The report concluded that the cost to our country from workplace injuries and illnesses was $171 billion in 1992.

The Federal Government has a responsibility to taxpayers, working Americans and law-abiding businesses, to ensure that federal tax dollars do not go to individuals and corporations that violate safety and health, labor and veterans' employment preference laws. About 26 million Americans are employed by federal contractors and subcontractors. It is only fair to know that their Government is not rewarding employers who violate the laws that protect American workers and veterans. The legislation I am introducing today will improve the enforcement of our nation's health and safety, labor and veterans' employment laws, and provide an incentive to contractors to comply with the law. This legislation will allow the Secretary of Labor to debar or suspend a person from procurement activities or nonprocurement activities upon a finding, in accordance with procedures developed under this section, that the person violated any of the following laws:

3. The Occupational Safety and Health Act (29 U.S.C. 651 et seq.).
4. Section 422(b) of title 38, United States Code.

The Secretary of Labor and the National Labor Relations Board shall jointly develop procedures to determine whether a violation of a law listed in subsection (a) is serious enough to warrant debarment or suspension under that subsection. The procedures shall provide for an assessment of the nature and extent of compliance with such laws, including whether there are or were single or multiple violations of those laws or other labor or safety laws and whether the violations occur or have occurred at one facility, several facilities, or throughout the company concerned.

In developing the procedures, the Secretary of Labor and the National Labor Relations Board shall jointly submit to Congress a bill to rename the Stuttgart National Aquaculture Research Center for the Senate's consideration, a bill to the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry.
DEAR SENATOR LINCOLN: I am writing to submit my letter of support for proposed legislation naming the USDA Fish Farming Laboratory in Stuttgart after Dr. Harry Dupree.

As you know, you and I have served together on the Arkansas Delta Council and Foundation. Dr. Dupree has served Delta Council since its formation in 1990, and more recently as Treasurer.

More importantly, Dr. Dupree has been the central figure in the development of the Fish Farming Laboratory since the beginning. When I was an aide to Senator Bumpers, I recall meeting Dr. Dupree for the first time at the annual U.S. Senate Catfish Fry in the Russell Senate Office Building. He was busy telling everyone he could find about the importance of the facilities to the fish industry, and why it needed more funding. Years later, Harry and I became close friends when I moved to Stuttgart, and I witnessed his many efforts as the chief champion of a new lab and mission at USDA. Everything that is associated with the fish lab is due at one level or another to the efforts of Dr. Harry Dupree.

Therefore, I can speak with complete authority when I say that our constituents here in Arkansas County, and in the aquaculture field support the naming of this facility after Dr. Dupree. I can think of no more fitting name for this lab. Indeed, it is every bit as much an honor for USDA, this center for Arkansas County to have this named after Dr. Dupree as it is an honor for Dr. Dupree.

Mr. President, at this point I ask unanimous consent that letters of support be made part of the record.

Finally, I would ask that these comments, along with the other comments you are receiving about Dr. Dupree, be listed in the Congressional Record. I believe it would be a fitting tribute to Dr. Dupree and for his hard work and dedicated public service. Thank you for your consideration of this request, and I trust that all is well with you in Washington.

Sincerely,

KEVIN A. SMITH,
ADFA, June 23, 1999.

Hon. BLANCHE LAMBERT LINCOLN,
Washington, D.C.

DEAR SENATOR LINCOLN: I want to express my full support for legislation that would change the name of the Stuttgart National Aquaculture Research Center to the Harry K. Dupree Stuttgart National Aquaculture Research Center.

Dr. Harry K. Dupree has devoted his professional career to the advancement of warmwater fish culture; first as a research scientist in fish nutrition and later in administration of research while continuing with research. Early in his career his research established the major elements required for a manufactured feed for channel catfish. This work included the establishment of the amount of protein and amino acids required by channel catfish, highlighting those that are considered "essential" and testing many types of protein. Their usefulness as primary amino acid sources for catfishes contributed to the establishment of the vitamin requirements of channel catfish, working specifically with vitamin E, vitamin A, and beta carotene. Research on sources of oil for formulating channel catfish diets led to the understanding of the lipid requirements for commercial production of catfish.

Dr. Dupree's research helped establish the form and formulation of manufactured feed most readily accepted by channel catfish. With his studies of the feeding habits of cultured catfish, helped determine the quality of feed needed at different stages of development, the digestibility of feeds of different compositions, and the quantity and timing of feeding for maximum pond production. His research activities led to the formulation of pelleted feed for catfish production and made it possible for the modern industry to move from a small, labor intensive industry of local interest to a streamlined industry with potential for expansion on the national and international level. Dr. Dupree has written extensively on the subject of fish nutrition and is a recognized authority on warmwater fish nutrition.

Dr. Dupree's research in other areas of fish biology illustrates the breadth of his interest and abilities. His work on immunity and with the immune response of paddlefish, gar, and channel catfish led to better understanding of basic systems of immunity. His research on hormone induction of ovulation of goldfish led to modern day standard procedures now employed in raising these and other species of fish. Other research has included pesticide analysis of Channel catfish and work with karyology of grass carp that led to modern methods for determining the difference between diploids and triploids.

In 1984, Dr. Dupree was responsible for editing "The Third Report to the Fish Farmer" and for revising or writing a large part of the publication. "The Third Report" is a comprehensive review of most aspects of warmwater aquaculture and is one of the most popular publications released by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service; 17,500 copies have been printed and most have been distributed to aquaculture and agri-business firms. Dr. Dupree is largely responsible for the laboratories, offices and research buildings that are now at the Stuttgart National Aquaculture Research Center. His efforts, dating back to before 1985, resulted in funding for design and construction of the new laboratories and offices and it is because of his efforts that the laboratory exists today. His efforts are continuing as he expands the facilities available for the growing research staff that he has fought so long for.

I have been involved with aquaculture for 30 years, first as a fish farmer and for the last 8 years as the State Aquaculture Coordinator. I don't know of anyone who has contributed as much to the aquaculture industry as Dr. Harry Dupree.

I have talked to people in many states that are very supportive of his name change and feel that Dr. Dupree is very worthy of the honor.

Sincerely,

TED MCNULTY,
State Aquaculture Coordinator, ADFA.

Hon. BLANCHE LAMBERT LINCOLN,
United States Senate, Washington, D.C.

DEAR SENATOR LINCOLN: As I discussed earlier with you, Keo Fish Farm, Inc. would consider it most appropriate for the Stuttgart National Aquaculture Research Center to be re-named after its long-time Director, Dr. Harry K. Dupree—Stuttgart National Aquaculture Research Center. It is a fitting tribute to a man who had a vision for what the Center could be and then devoted his professional career to making it a reality for the benefit of fish farmers and the fish industry throughout the country.

If ever a person personifies dedication, it is Dr. Dupree. He takes tremendous pride in the people, facilities, and programs that make up the Stuttgart Center. For nearly forty years, the Stuttgart Center has guided and championed the warmwater aquaculture industry. For twenty-five of those years, Dr. Dupree has been at the helm. Today thriving, vibrant industry is a legacy of both the Center and the leadership and devotion provided by Dr. Dupree.

I am proud to call Harry Dupree a friend and express my deep gratitude for being given this opportunity to honor our friend and his career.

Sincerely,

MILO J. SHULT,
Vice President for Agriculture.

KEO FISH FARM, INC.,

Sen. BLANCHE LAMBERT LINCOLN,

DEAR SENATOR LINCOLN: As I discussed earlier with you, Keo Fish Farm, Inc. would consider it most appropriate for the Stuttgart National Aquaculture Research Station to be re-named after its long-time Director, Dr. Harry K. Dupree. I believe you will find widespread support among Arkansas' fish farmers for such action.

Sincerely,

MIKE FREEZE.

S 1341. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to expand the applicability of section 179 which permits the expensing of certain depreciable assets; to the Committee on Finance.

Main Street Business Incentive Act of 1999

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, today I'm joined by Senators LOTT, DASCALO, NICKLES, REID, MURKOWSKI, and twenty-one other distinguished colleagues in introducing the "Main Street Business Incentive Act of 1999," which addresses a gap in the current law that is impeding the improvement of many of our small town Main Street businesses. Specifically, the bill would raise the income tax expensing provision for small businesses in current law from $19,000 to $25,000 this year. The bill also would expand the provision to cover investments in commercial buildings and structural improvements.

Mr. President, small businesses are the economic anchors of Main Streets in small and large communities throughout our country. They provide jobs, sponsor local charities and little league teams, and enable people to purchase their daily necessities without driving long distances. Without small businesses, we wouldn't have communities. That's why Congress has adjusted the tax laws in numerous ways over the years to encourage investments that enable them to grow and thrive.

For example, many businesses have to deduct the cost of new equipment purchases—which is to say, they deduct these costs over a long period of years. Small businesses, by contrast, can "expense" up to $19,000 in purchases of such assets. They deduct the cost entirely in the first year. That maximum amount will increase to $25,000 in year 2003. This tax provision is helpful to many small businesses because it enables them to write off the investment immediately and so bolster their cash flow.

However, the expensing provision is not as helpful as it could be and needs to be. Specifically, it does not include investments that small businesses make in improving the store front or the building in which they conduct their business. In many small towns, the local drug store, shoe store or grocery store doesn't have much need of new equipment. But it does need to improve the store front or the interior, and generally spruce things up.

Such investments are good for our Main Streets. They improve the appearance of both the business and the town. Yet under today's tax law, if a small business owner improves the storefront, he has to spread the cost of the investments for tax purposes over 39 years, which is the depreciation schedule for commercial real estate. The result is a large economic hurdle for many of these small businesses.

There are a great number of Main streets across our country that were built or refurbished thirty, forty or fifty years ago and now need investment and improvement. The Tax Code should encourage this. A simple way to accomplish it is to allow the expensing of up to $25,000, not only for equipment and machinery, but also for small business investments in store fronts and business locations. The motel, the gas station, the hardware store or barber shop ought to be able to "expense" that investment in their property. That's what my legislation provides.

This would be a significant benefit to America's small business and I think would result in a significant improvement for its communities and main streets. This legislation is supported by a number of small business-oriented trade groups including the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB), NFIB-North Dakota, the Small Business Legislative Council, the North Dakota Association of Realtors and National Association of Realtors.

I urge my colleagues to cosponsor this much-needed legislation.

S 1342. A bill to repeal the Federal estate and gift taxes and the tax on generation-skipping transfers; to the Committee on Finance.

Legislation to Repeal the Federal Death Tax

Mr. ALLARD. Mr. President, today I am introducing legislation to repeal the federal death tax, otherwise known as the federal estate and gift tax. I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD. I also ask unanimous consent that the Colorado Senate Joint Memorial 99-004, approved by the Colorado Legislature be printed in the RECORD. This memorial resolution urges the immediate repeal of the Federal estate and gift tax. Finally, I ask that an article I recently wrote on this topic be printed in the RECORD.

The material follows:

S 1342

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. REPEAL OF FEDERAL TRANSFER TAXES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subtitle B of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is repealed.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The repeal made by subsection (a) shall apply to the estates of decedents dying, and gifts and generation-skipping transfers made, after the date of enactment of this Act.

(c) TECHNICAL AND CONFORMING CHANGES.—
The Secretary of the Treasury or the Secretary's delegate shall, as soon as practicable but in any event not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, submit to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate a draft of any necessary changes in the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 which are necessary to reflect throughout such Code the changes in the substantive provisions of law made by this Act.

Time to End the Estate Tax

(By Senator Wayne Allard)

As we approach the new millennium a consensus has developed in favor of significant estate tax reform. While some prefer the flat tax, others advocate the sales tax. A third camp argues that Congress should avoid a complete overhaul and instead work to improve the existing system. Whatever path is chosen, it should include elimination of the federal estate and gift tax. The estate tax is the first step toward a fairer and flatter tax system.

Our current estate tax system has levied estate taxes at various times throughout U.S. history, particularly during war. The current estate tax dates back to 1916, a time when many in Congress were looking for ways to finance some of the wealth held by a small number of super-rich families. This first permanent estate tax had a top rate of only 10 percent, but in 1932, Congress raised the rate so that the tax effectuated only a tiny fraction of the population.

Like the rest of our tax code, it did not take long for this limited tax to evolve into a more substantial burden. In only the second year of the tax, the top rate was increased to 15 percent. By 1935 the top rate was 70 percent and in 1941 it reached an all time high of 77 percent.

While income tax rates have declined in recent decades, estate tax rates have remained high. Today, the top estate tax rate is 55 percent (a top marginal rate of 60 percent is paid by some estates), and the tax is imposed not on assets above the threshold, but on assets up to $1 million (value above $650,000 is taxed at an initial rate of 37%).

Generally, the value of all assets held at death is included in the estate for purposes of assessing the tax—this includes residences, businesses, assets, stocks, bonds, savings personal properties and tax returns are due within nine months of the decedent's death (a six-month extension is available) and with the exception of certain charitable contributions when the return is filed. The tax is paid by the estate rather than by the beneficiary (in contrast to an inheritance tax).

The 1997 tax bill increased the unified estate and gift tax exemption from $600,000 to $1 million. However, this is done very gradually and does not reach the $1 million level until 2006. The bill also increased the exemption amount for a qualified family owned business to $1.3 million. While both actions are a good first step, they are insufficiently compensated for the effects of inflation. The $600,000 exemption level was last set in 1987, just to keep pace with inflation the exemption has risen to $600,000, providing for no incremental improvements help, but we need more substantial reform.

In the United States we stand among the highest estate taxes in the world. Among industrial nations, only Japan has a higher top rate than the U.S. But Japan's 70 percent applies to an inheritance of $16 million or more. The U.S. top rate of 55% kicks in on estates of $3 million or more. France, the United Kingdom, and Ireland all have top rates of 40%, and the average top rate of OECD countries is only 29%. Australia, Canada, and Mexico presently have no estate taxes.

Surely, the strongest argument that supporters of the estate tax make is that most American families will never have to pay an estate tax. While this is true, it does not justifiably retention of a tax that causes great harm to family businesses and farms, often constitutes double taxation, limits economic growth, consumes significant resources in unproductive compliance efforts, and raises only a tiny portion of federal tax revenues. In other words, the estate tax is not worth the trouble.

The estate tax can destroy a family business. This is the most disturbing aspect of the tax. No American family should lose its business or farm because of the tax. Current estimates are that more than 70 percent of family businesses do not survive the
The estate tax is certainly one of them. The estate tax, as estimated, if the tax is phased out over a 5 years beginning in 1999, that the economy would create 189,995 more jobs and would grow by 13.6 percent per year. Similarly, a recent Heritage Foundation study simulated the results of an estate tax repeal under two respected economic models, the Washington University Macro Model, and the Wharton Econometric Model. Under the models, a repeal of the tax is forecast to increase jobs and GDP, as well as reduce the cost of capital.

One might expect that with all the economic growth that a repeal of the estate tax would bring to the economy, there may be some long-term survival is jeopardized. The estate tax generates a redistribution of wealth. In fact, the revenue take is quite modest—approximately 1 percent of federal revenue, or $14.7 billion in 1995. And as for social policy, the ability of the federal government to equalize wealth through the estate tax may be quite limited. A 1995 study published by the Rand Corporation found that for the very wealthiest Americans, only 7.5 percent of their wealth is attributed to inheritance—the other 92.5 percent is from earnings.

America is a nation of tremendous economic opportunity. Success is determined by the hard work and individual initiative. Our tax policy should focus on encouraging the nation rather than on attempts to limit inherited wealth. The estate tax is a relic. It damages family businesses, harms the economy, and constitutes double taxation. It is time for the estate tax to go.

Whereas, The Federal Unified Gift and Estate Tax, or “Death Tax”, generates a minimal amount of federal revenue, especially considering the high cost of collection and compliance and in fact has shown to decrease federal revenues from what they might otherwise have been; and

Whereas, This federal Death Tax has been identified as destructive to job opportunity and especially to majority entrepreneurs and family farmers and;

Whereas, This federal Death Tax causes severe hardship to growing family businesses and is a barrier to the immigration of talent, that the residents of J-arbidge will know the entire U.S. Congress supports their efforts to honor the memory of deceased residents whose graves occupy this tiny plot of land.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

S. 1343

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. CONVEYANCE OF NATIONAL FOREST LAND TO ELKO COUNTY, NEVADA, FOR USE AS CEMETERY.

(a) REQUIREMENT TO CONvey.—The Secretary of Agriculture shall convey, without consideration, two acres of land to Elko County, NV, for use as a cemetery. THIS PROPOSAL SHOULD NOT BE CONTROVERSIAL, AND I URGE MY COLLEAGUES TO ACT UPON THIS QUICKLY.

J-arbidge, NV, is a small town located in the remote wilderness of Elko County in northern Nevada. Surrounded by the Humboldt-Toiyabe National Forest, this community is representative of many small, rural communities of Nevada. Its residents have worked hard to earn a living off the land and many of its families have deep roots in Nevada established decades ago by early pioneers to the Silver State. Since the 1900’s, the people there have buried their dead in a small parcel of national forest land.

The people of J-arbidge now have an opportunity to establish a permanent for the maintenance of this historic cemetery. The establishment of the trust is an effective way to ensure ownership of the land, however. The Forest Service has stated that they cannot and will not give the land to the County, and insist that the land be paid for either in cash or via a land exchange. While I agree that instruments in the vast majority of instances this is the correct stance, in this case the Forest Service is just plain wrong.

We should do the right thing and give this land to the county to honor the families whose loved ones rest in that small cemetery. The bill I introduce today is companion legislation to a House bill introduced by my fellow Nevada legislator Jim Gibbons—a bill which is making its way through the House. I hope my colleagues in the House get behind this measure and that the residents of J-arbidge will know the entire U.S. Congress supports their efforts to honor the memory of deceased residents whose graves occupy this tiny plot of land.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the Record.
Characteristics conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary.

(C) Cost. As a condition of any conveyance under this section, the County shall pay the cost of the survey.

ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS. The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions with respect to the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 43—PROVIDING FOR A CONDITIONAL ADJOURNMENT OR RECESS OF THE SENATE AND A CONDITIONAL ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. Lott submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. CON. RES. 43
Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate recesses or adjourns at the close of business on Thursday, July 1, 1999, Friday, July 2, 1999, or Saturday, July 3, 1999, on a motion offered pursuant to this concurrent resolution by its Majority Leader or his designee, it stand recessed or adjourned until noon on the second day after Members are notified to reassemble pursuant to section 2 of this concurrent resolution, whichever occurs first; and that when the House adjourns on the legislative day of Thursday, July 1, 1999, Friday, July 2, 1999, or Saturday, July 3, 1999, on a motion offered pursuant to this concurrent resolution by its Majority Leader or his designee, it stand adjourned until 12:30 p.m. on Monday, July 12, 1999, or for morning-hour debate, or until noon on the second day after Members are notified to reassemble pursuant to section 2 of this concurrent resolution, whichever occurs first.

Sec. 2. The Majority Leader of the Senate and the Speaker of the House, acting jointly after consultation with the Minority Leader of the Senate and the Minority Leader of the House, shall notify the Members of the Senate and House, respectively, to reassemble whenever, in their opinion, the public interest shall warrant it.

SENATE RESOLUTION 132—DESIGNATING THE WEEK BEGINNING JANUARY 21, 2001, "ZINFANDEL GRAPE APPRECIATION WEEK"

Mrs. Feinstein (for herself and Mr. Boxer) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

S. RES. 132
Whereas Zinfandel grapes have historical significance among agricultural products of the United States, in that the origins of Zinfandel grapes in the United States date back to the 1830's;
Whereas Zinfandel grape vines are a living link to the time when gold was discovered in the Sierra Nevada mountains and many people in the United States moved west to seek their fortunes;
Whereas some Zinfandel grape vines in the Sierra Nevada foothills are at least 125 years old and still produce;
Whereas Zinfandel grape vines were an integral part of the Gold Rush of 1849 and the agricultural cultivation of the West;
Whereas Zinfandel grapes are used in products as diverse as jams, pasta sauce, mustards, and other food products. It is produced as a wine in 14 states, including Arizona, California, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon, Ohio, Tennessee and Texas;
Zinfandel products now touch every region of the United States, yet knowledge of its uniquely American heritage is poor. I hope that passage of this resolution will bring greater awareness to the public of the notable and uniquely American attributes of this important agricultural product.

This resolution is based on the fact that there are grape vines in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains that have been alive since the late 1800's. These ancient vines still produce grapes, and the genetic qualities of these grapes so interest scientists that the Vintage Zinfandel project in Davis has established a "Heritage Vineyard" project specifically to study these plants.

On a more prosaic level, these old vines are a living link to our past—to a time when many Americans living in the East uprooted themselves and moved to West to cultivate and settle the entire expanse of our country.

On July 1, 1999, the Senate and the House of Representatives shall notify the Members to reassemble pursuant to section 2 of this concurrent resolution, whichever occurs first; and that when the House adjourns on the legislative day of Thursday, July 1, 1999, Friday, July 2, 1999, or Saturday, July 3, 1999, on a motion offered pursuant to this concurrent resolution by its Majority Leader or his designee, it stand adjourned until 12:30 p.m. on Monday, July 12, 1999, or for morning-hour debate, or until noon on the second day after Members are notified to reassemble pursuant to section 2 of this concurrent resolution, whichever occurs first.

(1) designates the week beginning January 21, 2001, as "Zinfandel Grape Appreciation Week"; and
(2) requests the President to issue a proclamation calling on the people of the United States to celebrate the week with appropriate ceremonies and programs.

MRS. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I rise today to submit a resolution to commemorate the Zinfandel grape. The Zinfandel grape has a long and unique history, and it is a viticultural product that has gained international recognition and is produced and enjoyed in every part of this country.

I am pleased to submit this resolution to commemorate the Zinfandel grape, which was introduced January 23, 2001, as Zinfandel Grape Appreciation Week.

SENATE RESOLUTION 133—Supporting Religious Tolerance Toward Muslims

Mr. Abraham (for himself and Mr. Craig) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

S. RES. 133
Whereas the American Muslim community, comprised of approximately 6,000,000 people, is a vital part of our Nation, with more than 1,500 mosques, Islamic schools, and Islamic centers in neighborhoods across the United States;

Whereas Islam is one of the great Abrahamic faiths, whose significant contributions throughout history have advanced the fields of math, science, medicine, law, philosophy, art, and literature;

Whereas the United States is a secular nation, with an unprecedented commitment to religious tolerance and pluralism, where the rights, liberties, and freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution are guaranteed to all citizens regardless of religious affiliation;

Whereas Muslims have been subjected, simply because of their faith, to acts of discrimination and harassment that all too often have led to hate-inspired violence, as was the case during the rush to judgment in the aftermath of the tragic Oklahoma City bombing;

Whereas discrimination against Muslims intimidates American Muslims and may prevent Muslims from freely expressing their opinions and exercising their religious beliefs as guaranteed by the first amendment to the Constitution;

Whereas American Muslims have regrettably been portrayed in a negative light in some discussions of policy issues such as issues relating to religious persecution abroad or fighting terrorism in the United States;

Whereas stereotypes and anti-Muslim rhetoric have also contributed to a backlash against Muslims in some neighborhoods across the United States; and

Whereas all persons in the United States who espouse and adhere to the values of the founders of our Nation should help in the fight against bias, bigotry, and intolerance in all their forms and from all their sources:

Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That

(1) the Senate condemns anti-Muslim intolerance and discrimination as wholly inconsistent with the American values of religious tolerance and pluralism;

(2) while the Senate respects and upholds the right of individuals to free speech, the Senate acknowledges that individuals and organizations that foster such intolerance create an atmosphere of hatred and fear that divides the Nation;

(3) the Senate resolves to uphold a level of political discourse that does not involve the use of language that will divide the Nation;

(4) the Senate recognizes the contributions of American Muslims, who are followers of one of the three major monotheistic religions of the world and one of the fastest growing faiths in the United States.

SENATE RESOLUTION 134—EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF THE SENATE THAT JOSEPH JEFFERSON "SHOELESS JOE" JACKSON SHOULD BE APPROPRIATELY HONORED FOR HIS OUTSTANDING BASEBALL ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Mr. HARKIN (for himself, Mr. THURMOND and Mr. HOLLINGS) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation:

S. RES. 134

Resolved, that

SECTION 1. SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that Joseph Jefferson "Shoeless Joe" Jackson should be appropriately honored for his outstanding baseball accomplishments;

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds the following:

(1) In 1919, the infamous "Black Sox" scandal erupted when an employee of a New York gamblers allegedly bribed 8 players of the Chicago White Sox, including Joseph J.efferson. The fix included the first and second games of the 1919 World Series to the Cincinnati Reds.

(2) In September 1920, a criminal court acquitted Joseph Jefferson of the charge that he conspired to throw the 1919 World Series.

(3) Despite the acquittal, Commissioner Landis banned "Shoeless Joe" Jackson from playing Major League Baseball for life without conducting any investigation of Jack-son's alleged involvement or issuing a summarily punishment that fell for part of due process standards.

(4) The evidence shows that Jackson did not deliberately misplay during the 1919 World Series in an attempt to make his team lose the World Series.

(5) During the 1919 World Series, Jackson's playing was outstanding—his batting average was .375, the highest of any player in either team; he had 12 hits, setting a World Series record; he did not commit any errors; and he hit .375 of the Series.

(6) Not only was Jackson's performance during the 1919 World Series unmatched, but his accomplishments throughout his 13-year career are practically more outstanding as well—he was 1 of only 7 Major League Baseball players to ever top the coveted mark of a .400 batting average for a season, and he hit .375 of the Series.

(7) "Shoeless Joe" Jackson's career record clearly makes him one of our Nation's top baseball players of all time.

(8) Because of his lifetime ban from Major League Baseball, "Shoeless Joe" Jackson has been excluded from consideration for admission to the Major League Baseball Hall of Fame.

(9) "Shoeless Joe" Jackson passed away in 1951, and 80 years have elapsed since the 1919 World Series scandal erupted.

(10) Recently, Major League Baseball Commissioner Bud Selig took an important first step toward restoring the reputation of "Shoeless Joe" Jackson by agreeing to conduct a fair and objective review of the case.

(11) Courts have exonerated "Shoeless Joe" Jackson, the evidence shows that Jackson did not deliberately misplay during the 1919 World Series, and so years have passed since the scandal erupted; therefore, Major League Baseball should remove the taint upon the memory of "Shoeless Joe" Jackson and honor his outstanding baseball accomplishments.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that Joseph Jefferson "Shoeless Joe" Jackson should be appropriately honored for his outstanding baseball accomplishments;

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, on behalf of myself and Senators THURMOND and HOLLINGS, I am submitting today a sense of the Senate resolution to right the wrong perpetrated against one of the greatest American baseball players of all time—Joseph Jefferson "Shoeless Joe" Jackson.

In 1920 "Shoeless Joe" Jackson was banned from the game of baseball, the game he loved. He was banned from Major League Baseball for Major League Baseball for allegedly taking part in a conspiracy to throw the 1919 World Series, in what has become known as the "Black Sox" scandal. While "Shoeless Joe" did admit that he received $5,000 from his roommate, Lefty Williams, to participate in the fix, evidence suggests that Jackson did everything in his power to stop the fix from going through. He twice tried to give the money back. He offered to return the money to the White Sox owner to avoid any appearance of impropriety. And, he tried to inform White Sox owner Charles Comisky of the fix. All of these efforts fell on deaf ears.

Perhaps the most convincing evidence of Jackson's withdrawal from the conspiracy was his performance on the field during the series. During the 1919 World Series—which he was accused of conspiring to fix—"Shoeless Joe" Jackson's batting average was .375, the highest of any player from either team. He had 12 hits, a World Series record. He led his team in runs scored and runs batted in. And, he hit the only home run of the series. On defense, Jackson committed no errors and had no questionable plays in 30 chances.

When criminal charges were brought against Jackson in trial, the jury found him "not guilty." White Sox owner Charles Comisky and several sports writers testified that they saw no indication that Jackson did anything to indicate he was trying to throw the series. But, when the issue came before the newly-formed Major League Baseball Commissioner's office, Commissioner Landis Major League Baseball now has an opportunity to correct a great injustice. I wrote recently to Commissioner Bud Selig urging him to take a new look at this case. As I wrote when the Commissioner responded to my inquiry by saying he is giving the case a fair and objective review. Restoring "Shoeless Joe" Jackson's eligibility for the Hall of Fame would benefit Major League Baseball, baseball fans, and all Americans who appreciate a sense of fair play.

"Shoeless Joe" Jackson is an inspiration to people of all generations. Babe Ruth was said to have copied Jackson's standing as well—he was 1 of only 7 Major League baseball players of all time. His accomplishments throughout his thirteen years in professional baseball clearly earn him a place as one of baseball's greatest American baseball players of all time.
Whereas every Member of Congress serves at the pleasure of the people, it is only fair that we be given the opportunity to vote on legislation that will have an impact on our constituents.

The resolution we introduce today urges the United States and the United Nations to try to secure the release of the three humanitarian workers and calls on the Yugoslav government to release them. I urge my colleagues to support this resolution.

Whereas the three humanitarian workers apparently were convicted of providing ‘situation reports’ to their head office and other CARE International offices around the world, based on legitimately gathered information, necessary to enable CARE International management to plan their humanitarian assistance and to inform CARE International management of the rapidly changing security situation faced by their staff.

The convictions of these three humanitarian workers raise serious questions regarding the ability of humanitarian aid organizations to operate in Yugoslavia, with implications for their operations in other areas of conflict around the world. Humanitarian workers who feel secure enough to do their work and must not be at risk of going to prison on false charges. Since that is not now the case in Serbia, CARE International regretfully was forced to stop its operations there.

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) condemns the crimes that occurred in Sacramento, California, at Congregation B’hai Israel, Congregation Beth Shalom, and Kenesseth Israel Torah Center on the evening of June 18, 1999;

(2) rejects such acts of intolerance and malice in our society and interprets such attacks on our shared institutions as an attack on all Americans;

(3) in the strongest terms possible, is committed to using Federal law enforcement personnel and resources pursuant to existing Federal authority to identify the persons who committed these heinous acts and bring them to justice in a swift and deliberate manner;

(4) recognizes and applauds the residents of the Sacramento, California, area who have so quickly joined together to lend support and assistance to the victims of these despicable crimes, and remain committed to preserving the freedom of religion of all members of the community; and

(5) calls upon all Americans to categorically reject similar acts of hate and intolerance.

AMENDMENTS SUBMITTED

TREASURY-POSTAL SERVICE APPROPRIATIONS

REED (AND CHAFFEE) AMENDMENT NO. 1193

Mr. REED (for himself and Mr. CHAFFEE) proposed an amendment to the bill (S. 1282) making appropriations for the Treasury Department, the United States Postal Service, the Executive Office of the President, and certain Independent Agencies, for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2000, and for other purposes; as follows:

On page 98, insert between lines 4 and 5 the following:

"(f) For purposes of this section, the 5 counties of the State of Rhode Island (including Providence, Bristol, Newport, Kent, and Washington counties) shall be considered as 1 county, adjacent to the Boston-Worcester-Lawrence; Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine, and Connecticut locality pay area and the Hartford, Connecticut locality pay area.".

WARNER AMENDMENT NO. 1194

Mr. WARNER (for himself and Mr. CAMPBELL) proposed an amendment to the bill, S. 1282, supra; as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. PROFESSIONAL LIABILITY INSURANCE.

(a) Short Title.—This Act may be cited as the "Federal Employees Equity Act of 1999".

(b) in General.—Section 5304 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(f) For purposes of this section, the 5 counties of the State of Rhode Island (including Providence, Bristol, Newport, Kent, and Washington counties) shall be considered as 1 county, adjacent to the Boston-Worcester-Lawrence; Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine, and Connecticut locality pay area and the Hartford, Connecticut locality pay area.",

(c) the Omnibus Diplomatic Security and Anti-Terrorism Act of 1986 (22 U.S.C. 4825) is amended by inserting after "Transportation Security Act of 1995" the following:

(3) by adding after subsection (b)(3) the following new subpart:

"(D) any revenue officer or revenue agent of the Internal Revenue Service; or"

(4) by adding a new subsection after subsection (e):—

"(E) any Assistant United States Attorney appointed under section 542 of title 28, United States Code.", (d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this Act shall take effect on the later of—

(1) October 1, 1999; or

(2) the date of enactment of this Act.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I rise today in support of my amendment creating the Federal Employees Equity Act of 1999.

My legislation expands a provision included in the Omnibus Appropriations Bill for fiscal year 1997 (P.L. 104-208) to allow Federal agencies to contribute to the costs of professional liability insurance for their senior executives, managers and law enforcement officials. While this important benefit contained in the Omnibus Appropriations Bill was indeed enacted, it has not been made available on as wide a basis to Federal employees as we had hoped.

The Federal Employees Equity Act would ensure that Federal agencies reimburse one-half the premiums for Professional Liability Insurance for employees covered by this bill. Federal managers, supervisors and law enforcement officials should not have to fear the excessive costs of legal representation when unfounded allegations are made against them and investigations of these allegations are conducted.

I was a strong supporter of the provision in 1996 because Federal officials often found themselves to be the target of unfounded allegations of wrongdoing. Sometimes allegations were made by citizens, against whom Federal officials were enforcing the law and by employees who had performance or conduct problems. Although many allegations turn out to be specious, these Federal officials were often subject to lengthy investigations and had to pay for their own legal representation when their agencies could not provide it.

The affected Federal managers, supervisors and law enforcement officials are generally prohibited from being represented by unions. For employees who are in bargaining units represented by unions, Congress allows Federal agencies to subsidize the time and expenses of union representatives when they are needed by such employees, whether or not they are dues-paying members of the union.

Because these Federal officials are denied union representation, they have found it necessary to purchase Professional Liability Insurance in order to protect themselves when allegations are made against them to the Inspector General of their agency, to the Office of Special Counsel, or to the EEO Office. The insurance provides coverage for legal representation for the employees when they are accused, and will pay judgments against the employee up to a maximum dollar amount if the employee is found to have made a mistake while carrying out his official duties. Currently, these managers must hire their own lawyers in order to defend their reputation and careers when they are the subject of a grievance, regardless of whether the complaint has merit.

The current law has had some success and has been implemented by several Federal departments including: Departments of Agriculture, Education, Interior, Labor, and such agencies as the Social Security Administra- tion, Small Business Administration, General Services Administration, Securities and Exchange Commission, National Aeronautics and Space Adminis- tration, the Office of the Inspector General at the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the National Science Foundation, the Merit Systems Protection Board, the Office of the In- spector General at the Office of Public Health and Science, and the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Ad- ministration at Department of Health and Human Services.

Regrettably, other departments such as Treasury, Justice, Defense, Commerce, Transportation, Veterans Af- fairs, and agencies such as the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, and the Office of Personnel Manage- ment have not seen fit to do so.

The professional associations of these officials (the Senior Executives Associa- tion, the Professional Managers Asso- ciation, the FBI FedSoc IAC, the Federal Criminal Investigators As- sociation, the Federal Law Enforce- ment Officers Association, the Na- tional Association of Assistant U.S. Attorneys, and the Nation Treasury Employees Union) have endorsed the concept for legislation to require Fed- eral agencies to reimburse half the cost of premiums for Professional Liability Insurance.

The intent of this measure is simply to "level the playing field" so that su- pervisors and managers are treated equally by various Federal agencies and have access to protections similar to those which are already provided for rank and file Federal employees.

I request your support for these Fed- eral officials and for this legislation.

KYL (AND OTHERS) AMENDMENT NO. 1195

Mr. CAMPBELL (for Mr. KYL (for himself, Mrs. HUTCHISON, Mrs. FEIN- STEIN, Mr. ABRAM, Mr. GRAHAM, Mr. J.

S8145
GRAMM, and Mr. BINGAMAN)) proposed an amendment to the bill, S. 1282, supra; as follows:

On page 13, line 24, strike "$1,670,747,000" and insert "$1,720,747,000".

On page 13, line 6, before the period, insert the following:

That $50,000,000 shall be available until expended to hire, train, provide equipment for, and deploy 500 new Customs inspectors.

The Customs Service requested 617 additional inspectors for fiscal year 2000 to work towards this goal. In the fiscal year 2000 budget request to Congress, however, the President set aside no additional money to hire additional inspectors.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds the following:

(1) The Federal Government is responsible for securing our Nation’s borders and stopping the flow of illegal drugs into the United States. The Federal Government is also responsible for affecting the flow of legitimate trade and commerce across the southern and northern borders of the United States.

(2) The United States Customs Service needs additional personnel to carry out its increasingly difficult mission, to seize illegal drugs and contraband and facilitate legitimate trade and commerce. Canada and Mexico are the United States first and second largest trading partners, respectively.

(3) The number of commercial trucks crossing the United States-Mexico and United States-Canada ports-of-entry increased from 7,500,000 in 1994 to 10,100,000 in 1998, a 40-percent increase. More than 372,000,000 people crossed either the United States-Mexico or United States-Canada border in fiscal year 1998. Between 1994 and 1998, however, the total number of United States Customs Service inspectors and canine enforcement officers increased by only 540, from 5,668 inspectors to 6,208 inspectors. As a result, significant delays in cross-border traffic now occur at various ports-of-entry throughout the United States.

(4) Even with limited numbers of inspectors and agents, the United States Customs Service continues to seize an alarming amount of drugs. Of the 3,484 pounds of heroin seized in the United States in 1998, the United States Customs Service seized 2,705 pounds. Of the 264,630 pounds of cocaine seized in the United States in 1998, the United States Customs Service seized 148,103 pounds. Of the 1,760,000 pounds of marijuana seized last year in the United States, the Customs Service seized 726,105 pounds.

(5) The United States Customs Service must have the necessary staffing and technology to detect, deter, disrupt, and seize illegal drugs and border traffic and cargo at United States ports. Approximately 1,360 additional full-time Customs inspectors are needed to reduce traffic congestion to 20 minutes per vehicle at land ports of entry and to better interdict illegal drugs.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that additional funding should be provided to the United States Customs Service to hire necessary staff for drug interdiction and traffic facilitation at United States land border crossings, including 617 full-time, active duty Customs inspectors for United States ports of entry.

JEFFORS (AND LANDRIEU) AMENDMENT NO. 1197

Mr. CAMPBELL (for Mr. JEFFORS (for himself, Mrs. LANDRIEU, and Mr. ROBES) proposed an amendment to the bill, S. 1282, supra; as follows:

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

TITLES

1. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the "United States Customs Service Personnel and Operations Amendments of 1999".

SEC. 2. DEFINITIONS.

In this title (except as otherwise provided in section 107), the terms used in this Act shall have the meaning given the term in section 8146 of title 5, United States Code, unless the context otherwise requires.

2. CONGRESSIONAL RECORD Ð SENATE (July 1, 1999)
(A) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator shall evaluate the compliance, with the requirements of paragraph (1) and the regulations issued pursuant to paragraphs (2) and (3), as appropriate, of the child care facilities, and entities sponsoring child care facilities, in executive facilities. The Administrator may conduct the evaluation of such a child care facility or entity independently, or through an agreement with another Federal agency or private entity, other than the Federal agency for which the child care facility is providing services. In this event the Administrator determines, on the basis of such an evaluation, that the child care facility or entity is not in compliance with subsection (a) for the corresponding child care facility, and entities sponsoring the corresponding child care facilities, in legislative facilities.

(B) EFFECT OF NONCOMPLIANCE.—On receipt of the notification of noncompliance issued by the Administrator, the head of the Executive agency shall—

(1) if the entity operating the child care facility is the agency—

(A) IN GENERAL.—If the corresponding child care facility or entity is the agency, the head of the Executive agency shall notify the Administrator of the closure; and

(B) EFFECT OF NONCOMPLIANCE.—The Administrator shall require the contractor or licensee to bring the child care facility and entity into compliance with the requirements, to the extent that deficiencies determined by the Administrator to be life threatening or to present a risk of serious bodily harm cannot be corrected within 2 business days after the date of the notification. The Administrator shall allocate the reimbursement costs with respect to the entity among the agencies in a fair and equitable manner, based on the extent to which each agency is responsible for the reimbursement costs with respect to the entity. The Librarian of Congress, and the head of a designated entity described in paragraph (1), may enter into an agreement with, or under a contract or licensing agreement with, an office of the House of Representatives, the Library of Congress, or an office of the Senate, respectively.

(2) STATE AND LOCAL LICENSING REQUIREMENTS, HEALTH, SAFETY, AND FACILITY STANDARDS, AND ACCREDITATION STANDARDS.—The Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts shall issue regulations that require that each entity sponsoring child care facilities, and entities sponsoring child care facilities, in judicial facilities, which shall be no less stringent in content and effect than the requirements of subsection (a)(1) and the regulations issued by the Administrator under paragraphs (2) and (3) of subsection (a), except to the extent that a modification of such regulations would be more effective for the implementation of the requirements and standards described in subsection (a) for the corresponding child care facilities, and entities sponsoring the corresponding child care facilities, in legislative facilities.

(C) COST REIMBURSEMENT.—The Executive agency shall reimburse the Administrator for the costs of carrying out subparagraph (A) for child care facilities located in an executive facility other than an executive facility of the General Services Administration. If an entity is sponsoring a child care facility or entity, the Administrator shall allocate the reimbursement costs with respect to the entity among the agencies in a fair and equitable manner, based on the extent to which each agency is eligible to place children in the facility.

(D) DISCLOSURE OF PRIOR VIOLATIONS TO PARENTS AND FACILITIES.—(1) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator shall issue regulations that require that each entity operating a child care facility in an executive facility, upon receipt by the child care facility or the entity (as applicable) of a request by any individual who is—

(i) a parent of any child enrolled at the facility;

(ii) a parent of a child for whom an application has been submitted to enroll at the facility; or

(iii) an employee of the facility; shall provide to the individual the copies and description described in subparagraph (B).

(2) COPIES AND DESCRIPTION.—The entity shall provide—

(A) IN GENERAL.—If the corresponding child care facility does not maintain accreditation status with a child care accreditation entity, the Chief Administrative Officer of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts shall have the same authorities and duties with respect to the evaluation of, and cost reimbursement for, child care facilities, and entities sponsoring child care facilities, in judicial facilities, as the head of an Executive agency has under subsection (a)(4) with respect to the compliance of and cost reimbursement for child care facilities, and entities sponsoring child care facilities, in executive facilities.

(B) HEAD OF A JUDICIAL OFFICE.—The head of a judicial office shall have the same authorities and duties with respect to the compliance of and cost reimbursement for child care facilities, and entities sponsoring child care facilities, in judicial facilities, as the head of an Executive agency has under subsection (a)(4) with respect to the compliance of and cost reimbursement for child care facilities, and entities sponsoring child care facilities, in executive facilities.
Congressional Record—Senate entity described in subsection (b), and the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts, may provide technical assistance, and conduct and provide the results of studies and reviews, for legislative offices and judicial officers, as appropriate, and entities operating child care facilities in legislative facilities or judicial facilities, as appropriate, on a reimbursable basis, in order to assist the entities in complying with this section.

(f) INTERAGENCY COUNCIL.ÐThe Administrator shall establish an interagency council, comprised of—

(A) representatives of all Executive agencies described in subsection (d) and other Executive agencies at the election of the heads of the agencies;

(B) a representative of the Chief Administrative Officer of the House of Representatives, at the election of the Chief Administrative Officer;

(C) a representative of the head of the designated Senate entity described in subsection (b), at the election of the head of the entity;

(D) a representative of the Librarian of Congress, at the election of the Librarian; and

(E) a representative of the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts at the election of the Director.

(2) FUNCTIONS.ÐThe council shall facilitate cooperation and sharing of best practices, and develop and coordinate policy, regarding the provision of child care, including the provision of areas for nursing mothers and other lactation support facilities and services, in the Federal Government.

(g) AVAILABILITY OF FEDERAL CHILD CARE.

There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $900,000 for fiscal year 2000 and such sums as may be necessary for each subsequent fiscal year.

SEC. 4. FEDERAL CHILD CARE EVALUATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.ÐNot later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator and the Director of the Office of Personnel Management shall jointly prepare and submit to Congress a report that evaluates child care provided by entities sponsoring child care facilities in executive facilities, legislative facilities, or judicial facilities.

(b) CONTENTS.ÐThe evaluation shall contain, at a minimum—

(1) information on the number of children receiving child care described in subsection (a), analyzed by age, including information on the number of those children who are age 6 through 12;

(2) information on the number of families not using the child care described in subsection (a) because of the cost of the child care; and

(3) recommendations for improving the quality and cost effectiveness of child care described in subsection (a), including potential accommodations of options for creating an optimal organizational structure and using best practices for the delivery of the child care.

SEC. 5. CHILD CARE SERVICES FOR FEDERAL EMPLOYEES.

(a) IN GENERAL.ÐIn addition to services authorized to be provided by an agency of the United States pursuant to section 616 of the Act of December 22, 1987 (40 U.S.C. 400b), an Executive agency that provides or proposes to provide child care services for Federal employees may use agency funds to provide the child care services, in a facility that is owned or leased by an Executive agency, or through a contractor, for civilian employees of the agency.

(b) AFFORDABILITY.—Funds so used with respect to any such facility or contractor shall be applied to improve the affordability of child care for lower income Federal employees providing or reimbursing child care services offered by the facility or contractor.

(c) REGULATIONS.ÐThe Administrator after consultation with the Director of the Office of Personnel Management, within 100 days after the date of enactment of this Act, shall promulgate regulations setting forth standards for evaluating the quality and cost effectiveness of child care facilities in Federal space, the agency or the General Services Administration shall confirm that at least 50 percent of the space to Federal employees and onsite Federal contractors, or dependent children who live with Federal employees or onsite Federal contractors, and (3) the officer or agency determines that the individual or entity will give priority for available child care and related services in the space to Federal employees and onsite Federal contractors: and

(2) by forgoing the following:

(1)(A) The Administrator of General Services shall confirm that at least 50 percent of aggregate enrollment in Federal child care centers governmentwide are children of Federal employees or onsite Federal contractors, or dependent children who live with Federal employees or onsite Federal contractors.

(2) Each provider of child care services at an individual Federal child care center shall maintain through the enrollment at the center of children described under subparagraph (A) as a goal for enrollment at the center.

(3) If a Federal agency has a child care facility on behalf of another Federal agency for a child care facility in a Federal space, the agency or the Administrator may enter into an agreement with the parties. The cost of any such services shall be assessed to the Federal agency providing the services and the party in the arrangement.

(2) The Administrator of General Services Administration may enter into public-private partnerships or contracts with non-governmental entities to increase the capacity, quality, affordability, or range of child care and related services and may, on a demonstration basis, waive subsection (a)(3) and paragraph (1) of this subsection.

(b) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF TRAINING PROGRAMS.—Section 616(b)(3) of such Act (40 U.S.C. 400b(b)(3)) is amended to read as follows:

(3) If a Federal agency has a child care facility in a Federal space, or is a sponsoring agency providing alternative forms of quality child care assistance for Federal employees, a Federal agency head may extend a pilot project for an additional 2-year period. Before any pilot project may be implemented, a determination shall be made by the agency head initiating the project that it would be more cost-effective than establishing a new Federal child care facility.

(2) The Administrator of General Services Administration shall serve as an information clearinghouse for the entities.
for pilot projects initiated by other Federal agencies to disseminate information concerning the pilot projects to the other Federal agencies.

(3) Within 6 months after completion of the initial 2-year pilot project period, a Federal agency conducting a pilot project under this subsection shall provide for an evaluation of the impact of the project on the delivery of child care services to Federal employees, and shall submit the results of the evaluation to the Administrator of General Services. The Administrator shall share the results with other Federal agencies.

(f) BACKGROUND CHECK.---Section 616 of such Act (40 U.S.C. 490b) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(h) Each Federal child care center located in a Federal space shall ensure that each employee of the center (including any employee whose employment began before the date of enactment of this subsection) shall undergo a criminal history background check consistent with section 231 of the Crime Control Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 13041)."

(g) DEFINITIONS.---Section 616 of such Act (40 U.S.C. 490b) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(i) The term 'Federal building' means the building(s) in which the Federal employees are located."

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

"SEC. 3. CONVEYANCE OF LAND TO THE COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN.

(a) ADMINISTRATOR OF GENERAL SERVICES.---Subject to subsection (f) and such terms and conditions as the Administrator of General Services determines, the Administrator ("Administrator") shall require in accordance with this section, the Administrator shall convey to the Columbia Hospital for Women (formerly Columbia Hospital for Women and Lying-In Asylum; in this section referred to as "Columbia Hospital"), located in Washington, District of Columbia, for $14,000,000, plus accrued interest, to be paid in accordance with the terms set forth in subsection (d), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to those parcels of land referred to in subsection (b), together with all improvements thereon and appurtenances thereto.

(b) PROPERTY DESCRIPTION.---Subject to subsection (f) and such terms and conditions as the Administrator of General Services determines, the Administrator shall convey to the Columbia Hospital for Women (formerly Columbia Hospital for Women and Lying-In Asylum; in this section referred to as "Columbia Hospital"), located in Washington, District of Columbia, for $14,000,000, plus accrued interest, to be paid in accordance with the terms set forth in subsection (d), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to those parcels of land referred to in subsection (b), together with all improvements thereon and appurtenances thereto.

(c) DATE OF CONVEYANCE.---Written notification and payment of the initial installment of $899,000 by the Administrator with respect to the property under this section shall be by quitclaim deed.

(d) CONVEYANCE TERMS.---IN GENERAL.---The conveyance of property required under subsection (a) shall be consistent with the terms and conditions set forth in this section and such other terms and conditions as the Administrator deems to be in the interest of the United States, including:

(A) the provision for the prepayment of the full purchase price if mutually acceptable to the parties;

(B) restrictions on the use of the described land for purposes set out in subsection (a);

(C) the conditions under which the described land or interests therein may be sold, assigned, or otherwise conveyed in order to facilitate financing to fulfill its intended use; and

(D) the consequences in the event of default by Columbia Hospital for failing to pay all installments payments toward the total purchase price when due, including revision of the described property to the United States.

(e) TREATMENT OF AMOUNTS RECEIVED.---Amounts received by the United States as consideration for the conveyance of property under this section shall be deposited into the fund established by section 210(f) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 490(I)), and may be expended by the Administrator for real property management and related activities not otherwise provided for, without further authorization.
(f) Reversionary Interest.—

(1) In general.—The property conveyed under subsection (a) shall revert to the United States, together with any improvements made by the United States, if the Administrator may reasonably request to protect the interests of the United States under this subsection.

(2) Release of reversionary interest.—

The Administrator may release, upon request, any restriction imposed on the use of described property for the purposes of paragraphs (1), (2), and (3) of subsection (a). Any such release may be conditioned upon the fulfillment of applicable Federal law.

