The Reverend Samuel P. Warner, Pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Lumberton, North Carolina, offered the following prayer:

You have entrusted to us, Almighty God, a rich heritage from the past purchased by the lives and sacrifices of those who have gone before us and whose witness testifies to the cost of freedom and the price of peace.

Yet most of all, O God, bestow upon us all in leadership and authority the wisdom and courage today “to do justice, to love kindness, and to walk humbly with You” so that when this day is done, the toil and labor of the men and women in this House might be worthy of the people of our great land, of those who dreamed and shaped her long ago, and of those who defend her now, asking no honor or reward, save the knowledge that they do Thy Will. Amen.
The SPEAKER. On behalf of the House of Representatives, it gives me great pleasure to welcome the Chamber today the former Members of Congress for their annual meeting. Of course, many of you are personal friends from both sides of the aisle, and it is good to have you here to renew those friendships.

As the report from your President will indicate, you honor this House and the Nation by continuing your efforts to export the concept of representative democracy to countries all over the world and to college campuses and universities throughout this Nation. I endorse those efforts and I ask for their continuation.

Later today we will honor the memory of a past recipient of your Distinguished Service Award, the former Chaplain Jim Ford, and at 2 p.m. a memorial service will be held in HC-5 to which you are all invited.

I especially endorse your wise choice of former Speaker and Ambassador Tom Foley as this year’s recipient of the Distinguished Service Award. Speaker Foley served this House with grace and dignity, and I am honored to be here today to help recognize that service.

At this time I would request my friend, the gentleman from Idaho, Mr. LaRocco, the vice president of the Former Members Association, to take the chair.

Mr. LAAROCO. (presiding). The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST).

Mr. FROST. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

On behalf of the Democratic Caucus, I would like to welcome all of you. It is good to see many of you I served with, and some of you I did not. You will be welcomed, I believe, in a few minutes also by the current majority leader, Mr. ARMY, who will be a former Member and Mr. ARMSTRONG is not running for reelection.

The work that you do on college campuses I think is particularly important. I know a number of you have devoted a great deal of time to that. I was just with former Speaker Jim Wright this last weekend, who teaches a course at TCU in Fort Worth; and each year he keeps saying he is not going to do it again. But I asked him is he going to go back next fall, and he said, tell him is. I can tell you, I am one of his guest lecturers. He lets me come in and speak to one of his classes once a year. I have gotten some very good former students of his working on my staff both in Washington and in my Texas office. So I want to encourage all of you to continue to do this.

I know our former colleague, Dan Glickman, is taking this to the extreme. He will be at Harvard 4 days a week starting in August, and maybe some of us will come up and visit Dan in that capacity.

Again, I want to thank you for the work you do when called upon to help us in the House of Representatives.

Former Speaker Foley, as well as some other former Members, is currently working on a task force that Chris Cox and I will chair dealing with the question of what happens if the unthinkable should occur and that there would be a disaster in which a large number of Members of Congress would be killed all at one time and how would the government continue. We hope that never happens, of course. But having the guidance of former Members, particularly former Speakers, is very helpful as we consider how the country would continue in the event that occurred.

Again, I want to greet all of you and welcome you here. It is good to see so many of you. I know you will have a great day here. All of the current Members value your help, value your knowledge and your experience and guidance for us. Thank you very much.

Mr. LAAROCO. Are there other Members of the House leadership that wish to say a few words to the former Members?

If not, the Clerk will now call the roll of former Members of Congress.

The Clerk called the roll of the former Members of Congress, and the following former Members answered to their names:

ROLL CALL OF FORMER MEMBERS OF CONGRESS ATTENDING 32ND ANNUAL SPRING MEETING, MAY 9, 2002

THE UNITED STATES ASSOCIATION OF FORMER MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

Bill Barrett (Nebraska); J. Glenn Beall (Maryland); Tom Bevill (Alabama); Donald G. Brotzman (Colorado); Jack Buechner (Missouri); James T. Broyhill (North Carolina); William F. Foley (Washington); Louis Frey, Jr. (Florida); Dan Glickman (Kansas); Robert P. Hanrahan (Illinois); Ralph R. Harding (Idaho); Dennis Hertel (Michigan); George Hochbrueckner (New York); Marjorie Sewell Holt (Maryland); William J. Hughes (New Jersey); David S. King (Utah); Ernest Konnyu (California); Peter N. Kyros (Maine); Ernest Konnyu (California); Peter N. Kyros (Maine); Larry LaRocco (Idaho); Norman F. Patt (New York); Jim Lloyd (California); Cathy Long (Louisiana); C. Thomas McClennen (Maryland); Lloyd Meeds (Washington); Robert H. Michel (Illinois); Clarence Miller (Ohio); John S. Monagas (Connecticut); Jim Moody (Wisconsin); Stanford E. Parris (Virginia); John J. Rhodes (Arizona); John J. Rhodes, III (Arizona); George E. Sangmeister (Illinois); Ronald S. Sarvis (Connecticut); Bill Sarpalis (Texas); David E. Skaggs (Colorado); James W. Symington (Missouri); Harold Volkmer (Missouri); Charles W. Whalen, Jr. (Ohio); Harris Wofford (Pennsylvania); Samuel H. Young (Illinois); Roger G. Zion (Indiana); John Buchanan (Alaska); Howard Pollock (Alaska); Peter Hoagland (Nebraska); William Carney (New York); Kikidula Garza (Texas); Robin Tallon (South Carolina); Glen Browder (Alabama); Bob McEwen (Ohio); Tony Roth (Wisconsin); Bob Garcia (New York); Jay Johnson (Washington); G.V. ‘Sonny’ Montgomery (Mississippi); Bill Alexander (Arkansas).

Mr. LAAROCO. At this time the Chair recognizes the gentleman from Illinois, the Honorable John Erlenborn, President of our Association.

Mr. ERLENBORN. My thanks to our Speaker pro tem and all of you for being with us this morning. We are especially grateful to the Speaker, DENNIS HASTERT, for taking time from his busy schedule to greet us, and to MARTIN FROST for his warm welcome.

It is always a privilege to return to this institution, which we revere and where we shared so many memorable experiences. Service in Congress is both a joy and a heavy responsibility, and, whatever our party affiliation, we have great admiration for those who continue to serve our country in this place. We thank them all for once again giving us this opportunity to report on the activities of our Association of former Members of Congress.

This is our 32nd Annual Report to Congress, and I ask unanimous consent that all Members be permitted to revise and extend their remarks.

Mr. LAAROCO. Without objection, so ordered.

Mr. ERLENBORN. Our Association is nonpartisan. To sort of prove that, I would call your attention to the fact that a year ago when I was making this report, I spoke from the other side of the aisle. I wanted to be even-handed, so today I am back on the Republican side of the aisle. We have no partisanship in the Association.

Our Association is nonpartisan. It has been chartered, but not funded, by the Congress. We have a wide variety of domestic and international programs, which several other Members and I will discuss briefly this morning. Our membership numbers approximately 550, and our purpose is to continue in some small measure the service to this country that we began during our terms in the Senate and House of Representatives.

Our most significant domestic activity is our Congress to Campus Program. This is an effort on a bipartisan basis to share with college students throughout the country our insights into the workings of the U.S. Congress and the political process more generally.

A team of former Members, one Republican, one Democrat, spend up to 2.5 days on college campuses throughout the United States, meeting formally and informally with students, but also members of the faculty and local community. This is a great experience for our members, but our primary goal is to generate a deeper appreciation for our students and to foster a greater respect for the legislative branch of government and the need to participate actively.

Since the program’s inception in 1976, 129 former Members of Congress have reached more than 150,000 students through 281 visits to 192 campuses in all 50 States and the District of Columbia. In recent years, we have conducted the program jointly with the Stennis Center for Public Service at Mississippi State University. The former Members donate their time to this program. The Stennis Center pays our transportation costs and the host institution provides room and board.

At this point, I would like to yield to a colleague, Bill Carney, the gentleman from New York, to discuss his participation in the Congress to Campus Program.

Mr. CARNEY. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Anthony and I consistently offered different perspectives in numerous forums, including press conferences, in order to meet with students, faculty and the boards of trustees. At the start of our trip, Mr. Anthony and I shared uncertain expectations. We presumed that we were to impart our knowledge and experience upon the students. What was truly amazing was how much we took away from this opportunity.

At both of the institutions we had the occasion to meet with students, faculty and the boards of trustees. There were many things that impressed us. We interacted with the students in numerous forums, including many classes. The reception from the students was courteous and inquisitive. Beryl and I consistently offered different viewpoints. During our point-counterpoint presentations the students were engaged and demonstrated an incredible grasp of the topics.

The Boards of Trustees and faculties’ commitment to the students left us with a renewed confidence in our educational system. Equally impressive was the local citizens’ commitment to the students at both schools, as demonstrated by their generosity to the institutions and to individuals through the student loan program.

For the first time the itinerary included activities at both a community college and a university. The contrast demonstrated the distinct and vital contributions each institution provides to our local community. The contributions of the university system have long been acknowledged. The community college offers our youths the skills and training to be the future captains of our fishing fleets, dental hygienists to care for our teeth, registered nurses, licensed plumbers and electricians, as well as enabling students to earn credits to a full Bachelor’s Degree.

There are many people instrumental to the success of this program, and I would like to take a moment to recognize and salute the great work of a few.

The professionalism and commitment of Dr. Eric McKeithan, President of Cape Fear Community College, and Chancellor James Leutzi of the University of North Carolina at Wilmington is evident in the success at both schools. Ms. Allison Rankin, the Associate Dean for Business, Industry and Government at Cape Fear Community College also deserves our utmost appreciation, as does Dr. Walt DeVries of the Institute of Political Leadership at the University.

I must close by strongly commending this worthwhile program to my colleagues and encourage all former Members presented with an opportunity to participate in the Congress to Campus Program to do so.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back.

Mr. ERLENBORN, Thank you, Bill. One outgrowth of the Congress to Campus Program was the interest in producing a book that would take an inside look at Congress from different viewpoints. There are many fine books written by individual Members of Congress, but, to our knowledge, there was no compendium that goes behind the scenes in a very personal way. So, a past President of the Association, Lou Frey, recruited 34 Members, a congressional spouse, two former Congressional staff members and a former member of the Canadian Parliament, to write chapters for a book on Congress.

Lou and the head of the Political Science Department at Colgate University, Professor Michael Hayes, co-edited the book, “Inside the House: Former Members of Congress Really Work,” which was published in March 2001. The book has been very well received and already is in its third printing. We hope that you and others will find it interesting and informative.

Lou will tell you more about the book a bit later.

Mr. Speaker, behind the events we organize in the United States, the Association is very active in sponsoring programs that are international in scope. Over the years, we have gained considerable experience in fostering interaction between the leaders of the other nations and the United States. We have arranged more than 445 events at the U.S. Capitol for international delegations from 85 countries and the European Parliament, programmed short-term visits for individual members of parliaments and the long-term visits for parliamentary staff, hosted 48 policy seminars in nine countries involving more than 1,500 former and current parliamentarians, and conducted 19 study tours abroad for former Members of Congress.

The Association serves as the Secretariat for the Congressional Study Group on Germany, the largest and most active exchange program between the U.S. Congress and the Parliament in the world. The Association manages a program to appropriate Members of Congress and arrange for members of the Bundestag to visit Congressional districts with Members of Congress.

New activities are being explored to enhance these opportunities. The Congressional Study Group on Germany is fulfilled primarily by funds from the Marshall Fund of the United States. Additional funding to assist with administrative expenses also has been received from nine corporations, whose representatives now serve as the Business Advisory Council to the Study Group, which is chaired by former Member Tom Coleman who served as the Chairman of the Study Group in the House in 1989.

I would now like to yield to the gentleman from Idaho, Larry LaRocco, to report on the activities of the Congressional Study Group on Germany and the 19th Annual Congress-Bundestag Seminar held in Galveston, Texas. This year’s Chairman of the Study Group in the House, Nick Lampson, was the host, and we were there from March 24 to March 29. Mr. LaRocco.

Mr. LAROCCO. This year’s Chairman of the Study Group in the House, Nick Lampson, was the host, and we were there from March 24 to March 29. Mr. LaRocco.
This Congressional session, a record 180 Members of Congress belonged to the Congressional Study Group on Germany, 36 Senators and 144 Members of the House. The Study Group facilitates this vital dialogue with one of our most NATO allies and trade partners in many, 36 Senators and 144 Members of the House. The Study Group facilitates this vital dialogue with one of our most NATO allies and trade partners in many, 36 Senators and 144 Members of the House.

Another high-profile event hosted and organized by the Congressional Study Group on Germany is its annual seminar. Every year the Study Group brings Members of Congress together with German legislators for 4 days of focused discussion on a predetermined agenda. The parliamentarians usually focus discussion on a predetermined agenda. The parliamentarians usually are joined by several former Members, officials of the two federal governments, think-tank and foundation representatives and members of the German-American corporate community.

This week, the 19th seminar we have organized, was held in the district of the Study Group’s 2002 House Chairman, Representative Nick Lampson, in Galveston, Texas. During the last week of May, almost 60 seminar participants met to have discussions about child custody disputes between the two countries, the upcoming elections in Germany and the United States, the war against terrorism, and international trade. Our discussions were frank and open-minded. We agreed to disagree on some issues, and we even discussed steel quotas. We found common ground where we expected disputes, for example, when the discussion turned to Saddam Hussein and Iraq.

In addition to the four rounds of discussion, the Study Group arranged a very impressive program of additional meetings. We were able to tour a BASF facility which had just opened earlier this year and is a marvel of new technology in the chemical production field. We also enjoyed an outstanding afternoon at the University of Texas Medical Branch, where we had a very impressive demonstration about telemedicine applications to the care of patients who are geographically far removed from the nearest medical facility. The staff at the University of Texas also prepared for us a very educational and sometimes chilling presentation on bioterrorism and a global response to it.

The highlight of the trip, however, was a behind-the-scenes tour of NASA’s Johnson Space Center in Houston. We received quite an education from NASA astronauts and engineers, and were able to visit some of the training facilities, both for the Space Shuttle and the International Space Station. For me, personally, the trip was even more rewarding, since I was able to visit with Barbara Morgan, a friend and former constituent who is training at NASA to be the next teacher in space. It may not have been a coincidence that shortly after our visit to NASA, the administration announced that Barbara will participate in the next scheduled launches, I believe in 2004.

The seminar in Galveston was an outstanding means of accomplishing the goals of the Congressional Study Group on Germany. Legislators from both countries are becoming acquainted on a very personal level, to have focused and in-depth discussions on some very important issues, and were educated by other seminar participants on some of the nuances that shape U.S.-German relations. It truly was one of the best foreign policy-oriented events I have ever witnessed, and I think the Study Group furnishes sitting Members with a tremendously important service.

A closer look at the activities of the Congressional Study Group on Germany would be incomplete without thanking its financial supporters. First and foremost, one needs to thank Craig Kennedy and the German Marshall Fund of the United States, since without him and his foundation the Study Group could not function at its present level of activity.

Also one must not forget former Member Tom Coleman of Missouri, who chaired the Business Advisory Council to the Study Group. His tireless efforts have raised much-needed funds to support the administrative side of the Study Group. He has put together a group of companies that deserve our gratitude for giving their aid and support to the organization. They are BASF, DaimlerChrysler, Deutsche Telekom, J.P. Morgan Chase, SAP, Volkswagen, and the group’s two newest members, Lockheed Martin and Fireman’s Fund/Allianz Group.

The Congressional Study Group on Germany is an excellent example of how the Former Members Association can provide a service to current Members that is unequalled in Washington and is one of the utmost importance to the foreign relations of this country. I think the former Members can be very proud of the work they do to make this group possible, and I look forward to being an active participant in the activities of the Congressional Study Group on Germany for many years to come.

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. ERLENBORN. The Association also serves as the Secretariat for the Congressional Study Group on Japan. Founded in 1993 in cooperation with the East-West Center in Hawaii, it is a bipartisan group of 86 Members of the House and Senate, with an additional 49 Members having asked to be kept informed of the Study Group activities.

In addition to this project, the Association provides substantive opportunities for Members of Congress to meet with their counterparts in the Japanese Diet, the Study Group arranges monthly briefings when Congress is in session for Members to hear from American and Japanese experts about various aspects of the U.S.-Japan relationship. The Congressional Study Group on Japan is funded primarily by the Japan-U.S. Friendship Commission. In 1999, the Association par-liamentary exchange program with the People’s Republic of China. In October of that year, with funding from the U.S. Information Agency, the Association hosted a delegation of 14 Members of the National People’s Congress of China in Washington. This program marked the inauguration of the U.S.-China Inter-Parliamentary Exchange Group, whose members were appointed by the Speaker. The visit included in-depth discussions between members of the two Congresses as well as meetings by members of the Chinese delegation and high level Executive Branch representatives, academics and business representatives.

In 2000, the Association received a grant from the Department of State to continue this exchange program by arranging a visit to China by Members of the Group. The trip to China originally was scheduled to take place in December 2000, but was postponed in December because of the EP-3 incident. Unfortunately because of the September 11 terrorist attacks, Congress still was in session in December, so the trip had to be postponed until early January 2002. When it did occur, because it was the first visit to China by a Congressional delegation since September 11, the delegation was treated with extraordinary hospitality by the Chinese, who continuously emphasized the importance of a sound bilateral relationship between China and the United States.

I was hoping to call on the gentlewoman from Maryland, Beverly Byron, who participated in this fascinating trip, to tell you about it. Unfortunately, Bev is unable to be with us this morning, so has asked me to give the report on her behalf about the trip, the forthcoming visit in June by a delegation of members of the National People’s Congress of China and the initiation of the Congressional Study Group on China.

Representative DONALD MANZULLO of Illinois, Chairman of the U.S.-China Inter-Parliamentary Exchange Group for the Congressional Study Group on China, led the delegation to Beijing and Shanghai from January 5 to January 12 at the invitation of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the National People’s Congress of China. In addition to Bev, the delegation consisted of former Congressman Beau Boulter from Texas, who was in China on other business and who joined in the delegation’s discussions; the Association’s Executive Director, Linda Reed; Wayne Meissner, a Specialist in International Trade at the Congressional Research Service; and two of Congressman Manzullo’s staff members, Jennifer Osika and Matt Szymanski. The delegation was joined in Shanghai by Congressman Tom Lantos of California.

Because all but one of the five members of the National People’s Congress who attended the sessions in Beijing also participated in the interchange in Washington in October of 1999, there was a camaraderie that allowed an open discussion and give-and-take dialogue of issues that included trade, China’s accession to the World Trade Organization, the fight against terrorism, religious freedom, human rights and Taiwan.

The importance placed by the Chinese on the relationship with the United States further was indicated by the meeting the delegation had with President Jiang Zemin, which lasted 1 hour and 25 minutes, well beyond the allotted time. The session was informal, with much jovial bantering between the President and the delegation members, as well as discussion about substantive issues. In the end, President Jiang said he had enjoyed the visit very much.

Additional high-level meetings in Beijing were held with NPC Chairman Li Peng and the First Minister of the Beijing New Area People’s Congress; the Chair of the Chinese National Control Office in Shanghai after-the-visit. The delegation also had participated in the initial meetings held in Beijing with NPC Chairman Li Peng and the First Minister of the Chinese People’s Congress; the Chair of the Chinese National Control Office in Shanghai as well. The visit to Fudan University, especially at Fudan University, and in consultation with the Members of the National People’s Congress from June 4 to June 9, 2002, so this important dialogue between U.S. and Chinese legislators can be continued to further strengthen the U.S.-China relationship.

There will be sessions with Members of Congress and meetings with Executive Branch representatives, including, hopefully, President Bush. The Association recently submitted a proposal to the Department of State requesting funding for the Association Members of Congress to China for a second visit in the summer of 2003 as the next step in this interchange process.

These annual visits will be continued, but the Congressional leaders of the U.S-China Inter-Parliamentary Exchange Group believe they should not be the sole source of information regarding U.S.-China relations. Therefore, the Association received funding from the Boeing Company to initiate this year another part of the Group on China in July 2001 to facilitate and augment the official Congressional exchange program by offering opportunities for ongoing communication about vital aspects of this relationship.

Currently, the Study Group is composed of 65 Members of the House, although it may be expanded to include Senators as well at a later date. Modeled after the Association’s highly successful Congressional Study Groups on Germany and Japan, this Study Group will hold monthly meetings while Congress is in session so that its members may meet with U.S. and Chinese experts to be briefed about and discuss issues of both countries. The Study Group most recently hosted a luncheon meeting with Deputy U.S. Trade Representative Jon Huntsman to talk about China’s ability to comply with WTO regulations.

Moving congressional study groups to the U.S. Congress and the Congress of Mexico have been conducting annual seminars for 41 years under the auspices of the U-S.-Mexico Inter-Parliamentary Exchange Group, there is little interaction between legislators from these two countries during the rest of the year. The Association is in the process of initiating a Congressional Study Group on Mexico with funding from the Tinker Foundation so that Members of Congress can meet on a regular basis with visiting Mexican dignitaries and other experts about various aspects of the important U.S.-Mexico relationship. It is anticipated that this year the Study Group will be a session with the current Mexican Ambassador to the United States, His Excellency Juan Jose Bremer, in June or July.

In the aftermath of political changes in Eastern Europe, the Association arranged a series of programs in 1989 to assist the emerging democracies of Central and Eastern Europe. With funding from the U.S. Information Agency the Association sponsored a technical adviser to the Hungarian Parliament from 1991 to 1993. With financial support from the Pew Charitable Trusts in 1994, the Association sent a technical adviser to the Slovak and Ukrainian Parliaments. This initial support was supplemented by other grants to enable the Congressional Fellows to extend their stays.

From 1995 through 2000, with funding from the U.S. Agency for International Development and the Eurasia Foundation, the Association supported highly successful programs that placed outstanding Ukrainian students in internships with committees, legislative support offices and leadership offices of the Parliament of Ukraine. This program met the Parliament’s short-term need of having well-educated, motivated, professionally trained staff to conduct its current legislative work effectively, but also the longer term need to develop a cadre of professional legislators.

A second visit to Washington, D.C., will be made by a delegation of Members of Congress and Members of the National People’s Congress led by Congressman Wally Gonzalez of Texas, who attended the sessions in Beijing with the delegation led by Congressman Tom Lantos of California.

They conducted workshops and provided instruction on legislative issues for new Members of Parliament, their staffs and other persons involved in the legislative process. They also made public appearances to discuss the American political process. In addition, the Association brought delegations of Members of Parliament from those countries to the United States for 2-week visits.

Also, with funding from USAID, the Association sent a technical adviser to the Macedonian Parliament to enhance the Inter-Parliamentary Development and the Eurasia Foundation.”

In late 1999 and early 2000, under a grant from the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs, with funding from the Agency for International Development, the Association sent a Congressional staff member to Macedonia for 6 months. They selected university students and recent graduates in that country and trained them to provide drafting services for the Members of Parliament who lacked such resources. A young Macedonian lawyer worked with our Congressional Fellow and assumed the management of the program upon his return to the United States. The Association also sent a technical adviser to Macedonia in January of 2000 to confer with the Members of the Macedonian Parliament concerning the intern program that we had established for them. I believe that one of the most important programs the Association has undertaken is providing help to emerging democracies, especially their parliaments. The transition from the old ways to democratic governments is a basic test of the success of the newly emerging democracies. Similar problems are being faced by all of them, with varying success. I believe the intern projects that we have initiated are necessary to help the legislatures transition into independent and meaningful roles if the voice of the people is to be heard, as it must in a democracy.

The U.S. Association of Former Members of Congress is uniquely qualified to provide the resources for the educational, legislative, and legal elements of a free, representative government.

The Association also has been interested in assisting with U.S.-Cuban relations. In December 1996, we sent a delegation of current and former Members of Congress to Cuba on a study mission to assess the situation there and analyze the effectiveness of U.S. policies toward Cuba. Upon its return, the delegation wrote a report of its findings, which was widely disseminated through the media and made available to Members of Congress as well as to personnel in the Executive Branch.

The Association organizes study tours for its Members and their spouses who at their own expense have participated in educational and cultural experiences in Australia, Canada, China, New Zealand, the former Soviet Union, Vietnam, Western and Eastern Europe, the Middle East and South America.

In September 2001, we arranged a study tour to Turkey, which included visits to Istanbul, Ankara, Izmir and Ephesus, with an optional cruise along the southern coast of the Aegean Sea. We split up into several groups. Every day, flights, you recall, had been canceled. The next day and proceeded to spend the following day trying to find the last port of call was Fethiye, which was reached late afternoon, September 8, Dick Nichols, one of our members, Dick Schulze, turned out to be an extremely talented piano player, and he was joined by Dick Schulze's wife, soprano Nancy Schulze, and, with her beautiful voice, performed several very moving renditions of God Bless America.

The next day included a briefing at the Foreign Ministry and a meeting with the Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Grand National Assembly of Turkey. Dick Schulze extended to our former late colleague, Steve Solarz and his wife Nina.

Our next stop was the City of Izmir, from where a day trip was made to the impressive ancient City of Ephesus. From Izmir, some of our participants departed to return back to the United States, but 12 members of the delegation continued to enjoy a 3-day Blue Voyage Cruise on a gulette, or yacht, which was an incredibly relaxing journey through the beautiful coves of the Aegean Sea along the southern coast of Turkey.

The last port of call was Fethiye, which was reached late afternoon, September 11, 2001. These 12 members of the delegation learned of the horrendous terrorist attacks on the New York World Trade Center and the Pentagon while on board a private bus traveling from our last port of call at Fethiye to the Turkish home of our colleague Steve Solzar and his wife Nina.

Needless to say, everyone that night was in a state of shock. Our farewell dinner at the beautiful Solarz residence overlooking the Aegean Sea, which was to have been a joyous, festive affair, was a greatly subdued affair with much intensive discussion and a prayer led by Steve Solzar.

Our delegation flew to Istanbul the following day and proceeded to spend the next several days trying to find ways to return home, as all airline flights, you recall, had been canceled. We split up into smaller groups. Everyone was finally able to return home successfully, their sadness I might add somewhat assuaged by the genuine outpouring of sympathy received from many Turkish citizens who passed us by on the street, who saw us in the corridors of the hotels or elsewhere, who recognized us as Americans and stopped to express their condolences and their outrage at what had happened to this country.

The trip was greatly enhanced, I might add, by the hard work, attention to detail, kindness and patience of our Executive Director, Linda Reed, who accompanied us. She is here with us this morning, who did an absolutely fantastic job. It has been a genuine credit to our Association. Linda, thank you for being with us this morning.

Even though the trip ended with the tragedy of 9/11, Turkey will long be remembered by all participants as an incredibly majestic country of very warm, gracious people that must be revisited.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. LAROCCO. The Chair would ask that the gentleman from Texas, Mr. Armey, yield the balance of his time for a minute while the Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas, the distinguished majority leader, for remarks.

Mr. ARMEE. I thank the gentleman from Illinois for yielding time. I thank the Chair for recognizing me. I will not take much time. I really do hate to interrupt your proceedings, but I cannot resist saying youth must be served.

Actually I thought that was funnier than thank you. But, at any rate, I have very little time left in my life to lay claim to that privilege, so I hope you will bear with me today.

I walked in this morning and saw all you gathered, and I was reflecting on the fact some of you may have noticed I too am soon to be a retired Member of Congress, and many of these days now as I walk these halls and sit in this Chamber, I find myself with the affliction of nostalgia, remembering times.

I remember the time Jamie Whitten beat me soundly. I yield back the balance of my time. I will not vote for an amendment against one of Jamie's bills. I rushed over to the chairman, and I said, "Now, that will teach you to fool with me." So these sort of nostalgic remembrances of the moments we have had together have sort of plagued me. I am sure you remember those in your retiring days.

But as I walked in here today, I noticed I just created a new emotion I want to share with you. I am going to label it "prestalgia." So I will soon now be joining you.

As I watch you here this morning, I also see in your work and your presence here a lesson of pride that I am just learning, the pride of knowing that I was once a Member of this great body, the United States House of Representatives, a body that I personally believe and have believed for some time is the single most unique institution of democracy in the history of the world.

What a privilege we have had to be a part of this body. It is no wonder you come back and just enjoy these times of nostalgia, when we can remember where we are, and what I also learned here, continue our work as former Members.

I look forward to joining you in just a few short months. I hope you will treat me as well as a member of this Association as you treated me when we served together in this body. It has always been my great privilege, and I hope I have never done anything to embarrass you.

Thank you.

Mr. ERLENBORN. Thank you, Congressmen Armey.

Mr. Speaker, as you can see, the Association conducts a wide variety of programs and is continuing to expand them. All of this requires financial support. At present our funding comes from three primary sources, program grants, membership dues and an annual fund-raising dinner and auction.

On March 5 of this year we held our 5th annual Statesman Award Dinner, at which Mr. Speaker and colleague, the President DICK CHENEY, was honored. We presented DICK with the Statesmanship Award in recognition of his service as a Member of Congress, as the current Vice President of the United States and his other many outstanding achievements.

I would like to thank the gentleman from Florida, Lou Frey, who provided the leadership that helped us make our first five dinners so successful, and to yield to him to report on this year's dinner, the plans for next year, and any additional comments he would like to make about the Association's book, inside the House, which was mentioned earlier.

Mr. FREY. Thank you, Mr. President, and thank you for your leadership over the past 2 years. I am pleased to report that we did hold a successful dinner on the 5th of March, and we have one of the previous recipients, former Member and Secretary of Agriculture, Dan Glickman, here. We had given the award previously to Lee Hamilton, Lynn Martin and Norm Mineta.

We sold over 450 tickets for the dinner. The Vice President actually came early, out of hiding, and he was there, shook hands for about a half-hour, 45 minutes, made a nice speech. I did get a kick out of, for those of you who were not there, one line. He pointed to us and said, "You know, we all know a lot, we spend a lot, around a lot, but there is one thing I want to remind you: If someone important asks you to head a search committee, do it." I guess he came out pretty well doing that.

The dinner is unique. We have a Congressional and a presidential auction and our colleague Jimmy Hayes does that as an auctioneer. He spends a year collecting all the different things for us for the auction. It is really some wonderful things that we have at the auction. Of course, we have a live auction, where Larry LaRocco and Jimmy Hayes run it. They both talk so fast, but it seems to work. We keep selling things at the live auction, so we are going to continue that.

We get items other than presidential donated for the live auction, such as a 3-night stay at the beautiful Adare Manor Hotel and Golf Club in Adare, Ireland, given by� owners Thomas and Judy Kaen, and arranged by our colleague Margaret Heckler. Jimmy Sympson gives us four tickets to a Redskins game, and now that they have a coach from Florida, you have to watch those Redskins. And Bob Carr helped to get us American Airline tickets. So everybody really pitches in to make the dinner a success.

This is our only fund-raising dinner of the year. It goes for the general purposes of the program and the Congress to Campus Program. I want to report that we have at the present time netted over $100,000, and I hope it will be a little more from the dinner. So thanks to all the Executive Committee and the people there, to Barbara Boggs and to Linda Reed. A special thanks to Verizon, who has been one of our sponsors, and also to our new sponsor, Lockheed Martin.

It is a team effort, a lot of hard work, that we have to do, and we hope, on the 5th of March. We have extended the opportunity for the Secretary of Defense, our former colleague, Don Rumsfeld, to come by. So with John's help and Bob Michel's help on that, I hope he will be "goofy" enough to come by and accept the award.

Just one brief thing about the book. It is a good book. It is really fun to read. It is an interesting book. I have taught from it at the University of Kentucky. I know Glen is using it at the War College. I think the University of Kentucky is using it. I know Colgate is using it.

We have had some good reviews on C-Span. Not a lot. It has not been reviewed, an interesting book. I have some good reviews on C-Span. Not a lot. It needs to be reviewed. It needs to be reviewed. It is a good book. It is really fun to read.

One last time, we have been asked by the editors if we would consider in a book, or a chapter, or maybe in that, the book, that paid off. Next year it will be held, in Monterey. I think Glen is using it, and it is in Monterey. I think it is going to be a good book. I think it is going to be a good book. I think it is everywhere. It is a good book. It is really fun to read. It is an interesting book.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, in addition to financial support, the Association benefits enormously from the effort and leadership of many people. I want to thank the officers of the Association, Larry LaRocco, Jack Buechner, Jim Slattery and Matt McHugh, and the members of our Board of Directors and our Counselors for providing the excellent guidance and support necessary to oversee these activities.

In addition, we are assisted by the Auxiliary of the Association, now led by Carol Sarpalius. We are particularly grateful for their help with the Life After Congress seminars, which are held each election year, and our annual dinner.

Needless to say, our programs could not be so effectively run without the exceptional support of our staff: Linda Reed, who has already been mentioned, but deserves a second mention, our Executive Director, Peter Welchelin, Program Director, with special responsibility for the Congressional Study Group on Germany; Katrinika Stringfield, Executive Assistant; and Todd Thompson, Office Assistant.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, the Association also maintains close relations with the counterpart Associations of Former Members of Parliament in other countries. I am pleased to recognize and welcome Alden Nicholson, Vice President of the Canadian Association of Former Parliamentarians and Adrian Cunningham, Secretary of the newly formed Association of Former Members of the European Parliament, who are with us today. Would you rise to be recognized?

Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, it is now my sad duty to inform the House of those persons who have served in Congress and have passed away since our report last year: The deceased Members of Congress are:

Thomas Alford, Arkansas; Frank Annunzio, Illinois; Jaime Benitez, Puerto Rico; Edward Boland, Massachusetts; Howard Cannon, Nevada; James Corman, California; Lawrence Coughlin, Pennsylvania; David Dennison, Ohio; Isidore Dollinger, New York; Walter Rogers, Texas; Richard Hanna, California; Thomas Downing, Virginia; Robert Eckhardt, Texas; Thomas Alford, Arkansas; Frank Annunzio, Illinois; Jaime Benitez, Puerto Rico; Edward Boland, Massachusetts; Howard Cannon, Nevada; James Corman, California; Lawrence Coughlin, Pennsylvania; David Dennison, Ohio; Isidore Dollinger, New York; Walter Rogers, Texas; Eldon Rudd, Arizona; Gerald Solomon, New York; Floyd Spence, South Carolina; Lynn Stalbaum, Wisconsin; William Stanton, Ohio; Herman Taney, Georgia; Victor Veysey, California; Harrison Williams, Jr., New Jersey; Lewis Wyman, New Hampshire; Jollie Young.

I respectfully ask that all of you rise for a moment of silence in their memory.

Thank you.

As you know, each year the Association presents a Distinguished Service Award to an outstanding public servant. The award normally rotates between the parties, as do our officers. Last year we presented the award to a remarkable Republican, Jack Kemp. This year we are pleased to be honoring an extraordinary Democrat, Tom Foley.

Tom is a native of Spokane, Washington, and a graduate of the University of Washington and its School of Law. He was elected to represent the State of Washington’s Fifth Congressional District in the House of Representatives 15 times, serving his constituents for 30 years, from January 1965 to November 1997, a post he held until 2001.

Prior to being elected the 49th Speaker of the House on June 6, 1989, Tom served as Majority Leader and, from 1981 to 1987, as Majority Whip. During his illustrious career in the House, he was a member of the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, the Committee on the Budget, the Select Committee to Investigate Covert Arma Transactions with Iran, the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, and chaired the Committee on Agriculture, the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct and the House Government Operations Committee.

When he left Congress, Tom joined the law firm of Akin, Gump, Strauss, Taft, and Feld in Washington, D.C. as a partner. He currently serves as Senior Counsel for客户端 strategy. Tom currently is Chairman of the Akin, Gump, Strauss, Taft, and Feld.

Tom has served on a number of private and public boards of directors and has received numerous honors, including the Cross of the Order of Merit of the Federal Republic of Germany, and, from the Government of Japan, the Grand Cross of the Order of the Rising Sun, Paulowina Flowers, in recognition of his service to the U.S. House of Representatives and his important role in facilitating harmonious U.S.-Japan relations and promoting understanding of Japan in the United States.

Tom, you have been very patient waiting all this time. Now let me ask you to come up so that I can present you with the award.

Mr. FOLEY. Thank you very much, Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman, Members of Congress, my colleagues, former Members, guests, ladies and gentlemen.

I am very honored by this award. When Ronald Reagan was President, he received many awards. One time he received an award and he said, “I don’t deserve this, but I also have arthritis and I don’t deserve that either.”

We all in our lives are honored by many things. We are honored by the support and affection and loyalty of our families, our spouses, our friends, and we are honored by those with whom we have had the opportunity to work, particularly those who work in public service.

I think the greatest honor of my life was the privilege of marrying Heather to allow me to join her life. She had to leave, but she was here earlier. Second to that, probably the honor that was bestowed on me, as it was on all of you, by hundreds of thousands of constituents, who were willing to trust your judgment and your responsibility in representing them in the House of Representatives. That is truly a great honor because, as it was said 200 years ago from the gallery, “Here, sir, the people govern.”

When I was a young Member of Congress, John McCormick said one time when he was Speaker to us if the day came when you were not thrilled, deeply honored and deeply moved as you came to the Capitol, whether it was a stormy or sunny day and any season of the year, and you did not have that great sense of responsibility and honor to be allowed to serve so many of your fellow constituents, he said if that day comes, quit. Quit. You have stayed too long.

When I was a very young Member of Congress, brand new, not yet sworn in, we, as were Republican Members, were given briefings by our seniors and betters. John McCormick was Speaker when I was a newly-elected Member, and he addressed the Members of the 89th Congress by saying that some of us might have been elected seriously, others by accident, and he would only know and the leadership would only know after 2 years time if we were re-elected. In the meantime, he wished us well.

We were then addressed by a very powerful member of the Appropriations Committee, Mr. Irwin, who said that he wanted to warn us against the single greatest danger that could occur to a new Member of Congress beginning his or her service. We leaned forward to hear what that was, some ethical trap or other we thought perhaps.

He said, “That great danger, above all others, is thinking for yourselves.” He said, “Don’t do that.” He said, “For heavens sake, don’t do that.” He said, “Trust the committee chairmen, trust the committee chairman, trust the chairmen of the Democratic Caucus, trust and support the Whip, the Majority Leader,” and he said, “Above all else, above all else, trust, support and follow the Speaker.”

I remember being outraged, deeply offended that a senior member of my party should suggest that I subcontract my judgment to the leadership when I had been elected, I thought, as one of a number of young Members. Floyd Meeds and I, from the State of Washington to come and do my part to see if we could help our constituents, our State and our Nation.

He went on to say, Mr. Irwin, that more people had gone wrong in this body by thinking for themselves than by stealing money. That outrageous statement was absolutely beyond sufferance.

But on, however, it was my honor to be a subcommittee chairman and later, with Kika de la Garza, our committee chairman and the Democratic Whip and the Majority Leader and, finally, in June of 1989, the Speaker of the House. As I said to the Speaker, the wise words of Mr. Irwin came across a generation of time, and I thought how right he was, how right he was. Members should support, follow and accept in all ways the leadership of the Speaker. But of course, that does not happen. Then and now, people of all parties, of all regions, of all circumstances that serve here follow their own best judgment as to how they can best serve their citizen constituents.

I think that it is an enduring honor to have served in this body, and for, I think, the thousands who have served here it is certainly one of the most significant things that happens in their lives.

After I left here I had an additional honor of being asked by President Clinton to serve as Ambassador to Japan, and I remember very distinctly the moment when I presented my credentials to the Emperor and I said I had been selected. Your Majesty, as the Ambassador of the United States of America to Japan. I herewith present my credentials of office and my predecessor’s letter of withdrawal. That was a fascinating opportunity for me, again a great honor, to represent our country to America’s strongest ally in the Pacific, and to follow, again, a very distinguished group of Ambassadors who have served there before, including the late Mike Mansfield.

As I returned from Japan after being asked to stay for a short term during President Bush’s administration because of the tragic sinking of the Ehime Maru by a U.S. submarine, I left on the very day that was mentioned by our President, and on April 1, when the Chief of Station told me, as I was getting in the car to go to the airport, that we have an aircraft down from Kadena in Hainan Island, China. But the events and the tension that followed have passed and the United States has resumed a constructive relationship in China.
And I want to say a word of praise for this organization and its constant work to use the opportunity of former parliamentarians here to meet with parliamentarians in other countries and in other regions. The study group for Germany and Japan was received with high regard. I hope that our relations with parliamentarians in other parts of the world, and I think together we advance the cause of democracy by that effort. I do not think there is any higher calling that a former Member of Congress can aspire to than to use whatever experience he or she has in the service of our constituents and in parliamentary democracy to advance it throughout the world.

Again, with great thanks to all of you for the honor you have given me today.

Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to revise and extend my remarks and I leave the floor. But before I do, let me say one final thing of appreciation to one other Member here today, Bob Michel, with whom I had the great honor of serving all the time I was here and especially when I was Speaker during the time when he was the distinguished Republican leader of the House. If circumstances had been a little different and the electoral cycle a little different, Bob Michel would have been one of the great Speakers of this House, and I am proud to know him. Thank you very much.

Mr. LAROCCO. Without objection, so ordered.

Mr. ERLENBORN. You may be wondering, since I missed a line in my introduction of Tom Foley, what he was doing here today, and that was he was receiving the Statesmanship Award. The Distinguished Service Award is being given to Tom Foley. I did not want him to hold the award during his speech, but I have a copy of it here and here is what it says: “Presented by the U.S. Association of Former Members of Congress to the Honorable, Thomas S. Foley for his many years of distinguished service to the Nation as U.S. Ambassador to Japan and as a Member of the United States Congress for 30 years, including his extraordinary leadership as Democratic Whip, Majority Leader and Speaker of the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C., May 9, 2002.”

So now you know. Thank you again, Tom, for your leadership and service.

Mr. Speaker and members of the Association, we are honored and proud to serve in the U.S. Congress. We are continuing our service to our Nation in other ways now, but hopefully ones that are equally as effective. Again, thank you for inviting us return today to this Chamber.

This concludes our 32nd annual report by the U.S. Association of Former Members of Congress, and thank you all.

Mr. LAROCCO. The Chair would like to recognize the gentleman from Illinois for the following purpose: If the former Members would join me in giving our President, John Erlenborn, an expression of appreciation for his service. Thank you, John.

The Chair again wishes to thank the former Members of the House for their presence here today. Before terminating these proceedings, the Chair would like to recognize former Members who cannot respond when the roll was called to give their names to the Reading Clerk for inclusion on the roll. The Chair wishes to thank the other Members of the House for their presence here today. Good luck to all.

The Chair announces that the House will reconvene at 10:40 a.m. Accordingly (at 10 o’clock and 41 minutes a.m.) the House continued in recess.

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. LATOURETTE) at 10 o’clock and 41 minutes a.m.

PRINTING OF PROCEEDINGS HAD DURING RECESS

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the proceedings during the recess be printed in the Congressional Record and that all Members and former Members who spoke during the recess have the privilege of revising and extending their remarks.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from North Carolina?

There was no objection.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Mr. Monahan, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate agrees to the report of the committee of conference on the disapproving votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 2646) “An Act to provide for the continuation of agricultural programs through fiscal year 2011.”

The message also announced that the Senate has passed without amendment in which the concurrence of the House is requested, a concurrent resolution of the House of the following title:

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 4546, BOB STUMP NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2003

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 415 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 415

Resolved, That at any time after the adoption of a resolution, pursuant to clause 2(b) of rule XVIII, declare the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the purpose of consideration of the bill (H.R. 4546) to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2003 for military activities of the Department of Defense, and for military construction, to provide for continuing military personnel payroll andTI

SEC. 2. (a) It shall be in order to consider an original bill for the purpose of amendment under the five-minute rule the amendment in the nature of a substitute recommended by the Committee on Armed Services now printed in the report accompanying this resolution and amendments en bloc described in section 3 of this resolution.

(b) No amendment to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute shall be in order except those printed in the report of the Committee on Rules accompanying this resolution and amendments en bloc described in section 3 of this resolution.

(c) Except as specified in section 4 of this resolution, each amendment printed in the report of the Committee on Rules shall be considered only in the order printed in the report, may be offered only by a Member designated in the report, shall be considered as read, and shall not be subject to a demand for division of the question in the House or in the Committee of the Whole. Unless otherwise specified in the report, each amendment printed in the report shall be debatable for 10 minutes equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent and shall not be subject to amendment (except as specified in the report and except that the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Armed Services now printed in the report of the Committee on Rules, or his designee, may offer one pro forma amendment for the purpose of further debate on any pending amendment).

SEC. 3. It shall be in order at any time for the chairman of the Committee on Armed Services or his designee to offer amendments en bloc consisting of amendments printed in parts B of the report of the Committee on Armed Services now printed in the report of the Committee on Rules not earlier disposed of or germane modifications of any such amendment. Amendments en bloc offered pursuant to this section shall be considered as read (except that modifications shall be reported), shall be debatable for 40 minutes equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Armed Services or their designees, shall not be subject to amendment, and shall be subject to a demand for division of the question in the House or in the Committee of the Whole. For the purpose of inclusion in such amendments en bloc, an amendment printed in the form of a motion to strike may be modified and the form of an amending amendment to the text originally proposed to be stricken. The original proponent of an amendment included in such amendments on bloc may insert a statement in the Congressional Record immediately before the disposition of the amendments on bloc. Signature of the Committee of the Whole may recognize for consideration of any amendment printed in the report of the Committee on Rules out of the order printed, but not sooner than one hour after the chairman of the Committee on Armed Services or a designee announces from the floor a request that effect.

Sect. 5. At the conclusion of consideration of the bill for amendment the Committee shall rise and report the bill to the House with amendments as may have been adopted. Any Member may demand a separate vote in the House on any amendment adopted in the Committee of the Whole to the bill or to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute. The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill and amendments thereto to final passage without intervening motion except one motion to recommit with or without instructions.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LATOURETTE). The gentleman from North Carolina (Mrs. MYRICK) is recognized for 1 hour.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, for purposes of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST); pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

Mr. Speaker, yesterday the Committee on Rules met and granted a structured rule, H.R. 4546, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003. The rule provides for 1 hour of general debate, equally divided between the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Armed Services. Mr. Speaker, this is a fair rule. It is a traditional structured rule for defense authorization and it provides for debate on a number of pertinent issues, including nuclear policy, missile defense, quality-of-life issues for our armed forces, and a number of noncontroversial concerns.

H.R. 4546 is a good bill. This legislation firmly shows our commitment to restoring the strength of our Nation's military. This is the fifth straight year of real increases to defense spending after 13 consecutive years of real cuts to defense budgets, and the largest increase in military manpower since 1986. With national security and homeland security as the top priorities, the Federal Government's, and by extension, our nation's, bread and butter, we have an opportunity to improve the conditions for our troops and their families. The House Armed Services Committee has identified that the United States needs to invest $21 billion more in the military than the Administration requested. This is a bipartisan approach to ensuring America's military remains the world's finest. It meets the President's overall defense request, which is a large increase over current spending, and it provides substantial resources to fight terrorism.

Additionally, Democrats and Republicans have again worked together to make significant improvements in the troops' quality of life.

The bill provides for another substantial military pay raise, at least 4.1 percent for all service members, and up to 6.5 percent for mid-grade and senior noncommissioned officers. It authorizes $10 billion for military construction and family housing because our troops and their families should not have to live in substandard conditions. And for military retirees, the bill ends the current practice of reducing veterans' retirement pay when they seek disability compensation.

I am disappointed, Mr. Speaker, that the majority on Rules rejected my amendment to remove some of the obstacles faced by more than 15,000 legal immigrants in the armed services who want to become citizens. Their service reflects the tremendous pride and patriotism of our immigrant communities, particularly among Hispanic immigrants, and I will keep working to make sure this becomes law.

I am also disappointed Republican leaders did not make in order the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. Taylor), one of the strongest supporters of the military in this Congress, to allow the House a clean vote on another round of base closures, something we have not yet had. And the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. Shows), another pro-defense Democrat, had a worthy amendment to allow military retirees the same health coverage as Federal employees, but Republican leaders refused to allow it.

This bill does, however, continue our bipartisan approach to ensuring America's military superiority throughout the world, providing $3.7 billion more than the President requested to fund important weapons programs. In particular, it authorizes over $5.2 billion for the F-22 Raptor, the Air Force's next generation air dominance fighter. It includes $1.6 billion for the services' various versions of the Gapray aircraft. It provides $562.3 million for the Global Hawk UAV. And the bill provides $3.4 million for the Joint Strike Fighter, the high tech multi-role fighter of the future.

As you can see, Mr. Speaker, the majority of this bill reflects the bipartisan support our armed forces enjoy in this Congress. So I am frankly mystified that Republican leaders are in some of our immigrant communities as an excuse to continue their long-time attack on the environment. It verges on ideological war profiteering, and they should be ashamed of themselves.

Some Republicans have squirreled away in this bill provisions to exempt the Pentagon from landmark environmental protections that have been on the books for decades. America has fought and won numerous wars while respecting the Endangered Species Act, for instance, but now some Republicans insist on undercutting it. Since Republilic leaders know they cannot defend in the next 45 days their attack on our environment, the Committee on Rules last night refused to allow the House to even vote on Democratic amendments to strike these environmental rollbacks, as well as many other amendments offered by Democratic Members.

Additionally, there are several very important issues in the bill that the Committee on Rules majority has given short shrift to by limiting debate to 10 or 15 minutes. Given the magnitude of nuclear weapons testing, missile defense, and other matters of gloal reach, it seems irresponsible to give Members of this body so little time to debate. In years past, the defense authorization bill has taken several days, if not weeks, of floor time. So I am disappointed the Republican leaders are rushing through this bill in one day so they can get out of town.

Mr. Speaker, it is my intention to oppose the previous question so that this bill is not approved in a way that will make it truly bipartisan. If the previous question is defeated, it is my intention to offer an amendment to the rule that will allow the House to consider amendments addressing the environmental issues in this bill as well as the other issues proposed by Democratic Members.

I urge Members of both political parties to join me in opposing the previous question when it is ordered. In that way we can protect the environment and preserve the bipartisan spirit that has been so important to the war on terrorism. Then we can overwhelmingly pass this bipartisan bill for the

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. DREIER), the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding me this time, and I congratulate her on her management of this rule.

Let me say that as I listened to my friend from Dallas describe this rule, it is not quite the one that I recall our having crafted late last night. In years past, we have had 150-plus amendments filed to the Committee on Rules on this legislation. The success of passage of this Bumper Stump Defense Authorization Act, which is very appropriately titled for our colleague who is going to be retiring at the end of the 107th Congress, in fact brought a total of 83 amendments, the lowest number that I can ever remember. And I am very pleased that there are 10 amendments authored by Democrats, there are 12 amendments authored by Republicans, and there are 3 bipartisan amendments that have been made in order. So we are clearly going to have the opportunity to have a full debate on this issue.

In years past, Mr. Speaker, we have had some 150-plus amendments. In years past, Mr. Speaker, we have had in years past more rollcalls on the defense authorization bill than any other legislation. The success of passage of the bill can be improved in a way that will make it a very fair and a very balanced way.

I want to congratulate, along with the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), my friend, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), my home State of Missouri as well, who has made a number of proposals to us. And I know he has some concerns, but I am very pleased that we will, as I said, enjoy bipartisan support for this measure at the end of the day.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 1 minute.

Mr. Speaker, the strength of a democracy is to be able to have full public debate on important national issues such as national defense. We stand for a strong national defense. Many of us in this caucus have a long history in that regard; but we also stand for the proposition that the American people can be trusted with the facts, and that there should be a full discussion on important issues of national defense.

The majority has ignored that and ignored the past practices of this House of having a full airing of national defense issues, and having a bill that would be on the floor for several days, perhaps even a week. That is in the best interests of national defense. We stand for a strong America, and we stand for a strong and complete discussion of the issues that make America strong, not the kind of rule which has been presented today.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKEL-TON), the ranking member on the Committee on Armed Services.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to express some concern that I have; and as Members know, I had an opportunity to testify yesterday before the Committee on Rules. I intend to vote against the previous question. However, should the previous question pass, I intend to vote for the rule. But let me first tell Members of my serious concerns.

A number of key Democratic amendments and proposals were not made in order. They include, but are not limited to the amendment of the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) requiring 12 months notice to Congress before nuclear testing. It makes sense to debate that. Or another amendment by the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. ASPIN) requiring that the missile defense, and other matters of global defense, and other matters of global defense, are not done in a way that will make it truly bipartisan. If the previous question is defeated, it is my in-
sider amendments addressing the environment. The measure at the end of the day should have been, in my opinion, a full and fair debate. Nevertheless, we forge ahead.

Mr. Speaker, I stated that I would vote against the previous question because of the fact that these amendments were not made in order, that we seem to be rushing to judgment without a full and fair debate that the country is entitled to have.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. HASTINGS), a member of the Committee on Rules.

(Mr. HASTINGS of Washington asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the rule and the underlying legislation. The legislation before us today will have a tremendous positive impact on improving the environment in our country and ensuring the safety of all Americans.

Mr. Speaker, today’s legislation authorizes $382.8 billion for national defense, which is consistent with the House budget resolution. It includes $7.3 billion for programs to combat terrorism, and it also includes an increase of 4.1 percent for our men and women in uniform.

Further, this legislation keeps our commitment to our military retirees by eliminating the unfair practice of reducing retirement pay based on disability payments, and this will be done by the year 2007. I am very pleased that the legislation also includes the administration’s proposal to accelerate cleanup of former nuclear production sites throughout the country. This year the Bush administration has made a strong commitment to our environment through the environmental management, or EM, program at the Department of Defense. As the chairman of the House Nuclear Cleanup Caucus, I appreciate the commitment of the committee to ensure that our Nation’s commitment to cleaning up these sites, which represent the greatest environmental challenges in the country, will continue on track.

The legislation provides at least $800 million to a new cleanup account to accelerate and reform cleanup of the highest risk environmental threats in the U.S. in a new and profoundly different manner. This new account will implement the results of the Department’s year long, top-to-bottom review of the EM program. The account will direct dollars to accelerate cleanup throughout the Nation without compromising safety and embracing reforms to ensure that the best commercial practices and technology drive the program in the future.

Most important, however, is the commitment to drive more program dollars directly to cleanup and risk reduction, which will accelerate cleanup by decades at these sites throughout the country and save the American taxpayers tens of billions of dollars in the future.

I am convinced that this program will be successful, and I am proud that the Hanford site in my district has led the Nation in reaching the first agreement under the new cleanup account. This agreement, which was agreed to by the administration, the Governor of the State of Washington and the EPA, will direct $433 million out of this new account to Hanford. This historic agreement, when fully implemented, will result in cost savings of $35 billion and will accelerate cleanup by 25 to 45 years. This is truly a remarkable commitment to our environment, and I look forward to additional sites reaching similar agreements in the future.

Mr. Speaker, this agreement will provide a 5-year funding commitment instead of the year-to-year hassle that we go through every year.

Mr. Speaker, I urge Members to support the rule and the underlying legislation.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS).

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I will vote for H.R. 4546, the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003. It is noteworthy that it is named for the chairman, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), and it will be a tremendous legacy once finalized.

The bill has flaws, however, and there were numerous amendments that were offered by Members on both sides of the aisle which were not made part of this rule.

However, I do feel overall that the rule will allow for support of our fighting men and women in a war against terrorism. It equips them with the technology, training and personnel that they need to attain victory, and also demonstrates our commitment to providing an improved quality of life in granting of funds for military living and working facilities.

However, due to the structured rule, we have been denied the opportunity to debate several amendments, including one I introduced. The amendment I introduced would have increased funding currently authorized for military health care by $2.5 million, with the necessary offsets that would not have affected the Pentagon at all. Not $25 million, not $250 million, but just $2.5 million specifically for retirees and their dependents.

In addition to serving active duty, the military and their families, the military health system provides services to military retirees and their dependents. While the number of people on active duty is not projected to increase dramatically over the next few years, the number of retirees and their dependents, especially over the age of 65, will. We face immense challenges in this regard.

I regret that the structured rule has denied me and other Members the opportunity to provide a much-needed boost to the military health care system, as my colleagues, for our military extends to support for veterans and their families, and I will continue to support them however, wherever, and whenever I can.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to voice my support for H.R. 4546, the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003. This bill shows the nation’s unwavering commitment to providing an improved health care system for our veterans and their families.

Secondly, Mr. TAYLOR offered an amendment to limit the number of U.S. troops in Colombia to not more than 500. Mr. Speaker, I have some grave concerns about the necessity of increasing the number of American troops currently in Colombia and would have welcomed the opportunity to debate this issue with my colleagues.

MOTION TO ADJOURN
Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAFOURCHE). The question is on the motion to adjourn offered by the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR).

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Evidently a quorum is not present.

The Sergeant at Arms will notify absent Members.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 44, nays 366, not voting 24, as follows:

The greatest challenge facing the military health care system is caring for retirees—especially those over the age of 65.

Again, I regret that the structured rule has denied me the opportunity to provide a much-needed boost to the military health care system. Be assured that my support for our military extends to support for veterans and their families and I will continue to support them however, wherever, and whenever I can.

Mr. Speaker, there are a few other aspects of this bill that remain troublesome—one concerns our environment and the other concerns the deployment of American troops in Colombia. Regrettably, this structured rule has denied us the opportunity for further debate on these two important issues.

This bill grants special exemptions to the Department of Defense environmental programs. This provision is, and I quote, “intended to restore a balance between environmental responsibilities and military readiness.” It relieves DoD, when conducting training exercises, from the Endangered Species Act, the Migratory Bird Act, and the Marine Mammal Act.

The ESA already contains a provision that permits DoD to request a waiver from compliance with the Endangered Species Act if that compliance poses a threat to national security. I question the necessity of granting the Department of Defense with a blanket exclusion from the laws that the rest of us must adhere to.

An amendment, offered by Mr. MALONEY sought to strike this language from the bill, and another from Ms. SANCHEZ required annual reports from DoD on its stewardship of the environmentally sensitive areas on military bases. Both of these amendments would have initiated a much-needed debate on this issue, but we have denied that right by the rule that has been invoked.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 44, nays 366, not voting 24, as follows:
May 9, 2002

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 4546, BOB STUMP NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2003

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LaTourette) reported the following amendment to the bill:

Mrs. MALONEY of Michigan, and Mrs. MALONEY of New York and Mrs. HART changed their vote from "Yeas" to "Nays".

So the motion to adjourn was rejected.

The result of the vote was as above recorded.

The Speaker then declared it was his opinion that the aye votes overcame the nay votes.

The Yeas and Nays were demanded, and the result was as follows:

FOR CONSIDERATION OF THE SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would advise that the gentleman from North Carolina (Mrs. MYRICK) has 20 minutes remaining, and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CRAWFORD) has 19 minutes remaining.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS), another member of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. McGovern), a member of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I oppose this rule. The defense authorization bill provides a waiver to the Secretary of Defense to get around the current cap on U.S. military personnel in Colombia.

I strongly oppose such a waiver. It is a serious abrogation of the duties of this Congress to monitor and provide oversight to our military programs and presence in Colombia. I oppose this waiver because it provides the Secretary of Defense with the ability for an unrestricted escalation of U.S. military personnel in Colombia and further engages in that country's 40-year-old civil war, a war that Colombia's government has failed to adequately support.

The gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR) offered an amendment to and women who represent us. We are talking in this bill about a better pay raise, a pay raise where we are able to keep the brightest and the best. We are talking about better housing for our men and women; we are talking about increasing our readiness, we are talking about research and development; we are talking about counterterrorism. We are trying to talk about the issues which I perceive are important to the military in this country.

However, perhaps the most key component is we are going to talk about homeland security today, and there is one amendment which will be discussed today that says that no funds for 2003 appropriations for the Department of Defense may be used for space-based national defense programs.

Mr. Speaker, I would tell my colleagues that I believe that now, more than ever, this Congress should focus on not only ballistic missile threats that face this country today. It is not just what is aimed at our military, it is what is aimed at our homeland. Our homeland security is now an issue.

Mr. Speaker, there are more than 28 countries outside of the United States that possess not only ballistic missiles, but the desire and the threat to not only threaten America, but also our allies. These 28 countries, as we look around, many of them represent belligerent countries who would wish for America to be harmed. These 28 countries possess the ability to threaten the United States and our military and our allies.

What is important about this debate is that we need to understand what our President has said about it. President Bush has said, America's development of a missile defense is a search for security, not a search for advantage.

Mr. Speaker, homeland security for America is what this provides also about. I support this rule. I support this bill, and I hope Members will focus on homeland security and the support our President gives for this bill.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. McGovern), a member of the Committee on Rules.

strike the waiver language and maintain the cap. Unfortunately, that amendment was not made in order.

Mr. Speaker, this is a huge issue. We have seen waivers used and abused. Mr. Speaker, this bill strips away the principal safeguard Congress has insisted upon for more than 20 years of escalating military mission in Colombia. It deserves a debate.

I urge my colleagues to vote "no" on the previous question so we can bring up the Taylor amendment and other amendments, and if we are not successful in defeating the previous question, then vote against the rule.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. HAYES), my neighbor.

(Mr. HAYES asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HAYES. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, today I rise strongly in support of the rule that would allow for consideration of H.R. 4546, the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for 2003.

The tragic events of September 11, 2001, have thrust our Nation’s military into the spotlight, and called to duty the brave men and women of the U.S. Armed Forces. Once again, U.S. citizens are rallying behind them in strong support of the harrowing mission they have been called upon to perform, and today the U.S. Congress has the duty to pass this important legislation that will help provide the necessary resources for these brave men and women to do their job.

Where were the Members on September 11? I was in the Pentagon at 8:47 a.m. discussing the defense bill with Secretary of Defense. My question to him that morning was, when will people realize that national security is our number one priority? His answer was to agree and say that it would take a major incident for this to happen. That was 8:47 a.m. on September 11.

Mr. Speaker, this rule and the underlying legislation first and foremost take care of the most vital asset in our military: our people. It provides every servicemember with ary percent pay increase. It also begins a transition program to fully fund concurrent receipt of veterans’ disability and retirement benefits, increases housing allowances and boosts special pay while extending enlistment and reenlistment bonuses.

The defense authorization bill increases our manpower by nearly 1 percent, the largest single increase since 1986. It builds upon our work last year and continues to reverse the decline of military readiness by funding key operations, maintenance, and training accounts.

The financial support devoted to our national security is long in coming. I am proud to say that as a member of the Committee on Armed Services, this legislation will enable our men and women in uniform to continue prosecuting successfully the war on terrorism.

The bill in front of us today marks the most significant increase to the defense budget since 1986. It has targeted two areas which are crucial to maintaining a healthy and robust military: quality of life and readiness.

For the soldiers and airmen in my district, Fort Bragg and Pope Air Force Base, this will mean the ability to adequately care for their families and train for the mission for which they are called are two issues second to none. I believe this legislation makes significant progress in these areas.

Furthermore, the bill funds the development and testing of an effective ballistic missile defense system.

Mr. Speaker, it is a gross injustice that it took unspeakable tragedies in September to focus the public eye on the need for more robust defense budget. I feel the legislation in front of us today takes the first step, and the rule provides for consideration and is fair and effective. We are establishing a clear and strong course to rebuild our Nation’s defenses.

I urge my colleagues to send a message loud and clear to our soldiers, sailors, airmen, and Marines that we will strongly support them and give them the resources necessary to perform the mission.

Mr. Speaker, before I close, I would also like to pay tribute to my friend and colleague, the chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP).

He has served honorably, courageously, and effectively. He will be sorely missed. He personifies national security by his service in our military and in our Congress.

I say to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), best wishes and Godspeed. The Marine Corps says it best: We must always be faithful; Semper Fі.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Rhode Island (Mr. LANGEVIN).

Mr. LANGEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to this rule. The Committee on Rules has denied the House the opportunity to eliminate the demeaning practice of making only American servicewomen stationed in Saudi Arabia wear an abaya, a religious garment of faith most of them do not require or encourage any of its employees to wear the abaya on duty precisely because it is offensive to the United States. Are our military not doing the same? Not even the spouses and dependents of the State Department staff wear the abaya.

The government of Saudi Arabia does not require non-Muslim women to wear the abaya, and neither should we. General Schwarzkopf agrees. During the Gulf War, he never issued such a mandate. Male servicemembers are not required to wear the abaya, grow beards, or embrace any Islamic religious beliefs in this way, so neither should the women.

Forcing our female troops to wear the abaya has a negative impact on our recruitment and diminishes morale, unit cohesion, and the chain of command headed by female servicemembers. Most of all, it is not necessary. As I said, the Saudi government does not require non-Muslim women to wear the abaya.

I urge my colleagues to oppose the rule.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I just wanted to issue a point of clarification. It is my understanding that a Federal lawsuit has been filed on this issue, because I also support that. It is very inappropriate for Congress to get involved in this in the middle of the lawsuit.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3½ minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON).

(Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding time to me. I thank our colleagues for working on what I think is a good, bipartisan defense bill.

As my colleagues know, I voted against the President’s budget on the House floor because I was not satisfied with the level of defense spending because of our inability to meet our resource needs.

I give total credit to the chairman, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) for working together to get us a portion of that $10 billion to help with the modernization problems we have.

The fact is, we took a holiday in the nineties and we are paying for it today. If we look at the shipbuilding account, which the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR) has been fighting for, we are building down to a 235-ship Navy with our current funding level. The average age of our tactical fighters is 17 years old. That B-52 bomber will be 7 years old before it is retired. We have cut back across the board and now we are trying to play catch-up, and it is impossible. This bill makes a good downpayment in trying to reverse that, but it is not enough.

I want to respond to one of the issues raised by my colleagues on the environment. I will take a back seat to no one on environmental votes. I have been a green Republican, voting and endorsing and cosponsoring the Clean Air Act and water, endangered species, wetlands protection. I serve on the Migratory Bird Commission. I voted against the environmental riders.

This bill does not gut our environmental laws. There is a need for us to make sure that our military is properly trained. At Camp Pendleton in California, the number one training site for our Marines’ amphibious force, they come off of the ships, the landing craft, and go board to board to go across an area where some endangered species are. Then they come back on the ground and do their training. These are the same people that we ask to risk their lives.

What we are saying in this bill is we need to have some rifle-shot provisions to let this training take place. This is not about any rollback; this is not about going back to the 1930s. This is about a very commonsense, bipartisan approach to let our military, and our soldiers, sailors, corpsmen, and Marines be equaled to a snail darter. Is a snail darter’s life more important than the soldier?

The whole issue of migratory birds, cut me a break. Maybe we should buy a duck stamp and put it on our planes, because for a $15 duck stamp we are legally allowed to kill birds; but yet we are saying we should not have an exemption so our military can properly train.

Those who say that somehow this bill is rolling back environmental laws in this country are grossly misinformed. I invite them to work with us. We are not about hurting the environment. If we look at the Navy’s research budget, more money is spent on oceanographic research by the Navy than any Federal agency in this country. Every oceanographic research school, Scripps, Woods Hole, gets all or a bulk of their money from naval research.

We are trying to do the right thing. We are also trying to protect our troops. We are also trying to give some relief so our military personnel can be properly trained and equipped when they are called upon to protect America.

Mr. Speaker, it really boggles my mind. When I took a delegation out to California and we flew by helicopter along the coast, the only open area left along California’s coast was Camp Pendleton. Where were the State officials? Where were the county commissioners? I used to be a county commissioner in local zoning and planning, to allow every piece of property to be built up so the endangered species had no place to go except for our military base? And now to come back and say somehow the military has to bear the brunt is absolutely outrageous. Yet, that is the fact of the day.

I encourage my colleagues to vote for the rule and to vote for final passage. Again, I commend my leaders for the great job they did with this legislation.

Mr. FROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. DINGELL).

(Mr. DINGELI] asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. DINGELI. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the rule and I rise in opposition to the previous question.

Mr. Speaker, this is a fine example of high-handed arrogance by the Republican leadership and the Committee on Rules. What is wrong with having a vote to address the problems which exist with regard to a piece of legislation which does not permit the House to require the regular order and to see to it we have a discussion of all of the questions which relate to important environmental matters?

I have been dealing with the military for years. They constantly seek to get out from under environmental laws; and the military bases in this Nation are some of the most skunked up, defiled, and dirty places, contaminated with hazardous waste, radioactivity and other things.

They seek yet another opportunity to escape the requirements of law that say we are all going to together protect our environment against the kind of high-handed arrogance that the military engages in.

There is provision in each of the laws which were challenged originally to permit the military to seek relief and to get it. And there is a regular process around here which would permit the military to have the ordinary hearings and find out if they need any action.

No action of that kind was taken in the committees of jurisdiction, and the Committee on Armed Services, with its usual arrogance, saw to it that there was no opportunity for the environmentalists to be heard, no opportunity for Members to be heard, no opportunity to complete a record to justify whether or not this is appropriate.

Clearly, when they are behaving in this kind of good-humored, fashionable, it is quite appropriate for the House to give them a rap on the knuckles and say, we think you ought to allow this matter to be debated. We think you at least ought to give an opportunity for an amendment to be considered to strike this.

They seek an exemption from the Migratory Bird Act. I would note that this Nation has fought World War I, World War II, and a number of other wars with that law on the books, and a chance to destroy any actions, with the others. I say vote down the rule and vote down the previous question.

Two weeks ago the Department of Defense (DoD) sent a legislative proposal to the Committee on Armed Services seeking broad exemptions from six of our Nation’s most important environmental laws—the Clean Air Act, Superfund, the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act, the Migratory Bird Treaty Act, the Marine Mammal Protection Act, and the Endangered Species Act.

Armed Services ultimately did not seek to undo the important environmental provisions contained in four of the six laws. Unfortunately, the Migratory Bird Treaty Act and the Endangered species Act did not fare so well. Mr. Rahall and I, with several of our colleagues, offered an amendment to strike those broad and unwarranted exemptions. But the Republican leadership will not allow a vote today to undo the damage. That is why I ask my colleagues to defeat the previous question.

We absolutely support the need to maintain military readiness in the interests of national security. That is why when we wrote the laws we inserted specific provisions to ensure there was no conflict between our national security and complying with our environmental laws.

This is the case with the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of 1918, one of our oldest conservation statutes. The United States has fought in two World Wars, the Korean War, Vietnam, and the Persian Gulf War with the 1918 Act in place. I fail to see why our current war against terrorism would now call for its elimination.

The members of this body should also be aware of the ridiculous arguments that the DoD is making in court to support its efforts to exempt itself.

In the FDM case, DoD claimed: ‘. . . plaintiffs have suffered insufficient injury because the more birds that the defendants (DoD) kill, the more enjoyment Mr. Frew (a plaintiff) will get from seeing the ones that remain: “bird watchers get more enjoyment spotting a rare bird than they do spotting a common one.”’

Let me also quote Judge Sullivan’s finding with respect to DoD’s argument (on page 17 of his opinion):

Suffice it to say, there is absolutely no support in the law for the view that environmentalists should get enjoyment out of the destruction of natural resources because that destruction makes the remaining resources more scarce and therefore valuable. The Court hopes that the federal government will refrain from making or adopting such frivolous arguments in the future.

With regard to the Endangered Species Act (ESA), the military leaders have to have exemptions for which no other Federal Agencies are eligible. ESA requires that land where threatened or endangered species live be designated critical habitat. The military does not want to comply with this law like every other agency and every other American citizen does. As the author of ESA, I can assure you that exemptions are available for reasons of national security. In fact, Section 7 of ESA allows agencies to get waivers from the Fish and Wildlife Service. Ironically, the Pentagon was the agency that never even though they have never sought a Section 7 exemption.

 Needless to say, DoD proposals have gone through a most curious legislative process so far. The relevant Committees with expertise have been bypassed. No hearings have been held on these significant exemptions. And now we don’t have a chance to vote on the House Floor.

A stealth process has been employed to circumvent the Committees’ jurisdiction to defend the public’s opportunity to testify, and to undermine two of our most important environmental laws. Defeat the previous question so we have the opportunity to reverse this environmental outrage.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER).

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding me time. I think it is clear now that as we enter this new century that we entered with such great optimism a few months ago that this century is going to be as dangerous as the last one in which we lost 619,000 Americans killed in battlefields around the world.

Going into this new century, it is more important than ever that we develop what I would call broad military capability. And that means that we have a specialty military like a lot of broad military capability. We cannot than a decade ago. So we have to have War almost a decade ago, in fact, more by Saddam Hussein in the Gulf War. We have to be able to handle a terrorist and to deal a blow to those who would strike us on our homeland. We have to stop this new threat, this emerging threat that we face.

We will have spent today in this Chamber more time honoring the former Members than we will have in debating any single aspect of military policy. Now, former Members are wonderful. Many of us some day hope to be former Members, but to put that ahead of debating environmental policy, nuclear policy level of spending makes no sense. A number of very important issues have been, by the Republican leadership, excluded from today’s debate. Why? We were scheduled to meet tomorrow, have now apparently been told that we should put aside any further debate on these issues. A free day tomorrow is more important than thorough debate today. The notion that you take this enormous chunk of the budget, all of these important issues, and cram them into one part of the day, is a travesty of democracy unworthy of the people’s House.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. THORNBERY).

Mr. THORNBERY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I think it may be appropriate at this stage to say a few words about the context in which we are considering this defense authorization bill this year; for it is truly different than the context, the environment, the international situation in which we have considered it in previous years.

The United States is currently engaged in a war. We have troops in the field. And for probably the first time in our history, every American community is a potential target for our enemy. And I think it is important that as the urgency we all felt from September 11 begins to fade away and we have a drift, perhaps, back towards normalcy, the recognition that our enemy in this situation is very dangerous, indeed. Their aim is to kill as many Americans as they possibly can.

Mr. Speaker, the President gave an important speech I believe at the Citadel last December when he said, “The great threat to civilization is that a few evil men will multiply their murder and gaining the means to kill on a scale equal to their hatred.”

Mr. Speaker, I think that has profound implications for us. We have faced evil in the world before. We have faced an evil system with the means to destroy us before during the Cold War. But never before have we faced a situation here a few years ago where we could gain the means to kill on a scale equal to their hatred. And I think that as a backdrop to everything that we are considering, whether it is pay and benefits, whether it is certain particular weapons systems we ought to buy, whether it is a defense policy regarding some issues or other issue or other, we ought to keep this context in mind and the dangers that we face.

In addition to the war on terrorism, we have very serious tension in the Middle East. We have continuing tension between India and Pakistan, two nuclear powers. We continue to have difficulties and issues with North Korea. Of course, China and Russia are of concern. And that is the international situation in which we find ourselves.

This bill, I believe, will help make us stronger. It takes some important steps towards defining the Department of Defense’s role in protecting our homeland security. It takes some important steps towards transforming our military so that we are ready to face the challenges of the future, not refight the wars of the past. Things like joint training and experimentation are talked about here. But, Mr. Speaker, I think more important than any of these particulars is the necessity for this House to take this with all the seriousness which the international situation demands.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT).

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, I have served in the House for 20 years and for 20 years I have served on the House Committee on Armed Services. I speak from experience and mince no words when I say this rule is an outrage, not less than that. In the 1980s when I also served here, we had another enormous buildup in our national defense. And every year when we came to the floor with this defense authorization bill, we would have 100 to 200 amendments filed to the Committee on Rules, and we bent over backwards to make most of them in order. We had a full, fair and free debate in the well of this House. It was a free market idea, but I like a market.

We lived in those days up to article 1, clause 8, the solemn responsibility the Constitution gives us. We gave these issues serious consideration. The consideration they merit.

We have a tradition that somehow has been lost in the last 5 or 6 years. Senior members of the committee with experience were given deference on the Committee on Rules. If we brought amendments to be considered, the Committee on Rules would give some weight to the fact that we had some experience on the committee.

I brought four amendments. I did not abuse the privilege. I brought four amendments to the Committee on Rules yesterday, and what they made in order was made in order. One was an amendment that was made at the behest of the Department of Defense. Another one was an amendment that was made in order because also another amendment, a second order, was made in order that would change it to the liking of the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER). I will support that amendment, but that really makes it his rather than mine.

The amendments that I sought were important amendments. Neither was made in order. Now they made in order amendments for non-committee members. But when the gentleman from Maine (Mr. ALLEN), who is a member of the committee, asked for an amendment, he was stilled. The gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER) was stilled. I was stilled. Noncommittee members who offered amendments that they thought they ‘got you’ amendments, they went ahead and made in order, but not ours which were seriously considered and we wanted an open and free debate on those issues. One was nuclear testing.

I sense a slow, subtle about-face in our policy of moving away from nuclear weapons, particularly tactical nuclear weapons, particularly early to use nuclear weapons towards nuclear weapons and even a resumption of nuclear testing. That may be the right policy. It may be the wrong policy. If any event, it is a serious policy issue.

As we make this move subtly, we should have a full, fair and open debate. And all I wanted to say was, Mr. President, by virtue of this act, we ask you solemnly for 12 months notice before you make the decision to resume nuclear testing.

As a matter of fact, it will not impute in any way the resumption of nuclear testing. DOE says it will take them today 24 to 36 months. But it would allow us 1 authorization appropriations cycle before that solemn decision was finally taken. We would have an opportunity to register opposition. We will be a full partner in what I think is a fundamentally serious decision. That amendment was not made in order. This is a rigged rule. It shuts out debate. It makes a mockery of the Constitution. Vote against the previous question, vote against it.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Just a point of clarification, Mr. Speaker. There is a Tauscher amendment that is involved and there were 10 Democrat amendments, 3 bipartisan, and 12 Republican.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Virginia (Mrs. JO ANN DAVIS).

Mrs. JO ANN DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the rule and to draw attention to a part of H.R. 4546 that is critical in helping to protect the environment and keeping America’s commitment to care for our Nation’s reserve fleets, also known as the Most Fleet, located in the James River.

MARAD is mandated to dispose of all national defense reserve fleet ships by September 30, 2006. The authorization relating to ship disposal and scrapping for the Maritime Administration is of critical importance. I am happy to report that the merchant marine panel, with my strong support, just authorized 20 million more quickly dispose of surplus vessels that cause serious potential damage to our environment. I would like to see more dollars allocated to this national priority, but after zero dollars in fiscal year 2002, I believe this funding puts us back on track to rid our fleet of these aging ships.

Additionally, this measure also allows for financial assistance to environmentally mitigate and reef these same vessels. We must begin to think out of the box to solve this looming problem. Cleaning, then reusing, these ships will create cost savings and will allow us to scrap them more rapidly. We have to work toward the September 30, 2006 deadline and to encourage adequate funding this year to get the job done.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank our distinguished Committee on Armed Services chairman, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), and especially thank the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER) of the maritime marine panel, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. FROST), no matter how behind or ahead, to question any Pentagon program, no matter how behind schedule, overbudget or unneeded, will be allowed. It is an expensive debate, $333 million a minute, but not extensive in examining the priorities, waste and abuse at the Pentagon.

I have offered an amendment, for instance, to strike funding for the Crusader program, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. THORNBERRY) and the Secretary of Defense, we have deep concerns about this. I would hope that we spend this money cleaning up the thousands of sites across the country that are polluted with military toxics and unexploded ordnance which killed two of our servicemen in this country a few weeks ago. But, no, due to this rule and the management of this piece of legislation, we are going to remain silent. I think that is a sin, Mr. Speaker. I expect better from this Chamber.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DeFAZIO).

Mr. DeFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, according to the GAO and Secretary Rumsfeld, the Pentagon cannot account for $1 trillion, T-trillion, of expenditure and acquisition costs over the last decade, a bookkeeping shambles that makes Arthur Andersen and Enron look somewhat respectable.

What is the response in this United States House of Representatives, the people’s House, in considering this bill for 1 year, $43 billion increase for a budget that will total more than $400 billion? Hear no evil, see no evil and speak no evil.

I want to question any Pentagon program, no matter how behind schedule, overbudget or unneeded, will be allowed. It is an expensive debate, $333 million a minute, but not extensive in examining the priorities, waste and abuse at the Pentagon.

I hoped to offer a number of amendments for troubled programs, particularly one on the $12 billion Cold War-era artillery system Crusader that Secretary Rumsfeld says is needed and has got to be. But if we are not allowed nor will an amendment on the F-22, the Comanche.

Stifling debate does not constitute national security readiness for this country. I believe it does a disservice to the people in uniform, those who go without necessities while we put on pedestals gold-plated turkeys.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. SHOWS).

Mr. SHOWS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST) for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the rule governing the debate on the
Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from West Virginia (Mr. RAHALL).

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the rule in its present form and urge Members to vote to defeat the previous question on the rule. The Committee on Rules has not even let us talk about the important issues under consideration in this House.

Mr. Speaker, we need to debate these issues today, but the rule does not allow it. So I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on this rule. Tell the Committee on Rules that military readiness is an essential component of national defense.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I do rise in opposition to the rule in its present form and urge Members to vote to defeat the previous question so that amendments to strike anti-environmental riders may be offered.

Along with the distinguished dean of the House, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. TAYLOR), and eight of my colleagues, we filed an amendment to strike the unwise exemptions to the Migratory Bird Treaty Act and the Endangered Species Act, which have been attached to this important bill. Unfortunately, the Committee on Rules did not give us the opportunity to debate and vote on these important issues under the rule in its present form, and if we defeat the previous question, the amendment to strike these objectionable anti-environmental exemptions may be offered.

We should not sanction this bill’s speak no evil, hear no evil, see no evil foreign and military policies. This is not a fair rule, and I ask Members to defeat the previous question.

STRIKE THE ANTI-ENVIRONMENTAL RIDERS ON DOD AUTHORIZATION VOTE TO DEFEND THE PREVIOUS QUESTION

DEAR COLLEAGUE: We urge you to vote to defeat the previous question on the rule for the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for FY2004 (H.R. 4546) so that amendments may be offered to strike anti-environmental riders. This legislation—while important to our national security and military readiness—has been misused as a vehicle to bypass committee jurisdiction and public process in order to create unprecedented and unwarranted exemptions to key environmental laws.

We would clearly have preferred that Members have the opportunity to vote directly to remove the harmful environmental provisions from H.R. 4546. But the Committee on Rules has refused to give Members that choice. Our amendment, which was cosponsored by eight of our colleagues, would have had the strategic effect of striking section 312, which unwisely exempt DoD from compliance with the Migratory Bird Treaty Act and the Endangered Species Act, while the Administration requested many other changes to these laws are unnecessary. Section 7 of the ESA specifically provides for a national security exemption (which DoD has never invoked), and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is responsible for issuing permits for subsequent Conventions with Mexico (1936), Japan (1972) and Russia (1976) to guide the cooperation in international treaty obligations and could be applicable anti-environmental exemptions to this bill.

In effect, proponents of these anti-environmental riders seek to accomplish through the front door of open public hearings what they could not accomplish by urbanization has significantly less accurate, the listing of endangered species could increase, and regulated hunting seasons could be delayed or made more restrictive.

A legislative “fix” is premature and unnecessary. Section 3 of the MBTA provides broad authority to the Secretary of the Interior to issue management agreements for the taking of migratory birds is compatible and to develop regulations within the law’s context. In fact, the Fish and Wildlife Service and Department of Defense are close to finalizing a Memorandum of Agreement establishing an administrative process to resolve migratory bird disputes.

In the past, many of these anti-environmental riders seek to accomplish through the back door of the Armed Services Committee. They could not get through the front door of open public hearings and careful consideration in the regular legislative process. While we fully appreciate the importance of military training and readiness, we also do not think that DoD, in the very limited public process to date, has made the case that exemptions to important and longstanding environmental laws are necessary or that training is greatly improved because of those laws.

In fact, GAO—in a soon to be released report—will inform Congress that readiness data provided by the military does not indicate that environmental laws or other “encroachment” by urbanization has significantly affected readiness. To the contrary, DoD continues to report high levels of training readiness at almost all units.

In our view, the House should not be stampeded into gutting key environmental laws based on illusory and inconclusive allegations by DoD. It defies logic that suddenly we should surrender demands for new statutory exemptions so that the environment no longer matters to our largest and most powerful federal agency. In the interest of these critical environmental laws, we urge you to vote “no” on the previous question on the rule on H.R. 4546.

Sincerely,

NICK J. RAHALL III,
Ranking Democratic Member, Committee on Energy and Commerce.

MIGRATORY BIRD TREATY ACT (MBTA) [SECTION 312]

The MBTA of 1918, one of our Nation’s oldest and most enduring conservation statutes, sets forth U.S. obligations under the Convention for the Protection of Migratory Birds to the North American Convention with Canada. It also provides implementing authority for subsequent Conventions with Mexico (1936), Japan (1972) and Russia (1976) to guide the cooperation in international management of North America’s migratory birds.

H.R. 4546 would unilaterally exempt military readiness activities from MBTA requirements. This would compromise U.S. international treaty obligations and could establish a negative precedent for other signatory nations to exempt their own activities from such obligations or consider other forms of retaliation.

This bill would grant the military an unprecedented, far less-restricted self-regulatory authority. No federal agency or state has such an authority.

H.R. 4546 would negatively affect migratory bird management. Removing military readiness and training activities from compliance with the MBTA would likely increase unreported incidental mortalities. Migratory bird population estimates might become far less accurate, the listing of endangered species could increase, and regulated hunting seasons could be delayed or made more restrictive.

The U.S. has fought in two World Wars, the Korean War, Vietnam, and the Persian Gulf War with the MBTA in place. Since 1961 only one modification of this magnitude occurred (in 1990) and that was only after 20 years of negotiation.

ENDANGERED SPECIES ACT (ESA) [SECTION 312 OF H.R. 4546]

The ESA requires, with limited exceptions, the designation of critical habitat for all endangered or threatened species. Federal agencies are required to consult with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) under section 7 in order to avoid actions that destroy or adversely modify critical habitat.

H.R. 4546 would exclude military lands from critical habitat under the ESA, for one Integrated Natural Resources Plan (INRP) has been developed. Blanket legislative exemptions are not needed. Section 7 of the ESA already provides an exemption for any agency action for... reasons of national security. According to the USFWS, the Secretary of defense has never sought a section 7 exemption.

Critical habitat designation has also been problematic. This EOA, when concerns about the impacts on military training activities were raised. It is the critical practice of the USFWS to consider excluding areas covered by INRMPs from critical habitat designation if certain conservation criteria are met. Contrary to DoD assertions, the Clinton Administration did not determine that installations with INRMPs were automatically excluded from critical habitat designation. H.R. 5036 would require the USFWS to substitute an INRMP for critical habitat if "such plan addresses special management considerations or protections" with no further explanation or definition of this standard.

INRMPs do not provide the same level of protection as critical habitat designations.

The ESA has been in place since 1973. Our military maintained its readiness throughout Operation Desert Storm in 1991 during the Persian Gulf War with current laws in place.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Maine (Mr. ALLEN).

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the House Committee on Armed Services does so much of its work on a bipartisan basis, but this rule is an outrage. The Republican leadership has allowed what will probably be about a dozen amendments not considered en bloc to a defense bill authorizing $393 billion.

In the past, under Democratic leadership, dozens of amendments were allowed to the rule. Why so little debate permitted? So Members can go home tonight and not have to vote on Friday and not have to deal with controversial matters. Why so few amendments? So the American people will not hear what Democrats have to say.

The House Republicans are squeezing the life out of democratic debate in the people’s House. They have blocked amendments to prevent exempting the Defense Department from our environment laws. They have rejected my amendment to stop the development of a proposal to use nuclear weapons to blow up missiles above American cities, a really dumb idea.

They barred amendments by the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER) and the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRAT) that would have led to a longer floor debate over the emerging Republican plans to develop and use on a first-strike basis new weapons systems.

They blocked debate over aid to Colombia and base closings. When Republicans change our defense policies, change our environmental policies, change our nuclear policies without a full and fair debate this country loses. Democrats and Republicans stand shoulder to shoulder in the war on terrorism. This rule makes a mockery of our unity. We are weaker as a country when the Republican majority in this House puts the door on a full and fair debate.

I urge my colleagues to defeat this rule, vote down this rule.
This House is being run with gag rules day in and day out. It must end. Vote against the previous question; vote against the rule. Let us let America into its own defense policy.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the text of my proposed amendment be printed in the RECORD immediately before the vote on the previous question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. (Mr. LATOURNETTE.) Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER).

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding me this time. I just wanted to follow the majority leader’s comments with the observation that we are in a war now. We have people on the battlefield whose survival depends on good training.

At many of our training bases around the United States, the environmental encroachments have become so strong that at Camp Pendleton you can only use about a third of the training ground that is available. You have to build foxholes only where you have tape that has been laid out in an environmentally-sensitive manner. The Marines that replicate the Iwo Jimatype assault on the beaches have to dismount from the landing craft and get in buses and be bused up to an environmentally-acceptable point to where they can begin their assault to practice to give their lives to this country. Go to bases like Mountain Home Air Force Base in Idaho, where only one plane at a time can train on the training field, which is like having one football player on the team be allowed out on the field at the same time.

These are reasonable positions that we have taken, reasonable restrictions on the environmental laws to help our people stay alive on the battlefield.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire if the gentleman from Texas’ time has expired.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It has.

The amendment previously referred to by Mr. FROST is as follows:

AMENDMENT TO HOUSE RESOLUTION 415

At the end of the resolution insert the following:

SEC. 6. Notwithstanding any other provision of this resolution, it shall be in order to consider, without intervention of any points of order, the amendments offered to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute that are incorporated into this resolution. Each amendment may be offered only by the proponent specified in section 7 or a designee, shall be considered as read, and shall be allowed for 30 minutes, equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent. SEC. 7. The amendments described in section 6 are as follows:

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MR. HINCHERY OF NEW YORK

(For himself, Mr. Pallone of New Jersey, and Ms. Sanchez of California)

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MR. SHOWS OF MISSISSIPPI

Strike section 712 (page — lines through —) and insert the following new section:

SEC. 712. COVERAGE OF MILITARY RETIREEs UNDER THE FEDERAL EMPLOYEES HEALTH BENEFITS PROGRAM.

(a) EARNED COVERAGE FOR CERTAIN RETIRES AND DEPENDENTS.—Section 8901 of title 5, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in section 8905, by adding at the end the following subsection:

(1) For purposes of this section, the term ‘employee’ includes a retired member of the uniformed services (as defined in section 101(a)(5) of title 10) who began service before June 7, 1956, or a surviving widow or widower of such a retired member may also enroll in the Federal Employees Health Benefits program under this section.

(b) ELIGIBLE BENEFICIARIES; COVERAGE.—

(1) An eligible beneficiary under this subsection is—

(A) a member or former member of the uniformed services described in section 1074(b) of this title;

(B) an individual who is or was unremarried former spouse of a member or former member described in section 1072(f) or 1072(2)(G);

(C) an individual who is—

(i) a dependent of a deceased member or former member described in section 1076(b) or 1074(b) of this title and who died while on active duty for a period of more than 30 days; or

(ii) a member of family as defined in section 8901 of title 5;

(D) an individual who is—

(i) a dependent of a living member or former member described in section 1076(b)(1) of this title; and

(ii) a member of family as defined in section 8901(5) of title 5.

(2) Eligible beneficiaries may enroll in a Federal Employees Health Benefits program under chapter 89 of title 5 for self-only coverage or for self and family coverage which includes any dependent of the member or former member who is a family member for purposes of such chapter.

(3) A person eligible for coverage under this subsection shall not be required to satisfy any eligibility criteria specified in chapter 89 of title 5 (except as provided in paragraph (1)(C) or (1)(D)) as a condition for enrollment in health benefits plans offered through the Federal Employees Health Benefits program under section 8901(b) or 8901(c) of title 5.

(4) For purposes of determining whether an individual is a member of family under paragraph (5) of section 8901 of title 5 for purposes of paragraph (1)(C) or (1)(D), a member or former member described in section 1074(b) or 1076(a)(2)(B) of this title shall be deemed to be an employee under such section.

(5) An eligible beneficiary who is eligible to enroll in the Federal Employees Health Benefits program as an employee under chapter 89 of title 5 is not eligible to enroll in a Federal Employees Health Benefits plan under this section.

(6) An eligible beneficiary who enrolls in the Federal Employees Health Benefits program under this section shall not be eligible to enroll in the Federal Employees Health Benefits plan for health care services or drugs received by the beneficiary.

CHANGE OF HEALTH BENEFITS PLAN.—

An eligible beneficiary enrolled in a Federal Employees Health Benefits plan under this section may change health benefits plans and any coverage in the plan of any other Federal Employees Health Benefits program beneficiary may change such plans.
(d) Government Contributions.—The amount of the Government contribution for an eligible beneficiary who enrolls in a health benefits plan under chapter 89 of title 5 in accordance with this section may exceed the amount of the Government contribution which would be payable if the enrolling beneficiary were an employee (as defined in section 8901 of such chapter) enrolled in the same health benefits plan and level of benefits.

(e) Separate Risk Pools.—The Director of the Defense Health Program, in consultation with the Under Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs, shall establish a separate risk pool for the department which shall require health benefits plans under chapter 89 of title 5 to maintain a separate risk pool for purposes of establishing premium rates for eligible beneficiaries who enroll in such a plan in accordance with this section.

(2) The item relating to section 1108 of the act is amended by adding to the end the following:

"1108. Health care coverage through Federal Employees Health Benefits program."

(3) The amendments made by this subsection shall take effect on January 1, 2003.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MR. HASTINGS OF FLORIDA

In section 107, relating to the Defense Health Program (page 34, after line 18),—

(1) the following:

(a) Authorization of Appropriations.—Before "Funds";

(b) In Increase in Health Care Services for Military Retirees and Dependents.—The amount provided in subsection (a) is hereby increased by $2,500,000, and the total amount of the increase shall be available for procurement for carrying out health care programs, projects, and activities for retired members of the Armed Forces and their dependents.

(c) Offsetting Reduction.—The amount provided in section 105 for the Inspector General of the Department of Defense is hereby reduced by $100,000, and the amount provided in section 301(4) for Support for International Sporting Competitions is hereby reduced by $2,400,000.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MR. DEFAZIO OF OREGON

(1) Authorization on Awarding of Contract for Low-Rate Initial Production.—The Secretary of the Army may not award a contract for low-rate initial production for the RAH-66 Comanche prototype until the Secretary of Defense, after receiving the views of the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation, submits to the congressional defense committees the Secretary’s certification of each of the following:

(1) That the plan in the engineering and manufacturing development phase of the program for determining the operational effectiveness and suitability of the Comanche aircraft before the start of full-rate production.

(2) That the Comanche program has made adequate progress in development flight testing to date and is on a clear track to adequate progress in development flight testing to date and is on a clear track to operational effectiveness and suitability of the program is adequate for determining the manufacturing development phase of the program.

(3) The amendment to subsection B of title II (page 45, after line 19), insert the following new section:

SEC. 217. LIMITATION ON OBLIGATION OF FUNDS FOR CRUSADER ARTILLERY PROGRAM.

(a) Limitation.—None of the funds authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2003 for research, development, test, and evaluation for the Crusader artillery program of the Army may be obligated until the Secretary of the Army, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation, and the congressional defense committees, certifies to the congressional defense committees an evaluation of the Secretary of Defense’s continued support for the program and a report that includes each of the following:

(1) An assessment of the extent to which critical Crusader technologies have not been demonstrated, at the component and subsystem level, in an operational environment (also known as technology readiness level 7), and the extent that the status of technology testing will have on the one-fourth of the way through the prototype initial production for the Crusader less than results on the submission date for that rule.

(2) An assessment of the effect that the weight of the Crusader and its resupply vehicle will have on the ability to transport the system to remote battlefields, including an assessment of the importance of deploying two Crusader howitzers on a single C-17 aircraft.

(3) An assessment of the effect of weight reductions on the cost of the Crusader and its ability to meet performance requirements.

(4) A determination of the potential capabilities and timing for deployment of the initial version of the Future Combat Systems and the implications of those capabilities and deployment schedule on the Crusader’s utility to the Army.

(5) An analysis, in consultation with the Secretary of the Air Force, comparing the ability of the Crusader to carry out its mission with the ability of aircraft using smart bombs, global positioning systems, and on-board heart monitors to carry out that same mission, including an assessment of the utility of the Crusader, compared with the utility of such aircraft, to combat likely future threats and to run the risk of the enemy and the terrain in which they operate.

(6) An assessment of the effect of the percentage of key manufacturing processes for that program by collecting statistics on the status of technology procurement of aircraft for the Air Force is hereby reduced by $1,812,000,000, to be derived by reducing the amount of F-22 aircraft authorized for low-rate initial production from 23 to 13.

(B) If the President, having been presented with a joint resolution of disapproval with respect to that rule, returns the joint resolution without his signature to the House in which he receives it, with his objections thereto, the date that is—

(i) the date on which either House, having proceeded to reconsider the joint resolution, votes to sustain the President’s objections and passes the joint resolution, the objections of the President to the contrary notwithstanding; or

(ii) if earlier, the date that is 30 days after the date on which the joint resolution with the President’s objections thereto, was returned by the President to the House in which it originated.

(C) Where a date on which the military tribunal rule would have otherwise taken effect, if not for this section (unless a joint resolution of disapproval is enacted).

(3) Notwithstanding paragraph (2), the effective date of a military tribunal rule shall not be delayed by operation of this subtitle beyond the date on which either House of Congress votes to reject a joint resolution of disapproval.

(b) Effect of Disapproval.—(1) A military tribunal rule shall not take effect (or continue in force or effect) if, following joint resolution of disapproval with respect to that military tribunal rule is enacted.

(2) A military tribunal rule that does not take effect (or does not continue) under paragraph (1) may not be reissued in substantially the same form, and a new military tribunal rule that is substantially the same as such a military tribunal rule may not be issued, unless the reissued or new military tribunal rule is specifically authorized by a law enacted after the date on the enactment of the joint resolution of disapproval with respect to the original military tribunal rule.

(c) Disapproval of Rules That Have Taken Effect.—Any military tribunal rule that has already taken force or effect by the enactment of a joint resolution of disapproval shall be treated as though such military tribunal rule had never taken effect, except that a trial of a person pursuant to such rule that is being carried out before the enactment of such joint resolution of disapproval shall continue to be carried out as if such military tribunal rule remains in effect.

(d) Rule of Construction.—If the Congress does not enact a joint resolution disapproving a military tribunal rule, no court or agency may infer any intent of the Congress from any action or inaction of the Congress with respect to such military tribunal rule, related statute, or joint resolution of disapproval.

(e) Joint Resolution of Disapproval Defined.—For purposes of this section, the term “joint resolution of disapproval” means a joint resolution introduced on or after the date on which a report referred to in subsection (a)(1) is received by Congress, the title of which is “‘Joint Resolution disapproving the rule submitted by the President on , relating to military tribunals’,” containing no whereas clauses, and the matter after the resolving clause of which is as follows: “That Congress disapproves the rule submitted by the President on , relating to military tribunals, and such rule shall have no force or effect.” (The blank spaces being appropriately filled in).

SEC. 1043. DEFINITIONS.

For purposes of this subtitle—

(1) the term “military tribunal” means a military commission or other military tribunal (other than a court-martial).

(2) The term “military tribunal rule” means a part of an agency statement of general or particular applicability and future effect designed to implement, interpret, or prescribe law or policy, or describing the organization, procedure, or practice requirements of a Department or agency, with regard to carrying out military tribunals.

SEC. 1044. JUDICIAL REVIEW.

No determination, finding, action, or omission under this subtitle shall be subject to judicial review.

SEC. 1045. REPORTING REQUIREMENTS FOR MILITARY TRIBUNALS.

(a) In General.—(1) Subchapter XI of chapter 47 of title 10, United States Code (the Uniform Code of Military Justice) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

§ 940a. Art. 140a. Reports to Congress on military tribunals.

(a) For each military tribunal, the President shall submit to Congress periodic reports on the activities of that military tribunal. The first such report with respect to a military tribunal shall be submitted not later than six months after the date on which the military tribunal is convened and shall include an identification of the accused and the offense charged. Each succeeding report with respect to a military tribunal shall be submitted not later than six months after the date on which the preceding report was submitted.

(2) A report under this section shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

(b) Effective Date.—Section 940a of title 10 United States Code, as added by subsection (a), shall apply with respect to any military tribunal covered after, or pending on, that date of the enactment of this section. In the case of a military tribunal pending on the date of the enactment of this subtitle, the first report required by such section shall be submitted not later than six months after the date of the enactment of this subtitle.

SEC. 3146. INTERNATIONAL DEMONSTRATION PROJECT ON IMPROVING PROTECTION OF NUCLEAR MATERIALS IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

(a) Project Requirement.—In carrying out the materials protection, control, and accounting program of the Department of Energy, the Secretary of Energy shall carry out a demonstration project under this section to improve the level of physical protection of nuclear materials in facilities, whether military or civilian, of foreign countries.

(b) Participating Countries.—The Secretary shall select not more than three foreign countries for participation in the demonstration project required by this section. The Secretary may not select a country that was included within the former Soviet Union for participation.

(c) Elements.—The demonstration project required by this section shall include the

(1) Among the powers granted to Congress by the Constitution are the following:

(A) The power to declare war.

(B) The power to lay and collect taxes and to raise and support armies and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States.

(C) The powers to raise and support armies, to maintain a navy, and make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces, to provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasion, to provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of the militia as may be employed in the service of the United States.

(D) The power to make all laws necessary and proper for carrying into execution not only its own powers but also all other powers vested by the Constitution in the Government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

(E) The power of the purse ("No money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in Consequence of Appropriations made by Law").

(2) Section 2(c) of the War Powers Resolution (50 U.S.C. 1541(c)) states that the President has constitutional authority to introduce United States Armed Forces into hostilities or into situations where imminent involvement in hostilities is clearly indicated by the circumstances, only pursuant to a declaration of war, specific statutory authorization, or a resolution authorizing the use of military force that is subsequently enacted by the United States, its territories or possessions, or its armed forces.

