House of Representatives

The House met at 10 a.m.

The Chaplain, the Reverend Daniel P. Coughlin, offered the following prayer:

Forbid, Lord, that our roots become too firmly attached to a given moment in time or that our love be limited to earthy things.

Help us to understand that this journey of life is but an introduction, a preface, a school of love for what is yet to come.

Grant us, Lord, true perspective.

Then shall we not be possessed by the things we possess, or love only the things of time, but come to love the things that endure.

Save us from the tyranny of possessions which we have no leisure to enjoy or property whose care becomes a burden or of games which only rob us of time.

May we have the courage to simplify our lives around family, friends and faith.

And by Your grace, may we be fully alive, not merely exist, enjoy our work and find balance in daily living so as to live as the free children of God now and forever. Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day’s proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule 1, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. Boswell) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. Boswell led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Mr. Monahan, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate has passed without amendment a concurrent resolution of the House of the following title:

H. Con. Res. 160. Concurrent resolution expressing the sense of Congress that the United Nations should remove the economic sanctions against Iraq completely and without condition.

The message also announced that the Senate has passed a bill of the following title in which the concurrence of the House is requested:

S. 515. An act to provide additional authority to the Office of Ombudsman of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The message also announced that pursuant to the provisions of Public Law 107–260, the Chair, on behalf of the Majority Leader, after consultation with the Chairman of the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate, announces the appointment of the following individuals to serve as members of the National Commission for the Review of the Research and Development Programs of the United States Intelligence Community: The Honorable Fred Thompson of Tennessee, Richard Ferren of California.

The message also announced that pursuant to Public Law 99–498, the Chair, on behalf of the Majority Leader, after consultation with the Chairman of the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate, announces the appointment of the following individuals to serve as members of the National Commission for the Review of the Research and Development Programs of the United States Intelligence Community: The Honorable Fred Thompson of Tennessee, Richard Ferren of California.

The message also announced that pursuant to Public Law 107–306, the Chair, on behalf of the Majority Leader, after consultation with the Chairman of the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate, announces the appointment of the following individuals to serve as members of the National Commission for the Review of the Research and Development Programs of the United States Intelligence Community: The Honorable Fred Thompson of Tennessee, Richard Ferren of California.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair will receive 10 1-minute speeches on each side.

HONORING CONGRESSIONAL RESEARCH SERVICE

(Mr. Pitts asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. Pitts. Mr. Speaker, Members of Congress need access to information. The problem is there is so much of it that to process it and use it to make decisions is often difficult. My staff mines through a lot of information, does a great job with limited resources, and they often need help. And that is where the Congressional Research Service comes in.

CRS helps with research on nearly any topic. They are able to track down new stories, books. They can talk through issues, help review legislation. Congress would not be the same without the valuable service they provide. My office has had the privilege of working with CRS quite closely on a number of issues. In particular, Ted Stedman and Wayne Riddle helped update my Dollars to the Classroom Act.

The message announced that pursuant to Public Law 107–260, the Chair, on behalf of the Majority Leader, after consultation with the Chairman of the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate, announces the appointment of the following individuals to serve as members of the National Commission for the Review of the Research and Development Programs of the United States Intelligence Community: The Honorable Fred Thompson of Tennessee, Richard Ferren of California.

The message also announced that pursuant to Public Law 99–498, the Chair, on behalf of the Majority Leader, after consultation with the Chairman of the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate, announces the appointment of the following individuals to serve as members of the National Commission for the Review of the Research and Development Programs of the United States Intelligence Community: The Honorable Fred Thompson of Tennessee, Richard Ferren of California.

HONORING BETTI AND CARLOS LIDSKI

(Ms. Ros-Lehtinen asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. Ros-Lehtinen. Mr. Speaker, I would like to pay special tribute to two wonderful individuals in my congressional district: Bettie and Carlos Lidski, National Trustees of The Foundation Fighting Blindness.

The Foundation is working valiantly to find a cure for retinal degenerative diseases. These debilitating diseases currently claim the sight of over six million Americans. Through the tireless efforts of the scientists at the Foundation and through the generosity of individuals like the Lidskis, exciting strides have been made in finding a cure and providing viable treatment options for those who suffer with these illnesses.

I thank Betty and Carlos and their entire family for the love, compassion, and unwavering dedication that they demonstrate every day for the visually impaired. They are truly an inspiration, not only to our South Florida community but indeed to our entire Nation.

Gracias to Bettie and Carlos.

URGING THE FCC TO COMPLETE ITS WORK

(Mr. BOSWELL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BOSWELL. Mr. Speaker, as the Members know, I with many others in our Congress have served halfway around the world in a place called Southeast Asia. Sometimes we wondered how long it would take to get the equipment to us. It would take up to a month, but it always arrived. It always got there.

Mr. Speaker, I am sure all of us in this Chamber would agree that we must ensure the government operates efficiently and in a timely manner. However, a situation has come to my attention that I find very troubling.

Three months ago, the FCC adopted its Triennial Review Order. I believe the economic implications of this action will be of great benefit throughout our Nation. However, the FCC has had 3 months to issue rules on this action and has done nothing. Meanwhile the companies are held hostage because, quite frankly, their hands are tied.

Mr. Speaker, how is it possible the United States can ship a large piece of military equipment halfway around the world in a shorter period of time than it takes the FCC to send its rules up a flight of stairs?

I am here today urging the FCC to complete its work and bring some certainty to the telecommunication industry so that our Nation can move forward and our economy can once again begin to grow.

JOBS AND GROWTH PACKAGE

(Mr. REBERG asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. REBERG. Mr. Speaker, today or tonight this body will get another chance to vote on the Jobs and Growth package. The benefits of this bill are so obvious, one has to wonder what is going on in the minds of anyone who still opposes it. From their arguments, the opponents in the press and in this body seem to be saying, "Do not create jobs, do not trim taxes, do not stimulate the economy. Washington needs the money to spend on new programs and bigger government." On the other hand, maybe these tax relief antagonists are saying, "We do not want a Jobs and Growth package because stimulating the employment and energizing the economy will not get us relected!"

Then again, perhaps the jobs and growth opponents are saying "Give the people our money? Oh, no, you don't. It is our money, not the people's money. Every dollar in tax relief is a dollar out of our hands. We cannot let that kind of power slip out of our control." The truth is, listening to the tortured arguments of those who still oppose this bill makes even the casual observer want to put a bag over his head just for tuning out.

This is not a rocket science. Simple economics tells us when we put more money in the hands of working families and small businesses, we get more spending, new jobs and a revived U.S. economy. It works.

EXTENDING UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

(Mr. CARDIN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, if the House does not act today or tomorrow, 80,000 Americans will be denied extended unemployment benefits on June 1. Every week thereafter, another 80,000 laid-off workers will be denied benefits, totaling $2 million over the next 6 months. This is in addition to the one million unemployed workers who have already exhausted their extended benefits.

Last week, Democrats tried three times to get a vote on extending unemployment benefits, but each time the Republicans said no. We are now in the longest period of negative job growth since the Great Depression. The unemployed are looking for work, but they cannot find jobs. They need and deserve extension of unemployment benefits.

Mr. Speaker, I would hope that you would entertain a request to immediately consider legislation introduced by the gentleman from New York (Mr. BINGGELI) and myself to extend unemployment benefits for millions of Americans who have lost their jobs, just not those who have exhausted their State benefits. This request would simply ensure that the unemployed at least get a vote on the floor before we adjourn. We have the money in the Federal Unemployment Trust Fund to pay for these benefits. That is the least we can do.

BROADBAND REGULATION

(Mr. BASS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BASS. Mr. Speaker, by most measures the United States is the most technologically advanced country in the world. One problem, however, where the U.S. is sorely lacking behind other industrialized nations is high-speed Internet access for citizens and small businesses alike. The United States is not even among the top five countries in these broadband access rates. In fact, South Korea, Canada, Taiwan and Sweden, just to name a few. The statistics for DSL, a form of broadband that uses the telephone infrastructure, are even worse. The U.S. is not even in the top 10.

The Federal Communications Commission has begun to see that regulation of DSL harms the ability of companies to deploy that technology. Part of the FCC’s Triennial Review, adopted last February, improved some of the DSL regulations. That should help make DSL deployment easier.

However, there are two problems. The first is that the FCC has yet to actually issue these rules agreed upon in February, and the second is that action in February is just a start.

The FCC is looking at whether or not to regulate DSL as a telephone service. The broadband provided over cable, satellite or wireless is not as regulated as telephone.

I urge this body to urge the FCC to move forward on this rule-making process.

GOING OUT WITH A BANG

(Mr. DeFAZIO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DeFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, Congress can recess for the Memorial Day break with a bang. We are going to increase the debt ceiling by $984 billion, almost $1 trillion, and also later today the Congress will vote to borrow over $300 billion to reduce the taxes, principally of a wealthy few in this country, under the premise that under trickle-down economics they will invest that money in such a way it will create jobs.

Well, the last tax cut of $1.2 trillion cost the country 1.7 million jobs and caused us to borrow another $1 trillion, because we are now running deficits.

We could make real investments and put people back to work, investments in roads, bridges, highways, mass transit, sewers, water systems, things that increase the productive capacity of the country and the wealth of the country. By the administration’s own measures, if we diverted that money instead of borrowing it, to give to wealthy people in the hope it might create the 1
GOVERNMENT WASTE

(Mr. CHOCOLA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CHOCOLA. Mr. Speaker, I came to Congress from a business background, and I ran for Congress in large part because I believe that we need more of a small business perspective here in Washington, especially when it comes to eliminating wasteful spending.

Every day, the families and businesses in my district have to make tough decisions. They have to meet payroll, they have to live within a budget, and small businesses and families may eliminate wasteful spending. I do not think the Federal Government should be any different.

This year the Heritage Foundation identified $386 billion of wasteful Federal Government spending. Mr. Speaker, that was $386 billion. If Congress would only eliminate waste, mismanagement, and inefficiency in the Federal Government, we could save the taxpayors billions and billions of dollars.

But it is not enough to just complain. We have to do something about it. This week the majority leader, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DELAY), and the Committee on the Budget chairman, the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. NUSSELE), announced a significant effort to root out and eliminate government waste during the 108th Congress. I applaud their effort, and I pledge that I will join them and my colleagues to reduce waste, fraud, and abuse in government in my time in Congress. I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to join in this effort.

ON RAISING THE DEBT LIMIT

(Mr. STENHOLM asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. STENHOLM. Mr. Speaker, at the very time negotiators are putting the final touches on a tax cut that will add several hundred billion dollars to our national debt, the leadership in Congress is planning on slipping through the largest increase in the debt limits in the history of our country, without any debate up or down.

We are about to engage in brinksmanship with the full faith and credit of the United States Government by adopting House language that waives the pay-as-you-go rule, and waives the mandate for Congress to complete action on the debt limit, in order to force the other body to approve the largest debt limit in history. We are going to cut and run.

Mr. Speaker, I am willing to support a temporary increase in the debt limit. In a few moments I will offer a unanimous consent request to approve legislation providing for an increase in the debt limit through the end of the current fiscal year, with the requirement that the President submit a plan to bring our budget back into balance. This will allow us the time to consider a long-term larger increase with the deliberation the serious matter deserves.

If my friends on the other sides of the aisle honestly believe that tax cuts with borrowed money is good economic policy, they should stand up and vote to increase the national debt to pay for their tax cuts, relying on parliamentary maneuvers to avoid an up-or-down vote on the issue.

Mr. Speaker, in light of this, I ask unanimous consent that the House end this charade of borrowing money to pay for tax cuts and immediately take HR 4758, which provides a temporary increase in the public debt, but makes no room for additional debt-financed tax cuts.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LATOURETTE). Under the Speaker's consent.gov, the gentleman is not recognized for that purpose, and his time has expired.

KEEPING MONEY IN THE PRIVATE SECTOR

(Mr. DUNCAN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Speaker, it is really very simple: there is waste in the private sector, just like there is waste in the public sector; but the waste in the business world pales in comparison to the waste in government. Thus, every dollar we can keep in the private sector creates more jobs and lowers more prices. We get more bang for the buck, so to speak, from every dollar kept in private hands.

Who benefits the most from having more jobs and lower prices? The poor and lower-income and working people of this country. This has been proven time and again all over the world. Small government means a good economy. Too much government means a starvation economy where the middle class gets wiped out.

Mr. Speaker, that is what this tax cut is all about. If people really want to help the lower-income and working people of this country, they will support the President's tax cut initiative.

ECONOMIC CLASS WARFARE

(Mr. MENENDEZ asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Speaker, the Republican tax plan is nothing more than voodoo economics. Only in Washington would Republicans tell average American families that raising their national debt is a way to solve this economy's malaise. Raising their debt. This is not a $350 billion tax package; it is a $1 trillion tax package, because no one believes that it will be ultimate, and the elimination does not exist. And that $1 trillion tax package is a job killer, not a job creator. Ask the 2 million-plus jobs we have already lost under the original Bush tax plan.

And, yes, it has a child tax credit; but then, before you know it, it is taken away and elided. I just want to ask what is not eliminated? The accelerated reductions in the top income tax. They are forever. Child tax credit: here today, gone tomorrow. Top tax relief: there forever. That is class warfare.

FEDERAL PRISON INDUSTRIES TAKING AMERICAN JOBS

(Mr. HOEKSTRA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Speaker, one of the fastest growing companies in America today is Federal Prison Industries. In the last 2 weeks they have unveiled a brand-new scheme to take jobs from the private sector and move them into Federal Prison Industries.

Their new scheme is, under competitive bidding, companies come in and present their bids; and at the opening, companies get excited because they have won the bid. But Federal Prison Industries comes in and says no, no, no, you do not understand the new bidding process. Give us your bid. We will take a look at it, and then there will be a second round of bidding. But the only company that gets to bid in the second round is Federal Prison Industries.

Mr. Speaker, it is time to stop this charade. It is time to provide best value to government contractors. Let the bidding process work. Let American workers compete against Federal prisons, so they can keep their jobs.

TAX CUT PLAN A FRAUD AND FAILURE

(Mr. INSLEE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. INSLEE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to salute the common sense of the American people who, after weeks of stump ing by the President, have concluded that this alleged tax cut plan is a fraud and a failure.

According to the Wall Street Journal, Americans two to one have concluded that this plan will have no real effect on U.S. economic performance, and the American people are right. Six out of ten Americans have concluded that this plan shortchanges job creation in favor of the rich; six out of ten Americans have concluded that this tax cut plan benefits the wealthy more than average people; and six out of ten Americans have concluded that this tax cut plan will increase the Federal budget deficit. And they are right, because we will now have to increase our debt limit $394 billion.

Mr. Speaker, the American people have got it right; and I will tell you, they are not buying this used car from this President.

Civil Service Reforms: Reinstating a Workers' Bill of Rights

(Ms. Loretta Sanchez of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.) Mr. Speaker, I rise today in frustration over the Committee on Rules' failure to allow the Cooper Civil Service Bill of Rights to be offered today as an amendment to the defense authorization bill.

On the day that Congress left for the Easter recess, the Department of Defense presented Congress with the largest civil service reform package in nearly half a century. Impacting nearly 60,000 Department of Defense civilian employees, the proposed bill strips workers of fundamental protections, including the rights to collective bargaining and the right to belong to a union without fear of discrimination. In fact, it does not even guarantee overtime pay for firefighters.

Although I agree that the Department of Defense civil service reforms are necessary, the manner in which these reforms have been moving through this body is disgraceful.

Congress is doing a disservice to our hard-working men and women at the Department of Defense by failing to bring this issue up for a debate. The Cooper amendment would have restored, among many things, critical worker protections, including veterans' preferences, freedom from political patronage, collective bargaining rights, membership in labor organizations, and protection from discrimination.

Mr. Speaker, the leadership in this body has failed our Department of Defense employees.

Burdens Being Placed on Back of Veterans

(Mr. Strickland asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.) Mr. STRICKLAND. Mr. Speaker, as we approach Memorial Day weekend, I think it is important for the veterans across this country to understand what this body is doing. We are placing additional burdens on the backs of our veterans for the health care they receive through the VA system in order to give a larger, more generous tax cut to the richest people in this country, many of whom have never served this country in the military.

Why do I say that? We passed a budget in this House supported by the President that asked for a $250 annual enrollment fee so that many of our veterans will be able to participate in the VA health care system. If they do not pay the enrollment fee, they cannot participate.

The President has asked for an increase in the co-payment for prescription drugs from $7 to $15 a prescription. They have placed a gag order on their health care providers, saying they can no longer actively inform veterans of the benefits they are legally entitled to receive.

So here is what we have: a decision by the President and the Congress to put additional burden on the backs of our veterans so that we can give a more generous tax cut to the richest people in this country. It is wrong.

Proposed Tax Plan Killing Jobs

(Mr. George Miller of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.) Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, Members of the House, 2 years ago President Bush brought a $1 trillion tax cut to the American public in the name of creating jobs and stimulating the economy. Since the time that he has done that, the economy has lost 2.7 million jobs; 2.7 million Americans out of work, the deficit has soared dramatically, and the economy is moving sideways, at best.

Now what does the President suggest? Today he suggests we cut taxes again, another $1 trillion, and that $1 trillion is supposed to create jobs. Very shortly President Bush will reign over the loss of 3 million jobs since he has come to office. The President keeps putting forth this plan as a means of creating jobs. What it has done is it has killed 3 million jobs. The President's economic plan has yet to create its first job, its first job; but it has killed 3 million jobs in an American economy. The American public ought to understand, it is a $1 trillion giveaway to the richest people in the country and a job killer for working Americans.

Appointment of Conferees on H.R. 2, Jobs and Growth Reconciliation Tax Act of 2003

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the bill (H.R. 2) to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 201 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2004, with a Senate amendment thereto, disagree to the Senate amendment, and agree to the conference asked by the Senate. The Clerk read the title of the bill. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Motion to instruct offered by Mr. Stenholm

Mr. STENHOLM. Mr. Speaker, I offer a motion to instruct conferees.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mr. STENHOLM moves that the managers on the part of the House at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the Senate amendment to the bill H.R. 2 be instructed—

(1) to include in the conference report the fiscal relief provided to States by section 371 of the Senate amendment, and

(2) to the maximum extent possible within the scope of conference agree to a conference report that will neither increase the Federal budget deficit nor increase the amount of the debt subject to the public debt limit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas (Mr. THOMAS) each will be recognized for 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. STENHOLM).

Mr. STENHOLM. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, in his State of the Union address, the President told us this country has many problems, and that we will not deny, we will not ignore, we will not pass along our problems to other Congresses, other presidents, and to other generations.

As a proud grandfather who wants to leave a better future for my grandchildren, I applauded that statement; and I applaud it today. Unfortunately, our current budget, our current economic game plan, our current budget policies, would do precisely what we all applauded we should not do. Every dollar of the tax cuts passed by the Senate will be added to our $6.4 trillion debt.

At the same time, we are debating another round of tax cuts, the leadership of this House is trying to slip through an increase in our debt limit of nearly $1 trillion, the largest increase in the history of our country. Our total debt in this country in 1979 was less than the amount that we will borrow in a period of less than 2 years. That is what we are objecting to in this motion to instruct conferees.

I do not oppose tax cuts. In fact, I have stood with my fellow Blue Dogs and an overwhelming majority of this side of the aisle, and a few from that side of the aisle, and voted this year to do the tax cuts on the marriage tax penalty, to do the child tax credit speed-up. But our budget, our bill, did not borrow the money to do it.
My objection to the tax cuts that we are about to vote on today is that they are being done with borrowed money. It is irresponsible to pass a tax cut for ourselves today that leaves the bill to our children and grandchildren in the form of increased debt.

If my friends on the other side of the aisle honestly believe that tax cuts with borrowed money is good economic policy, they should be willing to stand up and vote to increase the national debt to pay for their tax cuts, instead of relying on parliamentary maneuvers to avoid an up-and-down vote on this issue.

Our current economic and budget policies will increase the most wasteful spending in the federal budget, the $332 billion collected from taxpayers simply to cover our national interest payments. The tax bill passed by the House would increase this wasteful spending by $273 billion over the next 10 years.

The best way to ensure that we, as well as our children and our grandchildren, are all overtaxed for the rest of our lives is to keep borrowing money and running up our debts. Our children will be forced to pay even higher taxes just to avoid the increasing interest on the debts we incurred and getting fewer services from the government for the taxes they pay.

Under the majority's budget, the debt will be more than 20 percent of all taxes going to pay the interest on our national debt by the end of the decade; $520 billion the Congress will have to tax the people in 2012, assuming 4 percent interest, assuming 4 percent interest.

That is the economic game plan that, if it works exactly like the proponents and the chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means who will defend this, sincerely in his own heart, if it works exactly like they say and it creates exactly the amount of jobs that they propose, we will increase our national debt to $13 trillion over the next 10 years, continuing to ignore the baby boom retirements that will occur beginning in 2011, continuing to postpone to the next Congress and the next president dealing with the most serious problem facing the economy and this country, which is, how do we deal with the crushing unfunded liability of the Social Security system and the Medicare system, ignoring that in order to do what they will explain, as we have heard in 1 minutes today, is a jobs-creating tax bill.

I hope they are right. As I said 2 years ago when we stood on this floor and opposed the then tax cut of the 2001 variety, I hoped that I would eat the biggest plate of crow in town. I sincerely did. For the good of our country, I hope my friends on the other side of the aisle are right, because it will be better for our country if they are right.

Unfortunately, their track record thus far does not meet the rhetoric that we will hear over and over and over again.

When my Republican colleagues talk about the economic benefits of tax cuts, they conveniently ignore the harm to the economy and the impact on private capital markets from the government running large permanent deficits.

Just yesterday, Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan told the Joint Economic Committee that deficits do matter in any evaluation. What happens to deficits is an integral part of the reality of the Congressional Budget Office and the Joint Committee on Taxation both concluded that the tax cuts would actually harm the economy over the long term by increasing the deficit.

I ask my colleagues, as one Democrat who used to vote with them, with my friend who came to Congress at the same time in 1979, when we used to try or we passed the balanced budget constitutional amendment 371, what has happened to him? What has caused the gentleman to suddenly start saying that deficits do not matter, balancing the budget does not matter? If we believe that deficits matter, if we agree that what we are doing is placing a crushing burden on our grandchildren, vote for this motion to instruct and then follow it. Do what this motion says.

The motion the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL) has put forward today, or I have been privileged to do on his behalf to this point, is to include in the conference report the fiscal relief provided by the States to the maximum extent possible within the scope of the Senate amendment. That amounts to $20 billion in two different forms, $10 billion through a pro rata formulation with minimums to smaller States and smaller territories.

Whenever we have to reconcile the differences between the two bodies, we oftentimes have to listen very carefully to whether or not what one or the other side is asking for is important to them. Having talked to a number of my colleagues, both Democrat and Republican, on the other side of the Capitol, I believe this provision is important to them. I believe it is important to them to the level that, if it is not included, they would seriously consider the way in which they would be required to vote on a conference report that was placed in front of them without this provision.

So I can tell the gentleman that I have every intention of including section 371, as we can mutually agree to internal amendments to that section in the conference report.

The second item in the motion to instruct begins with the language “to the maximum extent possible,” which I believe is a very strong observation that what we are going to do is, as humans, attempt to deal with the situation as best as we are humanly capable of dealing with it, to the maximum extent possible.

I have no problem with any of the language following “to the maximum extent possible,” although I did hear the gentleman read that section and not read that portion of the section, as though it was a certain things must follow; but in fact it is not, the way it is written. It is a desire to the maximum extent possible to do certain things. When I read it that way, I have no objection to what the gentleman is saying in the second section, either, when I read it the way it is written.

I would tell the gentleman, his reference to the time we came and the decisions that we have made, at the time we came the gentleman and his party were in the majority. Currently, the gentleman from California and his party is in the majority.
Mr. STENHOLM. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. THOMAS. I yield to the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. STENHOLM. Would the gentleman care to revise and extend the remark that he just made about the success of his party in the majority and what has happened to our national debt?

Mr. THOMAS. I did not say what has happened to our national debt. I said "paid down on the national debt," money that went to the reduction of the national debt. That was my statement.

Now, let me go on and talk about his concerns and my concerns about deficits, because when we have a deficit and when we add to a deficit, $1 added to the deficit in one particular way I believe is substantively different than $1 added to the national debt and deficit in a different way.

For example, when we have fought past wars, especially significant societal and in fact world wars, when we have to build that battleship, build that carrier, build that bomber, build that tank, we clearly spent money we did not have. That is a dollar spent in deficit, but it was spent as an investment to ensure our way of life. No one would argue that that was not a very high calling for the deficit dollar.

In the decades following World War II, and especially in the 1960s and in the 1970s and to a certain extent through the 1980s, it became a habit when the revenue did not equal the desired spending of the Federal Government that the Congress would spend $1 it didn't have, a deficit dollar, spent to sustain programs or to create new programs which would then in the future demand more deficit dollars to keep them going, unless there was a decision to raise taxes and bring in the revenue that would be required to cover the new and growing costs of the Federal Government.

What happened was that year after year after year deficit dollars were spent. What for? To sustain spending programs. That became known as the structural deficit, that they just continued a deficit that was built in because it was easier, more convenient, less painful than asking the American people to contribute more to cover the modern costs, because it was easier, more convenient, internal as well as external, internal to the people, made about investments and the ability to convince people that certain things were real when perhaps they were not, where you create investment opportunities that for one reason or another you spend a deficit dollar investing in the economy to be able to cover the expenses the Federal Government incurs. That is not a structural deficit. That is an investment deficit dollar.

While there is no question we wish there were no deficit, recent history would clearly indicate what has gone on which certainly has contributed to the problems we have; not just external, international, international, that people made about investments and the ability to convince people that certain things were real when perhaps they were not, where you create investment opportunities that for some reason or another you spend a deficit dollar investing in the economy to be able to cover the expenses the Federal Government incurs. That is not a structural deficit. That is an investment deficit dollar.

What happened was in many of the investments they were not placed wisely. I do not think that the government should deal with that, but nevertheless it had an impact on the economy. We can go over a number of other factors that have placed us where we are today.

The gentleman’s emphasis in the motion to instruct is should we spend deficit dollars not for structural deficits, and that is why we are opposed to significant increases in spending, if we do not have the money, but should we spend a deficit dollar investing in the economy so it can grow. There is a legitimate difference of agreement as to whether, and how we do it, is appropriate or not. The problem dealing with that. That is the structure we have here and the debate that will take place.

So the way the gentleman has worded his motion to instruct in which I think to be able to bring back a conference report the first one needs to be included in ways that make it more amenable to more people, and the way the gentleman words his second provision to the maximum extent possible, the gentleman from California would accept the motion to instruct. I have no problem with it based upon our clear difference notwithstanding about the way we spend deficit dollars, because to the maximum extent possible, we will not because it does not say you will not. One does not create a crustacean bed where if you do not fit cramming you in that you are in contravention to your position, no. The gentleman I do consider to be a reasonable proposal to the maximum extent possible. I would indicate to the gentleman and if he has now transferred his time to the gentleman from New York, if the gentleman is willing to yield back the balance of his time, I am more than willing to yield back the balance of my time since we are in agreement.

If the gentleman, therefore, and I would recognize the gentleman from New York, is willing to yield back the balance of his time, I will yield back the balance of my time; we will agree to the motion to instruct so we can get on to the conference.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. THOMAS. I yield to the gentleman from New York.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I think I should be recognized by the Speaker.

Mr. THOMAS. I am yielding to the gentleman on my time to respond to my question. Is the gentleman willing to yield back the balance of his time?

Mr. RANGEL. I am anxious to be recognized by the Speaker.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, then I will say to Members, everything that is being said after the refusal to accept the offer to yield back so we can go to conference is nothing more than politically motivated. If they were sincere in this motion to instruct, which we are willing to accept, we would be on to the conference. Instead, we are going to hear a whole series of discussions which obviously can be made when the conference report is brought back.

I see on the other side of the aisle the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. HOYER), the majority whip, who has taken the mike more than once. What has happened to the comity in this body? Why are we not working together? We should show decent respect for either side. All I am saying is, here is the offer: let us yield back, let us accept the motion to instruct and go to conference. The answer is, no. Clearly the intentions, the motivations, the language probably is here for an entirely different reason; and actually, I am saddened a little bit.

Mr. Speaker, I tell my friends on the other side of the aisle, you have offered, we have accepted.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TANNER. Mr. Speaker, I have a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LATOURETTE). The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. TANNER. Mr. Speaker, is it permissible for a Member to impugn the motives of another Member? I think he has imputed motives of the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL) and those of us who want to speak on this issue by his words.
The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, a Member who has only talked about political motivation would not be in violation of the rules.

The gentleman from California (Mr. Thomas) is still recognized.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, apparently my friends on the other side of the aisle are interested in employing parliamentary maneuvers so I am not able to make a very basic point. The basic point is this: if we had yielded back our time, it would have been a sincere offer and a sincere acceptance.

Since they are not willing to yield back, everybody understands what this is all about.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, let me first thank the graciousness of the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means and congratulate him on the sincerity with which he accepts the motion to instruct the conferees for creating the atmosphere so we can have discussion on what is happening here.

This is a motion to instruct the conferees; and to people who are not aware of it, there is an assumption that there is a conference, a conference that involves Members of the House and the Senate appointed by our great Speaker to resolve the technical differences in a bill from the House of Representatives and the Senate, for us to be represented, Democrats and Republicans alike. And the distinguished chairman of the committee says that he will accept our recommendations that were drafted in parliamentary language to report neither an increase in the Federal budget deficit nor an increase in the amount of the debt subject to the public debt.

Now, where he is saying that this is his conduct in the conference, all of last night and this morning we have heard that the chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means has already reached agreement with his Republican friends in the Senate. I do not know who is going to be appointed as a conferee, but it is abundantly clear that they have reported to the press that they have already decided what they are going to do, and so the whole idea that democracy is taking place here has been shattered by the fact that the Republicans have yet to come out of the dark room that they have been in to share with us where will the conference be.

I do think that we understand this, that the eloquence with which the chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means described how repugnant the deficit is to him, that he only found it difficult to live with because it was caused by Members of Congress’ propensity to spend money for programs.

I really think that is the key to the whole thing. He has no problem in creating the deficit for tax cuts, but his problem is when we are spending it for education and housing and Social Security and Medicare and prescription drugs. That is where he draws the line. It seems as though while the papers are concerned with the negotiators, and that is what is referred to on the front page of the Wall Street Journal, not the congressional conferences taking place trying to resolve differences, but what he and his Republican counterpart have decided that they are going to long-term economic gain, something similar to what they did several years ago when they said they had a program to create jobs, and it turns out that they had a program to increase deficits.

So here we are today saying that they have agreed on a $350 billion tax cut when everyone inside the Beltway and in the House and Senate knows that they have agreed to a trillion dollar tax cut and a trillion dollars in borrowed money; and the fact remains that for the next decade the interest that we will be paying on the money that has been borrowed for tax cuts will be more than the money that we ever will be paying for discretionary programs to provide assistance for Americans.

Now that they have come out of the dark room and agreed that they are going to do the best, I can tell Members: no matter what they come out with, it is a sham. We are going to pay the price for this dramatic shift as to when did we start borrowing trillions of dollars in order to reduce the taxes on the precious few already-blessed people with high incomes that will be the beneficiaries of it.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I will reach my hand out; I will reach my hand out. Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I will reach my hand out. I will reach my hand out. Mr. Speaker, I yield. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the distinguished gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Hoyer) has reminded us time and time again, there is not enough comity in this House, that we ought not treat each other the way we have been treated. I thought I would take the initiative.

I find it interesting when the request is made repeatedly on this side, apparent with it is a request from my Whip. When I accept that offer and reach my hand back, it is denied. So then you wonder why the request was made in the first place, or perhaps it was just a request that they hoped would remain out there, floating ephemeral.

What I have done is I have put my hand out and said let us get to conference. The gentleman from New York (Mr. Rangel) says he does not know where the conference is or where it is going to be. With the program from New York, I do not know either. Why, as the gentleman well knows, the Senate is organizing this conference. It is the chairman of the Senate Committee on Finance who will be the chairman of the conference. They will organize it, and they will structure it.

If we can get this motion to instruct behind it, I would have preferred yielding back the balance of my time, but since the gentleman is concerned he does not know, once again, on a totally equal basis, I do not know either. We will try to pursue that together. Perhaps that is one thing we can do together today because clearly you are not willing to accept the gesture of moving on so we can actually do it by accepting our offer on the motion to instruct.

I guess it just concerns me a little bit because from now on when I sit on the floor and listen to the platitudes about how we ought to work together, we will never have a better understanding of the context in which those statements are made. We understand it is political rhetoric, just as everything that is going to be said from now on is political rhetoric.

I just wanted you to know that in all sincerity, to live up to what you said, I wanted to give you a chance. You offered. We are willing to accept. You are not willing to accept our offer to accept his lack of understanding of where the conference is going to be.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3½ minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Hoyer), the Democratic whip.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, the chairman can say over and over and over again that he reaches out his hand, but we are interested in employing the undermining of our economy, the injuring of our country, not inclusive, a process that is taking place trying to resolve differences, but what he and his Republican counterpart have decided that they are going to long-term economic gain, something similar to what they did several years ago when they said they had a program to create jobs, and it turns out that they had a program to increase deficits.

So here we are today saying that they have agreed on a $350 billion tax cut when everyone inside the Beltway and in the House and Senate knows that they have agreed to a trillion dollar tax cut and a trillion dollars in borrowed money; and the fact remains that we will be paying on the money that has been borrowed for tax cuts will be more than the money that we ever will be paying for discretionary programs to provide assistance for Americans.

Now that they have come out of the dark room and agreed that they are going to do the best, I can tell Members: no matter what they come out with, it is a sham. We are going to pay the price for this dramatic shift as to when did we start borrowing trillions of dollars in order to reduce the taxes on the precious few already-blessed people with high incomes that will be the beneficiaries of it.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I am even more frightened now that the chairman has indicated publicly how little he knows about what the Senate is doing since he has been on television all night sharing with us that he has been negotiating with the Senate. I accept his lack of understanding of where the conference is going to be.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3½ minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Hoyer), the Democratic whip.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, the chairman can say over and over and over again that he reaches out his hand in comity in seeking bipartisan participation. But no matter how often he says it, no matter how sincerely he says it, the lines from his mouth, the reality is starkly different. Yes, we reject a sham offer for a sham process, predetermined and not inclusive, a process that is leading to the injuring of our country, the undermining of our economy, the destruction of jobs. Those are the facts, as the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Stenholm) said earlier. The creation of gargantuan debt. And, yes, as the chairman knows but will not repeat, under Mr. Reagan and Mr. Bush, their budget request forgettently that Democrats did, their budget request requested more spending than the Congress gave them in those 12 years. This President has asked for more spending than we had last year.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this motion to instruct, not caved in, not if you mean this or that, as the chairman says. This motion intrudes into the tax bill. It includes the provisions on State aid as provided for in the Senate. Frankly, I know it galls many of my colleagues on the other side of the aisle, none more so than the chairman, that the States are now asking the Federal Government for help in weathering their worst fiscal crisis since World War II, caused in large part by the fiscal policies of this administration. Do we ignore the fact that many States are now considering massive layoffs in an effort to save money and balance their budgets? The chairman would say yes. Do we ignore the fact that at least one State, Kentucky, is even considering letting prison inmates out early to save money?

Mr. Speaker, that puffed-up piety, that diaphanous sanctimony, that trick, all time has expired and the question was rejected. You yield back my time. That was rejected. Or not. You yield back your time; I will instruct and against this package to increase the deficit, which the CBO has said.

The gentleman from California and not to include language to raise the debt limit. Our Democratic colleagues would have created a million jobs and did not want us to tell the American public that when they did their first tax bill of a trillion dollars 2 years ago, that since that time we lost 2.7 million jobs, the economy has faltered, the market has faltered and the Bush administration and the Republicans in the House have to say that the chairman of the committee would yield me this time.

