CROOKED EXECUTIVES

(Mr. PITTS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Speaker, yesterday we watched on television as several crooked corporate executives were arrested and carted off to jail by Bush administration officials. I have no doubt that there will be more arrests before long.

These are the very worst kind of crooks. They tricked investors, stole from employees, and robbed from retirees. They should go to jail and stay there for a very long time and their ill-gotten gains should be taken back from them. I mean their mansions, their yachts, and their private airplanes, all of which were bought with money that they got through fraud. And I think we all need to take a look at what led to the scandals in the first place. The excesses of the decade of the ’90s clearly got out of hand; so much so, in fact, that decade is well known as the decade of irresponsibility. And national leaders like the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who made $38 million from a $100,000 investment in Global Crossing and then knew to get out just in exactly the same time all the crooked executives got out, should think about the example they set.

But at the end of the day, President Bush and the law enforcement bodies under his command will come down hard on these corporate crooks. And that will be a powerful deterrent.

HARVEY PITT

(Mr. DeFazio asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DeFazio. Mr. Speaker, that was an extraordinary twist on what is happening. This is a rare loss for the corporate lobbyist, the White House, the Republican House leadership, all of whom stonewalled meaningful reform until the public outrage had grown to the point where they feared the public more than they feared their corporate contributors and patrons.

This is a good start, this bill. It is not enough. But there are two words, two words, that will block any effective prosecution and enforcement even under this new legislation. What are those two words? Harvey Pitt. The morally, ethically compromised head of the Securities and Exchange Commission, their former lobbyist of the same accounting firms and security firms that have been defrauding the American people, the same lobbyists who fought all these reforms, he is the person chosen by President Bush as the best person to head up this new effort to get tough on corporate crime. Out of 270 million people in the United States of America, there is not one person... who is knowledgeable who is not totally compromised like Mr. Pitt? The President must replace Mr. Pitt if we are going to really get tough about corporate scandals and get a real reform.

ENCOURAGE CLEAN, RENEWABLE ALTERNATIVE ENERGIES

(Mr. GIBBONS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GIBBONS. Mr. Speaker, our Nation needs a comprehensive energy policy, and this Chamber passed H.R. 4, Securing America’s Future Energy Act, nearly one year ago. Among its many sensible and necessary energy policy provisions, this bill included incentives for the production of geothermal energy.

Nevada is literally the heart, the center, of the geothermal energy in the western part of our Nation. Unfortunately more of the valuable resources are located far underneath public land, and with over 87 percent of Nevada’s land managed by the Federal Government, Nevada’s potential to provide clean energy to the West is severely inhibited.

It is time that we unlock these resources and encourage the production of clean and renewable alternative energies. I urge the Conference Committee to report a comprehensive energy bill that meets our Nation’s 21st century needs by actively encouraging the production of geothermal and other alternative energies.

PREVENTING CHILD ABDUCTIONS

(Mr. LAMPSON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. LAMPSON. Mr. Speaker, we continue to see a great deal about child abductions in the news. That is good. Not all children have to be abducted, and all of the abductions do not have to end in the difficulties that we have seen in our news recently. So I rise today to urge parents to make sure that they know how to prevent child abductions and what to do when they occur. On May 23, the National Missing Children’s Day, the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and its partner, ADVO, released a survey that shows a lack of information critical to recovering children who have been abducted. The survey showed results that many parents are missing opportunities to help prevent those abductions.

According to law enforcement officials, information such as height, weight, eye color and a recent photograph are critically important when searching for a missing child.

However, the survey shows that 22 percent of parents do not know the height, weight and eye color for their children. In the event of an emergency, it is critical for parents to have readily available their child’s accurate physical description and a recent photograph so law enforcement can act immediately and effectively.

I would like to emphasize that parents should make sure that they have a portrait ID-like photo, and I encourage parents throughout the Nation to take a moment and make sure that they have this vital information readily available, in the unlikely event their child should go missing.

BLOOD DRIVE HONORING THE HON. FLOYD SPENCE

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, this week the American Red Cross will host a blood drive in memory of my friend, mentor, and predecessor, the late Representative Floyd Spence. His historic double lung transplant in 1988 by Dr. Shehadri Raju of Jackson, Mississippi, as well as his kidney transplant he received from his son, David, enabled him to provide consummate leadership to South Carolina and the Nation. His surgeries would not have been possible without volunteer blood donations.

Every second, someone in America depends upon a life-saving volunteer blood donation. In addition to organ transplant recipients, blood is used every day for children with sickle cell anemia, cancer patients, and trauma victims.

I would like to thank the Congressman’s beloved widow, Mrs. Debbie Spence, for her generous involvement with this blood drive, and I would also like to recognize Ms. Laura Haas and Mr. Noah Simon for organizing this crucial event.

Mr. Speaker, I encourage my colleagues and staff to visit the Rayburn foyer today and tomorrow between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. to give the gift of life.

CALIFORNIA SETS THE STANDARD FOR AUTO EMISSIONS

(Ms. SANCHEZ asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. SANCHEZ. Mr. Speaker, on Monday, California set a revolutionary precedent in the effort to curb carbon pollution and greenhouse gases. Governor Gray Davis signed into law legislation that will for the first time reduce the amount of emissions coming from the tailpipes of all passenger vehicles sold in the State of California.

Carbon dioxide is one of the main contributors to climate change, and 59 percent of California’s carbon dioxide comes from vehicle pollution. With this law, California joins a long-standing and successful effort by nations throughout the world to combat the gradual and the devastating warming of the earth’s atmosphere.

I want to commend the California State legislators, agencies, environmentalists, and organizations from all over the country for coming together in the tireless effort to see that this initiative becomes law in California.

Once again, California is at the forefront of environmental protection, and I hope that the people of the Nation will look to this new law as the standard when adopting their own air quality priorities.

PASS CORPORATE ACCOUNTABILITY ACT

(Mr. PENCE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Speaker, as the markets struggle under the weight of bilowing examples of corporate greed and fraud over the past several months, yesterday there were finally signs of hope. President Bush and law enforcement officials have acted decisively against corporate crooks. It seems as though the markets are responding. A single day rally almost set an all-time record in the Dow Jones industrial average yesterday. Investors are coming back, confidence is rising.

Mr. Speaker, now it is our turn to in this body set aside partisan politics and bickering and pass the bipartisan corporate accountability legislation that will bring to this floor tough new standards, tough new criminal measures against corporate crooks. Righteousness exalts a Nation. Let us bring new standards with old values in this new corporate accountability act, and further strengthen the confidence of the American people in the American economy and in the American dream.

CONGRESS MUST CHECK RAW POWER OF EXECUTIVE

(Mr. KUCINICH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, when Members of Congress take an oath to defend the Constitution of the United States, that includes defending article I, section 8 which says that only Congress shall have the power to declare war. The administration is proceeding with plans to invade Iraq, first with an air attack and then with an invasion of 250,000 ground troops. Yet there has been no consultation with this Congress, there has been no debate in this Congress, and there has been no vote in this Congress.

The American constitutional experience relies on a separation of power. It depends upon Congress being willing to check the raw exercise of power by the executive. Wake up, Congress. We are on the verge of a major war in Iraq and the administration is ignoring our Constitution. Wake up, America. Our sons and daughters are about to be called to fight a war in Iraq, without any debate, without any sense of purpose, without any sense of direction, and with grave jeopardy.

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Speaker, I know the new Homeland Security Department is going to pass with almost no dissenting votes, but it really is sad that we have to create a new cabinet level department just to get government agencies to cooperate with each other. Really it will just make the government bigger, more bureaucratic, more expensive and no safer.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I stand this morning to congratulate the CEO of the Cleveland municipal school district. Her name is Barbara Byrd Bennett. Why am I up here? Because she attempted to take home with her from the city of Cleveland after all the good work she has done over the past few years. I am proud to stand here on the floor of the House to celebrate the work that she has done, to look at the new schools in Cleveland, to know that as a result of her work we have got a new issue 14 that was passed, we will be building some 48 new schools in the city of Cleveland and renovating about 50.

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, the misconduct at Enron was apparent as this House met not this morning, but at the beginning of the year. Yet, as in previous years, the House Republican leadership avoided doing anything meaningful about it. Finally today, we have overcome their continued obstructionism to take up the Sarbanes-Oxley bill, the first genuine action to stop corporate wrongdoing. How tragic that so many investors and so many hard-working employees had to suffer while this leadership protected Kenny-boy and its other corporate pals. And even as we gather today to take our first action, this same crowd that would yield on one reform after another is now trying to misuse the Homeland Security bill to offer new ways to protect corporations who wrong people in our communities across the country, and even to go so far as to authorize government contracts to be issued to politically powerful corporations who abandon their American citizenship and leave our country. We must prevent this misconduct from happening.

not help a veteran, did not help defend our Nation. Just squandered on interest on our now $6 trillion debt.

On your watch, we have added $511 billion of new debt. You have been Speaker for 1300 days, yet you will not let us pay for one dollar of that.

simple laws of all and that will say that my generation will not burden my children’s generation and my grand-children’s generation with our debts, that we will spend no more money in this body than we collect in taxes that year, and an amendment that almost every State already has, so that they do not stick their kids and their grandkids with their bills.

Mr. Speaker, you have been Speaker for 1300 days and yet you cannot find time for that law to be voted on. I would ask on behalf of my children and my yet unborn grandchildren that you give this body an opportunity to vote on that.

CORPORATE ACCOUNTABILITY

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, we needed this. Over the months we have suffered, we have watched the marketplace go up and down, but, more importantly, I have watched my constituents living in the city of Houston and those around the Nation see their investments for retirement go down the drain.

And so I am proud to be able to join the gentleman from New York (Mr. LaFALCE) and the other body who presented one of the strongest corporate responsibility and accountability bills that this Nation will ever see. It will tell the poor guy on the street, it will tell the common thief who steals a loaf of bread and goes to jail for 5 or 10 years in America reigns not only on the streets, but in the corporate boardrooms, because we will have a board to oversee auditors and accounting features as it relates to their work for corporations; we will make sure that there is no grand profit on consulting fees and you are suppossed to be telling the corporation what they are doing wrong; and we will give shareholders, the moms and dads and grandparents who have lost their investment, the right to sue so that they can recover dollars that they have lost; and, yes, we will put in jail those who have done wrong.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good bill and I will join my colleagues today, pro-

CONFERENCE REPORT ON H.R. 3763, SARBANES-OXLEY ACT OF 2002

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to the previous order of the House of July 24, 2002, I call up the conference report on the bill (H.R. 3763) to protect investors by improving the accuracy and reliability of corporate disclosures made pursuant to the securities laws, and for other purposes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The SPEAKER pro tempore.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 5 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, I bring to the floor today a tough, sensible conference report that responds in a measured way to the very real crisis of confidence among America’s 85 million investors. I am proud of the result we have reached. We act with the assurance that Congress cannot be everything, yet remain acutely aware of the dangers of overreacting to a genuine problem and making matters worse.

Make no mistake, this is a difficult period for those who love and cherish the free enterprise system. Since early 2000, our capital markets, although still the most respected in the world, have unquestionably suffered a series of blows—mostly self-inflicted—which have truly damaged the public’s faith in the core of corporate America. The Committee on Financial Services, and this body, have not sat idly by, however. Indeed, in response to Enron, Global Crossing and other bankruptcies, my committee was the first out of the gate, holding a series of hearings and passing a good, targeted bill on the House floor in April with the support of 119 of my Democratic colleagues. Nearly 3 months would go by before the Senate passed companion legislation.

The Senate built on the House bill’s chief objectives, strong oversight of accountants, increased corporate responsibility, and improved information for investors.

The conference report before us today includes important provisions from both sides of the Capitol, but it also contains the following proposals offered only by the House: Disclosure of important company information to investors in real time, the inclusion of civil fines levied by the SEC in restitution funds for defrauded investors, tougher criminal penalties for a broad array of corporate crimes, and increased SEC supervision of the accounting oversight board. Though by no means a panacea, the conference report will help restore investor confidence in our markets. Investors can be assured that convicted corporate criminals will be sentenced to long jail terms. By reducing SEC supervision of the accounting oversight board. Though by no means a panacea, the conference report will help restore investor confidence in our markets. Investors can be assured that convicted corporate criminals will be sentenced to long jail terms. By reducing SEC supervision of the accounting oversight board.

We saw a little bit of that yesterday with the arrest of the Adelphia executives in New York. Investors will now get better information and will get it faster and they will have more faith in the numbers because the accountants will be more vigilant, as will audit committees.

This legislation, combined with the truly substantive and far-reaching reforms proposed by the industry’s selfregulatory organizations and the brutal and unforgiving market forces, will help restore investor faith in the system. A strong dose of character, honesty and ethics would not hurt, either.

For two decades in Congress, I have advocated a free market approach to regulation, but I also believe that capitalism can only flourish under the rule of law. Those views are not at odds. In fact, they are quite consistent. Government must be careful not to overreach and stifle the entrepreneurial spirit that has made the United States the most successful economic system of the world. At the same time, government has a responsibility to punish—and do so swiftly and severely—those who seek to cheat and steal from others.

I believe the conference report crafts a careful and appropriate balance of these two philosophies. I am proud of the bipartisan process that produced this legislation. Corporate accountability is an investor and retiree issue. It is not a partisan issue, and those who would attempt to make it so do a real disservice to all of us.

I urge all of my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to vote for this historic, pro-investor bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.
thought this was extremely important. No longer will the accounting industry be able to set the rules for itself without regard for the interests of shareholders.

Moreover, as in my original bill, auditors will no longer be permitted to perform consulting services that create conflict between their duties to shareholders and their self-interests. These measures, combined with the very important improvements in corporate governance, will strengthen audit committees and their oversight of both auditors and management. As a result, auditors will once again become the watchdogs for the shareholders, rather than the lap dogs of management.

The requirements in the bill that CEOs and CFOs certify the financial statements of their companies are again drawn from my original legislation and substitutes that I offered on the floor in motions to recommit. These new requirements will no longer be able to evoke responsibility for the numbers that their companies put out. This requirement, combined with the tough criminal penalties established by the bill, will help to ensure that executives are held responsible if they seek to mislead and defraud investors.

We should be clear, however, that this should not be the end of Congress’ work in restoring the integrity of our financial reporting system and our market infrastructure. The conflicts in corporate governance were significant contributors to the deterioration of our financial reporting system. But the conflicts created by stock options were another serious issue that we have yet to address. I regret that. So there is more that we can and should do to limit the conflicts faced by securities analysts, to strengthen corporate governance and to protect workers laid off by bankrupt companies along the lines of an amendment that the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. SHOWS) had hoped to propose.

I have said and believe that this bill is an enormous victory for workers and investors. But let me also say this: It is a victory for the thousands and thousands of honest accountants and honest corporate executives as well, the vast, vast preponderance of all accountants and all corporate executives. With the measures we put in place by this legislation, we have the opportunity to reclaim their reputations from those few who have brought shame on American business. It is my hope that this legislation will begin to restore the reputation of American business and financial markets as the best in the world.

General Leave

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 3763.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. BAKER), the chairman of the Subcommittee on Capital Markets, Insurance and Government Sponsored Enterprises, for his views on the bill that is before us.

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, this is indeed a very important moment in Congressional history, and I wish to express my appreciation to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. OXLEY), the ranking member, the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFALCE), and Chairman SARBANES and ranking member GRAMM in the Senate. They have done extraordinary work in bringing us to this point in time.

Much has been said about bringing those to justice who have violated their corporate responsibility. I can think of no more sweeping change in the current body of law than the conduct of analysts and the watchdogs. It offers more change, breadth of change and significance of change, than any Congressional action since the 1933 and 1934 Securities Acts themselves.

It is appropriate, I think, to recount how we got to this point. Last year the Subcommittee on Capital Markets, Insurance and Government Sponsored Enterprises, at the direction of the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman OXLEY) began its inquiry into the conduct of analysts and the watchdogs. It examined the conflict between their recommendations and what they seemed to know about company performance. From that early beginning until now, there has been revelation after revelation as to corporate wrongdoing.

Nothing perhaps made a more visual impact on American investors, shareholders, pensioners and employees than watching the news yesterday as corporate executives were handcuffed and hauled away. The people of America are not only expecting it, they are demanding it. How is it possible for a person to work all his life for a corporation, be given stock rather than salary increases, and, on the verge of retirement, be told that the stock is worthless, while the CEO of the corporation seeks to retire in a $15 million mansion in Florida where he is above and beyond the reach of the law? That is not acceptable. It is not acceptable to me, but I do not believe it is acceptable to this Congress. I hope it is not acceptable to the working people of this country.

This is an outrage. There is no more privileged position in America today than to be CEO, CFO or leading manager of a Fortune 500 company. Of those people we expect the highest level of ethical and moral conduct because of the extraordinary powers and opportunities which they are granted by this wonderful free enterprise system. Today, by bringing an end, I believe, to those abuses.

You must sign that statement, and if you sign it and it is not accurate, there are consequences. If you misrepresent the material facts of your corporation, if you lie about what is going on, there are criminal consequences for that misrepresentation. If you choose simply not to tell the truth, there are consequences for that misrepresentation. In fact, the bill before us today doubles the penalties for violations of those responsibilities.

But that is not enough. It is not enough to tell the truth. It is not enough that after we catch you we put you in prison for a while. We want to go after those ill-gotten gains, that profit you made by misrepresenting the material facts of your corporation while manipulating the books and profiting for your own best interests. We want to make sure those mansions, those benefits, those golden parachutes are collapsed, folded up neatly, put into a closet and sold off so that the shareholders back home can get their hands on their money. That is what has been lost in all of this.

A corporate executive takes capital from individual investors, hard-working investors saving for their first home, their child’s education or their retirement, and has a fiduciary responsibility to manage that money for their mutual good. What has happened, they have taken that money and put it in their pocket.

I do not know how we are going to ultimately get to all of the State bank regulators who allow these corporate mansions to be built, the extreme levels of financial worth, to allow a CEO to escape all of his liabilities and move into the home, live there 6 months, sell it and take the money and move to the south of France, but we are going to get there. This bill does not go quite that far, but over the next Congresses we are going to continue the work to make sure that no one who is defrauded by an irresponsible act of corporate abuse does not get full recompense for the wrong.

This is a great day, a great conference report. I salute the gentleman from Ohio (Chairman OXLEY) and Chairman SARBANES for their extraordinary work.

Mr. LAFALCE. Mr. Speaker, it is my pleasure to yield 2 1⁄4 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. KANJORSKI), the distinguished ranking member of the Subcommittee on Capital Markets, Insurance and Government Sponsored Enterprises, who coauthored the original bill that we introduced early this year that forms the gravamen of this bill.

Mr. KANJORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from New York for yielding the time.

Mr. Speaker, may I take the opportunity to say how pleased I am to be here in support of this conference report, because I, together with the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFAIRCE), opposed the bill originally passed in April by the House of Representatives for the simple reason that it was not sufficiently sound enough to meet the needs that were even evident in April, and have become far more evident now. But I dare say that as a result of the efforts of the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFalce) in crafting the alternative Democratic proposal in the House that does not have the opportunity to go forth to the conference. It did strengthen the Senate’s hands in the drafting of the Senate proposal, which ultimately is the basis for this conference report.

Mr. Speaker, we have not solved everything, by a long shot. We have much to do. But I believe that we have now put teeth into the accounting process. I, for one, am a person that supports the marketplace and non-government regulation, when possible. But if there is anything we have learned over the last 9 or 10 months, it is the absence of regulation has allowed the fox to take control of the hen house at the corporate level at some of the financial institutions, at the accounting level, which has been grievous. It has been done not only to these fine corporations, but to the investors in the corporations, to the employees of the corporations, and to all the pension funds and 401(k) fund investors across the country that took on the representation of investors in the corporations, and to all the pension funds and boards and all these people that things were done properly.

We have addressed accounting irregularities, executive abuse and corporate governance malfeasance, but we must come back and do more, and this is only the beginning. I heard the chairman of my subcommittee, the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. Baker), talk about something that I want to respond to. We have seen on television all these manias in Texas and Florida. I would say to the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. Baker), the answer is we do not have to do a special bill. We can take out the exemptions to the bankruptcy law so every State in the Union has the same basic principle, a $750 deduction, nothing else. There is no reason in Texas and in Florida you can have a $25 million mansion, go into bankruptcy, and keep your mansion.

Mr. Oxley. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. Sensenbrenner), the distinguished chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary. Mr. Sensenbrenner. Mr. Speaker, 9 days ago on this floor I stated we must crack down on the corporate criminals and rebuild America’s confidence in our markets. I said the best way to do that is to punish the corporate wrongdoers and to punish them harshly. I am pleased to say that the conference committee report before us today accomplishes that goal.

The House members of the conference committee insist on and prevailed on all of the tougher penalties that were contained in H.R. 511, the Corporate Fraud Accountability Act of 2002, which passed the House overwhelmingly by a vote of 391 to 28.

Under these penalty provisions, corporate criminals are going to do time; real time, real long time. The report increases the penalties for mail and wire fraud from the current 5 years to 20 years and creates a new securities fraud section that carries a maximum penalty of 30 years. It strengthens the laws that criminalize document shredding and other forms of obstruction of justice and provides a maximum penalty of 20 years for such violation. The legislation punishes top corporate executives for executive abuse of financial statements of the company knowing they are false by subjecting them to fines of up to $5 million and 20 years in prison, or both.

The provisions of the conference report also increase the penalty criminal penalties for those who file false statements with the SEC to a maximum penalty of $5 million and 20 years in prison, and, if a corporation files a false statement, then the fines increase up to a maximum of $25 million. Mr. Speaker, the report also contains House language that makes it a crime for someone to knowingly retaliate against a whistle blower and provides a criminal penalty of up to 10 years for such offense. I would also point out that the restitution laws for all criminal activity are in place for these crimes as well, so the court can order restitution for those shareholders and employees who have been defrauded.

By passing this conference committee report, America will know that those who abuse the law and tarnish corporate America’s reputation will go to jail for a very long time. These are tough penalties that will crack down on the corporate crooks and go a long way to protecting the life savings of many Americans by making the price of such theft too high.

I urge my colleagues to support this conference report.

Mr. LaFalce. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. Maloney).

Mrs. Maloney. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this conference report, the strongest reforms since FDR was President in corporate law. Our markets run on trust and this trust has been violated. This bill puts forward new tough standards based on old values to restore investor confidence.

The overwhelming majority of the accountants in the U.S. are hard-working, honest people, but the self-regulation of their industry has failed. This bill responds with the Sarbanes-LaFalce proposal for the strongest possible new independent accounting oversight board. It also adopts the Sarbanes-LaFalce plan to put an end to the inherent conflict of interest of allowing the same firm to provide both audit and consulting services for the same client.

Investors have lost faith in boards of directors and managers to look out for their interest. This legislation empowers independent members of boards to hire and fire auditors, prohibits trades during pension blackouts, requires CEOs and CFOs to certify the accuracy of their company’s financial statements, and if there are misrepresentations, they face criminal penalties.

More and more Americans depend on the markets for a secure retirement. Executives who take advantage of investors will now face serious jail time for securities fraud, up to 25 years.

I, for one, am a person that supports the marketplace and non-government regulation, when possible. But if there is anything we have learned over the last 9 or 10 months, it is the absence of regulation has allowed the fox to take control of the hen house at the corporate level at some of the financial institutions, at the accounting level, which has been grievous. It has been done not only to these fine corporations, but to the investors in the corporations, to the employees of the corporations, and to all the pension funds and 401(k) fund investors across the country that took on the representation of investors in the corporations, and to all the pension funds and boards and all these people that things were done properly.

We have addressed accounting irregularities, executive abuse and corporate governance malfeasance, but we must come back and do more, and this is only the beginning. I heard the chairman of my subcommittee, the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. Baker), talk about something that I want to respond to. We have seen on television all these manias in Texas and Florida. I would say to the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. Baker), the answer is we do not have to do a special bill. We can take out the exemptions to the bankruptcy law so every State in the Union has the same basic principle, a $750 deduction, nothing else. There is no reason in Texas and in Florida you can have a $25 million mansion, go into bankruptcy, and keep your mansion.

Mr. Oxley. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. Sensenbrenner), the distinguished chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. Sensenbrenner. Mr. Speaker, 9 days ago on this floor I stated we must crack down on the corporate criminals and rebuild America’s confidence in our markets. I said the best way to do that is to punish the corporate wrongdoers and to punish them harshly. I am pleased to say that the conference committee report before us today accomplishes that goal.

The House members of the conference committee insist on and prevailed on all of the tougher penalties that were contained in H.R. 511, the Corporate Fraud Accountability Act of 2002, which passed the House overwhelmingly by a vote of 391 to 28.
Several days ago, I described what was happening on this bill as a stampede, and I want to say that I am very surprised, and I am very surprised because we have two adults in this body, the two people who chaired this conference, my good friend from Ohio (Mr. OXLEY) and the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. SARBADES), who stood up to say, slow down, let us try to make sure that we have sound policy here, and the gentleman from Maryland was under real pressure to do nothing, but I have got to give him an awful lot of credit for his willingness to sit down and to fix what were glaring problems that many did not want to fix and wanted to pass in a rush to judgment. They both should be congratulated for their excellent work.

Mr. LAFALCE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. WATT).

Mr. WATT of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time.

Let me applaud the chair and ranking member of the House Committee on Financial Services for the job that they are doing in this process, and the bill that was a reasonable start, that has been significantly improved upon during the course of the conference, and one of the things that the bill does is ratchet up criminal penalties, but I want to take some time to say to my colleagues that I am not sure that just ratcheting up criminal penalties will do the job.

But there are some things in the conference report which require us and the SEC to take time to do additional studies and report back to the committees of jurisdiction about either regulatory action that is recommended or legislative action that is recommended, and one of those things is the SEC study of violations and violators and whether we have been aggressively going after the violators civilly and whether we have undermined the ability of individuals to bring claims in civil court to enforce their rights and protect their investors.

I do not want to overlook some of those studies that will be reporting back to us because I think this bill is really just the first step, and I applaud us for making that step.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH) a conferee and a member of the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. SMITH of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks, and include extraneous material.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend from Ohio for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, this conference report goes a long way in achieving two necessary goals. First, it helps us determine who those are who have abused the public trust, in general, and employees' trust and stockholders' trust, in particular.

Second, this conference report makes sure that an appropriate level of punishment is available.

In considering this conference report, though, we should remember that the proportion of corporate executives who are culpable is a very, very small fraction of the whole. The vast majority of executives are law-abiding who have contributed much to the prosperity of America.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I want to single out one business leader, Andy Grove, chairman of the board of Intel, for his constructive suggestions on how to increase corporate responsibility. Mr. Speaker, it is only fair to have been a part of the conference that produced this conference report. Mr. Speaker, I include in the RECORD two articles, one written by Andy Grove and one about him.

SOUTHEASTERN LAW & ECONOMICS ASSOCIATION (By Andrew S. Grove)

I grew up in Communist Hungary. Even though I graduated from high school with excellent grades, I had no chance of being admitted to college because I was labeled a class alien. The classification was the mere fact that my father had been a businessman. It’s hard to describe the feelings of an 18-year-old as he grasps the future and confronts the motherland at arm’s length. But never did I think that, nearly 50 years later and in a different country, I would feel some of the same emotions and face a similar stigma.

Over the past few weeks, in reaction to a series of corporate scandals, the pendulum of public feeling has swung from celebrating business leaders as the architects of economic growth to condemning them as a group of untrustworthy, venal individuals. I have been with Intel since its inception 34 years ago. During that time we have become the world’s largest chip manufacturer and have grown to employ 50,000 workers in the United States, whose average pay is around $70,000 a year. Thousands of our employees have bought houses and put their children through college using money from stock options. A thousand dollars invested in the company when it went public in 1971 would be worth about $1 million today, so we have made many investors rich as well.

I am proud that our company has achieved. I should also feel energized to deal with the challenges of today, since we are in one of the deepest technology recessions ever. Instead, I’m having a hard time keeping my mind on our business. I feel hunted, suspect—a “class alien” again.

I know I’m not alone in feeling this way. Other capable, hard-working and capable business leaders feel similarly demoralized by a political climate that has declared open season on corporate executives and has let the fallow fields of a few, taint the public perception of all. This just at a time when their combined energy and concentration are what’s needed to reinvent our economy. Moreover, I wonder if the reflexive reaction of focusing all energies on punishing executives will address the problems that have emerged over the past year.

Today’s situation reminds me of an equally serious attack on American business, one that required an equally serious response. In the 1980s American manufacturers in industries ranging from automobiles to semiconductors to copiers were threatened by a flood of high-quality Japanese goods produced at lower cost. Competing with these products would make our weak-ness in the quality of our own products. It was a serious threat. At first, American manufacturers responded by inspecting their products more rigorously, putting ever-increasing pressure on their quality assurance organizations. I know this firsthand because that’s what we did at Intel.

Eventually, however, we and other manufacturers realized that if the products were not fundamentally sound, even the most thorough inspection would turn them into high-quality goods. After much struggle—hand-wringing, finger-pointing, rationalizing and attempts at self-control—through a process—well, I don’t think this country should be thought of as a place where we’re not going to probe the entire supply chain from supplier to customer. This rebuilding from top to bottom led the resurgence of U.S. manufacturing.

Corporate misdeeds, like poor quality, are a result of a systemic problem, and a systemic problem requires a systemic solution. I believe the solutions that are needed all fit under the banner of “separation of powers.”

Let’s start with the position of chairman of the board of directors. This is the position that the board is to supervise and, if need be, replace the CEO. Yet, in most American corporations, the board chairman is the CEO. This poses a built-in conflict. Reform should start with separating those two functions. (At various times in Intel’s history we have separate boards of directors and a chair and CEO for the Intel Foundation. Furthermore, stock exchanges should require that boards of directors be predominantly made up of independent members having no financial relationship with the company.)

Separation of the offices of chairman and CEO, and a board with something like a two-thirds majority of independent directors, should be a condition for listing on stock exchanges.

In addition, auditors should provide only one service: auditing. Many auditing firms rely on auxiliary services to make money, but if the major stock exchanges made auditing “pure” firms a condition for listing, auditing would go from being a loss leader for these companies to a profitable undertaking. Would this drive the cost of auditing up? I don’t think so; the cost of reform. Taking the principle a step further, financial analysts should be independent of the investment banks that do business with corporations. A condition for that would be required and monitored by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The point is this: The chairman, board of directors, CEO, CPO, CFO, and analysts could each stop a debacle from developing. A systemic approach to ensuring the separation of powers would put them in a position where they would be free and motivated to take action.

I am not against prosecuting individuals responsible for financial chicanery and other bad behavior. In fact, this must be done. But tarring and feathering CEOs and CFOs as a class alien will not solve the underlying problem. Reforming accounting and the entire system of checks and balances of the institutions that make up and monitor the U.S. capital markets would serve us far better.

The ball is in Congress’ court. This conference report and the SEC study of violations and violators point the way to a systemic approach to ensuring the separation of powers and the basic premise that corporate misdeeds, like poor quality, are a result of a systemic problem, and a systemic problem requires a systemic solution.
security require additional resources. Attacking these problems requires a vital economy. Shouldn’t we take time to think through how we can address the very real problems of our corporations without demonizing and demoralizing the managers whose entrepreneurial energy is needed to drive our economy?

From The Wall Street Journal, July 22, 2002

THE BELTWAY BUBBLE

Since President Bush unleashed the political furies on the private sector with his speech on July 9, stocks on the Dow have fallen 92 points, including another 12 points in Monday’s trading on Friday. This can only mean that investors are demanding more regulation, more punitive laws and more anti-business rhetoric, right?

Believe it or not, that’s what some people with allegedly above-average IQs are writing. The truth is closer to the opposite, with investors now discounting not just for market risk but for a new and dangerous element of political and regulatory risk. With Congress in a stampede, and Mr. Bush abdicating veto oversight, the law of unintended consequences is in the saddle riding events.

Consider the fine print now contained in legislation by Joe Biden and Orrin Hatch that whooped through the Senate last week. Time magazine made Intel Chairman Andrew Grove its man of the year in 1997. But with his vast corporate experience, is now insisting on language that would likely drive Mr. Grove and independent chairman like him out of the business.

Here’s the problem: The Biden-Hatch bill would require that CEOs, chief financial officers and board chairmen all certify, under threat of jail, the accuracy of company financial statements. This makes sense for CEOs and CFOs, who are actively managing the business. And for companies that combine the CEO and chairman positions this is also logical.

But some companies prefer to divide the CEO and chairman posts, with the CEO running the business but the chairman playing the role of counselor or independent intermediary with the board of director. It’s one way of helping the board supervise the CEO, which is one of the main goals of the latest corporate “reforms.”

Yet the Biden legislation would all but end this division of responsibility. Very few non-CEO chairmen in their right mind are going to risk jail by certifying reports. This was one aspect of the bill that I participated in one aspect of the bill to disgorge so that these people who are committing fraud will not be able to realize the gains that they would have, to take money back into a disgorgement account.

We are also in this bill, curbing the practice of the insider loans. We are protecting whistleblowers. We are eliminating conflict of interest and setting up an independent board to oversee accounting firms.

This is a good start. We are going to see more of the scenes that we are seeing with Adelphia where corporate giants who have committed fraud are going to be taken out in handcuffs. We are going to have to do more as the days roll along. We are going to find that there are more crimes being committed. I am very appreciative of the Democrats in this House for providing the strong leadership that was necessary to force the adoption of this conference report and this legislation.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1½ minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. WATERS), a distinguished member of the conference committee.

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to have been a part of the conference committee, and we are finally legislating a corporate responsibility bill. It is long overdue, and if, in fact, as Mr. Grove (Mr. LAFAULCE), our ranking member, had had his way on the House side, we would have had a tougher bill and we would have had it a long time ago. Unfortunately, though, I am very appreciative for the work that the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. OXLEY) eventually did on this bill, if he had taken the leadership of our ranking member, we would have had this bill passed out of committee, and it would have been even tougher.

This bill will make corporate CEOs and others responsible. They will have to sign the financial statements, and they will have to take responsibility. I participated in one aspect of the bill for disgorgement so that these people who are committing fraud will not be able to realize the gains that they would have, to take money back into a disgorgement account.

Last week, Chairman Greenspan spoke before the Committee on Financial Services about how strong our economy is and talking about that our economy is strong even though our corporate system is frayed. This legislation contains the tools necessary to mend the bonds which have been abused by the people who have been motivated by greed and strengthened others, which ensure a strong and vibrant economy.

Chairman Greenspan also emphasized that the criminal penalties section in this legislation is the most important part of this legislation. With the Senate adoption of the House’s tougher penalties, we have ensured that the most important part of this legislation is the best possible.

I look forward to our passing this conference report today so it can be sent to the White House so the President can enact that. I strongly believe that the giving employees and investors the needed protections and confidence they require and they deserve.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BENTSEN), a distinguished member of the committee.

Mr. BENTSEN. Mr. Speaker, today we are here to approve the conference agreement for the corporate accountability legislation. With the Senate adoption of the House’s top priorities of tougher penalties, openness, so the investor can evaluate a company before they invest and money back to defrauded investors, this conference agreement stands as a product that both sides can be proud of.

This legislation punishes corporate crooks. It strengthens oversight of the accounting industry and gives investors with much faster access to critical information about the companies in which they invest. This legislation will shine a bright light into the shadows of America’s corporate board rooms so the public is not kept in the dark, and when they make an investment, that investment will be sound and based on truth and openness and honesty.

The corporate executives, the heads of these businesses, need to know they are being watched and they will be put in jail if they use their company to line their own pockets at the expense of our investors.

I applaud the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. OXLEY) and his excellent staff and Senator SARBANES and his fine staff. They need to be recognized for the conception of most of the provisions in this bill and the fortitude and the resolve to bring the legislation forward through this process in a very bipartisan and open manner.

With the Senate adoption of the House’s tougher penalties, we have ensured that the most important part of this legislation is the best possible.

I look forward to our passing this conference report today so it can be sent to the White House so the President can enact that. I strongly believe that the giving employees and investors the needed protections and confidence they require and they deserve.

Mr. LAFAULCE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BENTSEN), a distinguished member of the committee.

(Mr. BENTSEN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BENTSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this bill. I need to say to my colleagues I am actually surprised. I think this is a very good conference report. The recent declines in the U.S. equity markets are due in large part and have been exacerbated by the breakdown in corporate governance, and a lot of the shenanigans, quite frankly, that has been going on in corporate America, whether it is Enron, WorldCom, Adelphia, Xerox, you name it.

This bill is really quite substantive because of the work of the gentleman from New York whom I think we all owe a great debt of gratitude for on this bill that really starts to address this, that we have gone through with the substantive aspects, the oversight body, the limitations on consulting, the new disgorgement rules, criminal penalties, bans on egregious practices and corporate loans, all of those items, and there are many in this bill, and I am surprised at how well it has been put together.

I think what is also important about this legislation is that it sends a very clear message from the Congress, and I hope we will have a strong vote today in the House on this bill, because it is not just the substantive factors or the interpretive factors of this bill.

For too long Congress has sent a very mixed message to the regulators of what they are supposed to do. All of us know we can pass laws to do lots of things, but unless they are enforced, they are meaningless. This bill puts us on record of enforcing the laws with respect to public accounting, with respect to corporate governance; changing things that, quite frankly, a few years ago I would have been surprised. A few years ago, people were trying to get outsiders off of corporate boards. There are many in this bill, and I am surprised at how well it has been put together.

I think what is also important about this legislation is that it sends a very clear message from the Congress, and I hope we will have a strong vote today in the House on this bill, because it is not just the substantive factors or the interpretive factors of this bill.

I thank the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. BAKER) for finding the willingness to simply do what is needed to fix the problem in our accounting system and to restore investor confidence in corporate America.

I also thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFalce) and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Kanjorski) for their foresight and early leadership. We needed to restore the public confidence in the American economy, the American economic system, holds the free enterprise system, which is another important change that we need to make in our accounting system and to restore investor confidence in corporate America.

I also thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFalce) and the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. BAKER) for finding the willingness to simply do what is needed to fix the problem in our accounting system and to restore investor confidence in corporate America.

Mr. ROYCE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Oregon (Ms. HOOLEY).

Ms. HOOLEY of Oregon. Mr. Speaker, I would like to congratulate Chairman OXLEY and certainly the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. BAKER) for finding the willingness to simply do what is needed to fix the problem in our accounting system and to restore investor confidence in corporate America.

I also thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFalce) and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Kanjorski) for their foresight and early leadership. We needed to restore the public confidence in the American economy, the American economic system, holds the free enterprise system, which is another important change that we need to make in our accounting system and to restore investor confidence in corporate America.

I also thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFalce) and the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. BAKER) for finding the willingness to simply do what is needed to fix the problem in our accounting system and to restore investor confidence in corporate America.

I also thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFalce) and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Kanjorski) for their foresight and early leadership. We needed to restore the public confidence in the American economy, the American economic system, holds the free enterprise system, which is another important change that we need to make in our accounting system and to restore investor confidence in corporate America.

Mr. Speaker, over the last few months our economy has been damaged by the drip-drip-

Certainly there has been a lot of discussion, and I do not have to go over it again, about the crisis of confidence that there has been. That has been more than adequately stated. But the crisis of confidence in our economic system has been out there, and dealing with that legislation, what I am asking for—a giant step in the right direction to restoring that confidence in both our corporate leaders as well as our Congress and the free enterprise system, which we commend.

I want to thank Chairman OXLEY and certainly the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. BAKER) for making the point in the conference committee. As strongly as I supported the Sarbanes bill, they did add improvements to the bill, which deal with, but it is the FAIR fund to return the ill-gotten gains and the real time corporate disclosure provisions. And I thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. OXLEY) and the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. BAKER) for including them in this conference report.

However, I will say that it is not perfect. It is very good, but not perfect. I am disappointed, more than a little bit, in the fact that we did not deal with the accounting treatment of stock options. I was very disappointed in that, but I accept it as part of this agreement. And I also accept it because I am confident that Senator MCCAIN will be advancing another form of this legislation in the future, and I believe that we will then be able to have a proper and full discussion.

In conclusion, I would like to say that this is landmark legislation, a key element of Congress’ effort to eliminate corruption in corporate America. The bill tell corporate criminals that they are no longer above the law, and it holds those executives who have deceived the investors and harmed the American economic system, holds them accountable with tough new corporate criminal penalties. It also helps to close the loopholes that have allowed them to continue these offenses in the corporate community.

Mr. Speaker, once again, I certainly thank the chairman and the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. BAKER), as well as the ranking member, the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFalce), and our other Democrat colleagues for their bipartisan cooperative effort.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the H.R. 3763, Corporate and Auditing Accountability, Responsibility, and Transparency Act of 2002, and I want to commend the Speaker of the House for showing clear vision and strong leadership in bringing this legislation to the floor. I also want to commend the gentleman from New York, the Chairman of our Committee on Financial Services, for living up to his commitment to bring this important legislation back to the House before we begin our summer district work period. And I strongly commend Representative JOHN LAFalce for his leadership and cooperation in structuring the bipartisan support.
The most important thing that we have seen in recent years is the crisis of confidence. The economy needs us to act. In fact, the mere prospect of our actions today helped produce a steep rise in the stock market yesterday. We must continue to restore confidence in the Congress and in our free enterprise system. And today we are taking a giant step.

Last April, House passage of the Corporate and Auditing Accountability, Responsibility and Transparency Act was another critical step forward. This bill tells corporate criminals that they are no longer above the law. It holds those executives who have defrauded investors and harmed the economy accountable with tough new criminal penalties. It helps to close the loopholes that have allowed for continued offenses in America's corporate community.

Mr. Speaker, the American people expect us to act. The economy needs us to act. I urge my colleagues to live up to and now we are acting.

Support the Conference report.
I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. LAFALCE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. SANDERS), a member of the committee.

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. This legislation is an important and difficult step, but it should be clear that if we are serious about tackling corporate greed, much more needs to be done.

We have seen in recent years that the heads of the largest corporations in this country have lied about their financial statements, they have cheated on their taxes, moved their companies abroad, and they have thrown loyal American workers out on the street as they move companies to China. They have cut the pensions and health care benefits of their workers. Now is the time for us to address that overall question of corporate greed.

The most important thing that we can do is to pass real campaign finance reform, public funding of elections. So once and for all we end the scrouge of big money dominating the White House and the United States Congress, and once and for all we begin to represent all Americans rather than the rich and the powerful.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased now to yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE).

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, let me thank all those involved in putting this together.

For all those individuals out there who shudder when they see the stock market reports, or like me, do not open any envelopes that contain any information about their own assets at this point, let them pile up in a corner; this bill is for you. It takes a lot of strong and positive steps, as have been outlined here in terms of dealing with the corporate responsibility and the corporate governance issues we needed to address.

I believe we have seen the clouds, I believe we have seen the rain in the form of Enron, WorldCom, and a few others. Now we are seeing the clearing somewhere out there, as we search to get brighter. And, hopefully, it will get even brighter yet. This piece of legislation may be a first step, but it is a very large first step we have taken.

Mr. Speaker, the American people expect us to act. The economy needs us to act. I urge my colleagues to live up to and now we are acting.

Support the Conference report.
I yield back the balance of my time.
Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire as to how much time remains on both sides.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Ohio (Mr. OXLEY) has 11 minutes remaining, and the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFalce) has 14 minutes remaining.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. Cox), a member of the conference committee.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for his extraordinary good work.

Fraud and unfair dealing are the enemies of the free enterprise system. And as we can see from the turmoil in our markets, our country is paying a very high price because of the corporate fiduciaries who have broken faith with their employees and their investors.

We have tough laws on the books to deal with a number of crime, including corporate crime; but just as bacteria mutate to avoid the latest antibiotics, those who cook the books are constantly changing their recipes, and we have to keep our laws and our remedies up to date.

Enron, Global Crossing, WorldCom, and the other cases that we have seen have all centered around accounting frauds. Abuses of accounting rules were central to each of these cases. Using the regulatory thicket of detailed accounting rules, the malefactors in these cases intentionally structured sham transactions to disguise their true financial condition. That is why the central reform in this legislation is the creation of an accounting oversight board to see to it that accounting standards once again make financial reports truthful, honest, and clear.

As we raise the legal standard here today, we should bear in mind our obligations to do still more to raise ethical standards so that the best and brightest will continue to want to join the accounting profession; so that our most experienced citizens, possessed of good judgment, are willing to undertake the significant oversight responsibilities on corporate boards of directors; and so that entrepreneurs will still take the risks and dream boldly without fear of being second-guessed if the race is not won.

This is an important step we are taking, Mr. Speaker. I am very happy to join in support of this conference report.

Mr. LAFalce. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES), a member of the committee.

(Mrs. JONES of Ohio asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. JONES of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I know that this committee is very short of time, and so will give my time back to the ranking member; but I want to say it is a shame that we were here in April doing legislation like this and ended up having to come back when we really realized that we needed to hold CEOs accountable.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 3763, the Conference Report on Corporate Responsibility and I seek permission to revise and extend my remarks.

The events of the past months have underscored the importance of transparency in corporate governance. While many believed that Enron was an isolated occurrence, the failures of Tyco, Global Crossing, and WorldCom have eroded confidence in the markets, both here and overseas.

Investment in the stock market is important to our economy and as a wealth-creating tool for people of all income levels. Although the majority of companies are operated honestly, investors will not trust the market if they believe that their money is not safe. If investors don't invest—the economy will stagnate which hurts people at every level of our society. Recent drops in value of stock markets both here and around the world reflect uncertainty and a current lack of investor confidence.

It is our responsibility to hold accountable those companies, officers, and auditors that act dishonestly and erode investor confidence. I support this bill and I commend the conferees because they have crafted a strong piece of legislation. This bill would remove conflicts of interest and strengthen corporate accountability by a strong and independent board to oversee the accounting profession; by requiring separation of the auditing and accounting functions of firms; by reforming the independence of stock analysts and decreasing the influence of investment banking firms over analysts; by authorizing $776 million to the Securities and Exchange Commission to enable them to achieve higher staffing levels to enforce the law.

Although these reforms are needed, there are other, holistic changes that need to take place as well.

Over the past decade, CEO tenure has dropped while salaries have risen dramatically. This has created a climate in which some dishonest CEOs may be tempted to "take the money and run." This costs a pall on the majority of executives who operate honestly.

When CEO's and others are compensated with stock options, the options are not shown as a business expense on a company's balance sheet. This distorts the cost of these options to shareholders, who are not provided a clear picture of a company's financial position. It may also provide an incentive to "cook the books" to achieve quick gains in stock price for executives' personal benefit. This malfeasance has a clear effect on workers who lose their jobs and investors who lose their money.

I support the Democratic proposal to allow stockholders to determine whether management is compensated with stock options. This change in corporate governance would ultimately reward companies that operate cleanly by restoring investor confidence in companies with transparent operations.

Mr. Speaker, this week Congress has accomplished a great deal to help workers, investors, and the stability of markets the world over. We will continue to build our economy over the weeks and months to come.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. TOOMEY).

Mr. TOOMEY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, the outright fraud of the recent accounting scandals constitutes theft that is appalling in nature and staggering in size. Millions of Americans who played by the rules, made sacrifices so that they could save and invest, saw those investments devastated when they were lied to by senior executives who cooked the books for their own personal gains.

Fact is, we have been robbed; and the outrage is justified. But, today, Congress will pass tough legislation to begin to restore confidence, to start to provide new protections for small investors, workers and pension holders.

Mr. Speaker, as you know, we passed a strong bill in this House last April. I am very happy that we finally got a product from the other body in July and we were able very quickly to reach a consensus and pass this tough historic legislation that will just take us closer to that vital goal that we are trying to accomplish, which is greater transparency and truthfulness in financial reporting.

I would just want to remind my colleagues that despite the calamities that we have recently seen, our free enterprise system is still the greatest wealth-producing, poverty-destroying, opportunity-creating system in the history of the world. And with these reforms our system will start to recover the confidence that it deserves from investors in America and all around the world.

Mr. Speaker, I want to congratulate the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. OXLEY), the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFalce), and the other members of the conference committee for getting this job done quickly.

Mr. LAFalce. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Indiana (Ms. CARSON), a member of the Committee on Financial Services.

(Ms. CARSON of Indiana asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. CARSON of Indiana. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I want to applaud the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFalce), the ranking member, for staying the course and insisting that we protect America and American investors, and also to Senator SARBANES.

I rise in support of H.R. 3763 for many reasons. I realize that regardless of what we call it, there was passed by this Congress in 1994 a bill called Private Securities Litigation Reform Act which opened up the floodgates for corporate greed. I appreciate the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFalce) and the other members of the committee for getting more money to SEC so they have more resources to oversee these all public companies, over 17,000 plus.
Mr. Speaker, I rise to voice my support for the conference report on H.R. 3763, however today we are being asked to vote on the minimum that Congress should do and not the best.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, within the past year, from May of 2001 to May of 2002, the unemployment rate in my home district of Indianapolis, IN rose from just under 3% to 4.5%. Now, there are more than 39,000 people unemployed in the city of Indianapolis alone.

This high rate of unemployment is severely straining my state’s health care plan. According to the Indianapolis Star, enrollment in Indiana’s Medicaid program will reach its highest level ever to cover nearly 800,000 residents, which is 56,000 more than are currently covered now. This increase in program participants has caused a $660 million difference between the budget and actual Medicare costs and is playing a major role Indiana’s budget crisis. This is a problem that more than 40 states have to deal with in this current economic crisis.

Mr. Speaker, even though we have all of these impressive statistics, they really have very little meaning to the average American worker. What means something to them is when they see their retirement benefits and life savings going down the drain because some large corporation has misled their investors.

Mr. Speaker, the corporate crisis has hit home in Indiana as well. Indiana has its own Enron in AES Corporation, the global power company and new owner of Indianapolis Power and Light. Like Enron, IPALCO management sold stock while employees were encouraged to keep investing in the company plan. After AES took control the value of employee stock fell from $180,000 to around $18,000.

Now, as the Indianapolis Star reported last week, people like Joe Nelson, a coal-handling supervisor at IPALCO, who had saved almost $400,000 after 31 years of work can no longer retire. Joe has been forced to open up a lawn mowing business just to help pay for the bills. Joe and his family are not alone. Mr. Speaker, many Americans are being forced to postpone their retirement. In a recent Gallup poll 20% of those surveyed said they expect to delay their retirement by an average of 4.4 years because of the recent economic crisis.

We are constantly told that the stock drops are rollercoasters, binges and economic hangovers that will disappear. However, it is the retirement dreams of hard working hoosiers and the pension fund of state governments that we see vanishing with little chance of reappearing.

The conference bill before us today provides the absolute minimum protections to protect investors and restore market confidence.

Still, this measure could be stronger and certainly disgorging the ill-gotten gains of these criminals and redistributing profits to the victims must be the next step.

We hear frequently that there is little that Congress can do and limit our interference. However, Congress passage of The Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 got us to where we are today. It repealed the civil RICO, thereby preventing defrauded investors from obtaining triple damages when they bring securities fraud claims.

Mr. Speaker, if we are to restore market confidence, and investors and workers are to be made whole, Congress must pass a strong bill that sets penalties, protects whistleblowers, sends wrongdoers to jail, and ensures transparency.

Assets required through fraud and betrayal of confidence should not be allowed to stand when countless Americans close to retirement must now rethink how they will downgrade their retired lives.

Mr. Speaker, indeed, if crime does not pay. Congress must act. We cannot, and must not, remain confused and weak in our response to this crime wave.

We are a free market and American business interests but American business must begin to conduct itself like it is interested in Americans.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. FERGUSON).

Mr. FERGUSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this conference report. We have heard a lot of partisan posturing in the last several weeks about this issue and trying to use this issue for partisan gain. This issue is not about partisan politics, this is about people, hard-working Americans who play by the rules, working toward their own retirement and economic security.

Today we can finally put the partisan bickering aside and pass real reforms that are going to save and protect the retirement security of millions of families in America. This is not a win for either side on the political aisle, this is a win for employees and investors and our free market system that is based on the concept of trust.

Both the bill we passed in April and the bill that the Senate passed more recently had good provisions, and this bill before us today, the conference report, combines the strongest features of both bills. It incorporates strong accounting oversight and bans firms from offering services that create conflicts of interest. It establishes tough criminal penalties because corporate criminals should not be allowed to keep the money at the expense of hard-working Americans who wind up suffering. No more mansions, no more yachts, no more private jets or guaranteed easy retirement packages for corporate executives who betray the public trust.

By passing this legislation, we send a clear message to the corporate CEOs and to the accounting firms who monitor their companies, let me be very clear: If you violate the public trust, if you flush down the retirement security of millions of Americans, you will and you deserve to go to jail.

Mr. LAFAULCE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY).

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this conference report as it represents real reforms to protect investors, and will lead to the first steps to restore investor confidence in our markets.

In addition to strengthening the role of the audit committees, prohibiting executives from trading the stocks when employees cannot, and including strong language with respect to disgorgement, this bill also cracks down on the formerly unaccountable accountants. As every American with a 401(k) knows, working Americans saw millions of dollars lost almost daily, leading to a complete breakdown in the system of outside auditing of publicly traded firms.

This bill prohibits these practices and I salute the ranking member, the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFAULCE) for championing these reforms from day one, even when Democrats were being voted down on party line votes in the committee to pass these types of reforms. This bill strengthens audit committees, punishes auditors who dishonored their profession, and, most importantly, will ensure the independent auditors of America’s publicly traded corporations are actually independent.

I think that this landmark legislation serves as a great tribute to our departing colleague, the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFAULCE) and all American investors owe a deep debt of gratitude to the gentleman. This is a good bill, and I salute the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. OXLEY), Senator SARBANS, and especially the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFAULCE) for their hard work.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from New Mexico (Mrs. WILSON).

Mrs. WILSON of New Mexico. Mr. Speaker, we have had some greedy people who cooked the books, aided by accountants who dishonored their profession. That is fraud, and they should go to jail for it. Now we are going to tighten down some of the rules of the system to make sure that this cannot happen again, and to restore confidence in the American system of free enterprise.

I support American free enterprise, and because I support free enterprise, we need to crack down on people who would break the law and steal people’s retirement security and the amount of money they are saving for their kids’ education.

It is a good step forward, and I commend the committee for their hard work and for sending a clear message to the American people. We are a country of free enterprise, and we will not tolerate people who break the law.

Mr. LAFAULCE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York (Mr. ISRAEL), a member of the Committee on Financial Services.

Mr. ISRAEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support this conference report, but with a word of caution. This bill offers new rules and regulations. The fact is that we had rules, and they were ignored. We had laws and they were broken. We had regulations and they were worthless. We had laws on the books, and the books were cooked.
Mr. Speaker, of all the new rules and regulations that have come to light, in-"consistent thinking has come to light, and the Arthur Andersen firm, has brought them to justice. The Arthur Andersen firm, has brought to justice others to bring this bill to a conference with the Senate that was much derided, especially by those on the other side of the aisle. But I am here to support this conference report and bring up a couple of points that are very much included in the bill that was not have been included but for the decision of the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. OXLEY) and others to bring this bill to a conference.

The most important is that many people lose time money when these cor-porate criminals steal money. Those people are the investors, the employees of those companies. The Senate bill did not include any provision for those people to recover their money. That was placed in the bill in conference placed in by the Republican House. This is one of the most important issues to those who have invested in 401(k)s for their retirement, and those saving money for their children’s education. Those people will be able to re-cover monies as a result of a decision by the House to go to conference as a result of this fine conference report that we will vote on today.

Mr. Speaker, the adoption of real-time disclosure will help make better decisions, and as a result of this conference report, we will have much better enforcement.

Mr. LAFALCE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York (Mr. DOGGETT), a former member of the Committee on Financial Ser-vices.

Mr. PRICE of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the conference report on the Corporate Ac-counting Reform bill. I particularly want to commend the ranking member, the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFALCE), for his steadfast leadership. I also want to congratulate our House Republican colleagues who, after opposing the House counterpart of the Senate bill, offered by Democrats, have finally read the economic tea leaves and capitulated to the Senate on the bill’s major provisions.

We now have a bill that creates a strong accounting oversight board, re-stricts the nonaudit services that ac-counting firms can provide to audit cli-ents, implements tough new corporate responsibility standards, requires pub-lic companies to disclose financial in-formation quickly and accurately, pro-hibits stock analysts’ conflicts of in-terest, and authorizes the SEC to en-hance its investigative and enforce-ment capabilities.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill. Mr. LAFAULCE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. BONIOR), the distinguished former minority leader.

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, if Americans work hard, they deserve a good wage. If they get sick, they deserve health care. If they put a lifetime of service into a com-pany or government, they deserve a pension that nobody can take away.

Over the last several months, we have witnessed despicable acts of cor-porate irresponsibility by some of our nation’s largest corporations. Workers and investors in Enron and DCT and WorldCom and others, they have seen their life investments, their life sav-ings, disappear, their pensions wiped out, their health care benefits stolen, their lives destroyed in many in-stances.

Those at the top have refused to take responsibility while everybody else has taken the fall.

We are here today to send a message loud and clear that if somebody breaks the security laws, if they rob hard-working people of their pensions, they will go to jail just like they would if they would rob a bank. We are standing here today and we are standing for the rights of working people to know that their wages and their pensions and their benefits are secure.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good effort and a good work by the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFALCE) and Mr. SARBANES and others in this body. I commend it to my colleagues, and I urge them to vote yes on this conference re-port.

Mr. LAFALCE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. HINCHLEY). and increased the incentives to commit the kind of corporate fraud that has robbed millions of Americans of their pensions and financial security.

This bill corrects some of those, let me call them, mistakes. But it does not do all that needs to be done. It does not deal with the issue of corrupt manipulation of stock options. It does not deal with the problem of fraudulent IPOs. Yes, this bill is a good bill as far as it goes. It is certainly better than that cream puff legislation that was out here last April or the fraudulent piece of legislation that was out then.

This has been a year when the faith of ordinary Americans has been badly shaken. The restatements of corporate earnings have been followed by accusations of corporate wrongdoing at some of the country's largest and most respected corporations, including Global Crossing, Bristol Myers Squibb, Tyco International, and Worldcom Inc. The billions of dollars in losses in shareholder equity are mounting every day.

The string of recent corporate disclosures undermines investor confidence, scares off foreign investment, and slows down an already shaky recovery. To me, it is not enough to talk about accountability, you have to act to ensure it. Innocent investors have been betrayed by the abuses of creative accounting practices or more appropriately--non-disclosure. I am appalled at what has happened to them as a result of this tragic event.

In today's economy, there is an emerging crisis of a lack of universal confidence in our system of financial markets and the policies and regulations that govern these markets. We must enact legislation more than the system of overseeing our capital markets. We have an opportunity and obligation to repair the trust of investors. It is tempting to brush aside business ethics as a nebulous, well-intentioned subject suitable for business schools and debates in the real world. That is a big mistake. A 2000 survey by the Ethics Resource Center found that 43 percent of respondents believe their supervisors don't set good examples of integrity. The same percentage felt pressured to compromise their organization's ethics on the job. That's a startling number, two years before Enron imploded.

A crucial feature of corporate ethics is the understanding of the business organization as a moral actor. Moral actors means that the corporation can be held responsible and accountable from an ethical perspective. It is important to recall that the insistence on corporate ethics does not diminish the importance of the ethics of individuals and institutions. Corporate ethics fills a gap and recognizes the crucial roles which business organizations play in modern societies. When moral actors are held responsible for what they can do the usual games of finger-pointing and blaming each other can be reduced. It has become common practice for corporations to separate the ethical value judgments made by their officers and employees. However, one corporate C.E.O. has argued that this is simply an empty gesture since, "those corporations with a sound moral base do not need it. The others it is just a fig leaf." This is supported by the fact that the introduction of corporate codes did not prevent the recent white collar scandals.

There is a tendency in many corporate ethics codes not to make the same clear cut demands of its directors as are made of its employees. Consequently, it is difficult for employees to refrain from full disclosure when managerial pressure is constantly brought upon them to make a sale at any price. Moreover, corporate ethics codes which promote whistle blowing, must in all fairness provide protection (financial, moral and job security) for the whistle blower. No corporate ethical code can operate when management policy seeks to find legal loopholes in the requirements of the fiscal or regulatory authorities. Just as the codes require individual corporate ethics, there must be a corporate management understanding that to be law abiding is not enough.

I believe this is the time for immediate action by Congress as thousands of employees and families are counting on congressional leadership to rise up against corporate failures. Congress has a chance to work together and do a disservice to the working class citizens of this country to provide legislation that (1) ensures plan protection of retirement accounts, by requiring plan diversification; (2) provides employees with investment advice about plan assets; and (3) expands and imposes both civil and criminal liability for pension plan fiduciaries and administrators. I think that Congress has failed to enact the reforms needed to curb these corporate accounting scandals.

The Enron debacle stands as a corporate wrong. The Enron fiasco has established beyond a shadow of doubt that white collar fraud can be incredibly damaging and costs innocent Americans billions of dollars of their hard earned money. Enron employees worked hard to build Enron into one of America's largest and most profitable corporations, and they should not be punished for what their corporate managers did.

Employees are fearful of losing their jobs. Investors are worried whether they should continue to hold stocks in these failing corporations and the stock market. Retirees are concerned about the safety of their pensions. All these circumstances undermine confidence in our financial markets and have the potential to derail our economic recovery. Because of all the corporate scandals that we have seen, thousands of workers have been hurt, and millions of investors and retirees have seen their 401(k)s gutted. I have introduced a bill that protects workers, protects shareholders, and protects pensions, H.R. 5110, the Omnibus Corporate Reform and Restoration Act of 2002.

H.R. 5110 prioritizes employees by allowing them to make claims on their corporation, after the corporation has filed for bankruptcy protection, for wages or severance of up to $15,000. This is important because workers have worked hard to build profitable corporations, and should not be penalized by the fraudulent behavior of their corporate managers.

Moreover, H.R. 5110 provides oversight of Board of Directors. Directors, and employees, to company officers and directors, and creates criminal penalties for destroying or altering documents. In addition, the bill effectively prevents plan administrators from engaging in unlawful and unethical practices, and ensures that plan participants who are allowed to diversify their interest are adequately represented on pension boards and receive adequate independent investment advice. In addition, H.R. 5110 punished those who destroy or manipulate evidence of fraud. H.R. 5110 provides prosecutors with better tools to effectively pursue corporate wrongdoers, to protect the savings of investors and provides for tough criminal penalties to make them think twice before defrauding the public.
H.R. 5110 toughens criminal penalties for altering or destroying documents. It also prohibits loans to officers and directors, which are authorized by the Board of Directors. It establishes a 20 percent Limitation on Employer Stock and Real Property held by Participant in Certain Individual Account Plans. In addition, H.R. 5110 allows for plan participants to “opt out” of the 20 percent limitation provided that they give signed and written notice of such waiver. H.R. 5110 improves Accounting Standards for Special Purpose Entities [SPE]. It compels the SEC to direct the Financial Accounting Standards Board to revise applicable SPE accounting language, by increasing the 3 percent rule. The 3 percent rule currently calls for an owner independent of the would-be-parent to make a substantive equity investment of at least 3 percent of the SPE’s total capital.

The Senate has passed S. 2673, Public Company Accounting Reform and Investor Protection Act of 2002 sponsored by Senator Paul SARBANES. This makes key improvements over our current system. It creates a strong independent audit oversight board to audit the auditors. It restricts the non-audit services that an accounting firm can provide to public companies it audits. What this means is that auditors will not have conflicts of interest which would interfere with their auditing. In addition, it says that CEOs and CFOs must certify the accuracy of financial statements and disclosures. Also, S. 2673 requires CEOs and CFOs to relinquish bonuses and other incentive-based compensation and profit on stock sales as a means of an accounting restatement resulting from fraud. And most importantly, it authorizes funding for the SEC to $776 million, as compared to the $469 million in President Bush’s budget request for the SEC.

It appears that the Republicans are trying to slow down the progress of the Sarbanes bill, by bringing a bill that would impose tougher criminal penalties on fraudulent corporate executives. They have passed H.R. 5118, Corporate Fraud Accountability Act of 2002. Most troubling about H.R. 5118 is the lack of whistleblower protection and the extension of the statute of limitations to ten years after the event of an accounting restatement. S. 2673 extends whistleblower protections to corporate employees, thereby protecting them from retaliation in cases of fraud and other acts of corporate misconduct. Whistleblowers in the private sector, like Sharron Watkins, should be afforded the same protections as government whistleblowers. The Republican bill omits this provision.

Consequently, S. 2673 amends the unnecessarily restrictive statute of limitations governing private securities claims. Under current law, defrauded investors have only one year from the date on which the alleged violation was discovered or three years after the date on which the alleged violation occurred. Because these type of violations are often successiedly concealed for several years, the Senate increased the time period to 2 years after the date on which the alleged violation was discovered or 5 years after the date on which the alleged violation was discovered or 5 years after the date on which the alleged violation was discovered or 5 years after the date on which the alleged violation was discovered. This provision would have helped investors, but the Republican bill lacks this provision.

Alan Greenspan, the Federal Reserve chairman, pointed out, in his testimony to the Senate Banking Committee on July 17th, that a corporate culture blighted by infectious greed was the cause of the breakdown in confidence among investors. Chairman Greenspan, who has been an advocate of deregulation and reliance on market forces to police good business practices, acknowledged that he had been mistaken in initially opposing government intervention. My view was always that accountants knew or had to know that the market value of their companies rested on the integrity of their operations” and that government regulation of accounting was therefore “unnecessary and indeed most inappropriate, but I was wrong.”

If the Chairman of the Federal Reserve says that his opinion was wrong concerning oversight of auditors, then change is needed. We must restore confidence in our financial markets by establishing sound guidelines for corporate governance and auditing that investors can trust and feel confident with their investments. I ask my colleagues to support H.R. 2763, the corporate accountability report which includes many of the provisions of my Omnibus Corporate Responsibility Act, H.R. 5110, and is now much stronger with whistleblower protection and criminal penalties for document destruction and bad decisions by corporate executives.

Mr. LAFAULCE, Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

This has been a long journey. I remember when we assumed jurisdiction for the first time in the House Committee on Financial Services over the field of securities. That was January of 2001. And one of the very first things I did was to begin meeting with representatives from the SEC, the Securities and Exchange Commission; and most especially with the acting chairman at the time, Laura Unger, former staff assistant to Senator D’Amato; and also with the chief accountant at the time, Mr. Lynn Turner. And from Mr. Watkins, Mr. Unger, I learned how grossly understaffed the SEC was. I learned from her how much more money they believed they needed than they were able to get out of OMB. I learned how limited their staff resources were in comparison with the enormous increase in their work load and I brought this to the attention of the House Committee on Financial Services during hearings and during markups. We really should have increased the authorization for the SEC much, much earlier.

From Mr. TURNER I learned about the enormous number of earnings restatements that the SEC was mandating. As a matter of fact, they were tripling in 6 months what they had done the prior entire year. And I learned about the earnings manipulation that was taking place in corporate America, the earnings manipulation that was being done by corporate officers, acquiesced in either knowingly, or unknowingly in a great many instances—probably in most—by corporate directors, and acquiesced in, either knowingly or unknowingly, but complicity by auditors, oftentimes with a conflict of interest.

I learned, too, about the enormous conflicts of interest that research analysts had. That alarmed me so much so that I sent a newsletter out to each and every one of my constituents in early 2001 called “Protecting Your Investments” where I talked about earnings manipulation, where I talked about the desire of corporate officers, directors, et cetera to increase market capitalization because their compensation was based, in large part, on stock options and how we needed to do something about that.

I talked in that newsletter about the conflicts of interest that research analysts have because they have become hypesters, spinsters in order to obtain investment banking business for their securities firms.

And I was disappointed when the only bill we took up was a bill that would reduce the SEC fees. We did have one good provision in that bill, and that was pay parity, but I thought we needed to give attention in 2001 to all of those issues. I was also disappointed when President Bush, at the end of 2001, did sign that bill and could not bring himself to even mention pay parity and the need for pay parity. All he talked about was how wonderful it is to cut the fees that individuals have to pay before the SEC.

I was disappointed when, even after Enron, which was at the very end of 2001, when this should have been a matter that everybody was concerned about. Wanting to do something, the President barely mentioned the problems in corporate America and could not bring himself to mention the problems of Enron. I was further disappointed because I was writing the President letter after letter that his budget in February of 2002 called for a minuscule increase of 6 percent, which was not enough to do anything. We needed so much more, as Chairman OXLEY knows, because in 2002, we did pass a bill significantly increasing the authorization, although not the appropriations, for the SEC.

It has been a long journey. There have been good and bad ideas from both Democrats and Republicans. I introduced the best bill that my staff and I could think of early in 2002. I wish it had passed earlier. It did not. I think an awful lot of its best ideas are in this conference report, as are an awful lot of the best ideas of the gentleman from Ohio and others, and I think we can stand proud today on this product. I just wish we would have acted upon it earlier. There are lessons to be learned from this for the future. This could fade from memory.
Mr. Speaker, how much time do I have left?

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Sweeney). The gentleman’s time has expired.

Mr. LaFalce. Let us vote for the bill. And we know what those lessons are. Let us heed them in the future.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for 1 more minute.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. LaFalce. We would not be here today without the tremendous work of staff. Staff really does it all. We put our names on legislation, but staff really does the work. I have had a great staff. My staff director, Jeanne Roslanowick, who is also my general counsel, is magnificent. I have had so many individuals I cannot mention them all, but Lawranne Stewart and Michael Paese of my staff have devoted almost all their time from the day they came with me in drafting this legislation. They gave it to the Senate, they worked with the Senate staff basically, and Senator SARBANES and his staff basically took their work product, and they should be recognized. If there are any names on this bill, it should be the names of the staffers who really drafted it.

Mr. Oxley. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Ohio is recognized for 3½ minutes.

Mr. Oxley. Mr. Speaker, we indeed, I would say to my friend from New York, have come a long way. This has been quite a journey. The gentleman from New York pointed out that we had first gotten that jurisdiction in the new Committee on Financial Services last January, and what a ride it has been. It is a matter of very important issues, but nothing is more important really than restoring investor confidence in our system, and that is really what brings us here today in this legislation.

Our committee was the first to have a hearing when Enron became an issue. That was last year, December. We were the first committee to have a hearing on the WorldCom bankruptcy. We then passed meaningful legislation, known as the ox in April when nobody thought we could do it, passed it out of the committee on a bipartisan vote, came to the floor, it passed by a 3-to-1 margin with 119 Democrats voting for that legislation, and the heart and soul of what we have today was embodied in the CARTA legislation.

There is a lot of misinformation out there that is not the case. Believe me, the idea of having an oversight board, an independent oversight board, tightening the rules through the SEC, providing more transparency all were embodied in the CARTA legislation and that is why it enjoyed such wide bipartisan support.