(3) In response to the terrorist attacks against the United States that occurred on September 11, 2001, section 2(a) of Public Law 107–50 provides limited authorization to the President ‘‘to use all necessary and appropriate force against those nations, organizations, or persons [the President] determines planned, authorized, committed, or aided the terrorist attacks, or harbored such organizations or persons, in order to prevent any future acts of international terrorism against the United States by such nations, organizations or persons’’.

(b) Sense of Congress.—It is the sense of Congress that deployment of elements of the Armed Forces into hostilities outside the United States or in any situation where imminent involvement in hostilities outside the United States is clearly indicated by the circumstances, only pursuant to a declaration of war, specific statutory authorization, or a resolution authorizing the use of military force that is subsequently enacted by the Constitution as described in subparagraphs (A) through (E) of subsection (a)(1) and relevant provisions of law.
first two, and may include all three, of the following elements:

(a) The findings of the study carried out by the Department of Energy in fiscal year 2002 that examined such options.

(b) The assessment of the Secretary as to whether reducing such amount of time to less than 24 to 36 months is feasible.

(c) The technical challenges and requirements associated with reducing such amount of time to less than 24 to 36 months.

(d) The cost, during the period from fiscal year 2003 to 2012, associated with reducing such amount of time to less than 24 to 36 months.

(2) The amount provided in section 201(4) for Research, Development, Test, and Evaluation is hereby increased by $10,000,000, to be derived from program element 0603880C.

SEC. 1021. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON MAINTENANCE OF A RELIABLE AND SECURE STRATEGIC DETERRENT.

It is the sense of Congress that, consistent with the national defense strategy delineated in the Quadrennial Defense Review dated September 30, 2001 (as submitted under section 118 of title 10, United States Code), the global strategic environment, and the commitments of the United States to the arms control regimes to which the United States is a party, the President should, to ensure the national security of the United States and advance the foreign policy goals and vital interests of the United States, take the following actions:

(1) Maintain an operationally deployed strategic force of not less than 1,700 operationally deployed nuclear weapons, unless determined otherwise by a subsequent Nuclear Posture Review and or through negotiated bilateral or multilateral agreements.

(2) Dismantle as many nuclear weapons that are not in the operationally deployed forces of the United States as possible, consistent with—

(A) the commitments of the United States under bilateral and multilateral agreements; and

(B) effective execution of the Single Integrated Operational Plan.

(3) Develop advanced conventional weapons and advanced technologies to provide better capability for destroying—

(a) hard and deeply buried targets; and

(b) enemy weapons of mass destruction and their development and production facilities of such enemy weapons.

(4) Report to Congress on any plans to shorten the lead time and enhance the capability to conduct underground testing of nuclear weapons, and, in the case of plans to shorten the lead time to conduct such testing: include an assessment of cost, effect on the global strategic environment, and projected technical scientific benefits associated with such plans.

(5) Ensure, through the stockpile stewardship program element program, that the United States nuclear weapons arsenals remain as safe and reliable as possible.

(6) State that the United States remains committed to its obligations under the Non-Proliferation Treaty to reduce its nuclear weapons arsenal in order to discourage the proliferation of nuclear weapons to non-nuclear states.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546

At the end of subtitle B of title II (page 45, after line 19), insert the following new section:

SEC. 217. TRANSFER OF FUNDS TO UNEXPLODED ORDNANCE PROGRAMS.

(a) INCREASES FOR UNEXPLODED ORDNANCE PROGRAM.—(1) The amount provided in section 201(4) for research, development, test, and evaluation, Defense-wide, is hereby increased by $20,000,000, to be available for program elements 060770 and 060790 for unexploded ordnance detection and clearance.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546

At the end of subtitle D of title XXXI (page 356, after line 25), insert the following new section:

SEC. 3153. SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING COMMITMENT TO CLEANUP AT ROCKY FLATS.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

(1) The United States and the State of Colorado have a compelling interest in achieving the safe and effective cleanup and closure of the Rocky Flats Environmental Technology Site in Colorado.

(2) Completion of cleanup at Rocky Flats and closure of that site will allow resources to be redirected to meet the needs of other present and former nuclear weapons sites, including sites in Washington, Texas, Idaho, Ohio, New Mexico, Tennessee, South Carolina, and other States.

(3) The Department of Energy seeks to complete cleanup and closure of the Rocky Flats site on or before December 15, 2006, and it is in the national interest for that objective to be met.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that the Secretary of Energy should take all steps necessary and appropriate, including removal from the site of all plutonium and other wastes, to achieve cleanup and closure of the Rocky Flats Environmental Technology Site, Colorado, on or before December 15, 2006, and to be consistent with the Rocky Flats Cleanup Agreement, an intergovernmental agreement, dated July 19, 1996, among—

(1) the Department of Energy;

(2) the Environmental Protection Agency; and

(3) the Department of Public Health and Environment of the State of Colorado.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546

At the end of subtitle A of title X (page 196, after line 2), insert the following new section:

SEC. 3 . LIMITATION ON FUNDING PENDING COMPLETION OF SUCCESSFUL AUDITS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Of the total amount appropriated pursuant to authorizations of appropriations in this Act for any component of the Department of Defense specified in subsection (b), not more than 99 percent may be obligated until the Secretary of Defense submits to Congress a notice in writing that such component has received an unqualified opinion on its audited financial statements pursuant to section 3521 of title 31, United States Code.

(b) COVERED COMPONENTS.—Components of the Department of Defense subject to subsection (a) are those components that the Director of the Office of Management and...
Budget has identified (as of the date of the enactment of this Act) under subsection (c) of section 3515 of title 31, United States Code, as being required to have audited financial statements meet the requirements of subsection (b) of that section.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MR. KUCINICH OF OHIO

At the end of title II (page 49, after line 17), insert the following new section:

SEC. 2. LIMITATION ON MISSILE DEFENSE SYSTEMS.

As of the date when the total amount expended by the United States since April 1, 1997, for fixed-base ballistic missile defense programs is $50,000,000,000, the Secretary of Defense shall terminate all such programs unless before that date the Secretary certifies to Congress that the Department of Defense has demonstrated in a flight test that an interceptor missile can destroy a warhead without relying in the test on any device on the target vehicle that an enemy would not employ.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MR. KUCINICH OF OHIO

At the end of title VIII (page 174, after line 5), insert the following new section:

SEC. 8. UNIT COST REPORTS.

Section 2433 of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(A) in subsection (b), by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(5) Whether, since the most recent unit cost report was submitted, a new baseline description has been established under section 2435 of this title. If such new baseline description has been established, the program manager shall report whether this new baseline description was established due to excessive cost growth and for the purpose of establishing new per unit costs for charting cost growth.";

(B) in subsection (c), after "Secretary concerned," insert "or if a new baseline description of the program has been established since the most recent previous unit cost report submitted under subsection (b) due to excessive cost growth and for the purpose of establishing new per unit costs for charting cost growth.";

(b) Plan Requirements.—A plan under subsection (a) shall be developed before the award of the consolidated contract and shall be implemented during the same fiscal year as the fiscal year in which the consolidated contract is awarded. The plan shall provide for an increase in prime contract awards to small businesses occurring as a result of the consolidated contract.

(c) Transmission to SBA.—The Secretary shall transmit to the Administrator of the Small Business Administration not later than 10 days after the date on which development of the plan is completed.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MS. VELÁZQUEZ OF NEW YORK

At the end of title VIII (page 174, after line 5), insert the following new section:

SEC. 8. EFFECT OF CONSOLIDATED CONTRACTS ON SMALL BUSINESSES.

(a) In General.—Whenever the Secretary of Defense or the Secretary of a military department awards a consolidated contract that displaces a small business as a prime contractor, the Secretary shall develop and implement a plan decrease in prime contract awards to small businesses occurring as a result of the consolidated contract.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MS. MILLENDER-McDONALD OF CALIFORNIA

At the end of title X (page 218, after line 15), insert the following new section:

SEC. 10. LIMITATION ON AWARD OF SPECIFIED CONTRACT PENDING AWARD OF CONSOLIDATED CONTRACT.

(a) Limitation.—No contracts may be obligated for a contract described in subsection (b) of section 3515 until the Secretary has submitted in their entirety the recommendations of the Administrator of the Small Business Administration with respect to that contract contained in the Administrator’s letter to the Secretary dated March 20, 2002.

(b) Waiver.—After March 20, 2002, the Administrator of the Small Business Administration with respect to that contract contained in the Administrator’s letter to the Secretary dated March 20, 2002.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MS. MILLENDER-McDONALD OF CALIFORNIA

At the end of title VIII (page 174, after line 5), insert the following new section:

SEC. 8. LIMITATION ON AWARD OF BASE SUPPORT CONTRACTS.

No funds available to the Department of Defense may be obligated for a contract referred to as a "Base Support Contract" until the head of the Base Contracting Activity has prepared a written plan specifying how the Department of Defense is going to implement the recommendations of the Small Business community to be awarded prime contracts with the Department of Defense during the fiscal year during which the Base Support Contract is awarded or renewed.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MS. JACKSON-LEE OF TEXAS

At the end of title IV (page 90, after line 23), insert the following new section:

SEC. 422. ADDITIONAL AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS FOR MILITARY PERSONNEL ACCOUNTS.

(a) Increase in Authorization of Appropriations.—The amount authorized to be appropriated in section 221 is increased by $7,784,000,000.

(b) Off-Setting Reduction.—The amount authorized to be appropriated in section 234(1) for research, development, test, and evaluation for Defense-wide activities is reduced by $7,784,000,000, to be derived from ballistic missile defense programs.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 4546, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MS. MILLENDER-McDONALD OF CALIFORNIA

At the end of title X (page 218, after line 15), insert the following new section:

SEC. 10. TERRORIST-RELATED THREATS TO PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION.

(a) Assessment.—The Secretary of Transportation, in consultation with the heads of other appropriate Federal departments and agencies, shall conduct an assessment of terrorist-related threats to all forms of public transportation, including public gathering areas related to public transportation.

(b) Report.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to the President and Congress a report on the results of the assessment conducted under this section, including the Secretary’s recommendations for legislative and administrative actions.

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, this is a serious abuse of power on the part of this Congress and should be rejected by the House.

Everyone knows that the Defense Authorization bill is one of the most important measures that the House will consider this year. It should be considered under a rule that will allow the full House—not just members of the Armed Services Committee and some others favored by the Rules Committee—to have an opportunity to participate in shaping the legislation.

That is particularly true this year because the bill as approved by the Committee includes many controversial provisions. Some of these controversial provisions are appropriate for debate in the context of a bill to authorize defense programs. They include provisions authorizing weapons systems not requested or needed by the Pentagon as well as provisions authorizing policy changes in the area of missile defense and nuclear weapons development.

But other controversial provisions go beyond the normal or appropriate scope of a defense authorization bill.

For example, the bill includes provisions concerning the Endangered Species Act and the Migratory Bird Treaty Act, matters within the jurisdiction of other Committees, including the Resources Committee but which our Committee has had no opportunity to consider.

And, in addition, the bill includes an entire title—Title XIV—that only
So, I filed an amendment that would support the House to consider adding that to the bill. Just to allow my amendment would not, by itself, enable the environmental community to protect endangered species as necessary because of the war on terrorism. Don’t be fooled by the new national security wrapping. This is the same old environmental laws wrapped in the cloak of military necessity a procedural foul. What is really happening here is that the military has told us that it can assure readiness without the exemptions that are being sought by the Republicans. Down at Fort Bragg, for example, the Army has been working with the environmental community to protect endangered birds and set aside additional land outside of the base for wildlife habitat. Readiness has not suffered—just ask the Taliban and Al Qaeda.

In fact, the environmental laws provide exemptions for activities necessary for national security. To date, no exemption has ever been sought by our Armed Forces. In fact, the most damning word the Air Force could conjure up to describe the effect of current law is “subtle.” And the Marine Corp admitted that the Fish and Wildlife Service is “sympathetic” to DOD’s needs.

Our military personnel are well-trained and ready for action and they have successfully coexisted with environmental laws for the past 3 decades. Nevertheless, in this legislation the Republican Majority says we must destroy the environment in order to save America from the terrorist threat. The Republicans have chosen to grant the DOD broad exemptions from our environmental laws wrapped in the cloak of national security and military readiness. What is really happening here is that those people committed to dismantling the environmental laws that protect public health and the environment can’t do it directly because the public outcry would be too great. So, instead they wrapped up their arguments in the cloak of national security and tried to pass off despoiling the environment and threatening endangered species as necessary because of the war on terrorism.

Mr. ISRAEL changed his vote from "aye" to "no."

So the motion to adjourn was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

REMOVAL OF NAME OF MEMBER AS COSPONSOR OF H.R. 448

Mr. FILNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that I be removed as a cosponsor of H.R. 448.

THE SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LATOURETTE). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

BOB STUMP NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2003

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP). Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, on May 1 the Committee on Armed Services reported H.R. 4546 on a strong bipartisan vote of 57 to one. The bill authorizes appropriations for the Department of Defense and for the Department of Energy national security programs for a total of $383 billion in budget authority, consistent with the President’s budget and with the House-passed budget resolution.

Over the next few hours, we will debate and explain the many initiatives contained in this bill to support and strengthen our Armed Forces during this critical period in our Nation’s history. I am pleased to once again be able to report to my colleagues that this legislation embodies the same bipartisan spirit that has guided U.S. national security policy for decades. It provides for funding, physical and psychological well-being of our Armed Forces members and their families. It provides for the research and acquisition of our military arsenal so critical to maintaining our combat edge on the battlefield. It provides our resources and tools to properly train our forces to be ready to defend our freedoms around the world at a moment’s notice, and it also provides for our Nation’s military retirees, who devoted a better part of their lives for this country.

Mr. Chairman, this is a very good bill. It follows the spending blueprints set forth by the President to make his defense budget the largest since 1990. It also marks the largest single-year increase in defense spending since 1966. By marking the fifth consecutive year of real increases in defense spending, we are starting to dig out of the budget hole that we created after 13 years of budget cuts. Our Armed Forces, while still the most formidable fighting force on the planet, face serious and fundamental choices in the years ahead. This presents both an opportunity and a risk if the choices we make are not prudent and do not hedge on our bets against the inevitable surprises and challenges that may lie ahead.

The bill before the House sets a prudent course. It recognizes today’s new reality and allocates resources needed for the future and emphasizes new tools necessary for the critical fight against terrorism. It makes sure that our most precious military commodity and resource, our men and women in uniform, are properly compensated and taken care of.

It also makes sure we do not forget the basics, the unglamorous elements of the defense budget necessary to make sure the bill works when called upon.

Mr. Chairman, on a personal note, this marks the last defense authorization bill that I will have the privilege to manage before this great House. It has been an honor to serve and have the trust of my colleagues to be able to lead two great committees over the past 8 years, and I will greatly miss the friendship and bipartisanship, the sense of mission that allows the Committee on Veterans Affairs and the Committee on Armed Services to quietly and effectively do their important work on behalf of our Nation’s veterans and military forces.

I urge my colleagues to support this important legislation.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SKELETON. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to support the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003. This bill, properly so, is named in honor of our chairman, who has stated his intention not to return to this body; and I thank him for the work that he has done on the bipartisan amendment within the committee itself.

The committee unanimously named this bill for him. This is an excellent bill. It passed by a vote of 57 to one. It authorizes $393 billion for defense programs, which includes $15.5 billion for the Department of Energy defense-related matters.

The bill makes a number of vital readiness and modernization improvements, and it does a good job in keeping our forces the best trained and the best equipped in the world. The quality-of-life issues are excellent for our servicemembers and their families. In particular, there is a 41 percent pay raise, with targeted raises, and I am also pleased to state that there is an increase in the end strength for all services, a much, much needed improvement.

Many missions are being performed by our men and women in uniform that make it clear that we need more people. There is an increase of some $4 billion in construction and family housing that also adds to the quality of life. We were able to increase funding for procurement, research and development, and military construction.

My principal reservations with this bill do concern matters relating to the environment and nuclear weapons policy. But with that said, at the end of the day, Mr. Chairman, this is an excellent bill. It will help our readiness; it will help our troops, whether they be on the front post or on base in this country. We are very proud of what they do, so this is a major step in supporting them.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for his great service to our country, not only in the House of Representatives, but also as a 16-year-old kid who joined the U.S. Navy in World War II. That great ethic of service to the Nation has carried through, and the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) has put together a great bill which is essential to this country right now because we are in a war.

I made a few comments during the rule that I think covered to some degree my review of the Subcommittee on Military Research and Development and our contribution to the bill.

Basically, we are working to try and put some money into some high-leverage areas. We have done a pretty good job along those lines. There is missiles and missile defense. That is the ability to stop missiles, from the slow-moving SCUDS, or the Model-Ts of the offensive missiles, all the way up to the fast ICBMs that can cross all the way across a great ocean at a nation. Our ability to stop those missiles right now does not exist except in the very low-performance area, and we are moving aggressively with a $7.9 billion program.

The leader of that program, General Kadiash, is, I think, acknowledged by Democrats and Republicans to be an extraordinary steward of this program. We have given him some very broad authorities in missile defense; and we have told him to go out and test this stuff, test it in very difficult situations, put a lot of stress on the systems, and throw out the losers and promote the winners. That means to spend money where it is going to be effective for American security.

So we have given General Kadiash a great deal of discretion. I think it is discretion well placed. We have kept that budget very well funded.

Lastly, Mr. Chairman, we have put money in a couple of vulnerable areas. We have put money in the area that has been a real concern to the United States, and that is our ability to defend our ships against increasing performance of anti-ship missiles that potential adversaries are developing around the world.

We have also put some money, some additional dollars, into our mine-clearing and mine-detection capability, a very important area for us because now we are moving from the deep ocean Navy and deep ocean conflict scenarios into the so-called littorals, right up against the shore where minefields are going to play an increasing role. So we put money there to increase performance.

Also we see some potential adversaries building now these new submarine classes, mainly diesel subs, but subs that are very quiet that can hold choke points that can cause us severe problems in strategic areas of the world. The ability to detect those submarines is critical. So we have put more money in research and development against those areas.

Our members participated fully, Mr. Chairman; and I think we have put together a good package. I want to again thank the chairman of the full committee for this opportunity.

Mr. SKELETON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ORTIZ).

(Mr. ORTIZ asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ORTIZ. I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, I want to specifically address the provisions in the act relating to military readiness. First, I thank the Subcommittee on Military Readiness leadership and my colleagues on both sides of the committee here for doing a great job, and at the same time to the staff for doing a great job, and for the manner in which they conducted the business of the subcommittee this session.

I also want to express my appreciation to my good friend, the gentleman from Arizona (Chairman STUMP), who has now decided to retire, for his friendship and for his leadership these last few years that we have worked together, Mr. Chairman, we are going to miss you.

Also, I say thanks to the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. HEFLEY) for his personal involvement and the extraordinary steps he took in getting us to this point in developing the readiness portion of fiscal year 2003. Although we worked at an accelerated pace this session, we had an opportunity to see readiness through a different set of eyes, the eyes of the leaders of the soldiers, sailors, and airmen who are entrusted with the awesome responsibility of carrying out our responsibilities at the forefront, in harm’s way.

We heard them talk about the charges of repair parts, the extra hours they spent trying to maintain old equipment, and the difficulties encountered in trying to conduct realistic training. While we in this body may differ on some policies and program objectives, we in the subcommittee were able to get a better appreciation of the challenges that they face in performing their duties. For their effort, we can all be proud of it.

Mr. Chairman, the readiness provision in this bill reflects some of the steps I believe are necessary with the dollars available to make their task easier. It does not provide all that is needed. Much more funding could be used. At the same time, I believe that this is a good bill. I encourage our Members of the House to vote for a very responsible bill.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON), the chairman of our Subcommittee on Military Construction.
Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of H.R. 4546, the Bob Stump Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003. Last week the Committee on Armed Services, as has been said here a couple of times previously, voted on a great bipartisan vote, another great bipartisan vote at the conclusion of the debate, which will occur sometime around 8 o'clock, and let me again thank my friend the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for his wonderful work as chairman of this committee.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. SNYDER) for purposes of debate.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Chairman, I want to extend my thanks to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for the great work he has done throughout his career in this House. He has also been my chairman on the Committee on Veterans' Affairs and I very much appreciate him. And to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. MCLYHANE), who is the chairman of the Subcommittee on Personnel, of which I am ranking member.

This bill has many, many good things in it, including a pay raise for our men and women in uniform. It decreases the overall amount of paperwork. There is an increase in end strength, recognizing the realities of the world that we are facing today.

I also want to say a word about TRICARE, which has had a very good program, improved over the last couple of years, but we have some potential problems with it and this bill includes within it a mandate that GAO study some of the potential problems with TRICARE. Specifically, one is some of the paperwork problems that our providers are facing, like preauthorization. We had a lengthy hearing at the subcommittee level about the problems they are having, and this is leading to provider dropout.

And while the overall numbers look good, which is 97 percent of physicians stay with the program, many of them are limiting the number of TRICARE patients they are seeing or are not seeing new patients, and this is a problem for us. So we look forward to those studies.

This bill passed the committee by a vote of 57 to 1, and thanks to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) leadership and the way he conducts the committee, we had a very vigorous debate. It went on all day with multiple votes. The result was a 57 to 1 bill that came out of the committee.

However, the spirit of the House Committee on Armed Services is inconsistent with the rule that brought this bill before us today. It was said this was a structured rule. It was structured to stifle debate and to avoid uncomfortable votes for Members. That is not consistent with a great democracy at this critical time in history. You look back to a time when Members who were denied the opportunity to bring amendments, some of the most respected Members of this House: The gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR), I disagree with him on base closure but he had every right to bring his amendment to this floor; the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. MALONEY) and the gentleman from Maine (Mr. ALLEN), both excellent members of the Committee on Armed Services; the gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST), the ranking member on the Committee on Rules and a strong supporter of our national defense, was denied an amendment; the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRAT) did not even get his amendment.

This arrogance of power, Mr. Chairman, has to stop in this body.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. HEFLEY), the chairman of our Subcommittee on Readiness.

Mr. HEFLEY. Mr. Chairman, I would be remiss if I did not recognize the contribution of the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), who leads our committee, and the gentleman is truly a Vietnam veteran, I do not throw that phrase around very casually. He has led the committee well. I think he has the respect of his entire committee. We are going to miss him. It is a bad decision to leave the House of Representatives and leave us. This body has been his friend.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 4546, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003. I believe the committee has done a superb job in fulfilling its role in oversight of the Department of Defense and has done its best to provide the necessary funding to improve the readiness of our military forces.

Let us not forget, however, that for many years we have seen our military do more and more with less and less, and now as we are engaged in the war on terrorism we are asking our military forces and our women and men to do even more. The budget requests for fiscal year 2003 contains some significant increases in defense spending and an effort by the Department of Defense to fully fund their stated requirements. We are all heartened that these increases make a good attempt at arresting the decline in military readiness and begin the process of rebuilding and restoring our military forces.

To accomplish this, the administration had to significantly increase critical readiness funding this year as compared to last year. As an example, air, ground, and sea operations as well as training and training range operations have increased by $2.1 billion. In addition, base operations account increases for the day-to-day operation of our military facilities have increased by $1.2 billion. These increases are fully supported in this bill.

The committee has included two provisions that I believe strike a needed balance to adequately and effectively train for combat and the need to protect our environment. First, we have included an amendment to the Endangered Species Act that will weigh the impact of national security along with existing obligations under current law not to take any action that will result in the extinction of or harm to an endangered or threatened species.

Second, we have included an amendment in the Migratory Bird Treaty Act to permit the Fish and Wildlife Service to issue a permit to the Department for the accidental taking of migratory birds incidental to authorized military readiness activities.

These and all segments of the Subcommittee on Readiness part of this bill and in fact of the bill as a whole were very bipartisan. As was already mentioned, the bill passed out of committee 57 to 1. It is not a Democratic bill. It is not a Republican bill. It is a bill for the defense of this Nation.

Mr. Chairman, H.R. 4546 is a responsible, meaningful bill that fairly allocates resources for the restoration of accepted levels and an acceptable quality of life for the men and women of our military forces. To do anything less will allow the readiness of our military to slip further and could risk the lives of countless men and women in every military branch.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER) for purposes of debate.

Mrs. TAUSCHER. Mr. Chairman, I thank my colleague for yielding me time.

Mr. Chairman, I would also like to add my thanks to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for his leadership, and I wish him every best wish.

Mr. Chairman, I intend to vote for the defense authorization bill today because it does many good things. This bill will help us fight the war against terrorism and it gives our military men and women a well-deserved pay raise. The administration, Mr. Chairman, about the direction this bill takes regarding our Nation’s national nuclear weapons policy.

This bill encourages the United States to develop new nuclear weapons for the first time since 1990. It clears the way for underground nuclear testing in Nevada. It endorses arming ballistic missile defenses with nuclear warheads and encourages arbitrary caps on the number of nuclear weapons that could be removed from the Nation’s nuclear stockpile.

I will offer an amendment today to require the Department of Energy to provide Congress with options for reducing our nuclear arsenal more quickly than is called for in the Nuclear Posture Review.

If President Bush reaches an agreement with President Putin to reduce nuclear weapons, we should be prepared to make those reductions as quickly as possible, not wait 10 years. But I am disappointed, Mr. Chairman, that the Committee on Rules refused to make in other amendments relating to our nuclear weapons posture.

I had submitted an amendment with the gentleman from Maine (Mr. ALLEN) to have a more balanced sense of Congress on nuclear policy. Our amendment had several common sense provisions, including restoring the President’s ability to pursue massive decreases in our massive nuclear stockpile, encouraging conventional “bunker buster” weapons rather than nuclear ones, and exploring all the implications of resuming underground testing instead of going full steam ahead with them.

I had another amendment to extend our Nation’s nonproliferation efforts to countries like Pakistan and India.

Mr. Chairman, despite the limitations the Committee on Rules has placed on debate, I encourage Members to vote for the defense authorization bill today, but I also hope that Members recognize that there are many provisions in this bill that take our Nation down a very dangerous path toward nuclear arms race.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. THORNBERY) from the Department of Energy Panel.

Mr. THORNBERY. Mr. Chairman, I thank the chairman for yielding me time and for his years of service and leadership to our country in national security.

Mr. Chairman, I also appreciate the work of all Members on the Department of Energy Panel and, particularly, the partnership of the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER).

For 57 years nuclear weapons have played a central role in maintaining our freedom and in preventing the kind of world wars which plagued the early part of the 20th century. There can be no doubt that nuclear weapons will continue to be central to our security as long as any of us are around.

Nuclear weapons exist. We cannot uninvent them. We cannot wipe them off the memory banks of human knowledge, and we should not try to stick our heads in the sand and wish them away. The facts, Mr. Chairman, are that 12 countries now have nuclear weapon programs, 13 countries have biological weapons programs, 16 countries have chemical weapons programs, according to the administration, and that does not count other groups, like al-Qaeda, who are trying to acquire them.

The United States does not have chemical and biological, so we must have a strong nuclear deterrent to deter use of those weapons of mass destruction, and our deterrent must be credible against a broader array of threats. Not only must we consider the Russian weapons, but we must consider various other kinds of weapons and threats and our deterrent must be credible, even against rogue states, even against terrorists, even against underground targets. They must even be credible to the kind of people we face in this war against terrorism whose aim is to kill as many Americans as possible.

Now, as our nuclear weapons are aging beyond their intended design life, it is going to be a very difficult job to keep them safe and reliable and credible, to keep the people, the infrastructure of weapons, the people in the United States, who must have to make sure that that deterrent is credible and does work. This bill takes important steps in that direction and it ought to be supported.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 7 minutes to the gentlewoman from Georgia (Ms. MCKINNEY) for debate purposes only.

Ms. MCKINNEY. Mr. Chairman, I voted against this defense authorization bill in committee, and I plan to vote against it on the floor. This bill represents the largest real increase to defense spending since 1966. It contains over $40 billion more spending than last year’s defense authorization, which was a huge authorization in this country. This year’s budget increase alone is greater than the defense budget of nearly every other nation in the world.

H.R. 4546 provides for over $383 billion in spending for the Pentagon and Bush’s programs of the Department of Energy. Unfortunately, this new spending comes at the expense of valuable programs for America’s families. Sadly, the Bush administration’s tax cut for the wealthy has blown the Clinton surplus and reduced our ability to fund important programs like job training, prescription drug benefit, conservation spending and much more.

The one-sided priorities of this bill reflect the belief that national security rests in occupying foreign capitals and overthrowing regimes, as our Secretary of Defense told us in committee, rather than in domestic tranquility and quality of life for America’s people.

In addition to the singular focus of our national security attention, there are problems within the Pentagon that raise questions about such immense spending.

On September 10, 2001, Defense Secretary Rumsfeld stated that “according to some estimates, we cannot track $2.3 trillion in transactions.” Such a lack of financial accountability undermines the integrity of the Pentagon. How much more inefficient, financial loss and wasteful spending can the American people tolerate?

In any other area of enterprise, people get more money when they prove that they know what they do with what they have already got, what they have gotten, but in the world of defense spending, the Secretary can acknowledge the loss of $2.3 trillion and get an almost unprecedented increase in funding.

In addition, the basis for such a large increase in spending is wholly unjustified.

The events of September 11 were a tragedy to the entire Nation. However, the attacks in New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia were not prompted by any failure of the United States military, but instead were the result of a breakdown in our intelligence community. In fact, just last week Yahoo News reported that CIA Deputy Director of Operations David Petraeus—discharged charges the CIA was caught unaware by September 11 suicide attacks in the United States—and that “the CIA knew the network led by Saudi-born militant Osama bin Laden was planning a major attack.”

Similarly, a Washington Post article dated May 3, 2002, stated, “Two months before the suicide hijackings, an FBI agent in Arizona alerted Washington headquarters that several Middle Easterners were training at a U.S. aviation school and recommended contacting other schools nationwide.” The article continued, stating that “law enforcement officials said in retrospect the FBI believes it should have accelerated the suggested check of U.S. flight schools.”

I must say that I was pleasantly surprised by Secretary Rumsfeld’s cancellation of the Crusader program this week, and I was pleased to receive a phone call from the Pentagon to that effect. However, it must be noted that I had an amendment to cut the Crusader because, among other things, it experienced cost overruns and was too heavy and too large to get anywhere fast at any kind of rapid response.

I would also note that the Crusader is a weapons system that has connections to the Carlyle Group which employs the President’s father. $475 million is a lot of money. Sadly, the President requested half a billion dollars for the Crusader weapons system but cancelled our commitment to pay high deployment overtime pay to our troops.

The fight to kill the Crusader is not over. Despite the cancellation, this bill will continue to keep Crusader alive. The Committee on Armed Services and the House should not allow that to happen. The Crusader has been rightly cut. It should remain that way, and the half billion dollars it has freed up should go to reinstating the high deployment per diem that the President cancelled in October.

As by now my colleagues also know, this bill creates exemptions for the Pentagon in the Endangered Species Act and the Migratory Bird Treaty Act, removes protections from public lands, and creates horrendous precedent for wilderness areas. The Committee on Armed Services is not where our country’s environmental policy should be decided.

With regard to missile defense, H.R. 4546 continues development of this dangerous, destabilizing and unreliable system. The authorization provides $7.8 billion for missile defense following on the nearly $8 billion that was authorized last year. Yet the CIA’s own national intelligence estimate states that attacks are much more likely using weapons of mass destruction via untraditional methods such as trucks, ships or airplanes.

Rather than spending billions on a missile defense system, diplomacy through arms control and disarmament agreements will be much more effective in advancing peace and security in the days and years ahead and will cost far less than a Star Wars system.

Though it deeply troubles me that one of the first acts of our President after declaring this war on terrorism was to renege on previous promises of high deployment overtime pay to our servicemen and women, the personnel and compensation section of this bill takes important steps for our servicemen and women. Though I am opposed to this act, I greatly respect the individual members of our armed services for their service and sacrifice in the name of our Nation.

However, Mr. Chairman, despite whatever good this bill does for our military personnel and their veterans, it is still entirely too large and takes us down the wrong policy track. Additionally, as our defense spending increases year after year, sacrifices made in domestic spending never seem to be corrected. From resuming nuclear testing to advancing nuclear-tipped missile defense, from the rollback of environmental laws, to pork-barreling weapons systems, this bill is big, and it could have been a lot better.

Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Weldon), the chairman of our Subcommittee on Military Procurement of the Committee on Armed Services.

(Mr. Weldon of Pennsylvania asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I thank our distinguished chairman, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), for his time, and I want to start off again by thanking our chairman and our ranking member, two of the great patriots of this institution, this country, for their outstanding work in bringing us a defense bill that all of us can get behind. It is not a perfect bill. In fact, there are some amendments that I would like to have seen offered that were not made in order, and that is a part of the process, unfortunately, we go through. I also believe we could have a dollar amount. Our chairman and ranking member made the best possible good faith effort to increase funding, but it is woefully underfunding our modernization.

Other Members who have spoken here have talked about too much for defense. Our soldiers today are fighting in tactical fighters that are 17 years old on average. Our Navy that at one time was 555 ships is now 314 ships. Our shipbuilding account is taking us down to 267 ships. The B-52 bomber will be 70 years old before it is retired. Our Chinook helicopters will be 60 years old.

We have underfunded the military consistently in both Democrat and Republican administrations for the past 10 years. This bill begins to correct that, but it does not solve all of those problems. We are asking for some relief in this bill. Nothing out of the ordinary.

We want to stop the encroachment that costs us more money that stops our troops from training. This is in no way, shape, or form a rollback of environmental laws. I would not support it. I want to make sure that, as a Republican proud of my environmental voting record. It does say that when we take 85 percent of Red Beach at Camp Pendleton where our Marines have to train and say 85 percent is not over where that beach cannot be used because of an endangered species, is a little bit ridiculous, especially when we consider if we look at the numbers of all the Federal agencies that have land, the Pentagon controls the smallest amount of land, yet has the largest number of endangered species of any other Federal agency and, in my opinion, does the most effective job possible in protecting wildlife and protecting endangered species.

All we ask for is some limited relief to allow our military personnel to be properly trained; nothing more. This is not an attempt to roll back environmental laws in any way, shape, or form.

In the other sections of the bill, I think we make a good faith effort in missile defense, in systems and programs. Again, it is not perfect, but we do provide the great incremental assistance for our troops in the personnel area, and I think we make a good down payment on modernization and research for the future.

So I encourage my colleagues to work with us through this process. We will be offering, I think, a very innovative series of amendments on the nuclear posture of this country that will revolutionize our relationship with Russia. I look forward to voting in a positive way on this bill, and I ask our colleagues to vote yes on the final passage and to work with us to get the largest vote possible in showing that our military has the support of Democrats and Republicans.

In closing, I want to thank my colleague and ranking member, the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR). He is one of the most tireless advocates for the Navy in this Congress. He has fought hard and his work has paid off in an additional ship being funded in this bill. I thank my colleagues for their leadership.

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR).

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank my colleague and friend, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON), for his kind words and for his good work on the procurement portion of this bill.

Along with every other Member of this body, I want to compliment the
Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for yielding me the time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of H.R. 4546, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003. While I support the bill in its entirety and commend it to this body as must-pass legislation, I want to especially emphasize the provisions in the bill relating to morale, welfare and recreation activities of the Department of Defense and the military services. I have the honor to chair the Special Oversight Panel of Morale, Welfare and Recreation which keeps a careful eye on some very important quality-of-life benefits for our military families, such as commissaries and child care centers. The MWR portion of H.R. 4546 is truly nonpartisan and was approved unanimously by both the panel and the full committee without any amendments. I have found the defense programs that are not self-funded by the Congress or the Pentagon quickly die away. MWR programs are no different. While I agree with most of what this administration is doing, I believe the continued pressure to privatize commissaries is misguided. The budget for the Defense Commissary Agency contained in this bill is about as low as I am prepared to support without persuasive evidence that customer savings and service will not suffer. That said, I believe the budget before my colleagues is adequate. To ensure the quality of customer service and continued savings, H.R. 4546 requires a GAO study of DECA’s budget proposals as well as other measures to protect the commissary benefit.

In addition, the package before the House will allow our deserving National Guard soldiers called to State duty in time of national emergency, like the present, to use commissary stores. We had provided this privilege opening with its development. Of course, I thank our ranking Democrat, the gentleman from Guam (Mr. UNDERWOOD), for his wise counsel and support in our shared responsibilities to manage MWR matters for the committee, and I join him in urging all Members to vote for H.R. 4546.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. SANCHEZ).

Ms. SANCHEZ. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to voice my support for the Bob Stump Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003. I want to commend the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) for the job they have done on this, and everybody on the committee.

We did have a vitally important last week with this bill. This bill will help soldiers and their families put more money in their pockets by reducing the average amount of housing expenses paid by service members from the current 11.3 percent to 7½ percent in fiscal year 2003.

Now, that might not mean much to us, but to people who are forced to move every few years, it is a very important issue, this issue of the cost of housing for them. So that puts us on the track to eliminate some of this heavy burden for our families that have men and women in uniform.

The bill, for the first time, fully funds Concurrent Receipt, and establishes a program through which military retirees will receive increasing compensation. And by the year 2007, retirees who are 60 percent or more disabled will receive their full retirement pay and their disability. This is something that our military retirees desperately need.

Unfortunately, this bill also contains provisions that undermine some of our basic commitments to our Nation, including to try to reduce the proliferation of nuclear weapons. The bill gives credence to the fact that the United States should develop nuclear weapons capable of destroying hard and buried targets and use nuclear-tipped missiles to intercept nuclear warheads.

I do not need to remind anyone that nuclear weapons have only been used twice in the history of warfare, and the United States has not designed or built a new nuclear weapon since the Cold War. Mutually Assured Destruction, or MAD, is a policy relic of the Cold War; and it should not be resurrected. It should not be resurrected by us.

Furthermore, this bill furthers the development of national missile defense with little congressional oversight. We may need a missile defense; but we need a structured one, one where we as a Congress look at it and take full responsibility for what is happening with its development.

No bill is perfect. This one has a lack of acknowledgment by the Department of Defense to the members of our Committee on Resources with respect to environmental issues, and this is very shortsighted.

Aside from that, I will be voting for the recommit and for this bill.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. EVERETT), a member of the committee.

(Mr. EVERETT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. EVERETT. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman, the chairman, and my good friend, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), for yielding me time. I have served under him while he has been chairman of the Committee on Armed Services and also when he was chairman of the Committee on Veterans’ Affairs. This House will miss him.

This serves as a reminder to the House about Army aviation training. The Army continues to short fund the training budget of its helicopter pilots. To address this shortfall, the committee took steps last year to begin funding the Army Aviation Institute Training Simulator program to enhance pilot training at the Aviation War-fighting Center. Unfortunately, the committee did not add funds for the program in this year’s authorization bill due to the lack of resources.

The Army is concerned with the crash rate of the OH-58C/D. It is four times greater than all other helicopters in the fleet. The Army has an immediate need for high-fidelity OH-58C/D simulators to improve the crew training of emergency procedures and other techniques on the aircraft. The Army has identified the AAITs program as the best way to provide this training. It is my hope that the defense appropriators in both Houses will give strong consideration to a $15 million add for six high-definition OH-58C/D simulators.

Mr. Chairman, I can’t think of a more important responsibility than to train Army Aviators in the best way possible, with the latest technologies available. The AAITs program meets this challenge by using commercially available technologies that are cost effective and ready to be deployed today.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York (Mr. HINCHEN).

Mr. HINCHEN. Mr. Chairman, in spite of the best attempts of the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), this bill has become a political football of extraneous material that has nothing to do with defense authorization and has no place in this bill.

I have time to cite just one example. Article 14 is a provision which contains language that is destructive to our efforts to protect the environment in this country, particularly issues that are destructive to the 1964 Wilderness Act. That language undermines the issue of wilderness as it is practiced by the American people all across the country. It is a special provision. It is even a personal provision. It has no business in this bill.

Furthermore, we were not given the opportunities to present amendments which could give the House the opportunity to debate this issue and to strike these unwarranted and destructive provisions from the bill. That makes this bill unworthy of the House. It ought to be withdrawn. We ought to have an opportunity to debate this issue and those things ought to be brought before us.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. CHAMBILSS), a member of the committee.

(Mr. CHAMBILSS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CHAMBILSS. Mr. Chairman, I strongly support the fiscal year 2003 Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act, which will provide critical resources for our military so that they have the adequate training, modern equipment, and sufficient resources to do their job in protecting our Nation.

I am proud of the work of the House Committee on Armed Services and our chairman, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), who has done an excellent job in crafting a bill that will support our warfighters. Chairman STUMP is a hero of mine, and we will miss his great service in this body.

This bill is important for our Nation. Our warfighters actually need for combat. I am afraid that money spent to revitalize and legitimize nuclear weapons or new uses for such weapons. I am afraid that money spent to revitalize and legitimize nuclear weapons will divert funds that our warfighters actually need for combat. I believe it will be destabilizing and lead to new arms races.

Finally, I am disappointed the committee did not make in order my amendment to previous nuclear-tipped interceptors. The U.S. rejected that idea decades ago.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California (Mr. CALVERT), a member of the committee.

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Chairman, I too want to thank the chairman, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), for all his years of service. We will miss him very much, but I know he will always be in our hearts.

Mr. Chairman, in my home State of California, environmental litigation may force the Fish and Wildlife Service to designate critical habitat for endangered species on over 50 percent of the 125,000-acre Camp Pendleton in Southern California. Even though there are 17 miles of coastline in the Camp Pendleton, environmental restrictions allow the Marines to use less than 1 mile of that coast, as designated on the map, for training. One mile. That is it. That small space.

And once they get ashore, Marines have to align everything and everyone up single file to weed through the land that has been designated critical habitat and cross Interstate 5 to another location on the base to begin their maneuvers.

Mr. Chairman, our Marines should be training as they fight, not as if they are going out on some field trip. Our military is one of the best environmental stewards America has. They should not be forced to give up realistic training on their own property to satisfy a few environmental extremists.
Proper training saves lives. We must not sacrifice the safety of our sons and daughters so that a gnatcatcher or a fairy shrimp can have an undisturbed life.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Guam (Mr. STUMP). I rise today to join my colleagues in support of H.R. 4546, the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 2003. It will go a long way towards ensuring that our troops get the support they need to win the war against terrorism as it meets many of our military's modernization needs and provides every servicemember with a pay raise they so richly deserve.

In particular, I want to address the provisions in the bill relating to the morale, welfare and recreation activities of DOD. I want to acknowledge the outstanding leadership of our panel chair, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. BARTLETT), and the active participation of all the panel members. I am pleased that we were able to address many of the urgent MWR issues that will sustain this important benefit, including the bill's acknowledgment of our concern and expression of our appreciation for the contributions of the National Guard during this period of national crisis by making it possible for them to use the commissary, even though they are under State control.

In addition to the MWR provisions, I am also pleased to note that a number of measures included within the bill will support Guam in its strategic role to U.S. national security. Guam's military installations and facilities stand to benefit from over $75 million of military readiness, modernization and improvements. Most notable are the projects for a new on-base water system at Andersen Air Force Base and the continued construction of the Guam Army Guard Readiness Center. The people of Guam welcome both a boost in military construction and appreciate the recognition this bill provides to our people in uniform.

Further, the bill before us today restores a balance between protecting the environment and sustaining military readiness, particularly in the case of the Farallon de Medinilla, FDM, bombing range north of Guam in the Northern Marianas. Last month, a Federal Court here in Washington, D.C. ruled that the Navy was in violation of the migratory bird treaty because of the incidental taking of nonendangered birds while conducting critical training activities. This bill narrowly fixes this. We are in support of this provision.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Missouri for yielding me this time to acknowledge the excellent and noble work that our chairman, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), has done over the years.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. BILIRAKIS).

(Mr. BILIRAKIS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BILIRAKIS. Mr. Chairman, the 106th Congress took the first steps toward addressing the inequity that provides for an offset between military retired pay and VA disability, which unfairly penalizes more than 500,000 disabled military retirees. Last year, Congress took an additional step towards eliminating the offset by authorizing my Concurrent Receipt legislation, H.R. 305.

The bill we are considering today follows the fiscal year 2003 budget and includes a provision to authorize military retirees who are 60 percent or greater disabled to receive their full retired pay and VA disability compensation on a transitional basis by fiscal year 2007.

So I say to all my colleagues, Mr. Chairman, support America and its veterans, vote for H.R. 4546. And I would also defer in closing my comments to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for being a great patriot and a great chairman.

Some military retirees—individuals who are eligible for military retirement benefits as a result of a full service career—are also eligible for disability compensation from the VA based on a medical problem they incurred while in the service. Under present law, these service-disabled retirees must surrender a portion of their retired pay if they want to receive the disability compensation to which they are entitled. Congress enacted this unjust law in 1981. Nationwide, more than 500,000 disabled military retirees must give up their retired pay in order to receive their disability compensation. In effect, they must pay for their VA disability out of their military retirement—something no other federal retiree must do.

I have been trying to repeal this unfair offset for more than 17 years. My legislation, H.R. 303, has received strong bipartisan support with more than 390 cosponsors in the House. More than 80 members have cosponsored similar legislation in the Senate. Moreover, many military veterans and military organization strongly support the concurrent receipt of military retired pay and VA disability compensation. The 106th Congress took the first steps toward addressing this inequity by authorizing the military to pay a monthly allowance to military retirees with severe service-connected disabilities rated by the Department of Veterans’ Affairs at 70 percent or greater. The exceptional value of these provisions were recently expanded to include retirees with ratings of 60 percent.

Last year, Congress took an additional step towards repealing the offset by authorizing H.R. 303. However, under the provisions of the Fiscal Year 2002 National Defense Authorization Act, this authorization requires the President to submit legislation in his annual budget request and Congress to enact this legislation to offset the cost of this initiative. Since the enactment of last year’s defense act, I have been working to secure the money needed to fund “concurrent receipt.” I was very pleased that the Budget Committee included almost $6 billion in the FY 2002 Budget Resolution for a partial repeal of the dollar-for-dollar offset between retired pay and VA disability compensation.

I am also pleased that the bill we are considering today follows the FY 2002 budget resolution and includes a provision to authorize military retirees who are 60 percent or greater disabled to receive their full retired pay and VA disability compensation benefit by Fiscal Year 2007. Until the program is fully implemented, the bill establishes a transitional program under which retirees will receive increasing amounts of their retired pay.

I want to thank Chief BOB STUMP, Ranking Member IVE SKELTON, Military Personnel Subcommittee Chairman JOHN MCMURTHY and Ranking Member VIC SNYDER for their continued support and interest in this issue.

While H.R. 4546 does not allow for the complete elimination of the current offset, it does provide for a substantial concurrent receipt benefit and it is a tremendous step forward in our fight to repeal the current inequitable offset. I urge my colleagues to support the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from New York (Mr. McNULTY).

(Mr. McNULTY asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. McNULTY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act, which will support all of our men and women in uniform and also the Crusader program.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. TURNER).

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, this bill today is one of the most important pieces of legislation that this Congress will consider, and I want to recognize the leadership of the gentleman from Arizona (Chairman STUMP), for his leadership, as well as the leadership of our ranking member, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON). The bipartisan approach that this committee has utilized to craft this bill is a true bipartisian and our unwavering commitment to winning our Nation’s war against terrorists.
We also in this bill take major steps forward in providing our Armed Forces with the tools and the resources they need to protect our national security interests around the world. Earlier this year our military chiefs testified before our committee, and identified over $25 billion in unfunded requirements for the upcoming fiscal year. Our committee was not able to address every need on the chiefs’ list, but I am pleased that we addressed many of the issues, particularly in the areas of quality of life, readiness and modernization, as well as the deficiencies that the Department identified necessary to wage our war on terrorism.

Over the last few years, one area of particular concern to me has been the continued reduction in troop end strength. In the post-Vietnam War era, the active duty military peaked at 2.2 million personnel. Today it is less than 1.5 million. Last year, each of our military services entered the war on terrorism with personnel shortages, a situation that has only worsened due to the heightened operational tempo required around the globe.

I commend the ranking member, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), for his leadership in advocating an increase in troop strength; and I am pleased that this bill contains an increase of 13,000 in troop authorization above last year’s level.

Mr. Chairman, I believe this is an important bipartisan legislation that deserves the support of the entire Congress. I urge adoption of this legislation.

Lastly, this legislation strengthens our national security intention both at home and abroad by authorizing $7.8 billion for ballistic missile defense programs. The development of medium and long range ballistic missiles by North Korea, Iran, Iraq, and other rogue countries underscores the importance of developing a fielding theater missile defenses capable of intercepting threats as soon as possible. Protecting our country and troops deployed in theater from a ballistic missile attack should continue to be a priority, and I applaud the commitment that is being shown to field this technology in the near term. Mr. Chairman, I especially want to emphasize the importance of fielding the Department of Defense’s highest theater missile defense system, the PAC-3. When you look at spectrum of known threats around the world, and focus on those areas where we either have personnel or have troops deployed, it’s hard to ignore the fact that most credible ballistic missile threats would be thwarted by the PAC-3 system. Consequently, amendments will be offered by Mr. SPRATT and Mr. HUNTER a little later that seek to add money to this program. I am hopeful that you will support this effort and join with me in ensuring that our troops are adequately protected against these emerging threats.

Mr. Chairman, we are at an important juncture with respect to funding our military and providing them with the resources necessary to effectively wage our war on terrorism. This bill acknowledges the challenges we face and seeks to respond. I urge my colleagues to support this bipartisan bill.

Mr. STUMP, Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. MCHUGH), the chairman of the Subcommittee on Personnel.

Mr. MCHUGH. Mr. Chairman, May marks National Military Appreciation Month. There is no more appropriate way to recognize it than to rise in strong support of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003. I especially commend for my colleagues’ consideration and support the military personnel provisions of the bill. These reflect the realities and challenges by making improvements in the end strength, compensation, personnel and health care systems of the Department of Defense.

Let me highlight three of those most important areas. First, while fully supporting the efforts of the Secretary of Defense to reduce operational and mission requirements, this bill reflects the view that the war on terrorism will be a long-term effort and that some growth in the active manpower is prudent at this time.

Therefore, the bill represents the bipartisan views of all of us, including the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), who was a leader on this, and an increase in active duty end strength of nearly 1 percent, or 12,650, above fiscal year 2002 levels. That is the largest single year growth in active end strength since 1985 and 1986. To support the added strength, the bill provides an additional $60 million as well as increasing National Guard and Reserve component full-time manning by some 2,400 personnel.

Secondly, the bill provides a military pay raise, as proposed by the President, of 4.1 percent across-the-board for all personnel, one-half of 1 percent more than the average pay increase for private sector employees.

In addition, it recommends targeted raises of 6.5 percent to critical mid-grade officers and mid-grade officers, as well as housing rates that will reduce the out-of-pocket housing expenses from the current level of 11.3 percent to 7.5 percent in fiscal year 2003.

Finally, as the gentleman from Florida (Mr. BILLIKEN) said moments ago, the third major provision I want to highlight would ensure that by 2007 all retirees rated by the Veterans Administration with 60 percent disabled or more receive their full military retired pay and their full VA disability pay. This initiative, known widely as concurrent receipt, represents the culmination of a multi-year, bipartisan effort to restore justice in veterans’ compensation using the $8 billion provided by the House budget resolution for fiscal year 2003.

In closing, Mr. Chairman, let me thank the ranking member of the subcommittee, the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. SNYDER), for his leadership, for his proactive involvement, as well as all members of both sides of the aisle of the Subcommittee on Military Personnel who have a good deal to be proud of in this fine mark and in this great bill.

Mr. Chairman, I urge all Members to join us in support of this very fine measure.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS).

(Mr. ANDREWS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. It is a personal privilege to stand in support of the piece of legislation named in honor of a patriot, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), who has served our country so very well. I am honored to support this bill in his name, and thank the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) for his contribution.

Make no mistake today as perhaps the greatest military power in global history; but as we have learned in the last 7 months, even great powers are faced with great challenges. I support this bill because I believe it affirms two of our greatest strengths: the ability to deal with two of our greatest challenges.

First of all, it affirms the strength that is the most premium strength of the American military structure, the men and women who serve their country. By raising the pay of those men and women by 4.1 percent, by supplementing their medical and other benefits considerably, although not enough, this bill is a good step in the right direction.

Second, as a member of the Subcommittee on Research and Development, I am particularly pleased that we have before us today a bill that will make the greatest investment in research and development in our Nation’s history. In particular, I am pleased with the 20 percent increase in the DARPA funding accounts, which I think bring out the very best of America’s university sector, private sector and government sector.

With respect to challenges, I believe that the new Northern Command structure that is implemented in this bill is a positive step toward meaningful homeland security. I look forward to working with the Pentagon and my fellow members of the committee in making that command structure effective in homeland security.

In the bill begins to grapple with the very real problem with missile defense. There are those of us who believe that missile defense is necessary and appropriate, but there are some disagreements over how to implement it. Because of the bipartisan leadership of this committee, I believe that we have a constructive approach to bridging those differences and managing this challenge.

In short, I believe this is a bill that every Member of both political parties can support strongly and will help us carry forward in meeting the very great challenges our country faces today. I urge support of the bill.
Mr. SKELOTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, it was the Roman orator Cicero who once said that the greatest of all virtues is gratitude, and let me again express gratitude to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for being such a dedicated leader of our armed forces and to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELOTON), for his steadfast support of our military personnel. I want to express gratitude to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), for his leadership on the Committee on Armed Services and to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELOTON), for his tireless efforts on behalf of the men and women in uniform who serve our Nation.

For all of this, I yield back.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. KIRK).

(Mr. KIRK asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KIRK. Mr. Chairman, I want to also thank the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) and our other defense leaders, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELOTON), for setting the example and for the legislation that he has brought forward. This legislation is a fundamental mission of the Federal Government to defend our country. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act. This bill supports the efforts of President Bush and Secretary Rumsfeld to modernize and strengthen our military. The bill supports the needs of our men and women in uniform, ensuring that they receive better pay, have better equipment at their disposal, have a better quality of life, and are provided with all the tools necessary to complete their missions. The effects of these initiatives will be appreciated by everyone in the world, from the recruits currently in my district at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center to the Special Forces troops operating in the mountains of Afghanistan.

Additionally, this bill strongly supports electronic warfare and the EA-6B Prowler, our Nation's lone remaining electronic jamming aircraft. The Prowler is integral to successful airborne strike operations and is often the first aircraft in theater and the last aircraft to leave. Without the Prowler, our aircrews would be vulnerable to a wide variety of threats from integrated air defenses and advanced surface-to-air missiles. In support of the aging Prowler fleet, this bill authorizes $85.8 million to procure and install wing center sections and outer wing panels, both of which have suffered from fatigue and forced the grounding of eight aircraft.

$35 million is included to procure advanced USQ-113 jammers, which will enhance the ability of the Prowler to cut off enemy communications. I also encourage that $29 million are included to procure band 9/10 transmitters, which will enhance Prowler capabilities.

Perhaps most importantly, H.R. 4546 includes an increase of $10 million to continue efforts to develop a successor to the Prowler. Mr. Chairman, I strongly support our men and women in uniform, our national defense, and this bill. I encourage my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. JEFF MILLER).

(Mr. JEFF MILLER of Florida asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

The legislation remedies a long-committed wrong that has been used against our retired military veterans for many years. By providing $5.38 billion in new benefits, the beneficiary right to health care, the house holds that H.R. 4546 begins full concurrent receipt for veterans suffering from a disabled rating 60 percent or greater. These individuals have given decades of their life and service to this great country, and they will begin to receive their earned retired pay along with their earned disability payment.

This agreement builds upon the work of the Committee on Veterans Affairs and the Committee on Armed Services over the last couple years, and this success begins the year that made the policy change.

Due to the meticulous work by the Committee on the Budget, the require-
It is clearly another giant step in our continued efforts to improve quality of life, modernize the force, and improve readiness. I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. PUTNAM).

Mr. PUTNAM. Mr. Chairman, I want to commend the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) on the outstanding work that he has done to make America secure, but some of the rhetoric that I hear from the other side gives me pause and what comes to mind is how quickly we forget.

Some of the environmental concerns that have been raised are completely bogus, Mr. Chairman. When we have a situation where 16 or 17 miles of coastline cannot be used at Camp Pendleton, when we have a situation where soldiers have to draw a circle in the sand and stand there and pretend that it is a foxhole, we are not training our soldiers realistically. The success that we have seen in Afghanistan is the direct result of investment in training and personnel and in troops and in equipment. But that training cannot continue under the current environmental restrictions that we have.

This bill makes some commonsense reforms that allow our soldiers, sailors and airmen to prepare to wage and win the war. I commend him for his leadership on this and his striking the delicate balance that recognizes the stewardship of the Department of Defense and the overarching mission that they have, which is to keep America secure.

For the past year, the Government Reform Committee has been investigating the growing number of restrictions, or encroachments, placed on training at military training ranges by environmental regulations, urban sprawl, international treaties and competition for limited airspace and spectrum.

In May of last year the Government Reform Committee held its first hearing on this issue titled “Challenges to National Security: Constraints on Military Training.” In August of last year the Government Reform Committee on National Security, Veterans Affairs and International Relations, of which I am vice chairman, held a field hearing in my district at the Avon Park, Fla., Air Force Bombing Range to address the issue of military training range sustainability.

Our hearings have demonstrated that environmental regulations are among the most pervasive and burdensome constraints on military training.

At a hearing last spring, for instance, the committee learned that 16 of 17 miles of coastline at Camp Pendleton, California, are off-limits for amphibious training due to a growing list for his protections. Witnesses also testified that soldiers are not allowed to dig foxholes on some ranges, and instead must practice jumping onto circles marked with tape.

As the Defense Department has been forced to expand the amount of land set aside for protected areas, such as the fairy shrimp, the gnat-catcher, and the checker-spot butterfly, training lanes have become artificially narrow. Environmental laws and regulations have inhibited training at bases across the country and on the waters offshore. Fewer and fewer training areas are now available for realistic combat live-fire training.

When combat drills become predictable and repetitive, readiness declines. Our experience in Afghanistan has demonstrated how success on the battlefield is directly related to the quality of our military training. We must ensure that well-intentioned environmental regulations do not lead to shortfalls on the proving ground that later become disasters on the battlefield.

The changes proposed in H.R. 4546 are intended to save lives in war, we should do so only in the complete confidence that they are ready. They will only be ready if they are thoroughly and realistically trained. Our military men and women and their families, have a right to expect that training, and we as a nation have an obligation to provide.

H.R. 4546 provides a common-sense change to laws that have overburdened the military and restricted training efforts. These are not broad waivers. There are no exemptions and no rolling back of decades of environmental law.

The committee mark is a good start, but more may need to be done. The current hair-trigger application of broadly defined environmental regulations has profoundly affected vital military research and development efforts as well as for example, a scientific study funded by the Pentagon showed that a new long-range, lower-frequency sonar designed to detect ultra-quiet enemy submarines would “harass” marine mammals under the existing definition. The Navy is now waiting for a letter of authorization from the Fisheries Service to allow use of the sonar. If the definition of harassment were changed, the Navy likely would have greater leeway in using the sonar without seeking permits or exposure to lawsuits.

The Navy should not need to get permits every time an aircraft carrier changes position and the military should not be exposed to lawsuits for allegedly “annoying” a marine mammal.

More than anything else, military readiness depends on realistic training. Constraints on military training and research are growing challenge to our national security. To perform a constantly expanding range of missions—from peacekeeping to assaulting and holding a hostile beachhead—the men and women of our armed forces must train as they fight. They must train under conditions as much like the real thing as possible.

The issue is not readiness versus the environment. Our military men and women have all volunteered to go into harm’s way—we owe it to them, and their families, to send them there trained to win. Training saves lives. In this time of war I urge my colleagues to make protecting the lives of our military men and women our highest priority. Supporting this legislation will do that. I urge passage of the bill.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I want to add my voice to the choir of opposition the National Defense Authorization Act of FY 2003. This bill provides appropriations for an increase in pay for our armed forces.
services personnel, which I believe is very important for the security of our great Nation. However, I rise to oppose this legislation because it provides appropriations for an unproven ballistic missile defense. This is a flawed policy. If the United States was attacked by a long range nuclear missile, any feasible ballistic missile defense would have less than 15 minutes to detect, track, and attempt to intercept the missile. Thus, this is a technologically daunting task. A top defense official has said that a successful U.S. missile defense system test, which was completed recently, did not realistically duplicate conditions of an actual attack. If our top military leaders think that this is a flawed policy, then we as elected officials should follow their recommendation.

The Defense Department has tested and retested this ballistic missile defense system, and each time the desired results have not been achieved. But yet, the President wants to continue funding this flawed policy. Therefore, I want to strongly support the Tierney amendment, which states that no funds for FY 2003 in the Department of Defense may be used for space-based national missile defense programs.

Additionally, I also strongly support Congressman Markey’s amendment, which prohibits the use of funds to develop and test a nuclear earth penetrator weapon and also prohibits the use of funds in fiscal year 2003 for a feasibility study of a nuclear earth penetrating weapon.

In almost every case, post-test doubts regarding missile defense have been raised. Critics have charged that test results over the past two decades have been exaggerated by false claims of success and promises of performance that later proved false. Many tests were proven to have had their targets significantly enhanced to ensure the likelihood of success.

Furthermore, kinetic kill as a concept for destroying long-range ballistic missiles is even more problematic at this stage. There is no empirical evidence to support the contention that kinetic kill for ICBM defense will work. Despite the successes of American technology, there are no quick, cheap or easy solutions in missile defense. Therefore, we should allocate funds for more pressing defense needs and spend our funds on systems that work and will enhance real security for all Americans.

Mr. STARK. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to this Defense authorization bill. With the President’s war on terrorism continuing and with budget deficits rising, why are we spending money on so many unnecessary programs? Just yesterday the administration admitted that these programs are no longer necessary, yet the Republican leadership would rather waste billions of dollars on defense projects that keep defense contractors swimming in money.

Earlier this week, I submitted an amendment to this bill that would cut the $475 million to further research and develop the Crusader mobile howitzer project. Unfortunately, the Republicans refused to allow this amendment to be considered on the House floor. These Republicans are more interested in looking like they are strong on defense than they are in programs that can actually be used to defend our country. Even the Department of Defense has said it doesn’t want the Crusader. If you don’t believe me, look at the front page of today’s Washington Post: Defense Secretary Rumsfeld says, “We are going to cancel the Crusader.” Rather than falling in line behind President Bush, as they have on virtually every other initiative proposed by this administration, the Republican leadership wouldn’t even allow a debate about this program.

Why do I agree with the administration on a defense project? Let’s look at some details. To date, we have spent $3.5 billion on an artillery system that doesn’t have a prototype, fails to meet the operational requirements of the army, and would cost over $11 billion if we decided to purchase the system. Fully loaded, the Crusader weighs over 80 tons, so heavy that only the largest cargo plane we have could carry it, and just one at a time! Finally, howitzers like the Crusader are outdated weapons of warfare that are really only effective against large massed armies, such as those that were maintained by the former Soviet Union. There are few armies left in the world who use such WWII era tactics, and if in the future we happen to need these weapons again, the GAO has found that we can either upgrade the existing Paladin howitzer or purchase a German made system that fits the operational requirements of the Crusader.

But the Crusader is not the only program that shouldn’t be funded in this bill. This bill authorizes the acquisition of the F–22, the Joint Strike Fighter, and an upgraded version of the F/A 18. With the upgrades of our existing F–15s and F–16s, our Air Force has air-superiority over any existing air force. While some argue that we need upgraded fighter aircraft to counteract improvements in surface to air defense systems, do we really need three different planes? The cost savings of just going with one of these systems instead of three would be astronomical. Not only would we stop throwing billions more dollars at defense contractors, we would save billions more by not having to purchase parts for three different planes and to hire three different sets of mechanics to service them. Finally, cutting these extraneous programs will further integrate our armed forces, a goal specifically mentioned by Secretary Rumsfeld in his speech at the Pentagon earlier this week.

This bill spends too much money on programs that will do nothing to protect our citizens. Instead, it lines the pockets of defense contractors and sends our nation’s financial health into further disarray. In the interest of national defense and fiscal security, I am voting against this bill and urge my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Chairman, there is no function of our national government more important than defending the Nation. Today, our national defense is more important than ever, and with this authorization bill, we are spending more on national defense than ever. In fact, the $393 billion this bill authorizes means the United States will be spending roughly $100 billion on ballistic missile defenses. We should not be throwing good money after bad. September 11 showed us that there are many threats that are more realistic than that of a ballistic missile streaking across the ocean to land on our shores.

The third is perhaps the most outrageous example. Yesterday, Secretary of Defense Rumsfeld informed members of Congress of his decision to cancel the $11 billion Crusader program. This is a weapons system that Napoleon would have loved that was designed for a war from an age long past.

The Army plans to create a mobile force capable of being deployed anywhere in the world in 96 hours, but the Crusader Mobile Howitzer is still too heavy to be lifted by any transport aircraft in our fleet. Neither of the two largest military cargo transports in operation—the C–5 and the C–17—can carry a complete Crusader. The weapon’s designers say they have reduced the total weight of the system from 90 tons to “only” 73, but that was accomplished by removing the fuel and ammunition the system carries.

The Congressional Budget Office recommends killing the Crusader and purchasing a suitable alternative. The General Accounting Office has identified a German-made howitzer as a viable alternative to the Crusader. According to CBO, acquiring this off-the-shelf weapon would save $5.7 billion over 10 years. The Crusader is more suitable for fighting Adolf Hitler than meeting the challenges of today. As one Bush adviser remarked, “Why would you buy the same artillery pieces that...
Napoleon would understand? It’s all Industrial Age equipment."

I submitted amendments to the Rules Committee to transfer funds from the Crusader to the cleanup of unexploded ordnance (UXO). These amendments would have supported Secretary Rumsfeld’s decision on the Crusader and addressed a serious problem for the military, UXO, which is both a long-term liability and a short-term operational and public relations nightmare.

In addition to the examples of unwise and wasteful expenditure, this bill authorizes unnecessary and destructive waivers of important environmental protections essential to Americans’ health and the health of America’s land and water. During my time in Congress, I have worked to compel the Federal Government to lead by example. This bill goes against everything I have been working toward. If we exempt the largest landowner in the country from environmental regulations, how can we expect anyone else to follow our laws?

The Department of Defense wants to exempt itself from many environmental laws. This is an important decision, and should involve debate and consideration by all stakeholders. Unfortunately, the Department and their congressional supporters have circumvented the committee process to give us the provisions in this bill.

This bill contains sweeping new exemptions for activities under the Endangered Species Act, the Magna Carta Treaty Act, and the Wilderness Act. Important environmental protections that took years and much debate to put in place. This action should at least warrant a debate in the relevant committees. I am also disappointed that the rule on this bill does not even allow for discussion of these significant environmental exemptions.

No one will argue that the U.S. military does not provide an important service, and that its ability to operate is imperative. However, in preparing itself to protect this country, the Department of Defense could be a better partner and clean up after itself. This is an important decision, and should involve a debate in the relevant committees. I am disappointed that the rule on this bill does not even allow for discussion of these significant environmental exemptions.

I vote ‘no.’

Mr. MILLER of Florida. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Bob Stump National Defense Act of Fiscal Year 2003 and I ask my colleagues to support this important legislation.

Mr. Chairman, September 11 highlighted the fact that our military must remain the best trained and best equipped in the world. Our ability to stage Operation Enduring Freedom in South Asia is not the result of anything that happened since the attack, but is the result of years of training and management, tens of thousands of man-hours of research and development, and billions of dollars in testing and manufacturing. The defense budget pays not only for the fuel, munitions, and soldiers’ salaries, but it pays for the investment in the weapons needed to fight and win the wars of the future, against any potential enemy in any part of the world.

For over 13 years, we have downsized our military because of cuts in our defense budget. We have decommissioned rather than upgrade them and retired aircraft rather than build new ones. Our military was asked to do more with less. Our servicemen and women were asked to do more with less. We closed bases and gave up training areas, both at home and abroad in many cases at great cost. It is no wonder that seven years ago our soldiers and airmen began to leave the services in record numbers.

This strong and bipartisan legislation addresses many of these issues and reverses the trend of years past. It looks forward to the challenges of the future, this bill contains a 4.1 percent increase in basic pay with additional increases for mid-grade and senior non-commissioned officers and mid-grade officers.

Mr. Chairman, this legislation remedies a wrong, long committed against our retired military veterans. By providing $5.58 billion, over 5 years, toward retiree benefits, H.R. 4546 begins the full concurrent recovery for veterans suffering from a disabled rating 60 percent or greater. These individuals, who have given decades of their life, serving this great country, will begin to receive their earned retired pay along with their earned disability pay.

The full concurrent builds upon the work of many people, the least not the veterans who walk these halls, write letters or otherwise make the effort to contact their Member of Congress. Due to the meticulous work of the budget committee, the requirement to have a full budget offset is no longer needed. Additionally, this legislation eliminates a stipulation that disability claims must be made within four years of military separation, effectively enacting this my bill, H.R. 3620.

Navy training, an important function in my district, is supported in this bill by the authorization of 10 additional Train-
It also works to honor the commitment our nation has to its veterans by eliminating current law provisions that cause military retirees who have the required protection and firepower of our submarine fleet. The smartest and most cost-effective way to rebuild our submarine force is multiyear contracting. It is good for the workforce, it is good for the taxpayer, and it is good for our men and women in the military. Mr. Chairman, this bill is a well-crafted bill to meet the needs of our military. I urge my colleagues to support the bill.

Mr. SOUDER. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of this legislation and wanted to briefly comment as one of the Chairs of the Speaker’s Task Force on a Drug Free America and chairman of the Drug Policy Subcommittee on the counterdrug provisions of the bill.

First, I want to commend the Armed Services Committee for its work on the bill and support for counterdrug programs. The Department of Defense plays a critical role in our nation’s efforts to keep drugs off our streets, particularly with respect to interdiction programs in narcotics source and transit zones in the Caribbean and South America and in providing training and resources to our allies. There has been concern that the Department intended to substantially reduce its support for counterdrug programs. I want to take this opportunity to thank the committee for its continued careful attention to ensure that the Defense Department continues its important involvement. My subcommittee and the Speaker’s Task Force will continue to follow this carefully, and we look forward to working with the Department and the Committee.

Second, I wanted to emphasize and associate myself with the guidance contained in the committee’s report on this bill with respect to narcotics in Afghanistan. John Walters, the Director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy, recently stated in an interview that our military involvement in Afghanistan has given us the first meaningful opportunity to address the global heroin trade. Ninety percent of the world supply of heroin is grown in Afghanistan, and this huge supply inevitably affects the entire world market. I am concerned at public reports and briefings obtained by my staff which suggest that the Defense Department and the Central Command have been unwilling to participate vigorously in drug interdiction and eradication efforts. While I agree that the protection of our forces must be the paramount concern, it also seems apparent that the Defense Department can make some important contributions not only to drug eradication, but also to the military goal of cutting off the source of economic support for potential enemies. As we know, the Taliban received substantial financial support from the drug trade. It makes no sense to leave as potentially lucrative a source of funding for future terrorists as the poppy crop in Afghanistan.

I also want to support the committee’s report language on this issue with respect to targeting. It expressed concern with the lack of targeting of opium storage facilities in Afghanistan that were identified early in the conduct of Operation Enduring Freedom. The committee shared Office of the Inspector General that U.S. Central Command had deemed that opium in any form did not constitute a credible military target. I agree strongly with its conclusion that the Department of Defense should review and revise its policy in this regard to ensure that such tactical targets are not proactively avoided in Afghanistan and any future conflicts. Mr. Chairman, the Department of Defense must continue to play an active role in our drug control efforts, particularly in Afghanistan, and I hope that this bill will encourage it to do so.

Mr. BRADY of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I rise to support the FY03 Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act and appreciate all the hard work my colleagues and my chair- man did to produce a bill in support of our national defense.

One area of particular concern for me is the Maritime Administration’s Title XI Vessel Loan Guarantee Program. I am pleased to see that this program was included in the bill to continue this valuable program, which sustains our national shipbuilding industrial base by supporting commercial shipbuilding. This is necessary in the face of foreign competition and subsidies and is good for all U.S. shipyards, large and small. In addition, this will also serve to maintain a skilled labor force critical to our defense industrial base.

I note that the committee expects that the Maritime Administration will place a priority on providing loan guarantees under the Title XI Ship Loan Guarantee Program for the construction of commercially viable vessels that are military useful, such as for highspeed sealift, or that meet specific requirements of Federal law, such as the requirement for double-hull tankers. These types of commercial projects would be the highest priority for construction under the program. There are many laudable projects, including the FastShip project in my congressional district, which should be supported by the Department of Defense and the Department of Transportation. Military useful projects, like FastShip, have always been a key element of the Title XI program. High-speed sealift vessels are particularly important in light of the modern military’s need for rapid logistical support.

I urge the Maritime Administration to fairly consider these projects for which applications have been filed so that these shipbuilding projects can go forward in our U.S. shipyards and built by our skilled American labor force. The Maritime Administration must consider all both the commercial and the military benefits of these projects by fairly and fully reviewing the applications and documents for future policy applications. The Maritime Administration is obligated to ensure the strength of our national security through the support of a strong merchant marine.

Finally, I would like to thank Chairman BOB STUMP for all his years of service to our country and for his hard work on this important bill. It has been an honor to serve with him and I am proud to call him my chairman. I urge all my colleagues to join me in supporting this bill and the Title XI vessel loan guarantee authorization.

Ms. LEE. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to this bill.

Now more than ever, it is clear that cold war era thinking will not meet the security needs of today. But it is cold war thinking that continues to define our defense budget.

It is misguided thinking that seeks to put the United States back on the path toward renewed nuclear testing, when instead we would all be made safer if we would work toward nuclear nonproliferation.

It is misguided thinking that seeks to spend billions on the Crusader, a weapons system that the Secretary of State himself does not want, when we have so many profound needs here at home.
It is misguided thinking that seeks to allow the Department of Defense to ignore our existing environmental laws. The American public doesn’t want fewer environmental protections. They want more.

It is misguided thinking to underfund important programs to destroy chemical weapons in Russia.

And, it is misguided thinking that pours billions into a missile defense system that we are rushing to deploy without fully considering either the enormous technical problems or the serious international repercussions.

As we abandon treaties and international agreements, we work against our own best interests by spurring on nuclear arms races and undermining proliferation and cooperation efforts.

I urge you, then, to oppose another $7.8 billion for missile defense and to oppose this bill.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I support this bill, but I think an admonition about the budget is in order. We actually have one bill before us, while holding another in abeyance. The President requested a total of $396 billion for national security, primarily for the Department of Defense (DoD) and the nuclear weapons program run by the Department of Energy (DoE). The President asked us to set aside $10 billion of the DoD budget as a “war reserve” for fulfilling our commitments wherever the threat is clear and present. For DoE, he requested a total of $379 billion, of which $10 billion is for the war reserve and $369 billion is the regular request.

There are two reasons for keeping separate the $10 billion request. One is to earmark funds for the war on terrorism, the other is not to merge into the base budget funding that may be non-recurring.

One of the bills approved by the House Armed Services Committee authorizes $3.8 billion, which is to be drawn from the $10 billion war reserve. But the $3.8 billion we are authorizing is actually part of the regular $369 billion request. In the main bill, we are authorizing DoD activities at the $369 billion level, but since $3.8 billion of the regular request is now being provided for in the other bill, we have a significant reduction in the main bill to be used for ships and other procurement needs, research and development, and member-interest items.

Here are the problems with this approach. One, we are actually authorizing $3.6 billion more than the President requested for regular DoD appropriations, and DoD will eventually need that money for the war on terrorism. I met with the DoD Comptroller, Secretary Zakheim, and he acknowledged that while the $10 billion war reserve was a good faith effort to account for a budgetary effect of the war, it is a low-ball estimate. So, if we use $3.8 billion of the $10 billion reserve for regular items, we will have to make up the $3.8 billion by adding that amount to the supplemenals that are likely to come later to fully fund the war on terrorism. If the appropriators will spend $3.8 billion more on defense than the President has requested, and add $3.8 billion more to the deficit and national debt.

Second, what happens if the appropriators do not follow suit, or if they are not allowed to do so by the House leadership? Then, we will have $3.8 billion in hollow BA (Budget Authority). We will authorize $3.8 billion worth of items that never get appropriated. This is not an idle concern because the White House and the Speaker are both resisting efforts by the Appropriations Committee to take up this $3.8 billion shift.

Another shift of funds comes in the military personnel account. This account is reduced by $90 billion in the DoD bill, but increased by the same amount to other defense purposes. The DoD actuary is likely in the next month to conclude that the military personnel budget overestimates the accrual payment for the Tricare-for-Life program. This is a program this committee established, and along with it, the actuarial accrual system to make sure the costs of this program are accounted for over the long term. If the actuaries do reduce it by that amount, the effect is minimal. But what if they reduce it by only $400 million? Then we will be shorting the military personnel accounts by $410 million, unless we shift the money back from the items to which it is transferred.

Committee staff asked DoD for a likely estimate of this adjustment and took the high end of the range indicated by DoD. If the actuaries come in lower, the adjustments will have to be made. Certain items now funded will have to be de-funded or cut. Congress should not get in the habit of trying to jump ahead of actuarial estimates in order to find savings to be used for other items.

There is a widespread sentiment that DoD needs more funding, even though the President’s request for next year is the largest increase in twenty years. I share the sentiment, but question quite a few of the allocations in this bill. For example, if we took $70,000,000 out of projects like the space-based kinetic interceptor (or wonder missiles already, to no avail), we could buy 24 PAC-3s and lower the purchase cost from $6.5 to $5.6 million per missile. The PAC-3 is the only missile defense system that we will deploy in the next five years, and it is a theater system, where the threat is clear and present. With only 20 PAC-3s deployed, and 72 in process of being procured, 24 additional PAC-3’s could make a major difference to the defense of our troops in some conceivable scenarios in the very near future. Moving from the tactical to the strategic, I am concerned that we are under-funding the DOE’s nuclear complex both for stockpile stewardship and environmental cleanup. The bill we are reporting does little to address these important areas.

I have always supported a strong defense, but we should bear in mind that our economy is the first instrument of our national defense. The federal budget constitutes 20 percent of our economy and has a great impact on it, as we saw during the 1990s. Each year for eight years, we reduced the deficit, and then we moved the budget into surplus; and every year for 120 straight months, the economy grew. In passing this bill, we take the first step in a defense budget that will cost $557 billion more than inflation over the next ten years. I recognize the need and the primacy we must give to defense of our country, and I do not think that we can be stingy about the cost of our war against terrorism. But I am concerned as to whether we can sustain over the long run all that we are supporting in this bill.

As we pass the bill authorizing a $48 billion increase in defense, the budget deficit overall is moving toward a unified deficit of $150 billion this year. In other words, the federal budget in fiscal year 2002 will borrow and spend all of the Medicare surplus, all of the Social Security surplus, and still need to borrow $150 billion more. Revenue collections this year are lagging last year by $130 billion. For the first time since 1995, the Treasury must borrow money to make it through the first calendar quarter of 2002. Meanwhile, when we remember that the first of 77 million baby boomers will retire in 2008; and when all are retired, the number of beneficiaries on Social Security and Medicare will double.

I agree that the defense budget takes precedence now, but there has a rendez-vous with destiny that we cannot dodge. By shifting regular DoD funds to the war reserve and second-guessing actuarial payments, the bill we report sets precedents that I am not eager to establish, and it begs a bigger question: for how long can we sustain what we have started?

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Chairman, today, the House is considering H.R. 4546, the Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003. At a time when the men and women of our armed forces are spread across the globe defending our nation and helping to combat terrorism, this is a critically important piece of legislation that deserves to have a full debate on a wide range of issues that affect our fighting men and women. We must examine how we defend America in the 21st Century.

Unfortunately, Mr. Chairman, the majority has once again rigged the system to prevent the minority from offering the American people a real debate on these critically important issues. Even more unfortunately, Mr. Chairman, is the sad fact that I’m not really surprised any more when the majority presents us with so few choices. This isn’t the first time we’ve had shams rules on the floor, and most certainly, it won’t be the last. Repeatedly, we are given fewer opportunities to offer amendments on the important legislation.

Mr. Chairman, today, once again I am saddened that the majority has prevented us from offering important amendments to improve this bill on a wide range of issues.

We won’t have a real debate on whether or not we should change our national nuclear policy. I find it amazing that the Administration seems to be steering our nation towards expanding nuclear weapons, and we seem to be allowing this without an open debate.

We also don’t have a chance to debate the impact this legislation will have on the environment. We won’t debate the Administration’s attempt to gut our national environmental protection laws by exempting the Department of Defense from the Migratory Bird and Endangered Species Acts and by waiving protections found in the Wilderness Act.

As many of my colleagues have stated, these issues and many others are of such national significance, it’s unconscionable that we aren’t having an open and fair debate on them. This sorry excuse for a Rule provided for by the majority is patently unfair. And it’s patently undemocratic.

These issues are too important to allow the majority to decide once again.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I would like to speak briefly on section 312 which says that an approved Integrated Natural Resource Management Plan (INRMP) that addresses the conservation needs of listed threatened or endangered species obviates the need to designate critical habitat under the Endangered Species Act. I would like to remind my colleagues of congressional intent. and statutory direction when we established INRMPs in the 1997 Amendments to the Sikes Act.

I strongly believe that we need to provide our men and women being sent “in harm’s way” the most thorough and realistic readiness training possible on our military installations. Let me also express my firm belief that military preparedness and sound stewardship of our natural resources, is not mutually exclusive, they are mutually beneficial. Appropriate land and natural resource management of our installations provides not only for sustainable use for military readiness, but for conservation of our natural resources on public lands under military department jurisdiction. This is the underlying philosophy of the amendments I sponsored to the Sikes Act in 1997 that directed the Secretary of Defense to prepare and implement INRMP’s in cooperation with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and respective State fish and wildlife agencies.

Specifically, the Sikes Act directs the Secretary of each military department to prepare and implement an INRMP for each military installation in the United States under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense unless the Secretary determines that the absence of significant natural resources on a particular installation makes preparation of such a plan inappropriate. Section 670a(a)(2) directs that each INRMP prepared “in cooperation” with the Secretary of the Interior, acting through the Director of the Fish and Wildlife Service, and with the head of each appropriate State fish and wildlife agency for the State in which the military installation is located, shall provide for the resulting INRMP for the military installation “shall reflect the mutual agreement of the parties concerning conservation, protection and management of fish and wildlife resources.

I understand that DOD has, in practice, not always involved the other statutory parties in development of an INRMP at an early stage, but instead sought their concurrence to a completed draft. While such a policy might comport with the statutory direction as to “mutual agreement of the parties,” it does not comport with the cooperative and directive. Cooperation of the statutory parties, begun at the earliest stages of development of an INRMP, is the contemplation of the statute. Such cooperation should go far to reconcile potential differences, and I would like to remind the Department of Defense that we expect the process explicitly contemplated in the Sikes Act to be undertaken by the Department. While there are exemplary INRMPs reflecting this sincere level of involvement, the Department needs to re-commit itself to Congress’ direction and direction of the Sikes Act by involving all three parties at the beginning, during development, and during implementation of INRMPs. Consensus building and problem solving throughout the process will most likely facilitate the “mutual agreement” required by the statute of the three parties.

Finally, I would like to express my strong concerns about the evolution of environmental management practices. I’m strongly against INRMPs becoming something like the environmental impact studies that are required today. Today, EIS documents have become a black hole of time, money and bureaucracy. EIS documents were once two-page documents of environmental consequences. Now EIS documents are thousands of pages long, cost millions of dollars and take years to prepare. Even when good faith efforts have been made to address the minutiae of endless environmental issues in the EIS process, the documents are often subject to litigation, being overturned or disregarded. I want to make it clear that INRMPs are not an environmental management tool. INRMPs were not intended to become a continual EIS process, or as a justification for endless studies on environmental stewardship and management.

Proposal for Western Alaska Workforce Development

1. Contact Information—A. Alaska Contact: Wendy Redman, University of Alaska, Box 756000, Fairbanks, Alaska 99775.

3. Description of the organization’s main activities and whether it is a public, private or non-profit entity. The University of Alaska is Alaska’s land grant postsecondary institution and the largest public post-secondary institution in the State of Alaska.

4. A brief description of the proposal: This is a proposal to continue workforce training in an area of Alaska economically dependent on the fishing and seafood industries. This program is to increase the number of fishery workers in Alaska.

5. Project costs: The request is for $2.6 million which is all for training equipment, instructors and student stipends.

6. Federal funding sources: The program did not receive federal funding in FY02.

Given the military’s current operational tempo, it is imperative that we show our appreciation for those who volunteer to go in harm’s way. These men and women pledge to support and defend American democracy, both at home and abroad, often at great personal sacrifice and costs of time. We owe it to them, and to their families, to keep our promise of increased safety and morale in the home and in the workplace. In pursuit of such a goal, this bill authorizes $678.4 million—$17.7 million more than the President’s request—for construction and improvement of 3,447 family housing units and the privatization of over 30,000 units. Privatization authorities, extended in last year’s defense bill, provide our military accelerated opportunities to renovate and build vastly improved family housing developments with private sector capital and I applaud the continuation of this important program. Our committee also included $1.2 billion for construction of 49 new barracks and dormitories in the FY03 authorization and $8.6 million in H.R. 4547, the Cost of War Against Terrorism Authorization Act for an underway on our military construction projects vital to the Services. An ongoing campaign against global terrorism is not an excuse to abandon our campaign against substandard facilities and housing. Funding for military construction must match the rhetoric; otherwise, we will lose the battle for quality people willing to serve. Our people, and their living and working conditions, must continue to be our number one priority.

protect them by building safe, modern facilities

Again, I urge my colleagues to support this begin to blur the distinction between conventional and nuclear weapons and thus increase the likelihood of nuclear use.

Finally, I am concerned that this bill would give the Pentagon’s National Missile Agency exemptions from regulations for controlling and monitoring new weapons programs. Giving the Pentagon this exemption effectively eliminates the checks and balances that are so necessary in weapons development, and especially given the past technical failures and cost overruns in missile defense programs to date, I can’t support a bill that includes this provision.

In short, Mr. Chairman, I don’t question the urgent need to provide for this country’s defense—I just think we need to do it right. This bill doesn’t do it right, and so I can’t support it.

(1) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate; and

(2) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives.

Division A—Department of Defense Authorizations

Title I—Procurement

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations

Sec. 1001. Army.

Funds are hereby authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2003 for procurement for the Army as follows:

(1) $415,000,000 shall be available for advance procurement for Virginia class submarines,

(2) $20,000,000 shall be available for advance procurement for nuclear-powered submarine (SSN) engineered refueling overhaul.

(3) For aircraft, $8,971,555,000.

(4) For missiles, $3,482,639,000.

(5) For special operations, $1,176,864,000.

(6) For procurement, $19,907,730,000.

(7) For research and development, $12,522,755,000.

(8) For R&D, $12,279,494,000.

(9) For other procurement, $6,119,447,000.
(d) Certification.—A certification referred to in subsections (b) and (c) is a certification by the Secretary of the Navy that the prime contractor for the Virginia class submarine program has entered into a binding agreement with the United States to expend from its own funds an amount not less than $355,000,000 for economic order quantity procurement of nuclear and non-nuclear Virginia class submarines beginning in fiscal year 2003.

(e) Multiyear Procurement Authority.—(1) If the terms of an agreement described in subsection (a) are in accordance with the United States and the prime contractor for the Virginia class submarine program include a requirement for the Secretary of the Navy to acquire Virginia class submarines through a multiyear procurement contract, the Secretary of the Navy may, in accordance with section 2306b of title 10, United States Code, enter into a multiyear contract for procurement of Virginia class submarines, beginning with the fiscal year 2003 program year.

(2)(A) In the case of a contract authorized by paragraph (1), a certification under subsection (1)(A) of section 2306b of title 10, United States Code, with respect to that contract may only be submitted if the certification includes an additional certification that each of the conditions specified in subsection (a) of that section has been satisfied with respect to that contract.

(B) Except as provided in paragraph (1), a contract authorized by paragraph (1) may not be entered into unless a contract entered into by the Secretary of Defense may obligate funds authorized by law only after a period of 30 days has elapsed after the date of the transmission of such certification.

(f) Effective Date.—Paragraph (4) of section 2306b(b) of title 10, United States Code, as added by subsection (a), shall not apply with respect to a multiyear contract authorized by law before the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 124. TRANSFER OF TECHNOLOGY ITEMS AND EQUIPMENT IN SUPPORT OF HOME- LEND SECURITY.

(a) In General.—Subchapter III of chapter 148 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

2520. Transfer of technology items and equipment in support of homeland security.

The Secretary of Defense shall enter into an agreement with an independent, nonprofit, technology-oriented entity that has demonstrated the ability to transfer the defense technologies, developed by both the private and public sectors, to aid Federal, State, and local first responders. Under the agreement the entity shall classify technology items and equipment, through coordination between Government agencies and private sector, commercial developers and suppliers of technology, that will enhance public safety and shall—

(1) work in coordination with the Interagency Board for Equipment Standardization and Interoperability;

(2) develop technology items and equipment that meet the standardization requirements established by the Board;

(3) evaluate technology items and equipment that have been identified using the standards developed by the Board and other state-of-the-art technology items and equipment that may benefit first responders;

(4) identify and coordinate among the public and private sectors research efforts applicable to national security and homeland security;

(5) facilitate the transfer of technology items and equipment between public and private sources; and

(6) eliminate redundant research efforts with respect to technologies to be deployed to first responders:

(7) expedite the advancement of high priority projects from research through implementation of initial manufacturing; and

(8) establish an outreach program, in coordination with the Board, with first responders to facilitate awareness of available technology items and equipment to support crisis response.

(b) Deadline for Agreement.—The Secretary of Defense shall enter into the agreement required by section 2520 of title 10, United States Code (as added by subsection (a)) not later than January 15, 2003.

(c) Strategic Plan.—The entity described in section 2520 of such title shall develop a strategic plan to carry out the goals described in such section, which shall include identification of—

(1) the initial technology items and equipment considered for development; and

(2) the program schedule timelines for such technology items and equipment.

(d) Report Required.—Not later than March 15, 2003, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress a report detailing the implementation of the strategies specified in subsection (a) the following, shown for each system referred to in that subsection:

(1) A description of the infrastructure that the Department of Defense has (or is planning) for the system;

(2) A description of the operational requirements document (ORD) for the system;

(3) A description of the physical infrastructure of the Department for training and basing;

(4) A description of the manner in which the Department is interfacing with the industrial base;

(5) A description of the acquisition plan for the system;

(6) Suggestions for Changes in Law.—The Secretary shall also include in the report under subsubsection (a) such suggestions as the Secretary considers appropriate for changes in law that would facilitate the way the Department acquires unmanned aerial vehicles.

SEC. 145. REPORT ON IMPACT OF ARMY AVIATION MODERNIZATION PLAN ON THE ARMY NATIONAL GUARD.

(a) Report by Chief of the National Guard Bureau.—Not later than January 15, 2003, the Chief of the National Guard Bureau shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report on the requirements for Army National Guard aviation. The report shall include the following:

(1) An analysis of the impact of the Army Aviation Modernization Plan on the ability of the Army National Guard to conduct its aviation missions.

(2) The plan under that aviation modernization plan for the transfer of aircraft from the active component of the Army to the Army reserve components, including a timeline for those transfers.

(3) The strategy of the Army, as of January 15, 2003, in carrying out the transfers under the plan referred to in paragraph (2).
May 9, 2002

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE

H2287

(4) An evaluation of the suitability of existing Commercial Off The Shelf (COTS) light-twin engine helicopters for performance of Army National Guard aviation missions.

(b) The Secretary of the Army (Chief of Staff of the Army).—If, before the report under subsection (a) is submitted, the Chief of the National Guard Bureau receives from the Chief of Staff of the Army, the Chief of the National Guard Bureau, all matters to be covered in the report, the Chief of the Bureau shall include those views with the report as submitted under subsection (a).

TITLE II—DEFENSE CONTRACTING, DEVELOPMENT, TEST, AND EVALUATION

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations

SEC. 201. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

Funds are hereby authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2003 for the use of the Department of Defense for research, development, test, and evaluation as follows:

(1) For the Army, $6,833,319,000.

(2) For the Navy, $13,274,540,000.

(3) For the Air Force, $18,803,184,000.

(4) For Defense-wide activities, $17,413,291,000, of which $225,654,000 is authorized for the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation.

SEC. 202. AMOUNT FOR DEFENSE SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY.

(a) Fiscal Year 2003.—Of the amounts authorized to be appropriated by section 201, $10,023,658,000 shall be available for the Defense Science and Technology Program, including basic research, applied research, and advanced technology development.

(b) Basic Research, Applied Research, and Advanced Technology Development—Fixed. Of this section, the term “basic research, applied research, and advanced technology development” means work funded in program elements for defense research and development under the Department of Defense category 6.1, 6.2, or 6.3.

Subtitle B—Program Requirements, Restrictions, and Limitations

SEC. 211. RAH-66 COMANCHE AIRCRAFT PROGRAM.

(a) Limitation.—None of the funds authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2003 for engineering and manufacturing development for the RAH-66 Comanche aircraft program may be obligated until the Secretary of the Army submits to the congressional defense committees a report, prepared in coordination with the Under Secretary of Defense (Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics), containing an accurate estimate of funds required to complete engineering and manufacturing development for that aircraft under the time frame and cost estimate for bringing that aircraft to initial operational capability, as called for in the joint explanatory statement of the committee on conference of the bill S. 1438 of the One Hundred Seventh Congress (at page 525 of House Report 107–333, submitted December 12, 2001).

(b) Limitation on Total Cost of Engineering and Manufacturing Development.—The total amount obligated or expended for engineering and manufacturing development under the RAH-66 Comanche aircraft program may not exceed $32 billion.

(c) Adjustment of Limitation Amounts.—(1) Subject to paragraph (2), the Secretary of the Army shall adjust the amount of the limitation set forth in subsection (b) by the following amounts:

(A) The amounts of increases or decreases in costs attributable to compliance with changes in Federal regulations or local laws enacted after September 30, 2002.

(B) The amounts of increases or decreases in costs attributable to economic inflation after September 30, 2002.

(2) Before making any adjustment under paragraph (1) in an amount greater than $20,000,000, the Secretary of the Army shall submit to the congressional defense committees notice in writing of the proposed increase.

(d) Annual DOD Inspector General Review.—(1) Not later than March 1 of each year, the Department of Defense Inspector General shall review the RAH-66 Comanche aircraft program and submit to Congress a report on the results of the review.

(2) The report submitted on the program each year shall include the following:

(A) The plan for engineering and manufacturing development under the program is meeting the goals established for engineering and manufacturing development under the program, including performance, cost, and schedule goals.

(B) The status of modifications expected to have a significant effect on cost, schedule, or performance goals.

(C) The plan for engineering and manufacturing development (leading to production) under the program for the fiscal year that begins in the following year.

(D) A conclusion regarding whether the plan referred to in subparagraph (A) is consistent with the limitation in subsection (a).

(E) A conclusion regarding whether engineering and manufacturing development (leading to production) under the program is likely to be completed at a total cost not in excess of the amount specified in section 211.

(3) No report is required under this subsection after the RAH-66 aircraft has completed engineering and manufacturing development.

(e) Limitation on Obligation of Funds.—Of the total amount obligated or expended for the RAH-66 Comanche aircraft program for research, development, test, and evaluation for a fiscal year, not more than 90 percent of that amount may be obligated until the Secretary of Defense Inspector General submits to Congress the report required to be submitted in that fiscal year under paragraph (1).

SEC. 212. EXTENSION OF REQUIREMENT RELATING TO MANAGEMENT RESPONSIBILITY FOR NAVAL MINE COUNTERMEASURES PROGRAMS.

SEC. 213. EXTENSION OF AUTHORITY TO CARRY OUT PILOT PROGRAM FOR REVITALIZING THE LABORATORIES AND TEST AND EVALUATION CENTERS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE.

(1) in subsection (a)(1), by inserting before the period at the end the following: “; and to demonstrate the performance of the research, development, test, and evaluation functions of the Department of Defense”; and

(2) in subsection (a)(4), by striking “for a period of 2 years” and inserting “for the period at the end and inserting “until March 1, 2008”.

(3) in subsection (b)(2), by striking “Promptly after” and all that follows through “shall contain” and inserting “Not later than December 31 of each year, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the activities of the pilot program during the preceding fiscal year. Each such report shall contain, for each laboratory or center in the pilot program, “; and

(4) by adding at the end of subsection (b) the following paragraph:

“(2) Not later than March 1, 2007, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the committees referred to in paragraph (2) the Secretary’s recommendation to the extent, the authority to carry out the pilot program should be extended.”.

SEC. 214. REvised REQUIREMENTS FOR PLAN FOR MANUFACTURING TECHNOLOGY PROGRAM.

(a) Streamlined Contents of Plan.—Subsection (e) of section 2521 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by striking “prepare a five-year plan” in paragraph (1) and all that follows through the end of paragraph (2) and inserting the following: “prepare and maintain a five-year plan for the plan.”

(b) The plan shall establish the following:

(A) The overall manufacturing technology objectives, milestones, priorities, and investment strategy for the program.

(B) The specific objectives of, and funding for the program by, each military department and each Defense Agency participating in the program.

(c) Biennial Report.—Such subsection is further amended in paragraph (3)—

(1) by striking “annually” and inserting “biennially”;

(2) by striking “for a fiscal year” and inserting “for each even-numbered fiscal year”.

SEC. 215. TECHNOLOGY TRANSITION INITIATIVE.

(a) Establishment and Conduct.—Chapter 139 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 2359 the following new section:

“§2359a. Technology Transition Initiative.

(1) Initiative Required.—The Secretary of Defense, acting through the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics, shall carry out an initiative, to be known as the Technology Transition Initiative (hereinafter in this section referred to as the ‘Initiative’), to facilitate the rapid transition of new technologies from science and technology programs of the Department of Defense into acquisition programs of the Department for the production of such technologies.

(2) Objectives.—The Initiative shall have the following objectives:

(I) To accelerate the introduction of new technologies into appropriate acquisition programs.

(II) To successfully demonstrate new technologies in relevant environments.

(III) To ensure that new technologies are sufficiently mature for production.

(IV) Management of Initiative.—(1) The Initiative shall be managed by a senior official in the Office of the Secretary of Defense designated by the Secretary of Defense (herein referred to as the ‘Manager’). In managing the Initiative, the Manager shall report directly to the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics.

(2) The Secretary shall establish a board of directors (hereinafter in this section referred to as the ‘Board’), composed of the acquisition executive of each military department, the members of the Joint Requirements Oversight Council, and the commander of the Joint Forces Command. The Board shall assist the Manager in managing the Initiative.

(3) The Secretary shall establish, under the auspices of the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics, a panel of qualified scientific and engineering experts. The panel shall advise the Under Secretary on matters relating to the Initiative.

(c) Duties of Manager.—The Manager shall have the following duties:

(1) To identify, in consultation with the Board, promising technologies that have been demonstrated in science and technology programs of the Department.

(2) To identify potential sponsors in the Department to undertake the transition of such technologies into production.

(3) To work with the science and technology community and the acquisition community to develop memorandum of agreement, joint funding, and other arrangements and agreements to provide for the transition of such technologies into production.”
“(4) Provide funding support for projects selected under subsection (e).

“(e) JOINTLY FUNDED PROJECTS.—(1) The acquisition executive of each military department shall manage jointly funded projects at that military department to recommend for funding support under the Initiative and shall submit to the Manager a list of such recommended projects, ranked by priority. Such executive shall identify such projects, and establish priorities among such projects, using a competitive process, on the basis of the greatest potential benefits in terms of improved performance, affordability, manufacturability, or operational capability, provided that such projects are identified by the Secretary of that military department.

“(2) The Manager, in consultation with the Board and other appropriate entities, shall recommend to the Secretary which projects are funded for each fiscal year in an amount determined by mutual agreement between the Manager and the acquisition executive of the military department concerned, but not less than 50 percent of the total cost of the project.

“(3) The acquisition executive of the military department concerned shall manage each project approved under paragraph (2) in a manner consistent with the requirements of this section and the appropriation under the section required by section 2359b of title 10, United States Code.

“(d) FUNDING.—(1) None of the funds appropriated for fiscal year 2003 for procurement of missiles for the Army may be obligated for the Patriot Advanced Capability (PAC-3) missile program until the Secretary of Defense has submitted to the Senate Armed Services Committee and the House Armed Services Committee the following:

“(A) The criteria for the transfer of responsibility for a missile defense program from the Director of the Missile Defense Agency to the Secretary of a military department, as required by section 224(b)(2) of title 10, United States Code.

“(B) The criteria for the transfer of responsibility for a missile defense program from the Director to the Secretary of the Army required by section 224(c) of title 10, United States Code.

“(2) Funds provided under paragraph (1) may be used only for review and evaluation of challenge proposals, and not for implementation of challenge proposals.

Subtitle C—Ballistic Missile Defense

SEC. 231. LIMITATION ON OBLIGATION OF FUNDS FOR PROCUREMENT OF PATRIOT (PAC-3) MISSELS PENDING SUBMISSION OF REQUIRED CERTIFICATION.

None of the funds appropriated for fiscal year 2003 for procurement of missiles for the Army may be obligated for the Patriot Advanced Capability (PAC-3) missile program until the Secretary of Defense has submitted to the Senate Armed Services Committee and the House Armed Services Committee the following:

“(1) The criteria for the transfer of responsibility for a missile defense program from the Director of the Missile Defense Agency to the Secretary of a military department, as required by section 224(b)(2) of title 10, United States Code.

