

worked more than 1,000 hours in the preceding calendar year. It does not matter whether the employee contributes. Employers have the option of contributing as much as 10 percent. This will undoubtedly give small business employees not only a stake in equity, but a larger stake in the success of that business. In a world largely absent of retirement plans where employers alone make annual contributions, I believe this measure provides a third practical alternative to government mandated pensions and no pension coverage at all. In turn, small business employers are allowed to contribute a higher percentage of their salary to a retirement plan than they would otherwise be allowed under current law.

Second, for a variety of reasons, the number of companies offering defined benefit plans has fallen dramatically. Between 1970 and 1990, the percentage of private sector workers covered by a pension plan decreased by 2 percent from 45 percent in 1970 to 43 percent in 1990. This is not progress.

Finally, an aging population where most men and women who reach age 65 can expect to live at least another decade will surely place some stress on Social Security's ability to pay out benefits. Today, Social Security is the main source of income for 80 percent of retirees. While Social Security is currently strong, it faces challenges to its solvency as the Baby Boom generation nears retirement.

In short, the three-legged stool of retirement security is in jeopardy without a correction. Plans where employers make automatic, mandatory contributions have been replaced by plans where employees make voluntary contributions. No longer do companies automatically bear the risks and costs of professionally made investment decisions. Today, workers have to bear the risks and costs of their investment decisions. Investment decisions can be quite scary for inexperienced, first time, lower- and middle-income investors, who have a lot more to lose than wealthy investors. Employees in these pension plans not only have to take a crash course in "Investing 101" but are less likely to accomplish personal savings with stagnant or slowly rising wages.

It is imperative that Congress put in place new, innovative and cost-effective ways to expand pension coverage. The Blunt-Bentsen bill put a new critical tool in the hands of small businesses to create greater security against the risks and burdens of old age, inflation, and economic downturns for their employees.

REFORMING THE ESTATE TAX

HON. PATSY T. MINK

OF HAWAII

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, February 28, 2001

Mrs. MINK of Hawaii. Mr. Speaker, yesterday I introduced H.R. 759, a bill that would reform the estate tax and provide an immediate exclusion equivalent deduction of $5 million.

Clearly the estate tax has a deleterious effect on successful persons who hope to pass along property to their children. In my State of Hawaii, property values are highly inflated and properties which would not result in any estate tax on the mainland are subject to estate tax in Hawaii. In 1997, the latest figures available, 2.5 percent of estates in Hawaii were subject to Federal estate taxes, compared to only 1.9 percent nationwide.

Existing inheritance taxes unfairly penalize ordinary individuals who work hard their entire lives so they can leave something for their children. The tax scale hits family farmers and businesses disproportionately. I have received many letters from constituents detailing the burden the tax has had on their small business.

Currently, the first $675,000 of estates are exempt from tax. The exemption level will increase to $1,000,000 in 2006. Family businesses have an exemption of $1,300,000. These numbers are too low. No small family-owned farm or small family-owned business should have to be sold by the children to pay an inheritance tax.

I agree that a full repeal of the estate tax would give too much tax relief to the wealthiest Americans. My bill merely increases the exemption for estates to $5 million and makes that change effective immediately.

I urge my colleagues to cosponsor this legislation.

IN HONOR OF BLACK HISTORY MONTH

HON. ELIOT L. ENGEL

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, February 28, 2001

Mr. ENGEL Mr. Speaker, since 1976 Black History Month has been celebrated in February to recognize the heritage and achievements of African-Americans.

I rise in honor of Black History Month and its 2001 theme—Creating and Defining the African-American Community: Family, Church, Politics, and Culture. As I reflect on this year's theme, I feel we must come together to remember the struggle of African-Americans and honor all of their accomplishments.

At one time, this country erected every conceivable legal, societal and cultural roadblock to prevent African-Americans from having access to education, wealth and politics in our society. In overcoming these roadblocks, they have contributed greatly to America's identity, community, culture and politics. We must recognize the African-American community and the critical role African-Americans have and will continue to have in the development of our country.