And then 3 months later, the Senate acted when the WorldCom situation blew up, and I give them a great deal of credit. That is what brings us here today, to adopt this conference report. We have made enormous progress. The SEC is strengthened substantially. The gentleman from New York mentioned the analyst issue. Chairman BAKER, at my direction last year, started hearings on analyst conflicts and it brought us to a press conference in February in which we announced that the SEC and the SROs were getting together and drafting regulations. Those regulations have been in effect for 2 weeks. Nobody knows about it because everybody is paying attention to what is going on here in the Congress, but those are very important rules that are going to be very effective in dealing with analysts and their conflicts. The New York Stock Exchange, the NASDAQ, announced listing requirements previously ignored in the media but really have teeth in terms of corporate governance. They are saying to these folks, “If you don’t get your act together, you’re not going to be listed on the NASDAQ or the New York Stock Exchange.”

The Business Roundtable stepped forward with best practices.

So we are here today to celebrate, I think, a very strong bipartisan bill. This is how the process works. We had great consultation and work with the Senate. I want to pay tribute to my good friend from New York, the ranking member of our committee, who I worked with on a number of issues, and also in particular Senator SARBANES, the chairman of the Banking Committee. I cannot think of anybody that I have worked with in my 21 years in the Congress who has been more open to ideas and suggestions and has been more professional in the way he has handled himself on this important legislation and he deserves a great deal of credit for getting us where we are today.

Sometimes in the world of Washington politics it is all about who is up, who is down, who has won, who has lost. The bottom line here is the American people have won. We have restored or are beginning to restore investor confidence with what we have done, as well as what happened in the private sector and among the regulators.

Yes, we provided for SEC, and yes, even with the increased authorization, I would say to my friend from New York, the SEC will still be getting twice the amount of fees that it will take to run the organization.

This is based upon my personal experience I think for all of us, and I would encourage and urge all of the Members to support this very strong conference report. Let us get this bill to the President for his signature, hopefully as early as possible.

I think all of us can take a great deal of pride in what we have been able to accomplish today.

Mrs. Mink of Hawaii. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3673, the Accounting Industry Reform Act. It represents an important step to restoring the integrity of our corporate system. I commend the conference for producing a strong and effective piece of legislation.

At Enron, Adelphi, and WorldCom, executives and auditors cooked the books in order to fatten their bank accounts while placing the interests of their companies, their employees, and their shareholders at risk. The public has responded to these accounting lapses with understandable outrage. They have put their savings. Even more lost their retirement accounts. Thousands are without work, and companies are facing bankruptcy.

H.R. 3673 imposes tough criminal penalties for corporate wrongdoing. Many will serve time in jail. Among other things, it punishes those who defraud shareholders of publicly traded companies and those who destroy or create evidence with the specific intent of obstructing justice. The bill also gives shareholders adequate time to pursue securities-fraud cases, providing those who disclose information that help detect and stop fraud, and compensates victims of securities fraud.

H.R. 3673 provides that corporate executives must certify their financial reports and forces those found guilty of noncompliance to forfeit profits and bonuses received. It prevents officers and directors who engage in wrong doing to move from one company to another. And, the bill prohibits corporations from providing “sweetheart” loans—that is, direct or indirect personal loans—to or for any director or executive officer.

Strongly urge my colleagues to support H.R. 3673 and send a strong message to executives, auditors, stock analysts, and directors that we will no longer tolerate a corporate culture of greed that places entire companies, thousands of jobs, and billions of dollars worth of private investments at risk.

Mr. Etheridge. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this corporate reform bill to crack down on crooked business executives. This Congress must take action to rein in these crooks and restore confidence in American corporations.

Mr. Speaker, we must all remember that this bill regulates public corporations, not privately-held companies. By accepting money from private citizens, these corporations bear a special responsibility to their investors and need to be held accountable.

The American financial system has been the envy of the world because of its long history of integrity. Both individuals and corporate money managers around the world have long believed that they could invest in American stocks with confidence. They believed that the information they received from public companies was timely and accurate.

Lately that trust has been sorely tested, and the plunging stock market is a clear indicator of investor fears.

H.R. 3673, the Accounting Industry Reform Bill, will help restore investor confidence in America’s financial markets by instituting a series of reforms that will increase corporate responsibility standards, improve regulatory oversight and tougher criminal penalties. The legislation sends a clear message to the American people that we will not tolerate skirting securities laws in order to obscure or cover-up financial mismanagement and mask corporate greed. This bill will enact common-sense reforms for publicly traded companies to keep investors safe and restore faith in our economic institutions.

The American people put their trust and their money into the stock market as a savings vehicle for their children’s education, their retirements and their financial stability. We owe it to them to make sure everyone, not just corporate insiders and rich investors, has access to the same accurate, clear and timely information on which to base their financial decisions. I urge America’s business leaders to work with Congress and regulatory authorities to successfully implement these new reforms, punish corporate criminals and restore confidence in our financial markets.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the conference report on H.R. 3763, the “Corporate and Auditing Accountability, Responsibility, and Transparency Act of 2002.” The fact that the U.S. Congress is responding so quickly and strongly to the corporate scandals that are unfolding each day demonstrates how serious the problem has become to the entire U.S. economy. Much of the focus has been on the huge salaries, giant golden parachutes, and obscene loans, all for the executives who were mismanaging many of these corporations.

But that relentless greed has led to financial ruin for tens of thousands of employees and shattered the retirement security of hundreds of thousands of others. Throughout the 1990’s, Wall Street kept telling everyone that the stock market could be an ever expanding pie and everyone would be a winner. People who had never bought a stock in their lives were convinced to invest, and often, invest with inadequate information about how to do so and protect their economic security at the same time. But little by little, many companies had to lie and steal to keep the myth going. And now we are all paying the price. I hope the bill before us will stem the tide. I hope Wall Street and Main Street will wake up and learn to play by the rules once again. And let’s be clear: this bill establishes much tougher rules. There is no magic way to make money. Companies have to earn it. They have to make products that people want to buy. They have to treat people fairly. You can’t cook the books and pretend you have profits. Corporate America has to go back to the basics and earn the trust of the American people again.

I particularly want to comment on the effect the still-unfolding corporate scandals have had on our pension system and the work still before Congress. Part of today’s problem has also involved significant misuse of their pension plans like company bank accounts. That behavior must stop, and Government regulators must do a better job to ensure it has stopped. Pension plans are the employees’ money. Workers should have involvement and be provided full information on how their pension plan is being run.

The bill before us requires pension plans to provide 30 days advance notice of any restrictions on the sale of employer stock or other plan investments. A proposal first included in the pension reform bill proposed by Democrats on the Committee on Education and the workforce. I am glad that the bill toughens current ERISA criminal penalties for ERISA violations.

I am glad the bill cracks down on insider trading and loans to corporate officers, a provision first proposed in legislation I recently introduced. But, we need to go even further. It is time for the Congress to pass strong pension reform to protect the future security of all American employees. We need to give workers a right to control their own pension funds. We need pension funds and mutual funds to demand better corporate governance. We need to look more aggressively at the adequacy of our retirement system. American workers will not be able to retire if they are not treated as piggy banks for Wall Street.

We have a lot of work still ahead of us, but today is a great step forward. I urge the Congress to continue to be vigilant and ensure that corporations play by the rules and act fairly.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding that the Board will have discretion to contract or outsource certain tasks to be undertaken pursuant to this legislation and the regulations promulgated under the Act. Examples of tasks suitable for contracting or outsourcing would include maintenance of computer databases and registration records. Of course, an exercise of discretion in this manner does not absolve the Board of responsibility for the proper execution of the contracted or outsourced tasks.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, this Member resides today to express his strong support for the conference report on H.R. 3763, the Public Company Accounting and Investor Protection Act of 2002. This bill is necessary to protect investors by requiring the public company accounting oversight board; recent corporate scandals, such as Enron, Arthur Andersen, WorldCom, Global Crossing, and Tyco, have shaken investor confidence in the U.S. stock market. The “looting” of businesses for unreasonable personal gain and the flagrant deception of stockholders and investors by top executives in some instances has been outrageous. This Member believes that a renewed sense of corporate responsibility in America is needed in order to restore the trust of investors. Guilty corporate leaders should serve prison terms and not in “country club” prisons. As a result of these recent corporate scandals, Congress is voting today on this conference report in order to strengthen the laws which govern publicly held corporations and accounting firms.

This Member would like to express his appreciation to the distinguished gentleman from Illinois (Mr. HASTERT), the Speaker of the House, and the Distinguished gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARMLEY), the Majority Leader of the House, for their steadfast efforts to bring this conference report to the House Floor before the August recess and thereby sending a strong signal to the House Floor to the same accurate, clear and timely information on which to base their financial decisions.

The H.R. 3763 conference report also addresses the problems of auditor independence which, for example, were evident in Arthur Andersen’s disputed accounting of Enron. This Member would like to focus on the following three auditor independence provisions of this legislation which: makes the audit committee of the board of directors of a publicly held corporation responsible for the hiring, compensating, and retaining ERISA criminal penalties for ERISA violations. services to publicly held companies (This addresses an obvious conflict of interest. It is important to note that this conference report states that auditors may provide permitted consulting services, such as tax preparation, for their publicly held auditing clients with the approval of the audit committee of the client’s board of directors and requires the rotation of the chief audit partner after auditing a publicly held company for five consecutive years.

3. STRENGTHENS CRIMINAL PENALTIES

The H.R. 3763 conference report appropriately increases the criminal punishment for those who defraud investors. For example, the conference report creates a new crime of “securities fraud” whereby whoever knowingly executes a scheme or artifice to defraud any person in connection with any security shall be fined and/or imprisoned for not more than 25 years. In addition, this conference report also increases the criminal maximum prison term for mail fraud and wire fraud violations from 5 to 20 years.

Furthermore, the conference report for H.R. 3763 strengthens the laws that criminalize document shredding and other forms of obstruction of justice. This conference report allows a maximum prison term of 20 years for tampering with evidence and a maximum prison term of up to 10 years for destruction of audit records. It is important to note that the criminal penalties in this conference report are very similar to those found in the Corporate Fraud Accountability Act of 2002 (H.R. 5118) which the House passed on July 16, 2002.

4. EXECUTIVES ACCOUNTABLE

As is well documented, recently a number of corporate executives have abused their power to the great detriment of their shareholders. For example, some corporate executives, who defrauded their investors of their savings, are still able to live in their extravagant mansions. The conference report for H.R. ??37676 addresses these abuses, as the agreement requires chief executive officers and chief financial officers of publicly held companies to certify the accuracy of financial reports and holds them liable if they knowingly deceive the public with these reports. Furthermore, the agreement also mandates that chief executive officers and chief financial officers of publicly held companies must return bonuses received within one year of any company report that requires a correction because of misconduct.

Additionally, it is important to note that this conference report further addresses corporate executive impropriety by including a provision known as the Federal Account for Investor Restitution (FAIR), which was initiated by the distinguished gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. BAXTER). The FAIR provision requires that funds be returned from these fraudulent corporate executives to investors who have lost money in the markets as a result of corporate executive malfeasance.

5. ENHANCED CORPORATE DISCLOSURES FOR INVESTORS

Finally, in order to keep investors fully apprised of the activities of a publicly held corporation, a provision in the conference report requires companies to make real-time disclosures of financial information that is important to investors, such as material changes in a company’s financial condition. This provision is an initiative of the House and this Member is proud of, it is the knowledge that we are protecting millions of hard-working Americans— their jobs, their investments and their pensions—from unethical corporate behavior. This impact on the lives of ordinary citizens cannot be overstated. Furthermore, the conference report goes on to state that we require the CPA auditor to report to the audit committee of the corporation to an officer or employee must be recorded as an expense in a corporation’s financial statement. However, this Member believes that it is very unfortunate that the concept behind H.R. 5147 is not included in the conference report of H.R. 3763.

This Member also believes that it is necessary to account stock options as corporate expenses. Publicly held companies currently are able to hide billions of dollars of costs and thus inflate profits through the loophole of not counting the cost of stock options as an expense. A distinguished Nebraskan, Mr. Warren Buffet, has been a strong advocate of counting stock options as expenses. In fact, he serves on the corporate boards of Coca-Cola and the Washington Post, both of which, on their own initiative, do count their stock options as expenses. This Member would encourage other corporations to follow their example and would also encourage his distinguished colleagues (Mr. TERRY and Ms. BONO) to continue their pursuit of H.R. 5147’s passage into law.

Mr. Speaker, in conclusion, this Member would note that the conference report for H.R. 3763 is a giant step forward in providing further protection for investors of publicly held corporations in the future. In addition, this Member firmly believes that the corporate executives at Enron, Arthur Andersen, and WorldCom are punished in the proper manner for their grossly irresponsible, probably illegal, corporate behavior.

In closing, this Member urges his colleagues to support the conference report for H.R. 3763.

Mr. LUTHER, Mr. Speaker, today represents what this Congress can accomplish when we work together in a bipartisan manner. Today this Congress is poised to pass legislation that will get us one step closer to realizing the integrity of the equity markets and, consequently, investor confidence in those markets.

It took us far too long to get here. In late April, this House passed a bill that represented a start, but was still wholly inadequate in addressing the deficiencies that currently plague corporate auditing and securities regulations. Those deficiencies have now largely been addressed in this Conference Report. By creating a truly independent accounting oversight board, mandating true auditor independence, requiring both answers and solutions so that confidence in accounting independence, objectivity, and integrity is restored.

In my district, the work of honest, hardworking employees and the reputation of a home grown Mississippi company has been infected by corporate greed, as executives cooked the books, deceiving the investing public and company employees.

In fact, in the few days since this conference began, WorldCom, the second largest long distance provider in the U.S. and the only Fortune 500 company in Mississippi filed for bankruptcy.

I was disappointed that the Shows-Leahy provision, which would have increased the amount of severance pay that WorldCom employees would receive under the bankruptcy filing laws, was not included in the conference report. Unfortunately, although House Republicans accepted almost all of the tough, Senate Democratic provisions, they refused to accept this important worker protection provision. WorldCom employees faced unexpected job losses through no fault of their own. They deserve fair treatment and due severance. As the Congressman who represents WorldCom’s headquarters and the many employees and investors who have suffered from the revelation of accounting improprieties at WorldCom, I will continue to push this issue and to call on my colleagues in Congress to support common-sense worker protection.

Investors and employees charged the conference committee to look at the systemic issues that have encouraged executives in the corporate world to ignore sound business principles.

We have answered this call and delivered a strong bill. This reform package establishes a new independent, regulatory body—the Public Accounting Oversight Board—that will oversee the auditing of publicly-traded companies. Under these reform provisions, CEOs will be required to certify the accuracy of company financial reports. Company loans to corporate officers will be prohibited, and auditors will be required to maintain true independence from the company under review. The bill also requires the forfeiture of bonuses and other incentives in the event of an accounting restatement and serious misconduct by an executive officer.

Victims whose savings and retirement was lost as a result of corporate wrongdoing, Funds for FAIR would come from the penalties collected from corporate executives through administrative or judicial fines.

I appreciate the opportunity to serve as a member of the Conference Committee. I am proud of the product reached through bipartisan negotiations. I fully support the strong measures in the Public Company Accounting Reform and Investor Protection Act because, although we cannot legislate corporate morality, provisions in this bill will deter and severely penalize those who lie, cheat, and steal by failing to provide the financial statements that are so essential to the public. I would like to congratulate all of my colleagues who have provided to this body in passing real reforms for corporate accountability.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 3763, the Corporate Accountability and Accountability Act of 2002. I congratulate good friends Congressman OXLEY and Congressman BAKER not only for their leadership on this legislation but for the leadership they have provided to this body in passing real reforms for corporate accountability.

Whether it is Global Crossing, Arthur Andersen, WorldCom, Enron, Tyco or Adelphia the story is the same. Some executives are cooking the books and employees and public stock holders are left holding the bag. Mr. Speaker, a crook is a crook, and it doesn't matter if you use a 38 special or a golden pen if you steal you should go to jail.

I urge my colleagues to support this legislation, so when I go home to Georgia next week I will be able to look folks in the eye knowing that we passed legislation today which will, provide stiffer penalties and greater oversight, so corporate crooks will no longer be able to prey on hardworking Georgians who play by the rules.

Mr. ROYCE. Mr. Speaker, thank you for this opportunity to voice my support for this important legislation. Last Friday, during the first hearing called for this conference committee, I stated my belief that the similarities between the House and Senate versions of this bill were greater than the differences between them. My belief has been vindicated here today. Of course, we've got the speedy conference reached between the House and the Senate on this conference report.

Last Friday, I also spoke of my desire to work with my colleagues from the other body, and from the other side of the aisle, to send President Bush the strongest, most sensible, and best bill possible so that we could restore investor trust in the fairness of our capital markets. I believe that this legislation does precisely that, and I would like to compliment Chairman OXLEY and Chairman SARBANES for their hard work, dedication and willingness to compromise to reach a quick conclusion on this bill on behalf of the American people. The American investors who have lost their hard-earned savings, and those hard-working employees who have lost their jobs because of corporate malfeasance deserve quick and decisive action from their elected officials. Today, we have risen above partisanship and helped to restore confidence in the American capitalist system.

Last week I described the bi-partisan, anti-fraud sentiment that I believe is motivating each of us to reform American corporate governance and auditing standards by passing this legislation. Many of us here recognized a shortcoming in our legal system—the reluctance to treat corporate criminal behavior as serious as we treat criminal behavior—and resolved that this bill should reflect the true seriousness of white-collar crime.

I believe that this legislation accomplishes this task. By including the House-passed language to increase the criminal penalties for securities fraud, document-shredding and mail and wire fraud, I believe that we have acted wisely and swiftly to prevent other Enrons, WorldComs and Global Crossings from happening. By including Chairman BAKER's FAIR language, we have ensured that when companies change financial statements to pad executives' pockets on the backs of its employees and shareholders, U.S. investors and employees deserve no less.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 3763, the Corporate Accountability and Accountability Act of 2002. I congratulate good friends Congressman OXLEY and Congressman BAKER not only for their leadership on this legislation but for the leadership they have provided to this body in passing real reforms for corporate accountability.

Ms. ESHOO. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this Conference Report. Our markets have traditionally been the deepest, broadest and most transparent in the world. This transparency has given Americans confidence in those markets. Today, tragically that confidence has been shaken to the core. Innocent investors and employees have been decimated because of the collapse of once Fortune 500 companies.

This legislation will take a major step toward restoring confidence in corporate America, confidence in our markets, and confidence in our government's ability to protect investors from fraudulent activity. This bill gives the SEC the tools it needs to prevent future Enrons, Worldcoms, and other corporate scandals.

The bill we're voting on today: requires the SEC to appoint a full-time board to oversee and discipline if necessary auditors of publicly traded companies; prevents audit firms from providing consulting services to companies they audit; puts a cap on what was a major conflicts of interest; require CEOs and CFOs of public companies to certify the accuracy of financial reports and be held liable for knowingly deceiving the public; and greatly increases the prison sentences for fraudulent activity. We've got one corporate scandal after another so we know corporate self-governance has failed.

This bill responds to that failure with tough measure that ensure U.S. corporations, their executives, and the companies that audit them are fully accountable for the financial information they provide to investors.

I salute the work of Senator PAUL SARBANES, who's tireless effort led to this strong and solid bill. No matter what the criticisms have been to roll back or roll over, he stayed the course and now we will finally have the largest reforms to the SEC since the Great Depression.

Recent Americans deserve these protections, and urge my colleagues to support this measure.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, today Congress will approve the Public Company Accounting Reform and Investor Protection Act of 2002 Conference Report, which will likely be signed into law by the end of this week. Like families nationwide who have seen investment savings deteriorate and have lost confidence in our markets and business leaders, I have been concerned with revelations about inaccurate corporate accounting and inappropriate and in some cases illegal corporate practices. Recent events have had tragic consequences in my district where employees of Portland General Electric had little control over the company's association with Enron.

I support this legislation which will provide further rules and regulations that will improve the integrity of the corporate world and help alleviate the anxieties of employees and investors. I trust that this is an incremental step in the process to bring about accurate financial statements and independent relationships between corporate management, auditors, and investment analysts. The marketplace or Congress will need to address the issue of stock options to ensure meaningful reporting and eliminate perverse incentives, while not preventing companies from offering this important incentive to compensate employees and give them ownership opportunities.

While reforms are absolutely necessary, witness the 270 public companies that restated their financial statements in 2001. I'm also concerned that Congress does not turn this into a witch hunt or pass ill-conceived legislation. I will continue to work to ensure that we do not overreach our objective of a sound economy, ethical management and arm's-length transactions. We will not be helping families and the economy by implementing unworkable and stringent regulations that are costly and burdensome.

This legislation begins the process of putting in place the reforms needed to prevent future tragedies that are so devastating to the savings and lives of American workers and families. As we move forward, I urge my colleagues to continue to develop fair provisions that will both protect investors and employees while allowing the economy to thrive.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased that the conferees have reached an agreement on accounting reform, and I want to congratulate Chairman SARBANES and Chairman OXLEY for their work on this issue. I also want to thank Chairman LEAHY and Ranking Member LAFALCE for their stellar leadership in the area of corporate fraud.

The proposed agreement includes nearly all of the important safeguards from the legislation Senator LEAHY introduced in the Senate and that I introduced in the House in April. Among other things, the agreement includes language lengthening the statute of limitations for securities fraud, mandating document retention by auditors, civil protection, and sentencing enhancements for document shredding. Some made no secret of the fact that they would have preferred to gut these safeguards. But in the end, Senate Democrats stood their ground, and this legislation represents a major win for the American public.

I wish House Republicans would have been able to agree to these critical reforms earlier, but in the end I believe we have strong legislation that will provide defrauded investors with a greater ability to recoup lost assets, afford prosecutors with increased tools to pursue corporate wrongdoers and impose harsher penalties for those accused of committing securities fraud.

As good as this bill is, it’s important to note that the agreement is just a first step toward protecting American investors and workers. We still need to fix the many, many giveaways that we have strong legislation that will provide defrauded investors with a greater ability to recoup lost assets, afford prosecutors with increased tools to pursue corporate wrongdoers and impose harsher penalties for those accused of committing securities fraud.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the conference report before us today. I commend my colleague, Chairman Oxley, for the outstanding work he has done in crafting a final bill which will fully prosecute those who have violated the law and restore confidence in America’s financial markets.

Like all Americans, I have been outraged at the revelations which have come to light in recent months concerning the practices of a number of public companies such as Enron and WorldCom, as well as the auditing practices of companies such as Arthur Andersen. While the list of affected companies pales in comparison to the more than 11,000 publicly traded U.S. companies, even a few transgressions are too many.

The bill before us would increase the maximum jail terms for mail and wire fraud from five years to 20 years, and create a new 25-year maximum jail sentence for securities fraud. Under the bill, securities fraud is defined as intentionally defrauding an individual in the purchase or sale of a security, obtaining money from the purchase or sale of a security based on false pretenses. Additionally, the Conference Report strengthens laws which criminalize document shredding and other forms of obstruction of justice by providing a maximum prison sentence of up to 40 years for such a violation. Criminal penalties for pension law violations would be increased from a fine of $5,000 to $100,000 and from maximum jail time of one year to ten years.

As the recent improprieties have shown, corporate leaders, including CEOs, have been implicated in wrongdoing. Those who have the privilege of leading America’s corporations have a responsibility to their investors, employees, and the public, to set ethical standards under which their companies operate.

This legislation requires top corporate executives to certify that the financial statements of the company fairly and accurately represent the financial condition of the company and calls for penalties of up to ten years in prison and/or a $1 million fine. In general, willful and criminal violations of securities laws would carry a new maximum fine of $5 million—up from $1 million—and a new maximum prison term of 20 years, up from ten years. If the violator is not an American citizen, the fine would increase to $25 million. Any attempts to retali- ate against informants would carry a maximum ten-year prison term and/or fines under SEC laws.

One important area which this bill does not address is the issue of returning ill-gotten corporate gains. I believe Congress must act to ensure that investors are able to reclaim their losses. As we are due to corpor- ate fraud. And after the corrupt executives return the hard earned money of employees and investors, they need to get out of their mansions and yachts, and get into a jail cell. Corporate executives who steal the retirement savings of hard-working Americans are no better than common purse snatchers on the street. In fact, they are worse given the position of trust and responsibility with which they are entrusted. If they “cook the books” in order to show a better bottom line, there will be a heavy price to pay.

I believe this bill sends a strong message to corporations throughout America that those who break the law will be severely punished. By dramatically increasing maximum prison terms and strengthening accountability and oversight, we have begun working toward the goal of reforming corporate America in a way which will enable citizens to have confidence in their financial markets.

I urge my colleagues to pass the Sarbanes-Oxley Conference Report.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, this has been a year when the faith of ordinary Americans has been badly shaken. The revelations of corporate earnings have been followed by accusations of corporate wrong-doing at some of the country’s largest and most touted corporations, including Enron, Global Crossing, Bristol Myers Squibb, Tyco International, and WorldCom Inc. The billions of dollars in misuse of shareholder equity are mounting every day.

The string of recent corporate disclosures undermines investor confidence, scares off foreign investment, and slows down an already shaky recovery. To be able to talk about accountability, you have to act to ensure it. Innocent investors have been betrayed by the abuses of creative accounting practices and financial disclosure or more appropriately non-disclosure. I am appalled at what has happened to them as a result of this tragic event.

In today’s economy, there is an emerging crisis of a lack of universal confidence in our markets. What has failed is nothing more than the system of overseeing our capital markets. We have an opportunity and obligation to repair the trust of investors. It’s tempting to brush aside business ethics as a nebulous, well-intentioned subject suitable for business school, with little practical value in the real world. That is a big mistake.

A 2000 survey by the Ethics Resource Center found that 43 percent of respondents believed their supervisors don’t set good examples of integrity. The same percentage felt pressured to compromise their organization’s ethics on the job. This is a startling number, two years before Enron imploded.

The Enron debacle stands as a corporate wrong. The Enron fiasco has established beyond a shadow of a doubt that white collar fraud can be incredibly damaging and costs innocent Americans billions of dollars of their hard earned money. Enron employees worked hard to build Enron into one of America’s largest and most profitable corporations, and they should not be punished for what their corporate managers did.

Employees are fearful of losing their jobs. Investors are worried whether they should continue to hold stocks in these failing corporations and the stock market. Retirees are concerned about the safety of their pensions. All these concerns undermine confidence in financial markets and have the potential to derail our economic recovery. Because of all the corporate scandals that we have seen, thousands of workers have been hurt, and millions of investors and retirees have seen their 401(k)’s gutted. I have introduced a bill that protects pensions, H.R. 5110, the Omnibus Corporate Reform and Restoration Act of 2002.
H.R. 5510 prioritizes employees by allowing them to make claims on the corporation, after the corporation has filed for bankruptcy protection, for wages or severance of up to $15,000. This is important because workers have worked hard to build profitable corporations, and should not be penalized by the fraudulent behavior of corporate managers.

Moreover, H.R. 5510 provides oversight of Boards of Directors, and prohibits loans to company officers and directors, and creates criminal penalties for destroying or altering documents. H.R. 5510 also punishes those who destroy or manipulate evidence of fraud. It provides prosecutors with better tools to effectively prosecute and punish those who defraud investors and provides for tough criminal penalties to make them think twice before defrauding the public.

The conference report, H.R. 3763, Corporate Accountability Conference Report, hoping to restore confidence in the scandal-tainted corporate world, has agreed to new regulations of corporation and their auditors. The conference report also establishes stiffer penalties for those corporate managers who commit financial fraud. The report holds corporate executives criminally liable for cooking their books if they knowingly and willfully certify them.

The conference report establishes a new oversight to oversee the auditors of companies traded on the stock markets. The conference limited accounting firms’ ability to profit as both auditors and consultants to the companies they audit. The conference also gave shareholders more time to sue companies that misled them. The committee also increases the maximum fines and jail sentences for corporate managers who violate new and existing corporate laws.

The report also says that CEOs and CFOs must certify the accuracy of financial statements and disclosures, and it requires those CEOs and CFOs who certify their corporate statements are accurate, they must relinquish bonuses and other incentive-based compensation and profit on stock sales in the event of an accounting restatement resulting from fraud. The conference report also increases the funding of the SEC to $776 million.

The Federal Reserve Chairman, Alan Greenspan, pointed out, in his testimony to the Senate Banking Committee on July 17th, that a corporate culture blighted by infectious greed was the cause of the breakdown in confidence among investors. Chairman Greenspan, who has been an advocate of deregulation and reliance on market forces to police good business practices, acknowledged that he had been mistaken in initially opposing government involvement in oversight of auditing. “My view was always that accountants knew or had to know that the market value of their companies rested on the integrity of their operations” and that government regulation of accounting was therefore “management and indeed most inappropriate, but I was wrong”.

If the Chairman of the Federal Reserve says that his opinion was wrong concerning oversight of auditors, then change is needed. We must restore confidence in our financial markets by establishing sound guidelines for corporate governance and auditing that investors can trust and feel confident with their investments.

We stand at the brink of the most significant financial regulations in more than 60 years. We must do all that we can to help the thousands of employees and retirees, who have suffered greatly by these events, feel that will not be punished for the fraudulent behavior of their corporate managers. Therefore, I rise to support the conference report on corporate accountability, H.R. 3763.

Mr. MALONEY of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank Senator SARABANES and Chairman OXLEY, and their staffs, for all of their work in bringing this important bill to the floor. I especially want to thank Ranking Member LAFAUCI for his work on this important bill, and note that he will be sorely missed.

Over the past few months investors have indicated, as reflected by the events on Wall Street, that they lack the confidence to continue investing in the U.S. capital markets. Corporations such as Enron and WorldCom have submitted fraudulent financial statements to intentionally mislead investors. Other corporations such as Stanley Works are attempting to abuse the tax code to evade their fair share of taxes. I am making a strong statement that corporations and top executives have a responsibility to their communities to behave honestly and in keeping with the public trust. The legislation we pass today will send a strong message that corporations and their executives will be held accountable.

The Congress has a duty to help restore the public’s confidence in the marketplace and take steps to eliminate the ability of individuals or corporations to manipulate the information that investors need to make informed decisions. This bill puts corporate executives and auditors on notice. If you commit corporate malfeasance, defraud investors, take advantage of workers, or abuse the public’s trust, you will spend time in jail. We also need to take the next step and stop corporate expropriates by shutting down the tax-haven loophole.

Today’s bill is not the final word, but it does well begin a process of reform that is urgently needed.

The accounting and corporate management issues before us are complicated. They are, however, critical to the proper function of our markets. As we all know, the availability of timely, accurate, and truthful data are the linchpins that allow for the free flow of capital. Unfortunately, events have highlighted that the existing structure of our Nation’s accounting regime is vulnerable to manipulation and fraud. This legislation will go a long way to addressing those problems. But now we also need to make sure that this new legislation is properly enforced.

The Congress, upon our return from the August recess, must consider and pass legislation that protects workers’ retirement savings and deals with U.S. government agencies, to equipping airport screeners, to providing tools and equipment to the Department of Defense. Corporate expatriates turn their backs on America at the same time that they reach their hands out for the hard-earned money of American taxpayer. Mr. Speaker, this is outrageous, and the Congress must step up, along with Congressmen NEAL of Massachusetts, that would do just that.

Today, Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this bill, and help restore investor confidence in our nation’s capital markets. Let us do this in this session, I will be asking for your support of the Neal-Maloney legislation to take the next step in restoring corporate accountability.

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the conference report on H.R. 3763, the Public Company Accounting Reform and Investor Protection Act. This measure is an important first-step in restoring public trust and consumer confidence in our domestic economy.

The measure’s passage comes none too soon; as we all know, as investors have become more and more disenchanted with stock equities and the market continues to suffer vicious sell-offs. The NASDAQ and Standard & Poor’s 500-stock index are back to 1997 levels, wiping out $7 trillion in value from the American economy. The Dow Jones Industrial Average has dropped to the lows reached immediately following the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks.

The free market system that has made our nation great still works. It is, however, based on trust. That trust is only as reliable as the information that is available to the public. When that information is fraudulent, the trust in our economic system collapses. Until that trust is restored our economy will not grow.

Corporate officials have a responsibility to restore that trust but so do Congress and the President.

Therefore, as legislators, we must remember that the mere passage of this one bill will not cure the ills that currently plague our economy. Complete reform will also require the cooperation of the corporate community, working with Congress to reverse the resounding effects of the actions of shady executives and unresponsive auditors.

However, as I mentioned earlier, this bill is a good beginning, and I am pleased that the measure before us establishes a new, five-member independent oversight board with the power to establish and enforce auditing independence and to establish higher corporate ethical responsibilities. The independent board will have subpoena authority as well as disciplinary and standard-setting authority. The measure also places restrictions on auditors, including on the nonauditing or consulting services that accounting firms currently provide to publicly traded companies.

Importantly, the bill attempts to improve the ethical standards of top corporate officers. Chief Executive Officers, President Officers, and other Financial Officers must certify the accuracy of their corporation’s financial reports. If executives do not comply, they face stiff criminal penalties, including as many as 20 years in prison.

Again, let us remember, this bill is just the first step in order to restore the public’s trust, Congress, upon our return from the August recess, must consider and pass legislation that protects workers’ retirement savings and Mr. DOOLITTLE changed his vote from "nay" to "yea.

So the conference report was agreed to.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded. A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Stated for:
Mr. JEFF MILLER of Florida. Mr. Speaker, on rollcall No. 348, I was detained from returning for the vote.

Had I been present, would have voted "Yea."

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, on rollcall No. 348, I was unavoidably detained. Had I been present, I would have voted "Yea."

Mr. STUMP (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate amendment and the proposed House amendment thereto be considered as read and printed in the Record.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Sweeney). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Arizona?

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate amendment and the proposed House amendment thereto be considered as read and printed in the Record.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate amendment and the proposed House amendment thereto be considered as read and printed in the Record.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished ranking member, and I too would like to rise and thank the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) for the fair way in which they have handled one of the most important responsibilities of this Nation, and that is defending this legislation. I too want to offer additional comments about the young men and women, the military personnel that are serving in Guantanamo Bay. I had the opportunity to visit with the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HOBSON) to see the condition of the individuals that are held in incarceration after the September 11 terrorist act. There is a great improvement in their living conditions, which I believe are humane. And I hope as we move through this process, working with the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HOBSON), I know that we will work as well for the military personnel’s conditions.

I know that it will be resolved, but I wanted to share that with the committee. But as I share that with the committee, let me also suggest that I want to make sure the language sticks to the September 11 conditions that we are having the opportunity to have congressional oversight as it relates to entering into Iraq. None of our Arab allies support the idea of precipitously attacking Iraq.

I believe it is this Congress’s responsibility to have oversight when we make determinations of war. Going into Iraq would be an act of war. I think the American people deserve and are owed a full discussion and debate of such a command by this Congress.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for this fine legislation. I hope we can narrow it or keep it focussed on the things we have been told for years. It is now just considered a matter of when, and we possess these weapons are not in very good control of these weapons. So it is now just considered a matter of time until a terrorist group gets their hands on a chemical weapon, a biological weapon or a nuclear weapon.

Mr. Speaker, I think it is fair to say that as a nation, we are unprepared for absolutely opposed to an attack against America without the full debate of this Congress.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH) for their remarks.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BASS). Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Arizona?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the initial request of the gentleman from Arizona?

There was no objection.

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the House insist on its amendment to the Senate amendment to H.R. 4546 and request a conference with the Senate thereon.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Arizona?

There was no objection.

MOTION TO INSTRUCT CONFERENCE

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I offer a motion to instruct conferences on this motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will report the motion.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi moves that the managers on the part of the House at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the House amendment to the bill H.R. 4546 be instructed to insist upon the provisions of section 1551 of the House amendment (relating to the establishment of at least one Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Team in each State).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under rule XX the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR) and the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR). Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, we as a Nation have learned a heck of a lot in the months after September. As a member of the Committee on Armed Services, one of the things we have been told for years and that we were asked not to talk about was the very large number of nations that possess weapons of mass destruction. Now it has been published in so many magazines that it is hardly a secret anymore, but I think the people of America are well aware that almost 30 nations have some form of weapons of mass destruction, be it chemical, biological or nuclear.

We are also aware because of published reports that many of the nations that possess these weapons are not in very good control of these weapons. So it is now just considered a matter of time until a terrorist group gets their hands on a chemical weapon, a biological weapon or a nuclear weapon.

Mr. Speaker, I think it is fair to say that as a nation, we are unprepared for...
Mr. Speaker. I support the motion of the gentleman in that it endorses a position taken by the Committee on Armed Services on this matter just a few short days ago. It is also consistent with the provision that passed this House earlier this May.

We have to take into consideration the provision and it is clear that the proponent made a compelling case in the number of States that presently face deficiencies in receiving proper coverage from existing weapons of mass destruction teams. Whether that means that this precise formulation in this provision is the right solution remains to be seen. But it is clear that the conference must address this issue and bring it back to the House; a formulation that improves the abilities of the State presently without such a team to receive such assistance in the event of a weapons of mass destruction event.

I appreciate my colleague bringing this important matter forward and look forward to working with them in a conference to arrive at the best possible solution.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, again I want to thank a great American, a great patriot, someone who served this country well in World War II. It was this country well in the year 2002, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for his help on this and for everything he has done.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Missourri (Mr. SKELTON), the ranking Democrat on the Committee on Armed Services, the father of two young people in uniform serving their country.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. MALONEY) for his help on this effort and his colleague from Connecticut (Mr. MALONEY) who have worked hard and were successful in offering the amendment that was adopted unanimously in the Committee on Armed Services.

I think this is very important. Although Missouri has a civil support team, and I am so very proud of the work that is being done, and the work that they are doing, I think it is important that all States have the same type of response and protection. The measure that is represented in this provision by the gentleman from Mississippi is one that was adopted. It worked on a bipartisan effort, it is particularly important that we shift our national attention to the task of defending our Nation against terrorism.

This is an excellent motion and I thank the gentleman for allowing me to participate in this debate, it is an important motion to instruct, and with the hope that these efforts of the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR) and the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. MALONEY) will be elected positively by this Chamber and we thank also the chairman, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for his cooperation and support in this regard.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON).

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleagues for yielding me time.

I rise and will not oppose this motion to instruct as I did not in the committee, but I rise to basically let our colleagues understand what is at play here.

Please do not feel assured because Members vote for this motion to instruct, I do not. And since it could be, I believe, by unanimous votes of the committee to put one of these teams in every State, to come up with the necessary funds, approximately $190 million, so that there is a weapons of mass destruction civil support team in every State.

I see this very much like I see my local fire department. I go out of my way to see to it that there will never be a fire in my house, but the fact of the matter is there will be and it could be right now. And since it could be, I have the fire department to have the training and the equipment to respond to that to minimize the damages and the loss of human life. I see a weapons of mass destruction team in every State as just like that. I pray to God that it never happens, but I have to presume it will happen. And when it does happen, I want every State in the Union to have a core of competency within several hours of these people to respond.

Should it be a biological attack with a crop duster over a football stadium, or a chemical attack in a subway of a huge city, or someone stealing the mosquito control truck and driving down the streets in the middle of the night.

Each State has to have the availability to detect whether or not this actually occurred, detect what happened, have the equipment so the first responders do not themselves die from the event, have the equipment so the first responders can respond to chemical fires every day in huge city, or Someone stealing the chemical plant, we do not call the National Guard. National Guardsmen, by their nature, are part-time soldiers. They are there to respond when requested.

Do my colleagues know what the time is for a RAID team to be called to active duty in a disaster? Is it 10 minutes? Is it 1 hour? You will not have a RAID team on a scene within twelve hours.

Now, the Marine Corps Seabird team which was specifically stood up by the Congress for chemical, biological and nuclear incidents, has a mandate to be on the scene in four hours. We only have one of those, and they are specially trained full-time people. Please do not think that the National Guard is going to be your first responder. It will never be your first responder.

Now, do we need to have the fire service trained by a group of National Guardsmen? No way. In the last 100 years every fire at an oil refinery, at a chemical plant, we do not call the National Guard in. The local fire and emergency responders are there. They understand what it takes to deal with weapons of mass destruction. I do not know one soldier that has ever been in a real life chemical incident. I do not know one fireman that has ever been in a real life chemical incident. I do not know one fireman that has ever been in a real life chemical incident.

So when we talk about chemical, biological and nuclear incidents, let us be very clear about what the time is. Let us be very clear that the National Guard is not going to be your first responder. It will never be your first responder.
Mr. Speaker, I talk to all the fire service groups. There are 32,000 departments in the country. They are America’s first responder. When an incident occurs, whether it is a chemical, biological or nuclear incident, the first responder on the scene will be a fire truck, a paramedic, a local police car or it will be some other kind of emergency response. It will not be a National Guard team. They need to have the equipment and the preparation to deal with that incident in the first hour. This amendment does not do that.

This amendment does not give them equipment. There is no fire department in America asking for a State RAID team. None. Or a civil response team. None. There is no national fire organization, not the IAFF, not the National Volunteer Council, not the NFPA, not the Arson Investigators, not the Fire Instructors, the seven major groups, none of them are asking for this.

I am not saying it does not serve a purpose. Having a State National Guard civil response team can help. It can provide resources, it can provide access to Federal assets, but it is not going to be the end-all, cure-all; and if we think that we are only relying to ourselves, and more importantly, we are frustrating the first responders across the country.

So I say to my colleagues when they vote for this measure, which I will vote for, understand that we are not solving the problem of local emergency responders. What they are asking for is more equipment. They know how to deal with chemical plant fires. They go in there every day. A National Guardsman who is a part-time person or even a full-time does not fight chemical plant fires, does not know what it is like to go into an environment involving petrochemical situations. Firefighters do.

Our focus in this country in the debate on homeland security needs to be reinforced by the domestic defender of this country, the first responder, and that is not the National Guard. It is the 1 million men and women in 32,000 organizations who every day respond to our disasters. The National Guard can back them up and support them. That is an important role, and I supported that role; but these teams are not going to be able to instantly respond to a terrorist incident. Twelve hours minimum for them to get activated.

The first responder is the group that our focus should be on when we get to conference, just like this Congress allocated $100 million and then $400 million for the first responder; that is where the focus should be.

So I say to my colleagues I will support this legislation. I applaud my colleague for his leadership. He is a great American and a great member of the committee; but I want my colleagues to understand, please do not think that this amendment and this motion to instruct is going to solve the problem of homeland security. Go talk to the local fire companies when we are done with this vote, go call them on the vote and say is it really a priority in southern Mississippi, a civil response team, and they will say what in the heck is a civil response team. I cannot even have a fire truck response because they do not have enough money; we do not have enough volunteers. That is what needs to be done. This amendment does not do it, and they are the kind of things we should be doing to support them.

Mr. Taylor of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, my colleague and former firefighter from Pennsylvania makes an excellent point. There are 32,000 fire departments in this Nation. Do my colleagues not think we ought to have at least one of them in every State have the capability to respond to a nuclear or biological or chemical attack? I have no clear conscience that we have even one in the State of Mississippi.

Again, it is sort of the difference between the Pennsylvanias of the world and the Mississippis of the world. Over half the cities in Mississippi are 10,000 people or less. They are by design low-tax and, therefore, low-service. There is an incredible turnover, I am sorry to say, because they do not pay as well as they should. So we do need a core competency in every State. No one is going to say that this makes the world safer from a chem biological attack.

I can tell my colleagues right now, if a crop duster were to fly over a football field at Old Miss or Mississippi State and release a substance, I really do not think there is anyone in the State of Mississippi right now who can run the test to determine whether or not it was just diesel fuel, whether it was water, or whether it was a chemical or biological agent. There is no one that I know of that can show up in the protective gear to take those tests that I know I will not be endangering their lives just to ask them to go take the test.

These are core competencies that every State needs, not just the 30 States that presently have them.

Mr. Chairman, I am honored again that so many people from both sides of the aisle have been on to this and help us with it. One of those people is helping even though his State already has a weapons of mass destruction civil support team; that has been a big help on this. It is the gentleman from Texas, Mr. Ortiz.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as I may consume to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Ortiz).

Mr. Ortiz. Mr. Speaker, I thank my good friend for yielding me the time. This amendment does not give them what they need. It will not be a National Guard team. They need to have at least one of them in every State peace of mind that we have people who are prepared and ready to respond to any type of emergency.

Texas has one in the great city of Austin, Texas; but for my district way down south, it is 950 miles to El Paso. It is 850 miles to Amarillo. We just happen to be on the border of Texas; but for my district way down south, it is 950 miles, and we just happen to be on the border of Mexico.

Mr. Stump. Mr. Speaker, I yield 8 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. Hunter).

Mr. Hunter. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding the time, and I would like to yield to my good colleague from Pennsylvania to make another remark about this issue.

Mr. Weldon of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. Hunter. I yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Weldon of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague for yielding to me. I want to clarify the point that somehow we do not care about the small rural towns in America. I was the fire chief of a town of 5,000 people, then the mayor, all volunteer, no pay; and in the gentleman’s State of Mississippi, the bulk of his firefighters are volunteer, not paid anything. Eighty-five percent of the 32,000 departments in America are volunteer.

The fact is they have been trained. We trained 125 of the largest cities, and we have an obligation to train as many departments as possible.

In 1975, I had a chemical-carrying tanker make a U-turn at the Delaware River and ran an oil tanker at the dock in my town of 5,000 people. It bottled out of control for 3 days and killed 29 people. It was the largest fire in America that year. The entire incident was handled with volunteers. It was not handled by the National Guard. That was a chemical incident.

My colleague might call it not a weapons of mass destruction. Well, when we have a chemical-carrying tanker filled with vinyl acetate and polymers and it explodes with an oil tanker, that is a chemical incident. It may not be a terrorist incident, but we handled it.

The point that I am trying to make is we should not be looking to the military to do what has been done every day for 20 years. They are the first responders. Give them the equipment. So that in Texas, where my good friend, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Ortiz), is, we do not just have one team, we have teams all over the State who are properly prepared and equipped.

Every department needs to have a capability. That is what they are asking for. They are asking for the tools and the resources in all 32,000 departments. That is what we should be advocating, not some artificial response, one in a State that can come in 12 hours later. We need to have this capability in every department, and this is why the program that we have established for grants with bipartisan support is the right way to go.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, I thank my colleague for his remarks; and, Mr. Speaker, I would just like to talk briefly about the bills that we are sending to conference here because there has been a lot of confusion because of the time deadlines and the exigency and having to move these bills, particularly this second piece of the defense bill, which is kind of unprecedented, this second $10 billion segment and adding that to the $383 billion base bill.

I just want to say at this time, this has been an exercise in which we have had to move expeditiously; but the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), our chairman, and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), our ranking member, have really worked together and brought out the best in terms of our bipartisan concern and our bipartisan caring about how we shape the U.S. military.

We have got some major challenges right now. We have to try to modernize, and we are way behind the modernization curve. We are probably $30 billion per year short in terms of replacing all the tanks, trucks, ships, and planes that have to be replaced so our guys are driving equipment that is halfway modern.

At the same time, we have got to keep the wheels turning in this war against terror; and we have a major operation going in Afghanistan that is costing us a couple of billion dollars a month. Beyond that, we have got our air operations in the Iraq theater and in other parts of the world that are taking a lot of operational dollars.

In this last piece, this $10 billion piece that we moved that is going into conference today, we have got a lot of things that we have to have for the next couple of months in this next fiscal year. We have got things like military pay, combat-related pays going to the war fighters and to their families. That is an important piece of this. We also have intelligence money because we are going to need some new intelligence assets, as this is going to be a fairly large burden now for us to carry, but we have to have it because we are now entering the phase in this war against terror where the people who wanted to come to the war, basically could buy American guns and meet us on the battlefield, are no longer with us; and the people who remain now and the al Qaeda and the other organizations that support them now have to basically be hunted down.

That is very difficult. It requires a large and effective intelligence capability, and this is why we are having to build a significant amount of the budget into that area.

We also have operational requirements. We have got all the spare parts, and if my colleagues were over there recently, and I had the good fortune to be there with a CODEL a week or so ago, and if my colleagues were over there on Wednesday in the theater with C-17s, the C-130s, all of the carrier aircraft and the supporting aircraft, we have got a lot of steel we have to keep in the air and spare parts is critical, and a lot of this money goes to the spare parts sector in the first couple of months of the next fiscal year.

So I think we have got a good package, and I hope everybody would vote to move this to conference quickly.

Mr. Speaker, I just wanted to finish up by saying that our folks, staff folks and our leadership, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), have really put, as well as all the members of the committee have, put a lot of hard work in trying to get these disjointed pieces that now are kind of mismatched with the Senate’s pieces of the defense bill into play and into conference; and it is going to be a difficult process to make this thing work. I think we are going to be able to get it because we have got a lot of great people working it.

I thank the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) for his work and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) for his, and I hope the House moves expeditiously to take us to conference.

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

There is something I do think needs to be said about this, and the folks who work with me have been good enough to point this out, and I think the public needs to know this. The original time of 12 hours that my friend from Pennsylvania makes reference to was when there were only 10 of these teams to cover the entire continental United States. We are now in the process of going to 30 teams which shortens the distance from the responders to those that need to be helped.

What this will do is get us up to 54 teams. That is our goal is to have a team within 4 hours; and again, without getting into a spitting contest, the fact of the matter is that the vast majority of the States that were left out are rural States, low-tax States, where we do not have the money to equip 32,000 teams or at least trying to get one in each of these States; but I would also point out that some of those States are very large States, including California and Texas and the 17 million people, and the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. MALONEY) will be speaking to that in a minute.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. BONIOR) to speak.

(Mr. BONIOR asked and was given permission to speak out of order.)

MICHIGAN OFFICE VANDALIZED

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, last night my office in Michigan was vandalized under the cover of darkness with despicable words of hatred. My family and I and my staff are saddened and angered by this deplorable act, but we will not let it defeat us or deter us from fighting for what we believe in.

Hate crimes are cowardly acts that cannot and will not be tolerated under any circumstances. They hurt us not just as individuals but as a community. People in every city, county, village in Michigan deplore these acts in the strongest possible way.

We must confront acts of hatred and refuse to let them intimidate us. We have to reach out to each other when these attacks occur and not let hate crimes fuel more hatred in ourselves.

My family and I are, and always have been, committed to ending these acts of violence. Whether there is an attack on Jewish Americans, Arab Americans, African Americans, Hispanic Americans, Sikhs, or Muslims, the message must be very clear, an attack upon one is an attack upon all. Hatred has no place, no place, in our country.

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, how much time do I have remaining?

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BASS). The gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR) has 17½ minutes remaining, and the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) has 18 minutes remaining.

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

A lot of people are making this happen, and again this could not happen without the great cooperation of the gentleman from Arizona, so I want to thank him again.

The gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES) and the 8 million people in that State will benefit from this. The gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON) and the 8 million people from New Jersey will benefit from this. And, Mr. Speaker, I want to correct myself. The gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. MALONEY) and the 3½ million people from Connecticut will benefit from this.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. MALONEY).
Mr. MALONEY of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Mississippi for yielding me this time, and I rise in support of this motion.

The first comment I want to make is that it is absolutely correct that what we are doing here today will not solve all the problems. It will not solve all the problems in regard to emergency response and it will not solve all the problems in regard to the war on terrorism. It is not intended to. What it is intended to do is to solve a part of the problem.

We are doing many, many other things, both in terms of the Defense Department, the individual services, the reorganization of our national government in regard to homeland defense, making resources available to local fire departments, and making resources available to local police departments. We are doing many, many things. The goal here today is to do one other very, very important thing, which is to have that capability in this country.

As we are all too well aware, the war on terrorism is not being just waged in Afghanistan but also here at home. Since September 11, the civil support teams that exist already have responded to more than 290 requests for support from civil authorities for actual or potential weapons of mass destruction incidents, including the anthrax attacks. Support teams have also supported national events, including the 2001 World Series, the 2002 Super Bowl, and the 2002 Winter Olympics.

The anthrax attacks and the more recent threat of a radiological dirty bomb clearly highlight the increased need for National Guard counterterrorism capabilities to be stationed across our country. One weapons of mass destruction civil support team in each State and in each territory.

The bill before us today provides the funding that is necessary to make that a reality for each of our States and each of our territories. Each CST is a federally funded asset under State control. To date, Congress has authorized 32 teams. I believe that each State and territory should have a team capable of responding to the threat of a weapon of mass destruction in their State as a matter of priority, as a matter of our doing one of the many things we are doing to improve the security of this country.

In the terrorist attack on the World Trade Center, New York, which has a team, their highly trained civil support team swung into action as part of the first responders. The first to arrive on the scene, the 22nd full-time National Guard Civil Support Team, has a National Guard member, they are National Guard members but they are full-time on call within 4 hours, have two major pieces of equipment, a mobile analytical lab, and a mobile communications facility. The first allowed the team to identify any chemical or biological agents at the World Trade Center. Fortunately, that was not the case. The second allowed the team to coordinate communication among the first responders.

My colleagues, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) is correct that the fire department is going to be there first, the police department is going to be there first, the EMS is going to be there first, but the civil support team is going to be there within, in our hope, 4 hours, as the goal, not the 12 but 4 hours, and will be providing that analytical capability and will be providing that communications capability. In New York, they did exactly that, assisting with coordination of communications with the first responders, the incident commander, and the Department of Defense.

As we are all too well aware, the war on terrorism is not being just waged in Afghanistan but also here at home. Since September 11, the civil support teams that exist already have responded to more than 290 requests for support from civil authorities for actual or potential weapons of mass destruction incidents, including the anthrax attacks. Support teams have also supported national events, including the World Series, the 2002 Winter Games, and the 2002 Super Bowl.

The anthrax attacks and the more recent threat of a radiological dirty bomb clearly highlight the increased need for National Guard counterterrorism capabilities to be stationed across our country. One weapons of mass destruction civil support team in each State and in each territory.

It has been said here earlier today that that training has not previously existed. That is correct, and that is the point. We need to make sure that that training is available, that that training occurs, that that coordination between the local first responders and the State first responders is done in line with the National Guard, the civil support teams which gives us access to the national assets.

Some argue that the issue is simply a matter of geographic coverage. The New York team, for example, is located just outside of Albany. That is 2, 3, maybe 4 hours from most places in the State of Connecticut. Maybe that should suffice. The reason it does not suffice is for two reasons:

One, it does not provide that integrated training with the local and federal assets. The National Guard civil support team in New York, guess what, they train with the State of New York emergency responders, not the State of Connecticut emergency responders. We need to make sure that our State and every other State has that integrated training that exists.

Secondly, in terms of response time, what happens when, as in the case of New York, that team was called upon? Then where is Connecticut? Were lucky that there were only three attacks. That in the case of New Washington, and the air over Pennsylvania, but there could have been five attacks. There could have been an attack in Boston at the same time there was an attack in New York. Where would Connecticut be? New York’s team had already deployed.

We supposedly have backup by a team outside of Boston. What if Boston had been attacked? Indeed, the Boston team cannot get effectively to Connecticut in the 4 hours. Stamford, Connecticut, is a long way from the Greater Boston area. Waterbury or Danbury, Connecticut, is a long time from the Greater Boston. And so we need to make sure that Connecticut in fact has its own team, as should every other State and territory that has the potential for these kinds of attacks. And I do not stand here alone in making that argument. The Secretary of the Army in the February issue of the National Guard Association magazine said, “Yes, I do. I think the weapons of mass destruction civil support teams are a tremendous initiative. Right now the Congress has funded 32. And I would be surprised if that was not up with at least one in each State and territory. So I would see us going beyond the 32 teams in the future, and I think we will have a lot of congressional support for that because it is a tremendous capability,” said the Secretary of the Army.

The September 2001 GAO report entitled Combating Terrorism makes a similar point which is this is not the only thing we should be doing, but this is one of the things we should be doing.

“The Department of Defense plans, and officials suggested, that there eventually should be a team in each State, territory, and the District of Columbia, for a total of 54 teams.

Let us do everything we can to secure our country. Let us make sure that our first responders locally have the resources they need. Let us make sure that our armed services have every resource they need. Let us make sure that our men in the armed services have the pay that they need, as we have done over the past several years under the leadership of the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), ranking member, and the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), chairman, and other members of the committee. We have made great progress. Let us do all these good things. But as we do all these good things, let us make sure we do something else that is very important, which is to make sure that each of our States and territories has a civil support team to train and be prepared and be ready and be available should the emergency arise.

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

In closing, I do want to thank all the members of the Committee on Armed Services. Again, this passed our committee unanimously. I want to particularly commend the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES); the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON); the gentleman from Arizona (Mr.

PROVIDING FOR A SPECIAL MEETING OF THE CONGRESS IN NEW YORK, NEW YORK, ON FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 2002 IN REMEMBRANCE OF SEPTEMBER 11, 2001

Mr. ARMYE. Mr. Speaker, I offer a concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 448) providing for representation by Congress at a special meeting for New York on Friday, September 6, 2002, in remembrance of the victims and the heroes of September 11, 2001, in recognition of the courage and spirit of the City of New York, and for other purposes, and I ask unanimous consent for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the concurrent resolution.

The Speaker pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I will not object, but on behalf of the New York delegation and the people of New York, I would like to thank the leadership of the House of Representatives and that of the other body for supporting this resolution that would allow a joint session of the House and Senate to take place in the City of New York.

Being born and raised in New York, it just surprised me how many things that we take for granted, how many problems that we thought were so horrendous, how many differences we had as black and white and Jews and gentiles and Republicans and Democrats and, yet, on September 11, none of these things seemed important. It really did not make any difference what borough we were from, whether we were from the inner cities or the suburbs; as a matter of fact, whether it was upscale or downtown, was it recognized how privileged and fortunate we are just to be Americans.

This feeling was felt not only throughout my city, but throughout the State. When our delegation came to the floor of this august body and felt the love and appreciation that it is important, the support in recognizing it was not just the lives of the people that were in the Twin Towers, but it was the lives of Americans that were there. And the heroes were not people that were in planes or ships or on the battlefields, but they were ordinary people that fought and worked every day for a better America.

To think that the Congress would take time out, and especially our majority leader, who was misquoted and, as a result, felt sometimes an emotional response for those who thought that he did not want this to happen, and for a man as big as him in size as well as spirit, to say that he wanted this to happen, and it was just a question of how it would take place, I think that personally would want to thank him, as well as the entire leadership, for making us in New York feel that not only are we apprised, but the President, the national government, the Congress has responded, and we are so thankful that we will be coming to New York as a body in order to show how much we feel for those people, who lost lives for the United States of America.

So I yield to the majority leader for an explanation of the bill, and again thank him personally for the leadership that he provided to make this bipartisan American dream become a historic reality.

Mr. ARMNEY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from New York for yielding.

It is a particular pleasure for me to now be finally able to bring this resolution to the floor. The resolution, Mr. Speaker, calls on the United States Congress to convene a ceremonial joint meeting in New York City on Friday, September 6, 2002. The joint commemorative meeting will be in remembrance of the thousands of people killed and injured as well as the thousands more grieving friends and families left after the terrorist attacks upon the World Trade Center.

At the point we will also consider separate resolutions honoring the victims of the attacks upon the Pentagon and those who perished in Flight 93.

The joint meeting will be held at Federal Hall in New York City, a mere five blocks away from the site of the horrific damage left at Ground Zero. The historic location of Federal Hall served as the first meeting place of the United States Congress and where George Washington was sworn in as the first President of the United States. Fittingly, the protections of the Bill of Rights, which were assaulted on September 11, were written within the walls of Federal Hall.

Congress last gathered in a ceremonial session outside the Nation's capital in Philadelphia in 1867 in celebration of the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution. It was a very significant event that called us from these walls then as it is today.

Our resolution and resolve will continue with this historic meeting in New York. Appropriately, we have chosen the site of the most terrible destruction as the location of the joint session. It is only befitting of the fallen heroes and victims of September 11 that Congress meet to honor their memory.

Mr. Speaker, a second resolution will follow to address matters of housekeeping of the event, but first I would like to touch upon the logistics for the historic date.

The train to New York will leave Union Station in the early morning of September 6 and arrive in New York around 3:30 p.m. The joint session will be held at 11 o'clock a.m., followed by a lunch hosted by Mayor Bloomberg at the Regent Wall Street Hotel. The assembled Members will then travel to Ground Zero to lay a wreath in honor and remembrance to those who perished in the attacks of September 11, 2001. In the midafternoon, a train will leave from Penn Station for Washington. There will be separate transportation available to LaGuardia, JFK, and Newark Airports for Members wishing to return to their districts who may use their MRA for travel. We will also provide earlier transportation for Members wishing to return in time for the Jewish holiday.

The City of New York has advised that it will pay travel expenses for the Commemorative Joint Meeting and the related events of September 11, as well as the travel expenses of the participating Members, with the support of the Annenberg Foundation. Normally, Members' acceptance of such an offer would be subjected to the provision of the House gift rule on officially conducted travel paid by a private source and the "unofficial office accounts" rule. However, Mr. Speaker, this resolution expressly authorizes acceptance by the Congress of the City's offer and, as a result, acceptance of the travel and related benefits is not subject to the provisions of those House rules, including the requirement of privately paid travel in connection with official duties.

Mr. Speaker, I strongly encourage all Members of the United States House of Representatives to attend this historic Commemorative Joint Meeting of the Congress of the United States in New York City in honor of the dead, the fallen, the heroes, the sacrifice of that great city.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, and being one of the gentlemens from New York (Mr. GILMAN), I would like to add on to what the majority leader has said in terms of the schedule as relates to the visit to New York for this historic occasion.

The mayor has authorized me to share with the House that soon the Visitors and Tourists Bureau of the City of New York will soon be sending an invitation to those Members that would want to stay over for the weekend after the historic ceremony, and that a list of the activities that would be made available should be received before this week is out. I will be glad, along with the gentleman from New York (Mr. FOSSELLA), to share with the Members what information there is before we leave this week.

Mr. Speaker, I now yield to my friend, the gentleman from upstate New York (Mr. GILMAN), a friend who is the senior Representative from the New York State delegation, a person that I have enjoyed his friendship and worked with over the years. We have fought against drug trafficking and addiction in this country and all over the world more importantly than that, we have shared our personal as well as political experiences together. It has made both of our political lives a lot easier to enjoy the type of friendship that we have.

I can say publicly what I have said privately, that this House is going to miss the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) tremendously. We thank him so much for the unselfish contributions that the gentleman has made, notonly for the people in his congressional district and the great State of New York, but for the people in this country and throughout the world. This may be the last official thing that we may be doing together, but whatever the gentleman decides to do with the rest of his life, I do hope that I will be included in the future as much as we have enjoyed working together presently and in the past.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN).
Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN).

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL) and (Mr. NADLER), and all the New York delegation in unifying as a country and coming to the aid and assistance of our great city in our time of great need.

But a great deal more will have to be done more. New York City is fully back on its feet. But when you come to New York City on September 6, do not be surprised because we are a resiliant city, a resilient people, and we are fighting back and we are coming back strong. And we will show you a city that has been reborn since the attack of September 11 in large part because of the work of this body. In large part because of the work of my colleagues, the gentlemen from New York (Mr. RANGEL) and (Mr. NADLER), and all the New York delegation in unifying to see to it that New York City, New York State is not forgotten during these very, very difficult times.

Mr. Speaker, I will be at Federal Hall on September 11, the 42 years old, a battalion chief in the New York City Fire Department, a father of two boys, a musician, an attorney, a historian, a patriot, someone who loved this country so much.

I want to thank the majority leader, the leadership of this House and of the other body uniting as a country and to the aid and assistance of our great city in our time of great need. There is no doubt that New York City is still reeling from that attack. We are in pain. We are suffering. We may not wear it on our sleeves. We are not talking about it every day. We appreciate the outpouring of support that we have received from all parts of this country and from all corners of the world. We are deeply, deeply appreciative of the membership of this House and of the other body uniting as a country and coming to the aid and assistance of our great city in our time of great need.

But great deal more will have to be done more. New York City is fully back on its feet. But when you come to New York City on September 6, do not be surprised because we are a resilient city, a resilient people, and we are fighting back and we are coming back strong. And we will show you a city that has been reborn since the attack of September 11 in large part because of the work of this body. In large part because of the work of my colleagues, the gentlemen from New York (Mr. RANGEL) and (Mr. NADLER), and all the New York delegation in unifying to see to it that New York City, New York State is not forgotten during these very, very difficult times.

Mr. Speaker, I will be at Federal Hall on September 11, the 42 years old, a battalion chief in the New York City Fire Department, a father of two boys, a musician, an attorney, a historian, a patriot, someone who loved this country so much.

Mr. Speaker, I will be at Federal Hall on September 11, the 42 years old, a battalion chief in the New York City Fire Department, a father of two boys, a musician, an attorney, a historian, a patriot, someone who loved this country so much.
gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN), and the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL), for making this happen. As New Yorkers, we are grateful and we shall never forget that they have stood by us.

Mr. Speaker, I do not know how many of the Members remember, and perhaps they did not notice, but I was not here September 11. I was in New York City. I was in New York because after a difficult decision decided to where I should be on that day. I decided that when my oldest son, Jose, Jr., was running for the New York City Council in a primary that, I should be there to try to help him get elected on that day. And, as you know, in New York there are a lot of activities on election day inside the polls.

I was in front of a polling site trying to spread the good Serrano name, and around a certain time we began to see the police come out of the polling sites, we began to see the sirens going down the Bruckner Expressway, and we knew something was going on. We just did not know what. And then it happened. Folks started coming from the buildings, from inside the school in tears, screaming in loud voices, letting us know that the TV report indicated that two planes had hit the World Trade Center and that, in fact, another plane had hit the Pentagon.

At that point there was total shock because as New Yorkers and as Americans, we never believed that this could happen to us.

The same day outside another polling site were two ladies, Consuelo Maldonado and her daughter, Miriam Juarbe, who have been with us in our political struggles for the last 30 years and were there that day. What they did not know is that in downtown New York, Consuelo’s grandson and Miriam’s son, a New York Fire officer was involved in that tragic incident, that attack on our country. And he, like many others, had hit the Pentagon on that tour, if you will, and decided to stay around and go inside again to get some people out and he never came out. He died on that day.

So you see, when we New Yorkers talk about the tragedy, it is both collectively as a community and it is personal through a relative like the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY) or some of our associates or a friend. And so we cannot begin to tell everybody how important it is for what this House has done to select September 6 as a day that all Members go to New York to Federal Hall.

Our city is known to be a city of pretty tough people. In fact, let us be honest. We have a reputation at times of not having much feelings about a lot of things. We can turn our back on a lot of things and look like nothing of things. We can turn our back on a lot of not having much feelings about a lot of things and look honest. We have a reputation at times pretty tough people. In fact, let us be New Yorkers and as New Yorkers and as Americans, we are going to come back here, the only mode of transportation, if I could have a little bit of energy to spreading American values and to finding out ways to make our world safer, and I want to thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARMY) and all of the Republican leadership who have been so responsive to our community at this time. Sometimes there are not a lot of Republicans in some corners of New York City, but our parties have been very bipartisan in our effort to recover.

Many people, many Members of Congress visited New York City in the days right after September 11; and I want to thank my colleagues the New York they are going to visit on September 6 could not be more different than what they saw. If my colleagues saw destruction on that day, well, when they return on the 6th they are going to see determination. They are going to see massive rebuilding. They are going to see a debate that might make a person scratch his head, where New Yorkers are complaining that the buildings that are going to rise on that site and the tribute to be paid on that site are not grand enough; that when people thought perhaps the terrorists would force us to cower and be afraid to be in tall buildings, now we have put out of the Lower Manhattan Redevelopment Corp. everyone seems to be saying the same thing: we want to build grander and grander than we even had it before.

My colleagues might have found on September 11 and the days right after people were a little fearful about what would happen next. My colleagues will find nothing but heroism today. We see young people from all around New York City signing up to volunteer to be firefighters, to pay tribute to those heroes from September 11. We see a renewed sense of commitment to public service in New York City that defies the sense of fear that came from the days immediately following.

My colleagues may expect that that sense or kind of pessimism that had emerged right after September 11 and many of us visited, many of my colleagues were there did not exist today. Today it is nothing but optimism. Shops are reopening. Performances are booming on Broadway. We have homes being rebuilt. We have the, as much as it pains to say this, the Yankees are playing baseball and even the Mets are showing signs of life at this point in the season.

As my colleagues were there on September 11 and frankly those of us who were there in a personal way had experienced a great deal of mourning, there is also celebration today. We are celebrating all kinds of things. We are celebrating, as I said, more development than we have seen. People are investing in New York City, and we are seeing, as my colleagues might have expected or perhaps not, in the period about 9 months after September 11 we have an explosion of children being born in New York City. Can there be any tribute to optimism greater than that? We are seeing signs of life at this point in the season.

So when we return to New York City, we return not as an act of mere commemoration. It is indeed a celebration. We are celebrating our democracy. We are celebrating our resilience; and above all beyond that, we are celebrating our national victory over fear and over the terrorists. Here we will stand 1 year after an attack that seemed to be almost debilitating, and we will find that it takes more than just a body shot to our national psyche to keep us down. We have returned better than ever, and I want to thank all of my colleagues for joining us in New York City to celebrate that fact.

Mr. ENGEL, Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague for yielding to me, and I want to also pay tribute to the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN). and to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ALMEN), the majority leader, and of course, the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL), who is the dean of the New York delegation who has led us so well for so many years.

This was not only a strike on September 11 at New York City. It was not, of course, only a strike in downtown New York or in the suburbs of New York City. It was a strike at our great country, at our country. The terrorists thought that they could make us cower and that we never again could perhaps regain the greatness that we always have known. New York City has been the symbol of this country for so many years, but they were wrong.

They were wrong because in the aftermath of September 11 all our colleagues rallied around New York and asked how they could help. All of us that represent downtown New York and the cities and the suburbs, we were all, as all New Yorkers were, touched by the tragedy. All of us had friends and constituents and people who lost their lives on September 11. All of us attended the funeral of people who lost their lives on September 11, and the pain is still there. As my colleagues have said, the wound is still there.

The wound does not allow us to just throw up our hands and walk away. The pain was even more determined to rebuild and to show the world what New York really means; and so shortly thereafter, the United States Congress, the House of Representatives, the Senate, the President, and everyone in New York and New York State and New York City and massive dollars were put into New York to help us rebuild, and that process is continuing and will have to continue and we will be coming back to Congress for more because we need to keep the rebuilding process going.

The spirit of New York, if anyone had any doubt about how New Yorkers would react, they need not have any doubt anymore, because what we saw in the New York City is what I was in New York City on September 11, and the day right after, as my colleague from the Bronx also said. The only way a person could get back to Washington was driving, and I remember having a staffer driving me because my car was here, parked at the airport; and as we went over the George Washington Bridge and looked to see where the towers used to be, instead of the towers we saw smoke rising because, if my colleagues there where smoke coming out for a long, long time, for weeks and weeks and months after the tragedy. When I looked at that, I just broke down because it was just too much to fathom.

In the plane, every time I go back and forth every week, I always look at the skyline and something, of course, is missing and it really is an open wound. But we will rebuild, and of course, the towers, terrible tragedy, but not as tragic as the human life that was lost on September 11, not only in New York City but in Pennsylvania and at the Pentagon as well.

