House of Representatives

The House was not in session today. Its next meeting will be held on Monday, June 17, 2002, at 12:30 p.m.

Senate

FRIDAY, JUNE 14, 2002

The Senate met at 9 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable BLANCHE L. LINCOLN, a Senator from the State of Arkansas.

The Chaplain, Dr. Lloyd John Ogilvie, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Sovereign of this Nation and Lord of our lives, we thank You for the outward symbols of inner meaning that remind us of Your blessings. The sight of our flag stirs patriotism and dedication. It reminds us of Your providential care through the years, of our blessed history as a people, of our role in the unfolding of Your American dream, and of the privilege we share living in this land.

Today, as we celebrate Flag Day, we repledge allegiance to our flag and recommit ourselves to the awesome responsibilities that You have entrusted to us. May the flag that waves above this Capitol remind us that this is Your land.

Thank You, Lord, that our flag also gives us a bracing affirmation of the unique role of the Senate in our democracy. In each age, You have called truly great men and women to serve as leaders. May these contemporary patriots experience fresh strength and vision, as You renew the drumbeat of Your Spirit, calling them to march to the cadence of Your righteousness, in the Name of our Lord and Saviour. Amen.

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

The Honorable BLANCHE L. LINCOLN led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

The Acting President pro tempore, Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

The Acting President pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will now be a period for the transaction of morning business not to extend beyond the hour of 9:35, with 20 minutes being under the control of the Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, we are going to be in a period of morning business until 9:35 a.m. Senator MURRAY has the first 20 minutes. The remaining time will be under the control of the Republican leader or his designee. At 9:35, we are going to have two votes. Following that, the main reason for me appearing this morning is to tell Members S. 2600 will be open for amendment. We hope people will come over today. There will only be two votes.

We didn’t have a good day yesterday. We had a couple of amendments, but the rest was not very serious business related to the extremely important antiterrorism insurance legislation.

We hope people will begin to move forward on this legislation. The majority leader indicated we are going to pass this legislation. It is just a question of whether we are going to do it with or without cloture.

The Acting President pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

The Acting President pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will now be a period for the transaction of morning business not to extend beyond the hour of 9:35, with 20 minutes being under the control of the Senator from Washington.

The Senator from Washington is recognized.

Mr. REID. Madam President, Madam President, seniors in Washington State cannot get... the medical care they need, and I have come to the floor today to explain the problem and to offer a solution that has the support of doctors, nurses, hospitals, and patients throughout Washington State.

When many States are facing challenges in health care, the problems are especially severe in my home State, where providers are struggling to care for patients in a system that is falling down around them. There are many reasons for this crisis, but one of the most fundamental is the unfair way in which Medicare reimburses doctors and providers.

Just look at what happens to the seniors I represent. They have spent their lives working hard, raising their families, and paying into the Medicare system. In fact, they have paid the same percentage of their income into Medicare as Americans from every State. But when they retire, they find that their access to health care depends upon where they happen to live. They live in Washington State, they can expect far less access and far fewer benefits than seniors in other States. That is because Medicare reimbursement rates vary State by State.

Today, reimbursement rates don’t reflect the true cost of providing care, and they are penalizing patients and providers throughout Washington.

Madam President, in recent years, we have lost many physicians and clinics, especially in our rural areas. These unfair Medicare rates are making the problem even worse by encouraging doctors to retire early, to move, or to stop seeing Medicare patients altogether.

At the same time, these rates make it even harder for us to attract the new doctors, nurses, and health care professionals that we need to fill the growing void. As a result, seniors have to spend all day long on the phone trying to find a doctor who will see them. More often than not, they are told the doctor is not accepting any new Medicare patients.

Today, I want to explain the problem, show the impact it is having on the people of my State, and talk about a legislative proposal that Senator Cantwell and I have introduced to give Medicare patients the equity they deserve.

For years, the health care challenges of Washington State have been getting worse, just like in the Presiding Officer’s State. More and more patients don’t have insurance and families don’t have enough insurance. There is a shortage of health care professionals. That is causing problems, especially in our rural areas. There are many reasons for these difficulties, including our growing retired population, the rising cost of medical care and prescription drugs, as we all know, and paper work and insurance.

In January, Medicare payments to doctors were slashed by 5.4 percent nationwide. Because many private insurers base their rates on Medicare payments, providers cannot shift the costs as they could in the past. In addition, Washington State is facing a budget shortfall and that has affected funding for Medicaid.

As we in Washington State try to address our cost crisis, we are starting out several steps behind. That is because Washington State receives far below the national average in Medicare payments per patient. As this chart behind me shows, Medicare rates vary by State. Shown here are the average per beneficiary. These figures come from the Federal agency that manages the program—the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, known as CMS. These figures are for fiscal year 2000. I would love to show more recent numbers, but I understand CMS has decided they are no longer going to calculate or distribute these figures.

Looking at this chart, you can see that these figures vary dramatically between states. For example, Louisiana has the average Medicare rate, at $7,336 per Medicare patient. At the bottom is Iowa, which receives less than half that, just $3,053. When you include the District of Columbia, Washington State ranks 42nd in the Nation in Medicare reimbursement benefits. The President’s Officer’s State of Arkansas ranks right here at about 28th in the Nation. It is well below the average of what most States get. The national average is $5,490. Washington State, my State, receives $3,921 per patient.

In fact, in New York, a doctor can be reimbursed at twice the rate as Washington State for some procedures. That affects the stability of our doctors, hospitals, clinics, and home health care providers. Over the lifetime of a Medicare beneficiary, it can mean thousands of dollars less spent on their care in Washington.

These regional inequities have resulted in vastly different levels of care and access to care. For example, in Florida, up here at the top of the chart, a lot of Medicare beneficiaries have access to prescription drugs and prescription eyeglasses in their Medicare Plus Choice program.

In Washington State, while there may be some willing providers, there are no open plans available that offer prescription drug coverage, much less eyeglasses, because of our low reimbursement rates. At the top, we are being punished for doing the right things in health care, and that is not fair.

Second, the reimbursement rates do not reflect the true costs of providing health care. For example, treating a patient does not magically drop when you cross the border into my home State of Washington. The health care pressures we are facing do not stop at the State line, but payments do, and that is forcing doctors to choose between helping patients and staying in business. That is not fair.

Third, health care today is affected by national trends that require more equal reimbursement rates throughout the country. Two of those trends are the shrinking pool of available doctors and the growing need for expensive medical equipment.

There are a limited number of medical professionals, and every State is competing to attract them. Because Medicare rates are so much lower in my State, we cannot offer the same salaries or the same recruitment incentives.

Hospitals face this challenge when it comes to medical technology. Today, health care relies increasingly on sophisticated expensive technology. An MRI machine costs the same amount for a hospital in Florida as a hospital in Washington State, but the only difference is the hospital in Washington is competing to attract those providers or buy the equipment that other States can, and that is not fair.

I recently heard from doctors with Olympia Radiation Oncology in Olympia, WA, and they said:

Washington State is competing with every other State to attract doctors and to buy medical equipment, but we do not have the same state matching grants, or the tax incentives that other States have. That is not fair. Washington State is struggling to deliver basic care.

My State is being penalized for doing the right things in health care, and that is not fair. Washington State has a long tradition of providing high-quality, low-cost health care, but today that innovative tradition is being used against us by the Medicare system.

Our State spends more than twice what we spend and end up with less healthy outcomes while we are being punished for providing excellent care at low costs, and that is not fair.

This is an issue of fairness. Our seniors pay the same into the system and pay the same Part B premiums, but we do not get the same access or benefits. Our doctors have to choose between staying in business or accepting Medicare patients because Medicare payments do not reflect the true costs. Our State is competing with every other State to attract doctors and to buy medical equipment, but we do not have the same state matching grants, or the tax incentives that other States have. That is not fair.

Our State is competing with every other State to attract doctors and to buy medical equipment, but we do not have the same state matching grants, or the tax incentives that other States have. That is not fair.
have the same resources as Medicare provides to other States.

Finally, our State is being penalized for providing highly efficient, high-quality health care at low costs. Any way we look at it, the system is not fair to the people I represent.

This difference in reimbursement rates would not be a big deal if it were just a bureaucratic formula on a piece of paper, but we are talking about whether or not people can see a doctor, and I can tell you, unfair Medicare rates are hurting patients in Washington State in several ways. Many doctors are leaving our State, retiring early, or even refusing to accept Medicare patients. Nationwide a study by the American Academy of Family Physicians found that 17 percent of family doctors are not accepting new Medicare patients. The problem is even more severe in my State. The Washington State Medical Association conducted a survey last November and found that 57 percent of physicians who responded said they are either limiting their Medicare patients or dropping all Medicare patients from their practice.

Many experts believe that study does not even show the full extent of the problem. Other doctors are just limiting our practice altogether. Since 1998, the number of Washington State Medical Association members leaving our State has increased by 31 percent.

To illustrate this problem, the Washington State Medical Association took out advertisements in Washington State newspapers. And they say: Eastern Washington, my State, has a thriving medical community. You will find them in places like Boise, ID and Eugene, OR.

It’s getting to the point where Washington doctors can’t afford to stay in Washington. Administrative costs are out of control, reimbursement rates don’t cover services, medical practices are shutting down. The fact is Medicaid and Medicare are grossly underfunded and private payers are setting their rates according to public programs. Now we want to转钱 mean to the patient it means that even if you have great insurance, the underfunding of public programs puts your personal physician’s practice in jeopardy. So in other words, all the insurance in the world isn’t going to help when your family doctor packs up and leaves the State.

What is a pretty good description of what is happening in my State. When doctors leave our State or retire early, their patients have to look for a new doctor who will accept Medicare, and according to my State’s medical association, each time one physician leaves the Medicare Program, 2,000 patients have lost their new caregiver.

Across Washington State, seniors are experiencing the frustration of spending all day on the phone and still not being able to find a doctor who will accept them just because they are on Medicare.

Many articles have been published in my State detailing the trouble our seniors are having finding a doctor, and I have included many of these articles on my Web site. But I want to share one example with my colleagues.

A few months ago in Sequim, WA, a small, rural community, an older woman came up to me in a parking lot with a cast on her arm. She told me she went to her primary care doctor but he put her cast on and told her to come back in 4 weeks. In the interim, her doctor determined he could no longer take Medicare patients. So when she went back 4 weeks later, she found out her doctor would not see her because she was not accepting Medicare patients.

There she was in this parking lot, standing there asking me how she was supposed to get her cast off. That is how bad it has gotten.

These terrible examples are becoming more common every day in my State because unfair Medicare rates are hurting doctors. Doctors are not accepting new Medicare patients. The problem is even more severe in my State. The Washington State Medical Association surveyed last November and found that 57 percent of the doctors surveyed said they are either limiting their Medicare patients or dropping all Medicare patients from their practice.

These terrible examples are becoming more common every day in my State because unfair Medicare rates are encouraging doctors to leave my State or close their practices to Medicare patients. But it is not just a problem for people on Medicare. It ends up having an impact on everyone.

When a patient cannot find a doctor, a patient ends up in the emergency room. The ER is really the only place where a patient cannot be turned away. Unfortunately, the time they make it to the ER, their symptoms, which could have been addressed easily, have now developed into more serious medical problems.

James Newman is an emergency room doctor in Kennewick, WA. He is the chairman of education for the Benton-Franklin County Medical Society. Dr. Newman has seen patients go into cardiac arrest in the emergency room because they did not get care early enough. Often those patients had symptoms for weeks, but they could not find a primary care doctor, so they end up going into cardiac arrest in the emergency room, and that is outrageous.

Dr. Newman says that once a patient is ready to be seen in the ER, he cannot find a doctor who will continue to care for them. So Dr. Newman, who is board certified in emergency medicine and has been practicing for 10 years, spends much of his time trying to find doctors for his patients, sometimes begging and borrowing favors just to get his patients the care they need, and he ends up having to practice beyond the normal scope of his job.

For example, he might give a patient an 8-month prescription for hypertension medicine because he knows that patient will not be able to find a primary care doctor to refill a shorter prescription. Even worse, Dr. Newman ends up seeing the same patients again and again in his emergency room because they cannot find a doctor to care for them. That is how bad things have gotten in my State.

Remember, the cost of providing care in emergency rooms is much higher than preventing those problems in the first place. The problem impacts everyone who needs emergency care. Our emergency rooms are overcrowded. According to a recent study by the Washington chapter of the American College of Emergency Room Physicians, 91 percent of small hospitals and 100 percent of large hospitals reported overcrowding.

In addition, 76 percent of large hospitals reported overcrowding 2 to 3 times a week or more often.

In addition to problems in the emergency room, these unfair rates also make it hard for us to recruit the new physicians we need to replace those who are moving and retiring early.

I want to share with the Senate what Mike Glenn, the CEO of Olympic Medical Center in Port Angeles, WA had to say on recruitment.

As he tries to attract doctors, he is finding that hospitals in other States are offering twice the salaries he can offer.

He says:

Doctors in nearly every field are either fleeing our state to earn higher salaries, or staying but with growing levels of dissatisfaction and resentment. Physician headhunter firms have targeted our state as fertile ground to find doctors willing to pack up and leave for positions in states benefitting from more Medicare dollars.

If this situation is not quickly remedied, many Washington communities will face critical shortages of physicians. Imagine a trip to a hospital Emergency Room without qualified ER doctors to provide life saving treatment, or without anesthesiologists to staff the Operating Room. This is not a doomsday scenario, but a logical consequence of the current Medicare reimbursement system.

There is no denying that unfair Medicare rates are hurting patients and providers in Washington State.

Doctors are leaving our State or refusing to see new Medicare patients.

As a result, seniors cannot find doctors who will accept them.

Too often, those seniors end up in the emergency room in much worse condition.

We cannot even dig ourselves out of this hole because the low reimbursement rates make it hard for us to recruit new doctors to Washington State.

As I mentioned earlier, in January, Medicare payments to doctors were cut by more than 5 percent.

They are expected to continue to decline in the next 3 years for a total decrease of 17 percent by 2006.

That is untenable. We need to do something about it.

Unfortunately, the Bush Administration does not acknowledge the severity of the problem.

In April, Tom Scully, the administrator of CMS, told Washington seniors that “access was not yet a serious problem.”

On Wednesday, I asked him about it at a hearing, and he said basically the same thing: That it will be a problem, but it is not a serious problem today.

They do not get it.

CMS is not going to fix this.

The White House is not going to fix this.

The Office of Management and Budget is not going to fix this.
If we are going to fix this problem, we are going to have to do it right in the Senate.

That is why Senator CANTWELL and I have introduced S. 2568, the MediFair Act.

The MediFair Act is designed to restore access and fairness to Medicare, and—in the process—help seniors, the disabled and all of our citizens.

This proposal is based on what I have heard from doctors, nurses, hospitals and patients over the past year. Our bill has been endorsed by the Washington State Medical Association, the Washington State Hospital Association, and the Washington Nurses Association.

On the House side, companion legislation has been introduced.

It has the support of lead sponsor ADAM SMITH along with Representatives DICKS, MCDERMOTT, BAIRD, INSLEE, and LARSEN.

The MediFair Act is a starting point for addressing the regional inequities in Medicare.

The bill will make the system more fair.

It will ensure that seniors are not penalized when they choose to retire in the State of Washington.

It will encourage more doctors to accept Medicare patients.

It will make it easier for us to recruit new doctors to our State.

And it will help our hospitals and home health agencies get the resources they need to care for our patients.

Let me explain my bill. The MediFair Act works to bring States up from the bottom of the reimbursement list.

The legislation would ensure that every State receives at least the national average of per-patient spending.

The bill does not affect States that currently receive the national average or just above the national average.

Further, our bill promotes efficient health care and healthy outcomes.

This is an area where we really need to correct the incentives.

Here is how Mike Glenn of the Olympic Medical Center put it:

"The concern is not over 42 states receiving better Medicare reimbursement than Washington, but over what is rewarded and what is not.

Washington hospitals and physicians are proud of our record of pioneering high quality, cost effective medicine. And we do so by focusing on treatments that can help, while avoiding overuse of treatments that cannot. This style of medicine yields equal if not better patient outcomes. Our reward for this is to be paid a fraction of our actual costs.

To make matters worse, states who do not embrace our style of cost effective care continue to demand and receive twice as much funding from Medicare for no discernable difference in patient outcomes.

The gap between the ‘haves’ and the ‘have-nots’ is growing.

If Medicare does not change this—through action like the MediFair bill—Washington hospitals in Medicare dependent areas will enter into a death spiral until they are forced to close their doors.

So our bill promotes the right things: efficient healthcare and healthy outcomes. It will force States that receive inordinately high payments to improve the quality of their healthcare.

Payments would be reduced to those States, which do not realize healthy outcomes—such as extending life expectancy or reducing rates of diabetes or heart disease.

Simply put, our bill finally holds states accountable for the health care they provide with Medicare dollars.

Before I close, I want to answer just a few questions about my bill.

Some are asking about the possible cost of fixing the inequities in Medicare.

I am, too.

But I also know that there is a high cost to doing nothing as seniors lose their doctors and their access to healthcare.

There is a cost to the community when seniors end up in-and-out of the emergency room on a regular basis.

And of course, there is a human cost to the patients and their families.

Another question I have heard is: How will this bill attract support from Senators from high reimbursement states?

First, States that are using Medicare dollars efficiently and effectively don’t need to be concerned.

Either way, I recognize that not everyone will embrace this specific legislative proposal.

I want to find a solution that will help seniors get the care they need, and I recognize that there may be different ways to approach the problem.

This MediFair bill is a starting point.

It’s a way to draw attention to the problem and get folks to look at various solutions.

What matters is fixing the problem, so I welcome ideas and suggestions from anyone who wants to help us solve this problem.

Finally, some of my colleagues may wonder how this bill fits into our efforts to provide a Medicare prescription drug benefit, which is something I have worked to pass for several years.

We have introduced the “Medicare Outpatient Prescription Drug Act of 2002,” of which I am a cosponsor.

Our work on prescription drugs should not keep us from fixing this fundamental problem.

After all, a prescription drug benefit isn’t worth anything if there aren’t any doctors to write out a prescription. So both issues are critical, and we need to move forward on both of them.

We need to fix these problems now—before another senior in my State loses her doctor—before another patient goes into cardiac arrest in the emergency room because he could not find a doctor when his symptoms first appeared.

The system is unfair, and as Dr. Sam Cullison said, “Sadly, it is the Medicare patients themselves who are paying the price for this inequity.”

We need to restore fairness to Medicare.

We can help patients get the medical access they need, and the MediFair Act is part of that process.

I invite my colleagues to talk with Senator CANTWELL and me about how we can move this or any other proposal forward.

I conclude by saying that this is a matter of critical national attention, and I am going to work every single day to find like-minded Senators, who are also impacted. We have to do something about this.

I ask unanimous consent that several articles be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the articles were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

MURRAY’S MEDICARE PLAN A STEP IN RIGHT DIRECTION

Sen. Patty Murray has the right intention. She wants to make Medicare work better for patients and health care providers alike in this state.

Murray and the rest of the state’s congressional Democrats have united around a plan that would raise Medicare reimbursements to health care providers in states where payments are below the national average. Washington is among the 10 lowest states in reimbursement rates, which actually punish areas with relatively efficient health care systems.

Murray’s Medi-Fair Act would remedy the inequity by raising all payment rates to at least the national average and over time, forcing improvements elsewhere. It’s a good plan, but one that is more likely to raise much-needed discussions rather than solve the problem immediately.

The short-term political reality is that the potential solutions run into a double-whammy. On one side, the Bush administration appears determined to avoid domestic spending increases—unless there is a high enough political gain, such as with the farm bill. On the other side, major states—including California, New York and Florida—aren’t about to help others address the equity issue unless their higher Medicare reimbursements can be protected.

The best hope is that Murray and potential allies in both parties, including Republican Sen. Charles Grassley of Iowa (where reimbursements are the lowest of all), can raise the level of dialogue that a solution becomes politically necessary.

Certainly, for Medicare patients and aging baby-boomers who will soon use the system, the need for action is increasingly serious. The inequities have been around for years, but their effects have become more severe. In this state, many doctors are now refusing to take new Medicare patients because the reimbursements don’t cover physicians’ costs. The problems extend beyond doctors, though, to other providers.

Action on reforming Medicare’s inequities should not be made to wait for such larger solutions. Medicare is America’s most significant achievement in our care access. Its erosion cannot be tolerated. Whatever the politics obstacles to immediate action, the Murray initiative helps break toward the long-increasing inequities in reimbursements. That’s a step in the right direction.

“MEDIFAIR” IS WORKABLE ANSWER

Mr. ALLEN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that amendment 3838, which will be the second vote today, be referred to as the Harkin-Allen amendment in recognition of the tireless efforts and leadership of our colleague from Iowa on this important issue.

The Acting President pro tempore. Under the previous order, the remaining time shall be under the control of the Republican leader or his designee.

The Senator from Virginia.

VICTIM OF TERRORISM CLAIMS

Mr. ALLEN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that amendment 3838, which will be the second vote today, be referred to as the Harkin-Allen amendment in recognition of the tireless efforts and leadership of our colleague from Iowa on this important issue.

The Acting President pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TERRORISM RISK INSURANCE

Mr. ALLEN. Madam President, I will make a few remarks this morning in light of the remaining time regarding one of the issues before us. We, of course, have spent a good deal of time on emergencies over the last number of months, and properly so. We have had emergencies. Obviously, the most compelling one has been terrorism and homeland defense.

In addition to that, we have talked about a number of other things. We have had fires; agriculture, which we felt is something of an emergency; as well as health care, which the Senator from Washington talked about. Indeed, most legislation that comes up is sort of deemed an emergency, at least in the view of the sponsor.

There is one thing which I think pretty clearly should be one of the most important, something that will affect us over time and one that we can avoid, which is the energy problem in our country. Probably nothing touches more Americans than energy, whether it be electric energy or gasoline for one’s automobile.

Finally, after a considerable amount of effort in both Houses, we do have an energy bill that has passed both Houses. It is designed to give us an energy policy which we have not had for a very long time. Obviously, there are differences between the House-passed bill and the Senate-passed bill. Both of them have many of the components that were put forth by the President and the Vice President early last year in terms of an energy policy. Yesterday, we had the appointment of a conference committee named by the House, and I am pleased with that because we will be able now to go forward in putting together these two bills and coming out with an energy policy for the United States.

I want to emphasize how important that is. We have seen some problems recently in California, of course, and problems can occur in other places. We will likely see some this summer if we continue to have the heat we have had, and the demand for electric power. There will be some problems, I suppose, relative to that.

We are seeking a policy that does several things. No. 1, it avoids having an energy crisis. There is no real need for that. We know what is needed. It is very simple to set forth what we have to have in the future. We are also seeking the ability to do whatever we can. Is it possible to avoid overdependency on imported oil and fuel? We are now 60 percent dependent on overseas countries for our oil supplies. These are our challenges.

In addition, an energy policy that looks forward to cleaner air and protecting our environment is one everyone is committed to. There will be great debate over ANWR and whether or not a small footprint on 19 million acres of a wildlife refuge in Alaska would be detrimental. That is yet to be decided.

However that turns out, there are things we have to do. One opportunity we have is to continue to make coal a cleaner resource. Regarding electric generation, 50 percent is generated by coal. That will continue to grow. I suspect, and be a larger percentage over time. We need to make sure we can make the coal-generated electricity as clean as possible. Our bill will provide for additional help with respect to that. It is important we do that. Coal is probably the largest energy resource we have available in the United States.

Regarding gas and oil, again, we have become very dependent on imports. We have great opportunities in this area in the continental United States, in Alaska and the West. We need to do that and be balanced with the environment and production. We need access to public lands to do that. We will work on that.

We have an opportunity now to deal with one of the issues that impacts, probably more than anything else in this country, our policy on energy. We are ready to move with that. It needs to be balanced between renewables, production, environment, and usage. We can do that.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Connecticut.

TERRORISM INSURANCE

Mr. DODD. Madam President, we are going to start voting at 9:35. We need a roadmap as to what we are going to do in the next 45 minutes with a variety of votes on matters that are related in some degree, but mostly unrelated, to S. 2600, the terrorism insurance bill, the subject of debate all day yesterday. We will be continuing with matters that have to be dealt with before we get back to that bill. I take a minute or so to express my sincere hope we will get back to that bill. I regret it is taking this long. We have been at this an awfully long time.

We only dealt with two amendments yesterday that were relevant to the bill despite all the talk about this. There are people from the AFL-CIO to business groups, developers, commercial interests, who would like to see the bill adopted and the possibility of all major projects to move forward due to the unavailability of terrorism insurance.

We have come a long way while waiting to get here. This is an important issue. The President indicated this, and the Secretary of the Treasury, and every organization I know of, with the exception of one or two, believe this is something we must do and should have done earlier. We will deal with some of the other matters, and I don’t minimize the importance of them, but we are getting off track from the underlying bill. The leader feels strongly about this, as do many Members on both sides. We had some very fine speeches yesterday by Members on both sides of the aisle in support of this underlying legislation.

My hope is sooner, rather than later, we can adopt S. 2600. We will deal with some other matters, but I hope to get back to the bill and complete it. I am prepared to stay here as long as we have to and listen to Senators all day today and all day Monday. There will be no votes until Tuesday. We can dispense with debate today and Monday and bring us to final closure on this bill on Tuesday. The leader has to make some decisions on proceeding, but he is determined the legislation move forward.

I yield the floor.

Mr. LEAHY. What is the parliamentary situation?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. At 9:30, morning business is to be closed.

The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. HARKIN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that I be allowed to speak for 4 minutes and delay the vote from 9:35 to 9:39.

Mr. LEAHY. Reserving the right to object, and I shall not, has there been reserved time already on this vote?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. There is no time reserved for debate on matters.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, I understood the Senator from Vermont had time reserved on the Leahy-Hatch amendment. Am I incorrect on that?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. There was an order for the Senator to be recognized to offer the amendment but no specific time for debate.

Mr. LEAHY. I thank the Chair.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, the Senator from Iowa will be recognized for 4 minutes.

HARKIN-ALLEN AMENDMENT ON TERRORISM VICTIM’S ACCESS TO COMPENSATION

Mr. HARKIN. Madam President, first, I thank the Senator from Virginia, Senator ALLEN, for bringing this matter to the floor. I was unavoidably detained yesterday. I had a lot of comments from the Joines Chamber of Commerce, about 140 Iowans, with whom I was meeting as we concluded a very busy day to cap off their annual work trip to Washington, D.C. Unfortunately, I was unable to be here in the Chamber to help my good friend from Virginia in offering this amendment.

I personally thank the Senator from Virginia for filling in the gap yesterday and getting this amendment up on this bill. This is an issue that needs to be addressed and I could not ask for a more dedicated and steadfast ally than Senator ALLEN in helping pursue justice for all of the innocent American victims of state-sponsored terrorism. This is an issue that must be addressed by this Congress.

That is why the bipartisan legislation Senator ALLEN and I introduced in April—the Terrorism Victim’s Access to Compensation Act (S. 2194) and the amendment that Senator ALLEN joins me in offering here take two very important steps. First, this amendment would require that compensation be paid first and foremost from the blocked and frozen assets of the state sponsors of terrorism and their agents, not U.S. taxpayers, in cases where American victims of terrorism secure a final judgment in our federal courts and are awarded compensation accordingly.

Second, this amendment provides a level playing field for all American victims of state-sponsored terrorism who are pursuing redress in our federal courts and compensation from the blocked assets of state sponsors of terrorism, including their agencies and instrumentalities.

Madam President, we are united as Americans to meet the threat of international terrorism. This fight is being waged on many fronts, from the mountains of Afghanistan to the borders and streets of America.

Even as we track down the terrorists and defend America, we must never forget that terrorist acts are ultimately stories of human tragedy. We must never forget the victims.

I am talking about American victims like the dedicated, professional woman from Waverly, IA, Kathryn Koob, who sought to build cross-cultural ties between the Iranian people and the American people only to be taken hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and held captive for 441 nightmarish days in Iran.

I am talking about American victims like Taleb Subh from LeClaire, IA, who, as a teenager, was visiting relatives in Kuwait and terrorized by Sad- dam Hussein and his troops at the outbreak of the Persian Gulf War.
These are two examples, but Americans in all 50 states have suffered. That is why Senator ALLEN and I have joined together with 17 co-sponsors on both sides of the aisle to advance this legislation to ensure that American victims of state-sponsored terrorism are justly compensated for their pain, suffering, and losses.

Current law allows American citizens to sue terrorists for compensation for their losses. Many Americans have won verdicts and judgments in our federal courts, yet have been unable to collect even though the U.S. Treasury lawfully controls at least $3.7 billion in blocked or frozen assets of the seven foreign governments known to sponsor terrorism. Our own government has worked to prevent these families from collecting. In fact, our own State Department and Justice Department have gone into federal court to single out and block the 52 Americans held hostage by their families from even being able to pursue justice in our federal courts, let alone collect compensation.

To be clear, current law only allows to terrorism victims. At present, the foreign governments are officially designated by the U.S. State Department as state sponsors of terrorism. They are Iran, Iraq, Libya, Syria, Sudan, North Korea, and Cuba. It is those state sponsors of international terrorism, not the American taxpayer, who must be compelled to pay these costs first and foremost.

The Harkin-Allen Amendment sends a clear message to foreign governments that sponsor international terrorism: If you sponsor terrorism, if you attack innocent Americans, we will pursue you, and will bring you to justice, and America will literally make you pay. If you sponsor terrorism, if you attack innocent Americans, we will pursue you, and will bring you to justice, and America will literally make you pay.

American victims of state-sponsored terrorism deserve to be compensated for their pain, suffering, and losses by those terrorists who sponsor and commit these terrible acts. The Congress should clear the way for those with court judgments to be paid from blocked terrorist assets and, in so doing, deter future acts of state-sponsored terrorism against innocent Americans.

Again, I appreciate the Senator from Virginia taking the initiative on this and getting this amendment up when I was unavoidably detained yesterday. I hope we have a resounding vote in favor of its passage.

Mr. ALLEN. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. HARKIN. I yield.

Mr. ALLEN. I say to my good friend from Iowa, Senator HARKIN, this is referred to as the Harkin-Allen amendment. I thank you for your great leadership. All of us have a lot of busy times around here, but we are teamed together for the victims who ought to get just compensation from these terrorists.

Mr. HARKIN. I thank the Senator from Virginia for his kindness and generosity and for proposing that unambiguous consent request. He is a gentleman.

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

Mr. HARKIN. Madam President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Vermont. Mr. LEAHY. I ask for the yeas and nays on both amendments—I withdraw that.

Madam President, I ask unanimous consent I be allowed to proceed for no more than 15 minutes on the Leahy-Hatch amendment.

TERRORIST BOMBINGS CONVENTION

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, the Senator from Virginia—we had attempted to move the Harkin-Allen amendment through the Judiciary Committee yesterday. There was an objection to moving it, on the Republican side. I would think we could have had it on the floor as a freestanding matter.

We are considering the Leahy-Hatch substitute for the Terrorist Bombing Convention. This bill brings the United States into immediate compliance with two international conventions signed by the United States. Both conventions were entered into after the terrorist bombings at the U.S. embassies in Kenya and Tanzania. If anybody wants to know why these treaties are important, look at the news today, the horrific car bombing outside the U.S. consulate in Karachi, Pakistan.

We grieve for the victims; we mourn for their families; we pray for the speedy recovery of the injured. And, Mr. President, we act. Not tomorrow—not next month—but today. We act to protect future victims. We act to punish future evil doers. We act to make sure that leaders will lead the international community in the fight to end such terrorist bombings. That is precisely what my bill, S. 1770, and the Leahy-Hatch substitute does. Although I introduced this bill over six months ago, today’s events should serve as a jolt to us all. The time for delay and obstructionism and partisan bickering is over. It is time to pass this bill.

I am pleased the Senate is considering the Leahy-Hatch substitute amendment to S. 1770, the “Terrorist Bombing Convention and Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism Convention Implementation Acts of 2001.” This bill will bring the United States into immediate compliance with two important international conventions, which were signed by the United States and transmitted to the United States Senate for ratification by President Clinton. Both Conventions were entered into after the terrorist bombings at the United States embassies in Kenya and Tanzania.

Consideration of these important treaties was inexcusably delayed when the Senate was under Republican control, and passage of this implementation legislation has been likewise blocked by an anonymous Republican hold. As I urged in a statement on the floor of the Senate on June 7, Republican obstructionism on this anti-terrorist legislation should be over. The anonymous Republican hold on this bill should be lifted and this bill should pass.

The International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism—“Bombing Convention”—was adopted by the United Nations General Assembly in December 1997 and signed by the United States in January 1998. In September 1999, it was transmitted to the Senate by President Clinton for ratification, but no action was taken on this treaty while the Senate remained under Republican control.

The International Convention for the Suppression of Financing Terrorism—“Financing Convention” was adopted by the United Nations General Assembly in December 1999 and signed by the United States in January 2000. In October 2000, it was transmitted to the Senate by President Clinton for ratification, but, again, no action was taken on this treaty while the Senate remained under Republican control.

When the Senate reorganized under a Democratic majority last summer, the Foreign Relations Committee under the leadership of Chairman BIDEN moved expeditiously to report these conventions to the full Senate. The antibombing treaty, in particular, sat in the Foreign Relations Committee for approximately 2 years without action during the Clinton administration when the Senate was under Republican control. Senator BIDEN deserves credit for acting quickly to report these treaties shortly after he assumed chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee. Under the leadership of Majority Leader Daschle, the two treaties—both of which were considered by the Senate, which gave its consent to ratification by unanimous consent on December 5, 2001.

Yet even as Senator BIDEN and Majority Leader Daschle were pushing to move the treaties themselves through the Senate, the Bush administration did not transmit proposed implementing legislation to the Judiciary Committee before or during the time that were working day and night to write the USA PATRIOT Act, the bipartisan antiterrorism legislation responding to the events of September 11. I remain puzzled why the administration felt that this measure should be separated from that effort.

Both treaties require the signatory nations to enact certain, precisely worded criminal provisions in their laws in order to be in compliance. That is what S. 1770, the Leahy bill, does. I introduced S. 1770, on December 8, 2001, shortly after passage of the USA Patriot Act, as a separate bill. This was the same day that the Senate agreed to ratify both treaties. I then tried to move the bill quickly through the Senate, but an anonymous Republican hold blocked passage.

Again this year I tried to move the bill through the Senate, but again there was an anonymous hold from the Republican side of the aisle which blocked its passage. Had there not been a hold placed on the bill last year, I am quite sure that we could have resolved any remaining issues in conference, as the Republican-controlled House was simultaneously passing its own version of my bill.

After the anonymous hold was placed on S. 1770 at the end of the last session, we received a letter from the Department of Justice on January 29, 2002, about the bill. The letter stated that the Department "support[ed] the legislation but recommend[ed] several modifications." None of the modifications which the Department recommended dealt with issues that were necessary for compliance with the treaties. Furthermore, the version of the bill. The legislation I originally introduced would bring this country into full compliance with those important obligations and take away an excuse from nations that are hesitant to cooperate in the war against terrorism.