COLLINS (AND OTHERS) AMENDMENT NO. 1202

Mr. CALvert, for himself, Mr. DORGAN, Mr. INOUYE, Ms. SNOWE, Mr. HATCH, Mr. WYDEN, Mrs. LINCOLN, Mrs. MURRAY, Mr. LUGAR, Mr. COVERDELL, Mr. SHELBY, Mr. HELMS, Mr. ROBB, Mr. CLELAND, Mr. TORRICELLI, Mr. CONRAD, Mr. ABRAMHAM, Mr. ALL, Mr. BROWNBACK, Mr. CHAFEE, Mr. DODD, Mr. ENZI, Mr. FINKELDORF, Mr. ASHCROFT, Mr. DURBIN, Mr. FITZGERALD, Mr. GORTON, Mr. GREGG, Mr. HAGEL, Mr. INHOFE, Ms. LANDRIEU, Mr. SCHUMACHER, Mr. STEVENS, Mr. WELLSTONE, and Mr. THURMOND) proposed an amendment to the bill, S. 1282, supra; as follows:

On page 98, insert between lines 4 and 5 the following:

SEC. 636. (a) Congress finds that—

(1) the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States (in this section referred to as the "VFW"), which was formed by veterans of the Spanish-American War and the Philippine Insurrection to help secure rights and benefits for their service, will be celebrating its 100th anniversary in 1999;

(2) the VFW has ably represented the interests of veterans in Congress and State Legislatures across the Nation and established a network of trained service officers who, at no charge, have helped millions of veterans and their dependents to secure the education, disability compensation, pension, and health care benefits they are rightfully entitled to receive as a result of the military service performed by those veterans;

(3) the VFW has also been deeply involved in national education projects, awarding nearly $2,700,000 in scholarships annually, as well as countless community projects initiated by its 10,000 posts; and

(b) Therefore, it is the sense of the Senate that the United States Postal Service is encouraged to issue a commemorative postage stamp in honor of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

HUTCHISON (AND KYL) AMENDMENT NO. 1204

Mr. CAMPBELL (for Ms. HUTCHISON (for herself and Mr. KYL)) proposed an amendment to the bill, S. 1282, supra; as follows:

On page 17, line 16, strike "$3,291,945,000" and insert "$3,305,090,000".

On page 18, line 6, strike "$3,169,058,000" and insert "$3,169,058,000".

On page 12, line 19, strike "Provided, that not to be used for the construction of any post office, the Postal Service shall provide adequate notice to persons served by that post office involved;"

On page 11, strike line 17, and insert the following: "$90,320,000 may be used for the Youth Crime Gun Interdiction Initiative, of which not more than $1,120,000 shall be provided for the purchase of equipment for the program to include Las Vegas, Nevada, to allow, among other purposes, for the placement of six new agents in this area, with $1,120,000 being reimbursed from the Treasury Forfeiture Fund;"

On page 11, line 18, strike "district initiative."
"(iv) any potential effect of the relocation, closing, consolidation, or construction on employees of the Postal Service employed at the post office;"

"(v) whether the relocation, closing, consolidation, or construction of the post office is consistent with the policy of the Government under section 101(b) that requires the Postal Service to provide a maximum level of effective and regular postal services to rural areas, communities, and small towns in which post offices are not self-sustaining;"

"(vi) the inadequacy of the existing post office; and"

"(vii) whether all reasonable alternatives to relocation, closing, consolidation, or construction have been explored; and"

"(viii) any other factor that the Postal Service determines to be necessary for making a determination whether to relocate, close, consolidate, or construct that post office."

"(C) In making a determination as to whether to relocate, close, consolidate, or construct, or construct a post office, the Postal Service may not consider compliance with any provision of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 (29 U.S.C. 651 et seq.)."

"(S)(A) Any determination of the Postal Service to relocate, close, consolidate, or construct any post office shall be in writing and shall include the findings of the Postal Service with respect to the considerations required to be made under paragraph (4)."

"(B) The Postal Service shall respond to any request for information made by the Postal Service under this subsection for a period not to exceed 180 days with respect to such post office, the Postmaster General shall not be subject to judicial review of any determination made by the Postal Service or the Postal Service's response by the Postal Service.

"(C) The Postal Service shall set aside any determination based on that review not later than 30 days after receipt of that appeal.

"(D) The provisions of sections 556 and 557, and chapter 7 of title 5 shall not apply to any review carried out by the Commission under this paragraph.

"(E) A determination made by the Commission shall not be subject to judicial review.

"(F) In any case in which a community has in effect procedures to address the relocation, closing, consolidation, or construction of buildings in the community, and the public participation requirements of those procedures are more stringent than those provided in this subsection, the Postal Service shall apply those procedures to the relocation, closing, consolidation, or construction of the post office in lieu of applying the procedures established in this subsection.

"(G) In making a determination to relocate, close, consolidate, or construct any post office, the Postal Service shall comply with any applicable zoning, planning, or land use laws (including building codes and other regulations) of State or local public entities, including any zoning authority with jurisdiction over the area in which the post office is located.

"(H) The relocation, closing, consolidation, or construction of any post office under this subsection shall be conducted in accordance with the National Historic Preservation Act (16 U.S.C. 470h-2).

"(I) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to apply to a temporary customer service facility to be used by the Postal Service for a period of less than 60 days.

"(J) For purposes of this paragraph the term 'emergency' means any occurrence that forces an immediate relocation from an existing facility, including natural disasters, fire, health and safety factors, and lease terminations.

"(K) If the Postmaster General makes a determination that an emergency exists relating to a post office, the Postmaster General may suspend the application of the provisions of this subsection for a period not to exceed 180 days with respect to such post office.

"(L) The Postmaster General may exercise the suspension authority under subparagraph (A) once with respect to a single emergency for any post specific post office."

(A) Section 922(a)(6) of title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting after subsection (y) the following:

of title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting after subsection (y) the following:

(B) In General.—If the Secretary denies an application for, or revokes or suspends a license, or assesses a civil penalty under this paragraph, that notice shall provide written notice of such denial, revocation, suspension, or assessment to the affected party, stating specifically the reasons upon which the application was denied, the license was suspended or revoked, or the civil penalty was assessed. Any notice of a revocation or suspension of a license under this paragraph shall be given to the holder of such license before the effective date of the revocation or suspension, as applicable.

(2) Appeal Process.—

(A) Hearing.—If the Secretary denies an application for, or revokes or suspends a license, or assesses a civil penalty under this paragraph, the Secretary shall, upon request of the aggrieved party, promptly hold a hearing to review the denial, revocation, suspension, or assessment. A hearing under this subparagraph shall be held at a location convenient to the aggrieved party.

(B) Notice of Decision; Appeal.—If, after a hearing held under subparagraph (A), the Secretary decides not to reverse the decision of the Secretary to deny the application, revoke or suspend the license, or assess the civil penalty, as applicable—

(i) the Secretary shall provide notice of the decision of the Secretary to the aggrieved party;

(ii) during the 60-day period beginning on the date on which the aggrieved party receives a notice under clause (i), the aggrieved party may file a petition with the district court of the United States for the judicial district in which the aggrieved party resides or has a principal place of business for a de novo judicial review of such denial, revocation, suspension, or assessment;

(iii) in the event that the aggrieved party has filed a petition pursuant to a petition under clause (ii)—

(III) the court may consider any evidence submitted by the parties to the proceeding, regardless of whether or not such evidence was considered at the hearing held under subparagraph (A); and

(IV) if the court decides that the Secretary was not authorized to make such decision, revocation, suspension, or assessment, the court shall order the Secretary to take such actions as may be necessary to comply with the appropriate law or laws.

(3) Stay Pending Appeal.—If the Secretary suspends or revokes a license under this section, upon the request of the holder of the firearm, the Secretary shall stay the effective date of the revocation, suspension, or assessment.”.

(LANDRIEU AND JEFFORDS) AMENDMENT NO. 1211

Mr. DORGAN (for Mrs. LANDRIEU (for herself, and Mr. JEFFORDS)) proposed an amendment to the bill, S. 1292, supra; as follows:

At the appropriate place, add the following:

TITLe —CHILD CARE CENTERS IN FEDERAL FACILITIES

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the "Federal Employees Child Care Act".

SEC. 2. DEFINITIONS.

In this title (except as otherwise provided in section 3),

(1) ADMINISTRATOR.—The term "Adminis- trator" means the Administrator of General Services.

(2) EXECUTIVE AGENCY.—The term "Executive agency" has the meaning given in the term in section 105 of title 5, United States Code, except that the term—

(A) does not include the Department of De- fense and the Coast Guard; and

(B) includes the General Services Adminis- tration, with respect to the administration of a facility described in paragraph (2).

(3) EXECUTIVE FACILITY.—The term "execu- tive facility"—

(A) means a facility that is owned or leased by an Executive agency; and

(B) includes a facility that is owned or leased by the General Services Administra- tion on behalf of a judicial office or a Federal agency; and
(B) by striking paragraphs (2) and (3) and inserting the following:

"(2) the officer or agency determines that the space will be used to provide child care and related services in a Federal space to Federal employees or onsite Federal contractors; and

(3) the officer or agency determines that the individual or entity will give priority for available child care and related services in the space to Federal employees and onsite Federal contractors; and

(4) T ECHNICAL AND CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.ÐSection 616(d) of such Act (40 U.S.C. 490b(d)) is amended to read as follows:

"(d)(1) If a Federal agency has a child care facility in a Federal space, the agency, the child care center board of directors, or the General Services Administration may enter into an agreement with 1 or more private entities under which the private entities would assist in defraying the costs of providing child care services and related services including salaries and tuition assistance programs at the facility.

(2)(A) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the agency or the Administrator may enter into an agreement with a non-Federal, non-Federal agency providing child care services that do not meet the requirements of subsection (a), the agency or the Administrator may enter into an agreement with a non-Federal, non-Federal agency providing child care services, or a non-Federal accredited child care facility, for the provision of child care services for children of Federal employees.

(B) Before entering into an agreement, the head of the Federal agency shall determine that child care services to be provided through the agreement are more cost effectively provided through the arrangement than through establishment of a Federal child care center.

(C) The Federal agency may provide any of the services described in subsection (b)(3) if, in exchange for the services, the facility reserves or children referred to in subsection (a)(2), as agreed to by the parties. The cost of any such services provided by a Federal agency to a Federal employee or child of an employee, or another Federal agency shall be reimbursed by the receiving agency.

(3) This subsection does not apply to residential child care programs.

(e) PILOT PROJECTS.ÐSection 616 of such Act (40 U.S.C. 490b) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(f) Upon approval of the agency head, a Federal agency may conduct a pilot project to test innovative approaches to providing alternative forms of quality child care assistance for Federal employees. A Federal agency head may extend a pilot project for an additional 2-year period. Before any pilot project may be implemented, a determination shall be made by the agency head that initiating the pilot project would be more cost-effective than establishing a new Federal child care facility. Costs of any pilot project shall be paid solely by the agency conducting the pilot project.

(2) The General Services Administration shall serve as an information clearinghouse for pilot projects initiated by other Federal agencies to disseminate information concerning the pilot projects to the other Federal agencies.

(3) Within 6 months after the conclusion of the initial 2-year pilot project period, a Federal agency shall submit the results of the evaluation of the Administrator of General Services. The Administrator shall share the results with other Federal agencies.

(f) BACKGROUND CHECK.ÐSection 616 of such Act (40 U.S.C. 490b) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(g) Each Federal child care center located in a Federal space shall ensure that each employee of the center (including any employee whose employment began before the date of enactment of this subsection) shall undergo a criminal history background check consistent with section 231 of the Crime Control Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 13041)."

WELLSTONE AMENDMENT NO. 1222

Mr. DORGAN (for Mr. WELLSSTONE) proposed an amendment to the bill, S. 1292 supra, as follows:

(b) DATA COLLECTION AND REPORTING.—Section 411(a) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 611(a)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(c) REPORT OF OUTCOME OF WELFARE REFORM FOR STATES NOT PARTICIPATING IN BONUS GRANTS UNDER SECTION 403(a)(4).—

"(A) In general.—In the case of a State which participates in the program for awarding grants under section 403(a)(4) pursuant to regulations prescribed by the Secretary, the report required by paragraph (1) for such quarter shall include data regarding the characteristics and well-being of former recipients of assistance under the State program funded under this title for an appropriate period of time after such recipient has ceased receiving such assistance.

"(B) CONTENTS.—The data required under subparagraph (A) shall consist of information regarding former recipients, including—

"(i) employment status;

"(ii) job retention;

"(iii) poverty status;

"(iv) receipt of food stamps, medical assistance under the State plan approved under title XIX or child health assistance under title XXI, or subsidized child care;

"(v) accessibility of child care and child care cost; and

"(vi) measures of hardship, including lack of medical insurance and difficulty purchasing food.

"(C) SAMPLING.—A State may comply with this paragraph by using a scientifically acceptable sampling method approved by the Secretary.

"(D) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to ensure that—

"(i) data reported under this paragraph is in such a form as to promote comparison of data among States; and

"(ii) a State reports, for each measure, changes in data over time and comparisons in data between such former recipients and comparable groups of current recipients.

(c) REPORT OF CURRENTLY COLLECTED DATA.—Not later than July 1, 2000, the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall transmit to Congress a report regarding earnings and employment characteristics of former recipients of assistance under the State plan approved under this title as of the last quarter of this year, based on information currently being received from States. Such report shall consist of a longitudinal record for a sample of States, which represents at least 80 percent of the population of each State, including a separate record for each of fiscal years 1997 through 2000 for—

1. earnings of a sample of former recipients using unemployment insurance data;
2. earnings of a sample of food stamp recipients using unemployment insurance data and
3. earnings of a sample of current recipient of assistance using unemployment insurance data.

MILITARY AND EXTRATERRITORIAL JURISDICTION ACT OF 1999

SESSIONS (AND OTHERS)

AMENDMENT NO. 1226

Mr. GORTON (for Mr. Sessions for himself, Mr. LEAHY, and Mr. DEWINE) proposed an amendment to the bill (S. 786) to establish court-martial jurisdiction over civilian serving with the Armed Forces during contingency operations, and to establish Federal jurisdiction over crimes committed outside the United States by former members of the Armed Forces and civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; as follows:

Strike all after the enacting clause and in- sert the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Military and Extraterritorial Jurisdiction Act of 1999.”

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Civilian employees of the Department of Defense and civilian employees of Depart- ment of Defense contractors, provide critical support to the Armed Forces of the United States that are deployed during a contingency operation.

(2) Misconduct by such persons undermines good order and discipline in the Armed Forces, and jeopardizes the mission of the contingency operation.

(3) Military commanders need the legal tools to address adequately misconduct by civilians serving with Armed Forces during a contingency operation.

(4) In its present state, military law does not permit military commanders to address adequately misconduct by civilians serving with Armed Forces during a contingency operation.

(5) To address this need, the Uniform Code of Military Justice should be amended to provide for court-martial jurisdiction over civilians serving with Armed Forces in places designated by the Secretary of Defense during a “contingency operation” expressly designated as such by the Secretary of Defense.

(6) This limited extension of court-martial jurisdiction over civilians is dictated by military necessity, is within the constitutional powers of Congress to make rules for the government of the Armed Forces, and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States public policy.

(7) Many thousand civilian employees of the Department of Defense, civilian employes of Department of Defense contractors, and civilian dependents accompany the Armed Forces to installations in foreign countries.

(8) Misconduct among such civilians has been a longstanding problem for military commanders and other United States officials in foreign countries, and threatens United States citizens, United States property, and United States relations with host countries.

(9) Federal criminal law does not apply to many offenses committed outside of the United States by such civilians and, because host countries often do not prosecute such offenses, there has been little incentive for unprosecuted and, to address this jurisdictional gap, Fed- eral law should be amended to punish serious offenses committed by such civilians outside the United States, specially in such capacity as if those offenses were committed within the special maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States.

(10) Federal law does not apply to many crimes committed outside the United States by members of the Armed Forces who separate from the Armed Forces before they can be identified, thus escaping court-martial jur- isdiction and, to address this jurisdictional gap, Federal law should be amended to pun- ish serious offenses committed by such persons outside the United States, to the same extent as if those offenses were committed within the special maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States.

(11) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians serving with Armed Forces during a contingency operation.

(12) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries, and threatens United States citizens, United States property, and United States relations with host countries.

(13) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

(14) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

(15) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

(16) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

(17) The Federal Government should have tools to address adequately misconduct by civilians serving with Armed Forces during a contingency operation.

(18) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

(19) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

(20) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

(21) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

(22) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

(23) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

(24) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

(25) Congress has determined that the Armed Forces have jurisdiction to address adequately misconduct by civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States; and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitu- tion of the United States and United States relations with host countries.

SEC. 3. COURT-MARTIAL JURISDICTION.

(a) JURISDICTION DURING CONTINGENCY OPERATIONS.—Section 802(a) of title 10, United States Code (article 2(a) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice), is amended by inserting after paragraph (12) the following:

"(13) To the extent not covered by para- graphs (10) and (11), persons not members of any armed force who, in support of a contin- gency operation described in section 101(a)(13)(B) of this title, are serving with and accompanying an armed force in a place or places outside the United States specified by the Secretary of Defense, as follows:

(A) Employees of the Department of Defense;

(B) Employees of any Department of Defense contractor who are so serving in connection with the performance of a Depart- ment of Defense contract.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act and apply with respect to acts or omissions occurring on or after that date.

SEC. 4. FEDERAL JURISDICTION.

(a) CRIMINAL OFFENSES COMMITTED OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES.—Title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting after chapter 211 the following:

CHAPTER 212—CRIMINAL OFFENSES COMMITTED OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES

"Sec.

2621. Criminal offenses committed by per- sons formerly serving with, or presently employed by or accompanying, the Armed Forces outside the United States.

2622. Delivery to authorities of foreign countries.

2623. Regulations.

2624. Definitions.

§ 2621. Criminal offenses committed by per- sons formerly serving with, or presently employed by or accompanying, the Armed Forces outside the United States

(a) In GENERAL.—Whoever, while serving with, employed by, or accompanying the Armed Forces outside of the United States, engages in conduct that would constitute an offense punishable by imprisonment for more than one year if the conduct were engaged in within the special maritime and terri- torial jurisdiction of the United States, shall be guilty of a like offense and subject to a like punishment.

(b) CONCURRENT JURISDICTION.—Nothing in this chapter may be construed to deprive a court-martial, military commission, provost court, or other military tribunal of concurrent jurisdiction with respect to officers or offenses that by statute or by the law of the United States may be tried by a mili- tary commission, provost court, or other military tribunal.

§ 2622. Delivery to authorities of foreign countries

(a) In GENERAL.—Any person designated and authorized under section 2621(a) may de- liver a person described in section 2621(a) to the appropriate authorities of a foreign country in which such person is alleged to have engaged in conduct described in section 2621(a) of this section if—

(1) the appropriate authorities of that country request the delivery of the person to that country for trial for such conduct as an offender under the laws of that country; and

(2) the delivery of such person to that country is authorized by a treaty or other international agreement to which the United States is a party.

(b) DETERMINATION BY THE SECRETARY.—The Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, shall determine which officials of a foreign country con- stitute appropriate authorities for purposes of this section.

§ 2623. Regulations

(a) In GENERAL.—The Secretary of De- fense, after consultation with the Secretary of State and the Attorney General, shall issue regulations governing the apprehen- sion, detention, and removal of persons under this chapter. Such regulations shall be uniform throughout the Department of De- fense.

(b) NOTICE TO THIRD PARTY NATIONALS.—

(1) In GENERAL.—The Secretary of De- fense, after consultation with the Secretary of State, shall issue regulations requiring that, to the maximum extent practicable, notice shall be provided to any person serving with, employed by, or accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States who is not a national of the United States that such person is potentially subject to the criminal jurisdiction of the United States under this chapter.

(2) FAILURE TO PROVIDE NOTICE.—fail- ure to provide notice as prescribed in the Additional Statements

DOMESTICALLY MANUFACTURED FIREARMS AND CONSUMER SAFETY

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, in 1972, Congress established the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), an independent regulatory agency designed to "protect the public from unreasonable risks of injuries and deaths associated with consumer products." Since 1972, CPSC has worked to accomplish that goal by developing uniform safety standards, obtaining the recall of dangerous products, and researching, informing and educating consumers about product-related hazards. CPSC has jurisdiction over thousands categories of products, from furniture to sporting equipment, appliances, clothing and toys.

Despite almost all categories of consumer products are reviewed for safety, there are millions of dangerous products in the United States that go untested. These products, which are among the leading cause of death in the United States, are exempted from oversight by the Consumer Product Safety Commission. They are not subject to any quality and safety standards, nor are their manufacturers required to provide warnings to consumers about their hazards. These products are firearms, and despite the simple solutions for safety, they are unlikely to be implemented by domestic manufacturers.

Manufacturers should also pursue technology to develop "smart" or "personalized" guns. Although there is no such weapon that uses this technology now, there are plans by some manufacturers to develop the technology that could recognize the owner through fingerprints, radio emissions or skin conductivity. The NRA and other gun manufacturers, such as Beretta USA Corp., are opposed to the development of smart gun technology, because they believe it would lead to mandatory safety standards. Yet, personalization concepts that allow only the authorized user access to his firearm, are sure to decrease the number of fatal unintentional injuries, homicides and suicides.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission is capable of monitoring firearms, just as they review baby cribs, hair dryers, baskets, and the thousands of other products manufactured in the United States. But until Congress amends the Consumer Product Safety Act and revokes special privilege given to firearms manufacturers, guns manufactured in the United States are unlikely to include even basic safety mechanisms.

Supporting S. 1010—The Medical Innovation Tax Credit

Mr. ABRAHAM. Mr. President, today I would like to give my support to the Medical Innovation Tax Credit Act, sponsored by my good friend, Senator Jeffords.

Our medical schools and teaching hospitals are the backbone for innovation in American medicine. As sites for vital human clinical trials, these medical institutions are proving to be a superior training ground for our nation’s health care professionals, functioning as centers for the development of innovative medical technologies, treatments and medicines.

Yet Mr. President, there has been an alarming decline in the utilization of these superior medical facilities for clinical trials. Due to changes within the health care marketplace, our medical facilities have come under increasing cost pressures, driving up the costs associated with conducting clinical trials at these facilities. Currently, it is more expensive for companies to perform clinical trials at teaching hospitals than at commercial research organizations.

Mr. President, the Medical Innovation Tax Credit Act is integral to the continued success of our nation’s status as a world leader in the development of medical advances. This legislation would enhance the flow of private-sector investment into our non-profit medical institutions by providing incentives for companies to perform more clinical trials at these institutions. The 20 percent medical innovation tax credit would help level the current cost differential and thus the resulting influx of funds would ease some of the financial pressures our medical institutions are experiencing.

I urge all of my colleagues to send a strong message to our nation’s medical institutions and health care professionals, that we will continue working to find ways to enhance and strengthen our valuable research program. To this end, it is essential that the Senate support the Medical Innovation Tax Credit Act.

PIONEER MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Mr. Johnson. Mr. President, I rise today to express my warmest congratulations to Pioneer Memorial Hospital in Viborg, SD.

Pioneer Memorial Hospital is celebrating 40 years of dedicated service to the residents of Viborg and the surrounding area. It is an outstanding example of continued excellence in the delivery of health care services to rural South Dakota.

In an era when the high cost of medical care has driven a wedge between the patient and the provider, small, rural hospitals like Pioneer Memorial Hospital remind us of the true ethic of medical care; compassion, commitment and dedication to those in need. There is no reward great enough for the hard work and long hours that the staff at Pioneer Memorial Hospital have sacrificed on behalf of others. They have brought into the world the newborn babies of friends and neighbors and cared for those who have lived long and noble lives. Perhaps most importantly, they should be recognized for the hand that they extended to those whom they did not know but reached out to in times of need.

Therefore, it is with great honor that I recognize Pioneer Memorial Hospital for its dedication to service and excellence in providing quality medical care to Viborg and the surrounding area. I applaud the efforts of every individual involved with the hospital throughout the years and offer my best wishes for another 40 years of service and excellence.

TRIBUTE TO PHIL PETRIK

Mr. Burns. Mr. President, I rise today to bring recognition to a special Montanan, Phil Petrik. Phil is a commercial pilot in Sidney, Montana. One afternoon, Phil overheard another pilot on the radio, Willis, North Dakota airport on the radio. Apparently, the pilot was above the clouds and could not find a hole to make it through to land.

The pilot told Phil that he would fly on to the Watford City airport and see if he could land there. Later in the day, Phil once again heard the pilot calling the Elliston airport, requesting information about landing.

Unfortunately, the conditions had not changed. Phil then contacted the Williston airport to inquire if there was someone there who could guide the pilot down. He was informed that there was not. Phil got into his own plane and flew to approximately where the plane in distress should be and he finally found him. The other pilot told Phil he had about 30 minutes of fuel left. Phil had the FAA clear the airspace and they started down through the clouds for about 90 seconds. Petrik guided the other plane to the airport and returned home.

Upon his arrival in Sidney, Phil found out that the pilot had actually only one minute and 20 seconds of fuel left when he made it to the ground. Phil has already been recognized by the Federal Aviation Association for his valiant act of selflessness. His peers in Montana have all told me that this is an example of the type of man Mr. Petrik is. It is a great honor for me to share this story of valor and compassion. One man willing to risk his life for another. Please join me in offering congratulations and thanks to Phil Petrik.

THE NATIONWIDE COMPANIES

Mr. Cleland. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize an exceptional company based in Atlanta, Georgia. The Nationwide Companies proudly established its national headquarters in Atlanta just seven years ago, and through the progressive leadership of its founder and president, Bill Case, it has succeeded in the American marketplace.

As you well know, success earns recognition, and Money Maker’s Monthly recently awarded this growing company the distinction of “The Company of the Month” in the United States. The front-page feature, appropriately titled, “The Nationwide Miracle,” describes the progress of Nationwide, and applauds Mr. Case for his leadership and creativity. Perhaps the compelling description of Nationwide as a uniquely American business is the conclusion in the feature that Bill Case and his company are “revolutionizing the way the American public earns and saves money.”

The Money Maker’s Monthly feature is a tribute to a man’s vision and the ability to transfer dreams into reality. In order that others may celebrate this wonderful award and perhaps be inspired by its description of Mr. Case’s realization of the “American dream,” Mr. President, I ask you to join me in saluting the many successes of Bill Case and the Nationwide Companies, and ask that the Money Maker’s Monthly article be printed in the RECORD.

The article follows.

Bill Case dreamed for many years of a business where people could enjoy financial freedom. He already knew that network marketing was the wave of the future, but concluded that the industry had complications that disillusioned many able and talented people. So he wanted to find a way that a home-based entrepreneur could earn impressively through network marketing without spending hard-earned money on things like inventory and also avoid obstacles like unproductive downlines. In other words, could you build a business where financial freedom was obtainable through good, honest work?

After carefully researching other network marketing companies and interviewing a cross-section of successful networking entrepreneurs throughout the country, he found the answer. The result became The Nationwide Companies, his seven-year-old business that is viewed by many observers as a mirror in the network marketing world.

"Instead of selling marked-up merchandise, we sell a benefits package which gives the owner the right to purchase popular items like cars, boats, health insurance with the same group buying power and low prices enjoyed by Fortune 500 Companies." Case emphasizes that the Nationwide Benefits Package is "a hot item because of value in savings." Case says his network marketing business, which is headquartered in Atlanta, is revolutionizing the way the American public saves money. Skeptics are few and far between as Case and his company gladly showcase a wide Benefits Package is "a hot item because of value in savings." Nationwide's enviable position in America's network marketplace can be found than in the successes of its IMDS. Many companies, for whatever reason, are reluctant to disclose that they have verifiable successes, but not Nationwide. "We want people who are looking for the best earnings opportunity in America today to contact our folks and ask them what they think," he says firmly. "Our goal is to show everyone who is willing to work for it. Every bit of evidence, out in the national field and within their own business data in Atlanta indicates that it must be taken seriously. Nationwide is on solid ground in the precarious minefield we call the marketplace. Leadership, from Bill Case on down through the chain of command, is top-notch. The determination to grow and expand, based upon time-honored business methods, is evidenced dramatically by its affiliation with Superior Bank. Nationwide's New Institutional Banking provides consumer loans and mortgages as one of Nationwide's benefits. Standing on its own, this banking relationship is a network industry original that merits applause.

Case lives his dream everyday, only now it's real for others as well. His IMDS are earning handsomely through the Nationwide miracle because Case has blended the marketing and public relations talents that he has, along with his key team players. Hendryx has an abundance of examples. "All of our Regional Directors have their own earnings success stories. Jack and Becky Hearrell, Fred and Betty Swindell, and Sheila Langston deserve special recognition, as does Bob and Judi Montgomery. The team is built upon Regional Directors' shoulders."

The Team Nationwidesy

Case is inseparable from his wife, Carol. It is more than symbolic that he includes Carol in all of his public relations activities and in every schedule will permit. "Carol was instrumental in providing me with some of the central ideas that made Nationwide possible," he says. "In an admirable way, she has marketing and public relations talents that go well beyond what you might expect to find on Madison Avenue or even here on Peachtree Street in Atlanta. Plus, we believe in husbands and wives, along with their families, being the core of Team Nationwide."

The IMD Honor Roll of Nationwide bears out Case's belief. The Regional Directors are almost invariably in husband and wife pairs. IMD's everywhere, pictured on his large conference room walls, are there with their wives. Occasionally, other family members. Dick Lohr and his wife, Mary Lou, are mainstays in the Nationwide miracle; likewise, J ack and H eather Case and Bill and Joyce Case; there are even occasions, occasionally, other family members. to stop after the three points were firmly on the ground. We had some close shaves on sand bars and fields 1,000 or under, during the summers of 1925-26. Our flying out of Fairbanks was the only flying on the territory at that time. There was one other airline at Ketchikan where Roy J ones was doing some flying with an old two-place army training flying boat. We were successful with the flying of the Fokker F-111 and made the first commercial flight to Nome, carrying 4 passengers and 500 pounds of baggage, a 3200-pound load. We flew non-stop back here in 6 hours and 55 minutes. That's all for now. Noel.—Originally published in the "Wien Alaska Arctic Liner" August 1956.

On July 6, 1999, the 75th anniversary of the historic flight, there was an impressive gathering of the family. The flight was a remarkable achievement, and the anniversary serves as a reminder of the spirit of adventure and exploration that is a hallmark of Alaska's history.

Happy Birthday Captain Curtis J. Zane, United States Navy Retired. "Casey" Zane, as he affectionately known, is one of that generation of American heroes who rose to defend our nation and our freedom during the darkest days of WWII. He saw action over a wide area of the Pacific during 1942, 1943 and 1944 including service with the famed "Black Cat" PBY patrol squad. To this day he remembers dear friends who died in that conflict. In mid 1944 the war's end Casey instructed young pilots in B-24s at Hutchinson Kansas.

The balance of his 27 year career in Naval Aviation spanned the early years of the Cold War, the Cuban Missile Crisis, and the transition to the Nuclear Navy. During that time Casey Zane served in the Guam, Tinian and Saipan areas of the post war Pacific. Later he was aboard ships of the fleet including the carrier USS Leyte and then took Command of anti-submarine warfare squadron VP 18. He served at the Command Post CINClantFleet and as Commander of Naval Communications Stations, Londonderry Northern Ireland and Thurso Scotland. He did his last tour at the Pentagon in Navy's Bureau of Personnel and retired as a Captain in November 1968.

Among the several types of special schooling and training he received, Casey is a graduate of the Army's Command & General Staff College and the Naval War College. He holds the American Defense Service Medal; American Campaign Medal; Air Medal; Asiatic Pacific Campaign Medal (3 Stars); World War II Victory Medal; National Defense Service Medal (1 Star).

After the Navy, Casey and his wife Dorothy started their second careers becoming successful real estate brokers and agents in the Northern Virginia area. Despite his tender age of 80, Casey continues to be an active and productive member of our society. I wish them all the best as they begin their life together.

Happy Birthday Captain Curtis J. Zane.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, on the occasion of his 80th birthday this coming 4th of July, I would like to join my Alaskan colleague in the other body in extending warm birthday wishes to Captain Curtis J. Zane, United States Navy Retired. "Casey" Zane, as he is

I know my colleagues join me in congratulating Dr. Oliveri on his achievements and in wishing him well during his tenure as President of the AOA.

TRIBUTE TO HIS HOLINESS KAREKIN I, CATHOLICOS OF ALL ARMENIANS

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I would like to pay tribute to an extraordinary man and religious leader, His Holiness Karekin I, Catholicos of All Armenians, who passed away on June 29.

I was proud to call His Holiness my friend. He was an inspiration to all who knew him. He was loved and respected by the Armenian people the world over, and his courage, intelligence, wisdom, and compassion were renowned in international religious circles.

His Holiness dedicated his life to the Armenian people. He worked skillfully for Armenia’s freedom, and had the noble distinction of being the first Catholicos of the Armenian people to be elected in the newly independent Republic of Armenia. In this era, he has worked tirelessly and effectively for the spiritual revival of the Armenian Apostolic Church in Armenia.

He was a simple, kind, and humble man, gifted with wit and humor, who related easily with people from all backgrounds and from all walks of life.

His extraordinary life began in the village of Kessab in Syria in 1932. He studied at a seminary in Lebanon in the late 1940s, and entered the celibate order of the Church in 1952. A gifted student, he went on to study theology during his tenure as President of the University of Oxford. Recognized for his leadership qualities, he quickly rose through the clerical ranks, leading church dioceses in Iran and the United States. In 1977 he was elected Catholicos of the Catholicosate of Cilicia, based in Antelias, Lebanon. In 1995, he was elected Supreme Catholicos of the Armenian people, based in Holy Etchmiadzin, Armenia.

From July 6 to July 8, Armenia will be holding a period of national mourning in honor of this great man of faith. The Armenian people throughout the world are mourning his death and paying tribute to his extraordinary life. His remarkable legacy will endure for generations to come.

(d) AUTHORIZATION OF FUNDS.—The authority provided by subsection (a) may be used only with regard to funds appropriated by this Act under the heading “Debt restructuring”. Certain Prohibitions Inapplicable.—A reduction of debt pursuant to subsection (a) shall not be considered assistance for purposes of any provision of law limiting assistance to a country. The authority provided by subsection (a) may be exercised notwithstanding section 620(r) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961.

AUTHORITY TO ENGAGE IN DEBT BUYBACKS OR SALES
SEC. 559. (a) LOANS ELIGIBLE FOR SALE, REDEMPTION, OR CANCELLATION.—(1) AUTHORITY TO SELL, REDUCE, OR CANCEL CERTAIN LOANS .—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the President may, in accordance with this section, sell to any eligible purchaser any concessional loan or portion thereof made before January 1, 1995, pursuant to the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, to the government of any eligible country, according to the terms of the Act on receipt of payment from an eligible purchaser, reduce or cancel such loan or portion thereof, only for the purpose of facilitating—
(A) debt-for-development swaps, or debt-for-nature swaps; or (B) a debt buyback by an eligible country of its own qualified debt, only if the eligible country pays an additional amount of the local currency of the eligible country, equal to not less than 40 per cent of the price paid for such debt by such eligible country, or the difference in price paid for such debt and the face value of such debt, to support activities that link conservation and sustainable use of natural resources with local community development, and child survival and other child development, in a manner consistent with sections 707 through 710 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, if the sale, reduction, or cancellation would not contravene any term or condition of any prior agreement relating to such loan.

(2) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the President shall, in accordance with this section, establish the terms and conditions under which loans may be sold, reduced, or canceled pursuant to subsection (a). Such terms and conditions shall include—
(3) AMOUNT OF LOANS.—The amount of any loan sold, reduced, or canceled pursuant to this section, shall be equal to the amount of the loan. A loan shall be sold, reduced, or canceled pursuant to this section, only to the extent that appropriations for the cost of the modification, as defined in section 502 of the Appropriations Acts, shall be available only to the extent that appropriations for the cost of the modification, as defined in section 502 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, are made in advance.

(b) DEPOSIT OF PROCEEDS.—The proceeds from the sale, reduction, or cancellation of any loan sold, reduced, or canceled pursuant to this section shall be deposited in the United States Treasury, and accounted for, to the extent established for the repayment of such loan.

(c) ELIGIBLE PURCHASERS.—A loan may be sold pursuant to subsection (a)(1) only to a purchaser who presents plans satisfactory to the President for using the loan for the purpose of engaging in debt-for-equity swaps, debt-for-development swaps, or debt-for-nature swaps.

(d) DEBTOR CONSULTATIONS.—Before the sale to any eligible purchaser, or any reduction or cancellation pursuant to this section, of any loan made to an eligible country, the President shall consult with the country concerning the amount of loans to be sold, reduced, or canceled, and their uses for debt-for-equity swaps, debt-for-development swaps, or debt-for-nature swaps.

(e) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.—The authority provided by subsection (a) may be used only with regard to funds appropriated by this Act under the heading “Debt restructuring”.

ASSISTANCE FOR HAITI
SEC. 560. (a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that, in providing assistance to Haiti, the President should place a priority on the following areas:
(1) aggressive action to support the institution of the rule of law and due process, including support for efforts by the leadership and the Inspector General to purge corrupt and politicized elements from the Haitian National Police;
(2) steps to ensure that any elections undertaken in Haiti with United States assistance are free and fair, transparent, and democratic;
(3) a program designed to develop the indigenous human rights monitoring capacity;
(4) steps to facilitate the continued privatization of state-owned enterprises; and
(5) a sustained agricultural development program.

(b) REPORT.—Beginning six months after the date of enactment of this Act, and six months thereafter, the President shall submit a report to the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate and the Committee on Appropriations and the Committee on International Relations of the House of Representatives with regard to—
(1) the status of each of the governmental institutions envisioned in the 1987 Haitian Constitution, including an assessment of whether or not these institutions and officials hold positions on the basis of a regular, constitutional process; and
(2) the status of the privatization or placement under long-term private management or concession of the major public entities, including a detailed account of whether or not the Government of Haiti has completed all required incorporating documents, the transfer of assets, and the eviction of unauthorized occupants of the land or facility;
(3) the status of efforts to re-sign and implement the lapsed bilateral Repatriation Agreement and an assessment of whether or not the Government of Haiti has been cooperating with the United States in halting illegal migration from Haiti;
(4) the status of the Government of Haiti’s efforts to conduct thorough investigations of extrajudicial and political killings and—
(A) an assessment of whether or not substantial progress has been made in bringing to justice the persons responsible for these extrajudicial or political killings in Haiti, and
(B) an assessment of whether or not the Government of Haiti is cooperating with United States authorities and with United States-funded technical advisors to the Haitian National Police, national palace and residential guard, ministerial guard, and any other public security entity or unit of Haiti those individuals who are credibly alleged to have engaged in or conspired to conceal gross violations of internationally recognized human rights;
(5) the status of steps being taken to secure the ratification of the maritime counter-narcotics agreements signed in October 1997;
(6) an assessment of the degree to which domestic capacity to conduct free, fair, democratic, and administratively sound elections has been developed in Haiti; and
(7) an assessment of the degree to which the Haitian National Police have engaged in or conspired to conceal gross violations of internationally recognized human rights;
(8) the status of the U.S. government’s efforts to conduct thorough investigations of extrajudicial and political killings and—
(A) an assessment of whether or not the Government of Haiti is cooperating with United States authorities and with United States-funded technical advisors to the Haitian National Police, national palace and residential guard, ministerial guard, and any other public security entity or unit of Haiti those individuals who are credibly alleged to have engaged in or conspired to conceal gross violations of internationally recognized human rights;
nothing in this section shall be construed to bring the responsible members of the security forces unit to justice:

b) UNITED STATES ASSISTANCE.—For purposes of this section, the term "United States assistance" means U.S. support for the United States at the United Nations or any of its specialized agencies.

LIMITATION ON ASSISTANCE TO SECURITY FORCES UNIT

SEC. 563. None of the funds made available by this Act may be provided to any unit of the security forces of a foreign country if the Secretary of State has credible evidence to believe such unit has committed gross violations of human rights, unless the Secretary determines and reports to the Committees on Appropriations that the government of such country has effective and appropriate measures in place to bring the responsible members of the security forces unit to justice:

(1) the United States or any State, entity, or community described in this section; and

(2) any other person, if the United States or any State, entity, or community described in this section.

RESTRICTIONS ON ASSISTANCE TO COUNTRIES, ENTITIES, AND COMMUNITIES

SEC. 564. The Secretary of the Treasury shall inform the United States Executive Directors of the international financial institutions to use the voice and vote of the United States to oppose loans to the Government of Cambodia, except loans to support basic human needs, unless the Secretary of State has determined and reported to the Committees on Appropriations, the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, and the Committee on International Relations of the House that Cambodia has been hindered in efforts to investigate crimes subject to its jurisdiction.

b) SANCTIONED COUNTRY, ENTITY, OR COMMUNITY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A sanctioned country, entity, or community is one in which there is present a publicly indicted war criminal or other person who aids or abets a publicly indicted war criminal to evade apprehension, or any person who otherwise obstructs the work of the Tribunal.

(2) SPECIAL RULE.—Subject to subsection (f), subsections (c) and (d) shall not apply to the provision of assistance to an entity that is not a sanctioned country within a sanctioned country, or to a community that is not a sanctioned community within a sanctioned country or sanctioned entity, if the Secretary of State determines and reports to the appropriate congressional committees that providing such assistance would further the policy of subsection (a).

(3) PROHIBITION.—None of the funds made available by this Act may be used to provide any country, entity, or community described in subsection (b).

(4) NOTIFICATION.—Not less than 15 days before any assistance described in subsection (b) is provided to any country, entity, or community described in subsection (b), the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, shall provide to the appropriate congressional committees a written determination to the United States or any State, entity, or community described in subsection (b).

(5) EXCEPTIONS.—Subject to subsection (f), subsections (c) and (d) shall not apply to the provision of—

(1) humanitarian assistance; and

(2) assistance to nongovernmental organizations that promote democracy and respect for human rights; and

(3) assistance for cross border physical infrastructure projects involving activities in both a sanctioned country, entity, or community and unsanctioned contiguous country, entity, or community, if the project is primarily located in and primarily benefits the unsanctioned country, entity, or community and if the portion of the project located in the sanctioned country, entity, or community is necessary only to complete the project.

f) FURTHER LIMITATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A sanctioned country, entity, or community is one in which there is present a publicly indicted war criminal or other person who aids or abets a publicly indicted war criminal to evade apprehension, or any person who otherwise obstructs the work of the Tribunal.

(2) SPECIAL RULE.—Subject to subsection (f), subsections (c) and (d) shall not apply to the provision of assistance to an entity that is not a sanctioned country within a sanctioned country, or to a community that is not a sanctioned community within a sanctioned country or sanctioned entity, if the Secretary of State determines and reports to the appropriate congressional committees that providing such assistance would further the policy of subsection (a).

(3) PROHIBITION.—None of the funds made available by this Act may be used to provide any country, entity, or community described in subsection (b).

(4) NOTIFICATION.—Not less than 15 days before any assistance described in subsection (b) is provided to any country, entity, or community described in subsection (b), the Secretary of State, in consultation with the appropriate congressional committees, shall provide to the United States or any State, entity, or community described in subsection (b).

To Prohibit Foreign Assistance to the Government of Russia Should It Enact Laws Which Would Discriminate Against Minority Religious Faiths in the Russian Federation.

Sec. 570. (a) None of the funds appropriated under this Act may be made available for the Government of Russian Federation, after 180 days from the date of the enactment of this Act, unless the President determines and certifies in writing to the Committee on Appropriations and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and the Committee on Appropriations and the Committee on International Relations of the House of Representatives that the Russian Federation is failing to comply with its obligations under the Helsinki Final Act. Provided, That such funds may be made available without regard to the restriction in this subsection if the President determines that to do so is in the national interest.

(b) None of the funds appropriated under the heading “Assistance for the New Independent States of the Former Soviet Union” shall be made available for assistance to the Government of the remaining states of the former Soviet Union unless that Government applies or transfers for the benefit of Russian citizens, or citizens of the former Soviet Union, any property or assets, and any financial interest of the United States.

(c) None of the funds appropriated under the heading “Assistance for the New Independent States of the Former Soviet Union” shall be made available for assistance to the Government of the remaining states of the former Soviet Union unless that Government does not discriminate against persons of any religious faith, including persons of Jewish faith, or against religious communities in the Russian Federation.

Export Financing Transfer Authorities.

Sec. 573. Not to exceed 5 per cent of any appropriate congressional committee's budget for fiscal year 2000 for programs under title I of this Act may be transferred between such appropriations for use for any of the purposes, programs and activities for which the funds in such receiving account may be used, but no such appropriation, except as otherwise specifically provided, shall be increased by more than 25 per cent by any such transfer: Provided, That the exercise of such authority shall be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations.

New Independent States of the Former Soviet Union.

Sec. 574. (a) None of the funds appropriated under the heading “Assistance for the New Independent States of the Former Soviet Union” shall be made available for assistance for a Government of the New Independent States of the former Soviet Union—

(1) unless that Government is making progress in implementing comprehensive economic reforms based on market principles, private ownership, respect for commercial contracts, and an end to wartime discrimination of international private foreign investment; and

(2) if that Government applies or transfers United States assistance to any entity for the purpose of expropriating ownership or control of assets, investments, or ventures.

Assistance may be furnished without regard to this subsection if the President determines that to do so is in the national interest.

(b) None of the funds appropriated under the heading “Assistance for the New Independent States of the Former Soviet Union” shall be made available for assistance for a Government of the New Independent States of the former Soviet Union if that government incorporates any action in any treaty, agreement, or legislation protecting or assisting country participation in programs and activities for which the funds in such receiving account may be used, but no such appropriation, except as otherwise specifically provided, shall be increased by more than 25 per cent by any such transfer: Provided, That the exercise of such authority shall be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations.
available for an Enterprise Fund in the New Independent States of the Former Soviet Union may be deposited by such Fund in interest-bearing accounts prior to the disbursement of such funds by the Fund for program purposes. The Fund may retain for such program purposes any interest earned on such deposits without returning such interest to the Treasury of the United States and without further appropriation by the Congress. Funds made available for Enterprise Funds shall be expended at the minimum rate necessary to make timely payment for projects and activities.

(g) In issuing new task orders, entering into contracts, making grants, or otherwise appropriating funds appropriated in this Act or prior appropriations Acts under the heading ‘‘Assistance for the New Independent States of the Former Soviet Union’’ for projects or activities that have as one of their primary purposes the fostering of private sector development, the Coordinator for United States Assistance to the New Independent States and the implementing agency shall encourage the participation of and give significant weight to contractors and grantees who propose investing a significant amount of their own resources (including volunteer services and in-kind contributions) in such projects and activities.

CUSTOMS ASSISTANCE

SEC. 575. Section 660(b) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 is amended by—

(1) striking the period at the end of paragraph (g) and in lieu thereof inserting a semicolon; and

(2) adding the following new paragraph:

‘‘(7) with respect to assistance provided to customs authorities and personnel, including training, technical assistance and equipment, for customs law enforcement and the improvement of customs laws, systems and procedures; ‘‘

VOLUNTARY SEPARATION INCENTIVES FOR EMPLOYEES OF THE U.S. AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

SEC. 576. (a) Definitions.—For the purposes of this section—

(1) the term ‘‘agency’’ means the United States Agency for International Development;

(2) the term ‘‘Administrator’’ means the Administrator, United States Agency for International Development; and

(3) the term ‘‘employee’’ means an employee under section 5595(c) of title 5, United States Code, who is employed by the agency, is serving under an appointment without time limitation, and has been currently employed for a continuous period of at least 3 years, but does not include—

(A) a reemployed annuitant under subchapter III of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5, United States Code, or another retirement system for employees of the agency;

(B) an employee having a disability on the basis of which such employee is or would be eligible for retirement under the applicable retirement system referred to in subparagraph (A);

(C) an employee who is to be separated involuntarily for misconduct or unacceptable performance, and to whom specific notice has been given with respect to that separation;

(D) an employee who has previously received any voluntary separation incentive payment by the Government of the United States under this section or any other authority with respect to such payment;

(E) an employee covered by statutory reemployment rights who is on transfer to another organization; or

(F) an employee, during the 24-month period preceding the date of separation, received a recruitment or relocation bonus under section 5753 of title 5, United States Code, or who, within the 12-month period preceding the date of separation, received a retention allowance under section 5754 of such title.

(b) Agency Strategic Plan.—

(1) In general.—The Administrator, before obligating any voluntary separation incentive payments under this section, shall submit to the Office of Management and Budget a strategic plan outlining the intended use of such incentive payments and a proposed organizational chart for the agency once such incentive payments have been completed.

(2) Contents.—The agency’s plan shall include—

(A) the positions and functions to be reduced or eliminated, identified by organizational unit, geographic location, occupational category and grade level;

(B) the number and amounts of voluntary separation incentive payments to be offered;

(C) a description of how the agency will operate without the eliminated positions and functions; and

(D) the time period during which incentives may be paid.

(3) Approval.—The Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall review the agency’s plan and may make appropriate modifications in the plan with respect to the coverage of incentives as described under paragraph (2) and to the matters described in paragraphs (2)(A) through (D).

(c) Authority to Provide Voluntary Separation Incentive Payments.—

(1) In general.—A voluntary separation incentive payment under this section may be paid by the agency to employees of such agency and only to the extent necessary to eliminate the positions and functions identified by the strategic plan.

(2) Amount and Treatment of Payments.—A voluntary separation incentive payment under this section—

(A) shall be paid in a lump sum after the employee’s separation;

(B) shall be paid from appropriations or funds available for the payment of the basic pay of the employees;

(C) shall be equal to the lesser of—

(i) an amount equal to the amount the employee would be entitled to receive under section 5505(c) of title 5, United States Code, if the employee were entitled to payment under such section;

(ii) an amount determined by the agency head not to exceed $25,000.

(D) may not be made except in the case of an employee who voluntarily separates (whether by retirement or resignation) on or before December 31, 2000;

(E) shall not be a basis for payment, and shall not be taken into consideration, for any other type of Government benefit; and

(F) shall not be taken into account in determining the amount of any severance pay to which the employee is entitled under section 5595 of title 5, United States Code, based on any other separation.

(d) Additional Agency Contributions to the Retirement Fund.—

(1) In general.—In addition to any other payments which it is required to make under subchapter III of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5, United States Code, the agency shall remit to the Office of Personnel Management for deposit in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund an amount equal to 15 percent of the final basic pay of each employee of the agency who is covered under subchapter III of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5, United States Code, of whom a voluntary separation incentive has been paid under this section.

(e) Effect of Subsequent Employment With the Government.—

(1) An individual who has received a voluntary separation incentive payment under this section and accepts any employment for compensation with the Government of the United States, or who works for any agency of the United States through a personal services contract, within 5 years after the date of the separation on which the payment is based shall be required to pay, prior to the individual’s first day of employment, the entire amount of the incentive payment to the agency that paid the incentive payment.

(2) If the employment under paragraph (1) is with an Executive agency (as defined by section 105 of title 5, United States Code), the United States Courts, or the Postal Rate Commission, the Director of the Office of Personnel Management may, at the request of the head of the agency, waive the repayment if the individual involved possesses unique abilities and is the only qualified applicant available for the position.

(3) If the employment under paragraph (1) is with an agency in the legislative branch, the head of the entity or the appointing official may waive the repayment if the individual involved possesses unique abilities and is the only qualified applicant available for the position.

(4) If the employment under paragraph (1) is with the judicial branch, the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts may waive the repayment if the individual involved possesses unique abilities and is the only qualified applicant for the position.

(f) Reduction of Agency Employment Levels.—

(1) In general.—The total number of funded employee positions in the agency shall be reduced by one position for each vacancy created by the separation of any employee who has received, or is due to receive, a voluntary separation incentive payment under this section. For the purposes of this subsection, positions shall be counted on a full-time-equivalent basis.

(2) Enforcement.—The President, through the Office of Management and Budget, shall monitor the agency and take any action necessary to ensure that the requirements of this subsection are met.

(g) Regulations.—The Office of Personnel Management may prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to implement this section.

UNITED STATES ASSISTANCE TO THE PALESTINIAN AUTHORITY

SEC. 577. (a) GAO Certification.—Not more than 30 days prior to the obligation of funds available by this Act for assistance for the Palestinian Authority, the Comptroller General of the United States shall certify that the Palestinian Authority—

(1) has adopted an acceptable accounting system to ensure that such funds will be used for their intended assistance purposes; and

(2) has cooperated with the Comptroller General in the certification process under this paragraph.

(b) GAO Audits.—Six months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall conduct an audit to determine the extent to which the Palestinian Authority is implementing an acceptable accounting system in tracking the use of funds made available by this Act for assistance for the Palestinian Authority.