So the Congress coming to New York on September 6 is a very, very fitting tribute and one that we are very, very grateful for because it shows that a year later, the country, the Congress has not forgotten and what more fitting tribute than to bring the people’s House to New York City?

I hope that this will be the start of many, many events coming to New York City to show solidarity with the people of New York. I hope both the Democratic and Republican national conventions come to New York City. I hope the Olympics come to New York City, and I hope that people from all over the country continue to flock to New York City and tourism and other things because the city has so much to offer.

Mr. Speaker, I said in the aftermath of September 11 on the floor of this House that I was never prouder to be an American and never prouder to be a New Yorker; and just the way the events of September 11, the time, have awakened a sleeping giant, the United States, and we will win the war on terrorism, make no mistake about it. It will take many years. It will take a lot of money, but we will win that war. Something with New Yorkers, not only the heroism on September 11 and afterwards where everybody just pitched in, firefighters, policemen, iron workers, average citizens coming in; but the fact that the camaraderie that we saw, the true American character banding together to show what New Yorkers are made of, that made me very, very proud.

I will be there on September 6 with my colleagues, and I hope that a majority of colleagues from both sides of the aisle, from all parts of the country come to New York on September 6; and I hope people do not only just come and leave. I hope people stay because the symbol of New York is a symbol of this country.

The terrorists, again, did not hit New York because it was New York. They hit the World Trade Center because of the symbolism of what that center meant in the United States. So I am pleased to join with my colleagues to thank my colleagues and to say I will be seeing them all on September 6 in New York, New York, the greatest city in the world.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from New York (Mr. NADLER). This tragedy had to occur in somebody’s congressional district, and it was the 9th Congressional District; and those people are so fortunate that he is leading the way not only for the economic recovery but for the compassionate recovery of what occurred in that area.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished gentleman for yielding to me.

Mr. Speaker, on September 11, in the morning, I was down here in Washington, and I was preparing to come to the office 10 to 9:00 in the morning; and I put on the television to see the weather, and I saw the picture of the World Trade Center burning, and then as I watched, the second plane flew in, and I knew immediately it was a terrorist attack. I knew I had to get home. Therefore, because it was the middle of my district.

I went immediately to the train station because I assumed they would ground the airplanes and probably the cars would not get across the bridges and tunnels. It took me most of the day to get home, and as the gentleman from New York (Mr. ENGEL) mentioned, I often take the train to go home to New York, and it was always my habit, as we approached the city, to look out the right side window to see how far away I could see the first buildings, the World Trade Center usually, about 20 miles away, even before I got to New York.

When I looked out the window and saw a huge plume of smoke where the towers ought to be reaching up, I do not know, 10, 20,000 feet and then spread half across New Jersey, it was the most heartrending sight one could ever see. Then when I got out of the train finally, took from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., normally a 3-hour trip, at Penn Station, 33rd Street and 8th Avenue, not a car in sight. Nothing moving. Not a person in sight on the middle of a weekday. It was an incredible sight to see like a scene from some surrealistic movie.

Mr. Speaker, this attack on New York was an attack on our country, not just on New York.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE

awaken a sleeping giant and fill it with a terrible resolve,” and so it proved to be.

Mr. Speaker, the attack on our country, the attack on New York, I think, has awakened a country that may have been sleeping or partially sleeping to the threat posed to all of us by Islamic terrorism.

John F. Kennedy in 1960, referring to the struggle with Communism at that time said, we were in the middle of a long civilizational struggle. I very much believe and fear that we are, again, in for a long twilight struggle until we defeat the scourge of terrorism in this new century. But it is a battle we must wage, a battle we must win if civilization is not to descend into anarchy and if our freedoms are to be preserved.

I know we will win this. We will fight this war resolutely. We will win it, and we will make the people who started it rue the day that they awakened a sleeping giant and filled it with a terrible resolve. So I very much support this resolution.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, I yield to our final speaker, the gentleman from New York (Mr. MEEKs), the 16th Congress in the Borough of Queens, and to thank him for the great contribution that he has made to the City and our country.

Mr. MEEKS of New York. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL) for bringing forth, who is the head of our delegation and who thought of this idea and who germinated and understood how important it would be to New York. He is a great leader, a great New Yorker, a great American who served his country in war and serves his country now in the House of Representatives. And I want to thank him for his vision to make sure that we revisit New York and understand what took place on September 11.

Likewise, I want to thank my colleagues, the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARMYEY) for coming and working together, for surely it is with their help and with their guidance that we are able to do this, and it reminds me of why I am so proud to be an American.

It is September 11. No one can ever forget where he or she was on that day. It was an election day in New York City, a beautiful day in New York City, and I was late getting ready because I was in the gymnasium working out on a bicycle. And someone ran over to me and said a plane had just hit one of the towers. At that time, not thinking that it was any other attack but an accident, I got off the treadmill and began to look at the television set. And as I watched, another plane hit the next tower. Then everyone knew what was going on.

But the first thing that I saw in that time of crisis, which renews one’s spirit in its darkest hours, was that everybody in that gymnasium, every soul in that gymnasium, rallied around that television set, holding hands and coming together because we knew that we were in a dark hour. And as the World Trade Center towers fell, we saw everyone, and this is why this symbolic resolution is so important, Democrat, Republican, black, white, Asian, Puerto Rican, all coming together to feel the same, rich or poor, feeling and coming together to say we are going to stick together.

And then a few days after, the families of the victims who lost their lives in the World Trade Center and how proud and erect they stood in the most darkest of their hours, and what it told me was that still in all in the darkest of hours they realized and understood that the morning would come. So when faith would be questioned above and beyond anything they could imagine, and I went into my district that following Sunday, church after church, synagogue after synagogue was packed with people going in to pray to try to renew their faith as to making sure that there would be a better tomorrow and that there would be a tomorrow.

And I saw people, and I talked to young people who lived on the Rockaway peninsula who at Beach Channel High School could look over the bay and see the World Trade Center, some of these kids who are poor and had never had the opportunity to visit Manhattan as a family, together and clinging together as Americans. And it said to me that this great country in time of its darkest hours will renew its faith and stand together in time of crisis. And on September 6, by the people’s House coming to New York City, what it is saying to the people of New York is yes, have faith, have confidence, keep the faith. We see what you are doing in New York.

We know what you have had to overcome, and we applaud you. We will stand with you. We are a great City, we are a great people, we are a great Nation. And I thank the Members of this House in its infinite wisdom to make sure that the New Yorkers who have fought so hard to keep their faith, who fought so hard to make sure that they are indeed a resilient city will see their representatives from all across this Nation come in a symbolic mood where the first Federal Congress met and share in what I see as the beginning again and the continuation of our great Nation.

Mr. RANGEL. Reclaiming my time once again, under my reservation of objection, Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from New York for his comments.

Mr. Speaker, I want to once again thank the majority leader, the gentleman from Texas, especially for introducing this resolution, but to also point out that, as he leaves the Congress, I want to say that I have enjoyed the exchanges that we have had. I think that he and I, to a lesser degree, prove the greatness of the country, as we come from different parties, we have different political views, but we have never allowed that to interfere with our friendship.

The gentleman from Texas has always maintained his sense of humor, especially at times when the House was nearly out it during times of tension. And so while we will not miss the negative vote that he has always given for good legislation, we certainly will miss the positive contributions that he has made to make this a better House to serve the great people of our great Nation.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHood). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the concurrent resolution, as follows:

H. CON. RES. 438

Whereas on September 11, 2001, thousands of innocent people were killed and injured in combined terrorist attacks involving four hijacked airliners, the World Trade Center, and the Pentagon;

Whereas in the aftermath of the attacks, thousands more were left grieving for beloved family and friends, livelihoods were compromised, and businesses and property were damaged and lost;

Whereas the greatest loss of life, personal injury, and physical destruction occurred in and was sustained by the City of New York; whereas government and the American people responded decisively, through the bravery, sacrifice and toll of the fire and rescue workers, law enforcement, building trade caregivers, armed forces, and millions more who through their many expressions of care and compassion brought forth comfort, hope, and the promise of recovery;

Whereas the City of New York attended to the aftermath of the destruction of the World Trade Center with profound respect for the victims and compassion to the survivors;

Whereas the City of New York has invited the Congress to meet at the site of the original Federal Hall, where the First Congress of the United States convened on March 4, 1789; now, therefore be it

TRIBUTE TO THE HONORABLE TONY HALL, MEMBER OF CONGRESS

(Mrs. CLAYTON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. CLAYTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor my friend and colleague, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HALL), as he prepares to accept the nomination to be the ambassador to the Food and Agriculture Agencies of the United Nations. However, I also rise with the realization that this Congress will soon be losing one of its finest Members.

TONY HALL is a man who shows courage in the face of adversity, integrity when there is little to be found, and compassion when the prevailing winds blow with malice. Throughout his career, TONY HALL has served as the moral conscience of Congress on issues of hunger and poverty. Where there is hardship and injustice, TONY HALL is there. He has risen in the darkness. In so doing, he has spread the light to his colleagues, to this Nation, and has shed light on the actions that must be taken to satisfy the desire of the afflicted.

As we honor TONY HALL, we pay tribute to the United Nations, and we applaud the work of the Food and Agricultural Organizations of the United Nations. Where there is need, there are many here who have worked with TONY and supported his efforts in world hunger, but there is none who have so relentlessly and single-mindedly reminded this Congress and this country of our moral obligation to honor the least among us.

I honor TONY’s effort on the eve of his departure, I urge us to approach our work with compassion when the prevailing winds blow with malice. Throughout his career, TONY HALL has served as the moral conscience of Congress on issues of hunger and poverty. Where there is hardship and injustice, TONY HALL is there. He has risen in the darkness. In so doing, he has spread the light to his colleagues, to this Nation, and has shed light on the actions that must be taken to satisfy the desire of the afflicted.

Because of his effort, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HALL) is what the Book of Isaiah calls the repairer of the breach, the restorer of the streets in which to dwell; and for this, Mr. Speaker, TONY HALL has been nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize, and I imagine as TONY embark on his journey as ambassador to the United Nations Food and Agricultural Program, we shall hear his name again mentioned in connection with the Nobel Peace Prize.

The departure of TONY HALL from this Congress will leave a void of leadership on the issue of hunger. There are many here who have worked with TONY and supported his efforts in world hunger, but there is none who have so relentlessly and single-mindedly reminded this Congress and this country of our moral obligation to honor the least among us.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentlewoman yield?

Mrs. CLAYTON. I yield to the gentleman from New York.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for bringing this to the floor. I have considered it an honor to serve with the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HALL). I must tell Members from the day I was elected until this day, I believe that the gentleman and I have worked toward for the betterment of that area. We have not competed against each other, we have competed together for that region.

The gentleman has another goal that we have heard about with hunger, world hunger, local hunger. He has always worked within the district for the good of the people, the district, the State of Ohio, and the world as a whole. We are all better people because TONY HALL has served here. The world is going to be better because of the service he goes on to now.

I think there has been no one in this House that we can say any better is a true gentleman than the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HALL) and I wish him well in his new endeavor, and I thank him for working with me together over the years in our districts. Certainly he and Janet are on to a wonderful new experience.

Mr. Speaker, just a last comment. He is in great shape; I am not. To show and dear friend, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HALL).

Without question, this is a gentleman of the House. I think his appointment to the Committee on Rules and to that particular position which governs our deliberations here today is a testament to that he has brought to our institution and the manner in which he has executed it and risen in the esteem and effectiveness as a Member of Congress.

He has served honorably through the quarter century that he has given to the Congress and the people from his home district in the Greater Dayton, Ohio area.

At every fork in the road, he has elevated this institution as a person and also as a political figure. So rarely do those that really do good get their day in the sun. The newspapers tend to cover those who may have strayed from the straight and narrow, and it is particularly a pleasure today as an Ohioan to say that this man deserves our attention and appreciation.

I have watched the gentleman change over the years. Not that the goodness and the caring was not always there, but I have watched a depth of concern grow for the sufferer of this world, in its forgotten places, whether it is in our country or on another continent far from places where most Americans will never travel. He has confronted the face of suffering. He has held dying children in his arms, and he has not walked away from that horrible, horrible thought of the fragility of life and what he as a person can actually do about it.

I have seen other concerns become less important. Some, in fact, of the unimportant moments that consume so many of the hours here sometimes in a day, the procedural motions and all of the paraphernalia that goes with holding together a large country like ours and preserving institutions, but for TONY, the depth, the passion that has grown because of what he has seen and what he has seen has grown and transformed him and helped transform us through association with him to a greater understanding and, indeed, the people of the world.

As I watched TONY with some of his friends, Mickey Leland and Bill Emerson, also distinguished Members for so many years, I watched them travel together, drive together. Of course, there was knowledge that we did not have. Through those efforts to change the way in which America feeds the world, to change the way in which we look at hunger, to create the Congressional Hunger Center here, to bring the young people of America to the Nation’s capital and to get them engaged in one of the most perplexing and searing experiences one can have, and that is to meet people who do not even have enough food to survive for one day.

We are in Afghanistan and other places people eating dirt to stay alive, and it is difficult to imagine that any one of us in our own lives would ever confront that and actually take up a position where that becomes the norm. Yet to fly in the face of that and to keep walking is what the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HALL) means to me.

I have seen the photos of his trips to Africa and North Korea and I have seen TONY work with Dayton, Ohio, going through empty food pantries, trying to work with farmers that he tried to get to donate apples, and to bring those into these feeding centers, to try to find excess food that would be shipped in that metropolitan area and to make it available to the poor in his region and our State. He has been unrelenting in his commitment.

I think that the President has made an extraordinary appointment in nominating the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HALL) as our ambassador to the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations. He will do a stellar job.

I know that every single person whose life he touches and what he brings back to us and what he can tell us about how to be better citizens of our country and the world is something that he alone can do and will do for us. We will again be the better for that service.

I will say to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HALL) that I will miss him very much. As an Ohio Member, I have truly enjoyed serving with him, getting to know him and Janet, his family, the kind and the gentlemanly behavior you have always demonstrated toward me, and I know is the same with every other Member in this Chamber. God bless you and keep you safe and healthy in your travels. It has been my honor to serve with you, TONY. Come back often. You are a great American. Some day that Nobel Prize, I hope, will find its way into your home.

TRIBUTE TO THE HON. TONY HALL

(Ms. KAPTUR asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I rise along with my dear colleagues, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WolF), the gentlewoman from North Carolina (Mrs. MEEK), the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HOBSON), the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES), to pay lasting and precious tribute to our colleague and dear friend, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HALL).

TRIBUTE TO THE HON. TONY HALL

(Mr. WOLF asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, we come to the House floor today to pay tribute to our colleague, and Members will have an opportunity to put extensions in remarks, and we are doing this because obviously Congress is coming to a quick end tomorrow.

TONY was nominated by President Bush, and it is a credit to President Bush, too, nominated as the United States Ambassador to the United Nations Food and Agricultural Agencies located in Rome, Italy. He is awaiting final Senate confirmation which could come in a matter of days. Once confirmed, he will resign as a representative of the Third Congressional District of Ohio and take his post in Rome where he will be able to continue his passionate work as a leading advocate for food security around the world. He will be greatly missed in the House, but I know he is absolutely the right person.
TRIBUTE TO THE HON. TONY HALL
(Mrs. ROUKEMA asked and was given permission to address the House).

Mrs. ROUKEMA. Mr. Speaker, I would like to associate myself with the remarks of the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF), and as the Republican in the Select Committee on Hunger, I learned to know and love and work with TONY HALL.

Mr. Speaker, I do not know if it was mental telepathy, but just about an hour ago I found TONY on the floor of the House to tell him how regretful we were of his stepping down. I had no idea, however, until I watched television in my office that this was coming up today.

Tony, you are God’s blessing for the world and we wish you well, and we know you are going to help all of the hungry children of the world.

TRIBUTE TO HON. TONY HALL
(Mrs. JONES of Ohio asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. JONES of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HALL) for his service to the House and to extend to TONY HALL the warmest of good wishes.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to associate myself with the remarks of the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF), and as the Republican in the Select Committee on Hunger, I learned to know and love and work with TONY HALL.

Mr. Speaker, I do not know if it was mental telepathy, but just about an hour ago I found TONY on the floor of the House to tell him how regretful we were of his stepping down. I had no idea, however, until I watched television in my office that this was coming up today.

Tony, you are God’s blessing for the world and we wish you well, and we know you are going to help all of the hungry children of the world.

For the last 33 years, the genuine gentleman from Ohio has been serving the people of his community and our State and our Nation in remarkable ways, first in the Ohio House and then in the Senate, then it was as a Member of the United States Congress.

I first met Tony, although he probably will not remember it, in 1974 when we were working on behalf of a gubernatorial candidate all over the State and he was all running all over the State seeking to become Secretary of State. Fortunately he did not succeed in that because he may never have gotten to the United States Congress and to the threshold of the enormous opportunity and responsibility that lies before him today. I am confident that he will continue to be a tireless voice for alleviating global hunger.

Tony has been nominated for the Nobel Prize three times. One of these days the recognition that that will bring will remind people will understand the value of what he has done and can do with that recognition, and we will not be talking about nominations anymore. I have got much more written here, but I know you are trying to get as many people onto the floor as you can. Mr. Speaker, I will put much of this in the RECORD.

I just want to say that his service to his constituents has been remarkable and his work on behalf of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and the whole history of aviation in Ohio has been a signal to the rest of the Nation of what the Miami Valley has meant in the course of this past century in going from the dune to the moon. It has been an amazing contribution.

But above all and more important than anything else, TONY HALL sets the standard for decency and integrity among us in this House. He models the behavior that he expects of all and it is necessary alike, and of each, he seeks to make a friend by being one.

Thank you, Tony. It has been an honor for all of us to serve with you as a Member of this House and for us from Ohio, in particular, as a member of your delegation. I hope we all will join in wishing TONY HALL the very best in his future endeavors because it will make our lives and our world a better place.

Mr. Speaker, for the last 33 years, TONY HALL, the Gentleman from Ohio, has been a true public servant for the people of Ohio, first, as a member of the Ohio House of Representa...

Mr. Speaker, I am confident that in his new position as the U.S. ambassador to the food and agriculture organizations in Rome, the Gentleman from Ohio will continue to be a tireless voice for alleviating global hunger. He will also bring honor and dignity to his new position, just as he has done in the House.

With the TONY HALL leading our government's effort to promote food security across the globe, the United States will be well represented in the international community. Most important, those who face each day with hunger were the events and ended up focused on addressing their burden. He has always had passion for ending hunger. Now, as the ambassador, he can be single-minded in his efforts and fight for this cause with the full support and authority of the United States government.

Nominated for the Nobel Peace Price three times, Mr. Hall's humanitarian efforts abroad are well known. However, I believe it is important to highlight the important work he has done on behalf of his constituents throughout his tenure in Congress. He has been a staunch supporter of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, his district's largest employer, and has been a leader in the House in support of the Air Force Science and Technology program, which is headquartered at Wright-Patterson.

He also drafted legislation that was enacted in 1992 which created the Dayton Aviation Heritage National Historical Park and established the Park as a unit of the National Park System. The law also established the Dayton Aviation Heritage Commission to assist federal, state, and local authorities in preserving and managing the historic resources in the Miami Valley that are associated with the Wright brothers and aviation. This park will serve as a reminder for generations of Dayton residents and visitors from around the world about the importance of Dayton as the birthplace of aviation.

More important and above all else, he sets the standard for decency and integrity among us in the House. He models the behavior we expect of ally and adversary alike. And of each he seeks to make a friend by being one. Thank you, TONY.

It has been an honor to serve with you as member of the Ohio delegation and as colleagues in this House for the past 16 years. I hope we will all join in wishing him the very best in his future endeavors.

TRIBUTE TO HON. TONY HALL

(Mr. McGovern asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. McGovern. Mr. Speaker, I am very honored to join with my colleagues here this afternoon as we pay tribute to TONY HALL.

Mr. Speaker, in my opinion TONY HALL is not only a great Congressman, he is a great man. As all of my colleagues in this Chamber know, he has long been a leader on human rights issues, on hunger issues in this Congress. I first got to know TONY HALL when I was a staffer for the late Congressman Joe Moakley, and I recall when I worked for Congressman Moakley receiving a letter from Congressman HALL on the issue of East Timor. TONY HALL was the first voice to speak out on behalf of the people of East Timor. He was a courageous voice in condemning the atrocities that were inflicted on the people of East Timor by the Indonesian military. He organized letters, he organized protests, he organized press conferences, and he fought very hard to help those people secure independence in East Timor. I believe very strongly that the independence that East Timor has ultimately achieved in large part and the support that the United States provided that independence movement in large part is due to the efforts of TONY HALL.

He also, and I have been very proud to work with him on this issue, has been a great leader in helping us with the global food for education initiative, the so-called George McGovern-Bob Dole Global Food for Education Initiative. TONY HALL knows that hunger in this world is essentially a political condition and hunger amongst children is immoral. We need to do something about it.

We have the ability to do something about it. He has steadfastly challenged this Congress and this country to do more to alleviate hunger around the world. I am particularly proud to have him as an ally on this effort because this country is one of the few sure that every child in the world gets at least one nutritious meal a day in a school setting.

He knows that children who are hungry cannot learn. He also knows that when you improve in a school setting, more children actually go to school. And so he is committed not only to eliminating hunger amongst children, but to universal education, for all children. He knows that that is how we create a more tolerant, a less violent, a better world for all of us.

While he is well known for a lot of his international efforts, he has also been a champion to fight hunger and homelessness right here in the United States. We all recall his vigils and his walks with homeless people throughout this city. I remember one evening when he launched a hunger fast to try to get us to do more in this Congress to help the homeless and to help those who were hungry. He has been the conscience of this Congress.

I want to just say that I cannot think of anybody more qualified to go on to become the United States Ambassador to the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization in Rome, TONY HALL. It is a job that my friend and my teacher, my mentor, George McGovern, had for many years. I think TONY HALL will be excellent in that position and will use that international forum to not only compel the United States, but to compel the rest of the world to do more on these issues. I am honored to follow him on the Rules Committee where he served with such distinction for many years.

We will miss TONY’S passion and resolve commitment. I hope that Congress does not forget the hungry of the world when he is no longer here to speak out on their behalf. He has done incredible things here in the United States Congress, and I expect that he will do incredible things in his new position. I thank him very much for his service and his friendship.

TRIBUTE TO HON. TONY HALL

(Ms. Jackson-Lee of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. Jackson-Lee of Texas. Mr. Speaker, TONY HALL has taught us well, and I want to be a good student. Though he is going to Rome, let me tell you that Afghanistan, Mr. HALL, cannot wait until you get to Rome. Sub-Saharan Africa cannot wait until you get to Rome. Parts of Texas cannot wait until you get to Rome. Because there is hunger in these places, and famine, and I delighted that Congressman HALL will be able to be not a soldier but a general in the VAgainst hunger.

I guess I have had the privilege of knowing you longer than my tenure in this House, because in the 18th Congressional District, TONY HALL was like the other Member that represented us. Your good friend, Congressman Mickey Leland, made sure that we understood the issues of hunger and that we are, in fact, our brothers' and sisters' keeper.

I remember hearing about Bill Emerson. I remember hearing about the Select Committee on Hunger and now knowing the story of, before I got here, your hunger strike when efforts were made to dismantle that committee. What we learned is that hunger grows. It will not end on its own. And TONY you did not mind whether it was in style or was out of style, or that the issue was a popular issue today. He consistently stayed the course. The congressional hunger fellows that many of you may have had experiences with or may not, today are a steady force of trained, young, bright professionals, committed, passionate souls who today fight hunger because of their spiritual guru in TONY HALL.

He certainly spoke out and still speaks out against homelessness, but he finds causes and he never lets up. The blood diamonds that many of us may not have been exposed to, I remember traveling to Botswana and the issue was made known, "We are doing good things with our diamonds. What is that TONY HALL doing?" I am glad I joined his cause, because when you see the dismemberment of children or the amputation of the severe violence against children over these diamonds in countries in West Africa, you know that his heart and his mind and his message and his actions were in the right place.
So for me it has been, I guess, sort of a continuing of the spirit that we knew in Texas. Mickey Leland would not have wanted this day to pass without his words being offered: Thank you, friend. Thank you, friend.

And as a student of yours, though my efforts may never have as been they should have been, let me recommit my- self and when I say that, I suggest that all of us are filled with the responsibilities of this body, but let me recommit myself to the teacher's teachings and that is to work against hunger. We wish you well and we know that you, in your role in Rome, will fight hunger around the world. We thank you. A heavenly and sincere farewell to you and your wife. We thank you for all of your service.

TRIBUTE TO HON. TONY HALL

(Mr. McNULTY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. McNULTY. Mr. Speaker, TONY HALL has been a friend of mine for 14 years. When you have seen firsthand the enormity of the hunger problem on the planet, you can understand the commitment of TONY HALL. My first appointment by a Speaker of this body was to the Select Committee on Hunger, and 3 months after that appointment, I was in Sudan with Mickey Leland, with GARY ACKERMAN, with my late friend Bill Emerson. And in that country the year before, 1988, 280,000 people starved to death, in that one country. I often use these numbers to illustrate sometimes that we do not have our priorities straight.

If a few thousand people die in Europe, we get involved in the conflict, as well we should. In the homeland of my ancestors, in Ireland, over the past 30 years in what we call “The Troubles,” between 3,000 and 4,000 people have died, and I think that is a lot of people; and I am glad we are getting involved in trying to bring peace in that conflict. But in that one year, in one country on the continent of Africa, 280,000 people starved to death, and somehow we do not as a Nation have the same commitment to doing something about that.

In that one nation over the period of the last 20 years, more than 2 million people have starved to death on what I call the forgotten continent.

I can tell you, if any one person in this body has worked consistently to make sure that is not the forgotten continent, and that men, women, and children do not starve to death on this Earth of such great bounty, it is TONY HALL.

I can remember when I was in one of those camps down in southern Sudan; it was either Mugud or Wau, and I looked out and I could see huge numbers of people, as far as the eye could see, without really knowing where their next meal was coming from. It was very moving to me.

I remember turning to TONY’s friend, Mickey, who was chairman of the select committee at the time, and saying to him, “Mickey, how are we going to solve the problems of the Talmud. He was giving me a lesson. He said, “Mike, if you save one life, you save the world.” That was his message to me, that each one of us has to do our own small part in trying to correct horrendous situations like that.

No, not just all of the problems of the world, but if each of us helped in our own small way with whatever talents or resources we have, we could solve these problems. That is something that that teacher has demonstrated to me, and I thank him for it.

I know there are many others who want to speak, Mr. Speaker; so I will abbreviate my remarks. I will just con- clude by saying that TONY HALL is one of the Members of the prayer of St. Francis and especially understands and demonstrates that it is in giving that we receive. He understands the fundamental principle, that life is to give, not to take.

I salute you, my friend; and thank you for your commitment to the men, women, and children of this world.

TRIBUTE TO THE HONORABLE TONY HALL, A TRUE SERVANT-LEADER IN THE FIGHT AGAINST POVERTY AND HUNGER

(Mr. RAMSTAD asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to one of the greatest humanitarians to ever serve in the United States Congress. Congressman TONY HALL has inspired all not only the Members of this body, but people throughout the entire world, with his untiring and selfless dedication to helping people in need.

Congressman TONY HALL is a true servant-leader. The minute you meet TONY and talk to him about what drives him, you can easily understand why he has been nominated three times for the Nobel Peace Prize, in 1998, 1999 and 2001. TONY HALL’s pioneering leadership for hunger relief programs and international human rights is legendary.

After 24 years as a Member of Congress and all TONY HALL has accomplished around the world, it is easy to understand why President Bush has nominated him for the rank of ambassador as the United States representa- tive to the United Nations Agencies for Food and Agriculture, the organizations that deal with international hun- ger relief.

Tony has served the people of his district in Ohio and the people of this great country with great distinction for 24 years, and we are all going to miss TONY as he leaves the House for his new position. But TONY will remain uppermost in our hearts and minds as he continues the important work which has defined his legacy here in Congress. TONY HALL has left his mark, Mr. Speaker, in so many ways. I have worked closely with TONY on many legis- lative initiatives, including hunger, housing, and welfare issues. It has been a real privilege to serve with TONY as a member of the Congressional Hunger Center, of which TONY HALL is the founder and chairman.

But, Mr. Speaker, I am even more privileged to have come to know TONY and his wonderful wife, Janet, on a per- sonal level and to witness firsthand their important ministry to people in need.

Although examples are endless, one example leaps to mind. TONY and I have shared many fond memories of the 20th anniversary dinner of our Greater Lake Country Food Bank in Minneapolis, which I helped found. My good friend, our good friend, Hy Rosen, who is the director of this important food bank in Minnesota, asked me to find a keynote speaker for the 20th an- niversary celebration in April of 2000. Of course, I thought immediately of my friend TONY HALL.

I will never forget TONY’S stirring, in- spiring message to the overflow crowd of volunteers, staff, and community leaders that night at the Greater Lake Country Food Bank. TONY’S message inspired all of us to work even harder to help fight hunger, inspired all of us to move to greater heights in the war against hunger, inspired all of us to greater accomplishments on behalf of people in need.

TONY HALL has that effect on people. TONY can motivate like few others be- cause of the way TONY HALL speaks right from the heart. TONY HALL walks the walk.

Mr. Speaker, TONY HALL calls it his “personal passion” to fight hunger and improve conditions for the neediest people both here at home and abroad.

TONY and I have been active with an organization in Washington called the People’s House. I keep a card in my wallet which talks about the People’s House as a place where any person in our Nation’s Capital can call and talk to a friend, anytime, night or day. The friends who made this possible know that TONY is a true friend to so many people, a person who every day sees his calling as helping the less fortunate and bringing the light of the Lord into all areas of this life.

Those of us who know TONY are very pleased to see him continuing the im- portant work he began here in Con- gress 24 years ago in his new position as the U.S. ambassador to United Nations that deal with international hun- der relief. I might add, this is a great appointment by President Bush. He could not have chosen a more qualified, a more compassionate or a better indi- vidual to serve in this important posi- tion.

I am truly privileged by TONY’S friendship the past 12 years; and I wish,
TRIBUTE TO THE HONORABLE TONY HALL

(Mr. KUCINICH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the Ohio delegation, I have been proud to call TONY HALL “leader.” He has led our delegation with dignity and honor, and he has brought to this House a grace, a wisdom, and a compassion which has filled up this House.

It is a work of mercy to feed the hungry, and TONY’s life has been about showing mercy and about bringing together resources to make sure that hungry people would be fed in this country and around the world. When TONY saw a challenge, where hungry people did not have their needs met, TONY put himself on the line physically to work on behalf of the hungry people.

In his new capacity, Ambassador TONY HALL will be the one who people will look to from all over the world to deal with the challenges of world hunger. He will be the one who will make sure that the World Food Program is effective. And that food gets to people who need it, will be the one who makes sure that the Food and Agricultural Organization coordinates its efforts to those most in need. He will be the one to make sure that the International Fund for Agricultural Development uses its resources to grow new opportunities for people around the world.

Many of us in life are challenged to step up to our responsibilities to help others; and when we are, we sometimes hear the echo of words that come from Scriptures; and the echo that TONY HALL heard years ago was of a question that asked, “When I was hungry, did you feed me?” TONY HALL has been able to stand before this Congress and say, yes, and next he will stand in Rome in front of the world and answer again, yes.

What a blessing it has been to work with you, TONY. God bless you. We all in this Congress look forward to working with you to continue to address the challenges of hunger, which are so serious all over this world and which your large heart encompasses, all the people of the world, so that they can share in the abundance which we know this world has.

Thank you, TONY HALL.

TRIBUTE TO THE HONORABLE TONY HALL

(Ms. CARSON of Indiana asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. CARSON of Indiana. Mr. Speaker, I wanted to run to the floor when I saw that this was under way to give my own personal and special tribute to the Honorable TONY HALL, who has had now a higher calling, one of ambassador to the United Nations for Food and Agricultural Agencies, all the way in Rome. What a beautiful place to be, in Rome.

I have not known the Honorable TONY HALL for as long as many of you have, and certainly do not hail from the same State he elected; but TONY HALL has the kind of spirit that radiates across boundary lines, geographical lines, State lines.

When you understand TONY HALL, the genuine spirit that he emits, knowing that he has reverence for the world’s hungry and for food safety around the world, you cannot help but consider him a comrade, a colleague, regardless of the State from which he hails.

TONY HALL is willing to make this sacrifice, to give up a very safe seat in the United States House of Representatives, to go on to what I consider, TONY, to be a higher calling, but a much more important calling. As the speaker before me recalled from Scripture, “When I was hungry, did you feed me?”

I do not want to get emotional about this, but when you think of all of the children around the world who need a TONY HALL there to advocate there for them, kids who go to bed hungry, kids who wake up hungry, kids who are dying from malnutrition, kids who are orphans, perpetuated by the unabated rise of AIDS and HIV and tuberculosis and lack of immunization, when their lives could be spared and their bellies could be fed, to think that you and your lovely wife are going to go out along the highways and the byways and truly be a Good Samaritan along life’s highway, you remind me often of what I describe for people like you: you live not just to live, but to live for a cause, living for God’s people.

You are reminiscent of the poet that said, “If I can just help somebody as I am walking through, then my living will not be in vain.”

The nice thing about this, TONY, is for you to be able to sit here and hear this, because oftentimes when we lose a Member, we are memorializing the Member.

But you have an opportunity to sit here and know that people love you and that people are going to miss you. I know one thing, after a speech like this in this chamber, you better give me your address so I can come to Rome and tell the security there, I know TONY HALL, I am one of his former colleagues, and to be one of your colleagues.

But to make this kind of commitment to good work, you are what I call an unsung hero, one that does not seek the spotlight. But you certainly will eternally have the high light, and that is far more important than prizes and accolades and all of those kinds of things. You have a high light that radiates eternally.

TRIBUTE TO THE HONORABLE TONY HALL

(Mrs. EMERSON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. EMERSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to join with my colleagues in paying special tribute to an extraordinary individual and one who has touched the lives of the entire Emerson family over many, many years.

Mr. Speaker, I recall the friendship, the very close and deep friendship that TONY had with my late husband, Bill; the faith that they shared together, the compassion that TONY showed, the deep faith and love that TONY showed for Bill as he held our hands and Bill’s hand through a very fatal illness and his subsequent death. All of this in spite of the fact that his own son was very seriously ill.

But I guess that when Bill did not come as a surprise to anyone who knows TONY, because I can think of no person who is more of a hero and more of an inspiration than TONY HALL, not only in the work that he has done throughout his years in Congress, but truly, there is no one who has put the face on the issue of hunger, both here and abroad.

Mr. Speaker, I remember so very well the time that TONY went on the hunger strike so that he would finally make all of us, or all of our colleagues; I was not in Congress back then, but Bill Emerson and everyone understood that there was a very serious problem in the United States and in the world, and that Congress needed to get serious about this issue. He made his mark. He made it not only here in the Congress, but throughout the United States and throughout the world.

As TONY leaves his position here in Congress and he leaves his position as the chairman of the Congressional Hunger Center, he has left me in a bit of a precarious position, because TONY had recommended that I become the new chairman of the Congressional Hunger Center, and I do not think I have ever been so scared of anything in my life, nor so intimidated, because no one, no one could possibly fill the shoes that you, TONY, have. You are a remarkable person, and I am so pleased that the President understood the gift that you have for people, the gift you have for life, the faith, the leadership, the inspiration that you give to all of us.

As you move to this very, very important job in Rome, all of us will be with you in spirit, be praying for you, and know that there is no better person to help the world understand the investment we must make to rid the world of hunger.
Thank you, Tony, so much for being our friend, for being our colleague, and for being a real and genuine person who always cares more about others than yourself.

(b) No amendment to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute shall be in order except those printed in the report of the Committee on Rules accompanying this resolution and amendments en bloc described in section 3 of this resolution.

Sect. 3. (a) Except as provided in section 4 of this resolution, each amendment printed in the report of the Committee on Rules may be of- fered only in the order printed in the report, may be offered only by a Member designated in the report, shall be considered as read, shall be debatable for the time specified in the report equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent, shall not be subject to amendment, and shall not be subject to a demand for division of the question in the House or in the Committee of the Whole.

(b) All points of order against amendments printed in the report of the Committee on Rules on amendments en bloc described in section 3 of this resolution are waived.

Sect. 4. The Chairman of the Committee of the Whole may recognize for consideration of any amendment printed in the report of the Committee on Rules out of the order printed, but not sooner than one hour after the chair- man of the Select Committee on Homeland Security or his designee announces from the floor a request to that effect.

Sect. 5. At the conclusion of consideration of the bill for amendment only, the Committee shall rise and report the bill to the House with such amendments as may have been adopted. Any Member may demand a separate vote in the House on any amendment adopted in the Committee of the Whole to the bill or to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute. The previous question shall be voted on before the bill and amendments thereto final passage without intervening motion except one motion to recommit with or without in- structions.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is, Will the House now consider House Resolution 502.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds of those having voted in favor of the question agreeing to the question) the House agreed to consider House Resolution 502.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. PRYCE) is recognized for 1 hour.

Ms. PRYCE of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentlewoman from Texas (Mr. FROST), the ranking member of the Committee on Rules and a member of the Select Committee on Homeland Security, pending which I will yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

Mr. Speaker, H. Res. 502 is a struc- tured rule providing for the consider- ation of H.R. 5005, the Homeland Secu- rity Act. The rule provides 90 minutes of general debate, equally divided and controlled between the chairman and ranking minority member of the Select Committee on Homeland Security. It provides an amendment in the nature of a substitute recommended by the Select Committee on Homeland Security now printed in the bill be considered as an original bill for the purpose of amendment.

The rule also makes in order only those amendments printed in the Committee on Rules report accompanying the resolution. Each amendment may be offered only in the order printed, may be offered only by a Member designated in the report, shall be debatable only for the time specified, equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent, and shall not be subject to amendment or demand for division of the question, except as specified in section 4.

The rule waives all points of order against consideration of the bill and waives all points of order against such amendments. The rule provides the select committee or its designee en bloc authority. Finally, the rule provides one motion to recommit, with or without instructions.

Mr. Speaker, America has awakened to a new era in global affairs. As President Bush has noted, we are today a nation at risk to a new and changing threat. We can no longer hold on to the belief that between our shores we are free from the violence of the world. On September 11, we learned all too well and at all too high a price that a stark new reality confronts us as a Nation. We should not doubt that our freedom, our liberty, our very way of life are under attack.

Today, we take bold and necessary steps to reshape our Government to reflect the sad new reality. The process we will use to take these steps is a fair and equitable one, and I would like to take a moment to clarify for my colleagues that while this is a structured rule, this rule reflects the negotiated recommendations of the House leadership, both Republican and Democrat, and will allow for a spirited debate on issues focused on homeland security and the creation of the Department of Homeland Security.

It is jointly recommended by the Speaker of the House and the minority leader and their wisdom ensures that all opinions will be considered and all issues pertaining to homeland security are aired because, Mr. Speaker, the victims of terror do not care about political differences. This nonpartisan process for consideration of H.R. 5005 illustrates that the security of our homeland simply cannot and must not be a partisan issue. Of course, this does not mean that difficult decisions have not been made during the process of crafting legislation, and it does not mean that more difficult decisions have yet to be made here tonight and tomorrow. I had the great honor to serve on the House Select Committee on Homeland Security, which just last week considered and marked up the underlying legislation. Under the fair and steady leadership of the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARMED), Chairman and leader of the Committee, and from some of the Nation’s most selfless, accomplished, and dedicated public servants. We also considered the expert recommendations made by the 12 committees of jurisdiction in the House and incorporated the vast majority of their recommendations. The Select Committee process was fair, open, and inclusive. We continue that practice today with this rule, which was crafted through joint effort by the majority and the minority.

The world we live in today is a very different place than it was in 1947 when the last major reorganization of our Government took place. At that time, as noted by President Truman, the world was a place “in which strength on the part of peace-loving nations was still the greatest deterrent to aggression.” Today our military might, while still vital to our national defense, is no longer the single best way to deter aggression and to ensure our national security.

The perpetrators of terrorism have recognized that our greatest strength, our open society, which also makes us vulnerable to their attacks. They are shadowy and agile, and they target us like predators without distinction between military target and ordinary citizen. The war against terror is fought not just on battlefields abroad but in our very own cities and towns. We must be able to respond at home in a strong, informed, coordinated, and agile way.

The creation of a new Cabinet-level Department of Homeland Security, which just last week the House of Representatives made its way to the President’s desk by September 11.

On a bipartisan basis, Members have recommended a number of important, good faith changes to the administration’s original proposal. Republican and Democratic leaders on the Select Committee on Homeland Security unfortunately rejected many of these bipartisan improvements, and they snuck in several ideological and partisan side issues, controversial riders that, in some cases, actually threaten the effectiveness of the Department of Homeland Security.

That is why I, along with so many others, have argued from the beginning that the entire House needed the opportunity to vote on these controversies on the floor. While this rule is not as open as I would have liked, it does allow colleagues to address the most critical issues. Several Democratic amendments would add to the underlying bill to increase the effectiveness of new departments.

The Waxman amendment, for instance, would strengthen the White House Office of Homeland Security. According to the General Accounting Office, creating the new department will... take five to 10 years, and even after it is completed, much of the work to prevent terrorist attacks would be done in other agencies like the CIA and the FBI. The Waxman amendment would ensure that the White House Homeland Security advisor has the authority and the oversight of all of these different governmental agencies to increase the security of the American people.

Additionally, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. MENENDEZ) has an important amendment to ensure the new department shares information with State and local first responders, the people on the front lines of homeland defense, our local police and fire.

Other amendments address the controversial provisions in the underlying bill. For instance, this bill would undercut the Freedom of Information Act. It would harm whistleblower protections. That means that if an employee wanted to alert the public to wrong in any agency, they may be liable. The way Coleen Rowley blew the whistle on failures in the FBI investigation of Zacarias Moussaoui, he or she might be subject to retaliation from supervisors. That is not just wrong, it is bad for effective government. The Department of Homeland Security.

Fortunately, the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. MUKAHI) has an important amendment to ensure the new department is something that I personally feel very strongly about. On September 11 the plane that crashed into the Pentagon struck the office of my wife’s boss. My wife is an Army officer. Fortunately, she was not in his office on that day. Her office is several miles from the Pentagon. But two people who worked for my wife were killed on September 11; and I want to make sure that nothing like that can ever happen again in this country.

This country deserves the strongest possible protection against terrorist attack. And I think that on a bipartisan basis we will rise to the occasion and create a strong, effective new department in the next two days.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. PRYCE of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from the great State of Florida (Mr. DIAZ-BALART) and fellow member of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. DIAZ-BALART. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak on this fair and balanced rule that has been crafted to facilitate that historic act.

For weeks now the House has been working its will through committee after committee markup. The House further worked its will by agreeing to the creation of a Select Committee on Homeland Security to review the recommendations of all the House committees of jurisdiction. And now the Committee on Rules has been given the task to preserve the efforts that have been made to keep this a fair and open process, and that is exactly what we have done.

The terrorists and dictators of the world who seek the demise of the United States thought that September 11 would change America, but Americans have not changed. This Nation is full of true heroes, men and women who love freedom and will not tolerate those who wish to destroy the freedoms we hold dear. But there has been a change the terrorists did not expect. We are reorganizing. Just as this country has done after previous disasters, we are meeting the challenges before us.

This Act reforms our response to threats at home just as we reformed the military following World War II to meet the threats of our time. I am very pleased to see that a strong intelligence analysis component is included in the underlying bill so that the information is clear that protects companies that sell harmful products to the public. This language, which was not requested by the President, goes well beyond current law and gives companies a get-out-of-jail free card, no matter how malicious, wanton or reckless their conduct may have been. Fortunately, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. PORTMAN) has an amendment to ensure companies have legal protection to invest in security technology, but without leaving the public helpless against every scam artist who claims to have a security-related product. It deserves our support. Also, the rule make in order an amendment by the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OLNTEN) that would maintain the December 31, 2002 deadline for airline baggage screening. This is a controversial issue that was added to the underlying bill by the Select Committee and was not requested by the President and it deserves full consideration on the House floor.

Mr. Speaker, I must not with disappointment in the Department of Homeland Security, that Republican leaders are blocking a common sense corporate responsibility amendment by the gentlewoman from Connecticut (Ms. DELAUR), the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DOGGETT), the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. NOLAN), the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. TURNER). Their amendment would make corporate tax dodgers ineligible for government contracts at all levels of government. If a corporation will not pay its own taxes, then it does not deserve to be paid with other people’s taxes, but Republican leaders insist on protecting this loophole.

In the interest of time, I will leave it to others to discuss the other important amendments. I do want to mention a couple of additional ongoing issues surrounding the bill, however. First, we must ensure that America’s immigration policies allow for family reunion and adoption so that those who seek the demise of the American people.

Second, Congress must honestly address the question of how much it will cost taxpayers to create this new department. The nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office put the price tag at $4.5 billion and the bipartisan leaders of Senate Budget Committee have warned that it could add significantly to future spending. Nevertheless, Republican leaders in the House cling to the fiction that they can create a 170,000 person Federal bureaucracy without spending any additional money. It is no small irony that the same Republicans who often campaign against the government now want to create a bigger Federal bureaucracy but refuse to pay for it.

Mr. Speaker, let us be honest with the American people. Our national security is not cheap and neither is homeland security. Cooking the books will only drag us deeper into debt and hurt the credibility of the new department we are creating. Make no mistake, Mr. Speaker, creating the Department of Homeland Security is a bipartisan effort. I urge my Republican colleagues to join us in cleaning up this bill so that we can pass it with the overwhelming bipartisan majority of needs.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to take a moment to repeat something I have said on several occasions in another context. The creation of this new department is something that I personally feel very strongly about. On September 11 the plane that crashed into the Pentagon struck the office of my wife’s boss. My wife is an Army officer. Fortunately, she was not in his office on that day. Her office is several miles from the Pentagon. But two people who worked for my wife were killed on September 11; and I want to make sure that nothing like that can ever happen again in this country.

This country deserves the strongest possible protection against terrorist attack. And I think that on a bipartisan basis we will rise to the occasion and create a strong, effective new department in the next two days.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.
generated by the intelligence community will best serve our national security. Additionally, given the enormous flow of goods and services that we see coming through our community in South Florida, I have long been a proponent of strengthening the resources of Customs and Border Protection to support the enormous task they are entrusted with. I am pleased to see the steps taken to strengthen this role, and I will continue to work to ensure that all of our Nation’s airports and ports of entry have the resources to keep America safe.

Mr. Speaker, we are meeting the challenge. I urge strong support for the rule and the underlying bill.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR).

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the rule and in opposition to the underlying bill.

We do not need another Federal department. Homeland security means economic security for our workers and our families here at home. It means good jobs. It means pensions they can depend on and it means health benefits that are there for all.

It is really interesting that this administration has put this glossy report together on this new department, which would be the third largest bureaucracy in the government of the United States, over 170,000 people, and how much money many billions of dollars and still counting.

Basically, this is political cover over an operational problem. We know that the CIA and the FBI did not do their job completely. We knew Osama bin Laden was the number one enemy. We did not know where he was.

Right after 9-11, what did the FBI and the CIA do? They start advertising in The Washington Post for people who could speak Arabic and Pashtun because they did not properly staffed inside the departments and agencies that should have been functioning. So now we will create another department. Does that mean they will have people who can translate? Will we have people who can do the job? Will they get the computers so they can communicate?

The FBI and CIA are not in the Homeland Security Agency where we have the problem. They are not even part of the solution. What will we get from this department, when we most need coordination in this country at every level, we will get chaos.

I bet the people here on the floor of today have never been about setting up a new Federal department. We set up the Department of Energy. Are we energy self-sufficient today? No, we are not. We set up the Department of Education. Are our kids reading scores going up? No, they are not.

So now at a time when we need really refined efforts across this world to deal with the problem that we have not faced before, we are setting up the Department, and will it have the staffing that is necessary. Just on one agency that they will try to roll in here APHIS, the Animal, Plant Health Inspection Service from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The problem is we do not have enough inspectors at the border. Are you going to give us more money for inspectors or are you just going to throw the box over to another department?

The problem is not a new department. The problem is making the agencies that exist function. I am proud of the people in New York City.

We could have had 50,000 die. We had 3,000 dead. They did their job. We saved 47,000 lives in this country. Our local law enforcement people, they need training at the local level. They do not need a new Federal Department to do that. They need training moneys to go down to the locality. We do not need to cut the law enforcement budget, what this administration is doing in terms of cops on the beat.

In terms of FEMA, I do not want to put FEMA in this Department. FEMA works. It took us 10 years to fix FEMA up. So why do we want to stick it in this huge department and we cannot even get direct communication to the top? We fought World War II, we did not need this Department. We defeated the Communists and the Soviet Union. We did not need this Department to do that. We fought the Persian Gulf War. Why do we need this now?

This is political cover for operational problems the administration does not want to solve. Vote against the rule and the bill.

Ms. PRYCE of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Texas (Mr. THORNBERY), who has worked so hard on this issue over the years before it became something that the Nation was riveted upon.

Mr. THORNBERY asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. THORNBERY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding me the time and for her considerable contributions as a member of the select committee, as a member of leadership and as a member of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this rule. We will have a number of issues we will debate, some important components as amendments. I hope my colleagues can remember that what we are trying to do is create an integrated Department of Homeland Security to make us safer. This is no place for political agendas. This is no place for conspiracy theories. This is no place to be pointing fingers of blame. This is a place to work on a bipartisan basis to make this country safer. That is the only reason to create this Department and that must be its goal.

Mr. Speaker, this is an unusual procedure. It seems to be coming rapidly; but in fact, a lot of work has gone into getting this proposal together, and I want to take just a second to acknowledge some of the people who have made this possible, starting with the bipartisan Hart-Rudman Commission, co-chaired by Senators Hart and Rudman, including our former colleagues Speaker Gingrich and Lee Hamilton, who both co-chaired the commission. For 25 years at the security threats we face and said number one is homeland security and what we ought to do is create a new Department of Homeland Security. We are doing that.

Secondly, I want to thank my staff who has spent many, many hours on this, particularly Kim Kotlar, who has spent probably more hours working on this issue than any other person inside or outside Congress.

I also want to thank the sponsors of the proposal, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. HARMAN), the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER), and the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. GIBBONS), who worked on a bipartisan basis, on a general basis, along with Senator LIEBERMAN and his colleagues, to get this proposal here; and it is an example of where we have come together, many of us in the Congress, to make us safer.

I think we all ought to thank the Select Committee on Homeland Security under the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARMEEY) leadership for the work that they have done; but, Mr. Speaker, I also want to thank the President of the United States because he could have tinkered around the edges and just offered a few token changes, but he took on a tough job. He said we want to do this right and this is leadership. That is the kind of leadership we expect from a President, and it is the kind of leadership we are going to have from this House over the next 2 days if we are going to develop this Department with the tools it needs to keep us safer.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

H5625

21st Century, more commonly known as the Hart-Rudman Commission. Under the leadership of its chairmen, Senators Hart and Rudman, and with the diligent work of an outstanding group of preeminent Americans as commissioners, including our former colleagues Lee Hamilton and Speaker Gingrich, who also created the Commission, the Commission took three years to study America's national security challenges of the next 25 years.

Aided by a first-rate staff that was directed by General Chuck Boyd, they concluded that our most important challenge has homeland security, and unanimously recommended that Congress create a new department out of the dozens of existing agencies with some homeland security mission. It was their vision, courage, and persistence in pushing the idea which earns them the first accolades.

Going somewhat in chronological order, I want to thank my staff and especially Kim Kotlar. I suspect they thought that I was “tilting at windmills” when I told them a year and a half ago that I wanted to introduce a bill to create the Department of Homeland Security. But, they swallowed their doubts and in the subsequent months have put many hours into bringing that idea to reality. Ms. Kotlar, a retired Naval intelligence officer, has probably done more work on this proposal than any other person. This Congress and our entire Nation join me in owing her an enormous debt of gratitude.

Next, I want to thank the primary sponsors of the proposal in the House, Ms. HARMAN, Ms. TAUSCHER and Mr. GIBBONS. My already the problems we face with dozens of different agencies having homeland security responsibility. They did not try to tinker around the edges or take a poll to see what was politically possible to do. Their approach was to try to do it right—that’s leadership.

And now it is up to the House to follow the President’s example. I trust that we will not be found wanting.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO).

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me the time.

Never again. Never again will the United States be caught unawares and lay herself open to terrorist attack. That is certainly a principle that every Member of this House and Senate should take to mind as we move to plug the holes in our security.

Since last fall, I have supported the concept of a Cabinet-level status for the Director of Homeland Security so that he or she can get the funds, can compel the cooperation and coordination necessary among the Federal agencies, but now we are rushing through a bill to create the largest Federal bureaucracy in 50 years. Is that the proper response and answer, 170,000 employees who will ultimately some day be merged together into one joint building that will be built somewhere in the Washington, D.C. area? How will it work in the interim? Big question.

It does not deal with the two agencies most culpable and most problematic in the attacks, the FBI and the CIA. The failures of Intelligence, the failures that were so much in the headlines before this Department was proposed by the White House that they changed their position.

Now it will plug the leaks that made us aware of the failings of the CIA and FBI by repeating whistleblower protections and FOIA efforts for this agency.

It is going to take other effective agencies like the Coast Guard, who are doing a terrific job with not enough resources, protecting this country and our coastline and also providing life saving and other services and merge them in. Will the Coast Guard still be able to function in that place?

This last week we heard of the failings of the CIA and FBI by repeating whistleblower protections and FOIA efforts for this agency. It is going to take other effective agencies like the Coast Guard, who are doing a terrific job with not enough resources, protecting this country and our coastline and also providing life saving and other services and merge them in. Will the Coast Guard still be able to function in that place?

Today, we are working on a rule that will consider what I think will be one of the most important pieces of legislation this House will consider in this generation. Our votes on the floor over the next day or day and a half will determine the performance of the largest single reorganization of government in our history. That is a daunting enough task and a huge consolidation challenge; but even more important is what this is all about, the mission of this reorganization, and that is to protect our families from the shadowy threat of terror.

We have all talked about some of our personal reflections on this. All of us as Members of Congress have had our constituents affected by the terrorist attack of September 11. In my home- town of Cincinnati, we were fortunate of having a number of people who were in New York City on that fateful day. One was a young man who grew up down the street from me, and his funeral took place at a church a few houses down from my own home. There I met his young wife and his young kids; and as I have gone through this process, I keep thinking back on them. Never, never can we let our defenses down and let this happen again.

We cannot make ourselves immune from terrorism; but we can make our country safer, and we as Members of Congress have as our most fundamental responsibility to protect our... shores and to protect the citizens of the United States; and this is what this effort is all about. This is to take this Federal effort to protect this country and streamline it and consolidate it and make sense so that indeed we can do our duty to our country and to our constituents to respond to this threat.

It is not a partisan issue. It is not an issue that should divide us as Democrats or Republicans. It should bring us together as Americans to do our best.

I am concerned by this rule. I want to commend the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. HASTERT), and I want to commend the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GEPPARD) for putting together a fair rule, 12 amendments on each side. I also want to commend the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARMED) because in the process of getting this bill to the floor he has led the Select Committee on Homeland Security with great distinction. It has been an open and fair process.

I also want to thank the standing committees because they all gave input to the Select Committee on Homeland Security. They did it in an expeditious way but also a thoughtful way.

What we ended up with, the underlying bill on the floor before us today that this rule will govern, is a good piece of legislation because it does create the kind of Department we need, and what kind of Department is that? One that has the flexibility and the ability to respond to this enormous consolidation challenge, 22 different agencies and personnel systems, but also the enormously difficult challenge of responding to the actual and deadly threat of terrorism.

I would urge, Mr. Speaker, as we go through this process that we retain those flexibilities, the flexibility to manage, the flexibility to budget, the flexibility on personnel, so that indeed we can do our jobs. The House says that we have done our best, our very best to be sure that the Federal Government in every possible way is responding to the threat of terrorism and that we have the most efficient and effective way to do so.

The rule that creates this Department deserves our strong support, and I urge it on both sides of the aisle.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. OBEY).

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I think the record shows that I have tried to be extremely cooperative with the White House and everyone else involved in dealing with the aftermath of September 11. Within a week after we were hit, I helped, along with the gentleman from Florida (Mr. YOUNG), push a $40 billion supplemental through this place to give the President virtually all the money he needed to deal with the problem.

I appreciate the fact that the committee has corrected a number of problems with the original draft. I think that was very useful, but I am afraid that what we are about to do will actually in the end weaken our ability to respond to terrorist attacks.

This bill will still do nothing about the central problem of the FBI and its relationship with other intelligence and law enforcement agencies. It also does something about the additional lack of focus by the new Department that we are about to create; and I would point out that it is, in fact, parading around under false pretenses. It is called a new Department of Homeland Security. At this point, there are 133 agencies and offices that have some responsibilities with respect to homeland security. This bill takes 22 of them, containing 170,000 employees, jumps them into one Department and says it is a Department of Homeland Security.

My question is, Who is going to coordinate the 111 offices and agencies left out? In my view, that is the central question which is not being answered. We have machines that run, and until it is, we are likely to, what the GAO told the committee, we are likely to have 3 to 5 years of absolute chaos.

It also does not do anything about the people who are still facing the threat. After September 11, I talked to every intelligence agency in this town. We discovered literally thousands of pages of documents lying on floors, sitting on file cabinets, sitting on people's desks of raw data, raw intelligence, not looked at by anybody. We need new translators. We need a reshaping of the FBI. That is not happening in this bill; and until it does, we are going to be making a significant mistake.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 3 minutes to my distinguished colleague, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. LINDBERG), a valued member of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. LINDBERG. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding me this time, and I rise in support of both the Select Committee on Homeland Security and H.R. 5005. This is a fair rule that will allow the House to work its will on the Homeland Security bill.

First and foremost, Mr. Speaker, I think we should all say thank you to our distinguished majority leader, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARMED), and the Select Committee he headed. They have done a first-rate job under very difficult circumstances, and for that the people of this Nation owe them a debt of gratitude.

For 200 years, we have been the most open, casual, and free Nation in the history of the world. We had the most powerful military in the world and our economic strength was challenged by no other. Our people enjoyed civil freedoms and liberties of which other citizens could only dream. I daresay we took it for granted that we are Americans. September 11 changed that forever. Because of that day we feel and are vulnerable. Because of that day, we feel helpless.

In 1777, John Jay, America's first Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and a vigorous defender of the Constitution, wrote, 'Among the many objects to which a wise and free people find it necessary to direct their attention, that of providing for their safety seems to be the first.' Today, we have the right to expect Congress to do the right thing. The Homeland Security Act of 2002 provides us with a chance to uphold what the Founders considered to be the Federal Government's highest responsibility, to protect the people of this country.

We will have a whole new list of heroes to look forward to. They will be first responders, firefighters, police officers, State troopers, and EMTs. They will be on the front lines here. All of us will never again be able to take Europe and free it in 11 months.

I have a new image of that heroism. It is the image of 50,000 people scrambling in utter fear out of burning buildings for their safety, another group of Americans in firefighter uniforms running into those buildings to save them. Those are the ones that this homeland security bill will start to look toward to get support for.

We must remember that no one department has been clearly entrusted with the security of this country. All will be involved. As such, I stand with the President and his efforts to create a new Department of Homeland Security. I support this bipartisan measure. I urge my colleagues to do the same to ensure that our Nation is prepared, and that the freedoms and liberties we hold dear are never threatened again.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS), a member of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I thank the ranking member, the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mr. PROYER), for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in lukewarm support of this rule. Even though over 100 amendments were submitted to the Committee on Rules, only 26, barely one-fourth of them, will be considered under this rule. I find this disturbing in light of the fact that a great many of the recommendations submitted by our subject matter experts were not included in the chair's mark.

Now, I am proud of the fact that there was an opportunity to come together on this matter and to make it bipartisan. But an open rule would have ensured that the knowledge of these persons and their expertise were given due consideration by this body.
Some of the topics we will not be debating because of this rule include an amendment prohibiting the Department from entering into contracts with companies who incorporate outside the United States to avoid paying taxes; an amendment urging States to adopt uniform standards for State driver’s licenses; and, finally, one of my amendments, which would have stricken language that grants the Secretary the unprecedented authority to prohibit the Inspector General from investigating fraud and abuse within the Department.

The rationale for this authority is that such investigations might compromise our national security. The Inspector General Act of 1978 applies to every major department in the executive branch, including the CIA and the military departments. To date, no one from these departments and agencies has come forward saying that the autonomy of the Inspector General constitutes a threat to national security. It is ludicrous to me that the Secretary of the new Department would be exempt from laws that all other Secretaries and directors must comply with.

Regrettably, under this rule, we will not have the opportunity to debate these matters. It should be obvious, when looking at the number and diversity of the amendments submitted, that this bill, as written, quite frankly, is not ready for prime time. If ever there was legislation that demanded an open rule, this is it. There is no stronger evidence of that than the fact that the chairman of the Select Committee himself has submitted three en bloc amendments to his own amendment.

Mr. Speaker, in closing, let me say that this is the most important legislation of the 107th Congress to date. We are reorganizing the Federal Government and creating a new Department. We have never, to my recollection, undertaken such a daunting piece of legislation by incorporating the right organization into the right rule, this is it. There is no strong evidence of that than the fact that the chairman of the Select Committee himself has submitted three en bloc amendments to his own amendment.

The right organization does not create a statutory office in the White House. Second, the creation of a new Department will streamline the enforcement part of Immigration and Naturalization Service while, at the same time, giving due attention to the process, naturalization and immigrant services, on the other side.

I am happy to report that the rule that was agreed upon would allow debate, eventually, on the plan of the Select Committee on Homeland Security to take the enforcement border security portions of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and make it a part of the new Cabinet level of Homeland Security, which left some in the Justice Department those functions to which we have alluded as being immigrant services, naturalization, process, et cetera.

This, in one fell swoop, accomplishes the bifurcation purpose with which we started this term’s deliberations on the structure of Immigration and Naturalization Service. So we are in a position, even though the Attorney General and the director of the INS have testified that the INS boxes are around, to be in the Justice Department between enforcement and process, and even though the Committee on the Judiciary has moved on its own to bifurcate the two segments of INS, we now are in a position, to begin a process by incorporating that same bifurcation in the Department of Homeland Security.

I am pleased, then, Mr. Speaker, to support the rule and the underlying bill.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. HARMAN).

(Ms. HARMAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. HARMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I commend him for his excellent service on the Select Committee.

Mr. Speaker, today we address a critical piece of the strategy to protect our homeland. Paraphrasing Dwight Eisenhower, “The right organization does not guarantee success, but the wrong organization guarantees failure.” I would add that no organization, no organizing principle, guarantees chaos, a waste of scarce resources, and, ultimately, continued vulnerability.

The strategy is to prevent another 9-11, to shore up vulnerable infrastructure, and make certain we can respond, if necessary, with maximum effectiveness. We do this by giving the dedicated, capable people in the field the tools and structure to do the job.

A note on the history of this proposal. Last October, shortly after 9-11, the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. GIBSON) and I, with numerous bipartisan cosponsors, introduced legislation to create a statutory office in the White House to coordinate and oversee homeland security. We felt the executive order establishing Governor Ridge’s office while more than 120 agencies and departments with some jurisdiction over homeland security.

Events have proved us right. Our colleagues, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. THORENBERRY) and the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. TAUSCHER) took a different approach, recommending the creation of a homeland security department, rather than the sort recommended by the Hart-Rudman Commission in March 2001.

This May, the four of us and a bipartisan group from the other body melded our approaches. We proposed a Department of Homeland Security smaller than the one envisioned in H.R. 5005, and a strong White House counterterrorism coordinating office.

Then, in June, the President unveiled his approach, that, in the version reported by the Select Committee, places all or part of 22 Federal agencies in a new Department of Homeland Security.

The bill also creates a Homeland Security Council in the White House, modeled after the National Security Council, to coordinate security efforts across the Federal Government. The administration’s proposal is a variation of our earlier bill, and I am pleased to be an original cosponsor.

Going forward, rather than just describing more of what is in the bill, I would note several improvements in the base bill and in the manager’s amendment and several amendments to be adopted and supported by the managers.

First, the establishment of a statutory Homeland Security Council in the White House, modeled after the National Security Council, to coordinate security efforts across the Federal Government and down to State and local first responders. And, fourth, a sense of Congress underscoring the priority to fund trauma care and burn care with already appropriated bioterrorism money.

Mr. Speaker, as a mother of four, I know that perfection is not an option. The bill is not perfect. But it is very good, and I urge support of this fair rule and adoption of H.R. 5005.

Ms. PRYCE of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GEKAS), the chairman of the Subcommittee on Immigration, Border Security, and Claims of the Committee on the Judiciary to testify on the Hastert-Gephart rule.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding me this time.

As everyone knows, the Judiciary has, for almost 2 years now, been working on developing a division of labor in the Immigration and Naturalization Service. On the one hand, we want to streamline the enforcement part of immigration and Naturalization Service while, at the same time, giving due attention to the process, naturalization and immigrant services, on the other side.

I have been in this body for eight terms, Mr. Speaker, and during those eight terms, my number one priority has been to focus on emergency response locally. I have been to every disaster the country has had in the last 16 years: Loma Prieta, Northridge, Hurricane Andrew, Hugo, the Murrah Building bombing in Oklahoma City, the World Trade Center, and the Pentagon. I was at Ground Zero on September 13. I went there to try to get lessons that we could learn from the needs that we have to respond to both natural and manmade incidents of disaster. Those needs are, in fact, addressed by this bill, except perhaps in one case.

The number one overriding need is coordination of intelligence. Five years ago we proposed in our defense bill the creation of a national data fusion center. Unfortunately, while this agency calls for one focus on coordinated intelligence, it does not give the teeth necessary to force the FBI and the CIA to become totally involved, and it is going to require additional work. But intelligence is, in fact, an overriding priority for us to detect emerging threats.

The second, and perhaps most important, priority for our first responders is communication. We have no integrated system of communication for our first responders nationwide. Local fire and police cannot talk to each other. That is unacceptable. This legislation deals with that issue in a real way.

The third major priority is support for the first responder. Mr. Speaker, the first responder on every disaster in this country, be it natural or manmade, will not be the National Guard, will not be the FEMA bureaucrat, will not be the Marine Corps Seabird team. The first responder in every case will be someone from the 32,000 fire, EMS, and law enforcement departments who will be there when that terrorism act occurs or when that disaster occurs.

And as we develop this legislation, I would ask our colleagues to keep in mind that that should be our underlying focus. We empowered the first responder. They know what to do. They have been handling chemical plant fires and other disasters for years. Our job must be to empower them with the support they need.

I thank our colleagues and urge support for this rule and for this legislation.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, we all want America to be more secure. The American people are entitled to it. We need better fire and information in our post-September 11 Nation, but this bill will not accomplish a more effective defense of our Nation because there has been no analysis, no risk assessment, no sense of the actual causes of insecurity, no justification for sweeping changes in 153 different agencies.

Nothing in this bill will accomplish security superior to what those 153 agencies can now accomplish through strong leadership. Furthermore, it has been 16 hours since this House passed an amendment to the intelligence authorization bill which will establish a national independent commission to investigate September 11. We will have a new Department with 10,000 employees to respond to 9-11, and yet the commission that will analyze 9-11 has not even begun its work. That is quite a feat.

Meanwhile, 170,000 new people in this Department, no idea of how the organization will integrate, 10 years for the Department to be up and running. In the meantime, I predict the reorganization itself will represent a threat to the security of our Nation because it will induce paralysis and administrative breakdown.

Ms. FRYCE of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. BLUNT), the deputy whip.

Mr. BLUNT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and for her work on the Select Committee, along with all other Members who served on the committee, and certainly the majority leader who led the committee, which allowed all of the other committees to make recommendations.

This rule, a rule brought to the Committee on Rules by the Democratic leader, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GEPHARDT), the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARMEN), the Chair, the majority leader, and certainly the Committee itself, was prepared to respond to this legislation. Mr. Speaker, a few days after the tragedy of September 11, day that none of us will ever forget where we were, and those of us in the United States Congress had a firsthand view of the bilowing smoke from the Pentagon, we knew that we had to turn a page in America's history and begin to look at life differently.

In the course of doing that, I drafted legislation that my colleagues joined me in to help prioritize the Federal relief and support for those children who lost one parent or two parents in that tragedy on September 11. I remember meeting the Calderon family, two babies who had lost their mother. And so I come to the floor today to discuss this rule in the context that there cannot be or should not be a place for conspiracy theories or politics, as was said by one of the Members on this floor, but I truly believe that we can and should have been able to do better.

This bill was marked up. The framework came to us from the White House very expeditiously by the committees of jurisdiction, but in the mark of the Select Committee, and I thank the chairman, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARMEN), the ranking member, the gentleman from California (Ms. PELOSI), and the members of the Select Committee, in addition to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST), came a bill of 200-plus pages. I believe it warrants the deliberate study that would make this a better bill.

This bill does not have whistleblower protection. I believe it could have better communications. Even though it deals with first responders, I believe it could do better.

From the expertise of the Subcommittee on Immigration, I am disappointed that this body saw fit not to allow at least minimally a debate on how the immigration department should be structured. Interestingly enough, the amendment that I offered to establish a division 5 is the exact same format that the other body passed today out of the Committee on Government Reform. It includes a division for Immigration Affairs, and it includes enforcement and immigration services as one, not to put the immigration services in the Department of Justice, making it a stepchild with no funding because the other body recognizes that the two are intertwined, and they must be able to speak together.

Mr. Speaker, suppose a person is applying for asylum and goes to the Department of Justice and Immigration Services, but his brother is caught by the Border Patrol in the Department of Homeland Security, and they give that person another decision, this is not the way to run a government or to secure America.

Interestingly enough, a division that would have comporting with the format that the President presented the divisions and the way that they structured the immigration services is not done by this bill.

My amendment would have had the children being addressed by the Department of Justice.

Finally, here we are dealing with homeland security, and we have NASA, an amendment that was passed by the Committee on Science to help NASA collaborate with technologies and research with this new Department, an amendment that was rejected by this Committee and this rule.

I do not know how we can consider this a bipartisan process if we leave a whole body of research that NASA has out of the ability to help us secure our homeland. I am very glad to see that some component of an amendment I had earlier with minorities and small businesses has been included, but still we have a problem with the kinds of benefits for civil service employees and an amendment dealing with avoiding kickbacks, whistleblower protection, protection of minorities and small businesses, and the prohibition of contracting with individuals who have been convicted of contract-related felonies has not been included.

Mr. Speaker, we could and can do better. I ask Members to vote against this rule because we can do better for the American people.