The recent spate of horrible suicide bombings around the world and the fact that the convention prohibiting terrorist financing entered into force on April 10, 2002, demonstrate the pressing need for this legislation. As if that was not enough, only last month, the FBI Director warned that he believes that suicide bombings in the United States are "inevitable," bringing home the point that this legislation is required both to fight terrorism at home and abroad. Nevertheless, S. 1770 has been subjected to an anonymous Republican hold since December of last year.

In the post-September 11 environment it is almost beyond my understanding that any Member of this body who would secretly obstruct passage of an important piece of antiterrorism legislation—yet here we are in June, blocked from compliance with two international terrorism treaties by a secret Republican hold. As the Administration has made clear, both Conventions are:

important to insure that all nations have in place laws to enable full and effective international cooperation against terrorism. By enacting the legislation, the United States will be in a position to lead the cooperative effort against terrorist bombings and terrorist finances.

See Statement of Administration Policy.

The legislation meets our obligations under the treaties in the following ways. Both conventions require signatory nations to adopt criminal laws prohibiting specified terrorist activities in order to create a regime of universal criminal law over certain crimes.

Articles 2 and 4 of the Bombing Convention require signatory countries to criminalize the delivery, placement, discharge or detonation of explosives and other lethal devices "in, into, or against" various defined public places with the intent to kill, cause serious bodily injury, or extensively damage such public places. The Bombing Convention also requires that signatories criminalize aiding and abetting, attempting, or conspiring to commit such crimes.

Articles 2 and 4 of the Financing Convention require signatory countries to criminalize willfully "providing or collecting" funds, directly or indirectly, with knowledge that they are to be used to carry out acts which either (1) violate nine enumerated existing treaties, or (2) are aimed at killing or injuring civilians with the purpose of intimidating a population or compelling a government to do any act. The Financing Convention also requires that signatories criminalize aiding and abetting, attempting, or conspiring to commit such crimes. Signatories must also ratify Article 2 whether or not "the funds were actually used to carry out" such an offense.

Both conventions require that signatory nations exercise limited extraterritorial jurisdiction and extraterritorial punishment over acts where the conventions require them to bring the United States into compliance. The legislation also provides extraterritorial jurisdiction as required by the conventions. Furthermore the bill creates domestic jurisdiction for these crimes in limited situations where a national interest is at stake. The legislation also applies to acts where the conventions do not require such jurisdiction and there is no distinct federal interest served.

The bill, again consistent with the H.R. 3275, also contains "ancillary provisions" that would make the two new crimes predicates for money laundering and RICO charges, and for wiretaps. The two provisions would also be subject to an 8-year statute of limitations and include "federal crime of terror." Finally, civil asset forfeiture would be available for the new terrorism financing crime. Existing anti-terrorism crimes are predicates for each of these tools, and providing law enforcement with these ancillary provisions is both consistent and appropriate.

Neither international convention requires a death penalty provision for the enumerated crimes. Indeed, the Department of Justice, in a memorandum dated November 14, 2001, to the Subcommittee on Crime of the House Judiciary Committee, made amply clear that "the death penalty is not required by the Conventions" and would not be required to bring the United States into compliance. This should come as no surprise, given international sentiment opposing the United States' use of the death penalty in other contexts.

The inclusion of a death penalty provision in the implementing legislation for these conventions could lead to complications in extraditing individuals to the United States from countries that do not employ the death penalty. Therefore, unlike the Senate version of the implementing legislation, the original Senate version of S. 1770 contained no new death penalty provision.

The Administration's insistence on adding yet another death penalty to the bill, one that is unilaterally inexplicable given the context of this implementing legislation. The chief purpose of the Terrorist Bombing Convention is to foster international cooperation and decrease hurdles to extraditing suspected criminals. The United States, understandably, wants those who victimize its citizens around the world to be subject to trial and punishment in our own courts. Beyond that purpose, the legislation is largely duplicative of existing state and federal laws.

Even in the recent terrorism context, however, where the desire to assist the United States is at its peak, our closest allies have balked or obstructed our prosecution efforts. The United States has, for example, been frustrated by the European Union's refusal to extradite suspected terrorists. The United States also has been frustrated by the refusal of Germany to extradite the so-called "20th Hijacker," in part due to the decision to seek the death penalty in his case. Spain also refused to extradite a highly dangerous group of terrorists to the United States based upon concerns about the death penalty. The European Union raises similar concerns. This week the Washington Post reported that Germany also is refusing to fully cooperate in the prosecution of Moussaoui because the United States is seeking the death penalty in that case.

Nevertheless, at the insistence of the White House, the substitute amendment would allow the government to seek the death penalty in bombing cases where death results, by reference to the existing death penalty provision found in 18 U.S.C. §2332a, prohibiting the use of weapons of mass destruction.

Unlike H.R. 3275, the original Senate version of S. 1770 also did not contain a third new crime for concealing material support for terrorists. The Department of Justice conceded in the November, 2001 memorandum that this provision was not necessary to bring the United States into compliance with the conventions, stating, “The concealment offense set forth in proposed 18 U.S.C. § 2339(c)(b) does not directly implement the Convention.” Indeed, in the wake of the passage of new money laundering provisions in the USA PATRIOT Act, P.L. No. 107–56, and due to the existence of a concealment crime under 18 U.S.C. § 2339A, with which the Department of Justice recently charged several people in New York, including a criminal defense attorney, such legislation is largely duplicative of the new offenses. However, one problem remains, however, is the fact that the House bill provides a lower mens rea requirement than §2339A, an important change that was not highlighted or explained in the Administration’s accompanying materials.

The substitute amendment contains a new crime of concealment that tracks the existing mens rea requirements of §2339A, so that a large class of non-terrorist related activity is not inadvertently covered. This new crime would be punishable by ten years imprisonment.

Finally, the original Senate bill contained an important new tool for international cooperation between law enforcement which is not included in H.R. 3275 and has been deleted from the substitute amendment. Currently, there is no clear statutory authority allowing domestic law enforcement agents to share Title III wiretap information with legal counterparts. This may create problems when, for example, the DEA seeks to alert Colombian authorities that a cocaine shipment is about to leave a Colombian port but the information is derived from a Title III wiretap.

The original bill would have clarified the authority for sharing wiretap derived information, specifically in the Title III context. The bill provided a clear mechanism through which law enforcement could share wiretap information with foreign law enforcement, while at the same time ensuring that there are appropriate safeguards to protect this sensitive information against misuse. It added a subsection to 18 U.S.C. §2517, permitting disclosure of wiretap information to foreign officials (1) with judicial approval, (2) in such a manner and under such conditions as a court may direct, and (3) consistent with Attorney General guidelines on how the information may be used to prevent terrorism.

Unfortunately, due to the White House’s objection, the substitute removes it from the bill.

I am pleased that obstructing has stopped on this important implementing legislation for two anti-terrorism treaties that are intended to increase protections for our national security by enhancing international cooperation in the fight against terrorism.

I ask unanimous consent for the substitute to be printed in its entirety the record at the conclusion of my remarks along with the sectional analysis included in the summary of the changes made by the substitute to the original bill.

ANTI-TERRORISM CONVENTIONS IMPLEMENTATION—SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

TITLE I—SUPPRESSION OF TERRORIST BOMBINGS

CONVENTION FOR THE SUPPRESSION OF TERRORIST BOMBINGS

As signed by the United States on January 12, 1998, and was entered by the Convention a crime. New section 101 provides that title I may be cited as “The Terrorism Bombings Convention Implementation Act of 2001.”

Section 102. Bombing Statute

Section 102 adds a new section to the Federal criminal code, to be codified at 18 U.S.C. §2332f and makes it a criminal offense to, 2332f supplemental and does not supplant existing Federal and State laws, and contains fifteen subsections, which are described below.

Subsection (a) Remains Unlawfully in Unlawful Place or Detonate Explosive

The current definition of “unlawfully” is in subsection (a), whether a person acts “unlawfully” will depend on whether he is acting within the scope of authority recognized under and consistent with existing U.S. law, which reflects international law principles, such as self defense or lawful use of force by police authorities. This language is not to be construed as permitting the asessement, as a defense to prosecution under new section 2332f, that a person purportedly acted under authority conveyed by any particular authority prohibited by the Convention that occurs under authority conveyed by any particular law of war, and a U.S. Understanding to the Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism, which was signed by the United States on January 10, 2000, and was transmitted to the Senate for its advice and consent to ratification on October 12, 2000. The Convention is not yet in force internationally, but will enter into force 30 days after deposit of the 22nd instrument of ratification with the U.N. Secretary-General. Once in force, the Convention requires State Parties to combat terrorism by criminalizing the transaction in instruments required for the furtherance of various terrorist activities. The Convention also requires that State Parties criminalize conspiracies and attempts to undertake any terrorist act.

Section 201. Short Title

Section 201 provides that title II may be cited as “The Suppression of Financing of Terrorism Convention Implementation Act of 2001.”

Section 202. Terrorism Financing Statute

Section 202(a) adds a new section to the Federal criminal code, to be codified at 18 U.S.C. §2339C and entitled “Prohibitions against the financing of terrorism,” which makes financial acts covered by the Convention a crime. New section 2339C supplements and does not supplant existing Federal and State laws, and contains five subsections, which are described below.

Subsection (a) makes it a crime to provide or control the intended use of funds that are necessary to carry out certain terrorist acts. Conspiracies and attempts to commit these crimes are also criminalized. This subsection implements Article 2, paragraphs 1, 3, 4 and 5 of the Convention.

Subsection (b) establishes the jurisdictional bases for the covered offenses under section 2339C(a) and includes jurisdiction over perpetrators of offenses abroad who are subsequently found within the United States. It implements a criminal element of the Convention (Article 10), which requires all State Parties to either extradite or prosecute perpetrators of offenses covered by the Convention who are found within the territory of a State Party. The structure of this provision is designed to accommodate the structure of the Convention, which sets forth both mandatory and permissive bases of jurisdiction, and excludes certain offenses that lack an international nexus. Some portions of this provision go beyond the jurisdictional bases or expanded jurisdiction permitted under the Convention, however, where expanded jurisdiction is desirable from a policy perspective because a unique Federal crime or expansive jurisdiction is required in the case of a violation of 18 U.S.C. §2339C(d)(7)(I), which is a definitional section specifically linked to the Bombing Convention, will not become effective until that Convention enters into force.

TITLE II—ANCILLARY MEASURES

Title III, which is not required by the International Conventions but will assist in federal enforcement, adds the new 18 U.S.C. §§2332f and 2339C to several existing provisions of law.

Section 301. Ancillary Measures

Sections 2332f and 2339c are made predates under the wiretap statute (18 U.S.C. §2516(1)(q)) and under the statute relating to the provision of material support to terrorists (18 U.S.C. §2339A). Sections 2332f and 2339c are also added to those offenses defined as a “Federal crime of terrorism” under 18 U.S.C. §2332b(k)(5)(B), as amended by the USA PATRIOT Act, P.L. No. 107-56. In addition, a provision is added to the civil asset forfeiture statute so that the proceeds are available in the case of a violation of 18 U.S.C. §2339C. These provisions are consistent with the treatment of similar Federal crimes already in existing law.

TITLE IV—FOREIGN DISCLOSURE OF WIRETAP INTERCEPTS

This provision, which is not required by the International Conventions, clarifies that Federal law enforcement authorities may disclose otherwise confidential wiretap information to their foreign counterparts with appropriate judicial approval. This provision is intended to encourage international cooperation between domestic and foreign law enforcement in the investigation and prosecution of international criminal organizations.

Section 401. Short Title

Section 401 provides that title IV may be cited as “The Foreign Law Enforcement Cooperation Act of 2001.”

Section 402. Amendment to Wiretap Statute

Section 402 adds a new subsection to 18 U.S.C. §2237 that governs the disclosure of otherwise confidential information gathered pursuant to a Title III wiretap. This provision clarifies the authority of domestic law enforcement authorities to disclose such information as may show a violation of either domestic or foreign criminal law to foreign law enforcement officials. The provision requires a court order prior to making such a disclosure and sets the standards for the issuance of such an order. It is intended to allow for the disclosure of such information if it is necessary to investigate or prosecute crimes of either the United States or the foreign nation. It also requires that an attorney for the government or the foreign official who is to receive the wiretap information have been informed of the Attorney General’s guidelines protecting confidentiality. This provision does not add any new prohibition against the ability of domestic law enforcement to work with their foreign counterparts to investigate international criminal activity at this time as protecting against improper use of such wiretap information.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, we must act. The United States must lead the international community in the fight to end such terrorist bombings. This is precisely what the Leahy-Hatch substitute does. We have been trying to pass this legislation for 6 months. We have been trying to clear it. We have been involved with the White House to reach consensus.

I thank Senator HATCH for his work, and the White House. We have worked out the whole matter with the White House and with Senators. I urge its passage. I urge it with a large as a vote as possible.

I yield the remainder of our time.

Mr. ENZI. Madam President, I rise in support of H.R. 3275. I am very pleased that the Senate is considering this valuable legislation which would make the United States compliant with two very important treaties.

I believe one of our most significant duties, as the United States Senate, is the promotion and protection of our national security. We alone have the responsibility to give advice and consent to international understandings and agreements made by the executive branch of our Government.

The two treaties this legislation addresses are part of a nearly four-decade process of conventions considering acts of terrorism. As we debate this legislation, we are examining long-term global policies to address the problem of terrorism. The Convention on the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings and the Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism require the United States and any country adopting the treaties to criminalize terrorist bombings and to criminalize direct or indirect financing of terrorist acts.

The Financing Convention addresses some of the issues we worked on last year. The Senate has already approved by unanimous voice vote this provision, which clarifies the authority of domestic law enforcement authorities to disclose otherwise confidential information gathered pursuant to a Title III wiretap. This provision clarifies the authority of domestic law enforcement authorities to disclose such information as may show a violation of either domestic or foreign criminal law to foreign law enforcement officials. The provision requires a court order prior to making such a disclosure and sets the standards for the issuance of such an order. It is intended to allow for the disclosure of such information if it is necessary to investigate or prosecute crimes of either the United States or the foreign nation. It also requires that an attorney for the government or the foreign official who is to receive the wiretap information have been informed of the Attorney General’s guidelines protecting confidentiality. This provision does not add any new prohibition against the ability of domestic law enforcement to work with their foreign counterparts to investigate international criminal activity at this time as protecting against improper use of such wiretap information.
search for terrorists’ financial assets. The freezing of these assets is a first step to the eradication of global terrorist organizations.

On September 28 of last year, the United Nations Security Council adopted Resolution 1373 which establishes a set of legally binding obligations for each member nation. Now, this is quite significant because there are not a lot of legally binding resolutions considered by the Security Council. Resolution 1373 requires each nation to prevent the financing of terrorism, and increase cooperation and information sharing in these efforts. Resolution 1373, which passed with our support, also directs nations to ratify all outstanding terrorism-related conventions.

Nations, both allies and former adversaries, overwhelmingly acted to sign, ratify, and become compliant with a number of terrorism conventions. It has taken the United States nearly 12 months to do so. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee held a hearing on these treaties last October and approved them in November. The full Senate ratified the treaties in December.

Now, most people might think that once the Senate gives its advice and consent to a treaty, it is ratified and the United States is fully party to the agreement. This could only be seen as a “virtual” ratification. It is not, however, until the United States is fully compliant with the treaty that the President can deposit our articles of ratification and we become full treaty members.

It is this last step where the Senate faltered. We had the House approved implementing legislation last December. We are only now, in June, contemplating its passage. We cannot drag our feet any longer.

Today we are considering implementing legislation. We are ready to vote. We are ready to make the United States compliant with important treaties that can help us fight against terrorism. The amendment language is identical to the version passed by the House in December. It is the right language, the appropriate language and should pass the Senate today.

I encourage my colleagues to support this amendment, support the fight against terrorism, and support making the United States compliant to those two valuable international agreements.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Madam President, I rise today to oppose a provision in H.R. 3275, the Terrorist Bombings Convention Implementation Act, and the proposed Leahy-Hatch amendment to S. 1770, the extension of this implementing legislation, which would authorize the use of the death penalty by the Federal Government.

This bill seeks to implement into Federal obligations of the United Nations under the International Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings and the International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism. The U.S. signed these conventions, which were later ratified by the Senate on December 5, 2001. These two conventions are vital to our efforts to fight terrorism. These conventions will fill an important gap in international law by expanding the legal framework for international cooperation in the investigation, prosecution, and extradition of persons who engage in bombings and financially support terrorist organizations. Both conventions require parties to pass specific criminal law implementing the obligations under the conventions.

But while these conventions do not require a death penalty, the House bill and the proposed amendment to the Senate bill would authorize the use of the death penalty by the United States. Not only do I oppose the expansion of the Federal death penalty at a time when Americans are questioning the usefulness and administration of this punishment, but I also fear that expanding the Federal death penalty through this implementing legislation will undermine our fight against terrorism.

I fear that the inclusion of a death penalty could actually thwart the purpose of these conventions. Instead of encouraging international cooperation in the fight against terrorism, this implementing legislation threatens to hamper international cooperation to prevent and punish terrorist bombings and financing of terrorist organizations. Many nations, including our closest allies in the fight against terrorism, may refuse to extradite suspects to nations where those suspects will face the death penalty. Already our allies like France and Germany have expressed their concerns about extraditing individuals or sharing information concerning al-Qaeda suspects out of concern that the United States will seek the death penalty against suspected terrorists. As this experience shows, it does not serve the cause of justice, peace, or freedom to include a death penalty provision in this important bill.

Moreover, this is not the time to expand the Federal death penalty. Americans are increasingly recognizing that the current death penalty system is broken, and those risks executing the innocent are applying the ultimate punishment disproportionately to those who may live in the “wrong” part of the country, have the “wrong” color skin, or just not have the money to pay for a “dream team” defense.

These problems plague the integrity of the justice system at the state and federal levels. A report released by the Justice Department in September 2000 showed troubling racial and geographic disparities in the administration of the federal death penalty. The color of a defendant’s skin, the federal district in which the prosecution takes place can affect whether a defendant lives or dies in the federal system. Former Attorney General Janet Reno ordered a further analysis of why these disparities exist. And Attorney General Ashcroft has agreed to continue this study.

We have not yet seen the results of this study, nor have we had the opportunity to review what the results mean for the fairness and integrity of our federal justice system. While this important study is underway, Congress should not create even more death-eligible crimes.

As Governor of Illinois, I said at a hearing I held on June 12th in the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on the Constitution on the report of the Illinois Governor’s Commission on Capital Punishment, “especially after September 11th, the United States must be a model for the rest of the world. And that means our justice system should be the glowing example for the pursuit of truth and justice. It must be fair and compassionate.”

There is no question that we should prosecute and punish severely those responsible for the horrific attacks on our nation on September 11th or those who may plan or perpetrate acts of terror in the future. But I am very concerned that the bill’s provision for the death penalty against suspected terrorists could undermine the purpose of the conventions and our ability to seek vital information and cooperation from other nations. I fear that the death penalty provision will weaken, not strengthen, our hand in pursuing terrorists, especially our global efforts to bring alleged terrorists to justice and to prevent future acts of terror.

For these reasons, I cannot in good conscience support H.R. 3275, the proposed Leahy substitute amendment to H.R. 3275, the proposed Leahy-Hatch amendment to S. 1770, or S. 1770, if the amendment should be adopted.

considered, in order to get to the Defense authorization bill and complete our work before the Fourth of July recess, we need to complete this bill in a reasonable period of time—Tuesday or Wednesday—and then go right to Defense appropriations.

I commend the Senator for making that decision. There are a lot of other bills Senators on both sides are pushing the majority leader to do, meritorious or otherwise. This is very important.

I encourage Senators on both sides of the aisle, when we get to the Defense authorization bill, let’s not use this as a grab bag. We have lots we need to do in this area. We are talking about a pay raise for our military men and women. We are talking about quality-of-life issues. We are talking about basic decisions about the future of our defense for our country. There will be plenty other opportunities to offer unrelated amendments.

I believe Senator WARNER and Senator LEVIN will be ready to go. There will be disagreements and heated debate on some of the amendments. Some will feel this process has not been ready to go and will make good progress on it and be assured we can get it done without it being very messy.

I appreciate the decision Senator DASCHLE has made. I think it is the right thing for the Senate, for the military, and for our country.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I thank the Senator as always for his cooperation. This is an important schedule. We know we have to finish the work on terrorism insurance. We know we have to deal with the Defense authorization bill. The Senator from Virginia and the Senator from Michigan have been ready to go for a couple of weeks. It should be a good debate.

I also agree with the distinguished Republican leader that this should not be the grab bag, this should not be the vehicle that attracts extraneous legislation. Let’s get it done and done cleanly and move on to other matters that are important as well.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I wish to make one other point, if I can be recognized in my own right, before Senator WARNER leaves. Senator DASCHLE and I have also been talking about ways to move forward on nominations. Hopefully, it will end up with a process that will allow us to make good progress across the board on nominations in the next couple of weeks. I am looking forward to continuing work on that as well.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, on behalf of the members of the Armed Services Committee, I thank both of our leaders for recognizing the need to move the Defense authorization bill. That hopefully will then set the stage for the Defense appropriations bill to follow in an orderly manner.

Just moments ago, the chairman of our committee, the Senator from Michigan, Mr. LEVIN, and I conferred with the leadership. I think I can speak on behalf of the chairman that we are both ready to go, and we will be prepared to bring up some of these amendments. I should note we have a lot of provisions in the bill early on so that those issues can be addressed and hopefully thereafter we can move quickly through the other provisions of the bill.

I thank the Chair, and I thank the leadership. I yield the floor.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I am a strong supporter of this legislation and wish to praise my Connecticut colleague, Senator DODD, for his diligence in crafting a workable solution to the terror insurance issue. As we all know, this has been a frustrating process and Senator DODD has proven to be tenacious in the quest to enact this legislation into law. He is performing a valuable and mostly unsung public service.

Let me explain why I believe this issue is so important and why Senator DODD’s work is so important.

As part of their property and casualty insurance businesses have insurance against the costs that arise if their business is interrupted. If we don’t pass an effective terror insurance bill, there will be a massive interruption in the business community. We can avoid this result by passing this legislation.

Property and casualty insurance is not optional for most businesses. Not every business owner buy life insurance, but nearly every business buys property and casualty insurance—to protect its property, to protect it against liability, and to protect its employees under the State workers compensation laws. Property and casualty insurance is required by investors and shareholders. It is required by banks that lend for construction and other projects.

We all know that home mortgage companies require the homeowners to maintain homeowners property insurance, and it’s the same with business lending.

Maintaining property and casualty insurance is mandated as part of the fiduciary obligation to the business. And if property and casualty insurance for major risks is unavailable, or it is prohibitively expensive, businesses face a difficult choice about going forward with construction projects, and other ventures. If no insurance is available, banks won’t lend and the business activity that is depending on the loans will stop. The impact on the real estate, energy, construction, and transportation sectors will be severe.

For their part, insurance companies must be able to ‘underwrite’ their policies. This means that they need to be able to assess their exposure or risk of a claim. They need to know if their exposure to claims is acceptable, excessive, or indeterminate. In the case of claims for damages caused by terror attacks, there is no way to assess their risk and no way to underwrite the policy. There are too many uncertainties.

One thing that is certain, as it was not before September 11, is that losses from terrorist acts can cost tens of billions of dollars. In fact, under the worst-case scenarios, losses could easily reach hundreds of billions of dollars.

There are hundreds of insurers in any given market. It is a highly competitive industry. But these insurers are dependent on reinsurers who help insurance companies spread their risk. When reinsurers will not renew their contracts unless they contain terrorism exclusions or limitations, many if not most of the insurance companies will not be able to provide terrorism coverage—at any cost.

Insurance companies need reinsurers and will not have their own capital to cover losses is finite.

Even a good sized company—one that would be in the top half dozen or so commercial insurers in the U.S.—with perhaps 5 percent of the commercial market and a capital of $7 or $8 billion—would have to ask, do we want to roll the dice on our very survival by writing terrorism coverage and covering it with our own reserves?

That is not a risk that an insurance company will take. If we do not pass this legislation, therefore, insurers will take whatever steps they consider necessary to ensure they do not drive themselves into bankruptcy.

The insurance industry can protect itself by reducing its exposure to terrorism claims. There is nothing we can do in the Congress.—within the limits of our Constitution—to require insurance companies to write policies. They can just not write policies, or write them only with extraordinary premiums for terrorism coverage, the companies may not be as profitable in the short run, but they will at least be protecting themselves against involvement.

State regulators are already considering terrorism exclusions—as they should do, consistent with their responsibilities to oversee the solvency of the insurance industry. Absent exclusions, in states where they might not be approved for one reason or another, the insurers will have no choice but to limit their business.

If insurance companies are permitted to write policies without coverage for claims connected to terrorism, then businesses will have to decide if they will self-insure against these losses. Many of them will conclude that they cannot accept this exposure. Therefore, if we fail to pass this legislation, it will be everyone that the insurance companies they insure that loses. Insurance companies can protect themselves by not writing policies, or writing only policies without any coverage for acts of terrorism. Writing policies with extraordinary premiums. But companies that need insurance coverage may have even harsher options.
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE
S5577

So, the issue is how we enable enough insurance companies to determine that the risk of terrorist claims is a risk that they can assume.

That is what this legislation is all about—defining the risk so that insurers can price it and put a price on it. This legislation is about facilitating insurance companies’ ability to continue to write property and casualty insurance policies. It is about providing business owners with the opportunity to buy insurance against terror claims and doing so in the private market to the extent that is possible.

This is, of course, not the first time we have faced this kind of an issue. The Federal Government has a history of partnering with the insurance industry to provide coverages for risks that are too big—too uninsurable—for the industry alone.

Current examples are the flood, crop, and nuclear liability programs, and in the past we’ve seen partnerships on vaccine liability and riot reinsurance. From an insurability standpoint, these risks are probably more insurable than terrorism.

Some might debate whether we should have passed the existing programs, or whether they are operated efficiently. But there should be no debate about the need for a terrorism program, and Senator Dodd has structured this one the right way—with retentions and loss sharing by the industry, so the incentives are there for efficient operations.

Again, I congratulate my Connecticut colleague, Senator Dodd, for his diligence in working through these complicated issues and bringing this bill to the floor. We need to defeat the amendments and enact this legislation into law as soon as possible.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to address the Senate as in morning business for 4 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AIR FORCE STAFF SERGEANT ANISSA SHERO

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, I have the sad duty to report another death of a West Virginian in Afghanistan. For many generations, the people of West Virginia have answered the call and many have paid with their lives. West Virginians understand the cost of freedom and have always been willing to pay that cost when called for duty. Today we remember again how much that cost is because we now know of the death of Anissa A. Shero in Gardiz, Afghanistan. She is from Grafton, WV. This was a tragic death in an airplane crash. She is the first woman Air Force casualty in the war in Afghanistan. She was SSgt Nathan Shero this past September, 2001. She had just been married. He is also deployed.

Her father was a disabled Vietnam war veteran who lost both of his legs as a result of a casualty, and her grandfather fought in the Battle of the Bulge in the Second World War. She was a volunteer who chose to serve her country in the face of grave danger. When terrorists attacked the World Trade Center, she left behind the mountains of West Virginia, in a sense, to go to the mountains of Afghanistan, to risk her life so our lives would be freer and safer.

She was part of an extraordinarily successful effort to eradicate the Taliban and to make tremendous disruption to and demoralize the al-Qaeda forces, and again to give us more freedom and hope. Men and women in both nations are safer now because of her work, and unfortunately because of her death.

All of us who value freedom owe Sergeant Shero a profound debt of gratitude and honor. I know the thoughts and prayers of many people in this Chamber and all across America, certainly all over West Virginia, are like mine, with her family and her friends. She represented the very best of West Virginia and the very best of America. She was strong, courageous, and dedicated. She will forever serve as a role model for West Virginians, for men and women alike, who love their country and who, like her, know that our ideals are worth fighting for.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. HAGEL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I be allowed to address the Senate as in morning business.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, may I inquire how long the Senator is asking for?

Mr. HAGEL. I would need no more than 15 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized for up to 15 minutes.

PEACE IN THE MIDDLE EAST

Mr. HAGEL. Mr. President, I rise today to address an issue of urgent concern for American foreign policy: the situation in the Middle East and its implications for our war on terrorism. Yesterday the majority leader offered three principles to guide our policy in the Middle East. I share his concern about the gravity of the situation we face and his affirmation of American support for Israel, and the imperative of American leadership in helping bring about a lasting peace in the region.

Time is not on our side. In April, I spoke before this body in support of President Bush’s leadership in bringing a diplomatic resolution to this conflict. I applaud the President and his team for their progress so far in assembling the pieces of a potentially historic agreement and coalition for peace. But we are still only at the beginning of a long and difficult process.

What happens in the Middle East cannot be separated from our interests in the war on terrorism. If we fail in peace-making between Israel and her neighbors, there will be grave consequences for the United States, Israel, and the world. We will empower the terrorists and extremists, those who thrive, find refuge, and recruit in conditions of poverty, violence, and despair. We must help secure a vision of hope for the people of the Middle East in order to reclaim the peace initiative.

It is time to put the endgame up front in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. The Palestinians must have a state with contiguous and secure borders, and Israel must have a state without terrorism and with secure borders. President Bush endorsed the concept of a Palestinian state in a historic speech to the United Nations last year. If we do not press this, the core political issue of this conflict, we will allow the extremists on both sides to win. And then we will all lose: Palestinians, Israelis, Arabs, Americans, the world.

Strong, engaged, visionary American leadership is a predicate for the future of the Middle East. The Arab League peace proposal, at the initiative of Crown Prince Abdullah of Saudi Arabia, calls for normal relations between Israel and the Arab world and presents a unique and historic opportunity for peace. The Bush administration may be considering recognizing a transitional or provisional Palestinian state, with the specific details to be worked out, an idea similar to the Peres-Abu Ala agreement of last year. The so-called “Quartet”—US, Russia, the EU, and the UN—provides an international context for this possibility and a revived diplomatic track.

The pieces may be in place, the image of an idea for peace forming on the horizon, although the work ahead will be difficult. There are no easy answers or risk-free options. We can no longer defer the tough decisions on Israeli settlements, Palestinian refugees, borders, and the status of Jerusalem. The time for a step-by-step sequential process has come and gone. We are close to reaching a line of demarcation, where only bold and courageous leadership on all sides can show the way to a resolution.

Israel must make some hard choices for peace. It knows that military means alone will not end terrorism. Settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza must end. Israel should withdraw its military from the Palestinian towns it has re-occupied, as soon as the security situation allows. The emphasis must be on a coalition of common interests including our Arab allies and the United States to form the core of a peace coalition. Israel should move closer to this coalition and away from isolation and recognize that the military option to ending the crisis.

The Israeli people have suffered too much and too long from terrorism. It must end. America will continue to stand by our friend and do what we must to help secure a peace and Israel's survival. But America's support of Israel should not be at the expense or exclusion of our relationships with our Arab friends and the Palestinian people. It should not be. America is against terrorists, America is against Arabs or Palestinians. We are and can be a friend and supporter of all sides. We must be, or there will be no hope and no peace.

This also means that we will not retreat from our support of democratic principles, values, and expectations. We will not trade friendship and freedom for expediency and peace.

The other Arab leaders of the region must play a major role in this revived peace process. They have serious responsibilities and significant self-interests in helping end terrorism and resolving this conflict. There is no longer room for ambiguity or criticism from the abstention of rest. Partiality or subtlety is no longer an option.

Crown Prince Abdullah, King Abdullah of Jordan, and President Mubarak of Egypt and other Arab leaders clearly seeing the high stakes of this conflict are willing to take risks for peace. The prospects for getting a peace process back on track is best served when the risks are shared.

The Palestinian leadership must respond to the challenge and opportunity before it. Terrorism does an injustice to the Palestinian struggle for self-determination. A Palestinian state cannot be born from and committed to terrorism and extremists who will fill the leadership vacuum.

The problems in the Middle East affect and influence all aspects of our foreign policy. Including our leadership in the war on terrorism. The Arab-Israeli conflict cannot be separated from America's foreign policy. Actions in the Middle East have immense consequences for our other policies and interests in the world. We are limited in what we can do with other conflicts until this conflict is on a path to resolution.

America's policy and role in the Middle East, and the perception of our policies and role across the globe, affects our policies and interests in Afghanistan, Somalia, and all parts of the world. We cannot defeat terrorism without the active support of our friends and allies around the world. This will require an enhancement of our relationships, not an enhancement of our power. It will require America's reaching out to other nations. It will require a wider lens in our foreign policy with a new emphasis on humanitarian, economic, and trade issues as well as military and intelligence relationships.

We need the active support and involvement of Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, and the other states of the Middle East to defeat terrorism. The potential for isolating them on one side, with the United States and Israel on the other, is the wrong path. The alternative to developing coalitions of common interest in the Middle East and our war on terrorism is a region afire with radicalism and rage directed at Israel and the United States. That is the wrong path. We cannot defer the peace timetable to the perfect time for peace. There is no perfect time for peace or perfect set of dynamics for peace. It will happen because we make it happen. We must seize the time we have, with all its imperfections.

The perception of American power becomes the reality of American power. If we fail in our diplomatic efforts to help bring peace to Israel and her neighbors, and isolate ourselves from Israel in the process, our security and Israel's security will become more vulnerable and the world more dangerous.

We need to keep our eye on the objectives: peace between Israel and its neighbors and victory in our war on terrorism. I close by joining my colleague, the majority leader, in encouraging President Bush not to risk unraveling the progress we have made so far in the Middle East with a period of inattention and inaction to drag us all back into a dark abyss of despair and danger. A conference or some tangible relevant framework for peace must be announced and organized soon. The stakes have never been so high, the opportunities so great, and the margins for error so small.

CLONING

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, the matter before the Senate at the present time is an amendment offered by Senator BROWNBACK. I will address the issues raised by that amendment.

We are considering a question that is of vital importance for every American affected by diabetes, cancer, Parkinson's disease, or other serious disorders. That question is whether we will permit a type of life-saving medical research to achieve its full potential to heal illnesses and cure disease—or whether we will stop this promising research dead in its tracks and deny its benefits to millions of Americans.

We all know where Senator BROWNBACK stands on the issue of medical research using the breakthrough new technique of nuclear transplantation. My friend from Kansas wants to ban this research forever. That's the position he has stated time and again in this Chamber and in forums across the country. And that is what the amendment that he offers today will accomplish.

Members of this body have spent long, serious hours grappling with the complex scientific and ethical issues raised by the issue of human cloning. Senators know the difference between human cloning and medical research. Human cloning produces a human being. Medical research is done in a laboratory dish and produces cells. But these cells can be used by doctors to develop astonishing transplants that will never be rejected by a patient's own body.