But, we must always remember that so much more must be done. I have been horrified by the reports from Florida about voter disenfranchisement. From poor staffing, inadequate explanations of voting procedures, to outright voter intimidation, these issues must be addressed. To truly move into the 21st century, we must end the practices of the 19th century.

We must also end, once and for all, the despicable practice of racial profiling. The process of singling out people who "may"—and I underline and emphasize may—be engaged in criminal activity solely because of race is infuriating. There is just no logic behind it—but instead there is hate and discrimination. I was pleased to learn of President Bush's move to end racial profiling. I plan to hold him and his administration to this commitment.

I represent the great state of New York and a district rich in history. From early politicians to famous athletes, African-Americans in the Bronx have been pioneers in many different fields. From scientists, to members of the clergy, to entertainers, more and more African-Americans are represented in leadership positions in our society.

I am always inspired by the community spirit and leadership I witness from African-Americans in the 17th Congressional District of New York. It is my hope that as we celebrate Black History Month in the future, we will be able to celebrate the many more achievements of African-Americans.

I know the Members of the House will join me in extending heartfelt condolences to his family: his wife, Peggy; his brother, Blair; his two daughters, Margrace Buckler and Melissa Arnold; his son, Lynn M. Ewing III—and his grandchildren.

CELEBRATING THE LIFE AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF BEN BARKIN

HON. THOMAS M. BARRETT

OF WISCONSIN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, February 28, 2001

Mr. BARRETT of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to share my admiration for my longtime friend and constituent, Mr. Ben Barkin, who passed away recently at the age of 85.

Ben Barkin is fondly remembered as the father of Milwaukee's Great Circus Parade. The parade features circus wagons from the Circus World Museum in Baraboo, Wisconsin, some more than one hundred years old. It celebrates America's history of the circus by recreating old-fashioned circus parades in an authentic manner, along a three-mile route through downtown Milwaukee.

In 1963, Ben Barkin and Charles "Chappie" Fox organized Milwaukee's first Great Circus Parade. Ben convinced the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Company to be the parade's exclusive sponsor. In 1973, Schlitz was no longer able to sponsor the parade, and the parade shut down for twelve years, but in 1985, Ben was able to bring it back. The Great Circus Parade was made an annual event the following year, after Ben raised more than $900,000. Mr. Barkin retired as the chairman of the Great Circus Parade in 1995, but he remained its guiding light. His greatest accomplishment was promotion of the parade at a national level, and securing funding to keep the parade free to the public.

The Great Circus Parade now brings in hundreds of thousands of visitors from all over the United States. It is also shown on 200 public television stations nationwide and worldwide on the U.S. Information Agency's Worldnet System and the Armed Forces Television Network.

A Milwaukee Journal Sentinel article describing the 2000 Great Circus Parade captured the parade's magic for children of all ages. Seven-year-old Terry Parks told the newspaper, "I got to see a real lion, not something on TV." Sixty-two-year-old Richard Czaja said, "I love the horses, and the wagons were unbelievable the way they restored them and kept them up." Circus Parade fans come to Milwaukee and camp out every year near the city's lakefront. The resulting tent city is affectionately known as Barkinville, and each year Mr. Barkin would go down and meet the people camping out for the parade.

Throughout his life, Ben focused his endless energy to other things other than the Great Circus Parade. During World War II, Ben volunteered with the U.S. Treasury to sell war bonds, and he helped make Milwaukee the standard for war bond fund raising. He was invited to Washington to present the model that was soon adopted by the rest of the country. After the war he founded the nationally recognized public relations firm of Barkin, Herman, Solocheck, and Paulsen. In 1970, he was named as the "best publicist in the country" by 100 of the nation's largest newspapers. That same year he helped Bud Selig bring the Brewers to Milwaukee.

