

grants for plan implementation and authorize annual appropriations in the amount of $25 million. I am also hopeful that when this bill goes to conference, this authorization can be increased to $50 million. With such an increase areas will be able to upgrade sewage treatment plants, fix combined sewer overflows, control urban stormwater discharges, and reduce polluted runoff into estuarine areas.

RECOGNITION OF GREG HART, TEACHER AT SKYLINE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

• Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, throughout my great State of Washington, there are thousands of gifted students who need some extra time and attention to help further their talents. At Skyline Elementary in Ferndale, a teacher by the name of Greg Hart, has turned a program created by the school district into a tremendous success and created an environment where gifted students can excel. For his achievements with gifted students in the Aiming High program, I am proud to award him with my next "Innovation in Education" Award.

The Aiming High program consists of students from all over the Ferndale School Districts for gifted students in the top 1 to 2-percent of the district and was created by the Ferndale School District to encourage highly capable students to develop critical thinking and analytical skills, act responsibly and respectfully, and promote positive self-esteem. Mr. Hart's classes consists of fifth and sixth grade students.

Both the Ferndale Superintendent and Skyline Principal believe that Mr. Hart is the driving force behind the success of this program. One of the ways Mr. Hart improves student learning is by tackling issues of national and historical importance. Students must work together on research projects and give presentations to their classmates. One of the most recent projects was by two students who focused on race in the United States and how it was manifested on the baseball field. Mr. Hart believes that by empowering children, they become better learners and have the confidence to tackle topics and develop skills well-beyond their grade level.

Superintendent Roger Lenhert describes Mr. Hart as the model of an ideal teacher. His energy in the classroom motivates his students to not only to advance in their studies, but to also pursue goals and interests outside of the classroom. Mr. Hart also encourages his students to act responsibly and to treat others with respect.

Mr. Hart's students succeed in academic competitions, both under his tutelage and after, and he continue to guide his students well after they left the elementary school. I am told by Dr. Berres that it is not uncommon to see Mr. Hart's old students coming by his classroom to visit him and to update him on their current achievements. It is clear by the visits of his former students and praising words of the superintendent and principal that Mr. Hart makes an enormous impact on his students.

Educators like Greg Hart clearly demonstrate that it is the people that know our children's names—their parents, their teachers, their administrators, and their school board members—who will make the best decisions about their education. I applaud Mr. Hart's hard work and dedication to his students and I hope my colleagues will join me in recognizing his outstanding contribution to education.●

IN RECOGNITION OF DAVID AND DOREEN HERMELIN

• Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize an extraordinary couple from my home state of Michigan. David and Doreen Hermelin will be given the Dream Maker Award and the Rabbi Jacob Segal Award by Hillel Day School of Metropolitan Detroit on June 6, 2000.

It is truly fitting that among the honors David and Doreen will receive is the Dream Maker Award. The Award is given to those who have demonstrated an extraordinary commitment to the community and especially to Jewish education. It can be fairly said that David and Doreen are "Dream Makers," because they both have committed so much of their lives to making people's dreams come true.

One of David Hermelin's mottos is "The harder you work, the luckier you get." Thanks to his and Doreen's hard work, countless people in Metro Detroit have found themselves wealthy in luck as well. David and Doreen have opened their home for hundreds of charitable fundraisers, and their efforts on behalf of these good causes do not stop with opening their front door. They both have personally raised tens of millions of dollars for organizations that serve people in need in Michigan and in Israel as well. David's reputation as a fundraiser has become so widely recognized, in fact, that he has been known to joke that people wouldn't recognize him if his hand was in his pocket. But as he often notes, he asks people to contribute their time or talents to those in need "not until it hurts, but until it feels good." Maybe that's the secret to David and Doreen's seemingly endless capacity for helping others—it truly does feel good.