A majority of the Senate opposes any legislation to ban, even temporarily, the lifesaving research on nuclear transplantation that brings such hope to so many of our constituents. In the interrogative guise of an amendment to suspend certain aspects of the patent law, my friend from Kansas is trying to accomplish the goal he has long sought—banning medical research that uses nuclear transplantation.

The Brownback amendment does more than ban. It suspends all patents on any cloned human being. It seems to me that if we want to ban human cloning, then we should ban it—pure and sample. I introduced legislation with Senator ARLEN SPECTER, Senator FEINSTEIN, and Senator HATCH to ban human cloning in a straightforward way. Our legislation makes human cloning a crime punishable by 10 years in prison and substantial fines. That's the way to prohibit cloning.

Using cloning to reproduce a child is improper and immoral—and it ought to be illegal. I think that every Member of the Senate would agree on this point.

Some want to use our opposition to human cloning to advance a more sweeping agenda. In the name of banning cloning, they would place unwarranted restrictions on medical research that could improve and extend countless lives. In a letter to the Congress, 40 Nobel Laureates wrote that these restrictions would “impede progress against some of the most debilitating diseases known to man.”

Of course we should reject the offensive way this research should be conducted. But the Brownback amendment goes far beyond this commonsense proposal. It is so broadly written as to ban patents on single cells from medical laboratories or research using cloning techniques. It even bans patents on the processes used to conduct this important medical research.

Why would my friend from Kansas propose such sweeping bans on patents? He offers this proposal precisely because he knows that if it is enacted, it will eviscerate this research.

The extraordinary progress in medical research that we have seen in recent years relies on two great motors of innovation: NIH funding and a dynamic private biotechnology sector. But when it comes to vital research using nuclear transplantation techniques, one of those motors has already been shut off. There are no new grants being given by NIH or any other Federal agency for this research. There never have been, and under this administration, there never will be.

If we had allowed our Nation’s great research universities to conduct extensive nuclear transplantation research, there’s no telling what medical miracles we might have seen by now. Perhaps scientists using NIH funds could have already developed replacement cells for children with diabetes that would never run the risk of tissue rejection. Perhaps those same NIH-funded scientists could have developed new cures for those whose minds and memories slowly ebb away on the tide of Alzheimer’s disease.

Fortunately, we have a robust and dynamic biotechnology industry where new cures are developed and new discoveries made. Because NIH will not fund nuclear transplantation research, every major discovery in this field has come from funds provided by biotechnology companies.

But the biotechnology industry runs on patents. Abraham Lincoln said that the patent system “added the fuel of interest to the fire of genius.”

The Brownback amendment would permanently shut off the supply of that fuel. It would accomplish Senator Brownback’s long-held goal of banning this research entirely. NIH already can’t fund it and the Brownback amendment would make sure no biotechnology company would touch it.

Instead of debating peripheral issues like patents, we should be debating the basic question that’s at the core of this debate, whether we should allow or prohibit a type of medical research that bring hope to millions of Americans simply because it seems new or strange to some people.

We offered our opponents on this issue the opportunity for a debate, but they declined that offer. I am saddened by this decision, because I believe that these issues deserve to be debated thoroughly on their own merits, not hastily considered as part of legislation on insignificant issues that have the opportunity for a full debate on the issue of cloning, as I know it is of profound interest to many of our colleagues. It has been my privilege to take part in some of the other great debates we have had over the years on issues raised by the progress of science.

In the 1970s we debated whether to ban the basic techniques of biotechnology. Some of the very same arguments that are raised against nuclear transplantation today were raised against biotechnology back then. Some said that it would lead to ecological catastrophe or genetic monsters. Critics told us that the new science of recombinant DNA research was unproven and untested. They said that it might never yield new cures and that its benefits would never materialize. We could not know in the 1970s all the incredible advances that recombinant DNA research today is bringing, not only in medical breakthroughs, but in so many different aspects of our lives. We didn’t know then that DNA fingerprinting would one day ensure that criminals are punished and the wrongly imprisoned are released. But that is what is happening today. We did not know then that scientists would learn to put thousands of genes on a tiny chip, so that medicines can be customized for the genetic signature of an individual patient. But that is what is happening now any day of this in the 1970s. But we did know that recombinant DNA research offered extraordinary promise and that it should not be banned.

Because Congress rejected those arguments, patients across America today can benefit from breakthrough new biotechnology products that help dissolve clots in the arteries of stroke victims, fight leukemia, and help those with crippling arthritis lead productive lives.

When in vitro fertilization was first developed in the 1980s, it too was bitterly denounced. And once again, there were calls to make this medical breakthrough illegal. Because Congress rejected those arguments then, thousands of Americans today can experience the joys of parenthood through the very techniques that were once so strongly opposed.

Some who support the Brownback amendment bring. If you want to accept the false and dangerous certainty, then you should vote for his amendment.

But if you want to promote life saving medical research, if you want to side with patients, if you want to take hope on hope you to vote for patients, for medicine, for hope and for the bipartisan proposal that I have introduced with Senator
SPECTER, Senator FEINSTEIN, Senator HATCH, and many other colleagues. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. FEINSTEIN). The Senator from Ohio.

Mr. DEWINE. I thank the Chair.

The remarks of Mr. DEWINE and Mr. KENNEDY pertaining to the introduction of S. 2626 are located in today's Record under "Statements on Introductions and Joint Resolutions."

Mr. KENNEDY. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order of the roll be rescinded.

CLONING

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I listened to the distinguished senior Senator from Massachusetts speak on the cloning issue. I thought it might be a good opportunity to offer a few thoughts on that issue.

When one says cloning, most people automatically think of human cloning. They don't know that there is an aspect of it which is called nuclear transplantation, or stem cell research. The two issues become somewhat blurred. In fact, if you ask people, do they think stem cell research should proceed, the answer you get invariably, once they understand it, is yes.

I deeply believe that stem cell research today in America is one of the brightest scientific fields we know of and offers unparalleled hope and opportunity for so many victims of a myriad of chronic, debilitating, and often fatal diseases. It is the bright rainbow out of the black cloud of medical research.

I understand last night the Senator from Massachusetts spoke of the beauty of our legislation. I think it is a bill that is well written, it is strong. It is definitive on all the points that mandate informed consent. The 4,000 people a year die because there will be no treatment for them. There will be no research for them. The beauty of our legislation is that it would permit the cloning of a human being, without exception. It would establish a fine of $1 million or three times any profits made, whichever is greater, for any person who clones or attempts to clone a human being. The financial penalty is in addition to the 10-year prison term.

It is very strong. It is definitive on making the cloning of a human being illegal and subject to a 10-year prison sentence and a $1 million fine.

The beauty of our legislation is that it would also allow this most promising form of stem cell research, somatic cell nuclear transplantation, to be conducted on a human egg for up to 14 days only, under strict standards and Federal regulation. This 14-day requirement is consistent with the standard established in the United Kingdom and recommended by the California Advisory Committee on Human Cloning. That is precedent for it.

The reason for 14 days is to limit any research before the so-called primitive streak can take over that egg. This stem cell research can only take place on an unfertilized egg. This is important because the component of stem cell research say: Aha, this is an organism capable of being a living being.

It is no different than a clump of blood cells. They are alive. Those blood cells are not capable of becoming a human being.

Skin cells are alive. They are not capable of becoming a human being, nor are any cells in the human body capable of that. An unfertilized egg is not capable of becoming a human being. Therefore, we limit stem cell research to unfertilized eggs.

We would ban profiteering and coercion by requiring that all egg donations for this stem cell research be voluntary. We would ban egg donors, review of any nuclear transplantation research by an ethics board, and safety and privacy protection. And we have applied to this the strict Federal regulations that are appropriate in this area.

Any researcher who violates the bill's ethics requirements—even without attempting to clone a human being and becoming subject to the 10-year prison term and $1 million fine—will face civil penalties of up to $250,000 per violation.

So the legislation that you, Senator HATCH, Senator SPECTER, Senator HARKIN, Senator THURMOND, and myself, in a bipartisan way, have put together, we believe, offers this body the soundest approach to make human cloning illegal and, yet, to permit stem cell research to go ahead only on an unfertilized egg, on an embryo up to 14 days with strict ethical and Federal regulatory standards; to prohibit export to any country that permits human cloning; to separate it from in vitro fertilization, so there can be no blurry lines.

I think it is a bill that is well thought out, a bill that will stand the test of time and, most importantly, it is a bill that, while prohibiting the cloning of the human, will permit this bright rainbow of research to go forward.

Mr. President, you and I know that today there are 90,000 people awaiting organs or tissue replacement. We know that 4,000 people a year die because they didn't get it or because their body rejects that organ. Let's talk about what stem cell research is.

You have a human egg. That egg is unfertilized. Before it exists for 14 days the nucleus is injected into that space of the nucleus in this egg is injected the DNA from a sick person—a person who may have cancer, or ALS, or a brittle child who may be subject to amputation, blindness, or death; it could be a Parkinson's patient or a burn patient. That egg is then forced to differentiate. As it goes through that period, it then can be encouraged to grow into tissues, or an organ, which then, when given to the sick person, there will be no rejection of that tissue or that organ. It also can be used with blood. It also can be used for cancer patients.

I cannot stress too much, when we get to the actual debate, there is anecdote after anecdote of individuals who have lost hope, for whom stem cell research gives back that hope. We have 40 Nobel laureates supporting us. We have hundreds of patient advocacy groups all across the country supporting us. We have the hopes and dreams of hundreds of thousands of people who are otherwise condemned to a life of disability.

Mr. President, you and I stood at a press conference with Christopher Reeve, one of America's great and talented human beings. We listened to him plead to be able to go ahead because this is the first time that, if you have had your spine severed, there is an opportunity to regenerate, to do something that has never been done in history—to give a paraplegic or a quadriplegic the opportunity to walk again.
June 14, 2002

In the Judiciary Committee, we heard testimony from a young woman by the name of Chris Golden. She was an Arlington, VA, police officer and a marathon runner. She was out running and she was hit by a car and her spine was severed. All of her dreams and hopes of competing in the Arlington Police Department and of running once again were severed. She says she now hopes and dreams that one day she will wake up and they will have found a treatment that can regenerate her spinal system. Instead, today she wakes up to a wheelchair, and she even has a problem being able to brush her teeth.

There is story after story of people who have lost hope and, because of this new scientific frontier, they can have hope again.

Life is for the living. It is important to improve that life. I cannot understand how people want to resist this. I cannot understand how they would say an unfertilized egg is something we have to protect, when women lose hundreds of these every month. It makes no sense. It is arbitrary; it is capricious; it is unscientific; it is wrong. And, yes, if we know of hundreds of thousands of suffering Americans who might be helped, it is also immoral.

So those of us who have put together this legislation believe it will stand the test of time. We are very close today to that 60-vote necessity to move ahead with it. So I am hopeful that sometime during next week we will be able to say, yes, in fact we have the 60 votes and, yes, in fact the Senate of the United States of America is going to stand tall to cross this frontier of stem cell research and be able to offer the hope and the dream of a good life to literally hundreds of thousands of people.

I thank the Chair and I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. FEINSTEIN). Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to a period for morning business, with Senators allowed to speak for a period not to exceed 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

NATIONAL SMALL CITIES DAY

Mr. DASCHLE. Madam President, today is National Flag Day, and it is appropriate that we all pause to honor this important symbol of American Freedom. The National League of Cities has designated this day, June 14, 2002 as second annual National Small Cities Day to call attention to the role of small cities and towns in American life.

The vast majority of cities throughout our Nation have populations of fewer than 50,000 people. These communities play an essential role in nurturing families, cultivating values, and building a strong sense of commitment to community. In fact, the theme for National Small Cities Day is building quality communities by making decisions by choice and not by chance.

Millions of Americans live better lives because small cities provide services and programs that meet the needs of their citizens. In the wake of the September 11 terrorist attacks, millions of Americans have looked to the leaders of their small communities to help ensure their safety and security by working in partnership with other levels of government.

Businesses, civic organizations, and citizens across the nation are partners in building quality communities and must be encouraged to support efforts that make these cities and towns better places in which to live. The Federal government, too, must continue to be a good partner by supporting important efforts that help strengthen communities such as the Community Oriented Policing Program, the Community Development Block Grant program, and funds for local terrorism preparedness programs.

We must work together and look for ways to further strengthen our small cities and towns through creativity, innovation, and collaboration.

I join the National League of Cities and the Small Cities Council in encouraging President Bush, my Congressional colleagues, state governments, community organizations, businesses, and citizens to honor the efforts of "small town America" today and every day. We must work together on this day and in the future to build quality communities that improve the lives of citizens throughout the nation.

COMMEMORATION OF FLAG DAY

Mr. THURMOND. Madam President, two hundred and twenty-five years ago today, the United States was engaged in its War for Independence. I note that the American Continental Army, now the United States Army, was established by the Continental Congress, just 2 years earlier on June 14, 1775. I express my congratulations to the United States Army on its 227th birthday.

At the start of that War, American colonists fought under a variety of local flags. The Continental Colors, or Grand Unions, were the unofficial national flag from 1775-1777. This flag had thirteen alternating red and white stripes, with the English flag in the upper left corner.

Following the publication of the Declaration of Independence, it was no longer appropriate to fly a banner containing the British flag. Accordingly, on June 14, 1777, the Continental Congress passed a resolution that "the Flag of the United States be 13 stripes alternate red and white, and the Union be 13 stars white in a blue field representing a new constellation."

No record exists as to why the Continental Congress adopted the now-familiar red, white and blue. A later action of the Congress, convened under the Articles of Confederation, may provide an appropriate interpretation on the use of these colors. Five years after adopting the flag resolution, in 1782, a resolution regarding the Great Seal of the United States contained a statement on the meanings of the colors: Red: For hardness and courage; White: For purity and innocence; and Blue: For vigilance, perseverance, and justice.

The stripes, symbolic of the 13 original colonies, were similar to the five red and four white stripes on the flag of the Sons of Liberty, an early colonial flag. The stars of the first national flag after 1777 were arranged in a variety of patterns. The most popular design placed the stars in alternating rows of three or two stars. Another flag placed twelve stars in a circle with the thirteenth star in the center. A new popular image of a flag of that day, although it was rarely used at the time, portrays the thirteen stripes.

As our country has grown, the Stars and Stripes have undergone necessary modifications. Alterations include the addition, then deletion, of stripes; and the addition and rearrangement of the field of stars.

While our Star-Spangled Banner has seen changes, the message it represents is constant. That message is one of patriotismo and respect, wherever the flag is flown. Dr. Henry Ward Beecher, a prominent 19th century clergyman and lecturer stated:

A thoughtful mind, when it sees a nation's flag, sees not the flag only, but the nation itself; and whatever may be its symbols, its insignia, he reads chiefly in the flag the Government, the principles, the truths, and the history which belong to the nation that sets it forth.

Old Glory represents the land, the people, the government and the ideals of the United States, no matter where or where it is displayed throughout the world. The flag has proudly represented our Republic beyond the Earth and into the heavens. The stirring images of Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin saluting the flag on the moon, on July 20, 1969 moved the Nation to new heights of patriotism and national pride.

Today we pause to commemorate our Nation's most clear symbol, our flag. President Woodrow Wilson signed a Presidential Proclamation designating June 14, 1916 as Flag Day. On a prior occasion President Wilson noted:

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

COMMEMORATING THE 227TH BIRTHDAY OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY

Mr. THURMOND. Madam President, I rise today to commemorate the 227th Birthday of the United States Army. On June 14, 1775, as our Republic was struggling to emerge, the Second Continental Congress enacted legislation creating the American Continental Army. The founding fathers knew if the citizens of this Nation were to be secure in their liberty, the Nation would require the ability to defend and protect itself. Fortunately, this Congress also selected George Washington to command this new force. His sense of purpose, integrity, and leadership were an inspiration to the troops he led and have sustained soldiers of our Nation. His vision of the citizen soldier defending his home, family, and country were critical to founding the Republic.

From humble beginnings, at Lexington and Concord and in the forge of battles such as Charleston, Cowpens, and Kings Mountain and from the winter encampment at Valley Forge, the Army secured victory at Yorktown. From Chippewa, New Orleans, Palo Alto, Buena Vista, to the numerous skirmishes on the frontier known as the Indian Wars, the Army proudly defended this Nation. The entry of the United States into World War I with the Army leading the way, sealed the allied victory. Into World War II, the Army fought worldwide with troops in the Americas, Europe, Africa, Asia, and the Pacific. The defense of our freedoms continued with the Korean War, the Viet Nam War, and Desert Storm. Today our soldiers are found throughout the world, Bosnia, Kosovo, Afghanistan and elsewhere, courageously defending our Nation and the ideals it represents.

Our Army reflects the values of our Nation’s citizens. Our citizen soldiers serve to protect our freedoms today just as they did to gain our freedoms over 200 years ago. I am proud of our soldiers and appreciate their selfless service. I was proud to wear the uniform of the United States Army. Happy Birthday to the United States Army.

Mr. President, I rise today to wish the United States Army happy birthday. It was 227 years ago today, in 1775, that the Continental Army of the United States was formed. The United States Army has had a monumental influence on our country. Millions of men and women over the past 227 years have served in the senior branch of our military forces. The Army is interwoven into the culture of America. Those who have had the great privilege of serving our country in the U.S. Army understand that.

This year is an especially important anniversary. The United States Military Academy at West Point this year celebrated their bicentennial anniversary. The newly commissioned class of Lieutenants from the West Point Class of 2002 will face a future much like those faced by their predecessors in the Class of 1942, a world where the United States finds itself at war with the scourge of our time, terrorism. We must go at the root and strike at the heart of terrorist organizations and those nations granting them safe harbor. And to do so we depend on our United States Army.

This mission is not easy. Our soldiers will spend holidays in far away countries, miss anniversaries with their spouses and birthdays with their children. They do this out of love for our nation and a sense of the greater good. Finally, as we commemorate the heritage our flag represents, may we as a nation pledge not only our allegiance, but also our efforts to furthering the standards represented by its colors, courage, virtue, perseverance, and justice. Through these universal concepts, we the People can ensure better lives for ourselves and our children, for these are the characteristics of greatness. In doing so, we can move closer to justice. Through these universal concepts, we the People can ensure better lives for ourselves and our children, with the Army leading the way.

Let our object be our country, our whole country, nothing but our country. And, by the blessing of God, may that country itself become a vast and splendid monument, not of oppression and terror, but of Wisdom, of liberty, and freedom, and democracy.

This struggle will not be easy. As of today, we have soldiers stationed or deployed in 125 nations. Today, let us reflect on the deeds and sacrifices of those who have gone before us and the legacy they left to us. Let us remember that these are the characteristics of greatness. In doing so, we can move closer to justice. Through these universal concepts, we the People can ensure better lives for ourselves and our children, for these are the characteristics of greatness. In doing so, we can move closer to justice. Through these universal concepts, we the People can ensure better lives for ourselves and our children, with the Army leading the way.

Duty, honor, country” is the motto of the U.S. Army. It is America. Every generation of Americans who have served in the U.S. Army, from the Continental Army to today’s fighting men and women, have been shaped by this motto. It has molded lives in ways that are hard to explain, just as the Army has touched our national life and history and made the world more secure, free, and a better place for all mankind.

On this 227th birthday of the U.S. Army, as a proud U.S. Army veteran, I say happy birthday to the Army veterans of our country. We recognize and thank those who served and staff that examples inspired those of us who have had the opportunity to serve in the U.S. Army.

It is the Army that has laid the foundation for all of this nation’s distinctive branches of service and helped build a greater, stronger America.

Our Army reflects the values of our Nation’s citizens. Our citizen soldiers serve to protect our freedoms today just as they did to gain our freedoms over 200 years ago. I am proud of our soldiers and appreciate their selfless service. I was proud to wear the uniform of the United States Army. Happy Birthday to the United States Army.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE GROUPS SUPPORT CLOSING THE GUN SHOW LOOPHOLE

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, since 1968 it has been illegal for convicted felons, illegal aliens, individuals involuntarily committed to a mental health facility, individuals who have renounced their citizenship, drug addicts, those dishonorably discharged from the military, and fugitives who possess or purchase a firearm. In 1996, Congress passed legislation to extend the prohibition on firearms to gun shows. This bill would simply apply the background check Act. I, too, support this common sense gun safety legislation.

THE MADRID PROTOCOL IMPLEMENTATION ACT

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, I have come to the floor today to talk about an important piece of legislation, S. 407, the Madrid Protocol Implementation Act, which continues to be blocked from Senate consideration. As I said in an earlier statement on June 7, 2002, there are important bills that have cleared the Democratic side of the aisle and the Republican support, but are being blocked by holds placed by anonymous Republican Senators. Last week, I spoke about legislation concerning national security and law enforcement, including S. 1770, implementing the Madrid Protocol Implementation Act. This bill promises to help American businesses protect their intellectual property in the marketplace.

I introduced S. 407, the Madrid Protocol Implementation Act, with Senator HATCH last year to provide implementing legislation for an important treaty, the Madrid Protocol. This bill would help American businesses better protect their intellectual property in the marketplace.

The Clinton administration transmitted the Madrid Protocol to the Senate for ratification in 2000, but no action was taken while the Senate was under majority control by the Republicans. Under the leadership of Senator BIDEN, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in November, 2001, reported the Madrid Protocol to the Senate with the recommendation that the Senate give its advice and consent to the accession to the Madrid Protocol. S. 407 would implement this new treaty. The legislation would make no substantive change in American trademark law. The bill would set up new procedures for trademark applicants to file a single trademark application with the Patent and Trademark Office. This single filing would give the applicant “one stop” international trademark registration—a process only available to citizens of countries to the Protocol. This would benefit American businesses and companies who need to protect their trademarks as they sell their goods and services in international markets, including over the Internet.

The House version of this bill, H.R. 741, has already passed the Republican House of Representatives, as it has for the past three Congresses. The Senate Judiciary Committee unanimously reported this bill favorably to the full Senate in July, 2001, and we have been trying unsuccessfully to get it passed by unanimous consent ever since.

This bill is critical in keeping our trademark laws up-to-date. It represents a significant step in our efforts to ensure that American trademark law adequately serves and promotes American interests. It is time for the anonymous, secret Republican holds on S. 407 to be lifted so that the Senate can pass this important legislation to protect the private intellectual property of Americans in the global economy.

LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 2001

Mr. SMITH of Oregon. Madam President, I rise today to speak about hate crimes legislation I introduced with Senator KENNEDY in March of last year. The Local Law Enforcement Act of 2001 would add new categories to current hate crimes legislation sending a signal that violence of any kind is unacceptable in our society.

I would like to share a terrible crime that occurred June 9, 2002 in Riverside, CA. An attack outside a popular gay bar left one gay man dead and another wounded. Jeffery Owens, 40, died of multiple stab wounds while coming to the aid of Michael Bussee, 48, who was being beaten and stabbed in the bar parking lot. Before stabbing Owens, one attacker was heard to yell “You want some trouble . . . fag, here it is!” Police are currently looking for the assailants, four men with shaved heads, and are investigating the incident as a hate crime.

I believe that government’s first duty is to defend its citizens, to defend them against the harms that come out of hate. The Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act of 2001 is now a symbol that can become substance. I believe that by passing this legislation and changing current law, we can change hearts and minds as well.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

TRIBUTE TO RAYMOND D. EVANS

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I rise to pay tribute to the staple of the Missouri conservation community, Mr. Raymond D. Evans. Mr. Evans is retiring after 35 years of service with the Missouri Department of Conservation and is a major contributor to the development of conservation provisions for the State of Missouri. Mr. Evans’s fundamental efforts have played a role in developing provisions that helped land owners implement management practices to improve profitability and wildlife values by helping to protect the soil and water resources that are the foundation of agriculture and wildlife productivity. He has maintained the highest standard of excellence in his service to conservation and received several awards from his peers and associates as a result. These awards include the management Award from the Southeast Section of The Wildlife Society, and Award of Merit from the ASCS for helping write and pass the Farm Bill. Mr. Evans has also received the American Motors Conservation Award for his many contributions to the success of the Missouri Conservation Department’s coordinated forest habitat management program, and the E. Sydney Stephens Award for his career contributions to Missouri’s wildlife resources. I wish to honor and thank him for his hard work and dedication to the preservation of wildlife and the environment.

To people in Missouri, Mr. Evans has always been known as “Ray”. His trademark ribbon tie, warm smile and commitment to his neighbors and the land they live on will remain his legacy. On the national scene, Ray has been a tireless advocate of Federal assistance to promote local initiatives. Ray has always understood that conservation is a “public good” and, consequently, the public should help landowners provide that public good. As a practicing farmer Ray also understands and helps our urban friends understand that farmers are the most committed practitioners of conservation because it is good business and because they want to leave more value to their children and future generations. In other words, they want to leave it better than they found it. It is that understanding that won him the trust of landowners which is a key element to the success with which Ray is associated.

Ray’s advocacy has been tireless, both for him and those of us he pursued constantly. With Ray, the “to-do” list is never complete and every success is followed by a new initiative. Recently, after Ray witnessed President Bush signing the 4th consecutive Farm Bill Ray worked on, Ray innocently succeeded in lifting the President’s speech and convincing the President to sign it for him. While Ray was a good enough salesman to pull that off, he couldn’t get past the staff who have obligations to the National Archives but if anyone deserves a high-level souvenir for his work in conservation, it would be Ray. Nevertheless, I am pleased that Ray got some time face with the Commander-in-Chief out of the deal.

On behalf of many citizens who benefited from his friendship, work, and guidance, I thank Ray and I thank his wife Carole for lending him to us. While I trust he will continue sharing his presence at many conservation-related events, I am pleased that he and Carole will have more time to enjoy time together. I recommend that he take her for long walks in the countryside so they can both appreciate what they have done for the landscape.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE
S5585

Mr. GRAHAM. Madam President, along with my colleagues, Senators, MILLER and KENNEDY, I am very pleased to announce the introduction of the Medicare Outpatient Prescription Drug Act of 2002.

A prescription drug benefit is the most fundamental shift we can make in the health care of older Americans. Adding a prescription drug benefit to Medicare will represent a 180 degree turn, a change in the focus of how we deliver health care to our Nation's seniors.

Quite simply, including prescription drugs will transform Medicare from a sickness program to a wellness program. Failure to provide a prescription drug benefit will continue to confine millions of elderly Americans to a system that is antiquated, one that only looks backward, not forward.

The sponsors of this legislation do not buy the conventional wisdom that nothing significant can be enacted in an election year. We are committed to meeting our goal this year: passage of a universal, comprehensive, and affordable prescription drug benefit.

To be sure, there are questions in this debate which will remain. But, the most important question, "will our drug benefit meet seniors' needs?", can be answered with a resounding "YES."

The voluntary benefit we are offering to all seniors is very simple, no gimmicks, gotchas or "gaps" to fall into. With our benefit, "what you see is what you get." Seniors will know exactly what they will pay, and exactly what they will get: the monthly premium is $25, no matter where a person lives; all beneficiaries get assistance from the very first prescription of the year.

For the first two years, seniors will pay $10 for each generic prescription, and no more than $40 for each medically-necessary brand-name medicines. All other drugs will cost no more than $60. After two years, the co-pay will be indexed to the increase in prescription drug prices.

Seniors who either pay $4,000 out of their own pocket or have a third party contribute towards this $4,000 spending level would pay no more.

Seniors with very low incomes, below 135 percent of poverty, would pay no premiums. Seniors with incomes between 135 and 150 percent of the poverty level would pay reduced premiums.

And no senior will be faced with a burdensome "asset test" that could deny them the very drugs they need.

This kind of certainty, and this kind of help, is what beneficiaries need. Take, for example a 68-year-old man with two conditions very common among the elderly, congestive heart failure and diabetes, and no drug coverage. He would have to spend over $3,100 annually on his typical medication regimen. Under our plan, this gentleman would get the medicines he needs to stay healthy, and would save nearly $3,300.

In addition to being affordable, comprehensive, and universally available to all of America's seniors, we need a drug benefit that will be attractive to beneficiaries. Why? Because voluntary participation of all seniors will ensure that we will have a program that is sustainable for the long run. A program that attracts only the sickest beneficiaries is doomed to fail.

The Congressional Budget Office has evaluated our plan and has stated that it does not leave a single Medicare beneficiary without access to drug coverage.

How does this bill achieve this goal? By following the principle that the drug benefit should track the prescription drug benefits that seniors have the luxury to choose in their working years. We have an attractive benefit with an affordable premium and a catastrophic provision that is an insurance policy for all elderly, in particular, for those seniors who are healthy right now, but who may face health problems later in life. We have modeled our bill after what works for most Americans right now. Our benefit includes tiered copayments, and we use as our delivery system the private sector model in place today in every part of the country.

Addition of a prescription drug benefit will be the largest expansion of the Medicare program since it was initiated in 1965. This fact challenges Congress to get it right. In the light of the scope of the changes we are making, we are suggesting that, after seven years, Congress should examine how well the benefit is working and to make whatever modifications are necessary and appropriate. Not only will we learn about how our delivery system has worked, but we can discover that access to prescription drugs will save Medicare money. How? By doctors prescribing medications instead of performing costly medical procedures. AARP staff recently told me that his students had never seen an ulcer operation. Why? Because prescription drugs have ended the need for this surgery.

Improving Medicare by including a prescription drug benefit is a serious and critical undertaking, and deserves our most serious efforts. We all know that our seniors cannot afford to wait out another election cycle.

I am pleased to announce that the American Association of Retired Persons, America Federation of State and County Municipal Employees, the National Council on the Aging, Families USA, the AFL-CIO, the Alliance for Retired Americans, the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, and the Generic Pharmaceutical Association support our legislation. I ask unanimous consent that their letters of support be printed in the Congressional Record. With their help, we can get this done this year.

There being no objection, the letters were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

AARP, Washington, DC, June 12, 2002.
Hon. BOB GRAHAM and Hon. ZELL MILLER,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATORS: We are pleased to restate our position on your revised Medicare prescription drug proposal. Action on a bipartisan prescription drug benefit is a top priority for AARP, our members, and the nation.

Medicare beneficiaries have waited long enough for access to meaningful, affordable prescription drug coverage. From our membership that in order for a Medicare prescription drug benefit to provide comprehensive coverage it must include:

An affordable premium and coexisting catastrophic stop-loss that limits out-of-pocket costs;

A benefit that does not expose beneficiaries to a gap in insurance coverage;

Additional assistance for low-income beneficiaries; and Quality and safety features to curb unnecessary costs and prevent dangerous drug interactions.

AARP supports your initiative in incorporating these goals. We commend you for including key elements in your proposal that Medicare beneficiaries and our members have indicated they find valuable. For instance, your proposal includes a premium that many Medicare beneficiaries view as affordable and a benefit design that does not include a gap in insurance coverage. Your proposal also now includes co-payments specified as dollar amounts, an approach that our research shows our members prefer to coinsurance. In our view, this plan could provide real value to beneficiaries in protecting them against the high costs of prescription drugs.

It is important that any prescription drug benefit be made a permanent and stable part of Medicare, and we want to work with you to achieve this before enactment.

Thank you for your leadership on this issue. We look forward to working with you and your colleagues as the legislation moves forward. AARP will continue to urge Congress to work in a bipartisan manner to enact affordable, meaningful Medicare prescription drug coverage.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM D. NOVELLI,
Executive Director and CEO.

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL ON THE AGING,

Hon. BOB GRAHAM,
Hart Senate Office Building,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR GRAHAM: On behalf of the National Council on the Aging (NCOA)—the nation's first organization formed to represent America's seniors and those who serve them—I write to commend and thank you for your proposal to provide meaningful Medicare prescription drug coverage to America's seniors.

The Medicare Prescription Drug Act of 2002 is consistent with the principles supported by the vast majority of organizations representing Medicare beneficiaries. It provides the foundation for a vehicle that we hope can achieve bipartisan consensus on this issue this year.

NCOA is particularly pleased that your legislation would provide prescription drug coverage that is universal, voluntary, reliable, and continuous. Other proposals being offered contain coverage gaps that would fail to solve the problem. Under such bills, a significant number of beneficiaries would not want to participate in the program, many of those who do participate would continue to be forced to choose between buying food and essential medicines.

We commend many of the modifications you have made to your Medicare bill from last year. These improvements include a significantly lower premium, the option to provide a flat copayment, an earlier effective date, and assistance with the very first prescription. We believe these changes will make the coverage affordable and attractive to the vast majority of beneficiaries, which is so critical to making a voluntary prescription drug program work. While we have concerns about the need to reauthorize the program after 2010, we understand the budget constraints faced by all Americans who need prescription drugs, especially to seniors and people with disabilities. Your proposal would allow seniors the ability to afford prescription drugs is a particularly difficult problem today. In our 2001 report entitled, “Enough to Make You Sick: Prescription Drug Prices for the Elderly,” we concluded that the 50 top drugs used by seniors rose 23 times the rate of inflation between 2000 and 2001. We are in the process of updating this report for last year, and our preliminary data shows that this devastating rate of price increases continues. Millions of seniors have limited income and no, or limited, drug coverage and will find themselves deciding whether to buy drugs or to pay for other essentials.

Your bill addresses many important design issues that we care about in a Medicare prescription drug benefit. The benefit is universal, comprehensive, and is delivered through private plans, with an affordability provision that costs will be contained and quality maintained. Please let us know how we can assist you to move this bill toward enactment so that all Medicare beneficiaries can have access to the prescription drugs they need.

Sincerely,

National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare
President and CEO

Sen. Bob Graham, Senate Hart Office Building, Washington, DC
Dear Senator Graham: On behalf of the millions of members and supporters of the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, I write in support of your Medicare prescription drug legislation that will provide much needed relief to seniors. Your proposal contains all of the elements that seniors need in a comprehensive drug benefit under Medicare, such as universal, voluntary, affordable, not means tested and most often will pay less. Doing anything less would force our seniors to pay all prescription costs out of their own pocket when they will need the coverage the most.

Since Medicare was started over 35 years ago, many illnesses that were once only treatable in a hospital can now be effectively treated with prescription drugs. Adding a prescription drug benefit to the program is the most urgently needed Medicare reform. We applaud you for not holding the prescription drug benefit hostage to force radical privatization provisions that would undermine benefits and increase costs for retirees.

We look forward to working with you and the other sponsors of this important legislation. A Medicare prescription drug benefit is long overdue, and our nation’s seniors deserve.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Loveless,
Director of Legislation.

American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations, Hon. Bob Graham, U.S. Senate, Hart Senate Office Building, Washington, DC

Dear Senator Graham: On behalf of the 13 million members of the AFL-CIO, I am writing to recommend your proposal to provide much-needed relief to Medicare beneficiaries. Your proposal to create a voluntary drug benefit within the Medicare program would encourage and lead step toward enacting the one reform most urgently needed for Medicare.