SANCTIONS AGAINST SERBIA

SEC. 578. (a) CONTINUATION OF EXECUTIVE BRANCH SANCTIONS.—The sanctions listed in subsection (b) shall remain in effect until January 1, 2001, unless the President submits to the Committees on Appropriations and Foreign Relations in the Senate and the Committees on Appropriations and International Relations in the House of Representatives a certification described in subsection (c).

(b) APPLICABLE SANCTIONS.—

(1) The Secretary of the Treasury shall instruct the United States executive directors of the international financial institutions to work in opposition to, and vote against, any extension by such institutions of any financial or technical assistance or grants of any kind to the government of Serbia-Montenegro.

(2) The Secretary of State shall instruct the United States Ambassador to the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) to block any consensus to allow the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) or any organization affiliated with the OSCE to be granted observer status by the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, United Nations' membership of the former Yugoslavia, or any organization affiliated with the United Nations, to veto any resolution to allow Serbia-Montenegro to assume the United Nations' membership of the former Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, and to take action to prevent Serbia-Montenegro from assuming the seat formerly occupied by the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia.

(3) The Secretary of State shall instruct the United States Permanent Representative on the Council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to oppose the extension of the Partnership for Peace program or any other organization affiliated with NATO to Serbia-Montenegro.

(4) The Secretary of State shall instruct the United States Permanent Representative to the Southeast European Cooperative Initiative (SECI) to oppose and work to prevent the SECI to oppose and work to prevent the Southeast European Cooperative Initiative organization affiliated with NATO to Serbia-Montenegro from assuming the seat formerly occupied by the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia.

(5) The Secretary of State shall instruct the United States Permanent Representative to the Southeast European Cooperative Initiative (SECI) to oppose and work to prevent the extension of SECI membership to Serbia-Montenegro.

(c) CERTIFICATION.—A certification described in this subsection is a certification that—

(1) the representatives of the successor states to the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia have successfully negotiated the division of assets and liabilities and all other succession issues following the dissolution of the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia;

(2) Serbia-Montenegro is fully complying with its obligations as a signatory to the General Framework Agreement for Peace in Bosnia and Herzegovina; and

(3) Serbia-Montenegro is fully cooperating with and providing unrestricted access to the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, including surrendering persons indicted for war crimes who are within the jurisdiction of the territory of Serbia-Montenegro, and with the investigations concerning the commission of war crimes and crimes against humanity in Kosovo;

(4) the government of Serbia-Montenegro is implementing internal democratic reforms;

(5) Serbian, Serbian-Montenegrin federal governmental officials, and representatives of the ethnic Albanian community in Kosovo have agreed on, signed, and begun implementation of a negotiated settlement on the future status of Kosovo.

(d) STATEMENT OF POLICY.—It is the sense of the Congress that the United States should not restore full diplomatic relations with Serbia-Montenegro until the President submits to the Committees on Appropriations and Foreign Relations in the Senate and the Committees on Appropriations and International Relations in the House of Representatives the certification described in subsection (c).

(e) EXEMPTION OF MONTENEGRO.—The sanctions described in subsection (b)(1) shall not apply to the government of Montenegro or Kosovo.

(f) DEFINITION.—The term “international financial institution” includes the International Monetary Fund, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the International Development Association, the International Finance Corporation, the Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency, and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

(g) WAIVER AUTHORITY.—

(1) The President may waive the application in whole or in part, of any sanction described in subsection (b)(1) if the President certifies to the Congress that the President has determined that the waiver is necessary to meet emergency humanitarian needs or to achieve a negotiated settlement of the conflict in Kosovo that is acceptable to the parties.

(2) Such a waiver may only be effective upon certification by the President to Congress that there has been transferred and will continue to transfer (subject to adequate protection of intelligence sources and methods) to the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia all information it has collected in support of an indictment and trial of President Slobodan Milosevic for war crimes, crimes against humanity, or genocide.

(3) In the event of a waiver, within seven days the President must report the basis upon which the waiver was made to the Select Committee on Intelligence and the Committee on Foreign Relations in the Senate, and the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence and the Committee on International Relations in the House of Representatives.

CLEAN COAL TECHNOLOGY

SEC. 579. (a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds as follows:

(1) The United States is the world leader in the development of environmental technologies, particularly clean coal technology.

(2) Severe pollution problems affecting people in developing countries, and the serious health problems that result from such pollution, can be effectively addressed through the application of United States clean coal technology.

(3) During the next century, developing countries, particularly countries in Asia such as China and India, will dramatically increase their consumption of electricity, and low quality coal will be a major source of fuel for power generation.

(4) Without the use of modern clean coal technologies, societal problems leading to diminished economic growth in developing countries and, thus, diminished United States exports to those growing markets.

(b) STATEMENT OF POLICY.—It is the policy of the United States to promote the export of United States clean coal technologies. In furtherance of that policy, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury (acting through the United States executive directors to international financial institutions), the Secretary of Energy, and the Administrator of the United States Agency for International Development, as appropriate, vigorously promote the use of United States clean coal technology in environmental and energy infrastructure projects and programs, and projects and activities for which the use of such technology should be considered include reconstruction assistance for the Balkans, in particular, and carried out through the Environmental Facility, and activities funded from USAID’s Development Credit Authority.

SENSE OF CONGRESS ON MANAGEMENT OF UNITED STATES INTERESTS IN UKRAINE

SEC. 580. (a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Ukraine is a major European nation as it has the second largest territory and sixth largest population of all the States of Europe.

(2) Ukraine has important geopolitical and economic roles to play within Central and Eastern Europe.

(3) A strong, stable, and secure Ukraine serves the interests of peace and stability in all of Europe, which are important national security interests of the United States.

(4) The President of the United States, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Energy, and the Administrators to international financial institutions, and the President of Ukraine has requested association membership in the European Union with the intent of eventually becoming a full member of the European Union.

(5) It is the policy of the United States to support the aspiration of Ukraine to assume its rightful place among the European and transatlantic community of democratic States and in European and transatlantic institutions.

(6) In the United States Government, the responsibility for management of United States interests in Ukraine would be most effectively performed by one official who perform the responsibility for management of United States interests in Europe, and a designation of those officials to do so would strongly underscore and most effectively support attainment of the United States objective to build a Europe whole and free.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that the Secretary of State should designate the Assistant Secretary of State for European Affairs to perform, through the Bureau of European Affairs of the Department of State, the responsibilities of the Department of State for the management of United States interests in Ukraine.

is a leading cause of children becoming orphans.

(4) Because of the ease of transmission of tuberculosis, its international persistence and growth, and the direct public and health threat to those nations that had previously largely controlled the disease. This is complicated in the United States by the growth of the homeless population, the rate of incarceration, international travel, immigration, and HIV/AIDS.

(5) With nearly 80 percent of the tuberculosis cases in the United States attributable to foreign-born persons, tuberculosis will never be eliminated in the United States until it is controlled abroad.

(6) To control tuberculosis through screening, diagnosis, treatment, patient compliance, monitoring, and ongoing review of outcomes.

(7) Efforts to control tuberculosis are complicated by several barriers, including—

(A) the labor intensive and lengthy process involved in screening, detecting, and treating the disease.

(B) a lack of funding, trained personnel, and medicine in virtually every nation with a high rate of the disease; and

(C) the lack of resources in each country, which requires the development and implementation of country-specific programs.

(8) Eliminating the barriers to the international control of tuberculosis through a well-structured, comprehensive, and coordinated worldwide effort would be a significant step in dealing with the increasing public health crisis and disease, especially tuberculosis.

TO PROMOTE AN INTERNATIONAL ARMS TRANSFERS REGIME

SEC. 599. (a) Efforts.—The President shall continue and expand efforts through the United Nations and other international fora, including the Wassenaar Arrangement, to limit arms transfers worldwide. The President shall take the necessary steps to begin multilateral negotiations within 60 days after the enactment of this Act, for the purpose of establishing a permanent multilateral regime to govern the transfer of conventional arms, particularly transfers to countries—

(1) that engage in persistent violations of human rights, engage in acts of armed aggression in violation of international law, and do not fully participate in the United Nations Register of Conventional Arms; and

(2) in regions in which arms transfers would contribute to regional arms races or international tensions that present a danger to international peace and stability.

(b) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—Not later than 6 months after the commencement of the negotiations, and within 90 days after the enactment of this Act, the President shall report to the Congress on the progress made during these negotiations.

EXPANDED THREAT REDUCTION INITIATIVE

SEC. 590. It is the sense of the Senate that the programs contained in the Expanded Threat Reduction Initiative are vital to the national security of the United States and that funding for those programs should be restored in conference to the levels requested in the President’s budget.
the Balkans is in the best interests of all such nations.

(15) The ultimate withdrawal of foreign military forces, accompanied by the establishment of peaceful relations among all of the nations and peoples of the Balkans is in the best interests of those nations and peoples.

(16) A viable exit strategy for the withdrawal from the Balkans of foreign military forces is contingent upon the achievement of a lasting political settlement for the region, and thereby such a settlement, as long as it involves all parties involved, can ensure the fundamental goals of the United States of peace, stability, and human rights in the Balkans;

(b) Quarterly Report.—The President shall submit a report on a quarterly basis to the Congress in progress made in carrying out subsection (a).

SEC. 599. It is the sense of the Senate that the United States should mobilize the international community to proactively engage in the resolution of the Arab-Israeli disputes.

SEC. 599A. Consistent with the intent of Congress expressed in the enactment of section 3(b) of the Taiwan Relations Act, the President shall consult with the appropriate committees and leadership of Congress to devise a mechanism to provide for congressional input prior to making any determination on the nature or quantity of defense articles and services to be made available to Taiwan.

SEC. 599B. (a) Findings.—The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) Egypt and Israel together negotiated the Camp David Accords in 1979, which has been a significant step forward in bringing peace to the Middle East.

(2) As part of the Camp David Accords, a concept has reached maturity of United States foreign assistance between Egypt and Israel, a formula which has been followed since the signing of the Accords.

(3) The United States is reducing economic assistance to Egypt and Israel, with the agreement of those nations.

(4) The United States is committed to maintaining proportional military assistance to Egypt and Israel in United States foreign assistance programs.

(5) Egypt has consistently fulfilled an historic role of peacemaker in the context of the Arab-Israeli disputes.

(6) The recent elections in Israel offer fresh hope of resolving the remaining issues of disputes in the region.

(b) Sense of the Senate.—It is the sense of the Senate that the United States should continue to support the peace process in the Middle East.

SEC. 599C. The Secretary of the Treasury may, to fulfill commitments of the United States under the applicable laws, enter into agreements with the governments of the countries to which assistance is made available under this Act, to acquire and hold such assets as may be necessary to ensure the prompt and complete payment of the United States for the goods and services acquired under the terms of such agreements.

ACCOUNTABILITY OF SADDAM HUSSEIN

SEC. 598. It is the sense of the Senate that the President and the Secretary of State should—

(1) use the need for accountability of Saddam Hussein and several key members of his regime at the International Criminal Court Preparatory Commission, which will meet in New York on July 26, 1999, through August 13, 1999.

(2) continue to push for the creation of a commission under the auspices of the United Nations to establish an international criminal tribunal for the purpose of indicting, prosecuting, and imprisoning Saddam Hussein and any other Iraqi officials who may be found responsible for crimes against humanity, genocide, and other violations of international humanitarian law;

(3) continue to push for the United Nations to form an international criminal tribunal for the purpose of investigating and bringing Saddam Hussein and other Iraqi officials to justice.

SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING ASSISTANCE PROVIDED TO LITHUANIA, LATVIA, AND ESTONIA

SEC. 599. It is the sense of the Senate that notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, funds made available under chapter 9 of part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (relating to international disaster assistance) for fiscal year 2000, unless otherwise specified, shall be made available for rehabilitation and economic recovery in opposition-controlled areas of Sudan.

SEC. 599A. Consistent with the intent of Congress expressed in the enactment of section 3(b) of the Taiwan Relations Act, the President shall consult with the appropriate committees and leadership of Congress to devise a mechanism to provide for congressional input prior to making any determination on the nature or quantity of defense articles and services to be made available to Taiwan.

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill (S. 416) to direct the Secretary of Agriculture to convey to the city of Sisters, Oregon, a certain parcel of land for use in connection with a sewage treatment facility, which had been reported from the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, with amendments, as follows:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

SEWAGE TREATMENT FACILITY IN SISTERS, OREGON

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill (S. 416) to direct the Secretary of Agriculture to convey to the city of Sisters, Oregon, a certain parcel of land for use in connection with a sewage treatment facility, which had been reported from the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, with amendments, as follows:

The parts of the bill intended to be stricken are shown in boldface brackets and the parts of the bill intended to be inserted are shown in italic.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that—

(a) IN GENERAL. Not later than 3 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Agriculture shall convey to the city of Sisters, Oregon, at no cost to the city of Sisters, Oregon, 77 acres of land within the city limits that would increase in value as a result of construction of a sewer system.

(b) LAND DESCRIPTION. The amount of land conveyed under subsection (a) shall be not less than 160 acres and not more than 240 acres from within the following—

1. the SE quarter of section 09, township 15 south, range 10 west, W.M., Deschutes, Oregon, and the portion of the SW quarter of section 09, township 15 south, range 10 west, W.M., Deschutes, Oregon, that lies east of Deschutes County, Oregon, lying easterly of Three Creeks Lake Road, but not including the westernmost 500 feet of that portion; and
2. the portion of the SW quarter of section 09, township 15 south, W.M., Deschutes County, Oregon, lying easterly of Three Creeks Lake Road.

(c) CONDITION. The conveyance under subsection (a) shall be made on the condition that the city agree to conduct a public process before the final determination is made regarding land use for the disposal of treated effluent.

(d) SPECIAL USE PERMIT. Not later than 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the city of Sisters, Oregon, shall convey to the city of Sisters, Oregon, lying easterly of Three Creeks Lake Road.

(e) USE OF LAND. The land conveyed under subsection (a) shall be used by the city for a sewage treatment facility and for the disposal of treated effluent.

SEC. 2. CONVEYANCE.

(a) IN GENERAL. Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, and notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary shall sell, at fair market value, not less than a total of 6 acres of unimproved land in the city that is currently designated for administrative use. There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary.

(b) DEPOSIT OF PROCEEDS. The Secretary shall deposit the proceeds of a sale under subsection (a) in the fund established by Public Law 90-171 (commonly known as the “Sisk Act”) (16 U.S.C. 481a). (c) USE OF PROCEEDS. In connection with funds deposited under subsection (b) shall be available for expenditures without further Act of appropriation, as follows:

1. A city more than 25 percent shall be available for administrative improvements at the Sisters Ranger District.
2. The remainder shall be available for purposes that are directly related to improving the long-term condition of the watershed of Squaw Creek, a tributary of the Deschutes River, Oregon.

SEC. 3. SALE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAND.

(a) IN GENERAL. Not later than 3 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the city of Sisters, Oregon, faces a public health threat from a major outbreak of infectious diseases due to the lack of a sewer system;

(b) LACK OF SEWER SYSTEM. The lack of a sewer system also threatens groundwater and surface water resources in the area;

(c) LACK OF SEWER FACILITIES. The city is surrounded by Forest Service facilities in the city of Sisters;

(d) LACK OF SEWER FACILITIES. The Forest Service currently administers 77 acres of land within the city limits that would increase in value as a result of construction of a sewer system.

SEC. 4. CONVEYANCE.

(a) IN GENERAL. As soon as practicable and upon completion of any documents or analysis required by any environmental law, but not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Agriculture shall convey to the city of Sisters, Oregon, at no cost to the city of Sisters, Oregon, 77 acres of land within the city limits that would increase in value as a result of construction of a sewer system.

(1) the city of Sisters, Oregon, faces a public health threat from a major outbreak of infectious diseases due to the lack of a sewer system;

(2) the lack of a sewer system also threatens groundwater and surface water resources in the area;

(3) the city is surrounded by Forest Service facilities in the city of Sisters;

(4) the Forest Service currently administers 77 acres of land within the city limits that would increase in value as a result of construction of a sewer system.

SEC. 5. USE OF LAND.

(a) IN GENERAL. The land conveyed under subsection (a) shall be used by the city for a sewage treatment facility and for the disposal of treated effluent.
The Senate proceeded to consider the bill (S. 700) to amend the National Trails System Act to designate the Ala Kahakai Trail as a National Historic Trail.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “Ala Kahakai National Historic Trail Act”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that—

(1) the Ala Kahakai (Trail by the Sea) is an important part of the ancient trail known as the “Ala Loa” (the long trail), which circumscribes the island of Hawaii;

(2) the Ala Loa was the major land route connecting 600 or more communities of the island kingdom of Hawaii from 1400 to 1700;

(3) the trail is associated with many prehistoric and historic housing areas of the island of Hawaii, nearly all the royal centers, and most of the major temples of the island;

(4) the use of the Ala Loa is also associated with many rulers of the kingdom of Hawaii, with battlefields and the movement of armies during their reigns, and with annual taxation;

(5) the use of the trail played a significant part in events that affected Hawaiian history and culture, including—

(a) Captain Cook’s landing and subsequent death in 1779;

(b) Kamehameha I’s rise to power and consolidation of the Hawaiian Islands under monarchical rule; and

(c) the death of Kamehameha in 1819, followed by the overthrow of the ancient religious system, the Kapu, and the arrival of the first western missionaries in 1820; and

(6) the trail—

(A) was used throughout the 19th and 20th centuries and continues in use today; and

(B) contains a variety of significant cultural and natural resources.

SEC. 3. AUTHORIZATION AND ADMINISTRATION.

Section 5(a) of the National Trails System Act (16 U.S.C. 1244(a)) is amended—

(1) by designating the paragraphs relating to the California National Historic Trail, the Pony Express National Historic Trail, and the Selma to Montgomery National Historic Trail as paragraphs (18), (19), and (20), respectively; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

“(22) Ala Kahakai National Historic Trail—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Ala Kahakai National Historic Trail (the Trail by the Sea), a 175 mile long trail extending from Upolu Point on the north tip of Hawaii Island down the west coast of the Island around Ka Lae to the east boundary of Hawaii Volcanoes National Park at the ancient shoreline temple known as ‘Waha’ula’—‘Wahala’u’ as generally depicted on the map entitled ‘Ala Kahakai Trail’, contained in the report prepared pursuant to subsection (b) entitled ‘Ala Kahakai National Trail Study and Environmental Impact Statement’, dated January 1998.

(B) MAP.—A map generally depicting the trail shall be on file and available for public inspection in the Office of the National Park Service, Department of the Interior.

(C) ADMINISTRATION.—The trail shall be administered by the Secretary of the Interior.

(D) LAND ACQUISITION.—No land or interest in land outside the exterior boundaries of any federally administered area may be acquired by the United States for the trail except with the consent of the owner of the land or interest in land.

(E) PUBLIC PARTICIPATION; CONSULTATION.—The Secretary of the Interior shall—

(i) encourage communities and owners of land along the trail, native Hawaiians, and volunteer trail groups to participate in the planning, development, and maintenance of the trail; and

(ii) consult with affected Federal, State, and local agencies, native Hawaiian groups, and landowners in the administration of the trail.

The committee amendments were agreed to.

The bill (S. 700), as amended, was considered read the third time and passed, as follows:

S. 700

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

LOESS HILLS PRESERVATION STUDY ACT OF 1999

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill (S. 776) to authorize the National Park Service to conduct a feasibility study for the preservation of the Loess Hills National Natural Landmark in western Iowa, which had been reported from the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, with amendments as follows:

The parts of the bill intended to be inserted are shown in italic.
(4) a program to study the Loess Hills can only be successfully implemented with the cooperation and participation of affected local governments and landowners; and

(5) the Loess Hills area was designated as a National Natural Landmark in recognition of the area's nationally significant natural resources; and

(6) although significant natural resources remain in the area, increasing development in the area has threatened the future stability and integrity of the Loess Hills area; and

(7) the Loess Hills area merits further study by the National Park Service, in cooperation with the State of Iowa, local governments, affected landowners, to determine appropriate means to better protect, preserve, and interpret the significant resources in the area.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this Act is to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to conduct a suitability and feasibility study to determine what measures should be taken to preserve the Loess Hills in western Iowa.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

As used in this Act—

(1) the term "Loess Hills" means the natural geological formation of soils in the State of Iowa located between Wabansie State Park and Stone Park, and which includes Loup, Woodbury, Monona, Harrison, Pottawattamie, Mills, and Fremont Counties;

(2) the term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Interior; and

(3) the term "State" means the State of Iowa.

SEC. 4. LOESS HILLS STUDY.

(a) The Secretary shall undertake a study of the Loess Hills area to review options for the protection and interpretation of the area's natural, cultural, and historical resources; which include, but need not be limited to, an analysis of the suitability and feasibility of designating the area as—

(1) a unit of the National Park System;

(2) a National Heritage Area or Heritage Corridor; or

(3) such other designation as may be appropriate.

(b) The study shall examine the appropriateness and feasibility of cooperative protection efforts between the United States and the State, its political subdivisions, and non-profit groups or other interested parties.

(c) The Secretary shall consult in the preparation of the study with State and local governmental entities, affected landowners, and other interested public and private organizations and individuals.

(d) The study shall be completed within one year after the date funds are made available. No later than 30 days after its completion, the Secretary shall transmit a report of the study, along with any recommendations, to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the United States Senate and the Committee on Resources of the United States House of Representatives.

SEC. 5. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this Act not to exceed $275,000.

The committee amendments were agreed to.

The bill (S. 776), as amended, was considered read the third time and passed, as follows:

S. 776

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Loess Hills Preservation Study Act of 1999".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) the Loess Hills encompasses 600,000 acres in western Iowa, having been formed by ancient glaciers and hundreds of centuries of westerly blowing soil across the Missouri River, which were then deposited in Iowa;

(2) this area is the largest Loess formation in the United States, and one of the two largest in the world, supporting several species of rare native grasses;

(3) portions of the Loess Hills remain undeveloped and provide an important opportunity to protect and preserve an historic, rare and unique natural resource;

(4) a program to study the Loess Hills can only be successfully implemented with the cooperation and participation of affected local governments and landowners;

(5) in 1996, the Loess Hills area was designated as a National Natural Landmark in recognition of the area's nationally significant natural resources;

(6) although significant natural resources remain in the area, increasing development in the area has threatened the future stability and integrity of the Loess Hills area; and

(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this Act is to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to conduct a suitability and feasibility study to determine what measures should be taken to preserve the Loess Hills in western Iowa.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

As used in this Act—

(1) the term "Conservation Area" means the Gunnison Gorge National Conservation Area, consisting of approximately 57,725 acres surrounding the Gunnison Gorge itself, as depicted on the Map.

(2) the term "Map" means the map entitled "Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Monument and Gunnison Gorge National Conservation Area Act of 1999". The map shall be on file and available for public inspection in the offices of the Interior Department.

(b) The purpose of this Act is to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to conduct a suitability and feasibility study to determine what measures should be taken to preserve the Loess Hills in western Iowa.

SEC. 5. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this Act not to exceed $275,000.

BLACK CANYON NATIONAL PARK AND GUNNISON GORGE NATIONAL CONSERVATION AREA ACT OF 1999

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill (S. 323) to redesignate the Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Monument as a national park and establish the Gunnison Gorge National Conservation Area, and for other purposes, which had been reported from the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, with an amendment to strike all after the enacting clause and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Park and Gunnison Gorge National Conservation Area Act of 1999".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

(a) Congress finds that—

(1) Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Monument was established for the preservation of its spectacular gorge and additional features of scenic, scientific, and educational interest;

(2) Black Canyon of the Gunnison and adjacent upland include a variety of unique geological, scenic, and wildlife resources enhanced by the serenity and rural setting of the area;

(3) the Black Canyon of the Gunnison and adjacent upland provide extensive opportunities for educational and recreational activities, and are publicly used for hiking, camping, and fishing, and for wilderness value, including solitude;

(4) adjacent public land downstream of the Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Monument has wilderness value and offers unique geological, paleontological, scientific, educational, and recreational resources;

(5) public land adjacent to the Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Monument contributes to the protection of the wildlife, views, and scenic qualities of the Black Canyon;

(6) some private land adjacent to the Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Monument has exceptional natural and scenic value that would be threatened by future development pressures;

(7) the benefits of designating public and private land surrounding the national monument as a national park include greater long-term protection of the resources and expanded visitor use opportunities; and

(8) land in and adjacent to the Black Canyon of the Gunnison Gorge is—

(A) recognized for offering exceptional multiple use opportunities;

(B) recognized for offering natural, cultural, scenic, wilderness, and recreational resources; and

(4) SECRETARY.—The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of the Interior.

SEC. 4. ESTABLISHMENT OF BLACK CANYON OF THE GUNNISON NATIONAL PARK.
(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is hereby established the Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Park in the State of Colorado as generally depicted on the map identified in section 3. The boundaries of the Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Monument is hereby abolished as such, and that area is hereby administratively transferred to the administrative jurisdiction of the National Park Service. The Secretary shall administer the park in accordance with this Act and laws generally applicable to units of the National Park System, including the Act entitled “An Act to establish a National Park Service, and for other purposes”, approved August 25, 1916 (16 U.S.C. 1, 2–4), and the Act to provide for the preservation of historic American sites, buildings, objects, and antiquities of national significance, and for other purposes, approved August 21, 1935 (39 U.S.C. 461 et seq.).

(c) Maps and Legal Description.—As soon as practicable after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall file maps and a legal description of the Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Park with the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the United States Senate and the Committee on Resources of the United States House of Representatives. Such maps and legal description shall have the same force and effect as if included in this Act, except that the Secretary may correct clerical and typographical errors in such legal description and maps and legal description shall be on file and available for public inspection in the appropriate offices of the National Park Service.

(d) Withdrawal.—Subject to valid existing rights, all Federal lands within the park are hereby withdrawn from all forms of entry, appropriation or disposal under the laws (including regulations) of the United States, and subject to the availability of funds; or

(e) Grazing.—(1) Consistent with the requirements of this subsection, including the limitation in paragraph (3), the Secretary shall allow grazing to continue where authorized under permits or leases in existence as of the date of enactment of this Act. Grazing shall be at no more than the current level, and subject to applicable laws and National Park Service regulations.

(2) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed as extending grazing privileges for any party or their assigns in any area of the park where, prior to the date of enactment of this Act, such use was scheduled to expire according to the terms of a settlement by the U.S. Claims Court, or incorporated into paragraph (1) to continue where authorized under permits or leases in existence as of the date of enactment of this Act. Grazing shall be at no more than the current level, and subject to applicable laws and National Park Service regulations.

(b) Management of Conservation Area. —The Secretary shall issue regulations designating zones where hunting, trapping, and fishing shall be permitted for reasons of public safety, administration, or public use and enjoyment.

(c) State Responsibility.—As provided in section 4(d)(7) of the Wilderness Act (16 U.S.C. 1133(d)(7)), nothing in this Act or in the Wilderness Act shall affect the jurisdiction or responsibilities of the State of Colorado with respect to may issue regulations designating zones where and establishing periods when no hunting or trapping shall be permitted for reasons concerning:

(1) public safety;

(2) administration; or

(3) public use and enjoyment.

USE OF MOTOR VEHICLES.—In addition to the use of motorized vehicles on established roads, the use of motorized vehicles in the Conservation Area following acquisition of land necessary to the use of motorized vehicles on non-established roads shall be permitted for reasons of public safety, administration, or public use and enjoyment.

(3) With respect to the grazing permits and leases referenced in this subsection, the Secretary may issue regulations designating zones where and establishing periods when no grazing or trampling shall be permitted for reasons concerning:

(1) public safety;

(2) administration; or

(3) public use and enjoyment.

President, a map and a legal description of the Gunnison Wilderness with the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the United States Senate and the Committee on Resources of the United States House of Representatives. This map and description shall have the same force and effect as if included in this Act. The Secretary may acquire certain private land or inter-terests in the public lands by donation; purchase with consented funds; or
(ii) exchange.

(1) Consent.—No land or interest in land may be acquired without the consent of the owner of the land.

(2) Boundaries of Revisions Following Acquisition.—Following the acquisition of land under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall—

(i) revise the boundary of the Curecanti National Recreation Area to include newly-acquired land; and

(ii) administer newly-acquired land according to applicable laws (including regulations).

There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as are necessary to carry out this Act.

CONDEMNING PALESTINIAN EFFORTS TO REVIVE THE ORIGINAL PALESTINE PARTITION PLAN

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to the immediate consideration of Calendar No. 186, S. Con. Res. 36.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A concurrent resolution (S. Con. Res. 36) condemning Palestinian efforts to revive the original Palestine partition plan of November 29, 1947, and condemning the United Nations Commission on Human Rights for its April 27, 1999, resolution endorsing Palestinian self-determination on the basis of the original Palestine partition plan.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the concurrent resolution.

Mr. GORTON. I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and any statements relating to this resolution be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Con. Res. 36) was agreed to.

Whereas senior Palestinian officials have recently resurrected United Nations General Assembly Resolution 181 through official statements and a March 25, 1999, letter from the Permanent Observer to the United Nations Secretary-General contending that the State of Israel must withdraw to the borders outlined in United Nations General Assembly Resolution 181, and accept Jerusalem as a “corpus separatum” to be placed under United Nations control as outlined in United Nations General Assembly Resolution 181; and

Whereas in its April 27, 1999, resolution, the United Nations Commission on Human Rights asserted that Israeli-Palestinian negotiations based on United Nations General Assembly Resolution 181: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Congress—

(1) condemns Palestinian efforts to circumvent United Nations Security Council Resolutions 242 and 338, as well as violate the Oslo peace process, by attempting to revive United Nations General Assembly Resolution 181, thereby placing the entire Israeli-Palestinian peace process at risk;

(2) condemns the United Nations Commission on Human Rights for voting to formally endorse United Nations General Assembly Resolution 181 as the basis for the future of Palestinian self-determination;

(3) reiterates that any just and final peace agreement regarding the final status of the territory controlled by the Palestinians can only be determined through direct negotiations and agreement between the State of Israel and the Palestinian Liberation Organization;

(4) reiterates its continued unequivocal support for the security and well-being of the State of Israel, and of the Oslo peace process based on United Nations Security Council Resolutions 242 and 338;

(5) calls for the President of the United States to declare that—

(A) it is the policy of the United States that United Nations General Assembly Resolution 181 of 1947 is null and void;

(B) all negotiations between Israel and the Palestinians must be based on United Nations Security Council Resolutions 242 and 338; and

(C) the United States regards any attempt by the Palestinian Liberation Organization or any entity to resurrect United Nations General AssemblyResolution 181 as a basis for negotiations, or for any international decision, as an attempt to sabotage the prospects for a successful peace agreement in the Middle East.

CONGRATULATING THE STATE OF QATAR

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to the immediate consideration of Calendar No. 188, H. Con. Res. 35.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 35) congratulating the State of Qatar and its citizens for their commitment to democratic ideals and women’s suffrage on the occasion of Qatar’s historic elections of a central municipal council on March 29, 1999.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, to the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and any statements relating to this resolution be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (H. Con. Res. 35) was agreed to.

DIGITAL THEFT DETERRENCE AND COPYRIGHT DAMAGES IMPROVEMENT ACT OF 1999

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to the immediate consideration of Calendar No. 193, S. 1257.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 1257) to amend statutory damages provisions of title 17, United States Code.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, today the Senate is considering four very important intellectual property related “high-tech” bills that Senator LEAHY and I have introduced to promote the continued growth and expansion of the American economy and to protect the interests and investment of the entrepreneurs, authors, and innovators who fuel their growth. These bills were reported by unanimous consent earlier today by the Judiciary Committee.

Technology is the driving force in the American economy today, and American technology is setting new standards for the global economy, from semiconductor chip technology, to computer software, Internet and telecommunications technology, to leading pharmaceutical and genetic research. In my own state of Utah, these information technology industries contribute in excess of $7 billion each year to the State’s economy and pay wages that average 66 percent higher than the state average. Their performance has placed Utah among the world’s top ten technology centers according to Newsweek Magazine. Similar success is seen in areas across the country, with the U.S. being home to seven of the world’s top ten technology centers and with American creative industries now surpassing all other export sectors in foreign sales and exports.

Underlying all of these technologies are the intellectual property rights that serve to promote creativity and innovation by safeguarding the investment, effort, and goodwill of those who venture into these fast-paced and volatile fields. Strong intellectual property protections are particularly critical in the global high-tech environment where electronic piracy is so easy, so cheap, and yet so potentially devastating to intellectual property owners—many of which are small enterprises. In Utah, 85 percent of these companies have fewer than 25 employees, and a majority have annual revenues of less than $1 million. Intellectual property is the lifeblood of... these companies, and even a single instance of piracy could drive them out of business. What’s more, without adequate international protection, these companies would simply be unable to compete in the global marketplace.

That is why we enacted a number of measures last year to provide enhanced protection for intellectual property in the new global, high-tech environment. For example, the Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA) implemented two new World Intellectual Property Organization treaties setting global standards for copyright protection in the digital environment. We also paved the way for new growth in online commerce by providing a copyright framework in which the Internet and other new technologies can flourish.

This year, Senator Leahy and I are continuing to focus our attention on important high-tech and intellectual property legislation. The bills we are considering will build upon existing protections, including last year’s measures to deter digital piracy, by raising the Copyright Act’s limit on statutory damages to make it more costly to engage in cyber-piracy and copyright theft. They will also make technical “clean-up” amendments to the DMCA and other Copyright Act provisions to make them clearer and more user-friendly. On the trademark side, these bills will make the protection of famous marks easier and more efficient and provide recourse for trademark owners against the federal government for trademark infringement. Finally, these bills will allow the Patent and Trademark Office to better serve its customers—America’s innovators and trademark owners—through the collection and retention of fees.

Each of these bills is noncontroversial and enjoys widespread support. I want to thank Senator Leahy for his assistance today and leadership in this process, and I look forward to the Senate swiftly passing these bills today.

Mr. GORTON. I ask unanimous consent that the bill be considered read a third time and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that no statements relating to the bill be printed in the Record.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (S. 1258) was considered read the third time and passed, as follows:

(a) Clerical Amendment to Title 28, U.S.C.—The section heading for section 1400 of title 28, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

“§ 1400. Patents and copyrights, mask works, and designs.”

(b) Elimination of Conflicting Provisions.—Section 516 of title 35, United States Code, is amended by striking “Commissioner of Patents, Department of Commerce.”

(c) Clerical Correction to Title 35, U.S.C.—Section 3(d) of title 35, United States Code, is amended by striking “United States Code”.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution (S. Res. 59) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to. The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 59) designating both July 2, 1999, and July 2, 2000, as "National Literacy Day".

Whereas it is vital to call attention to the serious public health concern of illiteracy, and to reach those who are illiterate and unaware of the free services and help available to them; and

Whereas it is necessary to recognize and thank the voluntary efforts of organizations, like Focus on Literacy, Inc., that work to promote literacy and provide support to the millions of illiterate persons needing assistance, therefore be it Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates both July 2, 1999, and July 2, 2000, as "National Literacy Day";

(2) requests that the President issue a proclamation calling on the people of the United States to observe "National Literacy Day" with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

RELIEF FOR GLOBAL EXPLO- RATION AND DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION, KERR-McGEE CORPORATION, AND KERR-McGEE CHEMICAL, LLC.

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of calendar No. 144, S. 606.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 606) for the relief of Global Explor- ation and Development Corporation, Kerr- McGee Corporation, and Kerr-McGee Chemical, LLC (successor to Kerr-McGee Chemical Corporation), and for other purposes.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill, which had been reported from the Committee on the Judiciary, with an amendment as follows:

The part of the bill intended to be inserted is shown in italic.

(B) to teach or demonstrate to any person the making or use of an explosive, a destruc- tive device, or a weapon of mass destruction, or to distribute to any person, by any means, information pertaining to, in whole or in part, the manufacture or use of an explosive, destructive device, or weapon of mass destruction, with the intent that the teaching, demonstration, or information be used for, or in furtherance of, an activity that constitutes a Federal crime of violence; and

(C) to use or distribute, knowing that such person intends to use the teaching, demonstration, or information for, or in furtherance of, an activity that constitutes a Federal crime of violence;

SEC. 3. SETTLEMENT OF CLAIMS OF MENOMINEE INDIAN TRIBE OF WISCONSIN.

(a) PAYMENT.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin, out of any funds in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, $2,052,547 for damages sustained by the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin by reason of—

(1) the enactment and implementation of the Act entitled "An Act to provide for a per capita distribution of Menominee tribe funds and au- thorize the withdrawal of the Menominee Tribe from Federal jurisdiction", approved June 17, 1954 (68 Stat. 250 et seq., chapter 303); and

(2) the mismanagement by the United States of assets of the Menominee Indian Tribe held in trust by the United States before April 30, 1961, the effective date of termination of Federal su- pervision of the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wis- consin.

(b) EFFECT OF PAYMENT.—Payment of the amount referred to in subsection (a) shall be in full satisfaction of any claims that the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin may have against the United States with respect to the damages referred to in that subsection.

(c) REQUIREMENTS FOR PAYMENT.—The pay- ment to the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wis- consin under subsection (a) shall—

(1) have the status of a judgment of the United States Court of Federal Claims for the purposes of the Indian Claims Court Act, and (2) be made in accordance with the require- ments of that Act on the basis that the amounts remaining after payment of attorney fees and litigation expenses—substitute be agreed to, the bill be considered read the third time and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and any statements relating to the bill be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the committee amendment was agreed to.

The bill (S. 606), as amended, was considered read the third time, and passed.

S. 606

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SATISFACTION OF CLAIMS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.

(2) Prohibition.—It shall be unlawful for any person—

(A) to teach or demonstrate the making or use of an explosive, a destructive device, or a weapon of mass destruction, or to distribute by any means information pertaining to, in whole or in part, the manufacture or use of an explosive, destructive device, or weapon of mass destruction, with the intent that the teaching, demonstration, or information be used for, or in furtherance of, an activity that constitutes a Federal crime of violence; or

(B) to teach or demonstrate to any person the making or use of an explosive, a destructive device, or a weapon of mass destruction, or to distribute to any person, by any means, information pertaining to, in whole or in part, the manufacture or use of an explosive, destructive device, or weapon of mass destruction, knowing that such person intends to use the teaching, demonstration, or information for, or in furtherance of, an activity that constitutes a Federal crime of violence.

(b) PENALTIES.—Section 844 of title 18, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by striking `person who violates any of subsections' and inserting the following: `person who—'

(2) by striking the period at the end and inserting in its place the following:

"(I) violations of subsection (a);"

(3) by deleting `shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $100,000 and/or not more than twenty years in prison,' and inserting in place thereof the following:

"(I) a fine of not more than $1,000,000, and/or imprisonment of not more than 20 years; or both.

(c) REQUIREMENTS FOR PAYMENT.—The payment to the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin under subsection (a) shall—

(1) have the status of a judgment of the United States Court of Federal Claims for the purposes of the Indian Tribal Judgment Funds Use or Distribution Act (25 U.S.C. 1401 et seq.);

(2) be made in accordance with the requirements of that Act on the condition that, of the amounts remaining after payment of attorneys' fees and litigation costs—

(A) at least 30 percent shall be distributed on a per capita basis; and

(B) the balance shall be set aside and programmed to serve tribal needs, including funding for—

(i) educational, economic development, and health care programs; and

(ii) such other programs as the circumstances of the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin may justify.

MILITARY AND EXTRATERRITORIAL JURISDICTION ACT OF 1999

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of calendar No. 167, S. 768.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 768) to establish court-martial jurisdiction over civilians serving in the Armed Forces during peacetime operations, and to establish Federal jurisdiction over crimes committed outside of the United States.
States by former members of the Armed Forces and civilians accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill, which had been reported from the Committee on the Judiciary, with an amendment to strike all after the enacting clause and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Military and Extraterritorial Jurisdiction Act of 1999”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

1. Civilian employees of the Department of Defense and civilians accompanying an Armed Force outside the United States who engage in serious offenses committed by such persons outside the United States.

2. The existence of a jurisdictional gap, Federal law thus escaping court-martial jurisdiction and, to the same extent as if those offenses were committed within the United States, commits such person for the conduct constituting such offense to the Department of Justice.

3. To address this need, the Uniform Code of Military Justice should be amended to provide for court-martial jurisdiction over civilians serving with the Armed Forces outside the United States.

4. In its present state, military law does not permit military commanders to address adequately misconduct by civilians serving with the Armed Forces, except in time of a congressionally declared war.

5. To address this need, the Uniform Code of Military Justice should be amended to provide for court-martial jurisdiction over civilians serving with the Armed Forces in places designated by the Secretary of Defense during a “contingency operation” expressly designated as such by the Secretary of Defense.

6. This limited extension of court-martial jurisdiction over civilians is dictated by military necessity, is within the constitutional powers of Congress, and will not impinge upon the sovereignty of the United States, and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitution of the United States and United States public policy.

7. Many thousand civilian employees of the Department of Defense, civilian employees of Department of Defense contractors, and civilian dependents accompany the Armed Forces to installments in foreign countries.

8. Misconduct among such civilians has been a longstanding problem for military commanders and other United States officials in foreign countries, and, because host countries often do not prosecute such offenses, serious crimes often go unpunished and, to address this jurisdictional gap, Federal law should be amended to punish serious offenses committed by such civilians outside the United States, to the same extent as if those offenses were committed within the United States.

9. Federal criminal law does not apply to many of the offenses committed by civilians outside the United States by such civilians and, because host countries often do not prosecute such offenses, serious crimes often go unpunished and, to address this jurisdictional gap, Federal law should be amended to punish serious offenses committed by such civilians outside the United States, to the same extent as if those offenses were committed within the United States.

10. The Committee reports along with an amendment to strike all after the enacting clause and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

SECTION 3. COURT-MARTIAL JURISDICTION.

(a) JURISDICTION DURING CONTINGENCY OPERATIONS. —Section 802(a) of title 10, United States Code, as amended by section 502(a) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, is amended by inserting after paragraph (12) the following:

“(13) To the extent not covered by paragraphs (10) and (11), persons not members of the armed forces who, in support of a contingency operation described in section 101(a)(13) of this title, are serving with, employed by, or accompanying an armed force in a place or places outside the United States specified by the Secretary of Defense, as follows:

(A) Employees of the Department of Defense.

(B) Employees of any Department of Defense contractor who are so serving in connection with the performance of a Department of Defense contract.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE. —The amendment made by subsection (a) shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act and apply with respect to acts or omissions occurring on or after that date.

SEC. 4. FEDERAL JURISDICTION.

(a) CRIMINAL OFFENSES COMMITTED OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES. —Title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting after chapter 211 the following:

CHAPTER 212—CRIMINAL OFFENSES COMMITTED OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES

Sec. 3261. Criminal offenses committed by persons formerly serving with, or presently employed by or accompanying, the Armed Forces outside the United States.

Sec. 3262. Delivery to authorities of foreign countries.

Sec. 3263. Regulations.

§ 3261. Criminal offenses committed by persons formerly serving with, or presently employed by or accompanying, the Armed Forces outside the United States

(a) Subject to this section, any person designated and authorized under section 101(a)(13) of title 10, United States Code, is subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States:

(A) is a dependent of—

(i) a member of the Armed Forces;

(ii) a civilian employee of a military department or of the Department of Defense;

(iii) a Department of Defense contractor or an employee of a Department of Defense contractor;

(B) is residing with such member, civilian employee, contractor, or contractor employee outside the United States; and

(C) is not a national of or ordinarily resident in the host nation;

(b) Concurrent Jurisdiction. —Nothing in this chapter may be construed to deprive a court-martial, military commission, provost court, or other military tribunal of concurrent jurisdiction with respect to offenders or offenses that by statute or by the law of war may be tried by a court-martial, military commission, provost court, or other military tribunal.

(c) Action by Foreign Government. —No prosecution may be commenced against a person under this section if a foreign government, in accordance with jurisdiction recognized by the United States, has prosecuted or is prosecuting such person for the conduct constituting such offense.

(1) I N GENERAL.— Whoever, while serving with, employed by, or accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States, engages in conduct that would constitute an offense punishable by imprisonment for more than 1 year if the conduct had been engaged in within the special maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States, shall be guilty of a like offense and subject to a like punishment.

(2) E LEMENTS.— To constitute an offense under this section, the conduct must—

(A) is a person who—

(i) is a Department of Defense contractor or a civilian employee of a military department or of the Department of Defense;

(ii) is employed by a contractor of a foreign country under section 3262; or

(iii) a Department of Defense contractor or an employee of a Department of Defense contractor;

(B) is residing with such member, civilian employee, contractor, or contractor employee outside the United States; and

(C) is not a national of or ordinarily resident in the host nation;

(3) Provision of Notice. —The notification of an offense under this section to the Department of State and to the Department of Defense shall—

(A) is employed as a civilian employee of the Department of Defense, as a Department of Defense contractor, or as an employee of a Department of Defense contractor;

(B) is residing with such member, civilian employee, contractor, or contractor employee outside the United States; and

(C) is not a national of or ordinarily resident in the host nation.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT. —The table of chapters at the beginning of part II of title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to chapter 211 the following:

“212, Criminal Offenses Committed Outside the United States...”

AMENDMENT NO. 1226

(Purpose: To provide a complete substitute)

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I send the legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from Washington [Mr. Gorton], for Mr. Sessions, for himself, Mr. Lautenberg, and Mr. DeWine, proposes an amendment numbered 1226.

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.
The President, without objection, is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Military and Extraterritorial Jurisdiction Act of 1999.”

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Civilian employees of the Department of Defense, civilian employees of Department of Defense contractors, provide critical support to the Armed Forces of the United States that are deployed during a contingency operation.

(2) Misconduct by such persons undermines good order and discipline in the Armed Forces, and jeopardizes the mission of the contingency operation.

(3) Military commanders need the legal tools to address adequately misconduct by civilians serving with Armed Forces during a contingency operation.

(4) In its present state, military law does not permit military commanders to address adequately misconduct by civilians serving with Armed Forces, except in time of a congressionally declared war.

(5) To address this need, the Uniform Code of Military Justice should be amended to provide for court-martial jurisdiction over civilians serving with Armed Forces in places designated by the Secretary of Defense during a “contingency operation” expressly designated as such by the Secretary of Defense.

(6) This limited extension of court-martial jurisdiction over civilians is dictated by military necessity, is within the constitutional powers of Congress to make rules for the government of the Armed Forces, and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitution of the United States and United States public policy.

(7) Many thousand civilian employees of the Department of Defense, civilian employees of Department of Defense contractors, and civilian dependents accompany the Armed Forces to installations in foreign countries.

(8) Misconduct among such civilians has been a longstanding problem for military commanders and other United States officials in foreign countries, and threatens United States interests in United States sovereignty, and United States relations with host countries.

(9) Federal criminal law does not apply to many offenses committed outside of the United States by such civilians and, because host countries often do not prosecute such offenses, serious crimes often go unpunished and, to address this jurisdictional gap, Federal law should be amended to punish serious offenses committed by such civilians outside the United States, to the same extent as if those offenses were committed within the special maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States.

(10) Federal law does not apply to many crimes committed outside the United States by members of the Armed Forces who separate from the Armed Forces before they can be identified and brought to justice.

SEC. 3. COURT-MARTIAL JURISDICTION.

(a) CRIMINAL OFFENSES COMMITTED OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES.—Title 10, United States Code (article 2(a) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice), is amended by inserting after paragraph (12) the following:

“(13) To the extent not covered by paragraphs (10) and (11), persons not members of the armed forces of a foreign country, within the special maritime and territorial jurisdiction described in section 102(a)(13)(B) of this title, are serving with and accompanying an armed force in a place or places outside the United States specified by the Secretary of Defense, as follows:

(A) Employees of the Department of Defense;

(B) Employees of any Department of Defense contractor who are so serving in connection with the performance of a Department of Defense contract.

(b) EFFECTIVE PROVISION.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act and apply with respect to acts or omissions occurring on or after that date.

SEC. 4. FEDERAL JURISDICTION.

(a) CRIMINAL OFFENSES COMMITTED OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES.—Title 18, United States Code, is amended as follows:

“§ 3261. Criminal offenses committed by persons formerly serving with, or presently employed by, or accompanying, the Armed Forces outside the United States.

“§ 3262. Delivery to authorities of foreign countries.

“§ 3263. Definitions.

“(a) In general.—Any person designated and authorized under section 3261(a)(1) of this title to take custody of or apprehend a person described in subsection (a) if there is probable cause to believe that such person engaged in conduct that constitutes a criminal offense under subsection (a) if there is probable cause to believe that such person engaged in conduct that constitutes a criminal offense under subsection (a) shall be released to the custody of civilian law enforcement authorities of the United States for removal to the United States for judicial proceedings in relation to conduct referred to in such paragraph and, in the case of such a person who is a civilian employee of the Armed Forces outside of the United States, shall be released to the custody of the Department of Justice, or as a Department of Defense contractor, or as an employee of a Department of Defense contractor;
"(B) is present or residing outside of the United States in connection with such employment; and

"(C) is not a national of or ordinarily resident in a foreign country.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of chapters at the beginning of part II of title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to chapter 211 the following:

"212. Criminal Offenses Committed Outside the United States .......... 3621."

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I support S. 768. S 768 was originally introduced by Senator Sessions and DeWine. This important legislation will close a gap in Federal law that has existed for many years. S. 768 establishes authority for Federal jurisdiction over crimes committed by individuals accompanying our military overseas and court-martial jurisdiction over Department of Defense employees and contractors accompanying the armed forces on contingency missions outside the United States during times of war or national emergency declared by the President or the Congress.

Civilians accompanying the Armed Forces have been subject to court-martial jurisdiction when "accompanying or serving with the armies of the United States in the field" since the Revolutionary War. See Mcnue v. Kilpatrick, 53 F. Supp. 496 (E.D. Va. 1943). It is only since the start of the cold war that American troops, accompanied by civilian dependents and employees, have been stationed overseas in peace time. Provisions of the Uniform Code of Military Justice provide for the court-martial of civilians accused of crimes while accompanying the armed forces in times of peace or war. The provisions allowing for peace time court-martial of civilians were found unconstitutional by a series of Supreme Court cases beginning with Reid v. Covert, 354 U.S. 1 (1957). With foreign nations often not interested in prosecuting crimes against Americans, particularly when committed by an American, the result is a jurisdictional "gap" that allows some civilians to literally get away with murder.

A report by the Overseas Jurisdiction Advisory Committee submitted to Congress in 1997, cited cases in which host countries declined to prosecute serious crimes committed by civilians accompanying our Armed Forces. These cases involved the sexual molestation of dependent girls, the stabbing of a service member, man and drug trafficking to soldiers. The individuals who committed these crimes against service men and women or their dependents were not prosecuted in the host country and were free to return to the United States and continue their lives as if the incidents had never occurred. The victims of these awful crimes are left with no redress of any sort.

This inability to exercise Federal jurisdiction over individuals accompanying our armed forces overseas has caused problems. During the Vietnam War, Federal jurisdiction over civilians was not permissible since war was never declared by the Congress. Maj. Gen. George S. Prugh said, in his text on legal issues arising during the Vietnam War, that disciplining civilians "became a cause for major concern to the U.S. command."

More recently, Operation Desert Storm involved the deployment of 4,500 Department of Defense civilians and at least 3,000 contractor employees. Similarly large deployments of civilians have been repeated in contingency operations in Somalia, Haiti, Kuwait, and Rwanda. Although crime by civilians accompanying our armed forces in Operation Desert Storm was rare, the Department of Defense did report that four of its civilian employees were involved in insignificant criminal misconduct ranging from transportation of illegal firearms to larrecy and receiving stolen property. One of these civilians was suspended without pay for 30 days while no action was taken on the remaining three.