I am disturbed at the lack of deliberation and due process characterized by the rule put forth by the Rules Committee. I prepared six amendments to be considered for H.R. 5005 only that would have added to solving some of the deficiencies of this large department. This process should not be a narrow process but rather an inclusive process to strike at the heart of terrorism.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 5005, THE DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY CREATING A FIFTH DIVISION OF IMMIGRATION AFFAIRS

This amendment creates a fifth division to the Department of Homeland (DHS) consistent with the provisions in the bill reported by the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee to the full Senate, and has the best chance of becoming law. It is imperative, as this House confirmed in H.R. 3231, that immigration services and enforcement stay in tact. Services and enforcement are clearly intertwined, and it is vital that they talk because they talk with each other. It is important for there to be consistent decisions made on immigration issues. For example, the asylum seeker may present his case to the immigration service division in DOJ and get a different ruling by his brother secretaries who may have been picked up by Border Patrol and received a decision for DHS.

This is bad policy and does not help those aliens seeking to follow the law. We can balance the services and the security needs and provide an effective revenue stream to fund these divisions. If DOJ sees that these services are seen from enforcement they will be treated like a stepchild without any support.

The Jackson-Lee Proposal would create a fifth division within the Department of Homeland Security titled the Division of Immigration Affairs. This division would house three sub-divisions titled: (1) Border Security; (2) Immigration Services and (3) Visa processing. My amendment envisions having the entire INS (a) pulled from the Administration's Border and Transportation Security division; (b) placed in its own division headed by the Undersecretary for Immigration Affairs; and (c) restructured as envisioned by H.R. 3231, the House INS restructuring bill.

My amendment is consistent with the Hyde-Berman amendment, which passed during Judiciary committee markup and is endorsed by the Select Committee, is the preferred alternative and consistent with the Administration's proposal. This proposal allows the administration of visa issuance function to be carried out by State Department employees with the oversight and regulatory guidance of the DHS. My amendment is the Lotgren-Jackson-Lee amendment language, which will allow the Administration for Children and Families (ACF) within the Department of Health and Human Services to be the lead agency with responsibility for unaccompanied alien children.

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 5005, THE DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY TREATMENT OF MINORS DETAINED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY

Another amendment I wanted to offer concerning the treatment of Minors by DHS. Minors may, for myriad reasons, come within the custody of the DHS. This Amendment would simply ensure that minors in custody of the DHS, whether they be aliens or minors from the United States, are provided access to independent counsel within 24 hours and the DHS endeavors to make contact with a parent or guardian within 48 hours. The amendment further requires that the DHS take affirmative action towards assisting the minor in contacting the minor's parent or guardian.

Legal permanent resident and U.S. minors may come into the custody of the Department of Homeland Security. For example, if the Coast Guard takes a vessel into custody with children on it, these minors may end up in the custody of the DHS. These minors should be guaranteed minimal procedural protections. My amendment simply made this explicit.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

I also wanted to offer a NASA Amendment. The Secretary of Homeland Security should not re-invent the wheel. If expertise and resources have already been developed at taxpayer expense, and exist in federal agencies, they should be put at the disposal of the Secretary.

NASA is a leader in satellite and information security. NASA has developed hardware and software that would help make us less vulnerable to cyber-attacks, that could cost billions of dollars and risk many lives by compromising our infrastructure.

My amendment would simply have NASA create an office which would catalog resources available at NASA that might be used in the fight against terrorism, and make them available to the Secretary of Homeland Security through reimbursable consultation or contracts.

This common sense amendment could save millions of dollars by reducing redundancy, and could expedite the process of getting our nation prepared for the challenges ahead.

It would be tragic if an attack occurred, while the technology to prevent that attack were readily available at NASA.

OTHER TRANSACTION AUTHORITY LIMITATION AMENDMENT TO H.R. 5005 OFFERED BY SHEILA JACKSON-LEE

The bill as it stands gives "other transaction authority" to the Secretary. This authority allows the Secretary to bypass many good government provisions that regulate the use of independent contractors.

This authority may be necessary in order to streamline research and development, and pilot projects deemed essential for homeland security. However, some of the regulations on federal contracting, reflect decades of accumulated wisdom, and would be absurd to discard.

My amendment would NOT block the Secretary's use of "other transaction authority." It would simply preserve a few common sense aspects of federal procurement contracts.

It would stop people who were convicted of contract-related felonies from getting more contracts.

It would protect the abilities of small and minority-owned businesses to get contracts.

It would block the kickbacks that plague the contracting industry.

It would block the use of taxpayer dollars going to contractors from being used to lobby the federal government for more contracts.

And it protects workers who blow the whistle on fraud and abuse at contracting companies.

If while consolidating different agencies into the Department of Homeland Security, we start removing the good government provisions that have made those agencies work well in the past—we run the very real risk of making the Department much less than the sum of its parts. The American people deserve better.

AMENDMENT PROVIDING SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE SECRETARY OF HOMELAND SECURITY TO PROMOTE THE USE OF SMALL AND DISADVANTAGED BUSINESS

My next amendment provides for a Special Assistant to the Secretary of Homeland Security to promote the use of women and small businesses owned and controlled by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals. The present legislation does not address the issue of small business.
My goal is to provide a holistic approach to small businesses. Not just covering the employees but encouraging the creation of small business. Small businesses are losing an increasing number of federal contracts to bigger business, according to recent data compiled by the Administration. Overall federal contracting dollars fell from $202 billion in 1995 to about $190 billion in 1997, a 5.9 percent decrease. But small businesses saw a 6.8 percent decline in federal contracts.

Business in cities all over the nation are suffering from layoffs in 8(a) contracts. In the Phoenix area, $30 million in contracts were awarded to minority and women-owned firms through the SBA’s 8(a) program in 1995. That number dropped to $19 million in 1997. Similar firms in the Baltimore area saw contracting dollars plummet from $250 million in 1995 to $172 million in 1997.

More than one-half of minority-owned firms (59%) are in the service sector, which also had the greatest growth (33 percent between 1997 and 2002). Other industries with the greatest growth were transportation/communications/public utilities (21%) and agriculture (7%).

The 10 states with the greatest number of minority-owned firms in 2002 are 1) California; 2) New York; 3) Texas; 4) Florida; 5) illinois; 6) Georgia; 7) Maryland; 8) New Jersey; 9) Virginia; and 10) North Carolina.

Despite growth, the impact of the economy on minority-business development resulted in difficulty for entrepreneurs hoping to raise capital. Something the MBDA is contending with, says Langston. According to a 1996 report by the BLACK ENTERPRISE Board of Economists, of the $4.2 billion invested through Small Business Investment Companies (SBICs), $4.09 billion went to majority firms and other $128 million went to minority firms. By appointing a Special Assistant Small business will have a voice in the Department.

CIVIL SERVICE PROTECTIONS

I would also like to express my strong objection to the denial of basic civil service protections for the thousands of federal workers who would be transferred to the proposed department of homeland security.

Quite frankly, I believe that the current proposal would allow for arbitrary and unfair treatment of federal employees under the guise of increasing “flexibility.” I find it hard to understand why federal employees whose responsibilities are the same today as they were on September 11th, when they responded with courage and dedication, could lose civil service protections if the new department is altered or revoked merely because federal employees suddenly find themselves working under the umbrella of a different department.

I urge you to guarantee that, as this important piece of legislation makes its way through this committee, current civil service protections are not limited in any way. This issue is fundamental to my support for the creation of a new department.

CONCLUSION

The final outrage of this process rests in the fact that this bill gives unbridled attention to the needs of special interest concerns over the needs of the people. This bill give corporations that contract with the DHS undue protection from lawsuits for faulty and dangerous product liability. Congress should be doing everything to encourage the best behavior of corporate contractors, not giving them product liability protection.

The creation of the DHS is a chief priority of the Administration and Congress has been asked to act in a very short time. The integration of functions across many different agencies is a difficult task and the time we have spent on this important task is insufficient. I fear that we will revisit this matter many times in the future.

In closing, I would add that the Judiciary Committee has unique expertise in the oversight of Justice Department functions that will be integrated into the DHS. This expertise should be preserved to assure that those functions integrated from the DOJ remain effective within the DHS.

Thank you Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, this has been a very long process. We had a lengthy markup in the committee lasting approximately 10 hours. We have had a lengthy hearing before the Committee on Rules. We have had negotiations on a bipartisan basis over the rule. This is not a perfect rule, but it does preserve the minority’s right to offer most of the amendments that we sought. We would have preferred that we would have been given the opportunity to offer the DeLauro amendment.

This is a very serious matter. It is in the interest of our country that our citizens be safe, and it is in the interest of the House to operate on a bipartisan basis. I believe we have been given that opportunity by the majority tonight. And while this is not a perfect rule, I urge the adoption of the rule so we can proceed to the consideration of the bill on the floor this evening and tomorrow, and so we can complete this very important piece of legislation before we adjourn for our August recess.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. Pryce of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, we have heard the beginning of what I believe will be a very broad and worthwhile debate on how best to secure our beloved country. There is universal recognition among my colleagues that our Nation is a different place than it was just 10 months ago, and our government must reflect that new reality.

While the steps that we take today are a simple reorganization of existing governmental functions, we should not doubt that our work will directly serve the freedom, the liberty and the way of life of all American people.

I urge members to take measure of the task that we have before us, support this fair and open rule and the underlying bill.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Army), the chairman of the Select Committee on Homeland Security, who led us through this process with great decorum and respect.

Mr. Army. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding me this time. I thank the gentleman from Texas for his participation in this debate, and thank the Committee on Rules for bringing this rule to the floor.

Mr. Speaker, when the President of the United States called us, the bicameral, bipartisan leadership of the Congress of the United States, to the White House on June 6 of this year and laid before us a plan to create a department of homeland defense for the American people, we all instantaneously recognized this as a large and daunting task.

When the House minority leader, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Gehrert), publicly suggested that we should not only undertake this daunting task but should complete it by September 11, we all realized that, too, would be even more daunting, but the President of the United States jumped right up and saluted that date.

So we developed among ourselves in this body and the other body a resolve to do everything we could to make that date. I do not know whether we will make it or not, but I know we will make a good effort.

The President of the United States sent to us a good proposal, a proposal that has served as a useful template for the legislative processes of this Congress. This House and the Senate with respect to that template, that proposition, the Speaker of the House made, I thought, the most generous and inclusive decisions regarding how we should proceed.

The Speaker of the House recognized that there were 12 standing committees of this body that would have appropriate and necessary jurisdiction with respect to this legislation, should it be developed, and he saw to it that each of these 12 standing committees worked their will on the legislation.

Conclusion

If we take the membership of the Committee on Ways and Means, the Committee on Appropriations, Committee on the Judiciary, Committee on Agriculture, the Committee on International Relations, the Committee on Government Reform, the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, Committee on Financial Services, Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, House Committee on Armed Services, and Committee on Commerce, and Committee on Energy and Science, we would probably have at least two thirds of the Members of this body having served on a committee that exercised jurisdiction over this bill. I cannot imagine any piece of legislation produced in this body in my 18 years, a large percentage of the body's hands on the legislative process. What could be more inclusive than that?

But that inclusivity was not, in itself, enough to satisfy the Speaker's desire that there be an open, inviting, and inclusive process. He then arranged that these 12 different select committees would report their work to a select committee comprised of Members of the leadership of both the Republican and Democrat party. And we digested the work of these 12 different committees after we had had hearings that included virtually every member of the cabinet that had anything to do with this, each of the chairmen and ranking members of each of these committees, and we had a special hearing that included a group that I like to call the bipartisan innovators in the body that had presented themselves to this task long before it was conceived by the President, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GIBBONS), the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. TAUSCHER) and of course the gentleman from California (Ms. HARMAN), and the gentleman from California (Mrs. TAUSSCHER) and of course the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. GIBBONS) whose work was invaluable to us as we proceeded.

Then we would set up this process and invited us to go to work, agreed that there would be a rule that would govern our proceedings, that would be a product of the joint recommendation of himself and the minority leader. And at the conclusion of our event, 102 amendments were offered for consideration to the Committee on Rules. The Speaker and the minority leader have spent the last 48 hours digesting these, structuring these, negotiating these, and have given us this rule that defines the content of 27 opportunities to amend this legislation and the structure of the rule.

Mr. Speaker, I can think of no time ever in my time as a Member of this body when we considered anything whatsoever under procedures, jurisdictions, participations that were broader and more bipartisan and more inviting and more inclusive than this. In the midst of the business this day and the next, we will be for the Department of Homeland Defense, and it will be a bill that will have had, in terms of participation in the writing of chapter and verse, the participation of virtually every member of this Congress.

May I say on behalf of the body, Mr. Speaker, thank you, thank you for understanding, Mr. Speaker, how serious this business is, how important it is to the Nation, and thank you for making it possible for each and every one of us on both sides of the aisle to know that we would be included, and participated in this process. No Speaker ever in the history of the House showed a greater respect for the House Members than our Speaker, Mr. HASTERT, and if I may again say on behalf of all of us, Mr. Speaker, thank you for being the fine man you are.

You are, Mr. Speaker, a fine servant to freedom, and that is the kind of government we should have in this House. I ask that we vote this amendment out of respect to the generosity and inclusiveness of the Speaker who made it possible.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Mr. Speaker, I rise today disappointed that the Rules Committee would not allow an amendment that would have provided the new Department of Homeland Security with the tools that are necessary to appropriately respond to a terrorist attack or another Homeland Security Emergency.

The amendment that I speak of is one that I offered in the Committee on Government Reform, where it passed by a unanimous vote. Government Reform is the Committee that had primary jurisdiction in the creation of this new department, yet much of its wonderful bipartisan effort to create an amendment that would have provided the new Department of Homeland Security the tools that the procedures, jurisdictional issues that are materials on my amendment. Although my amendment was not included, I do support the rule and underlying bill.

Ms. PRYCE of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The previous question was ordered. The resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

FURTHER MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Mr. Monahan, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate agrees to the report of the Committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 3763) "An Act to protect investors by improving the accuracy and reliability of corporate disclosures made pursuant to the securities laws, and for other purposes.

The message also announced that the Senate has passed with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested, a bill of the House of the following title:

H.R. 5121. An act making appropriations for the Legislative Branch for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2003, and for other purposes.

The message also announced that the Senate insists upon its amendments to the bill (H.R. 5121) "An Act making appropriations for the Legislative Branch for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2003, and for other purposes," requests a conference with the House on the disagreeing votes of the two houses thereon, and appoints Mr. DURBIN, Mr. JOHN-SON, Mr. REED, Mr. BYRD, Mr. BENNETT, Mr. STEVENS, and Mr. COCHRAN, to be the conferees on the part of the Senate.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

(Mr. ARMEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. ARMEY, Mr. Speaker. It is my intention, my hope, that we can make progress on this legislation this evening such that would enable us to complete this work this week. It would turn out, I would think at this point, that it would be very difficult for us to anticipate completing our week's work on legislation to return to our districts tomorrow or tomorrow evening, but we could, I think, if we are prepared to work late tomorrow, complete all the work we need to do in order to make our early planes on Saturday morning and begin our district work period and have time with our families. But in order to do that, we must move forward tonight on this.

What I would propose to the body is that we follow this procedure in the interest of giving Members at large the maximum opportunity to make progress on the bill and still indeed make rest for themselves for the long and arduous day we are certain to have tomorrow:

That we proceed now with the general debate and that we begin to work on amendments. It is my recommendation that, as we work through amendments, we roll votes through the Shays/Watson amendment No. 23. That would enable us to come in in the morning, pick up those votes that have been rolled from tonight's work, and complete the work on this bill tomorrow.

I should also mention to the body, we should expect to work late tomorrow night to complete consideration of this bill, but we will also have at least one other, perhaps two other important legislative opportunities that this body will want to consider because the opportunity is here to do indeed additional good things, for example, quite possibly, complete consideration of the bankruptcy conference report.

So we will be able to, we will work hard tomorrow, and we will get a lot done. But we will only be able to do that and make our early morning planes on Saturday if we are willing to find a way to work our way through tonight. If we can proceed through the Shays/Watson amendment, that would leave us a few votes to begin the morning with and the chance to get right into the completion of the work.

That is my proposal, Mr. Speaker, and, without objection, I would move forward on that.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. ARMEY. I yield to the gentlewoman from California.

Ms. PELOSI. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Chairman, now in your capacity as leader, I was seeking a clarification. Certainly we want to move this bill expeditiously, knowing its importance to the American people, even at the expense of starting the district break a few hours later, and I know you share that concern. But what I heard you say, I had a concern about, and I am seeking clarification.

I was hoping that we could take up the Oberstar and Young amendments tonight, roll the votes for them to tomorrow, take up the Waxman amendment tomorrow and vote on it tomorrow, and then proceed tonight with 52 down to Shays/Watson, rolling the votes until tomorrow.

Mr. ARMEY. The gentlewoman is exactly correct, in that if you took the beginning of the amendments in the rule, we would agree to move the Waxman amendment to tomorrow, but roll the votes on Oberstar, Young and all others up through Shays/Watson, which would be amendment No. 23. That would give us a great deal of progress tonight, and obviously we would also have the general debate out of the way.

Ms. PELOSI. That is agreeable to the minority, Mr. Leader.

So that would mean that there would be no more votes tonight and we would take up the Waxman amendment tomorrow and vote on it tomorrow?

Mr. ARMEY. The gentlewoman is absolutely correct. The gentleman from California (Mr. WAXMAN), I might add, is going to want to thank the gentlewoman for working very hard to make sure that this is a clear understanding that we are proceeding in that way.

Ms. PELOSI. I thank the distinguished leader.
The Senate met at 9:30 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable Jack Reed, Senator from the State of Rhode Island.

Pledge of Allegiance

The Honorable Jack Reed led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

Appointment of Acting President pro Tempore

The Presiding Officer. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. Byrd).

U.S. Senate, President pro Tempore, Washington, DC, July 25, 2002.

To the Senate:

Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable Jack Reed, a Senator from the State of Rhode Island, to perform the duties of the Chair.

Robert C. Byrd, President pro tempore.

Mr. Reed thereupon assumed the Chair as Acting President pro tempore.

Recognition of the Acting Majority Leader

The Acting President pro tempore. The acting majority leader is recognized.

Schedule

Mr. Reid. The first hour, as the Chair will shortly announce, will be a period of morning business. The Republican leader has control of the first half, and the Democratic leader has control of the second half.

At 10:30, we will begin consideration of the motion to waive the Budget Act with respect to the Rockefeller amendment. There will be 1 hour of debate on that and a vote thereafter.

Last night, a unanimous consent agreement was entered into between the two leaders that allows the majority leader to call up the legislative branch appropriations bill, which probably will be done sometime today. Following that, we may even go to the Defense bill. The order is we go to that before next Wednesday.

In the meantime, there is work being done. People worked in the Capitol until late last night trying to come up with some sort of amendment dealing with prescription drugs. We need a bipartisan agreement on that. It was a bipartisan group meeting last night.

The Senator from Oregon, the junior Senator from Oregon, Senator Smith, wishes to speak for a few minutes now, and I ask unanimous consent he be allowed up to 3 minutes to speak.

The Acting President pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Oregon.

Guest Chaplain Dr. Frederick W. Pfotenhauer

Mr. Smith of Oregon. Mr. President, it is my privilege today to say a few words about the reverend doctor who offered a word of prayer on behalf of this country and this institution this morning.

The Rev. Dr. Fritz Pfotenhauer has given me permission to refer to him personally as Fritz, but he is a most distinguished pastor and minister of the gospel. He is the pastor of the Hilltop Lutheran Church in South Bend, IN. He is descended from a long line of Lutheran ministers in an unbroken father-son succession dating back to the time of the great reformer, Martin Luther.

Dr. Pfotenhauer completed his Ph.D. in pastoral theology at the University of Notre Dame where he also taught for 20 years until his retirement recently. He will also retire at the end of this year as the pastor of Hilltop Lutheran after 36 years of service to that community and 46 years as an ordained minister.
RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

MORNING BUSINESS

THE STATE OF THE ECONOMY

Mr. DOMENICI. The Republican leader has designated the Senator from New Mexico to control the time. I yield myself 10 minutes.

Mr. President, fellow Senators, a week ago the Federal Reserve Chairman, Alan Greenspan, testified before the Senate Banking Committee. It is important to take note of what he said at that hearing and where he thinks our economy’s fundamentals are strong.

Despite this bear market, our economy’s fundamentals are strong. That has kept the housing market very strong.

The recent weakness in the stock market is important. The American people are worried, concerned. Lower equity prices create a negative wealth effect that will be a drag on consumer spending, as I have just indicated. Lower stock prices also make it tougher for businesses to acquire the capital they need to invest. Slow business investment continues to be our economy’s weakest point. And, of course, we still face the risk of further terrorist attacks or other conflicts that could disrupt the energy market.

Challenger Greenspan also observed: “To a degree, the return to budget deficits has been the result of temporary factors, especially the falloff of revenue, of tax take, and the outlays associated with the economic downturn.”

But the chairman also observed that unfortunately, despite these temporary factors impacting the deficit, he also saw signs that the underlying disciplinary mechanisms that form the framework for Federal budgets over the last 15 years have eroded.

I would say one of the most obvious “disciplinary mechanisms,” to borrow his words, is the adoption of a congres- sional budget. I have spoken in the past here on the floor about the failure to adopt a budget resolution this year. Clearly, this is the one thing we can do in the Congress to send a message to the American public and to the markets that we understand the impor- tance of having a budget in these difficult economic times. So far we have failed as elected officials to do the most essential of our responsibilities—adopt a budget.

Clearly, the other side of the aisle, the Democrats and their leadership, bear that responsibility, the responsibility to have continued on with the budget process and to have produced a budget resolution. We know that even on this most serious of debates, with reference to prescription drugs for our seniors, the absence of a budget resolution has found its way here to the floor.

Because there is not a budget resolution that impacts for the remainder of this year, we then look to the previous year for the impacts, plus or minus impacts, on adopting a prescription drug bill. Lo and behold, we find the previous year’s budget, the budget that this Senator, as chairman, helped put together, is now impacting and will through the remainder of this fiscal year be impacting on what we can do in Medicare. Clearly, it is saying we can only spend $300 billion under the next deficit. Then the floor discussion, the Senate when it last voted in a budget resolution.

Things have not gotten better but perhaps have gotten somewhat worse during that intervening year. We are saying that we will have to go through the floor discussion on Medicare, a bill that is much larger than what we talked about the year previous when we had a rather positive economy, not one that was in the red but one that was in the black.

Now the question is, What shall we do for the remainder of this year, up until October 1, when all the appropriation bills are subject to adoption in both Houses, to go to conference, come back, and then go to the President. Will the other measures on which we have been going slow, or are in conference, have to come up? Are we going to have no budget resolution nor budg- et statement impacts on any of those activities, the sum total of which are the budget, and determined starting October 1, what we shall do?

It makes it difficult. Even the distin- guished chairman of the Appropriations Committee, the President pro tem, responding to a question about how not having a budget would affect the ability to work on appropria- tions bills, said—and I quote from The Hill magazine:

It makes it difficult because we don’t have the disciplinary mechanisms at our finger-tips that would otherwise be the case if we had a budget.

The Appropriations Committee, under his leadership and that of Senator STEVENS as ranking member, is fully aware their appropriations bills, of course, are subject to a budget resolution. The other bills are subject to the sum total of the budget for the year starting October 1. They have rec- ommended on one of the bills that there is a sense of the Senate that they will engage in attempting, with the Senate, to bind themselves to the numbers in the appropriations bills, saying we will be bound by those even though we do not have a budget resolution that would normally give the numbers, prescribe them to the com- mittee.

I gather that means the Budget Com- mittee chairman and ranking member— with that language, that sense of the Senate, saying that we will be bound by the sum total of the allocations for the subcommittees—I gather they clearly are concerned that if we do not have something, the bills eventually will be subject to whatever the Senate would vote in and have no overleying power that says you can’t go over this or you suffer some kind of penalty. Senator BYRD and Senator STEVENS have spoken. I tried on two or three oc- casions on the floor to remind us, as Senator Judd Gregg has, and some Democrats have taken to the floor concerned about the fact that we don’t have any discipline. It makes it difficult because we don’t have the disciplinary mechanisms at our fingertips. That is what the distinguished chairman of the Appropriations Committee said a few days ago.

A couple of weeks ago, absent a real budget resolution, we came close to adopting at least a poor version of a budget by trying to set spending caps for the appropriations process, enforceable in the Senate next year and extending with Senate enforcement tools some expiring Budget Enforcement Act provisions. But let it be clear, this is not a budget resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has used 10 minutes.

Mr. DOMENICI. I ask unanimous consent for 5 additional minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, consent may continue.

Mr. DOMENICI. Let it be clear this was not a Senate budget resolution on which we voted. It was an attempt to address just a small portion of the Federal spending that indeed will take place this year and the end of next year. Let it be clear that this is not a budget resolution because it only applied to appropriations, and budget resolutions go well beyond the appropriations bills which constitute about one-third of the spending of our Nation. Two—one-third of the spending is mandatory and another one-third is discretionary and enforceable only here in the Senate next year, and extending the budget enforcement provisions that I believe are automatic, like Social Security, like Medicare. And the sum total of all those—Federal pensions, military pensions and on and on—the sum total of all those mandates, obligatory ones is two-thirds of the spending. A real budget would address the other two-thirds, that which we call generally entitlement spending.

I think we are now beginning to see firsthand what it means not to have a budget resolution as we are here on the floor debating adding new spending to one of the largest Federal entitlement programs, the Medicare Program. The process does matter. An updated budget resolution would have updated our spending estimates and we would now be debating these prescription drug amendments to the current Medicare Program in a more honest and transparent manner.

I think it is important that we listen up and we pay attention. This is a very serious situation. If in fact spending were to get out of hand, we hear Alan Greenspan warning us that one of the most significant qualities, characteristics of this American economy—one of the most serious shocks would be for those who understand budgets to conclude that the fiscal policy is out of hand, that we don’t know where it is going, and we don’t know how much we are going to spend. I don’t think that is the case.

But some who would look at what we have done and not done might conclude that we are not as committed as we were a couple of years ago when we had budgets, reserve funds, and all the kinds of things we have grown to use around here.

It is obvious we just have projections and estimates of costs based on the Congressional Budget Office and their most current projections. But because we don’t have a budget resolution that is based on current estimates, the procedural points of order that lie against all of these amendments result from the fact that last year’s budget resolution is the only one we have, and it was estimated using an entirely different set of projections.

What this says is we are using enforcement tools that were in last year’s budget based upon where we are going to be with reference to expenditures, tax intake, and, thus, deficits, or being in the black and with a surplus.

Regardless of whose amendment one supports, not having a current budget resolution penalizes all proposals. This is not the way to consider one of the most important and probably most expensive legislative proposals to come before the Congress in years; that is, prescription drug provisions that we are debating.

We therefore see the failure to adopt a budget resolution, we see it impacting on the way the Senate can conduct business here on the floor. We are tied up in trying to consider a prescription drug bill while bypassing the Senate Finance Committee. If the majority leader chooses to proceed without waiting for, or without expecting and relying upon a bill that the Finance Committee and committee debate produces and sends to the Senate, that is his prerogative.

I believe in these particular times, with all of the facts I have just described, that it is not the best way to do it. But there are even other reasons beyond budgetary that cry out for it not being the best way to conduct business—be it an energy bill, which we did not being the best way to conduct business—be it an energy bill, which we did not being the best way to conduct business—be it an energy bill, which we did not being the best way to conduct business. This is not the way to consider one of the most important and probably most expensive legislative proposals to come before the Congress in years; that is, prescription drug provisions that we are debating.

We therefore see the failure to adopt a budget resolution, we see it impacting on the way the Senate can conduct business. This is not the way to consider one of the most important and probably most expensive legislative proposals to come before the Congress in years; that is, prescription drug provisions that we are debating.

We therefore see the failure to adopt a budget resolution, we see it impacting on the way the Senate can conduct business. This is not the way to consider one of the most important and probably most expensive legislative proposals to come before the Congress in years; that is, prescription drug provisions that we are debating.

But perhaps by the end of the day today we can find out whether there is a genuine interest. If there is not, then obviously I believe I have done my best to call attention to it, to provide how it might be done. I submit that there is indeed a possibility that if this were to pass and the Senate were to adopt it, and since it applies only to us—the House offers it through its Rules Committee, if we were to adopt it, I have every reason to believe it would have a positive impact on those who are wondering what is our fiscal policy after this October and into a year with new so-called disciplinary functions available.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Acting President pro tempore. The Clerk will call the roll.

Mrs. CLINTON. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the day today be suspended to provide for the consideration of this bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Acting President pro tempore. The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.
TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY OF ENACTMENT OF THE AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT

Mrs. CLINTON. Madam President, I rise today to recognize the 12-year anniversary of an incredibly important step in America’s continuing effort to expand the circle of opportunity and to realize our perfect union.

Twelve years ago today, the Americans with Disabilities Act became law. When we think about that remarkable day in history, we remember the relentless persistence of our colleagues who took such leadership in this important expansion of civil rights protections. Senators HARKIN and KENNEDY used their positions of power to fight for those with little or no power. Their work opened the doors to people with disabilities in much the same way as the Civil Rights Act had done three decades earlier for other Americans.

We also remember the people who fought on the trenches, those who tenaciously and selflessly advocated for equal access because they knew that people with disabilities were being excluded from schools, from jobs, from the most fundamental participation in our American way of life.

One such person—someone whom I was very proud to call my friend—was truly the heart and soul of the disabilities civil rights movement. That person was Justin Dart. We lost a great American and a great leader with Justin’s death on June 22. But because of his lifelong commitment to ensuring the rights and dignity of every single American, we will never forget him. He was not only a great and tireless leader, he was an extraordinary human being. Anyone who ever saw him, with his cowboy hat and his infectious grin, would never forget him.

Justin Dart’s passionate advocacy led many to refer to him as the Martin Luther King of the disabilities movement. So on Martin Luther King’s birthday, January 15, 1998, my husband, President Clinton, awarded Justin the Medal of Freedom, our Nation’s highest civilian award. We also invited Justin back to the White House when we honored the 10th anniversary of the Americans with Disabilities Act. And throughout my tenure as First Lady, and since becoming a Senator from New York, I often sought his guidance on health and disabilities issues.

Justin Dart’s leadership changed the way we, as a society, think about people with disabilities. We all—those of us who have lived long enough—that at one time we presumed a disability meant a lifetime of dependence. Now we know better. We know that we have countless Americans, of all ages and from all walks of life, who not only want to but can lead independent lives to contribute to the quality of our lives and our Nation’s prosperity. That is why, in 1998, the Clinton-Gore administration formed the Presidential Task Force on Employment of Adults with Disabilities, and then in the year 2000 expanded its mission to include young people.

This task force has been instrumental in helping us understand the challenges that still confront Americans with disabilities and in understanding, despite the extraordinary progress we have made since the ADA was passed, we still have a very long way to go.

According to a recent survey of Americans with disabilities conducted in 2000, 56 percent of 18- to 64-year-olds with disabilities who were able to go to work were employed in 2000. That is up from 47 percent in 1977.

That is progress, but we also have to recognize that 44 percent of Americans with disabilities are still not working. Justin himself eloquently expressed the status of Americans with disabilities on the 7th anniversary of the ADA when he said:

The job of democracy is far from finished. Millions and millions of people with disabilities, in America and other lands, are still ostracized from the good life.

In Justin’s honor, we simply have to do better.

One of the ways I will keep honoring Justin Dart’s legacy is to continue the fight for equal access and full funding under the most important legislation passed 25 years ago to provide education for children with disabilities. The Individuals with Disabilities in Education Act, known as IDEA, has literally transformed the lives of countless Americans.

I have a particular connection with that law because, as a young lawyer just out of law school in 1973, I went to work for the Children’s Defense Fund. We could not understand why, if you looked at census tracks and saw how many children were living in a particular area between the ages of 5 and 18 and compared that with the number of children enrolled in school, there was a discrepancy. There were children who had been living in an area but they were not in school. Where were they?

We could not understand it by just looking at the statistics so we literally went door to door to door. I was knocking on doors in New Bedford, MA, asking people did they have a child who was not currently enrolled in school. I found blind children, deaf children, children in wheelchairs, children who were kept out of school because there were no accommodations for their education. I remember going into a small apartment that opened out on to a tiny terrace where the family had constructed a grape arbor, and it was a beautiful apartment with a small garden. A little girl was sitting in a wheelchair out on this little terrace on a summer afternoon. She had never been to school.

We then, working with many other advocates for children and people with disabilities, wrote a report and engaged in the debate which led to the passage of the Individuals with Disabilities in Education Act in 1975.

This year the HELP Committee, on which I serve, is beginning the hard work of reauthorizing this important legislation. When it was passed in the Congress in 1975, we made a promise that the Federal Government would pay 40 percent of the cost of educating children with disabilities. I thought that was a fair bargain because, clearly, education for a child or deaf or in a wheelchair and needs more help, therefore, requires more resources which is going to raise the costs for local communities. But it was another example of America doing the right thing.

It has made such a difference. Anyone who goes into schools today and sees bright young children raising their hand from their wheelchair or walking down the hallway on braces with their friends or having someone help with the reading because they are blind knows what a difference it has made, not only for the children with disabilities but for all children and for the kind of society we are.

Unfortunately, the Federal Government has never paid its fair share. That is something that has to change. That is something about which I often talked to my friend Justin Dart. He would have wanted us to keep going with the fight to ensure that all Americans are treated with as much respect as Justin.

He had a very astute way of looking at life and actions in Washington. He once said:

The legitimate purpose of society and its government is not to govern people and to promote the good for them, but to empower them to govern themselves and to provide the good life for themselves and their fellow humans.

As usual, Justin Dart summed it up.

The Americans with Disabilities Act provided a firm foundation on which to build that empowerment, to ensure that every boy and girl, no matter what their physical or mental status might be, is viewed with the same respect and caring that every other human being deserves as well.

Justin Dart lived it. He advocated. He harassed. He reminded. He prodded and promoted all of us to do better. He himself was confined to a wheelchair. He lived with a great deal of pain, but that smile never left his face. With his beloved wife and family, he showed up whenever the call was sounded for his championship on behalf of people who he never forgot and for whom he never stopped fighting.

We will miss Justin Dart, but it is up to us to continue his legacy and to ensure that the work to which he gave his life continues in his honor and on behalf of the countless young Americans who might never know his name but who are given a chance to chart their own destinies because he came before.

I thank my friend Justin Dart and wish him and his wonderful family Godspeed.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.
Ms. STABENOW. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Ms. CLINTON). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. STABENOW. I thank the Senator from New York for stepping into the Chair for a moment this morning so I might share a few comments. I also congratulate her on a very eloquent statement about an extremely important gentleman, Justin Dart, whom I knew not as well as the Senator from New York but for whom I had tremendous admiration. I align myself with the comments concerning special education and what needs to be done. I thank the Senator for her advocacy this morning on that very important topic.

PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

Ms. STABENOW. Madam President, I rise this morning to comment on another very important topic that is before us and to urge my colleagues to come together to get something done. We have been talking a lot about Medicare and the fact it is outdated, that it needs to be modernized to cover prescription drugs.

We had a very significant vote 2 days ago. It was historic. It was the first time the Senate, since 1965, has come together to vote to modernize Medicare. A majority of us, 52 Members, voted yes. I commend my Republican colleague—was the one Republican vote joining us—the Senator from Illinois, for joining us in that effort.

A statement was made by a majority of the Senate, and I believe it reflects the will of the majority of Americans. We have a health care system for older Americans, a promise of comprehensive health care for older Americans and the disabled that was put into place in 1965. The only problem is that the health care system has changed. We all know that. We have all talked about it many times.

What I find disturbing at this moment, in light of the fact that we need 60 votes—we need 6 more people; we need 8 of our Republican colleagues from the other side of the aisle to join us to actually make this happen—in light of the success of Medicare, too, many times I am hearing words such as "big government" from my Republican colleagues in the House. They refer to Medicare as a "big Government program," and there are times I have heard that in this debate from the other side of the aisle.

I am here to say I think Medicare is a big American success story. It is a big American success story. It is a big American success story, just as Social Security is a big American success story and one that we should celebrate. I worry, as I hear comments from our President about moving in the direction of wanting to privatize Social Security, wanting to move Medicare to the private sector and privatize it, that we are moving away from not only a commitment made but a great American success story. It has worked, and I think often now of those people such as Enron employees or WorldCom employees who have lost their life savings who have said to me: Thank God for Social Security and Medicare, or I would have nothing. If Medicare was not there, there would have no health care.

These are great American success stories. At this time in 2002, at this moment in July, we have an opportunity to make history so that when others read these history books and look back, they will find we took the next step to modernize a system that provided health care for older Americans and the disabled for over 35 years.

I want to read a couple of stories from Michigan. I have set up a prescription drug people's lobby in Michigan and asked people to share their stories and to get involved because we know there is such a large lobby on the other side.

As we all know and have said so many times, there are six drug company lobbyists for every one Member of the Senate. Their voice is heard every day. It is also heard on TV. It is heard on the radio. There is a full-page ad in the Detroit Free Press from the drug company lobby that was brought to my attention urging us to oppose the amendment we passed to open the border to Canada.

Heaven forbid that we add more competition. Heaven forbid that American citizens be able to buy American-made drugs that they helped create through taxpayer dollars, but they are sold in Canada for half the price they are sold in the United States. Heaven forbid that American consumers would have the chance to do that. So they have an ad, and I am sure there are many more. I am not sure how much it costs. I prefer the money that is being spent on this ad and other ads on television and the $10 million being spent on ads supporting the prohibition of this version would be put into a Medicare benefit or lowering prices. That would be certainly much more constructive in the long run.

The reality is that something has to be done because a system is just out of control, and it will not change unless we act because there is too much money at stake. Just as we have debated corporate responsibility in other settings—and I applaud colleagues who have come together to agree on a final plan related to legislation for corporate responsibility and accountability—this, too, is an issue of corporate responsibility, corporate ethics, as it relates to pricing lifesaving medicine. And heaven forbid that.

Let me share stories that have come to me from various individuals in Michigan. This is one from Christopher Hermann in Dearborn Heights, MI. He writes:

I am a nurse practitioner providing primary care to veterans. I am receiving many new patients seeking prescription assistance after they have been dropped by traditional plans and can no longer afford medications. Many of them have more than $1,000 a month in prescription drug costs.

The vets are lucky. We can provide the needed service. Their spouses and neighbors are not so lucky.

I also have such a neighbor. Al is 72, self-employed all his life with hypertension. When he runs out of his prescription due to lack of money, his blood pressure goes so high he has to go to the emergency room and be admitted to prevent a stroke. I provide assistance through pharmaceuticals, but this is not guaranteed each month. We either pay the $125 per month for his medications, or Medicare pays $5,000-plus each time he is admitted. It is pretty simple math to me. It is pretty simple math.

We can either help people with their blood pressure medicine or medicine for their heart or medicine for sugar and all the other issues that need to be dealt with or we can pick up the pieces with hospitalization or worse that ultimately costs more to the system.

I very much appreciate Christopher Hermann sharing this story. I will not share more this morning. I thank those who have been sharing their stories with me.

I will close with one other story that was shared with me that has stuck with me since I read it a few weeks ago, and that was a little girl from Ypsilanti, MI. I have talked about this before, but I think this is important to remind us of what this legislation is about. She wrote a letter to me telling me that her grandma stopped taking her medication at Christmas in order to buy Christmas presents for the grandkids. She later had health problems and passed away.

There is something wrong with the United States of America when grandparents are not taking lifesaving medicine to buy Christmas presents for their grandchildren. Ultimately, that is what this debate is about. It is about taking a great American success story, called Medicare, and simply updating it for the times. Let's say no to the drug companies and yes to all the grandmas and the grandpas across the country and everywhere who are counting on us to do the right thing.

I thank the Chair, and I yield the floor.

GREATER ACCESS TO AFFORDABLE PHARMACEUTICALS ACT OF 2001

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume consideration of S. 812, which the Clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

a bill (S. 812) to amend the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act to provide greater access to affordable pharmaceuticals.

PENDING:

Reid (for Dorgan) amendment No. 4299, to permit commercial importation of prescription drugs from Canada.

Rockefeller amendment No. 4316 (to amendment No. 4299), to provide temporary Social Security and Medicare benefits. amendment No. 4316 (to amendment No. 4299), listed above, violates section 205 of H. Con. Res. 290, 2001 Congressional Budget Resolution. Reinsert motion to waive section 205 of H. Con. Res. 290, 2001 Congressional Budget Resolution, with respect to the emergency designation in section C of Rockefeller amendment No. 4316 (to amendment No. 4299), listed above.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, there will be 1 hour of debate on the motion to waive the Budget Act to be equally divided and continued by the Senator from West Virginia, Mr. ROCKEFELLER, and the Senator from Texas, Mr. GRAMM.

Who yields time?

The Senator from West Virginia is recognized.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Madam President, this is an extremely important vote. It is very important because in the Congress we worry not only about the Nation as a whole, but as a nation of its individual parts, that is made up of 50 States, all of which are getting clobbered by something called a loss of Medicaid money.

We have a chance with the amendment before us to adjust that situation. We felt so strongly about the situation of Medicaid because it is for our most vulnerable citizens, and also the damage it does in the aggregate to our hospitals, nursing homes, and every part of our health infrastructure. Whether you are in an urban or rural area, the President's Office's State includes both urban and rural—your health is faced with hospitals and other facilities that depend overwhelmingly on Medicaid.

The States now have an enormous shortfall in their budgets. In fact, there are deficits of $40 billion to $50 billion. No State with the exception of Vermont, can go into deficit financing like we do in the Federal Government. They have to balance their budgets. So what happens if they get to a situation where they don't have money? I was a Governor for 8 years, and I was in that situation for a full 5 years, where we actually had to lower moneys because the revenue was less than the previous year. We had to lay off people and the other things Governors have to do.

We are in a position to help now. We have done nothing on health care, basically, except the children's health insurance program, which affects 2 million children. It needs to be extended. It needs to be extended. We have done nothing about universal health care, prescription drugs, this Medicaid problem, and about virtually all of the areas of health care that we talk about all the time and simply do not perform on.

So this is a matter for all of us, especially the people who will come here to vote on whether they want to see their States drown in debt and have to cut Medicaid and hurt not only children but families and hospitals and nursing homes and home health—all the aspects of where Medicaid makes a difference.

We felt so strongly about this after September 11, which was an enormous day in the history of the world, that we included this in the stimulus package. We did that prior to last Christmas, which was a long time ago. We did it and we decided it was so important to do, even at that time, it being a worse situation now, that we would treat it and not require it to be offset. Some people say you need to offset that. When you get into economic times like we have now—much worse than they were then—the underpinnings are weaker in general, and now we really do have to act.

So what I am going to do is not use up all of our time, but wait for some colleagues to come down to speak on this amendment and why it is important that we waive the Budget Act and that we do the right thing by States and Medicare. This is an extremely important vote; it is a test vote about whether the Senate is really willing to do anything for the States and for Medicare.

We have, as I say, so many cosponsors that I will not even take the time to read them. But it is very bipartisan, with 35 cosponsors, including 8 Republicans. We should, in fact, prevail on this and get the 60 votes that we want because it is good. This is an emergency, I say to the Presiding Officer. This is important now even more so because it is good. This is an emergency so that we can do something.

I yield the floor and reserve the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas is recognized.

Mr. GRAMM. Madam President, one of the reasons I love this job is that you never reach a situation where you can say I have heard it all before. In much of life, as you live longer, you get to the point where you never reach a situation where you understand it and you know it and you expect it. The wonderful thing about this job is that there is always a new proposal, always a new approach, always a new way of doing things that you would have never, ever thought of, and that if you were to say in the last year and a half, it has been a very unfruitful battle from my point of view because we started out with a surplus which literally burned a great big hole in our pocket. We literally could not spend the money fast enough.

Now, interestingly enough, we have a deficit. The last projection by the Congressional Budget Office is that we are going to spend, this year, $165 billion more than we make. That deficit seems to grow every time there is a new projection. Yet our behavior is totally unchanged. In fact, I can say that in almost 25 years of service in the House and in the Senate, I have never seen the urge to spend money more unchecked in Congress than it is today. To me, it is a very frightening prospect as to what this is going to mean when all these bills come due.

Let me try to respond to the proposal before us because in so many ways, it is extraordinary. The logic of it is pretty straightforward. The States are in a position that, because of the state of the economy, many States are beginning to have deficits that used to have surpluses. In fact, all of them now—much worse than they were then—unless something happens very positive and very dramatic in the next few months, that as many as 40 States will run deficits next year, or at least will face the prospects of deficits because many States, like my own, have to balance their budget. They will have to come into session in January, and they will have to make hard choices.

We don't make hard choices in Congress, but they will have to make hard choices in the legislature. When you add up the cumulative projected deficits for all 40 States that are looking at potentially being in the red, that accumulated aggregate deficit projection is about $40 billion. Now, the proposal before us extraordinarily says let's declare an emergency so that we can spend another $9 billion that we don't have, every penny of which will come out of the Social Security trust fund; but let's go ahead and borrow that money now. Let's take it out of the Social Security trust fund and spend it so that States will not be required to make tough choices. The only problem is, our projected deficit is four times as great as the aggregate sum of all the deficits of all the States in the Union combined.

In fact, it would have made more sense—I would not have supported it but it would have made more sense had our dear colleagues proposed that we declare the moratorium because the States have a better financial situation than we do and, therefore, they are in a better position to deal with this problem.

I would not have supported that proposal because I do not think we want to beggar our neighbor in terms of imposing our problems on the States, but at least it could have been argued, with a deficit projected to be four times as big as all the State deficits combined, that we cannot be as generous as we are. That money would make sense at Dicky Flatt's Print Shop in Mexia, TX. People would understand that argument in Oklahoma.
They might not like it. They might oppose it, but they would understand it. They would say it made sense, but I do not believe people at Hesser Drug Co. Bar in Ennis, TX, or people anywhere in any State in the Union, would find the Federal Government borrowing another $9 billion we do not have, taking the money out of the Social Security trust fund because every penny of this surplus is Social Security surplus, I do not think they would understand an emergency to spend this $9 billion to give it to States, that if we added up their total deficit is not one-fourth of the deficit that we are running right now.

So we basically are down to a question that we have to ask ourselves: Are we willing to declare an emergency to run a new deficit of $9 billion—spend $9 billion today, and in doing so, take $9 billion out of the Social Security trust fund? The idea that we should have our State to have to make a tough decision, but compassion is what one does with one’s own money, not what one does with somebody else’s money. This money is coming out of the Social Security trust fund. This money is coming from, ultimately, the taxpayer who is going to have to pay it back, plus interest.

If the proponents of this amendment were bringing up out of their own pockets, we could say they are compassionate about their States; they are worried about what will happen in States that have deficits. But it is not compassion when it is somebody else’s money. This money is coming from the Social Security trust fund. This money is coming from ultimately, the taxpayer who is going to have to pay it back, plus interest.

I understand the importance of trying to develop offsets. How can anyone ever be against offsets? Let me state a few things that have flown in the face of asking for offsets—except where maybe you are not interested in seeing the program move forward. We passed yesterday the supplemental at a $28.9 billion cost to New York, no specific offset for homeland security, no one argues with that—$6.7 billion for homeland security. How can anyone argue with that? Or $3.5 billion for New York, how can anyone argue with that? No request for special offsets for any other State, no specific offset for homeland security, for defense. Or $1 billion for Pell grants, $417 million for veterans medical care, and $400 million for improvements to State and local election procedures, we all know how important those are. Or $205 million for Amtrak, we also know how important that is. But $2 billion worth of offset to $28.9 billion worth of budget.

I am not saying these are not important any more than anyone else is. I am suggesting that while they are important, so is this. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Madam President, I happily yield 5 minutes to the distinguished Senator from Maine.

Ms. COLLINS. Madam President, let’s put the budget point of order of the Senator from Texas against our fiscal relief amendment into some context. The Senator’s point of order, in essence, claims that the fiscal relief provided by our bipartisan amendment is somehow not emergency spending.

Let’s look at the facts. Let’s look at the situation. The Budget Enforcement Act of 1990 established statutory limits on discretionary spending and a pay-as-you-go requirement for new direct spending and tax legislation. But it also exempted from the caps all discretionary spending designated by the President and the Congress as an emergency requirement.

The law does not further define what is an emergency requirement. That is up to us. One place we can look for guidance, however, is to the criteria developed by the Office of Management and Budget for the President to use when determining whether or not a spending provision qualifies for emergency treatment. The Office of Management and Budget determined that an emergency spending provision is “sudden, urgent, necessary, unforeseen, and not permanent.” The funds that the amendment allocates to the States is all of those things. They meet the criteria precisely for emergency spending.

First, our amendment addresses a sudden and unforeseen problem. That is the unexpected drop in revenues States have experienced. Indeed, 39 States were forced to rescind their enacted budgets for fiscal year 2002 by reducing essential programs, tapping rainy day funds, furloughing employees, and cutting important services. In short, the budget crisis was clearly a sudden and unexpected development for our partners as States.

The second relief our amendment provides is needed to address an urgent situation, another criterion. The latest figures show that 46 States are facing an aggregate budget shortfall exceeding $50 billion. Many have already cut or are considering cutting their Medicaid and social service programs.

Finally, the relief provided by our amendment is not permanent, it is temporary. We are not here to address a fiscal crisis that the States are experiencing now.

In short, our amendment is a textbook example of the definition of “emergency” spending. It addresses a sudden, unforeseen, urgent crisis, and provides temporary but much needed relief.

Finally, we should not forget as we debate this issue what this is really all about. It is about protecting health care and other critical social services for the neediest and most vulnerable citizens in this country. Medicaid provides health insurance to approximately 40 million low-income Americans, including 21 million children and youth, 8 million elderly and disabled individuals, and 8.6 million adults in families, most of whom are single women. Without this critical safety net, millions of low-income men and women and their families would be left with no health insurance.

That is the bottom line in this debate. We need to help the States so they can continue to provide essential health care to the most vulnerable citizens in our society. We are not taking the States off the hook. They are still going to have to make many tough choices in order to balance their budgets. But we can provide this meaningful relief. We must do so now in order to preserve that critical safety net for the most vulnerable in our society.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. How much time is remaining to this side?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There are 14 minutes 20 seconds.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. I yield to the Senator from Nebraska 4 minutes.

Mr. NELSON of Nebraska. Madam President, how much time was yielded?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Four minutes.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. We have 14 minutes left; is that correct?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Four minutes was yielded to the Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. NELSON of Nebraska. Thank you, Madam President, and I thank my colleague from West Virginia.

I have never been to Dicky Flatt’s and I hope my good friend from Texas will take me to Dicky Flatt’s one of these days because it is, obviously, quite a place.

I imagine the folks in Dicky Flatt’s, though, will be interested in what came from the supplemental—$22.9 million to upgrade port surveillance and vessel tracking capability in the ports in Port Arthur, TX, Houston, and New York City, NY, and $12.6 million to the Pantex Plant in Texas for increased safeguards and security needs.

Unfortunately, this particular provision is still the subject of a debate in the States of Dicky Flatt’s or Elm Creek, NB, or other small communities and/or locations around the country, understand why some spending is necessary. They understand also that when you have a Federal program that is put together this year, although it should have been. If it had been, it would have involved an offset.

Because now we have an opportunity to say this is our program together, at the Federal level and at the State level; we have an interest in seeing that every person and every offset, people vulnerable in our society are appropriately served; that the nursing homes do not cease to be able to provide services or that childcare provisions are not eliminated, which are transitional benefits to get, in many cases, single parents off welfare and into the workforce.

So as we think about offsets, I think it is important that we recognize that one person’s offset is another person’s idea of eliminating or destroying or in some way obstructing getting something accomplished.

What we have to do is make sure offsets are, in fact, included wherever we can possibly include them. But one of the reasons emergency spending issues and funding issues have not generally required offsets is because it is very difficult to be able to match it at the time. We cannot wait on this and we cannot light our every offset people would like to talk about. That is why emergency disaster relief, in this case emergency spending—to go to our States for our share of the program for a period of time—just simply provides the opportunity to do the matching and it has to be done immediately and the process then, I take it, is there for them.

We only seem to talk about offsets when it is convenient, or where we do talk about it and they are appropriate, it is when there is enough time to be able to put them together and get them accomplished.

The economic stimulus plan, when this was a part of it last year, did not have an offset. There was not a lot of discussion about offsets at that time. Unfortunately, this particular provision did not get included in the stimulus package that was passed earlier this year, although it should have been. If it had been, it would not have involved an offset.

It seems to me we have the opportunity to move forward as a partner with our States and to begin to assist them in very important policy matters and programs that I think will benefit the people of our country and will benefit our economy. That is why this was included earlier in the economic stimulus package. There was a recognition it was part of the economic stimulus. I hope we will today recognize it, not only as the right thing and fair thing to do with our partners, the States, but also recognize that this has been considered part of the economic stimulus package.

I ask unanimous consent an article by Judith Graham entitled “States’ Budgetary Shortfalls Deepen” be printed in the Record, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. I yield 2 minutes or so to the distinguished Senator from Maine.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. The Senator from Maine.

Ms. COLLINS. I thank the Senator from West Virginia. It has been a pleasure to work with him and the Senator from Nebraska, as well as the Senator from Oregon, on this important amendment.

The Senator from Nebraska raised a very good point. This amendment has implications for all of our health care providers and that’s why it enjoys such strong support of our nursing homes, our hospitals, our rural hospitals are struggling with inadequate reimbursements—from disability advocates and the Visiting Nurse Association.

But let’s talk about what this means. We have talked about being necessary to protect the most vulnerable in our society. Let’s talk about what it means for some individual States.

I mentioned yesterday that this amendment would provide $54 billion in much needed relief to my home State of Maine. That would help avoid the necessity of draconian cuts in essential social service programs such as our Medicaid Program. But let’s look at a few other States.

For Alabama, for example, this would mean $926.6 million; for Alaska, it would be $32.2 million; for Arizona, $114 million; for Arkansas, $190 million.

Let me skip down a bit. For Florida, $359 million; for Georgia, $208 million; for Hawaii, $28 million; for Idaho, $28.6 million. Indeed, the Governor of Idaho, our former colleague, Governor Kempthorne, has worked very hard as an advocate for this important legislation.

In other words, every single State in the Nation would be by this amendment provided with much needed relief. That is why we need to act. Otherwise, States are going to have no choice but to slash essential programs.

We have new figures coming out today that show the fiscal crisis affecting our partners, the States, has widened still further. According to the National Conference of State Legislators, States have used up two-thirds of their cash on hand. The gap between revenues and spending has hit $36 billion and is expected to be $58 billion, affecting 46 States. We must act. I urge my colleagues to reject the point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. DASCHLE. Would my colleague from West Virginia withhold for a moment? If the Senator from West Virginia will yield, I appreciate my colleague’s courtesy.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, I yield.

TERRORISM RISK PROTECTION ACT

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, as all of our colleagues know, over the last many weeks we have been attempting to work out an arrangement whereby we can go to conference on terrorism insurance. I am very pleased to be able to report this morning that we are now in a position to be able to do so. I have been in consultation with the Republican Conference. I am prepared now to present a unanimous consent request in that regard.

I ask unanimous consent the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of Calendar No. 252, H.R. 3210, the House-passed terrorism insurance bill, that all after the enacting clause be stricken, the text of S. 2600 as passed by the Senate be inserted in lieu thereof, the bill as thus amended be read the third time, passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table; that the Senate concur in the amendment, request a conference with the House upon the disagreeing votes of the two Houses, and that the Chair be authorized to appoint conference on the part of the Senate with the ratio of 4 to 3, all without intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (H.R. 3210), as amended, was read just before the Senate.

GREATER ACCESS TO AFFORDABLE PHARMACEUTICALS ACT

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, how much time remains on both sides?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Almost 17 minutes on the Republican side and 7 minutes on the Democratic side.

Mr. NICKLES. Will the Senator yield me 8 minutes?

Mr. GRAMM. I would yield him 10 minutes. He deserves to be heard.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I rise in support of an amendment that was raised by my colleague from Texas. I am a little disappointed that the chairman of the Budget Committee didn’t raise it. It is the responsibility of the Budget Committee. I have had the pleasure with my colleague from Texas on the Budget Committee. That is the reason why we have a Budget Committee and the reason why we tried to pass a budget. We didn’t pass a budget this year for the first time since 1974. Shame on this Congress. Shame on this Senate. Shame on, frankly, the leadership in this Senate for not getting it done.

It is maybe the most fiscally irresponsible thing we have not done and, as a result, there is no limit to how much money we can spend.

A budget point of order still lies on an amendment such as this, or any amendment, until the end of September, so we are raising a budget point of order for good reason. My colleague from Texas and the sponsors of the amendment, say this is a $9 billion amendment. This will increase Federal spending. You can come up with a list to show that every State is going to benefit. I know my State is going to benefit. My colleague from Texas and the sponsors of the amendment say they will have to pay interest on it. My biggest concern is that it is not a $9 billion amendment. I know the amendment is temporary, I know it is retroactive.

It is kind of interesting how we are going to spend retroactive money. This goes back and says we are going to increase spending going back to April of this year. And then presumably, we are going to do it through this September, and then next year.

It is an amendment that is for about 1 ½ years. My concern is it won’t be a year and a half. If you increase these federal dollars, States are going to be in difficult times next year. They are going to say: Let’s make this permanent. These formulas, in many respects, are good. We don’t want them to ever go down. We never want the States to get less.

If it is temporary, and here is a 1.35 percent increase in Federal match, what makes anybody think this won’t be extended? This amendment is a $100 billion amendment. If it is extended, I can tell you if we pass this—and it may well be that my good friend from West Virginia has the votes. The administration is very opposed to it, illustrated in a letter from them that I have here. But if it becomes law, I have no doubt whatsoever that a year from now colleagues will say: Let’s make this permanent. States are still in trouble. Governors will say: Let’s make this permanent. Let’s just increase the Federal share. It is free. It came from the Federal Government.

I just happen to disagree with that. If this is made permanent, we are talking about spending $100 billion—$9 billion basically for the first year—$100 billion. We are just going to do that? Next year we may not be able to make a budget point of order if we don’t figure out some way to get fiscal discipline. We are just going to pass $100 billion, and have colleagues stand up and say: I can’t believe these deficits are so high.

This amendment increases the Federal share. It increases FMAP. Times are tough, and we are going to increase the Federal share on Medicare.

Wait a minute. Times were good in the last several years when we had the largest surplus in the country. Did we see an increase in the Federal share when States were doing very well?

We have never said this should be based on the economy or on States’ ability to pay. The formula the FMAP is based on is States’ income relative to the Federal income. The States’ income was much higher than the norm with Federal income. They paid a greater percentage, or they weren’t subsidized to get as much. Another way to say this is that the poorer States were being subsidized more.

This just kind of inverts and says the States that had the significant growth last year are going to get the biggest benefit of this proposal.

It doesn’t do anything to fix some of the biggest fraud that is being perpetrated in this system right now—the upper payment limit. I wish my colleagues would come back about this. Maybe some day. Maybe former Governors do. But there is a fraud, an accounting scheme and scam that is going on today called upper payment limit. It is being done by about 30 States that are ripping off the Medicaid Program and the Federal Government that is having difficulty. They devised a clever little gimmick to have the Federal Government—not pay 50 percent, not pay 60 percent, not pay 70 percent—pay 100 percent of Medicaid costs.

Are we fixing that? No. If we are going to deal with Medicaid, I tell my colleague from West Virginia and others that we are going to deal with the upper payment limit.

It is sickening to me to think we are telling the States we are going to hold private America to a strict accountability standard; we are going to have you sign truth-in-accounting statements, fiscal statements and financial statements; and, we have Governors who are ripping off out of this proposal with an upper payment scheme and scam to where they get the Federal Government to pay 100 percent of their Medicaid costs.

It is happening in State, after State, after State.

Have we fixed that? No. Should we fix it? Yes. Let us deal with that.

If we are going to get into Medicaid reimbursements, let us wrestle with that. Have we had a markup in the Finance Committee? No. Have we requested it? Yes. Did we mark up this FMAP proposal? No.

Some said: We will deal with the upper payment limits. This didn’t go through the Finance Committee. Maybe it is just a continual stream. Maybe the Finance Committee, which used to be an important committee, doesn’t matter whatsoever. Maybe we don’t need hearings anymore. Maybe we don’t need markups in committee. May we will do everything on the floor of the Senate.

I disagree with that. I disagree with the abuse that is being put on some States by the upper payment limit; and, then to come up with this amendment and say let us increase the Federal share on Medicaid—Federal-State program—and have the Federal Government take more and more of the program. It used to be a Federal-State combination. Now there is this idea to let us make the Federal Government pay more.

If you are going to do a 1.35 percent increase, why not make it all Federal? Make it 70 percent in every State, or make it 80 percent. There has to be some kind of limit. The Federal Government happens to have deficit problems, too. Just to increase this entitlement and really kind of turn the formula upside down—this goes all the way back to the creation of Medicaid, a successful program to help low-income States; a program designed to benefit the poorer States, to assist them. Medicaid is a good program, but this amendment says, well, we want the Federal Government to pay 95 percent, not pay 50 percent, not pay 60 percent, not pay 70 percent, pay 100 percent of Medicaid costs. It is not just an accounting gimmick. It is not just crediting some fictitious trust fund. We will write a check for every dime that is spent in this program.

I question the wisdom of doing that. The administration is opposed.

I will ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD a letter from the Secretary of Health and Human Services, Tommy Thompson, dated July 18 that says:

The Administration is opposed to this amendment. A temporary increase in the FMAP rate would be an unprecedented disruption of the longstanding shared fiscal responsibility for the Medicaid program. FMAP rates are not designed to change according to short-term economic developments. Although FMAPs are based on State per capita income levels and other economic indicators, they have not typically risen and fallen with short-term economic trends. If State logic suggests raising FMAPs now, then it would also imply lowering them in the event of economic downturn. A temporary increase in such a course, after nine years of economic recovery, current FMAP rates would be much lower than they are today. Such cyclical movements are contrary to the intent of the Medicaid statute, and in the long term, would serve the interest of neither the State nor the Federal government.

The FMAP increase is likely to increase health insurance coverage. Instead of using increased funds to provide more health services, States would likely use the increase in Federal dollars lower their spending on health care. Increasing the FMAP would not lead to more coverage; it simply shifts additional health care costs onto the Federal government.

The President has introduced a number of initiatives to help alleviate State fiscal pressures and to increase access to health care coverage for millions of uninsured Americans, including:

$60 billion over 10 years for health credits for the uninsured.

A Medicaid drug rebate proposal that would save States billions of dollars over the next 10 years.

A proposal to provide Federal funding for prescription drug coverage to low-income seniors prior to implementation of comprehensive improvements in Medicare. Such a proposal has already passed the Senate and would provide quick fiscal relief to States, which have had to take responsibility for prescription drug coverage in the absence of State action.

Medicaid coverage for families transitioning from welfare to work through FY 2003.

A proposal to make available State Children’s Health Insurance Program (SCHIP) funds that under current law would return to the Treasury at the end of FY 2002 and 2003.

The Health Insurance Flexibility and Accountability Demonstration Initiative that gives States more flexibility using Medicaid and SCHIP funds to expand health coverage to low-income Americans.

Any of these proposals would provide both temporary and long-term fiscal relief for States, which is the right policy response given that State health care obligations are expected to continue to increase rapidly. In addition, these proposals would help provide more secure and affordable health care assistance for low-income Americans right away. These are far more effective approaches than an increase in the FMAP.

The Administration also opposes the temporary increase in funding for the Social Services Block Grant under Title XIX of the Social Security Act. We believe that States already have sufficient access to other Federal block grants to supplement the Social Services Block Grant and other social services block grant programs.

We understand that some States continue to have financial difficulties and that Medicaid constitutes a large share of State spending. However, we do not feel that this temporary increase in FMAP is an effective or proper way to address these financial difficulties. We will continue to work with the Senate Appropriations Committee to implement strategies of providing relief to States while improving health care coverage and affordability.
The Office of Management and Budget has advised that there is no objection to the submission of this report from the standpoint of the President's program.

Sincerely,

TOMMY G. THOMPSON.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I reserve the remainder of our time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Seven minutes remain on both sides. Who yields time?

Mr. NELSON of Nebraska. Mr. President, I ask my colleague from West Virginia if I might have 2 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. I yield to the Senator from Nebraska 2 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska is recognized.

Mr. NELSON of Nebraska. Thank you, Mr. President. I thank Senator ROCKEFELLER.

Back in the early nineties when I tried to balance our budget as Governor, I had the difficult time doing it, the Federal Government reduced its share and increased ours.

Today, the Federal Government is not having the same difficulty the State of Nebraska is having in terms of revenue. When you compare the 1993 revenue with the 2013 revenue, Nebraska's revenues are less this year than they were last year.

If we are trying to talk about who is going to do what during difficult times and how this partnership is going to work, I think it is a little inconsistent to say the Federal Government doesn't reduce its share. It does. If it reduces it, it can increase it; and it does in the ordinary course of events.

What we are saying is, this is an unusual set of events—not a temporary downturn, although we think it is but it is an unusual set of events where the Federal Government continues to have growing income and the States are having a reduction in their income.

It is a recognition that this partnership, which was created by the Federal Government with the States, is one that needs to work as a partnership where the two partners can work together to make this program work. That is what it is.

Certainly, I am not suggesting the Federal Government take over the entire partnership, take it over as a stand-alone program at the Federal Government level. But I think it is interesting that this partnership has moved to solve it. Secondly, it has moved to solve it. First, the administration is talking about is real, but it has no place in this debate. In other words, that is a classic argument. If you do not want to do something, you say, we will extend this. That is why, just like when the tax cut was written into law, it will not be extended. We have written into law that will not happen.

The Senator from West Virginia is saying we do not want it extended because he does not want this to happen. And I understand that. It is a good debating technique. But it isn't going to be extended. It is temporary. It is a year and a half for a very specific reason.

Mr. NICKLES. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. I will when I am finished.

Mr. NICKLES. It is a very friendly question.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia has the floor.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. The other is the upper payment limit, which in fact is understood by some of us. And I do not know whether the Senator is aware that the Bush administration, which writes a letter against this—which maybe is not surprising, I don't know, but it is disappointing—has already promulgated a new regulation, which took effect in April, which solves most of the problem about which the Senator is talking. The problem he is talking about is real, but it has no place in this debate. First, the administration has moved to solve it. Secondly, it has no part in this debate.

I yield the floor and reserve the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 3 minutes remaining.

Mr. NICKLES. Will the Senator yield for a very brief question?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?
Florida will lose their current Medicaid coverage if their income just happens to fall between 150 and 185 percent of poverty.

A North Carolina family of four, with a child suffering from juvenile diabetes, could lose their drug coverage shrink, potentially limiting their access to vital medicines.

Some 45,000 children could be cut from the Medicaid rolls in New Mexico because of the proposed cuts to deal with a $21 million shortfall.

Some 50,000 children, pregnant women, disabled, and elderly could lose their Medicaid coverage in Oklahoma because of the $21 million shortfall.

It may be expressed in dollars, but it is really being expressed in real people's lives: real suffering, real sacrifice, and real pain.

We have a chance to do something about that. This can be an expression of our values as a society and our concern about our fellow human beings. These are the neediest of the needy in our society, and this amendment will help them.

I commend the Senator for bringing this matter to the attention of the Senate. I am very hopeful it will be accepted and that the point of order will be waived.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished Senator from Maine.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maine is recognized for 2 minutes.

Ms. COLLINS. I thank the Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. President, I just want to make a couple points.

First of all, an increase in the Federal match under Medicaid was part of the Centrist Coalition's economic recovery package we considered. It was part of virtually every version. It had widespread support. It was supported by the administration. It did not make it into the final package. But this is not a new idea. This is an idea with widespread bipartisan support.

The second point I want to make is in response to an argument made by my friend and colleague from Oklahoma. My friend from Oklahoma said Medicaid spending does not get cut in economically good times. It is countercyclical. In good times, far fewer people qualify for Medicaid. In fact, Federal and State spending on Medicaid declined dramatically during the 1990s, when the economic times were good.

We have a chance to do something about that. This can be an expression of our values as a society and our concern about our fellow human beings. These are the neediest of the needy in our society, and this amendment will help them.

I commend the Senator for bringing this matter to the attention of the Senate. I am very hopeful it will be accepted and that the point of order will be waived.
Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from North Carolina (Mr. HELMS) is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. CLINTON). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

A bill (H.R. 5121) making appropriations for the Legislative Branch for the fiscal year ending September 30th, 2003, and for other purposes

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the text of S. 2492, the Senate committee-reported bill, is inserted in the appropriate place in the measure.

Who yields time?

The Senator from Illinois.

AMENDMENT NO. 419

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent to make a technical correction to the bill relating to a House matter. This amendment simply strikes a requirement that the GAO report to the House Administration Committee regarding its work on the Architect of the Capitol. We have been informed the committee does not have oversight for the Architect and therefore have been requested to delete this reference. I have consulted with my colleague and the ranking member, Senator BENNETT, and I ask unanimous consent this technical correction be agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The clerk will report the amendment.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Illinois [Mr. DURBIN], for himself and Mr. BENNETT, proposes an amendment numbered 4319.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment was (No. 4319) was agreed to, as follows:

On page 33, lines 19 and 20, strike ‘‘, the Committee on House Administration of the House of Representatives,’’.:

On page 34, line 24, through page 35, line 1, strike ‘‘, the Committee on House Administration of the House of Representatives,’’.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I thank my colleague and chairman of the committee, the Senator from West Virginia, for his help in bringing this matter to the floor.

Mr. President, I am honored to present to the Senate the fiscal year 2003 legislative branch appropriations bill as reported by the Appropriations Committee. I thank the chairman and ranking member of the full committee, Senator BYRD, and Senator STEVENS, and of course my ranking member Senator BENNETT who has been a real partner in crafting this legislation.

The bill is within its budget authority and outlay allocation, with total funding of $2.417 billion. This excludes House amounts which is the normal protocol.

This is only $8 million—0.35 percent—over the request level and $164 million or 7 percent over the fiscal year 2002 enacted level. Virtually all significant increases are for performance, and coordination of roles and responsibilities. The Architect of the Capitol operation has been making improvements over the past year and the employees worked very hard to do their part in addressing the anthrax cleanup, an historic challenge to all who worked on Capitol Hill. But there is much more to be done. Making AOC a best-practices organization.

They have been given tremendous additional responsibilities for executing a myriad of security projects, particularly the Capitol Visitor Center—which is on budget, and on schedule and on budget as it is today. Any visitor to Capitol Hill in the last 6 months or a year has noted the extensive construction underway. The authorities included in this bill should provide new tools with the goal of making the AOC a model for facilities management and construction management.

Funding for the Capitol Police totals roughly $210 million which reflects their latest salary estimates. Funding has been provided to accommodate at 9.1 percent pay raise—which includes comparability pay—to help the Capitol Police recruit and retain new officers as they attempt to increase the congressional size over the next few years to about 2,000 officers. Also included is authority for increasing pay for specialty assignments and providing authority and funding for full premium pay earned during the September 11th and October 15th incidents.

I can say that the hundreds of thousands of visitors to Capitol Hill understand the important responsibility of the Capitol Police which was enhanced and challenged by September 11. We want to make certain that we have the very best people and to provide this great national asset, all the people whom to the thousands of our visitors whom we treasure very much.

