

with VA. He expressed how valuable the academic affiliation has been in improving care for veterans while contributing greatly to the educational and research capabilities of the schools. The affiliation—in his view—has also fostered cost-effective and efficient sharing of clinical and research resources, resulting in significant health care reforms.

Dr. Clarkson also pointed out that, were it not for its 50-year old collaboration with the Miami VAMC, the University of Miami Medical School never would have gotten off the ground, nor would it have accomplished all it has over the years.

The new General Clinical Research Center will be only the third such facility housed at a VA Medical Center, and it will allow basic research results to be applied to the development of potentially lifesaving drugs, devices, and therapies that could benefit not only veterans, but the entire Nation.

I would like to congratulate and thank the hardworking staffs of both the Miami VA Medical Center and the University of Miami Medical School. Without their dedication, their 50-year collaboration would never have been so successful and this latest development, a brand-new Clinical Research Center, would not have been possible.●

SANDY JERSTAD RETIRES FROM AUGUSTANA COLLEGE

● Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, today I recognize Sandy Jerstad for her years of accomplishment as softball coach for the Augustana College Vikings in Sioux Falls, SD. Earlier this week, Sandy marked the end of an era, not only for that institution, but for an entire community when she announced her retirement from a 27 year coaching career.

When I think of Sandy, I think of all that she has accomplished and how her perseverance has carried her through both her career and her personal life. That perseverance has been exhibited and intertwined between her personal and professional life.

This perseverance began when she joined the Augustana staff in 1977 as head softball coach, tennis coach, and women's administrator. She started a softball program from scratch. Her coaching career then mirrored the implementation of Title IX, a law whose purpose she continually advocates and represents on a daily basis. Sandy was Augustana's first and, until now, only softball coach. The program, and its successes, was created with the foundation she built. Augustana's softball triumphs are evident in the statistics that were earned on the field and continue through the former players, who are now women that are leaders in communities all over the country.

During those early years Sandy was trying to build a program that equaled that of any men's sport with regards to budgets, equipment, scholarships, and opportunity for each girl that entered Augustana and wanted to participate in collegiate athletics. Her perseverance paid off and is evidenced in her teams' success and the increased opportunity for women athletes.

This season Sandy coached her 1,000th career win, only the second NCAA softball coach to achieve this. Following this win, sportswriter Eric Bursch of the Argus Leader described it well, noting that legendary University of North Carolina Men's Basketball Coach Dean Smith only had 879 wins and has the most wins of any coach in NCAA Men's Basketball history. This is an amazing feat for any coach, and it came with not only athletic success but with personal success off the field. She will end her coaching career with a 1,011-359-2 record. Her 1991 team won the NCAA Division II National Championship, as well as a second place finish in 1993. She coached for 25 straight winning seasons. The Vikings have appeared in 16 regional tournaments under the direction of Sandy. For her contributions to the sport of softball, Sandy was inducted into the National Fastpitch Coaches Association Hall of Fame in December 2000. In 1998 she was the South Dakota Sportswriters Association coach of the year.

Even with all of her career accomplishments her resolve has been quite evident in her personal life as well. It was exhibited again when her husband, Mark, was diagnosed with cancer. Mark fought bravely, but sadly, he succumbed to the disease. Sandy stood strongly by his side and helped him through his treatment. From her loss she has worked to keep Mark's memory and his work alive not only by speaking of her family's experience, but also by donating her time and resources to causes on Mark's behalf.

She has been an inspiration to her players throughout her tenure and that legacy will continue to live on in each player and especially in those who have chosen to follow in Sandy's coaching footsteps. The legacy will live on with lessons that were learned from their time at Augustana.

It is an honor for me to share Sandy's accomplishments with my colleagues and to publicly commend her for all she's done for softball, women's sports, Augustana, and the Sioux Falls Community, and I wish her all the best on her future challenges and opportunities.●