Due to the lack of Federal jurisdiction over civilians in a foreign country, civilians who engaged in such misconduct are not disgraced by dismissal from the job, banishment from the base, suspension without pay, or returning the person to the United States. The inadequacy of these remedies to address the criminal activity of civilians accompanying our Armed Forces overseas results in a lack of deterrence and an inequity due to the harsher sanctions imposed upon military personnel who committed the same crimes as civilians.

I expect the deployment of civilians in Kosovo and elsewhere will be relatively crime free, but regardless of the frequency of its use, the gap that allowed civilians accompanying our military personnel overseas to go unpunished for heinous crimes must be closed. Our service men and women and those accompanying them deserve justice when they are victims of crime. That is why I introduced this provision as part of the Safe Schools, Safe Streets and Secure Borders Act with other Democratic Members, both last year and again on January 19 of this year, as S. 9.

S. 768 had some concerns with certain aspects of S. 768 that were not included in my version of this legislation, and I am pleased that we were able to address those concerns in the Sessions-Leahy-DeWine substitute. For example, the original bill would have extended court-martial jurisdiction over Department of Defense employees and contractors accompanying our Armed Forces overseas. The Supreme Court in Reid v. Covert, 354 U.S. 1 (1957), Kinsella v. Singleton, 363 U.S. 170 (1960), and Toth v. Quaries, 350 U.S. 11 (1956), has made clear that court-martial jurisdiction may not be constitutionally applied to crimes committed in peace time by persons accompanying the armed forces overseas, or to crimes committed by a former member of the armed services.

The substitute makes clear that this extension of court-martial jurisdiction applies only in times when the armed forces are engaged in a "contingency operation" involving a war or national emergency declared by the Congress or the President. I believe this comports with the Supreme Court rulings on this issue and cures any constitutional infirmity with the original language.

In addition, the original bill would have deemed any delay in bringing a person before a magistrate due to transporting the person back to the United States from overseas "justifiable." I was concerned that this provision could end up excusing lengthy and unreasonable delays in getting a civilian, who was arrested overseas, before a U.S. Magistrate, and thereby raise yet other constitutional concerns.

The Sessions-Leahy-DeWine substitute cures that potential problem by removing the problematic provision challenging instead the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure. This rule requires that an arrested person be brought before a magistrate to answer charges without unnecessary delay and will also ensure the removal of a civilian from overseas to answer charges in the United States. Finally, S. 768 as introduced authorized the Department of Defense to determine who among our foreign officials constitute the appropriate authorities to whom an arrested civilian should be delivered. In my proposal for this legislation I required that DOD make this determination in consultation with the Department of State. I felt this would help avoid international faux pas. I am pleased that the Sessions-Leahy substitute adopted my approach to this issue and requires consultation with the Department of State.

I am glad the legislation which I and other Democratic Members of the Judiciary Committee originally introduced both last year and again on January 19 of this year, is finally being considered, and urge its prompt passage.

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the amendment be agreed to, the committee amendment be agreed to, as amended, the bill be read the third time, and that a motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements relating to the bill appear at this point in the Record.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 1226) was agreed to.

The committee amendment, as amended, was agreed to.

The bill (S. 768), as amended, was read the third time and passed.

S. 768

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

TITLE I SHORT TITLE

This Act may be cited as the "Military and Extraterritorial Jurisdiction Act of 1999".
SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Civilian employees of the Department of Defense, and civilian employees of Department of Defense contractors, provide critical support to the Armed Forces of the United States that are deployed during a contingency operation.

(2) Misconduct by such persons undermines good order and discipline in the Armed Forces, and jeopardizes the mission of the contingency operation.

(3) Military commanders need the legal tools to address adequately misconduct by civilians serving with Armed Forces during a contingency operation.

(4) In its present state, military law does not permit military commanders to address adequately misconduct by civilians serving with the Armed Forces in places designated by the Secretary of Defense as a "contingency operation" expressly designated as such by the Secretary of Defense.

(5) To address this need, the Uniform Code of Military Justice should be amended to provide for court-martial jurisdiction over civilians serving with Armed Forces in places designated by the Secretary of Defense as a "contingency operation" expressly designated as such by the Secretary of Defense.

(6) This limited extension of court-martial jurisdiction to civilians is dictated by military necessity, is within the constitutional powers of Congress to make rules for the government of the Armed Forces, and, therefore, is consistent with the Constitution of the United States and United States public policy.

(7) Many thousand civilian employees of the Department of Defense, civilian employees of Department of Defense contractors, and civilian dependents accompany the Armed Forces to installations in foreign countries.

(8) Misconduct among such civilians has been a longstanding problem for military commanders and other United States officials in foreign countries, and threatens United States citizens, United States property, and United States relations with host countries.

(9) Federal criminal law does not apply to many offenses committed outside of the United States by such civilians and, because host states do not prosecute such offenses, serious crimes often go unpunished and, to address this jurisdictional gap, Federal law should be amended to punish serious offenses committed by such civilians outside the United States, to the same extent as if those offenses were committed within the special maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States.

(10) Federal law does not apply to many crimes committed outside the United States by members of the Armed Forces who separate from the Armed Forces before they can be identified, thus escaping court-martial jurisdiction and, to address this jurisdictional gap, Federal law should be amended to punish such offenses committed by persons outside the United States, to the same extent as if those offenses were committed within the special maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States.

SEC. 3. COURT-MARTIAL JURISDICTION.

(a) JURISDICTION DURING CONTINGENCY OPERATIONS.—Section 802(a) of title 10, United States Code, (article 2a) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, is amended by inserting after paragraph (12) the following:

"(13) To the extent not covered by paragraphs (1) through (12) or (14) of this section, persons not members of the armed forces who, in support of a contingency operation described in section 101(a)(13)(B) of this title, are serving with and accompanying the Armed Forces in places or places outside the United States specified by the Secretary of Defense, as follows:

(A) Employees of the Department of Defense.

(B) Employees of any Department of Defense contractor who are so serving in connection with performance of a Department of Defense contract.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act and apply with respect to acts or omissions occurring on or after that date.

SEC. 4. FEDERAL JURISDICTION.

(a) CRIMINAL OFFENSES COMMITTED OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES.—Title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting after chapter 211 the following:

"CHAPTER 212—CRIMINAL OFFENSES COMMITTED OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES

"Sec. 261. Criminal offenses committed by persons formery serving with, or presently employed by or accompanying, the Armed Forces outside the United States.

"Sec. 262. Delivery to authorities of foreign countries.

"Sec. 263. Regulations.

"Sec. 264. Definitions.

"§ 3261. Criminal offenses committed by persons formerly serving with, or presently employed by or accompanying the Armed Forces outside the United States.

"(a) GENERAL.—Whoever, while serving with, employed by, or accompanying the Armed Forces outside of the United States, does an act that constitutes a criminal offense under the laws of the country in which the person was acting, shall be guilty of a like offense and subject to like punishment.

"(b) CONCURRENT JURISDICTION.—Nothing in this chapter may be construed to deprive a court-martial, military commission, provost court, or other military tribunal of concurrent jurisdiction with respect to offenses committed by or against such persons.

"(c) PROSECUTION OF FOREIGN GOVERNMENT.—No prosecution may be commenced against a person under this section if a foreign government, in accordance with jurisdiction recognized under international agreements, provost court, or other military tribunal of concurrent jurisdiction with respect to offenses committed by or against such persons.

"(d) CRIMINAL OFFENSES COMMITTED BY PERSONS WHOSE SERVICE WAS IN CONNECTION WITH MILITARY COMMISSIONS.—(1) A person is `accompanying the Armed Forces' if the person—

"(i) is a member of the Armed Forces;

"(ii) is resident with such member, civilian employee, contractor, or employee of a Department of Defense contractor; or

"(iii) is a Department of Defense contractor or an employee of a Department of Defense contractor;

"(2) is residing with such member, civilian employee, contractor, or employee outside the United States; and

"(3) is not a national of or ordinarily resident in the host nation.

"(2) In this chapter—

"(A) a person is `accompanying the Armed Forces outside of the United States' if the person—

"(i) is a dependent of—

"(I) a member of the Armed Forces;

"(II) a civilian employee of a military department or of the Department of Defense;

"(III) a Department of Defense contractor or employee of a Department of Defense contractor; or

"(B) is residing with such member, civilian employee, contractor, or employee outside the United States, and

"(C) is not a national of or ordinarily resident in the host nation.

"(3) The term `Armed Forces' has the same meaning as in section 101(a)(4) of title 10, and—

"(A) is a Department of Defense contractor; or

"(B) is residing outside of the United States in connection with such employment; and

"(C) is not a national of or ordinarily resident in the host nation.

"(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of chapters at the beginning of part I of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to chapter 211 the following:

"(1) A person is delivered to authorities of a foreign country under section 3262; or

"(2) A person has had charges brought against him or her under chapter 47 of title 10 for such conduct.
CONDEMNING ACTS OF ARSON AT SACRAMENTO, CA, SYNAGOGUES

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of S. Res. 136, introduced earlier today by Senators BOXER and FEINSTEIN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 136) condemning the acts of arson at three Sacramento, CA, synagogues on June 18, 1999, and calling on all Americans to categorically reject crimes of hate and intolerance.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I rise today to join my friend and colleague, Senator BARBARA BOXER, to introduce a Sense of the Senate Resolution condemning the acts of arson at three Sacramento, California synagogues on June 18, 1999. The resolution also calls on all Americans to categorically reject crimes of hate and intolerance.

I believe this measure is important not only to the Sacramento community but also to all Americans who abhor intolerance.

I was shocked and saddened when I first heard the news that three synagogues in Sacramento had been targeted by arsonists. Committed just a few hours before dawn, this heinous attack was carried out over a 45 minute time span signaling to us that this was deliberate and premeditated act.

In that time, $1.2 million in damage was done to the Congregation B’nai Israel, Congregation Beth Shalom and the Knesset Israel Torah Center. While the loss to the property is severe, no dollar amount can reflect the true damage done when hateful crimes such as these strike at the heart of a community.

Mr. President, I believe it is tragic that even though we have made significant progress to increase tolerance in this nation that such vicious hate crimes continue to be committed.

This resolution expresses our resolve to ensure that such acts of ignorance and bigotry will not be tolerated in this nation and those who commit them will face swift justice. While the resolution condemns these specific acts of arson in the Sacramento area, it also declares our collective abhorrence to all crimes of intolerance.

The resolution also says that the Senate is committed to using Federal law enforcement personnel and resources to identify the persons who committed these heinous acts and brings them to justice in a swift and deliberate manner. It also recognizes and applauds the residents of Sacramento area who have so quickly joined together to lend support and assistance to the victims of these despicable crimes, and remains committed to preserving the freedom of religion of all members of the community.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution and preamble be agreed to, en bloc, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table and any statements be printed in the Record.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 136) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

Whereas on the evening of June 18, 1999, in Sacramento, California, the Congregation B’nai Israel, Congregation Beth Shalom, and Knesset Israel Torah Center were victims of malicious and cowardly acts of arson;

Whereas such crimes against our institutions of faith are crimes against us all;

Whereas we have celebrated since our Nation’s birth the rich and colorful diversity of its people, and the sanctity of a free and democratic society;

Whereas the liberties Americans enjoy are attributed in large part to the courage and determination of visionaries who made great strides in overcoming the barriers of oppression, intolerance, and discrimination in order to ensure fair and equal treatment for every American by every American;

Whereas this type of behavior is a direct assault upon the fundamental rights of all Americans who cherish their freedom of religion and;

Whereas every Member of Congress serves in part as a role model and bears a responsibility to protect and honor the multitude of cultural institutions and traditions we enjoy in the United States of America: Now, therefore, be it Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) condemns the crimes that occurred in Sacramento, California and the Congregation B’nai Israel, Congregation Beth Shalom, and Knesset Israel Torah Center on the evening of June 18, 1999;

(2) rejects such acts of intolerance and malice in our society and interprets such attacks on our cultural institutions and traditions as an attack on all Americans;

(3) in the strongest terms possible, is committed to using Federal law enforcement personnel and resources pursuant to existing authority to find and bring to justice those who committed these heinous acts and bring them to justice in a swift and deliberate manner;

(4) recognizes and applauds the residents of the Sacramento, California, area who have so quickly joined together to lend support and assistance to the victims of these despicable crimes, and remain committed to preserving the freedom of religion of all members of the community; and

(5) calls upon all Americans to categorically reject similar acts of hate and intolerance.

NOMINATION OF TIMOTHY FIELDS, JR.
Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I am pleased to support the nomination of a fellow Virginian, Timothy Fields, Jr., to be the Assistant Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). When I look back over Mr. Fields' dedication to public service including 28 years at the EPA as well as the strong educational background he received at one of our nation's most selective colleges and a great source of pride for my home state of Virginia, Virginia Tech University, I say to my colleagues in the Senate and the President that the EPA Administrator selected wisely.

We are fortunate that a man of this caliber and distinction is willing to devote himself to public service. Rarely have we had a nominee come before the Senate and Public Works Committee, on which I am privileged to serve, with so much direct experience to qualify himself for the job. Mr. Fields comes before us not from a political background but from the field of engineering.

Here are some highlights: upon graduating from Virginia Tech, Mr. Fields received a masters degree from George Washington University and has studied...
THANKS TO THE MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I thank the distinguished Republican leader for his willingness to have a session on tomorrow in order that I and other Senators might make speeches which we have not had an opportunity to give during the previous busy days of this week. But I thought it better, if it could be done, that we complete our speeches today and not cause the Senate to have to be in session tomorrow.

I did want to thank the majority leader for his willingness to have the Senate come in.

Mr. President, I thank those who have stayed to listen, and may God bless all the Members of this body and all the staff people who work to help us to serve our constituents. May he continue to bless this great country, and may we as Americans never forget that this Fiery has been a favorite in God's masterful design. God bless America.

I yield the floor.

ACCESS TO NETWORK STATIONS VIA SATELLITE TELEVISION

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I urge the conferees to complete action so that Congress can quickly enact this legislation to provide relief to the many people throughout West Virginia and the Nation.

I apologize to all officers, Senator's aides and Members of the staff for the late hour, but I think that is perhaps better than being in session tomorrow.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I take this time to call the attention of our colleagues and our viewers to the forthcoming Independence Day, July 4.

What is July 4 all about? The Declaration of Independence in U.S. history was a document that proclaimed the freedom of the Thirteen Colonies from British rule. It was the first formal pronouncement by an organized body of people of the right to govern by choice.

On July 2, 1776, the Second Continental Congress, meeting in Philadelphia, approved Richard Henry Lee's motion for independence, and on July 4—which later came to be celebrated as Independence Day—it approved the declaration. Signing of the declaration took place over the course of several months, beginning August 2. Ultimately, the signatories numbered 56.

The Declaration of Independence, written primarily by Thomas Jefferson, and modeled largely on the theories of a distant knowwledge of the rights of man and the doctrine of government by contract, which Congress insisted had been repeatedly violated by King George III.
Specific grievances were listed in support of the contention that the Colonies had the right and the duty to revoke. The declaration was paid little attention to at the time, but it proved influential in the 19th century, and in the United States has enjoyed an esteem bound only to the Federal Constitution.

Mr. President, all across the United States and in U.S. embassies around the world, lawns are being mowed and outdoor furnishing his being hosed off as Americans prepare to celebrate our biggest open air holiday, Independence Day. The fireworks stands have been doing brisk business selling everything from smoky uncoiling snakes to dazzling sparklers to rockets and fountains that shriek and pop as they dispense multicolored bursts of flame and sparks.

The one great constant in our national lexicon, it seems, is the Fourth of July. With some variations in the side enterprises relate to the appearance of spiced onions, sweet corn on the cob dripping with melted butter, and the most all-American treat of all, ice, icy cool, cold watermelon wedges that provide the ammunition for seed spitting contests. How great it is.

Whether eating with friends or family at a picnic site, in one's backyard, or tailgating at the football field, the festivities are followed by games to fill the endless wait until the skies darken and become a fitting backdrop for the big show of the day—the fireworks display.

As the sight of fireworks, those great blossoming stars of sparks that burst and then fall like rain from the sky, never fails to remind me of the words of the Star Spangled Banner, written by Francis Scott Key after witnessing the artillery bombardment of Fort McHenry during the War of 1812, and the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air, gave proof through the night that our flag was still there. . . .

Francis Scott Key was being held by the British, having sailed out to their fleet, staged off Baltimore, in an attempt to free a local doctor taken hostage earlier. The British officers did finally agree to free the doctor, but decided that Key and his companions had seen too much to be released into the custody of the British army.

The beauty and excitement of the fireworks that many of us will see this weekend, therefore, evokes for me the great battles that were fought to make our Nation free and to defend her from harm in those dangerous early years of the republic. It is the events from that era that I most fully appreciate the great risks hazarded by our forefathers when they declared independence from the Crown. They risked everything—their lives, their fortunes, their lands, their families, their sacred honor.

I recall Nathan Hale, who responded to the call of George Washington, the commander of the armies at Valley Forge. George Washington wanted someone to volunteer to go behind the British lines and draw pictures of the breastworks and bring them back to him, George Washington. It was a dangerous undertaking. It meant risking one's life. And so Nathan Hale, who was a twenty-year-old schoolteacher, volunteered. He went behind the British lines. He succeeded in what he had gone there to do, but the night before he planned to return to the American lines he was discovered and the papers were discovered on him, and they were brought before the scaffold. The British officer, whose name was Cunningham, and who denied Nathan Hale's last wish, his wish for a Bible, said to him: Have you anything to say?

Well, there at the foot of the scaffold, Nathan Hale could see the rough-hewn wooden coffin in which his body would soon lie. He said, "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country." Think of that. "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

That is the kind of patriot who gave this country its independence, and many of us can't even give our country one vote on election day. What a pitiful country we are if we cannot even go to the polls on election day when we don't bother to go to the polls. Whether we are Democrats or Republicans or Independents, we should owe that much, that much to our country and to the memory of Nathan Hale.

I talk to our young pages here and sometimes I borrow a history book from those who are here when they are attending school. I want to see what kind of history books they are reading in this day and time. When I was talking with these young pages a few days ago, I said, Who was Nathan Hale? Who here knows, who can tell me about Nathan Hale?

Well, sorrowfully, many of the history books that I read today don't even mention Nathan Hale's name. Those are not history books. They are social science textbooks. Nathan Hale; and so he said, "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

Those men and women risked everything, as I say—their lives, their fortunes, their lands, their families, their sacred honor, even the populations in the States they represented—when they boldly inked their names on the Declaration of Independence.

In the percussive thuds and whistling screams of today's fireworks I can hear—Can you hear?—the distant thunder of cannons and the crack of flintlocks as the first major land battle of the Revolutionary War was pitched at Point Pleasant, West Virginia. When I see the great fireworks displays put on here in the Nation's capital, I see the shadows of the Capitol dome consumed in flames, as it was in August 1814. If I look out on the Potomac ac dotted with pleasure craft bobbing gently at anchor as still more people enjoy the fireworks, I can easily imagine General George Washington and his ragged Army struggling to cross the Delaware River for their daring Christmas day raid in the bitter cold of December 1776. And when I catch the scent of black powder drifting by as the night sky grows cloudy with the smoke from the explosions, I get the tingling sensation that those men and women have accompanied every soldier awaiting advancing Redcoats at Lexington and Concord.

What courage and what bravery were displayed by the patriots of the fledgling Nation, when first they undertook to break away from Great Britain. What great good fortune I, and everyone else who is listening, have, to be able to enjoy the fruits of their boldness, their courage, their willingness to give their lives. From coast to coast this weekend, we are able to freely gather, to celebrate, to rejoice, and, yes, to watch fireworks in a peaceful imitation of those perilous days over twenty decades ago. In this great land of freedom, our forefathers, in this day and time, do we not hold every contest even far less exact than weath-

We are a great and prosperous nation. We ought to thank God for his watchfulness over us, for the blessings of liberty. My thanks also go to those men and women who today guard our freedom and who offer hope to others who fear the loss of their liberty, their lives, and their families.

I thank Nathan Hale who died on September 22, 1776, and who willingly would have died many times for his country.

We are a great and prosperous nation. We ought to thank God for his watchfulness over our blessings, as he has showered upon our great country from its beginning, even before the Republic was instituted.

Just this week we have learned anew how prosperous we are, as the administration heralded new long-term estimates that paint a very bright economic picture of rising surpluses and falling debt. I must confess I am pretty wary of economic estimates. That is a science even far less exact than weather forecasting or even, it seems, astrology. It does seem clear that for the near term, at least, we may expect a small on-budget surplus that was not previously anticipated. I urge that we Senators support an effort to designate a substantial portion of these newly found resources to the Department of Veterans Affairs in order to support veterans health care. I have talked to my good friend and colleague, Mr. Stevens, the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and we are in agreement. But the fact that agreement does not mean that the matter is settled. We have a tough uphill battle before us.
Veterans health care, a promise of lifetime care made to everyone who serves faithfully and well in the defense of our Nation, faces a funding crisis that threatens the quality and continuity of the health care that these men and women have come to depend upon. Veterans service organizations and others knowledgeable about the needs of America’s veterans have pointed out that the fiscal year 2000 budget request for veterans health care is far below what is needed to meet demand and to allow the Veterans Administration to respond to new requirements levied by Congress. The budget resolution conference report adopted by the Congress earlier this year made a commitment to provide additional funds for veterans health care, but a budget resolution is a nonbinding document. Platitudes, good intentions, and fireworks do not pay doctor’s bills. The funding caps passed by Congress have hamstrung, unable to provide more funding for this and other worthy causes. But now, if additional surpluses not associated with Social Security become available, I believe that we should try hard to honor our commitment made in the budget resolution, and honor our debt to the veterans who, in the spirit of those patriots of the Revolution, dared much, risked much, and sacrificed much that we might enjoy the blessings of freedom. They treasure our country and honor it with their service and their blood. I feel certain that my colleagues share with me a commitment to our Nation’s veterans that is stronger and deeper than any allegiance to an arbitrary budget figure or cap that is based on a very different set of economic assumptions.

Mr. President, I have been fortunate to have traveled across the globe. I have seen many other lovely and ancient places, from Rome to Cairo to London to Tokyo to Moscow to that great crossroads of east and west that is Istanbul. I met warm and charming people in all these places and more. But, like Americans who will gather in far flung outposts around the globe next Monday to toast their homeland, and on Sunday to fly that flag in front of our homes, I am always glad to come home. No spot on earth calls to me like the mountains of my home, West Virginia, where the ground rises to meet my feet and the trees spread dappled umbrellas to shade me from the Sun; where glittering rivulets of clear, cold water flash like gems set in a verdant tapestry of ferns; and where birdsongs chime the hours away. In a gentle eternal symphony, raindrops hitting leaves provide the timpani and wind through the tossing branches serves as strings. The woodwind notes of mourning doves gently welcome the Sun each morning and whippoorwills pipe its setting in the evening. It is music for the heart as well as for the ears.

Nowhere are the people more dear to me than in West Virginia, where church doors are always ready to welcome the traveler and where in grocery stores there are clerks who still greet me by name and ask about my family. West Virginians are a proud people, proud of their heritage, proud of their home State. Wherever you may find them around the world—and I have found them in Afghanistan, in India, all across the globe—they are always proud to proclaim themselves Mountainers.

I close with a favorite poem of mine by Henry van Dyke, “America for Me”:

Oh, it’s home again, and home again, America for me!
I want a ship that’s westward bound to plough the rolling sea,
And Paris is a woman’s town, with flowers in her hair;
And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

But when it comes to living there is just no place like home.

I like the German fir-woods, in green battalions drilled;

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

But, oh, to take your hand, my dear, and ramble for a day

In the friendly western woodland where Nature has her way!

I know that Europe’s wonderful, yet something seems to lack:

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

The Past is too much with her, and the people looking back.

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

But the glory of the Present is to make the Future free,—

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

We love our land for what she is and what she is to be.

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

So it’s home again, and home again, America for me!

But now I think I’ve had enough of antiquated things.

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

To admire the crumbly castles and the statues of the kings,—

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

But now I think I’ve had enough of antiquated things.

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

Among the famous palaces and cities of renown,

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

To plough the rolling sea,

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

Oh, London is a man’s town, there’s power in the air;

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars.

And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study in Rome

For America is my land, and the world is my home.
Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, today in Armenia, the spiritual leader of the Armenian Apostolic Church passed away after a serious illness. I was saddened to learn of the death of His Holiness Karekin I, the Catholics of the Armenian Church.

Elected as the 131st leader of the Armenian Church following the death of Vazgen I in 1995, Karekin I called for a peaceful solution and understanding between people of different faiths. As a HUD executive he was writing programs that would clean up the `community builders' job description. HUD Secretary Andrew Cuomo, who announced the program in March of 1998, dubbed these `fellows' an `urban Peace Corps'--knowledgeable professionals from private industry, social services, other branches of government and elsewhere temporarily added to a HUD talent pool that has been winnowed through years of budget cuts.

Karen Miller, who heads HUD's mid-Atlantic region, which helped write the `community builders' job description.

What has been expected of HUD's staff was schizophrenic," she said. HUD bureaucrats with the `cops' who guarded public dollars, she said, while at the same time they were expected to offer technical assistance to the people being monitored. "The Secret Service separated the two roles," she said. "The great majority of HUD employees are still defenders of public dollars," involved in awarding grants, monitoring applications through the system and monitoring spending.

"Community builders are the ones who go out and work with the community and help them do what they want and need to do," she said.

In almost two decades as a Washington-based bureaucrat, Levine said, HUD departments have been the embodiment of the national aspirations of the Armenian people.

As HUD and are now getting a chance to see their work in action.

In Washington, he had administered and worked on a program offering public-housing tenant councils $100,000 grants to develop job opportunities. "They didn't want to spend the money for fear of getting into trouble," Levine said.

Now, as a community builder, he's helping bring together public and private sources to create computer centers at public housing developments. "A computer center is a place where children can go after school, where adults can get the literacy they need," he said.

"When I ran that program in Washington I didn't see the money being used that way. You get a different perspective. You don't re-interpret the nuances. "It's not like I learned any big new things to shock me. But things are much clearer now."

Before she met Jetter, Nancy Saldana, project coordinator for the Pennsylvania Action Coalition for Disability Rights in Housing, generally found herself fighting to get HUD to listen.

Jetter has been "a terrific person to work with," Saldana said. "She says she's going to do, she does. She has the knowledge; she has the understanding of housing; she has the understanding about HUD. She understands how the system overwhelms people."

In addition to meeting with groups that usually come to HUD with complaints. Jetter is bringing together people who work on housing for veterans and disabled and homeless people. She also is trying to organize a tracking method to keep up with who needs services and who's receiving them.

"We need to track the impact of programs [and] track housing, and we can better address the needs of the population." She said.

Jetter worked for HUD for 14 years before taking over as head of resident services at the Philadelphia Housing Authority. She left then for a research chair at the New York Demonstration Research Corp. in New York. Last fall, she rejoined HUD as a community builder. When Jetter left HUD, she thought she'd never go back. For most of her years with the agency, she felt it was growing farther away from the people it served.

"The Secret Service separated the two roles," she said. "This is a big step for HUD to take people in from the outside. And the response has been overwhelming. P.R. for HUD is a big part of it. We go to every meeting we can, try to be a visible as possible. After a meeting, people are almost knocking you down to get your card."

"We used to be the ones who said 'Gotchla! Now people can talk to us before they get into trouble." Carpenter, who formerly headed the New Kensington Community Development Corp., where he won praise for clearing and reusing vacant lots, joined HUD last summer. In this job, he's been able to get inside the field to see firsthand what he was planning and administering.

"About half the community builders are like Levine, people who had worked inside working together earlier this year, hoping to obtain funding to design projects for property acquisition and housing preservation.

Carpenter, according to Santiago Burgos, director of the American Street Empowerment Zone in North Philadelphia, was able to help people working in the area “think through to design a project to consolidate those goals.” Carpenter helped them see that they needed money for pre-development and environmental testing. Their improving planning made it easier to identify and get funding, Burgos said.

In addition, Carpenter brought in the right people as advisers and consultants, Burgos said, and “shortened the learning curve” for the community people, moving things forward faster.

Such projects are close to Carpenter’s heart. “Frankly, it’s one of Philadelphia’s biggest disgraces—what happens to vacant land once the building is torn down. The city essentially abdicates responsibility. They do not clean it, they do not maintain it, they do not cite the owners for not maintaining it.”

“For a developer driving by here, the first gut-reckoning reaction is, ‘Why would I even build here if the people who live here tolerate this? What would they do to my store? What would they do to my business?’

Although the problem is vast, Carpenter said—in the city there are about 40,000 vacant buildings and 30,000 vacant lots, most privately owned—he thinks it can be tackled.

“Having the HUD seal of approval gets people to listen to me,” he said.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION
HON. J.C. WATTS, JR.
OF OKLAHOMA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, June 30, 1999

Mr. WATTS of Oklahoma, Mr. Speaker, I was granted a leave of absence for Monday, June 29, 1999. Following are the Suspension votes I missed and how I would have voted:

- On Passage of H. Con. Res. 94: On rollcall vote No. 259, I would have voted “yea.”
- On Passage of H. Res. 226: On rollcall vote No. 258, I would have voted “yea.”
- On Passage of H.R. 2280: On rollcall vote No. 257, I would have voted “yea.”

Lastly, I would have voted “yea” for H.J. Res. 34; H.R. 1568; H.R. 2014 and H.R. 1327 all passed by voice vote.

IN RECOGNITION OF COACH RAY SMOOT ON THE OCCASION OF HIS RETIREMENT AFTER 41 YEARS AS A TEACHER, COACH AND PRINCIPAL
HON. BOB RILEY
OF ALABAMA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, June 30, 1999

Mr. RILEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Coach Ray Smoot on the occasion of his retirement from a teaching career that has spanned 41 years.

Ray Smoot has served children from kindergarten through high school. He has been a teacher, a coach, and a principal. Today, he will retire as Principal of Talladega High School in Talladega, AL.

Ray Smoot had to work hard for his education, and he has always promoted the importance of education. He might have chosen another field, but he wanted to teach. Now he can take pride in knowing that he has made a difference in the lives of so many people, helping them to see the value of education and realize their potential.

I salute Ray Smoot on his outstanding career.

IN HONOR OF VINCENZO MELENZIO
HON. PAUL RYAN OF WISCONSIN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, June 30, 1999

Mr. RYAN of Wisconsin, Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Vincenzo Melenzio for his assistance to the United States forces during World War II.

Mr. Melenzio, or “Enzo,” was an Italian navy radioman who after the Germans had taken over the Italian Government, defected and volunteered for action against the Germans with the Office of Strategic Services (OSS).

Mr. Melenzio was employed by the OSS for four months in the winter of 1945 as a behind- lines radio operator. He served with the OSS 2767th Regiment along with approximately 750 Italian partisan led by 9–10 Americans.

On May 11, 1945, Mr. Melenzio received a certificate of appreciation for his services from Col. Russell D. Livermore, commander of all Special Operations Units in the Mediterranean area. Furthermore, the United States Army, in a memo to the Italian Navy, recommended Mr. Melenzio for the bronze medal.

It is appropriate that Mr. Melenzio be recognized for his bravery, and for his service to both the United States, and to the international community at large.

THE HOLOCAUST ASSETS COMMISSION EXTENSION ACT
HON. RICK LAZIO
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, June 30, 1999

Mr. LAZIO. Mr. Speaker, as we approach the new millennium, it is right and proper that this Commission to receive additional funding. I am joined today by my colleagues on the Commission: Chairman JIM LITTLE, who has led the House Banking Committee, and Banking Chairman NICK BILIRIS, as well as JOHN LAFAULCE of Wisconsin, and Owners of the Senate Banking Committee. Chairman NICK BILIRIS, who has the opportunity to look at the immediate post-World War II period with a fresh eye.

Even if the world were so inclined, it is now impossible to pretend that justice was done. We know too much. We know that in Europe banks sat on dormant accounts for five decades; that insurance companies evaded their responsibilities to hundreds of thousands of Holocaust victims; that unscrupulous art dealers sold paintings that were extorted from Jews who feared for their lives; and that gold from Holocaust victims was resmelting, often becoming the basis for financial dealings between large corporate entities.

The Holocaust Commission Act assumes a sunset date of December 1999. Because of the delay in starting a new enterprise from scratch and because of the enormous volume of archival and other resources that need to be examined, it is clear that the commission must have more time and more funding to accomplish its mission.

Therefore, in acknowledgment of this need, I am introducing the Holocaust Commission Extension Act. This act will do two things: extend the sunset of the Commission to December 2000 and authorize the Commission to receive additional funding. I am joined today by my colleagues on the Commission: Chairman BEN GILMAN, JIM MALONEY and BRAD SHEARMAN, as well as JOHN LAFAULCE of Wisconsin and Owners of the Senate Banking Committee Chairman NICK BILIRIS, who has led this effort on the Senate side. The extension of the commission is required to accomplish its mission.

We are all familiar with George Santayana’s famous quote—“Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it.” With this quote comes the unspoken prerequisite: the truth must be established and acknowledged before it can be remembered. The United States, along with every other nation, must therefore remember the Holocaust as sets in the United States. The Commission has two goals. The first is to conduct original historical research into the question of what happened to the assets of Holocaust victims that came into the “possession or control” of the Federal Government. This research will also include a review of work done by others looking into the matter of assets passed into non-Federal hands, commodities that included gold, non-gold financial assets, and art and cultural property. The second is to recommend to the President the appropriate future action necessary to bring closure to this issue.

As a member of the Commission, I feel compelled to address the question, “why now?” Why, as we look forward to the new millennium, are the resources of the United States and 17 other nations being devoted to learning the truth about the treatment of Holocaust victims half a century ago?

The answer is simple. Holocaust survivors are aging—and dying. If we are ever to do justice to them and the memory of the six million Jews and millions of other victims who perished, we must act in ignorance of the Swiss and others has inflamed passions and energized advocates throughout the world. Justice delayed is justice denied. And with the end of the Cold War, we have the opportunity to look at the immediate post-World War II period with a fresh eye.

The Commission Act does not recognize the truth about the Holocaust. It is not possible to pretend that justice was done. We know too much. We know that in Europe banks sat on dormant accounts for five decades; that insurance companies evaded their responsibilities to hundreds of thousands of victims; that unscrupulous art dealers sold paintings that were extorted from Jews who feared for their lives; and that gold from Holocaust victims was resmelting, often becoming the basis for financial dealings between large corporate entities.

The Commission Act assumes a sunset date of December 1999. Because of the delay in starting a new enterprise from scratch and because of the enormous volume of archival and other resources that need to be examined, it is clear that the commission must have more time and more funding to accomplish its mission.

Therefore, in acknowledgment of this need, I am introducing the Holocaust Commission Extension Act. This act will do two things: extend the sunset of the Commission to December 2000 and authorize the Commission to receive additional funding. I am joined today by my colleagues on the Commission: Chairman BEN GILMAN, JIM MALONEY and BRAD SHEARMAN, as well as JOHN LAFAULCE of Wisconsin and Owners of the Senate Banking Committee Chairman NICK BILIRIS, who has led this effort on the Senate side. The extension of the commission is required to accomplish its mission.

We are all familiar with George Santayana’s famous quote—“Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it.” With this quote comes the unspoken prerequisite: the truth must be established and acknowledged before it can be remembered. The United States, along with every other nation, must therefore remember the Holocaust as...
began history and as an unfolding of human tragedy. I am confident that the Commission’s efforts will demonstrate that as Americans we are willing to confront our own past, and in so doing, we will demonstrate our leadership in the international effort to obtain justice for the victims of the Holocaust and their families.

NAFTA–TAA

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, June 30, 1999

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, the authorizations for the Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) program and the NAFTA Trade Adjustment Assistance (NAFTA–TAA) program expire today, June 30, 1999. Accordingly, I am introducing legislation to reauthorize the programs through fiscal year 2001. There should be no gap in the authorizations for these vitally important programs, which have long enjoyed bipartisan support.

Efforts to increase the participation of the United States in global trade are essential to the continued growth of our economy. However, when increased trade is a cause of dislocation for some U.S. workers and firms, we must be prepared to respond. The TAA programs are the cornerstone of our longstanding efforts to cushion the impact of the blow for employees and businesses who have been harmed by imports. Most important, TAA provides retraining and technical assistance so that these workers and firms can thrive in the new economy.

A number of reforms in the TAA programs have been proposed recently. The legislation that I am introducing today is intended to continue these programs as their Congressional authorization is set to expire. However, the bill is not meant to preclude important discussions of broader, systemic changes.

CELEBRATING THE FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE WEST ANGELES COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION

HON. JULIAN C. DIXON
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, June 30, 1999

Mr. DIXON. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the West Angeles Community Development Corporation (CDC). This thriving community development organization was founded in 1994 as an outreach program of the West Angeles Church of God in Christ, a 15,000 member congregation in the Crenshaw area, located in my Congressional District. The West Angeles CDC is dedicated to economic empowerment, social justice, and community transformation for its surrounding South Los Angeles area.

The West Angeles CDC has achieved success in developing a school-based training program in peer mediation named Peace-Makers, launching a job placement assistance program, providing renters’ assistance and case management services to families displaced from housing, and providing emergency food assistance to those in need. In addition, the CDC recently built the West A Homes, a 44-unit apartment complex for large low-income families.

In recognizing the significant outreach ministry of the West Angeles CDC, I must highlight the outstanding leadership of the organization’s distinguished Directors: Bishop Charles E. Blake, Pastor of the West Angeles Church; Lula Ballton, Esq., Executive Director of the CDC; Dr. Desiree Tillman-Jones, Chairperson of the Board; Mrs. Belinda Ann Bakkar; Mrs. Jueline Bleavins; Mr. Mack Bruins; Ms. Stasia Cato; Mrs. Nancy Harris; Mr. Harold T. Hunte; Mr. Janine Johnson-Welch; Ms. Nathalie Page; Ms. Sandra McBeth-Reynolds; Rev. Donald T. Paredes; Mr. Maurice Perry; Mr. Mark J. Robertson; Mr. Roy Sadakane; Mr. Paul H. Turner; and attorneys Patricia S. Cannon, Anne C. Myles-Smith, and Wyndell J. Wright. These dedicated individuals have selflessly fulfilled the vision of the West Angeles CDC by bringing compassion, hope, and healing to the Crenshaw community they serve.

The West Angeles CDC’s contributions to the South Los Angeles community have been invaluable. I congratulate them on their outstanding work and offer my best wishes for their continued success. With construction underway of a beautiful new West Angeles Cathedral, I am confident the West Angeles Church of God in Christ and the West Angeles Community Development Corporation can look forward to a long and prosperous future.

H.R. 2373, THE START-UP SUCCESS ACCOUNTS ACT OF 1999

HON. BRIAN BAIRD
OF WASHINGTON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, June 30, 1999

Mr. BAIRD. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to join my colleagues from South Carolina in the introduction of legislation that will give owners of newly formed small businesses a new way to channel capital into the growth of those businesses.

I am very excited to join my colleague, Mr. DeMint, in this effort. I’m pleased to serve alongside Mr. DeMint on the Small Business Committee and have found that we see eye-to-eye on so many issues of critical importance to small businesses in our respective states. I believe that we share a common interest of helping small businesses thrive in our nation, and this legislation is a step in that direction.

Mr. Speaker, Small businesses are the economic foundation of southwest Washington. As my colleague mentioned, they account for nearly all new jobs in our economy. However, a majority of those new small businesses fail in the first few years of existence—largely due to lack of capital.

As currently structured, the tax system seems to penalize capital retention. Certainly, it provides disincentives for small businesses to save, which I believe is misguided policy.

As one who grew up with small business owners, I am aware of the struggles that one goes through in trying to build a business. My folks owned a small clothing store as I was growing up, and went on to run a small ice-cream and sandwich shop. They certainly had their good years, and their bad and tried desperately to make ends meet during those less profitable years.

Mr. Speaker, this legislation, the Start-Up Success Accounts Act of 1999, would help our small businesses save for those rainy days; and it would allow them to take a more careful, considered approach to investing in the growth of their business. It would allow business owners to set aside up to 20 percent of their profits in more successful years and defer tax on those profits until later years, this bill would put another instrument in the toolbelt of small business owners, who need all the help that we can provide.

Giving small businesses a fighting chance to succeed isn’t a Democratic issue or a Republican issue—it’s an American Issue. It’s the common sense thing to do, and I am proud to join with my colleague in drafting and introducing this bill. I think that this forward-looking legislation will appeal to our colleagues on both sides of the aisle who see the simple benefits of promoting savings.

CIVIL ASSET FORFEITURE REFORM ACT

SPeECH OF
HON. PATSY T. MINK
OF HAWAII
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 24, 1999

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 1658) to provide a more just and uniform procedure for Federal civil forfeitures, and for other purposes:

Mrs. MINK of Hawaii. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of H.R. 1658, the Civil Asset Forfeiture Reform Act.

The Constitution is the foundation of our great nation. From an early age we are taught that we are entitled to basic rights and liberties, and we cherish these rights and protections afforded under our Constitution. When these rights are violated, we are quick to demand action and correction.

This is a time when we must demand action and correction. The current civil asset forfeiture laws abuse individual rights by denying basic due process.

Under current law, there are two kinds of forfeiture—criminal asset forfeiture and civil asset forfeiture. Under criminal asset forfeiture, if you are indicted and convicted of a crime, the government may seize your property if your property was used, however indirectly, in facilitating the crime for which you have been convicted.

I have no problem with that law. Not only is it a good deterrent against a number of crimes, but it does not deny anyone their Constitutional rights.

However, under civil asset forfeiture, the government can seize your property, regardless of the guilt or innocence of the property owner. The government can seize property merely by showing there is probable cause to believe that these assets have been part of some illegal activity. This means that even if there is no related criminal charge or conviction against the individual, the government may confiscate their property.

And property can be anything—your car, your home, your business. The government can take anything and everything premised on the weakest of criminal charges—probably cause.

Moreover, the current law gives little considereration to whether the forfeiture of the property results in a mere inconvenience to the owner, or jeopardizes the owner's business or livelihood.

To reclaim this property, no matter the inconvenience, the property owner must jump through a number of hoops.

First of which, the owner must pay a 10 percent cost bond or $5,000, whichever is less. For low-income people or for people who have been financially poor by this civil asset seizure, coming up with the money for this bond may be extremely difficult or impossible. This bond serves to discourage people from contesting the seizure.

If a property owner can come up with this money, he still has the burden of proof.

The government should have this burden. We are still "innocent until proven guilty." And under criminal law, that is the way it is. If someone is charged with a crime, the government has the burden to prove that the person is guilty.

However, under civil asset forfeiture, it is the exact opposite. The owner must prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that either the property was not connected to any wrongdoing or the owner did not know and did not consent to the property's illegal use.

And to top it off, if the owner succeeds in reclaiming his property, the government owes him nothing for his trouble—not even an apology.

H.R. 1658 calls for reforms that protect the rights of innocent citizens while still allowing the government to pursue criminals and their property. First, H.R. 1658 puts the burden of proof, by clear and convincing evidence, onto the government, where it should be. Second, it gives the judge the flexibility to release the property, pending the final disposition, if the confiscation of the property imposes a substantial hardship on the owner.

Under H.R. 1658, Judges also would be able to appoint counsel in civil forfeiture proceedings for our poorest citizens to ensure that they are protected from the government's exercise of power. Furthermore, property owners would no longer have to file a bond, and could sue if their property is damaged while in the government's possession.

In our haste to punish drug traffickers, Congress failed to adequately protect the rights of our citizens.

H.R. 1658 restores these protections and returns law enforcement in drug crimes to the basic tenets of criminal jurisprudence.

LEGISLATION TO OPEN PARTICI-PATION IN PRESIDENTIAL DE-BATES

HON. JAMES A. TRAFICANT, J.R.
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, today I am introducing legislation to open participation in presidential debates to all qualified candidates. I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

My bill amends the Federal Election Champaign Act of 1971 to organizations staging a presidential debate to invite all candidates that meet the following criteria: the candidate must meet all Constitutional requirements for being President (e.g., at least 35 years of age, born in the United States), the candidate must have qualified for the ballot in enough states such that the candidate has a mathematical chance of receiving the minimum number of electoral votes necessary for election, and the candidate must qualify to be eligible for matching payments from the Presidential Election Campaign Fund.

This legislation will ensure that in a presidential election campaign the American people get an opportunity to see and hear from all of the qualified candidates for presidential. Stag-aging organizations should not be given the subjective authority to bar a qualified candidate from participation in a presidential debate simply because a subjective judgement has been made the candidate does not have a reasonable chance of winning the election.

The American people should be given the opportunity to decide for themselves whether or not a candidate has a chance to be elected president. I think much is at stake in a presidential election. A presidential election isn't just a contest between individual candidates. It is a contest between different ideas, policies and ideologies. At a time when our country is facing many complex problems, the American people should have the opportunity to be exposed to as many ideas, policies and proposals as possible in a presidential election campaign. My bill will ensure that this happens. It will give the American people an opportunity to hear new and different ideas and proposals on how to address the problems facing our nation. I have confidence that the American people are wise enough to make a sound decision.

Some of the basic principles America was founded on was freedom of speech and freedom of ideas. I was deeply disappointed that in the 1988 presidential campaign, the ideas of qualified candidates for president were not allowed to be heard by the American people during the presidential debates. It is my hope that Congress will pass my legislation and ensure that the un-American practice of silencing qualified candidates for president is permanently put to a stop. Once again, I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

TRIBUTE TO THEODORE "TED" JAMES

HON. SCOTT MCMINNIS
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. McMinnis. Mr. Speaker, it is with a great deal of sadness that I take a moment to recognize the remarkable life and significant achievements of one of Larimer County's leading business men. Theodore "Ted" James. An entrepreneur and developer of Grand Lake Lodge and Hidden Valley Ski Area, Mr. James died at his home on June 8 in Estes Park, CO. While family, friends and colleagues remember the truly exceptional life of Mr. James, I too would like to pay tribute to this remarkable man. Mr. James was a resident of Estes Park for 46 years; moving to Larimer County in 1953 to run sightseeing buses, two lodges, and a store in Rocky Mountain National Park. During his time in Estes Park, Ted was the president and manager of the Hidden Valley Ski Area, Trail Ridge Store, Gran Lake Lodge, and the Estes Park Inn.

A graduate from Greeley High School, Ted attended the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. During his college career, Mr. James received numerous football awards and was selected by Knute Rockne for the All-West football team. Upon graduating college, with a bachelor's degree in business, Ted played football for the Franklin, P.A., Yellowjackets, now known as the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League. Many years later, Mr. James was inducted to the Nebraska Hall of Fame at Memorial Stadium.

In 1947, Mr. James was instrumental in merging the Burlington Bus Co. and American Bus Lines to create American Bus Lines in Chicago. With previous experience as the manager of the Greeley Transportation Co., Ted was immediately offered a job as the president and general manager of American Bus Lines Chicago branch.

In 1956, Mr. James was given the opportunity to develop Hidden Valley Ski Area by the Larimer County Park Service. He was a park concessionaire for Hidden Valley, Grand Lake Lodge, and the Trail Ridge Store, as well as operating the Estes Park Chalet.

Mr. James was a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity; Scottish Rite and Estes Park Knights of the Belt Buckle. He was commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America in Denver, president of Ski Country USA, and member and director of Denver Country Club.

Although his professional accomplishments will long be remembered, most who knew him well will remember Ted James as a hard working, dedicated, and compassionate man. I would like to extend my deepest sympathy to the family and friends of Mr. James for their profound loss.

ISSUES FACING OUR YOUNG PEOPLE TODAY

HON. BERNARD SANDERS
OF VERMONT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to submit for the RECORD these statements by high school students from my home State of Vermont, who were speaking at my recent town meeting on issues facing young people today.

CHILD CARE IN VERMONT
(On behalf of Jody Foster, David Verge, Alicia Norris and Bobby Colone)

David Verge: Our issue is about child care in Vermont, and with the young people because a lot of the younger people are having kids now. According to child care funds in Vermont, a family could not afford care in 75 percent of the homes or any center. Vermont child care subsidy is at too low of a rate, only $83.70 for field time centers, and $67.45 for full-time care and home care. People of low income levels can only make up the difference that the state does not pay.

If they want to come and encourage people to work by going to school, they need to make it worthwhile. If you are working and your whole paycheck is going to the cost of day care, then what is the point of working? Youth Build needs a day care, because 11 people out of, I’d say, about 33 people have kids already, and we would like if we could try to open child care around Vermont so people can get their educations, and for the people that drop out of high school, because they don’t have the money to pay for child care. We would like to see more people graduate than drop out, because we have the lowest dropout rate, from what I understand, and we are just trying to fix it, because a lot of us want to become something greater. All of this will not look down on us and can think of something of us. You know, a lot of us are just not willing to work with it, because we have to take care of our kids and keep our lives plus other things that we need for essential needs for babies, us, and it is really hard.

Congressman Sanders: You are doing great, Dave.

Alicia Norris: I think a lot of it is, we all students and we all either have children or are having children. Two of us have kids already, and our whole paycheck from Youth Build goes straight to day care. I mean, we have no money for expenses, for diapers or anything. And it is hard to find good day care when it is $150 a week, and that is really expensive. That makes it really hard, because we want to go to school. And in order to do that, students don’t get the help they need so they can go back to school, because they are trying to better their lives and make their lives better for them.

Jody Foster: Some of our changes would include maybe a special subsidy for parents that are going back to school or working, and benefit their income level. It higher income level for state help for child care.

Alicia Norris: And just employers helping out for their employees, to give them day care, or to either provide day care, like the hospital does, or to help with the funds for it.

Congressman Sanders: Well, you guys have touched on an enormously important subject, and you have done a great job making that presentation.

Democracy and Child Labor

(On behalf of Matt Sheldon and Emily Webster)

Matt Sheldon: My presentation is on democracy in the United States. The U.S. system of government is not as fair and just as it could be. There is an elite ruling class who have too much control in the way things are run. People in the lower classes have no power. They remain in the lower class because of a concentration of power and wealth within a small area of the population. The type of political system that the U.S. has is a representative democracy. The people elect officials to represent them in decision-making. These elected officials are very corrupt and become politicians only because they have a hunger for authority. The election process doesn’t allow everyone to vote. There is a wealth gap, which means that people can get money for a politician to campaign. Therefore, most people in government come from the upper classes. Many of them raise funds illegally. As a result, people are kept from the political process.

The mass media also makes it difficult for many people to access the government. The media has access to certain orthodox views, so naturally, they vote for those certain people.

Many people on the left figure that a liberal leader is better than a conservative, so they vote for the liberal. But the liberals are often just as bad. They’re hypocritical in their actions, and the system is determined by the status quo. Our current president, Bill Clinton, is becoming more conservative, in that he wants to increase taxes and welfare. People who really want to make the country a good place, they just crave power and fame. Liberals are often too afraid of offending people to stand up for capitalism and make some attempts to make it better by tax reform or supporting higher wages and improved working conditions in general. This is a system that rests on the exploitation of humans by other humans. And the same can be said about government: As long as there is an elitist state, there will be division of classes and limited opportunity. Non-hierarchical collectivism is the only way for true liberty.

Emily Webster: I will be presenting on child labor.

Child labor is alive and well today, despite the efforts that have been made to control and regulate it. The efforts made show that the issue of exploitative child labor has been recognized in the United States, but是没有 it. The government and society have to work together to eliminate it, for progress is not being made fast enough and it is not effective enough.

Exploitative child labor has been in existence for far too long. When it occurs less often in this country, it is mainly the United States-based companies that commit this abusive act. Nike is a multibillion dollar U.S. based company. Why aren’t the majority of Nike factories in this country? In order for Nike to bring in the profits that it does, the goods need to be manufactured at a profit. By setting up companies in other countries, mainly Third World countries, the company brings in more profits than it would if manufacturing was done in the United States.