It is certainly understandable why the chairman of the committee would not want us to talk about this bill. It is certainly understandable that he would not want us to talk about this bill. All you have got to do is call a rollcall vote. If you on the other side of the aisle call a rollcall vote after you have offered and we have accepted, then it is pretty obvious where you are going. Words piled upon words cannot bury this simple fact: I offered; you refused.

Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: "It might have been."

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. Rangel. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California.

(Mr. George Miller of California asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker. I yield to the gentleman for yielding me this time.

It is certainly understandable why the chairman of the committee would not want us to talk about this bill. It is certainly understandable that he would not want us to learn from us that this is a trillion-dollar tax bill that plagues this country faster and further into debt than anything in history. He certainly would not want us to tell the American people that when they did their first tax bill of a trillion dollars 2 years ago, that since that time we lost 2.7 million jobs, the economy has faltered, the market has faltered and the Bush administration and the Republicans in the House and the Senate did nothing.

They do nothing but take care of the Bush class in America against the middle class in America. I am sure the gentleman from California would not like to have us tell that to the American public, just as he did not want us to tell the American public when we had a substitute and they denied us time to talk about it, they denied us the right to offer. Why? Because we had a substitute and they have to say that they would have created a million jobs and no long-term deficit. They could not figure out how to construct one. They did not have the discipline to construct it. They did not have the morals to construct it. They did not have the ethics to construct it, so they just dove into the pit of debt and deficits and red ink.

And now as they emerge from that pit, it is apparent that off of those deficits, red ink, muck, is left to be left to the future generations. That is their plan. And I am sure they would not like us to talk about it. And I am sure that he will beg us to yield back our time. But we think that this is the House where the people rule. This is where the people ought to be able to tell what is taking place here. The facts that cannot be buried, as he would say, is the exploding deficit, the cost of these tax bills, a $400 billion deficit this year, a $7 trillion deficit over the long term. There is no conceivable way of passing that on to future generations.

Mr. Thomas. Might I ask the Speaker the remaining division of time?
in the engine that drives our economy, the private sector, should not be subjected to the Federal Government taking money out of that small pot. That is what we want to put in front of you. I think you are a little worried about it because you think that the tab will not work. We do not want to provide zero tax to the richest in America. We want to provide zero tax in the investment of the engine of this economy to those on the bottom and the second to the bottom rung of the ladder, so that they can amass wealth, they can understand what it means to be a capitalist, they can share in the resources of this country; and I believe your real fear is that eventually they will understand what it means to think and be a Republican.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

It is so sad that the gentleman constantly refers to this as some type of a game and bringing to the House the voices of people without jobs and without hope that they consider this tax cut just as repugnant as the words that have been uttered about this class warfare. It is a class warfare, and it is the working class that are the victims.

Mr. Speaker, it is a great honor to yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI), our distinguished leader.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished ranking member for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I listened intently to the comments of the gentleman from California (Mr. THOMAS), the chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, just now as he talked about the rules of the House and those rules foreclosing the option of the Democrats to be able to bring jobs to the floor.

What I heard the gentleman says is that the rules of this House are rigged against working families in America; that the rules of this House under his interpretation are rigged against bringing a bill that would create jobs, that would invest in infrastructure in our country and immediately create jobs which would help address the concerns of cities, States, and localities in terms of homeland security needs so important to the American people; that it is rigged against extending unemployment benefits to America's workers where the money is there for that purpose and which would inject demand immediately into the economy, immediately creating jobs because of people having to spend that money on necessities; and that the rules of the House are rigged against fiscal responsibility.

The Democratic proposal was at a cost of zero. It paid for itself. It was offset. So if the rules of this House do not allow our old syllabus will not work in a very direct way for working families in America, for the middle class in America, then the rules of the House should be changed.

The gentleman knows full well that the minority had every opportunity for amendment and substitutes when the Democrats were in power. But it is no use talking about process. Let us talk about jobs. Let us talk about job creation. Let us talk about immediately infusing our economy. Let us talk about fiscal soundness. Let us talk about the debt limit, that this irresponsible, reckless Republican proposal that may be coming to this floor will demand that we lift the debt ceiling for a record amount. Further, it is being used to further indebting America's children well into the future, but without a vote and without a debate and without the American people understanding the damage that the Republicans are doing to our economy and to our future.

Republicans are supporting record debt increases to finance a tax cut that hundreds of economists and Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan agree will not grow the economy. And sadly, the gentleman from New York put forth his proposal has started the unraveling of fiscal responsibility in our country. That is not leadership. How irresponsible that was.

But the Republicans in Congress picked up on it and started a feeding frenzy of further tax cuts, further responsibility in terms of our budget. And some of their proposals even administration allies, such as Kevin Hassett of the American Enterprise Institute. So I agree that what they propose in their dividend plan is one of the most patently absurd tax policies ever proposed.

Mr. Speaker, public policy is important. Fiscal policy, budget policy makes a difference. It has ramifications in the economy. In order to back up their claim that passing this bill will stimulate the economy this year, House Republicans are using gimmicks that border on the absurd and have no chance for viability or viability, regardless of their claims.

Their bill delays billions of corporate tax payments, otherwise due September 15, for 16 days until October 1 when the next fiscal year begins. How does delaying taxes for 2 weeks create jobs for American workers? Again this is process. We want jobs. In order to jam more tax breaks for the wealthy into this bill, Republicans have included provisions to end middle-class-oriented tax cuts, leaving middle-class Americans with a tax increase in 2006.

This will force a future Congress to either increase taxes or add billions to our spiraling debt just as baby boomers are retiring.

The tax cuts for the higher end ought to be left alone. The middle class asked to subsidize the wealthy. That is simply not right. The projected deficit for this year is already a record high, and the Republican's want to add $1 trillion more in debt to pay for this tax cut. It defies logic. It defies economics, and it defies promises made to the American people.

Shortly after taking office, President Bush said, "We should approach our nation's budget as any prudent family would." And last August he reiterated, "We cannot go down the path of soaring deficits." We cannot go down the path of soaring deficits? What are we doing today? This tax bill breaks that promise.

The reckless tax bill promoted by Republicans in Congress fails to help those who need it most, the middle class; fails to create jobs; fails to maintain fiscal responsibility. The Democrats have their own initiative, a plan that creates one million new jobs this year and gets the economy moving again without adding to the deficit, and the Republicans tell us that the rules do not allow that.

We are fighting for a return to fiscal responsibility. The motion to instruct is part of that fight. I urge my colleagues to support it, and I commend the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL) for his leadership in putting it forth.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as I may consume.

I find it ironic that the allowed names made their way down into the well in terms of, need I say, class warfare, in terms of cuts for the richest people in America and the poor working people do not get a break. If someone would actually examine what it is we propose to do. It is to reduce the dividend and the capital gain tax on working Americans, on those in the 10 and the 15 percent bracket, that we retain taxes on the richest Americans, remove them from those in the lowest brackets.

I know it does not fit their yellowed notes, but that is what we propose to do. And I know change is difficult.

I especially know change is difficult when the minority leader takes the well and begins to talk about how fair they were when they were in the majority, but never mind that. And if the Members will read in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, it trails off into a failure to present specifics about how reasonable and fair they were. In fact, she said the rules of the House have been rigged against them. I find it ironic because all we say is follow the rules.

But since the subject was brought up, let us visit a little recent history. When they were in the majority, there was not even a motion to recommit guaranteed to the minority. The present rules of the House under this majority are the most liberal rules ever extended to a minority in the history of the House of Representatives. They just apparently do not remember because all we say is follow the rules.

So everything we hear is rhetoric. Some of it comes close to being accurate.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Michigan (Mr. LEVIN), who has made such an
Mr. THOMAS. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I think I finally get it. The gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN) indicated that some of these provisions are permanent. I actually thought that since it is called the reconciliation, governed by the rules of the Senate, by the way, not the House, that anything that is done under the reconciliation process by definition cannot be permanent. In fact, on the one hand they criticize a number of provisions that expire.

Frankly, when we are trying to stimulate the economy and we offer a reduction on depreciable assets, what we want them to do is make a decision to buy that truck, to buy that computer as soon as possible. That helps stimulate the economy and we offer a reduction on depreciable assets, what we want them to do is make a decision to buy that truck, to buy that computer as soon as possible. That helps stimulate the economy. That helps create jobs. If we leave the offer to reduce the cost on depreciation for the entire decade, a decision can be made anytime during the decade. That is not fair. That is not a political argument; that is a fact, a demonstrable, proven fact.

Now, part two of this motion says, to the maximum extent possible, within the scope of the conference. To me, that means what the Blue Dog plan was that was rejected on the floor, because, to the maximum extent possible, the Blue Dog plan does what we have asked. It neither increases the Federal budget deficit, nor does it increase the amount of debt subject to the public limit. So when one wants to say to the maximum extent possible, we can do that. We could do that by adopting the Blue Dog plan.

The other thing I would simply say is this: if we keep going down this road, we are building in such a structural long-term tax increase called interest on the national debt that the young people of this country are going to be unable to have the options and the choices about what kind of government they want when they are our age, because they will be strapped to the gurney with debt and interest that has to be paid on that debt that we are leaving them.

That is not a political argument either. That is a fact. With interest, compound interest, capitalism, whatever you want to call it, interest must be paid before anything else in our system.

So I would just hope that we would actually take a look at what we are doing.
Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SANDLIN), a member of the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. SANDLIN. Mr. Speaker, to quote a popular Republican President, “There you go again.” With no apparent sense of irony, the Republican leadership scrambled to complete an irresponsible, unaffordable tax package during the 2001 week that the other body will consider a $994 billion increase in the public debt, the largest in American history.

The House leadership pushed a massive increase of $450 billion in the debt limit not even 1 year ago; and here they go again, with a debt limit increase that is more than double the size of last year’s record increase. We have about $7 trillion in debt. We pay over $1 trillion a day in interest in this country, and it is outrageous.

The Democratic motion to instruct conference attempts to restore at least some sanity to Congress’ fiscal mismanagement of the country by insisting that the tax reconciliation conference report should increase neither the deficit nor the debt in this country. Further, Mr. Speaker, the Democratic motion to instruct recognizes the necessity of relief to our States. Under the Senate tax bill, Texas would receive approximately $1 billion in fiscal relief, including $371.4 million in increased Medicaid funding. This is especially necessary at a time when the Texas House approved a budget that would slash Medicaid and eliminate coverage under CHIP for 250,000 low-income children.

If the passage of an irresponsible tax cut is inevitable, despite the highest projected budget deficits and a record national debt, the very least we could do is aid our States.

Mr. Speaker, it is my privilege and pleasure to yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. McCrery), a member of the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. McCrery. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, the previous two speakers, the gentleman from Tennessee and the gentleman from Texas, talked about the national debt and how much it has increased from 1994 to 2004, and those numbers are startling. But most of that debt, Mr. Speaker, is debt that we are paying to the Social Security trust fund, to the Medicare trust fund; and surely those gentlemen are not suggesting that we should not be accumulating that debt in those trust funds and paying interest on that debt.

So I just want to make clear that for several years under the Republican majority we paid down the debt held by the public, including we were continuing to accumulate debt in the trust funds. Economists and market watchers distinguish between the publicly held debt and total government debt, and that distinction needs to be made here on this floor.

So, Mr. Speaker, while the figures they gave are technically accurate, they are far from the truth when it comes to fiscal responsibility in this House.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York (Mr. Israel).

Mr. Israel. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, earlier I listened to the distinguished chairman of the committee talk about the importance of funding our national security budgets, and I agree with him. But make no mistake about it, this tax plan makes it harder for our kids to fund their national security budgets.

The nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office has estimated that starting in 2008 we are going to require defense budgets of $464 billion a year. What does that mean? Within a few years, we would have to cut $464 billion with at least $54 billion a year every year over this year’s authorized limits. That is $384 billion for defense before this tax cut expires. You do the math: $364 billion more for defense, and $350 billion more for defense is $550 billion. We are draining the Treasury when we need even more for defense.

No conference would go into a fancy car dealer, pick out the most expensive model, and say, Let my kids pay for it. Mr. Speaker, this is reckless. For those Members of this body who say they are strong on defense, let them be strong on defense budgets. Strong defense budgets are more important than tax cuts. This plan does the opposite.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. Taylor).

Mr. Taylor. Mr. Speaker, this is false, you are doing it to save the system, and you are favoring the rich and hurting the poor. The test will be the choice made by the American people agree on and move this country forward.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, this is the theft of the future of America. Those people who claim to be for a balanced budget are running up $817 billion worth of debt in 2 years, stealing it from your Social Security trust fund, stealing it from Medicare; and now they are saying the only answer to this is more debt.

Please vote against this.
Medicare system, the future education of our children, affordable housing, being placed in Republican hands, then the situation is worse than I ever thought.

No, you do not have to be an economist to figure this move out. What we are talking about is borrowing money, making an insecure Social Security system, privatizing the Medicare system, not having enough funds to and keeping every child behind. And why are we doing this? Are we borrowing it for spending, or are we borrowing it for tax cuts? I think the American people understand what we are doing.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the motion.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion to instruct offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. STENHOLM).

The motion to instruct was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the Chair appoints the following confrerees:

For consideration of the House bill and the Senate amendment, and modifications committed to conference:

Messrs. THOMAS, DELAY and RANGEL.

There was no objection.

PROVIDING FOR FURTHER CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 1588, NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2004

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LATOURETTE). The unfinished business is the question of suspending the rules and passing the bill, H.R. 1588.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. At this point, the unfinished business will be deferred until a later moment in time.

VETERANS COMPENSATION COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT ACT OF 2003

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LATOURETTE). The unfinished business is the question of suspending the rules and passing the bill, H.R. 1588.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. At this point, the unfinished business will be deferred until a later moment in time.

Resolved, That at any time after the adoption of this resolution the Speaker may, pursuant to clause 2(b) of rule XVIII, declare the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for further consideration of the bill (H.R. 1588) to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2004 for military activities of the Department of Defense, to prescribe military personnel strengths for fiscal year 2004, and for other purposes. No further amendment to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute shall be in order except those printed in the report of the Committee on Rules accompanying this resolution and amendments en bloc described in section 2. Each amendment printed in the report of the Committee on Rules shall be considered only in the order printed in the report (except as provided in section 3 of the resolution) and shall be subject to a demand for division of the question in the House or in the Committee of the Whole.

Each amendment shall be debatable for 10 minutes, unless otherwise specified in the resolution, except that the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Armed Services may each offer one amendment for the purpose of further debate on any pending amendment. All points of order against amendments printed in the report of the Committee on Rules or amendments en bloc described in section 2 are waived.

Sec. 2. It shall be in order at any time for the chairman of the Committee on Armed Services or his designee to offer amendments en bloc consisting of amendments printed in the report of the Senate on H.R. 1588 not earlier disposed of or germane modifications of any such amendment. Amendments en bloc offered pursuant to this section shall be debatable for 20 minutes equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Armed Services or their designees, shall not be subject to amendment, and shall not be subject to a demand for division of the question in the House or in the Committee of the Whole. For the purpose of inclusion in such amendments en bloc, an amendment printed in the form of a motion to strike may be modified to the form of a germane perfecting amendment to the text originally proposed to be stricken.

At the conclusion of consideration of the bill for amendment the Committee may recognize for the purpose of further debate on amendments en bloc, the original proponent of an amendment included in such amendments en bloc may in the text specified in section 3 of the resolution, make in order only amendments printed in the Committee of the Whole may recognize for consideration of any amendment printed in the report of the Committee on Rules out of the order printed, but not later than the chairman of the Committee on Armed Services or a designee announces from the floor a request to that effect.

Sec. 4. At the conclusion of consideration of the bill for amendment the Committee may recognize for the purpose of further debate on amendments en bloc, the original proponent of an amendment printed in the Committee of the Whole may recognize for consideration of any amendment printed in the report of the Committee on Rules out of the order printed, but not later than the chairman of the Committee on Armed Services or a designee announces from the floor a request to that effect.

H. RES. 247

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 247 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Speaker read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 247

Resolved, That at any time after the adoption of this resolution the Speaker may, pursuant to clause 2(b) of rule XVIII, declare the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole.

Mr. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, for purposes of debate Command support the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Texas, Mr. FROST, pending which I yield myself such time as I may consider. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for purposes of debate.

Yesterday, the Committee on Rules met and granted a structured rule for H.R. 1588, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004. This rule provides for further consideration of the bill and makes in order only those amendments printed in the Committee on Rules report accompanying the resolution and amendments en bloc described in section 2.

The amendments printed in the report shall be considered only in the order printed in the report, except as provided in section 3 of the resolution, may be offered only by a Member designated in the report, shall be considered as read, and shall be subject to a demand for division of the question in the House or in the Committee of the Whole.

Each amendment shall be debatable for 10 minutes, unless otherwise specified in the resolution, and shall be subject to a demand for division of the question in the House or in the Committee of the Whole.

Finally, the rule provides one motion to recommit with or without instructions.

H.R. 1588 is more than just a signal to our soldiers, sailors, airmen, and Marines that this Nation recognizes their sacrifices. It is the means by which we meet our commitment to providing them a decent quality of life and pay, by providing an across-the-board 4.1 percent pay increase for military personnel, so as to sustain the commitment and professionalism of America's all-voluntary Armed Forces and the families that support them.

While our men and women in uniform have swiftly dispatched our enemies abroad, they face increasingly complex personal and professional challenges at home. We have a duty to take care of those who are putting their lives on the line to defend our freedom, and for the families that support them.

Currently, the Survivor Benefit Program for the survivor of an injured or ill service member who lives long enough to be disability retired is better than the benefit for the survivor of a service member who dies instantaneously. I am deeply concerned about this inequity and am pleased that this legislation recommends that the Secretary of Defense review SBP procedures and propose legislation to ensure equitable treatment for the survivors of all members of our military, regardless of their circumstances.

With Memorial Day on Monday, it is only fitting to remember those who gave the ultimate sacrifice in the defense of our country. Let us take this opportunity to reaffirm our commitment to those who are currently defending our homeland and abroad by passing this rule and the underlying legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself and this point of order.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, for all of my 25 years in Congress I have worked for a strong national defense. Like many pro-defense Democrats, I have bent over backwards to put politics aside and work together to support America's men and women in uniform. That cooperative approach is fundamental to our efforts to keep partisan politics from poisoning the Armed Forces.

So, repeatedly on the House floor and in the Committee on Rules, I have urged the Republican leadership to stop their assault on the bipartisan cooperation that has defined our approach to defense policy for so long. In response, the chairman of the Committee on Rules kept holding out hope that maybe, just maybe, in this second day of the规则 we will have strong bipartisan support. Now, these are the same Pentagon employees who have been tainting this bill.

For instance, Republican leaders used this rule to again defend their assault on America's environmental pro-protection language. Republican leaders refused to allow the House to vote on this substitute.

Mr. Speaker, Republican leaders are using this rule to rig the game in favor of their attack on work rights that have just been described as, frankly, less than bipartisan, the rule that we are addressing here happens to include amendments from my friend Californian Mr. LANTOS, the ranking minority member of the Committee on International Relations; my friend, the gentlewoman from Texas Ms. JACKSON-LEE, has an amendment in order; my Committee on Rules colleague, the gentleman from Florida Mr. HASTINGS, has an amendment that is made in order. There is a bipartisan amendment that my colleague, the gentlewoman from California Ms. WOOLSEY, is working with some Republican colleagues on.

We have amendments made in order by the gentleman from Massachusetts Mr. NADLER, the gentleman from New York Mr. SPRATT, the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Rules Mr. DREIER, the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this rule. It follows the procedure which, as I said here yesterday, has been addressed year after year.

We are coming forward with a second rule that has a wide range of amendments. Contrary to what my friend from Dallas just said, this is a very bipartisan bill. And I will make a prediction, Mr. Speaker. At the end of the day we will have strong bipartisan support, Democrats and Republicans, voting for the Defense Authorization Bill.

Now, as we proceed with this process that has just been described as, frankly, less than bipartisan, the rule that we are addressing here happens to include amendments from my fellow Californian Mr. LANTOS, the ranking minority member of the Committee on International Relations; my friend, the gentlewoman from Texas Mr. JACKSON-LEE, has an amendment in order; my Committee on Rules colleague, the gentleman from Florida Mr. HASTINGS, has an amendment that is made in order. There is a bipartisan amendment that my colleague, the gentlewoman from California Ms. WOOLSEY, is working with some Republican colleagues on.

We have amendments made in order by the gentleman from Massachusetts Mr. NADLER, the gentleman from New York Mr. SPRATT, the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Rules Mr. DREIER, the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Rules.
Now, I do know that these two hot buttons of civilian personnel and environmental questions are still out there. Now, I happen to believe that while we did consider this process, as we considered the option of other amendments, we did come to a point where, in fact, the Hefley language that was included in the Hunter amendment was the appropriate way to deal with this issue.

Yesterday, a number of us had a chance to meet with other colleagues, and I put forward to our colleague, now Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld, and talked about the environmental consequence and what impact this will have on our young men and women in uniform. And I know that the chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER), has talked about that and we heard some horror stories of what compliance has in fact done. But this measure does not, in fact, eliminate compliance with important environmental legislation like the Endangered Species Act and the Mammal Protection Act.

Now, I know on the civilian personnel question we also have this issue that has come to the forefront. Now, we went through an explanation that we do not make in order an amendment that would strike out the civilian personnel provisions. Why? Because they have made it very clear that they do not like those provisions.

Well, what has happened, Mr. Speaker, is there has been a change that has taken place since that time. I recognize we could, in fact, deal with that change; but we chose to approach the minority leadership and indicate that we would be willing, as was first asked of me, to make in order an amendment that would allow for the striking of the civilian personnel provisions; and they decided that they did not want to have that considered. And so now they are complaining that we have not made another amendment in order. And, yes, it is true, we had nearly 100 amendments submitted to us. We did not make an additional amendment in order on that issue. But we still, Mr. Speaker, are proceeding in a bipartisan way making numerous amendments. In fact, and amendments that Democrats have submitted are made in order.

I will be offering an amendment in a bipartisan way with my colleague, the gentleman from Northern California (Mr. LOFGREN), to deal with the very important computer security issue which I hope we will have bipartisan support on.

So I do want to say, contrary to what we were hearing, the spirit of this rule has been pursued in a bipartisan way as has been the legislation. I urge support of the previous question. I urge support of the rule, and I urge my colleagues to come together and provide strong support for the critically important defense of our Nation.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

My friend from California, the chairman, has said that for a selective memory. I have handled the defense authorization rules on this floor for 25 years; and when we were in the majority, we always made in order the main issues of contention under the defense bill. Sometimes they were amendments that I personally opposed and that other prodefense Members on the Democratic side opposed, but we made them in order so that the House could express its will on the main issues raised in the Defense Authorization Bill.

This happened on numerous occasions. Sometimes those amendments came from people to my left in the Democratic Party who perhaps wanted to eliminate certain weapons systems. Sometimes they came from conservative Republicans who did not like things that were in the bill. The main issues, not peripheral issues, and we appreciate the fact that some issues were made in order, some amendments made in order that individual Members felt strongly about; but when we were in the majority, when there were significant issues that had support from a large number of Members either on our side or on the Republican side, we made those amendments in order and let the House express its will.

There were numerous instances when I personally voted against amendments that were included in the rule that we made in order and that other prodefense Democrats opposed, but we thought that the House should have the opportunity to express its will.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend for yielding. I would simply respond by saying, first, I do appreciate the fact that when Democrats were in the majority, they did allow for consideration of a wide range of Members. I would agree that we made every attempt to deal with both the civilian personnel issue as well as the environmental issue; and we tried to do so in a bipartisan way, as I outlined, by approaching the minority leadership saying the request that was first made of me, that we allow for a striking provision to be made in order. We said we were willing to do that.

On the issue of the environment, the Hefley language, which I know was worked on in a bipartisan way, is in fact included in the Hunter measure. I would argue that we tried our doggonebest to do just what was said.

Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend for yielding.

Mr. FROST. Reclaiming my time, I would point out to the gentleman that when we were in the majorly we did not try and dictate what amendments the minority will offer. We did not say, we will give you a Democratic amendment on that subject but the Republicans cannot offer the amendment they want. That is exactly what they have done in the reverse here. They said, we will give you a Republican amendment on this subject, but we will not let the Democrats offer the amendments they want. Of course, Democrats would offer a different amendment on a particular issue than Republicans would. Republicans for an amendment which was, of course, much more friendly to the basic provisions in the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT).

(Mr. SPRATT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, during the floor debate yesterday, the Committee on Rules, the gentleman from California (Mr. DREIER), addressed our complaints by saying, what are you arguing about? We have another rule coming up. Your complaints are premature. As if to suggest we will have another day.

Well, that day has come. Rule number two has arrived; and just to show you how much bipartisanship there is, my amendment which deals with an important project, cooperative threat reduction, destroying weapons of mass destruction in Russia, the former Soviet Union, the Dingell-Rahall amendment which would correct outrageous grants of authority over environmental laws granted to the Department of Defense under this bill, the Cooper-Davis-Van Hollen amendment which goes to the most radical revision of the civil service in the last hundred years with respect to the Department of Defense, all of those substantive amendments are made in order.

So what we will have here is a sterile, almost pro forma, debate because what is left in contention, really challengeable, is not what is really at fault in this bill at all. We cannot have that debate. We see that substantive alternatives which we are offering, not controversial, not partisan gotcha bills, substantive alternatives simply cannot be brought up here.

What the Republican majority is doing is using procedural devices which they control with a thin majority to deny us fair consideration on substantive issues of the utmost gravity. They may not agree with it, but they cannot dispute the fact that all of these are weighty and significant issues.

Let me tell you what we would have done. My amendment would simply have taken this bill and removed from it all kinds of encumbrances, fences, conditions that the President did not seek, request, and does not want with respect to the program called Cooperative Threat Reduction, known better to some as Nunn-Lugar, and with respect in particular to one project, Shchuch'ye, which is the largest repository of the deadliest chemical weapons that the Soviet Union ever produced. After years of negotiating, years of preparation, we are finally at the threshold of beginning a facility that will destroy those weapons.

I was there last May. I have got two posters here that show you what those facilities look like. Wooden roofs. Look at the windows over here with the makeshift bars on them. That is the kind of security they have got. And on the racks, rack after rack, sitting on dirt floors, wooden racks, what you find are little chemical warheads like that, literally thousands upon thousands of them, gathering dust like bottles of wine, barely secured, any one of which could wipe out the population of a soccer stadium, all of which could poison the entire world. Nerve gas, sarin. The deadliest stuff you could possibly imagine. Do we not want to possibly imagine. Do we not want to have at least here in the well of the House and diminished the House and diminished the ability to maintain the imports and controls in place by our servicemen and women. This Congress must work to reinforce that strength, and I believe H.R. 1588 works to that end.

I am pleased that the underlying legislation contains a 4.1 increase in base pay for military personnel. H.R. 1588 also recommends a reduction from 7.5 to 3.5 in the percentage of out-of-pocket expenses military personnel must contribute toward housing cost. Both of these provisions will not only help ease the burden placed on military personnel and their families, but should also help ensure that the U.S. military is able to retain these highly trained personnel.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. VAN HOLLEN).

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I think it is outrageous that the rule proposed by the Republican leadership denies the AIP Committee of this House the opportunity to vote on the amendment to restore certain rights and protections for the 700,000 civil servant employees within the Department of Defense, rights and protections that are stripped away under the underlying bill. It is particularly sad to see this just after those civil servants joined together with our military in such a successful military operation in Iraq.

Yet this bill does away with so many protections. For example, it takes away the time-honored protections to ensure that civil servants will have their professional career advancement operated in a fair and professional manner. In my opinion, that is not the best interest of the country and certainly not the best interest of those that have served our country for so many years. I yield back.

Mr. Speaker, do we want our Defense Department, the civil servants, to be run using professional judgment, which I think is in the best interest of national security, or do we want them to be driven more by political considerations? I think our national security depends on a nonpolitical, professional civil service, and it is very disappointing that the amendment was not made in order.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON).

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this rule. When I testified before the Committee on Rules, Mr. Speaker, I specifically asked that two important major amendments, Democratic amendments, and that they be made in order. The first was the Cooper amendment dealing with civil service changes, which would establish a bill of rights for civilian workers within that department. The second, the Spratt amendment, on cooperative threat reduction, which, by the way, Mr. Speaker, the President of the United States requested. The third, the Taylor amendment on base closure. We should have full and fair debate on that. And the Dingell-Rahall amendment on the environment. The dean of the House, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. Dingell), was not given that amendment. As a matter of fact, none of those four amendments were made in order. That is, Mr. Speaker, simply wrong.

Regardless of how Members might feel on the substance of amendments, it is wrong that a major substantive policy amendment is kept from debate. That should not happen. It should not be allowed. It should be debated fully on this floor. This is a deliberative body, and many have said the most deliberative body in the whole world. Yet, Mr. Speaker, we cannot debate key issues that come before us. This is not a full debate. It deserves that. We in this institution do not deserve this disservice, and I cannot agree, sadly, with this rule.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. DINGELL).
Mr. DINGELL. Well, here we are again, my dear colleagues, deja vu all over again.

The Republicans told us yesterday how they were going to have a second rule. Well, the second rule is just like the first. It is unfair, stifling debate, and not allowing discussion.

We are told it is bipartisan. It reminds me of the story of a fellow who complained about the stew. He was told it is horse and rabbit stew. He said, what is the recipe? They said, oh, it is simple. Equal parts, one horse, one rabbit. He said, no wonder it tastes like hell.

The simple fact of the matter is that is what we have here. That is the Republican definition of bipartisanship.

They exclude seven significant amendments. Why? I can only assume one of several reasons: They are scared to death to debate them; they want to be unfair; they have not got the vaughest ideas of what is fairness or how a representative body should function. I suspect all of the above are there. In any event, it tends to show they either know or care less about fairness than a hawk does about a handsaw.

What have they denied us the right to do? The legislation to address environmental concerns. Legislation to address the problem of chemical and nuclear weapons. Imagine what is going to happen if the Spratt amendment does not go into place and all of a sudden terrorists show up with nuclear weapons, or they show up with weapons of chemical or biological nature because they got them out of a leaky stockpile in Russia? They do away with the opportunity to offer an open bidding requirement on contracts over $1 million. That says that they probably are scared to discuss this issue. They will not discuss the question of base closings. They refuse to help grant soldiers to get citizenship and for us to offer an amendment to allow that.

Now there are certain things about a representative body that I have to assume my Republican friends either do not care about or they do not know about. My dear Republican colleagues serve here as the servants of the people. This is the House of Representatives, with emphasis on the word representatives. We are all supposed to represent the House. My Republican colleagues are supposed to represent in the House the people whom they serve. They are also supposed to respect all of the people who are served here and to allow wide, broad, fair, discussion of issues.

Is there a shortage of time to debate? Absolutely not. We meet about 3 days a week. But my Republican friends do not seem to have time to discuss important questions. I can only assume it is because they do not understand our duty to the people.

My Republican colleagues are creating a precedent which is bad. First of all, we do not debate the issues that are important. Second of all, my colleagues are creating a poisonous atmosphere in this place which is going to continue and to persist for a long time. The ability of this institution to properly debate questions and to have respect for each other and for the people we serve is being demeaned by this rule, I say, shame.

Let us defeat the rule, let us defeat the previous question, let us get the House back to being what it should be, the representatives of the people.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. COOPER).

Mr. COOPER. Mr. Speaker, first, I would like to second the remarks of the dean of the House, my friend, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. DINGELL).

Last night, in this great Capitol building, about 10 p.m., the Committee on Rules was meeting. Our friends on the other side of the aisle had just come back from their lavish dinner at which the newspapers report they raised some $22 million for the Republicans. They voted on this rule, and they voted to deny this House the opportunity to work its will on it will on $47 billion in the DOD budget.

That is a matter of some concern, because that is one of the largest items in the entire bill, and the House is unable to work its will on it due to their denial of an amendment. But more important than that, they denied over 700,000 DOD employees to have this section of the bill aired and debated. Over 700,000 families who work for our Pentagon worldwide are not able to hear their concerns aired on the floor of this House.

This is the people's House, yet over 700,000 patriotic and loyal Americans who have served this Nation well in the Iran war, in the Afghan war, and let us remember 6 people died in the 911 attack on the Pentagon, but no, this House is too busy to consider their concerns. That is not fair, that is not right, and this House should demand justice.

These important civil servants of our Nation. They work hard every day to keep our Nation strong. Only last week our committee bothered to commend them for their skill, their hard work and dedication. But, no, their concerns are not important enough to be aired on the floor of this House.

We had one hearing in the Committee on Armed Services, we had no subcommittee markup, and now we are unable to debate the issue on the floor of this House. It is an injustice.

Mr. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. TOM DAVIS).

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentlewoman yielding control.

First of all, civil servants have had a large role in shaping this. There have been pilot programs the Department of Defense has piloted through the years, and in all of those cases, civil servants have, in many cases contrary to the labor bosses, opted for the new system as opposed to the old system with which they are currently operating.

The problem with the current system today is that we are contracting out where we ought to be able to use Federal employees because we do not have the flexibility in terms of deployment. So we are using uniformed officers behind desks to get jobs done, Federal contractors to get jobs done, what Federal workers are, in many cases, more capable of doing, and that is wrong.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

I agree with the gentleman. I think that this bill is going to provide for more jobs for civil service employees because it is easier when we have a job to do under this massive bureaucracy to do it now, and the days, I need that job done, can we have a civil servant do it? And the answer is, we can in 6 months. So the Secretary then does one of two things: He says, okay, let us get a contractor to do it, if we cannot get one of our own guys to do it, the other alternative is let us get a sergeant to do it. The sergeant salutes and says, yes, sir, and he goes and gets the information he needs to do the job and he does it.

The idea that we are going to be contracting the civil service force as a result of this is absolutely not accurate. In my opinion, we are going to have more people. Secretary Rumsfield said there are, right now, under his estimate, some 300,000 uniformed people, people in the military, doing jobs that civil service folks could do if we could get the bureaucracy out of the way.

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I reclaim my time. I thank the gentleman, but let me just say it is 320,000 uniform personnel doing jobs that civil servants are certainly capable of doing. These are 320,000 we had to call up from the Reserves to do work, potentially, that could have gone and stayed with their families and everything else because of these arcane rules.

In addition to this, Under Secretary Wolfow testified under oath that this would increase the number of Federal civil servants. So this idea that it is going to lead to more contracting out is not only bunk, it is disingenuous, it is wrong, and I think it takes civil servants in the wrong direction.

Let me correct a couple of other things that have been said in the debate. We had a Member yesterday say that the right to receive veterans preference is gone, the right to discrimination protection gone. Veterans preference is located in chapters 33 and 35 of title V, those are nonwaivable under this legislation. Discrimination protection is located in 2302(b)(2) of title V. and explicitly referred to in this legislation. Overtime pay in chapter 55 of title V, also nonwaivable. In fact, for middle-level managers, what we have done is corrected some inequities in overtime pay. Currently, GS–12s, 13s, and 14s receive less working overtime than they receive in ordinary pay, and we have corrected that in this. This is a benefit to managers. We have also included that SES’s and managers can get in bonus over what the current level is. So we have raised the levels of what Federal employees can earn.

As a collective bargaining, NSPS states that we must ensure that employees may organize, bargain collectively, and participate through labor organizations of their own choosing. As for the right to an attorney, which was alleged to have been taken away, we do not mention it, but neither does the underlying legislation, and we have established an independent review panel to consider employee grievances. We worked hard on this legislation. We held a couple of hearings in the Committee on Government Reform on this, but, most importantly, this is designed from nine pilot programs where Federal employees themselves have spoken to this and have voted strongly to opt for the new systems versus the existing system. It does not pay for performance; it pays systems versus the existing system. It does not pay for performance; it pays systems versus the existing system. It does not pay for performance; it pays systems versus the existing system. It does not pay for performance; it pays systems versus the existing system. It does not pay for performance; it pays systems versus the existing system. It does not pay for performance; it pays systems versus the existing system.