Added to all of their other accomplishments, David just finished an extraordinary tour as U.S. Ambassador to Norway. He and Doreen made a very positive impact on our relations with this great ally. They played a major role in arranging for a United States Presidential visit, the first in a long time, and when my wife Barbara and I visited Norway, it was obvious from everyone we met that our country could not have selected a greater representative and symbol of what we stand for.

David and Doreen Hermelin's commitment to helping others is truly worthy of recognition, not only by Hillel Day School of Metropolitan Detroit but also by all of us. I know my colleagues will join me in offering them congratulations on this special occasion and a heartfelt thank you for all that they have done.●

RECOGNIZING THE HUMANITARIAN WORK OF MR. JAMES KELLY IN MOLDOVA

• Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, I am pleased to have this opportunity to recognize one of my constituents, Mr. James Kelley of Fort Wayne, Indiana, for his humanitarian work in the country of Moldova.

Moldova is a small country located between Ukraine and Romania. Throughout the Cold War it was a part of the Soviet Union but recently gained its independence from the USSR on August 27, 1991. The United States has supported Moldova in its journey toward democracy and sovereignty.

I met with Moldovan President Petru Lucinschi last year in Washington. We discussed some of the challenges facing the newly independent Moldova. Our meeting revolved around U.S. security assistance including counter-proliferation training, efforts to combat organized crime and border security training. We also discussed our cooperation to prevent the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. The United States and Moldova have enjoyed a positive track record of cooperation, and I am hopeful that this relationship will continue.

Of the many challenges for this new country, two of the most pressing are economic growth and the health of the Moldovan people. In an effort to create economic growth in the region, Mr. Kelley established a grain business in Moldova's farm communities. With a purchase of a grain elevator he provided opportunity for many farmers to market their crops. This effort to bolster a local economy will assist in relieving the financial burden many families face in these rural communities.

In an effort to address the pressing health care needs of this nation, Mr. Kelley recently led a group of Fort Wayne area health professionals to Moldova. The team of trained physicians, nurses and health care professionals performed necessary surgeries, administered treatments, delivered medical equipment, supplies and medicines to the Republican Hospital in Chisinau.

I commend Mr. Kelley for his energy and commitment to helping the people of Moldova. His leadership and selfless dedication to helping others have made a difference in this small country.

Good relationships between the United States and former Soviet republics, such as Moldova, enhance the security of the United States. I am pleased to recognize the contributions of a fellow Hoosier in this important effort.●

TRIBUTE TO RABBI PHILIP LAZOWSKI

● Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to a man who, for 45 years, has served the Greater Hartford community with honor and distinction. On April 9, 2000 the friends of Beth Hillel Synagogue will mark the retirement of Rabbi Philip Lazowski at a dinner celebration in his honor.

Since accepting the position of Spiritual Leader at Congregation Beth Shalom in 1955, Rabbi Lazowski has helped the families of his congregation find strength through the principles of faith, humility, determination, forgiveness, and service. As the congregation has grown to include hundreds of families and take the name Beth Hillel Synagogue, Rabbi Lazowski has continued to impart his wisdom on these principles with the same energy and enthusiasm that has been his trademark. Through a number of books and interfaith efforts, Rabbi Lazowski has earned a lofty position within the state's distinguished history of spiritual leaders.

A survivor of the Holocaust, Rabbi Lazowski has also left his mark on the countless young people across the region who have heard him speak about his childhood in Poland during World War II. From the town of Belitza to the Dvoretz ghetto to more than a year of hiding in the woods, his story has resonated within the youth of the community. With his many talks and presentations on this dark chapter of human history, Rabbi Lazowski has embraced his obligation to history and has proven that the light of truth can dispel all shadow.

For more than a quarter century, Rabbi Lazowski has served as Chaplain for the Hartford Police Department and has recently been named Chaplain for the Connecticut State Senate. His commitment to the spiritual health, not only of his congregation but all of the Greater Hartford area, is truly beyond question. Although he will be retiring from his position as Spiritual Leader of Beth Hillel Synagogue, I have every confidence that he will remain active as leader, educator and friend to the people of Connecticut.