Disney is another huge U.S.-based company. The products made by Disney are aimed for young children, and in most cases are made by young children overseas. These countries don’t enforce labor laws or don’t have a minimum wage, so workers don’t have enough money on a poverty level. In addition, the workers are abused in the factories. Occasionally, the abuse is even sexual. If the workers try to help themselves and report the abuse, they can be fined and even blacklisted.

The U.S. is aware that Nike and Disney commit illegal acts outside this country, so why don’t we act upon it? These children are not only abused, but they are denied schooling, something American children take for granted.

The most brutal of child labor is bonded child labor. In a lot of places, the need for money is so great, the parents literally bond their children, or their children are kidnapped by companies to put them to work. They receive extremely low wages.

Though child labor is still going on, there has been a lot of progress in reducing these terrible conditions. Global Fashions, a clothing company, took its first step in improving conditions when it was discovered that exploitative child labor was being used. Global Fashions then agreed to voluntary codes of conduct to improve working conditions.

Another example of success is the Bonded Child Labor Act, which was sponsored by Bernie Sanders. It amends the Tariff Act, which says the products made by prisoners or adult bonded labor cannot be imported into the United States, by including products made by forced or indentured child labor.

Exploitative child labor is not only an issue about wages. It goes deeper, to the point where it turns into a life-threatening situation for many children around the world. Many people are in such desperate need for whatever money they can get that any conditions are tolerable, as long as they are getting paid. That needs to change. People everywhere deserve to be rewarded for the work they do. Children should be able to go to school and have the opportunities that most American children have. Major corporations are as dangerous as machines, but as people who have needs. Until this country can put the welfare of people all over the world before money, exploitation of children in other countries will prevail.

A Tribute to Fraternitas

HON. ROBERT A. BRADY

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. BRADY of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor a Fraternitas, an organization that exemplifies the proud American tradition of helping those who most need help.

In February, 1986, a group of friends in the small Abruzzi village of Castelfrentano, Italy gathered to discuss how they could best help the senior citizens of their community. Since they are not blessed to have many of the same services we Americans take for granted, they decided to construct a facility to care for low income handicapped and elderly residents. The project was developing slowly when, in 1990, Mr. Camillo Micolucci, himself a son of the village, visited the town on vacation.

Having been told of this worthwhile project, Mr. Micolucci returned to my great city of Philadelphia and launched a non-profit fund raising organization called “Fraternitas,” which is Italian for brotherhood. Being a resident of the City of Brotherly Love, Mr. Micolucci threw himself wholeheartedly into the project. He was aided in his efforts by his late mother, Maria, and other fine Americans like Nick and Carla Travaglini, Roseann Cugini, Sam and Linda Andelucci and attorney James Bucci.

They contacted Mr. Campitello of Washington, DC who donated the staggering sum of $250,000 to this effort. By continuing the nationwide fund raising effort, the committee was able to raise all the needed funds to go to construction on this much needed building.

Mr. Speaker, Fraternitas, a 50 bed facility will open its doors on July 3, 1999. I am proud to honor this wonderful group of volunteers, who are shining examples of the best of the American spirit of reaching back to help the less fortunate.

Honoring Clayton Ezell

HON. ROBERT A. BRADY

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. HILLEARY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a great Tennessean, Clayton Ezell of Lawrenceburg.

For the last four years, Clayton Ezell proudly and ably served with distinction as the Mayor of Lawrenceburg. It happened to be a time when Mother Nature did not look very kindly upon Lawrenceburg, but Mayor Ezell heroically led the city and its residents through floods, tornadoes, and every other challenge they encountered.

Prior to serving as Mayor, Clayton Ezell served for 25 years as Lawrenceburg’sSuperintendent of Water and Sewer Department. But, Mr. Speaker, Clayton is much more than a public servant.

Clayton Ezell is a proud native of Lawrence County and the eldest of ten children. He’s a Navy veteran of World War II and a husband of 55 years. He is a father of two and grandfather of four. Clayton Ezell is an American who gave of himself to get involved in his community and help lead its citizens into a better future.

Mr. Speaker, at a time when fewer people take active roles in their community, we should point to Clayton Ezell as somebody who got personally involved to make his community a better place to live and raise a family.

INCREASING THE SUPPLY OF ORGANS AVAILABLE FOR TRANSPLANTATION J ULY 1, 1999

HON. MICHAEL BILIRAKIS
OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. BILIRAKIS. Mr. Speaker, today, I am pleased to introduce the “Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network Amendment of 1999.” This important bill reauthorizes the National Organ Transplantation Act and promotes efforts to increase the supply of organs available for transplantation. I have been joined by two of my Commerce Committee colleagues, Rep. GENE GREEN and Rep. FRANK PALLOONE, in sponsoring this bipartisan measure.

Our legislation addresses a serious national health concern. Quite simply, we do not have enough organs to satisfy the demand for those in need of a transplant.

By even the most optimistic estimates, anticipated increases in organ supply are not projected to meet demand. This year, 20,000 people will receive organ transplants but 40,000 will not. In the last decade alone, the waiting list for transplants grew by over 300 percent. This is literally a matter of life and death.

In 1988, 40,000 will not. In the last decade alone, the waiting list for transplants grew by over 300 percent. This is literally a matter of life and death.

The bill specifically recognizes the generous contribution made by each living individual who has donated an organ to save a life. It also acknowledges the advances in medical technology that have enabled transplantation of organs donated by living individuals to become a viable treatment option for an increasing number of patients.

The bill also reauthorizes the National Open Transplant Act, which was enacted to provide for the establishment and operation of an Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network. It clarifies that the Network is responsible for developing, establishing and maintaining medical criteria and standards for organ procurement and transplantation. This will ensure that organs are distributed based on sound scientific principles—without regard to the economic status or political influence of a recipient.

Given the enormity of the issues involved, Members of Congress must work together to address these concerns on a bipartisan basis. To that end, I urge all of my colleagues to support our effort to increase organ donation by cosponsoring the “Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network Amendments of 1999.”

HON. HEATHER WILSON OF NEW MEXICO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mrs. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I wish to bring to your attention the work of Carol Kreis. Ms. Kreis teaches at La Cueva High School in Albuquerque, New Mexico and was recently recognized nationally for helping her students to understand the U.S. economy better. The Security Industry Foundation honored her with a Teacher Recognition Award.

Ms. Kreis and her students took part in The Stock Market Game, the nation’s largest Wall Street educational simulation. Her students gained valuable economic experience and improved their math, writing, and social studies skills because of her. Ms. Kreis received a subscription to the Wall Street Journal Interactive Edition and the Classroom Edition to support the continuation of teaching finance, entrepreneurship and business.

Mr. Speaker, we often hear that America’s students are falling behind in competitive skills needed to succeed. Carol Kreis’ hard work will benefit students in our community now and into their future. Let us give her our recognition and thanks today.

MS. CAROL KREIS RECEIVES TEACHER RECOGNITION AWARD

HON. SCOTT McINNIS
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to recognize and honor Mr. Herold Hein of Durango, Colorado. After 59 years of remarkable dedication and hard work, Mr. Hein has retired as one of Colorado’s most talented craftsmen. As the last working certified master watchmaker in Durango, Herold has spent nearly 20 years perfecting his craft while devoting his time and skill to creating a successful business.

Mr. Hein began repairing watches in 1942 when he joined the Navy. Stationed at Pearl Harbor, he worked with five other men, repairing various clocks around the base. In 1944, Herold was transferred to Midway Island in the Pacific Ocean, where he worked on submarine stopwatches. He then left the Navy in 1945 with three years of extensive training and practice in watch and clock repair.

In 1980, Mr. Hein settled in Durango where he repaired jewelry and watches for several years. Ten years later, he opened his own repair shop, where he fixed everything from dime store clocks to Rolex’s. Herold soon established himself as one of Durango’s finest craftsmen.

Mr. Hein’s dedication to his craft and to his community have earned him the respect and admiration of those who have been fortunate enough to know him. I would like to congratulate him on his accomplishments and wish him the best of luck in all of his future endeavors.

TO PROTECT AND PRESERVE SOCIAL SECURITY

HON. BERNARD SANDERS
OF VERMONT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to call the attention of my colleagues to a resolution on Social Security. The following was agreed upon by both houses of the Vermont General Assembly on the 13th of May, 1999.

I call the attention of my colleagues to this resolution and submit the resolution to the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD for their benefit.

J .R.H. 113

J OINT RESOLUTION REQUESTING CONGRESS TO PROTECT AND PRESERVE SOCIAL SECURITY

Whereas, the purpose of Social Security is to provide a strong, simple and efficient form of basic insurance against the adversities of old age, disability and dependency, and

Whereas, for 60 years Social Security has provided a stable platform of retirement, disability and survivor annuity benefits to protect working Americans and their dependents, and

Whereas, the costs to administer Social Security are less than one percent of the benefits delivered, and

Whereas, the American and world economies continue to encounter periods of high uncertainty and volatility that make it as important as ever to preserve a basic and residual safety net that is guaranteed by our society’s largest guarantor of risk, the federal government, and

Whereas, Social Security affords protections to rich and poor alike and no citizen, no matter how well-off today, can foretell tomorrow’s adversities, and

Whereas, average life expectancies are increasing and people are commonly living into their 80’s and 90’s, making it more important than ever that each of us be fully protected by defined retirement benefits, and

Whereas, medical care continues to be continually developing new ways to maintain and enhance the lives of people with severe disabilities, thus making it more important that each of us be protected against the risk of dependency, institutionalization and impoverishment, and
Whereas, the lives of wage earners and their spouses are seldom coterminous; one often outlives the other by decades, making it crucial to preserve a secure base of protection for children and other family members dependent on a wage earner who may die or become disabled, and

Whereas, Social Security, in current form, reinforces family livelihood and enhances the value of work in our society, and

Whereas, Congress currently has proposals to shift a portion of Social Security contributions from insurance to personal investment accounts for each wage earner, and

Whereas, Social Security, our largest and most successful insurance system, cannot fulfill its protective function if it is splintered into individualized stock accounts and must create and manage millions of small risk-bearing units out of a stream of contributions intended as insurance, and

Whereas, private accounts cannot be substituted for Social Security without eroding basic protections for working families, since such protections, to be strong, must be insulated from economic uncertainty and be backed by the entity best capable of spreading risk across government, and

Whereas, the diversion of contributions to private investment accounts would dramatically increase financial shortfalls to the Social Security trust fund and require far greater reductions in the defined benefits upon which millions of Americans depend; and

Whereas, to administer 150 million separate retirement accounts would require a larger bureaucracy, and the resulting expense and the cost of converting each account to an annuity upon retirement would consume the fund's profit or exacerbate the loss realized by each participant, and

Whereas, the question of whether part of the Social Security trust fund should be diversified into investments other than government bonds so that, while still invested collectively at low expense, returns may be increased, thus enhancing the capacity of the fund to meet its obligations to pay benefits while spreading the risk across the entire spectrum of Social Security participants, is entirely different from that of splintering its millions of accounts, and

Whereas, creating an array of winners and losers would be contrary to the basic principles of insurance and risk distribution, thus defeating the purpose of this part of our retirement system, and

Whereas, Congress amended the Internal Revenue Code with a full menu of provisions that enables working Americans and their employers to voluntarily contribute to tax-sheltered accounts that are open to the opportunities and exposed to the risks of investment markets, diverting Social Security contributions to private accounts duplicates existing programs, and

Whereas, such recently created systems now cover half of American families, now therefore be it

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives:

That the General Assembly respectfully and strongly urges Congress not to enact laws that might tend to diminish or undermine a unified and stable Social Security system, and be it further

Resolved: That laws to encourage workers and their employers to save or invest for retirement should supplement and not substitute for the basic benefits of Social Security insurance that are vital to American workers and be it further

Resolved: That the Secretary of State be directed to send a copy of this resolution to the President of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States and each member of the Vermont Congressional Delegation.

A TRIBUTE TO THE GRANHAN PLAYGROUND WOLFPACK

HON. ROBERT A. BRADY
OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

MR. BRADY of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor a great Philadelphia sports program, the Granhan Playground Wolfpack. The Wolfpack is the latest in a long time of Philadelphia champions. My city is the proud home of many major league teams, people like Joe Frazier, the 76ers, the Flyers, the Phillies and the Eagles. And now, we can add the Wolfpack to that long list.

This year, Granhan Playground is not only the home of the 12 year old and under hockey champs, it also produced the 15 years old and under championship team. Mr. Speaker, this record breaking season could not have happened without the determination of kids who gave their all to bring glory to their neighborhood. The 12 and under team won with a talented roster featuring Mike and Kevin Cassidy; Kevin Lowthert; George Bochanski; Dan Devine; Mike Devine; Joe Walsh; Chris Porter; Mike McLaughlin; Chris Porter; Jason Mardlly and Rich Canfield. They also benefited from the skills of goalie Sean Rodgers, this year’s Vezina award winner.

The 15 and older squad, anchored by fellow Vezina trophy winner, Julie Bochanski and playoff MVP, R.J. Carrido; featured Joe Walsh; Joe Grajek; Tom August; Jay Bailey; Brian Ditomo; Jim Dougherty; Josh Mills and Tom Kay, proved to be equally fierce competitors. They did their neighborhood proud in their march to victory.

But none of this would have been possible without the support and involvement of Wolfpack parents, family, and community volunteers. I am proud of them and all they do to help these kids grow into healthy and productive adults. And I have a special pride in one young man who works with the “Pack.” I want to salute Robert F. Brady, my son, who is Recreation Leader at Granhan Playground. I love him and am proud of all the work he does.

Mr. Speaker, I urge all my colleagues to join me in saluting the Granhan Wolfpack on this successful season and wish them many more.

CONGRATULATING ROSALINA FREEMAN FOR IMPROVING COMMUNITY HEALTH IN EAST TENNESSEE

HON. VAN HILLEARY
OF TENNESSEE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

MR. HILLEARY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Ms. Rosalina Freeman, who was recently named one of ten outstanding individuals from around the country to receive a $100,000 award from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation’s Community Health Leadership Program (CHLP).

Ms. Freeman is the founder and executive director of Reachout, Inc., which provides rural health education and services for East Tennessee’s Hispanic factory and farm workers. Reachout works with other rural health care providers to offer mammograms, cancer prevention education, HIV/AIDS prevention, lead and pesticide education and post-natal education. In addition to these rural health services, Ms. Freeman’s Reachout also offers GED programs and translation services.

Thanks to Ms. Freeman’s leadership, dedication and caring spirit, health care referral services have reached more than 3,000 people in eight rural East Tennessee counties. More than 2,000 high school students have received Reachout’s AIDS/HIV education program.

Ms. Freeman herself overcame great odds before helping improve rural health care for others in East Tennessee. Born in Puerto Rico, she has lived in Cocke County for the past 29 years. She earned an undergraduate degree in sociology in 1990, then went back to earn a Masters in health education in 1996. She even had to overcome her own illnesses stemming from a rare muscle condition.

Mr. Speaker, at a time when rural health care has been under direct assault from Washington, it is refreshing to see a private citizen take it upon herself to try to solve the problems she sees in her community. Ms. Freeman probably said it best when she said, “We believe in letting communities be the biggest part of the solution to addressing and solving their problems * * * I am committed to helping provide the tools to my community so it can help itself.”

I agree completely, and I want to once again thank and congratulate Rosie Freeman for everything she has done to improve rural health care in East Tennessee. There is still much to do before rural health care receives the kind of attention it deserves, but with caring people like Ms. Freeman on the job, the situation looks a little brighter.

PRESERVING HEALTH CARE CHOICES FOR SENIORS

HON. MICHAEL BILIRAKIS
OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

MR. BILIRAKIS. Mr. Speaker, today, I am proud to introduce legislation that will help millions of Medicare beneficiaries whose health coverage is in jeopardy. My Florida colleague, Peter DeSantis, has joined me in sponsoring the “Medicare+Choice Risk Adjustment Amendment of 1999”—will help to preserve and expand health care choices for seniors who participate in Medicare managed care plans.

The Medicare-Choice program was created as part of the 1997 Balanced Budget Act to increase health care options for Medicare beneficiaries. While the majority of beneficiaries remain in traditional fee-for-service Medicare, enrollment in managed care plans has grown rapidly in recent years. Many seniors now depend on the additional benefits (such as prescription drug coverage) available through plans under the Medicare-Choice program.

However, a serious crisis threatens this vital program.

Last year, nearly 100 Medicare managed care plans did not renew their Medicare contracts or reduced their geographic areas of service. This year, many more plans have announced their intent to leave the Medicare+Choice program, raising serious concerns about its continued availability as an option for Medicare beneficiaries. Many plans cite inadequate reimbursement as a major factor in their decision.

Unless Congress takes action to correct this problem, the consequences will be devastating for Medicare beneficiaries, especially low-income seniors. Many will lose the option of participating in a Medicare managed care plan altogether. Others will face increased out-of-pocket costs and a reduction in benefits.

This situation is largely due to a decision by the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) to disregard the intent of Congress in establishing the Medicare+Choice program. The 1997 Balanced Budget Act required HCFA to establish a process for “adjusting” Medicare+Choice payments based on the likelihood or the “risk” that enrollees will use health care services.

Congress anticipated that this new “risk adjustment” process would provide Medicare+Choice plans with higher payments for patients who are chronically ill and lower payments for those who are generally healthy. We did not intend to decrease overall Medicare+Choice spending through this process. Instead, we were simply trying to make sure that Medicare+Choice funds would be distributed based on the health status of Medicare+Choice enrollees.

However, HCFA has completely disregarded the intent of Congress on this critical issue. The agency is using its authority to establish a “risk adjustment” process as an excuse to try to impose deep spending cuts in the Medicare+Choice program. HCFA’s ill-advised decision threatens to seriously undermine the Medicare+Choice program. Estimates indicate as much as $11 billion may be drained from Medicare+Choice over the next five years, if HCFA is allowed to go forward with its plan.

At the time the 1997 Balanced Budget Act was considered, the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) estimated no savings from the risk adjuster. CBO’s analysis assumed that the risk adjuster would simply shift funds within Medicare+Choice. By contrast, HCFA’s approach would drain billions of dollars from the program.

The “Medicare+Choice Risk Adjustment Amendments of 1999” would address this problem in two ways. First, it would require HCFA to implement its risk adjustment process on a budget neutral basis—as Congress intended. Second, the bill would repeal a provision of current law that automatically requires the annual increase in Medicare fee-for-service payments.

Millions of seniors rely on Medicare+Choice for greater flexibility in meeting their health care needs. My legislation will help to stabilize their health care needs. My legislation will help to stabilize their health care services. Congress must act quickly to prevent further damage to the Medicare+Choice program and ensure that beneficiaries have access to quality care.

Mrs. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I wish to bring to your attention the 35 years of service Mr. Joe Vivian has given to our community of Albuquerque as a coach, mentor and leader. Mr. Vivian coached wrestling for 35 years at six city high schools. He began his wrestling career in 1964 when a coach reached out to him and helped him turn his life around. Through his coaching Mr. Vivian mentored many young athletes. Mr. Vivian provided important lessons in staying physically fit, being part of a team, setting and achieving goals and community involvement. People who worked with Joe Vivian describe him as dedicated and committed to the wrestlers he worked with. He coached teams to three state titles and holds over 300 career dual victories.

In addition to coaching, Joe Vivian volunteers with Meals on Wheels, Special Olympics and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Mr. Joe Vivian retired from coaching this year. Please join me in thanking him for the positive influence he is in our community and wish him the best in retirement.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, the Contra Costa Times, my hometown newspaper in the East Bay of San Francisco, got it right today when they took the President to task on the issue of land mines. “Hypocrisy on Land Mines,” an editorial, points out that while President Clinton is now giving his compassion and his warnings of safety to returning Kosovo refugees because their homeland is wired full of land mines, it was the same President Clinton who refused to sign the international treaty to ban land mines two years ago.

100 other nations signed the treaty and the United States should have taken the lead to see this treaty enacted and enforced. Instead, all the United States can do now is hope that not too many Kosovar refugees have their limbs blown off as they venture home after the war.

Tens of thousands of civilians are killed by land mines around the world every year. The world needs America’s leadership to bring an end to this cruel form of warfare where the main victims, in fact, are civilians. I commend the editorial below to my colleagues and to my President.

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, it is with a great deal of sadness that I wish to recognize the remarkable life and spirit of Mr. J.B. Whitttemore of Pueblo, Colorado. With this, I would like to take a moment to recognize Mr. Whitttemore who embodied and exemplified hard work, dedication, and compassion.

For more than half of a century, he dedicated his energy to ensuring the happiness of thousands of people. With this, I wish to recognize the remarkable life and spirit of Mr. J.B. Whitttemore of Pueblo, Colorado. With this, I would like to take a moment to the City Park Department staff—a job which became a career spanning 33 years. While working for the City Parks Department, Mr. Whitttemore also worked nights, Sundays and holidays as the Sikh Leader’s Letter Exposes Conflict in Kashmir

Hon. John T. Doolittle
Of California
In the House of Representatives
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. DOOLITTLE. Mr. Speaker, India has recently undertaken a military effort to eliminate the freedom movement in Kashmir. Supporters of free nations of South Asia, especially neighboring Punjab, Khalistan, are concerned that if this conflict spreads, it could be a threat to other nations inside India’s borders.

Recently, Dr. Gurmit Singh Aulakh, President of the Council of Khalistan, wrote a letter to the Washington Times which I am sure will be of interest to my colleagues. He pointed out that the air attacks are really an attack on the Kashmiri freedom fighters. “India has not yet learned that people struggling for freedom cannot be suppressed by force forever,” he wrote.

Dr. Aulakh wrote that “the reason for these conflicts is the denial of self-determination by the country that proclaims itself ‘the world’s largest democracy.’” America periodically conducts democratic votes on the status of Puerto Rico, with independence as an option. Canada does the same for the people of the Northwest Territories. Britain recently allowed Scotland and Wales to elect their own parliaments, moving them one step closer to a vote on independence. If self-determination is good enough for them, why shouldn’t the Sikhs of Khalistan, the Muslims of Kashmir, the Christians of Nagaland and others seeking their freedom from India enjoy the same rights?

The United States, Canada and Great Britain are major world powers. Not only is a free and fair plebiscite the democratic way to settle these issues, it is how great powers conduct themselves. India claims that there is no support for Khalistan. Then why not hold a free and fair vote? If India wants to be a world power and if it claims that it is democratic, then it should allow the people of Khalistan, Kashmir, Nagaland and the others seeking their freedom to hold a plebiscite under international supervision on the question of independence so that this issue can be settled in a free and fair vote.

The war against the people of Kashmir shows the inherent weakness of the Indian government. Now is the best time for the people and nations of South Asia to claim their freedom. America can support this by putting pressure on India to let its people live in freedom and by declaring its open support for the freedom movements of South Asia.

Gurmit Singh Aulakh, President, Council of Khalistan.

In Memory and Tribute to James J. “Jimmy” Creamer

Hon. Robert A. Weygand
Of Rhode Island
In the House of Representatives
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. WEYGAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay solemn tribute to a distinguished colleague and dear friend, James J. “Jimmy” Creamer. I must confess that I can hardly believe that this man, so full of life and love, is gone. Just last week, I ran into Jimmy in the halls of the Rhode Island State House. We had a typical conversation, laughing at Jimmy’s stories and humorous insights into Rhode Island politics, and then he passed away suddenly the next day. I mourn the passing of this wonderful man, but I also stand today in appreciation of the conversation I had with him on Monday, and countless others like it, and in celebration of a life lived to the fullest and to the benefit of all who knew him.

Jimmy Creamer was a lifelong resident of Providence, Rhode Island. He started his career in public service by enlisting in the United States Marine Corps out of high school. After serving for three years in the military, he became a member of the Providence Fire Department and retired as Lieutenant after 20 years and with a Commendation for Devotion to Duty and Meritorious Services. He also found the time, while raising his young family, to pursue higher education and return to Providence College and earn both his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees.

After retiring from the Fire Department Jimmy began his career in Rhode Island politics, holding several different positions before being appointed Chief of Staff and then to the people and State of Rhode Island. He brought both institutional knowledge and political insight to his work, as well as a tremendous sense of dedication, loyalty, and integrity.

In addition to his professional work at the State House, he lent his expertise to the Democratic party in Rhode Island as chairman of the 8th Ward Democratic Committee in Providence and as a well-respected member of the Democratic State Committee. He also found the time to continue his involvement with the Providence Fire Department, to serve as a substitute teacher in the Providence Public Schools, to coach a Little League baseball team. As his colleagues in the Rhode Island House of Representatives, and particularly in a recent House Resolution, “Anyone could plainly see that his heart belonged to children. The look of joy on his face was evident every time he taught a child to swing a bat or stand up on skates. . . . Jimmy loved children.” What an incredible testament to the legacy this man has left behind him.

I first met Jimmy when I was elected to the Rhode Island House of Representatives in 1984, and he quickly became a close friend and trusted advisor. I could always depend on Jimmy for sound and honest advice, and perhaps even more importantly, for a smile and a few words of wit or encouragement. I am proud to have called this man my friend, and feel that the entire Rhode Island State Legislature is a better institution for his 19 years there.

Jimmy’s life was dedicated to his family and then to the people and State of Rhode Island. He is survived by his wife, Patricia, his two sons, James and Patrick, two grandchildren, and a brother and three sisters. He was a devoted husband, father, grandfather, and brother, and I offer my deepest sympathies to his family as they mourn the loss of this special and generous man. He will be sorely missed by all who had the pleasure to know him.
A TRIBUTE TO THE RECIPIENTS OF THE 1999 “TRAIL BLAZING FOR CHILDREN” AWARDS WEEKEND AND THE RASHEED A. WALLACE FOUNDATION

HON. ROBERT A. BRADY OF PENNSYLVANIA IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. BRADY of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor both the Rasheed A. Wallace Foundation, host of the 1999 “Trail Blazing for Children” Award, and the recipients of the named award. Both the recipients and the Rasheed A. Wallace Foundation have been instrumental in improving the lives of children throughout Philadelphia. In addition, I would also like to extend congratulations to the Philadelphia Athletic League of Philadelphia and Mr. Sonny Hill of the Sonny Hill Basketball League on their outstanding accomplishments to youth in the Philadelphia community.

Central to the focus of the Rasheed A. Wallace Foundation has been “Enhancing the Quality of Life for All People.” The commitment of the foundation is seen each year during its Annual Coat Drive for the Homeless and a series of contributions targeting youth recreation programs in the area. Such charitable efforts have been seen throughout his professional basketball career. The Rasheed A. Wallace Foundation is truly blazing trails for young people and the less fortunate in Philadelphia. I salute Rasheed on his charitable contributions to our great city and give my best wishes for continued success to both the foundation and the award recipients.

NEW REVELATIONS ON GENERAL PINOCHET AND THE UNITED STATES

HON. GEORGE MILLER OF CALIFORNIA IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, as my colleagues will recall, I have worked for several years now, along with Mr. Conyers of Michigan and others here, to have the United States declassify documents concerning Gen. Augusto Pinochet’s 1973 military coup in Chile and its aftermath and what the United States knew about Pinochet’s connection to human rights violations and acts of terrorism both in Chile and abroad.

By Philip Shenon

WASHINGTON, June 30—The C.I.A. and other Government agencies had detailed reports of widespread human rights abuses by the Chilean military, including the killings and torture of leftist dissidents, almost immediately after a 1973 right-wing coup that the United States supported, according to once-secret Government documents released today.

The 5,800 documents which the Clinton Administration decided last year to declassify and make public provide evidence to support the prosecution of Gen. Augusto Pinochet, who seized power in the coup and was arrested in Britain last October. Spain is seeking his extradition, charging that his junta had kidnapped, tortured and killed Spanish citizens.

The documents were released as Clinton Administration officials confirmed that the Justice Department has been conferring with Spanish authorities, in part to exchange information on his possible involvement in the 1976 car bomb assassination in Washington of the Chilean Ambassador to the United States, Dr. Ivan de Yruretagoyena, and Ramon Moffitt, of the Institute for Policy Studies. Because the Justice Department considers the Letelier investigation to be ongoing, the Government withheld documents related to the murders, officials said today.

Historians and human rights advocates, who were busy trying to sort through the newly released documents, said the files of the State Department, the C.I.A. and the White House had been reviewed, but they said that many of the documents were not relevant. Instead, they said, the documents provide rich new detail to support the long-held view that the United States knew during and after the coup about the Chilean military’s murderous crackdown on leftists.

On Sept. 21, 1973, 10 days after the coup, one C.I.A. report said: “The prevailing mood among the Chilean military is to use the current opportunity to stamp out all vestiges of Communist influence in Chile. Systematic repression is planned. The military is rounding up large numbers of people, including students and leftist political activists, and delivering them to police stations and military bases.”

The report noted that “300 students were killed in the technical university where they refused to surrender” to the junta. The C.I.A. said: “The Government has been the target of constant criticism by the junta.”

On Oct. 12, 1973, the Justice Department reviewed the files of the State Department and the C.I.A. and concluded that “security considerations” would prevent the release of any more documents, according to one C.I.A. report.

The search for the truth is important not only for the historic case against General Pinochet, but for Americans too who wish to know what role their government may have played in a violent period of history and how we may avoid playing such a role in the future.

The New York Times notes also that not only will the documents help Spain, but that Spain has already helped provide information to the United States that might help the Justice Department complete its still-open case against those responsible for the assassination of Chilean exiles Orlando Letelier and his American assistant Ronnie Karpen Moffitt in Washington, D.C. in 1976. It is widely believed, but has not yet been proven, that General Pinochet personally ordered Letelier’s execution.

The documents released yesterday further demonstrate that the United States was well aware of atrocities taking place during and after the coup and that despite this knowledge the Nixon Administration sought to maintain close ties to General Pinochet.

(U.S. RELEASES FILES ON ABUSES IN PINOCHET Era)

(The C.I.A. has the most to offer but also the most to hide,” said Peter Kornbluh of the National Security Archive, which only contributed 490 documents to yesterday’s release. I applaud the Administration for releasing yesterday’s documents but I strongly urge them to continue to release documents on a timely basis from all branches of the Administration, including the CIA.

(U.S. RELEASES FILES ON ABUSES IN PINOCHET Era)

(By Philip Shenon)

WASHINGTON, June 30—The C.I.A. and other Government agencies had detailed reports of widespread human rights abuses by the Chilean military, including the killings and torture of leftist dissidents, almost immediately after a 1973 right-wing coup that the United States supported, according to once-secret Government documents released today.

The 5,800 documents which the Clinton Administration decided last year to declassify and make publicly available provide evidence to support the prosecution of General Pinochet, who seized power in the coup and was arrested in Britain last October. Spain is seeking his extradition, charging that his junta had kidnapped, tortured and killed Spanish citizens.

The documents were released as Clinton Administration officials confirmed that the Justice Department has been conferring with Spanish authorities, in part to exchange information on his possible involvement in the 1976 car bomb assassination in Washington of the Chilean Ambassador to the United States, Dr. Ivan de Yruretagoyena, and Ronnie Karpen Moffitt, of the Institute for Policy Studies. Because the Justice Department considers the Letelier investigation to be ongoing, the Government withheld documents related to the murders, officials said today.

Historians and human rights advocates, who were busy trying to sort through the newly released documents, said the files of the State Department, the C.I.A. and the White House had been reviewed, but they said that many of the documents were not relevant. Instead, they said, the documents provide rich new detail to support the long-held view that the United States knew during and after the coup about the Chilean military’s murderous crackdown on leftists.
today, he said, "show that the C.I.A. was well-apprised of the vicious nature of the Chilean regime."

The public affairs office at the C.I.A. did not respond to phone calls early this evening.

The documents released today date from 1973 to 1978, "the period of the most flagrant human rights abuses in Chile," James F. Foley, a State Department spokesman, said.

The White House said in a statement that "a limited number of documents have not been released at this time, primarily because they relate to an ongoing Justice Department investigation" of the murder of Mr. Letelier and Ms. Moffitt.

Administration officials, speaking on condition that they not be identified, said that the inquiry was active, in part as a result of information available to the United States from Spanish prosecutors seeking to try General Pinochet.

In April, they said, a senior criminal prosecuctor from the Justice Department, Mark Richard, traveled to Spain to meet with Spanish authorities to discuss whether Washington and Madrid could swap information in the case. Prosecutors there have long been interested in whether there is evidence that General Pinochet or his deputies ordered the murders in Washington because Mr. Letelier was an opponent of the Pinochet regime.

The killings here are believed to have been part of an orchestrated campaign of violence known within the Pinochet Government as Operation Condor, in which opponents of the leader were warned of "rumors" that Oper-

A State Department document dated Aug. 18, 1976, only a month before Mr. Letelier's murder, shows that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other senior department ofcifics were aware of "rumors" that the operation Condor might "include plans for the assassination of subversives, politicians and prominent figures both within the national borders of certain Southern Cone countries and abroad."

Reed Brody of Human Rights Watch, who unearthed the document, said it "shows the United States was very aware of the terroristic activities that General Pinochet and his colleagues were engaging in, as well as abroad."

DOcUMENTS SHOW U.S. KNOWN PINOCHET PLANNED CRACKDOWN IN '73

(By Karen DeYoung and Vernon Loeb)

Days after the bloody 1973 coup that overthrew Chilean President Salvador Allende, the CIA mission in Chile reported to Washington that the new government of Gen.

Augusto Pinochet planned "severe repress-sion" against its opponents. A month later, the agency noted that "the line between people killed during attacks on security forces and those arrested and executed immediately has become increasingly blurred."

The CIA cables are among nearly 6,000 newly declassified government documents released today related to human rights and political violence in Chile during the first five years of Pinochet's rule.

In addition to indications that the CIA and the U.S. government had information on the extent of repression and rights abuses there soon after the coup, the documents provide new insights into disagreement between the Carter and Pinochet administrations over policy toward Pinochet's Chile.

The Clinton administration agreed to review the released documents from the State and Defense departments, the CIA and the FBI after Pinochet was arrested last October in London in response to a Spanish extradition request on charges of alleged human rights violations committed during his 17-year rule. The extradition trial is scheduled to begin.

The redacted documents made public yesterday cover the years of the worst excesses of the Pinochet government, from 1973 to 1978, when at least 3,000 people were killed or "disappeared" at the hands of government forces. Additional documents—including some secret cables discussing the possible extradition of Allende, a Marxist, as president and the events leading up to the coup and his death—are scheduled for later release.

The documents include status overviews and intelligence reports on the situation inside Chile, and add little of substance to scholarly and congressional reviews of the period, as well as investigations conducted by the democratically elected Chilian governments that followed Pinochet. Nor are the documents likely to be useful in the Pinochet extradition case.

For example, information concerning the 1976 car bomb assassination in Washington of ex-state Department official Ronni Karpen Moffitt were left out, the State Department said, because aspects of the case are still being investigated by the Justice Department.

Human rights organizations commended the Clinton administration for releasing the documents but expressed disappointment at its selective nature.

Peter Kornbluh of the National Secu-ritv Archives, who is compiling information for a book about the redacted documents: "The CIA has much to offer here, and much to hide. They clearly are continuing to hide this history."

Embassy reporting from Santiago reflected the Nixon administration's support of the 1973 coup, although the administration consistently denied helping to plan or carry it out. In the same year, the embassey reported, the new Pinochet government appealed for American advisers to help set up detention camps for the thousands of Chilians it had arrested.

Worried about the "obvious political problems" such assistance might cause, the embassy said, the State Department instead "may wish to consider feasibility of material assistance in form of tents, blankets, etc. which need not be publicly and specifically earmarked for prisoners."

Ambassador David H. Popper wrote the State Department in early 1974 that in consideration of the new government "I have irritably over being asked to write "still another human rights report" on Chile and noted the "strong and varied views" inside the mission.

In its own report, the embassy military group complained: "We [the United States] do not appear to be visionary enough to see the red lights" and noted the relatively few violation cases which occur and continue to hound the government about past events while shrugging off demonstrated improvements.

WARTIME VIOLATION OF ITALIAN AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES ACT

HON. RICK LAZIO
OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. LAZIO. Mr. Speaker, late in the night of December 7, 1941, only hours after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Filippo Molinari heard noises outside his San Jose home. When Molinari went to investigate, he found three policemen at his front door. They told him that by order of President Roosevelt, he must come with them.

Molinari had served in the Italian army dur-ning World War I, fighting alongside American troops. He was well-known within his community as a door-to-door salesman for the Italian language newspaper L'Italia. He was the founder of the San Francisco Sons of Italy. And now, he was under arrest. Shortly after-thereafter, Molinari would be shipped to a government detention center in Fort Missoula, Montana.

Filippo Molinari's story is not unique. He was one of hundreds of Italian Americans arrested in the first days of the war and sent to internment centers or excluded from California. In 1942 over ten thousand Italian Americans across the nation were forcibly evacuated from their homes and relocated away costal areas and military bases. Additional to some 600,000 Italian nationals, most of whom had lived in the United States for decades, were deemed "enemy aliens" and subject to strict travel restrictions, curfews, and seizures of personal property.

These so-called "enemy aliens" were required to carry photo-bearing ID booklets at all times, forbidden to travel beyond a five mile radius of their homes, and required to turn in any shortwave radios, cameras, flashlights and firearms in their possession. In California

52,000 Italian residents were subjected to a curfew. In Monterey, Boston, and elsewhere

Italian American fishermen were grounded.

Many fishermen who were naturalized citizens had their boats impounded by the navy—all this while half a million Italian Americans were serving, fighting, and dying in the U.S. armed forces during World War II.

It has long been a historical misconception that President Roosevelt's infamous Executive Order 9066 applied only to Japanese and Japnese-Americans living in the western states. Clearly this was not the case. There is another chapter to this sad story, "Una Storia Segreta"— a secret story. The bill I am introducing today is an attempt to start setting the record straight.

The Wartime Violation of Italian American Civil Liberties Act calls on the Department of Justice to prepare and publish a comprehensive report detailing the government's unjust policies and practices during this time period. A part of this report would include an examination of ways in which civil liberties can be safeguarded during future national emergencies. This legislation would also encourage relevant federal agencies to support projects such as exhibitions and documentaries that would heighten public awareness of this unfortunate episode. Further, it recommends the formation of an advisory committee to assist in the compilation of relevant information regarding this matter and related public policy matters.

Finally, the Wartime Violation of Italian American Civil Liberties Act calls upon the President to acknowledge formally our government's systematic denial of civil liberties to people of Italian ancestry and the widespread interest—interest across the national scope of the injustices that took place during WW II. And then I said: 'Thank you for what you did.'

"As he looked at me, the grandfather's eyes began to water and he said: 'No one has ever thanked me for that before.' Then he reached up and put his arm around my shoulder and said: 'Thank you. That means a lot to me.' We embraced, and then, with a tear in my own eye, I turned around and walked away."

My friend's idea: 'As this Memorial Day approaches, I encourage you to think of WW II veterans (or any other veteran) you know and communicate to them your personal thanks for what they did during that great war. WW II veterans are in the twilight of their lives. They will not be around forever to receive your thanks.'

I was moved, and decided to start with a letter to my relatives who were part of "the greatest generation." Uncle Bud served in the Pacific and would have been part of a Japan invasion force, but was delivered from that fate by President Truman's decision to use the atomic bomb rather than more American blood to end the war in the Pacific. Uncle Walt was a B-24 bomber pilot and a flight instructor. Aunt Betty was an Army nurse who accompanied the first infantry units in the liberation of the concentration camps at Dachau and returned with pictures and other mementos that document the visions and other mementos that document that many horrors that occurred there. I have talked with them many times about their wartime experiences. But I have never thanked them for answering their call to duty nor for their many subsequent achievements, the fruits of which I enjoy today. I intend to fix that before the week is over. I've already started the letters, and with the first words last night, I began to realize that it's not enough to write by sending these letters—at least as much as theirs will be lifted by receiving them. A heart-felt 'thank-you' always seems to work, but it's their spirit and their achievements that we need to remember this Memorial Day.

A NOTE OF THANKS TO THE "GREATEST"

HON. SCOTT McINNIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, looking forward toward July 4th, Independence Day, I believe it is absolutely appropriate that this country reflect on the sacrifices made to keep this country independent. Towards that goal, I would like to submit for the RECORD an essay by Philip Burgess which most eloquently makes the point.

A NOTE OF THANKS TO THE "GREATEST"

A few days ago I received an e-mail from a friend, an attorney who reads a lot and is thoughtful about what he reads. He had a good idea for Memorial Day.

"Like many other Americans," he began, "I have been reading Tom Brokaw's The Greatest Generation. As you know, it is a book of short stories about how ordinary Americans—farmers, factory workers and store clerks—came of age during the Great Depression and the Second World War and, in Brokaw's words, 'went on to build modern America—men and women whose everyday lives of duty, honor, achievement and courage gave us the world we have today.' They sought not praise and glory; they simply did a job they had to do."

He continued, "Today, I had an interesting experience. I attended a family gathering of a new graduate. His grandfather was there. As a young man, the grand- father had fought in the Pacific during WW II. Here I was, face-to-face with a member of the 'greatest generation.' As I visited with him, I was moved by my increasing awareness of how much he and his peers had contributed to democracy and the values we hold dear. I was also moved by the realization, that on an individual basis, I had never thanked a WW II veteran for what he or she did during the war. And then I thought: 'The free- dom and opportunities we now enjoy and too often take for granted.'

"So, during the last conversation, I approached the grandfather. I looked him in the eye and I told him that I'd been reading about and reflecting on what he and others like him had done for the country during WW II. And then I said: 'Thank you for what you did.'

"As he looked at me, the grandfather's eyes began to water and he said: 'No one has ever thanked me for that before.' Then he reached up and put his arm around my shoulder and said: 'Thank you. That means a lot to me.' We embraced, and then, with a tear in my own eye, I turned around and walked away."

Mr. Doolittle. Mr. Speaker, it has come to my attention that journalist Sukhbir Singh Osan, proprietor of Burning Punjab, and a writer for several Indian newspapers, is once again being harassed by the Indian government. After he came to North America to cover the big Sikh marches in Washington, DC, and to Toronto and made a speech in the United Kingdom, the Indian government again, under the guise of human rights situations in India, was grilled for 45 minutes by Indian intelligence officers. Now, Indian postal authorities are intercepting his mail.

Mr. WEYGAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to laud the courageous efforts of Chris Cahoon, a resident of Warwick, Rhode Island, who recently came to the rescue of a choking child. Chris, a sixteen-year-old volunteer at the Washington Fire Department in Coventry, Rhode Island, was spending Father's Day with his father at a local restaurant when he noticed some commotion at another table. A father was slapping his son on the back, trying to assist his choking ten-year-old. Using the quick thinking and first aid training he had learned as a Fire Scout, Chris leapt from his seat and deftly administered the Heimlich maneuver to the child, who, after being examined by the local rescue team, was able to resume his meal. For his decisive action, Chris earned the respect and gratitude of the child, his family, and the assembled emergency medical technicians.

Such mature behavior may seem uncharacteristic of a sixteen-year-old, though Chris's family and acquaintances have known of his dedication to helping others since his earliest days. Like many young children, Chris once told everyone in earshot that he wanted to grow up to be a firefighter. However, unlike other youths, Chris followed his dream and joined the Washington Fire Department's Fire Scout Program at the early age of
For everyone who knows Dwain and has worked with him, they will quickly tell you he is an example of the mission statement and deserves recognition as he has worked consistently year after year to ensure the Black Walnut will be here for years to come. It is in that effort he has established the Tree Research and Management division to study the Black Walnut tree. Dwain is also a conscious conservationist and has allowed nothing to be wasted when it comes to the walnut itself. After the walnut is shucked, it is then ground into six different sizes. It can be used as a cleansing and polishing agent for jet engines, electronic circuit boards, and jewelry. It is also used in oil well drilling, water filtration systems, soaps, cosmetic and dental cleansers.

Dwain is more than just a successful businessman. He is a servant to his community, State, and Nation in many different roles. In the community of Stockton, he served on the Board of Alderman for six years and as town mayor for four. He is a life member of the Stockton Lions Club and has served as its president. He is also a member at the United Methodist Church in Stockton where he has been a member of the choir for over 40 years and served as its director for over 20. He has been active in the Boy Scouts at the local, district, and council levels. In the State of Missouri, he has served on the Governor’s Task Force on Rural Economic Development, a member for six years on the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce, Executive Board and on the Advisory Board of the University of Missouri School of Forestry, Fisheries and Wildlife. These are just to name a few. At the national level he was awarded the Meritorious Service Award from the National Walnut Council and is also a lifetime member. The National Association of Marketing Officials awarded him the National Marketing Award. In 1992 he was awarded by President George Bush and this body the Teddy Roosevelt Conservationist Award. And, while it is most important to recognize his achievement in those areas, I would be remiss not to note how he has always been devoted to his family first. I think it shows as his son Brian is ready to take the reins of the business and lead it into the twenty-first century.

Although Dwain will be missed on a daily basis at Hammons Products Company, we all know he will not be far away because his love for the Eastern Black Walnut will keep him close by. So remember, the next time you enjoy the rich, distinctive flavor of the Eastern Black Walnut that you did not have to crack yourself, to be sure to thank Dwain and know he will be thanking you. Thank you, Dwain, for your commitment to your family, the business, and being so willing to give of your time and talents to your community, State, and Nation. Your involvement and self-sacrifice is an example we can all follow and live our lives by.

Honor Dwain and the Hammons Products Company by enjoying the rich, distinctive flavor of the Eastern Black Walnut and by purchasing the products that are made by Hammons Products Company known at one time as “Missouri Dandy,” to remember the time was virtually non-existent in the sale of Eastern Black Walnuts.

HONORING DWAIN HAMMONS UPON HIS RETIREMENT

HON. ROY BLUNT
OF MISSOURI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. BLUNT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor Dwain Hammons who retires this week from Hammons Products Company in Stockton, Missouri, as the chief executive officer. Hammons Products Company known at one time as “Missouri Dandy,” has for the past 53 years bought, shelled, and sold Eastern Black Walnuts. In just a little over half a century, Hammons Products Company has become the world’s foremost grower of the Eastern Black Walnut. This becomes even more significant when you realize they created a market that at the time was virtually non-existent in the sale of Eastern Black Walnuts.

Hammons Products Company began as a dream of Dwain’s father, Ralph, in 1946, when he was a local grocery store owner in Stockton. Ralph’s dream eventually became a reality that Dwain has never lost sight of as he has continued building their business year after year. Dwain has led his family and the business through the changing of the times in the past 50 years. Although Dwain deserves much of the credit for the success of the business, he rarely accepts it. Instead he gives the credit to his father, Ralph, who urged him to always be willing to advance and modernize the company. He also credits the employees, who he will tell you have been a steadfast example of the company’s mission statement, “To lead and grow the Black Walnut nut industry, and to excel in providing quality nut products and superior service with strong business integrity enhancing the economic well being and quality of life for owners, employees, customers, suppliers, and our communities.” An example he is quick to give is how they helped to invent the companies first walnut shucking machine.
The facility subsequently became a helicopter base, and in 1970 the facility was annexed by the City of Tustin and renamed Marine Corps Air Station Tustin. From World War II through the Persian Gulf War, the Marines at MCAS Tustin have played a critical role in protecting our national security. From 1962 to 1971, elements of Marine Aircraft Group 16 were deployed to South Vietnam and Thailand, becoming the largest Aircraft Group in the history of the Corps. In August 1990, MAG–16 began deploying what eventually became five squadrons to Saudi Arabia for participation in Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm. In all, MAG–16 flew over 11,000 sorties and 24,000 flight hours in support of the liberation of Kuwait.

Commissioned in 1943, MCAS El Toro was originally established as a training field for Marine pilots as part of the escalating war in the Pacific theater of World War II. In 1955, the Third Marine Aircraft Wing was moved to El Toro from Florida. Between 1968 and 1974, MCAS El Toro served as President Nixon's arrival and departure point to his "Western White House" at San Clemente. In 1975, the air station made history as part of "Operation New Arrival" by serving as the initial point of arrival into the U.S. for 50,000 refugees fleeing the repressive communist government of Vietnam. During Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm, the Third Marine Air Wing flew more than 18,000 sorties and delivered approximately 30 million pounds of ordnance against enemy targets. El Toro Marines also participated in Operation Sea Angel in Bangladesh in 1991, Operation Restore Hope in Somalia in 1992, and Operation Nobel Response in Kenya in 1993.

It has been an honor to represent these fine Marine bases during my career in Congress. The Marines stationed at El Toro and Tustin have been the best of neighbors. Their service to the Orange County community has been an invaluable asset to a wide variety of groups including needy children and the homeless. Their annual air show raised funds for many outstanding local charities and provided a wonderful outreach to millions of people from throughout Southern California.

Most of all, the Marines' service to our country from these bases has helped to ensure freedom and liberty for all Americans. I know my colleagues will join with me in marking the close of an era, and in honoring the outstanding men and women of El Toro and Tustin for their half-century of dedication and commitment to safeguarding our nation's security.

A TRIBUTE TO HUGH ROBINSON

HON. ROY BLUNT
OF MISSOURI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. BLUNT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to an aviation pioneer and the community in Newton County, Missouri where he grew up. From Neosho, Missouri, Hugh Robinson entered the annals of aviation history, especially as it relates to the military. He is credited with developing the third successful aircraft flight in 1907.

From there he created a series of first flights that may be unequalled in history. He was the first pilot to execute a right turn. Prior to this, it was believed that a plane would be torn apart by the force of such a maneuver. In 1911 he made the first authorized air mail flight; the first medical flight by carrying a doctor to a sick patient by airplane; the first to fly a hydroplane and the first pilot of a monoplane. He also helped design and build the first commercial airplane. Robinson trained the first military test pilots for the United States, as well.

Perhaps he is best known as the inventor of a simple device that still makes even the modern wing of the U.S. Navy possible—the tailhook. Hugh Robinson wasn't satisfied though. He created his own career in the circus. He developed the "Globe of Death" where he rode, first a bicycle, and later a motorcycle at 60 miles per hour inside a giant globe. His death-defying act, developed in Neosho, made him the highest paid circus act in America.

This 4th of July weekend was chosen as the appropriate time to pay tribute to Robinson and his contributions to aviation and his service to country. The Neosho Municipal Airport will be named in honor of Robinson in ceremonies this weekend.

The Neosho Hugh Robinson Airport as it will be known has just finished several important improvements. The approaches to the runway had obstacles that left several hundred feet of the 5,000 foot surface unusable. Those obstacles have been removed, with crucial aid from federal sources, and now the airport can accommodate larger aircraft for a local firm that overhauls jet engines.

The road leading to the airport was relocated as part of the improvements. It will be named for Neosho Police Officer Terry Johnson, who was killed earlier this year in a flying accident at the airport.

The celebration in Neosho will be marked by hot air balloons, a Civil War living history display, an air show, ground displays of the Confederate Air Force and military aircraft, and, naturally, fireworks. Music, crafts and lots of friendly Ozarks people should make this a wonderful weekend to visit Neosho and to honor the work of Hugh Robinson. (1882–1963)

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. JOSEPH M. HOEFFEL
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. HOEFFEL. Mr. Speaker, on rollcall vote No. 258, H. Con. Res. 94, I erroneously voted "ayes." My vote should have been in the negative.

In that act, we also established the date for the start of the Cold War as September 2d 1945, to coincide with the signing of the Peace Treaty with Japan, thus ending World War II and our alliance with the Soviet Union. In that act, we also established the date for the end of the Cold War as December 26th, 1991, to coincide with the end of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the birth of the Commonwealth of Independent States.