Those factors in the private sector ought to be extended to the public sector or because our best asset, too. But I think we need to treat them well, I think we need to give them appropriate safeguards, which this legislation does. The unknown and the concerns by some on the other side are that all of this is not written by Congress. But we have put appropriate safeguards in this legislation. This will be part of a later debate, but I certainly support the rule.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. I yield to the gentleman from Maryland.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding, and I understand his assertion. His assertion essentially is that these provisions that will affect our Federal employees are positive provisions.

If that is the case, on our side we are very concerned that we are not being allowed to debate these fully. As the gentleman knows, 30 amendments are allowed with 10 minutes per amendment. The gentleman will admit, I think, that these are very substantial changes that we are making in the law; am I correct on that?

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. As I stated earlier, we debated these thoroughly in both committees. I cannot speak to evidence that is being offered on the floor of the House. I understand the gentleman’s concern. I know we will get debate on the motion to recommit, and we are debating that now, but we are not appointed in not being able to offer some amendments. In addressing that issue, I think that is probably above my pay grade.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will continue to yield, I tell my friend very tentatively on issues dealing with Federal employees, there is a tendency to undervalue our Federal employees, as the gentleman knows. But the concern we have is if the other side is so concerned that the propositions it puts before us are correct, then it is a shame that we do not allow this body to fully debate them. I understand there were votes in committee. However, I am not on the Committee on Government Reform.

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. Although we were privileged to have the gentleman testify before us.

Mr. HOYER. I did appreciation the opportunity to testify, notwithstanding the fact that the committee did not follow my advice. My point is that the majority of Members on both sides of the aisle are not on your committee or the Committee on Armed Services, and I think it would have been appropriate for us to debate these items. If the proposals are as good as the gentleman says they are, presuming they would have been supported by the majority of this House.

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. I appreciate the gentleman’s comments, and we did take some of his suggestions in the markup. The gentleman’s testimony was not for naught.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, let me just say a couple of other things. I have 10 times as many hearings as we have, and the gentleman knows that in this House and on this floor we have a myriad of responsibilities. We spent more time on this than any single issue. I said I was concerned that we are not being allowed to debate this fully. I was also disappointed in the markup. The gentleman’s testimony was not for naught.

I want to assure the gentleman that we gave more time to this issue. We did a 10-hour hearing on this issue, largely at the insistence of the distinguished ranking member, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), but we did a 10-hour hearing. That is more time than we gave any single weapons system in the entire DOD bill. So the argument can be made that we should have 10 times as many hearings as we have, and the gentleman knows that in this House and on this floor we have a myriad of responsibilities. We spent more time on this than any single issue. I was also disappointed in the markup. The gentleman’s testimony was not for naught.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, I might add, my colleagues who are arguing against this opposed those provisions in the Department of Homeland Security bill. We had an ensuing election on this issue. The votes spoke, and I think we have made the right decision on this. But we have put appropriate safeguards, which the gentleman mentioned. Overtime pay in chapter 55 of the underlying legislation, and we have established an independent review panel to consider employee grievances.

Lastly, the chairman of the Committee on Government Reform makes a good point. I listened to the concerns. I listened early on to the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATTS) and the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. COLE) and the gentleman from California (Mrs. DAVIS). We sat down and put together this independent appeals board that is going to be afforded any one and everyone. So we spent a lot of time on this. This was not hastily thrown together.

Lastly, the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. COOPER) made a good point. He said we are putting a major entrustment to the Secretary of Defense to build a new system, and we all agree in principle, but it is broken. I am looking at this union dispute over whether they should have cancelled the annual picnic, and it ended up costing $750,000 of taxpayer money to decide whether or not you should cancel the picnic. Those are changes that need to be made.

Lots of good people involved themselves on this and worked on this; and this is an excellent, excellent product. I want to thank everybody who had suggestions because a number of the concerns from Democrats and Republicans were addressed. We are entrusting the Secretary of Defense, who with his staff, took 300,000 American lives into a very dangerous military theater, and answered to us and did a good job with that entrustment. He deserves some degree of respect, and he has merited the empowerment to move forward and build a new system under our guidance.

We are going to be reviewing everything he has done in a few months. We can change things that he does that we do not like; but certainly giving him an opportunity to revamp his shop to make it better, not just for DOD and the taxpayers but also for the folks that live and work in this system, the Federal employees.

Mr. Wynn. I want to think the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Hoyer) that could be said about every single weapons system that comes up here.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentlewoman yield?

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this rule and the underlying bill. My colleague from Virginia only said one thing that is correct, and that is our Federal employees are our greatest resource. Unfortunately, in this bill they are treated very poorly.

In this bill, the Secretary of Defense can waive collective bargaining. That was designed to allow employee input into working conditions and grievances. He talks about Federal employees, but every Federal employee organization opposes this language.

The Secretary of Defense would be allowed to exempt the Department of Defense from the Federal wage schedule that was designed to prevent discrimination and nepotism.

The Secretary of Defense is allowed to exempt the Department of Defense from due process and appeals rights, appeals to the Equal Opportunity Commission, fighting discrimination.

This bill would authorize the Secretary of Defense to bypass OPM and create an entirely new personnel system.

It authorizes the Secretary to have authority under this proposal to take action at his sole, exclusive, and unreviewable discretion.

The Secretary of Defense, in an opinion piece in The Washington Post yesterday, said one thing that is correct, and that is our Federal employees need more agility and flexibility because they are fighting terrorists in caves and bunkers. Then he cleverly transfers this reasoning to the civilian population.

I ask Members why do clerks and secretaries and administrative officials need to be deprived of their appeals rights? This should have a fixed appeals system. They should have the rights that Federal employees have had over the years.

The fact is that the transformation of our military capabilities depends on the transformation of the way the Defense Department operates. This does not mean an end to competitive processes, or a change in how we do business. What it means is that we need to work together to ensure the department has the flexibility to keep up with the new threats emerging as this century unfolds.

makes the case for a flexible military, he does not make the case for depriving Federal employees of their rights, and he attempts to trade off agility for morale. I suggest we need to improve morale and protect our Federal employees.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I would just like to make the comment that we do have a committee system in this House because not everybody can be on every committee. That makes recommendations to the full House, and usually we value their opinions and accept their recommendations. That is part of what is going on today.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. DAVIS).

Mrs. DAVIS of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to the rule. We have a number of issues we must deal with around civil service, none of the lessons learned and the myriad projects that we are talking about would necessarily be part of the law as it is drafted in the civil service part of the provisions in this bill. So we did that debate and some of that discussion, but in fact none of that is relevant to the bill at all.

Second, I object to the fact that the Committee on Rules deprived this body of the opportunity to have a substantive debate on the environmental provisions, a debate about the facts.

Mr. Speaker, the fact is that the Deputy Secretary of Defense, Paul Wolfowitz, wrote in a March memo, "We have demonstrated that we are both able to comply with environmental requirements and to conduct necessary military training and testing." The administration's own EPA agrees, and that is the fact.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, for 3 years I have worked on the military pay gap. This year at the Committee on Rules I offered an amendment to close that gap permanently, but that amendment was denied. My amendment is identical to language passed in the Senate. Over 4 years each of the quarter million soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines who fought in Iraq were making a decision whether or not to stay or go in the military. Now is the time to send them and their families a message that the Members of this House care about them and the quality of their lives. Instead, we send a hastily different message with empty promises. Why is the majority silent on closing the pay gap permanently?

Mr. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER).

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, one of the problems with the way the Republicans have managed, orchestrated the rule is that it simply does not permit an opportunity for us to clarify even simple misunderstandings. Many of my colleagues may have listened on television to the distinguished chairman of the committee put a map of Camp Pendleton to the floor and pointed out that that was simply not true. It never was. Using the flexibility under existing law, 1 percent was set aside.

The real problem with Camp Pendleton is the fact that you have got an interstate freeway, you have got encroachment from sprawl, but we could not clarify it.

I have had colleagues who misunderstood what the chairman said. I am sure it was a mistake to imply that 57 percent was off-limits to military training. The gentleman from West Virginia (Mr. RAHALL) and I are reduced to putting out a Dear Colleague which was on the floor on the floor and in the blizzard of paper. It is an embarrassment to this Chamber that we cannot have a legitimate debate and clarify things like this and not mislead the public or Members of this assembly.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER).

Mr. HUNTER. I thank the gentlewoman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I am aware of the map that I put up of Camp Pendleton that showed the overlays on the various environmental restrictions. I have gone through that a number of times. It has got the areas for the gnatcatcher, it has got the estuarine sanctuary, it has got the closeout for the beach. The gentleman is aware that there is about 17 miles of beach there where the Marines practice amphibious landings. Is it the gentleman's claim that that beach is now open for use for the United States Marines?

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HUNTER. I yield to the gentleman from Oregon.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Yes. Absolutely. This limited area, 840 acres out of 125,000 acres, is available to amphibious landings, according to the information we have received. And it only applies out of 6 months. The real problem is you have got a nuclear power plant. If you have got a nuclear power plant, you have got a State park. There never was a legal restriction ever.

Mr. HUNTER. Let me ask the gentleman further, because we are going to have this thing sorted out before this bill is ever signed. Is it the gentleman's contention that the Marine Corps' position is they understand that they can use that beach and they simply have not used it, that that beach is available for amphibious landings?

Mr. BLUMENAUER. That is my question, I guess.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. I have dealt with the Department of Defense, the Fish and Wildlife Service and have gone to the court records. I do not know how it is being distorted.

Mr. HUNTER. Let me just tell the gentleman that if you have these agreements that they put in place, those agreements are made by several parties: one, Fish and Wildlife; one, State resources, in California that is Fish and Game; and, lastly, the Service. Since we want to make sure we are all on the same playing field here before this debate is over, I would ask the gentleman, we have got a couple of hours here, to check with the U.S. Marine Corps. I will be happy to be with him when we check it on and we can come to the floor and give together an opinion on how much land is ruled off-limits.

My information from the Marine Corps is that they cannot use that beach. That is not the small part of the beach that is up in the north that they use for the nuclear power plant. Nobody has claimed you want to make amphibious landings at a nuclear power plant.

I would ask the gentleman, since he did not have a direct communication with the Marine Corps, if he could get that, and I will work with him, and we will try to come in with the same sheet of music.
Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER).

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. ISAKSON). The gentleman's time has expired.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, we are spending $100 billion and tragically the loss of young men and women's lives in a war in Iraq that was supposed to get the weapons of mass destruction out of Saddam Hussein's hands so he could not give them to the terrorists. So far, we have not found those weapons of mass destruction.

But the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) pointed out to us that there are 5,000 tons of weapons of mass destruction in chemical weapons and gases and sarin chemical that we know are only likely to fall into the hands of terrorists. We know exactly where 5,000 tons are.

We have not found one ounce in Iraq.

There is also nuclear material in the same area of the former Soviet Union and in Central Asia and elsewhere in the world. But they will not allow us to clean it up. They will not allow us to secure it. They are compromising the security of this Nation because this is more likely to fall into the hands of terrorists than anything that Saddam Hussein had.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. ISAKSON). The gentleman's time has expired.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, you have to ask yourself, what are they doing to the security of this Nation when they will not allow us to go in and to secure these weapons of mass destruction?

And, gentlemen, we are on Orange Alert. We are on Orange Alert as a Nation, and as a Nation and as a Congress we will not be allowed to debate the reduction of these weapons.
The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman's time has expired.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California.
I thank the Chair, and I yield back my time.
Mr. OBEY.
The SPEAKER pro tempore. All Members suspend. The Chair would observe that this is the United States House of Representatives, and respect for the decorum of this Chamber is expected by all. The gentleman from California is a distinguished gentleman, but all rules of the House and the rulings of the Speaker should be followed.
Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is not recognized.
Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California.
...
Mrs. MYRICK. Regular order.
Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR).
Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I want to compliment the gentleman from California. I want to compliment the gentleman from California for having the guts to finally say the rules are rigged against those Members who do not blindly follow the Republican leadership. Every one of us represents about 700,000 people. We do not run for office saying, some of us can speak and some of us can't. Some of us can offer amendments and some of us can't. The Committee on Rules serves to make sure that no Members from offering their amendments.
I have got an amendment on base closure. I think every single citizen of this body ought to be recorded as being wanting to close bases or wanting to keep bases open. I have been denied the opportunity to have that vote for 3 years running now.
I have got to ask, who wants to close bases? Do the military retirees who live next to them who want to use the hospital want to close them? No. Do the military retirees who want to use the commissaries want to close them? No. Do the communities that in many instances have paid to bring those bases there like Pascagoula, Mississippi, paid $20 million to help bring home port Pascagoula there, do they want to close them? No.
So maybe who does want to close bases? Mr. DREIER, how about your friend Katrina Leung? I think it is a fair question to ask whether or not some of the people being accused of being a Communist Chinese spy, who has contributed to your campaign, whether or not she wants to close bases.
Why can I not have a vote as a Member of this body on deciding whether or not we are going to close these bases? Are we going to listen to our Nation's military retirees? Are we going to listen to our citizens? Or are we listening to Katrina Leung?
Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.
Mr. Speaker, I urge Members to vote "no" on the previous question.
If the previous question is defeated, I will offer an amendment to the rule that will make in order the Cooper/Davis/Van Hollen Civilian Service Bill of Rights amendment. Last night, the Republican majority refused to allow the House to consider this amendment. The Republican leadership had decided what kind of Democratic amendment would be acceptable to be included in the rule and since no Democrat was willing to toe the Republican Party line, Democrats have been shut out once again on a straight party line vote.
The bill we are considering today makes enormous and far-reaching changes in the personnel laws affecting civilian defense employees. Furthermore, it does so with virtually no input or oversight from Congress. It leaves this massive overhaul in the hands of the Secretary of Defense.
The Cooper/Davis/Van Hollen amendment would spell out an employee bill of rights to ensure that these valuable employees do not lose their basic employee rights. Yet under this unfair rule it will not be allowed to come to the floor for a vote.
Mr. Speaker, it is hard for me to believe that just a few weeks after the war in Iraq, after all of us heaped deserv- ing praise on all employees of the Defense Department, both military and civilian, that we would pull the rug out from underneath these patriotic, hard-working Americans. Let me make it very clear. A "no" vote will not stop the House from taking up the Department of Defense authorization. However, a "yes" vote amounts to slamming the door in the face of the military's civilian employee.
As you cast your vote, think about these people and whether you will turn your back on them or whether you will do the right thing and vote to allow this amendment.
Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I rise to speak in opposition to the rule on the National Defense Authorization Act. This rule fails to make in order several important Democratic amendments, including the Rahall-Dingell amendment on the environmental provisions in the bill.
The Department of Defense claims that it needs exemptions from five of our major environmental laws—laws that protect the air, water, endangered species, whales, dolphins, and last but not least, humans. The Pentagon says these laws are interfering with military readiness. But the evidence has been cast aside. In a June 2002 study, the Government Accounting Office could find no evidence that environmental protection is a problem for our Armed Forces.
Like the impact of the performance of our men and women in Iraq, any assertion that our military is not ready to fight and win is patently ridiculous. These environmental laws have been in place for several decades, and our Armed Forces are the best trained in the world.
The defense bill that we are debating today rolls back protections in two key environmental laws: the Endangered Species Act and the Marine Mammal Protection Act. The DOD bill significantly reduces the Secretary of the Interior's responsibility to designate critical habitat and would greatly weaken protections for endangered species anywhere in the U.S., not just on military facilities. Without critical habitat, imperiled species will not recover. This bill would also specifically reduce protections for endangered species on military lands. For marine mammals, the bill weakens the definition of "harassment" for all users of the oceans and coastal waters, not just for the military. It would also give the DOD unlimited, unmonitored exemptions from marine mammal protection.
The majority has refused to allow us to vote on the Rahall-Dingell amendment to fix these provisions. Why? Because they are afraid they will lose. The American people reject the idea that the federal government should be above the law. A recent Zogby poll showed 84 percent of likely voters think the Pentagon should follow the same environmental and public health laws as everyone else. Liberals, moder-ates, and conservatives alike agree that all agencies of the federal government should be held accountable for their actions.
 Communities across the nation are grappling with the toxic contamination from former bases that used to be exempt from environmental laws. Many of us have decommissioned military facilities in our districts. In my home city of San Francisco, we have been pushing for years for the clean up of the Hunters Point Naval Shipyard. The military’s track record on protecting the environment is dismal. We hold the Department of Defense accountable for its actions in the future.

I urge the stakeholders to vote “no” on the previous question so that we can make the Rahall-Dingell amendment in order, and “no” on the rule.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I strongly oppose this unfair rule. I do so because it denies Members the opportunity to offer amendments to critical provisions in the Defense Authorization bill.

National defense should be a subject that brings the Congress and the nation together, and not an occasion to create division. Especially given the clear and present danger of further terrorist attacks against the United States, it is imperative that we remain united as we confront these threats.

I support most of the provisions in this bill. It is unfortunate that the Majority chose to insert a number of highly controversial provisions into the Defense Authorization. In particular, I oppose the provisions of the bill that seek to upend longstanding civil service protections for more than 700,000 civilian workers who are instrumental in supporting our men and women in uniform. Without a competent civilian workforce at the Department of Defense to back up our troops, it would be difficult, if not impossible, for our armed forces to prevail on the battlefield.

We are legislating in the dark here. Over the past century, we have established protections for our country well. Can we improve the Defense Department’s civilian personnel rules? Sure. Is this the way to do it? Absolutely not. Such sweeping changes—changes affecting more than 700,000 Defense Department workers—deserve more thoughtful consideration by this Congress. If these changes are approved, we will find ourselves in the unique position of having one set of personnel rules for civilian defense employees, another set of personnel rules for employees at the Department of Homeland Security, and a third set of rules for every other federal workforce. It’s bad enough that the Republican Majority insisted on including these controversial civil service changes in this bill. What’s worse is that the Majority will not even allow us to debate them or offer amendments. The House should be permitted to debate the Employee Bill of Rights proposed by Representatives COOPER, DAVIS and VAN HOLLEN. This amendment would protect the right to receive a veterans preference and the right to be free from discrimination based on political opinion or party affiliation. It would ensure that Department of Defense employees have the same collective bargaining rights and due process rights that other federal employees enjoy. These rights are fundamental. They should not be waived or curtailed at the whim of the Defense Secretary, and this House should not be prevented from providing him the authority to do so.

I urge my colleagues to join me in opposing the rule so we can have a fair debate and a vote on the Employee Bill of Rights amendment.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, today we continue the Defense Authorization bill debate.

This bill authorizes a total of $400.5 billion in FY 2004 for defense activities important for our nation’s security, however, there are troubling provisions in this bill relating to civil service law, contracting, environmental exemptions and nuclear weapons policy that should not have been included in H.R. 1588.

I am particularly concerned about the civil service provisions that undermine collective bargaining and safeguards against employee harassment. H.R. 1588 will deny basic worker protections to one third of all Federal Employees. This bill places the Secretary of Defense in the position of being the ultimate decision maker in labor disputes giving him blanket authority to create a completely new civilian employee system. The changes included in this bill will open the way for abuses that the Pendleton Act of 1893 was enacted to eliminate.

We may need to modernize, however, we also need to preserve the principles of a Civil Service that has served our nation well for more than 100 years.

I am disappointed that an amendment I offered in the Rules Committee was not made in order. It was a simple amendment that would have ensured that Chief Acquisition Officers are career professionals and not political appointees. I would like to put letters of support from several good government/civil servant groups, including the Federal Managers Association, AFGE, the Senior Executives Association, NTEU, AFSCME and others, into the record.

As AFSCME noted in a letter of support, “H.R. 1588 entrusts the contracting process to political appointees who stay an average of eighteen months, which will result in a revolving door of CAO’s in and out of agencies. This situation will only serve to further complicate the structure that the Federal acquisition workforce, while compounding the effectiveness of this critical position due to a lack of stability. Over time, we have already seen detrimental effects on Federal agencies as a result of short-term appointees in leadership positions.

Moreover, Federal acquisition policy is based upon the goal of providing American taxpayers with high-quality products and services through the most efficient use of their tax dollars. In order to achieve this goal, the CAO must be removed from any and all political pressures.

Finally, we at FMA are supportive of the National Commission on the Public Service’s (a.k.a., the Volcker Commission named for its chairman, Paul A. Volcker) recent recommendation that, “Congress and the President should work together to significantly reduce the number of executive branch political positions.” The requirement that the newly-created CAO positions be filled by non-career employees would only continue the dangerous trend of providing the executive branch political positions—a step at odds with the Commission’s recommendation, which has been supported by many Members of Congress.

Sec. 1421 of H.R. 1588 would best serve the American public if amended, as you have recommended, to require that the CAO be a career civil servant. Please do not hesitate to contact us if we can be of further assistance to you on this matter.

With kindest regards,

Sincerely yours,

MICHAEL B. STYLES,
National President.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE MALONEY: The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) strongly supports the amendment you seek to offer to the Defense Authorization bill that would require "Chief Acquisition Officers" to be career civil servants. As presently drafted, H.R. 1588 requires these officers, who would fill newly created positions in the federal agencies, to be political appointees. There is no sound justification for such a proposal. In light of this legislation's opposition to contract out half the federal workforce, it should be seen for what it is: a strategy to facilitate reaching this goal whether or not it is cost effective or in the public interest.

H.R. 1588 entrusts the contracting process to political appointees who stay an average of only 18 months and turn federal contracts into political currency. It will diminish public accountability of the public's money; further destroy the morale of committed and experienced career employees; destabilize the delivery of federal services; and lead to the award of billions in contracts to the Administration's political allies and friends with little regard to effective management.

At a time when we should be shoring up the public's faith in our government, H.R. 1588 will return to the corruption and spoils system that the creation of a professional workforce under the civil service system was intended to end.

AFSCME strongly supports your amendment and commends you for seeking to ensure that federal operations are performed in an objective and professional manner that puts the public interest ahead of special interests.

Sincerely, CHARLES M. LOVELESS, Director of Legislation.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE MALONEY: On behalf of the American Federation of Government Employees, AFL-CIO, which represents more than 600,000 federal employees who serve the American people across the nation and around the world, including many federal employees who administer contracts for goods and services, I commend you for your ongoing efforts to amend the Services Acquisition Reform Act (SARA) to ensure that the position of Chief Acquisition Officer is more likely to be held by career civil servants, and not political appointees.

Your amendment would ensure that an agency's preeminent procurement official would be someone with an institutional interest in promoting the interests of the agency and the taxpayers who support that agency, both now and in the future, as well as the long-term. A career civil servant is more likely to have developed the expertise necessary to perform the important responsibilities of a career member of federal procurement staff. It is unlikely that a political appointee would have the same level of expertise and commitment, especially given the significant turnover generally associated with political appointments. Additionally, at the same time there is a bipartisan consensus to reduce the number of political appointees, SARA would add yet another layer of political appointees.

While I know that the authors of SARA have no such intention, you are absolutely correct in your making the Chief Acquisition Officers political appointees raises significant concerns aboutcronyism and the potential for undue political influence given ongoing efforts to strip all federal employees of their civil service protections against politics and favoritism. I know that your experiences in New York City in the long but ultimately successful fight against waste, fraud and abuse in municipal contracting induced you to offer your amendment to make the Chief Acquisition Officer a career civil servant at the House Government Reform Committee's mark up of SARA. We support your efforts to ensure that the hard lessons of history, New York City was able to make substantial progress on behalf of taxpayers when procurement officials were made career civil servants, instead of political cronies.

The counter-arguments to your amendment that were served up at the mark up were entirely unpersuasive. Whether a Chief Acquisition Officer will command respect from agency management and acquisition personnel will depend entirely on her experience, her expertise, and her independence, her expertise, and her independence, and not on whether she is a political appointee. Surely, it is self-evident that a Chief Acquisition Officer is more likely to command respect and be able to perform her important responsibilities if she is a career civil servant.

I sincerely hope that the rule for consideration of the defense authorization bill (H.R. 1588) will allow your amendment to be made in order on the floor of the House of Representatives. It is imperative if the Congress is to ensure that the billions and billions of taxpayer dollars spent annually on services are accounted for, and not on whether she is a political appointee. Surely, it is self-evident that a Chief Acquisition Officer is more likely to command respect and be able to perform her important responsibilities if she is a career civil servant.

Thank you Chairman Davis and members of the Subcommittee for the opportunity to testify today on this very important legislative proposal.

You have already heard from others about many of the problems and concerns of employ- ees and their representatives about this proposed legislation today. SEA too has its issues. But we will confine our comments to those matters that we believe threaten the integrity of the federal workforce, and specifically of the Senior Executive Service and its cadre of career executives that insure the impartial and non-political, non-partisan enforcement and administration of our nation's laws.

SEA was watching a "60 Minutes" segment on CBS television last night. It was directly applicable to the proposed legislation and our concerns. It involved allegations by the "60 Minutes" correspondent that there had been improper political interference in the awarding of DoD contracts to the rebuilding effort in Iraq. Specifically it accused Vice President Cheney of "obviously" interfering in the awarding of DoD contracts to Halliburton Corporation, which he headed prior to becoming Vice President of US. The article also made allegations about former General Officers in the military who were now working for Halliburton and some of the other companies and corporations that received DoD contracts for providing services to the US troops in Iraq, including food service, waste disposal, water, fire fighting, and other necessities. Finally, it sought to cast aspersions on the current Administration's and its policies and allegations of being allegedly interfering in these and other rebuilding efforts in Afghanistan, Iraq and elsewhere.

We all know that corruption, waste, fraud and innuendo are the lifeblood of "60 Minutes" and other television news shows, and are not to be taken seriously on many occasions; this may well be one of those occasions. But the interesting part was the response by DoD.

Instead of the Secretary of Defense or other high level political appointees responding, DoD had the Chief Counsel of the Dept. of the Army Corps of Engineers, Robert Anderson respond to the allegations. Mr. Anderson indicated that any potential allegations were to be made by Halliburton or one of the other parties making allegations were to be made by Halliburton or one of the other parties making allegations were to be awarded on the basis of partisan politics. He stated that if "60 Minutes" wanted to spend one week with these career employees, they would understand how carefully and objectively these contracts were evaluated and how DoD or other federal contracts to be awarded, and how the career employees insured the impartiality of the process.

Later in the "60 Minutes" presentation the corresponding states that the outgoing Vice President had issued a statement that he had never been involved in the awarding or seeking of contracts from the government while he was Secretary of Defense, President of Halliburton or Vice President of the US.

The importance of this is that DoD realized that it of its programs depended on the career executives and career employees who carry out the day-to-day activities of the government. It also knew that if an administrator did not have the facts, they would carry more credibility with the public. "60 Minutes" was at a loss when confronted with the career employees as the protectors of the integrity of the procurement process, and I believe that most of the nation's citizens dismissed out of hand the allegations because of the assurances of the career executive. We relate this incident because we firmly believe that some of the authorities sought by DoD and HHS could seriously undermine the citizens confidence in the integrity of government operations. This confidence is based in large part on the integrity of the Civil Service system, and the Career Senior Executive Leadership of our system. Provisions of this legislation would do away with many of the rights and protections these employees deserve to maintain their nonpartisan integrity, and the people of this country know this. SEA is that this is not intended, but there is always a concern about unintended consequences. We believe that breadth and depth of the unfettered authority sought by this legislation justifies our concern.

Most of SEA's concerns are stated and supported in our statement, which we have submitted for the record. However, we do want to highlight some of the most important ones.

1. The legislation would do away with the requirement for Career Reserved SES positions, which positions if allowed to exist, to be filled by anyone, qualified or unqualified, partisan politician or not. This authority is not necessary. OPM has done the job of overseeing and insuring that positions requiring impartiality and non-partisan enforcement of the nation's laws are carried out by career employees who have gained their positions based on merit. We believe this should continue.

2. The legislation would do away with the requirement that career SES appointments be made "by and among their own qualifications." This has been done by OPM through the Qualifications Review Board process, which should continue.

3. If the SEA Career Reserved positions were filled by temporary employees, with no review of their qualifications and no limit on their numbers. We respectfully object to this authority. It also removes the restriction that political appointees may fill no more than 10% of SES positions overall in government, or 25% in any one agency, which would destroy the Career SES, and rob the government and the people of this country of the impartial administration of the nation's laws and maintain their non-partisan qualities. This would destroy the career SES, and rob the government and the people of this country of the impartial administration of the nation's laws and maintain their non-partisan qualities.

4. The legislation would allow the elimination of all appeal rights for career executives and employees to the MSPB if their pay was drastically cut, or they were removed from their positions for alleged misconduct. This would deny these employees any due process rights in the "taking" of their pay, their positions and reputations.

5. It allows the flexibility to eliminate the SES appointment rules, the 120 day appointment rule, the rule of 60 days notice for positions filled by appointments, and many other rights. It also allows for an SES employees pay to be set annually anywhere between $125,000 (or lower) up to the VP level of $156,100, or if the President so desires, no necessity for "certification" of a fair evaluation process, or any right on behalf of the employee to challenge the determination anywhere, including if the pay is cut. It also allows the creation of appointments of "highly qualified experts, who could be paid up to 25% higher than SES salary, or currently $297,900. There would be no limit on the number of these appointments, and they could serve for six years in any position with no independent check on their qualifications. If a particular DoD administration wished, they could unilaterally fire every one of their career SES employees, and fill these positions with "highly qualified experts" from whatever field, without review of their actions or appointees.

[A [Currently DoD has such authority for 40 positions at DoD, 10 in each of the armed services research labs, and 10 more between NIMA and NSA. However, these are limited to scientific and engineering positions, and the appointees are limited to pay 25% higher than the SES pay, or currently $248,250. No such limitations are contained in the proposed legislation].

These are but some of our concerns. We urge the Subcommittee to expeditiously amend this proposal to restore the necessary safeguards for career SES employees, and other civil service employees before its enactment.

SEA does not object to additional flexibility for DoD, but we believe the new flexibility should provide for the Dept. of Homeland Security, and that they be required to go through the same process as Homeland Security before issuing regulations and beginning or implementing new systems in the Department of Defense.

Thank you for this opportunity to testify. I will be happy to answer any questions you might have.

The National Treasury Employees Union,
Hon. Carolyn Maloney,
Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, DC.

Dear Representative Maloney, I am writing on behalf of the National Treasury Employees Union (NTEU) to express support for your amendment to the "Defense Authorization Act of FY 2004." Your amendment seeks to fix a flaw in the bill by seeking to ensure that Chief Acquisition Officers are career civil servants, not political appointees. NTEU represents 150,000 career federal employees in 28 federal agencies and departments. These employees work on the front lines day in and day out, and they are in the best position to determine whether federal government services should be privatized or not. Agencies continue to privatize more and more federal jobs even though the government does not have the staff or systems in place to oversee the work of contractors. Giving short-term political appointees broad authority to privatize the work of the federal government only serves to foster political cronyism, corruption, and jeopardize the delivery of government services to the American public.

I urge support for your amendment so that government purchasing decisions will be made by experienced and hardworking federal employees who know the needs of their agencies best.

Sincerely,
Colleen M. Kelley, National President.

Mrs. TAUSCHER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in opposition to the rule. This bill eliminates two of the cornerstones of environmental policy—the Endangered Species Act and the Marine Mammal Protection Act. Yet we will debate this for only 10 minutes.

This rule attempts to conceal an egregious overreach by the Majority by labeling it as a typographical error.

Having been caught with their hands in the cookie jar, the Majority now seeks to establish political cover, prohibit meaningful debate and avoid going on the record with a recorded vote against the environment.

This administration's attempt to enact sweeping environmental exemptions under the guise of "military readiness" is a disgrace.

I am also outraged that the rule has not allowed Mr. SPRATT's amendment on nuclear nonproliferation.

The threat level has been increased to orange, the administration is on the lookout for terrorists and rogue nations with weapons of mass destruction, yet the Majority refuses to allow debate on the most meaningful way to prevent terrorists from getting nuclear weapons in the first place—our long-standing, proven nonproliferation programs.

Mr. Speaker, this is an outrage. I urge my colleagues to vote for the very principles this bill is founded upon and vote against this egregious rule.

Mr. F. ROST. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert the text of the amendment and extraneous materials of Mr. Cooper of Tennessee or a designee [as printed in the record] to the vote on the previous question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

The material previously referred to by Mr. F. Rost is as follows:

PREVIOUS QUESTION FOR H. RES. 247—2ND RULE ON H.R. 1388 NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2004

At the end of the resolution, add the following:

"SEC. 5. Notwithstanding any other proviso of this resolution and only immediately after the disposition of amendment number 1, the amendment specified in section 6 shall be in order as though printed in the report of the Committee on Rules if offered by Representative Cooper of Tennessee or a designee. That amendment shall be debatable for one hour equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent."

The amendment referred to in section 5 is as follows:

AMENDMENT TO H.R. 1388, AS REPORTED OFFERED BY MR. COOPER OF TENNESSEE OR MR. DAVIS OF ILLINOIS OR MR. VAN HOLLEN OF MARYLAND

In section 9902 of title 5, United States Code (as added by section 111 of the bill (page 349, line 13)), insert after subsection (b) the following new subsection (and make all necessary technical and conforming changes):

"(2) EMPLOYEE BILL OF RIGHTS.—

"(1) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

"(A) the Department of Defense should have flexibilities in personnel decisions, including pay and promotion, in order to provide the strongest possible national defense; and

"(B) the Department of Defense should protect fundamental civil service protections of civilian employees at the Department.

"(2) CIVIL SERVICE PROTECTIONS.—(A) To the extent that the Department of Defense desires to receive a veterans preference in hiring and a reduction in force, as in effect on the date of the enactment of this subsection, shall not be abolished.

"(B) An employee shall have the right to be free from favoritism or discrimination in..." connection with hiring, tenure, promotion, or other conditions of employment due to the employee's political opinion or affiliation."

"(C) The Secretary shall not refuse to bargain in good faith with a labor organization, except as provided in section 9002(f) (relating to bargaining at the national rather than local level), and shall submit negotiation impasses to—

"(i) an impartial panel; or

"(ii) an alternative dispute resolution procedure to be created or upon the parties; and

"(D) An employee shall have the right to full and fair compensation for overtime, other time worked that is not part of a regular work schedule, and pay for hazardous work assignments.

"(E) An employee shall have the right to form, join, or assist any labor organization, or to refrain from any such activity, freely and without fear of penalty or reprisal. Such right includes the right to engage in collective bargaining with respect to conditions of employment through representatives chosen by employees.

"(F) An employee against whom removal or suspension for more than 14 days is proposed may have a right to—

"(i) reasonable advance notice stating specific reasons for the proposed action, unless there are compelling reasons to believe that such employee has committed a crime or immediate action is necessary in the interests of national security; and

"(ii) reasonable time to answer orally or in writing.

"(iii) representation by an attorney or other representative.

"(G) An employee shall have a right to appeal actions involving alleged discrimination to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

"(H) An employee shall have a right to back pay and attorney fees if the employee is the prevailing party in an appeal of a removal or suspension.

Strike 9902(f)(2)(D) of title 5, United States Code (as so added) (and make all necessary technical and conforming changes)."

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempro (during the vote). There are 2 minutes remaining.

So (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

WAIVING A REQUIREMENT OF CLAUSE (a) OF RULE XIII WITH RESPECT TO CONSIDERATION OF CERTAIN RESOLUTIONS

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 249 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 249

Resolved, that the requirement of clause (a) of rule XIII for a two-thirds vote to consider a Committee report from the House on the same day it is presented to the House is waived with respect to any resolution reported on the legislative day of May 22, 2003, providing for consideration or disposition of the bill (H.R. 2) to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 201 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2004, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon, or any amendment reported in disagreement from a conference thereon.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Florida (Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART) is recognized for purposes of debate only.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, for purposes of debate only, I yield the 30 minutes to my colleague and friend, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST), pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for purposes of debate only.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks, and include extraneous material.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 249 waives clause (6)(a) of rule XIII requiring a two-thirds vote to consider a rule on the same day it is reported from the Committee on Rules.

