

minute to minute, on TV. It is not assured that will occur with a markup in committee, but we will have it, full time, every moment we speak.

Having said that, we will put together this budget as quickly as we can. We will try to share it with all the Members and eventually, as soon as we can, we will share it with the other side of the aisle. But essentially, they will have ample time in the 5 days we debate this, 50 hours. Do you know how long that is? We won't get out of here before Easter. We might meet through the night one of those nights and we will get out of here before Easter.

CLIFF TARO

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr President, a few weeks ago I went home to Ketchikan, AK. It was the first time since I became a U.S. Senator, 20 years ago, that my good friend Cliff Taro was not there to meet me. He was an exceptional man and embodied the true Alaskan pioneer spirit. Earlier this year, Cliff died. I truly miss him.

Cliff first came to Alaska in 1943, as a Sergeant in the U.S. Army Transport Corps. He was stationed at Excursion Inlet near Juneau. This was a sub port to supply the war in the Aleutians, and was where Cliff received first hand experience and an interest in stevedoring, his future occupation. After 4 years in the Army, where he advanced to the rank of captain, he went to work for Everett Stevedoring in 1946. He married his wife Nan on August 21, 1949 in Bellingham Washington and in 1952, Cliff, Nan and their two children, Jim and Debbie, moved to Ketchikan and started Southeast Stevedoring Corporation.

Cliff's accomplishments, interests and awards are abundant. He was a member of the Marine Section of the National Safety Council for more than 25 years, as well as serving on the Board of Governors of the National Maritime Safety Association. Cliff was a member of the Alaska State Chamber of Commerce for 40 years, served on its board of directors for seven years, and was both vice president and president of the Chamber. Additionally, he was a charter member of Alaska Nippon Kai, a Japanese trade arm of the Alaska Chamber of Commerce. He was a member of the Korean Business Council and co-founder and treasurer of Ketchikan's Save Our Community. Cliff represented Alaska on the Seattle Mayor's Maritime Advisory Committee and had been trustee and member of the Alaska Council on Economic Education.

Cliff was a member of Governor Keith Miller's Task Force to Washington, D.C. to successfully lobby for the Alaska Pipeline. He accepted an invitation by President Jimmy Carter and Governor Jay Hammond to participate in a seminar on Foreign Trade and Export Development. Cliff traveled, with me, and other members of the Alaska State Chamber of Commerce, Native leaders and State of Alaska officials to England, Scotland, the Orkney Islands and Norway to survey and observe the effect of off shore drilling on their communities and how this might similarly affect Alaskan communities.

Cliff served as the Southeast Finance Chairman for my reelection to the U.S. Senate. He was a life member of the Pioneers of Alaska, member of the B.P.O. Elks, American Legion, Theta Chi Fraternity, National Association of Independent Businessmen, National Association of Stevedores and a 45-year member of the Rotary Club as well as a Paul Harris Fellow.

In 1985, Cliff was awarded the Outstanding Alaskan Award by the Alaska State Chamber of Commerce. In 1989 he was awarded an Honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities from the University of Alaska Southeast. In January 1992 he was elected to the Alaska Business Hall of Fame. He was the 2000 Ketchikan Chamber of Commerce Citizen of the Year, and Nancy and I were proud to be able to present him and Nan with this tribute.

Cliff was a supporter of little league and could often be found at the ball park or Ketchikan High games cheering on his grandchildren.

Cliff's death followed the earlier passing of his wife Nan. Survivors include their son Jim, and their daughter and son in-law Debbie and Bob Berto. He is also survived by four grandchildren: Jennie, Ethan, Brian, and Anna.

Cliff was my friend. He will be missed by all Alaskans.

WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I rise today in recognition of Women's History Month. This time has been appropriately designated to reflect upon the important contributions and heroic sacrifices that women have made to our Nation and consider the challenges they continue to face. Throughout our history, women have been at the forefront of every important movement for a better and more just society, and they have been the foundation of our families.

In Maryland, we are proud to honor those women who have given so much to improve our lives. Their achievements illustrate their courage and tenacity in conquering overwhelming obstacles. They include Margaret Brent, who became America's first woman lawyer and landholder, and Harriet Tubman, who risked her own life to lead hundreds of slaves to freedom through the Underground Railroad. Dr. Helen Taussig, another great Marylander, developed the first successful medical procedure to save "blue babies" by repairing heart birth defects. Her efforts laid the groundwork for modern heart surgery. We are all indebted to Mary Elizabeth Garrett and Martha Carey Thomas who donated money to create Johns Hopkins Medical School on the condition that women be admitted. And jazz music would not be complete without the unforgettable voice of jazz singer Billie Holiday who also hailed from Baltimore City. Their accomplishments and talent provide inspiration not only to Marylanders, but to people all over the globe.

A woman who illustrates the commitment of the women of Maryland is my good friend and colleague from Maryland, Senator BARBARA MIKULSKI. Senator MIKULSKI, who has served longer than any other woman currently in the Senate, played a key role in establishing this month. In 1981, she cosponsored a resolution establishing National Women's History Week, a predecessor to Women's History Month. Today, I wish to honor her dedication and service to the people of Maryland and this Nation.

While we recognize famous women, it is important that we acknowledge the contributions of others who daily touch our lives. It is our favorite teacher who gave us the confidence and knowledge to know that we were capable of success. It is the single mother or grandmother who toiled at a low-paying job for years to guarantee that the next generation in her family received better education and career opportunities. It is the professional woman who volunteer the little spare time they have to read to children or speak to student groups, inspiring young people to aim for goals beyond what they may have otherwise imagined. And the stay-at-home mothers who devote enormous time to chauffeur their children and others from activity to activity, knowing that these many hobbies stimulate a child's interest and desire to learn. These modern day heroines, giving of their time, knowledge, and expertise must not be taken for granted.

Women have made great strides in overcoming historic adversity and bias but they still face many obstacles. Unequal pay, poverty, inadequate access to healthcare and violent crime are among the challenges that continue to disproportionately affect women. Working women earn 74 cents to every dollar earned by men. What is more troubling is that the more education a woman has, the wider the wage gap. According to a recent Census Bureau report, the average American woman loses approximately $523,000 in wages and benefits over a lifetime because of wage inequality. Families with a female head of household have the highest poverty rate and comprise the majority of poor families.

Women continue to be under-represented in high-paying professions and lag significantly behind men in enrollment in science programs. Increasing the number of women in these fields begins with encouraging girls' interest and awareness in school.

As our population ages, we must also address the special challenges of older women. Women live an average of 6 years longer than men. Consequently,