The people of the United States of America should recognize and celebrate the grandeur of this historic accomplishment. Four hundred million people in Europe and Asia were liberated from Soviet communism; Germany was united peacefully; the states of western Europe buried their historic animosities and started creating a peaceful European Union; struggled, which boiled over into conflicts all around the world, from Korea and Vietnam to Afghanistan and El Salvador, and threatened the nuclear annihilation of the entire human race ended without that horrible outcome; the potential for a truly global economy where the potential of the entire human race is available for the first time in the history of mankind was opened; and the American people and economy, long tied to the costs and commitments of defending the Free World, were unleashed resulting in the second longest period of uninterrupted growth in U.S. history.

During the Cold War, there were moments of great fear. We all remember the sealing of the western sector of Berlin and the threat of starving an entire city; the launching of Sputnik with the realization that the Soviet Union was a determined, resourceful foe; and the Cuban Missile Crisis which led us to the brink of war.

There were also moments of great stress and despair in our own nation. We went to battle for our beliefs. In the war in Korea, we lost more than 50,000 Americans. The war in Vietnam tested America's resolve. Our nation was torn apart so badly that some scars have yet to heal.

But there were also moments of pure magnificence. The Berlin Airlift and Inchon were great military successes and added to the grandeur of the Cold War Act, a bill to recognize the accomplishments of the American people in winning the Cold War.

On September 26th, 1996, this House debated and approved without dissent, House Concurrent Resolution 181, which I offered to begin the process of national recognition for the thousand millions of people who had participated in our 46 year Cold War struggle.

In 1997, both Houses of Congress amended the President's proposed fiscal year 1998 National Defense Authorization Act to authorize a Cold War Certificate of Recognition to honor the more than 22 million veterans of the Cold War. In that act, we approved for the start of the Cold War as September 2d 1945, to coincide with the signing of the Peace Treaty with Japan, thus ending World War II and our alliance with the Soviet Union. In that act, we also established the date for the end of the Cold War as December 26th, 1991, to coincide with the end of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the birth of the Commonwealth of Independent States.

The people of the United States of America should recognize and celebrate the grandeur of this historic accomplishment.
This recognition is long overdue. Last week, in Hauppauge, New York, at the annual ceremony which commemorates the beginning of the Korean War, Korean Americans and representatives of the Korean government spent 90 minutes thanking Americans for what they sacrificed for their people and their nation. While some individuals may not realize the significance of their accomplishments, the people of Korea do. So have the people of Berlin and the people of the Federal Republic of Germany who thanked America for saving Berlin just a few months ago at a ceremony at Ronald Reagan Airport.

As the tenth anniversary of the fall of the Berlin Wall approaches, and as we begin a series of tenth anniversaries of critical events which led to the final end of the Cold War, it is appropriate that we act now to thank those generations of Americans who gave the world peace. And there is an urgency! Many who served during the last days of World War II have already departed for a better place. We need to move on this quickly to ensure that this nation extends its thanks to as many patriots as possible.

A TRIBUTE TO KIRK THOMAS BUECHNER; FOR HIS PROMOTION TO THE RANK OF EAGLE SCOUT

HON. CHARLES A. GONZALEZ
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. GONZALEZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to offer my sincerest congratulations to Kirk Thomas Buechner, Boy Scout, from San Antonio, TX, upon the notification of his advance- ment to the rank of Eagle Scout.

Boy Scouts are awarded the prestigious rank of Eagle Scout based on their faith and obedience to the Scout Oath. The Scout Oath requires members to live with honor, loyalty, courage, cheerfulness, and an obligation to service.

In addition the rank of Eagle Scout is only bestowed once a Boy Scout satisfies duties includ- ing, the completion of 21 merit badges, performing a service project of significant value to the community, and additional require- ments listed in the Scout Handbook.

In receiving this special recognition, I believe that Eagle Scout Kirk Thomas Buechner will guide and inspire his peers, toward the be- liefs of the Scout Oath. I am proud to offer my congratulations to Kirk on this respected ac- complishment.

EDEN UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST
HON. JOHN SHIMKUS
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. SHIMKUS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this time to commend the Eden United Church of Christ in Edwardsville, IL for their unparalleled contributions to the community. The church has joined hands with Habitat For Humanity to form the Vacation Bible school who's mission is to build a better foundation for life by learning the lessons of the Bible. Children join together to build toolboxes, picnic tables and other odds and ends to grace homes built by Habitat For Humanity.

Cory Luttrell, a 7-year-old participant in the school, is having a great time. "It gives people a place to put their tools after they build houses. They worked hard, so we should be helping them," Cory said. There are currently 1,100 Boy Scouts in 62 countries and they are responsible for the construction of more than 100,000 homes. The cooperation of Eden United Church of Christ and Habitat For Humanity is a great example of how organizations can come together so that they can better serve the community.

REPEALING THE ANTI-CALIFORNIA PROVISION OF THE CLEAN AIR ACT

HON. CHRISTOPHER COX
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, currently, California is arbitrarily limited to no more than 10% of the funds under the Clean Air Act's section 105 grant program. (Nationally, that program will provide $115 million in state and local clean air grants in 1999.) Yet our state re- presents more than 12% of the nation's popu- lation and pays more than 12% of total federal taxes. What's more, our state is home to the only "extreme" clean air designation in the country—the Los Angeles basin.

Today, I am introducing legislation to end this inequity, under which California generally, and Los Angeles specifically, are significantly underfunded by Clean Air Act air pollution planning formulas. The bill eliminates the 10% maximum level of funding for any one state under the section 105 state and local clean air grant program.

The bill does not authorize or compel more funds to be appropriated under the section 105 grant program. It simply states that Califor- nia should be able to receive its fair share of those funds that Congress does choose to appropriate.

This legislation is supported by the South Coast Air Quality Management District, which recently came to Washington to speak to members of our state's delegation about the need to end this arbitrary statutory limit, which directly injures California.

CONGRATULATIONS TO KELLY PHIPPS

HON. RALPH REGULA
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. REGULA. Mr. Speaker, the United States Institute of Peace held its twelfth an- nual National Peace Essay Contest and I am proud to announce that Ms. Kelly Phipps of my district won first place in Ohio. Ms. Phipps is a student at Jackson High School in Massillon, Ohio. Students are asked to write about the different measures that can be taken to prevent international conflicts.

The Peace Essay Contest is designed to encourage young people to think about inter- national conflict management and resolution.

I include a copy of her essay for my col- leagues to review:

ECONOMICS IN PREVENTATIVE DIPLOMACY: THE TREATY OF VERAILLES VS. THE MARSHALL PLAN

When desire for revenge clouds rational policy making, the results are disastrous. A comparison between the Treaty of Versailles and the Marshall Plan demonstrates effects of the inability in foreign policy to prevent conflict. After World War I, the harsh meas- ures imposed upon Germany through the Treaty of Versailles did not prevent future conflicts, but fueled the rise of the Third Reich. Under similar cir- cumstances, the Marshall Plan created after World War II successfully rebuilt Western Europe, deterring threats on two fronts and proving that measures to strengthen econo- mies are crucial to prevent hostility.

After an armistice was reached on Novem- ber 11, 1918, Lloyd George of Great Britain, Georges Clemenceau of France, and Woodrow Wilson of the United States chose to hold a conference in Paris ending World War I (A.A.I.R. 3, Goodspeed 269). Because of Ger- many's 1914 declarations of war on Russia and France, fear of further German aggres- sion made the conference the most signifi- cant conference of its kind to that point in history (A.A.I.R. 3, Goodspeed 270). To prevent another wide- spread conflict, the conference produced the punitive Treaty of Versailles and created the League of Nations for enforcement.

The treaty signed on June 28, 1919, devast- ated the German Empire. Articles 118 and 119 stripped Germany of all overseas posses- sions, turning them over to the Allied and Associated Powers (A.A.I.R. 84). Based on declarations of war on France and Russia in 1914, Articles 231 and 232 held Germany inde- pendently accountable for the war and forced compensation for all damages in foreign ter- ritories (A.A.I.R. 123). The Treaty required Germany to pay 20 billion gold marks as an initial installment (Goodspeed 273). The total cost of reparations was 132 billion marks, to be paid over 35 years (Watt 503). Germany does not allow for anything to heal the old and ugly divisions between po- litical nationalism and social democracy," warned the editors of the New Republic, claiming the Treaty of Versailles would not prevent future conflict. After World War II, the harsh meas- ures imposed upon Germany made the base of support for Nazism within the middle class (Pennock and Smith 562). A few months before the Treaty of Versailles was adopted, nationalistic parties accounted for merely 15% of the German vote. By 1924, inflation had skyrocketed and nearly 39% of Germans were voting Nationalist (Pennock and Smith 567).

In 1924, the United States funded the Dawes Plan, offering limited loans to Ger- many (Goodspeed 268). The Dawes Plan both removed the harshness of the Treaty of Versailles and eased Germany's nationalistic tendencies. After 1924, support for these par- ties decreased from 39% to 30%, illustrating that peace between economics and nation- alism (Pennock and Smith 567). However, the withdrawal of German nationalism was only temporarily; at the onslaught of the great Depression, the festering humiliation from the early 1920’s resurfaced without re-straint (Goodspeed 207).

The German elections of 1930 revealed increasing Nazi support. Party membership grew from 400,000 to 900,000, and Nazis claimed a majority of the seats in the Reichstag (Goodspeed 299). Nazi leaders such as Hitler used the humiliation and hardship caused by the Treaty of Versailles as a flash point for inciting German supremacy and desire for revenge among the German people (Goodspeed 273). The Nazi Secret Service offered employment to the nearly 6 million unemployed Germans who were turning to Nazism as a more secure alternative to the status quo (Goodspeed 296). Finally, the Enabling Act of 1933 passed in the Reichstag, giving Hitler absolute power for four years. With the entire nation under his whim, the Fuhrer could enact his dreams of a master race and German expansionism (Goodspeed 207).

While vengeance motivated the Treaty, moral concerns prevented the absolute destruction of Germany. Incidentally, it may have been this compromise that allowed Germany to reemerge as a global threat. As Machiaveli explains to Lorenzo De’ Medici in The Prince, “nations become the master of a city accustomed to freedom and does not destroy it may expect to be destroyed himself... in republics there is more life, more hatred, a greater desire for revenge; the memory of their ancient liberty does not and cannot let them rest...” (48-49, ch. VI). The Treaty was enough to spark indignation in Germany, but not strong enough to prevent revenge. While annihilation of an enemy may be key to retaining power, reducing the humiliation of the enemy through reconstruction is morally superior and can ensure lasting peace.

After World War II, the Third Reich was disbanded, leaving the German in the hands of the Allies for the remainder of the year (Shirer 1139-40). The situation resembled the period following WWI, with the addition of threats of Communist aggression from the newly empowered Soviet Union. Reconstruction was necessary, but U.S. funds were scattered among the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the Export-Import Bank and the United Nations. In the following years and 69 billion dollars later, exports were still down 41 percent from 1938 levels (Hogan 29-30).

In 1947, Secretary of State George C. Marshall introduced a plan “directed not against any country or doctrine, but against hunger, poverty, desperation and chaos...” (Marshall 29). In his speech, Marshall explained that lasting peace required a cohesive aid program to solve the economic roots of conflict (Marshall 23-24). The Marshall Plan was intended to avoid another German nationalist backlash and to create a stable democratic Europe to deter Soviet expansion (Hogan 29). Both objectives were well-founded in history. The level of militarization in Germany after the Dawes Plan, economic stability checks the threat of militant nationalism. Also, just as German aggression in WWII occurred while Europe suffered from depression, economically weak nations are more likely to be attacked. Finally, Marshall aid would create confidence in the country’s commitment (Mee 248). With the intentions of Marshall Plan logically devised, economic success was all that was needed for the prevention of conflict.

The Foreign Assistance Act of 1948 began U.S. action on Marshall’s recommendations (Hogan 89). The Economic Endorsement Act made economic cooperation a prerequisite for American aid; so the Committee for European Economic Cooperation was formed to develop a plan for European self-sufficiency (Hogan 124). Discussion in the 16-nation panel included the agriculture, mining, energy and transportation sectors, as well as recommendations for a more permanent regulatory body (Hogan 60-61). The resulting Organization for European Economic Cooperation (OEC) included all Western European nations except Germany and directed the use of U.S. aid (Hogan 125-126).

Under OEEC, the United States poured aid dollars into Europe with increasing international trade through most-favored-nation agreements. The U.S. spent over $13 billion on aid—12 percent of the U.S. GNP (Mee 258). Westerly aid funds made trade economic improvements drastic and swift. Between 1947 and 1951, Western Europe’s GNP increased by nearly $40 billion, a 32 percent increase, and industrial production grew 40 percent above 1938 levels (Wexler 250-51). With Western Europe fortified, aid could safely be extended to Germany (Mee 239).

In addition to combating nationalism, German reconstruction created a buffer to communist East Germany and added industrial resources to the European economy. Still scarred from past invasions, France refused to allow Germany to sign the OEEC protocol in April 1948. Later, with U.S. pressure, Germany has included in trade and many funds, making German reintegration a common goal (Hogan 129-130). By the fall of 1948, many issues had resolved and the Allies began to draft a program for an independent, democratic West Germany. By 1964, Marshall aid increased foreign trade by 100 percent, boosted industrial production by 600 percent and reduced unemployment to a mere 0.4%. In Germany, the Marshall Plan had become more than just an aid package; it had jump-started production, preventing the contractions that spawned the Third Reich after W.W.I. (Mee 256-57). Today, American preventive action largely consists of sanctions to debilitating enemies or diluted aid policies that rely on handouts alone. The current situations of America’s Cold War adversaries demonstrate the inadequacies of both policies. Like the Treaty of Versailles, America’s continuing vendetta against Fidel Castro has produced decades of embargoes and hardship, but no signs of capitali-cism reform (Leeden 24). In the economically unstable Russia, current policies of IMF aid may seem similar to the Marshall Plan, but missing components will allow the ruble to continually devalue. Increased trade and investment would permanently stimulate production, but dumping aid into a fragile infrastructure is temporary and wasteful (“Other Marshall Plan” 29). While the iron first of the Treaty of Versailles dragged the world into a second World War, the Marshall Plan broke the cycle of German aggression. Additionally, the reconstruction created a power balance that helped keep the Cold War from igniting a full-blown conflict. While they may intimidate some countries, harsh economic measures punish innocent civilians and will always pose the risk of a backlash. Nourishing free-trade policies address the root causes of many conflicts, promoting more history. More demonstrates the need to remove vengeance from preventative diplomacy and address the world’s problems with a more holistic, stabilizing approach.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. ROBERT W. NEY OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. NEY. Mr. Speaker, on June 8, 1999, the House voted on the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies FY 2000 Appropriations Act. Specifically, what started as the Chabot amendment (rolcall No. 174) took place, I was unavoidably detained. The Chabot amendment would have sought to prohibit funding for Market Access Program allocations. If I were present, I would have voted “no.”

SUMTER, SOUTH CAROLINA ROTARY CLUB DEVELOPS CART FUND

HON. JOHN M. SPRA TT, JR. OF SOUTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. SPRA TT. Mr. Speaker, every day Alzheimer’s disease claims more victims. Over four million Americans suffer from this dread disease, and scientists predict that unless cures are found, the number of victims will grow to fourteen million within the next twenty-five years. More people are also experiencing the tragedy second-hand as family members or friends of someone afflicted with Alzheimer’s. They too feel helpless in the face of this awful illness. Options for treatment are limited, and care for the victim can be difficult and demanding. Family and friends become frustrated, not knowing what they can do.

The members of the Rotary Club in Sumter, South Carolina have found that there is something we can do. They have devised a technique to raise money for research, a technique that could be successful if I would like to share it with Congress and call attention to it, because what Rotarians have started in Sumter deserves to be copied across America.
There is hope on the horizon for Alzheimer’s disease. Research teams are making progress in our understanding of the disease. In 1995, scientists identified the gene believed to cause the most aggressive form of the disease. But no cause or cure has been found yet, and future research will require millions of dollars.

To help support the search for a cure, the Sumter Rotary Club developed what it calls the “CART” fund—Coins for Alzheimer’s Research Trust. At each club meeting, Rotarians are asked to empty their pockets of loose change—a small gesture that has generated large results. In a nine-month period, the 155 members of the Sumter Rotary Club raised over $4,200 in this manner. Their success led them to share their idea with District 7770, which consists of 71 Rotary clubs with some 5,000 members. District 7770 adopted the project in 1996, and made Roger Ackerman Chairman and Dr. Jack Bevan and General Howard Davis (Retired) Co-Chairmen. District 7770 is driving forward with two major goals—awarding a $100,000 grant to a medical institution on the cutting edge of Alzheimer’s research and other Rotary districts to start a CART campaign. The other Rotary district in South Carolina, District 7750, plans to launch the project next month, and by next summer, the team hopes to add ten more districts. Their ultimate goal: to have Rotary International to adopt the project.

I am proud to represent these enterprising Rotarians. I commend them for spearheading this worthy project and encourage others across America to follow their example.

BRIGHTON HERITAGE MUSEUM

HON. JOHN SHIMKUS
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. SHIMKUS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to commend the residents of Brighton, IL, as well as the Brighton Heritage Museum for the great strides they have taken to educate children about the past. “May it be if people knew what happened before it would help them to decide some things in the future,” June Wilderman, curator of the museum said. The museum displays numerous artifacts and stories from American history that have been donated by residents. There is even a piece of stone taken from the site of the Washington Monument when it was being built.

I am pleased to see the community coming together to help educate its young people and trying to create a deep sense of patriotism in their children and grandchildren. Educating our youth about the past is an essential part of creating a positive future.

HONORING THE 20TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE NORTHWEST MICHIGAN HORTICULTURE RESEARCH STATION

HON. DEBBIE STABENOW
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Ms. STABENOW. Mr. Speaker, Tuesday, July 6 marks the 20th anniversary of the Northwest Michigan Horticulture Research Station. In 1979, cherry farmers, Michigan State University horticulture and Extension faculty, Michigan Department of Agriculture, USDA and fruit industry representatives banded together, sharing information and resources, to form a research center that hopes of keeping themselves on the cutting edge of agriculture techniques.

Today all of the partners in the Northwest Michigan Horticulture Research Station can reflect with pride at what they have accomplished. North America’s cherry farming industry is stronger than ever. The research station has helped northwestern farmers address unique cherry farming issues. Farmers have increased their crop yields by using innovative, field-tested agriculture techniques. Faculty have had a real life laboratory to experiment with farming techniques, and Michigan State University horticulture students have benefited from a facility to apply their classroom knowledge.

The Northwest Michigan Horticulture Research Station has brought Michigan growers the latest information on the most successful agriculture methods through a broad-based, grassroots network of farmers.

Today I would like to recognize the efforts of the Northwest Michigan Horticulture Research Station and thank the station for its continuing efforts to help Michigan agriculture address the challenges of the next century. Through the cooperative efforts of the Northwest Michigan Horticulture Research Station, northwestern Michigan will remain the “Cherry Capital of the World.”

ONE HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY OF WYANDOT COUNTY COURTHOUSE

HON. MICHAEL G. OXLEY
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, it is my honor to acknowledge the one hundredth anniversary of the Wyandot County Courthouse in Upper Sandusky, OH, in this year of its renovation and rededication.

Established in February of 1845, Wyandot County used as its first official meeting place the old Council House of the Wyandotte Indians. The sale of land in and around present-day Upper Sandusky provided the funds for the first permanent courthouse, which was used until close to the turn of the century. Construction of the current courthouse started in 1897 and was completed in June of 1900. At the original dedication of the Courthouse in August of 1900, it was described as a “magnificent public edifice, combining the classical beauties of Grecian, Doric, and Romanesque architecture” that was declared “one of the finest structures of its kind in the State of Ohio.” With its majestic dome dominating the city’s skyline, the Courthouse remains an equally magnificent sight to this day. Perhaps the most noteworthy aspects of the Courthouse, though, are the murals that adorn the courtroom and dome. Sandy Bee of Centerville, OH, took painstaking care to restore the paintings of Mercy, Truth, Justice, and Law that tell the history of the Wyandotte Indians. She also hand-painted new murals for the dome area that depict Spring, Summer, Fall, and Winter in the farming community. In addition, pictures taken by Harry E. Kinley and used during the celebration of Wyandot County’s sesquicentennial now adorn the Courthouse hallways.

I salute the Wyandot County Commissioners, Sandy Bee, and other officials, workers, and citizens of Wyandot County whose hard work has made this centennial renovation and rededication a success.

DR. GLORIA SHATTO

HON. BOB BARR
OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. BARR. Mr. Speaker, from time to time we are blessed with rare individuals who possess a vision with the power to transform a community, or skills that fundamentally reshape and revitalize an institution. Dr. Gloria Shatto, who recently passed away in Rome, GA, was one of those rare people.

When Dr. Shatto was named to the presidency of Berry College in Rome, in 1980, she became the first woman ever selected to serve as president of a Georgia college or university. During her tenure, Gloria Shatto returned Berry College to a sound fiscal footing, and firmly established its reputation as one of America’s top liberal arts schools.

During her career, Dr. Shatto made tremendous contributions to education on the faculties of the University of Houston, the Georgia Institute of Technology, and Trinity University. In government, her contributions were no less significant when she served on the Georgia Forestry Commission, the Georgia Commission on Economy and Efficiency, and the U.S. Treasury Small Business Advisory Committee. Finally, in the corporate sphere, she made similar contributions, serving on the boards of directors for the Southern Company, Georgia Power, Texas Instruments, and Becton Dickinson and Co.

The thousands of students whose lives Dr. Shatto touched join me in praising her for living her life to the fullest, and making tremendous contributions to her associates, Berry College, and the Rome community. Although she will be sorely missed, we can take comfort in the knowledge that she left behind a tremendous legacy.

CONGRATULATING DEBORAH HEART AND LUNG CENTER ON ITS 77TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. MARGE ROUKEMA
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mrs. ROUKEMA. Mr. Speaker, I rise to congratulate the Deborah Heart and Lung Center on its 77th anniversary of providing care to the residents of New Jersey. This hospital has been a leader in its field for generations, saving the lives of thousands of individuals through the dedication of its staff and volunteers. Its physicians have pioneered breakthrough developments in the treatment of Heart and lung disease and its administrators have seen that no one—no matter how poor—is turned away for lack of ability to pay. Deborah is a unique facility and we count ourselves lucky to have it in our state.

Heart disease in the No. 1 killer in America today. One in every four deaths is due to this disease. Heart disease, including treatment of heart defects in babies and children, is one of the most common causes of death in the U.S. It is a major public health problem and a leading cause of death worldwide.

Heart disease is a major public health problem and a leading cause of death worldwide. It is the No. 1 killer in America today. One in every four deaths is due to heart disease. Heart disease, including treatment of heart defects in babies and children, is one of the most common causes of death in the U.S. It is a major public health problem and a leading cause of death worldwide.

The 161-bed teaching hospital provides state-of-the-art diagnosis and treatment to adults and children. The hospital's staff includes consultants and specialists in heart, lung and vascular diseases, including treatment of heart defects in newborns, infants and children. More than 5,000 patients are treated each year.

The hospital's staff includes consultants and specialists in heart, lung and vascular diseases, including treatment of heart defects in newborns, infants and children. More than 5,000 patients are treated each year.

Dr. Henry Barenblatt was hired as the first resident physician. The 1940's were a time of growth, with the addition of a surgical operating room and additional buildings. Deborah worked closely with Dr. Charles Bailey, a Philadelphia surgeon who pioneered treatment for TB, and with the increasing need for chemical therapies for the disease. By the early 1950's, the medical community's success in combating the disease had made Deborah and other TB sanatoriums obsolete.

Rather than closing its doors, Deborah restructured itself as a hospital for heart and lung diseases beyond TB. Deborah provided support for research conducted by Dr. Bailey and arranged to provide post-operative care for heart patients who underwent surgery at Hahnemann Hospital in Philadelphia. Dr. Bailey led the first on-site heart surgery at Deborah and a series of milestones followed in quick succession, including the opening of a cardiac catheterization laboratory, Deborah's first cardiac catheterization surgery and the hospital's first surgery to implant a pacemaker.

Throughout the 1960's and 1970's, Deborah grew rapidly into a world-class heart and lung center, attracting recognized experts to practice and teach and encouraging research among its own medical staff. New facilities were opened, including a dedicated pediatric unit, and the scope of services were expanded to include emphysema and occupational lung diseases.

Today, Deborah is a world-renowned center for cardiac and pulmonary care. Its physicians have traveled around the world to perform surgery on children and teach their skills to colleagues. A number of new treatments have been pioneered at Deborah and in 1994 it was rated No. 1 in the nation for the lowest number of deaths among Medicare patients. The 161-bed teaching hospital provides state-of-the-art diagnosis and treatment to adults and children. The hospital's staff includes consultants and specialists in heart, lung and vascular diseases, including treatment of heart defects in newborns, infants and children. More than 5,000 patients are treated each year.

True to Mrs. Shapiro's motto, "There should be no price tag on life," Deborah continues to accept patients regardless of their ability to pay and has never issued a patient a bill. Chairman Gertrude Bonatti Zotta, who has been involved with Deborah for more than 50 years, announced that E. Spero Margeotes are proudly carrying Mrs. Shapiro's compassion and concern into the 21st century.

All of this has been made possible by thousands of volunteers who have given of their time and energy and helped find the necessary financial support. Regional chapters from Florida to California coordinate efforts ranging from high school fund-raisers to professional golf tournaments to raise funds for the institution.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues in the House of Representatives to join me in congratulating Deborah Heart and Lung Center on 77 years of dedicated service. A hospital is more than just a building filled with beds and medical supplies. A hospital's true spirit lies in the men and women who dedicate their own lives to improving—often literally saving—the lives of others. Most obviously, there are the doctors, nurses and other medical professionals, but also the administrators, support staff, board members, volunteers and visionaries like Dora Moness Shapiro. They all deserve our deepest thanks.

WHAT WILL BE

HON. JOHN J. DUNCAN, JR.
OF TENNESSEE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Speaker, the most respected living Tennessean is former Senator Howard Baker.

He had a very distinguished career in the Senate, having served 18 years. He also served 2 years as President Ronald Reagan's Chief of Staff.

He is a very successful lawyer in private practice in both Knoxville, TN, and Washington, DC.

Mr. Speaker, recently Senator Baker was asked to give the commencement address at the University of Virginia. I have attached a copy of his remarks that I would like to call to the attention of my colleagues and other readers of the RECORD.

"WHAT WILL BE"

It is a great honor to have been asked to be here today for what may be the most important day of your lives thus far. I congratulate you on your academic success. I commend the administration and faculty of the great university for educating you so splendidly. And I rejoice with your parents in their newly found economic freedom.

Recognizing that there exists a gap between you and your diplomas, I promise first of all to follow Winston Churchill's famous advice on public speaking: "Be sincere. Be brief. Be seated."

In thinking about these remarks, two books I read recently came to mind—one about the past and the other about the future.

Robert Lacey's The Year 1000 tells about life in England at the turn of the last millennium.

In those ancient days, life was different. It was a silent world, free of the noise of machinery or media and pungent with the aroma of nature. People worked hard, with their hands, and solved riddles for amusement. There was a world of small villages and few people, and last names were just beginning to be used to indicate one's kinship one John or Elizabeth from another.

They spoke English, a precursor to our own English language, and it had proven its remarkable adaptability, simplicity and poetry. (In this age of Jerry Springer, it is interesting to note that there were no curse words in English. One could swear to something but not at anyone.)

They put hot lances on sores, and they used leeches to draw blood from their bodies in deadly torrents of blood. Their scholarship consisted of copying the ancient texts of Greece and Rome. They clung to some of the past superstitions of their ancestors, but they had converted thoroughly to Christianity, and they kept faith with the one true church in Rome.

They knew they were living at the end of the first millennium, and this knowledge filled them with dread. This had nothing to do with that three new practical tools of tenth-century "Engla-lond" were sure that the Devil was about to be released upon the earth after a thousand years of confinement in the Bible's Book of Revelation.

They worried, more generally, about the future of society. A ten-sentence English poem, entitled "The Fortunes of Men," offers a variety of possible fates but leaves open the question of how life will evolve. For the present, the men and women of the 10th century, as of the 20th, the question of "what will be" dominated all others.

And just as the first millennium was about to pass, there appeared on the scene a remarkable invention. It was the abacus, the tenth century's version of a computer, and it would change everything in the next thousand years.

The centrality of such ingenious tools to human progress is the thesis of another book that came to mind in preparation for today. It is a remarkable little volume called The Sun, The Genome and The Internet, in which the author, Freeman J. Dyson, Princeton University, argues that three new practical tools will yield similarly extraordinary changes in the life you will live in decades to come.

Dr. Dyson suggests that solar power will finally end our dependence on the thermodynamic cycle. He predicts that the mapping of the human genome, now well underway, will revolutionize medical knowledge and practices so sophisticated as to make our present-day surgeries seem as barbaric as leeching and hot lances seem to us today.

And in the Internet the ultimate democracy of knowledge, spreading inexorably to the remotest village on Earth with stringless consequences for us all:

If what Dyson foresees is true, you may look back fifty years from now on your world of 1999 as an unremarkable period of early technology adaptation and breaking down the knowledge and practice barriers that separate the most and the least privileged. You may ask yourself, did it all happen or was it the fast-paced world of tomorrow, filled with the marvels and marvels of tomorrow all over the world, from the remote village to the heart of the city?

What will be?

Will you save the world from environmental degradation, or will global warming go on its way?

Will you thrive in a professional world that rewards enterprise and courage, or will you be ground down in a working world that consumes all your time and energy?

Will you live in a social world that truly values the content of one's character over the color of one's skin, or will you be mired in a world of ideological purity or partisan advantage renders public service intolerable?
Will you live in a moral world that recognizes and honors clear standards of right and wrong, or in the swamp of situational ethics? Or will you, like every generation before you, muddle through between these extremes as best you can?

The temptation will be strong in your lives to be mesmerized by the extraordinary things that will happen in your external world.

Most of you will live a very long time. If the demographers and scientists are right, many of you will live to be a 100 years old.

In the span of my life, we have gone from Lindbergh’s solo flight across the Atlantic to putting men on the moon. We have gone from crude crystal radio sets to television to the internet. We have gone from summers filled with fear of contracting polio to the eradicate polio and many other diseases from the face of the earth.

Your generation will do a great deal more. You may ultimately consider space travel routine. Colonies on the moon are with you in your reach. And there will be much more progress, many more practical tools, in your time than any generation, more than can even be imagined.

But I would urge you not to neglect the internal like—the life of the mind, the heart, the soul—that is the ultimate standard for measuring human progress. Each of you has an opportunity—and, I would suggest, a responsibility—to improve our culture, expand our knowledge, enrich our economy, strengthen our family, care for the outcast, comfort the afflicted, and fulfill the promise of humanity touched with divinity.

By these measures, we find ourselves today in some ways exactly where we were at the beginning of this century, if not this millennium. Now, as in the early 1900s, we are worried about the future, as then, we were concerned about senseless acts of violence. Now, as with the people in the English village in the year 1000, we are helpless against the power of the devil really was let loose on the world, and our job was to chain him up though the devil now is and will remain strong. And we face the world war, a Cold War, racial hatred and violence, terrorism, and all manner of evils on its way to the prosperity, peace, and social progress that embrace you today.

In my lifetime, it has often seemed as though the devil really was loose on the world, and our job was to chain him up again.

My point is this: hopeful as you are today, as full of promise and potential and learning and activity as you are today, life has a way of mocking your hopes and frustrating your dreams. The secret to success in life is not giving up when this happens, as it inevitably will.

The great glory of the American people is not that we have prospered without challenge, but that we have, and prospered through challenge. That is your heritage, and this is the sturdy foundation on which you stand today.

You are promising young men and women who have made your parents, your siblings your friends, and even the faculty of this great university enormously proud of you. An American world beckons you, and a few ancient miseries still beg you for relief. You are like Mr. Jefferson’s Crops of Relief. You are like Mr. Jefferson’s Crops of great university enormously proud of you.
commend her hard work and dedication to the neighborhood, and I am proud to have her as a member of my staff.

The Carl Mackley Apartments are a great example of community spirit and cooperation. The change in the neighborhood has been dramatic, and it has provided a place to live for people that need temporary assistance as well as those working families who need affordable housing. After being placed on the National Register of Historic Places and undergoing a $20 million renovation, the building was dedicated on Monday. I was extremely proud to be a part of the ribbon-cutting ceremony and look forward to seeing Carl Mackley's precedent of community spirit continue on. I would also like to insert for the RECORD an article from the Philadelphia Inquirer regarding this historical landmark.

"From the Philadelphia Inquirer, June 25, 1999"

(By Julie Stoiber)

In January 1935, when the Carl Mackley Houses opened, thousands of people converged on Juniata Park to tour the new apartment complex.

The four-story, low-rise buildings took up a full city block at M and Bristol Streets, and were separated by greens and walkways that lent a campus-like air.

Contrary to what its amenities the Mackley apartments offered in Depression-era America, it was no wonder there was a waiting list. Residents in the 284 units could take a dip in the apartment's in-ground swimming pool and clean their clothes in rooftop laundries equipped with electric washers. "From our point of view, it was an ideal situation," said William Rafsky, a resident from 1946 to 1954.

One other thing made it stand out: It was affordable.

Contrary to what its amenities would suggest, Carl Mackley was designed for the working-class. Its owner and developer was the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, a Philadelphia-based union that saw low-rent apartments as a way to help the many hosiery workers who were losing their jobs and homes.

This rare example of union-sponsored housing also had the distinction of being the first low-rent development funded by President Franklin D. Roosevelt's Public Works Administration. Six decades later, the Carl Mackley complex is again in the spotlight.

After years of private ownership and neglect, the complex on the National Register of Historic Places, has undergone a $20 million renovation and on Monday will be re-dedicated. The change in the neighborhood has been dramatic, said Farnon. "You know how when you get dressed up you feel good? That's how the Mackley's feel." Monday, at the dedication, AFL-CIO President John J. Sweeney will speak, and the development will be officially christened Carl Mackley Apartments.

Once the complex is fully occupied, Farnon plans to go in and encourage residents to organize a community association. A spirit of community, she said, is the best way to ensure that the bad part of the complex's intriguing history does not repeat itself.

"We're expecting to be fully occupied by the end of July," Harris said.

"Of all the things we've done, this will stand out," he said. "It rekindled people's interest in affordable housing. There's a lore to this project.""

On several occasions, Farnon remembered, "We did what we call a gut-rehab," said Susan Rabinovich, president of Carl Mackley, "We knocked things down and made things bigger."

The number of apartments was reduced from 284 to 184. The old units, Rabinovich said, "were functionally obsolete" because of their small size and lack of closet space. "In the 30s, people lived very differently."

The three-bedroom units used to be 675 square feet. Now, the smallest apartment in the complex is 721 square feet, the largest 1,200 square feet.

"I lived in a three-bedroom that now is a one-bedroom," said Patricia Harris, a former resident of the complex and its manager for the last six years. She recalled the old days: "Forget closet space, forget even putting a bureau in your bedroom."

Half the units in the complex are government-subsidized, and all of them are taken, Harris said. The rest are reserved for people of low to moderate income; a family of four, for example, can't have household income over $33,360.

"We're expecting to be fully occupied by the end of July," Harris said.

"The change in the neighborhood is dramatic," said Farnon. "You know how when you get dressed up you feel good? That's how I see the Mackley." Monday, at the dedication, AFL-CIO President John J. Sweeney will speak, and the development will be officially christened Carl Mackley Apartments.

Once the complex is fully occupied, Farnon plans to go in and encourage residents to organize a community association. A spirit of community, she said, is the best way to ensure that the bad part of the complex's intriguing history does not repeat itself.

IN TRIBUTE TO CHARLES W. GILCHRIST

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, I want to bring to our colleagues' attention a remarkable public servant who lost a heroic battle with cancer on June 24, Charles W. Gilchrist, a Democrat, the former executive in Montgomery County, MD, from 1978 to 1986. I never knew Charles Gilchrist, but I followed his career because just by chance, we happened to be on the same train to New York City after Election Day in 1978. He was celebrating his day as the new Montgomery County executive. I was getting away for a few days with my wife after having lost the election to be the representative for Virginia's 10th Congressional District.

I never spoke to him on the train, but I saw his joy and followed his career from my vantage point across the river in Virginia. And what impressed me the most about this courageous politician is that in 1986 he walked away from elected office to a higher calling.

There was no doubt this popular man would have been reelected and probably could have gone on to other elected positions. But when his second term ended, he announced he would leave and study for the priesthood.

And for the rest of his life cut short by cancer, he worked in his native city Chicago helping recovering alcoholics and drug addicts. Most recently, he devoted his energy to working on public housing problems in central Baltimore.

I would like to share with our colleagues two articles from the June 26, 1999, edition of The Washington Post which give more insight into the life and work of this unique man.

THE MIRACLE OF CHARLIE GILCHRIST

A HUMBLE MAN, HE TURNED FROM POLITICS TO THE MINISTRY

(From Frank Ahrens)

In 1984, Charlie Gilchrist—halfway through his second term as Montgomery County executive and seemingly poised to run for governor—shocked everyone around him by announcing that he was training to become an Episcopal priest. He was put to rest in the lost neighborhoods of Chicago and Baltimore, ministering to the wretched, walking in those neighborhoods of Chicago and Baltimore, charcoal sketches artwork—ink drawings of street scenes in Chicago and Baltimore, charcoal sketches from a drawing class, an acrylic self-portrait of a sober-looking Charlie.

"You look so happy," Phoebe teased.

He smiled.

Their marriage was about quiet smiles. They had locked eyes across a Harvard classroom and were married. Charlie was in law school. "Who's that?" he asked his buddies.

On the other side of the room, she was asking the same thing. More than once, Pheobe would come home from the stairs without help. At first, he was probably proud that he'd made it by himself, then immediately furious that his life had been reduced to such trifles. But he was happy in the Lord's service, he was sometimes described as "batic.

Over the past 35 years, Gilchrist transformed himself from a tax lawyer into a politician, then from a politician into a priest. Over the past few months, he was trying to become a recovering cancer patient.

He didn't quite make it.

On Thursday night, at around 11, Gilchrist lay in a bed at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. A HUMBLE MAN, HE TURNED FROM POLITICS TO THE MINISTRY. Dr. Kramer pronounced him dead. Janet was 37 years, at his bedside, along with his sister, Phoebe.

No one was kidding himself—everyone knew Gilchrist was terminal when he was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer in February. He was so weak that doctors suggested hospice care for the dying cleric. Since then, though, Gilchrist had responded well to weekly chemotherapy treatments, which bought him time and comfort.

But last week, death accelerated toward him and Shudder with a shuddering velocity.

I last saw Gilchrist 10 days ago, when a Post photographer and I visited his new art studio, inside a sturdy brick building in a south Baltimore neighborhood called Pigtown. A dynamic St. Alban's high school art teacher had unlocked young Charlie's talent for painting. Now, he had rented this high-ceilinged, plank-floored space and was preparing to paint again. He hoped to render the child's face. The neighborhood where he and Pheobe had lived and ministered for the past three years.

We began to climb the stairs to Gilchrist's second-floor studio. Without saying so, we all wanted him to go first, so we could back him up. But he was having none of it.

He propped himself against the door jam and shook us past. One foot was in the alley outside; the other was on the door sill, a good 12 inches higher.

"Go on, go on," he said, in a soft, weary voice, can ake it.

We filed past—first me, then the photographer, then Pheobe; all of us reluctant to leave him.

"Charlie ..." his wife began.

He was getting impatient now.

"Go on!"

"Okay," said Pheobe, with a practiced combination of cheer and exasperation. "Do what you want.

Up we went. Toward the top of the dark stairs, I turned and looked down at Gilchrist, a silver-thin silhouette backlit in a shadowy doorway. He was rocking back and forth, readying himself to vault himself up into the next stairwell. He was all angles and lines and fierce concentration.

I turned away, unable to watch, and kept climbing, I flashed back to a similar scene a couple of weeks earlier in the same stairwell. Coming down the stairs that day, Gilchrist had fought the last tread and lunged through empty space. The next two seconds were an agonizing eternity. Before anyone could reach for him, he was headed for the floor. The air rushed from Phoebe. Though he had not strength to stop himself, he contained the fall and landed on all fours.

"Damn," he cursed, under his breath.

"Oh, Charlie!" Pheobe blurted.

"I'm all right," he said, still down.

I was asked how she put up with all of Gilchrist's career changes, all the moves, the stress. "That you can still be married," he said, smiling. "That you can still share the life and work of this unique man.

More than a lot of people, Charlie understood hubris—the inability of humans to humble themselves before others and God. Through intelligence and will, he had transformed himself many times. He had accepted that he would soon die. Any other thought would have been arrogant.

"I've never seen a miracle." He did not expect one for himself.

Instead, he simply shrugged his shoulders.

"People say to me, 'Why you?'" Gilchrist said.

"I say, 'Why not me?'"

MONTGOMERY PROTOTYPE CHARLES GILCHRIST DIES

COUNTY EXECUTIVE LEFT POLITICS FOR THE PRIESTHOOD

(From Claudia Levy)

Charles W. Gilchrist, 62, a popular Demo- crat who was county executive of Mont- gomery County for eight years and then left government to become an Episcopal priest, died of pancreatic cancer June 24 at John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Gilchrist was a former tax lawyer and Maryland state senator succeeded Republican James P. Gleason, who first held the post after Mont- gomery changed its style of governance in the early 1970s. But it was Gilchrist who came to be regarded by many as the model for top elected officials in the affluent coun- ty.

Gilchrist "set the standard for good gov- ernment" in Montgomery's executive branch, said his friend and fellow Demo- cratic activist Lou D'Ovidio, a County Coun- cil aide.

In an administration that began in 1978 and ended in 1986, Gilchrist plowed money into social services such as programs for the men- tally ill, a foreshadowing of his work in church. He also worked to build housing for the elderly poor and to unclog commuter roads.

At the same time, "he was opposed to gov- ernment growing out of control," D'Ovidio said. "He was very, very careful to make sure that government was doing its job with the resources it had. He was not your big government kind of guy."

It was a period of significant growth in county population, and Gilchrist went on to develop an adversarial County Council over establishing controls over an annual budget that had grown to more than $1 bil-lion.

One effect of his efforts to control spending was that key departments were not ex- panded. His successor, Democrat Sidney Kram- er, had to find ways to pay for additions to the county payroll.

At his own inauguration, Kramer praised Gilchrist for his "decency and humanity . . . strong leadership and competence," saying that he had headed one of the county's "most effective and popular governments."

The current county executive, Democrat Douglas M. Duncan, called Gilchrist a mili- tarist and role model who had presided over "a period of tremendous change and progress" in the county. He credited Gilchrist with having a "largely responsible attitude." Duncan established Montgomery County as one of the top high-technology centers in the world.

CHILD CUSTODY PROTECTION ACT

SPEECH OF

HON. RON PAUL
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, June 30, 1999

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Speaker, in the name of a truly laudable cause (preventing abortions and protecting parental rights), today the Congress could potentially move our nation one step closer to a national police state by further expanding the list of federal crimes and usurping power from the states to adequately address the issue of parental rights and family law. Of course, it is much easier to ride the current wave of criminally federalizing all human malfeasance in the name of saving the world from some evil than to uphold a Constitutional oath which prescribes a procedural structure by which the nation is protected from what is perhaps the worst evil, totalitarianism carried out by a centralized government. Who, after all, wants to be amongst those members of Congress who are portrayed as trampling parental rights or supporting the transportation of minor females across state lines for ignoble purposes.

As an obstetrician of more than thirty years, I have personally delivered more than 4,000 children. During such time, I have not performed a single abortion. On the contrary, I have spoken and written extensively and publically condemning this "medical" procedure. At the same time, I have remained committed to upholding the Constitutional procedural protections which leave the police power decentralized and in control of the states. In the name of protecting states' rights, this bill usurps states' rights by creating yet another federal crime.

Our federal government is, constitutionally, a government of limited powers. Article one, Section eight, enumerates the legislative areas for which the U.S. Congress is allowed to act or enact legislation. For every other issue, the federal government lacks any authority or consent of the governed and only the state governments, their designees, or the people in their private market actions enjoy such rights to governance. The tenth amendment is brutally clear in stating "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." Our nation's history makes clear that the U.S. Constitution is a document intended to limit the power of central government. No serious reading of historical events surrounding the creation of the Constitution could reasonably portray it differently.

Nevertheless, rather than abide by our constitutional limits, Congress today will likely pass H.R. 1218. H.R. 1218 amends title 18, United States Code, to prohibit taking minors across State lines to avoid laws requiring the involvement of parents in abortion decisions. Should parents be involved in decisions regarding the health of their children? Absolutely. Should the law respect parents' rights to not have their children taken across state lines for contemptible purposes? Absolutely. Can a state pass an enforceable statute to prohibit taking minors across State lines to avoid laws requiring the involvement of parents in abortion decisions? Of course. But when asked if there exists constitutional authority for the federal criminalizing of just such an action the answer is absolutely not.

This federalizing may have the effect of nationalizing a law with criminal penalties which may be less desirable than those desired by some states. To the extent the federal and state laws could co-exist, the necessity for a federal law is undermined and an important bill of rights protection is virtually obliterated. Concurrent jurisdiction crimes erode the right of citizens to be free from double jeopardy. The fifth amendment to the U.S. Constitution specifies that no "person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb . . . ." In other words, no person shall be tried twice for the same offense. However, in United States v. Lanza, the high court in 1922 sustained a ruling that being tried by both the federal government and a state government for the same offense did not offend the doctrine of double jeopardy. One danger of the unconstitutionally expanding the federal criminal justice code is that it seriously increases the danger that the same defendant will be subject to being tried twice for the same offense. Despite the various pleas for federal correction of societal wrongs, a national police force is neither prudential nor constitutional.

Most recently, we have been reminded by both Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist and former U.S. Attorney General Ed Meese that more federal crimes, while they make politicians feel good, are neither constitutionally sound nor prudent. Rehnquist stated in his year-end report "The trend to federalize crimes that traditionally have been handled in state courts . . . threatens to change entirely the nature of our federal system." Meese stated that Congress' tendency in recent decades to make federal crimes out of offenses that have historically been state matters has damaged and eviscerated the administration of justice and for the principle that states are something more than mere administrative districts of a nation governed mainly from Washington.

The argument which springs from the criticism of a federalized criminal code and a federal police force is that states may be less effective than a centralized federal government in dealing with those who leave one state jurisdiction for another. Fortunately, the Constitution provides for the procedural means for Congress to preside over those issues delegated to it via the tenth amendment. The privilege and immunity clause as well as full faith and credit clause allow states to exact judgments from those who violate their state laws. The Constitution also allows the federal government to legislatively preserve the procedural mechanisms which allow states to enforce their substantive laws without the federal government imposing its substantive edicts on the states. Article IV, Section 2, Clause 2 makes provision for the rendition of fugitives from one state to another.

The current Congress passed H.R. 1218 when asked to preserve the procedural mechanisms which allow states to enforce their substantive laws without the federal government imposing its substantive edicts on the states. Article IV, Section 2, Clause 2 makes provision for the rendition of fugitives from one state to another.

Moreover, independent jurisdictions. An inadequate police force. A national, unified police force. At the same time, there is a greater cost to centralization of police power.

It is important to be reminded of the benefits of federalism as well as the costs. There are sound reasons to maintain a system of smaller, independent jurisdictions. An inadequate police force, or an "adequate" federal law improperly interpreted by the Supreme Court, preempts states' rights to adequately address public health concerns. Roe v. Wade should serve as a sad reminder of the danger of making matters worse in all states by federalizing an issue.

It is my erstwhile hope that parents will become more involved in vigilantly monitoring the activities of their own children rather than shifting parental responsibility further upon the federal government. There was a time when a popular bumper sticker read "It's ten o'clock; do you know where your children are?" I suppose we have devolved to point where it reads "It's ten o'clock; does the federal government know where your children are." Further socializing and burden-shifting of the responsibilities of parenthood upon the federal government is simply not creating the proper incentive for parents to be more involved.

For each of these reasons, among others, I must oppose the further and unconstitutional centralization of police powers in the national government and, accordingly, H.R. 1218.

TAIWAN'S ANNOUNCEMENT OF ASSISTANCE FOR THE KOSOVAR REFUGEES

HON. OWEN B. PICKETT OF VIRGINIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. PICKETT. Mr. Speaker, on Monday, June 7, 1999, President Lee Teng-hui of Taiwan made the following statement regarding assistance to Kosovar refugees:

"The huge numbers of Kosovar casualties and refugees from the Kosovo area resulting from the NATO-Yugoslavia conflict in the Balkans have captured close world-wide attention. From the very outset, the government of the ROC has been deeply concerned and we are carefully monitoring the situation's development."

"We in the Republic of China were pleased to learn last week that Yugoslavia President Slobodan Milosevic has accepted the peace plan for the Kosovo crisis proposed by the Group of Eight countries, for which specific peace agreements are being worked out."

"The Republic of China wholeheartedly looks forward to the dawning of peace on the Balkans. For more than two months, we have been concerned about the plight of the hundreds of thousands of Kosovar refugees who were forced to flee to other countries, particularly from the vantage point of our emphasis on protecting human rights. We thereby organized a Republic of China aid mission to Kosovo. Carrying essential relief items, the mission made a special trip to the refugee camps in Macedonia to lend a helping hand."

"Today, as we anticipate a critical moment of forthcoming developments in the conflict, the Republic of China administration hereby makes the following statement to the international community on behalf of all the nationals of the Republic of China:
As a member of world community committed to protecting and promoting human rights, the Republic of China would like to develop further the spirit of humanitarian concern for the Kosovar refugees living in exile as well as for the war-torn areas in dire need of reconstruction. We will provide a grant aid equivalent to about US $300 million. The aid will consist of the following:

1. Emergency support for food, shelters, medical care, and education, etc. for the Kosovar refugees, living in exile in neighboring countries.

2. Short-term accommodations for some of the refugees in Taiwan, with opportunities of job training in order for them to be better equipped for the restoration of their homeland upon their return.

3. Furthermore, support the rehabilitation of the Kosovo area in coordination with international long-term recovery programs when the peace plan is implemented.

"We earnestly hope that the above-mentioned aid will contribute to the promotion of the principle of self-determination. I wish all the refugees an early return to their safe and peaceful Kosovo homes."

This important announcement demonstrates the dedication of democratic Taiwan to the promotion of peace in the Balkan region and to the peaceful settlement of the Kosovo refugee problem. I am pleased that Taiwan has chosen to assume such an active and praiseworthy role in issues of concern to the international community.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT AUTHORIZING CONGRESS TO PROHIBIT THE PHYSICAL DESECRATION OF THE FLAG OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

SPEECH OF
HON. SANFORD D. BISHOP, JR.
OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 24, 1999

Mr. BISHOP. Mr. Speaker, to an overwhelming majority of the American people, the flag has almost a sacred meaning that words cannot adequately define—something that stands for the country's most fundamental principles of justice and opportunity and for the millions of men and women who have made freedom possible by defending these principles.

Opponents of our amendment believe flag desecration should be allowed as a right of free expression. While I understand their position, I strongly disagree with it.

Preventing someone from burning and mutilating the flag in public does not diminish the values on which the country is founded, including free expression. Instead, by protecting the flag, I believe we uphold these values, we honor them, we strengthen them.

Throughout history, in fact, our country has recognized certain limitations on freedom of expression. The government has forbidden the wearing of military uniforms by those present in or near the area where the military is fighting. The government has forbidden the wearing of the yellow ribbons on military vehicles and even within the Executive Branch.

By passing this amendment, we can restore the historic respect that we pay to the country's ideals and to the service and sacrifice that it has taken to keep them secure.

WARTIME VIOLATION OF ITALIAN AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES ACT

HON. ELIOT L. ENGEL
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today with my colleague from New York, Congressman Lazio, to introduce the Wartime Violation of Italian American Civil Liberties Act. This legislation brings to light a tragic episode in our nation's history when Italian Americans were considered enemy aliens. The civil liberty abuses that Italian Americans suffered during this time period are not well documented and are not well known, but they did occur and the truth about this story, Una Storia Segreta—the Secret Story, must be told.