This bill will require that within 3 years the Library of Congress, just across the street, and Capitol Police officers be merged in order to improve security. This has been an initiative urged and encouraged by my colleague, Senator BENNETT. The 3-year implementation period will allow time to work out the details, differences in retirement, training and equipment.

The Government Printing Office, $122 million is included with the directive to the administration not to implement the recently announced policy directing agencies to violate our law and bypass the Government Printing Office for their printing needs. Such a directive were implemented, not only would the law be broken, but the process by which 1,300 Federal depository libraries receive Government publications would be compromised.

For the Library of Congress, including the Congressional Research Service, funding would total $497 million, an increase of $15 million over the enacted level, but $15 million below the request, reflecting a more realistic projection of the cost of new positions. New positions are provided for preserving the access of the Library’s collections, including digital initiatives.

The recommendation includes $33 million for the Center for Foreign Leadership Development. We have expanded what was originally the center for Russian Leadership Development to include newly independent states of the former Soviet Union including the Baltics. This program has proven successful in bringing emerging political leaders in Russia to the United States to learn democracy firsthand and to make certain they take those lessons home. Expanding this program to include these additional countries will continue to promote that critical goal.

Before I turn it over to my colleague and ranking Senator BENNETT, I just want to particularly thank all the staff on the Appropriations Committee for their work, and especially Carrie Apostolou, who has done a tremendous amount of work to make this bill ready for floor consideration, and Pat Souders of my own staff, who has worked closely with her.

I thank Senator BENNETT for his cooperation, and I yield the floor to my colleague.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah.

Mr. BENNETT. Madam President, I am grateful for the generous remarks of my friend and chairman, the Senator from Illinois. I am grateful for the cooperative way in which we have been able to work through this bill.

The Senator from Illinois had the challenge of taking over this subcommittee for the middle of the session, and he had just come to the subcommittee by virtue of his assignment to the Appropriations Committee. He has demonstrated that he is a very quick study. He has moved quickly to get on top of these issues.

I do not want to repeat the various elements of the bill he has described, but it is a good bill and it is one that I am happy to join in recommending to the Senate.

As the Senator from Illinois has indicated, I have been advocating for some time a merger of the Capitol Police, at least with the Library of Congress Police, and looking at the other police agencies that are under our jurisdiction. We are now moving ahead with this. I think it only makes sense, in the new security environment in which we find ourselves, that it is a good idea to have an area as small as the Capitol campus be divided up into jurisdictions under, not necessarily competing but certainly different police departments, does not make a whole lot of sense.

I have made reference to this before, but I think it is appropriate here. One of the things that was particularly significant for the success of the Olympics in Utah was the coordination that occurred between competing law enforcement agencies. Of course, we were involved in a much bigger venue there, a much larger geographic area, but it was important that everybody got together and was able to communicate.

Given the small nature but highly visible nature of the Capitol campus, it makes sense to have the police come together. I am grateful to my friend from Illinois for his support and leadership on this matter.

We all know about the Visitor Center. We can’t come into the Capitol without having it in our face every day. But the demands of the Architect of the Capitol to bring that project through, the project through a two-year moratorium. So I think the decision of the committee to fund a Deputy Architect of the Capitol, creating a full-time manager for the day-to-day activities of the Architect of the Capitol, is the right decision.

Senator DURBin has been particularly aggressive in trying to solve some of the management challenges the Architect of the Capitol has had over the past years. The decision to move toward a Deputy Architect, toward an operating officer to run the office of the Architect of the Capitol, is a good decision, and I think we need to highlight that in this bill.

Finally, I want to make a personal comment about a very small but maybe high-profile aspect of this bill, which is the Russian Leadership Conference that now has been expanded, as Chairman DURBin has indicated, to include other countries.

During the Fourth of July break, I was in Russia. This was the fourth time I had been there. I was very pleasantly surprised at the high degree of pro-American atmosphere we ran into. I was in Russia before when there was, frankly, an underlying current of suspicion—I wouldn’t go so far as to say antipathy—on the part of the Russian, but suspicion of America and America’s motives. We got that over the issue of the expansion of NATO, for which I voted and which I supported.

The first time I met with members of the Russian Duma, they were automatically anti-expansion of NATO. And no matter what we tried to talk about, they would always bring it back to NATO and, what are you Americans doing?

On this occasion, we met with officers of the National Council. They told us they were going to rename it the Senate because they indicated they did not get appropriate respect in their own country, when everybody thought of the parliament being the Duma and they thought of themselves as the upper house. There was a useful exercise in this Congress that we never use that term. And they thought, if they renamed themselves the Russian Senate, they would get appropriate respect.

One of the members of that council told me this story. He said: My grandmother told me that all her life she has been taught to mistrust, indeed fear, NATO. However, she said, in the presence of a law enforcement officer, President Putin tells me that NATO is no longer a threat, I guess I am going to have to change my point of view.

He told me that story to illustrate President Putin’s popularity in Russia, but I took that story to indicate a significant change in Russian attitudes toward Americans, and it has been the Russian leadership group that has been participating in this function, that we have been funding out of this subcommittee, that has helped plant the seeds of that kind of circumstance.

So even though it is a relatively small amount, it has been a controversial program with Members of the House of Representatives, I can give personal testimony, if you will, that it has borne fruit, that the fruit has been significant, and I congratulate Senator DURBin on his continued support of this program and its expansion into other countries as well.

So, Madam President, I am happy to join with Senator DURBin in recommending this bill to the other Members of the Senate and urging its passage.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I rise to offer for the record the Budget Committee’s official scoring in S. 2720, the Legislative Branch Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2003.

The Senate bill provides $2.417 billion in discretionary budget authority. Per tradition, that amount does not include funding for exclusive House items, which will be added in conference. The discretionary budget authority will result in new outlays in 2003 of $1.985 billion. When outlays from prior year budget authority are taken into account, discretionary outlays for the Senate bill total $3.547 billion in 2002.

The Appropriations Committee voted 29–0 on June 27 to adopt a set of non-binding sub-allocations for its 13 subcommittees totaling $768.1 million in budget authority and $793.1 million in outlays. While the committee’s subcommittee allocations are consistent with both the amendment supported by 57 Senators last month and with the President’s request for total discretionary budget authority for fiscal year 2003, they are not enforceable under either Senate budget rules or the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act. While I applaud the committee for adopting our set of sub-allocations, I urge the Senate to take up and pass the bipartisan resolution, which would make the committee’s sub-allocations enforceable under Senate rules and provide for other important budgetary disciplines.

For the Legislative Branch Subcommittee, the full committee allocated $3.413 billion in budget authority and $3.467 billion in total outlays for 2003. The bill reported by the full committee on July 11 is fully consistent with that allocation. In addition, S. 2720 does not include any emergency designations or advance appropriations.

I ask for unanimous consent that a table displaying the budget committee scoring of this bill be printed in the RECORD at this point.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

The Appropriations Committee has set net-enforceable sub-allocations to its 13 subcommittees. This table compares the committee-reported bill with the committee’s allocation to the Legislative Branch Subcommittee for informational purposes only.

1 Per tradition, the Senate bill does not include funding for exclusive House items, which will be added in conference.

2 The Senate has not adopted a 302(a) allocation for the Appropriations Committee. The committee has set net-enforceable sub-allocations to its 13 subcommittees. This table compares the committee-reported bill with the committee’s allocation to the Legislative Branch Subcommittee for informational purposes only.

3 The President’s request total discretionary budget authority for 2003 of $768.1 billion, including a proposal to change how the budget record’s the costs of future pension and health benefits for current federal employees. Because the Congress has not acted on that proposal, for comparability, the numbers in this table include the effects of the President’s accrual proposal.

Notes: Details may not add to totals due to rounding.

Prepared by majority staff, 07–25–02.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I thank the managers of this bill for their hard work in putting forth this legislation. which provides Federal funding for the legislative branch.

In reviewing this bill to determine whether it contains items that are low-priority, unnecessary, wasteful, or have not been appropriately reviewed in the prioritization process, I applaud the Appropriations Committee for their fiscal restraint in including a minimal number of such items.

For this legislation, only two locality-specific earmarks appear to be included. The bill itself includes $200,000 for Southern Illinois University for the purpose of developing a permanent commemoration of the Lewis and Clark Expedition. And an amendment to this bill that was adopted on the Senate floor provides $500,000 for the Alexandria Museum of Art and the New Orleans Museum of Art for activities relating to the Louisiana Purchase Bicentennial Celebration.

How refreshing it would be if the Appropriations Committee would demonstrate the same fiscal responsibility they showed in preparing this legislation in every one of the remaining appropriations bills. Unfortunately, this bill is the exception to the rule, because, as evidenced by the recently passed supplemental appropriations bill, the runaway pork-barrel gravy train shows no signs of slowing down on Capitol Hill.

We must remember that while the amounts associated with each individual earmark may not seem extravagant, taken together they represent a serious diversion of taxpayers' hard-earned dollars at the expense of numerous programs that have undergone the appropriate merit-based selection process. During this time of mounting deficits, we must be more prudent about where we devote limited fiscal resources. I urge all my colleagues to consider the implications of this budget.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.
The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To provide for a pilot program for mailings to town meetings)

On page 5, line 26, insert before the period “;” of which up to $500,000 shall be made available for a pilot program for mailings of postal patron postcards by Senators for the purpose of providing notice of a town meeting by a Senator in a county or equivalent unit of local government (or equivalent unit of local government) with a population of less than 250,000 and at which the Senator will personally attend: Provided, That any amount allocated to a Senator for such mailing shall not exceed 50 percent of the cost of the mailing and the remaining cost shall be paid by the Senator from other funds available to the Senator: Provided further. That not later than October 31, 2003, the Sergeant at Arms and Doorkeeper of the Senate shall submit a report to the Committee on Rules and Administration and Committee on Appropriations of the Senate on the results of the program.”

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, this amendment, on behalf of Senator SPECTER, provides up to $500,000 in the miscellaneous items account of the Senate for a mail program and additional funds for town meeting notices, an issue which Senator SPECTER has pursued for quite some time.

In the fiscal year 2002 appropriations, we provided separate funds for town meetings subject to a Rules Committee authorization, which has not yet occurred.

I would like to point out that Senators, on average, spend less than half the amount budgeted for franked mail—less than $3 million out of the $7.6 million budget. In addition, last year only a small number of Senators used town meeting notices. No Member, other than the Senator from Pennsylvania, has indicated the budget is inadequate. It doesn’t appear that we have a significant problem, but in order to determine whether or not there is an interest in promoting town meetings with notices attendant there to, and how widespread that problem might be, we have agreed to this pilot program to have a better understanding of what our constituents are thinking.

We have requested that by the end of the next fiscal year the Sergeant at Arms and the Doorkeeper of the Senate shall submit a report to the Committee on Rules and Administration, and the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. REID. Madam President, if I may take a few minutes, I will be very brief. I wish to say a few things while the two managers of this bill are here. I had the honor of serving in several Congresses to chair the Appropriations Legislative Branch Subcommittee. I can truly say that it was one of the most rewarding experiences I have had as a Member of Congress.

I understand how important the Library of Congress is to our country. We have certainly learned that with this bill. We were going through the years and there were cuts. No one wants to cut the Library of Congress. It is so important to the people of our States and of our country. If appropriate bills, this one gets a lot of attention. It is as important as any of the appropriations bills.

I want to take a brief period of time to tell the two managers of this bill how impressed I am and how grateful I am for their recognition of the Capitol Police. There has never been a time, in my opinion, where we have recognized the need for the Capitol Police as it is recognized in this bill.

We went through a ceremony yesterday where we placed roses on the table in front of the pictures of the two fallen police officers—Gibson and Chestnut. We were told yesterday that a team of 1,000 was built. We go through the mail every day, dedicated men and women are standing there, a lot of times not doing a lot, but every day they are there waiting to take bullets for us or for anyone who comes into this building which they are protecting. They do such good work.

The Capitol Police Force is well trained. They are as well trained as any police force in the country. As a district, we have not had an attack on the Capitol. It is a landmark. It is so appreciated by me and every Capitol policeman. And anyone who knows anything about this legislation—or could learn—would also feel the same way.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I thank my colleague from the State of Nevada for those kind words on behalf of myself and Senator BENNETT. I am glad he made reference to the memo that Edmond Burke made reference to the memo Gibbon and Chestnut, because it is a sad reminder of the important responsibility that the Capitol Police have undertaken on behalf not only those of us who are privileged to work in this building but the thousands and thousands of visitors who come here for the thrill of a lifetime to see this seat of democracy. Those two men gave their lives in service to our country. We should be reminded at all times that all members of the Capitol Police Force are prepared to do the same.

There is no stronger advocate for the Capitol Police than Senator HARRY REID of Nevada. He speaks to me annually when this issue comes up to make sure that we have not overlooked any element in terms of modernizing and professionalizing the Capitol Police. He is simply their strongest voice on the Senate floor.

I might also add that a close second is Senator WELSTONE of Minnesota, who has a close, personal friendship with so many of the members of the Capitol Police. He comes to me regularly with observations that really come from the heart. I thank him for his inspiration as well.

I think this bill meets the needs of the Capitol Police. And as long as I am in this position or in any capacity, I will continue to strive for that goal.

I believe pending before us now is the amendment relative to the account for mailing of town meeting notices, which Senator SPECTER of Pennsylvania has asked to include in the Committee on the Judiciary.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Madam President, at the outset, I thank my distinguished colleagues, the Senators from Illinois and Utah, for holding this matter until my arrival. I came as soon as I finished my round of questioning of the Attorney General, who is currently before the Judiciary Committee.

This amendment provides for $500,000 to be made available for a pilot project for mailings of postal patron postcards by Senators for the purpose of promoting town meetings by Senators beyond the beltway. It will not be limited to five, six, or seven counties with populations of less than 250,000.

The reason for this amendment is to stimulate town meetings by Senators and to make us more aware as a body, individually and collectively, of what our constituents are thinking.

Until fairly recently, there was no limitation on public notices. They could be sent out to the largest of counties at a very considerable expense as a matter of record, and also that the public knew how much a Senator was spending. Those figures were published with some frequency as to the mail expense accounts.

My own thinking is that there is no better use of our expense accounts than to communicate with our citizens about where we go personally to hear what is on their minds. Within the beltway, we are very insulated. In fact, I asked us to include a public opinion poll, or even if there is no public opinion poll, or even if there is no limit on what the “beltway” expression means. However, when we talk to each other, and do not communicate with our constituents, we do not have a feel for what is going on. The basis of representative democracy is that we are reflecting the will of our constituents. In order to do that, we have to know what it is.

When I say reflecting the will of the constituents, I do not mean taking a public opinion poll, or even if there is an enormous preponderance of the constituents, to follow that without question. I think Edmond Burke, centuries ago, laid down the proper standard, that an elected official in a representative democracy owes to his constituents, their views of the构成, and of what we are reflecting the will of our constituents. In order to do that, we have to know what it is.

They are our town meetings are very difficult affairs, perhaps even categorized as rough affairs. I have done 19 of them during the month of July, mostly during the Fourth of July recess.

My practice, which I know is standard for many of my colleagues who undertake these mailing campaigns, is to make a very short introductory statement, limiting it to five, six, or seven minutes, and then to respond to questions.
Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I thank the Senator from Pennsylvania. If there is no further debate on this amendment, I urge its adoption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the amendment?

Without objection, the amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 4323) was agreed to.

Mr. DURBIN. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. BENNETT. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 4324

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I send an amendment to the desk on behalf of Senator Dodd and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Illinois [Mr. DURBIN], for Mr. Dodd, proposes an amendment numbered 4324.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: Providing public safety, exception to inscriptions requirement on mobile offices)

On page 9, between lines 17 and 18, insert:

SEC. 4324. PUBLIC SAFETY EXCEPTION TO INSRIPTIONS REQUIREMENT ON MOBILE OFFICES.

(a) General.—Section 3(f)(3) under the heading “ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS” in the appropriation for the Senate in the Legislative Branch Appropriation Act, 1975 (2 U.S.C. 59(f)(3)) is amended by adding at the end the following flush sentence:

“The Committee on Rules and Administration of the Senate may prescribe regulations to waive or modify the requirement under subparagraph (B) if such waiver or modification is necessary to provide for the public safety of a Senator and the Senator’s staff and constituents.”

(b) Effective date.—The amendment made by this section shall take effect on the date of enactment of this Act and apply to the fiscal year that includes such date and each fiscal year thereafter.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, this amendment amends title II of the U.S. Code to authorize the Rules Committee to establish regulations to waive or modify requirements on mobile offices for public safety reasons.

Mr. BENNETT. Madam President, I am in favor of this amendment.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, if there is no further debate on the amendment, I urge adoption of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

Without objection, the amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 4324) was agreed to.

Mr. DURBIN. I move to reconsider the vote.

The vote was postponed until the next meeting.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The vote is postponed until the next meeting.
Mr. BENNETT. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, unless the Senator from Utah has any further amendments or modifications, I do not believe there are any additional actions on the bill.

Mr. BENNETT. Madam President, one of the pleasures of handling this bill is that there are almost always no additional amendments or complications.

Mr. DURBIN. I thank the Senator from Utah and yield back all my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Utah yield back his time as well?

Mr. BENNETT. The Senator from Utah yields back all his time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time is yielded back.

The question is on agreeing to the committee amendment.

The committee amendment was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the question is on the engrossment of the amendments and third reading of the bill.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. BENNETT. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the vote on passage of H.R. 5121, the legislative branch appropriations bill, occur at 1:50 p.m. today, with rule XII, paragraph 4 being waived.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that there be a period of morning business with Senators allowed to speak therein for a period not to exceed 10 minutes each up until 1:50 today, the time set for the vote, and the time to be equally divided and controlled in the usual form between the two leaders or their designees.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATCH. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

GREATER ACCESS TO PHARMACEUTICALS ACT

Mr. HATCH. Madam President, I rise to speak on the pending legislation, S. 812, the Greater Access to Pharmaceuticals Act. Even if I had major differences of opinion on the substance of this legislation, I commend Senators MCCAIN and SCHUMER, KENNEDY and EDWARDS for their efforts in this area. I especially wish to recognize the efforts of Senators KENNEDY, EDWARDS, and COLLINS for their work, which was almost complete rewriting of the McCain-Schumer bill. Let me also have to commend Senators GREGG and FRIST for working to improve the bill that emerged from the HELP Committee and for their leadership during the debate.

Mr. President, last week, I provided a brief summary of the existing statute that S. 812 seeks to amend, the Drug Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act of 1984. I happen to know something about this law, which is commonly referred to as the Waxman-Hatch Act, or alternatively, the Hatch-Waxman Act.

Last week, I gave an overview of my concerns with the HELP Committee legislative package. Let me put those comments in mind, today, I want to delve further into the details of the HELP Committee re-write of S. 812 the bill originally introduced by Senators MCCAIN and SCHUMER.

The central components of S.812 are aimed at rectifying concerns raised in recent years over two features of the 1984 law: first, the statutory 30-month stay granted to a pioneer firm’s facing legal challenges to its patents by generics, and second, the 180-day period of marketing exclusivity awarded to generic drug firms that successfully challenge a pioneer firm’s patents.

During debate on S. 812, there have been a number of comments indicating that there is a substantial problem with these two provisions. That may or may not be the case. One great disadvantage of holding the floor debate at this time is that we do not have the benefit of an extensive Federal Trade Commission survey of the pharmaceutical industry that focuses on precisely these two issues that go to the heart of S. 812 and the substitute adopted by the HELP Committee. The results of this long-awaited, extensive, industry-wide FTC survey are expected in a few weeks.

I have stated on numerous occasions that before this body undertakes a substantial rewrite of provisions central to the Hatch-Waxman Act, we should have the benefit of the FTC study and its implications.

The Senate could have taken a more prudent course. The Senate could have waited for the FTC report. We—and by we I specifically include the Senate Judiciary Committee—and, would have held hearings on the FTC study, evaluated the data, and then discussed, debated, and refined the actual, now barely two-week old, legislative language that is pending on the floor today.

But this was not possible due to the tactical decision of the Majority to dispense with the regular order so as to minimize the politically-inconvenient fact that the Senate Finance Committee would have most likely have rejected any Democratic Medicare drug proposal in favor of the Tripartisan approach.

To my great disappointment, although not anyone’s great surprise, we failed to arrive at the 60-vote consensus required to enact a Medicare drug bill in the Senate. Make no mistake about it. This is a great failure for the American people because for two years we have been million in the federal budget to be spent over 10 years to provide prescription drug coverage for Medicare beneficiaries.

We have all heard from elderly constituents many of whom live on limited, fixed-incomes—who have had substantial difficulties in paying for prescription drugs. Rather than rise to the occasion and make good on our promise to rectify that situation, and we are letting this abundant opportunity slip between our fingers.

I am very disappointed with the outcome of the votes Tuesday. It is my hope that we can find a way to come together on the important issue of a Medicare drug benefit for all seniors.

At a minimum, we should use the $300 billion already in the budget to expand drug coverage for those seniors who need the most help. What we should not do is enact an expensive, government-run scheme that could bankrupt our country and plunge our economy further into the abyss when the government usurps what should legitimately be a private-sector-run benefit.

The collapse of any 60-vote consensus on the Medicare drug benefit does not show the public the type of bipartisan spirit that voters across the country say they prefer, in poll after poll after poll.

And so, we move back to the important, if more mundane, matters in S. 812.

One of the real marvels of this debate is that we have finally found out who those guys are in the White House.

It is not the government that has failed to make good on the promise to provide needy seniors with pharmaceutical coverage.

No, it’s the pharmaceutical industry, an industry that is working day and night to bring us the medicines, the miracle cures that seniors seek.

I just had no idea that is who was going to be blamed.

The game plan comes right out of the Clintoncare play-book. As you hear attack after attack on the drug companies, I just want all of you listening to this debate to know that a similar tactic was employed by the Democrats when they tried to foist Clintoncare on a very unreceptive public back in 1993 and 1994.

Here is how David Broder and Haynes Johnson, two highly respected journalists, described the tactics of the Clinton White House in trying to pass its too grand health care reform plan:

This quote is from “The System,” a book by Haynes Johnson and David...
Broder, two leading political writers in this town, both of whom write for the Washington Post. Neither of them would be considered, by any stretch of the imagination, conservative. This is what they had to say in this book called The System: Talking about the American Way of Politics and how health care policy is formed:

In the campaign period, Clinton’s political advisors focused mainly on the message that, for “the plain folks, it’s greed—greedy hospitals, greedy insurance companies. It was an us versus them issue, which Clinton was extremely good at exploiting.

This is the second quote: Clinton’s political consultants—Carville, Begala, Grunwald, Greenberg—all thought “there had to be villains.” At that point, the insurance companies and the pharmaceutical companies became the enemy.

As you can see, here are two liberal political writers who summarized the Clinton health plan.

Villains . . . enemies all this sounds familiar in this debate. So, I will stipulate for the purpose of this debate that the pharmaceutical industry is the designated villain.

It strikes me as curious at least that the sector of the economy that plows back the highest portion of its revenues back into research—and research on life-threatening diseases no less—is treated with such disdain, at times even contempt, on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. President, from what has been said on the floor of the Senate you would think that this industry is trying to cause cancer, not trying to find cures.

I note that Senator KENNEDY has suggested our nation’s biomedical research establishment has not really made much progress over the past few decades in terms of developing new drugs. I think the facts speak otherwise.

For example, consider the array of medicines that have been developed to treat HIV infection and the complications of AIDS. Through the unique public/private partnership that comprises the U.S. biomedical research enterprise, AIDS is being transformed from an invariably fatal disease into a chronic condition that we are hopeful one day will have a cure.

These advances do not come easily or on the cheap. I would note the exciting advances from the recent International AIDS meeting in Barcelona concerning the new class of AIDS medications represented by the new drug, T-20. Unlike many of the current anti-retroviral medications like AZT that seek to inhibit the replication of the HIV virus, T-20 attempts to block entry of the virus into healthy cells.

Here is what one press account has said about this still unapproved, but highly promising drug:

But it takes 106 steps more than 10 times the usual number of chemical reactions to make the lengthy peptide, making production of it a costly, resource-intensive process. Roche refurbished a plant in Boulder, Colorado, just to make T-20. Almost 100,000 pounds of specialized raw materials are needed to make a little more than 2,200 pounds of the drug. In all, Roche has invested $490 million in T-20’s development and manufacturing.

Let us not be too quick to characterize all villains and enemies those scientists and companies who are working every day to overcome dread diseases like AIDS. Think of the imagination and expertise required to design all 106 chemical reaction required to make T-20. How many times must they have failed to come up with the correct chemical pathway?

I might add, as Senator Frist pointed out on the floor last week, that infectious disease experts like Dr. Tony Fauci at NIH have said that despite the substantial promise of T-20, there is still more work to be done on this drug. Specifically, it is imperative to develop a tablet form of this currently intravenous preparation if we will be able to effectively use the product in the Third World.

Some in this debate have minimized the importance of product formulation patents and have suggested that such patents should not be eligible for the 30-month stay. But public health experts such as Dr. Pasternak, one of the leading experts in the world, are telling us that the formulation of drugs like T-20 is critical. Who is to say that the steps in addition to the 106 steps already painstakingly identified to make the IV preparation necessary to make a tablet form of the drug are not worthy of the same protection afforded other pharmaceutical patents since 1984?

And if it turns out that such a formulation patent issues more than 30-days after FDA can one-day approve a new drug application for a tablet form of T-20, why should this patent be given less procedural protection than other related patents? But this differential treatment of patents is exactly what could occur if we adopt the pending legislation.

Mr. President, the Hatch-Waxman Act has been called one of the most important consumer bills in history. It has helped save consumers, by the Congressional Budget Office reckoning, $8 billion to $10 billion every year since 1984. It created the modern generic drug industry by creating this delicate balance between the pioneer research companies, and the generic companies that could readily copy drugs under Hatch-Waxman’s unit-of-work test that had taken R & D firms up to 15 years, $800 million and at least 5,000 to 6,000 failed drug companies for each successful new drug could be used by general firms under the 1984 law.

I might add, the Hatch-Waxman Act has brought the generic industry from little over 15 percent of the marketplace to 47 percent as we speak, and it is going up all the time. That is what we thought should happen.

We are at an impasse and still counting for this still unapproved promising new AIDS drug, T-20.

Remarkable progress in the field of drug development has been made over the past 18 years since Waxman-Hatch was adopted. We have seen enormous strides in the treatment of heart disease, diabetes, arthritis, Alzheimer’s and many others, including the 200 new drugs that have been approved to treat lower prevalence orphan diseases.

I am proud to be an author of the Orphan Drug Act that has given hope to so many American families.

If our Nation is going to develop diagnostic tests, treatments, and vaccines to prevent and counter attacks of bioterrorism and potential chemical or even nuclear terrorism, just whom do you think is going to develop these products? I will tell you who. It will be those “villains” in the pharmaceutical industry, in partnership with government and academic researchers, unless we hamper their ability to do so, if we do not watch ourselves carefully on this Legislation.

At some point we must put aside this one-dimensional, simplistic vilification of the pharmaceutical industry and examine more closely the actual substance of the pending legislation.

Are the PhRMA companies always right? No, they are not, and neither are the generic companies always right.

Would Hatch-Waxman created a delicate balance so they were competitive against each other, and it has worked very well.

It is my strong preference to conduct this debate in a manner consistent with the Hatch-Waxman Act with our eyes focused on the policies, not the politics.

As I said last week, the pending legislation, S. 812, addresses important and complex issues of patent law, civil justice reform and antitrust policy. A strong case could be made that Senate consideration of this bill would be improved if the Judiciary Committee were given the opportunity to study the legislation, review the Federal Trade Commission and its voice heard in this debate. It seems unlikely that anything resembling this process will unfold given the decision to rush the HELP Committee patent, antitrust, civil justice reform bill to the floor of the Senate.

As a threshold matter, it seems to me that before we adopt S. 812, we should be certain that this bill is consistent with the longstanding goals of the statute S. 812 seeks to amend, the Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act.

Let me remind my colleagues, the goals of this law, passed in 1984, are twofold:

First, to create a regulatory pathway that allows the American public to gain access to more affordable generic drugs; and,

Second, to create incentives for manufacturers of pioneer drug products to see that the American public has access to the latest, cutting-edge medications.

As I described last week, the 1984 law is a carefully balanced statute and contains features designed to accomplish... these two somewhat conflicting goals. This tension is inherent because of the competing nature of the desire, on one hand, to develop breakthrough drugs and, on the other hand, to make available generic copies of these pioneer products. As legislation is crafted to address the problems that have arisen up in recent years with respect to the Waxman-Hatch law, we must be careful not to devise a remedy that upsets the delicate balance of the statute.

I am concerned that the manner in which the HELP Committee substitute tries to fix the two most widely cited shortcomings of the 1984 law may, in fact, disturb the balance of the statute by, in some areas, overcorrecting and, in other areas, undercorrecting for the observed problems.

Specifically, while the manner in which the Edwards-Collins HELP Committee bill addresses the 30-month stay issue represents a major improvement over McCain-Schumer, I am afraid though, the 30-month stay language represents a case of overcorrection.

Last Thursday, I gave a short summary of the key provisions of the Hatch-Waxman Act. It only took me 1 hour and 32 minutes. After providing this background and context, I explained why I thought that the provisions of the pending legislation relating to patent rights and the 30-month stay went too far. Let me reiterate my concerns with the 30-month stay.

As has been stated by many during this debate, the drug patent system is the envy of any other industry as a mechanism to protect the intellectual property of companies that develop patented medications, companies, I might add, that were going to be afforded less intellectual property protections than any other industry as part of the 1984 law. We knowingly added this provision because we wanted to give them a fair opportunity to defend their patents. We know that patent litigation is itself a risky endeavor with the federal circuit court overturning about 40 percent of the trial court decisions in some areas of patent law.

The public policy purpose for this stay is to allow time for the courts to determine the validity of drug patents and/or to decide whether valid patents are, or are not, infringed by a generic drug challenger.

That was the intent of the law. Many believe—and I share that view—that the 30-month provision is necessary to prevent problems in two areas: First, later issued patents that trigger last minute 30-month stays; and, second, multiple uses of the 30-month stay provision in a consecutive, over-lapping manner, that work to bar generic petition for as long as the litigation can be made to drag on by lawyers who are paid by the hour.

Some in this debate have characterized that both of these problems are at epidemic proportions. While I think there is evidence that problems have occurred and it is important that we act to modify the law so that the 30-month stay can be misused, I think it is fair to focus, for the moment, on the problem of overlap. Blockbuster drugs come off-patent until four years after the FDA first approves a drug.

I would also add that in most European countries and in Japan, it is my understanding that the law provides a 10-year period of data exclusivity—indeed independent of patent term before a generic copy may be approved for marketing. The public policy behind these periods of data exclusivity is to recognize the fact that in approving generic drugs, the government regulatory agency is relying upon the extensive, expensive—and prior to enactment of Hatch-Waxman, generally proprietary, trade secret—safety and efficacy data supplied by the pioneer firm.

At any rate, as I explained last week, current U.S. law does not even allow a generic drug applicant to challenge a pioneer firm’s patent until four years have elapsed. Why shouldn’t, for example, a formulation patent issued one year after a drug is approved not be protected by the 30-month stay if the challenge cannot be made for 3 more years?

The 30-month stay must be understood in the context of the complexities of the 1984 Waxman-Hatch law that generally provides 5 years of market exclusivity to pioneer drug products as part of the recognition for allowing the generic firms to rely on the pioneer’s expensive safety and efficacy data. Moreover, I think that any discussion of the 30-month stay is incomplete if it does not include the fact that, under Hatch-Waxman, generic drug firms are given a unique advantage under the patent code that allows them to get a head start toward the market by allowing them to make and use patented drug products for up to the commercial and ordinarily patent infringing purpose of securing FDA approval and scaling up production.

Let me quickly review the general rule against patent infringement. A drug is a "patented invention" if under a federal law which regulates the manufacture, use, or sale of drugs or biological products.

Section 271(a) of title 35 of the United States Code, section 271(a). It says: . . . whoever without authority makes, uses, offers to sell, or sells any patented invention during the term of the patent . . . infringes the patent.

This is a clear, unambiguous protection of property rights, as it should be to protect the creative genius of America’s inventors.

Section 271(e) of title 35 contains the so-called Bolar amendment that was added to the patent code by the Hatch-Waxman Act to create a special exception for generic drug manufacturers. Section 271(e)(1) states: It shall not be an act of infringement to make or use . . . a patented invention . . . solely for uses reasonably related to the development and submission of information under a federal law which regulates the manufacture, use, or sale of drugs or biological products.
Essentially, this particular provision I have just read gives generic drug manufacturers a head start over virtually all other producers of generic products. In other words, it gives the generic industry a tremendous advantage. Normally, making and using a patented drug results in regulatory approval and the market for that drug. However, this provision allows the generic drug firms from using on-patent drugs to secure FDA approval or gearing up production, in other words, the case overruled that right—allows the generic firms to violate customary patent rights because we put it in Hatch-Waxman. Section 271(e) is the Hatch-Waxman language.

The public policy purpose of the Bolar Amendment to the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act or "FDCA," etc., creates no private right of action. In re: Orthopedic Bone Screw Products Liability Litigation, etc. . . . that the FDCA creates no private right of action, and then move on to the serious and detrimental effects that the file-it-or-lose-it provisions would have on pharmaceutical patents.

I have two fundamental concerns with authorizing a private cause of action that would allow applicants to bring declaratory actions to correct or delete the listing of patent information contained in the FDA "Orange Book."

First, over the past 30 years, the courts have explicitly held that no private right of action is authorized under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act or "FDCA," etc., etc., "It is well settled that this provision represents a truly unprecedented step that runs contrary to 30 years of judicial interpretation. I believe that this would create an unwieldy and potentially dangerous precedent and would be used to justify future legislation authorizing private suits to enforce the numerous and varied provisions of the FDCA. Although I understand—and am sympathetic to—the underlying rationale for this provision, I simply do not think that creating a private right of action is an appropriate answer to the problems cited by the advocates of this provision.

Second, as the Administration has succinctly stated: "this new cause of action is more improper, dangerous, and patently absurd;" and "needlessly encourage litigation" surrounding the approval of new drugs. I certainly agree. Authorizing this new cause of action will not effectively address the alleged statutory authorization.

Now, I want to emphasize here that I strongly support efforts to halt anticompetitive abuses of the patent laws and the laws and regulations involving the listing of patent information in the "Orange Book." I am willing to work with members from either side of the aisle on this issue. However, I am convinced that creating a private right of action will not only fail to stop the patent abuses at issue, but will likely have substantial unintended detrimental effects on the drug approval process.

The file-it-or-lose-it provision that says patent rights are waived if each new patent is not promptly filed with the FDA and the file-it-or-lose-it provision that would result in the forfeiture of patent rights if a pioneer drug firm does not sue within 45 days of being notified of a patent challenge should be contrasted with current law for all other types of patents. Section 296 of the federal patent code establishes a six-year statute of limitations on seeking damages for patent infringement. Why should this usual six-year period be decreased to 45-days for pharmaceutical patents?

I should also note the section 284 of the patent code explicitly authorizes the courts to award treble damages in patent infringement actions. This is a signal that Congress wants to protect intellectual property. We should think twice. I am considering adopting measures, such as the Edwards-Collins language, that act to undermine longstanding patent rights such as the six-year statute of limitation on patent damage actions.

As I said last week, I am mindful that the treble damage provision places a generic firm patent challenger in a difficult decision if the firm were forced to go to market upon a district court decision in a patent challenge situation. That is why I am generally sympathetic to the argument of generic manufacturers that current law should be overturned and any marketing exclusivity a generic firm might have might expire if the patent should toll from an appellate court decision. In the case of multiple patents and multiple challengers, the policy might have to be refined if the result is that no generic product can reach the market within a reasonable period of time.

As I pointed out, HELP Committee Edwards-Collins language is barely two weeks old, I am not alone in raising concerns about this new language. The Administration opposes this language. The Statement of Administration Policy states, in part, that:

S. 812 would unnecessarily encourage litigation around the initial approval of new drugs and would complicate the process of filing and protecting patents on new drugs. The resulting higher costs and delays in making new drugs available will reduce access to new breakthrough drugs.

That is important.

I look forward in the next weeks to hearing the detailed comments from Administration experts on these matters as we get the FTC report.

We are also starting to hear from others on this new, substantially changed, language. Senator Frist placed in the Record last week a letter from the Biotechnology Industry Organization that complains about the manner in which the bill undermines existing patent protection.

I would just note that the organization representing our nation's cutting edge biotechnology companies, BIO, expressed great dissatisfaction with this new bill language. The July 15th BIO letter says in part:

If enacted, these proposals would significantly erode the measures in Hatch-Waxman, which, among other things, provide an effective patent incentive for new drug development, and would create undesirable precedents for sound science-based regulations of drug products in the United States.

BIO also has some sharp criticism of the patent forfeiture provisions set forth in the file-it-or-lose-it and sue-on-it-or-lose-it clauses in the bill. BIO says:

This forfeiture will occur without compensation, without a right of appeal, and without any recourse. This provision is probably unconstitutional, and in any event is totally unconscionable.

Also adding its voice to the debate over this new, unvetted language is the American Intellectual Property Law Association. The AIPLA is a national bar association representing a diverse group of more than 14,000 individuals from private, corporate, academic and governmental practice of intellectual property law.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the Record a copy of a July 22, 2002 letter from the AIPLA.
There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

AMERICAN INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY LAW ASSOCIATION

Hon. Orrin G. Hatch, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I am writing on behalf of the American Intellectual Property Law Association to express our concerns about provisions in S. 812 that would under-cut long standing principles of patent law and would set an unfortunate example for other nations to emulate.

The AIPLA is a national bar association of more than 10,000 practicing attorneys and corporate practice, in government service, and in the academic community. The AIPLA represents a wide and diverse spectrum of individuals, companies and institutions involved directly or indirectly in the practice of patent, trademark, copyright, and unfair competition law, as well as other fields of law affecting intellectual property. Our members represent both owners and users of intellectual property.

While we take no position on the need for revising the process of ‘‘patent listings’’ in applications for drug approvals before the FDA, AIPLA believes that providing a new civil action to delist patents is ill advised. Such actions would involve the issues of (a) whether the innovator’s product is actually covered by the patent-at-issue and (b) potentially, the validity of the patent. Irrespective of the merits of allowing challenges to the listing on the basis of its accuracy, vesting courts with jurisdiction over patent issues in this circumstance where there is no case or controversy is improper. A proposed new civil actions would be invitations to increased litigation and threats of litigation over such issues without corresponding public benefit.

If a generic drug company wished to challenge the validity of a listed patent, we would suggest that a far better alternative would be to require that it be through the normal procedure of a request for patent re-examination. To the extent that the existing provisions of the drug law could be considered inadequate for such challenges, not only are there bills to strengthen them (H.R. 1866, H.R. 1386, and S. 1794), but there is currently a proposal before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office to establish a post-grant opposition proceeding that would provide a more robust challenge procedure. Such proceedings are not only handled by the experts in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office in the first instance, but all appeals would go to the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit which handles almost all patent appeals from normal infringement litigation.

Another aspect of S. 812 which we find troubling is the proposed prohibition against a patentee bringing an infringement action against a generic drug company for a patent not listed (and/or not properly listed) in an application for FDA approval. Under current U.S. law, a patent owner loses the right to file a patent infringement law suit which has the effect of staying the FDA’s approval of a generic drug for 30 months following the expiration of the last patent owned by the plaintiff. If (a) the patent is not listed with the FDA or (b) the suit is not brought against the generic drug company within 45 days of receiving an appropriate certification notice, then the listed patent is either invalid or not infringed. They do, however, retain the right to bring an infringement suit at a later date. The proposed amendment would be to take that right away from the patent holder. This would be an arbitrary denial of a remedy guaranteed to patent holders in all fields of technology.

We also point out that the denial of relief noted in the preceding paragraph would be limitations on pharmaceutical patents which could implicate certain non-discriminatory obligations of the United States under the Agreement on the Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPs), part of the Uruguay Round Agreements. At a time when the United States is facing challenges from many quarters following the Doha Ministerial Conference, certainly these provisions of S. 812 should be vetted with the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative for their consistency with TRIPs.

In summary, while we take no position on the need for legislation to change the provisions of the 1984 Hatch-Waxman Act or on the merits of the respective positions of innovator drug companies and generic drug companies, we are concerned that these provisions of S. 812 are contrary to good patent law policy and enforcement. Indeed, they would establish principles that would do great harm to the ability of innovators to realize adequate and effective patent protection and set bad examples by the United States toward the world that we are seeking ways to avoid providing such protection. If reform is needed, it should take other forms and directions.

Sincerely,

MICHAEL K. KIRK, Executive Director

Mr. HATCH. While taking no position on the need for changing the patent listing provisions of Hatch-Waxman, the AIPLA said that it believes that:

Providing a new civil action to delist patents is ill advised. Irrespective of the merits of allowing challenges to the listing on the basis of its accuracy, vesting courts with jurisdiction over patent issues in this circumstance where there is no case or controversy is inappropriate.

The AIPLA also red flags the file-it-or-lose-it patent forfeiture provisions of the pending legislation by pointing out that these, and I quote, ‘‘. . . would be limitations on pharmaceutical patents which could implicate certain non-discriminatory obligations of the United States under the Agreement on the Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPs). At a time when the United States is facing challenges from many quarters following the Doha Ministerial Conference, certainly these provisions of S. 812 should be vetted with the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative for their consistency with TRIPs.’’

I agree we should hear from United States Trade Representative on this matter. I also agree with the American Intellectual Property Law Association when it closed its letter with the following statement: ‘‘If reform is needed, it should take other forms and directions.’’

Finally, Mr. President, I would like to make my colleagues aware of and ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD, a statement from the law offices of David Beier.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

INNOVATION IN HEALTH CARE AND THE RESULTING IMPROVEMENTS IN MORTALITY AND HEALTH OUTCOMES WILL SUFFER FROM THE RETROACTIVE TAKING OF PROPERTY RIGHTS PROVISIONS IN THE SENATE’S PASSAGE OF THE EDWARDS SUBSTITUTE TO S. 812

In the last 50 years there have been dramatic improvements in life expectancy and health care outcomes in part, because of new drugs and therapies. These advances have occurred because the United States, unlike some other nations, has a strong patent system that creates a balanced set of incentives. That system of incentives for innovation is at risk, if as proposed in the pending bill, the investment that backed and settled property rights in patents are retroactively taken away.

The substitute amendment to the Schu-errum-McCain bill adopted July 11 proposes to deprive property owners—in this case patent holders—of the most fundamental of property rights, the right to exclude others from using their property without just compensation. This bill works this result by taking away the right to sue. As explained in greater detail, the bill proposes to prevent holders of valid patents from suing generic drug companies for making products that infringe on their patents. This proposal is not only bad policy but poses at least three serious legal problems.

First, the proposed bill takes away an essential attribute of a patent—the right to enforce it against copiers. This deprivation is either a per se taking of property under the relevant Supreme Court case law, or works a taking in light of the case by case constitutional test outlined by the same court. The pending bill would work a per se taking if a Court determined that the loss of the right to sue was the equivalent of a total physical occupation of a piece of real property. There is a general case that a court would so find, regardless of whether this proposal would meet that test, the courts would most surely find that the loss of the right to sue would be a taking of property that required just compensation under the other applicable constitutional test.

Under current Supreme Court precedent, if enacted, these amendments would be evaluated under a taking analysis that would measure the nature of the property involved, the nature of the economic right and the de-termination of governmental action in this case, it is well settled law that a patent is a property right. It would be absurd to uphold that right and then claim that barring action is a taking that is constitutional. Because this amendment would work a fundamental and retroactive deprivation of those economic rights courts would likely find that these changes amount to a taking which a finding triggers a requirement of government compensation of the property owners. At the President’s Council of Economic Ad-Visors recognized in its report to the President earlier this year, the kinds of inven-tions at risk here—the breakthroughs and incremental improvements in existing products—were critical to improved health out-comes. That same report also recognized that these products require the free market possibility of substantial profits to sustain the magnitude of the R&D necessary to over-come the risk of research failures, and com-petition from others also racing to be first on the market with new medical innova-tions. Without those profits, a successful taking suit would implicate many claims of significant economic loss. Thus, it is likely that any finding would have very serious implications on the budget. Second, there is a strong argument that this amendment interferes with the right of penalty could, after adjudication in the WHO, result in the imposition of retaliatory tariffs on American exports.

Mr. President, I share these concerns. I urge my colleagues to consider the views of BIO, the AIPLA, and David Beier, as well as the other organizations cited last week, before we rush to adopt this virtually unvetted, far-reaching language that has not been the subject of a hearing in any committee of Congress. Not the HELP Committee, not the Judiciary Committee, not the Commerce Committee, and not the Finance Committee which has jurisdiction over matters of international trade.

But more important than any payments that the Treasury might be compelled to pay due to judgments related to the Takings Clause or than any retaliatory trade sanctions that the WHO may impose on the United States down the road, we need to consider what the public health consequences might be if we unjustifiably lower protections on pharmaceutical patents.

Don’t get me wrong. I am in favor of fierce price competition in the pharmaceutical marketplace. I favor not just legal exclusivities today, but also better breakthrough drugs tomorrow. We need to keep in mind the relationship between public health and intellectual property. As David Beier has observed with respect to this linkage and the Takings Clause:

In the last 50 years there have been dramatic improvements in life expectancy and better health care outcomes, in pertinent part, from first filers and the pharmaceuticals that they produce. These advances have occurred because the United States, unlike other nations, has used a strong patent system to help create a balanced set of incentives. That system of incentives for innovation is at risk, if as proposed in the pending legislative, the investment backed and settled property rights in patents are retroactively taken away.

In short, while better in some key respects than McCain-Schumer, I am afraid that the HELP Committee-reported bill goes too far with respect to the 30-month stay. As I testified before the HELP Committee last week, if the problems we are trying to solve are the multiple use of 30-month stays and 11th hour-issued patents that unfairly trigger the stay, it seems to me that a more appropriate—and more narrowly-tailored legislative response might be a rule that allows one stay, and one stay only.

Further, it might be appropriate to restrict the use of the sole stay only with respect to those patents listed in the FDA database at the time when a particular generic drug application is submitted. I will be interested if such a rule satisfies the problems that the PTC finds with respect to abuses of the 30-month stay and how the PTC, FDA, DOJ, and interested parties think about this perspective.

I am open to other alternatives as more information becomes available and more discussion takes place among interested parties. For now at least, I am forced to conclude that this new NDA-plus 30-day rule coupled with the file-it-or-lose-it and sue-on-it-or-lose-it provisions and the new private right of action amounts to legislative overkill that creates a host of new problems.

In contrast to this over-correction which is well-intended, I am concerned that the Edwards-Collins HELP Committee Substitute under-corrects in fixing the 180-day marketing exclusivity issue.

Perhaps no single provision of the 1984 law has caused as much controversy as the 180-day marketing exclusivity rule.

As I explained last week, the statute contains this incentive to encourage challenges that help test the validity of pioneer drug patents and to encourage the development of non-patent infringing ways to produce generic drugs. The policy motivation behind the 180-day rule is to benefit consumers by earlier entry of cost-saving generic products onto the market in situations where patents are invalid or could be legally circumnavigated.

For many years as we intended and envisioned FDA awarded this 180-day exclusivity only to a generic drug applicant that was successful in patent litigation against the pioneer firm. In 1997, FDA’s longstanding successful defense requirement was struck down by the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals in the case of Nova Pharma v. Shalala.

The next year, the D.C. Circuit issued its opinion in Pupron Pharm v. Shalala which upheld FDA’s new system of granting the 180-day exclusivity to the first filer of a generic drug application even if the pioneer firm did not sue for patent infringement. Also in 1998, the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals held in Granuteck v. Shalala that a court decision with respect to a second or third filer could trigger the exclusivity period of a first filer.

Taken together, these decisions, which strictly construed the statutory language, awarded the exclusivity to the first filer of a generic drug application even if the pioneer firm did not sue for patent infringement. Also in 1998, the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals held in Granuteck v. Shalala that a court decision with respect to a second or third filer could trigger the exclusivity period of a first filer.

the 1984 negotiations recalled the intent of the 180-day marketing exclusivity provision:

There was never any doubt that the goal was to bring generics to the market earlier using the route of legal challenge with a reward of 180 days of marketing exclusivity. We were confident that the courage and facts to successfully challenge.

It was and is very clear that the law was not designed to allow deals between brand and generic companies to delay competition.

Unfortunately, the string of court decisions that interpreted these imprecisely drafted statutory clauses has resulted in a wholly unintended result. As David Balto, a former senior official at the FTC, has described the problem:

The 180-day exclusivity provision appears to have led to strategic conduct that has delayed and not fostered the competitive process.

Mr. Balto assessed:

The competitive concern is that the 180-day exclusivity provision can be used strategically by a patent holder to prolong its market life in ways that go beyond the intent of the patent laws and the Hatch-Waxman Act by delaying generic entry for a substantial period.

He is right. He is absolutely right.

The wholly unintended dynamic has properly brought intense antitrust scrutiny. As a matter of fact, in May of 2001, the Judiciary Committee examined the antitrust implications of pharmaceutical patent settlements inspired by the 180-day rule.

The Federal Trade Commission has been very active in this area. The FTC has brought and settled three of these cases in which brand name companies pay generic firms not to compete. At this point I will not go into the details of the consent decrees in the Abbott—Geneva case, the Hoechst—Andrx agreement, and the FTC’s settlement with American Home Products. FTC Chairman Tim Muris provided a great deal of information in his testimony before the Senate Commerce Committee in April.

The FTC is doing the right thing in taking enforcement actions against those who enter into anti-competitive agreements that violate our Nation’s antitrust laws. Probably in no small part due to the FTC’s vigorous enforcement under the existing antitrust laws and the development of Senator Leahy’s Bill, The Drug Competition Act, and your understanding that no more of these type of anti-competitive agreements have been initiated for over two years. The FTC report will no doubt shed light on this area In a post-Enron, post-WorldCom environment, who would be so reckless as to enter into such an agreement? Nevertheless, I must also point out that the agency recently suffered a set back when the FTC administrative law judge issued a ruling in the on-going K-Dur litigation that reminds us that not all pharmaceutical patent settlements are per se violations of federal antitrust law.

In any event, the McCaín-Schumer bill addressed the 180-day collusive reverse payments situation by adopting a so-called rolling exclusivity policy. If the eligible generic drug filer does not go to market within a specified period, the 180-day exclusivity rolls to the next filer.

As I testified before the HELP Committee, I do not favor rolling exclusivity. Here’s what Gary Buehler, then Acting Director of FDA’s Office of Generic Drugs, said before the Judiciary Committee last year:

We believe that rolling exclusivity would actually be an anticompetitive undertaking in that the exclusivity would continue to bounce from the first to the second to the third if, somehow or other, the first was disqualified.

In 1999, FDA proposed a rule which embraced a use it or lose it policy whereby if the first eligible generic drug applicant did not promptly go to market, all other approved applicants could commence sales. Molly Boast, then Director of the FTC Bureau of Competition, testified last May that, at the staff level, FTC supported FDA’s use it or lose it proposal. If our goal is to maximize consumer savings after a patent has been defeated, I find it difficult to see how exclusivity achieves this goal. I certainly prefer FDA’s use it or lose it policy over the McCaín-Schumer brand of rolling exclusivity.

In that regard, I must again commend the sponsors of the Edwards-Colins Substitute for rejecting the McCaín-Schumer rolling exclusivity policy in favor of what Senator Edwards calls modified use-it-or-lose-it. Having said that, I was alarmed to learn that during mark-up Senator Edwards responded to a question by stating it was conceivable that his modified use-it-or-lose-it language might actually roll indefinitely. This concerns me. Every time the exclusivity would roll to another drug firm, consumers will be further away from the day when multi-firm generic price competition can begin in the marketplace.

Frankly, I am not certain that I completely understand how the forfeiture language in Section 5 of the bill works. I do not think I am alone in this confusion. At some point, I would like to engage in a colloquy with the bill managers to ask some questions designed to clarify precisely how this provision works.

Let me say that if the bill reinstates the successful defense requirements and gives awards to the successful challenger so long as the firm goes to market in a timely fashion, I am supportive of the general concept. But I must say that I think that there are some real advantages to Senator Gregg’s simple and straightforward policy of more closely following FDA’s old-fashioned use-it-or-lose-it proposal.

As I stated earlier, I am generally sympathetic to the concerns of generic drug firms that any exclusivity awarded should be measured from the time of an appellate court decision. But this principle may not hold up if any form of rolling exclusivity is adopted or if we have multiple patents and multiple challengers, some of whom are attacking on invalidity and some of whom or attacking on non-infringement.

I must say I am troubled by the provision of the bill that appears to grant each generic firm that qualifies for the benefit of the 18-month marketing exclusivity incentive a 30-month period to secure FDA approval measured from the time of the filing of the generic drug application.

Let’s say that the first firm eligible to take advantage of the 180-day benefit drops out for some reason. Assume also that the next firm eligible under the terms of Section 5 is in the midst of, for example, a negative good manufacturing inspection and can’t go to market, but has say 14 months remaining on the 30-month clock. It would have the option of an appropriate outcome only, for example, the next firm eligible on the list already has satisfied all of the FDA requirements and has received tentative final approval, but must wait until the 30-month clock runs out.

I hope that the proponents of the substitute amendment will help us all understand just how Section 5 is intended to work. It is difficult for me to see why we should adopt a policy whereby the balance of the 30-month period described in Section 5(a)(2)(D)(i)(III)(dd)” on page 44 of the bill could conceivably be greater than the 180-days of marketing exclusivity. Under the default of the so-called modified applicant, why should we wait for a second eligible drug firm to obtain FDA approval when there may be a third, fourth, or fifth applicant in line with FDA approval ready to go?

I hope the sponsors of the legislation are not locked into their so-called modified use it or lose it policy, because I think it would be wise for Congress to step back and reassess the wisdom of retaining the 180-day marketing exclusivity provision by the same form as enacted in 1984. Why not take this opportunity to re-think the 180-day rule?

At one extreme are those who have suggested that the 180-day marketing exclusivity provision may not even be necessary at all. Liz Dickinson, a top-notch career attorney at FDA, has asked: “I suggest we look at whether 180-day exclusivity is even necessary, and now that the law is that it is an incentive to take the risk, I say the facts speak otherwise. If you have a second, third, fourth, fifth generic in line for the same blockbuster drug . . . undertaking the risk of litigation with the hope of exclusivity, is that exclusivity even necessary?”

Ms. Dickinson went on to make the following observation with respect to the 180-day rule. “We have got a provision that is supposed to encourage competition by delaying competition. It has got a built in contradiction, and that contradiction is bringing down part of the statute.”
At the Judiciary Committee hearing on May 24, 2001, Gary Buehler, FDA’s top official in the Office of Generic Drugs agreed with his colleague’s assessment:

...we often have the second, third, fourth, fifth challengers to the same patent, and oftentimes when the challengers actually realize that they are not the first and there is no hope for them to get the 180-day exclusivity and put that in mind, I would agree with Liz’s statement that generic firms will continue to challenge patents. Whether the 180-day exclusivity is a necessary reward for that additional work is unknown, but it does not appear that it is.

Keep in mind that both of these FDA officials are career civil servants with no political axe to grind. I personally favor retaining some financial incentive to encourage patent challenges, but in light of this testimony and other factors, I do not think we need to be wedded to the current form of the 180-day exclusivity benefit.

Frankly, I am surprised that neither the Noerr bill, nor the Kennedy mark, nor the Edwards-Collins amendment, proposed any changes in the current regime in light of the views of the FDA officials among other considerations. But, of course, neither the FDA nor FTC nor any representatives from the FDA and FTC testified at the HELP Committee hearing on May 8th.

Senator Schumer argues that the task of this legislation is to curb excesses in order to return to the original balance of the 1984 law. But if conditions have changed and the original balance of the 1984 need to be reassessed? Or what if there was an area that we didn’t get right the first time?

For example, consider how Paragraph IV litigation treats patent invalidity and patent non-infringement challenges identically under the 180-day marketing exclusivity rule. But invalidity and non-infringement are two very different theories of the case. Here is why: if there is a smart and tenacious attorney who specialized in attacking patent drugs on behalf of generic drug firm clients, has said about this difference:

In cases involving an assertion of non-infringement, an adjudication in favor of one challenger is of no immediate benefit to any other challenger and does not lead to multi-source competition. Each case involving non-infringement is decided on the specific facts related to that challenger’s product and provides no direct benefit to any other challenger. In contrast, a judgment of patent invalidity or enforceability creates an estoppel against any subsequent attempt to enforce the patent against any party. The drafters of the 180-day exclusivity provision failed to recognize this important distinction.

As one of the drafters, I must accept my share of responsibility for not fully appreciating the implications of this distinction. I think what Mr. Engelberg is pointing out that the 180-day rule acts as only a floor in non-infringement cases, that is, as long as the 180 days stand, a particular non-infringer’s marketing exclusivity can extend well beyond 180 days until such time as another non-infringer comes along. Conversely, doesn’t the 180-day floor work to the detriment of consumers whenever it acts to block market entry of a second non-infringer during the 180-day period? Why shouldn’t a second or third non-infringer be granted immediate marketing exclusivity as well? What would the market look like if we did this? Would other non-infringer come along? Consumers would reap immediate benefits for price competition.

I hope that my colleagues working on the bill will consider the distinction between invalidity and non-infringement as this debate continues over the next week. While I am of the mind to retain a strong financial incentive to encourage vigorous patent challenges by generic drug firms, we must ask why identical rewards are granted for successful invalidity and non-infringement claims. I welcome the comments and suggestions of my colleagues and other interested parties on this matter.

Frankly, I think we need more public discussion—subcommittee, the wisdom of retaining—lock, stock, and barrel—the old 180-day exclusivity award.

For example, even if we adopt the modified use it or lose it approach of the HELP Committee bill and the first qualified generic cannot, or will not, commence marketing and the exclusivity moves to the next qualified applicant, why should the second manufacturer get the full 180-days? Why not 90 days? Why not 60 days?

After all, the exclusivity begins to roll and roll and we move away from granting the marketing exclusivity to the successful generic litigant and Americans always prefer actual winners—we may end up with a mere second flier—and since when does our society grant such lucrative rewards to someone who merely files some papers?

And what is so sacrosanct about 180-days in the first place? It is my information that in 1984 the number one selling drug in the United States was Tagamet, with domestic sales of about $500 million. I am told that today the cholesterol-controlling medicine, Lipitor, has domestic U.S. sales of over $5 billion. Lipitor sales are 10-times higher in the U.S. than domestic Tagamet sales were in 1984. I understand that worldwide sales of Lipitor are about $7 billion.

Even adjusting for inflation, it seems clear that 180-days of marketing exclusivity is worth more, and a lot more, today than it was in 1984.

What might 180-days of marketing exclusivity for today’s blockbuster drugs be worth in profits to the generic firm holding the 180-day marketing exclusivity right?

Let’s be frank about what is going on here: Retention of the 180-day market exclusivity provision is one of those areas in which both the generic sector and the RxDS sector have something of a mutual interest. And when all is said and done, I think that the joint interest of the generics and the pioneer firms is not in perfect alignment with the interests of consumers.

This is so because during the 180-day time frame, when there is only one generic competitor, the pioneer firm does not take anywhere near the hit on market share and profits that occurs when multiple generic firms enter the market. Similarly, when the first generic on the market is under no pressure to cut the price anywhere near as much as when there is competition from multiple generic firms.

The report, Drug Trend: 2001, published by Express Scripts, notes this dynamic:

The AWP [average wholesale price] for the first generic is usually about 10 percent below the brand. After the six month exclusivity granted to the first generic manufacturer, the price paid . . . for the generic quickly falls, often by 40 percent or more, as multiple manufacturers of the same generic product compete for market share. It seems likely that the value of the 180-day marketing exclusivity award today may be worth much more than it was back in 1984—perhaps several hundred million dollars more per blockbuster drug.

Given the dramatic increase in drug sales for today’s blockbuster products, it does not seem far-fetched to project that the 180-marketing exclusivity award can amount to hundreds of millions of dollars—and perhaps over one billion dollars—in profits to the fortunate generic drug manufacturer. I am all for assuring that there are sufficient incentives to ensure past patent challenges, but isn’t there a limit beyond which we should direct these excess profits back to consumers?

Would we rather see 25 percent to 40 percent of that money paid of the trial attorneys who brought the case? Or, would we rather see at least some of those funds earmarked for attorneys’ fees, be channeled to help citizens lacking access to prescription drugs?

Shouldn’t we get the facts concerning the change in value of the 180-day marketing exclusivity today compared to 1984 and make any appropriate adjustment to this incentive? We don’t want to set the incentive so low as to discourage challenges to non-blockbuster patents.

My purpose in raising these points is to get an indication from the sponsors of this legislation and other interested parties, such as patient advocacy organizations, state Medicaid agencies, and insurers, whether there is interest in discussing the advisability of passing on more of the value associated with the marketing exclusivity to consumers if it appears it is fair to do so.

If there is interest, I would be willing to help fashion an appropriate amendment. It seems to me that we need to provide enough of an incentive to assure vigorous patent challenges, but we should give away no more exclusivity than is necessary. Every day of marketing exclusivity awarded to a generic firm comes at the expense of consumers.

I think we can and should explore this area further.

Let us not too quickly and too blindly retain the basic structure of reward under the 180-day marketing exclusivity provision. Before we change the law, let us have a serious re-examination of whether to retain the 180-day marketing exclusivity in its current form both in terms of the length of the exclusivity period and whether the retroactive unsuccessful invalidity and non-infringement challenges should be treated identically.

I urge my colleagues, as well as consumer organizations and pharmaceutical purchasers such as insurers and self-insured businesses to reflect upon what I have said on this subject today.

This is an area in which I think we would be wise to reject Senator SCHUMER’s argument that all we are doing with this legislation is restoring the integrity of the old Hatch-Waxman Act. But why should we be governed by that legislation is restoring the integrity of the old Hatch-Waxman Act. But why should we be governed by the world of 1984 when, for example, the best selling drugs in this country have increased sales by a factor of 10? Why should the value of the marketing exclusivity reward increase in direct proportion?

On a number of occasions, I have commended Senator SCHUMER and Senator MCCAIN for moving their legislation forward, even if the bill that came out of the HELP Committee does not resemble very closely their bill, and I still have problems with the floor vehicle as I have laid out in some detail. I commend them again today.

I hope to return to the floor before this debate ends to offer a few suggestions for a more comprehensive approach to reforming the Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act.

This is in no way minimizes the importance of other matters that are the subject of the pending legislation, because they are important areas. I do not believe, however, that these are the most important issues we can address.

Rather than focusing on how best to bring the law back to the old days of 1984, as Senator SCHUMER suggests, I want to discuss ways to modify the law to help usher in a new era of drug discovery while at the same time, increasing patient access to the latest medicines.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

ORDER OF PROCEEDURE

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that following disposition of H.R. 5121, the legislative branch appropriations bill, Rockefeller amendment No. 4316 be agreed to, and the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The previous order, the Senate will proceed to the consideration of the conference report to accompany H.R. 3763, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows: The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 3763), to protect investors by improving the accuracy and reliability of corporate disclosures made pursuant to the securities laws, and for other purposes, having met, have agreed that the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate, and the Senate agree to the same, signed by a majority of the conferees on the part of both Houses.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will proceed to the consideration of the conference report.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada is recognized.

Mr. REID. Madam President, I suggest the absence of a quorum and ask that the time not be charged against either manager.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SARBANES. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SARBANES. Madam President, parliamentary inquiry of the Chair: What is pending before the Senate?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The debate on the conference report is limited to 2 hours equally divided.
Mr. SARBANES. So there is 1 hour on each side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

Mr. SARBANES. Madam President, I yield myself 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SARBANES. Madam President, I am very pleased that we are now considering the conference report on the Public Company Accounting Reform and Investor Protection Act of 2002. The Senate approved this legislation on July 15 on a 97–0 vote. Conference were named promptly both here and in the House, and the conference committee immediately went to work.

Agreement was reached yesterday in the early evening, about 7 o'clock, by the conference committee, and the House took up the conference report this morning and acted on it earlier in the day. The vote, I believe, was 422–3.

The report has now come over to us, and obviously, under our procedures, it is our turn to proceed to consider it.

This legislation establishes a carefully constructed statutory framework to deal with the numerous conflicts of interest that have arisen in recent years, which have undermined the integrity of our capital markets and betrayed the trust of millions of investors.

I say to my colleagues that in every one of its central provisions, the conference report closely tracks or parallels the provisions in the Senate bill for which, as I indicated earlier, all the Members present at the time, 97 of us, voted only a short time ago.

This legislation establishes a strong independent accounting oversight board, thereby bringing to an end the system of self-regulation in the accounting profession which, regrettably, has not only failed to protect investors, as we have seen in recent months, but which has in effect abused the confidence in the markets, whose integrity investors have taken almost as an article of faith.

This legislation reflects the extraordinary efforts of many colleagues on both sides of the Capitol. I want especially to recognize and express my deep gratitude to Senators DODD and CORZINE who early on introduced legislation that in many respects serves as the basis for titles 1 and 2 of this legislation.

On the House side, Congressman LAFAUCED INTRODUCED the House bill, which was introduced by an amendment from Senator LEAHY. These were initially included in legislation reported by the Judicial Committee, which Senator LEAHY offered as an amendment to the bill. The House then passed its own bill with respect to the SEC. This legislation establishes a strong independent accounting oversight board, thereby bringing to an end the system of self-regulation in the accounting profession which, regrettably, has not only failed to protect investors, as we have seen in recent months, but which has in effect abused the confidence in the markets, whose integrity investors have taken almost as an article of faith.

This legislation reflects the extraordinary efforts of many colleagues on both sides of the Capitol. I want especially to recognize and express my deep gratitude to Senators DODD and CORZINE who early on introduced legislation that in many respects serves as the basis for titles 1 and 2 of this legislation.

On the House side, Congressman LAFAUCE INTRODUCED the House bill, which was supplemented by an amendment from Senator HATCH and another from Senator LOTT.

The legislation includes provisions to protect analysts against retaliation, in cases where a negative recommendation may invite retaliation. Further, the bill authorizes significant increases in funding for the Securities and Exchange Commission, which for the first time in many years will give it something close to the funding resources it needs.

There are also extensive criminal penalties contained in this legislation. These were initially included in legislation reported by the Judiciary Committee, which Senator LEAHY offered as an amendment to the bill. The House then passed its own bill with respect to criminal penalties, a separate standing bill, which in many instances doubled or even tripled the penalties in the Leahy proposal as it came to the floor, and the Leahy proposals were further supplemented by an amendment from Senators BIDEN and HATCH and another from Senator LOTT.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has consumed 10 minutes.

Mr. SARBANES. I yield myself 4 additional minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has that right.

Mr. SARBANES. These provisions, among other things, require the CEOs and CFOs to certify their company’s financial statements. The bill authorizes significant increases in funding for the Commission, whose responsibilities have expanded as the volume of market activity has grown, but whose funding has lagged. Clearly, the Commission must have the resources necessary to ensure a decisive and expeditious response to the scandals we have seen in July 25, 2002 serve to complement and reinforce that economic strength. This legislation will be urgently needed.

Throughout the process, we have worked together carefully on these issues. We have sought advice from the most distinguished and experienced practitioners in the field. We held 10 hearings in March with some of the very best experts in the country as our witnesses. We have consulted extensively, and I hope my colleagues will agree in good faith and across party lines. Our vision has been broad, our purpose steady. I think our approach has been reasonable.

In closing, let me say that I believe this conference report reflects our best efforts. In all the issues which we know to be numerous and complex. Throughout the process, we have worked together carefully on these issues. We have sought advice from the most distinguished and experienced practitioners in the field. We held 10 hearings in March with some of the very best experts in the country as our witnesses. We have consulted extensively, and I hope my colleagues will agree in good faith and across party lines. Our vision has been broad, our purpose steady. I think our approach has been reasonable.

We will send to the President legislation establishing a solid statutory framework for the reforms we know are urgently needed.

Our markets have benefited beyond measure from the statutory framework that created the SEC nearly 70 years ago. Indeed, I think we have had a tendency to take that for granted. Those markets have been a very significant economic asset for the United States, and an integral part of our economic strength. This legislation will serve to complement and reinforce that framework, which has served us well, and I believe it will stand the test of time.

Our markets, which have the reputation of being the fairest, the most efficient, the most transparent in the world, have suffered greatly in recent times to much so that they seem to have lost the confidence of our investors. It is our purpose, with this legislation and through other actions that will have to be taken by the regulatory agencies and by the private sector, to ensure that our capital markets deserve the enviable reputation for fairness, efficiency, and transparency that they have enjoyed through the years.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. GRAMM. Madam President, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I want to begin with some thank-yous and congratulations. First, I want to congratulate Senator SARBANES on this bill, and I want to make note that in a very difficult period, where so many were trying to point the finger of blame, when it seemed almost every day we would try to make the strongest statement they could make to get the sound bite on television, Senator SARBANES could have taken that same route in the Banking Committee. We are the committee that has jurisdiction over the issues that had been at the very heart of our recent concerns in the capital markets.

However, Senator SARBANES did not take that route. I congratulate him. He not only brought good reflection on himself, but he helped raise the esteem that the Banking Committee is held in and reflected well on the Senate. We had hearings but we were focusing on what could be done to fix the problem. As a result, those hearings were the most productive that they were held. They contributed to bringing us to where we are.

Now let me make it clear, from the very beginning there has been a broad consensus, and a very deep consensus, on 90 percent of the issues in this bill. One of my frustrations in this debate—and when you are debating something as high profile as this is, there are frustrations. I am not complaining—as my wife says whenever I complain about this job, not only did nobody force you to take it, but a lot of good people worked hard to keep you from getting it—I am not complaining, but part of our problem has been that the media committee that has just passed this as a debate that had to do with how much people were being, to the exclusion, often, in my opinion, of how reasonable we need to be.

We have before the Senate a bill that is clearly an improvement over the status quo, and for two reasons. One is obvious. That is, we needed stiffer criminal penalties. And, second, we needed to create an independently funded and an independently operating accounting oversight board so that we could operate in a framework that will promote high ethical standards, in the framework of independence. In addition, we desperately needed to have an independently funded FASB.

As an aside, I mention that this legislation specifically provides funding that will enable the Commission to upgrade its technical capacities, its computer systems, and it provides significant resources so that the Commission can augment its staff of attorneys, accountants and examiners at a time when they are needed to address a very heavy workload burden.

As an aside, I mention that this morning the committee reported to the Senate four nominees to bring the Securities and Exchange Commission to its full complement of five members. I very much hope we will be able to approve them next week so that they will be able to take their positions before the August recess. If we do, the Commission will be at full strength. They will all be in place and ready to do the job, and I think that is highly desirable.