Rabbi Lazowski stands as a shining example of the type of selfless individual that keeps our communities vibrant. It is with great pleasure that I formally extend to him my very best wishes on this special day.●

COMMENDING GENE R. "ROCKY" ROCCABRUNA

● Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, on March 15, 2000, Gene R. "Rocky" Roccabruna retired as Director of the State of Wyoming's Department of Transportation. Mr. Roccabruna stepped down from his position after rendering more than 30 years of outstanding public service. I regret his departure in the sense that it is indeed a loss to both the agency he headed and to the traveling public at large. But at the same time, I wish to extend, on behalf of my state's Congressional delegation, our gratitude for a job well done and our sincerest wishes for a long and happy retirement.

Mr. Roccabruna's retirement represents a milestone in Wyoming highway history as he was the last active Department of Transportation employee whose association with the agency dated back to the beginning of Interstate Highway System in 1956. After starting as an engineer trainee, he earned steady promotions and soon was in charge of multi-million dollar highway construction contracts. Several sections of Interstate 80 were built under his supervision and that road has since become not only Wyoming's busiest highway but a major artery for transcontinental commerce as well.

Mr. Roccabruna left the employ of state government to start his own contracting business but later returned and went on to hold several managerial positions within the Department of Transportation. His reputation grew along with his responsibilities. He became widely recognized for abilities as a good listener and consensus builder. For these and numerous other good reasons, Wyoming Gov. Jim Geringer appointed him in December 1996 to head the Department, which is the largest Wyoming state agency. During the past three-plus years, I, Senator ENZI and Representative CUBIN, and our staffs, have had numerous opportunities to work with Mr. Roccabruna on many important state and national transportation issues. His advice was particularly valuable when we helped craft the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century, and his contributions will provide benefits well into the future. While I look forward to a continuing good relationship with the Wyoming DOT under its new director, Sleetor C. Dover, I take this opportunity to again say thanks to Mr. Roccabruna for dedicating so much of his time and talents to making transportation more efficient, more enjoyable and safer for Wyoming residents and the entire traveling public.●

25TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE OSHKOSH SENIORS CENTER

● Mr. KOHL. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize the 25th Anniversary of the Oshkosh Seniors Center. Since its beginnings in a single room at the First Presbyterian Church in 1975, the Oshkosh Seniors Center has grown to occupy the present site at 200 North Campbell Road.

Friends of the Oshkosh Seniors Center were crucial to the success of raising $500,000 of the $1.2 million needed to build the beautiful facility on Campbell Road. The Friends of the Center, on behalf of the City of Oshkosh, worked unfailingly to realize what has become a first class center for senior citizens. They remain committed to meeting the demands of the continuing growth of the Center. Just as the dedication of the Friends of the Center has remained steadfast, the staff and volunteers of the Oshkosh Seniors Center have never wavered from its stated mission in 1975 "to become a multi-purpose seniors center."

The center meets the social, physical and emotional needs of senior citizens in the Oshkosh community by providing inter-generational, social, recreational, cultural and volunteer opportunities. These goals are supported by more than one hundred programs and activities in arts and crafts, fine arts, continuing education, games and recreation, community services, support groups, health and wellness, and other events. These offerings have been delivered at the center and at several locations in the area to thousands of people during the past year.

It is through the efforts of the center's Director, Sue Kreibich, staff members and countless volunteers who work diligently to make certain the Oshkosh Seniors Center continues to offer opportunities that allows senior citizens of the Oshkosh community to remain active and involved.

The center will observe its twenty-fifth anniversary during the week of April 2nd by announcing the inauguration of the Oshkosh Seniors Center Endowment Fund. This Fund will allow the organization to meet the needs of expansion to accommodate the substantial growth that continues at the