Seniors need a real benefit that provides comprehensive, continuous and certain coverage. The Graham-Miller-Kennedy bill provides that benefit, giving seniors coverage they can count on. A Medicare drug benefit must also be affordable for beneficiaries. The $25 monthly premium and zero deductible in your proposal means seniors would pay an affordable premium to begin getting coverage immediately. And no senior will have to pay more than $40 for the drugs they need and no senior will pay less.

In addition, your proposal would not put at risk those retirees who currently have some prescription drug coverage through an employer. Retiree health care is the primary source of prescription drug coverage for seniors, and your proposal rightly provides some relief for employers that choose to continue that coverage.

A proposal widely reported under consideration by House Republican leaders offers only unreliable, expensive and unworkable coverage through private plans, with an enormous gap in coverage that leaves seniors without any coverage at all for drug costs between $2000 and $4000. And the only relief for employers is if they drop the coverage they now offer. Such a proposal will not move us any closer to a real benefit.

As this debate moves forward, we want to work with you and your co-sponsors to enact the best possible Medicare drug benefit. We appreciate your role in advancing that process.

Sincerely,

William Samuel,
Director of Legislation.

Senators Edward Kennedy, Bob Graham, and Bill Miller, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC
Dear Senators: On behalf of the 1.3 million members of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), I am writing to express our support for the Medicare prescription drug benefit proposal you unveiled today.

AFSCME has long supported the creation of a Medicare prescription drug benefit that is comprehensive in coverage, affordable and voluntary for all Medicare beneficiaries. We believe that your proposal is a solid step forward in meeting these standards.

In particular, we applaud your proposal’s provisions for continuous coverage. We believe that it is one of the most critical components of a meaningful prescription drug benefit. Beneficiaries must have coverage they can count on, with no gaps in coverage. Doing anything less would force our seniors to pay all prescription costs out of their own pocket when they will need the coverage the most.

We commend many of the modifications you have made to your Medicare bill from last year. The Alliance for Retired Americans believes that all older and disabled Americans need access to affordable, comprehensive, and voluntary Medicare prescription drug benefit now. Such a benefit program should have low monthly premiums, annual deductibles, and be administered as part of the Medicare program. Your proposed legislation meets these Alliance principles. Unlike other proposals that would begin in 2005, your plan would start in 2002, which gives beneficiaries the coverage they need a full year earlier.

The Alliance will work to enact your legislation. During legislative deliberations, the Alliance will work to improve benefits because we believe that an 80/20 co-insurance payment system, like the rest of Medicare, will continue to work to improve any legislation that moves through Congress in order to assure access to cost-effective, quality affordable medications. These provisions not only encourage the appropriate and beneficical use of these products, but provide unbiased and greatly needed educational information to the public about the benefits of these medicines.

With your leadership, the Graham-Miller-Kennedy bill makes a number of private sector best practices that are now widely used to assure access to cost-effective, quality affordable medications. These provisions will continue to work with the comfort of knowing they will pay a fixed cost to have their prescriptions filled.

With your leadership, the Graham-Miller-Kennedy bill also provides co-pay only for the difference in price between brand and generic medicines. This appropriate incentive is in place for seniors to consider more cost-effective options when making choices about pharmaceutical therapies. We believe an explicit dollar co-pay will also provide competition with the comfort of knowing they will pay a fixed cost to have their prescriptions filled.

If the rest of the Congress and the Administration follow your lead in recognizing that generics must play in reaching this objective, we are confident we will achieve this goal.

Generic Pharmaceutical Association.

Washington, DC, June 12, 2002.

Hon. Bob Graham,
Hart Senate Office Building,
Washington, DC.

Dear Senator Graham: On behalf of the Generic Pharmaceutical Association (GPhA), we would like to commend you and Senators Miller and Kennedy for your leadership in introducing legislation to create a Medicare prescription drug benefit for our nation’s seniors. We agree with you that the passage and enactment of a voluntary Medicare prescription drug benefit is long overdue. We are strongly supportive of your innovative tiered co-pay plan, as well as the other provisions advocated by you and your colleagues, that are designed to increase the utilization of high-quality, affordable generic medicines.

Generic pharmaceuticals have a proven track record of substantially lowering drug costs. Studies have shown that for every 1 percent increase in generic drug utilization, consumer, business, and health plan purchasers save over $1 billion. The increased use of generics can play an invaluable role in helping Medicare, Medicaid, the Federal Employees Health Benefit Plan (FEHBP) and other Federal and private plans assure that beneficiaries have access to quality, affordable prescription medicines with a significant differential between brand and generic pharmaceuticals will ensure an affordable incentive to patients for brand names. Treatment costs for seniors to consider more cost-effective options when making choices about pharmaceutical therapies. We believe an explicit dollar co-pay will also provide competition with the comfort of knowing they will pay a fixed cost to have their prescriptions filled.

Mr. GRAHAM. I want to thank Senators M ILLER and K ENNEDY for their leadership and commitment to this issue, and urge all of our colleagues to join us in ensuring passage of this critical legislation this year.

Mr. MILLER. Madam President, I am proud to tell America’s seniors who have been waiting in line for a long time that, finally, they have reached the front of the line. Their time has come. This Senate is ready to take action on prescription drugs.

Our action cannot come soon enough. Most of our elderly in this country are not wealthy. Many live on fixed incomes. They are the ones who are hurt first and hurt most by rising health care costs.

Our elderly have been waiting a long time. Waiting for Congress to do something. Waiting for Congress to help them with the skyrocketing costs of their prescription drugs.

Our bill provides an affordable prescription drug benefit under Medicare for all seniors for the first time. Coverage begins with the first prescription filled because there is no deductible.

For the roughly 12 million seniors in this country who earn less than $11,900 a year, there is no premium and no copayment. The neediest seniors our bill gives them their medicine for free.

For those who earn more, our plan has an affordable $25 monthly premium and a copayment of $10 for generic drugs and $40 for brand-name drugs. Also, our bill has no gap in coverage and an out-of-pocket maximum of $4,000 a year.

We realize it is a huge, complex and complicated undertaking. And that is why this bill provides that in 2011, we will come back and re-evaluate this program, just like we do with other complicated legislation.

We believe that is the wise and judicious thing to do. In fact, if the original Medicare program had required such a reauthorization, we probably would have had a prescription drug benefit added to it long ago.

But since Medicare was permanently authorized from the beginning, there was no requirement for Congress to re-evaluate and therefore modernize the program as circumstances changed over the years.

And, reauthorization is not anything new or different. We re-evaluate many programs on a regular basis: We just did it with the Farm Bill. Welfare Reform, the Elementary and Secondary Education program, Head Start, all of them are re-evaluated at regular intervals.

I hope that all members of the Senate will come together and pass this bill in the next few weeks so that our elderly across this land of plenty, those folks who have played by the rules and worked hard, can have some hope and some dignity in the last few years they are on this earth.

Mr. KENNEDY. Madam President, Medicare, is a solemn promise between government and its citizens and between the generations. It says, "Contribute to the pool while you are working years and we will assure you health security in your retirement years." But that promise is broken every day, because Medicare does not cover prescription drugs. The Graham-Magi, and I urge everyone to have coverage Drug Act of 2002 sends the message loud and clear: it is time to mend Medicare’s broken promise.

There is no domestic issue that is more important to the American people than assuring that senior citizens can afford the prescription drugs they need. Senior citizens have an average income of $15,000, and they spend an average of $2,000 of that limited income on prescription drugs. Too many of our elderly citizens must choose between food on the table and the medicine their doctors prescribe. Too many of the elderly are taking half the drugs their doctor prescribes, or none at all, because they can’t afford them.

Every day we delay, the problem becomes worse. Prescription drugs costs are escalating at double-digit rates. One-third of all senior citizens don’t have a dime of prescription drug coverage. This is the time that, finally, they have reached the front of the line. Their time has come. We are ready to take action on prescription drugs.

The waters affected by the legislation are home to many types of marine life that are vitally important to Georgia’s traditional and expanding charter fishery, as well as the state’s coastal communities and tourism industry. These businesses are negatively impacted by the shark gillnetting bycatch rates and its impacts on gillnet fisheries, including some already overfished stocks. In August 2000, I was contacted by some of these Georgia business people who are concerned over what they see as a dramatic decrease in the fish population and about the future viability of their businesses. These citizens work to create a delicate balance between the environment and their livelihood by limiting their catches and releasing fish to help insure the sustained health of local fish stocks and their habitats. Shark gillnetting upsets this balance. My legislation is the first step to bringing this balance back in line.

As the Commerce Committee, of which I am a member, begins the reauthorization of the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act, I will work with Chairman Hollings to address this issue. It is at once an environmental issue, a small business issue, a state sovereignty issue, and it is the right thing to do.
Senator MCCAIN, and others introduced 1998, when our colleague from Arizona, we visited this issue a few years ago, in tobacco products. Both the manufacture and the sale of authority it needs to effectively regulate Food and Drug Administration the authority needs to effectively regulate from the dangers of tobacco. Quite simply, our bill would finally give the Food and Drug Administration the authority it needs to effectively regulate both the manufacture and the sale of tobacco products.

My colleagues will all remember that we visited this issue a few years ago, in 1998, when our colleague from Arizona, Senator DREW, and others were introducing a bill designed to help protect children from the dangers of tobacco. Quot simply, our bill would finally give the Food and Drug Administration the authority it needs to effectively regulate both the manufacture and the sale of tobacco products.

Every day in this country, nearly 5,000 young people under the age of 18 try their first cigarette. In my own home State of Ohio, 33 percent—one-third—of children and young people smoked the Universal Tobacco Settlement Act, which included a major section that provided the FDA with the authority to regulate tobacco products. Also, of course, during 1998, 46 States entered into an agreement known as the Master Settlement Agreement, MSA. They entered into that agreement with the major tobacco companies to settle all State lawsuits seeking to recover the Medicaid costs of treating smokers.

Fast forward from 1998 until today. Tobacco proponents would have you believe this master settlement resolved the issue of tobacco use by imposing all these restrictions. But the truth is, it did not. Smoking among young people remains at the highest level on record.

In my home State of Ohio, as I indicated, one-third of the children smoke. We know the statistics are that one-third of people who smoke in this country will die prematurely because of a decision they will make as children, as adolescents—a decision to start smoking cigarettes.

In my home State of Ohio, as I indicated, one-third of the children smoke. We know the statistics are that one-third of people who smoke in this country will die prematurely because of a decision they will make as children, as adolescents—a decision to start smoking cigarettes.

While States have limited options available for tobacco advertising under this 1998 Master Settlement Agreement, green lights as the tobacco companies still are able to choose the contents of their advertisements. They are still able to get around this settlement. They are still able to run ads like this: ‘Skol. A Pinch Better. Guess where that ad ran? In Sports Illustrated.’

How many young people in this country every week wait for that Sports Illustrated to come in the mail, or buy it when it comes to the store? The companies are savvy. They have really changed their marketing strategies. They have concentrated money into different advertising markets. As a result, more than 3 years after the major tobacco companies agreed to stop marketing to children as part of this tobacco settlement, children are still twice as likely as adults to be exposed to tobacco advertising.

In spite of the claim that tobacco companies are not targeting children, for whatever reason that is the market that is hearing it; that is who is seeing the message; that is who is hearing the message; that is whom the message is affecting.

According to the Federal Trade Commission’s annual report on cigarette sales and advertising, the year 2000 represented the first time in tobacco companies’ spending on “promotional allowances”; that is, the money tobacco companies pay retailers to promote their products in prominent locations in stores, or for high visible shelf space. We know that is one of the greatest marketing techniques—put it somewhere I can see it when I walk in the store. It is right at eye level for kids near the cash register, in an aisle where the customer must walk by to pay the cashier.

That same year—the year 2000—cigarette manufacturers spent a record $9.5 billion on advertising and promotion. That is an increase of 16 percent from the year 1999.

Tobacco companies also spend billions of dollars advertising through enticing promotional items—lighters, hats, and other products—they give away for free at the “point of sale,” or, in other words, at the cash register or the place of checkout in the grocery store or the convenience store. In fact, spending on such promotional or value-added items increased by 37 percent between 1999 and the year 2000.

Let us not fool ourselves. These promotional strategies and advertisements reach our children. Statistics show that 75 percent of our children visit a convenience store at least once a week.

I ask my colleagues. The next time you walk into a convenience store, look at how many times you see an advertisement for tobacco products. They are everywhere. You walk in the store, and it may be on the clock—a little promotional clock that says when the store is open and when the store is closed. They will be at eye level. They will be by the cashier when you check out. They will be everywhere—image after image after image. It is calculated, and it works. Convenience stores are a place—right or wrong—where kids go. Seventy-five percent of kids visit convenience stores, as I said, at least once a week.

That is a target area.

I realize full well that tobacco users and nonusers alike recognize and understand that tobacco products are hazardous to their health. Everybody knows that. That is not what I am talking about. I am talking about requiring the tobacco companies to list the ingredients in their products. They do not have to do that today. Tobacco is an unregulated product. I believe it makes common sense that tobacco companies list a simple list when they put arsenic—and they do—or put formaldehyde or ammonia in the cigarettes. They should have to at least list it. It just makes common sense. Yet the law today does not require them to do that.

While simply listing the ingredients, toxic as they may be, might not seem like much, think about it this way. Current law makes sure that we know what is in products designed to help people quit smoking—products such as the patch or the Nicorette gum, which are regulated, but not the very product that gets people addicted in the first place, the cigarettes. Doesn’t that seem absurd?

Think about it this way: Right now, the Food and Drug Administration requires Philip Morris to print the ingredients in its Kraft Macaroni and Cheese. They have to print all of the ingredients. Like this: ‘One single ingredient that is in there they have to print but not the ingredients in cigarettes, a product, by the way, that contributes to the deaths of more than 440,000 people a year.’

Right now, the FDA requires Philip Morris, which owns Nabisco, to print the ingredients contained in Oreo cookies and Ritz crackers but not the ingredients in Camel or Winston cigarettes, even though cigarettes cause one-third of all cancer deaths and 90 percent of lung cancer deaths. It is unfathomable to me—and I think it is unfathomable to everybody—that we would require the listing of ingredients on these products. We even require the listing of the ingredients on bottom but we do not require the listing of ingredients for one of the leading causes of death and disease in this country.

Right now, the FDA requires printed ingredients for cream cheese, lettuce, bottled water, and ice cream, but not for cigarettes—a product that causes 20 percent of all heart disease deaths, 90 percent of lung cancer, which is the leading cause of cancer deaths among men, and the leading cause of preventable death in the United States.

Another way to look at it is if a company wants to market a food product... as “fat-free” or “reduced-fat” or “lite.” that company is required to meet certain standards regarding the number of calories or the amount of fat grams in that product. You can look right on that package and find it. Yet cigarette companies can call their cigarettes “Light” or “Marlboro Light” and not reveal a thing about the amount of tar or nicotine or arsenic in that supposedly “light” cigarette.

Not having access to all of the ingredients about this deadly product just makes no sense. It is something we need to change. With the bill we are introducing, we can change it.

It is time we finally give the FDA the authority it needs to fix these problems. The legislation that Senator KENNEDY and Senator DURBIN and I are introducing will do just that.

First, the bill would make changes regarding tobacco advertising. It would give the FDA authority to restrict tobacco advertising—consistent with the first amendment—that targets our children.

Additionally, our bill would require advertisements to be in black and white text only, unless they are in adult publications, and would define adult publications in terms of readership.

Next, our legislation would give consumers more information about the ingredients in tobacco products. Specifically, the bill would provide the FDA with the authority to publish the ingredients of tobacco products.

It would require a listing of all ingredients, substances, and compounds added by the manufacturer to the tobacco, to the paper, or to the filter.

It would require a description of the content, delivery, and form of nicotine in each tobacco product.

It would require information on the health, behavioral, or physiologic effects of tobacco products.

Further, it would require tobacco companies to provide information on the reduction of risk to health available through technology.

And finally, it would establish an approval process for all new tobacco products entering the market—new products such as advance with its “trionic filter,” which claims to have—and I quote—all of the taste . . . less of the nicotine . . .” We are saying, “Tobacco companies, be honest.” We are saying, “Tobacco companies, stop marketing to our kids.” We are saying, “Tobacco companies, tell consumers what they are really buying.”

Madam President, it is time we hold these companies to the same standards we expect from other producers. It is time to give kids a fighting chance when it comes to resisting cigarettes.

It is time to finally just do the right thing.

I thank the Chair and yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts is recognized.

Mr. KENNEDY. Madam President, I join my friend and colleague from Ohio, Senator DeWINE, in expressing our appreciation to all of our cosponsors for this legislation that we have introduced. And I commend him for the excellent presentation and description of the legislation that he has just given to the Senate this morning.

We indicate to our friends and colleagues that this legislation is very similar to the legislation that was included in the larger tobacco legislation that was held up several years ago. It was not really subject to any amendments that I remember during that period of time. That overall legislation, I believe, gained 58 votes on the floor of the Senate. So we had broad support for the legislation. In many respects, I think there is even broader support for this particular legislation.

So we are very hopeful we will be able to make progress moving this legislation favorably in the Senate, and in the House, and have it become law. We have every intention of holding hearings and, hopefully, a markup in July. I believe we will have very broad support from our colleagues for these reasons Senator DeWINE has outlined.

This legislation is focused on children and what we can do to discourage children from becoming addicted to tobacco in this country. I will just take a very few moments to review the highlights. Just very quickly, every day, 5,000 children try their first cigarette. More than 2,000 become new daily smokers. A third will die prematurely.

If the current trend continues, 6.4 million children, who are under 18 years of age, will die prematurely from smoking related illness. 400,000 people a year die from smoke related illness. We are telling the youth of America their life will be greatly shortened as a result of this kind of addiction.

As I mentioned, 400,000 Americans die each year from smoke-caused disease, and tobacco costs $75 billion in annual health care costs. These costs are that those that are spent by Medicare, Medicaid, veterans hospitals, and expended privately.

Again, to give the focus of where the advertising is going, this chart shows the number of teens between 12 and 17 who were reached five or more times by tobacco advertising in the year 1999.

A March 2002 study asked teenagers and adults, “have you seen any advertising for cigarettes or spit tobacco in the last 2 weeks?” For the teenagers, 64 percent had seen advertising; while for the adults, just 27 percent.

What we are maintaining is that the industry is targeting children. These are commercial surveys, and they substantiate our point.

The money that is being expended for these extraordinary advertising budgets is targeted to teenagers, to effectively hook them and addict them.

This chart shows the very substantial increase in promotional expenditures between the year 2000. As the chart showed, expenditures totaled $5.66 billion in 1997 and increased to $9.5 billion in the year 2000.

Over the last 5 years, it has virtually doubled. Where is it being targeted? The children. Are the children seeing it? Yes. Are they becoming more addicted? Yes. Is this really a national problem? Yes. Can we do something about it? Yes. Will this legislation do something about it? Yes, because it incorporates many of the recommendations of the FDA as well as from the many experts we have heard from at a range of hearings we have held.
The bottom line: If smoking rates do not decline, over 6 million children who are alive today under the age of 18 will suffer premature death.

This is a matter of enormous importance. It is of importance to families, to parents, to children, and to this country. We have targeted, responsible legislation to deal with this issue. We are serious about presenting it to the Senate, which we will do. We are looking for broad support from the American people.

We are grateful for all of the public health agencies that support it: cancer, heart, lung, all of the various health-related agencies that support this legislation. They are going to be strong allies.

Mr. Myers, who is with Tobacco Free Children, has done such an extraordinary job and has made this a high priority. We are serious about it, and we hope to be able to help the families in this country by doing something about children being addicted to cigarettes.

This bill will give the Food and Drug Administration broad authority to regulate tobacco products for the protection of the public health. We cannot in good conscience allow the tobacco industry most responsible for protecting the public health to remain powerless to deal with the enormous risks of tobacco, the most deadly of all consumer products.

The provisions in this bill closely track those in the bipartisan compromise reached during Senate consideration of comprehensive tobacco control legislation in 1998. Fifty-eight Senators supported it at that time. That legislation was never enacted because of disputes over tobacco taxation and litigation, not over FDA authority.

This FDA provision is a fair and balanced approach to FDA regulation. It creates a new section in FDA jurisdic tion for the regulation of tobacco products, with standards that allow for consideration of the unique issues raised by tobacco use. It is sensitive to the concerns of tobacco farmers, small businesses, and nicotine-dependent smokers. But, it clearly gives FDA the authority it needs in order to prevent youth smoking and to reduce addiction to this highly lethal product.

I believe that any attempt to weaken the 1998 language would undermine the FDA's ability to deal effectively with the enormous health risks posed by smoking. This concern is shared by a number of independent public health experts. The bipartisan compromise agreed to in 1998 is still the best opportunity for Senators to come together and grant FDA the regulatory authority it needs to substantially reduce the number of children who start smoking and to help addicted smokers quit. Nothing less will do the job.

The bottom line: Five thousand children have their first cigarette every day, and two thousand of them become daily smokers. Nearly a thousand of them will die prematurely from tobacco-induced diseases. Smoking is the number one preventable cause of death in the nation today. Cigarettes kill well over four hundred thousand Americans each year. That is more lives lost than from automobile accidents, alcohol abuse, illegal drugs, AIDS, and all other diseases combined. Our response to a public health problem of this magnitude must consist of more than half-way measures. We must deal firmly with tobacco company marketing practices that target children and mislead the public. The Food and Drug Administration needs broad authority to regulate the sale, distribution, and advertising of cigarettes and smokeless tobacco.

The tobacco industry currently spends over nine billion dollars a year to promote its products. Much of that money is spent in ways designed to tempt children to start smoking, before they are mature enough to appreciate the enormity of the health risk. The industry knows that over 90 percent of smokers begin as children and are addicted by the time they reach adulthood.

Documents obtained from tobacco companies prove, in the companies' own words, the industry's efforts to trap children into dependency on their deadly product. Recent studies by the Institute of Medicine and the Centers for Disease Control show the substantial role of industry advertising in decisions by young people to use tobacco products. If we are serious about reducing youth smoking, FDA must have the power to prevent industry advertising designed to appeal to children wherever it will be seen by children. This legislation will give FDA the ability to stop tobacco advertising which glamorizes smoking from appearing where it will be seen by significant numbers of children.

FDA authority must also extend to the sale of tobacco products. Nearly every state makes it illegal to sell cigarettes to children under 18, but surveys show that those laws are rarely enforced and frequently violated. FDA must have the power to limit the sale of cigarettes to face-to-face transactions in which the age of the purchaser can be verified by identification. This means an end to self-service displays and vending machine sales. The legislation in this proceeding makes it possible for the FDA to enforce real penalties for those caught selling tobacco products to children. This is the only way to ensure that children under 18 are not able to buy cigarettes.

The FDA conducted the longest rule-making proceeding in its history, studying which regulations would most effectively reduce the number of children who smoke. Seven hundred thousand public comments were received in the course of that rulemaking. At the conclusion of the proceeding, the Agency promulgated rules on the manner in which cigarettes are advertised and sold. Due to litigation, most of those regulations were never implemented. If we are serious about curbing youth smoking as much as possible, as soon as possible; it makes no sense to require FDA to reinvent the wheel by conducting a new multi-year rule-making process on issues. This legislation will give the youth access and advertising restrictions already developed by FDA the immediate force of law, as if they had been issued under the new statute.

The legislation also provides for stronger warnings on all cigarette and smokeless tobacco packages, and in all print advertisements. These warnings will be more explicit in their description of the medical problems which can result from tobacco use. The FDA is given the authority to change the text of these warning labels periodically, to keep their impact strong.

Nicotine in cigarettes is highly addictive. Medical experts say that it is as addictive as heroin or cocaine. Yet for decades, tobacco companies have vehemently denied the addictiveness of their products. No one can forget the parade of tobacco executives who testified under oath before Congress as recently as 1994 that smoking cigarettes is not addictive. Overwhelming evidence in industry documents obtained through the discovery process proves that the companies not only knew of this addictiveness for decades, but actually relied on it as the basis for their ongoing efforts to market to children. Tobacco companies chemically manipulated the nicotine in their products to make it even more addictive.

The tobacco industry has a long, dishonorable history of providing misleading information about the health consequences of smoking. These companies have repeatedly sought to characterize their products as far less hazardous than they are. They made minor innovations in product design which only served to increase the health of the user than they actually were. It is essential that FDA have clear and unambiguous authority to prevent such misrepresentations in the future. The largest disinformation campaign in the history of the corporate world must end.

Given the addictiveness of tobacco products, it is essential that the FDA regulate them for the protection of the public health. Over forty million Americans are currently dependent on their deadly product. No responsible public health official believes that cigarettes should be banned. A ban would leave forty million people without a way to satisfy their drug dependency. FDA should be able to take the necessary steps to help addicted smokers overcome their addiction, and to make the product less toxic for smokers who are unable or unwilling to stop. To do so, FDA must have the authority to reduce or remove hazardous ingredients from cigarettes, to require that they be made physically and chemically less hazardous. The inherent risk in smoking should not be unnecessarily compounded.
Recent statements by several tobacco companies make clear that they plan to develop what they characterize as “reduced risk” cigarettes. This legislation will require manufacturers to submit such “reduced risk” products to the FDA for approval before they can be marketed. No health-related claims will be permitted until they have been verified to the FDA’s satisfaction. These safeguards are essential to prevent deceptive industry marketing campaigns, which could lull the public into a false sense of health safety. Smoking is the number one preventable cause of death in America. Congress must vest FDA not only with the responsibility for regulating tobacco products, but with full authority to do the job effectively.

This legislation will give the FDA the legal authority it needs: To reduce youth smoking by preventing tobacco advertising which targets children; to prevent the sale of tobacco products to minors; to help smokers overcome their addiction; to make tobacco products less toxic for those who continue to use them; and to prevent the tobacco industry from misleading the public about the dangers of smoking.

We cannot allow the tobacco industry to stop us from doing what we know is right for America’s children. I intend to do all I can to see that Congress enacts this legislation this year.

The public health demands it.

Mr. President, I rise today with Senators Kennedy and DeWine in support of legislation to empower the Food and Drug Administration, FDA, to regulate tobacco products.

During my time in the Senate, I have become very involved with cancer. I am the Co-Chair of the Senate Cancer Caucus and the Vice-Chair of the National Dialogue on Cancer, which is Chaired by former President and Barbara Bush.

The cancer community is united in the belief that the single most important preventive measure is to place tobacco products under the regulatory control of the FDA. I stand behind the cancer community and express the same belief.

Smoking causes one-third of all cancers, and is the cause of approximately 165,000 deaths annually. I firmly believe that cancer cannot be controlled without addressing smoking and the use of tobacco products.

Smoking results in death or disability for over half of tobacco users, according to the Centers for Disease Control, CDC. Smoking costs the health care system over $70 billion annually.

Over the past two decades, we have learned that tobacco companies have manipulated the level of nicotine in cigarettes to increase the number of people addicted to their product.

There are more than 40 chemicals in tobacco smoke that cause cancer in humans and animals, according to the CDC. Tobacco smoke has toxic components, as well as tar, carbon monoxide and other dangerous additives.

It is long past time to reduce the addictive nature of cigarettes and curtail the marketing of these products to young people. I believe that empowering the FDA to regulate tobacco will help do this.

The U.S. Surgeon General and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention have unequivocally demonstrated that, for example, anti-smoking campaigns can reduce smoking, a major cause of cancer.

California is a good example: My state started an aggressive tobacco control program in 1989 and throughout the 1990s, tobacco use dropped at two to three times faster than the rest of the country.

Ninety percent of adult smokers begin before age 18 and every day, 3,000 young people become smokers.

This bill will provide meaningful regulation by the Food and Drug Administration. In a 1997 report, cited FDA and other studies and said:

Nicotine in cigarettes and smokeless tobacco has the same pharmacological effects as other drugs that FDA has traditionally regulated. Nicotine is extremely addictive . . . and the vast majority of people who use nicotine-containing cigarettes and smokeless tobacco do so to satisfy their craving for the pharmacological effects of nicotine; that is, to satisfy their drug-dependence or addiction.

They go to recommend that the “FDA should continue to have authority to regulate all areas of nicotine, as well as other constituents and ingredients, and that authority should be made completely explicit.”

I am pleased to note that even the Philip Morris Companies has acknowledged the need for FDA to regulate tobacco. On their website, they say:

We believe federal legislation that includes granting FDA authority to regulate tobacco products could effectively address many of the complex tobacco issues that concern the public, the public health community and us.

It is long past time to reduce the addictive nature of cigarettes and curtail the marketing of these products to young people. This bill gives FDA the power to regulate tobacco products’ content, design, sale, and marketing.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

The Congress finds the following:

(1) The use of tobacco products by the Nation’s children is a pediatric disease of epic and worsening proportions that results in new generations of tobacco-dependent children and adults.

(2) A consensus exists within the scientific and medical communities that tobacco products are inherently dangerous and cause cancer, heart disease, and other serious adverse health effects.

(3) Nicotine is an addictive drug.

(4) Virtually all new users of tobacco products are under the minimum legal age to purchase such products.

(5) Tobacco advertising and marketing contribute significantly to the use of nicotine-containing tobacco products by adolescents.

(6) Because past efforts to restrict advertising and marketing of tobacco products have failed adequately to curb tobacco use.... by adolescents, comprehensive restrictions on the sale, promotion, and distribution of such products are needed.

(7) Federal and State governments have lacked adequate regulatory authority and resources they need to address comprehensively the public health and societal problems caused by the use of tobacco products.

(8) Federal and State public health officials, the public health community, and the public at large recognize that the tobacco industry should be subject to ongoing oversight.

(9) Under Article I, Section 8 of the Constitution, the Congress is vested with the responsibility to regulate commerce with foreign nations.

(10) The sale, distribution, marketing, advertising, and use of tobacco products are activities in and substantially affecting interstate commerce because they are sold, marketed, advertised, and distributed in interstate commerce on a nationwide basis, and have a substantial effect on the Nation’s economy.

(11) The sale, distribution, marketing, advertising, and use of such products substantially affect interstate commerce through the health and other costs attributable to the use of tobacco products.

(12) It is in the public interest for Congress to ensure that the Federal Government, the Food and Drug Administration, and the authority to regulate tobacco products. The benefits to the American people from enacting such legislation would be significant in human and economic terms.

(13) Tobacco use is the foremost preventable cause of premature death in America. It causes over 400,000 deaths in the United States each year.

(14) Reducing the use of tobacco by minors under the age of 18 would prevent well over 10,000,000 of today’s children from becoming regular, daily smokers, saving over 3,000,000 of them from premature death due to tobacco induced disease. Such a reduction in youth smoking would also result in approximately $110,000,000,000 in savings attributable to reduced health care costs.

(15) Advertising, marketing, and promotion of tobacco products have been especially directed to attract young persons to use tobacco products and these efforts have resulted in increased use of such products by youth. It is necessary that the Federal Government have the authority to regulate tobacco products to protect the public health.

(16) In 1999, the tobacco industry spent close to $30,000,000,000 to attract new users, retain current users, increase current consumption, and generate favorable long-term attitudes toward smoking and tobacco use.

(17) Tobacco product advertising often misleadingly portrays the use of tobacco as socially acceptable and healthful to minors.

(18) Tobacco product advertising is regularly directed to attract young persons under the age of 18, and persons under the age of 18 are regularly exposed to tobacco product promotional efforts.

(19) Through advertisements during and sponsorship of sporting events, tobacco has become strongly associated with sports and has become portrayed as an integral part of sports and the healthy lifestyle associated with rigorous sporting activity.

(20) Children are exposed to substantial and unavoidable tobacco advertising that leads them to believe that youth who smoke plays a role in leading young people to overestimate the prevalence of tobacco use, and increases the number of young people who begin to smoke.

(21) The use of tobacco products in motion pictures and other mass media glamorizes its use for young people and encourages them to use tobacco products.

(22) Tobacco advertising expands the size of the tobacco market by increasing consumption of tobacco products including tobacco use by young people.

(23) Children are more influenced by tobacco advertising than adults, they smoke while not old as young as 3 to 6 years old can recognize a character associated with smoking at the same rate as they recognize cartoons and fast food characters.

(24) Tobacco company documents indicate that young people are an important and often crucial tobacco market.

(25) Comprehensive advertising restrictions will have a positive effect on the smoking rates of young people.

(26) Restrictive advertising are necessary to prevent unrestricted tobacco advertising from undermining legislation prohibiting access to young people and providing for education about tobacco use.

(27) International experience shows that advertising regulations that are stringent and comprehensive have a greater impact on tobacco use among adolescents than are necessary to reduce the problems associated with tobacco products.

(28) Text-only requirements, while not stringent as a ban, will help reduce underage use of tobacco through preserving the informational function of advertising.

(29) It is in the public interest for Congress to adopt legislation to address the public health crisis created by actions of the tobacco industry.

(30) The final regulations promulgated by the Secretary of Health and Human Services in the August 28, 1996, issue of the Federal Register (62 Fed. Reg. 44615-44618) for inclusion as part 9 of title 21, Code of Federal Regulations, are consistent with the standards set forth in the amendments made by this Act for the regulation of tobacco products by the Food and Drug Administration and the restriction on the sale and distribution, including access to and the advertising and promotion of, tobacco products contained in such regulations are substantially related to accomplishing the public health goals of this Act.

(31) The regulations described in paragraph (30) will directly and materially advance the Federal Government’s substantial interest in reducing the number of children and adolescents who use cigarettes and smokeless tobacco to the extent the regulations will prevent health consequences associated with tobacco use. An overwhelming majority of Americans who use tobacco products begin using such products while they are young and addicted to the nicotine in those products before reaching the age of 18. Tobacco advertising and promotion plays a crucial role in beginning the use of tobacco products. Less restrictive and less comprehensive approaches have not and will not be effective in reducing the problems addressed by the regulations. The reasonable restrictions on the advertising and promotion of tobacco products contained in such regulations will lead to a significant decrease in the number of minors using and becoming addicted to such products.

(32) The regulations described in paragraph (30) impose no more extensive restrictions on communications than necessary to reduce the number of children and adolescents who use tobacco products while they are young, and who are most likely to entice them to begin using tobacco use, while affording tobacco manufactur-or physiologic effects of tobacco products, supported, or possessed by the manufacturer (or agents thereof) that relate to the issue of whether a reduction in risk to health from tobacco products occur upon the employment of technology available or known to the manufacturer.

(I) In General.—The Secretary may by regulation require restrictions on the sale and distribution of a tobacco product, including restrictions on the access to, and advertising and promotion of, the tobacco product, if the Secretary determines that such regulation would be appropriate for the protection of the public health. The Secretary may by regulation impose restrictions on the advertising and promotion of tobacco products consistent with and to full extent permitted by the first amendment to the Constitution. The finding as to whether such regulation would be appropriate for the protection of the public health shall be determined with respect to the risks and benefits to the population as a whole, including users and non-users of such tobacco product, and taking into account—

(A) the increased or decreased likelihood that existing users of tobacco products will stop using such products; and

(B) the increased or decreased likelihood that those who do not use tobacco products will start using such products.