“(2) The criteria for the transfer of responsibility for a missile defense program from the Director to the Secretary of the Army required by section 224(c) of title 10, United States Code.

SEC. 232. RESPONSIBILITY OF MISSILE DEFENSE AGENCY FOR RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST, AND EVALUATION RELATED TO SYSTEM IMPROVEMENTS OF PROGRAMS TRANSFERRED TO MILITARY DEPARTMENTS.

“(2) by striking “is”; and

“(3) by striking “roles and responsibilities” and all that follows through the period at the end and inserting “responsibility for research, development, test, and evaluation, and system improvements for that program remains with the Director.”.

SEC. 233. AMENDMENTS TO REFLECT CHANGE IN NAME OF BALLISTIC MISSILE DEFENSE ORGANIZATION TO MISSILE DEFENSE AGENCY.

(a) TITLE 10, UNITED STATES CODE.—Title 10, United States Code, is amended as follows:

“(1) Section 203, 223, and 224 are each amended by striking “Ballistic Missile Defense Organization” each place it appears and inserting “Missile Defense Agency”.

“(2) The heading of section 203 is amended to read as follows:

“203. Director of Missile Defense Agency.”.

(b) The item relating to such section in the table of sections at the beginning of subchapter II of chapter 8 is amended to read as follows:

“203. Director of Missile Defense Agency.”.
"SEC. 312. SINGLE POINT OF CONTACT FOR POLICY AND BUDGETING ISSUES REGARDING UNEXPLODED ORDNANCE, DISCARDED MILITARY MUNITIONS, AND MUNITIONS CONSTITUENTS."

Section 2701 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(a) UXO PROGRAM MANAGER.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall establish a program manager who shall serve as the single point of contact in the Department of Defense for policy and budgeting issues involving the characterization, remediation, and management of unexploded ordnance and related risks with respect to unexploded ordnance, discarded military munitions, and munitions constituents at defense sites (as such terms are defined in section 2701 of this title) that pose a threat to human health or safety.

(2) The Secretary of Defense may delegate this authority to the Secretary of a military department, who may delegate the authority to the Under Secretary of that military department. The authority may not be further delegated.

(3) The program manager shall establish an independent advisory and review panel that may include representatives of the National Academy of Sciences, military departments, and organizations with expertise regarding unexploded ordnance, discarded military munitions, or munitions constituents, the Environmental Protection Agency, States (as defined in section 2701 of this title), and tribal governments. If established, the panel would report annually to Congress on progress made by the Department of Defense to address unexploded ordnance, discarded military munitions, or munitions constituents at defense sites and make such recommendations as the panel considered appropriate.

Subtitle C—Commissaries and Nonappropriated Fund Instrumentalities

SEC. 321. AUTHORITY FOR EACH MILITARY DEPARTMENT TO PROVIDE BASE OPERATING SUPPORT TO FISHER HOUSES. Section 2493(f) of title 10, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(1) BASE OPERATING SUPPORT.—The Secretary of a military department may provide base operating support for Fisher Houses associated with health care facilities of that military department.

SEC. 322. USE OF COMMISSARY STORES AND MWR RETAIL FACILITIES BY MEMBERS OF NATIONAL GUARD SERVING IN NATIONAL EMERGENCY. (a) ADDITIONAL BASE FOR AUTHORIZED USE.—Section 1063a of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by inserting "or national emergency" after "federally declared disaster";

(2) in subsection (b), by inserting the following new paragraph:

"(3) NATIONAL EMERGENCY.—The term 'national emergency' means a national emergency declared by the President or Congress.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENTS.—(1) The heading of such section is amended to read as follows:

"1063a. Use of commissary stores and MWR retail facilities: members of National Guard serving in federally declared disaster or national emergency."

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of chapter 54 of title 10 is amended by inserting the following new item:

"1063a. Use of commissary stores and MWR retail facilities: members of National Guard serving in federally declared disaster or national emergency."

SEC. 323. UNIFORM FUNDING AND MANAGEMENT OF MORALE, WELFARE, AND RECREATION PROGRAMS. (a) In Title 10, United States Code, in section 2701 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:
§2494. Uniform funding and management of morale, welfare, and recreation programs

(a) AUTHORITY FOR UNIFORM FUNDING AND MANAGEMENT.—Under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Defense, funds appropriated to the Department of Defense and available for morale, welfare, and recreation programs may be treated as nonappropriated funds and expended in accordance with laws applicable to the expenditures of appropriated funds. When made available for morale, welfare, and recreation programs under such regulations, appropriated funds shall be considered to be nonappropriated to all purposes and shall remain available until expended.

(b) CONDITIONS ON AVAILABLE.—Funds appropriated to the Department of Defense may be made available to support a morale, welfare, or recreation program only if the program is authorized to receive appropriated fund support and over in amounts the program is authorized to receive.

(c) CONVERSION OF EMPLOYMENT POSITIONS.—(1) The Secretary of Defense may identify positions of employees in morale, welfare, and recreation programs within the Department of Defense who are paid with appropriated funds whose status may be converted to the status of an employee paid with appropriated funds to the status of an employee of a nonappropriated fund instrumentality.

(2) The status of an employee in a position identified by paragraph (1) may, with the consent of the employee, be converted to the status of an employee of a nonappropriated fund instrumentality. An employee who does not consent to the conversion may not be removed from the position because of the failure to provide such consent.

(3) The conversion of an employee from the status of an employee paid with appropriated funds to the status of an employee of a nonappropriated fund instrumentality shall be without a break in service for the concerned employee. The conversion shall not entitle an employee to severance pay, back pay or separation pay under subchapter IX of chapter 55 of title 5.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) The term ‘agency’ means an agency in the definition of that term in section 105 of title 5.

(2) The term ‘position’ means a position in the definition of that term in section 107 of title 5.

SEC. 331. NOTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS IN CONNECTION WITH REQUIRED STUDIES FOR CONVERSION OF COMMERCIAL OR INDUSTRIAL TYPE FUNCTIONS TO CONTRACTOR PERFORMANCE.

Subsection (c) of section 2661 of title 10, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

‘‘(c) SUBMISSION OF ANALYSIS RESULTS.—(1) Upon the completion of an analysis of a commercial or industrial type function described in subsection (a) for possible change to performance by a private sector, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress a report containing the results of the analysis, including the results of the examinations required by subsection (b)(3).

(2) The report shall also contain the following:

(A) The date when the analysis of the function was commenced.

(B) The Secretary’s certification that the Government is paying the cost of performance of the function by Department of Defense civilian employees is based on an estimate of the most cost effective manner for performance of the function by Department of Defense civilian employees.

(C) The number of Department of Defense civilian employees who were performing the function as of the date when the analysis was commenced and the number of such employees whose employment was or will be terminated or otherwise affected by changing to performance of the function by the private sector is the primary consideration of the most efficient organization of the function.

(D) The Secretary’s certification that the factors considered in the examinations performed under subsection (b)(3) were considered in the making of the decision regarding changing to performance of the function by the private sector or retaining performance in the most efficient organization of the function.

(E) A statement of the potential economic effect of implementing the decision regarding changing to performance of the function by the private sector or retaining performance in the most efficient organization of the function.

(F) A schedule for completing the change to performance of the function by the private sector or implementing the most efficient organization of the function.

(G) In the case of a commercial or industrial type function performed at a Center of Industrial and Technical Excellence designated under section 2474(a) of this title or an Army ammunition plant, a description of the effect that the manner of performance of the function, and administration of the resulting contract if any, will have on the overhead costs of the center or ammunition plant, as the case may be.

(H) The Secretary’s certification that the entire analysis is available for examination.

(2) A decision is made to change the commercial or industrial type function that was the subject of the analysis to performance by the private sector, the change of the function to contractor performance may not begin until after the submission of the report required by paragraph (1).

(I) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), in the case of a commercial or industrial type function performed at a Center of Industrial and Technical Excellence designated under section 2474(a) of this title or an Army ammunition plant, the change of the function to contractor performance may not begin until at least 90 days after the submission of the report.’’

(a) REQUIREMENT FOR STAFFING AND FUNDING AT LEVELS REQUIRED FOR PERFORMANCE OF FULL RANGE OF MISSIONS.—Subsection (a) of section 1501 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

‘‘(G)(A) The Secretary of Defense shall ensure that the office is provided sufficient military and civilian personnel levels, and sufficient funds, to enable the office to perform its complete range of missions. The Secretary shall ensure that Department of Defense programming, planning, and budgeting procedures are structured so as to ensure compliance with the preceding sentence for each fiscal year.

‘‘(B) For any fiscal year, the number of military and civilian personnel assigned or detailed to the office may not be less than the number requested in the President’s budget for fiscal year 2003, unless a level below such number is expressly required by law.’’.

(b) NAME OF OFFICE.—Such subsection is further amended by inserting after the first sentence of paragraph (1) the following new sentence: ‘‘Such office shall be known as the Defense Prisoner of War/Missing Personnel Office.’’.

SEC. 552. THREE-YEAR FREEZE ON REDUCTIONS OF PERSONNEL OF AGENCIES RESPONSIBLE FOR RETENTION AND CORRECTION OF MILITARY RECORDS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 79 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new chapter:

‘‘CHAPTER 79A—PERSONNEL OFFICE

‘‘§ 1559. Personnel limitation

‘‘(a) LIMITATION.—During fiscal years 2003, 2004, and 2005, the Secretary of a military department may not carry out any reduction in the number of military and civilian personnel assigned to duty with the service review agency for that military department below the baseline number for that agency until—

‘‘(1) the Secretary submits to Congress a report that—

‘‘(A) describes the reduction proposed to be made;

‘‘(B) provides the Secretary’s rationale for that reduction; and

‘‘(C) specifies the number of such personnel that would be assigned to duty with that agency after the reduction;

‘‘(b) BASELINE NUMBER.—The baseline number for a service review agency under this section is—

‘‘(1) for purposes of the first report with respect to a service review agency under this section, the number of military and civilian personnel assigned to duty with that agency as of January 1, 2003;

‘‘(2) for purposes of any subsequent report with respect to a service review agency under this section, the number of such personnel specified in the most recent report with respect to that agency under this section.

(c) SERVICE REVIEW AGENCY DEFINED.—In this section, the term ‘service review agency’ means—

(1) with respect to the Department of the Army, the Army Review Boards Agency;

(2) with respect to the Department of the Navy, the Board for Correction of Naval Records; and

(3) with respect to the Department of the Air Force, the Air Force Review Boards Agency.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

(1) by striking “To provide a” after “Support” — and inserting “(1) To support a”;

(2) by redesigning paragraph (1) as subparagraph (A) and amending such subparagraph, as so redesignated, to read as follows:

(A) a member of the armed forces not in a retired status or an employee of the United States, either temporarily (for reimbursement for transportation) and expenses or the daily stipend prescribed under paragraph (2);'';

(3) by redesignating paragraph (2) as subparagraph (B) and in that subparagraph:

(A) by striking “Material, equipment, and training for” and inserting “For”;

(B) by inserting before the period at the end “and for members of the armed forces in a retired status, materiel, equipment, and training”;

(4) by redesigning paragraph (3) as subparagraph (C) and in that subparagraph:

(A) by striking “Articles of clothing for” and inserting “For”;

(B) by inserting “, articles of clothing” after “subsection (b)(2)”; and

(5) by adding at the end the following new paragraphs:

“(2) The Secretary of Defense shall prescribe annually a flat rate daily stipend for purposes of paragraph (1)(A). Such stipend shall be set at a rate so as to encompass typical costs for transportation and other miscellaneous expenses for personal household details who are members of the armed forces in a retired status and other persons are not members of the armed forces or employees of the United States.

(3) An order to make a change of permanent station outside the continental United States in a case in which the laws, regulations, or other restrictions imposed by the foreign country or by the United States either—

(1) require extensive modification of the vehicle as a condition to entry.

(2) would require extensive modification of the vehicle as a condition to entry.

(3) would require extensive modification of the vehicle as a condition to entry.

(4) require extensive modification of the vehicle as a condition to entry.

(5) require extensive modification of the vehicle as a condition to entry.

(6) require extensive modification of the vehicle as a condition to entry.

(7) Assignments in nontraditional fields.

SEC. 554. AUTHORITY FOR USE OF VOLUNTEERS AS PROCTORS FOR ADMINISTRATION OF ARMY, NAVY, AND MARINE CORPS V ocational Aptitude Battery Test.

Section 158(a)(1) of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(6) Voluntary services as a proctor for administration to secondary school students of the test known as the ‘Army Services Vocational Aptitude Battery’.”

SEC. 555. ANNUAL REPORT ON STATUS OF FEMA LE MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 23 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“§488. Status of female members of the armed forces.

(a) ANNUAL REPORT.—The Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress an annual report on the status of female members of the armed forces. Information in the report shall be shown for the Department of Defense as a whole and separately for each of the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps.

(b) MANDATORY INCLUSION.—Each report under subsection (a) shall include, at a minimum, the following information with respect to female members:

(1) Access to health care.

(2) Positions open.

(3) Assignment policies.

(4) Joint spouse assignments.

(5) Deployment availability rates.

(6) Promotion and retention rates.

(7) Assignments in nontraditional fields.

(8) Assignments to command positions.

(9) Selection for service schools.

(10) Sexual harassment.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

“§488. Status of female members of the armed forces: annual report.”

Subtitle G—Benefits

SEC. 561. VOLUNTARY LEAVE SHARING PROGRAM FOR MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 40 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“§709. Voluntary transfers of leave.

(a) PROGRAM.—The Secretary concerned shall, by regulation, establish a program under which leave accrued by a member of an armed force may be transferred to another member of the same armed force who requires additional leave because of a qualifying emergency. Any such transfer of leave may be made only upon the voluntary written application of the member whose leave is to be transferred.

(b) APPROVAL OF COMMANDING OFFICER REQUIRED.—Any transfer of leave under a program established under this section may take effect only after the approval of the commanding officer of the leave donor and the leave recipient.

(c) QUALIFYING EMERGENCY.—In this section, the term ‘qualifying emergency’, with respect to a member of the armed forces, means a circumstance that—

(1) is likely to require the prolonged absence of the member from duty; and

(2) is due to—

(A) a medical condition of a member of the immediate family;

(B) any other hardship that the Secretary concerned determines appropriate for purposes of this section.

(d) MILITARY DEPARTMENT REGULATIONS.—Regulations prescribed under this section by the Secretaries of the military department shall be as uniform as practicable and shall be subject to approval by the Secretary of Defense.”

(b) DEADLINE FOR IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS.—Regulations implementing section 709 of title 10, United States Code, as added by subsection (a), shall be prescribed not later than six months after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 562. ENHANCED FLEXIBILITY IN MEDICAL LOAN REPAYMENT PROGRAM.

(a) ELIGIBLE PERSONS.—Subsection (d) of section 2173 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by striking “Participants” and all that follows through “students” and inserting “Students”;

(b) LOAN REPAYMENT AMOUNTS.—Subsection (e)(2) of such section is amended by striking the last sentence.

SEC. 563. EXPANSION OF OVERSEAS TOUR EXTENSIONS.

Section 705(b)(2) of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking “recuperative” and inserting “recuperative”;

(2) by inserting before the period at the end the following: ‘‘; or to an alternate location at the end the following new paragraph:

(‘‘d)(1) When a member receives a vehicle storage qualifying order, the member may elect to have a motor vehicle described in subsection (a) stored at the expense of the United States at a location approved by the Secretary concerned. In the case of a vehicle storage qualifying order that is to make a change of permanent station, such storage is in lieu of transportation authorized by subsection (a)."

(2) In this subsection, the term ‘vehicle storage qualifying order’ means any of the following:

(A) An order to make a change of permanent station to a foreign country in a case in which the laws, regulations, or other restrictions imposed by the foreign country or by the United States either—

(1) require extensive modification of the vehicle as a condition to entry.

(B) An order to make a change of permanent station to a nonforeign area outside the continental United States in a case in which the laws, regulations, or other restrictions imposed by that area or by the United States either—

(1) preclude entry of a motor vehicle described in subsection (a) into that area; or

(2) would require extensive modification of the vehicle as a condition to entry.

(C) An order under which a member is transferred or assigned in connection with a contingency operation duty to a location other than the permanent station of the member for a period of more than 30 consecutive days but which is not considered a change of permanent station.

(b) NONFOREIGN AREA OUTSIDE THE CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES DEFINED.—Subsection (h) of such section is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

(2) The term ‘nonforeign area outside the continental United States’ means any of the following: the States of Alaska and Hawaii, the Commonwealths of Puerto Rico and the Northern Mariana Islands, and any possession of the United States.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section apply to orders to make a change of permanent station to a nonforeign area outside the continental United States (as such term is defined in subsection (h)(3) of section 2634 of title 10, United States Code, as added by subsection (b)) that are issued on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Subtitle H—Military Justice Matters

SEC. 571. RIGHT OF CONVICTED ACCUSED TO REQUEST SENTENCING BY MILITARY JUDGE.

(a) SENTENCING BY JUDGE.—Chapter 47 of title 10, United States Code (the Uniform Code of Military Justice), is amended by adding after section 852 (article 52) the following new section:

“§852a. Art. 52a. Right of accused to request sentencing by military judge rather than by members.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Upon the accused of an offense by a court-martial composed of a military judge and members, the sentence shall be tried before and adjudged by the military judge rather than the members if, after the findings are announced and before evidence in the sentencing proceeding is introduced, the accused, knowing the identity of the military judge and after consultation with defense counsel, requests orally on the record or in writing that the sentence be tried before and adjudged by the military judge rather than the members.

“(b) This section shall not apply with respect to an offense for which the death penalty may be adjudged unless the case has been previously referred to trial as a noncapital case.”.

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of subchapter VII of such chapter is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 852 (article 52) the following new item:

“852a. 52a. Right of accused to request sentencing by military judge rather than by members.”.

SEC. 572. REPORT ON DESIRABILITY AND FEASIBILITY OF CONSOLIDATING SEPARATE COURSES OF BASIC INSTRUCTION FOR JUDGE ADVOCATES.

Not later than February 1, 2003, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives a report on the desirability and feasibility of consolidating the separate Army, Navy, and Air Force courses of basic instruction for judge advocates into a single course to be conducted at a single location. The report shall include—

(1) an assessment of the advantages and disadvantages of such a consolidation;

(2) a recommendation as to whether such a consolidation is desirable and feasible; and

(3) any proposal for legislative action that the Secretary considers appropriate for carrying out such a consolidation.

TITLE VI—COMPENSATION AND OTHER PERSONNEL BENEFITS

Subtitle A—Pay and Allowances

SEC. 601. INCREASE IN BASIC PAY FOR FISCAL YEAR 2003.

(a) WAIVER OF SECTION 1009 ADJUSTMENT.—

The adjustment to become effective during fiscal year 2003 required by section 1009 of title 37, United States Code, in the rates of monthly basic pay authorized members of the unified services shall not be made.

(b) INCREASE IN BASIC PAY.—Effective on January 1, 2003, the rates of monthly basic pay for members of the unified services within each pay grade are as follows:

Subtitle D—Retired Pay and Survivors Benefits

SEC. 641. PHASE-IN OF ALL CONCURRENT RECEIPT OF MILITARY RETIRED PAY AND VETERANS DISABILITY COMPENSATION.

“(a) PAYMENT OF BOTH RETIRED PAY AND COMPENSATION.—Subject to subsection (b), a member or former member of the uniformed services who is entitled for any month to retired pay and who is also entitled for that month to veterans’ disability compensation for a qualifying service-connected disability is entitled to receive the retired pay and compensation for that month as follows:

“(1) A payment of the amount of retired pay which is reduced by 20 percent to reflect the effects of the disability.

“(2) A payment of the amount of compensation which is reduced by 20 percent to reflect the effects of the disability.

“(b) SPECIAL RULES FOR CHAPTER 61 DISABILITY RETIREES.—(1) CAREER RETIREES.—The retired pay of a member retired under chapter 61 of this title who has served on active duty for more than 20 years is reduced.

“(2) THE AMOUNT OF RETIRED PAY REDUCED UNDER SUBSECTION (A).—The amount of retired pay reduced under this subsection shall be computed as follows:

“(A) THE AMOUNT OF EACH INDIVIDUAL RETIRED PAYMENT.—The amount of each individual retired payment reduced under this subsection is computed by subtracting the amount of compensation received by the retiree from the amount of retired pay and then subtracting 20 percent of the result so computed to reflect the effects of the disability.

“(3) THE LIMITATION ON TOTAL RETIRED PAY.—The amount of retired pay reduced under this subsection shall not exceed the amount of compensation received by the retiree, but the amount of compensation received by the retiree shall not exceed the amount of retired pay reduced under this subsection.

“(4) THE LIMITATION ON TOTAL COMPENSATION.—The amount of compensation received by the retiree shall not exceed the amount of retired pay reduced under this subsection, but the amount of compensation received by the retiree shall not exceed the amount of retired pay reduced under this subsection.

“(b) APPLICABLE PERIOD.—The reduced retired pay and compensation received under this subsection shall be applicable for the period of time during the month in which the receipt of the compensation is effective.
H2300

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE
May 9, 2002

only to the extent that the amount of the member's retired pay under chapter 61 of this title exceeds the amount of retired pay to which the member would have been entitled under any other provision of law based upon the member's service in the uniformed services if the member had not been retired under chapter 61 of this title.

(2) DISABILITY RETIREE WITH LESS THAN 20 YEARS OF SERVICE.—Subsection (a) does not apply to a member retired under chapter 61 of this title with less than 20 years of service otherwise entitled to retired pay determined under section 1405 of this title at the time of the member's retirement.

(c) PHASE-IN OF FULL CONCURRENT RECEIPT.—For the years 2004 through 2006, retired pay payable to a qualified retiree shall be determined as follows:

(1) FISCAL YEAR 2004.—For a month during fiscal year 2004, the amount of retired pay payable to a qualified retiree is the amount (if any) of retired pay in excess of the current baseline offset plus the following:

(A) the amount determined under paragraph (2) for that qualified retiree; and

(B) 23 percent of the difference between (i) the current baseline offset, and (ii) the amount specified in paragraph (1) for that member's disability.

(2) FISCAL YEAR 2005.—For a month during fiscal year 2005, the amount of retired pay payable to a qualified retiree is the sum of—

(A) the amount determined under paragraph (2) for that qualified retiree; and

(B) 30 percent of the difference between (i) the current baseline offset, and (ii) the amount determined under paragraph (2) for that qualified retiree.

(3) FISCAL YEAR 2006.—For a month during fiscal year 2006, the amount of retired pay payable to a qualified retiree is the sum of—

(A) the amount determined under paragraph (3) for that qualified retiree; and

(B) 64 percent of the difference between (i) the current baseline offset, and (ii) the amount determined under paragraph (3) for that qualified retiree.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) ‘‘ACII:’’—The term ‘‘ACII’’ means the mean given the term ‘‘compensation’’ in section 101(13) of title 38.

(2) ‘‘SERVICE-CONNECTED DISABILITY’’—The term ‘‘service-connected disability’’ means the mean given the term ‘‘service-connected disability’’ in section 101(16) of title 38.

(3) ‘‘QUALIFYING SERVICE-CONNECTED DISABILITY’’—The term ‘‘qualifying service-connected disability’’ means a service-connected disability or combination of service-connected disabilities that is rated at not less than 60 percent disabling under chapter 11 of title 38.

(4) ‘‘DISABILITY RATED AS TOTAL’’—The term ‘‘disability rated as total’’ means—

(A) a disability, or combination of disabilities, that is rated as total under the standard schedule of rating disabilities in use by the Department of Veterans Affairs; or

(B) a disability, or combination of disabilities, for which the scheduled rating is less than total but for which a rating of total is assigned by reason of inability of the disabled person to engage in any substantially gainful occupation as a result of service-connected disabilities.

(g) CURRENT BASELINE OFFSET.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘‘current baseline offset’’ for any qualified retiree means the amount for any month that is the lesser of—

(i) the amount of the applicable monthly retired pay of the qualified retiree for that month; and

(ii) the amount of monthly veterans' disability compensation to which the qualified retiree is entitled for that month.

(B) APPLICABLE RETIRED PAY.—In subparagraph (A), the term ‘‘applicable retired pay’’ for a qualified retiree means the amount of monthly retired pay to which the qualified retiree is entitled, determined without regard to this section or sections 5304 and 5305 of title 38, except that in the case of such a retiree who was retired under chapter 61 of this title, such amount is the amount of retired pay to which the member would have been entitled if any earlier repeal or revocation of law based upon the member’s service in the uniformed services if the member had not been retired under chapter 61 of this title.

(2) FISCAL YEAR 2006.—For a month during fiscal year 2006, the amount of retired pay payable to a qualified retiree is the amount (if any) of retired pay in excess of the current baseline offset plus the following:

(A) the amount determined under paragraph (1) for any qualified retiree; and

(B) 71 percent of the difference between (i) the amount of the qualifying service-connected disability rated as total, $500, and

(ii) the amount of monthly veterans' disability compensation to which the qualified retiree is entitled for that month.

(C) PAYMENT OF INCREASED RETIRED PAY COSTS DUE TO CONCURRENT RECEIPT.—(1) Section 1465(b) of such title is amended—

(A) in paragraph (1), by inserting before subsection (b) the following:

‘‘(b) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—The table of sections at the beginning of chapter 71 of such title is amended—

(1) by striking the item relating to section 7113; and

(2) by striking the item relating to section 7141 and inserting the following:

‘‘7114. Members eligible for retired pay who have service-connected disabilities rated at 60 percent or higher: current payment of retired pay and veterans’ disability compensation.‘’

‘‘(B) a disability, or combination of disabilities, for which the scheduled rating is less than total but for which a rating of total is assigned by reason of inability of the disabled person to engage in any substantially gainful occupation as a result of service-connected disabilities.

‘‘(C) by inserting after paragraph (3) the following:

‘‘(4) Whenever the Secretary carries out an action in connection with the provision of any increased compensation to the Fund by reason of section 1414 of this title, the Secretary shall include as part of such valuation under paragraph (1), the actuarial valuation under paragraph (1), the total amount of Department of Defense contributions to be made to the Fund during that fiscal year under section 1466(a) of such title, except that for purposes of this paragraph the total amount of Department of Defense contributions required by subparagraphs (A) and (B) of that paragraph, shall use the single level percentages for the fiscal year under section 1466(b)(2)(D) of this title. That amount shall be determined in the same manner as the determination under paragraph (1) of the total amount of Department of Defense contributions to be made to the Fund during that fiscal year under section 1466(a) of such title, except that for purposes of this paragraph the total amount of Department of Defense contributions required by subparagraphs (A) and (B) of that paragraph, shall use the single level percentages determined under subsection (c)(4), rather than those determined under subsection (c)(1).’’

‘‘(2) Section 1465(c) of such title is amended—

(A) in paragraph (1), by striking the word ‘‘Schedule’’ and inserting the word ‘‘paragraph’’; and

(B) by inserting after paragraph (1) the following:—

‘‘(2) in subparagraph (A), by inserting before the semicolon at the end the following: ‘‘, to be determined without regard to section 1414 of this title’’;

‘‘(ii) in subparagraph (B), by inserting before the period at the end the following: ‘‘, to be determined without regard to section 1414 of this title’’;

‘‘(iii) in the sentence following subparagraph (B), by striking ‘‘subsection (b)’’ and inserting ‘‘subsection (b)(1)’’;

‘‘(4) When the Secretary carries out an actuarial valuation under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall include as part of such valuation the following:—

‘‘(A) A determination of a single level percentage determined in the same manner as applies under subparagraph (A) of paragraph (1), but based only upon the provisions of section 1414 of this title.

‘‘(B) A determination of a single level percentage determined in the same manner as applies under subparagraph (A) of paragraph (1), but based only upon the provisions of section 1414 of this title.

‘‘The table of sections at the beginning of chapter 71 of such title is amended—

(1) by striking the item relating to section 7113; and

(2) by striking the item relating to section 7141 and inserting the following:—

‘‘(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply with respect to retired pay payable for months after September 2002.

(a) REDUCTION IN REQUIREMENT FOR YEARS OF RESERVE COMPONENT SERVICE BEFORE RETIRED PAY ELIGIBILITY.—Section 1465(c) of title 10, United States Code, is amended by striking ‘‘eight years’’ and inserting ‘‘six years’’.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall take effect on October 1, 2002.

SEC. 643. ELIMINATION OF POSSIBLE INVERSION IN RETIRED PAY FORMULA FOR ADJUSTMENT FOR INITIAL COLA COM- PUTATION.

(a) ELIMINATION OF POSSIBLE COLA IN- VERSION.—Section 1460a of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsections (c)(1), (d), and (e), by inserting ‘‘but subject to subsection (f)(2)’’ after ‘‘Notwithstanding subsection’’;

(2) in subsection (c)(2), by inserting ‘‘subject to subsection (f)(2) as applied to other members whose retired pay is based on the current rates of basic pay in the most recent adjustment under this section’’ after ‘‘shall be increased’’; and

(3) in subsection (f)—

(A) by designating the text after the subsection heading as paragraph (1), indenting two text units, and inserting ‘‘PREVENTION OF RETIRED PAY INVERSIONS.—before ‘‘Notwithstanding’’; and

(B) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

‘‘(2) PREVENTION OF COLA INVERSION.—The percentage of the first adjustment under this section in the retired pay of any person, as de- termined under subsection (c)(1), (c)(2), (d), (e), or (f), may not exceed the percentage increase in retired pay determined under subsection (b)(2) that is effective on the same date as the effective date of such first adjustment.’’

(b) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—Such section is further amended—

(1) in subsection (d), by inserting ‘‘or or on or after August 1, 1986, if the member or former member did not elect to receive a bonus under section 322 of title 37’’ after ‘‘August 1, 1986’’; and

(2) in subsection (e), by inserting ‘‘and elected to receive a bonus under section 322 of title 37’’ after ‘‘August 1, 1986’’.

Subtitle B—Reports

SEC. 711. COMPTROLLER GENERAL REPORT ON TRICARE CLAIMS PROCESSING.

Not later than March 31, 2003, the Comptroller General shall submit to Congress an evaluation of the continuing impediments to a cost effective and provider- and beneficiary-friendly system for claims processing under the TRICARE program. The evaluation shall include a discussion of the following:
(1) The extent of progress implementing improvements in claims processing, particularly regarding the application of best industry practices.
(2) The extent of progress in simplifying claims processing procedures, including the elimination of, or reduction in, the complexity of the Health Care Service Record requirements.
(3) The suitability of a medicare-compatible claims processing system, including the data requirements necessary to administer the TRICARE program and related information systems.
(A) The extent to which the claims processing system for the TRICARE program impedes provider participation and beneficiary access.

(5) Recommendations for improving the claims processing system that will reduce processing and administration costs, create greater competition, and improve fraud-prevention activities.

SEC. 712. COMPTROLLER GENERAL REPORT ON PROVISION OF CARE UNDER THE TRICARE PROGRAM.

Not later than March 31, 2003, the Comptroller General shall submit to Congress an evaluation of the nature of, reasons for, extent of, and trends regarding network provider instability under the TRICARE program, and the effectiveness of Department of Defense and managed care support contractors to measure and mitigate such instability. The evaluation shall include a discussion of the following:

(1) The adequacy of measurement tools of TRICARE network instability and their use by the Department of Defense and managed care support contractors to assess network adequacy and stability.

(2) Recommendations for improvements needed in measurement tools or their application.

(3) A description of the reimbursement rates and administration requirements (including preauthorization requirements) to TRICARE network instability.

(4) The extent of problems under the TRICARE program and likely future trends with and without intervention using existing authority.

(5) Use of existing authority by the Department of Defense and TRICARE managed care support contractors to apply higher reimbursement rates in specific geographic areas.

(6) For specific fiscally prudent measures that could mitigate negative trends or improve provider and network stability.

SEC. 713. REPEAL OF REPORT REQUIREMENT.

Notwithstanding subsection (f)(2) of section 712 of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (as enacted into law by Public Law 106-398; 114 Stat. 1654A-179), the amendment made by subsection (e) of such section shall not take effect and the paragraph amended by such subsection is repealed.

TITLE VIII—ACQUISITION POLICY, ACQUISITION MANAGEMENT, AND RELATED MATTERS

SEC. 801. PLAN FOR ACQUISITION MANAGEMENT PROFESSIONAL EXCHANGE PILOT PROGRAM.

(a) PLAN REQUIRED.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall develop a plan for a pilot program under which—

(A) an individual in the field of acquisition management employed by the Department of Defense may be temporarily assigned to work in a private sector organization; and

(B) an individual in such field employed by a private sector organization may be temporarily assigned to work in the Department of Defense.

(2) The plan under paragraph (1) the Secretary shall address the following:

(A) The benefits of undertaking such a program.

(B) The appropriate length of assignments under the program.

(C) Whether an individual assigned under the program should be compensated by the organization to which the individual is assigned, or the organization from which the individual is assigned.

(D) The ethics guidelines that should be applied to the program and, if necessary, waivers of ethics laws that would be needed in order to make the program effective and attractive to both Government and private sector employees.

Subtitle B—Military Special Operations

SECTION 2787. Reports of survey.
§2773a. Departmental accountable officials

(a) DESIGNATION.—(1) The Secretary of Defense may designate as a ‘departmental accountable official’ any civilian employee of the Department of Defense or member of the armed forces under the Secretary’s jurisdiction who is described in paragraph (2). Any such designation shall be in writing.

(2) A civilian employee or member of the armed forces described in this paragraph is an employee or member who is responsible in the performance of the employee’s or member’s duties for providing to a certifying official of the Department of Defense information, data, or services that are directly relied upon by the certifying official in the certification of vouchers for payment.

(b) PECUNIARY LIABILITY.—(1) The Secretary of Defense may impose pecuniary liability on a departmental accountable official to the extent that an illegal, improper, or incorrect payment results from the information, data, or services that such official provides to a certifying official and upon which the certifying official directly relies in certifying the voucher supporting that payment.

(2) The pecuniary liability of a departmental accountable official under this subsection for such illegal, improper, or incorrect payment is joint and several with that of any other officials who are pecuniarily liable for such payment.

(c) RELIEF FROM LIABILITY.—The Secretary of Defense shall relieve a departmental accountable official from liability under subsection (b) if the Secretary determines that the illegal, improper, or incorrect payment was not the result of fault or negligence by that official.

SEC. 1005. IMPROVEMENTS IN PURCHASE CARD MANAGEMENT

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 2784 of title 10, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"§2784. Management of purchase cards

"(a) MANAGEMENT OF PURCHASE CARDS.—The Secretary of Defense, acting through the Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller), shall prescribe regulations governing the use and control of all purchase cards and convenience cards that are issued to Department of Defense personnel for official use. Those regulations shall be consistent with regulations that apply Governmentwide to the use of purchase cards by Government personnel for official purposes.

"(b) REQUIRED SAFEGUARDS AND INTERNAL CONTROLS.—Regulations under subsection (a) shall include safeguards and internal controls to ensure the following:

"(1) That there is a record in the Department of Defense of each holder of a purchase card issued to a Department of Defense official for official use, annotated with the limitations on amounts that are applicable to the use of such card by that purchase card holder.

"(2) That there is a purchase card and each official with authority to authorize expenditures charged to the purchase card are responding to:

"(A) reconciling the charges appearing on each statement of account for that purchase card with receipts and other supporting documentation; and

"(B) forwarding that statement after being so reconciled to the designated disbursing office in a timely manner.

"(3) That any disputed purchase card charge, and any discrepancy between a receipt and other supporting documentation and the purchase card statement of account, is resolved in the manner prescribed in the applicable Governmentwide purchase card contract entered into by the Administrator of General Services.

"(4) That payments on purchase card accounts are made promptly within prescribed deadlines to avoid interest penalties.

"(5) That rebates and refunds based on prompt payment on purchase card accounts are properly recorded.

"(6) That records of each purchase card transaction (including records on associated contracts, accounts, and invoices) are retained in accordance with standard Government policies on the disposition of records.

"(7) That an annual review is performed of the use of purchase cards issued by the Department of Defense to determine whether each purchase card holder has a need for the purchase card.

"(8) That the Inspectors General of the Department of Defense and the military services perform periodic audits with respect to the use of purchase cards issued by the Department of Defense to ensure that such use is in compliance with regulations.

"(9) That appropriate annual training is provided to each purchase card holder and each official with responsibility for overseeing the use of purchase cards issued by the Department of Defense.

"(c) PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS.—The Secretary shall provide in the regulations prescribed under subsection (a)—

"(1) that procedures are implemented providing for a full report by the employee of the Department of Defense for violations of such regulations and for negligence, misuse, abuse, or fraud with respect to a purchase card, including disciplinary action and removal from the program; and

"(2) that a violation of such regulations by a person subject to chapter 47 of this title (the Uniform Code of Military Justice) is punishable as a violation of this chapter (article 92 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice).

"(d) CLERICAL AMENDMENTS.—The table of sections at the beginning of this chapter is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 2773 the following new item:

"2773a. Departmental accountable officials.

(a) PROGRAM FLEXIBILITY.—(1) Chapter 131 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 2214 the following new section:

"§2214a. Transfer of funds: transfers from procurement accounts to research and development accounts for major acquisition programs.

"(a) TRANSFER AUTHORITY WITHIN MAJOR ACQUISITION PROGRAMS.—Subject to subsection (b), the Secretary of Defense may transfer amounts provided in an appropriation Act for procurement for a covered acquisition program to amounts provided in the same appropriation Act for research, development, test, and evaluation for that program.

"(b) CONGRESSIONAL NOTICE-AND-WAIT.—A transfer may be made under this section only after—

"(1) the Secretary submits to the congressional defense committees notice in writing of the Secretary’s intent to make such transfer, together with the Secretary’s justification for the transfer; and

"(2) a period of 30 days has elapsed following the date of such notification.

"(c) LIMITATIONS.—(1) Any amounts appropriated for the Department of Defense for any fiscal year for procurement—

"(I) the total amount transferred under this section may not exceed $250,000,000; and

"(II) the total amount so transferred for any acquisition program may not exceed $20,000,000.

"(d) COVERED ACQUISITION PROGRAMS.—In this section, the term ‘covered acquisition program’ means an acquisition program of the Department of Defense that is—"(A) a major defense acquisition program for purposes of chapter 144 of this title; or

"(B) any other acquisition program of the Department of Defense that is designated by the Secretary of Defense as a covered acquisition program for purposes of this section.

"(e) REPORT.—The Secretary of Defense shall report to the committees of both Houses of Congress on any transfer made under this section that results in a covered acquisition program having a total obligation for fiscal year 2003 that exceeds $140,000,000 (based on fiscal year 2002 constant dollars).

SEC. 1007. DEVELOPMENT AND PROCUREMENT OF FINANCIAL AND NONFINANCIAL MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS.

(a) REPORT.—Not later than March 1, 2003, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the modernization of the Department of Defense’s financial management systems and operations. The report shall include the following:

"(1) The goals and objectives of the Financial Management Modernization Program.

"(2) The acquisition strategy for that Program, including milestones, performance metrics, and financial and nonfinancial resource needs.

"(3) A listing of all operational and development financial and nonfinancial management systems in use by the Department, the related costs to operate and maintain those systems during fiscal year 2002, and the estimated cost to operate and maintain those systems during fiscal year 2003.

"(4) An estimate of the completion date of a transition plan that will identify which of the Department’s operational and development financial management systems will not be part of the objective financial and nonfinancial management system and that provides the schedule for phase out of those legacy systems.

"(b) LIMITATIONS.—(1) A contract described in subsection (c) may be entered into using funds made available to the Department of Defense for fiscal year 2003 only with the approval in advance of the Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller).

"(2) Not more than 75 percent of the funds authorized to be appropriated in section 2014 for research, development, test, and evaluation for the Department of Defense Financial Modernization Program (Program Element 65016D92) may be obligated until the report required by subsection (b) is received by the congressional defense committees.

"(c) COVERED CONTRACTS.—Subsection (b)(1) applies to a contract for the procurement of any of the following:

"(1) An enterprise architecture system.

"(2) A finance or accounting system.

"(3) A nonfinancial management system.

"(4) An upgrade to any system specified in paragraphs (1) through (3).

Subtitle C—Other Matters

SEC. 1021. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON MAINTENANCE OF A RELIABLE, FLEXIBLE, AND ROBUST STRATEGIC DETERRENT.

It is the sense of Congress that, consistent with the national defense strategy delineated in the Quadrennial Defense Review dated September 30, 2001 (as submitted under title 10, United States Code), the Nuclear Posture Review dated January 2002, and the global strategic environment, the President should, to defend the Nation, deter aggressors and potential adversaries, and defeat enemies, dissuade competitors, advance the foreign policy goals and vital interests of the United States, and generally ensure the national security of the United States, take the following actions:

(1) Maintain an operationally deployed strategic force of not less than 1,700 nuclear warheads for immediate and unexpected contingencies.

(2) Maintain a responsive force of non-deployed nuclear weapons for potential contingencies of readiness and numerical levels determined to be—

(A) essential to the execution of the Single Integrated Operational Plan; and

(B) necessary to maintain strategic flexibility and capability in accordance with the findings and conclusions of such Nuclear Posture Review.

(3) Develop advanced conventional weapons, and nuclear weapons, capable of destroying—

(A) hard and deeply buried targets; and

(B) enemy weapons of mass destruction and the development and production facilities of such enemy weapons.

(4) Prepare a plan to achieve and maintain the capability to resume conducting underground tests of nuclear weapons within one year after a decision is made to resume conducting such tests, so as to have the means to maintain robust and adaptive strategic forces through a ready, responsive, and capable nuclear infrastructure, as prescribed in such Nuclear Posture Review.

(5) Develop a plan to revitalize the Nation’s nuclear weapons industry and infrastructure so as to ensure that development and production of safer, more reliable, and more effective nuclear weapons.

TITLE XIV—UTAH TEST AND TRAINING RANGE

SEC. 1401. DEFINITION OF UTAH TEST AND TRAINING RANGE.

In this title, the term “Utah Test and Training Range” means that portion of the military operating area of the Utah Test and Training Area located solely in the State of Utah. The term includes the Dugway Proving Ground.

SEC. 1402. MILITARY OPERATIONS AND OVERFLIGHTS AT UTAH TEST AND TRAINING RANGE.

(a) FINDINGS. The Congress finds the following:

(1) The testing and development of military weapons systems and the training of military forces are critical to ensuring the national security priority and is not incompatible with the support of military test and training missions at the Utah Test and Training Range.

(2) Continued unrestricted access to the special airspace and air domain over the Utah Test and Training Range is a national security priority and is not incompatible with the protection and proper management of the national, environmental, cultural, and other resources of such lands.

(3) Areas designated as wilderness study areas are located near lands withdrawn for military use and are beneath a legal prohibition critical to the support of military test and training missions at the Utah Test and Training Range.

(4) Continued unrestricted access to the special airspace and air domain over the Utah Test and Training Range is a national security priority and is not incompatible with the protection and proper management of the national, environmental, cultural, and other resources of such lands.

(5) no flight down to and including 10 feet above ground level.

(b) OVERFLIGHTS. — (1) Nothing in this title, the Wilderness Act (16 U.S.C. 1131 et seq.), or other land management laws generally applicable to federally designated wilderness areas or wilderness study areas in the Utah Test and Training Range shall restrict or preclude loudness, noise levels, military overflights and operations of military aircraft, helicopters, unmanned aerial vehicles, military overflights or military overflights and operations that can be seen or heard within those areas.

(2) Paragraph (1) precludes any restriction regarding altitude or airspeed, noise level, supersonic flight, route of flight, time of flight, seasonal usage, or numbers of flights of any military aircraft, helicopters, unmanned aerial vehicles, missiles, aerospace vehicles, and other military weapons systems over federally designated wilderness areas or wilderness study areas in the Utah Test and Training Range.

(3) In this subsection, the term “low-level” includes any flight down to and including 10 feet above ground level.

(c) SPECIAL USE AIRSPACE AND TRAINING ROUTES.—Nothing in this title, the Wilderness

Not more than 50 percent of fiscal year 2003 Cooperative Threat Reduction Funds may be obligated or expended for defense and military contacts activities until the Secretary of Defense submits to Congress a report describing in detail the operation and success of such activities carried out under Cooperative Threat Reduction programs during fiscal years 2001 and 2002. Such report shall include a description of—

(1) the amounts obligated or expended for such activities;

(2) the purposes, goals, and objectives for which such amounts were obligated and expended;

(3) the description of the activities carried out, including the forms of assistance provided, and the justification for each form of assistance provided;

(4) the success of each activity, including the goals and objectives achieved for each;

(5) a description of participation by private sector entities in the United States in carrying out under Cooperative Threat Reduction programs; and

(6) any other information that the Secretary considers relevant to provide a complete description of the operation and success of activities carried out under Cooperative Threat Reduction programs.
Act, or other land management laws generally applicable to federally designated wilderness areas or wilderness study areas in the Utah Test and Training Range shall restrict or preclude the deployment of units of special use airspace, the expansion of existing units of special use airspace, or the use or establishment of military training routes over federally designated wilderness study areas in the Utah Test and Training Range.

(d) COMMUNICATIONS AND TRACKING SYSTEMS.—Nothing in this title, the Wilderness Act, or any other law or land management regulation applicable to federally designated wilderness areas or wilderness study areas in the Utah Test and Training Range shall restrict or preclude the deployment of units of special use airspace, the expansion of existing units of special use airspace, or the use or establishment of military training routes over federally designated wilderness study areas in the Utah Test and Training Range.

(e) EMERGENCY ACCESS AND RESPONSE.—(1) Nothing in this title, the Wilderness Act, or other land management laws generally applicable to federally designated wilderness areas or wilderness study areas in the Utah Test and Training Range shall restrict or preclude access to any area necessary to respond to emergency situations.

(2) Not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Air Force and the Secretary of the Interior shall enter into a memorandum of understanding pursuant to section 501(a)(6) of Public Law 94–579 (43 U.S.C. 1712) and published in the Federal Register on March 18, 1999 (64 Fed. Reg. 13439), for Federal lands located in the Utah Test and Training Range.

(2) The Secretary of the Interior shall not develop, maintain, or revise land use plans pursuant to section 202 of Public Law 94–579 (43 U.S.C. 1712) for Federal lands located in the Utah Test and Training Range without the prior concurrence of the Secretary of the Air Force and the Commander-in-Chief of the military forces of the State of Utah.

(f) WITHDRAWAL.—Subject to valid existing rights and legal description of the areas designated as wilderness by this title are hereby withdrawn from all forms of entry, appropriation, or disposal under the public land laws, from location, entry, and patent under the mining laws, from location, entry, and patent under mineral and geothermal leasing, and from disposition under all laws pertaining to mineral and geothermal leasing, and mineral materials, and all amendments to such laws.

(g) WATER.—Nothing in this title or any action taken pursuant to this title shall be subject to change by executive order or other method of acquisition and use of water within the areas designated as wilderness in this title.

(h) MINIMUM DURATION.—(1) The Secretary of the Interior shall not transfer, alienate, encumber, or limit the use of any lands within the areas designated as wilderness in this title shall be administered by the Secretary of Interior for the purpose of conserving the Wisconsin Act, management activities, or other activities not specifically prohibited by this title, except for those lands that were acquired by the United States through donation, exchange, or other method of acquisition and—

(2) Those lands that were acquired by the United States through donation, exchange, or other method of acquisition and—

(a) are located entirely within the areas identified in paragraph (1);

(b) are located within a logical extension of the boundaries of the areas identified in paragraph (1).

(i) ADMINISTRATION.—(1) Subject to valid existing rights and this title, the areas designated as wilderness in this title shall be administered by the Secretary of Interior in accordance with the provisions of the Wilderness Act, except that any reference in such provisions to the effective date of the Wilderness Act (or any similar reference) shall be deemed to be a reference to the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) Any lands withdrawn in lands within the boundaries of an area designated as wilderness by this title shall be administered by the United States after the date of the enactment of this Act shall be added to and administered as part of the wilderness area within which the acquired lands or interest in lands are located.

(j) PLANNING PROCESS FOR FEDERAL LANDS IN UTAH TEST AND TRAINING RANGE.—(1) The Secretary of the Interior shall not continue the plan amendment process initiated pursuant to section 502(a)(1) of Public Law 94–579 (43 U.S.C. 1712(b)(1)) and published in the Federal Register on March 18, 1999 (64 Fed. Reg. 13439), for Federal lands located in the Utah Test and Training Range.

(2) The Secretary of the Interior shall not develop, maintain, or revise land use plans pursuant to section 202 of Public Law 94–579 (43 U.S.C. 1712) for Federal lands located in the Utah Test and Training Range without the prior concurrence of the Secretary of the Air Force and the Commander-in-Chief of the military forces of the State of Utah.

(k) WITHDRAWAL.—Subject to valid existing rights and legal description of the areas designated as wilderness by this title are hereby withdrawn from all forms of entry, appropriation, or disposal under the public land laws, from location, entry, and patent under the mining laws, and from disposition under all laws pertaining to mineral and geothermal leasing, and mineral materials, and all amendments to such laws.

(l) WATER.—Nothing in this title or any action taken pursuant to this title shall be subject to change by executive order or other method of acquisition and use of water within the areas designated as wilderness in this title.

(m) ADMINISTRATION.—(1) Subject to valid existing rights and this title, the areas designated as wilderness in this title shall be administered by the Secretary of Interior in accordance with the provisions of the Wilderness Act, except that any reference in such provisions to the effective date of the Wilderness Act (or any similar reference) shall be deemed to be a reference to the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) Any lands withdrawn in lands within the boundaries of an area designated as wilderness by this title shall be administered by the United States after the date of the enactment of this Act shall be added to and administered as part of the wilderness area within which the acquired lands or interest in lands are located.

(n) PLANNING PROCESS FOR FEDERAL LANDS IN UTAH TEST AND TRAINING RANGE.—(1) The Secretary of the Interior shall not continue the plan amendment process initiated pursuant to section 502(a)(1) of Public Law 94–579 (43 U.S.C. 1712(b)(1)) and published in the Federal Register on March 18, 1999 (64 Fed. Reg. 13439), for Federal lands located in the Utah Test and Training Range.

(2) The Secretary of the Interior shall not develop, maintain, or revise land use plans pursuant to section 202 of Public Law 94–579 (43 U.S.C. 1712) for Federal lands located in the Utah Test and Training Range without the prior concurrence of the Secretary of the Air Force and the Commander-in-Chief of the military forces of the State of Utah.

(o) WITHDRAWAL.—Subject to valid existing rights and legal description of the areas designated as wilderness by this title are hereby withdrawn from all forms of entry, appropriation, or disposal under the public land laws, from location, entry, and patent under the mining laws, and from disposition under all laws pertaining to mineral and geothermal leasing, and mineral materials, and all amendments to such laws.

SEC. 2103. IMPROVEMENTS TO MILITARY FAMILY HOUSING UNITS.

Subject to section 2825 of title 10, United States Code, and using amounts appropriated pursuant to the authorization of appropriations in section 2104(a)(6)(A), the Secretary of the Army may improve existing military family housing units in an amount not to exceed $234,831,000.

SEC. 2104. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS, ARMY.

(a) In General.—Funds are hereby authorized to be appropriated for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 2002, for military construction, land acquisition, and military family housing functions of the Department of the Army in the total amount of $2,935,609,000 as follows:

(1) For military construction projects inside the United States authorized by section 2101(a), $803,247,000.

(2) For military construction projects outside the United States authorized by section 2101(b), $345,316,000.

(3) For military construction projects at unspecified worldwide locations authorized by section 2101(c), $4,000,000.

(4) For unspecified minor construction projects authorized by section 2805 of title 10, United States Code, $21,550,000.

(5) For architectural and engineering services and construction design under section 2807 of title 10, United States Code, $158,796,000.

(6) For military family housing functions:

(A) For construction and acquisition, planning and design and improvement of military family housing and facilities, $278,426,000.

(B) For support of military family housing (including the functions described in section 2833 of title 10, United States Code), $1,122,274,000.

(8) For the construction of phase 2 of a barracks complex, D Street, at Fort Richardson, Alaska, authorized by section 2101(a) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (division B of Public Law 107–107; 115 Stat. 1280), $21,000,000.

(9) For the construction of phase 2 of a barracks complex, Nelson Boulevard, at Fort Carson, Colorado, authorized by section 2101(a) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (division B of Public Law 107–107; 115 Stat. 1280), as amended by section 2105 of this Act, $42,000,000.

(10) For the construction of phase 2 of a basic combat trainee complex at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, authorized by section 2101(a) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (division B of Public Law 107–107; 115 Stat. 1280), as amended by section 2105 of this Act, $39,000,000.

(b) Limitation on Total Cost of Construction Projects.—Notwithstanding the cost variations authorized by section 2853 of title 10, United States Code, and any other cost variation authorized by law, the total cost of all projects carried out under section 2101 of this Act may not exceed:

(1) the total amount authorized to be appropriated under paragraphs (1) through (11) of subsection (a);

(2) $18,000,000 (the balance of the amount authorized under section 2101(a) for construction of a barracks complex, Main Post, at Fort Benning, Georgia);

(3) $100,000,000 (the balance of the amount authorized under section 2101(a) for construction of a barracks complex, Capron Avenue, at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii);

(4) $50,000,000 (the balance of the amount authorized under section 2101(a) for construction of a barracks complex, Range Road, at Fort Campbell, Kentucky); and

(5) $5,000,000 (the balance of the amount authorized under section 2101(a) for a military construction project at Fort Bliss, Texas).

(c) Adjustment.—The total amount authorized to be appropriated pursuant to paragraphs (1) through (11) of subsection (a) is the sum of the amounts authorized to be appropriated in such paragraphs, reduced by $13,676,000, which represents the combination of savings resulting from adjustments to foreign currency exchange rates for military construction, military family housing cost savings resulting from the United States and savings resulting from favorable bids, reduced overhead charges, and cancellations due to force structure changes.

SEC. 2105. MODIFICATION OF AUTHORITY TO CARRY OUT CERTAIN FISCAL YEAR 2002 PROJECTS.

(a) Modification.—The table in section 2101(a) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (division B of Public Law 107–107; 115 Stat. 1281) is amended—

(1) in the item relating to Fort Carson, Colorado, by striking “$36,000,000” in the amount column and inserting “$42,000,000”; and

(2) in the item relating to Fort Jackson, South Carolina, by striking “$36,000,000” in the amount column and inserting “$41,000,000”.

(b) Conforming Amendments.—Section 2102(b) of that Act (115 Stat. 1284) is amended—

(1) in paragraph (3), by striking “$41,000,000” and inserting “$42,000,000”; and

(2) in paragraph (4), by striking “$36,000,000” and inserting “$39,000,000”.

“(11) Firefighting and fire protection services.

“(12) Police protection services.”.

(b) LEASING OF HOUSING.—Subsection (a) of section 2874 of such title is amended to read as follows:

“(a) LEASE AUTHORIZED.—(1) The Secretary concerned may enter into contracts for the lease of housing units that the Secretary determines are suitable for use as military family housing or military unaccompanied housing.

(2) The Secretary concerned shall utilize housing units leased under paragraph (1) as military family housing or military unaccompanied housing, as appropriate.

(c) REPEAL OF INTERIM LEASE AUTHORITY.—

Section 2808(h) of title 10, United States Code, is amended by striking paragraph (4). (d) SPACE LIMITATIONS BY PAY GRADE.—

Section 2880(b)(2) of title 10, United States Code, is amended by striking subsection (a), (b), and (c) inserting the following new subsections (a) and (b):

"(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is hereby established a Fund under the authority of this section for the purpose of acquiring or constructing housing for military families or facilities under section 2878 of title 10, United States Code, as amended by subsection (c), respectively;

"(b) CREDITS TO FUND.—There shall be credited to the Fund the following:

"(1) Amounts authorized for and appropriated to the Fund.

(2) Subject to subsection (e), any amounts that the Secretary transfers, in such amounts as are provided for in appropriation Acts, to the Fund from amounts authorized and appropriated to the Department of Defense for the acquisition of military family housing or military unaccompanied housing.

(3) Proceeds from the conveyance or lease of property or facilities under section 2878 of this title.

(4) Income derived from any activities under this subchapter with respect to military family housing or military unaccompanied housing.

(5) Income derived from any activities under this subchapter with respect to military family housing or military unaccompanied housing, income and gains realized from investments under section 2810(f) of title 10, United States Code, and any return of capital invested as part of such investments.

(6) Any amounts that the Secretary of the Navy transfers to the Fund pursuant to section 2814(d) of this title, subject to the restrictions on the use of the transferred amounts specified in that section.

(7) Such section is further amended—

(A) by redesignating subsections (d) through (g) as (c) through (f), respectively;

(B) in subsection (c), as so redesignated—

(i) in the subsection heading, by striking "FUNDS" and inserting "FUND";

(ii) in paragraph (1)—

(I) by striking "subsection (e)" and inserting "subsection (f)";

(II) by striking "Department of Defense Family Housing Improvement Fund" and inserting "Fund";

(f) Inapplicability of Certain Requirements.—Section 2651(a) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (division B of Pub. L. 105–330, 112 Stat. 3334), as amended by section 2867 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (Public Law 107–107; 115 Stat. 1334) is amended in the first sentence by striking “easement to construct” and all that follows through the period at the end and inserting “easement to construct, operate, and maintain a restricted access highway, road, or thoroughfare, or other public way, notwithstanding any provision of State law that would otherwise prevent the Secretary from granting the easement to the Agency from constructing, operating, or maintaining the road or highway in accordance with all applicable law.

SEC. 2852. SALE OF EXCESS TREATED WATER AND WASTEWATER TREATMENT CAPACITY, MARINE CORPS BASE, CAMP LEJEUNE, NORTH CAROLINA.

(a) Sale Authorized.—The Secretary of the Navy may provide to Onslow County, North Carolina, or any authority or political subdivision organized under the laws of North Carolina to provide public water or sewage services in Onslow County (in this section referred to as the "County"), treated water and wastewater treatment services from facilities at Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, if the Secretary determines that the provision of such services is consistent with current and future uses of the property described in section 2686 of title 10, United States Code, to provide public water or sewage services authorized by subsection (a) of such section, and will not interfere with current or future operations at Camp Lejeune.

(b) Inapplicability of Certain Requirements.—Section 2651(a) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (division B of Pub. L. 105–330, 112 Stat. 3334), as amended by section 2867 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (Public Law 107–107; 115 Stat. 1334) is amended in the first sentence by striking “easement to construct” and all that follows through the period at the end and inserting “easement to construct, operate, and maintain a restricted access highway, road, or thoroughfare, or other public way, notwithstanding any provision of State law that would otherwise prevent the Secretary from granting the easement to the Agency from constructing, operating, or maintaining the road or highway in accordance with all applicable law.

(c) Consideration.—As consideration for the receipt of public water or sewage services under subsection (a), the Secretary shall pay to the Secretary of the Navy, or such other authority as the Secretary determines, the fair market value of the services. Amounts received in cash shall be credited to the base operation and maintenance account of Camp Lejeune.
connections to the public water or sewage systems of the County in order to furnish the services authorized under subsection (a). The Secretary shall restrict the provision of services to the public water and sewage systems in the County to residential development that would be compatible with current and future operations at Camp Lejeune.

(e) ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES.—The Secretary may require the County to reimburse the Secretary for the costs incurred by the Secretary to provide public water or sewage services to the County under subsection (a).

(2) Section 2655(c) of title 10 United States Code, shall apply to any amount received under this subsection.

(f) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the provision of public water and sewage services to the County under subsection (a) of this section as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2863. RATIFICATION OF AGREEMENT REGARDING ADAK NAVAL COMPLEX, ALASKA, AND RELATED LAND CONVEYANCES.

(a) RATIFICATION OF AGREEMENT.—The document entitled the “Agreement Concerning the Conveyance of Property at the Adak Naval Complex”, and dated September 20, 2000, executed by the Secretary of the Interior, the Department of the Navy, together with any technical amendments or modifications to the boundaries that may be agreed to and thereby ratified, confirmed, and approved the terms, conditions, procedures, covenants, reservations, indemnities and other provisions set forth in the Agreement are declared to be obligations and commitments of the United States of America as a matter of Federal law. Modifications to the maps and legal descriptions of lands to be removed from the National Wildlife Refuge System and the military withdrawal on Adak Island set forth in Public Land Order 1949 may be made only upon agreement of all Parties to the Agreement and notification given to the Committee on Resources of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate. The acreage conveyed to the United States by the Aleut Corporation under the Agreement, as modified, shall be at least 36,000 acres.

(b) REMOVAL OF LANDS FROM REFUGE.—Effective on the date of conveyance to the Aleut Corporation of Exchange Lands as described in the Agreement, all such lands shall be removed from the National Wildlife Refuge System and shall neither be considered as part of the National Wildlife Refuge System nor subject to any laws pertaining to lands within the boundaries of the Alaska Maritime National Wildlife Refuge. The conveyance restrictions imposed by section 29(g) of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (43 U.S.C. 1621(g)) for land in the National Wildlife Refuge System shall not apply. The Secretary shall adjust the boundaries of the Refuge so as to exclude all interests in lands and land rights, surface and subsurface, received by the Aleut Corporation in accordance with the Agreement and the Acquisition of Alaskan Native Interests in Lands Act.

(c) RELATION TO ALASKA NATIVE CLAIMS SETTLEMENT ACT.—Lands and interests therein exchanged and conveyed by the United States pursuant to this section shall be considered and treated as conveyances of lands or interests therein under the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act, except that receipt of such lands and interests shall not constitute a sale or disposition of land or interests received pursuant to such Act. The public easements for access to public lands and waters reserved pursuant to the Agreement, required to be satisfied by the terms and purposes of section 17(h) of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act.

(d) REACQUISITION AUTHORITY.—The Secretary is authorized to acquire, purchase or exchange, on a willing seller basis only, any land conveyed to the Aleut Corporation under the Agreement and this section. In the event any of the lands are subsequently acquired by the United States, they shall be automatically included in the National Wildlife Refuge System and, for purposes of the transfer of property authorized by this section, Department of Navy personal property that remains on Adak Island is deemed related to the real property and shall be conveyed by the Department of the Navy to the Aleut Corporation, at no additional cost, when the Department of Navy personal property is conveyed by the Department of the Interior.

(f) ADDITIONAL CONVEYANCE.—The Secretary of the Interior is authorized to acquire, purchase or exchange, on a willing seller basis only, any land conveyed to the Aleut Corporation that lands identified in the Agreement as the former landfill sites without charge to the Aleut Corporation’s entitlement under the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act.

(6) For defense nuclear waste disposal for payment to the Nuclear Waste Fund established in section 302(c) of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 (42 U.S.C. 10222(e)), $35,000,000.

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF NEW PLANT PROJECT.—From funds referred to in subsection (a) that are available for carrying out plant projects, the Secretary may carry out new environmental restoration and waste management activities, the following new plant project:
SEC. 3110. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

(a) Short title.—This section is referred to in subsections (b) through (n) as the "DOE national security authorization."

(b) Authorization.—(1) The term "DOE national security authorization" means an authorization of appropriations for activities of the Department of Energy in carrying out programs necessary for national security.

(c) Definitions.—(1) The term "amount" means an amount appropriated pursuant to this section.

(2) The term "fiscal year" means a fiscal year ending on or after September 30.

(d) Authorization amounts.—(1) The term "Authorization amounts" means the amounts appropriated pursuant to this section.

(2) The term "Congressional authorization amounts" means amounts included in an authorization of appropriations for FY 2002.

(3) The term "federal security programs" means the national security programs of the Department of Energy.

(4) The term "department" means the Department of Energy.

(5) The term "DOE national security authorization" means an authorization of appropriations for activities of the Department of Energy and was authorized by a DOE national security authorization may not be started, and additional obligations in connection with the project are not made, if the total estimated cost of the construction project exceeds by more than 5 percent the amount authorized for the project as shown in the most recent budget justification data submitted to Congress.

(b) Exception where notice and wait given.—An action described in paragraph (1) may be taken if—

(1) a report of Energy has submitted to the congressional defense committees a report on the actions and the circumstances making such action necessary; and

(2) a period of 30 days has elapsed after the date on which the report is received by the committees.

(c) Computation of days.—In the computation of the 30-day period under subsection (a), there shall be excluded any day on which either House of Congress is not in session because of an adjournment of more than three days to a day certain.

(d) Limitations.—

(1) Total amount obligated.—In no event may the total amount of funds obligated pursuant to a DOE national security authorization for a fiscal year exceed the total amount authorized by that authorization for that fiscal year.

(2) Prohibited items.—Funds appropriated pursuant to a DOE national security authorization may not be used for an item for which Congress has specifically denied funds.

SEC. 3112. MINOR CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS.

(a) Authority.—(1) In general.—Subject to paragraphs (2) and (3), the Secretary of Energy may authorize the Secretary of Energy, the Secretary of Defense, or the Secretary of a military department to carry out a minor construction project if the total estimated cost of the project that is in support of a national security program of the Department of Energy, the Secretary of Energy shall complete a conceptual design for that project.

(2) Requests for conceptual design.—If the estimated cost of completing a conceptual design for a construction project exceeds $5,000,000, the Secretary shall submit to Congress a request for funds for the conceptual design before submitting a request for funds for the construction project.

(b) Limitations.—(1) The term "national security program construction project" means a construction project that is in support of a national security program of the Department of Energy and was authorized by a DOE national security authorization.

(2) The term "construction project" means any plant project not specifically authorized by law for which the approved total estimated cost does not exceed the minor construction threshold.

(3) The term "minor construction threshold" means $5,000,000.

SEC. 3113. LIMITATION ON CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS.

(a) General.—Except as provided in paragraphs (2), (3), and (4) of section 3125, no funds may be used for an item for which Congress has specifically denied funds.

(b) Exception.—In general.—Subject to paragraphs (2) and (3), the Secretary of Energy, the Secretary of Defense, or the Secretary of a military department may use any funds available to the Department of Energy pursuant to a DOE national security authorization, including funds authorized to be appropriated for advanced planning, engineering services, and construction design, and for plant projects, to perform planning, design, and construction activities for any Department of Energy national security program construction project that, as determined by the Secretary, must proceed expeditiously in order to protect public health and safety, to meet the needs of national defense, or to protect property.

(c) Limitation.—The Secretary may not exercise the authority under subsection (a) in the case of a construction project until the Secretary submits to the congressional defense committees a report on the activities that the Secretary intends to carry out under this section and the circumstances making those activities necessary.

(d) Specific authority.—The requirement of section 3125(b)(2) does not apply to emergency planning, design, and construction activities conducted under this section.

SEC. 3114. FUND TRANSFER AUTHORITY.

(a) Transfer to other Federal agencies.—(1) The Secretary of Energy may transfer funds authorized to be appropriated to the Department of Energy pursuant to a DOE national security authorization to other Federal agencies for the performance of work for which the funds were authorized.

(2) Funds transferred shall be merged with and be available for the same purposes and for the same time period as the authorizations of the Federal agency to which the amounts are transferred.

(b) Transfer within Department of Energy.—

(1) Transfers permitted.—Subject to paragraphs (2) and (3), funds authorized to be appropriated to the Department of Energy pursuant to a DOE national security authorization shall be merged with and be available for the same purposes and for the same time period as the authorizations of the Department of Energy to which the amounts are transferred.

(2) Maximum amounts.—(a) Not more than 5 percent of any such authority may be transferred without authorization by any transfer under this paragraph.

(b) Limitations.—(1) The Secretary of Energy may authorize the Secretary of Defense, or the Secretary of a military department to authorize the Secretary of Energy to carry out a conceptual design for a construction project if the total estimated cost for the conceptual design does not exceed $600,000.

(2) Specific authority required.—If the total estimated cost for the design is more than $600,000, the Secretary must, prior to the construction project, submit to Congress a request for funds for the design.

(3) Availability of funds.—Subject to the provisions of appropriation Acts and section 3121, amounts appropriated pursuant to a DOE national security authorization for management and staff activities and for general plant projects are available for use, when necessary, in connection with all national security programs of the Department of Energy.

d) CLASSIFIED FORM.—Each submission required by this section shall be made only in classified form.

SEC. 3145. PLAN FOR ACHIEVING ONE-YEAR READINESS POSTURE FOR RESUMPTION BY THE UNITED STATES OF UNDERGROUND NUCLEAR WEAPONS Testing.

(a) PLAN REQUIRED.—The Secretary of Energy, in consultation with the Administrator for Nuclear Security, shall prepare a plan for achieving, not later than one year after the date on which the plan is submitted under subsection (c), a one-year readiness posture for resumption by the United States of underground nuclear weapons tests.

(b) DEFINITION.—For purposes of this section, a one-year readiness posture for resumption by the United States of underground nuclear weapons tests means the capability of the Department of Energy to conduct such tests, if directed by the President to resume such tests, not later than one year after the date on which the President so directs.

(c) REPORT.—The Secretary shall include with the budget justification materials submitted to Congress in support of the Department of Energy budget for fiscal year 2004 (as submitted with the budget of the President under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code) a report on the plan required by subsection (a). The report shall include a detailed plan and a budget for implementing the plan.

Subtitle D—Matters Relating to Defense Environmental Management

SEC. 3151. DEFENSE ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT PERFORMANCE REFORM PROGRAM.

(a) PROGRAM REQUIRED.—From funds made available pursuant to section 3102(a)(2) for defense environmental management cleanup reform, the Secretary of Energy shall carry out a program to reform DOE environmental management activities. In carrying out the program, the Secretary shall allocate, to each site for which the Secretary is required to conduct a professional defense committee a site performance management plan, the amount of those funds that such plan requires.

(b) ADJUDICATED AND MERGED FUNDS.—Funds so allocated shall, notwithstanding section 3124, be transferred to the account for DOE environmental management activities and, subject to subsection (c), be made available for the same purposes and for the same period as the funds available in such account. The authority provided by section 3129 shall apply to funds so transferred.

(c) LIMITATION ON USE OF ALL MERGED FUNDS.—Upon a transfer and merger of funds under subsection (b), all funds in the merged account shall be made available with respect to the management plan and may be used only to carry out the site performance management plan for such site.

(d) SITE PERFORMANCE MANAGEMENT PLAN DEFINED.—For purposes of this section, a site performance management plan for a site is a plan, agreed to by the applicable Federal and State agencies with regulatory jurisdiction with respect to the site, for the performance of activities to accelerate the reduction of environmental risk in connection with, and to accelerate the cleanup of hazardous materials at, the site.

(e) DOE ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT ACTIVITIES DEFINED.—For purposes of this section, the term “DOE environmental management activities” means the activities of the Department of Energy in carrying out programs necessary for national security.

SEC. 3152. REPORT ON STATUS OF ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT INITIATIVES TO ACCELERATE THE REDUCTION OF ENVIRONMENTAL RISKS AND CHALLENGES POSED BY THE LEGACY OF THE COLD WAR.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—The Secretary of Energy shall prepare a report, and any proposals for legislation that the Secretary considers necessary to carry out the purposes of the report, pursuant to the Authority to Conduct Nuclear Facilities Safety Board Funding and Administration Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2286 note) to Congress.

(b) CONTENTS.—The report shall include the following matters:

(1) A discussion of the progress made in reducing such risks and challenges in each of the following areas:

(A) Acquisition strategy and contract management.

(B) Regulatory agreements.

(C) Permitting and authorization.

(D) Environmental restoration and cleanup.

(E) Achievements in innovation by contractors.

(2) An assessment of the progress made in streamlining risk reduction processes of the defense environmental management program of the Department.

(3) An assessment of the progress made in improving the responsiveness and effectiveness of the environmental management program of the Department.

(4) Any proposals for legislation that the Secretary considers necessary to carry out such initiatives, including the justification for each such proposal.

(c) INITIATIVES COVERED.—The environmental management initiatives referred to in subsection (a) are the initiatives arising out of the report titled “Top-to-Bottom Review of the Environmental Management Program” and dated February 4, 2002, with respect to the environmental restoration and cleanup activities of the Department of Energy in carrying out programs necessary for national security.

(d) SUBMISSION OF REPORT.—On the date on which the budget justification materials in support of the Department of Energy budget for fiscal year 2004 (as submitted with the budget of the President under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code) are submitted to Congress, the Secretary shall submit to the congressional defense committees the report required by subsection (b).

TITLE XXXII—DEFENSE NUCLEAR FACILITIES SAFETY BOARD

SEC. 3201. AUTHORIZATION.

There are authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2003, $19,000,000 for the operation of the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board, as authorized by chapter 21 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2286 note).

TITLE XXXIII—NAVAL PETROLEUM RESERVES

SEC. 3401. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

(a) AMOUNT.—There are hereby authorized to be appropriated, from such funds as are available to the Department of Energy, $21,069,000 for fiscal year 2003 for the purpose of carrying out activities under chapter 641 of title 16, United States Code, relating to the naval petroleum reserves.

(b) PERIOD OF AVAILABILITY.—Funds appropriated pursuant to the authorization of appropriations in subsection (a) shall remain available until expended.

TITLE XXXV—MARITIME ADMINISTRATION

SEC. 3501. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS FOR FISCAL YEAR 2003.

There are thereby authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2003, to be available without fiscal year limitation if so provided in appropriations Acts, for the use of the Department of Transportation for the Maritime Administration as follows:

(1) For expenses necessary for operations and training activities, $93,132,000.

(2) For expenses under the loan guarantee program authorized by title XI of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936 (46 App. U.S.C. 121 et seq.), $54,126,000, of which—

(A) $50,000,000 is for the cost (as defined in section 302(5) of the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990 (2 U.S.C. 661a(5))) of loan guarantees under the program; and

(B) $4,126,000 is for administrative expenses related to loan guarantee commitments under the program.

(3) For expenses to dispose of obsolete vessels in the National Defense Reserve Fleet, including provision of assistance under section 7 of Public Law 92–402 (as amended by this title), $20,000,000.

SEC. 3502. AUTHORITY TO CONVEY VESSEL USS SPHINX (ARL–24).

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other law, the Secretary of Transportation may convey the right, title, and interest of the United States Government in and to the vessel USS SPHINX (ARL–24), to the Dunkirk Historical Society, and Lighthouse and Veterans Park Museum (a nonprofit corporation, in this section referred to as the “recipient”) for use as a maritime museum, if—

(1) the recipient agrees to use the vessel as a nonprofit military museum; and

(2) the vessel is not used for commercial transportation purposes;

(b) The recipient agrees to make the vessel available to the Government when the Secretary requires use of the vessel by the Government;
(A) the recipient agrees that when the recipient no longer requires the vessel for use as a military museum—

(B) if the Board of Trustees of the recipient has determined that the vessel is not being cared for in good condition except for ordinary wear and tear; or

(C) the vessel at the place where the vessel is located, for such purposes as the court shall determine, or to such organizations as the court shall determine are organized exclusively for public purposes;

(D) no longer requires the vessel for use as an artificial reef; or

(E) the vessel shall be disposed of by a court of competent jurisdiction of the county in which the principal office of the recipient is located, in its discretion, for such purposes as the court shall determine, or to such organizations as the court shall determine are organized exclusively for public purposes;

(2) the recipient has available, for use to store the vessel, in the form of cash, liquid assets, or written or oral commitment, financial resources of at least $100,000.

(e) DELIVERY OF VESSEL.—If a conveyance is made under this Act, the Secretary shall deliver to the recipient, to a person who has been determined exempt from taxation under the provisions of section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, or to the Federal Government or a State or local government for a public purpose:

(a) the vessel shall be conveyed at the place where the vessel is located on the date of enactment of this Act, in its condition, for such purposes as the court shall determine, or to such organizations as the court shall determine are organized exclusively for public purposes;

(b) the recipient agrees to hold the Government harmless for any claims arising from exposure to asbestos after conveyance of the vessel, except for claims arising from use by the Government under paragraph (1) or (4); and

(c) other unneeded equipment.—The Secretary may also convey any unneeded equipment from other vessels in the National Defense Reserve Fleet in order to restore the USS SPHINX (ARL–24) to museum quality.

(d) RETENTION OF VESSEL IN NDRF.—The Secretary shall retain in the National Defense Reserve Fleet the vessel authorized to be conveyed under subsection (a), until the earlier of:

(1) the date of conveyance of the vessel under subsection (a); or

(2) the date of conveyance of the vessel under subsection (a).

SEC. 3505. FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE TO STATES FOR PREPARATION OF TRANSFERRED COMPLETE SHIPS FOR USE AS ARTIFICIAL REEFS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Public Law 92–402 (16 U.S.C. 1220 et seq.) is amended by redesignating sections at the beginning of such chapter as sections 1 through 16, and by inserting after section 16 the following:

SEC. 7. FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE TO STATE TO PREPARE TRANSFERRED SHIP.

"(a) ASSISTANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary, subject to the availability of appropriation, may provide, to any State to which an obsolete ship is transferred under this Act, financial assistance to prepare the ship for use as an artificial reef, including for—

"(1) environmental remediation;

"(2) towing; and

"(3) the cost effectiveness of disposing of the ship by transfer under this Act, in its condition, at the place where the vessel is located.

(b) AMOUNT OF ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary shall determine the amount of assistance under this section with respect to an obsolete ship based on—

"(1) the total amount available for providing assistance under this section;

"(2) the benefit achieved by providing assistance for that ship; and

"(3) the cost effectiveness of disposing of the ship by transfer under this Act, in its condition, at the place where the vessel is located.

(c) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary shall require a State seeking assistance under this section to provide cost data and other information determined by the Secretary to be necessary to justify and document the assistance; and

"(2) may require a State receiving such assistance to comply with terms and conditions necessary to protect the environment and the interests of the United States.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 4(4) of such Act (16 U.S.C. 1220a(4)) is amended by inserting in section (d) of such Act (16 U.S.C. 1220a(4), as amended provided under section 7) "[a]t no cost to the Government;"

SEC. 3506. INDEPENDENT ANALYSIS OF TITLE XI INSURANCE GUARANTEE APPLICATIONS.

Section 1094A of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936 (46 App. Supt. Bldg. Div. 1302–2) is amended by inserting after section (b)(1) by adding at the end of subsection (d) the following:

"(4) The Secretary may obtain independent analysis of an application for a guarantee or commitment to guarantee under this title; and

"(5) in subsection (f) by inserting "(including for obtaining independent analysis under subsection (d)(4))" after "applications for a guaranty;"

The CHAIRMAN. No amendment to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute is in order except those printed in part I of the report and amendments en bloc described in section 3 of House Resolution 415.

(1) Unless otherwise specified in the report, each amendment printed in the report shall be debatable for 10 minutes, equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent, and shall not be subject to amendment, except as specified in the report and except that the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Armed Services each may offer one pro forma amendment for the purpose of further debate on any pending amendment.

It shall be in order at any time for the chairman of the Committee on Armed Services or his designee to offer amendments en bloc consisting of amendments printed in part B of the report not earlier disposed of or germane modifications of any such amendment.

Amendments en bloc shall be considered read, except that modifications shall be reported, shall be debatable for 40 minutes, equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Armed Services each may offer one pro forma amendment for the purpose of further debate on any pending amendment.

The original proponent of an amendment included in the amendments en bloc may insert a statement in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD immediately before disposition of the amendments en bloc.

The Chairman of the Committee of the Whole may recognize from consideration of an amendment out of the order printed, but not sooner than 1 hour after the chairman of the Committee on Armed Services or a designee announces from the floor a request to that effect.

AMENDMENTS EN BLOC OFFERED BY MR. STUMP.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I offer amendments en bloc consisting of the following amendments printed in part B of House Report 107–450: amendment No. 13, amendment No. 14, amendment No. 16, amendment No. 17, amendment No. 18, amendment No. 19, amendment No. 20, amendment No. 22 offered by the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. Snyder), amendment No. 24, amendment No. 21, and amendment No. 22 offered by the gentleman from Kansas (Mr. Tiahrt).

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendments en bloc. The text of the amendments en bloc is as follows:

Amendment No. 11 offered by Mr. CULBERTSON:

At the end of title X (page 218, after line 15), insert the following new section:

"SEC. . USE FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT PURPOSES OF DNA SAMPLES MAIN- TAINED BY THE DEPARTMENT DE- FENSE FOR IDENTIFICATION OF HUMAN REMAINS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 80 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"1566. DNA samples maintained for identification of human remains: use for law enforcement purposes.

"(1) (A) Compliance with court order.—(1) Subject to paragraph (2), if a valid order of a Federal court (or military judge) so requires, an amendment of the Department of Defense that maintains a repository of DNA samples for the purpose of identification of human remains shall make available, for the purpose specified in subsection (b), such DNA samples on such terms and conditions as such court (or military judge) directs.

"(B) Covered purpose.—The purpose referred to in subsection (a) is the purpose of obtaining independent analysis under subsection (a) of an investigation or prosecution of a felony, or any sexual offense, for which no other source of DNA information is available.

(b) Definition.—In this section—

"(1) DNA SAMPLE.—‘‘DNA sample’’ has the meaning given such term in section 1566(c) of this title.

"(2) Use for law enforcement purposes.—The purpose referred to in subsection (a) is the purpose of obtaining independent analysis under subsection (a) of an investigation or prosecution of a felony, or any sexual offense, for which no other source of DNA information is available.

"(3) Amendment.—In this section—

"(A) DNA sample maintained for identification of human remains shall be provided under paragraph (1) in a manner that does not compromise the ability of the Department of Defense to maintain a sample with respect to that individual or the purpose of identification of human remains.

"(B) The Department shall be provided with such DNA samples on such terms and conditions as such court (or military judge) directs.

"(C) A DNA sample with respect to an individual shall be provided under paragraph (1) in a manner that does not compromise the ability of the Department of Defense to maintain a sample with respect to that individual or the purpose of identification of human remains.

"(D) The Department of Defense for the purpose of identification of human remains.

"(E) The purpose referred to in subsection (a) is the purpose of obtaining independent analysis under subsection (a) of an investigation or prosecution of a felony, or any sexual offense, for which no other source of DNA information is available.

"(F) Nothing in this section shall be construed to alter, modify, or curtail the authority of the President to extend such term and conditions as such court (or military judge) directs.

Amendment No. 12 offered by Mrs. Jo ANN DAVIS of Virginia:

At the end of title X (page 218, after line 15), insert the following new section:

"SEC. . SENSE OF CONGRESS CONCERNING AIRCRAFT CARRIER FORCE STRUCT- URES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The aircraft carrier has been an integral component in Operation Enduring Freedom and in the homeland defense mission beginning on September 11, 2001. The aircraft carriers that have participated in Operation Enduring Freedom, as of May 1, 2002, are the USS Enterprise (CVN–65), the USS Carl Vinson (CVN–70), the USS Kitty Hawk (CV–63), the USS Theodore Roosevelt (CVN-71), the USS John C. Stennis (CVN-74), and the USS John F. Kennedy (CVN-67). The aircraft carriers that have participated in the homeland defense mission are the USS George Washington (CVN-73), the USS John F. Kennedy (CVN-67), and the USS John C. Stennis (CVN-74).

(2) Since 1945, the United States has built 172 bases overseas, of which only 24 are currently in use.

(3) The aircraft carrier provides an independent base of operations should no land base be available for aircraft.

(4) The aircraft carrier is an essential component of the Navy.

(5) Both the F/A-18E/F aircraft program and the Joint Strike Fighter aircraft program are proceeding on schedule for deployment on aircraft carriers.

As established by the Navy, the United States requires the service of 15 aircraft carriers to fully fulfill all the naval missions assigned to it without gapping carrier presence.

(7) The Navy requires, at a minimum, at least 12 carriers to accomplish its current missions.

(b) Sense of Congress.—It is the sense of Congress that the number of aircraft carriers of the Navy in active service should not be less than 12.

(c) Commendation of Crews.—Congress hereby commends the crews of the aircraft carriers that have participated in Operation Enduring Freedom and the homeland defense mission.

Amendment No. 13 offered by Mr. FARR of California:

At the end of title X (page 218, after line 15), insert the following new section:

SEC. ENHANCED AUTHORITY TO OBTAIN FOREIGN LANGUAGE SERVICES DURING PERIODS OF EMERGENCY.

(a) NATIONAL FOREIGN LANGUAGE SKILLS REGISTRY.—(1) The Secretary of Defense may establish and maintain a secure data registry to be known as the “National Foreign Language Skills Registry”. The data registry shall consist of the names of, and other pertinent information on, linguistically qualified United States citizens and permanent resident aliens who state that they are willing to perform linguistic services in times of emergency designated by the Secretary of Defense to assist the Department of Defense and other Departments and agencies of the United States with translation and interpretation services in the conduct of foreign and defense cooperation. (2) The person may be placed in the Registry only if the person expressly agrees for the person’s name to be included in the Registry. Any such agreement shall be made in such form and manner as may be specified by the Secretary.

(b) Authority To Accept Voluntary Translation and Interpretation Services.—(1) The Secretary of Defense may establish and maintain a secure data registry to be known as the “National Foreign Language Skills Registry”. The data registry shall consist of the names of, and other pertinent information on, linguistically qualified United States citizens and permanent resident aliens who state that they are willing to perform linguistic services in times of emergency designated by the Secretary of Defense to assist the Department of Defense and other Departments and agencies of the United States with translation and interpretation services in the conduct of foreign and defense cooperation. (2) The person may be placed in the Registry only if the person expressly agrees for the person’s name to be included in the Registry. Any such agreement shall be made in such form and manner as may be specified by the Secretary.

Amendment No. 14 offered by Mr. HELPKY: Strike section 351 (page 68, beginning line 2), and insert the following new section:

SEC. AUTHORIZED DURATION OF BASE CONSTRUCTION FOR NAVY-MARINE CORPS BASE.

Section 814 of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001, as enacted into law by Public Law 106-398, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(6) Language translation and interpretation services.”

Amendment No. 14 offered by Mr. HELPKY: Strike section 351 (page 68, beginning line 2), and insert the following new section:

SEC. AUTHORIZED DURATION OF BASE CONSTRUCTION FOR NAVY-MARINE CORPS BASE.

Section 814 of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001, as enacted into law by Public Law 106-398, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“(1) Duration of Base Navy-Marine Corps Interim Contract.—Notwithstanding section 2306c of title 10, United States Code, the base contract of the Navy-Marine Corps Interim contract may have a term in excess of five years, but not more than seven years.”.

Amendment No. 16 offered by Mr. MANZUOLO: At the end of title VIII (page 174, after line 5), add the following new section:

SEC. RENEWAL OF CERTAIN PROCUREMENT TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE COOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS AT FUNDING LEVELS INSUFFICIENT TO SUPPORT EXISTING PROGRAMS.

Section 2313 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(d) With respect to any eligible entity that has successfully performed under a cooperative agreement entered into under subsection (a), the Secretary shall in the greatest extent practicable and subject to appropriations, to renew such agreement with such entity at a level of funding which is at least equal to the level of funding under the cooperative agreement being renewed.”.

Amendment No. 17 offered by Mr. O’RITZ: At the end of title I (page 21, after line 20), insert the following new section:

SEC. PROHIBITION ON ACQUISITION OF CHAMPION-CLASS, T-5 FUEL TANKERS.

(a) PROHIBITION.—Except as provided in subsection (b), the fuel tanks known as a T-5, which features a double hull and reinforcement against ice damage, may not be acquired for the Military Sealift Command or for others.

(b) TERMINATION.—The prohibition in subsection (a) shall not apply if the acquisition of a T-5 tanker is specifically authorized in a defense authorization act or appropriation act.

Amendment No. 18 offered by Mr. PALLONE: Page 312, after line 15, insert the following new section:

SEC. LAND CONVEYANCE, FORT MONMOUTH, NEW JERSEY.

(a) CONVEYANCE.—The Secretary of the Army may convey by sale all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of land, consisting of approximately 130 acres, which is currently used as military family housing known as Howard Commons, that comprises a portion of Fort Monmouth, New Jersey.

(b) Competitive Bidding Requirement.—The Secretary shall use competitive procedures for the sale authorized by subsection (a).

(c) Consent of the Navy: In consideration for the conveyance authorized under subsection (a), the recipient of the land shall pay an amount that is no less than fair market value, as determined by the Secretary. Such recipient may, as in-kind consideration, build replacement military family housing or rehabilitate existing military family housing at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, as agreed upon by the Secretary. Any proceeds received by the Secretary not used to construct or rehabilitate such military family housing shall be deposited in the special account in the Treasury established pursuant to section 204(h) of the Federal property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 485a(h)).

(d) Description of Parcel.—The exact acreage and legal description of the parcel to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be deposited in the Secretary. The cost of the survey shall be borne by the recipient of the parcel.

Amendment No. 19 offered by Mr. SCHROCK: At the end of subtitle A of title XXVIII (page 292, after line 7), insert the following new section:

SEC. PILOT HOUSING PRIVATIZATION AUTHORITY FOR ACQUISITION OR CONSTRUCTION OF MILITARY UNACCOMMODATED HOUSING.

(a) PILOT PROJECTS AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Navy may carry out not more than 3 pilot projects under the authority of this section or another provision of this chapter to construct or acquire for the acquisition or construction of military unaccommodated housing in the United States, including any territory or possession of the United States.

(b) Assignment of Members and Basic Allowance for Housing.—(1) The Secretary of the Navy may assign members of the armed forces to housing units acquired or constructed under the pilot projects, and such housing units shall be considered as quarters of the United States or a housing facility under the jurisdiction of a uniformed service for purposes of section 403 of title 37.

(2) Notwithstanding section 403 of title 37, the Secretary may set specific higher rates of partial basic allowance for housing for a member of the armed forces who is assigned to a housing unit acquired or constructed under the pilot projects. Any increase in the rate of partial basic allowance for housing to accommodate the pilot programs shall be in addition to and in partial response to increases in the rate of basic allowance for housing for a member of the military who is assigned to a housing unit acquired or constructed under the pilot projects.

(c) Funding.—(1) The Department of Defense shall use funds made available for the purpose of this section to carry out activities under the pilot projects.

(e) Additional Terms and Conditions.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary determines appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

Amendment No. 19 offered by Mr. SAXTON: At the end of title I (after line 15), insert the following new section:
“(2) Subject to 90 days prior notification to the appropriate committees of Congress, such additional amounts as the Secretary of Defense considers necessary may be transferred to the Department of Defense Housing Improvement Fund from amounts appropriated for construction of military unaccompanied housing projects in military construction. The amount transferred shall be merged with and to be available for the same purposes and for the same period of time as amounts appropriated directly to the Department of Defense Housing Improvement Fund.

“(d) REPORT.—(1) The Secretary of the Navy shall transmit to the appropriate committees of Congress a report describing—

“(A) the plan for the acquisition of military unaccompanied housing that the Secretary proposes to solicit under the pilot projects;

“(B) each conveyance or lease proposed under section 2876 of this title in furtherance of the pilot projects; and

“(C) the proposed partial basic allowance for housing rates for each contract as they vary by grade of the member and how they compare to basic allowance for housing rates for other contracts written under the authority of the pilot programs.

“(2) The report shall describe the proposed contract, conveyance, or lease and the intended method of participation of the United States in the conveyance, or lease, and provide a justification of such method of participation. The report shall be submitted not later than 90 days before the date on which the Secretary issues the contract solicitation or the conveyance or lease.

“(e) EXPIRATION.—Notwithstanding section 2885 of this title, the authority of the Secretary of the Navy to enter into a contract under the pilot programs shall expire September 30, 2007.

“(2) The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 2881 the following new item:

“2881a. Pilot projects for acquisition or construction of military unaccompanied housing.”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 2871(7) of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a)—

(A) by inserting “(7)” after “administrative”;

(B) by inserting before the period at the end of the first sentence “; or (2) the National Defense University,”;

(2) in subsection (b)—

(A) by inserting “(1)” after “(b);”;

(B) by striking “subsection (a)” and inserting “subsection (c);”;

(C) by designating the last section as paragraph (3) and in that sentence by inserting “or for the benefit of or use of the National Defense University, as the case may be, after “schools;”;

(D) by inserting before paragraph (3), as designated by subparagraph (C), the following:

“(2) There is established in the Treasury a fund to be known as the ‘National Defense University Gift Fund’. Gifts of money, and the proceeds of property, received under subsection (a)(2) shall be deposited in the Fund.”;

“(3) in subsection (d)(1)(A), by inserting “and the National Defense University Gift Fund” before the semicolon; and

“(4) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(b) In this section, the term ‘National Defense University’ includes any school or other component of the National Defense University.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—(1) The heading of such section is amended to read as follows:

“§ 2600. Acceptance of gifts for defense dependent schools and National Defense University.”

(2) The item relating to such section in the table of sections at the beginning of chapter 151 of such title is amended to read as follows:

Amendment No. 23 offered by Mr. SPRATT: At the end of title XI (page 222, after line 3), insert the following new section:

SEC. 9. CERTIFICATION FOR DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE PROFESSIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY STANDARDS—

(a) In general.—(1) Chapter 81 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“§ 1599d. Professional accounting positions: authority to establish certification and credential standards

“(a) AUTHORITY TO PREScribe PROfessional CERTIFICATION STANDARDS.—The Secretary of Defense may prescribe professional certification and credential standards for professional accounting positions within the Department of Defense. Any such standard shall be prescribed as a Department of Defense certification standard.

“(b) WAIVER AUTHORITY.—The Secretary may waive any standard prescribed under subsection (a) when the Secretary determines such a waiver to be appropriate.

“(c) APPLICABILITY.—A standard prescribed under subsection (a) shall not apply to any person employed by the Department of Defense before the standard is prescribed.

“(d) REPORT.—The Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress a report on the Secretary’s plans to provide training to appropriate Department of Defense personnel to meet any new professional and credential standards prescribed under subsection (a). Such report shall describe such plans in consultation with the Director of the Office of Personnel Management. Such a report shall be submitted not later than one year after the effective date of the certification Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (including a five-year limitation).

“(e) DEFINITION.—In this section, the term ‘professional accounting position’ means a position or group of positions in the GS-510, GS-511, and GS-565 series that involves professional accounting work.”

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

“1599d. Professional accounting positions: authority to establish certification and credential standards.”

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.— Standards established pursuant to section 1599d of title 10, United States Code, as added by subsection (a), may take effect no sooner than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Amendment No. 24 offered by Mr. STUMP: At the end of subtitle C of title X (page 209, after line 25), insert the following new section:

SEC. 10. REALLOCATION OF CERTAIN FUNDS FOR AIR FORCE RESERVE COMMAND SUSTAINMENT FUND.—

Of the funds authorized to be appropriated by section 103(1) that are available for procurement of F-16 aircraft for the Air Force Reserve Command, $14,400,000 shall be available for 36 Litening II modernization upgrade kits for the F-16 block 25 and block 30 aircraft, rather than for Litening AT pods for such aircraft.

Page 65, line 11, strike “$30,000,000” and insert “$35,000,000”.

In section 2411, page 295, after line 11, insert the following new subsection (and redesignate subsequent subsections accordingly):

“(e) ACQUISITION OF WATER RIGHTS.—The authority of the Secretary of the Navy to enter into an agreement under subsection (a) for the acquisition of real property for an interest in the authority to support the purchase of water rights from any available source when necessary to support or protect the mission of a military installation.

Amendment No. 22 offered by Mr. TIHERT: At the end of title XX of title X (page 299, after line 25), insert the following new section:

SEC. 11. LIMITATION ON DURATION OF FUTURE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—

(a) In general.—Chapter 23 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 480 the following new section:

“§ 480a. Recurring reporting requirements: five-year limitation.

“(a) FIVE-YEAR SUNSET.—Any recurring defense congressional defense reporting requirement that is established by a provision of law enacted on or after the date of the enactment of the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (including a provision of law enacted as part of that Act) shall cease to be effective, with respect to that requirement, at the end of the five-year period beginning on the date on which such provision is enacted, except as otherwise provided by law.

“(b) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—A provision of law enacted after the date of the enactment of this section may not be considered to supersede the provisions of subsection (a) unless that provision specifically refers to subsection (a) and specifically states that it supersedes subsection (a).

(c) RECURRING CONGRESSIONAL DEFENSE REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—In this section, the term ‘recurring defense congressional reporting requirement’ means a requirement by which the submission of an annual, semiannual, or other regular periodic report to Congress, or one or more committees of Congress, that applies only to the Department of Defense or to one or more officers of the Department of Defense.”

Virginia (Mrs. Jo Ann Davis), the gentleman from California (Mr. Farr), the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. Hefley), the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Manzullo), the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Ortiz), the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. Pallone), the gentleman from New York (Mr. Saxon), the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Schrock), the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. Snyder), the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Spratt), the gentleman from Kansas (Mr. Tiahrt) and myself.

I would like to thank all those Members for their work in putting this en bloc amendment together and for their cooperation in allowing us to consider them in this fashion.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume. Let me and those who join me with the chairman for his work on the en bloc amendments. I might say, Mr. Chairman, that we have reviewed each of the proposed en bloc amendments, that we agree to the submission thereof and pass on the same, and that they should all be supported by the Members of this body.

Let me take just a moment in addition thereto, Mr. Chairman. Part of our duties as Members of the Committee on Armed Services besides having hearings and having the briefings and doing the study here in Washington is to meet with the various members of the military personnel wherever they may be. I was aboard the USS Harry S Truman in Norfolk and met with the officers and men and women of that ship.

Not long thereafter, I was in San Diego and I went aboard the USS Peleliu and met extensively with the sailors thereon. By the way, they had just returned from their duties in the Indian Ocean. And then I have been to Little Rock Air Force Base and saw the extensive training there; to Fort Campbell, Kentucky; to Whiteman Air Force base, which is in the State of Missouri.

I must tell my colleagues that the young people in American uniform are working hard, that they are dedicated and that they are professionals and the purpose of our being here today is to give them support. However, it is interesting to note two things. The first is that they are being stretched and stretched, and that is why there are too few in number in many instances. This is pointed out by the fact that General Buck Kerman of forces command down in Norfolk testified not long ago to the effect that the troops are being stretched and stretched because there are too few in number in many instances. This is pointed out by the fact that General Buck Kerman of forces command down in Norfolk testified not long ago to the effect that the troops are being stretched and stretched because there are too few in number in many instances. Then a week later, the commander of our forces in Europe, General Joe Ralston, testified that there were needs for additional forces and resources in his jurisdiction. Admiral Dennis Blair, Commander in Chief of the Pacific, testified similarly.

The young men and young women are stretched. Their families are paying a price of them being gone so much, but that is only half the story. The other half of the story, Mr. Chairman, is that the fact that the morale is sky high, that they know why they are there, that they are supporting the men and women in uniform. I think all of us should add a special note of pride and appreciation to them.

So I take this means while we are discussing these en bloc amendments, which we, of course, have no objection to, to add the following in honor and in recognition of our young folks who represent the United States of America in uniform.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Kirk).

Mr. KIRK. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. Stump) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Spratt) for their support of the Tiahrt amendment language in the en bloc. This sunsets many unneeded reports after 5 years.

The bill already contains the Tiahrt-Kirk language ending 20 unneeded reports that were previously required by law. Our effort is the first fruit of Secretary Rumsfeld's tooth-to-tail effort to increase the amount of effort we have on the front line by decreasing unneeded logistic efforts behind the lines. By amending our efforts on September 10, but we are now yielding real fruit.

The current bill language killing unneeded reports is estimated to save over 21,000 man-hours inside the Pentagon. This effort in the en bloc to sunset all reports after 5 years will go a long way to focus efforts on the combat front line and away from the rear echelon.

I thank the gentleman from Arizona, and I thank the gentleman from Missouri for including this in the en bloc. Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Spratt).

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment included among the en bloc amendments which was specifically requested by the Department of Defense. In fact, the idea for this amendment arose at a breakfast we had with Secretary Rumsfeld at which he expressed his concern and agreement with the idea. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment included among the en bloc amendments which was specifically requested by the Department of Defense.

In fact, the idea for this amendment arose at a breakfast we had with Secretary Rumsfeld at which he expressed his concern and agreement with the idea.

I responded to that by calling Dr. Dov Zakheim, who is the comptroller of the Department of Defense, and telling him if he had problems like this, we were not going to be stinting about the cost of professional personnel in the Department of Defense. We need to raise the quality of management throughout the Federal Government and certainly in the Department that has the largest budget.

I asked him to send me legislation of what he would like to have in the way of professional qualifications, certifications, what he would require for those who worked in the Department of the Controller. He sent me some legislation, and we made a few minor revisions to it. We made some revisions primarily to make it prospective instead of retrospective so that no one here has to go back and do these certifications. Secondly, we worked with the American Federation of Government Employees to make sure that they were satisfied with the proposal we have got.

This amendment is just a crucial first step to helping the Department of Defense improve their abilities in the area of financial management and their ability to track and account for the billions of dollars that Congress provides. The heart and soul, obviously, of any accounting system is the people it employs. This will enable the Department to raise the level, raise the bar in the qualifications for people who are at the front line and hired in the Department of Defense for financial management.

It is my understanding that the Committee on Government Reform has also vetted this legislation and supports it as well. I urge an "aye" vote on the en bloc amendment for the Department of Defense for financial management.

My amendment, Mr. Chairman, would require that future regular reporting requirements imposed on the Department of Defense would have a sunset provision of 5 years after enactment. This would not apply to existing reporting requirements and only be applicable to new reports, including those in this bill, H.R. 4546.