We have before the Senate a bill that is clearly an improvement over the status quo, and for two reasons. One is obvious. That is, we needed stiffer criminal penalties. And, second, we needed to create an independently funded and an independently operating accounting oversight board so that we could operate in a framework that will promote high ethical standards, in the framework of independence. In addition, we desperately needed to have an independently funded FASB.

Mr. SARBANES. Madam President, I might just say as an aside, Madam President, over the years I have agreed with FASB in some of their decisions; I have disagreed with FASB on some of their decisions. However, I am proud to be able to say today I have never taken the position that Congress ought to override FASB. As incompensurable as some of their rulings have been to my way of thinking, having Congress vote on accounting standards is a very dangerous thing.

So some of my colleagues want to vote on the whole issue of expensing stock options. Wherever you come down on that issue, having Congress vote on accounting standards is very dangerous, very counterproductive. I hope that if anybody happens to be with me today and is not going to vote to impose accounting standards on this board. We want FASB to set accounting standards. We want to be sure they have the independence that is necessary to allow them to do it.

In those areas there has never been a disagreement on this bill. The disagreements that have occurred have had to do with the perception of individual Members as to what was practical, what was workable, what was desirable. The one view I have always subscribed to, and I would have to say given my period of service in public life I am more convinced of it than ever is that Thomas Jefferson was right when he said good men—he would say good people today, of course—good men with the same information are prone to have different opinions.

There is a natural tendency in the human mind to think, if people disagree with you, that either, A, they don't know what they are talking about; or B, they don't have good intentions. I subscribe to the Jefferson thesis.

The areas where I disagree with the bill is pretty straightforward. First of all I believe there is a very real problem in auditor independence. If I were a member of this new accounting oversight board that we are going to put into place and I had to vote on the nine prohibited areas that are written into law in the bill, I would want to study them in detail. I might very well support all nine of them. I do not believe they should be written into law.

The advantages of letting the board set these standards—it seems to me that there are three:

No. 1, the board is going to have more time and more expertise than we have and is likely to do a better job.
No. 2, if we make a mistake and we write it into law, it is hard to fix things that are written into law. As Alan Greenspan has said, if Glass-Steagall, Depression-era banking legislation, had been a regulation, it clearly would have been changed by the 1950s. We did not change it until 1999. It took a long time to change it.

Finally, and probably of greatest importance, there is a natural tendency when we are talking about the problem in any industry we are all reading about Enron and WorldCom, the huge companies, to forget this law will apply to 16,254 companies. Many of these companies are quite small. One of the advantages of allowing the accounting oversight board to set out prohibitions on auditors performing other services in regulation, instead of prescribing them in law, is that the board can find a system whereby they can recognize what is practical in dealing with smaller companies and how that differs from what is practical for General Motors.

An example that has come to my mind is one where I am operating a small public company, stock traded on an exchange or on Nasdaq, and I employ a small firm that has a CPA who basically does my auditing. He is in Houston. I am trying to hire a new bookkeeper in my company. I have three candidates. When my auditor is in town auditing my books, I say: I have three candidates. Do you know them? I majored in physics in college, and I don’t know anything about accounting. Could you interview these three bookkeepers and tell me who you think would be best?

Under this bill, that would be illegal. That would be providing a personnel service. It is prohibited for my auditor to provide that service for me as well.

For General Motors, should your auditor be providing a personnel service? My guess is they probably should not, but they certainly would not want to hire people in an environment like General Motors. They would want to hire people who are knowledgeable about the company, who could recognize what is practical in dealing with General Motors.

Another problem I have is that we have in this bill an accounting oversight board. Its members are not elected officials. They are not appointed in the sense that they are not Government officials. They will have the ability to make decisions that will affect the livelihood of Americans who are in the accounting profession. They will have the ability to say to a CPA: We are taking your license away and you can never practice again in providing accounting services to a publicly traded company.

Clearly, there are cases where that is justified. Clearly, there are cases where people ought to be fined and, clearly, there are cases where people ought to be put in prison. But I think when you are taking people’s livelihoods, you ought to have an opportunity to appeal to the Federal district court where they live.

I think there ought to be a burden on them to make their case, and obviously the court is going to take into account that this board, that was duly constituted, made a decision. But I think that is an opportunity that people ought to have that they do not have under this bill.

I am also concerned about litigation. During the whole Clinton administration, there was only one bill where we took the President’s veto, and that was a bill having to do with private securities litigation reform. We had a massive number of predatory strike suits where people filed lawsuits against companies. They almost always settled out of court. We had one law firm that filed the lion’s share of the lawsuits. And the chief lawyer in that company said, in effect, “It is wonderful to practice law where you don’t have clients.”

That was a mistake when he said that, but he said it.

We took action to try to eliminate or minimize this abuse. In doing so, we codified a 1991 Supreme Court decision that addressed what happens if you think you have been wronged. We are not talking about criminal activity. We are not talking about SEC enforcement. We are not talking about the Justice Department. We are talking about civil disputes.

Under that law, in codifying what the 1991 Supreme Court decision said, we said that within a year after you believe you have been wronged, you have to file your lawsuit, and within 3 years after that happens, you have to file your lawsuit.

One of the things this bill does, which I oppose, is it raises that to 2 years and 5 years, respectively. I would say that if there were evidence that people were not getting these lawsuits filed because of a lack of time, that under the circumstances I think that increasing the statute of limitations would have been justified. But as we have looked at the data, the mean average lawsuit is filed 11 days after the injury is discovered. Something like 90 percent of the lawsuits are filed in the first 6 months. It seems to me that this provision and other provisions of the bill that expand the ability of people to sue may have a positive effect in making people pay attention to their business, but we all know, based on our legal system, that it is going to be abused and that very heavy costs are going to be imposed on the private sector of the economy as litigation costs ultimately are added to the cost of the product that is produced and reduced from the stock value held by shareholders.

I could go on and on. There are other people who want to speak. We are under a time limit. But let me sum up.

I thought about this long and hard, and I thought about it, and I thought about this bill. I had to weigh, Does it do more good than harm? I have concluded that it does. It does less good than it should have done; it does more harm than it should have done—we could have corrected these things—but, quite frankly, in the environment we were in, that is probably the best we can do.

Finally, in the timeframe that we all faced in conference, we never really got around to discussing the practical kinds of things that do not seem important when you are writing law but seem very important 2 or 3 years later when you are implementing it.

Hearing what we have heard, I do not think I stand up here and argue that this bill has worsened the status quo. This bill is better than the status quo for two reasons. No. 1, change needs to be made and criminal penalties are needed to be ratcheted up, and once boards need to be established, and 90 percent of this bill, in my opinion, clearly represents a step in the right direction.
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE
July 25, 2002

But, second—and this may sound like strange logic but I think it is important. I think to understand American government you have to understand it. The American people expect Congress to respond to a problem. We may not know what the answer is, we may not have perfect knowledge. But they expect us to try to do something about it. That in and of itself is an argument to which we should respond.

I would argue—being a conservative, as everyone engaged in this debate knows, that we need to be careful. But in the end this bill is an improvement on the status quo. It could have been better. There are changes that could have been made that were not. But in the end, I cannot argue that this bill should not pass, should not become law. The President is going to sign the bill, and clearly he should.

I do believe we will have to come back after the fact and we will have to correct some of these issues. I think as time goes on we will see we may not have done enough in one area. Maybe we went overboard in another area. But the Congress will meet again, people will be paid to do this work, and I am confident they will do it.

So let me conclude on this thought. I believe the marketplace has gone a long way toward solving this problem. I think the New York Stock Exchange action was excellent. Once again, they are proving that they are a great institution. As I have often said about the New York Stock Exchange, I feel as if I am standing on holy ground at the New York Stock Exchange.

Every boardroom is different from what it was before this crisis started. No one sitting on a board, corporate board or an audit committee, will ever be the same. No auditors will ever look at their task the way they did before all of this started, at least for a very long time. or at least for a very long time.

One of the advantages of having structure is when they forget, the structure won’t forget. I totally agree with that. I think this represents a complement to it.

There is much in here I would have done differently. But in the end, I think this is a response that people can say the Government did hear, the Government did care, and Congress did try to fix it. I don’t doubt that there are mistakes. I think I could name some, if asked to. But, on the whole, this is a response that was aimed at the problem. People went about it in a reasonable manner.

Certainly, the authors of this bill intended to do as good a job as they could do.

I again want to congratulate Senator SARBANES. I also want to thank him, looking back now at how quickly the conference went. I knew people were unhappy when we had this period when the floor was tied up, and there were numerous amendments people wanted to add to the bill. But I think, given how the whole thing played out, it worked out from that point of view pretty much right.

If people on Wall Street are listening to the debate and trying to figure out whether they should be concerned about this bill, I think they can feel that this bill could have been much worse. I think if people had wanted to be irresponsible, this is a bill on which they could have been irresponsible and almost anything would have passed on the floor of the Senate.

I think given where we are on this bill that it is a testament to the fact that our system works pretty well.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. EDWARDS). Who yields time?

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I yield 12 minutes to the Senator from Wyoming.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Wyoming.

Mr. ENZI. Thank you, Mr. President. I am here today to speak in support of the conference report to the accounting reform bill. I will be encouraging all Senators to vote for the conference report.

This is earthshaking legislation that has been done with tremendous speed. It had to be earthshaking because we are trying to counteract the tremors from the volcanic action of the mountains being blown off such companies as Enron, WorldCom, Global Crossing, and others. Those collapses have set up a series of tremors across this country. Congress is the one to solve all these problems. But as Senator GRAMM just mentioned, we are expected to work at solving all of the problems. We have put in a huge effort on this bill, and it will make a difference.

While we have been working, the stock market has been going through some tremendous gyrations. I think some of those reactions in the stock market were to see how carefully we would consider and resolve this issue. I believe the market was worried that we would overreact. The market watched to see if Congress would keep adding and adding things, until we destroyed the whole system. They can now see that did not happen—Congress acted responsibly. We took a long and tough look at the problem and reacted, but we did not overreact. At the same time corporations across the country have been making sure they did not have the kinds of problems brought to light in a few of these companies.

‘Corporations’ should not be a bad word in this country. This country was built on business.

I always like to mention that it was primarily built on small business, small businesses that grew up, in many cases, but nevertheless ideas that started out as a small business.

We have to keep our focus on those small businesses, and make sure they are able to continue to operate in the climate of the United States and under the laws that we pass.

I am pleased to say that the actions we took in this bill provide some assurance to small businesses and small accounting firms that they can continue to operate the way they have in the past.

We have given encouragement to the States not to run out and apply the new laws. We are paying attention because they will ruin a very good thing if they destroy small business. Keep the eye on small business, and we will continue to have big business.

Corporations have been checking what has been going on in their firms to a greater extent than they have ever before. Boards, CEOs, CFOs, and audit committees have been checking to see if they have the kinds of problems that brought down these other companies.

It is much like when there is a plane crash. Right after a plane crash is probably the safest time in the world to fly because everybody checks their equipment ever so much more carefully to make sure that the kind of defects that may have caused other problems will not happen to them. And the effect lasts for a long time afterwards.

Corporations have been checking their books. They have begun changing procedures. Some of the changes they have made have been in restatements. They have paid a price for doing restatements. But they have done the right thing by doing a restatement, and they should be recognized for that.

I mentioned speed before. The Senate was designed for speed. We started out slow. We held 10 hearings. We looked at the issues very carefully, everybody resolved in writing their own ideas.

One of the tough things about legislating is putting it down in writing. The concepts are so easy, but the details are so tough.

There are a number of people who drafted bills on this—both in the House and in the Senate. On this side, Senators GRAMM and I drafted a bill. Senator CORZINE and Senator DODD introduced a bill. Of course, Senator SARBANES had the overreacting bill, and I believe his benefited a little bit from having copies of both the House and Senate bills on which to build his bill. I compliment him for the way he took ideas from all of these different approaches.

Again, it shows the value of legislating by a wide variety of people. You get a wide variety of ideas, which actually provides some insights into areas that a person might not have thought about.

But, at any rate, we concluded the hearings, and we merged the bill. This came to committee the week before the Fourth of July. It passed out of committee in one day. It came to the floor of this body just 2 weeks ago. And now, it has already been conferred, and come back to us for final passage. Part of that is a result of the atmosphere we have. The President is not designing for speed. We started out slow.
This legislation is a response to problems highlighted by the recent corporate failures of Enron, WorldCom, and others. It does send a clear signal to corporate America that executives can no longer abuse the trust their shareholders place in them without severe consequences.

This legislation builds a strong and independent board to oversee the accounting industry. It will eliminate the climate of self-regulation that has historically guided accounting.

How do I like to make one point clear. I believe that, overall, accountants take their responsibilities very seriously. They did before, and they do now. We have the best system in the world. What we are doing with this is to maintain that we have the best system in the world. Most accountants are honest and hard working. They work for the benefit of the investors with probably the same percentage of exceptions as other professions.

This legislation will also provide for strong disciplinary action against executives who break the law. No longer will they be disciplined with a slap on the wrist. The bill recognizes that executives have the dreams by irresponsible and unethical investors by irresponsible and unethical behavior will be given the severe punishment they deserve.

I also want to again thank Senator SARBANES and Senator GRAMM for their leadership. They both have worked tirelessly the past few months to get this bill finished in a timely manner. I particularly appreciate some of the insights Senator GRAMM gave me as he worked on this bill in more detail than most people ever achieve. It is his standard, and he carried that out again this time, which did resolve a number of the problems. I want to congratulate Senator SARBANES, and thank him for the way he conducted the hearings. A lot of people do not realize that the Chairman of a committee usually gets to pick most of the witnesses, and the ranking member gets to pick a few of the witnesses.

As we went through these 10 hearings, I couldn’t find any witnesses that I wouldn’t have picked were I given the selection. There were some very qualified people who testified. Some of them were even accountants. I did appreciate that. I apologize for asking some questions of them but it was such a great opportunity. My staff noticed that when the camera focused in on the person giving the answer, the wedge of people behind them were all asleep.

So what do we deal with is not the kind of thing that Americans get really excited about. It is far too detailed for it to get too excited about it. For accountants, these kinds of discussions are almost like watching ESPN.

Senator SARBANES did continue to meet with me and other Members and continued to make changes that improved the bill. There was a wide variety of Senators who worked on this bill. I have mentioned Senators DODD and CORZINE and GRAMM. Senator EDWARDS worked with me on one provision that is in this bill to make sure that not only accountants, analysts, CEOs, CFOs, boards and audit committees were addressed under this bill, but lawyers have some responsibility, too.

I find it very important that we are going to make lawyers have a code of ethics when they are dealing with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and that they are going to have an obligation to report things when they find things that cause some consternation among some attorneys, but I think it will make, overall, the same kind of improvements we are expecting from everybody else.

Senators ALLEN, GREGG, BAucus, Grassley, and KENNEDY all worked on some provisions that we don’t talk about too much; again, it is in the detail area, but it has to do with the blackout period when you are dealing with pension and other stock sales by top executives. These hours take to come up with a solution that would work. And if you have that many people agreeing on it, there is probably a good chance it will work.

Again, I congratulate all those people for their patience, reviewing their ideas to what needed to be done for this bill. A lot of ideas were floating around here on lots of things we can with corporations and executives that people want to have fixed, but this bill did not maintain some real restraint to stay on topic.

I do believe the conference report is an improved bill from the one that passed the Senate. Again, I appreciate Senator SARBANES working with me to make some of the changes about which I spoke.

One change we made changes the implication that not all nonaudited services should be presumed illegal. The bill has been changed to clearly allow the committee to make that determination without the law implying that it is illegal.

In addition, he made some changes dealing with the testing of internal compliance. I believe the new language more clearly represents the true role of auditors. One of the problems we dealt with throughout this process is educating Members on exactly what the role of an auditor is. I believe the new language represents that realization, and I thank the chairman for making the change.

There is another important change in the provision dealing with corporate loans. The provision would still prohibit corporate executives from reaping millions of dollars in loans from their companies, but the new language also realizes that executives need to use things such as credit cards to conduct their business. So this section is a vast improvement.

Another change I would like to comment on is the understanding that insurance companies, many times, have audits they must file with their State regulators. It would be burdensome and expensive to require these companies to hire a separate auditing firm to perform this responsibility. That problem was also recognized, and the needed changes were made.

However, I also understand that due to the time constraints, we will not be dealing with the bill. I think this will pose a series of problems because we will not be defining what the authors actually intended with certain sections of the bill and allowing the same written discourse that there would be on the bill. I think this may especially cause problems with the extraordinary number of regulations that are going to have to be written to implement the bill.

As the ranking member of the subcommittee with jurisdiction over the Securities and Exchange Commission, I do intend to work closely with the Commission to ensure that the new regulations are consistent with what I see as congressional intent. I will work with others to make sure these regulations conform.

I ask the ranking member, could I have an additional 3 minutes?

Mr. GRAMM. Sure.

Mr. President, I yield an additional 3 minutes to the Senator from Wyoming.

Mr. GRAMM. Sure.

Mr. President, some of the issues that did not come up in this bill dealt with the mandate that lawyers would have to throw out the book at the auditors and lawyers. This is not true and marvelous for FASB. We made sure of its independence. One way we made sure of its independence, besides citing in the law, was to make sure FASB has independent funding. They will not have to come to Congress with a budget. And they will not have to go to corporate America for funding. They will get independent funding to be able to do the job they need to do. That will inhibit them from trying to change what they are doing in setting accounting standards.

I am pleased to state that we have taken a look at the things they are working on right now. They are working on four issues that are extremely important to make sure what happened with other companies will not happen again.

I have to tell you, in those four things they have listed as a priority, one of them is not stock options and we do with that. We do need to address that, but I certainly hope that Congress does not decide that what we see as a problem does supersede other problems that may have caused collapse such as Enron’s.

So I hope we will not get in a position of dictating now to FASB what they should be working on, and in what order, and to what degree, or, worse yet, just going ahead and passing accounting standards on our own.

With respect to section 302, the conference recognizes that built into financial statements often necessarily require accompanying disclosures in order to apprise investors of the company’s true financial condition and results of operations. The supplemental information contained in these additional disclosures increases transparency for investors. Accordingly, the relevant officers must certify that the financial statements together with the disclosures in the financial report, taken as a whole, are appropriate and fairly represent, in all material respects, the operations and financial condition of the issuer.

If I may, I believe the conferees contemplate that the Board will have discretion to contract or outsource certain tasks to be undertaken pursuant to this legislation and the regulations promulgated under the Act. The Board may outsource functions which can be done more efficiently by existing and established organization. An exercise of discretion in this manner does not absolve the Board of responsibility for the proper execution of the contracted or outsourced tasks.

I also believe that the conferees expect that the Board and the standard setting body will deem investment companies registered under Section 8 of the Investment Company Act of 1940 to be a class of issuers for purposes of establishing the fees pursuant to this section, and that investment companies as a class will pay a fee rate that is consistent with the reduced risk they pose to investors when compared to an individual company. Audits of investment companies are substantially less complex than audits of corporate entities. The failure to treat investment companies as a separate class of issuers would result in investment companies paying a disproportionate level of fees.

In addition, I believe we need to be clear with respect to the area of foreign issuers and their coverage under the bill’s broad definitions. While foreign issuers can be listed and traded in the United States, the SEC has wide authority to rulemaking process is finalized.

that the penalties under section 906 certification requirement is completed, thus the penalties would go into effect before the enactment, thus the penalty is shown upon enactment, the SEC would be required to complete rulemaking within the stated time.

Finally, I not only thank the Senators I have been able to work with on this, but I also thank the staff. I thank particularly Katherine McGuire, my legislative director, and Mike Thompson, who handles my banking issues. I also thank Kristi Sansonetti, who works on all of my legal issues, and Ilyse Schuman, who played a very important role in the blackout pension period.

I thank, on Senator SARBANES’s staff, Steve Harris, Marty Gruenberg, Steve Kroll, Dean Shahinian, Lynsey Graham, and Vince Meehan.

I thank, on Senator GRAMM’s staff, Wayne Abernathy, Linda Lord, who is probably one of the most knowledgeable and longest-serving people in this area I have ever encountered, Michelle Jackson and Stacie Thomas.

And, on Senator DODD’s staff, I thank Alex Sternhell.

America will never know all the work these people have put on this bill, the hours they have spent on it, daytime and nighttime. I have seen them working in the early morning hours on this, and that is after spending the previous night working on it. They have just spent incredible time on this.

There is some incredible expertise among these people. Without their help, we would have never gotten to this point. So I thank all of them.

I thank Senator Gramm and all the others who have had a part in this. It is time we adopt this bill.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maryland.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, let me first say, I think Senator Enzi has been extremely gracious in recognizing the extraordinary contribution that has been made by the staff as we have worked on this legislation. I appreciate him doing that. I certainly associate myself with his remarks about the dedication and the perseverance and the extraordinarily high level of competence that is brought to this matter by staff on both sides of the aisle, committee staff and personal staff.

Mr. President, I yield 10 minutes to the Senator from New Jersey.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. CORZINE. Mr. President, I am honored today to stand before the Senate to express my strong support and appreciation for the conference report that I suspect, within an hour or so, we will adopt, and, hopefully, unanimously, as we did the original bill that came out of the Senate.

I think it is historic. I think it is truly critical in bringing about the kind of changes that will make a real difference to our financial system, not just today but I think as a standard it will be very much an important part of the structure of our financial system for decades to come.

I also believe the conferees have said often that we have talked about this legislation, that it really does, in my mind, fill a large gap that has been missing in our securities laws that were written 70 years ago. I think it very well may be the most important step we will have taken in that interim period, to make sure we have a measured but strong securities and reporting structure in our Nation that makes for the depth and breadth and effectiveness of our financial markets.

This legislation, as has been noted, comprehensively deals with reform of our accounting profession, enhances corporate accountability, improves transparency, moderates conflicts in a number of parts of our financial world, deals with the transparency of corporate financial statements, strengthens the SEC, tightens penalties and more securely sets the law, and ultimately, I believe, will restore the trust, the needed penalties, and investor confidence in the integrity of America’s capital markets.

This was an absolutely necessary step; this time in our Nation’s history. There has been an enormous betrayal of trust, demonstrated, certainly, by the headlines and the litany of corporate abuses. Let me say, it goes deeper than just the headlines. There have been 3,100 corporate earnings restatements in the last 4 years. There is a basic loss of more than just the simple sense of trust that people get from the headlines. It is hard for people to make investment decisions when they don’t have good facts, good numbers, and the ability to draw good conclusions about where the investor dollar should go.

It has led to a misallocation of capital. And there was a serious need for people to have reform in this area because this betrayal really went at the heart of why people were employees of various firms, why investors put their trust in investing in companies, and why the American system, which so relies on trust, has been called into question with respect to the integrity of our financial markets in recent days.

It is an extraordinary step. I am pleased to have been a part of it.

I would like to speak before the Chamber. I want to take a few moments to make sure he knows how strongly I feel about the leadership he played. For those who were not a part of this measure, I hope that Chairman SARBANES put forward what I have said to him personally—the 10 hearings we had were the moral equivalent of a graduate finance program. I suspect that very few times in congressional history have we seen the breakdown in the detail and presentation of sophisticated information, complicated topics, presented with the security and integrity that were presented in our hearings. I am heartened by the creation of this legislation. He did an incredible job of putting together a bill.

I get a little nervous when I hear people say this was a rush to justice, a rush to an answer. This was one of the most thoughtful and measured programs in place in the history of this nation. The legislation was written that absolutely could ever have been conceived. He deserves enormous credit for making sure we were thoughtful in the process.

Like Senator ENZI, I compliment all the staffs who were involved in this. This was an incredible effort on all of their parts. From the bottom of my heart—and I am sure all those others who were involved in this process—I truly appreciate the thoughtfulness and care they all gave to it.

I also would be remiss if I did not mention Senator DODD for his great work. Senator DODD has taken an extraordinary step in leadership.

Once again, I say to the Senator from Wyoming, this is about making America better. It is fundamentally about doing the right thing at the right time. His leadership on that, to make sure we stayed constrained, as he says, thoughtful, and measured about how we addressed the problem, has been most appropriate, and I have appreciated the opportunity to work with him. I compliment him for that effort.

I would say the same about the Presiding Officer. The addition of a number of amendments that have been, particularly with regard to bringing in the responsibility that is associated with lawyering in America, as important as it is for accountants and CFOs and CEOs, I think was an important step. There has been a lot of really great effort here.

Now that the chairman is back in the Chamber, I want to say again, this is a classic example of quality leadership, of thoughtful leadership, and getting to a result that will make a difference in the lives of Americans in the years ahead.

This is a little more personal for me because for the 5 years before I came here, I was a CEO. Sometimes you want to hide from that moniker these days since it is not so popular. I think these days about the words of Andy Grove, who said that he was ashamed and embarrassed by some of the actions and many of the actions that are associated with the abuse we have seen. I stand with Andy Grove on that.

This is not one of our prouder moments in our financial system. But what makes me proud is that we could work together in a bipartisan way to come to a thoughtful, measured response that will make a difference, that really will move our securities laws in a direction that will give the American people confidence in how they read an income statement, when they look at a company and when they judge where they want to work, that they will have the necessary information.

I am not going to go into detail on the bill. Senator SARBANES and Senator ENZI did that. This bill is part of the larger piece of legislation. I don't think it went too far at all. In fact, I think it is about spot on. I am sure there will be things we will need to review in time, tweak with, but this is a good set of initiatives which will make a difference in America's financial system.

When we address these issues, it does beg to recognize that there are additional tasks that need to be addressed. I heard the chairman talk about it is important for us to do this. We need to have the resources to make sure our new advisory board actually has the resources. I think we do. But their independence is so important that the SEC, the enforcement side, will come because they have the resources. The same as the SEC; we have to do our job in the second part of this to make sure those resources are available.

We do need to make sure the SEC Commissioners are in place so that we can have a credible process of looking at enforcement and review of laws and making sure that as we structure the SEC in the days going forward, we have the best of minds brought to bear there. I hope we can vote on these Commissioners very quickly.

For myself—I know there are differences of views about this—there are other unmet items on the agenda. Not necessarily that they apply to this bill, but in my view we are facing as a nation, deal with the stock options issue. I don't think Congress should write the accounting rules, but I believe to recognize that stock options are an expense is relatively self-evident to those who have operated in business. They are used as a substitute for compensation. Compensation is an expense. That is why you see Chairman Greenspan and all of what I think is the critical weight of those who have observed on this issue speaking out that this is an issue that needs to be addressed. The Bermuda registry of companies, derivatives regulation are also issues.

Could I have 1 additional minute? Mr. SARBANES. I yield an additional minute.

The Presiding OFFICER. The Senator may continue.

Mr. CORZINE. We need to address these issues. There are missing gaps in other parts of our oversight of our securities market and our financial markets that need to be addressed.

Finally, I believe there is a gaping hole in our oversight of what our investors and employees and the public need to see addressed, and that is pension reform. I know working their way through Congress right now are a number of initiatives on it. Fewer than 50 percent of Americans have pensions. We need to move for more of this. We should put it together in a thoughtful way as Chairman SARBANES has led our Senate to this conclusion, led this debate to a positive conclusion. I hope we will address that in the future. So, of course, I express my great gratitude to all those involved. I particularly thank Chairman SARBANES for his strong leadership.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I thank the able Senator from New Jersey for his kind and gracious remarks about my efforts. I underscore the enormously valuable contribution that Senator CORZINE made to the development not only of this legislation but all of the work that has come before this committee. He has a unique perspective and perception here that were extremely important, enabling us to work through some difficult issues. I appreciate that.

I yield 7 minutes to the Senator from Vermont, chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Vermont is recognized.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I thank the chairman. The Senator from California wishes 1 minute. I yield 1 minute to her.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I came to the floor to give my deepest thanks to Senator SARBANES for leading us in just the way we needed to be led toward a tough, fair reform that would lead to confidence in our financial system. I also thank Senator ENZI for his work.

I was a stockbroker a few years ago, decades ago, and in those days the big accounting firms were known for their integrity, and CEOs were highly respected. That check and balance was lost along the way and it must be restored.

I believe this bill will do it and our people will, once again, have trust and confidence in our financial system. They will know when they read an annual report and it is signed off on by an accounting firm that it means what it says and says what it means. That will bring the stock market back into balance. It will not happen tomorrow. This isn't magic legislation. But over time confidence will be restored and our economy will be on solid footing once again. I thank my friends.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I thank Chairman SARBANES for his leadership on this impressive bill and on the conference agreement. The then-Congressman SARBANES was one of the first people I met when I came to Washington as an elected Member of this body. We have been friends from that time forward. I have been so pleased to work with him.

I am proud that the conference agreement includes and adopts the provisions of the Leahy-McCain amendment. which the Senate adopted by a 97-to-0 vote—again, with the strong help and support of the Senator from Maryland. These provisions are nearly identical to the Corporate and Criminal Fraud Accountability Act, which I introduced with Majority Leader Daschle and others in February. It was reported unanimously by the Senate Judiciary Committee in April.

The Presiding Officer helped get this through the Judiciary Committee. The Leahy-McCutcheon amendment provides new crimes with tough criminal penalties to restore accountability and transparency in our markets. It accomplishes this in three ways: No. 1. It punishes criminals who commit corporate fraud. No. 2. It preserves evidence that can prove corporate fraud.

As a former prosecutor, I know nothing focuses one’s attention on the question of morality like seeing steel bars closing on them for a number of years because of what they did. The conference report includes a tough new crime of securities fraud which will cover any scheme or artifice to defraud. We added the longer jail term of the other body.

There are three key provisions of the Senate-passed bill that were not in the recently passed House bill but are now in the conference agreement. I think they are truly essential parts of a comprehensive reform measure. First, we extend the statute of limitations in securities fraud cases. In many of the State pension fund cases, the current short statute has barred fraud victims from seeking recovery for Enron’s misdeeds in 1997 and 1998. For example, Washington State’s policemen, firefighters, and teachers were blocked from recovery of nearly $50 million in Enron investments by the short statute of limitations. That is why the last two SEC Chairmen, a Republican and the other a Democrat—endorsed a longer short statute of limitations to provide victims with a fair chance to recoup their losses.

Secondly, we include meaningful protections for corporate whistleblowers, as passed by the Senate. We learned from Sherron Watkins of Enron that these corporate insiders are the key witnesses that need to be encouraged to report fraud and help prove it in court. The Andersen case showed that corporate audit documents be preserved for 5 years with a 10 year maximum penalty for willful violations. Prosecutors cannot prove their cases without evidence. As the Andersen case showed, instead of just incorporating the loopholes from existing crimes and raising the penalties, we need tough new provisions that will make sure key documents do not get shredded in the first place.

It only takes a minute to warm up the shredder, but it can take years for prosecutors and victims to prove a case.

The conference report also maintains almost identical provisions to those authored by Senator Biden and approved unanimously by the Senate. These penalties for pension fraud, mail fraud, wire fraud, and a new crime for certifying false financial reports. As chairman of the Judiciary’s Subcommittee on Crime and Drugs, Senator Biden deserves praise for his leadership of these issues. It is time for action—decisive and comprehensive reforms that will restore confidence and accountability in our markets and market information. We have made a good start today toward restoring that confidence but more will be needed. In addition we will need swift and strong enforcement actions and good faith administrative actions by the SEC. I am confident but more will be needed. In addition we will need swift and strong enforcement actions and good faith administrative actions by the SEC.

Again, I thank the Senator from Maryland. Mr. SARBANES, Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Vermont. I underscore again how important his contributions were. The Senate Judiciary Committee reported out a bill without opposition in the committee. That is something which accompanied this legislation.

I yield 4 minutes to the Senator from South Dakota, and then it is my intention to go to the Senator from North Carolina.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, most of all I thank him for his extraordinary leadership on the development of this landmark legislation. I think it is fair to say this is the most critically important piece of investor protection legislation since the Securities Act of 1933 or the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

This comes on the heels of the disclosure of corporate corruption that has been endemic in recent months, where we have witnessed lost jobs, lost savings, long losses, and ultimately lost confidence worldwide in America’s capital markets.

There is an urgency that strong legislation be passed by this body and the Congress to restore confidence—restore both the perception and the reality of integrity in our capacity to do the part of so many. This comes on the heels of, frankly, much weaker legislation that had been passed previously in the House of Representatives, the other body.

By passing a strong Senate bill, we were able to go to conference. I am proud to have served on that conference committee and to craft legislation there that goes in the direction of the Senate rather than the direction of the other body and gives this Nation strong securities legislation. It provides a stiff penalty for corporate wrongdoing, creates a strong oversight board to ensure that corporate audits are done properly, and that the books, in fact, are not cooked. It imposes tough new corporate responsibility standards and implements control over stock analysts’ conflicts of interest, so they are not making a fortune while advising their clients on the part of so many.

It is time for action—decisive and comprehensive reforms that will restore confidence and accountability in our markets and market information. We have made a good start today toward restoring that confidence but more will be needed. In addition we will need swift and strong enforcement actions and good faith administrative actions by the SEC.

We cannot stop greed, but we can keep greed from succeeding.

We have seized this moment to make a good beginning to fashion protections for corporate fraud victims, preserve evidence of corporate crimes and hold corporate wrongdoers accountable. We have much to do to help repair the breaches of trust that have shattered confidence in our markets and market information. We have made a good start today toward restoring that confidence but more will be needed. In addition we will need swift and strong enforcement actions and good faith administrative actions by the SEC. We cannot stop greed, but we can keep greed from succeeding.

I am concluding but our work is just beginning.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Maryland.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, most of all I thank him for his extraordinary leadership on the development of this landmark legislation. I think it is fair to say this is the most critically important piece of investor protection legislation since the Securities Act of 1933 or the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

This goes a long way, I believe, to restoring the fairness and transparency so that people may make their investments—and investments may go up, and they may go down, but they can know when they make those investments, they are making those investments based on true and accurate analysis and not on bogus numbers that some might say the take has been willing to put forward as the truth when, in fact, they are not the truth.

Again, the whole Nation owes a great deal of gratitude to Chairman SARBANES and to the Senate, in this case, for what I am confident is going to be an overwhelming vote in favor of this legislation.

I yield the floor.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I yield 6 minutes to the Senator from North Carolina.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CORZINE). The Senator from North Carolina.

Mr. EDWARDS. Mr. President, I yield with all my colleagues, Senator SARBANES for the extraordinary work he has done on this bill. We are proud of him. America appreciates very much what he and others who have worked with him have done.

I also thank Senator ENZI, who is in the Chamber and Senator CONRAD, who is presiding, for the work they have done with me on what I think is an important part of this legislation which, in addition to corporate CEOs and accountants, is holding the lawyers and transactional lawyers accountable; that if they see something wrong occurring, they should do something about it—report it to their client, to the corporation, report it to the CEO, the chief legal officer and, if necessary, report it to the board.

In Congress, we are doing what needs to be done and stepping up to the plate with regard to corporate responsibility. That is in striking contrast to what is going on in my home State right now.

At a time when Americans are demanding more corporate responsibility, when Congress is stepping up and doing what needs to be done, the President has gone to North Carolina today to ask for less corporate responsibility, to make it easier on insurance companies and to make it harder on victims.

The President is in North Carolina today proposing some of the smallest limits on liability ever proposed for families who have suffered tragedies, serious problems, as a result of poor medical care at a time when medical malpractice insurance premiums constitute only 1 percent, substantially less than 1 percent, of medical care costs in this country.

The President is holding a roundtable, as I speak, on this subject. I would like to see how many victims of medical negligence, of medical malpractice, people who have been devastated and their families devastated, are participating in this roundtable. I know these people. For many years I have represented them. I have been in their homes. I have been in homes and spent time with families whose child will never walk, who have been blinded for life, who have been crippled for life, who have suffered injuries from which they will never recover.

These children— for life, crippled for life, severely injured for life—there is a description in the HHS report on which the President is relying which talks about when juries find they have been hurt and award money to them, they describe it as “winning the lottery.”

The parents of a child who has been blinded for life, the parents of a child who will never walk, rest assured they do not believe they have the winning lottery ticket.

My question is: How many of those people are the President talking to when he is in North Carolina today? The next time he comes back to North Carolina, we invite him to talk to some of those people because those are the ordinary Americans to whom he should be talking, the people who are going to be impacted. The children who have suffered serious injuries are the ones who are going to have the greatest impact and have their rights taken away by what the President is proposing.

Unfortunately, listening to ordinary people is not what this administration does. They have done it time and time again. It is stunning, but it is sad and consistent. When this administration has a choice between protecting the rights of big companies, big insurance companies versus the rights of ordinary people, they choose the big insurance company, the big companies every single time. They have been dragged kicking and screaming to do something about corporate responsibility, which we are doing in the Congress.

On the Patients’ Bill of Rights, on which Senator KENNEDY, Senator MCCAIN, and I have worked so hard, the President sided with the big HMOs, which is why we do not have a Patients’ Bill of Rights in this country.

On prescription drugs, when we tried to do something about the cost of prescription drugs on the floor of the Senate, this administration consistently sided with the big drug companies. When it comes to the environment, this administration has weakened clean air laws that protect the air for our children and consistently sided with the big energy companies that are polluting our air.

Today the President adds to that list, in going to the State of North Carolina, the big insurance companies. This President loves to talk about compassion. My question to him is: Where is his compassion for the victims?

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Mr. BAYH. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the accounting reform and corporate responsibility contained in this agreement. I do so, because I believe very strongly that it is in the best interests of America at this critical time in our history.

I believe it goes way beyond mere accounting issues. What we are agreeing to today deals with the financial security of millions of individual investors across this country, the security of their pensions, their 401(k) programs, and the other investments for the future of their children and their grandchildren.

What we are talking about today involves the very vitality of our economy, the amount of investment that will take place in our economy, the confidence that workers have that the jobs that will be created, and the vitality of farms. It involves the standing of America in the international economy, whether we will continue to be a safe haven for investments from those abroad, attracting the capital that helps us build a strong foundation for America’s economy.

More than anything else, this bill embodies the basic values upon which this has been built. It clearly answers the question: Will we continue to encourage those virtues characterized America and will our Nation continue to be the land of opportunity based upon hard work, honesty, and playing by the rules or, will we be perceived as the land of opportunity based upon deceit, I believe that the right answer, based upon traditional values and virtues, is embodied in the accounting reform and corporate responsibility bill.

I congratulate our colleagues, Senators SARBANES, SPECTER, CORZINE and ENZI. They demonstrated leadership and foresight in this issue.

Since the tragedies of 9/11, our country has been involved in twin struggles: One, the physical national security of this country; and, second, getting this economy moving again to ensure the economic security of Americans across this country. There are parallels between these two challenges. Both occurred as a result of unexpected tragedies. We have presented opportunities to make this an even better, stronger, more secure Nation. Both involve breaking the political gridlock and the bureaucratic inertia that all too often make progress in this Capitol difficult. And both involve striking the right balance between individual freedom and liberty on the one hand, that we cherish, and collective security, which makes individual liberty meaningful, on the other.

I conclude where I began. This issue goes a long way beyond mere accounting issues. It goes a long way beyond economic policy. It goes to the very heart of who we are, what we stand for as a people, and the kind of values we cherish in the United States of America. This will protect individual investors. It will help to ensure the integrity of our economy. But more than anything else, it will ensure that those Americans who have embraced our tradition with virtues, who have played by the rules, who have played by the rules, and are honest are able to get ahead in this society.
It will send a loud and clear signal to those who practice corporate fraud that they do not have an avenue to success in this country. That does not embody the best values of America. I strongly support the accounting reform and corporate responsibility conference agreements that my colleagues and I have put together in the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, has made to develop and enact this important legislation. As a former member of the Banking Committee, I know how difficult it is to respond quickly to recent events that affected our economy. However, Senator SARBANES has put together a coalition which led to a unanimous vote in support of his bill in the Senate, and the provisions of which is the base text for this conference report.

The United States must stand for the fairest, most transparent and efficient financial markets in the world. However, the trust and confidence of the American people in their financial markets have been dangerously eroded by the emergence of serious accounting irregularities by some companies and possible fraudulent actions by companies like WorldCom, Inc., Enron, Arthur Andersen and others. Some investment banks have been charged with publicly recommending stocks for public purchase that their own analysts regarded as junk.

The shocking malfeasance by these businesses and accounting firms has put a strain on the growth of our economy. The misadventure by a few top executives has cost the jobs of hard-working Americans, including 17,000 at WorldCom and thousands more at companies accused of similar wrongdoing. The lack of faith in our financial markets contributed to an overall decline in stock values and has caused grave losses to individual investors and pension funds. For example, the losses to the California Public Employees Retirement System from the recent WorldCom disclosures total more than $580 million.

The conference report creates a new Public Company Accounting Oversight Board to oversee the auditing of companies that are subject to the federal securities laws. The Board will establish auditing, quality control, and ethical standards for accounting firms. The conference report restricts accounting firms from providing a number of non-audit services to its audit clients to preserve the firm's independence. It requires accounting firms to change the lead or coordinating partners for a company every five years.

The conference report requires CEOs to certify their financial statements or face up to 20 years in prison for falsifying information on reports. It keeps executives from obtaining corporate loans that are not available to outsiders. It requires public companies to provide periodic updates to the SEC on off-balance transactions, arrangements, obligations and other relationships that may have a material current or future effect on the company's financial condition. It requires directors, executive officers, and security holders to report their purchases and sales of company securities within two days of the transaction.

I am pleased that the conference report includes the Corporate Fraud and Criminal Fraud Accountability Act which will provide for criminal prosecution and enhanced penalties of persons who defraud investors in publicly traded securities or alter or destroy evidence in Federal investigations. It will also prohibit debts incurred in violation of securities fraud laws from being discharged in bankruptcy and protect whistle blowers who report fraud against retaliation by their employers.

The conference report requires the SEC to adopt rules to foster greater public confidence in securities research including: protecting the objectivity and independence of stock analysts who publish research intended for the public, prohibiting publication clearance of such research or recommendations by investment banking or other staff not directly responsible for investment research; disclosing whether the public company being analyzed has been a client of the analyst's firm and what services the firm provided; limiting the supervision of research analysts to officials not engaged in investment banking activities; protecting securities analysts from retaliation by investment banking staff. The provisions in this legislation will help restore confidence in our capital markets and in turn will help provide for future economic growth. It is an important first step, not a last. Mr. President, I am pleased to support the Conference Report and will continue to look for ways to improve investor confidence in our financial markets.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, everyone in New York City is the financial capital of the world. Yet as we continue to rebuild our city in light of the tragic events of September 11, we are now faced with the devastating effects of depressed markets and uninsured investors, who are once again victims. With more than half of American households investing in the markets, we’re all affected by a crisis in investor confidence.

I can’t think of a more appropriate time than the present for the Senate to pass a comprehensive, accountable investor confidence and bring sound footing back to our financial markets. Isn’t it ironic? Just a few weeks ago, the headlines read “Sarbanes bill dead” or “Accounting Reform Fading.” In the wake of recent revelations about WorldCom and just 2 days ago Merck, corporate corruption has reached an all-time high; we are now at the new level of corporate corruption. We've reached a new low; every member of the Senate must be asking is: “Where does it end?” Buzzwords like “accounting fraud,” “corporate corruption,” “Restatement,” “Cooking the books” are being bandied about in the press, in the coffee shops, at the dinner tables across America. Just this weekend at the Taste of Buffalo, people came up to me and said “Throw ‘em in jail, Chuck!” They were talking about the Ken Lay’s, Bernard Ebers, the Andrew Fasdow’s of the corporate world. White collar criminals who ran giant corporations and used tricky gimmicks to rob investors of not only their hard money but also their confidence in the strongest, fairest, most transparent and efficient markets in the world.

 * * * They are the investment giants: Enron, Arthur Andersen, Adelphia, CMS Energy, Reliant Resources, Dynegy, Tyco International, and now Xerox and WorldCom. A mere handful of the giant corporations to have gone under as a result of misrepresented earnings and poor management. In less than a year, these so-called investment giants through the great gift of deceit and tricky accounting practices have reduced themselves to mere shells of their former existence.

As a result, their use of tricky gimmicks to hide the real picture and literally milk the system dry have caused investors around the globe to question integrity of our nations markets, which are supposed to be the strongest and most resilient because they are perceived as the most open, most transparent markets in the world. Up until now, the United States has been the magnet for foreign investment. Yet, the selfish, greedy actions of a small few have led to a steady and precipitous drop in foreign investment in our financial markets.

It is no secret that greed played a major role in our markets rapid decline and slow demise. The hands of these entities stole millions, some billions of dollars from investors, and it is now time that we make them pay for their actions.

I commend the NASDAQ and the New York Stock Exchange for their announcements of new, tough corporate governance standards. The New York markets have taken the first steps to correct corporate corruption, and now it is our turn to find the right balance in light of these unsteady markets and times.

So what is the right balance? The right balance is one that will not only offer strict corporate governance laws, but also protect the average investor from being swindled out of his or her hard earned savings by a fast-talking, wheeling and dealing broker, but will... also severely punish those individuals who intentionally mislead investors with faulty practices. That is why I am introducing the following amendments to the Public Company Accounting Reform and Investor Protection Act of 2002 to further limit the ability of companies to manipulate accounting rules and the system for their personal benefit and interest.

The first amendment prohibits companies from issuing personal loans to company executives as seen with Worldcom, whose CEO received more than $300,000 in loans from the technology giant. Instead, CEOs will have to go to the bank, just like everyone else, to acquire a loan; which, will reduce the risk of CEOs ability to use company funds for personal purposes.

The second amendment requires company executives to forfeit any and all bonuses and additional compensation if their restatements occur along with criminal liability.

It is my hope that by revealing the few bad apples at the bottom of the barrel, and punishing these individuals for their immoral behavior, we can save the rest of the industry and re-store confidence in our markets.

The legislation pending before us will make it harder for companies to lie about their assets. Thats the least we can do re-establishing public confidence in corporate America. Our common purpose today is to ensure that the Enron’s, the Tyco’s and the WorldCom’s never happen again.

Now is the time for us to act. It is the least we can do to shore up the investing public’s confidence in our markets.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, 2 years ago it was pretty lonely being in favor of the auditor independence reforms that then-SEC Chairman Arthur Levitt said were necessary to guard against unprecedented accounting scandals. I am proud that I was one of the few who thought Chairman Levitt was going in the right direction. Unfortunately the implosion of several multi-billion dollar firms, and a loss of tens of thousands of jobs and hundreds of billions of dollars in investor equity, to prove that he was right.

Now Americas capital markets have been shaken by a dramatic loss in investor confidence, threatening the economic recovery.

But today, Congress has acted. I rise today in strong support of the Public Company Accounting Reform and Investor Protection Act conference report. I commend the Senator from Maryland, the Chairman of the Banking Committee for putting together significant, structural reform of corporate governance and auditor independence and for defending it in conference.

And I am heartened that the President and the House leadership have finally agreed to comprehensive reform instead of the half-measures and tough rhetoric.

This bill holds the bad actors accountable for their fraud and deception. But the legislation goes much further, as it should, because the problem goes much deeper. We are faced with more than the wrong doing of individual executives, we are faced with a crisis in confidence in American capital markets and American business.

The bill reinstitutes the strong Senate reforms virtually intact. It bars an auditor from offering audit services and other consulting services to the same client. It says publically traded companies must change the relationship of their chief accountant at least every five years. It strengthens oversight of accountants, by establishing an independent board to set and enforce standards. And it enhances disclosure. This alone is real reform. But the bill does more. It makes corporate executives more accountable to their shareholders. It makes investment analysts more accountable to the public. And its bill contains strong penalties for corporate wrong doers.

Now I call on the President to make enactment and enforcement of this new law a priority.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, last night, the conference committee released its final report on comprehensive accounting reform and corporate governance legislation. The reaction of our financial markets confirms that this legislation is absolutely necessary to help re-store integrity and confidence to our capital market system and our investment community.

However, in our rush to enact broad reforms, we may be damaging the economic framework for small companies to reach our capital markets. In the long term, the reforms will make our economy stronger. In the short term, we will be creating complete chaos for small publicly traded companies and companies trying to gain the capital for growth through stock offerings.

I am especially concerned with the lack of recognition in the conference’s decision not to recognize this fact and provide the Securities and Exchange Commission and the proposed Public Company Accounting Oversight Board with greater flexibility in dealing with small firms. Small businesses have been the driving force of our economy for well over a decade. The high hurdles in the legislation are necessary for large, conglomerate companies but they may be a trip wire for our small business entrepreneurial community.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I note that the Congress, in the Enhanced Review of Periodic Disclosures section in the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, provides for regular and systematic reviews by the Securities and Exchange Commission of the periodic reports filed by public companies that are listed on a national securities exchange or on Nasdaq. The section requires that the SEC review, and publish for public comment, financial disclosures at least once every three years.

The bill identifies factors which the Commission should consider in scheduling reviews, including the issuers capitalization, stock price volatility and economic recovery. As we all know, the SEC has a long history of focusing on market participants, thereby causing greater, and more frequent, disclosures. As a result, the SEC has created a product that is a necessity for the market participants. However, this bill requires that the SEC review financial disclosures every three years. It does so by providing, for the first time, a systematic, and systematic, review of periodic reports filed by public companies.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, may I ask what the time situation is?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maryland has 2 minutes 10 seconds. The Senator from Wyoming has 21 minutes 30 seconds.

Mr. SARBANES. I yield 3 minutes to the Senator from New York.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New York.

Mr. SCHUMER. I thank the Chair.

Mr. President, this is an extremely important day for our capital markets, for our country, and for the future of our economy. As we all know, capitalism has its ups and downs and works in ups and downs, and there have been periods throughout our history—I can think of the S&L crisis a decade ago—where things get off track, out of control. It is our job as Government not to interfere with entrepreneurial vigor, not to create such regulation that they become a straitjacketed company, but at the time when the markets show that things have gotten off track, it is our job to help put them back on track.

There is a bottom line principle here: If investors, whether throughout the United States or the rest of the world, do not believe companies are on the level, they will not invest. Unfortunately, the revelations of the last year have given people the view that they are not on the level. That it is not the same for them in terms of even information as it is for somebody at the top, that the information they may get may be distorted or misconstrued. We must not be the enemy of the good. It is a good bill, a fine bill. In fact, when the agreement was reached, the Dow Jones went up 400 points. I do not think it was coincidental. Whether it be CEOs of large companies or individual investors, they all know, trying to protect themselves, make it right. Look at the abuses that occurred in the past and make sure they cannot occur again, and do it... in a careful way that keeps our markets fluid, liquid, deep, and important. I think this bill does it.

I want to pay a great deal of tribute to our chairman, Senator SARBANES, and to so many others who made this bill reality. With the passage of this bill, we are well investors, while we have not cleared up every problem, and perhaps we will come back and address this later—I think we will have to in a couple areas—we have certainly made things better.

A few weeks ago, Washington looked as if it was dithering in the face of crisis, but today we proudly act in a bipartisan way to restore faith in our markets, the deepest, strongest, and best markets in the world.

I dare say, I know there are some who are against any change or any regulation, but our markets will be stronger tomorrow than they were this morning when this bill passes the House, the Senate, and is signed by the President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, we are down quite far in our time. Senator DODD, who wishes to speak, is at a memory of one of the other side could use some of its time, it would be helpful in balancing this out. I ask unanimous consent that while we are trying to work this out the time not be charged to either party, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. ENZI. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I yield 8 minutes to the distinguished Senator from Connecticut.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, when we opened the conference on this legislation a week or so ago, I said my hope was the passage of this bill would be quick, decisive, and unanimous. Two out of three is not bad. We got quick and decisive and almost unanimous. Our colleague from Texas, and our friend, was unable to support the final product for reasons he has already explained.

I thought we did an excellent job in moving as quickly as we did. I believe passage of the legislation and the quick and decisive manner and nearly unanimous way we achieved the result and overwhelming support of the Senate and the House fulfill a responsibility of Congress to protect investors. There is more work to be done, but we have begun a significant part of the journey.

In fact, we have started down the road in fulfilling a congressional responsibility in responding to the events that began to unfold, at least to the public’s awareness, last October. And the story is not yet complete. We do not know the final results.

I have a few minutes in which to share some thoughts. I am going to move quickly to share comments. I begin by commending my colleague from Maryland, the chairman of the Banking Committee, for the tremendous job he has done. I said yesterday, any students of the Congress of the United States who want to seek out good examples of how a legislative product can be developed, nurtured, analyzed, discussed, debated, and finally passed, this is about as good an example as I have seen in recent years of how one ought to proceed. Certainly the hearings we held in the Banking Committee I don’t recall attracting much attention. I don’t recall a single one of the hearings we held appearing on the nightly news or being lead stories on some of the 24-hour news stations.

I recall a great many hearings where people sat there raising their right hand, and that the fifth amendment. That got a lot of attention. The 12 hearings held in the Banking Committee of the Senate, where we went through the deliberative, slow, ponderous process of actually listening to people who had something to say about what ought to be done to clean up this mess, never made it on the nightly news that I am aware of.

I commend again my friend and colleague with whom I have enjoyed my service on the Congress of the United States for more than a quarter of a century. We have sat next to each other for a good part of that time in both the House and in this Chamber. I sit next to him on the Foreign Affairs Committee and on the Banking Committee. If I could make the choice and it would not be determined by seniority, I would make him my choice for Chair of this Committee.

I also point out the President of the Senate, one of the most junior Members of this Chamber, who provided an incredible, invaluable support and source of ideas, guidance. Rarely does a new Member play such an important role on such an important piece of legislation. Of any Member who was involved in this process, Mike Enzi of Wyoming and others all would agree, in any history written of the development of the bill, the role of a freshman Senator from the State of New York named Jon Corzine.

I want to pay a great deal of credit for their contribution to this process. The leadership, Senator Daschle, certainly for insisting we move as rapidly as we did to get the product done in committee and get it on the floor of the Senate, understanding how important this issue would be to the shareholder interests and the policy interests of others. We depend upon a solid, strong economy for their well-being—certainly their contribution is extremely important as well.

We have seen the economy begin to do a bit better. I don’t think our work is done, despite the accomplishments in this legislation. My hope would be that before this Senate adjourns in a week and a half from now, we might deal with the pension issue. I don’t know if that will be possible. I know there are a lot of other issues that need to be considered. My hope is if we are not able to do that in the next week and a half, we will come back soon after we reconvene in September.

I sit on the Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee with the presiding officer who is interested in that committee. My hope is that we can deal with the pension reform matters that are necessary, as well, for adoption by this Congress before the 107th Congress adjourns.

Again, I commend all those involved. I thank Alex Sternhill of my office, Steve Harris, Marty Gruenberg, all the Members who worked with the chairman’s committee and the full committee of the Senate Banking Committee, and those on the minority side, as well, who played an extremely important role.

While he disagreed with the final outcome of the bill, the Senator from Texas and I have had a great relationship over these many years we have served together. I have always enjoyed being on his side. He is a tough opponent. We have worked together, he has done some pretty good work around here and passed some pretty good bills.

He is leaving and I believe the Senate will less without an institution because of his absence. It is important that this place be a place of ideas for debate to occur, and the Senator from Texas has always made that kind of contribution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

Mr. DODD. Hang on. I am commending him. He is going to give me more time.

Mr. GRAMM. The Senator can have all the time he wants.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I have learned after more than 20 years that if you want the minority to give you a little more time, start complementing them. I think there are a lot of Egos are alive and well in the Senate.

I am going to miss him. He is not done. We have more work, obviously, in the remaining weeks, but this may be one of the last major bills the Banking Committee considers. I don’t know what life holds for him down the road, but the good Lord is not done with him yet.

I look forward to your vibrancy, your ideas, and your passion in whatever role you decide to assume in the next part of your life, and thank you for the tremendous work you have given to the committee and this body through your service.

I thank again the chairman and other members of the committee for contributing to what may be one of the most important pieces of legislation this body will consider in the 107th Congress and one of the most important in the history of financial services in many, many decades.

I yield the floor. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, how much time do we have?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas has 14 minutes.

Mr. GRAMM. We were going to shoot for about 4:30 so I may yield some of it back, depending on who comes over.

Let me say, my dear colleague, Senator Dodd, for his kind comments. I have enjoyed working with him over the years. I very much appreciate the comments he made.

I want to say something about my staff. A few times once said: In no way can you get a keener insight into the true nature of a leader than by looking at the people by whom he surrounds himself.

I would always be happy to have anybody judge me by Linda Lord and by Wayne Abernathy. It is amazing how much impact staffers have on the Senate. I am blessed in this area to have two of the best staff people who have ever served any Senator in the history of this country. On most issues on which I worked with Linda Lord, she knows more about this subject than anybody, and generally more than everybody else combined. In working with her, I see that the Lord was a great disseminator; he gave some people incredible ability and most of us he gave relatively few, in the way of talents. I thank her for the great job she has done.

I thank Wayne Abernathy. In the years I was chairman of the Banking Committee, Wayne Abernathy was chairman of the Banking Committee. In the day-to-day work, he has made an incredible contribution. If there is an unfairness to it, it is that I have gotten a lot more credit for all the good work that they have done and I am grateful for that.

I reserve the remainder of my time. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. SARBANES. How much time do I have remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 3 minutes remaining.

Mr. SARBANES. I yield 1 minute to the Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELLSTONE. I thank the Senator from Maryland. I thank him for his great contribution and the other Senators working on this. I can only say this in 1 minute: I remember when Arthur Levitt came by several years ago to talk with me about the need for audit independence. Senator SARBANES and others have made that possible. Many people took their savings, converted it to stock, and thought it would be there for their children or grandchildren. Many people had ‘401(k)’s that has this has eroded in value. Investors do not have the confidence in the economy. I think the key is to make the structural change and make sure people can count on the independent audits, that no one is cooking their books. This is in the best interest of government oversight. I am very proud to support this legislation.

Once again, I thank the chair of the Banking Committee for exceptional leadership.

I yield the floor. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maryland.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, as Senator Gramm was speaking earlier I was thinking to myself that he really was exemplifying on the floor of the Senate the sort of dialog we went through in the committee. As he was making an argument about auditor independence, I was thinking that it is really a very reasonable argument and one which we really paid attention. I want to give the counterargument, and then make a concluding comment about the terrific work of the staff on this bill.

Senator Gramm has suggested that the conference report should be changed to give the SEC or the Oversight Board authority to grant broad categorical exemptions from the list of non-audit services that Section 201 of the bill prohibits registered public accounting firms to provide to public company audit clients.

Such a change, in my view, would weaken one of the fundamental objectives of the conference report: to draw a bright line around a limited list of non-audit services that accounting firms may not provide to public company audit clients because their doing so creates a fundamental conflict of interest for the accounting firms.

This limited list is based on a set of simple principles: A public company auditor, in order to be independent, should not audit its own work (as it would if it provided internal audit outsourcing services, financial information systems design, appraisal or valuation services, actuarial services, or bookkeeping services to an audit client).

A public company auditor should not function as part of management or as an employee of the audit client (as it would if it provided human resources services such as recruiting, hiring, and designing compensation packages for the officers, directors, and managers of an audit client).

A public company auditor, to be independent, should not act as an advocate of its audit client (as it would if it provided legal and expert services to an audit client in judicial or regulatory proceedings.)
A public company auditor should not be a promoter of the company's stock or other financial interests (as it would be if it served as a broker-dealer, investment adviser, or investment bank-er for the company).

I would emphasize that Section 201 does not bar accounting firms from offer-ting consulting services. It simply re-quires that they not offer certain con-sulting services to public companies for which they wish to serve as “inde-pendent auditor.” An accounting firm is free to offer services it wants to any public companies it does not audit (or to any private companies). It also may engage in any non-audit service, including tax services, that is not on the list for an audit client if the activ-ity is approved in advance by the audit committee of the public company.

The conference report does authorize the new Oversight Board, on a case-by-case basis, to exempt any person, issuer, public accounting firm, or transac-tion. The prohibition on the provision of non-audit services to the extent that such exemption is neces-sary or appropriate in the public in-terest and is consistent with the pro-tection of investors.

The exemption authority provided the Board is intentionally narrow to apply to individual cases where the ap-plication of the statutory requirement would impose some extraordinary hard-ship or circumstance that would merit an exemption consistent with the pro-tection of the public interest and the protection of investors.

But the fundamental presumption of the provision is that these non-audit services, by their very nature, present a conflict of interest for an accounting firm if provided to a public company audit client.

Arthur Andersen was conflicted be-cause it served Enron as both an audi-tor and a consultant, and for two years it allowed Enron’s independent aud-i-tor, essentially auditing its own work. Enron was Andersen’s largest client, and in 2000 Andersen earned $27 million in consulting fees from the company ($25 million in audit fees).

In its oversight hearing earlier this year on the failure of Superior Bank in Hinsdale, Illinois, the Senate Banking Committee learned first-hand the risks associated with allowing accounting firms to audit their own work. In that case, the audit firm audited and certified a valuation of risky residual assets calculated according to a meth-odology it had provided as a consult-ant. The valuation was excessive and led to the failure of the institution.

The SEC’s recent actions against one of the large public accounting firms (KPMG) in an enforcement case illus-trates the danger of allowing an ac-counting firm to serve as a broker deal-er, investment advisor, or investment bank-er for a public company audit cli-ent. In that case, KPMG’s audit of the accounting firm set up an affiliate and the affiliate provided “turn around” services to the issuer, including functioning as the president of the company. There would have been no need for an SEC action if the non-audit serv-ice were simply prohibited.

The inherent conflict created by these consulting services has been ex-acerbated by the rapid growth in the last 15 years. According to the SEC, 55 percent of the average revenue of the big five accounting firms came from accounting and auditing services in 1998. Twenty-two percent of the aver-age revenue was for management consulting services. By 1999, those figures had fallen to 31 percent for ac-counting and auditing services, and risen to 50 percent for management consulting services. Recent data re-ported to the SEC showed on average public accounting firms’ non-audit fees comprised 73 percent of their total fees, or $2.69 in non-audit fees for every $1.00 in audit fees.

A number of the most knowledgeable and thoughtful witnesses who testified before the Senate Banking Committee in the hearings held in preparation for this legislation argued that the growth in the non-audit consulting business done by the large accounting firms for their audit clients compromised the independence of the audits that a complete prohibition on the provision of consulting services by accounting firms to their public audit clients is re-quired. Perhaps the strongest advo-cates of this position are the man-agers of large pension funds who are entrusted with people’s retirement sav-ings.

For example, the California Public Employees’ Retirement System (CalPERS), manages pension and health benefits for more than 1.3 mil-lion members and has aggregate hold-ings totaling almost $150 billion. Ac-cording to CalPERS CEO, James E. Burton:

the inherent conflicts created when an ex-ternal auditor is simultaneously receiving fees from a company for non-audit work can-not be remedied by anything less than a bright-line ban. Any financial relationship should be an auditor or a consultant, but not both to the same client.

John Biggs is CEO of Teachers Insur-ance and Annuity Association College Retirement Equities Fund (TIAA-CREF), the largest private pension sys-tem in the world, which manages ap-proximately $275 billion in pension as-ses for over 2 million participants in the education and research commu-nity. Mr. Biggs was also a member of the last Public Oversight Board. He told the Committee that:

TIAA-CREF does not allow our public audit firm to provide any consulting services to us, and our policy even bars our auditor from providing tax services.

The conference report chose not to follow the approach of imposing a com-plete prohibition on the provision of non-audit services to audit clients. In-stead it chose the approach of identify-ing certain consulting services which by their very nature pose a conflict of in-terest and should be prohibited. Among those supporting this approach are former Comptroller General Charles Bowsher, former SEC Chairman Arthur Levitt, and former Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker.

The argument is made that small companies, in particular, may be bur-dened by this new requirement and that the SEC should have broad authority to grant categorical exemptions. It is even argued that so many companies would seek case-by-case exemptions that the SEC would become over-whelmed and would be unable to proc-ess the exemptions in a timely manner.

The point is that if the provision of a non-audit service to a public company audit client creates a conflict of inter-est for the accounting firm that non-audit service should be prohibited, whether the public company is large or small. Investors rely on the audit in making their investment decisions, and the independence of the audit should not be compromised by the provision of the non-audit service. If substantive exceptional hardship is imposed, then the Oversight Board would have the au-thority to grant case-by-case exemp-tions.

The present Comptroller General, David Walker, issued a particularly strong statement in support of the ap-proach to auditor independence taken in the bill conference report I would like to quote:

I believe that legislation that will provide a framework and guidance for the SEC to use in setting independence standards for public company audits is needed. History has shown that the AICPA [American Institute of Cer-tified Public Accountants] and the SEC have failed to update their independence stand-ards in a timely fashion and that past up-dates have not adequately protected the public’s interests. In addition, the account-ing profession has placed too much emphasis on growing non-audit fees and not enough emphasis on modernizing the auditing pro-fession for the 21st century environment.

Congress is the proper body to promulgate a framework for the SEC to use in connection with independence regula-tion and enforcement actions in order to help ensure confidence in financial reporting and safe-guard investors and the public’s interests. True independence cannot be achieved by a framework that striking a reasoned and reasonable balance that will enable auditors to perform a range of non-audit services for their audit clients and an unlimited range of non-audit services for their non-audit clients. . . . In my opinion, the time to act on independence legis-la-tion is now.

This auditor independence provision is a very central piece. It goes to the very center of the action. It grants a franchise to the nation’s public accoun-tants—their services, and only their services—must be secured before an issuer of securities can go to market, have the securities listed on the nation’s stock exchanges, or comply with the reporting requirements of the securities laws. This is a source of significant private benefit.

But the franchise is conditional. It comes in return for the CPA’s assumption of a public duty and obligation. As a unanimous Supreme Court noted nearly 20 years ago:

In certifying the public reports that collectively depict a corporation’s financial status, the independent auditor assumes a public responsibility. That auditor owes the ultimate allegiance to the corporation’s credit-tors and stockholders, as well as to the in-esting public. This “public watchdog” function dictates that the accountant maintain total independence from the client at all times and requires complete fidelity to the public trust.

We must cut the chord between the audit and the consulting services which by their very nature undermine the independence of the audit. We must break this culture that exists, and to do that we need a bright line. In my view granting broad exemption authority to the SEC is required to permit these non-audit services would undermine the separation the conference report is intended to establish.

I wanted to underscore the fact that there was a very reasoned, intense discussion of these issues. There is reason on both sides. I thought the Senator made a very strong statement. I wanted to give the counterstatement here.

I share Senator Dodd’s view about this exchange of ideas and its importance to the functioning of this institution. The Senator from Texas has cersible to work through this conference on the House side, who made it possible for us to work together this conference and with whom we have worked so cooperatively on so many issues that have come before our committee. Chairman for us to work through this conference

Mr. SARBANES. How much time is remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maryland is without time.
There are 12 minutes for the Senator from Texas.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, we have reached the hour that we set for a vote.
I am ready to yield back the 12 minutes and have the vote proceed.

I reiterate that this is a bill that was fraught with danger in the environment that we were in. Literally anything could have happened. I think, by a combination of good work and some luck, that has not been the case.
We have a vehicle before us that I think will be complicated. It will be difficult to implement.

I think we will probably change it in the future. But I think in terms of our ability to prosper under the bill, and I yield the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the con-sference report.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from North Carolina (Mr. HELMS) is necessarily absent.

I further announce that if present and voting the Senator from North Carolina (Mr. HELMS) would vote
"yea."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 99,

Friday’s session, there be up to 3 hours for debate with respect to the amendment, with the time equally divided

UNANIMOUS CONSENT AGREEMENT— EXECUTIVE CALENDAR

Mr. REID. Madam President, we have spent considerable time this evening in a quorum call, but in spite of that, we have had a very productive legislative day. We have passed the conference report on corporate governance; the Appropriations Committee this afternoon reported the final four bills out of the Appropriations Committee; and we are finished with those and will bring them to the floor. We have gotten permission to go to the conference committee on terrorism, which we have been trying to do for weeks. There was significant progress made today with passage of the bankruptcy conference report, and there were other things.

But finally, what I want to say, we will shortly approve in a matter of a few minutes, four members to the Securities and Exchange Commission. That went hand in glove with the work we have done on corporate governance. We are going to approve Cynthia Glassman to be a member, Harvey Jerome Goldschmid to be a member, Roel C. Campos to be a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission, and Paul S. Atkins will also be approved. We have had a very successful day.

For those watching, whether it is staff or people around the country, sometimes during the downtimes a lot of progress is made. Even as we speak, there is work being done to see if we can come up with a bipartisan amendment to handle the prescription drug problems that senior citizens have in America today. All in all, it was a good day for the country.

I ask unanimous consent that immediately following the cloture vote tomorrow, Friday, the Senate proceed to executive session to consider Executive Calendar No. 29, Christopher C. Connor to be United States district judge; that the Senate vote immediately on confirmation of the nomination, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and any statements be printed at the appropriate place; that the President be notified of the Senate's action, the Senate return to legislative session, and that the proceeding all occur without any intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. REED. I ask unanimous consent that we now proceed to a period of morning business with Senators allowed to speak for not to exceed 5 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MEDICARE PRESCRIPTION DRUG COVERAGE

Mr. SARBAVES. Madam President, I rise to express my disappointment about the Senate's recent vote on Medicare prescription drug coverage. The Senate missed an opportunity to provide one of the most important expansions of Medicare benefits since the system was created in 1965. Senator Grahams' proposal, of which I was proud to be an original co-sponsor with a number of my Democratic colleagues, would have provided comprehensive, voluntary, and affordable prescription drug coverage for all Medicare beneficiaries. Though the majority of the Senate supported this proposal, it lacked the votes necessary to proceed.

We know that more than 1 in 3 Medicare beneficiaries lack prescription drug coverage. We know, too, many seniors struggle to pay for the medicines they need to keep them healthy and treat their diseases and illnesses. We know that doctors are now put in the unenviable position of considering that a patient's future is on the line when developing a course of treatment. Doctors are conflicted by this, but know that it does not benefit the patient to prescribe a drug, even though it may be the best method of treating or curing an illness, if the patient cannot afford the medicine.

More importantly, I, like most of my colleagues, continually hear from constituents who face this dilemma directly. They are ill, they are frustrated about the costs they are real, they are embarrassed to have made it this far in life and have to ask for help after years of independence. I have heard from those who may not have a direct need, but who are desperately seeking assistance for a loved one who needs help. They are frustrated to learn that there is nowhere for them to turn because Medicare provides nothing for outpatient drugs, yet they have too much income or too many assets to qualify for state assistance.

The Graham proposal would provide drug coverage for all Medicare beneficiaries for a $25 monthly premium, no deductible, a $10 copayment for generic drugs, and a $40 copayment for preferred brand name drugs. In addition, Medicare beneficiaries would have all of their prescription costs covered after they spend $4,000 in out-of-pocket costs. Assistance would begin with the very first prescription, and there would be no caps or limits on the coverage provided. Under Senator Graham's proposal, low-income seniors would not be required to pay premiums or copayments for their coverage.

Regrettably, some of my colleagues did not support the Graham amendment. They voted instead for an alternative that required seniors to pay a $250 deductible, while only covering 50 percent of their prescription costs up to $3450. After a Medicare beneficiary's costs exceed $3700, the government would only pay 90 percent of drug costs. Under this proposal, those who are the sickest, with the highest drug costs, would be forced to pay more when they require assistance the most.