No such regulation may require that the sale of any tobacco product be limited to the written or oral authorization of a practitioner licensed by law to prescribe medical products.

(II) Limitations.—The label of a tobacco product shall bear such appropriate statements of the restrictions required by a regulation under subsection (a) as the Secretary may in such regulation prescribe.

(III) Limitation.—No restriction under paragraph (I) may prohibit the sale of any tobacco product consistent with and to full extent permitted by the first amendment to the Constitution; provided that such restriction shall not apply to any tobacco product except by a specific category of retail outlets.

(e) Good Manufacturing Practice Requirements.—

(I) Methods, Facilities, and Controls to Conform.—

(A) In General.—The Secretary may, in accordance with subsection (B), prescribe regulations requiring that the methods used in the facilities and control of for, the manufacture, pre-production design validation (including a process to assess the performance of a tobacco product), packaging and storing of a tobacco product be cur rent good manufacturing practice, as prescribed in such regulations, to assure that the public health is protected and that the tobacco product is in compliance with this chapter.

(B) Requirements.—The Secretary shall—

(i) before promulgating any regulation under subparagraph (A), afford an advisory committee an opportunity to submit recommendations with respect to the regulation proposed to be promulgated;

(ii) before promulgating any regulation under subparagraph (A), afford opportunity for an oral hearing;

(iv) in establishing the effective date of a regulation promulgated under this subsection, take into account the differences in the manner in which the different types of tobacco products have historically been produced, the financial resources of the different tobacco product manufacturers, and the state of their existing manufacturing facilities, and shall provide for a reasonable period of time for such manufacturers to conform to good manufacturing practices.

(2) Exemptions; Variances.

(A) Petition.—Any person subject to any requirement prescribed under paragraph (1) may petition the Secretary for a permanent or temporary exemption from such requirement. Such a petition shall be submitted to the Secretary in such form and manner as the Secretary shall prescribe and shall—

(i) in the case of a petition for an exemption from a requirement, set forth the basis for the petitioner’s determination that compliance with the requirement is not required to assure that the tobacco product will be in compliance with this chapter;

(ii) in the case of a petition for a variance from a requirement, set forth the methods proposed to be used in, and the facilities and controls proposed to be used for, the manufacture, packaging, and storage of the tobacco product, the lies of the tobacco products, and the controls prescribed by the requirement; and

(iii) contain such other information as the Secretary shall prescribe.

(B) Referral to Advisory Committee.—The Secretary may refer to an advisory committee any petition submitted under subparagraph (A). The advisory committee shall report its recommendations to the Secretary with respect to a petition referred to it within 60 days after the date of the petition’s referral. Within 60 days after—

This finding shall be determined with respect to the risks and benefits to the population as a whole, including users and non-users of the tobacco product, and taking into account—

(A) the increased or decreased likelihood that existing users of tobacco products will stop using such products; and

(B) the increased or decreased likelihood that persons who do not use tobacco products will start using such products.

(2) CONTENT OF PERFORMANCE STANDARDS.—A performance standard established under this section for a tobacco product—

(A) shall include provisions to provide performance that is appropriate for the protection of the public health, including provisions, where appropriate—

(i) for the reduction or elimination of nicotine yields of the product;

(ii) for the reduction or elimination of other constituents or harmful components of the product; or

(iii) relating to any other requirement under (B); and

(B) shall, where necessary to be appropriate for the protection of the public health, include—

(i) provisions respecting the construction, components, ingredients, and properties of the tobacco product;

(ii) provisions for the testing (on a sample basis or on an individual basis) of the tobacco product;

(iii) provisions for the measurement of the performance characteristics of the tobacco product;

(iv) provisions requiring that the results of each or of certain of the tests of the tobacco product required to be made under clause (ii) be in conformity with the portions of the standard for which the test or tests were required; and

(v) a provision requiring that the sale and distribution of the tobacco product be restricted but only to the extent that the sale and distribution of the product may be restricted under a regulation section 906(d); and

(C) shall, where appropriate, require the use and prescribe the form and content of labeling for the proper use of the tobacco product.

(3) PERIODIC RE-EVALUATION OF PERFORMANCE STANDARDS.—The Secretary shall provide for periodic evaluation of performance standards established under this section to determine whether such standards should be changed or altered, revised, or deleted, based on scientific, technological, or other data. The Secretary may provide for testing under paragraph (2) by any person.

(B) consult with other Federal agencies concerned with standard-setting and other nationally or internationally recognized standard-setting entities; and

(C) invite appropriate participation, through joint or other conferences, workshops, or other means, by informed persons representative of scientific, professional, industry, or consumer organizations who in the Secretary’s judgment can make a significant contribution.

(4)(b) ESTABLISHMENT OF STANDARDS.—

(1) NOTICE.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall publish in the Federal Register a notice of proposed rulemaking for the establishment, amendment, or revocation of any performance standard for a tobacco product.

(B) REQUIREMENTS OF NOTICE.—A notice of proposed rulemaking for the establishment or amendment of a performance standard for a tobacco product shall—

(ii) set forth proposed findings with respect to the risk of illness or injury that the performance standard is intended to reduce or eliminate; and

(iii) invite interested persons to submit an existing performance standard for the tobacco product, including a draft or proposed performance standard, for consideration by the Secretary.

(2) PUBLICATION.—A notice of proposed rulemaking for the revocation of a performance standard shall set forth a finding with supporting justification that the performance standard is not appropriate for the protection of the public health.

(3) CONSIDERATION BY SECRETARY.—The Secretary shall consider all information submitted under paragraph (2), including information concerning the countervailing effects of the performance standard on the health of adolescent tobacco users, adult tobacco users, or non-tobacco users, such as the creation of a significant demand for contraband or other tobacco products that do not meet the requirements of this chapter and the significance of such demand, and shall issue the standard if the Secretary determines that the standard is appropriate for the protection of the public health.

(4) COMMENT.—The Secretary shall provide for a comment period of not less than 60 days.

(2) PROMULGATION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—After the expiration of the comment period, the Secretary shall publish in the Federal Register a final rule establishing a performance standard.

(B) EFFECTIVE DATE.—A regulation establishing a performance standard shall not become effective on or before the date of its publication unless the Secretary determines that the effective date is necessary for the protection of the public health. Where such a determination is made, the performance standard may take effect before one year after the date of its publication unless the Secretary determines that an earlier effective date is necessary for the protection of the public health. Such date or dates shall be established so as to minimize, consistent with the public health, economic loss to, and disruption or dissipation of, domestic and international trade.

(3) SPECIAL RULE FOR STANDARD BANNING CLASS OF PRODUCT OR ELIMINATING NICOTINE CONTENT.—Because of the importance of a decision of the Secretary to issue a regulation establishing a performance standard—

(A) eliminating all cigarettes, all smokeless tobacco products, or any similar class of tobacco products, or

(B) requiring the reduction of nicotine yields of a tobacco product to zero, it is appropriate for the Congress to have the opportunity to review such a decision. (5) REFERENCE TO ADVISORY COMMITTEE.—The Secretary—

(A) may, on the Secretary’s own initiative, refer a proposed regulation for the establishment, amendment, or revocation of a performance standard; or

(B) shall, upon the request of an interested person which demonstrates good cause for referral and which is made before the expiration of the period for submission of comments on such proposed regulation, refer such proposed regulation to an advisory committee, for a report and recommendation with respect to any matter involved in the proposed regulation which requires the exercise of scientific judgment. If a proposed regulation is referred to the committee, the committee shall provide the advisory committee with the data and information on which such proposed regulation is based. (c) IN GENERAL.—If the Secretary finds that there is a reasonable probability that a tobacco product contains a manufacturing or other defect not ordinarily contained in tobacco products on the market that would cause serious, adverse health consequences or death, the Secretary shall issue an order requiring an appropriate person (including the manufacturers, importers, distributors, or retailers of the tobacco product) to immediately cease distribution of such tobacco product. An order under this subsection shall provide that such order shall be subject to the order with an opportunity for an informal hearing, to be held not later than 10 days after the date of the issuance of the order, on the actions required by the order and on whether the order should be amended to require a recall of such tobacco product. If, after providing an opportunity for such a hearing, the Secretary determines that inadequate grounds exist to support the actions required by the order, the Secretary shall vacate the order.

(2) Amendment of order to require recall.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—If, after providing an opportunity for an informal hearing under paragraph (1), the Secretary determines that the order should be amended to include a recall of the tobacco product with respect to which the order was issued, the Secretary shall, except as provided in subparagraph (B), amend the order to require a recall. The Secretary shall specify a timely manner for the tobacco product manufacturer to effect such recall and shall require periodic reports to the Secretary describing the progress of the recall.

(B) NOTICE.—An amended order under subparagraph (A) shall provide

(i) shall not include recall of a tobacco product from individuals; and

(ii) shall provide for notice to persons subject to the order to reconcile with the use of such tobacco product.

(A) the increased likelihood that existing users of tobacco products will stop using such products; and

(B) the increased or decreased likelihood that those who do not use tobacco products will start using such products.

(5) BASIS FOR ACTION.—

NATIONAL FLAG DAY

Mr. BYRD. Madam President, the first national observance of Flag Day occurred on June 14, 1877, when Congress ordered that the flag be flown over public buildings every June 14. June 14 officially became National Flag Day when President Truman signed an act of Congress on August 3, 1949. This year marks the 225th anniversary of the signing of the Flag Act resolution on June 14, 1777. What a historic day this is, June 14. The resolution was a mood of simplicity in just 32 words:

Resolved: that the flag of the United States be made of 13 stripes, alternative red and white; that the Union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation. Thus, was our national flag established. The last phrase ‘representing a new constellation’ carries tremendous weight in just four words. The new United States of America was truly a new constellation in the firmament of nation states, and it blazes just as brightly today, 225 years later.

The poet, Joseph Rodman Drake, said it best, in the ‘American Flag.’

When freedom from her mountain height Unfurled her standard to the breeze,
She tore the azure robe of night,
And set the stars of glory there.

Sang with the gorgeous dyes
The milky baldrick of the skies.
Then from his mansion in the sun
She called her eagle bearer down,
And gave into his mighty hand
The symbol of her chosen land.

So our flag, our standard, is known throughout the world and beyond. No other flag flies on the face of the Moon. Our flag is instantly recognizable in every capital and in the emptiest quarters of the world. Everyone who re-vile that flag, even those who would attack that flag in our Nation, recognize America’s dominant, even preeminent, role in world affairs, symbolized by that flag.

There it stands. For over 200 years, the American flag has led the way. It took us west to California, a great State—one of whose Senators at this moment presides over the Senate with a degree of decorum, aplomb and dig-ting that is so rare a day in June.

Yes, it took us west to California, north to Alaska. It led brave men to the North and South Poles. It has flown atop Mount Everest. It has been emblazoned in the sides of deep-diving submarines. It has led charges. It has had fast against terrible odds, and it has risen from the ashes to soar over Iwo Jima and the World Trade Towers.

In every bleak hour, the snap and the crack of that mighty banner has rallied our courage and given us hope. Without words, the American flag instantly sums up all that is best about our Nation: Our courage, our leadership, our generosity, our determination, our freedom.

That first Flag Act forever shaped our flag, but in the early years of the Nation, several variations existed for the Flag Act was not precise about the exact arrangement of the stars. As new States joined the Union, additional stripes, as well as additional stars, were added to the flag.

An act passed in 1794, for example, provided for 15 stripes and 15 stars after May 1795. By 1818, the flag was growing unwieldy, and a subsequent act of April 4, 1818, signed by President Monroe, provided for 13 stripes for the original 13 colonies and one star for each State to be added to the flag on the 4th of July following admission of each new State to the Union.

A century later, on June 24, 1912, which is the year the great Titan cic went down—1,570 people lost their lives that year on April 15, 1912—
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums;

FATHER'S DAY
Mr. BYRD. Madam President, the Bible commands us to “honor thy father and thy mother.” Last month, we honored mothers. It was mother’s day. This month, this Sunday, it is the fathers’ turn. On that day, we honor men in their role as fathers, not as any of the many other titles they may wear; not for their accomplishments at work, though that is how many men define themselves; not for accomplishments at home that are not family related, such as in their role as gardeners or home builders or mechanics; but as fathers.

Fatherhood requires no special training, no advanced degree, but it does require a long commitment and a considerable level of effort. It is not always easy. It requires a certain warmth. It is not for the faint-hearted or the self-centered. Though it has its hero moments, it is not a popularity contest.

As a father, a man will hunt buggers, as they used to say; buggers or monsters in closets on dark nights, investigate all strange sounds, and kill a lot of bugs and spiders. Just ask any father. He will be expected to know how to make volcanoes out of plaster of Paris and 2-litter soda bottles. He will become the instant authority in all manner of arcane subjects like sports rules; become the ultimate authority in all matters of discipline. Father will set, and enforce, limits and intimidate all prospective suitors of his daughters. He becomes the man by whom all other men are judged. It is difficult to overestimate the importance of a father figure.

If you ask a child what he or she likes best about their father, they likely will not mention the father’s job. They won’t comment on how nicely he grows the lawns, the chromium shines, those fenders which mirror themselves. It is more likely to be that dad makes funny faces—yes, that is what they will comment on, dad makes funny faces—plays catch, makes waffle on Saturday mornings, or gives pony rides on his shoulders. Maybe dad does a great cannonball jump into the pool, maybe he cooks the best hamburgers on the grill, or maybe he takes his kids fishing. It is those times that a father is most engaged with his children that makes a moment special to a child. As we grow older, we can appreciate the effort that fathers put into their jobs, so that they might provide for their families, but that appreciation only sweetens the treasured times when dad plays with his kids.

I have spoken many times about my dad. He was not my biological father. But he was my biological father’s sister—he had eight or nine sisters, two or three brothers; there were large families in those days—my mother’s wish was that one of my father’s sisters who had married Titus Dalton Byrd take me, the baby. I had three older brothers and a sister, but take me, the baby, and rear that baby. And so because of a mother’s wish, my uncle, Titus Dalton Byrd, and his wife, my aunt, Vlurma Byrd, took me to West Virginia from North Carolina, and there in the coal fields of West Virginia they reared me. They took care of me. They loved me. My memories are of that tall man, with a red mustache and the black hair, who went to school every day hard for me and for his wife, my aunt—the only mother I ever knew. And he was the only father I ever knew.

As a matter of fact, I didn’t know that he wasn’t my father until I was a high school senior. In that year, 1934, this man whom I called my dad took me and sat down and told me the story of how the influenza had taken away my angel mother and how he and his wife, whom I knew as my mom, had taken me as an infant, just a few days under 1 year old, and raised me. They were large families in those days, I was just reading last night a Senate hearing by the Appropriations Committee on a resolution appropriating $1 million to fight influenza in 1918. That hearing was conducted in September of 1918. Less than 2 months later, my mother died of that influenza.

He asked, of course, that my father’s sister—he had eight or nine sisters, two or three brothers; there were large families in those days—my mother’s wish was that one of my father’s sisters who had married Titus Dalton Byrd take me, the baby. I had three older brothers and a sister, but take me, the baby, and rear that baby. And so because of a mother’s wish, my uncle, Titus Dalton Byrd, and his wife, my aunt, Vlurma Byrd, took me to West Virginia from North Carolina, and there in the coal fields of West Virginia they reared me. They took care of me. They loved me. My memories are of that tall man, with a red mustache and the black hair, who went to school every day hard for me and for his wife, my aunt—the only mother I ever knew. And he was the only father I ever knew.

As a matter of fact, I didn’t know that he wasn’t my father until I was a high school senior. In that year, 1934, this man whom I called my dad took me and sat down and told me the story of how the influenza had taken away my angel mother and how he and his wife, whom I knew as my mom, had taken me as an infant, just a few days under 1 year old, and raised me.

And I can remember him, that old coal miner, honest as the day is long. He had no enemies. When he died, he didn’t owe any man a penny. He was honest, as I say, as the day is long. He worked hard in the bowels of the Earth.

I never heard him use God’s name in vain in all the years that I was with him—never. I never heard him talk about his neighbor. I never heard him sit down at the table and grumble at whatever was on the table, whatever it was—never, ever a grumble.

As I say, I didn’t know for a long time that Titus Dalton Byrd was not my father. I called him Pap. He was my dad.

He was a quiet, hard-working man, worn down by the strenuous life of a coal miner in the days before the mechanized and much safer practices of modern mining. He would come home—he would come home. I see the coal dust sometimes in his eyes. I see him coming down the railroad tracks. I see him coming home from a hard day’s work in the mines.

Many times in those mines the roof was so low that the miners had to walk on their knees. They had knee pads and they would walk on their knees, sometimes working in waterholes, lifting that slate and lifting the shovels of coal and heaving them into the coal car. They worked hard.

There were large families in those days—my mother’s wish was for them, not much to look forward to in that coal miner’s life. Day after day, day after day, the same old grind, lifting that an Executive Order of President Taft established the proportion of the flag and set the arrangement of the stars in six horizontal rows of eight each, a single point of each star to be upward.

The continued expansion of the United States required further modification to the flag, and an Executive Order of President Eisenhower, dated January 3, 1959—I was here at that time—provided for the arrangement of the stars in seven rows of seven stars each staggered horizontally and vertically.

A quick schoolchild who knows his or her multiplication table, sometimes referred to as the times table, knows that 7 times 7 is 49.

With the addition of Hawaii to the Union in 1959, a further Executive Order on August 21, 1959, was required to establish the flag as we know it today with the stars in nine rows staggered horizontally, and 11 rows staggered vertically.

Will the flag change again as it has in the past? I do not know. But some things will never change. The love and respect that patriotic Americans have for this chosen symbol of our native land will never die, so long as the Government remains true to the spirit and the words of this Constitution, which I hold in my hand.

Equally immovable is the power of our flag to lift our hopes and our morale. The blossoming of flags across the Nation on and after September 11 has proved that Old Glory, Old Glory, Old Glory, the Stars and Stripes, by any name, is our own beloved flag. And there it stands in all its glory, beside the Presiding Officer of the Senate.

Madam President, hats off to the flag! That is the appropriate response to the sight of an American flag passing by. To my mind, no one has ever said it better than Henry Holcomb Bennet, in his stirring poem “The Flag Goes By.” Let it be my salute and birthday salutation to the American flag. Long live she! THE FLAG GOES BY Hats off!

Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of color beneath the sky:
Hats off!
The flag is passing by!
Blue and crimson and white it shines,
Over the steel-tipped, ordered lines.
Hats off!
The colors before us fly:
But more than the flag is passing by.
Sea-fights and land-fights, grim and great,
Fought to make and save the State.
Weary marches and sinking ships;
Cheers of victory on dying lips;
Days of plenty and years of peace;
March of a strong land’s swift increase;
Equal justice, right, and law;
Stately honor and revered awe;
Sign of a nation, great and strong
To ward her people from foreign wrong:
Pride and glory and honor,—all
Live in the colors to stand or fall.
Hats off!
Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums;
And loyal hearts are beating high:
Hats off!
The flag is passing by!
And because of her wish, I am here today. If it hadn’t been for her wish, that I be taken by Titus Dalton Byrd and his wife, I probably would have grown up in North Carolina. It is hard to tell what I might have amounted to but because of a mother’s wish.

My dad said he gave me the pencil and paper, drawing books and watercolors at Christmas. He didn’t give me a cowboy suit or a cap buster. He gave me drawing tablets and watercolors, urged me to learn how to draw and how to read. He was the one who bought a violin for me and encouraged me to play.

The fiddle was a big gift in a day and place where there wasn’t much money for frills. I got a lot of enjoyment out of that fiddle playing. And because of that fiddle, I really had a political advantage, and I was advised by a Republican—as I told some of these fine pages here, earlier today—a Republican lawyer advised me to take that fiddle.

He said: You take that fiddle, Bob, and play it to people so you make new friends. I will remember you because of that fiddle. Nobody else who is running can play a fiddle. They will remember you not because of the fiddle but because it got their attention and caused them to remember you. But it is what you say that really counts.

I ran my first campaign for elected office. I was an underdog. I was very young. I was unknown. I was untested. But my fiddle playing at campaign stops got people’s attention and left them with a memory associated with my name. They were willing to listen to me talk as the price for getting to hear me play.

So in that way you could say that my dad helped me to win an election—my first election. He did, because he bought that fiddle for me. Without that fiddle, I wouldn’t have won that first campaign, and probably wouldn’t have been reelected when I ran for the West Virginia Senate. I had to go into additional counties, and I took the fiddle there. When I ran for the House of Representatives, there were additional counties. I took the fiddle around.

So that was what my dad gave me—that fiddle. It was because of his and my mother’s wish, you see, that I am here today. It is how far I was influenced.

My dad also encouraged me in school. He did not want me to follow him into the mines. He knew the dangers too well. He had seen those dangers up close. He had seen too many of his fellow coal miners killed. He had seen the men on the floor of the house with a piece of canvas stretched over them who had been run over by a motor, or exposed by an explosion, or killed by falling slate. He had seen those dangers up close. So he pushed me to do well in school. He wanted me to do well in school. He encouraged me. He always wanted to see that report card. And there was one category on the report card entitled “deportment.” He always looked at that deportment. How well did Robert do in school? How does he mind the teacher? Does he do what the teacher says? Is he ever late? Is he ever out? He always watched that.

From him and from my aunt, I developed a love of learning that has lasted me my whole life. I was the first in all of my family—going back many generations to William Sayle who settled in Virginia in 1657 on the banks of the Rappahannock River. He was the ancient forbear of my father, my real father, my biological father—I was the first in my family, going all the way back to England, to go to college.

I am proud to say that my children and my children’s children have excelled in challenging academic fields. My grandson, Benjamin, is a physicist, brilliant, I know he is. But he was given that mind. So he is not—my mind the teacher? Does he do what he is told? Is he ever out of line? Is he ever out of order? He was always watched that.

I know he must look down and be proud of all of us, just as we strive to make him proud.

I have another grandson who is a physicist, also. Darius. I have a grandson who is on one of the appropriations committees as a staff person. I have a granddaughter who works in the Senate. I have a granddaughter who lives in Leesburg. She is a wonderful granddaughter. These daughters of mine and the grandchildren and now three great-grandchildren—three are great-grandchildren—I have no doubt that they will win some Nobel Prize or something even more worthy.

I know that I am not alone today in cherishing the memories of my dad—the man who raised me. Nor am I alone in seeing the reach that a father’s encouragement can have through many generations who cannot feel the warmth of that long-gone father’s smile. History books are replete with the stories of famous men and women who owned their start to some early encouragement from their fathers or their mothers.

Benjamin West, an early American painter, said, as I understand it, that he owed his becoming a great painter to his mother—his angel mother—who, when he was a little infant, a little child, came to him with his child’s drawings of flowers and birds and showed his mother. She would take him upon her knee and say, Benjamin, you will grow up to be a great painter. And Benjamin West grew up to be a great painter. He said he was made a great painter by a mother’s kiss. That is what I have here.

It is what we celebrate on Father’s Day. It is not the work, it is not the accomplishments, it is not the titles, it isn’t the bank account that bring children home to visit with their father and share a meal with him or send him a funny yet sentimental card. The moments of a father’s love manifested these are the pieces of gold in memory’s treasure chest. Those moments of joy, of laughter, of mutual pride at being in the same family make the labors of the week disappear like a heavy winter coat in the warm rays of the summer sun.

For myself, of course, and also for all fathers, I hope that this Sunday is filled with family and with laughter and with warm feelings. Let us all look upon, think upon, and remember our fathers and our father’s father, and glory in their greatest and most lasting achievement—happy families.

Madam President, I yield the floor. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BYRD. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL MONDAY, JUNE 17, 2002, AT 2 P.M.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate stands adjourned until 2 o’clock p.m., Monday, June 17, 2002.

Thereupon, the Senate, at 12:47 p.m., adjourned until Monday, June 17, 2002, at 2 p.m.
IN HONOR OF PETER RINALDI AND THE ENGINEERS OF THE PORT AUTHORITY OF NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY

HON. JERROLD NADLER
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, there were many heroes on September 11th, and many more in the months that have followed. I rise today to pay tribute to the engineers of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, each of whom could tell you a different story about the difficult days and arduous work following September 11th. I would like to tell you a story about one Port Authority employee, Peter Rinaldi, who joined his fellow New Yorkers in the tremendous rescue and recovery effort at Ground Zero. The following excerpt is from “American Ground: Unbuilding the World Trade Center,” by William Langewiesche, published in the July/August 2002 edition of Atlantic Monthly.

At age fifty-two, Rinaldi was an inconspicuous olive-skinned man with graying hair and a moustache, who observed the world through oversized glasses and had a quirky way of suddenly raising his eyebrows, not in surprise but as a prompt or in suggestion. He had grown up in the Bronx as the son of a New York cop, had gone to college there, and had married a girl he had met in high school. Though he and his wife had moved to the suburbs of Westchester County to raise their three sons, he had never cut his connection to the city, or quite shed his native accent. For twenty-eight years he had commuted to the World Trade Center, to offices in the North Tower, where he worked for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, deep within its paternal embrace and completely secure in his existence. There was an early warning in the terrorist bombing of a flight in an airplane. Nonetheless, he was wholly unprepared for the destruction that followed in 2001. During the days after the attack, when New York City officials were still in shock, Rinaldi had to have disappeared, it was Honolulu across the river in its New Jersey offices, suffering through a collective emptiness so severe that people themselves felt hollowed out. Peter Rinaldi felt it too, though he was far away at the time of the attack, vacating with his wife, Audrey, on the Outer Banks of North Carolina.

Back in New York . . . Rinaldi was assigned to New York City’s recovery team . . . [and] given the job of supervising the consultants who had been brought in for the specialized belowground engineering. The underground, beneath the pile, was a wilderness of ruins, a short walk from the city but as far removed from life there as any place could be. It burned until January, and because it contained voids and weakened structures, it collapsed progressively until the spring. The job of keeping the chaos fell to a small team of about six engineers who did some of the riskiest work at the site, climbing through the crevices of a strange and unstable netherworld, calmly charting its conditions, and returning without complaint after major collapses had occurred.

By mid-November only one important underground area remained to be explored—a place people called “the final frontier,” located deep under the center of the ruins, at the foot of the former North Tower. It was the main chiller plant, one of the world’s largest air-conditioning facilities—a two-acre chamber three stories high that contained seven interconnected refrigeration units, each the size of a locomotive and capable of holding up to 34,000 pounds of dangerous Freon gas.

With the huge quantities potentially involved, engineers would till the voids underground and spread across the surface of the pile, suffocating perhaps hundreds of workers caught out on the rough terrain and unable to move fast. To make matters worse, if the Freon cloud came into contact with open flames, of which there were plenty here, it would turn into airborne forms of hydrochloric and hydrofluoric acids and also phosgene gas, related to the mustard gas used during World War I. Then it would go drifting. People accepted the danger. The standard advice, “Fusion 2011,” was delivered with a little shrug. Everyone knew that if the Freon came hunting for you at the center of the pile, you would succumb. Of all the people working now for the chiller plant, twenty men were reduced by those ruins, the one who would have the greatest influence on the unfolding story was an obscure engineer, a lifelong New Yorker named Peter Rinaldi.

For twenty-eight years the World Trade Center was a second home to Peter Rinaldi. After its destruction, he and his fellow Port Authority employees worked “seven days a week, often fifteen hours a day” to make sure that those involved in the recovery effort would be safe, and to restore needed services, such as subway and commuter train service, to those returning to live and work in lower Manhattan. His leadership in the days following September 11th took him, on that day in November, into the World Trade Center, where it was determined that the Freon had vented and the recovery work could continue in relative safety.

Today, nine months after that horrible day, as we celebrate the lives of those we have lost and commemorate their heroism and bravery, we thank those who have given so much of themselves to the recovery of our great city. I would like to extend my thanks to the employees of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, each of whom has come to embody the spirit of public service to the city they have served so admirably.

U.S.-RUSSIA RELATIONS

HON. CHRISTOPHER H. SMITH
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, President Bush has returned from a successful summit in Moscow. As the Cold War recedes more and more into memory, our relations with Russia continue to improve, as they should. Russia has made a significant contribution to the struggle against terrorism since the attacks on the United States last September. While there remain serious differences in areas of human rights, foreign policy, and economics, we should welcome President Putin’s “turn to the West” and encourage Russia to further integrate into an international community of mutual security, free trade, and democratic structures.

Nevertheless, over this summit banquet of warm words about the “new strategic relationship” looms a “Banquo’s Ghost” of tragic and monumental proportions. I refer to the war in Chechnya—the subject of a recent hearing of the Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe, which I co-chair—which continues to wreak havoc and death on combatants and non-combatants alike. The brutality of the so-called “anti-terrorist operation” of the Russian military has been amply documented by reputable Russian and international organizations. Bloody military “sweeps” of civilian areas, bestial “filtration camps” and “holding pits” have become hallmarks of what passes for Moscow’s military strategy.

One month ago, the Helsinki Commission heard chilling testimony from Ms. Aset Chadaeva, a nurse from Chechnya who resides in a community near Grozny, Chechnya’s capital. Ms. Chadaeva described an event in February 2000, when the Russian military carried out one of its most notorious “anti-terrorist” operations.

Young Chechen men living in Chechnya today have two choices: to wage war or to wait for Russian soldiers to arrest or kill them. All three of my brothers were illegally detained by Russian servicemen. One of my brothers—officially classified as disabled because of his poor eyesight—was severely beaten by Russian soldiers in my presence. When I asked the soldiers why they were arresting him, they told me: “He’s a Chechen! That’s reason enough!” I treated women who had been raped by Russian soldiers, and I’ve also seen the bodies of women who had been killed after being raped. During both wars, I buried many dead. Bodies were left lying in the streets. I, my brothers, and my neighbors collected them so they wouldn’t be eaten by dogs.

In February 2001, the remains of over fifty persons were found in a mass grave in a village located less than a mile from the Russian military headquarters in Chechnya. Russian authorities attribute their deaths to Chechen partisans.

In 2000 and 2001, the UN Commission on Human Rights in Geneva condemned the widespread violence against civilians and allegations of human rights and humanitarian law” by Russian forces. I would note that even Chechen officials who have sided with Moscow in the conflict with the secessionist movement have criticized the reign of terror created by the Russian military in Chechnya. Russian authorities attribute their deaths to Chechen partisans.

In 2000 and 2001, the UN Commission on Human Rights in Geneva condemned the widespread violence against civilians and allegations of human rights and humanitarian law” by Russian forces. I would note that even Chechen officials who have sided with Moscow in the conflict with the secessionist movement have criticized the reign of terror created by the Russian military in Chechnya. Russian authorities attribute their deaths to Chechen partisans.
Mr. Speaker, these comments should not be seen as an endorsement of Chechen separatism, and we must frankly admit that some Chechen partisans have been linked with international terrorist organizations who see Chechnya as a staging ground for "jihad" against Moscow. I am fully aware of the deplored activities upon the part of the North Caucasus by marauding kidnappers, highjackers and terrorists. According to press reports, some Chechen guerrillas have executed "traitors" who work for the pro-Moscow administration in Chechnya.

But this does not absolve the Government of Russia from having to live up to basic standards of conduct such as the Geneva Conventions and the Code of Conduct of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe. "Anti-terrorist operations" and "terri- torial integrity" are not synonymous with wag- ing total and barbaric war against one's own citizens.

How many more bodies will show up in mass graves? How many young Russian sol- diers' bodies will be sent homes to grieving parents in Russia? How many displaced persons will spend another winter in tents?

The Administration has called upon Chechnya's leadership to "immediately and unconditionally cut all contacts with inter- national terrorist groups, while calling for "ac- countability for [human rights] violations on all sides," and a political solution to the conflict. I urge the Administration to continue to use every appropriate opportunity to condemn human rights violations in Chechnya, and im- press upon Moscow the need for a just polit- ical solution. From the Geneva Human Rights Committe in Geneva will afford one more such opportunity.

The last leader of the Soviet Union, Mikhail Gorbachev, once called Afghanistan a "bleeding wound." Chechnya is now the "bleeding wound" for the Russian Federation. I say this as someone who wishes Russia and the peo- ple of Russia to prosper. The time for a cease-fire and serious negotiations is at hand.

HONORING THE MEMORY OF FALLEN HEROES

HON. MARK STEVEN KIRK
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. KIRK. Mr. Speaker, on Dec. 16, 1944, on a snowy battlefield known as "Hill 88" near the Belgian border with Germany, the Battle of the Bulge began. As the German army ad- vanced, heavy casualties were sustained by the U.S. Army's 99th Division, Company C, forcing surviving G.I.'s to leave fallen com- rades behind in shallow graves with only dog tags, sticks, and weapons to mark them.

Three soldiers were lost, but not forgotten, and after 57 years, six of the more than thirty soldiers designated as Missing in Action after the battle will be given the honor they deserve after sacrificing their lives for their country.

I want to recognize the extraordinary effort by veterans from the battle and a group of Belgian nationals, who worked together to find the remains of six MIA's. This search has spanned across several generations. In Sep- tember of 1988, two young Belgians, Jean- Louis Seel and Philippe Speder, were digging in the Ardennes Forest when they discovered the remains of Private First Class Alphonse Sito of Baltimore, Maryland. This prompted William Warnock to compile a list of the 33 missing soldiers, which was published in the Buffalo News. Dick Byers, a member of the 99th Division, prepared a map pinpointing the location where they believed the remains of Second Lieutenant L.O. Holloway could be found. After a two-day search in November 1990, Seel and Speder were successful in re- covering Holloway's remains. His remains were returned to Texas at the Fort Sam Hous- ton National Cemetery in September 1991.

The Holloway case convinced Vernon Swanson of Deerfield, Illinois, that the remains of his "foxfhole buddy," Jack Beckwith, could be found. Swanson enlisted the cooperation of a wartime cohort, Byron Witmarsh, and set about the task of recovering the remains of their fallen comrades. Hoping to find Beckwith's remains, Swanson and Witmarsh joined forces with Byers, Seel, Speder, and Warnock in 1991. The group pored over records in the National Archives, the National Personnel Records Center, and the U.S. Army History Institute. An old map of the grave sites was found in Beckwith's files. However, an aerial photograph discovered in the Na- tional Archives proved to be the critical piece of information. It showed "88 Hill" in Decem- ber 1944, from which Bill Warnock identified a grouping of trees where the grave sites were. Warwitz then transferred the description of the graves to modern topographic maps and the Belgians were on the hunt again for the remains.

In April 2001, Seel decided to search an area that, to his amazement, turned up a dog tag which marked the grave site of Private David A. Read. Seel returned with Speder and two other members of the Belgian search team, Marc Marique and Luc Menestreel. On April 17, the remains of Jack Beckwith, Saul Kokotovich, and David Read were found. Over the next two days the Belgian search team la- bored to exhume the remains. Each of the dead was found with a dog tag around his neck, rotted clothing, and boots. David Roth of the U.S. Army Mortuary Affairs activity was contacted and took possession of the re- mains to complete the official identification process.