This amendment serves both Congress and DOD by ensuring that all future reports are reviewed regularly and remain relevant and responsive. This is endorsed by Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld. This legislation does not abdicate Congress' traditional oversight role and will insist that the Department of Defense remain responsive to congressional requests and questions about their activities. Those reporting requirements deemed useful after 5 years can easily be reauthorized at the conclusion of the sunset period. Conversely, Congress must demonstrate responsibility in its oversight authority by limiting burdensome and unnecessary and unending reporting requirements.

In fiscal year 2001, the Department of Defense was required to prepare 983
Mr. PLATTS. I yield to the gentleman from New Jersey.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman. The gentleman is correct that there is or was insufficient funding available to provide for all of the military construction and family housing improvements that are needed across our military. I might add that we have tried to increase the amount of money available for this purpose and, in fact, we were able to add some money to the Army's request that we received from the Department of Defense. I wish that we could have done more, and I particularly wish we could have taken care of all family housing needs, as quality-of-life improvements are so important and necessary in today's volunteer service.

I agree that family housing at Carlisle Barracks is among those housing projects that must be replaced, and I assure the gentleman that any request by the Army to buy the land at Carlisle will receive careful consideration by my subcommittee in the next Congress.

Mr. PLATTS. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCOTT).

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

I would like to say a word about an area that I think is extremely important and has always received the subcommittee's full support. I thank the gentleman for his interest and support on this issue, and I also look forward to working with him, and I thank him for his fine leadership.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Virginia (Mrs. JO ANN DAVIS).

Mrs. JO ANN DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Chairman, today I rise to support the en bloc amendment containing a Sense of Congress on Aircraft Carrier Force Structure. This amendment would do 2 things.

First, it would commend the crews of the carriers that contributed directly to Operation Enduring Freedom and the homeland defense mission. Many people are aware that our aircraft carriers contributed to our initial actions in Operation Enduring Freedom, but most people are unaware as to the number of carriers and also the incredible effort and number of aircraft carriers it took to effect our initial response to the attack on September 11.

Second, this amendment would recognize the full value and worth that our carriers have for America's power and force projection capabilities. There is no doubt that the aircraft carriers have been integral to our war in Afghanistan. We have all heard the story of how the USS Enterprise turned around and went back when the captain heard about what was going on. Every munition and bomb dropped from a carrier air wing has been a precision-guided munition. The carriers worked around the clock after the attacks on September 11.

Mr. Chairman, the Sense of Congress expresses a simple truism that is laid out in the Quadrennial Defense Review. The Navy needs, at a minimum, at least 12 aircraft carriers.

Mr. Chairman, I would strongly encourage all of my colleagues to vote in support of this en bloc amendment.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I want to do 2 things. The first is to mention, and I neglected to mention in my opening statement, that the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MEEHAN) has been my partner on the Subcommittee on Military Research and Development of the Committee on Armed Services, and has done a wonderful job and has helped us to walk this bill through the subcommittee mark and the full floor mark, and I really appreciate his great work on this bill.

I also wanted to talk for just a minute about an area that I think is pretty important to all of us from an environmental standpoint and also from a security standpoint, and that is our reserve fleet of ships, many of which are in very bad condition, which presently are at anchor in the James River. My colleague from Virginia, Mr. HORN, worked on this issue for many years, the idea of trying to take care of these ships in an environmentally responsible way. It requires a lot of money. It usually requires about $2.5 million per ship if you are going to scrap these ships in an American yard. You can give them to a foreign entity, but you are not really guaranteed that that entity is not just going to take the ships out and dump them, complete with PCBs and oil and other materials in the ocean, thereby creating another environmental problem.

So we have come up, in working with a working group that is headed by the gentlewoman from Virginia (Mrs. Jo ANN DAVIS), very much a part of her creation, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCHROCK) who has a nearby district and also the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. FORBES) who has a nearby district and the gentlewoman from Virginia (Mrs. JO ANN DAVIS) on this issue, we never applied the act in this way until March of this year—2002—when the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia interpreted the Migratory Bird Treaty Act to apply to military readiness activities. This is an important American innovation. This is the Migratory Bird Treaty Act and we must address it. Navy Carrier Battle Groups and deploying Marine Corps and Air Force squadrons have been blocked by court order from using the only U.S. bomb range available to them in the Western Pacific. Let me be clear, our forces deploying to Afghanistan cannot now use the only range suitable for training with smart, laser-guided weapons, as a result of unprecedented judicial interference with military readiness activities.

Fact Number Two: There is no Presidential exemption available under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act. Under the current District Court interpretation, any military training can be enjoined and, except through legal appeals, there is no way to continue that vital military training.

Fact Number Three: There is an exemption under the Endangered Species Act (ESA) if the Secretary of Defense finds it is necessary for reasons of national security. That exemption, however, is better used to address emergent or urgent situations. The need to train for combat, to plan and execute military readiness activities, is a seven day a week, 52 weeks a year requirement. The young men and women serving in our armed forces must need to train for combat; to train for combat.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Part A, Amendment No. 1 offered by Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania:

Fact Number One: The Migratory Bird Treaty Act did not interfere with military training in past wars for a simple reason. The courts never applied the act in this way until March of this year—2002—when the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia interpreted the Migratory Bird Treaty Act to apply to military readiness activities. This is an important American innovation. This is the Migratory Bird Treaty Act and we must address it. Navy Carrier Battle Groups and deploying Marine Corps and Air Force squadrons have been blocked by court order from using the only U.S. bomb range available to them in the Western Pacific. Let me be clear, our forces deploying to Afghanistan cannot now use the only range suitable for training with smart, laser-guided weapons, as a result of unprecedented judicial interference with military readiness activities.

Part A, Amendment No. 1 offered by Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania:

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on consideration of amendment No. 1 printed in part A of House report 107-450.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania:

The text of the amendment is as follows:

(a) Statement of Policy.—It is the policy of the United States to pursue greater cooperation, transparency, and confidence with the Russian Federation regarding nuclear weapons policy, force structure, safeguards, testing, and proliferation prevention, as well as nuclear weapons infrastructure, production, and dismantlement, so as to promote mutual security, stability, and trust.

(b) Sense of Congress Regarding Enhanced Cooperation With Russia.—It is the sense of the Congress that the United States should continue to engage the President of the Russian Federation to achieve the following objectives, consistent with United States national security, in the interest of promoting mutual trust, security, and stability:

(1) An agreement that would seek to prevent the illicit use, diversion, theft, or proliferation of tactical nuclear weapons, and their key components and materials, by—

(A) withdrawing deployed nonstrategic nuclear weapons;

(B) accounting for, consolidating, and securing the Russian Federation’s nonstrategic nuclear weapons; and

(2) A reciprocal program of joint visits by United States and Russian nonstrategic nuclear weapons scientists and experts of the United States to pursue greater cooperation, transparency, and confidence with the Russian Federation regarding nuclear weapons policy, force structure, safeguards, testing, and proliferation prevention, as well as nuclear weapons infrastructure, production, and dismantlement, so as to promote mutual security, stability, and trust.

each nation's nuclear stockpile, nuclear materials, and nuclear infrastructure.

(4) A reciprocal program of joint visits and conferences to explore greater cooperation between the United States and the Russian Federation with regard to ballistic missile defense against intentional, unauthorized, and accidental launches of ballistic missiles. (5) A joint commission on nonproliferation, composed of senior nonproliferation and intelligence officials from the United States and the Russian Federation, to meet regularly in a closed forum to discuss ways to prevent rogue states and potential adversaries from acquiring—

(A) weapons of mass destruction and ballistic missiles;

(B) the dual-use goods, technologies, and expertise necessary to develop weapons of mass destruction and ballistic missiles; and

(C) advanced conventional weapons.

(6) A joint program to develop advanced methods for disposal of weapons-grade nuclear materials excess to defense needs, including safe, proliferation resistant, advanced nuclear fuel cycles that achieve more complete consumption of weapons materials, and other methods that minimize waste and hazards to health and the environment.

(7) A joint program to develop methods for safeguarding, treating, and disposing of spent reactor fuel and other nuclear waste so as to minimize the risk to public health, property, and the environment, as well as the possibility of diversion to illicit purposes.

(8) A joint program, built upon existing programs, to cooperatively develop advanced methods and techniques for establishing a state-of-the-art inventory control and monitoring system for nuclear weapons and materials.

(c) Report.—No later than March 1, 2003, the President shall submit to Congress a report (to be classified as necessary) on the status of the objectives under subsection (b). The report shall include:

(1) A description of the actions taken by the President to engage the Russian Federation to achieve those objectives.

(2) A description of the progress made to achieve those objectives.

(3) A description of the response of the Russian Federation to the actions referred to in paragraph (1).

(4) A President's assessment of the Russian Federation's commitment to a better, closer relationship with the United States based on the principles of increased cooperation and transparency.

At the end of subtitle C of title XXXI (page 352, after line 24) insert the following new paragraphs:

SEC. 3146. CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH PROHIBITION ON RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT OF LOW-YIELD NUCLEAR WEAPONS IS REPEALED.

(a) Presidential Certification.—Subsection (b) shall take effect as of the date on which the President submits to Congress the President's certification that:

(1) another nation has conducted a nuclear test for the purpose of developing new or improved nuclear weapons;

(2) another nation is developing weapons of mass destruction in underground facilities, and such weapons could pose an imminent risk to the United States or to United States military personnel deployed abroad; or

(3) it is in the national security interest of the United States that subsection (b) take effect.

(b) Repeal.—Effective as of the date provided in subsection (a), section 3326 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1994 (42 U.S.C. 2131 note) is repealed.
Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 4 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, this is a historic day in the House of Representatives as we consider an amendment that is bipartisan, co-sponsored by my colleagues (Mr. PENN-BERRY), the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS), the gentleman from Texas (Mr. TURNER), the gentleman from Hawaii (Mr. ABERCROMBIE), and the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT).

Mr. Chairman, this is a historic amendment and a historic day because this body is rising in a bipartisan voice to support the leadership of the President of the United States and the President of Russia to begin a new era in nuclear cooperation.

The amendment before us today has eight specific thrusts in opening up the transparency between the American and the Russian nuclear program. It calls for American scientists to be allowed to visit Novaya Zemlya, the underground test site in Russia, and for Russian scientists to visit our sites in Nevada.

It calls for joint cooperation in conferences on ways to monitor our nuclear stockpiles. It calls for joint visits and conferences to discuss the safety and security of our nuclear weapons. It calls for a joint commission on non-proliferation, a joint commission on cooperation on missile defense.

This program puts this body on record with a bipartisan vote that we, in fact, support the new vision of President Bush and President Putin. We started this process last fall when one-third of this Congress with my colleagues on the Democratic side and my colleagues on the Republican side joining together in a 48-page document outlining a new relationship with Russia.

This amendment calls for the specifics in implementing this new vision. This amendment allows the President and the President of Russia to truly open the doors for strong bilateral cooperation between our nations. It is a historic day. Our nuclear regulatory agencies and our security agency, I talked to General Holland and he totally supports the direction that we are going.

We have agreement on the Democrat and Republican sides about the thrust. We also give the President some flexibility in the research area to make progress and to do additional research that up until this point in time has been prohibited. I am extremely pleased that we were able to work out a very carefully crafted piece of legislation with my colleagues on the other side and I hope we will vote unanimously or overwhelmingly show that this Congress is behind a new direction in the security relationship between the United States and Russia.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. Is the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) opposed?

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I am not opposed to the amendment, but I claim the time on my side.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from South Carolina to control the time? There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I consume.

Mr. Chairman, I would have been opposed to the amendment as of yesterday, but we have had a work in progress here and I must say we have come a long way, with a very hard effort. I commend the gentleman for his efforts. I think he has a good bill.

The gentleman is probably more engaged than any member of Congress in either house in trying to bring Russia and the United States closer together in strategic cooperation. It lays out a number of specifics ranging from nonproliferation efforts to lab exchanges to joint visits to our testing sites, an ambitious agenda but nevertheless all things we ought to be doing, the whole strategic spectrum.

I think it is well stated and well in order, and I think the bill deserves support for that reason alone.

I had a problem with the last page of the bill originally because the last page dealt with an amendment that I had added to the law, to Title XX, some six or seven years ago. That provision, the Spratt provision, prohibited testing below the level of five kilotons for reasons I will not get into here. There is another provision in this bill, the Weldon provision, that would repeal that. But there is a provision in this bill that would broaden the type of research that our labs can do, the kind of nuclear cooperation that we can do. It limits that work to what we could call in the Subcommittee on Military Research and Development 6-2-A: that is to say: they can do concept design work, they can do research work, they can do design work, they can build a wooden mock-up, but they cannot bend metal or do fissile component parts until the law itself is changed.

I think that is a reasonable provision that gives the labs a much clearer definition of what the boundaries are, broadens the scope of what they can do, but stops short of decreasing a repeal of the 2-K-T provision.

In addition, yesterday this bill contained a call for a joint Russia collaboration on the development of nuclear penetrating weapons, nuclear and conventional. The gentleman, after some reflection and discussion with the Department of Energy and others, has decided to take that off the bill.
With those two improvements this is a very good bill, a very good piece of work, and I commend it to everybody’s support.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. THORNBERY) a leader on these issues in the Congress.

Mr. THORNBERY. Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the distinguished subcommittee chairman yielding me time. He tells me that he is the leader in Congress in our relationship with Russia and I believe that here, working with the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT), who is one of the most knowledgeable Members in Congress on these nuclear and strategic issues, they have come up with a very good product.

As the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) mentioned, this includes an ambitious list of items to be on the agenda between the United States and Russia. We want to see that we have reciprocal programs that deal with everything from nonproliferation all the way to disposal of waste. It is something that gives all of our contacts with Russia an agenda to go by and to encourage them to move more of the distrust that still remains after years of Cold War and to work together in ways that are to our mutual benefit, but also to the benefit of the world.

So as the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) mentioned, this amendment recognizes the need for a credible deterrent in the post-Cold War world, removing some restrictions that have made it uncomfortable for some of the folks in our laboratories to even be thinking about the kind of things we need for the future. So I want to commend both leaders on this issue. I think this is an important step that gives us a lot to work with in the future, and I hope Members will support it.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), the ranking member of our committee.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I thank my friend from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) for yielding me time.

Mr. Chairman, I think this is true that the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) has said that this is an historic moment in this House because it makes a giant step forward in the nuclear nonproliferation effort. It retains the existing ban on developing low yield nuclear weapons, but the most important part is it allows scientific research to go forward in our nuclear weapons laboratories.

This is an excellent example between the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) and the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) and all the others that were interested in this nonproliferation issue to make a step forward and to have an excellent compromise. We thank the gentleman for that.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from New Mexico. Mr. WELDON also has been a tireless advocate on the nuclear security issues for this country and in the world.

Mrs. WILSON of New Mexico. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) for yielding me the time, and I thank him for his leadership on this issue and for really understanding the relationship between the United States and Russia.

I particularly appreciate this amendment because it focuses on some of the things we need to do now in the 21st century as opposed to looking backwards to the old relationship between the United States and the former Soviet Union, focusing on increasing transparency and cooperation with Russia because the situation has changed.

The principal threat is no longer one. The principal threat to the United States and to Russia are third parties that threaten both of us and, therefore, cooperation and transparency are in our mutual interest.

I think we also have to recognize that Russia, the nuclear nonproliferation effort, and there are some questions we have about their nuclear testing sites, and the best way to move forward is to actively and aggressively seek the cooperation of Russia in opening things up, in opening transparency at these places, so we as the United States can be reassured about what is going on now.

This is a good amendment. It is a good step in the right direction, and I commend the gentleman from Pennsylvania for his leadership.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, how much time is remaining?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) has 6 minutes remaining. The gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) has 4 minutes remaining.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. TURNER), one of the key players in the compromises that have perfected and made this a better bill.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) for yielding me time, and I want to thank him for his leadership in working on this amendment, and I want to commend the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) for his leadership in trying to work out the compromise that we have before us. I think moves us forward in a bipartisan manner that I think serves the national interests of this country very well.

This amendment sets in place for the first time a set of objectives that would be pursued between our Nation and Russia to try to enhance cooperation and furthering the efforts to end proliferation of nuclear weapons. Specific provisions of the amendment provide for exchange programs between our Nation and Russia, provides for increased transparency of the activities of each Nation in the area of nuclear research, and I want to say that having had the opportunity to travel to Russia with the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON), I have the highest regard for his interest, his dedication, and his commitment to working with Russia to end nuclear proliferation and to be sure that this Nation’s national interests are protected in that process. So I think all of us want to say to him we appreciate his leadership in this area.

I know that many Members herefore had questions about this amendment. I want to respond to concerns on both sides of the aisle that the compromise that we are laying before the House today was just arrived at a few moments ago. We think it deserves the support of the entire House on both sides. We think it is a step forward toward peace and toward improving our cooperative relationship with Russia.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER).

Mrs. TAUSCHER. Mr. Chairman, this is right for the United States and this is right for this Congress. This is an opportunity for the bilateral relationships between the United States and Russia to improve, and I am here to say that I am very thankful to see that it is also a real sign of bipartisanship of this Congress where Democrats and Republicans, who up to yesterday had some disagreements about some language in this amendment, have come together in a very practical and common sense way to increase the opportunities for our national labs, two of which are in my district in northern California, to work to provide for the American people and frankly for the people of Russia and around the world much more opportunities for nonproliferation, much more opportunities for bilateral work and cooperation, and the ability for us to have agreements between our countries that are much more transparent and give a sense that we are very committed to working together and to turn aside the old adversarial relationships in the post-Cold War and move to a new time where we can be cooperative against the threats that we both share.

I want to thank my colleagues on both sides of the aisle for being so cooperative in working together.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER), the distinguished chairman of the Subcommittee on Military Research and Development of the Committee on Armed Services, and a leader on defense issues in this country.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) for yielding me the time, and I thank him for his leadership in this area.

We have moved from the era of confrontation with the former Soviet Union to what I would call the era of engagement, and the engagement needs to be pursued in a number of areas. A couple of areas that are very important to this Member, and I know a lot of others, is the idea of disposal of weapons-grade materials, making sure that all of the ideas of stockpile security that we adhere to are adhered to also in the former Soviet Union.

Also, the idea of making sure that the genius of the scientists’ population in the former Soviet Union that put together that massive weapons complex in the weapons they produced, to make sure that that genius does not migrate to nations that at some point may be adversaries to the United States is of utmost concern to us, and I think that this amendment makes good sense, and the engagement that it promotes is going to serve those ends.

I think the gentleman and commend him for his leadership and everyone on both sides of the aisle who worked on the amendment.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I yield 90 seconds to the gentleman from Hawaii (Mr. ABERCROMBIE).

Mr. ABERCROMBIE. Mr. Chairman, one of the motivating forces in my life to enter electoral politics was civil rights, and the other element that I wanted to devote whatever energy I could in terms of politics was nuclear proliferation.

What we are about to do today, I think, may set us on the path for many of us has been decades in the realizing.

I want to pay tribute especially to the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT). When I think of someone who I believe to be the ideal Member of Congress, ready to deal with Members in every way, in a straightforward and forthright manner, when I think of someone who has a tenacious capacity to pursue his ideals, I think of the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON), and I think there is an amalgam today of interests on behalf of peace.

I just want to reiterate for the record what the policy will be when the gentleman from Pennsylvania’s (Mr. WELDON) and the gentleman from South Carolina’s (Mr. SPRATT) work comes to fruition. Greater cooperation, transparency and confidence with the Russian federation regarding nuclear weapons, policy, forestration, safeguard, testing, proliferation, prevention, infrastructure, production and dismantlement, everything associated with that, the proliferation in our attempt to deal with it in three-dimensional human terms is in this amendment, and the wording that has been arrived at, because the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) and the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) are not theologians on this floor, they are legislators. Legislators in every good sense of the word, and I am proud to be associated with them.
Mr. Chairman, this is a good compromise and a good bill, and I urge support for it on both sides of the aisle. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, in closing, I thank Members on both sides of the aisle for what has become I think one of the most important statements that we will make in this new era of our security, our security in working together with Russia as partners.

Yesterday a group of Members met in the House of Representatives with a Minister of Atomic Energy, Rumyantsev, from Russia, and he told us that Russia is ready for a new era of transparency, that the days of the Cold War are over. This amendment tests that language. This amendment says, Mr. Rumyantsev, we agree with you, and we are ready for a new era. Open up the technical facilities, underground test sites, and laboratories for joint cooperation, and we will do the same. It says that America and Russia truly can be, should be, and will be partners; but it does not do it through rose-colored glasses.

This amendment says in the new century Russia and America together can be key partners, whether it is solving the war in Kosovo, solving the problem in the Middle East, or dealing with security issues, that Russia can help us accomplish our objectives.

Mr. Chairman, I ask Members on both sides of the aisle to support this amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The question was taken; and the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. SPRATT of South Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) will be postponed.

The CHAIRMAN. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 2 printed in part A of House Report 107-450.

PART A AMENDMENT NO. 2 OFFERED BY MRS. TAUSCHER

Mrs. TAUSCHER. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Part A Amendment No. 2 offered by Mrs. TAUSCHER.

At the end of section 1014 of the bill (page 200, after line 6), insert the following new subsection:

(c) Report on Options for Achieving, Prior to Fiscal Year 2012, President's Objective for Operationally Deployed Nuclear Warheads.—Not later than 90 days after the latest of (i) the date on which the Secretary of Energy submits to Congress a report on options for achieving, prior to fiscal year 2012, a posture under which the United States maintains a number of operationally deployed nuclear warheads at a level of from 1,700 to 2,200 such warheads, as outlined in the Nuclear Posture Review, the report shall include the following:

(1) For each of fiscal years 2006, 2007, and 2010, an assessment of the options for achieving the President's objective as of that fiscal year, and an assessment of the effects of achieving such posture prior to fiscal year 2012 on cost, the dismantlement workforce, and any other affected matters.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 415, the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER).

Mrs. TAUSCHER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, this amendment adds a small but critical requirement to the language in the bill on the Nuclear Posture Review. As Members know, the Nuclear Posture Review provides Congress with crucial information about the administration’s intentions for its country’s nuclear strategy, warhead levels and infrastructure over the next 10 years.

Some of the review’s comments are positive, such as the restatement of the need to deploy the lowest number of nuclear weapons consistent with our security requirements.

Other findings are more troubling, especially the review’s failure to outline significant and verifiable cuts to our nuclear arsenal.

Recent comments by Assistant Secretary of Defense Crouch about warhead reduction that “there is no such thing as something that is irreversible,” directly contradict the President’s objective stated in Crawford, Texas, in the summit with President Putin last summer.

The credibility of the United States’ leadership in the area of arms control will be significantly undermined if we do not live up to the President’s proposal to reduce our nuclear arsenal.

The gentleman from Arizona (Chairman STUMP) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), the ranking member, took a first and valuable step toward addressing this disconnect.

Indeed, the bill requests clarification of the administration’s plans for our strategic force structure, including specific definitions of how many warheads will be dismantled or placed in the ready reserve and associated costs.

I ask for Members’ support for an additional requirement to this section mandating a report from the Secretary of Energy on options for achieving the President’s objectives for operationally deployed nuclear warheads before 2012.

This is a nonbinding, common sense requirement that simply asks the Secretary of Energy to consider whether the President’s arms objective can be achieved in a shorter time frame. Additionally, it is my belief that this
Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, will the gentlewoman yield?

Mrs. TAUSCHER. Mr. Chairman, I yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, this side applauds the gentlewoman for her leadership on these issues, and we are happy to accept this amendment in the spirit in which it is offered, and think it will be a productive debate on to the bill.

Mrs. TAUSCHER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT).

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I rise to commend both the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER) and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) for reaching agreement on what I think is a good amendment to an amendment.

Basically the Nuclear Posture Review raised more questions than it answered, among them, why does it take 10 years to draw down the operationally deployed force; why do we have to maintain a responsive force of the magnitude that was indicated? We may have as many warheads actually deployed in 2012 as we do today. How costly will it be to maintain this force? These are all questions that we need to ask directly, and that is what this amendment will do. It will put these questions back to DOD and get a further addendum or response to clarify NPR on these critical points.

Mr. Chairman, I commend the gentlewoman for offering this amendment, and support it fully.

Mrs. TAUSCHER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentlewoman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) for accepting the amendment and appreciate the opportunity to work with the gentleman.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. Does any Member wish to speak in opposition to the amendment?

The question is on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER). The amendment was agreed to.

PART A AMENDMENT NO. 3 OFFERED BY MR. MARKEY

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Part A Amendment No. 3 offered by Mr. MARKEY:

At the end of subtitle C of title XXXI (page 352, after line 24), insert the following new section:

(a) Prohibition on Development of Nuclear Earth Penetrator Weapon.

(1) General. — No funds available to the Department of Energy may be used for any development, testing, or engineering of a nuclear earth penetrator weapon.

(2) Fiscal Year 2003.—No funds appropriated for or otherwise made available to the Secretary of Energy for fiscal year 2003 may be used for a feasibility study for a nuclear earth penetrator weapon.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 415, the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MARKEY) and a Member opposed each will control 10 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MARKEY) for 10 minutes.

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment that is before the House that I would hope as the staffs talk right now we might be able to work out some form of compromise on but pending that, the subject is around the whole subject of a robust nuclear earth penetrator.

Now this weapon is one which is contemplated being used as a nuclear weapon to be a bunker buster, but potentially bigger in fact, and will breach this psychological and political barrier that we have established in the world for 57 years that nuclear weapons are not usable.

What my amendment says is that there should be some form of prohibition; that is, that no funds should be available to the Department of Energy for any development, testing or engineering of a nuclear earth penetrator weapon. The objective, of course, is to say if we moved to that phase of testing, unfortunately, it would most likely result in a breach of the test ban accommodation which has been lived with by the United States and the Soviet Union and the rest of the world for the last 15 years or so.

Since we have a generation of nuclear earth penetrating weapons, it seems to me it does not make a lot of sense for us to run the risk of sending a signal to the rest of the world that we are trying to dissuade from using these weapons towards the goal of just improving one to make it more usable, but at the same time because of the sensitivities of our relations with Russia, amongst others, in terms of their nuclear testing, but every other country in the world that we are trying to convince that nuclear weapons are unusable, that as we cross this nuclear Rubicon we are sending a very strong signal that the weapons are usable.

So my amendment seeks to stop the testing, stop any engineering or development of such a weapon.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, we have made a good faith effort both in the committee and on this floor to reach bipartisan compromise on issues regarding our nuclear policy.

We just completed a vote on a comprehensive program to engage Russia, a program that I think is historic. We just accepted an amendment from the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER). We agreed to a report that is going to have a number of issues regarding the size of our nuclear weapon force over the next dozen years.

But, Mr. Chairman, this amendment in my opinion is a dangerous amendment. There are certain things we cannot discuss on the House floor. I would think before any Member voted on this amendment, they would want to have had the Code Word level briefing that I arranged for Members of the Committee on Armed Services last week.

A number of my colleagues from both sides of the aisle attended that briefing, where at a Code Word level we were given certain information about what appears to be to the Intelligence Community some new movement in the area of nuclear weapons and nuclear materials. We cannot discuss that on the floor of the House because we are in open session. So, therefore, even though Members have access to that information, I would say to you that probably no more than 10 Members of this body, maybe 20, have received the security classified briefing on the implications of this amendment. For that reason alone, this amendment should be defeated.

But, Mr. Chairman, beyond that, this amendment says that the Secretary of Energy cannot even do a feasibility study for a nuclear earth penetrating weapon. If we look at the wars and the situation we are involved in, one of our biggest problems are deep underground hardened targets. This amendment says we cannot even do a feasibility study. We are not talking about building a weapon. We are not talking about producing something to drop. We are talking about a feasibility study. This amendment says no feasibility study.

Mr. Chairman, this amendment goes too far. This amendment is more about, I think, a political statement than it is about substance. I would aggressively urge our colleagues to vote "no."

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), the ranking member of the Committee on Armed Services.

Mr. SKELTON. I thank my friend from Massachusetts for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, we all know from our experience in Afghanistan that adversaries use caves and bunkers to counter our American conventional strength. and we are right to be concerned that future enemies might use such bunkers to protect weapons of mass destruction. However, the use of nuclear bunker busters is absolutely not the way to go. It is counterproductive.

Under current policies, these weapons would spread deadly radiation, putting both American troops in the theater as well as local populations at risk. It would also prevent American troops from entering caves and bunkers to retrieve potentially valuable intelligence. We have been doing that in Afghanistan. Perhaps most significantly, the use of tactical nuclear weapons would mark a dramatic change in United States policy and would undermine our non-proliferation policies around the globe. This is a very needed and a very necessary amendment to proceed on the non-nuclear proliferation effort.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from New Mexico (Mrs. Wilson).

Mrs. WILSON of New Mexico. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania for yielding me this time in order to support this amendment.

The reality is that our enemies are burrowing in their chemical weapons capability, their conventional capability, their command and control biological and nuclear weapons programs. Our current weapons systems cannot destroy targets that are deeply buried in tunnels. They were not designed to. Our enemies know that.

Nuclear weapons are useful precisely because they are unusable. That is the nature of deterrence and the reason that we want to be able to keep these targets at risk. The robust nuclear earth penetrating weapon is being studied as directed by this Congress in the 2001 defense authorization bill. It is not a new nuclear weapon. The question is whether you can take an existing nuclear weapon, package it and ensure it in such a way so that it will penetrate the Earth before it explodes in order to risk those habited and deeply buried targets. It does not make it more likely that the President would use such a weapon. It does make it more probable that that weapon would work if he had to use it. Any President should have at his disposal the ability to hold at risk the most important targets that people who want to destroy and to hurt us. By holding those targets at risk, we make it less likely that they will hurt us and attack us with chemical, biological or nuclear weapons.

The President should have options, the options of conventional forces, of precision conventional weapons, and of nuclear weapons are capable of holding those targets at risk so that we do not have to use them. That is precisely why we need to continue with this feasibility study.

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. Lee).

Ms. LEE. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentleman from Massachusetts for yielding me this time for me to thank the gentleman from California (Ms. Lee).

I rise in strong support of the Markey amendment really to prohibit the development of this nuclear earth penetrator weapon. This weapon poses unacceptable risks to our own troops would be endangered by nuclear fallout and innocent civilians could be caught in a nuclear crossfire. Furthermore, developing this weapon really does take us down the path of nuclear testing and nuclear proliferation. Where we go, others will follow.

It is bad enough that we have not ratified the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty. United States nuclear testing would destroy this treaty. The United States cannot preach nonproliferation while escalating the arms race ourselves.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment. I want to again thank the gentlewoman from Massachusetts for offering this amendment.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. Hunter), the distinguished chairman of the Subcommittee on Research and Development.

Mr. HUNTER. I thank the distinguished gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, we are in this amendment proposing to kill what could be the centerpiece of a certain deterrent capability that is important to us. We want to send a message to anybody who would strike America, whether on a conventional battlefield or in a terrorist manner, we want them to know that we will hunt them down and find them and, if necessary, dig them out, wherever we have to.

That means no safe havens. One way you ensure that there are no safe havens is to be able to go deep. Unless we do a lot more development and find some quantum breakthrough in conventional systems, to go deep is going to require a nuclear capability. That is a good message to send to people who would hurt this country, because if you look at the array of fixtures that are going to be buried by potential adversaries, you see several things. You see their command and control; you see their development of nuclear, chemical and biological weapons; and, most importantly, you see the people who ordered the strike on the United States.

That is where leadership goes. Leadership, in terms of our potential adversaries, will go deep. They will go as far underground as they possibly can go. They need to know there is no safe haven. That requires that we vote “no” on this amendment.

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. Frank).

Mr. FRANK. Mr. Chairman, I welcome this latest in the acts of leadership my friend and colleague has dealt with in the nuclear area.

I have listened to the arguments of the gentleman from California and the gentlewoman from New Mexico. They are very honest. They are really talking about obliterating the distinction between nuclear and non-nuclear weapons that has been a centerpiece for 50 years. But what we have told that conventional arms threats will call from America a nuclear response. Not only is that greatly unnecessary, it will further destabilize the world. We have been trying to preach non-nuclear proliferation, but the town drunk is a poor advocate for temperance. We cannot simultaneously obliterate the distinction that has existed for the entire period between nuclear and non-nuclear weapons. We cannot threaten, as we have heard, a nuclear response to a non-nuclear attack and then still have any credibility in preaching temperance.

Secondly, we have said in Afghanistan, in Iraq, we are these days likely to be in the posture not of war against a country, as in World War II but in an effort to rescue a people from an oppressive government. How welcome will our wagon be when it comes to nuclear arms? Do we tell the people of Afghanistan, do not worry, we will free you from the Taliban by using nuclear weapons within your country. Do not worry, we will overthrow Saddam Hussein with nuclear attacks in Iraq.

I think you undercut the whole notion that America can be coming to the rescue of the victims of oppression. The United States is hardly a pitiful giant weakened without nuclear weapons. We just saw in Afghanistan no shortage of overwhelming American power. It was not a lack of force, a lack of potency. To destroy the distinction between nuclear and non-nuclear weapons that the people of Afghanistan have heard is with very grave error.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 30 seconds.

First of all, Mr. Chairman, we are not talking about a new nuclear weapon. That is not the discussion here. We are talking about an attempt to repackagae an existing nuclear weapon for a new threat that we have to deal with. We know the Russians have 13,000 tactical nuclear weapons. We really want to stop proliferation. I would like to see my colleague from Massachusetts offer an amendment to negotiate for a serious reduction of tactical nuclear weapons. These tactical nuclear weapons are a real threat to us. The Russians have 13,000 of them.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 15 seconds to the gentleman from California (Mr. Hunter).

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, let me just say that there has been a policy among a number of nations in the Western democracies, including our allies, that would respond to chemical or
Mr. Chairman, we know Russia has buried targets deep. We have seen what al Qaeda has done in Afghanistan. We know Iraq is burying things. So take an option off the table, to say we are not even going to explore it, that we are going to tie our own hands behind our backs, even in a world with all of these difficult, complex situations I think would be a tragic mistake. We should reject the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) has 1 minute to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Chairman, the question is not whether we should permit targets to be buried deep; the question is whether we are going to permit peace to be buried deep.

We have a nonproliferation treaty that stops nuclear weapons from becoming a sword of Damocles hanging over this world. We had an ABM Treaty that stopped the United States and Russia from engaging each other. We had START II and START III that was the basis of getting rid of nuclear weapons. We had a Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty waiting to be signed. Now, we have gone from that kind of a hopeful approach to sustain the world to an abyss, to an approach that envisions target nations, nuclear first strike, bunker busters.

It is time that we took a stand for peace. It is time that we took a stand for the continuation of life on this planet. Why should that be hard to do, even for the Congress?

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 5 seconds.

I felt that way just a few short years ago. I understand the gentleman have been in order. That is why we did working, at your behest, it would not invited either myself or my colleague to the Committee on Rules has been called, I was in the dark whether it would not have been in order. That is why we did not bother to try.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 1 minute to the gentleman from California (Ms. WOOLSEY).

(Ms. WOOLSEY asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the Markey amendment to halt development, testing and production of mini nuclear penetrators. I thank my colleague from Massachusetts for his continuing leadership on nonproliferation issues.

Let us make no mistake about it. Developing these mini nukes would make their use more likely, which would make a nuclear war more likely. The fact is if we sanction their development, we only provide legitimacy for other nations to do exactly the same.

My constituents in Marin and Sonoma Counties in California, like most Americans, have made it very clear that they support a reduction in America's nuclear arsenal. They are rightly demanding that we take a reasoned approach toward nuclear weapons policy, not a renewed buildup of nuclear arms. Without the Markey amendment, United States nuclear policy will take a U-turn that would prompt more nuclear competition, threaten our national security, and undermine nonproliferation efforts.

Reject this vision. Support the Markey amendment.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 15 seconds.

Mr. Chairman, this is not a mini nuclear weapon. I do not know where that term came from, but it is totally incorrect. A deep earth penetrating weapon is a large weapon designed to do damage. In fact, in our committee we called mini nukes again with the bipartisan spirit of our members on the other side, for a study of the effects of this. This amendment should be rejected.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Texas (Mr. THORNBERRY).

Mr. THORNBERRY. I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I have always found it rather odd that some of our most difficult battles in the area of national security are preventing our own people by limiting our options and tying our hands behind our back.

There are some military capabilities that we may decide are not worth the time to pursue, and there are some capabilities that in the priority of things we may want to leave behind. But I find it very troubling that some people do not want us to explore options which could be critical for our future national security.

Frankly, I am skeptical that any Member of this body can know for certain all of the circumstances that any President in the future will face in a world of biological, chemical and radiological and nuclear weapons, and we want to say we are not even going to consider those options to deal with all of those things. I think that would be a mistake.

To have a credible deterrent, that means political adversaries, and even friends have to believe in that deterrent. If we say up front, if you burrow down in the ground we cannot touch you because our conventional capabilities have failed, that nuclear weapon is not useful, even though we do not need them in Afghanistan, we do not need them in Iraq; we can destroy, level those countries. If we use nuclear weapons in Tora Bora, it will only be in order to ensure that the Taliban is bouncing, not that we have destroyed the entire country already with conventional weapons.

This is the wrong road to go down. We are breaching a barrier which would be a very serious mistake for our country.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of the time.

Mr. Chairman, we have just completed almost an hour's worth of work of starting a new era in our relationship with Russia on nuclear weapons. It has been bold. It has been bipartisan. It has been bilateral. We have shown, without any doubt, that we are willing to move into a new era. But, Mr. Chairman, as we saw on September 11, there are those people who do not play by the rules. Anyone who would take out almost 3,000 lives in the most unbelievable way thinkable would not hesitate to do work in one of 10,000 underground bunkers and caves around the world, most of which are in our adversaries' territory, to develop and potentially use weapons of mass destruction. This amendment would go to the extreme. It would prevent the President from taking action.

This is not about peace. I am a teacher by profession. Nobody wants peace more than I do. We do not have a handle on peace with a certain few in this body. This is about giving the President legitimate ability to protect us against those threats that we see emerging in the 21st century. I ask my colleagues to vote no on the Markay amendment.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in strong support of the Markey amendment, and I want to thank my colleagues, Mr. RAHALL and Mr. MARKEY, for their leadership in standing up for the environment.
The Defense Authorization Bill as written grants the Department of Defense sweeping the blanket exemptions to existing environmental laws.

The American public doesn’t want fewer environmental protections. They want more. Eighty-five percent of registered voters surveyed on this question believe that the Department of Defense should have to follow the same environmental and public health laws as everyone else.

We have already seen efforts to roll back protections on our air and water. It is time to stand up and put a stop to these assaults on our environment.

Biodiversity is essential to our national heritage. We have an obligation to our children and to their children to protect that biodiversity.

And so, I urge you to adopt this amendment. It does not impose any unreasonable restrictions on the Department of Defense. It simply ensures that the U.S. government will abide by existing U.S. laws.

MOTION TO RISE OFFERED BY MR. TAYLOR OF MISSISSIPPI

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, I move that the Committee do now rise.

THE CHAIRMAN. The question is on the motion to rise offered by the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR).

The question was taken; and the Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 51, noes 360, not voting 23, as follows:

Mr. LEWIS of Kentucky changed his vote from “aye” to “no.” So the motion to rise was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MARKEY).

The question was taken; and the Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

Mr. CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, the Chair will reduce to 5 minutes the time for a recorded vote on amendment No. 1.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 172, noes 243, not voting 19, as follows:

Mr. LEWIS of Kentucky changed his vote from “aye” to “no.” So the motion to rise was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MARKEY).

The question was taken; and the Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.
Mr. CROWLEY and Mr. FORD changed their vote from "no" to "aye." So the amendment was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

PART A. AMENDMENT NO. 1, AS MODIFIED, OFFERED BY MR. WILDON OF PENNSYLVANIA

The CHAIRMAN. The pending business is the demand for a recorded vote on amendment No. 1, as modified, printed in part A of House Report 107-450 offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WILDON) on which further proceedings were postponed and on which the ayes prevailed by voice vote.

The Clerk will redesignate the amendment. The Clerk redesignated the amendment.

RECORDED VOTE

The CHAIRMAN. A recorded vote has been demanded.

A recorded vote was ordered.

Mr. MEEHAN and Ms. SLAUGHTER moved the vote be taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 362, noes 53, as follows:

So the amendment, as modified, was agreed to. The result of the vote was announced as above recorded. Stated against: Ms. RIVERS. Mr. Chairman, on rolcall No. 142, I should have voted “no.” I mistakenly voted “yea.”

The CHAIRMAN. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 4 printed in part A of House Report 107–450. The motion to rise offered by the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR). The CHAIRMAN. Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment. The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment. The text of the amendment is as follows:

PART A AMENDMENT NO. 4 OFFERED BY MR. TIERNEY

At the end of subtitle C of title II (page 49, after line 17), insert the following new section:

SEC. 234. PROHIBITION ON USE OF FUNDS FOR SPACE-BASED NATIONAL MISSILE DEFENSE PROGRAM.

No funds appropriated for fiscal year 2003 for the Department of Defense may be used for a space-based national missile defense program.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 415, the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. TIERNEY) and a Member opposed each will control 10 minutes.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. TIERNEY). Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

It is clear from the size of this Department of Defense budget, including the $48 billion-or-so increase, that the administration and others here are using the circumstances of our involvement in Afghanistan and the circumstances of September 11 to put money into this budget for all manner of programs whether or not they deal with priority threats to this country now and have.

Every Member of this body is concerned and wants the best defense possible for this country. We all want support for the men and women who serve. We want fair pay, decent housing, working weapons. We are collectively concerned with the security of this country, and we need to be certain we allocate our limited resources toward programs that target those threats and risks which are the most likely to endanger us now and in the near future.

This amendment then focuses on just that. It is to make the point that this bill is a repository for already-repudiated programs, some of which our own Secretary of Defense is surprised to still see in this bill. The amendment does it by prohibiting the Department of Defense from using funds this fiscal year for space-based national missile defense, or Star Wars. Not sea based, not air based, not land based, not components of any of those. We should debate that, but this amendment focuses on space-based, or Star Wars, programs, the same concept which was here before, on which we spent billions of dollars and lost that money.

This bill authorizes $54 million for a Boost Program Space-Based Lasers, which act as interceptors in space, as well as the kinetic physical interceptors. This space-based interceptor has gone through two iterations already. They are behind schedule and over budget. Testing for this space-based laser system has been pushed back indefinitely. And that is just the testing for the system. Nobody can even predict when such a space-based system might actually be deployed.

How does continued funding for this program serve us towards a more agile force? We should not repeat the past errors, like Safeguard, which was the first stab at a failed missile defense space wars system in the 1970s. Rushing to fund an untested program with the questionable capabilities of this one makes no sense. It jeopardizes strategic judgment and wastes our much-needed money.

At the very least, we should be alarmed that we are not taking the time as a Nation to have a thoughtful dialogue on this and the ramifications of this national missile defense system. There are better ways that we have to do that, that have little to do with our priority realistic threats to our security. This Star Wars program is but one small part of that.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from California is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

My colleagues, we are in space. We are in space in a way that is inextricably linked with not only our missile defense system but almost all of our national security.

If we take a look at the architecture for our space systems, we have in space literally everything from weather and the environment, to navigation, to surveillance and reconnaissance, to missile warning, to communications. The successful intercepts that we have made now out of the Kwajalein Test Range took place 148 miles above the surface of the Earth.

I want to read the amendment of my friend from Massachusetts (Mr. TIERNEY): “No funds appropriated for fiscal year 2003 for the Department of Defense may be used for a space-based national missile defense program.”

Now, in the first place, we simply have a missile defense program, not a national missile versus a theater missile defense program, because we are now dealing with a number of missiles which have varying rates of speed and distances. For example, we have the old Model T scud that goes fairly slowly, several hundred miles, all the way up to the fast-moving ICBM that will go several times the speed of a high-powered rifle bullet when it reenters the atmosphere aimed at an American city.

So we are putting in place an architecture which is layered, which will give us, hopefully, several shots at the same missile instead of the prosecution of either our troops in theater or the United States of America and our citizens. We have to have space assets to be able to intercept those incoming missiles.

Now, one thing we have seen in this debate today is what I would call the new imposition of Marquis of Queensbury rules on our side. We just had an amendment in which the other people may drive an airplane into an American tower and destroy thousands of American civilians, but it is against the rules for us to go after their leadership if they are buried deep underground and we use a nuclear penetrator. That is not Marquis of Queensbury rules. And no matter what the other side does, it must play by the Marquis of Queensbury rules.

Well, we are already in space. It does not make any sense to have a very broadly worded amendment that, if we take it literally, would ban the very systems that we are testing right now.

There is another aspect of this, and that is this: we had the predator over in Afghanistan, and the predator is our unmanned aircraft. And from that aircraft we take certain recon capability, certain sensors, and we target the enemy. And then we use another platform, whether it is from a ship or a plane or a land-based unit, to hit that enemy that was targeted by the predator. And our war-fighting commanders, who were trying to win the war over there, with as few Americans as possible being killed, said this: They said, maybe we should just use that airborne unit up there. Instead of just using that for information and relaying that information to the ground, why do we not just put a hell fire missile on that particular UAV and go ahead and strike the enemy with the UAV? In other words, let us use this recon unit for both a reconnaissance and for the attack shot. So we are becoming more efficient in the way we use technology. So the idea that we have to play by some obscure Marquis of Queensbury rules that says we cannot use space to stop a missile that may be incoming to an American city does not make any sense.

So I would just urge all Members to vote against this amendment. This is a dangerous amendment. If taken literally, it freezes our present programs in place.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

MOTION TO RISE OFFERED BY MR. TAYLOR OF MISSISSIPPI

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, I move that the Committee do now rise.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the motion to rise offered by the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR).
Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and the result—aye 46, noes 356, not voting 32, as follows:

[Vote List]

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman announced that the noes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. SPRATT. I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, I yield.

Mr. SPRATT. The amendment as it is written, because that is the amendment that is going to build it and if it is going to be dealt with by Dodd lawyers, they say, “No funds appropriated for fiscal year 2003 for the Department of Defense may be used for a space-based national defense missile program.”

Mr. TIERNEY. The gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. SPRATT. I yield to the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DOGGETT).

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Chairman, space-based missile defense is the true faith-based initiative because it takes a mighty big leap of faith to believe we can master the technology, distinguish the decoys and achieve perfection.

Of course, in the real world this space shield idea has been rather hit or miss, mostly miss, since you need perfect weather and a honing beacon on the incoming missile for it to work.

But the experience never seems to faze those who have seen so many Star Wars sequels that they abide by the questionable principle, “build it and it will work.” I prefer the wisdom of Dr. Steven Weinberg, a Nobel Prize-winning physicist at the University of Texas, who says this system will “worsen our security,” and that of former Defense Secretary William Perry, who warned that “a relatively small deployment of defensive systems could have the effect of triggering a considerable nuclear arms race.”

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, the amendment is wrong.

If terrorism is now our greatest threat, if we have learned anything from September 11, we know an ICBM is not the most likely way to wreak devastation and that putting so many more taxpayers’ dollars in this one NMD basket makes so little security sense.

We can spend billions trying to build a shield to blunt every sword or we can invest our resources and diplomacy more wisely to keep the sword, or missile from ever being drawn.

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Maine (Mr. ALLEN).

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Tierney amendment to ban spending on space-based national missile defense systems in fiscal year 2003. Before funding new weapons, we should have a consensus on the wisdom of space-based warfare and today there is no such consensus.

The Missile Defense Agency has requested $35 million to do R&D on a space laser which has not gone beyond concept definition and was killed by the House Committee on Appropriations last year. The administration wants to resurrect space-based kinetic interceptors to shoot down missiles in the boost phase. This approach has been tried and rejected twice before on technological and cost grounds.

The Missile Defense Agency should focus on getting the most mature systems like PAC 3 and THAAD to the field to protect our troops, not to invest in systems that will make outer space the next battlefield.

Mr. Chairman, I urge support for the Tierney amendment.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3½ minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON).

(Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, this is a 1980s amendment; Ronald Reagan was President. The term “Stars Wars” is again resurrecting itself. It has no relevancy to what we are doing today. This is not a discussion of whether or not we are going to deploy a strategic defense initiative. That discussion is over; it ended in the 1980s and 1990s. There is no national missile defense, so the amendment is not relative.

In fact, if we take this amendment, it is so poorly worded, which is why the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATļ) needs clarification, because even he has concerns, but to get clarification, he is trying to qualify some things. It is so poorly worded we could in fact end the only joint program we have with Russia. Does the gentleman know about the RAMOS program which the Russians proposed that we do, which Carl Levin on the Senate side led the fight to restore? That program is 2 satellites. Under the gentleman’s amendment, we cut the funding for the RAMOS program because, heaven forbid, satellites are in space.

But wait a minute. What about all of my colleagues here who care about Israel’s security? We funded with our money the Arrow program. We spent almost $500 million on Arrow, the most successful missile defense program operating today.

Well, guess what? To Israel, Arrow is their national missile defense, and we funded it.

So the fact is that while the gentleman may have wanted to end a specific program, the amendment is so vague that it applies to everything, and it really does not make any sense. It really was designed for a Ronald Reagan-era debate when Stars Wars could be used like Darth Vader, that somehow we were advocating some obscure process to start war in space. That is not the case.

We have a very deliberate program that has been supported by Democrats and Republicans because we have confidence, perhaps more than ever, in the director of our Missile Defense Agency. General Kadish is respected by Democrats and Republicans for giving us a thoughtful, interconnected, multi-layered, sustainable, and control the world through space. So this is an argument of this is so far into the future, it is ahead of the horizon.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. KUCINICH. Acturally, Mr. Chairman, there are some people who believe that the world does have the possibility to live in peace and that the instrumentalities of violence will eventually give way to human reason and that our ability to talk to each other as human beings may be the basis for peace in the world as opposed to weaponizing space.

The gentleman’s amendment is well taken because, according to an Air Force briefing, the space-based laser is being contemplated for anti-satellite missions, denying access to space, disrupting satellite communications, knocking out high altitude aircraft, or unmanned aerial vehicles. These missions go far beyond intercepting missiles, and they echo the Quadrennial Defense Review’s call for the United States to exploit its military capabilities for both military and space-based purposes, and the Air Force’s wish in a Joint Vision 20/20 document for full spectrum dominance in space.

What colossal arrogance it is to assume that we can seize the high heavens and control the world through space. Yes, work for peace on earth, and when we do that, we will not have to worry about a later generation creating peace in space.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may concur to just remind my colleagues that when we are considering this amendment and we consider all of the things that our military uses that are space-based right now, right from a marine platoon level, to GPS, it turns out what we have is, to the recon satellites that we have to, yes, the cueing system that we are going to have to hopefully be able to intercept missiles before they impact our cities, I think we are going to come to the conclusion that the American people do not have too much tolerance for the argument that is being put forward.

There are no people in space. There are people in those towers that got hit because the terrorists thought the American people would accept a space-based system that might have protected the Twin Towers, they probably would say yes. We do not care if we are violating the Marquis of Queensbury rules by somehow using assets that are in space. So this is an argument that I think should be given short shrift by the American people.

We are in space, other nations are in space, and the idea that we are going to take from General Kadish, who I think is an honorable man and who I think would feel is a good steward of this program, the idea that we are going to take one of his options that he has laid out to test, we are going to move it off of the table because we want to impose our judgment in place of his judgment is not a good thing.

We have given him this set of options. We have let him pick them. We are going to let him go through with the schedule ahead of us. He is going to throw the losers out and reward the winners by trying to get something that can stop incoming ballistic missiles in the next 4 to 5 years. That is a good goal. We should leave this package that he has intact. Let us let him make some decisions and let us let General Kadish have some discretion. Please vote no on this.

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, it is Mr. Kadish’s plans, which the director of Operations, Testing and Evaluation said had no testing regime that anybody could trust or that would work.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. Holt).

(Mr. HOLT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chairman, while there are many things in the defense authorizations that I support, national missile defense is not one of them, and the gentleman from Massachusetts is seeking to eliminate one of the more senseless parts of the supposed national missile defense system. The proposed missile defense system would not work as designed, as wishing will not overcome the physics. It could be confused with the decoys, it could be bypassed for suitcase bombs, truck-launched missiles. It would be billions of dollars down the drain. But it is not just a diversion of resources. It is worse than a waste. Simple strategic analysis tells us that provocative yet permeable defenses are destabilizing and would reduce our security.

Americans have been awakened in recent months to threats to our national security and they understand that a space-based missile defense will not help. Americans have learned in recent months that we need anthrax defense, we need container ship defense, we need bridge and tunnel defense. We do not need space-based national missile defense.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Taylor) or anybody else in this body is going to have 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Illinois (Ms. Schakowsky).

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Tierney amendment to prohibit the Bush administration from spending taxpayer dollars on a space-based, 21st century version of a Star Wars missile defense system.

The question we should always ask is does this system make us safer? Are my children and my grandchildren safer if we spend these millions of dollars? I believe the answer is no. Not now, and not in the future.

Today we do face some very real threats. Warnings are issued on a regular basis of possible terrorist attacks. Interceptors from space are not going to help us. We need better intelligence to head off the last minute warnings and shoe bombs and biological weapons at our airports, seaports, trains and highways.

Long-range, weaponizing space, bringing weapons into another dimension, is not a strategy for security. Rather, as the Union of Concerned Scientists contend, such a move destabilizes arms control as we know it.

The only Stars Wars any Members of this Congress should see will be at a theater near you on May 16. I strongly urge a yes vote on the Tierney amendment.

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield the remaining time to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. Frank).

Mr. FRANK. Mr. Chairman, I congratulate the gentleman from California on his debating tactic. He has me focused on how that space-based interceptor was going to stop the attack on the World Trade Center when no one knew an attack was coming. Maybe it has psychic powers. So I do not know what else I am supposed to talk about.

Except I would note that I was struck, when forced to defend this notion of a space-based system, we are told it is for Israel. I have to say, time and again we are told that it is for Israel. I have to say, everyone knows that it is for Israel. I have to say, in addition to all of Israel’s other problems, getting schlepped into every defense debate when my colleagues are short of an argument seems to me an unnecessary burden on them. Yes, people are prepared to deal with the Arrow and support the Arrow.

As to the gentleman’s amendment, it is not perfectly worded because of the process we have. He had another amendment, a very specific amendment, which allows me, as the chairman of the Committee on Rules, to move it off of the table because we want to impose our amendment. It is clear what is intended. If this amendment passes and goes to conference, the colloquy will be carried out.

The question is this: Everywhere but on the floor of the House, people on the other side talk about how we are going to have these space-based interceptors that are going to come down and probably know nothing about the World Trade Center when we did not know there were planes that we should have been going after, and do all of these other things. The fact is that we do not believe that putting billions and billions of dollars, when we are already underfunding a number of other priorities, into a space-based system makes sense.

I have heard people say if we do not do this, we are going to encounter a space-based Pearl Harbor. Well, fortunately, there is no space-based Japan of 1941. We have it to ourselves.

Finally, I want to say, Mr. Chairman, time and again we are told America is terribly weak and we have to spend all of these billions. That is totally at variance with the reality of a very strong America, and the need to spend these additional billions on these ill-thought-out programs does not exist.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

Mr. Chairman, during the testimony, when General Eberhardt was before our committee and a question was put to him as to what is of utmost importance for the future, his answer was what we call the SBIRS, Space-Based Infrared System.

I think that is very, very important to the defense of our country, based upon General Eberhardt’s comments to us that day.

Now, based upon the colloquy between the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. Tinkham) and the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Spratt), it is apparent that the SBIRS, or the space-based infrared systems, are exempt from the language and the intent of this amendment, which allows me, based upon that, to support this amendment.

Mr. ROEMER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield to the gentleman from Indiana.

(Mr. ROEMER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROEMER. Mr. Chairman, I thank my good friend, the gentleman from Missouri, for yielding to me.

I want to start by applauding my friend, the gentleman from California (Mr. Hunter); my friend, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Weldon), and this side of the aisle for putting together a good bill that I rise in strong support of.

I rise in strong support of the ability of the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. Taylor) or anybody else in this body to stand up and offer motions to adjourn because they have not had the opportunity to offer an important amendment.

I rise in strong support, Mr. Chairman, of the principles in this great House of free debate and free speech on a bill that has been on this floor in the past for 2 and 3 weeks, yet somehow we want to get it through in hours today. There are very important amendments that were denied the possibility of being debated in the Committee on Rules on this floor. Why is that important? Back in 1969, a man by the name of Robert Wilson, the first director of the Fermilab, a particle physics facility, was asked to testify before Congress.

Congress asked him, What does your testimony and your lab have to do with the defense of this country? And here is what he said: “This new knowledge has all to do with honoring our country, but it has nothing to do directly with defending our country, except to make it worth defending.”
Now, "make it worth defending" is when we can have the amendment of the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR) on base closure debated on the floor; when we can have a Crusader missile amendment, which even the Secretary of Defense Department wants to eliminate, debated on this floor. That is in the best interests of this country.

The Secretary of Defense has said we can save the taxpayer $11 billion, yet the Republican Party, said they are going to deny five different amendments the opportunity to be debated on this floor.

Mr. SKELTON. In conclusion, Mr. Chairman, I again reiterate, based upon the colloquy between the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. STRINGER) and the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. TIERNEY) and those concerned about the future of the SBIRs system, I can fully support the amendment.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Just to conclude, Mr. Chairman, this is a three-amendment question. When it takes a colloquy to explain what a three-amendment question means, we know in trouble.

This amendment, as it is written, would freeze our present programs with N.M.D. tests have had, it is mind-boggling that funding for a national missile defense system is still being debated.

Since 1940, the U.S. has spent $5.8 trillion dollars on nuclear weapons programs . . . more than on any other single program, except Social Security! The U.S. has already spent more than $100 billion on missile defenses with little to show—so why do we keep throwing good money after bad?

Mr. Chairman, where are our priorities? Instead of investing in missile defense programs—we should be spending our scarce financial resources on our real domestic needs . . . like our children’s education; our seniors, and their health care; our families and their financial security.

If this Congress wants to really increase U.S. security, we must invest in people, not weapons.

I urge my colleagues to support the Tierney amendment.
Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will disregard the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

SEC. 217. TRANSFER OF FUNDS TO INCREASE THE AMOUNT PROVIDED IN SECTION 101 FOR MISSILE DEFENSE ACTIVITY.

(a) INCREASE FOR PAC-3 PROCUREMENT—The amount provided in section 101 for PAC-3 Missle Defense Agency for program element 0603881C, Terminal Defense Segment, for the Israeli Arrow Ballistic Missile System program.

(b) INCREASE FOR ISRAELI ARROW PROGRAM—The amount provided in section 201(4) for research, development, test, and evaluation, Defense-Wide, is hereby increased by $50,000,000, to be available within program element 0603881C, Terminal Defense Segment, only for the Israeli Arrow Ballistic Missile System program.

(3) CORRESPONDING REDUCTION—The amount provided in section 201(4) for research, development, test, and evaluation, Defense-Wide, is hereby reduced by $50,000,000, to be derived from amounts in the Missile Defense Agency for program element 0603883C, Boost Defense Segment, of which: (1) $21,393,000 shall be derived from project 1040, Space-Based Boost; (2) $21,810,000 shall be derived from project 1043, Space-Based Laser; and (3) $5,797,000 shall be derived from project 1042, Sea-Based Boost.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 415, the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) and a Member opposed each will control 10 minutes.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment, until it is amended.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT).

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The purpose of this amendment, Mr. Chairman, is to move $35 million within the ballistic missile defense account. Not outside it, not away from it, not to take a dime out of the top line, but to rearrange $35 million within the $7.8 billion account in the following manner:

First, we would move $65 million into production of 24 additional PAC-3 missiles. The PAC-3, the most advanced missile, the only missile defense system that we will really deploy for nearly the next five years, is woefully short in supply at the present time. We could very well need it in the near future. And so this would move $65 million into the PAC-3 line and allow 24 additional PAC-3s to be purchased.

There is an economic effect. By buying more, we buy more efficiently. We run the plant at a higher and more efficient rate; and as a consequence, these 24 missiles will cost nearly $1 million a copy less than they would otherwise cost if we were buying fewer.

Secondly, this amendment would move $70 million out of other accounts into manufacturing and development for the Arrow missile, which is being manufactured at a plant in Alabama, a Boeing plant in Alabama. Once again, this would provide us with a system which may be needed in the here and now, in the near future. This is a system that is ready to go but is not fully funded for production.

Now, where does this money come from? Under my amendment, Mr. Chairman, we would take first of all funds out of space-based interceptors. Mr. Chairman, we have seen since the inauguration of SDI in 1983, we have developed at least two iterations of a space-based kinetic kill interceptor. The original space-based interceptor was based on a satellite. A number of different interceptors would have been garaged on a single satellite and deployed from that satellite. Because such a satellite is a highly valuable and highly visible target in the near term, it becomes an easy target to take out. Because of its vulnerability, it was discontinued. Actually, it was defeated here on the House floor; discontinued the next year by SDI.

In its place, SDI proposed something called Brilliant Pebbles. The idea was to make these interceptors single autonomous satellites and so prolific they would be too prolific for any adversary to take out enough to make a difference. Well, Brilliant Pebbles II, after the expenditure of several hundred million dollars, was abandoned and discarded.

I am proposing here tonight, Mr. Chairman, that we have a full plate already for the Missile Defense Agency. We are trying to bring to fruition the mid-course interceptor. We are trying to develop a boost-phase intercept for the Navy. We are trying to develop a mid-course intercept system based upon a Navy ship. We have an airborne laser system. Given the full plate that the MDA, Missile Defense Agency, already has for the systems it has started up or is starting now, it does not need to complicate its problems with an additional space-based system, particularly after we have already abandoned two iterations of it.

Secondly, we would deplete the funding except for $10 million for further research, development, test, and evaluation. The MDA, Missile Defense System program, is hereby increased by $65,000,000, to be available for an additional 24 PAC-3 missiles.

(b) INSPECTION OF THE REQUIREMENT OR THE BALLISTIC MISSILE DEFENSE SYSTEM PROGRAM.—The amount provided in section 201(4) for the Missile Defense Agency is hereby increased by $70,000,000, to be available for the Ballistic Missile Defense System program.

(c) CORRESPONDING REDUCTION.—The amount provided in section 201(4) for research, development, test, and evaluation, for the Ballistic Missile Defense System program, is hereby reduced by $135,000,000, to be derived from amounts available to the Missile Defense Agency.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 415, the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER). Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, the amendment offered by the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) is very excellent with respect to the requirement or the proposal that we increase in two areas in missile defense, one of which is for additional PAC-3 missiles. Those in fact are the missiles, the antimissile system that we are deploying in the near term. We started deploying those around the end of 2001. We are moving ahead to deploy that first battery. We are in what is known as low-rate initial production right now, finishing up EMD; and we are starting to move out with that program. And it is a great improvement over the Patriot missile that we utilized during Desert Storm. So it makes sense to try to get as many of those in the field as quickly as possible.

Similarly, we have been the prime mover in the Arrow missile program, which is also a theater antimissile system. It is an excellent system. It has been proven out and is in deployment right now, and we are trying to increase the deployment and get a third battery up for the Arrow missile. So both of those add, I think, are good amendments.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, it is in order for me to offer the substitute at this time.

The CHAIRMAN. It is in order to consider amendment No. 6 printed in part A of House Report 107-450. PART A AMENDMENT No. 6 OFFERED BY MR. HUNTER AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR THE PART A AMENDMENT No. 5 OFFERED BY MR. SPRATT.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment as a substitute for the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment offered as a substitute for the amendment. The text of the amendment offered as a substitute for the amendment is as follows:

Part A amendment No. 6 offered by Mr. HUNTER as a substitute for part A amendment No. 5 offered by Mr. SPRATT.

At the end of subtitile C of title II (page 218, after line 15), insert the following new section:

SEC. 2. TRANSFER OF FUNDS TO INCREASE AMOUNTS FOR PAC-3 MISSILE PROCUREMENT AND ISRAELI ARROW PROGRAM.

(a) INCREASE FOR PAC-3 PROCUREMENT.—The amount provided in section 101 for Missile Procurement, Army, is hereby increased by $65,000,000, to be available for an additional 24 PAC-3 missiles.

(b) INSPECTION OF THE REQUIREMENT OR THE BALLISTIC MISSILE DEFENSE SYSTEM PROGRAM.—The amount provided in section 201(4) for the Missile Defense Agency is hereby increased by $70,000,000, to be available within program element 0603881C, Terminal Defense Segment, only for the Israeli Arrow Ballistic Missile Defense System program.

(c) CORRESPONDING REDUCTION.—The amount provided in section 201(4) for research, development, test, and evaluation, for the Ballistic Missile Defense System program, is hereby reduced by $135,000,000, to be derived from amounts available to the Missile Defense Agency.
Mr. RODRIGUEZ changed his vote from “no” to “aye.”

So the motion to rise was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER) has 13 minutes remaining. The gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) has 10 1/2 minutes remaining.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from South Carolina and I have discussed his accepting of my substitute and our accepting of the amendment. I know he has several speakers. We will have more speakers. What I would be happy to do is yield my time on the substitute to the gentleman from South Carolina’s speakers and maybe we could move this process along.

Mr. SPRATT. I thank the gentleman. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELDON), the ranking member of our committee.

Mr. SKELDON. Mr. Chairman, I strongly support the amendment by my friend from South Carolina, and I compliment him as well as the gentleman from California.

This amendment addresses what I see as a problem relative to. I have looked at the future and found it wanting. There just is not enough money to carry out the current defense program through the next five years.

But instead of keeping its priorities on what the troops need, we see the Department of Defense canceling programs with real-world relevance while throwing money at any missile defense item that comes down the pike.

As a gesture of national unity, Democrats last year foreclosed a significant debate on missile defense. We did not debate the 57 percent increase in spending. We have not debated Secretary Rumsfeld’s removal of most of the controls and oversight required of all other major defense programs. We have not debated other significant changes.

But I hope Mr. Chairman, that we can at least begin, with this amendment, to reestablish relevance as a consideration when spending the national treasury.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. HARMAN).

Ms. HARMAN. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding to me and I rise in support of this bill.

Mr. Chairman, I believe I was the first Member of Congress in January 2001 to see the Arrow system deployed at Palamanch Air Force Base in Israel. It was very exciting to see the radar, the launchers, and also to see some members of the United States Navy working on the interoperable aspects of the system.

An important thing for this House to understand is that this system is inter-operable. The cost-sharing between our country and Israel has produced a system that will protect Israel against current and future missile attacks, and these are real threats, but also will protect U.S. troops deployed in the field. We have done on this system and the costs we have shared with our democratic ally, Israel, will help us as we develop our own more advanced theater missile defense and national missile defense systems. This amendment transfers money in this defense authorization bill to support more advanced deployment of a system Israel needs now, and to support the continued development of missile defense systems for the United States. It is a win-win; a win for our ally, Israel; a win for our troops and our homeland.

At a time when our homeland is under serious threat, an issue I devote a lot of my time to, this amendment will assure that we are more capable against a missile threat.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to support the amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I support this bill, which provides for a strong defense for our nation. This chamber and this Committee, of which I am a former member, have a long record of providing our armed forces with the capabilities needed to win wars overseas. The overwhelming success of the ongoing operations in Afghanistan demonstrates these capabilities, and attests to the skill and dedication of our armed forces.

We now face a new challenge. While our military forces will be called to win wars overseas, the nation must also wage a war at home. This is not a war we can win with artillery or uniformed troops. It is a war of intelligence, it is a war of technology, and of wills.

Similarly, the war against terrorism in Afghanistan was not won with the force structure and equipment of the Cold War. We rely on long-range platforms, on stealth, and on precision-guided munitions. Technology is replacing the need to put our uniformed personnel in harm’s way and providing situational awareness to commanders miles away. While we will maintain the ability to go it alone, the ability to lead a coalition will frequently replace the need to shoulder the burden exclusively.

The bill before us today is a step in the right direction. It is a win for our troops and our homeland.
the fight against legacy systems and programs, to replace them with agile and smart systems, and to improve the poor tooth to tail ratio through better business practices in the defense establishment.

Finally, I am proud to represent the aerospace capital of the universe. The companies in my district forge the reconnaissance and communications satellites, UAVs, and other cutting edge technologies that will drive the new defense. I support these programs, and I support this bill.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. TURNER), in whose district the PAC III is built.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

I think it is important for us to understand what this amendment is really all about. It is the intent of the sponsors of these amendments to be sure that we are prepared to deal with what we may potentially face if we are involved in a land battle in a country like Iraq.

Today we have only 20 PAC III missiles in our inventory. We authorized 72 additional missiles last year. They are not on line yet. What that means is if we get into a battle, a land battle where our troops need the protection from those Scud missiles coming from Iraq, we simply will not have the protection our troops should have.

The PAC III missile is the only hit-to-kill missile that we have that has been proven to be successful. The old Patriot missiles are a different technology. We will certainly want as a House tonight to stand behind our troops and ensure that an additional 24 missiles are authorized under this bill.

The Army says they need over 2,000 PAC III missiles in their inventory. We will not be able to appropriate money for a decade to get that inventory to that level. But we can take a small step tonight by authorizing an additional 24 missiles for PAC III, as well as the authorization for additional funding for the Arrow missile, which is also a missile that will defend against the Scud missiles of Iraq.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE). (Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I thank the distinguished gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chair, let me first of all state my support for this legislation as it relates to the funding of the military personnel in this country. I support the increases contained in this authorization bill will provide.

Let me also thank the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) for a very thoughtful amendment as it relates to dealing with the missile activities in our country's ground or missile ground activity. I support that kind of utilization of missile defense, in the theater, on the ground.

I think it is important to note that I do oppose in its totality the utilization of $7 billion for missile defense in this particular bill. I think the thoughtful amendment that the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) has that deals with the public and distribution of the funds, particularly as it relates to Israeli defense, is very helpful. However, let me share with my colleagues my concerns about missile defense.

First of all, Operation Enduring Freedom is costing roughly $1.8 billion per month. Our funding for missile defense at $7 billion, and we will also use $7 billion in 4 months for Operation Enduring Freedom. The money for Missile defense was put in this legislation even after a top defense official has said that a successful U.S. missile defense system which was completed recently does not realistically duplicate conditions of an actual attack, a fault in the missile defense. We also find that kinetic kill as a concept for destroying long-range ballistic missiles is even more problematic at this stage. There is no empirical evidence to support the contention that kinetic kill for ICBM defense will work.

So I simply say that the amendment before us, the Spratt amendment, with the distribution of funds as he is offering to do, is an amendment that makes sense, because it is related to ground missile defense. But I am opposed, Mr. Chairman, to the utilization of $7 billion for the missile defense program as offered in this bill and in the President's budget. I ask my colleagues to support the Spratt amendment.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER).

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I thank him for accepting my amendment.

This Arrow missile was a program that we approved in 1997. Members of the Committee on Armed Services contacted Mr. Rabin and Mr. Abramson and said you have to develop a system against incoming ballistic missiles because at some point we are going to see them coming from neighboring countries built presumably by Russia. We saw that. We are going to see more of it. This is a prudent move. The PAC III is also an excellent addition. I thank the gentleman for accepting this substitute.

Mr. Chair, I move the substitute at this time.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chair, Operation Enduring Freedom is costing roughly $1.8 billion per month. Within four months of that amount will climb to $7.2 billion, while funding the ballistic missile defense program in H.R. 4546 will cost approximately $7.784 billion.

The Ballistic Missile Defense system has failed most of its tests. Kinetic kill as a concept for destroying long-range ballistic missiles is even more problematic at this stage. There is no empirical evidence to support the contention that kinetic kill for ICBM defense will work.

The military personnel conducting the war in Afghanistan are showing measurable victories in achieving the United States goals. While the ballistic missile defense program is not a proven deterrent, let's not fund an unproven, instead let's fund success. By diverting the funds to military personnel who are insuring the welfare and the welfare of their families, which results in increased security for America.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I ask my colleagues to support the Spratt amendment.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT), as amended.

The amendment, as amended, was agreed to.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Chairman, I ask my colleagues to support the Spratt amendment.

DELETIONS OF SPONSORS FROM PUBLIC BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS

Under clause 7 of rule XII, sponsors were deleted from public bills and resolutions as follows:

H.R. 448: Mr. Filner.
H.R. 975: Mr. Bachus.
The Senate met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable Hillary Rodham Clinton, a Senator from the State of New York.

PRAYER

The guest Chaplain, Commissioner John Busby, of the Salvation Army, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank You for being the refuge and strength of our Nation during these last painful months. We praise You for the comfort You have given during our time of deepest need.

Faithful God, we ask Your blessing upon our Senators. Give them wisdom and compassion as they lead our country. Give them wisdom to see the deep physical and spiritual needs of many Americans. Give them courage to affirm that faith in You gives meaning to human life and that service to humanity is the best work we can do.

We humbly ask You to help the Members of the Senate make this great Nation greater. May we all realize that the prosperity we enjoy in the United States of America has come only by Your grace. Make us worthy stewards of that grace. Help us all to put into action Your greatest commandment to love God with all our heart, mind, strength and our neighbor as ourselves.

This we pray in the name of Jesus who set for us the example of service above self. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable Hillary Rodham Clinton led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The Presiding Officer. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. Byrd).

The assistant legislative clerk read the following letter:

U.S. Senate, President pro tempore, Washington, DC, May 9, 2002.

To the Senate:

Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable Hillary Rodham Clinton, a Senator from the State of New York, to perform the duties of the Chair. Robert C. Byrd, President pro tempore.

Mrs. Clinton thereupon assumed the chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER

The Acting President pro tempore. The acting majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. Reid. Madam President, this morning the Senate will be in a period of morning business until 10:30 a.m., with the time under the control of Senator Stabenow or her designee.

At 10:30 a.m. the Senate will proceed to executive session to consider four judicial nominations. At approximately 11:30 a.m. the Senate will proceed to vote on these nominations.

Following disposition of these nominations, the Senate will resume consideration of the trade bill.

MARY ANNE MOORE CLARKSON GIVES BIRTH

Mr. Reid. Madam President, for all of us who work here on a daily basis, we congratulate Mary Anne Moore Clarkson who, last night had a baby weighing more than 10 pounds. Mary Anne is here every day. We are excited for her and her husband. Some of us know she is Senator Byrd’s granddaughter. We are excited for him and the entire family.

MEASURE PLACED ON THE CALENDAR—S. 2485

Mr. Reid. Madam President, I understand S. 2485 is at the desk and is due for a second reading. The Acting President pro tempore. That is correct.

Mr. Reid. I ask that the bill be read for a second time, and I will then object to any further proceedings at this time.

The Acting President pro tempore. The clerk will read the bill by title.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 2485) entitled the “Andean Trade Promotion and Drug Eradication Act.”

The Acting President pro tempore. Objection having been heard, the bill will be placed on the calendar.

Mr. Reid. When the Chair turns to a period for morning business, I ask unanimous consent the Senator from West Virginia, Mr. Rockefeller, be recognized for up to 7 minutes. That will be out of Senator Stabenow’s time.

The Acting President pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The Acting President pro tempore. Under the previous order, leadership time is reserved.

MORNING BUSINESS

The Acting President pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will now be a period for the transaction of morning business not to extend beyond the hour of 10:30 a.m., with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each and with the time to be under the control of the Senator from Michigan, Ms. STABENOW, or her designee.

Under the previous order, the Senator from West Virginia is recognized.

STEEL

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Madam President, yesterday the President made very clear what we have all known for a long time in steel country, and that is that he basically does not care whether the American steel industry goes to Japan, Korea, Brazil, Russia, or some other place; that he is willing to see it go as an industry but, much more importantly in terms of my comments, that he is willing to consider perhaps TAA health care benefits for workers who have been destroyed by illegal importing problems. But steelworkers do not count. He specifically, in his statement of administration policy, said: I don't want steelworkers to have any health care retirement—retirement in the sense they do not have any more health benefits. I don't care about them. I want the RECORD to be crystal clear on this spirit.

It is a terrible day for steel. Someone is going to get dumped today. Somebody is going to get something called section 201. It was taking the dumping crisis, the illegal dumping crisis, before the International Trade Commission. He got a lot of credit for that. He pretty much had to do that. I would say—on political grounds, No. 1. But more importantly, the Committee had already voted to do it. The Finance Committee has the same standing legally under the law as does the President, so it was going to happen anyway. So the result would have been the same. The International Trade Commission would have voted unanimously the steel industry was grievously injured by imports and people were hurting badly. He did that knowing that it would make him somewhat popular in steel country because people were saying: Gee, we just solved the problem. It is not even the beginning of the problem. All that did was buy us time.

We have to have it. We have to have to accomplish. One is we have to do section 201, which buys us time to consider health care costs, which we have to consider if we are going to have consolidation in the steel industry to preserve an American steel industry. It is sort of one of the great basic industries of this country.

We just passed a farm bill yesterday dumping billions and billions of dollars on farms for the hundredth consecutive year. We just passed the farm bill whatever for steelworkers. I find that very odd, even as my colleagues—side but a couple on this side—fortunately, the Finance Committee had already voted to do it. The Finance Committee had the same standing legally under the law as does the President, so it was going to happen anyway. So the result would have been the same. The International Trade Commission would have voted unanimously the steel industry was grievously injured by imports and people were hurting badly.

He did that knowing that it would make him somewhat popular in steel country because people were saying: Gee, we just solved the problem. It is not even the beginning of the problem. All that did was buy us time.

We have to have it. We have to have to accomplish. One is we have to do section 201, which buys us time to consider health care costs, which we have to consider if we are going to have consolidation in the steel industry to preserve an American steel industry. It is sort of one of the great basic industries of this country.

We just passed a farm bill yesterday dumping billions and billions of dollars on farms for the hundredth consecutive year. We just passed the farm bill whatever for steelworkers. I find that very odd, even as my colleagues make these kinds of judgments.

So, No. 1, he did section 201. He had to do that. He had no choice politically or procedurally. It just bought us some time. But we have to go on to retirement health care costs. He has washed his hands of that. He says: I want nothing to do with it. He actually writes in the statement of administration policy whatever the word is—practice that he particularly opposes the majority leader's amendment which would include retired steelworkers. He makes that very clear. He wants them cut out of the deal. That is only 125,000 and would probably cost $200 million or $300 million.

I think the farm bill we passed yesterday was $100 billion over 10 years. The proportion in sort of the human dimension of this is rather extraordinary.

The President has also done a lot of tariff exclusions. He has taken a lot of countries out of section 201 that had to pay tariffs because they were illegally dumping steel in the United States and putting our workers out of work. He started to exempt different countries. He has different requirements for that—again, I think in violation of the spirit, if not the letter, of the 1974 Trade Act.

All of us have asked him to stop that. Again, he has washed his hands of steel. He has washed his hands, more importantly, of the steelworkers who could also be called human beings with families—people. It doesn't have to be an industry. They are called human beings. They are Americans. They pay taxes. They do things right. They work in a very dangerous industry. So do farmers. Is a farmer more vulnerable than a steelworker? I do not know. Maybe a farmer is, but not where I come from.

I very much regret this action on his part. Let me conclude by saying this: We do not know that the President doesn't have a commitment to steelworkers and to the steel industry. We know he has no regard for how people's lives and entire communities are going to be affected. I have believed that for a long time. Now it is proven. It is clear. He is moving aggressively with the help of some of our colleagues, unfortunately—most of them on the other side but a couple on this side—to simply walk away from steelworkers.

I think that is a kind of betrayal by somebody who claimed to be a friend of the steel industry. The President and the Vice President were in steel country in my part of the world a number of times saying how important steel was to the national defense, how it is basic to Americans, and how they were not going to let them down. When push came to shove, they let them down. They made it very clear.

I want to be incisively precise about that as we start this Thursday so that the people of America understand that.

I don't understand sometimes how people make decisions and what their value systems are, and what kind of fairness is within the fair trade or free trade system. But I do know this: The administration has abandoned any semblance of fairness toward some very decent people in this country called steelworkers.

I thank the Presiding Officer. I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Michigan.

Ms. STABENOW. Madam President, I commend my colleague from West Virginia for his diligence and compassionate concern for our steelworkers.

Coming from Michigan, I share his deep disappointment and concern about the administration's position.

I know the Senator from West Virginia has been in the Chamber over and over again speaking up for our steelworkers. I thank all of the steelworkers in Michigan—those in the Upper Peninsula, those downriver in communities near Detroit, and those who were laid off for several months over the Christmas holidays as a result of the mines having to shut down because of the unfair dumping from other countries. Our steelworkers and mills have been affected.

I can’t think of a more passionate advocate of mine. I am proud to join with him in his continuing fight. I will be here with him in the Chamber as we do everything possible to make sure we remember the steelworkers, who have been the backbone of building this country, and that their health care costs are covered and they are recognized as we look at how we make trade fair in this country.

I thank the Senator.

PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

Ms. STABENOW. Madam President, I want to speak to an issue that relates to health care. I am so honored to join with my colleagues, particularly on this side of the aisle in the Democratic caucus, who continue to work very hard to bring a sense of urgency to the question of health care for our families, to health care insurance, and to affordability for our small businesses and family farmers and the larger business community.

We know today that one of the major costs economically and from a business standpoint—and certainly for families, and particularly for our seniors—is the whole question of being able to pay for health care and being able to afford health care for our families.

We also know the major reason we are seeing health care costs rise relates to the uncontrollable increase in prescription drug coverage.

Today, I once again come to the floor to speak about the need for real action now.

I challenge and invite our colleagues on the other side of the aisle and those in the other Chamber who have come forward with principles—the Speaker of the House and those who will be speaking today about a plan—to join with us in something that is real and tangible.

Words are not going to buy prescriptions for seniors. We know there are seniors watching right now who are deciding today whether to pay that utility bill or eat supper tonight or do they do those other things which they need to do, or cut their medications because they need to save money. We want for our parents and grandparents and older Americans of this country—or do they put all of their money into paying for lifesaving medications? That is not a good choice.

Shame on us for having a situation where seniors have to make that choice. Yet when we come to the floor, we talk about the need for a real Medicare prescription drug benefit. And when we talk about the need to lower prices for all of our families and lower costs so we have their health care available for everyone in this country, we get more words than we get actions.

I am deeply concerned today as we look at what has been proposed by our colleagues on the other side of the Congress, our Republican colleagues in the House have said that they wish to lower the cost of prescription drugs now. Yet at the same time we see old proprietary drugs getting discounts through discount cards and so on—things that are already available which folks want to take political cred- it for, maybe change the name or maybe put it under Medicare. But it doesn’t get to actually lower the prices and make prescription drugs more available.

I am very concerned when we come forward with proposals that will, in fact, lower prices that we are not yet seeing the support.

We want that support to be there to be able to use more generic drugs when they are available after the patent has run out—the same drug and the same formulation—and at a lower price.

We want to open our borders so we can get the best price of American-made drugs regardless of where they are sold around the world.

In Michigan, simply crossing the bridge to Canada, which is a 5-minute drive from half of lower Michigan, is a half on American-made drugs. It is not right. We think when we are talking about fair trade we should open the border to the one thing that we don’t have fair and open trade on; that is, prescription drugs.

We also know the fastest growing part of the cost of that prescription bottle is advertising costs, and that the top 11 Fortune 500 companies, last year, spent 2½ times more on advertising than research.

I was pleased to join with my colleagues earlier this week in introducing legislation to simply say: If you are doing more advertising than research, taxpayors are not going to subsidize your ability to do that. If you do a dime on the amount of advertising and marketing that you do up to the level that you spend in research. We want more research.

We want more innovative drugs. We do not want more market research; we want more medical research. So we propose items to lower costs to help everyone, right now, to lower those prices.

We also come forward saying it is time to update Medicare for today’s health care system. When Medicare was set up in 1965, it covered the way health care was provided in 1965. If you went into the hospital, maybe you had a little penicillin, or maybe you had an operation in the hospital, and Medicare covered it.

Medicare is a great American success story. But health care treatments have changed. I have a constituent who showed me a pill he takes once a month that has stopped him from having to go to the open-heart surgery. It is a great thing—one pill a month. The pill costs $400. I said: I want to take a close look at that pill. I hope it is gold plated. But the reality is, that pill stops expensive open-heart surgery and allows this person to be able to continue living and enjoying a wonderful quality of life with his wife and family.

If he went in for that surgery, Medicare would cover it. They don’t cover the pill. So that is what we are talking about. But we need this to be comprehensive.

When our colleagues come forward, and their second principle is guaranteeing all senior citizens prescription drug coverage. We say: Yes, let’s join with us. Let’s make it real. But, unfortunately, when we run the numbers on what is being talked about—and the bill has not been introduced yet, but we have all kinds of information about what appears to be coming. From what we know, let me share with you some of the numbers.

If you are a senior or if you are disabled and you have a $300-a-month prescription drug bill, which is not uncommon, when you get all done with the copays and the deductibles and the deductibles that they are talking about, you would end up, out of $3,600 worth of prescriptions, paying, out of pocket, $2,920. So less than 20 percent of your bill would be covered under Medicare.

That is not what we are talking about. That is not comprehensive coverage under Medicare. That is really a hoax. That is a proposal being put forward to guarantee all seniors prescription drug coverage, or the ways that they are talking about, you would end up, out of $3,600 worth of prescriptions, paying, out of pocket, $2,920. So less than 20 percent of your bill would be covered under Medicare.

So we come today to this Chamber to say: Yes, guarantee all seniors prescription drug coverage. But the proposal coming forward by the Speaker of the House, and those on the other side of this building, will not do it. Unfortunately, what is being talked about will add insult to injury because they are talking about paying for their less-than-20-percent coverage by another cut to hospitals.

I know the Presiding Officer from New York shares the same concern I have because I know hospitals in New York have been cut, and the ones in Michigan have been cut. My colleague from Florida is in the Chamber. I know he has the same stories—and our leader from Nevada. We know that whether it is rural hospitals or urban hospitals or suburban hospitals, they have had enough cuts under Medicare. It is unbelievable we would be talking about another cut for hospitals while they are proposing this minimal prescription drug benefit.

The one thing I find incredible is that they are talking about a copay of $50 for home health visits. We already have seen dramatic cuts. We have had over 2,500 home health agencies close across this country because of the excessive cuts in home health care payments since 1997. Many of us have been saying: Enough is enough.

We cannot say that the home health help you need will cost more when we are taking a little bit of help with prescription drugs because it is the combination of home health care and prescription drugs that allows people to live at home when they have health care needs. It allows families to take care of mom or dad or grandpa or grandma, to be sure if someone is disabled and needs care at home, that they are not inappropriately placed into a nursing home or out-of-home care. The combination of home health care and affordable prescription medications will help our families care for their loved ones and help people to live in dignity at home.

So I find it incredible that you would have,
first of all, a minimal proposal on prescription drugs coming forward, and then they are talking about cutting hospitals and copays for home health care to pay for it. This is an amazing situation to me.

We need to be strengthening Medicare, not undermining it. Many of the other parts of this proposal would turn Medicare over to private insurance companies. It would basically create a situation where the drug companies or insurance companies may believe they benefit but at the expense of our seniors.

I am going to yield a moment to my colleague from Florida, who I know cares deeply about this subject. I thank him for coming to the floor today to join me, as we rise to say to our Republican colleagues in the House of Representatives: Come join with us. Come join with us to make sure we can, in fact, put the words into action. Words are not enough. We need comprehensive health care reform. Otherwise, we ought to be modernizing Medicare
by adding a prescription drug benefit.

The administration says: Yes, we want a prescription drug benefit. Well, certainly all of us do. Why? Because Medicare was set up in 1965 when health care was organized around acute care in hospitals. But 37 years later, health care is a lot different. Thank the Good Lord for the miracles of modern medicine.

So to provide those miracles of modern medicine—otherwise known as prescription drugs, to senior citizens, we ought to be modernizing Medicare
by adding a prescription drug benefit.

The administration says: Yes, we want it. But they are saying, $190 billion over 10 years. That is a drop in the bucket.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Time for morning business has expired.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Madam
President, I ask unanimous consent that I may proceed for 5 additional minutes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. REID. Madam President, that would be fine. It may necessitate having the vote at 5 after rather than on the hour.

Mr. LEAHY. I have no objection, provided we then still keep the period of time prior to the next vote the same and also the time we have for the hour.

Mr. REID. I say to my friend from Florida, I also got a nod from the minority that that is fine. We will ask that the vote be scheduled for 5 after 11 and that the Senator from Florida be recognized for an additional 5 minutes—I am sorry, 11:35.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Florida.

Senator NELSON of Florida. I thank my colleagues. They are very generous with the time. I thank the Chair.

I was talking about prescription drugs and providing a realistic prescription drug benefit by modernizing Medicare. We talked about a level in the last campaign. This was a primary topic of concern. In every television debate I had, this issue came up. The level we were talking about was in the range of $300 to $350 billion for a prescription drug benefit over a 10-year period.

The fact is, the escalating cost of prescription drugs is going to be more than that. Of course, with a budget that now has no surplus—we had about 14 months ago an ample surplus for the next decade—it is going to be very dif-cult. But we are going to have to face that fact. And don’t talk about window dressing of $190 billion over a decade because that is not going to cut it. For example, why don’t we put the plate on Medicare reimbursement? Look at the doctors and the hospitals that are having difficulty making it because Medicare is not reimbursing on a realistic payment schedule. We are gonna have to address that.

I say to my colleague from the great State of Michigan, the fact is, eventually this country is going to have to face the fact of health care reform in a comprehensive way. What are we going to do about 44 million people in this country who don’t have health insurance? The fact is, they don’t have health insurance, but they get health care. They get it at the most expensive place, at the most expensive time; that is, when they get sick. They end up in the emergency room, the most expensive place at the most expensive time because without preventative care, when the sniffles have turned into pneumonia, the consequence is that the costs are so much higher.

Ms. STABENOW. Will my colleague be willing to yield for a moment?

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Certainly.

Ms. STABENOW. He raises such an important point about prevention.

That is why I know we care so much about the issue of prescription drugs.

By making prescription drugs available on the front end, that is part of prevention, along with comprehensive care, making sure that people are able to receive the medicine they need before they get deathly sick and need to go into a hospital or need an operation.

My colleague raises such an important point, and it is my sense that the reasons we are working so hard to make Medicare available with prescription drugs and to also lower the prices for everyone. Part of that prevention is making sure that seniors have access to the medicine they need to prevent more serious injuries and illnesses from happening.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. And comprehensive health care reform has to deal with the 40-plus million who don’t have health insurance by creating a system whereby they are covered. That then allows the principle of insurance to work for you because the principle of insurance is that you take the largest possible group to spread the health risk, and when you do that, you bring down the per-unit cost. Thus, any comprehensive plan is going to have to have pooling of larger groups. It is going to have to have consumer choice.

It is going to have to have free market competition to get the most efficiency, and it is going to have to have universal coverage.

I thank the Chair for the opportunity to join the debate on prescription drugs.
CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The Acting President pro tempore. Morning business is closed.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

NOMINATIONS OF LEONARD E. DAVIS TO BE U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS; ANDREW S. HANEN TO BE U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS; SAMUEL H. MAYS, JR. TO BE U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF TENNESSEE; THOMAS M. ROSE TO BE U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF OHIO

The Acting President pro tempore. Under the previous order, the hour of 10:35 having arrived, the Senate will go into executive session and proceed to the consideration en bloc of Executive Calendar Nos. 811, 812, 813, and 814, which the clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read the nominations of Leonard E. Davis, of Texas, to be District Judge for the Eastern District of Texas; Andrew S. Hanen, of Texas, to be District Judge for the Southern District of Texas; Samuel H. Mays, Jr., of Tennessee, to be District Judge for the Western District of Tennessee; Thomas M. Rose, of Ohio, to be District Judge for the Southern District of Ohio.

The Acting President pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will be 1 hour of debate on the nominations, to be equally divided between the chairman and ranking member of the Judiciary Committee or their designees.

The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, today the Senate is considering, as the Chair has reported, four more of President Bush’s judicial nominees. We will begin voting on those nominees in about an hour.

I rarely predict the outcome of votes in the Senate. Having been here 28 years, I have had enough chances to be wrong in my predictions, but I will predict, with a degree of certitude, that these four will become four of President Bush’s judicial nominees that we will confirm.

These confirmations demonstrate, as has been demonstrated with each of the judges we have confirmed in the past ten months, with the exception of one, that we have taken up nominees in the Senate Judiciary Committee, that they have gone through the committee and, when they have reached the floor, have been confirmed.

Democrats have demonstrated over and over again that we are working with the President on fundamental issues that are important to this country, whether it is our support for the war on terrorism, support for strong and effective law enforcement, or our effort to work collaboratively to lower judicial vacancies.

For a bit of history, when the Democrats took over the full Judiciary Committee in July of last year, there were 110 judicial vacancies. My Republican colleagues had not held any judicial confirmation hearings at all prior to the time we took over, despite the fact that there were a number of pending nominations. Under the previous order, there were, of course, nominations that President Clinton sent to the Senate in May. But as of July, when we took over, the Republican-controlled committee had not held any hearings. Ten minutes after we took over the committee and I became chairman, we announced hearings on a number of the President’s nominees.

I mention this to put in perspective that we have tried to move quickly. We inherited 110 judicial vacancies. Interestingly enough, 110 vacancies occurred while the Republicans were in control of the Senate, notwithstanding the fact that former President Clinton had nominated people to fill most of those vacancies. But those nominees were never confirmed. They were never allowed, under Republican leadership, to go forward.

Last Friday, when the Democratic Senators were out of town on a long planned meeting, President Bush spoke about what he now calls the “judicial vacancy crisis.” I was disappointed that the White House speech writers chose a confrontational tone and tried to blame the Democratic Senate majority, which has actually been the majority in the Judiciary Committee for only about 10 months.

The fact is, we inherited 110 judicial vacancies on July 10, 2001. The fact is, the increase in vacancies had not occurred on the watch of the Democratic Senate. In the period between January 1995 and July 2001, when the Republican majority on the committee stalled President Clinton’s moderate nominees and overall vacancies rose by almost 75 percent—from 63 to 110. That is what we inherited because the other side would not hold hearings. Vacancies on the courts of appeals rose even more. They more than doubled, from 16 to 33.

I don’t expect President Bush to know these numbers or be that involved with them. But his staff does, and when they write his speeches, they ought to do him the favor of being truthful. They ought to know that the Federal judiciary is supposed to be independent and outside of partisan political battles, and they should not have drawn him into one, which makes it even worse.

It is bad enough when Republicans in the Senate threaten and seek to intimidate on this issue, but we are now being threatened with a shutdown of the Senate’s business, a shutdown of committee hearings, a refusal to work together on unemployment, trade, and other important matters. It was bad enough when they utilized secret holds and stalling tactics in considering President Clinton’s moderate judicial nominees, but now they bemoan the judicial vacancies that were created and the Senate threat and seek to intimidate by skating these vacancies. They seek to blame others. It is really too bad that the White House now appears to be rejecting all of our efforts—and they have been significant—at reconciliation and compromise solving. Instead, the White House has joined the partisan attack.

The fact is, since last July, when we took over the majority, we have been working hard to fill judicial vacancies. We have had more hearings on more judicial nominees and confirmed more judges than our Republican predecessors ever did over any similar period of time. Actually, it is hard to know when there was a similar period in time. The Senate and the Judiciary Committee had to work in the aftermath of the attacks of September 11 and we kept on meeting. We were in this Chamber on September 12. We had the anthrax attacks on the Senate, on Majority Leader Daschle. I hate to say, one on me, as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. The New York Times reported it as the most deadly of all. While working to fill judicial vacancies, we were also approving executive branch nominees—Attorney General Ashcroft and others—and we were considering the Antiterrorism Act.

In my 28 years here, I have never known a time when a Senate Committee, or any committee, was hit with so many things that it had to do in such a short period of time and under so much pressure. The Hart Building, housing half of the Senators, was closed down. At times, this building was closed down, and Senator Daschle and I and our staffs were under actual physical attacks with the anthrax letters. I mention that because this afternoon we are going to hold our 18th hearing for judicial nominees within 10 months—unless, of course, the other side objects to our proceeding.

By the end of today, the Senate will have confirmed 56 new judges, including 9 to the courts of appeals, within the last 10 tumultuous months—an all-time record.

I am sorry that the White House and our Republican colleagues do not acknowledge our achievements but instead, to quote President Bush, I regret that the White House and our Republican colleagues will not acknowledge that the obstructionism of the Republican Senate majority between 1996 and 2001 is what created what they now term the “judicial vacancy crisis.”

When they were engaged in those tactics, some Republicans defended their record then by arguing that 103 vacancies was not a crisis. They actually did that. They said in an op-ed piece that having 103 vacancies was not a crisis. They let it go to 110.

The Democratic majority has cut back those vacancies. We have not only kept up with attrition, we have cut judges at a record pace.

We have never seen a time when any White House has made the issue of the make-up of the Federal judiciary such a partisan issue. But in a large part, as the distinguished President, I have argued cases before Federal courts, both at the district level and at the appellate level.

One thing I have always known when I walked into a Federal court in America is that it is an impartial court, where you are not looked at as a Republican or a Democrat, whether you are rich or poor, whether you are white or black, plaintiff or defendant, or liberal, conservative or moderate. You can argue before a Federal court and think that you will be treated on the merits of your case. That is why I regret the lack of balance and the bipartisan perspective that was lacking in the President's speech and in the comments of my colleagues.

The Senate would do a disservice to the country if we allowed ideological court packing of the left or the right, if we permitted ideological rubber-stamp of this court, if you cannot respond and say you fit in a certain mold, according to the speeches of the President's advisers—a very narrow ideological spectrum—forget about it when you come in here.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

S4091

Michael Schattman to a vacancy on the Northern District of Texas. He never got a hearing and was never acted upon, while his nomination languished for over two years. These are district court nominations that could have been acted upon prior to the Senate's end of its 6 years of majority in the Clinton administration.

Many of the vacancies in the Fifth Circuit are longstanding. For example, despite the fact that President Clinton nominated Jorge Rangel, a distinguished Hispanic attorney, to fill a fifth circuit vacancy in July 1997, Mr. Rangel never received a hearing and his nomination was returned to the President without Senate action at the end of 1998. On September 16, 1999, President Clinton nominated Enrique Moreno, another outstanding Hispanic attorney, to fill a vacancy on the fifth circuit but that nominee never received a hearing either. When President Bush took office last January, he withdrew the nomination of Enrique Moreno to the fifth circuit.

The surge of vacancies created on the Republican watch is being cleaned up under Democratic leadership in the Senate. The Senate received Justice Davis's and Mr. Hanen's nominations the last week in January. Their ABA peer reviews were not received by the committee until late March and early April. Both participated in a confirmation hearing on April 25, were considered and reported by the committee last week and are being considered and confirmed by the Senate today.

Judge Davis has been serving as Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals in Tyler, TX, since 2000 and has extensive experience practicing as a litigator before the State and Federal courts. Mr. Hanen has experience working as a civil trial attorney and in private practice for over 20 years, and has been a leader in establishing programs to serve the needs of the disadvantaged.

The confirmations of Mr. Mays of Tennessee and Judge Rose of Ohio, will fill two judgeships in the sixth circuit. They will make the fourth and fifth district court judgeships we have filled in the sixth circuit since I became chairman last summer, including the two earlier confirmations from Kentucky.

The Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals currently has eight vacancies, many of which are longstanding. Six of those vacancies, not just before the Judiciary Committee was permitted to reorganize after the change in majority last summer. None, zero, not one of the Clinton nominees to those vacancies on the sixth circuit received a hearing by the Judiciary Committee under Republican leadership.

One of those seats has been vacant since 1995, the first term of President Clinton. Judge Helene White of the Michigan Court of Appeals was nominated in January 1997 and did not receive a hearing on her nomination during the more than 1,500 days before her nomination was withdrawn by President Bush in March of last year. Kathryn Martens, a distinguished lawyer from a prestigious Michigan law firm, also did not receive a hearing on her 1999 nomination to the sixth circuit during the years it was pending before it was withdrawn by President Bush in March 2001. Another outstanding nominee to a vacancy on the sixth circuit that arose in 1999, never received a hearing on his nomination before his nomination was returned to President Clinton without action in December 2000.

Some on the other side of the aisle held these seats open for years for another President to fill, instead of proceeding fairly on consensus nominees. Some were unwilling to move forward knowing that retirements and attrition would create additional seats that would arise naturally for the next President. That is why there are now eight vacancies on the sixth circuit. That is why it is half empty or half full.

Long before some of the recent voices of concern were raised about the vacancies on that court, Democratic Senators in 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000 implored the Republican majority to give the sixth circuit nominees hearings. Those nominees were not just for the sake of the nominees but for the sake of the public's business before the court, were ignored. Numerous articles and editorials urged the Republican leadership to act on those nominations. Fourteen former presidents of the Michigan Bar pleaded for hearings on those nominations.

The former chief judge of the sixth circuit, Judge Gilbert Merritt, wrote to the Judiciary Committee chairman years ago to ask that the nominees get hearings as Congress was studying the vacancies during this period and all of the obstacles Republicans have placed in our path. As of today, we have confirmed 56 judicial nominees in fewer than 10 months. This is more than twice as many confirmations as George W. Bush's father had over a longer period—27 nominees in 15 months—than the period we have been in the majority in the Senate.

The Republican critics typically compare the two who have received confirmed judges to mischaracterize the achievements of the last 10 months. They complain that we have not done 24 months of work in the 10 months we have been in the majority. Ironically, today's confirmation vote is a fair standard: Within the last 10 months we have confirmed more judges than were confirmed in the entire 1996 congressional session and in all of 1997 combined—we have already exceeded their 2-year figure in 10 months.

A fair examination of the rate of confirmation shows that Democrats are the ones who have had to act to fill judicial vacancies with nominees who have strong bipartisan support. Partisan critics of these accomplishments ignore the facts. The facts are that we are confirming President Bush's nominees at a faster pace than the nominees of prior presidents, including those who worked closely with a Senate majority of the same political party.