The rule applies the waiver to a special rule reported on the legislative day of May 22, 2003, providing for consideration or disposition of the bill to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 201 of the concurrent resolution, any conference report thereon, or any amendment reported in disagreement from a conference thereon.

This rule is the starting block to allow the House to consider legislation that will infuse our economy with job-creating tax relief, investment incentives, and overall economic growth. The House initially passed the Jobs and Growth Reconciliation Tax Act of 2003, and with today's action we can demonstrate our continued commitment to spurring economic expansion and providing stability to American workers, businesses and families.

Our economy needs a healthy dose of meaningful relief. This Congress has once before exhibited the leadership and sense of purpose needed to create jobs and protect workers. If we delay, we put American jobs and the strength of our economy at risk.

As we prepare to consider legislation extending unemployment compensation, I can think of no better complimentary action for Congress to adopt than legislation to boost employment levels, lower the tax burden, and grow the economy. It is imperative that we move forward at once. Thus, I strongly urge my colleagues to support this rule so we can proceed with a debate on this very important legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. FROST asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, it is often said if you repeat a lie often enough, people begin to believe it. Our record $350 billion deficit, the Republican Congress tells us that does not matter. The fact that this Republican administration has lied, but twice, to raise the debt limit to record levels, ignore that, and maybe it will go away. The promise that all Members made to protect Social Security and Medicare funds in a lockbox, that does not seem to matter much either.

This is not government. This is a complete abdication of fiscal responsibility. In 1995 the now majority leader, Tom DELAY, said, ''By the year 2002, we can have a balanced budget or we could continue down the present path towards total fiscal catastrophe.''

It is now abundantly clear that the Republicans have lost their way and have decided that the path of fiscal catastrophe is not such a bad path after all. That begs the question, Mr. Speaker, what are the priorities of the Republican Party that makes tripping down the path to fiscal catastrophe such a great idea? 2003 when it was so bad an idea in 1995?

Well, we know the Republicans' top priority is to give millionaires a dividend tax cut. Where does that money come from? Well, the Republican budget conference report cuts veterans' Medicare and burial benefits by $6.2 billion. So if you are a millionaire and you have got a lot of dividend and capital gains income, the Republicans take care of you. If you are a veteran, this Republican Congress wants you to pay more for your Medicare. As the Fed's chairman Alan Greenspan said, ''There is no plan ''voodoo economics.''

He wrote an op-ed in The Washington Post this week calling the dividend tax plan “voodoo economics.”

Alan Greenspan said, “There is no question that as deficits go up, controversy is sure to follow. We have rubber-stamped whatever he said if it does not effect long-term interest rates. It does have a negative impact on the economy.”

These are two of America's leading economic minds, Mr. Speaker. And they know that financing this tax cut which benefits only the wealthy few with borrowed money is wrong. It is wrong, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, we believe it is important to move this legislation forward to grow our economy, to create jobs, help people who have jobs find jobs, and we strongly support it and strongly support this rule.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. MCDERMOTT).

Mr. MCDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I received my symbol for this Congress just the other day. It is an official stamp from the White House, and they dusted off the ink pad. You will get one in the mail I am pretty sure, and it says: "Official rubber stamp. I approve of everything George Bush does. Member of Congress."

All you have to do is sign your name on it. That is what the President wants this Congress to do. It is about rubber stamping the President's proposals. Bring it out here. No debate. Do not let us offer amendments. Do not take any time. Just get out the rubber stamp and put it down there and just roll it on in. You have now joined the rubber stamp Congress.

This party is running a one-party government. They want no input from the Democrats whatsoever. They are a rubber stamp for the President. They are willing to give away all their prerogatives on the war. They said to the President, whenever you think it is time to go to war, go ahead. So they have rubber-stamped whatever he wanted to do. On the tax cut, just give it to him. It will work. On unemployment benefits, well, they staled and stalled; and he said, look, we are getting bad numbers on those polls. We better do something about employment. So in about an hour we are going to come out here and rubber-stamp another employment bill that the Democrats have been pushing for 4 months. But when the President says it, everybody on the other side jumps up and says, Where is my rubber stamp? God, I got to get over to the floor and cast my vote for whatever he wants.

Whether he wants to repeal all of the environmental issues related to the military, give the military an open season on anything they want, they are killing whales and porpoises in Washington, they are doing all the rest, but over here on the other side, we do not want to have any debate on that. We are rubber-stamping whatever the President wants. I welcome everybody every day down here; I have a process where you got yours. Do not forget to bring them to the floor when you vote.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished ranking minority member for yielding me time. Mr. Speaker, it would be my greatest desire that we would have a full debate on the question of the next step for our economy and walk out of this Chamber with the mark of the Congress in the bipartisan way.

Two days ago, Warren Buffet wrote an op-ed, and I believe everyone knows the portfolio of Warren Buffet is still very strong, one of the richest men in the Nation. And he argued vigorously with the approach this Congress was taking. Clearly, he said, the tax plan now moving through the Congress is not a gift for him. It is an outright bonus. It is Christmas every day, and it is for everyone in his predicament and condition: $40 billion-plus in assets. But he compared his status, Mr. Speaker, with the status of the secretary or receptionist working in his office or even the cleaning woman working in his office.

He said, under this effort, this tax cut program, he would be paying or being given a gift and he would be paying one-tenth of the amount of monies required by the receptionist and the cleaning woman.

What that says to me, Mr. Speaker, we are going up the wrong road. There is a dead end at the end of the road and the dead end are the millions of unemployed who are not getting an extended unemployment package of 26 weeks because we have got to give a tax cut to the rich. We are going up a dead end, Mr. Speaker, because the program that is now being fostered upon us does not create jobs.

If we took the Democratic plan, Mr. Speaker, and we invested a million dollars in transportation infrastructures, you would get 13 jobs. If you did it in health care, you would get 26 jobs. Mr. Speaker, if you use the plan that the President has put forward, you take a million dollars and you get two jobs.

Now I know there is a difficulty in math. This great body because we are agreeing to go forward on $550 billion, which I understand is a compromise on $350 billion; but it does not invest back into America to create jobs, and the plan as proposed by the Republicans takes $1 million to create two jobs. And I can take $1 million and put it in transportation and create 15 jobs, and in health care and create 28 jobs and on down the line. And then I could provide 26 weeks of unemployment for those whose benefits are being cut off.

I know the American people are focused as we honor the dead this coming weekend, and I will join them in cherishing our freedom. I want those who have served in the service... But it is time for America to wake up. You are going to be hungry after 13 weeks. You need to stand up and fight for 26 weeks. That is what I believe we should be doing today.

Putting up this marshal rule does not allow us to collaborate and to work together. Let us work through tomorrow, let us work through Saturday, let us work through Sunday. Let us leave this place with a tax bill that really invests in America.

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DOGGETT).

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, this is a martial law rule, and that is appropriate because there are those in this House and in this country who think they have the role of all the representatives here is to march in a martial fashion behind the leadership of the majority leader, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DELAY).

So if it is appropriate they bring this rule out today, a gag rule, to gag those of us that do not share the views of the majority leader, who might have an amendment or an alternative way to address the problems that American families face. They deny us that right.

They are assuring us that we will no substitutes considered on this floor. It is their way or the highway. It is a martial America that they are supporting and appropriate they bring this rule up to do it.

Their ideas are so narrow and so extreme that they cannot stand to have them debated and voted upon, not so much worrying about the Democrats but worrying that some members of their own party could not be held in line against solid representatives to do something for the millions of Americans that lack jobs in this Bush economy; to do something about the millions of Americans who lack insurance in this Bush economy; to do something for the children who are denied the opportunity to fulfill their full potential because of teacher freezes, because there are textbooks that will not be renewed in Texas.

Meanwhile, the President tells us that he is about to bring his “Leave No Child Behind” Act. He has come up with a mere $9 billion, that is billion with a “B,” billion dollars. He breaks his promise in the short period...
Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

We are seeing a very clear difference in philosophy and opinion on the floor of the House today between the parties. There are members of the American public who believe we are on the other side of the aisle that when we cut taxes, when we reduce the burden of taxation on the American people, that that is an imposition. That was the word. We impose this. Congress, it was said, will impose a tax cut on the American people.

We believe that when we relieve the tax burden on the American people, that is not an imposition on the American people. We believe it is their money in the first place, and we are relieving the tax burden on the American people. We are imposing less taxes from Washington.

So it is an interesting difference of opinion, and I think it is a fundamental difference of opinion. I think it is an interesting discussion, and I am looking forward to seeing it today. What we believe is that we should return as much as we can of the people's money to the people, and that they are best suited and know best how to spend their own money. So it is a fundamental difference.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds.

There is a difference between the two parties here. The other side would impose billions of dollars of debt on my 6-year-old granddaughter and my 3-year-old granddaughter and my 2-month-old granddaughter. I do not believe we should be doing that.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. SHERMAN).

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the Bush recession continues, and this job killer bill ensures that it will continue and expand the jobless. It imposes a trillion dollars of additional debt on the American people. It imposes higher interest rates on the American people. It will impose upon our teachers and our firefighters layoffs at a time when we need more jobs in the economy, because it virtually ensures that we will provide only very limited and inadequate aid to our States and cities that are falling on hard times right now.

If we look at the details, we become aware that this bill, whatever the arguments that were made in favor of it, is nothing more than an effort to hand as much cash as possible to the Bush class. We are told that it is going to help investments, but when we look at the details, we discover otherwise. Three details: It is temporary, it provides aid to children with huge trust funds, and it provides equal encouragement to invest in foreign corporations as domestic corporations.

At least that is what I am told orally about a bill that, in theory, has not been written yet but in fact is out in the press now.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE

H4561

Mr. FORD. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. I yield to the gentleman from Tennessee.

Mr. FORD. If my reading is correct, and I have not been a part of any of the meetings, it appeared to me that one of the reasons that the tax cut was reduced from $726 billion to $550 billion to $530 billion was because there was a disagreement in the gentleman's own party between the two bodies, between the House and Senate.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. That is correct.

Mr. FORD. So we are going to assign some of the responsibility, but some on the other side of the aisle also bear some of the responsibility.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Yes, there is no doubt about that. But what I was pointing to was that the argument was made that the incentive to invest in the stock market is reduced by virtue of the fact that tax cut, tax incentive, is sunseted.

What I am saying is it is people who oppose the tax cut, from whatever party, and the argument was made against the effectiveness of the tax cut with regard to the dividends part by my distinguished colleague who is a Democrat. I was pointing out that I think it is inconsistent to want to have it both ways and then to say it sunsets, so it is not effective. I thought there was an inconsistency there, and some incoherence.

Mr. FORD. I think it is fair enough.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. But the gentleman is right. There are Republicans in the other body that are responsible for reducing the effectiveness of what we are talking about. But what we strongly believe and what we want to do and we are doing it to the best of our ability, is to reduce the tax burden on the American people.

The gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST) pointed out previously that the debt burden may be measured. We want to reduce the debt burden by incentivizing economic growth which will not only create jobs now, but also lessen the debt burden in the future.
I suggest we consider the resolution 240, as it is in order. I may have said that earlier, but perhaps I did not make sense, because part of the argument on this side, and I think from some in the other body, to provide greater resources to States that are having to lay nurses and teachers off. And I could go on with our rhetoric, and the other side has rhetoric. But the reality is that we are in a deficit, let us act on it. I think we are in a deficit, and that is what has happened. Some of us felt like the tax cut was so important that we would have to have a tax cut. The American public obviously would like to pay less in taxes; and certainly we could have borrowed money, and we can. I am just curious as to why we did not do that. If we had done it on the Senate side, is that something that the other side would be supportive of? That was not included in the House bill.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. I am not sure if it is. What we are doing with this rule is making possible for us to have that debate today, and obviously the people who have been involved in the negotiations will explain the details of what they ultimately end up with. We are trying to have that debate today, and that is why we have this rule.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

The reasoning on the other side is very curious. I do recall in 2001, when they were promoting the first tax cut, the reason they gave for the tax cut was, oh, we have a surplus. Now we have this surplus, we need a tax cut so we can give that money back. Now we are in 2003 and we have a deficit, so we have to have a tax cut. Which one was it? I think that cannot be good. I mean, we had a surplus, so we have to have a tax cut; we have a deficit, so we should have a tax cut.

I find their logic very curious. Everyone would like a tax cut. The American public obviously would like to pay less in taxes; and certainly we could have made the argument for a tax cut in 2001, perhaps not as large as they did, but we certainly could have made a valid argument: we are running a surplus; we do not need all of this money. Some of us felt like the tax cut was so large it was going to plunge us into a deficit, and that is what has happened. But it is hard to make the argument that Congress just added a deficit, let us drive this country deeper into a deficit.

Mr. Speaker, if the previous question is defeated, I will offer an amendment to the rule. My amendment will allow the House to consider H.R. 2046, introduced by the gentleman from New York (Mr. Rangel), the Democratic Rebuilding America Through Job Creation plan.
The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—aye 218, noes 202, not voting 14, as follows:

[Vote Roll No. 212]

AYES—218

have less than 2 minutes remaining in this vote.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Stated for:
Mr. BILIRAKIS. Mr. Speaker, on rollover Call No. 212, I am attesting to the burial of a leading veteran from my district at Arlington National Cemetery. Had I been present, I would have voted “aye.”

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 2185, UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION AMENDMENTS OF 2003

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 248 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 248

Resolved, That upon the adoption of this resolution it shall be in order without interven- tion of any point of order to consider in the House the bill (H.R. 2185) to extend the Temporary Extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 2002. The bill shall be con- sidered as read for amendment. The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill to final passage without intervening motion except: (1) one hour of debate on the bill equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Ways and Means; and (2) one motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentle- man from Florida (Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART) is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MCGOVERN), pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida asked and was given permis- sion to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 248 is a closed rule, providing for the consider- ation of the bill (H.R. 2185) to extend the Temporary Extended Unemployment Compensation Pro- gram. The rule provides 1 hour of general debate, evenly divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Ways and Means.

The rule also provides one motion to recommit, with or without instruc- tions. This is a fair rule and one that will expedite the debate of this impor- tant extension so that we can provide needed economic security to the unem- ployed.

H.R. 2185 will provide for a 13-week extension of benefits for the unem- ployed. This legislation once again pro- vides a total of 26 weeks of benefits to those in designated “high unemploy- ment” States.

The extension of benefits under the Federal Temporary Extended Unem- ployment Compensation Program is set to expire at the end of this month. I am pleased to bring this rule to the floor as this House responds to those who are without work. With pas- sage of this bill, we ensure there is no break in essential benefits to families across the country.

H.R. 2185 provides over $7 billion in extended Federal unemployment bene- fits in addition to the $16 billion that this Congress has previously approved for both State and Federal unemploy- ment. With the original legislation in March of 2002 and the first extension in January of this year, Congress has suc- ceeded in assuring those families in need will have the funds precisely to put food on the table and pay for child care so that they can focus on becom- ing employed once again. In fact, this extension will help 2.5 million people in addition to the 5 million that have been helped through previous exten- sions.

I would like to highlight the previous work of this House. It has not only provided Federal unemployment benefits but also $8 billion to the individual States for use in their individual unemploy- ment programs.

I would like to thank the gentleman from California (Chairman THOMAS) for his leadership and the gentlewoman from Washington (Ms. DUNN) for spon- sorship of this important legislation.

H.R. 2185 is important legislation, impor- tant to the continued economic health of families in all of the 50 States.

Mr. Speaker, hopefully this should be a bipartisan effort to provide benefits to the unemployed, and this rule allows this Congress to consider it and con- sider it today. Accordingly, Mr. Speak- er, I urge my colleagues to support both the rule and the underlying legis- lation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 5 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the rule. Once again, the Republican leadership is turning its back on work- ing Americans. Last night, President Bush told over 7,500 wealthy Repub- lican donors that this is a strong and compassionate country.

Mr. Speaker, this economy is any- thing but strong, and this leadership is anything but compassionate. I am sure the people in that crowd, the crowd that raised $22 million for the Republic- an Party, cheered and clapped their hands every time somebody mentioned the Republican tax bill, or, as some have called it, the “End of the End of Left Behind Bill.” But what about the rest of the country? What about the people struggling to find work? They do not have as much to cheer about.

Let us look at the facts: over 2.7 mil- lion jobs have been lost since President Bush took office in 2001; long-term unem- ployment is at a 30-year high; the average length of unemployment is the highest since 1984; the economy has lost 300,000 jobs this year; over 11 million Americans are currently unemployed; there are currently three unemployed workers competing for every available job.

Mr. Speaker, people are out of work, and they need help. The Republican leadership’s solution is to be dragged, kicking and screaming, into doing the absolute minimum. Their proposal will continue to leave over 1 million unem- ployed workers in the cold.

We have seen this rerun before. The Republican leadership voluntarily let unemployment insurance expire last December, forcing millions of Ameri- cans to worry about how they would provide for their families during and after the holidays. Two weeks later they proposed a plan that denied 1 mil- lion people unemployment insurance.

That is compassionate? These unem- ployed Americans are not deadbeats. They are our neighbors, friends, and relatives. They do not want a handout, they want a job, but they need help while they search for a job.

It is well established that unemploy- ment insurance provides a better stim- ulus than dividend tax cuts. In fact, we will see a $1.73 return for every dollar invested in unemployed Americans. As an investment tool, unemployment insurance is good policy, but it is also the morally right thing to do. Unemployment insurance is a safety net for American workers who lose their jobs through no fault of their own, and we have a moral responsi- bility to not let these workers down.

Now, before this current economic crisis, no Congress had ever extended unemployment insurance without in- cluding workers who already exhausted their coverage, and I support that plan. But in the second time this year, the Repub- lican leadership lets these workers down by cutting out the unemployed who have already exhausted their cov- erage. This leadership should be ashamed of themselves for this disingenuous and insufficient bill. But they are not.

The unemployed deserve better until the job market improves, and the rank- ing member of the Committee on Ways and Means has a bill to do just that. His bill would provide unemployment insurance for workers who are cur- rently unemployed and are exhausting their coverage, and I support that plan.

But the Republican leadership has once again tossed aside the democratic process by denying the House the right to debate and vote on the proposed sub- stitute offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL). At the end of this debate, I will move the previous question; and if defeated, I will offer an amendment to make the Rangel sub- stitute in order.

The only reason I can think of to deny the Rangel substitute is that the Republican leadership is terrified that it might actually pass. It is the same reason we were not allowed to vote on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. COOPER) and the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. VAN HOLLEN) on worker rights at the Pentagon.

Instead of fostering the free and open debate that the American people deserve on these issues, we are once again forced into this unfair, closed procedure. In the long run the democratic process is the winner, but today it is the unemployed workers of America who are hurt by the actions of this leadership.

I urge my colleagues to join me in defeating the previous question, and, if that effort fails, voting "no" on the rule.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to reiterate and make clear what the legislation before us that we are bringing to the floor with this rule will provide for a 13-week extension of unemployment benefits in the Nation, and the legislation once again provides a total of 26 weeks of benefits to those in designated high-unemployment States.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. McGovern. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I remind the gentleman that his proposal still leaves 1 million American workers out in the cold.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2½ minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. FRANK).

Mr. FRANK of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, sometimes when a President flies somewhere, part of his trip is charged to his party's political committee because the trip is partly governmental and partly political.

The expenses for running the House for the next hour ought to be charged to the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, because the purpose of this rule and of other rules we have seen so far is incumbent protection for the Republican Party.

What they have done is to shut down democracy within the House. It is democratic in the sense that you get elected to get here, but then it becomes authoritarian. There will be no free speech, there will be no chance to consider tough issues. Why? Not simply because we do not have enough time. We do not work very much around here. We do this to protect Republican incumbents from having to vote on difficult issues.

The purpose of the Committee on Rules is to make sure that Republicans can follow an extremely conservative leadership and do things that would be unpopular and then pretend that they had no choice. How do they do that? They vote for rules which prevent them from voting on these issues. Then they go in a great act of fakery to their constituents and say, Gee, I would have been with you, but I did not get a chance to vote on that issue, having themselves voted on the procedure which kept the issue off the floor. We cannot vote on important issues in the defense bill; we cannot vote on an alternative unemployment compensation.

It is a conscious and deliberate pattern, and it is particularly to accommodate that extraordinary breed known as the "moderate Republican." They specialize in razzle-dazzle. They specialize in the execution of extreme right-wing policies, but in a way that allows them to go home and disclaim any responsibility for what they were doing. It would not be plausible to claim they were drone for an entire session. That is usually the way people explain that sort of thing.

So what they do is to vote for rules, procedures that keep controversial issues off the floor, so they can then go and mislead their constituents by saying they would have supported their position, but the did not have a chance to do it.

It is a self-inflicted constraint. It is the reverse Houdini. Houdini used to have people tie him in knots, and he would be put in a suitcase and up in the knots. What moderate Republicans do is the reverse Houdini. The moderate Republicans tie themselves in knots, and then they go before the voters and say, Gee, I'm sorry I couldn't help you, but it was all tied up in knots.

Let us vote against this rule and put an end to the most fundamental, political and intellectual dishonesty.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, it is wonderful to see the imagination on the other side of the aisle. In case somebody is watching this debate or listening to it, I would like to get us back to what we are debating.

H.R. 2185 will provide for a 13-week extension of benefits for the unemployed in the United States, and the legislation once again provides a total of 26 weeks of benefits to those in designated high-unemployment States.

I recall the debate we had last week when the "thème du jour" was that these unemployment benefits were going to expire before the end of May. Well, we are acting today so that they will not expire, and there will be another 26 weeks of benefits, plus 26 weeks in the high-unemployment States that are designated as such.

So that is what is before us today. It is an important piece of legislation. That is why I will continue to urge my colleagues to support both the rule and the underlying legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. McGovern. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, again I remind those watching that under their bill, 1 million American workers will be left in the cold with no benefits.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from North Dakota (Mr. POMEROY).

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker, this is quite a day in the life of Congress. We are going to pass a $350 billion tax cut, an extension of borrowing to the wealthiest 5 percent of the households in this country. We are going to authorize the Federal Government to borrow almost an additional $1 trillion. The day of the big tax cut is the day we vote the largest extension of borrowing to the wealthy to this country, in light of the red ink we will run, even ever.

So, in the middle of all of this, it appeared certain that nothing would be done to address the fate of our unemployed workers. Only in the last few hours has this plan emerged; and we are glad it has, as far as it goes. Certainly something needed to be done, because the economic performance of the country has been abysmal: 2.7 million private sector jobs lost over the last 2 years, an extraordinary decrease; 3.4 unemployed workers for every single job opening.

Now, under this circumstance, people try to find work, but they cannot find work, so their unemployment benefits run out.

I am going to ask for a "no" vote on this rule, however, because the proposed extension been brought before us has a fatal flaw. It only extends benefits if your benefits have not lapsed. If you were unfortunate enough to lose your job, been on the job market, pounding the shoe leather, sending out resumes, looking everywhere to find work, but have not found employment before your unemployment benefits lapsed, guess what? You will not get any extension, you will not get any relief, under the measure brought before the House.

Now, we have an amendment to offer to cure this fatal flaw of the majority proposal so that people whose benefits have lapsed also get some help. Lord knows they need it. But we are not allowed to offer that amendment.

What could be more ridiculous? We will extend benefits if you have not lapsed yet; but if you have lapsed, you get no help whatsoever. Well, you think, that must have been inadvertent somehow. Let us fix that.

They will not let us fix that with an amendment. That is why the rule is unfair. That is why the response is inadequate. Vote "no" on the rule.

Mr. McGovern. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN).

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, last week Democrats tried to get a vote on extending unemployment benefits three times on the floor of this House. Each time the Republican majority said no. So we are happy that the Republican leadership has finally agreed to consider this very important issue. However, we are concerned that the bill being brought to the floor today will exclude more than 1 million unemployed workers.
The legislation filed with the Committee on Rules last night extends unemployment benefits only for those exhausting their regular unemployment compensation. It does nothing for those who have exhausted their Federal extension benefits. More than 3 million Americans now fall into this category.

Given that we are in the longest period of negative job growth since the Great Depression, I cannot understand why we would want to deny unemployment benefits to Americans suffering from long-term unemployment.

As my friend from North Dakota pointed out, for every person who is unemployed, there are three people looking for a job, for every job available. These individuals are looking for jobs that simply cannot be found.

We recently had a report that came back that showed there are 70 percent more workers who have exhausted their Federal benefits during this recession than during the 1990s; yet in the 1990s we extended the number of weeks beyond what we are extending in this legislation.

Without unemployment compensation, how are these families going to pay their rent or mortgage? Last month, Mr. Speaker, one of these long-term unemployed workers came and testified before the Committee on Ways and Means. His name was Joe Bergmann. Over the last year and a half, Joe has sent out 2,000 resumes, searched 32 job sites on the Internet, and has taken extra training classes; but he is still unable to find a job. Joe has worked his entire adult life, but is now having a hard time in an economy that is not creating jobs.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to reject the previous question so that we can extend unemployment benefits for every worker that has lost their job during this very difficult economy. It is their right to job and they do, to extend the benefits to all who need the help.

We have the money in the Federal unemployment trust funds; $21 billion is in those funds. It will adequately cover not only the extension of the 13 weeks, but the extra benefits for those who have exhausted their Federal unemployment compensation benefits.

I urge my colleagues to reject the previous question.

Mr. McGovern. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2½ minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. Levin).

Mr. Levin asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. Levin. Mr. Speaker, they say a half a loaf is better than none. This is a half a loaf. It will help one million workers who have been left out or threatened to be left out in the cold. But there are actually more than one million people who have been out of work or will be out of work for longer than the typical 26 weeks. It is ironic, those out of work the longest get the cold shoulder by what the Republicans are doing here today.

They refuse to give us the chance to provide some benefits for those who have been looking for work but have not been able to find jobs. The political base is not going to help close to two million people who have either exhausted their benefits or will soon do that altogether.

I was looking at the data, and it is really sad. They talk, the gentlemen from the Committee on Rules, about the States that have triggered in to extended benefits beyond the 39. That is only six States. The majority of workers in the majority of States are also left out in the cold.

By the way, it is not only their needs, it is the need of the country. When we provide unemployment compensation, it is about the production of growth in the economy to grow the GDP. Because people who are unemployed tend to spend the money they receive through benefits.

So what are they afraid of? Why do they not let us bring before the floor the second half of that loaf? What are they afraid of? Answer that question. Why not give us a chance to bring it up? Why a rule that turns the cold shoulder in the end to two million people who are unemployed.

Instead, the Republicans sit silently. They say there is no crisis and, at the last minute, act. I urge that we reject the rule.

Mr. McGovern. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. McDermott).

Mr. McDermott. A few minutes ago, Mr. Speaker, I came out and talked about this being a rubber stamp Congress. We now have a perfect example.

We brought up in the Committee on Ways and Means at least three or four times, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Carolin) talked about the issue of unemployment. The chairman said, whoa, we cannot do anything about that. We cannot do anything about that. The person who sponsors the bill today voted no against it in the committee and again and again.

Then we come out here on the floor and they say, oh, no, we cannot vote for unemployment.

Then they must have done a poll and the poll must have come back real bad, because we have a bill here that we are going to vote on what about 90 percent of the people in this House have never even seen. They will not know what it is about and then they resubmit on May 21. Would that be yesterday?

This has not had any hearings, no testimony from anybody to come in and talk about this issue, and we run it out here and we put it under martial law. What is it that is not a rubber stamp for the White House, I do not know what is.

They have Mr. Rove down there. He gins up all kinds of destruction in Colorado and Texas. He runs what happens on this floor. The junta up in the leadership office, that junta says, Mr. Thomas, you cannot handle this. We will send it straight to Rules. You are not smart enough to give a bill out or handle any kind of discussion about what we are doing.

It is an absolute destruction of the process. They ought to allow us to have amendments to fix this. We heard from the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. Levin) that there are problems. There are one million people who are not covered by this.

Even Mr. Greenspan says that probably people who are not getting jobs now are not doing it because they like being on unemployment. They cannot find work. Why would we leave $20 billion in the unemployment fund put there by these very people? Why would we not give it to them during this period? It is because the rubber stamp at the White House has come out, boom, this is what we are doing. And our leadership on the other side, they get all in line and say, folks, this is what we are doing.

Here, the gentlewoman from Washington (Ms. Dunn), put this bill in. They put it in last night. They have a Committee on Rules meeting at 11 o'clock after they have a $22 million fundraiser. They all troop back in and say, guys, we are not ready for tomorrow. This is what we get. Maybe we will be here tomorrow doing more rubber stamp stuff. We are going to do unemployment and this tax bill so they can go home and say they have handled unemployment.

I come from a State with the highest unemployment in the country. When that happened before, we had people who were defeated who voted against it. I still remember. Now we must come with this bill, so rubber stamp it. "Get ready, guys. Bring your rubber stamps from the office when you come over."

Mr. McGovern. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. Solis).

Ms. Solis. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

I rise, Mr. Speaker, and I am also happy to see that there is not a petition on the other side of the aisle have finally agreed to consider an extension of unemployment compensation. It is about time.
But Mr. Speaker, it is only half a loaf. It is a bill that is much needed to help 2.7 million Americans that have lost their jobs, but it does not go far enough. I am again disappointed that my colleagues on the other side of the aisle refuse to take the opportunity to improve upon that bill. I say that very genuinely because in my own State of California over 351,000 workers have lost their jobs since President Bush took office. I know this because in my own district I represent a port, Los Angeles County, East Los Angeles. The cities of El Monte and Azusa have had upwards of 10 percent unemployment for over 2 years.

Where is the relief for our communities? Where is the relief for people wanting to earn good money and good-paying jobs? Even that tax cut that we are going to be voting on that some of them are supporting is not even going to provide any relief to those workers. I ask Members to please allow our party on the other side of the aisle to amend the bill and promote goodwill for those millions of workers and the chronically underemployed Latinos, disadvantaged folks, that have been waiting for something to happen here in the House of Representatives. I am ashamed to home and not provide relief for those more than one million workers and a large number that I represent in California.

Mr. MICA. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Illinois (Ms. SCHAKOWSKY).

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

I do not doubt for a minute that the Republicans would have been perfectly happy, probably preferred, to go home for a week letting unemployment benefits expire; give tax cuts to the rich today, that is the number one priority, $350 billion, most of which goes to the richest 1 percent and rich, and zip to the unemployed. Actually, they did it at Christmas time, right before Christmas, let those benefits expire.

But after the Democrats pushed and pushed, and maybe there was some polling done, they decided to not only do something for the Bush class but to do something for the middle class and for the unemployed workers, $5 billion compared to $350 billion. Okay, we are grateful for that.

But over a $100,000 tax cut to Secretary of the Treasury Snow and still zero dollars for the more than one million workers who are still out of work, 53,000 in Illinois. Some over on the other side of the aisle have fretted about, oh, unemployment benefits, they just encourage people to stay home and not look for a job. How dare they? These people want a job, and this administration and its economic plan has been nothing but a job-killer, a job-killer. We have lost over 35 million jobs since this President has come in. The economy is going down.

These people want to work. People in my own family who have been laid off, they want nothing more than a good job. These people do not want unemployment insurance benefits. They want a job. But at the very least, we should be making sure that all those people who play by the rules, are looking for a job, pay something. On this floor of this House we should be able to debate alternatives. We are just cut off. Why? Because our alternative is better. It addresses the need for the American people, and that is exactly what the Republicans do not want to do. They want to give anyone a chance to vote on our better plan. We should be voting no on the rule.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield 6 minutes to my colleague and friend, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. MICA).

Mr. MICA. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me. I apologize for my voice, which I am unfortunately losing. But before I lose my voice, I want to put on record that those people respond to the rhetoric we have heard from the other side of the aisle.

Once again, the other side of the aisle offers the American people their solution for the economy. That is unlimited unemployment benefits. I think Republicans are compassionate people, and we are taking care of those who have lost their jobs. The other side of the aisle, their solution has been increased taxation, increased regulation, increased litigation. Unfortunately, from the other side of the aisle, my friends and colleagues, they do not have a clue, a clue as to how we create jobs in business.

I have $20 here. If I send this $20 to Washington, I do not have $20 to spend. I do not have $20 to invest.

It takes capital. I do not think they have a clue as to basic free enterprise or business investment tenets. People have to have money in their pockets. They want to put more money in Washington. They want them to rely on the government for unemployment benefits. If you want to stimulate business, well, first of all, most of them should go out and try to start a business. When you have increased taxation, you send more money to Washington, you have fewer people to invest in that business. Basic tenet. When you send more money to Washington, you have less money to spend, and it hurts the poor the most because they have the least amount of money, and you cannot start a business. When you have increased taxation, when you have spent 30 and 40 years piling regulations on the business man and woman, it is impossible to start a business.

Would you start a business? I cannot tell you how happy I am to be out of a business because of government regulation, taxation, and finally litigation, the protectors of litigation. So we become the most lawsuit-happy land in the world. And we drive businesses overseas because of taxation, because of regulation, and because of litigation. Would you want to get into business in the United States of America today with the opportunity to be sued at every corner? Small business people, the largest employer in our country, by the largest employer, they are backing off of providing health insurance benefits. We have more people without health insurance benefits. Why? Because the other side blocks litigation reform and they have gone completely crazy. We are benefiting and the rest of us are paying. People who can least afford it are not having health care coverage; small business operators are unable to provide health care coverage.

So that is their plan, increased taxation, increased litigation, increased government regulation. And then finally, here they offer their grand plan, unlimited unemployment extension. No one has come up to me and said, I want unlimited unemployment benefits. And yet they are voting on that. I want a job. I want an opportunity to share in the American Dream. I want health care coverage. I do not want more suits, more money to go to Washington, more loss of control of my life, less control of my money. I have heard it, and I think we have all heard it. The song and dance from the other side just does not work, will not work. Even the former Soviet Union could not have a constitution. It did not work. So now we have a choice. We will have a tax and economic package before us that puts more money in the hands of the American people. It gives them an opportunity. It gives people an opportunity for a job, not just for an extension of unemployment benefits.

The Republicans are compassionate. They have provided for both an extension of unemployment benefits but also for hope and opportunity and for an America we all want to see.

Mr. McGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would say to the gentleman that what we want is help for unemployed workers, and your plan leaves a million workers out in the cold, and that is not the least bit compassionate.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 10 seconds to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. FRANK).

Mr. FRANK of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I just have to express my dismay at the anti-American diatribe we have just heard. I am sorry to hear this defeatist attitude about the American economy. The American economy continues to be a vibrant one overall, and I do not think it is thoroughly denigrated and to be told that no one ought to want to go into business in America is a shockingly anti-American approach.

Mr. McGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. LOFgren).

Ms. LOFgren. Mr. Speaker, this rule should be rejected because the bill is unfair.
Under this bill, thousands of jobless Californians will get an additional 13 weeks of unemployment instead of the 26 weeks that other States will get because California is not considered a high-unemployment State.

We have had a 42 percent decrease in venture capital. The unemployment rate in San Jose is now a whopping 8.5 percent, and San Jose has lost nearly 16 percent of its jobs. Yet this bill does not treat Santa Clara County as a high-unemployment area, even though my county has more population than many States, including North and South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Delaware, and many others to name just a few.

This rule does not even let us debate whether a 26-week extension is appropriate, not just for the 6 States the Republicans consider to be high unemployment, but for cities like San Jose who are well above the national unemployment rate. I hear and get e-mails from people all the time, qualified, educated people who have been laid off, who have run through their savings, who send out thousands of resumes and can get no replies, who have run through that, whose unemployment is running off and the layoffs are continuing.