Ben Barkin was an advocate for civil rights by looking past religious and racial differences. He was the chairman of the B'nai B'rith Youth Commission, and spoke out advocating better race relations. He also supported religious causes, whether they were Catholic, Jewish, or Protestant. Ben was also a devoted husband to Shirley for more than fifty years, and a loving father to his son Coleman.

On February 2, 2001, Wisconsin lost one of its greatest citizens, and children lost a friend. I ask my colleagues to join me in remembering this great American and in celebrating his life and his legacy.

TRIBUTE TO HERITAGE HIGH SCHOOL HURRICANES—STATE GROUP AAA DIVISION 5 FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS

HON. ROBERT C. SCOTT

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, February 28, 2001

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today with great pride to call attention to a group of young students from Newport News, Virginia who have distinguished themselves, their school, their community and the Commonwealth of Virginia.

The Heritage High School Hurricanes football team had a remarkable season and I believe the Hurricanes deserve formal recognition for their accomplishments. On December 2, 2000, the Heritage High School Hurricanes won its first state Group AAA Division 5 Football Final at the University of Richmond Stadium. The Heritage Hurricanes completed the 2000 season with a truly impressive record, 14-0. It was the only unbeaten team in the AAA.

Established in 1996, Heritage High School is a magnet school specializing in engineering and technology. Heritage High School was named in honor of five former high schools located in Newport News. Students must meet rigorous academic requirements, take responsibility for academic progress, behavior and attendance, and they are expected to participate in school and community activities. This drive for excellence has now been extended into the field of athletics.

To quote from our hometown newspaper, the Daily Press,

[s]ome high school defenses have big kids. Some have fast kids. Some have smart kids. Once in a blue moon a Heritage comes along. A team with kids who are big, fast and smart.

Their remarkable 2000 season carries on the tradition of championship football in Newport News, started by Newport News High School in 1931, and continued by Carver High School in 1961 and our last state champion—the 1966 Huntington High Vikings.

I want to extend my enthusiastic congratulations for a job well done to the Heritage High School Hurricanes—the Group AAA Division 5 2000 Virginia High School League State Football Champions.

THE SSI MODERNIZATION ACT OF 2001

HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, February 28, 2001

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, today I support "The SSI Modernization Act of 2001," for which I am an original cosponsor. In 1972, the Congress passed legislation to create the Supplementary Security Income (SSI) Program to help the most vulnerable in our society. The SSI Program provides a base level of a support to the elderly, disabled and blind who do not qualify for Social Security or whose Social Security benefits are inadequate. Currently, about 6.6 million of these individuals rely on SSI to provide income for the basic necessities of food, clothing, and shelter.

Unfortunately, Congress has done little since the creation of SSI to ensure that the program serves the recipients in the 21st century as well as it did in the 20th century. As a result, the program now serves a population living at a level of 70 percent of poverty and does not serve those at or near the poverty line. This bill does six items to modernize SSI:

1. It rewards SSI recipients who want to work by increasing the amount of earned income excluded from reducing the SSI benefit from $65 to $130 a month and indexes it to inflation in future years. This limit has not been increased since 1972 and would be $260 a month if they had kept pace with inflation.

2. It increases the General Income exclusion from $20 to $40 of income per month and would index the amount to inflation in future years. This exclusion means that the first $40 of income received by an SSI recipient will not be used to reduce their benefit check. For recipients who have a significant work history and receive a Social Security benefit, they will be able to retain more of their Social Security benefit. This limit has not been increased since 1972 and would be $80 if it had kept pace with inflation.

3. The bill increases the amount of resources that recipients are allowed to own from $2,000 to $3,000 for an individual and from $3,000 to $4,500 for a couple and then indexes it for inflation in future years. If these resources limits had kept pace with inflation they would be $6,000 for an individual and $9,000 for a couple.

4. The amount of infrequent or irregular income that recipients are allowed to earn before benefit reduction is increased from $10 to