Many of those who opposed the Graham proposal complained about the cost of this proposal. I find it perplexing that we can find money for other things, but not for the mothers, fathers, grandparents and other Americans who need our help in their older years. Opponents of the Graham bill found money to fund a large tax cut costing $1.35 trillion last year a tax cut that primarily benefits the very wealthiest Americans. Many of my fears about the decision to pass such a large and unreasonable tax cut have been realized raids on Social Security, Medicare, return to budget deficits, instability in the financial markets. It has forced us unnecessarily to limit resources for those things that should be national priorities. I remain astonished that some believe tax cuts should be a priority over comprehensive prescription drug coverage. I only hope that we can find a way to enact a meaningful Medicare prescription drug benefit this year. Our older Americans deserve no less.

IMMUNOSUPPRESSIVE DRUG COVERAGE AMENDMENT

Mr. DeWINE. Madam President, I wish to speak to an amendment of my friend and colleague, Senator DURBIN, to help organ transplant patients maintain access to the lifesaving drugs necessary to prevent their immune systems from rejecting their new organs.

Every year, nearly 6,000 people die waiting for an organ transplant. Currently, over 67,000 Americans are waiting for a donor organ. Those individuals who are blessed to receive an organ transplant must take immunosuppressive drugs on a lifelong basis to prevent rejection. Failure to take these drugs significantly increases the risk of the transplanted organ being rejected.

We need this amendment, because Federal law is compromising the success of organ transplants. Let me explain. Right now, current Medicare policy denies certain transplant patients coverage for the drugs needed to prevent rejection.

Medicare does not pay for anti-rejection drugs for Medicare beneficiaries, who received their transplants prior to becoming a Medicare beneficiary. So, for instance, if a person received a transplant at age 64 through his or her health insurance plan, when that person retired and became a Medicare beneficiary for health care coverage, he or she would no longer have immunosuppressive drug coverage.

Medicare only pays for anti-rejection drugs for transplants performed in a Medicare-approved transplant facility. However, many beneficiaries are completely unaware of this fact and how it can jeopardize their future coverage of organ transplants.
immunosuppressive drugs. To receive an organ transplant, a person must be very ill and many are far too ill at the time of transplantation to be researching the complexities of Medicare coverage policy.

End Stage Renal Disease, ESRD, patients qualify for Medicare on the basis of needing dialysis. If End Stage Renal Disease patients receive a kidney transplant, they qualify for Medicare coverage for three years after the transplant. After the three years are up, they lose not only their general Medicare coverage, but also their coverage for immunosuppressive drugs.

The amendment that Senator Durbin and I are introducing today would remove the Medicare limitations and make clear that all Medicare beneficiaries including End Stage Renal Disease patients who have had a transplant and need immunosuppressive drugs to prevent rejection of their transplant, will be covered as long as such drugs are medically necessary.

In the Medicare, Medicaid, and SCHIP Benefits Improvement and Protection Act, Congress eliminated the 36-month time limitation for transplant recipients who: 1. received a Medicare transplant and 2. who are eligible for Medicare based on age or disability. Our amendment would provide the same indefinite coverage to kidney transplant recipients who are not Medicare aged or Medicare disabled.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment and help those who receive Medicare-eligible transplants gain access to the immunosuppressive drugs they need to live healthy productive lives.

U.S. POLICY ON IRAQ

Mr. FEINGOLD. Madam President, I am pleased to cosponsor S.J. Res 41. As a result, I am pleased that S.J. Resolution 41 is neutral on the need for a military response, while recognizing the intrinsic value of open and honest debate. Following a vigorous debate, if we decide that America's interests require a direct military response to confront Iraqi aggression, such a response would be taken from a constitutionally unified, and inherently stronger, political position. We must also remember that constitutional unity on this question presents a stronger international image of the United States to our friends and foes, and, at the same time, a more comforting image of U.S. power to many of our close allies in the campaign against terrorism.

I am pleased to cosponsor S.J. Res. 41, and I look forward to a vigorous debate on this issue.

PATIENT SAFETY AND QUALITY IMPROVEMENT ACT

Mr. FRIST. Madam President, I rise today to discuss a very critical bill—S. 2590, the "Patient Safety and Quality Improvement Act." This bill, which Senators Jeffords, Breaux, Gregg, and I introduced in May, represents our next step in reducing the number of patients harmed each year by medical errors. Although a variety of patient safety initiatives are underway in the private sector as well as within the Department of Health and Human Services, Congress has an important role to play in reinforcing and assisting these efforts.

Today, the House Ways and Means Committee is expected to report a bipartisan bill—a bill that is almost identical to its Senate counterpart—that will help improve the safety of our health care system. Additionally, President Bush has highlighted the importance of this issue by formally supporting this crucial legislation. Moreover, this bill is supported by over thirty different health care organizations. Mr. President, I will ask that a list of those supporting organizations be included in the Record.

As a physician and a scientist, I know the enormous complexities of medicine today and the intricate system in which providers deliver care. I also recognize the need to examine medical errors closely in order to determine how the system has failed the patient. One method used in hospitals is the Mortality and Morbidity Conferences, in which individuals can openly discuss patients’ cases and examine problems in detail. Unfortunately, because those conferences represent a single, internal hospital event, we cannot obtain valuable, systematic information about problems or information that could be shared to allow providers to learn from other’s missteps. Therefore, there is a need to create a broader, more inclusive learning system that encompasses all components of the health care system.

One impediment to that learning system is the confidentiality protections to ensure that we provide a balancing test—weighing the public interest, and not available for any other source. In this manner, we provide a balancing test—weighing the public good in sharing the information and providing the appropriate legal protections so that the system can be improved with the people good in weeding out the “bad apples.”

In the Senate, with Senators Jeffords, Breaux, and Gregg, we are careful to concentrate on the learning system and provide appropriate legal protections for that system. We view this as an essential first step in the ongoing, dynamic process of improving patient safety.

I also want to reassure my colleagues that this approach to improving medical care—providing limited confidentiality protections to ensure that we learn from the system—and not new to health care. Currently, there are at least five health care examples which use Federal confidentiality and peer review protections—The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention’s National Nosocomial Infections Surveillance System, NNIS, the Food and Drug Administration’s MedWatch, Veterans Health Administration, VHA, and the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services Quality Improvement Organizations, QIOs. Each of those confidentiality and peer review protections have improved the delivery of health care.

NNIS is a voluntary, hospital-based reporting system established to monitor hospital-acquired infections and guide the prevention efforts through description of the epidemiology of nosocomial infections, antimicrobial resistance trends, and nosocomial infection rates to use for comparison purposes. Since its inception in 1970, there has been a 34 percent reduction in the number of nosocomial infections. This dramatic decrease can be attributed, in part, to the availability of data for analysis and identification of system weaknesses permitting high-quality treatment to be provided at lower rates. By law, CDC assures participating hospitals that any information that would permit identification of any individual or institution will be held in strict confidence. This allows hospitals to report adverse events without fear of negative repercussions.

MedWatch is a voluntary Medical Products Reporting Program for quickly identifying unsafe medical products on the market. Through MedWatch, the Food and Drug Administration officials work to improve the safety of drugs, biologics, medical devices, dietary supplements, medical foods, infant formulas, and other regulated products by encouraging health professionals to report serious adverse events and product defects. Once an adverse event or product problem is identified, FDA can take any of the following actions: labeling changes, boxed warnings, product recalls and withdrawals, and medical product safety alerts. The aggregation of information through MedWatch has lead to drug recalls, such as Felbatol and Omniflox, and to label changes on approximately 30 percent of the New Molecular Entities each year.

To address the need for a non-punitive confidential reporting system, the VHA developed and continues to implement an innovative systems approach to prevent harm to patients within Veterans Administration’s 163 medical centers. The system is currently implemented nationwide internal and external reporting systems that supplement the current accountability systems. Thus far, efforts have led to the implementation of physician ordering systems and safety bulletins, such as the proper handling of MRI equipment. QIOs monitor and improve the quality of care delivered to Medicare beneficiaries. All information collected by QIOs for quality improvement work is non-discoverable. QIOs work directly and cooperatively with hospitals and medical professionals across the country to implement quality improvement projects that address the root causes of medical errors. QIOs use data to track progress towards eliminating errors and improving treatment processes. For example, the latest available national data, 1996-1998, show QIO projects resulted in 34 percent more patients getting medications to prevent a secondary heart attack; 7 percent more stroke patients receiving drugs that prevent subsequent strokes; 12 percent more heart failure patients getting treatment needed to extend their active lives; and 20 percent more patients hospitalized with pneumonia receiving rapid antibiotic therapy.

I appreciate the efforts made by Senators Jeffords, Breaux, and Gregg thus far and look forward to working with them and others to pass this bipartisan legislation. I also value the leadership of the Bush Administration and my House colleagues on this critical issue. I hope that the Senate can also consider this important issue and come to a resolution in the near future.

I ask unanimous consent that the list of supporting organizations be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

General Motors, Healthcare Leadership Council, Institute for Safe Medication Practices, Joint Commission on the Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations, Joseph H. Six years ago, we dedicated the Korean War Memorial. This stirring tribute to the veterans of this war poignantly bears out the hardships of the conflict.

The Memorial depicts, with stainless steel statues and soldiers on patrol. The ground on which they advance is reminiscent of the rugged Korean terrain that they encountered, and their wind-blown ponchos depict the treacherous weather that ensued throughout the war. Our soldiers landed in it to fight for freedom and face the icy temperatures of 30 degrees below zero, their weaponry outdated and inadequate. As a result of the extreme cold, many veterans still suffer today from cold-related injuries, including frostbite, cold sensitization, numbness, tingling and burning, circulatory problems, skin cancer, fungal infections, and arthritis. Furthermore, the psychological tolls of war have caused great hardship for many veterans.

As a background to the soldiers’ statues at the Memorial, the images of 2,400 unnamed men and women stand etched into a granite wall, symbolizing the determination of the United States workforce and their families to remember the sacrifices of many of the veterans who served in this war and underscores our importance to the war effort.

Today, I salute the courage of those who answered the call to defend a country they never knew and a people they never met. Through their selfless determination and valor in the battle, these men and women sent an important message to future generations. I thank our Korean War veterans; their bravery reminds us of the value we put on freedom, while their sacrifices remind us that, as it says at the Korean War Memorial, “Freedom is not free.” We shall never forget.

LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 2001

Mr. SMITH of Oregon. Madam President, I rise today to speak about hate crimes legislation I introduced with Senator KENNEDY in March of last year. The Local Law Enforcement Act of 2001 would add new categories to current hate crimes legislation sending a signal that violence of any kind is unacceptable in our society.

I would like to describe a terrible crime that occurred on October 14, 2000 in Billings, MT. Chris Lehman, 23, shot Roderick Pierson, 44, with a BB gun. Mr. Lehman later admitted to shooting Pierson because he was black. Mr. Pierson was shot while walking with his 6 year-old daughter.

I believe that government’s first duty is to defend its citizens, to defend them against the harms that come out of hate. The Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act of 2001 is now a symbol that the government is determined to act and is committed that by passing this legislation and changing current law, we can change hearts and minds as well.

BURMESE MILITARY RAPES

Mr. MCCONNELL. Madam President, the military junta in Burma must be judged not by what it says, but rather by what it does.

The recent editorial in the Washington Post on the rape of ethnic minority women and girls by Burmese military officials is brutal and horrific. It is by no means a stretch to characterize the junta’s mismanagement and oppression of the people of Burma as a “reign of terror.”

I ask unanimous consent that a copy of the editorial “The Rape of Burma” be printed in the Record following my remarks.

The record is open. There being no objection, the article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Washington Post, July 23, 2002]

THE RAPE OF BURMA

Recent events have led some people to predict that one of the world’s most repressive regimes may be growing a bit less so. The generals who rule, or misrule, the Southeast Asian nation of Burma, which they call Myanmar, released from house arrest the woman who should in fact be the nation’s prime minister, Aung San Suu Kyi. They have allowed her to travel a bit, and they have released two of her supporters. Grounds for hope, you might think.

Then came release of a report, documented in horrifying detail, of how Burma’s army uses rape as a weapon of war. The rapes take place as part of the junta’s perpetual—and, outside Burma, little-noticed—war against ethnic nationalities, in this case in Shan state. The Shan Human Rights Foundation and Shan Women’s Action Network documented 173 incidents involving 625 girls and women, some as young as five years old, taking place mostly between 1996 and 2001. Most of the rapes were perpetrated by officers, in front of their men, and with utmost brutality; one-quarter of the victims died.

What is telling is the response of the regime to the report. Rather than seeking to bring the criminals to justice, it has unleashed vitriol against the human rights organizations, accusing them of drug-running and the like. This is the junta’s usual pattern. They must be stopped at the bottom of the morality barrel: child labor, forced labor, torture. It denies all and attacks the truth-tellers. Yet, over the years the evidence of its brutality has been so inescapable that even the junta’s would-be friends have found it impossible to overlook it. Burma’s leaders cannot bring the criminals to justice because they are the criminals.

Later this month Secretary of State Colin Powell will travel to the region for meetings with senior officials. Earlier this month he instructed his diplomats to express outrage over the reported use of rape as a tactic of war; he should personally express the same outrage. He also should make clear that Aung San Suu Kyi—whose democratic party won an overwhelming victory in 1990 elections that the junta nullified—should be permitted more room to maneuver: permission to publish a newspaper, for starters. The Burmese regime should not receive rewards for cosmetic liberalization.

STATEROOMS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Ms. Cantwell (for herself, Mr. Warner, Mr. Chafee, Mr. Cleland, Mr. Rockefeller, and Mr. Bingaman):

S. 2790. A bill to provide lasting protection for inventoried roadless areas within the National Forest System; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mr. Warner. Madam President, I rise today to join with other colleagues from Washington, Senator Cantwell, to ensure that the remaining, undisturbed areas within our National Forest system are permanently preserved.

Like many of my colleagues, I have worked with the Forest Service and participated in the public comment process on the development of the current Roadless Area Conservation Rule. This administrative procedure was several years in the making with extensive public outreach of public hearings across the country. Thousands of Americans voiced support for protecting these areas from road building and other development.

For my part, this legislation today continues efforts I have undertaken with my colleagues in the Southwest from the Southeast to protect the existing roadless areas in the Southern Appalachian forests. In 1997 I urged the Secretary of Agriculture to impose a moratorium on new road construction in these inventoried roadless areas. Last year, I urged President Bush to embrace and implement this important resource conservation policy. I was very encouraged that the President announced his administration’s support for this rule on May 4, 2001.

Today, with this rule under legal challenge, I believe that it is important to take another step forward with ensuring that this rule is codified so that it has the full force of law. While some may advocate changes to the current rule to gain advantages for greater use or greater restrictions on these inventoried roadless areas, I want to assure my colleagues that our legislation today mirrors the current rule.

With the extensive efforts of the Forest Service to analyze the impact of the rule and the large number of public comments in support, we must stay true to this effort.

The devastating fires on Forest Service land in the West this summer have renewed our commitment to programs to reduce the fuel load on forest lands. I support Sen. Domenici’s initiatives to redirect Forest Service funding of fuel reduction projects in areas adjoining residential areas, and remain committed to giving the Forest Service the tools it needs to reduce the loss of life and property from fires.

An important reason for my support today is because I am convinced that the Roadless Rule does not prevent the Forest Service from undertaking any fire prevention activities in roadless areas. Nor, when a fire exists, does the rule prevent the Forest Service from taking any appropriate action, including building roads in roadless areas, to create fire breaks or other means to control a wildfire.

But, Mr. President, there must be no doubt on this important issue. For that reason, we have provided further clarification that the Forest Service has every authority to prevent fires or to respond to fires, and to use appropriated funds to undertake fire suppression activities in roadless areas.

This rule is a balanced approach to forest service management because it provides for reasonable exceptions for activities in roadless areas. I remain committed to the multiple-use management of our national forests. Timber and mineral resources on these public lands are assets that should be appropriately utilized and available for all Americans. My view of multiple-use management also recognizes and advances the recreational and environmental assets of these roadless areas.

The remaining roadless areas in our national forests are important for providing outstanding recreational opportunities for the public. These lands also provide wildlife habitat and protect the water quality of many watersheds that are the source of drinking water sources for our communities.

The Roadless Area Conservation rule is also sound fiscal policy for our national forests. The Forest Service has documented an $8.4 billion backlog in maintaining existing roads within our national forests. Continuing to build new roads in these fragile areas will only further strain the scarce dollars within the Forest Service.

As I have indicated, the legislation we are introducing today does not change the substance or spirit of the Roadless rule in any way. To be clear, this legislation preserves the exemptions in the rule to allow for road construction where needed to protect these lands from floods, fires, and pest infestation. It ensures public access to private lands, and recognizes the existing rights to ongoing oil and gas leases.

For Virginia, this legislation ensures that 394,000 acres of inventoried roadless areas in the George Washington and Jefferson National Forests are permanently protected. During the public comment period on the Draft Environmental Impact Statement, the Forest Service received 68,586 comments from residents of Virginia. The Forest Service advises me that this amount more than 98 percent of the comments supported full protection of these roadless areas.

I am pleased to support this legislation that is important to all regions of the country. The public has voiced its overwhelming support for this important conservation initiative, and I trust that my colleagues will respond by passing this bill this year.

States and Canada; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, I am introducing legislation today with Congresswoman DINGELL that will give a voice to the people of Michigan with regard to the importation of Canadian municipal waste.

Over the past two years, imports from Canada have risen 152 percent and now constitute about half of the imported waste received at Michigan landfills. Currently, approximately 110-130 truckloads of waste come in to Michigan each day from Canada. And this problem isn’t going to get any better. These shipments of waste are expected to continue as Toronto and other Ontario sources phase out local disposal sites. On December 4, 2001, the Toronto City Council voted 38-2 to approve a new solid waste disposal contract that would ship an additional 700,000 tons of waste per year to the Carleton Farms landfill in Wayne County, MI, in the near future. In addition, two other Ontario communities that generate hundreds of thousands of tons of waste annually have signed contracts to ship their waste to Carleton Farms.

Based on current usage statistics, the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality estimates that Michigan has capacity for 15-17 years of disposal in landfills. However, with the proposed dramatic increase in the importation of waste, this capacity is less than 10 years. The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality estimates that, for five years of disposal of Canadian waste at the current usage volume, Michigan is losing a full year of landfill capacity.

We have protections contained in an international agreement with Canada. In 1986, the U.S. and Canada entered into an agreement allowing the shipment of hazardous waste across the U.S. for treatment, storage or disposal. In 1992, the two countries decided to add municipal solid waste to the agreement. However, although the Agreement requires notification to the importing country and also allows the importing country to reject shipments, its provisions have not been enforced.

Further, the EPA has said that it would not object to municipal waste shipments. We believe that in order to protect the health and welfare of the citizens of Michigan and their environment, the impact of the importation on State and local recycling efforts, landfill capacity, air emissions and road deterioration resulting from increased vehicular traffic and public health and the environment should all be considered. The shipments should be rejected by the EPA.

Canada could not export waste to Michigan without the Agreement, but the U.S. refuses to implement the provisions that would protect the people of Michigan. We believe that the EPA has the authority to enforce this Agreement, but this legislation would put additional pressure on the EPA to enforce it.

By Mr. KERRY:
S. 2795. A bill to amend title XVIII of the Social Security Act to provide for payment under the prospective payment system for hospital outpatient department services under the Medicare program for new drugs administered in such departments as soon as the drug is approved for marketing by the Commissioner of Food and Drugs; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. KERRY. Madam President, I am pleased to introduce legislation today that will fix a flaw in Medicare’s claims processing system that currently denies thousands of cancer patients timely access to lifesaving treatments. This legislation will ensure that administrative delays do not force Americans with cancer to wait to be treated with innovative drug therapies that stand to improve and prolong their lives.

The Food and Drug Administration, FDA, recently granted fast track authority to a new class of cancer therapies. These therapies, which combine immunotherapy and radiological treatments, offer promise and hope for many cancer patients. Under current Medicare policy, however, reimbursement for FDA-approved drugs in an outpatient setting does not begin until Medicare issues a billing code for the drug. Consequently, there is often a delay of several months between FDA approval of and patient access to a drug.

Prior to the designation of a Medicare billing code, doctors will not prescribe innovative treatments for patients in an outpatient setting for fear of being denied reimbursement by Medicare. However, within the inpatient setting, Medicare will reimburse hospitals immediately after FDA approval. Given this discrepancy in current reimbursement policy, I am introducing legislation that will allow doctors to submit claims retroactively and require Medicare to pay for innovative drugs administered in hospital outpatient settings immediately after FDA approval.

Cancer patients cannot afford to wait for drugs that have the potential to improve their health and even save their lives. For Americans battling cancer, time is of the essence. This legislation will provide cancer patients with both the hope and the opportunity to live longer and healthier lives. I urge my colleagues to join me in support of this legislation.

By Mr. LUGAR (for himself, Mr. BREAUX, Mr. CHAFEE, Mr. GRASSLEY, Mr. NICKLES, Mr. GRAHAM, Mr. HAGEL, Mr. SPECTER, Mr. HATCH, and Mr. COCHRAN):
S. 2799. A bill to provide for the use of dollars obtained under the American all export agreement with Uruguay, to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. LUGAR. Madam President, I rise today to introduce legislation authorizing President Bush and his Administration to negotiate a free trade agreement with Uruguay. I am pleased to be joined by the following co-sponsors: Senators BREAUX, CHAFEE, GRASSLEY, NICKLES, GRAHAM, HAGEL, SPECTER, HATCH, and COCHRAN.

President Bush has instructed U.S. Trade Representative, Robert Zoellick, to pursue a Free Trade Area of the Americas. I support this effort and this bill is not intended to compete with or replace that important undertaking. Instead, this legislation seeks to highlight the important relationship the U.S. enjoys with Uruguay and promote its economic strength in the 21st Century. We must participate in an expanding global economy. We must aggressively pursue opportunities in new and emerging markets. We must maintain our technological and competitive advantage and sell our products, services and agricultural commodities in these areas. American agriculture, telecommunications, computer services, and other sectors will benefit from the opportunity to compete in Uruguay under a free trade agreement.

As South America continues to recover from the Argentinian economic crisis we must look for opportunities to engage the region in free trade. A free trade agreement with Uruguay would provide American businesses with unfettered access to another lucrative market and Uruguay business will have better access to American markets to successfully weather the region’s economic fallout. A U.S.-Uruguayan free trade agreement is a win-win for the United States.

I am hopeful the Senate will approve this important legislation in the near future.

By Mr. MCCAIN:
S. 2799. A bill to provide for the use of all export agreements with certain funds.
awarded to the Gila River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. MCCAIN. Madam President, I rise to introduce legislation to authorize the distribution of judgment funds to eligible tribal members of the Gila River Indian Community in Arizona. Representative HAYWORTH recently introduced companion legislation in the House of Representatives.

The Gila River Indian Community Judgement Fund Distribution Act reserves two half-century old claims by the Gila River tribe against the United States for failure to meet Federal obligations to protect the Community’s use of water from the Gila River and Salt River in Arizona. The original complaint was filed before the Indian Claims Commission on August 8, 1951. In 1982, the United States Court of Claims confirmed liability of the United States to the Community, and recently the settlement of these two claims was determined to be seven million dollars.

So much time has passed that the Indian Claims Commission formerly in charge of fund distributions no longer exists, but the debt does not disappear. The judgement award has since been transferred from the Indian Claims Commission to a trust account on behalf of the Community, managed by the Office of Trust Management at the Department of the Interior. This judgement award was certified by the Treasury Department on October 6, 1999 for the final portion of the litigation to the two remaining dockets of the Gila River Indian Community. Since that time, the Community has been working with the BIA in an attempt to finalize a use and distribution plan to submit to Congress for approval. As outlined in its plan, the Community has decided to distribute the judgement award equally to eligible tribal members.

I ask unanimous consent to print the tribal resolution approved by the Gila River Indian Community in support of this payment plan in the RECORD. There being no objection, the resolution was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

GILA RIVER INDIAN COMMUNITY, SACATON, AZ
Resolution GR-30—A resolution to approve a payment plan for the distribution of funds awarded under dockets 236-C and 236-D

Whereas, the Gila River Indian Community (the “Community”) and the United States have been involved in litigation regarding Docket 236 since August 8, 1951 and two of the original fourteen dockets, Docket 236-C and Docket 236-D, remain to be resolved as to distribution;

Whereas, Docket 236-C sought monetary compensation from the United States for its failure to engage in fair and honorable dealings through failure to carry out its obligation to protect the Community’s use of water from the Gila River;

Whereas, Docket 236-D sought monetary compensation from the United States for its failure to engage in fair and honorable dealings through failure to carry out its obligations to protect the Community’s use of water from the Salt River;

Whereas, in Gila River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community v. U.S. 29 Ind. Cl. Comm. 144 (1972), the Indian Claims Commission held that the United States, as trustee, was liable towards its beneficiary, the Community, as to the Docket 236-D claims;

Whereas, in Gila River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community v. U.S., 684 F.2d 852 (1982), the United States Court of Claims held that the United States, as trustee, was liable towards its beneficiary, the Community, as to the Docket 236-D claims;

Whereas, in Gila River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community v. U.S., 684 F.2d 852 (1982), the United States Court of Claims ordered that a final judgement be entered in consolidated Dockets 236-C and 236-D for an aggregate total of $7,000,000;

While May 5, 1999, the United States certified the judgment for the Community, which allowed payment to be made into the trust account on behalf of the Gila River Indian Community and which such payment was made into the trust account managed by the Office of Trust Funds Management in Albuquerque, New Mexico and is accruing interest.

Whereas, the Indian Judgment Funds Act of October 19, 1973, 87 Stat. 646, as amended in 1977, requires the Secretary of the Interior to submit a plan of distribution for the funds to the United States Congress; and

Whereas, the Indian Claims Commission has developed the attached plan of distribution, entitled “Plan for the Use of the Gila River Indian Community Judgment Funds Docket 236-C and 236-D before the United States Court of Federal Claims” (the “Plan of Distribution”), to be submitted to the Secretary for consideration and approval. Now, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Gila River Indian Community adopts and approves the attached Plan of Distribution, be it further

Resolved, That the Governor, or in the Governor’s absence the Lieutenant Governor, is authorized and directed to submit the attached Plan of Distribution to the Secretary of the Interior for approval, be it finally

Resolved, That the Governor, or in the Governor’s absence the Lieutenant Governor, is authorized and directed to execute and sign necessary documents to fulfill the intent of this Resolution.

The purpose of this legislation is to comply with Federal regulations which requires congressional approval for distribution of judgment funds to tribal members. The terms of the legislation reflect an agreement by all parties for a distribution plan for final approval by Congress. As part of this legislation, the BIA is also seeking to resolve remaining expert assistance loans by the Gila River Indian Community, the Oglala Sioux Tribe, and the Seminole Tribe of Florida, as originally authorized by the Indian Claims Commission.

Members of the Gila River Indian Community have waited half a century for final resolution of all their legal claims regarding this matter. After considerable delay, it is only fair to resolve this matter and provide compensation as soon as possible. With the short time remaining in this session, I hope that the Senate will act quickly to move this legislation through the process.

I ask unanimous consent to print the text of the bill and a section-by-section summary in the RECORD.

S. 2800. A bill to provide emergency disaster assistance to agricultural producers; to the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, on March 23, 2002, Secretary Veneman declared Montana a drought disaster. This drought designation came two months earlier than in 2001, and eight months earlier than in 2000. The State of Montana is suffering has brought economic hardship to our agricultural producers and rural communities. In 1996, the year before the drought, Montana received $847 million in cash receipts from hay sales. In 2001, four years into the drought, Montana received $317 million in cash receipts, a 62 percent decline. Agriculture is more than 50 percent of my State’s economy, and is truly the backbone of my State. The drought not only affects our farmers and ranchers. It is felt throughout our rural communities. Small businesses are being forced to close their doors. Families are moving away to find work. It would be virtually impossible to find a single person who has not been either directly or indirectly impacted by the dry conditions that we have.

Without our help, without passing natural disaster assistance, it is estimated that 40 percent of Montana’s farmers and ranchers will not qualify for operating loans for the 2002 crop year. A large percentage of these hard-working people will lose their land, their homes, their jobs, and their way of life. They will not be purchasing clothes, shelter, food, fertilizer, or equipment. They will lose their local stores. They will have to move, take their kids out of school. Small towns will die. It is unfortunate that farmers and ranchers from Montana have to suffer the effects of prolonged drought without Federal assistance because disaster was not as widespread in 2001 as it has been in 2002. The farmers and ranchers who suffered from severe drought in 2001 should not be penalized, rather rewarded for their persistence and dedication to the land. We desperately need cooperation and support from all sides to prove relief to our producers that have struggled through dry conditions for so long. We need disaster assistance immediately and we need to provide extra assistance for those who have endured drought in 2001 and 2002. It is time to take action and to provide for those who have produced so many vital resources for the people of the United States. I am dismayed and appalled that we have not been able to produce legislation that is much needed and long overdue to benefit the hard working farmers and ranchers of the state of Montana and across the country. Many of the agricultural producers in Montana who have worked the same land for generations will no longer be able to survive as farmers or ranchers without disaster relief. Consecutive years of drought have caused economic devastation that have not been able to adapt to changes brought about by drought. They deserve natural disaster assistance and I will continue to fight to ensure they get it.

I am pleased to be working with my fellow Senator from Montana, and I ask each of my Senate colleagues to join us in this effort.

Mr. BURNS. Madam President, I rise today to express my support of the Emergency Disaster Assistance Act of 2002. I am proud to join my colleague from Montana, Senator BAUCUS, in introducing this legislation.

However, more importantly I rise today in support of America’s farmers and ranchers. In my home State of Montana, we are looking at our fifth summer of severe drought. Many places in the great State are drying up and blowing away. Dirt fills the ditches alongside the roads and so many tumbleweeds clog the fences. I fear this may be the case for much of the West and Midwest after this summer. This legislation would provide much needed relief to those farmers and ranchers hit the hardest by the drought. Many have argued the Farm Bill adequately met the needs of those earning their living in agriculture. I disagree. The Farm Bill provides economic assistance, but not weather-related disaster assistance.

In fact, it does not help farmers "where the true need is." The drought conditions of the past several years indicate that these are indeed very difficult times. The very reason I am requesting drought assistance is precisely because this farm bill does not sufficiently meet the needs of those farmers who have suffered loss due to natural conditions during the past 4 years. I believe the farmers in the most extreme situations are the very ones we should be helping.

I am committed to working with my colleagues to get this much-needed assistance out to our rural areas, to the places that need it the most. I am also committed to doing this in the most responsible way possible. I believe we can reach an agreement and find a realistic amount that helps producers, yet is fiscally responsible.

STATEMENTS ON SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 306—DESIGNATING THE WEEK BEGINNING SEPTEMBER 15, 2002, AS "NATIONAL HISTORICALLY BLACK COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES WEEK"

Mr. THURMOND submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Whereas there are 105 historically black colleges and universities in the United States;
Whereas black colleges and universities provide the quality education so essential to full participation in a complex, highly technological society;
Whereas black colleges and universities have a rich heritage and have played a prominent role in American history;
Whereas black colleges and universities have allowed many underprivileged students to attain their full potential through higher education;
Whereas the achievements and goals of historically black colleges and universities are deserving of national recognition; Now, therefore, be it Resolved,

SECTION 1. DESIGNATION OF NATIONAL HISTORICALLY BLACK COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES WEEK.

The Senate—
(1) designates the week beginning September 15, 2002, as "National Historically Black Colleges and Universities Week"; and
(2) requests that the President of the United States issue a proclamation calling on the people of the United States and interested groups to observe the week with appropriate ceremonies, activities, and programs to demonstrate support for historically black colleges and universities in the United States.

Mr. THURMOND. Madam President, I rise to submit a resolution recognizing the week of September 15–21, 2002 as National Historically Black Colleges and Universities Week. This resolution is an appropriate tribute to the countless academic contributions these institutions of higher education have made throughout this fine Nation and the State of South Carolina. I am proud to have eight of the 105 Historically Black Colleges located in my home State. They have long provided a quality education that has greatly contributed to our economic and social well-being, and I commend them for a job well done. In addition, these institutions of higher education and universities will help lead our country into the future, with programs that prepare their students for our increasingly sophisticated economy. The alumni of these institutions have made many contributions to our Nation and I hope this resolution serves to recognize their achievements as well.

The passage of this resolution reaffirms our support for these institutions. The Resolution requests the President of the United States to issue an appropriate proclamation and calls on the people of the United States to observe the week with ceremonies, activities and programs to demonstrate support for Historically Black Colleges and Universities throughout this Nation.

SENATE RESOLUTION 306—EXpressING THE SENSE OF THE SENATE CONCERNING THE CONTINUES REPRESSION OF FREEDOMS WITHIN IRAN AND OF INDIVIDUAL HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES, PARTICULARLY WITH REGARD TO WOMEN

Mr. BROWNBACK (for himself, Mr. Wyden, Ms. Collins, Mr. Dorgan, Mr. Grassley, Mr. Conrad, Mr. Smith of New Hampshire, and Mrs. Boxer) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

Whereas the people of the United States respect the Iranian people and value the contributions that Iran's culture has made to world civilization for millennia;
Whereas the Iranian people aspire to democracy, civil, political, and religious rights, and the rule of law, as evidenced by the increasing demand for political and social change in Iran; and
Whereas in the past the government of Iran has actively and repeatedly sought to undermine the Middle East peace process, provides safe-haven to al-Qaeda and Taliban terrorists, allows transit of weapons for guerrillas seeking to undermine our ally Turkey, provides transit of terrorists seeking to destabilize States-protected safe-haven in Iraq, and develops weapons of mass destruction;
Whereas the Iranian government continues to sponsor terrorism, and to engage in the repression of its citizens; and
Whereas the regime in Iran stifles the growth of the genuine democratic forces in Iran and does not respect the national security interest of the United States;

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that—
(1) legitimizing the regime in Iran stifles the growth of the genuine democratic forces in Iran and does not serve the national security interest of the United States;
(2) positive gestures of the United States toward Iran should be directed toward the people of Iran, and not political figures whose survival depends upon preservation of the current regime; and
(3) it should be the policy of the United States to seek a genuine democratic government in Iran that will restore freedom to the Iranian people, abandon terrorism, and live in peace and security with the international community.

Mr. WYDEN. Madam President, today we are resolved to see a new, rational foreign policy toward Iran, a policy that will engage the proud people of that nation and support their aspirations to be free of the theocratic state that abuses and oppresses them. It is time that we recognized that the forces of extremist clerics and their allies have so completely dominated the government of Iran that there is no means to achieve political liberalization within the current system. While President Khatami has often spoken of liberalization, the last 5 years show that either he is unable or unwilling to effect any democratic change.

In fact, the record of his administration has been increasing censorship, religious vigilantes and intimidation, and widespread political repression. The State Department has identified systematic abuses including summary executions, disappearances, and widespread use of torture and other forms of degradation.

Student dissidents within Iran have become increasingly better organized, and have been faced with greater repression. The frequent demonstrations by these students, women, and even religious disidents, as well as the growing movements of expatriates show that there is a yearning for democratic change within the Iranian people. It should be a core value of our foreign policy to encourage and support any people who seek only the fundamental human freedoms laid out in our own bill of rights.

There is also self-interest involved in this move. The Iranian regime has been supplying arms and cadre to terrorist movements in the Middle East, particularly in the key, Armenia, and Israel, and has striven to be a destabilizing force throughout the middle-east and central Asia. This is not the fault of the Iranian people, but of a criminal class that dominates them and strangles their hopes for a peaceful and progressive future. In the days following the tragedy of September 11, it is the people of Iran who spontaneously filled the streets in shared grieving over the loss of American lives.

In dealing with Iran we must focus all of our efforts on the people, and their hopes for a free and democratic nation. The Voice of America, Radio Free Europe, and Radio Liberty must redouble their efforts to provide uncensored truth to the Iranian people. The State Department must cease lending legitimacy to the current regime and pursue a policy of fundamental democratic change; this administration must seek ways to aid and sustain those movements that will effect that change, to the benefit of the Iranian and American people alike.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 131—DESIGNATING THE MONTH OF NOVEMBER 2002, AS “NATIONAL MILITARY FAMILY MONTH”

Mr. INOUYE submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

S. CON. RES. 131

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That Congress—

(1) designates the month of November 2002, as “National Military Family Month”; and (2) requests that the President issue a proclamation calling upon the people of the United States to observe the month with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

Mr. INOUYE, President pro tempore, today I rise to honor all our military families by submitting a Concurrent Resolution to designate November 2002, as National Military Family Month. As we all know, memories fade and the hardships experienced by our military families are easily forgotten unless they touch our own immediate family.

Today, we have our men and women deployed all over the world, engaged in this war on terrorism. These far-ranging military deployments are extremely difficult on the families who bear this heavy burden.

To honor these families the Armed Forces YMCA has sponsored Military Family Week in late November since 1996. However, due to frequent ‘short week’ conflicts around the Thanksgiving holidays, the designated week has not always afforded enough time to schedule observance on and near our military bases. I believe a month long observation will allow greater opportunity to plan events. Moreover, it will provide a greater opportunity to stimulate media support.

A Concurrent Resolution will help pave the way for this effort. I ask my colleagues to join me in supporting this tribute to our military families.

PAYING TRIBUTE TO RICHARD GONZALEZ

HON. SCOTT McINNIS
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to pay tribute to Richard Gonzalez, who has served as the Denver Regional Commissioner of the Social Security Administration since June 1998. Richard Gonzalez’s innovative thinking and leadership was pivotal in guiding the Denver Region in improving Social Security services for the American Indians and Alaskan Natives. His retirement marks over thirty-seven years of Federal service and it is my honor to bring forth his accomplishments before this body of Congress and this nation.

Richard Gonzalez began his career with the Social Security Administration as a Computer Programmer in the Bureau of Data Processing in headquarters after serving in the United States Air Force. Prior to coming to Denver, he served as Associate Commissioner for Systems Requirements at SSA headquarters in Baltimore, MD. Richard also held a number of senior level information systems positions with the Social Security Administration and was appointed to the Senior Executive Service in 1994. Under Richard’s leadership, Denver led national efforts to improve service delivery to rural communities by piloting outreach efforts in Northern New Mexico and Browning, Montana and partnering with the Chicago Region on a major outreach effort for three reservations in Minnesota.

Richard Gonzalez was recognized for his outstanding service to the public and the Denver Region when he was awarded a prestigious Presidential Rank of Distinguished Executive Award. He serves as the Vice Chairperson on the Denver Federal Executive Board Committee. Richard received his Bachelor of Science Degree from Towson State University and Master of Science Degree from John Hopkins University. He has received numerous citations and awards for his outstanding efforts as Commissioner. His many contributions are appreciated, and his countless hours of devotion have greatly improved the community of Denver and its surrounding areas. Richard is a devoted father and husband, and he cherishes the support and encouragement his family has provided throughout his career. He is married to Dr. Sylvia Simpson, and has two sons, Dan and Mathew.

Mr. Speaker, it is a great privilege that I recognize Richard Gonzalez and his contributions to the City of Denver and this nation. His efforts have greatly helped many people throughout our country and I am proud to recognize him before this body of Congress today. Congratulations on your retirement Richard, and good luck in your future endeavors.

HONORING RETIRING MADERA POLICE OFFICERS

HON. GEORGE RADANOVICH
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. RADANOVICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Madera Police Chief Jerry Noblett, Commander Michael L. Jeffries, Sergeant Leon C. George, Detective Walter Dale Padgett, and Crime Prevention Officer Joe R. Garza on the occasion of their retirement from the Madera Police Department. A retirement celebration will be held for these dedicated individuals on July 20, 2002.

Chief Jerry Noblett’s efforts have made a tremendous impact on the Madera Police Department. He began his law enforcement career as a reserve deputy in 1972, and in 1973 he was appointed as a police officer. Jerry obtained a bachelor’s degree in Criminology from California State University, Fresno. He swiftly moved up the ranks and, in 1977, was promoted to the rank of sergeant in the patrol division. When Chief Colston retired, in July 1997, Jerry was promoted to Chief of Police. Chief Noblett’s contributions have been expansive throughout his career in law enforcement, but Jerry has also served the community by participating on many boards, including the Madera Chamber of Commerce and the Madera Kiwanis.

Commander Michael L. Jeffries began his law enforcement career with Madera in August of 1972. He earned the department’s Medal of Valor in 1996 for his bravery in the handling of a barricaded suspect. Sergeant Leon C. George also joined law enforcement in 1972, but began his career in Los Angeles. He joined the Madera Police Department in December of 1984 and has received many commendations for his performance. Police Officer Walter Dale Padgett began his career in October of 1970 with the Madera Police Department. He was chosen as the Police Officer of the Year for the department in 1997. Crime Prevention Officer Joe R. Garza’s law enforcement career originated in Fresno in June of 1977. Two years later he joined the Madera team, and has worked on a range of cases, including being the first Crime Prevention Officer in Madera.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate these men on the occasion of their retirement. I invite my colleagues to join me in thanking them for their service to the community and for their valor.

HON. JOHN R. THUNE
OF SOUTH DAKOTA

Monday, July 22, 2002

Mr. THUNE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Con. Res 352, a resolution expressing the Sense of Congress to fully implement the Western Governors Association “Collaborative 10-year Strategy for Reducing Wildfire Risks to Communities and the Environment” and to prepare a National Prescribed Fire Strategy that minimizes risks of escape.

More than 7.4 million acres burned during the 2000 wildfire season—equivalent to a three-mile-wide swath from Washington, D.C. to Los Angeles, California and back—destroying 861 structures, killing 16 firefighters and costing the federal government $1.3 billion in suppression costs. Upon completion of the 2001 wildfire season, 81,681 fires burned 3,555,138 acres, which threatened rural communities nationwide and killed 15 firefighters. To date, the 2002 fire season has consisted of 50,168 fires burning 3,632,508 acres.

In South Dakota the Black Hills National Forest has had several small fires this fire season. We have been fortunate that firefighters have been able to contain the fires quickly and that very few structures have been burned. However, I am concerned about the future of the Black Hills and the other public lands in the West.

According to the General Accounting Office, “the most extensive and serious problem related to the health of national forests in the interior West is the over-accumulation of vegetation, which has caused an increasing number of large, intense, uncontrollable and catastrophically destructive wildfires. According to the U.S. Forest Service, 39 million acres on national forests in the interior West are at high risk of catastrophic wildfire.”

It is clear that this is a result of poor forest management decisions. Because of years of litigation in the Black Hills, the Beaver Park Area of the forest is under high risk of wildfire. The mountain pine beetle epidemic has killed thousands of trees in this area which is fuel for a large crown fire waiting to happen. The Forest Service has had their hands tied by litigation and have not been able to control this problem.

Also, in the Black Hills, the Norbeck Wildlife Preserve is also at risk because of considerable over-growth of ponderosa pine. The dry weather conditions in conjunction with the over-growth is a concern to all that live and work in the Black Hills. This area is only a few miles from Mt. Rushmore, where summer attendance averages 25,000 daily.

Thank you for the opportunity to speak to this issue. The time is now for Congress to express its concern for the future of our public lands and the risk of wildfire in the West.

DISAPPROVAL OF NORMAL TRADE RELATIONS TREATMENT TO PRODUCTS OF VIETNAM

SPEECH OF HON. DOUG BEREUTER

OF NEBRASKA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, July 23, 2002

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, this Member would like to express his opposition to H. J. Res. 101, which would provide for the disapproval of the Bush Administration’s extension of the waiver of Jackson-Vanik trade restrictions on Vietnam. In considering the disapproval resolution, it is important, of course, for us to recognize what the Jackson-Vanik waiver actually does and does not do.

By law, the underlying issue here is about emigration—the freedom for their citizens to leave Vietnam in order to live in another country. Based on Vietnam’s record of progress on the emigration and its continued cooperation on U.S. refugee programs over the past year, renewal of the Jackson-Vanik waiver will continue to promote greater freedom of emigration. Disapproval would, undoubtedly, result in the opposite.

Actually continuing the Jackson-Vanik waiver for Vietnam is really also reflective of an American interest in further developing a positive relationship with that country and its people. Having lifted the trade embargo and established diplomatic relations five years ago, the United States has tried to work with Vietnam to normalize, incrementally, our bilateral political, economic and consular relationships.

Such an effort, if it brings positive results, is in America’s own short-term and long-term national interest. It complements and tests Vietnam’s own policy for political and economic re-integration into the world. No doubt such a re-integration will be a difficult and perhaps lengthy process. However, there is certainly no compelling rationale for reversing course on gradually normalizing our relations with Vietnam.

Now, for example, Vietnam reportedly continues to cooperate fully with our priority efforts to achieve the fullest possible accounting of American POW–MIAs. The granting of a Jackson-Vanik waiver has contributed to this cooperative process.

Mr. Speaker, the Jackson-Vanik waiver certainly does not constitute an endorsement of the Communist regime in Hanoi. Of course, we have made it abundantly clear that we do not approve of a regime that places severe restrictions on basic freedoms, including the right to organize political parties, freedom of speech, and freedom of religion. We condemn such restrictions. On many occasions, with this Member’s support, this body passed resolutions condemning just such violations of civil and human rights.

The Jackson-Vanik waiver does not provide Vietnam with any new trade benefits, including Normal Trade Relations (NTR) status. However, with the Jackson-Vanik waiver, the United States has been able to successfully negotiate and sign a new bilateral commercial trade agreement with Vietnam. Congress will have an opportunity to decide in the future whether to again grant a waiver and decide, eventually, whether Vietnam deserved to be considered for NTR. But, that is a separate process. The renewal of the Jackson-Vanik waiver only keeps this process of improved cooperation and progress going forward.

Finally, it also is important to note that the renewal of the Jackson-Vanik waiver does not automatically make American exports to Vietnam eligible for possible coverage by U.S. trade financing programs. The waiver only allows American exports to Vietnam to be eligible for such coverage.

Mr. Speaker, the Vietnam War is over and we have embarked cautiously on a new and expanded setting of relationships with Vietnam. Now is not the time to reverse course. Accordingly, this Member supports the Administration’s request by voting “no” on the resolution of disapproval.

PAYING TRIBUTE TO STEPHANIE HERRERA

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this time to recognize an outstanding individual from Colorado whose hard work and commendable deeds have recently earned her the Minority Small Business Advocate of the Year award, Stephanie Herrera of Denver, Colorado, as described as a small business owner, insurance professional, professor, dancer, mentor, community activist, and caring friend. Stephanie believes that “when you want to get something done, find a busy person” which is precisely how she has been described, and I am honored to bring forth her accomplishments before this body of Congress and nation.

Stephanie’s efforts are currently focused on children, helping other small businesses, continued active involvement in the Denver Community, her own business, and her husband of eight years, Dan Herrera. She is also currently pursuing a Doctorate degree in Business Administration with an emphasis in International Marketing, while finding time to teach management and marketing classes at the Community College of Denver. A long believer in community service, she is the founder of and director of Dancers of Americas, a multi-cultural dance program that focuses on providing young girls, predominantly from low-income families, the opportunity to dance.

The Colorado Enterprise Fund has recently recognized Stephanie for her work at North High School in northwest Denver called Bizworks. Bizworks is a youth entrepreneurial program designed to build the skills and capacity of next generation entrepreneurs promoting self-employment and business ownership as a career choice among high school aged youth.

Mr. Speaker, it is clear that Stephanie Herrera is a woman of great dedication and commitment to her professions and to the children of Denver. Her success is well earned and I am honored to bring forth her accomplishments before this body of Congress and this nation. Stephanie is a remarkable woman and it is my privilege to extend to her my congratulations on her selection for the Minority Small Business Advocate of the Year award. Stephanie, congratulations, and all the best to you in your future endeavors.

Mr. Speaker, it is my pleasure to announce that Alison Boess, who resides in the Third Congressional District of Arizona, is a national winner of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Voice of Democracy Scholarship. Alison, a senior at Ironwood High School, was among 58 national scholarship recipients in the 2002 Voice of Democracy Program and the recipient of the Department of Pennsylvania Joseph L. Vicies Memorial Award. VFW Post 1433 and its Ladies Auxiliary in Glendale, Arizona sponsored Alison. I am pleased that Alison was among the 58 national scholarship recipients. I commend Alison’s efforts and call to the attention of my colleagues Alison’s award winning script on “Reaching Out to America’s Future.”

2001–2002 VFW VOICE OF DEMOCRACY SCHOLARSHIP CONTEST—REACHING OUT TO AMERICA’S FUTURE

(By Alison Boess)

Imagine yourself in a life where freedom, dignity, and the acquisition of knowledge have been stripped from you. The walls surrounding you are dark with grim mortality. Your people have been overcome by a government that withholds basic God-given rights and affords you no control over your conditions. Your beaten body rests heavily in the prison cell, immersed with thoughts of your family’s safety and the terror they are to suffer through. Perpetual gunshots keep your heart darting wildly in your chest. Outside the walls that have become your asylum, your wife and children attempt to flee from their torment. Your people have been overcome by a government that withholds basic God-given rights and affords you no control over your conditions.

This is not a dramatization of what could be. It is an image of what already is, right now, in countries currently run by powers over which citizens have no influence—an image far outside the experience, understanding, and appreciation of most American youth.

The idea that the future of America depends upon its youth is a widely received and valid notion. French statesman Alexis de Tocqueville observed that “Among democratic nations, each new generation is a new people.” Bearing that in mind, the responsibility that our new generation understands... and values the principles of democracy falls squarely on the shoulders of our parents, leaders, and educators.

Parents face the task of bringing up their children to be moral and upstanding citizens of the community. To be a good citizen, one needs to embrace not only the rights, but also the responsibilities of living in a democratic government system. Voting for officials is one of the key components. Voters must be well-informed so they can choose the candidate who will represent their beliefs and concerns. John F. Kennedy commented that “The ignorance of one voter in a democracy impairs the security of all.” If parents demonstrate to their children how knowledgeable about those who they vote for, then their children will see this as the proper example of responsible voting. Citizenship is also important as it attributes that parents should teach to children. While democracy promotes freedom of speech, it also calls for citizens to respect the ideas and opinions of others. Accordingly, children should be taught to listen to what others have to say with the same enthusiasm with which they speak their mind. In addition, if youths are clearly taught the difference between right and wrong, then they can adhere more effectively to laws. Parents and role models should encourage their sons and daughters to teach them lessons in civility that result in an understanding and appreciation for democracy.

Leaders need to exemplify the ideals of democracy in our world. It is their duty to honor the wishes of those they represent in order to show the effectiveness of voting. Leaders also should embrace and fill the role of a diplomat and law-abiding citizen so that future generations of politicians may look to them for good example. Politicians should be well suited to symposia classes or youth groups about what being a leader in a democracy means. If our nation’s leaders reach out to our young generation, they will help to ensure the comprehension of our government and safeguard its liberties with the abilities of tomorrow’s leaders. It is hard for students to imagine what life would be like without the presence of a democratic government system. Young Americans have taken democracy for granted because it is the only form of government they have known. It is far easier to appreciate the impact of restrictions imposed on foreign populations when the events occur during the students’ lifetime. Educators must instill a sense of responsibility and respect for the history of oppressive governments, but by describing and detailing situations in the present where the people’s lack of power has resulted in an unjust and often corrupt system. Recently, for instance, our attention has turned to impoverished countries in the Middle East such as Iran, Afghanistan, and many are beginning to see for the first time the demoralizing conditions under which many of the world’s people live. As important as this history is, current events are more persuasive and influential learning resources because they help students directly empathize with those suffering under tyranny. Educators will instill in students an earnest appreciation for the democracy they live in if they can open the eyes of students by revealing the circumstances of those for whom democracy is not a reality.

Many of the youth in this nation have not had the opportunity to truly appreciate American democracy. The harrowing account of the reality of others must not go unacknowledged and our own reality must not go unappreciated. If the parents, leaders, and educators reach out to America’s youth and reveal to them why this system is looked to as an example by all the world, then interest and the desire of youths to participate will be exponential. We must instill in youth the values of democracy and the importance of its endurance within our nation in order to ensure the strength of the American democracy for generations to come.

A SPECIAL TRIBUTE TO SISTER MARY MICHEL ON HER RETIREMENT FROM THE TEACHING PROFESSION

HON. PAUL E. GILLMOR
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. GILLMOR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to a very special teacher who has touched many lives. Seldom do we acknowledge the importance of the job or the depth of a teacher’s commitment to our children. While many people spend their lives building careers, teachers spend their careers building lives. For this they deserve our support, praise and gratitude.

One teacher in particular deserves special recognition, Sister Mary Michel. After 58 years of touching the lives of countless children she has earned our respect. Sister Michel has truly been a valued asset to those students, both in my district and the entire State of Ohio, in which she has been in contact. The children she has taught will become our future leaders, scientists, and teachers.

Sister Michel’s long and distinguished career began in the same area where she grew up, as a native of Sandusky, Ohio. After receiving her degree from Mary Manse College in Toledo, Ohio, and completing graduate work at St. Louis (Missouri) University, Sister Michel returned to the area to begin teaching elementary school at St. Mary Catholic School in Toledo. From that monumental day in 1944, Sister Michel has since served as an administrator and an intermediate schoolteacher. Until her recent retirement, Sister Michel spent the last 18 years educating the children of St. John Elementary in Delphos, Ohio. Not only is Sister Michel a remarkable teacher, but she also is a woman of deep faith who has been greatly involved in the parish communities of which she has served.

Year after year professionals dedicate their lives to the future of America. There is no more important, or challenging, job than that of our nation’s teachers. The job of a teacher is to open a child’s mind to the magic of ideas, knowledge, and dreams. Also, teachers are the true guardians of American democracy by instilling a sense of citizenship in the children they teach. Teachers not only educate but also act as listeners, facilitators, role models, and mentors, encouraging our children to reach further than they would have thought possible. Teachers continue to influence us long after our school days are only memories.

Mr. Speaker, I would ask my colleagues to join me in paying special tribute to Sister Mary Michel. Numerous school children have been served well through the diligence and determination of dedicated teachers, like Sister Michel, who dedicate their lives to educating our youth. I am confident that Sister Michel will continue to serve her community and positively influence others around her. We wish her the very best on this special occasion.

TRIBUTE TO FRED SHONEMAN

HON. NORMAN D. DICKS
OF WASHINGTON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Speaker, earlier this month one of the most visionary builders of my home community of Bremerton died, leaving a legacy of public works improvements that made the City a better place in which to live and work. Fred S. Shoneman spent the early part of his career working for the City of Bremerton, serving for a long tenure as the Public Works Commissioner. Later he served for many years as a commissioner of the Port of Bremerton, during this time, I enjoyed working with him and I was always impressed by his vision and his desire to solve problems that confront cities in transition such as Bremerton.

Fred loved Bremerton for what it was, and even more importantly for what it could be—and that was the secret of his vision. As Public Works Commissioner, he oversaw the locations of bridges that were essential for the growth of the city and its major public employer, Puget Sound Naval Shipyard. He took care of the neighborhood marinas and boat basins, and he worked with the small neighborhood businesses and districts, and he made sure the city’s infrastructure was kept up to date. His later contributions as Port Commissioner represented an era of growth for Bremerton National Airport as well as a time of improvements to the marinas.

In all of these works he was serving the public: he was a man who was constantly available and seeking input from citizens in order to do his job better. What was most remarkable about Fred, and what was certainly evident at the Memorial Service held at the Manette Community Church, was his positive attitude that was almost contagious. Everyone who worked with him and around him appreciated the way he was always more focused on how we CAN get things done, rather thinking up reasons why we should not. So in addition to the legendary, Mr. Speaker, I wanted to note today in the House of Representatives that Fred Shoneman has also left a great legacy of friendship in Bremerton.

I am proud to say that I was among those who knew him, who worked with him, and who are greatly saddened by his passing. I would like to enter into the Record the full text of the news story in The Sun, Bremerton’s daily newspaper, noting how much Fred left an indelible mark on our city.

CIVIC ICON LEFT MARK ON CITY

(By Elena Castañeda)

Long-time Bremerton public servant Fred Shoneman died Saturday.

The 88-year-old succumbed to complications from asthma, a lung disease, son Noel Schoneman said.

As word spread Monday of Schoneman’s death, his friends and family recalled his sense of humor, love of music and persistent work ethic.

“He was a great friend and a great friend to the city of Bremerton,” said local attorney Gordon Walgren.

A city of Bremerton employee for 31 years and Port of Bremerton commissioner for 12 years, Schoneman left his mark all over the city, most notably with the Fred S. Schoneman Overpass that connects 11th Street to Kitsap Way in Bremerton.

Schoneman worked for the city as a field engineer, then a street superintendent and finally served as Bremerton’s public works commissioner from 1960 to 1978. His projects included the original layout of the Warren Avenue Bridge and the city’s first two sewer treatment plants.

He oversaw creation of Gold Mountain Golf Course, widely known as one of the best public golf courses in the state.

Schoneman’s tenure as a Port of Bremerton commissioner in two eras, first in the late 1970s and again from 1986 to 1997. During his tenure, the port made more than $4 million in improvements to Bremerton National Airport and constructed the Bremerton and Port Orchard marinas.

Sometimes, his plans didn’t work out.

There was a plan to build a bridge to wonton and develop a downtown shopping mall.

“He was a very long-range thinker, a visionary,” said Ken Attebery, chief executive officer of the Olympic Peninsula Penguins.

“He was a kind and supportive person to the staff he worked with here.”

Schoneman stood more than 6-feet tall, bringing a commanding presence into the many board, foundation and club meetings he attended.

“He walked into a room and people knew he was there,” Walgren said.

Port Commissioner Mary Ann Huntington said Schoneman “loved Bremerton more than anything else. Huntington served with Schoneman, giving him his first experience at working with a woman who was his equal, she said.

“He wasn’t excited to serve with a woman,” Huntington said. “He didn’t like women in politics. But we grew very fond of each other.

Music was a passion for Schoneman, from his carillon bells that chime in downtown Bremerton, to his talents playing the accordion, harmonica, piano, and mandolin.

“He would take his accordion to conferences and entertain us with it in the evenings,” Huntington said.

Schoneman collected life-affirming expressions.

One written on the board room wall where he held public works meetings read, “Be not concerned, nor be surprised, if what you do is criticized.”

Son Noel said his father prepared family members for his death in recent weeks by bringing them to his apartment at Canterburry Manor for one-on-one talks.

He remembered life growing up in the Schoneman house as “busier,” but his father “always found time for family. It was at least a weekly event going to the local parks.”

Schoneman knew sadness in his life, too. His first wife, Margaret, passed away in 1972.

Schoneman is survived by his second wife, Katherine Lee Schoneman of Bremerton. Other survivors include one sister, Alice Myhre of Bremerton; one son, Noel, of Sammamish; three daughters, Mary Whittaker of seaside, and Sue Brannan and Ellen Combe of Bremerton; three step-children, Casimir Farley of Sandy, Sandra Schumacher of Bremerton and Don Smith of Seattle; and six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

A memorial service is planned for 1 p.m. July 11 at Manette Community Church, in the same neighborhood where he raised his family.

ALLAN P. KIRBY, JR. RECEIVES “OTHERS” AWARD FROM SALVATION ARMY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. KIRBY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to call the attention of the House of Representatives to the well deserved recognition that my good friend Mr. Allan P. Kirby, Jr. recently received from the Salvation Army of the Greater Wyoming Valley Area.

Allan received the Salvation Army’s “OTHERS” Award, which was presented in the area for the first time and is given to an individual or entity that has contributed substantially to the benefit of others.

He was presented with the award at the local Salvation Army’s First Annual Community Recognition Dinner. The purpose of the event is to acknowledge the Kirby Family Foundation, which is a transitional housing program for homeless people looking to make a better life for themselves through a series of classes, self-help... groups, literacy programs and job training, as well as to establish a camp scholarship fund for underprivileged children in the Greater Wyoming Valley area to attend the Salvation Army’s Camp Ladore.

Allan is an entrepreneur known nationwide and a well-respected philanthropist from the Wilkes-Barre area. He was born in Wilkes-Barre and moved to an early age to Morris-town, N.J. He graduated from Lafayette College, where he was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. After completing officer’s school, he served on active duty with the Naval Reserve. He now lives in Mendham, N.J., where he also maintains an office.

Mr. Speaker, Allan’s professional and philanthropic endeavors are far too numerous to list them all here, but I would like to provide the House with an overview.

He is a former treasurer of the Angeline Elizabeth Kirby Memorial Health Center in Wilkes-Barre, which has as its mission the preservation and promotion of the public health, particularly in Wilkes-Barre and neighboring communities, and the control and elimination of disease.

He chairs the A.P. Kirby, Jr. Foundation and the Allan P. Kirby Center for Free Enterprise and Entrepreneurship at Wilkes University. For many years, Allan has been a dedicated trustee for Wilkes University, where I served with him. He also chairs Wilkes’ endowment committee. He is also president of Liberty Square, Inc., and a director and chairman of the executive committee of the Alleghany Corporation, one of the largest holding companies in the United States. Alleghany is the largest single stockholder in American Express and owns Chicago Title Insurance Company and other title and casualty insurers including a large stake in St. Paul Companies.

He is also the owner of River Ridge Farms in Sussex County, N.J. He is the father of five children and 15 grandchildren.

Allan comes from a long line of Kirbys with impressive accomplishments in both their professional and philanthropic endeavors. For example, in the 19th century, at age 23, Fred Morgan Kirby, who was the owner of the Alleghany Corporation, was one of the founding editors of the Wilkes-Barre evening newspaper. In addition, his son, John Andrew Kirby, was a founder of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and the Alleghany Corporation.

Similarly, the family’s commitment to helping others is also long-standing, as shown by the many organizations and community buildings built with Kirby family donations, including those I have already mentioned, as well as the F.M. Kirby Center for the Performing Arts in Wilkes-Barre and the Kirby Hall of Civic Rights at Lafayette College in Easton, among many others.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to call to the attention of the House of Representatives the service to the community of Allan P. Kirby, Jr. and this well-deserved award, and I wish him all the best.

PAYING TRIBUTE TO WILLIAM LORENZEN

HON. SCOTT McINNIS
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, it is with a solemn heart that I take this opportunity to pay respect to the passing of William H. Lorenzen, who recently passed away at the age of 82. William, known as Bill, was the former owner and co-publisher of the Palm Isles Tribune. Bill died on May 6th in Denver, Colorado. As his friends and family mourn the loss of an outstanding husband and father, I would like to take this moment to highlight his achievements before this body of Congress and this nation.

Bill served in the Army Air Corps as a radio operator during WWII where he successfully flew 35 combat missions in B-24’s and for his valiant valor and courage, he was awarded five bronze stars, a silver star, and two Distinguished Flying Crosses. Bill’s service on behalf of freedom should help serve to reinvigorate our nation’s consciousness of the sacrifices made to defend this country. He met and married his wife of 56 years, Margaret Sullivan, in July 1943 while both were in the Army, beginning a family future and legacy passed down through generations. After the war, Bill was active in his civic and public communities, providing Colorado’s youth an upstanding foundation. Bill established himself as a longtime businessman and leader in the Palm Isles community where he owned and operated the Palm Isles Tribune for 26 years. He served six years as Town Trustee, eight years as Mayor and five-and-one-half as Municipal Judge. Bill also played an active role in the Colorado Municipal League and was a director of the League for two terms before serving as president of the Western District of the Colorado Press Association and as a chairman on the legal committee for the Press Association.

After retiring from the Palm Isles Tribune, Bill joined the Palm Isles National Bank as director in 1982 and served on the board until his death. Bill received many distinguished accolades throughout his career including the Distinguished Service Award and was named Citizen of the Year for Palm Isles. Bill is survived by his three children and eight grandchildren. Mr. Speaker, it is with great sadness that we celebrate the life of William H. “Bill” Lorenzen. He was a remarkable man and his impressive accomplishments certainly deserve the recognition that Congress and this nation. I, along with his grateful community and loving family, will miss you Bill.

COMMEMDING PARTICIPANTS IN DEFOREST RELAY FOR LIFE

HON. TAMMY BALDWIN
OF WISCONSIN
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Ms. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, whereas, cancer tragically touches the lives of thousands of our family members, friends, and neighbors, and whereas, it is expected that there will be 25,300 newly diagnosed cases of cancer and 11,000 deaths related to cancer in Wisconsin this year, and whereas, evidence suggests that one-third of cancer deaths are related to nutrition, physical activity, and tobacco use, and could be prevented, and whereas, through education, prevention, early detection, and medical treatment the lives of many have been, and can be saved, and whereas, the people of DeForest have come together for the sixth time to participate in the American Cancer Society Relay For Life to raise money to be used in the battle against cancer, and whereas, in 2001 the DeForest Relay For Life raised over $131,000 that combined with the efforts of 132 other Wisconsin cities funded over $8.8 million for cancer prevention, treatment, education, advocacy, and service; and whereas, the 2002 DeForest Relay For Life brings us one step closer to reaching the American Cancer Society’s goals of a 50-percent reduction in cancer mortality rates and a 25-percent reduction in the incidence of cancer by the year 2015, then,

Therefore, I, Representative Tammy Baldwin, as a member of the United States Congress and strong supporter of increased access to cancer prevention, diagnostic, and treatment therapies, commend the strides of each relay team participant, event volunteer, and the spirit of our community in this fight against cancer.

HONORING OLIVER ESPINOLA

HON. GEORGE RADANOVICH
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. RADANOVICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Oliver Espinola, a Madera County resident, on the occasion of being selected to receive the Madera District Chamber of Commerce Salute to Agriculture’s 21st Annual Senior Farmer of the Year Award.

Oliver has been involved in farming for 55 years and has lived in Madera County for 52 years. In 1951, Oliver and his family moved from Caruthers, California, to Chowchilla, California, and has been involved in farming corn, silage, hay, oats, trees, beef cattle, and dairy cattle. Mr. Espinola has served the farm industry and the community in many aspects including serving as Director and Chairman of the Danish Creamery Board and the Challenge Dairy Products Board, serving on the Board of the United States Congress.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Oliver Espinola for his admirable service and contributions to the farming industry. I invite my colleagues to join me in congratulating him on his outstanding achievement and wishing him many more years of success.
Mr. DOOLITTLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce the Premier Certified Lenders Program Improvement Act of 2002. This legislation makes a small but very significant change in the PCL program that will benefit hundreds of small businesses around the country without imposing any new burden on the Federal Government or U.S. Treasury.

As my colleagues no doubt recognize, small businesses are the backbone of our nation. Indeed, Dr. Lloyd Blanchard of the Small Business Administration (SBA) testified recently before Congress, “Today, almost a quarter of American households are either starting a business, own a business, or investing in someone else’s business.” The United States economy depends on entrepreneurs whose spirit results in the creation of both new businesses and new jobs.

To continue the economic growth we are experiencing today, the Government should encourage small business development both by providing incentives for entrepreneurs and by removing regulatory hurdles. One successful example of Government encouragement of small business is the Premier Certified Lenders Program (PCLP). The PCLP, established in 1997, allows a participating Certified Development Company (CDC) the expanded authority under the Program. However, the change in the PCL program that will benefit participating CDCs is required to deposit one percent of each loan-by-loan loss reserve account with the SBA, and there is no accounting for the historical retention of these excess reserve funds that hinders participating CDCs from reaching their full potential to foster economic development, create job opportunities, and stimulate growth, expansion, and modernization of small businesses.

The legislation I am introducing today will improve the Premier Certified Lenders Program by allowing participating CDCs greater flexibility. Specifically, my legislation amends the Premier Certified Lenders Program to allow willing CDCs to establish “risk-based” loss reserve accounts that are sufficient to protect the Government and taxpayers from default, but that do not contain excessive amounts of capital that would be better dedicated to helping additional small businesses. Mr. Speaker, maintaining a risk-based reserve is just common sense. Other industries, such as the banking industry, have already moved from a “loan-by-loan” reserve to a “pool” reserve to cover their exposure.

Under my legislation, a participating CDC will be able to establish a risk-based reserve only if it: (1) proves itself to be an established PCL (minimum of $25,000 in its loss reserve account); (2) freely elects to develop such a reserve; (3) obtains quarterly approval from a third-party auditor that its loss reserve is sufficient to cover its risk of default; and (4) receives annual approval from the SBA. These requirements will ensure that participating CDCs are accountable and that U.S. taxpayers are protected.

I hope my colleagues will take an opportunity to review this legislation to improve the Premier Certified Lenders Program. I look forward to working with them and the Small Business Committee, chaired by my friend, Don Manzullo, to encourage the creation and expansion of more small businesses across our nation.

Mr. Speaker, Juanita Martinez encompassed the qualities of a true community volunteer, and she and her efforts will be dearly missed. I, along with her loving family and grateful community, will mourn her loss.

Paying Tribute to Juanita Jenny Martinez

HON. SCOTT McINNIS
OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, tonight I pay tribute to the passing of Juanita Martinez, who was selflessly committed to the betterment of Pueblo. After a long battle, Juanita succumbed to the effects of cancer on June 30, 2002. As her family mourns the loss, I would like to highlight her life before this body of Congress and this nation.

Juanita Martinez was an avid dancer who provided lessons free of charge, and even taught costume design. She was the first Chicana dance instructor to teach Mexican folk dancing at the University of Southern Colorado, and choreographed the dance for the Colorado State Fair’s First Annual Fiesta Day celebration. She also frequently performed at Memorial Hall in Pueblo as a young Zaragoza Hall dancer, whose styles mirrored Mexican folk dances to reflect her beloved heritage. Her most famous dance escapade resulted when she performed with then-presidential candidate Ronald Reagan during a campaign stop at the Colorado Republican State Convention.

During World War II, enterprising students in JA business clubs used their ingenuity to find new and different products for the war effort. In Chicago, JA students won a contract to manufacture 10,000 pangs hangers for the U.S. Army. In Pittsburgh, JA students developed and made a specially lined box to carry off incendiary devices, which was approved by the Civil Defense and sold locally. Elsewhere, JA students made baby incubators and used acetylene torches in abandoned locomotive yards to obtain badly needed scrap iron.

It is with great regret that on the day such as S. Bayard Colgate, James Cash Penney, Joseph Sprang of Gillette and others helped the organization grow rapidly. Stories of Junior Achievement’s accomplishments and of its students soon appeared in national magazines of the day such as Time, Young America, Colliers, Life, the Ladies Home Journal and Liberty.

In the 1950s, Junior Achievement began working more closely with schools and saw its growth increase five-fold. In 1955, President Eisenhower declared the week of January 30 to February 5 as “National Junior Achievement Week.” At this point, Junior Achievement was operating in 139 cities and in most of the 50 states. During its first 45 years of existence, Junior Achievement enjoyed an average annual growth rate of 45 percent.

To further connect students to influential figures in business, economics, and history, Junior Achievement started the Junior Achievement National Business Hall of Fame in 1975 to recognize outstanding leaders. Each year, a number of business leaders are recognized for their contribution to the business industry and for their dedication to the Junior Achievement experience. Today, there are 200 laureates from a variety of backgrounds.