My friends on the other side of the aisle do not get it. It is not a recession in Silicon Valley right now. It is a depression. A 26-week extension is justified, and I wish we had a chance to debate that. I urge my colleagues to reject this rule so that we will.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as I may consume. As he may consume to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. MICA), that $20 is the same amount of money our government and our taxpayers are paying individual workers in Iraq and Iraqis. That is what we are paying them. We are offering $20 as a commitment to get the economy in Iraq moving. We have an agenda for Iraq. It is investing in 20,000 schools, 25,000 units of housing, text books for schools, 4 million children get early childhood education in Iraq.

We have an economic plan for Iraq, and we have an economic plan for America; and it does not just count on stimulating only the stock market. We have to stimulate the job market as well, as the stock market. And our economic plan does exactly that. It does not force Americans into an either/or choice. And there will be people who will be left out, unlike the tax cut that leaves no millionaire behind.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. OBEY), our ranking member on the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I want to congratulate my colleagues on their bill. I want to congratulate our friends on the Republican side of the aisle. This day perfectly summarizes what Republican Party values are all about.

Under President Bush we have lost well more than 2 million jobs in this economy, and today we have the Republican answer. Their answer is to leave behind one million working Americans who have been out of work and cannot find work and are now looking for $20,000 a year to receive unemployment. At the same time they are going to pass a tax bill in the dead of night which gives a huge share of the benefits in that bill to people who make over $300,000 a year. That warped and misguided and misbegotten sense of values is the major reason that I left the Republican Party a long time ago and joined the Democratic Party.

The Republican Party practices the tired old game of trickle down economics. They practiced the idea that if you raise one American's income by $20, we will all be better off. The 2001 tax break, eventually some of it will trickle down to Jay Rockefeller. Well, that is not good enough.
My old friend Harvey Dueholm from Wisconsin used to say, "The problem with Republican economics is that they want to give the poor and the rich the same amount of ice but they give the poor theirs in the winter time."

That pretty much sums up what is happening. We have seen a miserably mismanaged economy under this administration. We have seen this Congress swallow whole budget proposals that walk away from our commitments to education, walk away from their obligation to do something about the health care problems in this country, walk away from the problems of the people who have lost their jobs and are down on their luck and have nowhere to turn. And yet, oh, they have plenty of money for the top dogs in this society.

Just once be for the average dog; be for the under dog. I know that is too much to expect, but nonetheless I would like to see it.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, simply to reiterate what we are about today, we are extending unemployment benefits for 13 weeks to the Nation and for 26 weeks in the States that are classified as high-unemployment States. We have also provided previously $8 billion to the individual States for use in their individual unemployment programs, and almost $6 billion of those $8 billion that the Federal Government has provided to the States are still available to the States for use for their unemployment programs.

It is important to realize what we are talking about today with this legislation; this is not theory. We have legislation before us, we are bringing to the floor legislation to help 2.5 million unemployed people in this country. And we think that is an important piece of legislation, think that it should be passed. And that is why we seek to bring it forward with this rule. And that is why we urge support for this rule and then for the subsequent underlying legislation, to get that aid, that continued aid to 2.5 million people in this country.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, how much time do I have remaining?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Evidently a quorum is not present.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire if the gentleman has any further speakers, because I am the final speaker on my side.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I will close.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I will be calling for a vote on the substitute consisting of the text of H.R. 1652 if offered by Representative Rangel or a designee, which shall be in order without interjection of the gentlemen from Massachusetts has 2½ minutes remaining.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the amendment and a description of the amendment be printed in the RECORD immediately before the vote on the previous question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

There was no objection.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, today we are extending the unemployment benefits for 2½ million Americans, and in doing so this Congress is appropriating $7 billion for that purpose. Again, it is 2½ million Americans who are unemployed that this legislation will help. That is in addition to the $16 billion that we have appropriated before for that purpose.

This is important legislation. It is to help people who need help, and I feel proud to have brought forward this rule. I urge support for the rule and that then we get to the underlying legislation and that we pass the underlying legislation to get extended unemployment benefits for 2½ million people in this country.

The material previously referred to by Mr. MCGOVERN is as follows:

PREVIOUS QUESTION FOR H. RES. 248—RULE ON H.R. 2185—UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION AMENDMENTS OF 2003

In the resolution strike "and (2)" and insert the following:

"(2) an amendment in the nature of a substitute consisting of the text of H.R. 1652 if offered by Representative Rangel or a designee, which shall be in order without interjection of any point of order, shall be considered as read, and shall separately debate for 60 minutes equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent; and (3)"

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on ordering the previous question.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Amendment No. 1 offered by Mr. KLINE

The text of the amendment is as follows:

At the end of division A (page 403, after line 20), insert the following new title:

TITLE XV—HIGHER EDUCATION RELIEF OPPORTUNITIES FOR STUDENTS

SEC. 1501. SHORT TITLE: REFERENCE.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This title may be cited as the "Higher Education Relief Opportunities for Students Act of 2003."

(b) REFERENCE.—References in this title to "the Act" are references to the Higher Education Act of 1965 and amendments thereto.

SEC. 1502. WAIVER AUTHORITY FOR RESPONSE TO MILITARY CONTINGENCIES AND NATIONAL EMERGENCIES.

(a) WAIVERS AND MODIFICATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, unless enacted with specific reference to this section, the Secretary of Education may, by regulations, whenever the President determines in connection with a war or other military operation or national emergency, waive or modify any statutory or regulatory provision applicable to the student financial assistance programs under title IV of the Act as the Secretary deems necessary in connection with a war or other military operation or national emergency to provide the waivers or modifications authorized by paragraph (2).

(2) ACTIONS AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary is authorized to waive or modify any provision described in paragraph (1) as may be necessary to ensure that—

(A) recipients of student financial assistance under title IV of the Act who are affected individuals are not placed in a worse financial position in relation to that financial assistance because of their status as affected individuals;

(B) administrative requirements placed on affected individuals are not placed on recipients of student financial assistance are minimized, to the extent possible without impairing the... integrity of the student financial assistance programs, to ease the burden on such students and avoid inadvertent, technical violations or defaults;

(2) the calculation of ‘‘annual adjusted family income’’ and ‘‘available income’’, as used in the determination of need for student financial assistance under title IV of the Act for an individual and (determination of such need for his or her spouse and dependents, if applicable), may be modified to mean the sums received in the first period that the student was a member of the household in which such determination is made, in order to reflect more accurately the financial condition of such affected individual and his or her family;

(D) the calculation under section 484B(b)(2) of the Act (20 U.S.C. 1091b(b)(2)) of the amount a student is required to return in the case of an affected individual may be modified so that no overpayment will be required to be returned or repaid if the institution has documented (i) the student’s status as an affected individual in the student’s file, and (ii) the amount of any overpayment discharged; and

(E) institutions of higher education, eligible learning associations, entity agencies, and other entities participating in the student assistance programs under title IV of the Act that are located in areas that are declared disaster areas or areas affected by State or local official in connection with a national emergency, or whose operations are significantly affected by such a disaster, may be granted temporary statutory and regulatory provisions the Secretary deems necessary to achieve the purposes of this section.

(2) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The notice under paragraph (1) shall include the terms and conditions to be applied in lieu of such statutory and regulatory provisions.

(CASE-BY-CASE BASIS).—The Secretary is not required to issue the waiver modification under authority of this section on a case-by-case basis.

(3) IMPACT REPORT.—The Secretary shall, not later than 3 months after first exercising any authority to issue a waiver or modification under subsection (a), report to the Committee on Education and the Workforce of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions of the Senate on the impact of any waivers or modifications issued pursuant to subsection (a) on affected individuals and the programs under title IV of the Act, and the basis for such determination, and include in such report the Secretary’s recommendations for changes to the statutory or regulatory provisions that were the subject of such waiver or modification.

(D) OF DELAY IN WAIVERS AND MODIFICATIONS.—(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section 437 of the General Education Provisions Act (20 U.S.C. 1093) of the United States Code, the Secretary shall, by notice in the Federal Register, publish the waivers or modifications of statutory and regulatory provisions the Secretary deems necessary to achieve the purposes of this section.

(2) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The notice under paragraph (1) shall include the terms and conditions to be applied in lieu of such statutory and regulatory provisions.

(F) CASE-BY-CASE BASIS.—The Secretary is not required to issue a waiver or modification under authority of this section on a case-by-case basis.

(C) IMPACT REPORT.—The Secretary shall, not later than 3 months after first exercising any authority to issue a waiver or modification under subsection (a), report to the Committee on Education and the Workforce of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions of the Senate on the impact of any waivers or modifications issued pursuant to subsection (a) on affected individuals and the programs under title IV of the Act, and the basis for such determination, and include in such report the Secretary’s recommendations for changes to the statutory or regulatory provisions that were the subject of such waiver or modification.

(a) FINDINGS.—(1) the Secretary finds that—

(A) the forward presence of United States forces is a powerful deterrent to aggression and a tangible expression of American national interests.

(2) the Secretary has documented (i) the student’s status as an affected individual in the student’s file, and (ii) the amount of any overpayment discharged; and

(E) institutions of higher education, eligible learning associations, entity agencies, and other entities participating in the student assistance programs under title IV of the Act that are located in areas that are declared disaster areas or areas affected by State or local official in connection with a national emergency, or whose operations are significantly affected by such a disaster, may be granted temporary statutory and regulatory provisions the Secretary deems necessary to achieve the purposes of this section.

(2) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The notice under paragraph (1) shall include the terms and conditions to be applied in lieu of such statutory and regulatory provisions.

(F) CASE-BY-CASE BASIS.—The Secretary is not required to issue a waiver or modification under authority of this section on a case-by-case basis.

(3) IMPACT REPORT.—The Secretary shall, not later than 3 months after first exercising any authority to issue a waiver or modification under subsection (a), report to the Committee on Education and the Workforce of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions of the Senate on the impact of any waivers or modifications issued pursuant to subsection (a) on affected individuals and the programs under title IV of the Act, and the basis for such determination, and include in such report the Secretary’s recommendations for changes to the statutory or regulatory provisions that were the subject of such waiver or modification.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) the United States Sixth Fleet has not conducted regular port visits of the port of Haifa, Israel, since the attack on the U.S.S. Cole in Aden, Yemen, on October 12, 2000, but previously visited that port on a regular basis, with an average of 50 United States warships visiting Haifa each year.

(2) the United States Navy has invested millions of dollars in expanding the capacity and capability of the port of Haifa to accommodate United States Navy requirements and the port of Haifa is among the most secure harbors in the world and offers reliable and efficient repair facilities with close proximity to capable air transport and communications.

(3) the forward presence of United States Navy ships is a powerful deterrent to aggression and a tangible expression of American national interests.
(4) The visits of the United States Sixth Fleet to Haifa demonstrate the historic friendship of the American and Israeli people and the commitment of the United States to the security and survival of the State of Israel.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—
(1) the President of Defense and the United States Navy should engage with the Government of Israel and the Israel Defense Forces to establish appropriate and effective arrangements to ensure the safety of United States Navy vessels and personnel; and
(2) upon such arrangements being made, the Sixth Fleet should resume regular port visits to Haifa.

AMENDMENT NO. 5 OFFERED BY MR. HEFLEY
The text of the amendment is as follows:
At the end of title X (page 333, after line 21), insert the following new section:

SEC. 3611. SHORT Title
This section may be cited as the "Nuclear Security Initiative Act of 2003".

Subtitle A—Nonproliferation Program Enhancements

SEC. 3611. ESTABLISHMENT OF INTERNATIONAL NUCLEAR MATERIALS PROTECTION AND COOPERATION PROGRAM IN ADDITION TO ANNUAL DOD FUNDING

(a) POLICY WITH RESPECT TO FORMER SOVIET UNION.—It is the policy of the United States to seek to cooperate with the Russian Federation and each other independent state of the former Soviet Union to effect as quickly as is reasonably practical basic security measures (such as the replacement of doors, the bricking of or placement of bars in quick as is reasonably practical basic security measures on the continuity and effectiveness of such programs; and
(2) to minimize the number of facilities worldwide at which separated plutonium and highly enriched uranium are present, so as to achieve the highest and most sustainable levels of security for such facilities in the most cost-effective manner.

(c) EXPANSION OF PROGRAM TO ADDITIONAL COUNTRIES AUTHORIZED.—(1) The Secretary of State may establish an international nuclear materials protection and cooperation program with respect to countries other than the Russian Federation and the other independent states of the former Soviet Union.

(2) In carrying out such program, the Secretary of State shall consult with the heads of State in the efforts of the Secretary of State, in carrying out the program, to assist such countries to review and improve their security programs with respect to nuclear weapons and nuclear materials.

(b) The technical assistance provided under subparagraph (a) may, where consistent with the treaty obligations of the United States, include the sharing of technology or methodologies with the countries referred to in that subparagraph, such sharing shall take into account the sovereignty of the country concerned and the nuclear weapons programs of such country, as well as the sensitivity of any information involved regarding United States nuclear weapons or nuclear materials systems.

(c) The Secretary of State may include the Russian Federation in activities under this paragraph if the Secretary determines that the experience of the Russian Federation under the International Nuclear Materials Protection and Cooperation Program of the Department of Energy would make the participation of the Russian Federation in those activities useful in providing technical assistance under subparagraph (A).

Subtitle B—Administration and Oversight of Threat Reduction and Nonproliferation Programs

SEC. 3621. ANALYSIS OF EFFECT ON THREAT REDUCTION AND NONPROLIFERATION PROGRAMS OF CONGRESSIONAL OVERSIGHT MEASURES WITH RESPECT TO SUCH PROGRAMS

(a) ANALYSIS OF AND REPORT ON CONGRESSIONAL OVERSIGHT MEASURES.—(1) The National Academy of Sciences shall carry out an analysis of the effect on threat reduction and nonproliferation programs of applicable congressional oversight measures. The analysis shall take into account—

(1) the national security interests of the United States;
(2) the need for accountability in the expenditure of funds by the United States;
(3) the effect of such congressional oversight measures on the continuity and effectiveness of such programs; and
(4) the other oversight responsibilities of Congress with respect to such programs.

(2) In carrying out the analysis, the National Academy of Sciences shall consult with the appropriate committees and congressional committees and subcommittees and other congressional committees with responsibility for oversight of the programs covered by this section.

(b) REPORT.—Not later than October 1, 2004, the National Academy of Sciences shall submit to Congress a report on the analysis required by subsection (a). The report shall—

(1) identify, and describe the scope of, each congressional oversight measure; and
(2) set forth such recommendations as the National Academy of Sciences considers appropriate as to whether such measures should be retained, amended, or repealed, together with the reasoning underlying that determination.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) the term "congressional oversight measure" means—

(A) the restrictions in subsection (d) of section 1203 of the Cooperative Threat Reduction Act of 1993 (22 U.S.C. 5952);

(B) the eligibility requirements in paragraphs (1) through (4) of section 502 of the FEEDOM Support Act (22 U.S.C. 5952); and

(C) the prohibition in section 1305 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2000 (Public Law 106–85; 113 Stat. 2536).

(D) any restriction or prohibition on the use of funds otherwise available for threat reduction and nonproliferation programs.

(2) The term "threat reduction and nonproliferation programs" means—
(A) the programs specified in section 1205 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 (Public Law 104–201; 110 Stat. 2731; 50 U.S.C. 2362 note); and
(B) any programs for which funds are made available for threat reduction and nonproliferation programs under the defense nuclear nonproliferation account of the Department of Energy.

SEC. 3622. ANNUAL REPORT ON THE USE OF FUNDS Appropriated TO FOSTER THREAT REDUCTION AND NONPROLIFERATION IN STATES OF THE FORMER SOVIET UNION.

(a) REPORT.—Not later than December 31 of each year, the Secretary of Energy shall submit to Congress a report on the use, during the fiscal year ending September 30 of that year, of funds appropriated for threat reduction and nonproliferation programs in the Russian Federation and the former independent states of the former Soviet Union. The report shall be prepared in consultation with the appropriate committees of Congress, and shall include the following:

(1) A description of the use of such funds and the manner in which such funds are being monitored and accounted for, including—
(A) the amounts obligated, and the amounts expended, for such activities;
(B) the purposes for which such amounts were obligated and expended;
(C) the forms of assistance provided, for such purposes, and the justification for each form of assistance provided;
(D) the success of each such activity, including the purposes achieved for each such activity;
(E) a description of the participation in such activities by private sector entities in the United States and by Federal agencies; and
(F) any other information that the Secretary of Energy considers appropriate to provide a complete description of the operation and success of such activities.

(2) An accounting of the financial commitment made by the Russian Federation of the date of the end of the fiscal year covered by the report, to the destruction of its weapons of mass destruction and to threat reduction and nonproliferation programs.

(3) A description of the efforts made by the United States to encourage the Russian Federation to continue to maintain its current level of financial commitment at a level not less than the level of its commitment for fiscal year 2003, and the response of the Russian Federation to such efforts.

(4) A description of the support provided by the Russian Federation to the United States during the fiscal year covered by the report, to the facilities with respect to which the United States is providing assistance under threat reduction and nonproliferation programs.

(b) CONSULTATION REQUIRED.—In preparing the report, the Secretary of Energy shall consult with the chairs and ranking minority members of the following congressional committees:

(1) The Committee on Armed Services, Committee on Appropriations, and Committee on International Relations of the House of Representatives.

(2) The Committee on Armed Services, Committee on Appropriations, and Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate.

(c) INFORMATION FROM RUSSIAN FEDERATION.—In the case of activities covered by the report that are carried out in the Russian Federation, the Secretary of Energy shall, in preparing the report, include information provided by the Russian Federation with respect to those activities.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the term "threat reduction and nonproliferation programs" has the meaning given such term in section 3621.

SEC. 3623. PLAN FOR AND COORDINATION OF CHEMICAL AND BIOLOGICAL WEAPONS NONPROLIFERATION PROGRAMS WITH STATES OF THE FORMER SOVIET UNION.

(1) by redesigning subsection (d) as subsection (e); and
(2) by inserting after subsection (c) the following new subsection (f):

"(f) CHEMICAL AND BIOLOGICAL WEAPONS.—(1) Not later than June 1, 2004, the President shall submit to the Senate and the House of Representatives a comprehensive, detailed plan—

(A) to account for, secure, and destroy all chemical and biological weapons, and the chemical and biological materials designed for use in such weapons, that are located in Russia and the independent states of the former Soviet Union; and

(B) to prevent the outflow from those states of the technology and scientific expertise that could be used for developing those weapons, including delivery systems.

(2) The plan required by paragraph (1) shall include the following:

(A) Specific goals and measurable objectives for the programs that are designed to carry out the requirements identified in subparagraphs (A) and (B) of paragraph (1).

(B) Identification of all significant obstacles to achieving those objectives and the means for overcoming those obstacles.

(C) Criteria for success for those programs and a strategy for eventual termination of United States contributions to those programs and a strategy for the phasing out of support of those programs by the Russian Federation.

(D) Specification of the fiscal and resource requirements to accomplish the eight fiscal years after fiscal year 2003 to achieve those objectives, including contributions from the international community.

(E) Arrangements with the United States oversight and access to sites.

(F) Recommendations for any changes—

(i) in the structure or organization of the programs for carrying out those objectives; and

(ii) in regulations or legislation that would increase the efficiency and coordination of those programs or otherwise contribute to the achievement of those objectives.

(3) In developing the plan required by paragraph (1), the President shall consult with—

(A) the majority and minority leadership of the appropriate committees of Congress; and

(B) appropriate officials of the states of the former Soviet Union.

(4) (A) The President, after consultation with the majority and minority leadership of the appropriate committees of Congress, shall designate a senior official of the Executive Branch, and provide that official with sufficient resources, to coordinate the programs referred to in paragraph (2)(A).

(B) The President shall designate that official not later than 12 months after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(5) In developing the plan required by paragraph (4) the President shall include—

(A) plans required by subsection (a) and inserting "plans required by subsections (a) and (d)(1)"; and

(B) in subparagraphs (B), (C), and (D) by striking "plan" each place it appears and inserting "PLANS.".

"(B) The President shall consult with the Senate and the House of Representatives on the progress of implementation of the plan required by subsection (a) and the President shall ensure that the plan is updated each year, with respect to those activities.

(c) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The heading of section 1205 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (Public Law 107–107; 115 Stat. 1247) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 1205. PLANS FOR SECURING NUCLEAR WEAPONS, AND EXPERTISE OF, AND FOR COORDINATING CHEMICAL AND BIOLOGICAL WEAPONS NONPROLIFERATION PROGRAMS WITH STATES OF THE FORMER SOVIET UNION.

(B) EFFECTIVE DATE OF FIRST REPORT COVERING BOTH PLANS.—The amendments made by subsection (b) shall apply with respect to the first report due after January 31, 2004.

"Subtitle C—United States—Russia Relations

SEC. 3631. COMPREHENSIVE INVENTORIES AND DATA EXCHANGES ON NUCLEAR WEAPONS-GRADE MATERIAL AND NUCLEAR WEAPONS.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that inventories of nuclear weapons-grade material and nuclear weapons should be tracked in order, among other things—

(1) to make it more likely that the United States can account for its entire inventory of nuclear weapons-grade material and nuclear weapons;

(2) to make it more likely that the sources of any such material or weapons possessed or used by any foreign state or terrorist organization can be identified.

(b) STATEMENT OF POLICY.—To the extent that the President considers prudent, it is the policy of the United States to seek to establish jointly with the Russian Federation comprehensive inventories and data exchanges of Russian Federation and United States nuclear weapons-grade material and nuclear weapons, with particular attention to tactical warheads and warheads that are no longer operationally deployed.

(c) ASSISTANCE IN DEVELOPING COMPREHENSIVE INVENTORIES.—In developing the plan required by subsection (c), to the maximum extent practicable and without jeopardizing United States national security interests, the United States may exchange data with the Russian Federation on categories of material and weapons described in subsection (c).

(d) DATA EXCHANGES.—As part of the development of inventories under subsection (c), to the maximum extent practicable and without jeopardizing United States national security interests, the United States may exchange with the Russian Federation on categories of material and weapons described in subsection (c).

(e) REPORT.—Not later than 12 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, and annually thereafter until a comprehensive inventory is created and the information collected from the inventory is exchanged between the United States and the Russian Federation, the President shall submit to Congress a report, in both classified and unclassified form as necessary, describing the progress that has been made toward creating the inventory and exchanging the information.

SEC. 3632. ESTABLISHMENT OF DUMA-CONGRESS NUCLEAR THREAT REDUCTION WORKING GROUP.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF WORKING GROUP.—There is hereby established a working group to be known as the “Nuclear Threat Reduction Working Group,” an interparliamentary group of the Congress of the United States and the Russian Federation.

(b) PURPOSE OF WORKING GROUP.—The purpose of the Working Group established by subsection (a) shall be to explore means to enhance cooperation between the United States and the Russian Federation with respect to nuclear nonproliferation and security, and such other issues related to reducing nuclear weapons dangers as the delegations from the two legislatures may consider.

(c) MEMBERSHIP.—(1) The majority leader of the Senate, after consultation with the minority leader of the Senate, shall appoint 30 Senators to the Nuclear Threat Reduction Working Group established by subsection (a).

(2) The Speaker of the House of Representatives, after consultation with the minority leader of the House of Representatives, shall appoint 30 Representatives to the Working Group.

SEC. 3633. JOINT UNITED STATES/NORTH ATLANTIC TREATY ORGANIZATION COOPERATION WITH RUSSIA ON THEATER-LEVEL BALLISTIC MISSILE DEFENSES:

(a) POLICY.—It is the policy of the United States that the President should seek to ensure that the United States takes the lead in arranging for the United States, in conjunction with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, to enter into appropriate cooperative relationships with the Russian Federation with respect to the development and deployment of theater-level ballistic missile defenses.

(b) PURPOSE OF COOPERATIVE RELATIONSHIPS.—It is the policy of the United States—

(1) that the cooperative relationships described in subsection (a) is to increase transparency and confidence with the Russian Federation;

(2) that United States defense and security cooperation with the Russian Federation should contribute to defining a new bilateral strategic framework that is not rooted in the concept of “mutual assured destruction”;

and

(3) that such new bilateral strategic framework should be based upon improving the security of the United States and the Russian Federation by promoting transparency and confidence between the two countries.

(c) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—Not later than one year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the President shall transmit to Congress a report (in unclassified or classified form as necessary) on the feasibility of increasing cooperation with the Russian Federation on the subject of theater-level ballistic missile defenses and on the purposes and objectives set forth in subsection (b).

The report shall include—

(1) recommendations from the Department of Defense and Missile Defense Agency;

(2) a threat assessment; and

(3) that United States defense and security cooperation with the Russian Federation may not be based on the expectation that the Russian Federation will forgo its missile defense programs.

SEC. 3634. ENCOURAGEMENT OF ENHANCED COOPERATION TO ACHIEVE MORE RELIABLE UNITED STATES EARLY WARNING SYSTEMS.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) the innovative United States-Russian space-based remote sensor research and development program known as the Russian-American Observation Satellite (RAMOS) program addresses a variety of defense concerns while promoting enhanced transparency and confidence between the United States and the Russian Federation; and

(2) an initial concept of co-orbiting United States and Russian satellites for simultaneous stereo observations is complete and should be continued.

(b) POLICY.—To the extent that the President considers prudent, it is the policy of the United States—

(1) to encourage joint efforts by the United States and the Russian Federation to reduce the chances of a Russian nuclear attack anywhere in the world as the result of misinformation or miscalculation by developing the capabilities and increasing the reliability of Russian ballistic missile early warning systems, including the Russian-American Observation Satellite (RAMOS) program; and

(2) to encourage other United States-Russian programs to ensure that the Russian Federation has reliable information, including real-time data, regarding launches of ballistic missiles around the world.

(c) INTERIM RAMOS FUNDING.—To the extent that the Secretary of Defense considers prudent, the Secretary of Defense shall ensure that sufficient funds are obligated in the execution of a new agreement between the United States and the Russian Federation providing for the conduct of the RAMOS program, sufficient amounts of which are obligated to facilitate the program are used in order to ensure the satisfactory continuation of that program during fiscal years 2004 and 2005.

SEC. 3635. TELLER-KURCHATOV ALLIANCE FOR PEACE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) Edward Teller of the United States and Igor Kurchatov of the former Soviet Union were architects of the nuclear weapons program in their respective countries;

(2) these outstanding individuals both expressed a longing for peace and opposition to war; and

(3) as the United States and the Russian Federation work together to redirect the nations of the world away from the use of nuclear energy, seeking to improve the quality of life for all human beings, it is appropriate to establish an alliance for peace in the names of Edward Teller and Igor Kurchatov.

(b) TELLER-KURCHATOV ALLIANCE FOR PEACE.—(1) To effectuate the purpose of the program, the Secretary of Energy, in consultation with the Director of National Intelligence, shall establish the Teller-Kurchatov Alliance for Peace, to develop and promote peaceful, safe, and environmentally sensitive applications of nuclear sciences.

(2) The cooperative venture referred to in paragraph (1) shall involve the national security laboratories of the National Nuclear Security Administration and the laboratories of the Ministry of Atomic Energy and the Kurchatov Institute of the Russian Federation.

(3) The cooperative venture shall be directed by two co-chairs, one from each of the United States and the Russian Federation. The co-chair from the United States shall be designated by the Administrator for Nuclear Security from among officials of the three national security laboratories, with each laboratory represented on a rotating basis.

SEC. 3636. NONPROLIFERATION FELLOWSHIPS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—(1) From amounts made available to carry out this section, the Administrator for Nuclear Security may carry out a program under which the Administrator awards, to scientists employed at the Kurchatov Institute of the Russian Federation and Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, international exchange fellowships, to be known as Teller-Kurchatov Fellowships, in the field of nuclear nonproliferation sciences.

(2) The purpose of the program shall be to provide opportunities for advancement in the field of nuclear nonproliferation sciences to non-U.S. scientists who, as demonstrated by their academic or professional achievements, show particular promise of making significant contributions in that field.

(3) A fellowship awarded to a scientist under the program shall be for study and training at an institution of higher education in the United States; and

(b) FUNDING.—(1) The purpose of the program shall be to provide an initial amount of $1.000,000 to carry out the fellowship program.

(2) The program shall be administered by the Administrator, in consultation with the Director of National Intelligence.

Subtitle D—Other Matters

SEC. 3641. PROMOTION OF DISCUSSIONS ON NUCLEAR AND RADIATION SAFETY AND SECURITY BETWEEN THE INTERNATIONAL ATOMIC ENERGY AGENCY AND THE ORGANIZATION FOR ECONOMIC COOPERATION AND DEVELOPMENT.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) discussions among national nonproliferation programs to control potential threats from any fissile and radiological materials, whatever and wherever their sources, should be expanded to include additional states and international organizations; and
(2) addressing issues of nuclear weapons and material proliferation, as well as the issue of radiological dispersal bombs, in new forums around the world is crucial to the generation of innovative mechanisms directed at addressing threats.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING INITIATION OF DIALOGUE BETWEEN THE IAEA AND THE OECD.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the United States should seek to initiate discussions between the International Atomic Energy Agency and the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development for the purpose of exploring issues of nuclear and radiological security and safety, including the creation of new sources of revenue (including debt reduction) for states to provide nuclear security; and
(2) the discussions referred to in paragraph (1) should also provide a forum to explore possible sources of funds in support of the G-8 Global Partnership Against the Spread of Weapons and Materials of Mass Destruction.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than 12 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the President shall submit to Congress a report on—

(1) the efforts made by the United States to initiate the discussions described in subsection (b);
(2) the results of those efforts; and
(3) any plans for further discussions and the purposes of such discussions.

AMENDMENT NO. 12 OFFERED BY MR. ROGERS OF MICHIGAN

The text of the amendment is as follows:

At the end of title XII (page 384, after line 3), insert the following new section:

SEC. 12. ASSISTANCE TO IRAQI CHILDREN IN HIDING DURING OPERATION IRAQI FREEDOM.

(a) ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary of Defense shall, to the maximum extent practicable, provide all necessary support in an expeditious manner to assist Iraqi children who were injured during Operation Iraqi Freedom.

(b) ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS.—Assistance described in subsection (a) may only be provided to a child only if adequate treatment from other sources in Iraq or neighboring countries is not available and only after consultation by a physician or other appropriate medical personnel of the United States Armed Forces. In addition, assistance described in subsection (a) may be provided only if it would not adversely affect military operations of the United States.

c) DEFINITION.—In this section, the term "Operation Iraqi Freedom" means operations of United States Armed Forces, the armed forces of the United Kingdom, and the armed forces of other coalition member countries initiated on or about March 19, 2003.

In applying section 2 of the Buy American Act (41 U.S.C. 10a) to acquisitions by the Department of Defense, the term "substantially all" shall mean at least 65 percent.

AMENDMENT NO. 26 OFFERED BY MR. HOFFEL

The text of the amendment is as follows:

The text of the amendment is as follows:

At the end of title B of title XXVIII (page 479, before line 15), insert the following new section:

SEC. 807. CONSIDERATION OF PUBLIC-ACCESS ROAD ISSUES RELATED TO DISPOSAL OF PROPERTY AT MILITARY INSTALLATIONS UNDER BASE CLOSURE AND REALIGNMENT ACT.

(a) Authority.—Subject to subsection (b), in determining the amount of the payment authorized by subparagraph (D), the Secretary may require such additional consideration acceptable to the Secretary. In lieu of any portion of such renovation or repair which may accept other facility alteration or repair of not less than equal value.

(b) Exemption from Federal screening.—The conveyance authorized by subsection (a) is exempt from the requirement to screen the property for other Federal use pursuant to sections 2693 and 2696 of title 10, United States Code.

(g) Additional terms and conditions.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance authorized by subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.
AMENDMENT NO. 30 OFFERED BY MR. CRENSHAW

The text of the amendment is as follows:

At the end of subtitle D of title XXXV (page 627, after line 25), add the following:

SEC. . AUTHORITY TO CONVEY NDRF VESSELS AND VESSEL CONTENTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other law, the Secretary of Transportation may convey the right, title, and interest of the United States Government in and to any or all of the vessels USS ORION (AS-18), USS HOWARD W. GILMORE (AS-16), USS SPERRY (AS-12), USS NEREAUS (AS-17), USS PROTEUS (XAS-19), and S.S. HATTIESBURG VICTORY (number 248651), a barge and its inventoried contents (YFNB 4, also known as SSE-512), and the contents (Victory class spares) that have been removed from the S.S. CATAWBA VICTORY, to Beauchamp Tower Corporation (a not-for-profit corporation, in this section referred to as the “recipient”) for use as moored support ships for the corporation and as memorials to the Fulton class ships and the Victory class ships, if—

(1) the vessel is not used for commercial transportation purposes;

(2) the recipient agrees to make the vessel available to the Government when the Secretary requires use of the vessel by the Government;

(3) the recipient agrees that when the recipient no longer requires the vessel for use as a moored support ship for the corporation and as a memorial to the Fulton class ships and the Victory class ships—

(A) the recipient shall, at the discretion of the Secretary, reconvey the vessel to the Government in good condition except for ordinary wear and tear; or

(B) if the Board of Trustees of the recipient has decided to dissolve the recipient according to the laws of the State of Florida, then—

(i) the recipient shall distribute the vessel, as an asset of the recipient, to a person that has been determined exempt from taxation under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, or to the Federal Government or a State or local government for a public purpose; and

(ii) the vessel shall be disposed of by a court of competent jurisdiction of the county in which the principal office of the recipient is located, for such purposes as the court shall determine, or to such organizations as the court shall determine are organized exclusively for public purposes;

(4) the recipient agrees to hold the Government harmless for any claims arising from exposure to asbestos after conveyance of the vessel, except for claims arising from use by the Government under paragraph (2) or (3); and

(5) the recipient has available, for use to restore the vessel, in the form of cash, liquid assets, a written loan commitment, or financial resources—

(A) except as provided in subparagraph (B), of at least $1,500,000 for each vessel conveyed; and

(B) at least $50,000 for each barge with contents conveyed.

(b) DELIVERY OF VESSEL.—If a conveyance of a vessel is made under this section, the Secretary shall deliver the vessel at the place where the vessel is located on the date of the enactment of this Act, in its present condition, without cost to the Government.

(c) MANAGEMENT OF VESSELS PENDING CONVEYANCE.—

(1) 2-YEAR HOLDING PERIOD.—The Secretary shall remove all vessels authorized to be conveyed under this section from the scrapping disposal list for a period of 2 years.

(2) DISPOSAL AT END OF HOLDING PERIOD.—If a vessel has not been received and transported from its conveyance location by the recipient before the end of such 2-year period, the Secretary may dispose of the vessel as the Secretary determines to be appropriate.

(3) DISPOSAL DURING HOLDING PERIOD.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1), the Secretary may dispose of a vessel authorized to be conveyed under this section during the 2-year period provided for in paragraph (1), if it is determined that the vessel is in danger of sinking or presents an immediate critical hazard to the National Defense Reserve Fleet or environmental safety.

(d) OTHER UNNEEDED EQUIPMENT.—The Secretary may convey to the recipient any unneeded equipment, materials, and spares from other vessels or in storage with the Maritime Administration and the National Defense Reserve Fleet, for the recipient’s use, including the restoration and refit of the vessels conveyed under this section and to assist other vessel museums.

(e) RETENTION OF VESSEL IN NDRF.—The Secretary shall retain in the National Defense Reserve Fleet each vessel authorized to be conveyed under subsection (a), until the earlier of—

(1) 2 years after the date of the enactment of this Act; or

(2) the date of conveyance of the vessel under subsection (a).

NOTICE
Incomplete record of House proceedings. Today’s House proceedings will be continued in the next issue of the Record.
The Senate met at 9:30 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable JOHN E. SUNUNU, a Senator from the State of New Hampshire.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Today’s prayer will be offered by the guest Chaplain, Rev. Kim Swithinbank of The Falls Church, Falls Church, VA.

PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The guest Chaplain offered the following prayer:

Almighty God and Heavenly Father, You alone rule the nations of the world. In Your perfect timing and wisdom, You raise up leaders and You bring them down. You entrust power and authority into their hands, and one day You will call them to account for their stewardship of these gifts. In light of this, we are conscious of the awesome responsibility that You have entrusted to our Nation at this time in the history of Your world.

Therefore, we pray for all who lead and hold high office in this land, especially for the Members of this Senate, that You would give them Your “Spirit of wisdom and understanding, of counsel and might, of knowledge and the fear of the Lord,” that their deliberations and decisions would be godly, righteous and pure.

As the eyes of many are on this Nation, may its leaders govern in such a manner that results in peace with justice, and that provides a model for a watching world. We ask these prayers in the mighty name of Jesus, the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable John E. SUNUNU led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. STEVENS).

U.S. SENATE,
PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE,

To the Senate:

Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable JOHN E. SUNUNU, a Senator from the State of New Hampshire, to perform the duties of the Chair.

TED STEVENS,
President pro tempore.

Mr. SUNUNU thereupon assumed the Chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Virginia is recognized.

THE GUEST CHAPLAIN

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, first, I wish to say how pleased I am to recognize our guest Chaplain for the day, who is now preaching the gospel in the Commonwealth of Virginia, and with roots to Great Britain, a nation which has been our ally for over 200 years after we settled a mild difference in 1776. But I must say that his message was most appropriate for the day. The magnificent way in which he delivered that message, I felt as if it reverberated through the rafters because of the resonance of that powerful voice. We welcome him.

SCHEDULE

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, last evening, owing to the great help of many persons, not the least of whom is the distinguished Democratic whip who is here on the floor with me this morning, the bill of the Armed Services Committee made remarkable progress. Through the night, the staff on both sides prepared another white-coated collection of amendments which will soon be brought to the Senate for clearance.

When the Senate resumes consideration of the bill today, the Murray amendment will be laid aside, and Senator DASCHLE, or his designee, will be recognized to call up amendment No. 791 regarding the Department of the Air Force.

For the information of all Senators, amendments are expected throughout the day, and therefore rollcall votes will occur as designated by the leadership. It is the managers’ hope—and, indeed, I may say from the Chaplain’s prayer—that this bill will be concluded, hopefully, by midday today.

I know of several amendments on both sides which I believe we can work our way through. Some of them require the attention of the Senate, of course, with a rollcall vote.

With that, I yield the floor.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MINORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The assistant Democratic leader is recognized.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, as we spoke last night as we were leaving, it seemed to me the only hurdle left was what we were going to do about the amendment offered by the distinguished Senator from Washington. She has offered this amendment 7 years in a row. We have had a straight up-or-down vote on this amendment 7 years in a row. It seems to me that would be the way to handle this matter, which, of course, is controversial, as are many other amendments on this very bill. Once we get through that—if, in fact, we do get through it, and it could hold up the bill for an indefinite period of time—we have very few matters left on this side. I have not been able to determine from the managers if they have been able to clear the Landrieu amendment. We were concerned about the Biden amendment and the Dodd amendment. I think that is about all we have other than the Boxer amendment, which is going to be debated sometime today.

This “bullet” symbol identifies statements or insertions which are not spoken by a Member of the Senate on the floor.

She has agreed to take a short time on that. The end is in sight. But knowing the Senate as I do, the simple fact that the end is in sight doesn’t mean that we will ever get there.

I hope we can resolve the Boxer matter and the Murray matter rapidly. Having done that, I think we will proceed through this bill quite quickly.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, if I might ask the distinguished leader and ranking member, we are prepared to accept the offer made last night with regard to time on the Boxer amendment.

Mr. REID. We would still be willing to do that. The Senator from California has indicated, if the Chair will allow me to speak to the Senator from Virginia, that she is agreeable to take an hour evenly divided on her amendment.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, we are prepared to accept that.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the Senator from Virginia waited for hours last night during the parliamentary wrangle that we had. I think we are willing to enter into that time agreement. I think we first have to dispose of the Murray amendment before we agree to that. Under the order, we have to work on the Daschle amendment. As soon as we complete that, I think we should dispose of the Murray amendment before we go to the Boxer amendment.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, will the Senator enter into an agreement with the managers on a one-hour time agreement on the Boxer amendment which does not preclude an amendment in the second degree?

Mr. REID. Not at this time, we would not. I think we need to dispose of the Murray amendment one way or the other. Once we do, I think we can work something out on the Boxer amendment.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, leadership time is reserved.

NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2004

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume consideration of S. 1050, which the clerk will report.

The clerk reads as follows:

A bill (S. 1050) to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2004 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe personnel strengths for such fiscal year for the Armed Forces, and for other purposes.

PENDING:

Murray Amendment No. 691, to restore a previous policy regarding restrictions on use of Department of Defense medical facilities.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the pending amendment is set aside.

The Senator from Virginia. AMENDMENT NO. 791

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I call up amendment number 791.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk reads as follows: The Senator from Nevada (Mr. REID), for Mr. DASCHLE and Mr. JOHNSON, proposes an amendment No. 791.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To set aside an amount for reconstituting the B-1B bomber aircraft fleet of the Air Force.

On page 21, after line 20, insert the following:

SEC. 132. B-1B BOMBER AIRCRAFT.

(a) AMOUNT FOR AIRCRAFT.—(1) Of the amount authorized to be appropriated under section 103(1), $20,300,000 shall be available to reconstitute the fleet of B-1B bomber aircraft through modifications of 23 B-1B bomber aircraft otherwise to be retired in fiscal year 2003 that extend the service life of such aircraft and maintain or, as necessary, improve the capabilities of such aircraft for missions in the 21st century.

(2) The Secretary of the Air Force shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report that specifies the amounts necessary to be included in the future years' defense program to reconstitute the B-1B bomber aircraft fleet of the Air Force.

(b) ADJUSTMENT.—(1) Of the amount authorized to be appropriated under section 103(1) is hereby increased by $20,300,000.

(2) The total amount authorized to be appropriated under section 103(1) is hereby reduced by $20,300,000, with the amount of the reduction to be allocated to SOF operational enhancements.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, if I could have the attention of the distinguished leader and ranking member, my understanding is that amendment requires a further amendment, and then it is in an acceptable form. Am I not correct?

Mr. LEVIN. If I could ask the Senator to yield, it is my understanding that the amendment has been agreed to but the paperwork has not yet been completed to accomplish the agreement.

Mr. REID. If the Chair would allow me, Senator Daschle agreed to the modification of the amendment. That could be handled either later today or in the managers’ package.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I thank the distinguished leader. Perhaps in the course of the day this morning we can reach that agreement quickly.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. MURKOWSKI). The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

(Mr. FITZGERALD assumed the Chair.)

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GHAHAM of South Carolina). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I first express to colleagues in the Senate our appreciation for their patience. We have achieved remarkable results, in my judgment, under the guidance of the distinguished Democratic whip and Republican whip on this side, helping the two managers.

Mr. President, my colleague Senator LEVIN and I wish to turn to a package of some 30 agreed-upon amendments. At the conclusion of that, we will entertain a unanimous consent request which should pretty well keep us in motion here.

AMENDMENT NO. 804

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I offer an amendment on behalf of Senator SMITH which will authorize land exchange at the Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Center in Portland, OR.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the pending amendments are laid aside.

The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk reads as follows: The Senator from Virginia (Mr. WARNER), for Mr. SMITH, proposes an amendment numbered 804.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To authorize a land exchange, Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Center, Portland, Oregon.

At the end of subtitle C of title XXVIII, add the following:

SEC. 2825. LAND EXCHANGE, NAVAL AND MARINE CORPS RESERVE CENTER, PORTLAND, OREGON.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Navy may convey to the United Parcel Service, Inc. (in this section referred to as “UPS”), any or all rights, title, and interest in the United States parcel of real property, including improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 14 acres in Portland, Oregon, and comprising the Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Center for the purpose of facilitating the expansion of the UPS main distribution complex in Portland.

(b) PROPERTY RECEIVED IN EXCHANGE.—(1) As consideration for the conveyance under subsection (a), UPS shall—

(A) convey to the United States a parcel of real property determined to be suitable by the Secretary; and

(B) design, construct, and convey such replacement facilities on the property conveyed under subparagraph (A) as the Secretary considers appropriate.

(2) The value of the real property and replacement facilities conveyed to the Secretary under this subsection shall be at least equal to the fair market value of the real property conveyed under subsection (a), as determined by the Secretary.

(c) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—(1) The Secretary may require UPS to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary, incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey... costs, costs related to environmental documentation, relocation expenses incurred under subsection (b), and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts are collected from UPS in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out such conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to UPS.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund referred to in paragraph (1) to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyance. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or accounts, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(c) DESCRIPTION OF CONVEYANCE.—The Secretary may not make the conveyance authorized by subsection (a) until the Secretary determines that the replacement facilities required by subsection (b) are suitable and available for the relocation of the operations of the Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Centers.

(d) EXEMPTION FROM FEDERAL SCREENING.—The conveyance authorized by subsection (a) is exempt from the requirement to screen the property concerned for further Federal use pursuant to section 2696 of title 10, United States Code, under the Defense Base and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note) or under any other applicable law or regulation.

(e) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The conveyance authorized by subsection (a) shall be deemed by the Secretary to be conveyed under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, we have no objection to this amendment. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment (No. 805) was agreed to.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 805

Mr. LEVIN. I offer an amendment on behalf of Senator SARBANES that would provide for the conveyance of 33 acres of land in Fort Ritchie, MD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the pending amendments are set aside.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pending amendment be laid aside for all the amendments which Senator WARNER and I will now be offering.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is as follows:

PURPOSE: To provide offsets to the Air Force

SEC. 2825. LAND CONVEYANCE, FORT RITCHIE, MARYLAND.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Army shall convey, without consideration, to the PenMar Development Corporation, a public instrumentality of the State of Maryland (in this section referred to as the "Corporation"), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including improvements thereon, at former Fort Ritchie, Cascade, Maryland, consisting of approximately 33 acres, that is currently being leased by the International Masonry Institute (in this section referred to as the "Institute"), for the purpose of enlargement to serve the property to the Institute for the economic development of former Fort Ritchie.

(b) EXEMPTION FROM FEDERAL SCREENING REQUIREMENT.—The conveyance authorized by subsection (a) shall be exempt from the requirement to screen the property concerned for further Federal use pursuant to section 2696 of title 10, United States Code, under the Defense Base and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note) or under any other applicable law or regulation.

(c) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the property to be conveyed under this section shall be determined by surveys satisfactory to the Secretary.

(d) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The conveyance authorized by subsection (a) shall be deemed by the Secretary to be conveyed under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment (No. 805) was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

SEC. 132. B-1B BOMBER AIRCRAFT.

(a) AMOUNT FOR AIRCRAFT.—(1) Of the amount authorized to be appropriated under section 103(1), $20,300,000 may be available to reconstitute the fleet of B-1B bomber aircraft through modifications to convert existing B-1B bomber aircraft otherwise scheduled to be retired in fiscal year 2008 that extend the service life of such aircraft and maintain or, as necessary, improve the capabilities of such aircraft for mission performance.

(2) The Secretary of the Air Force shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report that specifies the amounts necessary to be included in the future-years defense program to reconstitute the B-1B bomber aircraft fleet of the Air Force.

(b) AMENDMENT.—(1) The total amount authorized to be appropriated under section 103(1) is hereby increased by $20,300,000.

(2) The total amount authorized to be appropriated under section 103(1) is hereby reduced by $20,300,000, with the amount of the reduction to be allocated to SOF operational enhancements.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, the Senator will soon accept a national Defense authorization bill. I commend Senators WARNER and LEVIN, the distinguished managers of this bill, for their excellent work. They have worked well together on an important part of legislation.

This crucial legislation, the fiscal year 2004 National Defense authorization bill, provides funds for our troops, their training, and their equipment.
Coming as it does on the heels of the end of the fighting in Iraq, it also provides the Senate with its first opportunity to act on some of the lessons we have learned in that conflict. Although the hostilities ended a long time ago, the story of the B-1 is far from over. The B-1s have been instrumental in the military success of both Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom. Given the demonstration of its unique capabilities in both these campaigns, it makes little sense to continue forward with the retirement of one-third of the B-1 fleet. With the funding provided in the Daschle-Johnson amendment, and planned increases in the Air Force’s budget in future years, additional modernized B-1s could enter service in fiscal year 2005. The B-1’s ability to carry a large payload of satellite guided weapons and to strike from long distances will make it an important part of our Nation’s defense for many years.

Mr. President, I encourage my colleagues to support the long-term viability of the B-1 fleet by voting in favor of the Daschle-Johnson amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there debate on the amendment?

Mr. WARNER. It is cleared on both sides.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is agreed to. The amendment (No. 791), as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. WARNER. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 787, AS MODIFIED

Mr. WARNER. On behalf of Senator SANTORUM, I offer an amendment to provide additional funding for research and development of non-thermal imaging systems.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

Senator from Virginia [Mr. WARNER], for Mr. SANTORUM, proposes an amendment numbered 787, as modified.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To make available $2,000,000 for non-thermal imaging systems)

At the end of subtitle B of title II, add the following:

SEC. 213. NON-TERMAL IMAGING SYSTEMS.
(a) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.—Of the amount authorized to be appropriated by section 201(2) for research, development, test, and evaluation for the Navy and available for Power Projection Applied Research (PE 60211H), $2,000,000 may be available for research and development of non-thermal imaging systems. The amount authorized to be appropriated under section 201(2) is hereby increased by $2,000,000.

(b) NON-TERMAL IMAGING SYSTEMS.—The amount authorized to be appropriated by section 301(4) for operations and maintenance, Air Force, is hereby reduced by $1,000,000, and the amount authorized to be appropriated by section 104 for Defense-Wide Activities, is hereby reduced by $1,000,000 for SOP Rotary Wing Upgrades.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there debate on the amendment?

Mr. LEVIN. It has been cleared on this side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 787), as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LEVIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 806

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Santorum, I offer an amendment to the desk which would increase by 30 the personnel end strength of the Air National Guard.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN], for Mr. BIDEN, proposes an amendment numbered 806.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To increase by 30 personnel the personnel end strength of the Air National Guard of the United States as of September 30, 2004, to provide personnel to improve information operations capability of the Air National Guard of the United States)

(a) In section 411(a)(5), relating to the authorized strength for Selected Reserve personnel of the Air National Guard of the United States as of September 30, 2004, strike “107,000” and insert “107,030”.

(b) The amount authorized to be appropriated under section 104 is hereby reduced by $3,300,000, including $2,100,000 from SOF rotary wing upgrades and $1,200,000 from SOF operational enhancements.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there debate on the amendment?

The amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 806) was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. WARNER. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 788, AS MODIFIED

Mr. WARNER. I offer an amendment to make available funds for operation and maintenance for the Army Reserve for information operations for Land Forces Readiness—Information Operations Sustainment. This amendment has been modified to provide offsets.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN], for Mr. BIDEN, proposes an amendment numbered 788, as modified.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To make available, with an offset, $2,100,000 for operation and maintenance for the Army Reserve for information operations for Land Forces Readiness—Information Operations Sustainment)

At the end of subtitile B of title II, add the following:

SEC. 313. INFORMATION OPERATIONS SUSTAINMENT FOR LAND FORCES READINESS—INFORMATION OPERATIONS Sustainment.

(a) INCREASE IN AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS FOR ARMY RESERVE.—The amount authorized to be appropriated by section 301(6) for operation and maintenance for the Army Reserve is hereby increased by $3,000,000.

(b) AVAILABILITY FOR INFORMATION OPERATIONS SUSTAINMENT.—(1) Of the amount authorized to be appropriated by section 301(6) for operation and maintenance for the Army Reserve as increased by subsection (a), $3,000,000 may be available for Information Operations (Account #19640) for Land Forces Readiness—Information Operations Sustainment.

(2) The amount available under paragraph (1) for the purpose specified in that paragraph is in addition to any other amounts available under this Act for that purpose.

(c) OFFSET.—The amount authorized to be appropriated by section 301(4) for operation and maintenance for the Air Force is hereby reduced by $1,000,000.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there debate on the amendment?

Mr. LEVIN. No objection on this side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 788), as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LEVIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 807

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator BINGAMAN, I offer an amendment which authorizes $2.1 million to conduct research and development activity for the Holloman Air Force Base high-speed test track.

I believe it has been cleared.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN], for Mr. BINGAMAN, proposes an amendment numbered 807.

AMENDMENT NO. 820

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Sessions, I offer an amendment which directs the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study on the adequacy of the benefits for survivors of deceased members of the Armed Forces that benefits the survivors of such members upon death, the SGLI program requires the members to pay for that life insurance coverage and does not provide an assured minimum benefit.

(2) The Secretary of Defense shall carry out a study of the totality of all current and projected death benefits for survivors of deceased members of the Armed Forces to determine the adequacy of such benefits. In carrying out the study, the Secretary shall—

(A) compare the Federal Government death benefits, survivors of deceased members of the Armed Forces with commercial and other private sector death benefits plans for segments of society outside the Armed Forces, and also with the benefits available under Public Law 107–37 (115 Stat. 219) commonly known as the “Public Safety Officer Benefits Bill”;

(B) assess the personnel policy effects that would result from a revision of the death benefit to provide a stratified schedule of entitlement amounts that places a premium on deaths resulting from participation in combat or from acts of terrorism;

(C) assess the adequacy of the current system of Survivor Benefit Plan annuities and Dependency and Indemnity Compensation and the anticipated effects of an elimination of the offset of Survivor Benefit Plan annuities by Dependency and Indemnity Compensation;

(D) examine the commercial insurability of members of the Armed Forces in high risk military occupational specialties; and

(E) examine the extent to which private trusts and foundations engage in fundraising or otherwise provide financial benefits for survivors of deceased members of the Armed Forces.

(3) Not later than March 1, 2004, the Secretary shall submit a report on the results of the study to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives. The report shall include the following:

(1) The assessments, analyses, and conclusions resulting from the study.

(2) Proposed legislation to address the deficiencies in the system of Federal Government death benefits for survivors of deceased members of the Armed Forces that are identified in the course of the study.

(3) An estimate of the costs of the system of death benefits provided for in the proposed legislation.

(4) The Comptroller General shall conduct a study to identify the death benefits that are payable under Federal, State, and local laws for employees of the Federal Government, State governments, and local governments. Not later than November 1, 2003, the Comptroller General shall submit a report containing the results of the study to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the amendment?

Mr. LEVIN. We have no objection to the amendment.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to be added as a co-sponsor to this amendment.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 821

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Landrieu, I offer an amendment that would increase the maximum Federal share of the costs of State programs under the National Guard Challenge Program for fiscal year 2004. And to provide an offset.

On page 291, between lines 14 and 15, insert the following:

SEC. 1039. FEDERAL ASSISTANCE FOR STATE PROGRAMS UNDER THE NATIONAL GUARD CHALLENGE PROGRAM.

(a) MAXIMUM FEDERAL SHARE.—Section 509(d) of title 32, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking paragraphs (1), (2), and (3);

(2) by redesignating paragraph (4) as paragraph (1);

(3) by redesignating paragraph (1), as so redesignated, by striking the period at the end and inserting ‘‘; and’’; and

(4) by adding at the end the following new paragraph (2):

‘‘(2) for fiscal year 2004 (notwithstanding paragraph (1)), 65 percent of the costs of operating the State program during that year under this paragraph are reimbursable;’’.

(b) STUDY.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall carry out a study to evaluate (a) the adequacy of the requirement under section 509(d) of title 32, United States Code, for the United States to fund 60 percent of the costs of operating a State program of the National Guard Challenge Program and the State to fund 40 percent of such costs, and (b) the value of the Challenge Program to the Department of Defense.

(2) In carrying out the study under paragraph (1), the Secretary should identify potential alternatives to the matching funds requirement under the National Guard Challenge Program under section 509(d) of title 32, United States Code, such as a range of Federal-State matching ratios, that would provide flexibility in management of the program to better respond to temporary fiscal conditions.

(3) The Secretary shall include the results of the study, including findings, conclusions, and recommendations, in the next annual report to Congress under section 509(k) of title 32, United States Code, that is submitted to Congress after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) AMOUNT FOR FEDERAL ASSISTANCE.—(1) The amount authorized to be appropriated under section 301(10) is hereby increased by $3,000,000.

(2) Of the total amount authorized to be appropriated under section 301(10), $68,216,000 shall be available for the National Guard Challenge Program under section 509(d) of title 32, United States Code, such as a range of Federal-State matching ratios, that would provide flexibility in management of the program to better respond to temporary fiscal conditions.

(3) The total amount authorized to be appropriated under section 301(4) is hereby reduced by $3,000,000.

Mr. WARNER. I move to reconsider the vote.
Mr. LEVIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.
The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 823
Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I offer an amendment to the desk on behalf of Senator LANDRIEU, which would provide for a feasibility study of the conveyance of the Louisiana Army Ammunition Plant at Doyline, LA.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:
The Senator from Louisiana [Mr. LANDRIEU], for Mr. WARNER, proposes an amendment numbered 823.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To provide for a feasibility study of the conveyance of the Louisiana Army Ammunition Plant at Doyline, LA.)

At the end of subtitle B of title III, add the following new section:

SEC. 332. SUBMITTAL OF SURVEY ON PERCHLORATE CONTAMINATION AT DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE SITES.

(a) SUBMITTAL OF PERCHLORATE SURVEY.—Not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a survey on potential perchlorate contamination at Department of Defense sites prepared by the U.S. Air Force Research Laboratory.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:
The Senator from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN], for Mr. WARNER, proposes an amendment numbered 824.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To require the submittal of a survey on perchlorate contamination at Department of Defense sites.)

At the end of subtitle B of title III, add the following:

SEC. 332. SUBMITTAL OF SURVEY ON PERCHLORATE CONTAMINATION AT DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE SITES.

(a) SUBMITTAL OF PERCHLORATE SURVEY.—Not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a survey on potential perchlorate contamination at Department of Defense sites prepared by the U.S. Air Force Research Laboratory.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no objection to adoption of the amendment.

The amendment (No. 824) was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator FEINSTEIN, Senator REID, and Senator BOXER, I offer an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress a 2001 survey on potential perchlorate contamination at Department of Defense sites prepared by the U.S. Air Force Research Laboratory.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:
The Senator from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN], for Mrs. BOXER, proposes an amendment numbered 824.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To require the submittal of a survey on perchlorate contamination at Department of Defense sites.)

At the end of subtitle B of title III, add the following:

SEC. 332. SUBMITTAL OF SURVEY ON PERCHLORATE CONTAMINATION AT DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE SITES.

(a) SUBMITTAL OF PERCHLORATE SURVEY.—Not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a survey on potential perchlorate contamination at Department of Defense sites prepared by the United States Air Force Research Laboratory.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment (No. 823) was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.
Mr. WARNER. I move to lay that motion on the table.
The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 824
Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I offer an amendment that would provide an equitable offset for any fee charged the Department of Defense by the Department of State during such year.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To provide an equitable offset for any fee charged the Department of Defense by the Department of State during such year.)

At the end of subtitle C of title XXVIII, add the following new section:

SEC. 2825. FEASIBILITY STUDY OF CONVEYANCE OF LOUISIANA ARMY AMMUNITION PLANT.

(a) STUDY REQUIRED.—(1) The Secretary of the Army shall conduct a study of the feasibility, costs, and benefits for the conveyance of the Louisiana Army Ammunition Plant as a model for a public-private partnership for the utilization and development of the Plant and similar parcels of real property.

(2) In conducting the study, the Secretary shall consider—

(A) the feasibility and advisability of entering into negotiations with the State of Louisiana or the Louisiana National Guard for the conveyance of the Plant;

(B) means by which the conveyance of the Plant could—

(i) facilitate the execution of the Department of Defense of its national security mission;

(ii) facilitate the continued use of the Plant by the Louisiana National Guard and the execution by the Louisiana National Guard of its national security mission; and

(C) the amount and type of consideration that is appropriate for the conveyance of the Plant;

(D) the evidence presented by the State of Louisiana of the extent to which the conveyance of the Plant by the Louisiana National Guard will contribute to economic growth in the State of Louisiana and in Northwestern Louisiana in particular;

(E) the value of any mineral rights in the lands of the Plant;

(F) the advisability of sharing revenues and rents paid by current and potential tenants of the Plant as a result of the Armament Retooling and Manufacturing Support Program; and

(b) LOUISIANA ARMY AMMUNITION PLANT.—In this section, the term “Louisiana Army Ammunition Plant” means the Louisiana Army Ammunition Plant in Doyline, Louisiana, consisting of approximately 14,949 acres, of which 13,665 acres are under lease to the Military Department of the State of Louisiana and 1,284 acres are used by the Army Joint Munitions Command.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report on the study conducted under subsection (a). The report shall include the results of the study and any other matters in light of the study that the Secretary considers appropriate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the amendment? Without objection, the amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 823) was agreed to.
Mr. LEVIN. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. WARNER. I move to lay that motion on the table. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 785

(Purpose: To strengthen the authority under section 852 to provide Federal support for the enhancement of the emergency response capabilities of state and local governments)

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator DODD, I offer an amendment to establish a grant program to support increasing the number of firefighters to address emergencies and terrorist threats.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Senator please submit the amendment.

Mr. LEVIN. I apologize.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN], for Mr. DODD, proposes an amendment numbered 785.

(The amendment is printed in the Record of May 21, 2005, under “Text of Amendments.”)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the amendment?

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, it has been cleared on this side. I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from Virginia be added as a cosponsor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the Senator will be added as a cosponsor.

Without objection, the amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 785) was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I also ask unanimous consent to be added as a cosponsor of the amendment. And I ask if we can leave the roll open for cosponsors until 6 o’clock tonight—until we go out—for additional people to be added as cosponsors.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 821

Ms. LANDRIEU. Mr. President, I can think of few better uses of Federal dollars than the benefits derived from our commitment to the National Guard’s Youth Challenge Program. Every year, over 500,000 boys and girls drop out of school. High-school dropouts face a much more difficult life after leaving school than their peers who continue their educations to finish high school. Drug use and run-ins with the law often plague high school dropouts for a life-time.

The Youth Challenge Program has claimed the lives of over 45,000 children through the instillation of discipline, self-respect, commitment to citizenry, and the renewed pursuit of a diploma. It costs over $40,000 a year for a child to be detained in a juvenile detention center. On the other hand, Youth Challenge can reclaim a child from a life of wrong-turns for $14,000 a child.

I am pleased the President and the Senate have committed $65.2 million to the Youth Challenge Program. Youth Challenge is funded on a formula basis, whereby the Federal Government contributes 60 percent of the funds and States contribute 40 percent. Regrettably, many States are facing steep budget shortfalls, and they are having difficulty meeting the 60 percent match. Already, New York and Missouri have closed their Youth Challenge programs.

This amendment authorizes the Department to increase the Federal match, temporarily, until the States get their financial houses in order. For fiscal year 2004, the Federal match would increase to 65 percent. For fiscal year 2005 and fiscal year 2006 the Federal match would increase to 70 percent. However, it is expected the States will have recovered from budgetary difficulties by fiscal year 2007; therefore, the Federal match would fall back to 65 percent in all subsequent years.

There is no more effective program to make high-school contributors, rather than anchors, to society. I hope you will join me in supporting this amendment.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I believe we are ready to proceed.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, if the Senator will yield, without losing his right to the floor.

Mr. WARNER. Yes.

Mr. REID. Tremendous progress has been made in the last few hours, as we have seen by these amendments. We are very close to being able to issue a consent we hope will be agreed upon to finalize the bill, but we need just a minute to do that. There is a call in the cloakroom we have to resolve before we do that.

Mr. WARNER. May I suggest we put in a quorum call.

Mr. REID. Would the Senator from Virginia do the same thing?

Mr. WARNER. The Senator from Virginia suggests the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WARNER. I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now resume consideration of the Murray amendment No. 691, and there then be 60 minutes of debate equally divided in the usual manner prior to a vote on the amendment, with no amendments in order prior to the vote; I ask consent that the following amendments be the only amendments in order and be relevant as under the original agreement and subject to relevant second degrees: A package of amendments that have been cleared and are being cleared by both managers; the Boxer amendment regarding contracting and subject to relevant second degree; Domenici amendment on border security, to be read a second time; Grassley, subject to being relevant; Landrieu, ground systems, subject to relevancy.

Mr. REID. Reserving the right to object, Domenici, Kerry, Landrieu, Grassley also have the same language, that the amendments subject to relevant second-degree amendments. We have stated that twice. I want to make sure that is clear.

Mr. WARNER. I ask unanimous consent that following disposition of the above amendments, the bill be read a third time, and the Senate then proceed to a vote on passage of the bill with no intervening action or debate.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I now ask unanimous consent that at a time determined by the majority leader, after consultation with the Democratic leader, the Senate proceed to the consideration of S. 1104, introduced by Senator BROWNBACK, relating to parental notification, provided that immediately upon the reporting of the bill, the majority leader or his designee be recognized in order to file a cloture motion, that the cloture motion be adopted by 60 votes, that I further ask consent that there then be 60 minutes for debate only, equally divided between Senators BROWNBACK and MURRAY, and that following that debate time, notwithstanding the provisions of rule XXII, the Senate proceed to an immediate vote on the motion to invoke cloture on the underlying bill, without intervening action or debate; provided further that if cloture is not invoked, the bill be placed on the calendar. If cloture is not adopted, I further ask that it be in order to file first-degree amendments up to the cloture vote, and second-degree amendments up to 3 hours after the vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, if the Senator will yield, this took just a few minutes to read. It took hours to accomplish.

We are now going to a situation where Senator MURRAY and Senator BROWNBACK will debate for 1 hour. Following that, there will be a vote on or in relation to the Murray amendment. Following that, we will work our way through these other amendments that have been declared to be in order on this bill. Some of them, I hope, will be resolved.

I personally extend my appreciation to the two managers of this bill for their help and their understanding, and also Senator MURRAY and Senator BROWNBACK. The issue about which we are going to debate for an hour is very sensitive to everyone, those two Senators especially. They have also been courteous to each of us and each other. I think this is a fair way to proceed.

Mr. WARNER. I thank the distinguished Democratic leader. He has been too modest to say he, together with the distinguished Senator from Kentucky on this side, has been an integral part of ensuring this agreement to be formulated.

I yield the floor.

AMENDMENT NO. 691

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Now there are 60 minutes evenly divided on the Murray amendment. Who yields time?

The Senator from Washington.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, is the Murray amendment called up?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is pending on the Senate floor.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, I ask that I be allowed to add cosponsors as follows: Senators SNOWE, BOXER, CANTWELL, COLLINS, SCHUMER, JEFFORDS, DURBIN, LAUTENBERG, CORZINE, and BINGAMAN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, the Senate now has before it a very important amendment. I think all of us know that women have played a critical role in all of our country’s recent military actions.

In Afghanistan, in Iraq, and in missions throughout the world, women have demonstrated their skill, their sacrifice, and their courage. We can all be very proud of the women who have served in our military. They are our mothers, our daughters, they are our sisters, and they are our neighbors. They put themselves in harm’s way to protect our freedom. They live and work in hostile combat zones under very dangerous conditions. They make sacrifices every day to defend our Nation.

But today, military women are forced to sacrifice their own constitutional rights, as they risk their lives to protect our Nation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Senator suspend just a moment, please. Could we have order so the Senator from Washington can be heard?

Thank you very much. The Senator from Washington.

Mrs. MURRAY. Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, no woman should be forced to surrender her constitutional rights simply to wear her military uniform and volunteer to serve our country overseas. But that is exactly what happens today, and it must stop.

The women of our military risk their lives to protect our rights, but if they serve abroad they are being denied access to safe, legal, constitutionally protected health care.

Today I am on the floor of the Senate to offer an amendment to ensure that our military women when they serve overseas have access to the same health care as they get here at home. I again thank all my cosponsors, Senators SNOWE, BOXER, CANTWELL, COLLINS, SCHUMER, JEFFORDS, DURBIN, LAUTENBERG, CORZINE, and BINGAMAN.

Before I go into detail, I want to clarify what this is about and what it is not about. There are four very important aspects to understand.

First of all, this amendment does not require any direct Federal funding of abortion-related services. My amendment simply requires these women to pay for any costs associated with an abortion in a military facility. No direct Federal funding is involved.

Second, my amendment does not compel any medical provider to perform abortions. All branches of the military allow medical personnel who have moral or religious or ethical objections to abortion not to participate. So this amendment does not change or alter conscience clauses for military medical personnel.

Third, this will not create any significant burden on the military. It will not hinder the military’s ability to carry out its missions or to provide medical services.

Finally, do not believe anyone who tells you that our military, the finest military in the world, is not capable of providing these health services or that our military is unable to afford the cost. The truth is that today the Defense Department allows for privately funded abortions in the case of rape or incest. The ultimate proof that this is something our military can do is that, in 1988, the Department of Defense did allow privately funded abortions at overseas military facilities.

So, clearly, this can be done. So let’s make sure we are all straight on those four points. There is no direct Federal funding. No medical provider would be required to do anything they oppose. No significant burden would be placed on the military. And there is no doubt that our military can do this because it has done it before, prior to 1988, and does it today in cases of rape or incest.

The Department of Defense has done it before, prior to 1988, and makes any of those claims I have just rebutted is raising red herrings as a distraction from the real issue. The real issue is the health of women who serve our country and respect for their rights and freedom.

The current policy on the books today is an insult to women. It is a rejection of their rights and it is a threat to their health. Under current restrictions, women who have volunteered to serve our country, and female military dependents, are not allowed to exercise their legally guaranteed right to choose, simply because they are serving overseas. These women are committed to protecting our rights as free citizens. Yet they are denied one of the most basic rights afforded all women in this country. This is an important women’s health amendment.

Women should be able to depend on their base hospital and military health care providers to meet all of their health care needs. Women who have volunteered to provide these health services or that women who have volunteered to provide these health services or that women who have volunteered to provide these health services or that women who have volunteered to provide medical services.

Moreover, I am told that I have not been adequately trained about the importance of women’s basic health care. Department of Defense officials have told me that lack of training of some commanders may be reluctant to allow active duty Members, both men and women, time away from their duty station to obtain health care services.

One woman has to face the humiliation of asking a superior officer for permission over something that the GAO found many commanders do not understand or appreciate.
Second, the current policy jeopardizes a woman’s right to privacy because she must disclose her medical condition to her superiors with no guarantee that her medical concerns will be kept confidential. That is a very important point. The Senate was wrong to disclose her medical condition to her superiors in the Air Force or the Army, in the service, with no guarantee that her medical concerns will be kept confidential.

Third, the woman is not afforded medical leave, so she is further penalized under this policy. And fourth, because of these unfair restrictions, many women are forced to seek care off the base, in a foreign country. That country may have different cultural and religious norms and different standards of health care. Many women have little or no understanding of the laws or restrictions in a host country, and there may also be significant language and cultural barriers as well. So let’s be honest. Some of these women’s military options in are not very progressive when it comes to women’s issues, and that could threaten our service women.

In addition, these countries may not have adequate safety and medical standards that we take for granted the safety of our health care service. When we seek care in our doctors’ offices or in a clinic, we assume all safety and health standards are adhered to. Unfortunately, that is not the case in many foreign countries.

Under current conditions, we are subjecting women to standards in a foreign country where they may not be safe, where they may not be health standards where we can assure that their basic health care is taken care of.

Finally, because of all these barriers, women may delay getting the care they urgently need. Many women are forced to delay the procedure for several weeks until they can travel to a location where adequate care is available. Each week that an abortion is delayed there are greater risks to a woman’s health.

So the current policy is humiliating. It is a threat to women’s privacy. It is punitive. It is a threat to women’s safety, and it is a threat to women’s health. Those are not the types of burdens we should be putting on women who volunteer to serve our country and defend our freedoms.

The current policy is unfair to women. It denies them their constitutional rights. My amendment before the Senate today will correct that.

This amendment is supported by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. It is supported by the American Medical Women’s Association. It is supported by Physicians for Reproductive Choice in Health. And it is supported by the National Partnership for Women and Families.