The rate of confirmation in the past 10 months actually exceeds the rates of confirmation in the past three presidencies. For example, in the first 15 months of the Clinton administration, 46 judicial nominees were confirmed, a pace of 3.6 per month. In fewer than 10 months since the shift to a Democratic majority, the President George W. Bush's judicial nominees have been confirmed at a rate of 5.6 judges per month, a faster pace than for any of the past three Presidents.

During the 6 years of Republican control of the Senate, judicial confirmations averaged 38 per year—a pace of consideration and confirmation that we have already exceeded under Democratic leadership over these past 10 months in spite of all of the challenges we face. We have filled these positions during this period and all of the obstacles Republicans have placed in our path. As of today, we have confirmed 56 judicial nominees in fewer than 10 months. This is more than twice as many confirmations as George W. Bush's father had over a longer period—27 nominees in 15 months—than the period we have been in the majority in the Senate.

The Republican critics typically compare the two who have received confirmed judges to mischaracterize the achievements of the last 10 months. They complain that we have not done 24 months of work in the 10 months we have been in the majority. Ironically, today's confirmation vote is a fair standard: Within the last 10 months we have confirmed more judges than were confirmed by the Republican majority in the entire 1996 congressional session and in all of 1997 combined—we have already exceeded their 2-year figure in 10 months.

A fair examination of the rate of confirmation shows that Democrats are working harder and faster on judicial nominees, confirming judges at a faster pace than the rates of the past 20 years. The double standards asserted by Republican critics are just plain wrong and unfair, but that does not seem to matter to Republicans intent on criticizing every appointment of the Senate under a Democratic majority.

The Republican attack is based on the unfounded notion that the Senate has not kept up with attrition on the district and appeals courts. Well, the Democratic majorities in the Senate have not only been keeping up with attrition but outpacing it, and we have started to move the vacancies numbers in the right direction—down. By contrast, from January 1995 when the Republican majority took over control of the Senate until July 2001, when the new Democratic majority was allowed to reorganize, Federal judicial vacancies rose by almost 75 percent, from 63 to 110. When Members were finally allowed to be assigned to committees on July 10, we began with 110 judicial vacancies.

With today’s confirmations of Justice Davis, Mr. Hanen, Judge Rose, and Mr. Roberts, we have reduced the number of judicial vacancies to 84. Already, in fewer than 10 months in the majority, we more than kept up with attrition and begun to close the judicial vacancies gap that grew so enormous under the Republican majority. Under Democratic leadership, we have reduced the number of district court vacancies by nearly 30 percent and the overall number of judicial vacancies by nearly 25 percent.

Overall, in 10 months, the Senate Judiciary Committee has held 17 hearings involving 61 judicial nominations and is scheduled this afternoon to hold its 18th hearing today involving four more judicial nominees. That is more hearings than the Republican majority held in any year of its control of the Senate—twice as many as they held during some full years. Recall that one-sixth of President Clinton’s judicial nominees—more than 50—never got a committee hearing and committee vote from the Republican majority, which perpetuated long-standing vacancies into this year.

Despite the new-found concern from across the aisle about the number of judicial nominees, no nominees’ hearings were held while the Republicans controlled the Senate during the first half of last year. No judges were confirmed during that time from among the many qualified circuit court nominees received by the Senate on January 19, 2001, or from among the nominations received by the Senate on May 9, 2001.

The Democratic leadership acted promptly to address the number of district and circuit vacancies that had been allowed to grow when the Senate was in Republican control. The Judiciary Committee noticed the first hearing on judicial nominations within 10 minutes of the reorganization of the Senate and held that hearing on the day after the committee was assigned new members. That initial hearing included two district court nominees and a court of appeals nominee. The Republican majority had refused to hold a hearing the year before. Within 2 weeks of the first hearing, we held a second hearing on judicial nominations that included another court of appeals nominee. I did try to get a court nominee for that hearing, but none of the files of the seven district court nominees pending before the committee was complete. Similarly, in the unprecedented hearings we held for judicial nominees during the August recess, we attempted to schedule additional district court nominees but we could not do so if their paperwork was not complete. Had we had cooperation from the Republican majority and the White House in our efforts, we could have had even more hearings for more district court nominees. Nevertheless, including our hearing scheduled for this week, in 10 tumultuous months, the committee will have held 18 hearings involving 65 judicial nominations.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is holding regular hearings on judicial nominees and giving nominees a vote in committee, in contrast to the practice of anonymous holds and other obstructionist tactics employed by some Senators from the Republican Party during their control. The Democratic majority has reformed the process and practices used in the past to deny committee consideration of judicial nominees. We are moving away from the anonymous holds that so dominated the process from 1996 through 2000. We have made home State Senators’ blue slips public for the first time.

I do not mean by my comments to appear critical of Senator HATCH. Many times he has chaired the Judiciary Committee. I observed that, were the matter left up to us, we would have made more progress on more judicial nominees. I thanked him during those years for his efforts. I know that he would have liked to have been able to do more and not have to leave so many vacancies and so many nominees without action.

I hope to hold additional hearings and make additional progress on judicial nominees. Continue to address the number of vacancies on the circuit courts we inherited from the Republicans and to respond to what the President, Vice President CHENEY and Senator HATCH now call a vacancy crisis, the committee has focused on consensus nominees. This will help end the crisis caused by Republican delay and obstruction by confirming as many of the President’s judicial nominees as quickly as possible.

Most Senators understand that the more controversial nominees require greater review. This process of careful review is part of our democratic process. It is a critical part of the checks and balances of our system of government that does not give the power to make lifetime appointments to one person alone to remake the courts along narrow ideological lines, to pack the courts with judges whose views are outside the mainstream of legal thought, and who would further divide our nation. The Senate should not and will not rubber stamp nominees who would undermine the independence and fairness of our Federal courts. It is our responsibility to provide for a fair and independent judiciary for all Americans, of all races, all religions, whether rich or poor, whether Democrat or Republican.

Some on the other side of the aisle have falsely charged that if a nominee has a record as a conservative Republican, he will not be considered by the committee. That is simply untrue. Take, for example, the nomination of Mr. Mays. Mr. Mays has been involved in more than 50 political campaigns on behalf of Republican candidates for President, Senate, Governor, and local offices. He is a member of the Republican National Lawyers Association. He was a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 2000, and he was Executive Director of the Tennessee Republican Party from 1986 through 1990. Thus, it would be wrong to claim that we will not consider President George W. Bush’s nominees with conservative credentials. We have done repeatedly.

The next time Republican critics are bandying around charges that the Democratic majority has failed to consider conservative judicial nominees, I hope someone will ask those critics about Mr. Mays, or all the Federalist Society members and Republican Party activists this Senate has already confirmed. I certainly do not believe that President Bush has appointed 56 liberal judges and neither does the White House.

The committee continues to try to accommodate Senators from both sides of the aisle. The court of appeals nominees included at hearings so far this year have been at the request of Senators GRASSLEY, LOTT, SPECTER, ENZI, SMITH, and THOMPSON, six Republican Senators who each sought a prompt hearing on a court of appeals nominee who was not among those initially sent to the Senate in May 2001.

Some on the other side are truly remarkable. When we proceed on nominees that they support and on whom they seek action, we are criticized for not acting on others. When we direct our effort to trying to solve problems in one circuit, they complain that we are not acting in another. Since these multiple problems arose on their watch while they were in the majority, it is a bit like the arsonist who moves away from the anonymous holds that so dominated the process from 1996 through 2000. We have made home State Senators’ blue slips public for the first time.

Some on the other side of the aisle have falsely charged that if a nominee was not among those initially sent to the Senate in May 2001, we will not consider him.

Imagine that today we will be hearing a refrain about the most controversial of President Bush’s nominees who have not yet participated in a hearing. Some of them do not have the necessary home-State Senate support needed to proceed. Some will take a great deal of time and effort for the committee to consider. In spite of all we have done and all we are doing, our past record is, at a minimum, not held a single hearing on a single judicial nominee. They will not acknowledge their role in creating what they now call a judicial vacancies crisis. They will not apologize for their harsh rhetoric or their failure to hold a single hearing on a single judicial nominee. They will not acknowledge that the Democratic majority has moved faster on more judges than they ever did. They will not acknowledge that we have been working at a record pace to seek to solve the problems they created.

Each of the 56 nominees confirmed by the Senate has received the unanimous, bipartisan backing of the committee. Today’s confirmations make the 56th and 57th judicial nominees we have confirmed, since I became chairman last July. I would like to commend the members of the Judiciary Committee and our Majority Leader Senator Daschle and Assistant Majority Leader Senator Reid for all of their hard work in getting us to this point. The confirmation of the 56th judge in 10 months, especially these last 10 months, in spite of the unfair and personal criticism to which they have each been subjected, is an extraordinary effort and a real milestone of Democratic Senators acting in a bipartisan way even when some on the other side have continued to make our efforts toward progress as difficult as possible.

I again invite the President to join with us to fill the remaining judicial vacancies as quickly as possible with qualified, consensus nominees, nominees chosen from the mainstream and not for their ideological orientation, nominees who are fair and competent judges and will ensure that an independent judiciary is the people’s bulwark against a loss of their freedoms and rights.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah is recognized.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I am grateful for this opportunity to talk about some of the things that are going on with regard to judges. I believe that my chairmanship of the Senate Judiciary Committee and the record we established during the Clinton administration have been viciously attacked through the last number of months. There seem to be a number of illusory statements floating around Capitol Hill relating to this committee’s handling of judges during my tenure.

I am here to set the record straight. I am here to help everybody else know what that record is.

The Democrats are in power. They set the agenda for such nomination hearings, and they have a right to do so. I want to shine a candle through five points that never seem to have seen the light of day in past discussions of confirmations.

First, there is a seemingly immortal myth around here that it was the Republicans who created the current vacancy crisis by stalling President Clinton’s nominations. This myth is purely and unmitigatedly false. The fact is, the number of judicial vacancies decreased by 3 during the 6 years of Republican leadership while I was chairman over what it was when the Democrats controlled.

Second, there has been considerable sleight of hand when it comes to the so-called “Clinton nominees.” Sometimes it was because objections were made; sometimes it was just because I had to fight with my own caucus to get them through. But the fact is that we have not made a lot of headway on these very important circuit court nominations.

Third, there is a seemingly immortal myth that all 54 Democratic Senators who made the Democratic Senate to stop President Bush’s nominees were confirmed. This proves that the Republicans treated a Democratic President equally as well as they did a Republican. We did not use any litmus tests, regardless of our personal views, whether it was abortion, religion, race, or personal ideology. I am disappointed to note that seems to be precisely what is happening with the Democrat-controlled Senate now.

Let’s be honest and look at the facts. During President Clinton’s 8 years in office, the Senate confirmed 377 judges, essentially the same as, only 5 fewer than, the all-time confirmation champion, Ronald Reagan, who had 382. President Reagan enjoyed 6 years of his own party controlling the Senate, while President Clinton had only 2. President Clinton had to put up with 6 years of a Republican-controlled Senate.

This proves that the Republicans did not let partisanship get in the way of principle when it came to judicial nominations. True, there were individual instances where a handful of nominees did not move, but it was nothing like the systematic and calculated stalling tactics being employed by this Democratic Senate to stop President Bush’s highly qualified nominees.

At this point, I should also add the Clinton nominees we confirmed were not mainstream moderates as some of us have been led to believe. We confirmed nominees—and I am going to mention four—in one circuit; all four were moved up to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. We confirmed Ninth Circuit nominees such as Judge Marcia Berzon, Judge Richard Paez, Judge Margaret Morrow, and Judge Willie Fletcher, and I could go on down the line. These nominees were confirmed with my support as chairman. I can assure you that a number of these would be characterized, by any measure of the imagination, as nominees with political ideology within the moderate mainstream. I have personal political views almost completely opposite the Bush nominees, but they were confirmed.

I applied no litmus test to them. I reviewed them on their legal capabilities and qualifications to be a judge, and that is all I am asking from the Democrat majority. That is not what is happening. It is clear there is this wholesale, calculated, slow-walking of President Bush’s nominees and particularly for the circuit court nominees.

Last year on this very day, May 9, we had 31 vacancies in the circuit courts. Today there are 29—2 fewer. We are not making a lot of headway on these very important circuit court nominations.

I might add, yes, it took a lengthy period to go through some of these hearings. Sometimes it was because objections were made; sometimes it was just because I had to fight with my own caucus to get them through. But the fact is that they did get through.

The third point I wish to make is that an illusion has been created out of thin air that the Republicans left an undue number of nominees pending in a committee without votes at the end of the Clinton administration. Again, more Arthur Andersen accountings. Get ready for the truth.

There were 41 such nominees—I repeat, 41—which is 13 fewer than the 54 whom Democrats who controlled the Senate in 1992 left at the end of the Bush administration. That is 41 under my chairmanship and 54 under the Democrat-controlled Senate in 1992, at the end of the first Bush administration.

My fourth point is, as you can see from this particular chart, I believe President Bush is being treated very unfairly. I will try to point this out.

President Reagan and the first President Bush got all of their first 11 circuit court nominees confirmed. All 11 were confirmed well within one year of their nominations. This is a stark contrast to today: 8 of current President Bush’s first 11 nominations are still pending without a hearing, despite being here for the whole year at the end of yesterday. All have their ABA ratings. All are rated either well qualified, the highest rating possible, or qualified, a high rating, and all but one have their home State Senators’ support, and that one is a North Carolina nominee for whom Senator Edwards has yet to return a blue slip.

I might add that the North Carolina nominee was nominated in the first Bush administration. So he has been pending for over 10 years. John Roberts—who is considered one of the two or three greatest appellate lawyers in this country by everybody who knows intimately what he has done, both Democrats and Republicans—has been sitting on the circuit for 93 days. A such a record was par for the course until the current Senate leadership took over last year. President Bush saw 95 of his first 100 judicial nominees confirmed in an average of 78 days, and for most of his tenure he had a Demo-cr-at-controlled Senate.

The ground rules obviously have been changed by the outside interest groups that have reportedly influenced my Democratic colleagues. As we sit here today, the Senate has confirmed only 52—only 52—not the 97 President Clinton got, but only 52 of President Bush's first 100 nominees, an average of over 150 days to confirm these nominees is over 150 and increasing every day.

The reason I mention these five points is that there are some people who read the title of what we are doing today and think that what my colleagues have to say, and ignore the fact that, of President Bush's first 11 nominations, only 3 of them have been confirmed. Those 11 were made on May 9 of last year. There is no historical jus-tification for blocking President Bush's choices for the Federal judiciary. First, I do not want to accuse my colleagues on the other side of doing that.

Second, there simply is no historic justification for blocking President Bush's first 100 judicial nominees. Nor is there any truth to the myth that the vacancies we have today were caused by the Republican Senate. They were caused by retiring judges. In other words, anything conjured up from the past and dressed up as a reason to thwart the requests of President Bush should be dismissed.

Now I want to switch gears a little bit and say something I consider to be personal, even though it has had—and still has—a lot of bearing on how this process. Back before I became chairman of the Judiciary Committee in 1995, I was personally affected by several events that occurred under the auspices of advise and consent. These events included the mistreatment of nominees, including Bork, Thomas, Ryskamp, Rehnquist, and others. In fact, even Justice Souter was not treated really well when he came before the committee, and the main reason was they thought he might be anti-abortion. In fact, even Justice Souter was not treated really well when he came before the committee, and the main reason was they thought he might be anti-abortion. I saw how politics can affect the human spirit both in success and defeat. I saw how baseless allegations can take on a life of their own and how they can take away the life from their victims.

By the time I became chairman, I was determined to change the process that had gotten so vicious. I worked to restore dignity to the nominations process, both in the Committee and the Senate. I championed the cause of President Clinton's Supreme Court nominee Ruth Bader Ginsburg, even though she was criticized by many as a liberal activist and was a former ge-neral counsel of the ACLU, nothing that bothered me. I used my influence to quiet her detractors. I helped secure her vote of 96 to 3.

Under my chairmanship, I ended the practice of inviting witnesses to come into hearings to disparage the district court and circuit court nominees. In other words, I would not allow an out-side group to come in. And there were plenty of them that wanted to. I dealt with the FBI background issues in pri-vate and never mentioned them in public hearings. Now that is a practice I am concerned has not been followed.

It is a matter of great concern be-cause sometimes we do have to delay a nomination if some of the many things because of further investigation, which may turn out to be innocuous, or because of something that has gone down that needs to be dis-solved. If all is well, we never dis-alter the 200-year tradition of deference to Presidents by shifting the burden onto nominees, and I informed the White House of problems that could, if made public, lead a nominee to a humilitating vote so that the nominee could withdraw rather than face that fate. These are the reasons we were able to confirm 377 Clinton nominees.

Anybody who thinks they were with-in the mainstream did not look at all that carefully. We included some pretty contentious ones, such as the ones I have mentioned earlier in my re-marks, and I only mentioned four be-cause they were from the one circuit. I could mention many. If we had applied the same litmus tests as our colleagues are applying to President Bush's nominees, the very few of President Clinton's nominees would have gotten through.

I worked to get them confirmed. I stuck my neck out for them, and I still believe in this day, I did the right thing, even though I am increasingly pessimistic that someone on the other side of the aisle will step up to the plate and reciprocate for any Bush nominees who might be in the same circumstance.

I urge and call upon the Democratic majority to show some leadership and put partisanship and the politics of personal destruction behind. Give fair hearings and confirmations of qualified nominees, which I believe to this day I did the right thing, even though I am increasingly pessimistic that someone on the other side of the aisle will step up to the plate and reciprocate for any Bush nominees who might be in the same circumstance.
Last but certainly not least, there is Judge Terrence Boyle, a judge with 14 years’ experience, who is a thoughtful, fair, and nonpartisan jurist who has been waiting for a hearing for 11 years, ever since the first President Bush nominated him in 1991, and has been designated to sit with the Fourth Circuit since the first President Bush. These two judges, Judge Paul Cassell, who is already approved by the committee, has been here for almost a year and will not get a vote today, and Judge Michael McConnell, who some say is probably one of the two or three greatest legal geniuses in the country, is still without a hearing—and I am ranking member. This is delaying me to a large degree because I do not treat my colleagues on the other side the way they are treating our nominees. I believe it has to change. I will do everything in my power to change it. Should we get back in the statistics judo game behind us and get to work. We have been elected to do a job and let’s do it instead of making up excuses for why we are not doing it. If you look at these eight nominees, John Roberts, unanimously well qualified by the gold standard according to our colleagues on the other side, the American Bar Association; Miguel Estrada, unanimously well qualified by the American Bar Association; Michael McConnell, unanimously well qualified by the American Bar Association; Jefrey Sutton, a majority qualified, a minority well qualified; Deborah Owen, unanimously qualified; Priscilla Owen, unanimously well qualified; Dennis Shedd, unanimously well qualified; and the last, Judge Sunquist, unanimously well qualified. There is no reason why they should have sat there for 1 solid year. I think the American people are disappointed; they want the Senate to help, not hinder, President Bush. I urge my friend across the aisle to focus on helping, not hinder, President Bush. I urge my colleague to listen to the real situation in the Judiciary Committee. It is interesting to note how much my colleagues have changed their tune in the last year or so. Moments ago, my colleague criticized our President, President Bush, for using the phrase “judicial vacancy crisis.” My colleague called this “confrontational.” Yet in June of 1998, the Democrat leader of the Senate said that the “vacancy crisis is the most serious problem.” When he used the phrase “judicial crisis” taken on a new connotation, or is this simply another example of the shoe being put on the other foot? I don’t think we should be tit for tat in this body. Yes, we can always point to some nominees you wish could have gotten through, whether Joe Biden was chairman or whether Orrin Hatch was chairman. I know we both worked very hard to get them through. I am ashamed. I don’t think President Bush is being treated fairly. I don’t think the courts are being treated fairly. I don’t think litigants are being treated fairly when half of a circuit in the Sixth Circuit is without judges. That means the civil cases virtually cannot be heard because they have to go to the criminal cases first, and many of those cannot be heard. Justice delayed is justice denied. That is happening all over our country. I believe we have to change that. Madam President, I support the confirmation of Samuel “Hardy” Mays, Jr., to the United States District Court for the Western District of Tennessee. I have had the pleasure of reviewing Mr. Mays’ distinguished career, and can say without hesitation that he will be an excellent addition to the federal judiciary.

Mr. Mays graduated in 1961 from Amherst College and attended Yale Law School, where he served on the editorial board of the law journal. After receiving his Juris Doctorate, Mr. Mays began an over-20-year association with the law firm presently known as Baker, Donelson, Bearman & Caldwell. Mr. Mays became a partner in 1979. His law practice ranged from trial work where he represented clients such as small, family-owned businesses in litigation matters—to banking and health care transactions.

In 1995 Mr. Mays entered government service as Tennessee Governor Sonquist’s legal counsel. Here his responsibilities included reviewing all legislation requiring the Governor’s approval; reviewing all clemency matters and expeditions; advising the Governor on matters of judicial administration; reviewing and recommending all judicial appointments; and supervising, on behalf of the Governor, all litigation to which the State of Tennessee was a party.

In 1997, recognizing Mr. Mays’ hard work and legal talents, Governor Sonquist promoted him to Deputy to the Governor and Chief of Staff. As Chief of Staff, Mr. Mays became, in effect, the Chief Operating Officer of a State with approximately $19 billion in annual revenue. After leaving government service in 2000, he rejoined his old firm of Baker, Donelson.

No description of Mr. Mays’ life would be complete without mentioning his active membership on numerous committees and boards, whose purpose is to enrich the lives of the people of Memphis.

Mr. Mays is eminently qualified to be a member of the Federal bench. I comment President Bush for another extraordinary judicial nominee, and I sincerely hope that the Senate will begin to deal with the growing judicial crisis that this Nation is facing.

Madam President, I support the nomination of Andrew Hanen to be U.S. District Judge for the Southern District of Texas. It should be noted that in 1992 Mr. Hanen was nominated to the same position by the first President Bush, but, regrettably, he was not given a hearing by the Democrat Senate. As a matter of fact, that was the case 10 years ago. I am confident he will serve with distinction on the Federal district court.

Following graduation from Baylor University School of Law, where he finished first in his class, Mr. Hanen clerked for a year with Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the Texas Supreme Court. In 1979 Mr. Hanen joined the firm of Andrews & Kurth, handling medical malpractice defense cases, commercial litigation, lender liability, and civil rights. In 1995 Mr. Hanen was appointed to the bench of the 13th Circuit Court of Appeals, where he is currently serving. Mr. Hanen is a leader in the Houston Volunteer Lawyers Program. While serving as president of the Houston Bar Association. Mr. Hanen has led efforts to raise funds for additional pro bono work. Mr. Hanen has also been active in promoting and instituting pro bono legal services for AIDS and HIV-affected individuals. He volunteers with Habitat for Humanity, ADR programs, and various nonprofit groups. I am very proud of this nominee and I know he will make a great judge.

Madam President, I support the nomination of E. Leonard Davis to be United States District Judge for the Eastern District of Texas. I have had the pleasure of reviewing Judge Davis' distinguished legal career, and I have concluded, as did President Bush, that he is a fine jurist who will add a great deal to the Federal bench in Texas.

Upon graduation from Baylor University School of Law, where he finished first in his class, Leonard Davis joined the Tyler, TX, law firm of Potter, Glidden & Hardman, becoming a partner in 1979 and was managing partner from 1983 to 1990.

At the outset of his legal career, Judge Davis concentrated on insurance defense work. He also handled a diverse caseload on disability cases, workers' compensation, section 1983, automobile accidents, deceptive trade practices, products liability, and malpractice. Later, as his practice developed, he focused primarily on commercial litigation. In addition, Judge Davis was appointed to defend several indigents in Federal and State criminal cases involving murder, aggravated assault, interstate transportation of stolen cattle, and tax evasion.

Judge Davis served on the Texas State Ethics Advisory Commission from 1983–88 and on the State Judicial Districts Board from 1988–92. Judge Davis was appointed by then-Governor George W. Bush as Chief Justice of the Twelfth Court of Appeals in Tyler, TX, where he has served since 2000.

I have every confidence that Judge Leonard E. Davis will serve with distinction on the Federal district court for the Eastern District of Texas.

Madam President, I rise in support of the confirmation of Judge Thomas Rose to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Ohio.

After reviewing Judge Rose's distinguished legal career, I can state without reservation that he is a man of integrity and honesty and will be a welcome addition to an already taxed judiciary.

Judge Rose graduated from Ohio University in 1970 with a Bachelors of Science in Education. He then went on to receive his Juris Doctorate from the University of Cincinnati College of Law in 1973.

After graduating law school, Judge Rose worked as a Greene County Assistant Prosecutor while maintaining a private practice. As a prosecutor, his responsibilities included addressing a wide range of issues from juvenile matters to capital murder cases. During this period, my colleague and good friend, Senator DeWine, was also a prosecutor for Greene County. Senator DeWine discovered that one of his superiors had bugged his office. Senator DeWine took the only honorable action available and resigned in protest. Judge Rose also handled a diversity of cases because he felt the office's integrity had been violated. Clearly, this shows that Judge Rose, who was not involved in this incident in any manner, is a man who will put the interests of justice and fairness above all else.

Judge Rose is also a man deeply devoted to his community. After leaving the prosecutor's office, he became Chief Juvenile Court Referee for the Greene County Court of Common Pleas. In this position, he was responsible for working with delinquent, neglected and abused children. Currently, he is a Board Member of the Xenia Rotary Club and a member of three local Chambers of Commerce.

Later, Judge Rose became Chief Greenville County Prosecutor. Judge Rose became Chief Assistant Prosecutor in Charge of the Civil Division. In 1991, he rose to the bench as a Judge for the Greene County Common Pleas Court, General Division, and has since handled over 500 cases annually.

Judge Rose's nomination is yet another example of the quality of judicial nominations that President Bush is making. I believe that we should all follow the example set by the President when he said that it is time to provide fair hearings and prompt votes to all nominees, no matter who controls the Senate or the White House. This is what I tried to do when I was chairman, and it is a standard to which we should now aspire.

Mr. EDWARDS. Madam President, I wanted to say just a few words on this subject of judicial nominations.

Not everyone realizes how important the Federal courts are. They are extraordinarily important. Once judges are confirmed by the Senate, they hold lifetime appointments. Although the focus tends to be on the Supreme Court, the reality is that well over 99 percent of all cases never reach that court. These cases are decided by district judges and circuit judges who most Americans have never heard of. The final decisions made by these judges represent the majority of our nation's legal system. His questions about our civil rights and individual rights. Every single day, these judges make decisions that literally make and break people's lives.

So it is critical that we examine nominations to the Federal bench very carefully. Many of those nominations raise serious questions.

Of course, being deliberate does not mean being dilatory. But Madam President, the truth is that the Senate is confirming large numbers of nominees. And of those, we have confirmed 56 judges, including 9 to the courts of appeals. That is a faster pace than in the last 6 years of the Clinton administration. In those six years, the number of vacancies in the Federal appeals courts more than doubled, from 16 to 33. Today, that vacancy level is down from 33 to 29.

To sum up, I believe that when it comes to judges, we are doing our job carefully, and we are doing our job well.

Mr. THOMPSON. Madam President, I am very pleased that the Senate is considering the nomination of Samuel Patterson, whom everybody in Tennessee knows as "Hardy," to be a U.S. District Judge for the Western District of Tennessee.

I am grateful to Chairman Leahy and the Judiciary Committee and its staff for moving Mr. Mays' nomination so quickly. The need is quite urgent. The Western District of Tennessee typically has four judges assigned to hear cases in Memphis, along with a fifth who hears cases in Jackson. Only two of these four seats are currently filled with judges hearing cases, and the nomination of one of those two judges to the Court of Appeals is now pending before the Senate. A third seat, the one to which Mr. Mays has been nominated, is vacant. The fourth judge is currently on disability leave. So moving Mr. Mays' nomination so promptly is imperative for litigants with cases pending in the Western District.

Hardy Mays is very well known to the bar of the Western District of Tennessee. He is the managing partner in Memphis. He graduated from Amherst College in 1970 and in 1973 from Yale Law School, where he served as an editor of the law journal.

He returned home to Memphis, where he joined the law firm that is today known as Baker, Donelson, Bearman & Caldwell, at which he practiced law for over 20 years, and which was also the firm of our former colleague, Senator Howard Baker, now U.S. Ambassador to Japan. Although Mr. Mays started his career as a tax and banking lawyer, he soon shifted his focus to litigation. He represented clients before the local, State, and Federal courts in west Tennessee in a wide variety of civil cases. While his practice continued to evolve into one primarily concentrated on banking law issues, Mr. Mays continued to try cases until 1985. During his time as a litigator, Mr. Mays tried over 25 cases to judgment. Many of those cases were tried in Federal court.

Mr. Mays' qualifications were recognized by his peers who recognized his standing at the bar and selected him as a member of the board of directors of the Memphis Bar Association, a position he held from 1985 to 1987. In 1987, he became managing partner of his firm, a move that forced him to give up litigation. He helped turn the firm into a regional law firm, opening offices in Nashville and Chattanooga.

He gave up his position as managing partner of the firm in 1988 and returned to individual practice. By then, his practice had again evolved into one focused on health law and related practice areas.
In 1995, Mr. Mays joined the administration of Governor Don Sundquist as his legal counsel. Two years later, he became the Governor’s chief of staff. In these positions, he served the people of Tennessee ably and tirelessly. He was highly regarded during his tenure with Governor Sundquist.

In 2000, he returned to his former law firm, where he has continued to practice law focused on representing health care providers.

Mr. Mays is highly regarded by the bar for his intellect, legal ability, fairness, and his unfailing good humor. I am confident that he has the ideal temperament to serve in the stressful position of a trial judge. Mr. Mays enjoys broad, bipartisan support. I know the Judiciary Committee has heard from a number of prominent Democrats, including Memphis Mayor Willie Herenton; President Clinton’s U.S. Attorney in Memphis, Veronica Coleman-Davis; former Tennessee Governor Ned McWherter; former U.S. Senator Harlan Matthews, in support of the nomination of Mr. Mays.

In addition to his record of professional accomplishments, no recitation of Mr. Mays’s career would be complete without reference to his extraordinary commitment to his community. While I will not take the time to detail the full scope of his community involvement, including his significant political activities, I do want to focus on one aspect of his involvement with his neighbors: the arts in Memphis would be far poorer without his contributions. He serves or has served as a director of the Memphis Orchestra, Opera Memphis, the Memphis Ballet, the Playhouse on the Square, the Decorative Arts Trust, and the Memphis Brooks Museum, and the Memphis Botanic Garden.

Hardy Mays is an excellent choice to serve as Federal district judge in Memphis. I appreciate the President’s decision to nominate him, and I am grateful to the Judiciary Committee for considering his nomination so promptly. I urge my colleagues to support his nomination.

Ms. CANTWELL. Madam President, the Senate and the Judiciary Committee have been under Democratic leadership for 10 months. During that 10 months, Chairman LEAHY and the Judiciary Committee staff have worked overtime to establish a steady process to fill judicial vacancies. In the 10 months, each one of my Democratic colleagues has taken time from their busy schedules to chair multiple nominations hearings.

Hearings on nominees began less than a week after the Senate reorganized, and have continued on a monthly, or twice monthly basis, right up to this afternoon. As you have heard repeatedly today, in 10 months we have confirmed 52 judges, and have more available for appointment today. We have held hearings on 13 Court of Appeals nominees. This afternoon, I will convene a hearing on four additional nominees including one for the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. Our record on confirmations is good.

So it has been a continual surprise to me that my colleagues on the other side of the aisle have complained day after day about delays in confirmations. This is particularly surprising as those doing the complaining sit beside me week after week as we continue to hold hearings and vote these nominees out of the Committee.

The problem is not that the Senate has not been confirming judges. Any reasonable examination of the record makes clear that the Committee is working hard to confirm more judges than in past years. We have confirmed many strong Republican judges who are impartial, ethical, and who bring to their decision making an open mindedness to the arguments presented. My own experience in reviewing the record of nominees who have come before me makes me feel that the Federal judiciary is filled with qualified, moderate candidates, who are held in high esteem by lawyers in their community, and who have a record of fair-minded decision making will be promptly confirmed.

The problem is that a few controversial nominees have not yet received hearings. President Bush last year nominated individuals to the Circuit Court of Appeals who are among the most conservative the Senate has ever considered. Many of these nominees have long records of decisions and writings that are far outside mainstream thinking. They have records that call into question their commitment to upholding precedent, and to respecting individual rights. When questions like these are raised about a nominee, the Committee must undertake a thorough examination of the nominee, and that takes time.

The Supreme Court hears fewer than 100 cases per year and circuit court judges make the final decisions in hundreds of cases a year that set precedent for thousands of additional cases. Senate confirmation is the only check upon federal judges appointed for life. I take seriously the responsibility to carefully review these nominees and to reflect upon the power they will hold to affect the lives of ordinary Americans in the workplace, the voting booth, and in the privacy of their homes.

When the Senate confirms nominees to fill the remaining existing vacancies, as I am confident that it will, 11 of the 13 Circuit Courts will be dominated by conservative jurists. These same courts have increasingly issued rulings that have curtailed the power of Congress to enact laws to protect women from domestic violence, prevent discrimination based on disabilities, and to protect the environment. Rulings have increasingly limited the ability of women to exercise their right to reproductive freedom; limited the opportunity for education and advancement by curtailing programs promoting racial and ethnic diversity in our schools and workplaces; and overturned laws protecting workers. Balance in each of the branches of our government is a key precept of our democracy, and balance in the Federal judiciary is, in my opinion, essential to the values of the American public that maintains its unquestioned respect for and deference to the rulings of our Federal judiciary.

Americans in huge numbers favor representative choice, and the right to work in a safe workplace free from injury and regardless of physical disability. They believe in the need for government to take steps to protect our environment for future generations, and to protect consumers from unfair and deceitful business practices. These are the values that are placed in jeopardy by extreme nominees. It is the responsibility of the Senate and of the members of the Judiciary Committee to ensure that the people we nominate for the Federal bench share the same respect for these rights.

The reality is appointments to the judiciary have become more politicized over the past 20 years. If the Senate is truly interested in filling all the outstanding vacancies as quickly as possible, we must work together to find nominees who can help to correct the current imbalance on the courts.

We need to see more cooperation and consultation between the White House and the Senate. We must consider the willingness to compromise on nominees who do not present a threat to values and rights that mainstream Americans accept and welcome. We have an amazing pool of talent in our legal community, and it would be a simple matter to nominate more mainstream nominees.

It is my hope that as we continue to work to fill existing vacancies, that it will become more possible to work together to find candidates who unite, not who seek to divide.

Mr. VINOVIČ. Madam President, today, May 9, 2002, marks one year to the date that I was at the White House when President Bush announced the nominations of Deborah Cook and Jeffrey Sutton for the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals. However, one year later, no action has been taken on these Ohioans, as well as five other nominees to the Sixth Circuit. In fact, the entire judiciary committee process has regrettably delayed over this past year.

There are currently over 96 vacancies in the Federal courts, enough that the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, William Rehnquist, referred to the vacancy crisis as “alarming.” It certainly is alarming to note that these vacancies exist despite the fact that President Bush has nominated nearly 100 judges in his first year of office, more judges than any President in history. At the same point in his administration, President Clinton nominated only 74 judges. In addition, former President Bush had nominated 46 and President Reagan had nominated 59.
Despite this overwhelming number of nominees, as of April 12, 2002, the Senate has only confirmed 42 of President Bush’s 98 nominees. More egregious is the fact that only 7 of President Bush’s 29 nominees to the circuit courts have been confirmed. No circuit has felt this delay more powerfully than the Sixth Circuit. Since 1998, the number of vacant judgeships months in the Sixth Circuit has increased from 13.7 to 60.9 and is currently the highest in the Nation. The median time from the filing of a notice of appeal to the disposition of the case in the Sixth Circuit was 15.3 months in 2001, well above the 10.9 months national average, and second in the Nation only to the Ninth Circuit.

Clearly the Sixth Circuit is in crisis and the reason is the inaction of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

When I talk to Ohio practitioners, I hear many complaints about the overuse of visiting judges throughout the Sixth Circuit. One lawyer told me that one of the judges on the U.S. District Court in Montgomery was as far away as the Western District of Louisiana. In fact, the Sixth Circuit has the highest number of visiting judges providing service: 59 visiting judges participated in the disposition of cases over the 12-month period ending September 30, 2001.

It is time to put a stop to this logjam of Sixth Circuit nominees and allow our overburdened appeals courts to operate free of partisan wrangling. In particular, I would like to give Mr. Sutton’s participation, and Becker v. Montgomery, in which he represented a prisoner’s interests pro bono. He has also argued twelve cases in the Ohio Supreme Court and 14 as a U.S. Attorney. Having also represented the Ohio Bar Association, Justice Sutton should not be criticized on assumptions that past legal positions reflect his personal views. Instead, he should be lauded for always zealously advocating his client’s interests, no matter the issue. I know Jeff. He is a man of exceptional character and compassion. For these and many other reasons, Jeffrey Sutton will be an unquestioned asset to the Federal Bench.

As you may know, the Sixth Circuit is in desperate need of judicial appointees. Fourteen judicial vacancies now exist, one of which has been vacant since 1995. Furthermore, the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts has declared five of these vacancies to be judicial emergencies within the U.S. federal court system.

Given the crisis in the Sixth Circuit and the exemplary records of Justice Cook and Jeffrey Sutton, I respectfully urge the Senate to confirm him as soon as possible, and expeditiously move him to the floor of the Senate.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, I rise today to speak in support of President Bush’s judicial nominees. President Bush says that we need to move these nominees swiftly and fairly. He wants our support for his nominees. I agree. The Senate needs to act to fill these vacancies and ensure that the Federal courts are operating at full strength.

Right now, President Bush has sent a nomination to the Federal bench. But unfortunately, many of these outstanding individuals are still waiting for a hearing by the Senate Judiciary Committee. I believe 47 nominees are still pending. We need to move these judicial nominations quickly, because they are all good and all confirmed.

I want to talk about a few facts and figures. We’ve heard a lot of numbers being thrown around by both the Democrats and the Republicans about who delayed who the longest, who delayed who the longest hearing to whom, and on and on, so we are left in a numbers daze. I get dizzy from all the numbers. But this what I think is the bottom line. When President Bush Sr., left office, he had 54 nominees pending with a Democratic Senate. The vacancy rate was 11.5 percent. When President Clinton left office, he had 41 nominees pending with a Republican Senate. The vacancy rate was 7.9 percent. So the way I see it, Senate Republicans gave the Democratic Senate a 100 percent confirmation rate on their first 11 circuit nominees, and they were all confirmed within a year. The way I see it, President Bush is getting the short end of the stick with his nominations.

I want to talk about some of President Bush’s nominees, specifically the 8 nominees of the 11 original circuit court nominees sent up last May who are still pending without action. Today a full year has gone by, 365 days, with only 3 of President Bush’s first 11 nominees having seen any action at all. And of those 3, I understand 2 were judges previously nominated by President Clinton. The Senate needs to do better than that. These individuals of exceptional experience, intellect and character deserve to be treated fairly and considered by the Senate promptly.

Let me say a few words about each of these nominees. I know that some of my colleagues may have already given many details about these individuals, but I think that it is important that Americans see what quality individuals President Bush has sent up to the Senate. These individuals have all excelled in their legal careers and I’m sure, if confirmed, they will all make excellent judges.

Judge Terrence Boyle is President Bush’s nominee for the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals. He is currently the Chief Judge of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina, appointed by President Reagan in 1981. He has served in this post with distinction. He was nominated to the Fourth Circuit in 1991 by President Bush Sr., but he did not receive a hearing from the Democrat-controlled Judiciary Committee.

Justice Deborah Cook is President Bush’s nominee to the Sixth Circuit in the legislature and in the Federal courts, as well as in private practice and academia. Judge Shedd worked as the Chief Counsel and Staff Director for the Senate Judiciary Committee under then-Chairman Strom Thurmond. He was appointed as a district court judge for the District of South Carolina in 1990, where he has served with distinction.

Jeffrey Sutton is President Bush’s nominee to the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals. Mr. Sutton clerked for Justice Sandra Day O’Connor in the U.S. Supreme Court, then spent three distinguished years as Solicitor for the State of Ohio. Since that time, Jeffrey Sutton has worked in private practice and served as an adjunct professor of law at the Ohio State University College of Law.

These eight outstanding nominees are still waiting for a hearing, even though they are some of the most respected judges and lawyers and professors in the country. They have excellent qualifications, are of high moral character, and will serve our country well. They all have ratings of “well qualified” or “qualified” by the American Bar Association, the so-called “gold standard” by the Democrats on the Judiciary Committee. It’s clear that the Senate Judiciary Committee needs to do its job and schedule them for a hearing and markup.

Let’s give these good men and women the respect they deserve, to be treated with respect. They need a prompt hearing and markup. They have waited too long. The Senate has to act. Like the President said, the American people deserve better.

Mr. PRIST, Madam President, I rise today to thank my colleagues for the confirmation of Samuel Hardwicke Mays, Jr., of Memphis TN, as U.S. District Judge for the Western District of Tennessee. I am also grateful to President Bush for his nomination of an individual who I know will act with fairness to all in a way which will make all of us proud.

Hardy Mays is a Memphis institution. No one lives life more to the fullest than Hardy whose passion for the arts, a good book, the law and public service is known to all.

As have so many others, I first sought his counsel when I decided to run for the United States Senate. Since then, I have sought Hardy’s advice on a variety of occasions, and I value the thoughtful, balanced approach he can bring to any issue. And I am proud to call him my friend.

More importantly, he is an outstanding lawyer with a keen intellect. He is fair and impartial, and has enormous compassion for his fellow man. Hardy has demonstrated, both in his distinguished legal career with the Baker, Donelson firm in Memphis, and his life as a judge, via his role as Legal Counsel and Chief of Staff to Governor Don Sundquist, his unique ability to hear all sides of an issue, to work with people from all walks of life, and to find equitable solutions to virtually any challenge. His personal and professional integrity are above reproach, and his even temperament is ideally suited for the federal bench.

Many outstanding Tennesseans have added their support to Hardy’s nomination. They most often have mentioned to me his brilliant mind, sense of fair play and lack of personal bias, good wit, and respect for other’s views and opinions.

Thomas Jefferson wrote in 1776 that our judges “should always be men of learning and experience in the laws, of exemplary morals, great patience, calmness and attention.” Samuel Hardwicke Mays, Jr., certainly fits President Jefferson’s description. He will serve our country with distinction, and his talent, experience and energy will be an asset to our Federal judicial system.

I ask unanimous consent after Senator FEINGOLD speaks that Senator HUTCHINSON be permitted to speak for up to 5 minutes.

Mr. LEAHY. Reserving the right to object, does the Senator have the time? How much time is remaining on both sides? I don’t want to object, but I know that the Republicans and Democrat leader have 11:35 for the vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah has 5 minutes 41 seconds.

Mr. LEAHY, OK.

Mr. FEINGOLD: Madam President, today the Senate is going to confirm four more of President Bush’s nominees to the Federal bench. While there is no controversy about these particular nominees, there has been much debate here on the floor about the pace of confirmations. And today, because this is the anniversary of President Bush’s announcement of his first batch of judicial nominations, we have been told to expect a series of events designed to criticize the majority leader and the chairman of the Judiciary Committee for their conduct of the confirmation process and to pressure them to move this process along faster.

I am pleased to join my colleagues on the floor this morning to make a few points about this.

First, though I am sure the complaints will never stop, on the basis of the numbers alone, it is awfully hard to find fault with the pace of judicial confirmations. Since the Democrats took control of the Senate last June, we have confirmed 52 judges, not including the four whom we will vote on today, which will bring the total to 56. In under a year, that is more judges than were confirmed in four out of the six years of Republican control of the Senate under President Clinton.

Clinton’s nominees. I believe he is fulfilling that pledge, but frankly, he doesn’t have to work all that hard to do that.

For example, our friends on the Republican side are complaining that some of Bush’s nominees from last May 9 have not yet been confirmed. On today’s anniversary of those nominations, I’m sure we’ll hear a lot about that. So let’s just put that in perspective.

Let’s assume for the sake of argument that these individuals have actually waited 365 days, a full year. We all know that at this time, that’s not really accurate. First, Democrats took control of the Senate in June 2001. Our committee was not organized so that nominations hearings could be held until July 10, 2001. So it’s really been only 10 months that we have been in a position to confirm any of the May 9 nominees.

Second, and just as significantly, under this administration, the American Bar Association can’t start its review of a nomination until after the nomination is formally announced. During the Clinton administration, as under all previous administrations, Republican and Democrat, dating back to President Eisenhower, the ABA conducted its reviews of nominations before they were sent to the Senate. President Bush’s unfortunate decision to change the way the White House handles these nominees has added 30-60 days to the process as compared to prior years. That has to be factored into any claims. They are the result of the President’s own choice of cutting the ABA out of the process.

Assume for the sake of argument that all these nominees have been waiting 365 days to be considered by the Senate. That is still 140 days shy of the 505 days that Richard Lazarra waited between his nomination by President Clinton and his confirmation by the Senate. And Judge Lazarra, now serving on the district court of Florida, didn’t wait the longest. No, the period between his nomination and confirmation is only the 13th longest of the Clinton-appointed judges. So when nominees of President Bush have been waiting a year, however that is calculated, they won’t even crack the top 15 of the Clinton judges who waited the longest to be confirmed.

Another period to wait during the Clinton administration was endured by Judge Richard Paez, now on the Ninth Circuit—1,520 days—over four years. That’s in another league altogether from the delay, if you can call it that, at this point, on some of President Bush’s nominees. Nine Clinton judges waited more than 2 years before they were confirmed. If all of the May 9 judges still awaiting confirmation are still pending in the committee on May 9, 2003, then maybe we should talk about delay. I am absolutely certain that will not be the case.

Now so far, I have been talking about judges who were ultimately confirmed. But we all know that not all of President Clinton’s nominees were confirmed. Far from it. In fact, 38 judicial nominees never even got a hearing in the last Congress, including 15 court of appeals nominees. Three other nominees received hearings but never made it out. The average time of eight court of appeals nominees who never got a hearing and one who got a hearing but no committee vote, were pending for more than a year at the end of the 106th Congress. In all, more nominees than has President Clinton’s nominees to the circuit courts in 1999 and 2000 never received a hearing.

Those who are concerned about circuit court vacancies, if they are being honest, must lay the problem directly at the feet of the majority in the Senate during President Clinton’s last term. Many of those who are now loudly criticizing Chairman LEAHY refused to recognize the results of the 1996 election and dragged their feet for 4 years in nominating judicial nominees. Some of the vacancies that President Bush is now trying to fill actually date back to 1996 or even 1994.

So what are we to do about this? One alternative is to simply rubber stamp the President’s nominees. That is what some would have us do. I, for one, am thankful that that is not the approach of Chairman LEAHY or Majority Leader DASICHEL. We have a solemn constitutional obligation to advise and consent on nominations to these positions on the bench that carry with them a lifetime term. We must closely scrutinize the records of the nominees to these positions. It is our duty as Senators.

That duty is enhanced by the history I have just discussed. If we confirm the President’s nominees without close scrutiny, we would simply be rewarding the obstructionism that the President’s party engaged in over the last six years by allowing him to fill with his choosing the circuit vacatures when he hoped the Senate would not be in session. Let’s remember that the first five hearings during President Clinton’s term were held in 1993. Unnominee nominations were open for years, even when qualified nominees were advanced by President Clinton.

The most important part of the scrutiny we must do is to look at the records of these nominees. Many of them are already judges, at the State level or on a lower court. There is nothing wrong with examining their work product; indeed, that is the best indicator of how they will perform in the positions to which they have been nominated.

Some have complained that it is improper for the committee to ask to see copies of the unpublished opinions of judges nominated for the Circuit Court who are currently serving as District judges. I disagree. Let me be clear that we have not, as the Wall Street Journal editorial page recently stated, asked judges to go back and write ruling in cases where they have ruled orally from the bench. That is laughable. We simply asked for the judge’s work product—the judge’s written rulings. Unpublished opinions are binding on the parties in the case.

They are the law. They are the judge’s decisions. And we who are charged with evaluating the fitness of a sitting judge for a higher court have every right to examine those decisions—before making our decision.

I commend Chairman LEAHY on his work with nominations thus far. Fifty-six confirmations in less than a year as chairman is an admirable record. I am sure he won’t keep any nominee waiting for 4 years before getting a confirmation vote. I am sure we won’t finish the 106th Congress hearings for fewer than half of the President’s circuit court nominees. Most of all, I’m sure he will continue to treat this confirmation process with the dignity and respect and care it deserves. The courts, our system of justice, and the American people deserve no less. I reserve the remainder of our time and yield the floor.

Mr. HATCH. I yield time to the distinguished Senator from Texas.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the distinguished Senator from Texas is recognized.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Madam President, I have been listening to the debate today. I certainly want to say I have a great deal of respect for the record of President Bush. I have no concerns that I have a nomination for the Fifth Circuit, who was nominated 1 year ago today, Priscilla Owen, who I hope will get a fair hearing because she is one of the most qualified people who has ever been nominated for the Fifth Circuit.

But I want to use my time this morning to give the due accolades to two judges on whom we will vote who are district judges. The circuit court judges are the ones about whom everyone has been talking and about whom people are very concerned. But we have two very qualified district judges who are going to be confirmed today, I want to speak for them.

The first nominee is Andy Hanen. Andy Hanen was nominated in June of 2001 to serve as Federal judge for the Southern District of Texas. He was also nominated for this judgeship 10 years ago by former President Bush. His nomination expired at the end of the 106th Congress and was not renewed by President Clinton.

Andy is a 1975 cum laude graduate of Denison University in Ohio, where he studied economics and political science. In 1978 he earned his law degree from Baylor University School of Law. He ranked first in his class and was president of the Student Bar Association and a member of the Baylor Law Review.

As a founding partner of the Houston law firm Hanen, Alexander, Johnson & Spalding, he has gained extensive civil trial experience, half of which was in Federal court. He went on to win a number of accolades, including Outstanding Young Lawyer of Texas, awarded by the State Bar. He has been elected to the College of the Houston Bar Association in 1998 and is currently a director of the State Bar of Texas. He has distinguished himself throughout his career through civic and volunteer committees. He is an active member of the community and contributes his time to charities such as Habitat for Humanity, Sunshine Kids, and the Red Cross.

The Southern District of Texas is one of those that are in dire need of all the judicial vacancies being filled. I am very pleased to support Andy Hanen.

Leonard Davis has been nominated to serve as a Federal District Court Judge in the Northern District of Texas. He is a judge on the Circuit Court of Appeals for Texas, with an outstanding record. He, too, was nominated by President Bush, but the nomination expired and was not renewed by President Clinton.

He earned a mathematics degree from UT Arlington and a master's degree in management from Texas Christian University. He earned his law degree from Baylor University School of Law, where he graduated first in his class. He went on to practice civil and criminal law for 23 years and handled hundreds of cases in State and Federal courts. He was appointed to his current position as Chief Justice of the 12th Court of Appeals of the State of Texas by then-President George W. Bush and has enjoyed strong bipartisan support and no opposition to his reelection in November of 2000.

He has served on numerous boards and commissions, including the State Ethics Advisory Commission, the State Bar of Texas's Legal Publications Committee, and the American Heart Association's Board of Directors.

Judge Leonard Davis is a long-time friend of mine. I believe he, too, will serve our country well.

I urge my colleagues to support both of these Texas nominees for district court benches—Andy Hanen and Leonard Davis.

Madam President, I also would like to say one more thing about Judge Priscilla Owen, a justice of the supreme court, and ask that she be considered for her Fifth Circuit nomination.

Every newspaper in Texas endorsed Justice Owen for her reelection bid in 2000 for the Supreme Court of Texas. On February 10 of this year, a Dallas Morning News editorial said:

Justice Owen's lifelong record is one of accomplishment and integrity.

During her reelection campaign, the Houston Chronicle said, in a September 24, 2000, editorial:

A conservative, Owen has the proper balance of judicial experience, solid legal scholarship, and real world know-how to continue to be an asset on the high court.

I do hope Justice Owen will receive due consideration for her nomination to the Fifth Circuit, and certainly I hope the Senate will act on these circuit court judge nominees. We have many vacancies that need to be filled. I urge the Senate to take action.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. LEAHY. How much time is remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Vermont has 8 minutes 20 seconds.

Mr. LEAHY. And the Senator from Utah?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 30 seconds.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, the Senator from Ohio has asked for time to make a statement. I yield that time to him.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio.

Mr. DEWINE. Madam President, I rise today in support of the confirmation of Judge Thomas M. Rose, whom the President has nominated for the post of U.S. District Judge for the Southern District of Ohio, Western Division. I first met Tom Rose 29 years ago when we were both serving as assistant county prosecuting attorneys in Greene County, OH. I can tell you without reservation that he is a man of great integrity, honor, and intelligence. I do not know a more qualified, more experienced candidate for this judgeship.

Tom, who comes from Laurelville, OH, graduated from Ohio University in 1970, and received his law degree from the University of Cincinnati's College of Law in 1973. Also in 1973, he was appointed as Assistant County Prosecutor in Greene County; he became the first Magistrate in the Greene County Juvenile Court in 1976; and he became the Chief Assistant Prosecutor in charge of the Civil Division in 1978. In 1991, he became the Judge of the Court of Common Pleas in Greene County.

During these last 11 years on the Common Pleas Court bench, Ohio's highest trial court, Judge Rose has presided over a wide range of cases from criminal cases to civil cases to administrative appeals. He has faced a tremendous volume of cases, many of which have been of unprecedented complexity. For example, Judge Rose recently presided over Ohio's first pro se murder case in which the defendant could have received the maximum sentence of death.

In addition, he has heard hundreds of the kinds of civil cases and administrative appeals that dominate a common pleas docket, tax appeals, annexation questions, school districting disputes, and insurance issues. In a particularly complex civil case, Judge Rose ruled on a case of first impression involving an ordinance enacted by a local Ohio city to put impact fees on developers.

In both criminal and civil cases, he has ruled on hundreds of motions to suppress and other constitutional issues, such as search and seizure and Miranda rights.

All of this demonstrates, that without question, Judge Rose is right for this job. His background and the depth of his wide-ranging experience on the bench, the experience that makes him so well qualified for the Ohio district judgeship. I am confident that he will discharge his duties of Federal judge with the fairness, integrity, sound judgment, and energy that the people of Ohio and this Nation deserve. I whole-heartedly support his confirmation, and I encourage my colleagues to do the same.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, I truly believe, as I said in the debate, Democrats have been and will continue to lose more fair elections if the Republicans were to President Clinton's judicial nominees. The fact is that more than 50 of President Clinton's nominees never got a vote. Many languished for years before they were returned without even having a hearing. Others waited for years, up to even 4 years to be confirmed.

We are moving through, as we have these last 10 months, in filling vacancies with consensus nominees.

I voted for the vast majority of these nominees. I voted for all but one of these nominees. They are going to be Republicans. We know they are going to be conservatives. That is fine.

But I am not going to vote for somebody who will put a sign up over the Federal court saying this is no longer an independent court.

If the White House would only work with us instead of working against us, we could end the vacancy crisis by the end of next year.

Many partisans in the other party appear, unfortunately, to have decided that judges are a partisan agenda item on which this administration is intent on winning partisan, political, and ideological victories. Given the closely divided Senate—and the Congress—and the narrow electoral victory of the President, the better course would have been to work together on vacancies that we inherited from the Republican Senate.

Republicans held court of appeals judgeships open for years. Now they see their chance to pack the courts and stack the deck with conservative judicial activists in order to tilt the outcomes on these courts.

The American people do not want—and our justice system does not need—a finger on the scales of justice. It is up to the Senate to maintain the independence of the courts and the balance on them. That means resisting the appointment of ends-oriented and ideologically-driven nominees. Do not be fooled about what the fight over circuit court nominations is about.

Republicans, perhaps brilliantly from a political point of view, but disastrously from the point of view of the independence of the courts, kept vacancies on the Sixth, and Seventh, and Southern Districts of Ohio for the last 5 years. Now they have a President with a list of what he views as "reliable nominees." They are trying to get these ideological nominees through.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

Mr. LEAHY. How much time is remaining?
antagonistic efforts of his political adviser, Karl Rove, make clear that the Republicans have chosen this fight because they think it serves their political advantage.

They are deadly serious about their effort to control the Democratic Circuit, the Sixth, and the Fifth Circuits, and others—even to the point of questioning the religious background of members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, something I have never seen in 28 years in the Senate. It is one of the reprehensible tactics that I have seen in my time in the Senate. I respect the religious background of every Member. I do not know the background of most; it is none of my business. I would never question the religious background of any nominee.

I resent greatly people on the other side of the aisle questioning my religious or the religion of members of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

This battle is over whether the circuit courts will follow precedent, respect congressional action, and act to protect individual rights of Americans, or become dominated by ideologically-driven activists. I will continue to evaluate all of President’s nominees fairly, and work to strike in spite of the obstructionism and unfair criticism coming from the Republican side.

In the weeks and months to come we will be called upon to vote on very controversial activist nominees. The rights of all Americans are at stake.

We have to ask whether a fair-minded, independent judiciary will survive to protect our fundamental civil liberties and individual rights, and whether our children and grandchildren will be able to look to the Federal judiciary for even-handed justice and protection.

That is what hangs in the balance.

I again advise the President and all Republicans to join with us in working to fill the remaining judicial vacancies with qualified, consensus nominees chosen from the mainstream, and not chosen for their ideological orientation—nominees who will be fair and impartial judges, and who will ensure that an independent judiciary will be the bulwark against the loss of our freedoms and rights.

I reserve the remainder of my time.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, the American people are right to ask why this unprecedented departure from the past is happening. My colleague just accused me of confusing him of religious discrimination. He has mischaracterized my pleas for civility and fairness.

Some of my Democratic colleagues have made no bones about the fact that they are slowing down the President’s nominees because they are imposing, for the first time, an ideological litmus test. This is something I can not accept.

Many Americans are concerned that the abortion litmus test that some Democrats are imposing on judicial nominees would have the same effect as a religious test. Let me explain how. Most people who are pro-choice hold their position as a matter of ideology. Some even allow their chosen ideology to trump the tenets of their religion. They do so in good conscience no doubt, and I respect that and would not judge them for that.

But the great majority of people who are pro-life come to their positions as a result of their personal religious convictions. We view unborn life as sacred. Many Americans hold this view as a religious tenet, but this view does not affect their ability to interpret the law and precedent, just as skin color does not.

In effect, what is ideology to my Democratic friends is a matter of religious conviction to a large portion of the American people, regardless of their position on abortion. But many rightly fear that a judge with private pro-life views, which often derive from religious conviction, will ever again be confirmed in a Democrat-led Senate.

To impose an abortion litmus test on private views, call it ideological if you want to, is to exclude from our judiciary a large number of people of religious conviction, who are perfectly prepared to follow the law. I fear this is the door this Democrat-led Senate could be opening. If a nominee who was personally pro-life came before the committee and said they could not follow Supreme Court precedent because of their pro-life views, then I would have a problem with that nominee too.

But to simply discriminate against them and say that we can not trust you, despite your assurances to the Senate, to follow precedent, because you hold certain personal view, is pure and simple religious discrimination.

I can understand why people would believe that a religious test is being imposed. They fear as I do that the result would be a federal judiciary that neither looks like America nor speaks to America.

I am afraid that what is now occurring is far beyond the mere tug-of-war politics that unfortunately surrounds Senate judicial confirmation since Robert Bork. Some of my colleagues are quite eager to effect a fundamental change in our constitutional system, as they were reportedly instructed to do by noted liberal law professors at a retreat early last year.

Rather than seeking to determine the judiciousness of a nominee and whether a nominee will be able to rule on the law or the Constitution without personal bias, they want to guarantee that our judges all think in the same way, that is much further to the left of mainstream than most Americans.

The legitimacy of our courts, and especially the Supreme Court, comes from much more than black robes and a high bench. It comes from the people’s belief that judges and justices will apply a judicial philosophy without regard to personal politics or bias.

So I am protecting the Senator’s right to free religion, not disparaging his religion. This is nothing like the often-used and offensive race-card that the Democrats often used.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of each of the four nominees.

I also urge the Senate and the administration to work at keeping the impartiality of the Federal judiciary.

I urge those on the other side of Pennsylvania Avenue to stop making a political partisan game but to do what is best for the country.

I yield any time remaining that I may have.

Mr. HATCH. I yield whatever time I may have remaining.

VOTE ON NOMINATION OF LEONARD R. DAVIS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is, Will the Senate advise and consent to the nomination of Leonard E. Davis, of Texas, to be United States District Judge for the Eastern District of Texas?

The yeas and nays have been ordered, and the clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I have been in consultation with the distinguished Republican leader. We are continuing to discuss matters pertaining

The nomination was confirmed.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will now return to legislative session.

The majority leader.
to the trade package currently under consideration on the Senate floor.

In order to accommodate additional discussion, I ask unanimous consent that we proceed in morning business until 2:30, with the time equally divided between the two leaders or their designees.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

STUDENT LOANS

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I want to talk briefly this afternoon in morning business about a matter that I know is of great importance to a number of people across the country, an issue that was the subject of some discussion in the health committee just this morning.

Students are borrowing too much, and students are working too much in order to finance rising college costs.

Sixty-four percent of all students borrow Federal student loans to finance a college education today. The typical undergraduate student graduates with about $17,000 in Federal loan debt.

Student debt is skyrocketing. As a result, many students find themselves saddled with unimaginable levels of student loan debt and experience difficulty in repaying their loans. An estimated 39 percent of all student borrowers today graduate with unimaginable levels of student debt.

The administration, in late April, proposed to exacerbate the current circumstances in ways that were inexcusable to many of us. They proposed to raise student loan interest rates for consolidated loans by changing the consolidation loan interest rate from a fixed to variable rate. This proposal has come along, as I noted, when millions of students are struggling to pay for college.

According to the Department of Education, the typical borrower now graduates with almost $27,000 in Federal student loan debt, as I noted a moment ago. And more than half of all Pell grant recipients graduate with student loan debt as well. The typical Pell grant recipient who borrows graduates with almost $19,000 in loan debt.

The Office of Management and Budget, on April 25, released a third “Offset Options for the Supplemental” appropriations bill that is currently pending in the House. Many of us were intrigued with the offset option that they chose to use involving student loan consolidation. I will quote from the document. It is under the category “For $1.3 billion for the Pell Grant short-term student loan consolidation proposal.” And they stipulate that would raise $1.3 billion. Now I am quoting from the OMB document:

Changing the interest rate formula from fixed to variable is a good thing as fixed rate consolidation loans do result in significant Federal costs; have higher average costs to borrowers; needlessly penalize borrowers who consolidate their loans when variable interest rates are high; and, can have a destabilizing effect in the guaranteed loan program.

The proposal that the administration made through the OMB would cost the typical student borrower $2,800, and the typical Pell grant recipient, who borrows, $3,100 over the life of their loans. So in order to raise that $1.3 billion for which they are proposing to offset, in part, the costs of the supplemental, what they want to do is charge the typical borrower an additional $2,800 and the typical Pell grant recipient $3,100 over the life of the loan.

Senator Kennedy held a hearing this morning. We were very pleased that the administration appears now to have had a change of heart, for they have announced they are reversing their position. They now recognize that this is a major error and that they will now no longer adhere to that offset as they look to ways in which to find the money to pay for the supplemental.

We are very pleased with the administration’s announcement that they will not add additional burden on students, both for student loans as well as Pell grants.

But I must say, I thank the distinguished chair of the HELP Committee for calling this to the attention of our colleagues, for calling it to the attention, really, of the educational community. Because of his stalwart advocacy, and the extraordinary attention that this issue has generated over the last couple of weeks, I am not surprised that the administration has now had a change of heart.

This was not a good idea. And, obviously, they have now come to that conclusion as well.

So it is good news for students. It is good news for education. And it is especially good news for those advocates, as Senator Kennedy has personified, who have called for this change of heart from the day it was announced.

Mr. KENNEDY. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. DASCHLE. I am happy to yield to the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I would like to preface my question with this observation: Under the leadership of Senator Daschle, there were 46 Members of the Senate—under his leadership and Senator Reid’s, and others—who wrote a letter to the President some 10 days ago, recognizing that if this policy of the administration went ahead, it would be like increasing taxes for the average working family by $3,700. That would be the average increase if they did not consolidate. It could go as high as $10,000.

I am wondering, I did not hear that we ever received a response to that letter requesting the deferral of that action.

As Senator pointed out, I think all of us in this body want to, first, give help to all these students. The rhetoric is: We don’t want to leave any child behind. The reality is, we do not provide the resources to see that it happens—whether it is an OMB decision on student loans or the decision that the budget implies on the part of the administration to fund the No Child Left Behind Act.

Ms. STABENOW. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. DASCHLE. I am happy to yield to the Senator from Michigan.

Ms. STABENOW. I would like to thank the leader personally on behalf of hundreds of thousands of students... and their families in Michigan for his leadership on this issue. And I also thank the Senator from Massachusetts for his leadership.

When I first heard about what the administration was proposing, I was astounded. It seems to me that many students and families in Michigan

We all know, as you indicated, that Pell grants are important, particularly to lower income students. But so many middle-income families rely on the loan program and rely on the ability to receive the lowest possible interest rate in order to be able to send their children to college.

I have to say, on a personal note, having had a son go through college and a daughter who is now in college, for myself with loans, I certainly appreciate what families feel.

When we saw the proposal to increase, essentially, the interest rates, it was nothing more than a tax on the ability of people to be able to go to college and pursue the American dream. And we all certainly have a stake in making sure we do that.

So I thank the majority leader for his leadership. I know that the Senator from Massachusetts, as well, has been vigilant in this.

It is good news that they have appeared to change their minds, but we certainly know that minds can be changed again. As we go through this process, I know we will all stand together to make sure that this is an area we do not touch. I cannot imagine something more important than making sure the young people, the adults, and families of this country have the opportunity to get the skills they need to be successful in our economy. I am proud to stand with the majority leader in support of this goal.

Mr. DASCHLE. I thank the Senator from Michigan. She has been a tremendous advocate for education ever since the day she was sworn in. I am grateful to her for her engagement and her willful advocacy for education ever since.

Mr. DASCHLE. The Senator from Minnesota is exactly right. I don’t think that people that know South Dakota for the typical student, but the typical student nationally now graduates with about $17,000 in Federal loan debt. My guess is, it is somewhat lower in South Dakota. I have talked to a lot of students who are very concerned about paying off that debt, very concerned about the debt service they have to pay on a regular basis when they graduate. This is something about which they are very concerned.

Thirty-nine percent of all student borrowers go into default in that debt. That is termed an unmanageable student loan debt.

There is no question, this is a matter that is of increased concern to students all over the country, especially those in the Upper Midwest such as Minnesota and South Dakota. This is why we were so mystified when they said, we are going to ask students, on top of all the debt they currently have, to pay an additional $2,800 for a typical loan or $3,100 for a Pell grant recipient. I can’t imagine how we would want to exacerbate their problems by adding even further cost on to the overwhelming loan debt that many of them already have.

Mr. REID. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. DASCHLE. I am happy to yield to the Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. I wanted the leader to be here because he mentioned it briefly. I wanted to pick up on the fact that we have had Federal dollars to the President. I say “joined” because we depend on the Senator from Massachusetts for so many things. I want to see if the leader will agree—and I know he does—the Senator, as we know, has a great pedigree, but there is no one who serves in the Senate who is not too sure whether he or she has ever served in the United States—who has been more interested and more concerned about the people who have no one here to represent them.

I made a couple of notable seniors, we have had no leader in the Senate such as the senior Senator from Massachusetts, whether it is Medicare, whether it is prescription drugs—you list the issues seniors are interested in, including Social Security—he is always leading the charge in that regard.

If you talk about the poor, bankruptcy, food stamps, he is always out in front, as well as on the minimum wage, hate crimes, nuclear victims, I am so impressed with the work the Senator from Massachusetts does.

And while people come to us all the time—you certainly more than I, deservedly—about the things we have done, we usually, on many of the issues I have mentioned, take the lead from the Senator from Massachusetts.

Would the Senator agree with me that, in the history of the Senate, there have been very few Ted Kennedys who have been able to do things such as this, and every college student and parent who is paying off a loan I am sure can understand what I am saying.

Would the Senator agree?

Mr. DASCHLE. In the history of the Senate, I would say there has only been one TED KENNEDY. But the point is so well taken. For 35 years, this giant of the Senate has done remarkable things, probably has more legislation attributable to his contribution in this area than anybody in recent times. We certainly recognize his many accomplishments. It is not only the level of accomplishment and achievement but the manner in which he accomplishes them that is noteworthy. I appreciate very much his calling attention to this issue as well.

This is another example. This became an issue when the country, through his committee and his leadership, was put on notice about the implications of the $5 billion offset. We are very grateful to him for his work in this regard.

Mr. KENNEDY. If the Senator will yield, I am grateful to both of my colleagues for their kind and overly generous remarks. I plan to be here for a while longer.

Let me just carry on and ask the majority leader, the President, with whom we worked on education, was in southern Wisconsin earlier this week talking about the challenge of leaving no child behind, which is a great piece of legislation. We need to make sure there is money there. The enforcement, the hate crimes, nuclear victims, I am so impressed with the work the Senator from Massachusetts does.

Mr. DASCHLE. I think the majority leader is on notice about the implications of the bill. I think it is fair to say the Senator and I have been able to do things such as this, and every college student and parent who is paying off a loan I am sure can understand what I am saying.

Mr. DASCHLE. Would the Senator agree?

Mr. REID. I think the Senator is so right. I will yield to the Senator from Nevada.
for it out here in the Midwest. And now we have this year 12.8 percent. Do we find that somewhat perplexing when we have the President saying we have our responsibilities to write a healthy check? Well, the check was written and we increased it, but the Bush proposal is at 2.8 percent.

I wanted to mention, in the area which is of such central importance to educational reform, that is, having a quality teacher in every classroom, of which is of such central importance to educational reform, of which is of such central importance to educational reform, of which is of such central importance to educational reform, is at 2.8 percent.

We have a lot more of these instances in store, but I think we have made the first downpayment in the effort. I thank and applaud the Senator from Massachusetts for doing so.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Edwards). The Senator from Colorado is recognized.

Mr. Allard. Mr. President, I understand we are in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. Allard. Mr. President, last week Senator Campbell and I sent a letter to the chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee expressing our concern about the state of the judicial confirmation process. We shared with the chairman our thoughts on the serious injustices and delays experienced by American people by the committee’s failure to provide hearings for the President’s judicial nominations.

It is unfortunate that the citizens of the United States must bear the consequences of the Judiciary Committee’s delaying tactics. It is unfortunate that the citizens must bear the burden of delayed justice. One year ago, President Bush forwarded his first 11 judicial circuit court nominees to the Judiciary Committee. Every person in this group of nominees received a “qualified” or “well-qualified” rating from the American Bar Association. Now, 365 days later, 8 of the original 11 nominees are yet to receive a hearing.

One year later, we are still waiting to have a hearing for 8 of those 11 nominees.

This weekend also marks the 1-year anniversary since the President nomiinated Tim Tymkovich for the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals. So, today, I speak before you, Mr. President, I stand before you still hoping Mr. Tymkovich will have a hearing, still hoping to fill the 3-year vacancy in the Tenth Circuit, and still hoping that the people of Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Nebraska will no longer be victimized by a vacant bench—a bench paralyzed by a lack of personnel to move quickly through an overwhelming caseload.

So now Mr. Tymkovich, the former solicitor general of Colorado, waits indefinitely for the opportunity to serve his country. He waits indefinitely for his opportunity to help administer the justice that our constitutional Government guarantees. And the people of the United States wait for the Senate to fulfill its constitutional duties.

The events of the past year clearly demonstrate an active effort by the enemies of the United States to destroy the liberties and freedom of our great country.

The most basic of our country’s values and traditions are under attack. Congress has responded by enacting new laws and by providing financial assistance to businesses and families and defense. We acted swiftly to get to the root of the problem and destroy the hateful organizations that work to undermine our society.

Yet the instruments through which justice is served are being denied their chance to serve by ugly, partisan politics. For a year, Mr. Tymkovich’s nomination has languished in the committee without action. Today, once again, I urge you to move forward with his confirmation.

Mr. Tymkovich is highly qualified and will serve his country with the utmost of patriotism and respect for adherence to constitutional principles. The committee must provide a hearing for the Tenth Circuit Court seat because the seat has remained vacant entirely too long.

The commitment of providing justice is an efficient court system—a system equipped with the personnel and resources that enable it to fulfill its role as a pillar of our constitutional system of government.

The current state of judicial nominations is simply unacceptable. It has evolved into a petty game of entrenchment, creating a vacancy crisis that prevents the service of the very justice upon which our great Nation depends.

The simple fact remains: Justice cannot be delivered when one of every six judgeships on the appellate level remains vacant. I will repeat that: One out of every six judgeships on the appellate level remains vacant.

The nomination of Tim Tymkovich even shameful—that the confirmation stalemate continues. How much longer will the American people have to wait? How much longer? Many people across the country are asking this same question and responding by urging the chairman to act quickly and provide hearings for qualified judges. The sentiment is being echoed across the pages of every major newspaper in the Nation and the State of Colorado. They all agree that the Senate must act to fill judicial vacancies and end this vacancy crisis.

Mr. President, I wish to share with you some of the statements made in the editorial pages of these papers. They all recognize that the treatment of certain Bush nominees has established a pattern of political partisanship. I ask that these editorials be printed in the RECORD upon completion of my statement.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. Allard. The first article is by the Denver Post, dated Monday, May 6, 2002.

The other article I asked to be

Mr. President, the Denver Post editorial continues:

The U.S. Constitution grants to the president the power to appoint judges with the “advice and consent” of the Senate. There is nothing in that provision that anticipates a process in which the Senate nominee must replace the federal bench and the Senate act as if it has no responsibility to cooperate.

The Post continues in its editorial:

...it is difficult to think of a single reason why [Mr. Tim Tymkovich] has been denied a confirmation hearing and an up-or-down vote in the full Senate. Such a vote is the prescribed solution for cases where there is disagreement between the Senate and the president.

The Post also expresses the frustration that the American people are feeling:

Unless the Democrat's leadership abandons its delay tactics, we think the treatment of judicial nominees ought to be a front-and-center issue in the upcoming elections. If the Senate won't vote to end the judicial logjam, maybe the citizens should.

The Rocky Mountain News notes that Mr. Tim Tymkovich is not the only Tenth Circuit nominee awaiting a hearing, there are two vacancies, both of whom were appointed 1 year ago. This means the committee is depriving the court of two qualified judges. Unfortunately, it is the people of the United States who suffer, the people who turn to the courts to address their grievances. The committee does not face the daily injustice served on the people, nor does it face the costly court delays caused by an overwhelming docket. The committee does not face the frustration of citizens as they pursue justice in front of an empty bench.

The Post notes that the chairman of the committee, “Controversial nominations take longer.” But as the paper points out, there is little controversy regarding the nomination of Tim Tymkovich. Yet he still has not received a hearing.

Outside the city of Denver, newspaper headlines herald the same message, citing the stalemate as “justice delayed” and calling for action. The Colorado Springs Gazette states:

There is a slate of looming vacancies on the federal bench across the country thanks in large part to backlogged nominations, and its risk to our courts.

The Gazette concludes by adding that swift justice is supposed to be a hallmark of our system; its prospects do not look good while policymakers are making it harder to get before a judge at all.

Mr. Tymkovich is an outstanding choice for the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals, and he will serve this Nation well, but he must be given the opportunity to do so. In Colorado, his nomination enjoys broad bipartisan support and the support of our State's legal community.

He has also passed the litmus test of the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Senator Leahy, and is deemed qualified by the American Bar Association. The committee will not end the confirmation stalemate and restore the people’s faith that our judicial system is, indeed, built to provide all the judicial resources that are needed to provide access to the courts of law.

It must diligently perform its duty to provide hearings so that the vacancies that plague our courts may be filled. The President has asked for the forging of a bipartisan consensus in favor of fair and efficient consideration of all judicial nominations— I do not think that is an unreasonable request—regardless of the pattern of party control of the political branches of Government. I urge the committee to answer this call and move forward with the judicial selection process.

I thank the Chair. I yield the floor.

Exhibit 1

Politics and the Bench

There is a fresh reminder of how political the judicial selection process has become. Colorado's two senators, Ben Nighthorse Campbell and Wayne Allard, both Republicans, introduced a resolution in the Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., pointing out that it was a full year ago that President Bush nominated Denver attorney Timothy Tymkovich to a seat on the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The two senators complained, and we agree, that “the current state of judicial nominations...devolved into a petty game of entrenchment” that has created a vacancy crisis.

The recent treatment of a Charles Pickering, a White House-baited Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, consumed a great deal of the committee's time and established a pattern of partisan disparities.

The issue for the Senate and the nation is whether such treatment—and ultimate rejection on a straight party-line vote in committee—is a pattern the Democratic leaders of the Senate want to repeat. It will be no bargain for the country if the Senate committee adopts a strategy of simply delaying all Bush judicial nominations.

The U.S. Constitution grants to the president the power to appoint judges with the “advice and consent” of the Senate. There is nothing in that provision that anticipates a process in which a president nominates replacements to the federal bench and the Senate acts as if it has no responsibility to cooperate.

Because Tymkovich is well-known in Colorado, having served as the state's solicitor general, it is difficult to think of a single reason why he has been denied a confirmation hearing and an up-or-down vote in the full Senate. Such a vote is the prescribed solution for cases where there is disagreement between the Senate and the president.

Unless the Democratic leadership abandons its delay tactics, we think the treatment of judicial nominees ought to be a front-and-center issue in the upcoming elections.

If the Senate won't vote to end the judicial logjam, maybe the citizens should.

Bush Nominates to Denver-Based Court Still Waiting for Hearings

(By Robert Gehrke)

WASHINGTON—A year ago, it looked like smooth sailing for Michael McConnell.

But as Colorado attorney Tim Tymkovich to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver, Color.

A year later, Democrats control the Senate, and McConnell, Tymkovich and five other judges Bush nominated last spring are still awaiting a hearing.

Hatch, McConnell's leading backer, has criticized Judiciary Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., for moving too slow on judicial nominees, and frequently cites McConnell as an example.

"They know that Mike McConnell is one of the truly great Constitutional scholars. They know he's on the fast track to the Supreme Court, so they're going to delay this as long as they can," Hatch said.

Keeping McConnell off the bench, Hatch said, keeps him from compiling the type of judicial experience he needs before moving up to the Supreme Court.

Sen. Wayne Allard and Ben Nighthorse Campbell, both R-Colo., urged Leahy last month to hold a hearing for McConnell and Tymkovich.

"The current state of judicial nominations is unacceptable," they wrote in a letter to Leahy. "It has devolved into a petty game of entrenchment that has created a vacancy crisis that prevents the service of the very justice upon which our great nation depends."

McConnell and Tymkovich would fill the two vacancies on the 10th Circuit, which handles appeals from U.S. district courts in Utah, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma and Nebraska. Other circuits have more vacancies.

Leahy spokesman David Carle defended the pace of nominations, saying Democrats confirmed 16 more justices in their first 10 months in control than the Republicans did in their first 10 months in control.

Women's groups, gay-rights advocates and church-state separationists have all voiced concerns about McConnell and Tymkovich's records.

McConnell, 46, has represented several groups that have claimed government discrimination because of their religious beliefs. He has argued against a secular government constitutionally challenged by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Post also expresses the frustration that the American people are feeling:...
We understand that the president has the right to name nominees that he chooses,” Shah said recently. “We are willing to look at the record and their political views and see if they are qualified to sit on the bench. But we don’t think the president should turn back the clock on civil rights, women’s rights and environmental protections.”

JUSTICE DELAYED

BLOCKING NOMINEES IS AN OLD POLITICAL

GAME OF ENTRENCHMENT

Let’s not be naive about how Presidential picks, especially for the judiciary, quickly can become political pawns for members of Congress. Holding up a nominee to the bench or to confirm their nomination is a way of making the Senate’s advice and consent have become nothing less than a venerated tradition. And it’s a bipartisan affair even as each side howls with indignation when the other does it.

Sometimes it’s indulged for philosophical reasons—a judicial nominee’s stance on abortion or capital punishment, for example. Other times the stonewalling is mandanely political—perhaps some senators want a president to back off of a threatened veto of major legislation. In those instances, it can prove a useful bargaining chip. It all makes for a very old game, and it has been that way almost every time the White House has changed hands in those years.

But that doesn’t make it right. More to the point, the inclination of senators to make judicial appointees cool their heels interferes with the timely administration of justice. The latest joust between the Senate and the presidency is no exception.

To their credit, Colorado Republican U.S. Senators Ben Nighthorse Campbell and Wayne Allard have written a letter to the Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Patrick Leahy, to express their concern at some pending judicial nominations.

“The current state of judicial nominations is unacceptable. It has devolved into a petty game of entrenchment, creating a vacancy crisis that presents the threat of the very justice upon which our nation depends,” they wrote.

Of particular concern to the Colorado delegation is the status of Colorado’s former solicitor general, Tim Tymkovich, who was nominated by President Bush in 2001 to fill the Colorado vacancy on the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals. Saturday will mark the one-year anniversary since Tymkovich’s nomination was sent to the Judiciary Committee.

It’s not as if there are some glaring blemishes on the man’s resume. On the contrary, his nomination enjoys the broad support of our state’s legal community, and he was deemed qualified when rated by the American Bar Association. And still he remains in limbo.

To reiterate, we’re not being naive here. This is an old syndrome that conforms to no political boundaries. Indeed, a couple of years ago, it was Allard who for a time helped to stall the nomination of a Democratic administration pick for the 10th Circuit bench.

But the underlying point the Senators make in their letter to Leahy is well taken. Quite simply, there’s a slate of looming vacancies on the federal bench across the country thanks in large part to backlogged nominations and the pausing of the process.

Whatever reservations members of either party might harbor about any given nominee, and however substantive those concerns may or may not be, a senator’s vote is at some point their chance to make a statement that they pale next to the need for any judge at all to attend to the logjam in federal courts.

Swift justice is supposed to be a hallmark of our system, one that has served us well while the likes of Leahy are making it harder to get before a judge at all.

GOP MAY PROTEST DELAY ON HEARINGS

COLORADO IS AMONG BUSH JUDICIAL NOMINEES

(By M.E. Sprengelmeyer)

WASHINGTON.—Republicans might slow action in the U.S. Senate today to protest a yearlong delay in confirming President Bush’s judicial nominees, including one from Colorado.

Saturday will be the one-year anniversary of Bush’s nomination of Tim Tymkovich to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver. But he’s still waiting for a confirmation hearing, as are 11 other judicial nominees Bush made a year ago today.

Republican Senators will call attention to the issue in a morning press conference, and then they are expected to invoke procedural maneuvers to slow the Senate’s work throughout the day.

“It will be a slowdown in order to make their point,” said Sean Conway, spokesman for Sen. Wayne Allard, R-Loveland.

Last week, President Bush called the situation a “vacancy crisis,” especially in the 12 regional Courts of Appeals, where one in sixjudgeships remains vacant. The Denver-based 10th Circuit is still waiting for nominees Tymkovich and Michael McConnell of Utah to get hearings.

In response, Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Sen. Pat Leahy, D-Vermont, pointed out that the Senate had confirmed 52 of Bush’s nominees in the past 12 months. He noted the control 10 months ago. He said Bush should share the blame for other delays.

“Controversial nominations take longer, and the President can help by choosing nominees primarily for their ability instead of for their ideology,” Leahy said in a release.

Some groups have questioned McConnell’s nomination, claiming that the University of Utah professor would weaken the separation of church and state. They also question his views because he once represented the Boy Scouts of America in its bid to exclude homosexuals. McConnell backers say the fears are based on misunderstandings and that he has been endorsed by several Democratic academics.

But there is little controversy over Tymkovich, Colorado’s former solicitor general.

Last month, Allard and Sen. Ben Nighthorse Campbell, R-Ignacio, wrote Leahy, demanding that Tymkovich get a hearing.

“It has devolved into a petty game of entrenchment, creating a vacancy crisis that prevents the service of the very justice upon which our nation depends,” they wrote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arkansas.

Mr. HUTCHINSON. I thank the Chair.

I congratulate Senator ALLARD for an excellent statement. I have a similar story to tell of one of our nominees from the State of Arkansas.

THE PRESIDENT’S COMMITMENT TO EDUCATION

Mr. HUTCHINSON. Mr. President, before I begin discussing the judicial nomination, I wish to respond to the colloquy that took place on the other side of the aisle regarding our President’s commitment to education.

I serve on the Education Committee, and I was privileged to serve on the conference committee on the Leave No Child Behind legislation which reauthorized the Elementary and Secondary Education Act and which was signed into law in January. I saw for more than a year the President’s and this administration’s deep commitment and involvement to reforming our public schools, and I was deeply impressed with this administration’s commitment to education and our commitment to our elementary and secondary education, special education under IDEA, and the bilingual and other programs that were reauthorized in this legislation.

We have incredible legislation in the White House, and that is why this bipartisan legislation passed by over 80 votes in the Senate. It disappoints me and hurts me to hear my colleagues on the other side of the aisle attack this administration and question its commitment to education. We saw in 30 years under Democrat control an education policy that got us nowhere, in which the learning gap between high-achieving and low-achieving students never narrowed, in which test scores, instead of rising, continued to fall.

Now we have a President who has said: Let’s try something different; let’s put real accountability into education; yes, let’s increase funding, with dramatic increases in title I, dramatic increases in IDEA, special education, and dramatic reforms and increases in bilingual education; but let’s accompany spending increases with accountability; let’s not just spend more, let’s spend smarter.

I, for one, stand and applaud the President for his leadership. I can only say as the President’s poll numbers soar on leadership in education and Republicans in general score better on education than ever before, that is the only explanation for the misguided attack on the President on the education issue which we just heard today.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. HUTCHINSON. Mr. President, I wish to speak about the tragic hold up of our circuit court nominees to the Federal bench. It takes only a few numbers to show the dramatic vacancy crisis we are facing in the Federal court system: 10 percent of Federal judgeships are vacant right now; 85; 20 percent of judicial seats at the Federal courts of appeals are vacant. With eight openings, half of the Sixth Circuit is now vacant. It is operating at half strength.

The Judiciary Committee has held a hearing on only one of President Bush’s seven nominees for the Sixth Circuit, and that hearing was held just a week and a half ago after pending for over 6 months. Two of the Sixth Circuit nominees, Jeffrey Sutton and Deborah Cook, were nominated a year ago today but have not yet had a hearing.

Do they question their ability? The ABA rated both nominees unanimously qualified, but they have languished for a year.
The numbers simply do not lie: 44 nominations are currently pending before the Judiciary Committee. Unfortunately, 22 of those unconfirmed nominees are for circuit courts, the court of last resort for most cases.

In 1996, the current Judiciary Committee chairman called a vacancy rate of only two-thirds as high as the one we face today a judicial emergency. It is even more so today, and we are doing even less about it.

Of the current 85 vacancies, 37 are considered judicial emergencies by the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts. This is calculated based on the number of years the judgeship has been open and the size of the court's caseload.

Perhaps the most staggering fact is this: Of the President's first 11 circuit court nominees submitted to the Senate on May 9, 2001, only 3—Mr. President, only 3—have even received hearings by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

This is a crisis by any definition, by any measure, and it is inexcusable.

One of the nominees who has been waiting almost a year is from my home State of Arkansas.

He is an extraordinary distinguished, very qualified jurist named Lavenski Smith. This is my friend Lavenski Smith.

It is very easy to talk numbers. Numbers come and go. People come to the Chamber and argue numbers and statistics but I want to put a face on what we are really talking about.

Judge Smith was nominated for the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals almost a year ago, on May 22, 2001. I brought this picture of Lavenski Smith in the hopes this might put a human face on at least one of the people we are hurting by these unjust and inexcusable delays. Judge Smith has received broad support from both of his home State Senators, from colleagues on the bench in Arkansas and across the country, from judges who have nurtured him in the days of practicing law. He has received the support of the American Bar Association. He has received the support of the president of the Arkansas NAACP. He has received the support of editorial boards of both the left and the right ends of the political spectrum in the State of Arkansas.

That is broad support. That is support from the left and the right. There is support from every colleague who has touched him. There is support from his colleagues on the Arkansas Supreme Court. There is support from the American Bar Association. There is support across the board.

The NAACP president has written asking for a hearing. Yet Judge Smith’s nomination languishes. Why? If he is confirmed, Judge Smith will be the first African-American Arkansan on the Eighth Circuit. I wonder what the ladies and gentlemen of the press would be saying about this nomination were it a white, male nominee. Why are lieutenants in control and a Democrat nominee, an African American, who would be the first on the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals, had languished for almost a year without even a hearing.

Ever since this nomination, I have looked forward to the day when I could sit next to Judge Smith in the Senate Judiciary Committee and I could give a glowing introduction of my friend at that hearing. I have been waiting, I have been waiting, and I have been waiting. I have written Senator Leahy over and over, and I have talked to Senator Leahy. Others have written and pleaded for a hearing, and yet nothing has happened.

I would like to tell my colleagues about my friend. Lavenski Smith earned both his bachelor’s degree and his law degree from the University of Arkansas. Following law school and 3 years working in private practice, Judge Smith served the poorest and the neediest citizens of Arkansas as the staff attorney for Ozark Legal Services. At Ozark Legal Services, he represented abused and neglected children, whose own parents were unwilling or unable to act in their best interest, putting the children in danger. So Judge Smith stepped in.

Judge Smith helped these children. He represented them in our court legal system and navigated the foster care system for them. He helped find the safest place for these children to grow and to thrive. So he is committed to the needy. He is committed to the poorest, and he has demonstrated that with his life, not just with his rhetoric.

In addition to this public service, Lavenski Smith has volunteered his spare time to charitable endeavors such as raising funds for the School of Hope, a school for handicapped children in his hometown of Hope, Arkansas. After Judge Smith spent years working at Ozark Legal Services, Judge Smith opened the first minority-owned law firm in Springdale, AR, handling primarily civil cases. He then taught business law at the University of Arkansas and took several positions in public service, including working as the regulatory liaison for Governor Mike Huckabee in the Governor’s office. He currently serves as a commissioner on our Public Service Commission.

Now I mentioned he has this very broad support, and indeed he has. So let me share some of the statements of support for Judge Lavenski Smith, former Arkansas Supreme Court Justice, who was nominated almost a year ago to the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals and has not been granted even the courtesy of a hearing before our Judiciary Committee.

Dear Chairman Leahy, as the President of the Arkansas State Conference Branch of the NAACP, I am writing to express our concern that Attorney Lavenski Smith, who is from Arkansas, has not been given a confirmation hearing. President Bush nominated Mr. Smith approximately a year ago for the Eighth Circuit Court. It is my opinion that Mr. Smith is a fine individual and has served the people of Arkansas well in his capacity as a public official.

Mr. HUTCHINSON. I would like to share with my colleagues what the President of the Arkansas chapter of the NAACP wrote concerning my friend Lavenski Smith:

Dear Chairman Leahy, as the President of the Arkansas State Conference Branch of the NAACP, I am writing to express our concern that attorney Lavenski Smith, who is from Arkansas, has not been given a confirmation hearing. President Bush nominated Mr. Smith approximately a year ago for the Eighth Circuit Court. However, he has not been given a hearing before the Judiciary Committee.

While I understand there are some partisan issues involved, I am the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee to, immediately, schedule a hearing on behalf of the confirmation of Mr. Smith for the Eighth Circuit Court. It is my opinion that Mr. Smith is a fine individual and has served the people of Arkansas well in his capacity as a public official.

Mr. Smith has been denied a hearing for one year.

Mr. HUTCHINSON. What kind of support does one have to have to get a hearing? How long does one have to wait to get a hearing? In June of 2001, the American Bar Association, which has been called the gold standard of qualifications, agreed and made a unanimous qualified determination. Chief Justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court, W.H. “Dub” Arnold, well-respected jurist in the State of Arkansas, wrote on behalf of Lavenski Smith:

He is a great man. He is very intelligent. He did a great job for us on the Arkansas Supreme Court. I think he’ll make a great Federal judge. I think President Bush made the best possible nomination he could have made.
Now, Justice Arnold is a Democrat, but he is a fair-minded Democrat and he is a distinguished jurist and he weighs in and says President Bush made the best possible nomination he could have made.

We have all written to Judge Smith to let him know I would be making these remarks on his behalf in this Chamber. Judge Smith said: Well, go ahead. I do not think it will make much difference, but go ahead. I wrote so crudely that he is so cynical about the process that has already delayed this nomination for a year and not even given him a hearing, that his attitude about pushing hard for it really will do any results.

Mike Huckabee, Governor of the State of Arkansas stated:
He just has all the equipment to be an outstanding jurist. I'll be the first to predict that his next stop will be the United States Supreme Court.

Governor Huckabee is a Republican. So we have Dub Arnold, a Democrat, and we have Mike Huckabee, a Republican. We have the NAACP. We have the American Civil Liberties Union. We have the NAACP. Even the NAACP had a critical letter or perhaps if his colleagues on the Arkansas Supreme Court had come out publicly and said they question his qualifications, perhaps then there would be some way to understand why there has not even been a hearing for Judge Smith.

So I have thought about why, and the only opposition I can find, I say to my distinguished colleagues and to our Presiding Officer today, to Judge Smith is found on one of my Web sites. One is NOW, the National Organization for Women, and the other is NARAL.

Judge Smith, for all of his qualifications, all of his distinguished service, all of his commitment to the poor, needy, and handicapped in our society, has one grave shortcoming: He is pro-life. There are those on the Judiciary Committee who have said: Don't send us a pro-life nominee. They are dead on arrival. That is tragic.

To those who for years have denounced the idea of a litmus test to the Federal bench, that we only look at whether one is qualified or not, no one raises a hand. That is tragic.

I ask once again, after nearly a year, why the Senate was allowing a partisan process is not a payback opportunity just a political game. The confirmation process is not a payback opportunity just a political game. The confirmation process is not a payback opportunity just a political game.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, there have been a couple of speeches on judges. I will say a few things pertinent to the discussion regarding judges.

There is no better place to start than a few statements made by the Republican leader, Senator LOTT, said: I am saying to you, I am trying to help move this thing along, but getting more Federal judges is not what I came here to do.

That is the Republican leader.

The Senator from Pennsylvania, Senator SANTORI, said on November 11 of 2001:
The delays are a result of "rank partisanship by Tom Daschle."

But this is what he said on the 18th day of August the year 2000:
A number of my Republican colleagues are not likely to rush President Clinton's lifetime judicial nominees through the confirmation process when they think there is a chance they could occupy the White House in January.

My friend, Senator CRAIG of Idaho, said in June of 1996:
There is a general feeling . . . that no more nominations should move. I think you'll see a progressive shutdown.

Now what he is saying:
There seems to be a concerted effort to operate very slowly around here.

My friend, Orrin Hatch, the chairman of the committee, talked about his ideology. He said, when chairman of the committee a couple years ago:
I led the fight to oppose the confirmation of these two judges because their judicial records indicated they would be activists who would legislate from the bench.

A couple of months ago he said:
I would like to add that one recent attempt to reinvent history by repeating this convenient myth that I, as chairman, blocked President Clinton's nominations on the basis of political ideology.

That is what he said.

Again, my friend, the Republican leader said:
The reason for the lack of action on the nominations of Clinton is that he has his steady ringing office phone saying "no more Clinton Federal judges."

Senator LOTT said he received a lot of phone calls saying "No more Clinton judges." So that is what he did.

The Bulletin's Frontrunner, a newspaper:
Until we get 12 appropriations bills done, there is no way any judge, of any kind, or any stripe, will be confirmed.

Senator HATCH said:
The claim that there is a vacancy crisis in the Federal courts is simply wrong. Using the Clinton administration's own standard, the Federal Judiciary currently has virtual full employment.

We have established the vacancies in the Federal judiciary created by Republicans. Senator HATCH said don't worry.

Although just a short time ago he said:
If we don't have the third branch of government staffed, we're all in trouble.

The Republicans say they want hearings. I heard my friend from Arkansas say they want hearings.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

S4111

These are people President Clinton nominated who never ever got a hearing—not 2 days later, 2 weeks later, 2 months later, 2 years later. They never got a hearing. Fine people. In Illinois, Wenona Whitfield; in Missouri, Leland Shurin; in Pennsylvania, John Binger; in South Carolina, Cheryl Wattley; in California, Michael Schaffman.

Circuit judges in the Fourth Circuit, James Beatty; Richard Leonard, never got hearings; Annabelle Rodriguez in the 105th Congress, Helene White, Ohio; Jorge Rangel in Texas; Jeffrey Coleman, North Dakota; James Klein, District of Columbia; Robert Freedberg, Pennsylvania; Cheryl Wattley, Texas; Lynette Norton, Pennsylvania; Robert Raymar, Third Circuit; Legrome Davis, Pennsylvania; Lynne Lasry, California; Barry Goode, California. No hearings.

In the 106th Congress, 33 never got a hearing: H. Alston Johnson, Louisiana; James Dough, Hawaii; Elana, Kansas; District of Columbia; James Wynn, North Carolina; Kathleen McCree-

Lewis, Ohio; Enrique Moreno, Texas; James Lyons, Colorado; Kent Markus, Ohio; Robert Cindeich, Pennsylvania; Stephen Orlofsky, New Jersey; Hispanic nominees. There is a Hispanic nominee who they say has not moved quickly enough.

Jorge Rangel, who was nominated in July of 1997, never got anything. Enrique Moreno, Fifth Circuit, nominated in 1999, didn’t get anything. Christina Arguello, July of 2001—nothing happened. Ricardo Morado, south Texas—nothing happened. Anabelle Rodriguez—these are just some of the names.

I suggest before the tears run too heavily down the cheeks of my Republican friends, they should go back and read their own statements given by their own Senators, and find out the States where people who were nominated by President Clinton never got a hearing.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Carr-per). The Senator from Florida.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, last week I learned of the death of three men. I reheat the apart from each other—one in Florida, one in Virginia, and one in Maryland—but they shared a special past.

All three played in baseball’s Negro Leagues. They did not receive million-dollar contracts. They did not get endorsement deals. They just played baseball.

Sadly, these three men were part of a group of about 165 players who never received a pension for their time in the leagues.

The Negro League was founded in 1920 by Andrew ‘Rube’ Foster. With 72 teams and more than 4,000 players, the Negro Leagues lasted until 1960, when its last team folded.

For half a century, most of the Negro League players were denied the opportunity to play in the Majors.

Even though Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier in 1947, it took another decade for Major League Baseball to really become integrated. All the while, baseball had its antidistruc-tion to unfairly compete against the Negro Leagues, and systematically discriminated against most Negro League players for many years after 1947.

That is the crux of the argument many of these old-timers have about not getting even a small pension.

Though Baseball Commissioner Bud Selig sought to fix some of the problems of the past when, a few years ago, he awarded an annual $10,000 pension benefit to some of the Negro Leaguers, he left out those who played solely in the Negro Leagues from 1948 to 1960. Indeed, those attorneys were left out because the sport was integrated during that time. But an accurate reading of history shows it took the Big Leagues many years to integrate following Jackie Robinson’s breakthrough. In fact, the Boston Red Sox didn’t have a single black on its team until 1959—more than a decade after Robinson’s move to the Majors.

The players still seeking a small retirement have been reaching out to Commissioner Selig now for 5 long years now. But their requests have been ignored. I joined them last year in trying to find some resolution to this dispute, but my efforts to meet with Commissioner Selig also have been ignored.

Meantime, these ex-players are getting old. Three of them died last late-month—two on the same day.

On April 23, we lost James “Pee Wee” Jenkins, a native of Virginia. Jenkins pitched for the New York Black Cubs.

Just last year, Jenkins threw out the first pitch at Shea stadium, as the 2001 Mets—dressed in Black Cuban uniforms—paid tribute to Jenkins and the rest of his fellow 1947 Negro League World Series champions.

James Cohen, Sr., of Washington DC, also died on April 23. A World War II veteran, he pitched for the Indianapolis Clowns from 1946 to 1962, earning the nickname “Fireball.”

In his last year with the Clowns, he played with the great, legendary Hank Aaron. Mr. Cohen went on to be a postal clerk for 35 years. And in 1994, he was honored at the White House by Vice President Al Gore. Mr. Cohen was survived by two sons, seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Back in Florida, we lost Eugene White, of Jacksonville, on April 26. He was an infielder for the Chicago American Giants and the Kansas City Monarchs. As a retiree, he coached little league. On the playing field, he taught more than baseball.

Rob Stafford, one of Mr. White’s former players, recently recalled some of the lessons Mr. White taught the kids.

Mr. Stafford: He taught me a lesson that I only learned to appreciate as a man—the lesson of tolerance.

He taught to never prejudice, minimize or marginalize a person. He taught me that every person deserves a chance to participate, to be included. . . .

He is now a star on God’s level playing field.

Mr. White, Mr. Jenkins and Mr. Cohen were some of baseball’s living legendary. But these legends are dying. And so today, to Mr. Selig and to Major League Baseball, I say this: time is running short for you to do the right thing. Major League Baseball can choose to resolve this issue and, can give these players a small token for their achievements.

I sincerely hope Major League Baseball will.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELSTONE. I thank my colleague from Florida for his very eloquent statement. Second, I thank the minority leader, Senator LOTTM and Mississippi, for his graciousness in letting me proceed. I will try to be brief.