December 7, 1941 is a date that is very well known, it is the day that the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. What is not so well known is that on that day Italian Americans became enemy aliens. FBI agents, military personnel, and local police began rounding up Italians labeled subversive and dangerous. Ironically, some of those labeled dangerous alien had fought as members of the United States Armed Forces during World War I. Even more ironic is the fact that many Italians deemed enemy aliens had sons in the United States Armed Services fighting to protect the freedoms that were being taken away from their parents.

Mr. Speaker, during World War II, 600,000 Italian Americans were classified as enemy aliens, more than 10,000 were forcibly evicted from their homes, 52,000 were subject to strict curfew regulations and hundreds were shipped to internment camps without due process. These civil liberties abuses, stretching from coast to coast as California fishermen had their fishing boats confiscated and were either interned or forced to relocate, while on the east coast, Ellis Island, the world renowned symbol of freedom and democracy, became a detention center for enemy aliens. Italian internees was exempt from these injustices. Ezio Pinza, the star of “South Pacific” and the singer of the signature hit “Some Enchanted Evening” was detained at Ellis Island. Pinza was accused of altering the tempo of his voice in order to send messages to the Italian government. Although these charges were clearly ludicrous, it took several high powered attorneys and two hearings to prevent him from being interned.

We must ensure that these terrible events will never be perpetrated again. We must safeguard the individual rights of all Americans from arbitrary persecution or no American will ever be secure. The least our government can do is try to right this terrible wrong by acknowledging the fact that these events did occur. To that end, this legislation calls on the Department of Justice to prepare a comprehensive report detailing the government’s unjust policies and practices during this time period. Included in the report will be an examination of ways in which civil liberties can be safeguarded during times of national emergency. We owe the Italian American community and the American public recognizes these injustices of the past in order to prevent them in the future. Sixty two of my colleagues have joined me in cosponsoring this bill, and I ask you Mr. Speaker, to please support this important legislation.

INTRODUCTION OF THE ARCTIC TUNDRA HABITAT CONSERVATION ACT

HON. JIM SAXTON
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to introduce the Arctic Tundra Habitat Emergency Conservation Act. This legislation will address the devastating impact that an exploding population of light geese is having on the fragile Canadian Arctic tundra.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has been monitoring light geese populations for over 50 years. During that time, the population that migrated to the Mid-Continent region has increased from 800,000 birds in 1969 to more than 5 million today. This population is projected to increase more than five percent each year and, in the absence of new wildlife management actions, there will be more than 6.8 million breeding light geese in three years.

As a member of world community committed to protecting the environment, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has been conducting scientific research to promote the conservation of the light geese. This research has shown that the light geese population is having a devastating impact on the fragile Canadian Arctic tundra.

The Arctic Tundra Habitat Conservation Act will address the devastating impact that an exploding population of light geese is having on the fragile Canadian Arctic tundra.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has been monitoring light geese populations for over 50 years. During that time, the population that migrated to the Mid-Continent region has increased from 800,000 birds in 1969 to more than 5 million today. This population is projected to increase more than five percent each year and, in the absence of new wildlife management actions, there will be more than 6.8 million breeding light geese in three years.

While these geese are fully protected under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of 1918, this unprecedented population explosion is creating serious problems. The geese's appetite for Arctic coastal tundra has created a strip of desert stretching 2,000 miles in Canada. These birds are world-class foragers, and their favorite foods are found in the 135,000 acres that comprise the Hudson Bay Lowland Salt Marsh ecosystem. In fact, they like this vegetation so much they are eating it much faster than its ability to regrow. These geese are literally eating themselves out of house and home and, in the process, destroying thousands of acres of essential, irreplaceable nesting habitat. These wetlands are critical to the survival of not only light geese but hundreds of other migratory species including brants, black ducks, mallards, and dozens of songbirds.

According to various scientists, one-third of the lowlands habitat has been destroyed, one-third is on the brink of devastation, and the remaining one-third is overgrazed.

In response to this growing crisis, representatives from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the National Audubon Society and various State fish and game agencies, and nongovernmental organizations including Ducks Unlimited and the National Audubon Society formed the Arctic Goose Habitat Working Group. This ad hoc group met over a period of many months, and the results of their deliberations were incorporated within a report entitled “Arctic Ecosystem in Peril”. While this report issued in 1997 contained a number of recommendations, its clear conclusion was that the population of light geese must be immediately reduced by at least 5 to 15 percent each year. This report stated: "This habitat damage is increasing in extent and will not be corrected or reversed by any known natural phenomenon. We can forecast how long it will be before most of the finite supply of habitat that is available for nesting by tundra and coastal-breeding birds will be permanently degraded or destroyed."

On November 9, 1998, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service issued two proposed rules to reduce the ever-expanding population of light geese. These rules did not embrace all of the recommendations of the Arctic Goose Habitat Working Group. In fact, they were a modest effort to increase the harvest of light geese by authorizing the use of electronic goose calls, unplugged shotguns, and allowing certain States to authorize hunting outside of the traditional hunting season which normally runs from September 1st to March 10th. At the time, the Director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service stated "Too many light geese are descending each year on nesting areas that simply cannot support them all. If we do not take steps now, these fragile ecosystems will continue to deteriorate to the point that they can no longer support light geese or the many other wildlife species that share this fragile habitat. The steps proposed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service are strongly supported by the Canadian Wildlife Service."

After issuing these proposed regulations, the Service received over 1,100 comments from diverse interests representing State wildlife agencies, Flyway Councils, private and native organizations, and private citizens. A majority of the comments strongly supported the proposed actions by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which has conducted a thorough environmental assessment of the various regulatory options to reduce the population.

On April 15, 1999, the Subcommittee on Fisheries Conservation, Wildlife and Oceans, which I chair, conducted its second oversight hearing on Mid-Continent light geese. At that hearing, Director Clark testified that "virtually every credible wildlife biologist in both countries, believes that the Mid-Continent light geese populations have exceeded the carrying capacity of their breeding habitat and that the population must be reduced to avoid long-term damage to an ecosystem important to many other wildlife species in addition to snow geese."

In addition, a representative of the National Audubon Society testified that "these burgeoning numbers of Mid-Continent lesser snow geese are living longer, are healthier, and are reproducing at an alarming rate. We have already altered the course of nature and that is why the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Canadian Wildlife Service, the International Association of State and Territorial Wildlife Agencies, the Flyway Councils, and almost every well-known wildlife biologist has flatly rejected to "do nothing" approach. It is wrong and it will cause irreparable harm to the Arctic tundra habitat."

I want to personally commend the Director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Mr. Jamie Clark, for her tireless leadership and courage on this difficult issue. The Service went to extraordinary lengths to carefully evaluate each of the various management options, obtain the views of each of the affected stakeholders and to take the best steps for the species and its habitat. The regulations it issued were a responsible step in the right direction and they were fully consistent with the recommendation of the Arctic Goose Habitat Working Group.

"If I do not simply do nothing, I am today introducing the Arctic Tundra Habitat Emergency Conservation Act. This is a simple bill. It will legislatively enact the two regulations, already carefully evaluated and approved by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. What this bill does is add the flexibility to allow the use of normally prohibited electronic goose calls and unplugged shotguns during the regular hunting season provided that other waterfowl and crane species have been closed. In addition, the affected States are given the authority to implement conservation and to do under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act that would allow hunters to take Mid-Continent light geese outside of the traditional hunting framework. Both of these rules will give States a better opportunity to increase their light goose harvest."

My bill legislatively enacts these regulations in their identical form. In addition, the bill sunsets when the Service has completed both its environmental impact statement and a new regulatory rule on Mid-Continent light geese. This rule could be the same from different from those originally proposed in November of last year. My bill is an interim solution to a very serious and growing environmental problem. As Director Clark so eloquently state, "For years, the United States has inadvertently contributed to the growth of this problem through changes in agricultural and wetland management. Now we can begin to say we are part of the solution. If we do not take action, we risk not only the health of the Arctic breeding grounds but also the future of many of America's migratory bird populations."

I wholeheartedly agree with that statement and urge my colleagues to join with me in trying to stop this environmental catastrophe by supporting the Arctic Tundra Habitat Emergency Conservation Act.

I am pleased that a number of our distinguished colleagues, including Don Young, John Dingell, Saxby Chambliss, Collin Peterson, Chip Pickering, Duncan Hunter, Duke Cunningham, and John Tanner have agreed to join with me in this effort.

VAIDOD LEGISLATION: INTRODUCED: USING ACCURACY TO ADJUST THE GEOGRAPHIC IN-EQUITY IN THE AAPCC

HON. JIM MCDERMOTT
OF WASHINGTON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. MCDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, today I am introducing legislation to use accuracy as one way to address the geographic inequity of Medicare's adjusted average per capita cost (AAPCC) rate by ensuring that Medicare-eligible veterans are calculated in AAPCC updates.

Until BBA 97, AAPCC rates were determined based on five year’s worth of historical per-capita Medicare fee-for-service spending. Medicare AAPCC rates also included provisions for medical education payments and Medicare disproportionate share payments.

Memorialized by the Department of Veterans Affairs, spending from local FFS spending and set a minimum 1998 AAPCC “floor” rate of $367. It also made a number of changes to guarantee minimum annual rate increases of 2%. BAA 97 also carved out the medical education component from the AAPCC over 5 years. Unfortunately, these changes do not address the fundamental inequity in the AAPCC calculations that Washington faces.

The trouble with the AAPCC methodology is that it punishes cost-efficient communities with low AAPCC increases while higher-priced inefficient markets receive increases well above average. In 1997, WA state health plans had an average payment rate increase of 3.8% while the national per capita cost rate increase was 5.9% Counties in other state across the nation had increases as high as 8.9%. Currently every Washington State County AAPCC is below the national average.

USE ACCURACY AS A PARTIAL FIX

A simplified explanation of the new AAPCC calculation is that all fee-for-service costs in a given county are divided by all Medicare beneficiaries who are eligible for both Medicare and military Medicare coverage sometimes receive care at military (VA & DoD) facilities. With the creation Medicare Subvention Demonstration sights, this will occur more often.

The computation of the AAPCC includes all Medicare beneficiaries in the denominator. However, since the facilities providing care to military eligible beneficiaries do not report Medicare costs to HCFA, the numerator of the AAPCC excludes any costs Medicare beneficiaries received in these facilities. This results in an understatement of the AAPCC wherever there are military health care facilities. States or countries with a significant military medical presence receive disproportionately low rates due to this methodology lapse.

While the national average military AAPCC understatement is 3%, in King County it is 4.3% and Pierce County it's 22.6%.

My legislation will revise the methodology to include both the Medicare beneficiaries and the costs for all their Medicare services—including those received in fee-for-service and at military facilities—in the AAPCC calculations. Using accuracy as a means to boost AAPCC rates is both a policy-justified and a politically defensible way to begin addressing the geographic inequity in the Medicare system.

TRIBUTE TO LINDA MITCHELL

HON. XAVIER BECERRA
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. BECERRA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay a heartfelt tribute to Linda Mitchell, a dear friend and tireless fighter for justice and equality. Linda died Tuesday, June 22, 1999 at her home in Pasadena, California. She was 52.

Linda Mitchell was born and raised in the State of Ohio. The third of five children, she received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Home Economics from Ohio State University. After completing her education, she moved to California. First living in San Diego and then in Los Angeles.

Linda was an individual with deep compassion and conviction. She used every bit of her energy and time to fight for the rights of all people, regardless of race, creed, or economic circumstances. She was respected and admired for her work on behalf of those less fortunate, in particular immigrants to the United States of America.

She always employed her expertise in public relations and communications to champion the causes of others. Linda chose her avenues of involvement carefully, working for many of the nation’s most worthy organizations, including the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund, United Way of Greater Los Angeles, Coalition for Humane Immigrant Rights of Los Angeles, Dolores Mission Women’s Cooperative, and the International Institute. In her quest for justice, she served as a Board Member for the American Civil Liberties Union. Understanding the importance of the press in this country, she was a member of Fairness and Accuracy in Reporting.

Though small in size, Linda Mitchell was big of heart. When she walked into a room, you might not see her right away, but you could feel her presence because she exuded warmth and love for her fellow human being. She helped set up parenting classes for refugees from the former Soviet Union and a support center for Alzheimer’s disease victims and their families.

With health a constant challenge, Linda never let physical limitations prevent her from doing anything. She traveled beyond her hemisphere to Europe and to China. She wanted to learn as much as possible about the world so she could change it.

I have never met a person more grounded on the value of human dignity nor more dedicated to promoting its survival. Linda always had a way of extracting that extra effort from me to maximize my service to the public. She has been a partner in work, a counsel in policy and a model in ethics.

Linda is remembered by friends and colleagues for her selflessness, generosity, and integrity—a woman who was dedicated to the pursuit of justice and equality. She is also remembered for her love of children, her wonderful cats, and her scrumptious desserts.

A Memorial Service will be held on Thursday, July 1, 1999 at 3:00 p.m. at the Throop Unitarian Universalist Church in Pasadena, California. There will also be a Memorial Service in Marion, Ohio where Linda will be buried on July 10, 1999.

Linda is survived by her father and mother, Ted and Elaine Mitchell; two sisters Judy LaMusga and Karen Mitchell; one brother Alan Mitchell; two nieces Cindy and Katie Mitchell; and two nephews Rob and Michael Mitchell. Her brother Bob Mitchell is deceased.

Mr. Speaker, Linda Mitchell left us too soon, will so much be missed and so much to teach. She epitomized all that is good about America. I feel deeply privileged to have known her. I will forever remember her fondly. It is with great pride, yet profound sorrow, that I ask my colleagues to join me today in saluting this exceptional human being.

INTEREST ALLOCATION REFORM ACT

HON. ROB PORTMAN
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. Speaker, on June 17, 1999, joined by Mr. Matsui of California, I introduced H.R. 2270, a bill to correct a fundamental distortion in the U.S. tax law that results in double taxation of U.S. taxpayers that have operations abroad.

The United States taxes U.S. persons on their worldwide income, but allows a foreign tax credit against the U.S. tax on foreign-source income. The foreign tax credit limitation applies so that foreign tax credits may be applied against the U.S. tax on U.S.-source income. In order to compute the foreign tax credit limitation, the taxpayer must determine its taxable income from foreign sources. This determination requires the calculation of deductions between U.S.-source gross income and foreign-source gross income. Special rules enacted as part of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 apply for purposes of the allocation of interest expense. These rules generally require that interest expense incurred by the U.S. members of an affiliated group of corporations must be allocated based on the aggregate of all the U.S. and foreign assets of the U.S. members of the group.

The interest allocation rules purport to reflect the principle of fungibility with interest expense treated as attributable to all the activities and property of the U.S. members of a group regardless of the specific purpose for which the debt is incurred. However, the present-law rules enacted with the 1986 Act do not accurately reflect the fungibility principle because they apply fungibility only in one direction. Accordingly, the interest expense incurred by the U.S. members of an affiliated group is treated as funding all the activities and assets of such group, including the activities and assets of the foreign members of the group. However, in this calculation, the interest expense actually incurred by the foreign members of the group is ignored and thus is not recognized as funding either their own activities and assets or any of the activities and assets of other group members. This “one-way” fungibility approach to fungibility is a gross economic distortion.

By disregarding the interest expense of the foreign members of a group, the approach reflected in the present-law interest allocation rules causes a disproportionate amount of U.S. interest expense to be allocated to the foreign assets of the group. This over-allocation of U.S. interest expense to foreign assets has the effect of reducing the amount of the group’s income that is treated as foreign-source income for U.S. tax purposes, which in turn reduces the group’s foreign tax credit limitation for present-law purposes. This reduces the availability of foreign tax credits, and lead to double taxation of the foreign income earned by the U.S. multinational group.

This double taxation of the income that U.S. multinational corporations earn abroad is contrary to fundamental principles of international taxation and imposes on U.S. multinational corporations a significant cost that is not borne by their foreign competitors. The present-law interest allocation rules thus impose a burden on U.S.-based multinationals that hinders their ability to compete against their foreign counterparts. Indeed, the distortions caused by the interest allocation rules impose a substantial cost that affects the ability of U.S.-based multinationals to compete against their foreign counterparts both with respect to foreign operations and with respect to their operations in the United States.

H.R. 2270 will reform the interest allocation rules to eliminate the distortions caused by the present-law approach. The elimination of these distortions will reflect the fundamental tax policy goal of avoiding double taxation and will eliminate the competitive disadvantage at which the present-law interest allocation rules place U.S.-based multinationals. A detailed technical explanation of the provisions of H.R. 2270 follows.

TECHNICAL EXPLANATION OF H.R. 2270

In General

The bill would modify the present-law interest allocation rules of section 863(c) that were enacted by the Tax Reform Act of 1986. The bill embodies the provisions that were incorporated in the Senate bill with the 1986 Act. Under the bill’s modifications, interest expense generally would be allocated... by applying the principle of fungibility to the taxpayer's worldwide affiliated group (rather than just the U.S. affiliated group). In addition, under special rules, interest expense incurred by a lower-tier U.S. member of an affiliated group could be allocated to the foreign members of the expanded affiliated group for purposes of determining interest expense incurred by a foreign member.

As under the present-law rules, taxpayers would be able to allocate and apportion interest expense incurred by a foreign member to the basis of assets (rather than gross income). Because foreign members of an affiliated group would be included in the worldwide affiliated group, the computation would take into account the assets of such foreign members (rather than the stock in such foreign members). Also as under the subgroup rule, if the subgroup method is used, the basis adjustment rules would not be applicable to the stock of the foreign members of the expanded affiliated group (because such members would be included in the group for interest allocation purposes).

Under the bill, a taxpayer would be able to make a one-time election to apply either the interest allocation rules currently contained in section 884(e) or the modified rules reflected in the bill. Such election would be required if a U.S. member with qualified debt deals with a related party on a basis that is not arm's length. Interest attributable to any debt that is recharacterized as non-qualified debt in the subgroup method would first be allocated to the entire worldwide affiliated group (rather than to the subgroup).

If this subgroup method is used, an equalization payment would be made on the allocation and apportionment of interest expense of members of the affiliated group that is attributable to non-qualified debt. Such interest expense would be allocated and apportioned first to foreign sources to the extent necessary to achieve (to the extent possible) the allocation and apportionment that would have resulted had the subgroup method not been applied.

FINANCIAL SERVICES GROUP ELECTION

Under the bill, a modified and expanded version of the special bank group rule of present law would apply. Under this election, the allocation and apportionment of interest expense could be determined separately for the subgroup of the expanded affiliated group that consists solely of banks which are predominantly engaged in the active conduct of a banking, insurance, financing, or similar business.

Under this election, the interest expense attributable to non-qualified debt would be first allocated to the expanded affiliated group. If this subgroup method is used, the basis adjustment rules would not be applicable to the stock of the foreign members of the expanded affiliated group (because such members would be included in the group for interest allocation purposes).

Under the bill, a taxpayer would be able to make a one-time election to apply either the interest allocation rules currently contained in section 884(e) or the modified rules reflected in the bill. Such election would be required if a U.S. member with qualified debt deals with a related party on a basis that is not arm's length. Interest attributable to any debt that is recharacterized as non-qualified debt in the subgroup method would first be allocated to the entire worldwide affiliated group (rather than to the subgroup).

If this subgroup method is used, an equalization payment would be made on the allocation and apportionment of interest expense of members of the affiliated group that is attributable to non-qualified debt. Such interest expense would be allocated and apportioned first to foreign sources to the extent necessary to achieve (to the extent possible) the allocation and apportionment that would have resulted had the subgroup method not been applied.

EFFECTIVE DATE

The bill would be effective for taxable years ending after December 31, 1999.

Betty went on to become active in Guam’s political, civic, and community affairs. Having married an island-resident, Joe Castro Guerrero, Betty relocated to Guam in the 1950’s. From 1951 to 1960, she worked as a teacher in the Guam public school system. Between 1954 and 1957, she also worked as a part-time instructor at the University of Guam. In 1960, prior to being hired as a budget and management analyst for the Government of Guam’s Bureau of Budget and Management, she made a move from teaching to school administration. In 1968, she was named director of the Head Start program for the University of Guam and, in 1969, she became the assistant to the President of the University.

From 1969 to 1976, Betty administered the Comprehensive Health Planning Program while, at the same time, serving as Executive Director to the Territorial Planning Council. She worked as a consultant for the Guam Legislature’s Committee on Territorial-Federal Affairs from 1977 until 1979, when she was named Director of the Bureau of Planning. She served under this capacity until 1983. In 1984, she resumed work with the Department of Education as an opportunity room teacher. She worked for this program designed to help troubled students until 1987. Although she might have taken it slow after her Department of Education job, Betty never really retired. She kept herself occupied with a wide range of activities. She was always willing to impart and share her expertise, enthusiasm, and energies to deserving activities and projects. We have been blessed to have her choose to be part of our community. The legacy she leaves behind includes almost five decades of government and community service. She will be greatly missed by all of us on Guam.

On behalf of the people of Guam, I join her children, Leonard, Clarice, and Stephen, who, together with her grandchildren, Nicole, Ashley, Kathleen, Mason, and Stephen II, in celebrating her life and mourning the loss of a mother, a grandmother, and fellow educator. Adios, Betty.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT AUTHORIZING CONGRESS TO PROHIBIT THE PHYSICAL DESCRIBATION OF THE FLAG OF THE UNITED STATES

SPEECH OF HON. STENY H. HOYER OF MARYLAND IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Thursday, June 24, 1999

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in opposition to H.J. Res. 33, the proposed constitutional amendment to prohibit the physical desecration of our flag. And, in this respect, I take no pleasure in doing so: Like the vast majority of Americans, I too condemn those malcontents who would desecrate our flag—a universal symbol for democracy, freedom and liberty, grab attention for themselves and inflame the passions of patriotic Americans.

Further, I fully appreciate and respect the motivations of those who offer and support this amendment, particularly the patriotic men and women who so faithfully served this Nation in our armed services and in other capacities. Their strong feelings on this issue should neither be questioned nor underestimated. They deserve our respect.

However, I respectfully disagree with them and will oppose an amendment for the reasons so eloquently articulated by Senator Mitch McConnell of Kentucky. In opposing a similar amendment a few years ago, Senator McConnell stated that it “rips the fabric of our Constitution at its very center: the First Amendment.” Our respect and reverence for the flag should not provoke us to damage our Constitution, even in the name of patriotism."

Those of us who oppose this amendment do so not to countenance the actions of a few misfits, but because we believe the question before us today is how we—the United States of America—are to deal with individuals who dishonor our Nation in this manner. I submit, Mr. Speaker, that a constitutional amendment is neither the appropriate nor best method for dealing with those malcontents. As the late Justice Brennan wrote for the Supreme Court in Texas v. Johnson: “The way to preserve the flag’s special role is not to punish those who feel differently about these matters. It is to persuade them that they are wrong. We can imagine no more appropriate response to burning a flag than waving one’s own.”

Furthermore, it troubles me that this amendment, if approved, would ensclose the vile actions of a few provocateurs into the very document that guarantees freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, and freedom to petition the government. That document, of course, is our Constitution. In more than 200 years, our Constitution has been amended only 27 times, and nearly all of those amendments guarantee or expand rights, liberties and freedoms. Only one amendment—prohibition—constricted freedoms and soon was repealed.

I simply do not believe that our traditions, our values, our democratic principles—all embodied in our Constitution and the Bill of Rights—should be overridden to prohibit this particular manner of speech, even though I completely disagree with it. Free speech is often a double-edged sword. However, if we value the freedoms that define us as Americans, we should refrain from amending the Constitution to limit those same freedoms to avoid being offended.

Finally, while even one act of flag burning is one too many, I do not believe that flag desecration is rampant in our Nation or so harms the Republic that nothing short of a constitutional amendment is needed.

I remind my colleagues that if we approve this amendment, we put our great Nation in the company of the oppressive regimes in China, Iran, and Cuba—all of whom have similar laws protecting their flags. Needless to say, when it comes to free speech, the United States of America is the world’s leader. It does not follow China, Iran or Cuba.

Our flag is far more than a piece of cloth, a few stripes, 50 stars. Our flag is a universal symbol for rights and freedom, and decency that is recognized throughout the world. The inflammatory actions of a few misfits cannot extinguish those ideals. We can only do that ourselves. And I submit that a constitutional amendment to restrict speech—even speech such as this—is the surest way to stoke the embers of those who will push for even more restrictions.

HONORING THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE VILLAGE OF CASEYVILLE

HON. JERRY F. COSTELLO OF ILLINOIS IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. COSTELLO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of the 150th Anniversary of the Village of Caseyville.

The Village of Caseyville first began to be settled in the 1840’s. While today the area is well known for its small town charm, it was recognized in the 19th century as a coal-mining community.

Coal was not only a source of fuel and economic prosperity, but it influenced the further development of the community as well as regional transportation. Indeed, one of the first railroads in St. Clair County began in Caseyville, sponsored by the Illinois Coal Company.

Caseyville has also long been recognized as a quiet force in Illinois politics. The namesake of the town, Zadok Casey, served in the Illinois State Assembly as both a State Representative, State Senator, and Lieutenant Governor. He eventually served in the U.S. Congress before returning to the Illinois Assembly to serve in the State House and Senate again.

Today, I am proud to represent Caseyville, a close community of churches, civic groups, and businesses. This weekend as the Nation celebrates the anniversary of our country’s independence, Caseyville residents will also proudly remember their own place in American History.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing the Village of Caseyville in commemoration of its 150th Anniversary.

THE GENETIC NONDISCRIMINATION IN HEALTH INSURANCE AND EMPLOYMENT ACT

HON. LOUISE McINTOSH SLAUGHTER OF NEW YORK IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Thursday, July 1, 1999

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I am proud to rise today to announce the introduction of the Genetic Nondiscrimination in Health Insurance Employment Act, a bill that will protect all Americans against the misuse of their genetic information.

Genetic information is among the most powerful, personal, and private information we can have about ourselves. Increasingly, genetics can give us insights into the fundamental characteristics that make us individuals—into what makes our eyes blue, our skin freckled, our bones more prone to breaking, our family members unusually long-lived. Yet while genetic information can offer insights, it rarely extends guarantees. Few genes carry an absolute assurance of developing a given condition or disease. Rather, the vast majority of genes increase or decrease our health risks, interacting with a complex web of environmental and other factors to produce an actual health outcome.

Our understanding of genetics and the interplay between genes and outside influences is still in its infancy, but is growing every day. The Human Genome Project, coordinated by the National Human Genome Research Institute, now predicts that we will have a “working draft” of the entire human genome by early in the year 2000. A complete, highly accurate transcript will be completed only perhaps two to three years later. In the meantime, science will continue racing ahead to identify genes associated with specific traits and diseases. Before long, new gene-based therapies will likely be available to treat genetic diseases, ushering in a new era in human medicine.

The promise of genetic research and technology seems almost limitless. Unfortunately, the potential for abuse of genetic information is also considerable. Many health insurers and employers have already expressed a keen interest in the potential to use genetic information. In some cases, this genetic information would not be used to pursue the best interests of the individuals involved. Health insurers may wish to use genetic data to determine which consumers are likely to be the most or least healthy, setting insurance premiums accordingly. Denying coverage altogether, or permitting employers to use genetic information in hiring or promotion decisions, or as a tool to keep their company’s insurance premiums low. In either situation, such actions would effectively punish individuals for being born with certain genes.

Americans are deeply concerned about the possibility of genetic discrimination. In a recent poll of Better Homes & Gardens readers, fully 90 percent of respondents said they were extremely, very, or somewhat concerned when asked, “How concerned are you that [genetic] tests will be used to deny health insurance or even jobs?” Even more worrisome, evidence is emerging that many people are deciding not to participate in clinical trials or genetic research because they fear their genetic information will be used against them.

The Genetic Nondiscrimination in Health Insurance and Employment Act. With completion of the human genome mapping imminent, we cannot afford to waste any more time in addressing these critical issues. Congress must act quickly to protect all Americans against genetic discrimination and secure the future of genetic research.

HEALTH OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

SPEECH OF

HON. NANCY PELOSI
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, J une 30, 1999

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, people from my district in San Francisco come to visit my office wanting to talk about their personal battle against disease. The parents of children with juvenile diabetes, women fighting a breast cancer diagnosis, families of people with Parkinson’s, and people struggling with HIV disease and AIDS.

They come to talk about different problems, but speak with the same resounding voice about how they want Congress to respond. Their message to me, and to all of us, is that funding for the National Institutes of Health must be doubled over five years.

My colleagues, we must heed their message and continue to increase NIH funding to achieve this goal. As a member of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor-HHS-Education, I strongly supported last year’s $2 billion, or 15%, increase in the research budget at the NIH, bringing total funding to $15.6 billion. And this year, I am an original cosponsor of H. Res. 89, legislation that expresses the need for meeting civilian agency computer security needs. Joining me as cosponsors of this important legislation is Mr. Bart Gordon of Tennessee and Mrs. Connie Morella of Maryland, the Chairwoman of the Science Committee’s Technology Subcommittee.

The bill amends and updates the Computer Security Act of 1987 which gave the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) the lead responsibility for developing security standards and technical guidelines for civilian government agencies’ computer security. Specifically, the bill:

1. Reduces the cost and improves the availability of computer security technologies for Federal agencies by requiring NIST to promote the Federal use of off-the-shelf products for meeting civilian agency computer security needs.

2. Enhances the role of the independent Computer System Security and Privacy Advisory Board in NIST’s decision-making process. The board, which is made up of representatives from industry, federal agencies and other outside experts, should oversee the development of standards and guidelines for Federal systems.

3. Requires NIST to develop standardized tests and procedures to evaluate the strength of foreign encryption products. Through such tests and procedures, NIST, with assistance from the private sector, will be able to judge the relative strength of foreign encryption, thereby defusing some of the concerns associated with the export of domestic encryption products.

4. Clarifies that NIST standards and guidelines are to be used for the acquisition of security technologies for the Federal Government and are not intended as restrictions on the production or use of encryption by the private sector.

5. Addresses the shortage of university students studying computer security. Of the 5,500 PhDs in Computer science awarded over the last five years in Canada and the U.S., only 16 were in fields related to computer security. To help address such shortfalls, the bill establishes a new computer science fellowship program for graduate and undergraduate students studying computer security; and
6. Requires the National Research Council to conduct a study to assess the desirability of creating public key infrastructures. The study will also address advances in technology required for public key in technology required for public key infrastructure.

7. Establishes a national panel for the purpose of exploring the relevant factors associated with the development of a national digital signature infrastructure based on uniform standards and of developing model practices and standards associated with certification authorities.

All these measures are intended to accomplish two goals. First, assist NIST in meeting the ever-increasing computer security needs of Federal civilian agencies. Second, to allow the Federal Government, through NIST, to harness the ingenuity of the private sector to help address its computer security needs.

Since the passage of the Computer Security Act, the networking revolution has improved the ability of Federal agencies to process and transfer data. It has also made that same data more vulnerable to corruption and theft.

The GAO has also identified the lack of adequate security for Federal civilian computer systems as a significant problem. Since June of 1993, the General Accounting Office (GAO) has issued over 30 reports detailing serious information security weaknesses at 24 of our largest Federal agencies.

The Science Committee has held seven hearings on computer security since I became Chairman in 1997. During the hearings, members of the Science Committee heard from some of the most respected experts in the field. They all agreed that the Federal Government must do more to secure the sensitive electronic data it possesses.

The Federal Government is not alone in its need to secure electronic information. The corruption of electronic data threatens every sector of our economy. The market for high-quality computer security products is enormous, and the U.S. software and hardware industries are responding. The passage of this legislation will enable the Federal Government, through NIST, to benefit from these technological advances.

I look forward to working with all interested parties to advance the Computer Security Enhancement Act of 1999. In my estimation, it is a good bill, and I am hopeful we can move it through the legislative process in short order.

THE COMPUTER SECURITY ENHANCEMENT ACT OF 1999

HON. BART GORDON
OF TENNESSEE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. GORDON. Mr. Speaker, today, I am pleased to join Chairman SENSENBRENNER in introducing the Computer Security Enhancement Act of 1999. I was an original co-sponsor of similar legislation in the 105th Congress. The measure follows a stream of attacks just this past week on government Web sites including the Senate, White House, the National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration’s severe weather warning site, the Defense Department and the FBI’s National Infrastructure Protection Center, whose very purpose is to protect federal sites from such attacks.

The Computer Security Enhancement Act of 1999 will encourage the use of computer security products, both by federal agencies and the private sector. A key provision will support the new electronic economy. I am convinced that we must have trustworthy and secure electronic network systems to foster the growth of electronic commerce. This legislation builds upon the successful track record of the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) in working with industry and other federal agencies to develop a consensus on the necessary standards and protocols required to support electronic commerce.

Chairman SENSENBRENNER has already outlined the provisions of this bill. However, I would like to take a few minutes to explain provisions I added to this legislation that are based on H.R. 1572, the Digital Signature Act of 1999, which I introduced with the support of Chairman SENSENBRENNER.

When I introduced H.R. 1572, I said that it was a work in progress. Section 13 of the Computer Security Enhancement Act, which we are introducing today, is the result of discussions I have had with industry and federal agencies.

As a result of these discussions, the general provisions in H.R. 1572 have been re-drafted to include all electronic authentication techniques. Section 13 requires NIST, working with industry, to develop minimum technical standards and guidelines for Federal agencies to follow when using electronic authentication technologies. In addition, Section 13 authorizes the Undersecretary of Commerce for Technology to establish a National Policy Panel for Digital Signatures to explore the factors associated with the development of a National Digital Signature Infrastructure based on uniform model guidelines and standards to enable the widespread utilization of digital signatures in the private sector.

I want to highlight that these provisions are technology neutral. Rather than encourage Federal agencies to use uniform standards and criteria in deploying electronic authentication technologies and to ensure that their systems are interoperable, the provisions also encourage agencies to use commercial off-the-shelf software (COTS) whenever possible to meet their needs. None of these provisions give the Federal government the authority to establish standards or procedures for the private sector.

The use of electronic authentication technologies are critical for the continued growth and security of electronic transactions on the Internet. With the growth and/or the Internet we have lost the ability to actually “know” who we are communicating with is who they say they are. In order to exchange sensitive documents or to do business transactions with confidence it is important that electronic authentication systems are used that both provide the sender and/or the recipient and verify that the information exchanged has not been altered in transit. Electronic authentication is as much of a computer security issue as having good firewalls, strong encryption, and virus scanners.

I want to stress the underlying principle of the Computer Security Enhancement Act of 1999 is that it recognizes that government and private sector computer security needs are similar. Hopefully the result will be greater security and lower cost for everyone as we increasingly move towards an electronic economy.

The bill we are introducing today is the result of close bipartisan cooperation and it has been a pleasure working with Chairman SSENSENBRENNER on this legislation.

EDUCATIONAL TECHNOLOGY UTILIZATION EXTENSION ASSISTANCE ACT

HON. JAMES A. BARCIA
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. BARCIA. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to introduce, along with my friend from Oregon, Mr. Wu, the Educational Technology Utilization Extension Assistance Act. This bill directs the National Science Foundation to work with the Department of Education and the National Institute of Standards and Technology to create educational technology extension centers based at undergraduate institutions. The focus of these centers is to advise and assist local K-12 schools to better utilize and integrate their existing ed-tech infrastructure into their curriculum and classroom.

During my tenure in Congress, much attention has been given to the subject of computers in the classroom and wiring schools for the Internet. These initiatives are often viewed as a panacea for improving test scores, and millions of dollars have been invested in these technologies. Missing from this strategy is any useful, long-term advice on how to best integrate ed-tech into the educational process. In fact, one of the last reports produced by the excellent staff of OTA highlighted the problem of teachers not being effectively trained on how to best use these technologies in the classroom. The same report pointed out that local school officials were often unaware of the substantial infrastructure and operational costs associated with deploying and maintaining these educational technologies.

These findings were echoed by a February 1999 Department of Education report, “Teacher Qualification of Public School Teachers.” The Department of Education found that only 1 in 5 teachers felt well-prepared to work in a modern classroom. In addition, the most common form of professional development for K-12 teachers are 1-day workshops which have little relevance to classroom activities. Consequently, the full potential of ed-tech has never been fully realized.

The Educational Technology Utilization Assistance Act is an attempt to rectify this gap in the educational infrastructure. This bill does not create a new top-down Federal program, but rather it allows local extension centers to assist local primary schools to better integrate educational technologies into their curriculum. Of course this concept is not new. In fact, it is based on the highly successful Agricultural Extension Services and the Manufacturing Extension Partnership. Both of these programs are model public/private partnerships that use specific solutions to solve unique problems as they are found in the field and rejects the “one size fits all” approach that is so often associated with federal government programs. It is my hope that using the extension model, educational technology centers would represent a public-private partnership with the participation of universities, the private sector, state and local governments, and the federal agencies in order to carry out the educational technology centers’ mission. It is important that the federal share of funding would be limited to 50 percent, thereby ensuring that all stakeholders would have a financial incentive to make the ETU Centers successful.

Once an ETU Center is established, it will be able to tailor its activities to local needs, and, more importantly, to share ETU Center expertise and experience with local schools. For example, activities may include teacher training for new technologies, or integrating the school’s existing technology infrastructure into their curriculum; advising teachers, administrators, and school boards on criteria for acquisition, utilization, and support of educational technologies; and advising K–12 schools on the skills required by local industry.

Given our rapidly changing economy, it is vital that both teachers and students not only be comfortable with the leading technologies of today, but also receive periodic training to ensure their ability to teach the next generation of technologies. I am confident this legislation will accomplish both of these important goals, as well as help students develop those skills in demand by industries increasingly reliant on technology.

I urge my colleagues to support this important legislation.

TRIBUTE TO POLICE CHIEF PETER W. STEPHAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999
Mr. CAMP. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to an honorable and noble public servant from Grayling, Mich., Police Chief Peter W. Stephan.

After 41 years of dedicated service, Chief Stephan is retiring. A Grayling native, he began his distinguished career in 1958 as a patrolman for the city. After 14 years, he was promoted to police chief in 1972, marking the beginning of his 27-year tenure.

During his remarkable career, Chief Stephan has held numerous positions of honor including: serving as a member and past president of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, serving as member and president of the Northern Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, member of the Environmental Crimes Committee, and a member of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police Legislative Committee.

Chief Stephan was also instrumental in creating the Crawford County Drug Lab and the Michigan State Police Crime Lab in Grayling.

The achievements and duration of Chief Stephan’s career speak for themselves. He is a dedicated community leader, committed to serving and protecting the people of Grayling, ensuring that his city is not just safe, but serves as a model for other communities in Michigan.

Chief Stephan is a shining example of excellence of whom Grayling residents can be proud. His career is a point of pride for the people of Grayling, who can look to him as an example of a public servant with dignity, pride and exemplary service. Mr. Speaker, please join me, his family, friends and colleagues in congratulating him.

INTRODUCTION OF THE WORKER PAYCHECK FAIRNESS ACT

HON. WILLIAM F. GOODLING
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999
Mr. GOODLING. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce the Worker Paycheck Fairness Act. The bill provides a workable, reasonable mechanism for dealing with the issue of organized labor taking dues money from rank-and-file union members—from members who have to pay dues or they cannot keep their jobs. The legislation in no way changes the manner in which unions can spend money. It simply provides union workers the dignity of being able to give their up-front consent to their union before funds having nothing to do with collective bargaining are taken out of their paychecks.

In the six hearings my Committee held the past few Congresses on the issue of compulsory union dues, we heard from worker after worker telling us about the one thing they each want from their union: the basic respect of being asked for permission before the union spends their money for purposes unrelated to labor-management obligations. Most of these employees were upset over finding out their hard-earned dollars were being funneled into political causes or candidates they did not support. However, most of these workers supported their union and still overwhelmingly believe in the value of organized labor. A number of witnesses were stewards in their union. All they wanted was to be able to give their consent before their union spent their money for activities falling outside collective bargaining and which subvert their deeply held ideas and core values. The Worker Paycheck Fairness Act, similar to legislation reported to the House last Congress after passing my Committee on Education and the Workforce by voice vote, simply gives workers this right to give their permission and the right to know how their money is spent. This legislation creates a new, federal right implementing the spirit of the Supreme Court’s 1988 Beck decision.

In Beck, the Court held that workers cannot be required to pay for activities beyond legitimate labor-management purposes. That holding has come from dozens of witnesses, including 14 rank-and-file workers, it is clear to the Committee that Beck rights have remained illusory. The witnesses described problems with lack of notice, the necessity under current law of resigning from the union, procedural hurdles, and notably, the incredible indignities they often endure, including harassment, stonewalling, coercion, and intimidation, when they attempt to exercise their rights granted under Beck.

This legislation applies only where unions require workers to pay dues as a condition of keeping their job. It is often called a “union security agreement,” and such agreements are currently legal in 29 states. Simply put, a union security agreement forces a worker to pay an agency fee to the union, or the worker has no right to work. This bill is necessary. Mr. Speaker, because unions are taking money from the pockets of employees working under such security agreements and spending it on activities having nothing to do with a union’s legitimate collective bargaining activities.

In addition to requiring consent, the Worker Paycheck Fairness Act requires employers whose employees are represented by a union to post a notice telling workers of their right under this legislation to give their consent. It also amends the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959 to ensure that workers will know what their money is being spent on. Under this change, unions would have to report expenses by “functional classification” on the LM-forms they are currently required to file annually with the Department of Labor. This change was proposed by the Bush administration in 1992 but eliminated by the Clinton administration.

This legislation also puts real enforcement into place, as those whose rights are violated would be entitled to double damages and attorneys’ fees and costs—similar to relief available under the Family and Medical Leave Act. Finally, Mr. Speaker, the bill includes a common employment law provision making it illegal for a union to retaliate against or coerce anyone exercising his or her consent rights. This applies to all employees—members and non-members alike—and under the provision, a union may not discriminate against any worker for giving, or not giving, their consent. This bill is all the more necessary, Mr. Speaker, because there are those in Congress who are pushing campaign finance reform legislation which purports to codify Beck, but which actually represents a step backwards for working men and women.

Section 501 of the Shays-Meehan reform bill, H.R. 417, entitled “Codification of Beck Decision,” does nothing of the sort. Section 501 is a sugar-coated placebo that diminishes the Beck decision and does nothing to correct the current injustices in our federal labor law relating to unions’ use of their members’ hard-earned paychecks. My Committee’s many hearings have shown that the problem in this area does not work because it does not adequately protect workers. A close reading of Section 501 shows not only that the provision does not codify Beck, but that it is in fact a step backwards from codifying current law. Section 501 is so favorable to unions that organized labor could not have done a better job drafting it themselves.

First, Section 501 provides absolutely no notice to rights of members of the union—it applies only to non-members. Second, Section 501 does not require union agreements to be objected to, by limiting such to “expenditures in connection with a Federal, State, or local election or in connection with efforts to influence legislation unrelated to collective bargaining.” This definition not only fails to address the types of political expenditures on which workers feel object to—such as the passage of Beck—but it also ignores Beck’s holding that workers may object to any dues payments for any union activity not directly related to collective bargaining activities. Section 501 would cut back even further on the already limited rights workers supposedly have today under Beck.

If Congress is truly going to try to deal with the issue of organized labor taking dues money from rank-and-file members laboring under a union security agreement—taking funds without permission and spending it on causes and activities with which the workers disagree—then let us not fool around with Section 501 of the Shays-Meehan bill. Section 501 is a fig leaf that falls woefully short of addressing the problem.

What we have today is a broken system that allows unions to raid workers’ wallets, forces workers to resign from the union, requires workers to object—after the fact—to their money being removed from their paycheck, and forces workers to wait for the union to rebate those funds, if they get around to doing so.

The Worker Paycheck Fairness Act is a proper and reasonable fix that truly implements the spirit of the Supreme Court’s Beck decision. I urge my colleagues to support the bill.

IRS REPLACEMENT ACT

HON. HENRY BONILLA
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. BONILLA. Mr. Speaker, my colleagues, the Spirit of ’76 lives today. Two centuries ago, our forefathers rose up in revolt against a oppressive tyrant under the banner of no taxation without representation. They understood oppressive taxation was a form of tyranny, and they committed themselves to secure liberty against all odds. Who would have thought that we would triumph against that century’s superpower, the British Empire. Yet, we all know we beat the odds and achieved the freedom we all enjoy today.

Today, taxpayers have had enough of a system that treats them as criminals, rather than customers. We need to abolish today’s tyrant, the Internal Revenue Service, and replace it with a system that treats you—the taxpayer—fairly. Today, 76 Members of Congress are joining together to recreate that spirit and battle against the odds to make this goal a reality. We are introducing legislation that puts the Congress on a path to abolishing the IRS and implementing a more fair, and simple tax system.

The struggle for freedom is never ending. I committed to be people of the 23rd District that I would fight to abolish the IRS as we know it. Today 76 Members of Congress are joining together to keep that commitment and end this modern day tyranny. The Founding Fathers did not allow the long odds to deter them in their struggle for liberty. That Spirit of ’76 lives today. My colleagues please join the 76 of us in recreating that spirit and cosponsor the IRS Replacement Act.

THE CONSUMER HEALTH AND RESEARCH TECHNOLOGY (CHART) PROTECTION ACT INTRODUCED

HON. CHRISTOPHER SHAYS OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. SHAYS. Mr. Speaker, today I am introducing the Consumer Health And Research Technology (CHART) Protection Act to ensure the confidentiality of medical records.

There is currently no uniform standard to protect the privacy of a patients’ medical records. There have been a number of starting examples of the potential effect of this void on the lives of Americans.

For example, The National Law Journal reported in 1994 that a banker who also served on his county’s health board cross referenced customer accounts with patient information and subsequently called due the mortgages of anyone suffering from cancer.

Under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA), Congress set a schedule for action on this issue. Should Congress fail to enact comprehensive legislation to protect the confidentiality of medical records by August of this year, the Secretary of Health and Human Services will be required to promulgate regulations.

Congress must act before the Secretary steps in.

We need to strike an effective balance between preventing the disclosure of sensitive information and ensuring health care providers have the information they need to treat individuals and make payments. The CHART Protection Act is an effort to achieve such an equilibrium.

The CHART Protection Act safeguards the confidentiality of medical records while protecting legitimate uses. The legislation sets out the inappropriate uses of medical information. These prohibitions relate specifically to individually identifiable information.

This is an important departure from the approach taken by other bills which seek to restrict the use of health information unless specifically authorized for disclosure.

The CHART Protection Act creates a “one-step” authorization process for the use of individually identifiable information by providing for authorization up front, while allowing individuals to revoke their authorization at any time for health research purposes.

Most other proposals create a “two-step” authorization process in which treatment, billing and health care operations are covered by one authorization, while all other uses are subject to a separate authorization, including use of information for research purposes. This approach has been the source of much controversy and is likely to damage our ability to enhance medical knowledge and improve patient care.

In addition, the CHART Protection Act allows patients to inspect, copy and where appropriate, amend their medical records.

Finally, the bill imposes stiffer criminal and civil penalties for inappropriate disclosures of individually identifiable information and creates a powerful incentive to anonymize data.

We need to achieve a balance between a person’s legitimate expectation of privacy and the right of a business to know what it is paying for.

It is my hope that my colleagues on both sides of the aisle will recognize the necessity for passing a uniform and comprehensive confidentiality law that would serve to balance the interests of patients, health care providers, data processors, law enforcement agencies and researchers.

DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

HON. TOM DELAY
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) held its 108th Continental Congress this past April 19th. The DAR is committed to preserving the memory of our Founding Fathers who achieved independence for America and instituted our constitutional form of government. The members of the DAR passed the following commemorative and resolutions as part of their recent Continental Congress and I submit them for the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

COMMEMORATIVE—GEORGE WASHINGTON

In commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the death of George Washington in 1999, it is appropriate to remember his words and deeds that still define and guide our country. George Washington said, “To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace.”

The Father of our Country surveyed the wilderness; was an officer in the Virginia militia during the French and Indian War; owned a profitable plantation on the Potomac with its trading schooners; was Commander-in-Chief of the Patriot forces in the American Revolution; helped create our nation as President of the Constitutional Convention; then became the first President of the United States of America; and was a great statesman.

In an address to Congress in 1793 he said, “There is a rank due to the United States among Nations, which will be withheld, if not absolutely lost, by the reputation of weakness. If we desire to avoid insult, we must be able to repel it: if we desire to secure peace, one of the most powerful instruments of our rising prosperity, it must be known that we are at all times ready for war.”

George Washington was indeed “first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen.”

EMERGENCY RESOLUTION—KOSOVO

Whereas, The President of the United States of America has authorized the use of air strikes in Yugoslavia due to the crisis in Kosovo without a clear mandate from the Congress of the United States of America, thus violating Article I, Section 8, Clauses 11,12,13 of the Constitution of the United States of America.

Whereas, This action of the member countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) is without clearly defined goals, objectives, and deadlines, and discloses the cost of maintaining an uncertain peace with no discernible conclusion in an ethnically divided nation; and

Whereas, The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution have always supported the Armed Forces of the United States of America and will continue to do so; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution express grave concern over the continuing expansion of United States involvement in the Balkans which places American lives in jeopardy in the absence of the constitutionally required action of Congress.

LAW AND STRONG DEFENSE

Whereas, The armed forces have shrunk about 40 percent in force structure and troop levels since 1989, resulting in an over-tasked military decreased to pre-Pearl Harbor levels and, defense spending, when adjusted for inflation, has dropped since its 1985 peak from $424.5 billion to the Presidential request of $267.2 billion.

Whereas, Insufficient funds for defense have led to cannibalization of spare parts from some aircraft to keep others flying, negligible training for new personnel, inadequate housing, unreliable and inadequate health care, diminished training standards, and frequent deployments of questionable worth, which have weakened military units and the entire military establishment; and

Whereas, The morale of the military rests upon the support and respect of the people, and the security of the nation rests upon a force that is adequately funded and appropriately engaged, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution support increased pay and benefits for the military, defense apparatus, and promote immediate development and deployment of space-based and air-based missile defense so that the United States, employing chemical, biological or nuclear missiles; consider the ABM Treaty non-binding, and the secret of China has possessed both sensitive technological material from private and United States government sources and its trade status to encourage the manufacture of so-called multiple warhead missiles which can target the United States and our troops in Japan, Korea, and Okinawa with nuclear warheads; and

Whereas, The United States' military is benefiting by its annual trade surplus with the United States of about $40 billion, produced by a 35% tariff on United States goods going to China and a low 2% tariff on Chinese products imported to the United States; while Taiwan, a democratic country, which imports almost twice as much from the United States as mainland China, should be given more consideration as its loss would be a severe military and economic blow to our country; therefore, be it

Resolved, That The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution recognize our dependence on the electoral process and undermine our national security and support the following:

1. Enforcement of laws forbidding foreign campaign contributions;
2. Establishment of a more thorough screening of personnel to prevent Chinese spies from stealing our high technology; and
3. Withdrawal of the most favored nation status in trade for China which has resulted in our large trade deficits.