I think that this amendment is the right thing to do. The Department of Defense has followed this policy before. And, finally, let me just say, after the inspiring and courageous work our military women have done in Iraq and in Afghanistan, we owe them nothing less than the same rights they are fighting to protect for all of us.

This is a test for every Senator. Every Senator is going to have to answer to the women who serve our country overseas. Will you stand up for the rights of women who, today, are standing up to ensure your freedom? Either you respect the women who serve our country overseas and you agree that they deserve the same rights and freedoms as women here at home or you do not. That is the choice. Either you respect the women who serve our country overseas and you agree that they deserve the same rights and freedoms as women here at home or you do not. That is the case.

If you vote against the Murray-Snowe amendment, you are simply telling American servicewomen that when they serve overseas protecting our country, they cannot be trusted with the constitutional right to health care that women here at home in the United States have. They deserve more respect than that.

I hope my colleagues will vote for the Murray-Snowe amendment. I retain the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kansas is recognized for 30 minutes.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, I wish to, first, thank the Senator from Washington for bringing up this issue. I think there was a relevancy issue associated with it. There was a big debate about this last night. It was eventu-dally deemed relevant.

I then proposed a second-degree amendment that would require parental notification of the type which is involved with 43 of our States. Forty-three States have parental notification—that a minor on a military base, a dependent, could not get an abortion until either parent was notified and that notification had to be within 48 hours before the abortion or that there be a judicial oversight. So that if either parent were not available or accessible, or the child didn’t want to notify the parent, they could get the court to rule that the abortion go ahead and the parent not be notified or, if it were a catastrophic situation and the life of the minor was in jeopardy, the doctor could go forward and provide the abortion without a notification period.

That was the second degree that was being proposed. We had a spirited discussion here privately about this.

I thank the managers of the bill. I thank particularly the two whirls on either side for pushing this forward to get us to resolve the issue; that what we are going to do today is take up the Murray amendment and take up the parental notification issue at a later date—I hope a week or two after we get back from break. I think it is an important issue as well.

The parents in 43 States are notified if their minor child is seeking to have an abortion. We would extend this right to parents of military personnel as well. That is what is considered in the second degree.

I appreciate the Senator from Washington working that out with us so we could take up both of these difficult issues.

I also thank the Senator from Washington for her passion and caring for women in the armed services. She stands up strongly for women’s rights, for women’s freedom in the military. I appreciate that. I have no qualms about her passion or her heart at all. I recognize and applaud both.

But we have a narrow specific issue here that goes to the very core of what we are about as a society today. It goes to the very core issue of culture of life and culture of death that is being broadly discussed in the culture today. And that is being played out here on the issue of military bases. It goes to the issue of the legal status of the child in question.

I certainly recognize the passion of the Senator from Washington for women’s rights. I applaud that. But there is also another person involved here and there are other issues involved here.

February 10, 1998, the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 1996 was signed into law by then-President Clinton with a provision to prevent Department of Defense medical treatment facilities from being used to perform abortions on the lives of women who serve in the military. That is the case.

I also thank the Senator from Washington for bringing up this issue. There was a relevancy issue as associated with it. There was a big debate about this last night. It was eventu-dally deemed relevant.

I have no qualms about her passion or her heart at all. I recognize and applaud both.

But we have a narrow specific issue here that goes to the very core of what we are about as a society today. It goes to the very core issue of culture of life and culture of death that is being broadly discussed in the culture today. And that is being played out here on the issue of military bases. It goes to the issue of the legal status of the child in question.

That is the current status for the use of military base health facilities to provide for abortion. They can be provided at military bases in the cases of rape or incest, or when the life of the mother is in danger. That is the current status for the use of military base health facilities to provide for abortion. They can be provided at military bases in the cases of rape or incest, or when the life of the mother or military personnel is endangered. That would be obviously wrong in the military or a female dependent in the military.

The provision—10 United States Code 1093(b)—reversed a Clinton administration policy instituted on January 22, 1996, permitting abortions to be performed at military facilities, period.

In other words, all abortions on demand could be provided according to the Clinton administration policy that was put into place immediately after President Clinton became President.

Previously—from 1988 to 1993—the performance of an abortion was not permitted at military hospitals except when the life of the mother was endangered.

I think you can start to see the progress here that was taking place.

Under President Reagan, there was a provision that you could provide an abortion on a military base if the life of the mother was in danger. That continued through President Reagan and President Bush I. Then President Clinton came into office and immediately opened up all military facilities for all abortions and said they could be performed.

In February, 1996, that was limited. Abortions could be provided in cases of rape and incest and when the life of the mother was endangered, but it was an expansion from where it was in the Reagan administration.

That is the law of the land as it is today.

The Murray amendment, which would repeal this pro-life provision, attempts to turn these taxpayer-funded DOD medical treatment facilities into facilities that provide abortion on demand for military personnel and their dependents. The Senate should reject this amendment. This is what the issue is about.

When a similar amendment passed last year, Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld warned that the President’s senior advisers would recommend the President veto the Defense authorization bill on this issue. So you are talking about an abortion issue of providing abortions in medical facilities, a narrow, overall issue bringing down the entire Defense authorization bill. For years, abortions are provided for rape, incest, life of the mother, but not on demand for all abortions. That could bring down the whole bill.

Using the coercive power of Government to force American taxpayers to fund health care facilities where abortions are performed would be a terrible precedent that would put many Americans in a difficult position of saying: They are using my taxpayer money to fund something that I don’t agree with—abortion on demand. Yes, I can understand it in cases of life of the mother, certainly, and of rape and incest, but not on demand.

When the 1993 policy permitting abortions in military facilities was first promulgated, military physicians, as well as many nurses and supporting personnel, refused—refused—to perform or assist in elective abortions. In response, the administration sought to hire civilians to do abortions. That would tell us something about what is taking place here. The military personnel themselves—the physicians—do not want to do these elective abortions.

Therefore, if the Murray amendment were adopted, not only would taxpayer-funded facilities be used to support abortion on demand, but resources would be used to search for, hire, and transport new personnel simply so that the abortions could be performed outside the scope of incest, life of the mother that would be on all other abortions.

In fact, according to CRS, a 1994 memorandum from the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs, this memorandum from the Clinton administration—"direct[ed] the Military Health Services System to provide other means of access if providing prepaid abortion services at a facility was not feasible"—how outside individuals performed abortions on military bases.

One argument used by supporters of abortions in military hospitals is that women in countries where abortion is not permitted will have nowhere else to turn to obtain an abortion. However, DOD policy requires military doctors to obey the abortion laws of the countries where they are providing services, so they still could not perform abortions at those locations.

Military treatment centers, which are dedicated to healing and nurturing life, should not be forced to facilitate the taking of the most innocent human life: the child in utero—and this as an elective, on demand, not in cases of rape, incest, life of the mother, but not on demand for all abortions. That could bring down the whole bill.

Military treatment centers, which are dedicated to healing and nurturing life, should not be forced to facilitate the taking of the most innocent human life: the child in utero—and this as an elective, on demand, not in cases of rape, incest, life of the mother, but not on demand for all abortions. That could bring down the whole bill.
People care about this issue. It is a big deal to people. It is a personal and emotional issue that I don’t think needs to be pressed at this point.

Our military physicians and nurses are not happy with it. It would require us to force hospitals as facilities to carry out abortions. It would make our hospitals a part of the abortion process. It would utilize Federal property and resources to that degree. It covers not just foreign hospitals but every hospital in America. Yes, I believe it is legal—clearly legal—that a woman can have an abortion and can use her own money to that effect, but we have sort of reached an understanding and compromise in the Congress that it is legal but because of respect for people with differing views, we just will not use taxpayers’ money to fund it. There is just sort of a truce, in a way, that has been reached. I think it is probably something we just have to live with at the present time.

I do not need pressure or embarrassment on the part of doctors and nurses who do not feel comfortable doing this. We know this. There was a survey done of the Army, Navy, and Air Force obstetricians; 44 of them were surveyed. All but seven said they adamantly opposed doing abortions. One later said that physician was opposed to abortions. Some of these were women physicians.

Nurses are not comfortable with it. I don’t believe we ought to be requiring military hospitals to go out and hire other physicians to come in on Government taxpayer funded property to conduct these procedures. It is just not necessary.

President Bush has made clear he opposes using taxpayers’ money to fund abortions. Passage of this amendment would threaten that.

I believe women are playing an increasingly valuable role in our military. I spent over 18 years as a reservist and saw many fine women officers. The unit I was a part of in Mobile, AL, is now in Kuwait commanded by a woman officer. I can’t tell you how proud I am of them. I am not hearing from the women I know in the military that this is something they are demanding, frankly. I don’t think the American people are.

I will just point out some numbers that deal with this subject. If anybody cares, a January 2003 poll of ABC News/Washington Post—said that only 2 percent were for abortion to be legal in all cases. That is less than a fourth. The same poll found, when asked this question, should we make abortion harder to get, 42 percent said yes; easier to get an abortion, 15 percent said yes. So 42 percent thought it ought to be harder to get an abortion and 15 percent thought it ought to be easier.

In January of 2003, a CBS News/New York Times poll asked this: Should abortion be generally available, 39 percent; stricter limits, 38 percent; not permitted, 22 percent. Sixty percent favored either stricter limits or not permitted. A CNN Gallup poll in 2003 asked, should parental consent be required for an abortion? Yes, 73 percent.

Regardless of how we personally feel about this issue, it ought not to be on this bill. It is not what we need to be debating now. We need to be focused on our men and women in harm’s way, providing them with the necessary funding and resources and equipment needed to do their job. We don’t need to jeopardize this bill in conference or subject it to a Presidential veto as a result of this amendment.

I thank Senator Brownback for his leadership and yield back such time as I may have.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, I reserve the remainder of my time.

Mrs. MURRAY. How much time remains on our side?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Murray has 18 minutes 15 seconds.

Mrs. MURRAY. I yield 10 minutes to the Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. I thank the Senator from Washington. I listened to a description of her amendment by the Senator from Alabama. It did not sound like the amendment she described. I want to ask a few questions so it is clear.

Does this amendment in any respect require the Federal Government to pay for an abortion?

Mrs. MURRAY. This amendment does not require the Federal Government to pay for an abortion. In fact, it will allow the woman herself to pay out of her own personal private funds for an abortion in a military hospital overseas.

Mr. DURBIN. So under this amendment, women in the U.S. military who seek, through their constitutional right, an abortion service would have to pay for it out of their own pocket?

Mrs. MURRAY. That is correct.

Mr. DURBIN. And, there has been a suggestion made that if your amendment passes, it will require doctors, for example, in medical facilities connected with the armed services, to perform an abortion if they object to performing that procedure under their own conscience; is that correct?

Mrs. MURRAY. That is not correct. The amendment, as I have offered, has a conscience clause for all doctors overseas.

Mr. DURBIN. So if a doctor at a military hospital says, even though this young woman who is in the armed services comes to me for an abortion procedure and I object to it on religious and moral grounds—that doctor is not going to be compelled to perform an abortion under this amendment?

Mrs. MURRAY. That is absolutely correct. This amendment does not compel any medical provider to perform an abortion.

Mr. DURBIN. There has also been a suggestion that in U.S. military hospitals around the world, there is no provision for abortion services; is that correct?

Mrs. MURRAY. Would the Senator restate the question?

Mr. DURBIN. It is my understanding that under certain circumstances, such as rape or incest, at military hospitals around the world today, abortions are being performed; is that correct?

Mrs. MURRAY. The Senator is correct. In all military facilities, women who are victims of rape or incest do have the opportunity to receive abortions.

Mr. DURBIN. I thank the Senator from Washington. That clarifies some of the things that have been said. The Federal Government will not be paying for the abortion. The woman in the military who seeks it must pay out of her own pocket. The doctors involved in this procedure will not be compelled to do so if it violates their own morality or their own conscience by the Murray amendment. And military hospitals serving U.S. personnel around the world today already provide abortions in emergency circumstances involving rape or incest.

We have to be honest about what the amendment does and does not do. This is what it does. It says to women who have volunteered—and we are now dealing with an All-Volunteer Army—to join the U.S. military and to lay their lives on the line, to risk their lives and their future for their country, that they will not be compromised. They will not be surrendering their constitutional right; that doctor has the choice to control their own reproductive freedom.

There are some on the other side who say, no, they may have that constitutional right in the United States, but once they have taken the oath to serve the U.S. Army or Navy, in that situation they have given up their constitutional right. Is that what we want to say?

After going through the Iraqi war where women in uniform were captured as prisoners of war, put their lives on the line, are we saying to those women and thousands like them that if you join the U.S. military you give up your constitutional right? Is that what we are saying to those women who are trying to recruit to join the military? I hope not.

I hope we are saying that we recognize the reality of service, particularly overseas. A woman finds herself in a difficult circumstance where she wants to seek, under her constitutional right guaranteed by the Supreme Court, the right to terminate a pregnancy in the first, second, and third month. Now in the military she has to go ask permission of the commanding officer and may be forced into a situation where she has to find a way back to the United States in order to protect her own health and make her own decision.

This comes down to a fundamental question: Are women serving in the U.S. military to be treated as second-class citizens? Those who oppose the Murray amendment say, yes, once you have said, as a woman, that you will serve in the military, you have given up your constitutional right to control your own body and your own reproductive freedom.

That is a terrible thing to say. Frankly, it says that we are denying an individual her constitutional right, and the heroism of the women who joined the U.S. military.

What Senator MURRAY is asking for is perfectly reasonable. A woman in the military at her own expense can go to a military hospital which already provides abortion services as a normal course for victims of rape and incest, can go to a doctor who has willingly and voluntarily agreed to be part of this counseling and part of this procedure, and pay out of her own pocket for the procedure to take place. That is not a special privilege. In fact, it says to that woman, you are just as much an American citizen as your sister back home.

If we go the opposite course, frankly, it sends a very sobering message to recruiters around America that you have to be honest with the women you are seeking to recruit and tell them that once they take that oath to the United States to serve in the military, they have given up a constitutional right protected by the laws of the land.

I commend the Senator from Washington for her leadership, and I support the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? The Senator from Kansas.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Eleven minutes fifty-six seconds.

Mr. BROWNBACK. If I could engage and ask the Senator from Washington, to make sure I am on the same amendment—I have her amendment here. What I read here is that the amendment does two things: It says:

Section 1093 of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking subsection (b); and

(2) in subsection (a), by striking "Restriction on Use of Funds."

So it strikes those on two words. That is the only thing I have of an amendment. Am I correct? Is that the actual text of the amendment?

Mrs. MURRAY. Yes, the Senator is correct.

Mr. BROWNBACK. By striking subsection (b), and

(a) in subsection (a), by striking "Restriction on Use of Funds."

I want to hone in on what the amendment does not have in the statute today, which I am happy to provide him, which I accurately described in my statement.

Mrs. MURRAY. The Senator is correct. That is the only thing I have of an amendment. Am I correct? Is that the actual text of the amendment?

Mrs. MURRAY. Yes, the Senator is correct.

Mr. BROWNBACK. By striking subsection (b), and

(a) in subsection (a), by striking "Restriction on Use of Funds."

I am happy to provide the Senator with the actual text of the amendment. It says "no medical treatment facility or other facility of the Department of Defense. . . ." So you are talking about overseas facilities and domestic facilities. These would be facilities overseas and in the U.S. that could have been used to provide abortion on demand. This is about removing this restriction that it would just be in the case of the life of the mother, rape, and incest, is that correct?

Mrs. MURRAY. The Senator is correct only in that it would strike the language, but put us back to the previous language that is in the statute today, which I am happy to provide him, which I accurately described in my statement.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Maybe the Senator can answer this. This would open up both domestic and overseas facilities because the language as stricken says that no medical treatment facility or other facility of the Department of Defense may be used—it has no limitations on saying this is just overseas facilities. It is any DOD facility.

Mrs. MURRAY. The Senator is correct. I remind the Senator that domestically in the service, a woman has the right to receive health care services at no charge if this affects a woman is when they are serving overseas and they don’t have the same access.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Still, she would have access to DOD facilities in the U.S. and overseas.

Mrs. MURRAY. Yes, and she would have to pay for it out of her own money.

Mr. BROWNBACK. I also note the Senator from Illinois talked about conscience clause protection, where somebody would not have to provide this. That is not in your amendment. You are talking about the base portion of any Department of Defense medical doctor.

Mrs. MURRAY. Under current law, all medical providers in the Department of Defense have a conscience clause.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Thank you. Your amendment does not have conscience clause protection. That is already part of the base if you are a military physician, to be able to provide that.

I want to hone in on what the amendment is about. It is about opening up DOD medical facilities, domestically and internationally—the Senator argues there won’t be that much demand domestically, but it opens it up both ways to provide abortion on demand in the United States to U.S. military personnel and their dependents. So you are talking about a broad array of taxpayer-funded facilities that provide abortions and not necessarily the doctor. The doctor may be recruited from outside and paid for privately, but you are using taxpayer-funded facilities to provide abortions. So you can see a situation in this country where you would have a military facility in Kentucky or in the state of Washington being protested by people who don’t want their taxpayer-funded facility is being used to provide abortions on demand—not just for the life of the mother, rape, and incest.

Again, I recognize the strong support Senator MURRAY puts forward for the rights of women, and I applaud that. But I am talking about a very sensitive issue for a number of people when you talk about the use of taxpayer dollars to do something they really don’t agree with. I don’t think it is wise to do that, one. Two, I don’t think we should be tying up the DOD authorization bill on probably the central most difficult issue of our day for people to really wrestle with. That is what this amendment would do.

For those reasons, I urge my colleagues to look at the nitty-gritty of the amendment and oppose the Murray amendment.

I yield the floor and retain the balance of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois is recognized for 12 minutes 25 seconds.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, I will make a couple of points. Under current law, in the case of rape or incest, at a military facility an abortion can be performed. No one is protesting that. We are talking about a woman who is in this country has this right, anyway. Where we are concerned, rightfully, is for women who are serving overseas. They don’t have a constitutional right today to have an abortion.

Let me tell you what happens to a woman if she finds herself in difficult circumstances and is serving overseas. She has to go to her commanding officer. Believe me, that is very difficult for a woman to do, go to a commanding officer and describe the circumstances she finds herself in, and ask for permission to fly home to have an abortion performed, where it is legal.

Mr. President, that is humiliating, but it is also difficult. She then has to wait for a C-17 to be available. Think about this. We have just seen the conflicts in Afghanistan and Iraq, and we have to make a C-17 available for a woman to fly home. That is ridiculous.

We have just seen the conflicts in Afghanistan and Iraq, and we have to make a C-17 available for a woman to fly home. That is ridiculous.

This also really jeopardizes a woman’s right to privacy because in order to go to her commanding officer, she has to disclose her medical condition. We all would think the officer would respect her rights, but that’s not always the case. She has to put that question in her head when she goes to ask them. I don’t think it is fair to the women overseas when they disclose their medical condition with no guarantees that they will be kept confidential. Think of the potential of using that against a woman in the service. I think that is something none of us want to see. So what would be a young woman in the position of having a placenta previa?

We need to remember a woman is not given any medical relief and she is penalized under this policy. She has to wait for a C-17 to be available, fly home, take the time to have the procedure and then return to military service. We are taking her out of service when we need her, and we are causing her a tremendous amount of distress, too.

Remember, we are talking about a service that is protected constitutionally for any woman who is here in this country. But these are women who have volunteered to serve us overseas in the military.

Finally, let us not forget what we have done to women today who are serving us in the military and fighting for our freedom. We have put them—if they don’t want to ask their commanding officer, wait for a C-17, and all of the other conditions we put on them can be next to impossible to military service. We are taking her out of service when we need her, and we are causing her a tremendous amount of distress, too.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, I think she is doing that with the story of Holly Webb. Holly is the wife of a staff sergeant from Washington. I think she is doing a great service to the women of our country in pointing out what the problem is here.

I was sitting in my office doing work, and I heard the statement that this is abortion on demand. I thought it might be useful for me to read into the RECORD one letter I received last year from a woman on this very subject that indicates the difficulty of the circumstances women can find themselves in while living overseas.

I am now going to read the story of Holly Webb. Holly is the wife of a staff sergeant in the Air Force stationed in Misawa, Japan. I would like you to hear her story:

My husband was stationed in Misawa, Japan, and I was pregnant on September 2001 to join him. I was pregnant for the first time. Prior to my arrival in Japan, I felt like something was wrong with my pregnancy, and at 6 weeks I went to the emergency room at the Kadena Air Force Base in Florida where we had stationed.

My doctor there told me that everything seemed OK from what they could tell. At 16 weeks, I was in Japan with my husband, and I started bleeding. I was told to stay for 5 days and then the bleeding would subside. I went to the military hospital and they told me I had a placenta previa and that this was a normal side effect and they sent me home.

Just so everybody knows, placenta previa is a serious problem some women confront which can impact their pregnancy. It can cause severe problems for the woman including hemorrhaging both during delivery and post-partum.

Continuing the letter:

At 20 weeks, I started bleeding heavily, and I went back to the hospital. I thought that my water had broken but the hospital told me it was not an emergency and kept me overnight. My OB/GYN did not visit me until the next morning. They told me that my OB/GYN was on a three-week vacation and showed up to see what that was. I went to the hospital again and they discovered, as I had thought, that there was no amniotic fluid surrounding the baby. They were unable to detect whether or not the baby had spina bifida.

The next day, I was administered IV fluids, and my doctor mentioned that I might be dehydrated. My cervix remained closed, however, and they told me there was still a fetal heartbeat. I was told I could deliver spontaneously within weeks or months, but if the baby survived, it would have serious health complications due to the fact I had no amniotic fluid surrounding the baby.

When I asked the hospital what my options were, they told me they could not induce labor or dilate my cervix to deliver because it would be considered an abortion, but that I was at risk for infection. My doctor told me that in order to have an abortion, they would have to have my situation reviewed by a medical board and that she didn’t know how long this would take. She told me that during 7 or 8 years of living in a military hospital, no matter what the situation was, a woman’s request for an abortion was always denied.

My doctor told me the only way I could receive additional medical treatment was if I became ill. I was told to go home and monitor my temperature and to return when I had a fever or was in pain. I asked if there was any other option because I was worried about dying.

At that point, I felt like my choices were either to go home and wait for a life-threatening infection so that my labor could be induced or go to an outside hospital where I didn’t speak the language and could not be sure that the treatment would be safe.

When I got to the private Japanese hospital, the doctor told me there was a serious risk for infection and that he needed to put me on antibiotics immediately. If I didn’t get antibiotics through IV immediately, I would die. I contacted my grandmother in the United States who wired me $2,000 to pay for the hospital visit.

I checked into the hospital about 4 hours later after I was dilated my cervix 100% and induced labor. I delivered a stillborn baby. The military hospital told me that this was an elected abortion and not a stillbirth.

I am now 17 weeks pregnant again, and my only option is to use the military hospital for my OB/GYN treatment. I have begged them to let me off the base to go to a private doctor because of my experience last year. I believe that my pregnancy puts my health at risk. I would again be prevented from making decisions I need to about my pregnancy.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. I thank the Chair. Let me just make a point.

Mrs. MURRAY. I yield the Senator such time as she needs.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. I thank the Senator.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, this is just one example of what a woman living abroad might go through. We can think of all kinds of other situations in foreign countries that might necessitate the termination of a pregnancy. Many of these women are living in countries that don't have good health care systems in place, skilled providers, or access to safe or clean hospitals.

This ban is a huge mistake. It is in fact a double standard. I do not know of a health situation a man could encounter that would be dealt with at a military hospital in quite the same manner. Nor do I know of a health situation a man could encounter that a military hospital would not treat.

I thank the Senator from Washington for her amendment and for her leadership on this important issue. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, I support the Murray-Snowe amendment. I commend Senator MURRAY for her strong and unflinching leadership on this issue, and am pleased to once again join with her on the critical amendment to the Department of Defense authorization. I am pleased to join my colleague in support of this amendment to repeal the ban on abortions at overseas military hospitals, an amendment whose time has long since come.

Year after year, time after time, debate after debate, we revisit the issue of women's reproductive freedoms by seeking to restrict, limit, and eliminate a woman's right to choose. While at times we are able to take one step forward we end up taking two steps back. Last year we were able to garner a majority of the Senate only to have this language removed in conference. I believe that ultimately, we will prevail, that my colleagues on both sides of the aisle realize that this is a policy change that makes sense, and I hope that will occur on this reauthorization.

When we last considered this amendment, almost 11 months ago to the day, we had more than 37,000 troops stationed overseas, today we have over 10,000 more. Of those more than 35,000 of these troops were women as of April 2002 and women make up almost 36,500 of the troops today. We recognize the impact that the failure to repeal this ban has on so many of these women.

Since last year's reauthorization debate, the Commander-in-Chief has called our Nation's military into action on another front. As we watched the 24 hour news stations' broadcasting reports from their embedded reporters, we saw more female faces amongst the troops than ever before. We are considering this Defense authorization during a time when Americans, both civilians and military, are fighting terrorism and tyranny all across the globe, both men and women. These women, these soldiers, airmen, sailors and marines, deserve access to the same health services that women here in the States have.

As I think about this last conflict, it occurs to me how ironic it is that the very people who are fighting to preserve our freedoms, those who are on the front lines defending this war on terrorism or other parts of the globe, are supporting those who are fighting, are currently the least protected in terms of the right to make choices about their own personal health and reproductive decisions.

"That is why I stand to join my colleague, Senator MURRAY, once again in overturning this ban on privately funded abortion services in overseas military hospitals, for military women and dependents, which was reinstated in the fiscal year 1996 authorization bill, as we all know. It is a ban without merit or reason that put the reproductive health of these women at risk.

Specifically, as we know, the ban denies the right to choose for female military personnel and dependents. It effectively denies those women who have voluntarily decided to serve our country in the armed services safe and legal medical care simply because they were assigned duty in another country. It makes me wonder why Congress would, year after year, continue to leave these women who so bravely serve our country overseas with no choice but to deny them the rights that are guaranteed to all Americans under the Constitution?

Our task in this debate is to make sure that all of America's women, including those who serve in our Nation's Armed Forces and military dependents, are guaranteed the fundamental right to choose. Our task is not to pay for abortions with Federal funding—contrary to what our opponents may claim, after all, since 1979 the Federal law has prohibited the use of Federal funds for abortion at military hospitals. This amendment would not change that. However, what it would do is reinstate the policy that was in place from 1979 to 1988, when women could use their own personal funds to pay for the medical care they need.

In 1988, the Reagan administration announced a new policy prohibiting the performance of any abortions at military hospitals even if it was paid for out of a woman's private funds—a policy which truly defies logic.

President Clinton lifted the ban in January 1993, by Executive order, restoring a woman's right to pay for abortion services with private, non-Defense Department funds. Just when we had thought that logic would prevail, in 1995, through the very bill we authorize today, the House International Security Committee reinstated this ban, which was then continued in the conference. And here we are 8 years later trying to undo this unnecessary threat to our female servicewomen.

Let me take a moment to reiterate a very important point. Then Clinton's Executive order did not change existing law prohibiting the use of Federal funds for abortion, and it did not require medical providers to perform those abortions. In fact, all three branches of the military rely on conscience clauses which permit medical personnel with moral, religious, or ethical objections to abortion not to participate in the procedure. I believe that is a reasonable measure and one I do not want to undo the issue will.

Opponents of this amendment argue that changing current law means that military personnel and military facilities are charged with performing abortions and that it means that American taxpayer funds will be used to subsidize abortions. This is a wholly and fundamentally incorrect. Every person who has ever been in a hospital for any type of procedure knows full well that the hospital and the physician is able to account for every charge, the cost of every minute, every physician, every nurse, every aspirin, the supplies, the materials, the overheads, the insurance, anything that is a part of the medical bill. Under this amendment, every expense is included in the cost that is paid by private funds. Public funds are not used for the performance of abortions in this instance. That is an important distinction. We are not talking about using Federal funds.

This amendment we are fighting for is to lift the ban on privately funded abortions paid for with a woman's private funds. That is what this issue is all about. Proponents of this amendment believe that a woman would have the ability to have access to a constitutional right when it comes to her reproductive freedom to use her own funds, her own health insurance, for access to this procedure.

Congress works hard at times of war, and at times of peace, to support our American soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines, as well as their dependents, in the military services. The armed forces have no better friend and ally than the Congress. I would argue that is the case in most situations, but obviously there is a different standard when it comes to the health of a woman and her reproductive decisions. This is especially confounding when we all completely agree that our military members and their families have sacrificed a lot, including their lives, for the sake of our Nation and what we believe. For those women overseas we are asking them to potentially, and unnecessarily, sacrifice their health under this ban. Making this type of decision—potentially the most emotional, personal, and difficult decision a woman can face. It is a very personal decision. It is a decision that should be made between a woman, her doctor, her family. It is a constitutional right. It is a right that should extend to women in the military overseas, not just within the boundaries of the United States.

I think it is regrettable that somehow we have demeaned women, in terms of this very difficult decision that they have to make. There has been example upon example given to us, to my colleague Senator Murray, about the trying circumstances that this prohibition has placed on women who serve in the military abroad. I do not think for one moment that anyone should minimize or underestimate the emotional, physical hardship that this ban has imposed, a ban that prohibits a woman from using her own private health insurance, her own private funds, her own constitutional decision when she happens to be in the military serving abroad.

The ban on abortions in military hospitals coerces the women who serve our country into making decisions and choices they would not otherwise make. As one doctor, a physician from Oregon, recalls his days as a Navy doctor stationed in the Philippines, he describes the experiences and hardships that result unnecessarily from this policy. Women have to travel long distances in order to obtain a legal abortion—not necessarily a safe abortion, but a legal one. Travel arrangements that are difficult and expensive. Not to mention the fact that in order to take leave, they had to justify that emergency leave to their commanding officer. Imagine that circumstance. Forcibly women to make a very personal decision so very well known.

However, for those women who choose to find an alternative, their only option is to turn to local, illegal abortions. In other circumstances, their dignity was offended and often their health was placed at risk, which was certainly reinforced by the letter that Senator Murray and from now retired, Lt. Gen. Kennedy, the highest ranking woman in the military. She speaks with great perspective about the humiliation and the demeaning circumstances in which many women were placed, not to mention putting their health at risk.

I hope we can overturn this prohibition in law and grant women in the military the same constitutional right that is afforded women who live within the boundaries of the United States of America. No one should be denied their constitutional rights at the proverbial door, but that is what this ban has done. Our constitutional rights are not territorial and women who serve their country should be afforded the same rights that women here in America have. I think this ban is not consistent with the principles which our Armed Forces are fighting to protect, and which the American people have voluntarily given them.

I hope the Senate will overturn that ban and will support the amendment offered by Senator Murray and myself. Mrs. Feinsteink. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the amendment offered by Senators Murray and Snowe to the Department of Defense reauthorization bill to repeal the ban on privately funded abortions sought by U.S. servicewomen, spouses, and dependents in military facilities overseas.

The Supreme Court acknowledges a woman's right to choose as a constitutionally protected freedom. That right is not suspended simply because a woman serves in the U.S. military or is married to a U.S. service member and living overseas.

Women based in the United States and using a U.S.-based military facility are not prohibited from using their own funds to pay for an abortion. Having a prohibition on the use of U.S. military facilities overseas creates a double standard, and discriminates against women service members stationed overseas.

Banning privately funded abortions on military bases endangers a woman's health. Service members and their dependents rely on their military base hospitals for medical care. Private facilities may not be readily available in other countries. Forcing an abortion is illegal in the Philippines. A woman stationed in that country or the spouse of a service member would need to fly to the U.S. or to another country—at her own expense—to obtain an abortion. We don't pay our service members enough to assume they can simply jet off to Switzerland for medical treatment.

If women do not have access to military facilities or to private facilities in the country they are stationed, they or their own health could be harmed by the delay involved in getting to a facility or by being forced to seek an abortion by someone other than a licensed physician.

We know from personal experience in this country that when abortion is illegal, desperate women are often forced into unsafe and life-threatening situations. If it were your wife, or your daughter, would you want her in the hands of an untrained abortionist on the back streets of Manila or Argen-

Not only would these women be risking their health and lives under normal conditions, but what if these women are facing complicated or life-threatening pregnancies and are unaware of the seriousness of their condition?

The ban on privately funded abortions in military overseas affects more than 100,000 active service members, spouses, and dependents of military personnel.

One such woman this ban impacts is Holly Webb. Holly Webb is the wife of a staff sergeant in the Air Force stationed in Misawa, Japan. She tells the following story of her struggle to find adequate reproductive health care overseas:

My husband was stationed in Misawa, Japan, and I moved over in September 2001 to join him. I was pregnant for the first time. Prior to my arrival in Japan, I felt like something was wrong with my pregnancy and at 6 weeks I went to the emergency room at the Eglin Air Force Base in Florida where we had been stationed.

My doctor there told me that everything was fine, to come back in 4 weeks. At 16 weeks I was in Japan with my husband and I started bleeding. I would bleed weekly for 5 days and then the bleeding would subside. I was told to the military overseas and they told me I had placenta previa and that this was a normal side effect and they sent me home.

At 20 weeks, I started bleeding heavily and went back to the hospital. I thought that my water had broken but the hospital told me that it was not an emergency and kept me there until the next morning. They told me that the results of my triple screen blood test showed possible spina bifida which necessitated an ultrasound. When they did the ultrasound they discovered, as I had thought, that there was no amniotic fluid surrounding the fetus. They were unable to detect whether or not the fetus had spina bifida. For the next day I was administered IV fluids and my doctor mentioned that I might be dehydrated. My cervix remained closed, however, and they told me that there was still a fetal heartbeat. I was told that I might deliver spontaneously within weeks or months, but that if the baby survived, I would have serious health complications due to the fact that I was at risk for infection as well as because there was no amniotic fluid surrounding the baby.

When I asked the hospital what my options were they told me that they could not induce labor or dilate my cervix to deliver because it would be considered an abortion and that I was at risk for infection. My doctor told me that in order to have an abortion, they would have to have my situation reviewed by a higher authority and that she didn't know how long this would take.

She told me that during her 7 or 8 years of practice in a military hospital, no matter what the situation was, a woman's request for an abortion was always denied.

My doctor told me that the only way I could receive additional medical treatment was to come home. I was able to retrieve some records and monitor my temperature and to return when I had a fever or was in pain. I asked if there was any other option because I was worried about dying.

At that point, I felt like my choices were either to go home and wait for a life-threatening infection so that my labor could be induced, or to go to another hospital where I didn’t speak the language and could not be sure that the treatment would be safe.
When I got to the private Japanese hospital, the doctor told me that there was serious risk for infection, and that he needed to put me on antibiotics immediately and that if I didn’t take them immediately I would very likely die. I contacted my grandmother in the U.S. who wired me $2,000 to pay for the hospital visit.

I chose to go to the hospital about 4 hours later. They dilated my cervix over a period of 2½ days, then induced labor. I delivered a stillborn baby. The military hospital told me that this was an elected abortion and not a stillborn birth.

I am now 17 weeks pregnant again and my only option is to use the military hospital for my ob/gyn treatment. I have begged them to let me off the base to go to a private doctor because of my experience last year. I believe that if my pregnancy puts my health at risk, I would again be prevented from making the decisions I need to about my pregnancy.

I hope that we have learned something from Mrs. Webb’s story. No woman should have to go through the obstacles Mrs. Webb faced. If Mrs. Webb had been living in the U.S. she would have had a choice. She could have gotten an abortion and avoided the emotional trauma associated with giving birth to a stillborn, and not had to put her own life at risk.

Current law does not force any military physician to perform an abortion against his or her will. All branches have a conscience clause that permits its medical personnel to choose not to perform the procedure. A doctor can simply say, “I won’t perform such a procedure.” And then that woman must just find another doctor.

We are talking about today is providing equal access to military medical facilities, wherever they are located, for a legal procedure paid for with one’s own money.