HEALTH INSURANCE ASSISTANCE

Mr. WELSTONE. Mr. President, last week I said to people in northern Minnesota—specifically northeast Minnesota on the Iron Range—that I thought we had a real breakthrough. I thought it was part of fast track on trade adjustment authority, including legacy costs, and a 1-year bridge where health care costs would be covered. Through no fault of any of the retirees, a lot of these companies, including LTV, declared bankruptcy and walked away from health care benefits, which is terrifying to people in their older age.

Yesterday, the administration came out with a statement about this trade adjustment assistance package:

Specifically, the administration opposes the Daschle substitute last-minute addition of health insurance assistance for steel retirees.

There is a nightmare. I say to my colleague from Mississippi that this is an absolute nightmare for people on the range.

The President talked about how concerned he is. But this is just a 1-year bridge to help pay for these retirees’ health care costs until we put together a package that deals with the legacy costs for the future.

The President crushed the hopes of people with this position that the White House has now taken.

The President says: Look what I have done for the steel industry. He talks about section 201, but now there are 1,000 exceptions to the kind of trade relief we thought we were going to get through section 201.

In Minnesota, we were concerned about what was happening to the taconite industry. We were talking about the unfair competition from semi-finished slab steel.

Basically, the administration came up with a tariff quota, and it was 7 million tons of slab steel a year, which is what is being dumped right now on the range. It didn’t give us any relief whatsoever.

But, most important of all, what is happening now with this statement of position by the administration is they are just walking away from dealing with the legacy costs.

Jerry Fowler, who testified before the HELP committee a couple of weeks ago, president of Local 4108, talked about the pain on the range, and talked about all of these people. Gosh. You talk about what we say we believe in—people who have just worked their heads off all of their lives, taconite workers, helping to produce steel, which is so critical to our national security. It is a part of all of our military efforts. People really appreciate and are proud of their families. They are proud of the range. Through no fault of their own, 32 steel companies have declared bankruptcy, and then they walk away from these people.

They say they can no longer cover their health care benefits, nor their retiree benefits. Many people are afraid of no longer having prescription drug coverage.

People were really hopeful, and I was able to report last week, and I was proud. I thank Senators ROCKEFELLER, MIKULSKI, STABENOW, LEVIN, and certainly my colleague MARK DAYTON. We worked hard to have iron ore and taconite included.

This was a pragmatic part of the trade adjustment assistance—only a 1-year bridge, but it was a start. It would give people some security, and it was the right thing to do.

The President has talked about his concern for steelworkers. Over and over again, he professed his concern for steelworkers. Then, specifically, the administration opposed the Daschle substitute last-minute addition of health insurance assistance for steel retirees.

We know there is going to be a point of order and a budget challenge on this amendment. I believe what the White House has now done is basically sealed its fate. We are not going to be able to have this bridge. We are not going to be able to have this assistance for people.

I question this fast track for a lot of reasons, but, at the very minimum, when people are out of work through no fault of their own—people work for an industry that has been besiegled with unfair trade—this only thing they were asking for is a bridge to make sure retirees don’t lose their benefits.

All of us have worked so hard together—Senator SPECTER and Senator DEWINE—to get this done. Now the administration comes out yesterday and torpedoed the whole thing.

Mr. President, are you for the taconite workers on the Iron Range? Are you for the steelworkers? You say you are.

We will be back on this over and over again. But this is a huge blow for the Iron Range in Minnesota and for me as a Senator from Minnesota trying to do my best to represent people.

Yesterday the President made it very clear that all of his talk about helping the hard-working men and women of the U.S. steel industry is just that—talk. His latest pronouncement is that steelworker retirees don’t need the assistance this bill would have provided to help them pay for health insurance they are losing because their company has gone bankrupt.

This is outrageous—these are hard-working, decent, compassionate men and women who have devoted their lives to the steel industry—an industry that is essential to our national security—and now they find themselves without health insurance they were promised in their retirement because their companies have gone bankrupt, they’re out in the cold without the resources to pay for health insurance, and the President says, oh, no, they don’t need the 1-year lifeline this bill offers.

Frankly, President Bush talks about what he’s done for the steel industry and for steel workers. But there is not a lot of substance there.

First, we had a section 201 decision that is looking more and more cosmetic. It may have brought relief to some sections of the steel industry, except that now the administration is entertaining all sorts of exceptions—there are over 1,000 exceptions to the President’s section 201 and Secretary O’Neill is reported as saying that a significant portion of them will be favorably decided.

Then there is the fact that the decision did nothing to help Minnesota’s Iron Range—nor the whole—deal with import surges of semi-finished slab steel. While the President imposed tariffs on every other product category for which the International Trade Commission had found injury, or steel, and some companies have filed for bankruptcy, and these companies represent nearly 30 percent of our domestic steel making capacity. These failures weren’t the fault of the workers at these companies. These failures resulted from unfair and predatory practices of our trading partners over an extended period. Yet despite the moral and economic imperative to do something about this legacy cost problem so that the steel industry, so essential to our national security, can revitalize and revitalize itself, the President has washed his hands of the matter. It is somebody else’s problem he says.

And now there is the current bill. Those of us who are serious about this legacy cost problem, and it is a bipartisan group, have introduced S. 2189, the Steel Industry Retiree Benefits Protection Act of 2002, to address the legacy cost question in a comprehensive way. In the meantime, however, recognizing that every day steelworker retirees whose companies have gone bankrupt are losing their health insurance, Senator DASCHLE introduced provisions to provide stop gap assistance—1 year of health insurance to retirees who right now are losing their benefits—to tide folks over while we work on the larger problem.

And that, incredibly, is what President Bush yesterday announced his opposition to. It is now abundantly clear, if there had been any doubt, that this President is not interested in health and well-being of our steelworker families.

In Minnesota, on the Iron Range, there are several thousand retirees who find themselves in desperate need of assistance and this administration is turning its back on them.

Earlier this year, the HELP Committee held hearings on the need for legacy cost legislation both for retirees and for the industry. The testimony was riveting. The need compelling. My good friend, Jerry Fallos, president of Local 4108 of the United Steelworkers of America, testified that those steelworkers, the stories he had to tell were grim indeed.

As Jerry said, the people of the Iron Range are used to hard times. They have weathered any number of challenges over the years. They are good people, proud, hard-working—the best you can find anywhere. They are survivors—and they will get through these difficult times as well. They have given much to their country, and now they need our help.

The good people of the range have responded to their country in its times of needs. Over the years our Nation’s economy flourished and our manufacturing and steel industry produced through the labors of steelworker on the range.

Yesterday, when President Bush announced his opposition to helping these steelworker retirees he said it would cost too much. We think his $800 million estimate is way off, but even if you accept it at face value, it pales in comparison to the billions and billions of dollars of tax giveaways this administration is happy to make available to multinational corporations and the wealthy.

We are talking about $120 billion over 10 years to make the estate tax permanent, and $40 billion over 10 years to make all of the tax cuts permanent. Are these your priorities—$400 billion to multinational corporations and wealthy individuals as opposed to $400 million to help steelworker retirees keep their health insurance for 1 year? I have asked many time before: Where are our priorities; where are our values? How can we tolerate such choices—tax breaks to help multinational corporations and those we were selected by Democrats, and they were qualified. The President resubmitted their names. They got through the process. But these eight have not had any further consideration for a full year.

You can argue statistics. But usually Presidents get their circuit nominations confirmed within a year of having them sent forward. The President sought men and women of great experience and who meet the highest standards of legal training, temperament, and judgment—for all of his nominations, but particularly for this first group of circuit court nominees. He sought out nominees who respect the powers given to them by the Constitution and who will interpret the law—not make the law. He sought out nominees who have reputations as lawyers of skill, discernment, and high character. He even sought out nominees who had a great deal of experience in arguing cases before the Supreme Court. In this group of eight nominees, they have collectively appeared before the Supreme Court over 60 times. One of them has appeared before the Supreme Court 30 times.

In terms of their education, their experience, and their integrity, this group is unimpeachable and quite remarkable.

Here are these individuals’ pictures. I think a picture helps inform our debate, because it takes the debate away from the realm of just statistics or mere names.

Mr. President, why do we need another pound of flesh concerning the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals? Is Judge Charles Pickering who has already been voted down in the Judiciary Committee and on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. President, when we are talking about Justice Priscilla Owen, a nominee to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, I have a special feeling in my heart about this circuit because it does include my State of Mississippi. Judge Owen has served on the Texas Supreme Court since 1994. She has been involved in business in the private sector. She is an outstanding graduate of Baylor Law School in Texas.

Again, by education, by experience, and by personal integrity, this is a lady who should have been accorded a hearing and a vote by now in the Judiciary Committee and on the floor of the Senate.

once again, that she has been pending for a full year.

One interesting thing of note, Mr. President, is that two of these nominees, were actually nominated by the first President Bush. So they in a sense have been waiting over 10 years to get a fair hearing and be confirmed to the circuit courts.

John Roberts is one of those two, and has again been nominated to the DC Circuit Court of Appeals. He is one of the Nation’s leading appellate lawyers, having argued 36 cases before the U.S. Supreme Court, and serving as a Deputy Solicitor General for our Nation. He also graduated magna cum laude from Harvard. So again, by education, by incredible experience, and by personal integrity, he has stellar qualifications to serve as a circuit court judge. Yet, he too has been denied a fair hearing and an opportunity to be considered by the Senate by the majority of Democrats on the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. President, our Nation’s fourth President, James Madison, was certainly correct when he said that the courts exist to exercise not the will of men, but the judgment of law. This President has gone to great lengths to exercise not the will of men, but the judgment of law.

I want to point out what is happening in terms of these circuit judges nominated by President Bush as compared to the treatment that was afforded circuit court nominees during President Clinton’s first two years in office.

First off, I should point out that while President Bush sent his first nominations up on May 9, 2001, a year ago, President Clinton did not send up his first batch of nominations to the Senate until August of his first year in office.

So, there was actually less time to actually get President Clinton’s nominees confirmed than there has been to get George Bush’s out.

Yet you can see from the chart what is actually happening with Bush’s nominees, particularly with respect to the circuit judges. President Clinton, in the 14 months after his first nominee was sent up, got 86 percent of them confirmed by the time Congress adjourned. Ultimately, over the course of the following Congress, Clinton ended up getting almost all of the judges he nominated during his first Congressional term. Again, I am not going to give you the exact percentages or numbers, but there is clearly a problem here. While Clinton got 86 percent of his circuit judges by the time his first Congress adjourned, President Bush only has 30 percent so far. And at the current pace, the judiciary is considering Bush’s nominees, it looks like Bush is not going to break 50% by the end of this Congress.

It looks as if we might get two or three more circuit judges by the end of the year, but it surely is moving deliberately slowly. The American people recognize this is a problem for the country. When you have a circuit like the Fourth Circuit that has a 50 percent vacancy rate, then you begin to wonder, do we have enough judges to cover all the cases, even the truly important ones?

This is a question of law and order. Mr. President, drug cases, terrorist cases.

Justice Rehnquist, the Chief Justice, has decried the vacancy crisis as post. And the Senate has a responsibility to give those choices every possible consideration and, barring some glaring defect, confirm them quickly. Yet the backstabbing and stalling on judicial confirmations has escalated to the point of obstructing justice. It needs to stop.

This President’s nominees are men and women of distinction and great accomplishment. They are solidly within the mainstream of American legal opinion, and they share a principled commitment to the law, not legislate it from the bench.

Mr. President, President Bush’ nominees should be given fair hearings, voted on, and confirmed by the Senate as soon as possible.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, at this point I would have to object. I don’t know that I would want to. I just have not had a chance to discuss this with Senator DASCHLE.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, I rise to speak about the past year’s judicial nominees, which is something on which several people have spoken today. I just came from a meeting with the President where he was talking about his frustration in getting judicial nominees considered. He was quite animated and discouraged that we have not been getting judicial nominees through the system—particularly circuit court judges. That is what he was stating. That is what the meeting was about. He wants to see more happening and more of them occurring, and we need to do so. People have been pretty clear on the information of what technically and specifically has happened.

Some May 9 of last year, we had 11 judicial nominees for the U.S. circuit courts of appeal. Those eleven were nominated 1 year ago. Since that time, only 3—including 2 Democrats—have been confirmed. Of the remaining 8, one has even been scheduled for a hearing. We have not held hearings on these individuals. We need to get this done and start to move them forward. It is an issue that is engaging the country, and I think increasingly so, as we move into the fall. We have a number of pieces of legislation that I think, in the post 9-11 environment, will be considered and looked at by the courts and need to be reviewed. We need to have a fully staffed court. Right now we have a 20-percent vacancy in the circuit court; and within some of the circuits, it is even a much larger one.

In the Sixth Circuit there are 16 positions and only half of those are filled. That is even more troubling than we have had a long and established tradition of giving the President—regardless of his political affiliation—a good deal of deference on his nominees who might be unfairly targeted as being extremists.

However, as we found out during the Charles Pickering nomination and subsequent hearings, the real extremism is being employed by those people who are unfortunately using the term “balance” and “moderation” to set the stage for ending deference to the President and excluding perfectly qualified judges. Judge Pickering was an individual nominated to go on the circuit court. He served on the Federal bench for over 10 years.

This practice does not bode well for the future of this committee when it may have to deal with Supreme Court nominees in the near future. To high-light just how bad this might be helpful to see how many Supreme Court Justices of the past would fare under the ideological litmus test that is now plainly evident and used on the committee.

Would some of our great Justices of the past survive the litmus test being put forward by the committee now?

John Marshall, the first Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and author of some of the most important legal decisions for this Nation, would likely be rejected today by the Judiciary Committee because his view on interstate commerce in the Gibbons v. Ogden would be seen as too pro-federalism.

Chief Justice William Howard Taft, perhaps the greatest Supreme Court justice, would have trouble because he affirmed a state law providing for the sterilization of the mentally ill in Buck v. Bell.

Felix Frankfurter, an ACLU member and a “liberal” Roosevelt appointee, would be rejected because he did not believe that the fourth amendment required the exclusion of evidence seized. by State police officers without a warrant in the 1961 Mapp v. Ohio case. Nor would his argument in West Virginia Board of Education v. Barnette that the first amendment prohibited schools from requiring students to salute the American flag pass muster with the committee today.

Even Earl Warren, the most liberal chief justice ever and author of Brown v. Board of Education, would have a tough confirmation battle under the committee's new standard. After all, he took a position opposing the Court's supporting extension of the first amendment protection to flag burning.

Louis Brandeis, the great liberal craftsman, would no doubt be rejected because he supported federalism against New Deal legislation and voted to strike down legislation in the Schecter case as being beyond the power of Congress.

Byron White, President Kennedy's nominee, whose recent passing was mourned and elegantly eulogized around the Nation, would of course be rejected today because he committed the unpardonable sin of disagreeing with Roe v. Wade.

The question facing the President on this anniversary date is what he can do to move judges to the floor for swift confirmation. Given the extremist tactics of outside interest groups and their influence over committee members, the President could consider compromising on his philosophy of nominating judges, men and women of experience who meet the highest standards of legal training, temperament, and judgement. As history has shown, however, it would mean overlooking the kind of judges who have made our judiciary a model for the world. Unlike some issues, the integrity of the law and the qualifications of judges who will interpret and uphold them cannot be compromised.

I join my colleagues in urging Chairman LEAHY of the Judiciary Committee and Majority Leader DASCHLE in scheduling hearings and floor votes as soon as possible. I believe we have had ample time to make our points. It's now time to act.

I think if we do not act, this is going to continue to fester across the country, and that will embroil us even greater this fall, with the President leading the charge on this issue of why the Senate isn't acting. Why isn't the Senate moving these judges through—particularly circuit court judges? It will be a much more engaged and animated issue this fall, with the President leading the charge.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois is recognized.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I rise to speak in morning business on the topic that has been the issue du jour—the question of Federal judges. It is my great pleasure to serve on the Senate Judiciary Committee. I have witnessed and experienced personally the Clinton administration and their efforts to fill vacancies on the Federal bench, and the first Bush administration—President George W. Bush—and his efforts to fill vacancies on the Federal bench, a find it extremely interesting that today appears to be the national day for members of the Republican Party to complain about the pace of approval of President Bush's judicial nominees. What I find interesting about that complaint is that, just on its face, it makes no sense because we just approved four more Federal nominees who were brought to us by President Bush, bringing the total to 56.

Now, 56 Federal judges—to put it into historic context—is more than the Republicans, in any similar period of time, approved while President Clinton was in the White House during his entire tenure. In any given year, the Republicans failed to approve as many judges for President Clinton as the Democrats have already approved for President Bush. Today, the total number cannot be any.

Now, I understand where the Republicans are coming from on this. They want them all. They want to fill every vacancy with a proposed nominee from President Bush, and they want this to happen immediately. It is more than just rewarding their friends and giving them lifetime appointments to the Federal bench. What is at issue here, even more importantly, is putting people with a certain philosophy on these Federal courts. Of course, their decisions as Federal judges are going to be meaningful to the Nation for generations to come—whether we are talking about rights of privacy or the environment, all of these things decided by judges.

Historically, we think, when we talk about courts and their impact, that we should focus on the Supreme Court. Of course, we should. It is the highest court in the land. But just consider for a moment last year, the Supreme Court of the United States decided approximately 80 cases. The courts of appeal, circuit courts, decided over 57,000 cases.

For most people looking for justice through the Federal court system, the court of appeals for their region is the last stop, the final word. These courts make binding decisions relative to statutes that have been passed by Congress and issues that are important to the American people on a regular basis, on a daily basis.

So when we consider nominees by the Bush White House for lifetime appointments to these important appellate level courts, I hope you can understand that those of us on the Democratic side feel a responsibility to know something about the nominees, and, more importantly, to make certain those nominees come close to meeting several basic standards. One of those standards, of course, is legal skill. We insist on that. I hope you agree that that is not debatable. Second is integrity, which is certainly not debatable. Third, and most important, we are looking for people who take a moderate point of view.

There are lawyers who I have met that have extreme positions on the right and the left. The Republicans on the Senate Judiciary Committee sent word with the Clinton White House: Do not send us any left-wing judges because they are going nowhere. True to their word, anyone who looked like they were liberal did not have a chance when it came to the Senate Judiciary Committee in the Clinton White House.

Interestingly enough, it appears the Bush White House believes they are not burdened by the same restriction. They are sending nominees for the Senate Judiciary Committee to consider who, frankly, are out of the mainstream, much more extreme in their points of view on the right than anyone ever nominated by President Clinton on the left.

When they send these controversial nominees to us, then we run into a position where it takes longer. We have to delve into their backgrounds, we have to establish their record, we have to answer the criticisms that have been raised within and without the committee about whether this person should be given a lifetime appointment to a critical Federal position.

This morning my colleague on the Senate Judiciary Committee, Senator SCHUMER of New York, held an interesting subcommittee hearing. His hearing related to what he calls the ghost of the nomination process from the Clinton years. I was glad Senator Schumer mentioned that because on this day of national complaint by the Republicans, we brought to Washington four Clinton nominees who were not approved by that same Senate Judiciary Committee when Republicans controlled it. We did this so people who are following this debate should get an idea of the nominees rejected by the Republican Senate Judiciary Committee when President Clinton nominated them.

Frankly, as I look at the people who were brought before us, they are amazing in terms of their records and their backgrounds and what they brought to the job.

Let me speak for a moment about the Fifth Circuit which has become a focal point of discussion. Senator LOTT a few minutes ago was talking about the Fifth Circuit which, if I remember, includes the States of Texas, Louisiana, and Mississippi. This circuit has the majority of the minority in any Federal circuit in America. The population of African Americans, Hispanics, and Asian Americans is larger in that circuit than any other circuit.

Naturally, when President Clinton was in office, we tried to address this by appointing people to the circuit court who represented the diversity of the circuit in which they would serve. Two of his nominees came before us today.

Jorge Rangel, 54 years of age, is currently an attorney in private practice in Corpus Christi, TX. He was nominated to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit by President Clinton in 1997. Mr. Rangel was never granted a hearing by the Republican-controlled Judiciary Committee. Never. He graduated from the University of Houston and Harvard Law School. He went on to a distinguished career of 29 years in private practice, with a private law firm where he had a mix of Federal and State work.

In 1983, he was appointed to a judgeship on the Texas State district court, and served with no controversy for 2 years before returning to private practice. Jorge Rangel has also been very active in legal and community organizations, including time as an officer of the board of governors of the bar association of the Fifth Circuit and the American Board of Trial Advocates. He volunteered for many legal organizations, community organizations, and charitable organizations. He has written no controversial opinions or writings. He was affiliated with no liberal group, and no one had any reason whatsoever to question his credentials or fitness for the Federal bench.

Jorge Rangel has also been very active in community groups. He waited 15 months after he came right down to it, Republicans on the Senate Judiciary Committee were never given the courtesy of a hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Excuse me. When I hear my colleagues, including you,this is the message — I hear my colleagues, including you, the message in this Chamber and complain that we are not moving fast enough in approving the Bush nominees, consider what happened to Mr. Rangel and Mr. Moreno. What happened to them was sad, it was wrong, and it is unforgivable.

I could go through the long list of accomplishments of Mr. Moreno. Trust me, it is a long list of extraordinary accomplishments, and yet, when it came right down to it, Republicans on the Senate Judiciary Committee were never given the courtesy of a hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Let me refer to Kent Markus. Kent Markus was before our subcommittee today. He is 46 years old. He was nominated by President Clinton in February 2000 to serve on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. The interesting thing about Mr. Markus is he had the approval of both his home State Senators, two Republicans: Senator MIKE DEWINE and Senator GEORGE Voinovich. Despite bipartisan support, despite being qualified by the American Bar Association and his excellent record of achievement and service, he was never, ever given the courtesy of a hearing before the Republican-controlled Senate Judiciary Committee. Finally, at the end of the 106th Congress, his nomination was returned to the White House.

Again, I will make it a matter of my official record in my statement, but trust me, his biography, his resume, are impeccable.

A final nominee I will mention today who testified before us is Bonnie Campbell. She was nominated by President Clinton in 2000 to serve on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit. She was supported by both of her Senators, Democrat TOM HARKIN of Iowa and Republican CHUCK GRASSLEY of Iowa. She was given a qualified rating by the American Bar Association. She was before our Subcommittee on the Judiciary a few months after she was nominated and given a chance at her hearing to answer any questions about her work. There were no objections voiced at all during her hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee. No opposition surfaced in any quarter.

However, despite a noncontroversial, really unremarkable hearing, Ms. Campbell was never scheduled for a committee vote. No explanation was ever given to her. Her nomination languished until the end of the 106th Congress, and despite President Clinton’s attempt to renominate her, President Bush did not do the same. Her nomination died.

Consider those four people and what they went through at the hands of the Republican Senate Judiciary Committee and then put that in context of the Republican complaints, which we have already put out there, under Democratic control, approved 56 nominees. I think it really makes the case.

Judicial nominees have a right, which the Judiciary Committee is controlled by Democrats or Republicans, to expect fair and impartial treatment. But, equally, the American people have a right to expect fair and impartial judges.

Now let us get down to the bottom line. The President will find that this Senate Judiciary Committee, under the control of Democrats, will provide more approvals of his judicial nominees than Republican Judiciary Committees have done for Democrat Presidents. Of course, an investigation is there. There is a standard we can live up to. We have already lived up to it.

We are going to treat people fairly. We are going to give them a chance. Does that mean President Bush will do the same? That is the question. I do not think the President has a similar standard. In fact, he often says: When you look at the complaints we have been sent by the Bush White House, and we are going to send them to Capitol Hill in a show of bipartisan good faith, I think we could start to make progress. I think we could start having some balance in terms of the people who will be appointed to these critical positions. But if this is going to be confrontation after confrontation, then I am sorry to say it is going to continue almost indefinitely. I hope it does not.

Let me give a list of those who never received a hearing before Congress during the Clinton years, judicial nominees, an investigation is there, President Clinton while there were Republicans in charge of the Senate Judiciary Committee: Wenona Whitfield of Illinois, Leland Shurin of Missouri, Bruce Greer of Florida—none of these received a hearing before the Republican-controlled Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sue Ellen Myerscough of Illinois; Cheryl Wattley of Texas; Michael
I submit to them the four names of the nominees from the Clinton White House which we considered today, people who came before the Judiciary Committee today. Earlier, the minority leader spoke of a nominee for the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals who is Hispanic. We need more Hispanic Americans on the bench.

President Bush should have a chance. Jorge Rangel is prepared to serve on the Fifth Circuit. Enrique Moreno is also prepared to serve on the Fifth Circuit. These are Hispanic Americans who should be renominated and given a chance to serve.

At the current time, we have looked at Hispanic nominees and President Bush has sent us five nominees of Hispanic origin. Of those, three have already been confirmed by the Senate under Democratic control. Two are pending: Miguel Estrada in D.C. and Jose Martinez in Florida.

Under President Clinton, Hispanic nominees who were not confirmed by the Republican-controlled Senate Judiciary Committee include: Jorge Rangel of the Fifth Circuit; Enrique Moreno of the Fifth Circuit; Christine Arguello of the Tenth Circuit; Ricardo Morado of Texas; Anabelle Rodriguez, Puerto Rico.

I think that takes us to the point where we have to ask ourselves if our friends on the Republican side really do want to see fair treatment. Whether they will give that same fair treatment to people who were summarily rejected when the Republicans controlled the Senate Judiciary Committee. I think we have a chance to be very careful in our selection, but also to meet our national needs and obligations.

Today, incidentally, during the course of a press conference on this subject, we brought in a number of people who have had bad experiences in the court system. And even in the Senate, when one debate is not a matter of rewarding an attorney, who has skills, with a new title and an opportunity to serve on the bench. It is also to create an opportunity for public service where people can make decisions that really have an impact on families' lives across America.

Today, Denise Mercado came to see us. She is the mother of three from Fayetteville, NC. She is the legal guardian of James Wynn, who has cerebral palsy and severe mental retardation. Due to his disabilities, Danny is eligible for Medicaid funding. Jane Perkins is an attorney at the National Health Law Program in Chapel Hill, NC. Jane has represented Denise and many other clients in efforts to compel States to fulfill their legal obligations under Medicaid, to cover children like Danny. Currently, four Federal courts of appeals are considering whether States have sovereign immunity from such lawsuits or at least one district court has ruled.

So the men and women appointed to these court positions will make decisions which have an impact on families with children with disabilities. That is just part of their responsibility, but it tells us about the gravity and seriousness of this decisionmaking process.

Rose Townsend and Bonnie Sanders are clients of Senator Coats, IND. They live in a small neighborhood called Waterfront South. It contains 20 percent of the city's contaminated waste sites. The residents of this neighborhood suffer from a disproportionately high rate of asthma and other respiratory ailments. These two people joined with other residents to block the placement of a cement processing facility in their neighborhood. In December, the Third Circuit Court of Appeals ruled they could not compel the State to comply with federal environmental regulations that implement the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Whether it is a matter of public health, or environmental safety, these judges make critical decisions. These are some of the people who were impacted by judges put on the Federal courts. These are important decisions. They should be handed out fairly and evenly, with some balance. The Judiciary Committee has met that standard. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Ms. STABENOW). The Senator from Kentucky.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Madam President, I listened with interest to comments of the Senator from Illinois, looking at the whole 8 years of the Clinton administration. It is important to reiterate the only clear way to look at the 8 years of the Clinton administration is to compare them to the 8 years of the Reagan administration. President Reagan got more judges confirmed than any other President, 382. He had a distinct advantage because 6 of the 8 years he was President his party controlled the Senate. President Clinton came in a close second, 377 judges confirmed, 5 fewer, but he won in a disadvantage because his party only controlled the Senate for 2 of his 8 years. It is hard to make the case that President Clinton was treated unfairly by the Republican Congress.

What we want to talk about today is the first 2 years of any President's term—how were they treated at the beginning of their 8 years. Especially, we focus on the circuit judge nominations.

During the first 2 years of President Clinton's term, when his party controlled the Senate, he got 86 percent of his nominees confirmed for the circuit courts. During the first President Bush's first 2 years, when his party did not control the Senate, he got 95 percent of his circuit court nominees confirmed in his first 2 years. President Reagan, in his first 2 years, got 95 percent, as well, 19 out of 20.

Congressional Record — Senate

court nominees confirmed, compared to 86 percent for President Clinton, 95 percent for the first President Bush, and 95 percent for President Reagan.

I call attention, since this is the 1-year anniversary of the first 11 nominations of President George W. Bush to the circuit courts. Only three have been confirmed, eight languish 1 year later without so much as a hearing to get a chance to explain their credentials to the Judiciary Committee and to the larger Senate as well. Eleven distinguished and diverse men and women were nominated by President George W. Bush a year ago today. Only three have been confirmed. Of the remaining eight, none, not a single one, has even been afforded the courtesy of a hearing, not to mention a vote—a hearing by the Judiciary Committee.

Everyone in America is entitled to have their day in court. Even a judge is entitled to have their day in court. Our colleagues on the other side continually assure this side they are pushing fast to consider the President’s judicial nominations. Republican colleagues and I have seen neither hide nor hair of these nominations in the Judiciary Committee. Frankly, some in the committee are worried about what might have happened to them. Where could they possibly be? A few people may recognize these individuals by sight. After all, none of them have even had a hearing. All most people know is a name attached to the nomination. No one knows what they look like; where they live. It is my hope citizens around the world would notify the Judiciary Committee if they spot these missing nominees somewhere out in America so maybe a hearing can be quickly scheduled on their behalf.

We have become accustomed to seeing missing children’s pictures on milk cartons around America. We thought it might be appropriate to put the names of some of the nominees on milk cartons, so our people across the country have seen any of them, maybe they could report them to the Judiciary Committee and the missing people could actually be given an opportunity to be heard.

A good first person to put on the milk carton is Miguel Estrada. He came from Honduras, emigrated to the United States as a teenager, speaking virtually no English. Yet he graduated phi beta kappa from Columbia in New York and was editor of the Harvard Law Review. He is a hero of the immigrant community, not speaking a word of English, an honor student at Columbia, elected to the Law Review at Harvard, unanimously “well qualified” by the American Bar Association, an inspiration to immigrants and, particularly to Hispanic immigrants. He has argued 15 civil and criminal cases before the U.S. Supreme Court. But Americans do not know what he looks like. He has never had a hearing. He has never been able to show up in public and make his case that maybe this immigrant success story, an example to look up to by everyone in America, but particularly our immigrant population who came here and had to deal not only with learning the language, but also with prejudices, this hero of the immigrant community has been languishing in the Judiciary Committee for 365 days. There is no indication in sight that he will be given a hearing.

To anyone who may be looking, if you have seen this man, you might want to report it to the Judiciary Committee so he can get a hearing.

Another nominee from a year ago, arguably pending for a decade, John Roberts has been waiting over 10 years for a hearing. He was nominated by the first President Bush over a decade ago to the D.C. Circuit Court and back then was pending for over a year without ever receiving a hearing. The current President Bush renominated Mr. Roberts 365 days ago, a year ago today, to the same court, the D.C. Circuit Court. Again, he has not had a hearing. This outstanding lawyer, again, unanimously rated “well qualified” by the ABA, has had an opportunity to get a rating such as that—has actually been waiting for 2 years, 2 years just to get a hearing, an opportunity to tell his story. So we thought maybe he ought to be on the milk carton, too.

This unanimously well-qualified nominee has a long and distinguished career in public service, including serving as principal deputy to the Solicitor General from 1989 to 1993, and associate counsel to President Reagan from 1984 to 1986. He has written 15 briefs before the U.S. Supreme Court; this nominee has argued 36 cases before the U.S. Supreme Court and 20 cases in the U.S. appeals court across the country.

Has anyone seen John Roberts? Does anyone even know what he looks like? Has he been dropped into a black hole? Another great nominee of a year ago missing in action, not even given a hearing.

Another nominated a year ago today was Jeffrey Sutton. The ABA gave him—a majority—“qualified,” and the rest gave him “well qualified.” So it was a split rating. The minority gave him “well qualified”; the majority gave him “qualified”—a very good rating.

Mr. Sutton graduated first in his class from Ohio State University College of Law. He has argued nine cases before the U.S. Supreme Court, both as a private attorney and as a solicitor for the State of Ohio. He has taught constitutional law at Ohio State for the last 8 years.

Has anyone seen Jeffrey Sutton? Does anybody know what he looks like? He hasn’t had an opportunity to be seen in public. Maybe he, too, should be put on a milk carton so somebody could recognize this guy and maybe report to the Senate Judiciary Committee that they have seen him. He really does exist. Maybe he ought to get an opportunity to be heard.

Jeffrey Sutton is a nominee for the Sixth Circuit, and I want to dwell on that for just a moment. Kentucky happens to be one of the States in the Sixth Circuit, of course, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Ohio. It is 50 percent vacant. That is not because the President has not sent up nominations. There are seven nominations up here. But not a single nominee from the Sixth Circuit has been confirmed. We have a judicial emergency. The Sixth Circuit is dysfunctional, not because the President has not made nominations.

I mentioned Miguel Estrada’s success story. Here is a nominee from Michigan who was confirmed, the first Arab American on a circuit court in American history, a nominee from the State of Michigan who, if confirmed, would become the first Arab American on a circuit court in the Nation’s history. He has not yet had a hearing.

Jeffrey Sutton has been sitting there for 365 days, also for the Sixth Circuit. He is from the State of Ohio. If anybody sees Jeffrey Sutton, I want you to know what he looks like. Maybe he looks like. Send his picture in to the Judiciary Committee. Maybe he could at least get a hearing and an opportunity to state his qualifications for the court.

Deborah Cook: She has been a justice on the Ohio Supreme Court for the last 8 years—again, a Sixth Circuit nominee. This is the circuit that is 50 percent vacant—not because the President has not sent up nominations but because they have not been confirmed. Deborah Cook has been sitting there for 365 days. She was nominated a year ago today in the first batch sent up by President Bush.

Prior to her service on the Ohio Supreme Court, she was an appellate court judge for 4 years. She has been unanimously rated “qualified” by the American Bar Association. Has anybody seen Justice Cook? I wanted to make sure we could get a sense of what she looks like. This is a picture of Deborah Cook. If anyone wants to call her qualifications to the attention of the Judiciary Committee, they might take this opportunity to do that.
Terence Boyle is another nominee who arguably has been waiting 10 years for a hearing. He was nominated a decade ago by the first President Bush and waited for over a year without receiving a hearing at that time. He was nominated again 365 days ago, a year ago today, to the Fourth Circuit. The ABA unanimously rated him well qualified, just like Miguel Estrada—unanimously “well qualified.” That is as good as it gets. That means the committee of the ABA unanimously found this nomination to be of the highest order.

This nominee currently serves as the chief judge of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina and has been on that court since 1984 when his nomination to that court was unanimously confirmed by the Senate.

Has anyone seen Judge Boyle? We know he exists. We have seen his name on paper. This is what he looks like. If anybody sees Judge Boyle, they might call the Judiciary Committee and say maybe this unanimously well qualified nominee ought at least to get an opportunity to be heard, a chance to be questioned by the members of the committee to make a determination as to whether or not he deserves a chance to be voted upon.

Michael McConnell—I wish this fellow were related to me, but he is not. In fact, I found out after he was nominated to the Fourth Circuit that I went to high school in Louisville, KY. I never knew him. I am not related to him or his parents, but I wish I were. What an outstanding nominee.

He was nominated for the Tenth Circuit 365 days ago, a year ago today. Again, the ABA found him, unanimously, “well qualified.” Like Miguel Estrada, like several of the other nominees I have mentioned, that is as good as it gets—unanimously well qualified.

Mr. McConnell is a distinguished law professor at the University of Utah College of Law and has served as an Assistant Solicitor at the U.S. Department of Justice. He is widely regarded as an authority on constitutional law, particularly issues involving the first amendment and religious clauses.

Mr. McConnell has received the support of over 300 college law professors, including the noted liberal professors Cass Sunstein and Sanford Levinson. Support for Mr. McConnell is across the ideological spectrum from the people who know him best, law professors around America.

Has anybody seen Michael McConnell? I want you to be able to recognize him. This is his picture. This nominee, unanimously well qualified by the ABA, surely could at least be given a hearing before the committee to have an opportunity to state his qualifications and be asked questions.

Justice Priscilla Owen looks like this. She is an attractive, nice looking woman, smart lawyer.

I am sure there are people over in the Senate Judiciary Committee who know what Dennis Shedd looks like because he used to run that committee staff. Maybe we can find them a picture of Dennis Shedd. Maybe some of them actually remember him. You would think Dennis Shedd, as a matter of common courtesy, having formally been staff director over at the Judiciary Committee, could at least get a hearing so he could state his qualifications and have a chance to make his case.

The message for today is that it has been a year since the President sent up his first 11 nominations for the circuit courts. Eight of them have dropped into a black hole and have literally disappeared.

That is why we thought it might be a good idea to have a picture of some of these nominees here, recognizing them and giving them an opportunity for fundamental fairness. We are in the first 2 years of George W. Bush’s Presidency—not the last 2 years, not the last year, not the last 6 months. I think we can all concede that toward the end of a President’s term, nominations frequently don’t move. But there is no precedent—none—for this kind of slow walking and stonewalling in the beginning of a President’s term. President Clinton got 85 percent of his circuit court nominees in the first 2 years. His party controlled the Senate. I am, frankly, surprised that it wasn’t 100 percent because his party controlled the Senate in the first 4 years of his term. But he got 86 percent.

The first President Bush got 95 percent of his nominees in his first 2 years and his party did control the Senate.

President Reagan got 95 percent of his circuit court nominees in his first 2 years and his party did control the Senate.

As you can see the pattern here, no matter who has been in the majority of the Senate, and no matter who has been in the White House in the first 2 years, these games have not been played in the past. This is unprecedented. You can throw the statistics around as much as you want, but we are talking about the first 2 years of a President’s administration. It has never been done before.

The good news is it is not too late. This is May 9. There is a month left. It is never too late for salvation.

It is my hope that these outstanding nominees missing in action and who have seemingly dropped down a black hole will get an opportunity to be heard as a matter of fundamental fairness.

I had an opportunity, along with others, to meet with the President earlier today on this issue. I heard some suggestions made on the other side of the aisle that this is really all about in effect telling the President who to send up. In other words, Mr. President, send up a certain kind of nominee or you won’t get action. I can’t speak for the President, but I have the clear impression that this President believes, as all other President’s believe, that the business of selecting nominees to the circuit court level and to the Supreme Court level are Presidential prerogatives. I don’t think this President is going to operate any differently on that issue than President Clinton or President Carter or President Roosevelt. We all know that Senators have an opportunity to make suggestions on district court nominees, that has not changed. But circuit court nominees and Supreme Court nominees have historically and will be forever the prerogative of the President.

The thought that any of us are going to be able to dictate to this President or any other President who those nominees might be is absurd. It is not going to happen tomorrow. It is not going to happen a month from now. It is not going to happen ever. No President—Republican or Democrat—is going to allow the Senate, no matter which party controls the Senate, to in effect tell him or her who they are going to pick for the circuit courts. It is time for a fair hearing. And it is time to vote. If the members of the Judiciary Committee want to vote down these nominees, that is certainly their prerogative. They have done that already this year. But it is time to quit hiding out. It is time to stand up and be counted. It is time to allow these missing people to be seen and heard, and to vote.

I suggest the absence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.
ORDER OF PROCEDURE

Mr. REID. Madam President, I have spoken to my counterpart, Senator NICKLES. He wishes to speak for 15 minutes. That would go past the time set aside for morning business. I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from Oklahoma be recognized for whatever time is left, plus enough time to make it 15 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Oklahoma.

NOMINATIONS

Mr. NICKLES. Madam President, I rise today to join my colleagues in expressing real disappointment in the fact that we have eight nominees to the U.S. circuit courts of appeals, who were nominated a year ago, who have yet to have a hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Nineteen of 30 circuit court nominees have yet to have a hearing—19 out of 30. I have stated to my colleagues—and I state this on the floor of the Senate, just as sincerely as possible—we should not have to treat nominees from President Clinton as we would from President Reagan.

Some people say: Why are you making such a fuss now? Because enough is enough. Eight of these outstanding, qualified individuals were nominated a year ago today, and they have not had a hearing. Why? Are they not qualified? Well, let me just look at some of their qualifications.

John Roberts was nominated to the DC Circuit Court of Appeals. He has argued 37 cases before the U.S. Supreme Court. Evidently, the private sector thinks he is eminently qualified. He was unanimously rated "well qualified" by the ABA. He is a Harvard Law School graduate, magna cum laude. He was managing editor of the Harvard Law Review. He was a law clerk to Supreme Court Justice Rehnquist. And he also was the Principal Deputy Solicitor General for the United States from 1989 to 1993.

You will be hard-pressed to find anybody more qualified than John Roberts anywhere in the country to sit on any bench. Yet, he cannot get a hearing, and he was nominated a year ago. I am embarrassed we have not been able to schedule a hearing for John Roberts.

John G. Roberts Jr., is a former Assistant Solicitor General of the United States. He has argued 11 cases before the U.S. Supreme Court. He was a law clerk to Justice Brennan. And he also has been a member of the ABA?

Michael McConnell is nominated to the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals. He is presently a presidential professor of law at the University of Utah. He was unanimously rated "well qualified" by the ABA. He is a renowned constitutional law expert. He has argued 11 cases before the U.S. Supreme Court. He graduated at the top of his class from the Chicago Law School. He was a law clerk for Justice Brennan, and also served as a prior general counsel for the ABA’s Committee, in addition to serving as a district court judge from 1984 to 1997. We can’t even give him a hearing? I don’t think that is right.

Jeffrey Sutton is also nominated to the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals. He is presently serving as a justice on the Supreme Court of Ohio, and has since 1991. She was unanimously rated “well qualified” by the ABA. She is an Akron School of Law graduate, and practiced with Akron’s oldest law firm. She sat on the Ohio District Court of Appeals from 1991 to 1995. She also chaired the Commission on Public Legal Education, and has also been a member of the Ohio Commission on Dispute Resolution. She is more than qualified.

The tradition of the Senate has always been to give a President his or her nominees pretty good access to the Senate for confirmation purposes in the first 2 or 3 years of their Presidency. The tradition of the Senate, also, is to kind of slow it down in a President’s last year.

Certainly, if you look at what happened in the last three Presidencies, that is what has happened. Unfortunately, the current President Bush has not had fair treatment for his judicial nominees, especially his court nominees, in his first 2 years. That is just a fact.

The chart I have shows that we have only confirmed 9 out of 30. That is 30 percent. There is another nominee who is pending on the calendar. Hopefully, that will be cleared fairly quickly. That would be 10 out of 30. That is one out of three nominated judges confirmed.

If you look at President Clinton’s first 2 years, he got 19 out of 22. If you look at President Bush I, he got 22 out of 23. President Reagan got 19 out of 20. So President Reagan and President Bush I got 95 percent of their circuit court nominees confirmed in their first 2 years. President Clinton got 19 out of 22. That is 86 percent.

We should always be confirming those kinds of percentages unless they nominate people who are totally unqualified and are undeserving of the position. But we are not doing that.

Also, if you look at the total numbers, President Reagan got 98 percent of all the judges that he nominated confirmed in his first 2 years. President Bush I got 93 percent of the judges he nominated confirmed in his first 2 years. And President Clinton had more judges confirmed than either of the two by a considerable amount; he had 129 judges confirmed in his first 2 years, which is 90 percent.

For the average President Bush, we have now done 56 percent. We are moving along, at least now, at 60-some odd percent for district court judges. But the big discrepancy is, we are way behind in circuit court appellate judges—way behind—and these individuals are not being treated unfairly. They are eminently qualified. And to think that eight were nominated a year ago.

Somebody said: Why are you making such a fuss now? Because enough is enough. Eight of these outstanding, qualified individuals were nominated a year ago today, and they have not had a hearing. Why? Are they not qualified? Well, let me just look at some of their qualifications.

John G. Roberts Jr., is a former Assistant Solicitor General of the United States. He has argued 11 cases before the U.S. Supreme Court. He was a law clerk to Justice Brennan. And he also has been a member of the ABA? She is an Akron School of Law graduate, magna cum laude. She was managing editor of the Harvard Law Review. She was a law clerk to Justice Rehnquist. And she also was the Principal Deputy Solicitor General for the United States from 1989 to 1993.

You will be hard-pressed to find anybody more qualified than John Roberts anywhere in the country to sit on any bench. Yet, he cannot get a hearing, and he was nominated a year ago. I am embarrassed we have not been able to schedule a hearing for John Roberts.

I hope, in the course of this dialogue, Senator LEAHY or Senator DASCHLE will join me. I would like to ask the question, why can’t we get a hearing for him?

Miguel Estrada is also nominated to the DC Circuit, a partner of the DC firm of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher. He has argued 15 cases before the U.S. Supreme Court. He was unanimously rated “well qualified” by the ABA. He immigrated to the United States as a teenager from Honduras and, at the time, hardly even spoke English. Yet, he graduated from Harvard Law School magna cum laude. He was an editor of the Harvard Law Review. He was a law clerk to Justice Kennedy. And he is a former Assistant Solicitor General and Assistant U.S. Attorney. He has been a prosecutor. He worked as a law clerk for a Supreme Court Justice. He argued 15 cases before the Supreme Court. He is eminently qualified. He is Hispanic. And we can’t get a hearing?

The District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals has four vacancies. A year ago, they were saying they really needed at least three judges. And we have 86 percent of the most qualified people anywhere in the country for these two positions. This is unbelievable.
by the ABA majority. He graduated first in his class from Ohio University College of Law. He is a former law clerk to Supreme Court Justices Powell and Scalia. He has argued 9 cases and over 50 merits and amicus briefs before the U.S. Supreme Court, and he is a prior State solicitor in the State of Ohio.

Dennis Shedd, nominated to the Fourth Circuit Court, is a U.S. district court judge in South Carolina and has been his is rated well qualified by the ABA and had 20 years of private practice and public service prior to becoming a district judge. His law degree is from the University of South Carolina, and he has a master of law degree from Georgetown. He is a former chief counsel and staff director of the Senate Judiciary Committee and counsel to the President pro tempore from 1978 to 1988. He is supported by both of South Carolina’s Senators. Again, he is a former staffer.

The Senator from Nevada knows, as I mentioned this before—we used to have a tradition that we would give former staffers an expeditious hearing. But Dennis Shedd was nominated a year ago.

These are eight of the most qualified individuals you will find anywhere in the country for any such position. The fact that they have not had a hearing when they were nominated a year ago brings real disrespect and disrepute on this Committee and on the Senate. We have only confirmed one-third of the district court of appeals judges nominated by President Bush. Eight people have to wait a year for a hearing? We are making these nominees wait around while their friends and associates are asking: When will you be confirmed? I understand you were nominated. You were nominated a year ago. You haven’t even had a hearing.

How disrespectful of the judicial process can we be? I am ashamed of this record. I will state for the record now that I believe at various points we may well be back in the majority. I have been in the Senate—majority, minority, majority, minority. I think we will be back in the majority. I am committed to making sure that all judicial nominees are treated fairly regardless of who is in the White House and regardless of who runs the Senate. I think we owe it to the nominees. I think we owe it to the process. We owe it to the division of power between the executive branch, the judicial branch, and the legislative branch.

The legislative branch is wrecking this balance of power by not staffing and not allowing judicial nominations to be heard, to be voted on, to be confirmed. We have checks and balances. I believe the forefathers would be rolling over if they realized how slowly we were going on certain judges, circuit court appointees judges especially.

With all sincerity, there are ways we can go in this body to get people’s attention to make sure these individuals get fair consideration. My hope and desire is to give them fair consideration without exhibiting a pattern of “we will hold this up and hold this up; you will not be able to mark this up; not be able to get a quorum; you will not be able to do business.” I hope we don’t have to do that.

Senator Reid is one of my very dear friends, Senator Daschle, Senator Leahy. I urge them, give these people a chance. Give these eight people who were nominated to the appellate level a year ago a hearing, and let’s vote. There is no question they are eminently qualified. We should be voting. That is our constitutional responsibility. Let’s do it. I will commit we will do it in the future as well.

I hope people will hear these comments made by myself and others and listen to us. Let’s work together and treat judicial nominees fairly so we don’t have to resort to various types of threats and intimidation and lack of cooperation to make us point to get these individuals consideration on the floor of the Senate.

I yield the floor.

Mr. Reid. Madam President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. Reid. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum be suspended.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ORDER OF PROCEDURE

Mr. Reid. Madam President, I was waiting to hear from the two leaders. Senator Lott and Senator Daschle have spoken on a number of occasions. Senator Daschle is extremely anxious to get on with some substantive legislation, Senator. The trade bill is pending. We virtually have been waiting all day for some Senators to come up with a proposal.

I have been told by the Republican leader that that answer will come at 4:15 today. I hope that is the case. I would therefore ask unanimous consent that the Senator from Pennsylvania, Mr. Specter, be recognized to speak as in morning business for up to 10 minutes, and then the Senator from Arizona, Mr. McCain; although I think Senator McCain may have been here first.

Mr. McCain. I don’t wish to speak as in morning business.

Mr. Reid. It is my understanding the Senator from Arizona wishes to be recognized for purposes of a unanimous consent request. I ask that he be recognized for up to 5 minutes to make whatever statement he wishes in regard to that unanimous consent request and that, after that time, morning business be concluded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Pennsylvania.

JUDICIAL PROCEDURES

Mr. Specter. Madam President, I thank the Senator from Arizona for working this out for morning business. I have sought recognition to comment about two matters.

First, I compliment my colleague from Oklahoma for the comments he has made about the need to move ahead with nominees. It would be my hope that from the current disagreement we might work out a permanent protocol to solve the problem which exists when the White House is controlled by one party and the Senate by another party. The delays in taking up judges has been excessive.

This is the 1-year anniversary where some nine circuit judges, well qualified, have not even had hearings. But in all candor, a similar problem existed when President Clinton, a Democrat, was in the White House and we Republicans controlled the Senate.

I have advocated a protocol. Within a certain number of days after a nomination, the hearing would be held; within a certain number of additional days, there would be action by the Judiciary Committee on a vote; and within another specified time, there would be floor action, all of which could be expedited; for cause. An additional provision, not indispensable, is that if there were a strict party-line vote in committee, the matter would automatically go to the floor.

I thank the Chair.

I yield back the remainder of that time, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senator from Arizona is recognized.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUEST—H.R. 3529 and S. 2485

Mr. McCain. Mr. President, I intend to propose a unanimous consent request that we take up the Andean Trade Promotion and Drug Eradication Act.

It is vital that we address this issue. ATPA expired on December 4 because Congress had not taken action on the legislation. The House of Representatives passed an extension on November 16, and the Senate has failed to do its work on this issue.

These countries need our help. It is in the United States’ national interest to see these countries not degenerate into economic, political and, in the case of Colombia, armed chaos. We need to act on this issue. Why it has been tied to TPA and TAA is something I do not understand.

Perhaps the Trade Promotion Act and the Trade Adjustment Assistant Act are important. I think they are of the highest priority, but the Andean Trade Preferences Act—referred to as ATPA—is of time criticality. It expired. There are tariffs that these countries will have to pay.

These are poor countries. They have unemployment rates of 30, 40, 50 percent. Colombia is degenerating into successful in passing this, then we can

The debate before us today involves this clause of the Constitution, and this debate is a very important one. We should put aside partisanship and examine the very roots of our Republic to determine the respective responsibilities of the three branches of our government.
The magnificence of the “Great Experiment,” a term used by the skeptics of the work of our founding fathers, is what has enabled our Republic to stand today, after over 200 years, as the longest surviving democratic form of government still in existence.
But, the survival of that “Great Ex-

Thomas Jefferson remarked on the independence of our three branches of government by stating, “The leading principle of our Constitution is the independence of the Legislature, Exec-uative, and Judicial branches.”
But, I would add that each branch of government must perform its respective responsibilities in a fair and timely manner to ensure that the three branches remain independent.
In my view, we must ask ourselves, is the current Senate posture of the nomination and “advice and consent” proc-during the early days of the Bush Administration consistent with our country’s experience over the last 200 plus years since our Constitution was ratified? That is for each Senator to decide.

Currently, more than 10 percent of Federal judgeships are vacant. As for the 12 Circuit Court of Appeals, nearly 20 percent of the seats are vacant. Is our federal Judiciary able to fulfill its obligations? That is for each Senator to decide.

In day to day court workloads, judicial vacancies result in each of the active and senior status judges having a greater caseload. This, in turn, often results in a longer time period for cases to be decided.

The ultimate effect is that Americans who have turned to the court system seeking justice in both civil and criminal matters are left waiting for a resolution of their case. And, all too often, justice delayed is justice denied.

Our current Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, William Rehnquist, has expressed his views on this subject several times during both the Clinton and Bush Administrations. Judge Rehnquist recently reiterated remarks he made first in 1997 when he stated, “The President should nominate candidates with reasonable promptness, and the Senate should act within a reasonable time to confirm or reject them. Some current nominees have been waiting a considerable time for a Senate Judiciary Committee vote or a final floor vote.”

I am in complete agreement with the Chief Judge. We must act in a timely fashion to fill judicial vacancies.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, our friends on the other side of the aisle are right about one thing: It is important to fill vacancies on the Federal bench in a timely manner.

In his remarks last week, President Bush cited Chief Justice Rehnquist’s report about the alarming number of vacancies in the federal courts.

He’s right. Let me read some of Chief Justice Rehnquist’s report: “Vacancies cannot remain at such high levels indefinitely without eroding the quality of justice.”

Except that’s from the report he wrote in 1997.

Democrats, independent-minded observers, and the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court have all raised concerns about the judicial vacancy crisis for years.

But our Republican colleagues never seemed to hear those concerns when they ran the Senate. The fact that they now recognize the seriousness of the situation is—I suppose—progress.

It appears, however, that there are some facts on which they are still unclear. I’d like to take a few minutes to set the record straight:

First, the judicial crisis developed when Republicans ran the Senate.

Under Republicans, total court vacancies rose by 75 percent—from 63 at the beginning of 1995 to 110 by the time Democrats took control of the Senate.

Circuit court vacancies more than doubled—from 16 to 33.

As the vacancy rate was skyrocketing, more than half—56 percent—of President Clinton’s circuit nominees in 1999 and 2000 never received a hearing or a vote.

Second, Democrats have reduced the number of vacancies.

The judicial nominations process has significantly improved under Democratic leadership.

As of this afternoon, in only 10 months, the Democratically controlled Senate has confirmed 56 nominees—more judicial nominees than the Republican-controlled Senate confirmed for President Reagan in his first 12 months in office.

Our 10-month number is also greater than the number of judicial nominations confirmed in four of the 6 years Republicans controlled the Senate during the Clinton administration.

It also exceeds the average number of judicial nominations Republicans confirmed during the time they controlled the Senate—when, from 1995-2001, confirmations averaged only 38 per year.

But Democrats aren’t just improving the numbers—we’re improving the nomination process. Under Senator LEAHY’s stewardship, the process is now faster, fairer—and more productive.

Senator LEAHY has restored a steady pace to the judicial nominations process by holding regular hearings and giving nominees a vote in committee.

Despite the chaos of September 11 and the disruption caused by anthrax, the Judiciary Committee has held 15 hearings involving 48 judicial nominations in the past 10 months, and is planning an additional hearing this week to consider another 7 nominations.

In addition to increasing the total number of hearings, Senator LEAHY is reducing the amount of time it takes to confirm a nomination. The Judiciary Committee has been able to confirm nominations, on average, within 86 days after a nominee was eligible for a hearing. This is more than twice as fast as the confirmation process under the most recent Republican-controlled Senate.

Senator LEAHY has also made the process more fair.

Unlike our Republican colleagues, who would sit on nominations for years—many never receiving a hearing. Senator LEAHY has given nominees a vote in committee and treated them evenly.

When all the facts are thoroughly examined and honest comparisons are made, it is clear that the judicial nominations process has significantly improved under Senator LEAHY’s stewardship, and Democratic leadership.

There are real differences between our parties on many issues.

We have shown time and time again, on issue after issue, that we can work through those differences for the good of the nation.

Today, I ask our Republican friends to join with us in helping—and not obstructing—the Senate to meet the needs of the American people, and perform our constitutional obligation regarding federal judges.
CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Morning business is closed.

ANDEAN TRADE PREFERENCE EXPANSION ACT—Resumed

Mr. LOTT. What is the pending business?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 3009) to extend the Andean Trade Preference Act, to grant additional trade benefits under that Act, and for other purposes.

Pending:
Daschle amendment No. 3386, in the nature of a substitute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Republican leader.

AMENDMENT NO. 3399

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. LOTT] proposes an amendment numbered 3399.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The amendment is printed in today’s Record under “Text of Amendments.”)

CLOTURE MOTION

Mr. LOTT. I send a cloture motion to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The cloture motion having been presented under rule XXII, the Chair directs the clerk to read the motion.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

CLOTURE MOTION

We the undersigned Senators, in accordance with the provisions of rule XXII of the Standing Rules of the Senate, do hereby move to bring to a close debate on the pending legislation.

Trent Lott, Don Nickles, Phil Gramm, Chuck Grassley, Rick Santorum, Mitch McConnell, Bill Frist, Craig Thomas, Judd Gregg, Frank H. Murkowski, Jon Kyl, Michael D. Crapo, James M. Inhofe, Thad Cochran, Chuck Hagel, Pat Roberts.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, the Daschle amendment.

Mr. DASCHLE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LOTT. I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, our goal this afternoon is to get to a process or an agreement that allows the Senate to deal with the very important issues pending before the Senate: trade promotion authority, the Andean Trade Preservation Act, the GSP, as well as the trade adjustment assistance. These are four very big issues, very important for our country and other countries—in the case of the Andean area—and for the workers of this country.

The way it has been put together, it is very difficult to work through all of these issues and get a result. Serious efforts are underway to see if we can achieve an agreement that produces a result.

We also have to deal with a process issue, how to make that happen. A few moments ago, I filed a first-degree amendment to the Andean Trade Preference Act and filed cloture. I think that is the way to proceed. I think we need a showing of who wants to get trade promotion authority and how we will move this to a conclusion. I want to do that and I know Senator Daschle wants to do that, too—find a way to get to conclusion and produce a result.

I was within my rights to seek that recognition and offer that amendment. I did so in good faith with the recognition that if I didn’t, some further motion or procedure might have been offered by Senator Daschle or Senator Reid.

Having said that, Senator Reid and Nickles and others were in the Chamber. They had an agreement on how to proceed, and they felt this was not fair under the understanding that had been worked out. I always try to make sure we play above board and fair with everybody. Senator Reid has always been fair with both sides, and he felt this was not the right way to proceed at this point.

After a lot of discussion, I will move to vitiate that action. But I do want to emphasize—and then I presume Senator Daschle may announce we will have a period of further discussion as we continue to work on this issue—I do think this is the correct way to proceed. We should not get off the trade legislation and go to any other issue. We are on the verge of beginning to make progress. If we let up, I think the momentum will stop.

I had to explain what happened and why I am doing this. I have heard stories from the past of how Senators have come to the aid of Senators on the other side of the aisle saying, no, this was not the fair way to do it, even if it might have appeared to be fair. We want to always try to do that with each other.

AMENDMENT NO. 3399 WITHDRAWN

Therefore, I ask to vitiate the cloture motion I filed and withdraw the amendment I filed.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I thank the distinguished Republican leader for his understanding and his willingness to act in good faith. I appreciate very much the explanation that he has made. I know it was not his intention and he was not aware of the circumstances that had been agreed to prior to the time he came to the floor. We certainly know how these things work and appreciate his willingness to rescind his actions.

There are a number of Senators who would want to be heard on issues that are important to them and continue to await further word about the progress of the discussions and negotiations underway, I see no reason we cannot continue to allow the Senate to proceed as if in morning business.

I ask unanimous consent the Senate proceed as in morning business under the arrangements previously authorized in the Senate for a period not to exceed 90 minutes.

Mr. McCAIN. Reserving the right to object, I will not object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. McCAIN. The majority leader understands the point I was trying to make. Next week at this time, the Andean Trade Preference Act expires and back tariffs will be levied on four impoverished countries, one which is experiencing a revolution. The majority leader does understand the reason for the cloture motion, but I understand there will be an objection if we wanted to move to ATPA, and that is why the Republican leader filed the cloture motion.

I hope the majority leader understands this is an issue that is pressing in time. We need to move forward with it. That may require a cloture motion either by the majority leader or the Republican leader.

I do not object.

Mr. REID. Reserving the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. I ask for 2 minutes prior to Senator Byrd.

Mr. DASCHLE. I ask unanimous consent my consent request be amended in that fashion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, again I ask unanimous consent the Senate be in morning business for 90 minutes and accommodate Senator Reid’s request for 2 minutes prior to the time Senator Byrd is recognized.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ATPA

Mr. DASCHLE. Let me respond briefly to the Senator from Arizona. Nobody wants ATPA passed more than I do. I have attempted in many different ways over the last several weeks to find the right formula to bring this about. I have talked about it, literally, for months. I will work with the Senator from Arizona and others. We are very aware of the May 16 deadline. I am very hopeful we can find a way which will accommodate that deadline and make sure this job can be done.

We are sensitive to the tremendous economic repercussions that will result if we are not successful. The stakes get higher with each passing hour, which is why I have been frustrated in my effort to move along all will be. We spent a lot of time on the farm bill. We spent a lot of time waiting for some sort of negotiation when I think sometimes the best thing to do is just offer amendments. That is what we do in the Senate if there is a disagreement: At some point you offer an amendment, have a vote, and move on to the next amendment.

There are those in the Senate who want the package to be just so, prior to the time they even allow us to move forward on a package.

We will continue to work with those who have been in negotiation. I hope we can resolve this matter soon.

Mr. LOTT. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. DASCHLE. I yield.

Mr. LOTT. We did vitiate the cloture, withdraw the first-degree amendment, but I ask that we consider filing cloture on the underlying amendment, just ATPA.

My cloture and amendment had been both trade promotion and Andean trade. If we file cloture on just the Andean Trade Preservation Act, that would ripen Monday night or Tuesday if we got an agreement, and it would at least guarantee we would be able to get that issue resolved and hopefully sent to the President by Tuesday or Wednesday, thus dealing with this to the President by Tuesday or that issue resolved and hopefully sent if we got an agreement, and it would at least guarantee we would be able to pass three bills.

I say this in a bipartisan, non-partisan spirit. It would be one way to make sure we get a vote on that. We could still get an agreement and vitiate if we had to and get the trade promotion authority and trade assistance also.

I might say that I understand we need to try to make progress. But we have only spent about 12 hours on this bill and really only one serious amendment has been offered. I know you, Senator DASCHLE, would have liked to have had more amendments offered. Certainly we assume that will occur, perhaps even still. But we have not spent much time on the trade bill itself. I would address the question—huge you to consider, even today, within the next hour, filing cloture on the underlying ATPA. We could still get progress on these other bills without prejudicing this particular procedure.

That is the kind of thing I think Senator MCCAIN would like to see us do. He is pressing me to file cloture on the underlying Andean Trade Preference Ex-pansion Act. Would you consider that as we proceed this afternoon?

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, we are trying to make the most of what few days we have before the Memorial Day recess. That is an option. We have entertainments that we have talked about it in the past. That would mean, of course, that TAA and TPA would fall if cloture is invoked, and I am not sure we would be able to get to it again prior to the Memorial Day recess, given all the other things we have to do in this option. So we will carefully and consider what other choices we have, subject to some report from our colleagues. We will continue to negotiate.

Mr. NICKLES. If my colleague will yield, I think Senator LOTT and Senator MCCAIN have a good idea. I urge you to seriously consider that. I hope it will not take cloture to pass any of the three bills. I likewise tell the majority leader, I think you will find on the Senate floor—Mr. President—I think the majority leader has complicated his process by trying to put three bills together.

Historically, we have passed Andean trade, passed trade promotion or fast track, and we passed trade adjustment assistance—indeed independently and overwhelmingly, usually with 70-some votes. I believe there are still 70-some votes. The Senate historically has pretty much favored free trade.

I think we would be happy to assist the majority leader to pass all three. We may have some differences, particularly on trade adjustment assistance. Maybe we will have to have a few amendments on each side. We will help you get a time agreement where we can pass all three bills by the Memorial Day recess. Maybe by separating the three bills we can accommodate the Andean countries that are in desperate shape. It would be a shame if we imposed an tariff increase that they have not had for 10 years, if we do not get our work done on that bill by next week, by the 15th or 16th.

Likewise, it would be a real mistake if this Senate does not pass trade promotion and trade adjustment assistance, however this Senate defines it.

I tell the majority leader, I think if he breaks the three up, we could come up with time agreements and a limitation of amendments to finish all three bills.

Mr. DASCHLE. I thank the Senator from Oklahoma for his generous offer of assistance. I would love nothing more than to get time agreements.

I am told there is opposition to time agreements on both sides of the aisle. We passed TPA out of the Finance Committee 18 to 3. Andean trade passed unanimously, I believe, in the Finance Committee. Trade adjustment assistance was considered and, frankly, the trade adjustment assistance that is in this bill never passed committee and some of us object to that. We are willing to have amendments to it. We are willing to find out where the votes are, if that is the way we have to go. Hopefully, some of the negotiations that are taking place today can help solve some of those problems. But we all know we need to move forward on all three pieces of legislation. I urge our colleagues, let’s do it.

I do question the wisdom of putting all three together. Historically—I remember Senator BYRD and I having a big debate on line-item veto and I used to say we should have a bill veto. Is it fair to the President of the United States to submit all three bills, each different, and say take it all or leave it all? He loses his Executive power or ability to sign or veto individual pieces of legislation.

I hope we will consider trying to expedite this, come up with time agreements, pass all three bills, and let’s see if we can get all three done by the Memorial Day break.

Mr. DASCHLE. If the distinguished Senator from Oklahoma will be prepared to work with us on his side, we will see what prospects there are for doing something like that on one or more of the bills in the Senate in the next day.

I am happy to yield to the Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I think it is good to have some cooperation with respect to time. But there is frustration on all sides with respect to this legislation. The issue of trade promotion authority, for example, came to the floor. Then we had to go off, I believe for 12 hours, debating the Agriculture conference report, which took the better part of 2 full days.

We have now, I believe, voted on only one amendment on trade promotion authority. That was the amendment I offered to the Senate from Mississippi, if it is on your side, might help us remove that block and let us get to the amendments and have votes on the amendments.

Trade promotion authority is a reasonably controversial measure. People will have a fair number of amendments, but we have had one so far. It seems to me we ought to get at them and have votes on them.

Mr. LOTT addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader has the floor.

Mr. DASCHLE. I am happy to yield to the Senator.

Mr. LOTT. I will respond to that. I think that is what we should do. That is what I just did; I offered an amendment. But because of concern about the fact we were in morning business, I withdrew it.

I think that is the way to go. Hopefully we will come to an agreement this afternoon that will allow us to move forward on all three bills. If we do not, then what I urge we do is stay on the trade bill, have amendments, and go forward.

I thank the Senator for yielding.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. DASCHLE. Senator BYRD informed me, while he intended to speak as in morning business today, he is going to make a speech on Mother’s Day until tomorrow. So the floor is open, I notify all Senators.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. While the leaders are still on the floor, especially the Republican leader, I want everyone to know that he did was entirely within his rights. What he did not know when he came on the floor is my counterpart, Senator NICKLES, and I had an agreement. The majority leader had asked I keep the quarrel call. That is what I intended to do.

What Senator LOTT did was in keeping with the rules of the Senate. What he did following, to vitiate his request, is not in the rules of the Senate. He did that because of the goodness of his heart, and I appreciate that very much. We have to work here, recognizing that no matter in what situation you may find yourself, it may not be one of total understanding. But I appreciate that very much. I appreciate very much Senator LOTT withdrawing the cloture motion. I also appreciate his withdrawing the amendment. He did not have to do that. No one could have forced him to do that. No one could have forced him to a procedural situation where we would move to table his amendment and things of that nature, but that would not have gotten us to the goal we wanted.

I also express my appreciation to my friend from Oklahoma who expressed to the Republican leader what the arrangement was he and I had.

Of course, I appreciate very much the majority leader working his way through this. I think it will be better that we approach it in this manner.

I am here on the anniversary of the President’s first nominations to the circuit court to, once again, focus the Senate on what really is a great obstruction of justice that is occurring as a result of the actions within the Judiciary Committee.

We have seen the first 11 nominees the President put up for the circuit court—which is the appellate court in this country at the Federal level, and the Senate’s committee on the court, obviously. We have 11 nominees the President put forward. Three were moved. But they were three holdovers from the prior administration. The first original, if you will, Bush nominees have not even had a hearing. If they were eight people who had very little to account for, if they were people who were not considered well qualified, if they were people who had clouds hanging over their nominations, that would be one thing. But not one of them has received anything but well qualified, and the vast majority were well qualified by Senator LEAHY’s and the Judiciary Committee’s standard, which is the American Bar Association, which is not necessarily friendly to Republican nominees for the court.

We have a situation where we have preeminent jurists and litigators who are being held in committee for a year without a hearing, and without explanation. That is sort of the remarkable thing throughout this entire discussion. There is no explanation as to why any one of these nominees is being held up.

We haven’t had any discussion, to my knowledge, on the floor or in the press as to the specific reason any one of these nominees has been held back.

There is no cloud that I am aware of. It is simply stopping the President’s judicial nominees, and stopping qualified judicial nominations.

These are people who have been nominated, and when you are nominated for a position such as this—the President nominee knows; he was Governor—in State office or Federal office, the work begins to begin to sort of unwind their affairs. They have to begin the process of setting themselves up, because who knows how quickly they could be considered and moved through the Senate?

In the case of Nebraska, I guess there is one house in which they go through in the process.

We have eight people of impeccable integrity who began that process a year ago. Where are they? They are sitting out there. Their lives are in limbo. That is not fair to them. It is not fair to the people who are not getting justice and not having their cases heard on appeal, or are having long delays in getting the resolution of their cases.

That is not fair either. That impacts the administration of justice, particularly on the civil side, which tends to suffer. We are getting criminal cases through because they are a high priority. But our civil cases are almost in limbo because they are not getting the quickest administration of justice that they deserve in our court system.

I want to talk about one particular nominee. He is from Pennsylvania. I will give you sort of the rundown of where we are in Pennsylvania.

We had 11 openings on the district court level in Pennsylvania. We have two circuit nominees who are Third Circuit nominees—who are sort of Pennsylvanian, assigned to Pennsylvania in this informal agreement we have across the country. One of the nominees for the circuit court—the only nominee so far, because the other circuit vacancy just occurred a few weeks ago—is Judge D. Brooke Smith. Judge Smith is the present judge of the Western District in Pennsylvania. He is a very distinguished jurist. He has been on the court for over 10 years and has heard cases in Blair County and Altoona. But he is from Altoona. He is from just an impeccable law firm and practiced before he was judge. He has great reputation as a common pleas court judge in Pennsylvania, and now as a district court judge.

Again, he has a flawless reputation. He is a man of highest integrity. He is rated well qualified unanimously by the ABA. Thankfully, we had a hearing on Judge Smith. But that hearing was roughly 3 months ago. Judge Smith continues to be held in committee.

Again, if you look at what I said before about your life being held in limbo, here is someone who has already had a hearing and is being held for months without being moved through the process.

Are there serious allegations about any actions Judge Smith has taken while he has been a member of the Western District of Pennsylvania? Are there any decisions out there that have been seriously attacked? The answer is no. There is no “gotcha” case, or line of cases, or opinions Judge Smith has offered that has caused any problems.

The only reason we are focusing on respect to Judge Smith is that he belonged to a gun club that didn’t permit women to be members.

Judge Smith attempted to change that. He tried I think four or five times. When he felt that he could no longer stay in the club because he didn’t see any hope that in fact they would change that policy, he left.

I will make the argument against NOW’s nominees, that one of the reasons after he had been made aware of that and he should have left right away. Had he left right away, there would have been no chance that the club would have changed. Judge Smith did stay in there to fight to change it.

If you were Judge Smith, you could argue that Judge Smith should be faulted for not still being in the club trying to change it. By walking away from the club, you could make the argument that he walked away from a fight he shouldn’t have walked away from. That is not their argument. The argument is he shouldn’t have fought in the first place, he should have just gotten up and left.

That is not how we change things in America—by fighting huge things by standing up for principles and fighting for them. And Judge Smith fought for women membership. And now, because he did, he is not qualified to be a Federal appeals court judge.

He has served as a judge for over 15 years. They have looked at all his cases. There are no complaints about any of the cases. The reason they oppose him is because he stayed in a gun club too long, fighting for allowing women to become part of the circuit at that.

That is the reason why. Although we will have no admission of this, so far, publicly, I am told the reason Judge Smith is still in committee is because of that—a man who has incredible credentials, a man who has been a fighter for women in the legal profession, a man who has fought in the “Old Boys Club” to admit women as members.

We are saying now that he should not be elevated to the third circuit because women’s issues—and the promotion of women within the legal system and the court system.

We had five litigators come to Washington, DC, most of whom were Democrats, and all of them practiced in front of Judge Smith. They went through story after story about how he, unlike, unfortunately, some other members of the bench, treated women with particular dignity and respect and was very accommodating to some of their concerns. One of them happened to be the plaintiff in the trial. He was very accommodating to her particular needs.

So he has a great record.

What is NOW saying? They opposed Judge Smith because he belonged to a gun club that didn’t permit women members. It permitted women on the premises. It permitted women to participate in their activities. But it did not permit them to be members.

Judge Smith during his initial confirmation said he would go back and try to change that. He did. Every time there was a meeting and the bylaws were reviewed, Judge Smith attempted to change it. He tried I think four or five times. When he felt that he could no longer stay in the club because he didn’t see any hope that in fact they would change that policy, he left.

We are very proud of our sportsmen activities in Pennsylvania. We are a great hunting and fishing State. He belonged to the Spruce Creek Rod and Gun Club.

Some of you who can think 20-odd years ago and of Spruce Creek, you think of Jimmy Carter. That is where Jimmy Carter used to go. You may remember the incident the trial there was on the boat. That was in Spruce Creek.

Judge Smith was an avid fisherman and someone who belonged to this club for years, and belonged to it when he was confirmed as a judge in the first Bush administration.

Comments were made that this club did not allow women members. They allow women to go to the club and participate in activities, but they don’t allow them to be voting members of the club. When asked about that, Judge Smith said he would try to change that policy.

There is a woman who is a county commissioner who served with him when he was a common pleas judge in Blair County who is a member of NOW, a Democrat, who came out and said she knew of nobody who had done more to help women and to promote women in the legal profession than Judge Smith—he has an impeccable record on women’s issues—and the promotion of women within the legal system and the court system.

We had five litigators come to Washington, DC, most of whom were Democrats, and all of them practiced in front of Judge Smith. They went through story after story about how he, unlike, unfortunately, some other members of the bench, treated women with particular dignity and respect and was very accommodating to some of their concerns. One of them happened to be the plaintiff in the trial. He was very accommodating to her particular needs.

So he has a great record.

What is NOW saying? They opposed Judge Smith because he belonged to a gun club that didn’t permit women members. It permitted women on the premises. It permitted women to participate in their activities. But it did not permit them to be members.

Judge Smith during his initial confirmation said he would go back and try to change that. He did. Every time there was a meeting and the bylaws were reviewed, Judge Smith attempted to the judicial system, then it would be in your favor to bring them up here and show how bad they are, how subservient they would be to the laws of the country, how dangerous they would be to the litigants who would come to this court. It is not the litigants who would come to this court, but their actions that will set a precedent here, a precedent that comports with the historical precedent.

What are you afraid of? Are you afraid if you put Miguel Estrada up there, and you listen to this articulate, brilliant, competent, well-tempered man, that this charade that you have been putting on will come collapsing down? Are you afraid of what you are afraid of? That is a legitimate fear.

But what you are doing to these people, what you are doing to the litigants in this country, what you are doing to the President is wrong, it is unfair, it is unjust. If you have a case against them, present the case. Bring them before the committee. Present the case. If you don’t have a case against them, then treat them justly.

These are outstanding men and women who deserve their day in court, who deserve the opportunity to present themselves to the committee and the Senate. They have earned it because they have earned the trust of the President of the United States, who has nominated these positions for the Senate.

What are you afraid of? Or is it something even more sinister than that? I hope not.

It has been a year. It has been a year in the lives of these people that I am sure that we will never forget. It has not been a year that has reflected particularly well on the Judiciary Committee or this Senate.

We have an opportunity, on this anniversary, to begin to start anew. We saw, just a few minutes ago, the two leaders have a little bump in the road. When we have bumps in the road here in the Senate—we often do—we always sort of step back and say: OK, for the good of the Senate, for the long-term health of the Senate, can’t we put some of these partisan one-upmanship aside and do what is right for the Senate? Because this place will be here, God willing, much longer than we will be.

What we do here does set precedent. And the precedent the Senate Judiciary Committee is setting right now is dangerous to this country, because now there will always be this precedent that we will be able to look back to and say: See, they did it. The precedent has been set. When you set a precedent, particularly a precedent that is damaging to the rights of Presidential nominees to be considered, you lower that bar, you harm the entire judicial system in the future.

We have a chance yet, before the end of this session, to fix this. We have an opportunity to get a proper, a sufficient number of circuit court nominees approved by the Senate that comports with the historical precedent. It is still possible to do that. It is also possible that we won’t do that. That will set a precedent here, a precedent that, unfortunately, once set will be revisited by somebody somewhere down the road. I don’t know which party it will be. It may be our party; it may be your party. The point is, it is not good for this institution, and it is horrible for the country.

I understand the partisan advantage. I understand the advantage in lining up the philosophy of some of these people the President nominated. I have voted for judges whose philosophy I hated. But the President won the election. He has the right to nominate good, decent people with whom you disagree on philosophy. And they are good, decent people who were qualified and had the proper temperament, I approved them, whether I agreed with their philosophy or not.

That is the role of the Senate. What is going on here may fundamentally change the role of the Senate for the worse. You can’t think about the next election or the partisan advantage or even the set of issues we are dealing with today in America. Those sets of issues will be different. The precedent you set now will have a huge impact on those issues. Don’t do it. Don’t do it.

Don’t open up a hole in the precedents of the Senate that somewhere down the road will be used to make the judicial system worse. You may care very deeply about it. It is not the right thing to do.

You still have a chance to change it. I pray that you do.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Ms. Carrie Miller): The Senator from Arizona, Mr. KYL. Madam President, I compliment the Senator from Pennsylvania for the remarks he has just made, especially in relationship to a judge that means a lot to him, Brooks Smith, who has been nominated by the President to serve on one of our Nation’s highest courts. There is no reason, as Senator SANTORUM has said, for this fine individual to be held up. It may be that for purely partisan reasons. Senators will try to find a pretext such as the business about the club. I have heard that, too. But I can’t believe at the end of the day anybody would actually use that, at least publicly, as a reason to oppose the nomination. There is nothing to it.

When people get so caught up in the politics of it, as the Senator from Pennsylvania has said, they begin to do things that in cool, collected thought they would not ordinarily do. They get carried away and even refuse to consider the qualifications of a judge based upon a pretext such as this. When that kind of precedent is set, it does begin to not only demean this institution but degrade the court system and fundamentally alter the relationship between the Senate and the President and our responsibility of advise and consent to the nominees.

The Senate has made a very good general point; unfortunately, a point well taken with respect to a nominee pending before the committee, Judge Smith.

I want to make the clarifying point that it is not just the Judiciary Committee involved here. The Republican members of the Judiciary Committee, of which I am one, would very much like to move forward on Judge Smith and other nominees.

We were called by the President today to join him in the White House because today is an anniversary of sorts. There are three anniversaries today that mean something to me personally. It is my father’s birthday; he is 83 years old today. It is the Attorney General’s birthday, John Ashcroft, who is much older. Unfortunately, the other reason it has meaning is, as the President reminded us, it has been exactly 1 year since he nominated some very fine individuals to serve on the circuit courts of appeals—1 year and not a single hearing on eight of these nominees, all very fine individuals.

There has been no hearing scheduled, no hearing held, let alone moving the process forward so that they could be considered.

I don’t know of any reason any of these judges or lawyers nominated to the circuit courts should be held up. As a matter of fact, they have all been rated by the American Bar Association “well qualified” or “very well qualified” to serve on the circuit court. That was, according to our Democratic colleagues, the so-called gold standard by which these candidates would be judged. So if it is to apply in these cases, these individuals should be confirmed, and at a minimum, of course, the committee should begin to hold hearings on them.

Why aren’t the hearings being held? It could be one of two different reasons. The first has to do with an attempt to change the standard by which we historically have judged judicial nominees.

This morning, the Senator from New York, who chairs a subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee, he was a hearing in which he was very clear about his belief that ideology should play a role in the Senate’s confirmation of the President’s nominees. He expressed a view that nominees of President Clinton were all mainstream or mostly mainstream; whereas President Bush keeps on nominating ideological conservatives, people who, in his view, are out of the mainstream.

The Senator from New York is certainly entitled to his views. I voted, and I agreed, that he and I probably would disagree philosophically on a lot of things. He probably would call himself a liberal Democrat. I would proudly call myself a conservative Republican. We respect each other’s rights to believe in what we believe and to pursue those positions. But I don’t think either one of us should therefore suggest that we are the best ones to judge what a balance on the court would be. We probably would both want to shade it a little bit toward our particular point of view.

The Senator from New York says he believes it is our job as the Senate to restore balance to the courts. I pointed out that, of course, balance is all in the eye of the beholder; that probably the President of the United States, elected by all of the people of the country, was a better judge of the mood of the country, especially a President who, by the way, had a 77% approval rating of well over 70 percent.

When he ran for President, it was clear that if he won, he would be the person nominating the judges. As a matter of fact, Vice President Gore made that point during his campaign—warn voters that if they elected President Bush, then-Governor Bush, he would be making the nominees to the court. He was right about that. When President Bush was declared the winner, he had every right to make these nominations.

If the people are not well qualified, then the Senate should vote them down. On occasion that has happened, but it is quite rare. As the Senator from Pennsylvania pointed out, the test has been, for most of us over the years, even if you don’t like the person ideologically, if that is the President’s choice and the individual is otherwise well qualified, then you really ought to vote to approve him or her.

All of us have done that. I have swallowed hard and voted for people I didn’t particularly care for and whose ideology I very definitely didn’t care for. I voted for them nonetheless because I couldn’t find anything wrong with them. They graduated high from their law schools. They had done a good job in a law practice or on some other bench. Even though I figured they would probably be quite ideologically liberal—and by the way, some have turned out to be ideologically liberal—I felt it was my obligation, since that was the President’s choice, and there was no question about qualification, that we should approve them. That I did.

That has been the tradition in this body for a very long time. I don’t think it is appropriate for us to try to define what a proper balance of ideology is and to turn down the President’s nominee because of that.

I especially think it is wrong not to give them a hearing and find out. These eight nominees to the circuit court the President made exactly a year ago have never had an opportunity to come before the committee and answer any questions about their ideology.

There is a presumption that has not necessarily been backed up by reality or by facts. I would think that, as the Senator from Pennsylvania said, if there is no reason to be afraid of these judges, then we ought to have a hearing. And if there is, I would think people would want to bring those reasons out to demonstrate why they are not qualified to sit on a bench. But, in fact, there has been no suggestion that there is a reason why any of these eight candidates are not qualified.

In fact, I don’t think even most of them could be fairly characterized as somehow ideologically way out of the American mainstream. The other thing that might be offered as an excuse not to hold hearings is—and I have heard this often from my Democratic colleagues of the left, if the Clinton nominees for courts were not treated fairly because they were not given hearings. It is true there were a few that, for one reason or another, did not get a hearing. Of course, in the case of Judge Posey at the end of the last year of the Presidency, there is good reason for that because there is no time to do it. But there were still probably some who could have had a hearing and did not.

A hearing was held this morning by the Senator from New York in which four of those individuals were called to testify. And each one of them made the point that they were disappointed—actually, one had gotten a hearing but not the one he preferred. They all made the point they were disappointed and they didn’t think it was fair. Two of them, particularly, I thought, made a very good point that when you get right down to it, it is very unfair for a nominee not to have a hearing. They all believe that all nominees should have a hearing. That, of course, applies today as much as it applied to them. If it was wrong for them to be denied a hearing, it is just as wrong for President Bush’s nominees to be denied a hearing.

The second reason that sometimes is offered up to me why President Bush’s nominees are not being given a hearing or moved forward through the process for confirmation, it seems to me, is based upon a false premise; that is, in effect, saying two wrongs make a right. It is wrong not to give somebody a hearing. Some of President Clinton’s nominees were not given a hearing, so we are not going to give President Bush’s nominees a hearing. If it is wrong, it is wrong. If it is wrong, it should stop.

I heard one colleague say, but we need to go back and fix the wrong. To my knowledge, there is only one President who has gone back and nominated people his predecessor of another party had nominated who were not confirmed. President Bush has actually gone the extra step and renominated two of the Clinton nominees who have been confirmed already by this body. I have my knowledge, President Clinton didn’t renominate any of the 49-some— I believe that is the correct number—nominees pending at the end of the Bush 41 administration. President Bush 43 has done that.

So I think it is wrong to say we are not going to have a hearing on these individuals because some other candidates didn’t get a hearing and that was wrong. Again, two wrongs don’t make a right.

Today President Bush told us that he called upon the Senate, and specifically the Senate Judiciary Committee, to move forward with these nominees.

He told us he thought it was very unfair to the fine people he had nominated that their lives, in effect, are in limbo at the moment because they don’t know whether they are going to get a hearing, whether they are going to be confirmed. In the meantime, their law practices are suffering, if they are still in the practice of law. Their reputations are hanging in the balance.

Let me tell you a little bit about a couple of them. One nomination who has languished before the committee and have not had a hearing, one is John Roberts, a nominee to the DC Circuit Court of Appeals. He is one of the country’s leading appellate lawyers. He has argued 36 cases before the Supreme Court. He served as Deputy Solicitor General. He has a great track record. There is nothing wrong with this nominee. He is one of the smallest people and one of the most experienced people we could put on the DC Circuit Court. Nobody denies that this fine man hasn’t had a hearing now in a year.

Miguel Estrada has been nominated to the DC Circuit and he has a great story to tell. He would be the first Hispanic ever to serve on the DC Circuit. He was the Washington Post’s choice of the country. Nobody denies that this man hasn’t had a hearing now in a year.

Justice Priscilla Owen, a nominee to the Fifth Circuit, has served on the Texas Supreme Court since 1994. Every newspaper in Texas endorsed her in her last run for reelection. So why isn’t Justice Priscilla Owen even receiving a hearing? There is no reason she should not receive a hearing—or at least no fair reason.

In fact, the Bar Association unanimously recognized both of these individuals are well qualified, with their highest rating.

Justice Priscilla Owen, a nominee to the Fifth Circuit, has served on the Texas Supreme Court since 1994. Every newspaper in Texas endorsed her in her last run for reelection. So why isn’t Justice Priscilla Owen even receiving a hearing? There is no reason she should not receive a hearing—or at least no fair reason.

I am told Michael McConnell is one of the most intelligent people ever to be nominated to a circuit court. He is nominated to the Tenth Circuit, and he is one of the country’s leading constitutional lawyers and scholars. He has an incredible reputation for fairness, as has been illustrated by the support he has received from literally hundreds of Democrat and Republican law professors around the country. He is clearly one of the outstanding jurists in the country. He hasn't even gotten a hearing. Why?

Jeffrey Sutton is another of the country's appellate lawyers. He has been nominated to the Sixth Circuit. He graduated from Ohio State Law School and was first in his class. He has argued over 20 cases before the U.S. Supreme Court and State supreme courts, and he served as solicitor of the State of Ohio.

Justice Deborah Cook, a nominee to the Sixth Circuit, has served as a justice on the Ohio Supreme Court since 1994, a State supreme court justice. She was the first woman partner in Akron's oldest law firm. This is another extraordinary qualified individual. There is no reason for her not to have a hearing. Why hasn't this nominee even had a hearing?

Judge Dennis Boyle has been nominated to the Fourth Circuit. He was unanimously confirmed by the Senate as a Federal district judge in 1990. He is strongly supported by both home State Senators—one a Democrat and the other a Republican. In fact, he is past chief counsel to the Senate Judiciary Committee. He, too, has a great number of friends on both sides of the aisle. He would be a great judge on the circuit court. Why hasn't he even received a hearing? Is there anything wrong with him?

Judge Terrence Boyle, also nominated to the Fourth Circuit, was unanimously confirmed by the Senate as a Federal district judge in 1984. He has served all of this time, and I haven't seen anybody come forward with anything that would suggest he is not qualified. As a matter of fact, the State Democratic Party chairman supports Judge Boyle's nomination. He says that he gives everyone a fair trial.

If the former chairman of the Democratic Party in the State can endorse a Republican President's nominee to the circuit court, that is a pretty good thing. You would think partisan consideration could be laid aside. Why hasn't this individual even received a hearing?

It is not too much to ask that, after 365 days, the first step in the confirmation process be taken. A year ago, President Bush said: There are over 100 vacancies on the Federal courts causing backlogs, frustration, and delay of justice. Today, a year later, he is asking us to begin the process of clearing up this backlog. He has done his part. Chief Justice Rehnquist recently stated that the present judicial vacancy crisis is "alarming," and on behalf of the judiciary, he implored the Senate to grant prompt hearings and have up-or-down votes on these individuals. I note that the chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Senator Leahy, in 1996, at a time when there were 50 vacancies, said that number of vacancies represented a "judicial vacancy crisis." Those were his words. Today, there are 89 vacancies. We are getting close to twice as many. It is a 10-percent vacancy rate. The Judicial Conference of the United States classified 38 of these court vacancies as judicial emergencies.

The President has 18 individuals nominated to fill a seat designated as a judicial emergency. What that means is that litigants cannot get to court. There are delays of 6 and 8 years of people having to get to court or have their cases resolved—in the case of some criminal cases. This is unfair to litigants, and it has been said many times that justice delayed is justice denied. There are many situations in which that is true, but that is what is happening as a result of not being able to fill these positions, especially with regard to those denominated as judicial emergencies.

The 12 regional circuit courts of appeals are the last resort, other than the Supreme Court. There are 30 vacancies, which is a 19-percent vacancy rate. Filings in the 12 regional courts of appeals reached an all-time high last year. They have increased 22 percent since 1992, and I could quote from former President Reagan's American Bar Association and others who have expressed grave concern about the ability to do justice when these kinds of vacancies exist.

I will read one quotation from one letter:

I urge you to heed President Bush's call and not as Republicans and Democrats, but as Americans. It's time for the Senate to act for the good of our judicial system. In the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, half of the court is vacant. Of the 16 authorized judges, 8 stand vacant today. At a time when there were only four vacancies on that court, Chief Judge Merritt of that court wrote to the Senate Judiciary Committee and said this:

The court is hurting badly and will not be able to keep up with its workload. Our court should not be treated in this fashion. The public's business should not be treated this way. The litigants in the Federal courts should not be treated this way. The situation in our court is rapidly deteriorating due to the fact that 25 percent of our judgeships are vacant.

Now it is 50 percent. The caseloads in Federal court can be expected to increase because of the war on terrorism and in my area because of the extraordinary increase in drug and illegal immigration crossing the border.

It is sad that the Senate cannot bring itself to even hold hearings on people who have now been sitting for a year since their nomination. Individuals who by any measure are extraordinarily well qualified, are among the most qualified in the country. There is nothing wrong with them, and yet no hearing.

As of this date, the Senate has confirmed only 9 of the President's 30 circuit court nominees. By contrast, President Clinton had 42 percent of his circuit court nominees confirmed by this same date in his term.

I know we can quote statistics, and that is not really the most important issue. I quote from the Washington Post editorial of November 30 of last year:

The Judiciary Committee chairman, Democratic Senator Patrick Leahy, has offered no reasonable justification for stalling on these nominations.

The point is, anybody can cite statistics, and most of us are pretty good lawyers and can argue the case, but at the end of the day, there is no reasonable justification for stalling on these nominations. There is no reasonable justification for stalling, unless—I think the Post might have gone on to say—you are trying to get even because of some perceived slight. That is beneath the Senate of the United States of America, and it should not be the motive of anyone, and I cannot believe it would be. This is no reason why these nominees should be denied a hearing.

Lloyd Cutler, who was President's Clinton's White House counsel, and former Congressman Mickey Edwards recently wrote an op-ed in the Washington Post. They said:

Delay in confirming judges means justice delayed for individuals and businesses, and combined with the bitter nature of some confirmation battles, it may deter many qualified candidates from seeking Federal judgeships.

It is the unfortunate additional result of what is happening here. More and more good candidates are going to say: Why should I put myself and my family through all of this? And that is going to be a real shame.

Historically, Presidents were able to get their nominees, especially their first nominees, confirmed. President Reagan, President Bush 1, and President Clinton all enjoyed a 100-percent confirmation rate on their first 11 circuit court nominees—100 percent. All were confirmed within a year of their nomination. Remember, these eight we are talking about have not even had a hearing within a year.

The broader picture is no different. The history of the last three Presidents' first 100 nominations shows that, one, President Reagan got 97 of his first 100 judicial nominations confirmed in an average of 36 days; President George Herbert Walker Bush saw 95 of his first 100 confirmed in an average of 78 days; and President Clinton saw 97 of his first 100 confirmed in an average of 93 days. But to date, this Senate has confirmed only 52 of President Bush's first 100 nominees, and the average number of days to confirm has increased to 156.

It is not possible to say that nothing is happening, that nothing is different, that this is no different than in previous administrations, that President Bush's nominees are being treated the same as any other, it is just not true. The statistics belie that.

Madam President, even if you do not want to talk about the statistics, I just ask you to focus on what President Bush focused on today. He said: I nominated 11 good people a year ago today, and only 3 of them have even had the courtesy of a hearing. Would you please go back to your colleagues and implement their view differently. It is for American people. He made that point a couple times. And it is for justice and for the American people. I also think that it is going to say something about the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time controlled by the minority in morning business has expired.

Mr. KYL. Madam President, if we do not move on these nominations, it is going to cause a significant decline in the reputation of the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

IMPORTS OF FOREIGN LUMBER AND WOOD PRODUCTS

Mr. DAYTON. I thank the Chair.

Madam President, I rise in morning business to discuss an amendment which Senator CRAIG from Idaho and I are going to present for consideration of the trade bill. I wish to take a few minutes in morning business now to talk about it.

It is an amendment that I believe will complement the intent of TPA. Others may view it differently. It is one Senator CRAIG and I developed out of our shared experiences working with and representing members of our respective States, Idaho and Minnesota, who have lost jobs, farms, and farm incomes coming from sugar dumping.

I first had the opportunity to work with the Senator from Idaho when Minnesota loggers and small business owners running sawmills were being harmed seriously—some put out of business, some losing their jobs—as the result of foreign lumber and wood products coming into this country.

I found that Senator CRAIG had been working on these problems for years before I arrived.

I actually took his lead. He spearheaded a group of us working on the impact of sugar coming into this country on sugar beet growers in Minnesota and Idaho. I know he is someone who has a deep and abiding commitment to what is right for the citizens of his State, as I hope I can demonstrate for the people of Minnesota.

Madam President, you probably had this experience in your State as well. The trade policies of this country which have been in effect over the last couple of decades from one Republican administration to a Democratic administration and now to a Republican administration have relatively consistently encouraged the expansion of trade, the expansion of exports upon which a lot of jobs in Minnesota depend, and with a lot of businesses in Minnesota, large and small, have successfully and profitably expanded markets across this country and the world—grain traders, commodity traders, those who provide that transportation, those who finance the businesses engaged in all of this. There are a lot of winners in Minnesota, a lot of beneficiaries through jobs, through expanding businesses, through rising stock prices, who say hey, more trade is better for us, who frankly cannot even imagine why I am torn on this subject.

I find in the presentations and the discussions about trade and authority there is very seldom a recognition, even an acknowledgment, of the thousands of men and women whose jobs, whose farms, whose businesses, have been lost. And lost is not even the right word; they have really been taken away from them because of the impact of these trade policies.

So recognizing that this legislation, the so-called trade promotion authority, is a high priority for the administration, that we want to honor the House of Representatives, that, as the Senator from Oklahoma said earlier, the tradition of the Senate has been to support free trade in anticipation of the probability that final legislation will pass the way it is, I think this amendment is a crucial addition to standing beside and with those men and women in my State anyway, and I think elsewhere across the country, who are being harmed by these policies or who will be in the future.

This amendment says if an agreement comes back that has been negotiated by trade representatives, acting at the behest of the President but not elected by the people of this country—comes back with changes in the trade remedy laws, which change—in most cases weaken—these laws that have been passed by the Congress, signed into law by the President of the United States, for the purpose of protecting these jobs will be broadened if these trade agreements, by illegal dumping of products—it has certainly been devastating to northeastern Minnesota, to the steelworkers there and across this country—that before those laws and their provisions can be altered or weakened or negotiated away or used as bargaining chips to get some other purpose achieved, the Congress has the authority—it is not required but it has the option—to remove those sections of the law, the rest of the agreement through the fast track, so-called, the procedures that will have been enacted into law, but to reserve the prerogative to review these changes, these measures, that are going to affect the kind of protection, the kind of safety net, the kind of assistance that Americans think they can depend on, cannot be taken away, cannot be altered, except by more careful consideration by the Senate and Congress.

The fact that 31 Members of the Senate who are cosponsors and are in support of this legislation, 13 Republicans, 13 Democrats, men and women from all different parts of the country with all different perspectives and philosophies, says to me they have had this same experience in their own States with their own constituents, that they too have recognized that these trade policies have very mixed results in their States, and particularly those who are not the beneficiaries, who are going to be the casualties of expanded trade, the increased imports which have been. I think, really tilting our trade policies out of balance in a way that is detrimental to this country.

Last year, the trade imbalance, the deficit in our trade, was $436 billion. We owed other nations $436 billion more from their imports than we received from our exports. In agriculture, well, there is still a positive trade balance, but that positive balance has been reduced. We have seen from NAFTA a flood of imports of food, of automobiles, of other manufactured goods, and our trade imbalance with Mexico has gone from being a slight positive in 1993 to a negative balance in the year 2000. Our trade balance with Canada has gone from being slightly in the negative to seriously in the negative in the past few years.

As I have seen in Minnesota men and women, farmers, workers, business owners, who have lost all of that, lost their hopes, lost their livelihoods, lost their homes, lost their pensions, lost their health care as a result of this. To me, it would be unconscionable to hand that over to an unelected representative of any President, any administration—previous administration, this administration, a future administration—and allow that situation to develop where that agreement would come back and we would be told, take it or leave it, up or down; either make that decision that is going to benefit people but disregard those who are going to be most harmed.

I see the Senator from Nevada has returned, hopefully with some illumination for us. We have taken this opportunity to talk about the amendment.

Mr. RAID. If the Senator will yield, the majority leader is in the Chair.

Mr. DAYTON. I will yield even more so when the majority leader arrives.

I thank the Senator from Idaho for his work on this. I think he has heard more about it from other parties than I have.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Idaho.

Mr. CRAIG. Madam President, we are in morning business, are we not?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct.

Mr. CRAIG. I ask unanimous consent that I be allowed to speak for 15 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TRADE MUST BE BALANCED AND FAIR

Mr. CRAIG. Madam President, I am pleased my colleague from Minnesota,
Some would suggest, at least by rhetoric, it is a very damaging amendment to trade promotion authority. What I thought I would do is read a letter that 62 Members of the Senate signed and sent to the President on May 7 of last year, because trade representatives have been in Doha, Qatar, negotiating new trade agreements and the rest of the world said: You have to put your remedies on the table, you have to negotiate them down or away or we are not going to deal with you.

What are we saying is bring it all to the table, talk about it. We believe that as the legislative branch of Government that crafts public policy, we ought to have a right at some point to be able to say, this is only the use of the tool of trade remedy that we are now able to get the Canadians to blink and to think about possibly coming to the table to craft a fair and equitable agreement. That is exactly what our amendment would do.

balanced trade across the Mexican and Canadian border, we did not have that opening. That is an opening we ought to have.

What I do not want to deny, and I think the Senator from Minnesota agreement, I don’t want to deny our negotiators and their work to the task of finding out and being able to negotiate any agreement. They ought to have the full freedom and flexibility to put anything and everything on the table and to bring anything and everything back to us. In the end, however, in the constitutional form of government, we are the ones who have to make the decision. They are the ones who negotiate. That is the kind of balance that I think is important.

STEEL TRADE POLICY

Ms. MIKULSKI. Madam President, I am very concerned about some actions that were taken yesterday. Guess what. On May 8, the administration issued its statement of administration policy on the trade bill. I was looking forward to that because I thought George Bush was a friend of the American steel industry. I thought he would read that policy and find out the administration opposes the provision to provide a safety net for American steel retirees. I was shocked because just a few months ago, President Bush stood up for steel when he issued those temporary steel tariffs, and I thought we could count on him now as we were working our way through the Trade Adjustment Act.

I was taken aback to hear the opposition to the amendment that Senator ROCKEFELLER and I have, that provides a modest temporary bridge to help steel retirees keep their health benefits until we can work out a larger compromise.

This statement is terrible. It abandons the steelworkers. It abandons steel retirees. It is just plain wrong. We do need steel and we do need steelworkers. They are suffering at the hands of unfair trade competition, and George Bush’s administration opposed it and did nothing to help us document that.

That is what is so breathtaking.

On one hand we have done it, and then on the other hand we said even though steel companies are in bankruptcy. On one hand we hear the steel trade is in crisis. On the other hand we say that we are not going to do anything for American steel. The American steel companies have lost almost half of their workforce. The cause of this crisis is well understood.