By 1982, Junior Achievement’s formal curricula offering had expanded to Applied Economics, now called JA Economics, Project Business, and Business Basics. In 1988, more than one million students per year were estimated to take part in Junior Achievement programs. In the early 1990s, a sequential curriculum for grades K–6 was launched, catalyzing the organization into the classrooms of another one million elementary school students.

Today, through the efforts of more than 102,000 volunteers in the classrooms of America, Junior Achievement reaches more than four million students in grades K–12 per year. JA International takes the free enterprise message of hope and opportunity even further to nearly two million students in 113 countries. Junior Achievement has been an influential part of many of today’s successful entrepreneurs and business leaders. Junior Achievement’s success is truly the story of America—the fact that one idea can influence and benefit many lives.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to extend my heartfelt congratulations to Barbara Lyon of Huntington Beach for her outstanding service to Junior Achievement and the students of California. I am proud to have her as a constituent and congratulate her on her accomplishment.

IN RECOGNITION OF HEIDELBERG COLLEGE AND ITS NATIONALLY RENOWNED WATER QUALITY LABORATORY

HON. PAUL E. GILLMOR
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. GILLMOR. Mr. Speaker, to encourage stewardship of our nation’s water resources, and in honor of the 30th Anniversary of the Clean Water Act, Congress, along with a number of the country’s governors and national organizations, has proclaimed 2002 as the Year of Clean Water. This October 18 marks National Water Quality Monitoring Day, the day the Clean Water Act of 1972 was signed into law.

In anticipation of this date, it is with great pride that I rise today to recognize Heidelberg College and its nationally renowned Water Quality Laboratory. This outstanding institution of higher education, located in Ohio’s Fifth Congressional District, has been working over the past 33 years to provide invaluable water quality research data, further protecting and restoring our rivers, streams, wetlands, lakes, and groundwater resources. Heidelberg’s Water Quality Laboratory is a unique monitoring, research, and educational organization with a mission to conduct research supporting state and federal water quality management programs. At the state level, in recognition of the lab’s many years of service to Ohio and Lake Erie, the Water Quality Laboratory received a special Ohio Lake Erie Commission Award in 1999.

The Water Quality Laboratory is nationally and internationally recognized in scientific circles for the quality of its research and the great detail of its databases on water quality. Among U.S. studies on water quality in agricultural watersheds, Heidelberg’s is the most detailed and longest in duration. The Water Quality Laboratory’s well water program is unique in focusing on private rural well conditions. Scientists and government agencies frequently request data from these programs. On several occasions, the lab has provided the majority of the data available to examine regional or national water quality issues and implications for our environment and human health. Staff members are frequently consulted by both government and industry for their expertise in the interpretation of water quality data.

The college has currently undertaken an expansion of its Water Quality Laboratory facilities and is poised to make even greater contributions to the state of our nation’s water quality in years to come.

Mr. Speaker, in this Year of Clean Water, Heidelberg’s continued efforts to protect our nation’s water resources should not go unnoticed. For that, we owe Heidelberg College our recognition, gratitude, and congratulations. I would urge my colleagues to stand and join me in paying special tribute to Heidelberg College and its nationally renowned Water Quality Laboratory, by designating the Water Quality Laboratory of National Center for Water Quality Research.

HONORING HIS EMINENCE THE MOST REVEREND JOHN T. STEINBOCK

OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, today I stand before you and this nation to applaud the accomplishments of Mr. Steve Arveschoug. Mr. Arveschoug’s hard work and dedication to his field, the facilitation of Colorado’s water system, has truly been an inspiration to all. His practical rationalization of increasing problems proved his ability to account not only for immediate reactions to decisions, but long-term repercussions as well. He has selflessly dedicated himself to the well being of others, and he is certainly deserving of our recognition today.

Steve Arveschoug began his career managing KCSJ and KIDN radio stations, later switching to working in state and federal politics. He ran for the position of state representative in the northwest Pueblo County area and stayed in the legislature until 1992 when he retired to spend more time with his family. He later took interest in local water rights issues and began to research water policies for the State of Colorado. He worked for me as District Director and will soon be going to Cortez, where I look forward to continuing our relationship.

In 1995, Mr. Arveschoug took over the job of general manager of the Southeastern Colorado Water Conservancy District and immediately began investigating a number of perspectives in current water issues to allow him to adequately represent all the members of his district. He applied himself to his job with the utmost dedication and stood by the position that a compromise could always be reached when available water resources could be managed to serve the people, the environment, and recreational activities. He created water replacement programs for large-scale wells... and supported the Preferred Storage Options Plan, designed to enlarge sections of the Pueblo and Turquoise Reservoirs.

Mr. Speaker, it gives me immense pleasure to stand before you today and show my appreciation to Steve Arveschoug for his commitment towards the betterment of his community. I congratulate him on his new job and wish him all the best in his dedication and commitment to excellence and service and wish him luck with all of his future endeavors.

SPEECH OF

HON. W.J. (BILLY) TAUZIN
OF LOUISIANA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, July 22, 2002

Mr. TAUZIN. Mr. Speaker, no one know precisely when it was, though most historians agree that in the 1840’s, on the Elysian Fields in New Jersey, a group of men led by Alexander Joy Cartwright began to play what would later develop into baseball. In the ensuing century and a half, much has changed in America, but this magical game endures.

From Cap Anson and Cy Young to Sammy Sosa and Randy Johnson, the men who have played professional baseball have served as an inspiration to America’s children, both boys and girls. As far back as the turn of the century, the great stars recognized their impact on the children of the nation. Perhaps the greatest shortstop of all-time, Honus Wagner, demanded that his name be not associated with certain products so as not to encourage children to take up the game.

The men who have played this game, our national past-time, have inspired us both with their athletic accomplishments as well as their human achievements. The list of memorable events and remarkable feats of athleticism are long: Cy Young with his 511 wins; Babe Ruth’s mammoth home runs; Walter Johnson’s side-arm fastball; Lou Gehrig’s 2,130 consecutive game streak; Ted Williams’ .406 in 1941, the same year Joe DiMaggio had a 56 game hit streak; the great Jackie Robinson integrating the pastime; Bobby Thomson taking Ralph Branca deep in the “shot heard ’round the world”; Willie Mays’ unbelievable over the shoulder catch; Don Larson’s perfect game in the 1956 World Series; Bill Mazeroski’s home run to win the 1960 World Series; Sandy Koufax’s curveball; Bob Gibson’s intimidation; The Amazin’ Mets incredible run in 1969; Carlton Fisk waving the home run fair in game six; Reggie Jackson’s three home runs in 1977; Nolan Ryan’s seven no-hitters and 5000+ strikeouts; Kirk Gibson hollering out of the dugout to hit the game-winning home run in the 1988 World Series; Joe Carter ending the 1993 World Series with a home run in the bottom of the ninth; Edgar Renteria winning an improbable World Series for the Marlins with an extra-inning single; Cal Ripken breaking Gehrig’s streak; the Mark McGwire/Sammy Sosa home run duel; and just last year, the heroics of Derek Jeter and Scott Brosius eclipsed by the timely hitting of Luis Gonzalez in one of the best World Series of all-time, the very same year that Barry Bonds hit 73 home runs. These are just a few of the moments which have defined our game and its impact on the incredible, positive, and laudable personalities and graciousness of such players as Babe Ruth, Jackie Robinson and Cal Ripken—unites the social fabric of our country. Its place in the pantheon of American culture should be protected from all who seek to tarnish its image.

My friends, now is not the time for America’s pastime to disappoint its fans or set a bad example for our youth. Professional baseball players have an opportunity to lift a dark cloud from this most cherished game. They can move immediately to a new era of mandatory drug testing for performance enhancing drugs. This should not be the subject of a great national debate. Rather, players should recognize a simple fact: America’s children are watching you. You are their role models. Children will learn from your actions.

Mr. Speaker, I thank you for moving this resolution to the floor. I commend Mrs. Johnson for focusing on this important issue and allowing me to reminisce on the importance of our national pastime. There can be nothing more important than setting a good example for the youth of our country. This resolution reflects that fact and tries to restore some of the pride our nation feels for this timeless sport.

RECOGNIZING TWENTY YEARS OF SERVICE OF THE LINKS INC.
SOUTHERN MARYLAND CHAIN CHAPTER

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the 20th Anniversary of the Links, Inc.—Southern Maryland Chain Chapter. The Links, Inc., is an organization of nearly 10,000 women with 270 chapters located in 40 States, the District of Columbia, Nassau, Bahamas and Frankfort, Germany. Members are men... individual achievers who are making a difference in the communities and lives of African Americans and persons of African descent across the globe.

The Links, Inc.—Southern Maryland Chain Chapter began in 1980 as an interest group led by the vision of Albertine T. Lancaster. After two decades of community projects within Calvert, Charles and St. Mary’s counties, the 26 dynamic women were installed into the Links, Inc.

Today, President Sandra Billups and the Southern Maryland Chain Chapter have 30 members who continue to build links of service to those in need. The Chapter is strongly rooted in building friendships and volunteering their services to fill needs locally and globally.

The work of these dedicated women has created financial opportunities and support to so many.

Today, I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating the dedicated, distinctive and diligent women of the Links, Inc.—Southern Maryland Chain Chapter for 20 years of outstanding service to Southern Maryland communities. The Links, Inc. continue to sponsor such projects as the Annual College Scholarship, African American Family Fun Fest, Annual Civic Luncheon, Project Lead: High Expectations and Tri-County shelters.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud of the Links, Inc.—Southern Maryland Chain Chapter and the virtuous women that serve daily for their commitment to excellence and am honored to recognize their many contributions to making Southern Maryland a stronger, more responsive community.

PAYING TRIBUTE TO FRED STAHL

HON. SCOTT McINNIS

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, today I have the honor of recognizing the accomplishments and life of Fred Stahl, of the Western Slope of Colorado. For the past twenty-five years, Mr. Stahl has greatly contributed to the preservation of Colorado’s resources in his duties at the Plant Insectary Division of the Colorado State Department of Agriculture. His selfless contributions to his community are quite deserving of our recognition and I am honored to bring forth his accomplishments before you today.

Fred Stahl began his environmental preservation career after he graduated from Colorado State University in 1977 with a Masters of Botany and Plant Pathology. When he joined the Plant Insectary Division on April 22, 1977, he immediately began working to reverse the adverse impact of immigration to the ecosystem in Colorado, which were caused by the transportation of unnatural organisms from other countries. He is credited with reducing the amount of pesticide use in Colorado by providing farmers with alternative, environmentally safe methods of pest control. These new methods of pest control have lowered agricultural production costs, decreased the amounts of toxins deposited into the environment, and offered various pest-control options to the farming community.

Mr. Speaker, I stand before you to show my appreciation to Mr. Stahl for his efforts to preserve the environment and natural beauty of Colorado. He has truly set an example for not only his community, but also the entire state. I am honored to praise his accomplishment before this Body of Congress and this nation today. Good luck to you, Fred in your retirement and all your future endeavors.

RECOGNIZING MATTHEW J. HOGAN FOR HIS APPOINTMENT AS DEPUTY DIRECTOR OF THE U.S. FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE

HON. MIKE THOMPSON

HON. CHARLES W. “CHIP” PICKERING

OF MISSISSIPPI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. THOMPSON of California, Mr. Speaker, we rise today to congratulate Matthew J. Hogan on his appointment by Department of Interior Secretary Gale Norton to be the Deputy Director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Since 1998 Matt has served as the Director of Conservation Policy for the Congressional Sportsmen’s Foundation and was leaving July 26th to assume his new position with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

During his four years at the Congressional Sportsmen’s Foundation Matt was the liaison between the hunting, fishing and conservation community and the Congressional Sportsmen’s Caucus, on which we serve as co-chairs. Matt has played an important role in increasing the value of the Caucus to the hunting and fishing community and furthering the Foundation’s role as a conduit between the two.

Before his tenure at the Congressional Sportsmen’s Foundation Matt served as the Government Affairs Manager for Safari Club International where he was the liaison to Congress on hunting and conservation issues. Prior to that, Matt was a Legislative Assistant, and later Legislative Director for the Honorable Pete Geren (D-TX).

Mr. Speaker, it is appropriate that at this time to recognize Matthew J. Hogan for his outstanding service to the sportsmen, wildlife conservation organizations and the Congressional Sportsmen’s Caucus. We believe his dedicated service will continue with his appointment as Deputy Director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Please join us in congratulating him and wishing him the best of luck.

EXPRESSING CONCERNS ABOUT THE FEDERAL BUDGET

HON. NORMAN D. DICKS

OF WASHINGTON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. DICKS. Speaker, since the passage of the President’s tax cut bill last year, I have been very concerned about the effects such a massive decrease in federal revenues could have on our ability to meet the other critical needs of the United States—Social Security, Medicare, education and national security among them. In Monday’s New York Times, Janet Yellen, a professor of economics and business at the University at California at Berkeley, wrote this interesting analysis of the tax cut and its long term effects on the national economy. I would like to submit this article for consideration by my colleagues.

From the New York Times, July 22, 2002

THE BINGE MENTALITY IN THE FEDERAL BUDGET

(By Janet Yellen)

BERKELEY, CALIF.—We read in the news of the flight of older Americans to their nest eggs, invested in the stock market, have dwindled. Some can no longer afford to retire as planned; others are going back to work.

The stock market bubble of the late 1990’s, with its dreams of double-digit gains as far as the eye could see, was based on illusion, not reality. Now we know it. Irrational exuberance fed the bubble. Accounting tricks that inflated reported corporate earnings re-informed investor optimism. Insiders reaped huge gains; investors and employees saw their savings tank.

Another equally pernicious set of illusions—created by the same binge mentality—surrounded the federal budget, but has so far received less public notice because the negative effects have not yet surfaced. The budget binge is supported by the same kinds of unrealistic projections of revenues, low-balling of spending and obtuse accounting that are now the focus of the Wall Street scandals. But the impact in this arena could prove even more enduring than the current problems on Wall Street. Those counting on Social Security for their retirement, along with future workers, in due course will be left high and dry.

The perpetrators of the budget binge—President Bush and Congress—are sacrificing the public’s long-term welfare for their own short-term political gains. In the case of Enron, the company’s long-run stability was sacrificed for inflated stock prices in the short run. In the case of the federal budget, the health of Social Security and other programs is being sacrificed for affordable tax cuts. The motivation is the same: the decision makers don’t believe they should be accountable for the long-run problems. Kenneth Lay walked away from Enron with millions, while the president and the members in Congress will be gone from office before the effects of the budget policies are fully felt.

Americans are told that we can have it all: more defense and more education; more homeland security and more agricultural subsidies; and a Medicare prescription drug benefit, in addition to last year’s multi-trillion dollar tax cut. On top of all this, we’re told that it’s possible to fix Social Security—which is expected to exhaust its trust fund in 2041 if no action is taken.

These promises, of course, did not add up even in official budget projections, which uneconomically assumed high and inflation-adjusted discretionary spending, no relief for the 33 million taxpayers who, in the absence of a remedy, will unexpectedly face the personal tax. None of this was possible to fix Social Security could be repaired painlessly, by allowing younger workers to divert a portion of their Social Security payroll tax into individual accounts. Since the stock market has historically offered higher returns than government bonds and substantially more than Social Security, he suggested that such new-found investment freedom would repair the finances of the retirement system. With the fall in the stock market, we now see that a secure, defined-benefit pension has its merits after all. Imagine the political pressures for bailouts in the face of the current stock market slide if Social Security included individual accounts!

Even absent the falling stock market, privatization of Social Security has a fatal flaw: it can only be achieved at huge budgetary cost. Under the current system, the yearly Social Security payroll tax pays the older generation's benefits. If Social Security is privatized, so that the younger generation diverts part of its taxes into individual accounts, then the government must finance, at enormous cost, the retirement of the older generation. It's like a family that hands down its clothes from one brother to the next somewhere along the way a brother gets to keep his clothes, the family has to head to the mall.

The left tax cut for the missing generation of clothes was disclosed in December, but without the emphasis it deserved, in the report of the President's Commission to Strengthen Social Security. This commission was supposed to devise a scheme of individual accounts without jeopardizing the benefits of current or near-term retirees. Two plans proposed by the commission would add the long-term deficit in Social Security. Both plans entail large benefit reductions for future retirees while still requiring substantial infusions of cash into the Social Security system.

This is the bottom line: there is no silver bullet of Social Security. Any privatization plan is likely to require a lot of cash to make it politically viable. Yet Mr. Bush allocates trillions of dollars to permanent tax cuts, and not a single additional dime to Social Security. Forging parts of the president's tax cut that will take effect over the next decade could provide the funds necessary to address the Social Security gap.

We can't afford this budget binge of irresponsible debt. Any plan based on unrealistic accounting. Earnings projections that sound too good to be true on Wall Street have turned out to be illusions, even though the public desperately wanted to believe in those numbers. The same is true with bad numbers in the federal budget—the principles of arithmetic can't be denied. If the tax cuts are left in place, high-income individuals, including billionaires exempted from estate taxes, stand to gain while future retirees and taxpayers will lose.

President Bush has called for honest accounting in corporate America. The administration could set an example with an honest budget that retirees will cherish as the nest egg they depend on and not, their Social Security benefits. And to make that a reality, Congress should repeal the tax cuts that have not yet been phased in.

HONORING NATIONAL 4-H PROGRAM'S 100TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. RODNEY P. FRELINGHUYSEN
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, as the National 4-H program celebrates its 100th Anniversary, I rise in honor of this, great milestone.

Under the U.S. Department of Agriculture, today's 4-H program began as a series of clubs for boys and girls in rural America, originally aimed at teaching youngsters skills related to agriculture with a learning-by-doing approach. While the program has grown in scope to encompass a wide array of subject matter, hands-on learning remains a core curriculum of the 4-H.

New Jersey's 4-H clubs are administered on a county government level through the Rutgers Cooperative Extension Office. Each club has a particular project area that they concentrate on.

HONORING NATIONAL 4-H PROGRAM'S 100TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. JOHN S. TANNER OF TENNESSEE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. TANNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in recognition of my long-time personal friend, Dr. James M. Powers, for his invaluable dedication and leadership to our community. Dr. Powers is a past mayor of Waverly, Tennessee, and has run one of middle Tennessee's largest private dental practices. He has proven time and time again that he is a leader among his peers, and now all our best wishes go with him and his family as he sets into retirement.

Dr. Powers contributed to the community through his political leadership. He was elected mayor of Waverly and served in that position for 19 years. During his tenure as mayor, he assisted in the development of a new city hall, opened a police department, upgraded the water system and helped attract several companies to Waverly. He served at the state level on the Tennessee Water Quality Control Board and the Tennessee Arts Commission, and was chairman of the Tennessee Higher Education Commission.

An alumnus of Austin Peay State University, Southwestern at Memphis, and the University of Tennessee, Dr. Powers moved back to our area and with his brother helped build a highly successful dental practice that will continue to help people in our community. He also served two years in the United States Army Dental Corps.

He has proven his dedication and leadership in dentistry through his membership in several associations, including the American Dental Association, Nashville Dental Society, Tennessee Dental Association, Academy of General Dentistry, Fellow of the American College of Dentists, and Fellow of the International College of Dentists. He was also named outstanding alumnus of the University of Tennessee College of Dentistry.

Dr. James Powers and his wife Helen have four children and three grandchildren and have established themselves as true leaders in Middle Tennessee. While Dr. Powers begins this new chapter in his life, I am hopeful that they will continue to be leaders in our community.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that you and our colleagues join me in thanking Dr. James M. Powers for his years of selfless service and leadership in our community.

Paying tribute to Alan Wayne Wyatt

HON. SCOTT McINNIS
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, it is with a solemn heart that I take this opportunity to pay tribute to the untimely death of a fallen firefighter who gave his life in defense of this nation's forests and the people of Colorado. Alan Wayne Wyatt, 51, of Moore's Hollow in eastern Oregon, was killed by a flame-weakened tree or what firefighters sometimes call a "widowmaker", while fighting the Missionary Ridge Fire, which has been burning since June 11th.

Alan worked as a firefighter, cattle rancher, and cattle saddle maker, and was considered by many to be a "modern cowboy". Alan was a loving husband and father of two and was known to his family as a man who took his job seriously and never undertook a job without the utmost caution to threats of danger. He died fighting a fire, which he understood was out of control, and needed containment. Allen is a hero in the true sense of the word and is survived by his wife, Vicky Wyatt; Evans; and Wells Wyatt, all of Oregon. Alan was a knowledgeable and skilled firefighter who will always be remembered as a man of character and a love of nature, his family, and God.

Mr. Speaker, it is with profound sadness that we remember the life of firefighter Alan Wayne Wyatt. His death highlights the great risks that firefighters encounter day in and day out while on the job and we will truly remember Alan as a brave man who died in defense of life. His sacrifice most certainly deserves the recognition of this body of Congress and this nation. I along with a grateful nation and a loving family will miss you, Alan.

TRIBUTE TO THE BUSINESS OWNERS, CITIZENS AND VOLUNTEERS OF CHARLES COUNTY, MARYLAND

HON. STENY H. HOYER OF MARYLAND
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the tremendous community spirit shown by the people of Charles County, Maryland. As my colleagues may know, a devastating tornado ripped through Southern Maryland on April 29, 2002 destroying the town of La Plata and creating a 24 mile path of destruction. Not only were homes and businesses leveled, but farms and government buildings were heavily damaged. Under the circumstances, you would think that a tornado of this magnitude would cripple an area. Not in Southern Maryland and particularly not in La Plata.

Immediately following the tornado, the residents took to the streets to check on friends and neighbors. Once everyone was accounted for, the clean-up efforts began. Under the leadership of the Mayor of La Plata, William Eckman, and the Charles County Commissioners, directed by Board President Murray Levy, an immediate plan of action was put into place and countless hours were spent with residents and business owners, surveying each situation and assisting wherever possible. A “People’s Place” was set up to offer a myriad of services ranging from food, water and shelter, to helping people find lost pets. Clothing and money poured into the area, but most of all people banded together to help their neighbors rebuild their lives.

Volunteers came from across the States of Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania, as well as the District of Columbia to assist in removing debris left behind by this vicious storm. SMECO Vornado ramped up a full time shuttle service. The Charles County Transportation had staff working round the clock to restore electrical power, establish valuable communication systems and clear the roadways. The Amish communities of Maryland and Pennsylvania donated much-needed manpower to get the Town of La Plata up on its feet again.

The Charles County Chapter of the American Red Cross went into immediate action, once the tornado passed, even though their own building was destroyed. Mr. Paul Fachchina had a “mini business district” set up for the business owners to get back up and running. The Charles County Chamber of Commerce offered office space and business services to companies in need and for days following the disaster local churches and other civic organizations offered food to the hundreds of volunteers.

Mr. Speaker, it has often been said that the “worst of times, bring out the best in people” and on behalf of the many, many grateful residents and business owners in La Plata, I want to say thank you to all the volunteers who gave of themselves so unselfishly. A disaster occurred, and people came from all walks of life to help in any way they could. It did not matter how big, or how small a job, volunteers were available to lend a helping hand. This is the true spirit of America and it was shining bright and continues to beam forward in Charles County, Maryland.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. BOB CLEMENT OF TENNESSEE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Speaker, I missed the votes on rolloca Nos. 324 and 325. Had I been present, I would have voted “yea.”

RECOGNIZING THE OUTSTANDING SERVICE OF MR. GORDON VEAZEY

HON. JOHN S. TANNER OF TENNESSEE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. TANNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in recognition of my friend Gordon Veazey for his 14 years of dedicated service to our nation’s veterans. Now, Mr. Veazey begins a new chapter in his life as he retires from his position as Henry County veteran service officer. I ask that the United States House of Representatives thank him for his selfless service.

Mr. Veazey’s father, the late Bailey Veazey, was gassed by German soldiers during World War I, causing him serious health problems and limitations. He died in 1941. Mr. Veazey’s mother, Corinne Veazey, lived to age 87.

Mr. Veazey was appointed to the office in 1987 after working at Paris Manufacturing Company. During his tenure, he has assisted more than 2,000 veterans in our community in receiving the vital services and claim benefits they deserve and depend upon.

We care deeply about our veterans and their courageous service to this great nation. Through Mr. Veazey’s leadership he has set an example for future veteran officers who will serve our friends, neighbors, and children whom are fighting in the war today. We should all be proud and honored to have had such a dedicated man working for our nation’s veterans.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to ask that you and our colleagues join me in applauding the selfless service and dedication Mr. Veazey has contributed to our nations veterans.

PAYING TRIBUTE TO JEFF HAMMOND

HON. SCOTT McINNIS OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to pay tribute to Jeff Hammond, an individual who has selflessly devoted countless hours towards the betterment of his community. In June of this year, Jeff was named “Volunteer of the Year,” by the United Way Organization. Jeff is a hard working, determined, attentive individual whose selfless dedication certainly deserves the admiration of this body of Congress and this nation.

Jeff is an active participant in the Craig Youth Soccer program and in addition, he is an active community volunteer who donates his time to helping the community. This entirely volunteer league could not have made the strides in the development of the youth without Jeff’s contributions. Jeff donates his time equally to supporting religious functions, fundraisers, car pools, and the Northwest Colorado All-Star Wildkat cheerleading squad.

Although Jeff’s busy schedule envelopes most of his time, he first and foremost devotes his time to his family duties, as a father and husband do not interfere. He and his wife have been married for 12 years and are the proud parents of two children.

Mr. Speaker it is with great pleasure that I honor Jeff’s accomplishments and achievements before this body of Congress and this nation. Jeff Hammond’s service to our community has helped strengthen the foundation upon which our great nation was founded and it is with great appreciation I await further successes and achievements in all your endeavors.

HONORING CORINNE “LINDY” CLAIBORNE BOGGS ON OCCASION OF 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF FOUNCING OF CONGRESSIONAL WOMEN’S CAUCUS

SPEECH OF

HON. WILLIAM J. JEFFERSON OF LOUISIANA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, July 22, 2002

Mr. JEFFERSON. Mr. Speaker, it is my great pleasure to join the House in honoring Congresswoman Corrine “Lindy” Boggs. From her work here, in the halls of Congress, to her days as ambassador to the Vatican, Congresswoman Boggs has served our country and served as an inspiration to all of us who followed in her footsteps. As one who was privileged to succeed her in Congress representing Louisiana’s Second Congressional District, I have been particularly inspired by her work.

Congresswoman Boggs has enjoyed a well-deserved outpouring of love and gratitude in CONTINUING AZERI WAR Rhetoric Threatens Peace
HON. JOE KNOLLENBERG OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002
Mr. KNOLLENBERG. Mr. Speaker, I rise to call my colleagues’ attention to the continuing war rhetoric coming from Azerbaijan regarding Nagorno Karabagh. Following the fall of the Soviet Union, Azerbai djain launched a military offensive against Nagorno Karabagh in a failed attempt to impose its rule. In 1994, a cease-fire was negotiated which is still in effect. However, that fragile cease-fire is presently being undermined by calls for a military solution from senior Azeri officials. A recent example was in a July 2, 2002 speech by Azeri President Heydar Aliyev where he said, “we will return our land by any means.” This type of irresponsible war rhetoric makes the OSCE peace mission co-chaired by the United States incalculably more difficult and serves to mislead the citizens of Azerbai djain into thinking a second military offensive is preferable to negotiations. The United States must stand strongly against Azerbaijan’s threats to insure a peace ful resolution to this dispute.

NATHAN WEINBERG
HON. BENJAMIN L. CARDIN OF MARYLAND
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002
Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to ask my colleagues to recognize the accomplish ments of Nathan Weinberg and thank him for his service to his country and his commu nity as he retires as a trustee of the Harry and Jeannette Weinberg Foundation and his ap pointment as Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army.

After his family emigrated from Eastern Eu rope, Nathan Weinberg, the sixth of seven children, was born in America in 1917. In 1941, he was inducted into the U.S. Army and on December 25, 1945, Mr. Weinberg was discharged as a 2nd Lieutenant after service in Texas, Australia, New Guinea and the Philip ppines. After returning home to Baltimore, Mr. Weinberg worked in real estate and lived briefly in Texas and Pennsylvania working on busi ness interests of his brother, Harry Weinberg. He remained a member of the standby re serve until October 1995 when he was honorably discharged.

In 1960, Mr. Weinberg became an active of icer and trustee of the Harry and Jeannette Weinberg Foundation. Since his brother Har ry’s death in 1990, Mr. Weinberg has re mained one of five trustees to the Foundation, which is one of the largest private foundations in the United States. His leadership on the board has included projects supported by his brother, particularly housing and amenities for the elderly from Coney Island to Tel Aviv to Hawaii.

Mr. Weinberg was appointed Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army in 2000. His military experience and his dedication to the Maryland Army National Guard has provided leadership, friendship and financial support for community outreach.

Mr. Weinberg has a strong sense of family and a firmly held belief in equality and equi table treatment for all people. At ground breakings and ribbon cuttings, he is not shy about expressing his concern for the welfare of the audience, unhappy that the dignitaries receive special treatment while the audience is left to stand, swelter in the heat or freeze in the cold. His sense of justice guides his deal ings with others and he expects others to pass along that philosophy as well. He is a leader by example and deeds.

I would ask my colleagues to please join me in congratulating Mr. Weinberg on a life well lived and in thanking him for his service to his country. Our appreciation extends to his fam ily, his wife Lillian and his three sons, Donn, Glenn and Joseph their wives and children.

EXCELLENCE IN MILITARY SERVICE ACT
HON. HOWARD COBLE OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002
Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to in roduce the “Excellence in Military Service Act.”

This legislation would increase the active duty service obligation (ADO) of Military Service Academy graduates from five to eight years. Many Americans do not realize that this free and highly competitive college education costs the average taxpayer approximately $300,000 per cadet/midshipman. While I believe that investing in our military is critical to the future stability of our nation, I do not think it is fair to burden the taxpayer with this expense without requiring academy graduates to make a similar commitment in their ADSO. I maintain it is not unreasonable that in return for a free education, with a mon etary allowance, that a graduating cadet/mid shipman be required to commit to a longer pe riod of obligated service upon commissioning.

As college tuitions continue to skyrocket, I believe our U.S. military academies will be come even more attractive to prospective col lege students. In light of this fact, we need to ensure that a free education does not become a primary motivating factor for applicants. I maintain that increasing the ADSO is an effec tive way to accomplish this without jeopardiz ing the viability of these historic institutions. I hope my colleagues will join with me in co sponsoring this legislation, and I look forward to working with them to ensure that taxpayers’ investment in our nation’s future and ensure the integrity of one of our nation’s most precious resources.

HUNGER RELIEF
HON. MARTIN OLAV SABO OF MINNESOTA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002
Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, today I join my col leagues in honoring my friend, Congressman TONY P. HALL, a tireless advocate for hunger relief programs and improving human rights conditions. Congressman HALL’S 30 plus years of serv ice to the people of Ohio is indicative of the dedication he holds for improving the lives of all Americans. No one compares to TONY when it comes to his experience and knowl edge on human rights, child welfare and sur vival, and global development. It has been a distinct privilege to serve in the House with him for the past 23 years.

Mr. HALL and I hold a special bond, not only did we both begin our service in the House in January 1979, but we also have experience serving in our state’s legislatures. In the begin ning, we were able to draw on these similar ities the trappings and pitfalls facing new members of Congress, and then use this knowledge to grow as public servants and leg islators.

Tony will soon be embarking on a new ad venture. He’ll bring his lifelong devotion to easing hunger across the globe and improving food security to Rome, Italy as he assumes the position of United States ambassador to the United Nations food and agriculture orga nizations. I think it is safe to say that we can send no one who would better represent the United States in these important institutions.

So, Mr. Speaker, it is with great honor that I extend my sincerest thanks to my friend, Congressman TONY HALL, and wish he and Mrs. Hall all the best as they embark on this new journey.

100TH ANNIVERSARY OF CHURCH OF THE EPIPHANY
HON. WILLIAM J. COYNE OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002
Mr. COYNE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to ob serve the 100th Anniversary of Epiphany Catholic Church in Pittsburgh Pennsylvania. The Church of the Epiphany was estab lished when the St. Paul Cathedral was moved from downtown to Oakland more than 100 years ago. The cornerstone for the new church was blessed on August 10, 1902. The boundaries of the old Catholic parish became the boundaries for the Church of the Epiphany's parish. From 1903 until 1906, when the new Cathedral was finished, Epiphany served as the interim Cathedral.

The Church is a beautiful red brick structure built in the Romanesque style. It was designed by Edward Stotz at the turn of the last century with a pair of twin towers, slate roofs, and terra cotta trim. The church design also features several statues from the old Cathedral. The interior decoration was designed by John Comes, who designed a number of Catholic churches in the Pittsburgh area. Most of the original artwork has been preserved and restored.

Father Lawrence O'Connell founded Church of the Epiphany and was its pastor for its first 54 years. He is credited with developing and operating parish programs that ably served downtown residents, workers, and the many Immigrants who were streaming into Pittsburgh at that time. Under his leadership, the parish created and ran a residence for working women, a nursery, a home for infants, a home for older children, an elementary school, summer camp for underprivileged children, an athletic association for young men, a prison ministry, and other religious, cultural, and education programs. In the first half of the 20th century, the Church served a parish of roughly 2,000 families.

Over time, however, the neighborhood changed. Grand plans for the first Pittsburgh renaissance dictated that much of the land covered by the parish be converted to new uses. In 1957, much of the Lower Hill neighborhood around Epiphany, including church property, was razed as part of an urban redevelopment project. Eighteen hundred families were relocated, and only 350 parishioner families remained.

The urban renewal efforts of the late 1950s and early 1960s marked the beginning of a difficult time for the Church of the Epiphany. In the first half of the 20th century, the Church served a parish of roughly 2,000 families.

Mr. Speaker, I want to congratulate Father Jim Garvey, the current pastor of Epiphany Cathedral. He and his congregation on the momentous occasion of the Church's 100th anniversary—and I want to share with them my best wishes for the future.

SAVE HISTORIC VETERANS BUILDINGS

HON. TONY P. HALL

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. HALL of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, for more than 40 years, since the enactment by Congress of the landmark National Historic Preservation Act, preservation of our historic landmarks has been a mission of the Federal government and its agencies. That is no less true of the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA), which owns 1,860 nationally significant buildings—more than any department except the Department of the Treasury and Defense. However, no department faces more challenges than the Department of Veterans Affairs in preserving its historic buildings. That is why today I am introducing the Veterans Heritage Preservation Act of 2002, a bill establishing a comprehensive approach to assisting the department in fulfilling its historic preservation mission while honoring Americans veterans.

The sheer scope of the task is daunting. The VA's historic buildings go back to a 1735 mill on the bank of the Susquehanna River in Perry Point, Maryland, and include a series of residential communities built for Civil War veterans. The VA also owns historic hospital buildings and living quarters constructed by the Veterans Bureau following World War I. Many of these buildings, including architecture and some are sites of important events. They are located in almost every state. All represent the commitment made by the Federal government to look after our war veterans.

As the cost of health care has risen in recent years, the Department has focused on providing veterans with cost effective health care. This has made obsolete many of the Department's historic buildings which have been chosen to conserve funds. Some of these treasures have to deteriorate and ultimately face demolition. Because the Department's historic preservation requirements are funded from the same allocation for patient care, the Department has consistently chosen to underfund its historic preservation mission.

The legislation I offer today eliminates this difficult choice by establishing a Veterans Heritage Preservation Fund dedicated to the Department's preservation needs and authorized at an annual level of $20 million, subject to appropriation. The fund would be used to evaluate, stabilize, preserve, renovate, and restore the Department's historic buildings. The fund could also be used for grants to State and local governments and non-profit organizations in connection with the adaptive reuse of historic buildings. The bill also establishes within the Department a high level Office of Historic Preservation to monitor the Department's historic preservation program.

The bill also encourages leasing historic VA properties to groups that will preserve and restore them and promotes the VA to enter into public-private partnerships for historic preservation. The goal is to keep the VA's historic buildings alive by finding new uses for them. Even if they are used for community purposes that aren't directly related to veterans care, they will honor our veterans by preserving these important treasures.

The VA's historic buildings represent an important national treasure that can never be replaced. They serve as a link between all Americans and past generations of veterans. Writing in the July 1, 2001, issue of the Paralyzed Veterans of America's Paraplegia News, Thomas D. Davies, Jr., AIA, former director of architecture for Paralyzed Veterans of America, said, 'The VA's historic structures provide direct evidence of America's proud heritage of veterans' care and can enhance our understanding of the lives of soldiers and sailors who fashioned our country.'

The need quickly to preserve historic VA buildings increased in June when the VA announced an initiative to identify and close buildings that are considered outdated. The initiative, Phase II of the ongoing planning process called the Capital Asset Realignment for Enhanced Services (CARES), is expected to be completed in two years. It is critical for the VA to prepare to handle the large number of non-monument buildings which could join the endangered list.

The legislation follows a joint recommendation earlier this year by AMVETS, Disabled American Veterans, Paralyzed Veterans of America, and Veterans of Foreign Wars, which called on Congress to enact legislation to systematically preserve the most important historic buildings owned by the VA and to promote the reuse of historic properties by local communities.

Most of the threatened buildings were part of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, created by one of the last acts signed by President Lincoln before his assassination, and constructed between 1867 and 1930. The buildings are now owned by the VA. The National Home evolved into complete planned communities with barracks, mess halls, chapels, schools, hotels, libraries, band stands, amusement halls, theaters, and shops, many of which still stand, and include outstanding examples of 19th and early 20th century architecture.

The National Home had facilities in eleven cities. The cities, and dates the branches were founded are: Togus, Maine (1866); Milwaukee, Wisconsin (1867); Dayton, Ohio (1867); Hampton, Virginia (1870); Leavenworth, Kansas (1885); Santa Monica, California (1888); Marion, Indiana (1888); Danville, Illinois (1898); Johnson City, Tennessee (1901); Hot Springs, South Dakota (1902); and Bath, New York (1929).

The National Home represents many historical developments, including the Nation's first large-scale attempt by the Federal government to care for veterans. The buildings included the first non-religious planned communities, the first Federal effort to establish large-scale rehabilitation programs, a significant expansion of Federal benefits to citizen-veterans, a landmark in the development of Federal responsibility for the social safety net, and the first permanent churches constructed by the Federal government.

Before it was merged with the VA in 1930, the National Home cared for more than 100,000 Civil War and other veterans, many of whom were shattered physically and spiritually from the carnage of war. These buildings are an important part of our national heritage as well as significant contributors to the history and culture of the communities where they are located.

According to Professor Patrick J. Kelly, author of Creating a National Home (Harvard University Press), "The National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers is an institution that all Americans can treasure. This institution was an early and strikingly generous example of the federal government's commitment to the care of the nation's veterans."

Kelly wrote, 'The surviving buildings of the National Home offer contemporary Americans...}
a cultural treasure that serves to remind us of the profound sacrifices made by soldiers during the Civil War, and of the resolve of those who served. The National Home America the sacrifices of its veterans would not be ignored. That buildings of the National Home’s historic legacy under its control that belongs to the veterans themselves. My constituents—veteran and non-veteran—are concerned about this potential loss to their historical heritage.

Mr. Speaker, providing for the Department of Veteran Affairs’ historic preservation requirements in no way need to diminish funding for the Department’s other missions and is fully consistent with the Department’s broader goal of honoring and caring for the Nation’s veterans. It will require some money and it will require a lot of will. With this legislation, I hope to provide a framework for the VA to better carry out its responsibility to preserve the historic legacy under its control that belongs to veterans and to all Americans.

Pastor Jones’ time and dedication with the ministry has allowed him to develop strong support that extends throughout the city of Pontiac, including serving as the Chaplain of the Oakland County Sheriff Department, and acting as a board member for the United Way Oakland County. Additionally, the diligence he has displayed has led to the expansion of the church and its congregation. Pastor Jones is more than deserving of the numerous honors and awards that he has received over the past 13 years, including commendations from the City of Pontiac and the State of Michigan, among many others.

The work that Pastor Jones has accomplished on behalf of the community is tremendous. Through his creation of the Greater Pontiac Community Coalition, he has helped generate programs that have guided our youth to a brighter future. Programs such as Youth in Government and Invent America, as well as scholarship programs through the Church and the Coalition, have helped open doors of success for hundreds of young men and women. Mr. Speaker, Pastor Douglas P. Jones’ devotion to spreading God’s Word is an inspiration to us all. As a former seminarian, I understand the important role the Church plays in our lives, and I am proud to call him my colleague and my friend. Self-evident is his lifelong commitment to enhancing the dignity and nurturing the spirits of all people, and our community is a much better place because of him. I ask my colleagues in the 107th Congress to join me in congratulating Pastor Jones.

ON THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE NEW GLARUS FIRE DEPARTMENT

OF WISCONSIN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Ms. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to extend my congratulations to the New Glarus Volunteer Fire Department of Wisconsin, which is celebrating 100 years of excellence. This outstanding achievement is marked by the New Glarus Volunteer Fire Department’s commitment to providing safe, efficient, and effective emergency services.

New Glarus Volunteer Fire Department’s standards of excellence were first instituted in 1902 with the formation of Company No. 1. From the incorporation of the village in 1845 until 1902, fires were fought by means of a bucket brigade. Company No. 1 replaced the old fashioned bucket brigade with the latest technology, circa 1902, a hose cart and hand-drawn ladder rig. Staffed by 24 dedicated firefighters, the equipment was housed in the New Glarus Town Hall, in which the first arriving firefighter rang a bell, alerting the remainder of the company to call.

Today, the New Glarus Volunteer Fire Department is fully modernized, serving a 71-square-mile fire protection district that covers the village of New Glarus as well as the towns of York, Perry and Primrose in the rolling hills of Green and Dane Counties. In 1981, the current modern siren system, the call to tirelessly protect the New Glarus Volunteer Fire Department assures that they will receive the best possible assistance.

I wholeheartedly congratulate the New Glarus Fire Department for 100 years of protecting their community and recognize their continuing commitment to excellence.

HAPPY 80TH BIRTHDAY TO JULIUS WADE KING

HON. CHARLES W. “CHIP” PICKERING
OF MISSISSIPPI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. PICKERING. Mr. Speaker, eighty years ago on August 2, 1922, Julius Wade King was born in Lockport, MS, to James and Clara King. Julius, better known as Judy, has led a life devoted to business, education, service, church, and family.

A product of public schools, Judy graduated Heidelberg High School in 1940 and entered Jones County Junior College (JCJC); Judy then received his B.S. degree from the University of Mississippi in 1943. Upon leaving Ole Miss, Judy attended U.S. Naval Midshipman’s School at Notre Dame and was commissioned as an officer. But graduating from JCJC, Ole Miss, and Notre Dame would not end Judy’s association with education. Education for her has devolved more than 6 decades to the field.

Active in the South Pacific until 1946, Judy was discharged from the Navy and moved to where he still calls home—Laurel, Mississippi. In Laurel, Judy began work in the automotive business and later, in 1951, Judy launched a career in the oil and gas industry as well as in real estate. Throughout his career at Julius W. King Oil Properties, Judy has been a long-time member of the Board of Directors of the Independent Petroleum Association of America and Mid Continent Oil and Gas Association.

Judy was married on April 10, 1955 to Marion Louise King; they are the parents of two daughters—Mary Gwendolyn and Kendall Lea and the grandparents of five. Judy has given many years of his life to the service of the community. A member of First Baptist Church of Laurel, Judy has helped the church with continuous growth and expansion by serving as Property Acquisition Chairman. Judy has also served on the state and county Republican and ran for State Senate in 1963. Judy has served as the Finance Chairman of the Party on both the local and national level. He has made contributions to the Republican Party on both the state and national level. Judy has served as the Finance Chairman of the Republican Party and assisted in building the United Republican Fund of Mississippi. He has been recognized as a Pioneer Republican and ran for State Senate in 1983. Judy has served on the state and county GOP executive committees.

On the national level, Judy has had the honor of being a presidential elector three times during his years on the White House Selection Committee for Fellowships. He also has the distinction of being a member of the Transition team for the Reagan White House.

Judy has been a role model for me as a Christian husband, father, businessman, and leader. I thank him for his example and for his commitment to higher education.

MRS. WU. Mr. Speaker, today I recognize George Perneister, Vice President of Finance and Administration at Portland State University. Mr. Perneister is leaving Oregon to become the Vice Chancellor of Administrative Services at the University of California, Santa Barbara. I join with Mr. Perneister’s colleagues at Portland State University, in the Oregon University System, in recognizing him for his leadership, his commitment to providing educational opportunities to students and his work with PSU President Dan Bernstine to make this institution a national model of an urban university.

George Perneister served at Portland State University since 1995. During that time, enrollment has grown from about 14,000 students to the nearly 23,000 who will enroll this September. Mr. Perneister has overseen the implementation of the unique University District plan, which links PSU’s campus development to the planning goals of Portland—one of the nation’s most livable cities. George was instrumental in building the University’s new urban center, home of the nationally recognized College of Urban and Public Affairs. He was involved in the city’s efforts to have a new urban streetcar, and brought it to the campus. George has also been involved in the building of a new Native American Student and Community Center that will open next year, the creation of the Peter Stott Community Recreation field, and the establishment of a new technology center in the PSU Millar Library.

George Perneister is not only actively involved in Portland State University and the City of Portland, he has been a statewide leader in the Oregon University System. Before coming to Portland State University, he was Vice Provost and Chief Financial Officer at the University of Oregon, and also served as the Associate Vice Chancellor for Administration at the Oregon University System. George was key to developing State legislation that gave greater operating flexibility to the institutions in Oregon, as well as a new funding model for the entire Oregon University System, which was adopted by the state legislature in 1999.

George Perneister is viewed in Oregon as an innovative higher education leader who puts students first. He leaves Oregon and PSU a better place because of his visionary commitment to providing educational opportunities. George is a devoted public administrator who values public service.

Mr. Speaker, I am honored that I have had the opportunity to work with and know George Perneister. I hope you and my colleagues will join me in wishing him and his family the best as they leave Oregon for Santa Barbara and go from being Vikings to Gauchos!

TREASURY AND GENERAL GOVERNMENT APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2003

SPEECH OF HON. RON PAUL OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, July 23, 2002

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the Flake and Rangel amendments to the Treasury-Postal Service Appropriations Act. The argument that allowing Americans to travel to Cuba props up Fidel Castro’s regime is just not supported by fact. History has shown that allowing—even encouraging—American citizens to travel to and engage commercially in less-than-free societies ignites the spark of freedom and hastens democratic transformations. Unfortunately, special interests have driven some to argue even against demonstrated fact in pursuit of their political agenda.

It is time to face reality on the policies of isolation and embargo: they have not worked in the past, they are not working in the present, and they will not work in the future. Can anyone claim that our policies of isolation and embargo have made life for the average Cuban citizen the slightest bit better? Conversely, is there any evidence that our policies of isolation and embargo have made life for Castro and his ruling clique one bit worse? The answer to both questions, of course, is no. So why continue to pursue a foreign policy that is producing the opposite effect of what is intended?

While there is no evidence that sanctions and isolation work, there is plenty of evidence—real concrete evidence—that engagement and trade actually bring about democratic change. In the former Soviet-dominated world—particularly in Central Europe—it was American commercial and individual engagement that proved key to the demise of the dictatorships. It was Americans traveling to these lands with new ideas and a different attitude toward government that helped nurture the seeds of discontent among a population living under the yoke of tyranny. It was American commercial activity that brought in products that the closed and controlled economic systems would or could not produce, thus under-scoring to the population the failure of planned economies.

With the system of one-party rule so obviously and undeniably proven unworkable and unsatisfactory in Central Europe, even those who had served the one-party state began to shift their views and work in opposition to that rule. Thus began the fall of the Soviet empire. Yet those who support sanctions and isolation still seek to deny history in their drive to pursue a policy that has not worked for forty years.

Mr. Chairman, finally and importantly, I strongly oppose sanctions for the simple reason that they hurt American industries, particularly agriculture. Every time we shut our own farmers out of foreign markets, they are exploited by foreign farmers. China, Russia, the Middle East, North Korea, and Cuba all represent huge potential for our farm products, yet many in Congress favor trade restrictions that prevent our farmers from selling to the billions of people in these areas. We are one of the world’s largest agricultural producers—why would we ever choose to restrict our exports? Why would we want to do harm to our domestic producers by pursuing a policy that does not work? The only beneficiaries of our sanctions policies are our foreign competitors; the ones punished are our own producers. It is time to end restrictions on Cuba travel and trade.
RICK SWARTZ DEFENDS THE RIGHTS OF IMMIGRANTS

HON. JAMES P. McGOVERN OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to bring to my colleagues’ attention an interview with Mr. Rick Swartz in the Summer 2002 edition of Intelligence Report, the quarterly publication of the Southern Poverty Law Project.

For nearly two decades, I have had the privilege of knowing and working with Rick Swartz in defense of the rights of immigrants. In 1982, he founded the National Immigration Forum, which is the leading immigration rights advocacy group in the nation. We first met when we were both working to secure a safe haven for Salvadoran and other Central American refugees here in the United States.

The interview explores the lengthy battles with anti-immigration forces in the United States, and the work for securing immigrant rights in today’s national environment. Rick Swartz is someone who feels strongly about America’s roots as a nation of immigrants and who believes that current immigration is an important contributor to a strong future for our country. I join him in those beliefs, and I commend this article to my colleagues.

[From the Intelligence Report, Summer 2002]

DEFENDING IMMIGRANTS

A KEY ACTIVIST IN THE STRUGGLE FOR IMMIGRANT RIGHTS DISCUSSES THE EVOLUTION AND NATURE OF THE ANTI-IMMIGRATION MOVEMENT

Over the last quarter of a century, Rick Swartz may have done more than any other activist to encourage a healthy level of immigration to America and to protect the rights of immigrants once they are here. After graduating from the University of Chicago Law School, Swartz directed an immigrant rights project at the Lawyers Committee before going on to found, in 1982, what has become the nation’s leading immigration rights advocacy group, the National Immigration Forum. Swartz was president of the Forum, a coalition of more than 250 national organizations and several thousand local groups, until 1990. In that post, he worked to secure for Haitian and Central American war refugees the right to legal representation in the courts, to provide legal aid to immigrants, and to build linkages to mainstream groups.

Swartz: The blueprint envisaged creating a whole array of organizations that serve the legal needs of immigrants and political battle plan to halt immigration—even if some of these groups have somewhat differing politics. They camouflage the links between these organizations to keep them from appearing to have arisen spontaneously. But in fact they have the same creator, Tanton.

IR: So the idea was to create the illusion of a grassroots movement that was supported by a significant number of Americans?

Swartz: Yes, indeed, to confuse the press.

The leaked memos did bring some public attention to some of these linkages were further exposed in the early 1990s. More recently, FAIR’s tax records established that the center for Immigration Studies (CIS), an influential and influential heterodox Washington institution, was spun off from FAIR as a separate organization. But these facts aren’t widely known by the public today.

For years and years, FAIR and these other rightist organizations had been doing exactly that. They have somewhat differing politics. Their goals are similar, their sources of funding are the same, and they have the same creator, Tanton.

IR: Have the different organizations focused on immigration that are led by a significant number of Americans.

Swartz: They are well known to everybody deeply involved in the immigration debate. There’s no question that there are very few of us—members—two can come close to understanding the situation and the history of the immigration reform efforts of the last 25 years. Tanton helped to establish the English-language publication of The Camp of the Saints, a grotesquely racist French novel that tells of European civilization being overrun by bestial Third World immigrants. And he continues to promote that book in his role as publisher of The Social Contract Press, a hate group. What do you make of the role of this remarkable book?

SWARTZ: A movement of the kind that Tanton envisions needs a bible. It needs a bible for conversion. It needs a bible for conversion. It needs a bible because of the memos, which were written in 1986, two years before the leak.

IR: Has the limited exposure of these kinds of linkages damaged the ability of Tanton’s anti-immigrant groups to affect public policy in Congress?

Swartz: They are well known to everybody deeply involved in the immigration debate. There’s no question that there are very few of us—members—two can come close to understanding the situation and the history of the immigration reform efforts of the last 25 years.

IR: How about the fact that Tanton helped to establish the English-language publication of The Camp of the Saints, a grotesquely racist French novel that tells of European civilization being overrun by bestial Third World immigrants. And he continues to promote that book in his role as publisher of The Social Contract Press, a hate group. What do you make of the role of this remarkable book?

IR: When did Tanton get into the English Only movement?

Swartz: Tanton established an organization called U.S. English in the early 1980s, and this became his second major national organization after the FAIR. Tanton created FAIR was dedicated to “English Only” (the idea that all official government business should be conducted in English alone), and it at-IR: Are there good examples of that infiltration strategy anywhere else?
Swartz: In the 1980s, while Conner was executive director of Fair, a woman named Cordia Strom became the legal director at Fair. The Tanton-memos had specifically discussed infiltrating the Congressional staff, and Cordia was their big success story. She became part of the staff of the House Immigration Subcommittee (R-Tex.), and then she went to work for the House Immigration Subcommittee. She was in that job through 1996 and was the subcommittee’s chief counsel. The big 1996 immigration debate [which resulted in harsh legislation, introduced by subcommittee chairman Lamar Smith, that sharply reduced the rights of legal immigrants]. At some point after that, she went over to the Executive Office for Immigration Review [the administrative appeals arm of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, or INS, that is responsible for making final decisions on such matters as deportations], where she is still employed [as counsel to the director and coordinator of INS’ Office of Immigration Review].

IR: Did the 2000 election have an impact on the parameters of this infiltration strategy?
Swartz: Well, these groups had their own person running the House Immigration Reform Caucus at the time. The staff director of that subcommittee brings tremendous daily influence on Lamar Smith [chairman of the subcommittee from 1994 to 2000] and other Republican members. The staff director has lots of access to inside information, including confidential and classified information regarding immigration. You have access to things like the Justice Department and the State Department. Someone like Cordia, with her ideological bent, has an opportunity to have tremendous influence throughout the Congress and the government, as well as the media.

IR: Yes, similarly, we’ve found that a woman named Rosemary Jenks, a lobbyist for Numbers USA, is now working part-time out of the office of Rep. Tom Tancredo. [Editor’s note: Tancredo is a Colorado Republican, chairman of the Congressional Immigration Reform Caucus and a harsh immigration critic whose Web site carries data on recent immigration.]

Swartz: That’s another example of infiltration at work. Fair and the others have successfully placed their people around folks like Tancredo in Congress.

IR: Are there other important methods that Tanton has used?
Swartz: Another tactic of Tancredo’s is to turn ethnic groups on each other, to create conflict between difference ethnic and racial groups, especially at the grassroots level. The Tanton-memos have been that immigration hurts blacks. Fair has bought radio advertising on black radio stations to push that vision. A prime example was the 1980’s. When an ad ran basically saying, “You know why you don’t have a job? Because some undocumented Mexican came in and stole yours from you?”

Swartz: There are also other methods that Tanton likes. First, Tanton has used legal strategies to get the media attention they desire.

IR: During the 2000 Michigan senatorial race, Fair ran ads that essentially suggested that Spencer Abraham (R-Mich.) was allowing terrorists into the country by backing higher numbers of visas for immigrants with high-tech skills. The ads also implied, but didn’t say directly, that that was because Abraham was an Arab American. Did the brouhaha over these ads hurt Fair? Didn’t Alan Simpson, one of Fair’s biggest supporters in the Senate, resign their board as a result?

Swartz: He did! Simpson condemned the ads. I think the attacks on Abraham really hurt Fair among certain Republicans. Something like 20 to 25 Senate Republicans put their names on a letter denouncing Fair for the Abraham attacks. Some of these senators today probably have no idea that so-called “respectable” organizations, like the Center for Immigration Studies, are linked to Fair. But to go back to the theme of infiltration, if you look at the record of witnesses before the House and Senate immigration subcommittees, you will see that Fair has been far more successful in getting invited to testify before Congress at the same time mainstreaming at the core of the debate. In some ways, Fair is more moderate than it once was. NumbersUSA is also more sedate. Simultaneously, the harder edge identifying itself as the “anti-immigration” group with multimillion-dollar media buys—cannot be allowed to spawn racial and ethnic fearmongering. Know-Nothing ideologies—and multimillion-dollar media buys—cannot be allowed to spawn racial and ethnic fearmongering. Know-Nothing ideologies—and multimillion-dollar media buys—cannot be allowed to spawn racial and ethnic fearmongering. Know-Nothing ideologies—

IR: My point is that Tanton is a brilliant tactician who has created a framework that can have his cake and eat it, too. He has a political movement on the extremist, racial fringe that is stirring up popular discontent and hatred with its harsh rhetoric. There is a lot of fertile ground out there, and the fringe is increasingly significant in areas like what is going on in Iowa right now. At the same time, other Tanton groups are getting quite moderate.

IR: So what is your prognosis for the future?
Swartz: The challenge is to ensure that our political culture is not poisoned by Tanton and his crowd, and that members of Congress alike repudiate racial and ethnic fearmongering. Know-Nothing ideologies— and multimillion-dollar media buys—cannot be allowed to spawn racial and ethnic fearmongering. Know-Nothing ideologies—and multimillion-dollar media buys—cannot be allowed to spawn racial and ethnic fearmongering. Know-Nothing ideologies—

In Europe over the last 20 years, Tanton-like leaders have resurfaced far-right and sometimes violent movements—and political parties—rooted in the fear of the stranger. The Tanton vision laid out in the 1986 memos is eerily echoed by racist immigration issues, and whites not going quietly into the night as their numbers are overwhelmed by the demographics of immigration.

It would be very wise to underestimate the danger in the Camp of the Saints ideologues. The Tanton movement has been in existence for years, and by the time that they have been doing for 25 years to turn immigrant against native, black against brown, and so on. But in the end, I am confident that the vast majority of Americans will, as they have in the past, reject the fearmonger and, through the toil of people from all over the world, build the future of America. As my colleagues clearly know. America is hugely resilient and immigration is one of our priceless resources, especially in the coming global age. I take nothing for granted when it comes to threats to America’s future, but I am totally confident about the goodwill and common sense of America’s people.

EGLI HILA

HON. JOHN B. LARSON
OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Egli Hila, seventh grader at South Middle School in Hartford, Connecticut, for being named a finalist in the national Do the Write Thing Challenge, and to submit the praiseworthy essay into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD. I applaud Egli’s efforts to tackle the grip that violence has on our youth.

The Do the Write Thing Challenge is an initiative of the National Campaign to Stop Violence designed to give middle school students the opportunity to examine the impact of youth violence on their lives and to communicate in writing what they think should be done to change our culture and violence. The program encourages students to make personal commitments to do something about the problem with the ultimate goal of helping them break the cycles of violence in their homes, school, and neighborhoods.

In the world, people are faced with different issues as well as different emotions. There are people out there who are suffering from poverty, with lack of security in their lives. Most of all people are constantly suffering from violence whether it’s at home or in the streets. This eventually leads to physical and mental stress, anguish, pain, fear (and) hurt. No one wants it or even asks for it, but it still comes knocking at your door. What can one do when there is so much pain? Many questions come to mind but so little answers. How has violence affected my life? What do I think the major causes of youth violence are? What can do about youth violence? Is it going to stop? I wish it didn’t exist but it does and we have to deal with it the best way possible. These questions that have been raised are very hard to answer but I’ll try to answer them to the best of my abilities and knowledge.

I keep repeating the questions in my head over and over again. How has violence affected my life? Can I ever get normal again? Violence has affected my life but the most common one would be that it makes me angry at times and at other times I’m scared. One word “violence” makes me have so many mixed emotions running through me. Imagine what the actions of violence can do to a person. In schools I see fights and I try to understand what is happening, but I can’t. People fighting are my fellow classmates. I feel bad for them not only because they will get physically hurt in the process but also they will get suspended. What good came out of it? I don’t seem to grasp this concept. When the question of how violence has affected my life is addressed to me, I guess I have to say that it is a weird thing happening, but I can’t.

There are many causes of youth violence. Unfortunately, too many. The major causes would be domestic violence, meaning violence at home. When the parents for whatever (reason) may be hitting one another and they constantly scream and can’t keep themselves under control, then it’s obvious that a child at home who sees those unpleasant actions will usually do the same thing in a different environment. Peer pressure is also a very big factor of youth violence. Kids by nature want to fit in especially by being in the “cool group.” What better way to fit in than do what the group says? If the group says you have to hurt that person whether it’s physically or mentally you have to do it. And then you’ll be considered “cool” and finally be accepted. That’s how most kids fall into the trap and afterwards have a tough time getting out of it. Another cause of violence would be when kids put one another down and they get emotionally hurt. Also, gossip leads to violence because when kids hear these hurtful things being said about them, they want to fight back with the same weapon or go a step further and actually hurt someone physically. Call it revenge but whatever you call it, won’t make a difference because it’s violence in the worst way.

Youth violence is simply very sad to think about. In my opinion, kids should think about doing good in schoolwork, making friends (not enemies) having fun, think about college and the power to dream for a better life for themselves and the people around them. I have been seriously thinking about this issue and what I can do about youth violence. The only answer I come up with is that I could try and stop it when I see it or if I can’t stop the fight then I’ll let an adult know what’s going on so they can stop it. These kids then might be able to talk about what’s troubling them. I guess this could be a step toward recovery. Don’t you agree?

Youth violence is everywhere but if we can limit it is even just a little bit, then I think we have succeeded.

The courage and dedication that Egli has demonstrated in trying to stop youth violence is admirable. Few students would be able to do the same, to literally verbalize their thoughts about the causes and solutions for youth violence in their schools. Egli Hila is a remarkable student and inspiration for other young Americans, and I would urge other students to follow Egli’s example.

TRIBUTE TO MR. ISAAC WASHINGTON

HON. JAMES E. CLBYRN
OF SOUTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. CLBYRN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Mr. Isaac Washington, who on June 15, 2002 was bestowed the National Newspaper Association’s Publisher of the Year Award on behalf of the award winning Black Media Group. Mr. Washington was born in Columbia, S.C. and grew up in public housing, Allen-Benedict Court. But his experiences were not without love. Surrounded by the love of his parents and four siblings, brothers Eddie, Jeremiah and Oliver, Jr. and a sister, Ethel, young Isaac learned the value of reaching out to others.

A graduate of C.A. Johnson High School, he earned a bachelor’s degree from Benedict College. His career began in the media business at Columbia’s WIS-TV, where he served as Assistant Program Director and Director of Sales Traffic and Operations. He pioneered the Awareness program, WIS-TV’s foray into minority affairs reporting and programming.

After his stint at WIS, Washington entered a partnership to publish Black Newspapers. His diverse media experience prepared him for his leadership role as President/Publisher of the South Carolina Black Media Group, SCBMG. Within a few years, SCBMG began marketing its product statewide, and eventually evolved into eight newspapers published in every major market of the Palmetto State and in Fayetteville, N.C. In 1997, SCBMG consolidated its newspapers into one statewide publication, The Black News. Within the last three years, Black News has twice been a finalist for the coveted A. Philip Randolph Messenger Award, which honors Black newspapers for journalistic excellence in the field of civil rights.

Washington’s community outreach also extends far beyond the walls of the newspaper office. He is a member of Zion Baptist Church in Columbia, where he serves as an ordained deacon and member of the deacon board. He also serves on the boards of the American Red Cross, the Will Lou Gray Foundation, and is a commissioner with the S.C. State Housing Authority. He is a lifelong member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. and the NAACP. He has been bestowed many honors, including an honorary doctorate of Religious Education from the C.E. Graham Bible College, and has been honored with a mural on the Columbia Housing Authority’s Wall of Fame.

Washington established the S.C. Black Media Group, a nonprofit organization that provides opportunities for youth in the community through tutorial and job training programs, and provides public housing and other services for the elderly. Mr. Washington, a longtime personal friend, was presented his award during the Merit Awards Dinner, at NNPA’s 62nd Annual convention, held in Jacksonville, FL.

He is married to the former Clannie Hart, and has one son, Isaac, Jr., who is a student at Benedict College.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that you and my colleagues join me in honoring an outstanding South Carolinian whose dedication to his profession and family is unparalleled. I wish him good luck and Godspeed.

INTRODUCING FOREIGN LANGUAGE TRAINING LEGISLATION

HON. TIM ROEMER OF INDIANA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. ROEMER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce, along with my distinguished colleagues, Representatives Jim Gibbons, Mike Castle, and Silvestre Reyes, important legislation that strengthens our commitment to train students in foreign language proficiency, particularly languages that are of high national security interest to the United States such as Arabic, Farsi, and Urdu.

Since the tragic events of September 11, 2001, the federal government’s deficiency with regard to the availability of experts proficient in foreign languages and knowledgeable of cultures of national security interest has been exposed. This shortage of federal employees fluent in foreign languages is a major obstacle towards our objective of winning the war against terrorism. FBI Director Robert Mueller has underscored this concern through a public plea for Americans who are proficient in Arabic and Farsi to offer their services to the federal government.

This legislation takes great strides toward addressing the federal government’s foreign language deficiency concerns by expanding and strengthening the National Security Education Program (NSEP) at the Pentagon. A strong commitment to the NSEP by Congress will serve to increase the quantity and proficiency level of federal employees with expertise in the languages and cultures of countries critical to U.S. national security.

Nearly 80 federal agencies require professionals proficient in 100 foreign languages to deal with a wide range of threats, as well as to advance our diplomatic, commercial and economic interests worldwide. As a recent GAO study reported, technology advances that result in the collection of growing amounts of information and greater U.S. involvement in global activities have made it difficult for government agencies to meet their language requirements. This failure has been damaging to our nation’s security. In hearings before the Senate Government Affairs Subcommittee on International Security, Proliferation and Federal Services one year prior to the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and Pentagon, government officials testified that language deficiencies had compromised U.S. military, law enforcement, intelligence, counter-terrorism, and diplomatic efforts. Yet, despite this demand for language expertise, only eight percent of American college students study a foreign language—a statistic that has not changed in 25 years.

The funding increase incorporated in this proposed legislation for NSEP will be used to increase the number of scholarships and fellowships for language and area studies that the program makes available to U.S. college and university students who commit to federal government agencies to meet their language requirements. This increase has been highly successful in encouraging American students to pursue language and cultural studies in world regions critical to U.S. interests and helping those students find national security positions in the federal government. Since its creation in 1991, NSEP has awarded nearly 800 scholarships and fellowships for study of more than 35 languages in nearly 100 countries. About one in three to four awards are made to students in the applied sciences, and nearly three-quarters of NSEP award recipients fulfill their service requirement by working in positions at the Departments of Commerce, Defense, Justice, State, and Treasury, in the intelligence community, at NASA or USAID; and in the Congress. Given this impressive performance and the federal government’s growing demand for language expertise and cultural knowledge, an expansion of the NSEP program is an essential, creative and cost-effective investment in our nation’s future security.

Mr. Speaker, in conclusion, Congress must be proactive in this war on terrorism by resolutely addressing the federal government’s foreign language deficiencies. Strengthening our commitment to promote foreign language education programs like the National Security Education program is an excellent start. I strongly urge my colleagues to review and co-sponsor this important foreign language training legislation.

STOP THE VIOLENCE

HON. JOHN B. LARSON
OF CONNECTICUT

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Olesya Koreskia, a seventh grader at South Middle School in Hartford, Connecticut, for being named a finalist in the national Do the Write Thing Challenge, and to share her impressive essay with my colleagues. I commend Olesya for standing up to the constant pressures that she faces in her school, and for her courage in trying to combat the ever-growing problem of youth violence.

The Do the Write Thing Challenge is an initiative of the National Campaign to Stop Violence designed to give middle school students the opportunity to examine the impact of youth violence on their lives and to communicate in writing what they think should be done to change our culture and violence. The program encourages students to make personal commitments to do something about the problem with the ultimate goal of helping them break the cycles of violence in their homes, school, and neighborhoods.

I had the opportunity to meet with Olesya, and was amazed that she so ably articulated here concerns only after being in the United States for a few years. Not only has she overcome language and social barriers, Olesya has taken the initiative to remedy the problems that she and her classmates face everyday. In the short amount of time she has been in the United States, Olesya has immersed herself in her new environment and recognized what must be done to improve that environment for herself and her classmates.

Violence is one of the most important issues of our society because of its tremendous impact on the health and well being of our youth. Violence results in physical and mental injury of a person and sometimes even in death. It affects children, youth, and adults. It has affected the life of almost every person in the U.S.A. including me. There are the ways to get involved into violence, but there are the ways to avoid it too.

Having a good friend is one way to stay out of violence, but are you sure that you have a good friend? I was sure I did. However that “good” friend almost involved me in stealing. We were best friends and once she told me that she was a member of a gang I really wanted to join. I asked if I could be in the gang. She said yes, but I had to steal something for it. I was thinking that all night long but I couldn’t think of anything, so I asked my parents for advice. My parents explained to me that no friend would ask me to steal and if she did she was not worth to be my friend. So I left the gang and my friend. Now I’m glad that I took my parents’ advice. It stopped me from doing something very bad.

The ideas about violence don’t usually come to the youth by themselves; there are a lot of sources where teens can see or hear about it. For example, violent media. Sometimes the young fans of the famous actors can become thieves or even murderers after they’ve seen the movie with actor doing the same.

The other cause of the youth violence is the peer pressure. Often the youth is violent because of the bad friends. Once a girl I knew began to steal different things because she wanted her new friends to see how “cool” she was. And she did until she got caught. Then her friends who made her steal left her out. She was also punished at home and suspended from school. I think that choosing friends carefully is a better idea than this.

Another reason of the youth violence is domestic violence. On one hand, if a child grows up without parents, and nobody takes care of him he is not going to care about anybody else. He can take somebody’s property or hurt somebody. On the other hand, if the parents love their child so much and give their child too much, give him and do for him whatever he wants then a child will get used to it. After that, he’ll demand something from other people too. And that’s what will later push him to violence. So it’s very important that parents raise their children properly.

There are a lot of ways that we all can do to avoid violence. First, we can talk to our parents or teachers. Talking to somebody close to you helps a lot. For example, teachers can give you advice. Your parents can talk to you about their problems when they were young. They can also explain why violence is bad and unnecessary. All those may change our minds about violence.

Second, we should choose our friends carefully. For instance, if my new friend has violence problems then how do I know that she does something violent? The only way we should avoid friends like that. Some teens can push you to violence, too.
Third, avoiding media makes your mind clear from violent thoughts. For example, my neighbor who watched too many violent movies hurt his sister while playing “Spy” games. After that his parents made him do something more interesting like reading, watching adventure movies and funny shows. After that the boy had changed. He stopped playing “Spy” games and he became a better student. Now he is very thankful to his parents.

We have to stop the violence! Then our future will be safe and peaceful.

I admire Olesya for her bravery in speaking out about youth violence and her commitment to stop it. Few students would be able to verbalize their frustrations, let alone identify causes and solutions for youth violence in their schools. Olesya Koretska is an extraordinary student and inspiration for other young Americans, and I would urge other students to follow in her remarkable footsteps.