Vernon Swanson vowed to someday return to recover the remains of his friend, Private Jack Beckwith. Over the years he made many inquiries to fellow veterans of the battle, orga- nized an international search team, and suc- ceeded in finding lost soldiers in a forgotten part of the world. During the months of June and July the remains of all six comrades will find their final resting place in a cemetery of their families' choice. On June 8, 2002, burial ceremonies were held in Ada, Oklahoma for Private First Class Ewing Fidler. On Saturday, June 22, 2002 the re- mains of Private First Class Jack Beckwith, Private First Class Saul Kokotovich, and Ser- geant Frederick Zimmerman will be laid to rest in the American Military Cemetery in Henri Chapelle, Belgium. Private First Class David Read will be buried in Arlington National Cem- etery. On July 18, Private First Class Stanley C. Larson will be returned to Rochelle, Illinois on July 22. I want to offer my thanks to the De- partment of Casualty and Mortuary Affairs and

TRIBUTE TO DAVID MARCH

HON. HOWARD P. "BUCK" McKEON
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. McKEON. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of a resolution to honor the remarkable life of David March, a Los Angeles County Deputy Sheriff killed in the line of duty.

On May 1, 2002, during a seemingly routine traffic stop, Deputy March, a 33-year-old husband and stepfather was shot and killed.

Deputy March’s life is that of a true American Hero. Even as a high school football and baseball star, his life long dream was to serve his fellow man through a career in law enforcement.

During his seven years of service, Deputy March garnered the admiration and respect of his superiors and subordinates.

A week before he was shot, Deputy March wrote these words to a friend in the Department,

I feel I give a full days work when I'm here. My contacts with the public are positive. Most of all, I have learned to enjoy what I am doing. My goals are simple. I will always be painstakingly honest with my officers and I can, learn as much as I can and hopefully make a difference in people's lives.

May the tragedy of David March’s death never overshadow the glory of his life.

REФЕГUES FIRST

HON. JANICE D. SCHAKOWSKY
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Mr. Speaker, I recently read an op-ed in the Israeli paper, Ha’aretz, entitled Refugees First written by Dr. Avi Becker, the Secretary-General of the World Jewish Congress. In the article, Dr. Becker discusses the role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency, UNRWA, for Palestinian refugees. The article brings to light how these refugee camps are coming under control of the Palestinian Liberation Organization and compromising critical positions, a strict violation of U.N. policy. The Palestinian refugees of the UNRWA refugee camps are suffering and have not been offered a rehabilitation program to rebuild their communities outside these camps. The United Nations and the international community must reform their current policies on these camps and formulate a new humanitarian vision that will benefit the Palestinians within these camps and elsewhere. I strongly recommend that my colleagues read the following article.

Refugees First

It is revealing that only after the Arab/UN abortive attempt to send a fact-finding committee to Jenin, questions have been raised in the international media about the role of the UN Relief and Works Agency for Palestinian Refugees (UNRWA). Several articles in the American media have asked bluntly: "What exactly is the UN doing in its refugee camps (with our money)?" The United States today finances more than one-fourth of UNRWA’s operations, about $90 million, annually. Some Arab oil countries give to-gether less than $5 million annually, while Iraq and Libya pledge nothing. The United States and other persons in refugee camps... to achieve military purposes," a commitment which was immediately confirmed by UN Secretary General Annan in a 1998 report to the Security Council, in which he urged that... [be] scrupulously maintained." It is therefore important to apply the same principles in the case of the UNRWA camps.

In 1976, the Lebanese ambassador to the UN Edward Ghorra warned the international community of the fact that UNRWA camps in Lebanon had been taken over by terrorist organizations. In his letter to the then UN secretary-general, Kurt Waldheim, the ambasador said that "the UNRWA camps... as if they were a state within the State of Lebanon... They transformed most, if not all, of the refugee camps into military bastions... in the heart of our commercial and industrial centers, and in the vicinity of large civilian conglomerations." (The letter was published as an official UN document.) In reality, UNRWA camps, with 150,000 employees, had come under PLO control, and under the UN flag they were functioning, for all intents and purposes, as military camps. In October of 1992, UNRWA released a most comprehensive report, which related in great detail that its educational institute at Sibleen, near Beirut, was in reality a military training base for PLO fighters, with extensive military installations and arms warehouses.

The forthcoming renewal of UNRWA’s mandate must be used to put pressure on the UN agency to begin a reform plan which will prepare the ground for its future integration with the UN High Commissions. Thus, in preparation for the decision on the mandate renewal, UNRWA must be asked to demobilize and armits forces on two fronts: to enforce the ban required under both international law and UN policy, against using their camps for military and terrorist purposes, and to draft a rehabilitation program which will build new neighborhoods for refugees outside the camps, wherever they are located.

The tragedy of the Palestinians cannot be addressed by existing UN policies and practices. Any comprehensive peace plan dealing with Israeli withdrawal and new borders with a Palestinian state must include the UNRWA camps as a major component a thorough political and humanitarian solution for the Palestinian refugees. While the borders and security arrangements are obviously issues that need to be concluded, the refugees’ situation must be addressed first, and a realistic practical solu- tion must be developed which is based on dealing with the reality of their daily lives. The issue of the Palestinian “right of return” cannot be left in limbo, looming over every potential peace initiative including the most recent Saudi one, which did not address the refugee issue clearly.

Polls taken in Israel in recent days show that a significant majority of the Israeli public is prepared to accept the establish-of settlements and the making of far-reaching compromises for a sincere peace. As stated by President Bill Clinton on July 28, 2000, the refugee problem in the Middle East is two-sided, and includes the Jews from Arab lands “who came to Israel because they were made refugees in their own land.” The Jewish post-1948 refugees, whose number was about the same as that of the Palestinian refugees from the same period, were resettled and rehabilitated in their new homeland—Israel. The Palestinians of the UNRWA refugee camps have not been offered any form of rehabilitation anywhere, and this is precisely the reason that the camps have become the incubators for so many suicide bombers. Thus, a peaceful resolution of the conflict seems to be stagnated by the violent consequences of a decades-old policy of deliberately neglecting the Palestinian refugee problem and of deferring its resolution until some far-off future date. Today, for the sake of peace, the UN and the international community must reverse their long-standing and destructive Palestinian refugee policies and offer a dramatic and new humanitarian vision to the Palestinian refugees in the UNRWA camps and elsewhere.

PERMANENT DEATH TAX REPEAL ACT OF 2002

SPEECH OF HON. TODD TIAHRT OF KANSAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 6, 2002

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Speaker, all across this country moms and dads are striving to provide a bright and promising future for their children. Parents who own small businesses or family farms put years of sweat and blood into making them prosper so they will have something to leave behind for their children. Here in America, dreams really do come true as individuals work hard to achieve the great success. But here in America, we are also cursed by an offensive tax penalty that often forces families to lose these small businesses and family farms. For years it has been the burden of local officials to push forward legislation in Congress to do away with this tax. That is why we are once again discussing this matter.

Any vote in opposition to permanently eliminating the death tax will make me feel ashamed. Every American who pays taxes should be able to pass their hard-earned savings on to their children and grandchildren without fear of an oppressive tax. Whether a person is rich, middle-class, or poor, it is wrong to tax the dead. I was proud to cosponsor the Permanent Death Tax Repeal Act of 2001 last year, and I look forward to its passage today. When I vote or a dozen votes, I will continue fighting to make raising taxes for millions of Americans. Whether we want to see this money leave Washington and back to haunt us again.

The death tax issue is not about how many doctors or dentists there will be in the future. It is about the inherent impropriety of taxing the dead. Whether a person is rich, middle-class, or poor, it is wrong to tax the dead. I was proud to cosponsor the Permanent Death Tax Repeal Act of 2001 last year, and I look forward to its passage today. When I vote or a dozen votes, I will continue fighting to make raising taxes for millions of Americans. Whether we want to see this money leave Washington and back to haunt us again.

The American people are tired of Washington taxing and spending their money, and one of the most egregious actions this Congress can do is to impose the death tax to come back to haunt us again.

Mr. Speaker, let’s bury the death tax for good.

CEDAR CREEK BATTLEFIELD AND BELLE GROVE PLANTATION NATIONAL HISTORICAL PARK

SPEECH OF HON. FRANK R. WOLF OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, after more than 11 years of study, effort, and public comment, I am proud to announce that Senator JOHN WARNER and Congressman BOB GOODLATTE and I are introducing legislation to create the Cedar Creek Battlefield and Belle Grove Plantation National Historical Park. The concept for the establishment of a new national park in the Shenandoah Valley was one of the key recommendations within the Management Plan for the Shenandoah Valley Battlefields National Historic District. This legislation is the result of work from a broad group of preservation groups including the National Park Service, local partner organizations, locally elected officials, local landowners and others. I want to recognize their efforts to produce this legislation. I believe the strength of this legislation lies with this widespread public interest.

Legislation for the new park is an outgrowth of a bill sponsored by Senator WARNER and the late Congressman French Slaughter in 1988 and the law passed in 1996 which established the Shenandoah Valley Battlefields National Historic District sponsored by Senator WARNER and myself. The local citizen-based commission established for the Battlefields District recommended that Cedar Creek Battlefield be established as a new national park. The accompanying Park Service study found in fact only Cedar Creek met the criteria to be designated a national park.

Originally conceived as purely a battlefield park, the local stakeholders expanded the vision to include a broader scope of history. The proposed park will preserve and interpret the rich story of Shenandoah Valley history from early settlement through the Civil War and beyond and protect the historic landscape which features panoramic views of the mountains, natural areas, and waterways in the northern Shenandoah Valley.

Importantly too, the other nine Civil War battlefield sites within the Shenandoah Valley will benefit from the national park designation in the valley and increase in tourism at the new park, but each will continue to be protected and managed locally.

The proposed park boundary includes approximately 3,000 acres at the intersection of Frederick, Shenandoah and Warren counties and is based on the 1969 boundary established for the Cedar Creek and Belle Grove National Historic Landmark. Today, of the 3,000 acres, Shenandoah County and three private preservation groups, including Belle Grove Plantation, collectively protect nearly 900 acres within the park boundary.

For years it has been the burden of local organizations to protect, honor, and interpret these nationally significant lands. Given increased development pressure, federal involvement is needed to help support the local efforts, to preserve historic lands for future generations, and to ensure continued high quality interpretation of the area.

This park is a model for a new type of national park for the future. A key provision allows all landowners to continue their right to... sell their land whenever and to whomever they choose. The keys to this model are:

A national park based on partnerships and local community involvement.

A park where private organizations, families, and individuals will continue to live, work, and play within the boundary.

A park that shares with visitors the full range of its cultural and natural history.

A park created by the local community for the benefit of this and future generations.

The park also will work with the community as land use and zoning decisions will continue to be administered by local authorities at the county or municipal levels.

There are several landowners who will become key partners to the park by operating independent anchor sites within the 3,000-acre park boundary that serve to collectively benefit the visiting public. For example, the Cedar Creek Battlefield Foundation will continue to host the annual Battle of Cedar Creek Reenactment Weekend and other events and the Belle Grove Plantation will continue to be open to the public as a private museum holding living history, education, and charity events within the new park. In addition, Shenandoah County has plans to develop a light recreation county park with hiking trails and scenic over looks on nearly 150 acres along the North Fork of the Shenandoah River within the national park boundary.

Local involvement has played a key role in the crafting of the park legislation. The adjacent towns of Middletown and Strasburg enthusiastically endorsed the creation of the new national park. Private landowners within the proposed boundary shared thoughts and ideas on ways to ensure private property rights and quality of life and these important themes have been included within the legislation. The concept is for this to be a local park first and foremost—park that is part of and benefits the local Shenandoah Valley community.

HONORING THE METROPOLITAN CHORUS

HON. JAMES P. MORAN OF VIRGINIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the accomplishments of The Metropolitan Chorus (TMC), a community symphonic chorus located in Arlington, Virginia. This season marks the 35th anniversary of the organization’s founding.

As the only community symphonic chorus based in Arlington County, TMC remains a visible force in Virginia’s 8th Congressional District and plays a leading role in the cultural life of the region. This 90-member chorus offers residents the opportunity to perform a wide range of music, with pieces spanning the Renaissance period through the 21st century.

In the wake of the tragic events of September 11th, the TMC provided assistance to grieving citizens by organizing and conducting the Chorus and the Arlington Symphony Orchestra in Arlington’s Day of Remembrance and Appreciation. Featuring many local and state dignitaries, the tribute honored the victims and emergency rescue personnel of the Pentagon attack. This rousing event lifted the spirits of all who were in attendance.

Under 26 years of outstanding direction by Artistic Director Barry Hemphill, the TMC has performed in a colorful array of venues from the Kennedy Center to Constitution Hall and in various locations throughout the world. A number of these shows were performed for free and given at special early times specifically for the elderly. Through these, TMC has proven its dedication to the development and promotion of the performing arts in Northern Virginia.

I applaud TMC’s many contributions and wish them all the best at their season ending performance on June 24, 2002 at Lubber Run Amphitheater in Arlington Virginia capping off a highly successful 35th Anniversary season.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in honor of Dr. Winston Price for his commitment to helping others.

After completing his training at Cornell Medical College and New York Hospital, Dr. Price began practicing pediatrics in Brooklyn in 1978. He also served as a Medical Director for Aetna US Healthcare and for the Pediatric Ambulatory Department at SUNY Health Science Center in Brooklyn. Dr. Price is currently an Assistant Professor of Clinical Pediatrics at the SUNY Health Science Center in Brooklyn as well as the Chief Medical Consultant for V CAST II International, a medical information systems and technology company. He has also been a medical advisor and lecturer with the Cornell Cooperative Extension and New York Department of Social Services.

Dr. Price sits on many committees including the Board of Trustees of the National Medical Association and he chairs the Informatics Subcommittee. He serves on a committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics as well as a committee of the National Committee for Quality Assurance. Dr. Winston Price was also appointed to the Administrative Review Board of the New York State Department of Health and served on that 5-member appellate board.

Dr. Price has also taken a special interest in serving the needs of abused women and children. He has remained an active advisor to the parenting program of Brooklyn and serves on the Board of the National Committee to Prevent Child Abuse and Neglect in New York State. He also serves on the Committee on Proactive and Ambulatory Medicine (COPAM) of the American Academy of Pediatrics as well as the PPAC Committee of the National Committee for Quality Assurance (NCQA). He co-authored the American Medical Association Guide on the Treatment and Prevention of Sexual Assault.

Even with all of these commitments, Dr. Price is an active member of several other organizations including the Office of Professional Medical Conduct and the Medical Society of the State of New York.

Mr. Speaker, Dr. Winston Price is dedicated to improving health care in the community. I hope that all my colleagues will join me in honoring this remarkable person.

TRIBUTE TO MS. JOANNE CARTER

HON. BARBARA LEE
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Ms. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to and express my high regard of Ms. Joanne Carter, the Legislative Director of RESULTS.

Since 1992, Joanne Carter has been the Legislative Director of RESULTS, an international grassroots citizen’s lobby whose purpose is to create the political will to end hunger and the worst aspects of poverty, and to empower individuals as advocates with their governments, the media and in their communities.

RESULTS has active chapters in over 100 U.S. cities and in the UK, Canada, Japan, Australia and Germany. RESULTS works on a range of international and domestic issues—including expanding basic health programs to combat TB, AIDS and other major infectious killers, access to microcredit loans to allow very poor women to start their own businesses, reform of World Bank, health policy, and expanded access to Head Start preschool programs and quality early child care in the U.S.

Prior to joining RESULTS’ staff in 1992, Joanne Carter coordinated RESULTS grassroots activity for New York and the northeast region of the U.S., and was a practicing veterinarian. She holds a DVM (Doctor of Veterinary Medicine) degree from Cornell University and has done graduate research in reproductive physiology. She has served as a VISTA volunteer and as a recruiter for the Peace Corps.

As many know, I have worked diligently on the global AIDS, TB and malaria crisis. As I have worked with my colleagues in the Congress and with health experts, people living with AIDS, TB or malaria, and the activist community, Joanne has been a key figure in helping me get people organized and sound the clarion call. She understands so well the moral obligation and responsibility of wealthy governments and all of us, as individuals, to do all that we can to make a difference in stopping these horrific diseases.

Tonight it gives me great pleasure to honor Joanne. Please know that I stand with you in this fight and look forward to our continued work on these important priorities.

90TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE GIRL SCOUTS

HON. BILL SHUSTER
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to offer congratulatory remarks to the Girl Scouts who are celebrating their 90th anniversary this year. Just this past weekend thousands of Girl Scouts converged upon the National Mall to celebrate this anniversary and to pay respect to the values and ideas that the Girl Scouts has infused within them.

Today there are 2.7 million Girl Scouts across the United States. Through the Girl Scouts these young women are provided the opportunity to serve others while at the same time discovering their own full potential. This organization infuses young women with core values and sound decisionmaking. The Girl Scouts is also an educational experience for young women. They engage in activities that teach them about technology, science, money management, as well as health and fitness. All of this is accomplished while these young women build friendships and bonds that will last a lifetime.

The results are there as well. Over two-thirds of Girl Scout alumnae are doctors, lawyers, educators and community leaders. They are out in our communities making a difference and using the values they learned from their days as Girl Scouts to positively influence our world.

I doubt that Juliette Gordon Low had any idea how successful the Girl Scouts would be when she held that first meeting in her living room back in 1912. Mrs. Low formed the organization in an attempt to provide young women with the opportunity to develop physically, mentally and spiritually. All one has to do is to look back over the Girl Scouts’ long and illustrious history to see how successful Mrs. Low has been.

COMMENDING RADIO FREE EUROPE/RADIO LIBERTY ON RECEIVING FREEDOM OF SPEECH MEDAL

TOM LANTOS
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, although freedom and democracy are integral elements in the political systems of many countries, basic freedoms are still denied in many others and are not fully institutionalized in still others. Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty targets these areas, including Eastern Europe, the Middle East, Central Asia, Russia, and other former communist states, in order to promote free speech and political dialogue.

For more than fifty years, the organization has tirelessly supported free-thinking, freedom of expression, and democracy. Recently, the broadcasts have even been expanded to include and specifically target areas with large Muslim populations. In recognition of this history of work, the Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt Study Center awarded the “Freedom of Speech Medal” to Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty on June 8.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to congratulate Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty on receiving this award and recognize its outstanding work in promoting freedom and democracy. I hereby commend the following acceptance speech given by my dear friend Thomas A. Dine, the President of RFE/RL, Inc., and request that the speech be placed in the RECORD.

ACCEPTING THE FREEDOM OF SPEECH MEDAL

THOMAS A. DINE,
President, RFE/RL, Inc.

Thank you for this wonderful, deeply meaningful award. It is a great, great honor to receive the Roosevelt Foundation’s 2002 Freedom of Speech medal. No name better animates and exemplifies the work of Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty and its daily commitment to freedom and democracy than Roosevelt.

As President of Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty, I accept this award not only on behalf of the organization as it exists today, but also on behalf of its achievements during the Cold War and its importance as a fighting force in promoting freedom and democracy in a world with stringent journalistic standards of accuracy, balance, and objectivity.

Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty has been battling for the cause of free speech and expression for over 50 years.

My colleagues and I will continue to fight as long as this monumental freedom is being controlled or suppressed in the countries to which we actively communicate via radio, Internet, and television.

I am often asked, “But isn’t Europe free?” It is true that the collapse of communism and of the Soviet Union has brought freedom to many parts of Europe that had long been deprived of it for too long. However, suppression of speech, press, and assembly, sadly remains very much the rule on the European continent.

In Russia, for example, the Kremlin seems increasingly determined to control as much of the media as possible. Most recently, the government has coerced placed under its control several prominent independent media outlets, from television to radio to print, citing simple, but corrupt business transactions. More ominously, over the course of the last two years in Russia, 36 journalists have been killed or have disappeared. And last week Russia’s Minister of the Press Lesin, in response to our daily news broadcasts in the Chechen language, warned us to stop interfering in Russia’s domestic affairs.

The President of Ukraine is no friend of the first freedom. He is a likely suspect in the death of at least four journalists who dared criticize his administration for corruption and criminality. He is certainly responsible for a culture of fear that pervades the Ukrainian media environment.

The nation of Belarus is now under the thumb of the dictator Alexander Lukashenka, a man who openly expresses adoration for Stalin. Lukashenka ceaselessly harasses the press; deaths and disappearances of journalists have taken place in Belarus as well.

And a final contemporary example of the dismal condition of freedom of expression inside today’s Europe exists in the Balkans, where Serbia, Croatia, Macedonia, and Bosnia are still not out from under the intimidation and controlling state grip of the Milosevic era.

In response to the specific challenges we face in this young century, Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty has expanded the scope of its broadcasting across Europe and Asia. These broadcasts address the most difficult, but perhaps the most thrilling, battle yet for free speech: in areas populated by Muslims in Southeast Europe, Russia, the northern and southern Caucasus, Central Asia and Southwest Asia.

The terrorist attacks of September 11th highlighted for all of us the importance of the Muslim world in today’s geopolitical landscape. Accordingly, a majority of Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty’s current 33 languages are targeted to peoples that practice the Islamic religion.

Our broadcasts now include Albanian and Bosnian in the former Yugoslavia; Tatar and Bashkir to Russia’s Volga River region; Crimean Tatar to Ukraine; Avar, Chechen, and Circassian to Russia’s North Caucasus; Azeri to Azerbaijan and Northern Iran; the languages of Kazakh, Kyrgyz, Turkmen, Tajik, and Uzbek to Central Asia; Farsi throughout Iran; Arabic to Iraq; and now Dari and Pashtu to Afghanistan.

I am particularly proud of the latter two, Dari and Pashtu, in which we are now broad-casting 10 1/2 hours a day to Afghanistan in response to that crisis. Next week, we will broadcast the Loya Jirga’s deliberations live! Just as importantly, we have also established a program to train journalists in Kabul and Prague to help ensure that the new Afghanistan will be graced with a robust free press practicing the highest of professional standards.

In closing, it is a particular honor, both for me personally and for the organization I represent, to receive this award from an organization bearing the Roosevelt name. As President, Franklin Roosevelt instilled human rights in our collective consciousness and injected human rights into the center of our foreign policies.

So did Eleanor Roosevelt through her tireless work helping to create the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. It is no coincidence that a 1989’s photograph of the former First Lady of the United States sitting in front of a Radio Liberty microphone adorns my office wall in Prague. And it is Article 19 of the Universal Declaration that is the motto of Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty, indeed all of United States international broadcasting.

It is a simple, but crucial proclamation and timeless pronouncement—“Everyone has the right to seek, receive, and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers.”

This motto appears on our stationery, in all of our literature, on prominently placed hall plaques. It symbolizes everything we strive to achieve.

The more than 2,000 worldwide staffers of Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty are eternal grateful for receiving one of this year’s Four Freedom awards. I promise this Foundation and this distinguished audience that we shall energetically continue our mission of promoting freedom and democracy today— in order to expand freedom and democracy tomorrow.

Thank you very much.

THOMAS A. DINE,
President, RFE/RL, Inc.

RECOGNITION OF CHIEF DEPUTY DANNY CHANDLER

HON. SAM JOHNSON
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. SAM JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, it is an honor to bring to the attention of my colleagues a True Texas Hero, Chief Deputy Danny Chandler.

On behalf of the people of the Third District of Texas, I want to congratulate him on his promotion to be the first-ever Director of the Office of Security and Emergency Management in Dallas.

America is a whole different country since September 11. This is a different kind of war with a different kind of enemy. That is why Dallas has taken the lead to win the war for freedom, both at home and abroad. I know he will do a fine job heading that effort.

The Commissioners Court of Dallas County could not have picked a better leader. Starting as a Deputy Sheriff in 1973, Chief Chandler dedicated 29 years of his life to the Dallas County Sheriff’s Department.

A highly decorated officer, he has put the lives and safety of others before his own. It’s no wonder that Dallas Morning News named him a “Special Angel.”
Mr. Speaker, it is my privilege today to recognize the courage and service of Chief Chandler. His selfless sacrifice, hard work and dedication to his community are an example to us all. The people of Dallas and the surrounding communities are blessed to have his leadership and commitment to our neighborhood. Chief, you have my admiration and support as you protect our Great State in the fight for freedom. God bless you and God bless America.

THE MILITARY RETRIEVEE DISLOCATION ASSISTANCE ACT

HON. WALTER B. JONES OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. JONES of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce a common sense piece of legislation to help our military retirees. As my colleagues know, service members and their families will move many times in a typical military career. These permanent changes of station or PCS often involve considerable additional expense, including the loss of rental deposits, connecting and disconnecting utilities, and the wear and tear on household goods. To help defray these additional costs, Congress in 1955 adopted the payment of a special allowance—a dislocation allowance. This was done to recognize that duty station changes and resultant household relocations are due to the personnel management decisions of the armed forces and not the individual service members. This amount was increased in 1986 and again in recent years. This is an important benefit for our military members.

However, as important as this benefit is, there is a category of service members who are not eligible to receive the dislocation allowance—the military retiree. This is despite the fact a vast number are subject to the same expenses as their active duty counterparts. In August 2000, the Marine Corps Sergeant Major Symposium recommended the payment of dislocation allowances to retiring members, who in the opinion of the Sergeant Majors, bear the same financial consequences on relocating as those still on active service.

Military retirees must often seek employment not knowing what opportunities exist in the civilian world, where those opportunities are located, what the pay will be, or what possibilities are available for spousal employment. Retirees are sometimes faced with the prospect of employers who offer less wages knowing they are in receipt of retirement pay, and falsely believing that retirees don’t need the same salary as civilians for the same position. Additionally, the military retiree will have to meet the same financial demands for mortgages, insurance, taxes, and food on a smaller income.

For those reasons, I am introducing the Military Retiree Dislocation Assistance Act. This legislation would help ease the transition into retirement by amending 37 USC §407 to authorize the payment of a dislocation allowance to all members of the armed forces retiring or transferring to an inactive duty status such as the Fleet Reserve or Fleet Marine Reserve. The vast majority of these retirees have given our Nation over 20 years of dedicated service.

They have helped protect the very freedoms we all hold dear. Rather than simply pushing them out the door upon retirement, we should reward their service by providing modest assistance for their final change of station move. That is exactly what Military Retiree Dislocation Assistance Act does.

A TRIBUTE TO FLORUS WILLIAMS

HON. SAM FARR
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. FARR of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Mr. Florus Williams, who passed away in April. Mr. Williams, a highly decorated community member for many years, is survived by his wife of 63 years, Frances, four children, 20 grandchildren, and 17 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Williams was born in Fresno, CA, on January 2, 1916, but he lived in Pacific Grove, in my district, for 78 years. He served on the Pacific Grove City Council from 1971 to 1986 and served as mayor of Pacific Grove from 1976 to 1986. Mr. Williams also served as foreman of the Monterey County Grand Jury from 1987 to 1988 and was a member of Masonic Lodge 331 in Pacific Grove. He was also a recipient of the Masons’ Hiram Award for his excellent service to the community.

Mr. Williams was known for his firm convictions. He truly believed in his work, and worked to improve the quality of life on the Central Coast. His admirable career of public service was dedicated to the citizens of Pacific Grove, and his contributions have made a significant impact. I, along with the Central Coast community, would like to honor the life of Mr. Florus Williams, whose dedication and contributions will be greatly missed.

REMEMBERING WORLD WAR II HERO GINO MERLI, MEDAL OF HONOR WINNER

HON. PAUL E. KANJORSKI
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. KANJORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the memory of a great American, Gino J. Merli of Peckville, PA. Mr. Merli passed away Tuesday at the age of 78, and with his passing, we have lost a true American hero.

I would like to insert here the two articles which appeared in the Scranton Times and Tribune on Wednesday about Mr. Merli, who exemplified the best of America’s “Greatest Generation.”

WWII HERO GINO MERLI DIES
(By David Falchek)

Gino Merli didn’t embrace fame or his role of war hero.

Yet, he accepted them as he lived his life, with a sense of purpose.

So the man who rarely talked about the event that earned him the Medal of Honor responded to every letter praising him for his heroic deeds.

Mr. Merli died Tuesday at his Peckville home. He was 78.

On the night of Sept. 4, 1944, Army Pvt. Merli was manning a machine gun when German forces attacked near Sars la Bruyere, Belgium. The outnumbered U.S. forces began their retreat, but Pvt. Merli held his position, providing cover fire. Under attack with his fellow soldiers dying around him, he played a key role.

When the Germans turned their attention to the retreating men, Pvt. Merli rose from the ground and fired, repeating the pull again and again.

When he returned from World War II, his duty became serving other veterans. For 34 years, he was an adjudication officer at the VA Medical Center in Plains Township, Pennsylvania. Mr. Merli’s record, talked about their war experiences, he never mentioned his own.

“I never put myself or his experiences against anyone else’s,” explained friend and Marine veteran Ike Refice. “You never saw him point to himself or say ‘Look at me. I have this medal.’”

Not much changed in the time since he received a hero’s welcome in Scranton in 1945 or walked the beaches of Normandy with the Free French in 1944.

In 1945, he told a cheering crowd of 500 people at the Hotel Casey that he’d “rather be on the battlefield any day than make a speech.”

Yet, in a letter he sent to admirers, he wrote that he may have been motivated by “my dead buddies or my hatred of war.”

NBC News anchor and ‘‘Greatest Generation’’ remembers Mr. Merli always talking of other soldiers, rather than himself.

“He was a reluctant warrior, full of modesty and humility,” Mr. Brokaw said. “The fact that he went to a church and prayed for men he had killed through the night was typical of him.”

Mr. Merli was an inspiration for Mr. Brokaw’s book “The Greatest Generation.”

The two met often. When Mr. Brokaw began writing his book about ordinary people doing extraordinary things, he said he was thinking about Gino Merli.

“I came to love him,” Mr. Brokaw said. “Mr. Merli helped change how local people defined ‘American.’

During World War II, Italy’s alignment with Axis countries stoked anti-Italian and anti-immigrant sentiment in the United States. Italian Americans often found their patriotism questioned.

Gino Merli’s heroics helped many in Lackawanna County see beyond ethnicity, said his son, Gino Merli Jr.

“When people saw my father come home and heard what he did, it changed their perception about what it means to be American,” he said. “People saw the first- and second-generation immigrants sacrificing life and limb for the United States and for freedom.”

In 1994, Mr. Refice and Mr. Merli visited Europe to retrace their steps through Europe. Oddly, the rural area where Mr. Merli held back Nazi troops was unchanged.

They met a Belgian woman who, at the age of 16, watched Mr. Merli confound the Nazis again and again. During their visit, the town put up a monument in the village common thanking Mr. Merli.

In his final days, he still shied away from speeches. But he did like to stand before a crowd for one purpose. Mr. Refice said he enjoyed leading a crowd in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Lately, Parkinson’s disease and a heart ailment held him back.

As a final encore last Saturday, the History Channel showed Roger Mudd’s special on the Big Red One, the first infantry division which featured Mr. Brokaw.

In letters he sent to admirers, Mr. Merli wrote:
IMPLEMENTING LEGISLATION FOR THE STOCKHOLM CONVENTION, THE ROTTERDAM CONVENTION, AND THE PROTOCOL TO THE 1979 CONVENTION ON LONG-RANGE TRANSBOUNDARY AIR POLLUTION ON PERSISTENT ORGANIC POLLUTANTS

HON. PAUL E. GILLMOR
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. GILLMOR. I am pleased to join my colleague, Mr. GOODLATTE, in introducing today by request the Administration’s implementing legislation for the Stockholm Convention on Persistent Organic Pollutants, the Rotterdam Convention on Prior Informed Consent Procedure for Certain Hazardous Chemicals and Pesticides in International Trade, and the Protocol to the 1979 Convention on Long-Range Trans-boundary Air Pollution on Persistent Organic Pollutants.

The Stockholm Convention was adopted on May 22, 2001, after many years of international negotiation under the auspices of the United Nations Environment Programme, UNEP, and it establishes an international framework for regulating the production, use, and disposal of persistent organic pollutants, including polychlorinated biphenyls, PCBs, and dioxin. The United States signed the Stockholm Convention over 1 year ago, along with over 110 other countries, but the United States cannot ratify the convention until the Senate provides its advice and consent, and until sufficient authority has been granted through Federal legislation to ensure that the mandates of the agreement can be enforced.

On April 11, 2002, the Secretary of State and the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, EPA, submitted to the Congress legislation to implement the Stockholm Convention, the Rotterdam Convention, and the Protocol to the 1979 Convention on Long-Range Transboundary Air Pollution on Persistent Organic Pollutants. This legislation amends the Toxic Substances Control Act, TSCA, as well as the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA) by providing the EPA with the authority to eliminate or restrict the production, use and release of 12 chemicals that can adversely affect human health because they are toxic; they persist in the environment for long periods of time; they circulate globally; and they biomagnify and accumulate in foods consumed by humans.

Specifically, the bill amends TSCA to prohibit or severely restrict the use of Aldrin, Chlordane, DDT, Endrin, Heptachlor, Hexachlorobenzene, Mirex, Toxaphene, PCBs and DDT, while providing specific limited exemptions for their continued use. In the event that these chemicals continue to be used in accordance with an exemption, this legislation requires a certificate to be submitted to the EPA with detailed information. The legislation also provides EPA with the authority to collect additional information from manufacturers to assist in evaluating additional chemicals for potential addition to the restricted list in the future, and to prohibit the exportation from the United States of currently restricted products, unless the exportation complies with specific conditions and restrictions established by the EPA. The bill also requires exporters of listed substances to provide prior notice to EPA of all exports and to include additional labeling, and the bill similarly amends FIFRA to prohibit the use, sale and exportation of the prohibited or restricted chemicals that are pesticide active ingredients.

Today, I am pleased to introduce for request the Administration’s legislative package that, once enacted, will allow the United States to ratify the underlying treaties. As the chairman of the Environment and Hazardous Materials Subcommittee of the Committee on Energy and Commerce, I look forward to working with the Administration, my colleagues in the House and other body, and all interested parties, in putting a package together that we can send to the White House soon. As we proceed, I will keep an open mind on the need to make improvements to the bill I’m introducing today. This can and should be bipartisan legislation that will demonstrate the United States’ leadership in the international environmental arena.

A TRIBUTE TO STEVEN KAPLANSKY: A TRUE NEW YORKER

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in honor of Steven Kaplansky in recognition of his long time commitment to his community.

Steve was born in Manhattan and he grew up in Queens, amidst the historic Bowie House and Quaker Meeting Hall. Here, Steve learned important lessons of cultural diversity and love of community, which he took with him throughout his life. He went on to receive his college education at Long Island University, where he majored in sociology and history. He earned his masters degree from the Hunter School of Social Work, and became a New York State certified social worker.