Nearly 47,000 steelworkers have lost their jobs since 1989, including about 30,000 in the last year alone. We now have less than half as many steelworkers as we did in 1980. Most of these jobs are gone for good.

Steelworkers are losing their jobs. Nearly 47,000 steelworkers have lost their jobs since 1989, including about 30,000 in the last year alone. We now have less than half as many steelworkers as we did in 1980. Most of these jobs are gone for good.

The cause of this crisis is well-known. Unfair foreign competition has brought American steel to its knees. Foreign steel companies are subsidized by their governments, and they dump excess steel into America’s open market at fire sale prices.

Listen, we have to do something to save steel. Steel built America, the railroads and bridges that keep our country connected, the cars and trucks and buses and trains that make our Nation move, the buildings where we live and work, and shop and worship, and the ships, tanks and weapons that we need during times of war. Yet saving steel is not an exercise in nostalgia.

President Bush said: Steel is an important jobs issue, it is also an important national security issue. I couldn’t agree more.

The distinguished ranking member of the Appropriations Committee and of its Defense subcommittee, Senator Stevens, recently made this point eloquently here on the Senate floor:

During World War II, he said, ‘‘we produced steel for the world. We produced the steel for the President.

President Bush took an important first step to help America's steel industry by imposing broad temporary tariffs on imported steel. I was disappointed that the tariffs are 30 percent or less—phased out over the 3 years they are in effect rather than the 1 year of benefits. Retirees would only have 1 year of health care benefits. Workers could have 2 years of health care benefits for workers who lose their jobs. Benefits to qualified steel retirees. The temporary 1-year extension of health care for workers who lose their jobs is time to help the workers and retirees. I grew up down the road from the Beth Steel mill in Baltimore. My dad had a grocery store that he opened extra early so the steel workers on the morning shift could come in and buy their lunch. The work- ers on the morning shift could see the damage from the deluge of below-cost foreign steel, but they are not the only step needed to help American steel.

The tariffs help the industry. Now it is time to help the workers and retirees who will lose their healthcare if their companies go under. The Daschle amendment provided a temporary 1-year extension of health benefits to qualified steel retirees. The health care extensions for steel retirees are similar to TAA health care benefits for workers who lose their jobs as a result of trade agreements. Workers could have 2 years of health care benefits. Retirees would only have 1 year of benefits.

Just like the temporary tariffs give the companies breathing room to recover, a temporary extension of benefits gives workers and retirees breathing room to find a long-term plan. It gives them time to plan—time that the workers and retirees of LTV didn't have. They lost their benefits overnight. Supporting producers is in the national interest. The policy of our Government is to support producers when it is in the national interest. National interest means national responsibility. It is important to support farmers to make sure we have the producers to be food-independent.

I am happy to stand up for our farmers whether they are chicken producers on the Eastern Shore or corn growers in the Midwest. We spend about $19 billion a year on farmers—$656 billion over the past 10 years. This does not include $17 billion in emergency appropriations for our farmers, and it looks like these subsidies are increasing.

Congress passed a $100 billion farm bill. The President said he will sign it. It calls for a $73 billion increase in farm subsidies over the next 6 years. This farm bill includes a $3 billion subsidy for peanuts, up to $30,000 per farmer for livestock subsidies, and a $3 billion subsidy for cotton. Since 1996, we have provided over $5 billion for tobacco—three-quarters of those funds went to just 18,000 farmers. I love cotton. It is the fabric of our lives. But cotton is not more important than steel.

I have supported aid to farmers. So have most of the opponents of steel. I would ask them why. Why do farmers get bail-out after bail-out, yet our steel workers can't get this modest help?

Farmers work hard, but no harder than steelworkers. Farmers provide vital commodities. So do steelworkers. Our Nation must never be dependent on foreign food, and it must never be dependent on foreign steel.

It is not just farmers. Congress gave the airlines $15 billion after September 11 because of a national emergency. That was the right thing to do. Now, we need to stand up for steel.

Make no mistake, this is a national emergency for steel. Standing up for steel is in the national interest just like farmers.

I was moved by the stories of Mrs. Misterka and others at the hearing a few weeks ago as was everyone in the hearing room. I feel very close to these workers and retirees. I grew up down the road from the Beth Steel mill in Baltimore. My dad had a grocery store that he opened extra early so the steelworkers on the morning shift could come in and buy their lunch. The workers at Beth Steel weren't units of production, they were our neighbors. They are core to this discussion.

And what did we know about the Bethlehem Steel Plant? It was a union plant near Baltimore recently produced the steel plate to repair the USS Cole. It is the only mill in America that still produces the armor plate for Navy ships.

Bethlehem Steel must never become dependent on foreign suppliers—like Russia and China—for the steel we need to defend our nation and freedom around the world. But we are headed in that direction. Already, the United States is one of the few steel-producing countries that is a net importer of steel.

America imported more than 30 million tons of steel last year.

Trade Adjustment Assistance Agreement

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, as we have been noting throughout the last several hours, a number of our colleagues have been in discussion and negotiation involving the trade adjustment assistance part of the package that is pending before us. I am very pleased to announce that an agreement has been reached. The agreement is one that involved the administration, Republicans, and Democrats who have been involved in this issue for some time now.

I might just briefly outline it. I will leave to the manager of the bill and the ranking member to discuss the matter in greater detail tomorrow morning.

I also encourage Senators to offer amendments tomorrow and Monday. Senator LOTT and I have discussed the schedule. I am prepared to say as a result of this agreement that there will be no votes tomorrow, but I encourage Senators to avail themselves of the opportunity they now have, tonight or tomorrow or Monday, to offer amendments.

We will consider votes for those amendments on Monday night. We have already announced there will be a vote on a judge at 6 o'clock on Monday. We can accommodate additional votes immediately following that vote, should amendments be offered and should we be in a position, then, to dispose of them by Monday afternoon.

But the agreement has a number of components. The trade adjustment assistance for more workers—that will provide at least 65,500 new workers with trade adjustment assistance, according to the reports that I have just been given, unprecedented health care coverage for harmed workers, a 70-percent COBRA subsidy for tax credit for employers and other institutions, and the phased in a training period. Workers would receive income assistance for at least 18 months while they were retraining for up to 2 years.
Then there also would be wage insurance for older workers as well.

There are a number of components. I will not speak at length about the specifics of the package until the agreement is ready to be presented tomorrow morning. But I hope the final formulation of the language to accommodate this agreement can be prepared so that the amendment will be provided for all colleagues tomorrow, will be offered, and will be part of the pending business as we consider amendments to this, and other amendments.

Senator LOTT and I have agreed that there would be an understanding that as this package is agreed to as it relates to those issues involving TAA, we would entertain it.

There is also an understanding that an amendment that would allow for consideration of assistance for retired steelworkers for health purposes would be entertained. And we will have that debate, and an amendment will be offered. I yield briefly, of course, will be made against my language. And we understand that. Once that point of order has been made, this compromise package will be offered.

I am appreciative of the work that has gone into achieving this agreement. I am disappointed, obviously, that we couldn’t do more. But I am also appreciative of the fact that we have to move on and that Senators who wish to offer other legislation are entitled to do so.

I thank all of my colleagues for the effort that has been made. I hope this will now accelerate our prospects for completing this bill and allowing us to address the deadline that exists for the Andean Trade Preference Act especially.

I yield.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, just a couple of clarifications, and a statement of what I believe our understanding is:

—Mr. DASCHLE said. But I believe the negotiators are prepared to defend the agreement and oppose amendments that would change that.

I want to state very firmly that it would be my intent to do the same thing. If we don’t do that, we begin to pick and pick an amendment, and then there is no agreement.

But I believe good work has been done. All parties have made some concessions, I think, though, that it is going to have more assistance for those who need this transition assistance, and this will set a process up that can get us a bill.

I hope Senator DASCHLE will join me in opposing amendments that could undermine the agreement which we have. Further, I observe that I am glad we will be having votes on Monday. I think we are going to have to do serious work. I understand Senators have amendments on both sides that will be offered. But we do need to try to finish this bill next week. And I think we are going to have to look at how we are guaranteed that is done while Senators have a chance to make their case. That is a delicate balance, as is everything in the Senate. It always takes understanding and cooperation, and we are going to do that.

Senator DASCHLE and I both are going to have to provide leadership with which our entire caucuses won’t always agree. But that is how business is done. I think we have done the right thing here. I intend to support this agreement and work on getting this very important legislation completed.

I yield the floor.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I wish to make one clarification which Senator LOTT and I have already made. I said this privately, but I want to say for the record that I will oppose an amendment to improve this package or to detract from this package on trade adjustment assistance.

Obviously, we are open to consider amendments on other matters relating to the bill. But on this particular package, the one additional part of the agreement that I stated—and I want to reiterate again—is there is an understanding that Senators would be free to offer amendments having to do with steelworkers. I intend to support that amendment. I have indicated that to Senator LOTT. But that is outside of this agreement. That was part of the understanding we had as this negotiation was completed.

I wanted to make that clarification. I will say for the record what I said privately to Senator LOTT. That amendment will be part of the overall debate on the bill, and I do intend to support it.

I yield to the Senator from Maryland.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, I think the major issue we have stated or clarified what my questions were. As I understand it, there is a compromise but the compromise does not include a bridge to help steel retirees.

But part of the conversation was that a steel retiree amendement would be in order. I believe we will have the support and votes. Senator ROCKEFELLER and I intend to offer an amendment at an appropriate time.

I also support the majority leader’s idea, and I would not ask for a rollcall vote on the point of order.

As of yesterday, I wanted a rollcall vote, to drag it out, and raise the roof. But then it would be parliamentary tactics.

—Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the question be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the question be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, what is the pending business?
CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Morning business is closed.

Mr. LOTI. Now, Mr. President, the pending business will be the trade bill? The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct. The pending business is the trade bill.

AMENDMENT NO. 396
Mr. LOTI. Mr. President, the Daschle amendment No. 396 exceeds the Finance Committee's allocation of budget authority and outlays for fiscal year 2002 and breaches the revenue floor for fiscal year 2002, fiscal years 2002 through 2006, and fiscal years 2002 through 2011. I raise points of order against this amendment under sections 302(f) and 311(a)(2)(b) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The point of order is well taken, and the amendment falls.

Mr. DASCHIE. Mr. President, I suggest a quorum is present.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS
Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to a period of morning business with Senators allowed to speak therein for a period not to exceed 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

FARM BILL
Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, once again, the principal reason I have sought recognition has been to comment on my "no" vote on the farm bill, which was passed yesterday. Even though there are some parts of the farm bill which I liked, I have, on balance, voted "No." Because of the excessive cost which favors big corporate farmers and provides unreasonable subsidies to cotton, soybean, wheat, rice and corn.

When I voted for the farm bill in the Senate, the cost was $73.3 billion over current spending for farm programs. However, the conference report came in at $82.3 billion for a total of approximately $190 billion total over 10 years which is, simply stated, far too expensive.

The United States: no longer enjoys a projected surplus of $5.6 trillion over the next 10 years. In fact, there is a deficit of $130 billion expected by the end of this fiscal year.

Projecting the costs of this farm bill, it may be necessary to invade the Social Security trust fund, probably abandon plans for adequate prescription drugs for senior citizens and encroach on necessary appropriations for many priority items, including defense, education and health care. When I chaired the Appropriations Subcommittee for Labor, Health & Human Services and Education, and now in my capacity as ranking member, I have seen the great need for funding for the Nation's Heart and other health programs as well as education and worker safety. Without enumerating many other programs, there are obviously high priorities which will be impacted by the costs of this Farm Bill.

I am especially concerned about payments to large corporate farmers. The distinguished ranking member of the Agriculture Committee, Senator LUGAR, has stated that more than $100 billion of subsidy payments over the next 10 years, with two-thirds of payments going to just 10 percent of the largest farmers who grow primarily corn, soybean, wheat, rice and cotton. This policy will likely encourage other market distortions. This bill encourages over-production with the resultant consequence of yet lower prices leading to more subsidies. This Bill will further have an adverse impact on international trade by providing expanded and unpredictable levels of support, which increase the likelihood that the United States might breach the farm subsidy limitations it agreed to in the 1994 world trade agreements. Further, the bill's expanded supports have caused our trading partners to question our sincerity on future reductions in farm spending.

There are some portions of the bill which I favor, such as the new national dairy program, expanded Food Stamp Program, funding the Small Farmer Assistance Program, and the many positive environmental and conservation measures that are very effective in Pennsylvania. I am pleased to see the new national dairy program, but it falls short of the proper legislation which is embodied in my bill, S. 1157, which would create permanent dairy compacts in the Northeast, as well as the South, Northwest and Inter-Mountain regions. While the dairy provisions will be of help, Congress is missing the opportunity to create a long-term dairy policy through the compacts which would have no cost to the taxpayers.

GUN TRAFFICKING IN AMERICA
Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I have spoken previously about the problem of gun trafficking. In June of 2000, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms released "Following the Gun: Enforcing Federal Gun Laws—Firearms Traffickers." This report examined 1,500 ATF gun trafficking investigations documenting that more than 84,000 guns were diverted to the illegal market and were often later used by criminals to commit violent crimes. In addition this report showed that investigations involving gun shows and corrupt gun dealers involved the highest numbers of trafficked guns. However, some members and others are not so convinced of this report. At the time of its publication, the report concluded that ATF gun trafficking investigations led to the prosecutions of more than 1,700 defendants. Of these cases, 812 defendants were sentenced in federal court to a total of 7,420 years in prison, with an average sentence of nine years.

Gun trafficking has also been a problem in my home state of Michigan. According to Americans for Gun Safety's analysis of ATF Trace Data from 1996—1999, over 40 percent of the guns traced to crimes committed in Michigan in 1998 and 1999 originated in other states, a much higher rate than the national average. The largest number of out of state suppliers of guns to Michigan during the same period were from Ohio, Kentucky, Georgia and Alabama.

The ATF's report and these statistics demonstrate that criminals are not only gaining access to guns, but are able to smuggle in the hands of other criminals who use them to commit violent crimes. This kind of activity can be stopped by vigorously enforcing our gun laws, providing law enforcement with more tools to crack down on gun trafficking, corrupt gun dealers and other armed criminals, and by passing sensible gun safety legislation.

FARM SECURITY AND RURAL INVESTMENT ACT OF 2002
Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the Farm Security and Rural Development Act of 2002. While previous farm bills have provided very little for the State of Maine and the New England region, I am pleased that the conference report before us, while by no means perfect, provides for a more equitable treatment for the farmers in Maine and the Northeast. I have been in touch with the farmers and growers in Maine throughout the development of the 2002 Farm bill, and they, like I, believe the Northeast has been shortchanged in past Farm bills.

The State groups, such as the Maine Pork Producers, the Maine Wild Blueberry Commission, the Maine Farm Bureau, the Maine Apple Growers, the Northeast Dairy Coalition, the Directors of the State's Farm Service Agency and Maine Rural Development, and the State Conservation districts at the National Resource Conservation Service, believe that this conference report starts us down a path toward regional equity from which I would hope we will not stray in the future development of farm policies.

Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, on May 6, Commissioner Robert Spear of the Maine Department of Agriculture wrote me similar thoughts, stating that, "I believe it is a good improvement over the so-called Freedom to Farm. The bill strengthens the safety net for all farmers, it more equitably distributes Federal farm dollars and it provides strong incentives to improve stewardship’. I would like to submit Commissioner Spears’ entire letter to the record.

First and foremost, this past year, I made a pledge to the dairy farmers of Maine that I was committed to see that the safety net they had through the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact would not be pulled out from under them. This has been my top priority for maintaining a way of life in our rural communities, and I am pleased that the Farm bill provides for a dairy program modeled on our Dairy Compact.

I have stated numerous times on this floor that I would have much preferred that the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact be reauthorized along with the inclusion of those Northeast States that want to join the compact to ensure that people in the region can get fresh, low-priced fluid milk in their grocery stores. In contrast to the provisions contained in the conference report, the beauty of the Northeast Dairy Compact was that it required no Federal funding.

Under the conference report, dairy farmers will get monthly payments over the next 3½ years when the price of fluid milk drops below $16.94 per hundredweight, our dairy farmers will need a better cash flow to keep the farm and their dairy herds going, as the Northeast Dairy Compact provided.

I am very pleased that the dairy funding provided is retroactive to December 1, 2001, as it corresponds with the time when milk prices started to drop in New England and continue to remain low. The dairy farmers in Maine who were not given the benefit of commodity programs, but monthly checks that come only when prices are low, and at the very time the producers need a better cash flow to keep the farm and their dairy herds going, as the Northeast Dairy Compact provided.

In an effort to bolster the price of fresh fluid milk drops below $16.94 per hundredweight, our dairy farmers will receive 45 percent of the difference of that price and the current price of the fluid milk. This will apply to the first 2.4 million pounds of production of fluid milk or the first herd of 135-140 cows, a small family farm that has forged a way of life in New England for three and four generations.

Not only has the dairy safety net been an important provision for me, but a substantial increase in funding for voluntary agriculture conservation programs has been a priority as well. Like the environmental groups I have worked with, such as Environmental Defense and the Environmental Working Group, I am disappointed that the conference did not keep the Senate’s higher funding numbers for funding to farmers to promote conservation in each of our States. But, I am pleased that the conference report increased overall for conservation funding in this conference report.

The funds going to Maine will at the very least be quadrupled, estimated to be $3 million in mandatory funding. This is very important for a State that is facing pressures from the environmental impacts of growth and sprawl and pressures to preserve open spaces, and also the need to conserve our water resources, in some cases to restore the habitats of the now endangered Atlantic salmon in eight Downeast rivers, a few which flow through the heart of our Maine Wild Blueberry fields where water is important to both.

The conference report also provides $1.03 billion in mandatory funding for rural development programs. Under the Rural Development Community Water Assistance Grant Program, for instance, Maine will receive $3 million of the maximum available for the program through 2011 to address drought conditions by making rural areas and small communities eligible for grant funding where there is a significant decline in quantity and quality of water.

This is especially critical when considering that, like many States on the East Coast, Maine has been experiencing an extended period of drought, so the funding that helps residents deal with drought conditions is of great importance. There are, according to the Maine Emergency Management Agency, 1,700 wells that have now gone dry in the State. Total precipitation for 2001 was the driest in 108 years of precipitation monitoring in Maine, and with the drought, the State has actually been below average for 22 of the last 24 months, and while we have been helped somewhat by recent snow and rain, NOAA’s National Weather Service climate forecasters see limited relief from the drought in the months to come.

Also, the Rural Water and Waste Facility Grants will provide Maine with up to $90 million over 10 years of additional resources to assist small rural communities with their drinking water and wastewater needs. Reauthorization of Rural Development Programs through 2011 will provide Maine with at least $1.5 million over 10 years for regional planning activities and technical assistance to small businesses.

Grants to non-profit organizations will be funded to finance the construction, refurbishing, and servicing of individually-owned household water well systems in rural areas for low or moderate income individuals by providing resources to community based organizations to help families with severe drinking water problems.

There are provisions to train rural firefighters and emergency personnel to assist small communities in Maine with homeland security issues, to support the rural business investment program, and $80 million for loan guarantees to provide local TV signals to rural areas.

In regard to the Rural Empowerment Zones, Rural Enterprise Communities, and Champion Communities for Direct and Guaranteed Loans for Essential Community facilities, the city of Lewiston, ME, will now be eligible to take advantage of the benefits of Community Facility Direct and Guaranteed Loan Programs. Lewiston was one of only two communities nationwide specifically named in the Farm Bill Conference Report.

For agricultural research, the conference report expands the Initiative for Future Agriculture and Foods Systems, important to the University of Maine as a real new source of research and development funding. The University has competed successfully for funds in the past and currently has a $2 million IFAFS grant for looking at small integrated farm systems, along with being cooperators of several other IFAFS grants around the country.

For the promotion of Maine value-added agricultural products around the world, the Market Access Program will be increased to $200 million annually by 2006, which is up from the current funding of $90 million. The MAP has been invaluable in helping to advertise the quality of our Maine potatoes and wild blueberries, helping growers to market their products abroad. Another $20 million is provided to help growers of fruits and vegetables and other specialty crops combat trade barriers. In addition, $200 million is provided to purchase agriculture products for the School Lunch Program, and products listed as eligible for the program are potatoes, blueberries, and cranberries, all grown in the State.

Funding for 15 underserved States, of which Maine is one, is doubled, now set at $20 million annually for fiscal years 2003-2007 for marketing assistance, organic farming, pesticide reduction projects, and conservation assistance to help farmers sustain their working lands.

Somewhat overlooked in the conference report is a newly created title that was included in the Senate-passed Energy and Energy Security and Conservation Act, providing $450 million for research on bio-based fuels, a Federal biofuels purchasing program and efficiency measures that can make renewable energy the cash crop for the 21st Century.

To help decrease the country’s reliance on foreign oil imports, a competitive grant program will support development of biorefineries for conversion of biomass into fuel, chemicals and electricity. A biodiesel fuel education program will be funded at $1 million a year. The conference report will also establish a competitive grants program for energy audits and renewable energy projects.
development assessments for farmers and rural small businesses.

In addition, $23 million a year from 2003 to 2007 is provided for a loan, loan-guarantee and grant program to help farmers, ranchers and rural small businesses purchase renewable energy systems and make energy efficiency improvements. Also authorized is the continuation of the Commodity Credit Corporation bioenergy program and includes animal byproducts and fat, oils and greases eligible commodities.

A competitive grant program is established to support development of biofuel technologies for conversion of biomass into fuels, chemicals and electricity. A biodiesel fuel education program would be funded at $1 million a year.

Of great interest to many small forest landowners in Maine is a provision in the conference report’s forestry title for $100 million in obligated funds for the Forests of America title that would simplify and reduce, which will provide financial and technical assistance to small, private, non-industrial forest landowners for a variety of good management practices. The title also includes critical increases and updates to the nutritional safety net for America’s families. The food stamp program fulfills an important need for millions of people nationwide, and, thanks to the $6.3 billion in new dollars over the next 10 years for this program that is included in the conference report, countless additional needy families in Maine will be served by this program.

I am certain that I am not alone when I express concern about the administrative difficulties and barriers inherent in Federal programs, and the food stamp program is certainly one that has been in need of simplification. The conference report allows States to use a common definition of what counts as income similar to other public assistance programs, and are two essential components for streamlined administrative and program-related burdens associated with these benefits.

Through the last farm bill established in 1996, which is better known as the Freedom to Farm Act, Congress tried to establish a new system of price and income supports for commodities that would lead to a shift toward a more market-oriented agricultural policy by gradually reducing financial support. Unfortunately, we had no crystals ball that export markets and food markets and farm prices would decline. This precipitous situation had Congress enacting four different supplemental measures from 1998 through 2001 that provided an additional $23 billion in new dollars over the next 10 years for this program that is included in the conference report, countless additional needy families in Maine will be served by this program.

Specifically, I ask unanimous consent that a letter of support from the Maine Potato Board be printed in the RECORD, that expresses my feelings well about how important the increased funding for conservation, rural development and the Market Access Program are to Maine. Part of what Don Flannery, executive director said was “... there are concerns that we all have with the bill but we also believe there are many direct benefits to Maine potato growers and Maine agriculture.”

On balance, I would be remiss to the agricultural and conservation communities in Maine to dismiss this bill or to dismiss President Bush’s commitment to sign the 2002 farm bill into law. I am casting a yes vote for the rural communities and for the farmers of Maine who are the backbone of the State’s economy.

There being no objection, the letters were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Hon. OLYMPIA J. SNOWE, Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR SNOWE: I would like to take the opportunity to express our support for the Farmers Market Promotion Bill [S.1654]. While we understand that there are issues that remain contentious and it does not include some of the programs we had hoped for, the Farm Bill is one of the largest federal programs and they need to be met.

As I stated, there are concerns that we all have with the bill, but we also believe there are many direct benefits to Maine potato growers and Maine agriculture. If we are to develop new markets for potatoes and potato-related products, we need to preserve the market needed to be the backbone of the State’s economy. The increased funding in the Market Access Program is a step in the right direction and potentially will benefit the potato industry in Maine. Another element of the bill that will help develop new markets is the ‘Technical Assistance for Specialty Crops’ program.

Conservation is an area that is of the greatest concern for all of agriculture, and this bill will provide an increase in funding to help the potato growers and the industry in Maine. Another element of the bill that will help develop new markets is the Technical Assistance for Specialty Crops (TASC) program. Conservation is an area that is of the greatest concern for all of agriculture, and this bill will provide an increase in funding to help the potato industry in Maine continue to implement sound conservation practices. The Water Conservation Program will aid agriculture in dealing with an ever increasing demand for water to produce quality crops. The Rural Development Title includes funding under existing programs that will be a benefit to the Maine potato industry and Maine agriculture. To remain competitive in a world market place, we must continue to develop products that meet the consumer’s demands. The Value-Added Market Development Program will do just that. It will allow Maine producers access to funds to develop value-added agricultural products to help meet these demands.

Again, I hope you will support the bill; it will have a positive impact on Maine agriculture. If you should have any questions or if I can provide any additional information, please contact me at 207-769-5061.

Sincerely,

DONALD E. FLANNERY, Executive Director.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, FOOD & RURAL RESOURCES, WASHINGTON, DC.

Senator OLYMPIA J. SNOWE, Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR OLYMPIA: I want to thank you for the time and effort you and your staff spend ensuring the Federal programs and laws work for all farmers. The 2002 farm bill has somewhat by the lack of payment caps and the bias toward growers in the south. However the legislation provides many benefits to Maine agriculture.

Whatever disappointment Maine dairy farmers may have over losing the Compact has to be tempered by the provisions establishing the National Dairy Farmers receive a monthly payment of 45 percent of the difference whenever the Class 1 price falls below $15.94. It is retroactive to December 2001. Our calculation is that the active clause alone will provide our farmers payments totaling about $3 million.

The bill spends $15 million annually on the Senior Farmers’ Market Nutrition Program. Implemented in Maine through our Senior FarmShare it has proven wildly successful with both farmers and seniors. This year, with funds from a combination of sources, including U.S. Department of Agriculture, we are providing nearly $1 million worth of locally grown fresh fruit and vegetables to low-income elderly in Maine.

Another program with direct benefits to Maine is one I know you have worked on in this farm bill, the Farmers Market Promotion Program to preserve our farmers who have suffered from low market prices. The bill provides $94 million for losses in the 2000 crop year.

The $17.1 billion in conservation funds contained in the bill represents a dramatically increased commitment to the environment. Among the highlights for Maine are $965 million for the Farm Bill, which is the Farm Bill Program, a 20-fold increase. Maine leverages state money with funds from this Federal pot through the Land for Maine’s Future Program to purchase open space and keep families on working farms.

The bill sets aside $50 million, to continue conservation and risk management programs authorized in the Agricultural Risk Protection Act of 2000. These programs have already provided money to farmers in Maine for irrigation projects and organic certification. Maine is one of the 15 underserved states eligible for these funds.

For Maine farmers raising specialty crops, among all the good news in the bill, the bill has a couple of benefits. It substantially increases funding for the Market Access Program, which subsidizes efforts to increase non-traditional export markets for specialty crops. The bill also continues the restrictions on planting fruits and vegetables on program acres, a critical
The Bush administration has devoted considerable time and effort to increase cooperation between the United States and Russia on these matters, as exemplified by U.S.-Russia cooperation in the war against terrorism, the Bush-Putin summit in November 2001, and the May 2002 U.S.-Russia summit in Russia. Also, late last year, the administration completed a thorough review of U.S. efforts to help Russia secure its nuclear and other WMD arsenal. The review concluded that U.S. programs to assist Russia in threat reduction and nonproliferation work well, are focused on priority tasks, and are well managed." At the time, the White House also noted: "The President has made clear repeatedly that his administration is committed to strong, effective cooperation with Russia and the other states of the former Soviet Union to reduce weapons of mass destruction and prevent their proliferation." The President wisely realizes that without cooperation with Russia can we deal effectively with this problem. The NTTRA supports the President’s desire to strengthen U.S.-Russia cooperative efforts.

Senator LANDRIEU and I are carrying the tradition of Senators like Sam Nunn and Richard Lugar, who along with other of our colleagues were responsible for the U.S. effort to help the Russians secure their nuclear weapons and other WMD. The United States must make every effort to defeat global terrorism. One of the most important actions we can take is to deny terrorists the means to kill tens of thousands, if not hundreds of thousands, of people.

The NTTRA will address this serious national security challenge in the following ways:

First, the NTTRA states that it is the policy of the United States to work cooperatively with the Russian Federation in order to prevent the diversion of weapons of mass destruction and material, including nuclear, biological and chemical weapons, as well as scientific and technical expertise necessary to design and build weapons of mass destruction. As I noted earlier, the administration’s recent review of U.S.-Russia programs concluded: “most U.S. programs to assist Russia in threat reduction and nonproliferation work well, are focused on priority tasks, and are well managed.” The NTTRA proposals complement the increases and proposed organizational changes that the Bush administration has proposed for these programs.

The NTTRA also calls for the President to deliver to Congress, no later than 6 months after the enactment of the NTTRA, a series of recommendations on how to enhance the implementation of U.S.-Russia non-proliferation and threat reduction programs, including suggestions on how to improve and streamline the contracting and procurement practices of these programs and a list of impediments to the efficient and effective implementation of these programs.

Second, this bill addresses the shortcomings in the Russian system in accounting for nuclear warheads and supporting material. The NTTRA states that it is the policy of the United States to establish with Russia comprehensive inventories and data exchanges of Russian and U.S. weapons-grade material and assembled warheads with particular attention to tactical, intercontinental, and strategic nuclear warheads. In the event the most likely weapons a terrorist organization or state would attempt to acquire—and weapons which have been removed from deployment. Only through such an accounting system will we be able to reliably say that Russian warheads and materials are sufficiently secure.

Third, the NTTRA calls for the establishment of a joint U.S.-Russia Commission on the Transition from Mutually Assured Destruction and helping the Russian Government to establish a complementary Commission that would jointly meet and discuss how to preserve strategic stability during this time of rapid and positive change in the U.S.-Russia relationship.

The United States and Russia have made great strides to reshape our countries’ relationship since the end of the cold war. I am encouraged by the work of President Bush and President Putin regarding the reduction of U.S. and Russian nuclear arsenals and I have been pleased to see Russia’s understanding and support of our war on terrorism. I hope that this bill will support our countries’ working relationship by encouraging further movement of weapons material, helping build trust and expand dialogue and cooperation between our nations. This relationship is critical to protecting both Russia and the United States from nuclear terrorism.

I call upon the members of this body to join Senator LANDRIEU and me as we work against nuclear terrorism by supporting the Nuclear and Terrorism Threat Reduction Act of 2002.

LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 2001

Mr. SMITH of Oregon. Mr. President, I rise today to speak about hate crimes legislation I introduced with Senator Kennedy in March of last year. The Local Law Enforcement Act of 2001 would add new categories to current hate crimes legislation sending a signal that violence of any kind is unacceptable in our society.

I would like to describe a terrible crime that occurred in May 1996 in Lake Charles, L.A. A gay man was robbed and beaten to death after being

Tribute to Richard M. Scullion

Mr. Feingold. Mr. President, today, I would like to honor the life of a dedicated public servant, Richard M. Scullion. Dick passed away at the end of April following a brief illness. Dick started out as a farmer near Highland, WI. He married his wife, Marian, in 1945, and worked to raise their family. In the 1980s, during a typical Wisconsin blizzard, friends of Dick’s nominated him to serve on the Iowa County Board and in 1965, he became the chair of the board, a seat he would hold until 2000. At that time, he was the longest serving County Chair in Wisconsin. Dick simultaneously served as the Highland township chairman and as a member of the Memorial Hospital of Iowa County Board.

In addition to his over 40 years of service to Iowa County, Dick demonstrated a strong commitment to his home state. He was a member of the Wisconsin State Soil and Water Conservation Board, Committee Land Preservation Board, Water Resources Committee, Wisconsin River Rail Transit Commission, Farmland Preservation Board, and was the chairman of the Southwest Regional Planning Commission.

His work made him an invaluable citizen of the State of Wisconsin; he was recognized for his achievements in 1995, when the Iowa County Courthouse dedication was named in his honor. Dick was also named the Soil Conservationist of the Year in 1976 and received the Wisconsin Master Agriculturist Award in 1979. In 1983, the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture and Life Sciences awarded him an honorary degree.

Dick Scullion was an important part of Iowa County, and the State of Wisconsin. He held a special place in our State’s history. He will be dearly missed.

Tribute to the University of Hawaii Men’s Volleyball Team

Mr. Inouye. Mr. President, I am proud to rise and pay tribute to the University of Hawaii men’s volleyball team for winning the 2002 National Collegiate Athletic Association, NCAA, Championship this past weekend in Pennsylvania. The Warrior Volleyball squad made history by winning the first National Championship for any men’s athletes program at the University of Hawaii.

I salute all of the athletes and coaches of the NCAA Championship tournament. I commend them for their sacrifice and determination; they should all be proud of their achievements as student-athletes.

I also commend the people of Hawaii for their support of the University’s athletic programs. Indeed, they are the greatest volleyball fans in the nation.

The success of the men’s volleyball team is indicative of the depth of the community’s support, and the caliber of students, faculty, and staff at the University. As our nation’s public institution of higher learning in the Pacific, the University of Hawaii has many unique strengths and comparative advantages. It offers premiere science, math, business, art, social sciences, and, as it has now demonstrated irrefutably, athletic programs. The people of Hawaii should be proud of their University.

I applaud Head Coach Mike Wilton who, for the past decade, has worked tirelessly to successfully build and strengthen the men’s volleyball program, and I commend the members of his coaching staff for their commitment to preparing the athletes for success both on and off the court.

Finally, I extend my sincerest congratulations to the Warrior Volleyball players for capturing the national title. I am pleased to note that the team is comprised of young men from Hawaii, Arizona, California, Oregon, Louisiana, Puerto Rico, and Serbia. Despite their cultural differences and language barriers, they remained unified in their mission and goal. The team has proven that all things are possible through hard work.

I submit the team’s roster of players and coaches for the RECORD:

Tributes to the Retirement of Inspector Frederich A. Greenslstate

Mr. Levin. Mr. President, I ask that the Senate join me today in acknowledging the retirement of Inspector Frederich A Greenslstate of West Bloomfield, MI, who retired on April 27th of this year after serving in the Michigan State Police for 41 years. Mr. Greenslstate is one of the longest serving officers in departmental history and people will be gathering on May 17th to celebrate his distinguished career.

I cannot overstate the debt we owe our men and women in uniform for putting their lives on the line as guardians of our society. Every day they protect the people of our great Nation and keep our cities safe. Frederich Greenslstate has been part of this great tradition of service, dedication and honor.

Mr. Greenslstate joined the Michigan State Police in 1962. He earned an Associate’s Degree in Criminal Justice from Macom Community College. Originally posted as a Trooper at the Newaygo Post, he moved up the ranks and concluded his career as an Assistant District Commander for the 2nd District Headquarters. Over the years, he received four Meritorious Citations for service above the call of duty as well as an Unit Citation. He also assisted with several events of national and international significance including the visit of Pope John Paul II to Detroit, Super Bowl XVI, United States Cup Soccer, World Cup Soccer, The Detroit Grand Prix, and the National Governors’ Conference.

Despite the long hours and stressful atmosphere associated with being a police officer, Mr. Greenslstate has been devoted husband to his wife Susan and father of six children: Adam, Bethany, Douglas, Jason, Jeffrey, and Melanie. In addition, his children have blessed him with three grandchildren, Jack, Joe, and Connor. He is also a member of the South-East, Oakland County, Macomb County, Wayne County, and St. Clair County Police Chief’s Associations.

Our Nation’s public servants play a vital role in preserving the public good. However, few public servants do more to ensure our Nation’s peace and stability than our police officers. I know my Senate Colleagues will join me in thanking Mr. Greenslstate for his distinguished career as a Michigan State Trooper and wish him well in the years ahead.

Honoring the Girl Scouts of Rhode Island

Mr. Reed. Mr. President, I rise in recognition of the 90th Anniversary of Rhode Island.
the Girl Scouts of America. The Girl Scout tradition began on March 12, 1912, when founder Juliette Gordon Low assembled 18 girls in Savannah, GA for the first-ever Girl Scout meeting. Today, the organization offers girls of all races, ages, ethnicities, and economic backgrounds, an opportunity to take on challenges of leadership, service, patriotism, and family. I wish them all success in the future.

REPORT TO RESTORE NON-DISCRIMINATORY TRADE TREATMENT (NORMAL TRADE RELATIONS TREATMENT) TO THE PRODUCTS OF AFGHANISTAN—PM 83

Under the authority of the order of the Senate of January 3, 2001, the Secretary of the Senate, on May 3, 2002, during the recess of the Senate, received the following message from the President of the United States, together with an accompanying report, which was referred jointly, pursuant to the order of January 30, 1975, as modified by the order of April 11, 1986; to the Committee on Appropriations; the Budget; and Foreign Relations:

To the Congress of the United States:

In accordance with the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974, I herewith report two deferrals of budget authority, totaling $2 billion. The proposed deferrals affect the Department of State and International Assistance Programs.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

The following bills and joint resolutions were introduced, and referred as indicated:

By Mr. BIDEN (for himself, Mr. HELMS, Mr. KENNEDY, and Mr. FRIST):

S. 2497. A bill to provide for global pathogen surveillance and response; to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

By Mrs. BROWNBACK (for himself, Mr. MILLER, Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire, Mr. INHOFE, Mr. HELMS, Mr. SESSIONS, and Mr. ENZI):

S. 2498. A bill to establish a commission to conduct a comprehensive review of Federal agencies and programs and to recommend the elimination or realignment of duplicative, wasteful, or outdated functions, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

By Mrs. CLINTON (for herself, Ms. SNOWE, Ms. MIKULSKI, and Mr. BREAUX):

S. 2499. A bill to amend the Public Health Service Act to establish a program to assist family caregivers in accessing affordable high-quality respite care, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

S. 2501. A bill to establish a commission to provide a comprehensive review of Federal agencies and programs and to recommend the elimination of or realignment of duplicative, wasteful, or outdated functions, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

By Mr. INHOFE:

S. 2502. A bill to establish a program to assist family caregivers in accessing affordable high-quality respite care, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

S. 2503. A bill to establish a Commission to ensure the quality of, and access to, skilled nursing facility services under the Medicare program; to the Committee on Finance.

S. 2504. A bill to amend title XVIII of the Social Security Act to ensure the quality of, and access to, skilled nursing facility services under the Medicare program; to the Committee on Finance.

By Mr. INHOFE:

S. 2505. A bill to authorize the President to award a Gold Star Medal of Congress to the Choctaw and Comanche code talkers in recognition of the contributions provided by those individuals to the United States; to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

By Mr. CLELAND:

S. 2506. A bill to amend title V, United States Code, to authorize to provide a limited extension of the program under section 250(1) of that Act; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

S. 2507. A bill to authorize the use of the boundary of the Petrified Forest National Park in the State of Arizona, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

By Mr. DOMENICI (for himself, Mr. BIDEN, Mr. LOTT, Mr. DASCHLE, Mr. SHERLEY, Mr. REID, Mr. NICKLES, Mr. TORICELLI, Mr. BURNS, Mr. SCHUMER, Mr. GREGG, Mrs. CLINTON, Mr. DEWINE, Mr. MCCAIN, Mr. MCCONNELL, Mr. ALLARD, Mr. BROWNACK, Mr. CRAPAOU, Mrs. HUTCHISON, Mr. THOMPSON, Ms. COLLINS, Mr. BURR, Mr. ALLEN, Mr. HAGEL, Mr. VONÖVICH, Mr. STEVENS, Mr. WARNER, Mr. SPERBER, Mr. SMITH of Oregon, Mr. Bunning, Mr. Gruenert of New Hampshire, and Mr. INOUIE):

S. 2508. A bill to designate the United States courthouse located at 100 Federal Plaza in the Central District as the "Alfonse M. D’Amato United States Courthouse"; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

By Mrs. CLINTON (for herself, Mr. SCHUMER, and Mr. LIEBERMAN):

S. 2509. A bill to establish, for the establishment of investigative teams to assess building performance and emergency response and evacuation procedures in the wake of any building failure that has resulted in substantial loss of life or that posed significant potential of substantial loss of life, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

By Mr. RJAUSCH (for himself and Mr. GRASSLEY):

S. 2510. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to require adequate disclosure of transactions with potential for tax avoidance or evasion, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

By Mr. KENNEDY (for himself and Mr. GLENN):

S. 2511. A bill to amend the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act to establish labeling requirements regarding allergenic substances in food, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

By Mr. SCHUMER (for himself and Mrs. CLINTON):

S. 2512. A bill to authorize the use of certain funds to compensate New York City first responders for all designation-related expenses (including expenses relating to the provision of mental health and trauma counseling and other appropriate support services) resulting from the terrorist attack on that city on September 11, 2001; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

By Mr. ALLARD (for himself, Mr. SESSIONS, and Mrs. HUTCHISON):

S. 2513. A bill to establish requirements arising from the delay or restriction on the shipment of precious metal materials to the Savannah River Site, Aiken, South Carolina; to the Committee on Armed Services.

By Mr. GRASSLEY:

S. 2514. A bill to authorize the provision of health care in all areas of the United States; to the Committee on Finance.

SUBMISSION OF CONCURRENT AND SENATE RESOLUTIONS

The following concurrent resolutions and Senate resolutions were read, and referred (or acted upon), as indicated:

By Mr. CHAFEE (for himself and Mr. FENGOLD):

S. Con. Res. 109. A concurrent resolution commemorating the independence of East Timor, expressing the sense of Congress that the President should establish diplomatic relations with East Timor, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

ADDITIONAL COSPONSORS

S. 77
At the request of Mr. DASCHLE, the name of the Senator from North Carolina (Mr. EDWARDS) was added as a cosponsor of S. 77, a bill to amend the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 to provide more effective remedies to victims of discrimination in the payment of wages on the basis of sex, and for other purposes.

S. 264
At the request of Ms. SNOWE, the name of the Senator from Washington (Ms. CANTWELL) was added as a cosponsor of S. 264, a bill to amend title XVIII of the Social Security Act to expand coverage of bone mass measurements under part B of the medicare program to all individuals at clinical risk for osteoporosis.

At the request of Ms. COLLINS, the name of the Senator from Washington (Ms. CANTWELL) was added as a cosponsor of S. 264, a bill to amend title XVIII of the Social Security Act to eliminate the 15 percent reduction in payment rates under the prospective payment system for home health services and to permanently increase payments for such services that are furnished in rural areas.

S. 454
At the request of Mr. BINGAMAN, the name of the Senator from South Dakota (Mr. JOHNSON) was added as a cosponsor of S. 454, a bill to provide permanent funding for the Bureau of Land Management Payment in Lieu of Taxes program and for other purposes.

S. 603
At the request of Mr. LIEBERMAN, the name of the Senator from Vermont (Mr. BAYH) was added as a cosponsor of S. 603, a bill to provide for full voting representation in the Congress for the citizens of the District of Columbia to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to provide that individuals who are residents of the District of Columbia shall be exempt from Federal income taxation until such full voting representation takes effect, and for other purposes.

S. 839
At the request of Mr. CHAFFEE, the name of the Senator from Iowa (Mr. GRASSLEY) was added as a cosponsor of S. 830, a bill to amend the Public Health Service Act to authorize the Director of the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences to make grants for the development and operation of research centers regarding environmental factors that may be related to the etiology of breast cancer.

S. 969
At the request of Mr. DODD, the name of the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. KENNEDY) was added as a cosponsor of S. 969, a bill to establish a Tick-Borne Disorders Advisory Committee, and for other purposes.

At the request of Mr. BINGAMAN, the name of the Senator from Idaho (Mr. CRAPU) was added as a cosponsor of S. 999, a bill to amend title 10, United States Code, to provide for a Korea Defense Service Medal to be issued to members of the Armed Forces who participated in operations in Korea after the end of the Korean War.

S. 1192
At the request of Mr. DURBIN, the name of the Senator from Georgia (Mr. CLELAND) was added as a cosponsor of S. 1192, a bill to require that the business of the Federal Government is conducted in the public interest and in a manner that provides for public accountability, efficient delivery of services, reasonable cost savings, and protection of the rights of employees.

S. 1370
At the request of Mr. MCCONNELL, the name of the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. BURNING) was added as a cosponsor of S. 1370, a bill to reform the health care liability system.

S. 1711

S. 1793
At the request of Mr. BAYH, the name of the Senator from South Dakota (Mr. JOHNSON) was added as a cosponsor of S. 1792, a bill to further facilitate service for the United States, and for other purposes.

S. 1864
At the request of Mr. BIDEN, his name was added as a cosponsor of S. 1864, a bill to amend the Public Health Service Act to establish a Nurse Corps and recruitment and retention strategies to address the nursing shortage, and for other purposes.

S. 1992
At the request of Mr. KENNEDY, the name of the Senator from West Virginia (Mr. ROCKEFELLER) was added as a cosponsor of S. 1992, a bill to amend the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 to improve diversification of plan assets for participants in individual account plans, to improve disclosure, account access, and accountability under individual account plans, and for other purposes.

S. 2079
At the request of Mr. BINGAMAN, the names of the Senator from South Dakota (Mr. DASCHLE) and the Senator from New York (Mrs. CLINTON) were added as cosponsors of S. 2079, a bill to amend title XXI of the Social Security Act to eliminate the 5-year limit on assistance under the temporary assistance to needy families program, and for other purposes.

S. 2117
At the request of Mr. DODD, the name of the Senator from Iowa (Mr. HARKIN) was added as a cosponsor of S. 2117, a bill to amend the Child Care and Development Block Grant Act of 1990 to reauthorize the Act, and for other purposes.

S. 2209
At the request of Mr. BAUCUS, the name of the Senator from Virginia (Mr. ALLEN) was added as a cosponsor of S. 2200, a bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to clarify that the parsonage allowance exclusion is limited to the fair rental value of the property.

S. 2219
At the request of Mr. BIDEN, the name of the Senator from Connecticut (Mr. LIEBERMAN) was added as a cosponsor of S. 2210, a bill to amend the International Financial Institutions Act to provide for modification of the Enhanced Heavyly Indebted Poor Countries (HIPIC) Initiative.

S. 2221
At the request of Mr. ROCKEFELLER, the name of the Senator from California (Mrs. FEINSTEIN) was added as a cosponsor of S. 2221, a bill to temporarily increase the Federal medical assistance percentage for the medicaid program.

S. 2246
At the request of Mr. DODD, the name of the Senator from Louisiana (Ms. LANDRIEU) was added as a cosponsor of S. 2246, a bill to improve access to printed instructional materials used by blind or other persons with print disabilities in elementary and secondary schools, and for other purposes.

S. 2228
At the request of Mr. HARKIN, the names of the Senator from North Carolina (Mr. EDWARDS) and the Senator from Washington (Mrs. MURRAY) were added as cosponsors of S. 2228, a bill to amend the Public Health Service Act and the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act to ensure a safe pregnancy for all women in the United States, to reduce the rate of maternal morbidity and mortality, to eliminate racial and ethnic disparities in maternal health outcomes, to reduce pre-term, labor, to examine the impact of pregnancy on the short and long term health of women, to expand knowledge about the safety and dosage of drugs to treat pregnant women with chronic conditions and women who become sick during pregnancy, to expand public health prevention, education and outreach, and to develop improved and more accurate surveillance related to maternal morbidity and mortality.

S. 2458

At the request of Mr. Hollings, the names of the Senator from Georgia (Mr. Cleland) and the Senator from Montana (Mr. Burns) were added as co-sponsors of S. 2458, a bill to improve nationwide access to broadband services.

S. 2459

At the request of Mrs. Hutchison, the name of the Senator from Vermont (Mr. Leahy) was added as a co-sponsor of S. 2459, as bill to enhance United States diplomacy, and for other purposes.

S. 2461

At the request of Mr. Feingold, the name of the Senator from Wisconsin (Mr. Kohl) was added as a co-sponsor of S. 2461, to authorize the Crusader artillery system program of the Army, and for other purposes.

S. 2484

At the request of Mr. Baucus, the name of the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. Bingaman) was added as a co-sponsor of S. 2484, a bill to enhance United States diplomacy, and for other purposes.

S. RES. 253

At the request of Mr. Smith of Oregon, the name of the Senator from Wisconsin (Mr. Kohl) was added as a co-sponsor of S. Res. 253, a resolution reiterating the sense of the Senate regarding Anti-Semitism and religious tolerance in Europe.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. Biden (for himself, Mr. Kennedy, and Mr. Frist):

S. 2487. A bill to provide for global pathogen surveillance and response; to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, Senator Helms and I are proud to introduce today the Global Pathogen Surveillance Act of 2002. Senator Helms is recovering from his heart surgery and is unable to be here today, but let me note our joint efforts in recognizing the importance of disease surveillance and preparing this bill for introduction. In recent years, we have joined forces on a number of sensible foreign policy initiatives and I am proud that we are doing so once again. I am also especially pleased that Senators Kennedy and Frist, the chairman and ranking member of the Public Health Subcommittee of the Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee, have also agreed to be original cosponsors of this legislation.

This bill authorizes $150 million over the next 2 years to provide assistance to developing nations to improve global disease surveillance to help prevent and control both bioterrorism attacks and naturally occurring infectious disease outbreaks around the world. As the ranking member and chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, respectively, Senator Helms and I recognize all too well that biological weapons are a global threat with no respect for borders. A terrorist group could launch a biological weapons attack in Mexico in the expectation that the epidemic would quickly spread to the United States. A rogue state might release disease strains in another country, intending later to release them here. A biological weapons threat need not begin in the United States to reach our shores.

For that reason, our response to the biological weapons threat cannot be limited to the United States alone. Global disease surveillance, a systematic approach to tracking disease outbreaks as they occur and evolve around the world, is essential to any real international response.

This country is making enormous advances on the domestic front in bioterrorism defense. $3 billion has been appropriated for this purpose in FY 2002, including $1.1 billion to improve State and local public health infrastructure. Delaware’s share will include $6.7 million from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to improve the public health infrastructure and $548,000 to improve hospital readiness in my State.

The House and Senate are currently in conference to reconcile competing versions of a comprehensive bioterrorism bill drafted last fall following the anthrax attacks via the U.S. postal system. Those attacks, which killed five individuals and infected more than twenty people, highlighted our domestic vulnerabilities to a biological weapons attack. We need to further strengthen our public health system, improve Federal public health laboratories, and fund the necessary research and procurement for vaccines and treatments to respond better to future bioterrorist attacks. As an original co-sponsor of the Senate bill, I know the final package taking shape in conference will achieve those goals and I look forward to its enactment into law.

Nevertheless, any effective response to the challenge of biological weapons must also have an international component. Limiting our response to U.S. territory would be shortsighted and doomed to failure. A dangerous pathogen released on another continent can quickly spread to the United States in a matter of days, if not hours. This is the dark side of globalization. International trade, travel, and migration patterns offer unlimited opportunities for pathogens to spread across national borders and to move from one continent to another. Moreover, an overseas epidemic could give us our first warning of a new disease strain that was developed by a country or by terrorists for use as a biological weapon, or that could be used by others for that purpose.

We should make no mistake: in today’s world, all infectious diseases, wherever they occur, and whether they are deliberately engineered or are naturally occurring, are a potential threat to all nations, including the United States.

How does disease surveillance fit into all of this? A biological weapons attack succeeds partly through the element of surprise. As Dr. Alan P. Zelieoff of the Sandia National Laboratory testified before the Foreign Relations Committee, March 19, even if a biological weapons attack can prevent illness and death in all but a small fraction of those infected. A cluster of flu-like symptoms in a city or region may be dismissed by individual physicians as just the flu. In fact it may be anthrax, plague, or another biological weapon. Armed with the knowledge, however, that a biological weapons attack has in fact occurred, doctors and nurses can examine their patients in a different light and, in many cases, effectively treat infected individuals.

Disease surveillance, a comprehensive reporting system to quickly identify and communicate abnormal patterns of symptoms and illnesses, can quickly alert doctors across a region that a suspicious disease breakout has occurred. Epidemiological specialists can then investigate and combat the outbreak. And if it is indeed a disease or strain, we can begin to develop treatments that much earlier.

A good surveillance system requires trained epidemiological personnel, adequate laboratory tools for quick diagnosis, and communications equipment to circulate information. Even in the United States today, many States and localities rely on old-fashioned pencil and paper methods of tracking disease patterns. Thankfully, we are addressing those domestic deficiencies through the bioterrorism bill in conference.

For example, in Delaware, we are developing the first, comprehensive, state-of-the-art electronic reporting system for infectious diseases. This system will be used as a prototype for other states, and will enable much earlier detection of infectious disease outbreaks, both natural and bioterrorist. I and my congressional colleagues in the delegations take the time to get this project up and running, and we were successful in obtaining $2.6 million in funding for this project over the past 2 years. I and my colleagues have requested $1.4 million for additional funding in FY 2003, and we are extremely optimistic that this funding will be forthcoming.

It is vitally important that we extend the reach of the Global Alert and Response Network to developing countries—where it is desperately needed. Inasmuch as the WHO is inherently limited in that its operations are not sufficient to link up effectively with individual nations, we need to strengthen greatly our international surveillance and on scientist-to-scientist communication will be necessary if we are to have an early warning and production of biological weapons by rogue nations or groups.

Dr. Henderson is exactly right. We cannot leave the rest of the world to fend for itself in combating biological weapons and infectious diseases. If we are to ensure America’s security, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the Global Pathogen Surveillance Act of 2002 be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

S. 2487

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Global Pathogen Surveillance Act of 2002”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS; PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Bioterrorism poses a grave national security threat to the United States. The insidious nature of the threat, the likely delayed recognition in the event of an attack, and the underpreparedness of the domestic public health infrastructure may produce catastrophic consequences following a biological weapons attack upon the United States.

(2) A contagious pathogen engineered as a biological weapon and released in another country can quickly spread to the United States or international organizations investigate any suspicious disease outbreaks.

(3) The capabilities of the World Health Organization are inherently limited in that its operations are not sufficient to link up effectively with individual nations. We need to strengthen greatly our international surveillance and on scientist-to-scientist communication will be necessary if we are to have an early warning and production of biological weapons by rogue nations or groups.

(4) The United States should enhance cooperation with the World Health Organization, regional health organizations, and individual countries to strengthen the domestic public health infrastructure and improve domestic surveillance and monitoring, while absolutely essential, are not sufficient.

(5) The World Health Organization has done an impressive job in monitoring infectious disease outbreaks around the world, particularly with the establishment in April 2000 of the Global Outbreak Alert and Response Network.

(6) The capabilities of the World Health Organization are inherently limited in that its disease surveillance and monitoring is only as good as the data and information the World Health Organization receives from member countries and are further limited by the nature of diseases (plagues, cholera, and yellow fever) upon which its disease surveillance and monitoring is based, and the consensus process used by the World Health Organization to add new diseases to the list. Developing countries in particular often cannot devote the necessary resources to build and maintain public health infrastructures.

(7) In particular, developing countries could benefit from—

(A) better trained public health professionals and epidemiologists to recognize disease patterns;

(B) appropriate laboratory equipment for diagnosis of pathogens;

(C) disease reporting that is based on symptoms and signs (known as “syndrome surveillance”) enabling the earliest possible opportunity to conduct an effective response;

(D) a narrowing of the existing technology gap in syndrome surveillance capabilities, based on reported symptoms, and real-time information dissemination to public health officials; and

(E) appropriate communications equipment and information technology to efficiently transmit information and data with appropriate computer communications equipment and information technology, including appropriate computer equipment and Internet connectivity mechanisms, to facilitate the exchange of Geographic Information System-based syndrome surveillance information and to effectively gather, analyze, and transmit public health information for infectious disease surveillance and diagnosis.

(8) An effective international capability to monitor and quickly diagnose infectious disease outbreaks will offer dividends not only in the event of biological weapons development, testing, production, and attack, but also in the more likely cases of naturally occurring infectious disease outbreaks that could threaten the United States. Furthermore, a robust surveillance system will serve to deter terrorist use of biological weapons, as early detection will help mitigate the intended effects of such malevolent uses.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purposes of this Act are as follows:

(1) To enhance the capability of the international community, through the World Health Organization and individual countries, to detect, identify, and contain infectious disease outbreaks, whether the cause of those outbreaks is intentional human action or natural in origin.

(2) To enhance the training of public health professionals and epidemiologists from eligible developing countries in advanced Internet-based syndrome surveillance systems; to further enhance traditional epidemiology methods, so that they may better detect, diagnose, and contain infectious disease outbreaks, especially those due to pathogens most likely to be used in a biological weapons attack.

(3) To provide assistance to developing countries to purchase appropriate public health equipment and Internet connectivity mechanisms, including appropriate computer equipment and Internet connectivity mechanisms, to facilitate the exchange of Geographic Information Systems-based syndrome surveillance information and to effectively gather, analyze, and transmit public health information for infectious disease surveillance and diagnosis.

(5) To make available greater numbers of United States Government public health professionals to international health organizations, other networks, and United States diplomatic missions where appropriate.

(6) To establish “lab-to-lab” cooperative relationships between United States public health laboratories and established foreign counterparts.

(7) To expand the training and outreach activities of overseas United States laboratories, including Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and Department of Defense entities, to enhance public health capabilities of developing countries.

(8) To provide appropriate technical assistance to existing regional health networks and, where appropriate, seed money for new regional networks.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) ELIGIBLE DEVELOPING COUNTRY.—The term “eligible developing country” means any developing country that—

(A) has agreed to the objective of fully complying with requirements of the World Health Organization on reporting public health information on outbreaks of infectious diseases;

(B) has not been determined by the Secretary, for purposes of section 40 of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2780), section 629A of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2371b), or the Export Administration Act of 1979 (50 U.S.C. App. 2406), to have repeatedly provided support for acts of international terrorism, unless the Secretary determines that it is in the national interest of the United States to provide assistance under the provisions of this Act; and

(C) is a state party to the Biological Weapons Convention.

(2) ELIGIBLE NATIONAL.—The term “eligible national” means any citizen or national of an eligible developing country who does not have a criminal background, who is not on any immigration or other United States watch list, and who is not affiliated with any foreign terrorist organization.

(3) INTERNATIONAL HEALTH ORGANIZATION.—The term “international health organization” includes the World Health Organization and the Pan American Health Organization.

(4) LABORATORY.—The term “laboratory” means a facility for the biological, microbiological, parasitological, and other examination of specimens to determine the cause of disease or impairment of health; and the term “laboratory” does not include any facility used to perform any examination or test for the purpose of providing instructions or information for the diagnosis, treatment, or management of disease or injury of a patient.

(5) SECRETARY.—(A) The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of Health and Human Services.

(B) In this section, the term “Secretary” includes the Secretary’s designee.

(6) SELECT AGENT.—The term “select agent” has the meaning given such term for purposes of section 72.6 of title 42, Code of Federal Regulations.

(7) SYNDROME SURVEILLANCE.—The term “syndrome surveillance” means the recording of symptoms (patient complaints) and signs (derived from physical examination) combined with simple geographic locators to track the emergence of a disease in a population.

SEC. 4. PRIORITY FOR CERTAIN COUNTRIES.

Priority in the provision of United States assistance for eligible developing countries under all the provisions of this Act shall be given to those countries that permit personnel from the World Health Organization and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to investigate outbreaks of infectious diseases on their territories.

SEC. 5. RESTRICTION.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, no foreign nationals participating in programs authorized under this Act shall have access, during the course of such participation, to select agents that may be used as, or in, a biological weapon, except in a supervised and controlled setting.

SEC. 6. FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is established a fellowship program (in this section referred to as the “program”) under which the Secretary, in consultation with the Secretary of Health and Human Services, may provide assistance to an eligible developing country to enhance the public health capacity of the Ministry of Health, or its successor, of that country to the extent that such assistance is consistent with the availability of appropriations, award fellowships to eligible nationals of developing countries to pursue public health education or training, as follows:

(1) MASTER OF PUBLIC HEALTH DEGREE.—Graduate courses of study leading to a master of public health degree with a concentration in epidemiology for public health professionals from eligible developing countries to be carried out at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention or equivalent State facility, or other Federal facility (excluding any institution of the Department of Defense or United States National Laboratories), for a period of not less than 6 months or more than 12 months.

(2) ADVANCED PUBLIC HEALTH EPIDEMIOLOGY TRAINING.—Advanced public health training in epidemiology for public health professionals from eligible developing countries to be carried out at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention or equivalent State facility, or other Federal facility (excluding any institution of the Department of Defense or United States National Laboratories), for a period of not less than 6 months or more than 12 months.

(3) INTERNATIONAL HEALTH ORGANIZATION TRAINING.—In addition to the education or training specified in subsection (a), each recipient of a fellowship under this section (in this section referred to as a “fellow”) may take courses of study at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention or at an equivalent facility on diagnosis and containment of likely bioterrorism agents.

(b) FELLOWSHIP AGREEMENT.—(1) IN GENERAL.—In awarding a fellowship under the program, the Secretary, in consultation with the Secretary of Health and Human Services, shall require the recipient to enter into an agreement under which, in exchange for such assistance, the recipient—

(A) will maintain satisfactory academic progress (as determined in accordance with regulations published by the Secretary and confirmed in regularly scheduled updates to the fellowship program) and provide the education or training on the progression of the fellow’s education or training; and

(B) will, upon completion of such education or training, return to the country of nationality or last habitual residence (so long as it is an eligible developing country) and complete at least four years of employment with the public health or governmental or nongovernmental, not-for-profit entity in that country or, with the approval of the Secretary and the government concerned, in an international health organization; and

(C) agrees that, if the recipient is unable to meet the requirements described in subparagraph (A) or (B), the recipient shall reimburse the United States for the value of the assistance provided to the recipient under the fellowship, together with interest at a rate determined in accordance with regulations issued by the Secretary but not higher than the rate generally applied in connection with other Federal loans.

(2) WAIVERS.—(A) The Secretary may waive the requirements of paragraph (1)(B) and (1)(C) if the Secretary determines that it is in the national interest of the United States to do so.

(b) IMPLEMENTATION.—(1) GRANTS.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Secretary of Health and Human Services, is authorized to enter into agreements with eligible organizations to carry out programs to improve the capacity of eligible developing countries to meet the requirements of this section.

(2) CONTRACTS.—The Secretary may enter into contracts with foreign countries, international organizations, educational institutions, and other eligible entities to carry out programs to improve the capacity of eligible developing countries to meet the requirements of this section.
(1) to establish a procedure for the nomination of eligible nationals for fellowships under this section;

(2) to guarantee that a fellow will be offered at least minimum compensation in relation to employment in a public health position required by the fellowship agreement, with an explanation of how the requirement was met.

(e) PROCUREMENT PREFERENCES.—In the use of grant funds authorized under subsection (a), preference should be given to the purchase of United States manufactured equipment. The use of amounts appropriated to carry out this section shall be subject to special conditions under the Export Administration Act of 1979 (or successor statutes).

(f) ASSISTANCE FOR STANDARDIZATION OF REPORTING.—The President is authorized to provide, on such terms and conditions as the President may determine, technical assistance and grant assistance to national health organizations (including regional international health organizations) to facilitate standardization in the reporting of public health information between countries among developing countries and international health organizations.

(g) HOST COUNTRY’S COMMITMENTS.—The assistance provided under this section shall be contingent upon the host country’s commitment to provide the resources, infrastructures, and other assets required to house, support, maintain, secure, and maximize the use of this equipment and appropriate technical personnel.

SEC. 10. ASSIGNMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH PERSONNEL TO UNITED STATES MEDI TATIONS AND INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS. (a) IN GENERAL.—Upon the request of a United States chief of diplomatic mission or an international health organization, and after consultation with the Secretary of State, the head of a Federal agency may assign personnel to the respective United States mission or representative or embassy of the agency occupying a public health position within the agency for the purpose of enhancing disease and pathogen surveillance efforts in developing countries.

(b) REIMBURSEMENT.—The costs incurred by a Federal agency by reason of the detail of personnel under subsection (a) may be reimbur sed from the applicable appropriations account of the Department of State if the Secretary determines that the relevant agency may otherwise be unable to assign such personnel on a non-reimbursable basis.

SEC. 11. LABORATORY-TO-LABORATORY EXCHANGES TO STRENGTHEN PUBLIC HEALTH SYSTEMS, AND TO IMPROVE COMMUNICATIONS (AND INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY) EQUIPMENT OF UNITED STATES MANUFACTURE. (a) AUTHORITY.—The head of a Federal agency, with the concurrence of the Secretary, is authorized to provide by grant, contract, or otherwise for educational exchanges by financing educational activities—

(1) of United States public health personnel to international public health or research laboratories in eligible developing countries;

(2) of public health personnel of eligible developing countries to United States public health and research laboratories.

(b) APPROVED PUBLIC HEALTH LABORATORIES DEFINED.—In this section, the term ‘‘approved public health laboratories’’ means non-United States Government affiliated public health laboratories that the Secretary determines are well-established and have a demonstrated record of excellence.

SEC. 12. EXPANSION OF CERTAIN UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT LABORATORIES ABROAD. (a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the availability of appropriations, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Department of Defense shall—

(1) increase the number of personnel associated with joint Asian health surveillance centers or the Department, as appropriate, located in eligible developing countries that conduct research and other activities with respect to infectious diseases; and

(2) expand the operations of those laboratories, especially with respect to the implementation of on-site training of foreign nationals and activities affecting neighboring countries.

(b) COOPERATION AND COORDINATION BETWEEN LABORATORIES.—Subsection (a) shall be carried out in such a manner as to foster cooperation and avoid duplication between and among laboratories.
c) Relation to Core Missions and Security.—The expansion of the operations of overseas laboratories of the Centers or the Department under this section shall not—

(1) delay or compromise the establishment of core missions of the laboratories; or

(2) compromise the security of those laboratories, as well as their research, equipment, material, or information.

SEC. 13. SUPPORT FOR REGIONAL HEALTH NETWORKS AND EXPANSION OF FOREIGN EPIDEMIOLOGY TRAINING PROGRAMS.

(a) AUTHORITY.—The President is authorized to establish new country or regional Foreign Epidemiology Training Programs in eligible developing countries.

(b) EXPANSION OF FOREIGN EPIDEMIOLOGY TRAINING PROGRAMS.—The Secretary of Health and Human Services is authorized to establish new country or regional Foreign Epidemiology Training Programs in eligible developing countries.

SEC. 14. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

(a) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—

(1) Subject to subsection (c), there are authorized to be appropriated $70,000,000 for the fiscal year 2003 and $80,000,000 for fiscal year 2004, to carry out this Act.

(2) ALLOCATION OF FUNDS.—Of the amounts made available under paragraph (1)—

(A) $50,000,000 for the fiscal year 2003 and $50,000,000 for the fiscal year 2004 are authorized to be available to carry out sections 6, 7, 8, and 9;

(B) not more than $2,000,000 shall be available for the fiscal years 2003 and 2004 for the specific training programs authorized in section 6, of which not more than $500,000 shall be available to carry out subsection (a)(1) of such section and not more than $1,500,000 shall be available to carry out subsection (a)(2) of such section;

(C) $5,000,000 for the fiscal year 2003 and $5,000,000 for the fiscal year 2004 are authorized to be available to carry out section 10;

(D) $2,000,000 for the fiscal year 2003 and $2,000,000 for the fiscal year 2004 are authorized to be available to carry out section 11;

(E) $8,000,000 for the fiscal year 2003 and $18,000,000 for the fiscal year 2004 are authorized to be available to carry out section 12; and

(F) $5,000,000 for the fiscal year 2003 and $5,000,000 for the fiscal year 2004 are authorized to be available to carry out section 13.

(b) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.—The amount appropriated pursuant to subsection (a) is authorized to remain available until expended.

(c) REPORTING REQUIREMENT.—

(1) REPORT.—Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit a report, in conjunction with the Secretary of Health and Human Services and the Secretary of Defense, containing—

(A) a description of the implementation of programs under this Act; and

(B) an estimate of the level of funding required to carry out those programs at a sufficient level.

(d) LIMITATION ON OBLIGATION OF FUNDS.—Not more than 10 percent of the amount appropriated pursuant to subsection (a) may be obligated before the date on which a report is submitted to be submitted, whichever first occurs, under paragraph (1).

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I rise to join with my colleagues Senators BIDEN, HELMS, and KENNEDY in introducing the Global Pathogen Surveillance Act of 2002. This bipartisan legislation will help ensure that we are better prepared globally to deal with biological threats and attacks.

The Global Pathogen Surveillance Act of 2002 authorizes enhanced bilateral and multilateral activities to improve the capacity of the United States and our partners in the international community to detect and contain infectious diseases and biological weapons. The Global Pathogen Surveillance Act will enhance the training, upgrade equipment and communications systems, and provide additional American expertise and assistance in international surveillance.

To better prepare our nation to meet the growing threat of bioterrorism, we must put in place and maintain a comprehensive framework including prevention, preparedness and consequence management. To accomplish this goal, we not only need to strengthen our local public health infrastructure domestically, but to work with our friends and neighbors in the global community to prevent, detect, and appropriately contain and respond to bioterrorist activities outside our borders.

This is truly a global responsibility. Infectious diseases, such as smallpox, do not respect borders. If we can prevent their spread in other countries around the world, we can better protect our citizens here at home.

I applaud Senators HELMS and BIDEN for their leadership in this area. I look forward to working with them, and all of my colleagues to ensure that we provide appropriate authorities and funding to improve our international efforts to detect and contain infectious diseases and offensive biological threats.

By Mrs. CLINTON (for herself, Mrs. MIKULSKI, and Mr. BREAUX).

S. 2489. A bill to amend the Public Health Service Act to establish a program to assist family caregivers in accessing affordable and high-quality respite care, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2489

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Lifespan Respite Care Act of 2002”.

SEC. 2. LIFESPAN RESPITE CARE.

The Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 201 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"TITLE XXVIII—LIFESPAN RESPITE CARE

SEC. 2801. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) an estimated 26,000,000 individuals in the United States care each year for one or more adult family members or friends who are chronically ill, disabled, or terminally ill;

(2) an estimated 18,000,000 children in the United States have chronic physical, developmental, behavioral, or emotional conditions that demand special, additional, or increased supervision, management, supervision, or treatment beyond that required of children generally;

(3) approximately 6,000,000 children in the United States live with a grandparent or other relative because their parents are unable or unwilling to care for them;

(4) an estimated 165,000 children with disabilities in the United States live with a foster care parent;

(5) nearly 4,000,000 individuals in the United States of all ages who have mental retardation or another developmental disability live with their families;

(6) almost 23 percent of the Nation’s elders experience multiple chronic disabling conditions that make it necessary to rely on others for help in meeting their daily needs;

(7) every year, approximately 600,000 Americans die at home and many of these individuals rely on extensive family caregiving before their death;

(8) of all individuals in the United States needing assistance in daily living, 42 percent under age 65;

(9) there are insufficient resources to replace family caregivers with paid workers;

(10) if services provided by family caregivers had to be replaced with paid services, it would cost approximately $200,000,000,000 annually;

(11) the family caregiver role is personally rewarding but can result in substantial emotional, physical, and financial hardship;

(12) approximately 75 percent of family caregivers are women; and

(13) family caregivers often do not know where to find information about available respite care or how to access it;

(14) available respite care programs are insufficient to meet the need and are directed at primarily lower income populations and family caregivers of the elderly, leaving large numbers of family caregivers without adequate support; and

(15) the limited number of available respite care programs find it difficult to recruit appropriately trained respite workers.

(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this title are—

(1) to encourage States to establish State and local lifespan respite care programs;

(2) to improve and coordinate the dissemination of respite care information and resources to family caregivers;

(3) to provide, supplement, or improve respite care services to family caregivers;

(4) to promote innovative, flexible, and comprehensive approaches to—

(A) the delivery of respite care;

(B) respite care worker and volunteer recruitment and training programs; and

(C) training programs for family caregivers to assist such family caregivers in making informed decisions about respite care services;

(5) to support evaluative research to identify effective respite care services that are leveraged, reduce, or minimize any negative consequences of caregiving; and

(6) to promote the dissemination of results, findings, and information from programs and research projects relating to respite care delivery, family caregiver strain, respite care worker and volunteer recruitment and training, and training programs for family caregivers in making informed decisions about respite care services.
SEC. 2802. DEFINITIONS.

"In this title:

"(ii) the geographic nature of the respite care needs of the population;

"(iii) existing respite care services for the population, including numbers of family caregivers being served and extent of unmet need;

"(iv) existing methods or systems to coordinate respite and other services to the population at the State and local level and extent of unmet need;

"(v) how respite care information dissemination and coordination, respite care services, respite care worker and volunteer recruitment and training programs, or training programs for family caregivers that assist such family caregivers in making informed decisions about respite care services will be provided using grant or cooperative agreement funds;

"(vi) a plan for collaboration and coordination of the proposed respite care activities with other related services or programs offered by public or private, nonprofit entities, including area agencies on aging; and

"(vii) how the population, including family caregivers, care recipients, and relevant public or private agencies, will participate in the planning and implementation of the proposed respite care activities;

"(viii) how the proposed respite care activities will make use, to the maximum extent feasible, Federal, State, and local funds, programs, contributions, other forms of reimbursements, personnel, and facilities;

"(ix) respite care services available to family caregivers in the applicant's State or locality, including unmet needs and how the applicant's plan for use of funds will improve the coordination and distribution of respite care services for family caregivers of individuals of all ages with special needs;

"(x) the criteria used to identify family caregivers eligible for services;

"(xi) how the quality and safety of any respite care services provided will be monitored, including methods to ensure that respite care providers are appropriately screened and possess the necessary skills to care for the needs of the care recipi-
By Mr. SMITH of Oregon. Mr. President, today I rise to introduce a bill to honor a group of men who bravely served this country. I am proud to recognize the Chocow and Comanche Code Talkers who joined the United States Armed Forces on foreign soil in the fight for freedom in two world wars.

During World War I, the Germans began tapping American lines, creating the need to provide secure communications. Despite the fact that American Indians were not citizens, 18 members of the Chocow Nation enlisted to become the first American Indian soldiers to use their native language to transmit messages between the Allied forces.

At least one Chocow man was placed in each field company headquarters. He would translate radio messages into the Chocow language and then write field orders to be carried by messengers between different companies on the battle line. Fortunately, because Chocow was an unwritten language only understood by those who spoke it, the Germans were never able to break the code.

Similarly, the Comanche Code Talkers played an important role during World War II. Once again, the enemy began tapping American lines. In order to establish the secure transmission of messages, the United States enlisted fourteen Comanche Code Talkers who served overseas in the 8th Signal Company of the 4th Infantry Division. They were: Charles Chibitty, Haddon Codynah, Robert Holder, Forrest Kassanavoid, Wellington Mihecoby, Albert Nahquaddy, Jr., Clifford Otottie, Simmons Parker, Melvin Pemansu, Elgin Red Elk, Roderick Red Elk, Larry Saupitty, Morris Tabbreytchey, and William Wilson.

The Army chose the Comanches because their language was thought to be the least known to the Germans. Section and Lieutenant Hugh Foster worked with them to develop their own unique code for military words. He gave the Indians a list of military words and then worked with them to develop a Comanche word or phrase for those words.

On June 6, 1944, just after landing in Normandy, a Comanche trained by Lt. Foster and serving as a driver and radio operator under Brigadier General Theodore Roosevelt, Jr, sent one of the first messages from Utah Beach. These communications efforts, by the Comanches, helped the Allies win the war in Europe.

It is time Congress officially recognizes these men. My bill directs the Secretary of the Treasury to award the Chocow and Comanche Code Talkers a gold medal as a result of their great commitment and service on behalf of the United States during World Wars I and II. I welcome my colleagues to join me in saluting this group of heroes for contributing to the fight for freedom for our country and around the world.

By Mr. CLELAND. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce legislation, the Federal Agency Protection of Privacy Act, that will require agencies to carefully consider the impact of proposed regulations on individual privacy. In the aftermath of the terrorist attacks of September 11, we are being forced to fight a new kind of war; a war in which we have not only physical battlefields, but battlefields of principle.

Not only must we have troops on the ground protecting our physical well-being, but we must also insure that we preserve our civil liberties. Ours is a country based on individual rights—rights to pursue life, liberty, and happiness, as Thomas Jefferson mentioned in the manner in which each of us sees fit.

While we are obligated, as a Government, to protect the physical safety of the American people, we also are obligated to remember our history, our struggles, and the principles for which we fought and continue to fight. While we enhance and strengthen our investigatory tools and physical arsenal, we cannot allow the terrorists to prevail in undermining our civil liberties.

Therefore, today, I am introducing the Federal Agency Protection of Privacy Act in the Senate as companion legislation to H.R. 4561, which was introduced by Representative BOB BARR, a long-time champion of civil liberties in the U.S. Congress. It will impose a mandate that when Federal agencies are required to publish a general notice of proposed rulemaking, they must publish an accompanying “privacy impact statement.” This initial privacy

(E) The length of time since the rule was last reviewed under this subsection.

(F) The degree to which technology, economic conditions, or other factors have changed in a manner that would affect the rule since the rule was last reviewed under this subsection.

(2) PLAN REQUIRED.—Each agency shall carry out the periodic review required by paragraph (1) in accordance with a plan published by such agency in the Federal Register. Each such plan shall provide for the review of the periodic review of each rule and shall invite public comment upon the determination to be made under this subsection with respect to each rule.

(a) Judicial Review.—

(1) In general.—For any rule subject to this section, an individual who is adversely affected by such final agency action is entitled to judicial review of agency compliance with the requirements of subsections (b) and (c) in accordance with chapter 7. Agency compliance with subsection (d) shall be judicially reviewable in connection with judicial review of subsection (b).

(2) Jurisdiction.—Each court having jurisdiction of such rule for compliance with section 553, or under any other provision of law, shall have jurisdiction to review any claims of noncompliance with subsections (b) and (c) in accordance with chapter 7. Agency compliance with subsection (d) shall be judicially reviewable in connection with judicial review of subsection (b).

(b) Periodic Review Transition Provisions.—

(1) Initial plan.—For each agency, the plan required by subsection (e) of section 553a of title 5, United States Code (as added by subsection (a)) shall be published not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) Prior rules.—In the case of a rule promulgated by an agency before the date of the enactment of this Act, such plan shall provide for the periodic review of such rule before the expiration of the 10-year period beginning the date of the enactment of this Act. For any such rule, the head of the agency may provide for a 1-year extension of such period if the head of the agency, before the expiration of the period, certifies in a statement published in the Federal Register that reviewing such rule before the expiration of the period is not feasible. The head of the agency may provide for additional 1-year extensions of the period pursuant to the preceding sentence, but in no event may the period exceed 15 years.

(c) Congressional Review.—Section 801(a)(1)(B) of title 5, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by redesignating clauses (ii) and (iv) as clauses (iv) and (vi), respectively; and

(2) by inserting after clause (ii) the following new clause:

"(iii) the agency’s actions relevant to section 553a.".

(d) Clerical Amendment.—The table of sections at the beginning of chapter 5 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 553 the following:

"553a. Privacy impact analysis in rule making.".

(2) deportable under section 237(a)(1)(G) of such Act (relating to marriage fraud).

By Mr. DASCHLE (for himself, Mr. KENNEDY, and Mr. DODD): S. 2493.

A bill to amend the immigration and Nationality Act to provide a limited extension program under section 245(i) of that Act; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, yesterday, the House passed the border security legislation, and I expect it will become law very soon. Passage of the border security bill was an important first step in moving forward with comprehensive immigration reform, and it
Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, since September 11, Congress has taken significant steps to strengthen the security of our borders and improve our immigration system. Last month, the Senate passed important legislation to strengthen security, improve our ability to screen foreign nationals, and enhance our ability to deter potential terrorists. In addition, Senator BROWNBACK and I recently introduced legislation to restructure the Immigration and Naturalization Service so that the agency is better prepared to address security concerns.

As we work to respond to the security issues before us, we can’t lose sight of the other immigration issues that are still a priority. I’m pleased to join Senator DASCHLE in moving forward with one of those issues today by introducing the Unitig Families Act of 2002. This legislation extends section 245(i), a vital provision of U.S. immigration law which allows individuals who already legally qualify for permanent residency to process their applications in the United States, without returning to their homes countries.

Without 245(i), immigrants are forced to leave their families here in the U.S. and risk separation from them for up to 10 years. Seventy-five percent of the people who have used 245(i) are the spouses and children of U.S. citizens and permanent residents. Extending this critical provision will help keep families together and help businesses retain critical workers. In addition, the INS will receive millions of dollars in additional revenues, at no cost to taxpayers.

Extending 245(i) does not provide any loopholes for potential terrorists. Instead, it will improve the monitoring of immigrants already residing in this country. Individuals who qualify for permanent residency and process their applications in the U.S. are subject to rigorous background checks and interviews. This process provides the government a good opportunity to investigate individuals who are in this country and determine whether they should be allowed to remain here.

Section 245(i) does not provide amnesty to immigrants or any benefits to anyone suspected of marriage fraud. The provision provides no protection from deportation if someone is here illegally and no right to surpass other immigrants waiting for visas.

The House passed legislation recently to extend section 245(i), but it was too restrictive to provide any meaningful assistance. The Uniting Families Act will extend the filing deadline to April 30, 2003, and provide needed and well-deserved relief to members of our immigrant communities.

I urge my colleagues to join us in supporting this needed extension.

By Mr. MCCAIN:

Mr. President, I rise to introduce legislation to authorize expansion of the Petrified Forest National Park in Arizona.

The Petrified Forest National Park is a national treasure among the Nation’s parks. It is a large concentration of highly colored petrified wood, fossilized remains, and spectacular landscapes. However, it is much more than a colorful, scenic vista, for the Petrified Forest has been referred to as “one of the world’s greatest storehouses of knowledge about life on earth when the Age of the Dinosaurs was just beginning.”

For anyone who has ever visited this Park, one is quick to recognize the wealth of scenic, scientific, and historical values of this Park. Preserved deposits of petrified wood and related fossils are among the most valuable representations of Triassic-period terrestrial ecosystems in the world. These natural formations were deposited more than 200 million years ago. Scenic vistas, designated wilderness areas, and other historically significant sites of pictographs and Native American ruins are added dimensions to the Park.

The Petrified Forest was originally designated as a National Monument by former President Theodore Roosevelt in 1906 to protect the important natural and cultural resources of the Park, and later re-designated as a National Park in 1962. While several boundary additions were made to the Park, a significant portion of unprotected resources remain in outlying areas adjacent to the Park.

A proposal to expand the Park’s boundaries was recommended in the Park’s General Management Plan in 1992, in response to concerns about the long-term protection needs of globally significant resources and the Park’s viewshed in nearby areas. For example, one of the most concentrated deposits of petrified wood within the Chiricahua Mountains is found in the Petrified Forest, and it includes approximately 70 percent of the Chiricahua Formation, which are highly significant archaeological and paleontological resources. This globally significant Chiricahua Formation, along with highly significant archaeological and scientific values, and protecting the beautiful, expansive vistas seen from the park; and

Whereas, the newly approved General Management Plan for the park, prepared by the National Park Service with broad public input, has identified about 7,900 acres of land that, if included in the park, would lead to protection of the remainder of this globally significant Chiricahua Formation, along with highly significant archaeological resources, and would protect the beautiful, expansive vistas seen from the park; and

Whereas, implementing the General Management Plan is essential to carry out a vision for Petrified Forest National Park that will better protect park resources, enhance recreation opportunities, increase diversity visitor experiences, improve visitor service, and help contribute to the sustainability of the regional economy into the 21st century; and

Whereas, an excellent opportunity now exists to include additional areas of significant resources inside the park boundary because the current park boundary including the State of Arizona, and the Bureau of Land Management, and other private landowners recognize the significance of the resources on these lands and have expressed interest in seeing them preserved in perpetuity for the benefit and inspiration of this and future generations; Now, therefore,

Resolved, That the City of Holbrook, Arizona, hereby recommends and supports the inclusion within Petrified Forest National Park of all lands identified in the park’s General Management Plan as desirable boundary additions, and supports all continuing efforts to enact legislation to accomplish this task and to ensure federal acquisition of this land. Be it further

Resolved, That the Clerk of the City of Holbrook is directed to immediately transmit this Resolution to the Governor of the State of Arizona, Arizona’s Congressional delegation, and the Director of the National Park service, together with a letter requesting prompt and ongoing support for completing the park expansion.

Hon. John McCain.

U.S. Senate, Russell Senate Office Bldg., Washington, D.C.

Dear Senator McCain:

The National Parks Conservation Association (NPCA) commends you for your leadership and vision in introducing the Petrified Forest National Park Expansion Act of 2002. NPCA published a Park Boundary Study for various national parks in 1988, we have been advocating the need for this expansion. With private landowners anxious to sell their land, we believe the time is ripe for this expansion.

It is hard to imagine a better example of an outdoor classroom than Petrified Forest National Park. This boundary expansion will ensure long-term protection of globally significant paleontological resources, potentially nationally significant archaeological resources where there is substantial evidence of early habitation, and the park's viewshed. It will also alleviate the threat of encroaching incompatible development and will greatly enhance the National Park Service's capability to manage the resources from vandalism and illegal pothunting.

Just as Theodore Roosevelt recognized the importance of preserving this land when he proclaimed the Petrified Forest a national monument in 1906, your legislation would ensure that future generations can learn even more from this amazing landscape that captures the world's best record of Triassic-period terrestrial ecosystems and prehistoric human occupation through an array of artifacts to stone.

NPCA looks forward to working with you and your staff to advance this legislation.

Sincerely,

Thomas C. Kiernan.

Mr. McCain. Mr. President, editorials from Arizona State newspapers also encourage a boundary expansion for the Park. I ask unanimous consent that articles from the Arizona Republic and the Holbrook Tribune News regarding the park expansion proposal be printed in the RECORD.

Expanding Petrified Forest Can Save Treasures—Pothunters, Looters Ravaging Park Area

Looters and pothunters are ravaging the land around Petrified Forest National Park. The property should be inside the park. A decade ago, the Park Service decided Petified Forest's boundaries should be expanded to include paleontological, archaeology and other resources in adjoining areas.

But the proposal has rarely gotten off the congressional back burner. Until now.

Arizona Republicans Rep. J.D. Hayworth and Sen. John McCain are preparing bills to expand Petrified Forest. The plan is to add 149,000 acres, more than doubling the 93,500-acre park.

They can't move too fast.

The assets they're trying to protect are under heavy assault.

A pothunter recently smashed through a 800-year-old prehistoric Indian site while searching for one nowhere else unearthed a massive petrified tree, nearly 5 feet in diameter, and prepared to hack it into marketable chunks.

Last year, we urged Congress to approve the park expansion. Since then, looters have wrecked about 460 gravesites near the park's eastern boundary.

Congress was understandably preoccupied with other issues. But a critical window of opportunity is about to close.

Elections are coming up, and Arizona's new, larger delegation could take time to come together on this issue. Landowners around Petrified Forest are tired of waiting to sell the oil-rich sites and are beginning to subdivide their land. The National Parks Conservation Association, and Albuquerque-based nonprofit group, is running out of resources to push for the expansion.

And the destruction, of course, continues unabated.

BOUNDARIES MISJUDGED

When Petrified Forest was protected almost a century ago, originally as a national monument, the goal was simple: Save some fossilized wood. And that's how the boundaries were picked.

Now we realize that area in northeastern Arizona is a treasure chest, with world-class paleontology, pueblos ruins, striking petroglyphs and, of course, the marvelous trees that turned to stone millions of years ago.

But without a park expansion, many of these treasures will remain outside the protection of our law.

The Chine Escarpment, now only partially within the park, has the world's best terrestrial fossils of plants and animals from the time of the late Triassic period, in other words, the era of the dinosaurs. The escarpment has yielded the earliest known sample of amber.

Rainbow Forest Bullhead, are rich in fossils and include grazing land for the national park's herd of pronghorn antelope.

Dead Wash Petroglyphs has panels of rock art and pueblo sites of prehistoric people.

Canyon Butte, a dramatic landmark, includes pueblo ruins with signs of warfare.

Expanding the park's boundaries appears unlikely to stir controversy in Congress. Sen. Jon Kyl, R-Ariz., previously landed $2 million in federal funding for land purchases. But we all know that the best ideas can get lost in the buzzard of bills in Congress.

We applaud Hayworth and McCain for pressing forward with the park expansion. While there's still something left to save.

[From the Holbrook (AZ) Tribune-News, Oct. 27, 2000]

PARK'S PROPOSED EXPANSION

Now under study is a plan to expand the Petrified Forest's boundaries by about 97,000 acres to afford protection to this priceless natural treasure. It deserves our interest and support.

Thanks to the efforts of President Theodore Roosevelt and others back in 1906, the park has been preserved for us to enjoy nearly a century later. Now it is time to take the necessary steps to protect the park for our posterity.

The land involved surrounds the existing park. Some of it is publicly owned, and some is privately owned.

Presumably the public agencies owning property adjacent to the park understand how important it is to enlarge the park and offer protection to its resources. It is my understanding that most, if not all, of the major private property owners also support this expansion plan.

The problem is that as these privately owned acres increase, it makes it more and more difficult to acquire the property for the expansion. And each year, the issue will become more difficult, with more owners to deal with.

The addition of this acreage to the Petrified Forest National Park will help preserve these natural and cultural heritage areas, and it is my hope that necessary steps will be taken to accomplish this program.

We have been fortunate to have foresighted people in the past who have maintained this noble place for us. We will be equally diligent now to see that our children and grandchildren will have it to enjoy for years in the future.

Mr. McCain. The legislation I am introducing today is intended to serve as a placeholder bill for further development of a boundary expansion proposal. Several key issues remain that require resolution, including the exact definition of the expanded boundary acreage, and the disposition, and possible acquisition of private Federal and State lands within the proposed expansion area.

It's encouraging to note that the four major landowners within the proposed boundary expansion area have expressed interest in keeping the Park expansion. Other public landowners, primarily the State of Arizona and the Bureau of Land Management, have recognized the significance of the paleontological resources on its lands for inclusion in the Park. The Arizona State Trust Land Department closed nearby State trust lands to both surface and subsurface applications. Additionally, the Bureau of Land Management has identified its land-holdings within the proposed expansion area for disposal and possible transfer to the Park.

Other issues involving additional private landholders and State trust lands must still be resolved. In particular, the State of Arizona has specific concerns which must be addressed as the legislation moves through the process, particularly with regard to compensation to the State for any acquisitions of State trust lands by the Secretary of Interior. I am working to keep the requirements of State law.

I fully intend to address these issues in consultation with affected entities and resolve any additional questions within a reasonable time-frame. A historical opportunity exists to alleviate major threats to these nationally significant resources and preserve them for our posterity.

I look forward to working with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to ensure swift consideration and enactment of this proposal. Time is of the essence to ensure the long-term protection of these rare and important resources for the enjoyment and educational value for future generations.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2949

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Petrified Forest National Park Expansion Act of 2002".
SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) the Petrified Forest National Park was established—

(A) to preserve and interpret the globally significant paleontological resources of the Park that are generally regarded as the most important record of the Triassic period in natural history; and

(B) to manage those resources to retain significant cultural, natural, and scenic values;

(2) significant paleontological, archaeological, and scenic resources directly related to the resource values of the Park are located on land areas adjacent to the boundary of the Park; and

(3) those resources not included within the boundaries of the Park—

(A) are vulnerable to theft and desecration; and

(B) are disappearing at an alarming rate;

(4) the general management plan for the Park includes a recommendation to expand the boundaries of the Park and incorporate additional globally significant paleontological deposits in areas adjacent to the Park—

(A) to protect nationally significant archaeological sites; and

(B) to protect the scenic integrity of the landscape and viewshed of the Park; and

(5) a boundary adjustment at the Park will alleviate major threats to those nationally significant resources.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this Act is to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to acquire 1 or more parcels of land—

(1) to expand the boundaries of the Park; and

(2) to protect the rare paleontological and archaeological resources of the Park.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) MAP.—The term "map" means the map entitled "Proposed Boundary Adjustments, Petrified Forest National Park", numbered _, and dated _.

(2) PARK.—The term "Park" means the Petrified Forest National Park in the State.

(3) SECRETARY.—The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Interior.

(4) STATE.—The term "State" means the State of Arizona.

SEC. 4. BOUNDARY REVISION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The boundary of the Park is revised to include approximately _, acres, as generally depicted on the map.

(b) AVAILABILITY OF MAP.—The map shall be on file and available for public inspection in the appropriate offices of the National Park Service.

SEC. 5. ACQUISITION OF ADDITIONAL LAND.

(a) PRIVATE LAND.—The Secretary may acquire from a willing seller, by purchase, exchange, or by donation, any private land or interests in private land within the revised boundary of the Park.

(b) STATE LAND.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may, with the consent of the State and in accordance with law, acquire from the State any State land or interests in State land within the revised boundary of the Park by purchase or exchange.

(2) PLAN.—Not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall, in coordination with the State, develop a plan for acquisition of State land or interests in State land within the revised boundary of the Park by purchase or exchange.

(c) FEDERAL LAND.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may acquire from the United States any Federal land or interests in Federal land within the revised boundary of the Park by purchase or exchange.

(2) PLAN.—Not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall develop a plan for the acquisition of Federal land or interests in Federal land within the revised boundary of the Park by purchase or exchange.

SEC. 6. ADMINISTRATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to applicable laws, all land and interests in land acquired under this Act shall be administered by the Secretary as part of the Park.

(b) TRANSFER OF JURISDICTION.—The Secretary shall transfer to the National Park Service administrative jurisdiction over any land under the jurisdiction of the Secretary that—

(1) is depicted on the map as being within the boundaries of the Park; and

(2) is not under the administrative jurisdiction of the National Park Service on the date of enactment of this Act.

(c) TERMINATION OF LEASES OR PERMITS.—Nothing in this subsection prohibits the Secretary from accepting the voluntary termination of a grazing permit or grazing lease within the Park.

(d) AMENDMENT TO GENERAL MANAGEMENT PLAN.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall amend the general management plan for the Park to address the use and management of any additional land acquired under this Act.

SEC. 7. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as are necessary to carry out this Act.

By Mr. DOMENICI (for himself, Mr. BIDEN, Mr. LOTT, Mr. DASCHLE, Mr. SHELBY, Mr. REID, Mr. MALANIA, Mr. HARRICELL, Mr. BURNS, Mr. SCHUMER, Mr. GREGG, Mrs. CLINTON, Mr. DEWINE, Mr. MCCAIN, Mr. McCONNELL, Mr. CHAFFEE, Mr. ALLARD, Mr. BROWNBACK, Mr. CLECKLEY, Mr. SANFORD, Mr. COCHRAN, Mr. BOND, Mrs. HUTCHISON, Mr. THOMPSON, Ms. COLLINS, Mr. CRAIG, Mr. KYL, Mr. ENSIGN, Mr. INHOFE, Mr. ALLEN, Mr. HAGEL, Mr. VOINOVICH, Mr. STEVENS, Mr. WARNER, Mr. SPECTER, Mr. SMITH of Oregon, Mr. BUNNING, Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire, and Mr. INOUYE):

S. 2498. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to require adequate disclosure of transactions which have a potential for tax avoidance or evasion, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, Garri-son Kellor is quoted as saying, "I believe in looking reality straight in the eye and deny nothing which is perhaps what some would like us to do with respect to the increasing problem of the use of abusive tax shelters to avoid or evade taxes. But I do not agree."

The Tax Shelter Transparency Act that I introduce today does not deny reality, rather, it shines some transparency on reality so that we have a better understanding of what is going on out there. Following Enron’s bank-ruptcy, I think that all Americans have a greater appreciation for the need for greater transparency in complex tax transactions.

The legislation is the product of over 2 years of review and public comment. The Tax Shelter Transparency Act also incorporates tax shelter proposals released by the Department of the Treas-ury the day before the Senate Finance Committee’s March 21, 2002 hearing on the subject.

As I stated at the hearing, “the Finance Committee is committed to helping combat these carefully engineered transactions. These transactions have little or no economic sub-stance, are designed to achieve unwar-anted tax benefits rather than busi-ness profit, and place honest corporate competitors at a disadvantage.”

The proliferation of tax shelters has been called “the most significant compli-ance problem currently confronting our system of self-assessment. Less than 2 years ago, there was a more profound outlook regarding the Govern-ment’s ability to curb the promotion and use of abusive tax shelters. The De-partment of the Treasury and the IRS issued regulations requiring disclosure of certain transactions and requiring developers and promoters of tax-engineered transactions to maintain customer lists. Also, the IRS had prevailed in several court cases against the use of transactions lacking in economic substance.

Unfortunately, the honesty and integrity of our tax system has suffered significant blows over the past 2 years. Court decisions have shifted from decisions tough on tax avoidance and evasion to defeats for the IRS. Also, there appears to be a lack of compliance with the disclosure legislation passed in 1997 and the subsequent regulations.

The corporate tax returns filed in 2001 are the first returns filed under the new tax shelter disclosure requirements. The administration provided the Finance Committee with the results of their analysis of the disclosure data, including their analysis of what was not disclosed.

Only 272 transactions were disclosed by 99 corporate taxpayers. There are approximately 100,000 corporate taxpayers under the Large and Midsize Business Division at the IRS yet only 99 of them disclosed transactions under the current regime. Based on the Finance Committee hearing, it is safe to say that the administration, as did Congress, thought the number of disclosures would be much greater.

Clearly, the past method of reactive, ad-hoc closing down of abusive transactions does little to discourage the creation and exploitation of many shelters.

These transactions may be good for a corporation’s bottom line, but they are bad for the economy. Here’s why: abusive corporate tax shelters create a tax benefit without any corresponding economic benefit. There’s no new product. No technological innovation. Just a tax benefit.

As with the Senate Finance Committee draft legislation released last August, the Tax Shelter Transparency Act emphasizes disclosure. Disclosure is critical to the Government’s ability to identify and address abusive tax avoidance and evasion arrangements. Under the bill, if the taxpayer has entered into a questionable transaction and fails to disclose the transaction, then the taxpayer is subject to tough penalties: disclosing and higher penalties if an understatement results.

The legislation separates transactions into one of three types of transactions for purposes of disclosure and penalties: Reportable Listed Transactions, Reportable Avoidance Transactions, and a catch-all category for Other Transactions. The legislation also addresses the role of each of the players involved in abusive tax shelters: including the taxpayer who buys, the promoter who markets, and the tax advisor who advises, an opinion “dorsing” the tax-engineered arrangement. The legislation focuses on each of these participants and contains proposals to discourage their participation in abusive tax transactions.

Reportable Listed Transactions are transactions specifically identified by the Department of the Treasury as “tax avoidance transactions.” These transactions are classified by Treasury as bad transactions, essentially the worst of the worst. Failure by the taxpayer to disclose the transaction results in a separate strict liability, nonwaivable flat dollar penalty of $200,000 for large taxpayers and $100,000 for small taxpayers.

Additionally, if the taxpayer is required to file with the Securities and Exchange Commission, the penalty must be reported to the SEC. If the taxpayer discloses the questionable transaction, they are not subject to the flat dollar penalty or the SEC reporting. The SEC reporting requirement is a critical element to improving the disclosure of transactions. The amount of tax penalty is relatively insignificant to the taxpayer already abysmally tax avoidance and abusive tax shelter transactions. Corporations, however, have a strong incentive not to trigger a penalty that must be reported to the SEC.

Failure to disclose a reportable listed transaction will result in a tax understatenent will be subject to a higher, 30 percent, strict liability, nonwaivable accuracy-related penalty which must be reported to the SEC.

Reportable Avoidance Transactions are transactions that fall into one of the several objective criteria established by the Department of the Treasury which have a potential for tax avoidance or evasion. Based on current regulations and the proposals put forward by the administration, we anticipate these transactions would include but would not be limited to: significant loss transactions; transactions with brief asset holding periods; transactions marketed under conditions of confidentiality; transactions subject to indemnification agreements; and transactions with a certain amount of book-tax difference.

Failure by the taxpayer to disclose the questionable reportable avoidance transaction results in a separate strict liability, nonwaivable flat dollar penalty of $100,000 for large taxpayers and $50,000 for small taxpayers.

Reportable Avoidance Transactions are then subject to a filter to determine whether there is a significant purpose of tax avoidance. Transactions entered into with a significant purpose of tax avoidance are subject to harsher treatment in the form of higher penalties.

The legislation enhances the Government’s ability to enjoin promoters. Most significantly, the legislation increases the penalty imposed on tax shelter promoters who refuse to maintain lists of their tax shelter investors. If a promoter fails to provide the IRS with a list of investors in a reportable transaction within 20 days after receipt of a written request by the IRS to provide such a list, the promoter would be subject to a penalty of $10,000 for each additional business day that the requested information is not provided.

The legislation adds a provision authorizing the Treasury Department to censure tax advisors or impose monetary sanctions against tax advisors and firms that participate in tax shelter activities and practice before the IRS.

I am pleased that this legislation is the product of working closely with my good friend, and the ranking member of the Finance Committee, Senator GRASSLEY. I appreciate Senator GRASSLEY’s cosponsorship of the Tax Shelter Transparency Act and his commitment to work as a bipartisan front to shine some light on these abusive tax shelter transactions.

TITLE I—TAXPAYER-RELATED PROVISIONS

SEC. 101. PENALTY FOR FAILING TO DISCLOSE REPORTABLE TRANSACTION.

(a) In General.—Part I of subchapter B of chapter 68 (relating to assessable penalties) is amended by inserting after section 6707 the following new section:

"SEC. 6707A. PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO INCLUDE REPORTABLE TRANSACTION INFORMATION WITH RETURN OR STATEMENT.