Resolved, That The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution recognizes the need for the United States to renegotiate the terms of our treaty with Panama;

Whereas, The present government of Panama, in violation of the neutrality provisions of the 1978 treaty between the United States and Panama, has already leased the Atlantic and Pacific ports at each end of the Panama Canal to a Chinese shipping company and plans to turn over the United States land installations to them as well, thus enabling China to terrorize all of North and South America with missiles; and

Whereas, The right of the United States to transit the Canal, crucial to the United States in a military emergency, was not guaranteed by the end of 1999 unless there is a renegotiation of the terms of our treaty with Panama;

Whereas, The right of transit and the Canal is vital to American security, is the location of many valuable United States military installations representing billions of dollars of investments which will be vacated by the end of 1999 unless there is a renegotiation of the terms of our treaty with Panama;

Resolved, That The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution recognize the need for the United States to renegotiate the terms of our treaty with Panama; therefore, be it

Resolved, That The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, recognizing the need for the United States to renegotiate the terms of our treaty with Panama before its expiration on December 31, 1999, in order to retain our security, to preserve the United States' right of transit through the canal, and to prevent the establishment of Chinese missile bases in Panama from which China could strike all of North and South America;

TERRORISTS TARGET AMERICANS

Whereas, Although Americans are cognizant of major terrorist attacks such as the World Trade Center, the Marines in Beirut and the American Embassies in Africa, they are complacently unaware that 35 percent of all terrorist attacks worldwide last year were in the United States; therefore, be it

Resolved, That The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution support re-negotiation of the United States Treaty with Panama before its expiration on December 31, 1999, in order to retain our security, to preserve the United States' right of transit through the canal, and to prevent the establishment of Chinese missile bases in Panama from which China could strike all of North and South America;

Whereas, The Goals 2000 Education America Act became law March 3, 1994, stressing workplace skills and related subjects including "development of internationally competitive standards in American History"; this act was financed by monies from the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Office of Education, yet these national history standards are in violation of the Ten Amendment of the United States Constitution; therefore, be it

Resolved, That The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution oppose the Goals 2000 Education America Act; and

Whereas, The United States is aware that Russia has thousands of Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles (ICBMs) and that China reportedly has 33 nuclear missiles targeted on our cities, the Congressionally commissioned Rumsfeld Report, named for the Commission's chairman, a former Secretary of Defense, recently revealed the risk of a surprise attack on Third World countries, of which 25-30 are seeking or acquiring ballistic missiles that could be launched from land, sea or air, carrying chemical, biological or nuclear warheads;

Whereas, Inappropriate weapons have been provided to China by the United States and Panama, has already leased the Panama Canal to a Chinese shipping company and plans to turn over the United States land installations to them as well, thus enabling China to terrorize all of North and South America with missiles.

Whereas, The Taiwan Relations Act of 1979, which we had pledged in the Taiwan Treaty with Panama before its expiration on December 31, 1999, in order to retain our security, to preserve the United States' right of transit through the canal, and to prevent the establishment of Chinese missile bases in Panama from which China could strike all of North and South America; including western expansion, but emphasize national social history while deemphasizing the role of political, military, and economic history and leaders for the periods of colonization, the Revolutionary War, and development, and implementation of the United States Constitution; and

Whereas, National Standards next to the highest aspirations of the human soul."

Mr. HAYES. Mr. Speaker, last weekend I was going through my father's personal items. He passed away in November. I found this Bible tucked away in a drawer. On the front is inscribed "May this comfort and protect you." Inside it reads, "Commander in Chief, I take pleasure in commending the reading of the Bible to all who served in the Armed Forces of the United States."

We have heard the question today, "What is the role of political, military, and economic history and leaders for the periods of colonization, the Revolutionary War, and development, and implementation of the United States Constitution?"

HONORING THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE VILLAGE OF AKRON

HON. THOMAS M. REYNOLDS
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the incorporation of the Village of Akron in Erie County, New York.

Since Jonathan Russell first cleared enough forest to build a frame house and general store, the village of Akron has established itself as a proud community to live and work in. Their strong industrial base, solid work ethic, and rich heritage has helped Akron live up to its name, meaning "high place.

Besides a tremendous pride in their community, the residents of Akron have shown an equally impressive love of their country—serving when called whenever our freedom or liberty was threatened. Among the sons and daughters of Akron who have proudly served their country was General Ely S. Parker, who helped write the terms of the surrender at Appomattox during the Civil War.

From an outstanding commitment to education through the Akron Central School, to the growth of such employers as the well-known Perry’s Ice Cream Company to a vibrant business district and strong spirit of community, the village of Akron has enjoyed a tremendous 150 years of history.

Mr. Speaker, as we celebrate the birth of our Nation this weekend, on Sunday, July 4, 1999, residents and local officials of Akron will gather in Russell Park in the village to celebrate their sesquicentennial and the rich and proud history of their community. I ask, Mr. Speaker, that this House of Representatives join me in extending to the citizens of Akron, the State of New York, the citizens of Erie County, and the citizens of Akron, a step that we can find a way to afford.

Caregivers Assistance Act of 1999

HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, I am proud to join with Mr. Markey in introducing this important bill. Each day, millions of families struggle as they care for their loved ones who suffer from chronic and debilitating diseases. Alzheimer’s disease, Parkinson’s disease, multiple sclerosis, Down’s syndrome, and the ravages of old age make many people dependent on others for their basic care.

Many Americans depend on long-term health care due to a chronic illness or a permanent disability. For example, as many as four million of the nation’s elderly currently suffer Alzheimer’s disease. Unless someone finds a cure for this condition, the numbers are sure to grow. Within the next 20 to 30 years, there may well be over 14 million persons with this terrible disease that slowly destroys the brain.

According to recent surveys, over 50 percent of persons with Alzheimer’s disease continue to live with a relative or spouse who sees to their day-to-day care. This personal care may last for many years, and represents the equivalent of a full-time job.

We are currently working on a comprehensive bill that will broaden the scope of services families and patients can use to meet their long-term care needs. In the interim we offer this modest first step.

Specifically, this bill provides a $1,000 tax credit for caregivers similar to the one described by the President in his State of the Union address. Unlike the President’s proposal our tax credit is completely refundable and makes no distinction between care for an adult or a child.

If the credit is not refundable, it will be of little or no use to many of the families most in need of caregiver help. The following table illustrates the consequences as simple tax credit that is not refundable. A single individual who makes less than $7,050 will receive no benefit. That same person would have to make $13,717 to receive the full $1,000 of assistance. Similarly, an elderly couple would need a combined annual income of $21,067 to realize the entire tax credit.

Table: Minimum Income Required to Receive the Tax Credit

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Filing Status</th>
<th>Minimum Income Required</th>
<th>Income Required to Receive Full Tax Credit</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Single</td>
<td>$7,050</td>
<td>$13,717</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Head of Household With Dependent</td>
<td>11,850</td>
<td>18,571</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Married Joint Filing</td>
<td>12,200</td>
<td>18,971</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Elderly Single Filing</td>
<td>14,400</td>
<td>21,067</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

The consequence of a simple tax credit is that those people who most need assistance will be the least likely to obtain the intended support. To be honest, $1,000 is not that much money for long-term care, but it does provide a family with modest relief that they can use as they see fit. That is why we have structured the bill to ensure that those who most need the support will receive the refund.

Another important distinction between our proposal and the President’s is the treatment of children with long-term care needs. The President’s proposal limits the tax credit to $500 for children with long term care needs. We do not agree with this policy. The long-term care needs of a disabled child are just as expensive and emotionally distressing as they are for an adult.

Our bill also has a broader definition of individuals with long-term care needs. The President’s proposal includes individuals who require assistance to perform activities of daily living (bathing, dressing, eating, continence, toileting, and getting in and out of a bed or chair). This is a good start, but it may not include people with severe mental health disabilities or developmental disabilities who cannot live independently. Our bill does help the caregivers of these people.

Finally, our bill limits the amount of the refund for those less in need of financial support. The full refund is available up to incomes of $110,000 for a joint return, $75,000 for an individual return, and $55,000 for a married individual filing a separate return. Above these levels, the refund is decreased by $50 by every $1,000 over the threshold level, and is phased out above $130,000 for a joint return and $95,000 of an individual return.

The need for long-term care will continue to grow as the average age of Americans increases. By 2010, those children born in 1945 will begin to retire. According to a recent CBO report, in the year 2010 there will be 40.6 million people over the age of 65—a 14 percent increase from the year 2000.

The trend will continue. By 2040, there will be 77.9 million people over the age of 65, 118 percent more than in 2000. Indeed, the 85 and older age group is the fastest growing segment of the population.

This proposal will have significant effect on revenue, but given the size of the problem and in the spirit of compassionate government, it is a step that we can find a way to afford.

TRIBUTE TO DR. GEORGE VERNON IRONS, SR.

HON. ROBERT B. ADERHOLT
OF ALABAMA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. ADERHOLT. Mr. Speaker, I want to celebrate the life of Dr. George Vernon Irons, Sr., distinguished professor of history and political science at Samford University, 43 years, distinguished professor emeritus, 22 years, who passed away July 21, 1998.

Dr. Irons was a record breaking champion athlete at the University of Alabama in the 1920’s. Sportswriters described him as the “Ironman of Alabama, Crimson Machine and Southern Distance Runner” for his remarkable athletic feats. His accomplishments have been heralded by legendary great, Paul Bear Bryant as “truly outstanding athletic achievements,” and Coach Wallace Wade (three time Rose Bowl winner) as the “greatest distance runner of his day.” In 1978 Dr. Irons was inducted into the prestigious Alabama Sports Hall of Fame on the first ballot—an honor achieved by only three men: Paul Bear Bryant, Ralph Shug Jordan and Dr. George Irons.

As Captain of the Alabama distance team, he broke the record for the B’ham Road Race (1923) by twenty seconds in a cold, hard driving December rain. Captain Irons record has never been equaled or broken. Irons was the Southern (S.I.A.A. now S.E.C.) champion of the 2, 3, 3 1/2, and 4 mile events. He is the only University of Alabama track man—the only distance man—inducted into the Alabama Sports Hall of Fame—rare honors he holds over 30 years after the Hall of Fame’s creation.

A Phi Beta Kappa honor graduate—Rhodes Scholar Nominee—he won on to earn his doctorate at Duke University, before joining Samford’s faculty in 1933. Dr. Irons also distinguished himself in World War II, rising to the rank of colonel—with 33 years active and reserve duty—a Samford faculty record. Mr. Speaker, over 50 Alabama cities have passed proclamations or resolutions honoring this admired Alabamian—yet another record for this remarkable Alabamian. I ask unanimous consent that Dr. Irons eulogy, delivered by his former student, Dr. James Moebus, senior minister Montevallo Brook Baptist Church, be included in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD for America to share the life of this record breaking champion athlete for the Alabama Crimson Tide, distinguished university...
eductor and valiant colonel, who defended his nation for a third of the 20th century in war and peace.

Eulogy for Dr. George Vernon Irons, Sr., Mountain, Brook Baptist Church Chapel, July 27, 1998—Delivered by Dr. James D. Moclair, Senior Minister, Full Military Honors

I am the Resurrection and the Life, saith the Lord. He that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die. The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof. The world and they that dwell therein, for it is Mine. And I have established it upon the floods. Whoso shall ascend unto the hill of the Lord, or shall stand in His holy place, He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart, who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity or sworn deceitfully, he shall receive his blessings from the Lord and righteousness from the Son of God of his own salvation. For reckoning that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with that glory which shall be revealed in us. Blessed is the man who walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. For his delight is in the law of the Lord and in that law he meditates day and night. He shall be like a tree planted by the streams of water. He shall bring forth his fruit in due season; his leaf shall not wither; whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.

Dr. George Vernon Irons was born on the 7th of August, 1902, in Demopolis, Alabama. His father, Dr. Andrew O. Irons, was a Presbyterian minister. His father came from the Shenandoah Valley, Virginia. He was a magna cum laude graduate, Washington and Lee University, VA, Abilene Christian Supt., Marenco Academy, he taught, and was interested in young people. He was always on the lookout for those that showed promise. He ran across a student, a young man named Henry Edmonds. He knew that he had some ability. He sought out Henry's father. Talked with him about his son going to college, getting an education, becoming a leader. But Edmonds' father thought his son would make a good southern plowboy. Well, during his 43 years as a history and political science professor at Samford—chairman of his department 25 of those years—Dr. Irons taught seventeen students who became university presidents—more than any other university educator. He was a founding member of the Alabama Historical Society in 1947. Last year they celebrated their 50th anniversary here at Mountain Brook in this chapel. And I enjoyed sharing some precious moments with Dr. Irons—our last. But I shall never forget, I met him in 1959. Thirty-nine years, I have known, admired, and loved this man! I'll never forget how, Thirty-nine years, I have known, admired, and loved this man! I'll never forget how, in the fall of that autumn afternoon, and he replied, "Yes, yes, I knew it was a little stiff for a couple of weeks, but I put him on the ground!" To Kappa Alpha, Dr. Irons taught at the University of Alabama from 1923-1925. Then earned his Ph.D. degree from Duke University, where he taught history from 1931-1933, before joining the faculty at Howard College and Samford University.

strength to the weary, and increases the power of the weak. Even youths grow tired and weary and young men stumble and fall, but those who hope in the Lord, will renew their strength, they will soar on wings like eagles, they will run and not grow weary, they will walk and not faint.

Thank You God—for George Vernon Irons. His wonderful, wonderful family—those who have known him best and loved him best. Who he has known best and loved so dearly. Holy Father, he has run with patience the race of life and he has brought the banner home. He has fought a good fight, he has finished his course, he has kept the faith. Thank Thee for what he has meant to every one of us. For George, Jr., thank Thee for Bill, grandson, great grandson—all the family. For the happiness they have shared together. For the joy they have known in life because of this wonderful man. Thank Thee for the many lives in which he has made a difference. Thank Thee, that he has taken that which was so very rough and polished a few of the edges, knocked off some of the sharp places, taught us a few lessons, and helped us to be on our way. Thank Thee for his wonderful Christian spirit—for that mountaintop, for the center of his being, for that quick mind, for that winsome personality, for that wonderful wit. For those things in life in which he stood so very tall. For this Christian southern gentleman. Having shared some of life with him, may we be found the stronger for the living of these lives in these days. May his light always shine before us, that we would see his good works, but then glorify his father who is in Heaven. Thank Thee that he lives there now with Thee. Bless him and hold him close now and forever, for the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, through Jesus our Saviour, we pray. Amen. For this Christian soldier who defended his nation, the 20th century in war and peace we will close with the organ piece: onward Christian soldiers—as he requested. Please remember the words and how they related to the life of this admired and beloved Alabamian, as we stand together and depart.

THE COUNTY SCHOOLS FUNDING REVITALIZATION ACT OF 1999

HON. ALLEN BOYD OF FLORIDA IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, yesterday, along with my colleague Representative NATHAN DEAL, I introduced H.R. 2389, the “County Schools Funding Revitalization Act of 1999.” This legislation is based on principles that were part of a compromise agreement reached by the National Forest Counties & Schools Coalition. This bill is significant because it was developed not by a “Washington knows best”, top-down approach, but rather through “a home-grown”, bottom-up approach that has finally reached a consensus. This unique coalition of over 500 groups, the approximately 32 states including school superintendents (including Hal Summers, School Superintendent of Liberty County, Florida Schools), county commissioners (including the Columbia County, Florida Board of County Commissioners), educators, several labor groups (including the Educational Association and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.)

In 1908, the federal government recognized that counties with federal lands were at an economic disadvantage since the federal government was the dominant landowner in many of these communities and therefore these counties were powerless to tax these lands. Recognizing this, Congress entered into a compact with rural forest communities in which 25% of the revenues from National Forest lands would go to counties. This was an attempt to compensate for the significant impact of these declining revenues. The impacts on county government have also been very significant. County employees suffered a 10% salary cut, which was partially restored following the imposition of a 1% local option sales tax and 7 cents per gallon gas tax. Consequently, the Sheriff's Office and Emergency Medical Service have been forced to curtail hours and reduce services. As a result of this action, Liberty County remains the only county in Florida without an advanced life support system as part of the county emergency response organization. However, the most far-reaching and devastating impact of these declining revenues is the adverse effect on the future of our children. An education system crippled by such funding cuts cannot train our young people in the skills needed to join tomorrow's society as contributing, functioning citizens.

In 1993, the Congress enacted a law which provided an alternative annual safety net payment system for 72 counties in the northwest region of the country, where federal timber sales had been restricted or prohibited to protect the northern spotted owl. This authority for the Pre-K program, formerly the only program in the state to serve all four-year-olds; and terminating a new program in technology acquisition, which would have provided an alternative annual safety net payments for all forest counties. The impacts on county government have also been very significant. The County road crew was reduced from 23 to 18 positions. This staff reduction, plus equipment obsolescence and the inability to purchase needed supplies and materials, has resulted in the deterioration of the rural road system. In 1994, the County was forced to float a $1,780,000 bond issue in order to meet current road needs. It is unclear how the county will meet its future road responsibilities in the absence of a substantial increase in the 25% payments from timber sale receipts. County employees suffered a 10% salary cut, which was partially restored following the imposition of a 1% local option sales tax and 7 cents per gallon gas tax.

It is clear to me that the compact of 1908 is broken and needs to be fixed immediately. That is why I have introduced the County E1500.

They come because it's better to be here than in the lonely streets, where food is scarce and companionship often involves sex with an older child. Here volunteers teach reading, arithmetic and music. And there's food—though only every other day.

Zambia once was one of the richest countries in sub-Saharan Africa. It supplied copper for the United States used during the Vietnam War. But change is under way in Uganda, which borders the legendary source of the Nile.

"People say it's complicated," says Uganda's health minister, Janet Museveni. "But it's not. We are making progress."

The simplest explanation is unquestionably this: Uganda has made a determined effort to control the spread of AIDS.

"The problem is real," President Museveni told Congress. "We are fighting a lot of complex problems."

"We are fighting a lot of simple problems," Kityo says. "There are wars, cultural beliefs, a gender imbalance—these are very difficult things to change."

"I don't know if I'll live that long," Jack says. "I spend most of my nights sleeping near fast-food restaurants on Cairo Road. After dark, children clog the sidewalks, chasing cars, begging for money."

"I like being here because I can go to the school," he says. "And they give you food."

"He cries very easily," Fountain of Hope staffer Rogers Mwewa says. "He hasn't developed the survival skills of most of the other kids."

One night recently, staffers from Fountain of Hope and an official from the Dutch Embassy dug into their pockets for money to feed 78 starving children.

"Booyed by the prospect of a meal, the children didn't hesitate to attack another older child connected to them. Tomorrow night, they knew, they might not be so lucky."

THE EPICENTER OF AIDS—UGANDA: DEADLY TRADITIONS PERSIST AMID PROGRESS, VACCINE TEST

(By Steve Sternberg)

KAMPALA, UGANDA—Tom Kityo, the tall, animated manager of the AIDS Service Organization, stands before a map of his country, tracing the AIDS epidemic. "Here," Kityo says, "The groom's father can have sex with the bride, and that's accepted. Here, other clan members may have sex with someone's wife, and no one says anything."

Kityo blames these and other cultural practices for much of Uganda's AIDS problem. "It's a situation that, while showing great improvement, still is marking this country with tragic consequences."

A year ago, U.S. officials estimated that 10% of Uganda's 20 million people are HIV-positive, with 67,000 of those infected younger than 15. Nearly 2 million people have died nationwide since 1982, when an "acute disease" emerged in 1982, leaving thousands of orphans. Government statistics suggest that 600,000 children have lost one parent—and that 250,000 have lost both parents—t0 AIDS.

"We are fighting a lot of complex problems," Kityo says. "There are wars, cultural beliefs, a gender imbalance—these are very difficult things to change."

But change is under way in Uganda, which has done more than almost any other country in the world to slow the spread of HIV.

The Ugandan government has built a network of palm-shaded hilltops across the country. In the Kibuli neighborhood of Kampala, inside a sprawling white stucco compound enclosed by a tall wall.

"It was part of the palace of the Bagandan king, now a large ceremonial figure whose domain straddles the equator and borders the legendary source of the Nile. Today it serves a vastly different purpose."

Known as the Joint Clinical Research Center, it is the site of the first HIV vaccine trials in Africa.

On Feb. 8, a nurse guided the first hypodermic into a volunteer's arm—the first of 40 in the trial. The man, whose name was withheld to protect his privacy, isn't just anybody. He is a medical orderly on the staff of the Uganda medical center, an AIDS patient whose job is to care for the sick. By the end of 1986, he had attended the nation's first AIDS Control Program.

Museveni also issued an international call for drug companies to stop from AIDS and to public health organizations. And he declared his intention that Uganda play a key role in any African AIDS vaccine trials.

"Uganda's prevention efforts began to pay off. Behavior surveys showed that Ugandans were reporting fewer casual sex partners, more frequent condom use and longer delays before young people became sexually active."

More recent studies of pregnant women demonstrate that infection rates have begun to drop. In Kampala, the infection rate among 15- to 19-year-old women fell from 8% in 1997 to 2% in 1999.

But traditional practices still kill. Indeed, they could be hastening the spread of AIDS. "We have to try to educate the people," Museveni's minister of health, George Kidera, told researchers. "There is a lot of ignorance on the part of the rural population."
HEALTH OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

SPEECH OF
HON. DEBORAH PRYCE
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, June 30, 1999

Ms. PRYCE of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to add my voice to those who seek to raise awareness about the importance of biomedical research to call attention to the invaluable benefits of biomedical research and to the necessity of making a sustained, significant commitment to research efforts at NIH, our nation’s premier research institution. I encourage all of my colleagues to join me in supporting a doubling of the National Institute of Health’s budget, including the budget of the National Cancer Institute, over five years.

The Federal investment in cancer research makes billions of dollars by unlocking the answers to how cancer is best detected, treated, and prevented. These answers will reduce health care costs and save lives. The costs, both human and economic, of cancer in this country are catastrophic. The human costs in terms of lives lost are immeasurable, and the economic costs exceed $107 billion annually. Our national investment in biomedical research is the key to containing spiraling health care costs, as every $1 invested in research saves $15 in health care costs.

Yet, the amount we invest in cancer research today is equal to only 2 percent of the health care costs attributable to cancer. While cancer is a greater threat than ever, only 31 percent of approved cancer research projects receive funding. Our goal should be to quicken the pace of research by funding at least 45 percent of research initiatives. A much more aggressive effort is required to combat cancer and to reduce human suffering and lives lost to the many forms of this devastating disease.

Since 1993, the number of cancer drugs in development has increased fivefold. Cancer research pays for itself many times over by creating American jobs, supporting U.S. businesses, and strengthening the U.S. economy. Notably, NIH-funded research generates $17.9 billion in employee income and over 726,000 jobs. Doubling the NIH budget will enable extraordinary opportunities for research success and real progress in cancer prevention, detection, treatment, and survivorship. To make a real difference in the lives of the 1 in 2 American men and 1 in 3 American women who will develop cancer over his or her lifetime, we must dramatically increase our Federal investment in cancer research.
heritage in the buildings and town areas that carry the names of those who originally settled there. Many of these people colonized Wawayanda just after the Revolutionary War. The first town census in 1855 totaled at 2,069. Today Wawayanda boasts a population of 5,518.

Wawayanda also boasts a great commercial asset in Interstate Route 84. Route 84 acts as a commercial crossroads, plugging Wawayanda into surrounding towns as well as both Pennsylvania to the west and New England to the East. Route 84 is an exceptional asset to the economy of Wawayanda. It provides a means of farm export and opens other areas of New York. This road enables the beautiful Town of Wawayanda to share its assets with others. People can travel Route 84 to experience Wawayanda’s lush landscapes and surrounding waterways. Route 84 opens up the beautiful Town of Wawayanda, enabling it to be experienced by others.

Congratulations on this day should be given to those who made the Sesquicentennial possible. The efforts of Town Supervisor Thomas De Block, his Town Council, and the Sesquicentennial Committee should all be commended. If not for these people’s pride and dedication to their town the celebration of this Town’s history would not have been possible. Their perseverance, drive of the pride and tradition that makes this Town so special.

Accordingly, I invite my colleagues on August 7, 1999, to recognize the Town of Wawayanda in New York State for its 150 years of rich tradition and excellence in America.

CONTINUING CRISIS IN KASHMIR

HON. BILL McCOLLUM
OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. McCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express my concern for the ongoing conflict in the Kashmir region of India. This crisis is nearing a turning point for which the outcome is far from being clear. It is extremely important that in addressing this turning point, the United States should act pursuant to its own national and strategic interests rather than succumb to the allure of simplistic short-term “arrangements.”

The conflict in Kashmir has been unfolding for nearly two months now. The Kargil crisis erupted in early May when the Indian Army discovered the infiltration of Pakistani regular troops and an assortment of ISI-sponsored Mujahideen into the northern parts of Indian Kashmir. Formed to capture positions, the Pakistani forces were close to being able to disconnect India’s national highway—the blood line to the country’s uppermost northern regions. In the fighting that has since ensued, the Indian Army was able to first contain the infiltration and then doggedly evict the Pakistani forces positioned inside India. This fighting, conducted in the extremely rugged and high-elevation terrain of the Himalayan mountains, still continues as Indian troops climb one mountain after another to dislodge the Pakistani forces sheltered at the peaks. The Indian government is determined, and rightly so, to evict all the infiltrators.

While taking place in a remote and desolate part of the world, the Kargil fighting is not conducted in isolation. In threatening the Indian national highway, the Pakistani intrusion has been of strategic significance—and so is its defeat. Therefore, the stakes are very high for both New Delhi and Islamabad. Indeed, fully aware of the explosive character of the Kargil crisis, New Delhi has instructed the Indian Army to operate only within Indian territory in removing the infiltrators, despite the military expediency of operating in the rear of the enemy and a higher cost in Indian casualties due to frontal assaults on towering peaks.

Presently, with the fighting in the Kargil area stabilizing in India’s favor, Pakistan is in dire need for a dramatic breakout to salvage some achievements from an otherwise doomed strategic gambit. Moreover, Beijing—Pakistan’s closest ally and strategic patron that has its own territorial claims for parts of Indian Kashmir—is expressing growing interest in the outcome of the crisis.

The People’s Republic of China (PRC) is ready to intervene in the crisis in order to safeguard its own strategic interests.

In order to meet the prerequisites of such a breakout Pakistan has been pursuing a twin track policy:

On the one hand, Islamabad has been threatening the escalation of the crisis into a major war that, given the declared nuclear status of both protagonists, might escalate into a nuclear war. Unquestionably, that such an escalation of Islamabad’s threat of war is considered credible, the Pakistani Armed Forces have undertaken several steps since mid June. Pakistan put the Armed Forces on “red alert,” sent the Navy out to sea, is moving military reinforcements to the border with India, parading units through the streets of cities and towns, is conducting civil and home defense exercises for the population, as well as deploying air defense forces to all airports and key civilian sites.

On the other hand, Pakistan, with Beijing’s active support, has been raising the possibility of a “negotiated settlement” to the Kargil crisis. In these political initiatives, the Pakistanis stress the need to resolve the crisis before it escalates out of control and a major and potentially destabilizing conflict emerges. That Islamabad is desperate to extract tangible gains from the cross-border intrusion of its forces before they are defeated and evicted by the Indian Army. And it is in these circumstances that the proposed negotiated solutions for the Kargil crisis are being offered.

The most popular “package deal” which the Clinton administration seems to favor at this juncture calls for Islamabad’s quiet an unacknowledged withdrawing of the Pakistani forces in return for the opening of an inter-Armed forces on the entire northern border of Kashmir. Such dynamics, the deal’s proponents tell us, will provide Pakistan with a “face-saving” outlet out of the armed conflict before it escalates into a wider war.

However, there are many pitfalls in this approach. In all political discussions to-date, the Pakistani forces involved are still formally defined as “militants”—thus absolving Pakistan of the formal responsibility for what can otherwise be termed an act of war. Further more, the mere international acceptance without challenge of the Pakistani excuse that these “militants” are operating in an area where the Line of Control (the Indo-Pakistani cease-fire line in Kashmir) is not properly delineated and that therefore these “militants” are actually on Pakistani soil, contradicts the 1972 Simla Agreement between India and Pakistan. This argument is therefore making a mockery of any such bilateral agreements at the very moment both New Delhi and Islamabad are being urged by the international community to negotiate and ultimately sign a formal agreement on the “Kashmir problem.” Then, the commonly discussed percept of the “Kashmir problem” refers to the conditions of the Muslim population living in the Kashmir valley.

Thus, the negotiations will delve on the fate of the “Kashmire” agreement based on the principles mentioned above will weaken India, reward and encourage the anti-U.S. forces, and will thus adversely affect the long-term national interests of the United States.

It is, therefore, in the self-interest of the United States to pursue a negotiated process that will take into consideration the U.S. quintessence and consolidate its presence in the region and will thus secure the American national interest. Such a process might take longer to define and be more intricate to attain. However, a genuine solution to such a complex problem as the Kashmir dispute will most likely endure future trials and tribulation. Thus, a genuine solution will ensure at the least a semblance of stability in a turbulent region that is of great importance to the United States.

Congress should therefore encourage the Clinton administration to adopt such a principled approach to formulating the U.S. position in Asia. Demand real progress. The Indian government is determined, and rightly so, to evict all the infiltrators.achievement in Asia.
remain valid and not vulnerable to the sudden expediency of one signatory or another, and support the creation of a conducive environment for the genuine solution of the entire Kashmir problem—that of the areas held by India, Pakistan, and the PRC. Further more, we should congratulate the Indian government for their prudence, mastery and self-restraint demonstrated in this crisis and encourage it to stay the course despite the mounting pressures.

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE GEORGE W. "WILL" GAHAHGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999
Mr. FARR of California. Mr. Speaker, today I would like to note the passing of a prominent American citizen, George W. "Will" Cahagan, who died in Carmel, California on December 8, 1998 at the age of 86.

Will was a man of broad interests, notable achievements. He was well-educated, graduating in 1949 from Dartmouth, and worked as a newspaper reporter, federal public relations officer and foreign press liaison officer at the 1945 inaugural United Nations conference in San Francisco. Will attended Harvard during his graduate years, and in 1957 received his master's degree from Stanford University. During his Dartmouth years he met the poet Robert Frost, who was on the faculty, and later founded the California Friends of Robert Frost, non-profit organization that helped establish Frost Plaza in San Francisco. Mr. Frost's birthplace.

Will was an educator as much as he was a student. He taught English for 15 years at high schools, including Tularcitos, Junipero Serra High School and Santa Catalina School in Monterey. He also taught at an international school in Rome. His students benefited greatly from his tuteledge and enthusiasm for learning.

Will's contributions to Monterey County were as far-reaching as his range of interests. He wrote a column "Word Wise" for the Monterey Herald, produced and hosted a foreign affairs television program in Salinas, and wrote a guidebook about the Monterey Peninsula. He worked with many local organizations including the Carmel Foundation, the World Affairs Council, the Carmel City Planning Commission and the Carmel Library. Will helped create the Dennis the Menace Playground in Monterey, and helped raise $250,000 for the Robinson Jeffers Tor House in Carmel. He was a member of the senior and super-senior national tennis teams, successfully competing in tournaments in Canada and Europe. Will has been inducted into the Dartmouth College Athletic Hall of Fame.

No list of accomplishment can represent the generosity of spirit, the vitality, and the intelligence that Will demonstrated every day. Will is to be remembered as an exemplary human being. He is survived by his wife Lorna, his sons Michael, Mark, his daughters Tappy and Lisa; his brother John; and, seven grandchildren. He will be sorely missed by all who had the privilege of knowing him.

Mr. JOHN TOPOLEWSKI AWARDED FRANCE'S KNIGHT'S CROSS OF THE FRENCH LEGION OF HONOR
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999
Mr. KAPTUR, Mr. Speaker, I rise with great pride to honor a 104 year old veteran in my district. John Topolewski was awarded France's Knight's Cross of the French Legion of Honor on Wednesday, June 16, 1999 in Toledo, Ohio. The Knight's Cross is the highest award given by France to citizens of other countries. The award was presented to Mr. Topolewski by France's Consul General Alain de Keghel, the second ranking French official in the U.S., in front of a replica of the troop train which transported U.S. troops to France in World War I. Mr. Topolewski was one of those "Doughboys" and a member of the 82nd Infantry Division. The nation of France has bestowed the Knight's Cross upon John Topolewski for uncommon valor in the trenches as he fought in the United States Army during World War I.

The Greek historian Thucydides wrote "remember that this greatness was won by men with courage, with knowledge of their duty, and with a sense of honor an action...but the bravest are surely those who have the clearest vision of what is before them, glory and danger alike, and yet notwithstanding go out to meet it." As a young man at the dawn of his adulthood, John Topolewski embodied these words. He acted because he thought it his duty to his comrades, his country, and the world, not out of a desire for recognition, glory or awards. Consul General Keghel told him as he gave him the medal "More than two million American soldiers were sent across the Atlantic Ocean. The French have not forgotten their bravery more than eighty years later. Today it is your turn, Mr. John Topolewski, to be honored. You served in dangerous conditions. You belong for sure among the veterans here.

John Topolewski stands today as a symbol of thousands of nameless heroes of that first great world wide conflict, and the ones which followed. He is a reminder of the humanness of war, of sacrifices made to preserve liberty and regain freedoms withheld. Although I was unable to personally be with him as he received this belated honor, I salute John Topolewski, and thank him on behalf of the people of our nation and freedom lovers world-wide.

RECOGNIZING NATIONAL NEED FOR RECONCILIATION AND HEALING AND RECOMMENDING A CALL FOR DAYS OF PRAYER
SPEECH OF
HON. DENNIS MOORE OF KANSAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, June 29, 1999
Mr. MOORE. Mr. Speaker, last week the House failed to suspend the rules and agree to a resolution that would have recommended that our nation's leaders call for a day of prayer, fasting, and humiliation before God. The Wichita Eagle, a leading Kansas newspaper, asked the Kansas U.S. Representatives to provide a statement explaining their votes on this proposal. I want to take this opportunity to include my response letter in the RECORD.

CATHY WILFONG,
Wichita Eagle.

Ms. WILFONG: On June 29, 1999, I was asked to vote on House Concurrent Resolution 94, a resolution asking that Congress ... call the people they serve to observe, a day of solemn prayer, fasting, and humiliation before God. I voted against the resolution. Here's why: As a citizen, I value my own religious freedom so very much that I would be insulted if Congress told me how to pray, or how to honor and how to reconcile my relationship with God. In fact, our country was formed by people who came here seeking religious freedom and seeking to escape the tyranny of a king in England who told them how to pray and what kind of religion they would practice. One of the wonderful things about our country is that every person has an opportunity to practice (or not practice) religion exactly as he/she wishes.

For me, religion is an intensely personal thing. I would never presume to tell somebody else how to pray or practice religion. I would not appreciate anybody doing that to me.

I was struck by the language in the House Resolution which stated that "...it is the necessary duty of every citizen to pray without韬略 to only to humbly offer up our prayers and needs to Almighty God, but also in a solemn and public manner to confess our shortcomings..."

I invite the authors of this resolution to read Matthew 6:5-6. According to my Bible, Jesus said: "And when you pray, you must not be like the hypocrites, for they love to pray while standing in the synagogues and at the street corners, that they may be seen by men. Truly, I say to you, they have received their reward. But when you pray, go into your room and shut the door and pray to your Father who is in secret; and your Father who sees in secret will reward you."

Just maybe our founding fathers had it right. In matters of faith, perhaps it is best that people have the freedom to practice religion as they wish without instruction from their government or from Congress.

Very truly yours,

DENNIS MOORE,
Member of Congress.

RECOGNIZING MR. EDWARD "ED" RENFROW, STATE CONTROLLER OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999
Mr. ETHERIDGE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to call the attention of the Congress to State Controller of North Carolina Edward "Ed" Renfrow of Smithfield, NC.

On March 19, 1999, the Joint Financial Management Improvement Program (JFMIP) presented Mr. Renfrow with the distinguished 1998 Donald L. Scantlebury Memorial Award for Distinguished Leadership in Financial Management Improvement. Mr. Renfrow was honored for his leadership in the 28th Annual Financial Management Management Conference in Washington, DC. The JFMIP is a cooperative initiative of the General Accounting Office (GAO), the Office of Management and Budget, the.
heard from the silent majority; those who never wave banners, or hold protest rallies, but faithfully take their privilege to vote seriously and always find their ways to the polls. These expressions of pride, deep commitment to principles, and faith in God and Country tell of the greatness of this country.
Mr. Speaker, I have incorporated all of these important ideals in this song I wrote several years ago about my love for this Country. Tomorrow is the Fourth of July, a day that has a very special meaning to me, the Nation, and all the Members of this body. I hope we can all enjoy this song and I am honored to have this opportunity to put it in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

"That's What America Means to Me"
Verse
A place where you can speak your mind and firmly disagree. If you believe in what you say just say what you believe. Where you can choose to work and live where you want to be.
The Land of opportunity; you can do it your own way.

Chorus
That's what America means to me,
Where dreams can come true.
It's up to you to be what you want to be.
Though silent you voice will be heard
That's what America means to me.

Your rights are guaranteed; they're written down in history.
We help the poor and weary;
Your rights are guaranteed;
It's up to you to be what you want to be.

RESEARCH DEBATE DESERVES OUR ATTENTION
HON. HENRY J. HYDE
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mr. HYDE. Mr. Speaker, John Kass, a columnist with the Chicago Tribune has written another important article on a sensitive subject, fetal research. I urge my colleagues to read it carefully.

[From the Chicago Tribune, July 1, 1999]

RESEARCH DEBATE TACKLES NEW WORLD SOME DARE NOT BRACE
(By J. ohn Kass)
A discussion begins in Washington on Thursday. It's not about sex or money. It's not about scandals or interest rates or war. So it might not get the media coverage it deserves.
But it could be the most important debate of our generation. It will determine whether we're going to make it easy on ourselves to make a bargain with science and the future. Depending on how it comes out and what we settle for, it will determine what kind of human beings we will become, as science moves quicker than our ability to understand its consequences, in areas from human cloning to fetal stem cell research.
And it will answer a question: Is it right to take human beings and process them as resources to benefit other human beings?
About 100 doctors and scientists have signed a statement from the Center for Bio-ethics and Human Dignity to oppose something horrible—embryonic and fetal stem cell research, which uses aborted children and viable fertilized embryos to develop cures for some diseases such as Parkinson's and Alzheimer's.

At the news conference, the doctors are being joined by U.S. Sen. Sam Brownback, a Kansas Republican from Kansas, who is expected to lead a fight against changes in federal policy that now allows the research. The National Institute of Health already supports and finances the research using fetuses. Now, the NIH wants to use embryos too.

Among those opposing the research is former U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop.

Some scientists argue that they need the human "material," as they call it, to study how the mind works, in order to attack the horrible diseases.

But doctors who have signed the document say that's wrong. Stem cell research on brain diseases is in its early stages, and there are other means to grow the cells to attack brain diseases.

Sen. Brownback said it is important to realize that the ethical line of using human life for stem cell research need not be crossed.

"For those who say there are moral and ethical issues on the other side, who say we have the moral responsibility to solve diseases like Parkinson's, I say that the opportunities that we have," Brownback said Wednesday in an interview.

"We don't have to give up on solving Parkinson's. We have other ways of doing it. And that seems to be a prudent way to procceed," he said. "It's almost every week that another study comes in adult cell research. Let's not get into the situation where you go into all these legal and ethical issues—you have enormous ethical and moral issues here, and you shouldn't jump into it."

The debate over the use of fetal brain tissue in experiments was touched on in this space Monday. And I could hear the angry howling.

I'm not opposing science, or research, or organ donation, or any other reasonable practice. Organ donors offer their consent to have their bodies used by science.

But aborted children don't have that opportunity. They're not asked to give their consent. And they are not offered research to help adults fight brain diseases.

Fifty years ago, the Nuremberg war crimes trials led the world to promise never to use human life in scientific experiments without consent. But now we're changing our minds, in order to win a scientific benefit.

And we cannot make a political deal on this issue without publicly and fully discussing the consequences of such selfish thinking.

Some people argue that to oppose this research is to condemn people with Parkinson's to death.

U.S. Sen. Richard Durbin (D-III.) thinks so. Though we disagree on this issue, he should be heard too.

"I think this is valuable research," Durbin said. "We have to set up safeguards that will keep it from becoming commercialized. The important thing about these (fetal) neural cells is that they may be able to help in cases that we can do nothing about now, conditions like that which keep Christopher Reeve in a wheelchair."

But there are other ways to obtain stem cells, according to the Center for Bioethics and Human Dignity. Look if there weren't other ways, using human babies and embryos should not be allowed.
Stem cells can be obtained from the living human nerve tissues of consenting adults and from adult cadavers, according to researchers. Like the fetal stem cell research, all of this is experimental.

Here’s one reason why the fetuses and embryos are used. It’s easier. They’re available. And there’s the problem.

Because it is easy, and because there is promise in the research, we might be will-ing—through small steps we don’t even no-tice at the time—to barter something away.

Our humanity.

WORLD HERITAGE COMMITTEE MEDITATING IN THE INTERNAL AFFAIRS OF SOVEREIGN NATIONS—YET AGAIN

HON. HELEN CHENOWETH OF IDAHO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 1, 1999

Mrs. CHENOWETH. Mr. Speaker, can you believe that the Bush Administration may be working with the United Nations to override a decision by the sovereign, duly-elected government of Australia regarding an internal land-use issue in that country?

On July 12th the World Heritage Committee of the Educational, Cultural and Scientific Organization (UNESCO) will meet in Paris, France for the purpose of stopping the proposed Jabiluka uranium mine near the Kakadu National Park in the Northern Territory of Australia. Mine opponents were unable to persuade the Australian people and their government to veto the mine, so they have appealed to the World Heritage Committee (WHC) of the United Nations. Since Kakadu National Park is a U.N. World Heritage Site, environmental and anti-nuclear activists want the WHC to have Kakadu declared “In Danger,” thus making mine construction very dif-ficult.

The United States is a Member of the 21 nation World Heritage Committee, and the Clinton Administration is being lobbied by U.S. environmental and anti-nuclear activists to op pose the mine, and vote in favor of the “In Danger” designation. The important issue here is protection of the rights of people in the democratic process of a sovereign nation from interference by international bureaucrats with no accountability whatsoever. The Jabiluka mine decision fundamentally affects citizens of Australia and a global organization should not be ceded that role and its associated powers to in which affected Australians have no re presentation. If the United States does not op pose this interference of the WHC in Aus tralia’s internal affairs, then we will hardly be able to complain when the WHC shows up on our doorstep to review some land-use decision in this country.

I would like to put this letter signed by 40 of my colleagues in the Record. The letter urges President Clinton to direct the U.S. Delegation to the World Heritage Committee in Paris not to meddle in the Jabiluka issue in which the United States has no clear national interest—nor any business in becoming involved.

Sincerely,

PITTING EMOTION AGAINST REALITY

Maybe, just maybe, the UN is at last showing some spine on environmental and indigen ous matters.

It’s a big maybe but at least the UN’s World Heritage Commission has given the Australian Government six months break ing space to counter the scurrilous propa ganda put out by environmentalists and some Aborigines about the development of the Jabiluka uranium mine adjacent to Kakadu national park.

The report, prepared by a committee chaired by Italian Francesco Francioni, is undoubtedly one of the most egregious doc uments ever to come out of UNESCO.

Environment Minister Senator Robert Hill was exaggerating when he damned it as “biased, unbalanced, and totally lacking in objectivity”.

At a time when the United Nations’ mis guided committees are coming under more fire than ever before, this sort of criticism from a senior figure in a democratic government, unlike most UN members, will attract the concern of senior people up the UN ladder. And it should.

Dr. Francioni’s group not only failed to take into account material on Jabiluka which would have added weight to its report, it actively avoided witnesses who could have shed informed light on the issue and attempted to impugn the integrity of others.

Instead it was spoon-fed the usual pap from green and Aboriginal activists and a mish mash of scientific data from so-called ex perts who hadn’t even visited the site.

In most circles, the omission of evidence from key scientific and Aboriginal groups in such a report would be considered to con strain in fraud.

Not unexpectedly, the usual suspects are saying they’re outraged that the UN hasn’t bought the report.

Well, let them puff and puff and let them explain why the report they cherish contains fundamental and humiliating errors of law.

For example, the Report refers to the 1993 Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peo ple but last we heard, this most contentious document was still being negotiated with just two of its 45 draft articles being settled.

The report seeks to rely on Australia’s ob ligations under two Conventions to which Australia is not a party and it seeks to rely on another Convention relating to stolen or illegally exported cultural exports, to which Australia is not only not a party to, but which is also irrelevant.

The mission was almost exclusively on a submission from four scientists from the ANU, three of whom have never been on

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES,

WASHINGTON, DC, J ULY 1, 1999

HON. WILLIAM JEFFERSON CLINTON,

President of the United States of America, The White House

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: As you know, the House of Representatives approved for the third consecutive Congress the American Cultural Heritage Act (S. 183), which increases congressional oversight of UNESCO’s World Heritage and Biosphere Reserve program.

This legislation, which has 183 bipartisan cosponsors, is partially a response to the international World Heritage Committee’s meddlesome in a dispute regarding a proposed gold mine located on private property out side the boundary of Yellowstone National Park. Yellowstone has been designated as a World Heritage Site. The World Heritage Committee, a collection of unelected United Nations bureaucrats, voted in Berlin, Ger many, to declare Yellowstone a World Her itage Site “In Danger” in an effort to stop the mine. The Committee did not seek local or U.S. congressional input, but acted after only a brief visit to the park in 1995.

All permeating issues regarding the mine were being considered pursuant to relevant state and federal laws including the National Environmental Policy Act. Actions taken by the Clinton Administration were intended to short-circuit these laws and influence land use policies in the United States. In short, it amounted to a significant intervention by the United States in the internal matters of the United States. In short, it amounted to a significant intervention by the United States in the internal land-use issue in that country?

We understand the World Heritage Com mittee, of which we are a member, will meet on July 12 in Paris to consider designating the Kakadu National Park in Australia as a World Heritage Site in Danger in an effort to stop the proposed Jabiluka uranium mine which is located near that park—a situation remarkably similar to that in Yellowstone.

The duly elected Government of Australia has performed exhaustive studies regarding the environmental impact of the Jabiluka Mine. Based on these studies, it has concluded that a properly regulated mine will not impair the park. Consequently, Australian government authorities have issued the necessary permits for the mine to proceed, and the Government strongly opposes any intervention by the World Heritage Committee.

Australia’s environmental record is exemplary. There is another nearby mine, the Ranger mine, which has successfully operated for many years without impairing the park. In fact, one color picture used by the Australian Government six months breath ing space to counter the scurrilous propa ganda put out by environmentalists and some Aborigines about the development of the Jabiluka uranium mine adjacent to Kakadu national park.

The report, prepared by a committee chaired by Italian Francesco Francioni, is undoubtedly one of the most egregious documents ever to come out of UNESCO.

Environment Minister Senator Robert Hill was exaggerating when he damned it as “biased, unbalanced, and totally lacking in objectivity”.

At a time when the United Nations’ misguided committees are coming under more fire than ever before, this sort of criticism from a senior figure in a democratic government, unlike most UN members, will attract the concern of senior people up the UN ladder. And it should.

Dr. Francioni’s group not only failed to take into account material on Jabiluka which would have added weight to its report, it actively avoided witnesses who could have shed informed light on the issue and attempted to impugn the integrity of others.

Instead it was spoon-fed the usual pap from green and Aboriginal activists and a mish mash of scientific data from so-called experts who hadn’t even visited the site.

In most circles, the omission of evidence from key scientific and Aboriginal groups in such a report would be considered to constitute fraud.

Not unexpectedly, the usual suspects are saying they’re outraged that the UN hasn’t bought the report.

Well, let them puff and puff and let them explain why the report they cherish contains fundamental and humiliating errors of law.

For example, the Report refers to the 1993 Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples but last we heard, this most contentious document was still being negotiated with just two of its 45 draft articles being settled.

The report seeks to rely on Australia’s obligations under two Conventions to which Australia is not a party and it seeks to rely on another Convention relating to stolen or illegally exported cultural exports, to which Australia is not only not a party to, but which is also irrelevant.

The mission was almost exclusively on a submission from four scientists from the ANU, three of whom have never been on the Jabiluka mine site and whose refusal to accept invitations could indicate an alarming degree of partiality.

The mission claims the mine should be stopped because of its visual impact but then conceded that it was not visible to visitors to Kakadu park from the ground.

It also makes reference to the disputed Boyweg cultural site which is not in the World Heritage Area. (By the way, the dispute over the site is between senior traditional custodians at odds about the significance of the area.)

But perhaps most importantly, the report, which relies heavily on the emotional and very public arguments placed before it by the media-savvy Yvonne Margarula, the current senior traditional owner, ignores the fact that traditional owners have twice given their consent to the Jabiluka project.

In 1982, the Mirrar people gave their consent to an agreement with Pancontinental to allow mining on the lease, and they consented again in 1991, when Pancontinental sold its rights to ERA.

Indeed, traditional owner Yvonne Margarula was part of a Mirrar delegation to Canberra in 1991 which vigorously lobbied the Labor government for mining at Jabiluka.

Royalty payments were accepted and the validity of both agreements is supported by the Northern Land Council.

The UN committee, however, wants to introduce a new concept to the law under which agreements can be torn up by successive generations, ushering in an unworkable degree of uncertainty which would cover all agreements with traditional owners.

Interestingly, former NT ALP Senator Bob Collins, has attacked his former colleague, Senator Nick Bolkus, for his uninformed approach to the dispute.

Though most of the ideologically-tainted Australian media chose to ignore Collins, he did take the trouble to read the full report and its annexes and noted that contrary to Senator Bolkus's assertions "there was no recommendation from the majority of the committee calling for immediate halting to the Jabiluka mine".

The no-nonsense former senator has also gone on the record to complain about the "very small group" of unrepresentative Aboriginal people who were given the opportunity to speak to the UN investigators.

"There is no acknowledgement whatsoever in this UNESCO report—in any part of it—that there is a view of traditional owners of the park that is different from the view that was expressed by the people they spoke to," he said in an interview on 2GB.

As the former senator said, all Australians should be concerned about the issues raised.

The public proceedings of each House of Congress, as reported by the Official Reporters thereof, are printed pursuant to directions of the Joint Committee on Printing as authorized by appropriate provisions of Title 44, United States Code, and published for each day that one or both Houses are in session, excepting very infrequent instances when two or more unusually small consecutive issues are printed at one time. Public access to the Congressional Record is available online through GPO Access, a service of the Government Printing Office, free of charge to the user. The online database is updated each day the Congressional Record is published. The database includes both text and graphics from the beginning of the 103rd Congress, 2nd session (January 1994) forward. It is available on the Wide Area Information Server (WAIS) through the Internet and via asynchronous dial-in. Internet users can access the database by using the World Wide Web; the Superintendent of Documents home page address is http://www.access.gpo.gov/su_docs, by using local WAIS client software or by telnet to swais.access.gpo.gov, then login as guest (no password required). Dial-in users should use communications software and modem to call (202) 512-1661; type swais, then login as guest (no password required). For general information about GPO Access, contact the GPO Access User Support Team by sending Internet e-mail to gpoaccess@gpo.gov, or a fax to (202) 512-1262, or by calling Toll Free 1-888-290-6498 or (202) 512-1530 between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. Eastern time, Monday through Friday, except for Federal holidays. The Congressional Record paper and 24x microfiche will be mailed to subscribers, free of postage, at the following prices: paper edition, $165.00 for six months, $325.00 per year, or purchased for $2.75 per issue, payable in advance; microfiche edition, $141.00 per year, or purchased for $1.50 per issue payable in advance. The semimonthly Congressional Record Index may be purchased for the same per issue prices. Mail orders to: Superintendent of Documents, P.O. Box 371954, Pittsburgh, PA 15250-7954, or phone orders to (202) 512-1262, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Eastern. Remit check or money order, made payable to the Superintendent of Documents, or use VISA, MasterCard, Discover, or GPO Deposit Account. Following each session of Congress, the daily Congressional Record is revised, printed, permanently bound and sold by the Superintendent of Documents in individual parts or by sets. With the exception of copyrighted articles, there are no restrictions on the republication of material from the Congressional Record.