Aside from two years which he spent building community centers in Florida, Steven Kaplansky has spent his entire professional career in New York City. As an assistant director of the Flushing YHMA, he developed programs with the Lexington School for the Deaf and the Association For Help To Retarded Children, as well as an inter racial youth council with Baptist churches. In 1976, he became the youngest executive director of a YHMA, and developed nontraditional programs, such as enriched and senior housing for the elderly, the only kosher Battered Women’s Shelter in America, community services programs for those being discharged from mental institutions, inter racial councils, neighborhood preservation projects and one of the first local development corporations in New York City.

Steven’s nonprofit work has been equally impressive. He was instrumental in establishing the Sam Levenson Cultural Arts Foundation and helped to establish One World One Heart, a nonprofit organization, which provides cultural, educational and neighborhood enrichment programs through music for communities-at-large. A one-time board member of the Local Development Corporation of East New York and a current board member of the Brooklyn Bureau of Community Services. Steven was recently a of a Department of Employment study for job retention in the food industry in New York City. He is also a trustee for Local 348S Food and Commercial Workers Union and the Director of the Koni Arts Foundation. In addition, he has worked on environmental issues, including water, power, and food waste, with both the city and the state.

From the 1980’s until recently, Steven has worked for Blue Ridge Farms as the Government Community and Public Relations Director, as well as the Personnel Director. He was instrumental in providing donations to the community, including aiding at Ground Zero. Furthermore, he helped the company save over 500 jobs. He has also worked in food banks, homeless shelters, block associations, local police councils, youth groups, and senior centers. He currently is working with Aviation Systems of New York to develop technology to prevent explosions in airplanes, and is a consultant to World Vision, Inc. a music management and entertainment corporation.

Mr. Speaker, Steven Kaplansky has spent his life working tirelessly on behalf of his community. As such, I urge my colleagues to join me in honoring this truly remarkable man.

HONORING NATIONAL SMALL CITIES DAY

HON. BOB BARR OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. BARR of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, Friday, June 14, 2002, marks the first “National Small Cities Day” in honor of smaller communities of our country. I would like to help make our colleagues aware of this event and the significant role that small cities play in making up our great Nation.

An overwhelming majority of Americans live in cities with populations under 25,000. These small cities form the backbone of our Nation and contribute enormously to the character of all Americans. It is in these cities that we find the spirit of America in which we take so much pride and give so much to protect.

Living in a small city affords Americans the ability to involve themselves in the building of a community through involvement with local schools, government, and the daily activities which go into raising their community’s children to be responsible, virtuous citizens.

Small cities across America will be joining each other today to recognize the contributions to our way of life made by their communities and those who live in them and help them thrive. We should all join in recognizing and thanking our citizens who comprise these communities for all that they have done and continue to do every day.

RECOGNITION OF KEEPING THE PROMISE

HON. DARLENE HOOLEY OF OREGON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Ms. HOOLEY of Oregon. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express my sincere appreciation for those men and women currently serving in our armed forces, in particular those who are engaged in the war against terrorism.

My home state of Oregon welcomed ships from the U.S. Navy, U.S. Coast Guard and the Canadian Fleet during our annual Rose Festival this past week. I would like to thank Captain Terry Bragg, Commodore Destroyer Squadron One, his staff and crew aboard the USS Paul F. Foster. The Paul F. Foster and crew will soon be deployed in support of Enduring Freedom.

I would also like to thank Rear Admiral Erroll M. Brown, District Commander of the 13th Coast Guard District, the Men and Women aboard the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Hamilton for their appearance at this event.

I can assure you that the leadership, morale, and dedication of all the officers aboard these ships were of the highest caliber as well as those men and women who serve aboard these ships. I can truly, say, the defense of our nation is in good hands when we have such professionals as those aboard the ships that visited Oregon this past weekend. All serve our country with pride and all Americans should be proud of them.

When we ask people to put their lives on the line to protect our country, we have a profound obligation to honor our promises to those whose service has kept our nation free. The men and women who have served our country so honorably know best that freedom is never free, that it is only won and defended with great sacrifices.

Once again I want to extend my gratitude and pride to all the men and women who serve our country, in the armed forces.

You make us all proud.

CONDEMNING THE PRIVATIZATION AND COMMERCIALIZATION OF OUR AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL SYSTEM

HON. NEIL ABERCROMBIE OF HAWAII
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. ABERCROMBIE. Mr. Speaker, I join with my colleague, Mr. BLUMENAUER and the others, in condemning the executive order issued late last week which will allow our air traffic control system to be commercialized and privatized.

We in Congress passed legislation strengthening our public transportation systems to help insure greater safety and the prevention of terrorism. We have recently federalized airport security and baggage inspection. Are we, at the same time, turning over absolutely essential air traffic control to the private sector, which utterly failed in airport security? How is this going to increase public confidence in air travel?

It is outrageous to propose actually privatizing a government service as essential as ensuring the safe and orderly operation of the thousands of airline flights daily. When the private sector cannot perform an important and vital service adequately, it becomes essential that the government assure that it is performed to public expectations. That has become the case with air travel. It flies in the face of logic that any steps be taken toward dismantling the air traffic control system and turning functions over to the private sector.

I have been working with and debating officials in the Administration on the merits of privatizing government functions. As a member of the House Armed Services Committee, I have been deeply concerned about the outsourcing of military jobs for many months.

Clearly, this is another attempt to bring the private sector in to perform duties carried out by the civil service and other professionals.

Mr. Speaker, I am not against the private sector nor making a profit. But there are instances where making profits should be a secondary consideration. Profit must not be the bottom line in assuring public air travel safety.

Perhaps privatizing OMB would be a good next step. It might bring some level of common sense to the Administration.

Ms. MCCULLUM. Mr. Speaker, I would like to officially state for the record that I incorrectly recorded my vote on rollcall No. 225 as a “yea” vote. I intended to vote “no” against passage of the Tax Limitation Amendment to the Constitution, H. J. Res. 96.

WEST GENESEE WILDCATS, 2002 NEW YORK STATE LACROSSE CHAMPIONS

HON. JAMES T. WALSH
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to celebrate a victorious day for West Genesee High School as both the men’s and women’s lacrosse teams captured the New York State Lacrosse Division 1, Class A Championship titles. It was a memorable day that will go down in history for the Wildcats, as both teams soared triumphantly to the top.

The day began as the women’s team traveled to Cortland, New York to defend their state title, and this is exactly what they accomplished. The team ended their undefeated season with a 15–11 win. Later that afternoon at Hofstra University, the men’s lacrosse team regained the State title with an exciting 10–9 victory. As Coach Mike Messere stated “It was one of the most exciting games I’ve seen.”

West Genesee Lacrosse has always had the reputation for a stellar program and, as displayed this past weekend, the program continues to generate gifted athletes. These students work year-round to master the sport, and because of their relentless hard work, dedication, and passion for the game, they came out true champions.

I am proud of these devoted athletes, and I commend the coaching staff, parents, and entourage of supporters who traveled this long road with them. This type of outcome does not happen overnight, nor is it a result of just one season. It takes years of dedication to get such results, and this entire team should be proud of their accomplishments.

I would like to acknowledge the athletes and coaching staff who brilliantly represented their school, county, and state this past weekend:

It is outrageous to propose actually privatizing a government service as essential as ensuring the safe and orderly operation of the thousands of airline flights daily. When the private sector cannot perform an important and vital service adequately, it becomes essential that the government assure that it is performed to public expectations. That has become the case with air travel. It flies in the face of logic that any steps be taken toward dismantling the air traffic control system and turning functions over to the private sector.

TRIBUTE TO REVEREND SOLOMON YOUNG-MIN KIM

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in recognition of Reverend Solomon Young-Min Kim, a well-respected leader in both the Brooklyn and Queens communities.

Rev. Kim was born in Pusan, Korea. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in Metallurgy from Korea University and has studied at the New York Theological Seminary, the Korea New Church Seminary, and the Swedishden School of Religion.

Rev. Kim is the pastor of The Mirral Church in the Bensonhurst section of Brooklyn. He has helped solve ethnic issues between the Korean businessmen and the Black community, by getting the Korean businessmen to employ more residents from the Black community. He has also fostered relationships between the Korean community and the Caribbean-American, Haitian, and Italian communities. Rev. Kim’s work with Brookdale University Hospital and Medical Center, as well as with the Brookdale Hospital Schuman Institute Nursing Home, has allowed him to spend time visiting the sick and the shut-in. He has also worked with the New York City Department of Correction by providing spiritual guidance and hope for a renewed life after prison to the population. Additionally, Rev. Kim helped organize the Census 2000 effort in the Korean communities of Bensonhurst, Bayridge, Flatbush, East Flatbush, Flushing, and Queens, as well as in New Jersey.

Rev. Kim’s activism is also evident in his attitude towards education. He formally supports an after-school program for Korean students in Bayridge and Bensonhurst who are having a tough time academically. But Rev. Kim’s commitment to education extends to people of all ages. In addition to the Korean Youth Festival, he has established senior/youth intergenerational programs, aimed at initiating ongoing dialogue, participation and education, as a team in the Korean community.

Rev. Kim’s efforts have earned him numerous accolades and awards, such as the Asian American Heritage Award from the Borough President of Brooklyn, the Distinguished Ecumenical Award from the Wesley McDonald Holder Regular Democratic Club Women’s Caucus, and the Community Service Award from Assemblyman Clarence Norman Jr. In closing, I would like to personally thank Rev. Solomon Young-Min Kim for his steadfast devotion to Brooklyn’s Korean community and his colleagues to join me in honoring this truly dedicated spiritual leader.

INTRODUCTION OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW ENHANCEMENT ACT OF 2002

HON. GEORGE W. GEKAS

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, today I introduced an important bill, the “Administrative Law Process Enhancement Act of 2002,” that reforms the organization of the administrative judiciary within the Social Security Administration (“SSA”) by establishing an Office of Administrative Law Judges (the “Office”) within SSA that is administered by a Chief Administrative Law Judge (“Chief Judge”) who reports directly to the SSA Commissioner.

The national ALJ function and hearings field operation that presently is within the SSA Office of Hearings and Appeals (“OHA”) would be transferred to the Office by the proposed legislation. The Chief Judge would be in charge of the Office, be appointed by the Commissioner for a term of six years that is renewable once, and be subject to removal only upon a showing of an enumerated cause. The Associate Commissioner of OHA would continue to administer the Appeals Council. The changes proposed in the bill provide for a reorganization of the SSA that will result in reducing additional costs to SSA or the government.

Currently, the SSA is without a functioning Office of the Chief Administrative Law Judge. The functions for both the adjudication of administrative claims by SSA administrative law judges (“ALJs”) and the appellate process for the review of ALJ decisions by the Appeals Council are located within the OHA. The ALJ portion of the OHA is under the dual leadership of a Chief Judge and an Associate Commissioner of OHA. The position description of the Chief Judge places the Chief Judge in charge of the national ALJ hearings function and hearings field operation of OHA. The Associate Commissioner of OHA is placed in charge of the national ALJ hearings function and the Appeals Council, and has major policy-making and policy-implementation responsibilities for OHA. The Chief Judge reports to the Associate Commissioner of OHA, who in turn reports to the Deputy Commissioner for the Office of Disability and Income Security Programs (“ODISP”), who in turn reports to the SSA Commissioner.

In the current organization of SSA, the OHA and the ALJ function are submerged in the bureaucracy and are far removed from the Commissioner. The Social Security Advisory Board recently prepared a report on the Social Security Disability system that expresses concern about the OHA functions being buried too low in the agency, the need to elevate these functions to direct oversight by the agency leadership, and the need for greater ALJ function independence. Charting the Future of the Social Security Disability Programs: The Need for Fundamental Change, January 2001, p. 19. The current structure prevents the Commissioner from having effective oversight of the ALJ hearing process. The ALJ adjudication function should not be treated as a staff role, in SSA. The ALJ adjudication function is a major program of the agency with every individual in this Nation being a potential claimant within the SSA system. The SSA ALJ hearing system protects a constitutional right of our citizens and provides a constitutionally protected due process hearing to members of the American public. This vital process should have direct oversight from the Commissioner and the Chief Judge should have direct interaction with the Commissioner.

Another major defect in the current OHA is caused by the dual leadership of the Chief Judge and the Associate Commissioner. Frequently, these two leaders are competing for power to control the administrative and/or policy decisions for the ALJ hearing component of SSA that has deprived OHA of strong, effective leadership. Several years ago, the Associate Commissioner attempted to reorganize the responsibilities of the Chief Judge and divest the Chief Judge of most of the powers of that office, leaving the Chief Judge with some minor duties relating to judicial matters and colleagues to the Associate Commissioner. The Associate Commissioner and the Deputy Commissioner of DISP also tried to compel the Chief Judge to resign because he resisted the inappropriate diminution of his duties. This scheme was thwarted by the efforts of interested individuals and organizations together with the oversight action of the Congress.

The lack of effective leadership and direction of the OHA and reduction of the Chief Judge function also has resulted in an organizational structure that has been inef- ficient. For over 10 years, several reforms have been imposed on the SSA hearing process. Each attempt has resulted in failure. Subsequent to the latest reform, the HPI reorganization in the hearing office process that was implemented in January 2000, the number of case depositions have dropped while the case processing time and the case backlog have increased. The result has been poorer service for the American public.

Better service for the American public by improving case disposition and reducing processing times, reducing case backlogs, and improving decision quality will result from the proposed legislation, which will ensure effective leadership of the ALJ hearings component of SSA. The ALJ hearings component of SSA will be treated as an organization that is responsible for administering a major agency program. It no longer will be organized as a staff function within SSA. The Commissioner will have direct oversight of the ALJ hearings component of SSA, which is necessary to effectively administer this important program that is crucial to processing appeals for the American public. The ALJ hearing component of SSA will have one individual responsible for administrative operations and policy.
Will it be a child, family or friend?

PERMANENT DEATH TAX REPEAL ACT OF 2002

SPREECH OF
HON. MARK E. SOUDER
OF INDIANA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 6, 2002

Mr. SOUDER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the permanent repeal of the death tax. The repeal of this particular tax is especially important in ensuring that small and minority-owned businesses as well as family farms are not destroyed due to the inability to pay this archaic tax.

A few decades ago, the tax was already a difficult burden to bear. The death tax furthers the family’s pain by presenting the survivors with the choice of either paying a large death tax or, if unable to secure the funds to pay the tax, selling their family’s farm or business. Not only do survivors lose their jobs when forced to sell a family business, but countless employees of the business often find themselves on the streets as well, losing their job, health insurance, and benefits. We cannot continue to watch as children who worked their entire lives in a family business lose what is rightfully theirs simply because their business is the only way they can raise the necessary funds to pay the estate tax.

Additionally, numerous surveys of small business owners have indicated that the estate tax is a primary reason for the expansion of their businesses because they spend more money on estate planning than expansions. Lack of business expansions translates to a lack of new jobs being created at that business.

Finally, I want to clarify that under the law enacted in 2001, the death tax is to be repealed in 2010 ensuring that all assets transferred from one generation to the next would not be subject to the estate tax, but would instead be subject to the capital gains tax. An example of the decedent would have a choice to either continue the family business or sell it and then pay a capital gains tax. Families should make the decisions regarding the sale of their farms and businesses rather than be forced to sell in order to pay an exorbitant death tax.

PERMANENT DEATH TAX REPEAL ACT OF 2002

SPREECH OF
HON. ROBERT E. (BUDD) CRAMER, JR.
OF ALABAMA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 6, 2002

Mr. CRAMER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today as Co-chairman of the End the Death Tax Caucus in support of this bill and in opposition to the death tax. Eliminating this unfair provision in our tax code has been a priority of mine since becoming a Member of this body.

Today’s death tax places a tremendous burden on America’s small businesses and family-owned farms, which are at the heart of the economic vitality of our communities. Small businesses and farms can quickly reach the current low exemption levels for the death tax.

For example, urban convenience stores invest an average of $1.24 million per store for heavy equipment to build our buildings, roads, and bridges. Construction businesses and farms spend almost $900,000 per store. Construction companies often need to purchase expensive heavy equipment to build our buildings, roads, and bridges. Our farmers, machine shops, and many other businesses often invest in equipment that involve high capital outlays. The Alabama Farmers’ Federation tells me that many of our family farms are usually locked up in their farmland, which often must be sold to pay the estate tax. Too often, this tax has forced American families to liquidate a business or farm that was built on years of hard work and sacrifice.

The tax relief package enacted last year provided temporary relief from the death tax. This law provides for a sloppy drop in death-tax rates from 55 percent to 45 percent and then an abrupt drop to zero in 2010. For some of us—like myself—this reduction does not occur fast enough. Over the same time period, the exemption increases from $1 million to $3.5 million. Regrettably, current law resurrects the death tax in 2011, with tax rates as high as 55 percent and an exemption at the low level of $675,000.

This temporary repeal does little to alleviate the estate-planning burden on our families. It forces them to play expensive, cumbersome guessing games about future tax rates. Allowing these entrepreneurs to reinvest their money and time into building their business. In fact, the temporary nature of the current law has made an already-complex tax code more complicated, and estate planning more difficult. Estate planning for farms is further complicated by the uncertain nature of the future net worth of farm operations. This money spent on estate planning—both attorney’s fees and insurance premiums—would be better spent invested back into the business and providing job growth for our nation.

Family businesses spend nearly $14.2 billion on estate tax expenses each year, the death tax is a tax on family businesses at a time when they must deal with other economic burdens beyond their control.

The Sunset provision simply prevents small business owners and farmers from taking advantage of the repeal. Unless they know for a fact that they will pass on the tax bill of $150 billion over 10 years, and it could provide an additional 165,000 jobs per year. The anti-growth death tax causes small businesses—who are undercapitalized in the first place—to cut back on labor, re-investment, and risk-taking.

Studies have also shown that the estate tax discourages savings and encourages small business owners to sell out or merge with larger companies.

Furthermore, the death tax can encourage the rich to spend down their savings on lavish consumption. A Joint Economic Committee study estimated that the death tax existence has reduced the nation’s pool of savings by $487 billion.

Mr. Speaker, this tax is an unfair tax. It doubles the taxes that were already taxed when it was earned. It is collected at a time of deep grief for our families. And it penalizes those who have worked hard over a lifetime to provide for the future security of their family.

In closing, Mr. Speaker, the time has come to finish the job and get rid of this unfair, burdensome tax once and for all. The death tax reduces wages, it reduces job creation, it discourages savings, and it is a leading cause of the liquidation of small businesses. Permanent relief from this death tax is critically important for America’s family-owned small businesses and farms.

Finally, let me thank my colleague from Washington and Co-Chairwoman of the End the Death Tax Caucus—Congresswoman Dunn—for working with me in a bipartisan manner to remove this unfair provision from our tax code.

I urge Members to support this legislation.
HONORING LOUISE BELKIN, FRANK JOSLYN, AND TERRY WERDEN FOR THEIR OUTSTANDING SERVICE AND DEDICATION TO TEACHING AT THE WEST DISTRICT SCHOOL IN FARMINGTON, CONNECTICUT

HON. NANCY L. JOHNSON OF CONNECTICUT IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mrs. JOHNSON of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to acknowledge the achievements of three excellent teachers from West District School in Farmington, Connecticut. They are Mrs. Louise Belkin, Mr. Frank Joslyn, and Mrs. Terry Werden. All three will leave West District at the end of the 2001–2002 school year.

Mrs. Belkin has been an elementary school teacher in the Farmington School System for 33 years, teaching at West District for 27 years. She has been a leader in the field of mathematics and served as the school’s math resource teacher for 14 years. During this time, she created and composed math curriculum and assessments for the district as well as organized and taught the district’s math summer school program. She has served as an elementary level representative to the ATOMIC Executive Board and a PIMMS Fellow. In 2001, she co-authored a geometry book to be used by teachers published by the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. Mrs. Belkin has actively served in the Farmington Education Association, serving as the building representative for ten years, treasurer for fourteen years and a member of the negotiations committee through five contracts.

Over the past 20 years, Mrs. Belkin has arranged for me to hold annual press conferences for West District School’s fifth grade. I have looked forward to this every year and regret that Mrs. Belkin’s retirement and the change in the grade structure in the Farmington School System mean the end of these events at West District School.

Mr. Frank Joslyn was recognized as Farmington’s Teacher of the Year for 1993–94. He served with the Farmington Education Association as a building representative, a Council member and an officer. He developed and implemented a “Homes of America” program for both parents and children, teaching them history through architecture. He also co-planned and produced the annual Veteran’s Day Program at West District School. And he served as West District’s “lead teacher” for more than 8 weeks during the prolonged illness of the principal. Mr. Joslyn has been on the field of body and fellow members of the faculty has been tremendous. He has shared his artistic skills to enhance the school building, designing a display case, memorial benches, banners as well as the school’s letterhead and note cards and a memorial sculpture. While everyone at West District School will miss Mr. Joslyn’s leadership and artistic insight, we take comfort in the knowledge that the students at Farmington’s new 5–6 school will benefit from his talents and abilities.

Mr. Terry Werden has been with West District School for 34 years, serving as the Science Resource Teacher for 13 years. She served as an outdoor educator, organized the “Kids and Chemistry” nights for several years and introduced the “Invention Convention” the West District School’s Grade 5. She also has given her time as an active member of the Farmington Education Association, and as a member of curriculum teams for writing, science and social studies. She currently has three students whose parents she also taught in the Farmington system. Mrs. Werden is a dedicated public servant and her influence has been strongly felt throughout West District School and the families it serves. Her presence within our walls will be greatly missed, as she moves on to teach at Farmington’s new 5–6 school.

These three educators have served on the same team for a quarter of a century. Combined, their efforts have amounted to 93 years of service at the West District School. The children, parents and families whose lives have been touched by their expertise and dedication can never forget the example of public service these three outstanding educators have set. I wish them well in all their future endeavors.

THE RECOGNITION OF DR. SIDNEY PESTKA, 2001 NATIONAL MEDAL OF TECHNOLOGY LAUREATE

HON. FRANK PALLONE, JR. OF NEW JERSEY IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I’d like to take this opportunity to congratulate Dr. Sidney Pestka who was named the 2001 National Medal of Technology Laureate for his pioneering achievements in the field of biotechnology. Dr. Pestka is from my district and joins us from the Robert Wood Johnson Medical School at the University of Medicine & Dentistry of New Jersey in Piscataway, New Jersey.

Mr. Chairman, in 1969, Dr. Sidney Pestka began a project to determine what interferon was—a substance that held the possibility of curing viral diseases, diseases that defied modern therapies, diseases that challenged the ingenuity of medicine for centuries, diseases including hepatitis, influenza, Ebola, Dengue, Yellow Fever, West Nile, and even the common cold. The possibility that a single medicine could treat all or at least many viral diseases was alluring. After a few months evaluating the scientific basis and potential of interferon, Dr. Pestka began to translate this dream into reality.

For the next seventeen years, Dr. Pestka made a remarkable series of discoveries and developments, often bucking prevailing beliefs and designing innovative solutions to problems along the way to success. His achievements carried out at the Roche Institute led to numerous medical applications including cloning of the human genes, development of immunological agents, using intestinal antibodies and medical application of interferon for viral diseases, to name only a few. In 1986, Dr. Pestka’s dreams became reality when the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved the interferon that he developed.

The approval of interferon by the FDA was significant, not only because it allowed Dr. Pestka’s development to be applied to treat viral diseases but also because it prepared the pathway for many other biotherapeutic agents now used in the clinic and stimulated the creation and development of today’s extensive biotechnology industry. Dr. Pestka’s achievements are the basis of several U.S. and foreign patents and interferon is now a major product of several U.S. and foreign companies. The market for interferon is expected to exceed $7 billion by 2003.

In addition to interferon’s commercial impact, there was no general antiviral therapy available before Dr. Pestka began his work on interferon; today, interferon is the first and only general antiviral therapy. Interferon is used to treat hepatitis B and C, diseases that afflict 300 million people worldwide. Today, interferon is used for the treatment of cancers such as metastatic malignant melanoma, kidney and bladder cell carcinoma, some leukemias, AIDS-related Kaposi’s sarcoma, and multiple sclerosis. Mr. Chairman, many individuals are now alive and well after treatment with interferon as a result of Dr. Pestka’s achievements.

Finally, Mr. Chairman, I’d like to point out that the potential of interferon has caught the imagination of the public. In many newspapers, magazine and journal articles about interferon over the past twenty years. Many scientists in academia do not bring achievements in research directly into commercial products with special considerations for scale up, environmental impact, economy, efficiency and efficacy. Dr. Pestka has bridged this gap by making seminal achievements in all these avenues from concept, to basic research and to practical application. He has fostered new industries in multiple areas, developed new medicines for previously untreatable diseases, and brought new hope to afflicted. These pioneering achievements were prefaced and followed by many other basic scientific discoveries in chemistry, biochemistry, genetic engineering and molecular biology from the genetic code and protein biosynthesis to interferons, cytokines, receptors and cell signaling.

In closing, Dr. Pestka’s achievements in innovation and translation provide a role model for this and future generations.

TRIBUTE TO MARATHON GIRLS FIELD HOCKEY TEAM

HON. JAMES T. WALSH OF NEW YORK IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the Marathon High School Girls Field Hockey Team for winning their fourth consecutive Class D New York State Championship. The MHS Girls Field Hockey team, coached by three-time New York State Championship Coach Karen Funk, finished the year with an unprecedented (24–0) season while also receiving the New York State Scholar-Athlete Team Award by maintaining a team average of 94.5.

The Lady Olympians scored a total of 127 goals this season while only allowing 6 goals against them which contributed to 18 total shutouts this season. In addition to their outstanding season, MHS had two of the National All American players and two All State Players. With a combination of hard work and determination the MHS Girls Field Hockey Team... has established a dynasty within the realms of Girls Field Hockey.

On behalf of the residents of the 25th Congressional District, it is my honor to congratulate the Marathon High School Girls Field Hockey team and their coach Karen Funk on their Class D State Vermont State Girls Field Hockey Championship. With these remarks, I would like to recognize the following players and staff: Coach—Karen Funk, Scorekeeper—Jenelle Dayton, Alexandra Askew, Brooke Atwood, Nikki Billings, Amanda Bliss, Danielle Braman, Lauren Brooks, Nicole Dann, Danielle Dayton, Heather Doivan, Alissa French, Lisa Gilbert, Jamie Golgosky, Jessica Golgosky, Eileen Hoyt, Maranda Kinsman, Tiffany Marsh, Jolene Phillips, Allison Robertson, Jacki Rose, Shira Thomas, and Kailltn Veninsky. Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of Lenford L. Robins, a leasing representative and a fine individual. Currently the Founder and Chairman of Bridgeport Capital Resources Inc. Mr. Robins attended St. George College in the West Indies and worked as a law clerk in the Criminal Justice System, Sutton Street Court Division, Kingston, Jamaica, and immigrated to the United States in 1969 to further his studies. In the United States, he attended New York School of Dentistry and Brooklyn Community College, where he received his degree in Orthodontic Dentistry. He went on to invent the “Tooth Aligner,” commonly known as the “Spring Retainer,” which is used in all dental practices globally.

He became a member of the “Elle Clout Club” of First Investor Investment Corporation, and joined Ford Motor Credit from 1976 to 1979, where he was trained as a representative. He has worked as a Leasing and Credit manager for Toyota Motor Credit, Honda, Volkswagen, and BMW, and has received several awards for his outstanding performance and contributions in the leasing industry.

Mr. Robins has also served as the Director of Leasing for Emar International and Reserve Lease Systems, as the President of Leasing Research International, and as the Director of International Markets for Blockwell Funding Corporation. He has also headed the International Division for GFI Business Capital. In each of these capacities, he has used his expertise to train others, and has been recognized and respected by his peers. A proof of his prominence, Mr. Robins has been interviewed on the Bill McCreary Report on Fox Channel 5 Television and CNBC Television, and has been written about in several newspapers and magazines. He is also the author of “The Advantages of Leasing.”

I would like to thank my colleagues’ attention the many achievements of Mr. Lenford L. Robins, a true expert in equipment leasing.

Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. KLECZKA. Mr. Speaker, I submit for the record a June 1 New York Times op-ed by Geoff D. Porter, a professor of Middle Eastern studies who expresses frustration at what he says is a slow and ineffective means by which the FBI is recruiting for Arabic translators. In trying to recruit those proficient in Arabic, since his insight as to the need for experts in the various dialects makes a compelling argument, I’ve also forwarded a copy of the article to FBI Director Robert Mueller.

I thank my friend, Professor David Randall Luce of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee for bringing this article to my attention.

(By Geoff D. Porter)

In announcing his restructuring of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Robert S. Mueller III, its director, stressed the importance of upgrading the F.B.I.’s intelligence capabilities by recruiting “the right people with the right experience.” If my own experience with the agency is any guide, that should include an urgent recruiting drive for people with the right Arabic language skills. Less than a week after the attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, I responded to the F.B.I.’s calls for Arabic translators. I know of a half-dozen other Middle Eastern studies graduates who also applied—Ph.D.s who, like me, are proficient in one or more Arabic dialects, as well as in Modern Standard Arabic. Ultimately—dismayed by what seemed to us the agency’s flawed understanding of what proficiency in Arabic means—none of us pursued our candidacies.

I applied less than a week after Sept. 11 but wasn’t called for the four-and-a-half hour translation test until January. It wasn’t until February that I sat for a four-hour interview and polygraph test. The F.B.I. was then to begin a six- to eight-month background check. By the earliest, I might have started translating more than a year after I applied.

The slow pace, however, wasn’t the most unsettling characteristic of the process. There was something more worrisome: The F.B.I.’s Arabic translation test simply does not measure all the language skills needed for intelligence gathering focused on Arabic speakers. The Arabic-language test—copyrighted in 1994 by the Defense Language Institute, according to the back of my exam booklet—was solely in Modern Standard Arabic, the Arabic most frequently studied at American universities. It is also used for official speeches and in the news media in Arab countries—but almost never in conversation. It differs substantially from the spoken varieties of Arabic in vocabulary, syntax and idioms—enough so that a non-native speaker who learned only Modern Standard Arabic would not be able to understand Arabic speakers talking to one another.

The regional dialects also differ from one another—varying considerably from one end of the Arabic-speaking world (in Morocco) to the other (in Egypt). In fact, there are, for some Arabic speakers, mutually unintelligible. (Once, I mistakenly gave a Cairo taxi driver directions in Moroccan Arabic, and he responded: “Ich spreche kein Deutsch.”)

These varieties of Arabic are the language of the market, the home and the street for the world’s 200 million Arabic speakers. Yet no colloquial Arabic, in any dialect, appeared anywhere on the F.B.I.’s Arabic translation test, which included a listening-comprehension section.

During my post-exam interview, I tried to offer some feedback about the test’s failure to measure skills in everyday spoken Arabic, but the interviewer briskly moved on to his next question. Nor was there a chance for me to name the two Arabic dialects in which I am proficient. The interview is scripted; there is no room for unsolicited interaction. All other Middle Eastern dialects applicants with whom I spoke said they, too, noticed the test’s shortcoming but couldn’t find an opening to comment on it.

As the F.B.I. reorganizes, it should improve its recruitment of Arabic translators by adding tests that measure fluency in one or more of these numerous Arabic dialects. Otherwise, its translators may be limited to reading Arabic newspapers or listening to Al Jazeera broadcasts. They may misunderstand wiretapped phone conversations or be unable to identify crucial information. Until the F.B.I. shows more willingness to listen to the experts it is trying to attract, it will not get the expertise it needs.

CONTINUATION OF RACIAL DISCRIMINATION

HON. BENNIE G. THOMPSON OF MISSISSIPPI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to bring attention to racial discrimination which continues to be a problem in America. Recently, in my home state of Mississippi, more specifically, Brandon, Mississippi, a couple was discriminated against while trying to buy a home. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Keys, an African-American couple, were attempting to purchase a home in Brandon when they were harassed verbally by a neighborhood resident, Chris Hope. Hope threatened the safety of the Keys’ children after asking them why they went to stay in a white neighborhood.

Mr. Hope was later subpoenaed when the Department of Housing and Urban Development filed charges on behalf of the Keys, who filed a housing discrimination complaint. Mr. Hope was later ordered to pay $146,000. Hope is to pay $126,000 to the Keys and $20,000 to the neighborhood agent. He has also to pay $11,000 in civil penalties.

Mr. Speaker, HUD released a statement saying that, “racial discrimination will not be tolerated.” I strongly support that statement. Discrimination is too often overlooked because it is thought of as a topic of the past. This story reinforces my belief that racial discrimination still exist. We must respond accordingly to discrimination cases.

A familiar document that we know as The Declaration of Independence states that “We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.” Racial discrimination is not only a moral injustice but it is also a legal injustice.
Mr. HASTINGS of Florida, Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the accomplishments of the Syracuse University Lacrosse team, the 2002 Division 1 NCAA Men’s Lacrosse Champions. On May 27th, the Orangeman won their second national title in three years. I am proud to represent this entire team of fine young men led by Head Coach John Desko and Assistant Coaches Roy Simmons III, Kevin Donahue, and John Zulberti.

Lacrosse is one of the oldest American sports, and the members of this team—have taken the game to an incredibly high level. It is no wonder that lacrosse is growing at such a rapid pace with young athletes looking up to role models such as these students, who have dedicated almost their entire lives toward mastering this sport. They have truly made their University, the city of Syracuse, and lacrosse fans nationwide, proud of their accomplishments.

It is my honor to acknowledge the following members of this team who have joined together to achieve the ultimate goal of becoming Division I National Champions: Chris Bickel, Solomon Bliss, Matt Bontailes, Andrew Boyle, Travis Bryan, Drew Bucktooth, John Burns, Josh Coffman, Nick Donatelli, John Glatzel, Kevin Gowan, Tom Hardy, Brian Herloski, Pat Hogan, Ryan Hogan, Joel Howard, Sean Lindsay, Steve Lykusid, Alex Mumolo, Brooks Neal, Brian Nee, Mike Nockunas, Kyle Olson, Jaret Park, Bill Perritt, Kay Pfeifer, Jake Plunket, Michael Powell, Dave Puccia, Joe Sabatanski, Mike Smith, Brian Solidday, Michael Springer, Billy St. George, Andrew Starr, Steve Vallone, Donn Vidoosh, Zach Wallace, Brett Walther, Spencer Wright, Alex Zink.

A TRIBUTE TO NEZAM KELVIN AND CYNTHIA HOSEIN

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of Nezam Kelvin and Cynthia Hosein, for their outstanding volunteer work with the Euclid 500 Block Association Community Garden and Food Pantry.

Kelvin, as he is known, and his wife Cynthia were born and raised in Trinidad, West Indies. In 1989, they moved to East New York in Brooklyn. They have two children, Princess (18) and Kelvin Jr. (13), and attend the Shepherd Home Open Bible Church.