"(a) Imposition of Penalty.—Any person who fails to include with any return or statement a tax avoidance transaction required to be included under subchapter A of chapter 61 with respect to a reportable transaction shall pay a penalty in the amount determined under subsection (b).

"(b) Amount of Penalty.—

"(1) In General.—Except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3), the amount of the penalty under subsection (a) shall be $50,000.

"(2) Listed Transaction.—The amount of the penalty under subsection (a) with respect to a listed transaction shall be $100,000.

"(3) Increase in penalty for large entities and high net worth individuals.—

"(A) In General.—In the case of a failure under subsection (a) by—

"(i) a large entity, for purposes of subparagraph (A), the penalty under paragraph (1) or (2) shall be twice the amount determined without regard to this paragraph.

"(B) Large entity.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the term ‘large entity’ means a taxable person whose net worth exceeds $2,000,000.

"(B) High Net Worth Individual.—The term ‘high net worth individual’ means a taxable person whose net worth exceeds $10,000,000.

"(c) Effective Date.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to returns for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2002.

"SEC. 102. INCREASE IN ACCURACY-RELATED PENALTIES FOR LISTED TRANSACTIONS AND OTHER REPORTABLE TRANSACTIONS HAVING A TAX AVOIDANCE PURPOSE.

(a) Increase in Penalty.—Subsection (a) of section 6662 (relating to imposition of penalty) is amended to read as follows:

"(a) Imposition of Penalty.—

"(1) In General.—If this section applies to any reportable transaction, the tax on any underpayment of tax required to be shown on a return, shall be added to the tax as an amount equal to 10 percent of the portion of the underpayment to which this section applies.

"(2) Understatement of Income Tax Attributable to Listed Transactions and Other Reportable Transactions Having a Tax Avoidance Purpose.—If a taxpayer has a reportable transaction income tax understatement attributable to a listed transaction and other reportable transactions having a tax avoidance purpose, such understatement shall not apply to the portion of any reportable transaction income tax understatement attributable to an item referred to in section 6662(i)(2) unless—

"(1) the relevant facts affecting the tax treatment of such item are adequately disclosed in accordance with the regulations prescribed under section 6611, or

"(2) the relevant facts affecting the tax treatment of such item are adequately disclosed in accordance with the regulations prescribed under section 6611, or

"(3) the taxpayer reasonably believed that such treatment was more likely than not the proper treatment.

"(4) Special Rules for Understatements Attributable to Listed Transactions and Certain Other Tax Avoidance Transactions.—Subsection (a) of section 6662 (relating to imposition of accuracy-related penalty) is amended by redesignating paragraphs (2) and (3) as paragraphs (4) and (5), respectively, and by inserting after paragraph (1) the following new paragraph:

"(2) Special Rules for Understatements Attributable to Listed and Certain Other Tax Avoidance Transactions.—Paragraph (1) of section 6662 does not apply to the portion of any reportable transaction income tax understatement attributable to an item referred to in section 6662(i)(2) unless—

"(A) the relevant facts affecting the tax treatment of such item are adequately disclosed in accordance with the regulations prescribed under section 6611, or

"(B) the relevant facts affecting the tax treatment of such item are adequately disclosed in accordance with the regulations prescribed under section 6611, or

"(3) Rules Related to Reasonable Belief.—For purposes of paragraph (2)(C)—

"(A) In General.—A taxpayer shall be treated as having a reasonable belief with respect to the tax treatment of an item only if such belief—

"(i) is based on the facts and law that exist at the time the taxpayer would have filed returns for the taxable year over gross income for such year, and any reduction in the amount of capital losses which would (without regard to section 1211) be allowed for such year, shall be treated as an increase in taxable income.

"(B) Taxpayers' Items to Which Subsection Applies.—This subsection shall apply to any item which is attributable to—

"(A) any listed transaction, or

"(B) any reportable transaction (other than a listed transaction) if a significant purpose of such transaction is the avoidance or evasion of Federal income tax.

"(4) Higher Penalty for Non disclosures Listed and Other Avoidance Transactions.—In the case of any portion of a reportable transaction income tax understatement attributable to a listed transaction and other avoidance transaction, the rate of tax under subsection (a)(2) shall be increased by 5 percent (15 percent in the case of a listed transaction).

"(5) Definitions and Special Rules.—For purposes of this subsection—

"(A) Reportable and Listed Transactions.—The terms ‘reportable transaction’ and ‘listed transaction’ have the respective meanings given to such terms by section 6662.

"(B) Coordination with Determinations of Whether Other Understatements Are Substantial.—Reportable transaction income tax understatement shall be taken into account under subsection (a)(1) in determining whether any understatement (which is not a reportable transaction income tax understatement) is a substantial understatement.

"(C) Special Rule for Amended Returns.—Except as provided in regulations, in the case of any reportable transaction included with an amendment or supplement to a return of tax be taken into account in determining the amount of any reportable transaction income tax understatement if the amendment or supplement is filed after the earlier of the date the taxpayer is first contacted by the Secretary the examination of the return or such other date as is specified by the Secretary.

"(D) Reasonable Cause Exception.—Subsection (e) of section 6661 (relating to reasonable cause exception) is amended by redesignating paragraphs (2) and (3) as paragraphs (4) and (5), respectively, and by inserting after paragraph (1) the following new paragraph:

"(2) Special Rules for Understatements Attributable to Listed and Certain Other Tax Avoidance Transactions.—Paragraph (1) of section 6662 does not apply to the portion of any reportable transaction income tax understatement attributable to an item referred to in section 6662(i)(2) unless—

"(A) the relevant facts affecting the tax treatment of such item are adequately disclosed in accordance with the regulations prescribed under section 6611, or

"(B) the relevant facts affecting the tax treatment of such item are adequately disclosed in accordance with the regulations prescribed under section 6611, or

"(C) the taxpayer reasonably believed that such treatment was more likely than not the proper treatment.

"(3) Rules Related to Reasonable Belief.—For purposes of paragraph (2)(C)—

"(A) In General.—A taxpayer shall be treated as having a reasonable belief with respect to the tax treatment of an item only if such belief—

"(i) is based on the facts and law that exist at the time the return of tax which includes such tax treatment is filed, and

"(ii) relates solely to the taxpayer's chances of success on the merits of such treatment and does not account for the possibility that a return will not be audited, such treatment will not be raised on audit, or such treatment will be resolved through settlement if it is raised.

(‘‘B’’ CERTAIN OPINIONS MAY NOT BE REPLIED UPON.

‘‘(I) IN GENERAL.—An opinion of a tax advisor may not be relied upon to establish the reasonable belief of a taxpayer if—

(i) the tax advisor is described in clause (ii), or

(ii) the opinion is described in clause (iii).

(ii) DISQUALIFIED TAX ADVISORS.—A tax advisor is described in this clause if the tax advisor—

(A) is a material advisor (within the meaning of section 6111(b)(1)) who—

(I) is compensated directly or indirectly by another material advisor with respect to the transaction,

(II) has a contingent fee arrangement with respect to the transaction,

(III) has any type of referral agreement or other similar agreement or understanding with another material advisor which relates to the transaction, or

(IV) has any other characteristic which, as determined under regulations prescribed by the Secretary, is indicative of a potential conflict of interest or compromise of independence.

(iii) DISQUALIFIED OPINIONS.—An opinion is described in this clause if the opinion—

(I) is based on unreasonable factual or legal assumptions (including assumptions as to future events),

(II) unreasonably relies on representations, statements, findings, or agreements of the taxpayer or any other person,

(III) does not identify and consider all relevant facts, or

(IV) fails to meet any other requirement which the Secretary may prescribe.

(d) SECTION NOT TO APPLY TO COMMUNICATIONS MADE ON OR AFTER THE DATE OF THE ENACTMENT OF THIS ACT.

(1) Subparagraph (C) of section 6662(d)(3) is amended by striking ‘‘section 6662(d)(2)(C)(ii)’’ and inserting ‘‘section 1274(b)(3)’’.

(2) Subparagraph (3) of section 127(b) is amended—

(A) by striking ‘‘(as defined in section 6662(d)(2)(C)(ii))’’ in subparagraph (B)(i), and

(B) by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

‘‘(C) TAX SHELTER.—For purposes of subparagraph (B), the term ‘tax shelter’ means—

(I) a partnership or other entity,

(ii) any investment plan or arrangement, or

(iii) any other plan or arrangement, if a significant purpose of such partnership, entity, plan, or arrangement is the avoidance or evasion of Federal income tax.’’

(3) Section 6662(d)(2) is amended by striking subparagraphs (C) and (D).

(4) Subsection (b) of section 7225 is amended by striking ‘‘section 6662(d)(2)(C)(iii)’’ and inserting ‘‘section 1274(b)(3)’’.

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years ending after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 103. MODIFICATIONS OF SUBSTANTIAL UNDERSTATEMENT PENALTY FOR NONREPORTABLE TRANSACTIONS.

(a) SUBSTANTIAL UNDERSTATEMENT OF CORPORATIONS.—Section 6662(d)(1)(B) (relating to special rule for corporations) is amended to read as follows:

‘‘(B) SPECIAL RULE FOR CORPORATIONS.—In the case of a corporation other than an S corporation or a personal holding company (as defined in section 542), there is a substantial underpayment of income tax for any taxable year if the amount of the understatement for the taxable year exceeds the lesser of—

(I) 10 percent of the tax required to be shown on the return for the taxable year, or

(II) $10,000,000.’’

(b) REDUCTION FOR UNDERSTATEMENT OF TAXPAYER DUE TO POSITION OF TAXPAYER OR DISCLOSED ITEM.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 6662(d)(2)(B)(i) (relating to special rule for authority) is amended to read as follows:

‘‘(i) the tax treatment of any item by the taxpayer if the taxpayer had reasonable belief that the tax treatment was more likely than not the proper tax treatment, or

(ii) DISQUALIFIED TAX ADVISORS.

(iv) the opinion is described in this clause if the opinion—

(I) is based on unreasonable factual or legal assumptions (including assumptions as to future events),

(II) unreasonably relies on representations, statements, findings, or agreements of the taxpayer or any other person,

(III) does not identify and consider all relevant facts, or

(IV) fails to meet any other requirement which the Secretary may prescribe.

(v) the opinion is described in this clause if the opinion—

(I) is based on unreasonable factual or legal assumptions (including assumptions as to future events),

(II) unreasonably relies on representations, statements, findings, or agreements of the taxpayer or any other person,

(III) does not identify and consider all relevant facts, or

(IV) fails to meet any other requirement which the Secretary may prescribe.

(III) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.

The term ‘‘tax shelter’’ as defined in section 6707A(c) is amended by striking ‘‘and other similar agreement or understanding with another material advisor which relates to future events,’’ and inserting ‘‘and other similar agreement or understanding with another material advisor which relates to future events, or advice with respect to organizing, promoting, selling, implementing, or carrying out any reportable transaction, and

(II) the term ‘‘special rule for corporations’’ is amended to read as follows:

‘‘(B) SPECIAL RULE FOR CORPORATIONS.—In the case of a corporation other than an S corporation or a personal holding company (as defined in section 542), there is a substantial underpayment of income tax for any taxable year if the amount of the understate-

ment for the taxable year exceeds the lesser of—

(I) 10 percent of the tax required to be shown on the return for the taxable year, or

(II) $10,000,000.’’

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after the date of the enactment of this Act.

TITLE II—PROMOTER AND PREPARER RELATED PROVISIONS

Subtitle A—Provisions Relating To Reportable Transactions

SEC. 201. DISCLOSURE OF REPORTABLE TRANSACTIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 6111 (relating to registration of tax shelters) is amended to read as follows:

‘‘SEC. 6111. DISCLOSURE OF REPORTABLE TRANSACTIONS.

‘‘(a) IN GENERAL.—Each material advisor with respect to any reportable transaction shall make a return (in such form as the Secretary may prescribe) setting forth—

(1) information identifying and describing the transaction;

(2) information describing the advice provided by such advisor, including any potential tax benefits represented to result from the transaction;

(3) such other information as the Secretary may prescribe.

Such return shall be filed on the first business day following the earliest date on which such advisor provides any material aid, assistance, or advice with respect to organizing, promoting, selling, implementing, or carrying out the transaction (or such later date as the Secretary may prescribe).

(b) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

(1) MATERIAL ADVISOR.—The term ‘‘material advisor’’ means—

(A) who provides any material aid, assistance, or advice with respect to organizing, promoting, selling, implementing, or carrying out any reportable transaction, and

(B) who directly or indirectly derives gross income from such advice or assistance.

(2) REPORTABLE TRANSACTION.—The term ‘‘reportable transaction’’ has the meaning given to such term by section 6707A(c).

(c) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary may prescribe regulations which provide—

(1) that only 1 person shall be required to make the report of a transaction; and

(2) exemptions from the requirements of this section, and

(3) such rules as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this section.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) The item relating to section 6111 in the table of sections for subchapter B of chapter 61 is amended to read as follows:

‘‘Sec. 6111. Disclosure of reportable transactions.’’

(2) So much of section 6112 as precede subsection (c) thereof is amended to read as follows:

‘‘SEC. 6112. MATERIAL ADVISORS OF REPORTABLE TRANSACTIONS MUST KEEP LISTS OF ADVISEES.

‘‘(a) IN GENERAL.—Each material advisor (as defined in section 6111) with respect to any reportable transaction (as defined in section 6707A(c)) shall maintain (in such manner as the Secretary may by regulations prescribe) a list—

(1) identifying each person with respect to whom such advisor acted as a such material advisor with respect to such transaction, and

(2) containing such other information as the Secretary may by regulations require.’’

(B) Section 6112 is amended by redesignating subsection (c) as subsection (b).

(C) Section 6112(b)(1)(A), as redesignated by subparagraph (B), is amended by inserting ‘‘written’’ before ‘‘request’’.

The item relating to section 6112 in the table of sections for subchapter B of chapter 61 is amended to read as follows:

‘‘Sec. 6112. Material advisors of reportable transactions must keep lists of advisees.’’

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to transactions entered into after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 202. MODIFICATIONS TO PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO REGISTRATION OF TAX SHELTERS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 6707 (relating to failure to furnish information regarding tax shelters) is amended to read as follows:

‘‘(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 6707 (relating to failure to furnish information regarding tax shelters) is amended to read as follows:

‘‘SEC. 6707. FAILURE TO MAINTAIN LISTS OF ADVISEES WITH RESPECT TO REPORTABLE TRANSACTIONS.

‘‘Sec. 6708. Failure to maintain lists of advisees with respect to reportable transactions.’’

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to transactions entered into after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 203. MODIFICATIONS TO PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO PROVIDE REPORTABLE TRANSACTION INFORMATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 6709 (relating to failure to provide reportable transaction information) is amended to read as follows:

‘‘(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 6709 (relating to failure to provide reportable transaction information) is amended to read as follows:

‘‘SEC. 6709. FAILURE TO PROVIDE REPORTABLE TRANSACTION INFORMATION.

‘‘(B) The item relating to section 6709 in the table of sections for part I of subchapter B of chapter 68 is amended to read as follows:

‘‘Sec. 6709. Failure to provide reportable transaction information.’’
SEC. 6707. FAILURE TO FURNISH INFORMATION REGARDING REPORTABLE TRANSACTIONS.

(a) In General.—If a person who is required to file a return under section 6112(a) with respect to any reportable transaction—

(1) fails to file such return on or before the due date prescribed for such return, or

(2) files false or incomplete information with the Secretary with respect to such transaction, such person shall pay a penalty with respect to such return in the amount determined under subsection (b).

(b) AMOUNT OF PENALTY.—

(1) 30 percent (as defined in paragraph (2) and inserted as an internal failure or act described in subsection (a)).

(2) LISTED TRANSACTIONS.—The penalty imposed under subsection (a) with respect to any listed transaction shall be an amount equal to the greater of—

(A) $200,000, or

(B) 50 percent of the fees paid to such person with respect to aid, assistance, or advice which is provided with respect to the reportable tax shelters or transactions before the date the return is filed under section 6111.

Subparagraph (B) shall be applied substituting ‘‘75 percent for ‘‘50 percent’’ in the case of an intentional failure or act described in subsection (a).

(c) REPORTABLE AND LISTED TRANSACTIONS.—The terms ‘‘reportable transaction’’ and ‘‘listed transaction’’ have the respective meanings given to such terms by section 6707A(c).

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The item relating to section 6707 in the table of sections for part I of chapter 68 is amended by striking ‘‘tax shelters and reportable transactions’’ and inserting ‘‘reportable transactions’’.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 203. MODIFICATION OF PENALTY FOR FAILURES TO MAINTAIN LISTS OF INVESTORS.

(a) In General.—Subsection (a) of section 6706 is amended to read as follows:

‘‘(a) Imposition of Penalty.—

‘‘(1) In General.—If any person who is required to maintain a list under section 6121(a) fails to make such list available to the Secretary in accordance with section 6121(b)(1)(A) within 20 days after the date of the request, such person shall pay a penalty of $10,000 for each day of such failure after such 20th day.

‘‘(2) Reasonable Cause Exception.—No penalty shall be imposed by paragraph (1) with respect to the failure on any day if such failure is due to reasonable cause.

‘‘(b) Effective Date.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to failures occurring after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 204. MODIFICATION OF ACTIONS TO ENJOIN SPECIFIED CONDUCT RELATED TO TAX SHELTERS AND REPORTABLE TRANSACTIONS.

(a) In General.—Section 7408 (relating to action to enjoin promoters of abusive tax shelters, etc.) is amended by redesignating subsection (c) as subsection (d) and by striking subsections (a) and (b) and inserting the following new subsections:

‘‘(a) Authority To Seek Injunction.—A civil action in the name of the United States to enjoin any person from further engaging in specified conduct may be commenced at the request of the Secretary. Any action under this section shall be brought in the district court of the United States for the district in which such person resides, has his principal place of business, or has engaged in specified conduct. The court may exercise its jurisdiction over such action (as provided in section 7402(a)) separate and apart from any other action brought by the United States against such person.

‘‘(b) Adjudication and Decree.—In any action under subsection (a), if the court finds—

(1) that the person has engaged in any specified conduct;

(2) that injunctive relief is appropriate to prevent recurrence of such conduct, the court may enjoin such person from engaging in such conduct or in any other activity subject to penalty under this title.

‘‘(c) Specified Conduct.—For purposes of this section, ‘specified conduct’ means any action, or failure to take action, subject to penalty under section 6706, 6701, 6707, or 6708.

(b) Conforming Amendments.

(1) The heading for section 7408 is amended to read as follows:

‘‘SEC. 7408. ACTIONS TO ENJOIN SPECIFIED CONDUCT RELATED TO TAX SHELTERS AND REPORTABLE TRANSACTIONS. ’’

(2) The table of sections for subsection A of chapter 67 is amended by striking the item relating to section 7408 and inserting the following new item:

‘‘Sec. 7408. Actions to enjoin specified conduct related to tax shelters and reportable transactions.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall take effect on the day after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Subtitle B—Other Provisions

SEC. 211. UNDERSTATEMENT OF TAXPAYER’S LIABILITY BY INCOME TAX RETURN PREPARED.

(a) Standards Conformed to Taxpayer Standards.—Section 6694(a) (relating to understatements due to unrealistic positions) is amended—

(1) by striking ‘‘realistic possibility of being sustained on its merits’’ in paragraph (1) and inserting ‘‘reasonable belief that the tax treatment in such position was more likely than not the proper treatment’’;

(2) by striking ‘‘or was frivolous’’ in paragraph (3) and inserting ‘‘or there was no reasonable basis for the tax treatment of such position’’; and

(3) by striking ‘‘UNREALISTIC’’ in the heading and inserting ‘‘IMPROPER’’.

(b) Amount of Penalty.—Section 6694 is amended—

(1) by striking ‘‘$250’’ in subsection (a) and inserting ‘‘$1,000’’; and

(2) by striking ‘‘$1,000’’ in subsection (b) and inserting ‘‘$5,000’’.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to documents prepared after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 212. REPORT ON EFFECTIVENESS OF PENALTY ON FAILURE TO REPORT INTERESTS IN FOREIGN FINANCIAL ACCOUNTS.

The Secretary of the Treasury shall submit a report to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate on—

(1) the number of civil and criminal penalties imposed on failures to meet the reporting and accountkeeping requirements of section 5314 of title 31, United States Code, with respect to interests held in foreign financial accounts;

(2) the average amount of monetary penalties so imposed.

The Secretary shall include with such report an analysis of the effectiveness of such reporting and accountkeeping requirements in preventing the avoidance or evasion of Federal income taxes and any recommendations to improve such requirements and the enforcement of such requirements.

SEC. 213. FRIVOLOUS TAX SUBMISSIONS.

(a) Civil Penalties.—Section 6702 is amended to read as follows:

‘‘SEC. 6702. FRIVOLOUS TAX SUBMISSIONS. ’’

(b) Civil Penalty for Specified Frivolous Submissions.—A person shall pay a penalty of $5,000 if—

‘‘(1) such person files what purports to be a return of a tax imposed by this title but which is not a return.

‘‘(A) Does not contain information on which the substantial correctness of the self-assessment may be judged; or

‘‘(B) Contains information that on its face indicates that the self-assessment is substantially incorrect; and

‘‘(2) the conduct referred to in paragraph (1)—

‘‘(A) is based on a position which the Secretary has identified as frivolous under subsection (c), or ‘‘(B) reflects a desire to delay or impede the administration of Federal tax laws.

‘‘(c) Specified Frivolous Submission.—The term ‘specified frivolous submission’ means a specified submission if any portion of such submission—

‘‘(1) is based on a position which the Secretary has identified as frivolous under subsection (c), or ‘‘(ii) reflects a desire to delay or impede the administration of Federal tax laws.

‘‘(d) Specified Submission.—The term ‘specified submission’ means—

‘‘(i) a request for a hearing under—

‘‘(I) section 6320 (relating to notice and opportunity for hearing upon filing of notice of lien), or

‘‘(II) section 6330 (relating to notice and opportunity for hearing before levy), and

‘‘(ii) an application under—

‘‘(I) section 7811 (relating to taxpayer assis-

‘‘(II) section 6159 (relating to agreements for payment of tax liability in installments), or ‘‘(III) section 7122 (relating to compromises).

‘‘(e) Opportunity to Withhold Submission.—If the Secretary provides a person with notice that a submission is a specified frivolous submission and such person draws such submission promptly after such notice, the penalty imposed under paragraph (1) shall not apply with respect to such submission.

(f) Listing of Frivolous Positions.—The Secretary shall prescribe (and periodically revise) a list of positions which the Secretary has identified as being frivolous for purposes of this subsection. The Secretary shall not include in such list any position that the Secretary determines meets the requirement of section 6662(d)(2)(B)(ii)(I).

‘‘(g) Reduction of Penalty.—The Secretary may reduce the amount of any penalty imposed under this section if the Secretary determines that such reduction would promote compliance with and administration of the Federal tax laws.

‘‘(h) Penalties in Addition to Other Penalties.—The penalties imposed by this section shall be in addition to any other penalty imposed by law.

(b) Treatment of Frivolous Requests for Hearings Before Levy.—
Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the legislation, the "Tax Shelter Transparency Act," which will arrest the proliferation of tax shelters.

We have known for many years that abusive tax shelters, which are structured to exploit unintended consequences of our complicated Federal income tax system, erode the Federal tax base and the public’s confidence in the tax system. Such transactions are patently unfair to the vast majority of taxpayers who do their best to comply with the letter and spirit of the tax law. As a result, the Finance Committee has worked exceedingly hard over the past several years to develop three legislative discussion drafts for public review and comment. Thoughtful and well-considered comments on these drafts have been greatly appreciated by the staff and members of the Finance Committee. The collaborative efforts of those involved in the discussion drafts combined with the recent request for legislative assistance from the Treasury Department and IRS produced today’s revised approach for dealing with abusive tax avoidance transactions.

Above all, the Tax Shelter Transparency Act encourages the taxpayer disclosure of potentially abusive tax avoidance transactions. It is surprising and unfortunate that taxpayers, though required to disclose tax shelter transactions under present law, have refused to comply. The Treasury Department, the IRS, and Congress have joined forces to develop a system that makes it less convenient to enter into transactions requiring such disclosure of transactions requiring such disclosure. The Tax Shelter Transparency Act will curb non-compliance by providing clearer and more objective rules for the reporting of potential tax shelters and by providing strong penalties for anyone who refuses to comply with these new disclosure requirements.

The legislation has been carefully structured to reward those who are forthcoming with disclosure. I wholeheartedly agree with the remarks of —

By Mr. KENNEDY (for himself and Mrs. CLINTON):
S. 2499. A bill to amend the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act to establish labeling requirements regarding allergenic substances in food, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pen-
The Food Allergen Consumer Protection Act will require food manufacturers to minimize cross-contamination with food allergens between foods produced in the same facility or on the same production line. It will require the use of “may contain” or other advisory language in food labeling when steps to reduce such cross-contamination will not eliminate it. This legislation also preserves the Food and Drug Administration’s current authority to regulate the safety of certain products that are not already regulated to contain proteins that cause allergic reactions.

The Food Allergen Consumer Protection Act will also require the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to track deaths related to food allergies, and it will direct the National Institutes of Health to develop a plan for research activities concerning food allergies.

I urge my colleagues in the Senate to support this legislation that will do so much to improve the lives of those with food allergies. I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2499

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Food Allergen Consumer Protection Act.”

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

The Congress finds as follows:

(1) Approximately 7,000,000 Americans suffer from food allergies. Every year roughly 30,000 people receive emergency room treatment due to the ingestion of allergenic foods, and an estimated 150 Americans die from anaphylactic shock caused by a food allergy.

(2) Eight major foods—milk, egg, fish, Crustacea, tree nuts, wheat, peanuts, and soybeans—cause 90 percent of allergic reactions. At present, there is no cure for food allergies. A food allergic consumer depends on a product label to obtain accurate and reliable ingredient information so as to avoid food allergens.

(3) Current Food and Drug Administration regulations exempt spices, flavorings, and certain colorings and additives from ingredient labeling requirements that would allow consumers to avoid those to which they are allergic. In such unlabeled food allergens may pose a serious health threat to those susceptible to food allergies.

(4) A recent Food and Drug Administration study of 23 percent of bakery products, ice creams, and candies that were inspected failed to list peanuts and eggs, which can cause potentially fatal allergic reactions. For example, foods that test close to a food allergen at constant risk.

(5) In that study, the Food and Drug Administration found that only slightly more than half of tested baked goods were checked for peanuts and tree nuts. In addition, 200 were labeled as free from peanuts, tree nuts, and soybeans, but when tested, these foods were found to contain minute amounts of these allergens.

(6) Individuals who have food allergies may outgrow their allergy if they strictly avoid consuming the allergen. However, some scientists believe that because low levels of allergens are present in food, those with an allergy are unable to keep from being repeatedly exposed to the very foods they are allergic to. Good manufacturing practices cannot improve labeling beyond adding at the end of the following:

“(1) If it is not a raw agricultural commodity and it is, or it intentionally bears or contains, a known food allergen, unless its label bears, in bold face type, the common or usual name of the known food allergen and the common or usual name of the food source described in subparagraph (3)(A) from which the known food allergen is derived, except that the food source is not required when the common or usual name of the known food allergen plainly identifies the food source.

“(2) The information required under this paragraph may appear in labeling other than the label only if the Secretary finds that such other labeling is sufficient to protect the public health. A finding by the Secretary under this subparagraph is effective upon publication in the Federal Register as a notice. A finding by the Secretary that the substance does not cause an allergic reaction that poses a risk to human health.

“(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section take effect upon the expiration of the 180-day period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 4. UNINTENTIONAL PRESENCE OF KNOWN FOOD ALLERGENS.

(a) FOOD LABELING OF SUCH FOOD ALLERGENS.—Section 403 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, as amended by section 3(a) of this Act, is amended by inserting after paragraph (u) the following:

“(1) if it is not a raw agricultural commodity and it is, or it intentionally bears or contains, a known food allergen, unless its label bears, in bold face type, the common or usual name of the known food allergen and the common or usual name of the food source described in subparagraph (3)(A) from which the known food allergen is derived, except that the food source is not required when the common or usual name of the known food allergen plainly identifies the food source.

“(2) The information required under this paragraph may appear in labeling other than the label only if the Secretary finds that such other labeling is sufficient to protect the public health. A finding by the Secretary under this subparagraph is effective upon publication in the Federal Register as a notice. A finding by the Secretary that the substance does not cause an allergic reaction that poses a risk to human health.

“(C) Other grains containing gluten (rye, barley, oats, and triticale).

“(D) In addition, any food that the Secretary by regulation determines causes an allergic or other adverse reaction that poses a risk to human health.

“(4) Notwithstanding paragraph (g), (i), (k), or (t), or any other labeling requirement under this paragraph applies to spices, flavorings, colorings, or incidental additives that are, or that bear or contain, a known food allergen.

“(v) If the presence of a known food allergen in the food is unintentional and its labeling exceeds 12 square inches; or

“(w) If the labeling required under paragraphs (g), (i), (k), (t), (u), or (v)—

“(1) does not use a single, easy-to-read type style that is black on a white background;

“(2) does not use at least 8 point type with at least one point leading (i.e., space between lines of text), or

“(3) the area of the food package available to bear labeling exceeds 12 square inches; or

“(4) does not comply with regulations issued by the Secretary to make it easy for consumers to read and use such labeling by requiring a format that is comparable to the format required for the disclosure of nutritional information in section 101.9(d)(1) of title 21, Code of Federal Regulations.

“(b) CIVIL PENALTIES.—Section 383(g)(2) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 333(g)(2)) is amended—

“(1) in subparagraph (A), by striking “section 402(a)(2)(B) shall be subject,” and inserting the following: “section 402(a)(2)(B) or regulations under this chapter to minimize the unintended presence of food allergens in food, which is misbranded by the term ‘known food allergen’ has the meaning given such term in section 403(t)(3).”;

“(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section take effect upon the expiration of the 180-day period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 5. REGULATIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—

(1) REGULATIONS.—Not later than one year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Health and Human Services (in this section referred to as the “Secretary”) shall issue a proposed rule under sections 402, 403, and 701(a) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act to implement the amendments made by this Act. Not later than two years after such date of enactment, the Secretary shall promulgate a final rule under such sections.

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The final rule promulgated under paragraph (1) shall take effect upon the expiration of the four-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act. If a final rule under such paragraph has not been promulgated before the expiration of such period, then upon such expiration the proposed rule under such paragraph takes effect as if the proposed rule were a final rule.

(b) UNINTENTIONAL PRESENCE OF KNOWN FOOD ALLERGENS.

(1) Good Manufacturing Practices; Records.—Regulations under subsection (a) shall require the use of good manufacturing practices to minimize, to the extent practicable, the intentional presence of food allergens in food. Such regulations shall include appropriate record keeping and record inspection requirements.

(2) Ingredient Labeling.—In the regulations under subsection (a), the Secretary shall authorize the use of advisory labeling for a known food allergen when the Secretary has determined that good manufacturing practices required under the regulations will not eliminate the unintentional presence of the known food allergen and its presence in the food poses a risk to human health, and the regulations shall otherwise prohibit the use of such labeling.

(c) Incidental Labeling Generally.—In regulations under subsection (a), the Secretary shall prescribe a format for labeling, as provided for under section 403(w)(3) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

(d) Review by Office of Management and Budget.—If the Office of Management and Budget (in this section referred to as "OMB") is to review proposed or final rules under subsection (a), OMB shall complete its review in 10 working days, after which the rule shall be published immediately in the Federal Register. If OMB fails to complete its review of either the proposed rule or the final rule in 10 working days, the Secretary shall provide the rule to the Office of the Federal Register, which shall publish the rule. OMB shall have full effect (subject to applicable effective dates specified in this Act) without review by OMB. If the Secretary does not complete the proposed or final rule within 10 working days of OMB's receipt of the proposed or final rule, the Secretary shall complete the OMB review in 10 working days to review the rule and have it published in the Federal Register within the time frames for publication of the rule specified in this section, the rule shall be published without review by OMB.

SEC. 6. FOOD LABELING; INCLUSION OF TELEPHONE NUMBER.

(a) In General.—Section 403(e) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 343(e)) is amended—

(1) by striking "(2)" and inserting the following in lieu of such clause—"(2) in the case of a manufacturer, packer, or distributor whose annual gross sales made or done business in sales to consumers equals or exceeds $500,000, a toll-free telephone number to accommodate telecommunication devices for deaf persons, commonly known as TDDs; or in the case of a manufacturer, packer, or distributor whose annual gross sales made or done business in sales to consumers equals or exceeds $500,000, a toll-free telephone number for the manufacture, packer, or distributor; and (3)"; and

(2) by striking "clause (2)" and inserting "clause (3)".

(b) Effective Date.—The amendments made by subsection (a) take effect upon the expiration of the 180-day period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 7. DATA ON FOOD-RELATED ALLERGIC RESPONSES.

(a) In General.—Consistent with the findings of the study conducted under subsection (b), the Secretary of Health and Human Services (in this section referred to as the "Secretary"), acting through the Director of the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, the Food and Drug Administration, and in consultation with the Commissioner of Food and Drugs, shall improve the collection of, and (beginning 18 months after the date of the enactment of this Act) annually publish, national data on—

(1) the prevalence of food allergies, and

(2) the incidence of deaths, injuries, including anaphylactic shock, hospitalizations, and physician visits, and the utilization of drugs, associated with allergic responses to foods.

(b) Study.—Not later than one year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary, in consultation with consumers, State governments, and other relevant parties, shall complete a study for the purposes of—

(1) determining whether existing systems for the collection and analysis of national data accurately capture information on the subjects specified in subsection (a); and

(2) identifying new or alternative systems, or enhancements to existing systems, for the reporting collection and analysis of national data necessary to fulfill the purpose of subsection (a).

(c) Public and Provider Education.—The Secretary shall, directly or through contracts with public or private entities, educate physicians and health providers to improve the collection, reporting, and analysis of data on the subjects specified in subsection (a).

(d) Child Fatality Review Teams.—Insofar as is practicable, activities developed or expanded under this section shall include utilization of review teams of professionals identifying and assessing child deaths associated with allergic responses to foods.

(e) Reports to Congress.—Not later than 18 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit to the Congress a report on the progress made with respect to subsections (a) through (d).

(f) Authorization of Appropriations.—For the purpose of carrying out this section, there are authorized to be appropriated $15,000,000 for fiscal year 2003, and such sums as may be necessary for each subsequent fiscal year.

(g) Effective Date.—This section takes effect on the date of the enactment of this Act.

By Mr. ALLARD (for himself, Mr. SESSIONS, and Ms. HITCHCOCK): S. 2501. A bill to establish requirements arising from the delay or restriction on the shipment of special nuclear materials to the Savannah River Site, Aiken, South Carolina; to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. ALLARD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

SECTION 1. REQUIREMENTS RELATING TO DELAY, RESTRICTION, OR PROHIBITION ON SHIPMENT OF SPECIAL NUCLEAR MATERIALS TO SAVANNAH RIVER SITE, AIKEN, SOUTH CAROLINA.

(a) Requirements.—Subject to subsection (c), if as of the date of the enactment of this Act, or at any time after that date, the State of South Carolina acts to delay or restrict, or seeks or enforces a judgment to prohibit, the shipment of special nuclear materials (SNM) to the Savannah River Site, Aiken, South Carolina, for processing by the Commercial Mixed Oxide (C*Mox) Fuel Fabrication Facility at the Savannah River Site, the Secretary of Energy shall—

(1) reopen the Record of Decision (ROD) on the mixed oxide fuel fabrication facility for purposes of identifying and evaluating alternative locations for the mixed oxide fuel fabrication facility and

(2) conduct a study of the costs and implications for the national security of the United States of—

(A) transferring the Savannah River site to an environmental management (EM) closure site; and

(B) transferring all current and proposed national security activities at the Savannah River Site from the Savannah River Site to other facilities of the National Nuclear Security Administration or the Department of Energy.

(b) Report on Study.—If the Secretary conducts a study under subsection (a)(2), the Secretary shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the study not later than six months after the commencement of the study.

(c) Contingent Suspension of Applicability of Requirements.—If at any time before the requirements in subsection (a) otherwise go into effect, the Secretary and the State of South Carolina enter into an agreement respecting the shipment of special nuclear materials to the Savannah River Site for processing by the proposed mixed oxide fuel fabrication facility at the Savannah River Site, the requirements in subsection (a) shall not go into effect as long, as determined by the Secretary, as the Secretary and the State of South Carolina comply with the agreement.

(d) Special Nuclear Materials.—In this section, the term "special nuclear materials" includes weapons-grade plutonium.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE, CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

S4165

Whereas on May 20, 2002, East Timor will become the first new country of the millennium;

Whereas the perseverance and strength of the East Timorese people in the face of daunting challenges has inspired the people of the United States and around the world;

Whereas in 1974 Portugal acknowledged the right of its colonies, including East Timor, to self-determination, including independence;

Whereas East Timor has been under United Nations administration since October, 1999, during which time international peace-keeping forces, supplemented by forces of the United States Group for East Timor (USGET), have worked to stabilize East Timor and provide for its national security;

Whereas the people of East Timor have exercised their long-sought right of self-determination on August 30, 1999, when 98.6 percent of the eligible population voted, and 78.5 percent of the eligible population cast their votes for the independence of East Timor, in a United Nations-administered popular consultation, despite systematic terror and intimidation;
Whereas a constitution for East Timor was adopted in March, 2002;
Whereas East Timor is emerging from more than 400 years of colonization and occupation;
Whereas the East Timorese people again demonstrated their strong commitment to democracy when 91.3 percent of eligible voters participated in East Timor’s first democratic, multiparty election for a Constituent Assembly on August 30, 2001, and when 86.3 percent of those eligible participated in the presidential election on April 14, 2002, electing Xanana Gusamo as their first President;
Whereas, as the people of East Timor move proudly toward independence, many still struggle to recover from the scars of the military occupation and 1999 anti-independence conflict as evidenced in displacement which, according to United Nations and other independent reports, exceed 500,000 in number, and widespread death, rape and other mistreatment of women, family separation, large refugee populations, and the distortion of 70 percent of the country’s infrastructure;
Whereas efforts are ongoing by East Timorese officials and others to seek justice for the crimes against humanity and war crimes that have been perpetrated in recent years, including the work of the Serious Crimes Investigation Unit of the United Nations and the East Timorese Commission for Reception, Truth, and Reconciliation, and the Indonesian armed forces; and
Whereas Indonesian National Human Rights Commission and United Nations Security Council recommendations to investigate and prosecute senior Indonesian military and civilian officials for their roles in promoting the 1999 anti-independence violence in East Timor have not yet been fully implemented;
Whereas, although the people of East Timor are working toward a plan for vigorous economic development and the Government of East Timor will face a substantial shortfall in its recurrent and development budgets over the first 3 years of independence, and is seeking to fill the gap entirely with grants and donor countries; and
Whereas a large percentage of the population of East Timor lives below the poverty line, with inadequate access to health and education, the unemployment rate is estimated at 80 percent, and the life expectancy is only 57 years; Now, therefore,

SECTION 1102. TRADE NEGOTIATING OBJECTIVES.

(a) OVERALL TRADE NEGOTIATING OBJECTIVES—The overall trade negotiating objectives of the United States for agreements subject to the provisions of section 1103 are—
(1) to obtain more open, equitable, and reciprocal market access;
(2) to obtain the reduction or elimination of barriers and distortions that are directly related to or contribute in any other way to unfair competitive advantages for United States exports or otherwise distort foreign government policies and practices of the United States or the United States market access or unreasonably restrict the establishment of new and emerging enterprises, including regulatory and other barriers that decrease market opportunities for United States exports or otherwise distort United States trade;
(3) to further strengthen the system of international trade disciplines and procedures, including dispute settlement;
(4) to foster economic growth, raise living standards, and promote full employment in the United States and to enhance the global economy;
(5) to ensure that trade and environmental policies are mutually supportive and to seek to promote the environment and enhance the international means of doing so, while optimizing the use of the world’s resources;
(6) to promote respect for worker rights and the rights of children consistent with core labor standards of the International Labor Organization (as defined in section 11132) and an understanding of the relationship between trade and worker rights;
(7) to seek provisions in trade agreements under which parties to those agreements strive to ensure that they do not weaken or reduce the protections afforded in domestic environmental and labor laws as an encouragement for foreign trade; and
(8) to ensure that trade agreements afford small businesses equal access to international markets, equitable trade benefits, expanded export market opportunities, and provide for the reduction or elimination of trade barriers that disproportionately impact small business.

(b) PRINCIPAL TRADE NEGOTIATING OBJECTIVES—
(1) TRADE BARRIERS AND DISTORTIONS.—The principal negotiating objectives of the United States with respect to barriers and other trade distortions are—
(A) to expand competitive market opportunities for United States exports and to obtain free, fair, and equitable treatment for United States goods, services, and investments, including the principle of national treatment and the most-favored-nation clause in United States–foreign trade agreements and other multilateral or bilateral trade agreements.
(B) to require that proposed regulations be subject to the provisions of section 1103 are—
(2) PRINCIPAL TRADE NEGOTIATING OBJECTIVES—
(A) to achieve increased transparency and broader application of the principle of transparency through—
(i) increased and more timely public access to information regarding trade issues and the activities of international trade institutions;
(ii) increased openness at the WTO and other international trade fora by increasing public access to appropriate meetings, proceedings, and submissions, including with regard to dispute settlement and investment; and
(iii) increased and more timely public access to all notifications and supporting documentation submitted by parties to the WTO.
(B) to ensure that such standards do not place United States persons at a competitive disadvantage in international trade.

(C) To improve the multilateral trading system and extend the coverage of the World Trade Organization and such agreements to products, sectors, and conditions of trade not adequately covered; and
(B) to expand country participation in and enhancement of the Information Technology Agreement and other trade agreements.

(6) IMPROVEMENT OF THE WTO AND MULTILATERAL TRADE AGREEMENTS.—The principal negotiating objectives of the United States with respect to the Uruguay Round Agreements, and the Uruguay Round Agreement on Liberalization of Trade in Services, the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, the Multilateral Agreement on Investment, the Agreement on Trade-Related Investment Measures, and the Agreement on Trade-Related Intellectual Property Rights—
(A) to obtain high standards and applicable domestic enforcement mechanisms applicable to persons from all countries participating in the applicable trade agreement that prohibit such attempts to influence acts, decisions, or omissions of foreign governments or officials or to secure any improper advantage in a manner affecting trade are—
(i) to obtain high standards and appropriate domestic enforcement mechanisms applicable to persons from all countries participating in the applicable trade agreement that prohibit such attempts to influence acts, decisions, or omissions of foreign governments or officials or to secure any improper advantage in a manner affecting trade are—
(ii) to require that proposed regulations be subject to the provisions of section 1103 are—
(A) to achieve increased transparency and broader application of the principle of transparency through—
(i) increased and more timely public access to information regarding trade issues and the activities of international trade institutions;
(ii) increased openness at the WTO and other international trade fora by increasing public access to appropriate meetings, proceedings, and submissions, including with regard to dispute settlement and investment; and
(iii) increased and more timely public access to all notifications and supporting documentation submitted by parties to the WTO.
(B) to ensure that such standards do not place United States persons at a competitive disadvantage in international trade.

(D) seeking to improve mechanisms used to resolve disputes between an investor and a government through—
(i) establishment of a single appellate body to review decisions in investor-to-government disputes, or to any impendency to the interpretations of investment provisions in trade agreements; and
(ii) procedures to ensure the efficient selection of arbitrators and the expeditious disposition of claims; and
(iii) procedures to enhance opportunities for public input into the formulation of government positions; and
(iv) establishment of a single appellate body to review decisions in investor-to-government disputes, or to any impendency to the interpretations of investment provisions in trade agreements; and
(H) ensuring the fullest measure of transparency in the dispute settlement mechanism, to the extent consistent with the need to protect information that is classified or business confidential, by—
(i) procedures to ensure the efficient selection of arbitrators and the expeditious disposition of claims; and
(ii) procedures to enhance opportunities for public input into the formulation of government positions; and
(3) INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY.—The principal negotiating objectives of the United States regarding trade-related intellectual property agreements are—
(A) to expand competitive market opportunities for United States exports or otherwise distort United States trade; and
(B) to obtain reciprocal tariff and nontariff barriers to trade agreements, which will provide for particular attention to those tariff categories covered in section 111(b) of the Uruguay Round Agreements Act (19 U.S.C. 3321(b)).

(2) PRINCIPAL TRADE NEGOTIATING OBJECTIVES—
(A) to obtain increased and more timely public access to all notifications and supporting documentation submitted by parties to the WTO.
(B) to ensure that such standards do not place United States persons at a competitive disadvantage in international trade.

(3) FOREIGN INVESTMENT.—Recognizing that United States law on the whole provides a high level of protection for investment, consistent with or greater than the level required by international law, the principal negotiating objectives of the United States regarding foreign investment are to reduce or eliminate artificial or trade-distorting barriers to trade-related foreign investment, while ensuring that United States investors in the United States have not accorded lesser rights than foreign investors in the United States, and to secure for investors important rights comparable to those that would be available under United States legal principles and practice, by—
(A) reducing or eliminating exceptions to the principle of national treatment;
(B) reducing or eliminating performance requirements, technology transfers, and other unreasonable barriers to the establishment and operation of investments;
(D) seeking to establish standards for expropriation and similar actions for expropriation, consistent with United States legal principles and practice;
(E) seeking to establish standards for fair and equitable treatment consistent with United States legal principles and practice, including the principle of due process;
(F) ensuring meaningful procedures for resolving investments;
(G) seeking to improve mechanisms used to resolve disputes between an investor and a government through—
(i) establishment of a single appellate body to review decisions in investor-to-government disputes, or to any impendency to the interpretations of investment provisions in trade agreements; and
(ii) procedures to ensure the efficient selection of arbitrators and the expeditious disposition of claims; and
(iii) procedures to enhance opportunities for public input into the formulation of government positions; and
(iv) establishment of a single appellate body to review decisions in investor-to-government disputes, or to any impendency to the interpretations of investment provisions in trade agreements; and
(B) to require that proposed regulations be subject to the provisions of section 1103 are—
(A) to achieve increased transparency and broader application of the principle of transparency through—
(i) increased and more timely public access to information regarding trade issues and the activities of international trade institutions; government procurement and other regulatory regimes; and
(D) to achieve the elimination of government measures such as price controls and reference pricing which deny full market access for United States products.

9) Electronic Commerce.—The principal negotiating objectives of the United States with respect to electronic commerce include:
(A) to ensure that current obligations, rules, disciplines, and commitments under the World Trade Organization apply to electronic commerce;
(B) to ensure that—
(i) electronically delivered goods and services are eligible for expedited dispute settlement procedures under trade rules and commitments that allow products delivered in physical form; and
(ii) the classification of such goods and services ensures the most liberal trade treatment possible;
(C) to ensure that governments refrain from implementing trade-related measures that impede electronic commerce;
(D) where legitimate policy objectives require domestic regulations that affect electronic commerce, to obtain commitments that do not unduly restrict trade, are transparent, and promote an open market environment.

10) Reciprocal Trade in Agriculture.—(A) IN GENERAL.—The principal negotiating objective of the United States with respect to agriculture is to obtain competitive opportunities for United States exports of agricultural commodities in foreign markets substantially equivalent to the competitive opportunities afforded foreign exports in United States markets and to achieve fairer and more open conditions of trade in bulk, specialty crop, and value-added commodities by—
(I) reducing or eliminating, by a date certain, tariffs or other charges that decrease market opportunities for United States exports;
(ii) giving priority to those products that are subject to significantly higher tariffs or subsidy regimes of major producing countries; and
(iii) providing reasonable adjustment periods for United States import-sensitive products, in close consultation with the Congress on such products, before initiating tariff-reduction negotiations;
(iv) reducing tariffs to levels that are the same as or lower than those in the United States markets and to achieve fairer and more open conditions of trade in bulk, specialty crop, and value-added commodities by—
(I) unfair or trade-distorting activities of state trading enterprises and other administrative mechanisms, with emphasis on requiring price transparency in the operation of such enterprises, and on other mechanisms in order to end cross subsidization, price discrimination, and price undercutting;
(ii) unjustified trade restrictions or commercial requirements, such as labeling, that affect new technologies, including biotechnology;
(iii) unjustified sanitary or phytosanitary restrictions, including those not based on scientific principles in contravention of the Uruguay Round Agreement Text;
(iv) other unjustified technical barriers to trade; and
(V) restrictive rules in the administration of tariff rates;
(VI) eliminating practices that adversely affect trade in perishable or cyclical products, while improving import relief mechanisms to recognize the unique characteristics of perishable and cyclical agriculture;
(xvi) striving to complete a general multilateral round of negotiations on agriculture before January 1, 2005, and seek the broadest appropriate, to the fact finding and technical

SCOPE OF OBJECTIVE.—The negotiating objective provided in subparagraph (A) applies with respect to agricultural matters to be addressed in any trade agreement entered into under section 1103 (a) or (b) that provides for accession to a trade agreement to which the United States is already a party, such as the North American Free Trade Agreement and the United States-Canada Free Trade Agreement.

LABOR AND THE ENVIRONMENT.—The principal negotiating objectives of the United States with respect to labor and the environment are—
(A) to ensure that a party to a trade agreement with the United States does not fail to effectively enforce its environmental or labor laws, through a sustained or recurring course of action or inaction, in a manner affecting trade between the United States and that party after entry into force of a trade agreement between those countries;
(B) to recognize that parties to a trade agreement retain the right to exercise discretion with respect to investigatory, prosecutorial, regulatory, and compliance matters and to make decisions regarding the allocation of resources that are consistent with respect to other labor or environmental matters determined to have higher priorities, and to recognize that countries are effectively enforcing their laws if a course of action or inaction reflects a reasonable exercise of such discretion, or results from a bona fide decision regarding the allocation of resources and no retaliation may be authorized based on the exercise of these rights or the right to establish domestic labor standards and levels of environmental protection;
(C) to strengthen the capacity of United States trading partners to protect the environment through the promotion of sustainable development;
(D) to reduce or eliminate government practices or policies that unduly threaten sustainable development; and
(E) to seek market access, through the elimination of tariffs and nontariff barriers, for United States environmental technologies, goods, and services; and
(F) to ensure that the environment, health, or safety policies and practices of the parties to trade agreements with the United States do not arbitrarily or unreasonably discriminate against United States exports or serve as disguised barriers to trade.

DISPUTE SETTLEMENT AND ENFORCEMENT.—The principal negotiating objectives of the United States with respect to dispute settlement and enforcement of trade agreements are—
(A) to seek provisions in trade agreements pursuant to the Dispute Settlement Understanding ensuring that governments under those trade agreements in an effective, timely, transparent, equitable, and reasoned manner, requiring determination of the application of the principles of the agreements, with the goal of increasing compliance with the agreements;
(B) to seek to strengthen the capacity of the United States Policy Body to review compliance with commitments; and
(C) to seek improved adherence by panels conducting disputes under the Understanding on Rules and Procedures Governing the Settlement of Disputes and by the WTO Appellate Body to the standard of review applicable under section 1113 (2) of the Uruguay Round Agreements.

THE UNITED STATES TRADE REPRESENTATIVE—The United States Trade Representative shall seek to ensure, where favorable, that the Uruguay Round agreements reported in each country's Uruguay Round market access schedule.
expertise of national investigating authorities; (D) to seek provisions encouraging the early identification and settlement of disputes through consultation; (E) to seek provisions to encourage the provision of trade-expanding compensation if a party to a dispute under the agreement does not come into compliance with its obligations under the agreement; (F) to seek provisions to impose a penalty upon a party to a dispute under the agreement for noncompliance with—(i) the agreement, (ii) the equivalent dispute settlement procedures, and (iii) the availability of equivalent remedies; (13) BORDER TAXES.—The principal negotiating objective of the United States regarding border taxes is to obtain a revision of the WTO rules with respect to the treatment of border adjustments for internal taxes to redress the disadvantage to countries relying primarily on direct taxes for revenue rather than indirect taxes. (14) WTO EXTENDED NEGOTIATIONS.—The principal negotiating objective of the United States regarding trade in civil aircraft (either incorporated within section 331(c) of the Uruguay Round Agreements Act (19 U.S.C. 331(c)) and regarding rules of origin are the conclusion of an agreement described in section 331 of that Act (19 U.S.C. 331)); (c) PROMOTION OF CERTAIN PRIORITIES.—In order to address and maintain United States competitiveness in the global economy, the President shall— (1) seek greater cooperation between the WTO and the ILO; (2) seek to establish consultative mechanisms among parties to trade agreements to strengthen the capacity of United States trading partners to promote respect for core labor standards (as defined in section 11132(a)), and report to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate on the content and operation of such mechanisms; (3) seek to establish consultative mechanisms among parties to trade agreements to strengthen the capacity of United States trading partners to develop and implement standards for the protection of the environment and human health based on sound science (as such guidance is promulgated under the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate on the content and operation of such mechanisms); (4) conduct environmental reviews of future trade and investment agreements, consistent with Executive Order 13141 of November 16, 1999 and the relevant guidelines, and report to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate on the content and operation of such mechanisms; (5) review the impact of future trade agreements on United States employment, modeled after Executive Order 13141, and report to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate on such review; (6) take into account other legitimate United States domestic objectives including, but not limited to, the protection of legiti-mate health or safety, essential security, the U.S. consumer and producer and the law and regulations related thereto; (7) have the Secretary of Labor consult with any country seeking a trade agreement that will not otherwise be consistent with that country’s labor laws and provide technical assistance to that country if needed; (8) in connection with any trade negotiations entered into under this division, the President shall submit to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate a meaningful labor rights report of the country, or countries, with respect to which the President is negotiating, on a timeframe determined in accordance with section 1107(b)(2)(E); (9)(A) preserve the ability of the United States to enforce rigorously its trade laws, including the antidumping, countervailing duty, and safeguard laws, and avoid agreements that lessen the effectiveness of domestic and international disciplines on unfair trade practices, especially dumping and subsidize, except that agreements that lessen the effectiveness of domestic and international safeguard provisions, in order to ensure that United States workers, agricultural producers, and consumers can compete fully on fair terms and enjoy the benefits of reciprocal trade concessions; and (B) address and remedy market distortions that lead to unfair or subsidized, including overcapacity, cartelization, and market-access barriers. (10) continue to promote consideration of multilateral environmental agreements and consult with parties to such agreements regarding the consistency of any such agreement with the United States trade laws, trade measures with existing environmental exceptions under Article XX of the GATT 1994; (11) report to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate, not later than 12 months after the imposition of a penalty or remedy by the United States permitted by a trade agreement to which this division applies, on the effectiveness of the penalty or remedy applied under United States law in enforcing United States rights under the trade agreement; and (12) seek to establish consultative mechanisms among parties to trade agreements to examine the targets of a dispute, and remedy distortions that lead to unfair or subsidized, including overcapacity, cartelization, and market-access barriers. The report required under paragraph (11) shall address whether the penalty or remedy was effective in changing the behavior of the targeted parties. Whether the penalty or remedy had any adverse impact on parties or interests not party to the dispute. (d) CONSULTATIONS. (1) CONSULTATIONS WITH CONGRESSIONAL AD-VISORS.—In the course of negotiations conducted under this division, the United States Trade Representative shall consult closely and on a timely basis with, and keep fully apprised of the negotiations, the Congressional Oversight Group convened under section 1107 and all committees of the House of Representatives and the Senate with jurisdiction over laws that would be affected by a trade agreement resulting from the negotiations. (2) CONSULTATION BEFORE AGREEMENT INITI-ATED.—In the course of negotiations conducted under this division, the United States Trade Representative shall consult closely and on a timely basis with, and keep fully apprised of the negotiations, the Congressional Oversight Group convened under section 1107 and all committees of the House of Representatives and the Senate with jurisdiction over laws that would be affected by a trade agreement resulting from the negotiations. (3) AGRARIAN REDUCTION; EXEMPTION FROM STAGING.— (A) AGRARIAN REDUCTION.—Except as provi-sed in subparagraph (B), the aggregate reduction in the rate of duty on any article which is in effect on any day pursuant to a trade agreement entered into under paragraph (1) shall not exceed the aggregate reduction which would have been in effect on such day if—

(i) a reduction of 3 percent ad valorem or a reduction of one-tenth of the total reduction, whichever is greater, had taken effect on the effective date of the first reduction proclaimed under paragraph (1) to carry out such agreement with respect to such article; and

(ii) a reduction equal to the amount applicable under clause (i) had taken effect at 4-year intervals after the effective date of such first reduction.

(B) EXEMPTION FROM STAGING.—No staging is required under subparagraph (A) with respect to a duty reduction that is proclaimed under paragraph (1) for an article of a kind that is not produced in the United States.

The President may enter into a trade agreement under this paragraph before June 1, 2005, if such agreement—

(i) the reduction or elimination of a duty, restriction, barrier, or other distortion described in subparagraph (A), or

(ii) the prohibition of, or limitation on the imposition of, such barrier or other distortion.

The President may enter into a trade agreement under this paragraph before

(A) June 1, 2005; or

(B) June 1, 2007, if trade authorities procedures are extended under subsection (c).

(B) PROVISIONS DESCRIBED.—The provisions referred to in subparagraph (A) are—

(i) a provision approving a trade agreement entered into under this subsection and approving the statement of administrative action, if any, proposed to implement such trade agreement; and

(ii) if changes in existing laws or new statutory authority are required to implement such trade agreement or agreements, or necessary or appropriate to implement such trade agreement or agreements, either repealing or amending existing laws or providing new statutory authority.

(C) TIME PERIOD.—The International Trade Commission shall submit to the Congress, not later than March 1, 2005, a written report that contains a review and analysis of the economic impact on the United States of all trade agreements implemented under this Act and the date on which the President decides to seek an extension requested under paragraph (2).

The President may enter into a trade agreement under this paragraph before

(A) June 1, 2005; or

(B) June 1, 2007, if trade authorities procedures are extended under subsection (c).

The provisions referred to in subparagraph (A) are—

(i) a provision approving a trade agreement entered into under this subsection and approving the statement of administrative action, if any, proposed to implement such trade agreement; and

(ii) if changes in existing laws or new statutory authority are required to implement such trade agreement or agreements, or necessary or appropriate to implement such trade agreement or agreements, either repealing or amending existing laws or providing new statutory authority.

The President may enter into a trade agreement under this paragraph before June 1, 2005, if such agreement—

(i) the reduction or elimination of a duty, restriction, barrier, or other distortion described in subparagraph (A), or

(ii) the prohibition of, or limitation on the imposition of, such barrier or other distortion.

The President may enter into a trade agreement under this paragraph before

(A) June 1, 2005; or

(B) June 1, 2007, if trade authorities procedures are extended under subsection (c).

Conventions.—A trade agreement may be entered into under this subsection only if such agreement makes progress in meeting the applicable objectives described in section 1102 that satisfies the conditions set forth in section 1104.

(B) PROVISIONS DESCRIBED.—The provisions referred to in subparagraph (A) are—

(i) a provision approving a trade agreement entered into under this subsection and approving the statement of administrative action, if any, proposed to implement such trade agreement; and

(ii) if changes in existing laws or new statutory authority are required to implement such trade agreement or agreements, or necessary or appropriate to implement such trade agreement or agreements, either repealing or amending existing laws or providing new statutory authority.

(E) EXTENSION DISAPPROVAL RESOLUTIONS.—(1) IN GENERAL.—The President shall hereafter in this division be referred to implementing bills under that section.

(2) TRADE AGREEMENTS REGARDING TARIFF AND NONTARIFF BARRIERS.—(A) DETERMINATION BY PRESIDENT.—When ever the President determines that—

(i) one or more existing duties or any other import barrier, under section 301 of the Trade Act of 1974, that are applied by the United States or any other barrier to, or other distortion of, international trade un duly burdens or restricts the foreign trade of the United States adversely affects the United States economy; or

(ii) the imposition of any such barrier or distortion is likely to result in such a burden, restriction, or effect;

and that the purposes, policies, priorities, and objectives of this division will be promoted thereby, the President may enter into a trade agreement described in subparagraph (B) during the period described in subparagraph (C).

(B) AGREEMENT TO REDUCE OR ELIMINATE CERTAIN DISTORTION.—The President may enter into a trade agreement under subparagraph (A) with foreign countries providing for—

(A) REPORT BY THE ADVISORY COMMITTEE.—The President shall promptly inform the Ad visory Committee for Trade Policy and Negotiations described in section 135 of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 1315) of the President’s decision to submit a report to the Congress under paragraph (2). The Advisory Committee shall submit to the Congress and the President, by May 1, 2005, a written report that contains—

(i) its views regarding the progress that has been made in negotiations to achieve the purposes, policies, priorities, and objectives of this division; and

(ii) a statement of its views, and the reasons therefor, regarding whether the extension requested under paragraph (2) should be approved or disapproved.

(2) STATUS OF REPORTS.—The reports submitted to the Congress under paragraphs (2) and (3), or any portion of such reports, may be classified to the extent the President determines appropriate.

(5) EXTENSION DISAPPROVAL RESOLUTIONS.—(A) DEFINITION.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the term “extension disapproval resolution” means a resolution of either House of the Congress, the sole matter after the resolving clause of which is as follows: ’That the—disapproves the request of the President and the extension disapproval resolution of the Bipartisan Trade Promotion Authority Act of 2002, of the trade authorities procedures under Act to any implementing bill submitted with respect to any trade agreement entered into under section 1102(b) of that Act after June 30, 2005,’ with the blank space being filled with the name of the resolving House of the Congress.

(B) INTRODUCTION.—Extension disapproval resolutions—

(i) may be introduced in either House of the Congress by any member of such House; and

(ii) shall be referred, in the House of Representatives, to the Committee on Ways and Means and, in addition, to the Committee on Rules.

(C) APPLICATION OF SECTION 135 OF THE TRADE ACT OF 1974.—The provisions of sections 152 (d) and (e) of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2192 (d) and (e)) (relating to the floor consideration of certain resolutions in the House and Senate) apply to extension disapproval resolutions.

(D) LIMITATIONS.—It is not in order for—

(i) the Senate to consider any extension disapproval resolution not reported by the Committee on Finance;

(ii) the House of Representatives to consider any extension disapproval resolution not reported by the Committee on Ways and Means and, in addition, by the Committee on Rules; or

(iii) either House of the Congress to consider an extension disapproval resolution after June 30, 2005.

(E) COMMENCEMENT OF NEGOTIATIONS.—In order to contribute to the continued economic expansion of the United States, the President shall commence covering tariff and nontariff barriers affecting any industry, product, or service sector, and expand existing sectoral agreements to countries that are not parties to those agreements, in cases where the President determines that such negotiations are feasible and that they will benefit the United States. Such sectors include agriculture, commercial services, intellectual property rights, industrial and capital goods, government procurement, telecommunications, and so forth. The President shall consult with the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate concerning the results of the assessment, whether it is appropriate for the United States to agree to on-market or in-quota tariff reductions based on the conclusions reached in the assessment, and how all applicable negotiating objectives will be met.

B. IDENTIFICATION OF ADDITIONAL AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.—(1) the United States Trade Representative identifies any additional agricultural products described in subparagraph (A) of section 1101(c)(4) that were bound under the Uruguay Round Agreements lower than the tariffs bound by that country and whether er the negotiation provides an opportunity to address any such disparity. The President shall consult with the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate concerning the results of the assessment, whether it is appropriate for the United States to agree to on-market or in-quota tariff reductions based on the conclusions reached in the assessment, and how all applicable negotiating objectives will be met.

3. REPORT ON IMPLEMENTATION OF AGREEMENT ENTERED INTO.—(1) Consultation.—Before entering into any trade agreement under section 1101(b)(2), the President shall consult with the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate about the purposes, policies, and objectives of this agreement which will be affected by the trade agreement; and

C. IMPLEMENTATION OF AGREEMENT ENTERED INTO.—Section 1105, including the general effect of the agreement on existing laws.

3. REPORT REGARDING UNITED STATES TRADE REMEDY LAWS.—(A) CHANGES IN CERTAIN TRADE LAWS.—The President, at least 90 calendar days before the day on which the President enters into a trade agreement, shall notify the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives, and the Senate of those products identified under subsection (b) of section 1102, that he intends to seek tariff liberalization in the negotiations involving subject matters which would be affected by the trade agreement; and

C. REPORT TO HOUSE.—Not later than 60 calendar days after the date on which the President transmits the notification described in subparagraph (A), the Chairman and ranking member of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, and the Chairman and ranking member of the Committee of the Senate, based on consultations with the members of that Committee, shall issue to the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate a report stating whether the proposed amendments are consistent with the purposes, policies, and objectives described in section 1102(c)(9). In the event that the Chairman and ranking member disagree with regard to the proposed amendments, the report shall contain the separate views of the Chairman and ranking member.

D. REPORT TO SENATE.—Not later than 60 calendar days after the date on which the President transmits the notification described in subparagraph (A), the Chairman and ranking member of the Committee of the Senate, shall issue to the Senate a report stating whether the proposed amendments described in the President’s report are consistent with the purposes, policies, and objectives described in section 1102(c)(9). In the event that the Chairman of the Committee or the Congress disagrees with respect to one or more conclusions, the report shall contain the separate views of the Chairman and ranking member.

(e) ITC ASSESSMENT.—The report required under section 135(e)(1) of the Trade Act of 1974 regarding any trade agreement entered into under section 1103 (a) or (b) or this division shall be provided to the President, the Congress, and the United States Trade Representative not later than 30 days after the date on which the President notifies the Congress under section 1105(a)(i) or 1105(a)(1)(A) of the President’s intention to enter into the agreement.

(f) ITC ASSESSMENT.—(1) IN GENERAL.—(A) the President, at least 90 calendar days before the day on which the President enters into a trade agreement under section 1103(b), shall provide the International Trade Commission (referred to in this subsection as “the Commission”) with the details of the agreement as it exists at that time and request the Commission to prepare an assessment of the agreement as described in paragraph (2). Between the time the President makes the request under this paragraph and the time the Commission submits the assessment, the President shall keep the Commission current with respect to the details of the agreement.

(2) ITC ASSESSMENT.—Not later than 90 calendar days after the President enters into the agreement, the Commission shall submit to the President and the Congress a report assessing the likely impact of the agreement on the United States economy as a whole and on specific industry sectors, including the impact the agreement will have on the gross domestic product, exports and imports, aggregate and employment opportunities, the production, employment, and competitive position of industries likely to be significantly affected by the agreement, and the interests of United States consumers.

(3) REVIEW OF EMPIRICAL LITERATURE.—In preparing the assessment, the Commission shall seek economic assessments regarding the agreement, including literature regarding any substantially equivalent proposed agreement, and shall provide in the report a description of the analyses used and conclusions drawn in such literature, and a discussion of areas of consensus and divergence between the various analyses, including a discussion of the Commission regarding the agreement.

SEC. 1105. IMPLEMENTATION OF TRADE AGREEMENTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—(A) the President, at least 90 calendar days before the day on which the President enters into an agreement—

(i) notifies the House of Representatives and the Senate of the President’s intention to enter into the agreement, and promptly thereafter publishes notice of such intention in the Federal Register; and

(ii) transmits to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate the notification an report described in section 1104(d)(3) (A) and (B); and

(B) within 60 days after entering into the agreement, the President submits to the Congress an implementing bill for the changes to existing laws that the President considers would be required in order to bring the United States into compliance with the agreement;

(C) after entering into the agreement, the President submits to the Congress, on a day on which both Houses of Congress are in session, a copy of the final legal text of the agreement, together with—

(i) a draft of an implementing bill described in subparagraph (A) that is consistent with section 1104(d)(1); (ii) a statement of any administrative action proposed to implement the trade agreement; and

(iii) the supporting information described in paragraph (2); and

(D) the implementing bill is enacted into law.

(b) SUPPORTING INFORMATION.—The supporting information required under paragraph (1)(C)(iii) consists of—

(A) an explanation as to how the implementing bill and proposed administrative action will change or affect existing law; and

(B) a statement—

(i) asserting that the agreement makes progress in achieving the applicable purposes, policies, priorities, and objectives of this division; and

(ii) setting forth with the reasons of the President regarding—

(I) how and to what extent the agreement makes progress in achieving the applicable purposes, policies, priorities, and objectives referred to in clause (i);

(II) whether and how the agreement changes provisions of an agreement previously negotiated; and

(III) how the agreement serves the interests of United States commerce.

(c) RECIPROCAL BENEFITS.—In order to ensure that a foreign country that is not a beneficiary of the trade agreement under section 1103(b) does not receive benefits under the agreement unless the country is also a beneficiary, the Agreement shall provide—

(I) a draft of an implementing bill described in section 1104(b)(3) (C) and (D) contain any findings that the proposed amendments are inconsistent with the purposes, policies, and objectives described in section 1102(c)(9), an explanation as to why the President believes such findings to be incorrect.

(2) PROCEDURAL DISAPPROVAL RESOLUTION.—(I) For purposes of this paragraph, the term “procedural disapproval resolution” means any resolution passed by the House of Representatives, the Senate, or both, in which the President failed to notify or consult in accordance with the Bipartisan Trade Promotion Authority Act of 2002 on negotiations with respect to an agreement, and, therefore, the trade authorities procedures under that Act shall not apply to any implementing bill submitted with respect to such trade agreement or agreements.

(ii) The provisions of section 1107(b) have not been developed or met with respect to the negotiations, agreement, or agreements; and

(iii) The President has not met with the Congressional Oversight Group pursuant to a request made under section 1107(c) with respect to the negotiations, agreement, or agreements.

(d) COMMITTEE OF COMMITTEES.—In order to ensure that a foreign country that is not a beneficiary of the trade agreement under section 1103(b) does not receive benefits under the agreement unless the country is also a beneficiary, the Agreement shall provide—

(I) the President has failed or refused to consult (as the case may be) in accordance with section 1104(c) (a) and (b) with respect to that trade agreement or agreements.

(e) PROCEDURAL DISAPPROVAL RESOLUTION.—(I) The provisions of section 1107(b) have not been developed or met with respect to the negotiations, agreement, or agreements; and

(ii) the agreement or agreements fail to make progress in achieving the purposes, policies, priorities, and objectives of this division.

(f) PROCEEDINGS FOR CONSIDERING RESOLUTIONS.—(I) Procedural disapproval resolutions—

(aa) may be introduced by any Member of the House;

(bb) shall be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means; and, in addition, to the Committee on Rules; and

(cc) may not be amended by either Committee; and

(ii) in the Senate—

(aa) may be introduced by any Member of the Senate;

(bb) shall be referred to the Committee on Finance; and

(cc) may not be amended.

(g) LIMITATIONS ON TRADE AUTHORITIES.—(I) FOR LACK OF NOTICE OR CONSULTATION.— of the House of Representatives and the Senator which would have, by virtue of their being members of the House of Representatives, jurisdiction over provisions of law affected by a trade agreement for which are conducted at any time during that Congress and to which this division would apply.

(3) Membership from the Senate.—In each Congress the Congressional Oversight Group shall also be comprised of the following members of the Senate:

(A) The chairman and ranking member of the Committee on Finance and 3 additional members of such Committee (not more than 2 of whom are members of the same political party).

(B) The chairman and ranking member, or their designees, of the committees of the Senate which would, under the rules of the Senate, jurisdiction over provisions of law affected by trade negotiations for which are conducted at any time during that Congress and to which this division would apply.

(4) Accreditation.—Each member of the Congressional Oversight Group described in paragraph (2) shall be accredited by the United States Trade Representative on behalf of the President as official advisors to the United States delegation in negotiations for any trade agreement to which this division applies. Each member of the Congressional Oversight Group described in paragraph (3) shall be accredited by the United States Trade Representative on behalf of the President as official advisors to the United States delegation in the negotiations by reason of which the member is in the Congressional Oversight Group. The Congressional Oversight Group shall consult with and provide advice to the Trade Representative regarding the formulation of specific objectives, negotiating strategies and the implementation of the applicable trade agreement, and compliance and enforcement of the negotiated commitments under the trade agreement.

(5) Chair.—The Congressional Oversight Group shall be chaired by the Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Chairman of the Committee on Finance of the Senate.

(b) Guidelines.—

(1) Purpose and Revision.—The United States Trade Representative and the Trade Representative shall submit to the Congress, at the conclusion of his consultation with the chairman and ranking minority members of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate, a written report containing the following:

(A) shall, within 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, develop written guidelines to facilitate the useful and timely exchange of information between the Trade Representative and the Congressional Oversight Group established under this section; and

(B) may make such revisions to the guidelines as may be necessary from time to time.

(2) Content.—The guidelines developed under paragraph (1) shall provide for:

(A) regular, detailed briefings of the Congressional Oversight Group regarding negotiating objectives, including the promotion of the national and international economic objectives described in section 1102(c), and positions and the status of the applicable negotiations, beginning as soon as practicable after the Congressional Oversight Group is convened, with more frequent briefings as trade negotiations enter the final stage;

(2) Membership from the House.—In each Congress, the Congressional Oversight Group shall be comprised of the following Members of the House of Representatives:

(A) The chairman and ranking member of the Committee on Ways and Means, and 3 additional members of such Committee (not more than 2 of whom are members of the same political party).

(B) The chairman and ranking member, or their designees, of the committees of the House of Representatives which would have, by virtue of their being members of the House of Representatives, jurisdiction over provisions of law affected by a trade agreement for which are conducted at any time during that Congress and to which this division would apply.

(3) Membership from the Senate.—In each Congress the Congressional Oversight Group shall also be comprised of the following members of the Senate:

(A) The chairman and ranking member of the Committee on Finance and 3 additional members of such Committee (not more than 2 of whom are members of the same political party).

(B) The chairman and ranking member, or their designees, of the committees of the Senate which would, under the Rules of the Senate, jurisdiction over provisions of law affected by trade negotiations for which are conducted at any time during that Congress and to which this division would apply.

(4) Accreditation.—Each member of the Congressional Oversight Group described in paragraph (2)(A) and (3)(A) shall be accredited by the United States Trade Representative on behalf of the President as official advisors to the United States delegation in negotiations for any trade agreement to which this division applies. Each member of the Congressional Oversight Group described in paragraph (2)(B) and (3)(B) shall be accredited by the United States Trade Representative on behalf of the President as official advisors to the United States delegation in the negotiations by reason of which the member is in the Congressional Oversight Group. The Congressional Oversight Group shall consult with and provide advice to the Trade Representative regarding the formulation of specific objectives, negotiating strategies and the implementation of the applicable trade agreement, and compliance and enforcement of the negotiated commitments under the trade agreement.

(5) Chair.—The Congressional Oversight Group shall be chaired by the Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Chairman of the Committee on Finance of the Senate.

(b) Guidelines.—

(1) Purpose and Revision.—The United States Trade Representative and the Trade Representative shall submit to the Congress, at the conclusion of his consultation with the chairman and ranking minority members of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate, a written report containing the following:

(A) shall, within 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, develop written guidelines to facilitate the useful and timely exchange of information between the Trade Representative and the Congressional Oversight Group established under this section; and

(B) may make such revisions to the guidelines as may be necessary from time to time.

(2) Content.—The guidelines developed under paragraph (1) shall provide for:

(A) regular, detailed briefings of the Congressional Oversight Group regarding negotiating objectives, including the promotion of the national and international economic objectives described in section 1102(c), and positions and the status of the applicable negotiations, beginning as soon as practicable after the Congressional Oversight Group is convened, with more frequent briefings as trade negotiations enter the final stage;

(B) shall be comprised of the following Members of the Committee on Finance of the Senate shall convene the Congressional Oversight Group.

(2) Membership from the House.—In each Congress, the Congressional Oversight Group shall be comprised of the following Members of the House of Representatives:

(A) The chairman and ranking member of the Committee on Ways and Means, and 3 additional members of such Committee (not more than 2 of whom are members of the same political party).

(B) The chairman and ranking member, or their designees, of the committees of the House of Representatives which would have, by virtue of their being members of the House of Representatives, jurisdiction over provisions of law affected by a trade agreement for which are conducted at any time during that Congress and to which this division would apply.

(3) Membership from the Senate.—In each Congress the Congressional Oversight Group shall also be comprised of the following members of the Senate:

(A) The chairman and ranking member of the Committee on Finance and 3 additional members of such Committee (not more than 2 of whom are members of the same political party).

(B) The chairman and ranking member, or their designees, of the committees of the Senate which would have, under the Rules of the Senate, jurisdiction over provisions of law affected by trade negotiations for which are conducted at any time during that Congress and to which this division would apply.

(4) Accreditation.—Each member of the Congressional Oversight Group described in paragraph (2)(A) and (3)(A) shall be accredited by the United States Trade Representative on behalf of the President as official advisors to the United States delegation in negotiations for any trade agreement to which this division applies. Each member of the Congressional Oversight Group described in paragraph (2)(B) and (3)(B) shall be accredited by the United States Trade Representative on behalf of the President as official advisors to the United States delegation in the negotiations by reason of which the member is in the Congressional Oversight Group. The Congressional Oversight Group shall consult with and provide advice to the Trade Representative regarding the formulation of specific objectives, negotiating strategies and the implementation of the applicable trade agreement, and compliance and enforcement of the negotiated commitments under the trade agreement.

(5) Chair.—The Congressional Oversight Group shall be chaired by the Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Chairman of the Committee on Finance of the Senate.

(b) Guidelines.—

Division B—Andean Trade Preference

Title XXI—Andean Trade Preference

Sec. 2011. SHORT TITLE.

This division may be cited as the “Andean Trade Preference Expansion Act”.

Sec. 2012. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Since the Andean Trade Preference Act was enacted in 1991, it has had a positive impact on United States trade with Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador, and Peru. Two-way trade has increased, with the United States serving as the leading source of imports and leading export market for each of the Andean beneficiary countries. This has resulted in increased jobs and expanded export opportunities in both the United States and the Andean region.

(2) The Andean Trade Preference Act has been a key element in the United States counternarcotics strategy in the Andean region, promoting export diversification and broad-based economic development that provides sustainable economic alternatives to drug-crop production, strengthening the legitimate economies of Andean countries and creating viable alternatives to illicit trade in coca.

(3) Notwithstanding the success of the Andean Trade Preference Act, the Andean region remains threatened by political and economic instability and fragility, vulnerable to the consequences of the drug war and fierce global competition for its legitimate trade.

(4) The continuing instability in the Andean region poses a threat to the security interests of the United States and the world. This problem has been partially addressed through foreign aid, such as Plan Colombia, enacted by Congress in 2000. However, foreign aid alone is not sufficient. Enhancement of legitimate trade with the United States provides an alternative means for reviving and stabilizing the economies in the Andean region.
(5) The Andean Trade Preference Act constitutes a tangible commitment by the United States to the promotion of prosperity, stability, and democracy in the beneficiary countries.

(6) Renewal and enhancement of the Andean Trade Preference Act will bolster the confidence of domestic private enterprise and foreign investors in the economic prospects of the region, ensuring that legitimate private enterprise can be the engine of economic development and political stability in the region.

(7) Each of the Andean beneficiary countries is committed to conclude negotiation of a Free Trade Area of the Americas by the year 2005 and to enhance the economic security of the region.

(8) Temporarily enhancing trade benefits for Andean beneficiaries will promote the growth of free enterprise and economic opportunity in these countries and serve the security interests of the United States, the region, and the world.

SEC. 2103. TEMPORARY PROVISIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 204(b) of the Andean Trade Preference Act (19 U.S.C. 3233(b)) is amended to read as follows:

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subheading 9902.84.02 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States is amended—

(1) by striking “4.9%” and inserting “‘Free’”;

(2) by striking “12/31/2000” and inserting “12/31/2006”.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsection (a) shall apply to goods entered on or after a date determined by the Secretary after the date of enactment of this Act; and

(c) TRANSITION.—The Secretary is authorized to delay the effective date of subsection (a) if the Secretary determines that the effective date would disrupt the orderly functioning of the domestic market for the item described in subsection (a).

SEC. 6603. DEPOSITS MADE TO SUSPEND RUNNING OF INTEREST ON POTENTIAL UNDERPAYMENTS.

(a) AUTHORITY TO MAKE DEPOSITS OTHER THAN AS PAYMENT OF TAX.—A taxpayer may make a cash deposit with the Secretary which may be used by the Secretary to pay any tax (including interest) that the taxpayer may owe the Secretary or under title A or B or chapter 41, 42, 43, or 44 which has not been assessed at the time of the deposit. Such a deposit shall be made in such manner as the Secretary shall prescribe.

(b) NO INTEREST IMPOSED.—To the extent that such deposit is used by the Secretary to pay tax, for purposes of section 6601 (relating to interest on underpayments), the tax shall be treated as paid when the deposit is made.

(c) RETURN OF DEPOSITS.—Except in a case where the Secretary determines that collection of tax is in jeopardy, the Secretary shall return to the taxpayer any amount of the deposit (to the extent not used for a payment of tax) which the taxpayer requests in writing.

(d) PAYMENT OF INTEREST.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of section 6601 relating to interest on overpayments, a deposit which is returned to a taxpayer shall be treated as a payment of tax for any period to the extent that such deposit is used for a payment of tax for such period. Under regulations prescribed by the Secretary, rules similar to the rules of section 6611(b)(2) shall apply.

(2) DISPUTABLE ITEM.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘disputable item’ means the amount of tax specified at the time of the deposit as the taxpayer’s reasonable estimate of the maximum amount of any tax attributable to disputable items.

(B) ISSUE HARBOURS BASED ON 30-DAY LETTER.—In the case of a taxpayer who has been issued a 30-day letter, the maximum amount of tax under subparagraph (A) shall not be less than the amount proposed deficiency specified in such letter.

(3) OTHER DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of paragraph (2)—

(A) DISPUTABLE ITEM.—The term ‘disputable item’ means any item of income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit if the taxpayer—

(i) has a reasonable basis for its treatment as such item, and

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask the Chair to lay before the Senate a message from the House of Representatives with respect to S. 1372.

The Presiding Officer laid before the Senate a message from the House, as follows:

Resolved, That the bill from the Senate (S. 1372) entitled “An Act to reauthorize the Export-Import Bank of the United States”, do pass with the following amendment:

STRIKE OUT all after the enacting clause and insert:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the “Export-Import Bank Reauthorization Act of 2002”.

(b) TABLE OF CONTENTS.—The table of contents of this Act is as follows:

Sec. 1. Short title; table of contents.
Sec. 2. Clarification that purposes include United States employment.
Sec. 3. Extension of authority.
Sec. 4. Administrative expenses.
Sec. 5. Activities relating to Africa.
Sec. 6. Small business.
Sec. 7. Technical assistance.
Sec. 8. Tied Aid Credit Fund.
Sec. 9. Expansion of authority to use Tied Aid Credit Fund.
Sec. 10. Renaming of Tied Aid Credit Program and Fund as Export Competitive Program and Fund.
Sec. 11. Annual competitiveness report.
Sec. 12. Renewal energy sources.
Sec. 13. GAO reports.
Sec. 15. Small businesses.
Sec. 16. Correction of references.
Sec. 17. Authority to deny application for assistance based on fraud or corruption by the applicant.
Sec. 18. Consideration of foreign country helpfulness in efforts to eradicate terrorism.
Sec. 19. Outstanding orders and preliminary injunction determinations.
Sec. 20. Sense of the Congress relating to renewable energy targets.
Sec. 21. Sense of the Congress on the importance of technology improvements.
Sec. 22. Sense of the Congress on the importance of technology improvements.
Sec. 23. Sense of the Congress.

SEC. 2. CLARIFICATION THAT PURPOSES INCLUDE UNITED STATES EMPLOYMENT.

Section 2(a)(1) of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 633(a)(1)) is amended by striking the 2nd sentence and inserting the following:

“Defined in section 6(a)(2)(B) applicable to the then preceding fiscal year.”.

(b) REQUIRED BUDGET SUBCATEGORIES.—Section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(34) with respect to the amount of appropriations requested for the Export-Import Bank of the United States, a separate statement of the amount requested for its program budget, the amount requested for its administrative expenses, and of the amount requested for its technology expenses and the amount requested for expenses for outreach to small business concerns (as defined under section 3 of the Small Business Act) employing fewer than 100 employees.”.

(c) SENSE OF THE CONGRESS ON THE IMPORTANCE OF TECHNOLOGY IMPROVEMENTS.—(1) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that:

(A) the Export-Import Bank of the United States is in great need of technology improvements;

(B) part of the amount budgeted for administrative expenses of the Export-Import Bank is used for technology initiatives and systems upgrades for computer hardware and software purchases;

(C) the Export-Import Bank is falling behind its foreign competitor export credit agencies’ proactive technology improvements;

(D) small businesses disproportionately benefit from improvements in technology;

(E) small businesses need Export-Import Bank technology improvements in order to export transactions quickly, with as great paper ease as possible, and with a quick Bank turn-around time that does not overstrain the tight resources of small businesses;

(F) the Export-Import Bank intends to develop a number of e-commerce initiatives aimed at improving customer service, including web-based application and claim filing procedures which would reduce processing time, speed payment of claims, and increase staff efficiency;

(G) the Export-Import Bank is beginning the process of moving insurance applications, from an outdated mainframe system to a modern, web-enabled database, with new functionality including credit scoring, portfolio management, workflow and e-commerce features to be added; and

(H) the Export-Import Bank wants to continue its e-commerce strategy, including web site development, expansion of online applications and establishing a public/private sector technology partnership.
SEC. 5. INCREASE IN AGGREGATE LOAN, GUARANTEE, AND INSURANCE AUTHORITY.

Section 6(a) of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635(a)(a)) is amended to read as follows:

(a) LIMITATION ON OUTSTANDING AMOUNTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Export-Import Bank of the United States shall not have outstanding at any one time loans, guarantees, and insurance in an aggregate amount in excess of the applicable amount.

(b) APPLICABLE AMOUNT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In paragraph (1), the term ‘‘aplicable amount’’ means

(i) during fiscal year 2002, $100,000,000,000, increased by the inflation percentage applicable to fiscal year 2002;

(ii) during fiscal year 2003, $110,000,000,000, increased by the inflation percentage applicable to fiscal year 2003;

(iii) during fiscal year 2004, $120,000,000,000, increased by the inflation percentage applicable to fiscal year 2004; and

(iv) during fiscal year 2005, $130,000,000,000, increased by the inflation percentage applicable to fiscal year 2005.

(B) INFLATION PERCENTAGE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, the inflation percentage applicable to any fiscal year is the percentage (if any) by which—

(i) the average of the Consumer Price Index (as defined in section 1(f)(5) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986) for the 12-month period ending on December 31 of the immediately preceding fiscal year; exceeds

(ii) the average of the Consumer Price Index (as so defined) for the 12-month period ending on December 31 of the second preceding fiscal year.

(C) SUBJECT TO APPROPRIATIONS.—All spending and credit authority provided under this Act shall be effective for any fiscal year only to such extent or in such amounts as are provided in appropriation Acts.

SEC. 6. ACTIVITIES RELATING TO AFRICA.

(a) EXTENSION OF ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA.—Section 2(b)(1)(B)(iii) of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635(b)(1)(B)(iii)) is amended by striking ‘‘4 years after the establishment of the subcommittee’’ and inserting ‘‘on September 30, 2005’’.

(b) COORDINATION OF AFRICA ACTIVITIES.—Section 2(b)(1)(A) of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635(b)(1)(A)) is amended by inserting ‘‘in consultation with the Department of Commerce and the Trade Promotion Co-ordinating Council’’ after ‘‘shall report’’.

(c) CONTINUED REPORTS TO THE CONGRESS.—Section 7(b) of the Export-Import Bank Reauthorization Act of 1997 (12 U.S.C. 635 note) is amended by striking ‘‘4’’ and inserting ‘‘8’’.

(d) CREATION OF OFFICE ON AFRICA.—Section 3 of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635a) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

(1) THE OFFICE ON AFRICA.—

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Office on Africa shall focus on increasing Bank activities in Africa and increasing visibility among United States companies of African markets for exports.

(b) FUNCTION.—The Office on Africa shall, from time to time not less than annually, report to the Board on the matters described in paragraph (3).

(c) SMALL BUSINESS.—Section 20(b)(1)(E)(ii) of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635b(1)(E)(ii)) is amended—

(1) by striking subparagraph (2); and

(2) by inserting ‘‘(E)(i)’’ and from such amount, not less than 8 percent of such authority shall be made available for small business concerns employing fewer than 100 employees’’ before the period.

(b) OUTFRACE TO BUSINESSES OWNED BY SOCIOECONOMICALLY DISADVANTAGED INDIVIDUALS OR WOMEN.—Section 2(b)(1)(E)(ii)(A) of such Act (12 U.S.C. 635b(1)(E)(ii)(1)) is amended by inserting after ‘‘Bank’’ the following: ‘‘, with particular emphasis on conducting outreach and increasing loans to businesses not less than 31 percent of which are directly and unconditionally owned by 1 or more socially disadvantaged individuals (as defined in section 8(a)(6) of the Small Business Act) or women, .’’.

(c) OFFICE FOR SMALL BUSINESS EXPORTERS.—Section 3 of such Act (12 U.S.C. 635a) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

(1) THE OFFICE FOR SMALL BUSINESS EXPORTERS.—

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Office for Small Business Exporters shall focus on increasing Bank activities to enhance small business exports and meet the unique trade finance needs of small business exporters.

(b) FUNCTION.—The Office for Small Business Exporters shall, from time to time not less than annually, report to the Board on the how the Bank is achieving the goals as described in paragraph (2).

(2) SMALL BUSINESS.—The Bank shall implement an electronic system designed to track all pending transactions of the Bank.

(3) REPORTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—During each of fiscal years 2002 through 2005, the Bank shall submit to the Committees on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate an interim report and a final report on the efforts made by the Bank to carry out subsections (E)(i) and (j) of section 3(b)(1) of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945, and on how the efforts are assisting small businesses.

(B) TIMING.—The interim report required by paragraph (1) for a fiscal year shall be submitted April 30 of the fiscal year, and the final report so required for a fiscal year shall be submitted on November 1 of the succeeding fiscal year.

SEC. 7. TIED AID CREDIT FUND.

(a) PRINCIPLES, PROCESS, AND STANDARDS.—Section 3(b)(1)(E) of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635b(1)(E)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

(1) The Tied Aid Credit Fund should be used to leverage multilateral negotiations to restrict the scope for aid-financed trade distortions through new multilateral rules, and to police existing rules.

(II) The Tied Aid Credit Fund shall be used to counter a foreign tied aid credit extended by a sovereign State exporter when bidding for a capital project.

(III) Credible information about an offer of foreign tied aid will be required before the Tied Aid Credit Fund is used to offer specific terms to match such an offer.

(IV) The Tied Aid Credit Fund will be used to enable a competitive United States exporter to meet specific market opportunities on commercial terms made possible by the use of the Fund.

(V) Each use of the Tied Aid Credit Fund will be in accordance with the Arrangement under which the Fund has been committed by a foreign export credit agency.

(VI) The Tied Aid Credit Fund may only be used to extend potential sales by United States companies to a project that is environmentally sound.

(VII) The Tied Aid Credit Fund may be used to extend potential sales that are tied aid offers without triggering foreign tied aid use.

(b) RECONSIDERATION OF BOARD DECISIONS ON USE OF FUND.—Section 3(b)(1) of such Act (12 U.S.C. 635b(1)(A)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

(1) In general.—The Secretary and the Board shall jointly update and revise, as needed, the principles, process, and standards developed pursuant to subparagraph (A), and, on doing so, shall submit to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate a copy of the principles, process, and standards so updated and revised.

(c) INITIAL PRINCIPLES, PROCESS, AND STANDARDS.—The principles and standards set forth in the paragraph (a)(2) shall govern the use of the Tied Aid Credit Fund until the principles, process, and standards required by subparagraph (A) are submitted.

SEC. 8. TECHNOLOGY.

(a) SMALL BUSINESS.—Section 2(b)(1)(E)(i) of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635b(1)(E)(i)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

(2) The Bank shall implement technology improvements which are designed to improve small business exporters.

(b) ELECTRONIC TRACKING OF PENDING TRANSACTIONS.—Section 2(b)(1)(E) of such Act (12 U.S.C. 635b(1)(E)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

(3) The Bank shall implement an electronic system for tracking pending transactions of the Bank.

(c) REPORTS.—

(1) In general.—During each of fiscal years 2002 through 2005, the Bank shall submit to the Committees on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate a copy of the principles, process, and standards developed pursuant to the paragraph (A).

(II) TRANSITIONAL PRINCIPLES AND STANDARDS.—The principles and standards set forth in subparagraph (B)(i) shall govern the use of the Tied Aid Credit Fund until the principles, process, and standards required by subparagraph (A) are submitted.

(d) UPDATE AND REVIEW.—The Secretary and the Board jointly should update and revise, as needed, the principles, process, and standards developed pursuant to subparagraph (A), and, on doing so, shall submit to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate a copy of the principles, process, and standards so updated and revised.
“(B) PROCEDURAL RULES.—In any such reconsideration, the applicant may be required to, provide new information on the application.”.

SEC. 10. EXPANSION OF AUTHORITY TO USE TIED AID CREDIT FUND.

(a) UNITED AID.—

(1) NEGOTIATIONS.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall seek to negotiate an OECD Arrangement. In the negotiations, the Secretary should seek agreement on subjecting untied aid to the rules governing the Arrangement, including the rules governing disclosure.

(2) REPORT TO THE CONGRESS.—Within 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Treasury shall submit to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate a report on the successes, failures, and obstacles in initiating negotiations, and if negotiations were initiated, in reaching the agreement described in paragraph (1).

(b) MARKET WINDOWS.—

(1) NEGOTIATIONS.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall seek to negotiate an OECD Arrangement on Market Windows. In the negotiations, the Secretary should seek agreement on subjecting market windows to the rules governing the Arrangement, including the rules governing disclosure.

(2) REPORT TO THE CONGRESS.—Within 2 years after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Treasury shall submit to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate a report on the successes, failures, and obstacles in initiating negotiations, and if negotiations were initiated, in reaching the agreement described in paragraph (1).

(c) USE OF TIED AID CREDIT FUND TO COMBAT UNITED AID.—Section 10 of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635i–3) is amended in subsection (a)—

(A) in paragraph (4), by striking “and” at the end; and

(B) in paragraph (5), by inserting “, or untied aid,” before “for commercial” the 1st and 3rd places it appears; and

(C) by redesignating paragraph (5) as paragraph (6) and inserting after paragraph (4) the following:

“5) The Bank has, at a minimum, the following tasks:

“(A)(i) First, the Bank should match, and even overmatch, foreign export credit agencies and aid agencies when they engage in tied aid outside the confines of the Arrangement and when they exploit loopholes, such as untied aid;

“(ii) such matching and overmatching is needed to provide the United States with leverage in efforts at the OECD to reduce the overall level of export subsidies;

“(iii) only through matching or bettering foreign export credit offers can the Bank buttress United States negotiators in their efforts to bring these loopholes within the disciplines of the Arrangement; and

“(iv) in order to bring untied aid within the discipline of the Arrangement, the Bank should sometimes initiate highly competitive financial support when the Bank learns that foreign untied aid offers will be made; and

“(B) Second, the Bank should support United States exporters when the exporters face foreign competition that is consistent with the letter and spirit of the Arrangement and the Subsidies Code of the World Trade Organization, but which nonetheless is more generous than the terms available from the private financial market; and

(d) DEFINITION OF MARKET WINDOW.—Section 10(h) of such Act (12 U.S.C. 635i–3(h)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(3) The term ‘market window’ means the process of export financing through an institution (or a part of an institution) that claims to operate on a commercial basis while benefiting directly or indirectly from some level of government support.”.

SEC. 11. RENAMING OF TIED AID CREDIT PROGRAM AND FUND AS EXPORT COMPETITIVENESS PROGRAM AND FUND.

Section 10 of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635i–3) is further amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraph (1) of subsection (a) and inserting the following:

“SEC. 10. EXPORT COMPETITIVENESS FUND. —

“(C) in paragraph (b), by striking “The Bank shall promote the export of goods and services related to renewable energy sources.”.

SEC. 14. GAO REPORTS.

(a) POTENTIAL OF WTO TO REMEDY UNITED AID.—Within 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to the Committee on Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate a report that examines—

(1) whether a case could be brought by the United States in the World Trade Organization seeking relief against untied aid and market windows, and if so, the kinds of relief that would be available if the United States were to pursue such a case; and

(2) the scope of penalty tariffs that the United States could impose against imports from a country that uses untied aid or market windows;

(b) COMPARATIVE RESERVE PRACTICES OF EXPORT CREDIT AGENCIES AND PRIVATE BANKS.—Within 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to the Committee on Financial Services of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate a report that examines the reserve ratios of the Export-Import Bank of the United States as compared with the reserve practices of private banks and foreign export credit agencies.

SEC. 15. HUMAN RIGHTS.

SEC. 16. STEEL.

(a) REEVALUATION.—The Export-Import Bank of the United States shall re-assess the effects of the approval by the Bank of an $10,000,000 memorandum of understanding to support the sale of computer software, control systems, and main drive power supplies to Benzi Iron & Steel Company, in Benzi, Liaoning, China, for the purpose of manufacturing and production in the steel industry, at the request of the Bank sufficiently takes account of the interests of United States industries.

(b) REPORT TO THE CONGRESS.—Within 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Export-Import Bank of the United States shall submit to the Committee on Financial Services of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate a report on the re-assessment required by subsection (a).

SEC. 17. CORRECTION OF REFERENCES.

SEC. 18. AUTHORITY TO DENY APPLICATION FOR ASSISTANCE BASED ON FRAUD OR CORRUPTION BY THE APPLICANT.

Section 2 of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(f) AUTHORITY TO DENY APPLICATION FOR ASSISTANCE BASED ON FRAUD OR CORRUPTION BY PARTY TO THE TRANSACTION.—In addition to any other authority of the Bank, the Bank may deny an application for assistance with respect to a transaction if the Bank has substantial credible evidence that any party to the transaction has committed an act of fraud or corruption in connection with a transaction involving a good or service that is the same as, or substantially similar to, a good or service the export of which is the subject of the application.".

SEC. 19. CONSIDERATION OF FOREIGN COUNTRY HELPFULNESS IN EFFORTS TO ERADICATE TERRORISM.

Section 2(b)(1) of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635b(1)) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(1) It is further the policy of the United States that, in considering whether to guarantee, insure, or extend credit, or participate in the extension of credit in connection with the purchase of any product, technical data, or information by a national or agency of any nation, the Bank shall take into account the extent to which the nation has been helpful or unhelpful in efforts to eradicate terrorism. The Bank shall consult with the Department of State to determine the degree to which each relevant nation has been helpful or unhelpful in efforts to eradicate terrorism.".

SEC. 20. OUTSTANDING ORDERS AND PRELIMINARY INJURY DETERMINATIONS.

Section 2(b) of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635b(2)) is amended—

(1) in paragraph (2), by striking "Paragraph (1)" and inserting "Paragraphs (1) and (2)"; and

(2) by redesignating paragraphs (2) and (3) as paragraphs (3) and (4) and by inserting after paragraph (1) the following:

"(2) OUTSTANDING ORDERS AND PRELIMINARY INJURY DETERMINATIONS.—

"(A) ORDERS.—The Bank shall not provide any loan or guarantee to an entity for the resulting production of substantially the same product that is the subject of—

"(i) a countervailing duty or antidumping order under title VII of the Tariff Act of 1930; or

"(ii) a determination under title II of the Trade Act of 1974.

"(B) AFFIRMATIVE DETERMINATION.—Within 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Bank shall establish procedures regarding loans or guarantees provided to any entity that is subject to a preliminary determination of a reasonable indication of material injury to an industry under title III of the Tariff Act of 1930. The procedures shall help to ensure that these loans and guarantees are likely to not result in a significant increase in imports of substantially the same product covered by the preliminary determination and are likely to not have a significant adverse impact on the domestic industry. The Bank shall report to the Committee on International Trade of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate on the implementation of procedures.

"(C) COMMENT PERIOD.—The Bank shall establish procedures under which the Bank shall notify interested parties and provide a comment period with regard to loans or guarantees reviewed pursuant to subparagraph (B).

"SEC. 21. SENSE OF THE CONGRESS RELATING TO RENEWABLE ENERGY TARGETS.

(a) ALLOCATION OF ASSISTANCE AMONG ENERGY PROJECTS.—It is the sense of the Congress that, of the total amount available to the Export-Import Bank of the United States for the extension of credit for transactions related to energy projects, the Bank should, not later than the beginning of fiscal year 2006—

"(1) not more than 35 percent for transactions related to fossil fuel projects; and

"(2) not less than 5 percent for transactions related to renewable energy and energy efficiency projects.

(b) DEFINITION OF RENEWABLE ENERGY.—In this section, the term "renewable energy" means projects related to solar, wind, biomass, fuel cell, landfill gas, or geothermal energy sources.

SEC. 22. REQUIREMENTS FOR ASSISTANCE DISCLOSE WHETHER THEY HAVE VIOLATED THE FOREIGN CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT; MAINTENANCE OF LIST OF VIOLATORS.

Section 2(b)(1) of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 (12 U.S.C. 635b(1)) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(M) The Bank shall require an applicant for assistance from the Bank to disclose whether the applicant has been found by a court of the United States to have violated the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, and shall maintain a list of persons so found to have violated such Act.

SEC. 23. SENSE OF THE CONGRESS.

It is the sense of the Congress that, when considering a proposal for assistance for a project that is worth $10,000,000 or more, the management of the Export-Import Bank of the United States should have available for review a detailed assessment of the potential human rights impact of the proposed project.