Mr. Hosein is the President of the Euclid 500 Block Association Community Garden and Food Pantry, where both Kelvin and Cynthia volunteer. This picturesque garden is located on Euclid Avenue and Sutter Avenue. In the spring of 2000, the Association built a basketball court behind the garden to provide neighborhood kids a recreational alter-a letter to the media with the headline, “Not in Our Son’s Name.” They pleaded for a peaceful solution to this conflict, and they are joined by thousands upon thousands of people all over the world, as witnessed by the huge rally in Washington, DC on April 20 2002, where an estimated two hundred thousand people called out for an end to war.

And this cry is deepening, from a cry against war to a cry against injustice everywhere.

People all over America are saying that they don’t want American corporations stealing the resources of other countries and destroying the forested lands and waters of this country—not in their name.

Israeli settlers have a peace group called Not in My Name. They are saying to the Israeli government, yes, we want a home, yes, we want a safe place to be, but not through violence and destruction and terror. They are saying to the Israeli government—don’t take land from Palestinians, don’t destroy their infrastructure, don’t take their homes, don’t destroy their homes and their communities and their neighborhoods. Not in My Name, Not in the Name of My Child.

Why is this Not in My Name movement growing? Because when all is said and done, people all over the world, rich and poor, old and young, say to what is right. Americans want to do what is right. People know it is wrong for destruction to occur in their name. Not in My Name, Not in the name of my child. It’s like saying to a murderer—“Don’t kill for me.” It’s saying to those who pollute our waters, Not in my Name. It’s saying to those who destroy the economy of other countries—Not in my name, not in the name of my child.

Americans are gathering the courage to just say no. We are saying no to addictive lifestyles, addictive consumerism. We are saying no to wars and corporate takeover and the IMF loans that gobble up people and their resources.

And all over the world, people are saying, if you are committing these acts in my name, then don’t. If you are committing these acts—waging war on the innocent, destroying the environment, buying bombs when babies need bottles . . . then don’t do it for me. Not in My Name, Not in the Name of My Child.

Americans want peace, and justice and to live up to the conscience of its forebears. So we are joining people of good will around the world who say, Not in My Name, Not in the Name of My Child. Not in My Name, Not in the Name of My Child. Not in My Name, Not in My Name, Not in the Name of My Child. Not in My Name, Not in My Name, Not in the Name of My Child. Not in My Name, Not in the Name of My Child.

TRIBUTE TO THE BOROUGH OF ESSEX FELLS

HON. RODNEY P. FRELINGHUYSEN
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the Borough of Essex Fells and its residents on the occasion of its Centennial celebration.

Essex Fells, which was incorporated as a municipality by the New Jersey State Legislature on March 21, 1902, is the smallest municipality in Essex County, measuring a mere 1.6 square miles. Despite its size, the borough is home to some of the friendliest people, the loveliest homes, and gardens in New Jersey.

In the 18th and 19th centuries, the wooded hills and valleys that now comprise the municipality were sparsely settled, with only seven or eight farms located along what is now known as Roseland Avenue.

The expansion of the railroad system and improvements in other forms of transportation brought about the development of real estate in areas surrounding large cities. This resulted in the development of a community that would come to be known as Essex Fells.

Anthony Drexel, a prominent developer and planner from Philadelphia, had a vision and dream to build a unique community with beautiful homes situated in a rustic area of New Jersey. In 1888 he sent his representative, Charles W. Leavitt, to survey the situation around the extension of the railroad service in the Caldewells.

Following a report that the location seemed ideal for use as a high-level residential community, Mr. Drexel formed the New York Suburban Land Company in 1889 and purchased one thousand acres of land south of Caldwell. Included in part of the purchase were the land and the historic home of General William Gould, which became the home of the land company’s new president, Mr. Leavitt. The majority shareholder in the corporation was John R. Fell, Mr. Drexel’s son-in-law.

The hilly and rocky terrain made an imaginative and skilled approach to the planning necessary. To lay out an over-all community concept, Mr. Drexel hired well-known landscape architect Ernest W. Bowditch.

As this new area began to be developed and built, it was fortunate enough to be able to install such technological advances as electricity, indoor plumbing, and telephones, conveniences that are commonplace one hundred years later—but were true innovations then!

Essex Fells was given its name in honor of the county in which it was developed, Essex, and because the word “fell” suggests a rolling, hilly area, although Mr. Fell must have had some input into the name Essex Fells!

Throughout the past one hundred years not much about the character of Essex Fells has changed from the original concept of a residential rustic community. Today, the municipality is home to over 2,100 residents, a very small number by New Jersey standards, the Essex Fells Water Company, a public elementary school, a post office, and a park.

Mr. Speaker, this weekend the fine neighbors of Essex Fells will be joining together for a parade and community picnic to celebrate this auspicious occasion. I urge you and all of my colleagues to join Mayor Edward Abbet, Borough Council members James N. Blake, Rupert Hauser III, James W. Irwin, Julianne H. Rose, Thomas St. John, and, Lynda Youngworth, and the Citizens of Essex Fells in wishing them well during this special anniversary year.

HONORING THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF ST. ANTHONY OF PADUA PARISH

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to honor the 50th anniversary of the establishment of St. Anthony of Padua Parish in Falls Church, Virginia.

Since holding its first Mass on Easter Sunday, 1952, St. Anthony’s has profoundly impacted its congregation, students, and the community at large. Today the multi-ethnic parish continues to flourish while upholding a strong tradition of excellence in both the Catholic Christian ministry and community service. The accomplished past of the church has been characterized by generous contributions to local worship, education, and medical care. St. Anthony’s sizeable and multifaceted endeavors have been remarkably effective.

In 1954, the church established St. Anthony’s School, which now enrolls 620 students in grades pre-kindergarten through eighth. This notable commitment to education is further reflected in the valuable resources the church has made available to its community. These range from a religious education program for public school students to a computer-training course for adults. A partnership with Fairfax County and the Hispanic Community of Virginia in a Day Laborers’ Program highlights the church’s dedication to improving education.

St. Anthony’s has undertaken substantial initiatives in improving local health care by providing a mobile mammogram van, running Alcoholics Anonymous groups, and offering 24-hour counseling and parenting classes. Additionally, the church co-sponsors quarterly health fairs with organizations such as the National Institutes of Health, whom they further assist in conducting bone-marrow screenings.

The Parish also has made strides in emergency assistance. St. Anthony’s has relieved many people facing hardships by helping with medical costs and utility payments. The establishment of “Mary’s House” enabled the church to aid single homeless mothers by providing them a caring environment. Moreover, St. Anthony’s offers services such as counseling, tax assistance, Thanksgiving dinner, and the collection of Christmas gifts to those in need.

With all of these accomplishments, there is great reason for St. Anthony’s and its community to celebrate. Accordingly, Mr. Speaker, I extend my warmest congratulations on their 50th Anniversary. The Parish most certainly has distinguished itself through its devotion to God and service, and I call upon my colleagues to join me in applauding 50 years of excellence.
PROPOSING A TAX LIMITATION AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

SPEECH OF

HON. SHEILA JACKSON-LEE
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, June 12, 2002

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose H.J. Res. 96, Tax Limitation Constitutional Amendment. There are three key points that are relevant to this constitutional amendment:

This Constitutional Amendment states that any bill changing the internal revenue laws will require two-thirds of the Members of both the House and Senate. A Constitutional Amendment must pass both houses of Congress by a 2/3 vote before it is passed onto the states for ratification.

Adopting this amendment in 1913 first allowed direct taxation of the American people by the federal government. The underlying legislation of H.J. Res. 96, is an attempt to help the most well to do Americans through a constitutional amendment that limits the ability of Congress to raise taxes and cut deficits. It is no secret that this legislation is designed to disproportionately help the richest people in this country.

H.J. Res. 96 could make it difficult to maintain a balanced budget or to develop a responsible plan to restore Medicare or Social Security to long-term solvency. H.J. Res. 96 is a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America with respect to tax limitations, that would require for final adoption in each House the vote of two-thirds of the Members of that House voting and present, unless the bill is determined at the time of adoption, in a reasonable manner prescribed by law, not to increase the internal revenue by more than a de minimis amount.

By requiring a two-thirds supermajority to adopt certain legislation, H.J. Res. 96 diminishes the vote of every Member of the House and Senate, denying the seminal concept of one person one vote. This fundamental democratic principle insures that a small minority may not prevent passage of important legislation. This legislation presents a real danger to future balanced budgets and Medicare and Social Security.

Under H.J. Res. 96, it would be incredibly difficult obtaining the requisite two-thirds supermajority required to pass important, fiscally responsible deficit-reducing packages. And at a time in our history when the Baby Boomers are now retiring, H.J. Res. 96 could make it more difficult to increase Medicare premiums for those most able to pay their fair share of the bill, and could make it difficult balancing both Medicare and Social Security payroll taxes in the long term.

H.J. Res. 96 would make it nearly impossible to plug tax loopholes and eliminate corporate tax welfare, or even to increase tax enforcement against foreign corporations. H.J. Res. 96 would also make it nearly impossible to balance the budget, or develop a responsible plan for Social Security to long-term financial solvency.

I am deeply troubled by the concept of vesting a Member of the full import of his or her vote. As Professor Samuel Thompson, one of this Nation’s leading tax law authorities, observed at a 1997 House Judiciary Subcommittee hearing on the same proposal: “The core problem with this proposed Constitutional amendment is that it would give special interest groups the upper hand in the tax legislative process.”

By requiring a supermajority to do something as basic as getting the money to run government, H.J. Res. 96 diminishes the power of a member’s vote. It is a diminution. It is a disapparition. It is inappropriate, and the fact that this amendment has failed seven times in a row suggests that Congress knows it.

H.J. Res. 96 will also make it nearly impossible to eliminate tax loopholes, thereby locking in the current tax system at the time of ratification. The core problem with this proposed constitutional amendment is that it would give special interest groups the upper hand in the tax legislative process. Once a group of taxpayers receives either a planned or unplanned tax benefit with a simple majority vote of both Houses of Constitutional amendment, the group will then be able to preserve the tax benefit with just a 34 percent vote of one House of Congress.

In addition, H.J. Res. 96 would make it inordinately difficult to make foreign corporations pay their fair share of taxes earned in this country. Congress would even be limited from changing the law to increase penalties against foreign multinationals that avoid U.S. taxes by claiming that profits earned in the U.S. were realized in offshore tax havens. Estimates of the costs of such tax dodges are also significant. An Internal Revenue Service study estimated that foreign corporations cheated on their tax returns to the tune of $30 billion per year.

Another definitional problem arises from the fact that it is unclear how and when the so-called “de minimis” increase is to be measured, particularly in the context of a roughly $2 trillion annual budget. What if a bill resulted in increased revenues in years 1 and 2, but lower revenues thereafter? It is also unclear that it is possible to eliminate tax loopholes, thereby locking in the current tax system at the time of ratification.

Instead, today the House is again considering a proposal to establish a new Department of Homeland Security. If we are to complete the year’s work on time, we need to put every day to good use. But that’s not what we are doing today.

Instead, today the House is again considering a proposed constitutional amendment that was debated, and that failed of approval, just last year. I think that is a waste of time, especially since the proposal does not deserve to pass.

I’m not a lawyer, but it’s clear that the language of the proposal is an invitation to litigation—in other words, to getting the courts involved further in the law-making process. To say that Congress can define a constitutional requirement would apply, provided that the Congressional decision is “reasonable,” is to ask for lawsuits challenging whatever definition might be adopted. Aren’t there enough lawsuits already over the tax laws? Do we need to invite more?

But more important than the technical aspects of this proposal, I think it is bad because it moves away from the basic principle of democracy—majority rule.

Under this proposal, there would be another category of bills that would require a two-thirds vote of both the House and the Senate.

That’s bad enough as it applies here in the House, but consider what that means in the Senate. There, if any 34 Senators are opposed to something that take a two-thirds vote, it cannot be passed. And, of course, each state has the same representation regardless of population.

Consider what that means if the Senators in opposition are those from the 17 States with the fewest residents. Looking at the results of the most recent census, the total population of the 17 least populous states is about 21 million people.

That’s a respectable number, but remember that the population of the country is more than 260 million people.

So, what this resolution would do would be to give Senators representing about 7 percent of the American people the power to block some kinds of legislation—even if that legislation has sweeping support in the rest of the country, even if it had passed the House by an overwhelming margin and even if it was responding to an urgent national need.

Right now, that kind of supermajority is needed under the constitution to ratify treaties, propose Constitutional amendments, and to do a few other things. But this resolution does not deal with things of that kind. It deals only with certain tax bills—bills that under the constitution have to originate here, in the House. Those are the bills that would be covered by this increase in the power of Senators who could represent such a very small minority of the American people.

Why would we want to do that? Are the proponents of this constitutional amendment so afraid of majority rule? Why else would they be so eager to reduce the stature of this body, the House of Representatives, as compared with our colleagues in the Senate?

Remember, that’s what this is all about—“internal revenue,” however that term might be defined by Congress or by the courts. When Congress debates taxes, it is deciding what funds are to be raised under Congress’s Constitutional authority to “pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States.” Those are serious and important decisions, to be sure, but... what is wrong with continuing to have them made under the principle of majority rule—meaning by the members of Congress who represent the majority of the American people?

So, Mr. Speaker, I cannot support this proposed change in the Constitution. Our country has gotten along well without it for two centuries. It is not needed. It would not solve any problem—in fact, it probably would create new ones—and it would weaken the basic principle of democratic government, majority rule. It should not be approved.

IN HONOR OF YONG SOO JUN

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Yong Soo Jun, who has actively promoted the interests of Korean-American entertainers.

Mr. Jun, who currently lives in Fresh Meadow, New York, moved to New York from Chicago in 1980, and immediately became affiliated with the Korean American Entertainers Association, which at the time, had about thirty members. Over the next six years, Mr. Jun participated in and helped organize many charitable events and performances for the Korean community throughout New York and New Jersey.

In 1986, for business purposes, Mr. Jun moved to Virginia, and spent the next ten years traveling from state to state. During this time, Mr. Jun constantly organized and participated in numerous events, bringing smiles to the faces of virtually everyone with whom he came into contact.

Upon his return to New York in 1996, Mr. Jun picked up where he left off. He immediately resumed his activity with the Korean American Entertainers Association, which by then had increased its membership to about 100, and became President of the organization in 2001. As President, Mr. Jun met Reverend Solomon Y. Kim, the pastor of the Mirral Church, in the Bensonhurst section of Brooklyn. Their collaboration has produced many charitable events and performances for the Korean community throughout New York and New Jersey.

In 1997, Weston led the way again by taking the leadership on a second intergovernmental agreement with the cities of Broomfield and Thornton to study additional highway interchanges on Interstate 25 as the traffic impacts continued to grow. New intergovernmental agreements were signed, original agreements were amended to meet current needs and the citizens of these communities have highway interchange systems that are designed to address traffic demands.

Water rights and water quality are concerns for every western city. In a state with limited supplies and an expanding population, carefully negotiated water agreements are critical to limiting legal disputes and preserving financial resources. Fourteen years ago, Westminster provided regional leadership when it signed the Clear Creek Watershed Management Agreement to a joint land use plan, established annexation and service areas and revenue sharing.

In 1998, Westminster negotiated a first of its kind intergovernmental agreement with the city of Thornton and the Metropolitan District of the Interstate 25 corridor to make a commitment to study and plan for orderly growth and development. The goal was to simplify governmental structure and reduce and avoid friction between the two cities. This ground-breaking agreement crafted a joint land use plan, established annexation and service areas and revenue sharing.

Tribute to City of Westminster for Distinguished Local Government Award

HON. MARK UDALL
O F COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the city of Westminster, Colorado. This outstanding community was recently recognized at the 40th Annual Excellence in Government Awards Program hosted by the Denver Federal Executive Board as the recipient of the Distinguished Local Government Award.

Westminster, in the Congressional District I am proud to represent, has used the concept of “improvement through Cooperation” as it strives to improve local services through a series of innovative intergovernmental cooperative agreements with local, state and federal government partners.

The City has taken a leadership role in providing strong, representative management on complex issues that affect citizens living in Westminster and surrounding communities. Westminster led the way in 1980, bringing the cities of Thornton and Northglenn and other stakeholders to set up a water-monitoring program that led to The Clear Creek Watershed Management Agreement in 1994. Over a period of 20 years the original agreement has been expanded to more than 23 entities that benefit from this successful watershed-monitoring program. Water quality has been improved and enhanced and many ancillary groups help in the sampling efforts, sample collection and quality assurance.

In 1998, Westminster negotiated a first of its kind intergovernmental agreement with the city of Thornton and the Metropolitan District of the Interstate 25 corridor to make a commitment to study and plan for orderly growth and development. The goal was to simplify governmental structure and reduce and avoid friction between the two cities. This ground-breaking agreement crafted a joint land use plan, established annexation and service areas and revenue sharing.

In 1997, Westminster led the way again by taking the leadership on a second intergovernmental agreement with the cities of Broomfield and Thornton to study additional highway interchanges on Interstate 25 as the traffic impacts continued to grow. New intergovernmental agreements were signed, original agreements were amended to meet current needs and the citizens of these communities have highway interchange systems that are designed to address traffic demands.

Water rights and water quality are concerns for every western city. In a state with limited supplies and an expanding population, carefully negotiated water agreements are critical to limiting legal disputes and preserving financial resources. Fourteen years ago, Westminster provided regional leadership when it signed the Clear Creek Watershed Management Agreement with three neighboring cities and the Coors Brewing Company. Citizens have cleaner, more abundant supplies of water and can have pride of the sophisticated legal agreement that has served the partnership for more than a decade.

Regional parks, libraries and recreation facilities have all been enhanced by cooperative agreements with neighboring cities and educational institutions. Strong intergovernmental agreements expand services for local residents in several communities. New golf courses, fitness centers, ice skating arenas and parks with campsites, hiking trails, campground and water recreation all provide exceptional leisure time activities.

On a personal note, I have, on my own, “adopted” a section of the Dry Creek open space in Westminster as a way to help maintain the quality of life and the environment of this community. Through these efforts, along with many volunteers, I have witnessed firsthand the pride that the citizens of this city have for their community and its environment. This dedication has also been manifest in the City’s extensive oversight of the cleanup of the Rocky Flats facility, a former nuclear weapons production facility that exists just west of Westminster. The City was one of the first to suggest that this site be converted into a national wildlife refuge once it is cleaned and closed.

Westminster continues to find innovative ways to partner with private corporations, sister communities, public officials and local citizens to bring a superior quality of life to its residents. I applaud Westminster for the outstanding examples of cooperative agreements that have been instituted and look forward to their continued success on behalf of the Coloradans they serve.

COMMEMORATING HARRIS COUNTY SHERIFF’S DEPUTY SHANE BENNETT

HON. GENE GREEN
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. GREEN of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise this evening to honor the memory of a brave law enforcement officer, Harris County Sheriff’s Deputy Shane Bennett. Deputy Bennett was killed early Wednesday morning, as he and two other deputies charged into a home and stopped a robbery and assault on an innocent family.

He and his fellow officers were summoned by a 911 call from a teenaged girl. Five gang members had broken into their house, and were in threatening the ten people inside with guns. Tragically, it appears that they had made a mistake, since they were demanding jewelry, money, and drugs, none of which these innocent people possessed.

While only two members of the family were shot, a woman of 22 and her 3 month old son, the outcome could have been much worse if the officers had not arrived and come to the family’s rescue.

These assailants were all members of the Latin Kings street gang, and two of them had criminal records, including weapons possession charges. Two of them were killed by the officers, and the rest were tracked down and captured by an intensive manhunt through the nearby woods and homes by officers from a half-dozen local police agencies.

After hearing of the shooting, law-enforcement officers from all over the Houston area gathered at Memorial Hermann Hospital, prepared to roll up their sleeves and give the gift of life for their brother in arms.

Sadly, as they arrived, they were met with the news of Deputy Bennett’s death, and could do nothing but comfort his family, and each other.

Shane Bennett, 29 years old, was a member of the class of 1990 at Spring High School, in north Harris County. He had been patrolling the second patrol district, which covers 300 square miles of unincorporated Harris County, since 1997.

His colleagues remember him as a dedicated officer, who loved his job. He was known for his eagerness to combat the drug trade in this area, and was often involved in breaking up meth labs, a dangerous job due to the volatility of the chemicals used in the process.

Ed Christensen, president of the Harris County Deputies’ Association, remembered him as a dedicated and hardworking officer. He also said, “Shane died a hero. What would have happened if he hadn’t been there? He laid down his life and gave the ultimate sacrifice. He absolutely laid down his life for his fellow man.”

Denise Brennan, who has been selected as the Suffolk County Deputy of the Year, said, “My husband and I have been together for 31 years. Our children are grown and we have five grandchildren. Shane and I and our families, our homes, and our neighborhood are safer place to live.”

We are indebted to Shane Bennett for his courage, and we share the grief of his family and offer kind words, knowing that it is a poor substitute for their loss.

Every day, ordinary men and women make an extraordinary commitment when they put on the badge that symbolizes the oath they took to protect and serve, the badge that also makes them a target. Every day, they leave their families behind, not knowing if they will come home that night.

Congress should continue to make sure that we keep our commitment to the law enforcement by providing funding for more officers, better equipment, and advanced training. It not only saves the lives of officers, but it makes our families, our homes, and our neighborhoods a safer place to live.

HONORING SUFFOLK COUNTY POLICE OFFICERS LOIS APRILE AND DENISE BRENNAN

HON. RUSH D. HOLT
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
THURSDAY, JUNE 13, 2002

Mr. Holt. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of legislation that would authorize the House this week which calls attention to an under recognized historical figure, Antonio Meucci, and his work on an invention that we today know as the telephone.

Mr. Meucci was a testament to the hard work and innovation that made America great.

Most Americans know the story of Alexander Graham Bell, the man given sole credit for the invention of the telephone. This resolution makes clear, though, that another man made enormous strides in laying the groundwork for the invention, an Italian immigrant by the name of Antonio Meucci.

Antonio Meucci was born near Florence, Italy, in 1808. He studied mechanical engineering at Florence’s Academy of Fine Arts and then worked in the Teatro della Pergola and various other theaters as a stage technician until 1835, when he accepted a job as a scenic designer and stage technician in Havana, Cuba.

Fascinated by research, Meucci read every scientific tract he could get his hands on, and spent all his spare time in Havana on research, inventing a new method of galvanizing metals that he applied to military equipment for the Cuban government. At the same time, he continued his work in the theater and pursued his experiments.

As a result of his research, Meucci had developed a method of using electric shocks to treat various illnesses. One day, while preparing to administer such a treatment, Meucci heard his friend’s voice over the piece of copper wire running between them. He realized he had stumbled onto something much more important than any other discovery he had ever made, and he spent the next ten years bringing the principle to a practical stage. The following decade was to be spent perfecting the original device.

Meucci called his work on this project, “telefono.” Meucci was unable to commercialize his invention because he did not speak enough English to navigate the American business community, and, having spent most of his life savings on his work, he was unable to raise sufficient funds to pay his way through the patent process. Instead, he had to settle for a caveat, a one-year renewable notice of an impending patent, which Meucci first filed in 1871.

While a brilliant inventor, Meucci was victim of a series of financial and personal misfortunes. A Western Union affiliate laboratory—where Meucci was keeping his models to demonstrate his work—reportedly lost his working models, and as Meucci—was subsiding off public assistance, he could not afford the $10 necessary to renew the caveat in 1874. In 1876, Alexander Graham Bell, who conducted experiments in the same laboratory where Meucci’s materials had been stored, was granted a patent, and thereafter credited with inventing the telephone. Nine months later, the government moved to annul Bell’s patent on the grounds of fraud and misrepresentation, which the Supreme Court remanded for trial.

Meucci died in 1889, the Bell patent expired in 1893 and the case was discounted as moot without ever uncovering the true inventor of the telephone. If Meucci were able to renew his caveat, a patent to Bell could have never been issued.

The world of science and invention is a highly competitive one, where inventors compete to make and market their discoveries. It is only right that we call attention to the work of one brilliant inventor who history has not given his proper due, and who made enormous contributions toward the invention of this device. I urge support for the bill.

RECOGNIZING WILBERFORCE UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT DR. JOHN L. HENDERSON

HON. DAVID L. HOBSHON OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
THURSDAY, JUNE 13, 2002

Mr. Hobson. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the achievements of Dr. John L. Henderson, who, for the past 14 years, has served as the president of Wilberforce University, which is located in Greene County, Ohio in the 7th Congressional District.

On June 30th, Dr. Henderson will be retiring after a distinguished career in which he served as a resource and in leadership positions at Xavier University, the University of Cincinnati, Sinclair Community College and Cincinnati Technical College. He also has taught education, counseling and psychology courses since 1966.

Dr. Henderson’s tenure at Wilberforce has been marked by many accomplishments, not the least of which is the institution’s physical growth. Some of the major facilities constructed during his tenure include: a health and wellness center, a gymnasm/Student activities center, new dormitories, a communications center and a new administration building.

As a former member of the Wilberforce
Board of Trustees, I have always found Dr.
Henderson to be a dedicated educator and administrator, and a true advocate for the students and faculty of Wilberforce. His professional demeanor and extensive experience in Ohio’s outstanding system of higher education have always made it a pleasure to work with Dr. Henderson and I have been privileged to have been able to work on the school’s behalf in the Ohio State Senate and in Congress.

Dr. Henderson’s comprehensive knowledge of higher education has been recognized with his selection to leadership positions in numerous educational organizations. He is a mem-er of: the Board of Directors of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, the Council of Independent Colleges and Universities, the National Commission of Cooperative Education, the Council of Presidents of The College Fund/United Negro College Fund, Minorities in Mathematics, Science and Engineering and the Givat Haviva Educational Foundation that oversees the education of college students in Israel.

Most recently, President George W. Bush appointed Dr. Henderson to serve on the President’s Advisory Council on Historically Black Colleges and Universities.

Dr. Henderson received his bachelor’s degree from the Hampton Institute in 1955, and his Master’s degree in Education in Counseling and Guidance from the University of Cincinnati. Dr. Henderson continued his studies at the University of Cincinnati and received his Doctorate of Education in Counselor Education.

As Ohio’s Seventh District Representative to the Congress of the United States, I take this opportunity to publicly recognize Dr. Hendersone and his achievements on behalf of Wilberforce University. His many contributions to the educational growth of the nation’s oldest privately funded historically black co-educational institution of higher learning are noteworthy and I thank him for his service.

A TRIBUTE TO HOWARD PITSC
HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIV
ES Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. TOWNES. Mr. Speaker, I rise in honor of Howard Pitsch in recognition of his long-term dedication to his community.

Howard is a twenty-year resident of Fort Greene who has assisted in promoting the progressive revitalization of the community. He is the chair of the Fort Greene Association, a not-for-profit organization dedicated to historic preservation, strengthening community relations and improving the quality of Fort Greene parks. In this position, he has used his professional expertise as a marketing manager for Newswave to enhance the profile of this vital community organization.

He builds relationships with social and cultural organizations to improve our Fort Greene and Downtown Brooklyn areas. The Fort Greene Association sponsors a scholarship for a student to attend the Brooklyn Music School.
The Association also works to restore Fort Greene Park and contributes to the creation of a Brooklyn Bridge Park.

As Fort Greene Association Chair, he serves as the liaison between the Association and elected officials, Community Board Two, the 88th Precinct Council and the Brooklyn Borough President’s office. His ability to juggle and maintain these various relationships is a true talent.

Mr. Speaker, Howard Pitsch has dedicated himself to serving his Brooklyn community. As such, I urge my colleagues to join me in honoring this truly remarkable person.

IN TRIBUTE TO SERGEANT FIRST CLASS DANIEL ROMERO

HON. MARK UDALL
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. UDALL of Colorado, Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to a true American hero. Sergeant First Class Daniel Romero was killed while diffusing ordinance in Afghanistan on April 15, 2002. A member of the Colorado National Guard from Lafayette, Colorado, Daniel was called to active duty following the September 11 attacks against our country.

A ten-year veteran of the National Guard,
Daniel was a communications specialist in the Special Forces. He also attended jump school, language school, and paramedic school. Daniel received the highest praise from his fellow soldiers including his Master Sergeant, who said, “I always rode him hard and every time he stepped up to the plate.” He was sent with his unit to Afghanistan as a paramedic coordinator and ended up mastering a new communications system that had confused the rest of the unit. Daniel’s versatility was just one of the traits that made him a model soldier.

Like so many of our brave men and women, Daniel left his home to defend his country. He left behind his parents Michael and Geralyn, his two sisters Stephanie and Gabrielle, and his new wife Stephanie Wendorf. To them, our humble nation thanks them and praises them, for they have paid the ultimate price in the name of freedom.

Mr. Speaker, as we are engaged in this battle to free the world from terror, I am sure that every one of my colleagues will join me in saluting Sergeant First Class Daniel Romero. His dedication and devotion to his family, his unit, and his country can serve as an example to all Americans. He is a symbol of the values that make America great and is a testament to the spirit that will see this country through even these troubled times.

CONGRATULATING NASA AND DR.
FRANKLIN CHANG-DIAZ FOR A SHUTTLE MISSION

HON. GENE GREEN
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. GREEN of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate NASA on the successful launch of the Space Shuttle Endeavour on June 6. This important mission has delivered the Expedition Five crew, and continues to install the Leonardo Multi-Property Logistics Module and the Mobile Remote Servicer Base System on the International Space Station.

This launch marks Endeavour’s 18th flight and also marks the 14th shuttle flight to the space station. This launch is also historically significant because Astronaut Franklin Chang-Diaz makes a record-breaking seventh flight into space. He now shares the record with Astronaut Jerry Ross.

During this mission, Astronaut Franklin
Chang-Diaz, along with French Space Agency
Astronaut Philippe Perrin have also preformed three scheduled spacewalks that continue the assembly of the International Space Station.

These extravehicular activities mark the first time that Chang-Diaz and Perrin have been the first spacewalks for both astronauts.

Four years ago, I had the privilege of meeting and getting to know Dr. Franklin Chang-Diaz, an outstanding scientist and an accomplished astronaut. During this four year period, Dr. Chang-Diaz has accompanied me to nine middle schools in my district to talk about the importance of our national space program and to encourage students to take more math and science classes. I have also had the opportunity to visit his plasma propulsion laboratory at the Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center in Houston.

Dr. Chang-Diaz is a man of many talents.
Not only is he the second human to make seven space flights, he is also currently developing the new Variable Specific Impulse Magnetoplasma Rocket (VASIMR) concept.
The VASIMR prototype rocket engine is designed to shorten the trip to Mars and provide a safer environment for the crew.

Dr. Chang-Diaz has been working with scientists at NASA and the Department of Energy to develop this project. To date, he has been able to secure just enough funding to keep the project operating. However, this project is also important to allow it to just survive. I am hopeful that NASA will quickly realize the need to have a dedicated stream of funding for the VASIMR project.

Our nation is fortunate to have such outstanding individuals, like Dr. Chang-Diaz and the other crew members, as part of our national space program. NASA astronauts are scheduled to arrive back to earth on Monday, June 17. At that time, I look forward to welcoming back our heroes.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that my colleagues join me in congratulating Astronaut Franklin
Chang-Diaz, the Johnson Space Center in Houston and everyone at NASA for a successful launch and a successful mission.

ing commitment to the students of William

HONORING THE CENTENNIAL OF THE OHIO BURGEE

HON. DAVID L. HOBSON OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. HOBSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the adoption of the Ohio state flag, which is officially and affectionately known as the Ohio burgee because of its unique swallowtail design. The Buckeye State was the only state in the union to have a flag that isn’t rectangular, which is fitting, since Ohio is unlike any other state.

Cuyahoga County resident John Eisenmann designed the burgee and then transferred his rights and interests in the flag to the State of Ohio. He received a U.S. patent for his design in 1901 and the Ohio Legislature officially adopted it on May 9, 1902. Mr. Eisenmann, an accomplished architect, may have been inspired by the shapes of the guidons carried by the U.S. cavalry. The flag was intended to be first flown from the Ohio building at the Pan-American Exposition of 1901, a circumstance which also may also have contributed to its unusual shape. Mr. Eisenmann also designed the Cleveland Arcade; was instrumental in the effort to construct the Perry Victory and International Peace Memorial at Put-In-Bay, and authored Cleveland’s first comprehensive building code.

The flag’s large blue triangle represents Ohio’s hills and valleys, and the stripes represent roads and waterways. The 13 stars grouped about the circle represent the original states of the union; the 4 stars added to the peak of the triangle symbolize that Ohio was the 17th state admitted to the union. The white circle with its red center not only represents Ohio’s famous nickname of “The Buckeye State.” For 100 years, the Ohio burgee has been one of the most instantly recognizable symbols of the State of Ohio. It has flown beside Old Glory on thousands of flagpoles and been carried in parades celebrating our independence, noteworthy events in state history, even at the head of columns of Ohio troops returning from conflicts overseas.

As we look forward to the upcoming Centennial of Flight celebration in Dayton and the state Bicentennial in 2003, I encourage all Ohioans to proudly display their Ohio burgee on its 100th anniversary.

A TRIBUTE TO REVEREND CRAIG B. CADDY SR.

HON. EDOPHUS TOWNS OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 13, 2002

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of Rev. Craig B. Caddy Sr. and his spiritual service in the community.

Born to Lucille Atkins, Rev. Caddy began his ministry 19 years ago under the leadership and teachings of the late Rev. Dr. D.W. Battis in his native home of Bedford-Stuyvesant. He realized the need of his community and saw the vital role that the church played in meeting those needs. In 1999, he was called to serve as the Pastor of the Friendship Baptist Church. Since then, he has built the Friendship Baptist Church into a community centered institution that provides GED preparation and testing, computer literacy, computerized bookkeeping, computer technology, introductory Spanish courses, as well as a partnership with Public Service of New York, a partnership that provides for the disabled.

Rev. Caddy is currently a board member of the NAACP, the Bedford Stuyvesant Legal Services, the State University of New York (BECO), the Neighborhood Advisory Board, and the Community Action Board. In addition, he serves on the Chaplain Staff of the New York Metropolitan Transportation Authority.

Rev. Caddy is not only a spiritual father to his community, but also the father of two children of his own, Nyesha Joy and Craig Jr.

The Bedford Stuyvesant community is blessed to have Rev. Caddy serving them. May God continue to bless him and the work that he does. I urge my colleagues to join me in honoring Rev. Craig B. Caddy Sr. present and past administrations that worked on these agreements.

Mr. Speaker, the legislation we introduce today represents a starting point from which Chairman GILLMOR, working through his Subcommittee on Energy and Commerce, and I through mine on Agriculture, will build bipartisan legislation under which the United States would be in full compliance with our international obligations under these conventions. I look forward to working with my colleagues, the Administration, and interested constituencies to develop this legislation and ensure that the United States continues to hold our position of leadership in developing effective, achievable and balanced international environmental policy.