Abortion is legal for American women. These women would pay for the service with their own funds. This amendment does not involve the use of federal funding.

We ask these service members to risk their life or the life of their country, but we are not willing to grant them access to the same services they would receive if they were stationed in the U.S. This is especially troubling since September 11 since more Americans have decided to serve their country.

Service members and their dependents must have access to safe, legal, and comprehensive reproductive health care.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment and ask unanimous consent that my statement appear in the Record.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I commend Senator MURRAY for her effort to repeat the failed ban on privately-funded abortions at overseas U.S. military facilities. This amendment rights a serious wrong in our policy, and guarantees that women serving overseas in the armed forces are able to exercise their constitutional right to choose.

This is an issue of fundamental fairness for the many women who make daily sacrifices to serve our Nation. It is wrong to deny them the same medical care available in the United States. Women serving overseas should be able to depend on military base hospitals for their medical needs. They should not be forced to choose between lower quality care in a foreign country, or returning to the United States for the care they need. Congress has a responsibility to provide the best possible medical care for those serving our country at home and abroad.

Such care is essential. Our dedicated servicewomen should not be unfairly exposed to risks of infection, illness, infertility, and even death, when appropriate care can easily be made available to them. Delays in obtaining a military flight can force women to rely on questionable medical facilities overseas. As a practical matter, they are being denied their constitutionally-protected right to choose.

A woman’s decision to have an abortion is very difficult and extremely personal. It is wrong to impose this heavy additional burden on women who serve our country overseas.

Every woman in the United States has a constitutionally-guaranteed right to choose whether or not to terminate her pregnancy. It is long past time for Congress to stop denying this right to women serving abroad.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? If no one yields time, time will be charged equally. The Senator from Kansas.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, I think perhaps we are ready to proceed with a vote on the bill. I do not know if the Senator from Washington is ready to yield back her remaining time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator yield back her remaining time?

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, how much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Washington has 1 minute 38 seconds. The Senator from Kansas has 3 minutes 9 seconds and counting.

Mr. BROWNBACK. I am prepared to yield back my time. The issue has been well debated. People know the issue. It has been voted on before. I hope we can proceed with the vote.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, the Senator from California has given a very clear reason to vote for this amendment. We have heard no disagreement that this current policy toward women service members is not humiliating. We have heard no disagreement that it is not a threat to privacy, and it is punitive. What this issue is about is whether women in the service overseas have the same constitutional rights, protections, and safety in their health care as those women who are in this country.

I urge my colleagues to vote for this amendment. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Washington yields back time.

Is there a sufficient second? There appears to be a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 691. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. KERRY) is necessarily absent.

I further announce that, if present and voting, the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. KERRY) would vote ‘yea’.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CRAPO). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 48, nays 51, as follows:

NOT VOTING—1

The amendment (No. 691) was rejected.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.
Mr. SANTORUM. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, parliamentary inquiry: At this point the bill is open to further amendment, is that correct?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

Mr. WARNER. Would the President advise the Senate with regard to the order that currently controls the next amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is a limited list of amendments offered.

Mr. WARNER. Could the President advise the Senate what amendments in their standing order?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A package of amendments has been cleared by both managers: A Boxer amendment on contracting subject to a relevant second condition; a Landrieu amendment on border security, a Kerry amendment on air travel, a Domenici amendment on the industrial enterprise.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, therefore, it would be in order at this time for any of those amendments to be taken up by the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. WARNER. Yes.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, if I could ask the distinguished managers of the bill to allow a very brief colloquy and a unanimous consent request by the Senator from New York, and maybe a couple of others, we would take no more than 2 minutes for the Senator from Massachusetts and 3 minutes for the Senator from New York.

Mr. WARNER. We have no objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from New York.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUEST—S. 923

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I rise to ask unanimous consent to provide help and support to American who are out of work and need Congress to extend unemployment insurance. Soon the checks will no longer be in the mail for millions of Americans and New Yorkers who depend on unemployment benefits to provide for their families at this time.

In New York alone, over 100,000 people have exhausted their unemployment insurance benefits and are still without a job. Starting on May 31, unless work, more than 80,000 Americans will begin exhausting their unemployment every single week.

These Americans and New Yorkers need and deserve our action. We knew we had to take steps at the beginning of this year to extend unemployment compensation. We need to do it again. I hope none of us will turn our back on these hard-working, struggling Americans—people who have mortgages to pay, people who have car payments to make, people who have children to raise.

In April 2000, there were 176,000 long-term unemployed parents. Last month, there were 607,000 long-term unemployed parents, an increase of 245 percent.

I ask unanimous consent that the Finance Committee be discharged from further consideration of S. 923, a bill to provide a 6-month extension of unemployment compensation, including 13 weeks of benefits for the long-term unemployed—exhaustees—and that the Senate then proceed with its immediate consideration; that an amendment at the desk to remove the “Temporary Enhanced Regular Unemployment Compensation” provisions be considered and agreed to; that the bill be read three times, passed, and the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, without intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I object.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the amendment by Senator KENNEDY, on extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 2002, provided that the Senate proceed to its consideration, the bill be read a third time and passed, and the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, does this include the workers who have contributed to the fund and whose benefits have expired? It has been standard and it has been used in the Senate and supported by the Senate five different times during the 1990s. Does this include those workers?

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I call upon the proponent of the amendment.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I reserve the right to object, if we can’t get an answer to that.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, we are about to get an answer. I advise the Senate.

Mr. KENNEDY. I am sorry.

Ms. MURkowski. Mr. President, I ask the Senator from Massachusetts to repeat the question.

Mr. KENNEDY. Does this include the more than 1 million workers whose unemployment benefits have expired and who otherwise would be eligible to receive unemployment compensation under the proposals that have been offered here by the Senator from New York and our own proposal, and that were also included in the proposal that was passed in a bipartisan way on five different occasions during the 1990s?

Does this amendment include those individuals?

Ms. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, if I may respond, my bill is a clean 6-month extension of the Temporary Extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 2002.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, further holding the right to object, does it include any ability to give flexibility to the States so that they can take care of part-time workers as included in the Democratic proposal? Does it include those provisions as well?

Ms. MURKOWSKI. I repeat that this is a clean 6-month extension of the Temporary Extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 2002.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, there is a very clear reason the request of the Senator from New York for the request I will make should be respected on the floor of the Senate. We are facing a crisis with 8 to 9 million Americans unemployed. More than 1.5 million of those have seen their unemployment compensation expire. Starting next week, 80,000 workers are going to lose their unemployment compensation.

This is an issue about fairness. On the one hand, we have an opportunity to return to those workers what they have paid over a lifetime of work, in many instances, into a trust fund that is in excess of $20 billion, and the reason it is in surplus is that these workers have paid into it. Now they are entitled to get that money out.

We have had objection to the request of the Senator from New York.

I am going to give the Senate one more opportunity to see whether they are going to be responsive, whether this body is going to understand the issue of fairness. Tomorrow we are going to pass billions of dollars for the wealthiest individuals in this country. We are trying to look out after hard-working Americans.

Therefore, I ask unanimous consent that at a time to be determined by the majority leader, following consultation with the Democratic leader, the Senate consider S. 1079, extension of the unemployment compensation, considered under the following limitations: General debate of an hour equally divided, with only one amendment in order, the amendment by Senator KENNEDY, on which there shall be an hour of debate equally divided, and no other amendments be in order, and any points of order be considered waived by this agreement; then not the amendment and the use and yielding back of all time, the Senate vote on passage of the bill, without further intervening action or debate, as amended, if amended.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I object.
Mr. President, I compliment our colleague from Alaska for trying to pass a clean, simple extension. This is the same language Senator Clinton and I passed last January. It is the same language Senator Fitzgerald passed with us. I believe January 7 or 8 is the same language we passed a couple of times for a clean extension. It is not a doubling of the program. It is not taking a 13-week Federal program and turning it into a 26-week program. It is not expanding the definition of uninsured, so we have a variety of people who, frankly, the States don’t now cover.

I will tell my colleagues that we are not going to double the program. We are not going to triple the program. The Senator from Alaska offered to extend the current program which we have been using for the last 2 or so years. That is the proposal she will make today and, I would expect, the proposal we will make tomorrow. That is the only proposal, in my opinion, that will pass.

People want to try to make political statements. We had a vote on it in the budget. I won’t yield.

We had a vote on it in the budget. It didn’t pass. We had a vote on it last week on the tax bill. It didn’t pass. Some people want to double or triple this program. It is not going to work.

The Senator from Alaska says she is trying to extend the program so people won’t lose their benefits beginning next month. A clean extension of the Federal program of 13 weeks can pass, or rather may pass. But colleagues who want to continue to double or triple the program jeopardize helping the very people they say they want to help.

I compliment my colleague from Alaska. I hope our colleagues will give fair consideration and ultimately agree to a simple extension of the program for 13 weeks as proposed by our colleague from Alaska.

I yield.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I ask the Republican leader: Why don’t we then just have the two different alternatives placed before the Senate and let the Senate express itself on whether it favors our proposal or favors the Republican proposal?

Mr. NICKLES. I ask unanimous consent that both of these proposals be laid before the Senate and, at a time suitable to the majority and minority leaders, we have a 10-minute, evenly divided, discussion, and we let the Senate vote on whether it prefers the proposal of the Senator from Alaska or the proposal of the Senators from New York and Massachusetts.

I think that is a fair way to proceed.

Mr. NICKLES. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. KENNEDY. I will not yield.

We talk about fairness. Our proposal is basically a similar proposal to what was passed five times, and which the Senator from Oklahoma supported in the 1990s. Why don’t we give the Senate a chance to vote on either one of them? That would be fairest to the workers in this country.

If you don’t have able, then, to persuade Members to vote for yours, so be it; we will accept it. And if they vote for ours, we would hope you would accept it. That is what I think is fair. I ask whether the Senator from New York would think that is fair?

Mrs. CLINTON. Yes. I think the Senator from Massachusetts—

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. TALENT). The Senator from Massachusetts is making a unanimous consent request.

Is there objection?

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, I object. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

The Senator from Massachusetts retains the floor.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I think this is a pretty clear indication about where our Republican friends are on this issue. They are denying us—or denying the Senate—in the final hours prior to the expiration of coverage for workers—denying us an opportunity to get a vote in the Senate. Basically, they say: Either take ours or leave it—take ours or leave it—and that is being unfair to workers, particularly at a time when the Republican Party is about to recommend tax breaks of billions of dollars for the wealthiest individuals in this country, and they refuse to give fairness to workers in this country.

That is what is going on here. Workers in this country understand what is happening here in the Senate. It is a clear indication of the priorities: Just open up the Federal Treasury. Give the wealthiest the highest amount of tax breaks and give short shrift to hard-working Americans.

The Republican leader refuses to permit the United States, in a time set by our leaders, to make a judgment on which they would prefer. The workers in the United States are clearly getting short-shrifted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, just for the information of our colleagues, to make sure we make the record straight, my very good friend from the great State of Massachusetts has mentioned: Let people have a vote.

We have not had one vote—we have had three votes already, and it did not win. It will not win on the fourth vote. So I urge my colleagues: The way to do this is let’s pass a clean extension, the same extension that my colleague from New York and I passed on two previous votes of the Senate. Let’s do that again, and let’s help the people who need the help.

If people play other games, they jeopardize even a clean extension. I think people should be on notice of that not everybody might want an extension. So the effort to double the program may mean that some people will get zero. Instead of getting 13 weeks, they might get zero because of this effort to double the program.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New York is recognized.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I wanted to ask my friend from Oklahoma to yield to me, but he yielded the floor.

The dilemma, of course, is one that is very difficult for us to confront. I appreciate greatly the wonderful cooperation that I received in working out the extension of unemployment compensation for those who needed to complete their 13 weeks who were unemployed, and for those who were going onto unemployment for the first time.

Our problem is—and this is where I think the nub of our difference is—we are growing, literally, millions of people who have exhausted their benefits and are looking for work and cannot find it.

I understand and I respect the argument from the other side, although I disagree that the tax package that is about to be passed today or tomorrow is going to generate jobs and economic growth. I do not think it will. I think it will, in fact, make our economic situation worse and continue to put people out of work. But we will get a chance to find out who is right about that.

But, unfortunately, there are a lot of innocent people caught in the middle
Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, at this time, does my friend want to bring his second-degree amendment to the desk or, rather, his substitute?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

MAmENDMENT NO. 826

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I send to the desk an amendment which is in the first degree to protect the Senator from California, unless she would like to have it as a second-degree amendment. We can do that.

Mrs. BOXER. I prefer to have it as a first-degree amendment. It will be much better, and I appreciate that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Virginia [Mr. WARNER] proposes an amendment numbered 826.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of this amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

SEC. 3. SENSE OF THE SENATE ON COMPETITIVE AWARD OF CONTRACTS FOR IRAQI RECONSTRUCTION

It is the sense of the Senate that the Department of Defense should fully comply with the Competition in Contracting Act (10 U.S.C. 2304 et seq.) for any contract awarded with the Competition in Contracting Act (10 U.S.C. 2304 et seq.) for any contract awarded

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) The taxpayers deserve fairness.

(2) Businesses deserve fairness.

(3) The Competition in Contracting Act of 1984 establishes a preference for the award of competitive contracts.

(4) The Department of Defense should meet its goal of having a fully competitive contract in place by August 31, 2003 and performing work needed for the reconstruction of the Iraqi oil industry after such date under that competitive contract.

(b) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—If the Department of Defense fails to meet its own stated goal of having a fully competitive contract in place by August 31, 2003, the Secretary of Defense shall submit a report to Congress by September 30, 2003, detailing the reasons for allowing this sole source contract to continue.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.
I ask unanimous consent to add as cosponsors to my amendment Senator LIEBERMAN, Senator CLINTON, Senator BOB GRAHAM, Senator LAUTENBERG, and Senator DURBIN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. BOXER. I am proud to have their support. There can be no stronger advocate of the strongest possible military than Senators LIEBERMAN and GRAHAM. We know that. We have seen them here. I hope, because they understand, as I do, that it weakens our country when we do these kinds of deals.

The amendment that my friend has offered is fine; there is nothing wrong with it, but it does not get to the heart of this particular contract. It is general, whereas the amendment I have offered—and, by the way, it is just a sense of the Senate. It is nice. But what I have offered says that if the Secretary of Defense finds that the Army Corps has not, in fact, put the rest of this contract out for bid by the date of September 30—and they have promised to do so by August 31—then they have to tell us why they did not bid out this contract.

I am going to put up a chart that shows a copy of the congressional notification of this contract. It looks scary when one sees it because there is lots in it, but I have highlighted in yellow the things my colleagues ought to know, because maybe they do not know this.

I want to compliment the minority ranking member of the Committee on Government Reform in the House, HENRY WAXMAN, for doing so much of the research. I ask unanimous consent that a fact sheet called the Bush Administration’s Contracts with Halliburton, put out by the minority staff of the Committee on Government Reform, be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

FACT SHEET: THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION’S CONTRACTS WITH HALLIBURTON

The Bush Administration has awarded several extremely large contracts and task orders to Halliburton. Of particular concern are the contracts awarded to a Halliburton subsidiary, Kellogg Brown & Root. GAO reports and other investigations have documented a history of Brown & Root overcharging the government. In the history, the Administration has awarded Brown & Root lucrative government contracts—including a recent contract for oil-related work in Iraq that is worth up to $7 billion and that was awarded secretly and without any competition. The Administration has also awarded contracts worth hundreds of millions of dollars for work in Iraq to a select group of U.S. companies, with only limited competition.

Halliburton has a unique relationship to this Administration, because Dick Cheney left his position as Halliburton’s CEO in 2000 to run for Vice President, he reportedly received company stock worth over $33 million, and it was not until May 8, in response to another request from Rep. Waxman, that the Corps disclosed that the scope of the contract was significantly broader than was initially provided information had suggested.15

Based on what the Corps has revealed to date, this contract is worth at least $7 billion, with the potential for Brown & Root worth up to $490 million. The Corps has said the actual value of the contract may end up being less than that (according to the Corps, it may be “only” around $500 million). Nonetheless, the fact that the Corps would issue such a large contract without competition is highly unusual.

Moreover, the contract is far broader than had been initially suggested. Information provided by the Corps and Halliburton included that the contract would put out oil well fires and repairing damage. Halliburton issued a press release on...
March 24 entitled “KBR Implements Plan for Extinguishing Oil Well Fires in Iraq,” which described the contract work as “assessing and extinguishing oil well fires in Iraq and evaluating technologies, as directed by the U.S. government, the country’s petroleum infrastructure.”18 The Corps also released information stating that it was in charge of “imperative explaining why oil well fires and to assess oil facility damage in Iraq” and that it would be contracting with Brown & Root to perform these functions.19

On May 2, however, the Corps revealed that the contract also includes “operation of facilities” and “distribution of products.” It thus appears that Brown & Root may be asked to replace oil facilities and contribute oil products. This raises significant questions about the Administration’s intentions regarding Iraqi oil. The Administration has previously drawn a bright line on Iraqi oil: according to White House spokesman Ari Fleischer, “[t]he oil fields belong to the people of Iraq, the government of Iraq, all of Iraq.”18 Those sentiments were echoed by Secretary of State Colin Powell and Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld, among others.20 It now appears that Halliburton or another company—and not the Iraqi people—may be making fundamental decisions about how much oil should be produced and who should produce it.

The Corps has claimed that the contract is only for short-term emergency work. But the Corps revealed in their April 8 letter that the contract has a two-year term. The Corps also indicated that they are planning to replace the contract with a new, competitively bid contract. In their May 2 letter, however, the Corps disclosed that the Halliburton contract will be in place until at least late August 2003, and possibility until January 2004.

According to the May 2 letter from the Corps, the new, longer-term contract the Corps is planning to issue will again involve operating facilities and distributing oil. This raises further questions about how much say these companies reportedly contributing to and helping Iraqis are going to have over the operations of the Iraqi oil industry. The Corps contract is “cost plus.” This means that the contractor receives its costs plus an additional percentage of those costs as its profit. These kinds of contracts are particularly susceptible to abuse as they give contractors an incentive to increase their profits by increasing its costs. As noted above, Brown & Root has a record of overcharging the taxpayer on cost-plus contracts.

OTHER IRAQ CONTRACTS

Halliburton is not the only company to benefit from secret, noncompetitive contracts. The U.S. agency for International Development, hand-picked U.S. companies to bid secretly on contracts for work in Iraq. Like the Army Corps contract, the AID contract for Iraqi reconstruction have been handled with secrecy. AID allegedly hand-picked a select few domestic companies to bid on nine contracts for services including airport administration, education, public health, and public works. The U.S. companies that have been awarded are together worth up to $1 billion. And they may be worth much more, depending on whether and how they are renewed.

Halliburton was one of five companies asked by AID to bid on a $680 million contract to rebuild Iraq. Like Halliburton, the other companies—including Fluor, Bechtel—and the eventual winner, Bechtel—are heavy Republican contributors. Between them, these companies reportedly contributed $1.2 million to the past two election cycles, two-thirds of which went to Republicans.20 After the controversy over the 23 Mrs. BOXER. When we look at this congressional notification, which was very late in getting there because there were already five task orders under this Halliburton contract, finally they gave this information over. They have obligated first $17 million, then $6.7 million, $22 million, $5 million, and $24 million, with no competitive bidding.

24 It is said they have a series of answers to that question. At first we were told this was just for emergencies. Remember those newspaper articles, just for emergencies? Now we are finding out it goes well beyond emergencies.

In March 2003, the administration awarded Brown & Root a contract to repair and operate Iraq’s oil infrastructure. The administration has been reluctant to provide complete basic information about the contract. Remember, the contract was awarded March 8 but it was not publicly disclosed until March 24. The Corps did not reveal until April 8, in response to a letter from Representative Waxman, that the contract had a potential value of up to $7 billion.

It was not until May 2, in response to another request from Representative Waxman, that the Corps disclosed the scope of the contract was significantly broader than previously provided information had suggested.

We have a chance to end this embarrassment today. If we have a strong open co- the Durbin-Graham of Florida-Clinton amendment—and I hope many other colleagues will join. I hope many on the other side will join—what are we saying? We are saying if they do not correct, as they have stated they would do—and they have stated they would in fact end this sole-source contract and they would go out for bid by the end of August—all we are saying is send us a report, tell us the reason why you are carrying on.

Under Senator Warner’s amendment, which I have no objection to at all, and I am going to vote for it, let’s hear what it says. It says it is the sense of the Senate by the war has no force of law—that the DOD should fully comply with the Competition in Contracting Act for any contract awarded for reconstruction activities in Iraq and should conduct a full and open competition for work that is needed for the reconstruction of the Iraqi oil industry as soon as practicable.

I am not a lawyer, but I can tell my colleagues when we see the words “as soon as practicable,” get nervous.

Mr. DURBIN. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mrs. BOXER. I would be so happy to yield.

Mr. DURBIN. I am a lawyer, and those are known as weasel words because if that phrase can be included, it has no meaning. The question is whether we are going to hold the Department of Defense accountable. I ask the Senator from California this question: The sense-of-the-Senate resolution which she offers not only raises a question of whether this is evidence of profiteering, evidence of a sweetheart arrangement, evidence of the kind of sole-source arrangement that frankly is not in the best interest of either American taxpayers or America’s national defense, is she specific in the accountability she is holding the Department of Defense to in terms of when they will report or as opposed to as soon as practicable?

Mrs. BOXER. Absolutely. My particular amendment that will be voted on is more than a sense of the Senate. It is a sense of the Senate plus it is a requirement that if the Department of Defense does not meet its own stated goal of having a fully competitive contract in place by August 31, 2003, to replace this boondoggle, the Secretary of Defense will submit a report to Congress by September 30, 2003, detailing the reasons for allowing this sole-source contract to continue.

Mr. DURBIN. I ask the Chair if the Senator would yield for this question. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mrs. BOXER. Yes.

Mr. DURBIN. In this situation, has the Department of Defense made any statements that they are planning on making some sort of a revision to this $7 billion Halliburton contract?

Mrs. BOXER. That is correct, they have. In a letter to Representative Waxman, who has kind of uncovered this entire matter—if it was not for him, this thing might be buried somewhere in somebody’s drawer—they said, we are now completing—this is the Department of the Army: We are now completing the competitive acquisition strategy and plan, preparing the statement of work, and preparing the solicitation for the best proposals to perform work. The solicitation will be advertised on the Federal Business Opportunities Web site by late spring or early summer and the estimate for the award of the contract is approximately the end of August.

So they have given a date by which they say they will be able to take the rest of this contract and bid it out. By the way, there is nothing to say that the Halliburton subsidiary, Brown & Root, can’t compete on the rest of the contract when it goes out. It ought to be open.

Mr. DURBIN. If the Senator will further yield for a question, what the Senator from California is asking the Senate to do, is hold the Department of Defense to their own promise to the Congress that they will put an end to this $7 billion Halliburton sole-source contract and actually open this up to bidding. The Senator is only asking Congress to hold the Department of Defense accountable for written promises they have already made to Congress.

Mrs. BOXER. That is all I am doing. I say to my friend, I can tell from the sound of his voice, he is a little incredulous about what I have been accepted by the other side. This is such a simple, straightforward commonsense kind of approach.

We are saying that this was not right. The Army Corps has said they will fix it. They have given us a date; they will fix it. All we are saying is, if you do not, we want to hold you accountable. We want a report.

Mr. DURBIN. If the Senator will yield for a further question, in most instances, when you are considering this kind of arrangement—here we have a major company, sole-source contract for $7 billion, without anyone else competing with them. The question it raises is whether it is improper or has an appearance of impropriety.

I say on its face there is an appearance of impropriety, that one company, without competitive bidding, would end up with a $7 billion contract. Is the Senator from California saying that if Halliburton is that good, this is the only company in America that can possibly bid on it, Halliburton will have its chance?

The Department of Defense is going to say to all the companies in America that might provide the services, you have your chance to compete with Haliburton. If it is that good, Halliburton can win this contract fair and square on the up and up and eliminate any appearance of impropriety. Is that what the Senator from California is trying to achieve?

Mrs. BOXER. I am trying to say what you stated. If Halliburton or subsidiaries wish to do more work in Iraq, let them stand shoulder to shoulder, toe to toe with every other company in this country.

I have heard from so many businesspeople who are outraged at this. That is why the amendment I have offered on behalf of Senator LAUtenberg and you and others is a probusiness amendment; it is a protaxpayer amendment and a proconsumer amendment.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Will the Senator yield for a question? This could be described as “business unusual.”

Mrs. BOXER. I think my friend, a very successful businessman, has put his finger on it. It is business unusual.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Yes. Often we say business as usual; this is business as unusual.

Does the Senator, in the resolution proposed, talk about terms or performance? Is it not worth nothing if this contact was done, if not in the dark of night, certainly at dusk—we do not know the terms—that not only means price could be many times over, there are no performance standards, either, which is pretty darn unusual?

Mrs. BOXER. I say to my friend, it is very unusual. When we ask them, they say: We are just going to use this contract to put out the fires.

Then it turned out, thank God, there were not that many fires; and we thought, OK, fine. It was sole source. Mr. LAUTENBERG. It turned out to be a fire sale.

Mrs. BOXER. Another excellent point.

I am happy my friend from New Jersey is back. I was losing my sense of humor. I am glad he is back.

This chart shows the congressional notification of this contract. The light of day never came to this until way after it was issued. Now we finally got it after the fifth task order. Estimated value, $7 billion.

They called it a bridge contract, by the way, when they started out, and they started to let out these task or-orders.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Will the Senator yield?
Does it say the maximum amount the Government could spend?

Mrs. BOXER. The estimated face value.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. So if $7 billion became $10 billion—is there any limitation?

Mrs. BOXER. Legally, as I look at it, it says estimated face value.

Here it says "bids received: One." "Bids solicited, sole source." This is stunning.

I ask the President how much time remains on my side?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Eight minutes twenty seconds.

Mrs. BOXER. I yield 5 minutes to my friend from New Jersey and retain the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey is recognized.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I thank my friend and colleague from California. I support Senator BOXER's amendment regarding the questionable—and it is questionable; friends here know I spent a lot of my time, most of my life, in business, more than I have in the Senate.

No-bid contracts are practically nonexistent when they have significant value to either the company, the government, or otherwise.

The contract given to Halliburton in early March regarding Iraq's oil infrastructure, this no-bid contract, has raised serious concern. There is good cause for no accusation here. It is just a question of what is a good, sensible business practice.

I ask every Senator in this body to take a look and ask if they would give out a contract to cut the lawn at their house without getting some formal response as to what it might cost. We have a strange happening: no-bid contract. It could be as much as $7 billion, with no ceiling on it. That is the interesting aspect. For whatever reason, the administration has attempted to conceal the scope of the terms of the contract. This attempt to hide information has generated plenty of suspicion.

Initially, it was announced that the contract with Halliburton was for the specific and limited purpose of extinguishing Iraqi oil fires. That could be described as emergency and repairing equipment. The initial value of the contract, the initial value, was $50 million. Talking about approximately $7 billion, give or take $2 billion or $3 billion—mostly take; I guarantee there is no give, in the hope that no one would ask any questions.

This was a no-bid contract given to a company that has strong ties to the administration. Then the details began to change. Six weeks after the contract was originally disclosed, the Army admitted that the contract was not only for putting out the fires and making some repairs, repairs, $7 billion—and suddenly the Army Corps, in effect, revealed that the contract called for Halliburton to operate the oil wells and distribute Iraqi oil. That is a huge difference.

There is the issue of the no-bid process. Perhaps we ought to have a Senate resolution to see how our friends would vote if we said let's go to all no-bid contracts for Government purchases. Sound like a good idea? I doubt it.

"Bids solicited, sole source." Asked why the Halliburton contract was awarded in a no-bid fashion, the Army Corps asserted that there was no time for a competitive process and this contract would be of short duration. You can spend $7 billion in a hurry, I guess.

We now learn the contract could be worth up to $7 billion. For the past 6 weeks, each time the Army Corps has been questioned about the contract, we hear a different story. I recently have written a letter to Senator Collins and Senator Lieberman, the chairman and the ranking member of the Governmental Affairs Committee of which I sit, asking them to hold a hearing to investigate this contract. I believe the hearing will allow us to finally determine the true scope of this contract and why the administration chose not to have a bidding process and why the information was withheld.

Something here is not right. Not only do we need to investigate the process under which this contract was awarded, but we also need to put a competitive contracting process in place for this work in Iraq. We need to ensure for the American people that the Government is not engaged in sweetheart deals for its corporate friends.

The amendment of Senator BOXER encourages that the current no-bid Halliburton contract be replaced swiftly through a competitive process, and I congratulate the Senator from California for that thought. That is the way it ought to work.

The reconstruction of Iraq, particularly the rebuilding of the Iraqi oil industry, is an extremely sensitive endeavor. I believe it is vitally important for the Pentagon to divulge information as to how and towards contracts in the public and systematic fashion. The Halliburton contract and the cloak of secrecy around it must not set a precedent for future contracts in the reconstruction process.

In this time of budget difficulties, with our inability to finance programs that have been an important part of the structure of the United States—whether it is education, whether it is prescription drugs or otherwise—for us to go ahead and spend $7 billion without knowing how, why, and when this work is going to be performed is an outrage. I don't think the American public ought to stand still for it.

I hope my colleagues on the other side will see the nature of the case as good business—people who have been out there and understand what has been appropriate process in business.

I urge my colleagues to support the Boxer amendment.

I yield the floor.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I reserve the remainder of my time.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to modify my amendment. I will send the modification to the desk.

Mrs. BOXER. Reserving the right to object, I don't know whether I will object. It would be a chance to look at it. I just got a chance to look at it a minute ago. So if you could put the unanimous consent off for a couple of minutes so I can take a look at it?

Mr. WARNER. Fine. Let me just explain the Senator from Virginia, I have now provided that this amendment will have the full force of law. Let me read it to you.

Mrs. BOXER. If the Senator wants to give me 2 minutes, I am just looking at it now. You can read it to me or I can go read it to myself. Either way is fine. I do not have it in front of me.

Mr. WARNER. Let me read it.

The Department of Defense shall fully comply with the Competition in Contracting Act (10 U.S.C. 2304 et seq) for any contracts awarded for reconstruction activity in Iraq and shall conduct a full and open competition for performing work needed for the reconstruction of the Iraqi oil industry...

It is straightforward.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum. I am just going to chat with my friend for a minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The Assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the joint hearing be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that we proceed as if in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

CORRECTION IN THE ENROLLMENT OF H.R. 1298

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask the Chair to lay before the Senate a message from the House of Representatives on the concurrent resolution (S. Con. Res. 46) to correct the enrollment of H.R. 1298.

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate the following message from the House of Representatives:

Resolved. That the resolution from the Senate (S. Con. Res. 46) entitled "Concurrent resolution to correct the enrollment of H.R. 1298", do pass with the following Amendment:

Amendment: On page 1, line 2, strike "Secretary of the Senate" and insert "Clerk of the House of Representatives".

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate agree to the amendment of the House.
Mr. REID. No objection. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SMITH). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate return to the underlying bill.

AMENDMENT NO. 826, AS MODIFIED

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, as is so often the case here in the Senate during the course of deliberations, colleagues find a mutual ground by which they can resolve such differences as exist between, the distinguished Senator from California, myself, and the distinguished Senator from New Jersey have joined together.

The amendment in the first degree of the Senator from Virginia remains in a document that I will shortly send to the desk. And the basic report language required in the amendment of the Senators from California and New Jersey is, likewise, in this document. They are coupled together.

So I ask unanimous consent that the amendment by the Senator from Virginia be modified. And I send the modified amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the modification?

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I am very supportive of this. I just want to ask if it is the right thing for me to withdraw my amendment, or is that not necessary?

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I would so make that request. That was my understanding. I was going to do that after this amendment had been amended.

So if the Chair would rule on the modification of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the modification?

Hearing none, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 826), as modified, is as follows:

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 8. COMPETITIVE AWARD OF CONTRACTS FOR IRAQI RECONSTRUCTION.

(a) REQUIREMENT.—The Department of Defense shall fully comply with the Competition in Contracting Act (10 U.S.C. 2301 et seq) for any contract awarded for reconstruction activities in Iraq and shall conduct a full and open competition for performing work needed for the reconstruction of the Iraqi oil industry.

(b) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—If the Department of Defense does not have a fully competitive contract in place to replace the March 8, 2003 contract for the reconstruction of the Iraqi oil industry by August 31, 2003, the Secretary of Defense shall submit a report to Congress by September 30, 2003, detailing the reasons for allowing this sole-source contract to continue. This report shall be submitted to Congress each 60 days thereafter until a competitive contract is in place.

AMENDMENT NO. 825 WITHDRAWN

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, at this time I request to withdraw the amendment by the Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. I have no objection to withdrawing my amendment because it has, in fact, been made a part of the Warner amendment.

Mr. WARNER. That is correct.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I also ask that this amendment have the name of the Senator from California on it, also.

Mr. WARNER. It is to be known as the Warner-Boxer amendment. And for the Senator from New Jersey, my friend, Mr. LAUTENBERG, the two of us go back many years.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Further than we can remember.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, yes, further back than we can remember.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment of the Senator from California is withdrawn.

Mr. WARNER. And the amendment of the Senator from Virginia is now known as the Warner-Boxer-Lautenberg amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WARNER. Briefly, to explain to the Senate, basically what we have done is we have put into law the requirement that the Department of Defense shall fully comply with the Competition in Contracting Act for any contract for reconstruction activities in Iraq and shall conduct a full and open competition for performing work needed for the reconstruction of the Iraqi oil industry.

Second, a report to Congress. If the Department of Defense does not have a fully competitive contract in place to replace the March 8, 2003 contract for the reconstruction of the Iraqi oil industry by August 31, 2003, the Secretary of Defense shall submit a report to Congress by September 30, 2003, detailing the reasons for allowing the sole-source contract to continue. A follow-up report shall be submitted to Congress each 60 days thereafter until a competitive contract is in place.

I yield the floor.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. I thank my colleague from Virginia. I think when the Senate can work together, we can cross over one side to the other, we do good work. What we did is literally take one half of the amendment of the Senator from Virginia and one half of mine. What is important to me is, if the Senate will speak in one voice, we will have a vote. I trust it will pass with a very wide margin, if not unanimously. The Senate will go on record, if we pass the Warner-Boxer amendment, as saying the following: We don’t approve of this sole-source contract and we want to make sure the Army Corps, which says it is going to end this contract, is held accountable; that they are going to have to let us know if by August 30 they don’t end the sole-source contract and every 60 days thereafter they are going to have to let us know why they are continuing a $7 billion sole-source contract.

That is all I wanted. That is all I want now. I am grateful to my friend for being openminded. It was a good debate.

I also say to my leader on the Armed Services Committee, Senator LEVIN, the ranking member, how helpful he has been to me. When I started, I had a proposal that might never have seen the light of day. He worked with me to make it relevant, make it work. Again, to Senators GRAHAM and LIEBERMAN and CLINTON and DURBIN and LAUTENBERG before we looked like we had a winner here, they were with me. This is really very nostalgic for me. In my time in the House, I worked on the Armed Services Committee on military procurement before. I had hoped I wouldn’t have to be standing here worrying about military procurement, but it looks like it comes back like a bad dream.

I am hopeful the action we take this afternoon, just to let the Army Corps know we are all watching, Republicans and Democrats, will have a salutary effect on the termination of the sole-source contract and fair and open bidding. The taxpayers deserve no less. The business community deserves no less. Consumers deserve no less. Frankly, the people of less than less because we are trying to rebuild their country in the most efficient way we can.

I thank my friend again, Senator WARNER. I urge a yea vote on the Warner-Boxer amendment.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, will the manager yield a moment?

Mr. WARNER. Take such time as you need.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Just a minute, because I want to second what we just heard from the Senator from California about my friend and colleague from Virginia. We have our policy differences. But when there is something that strikes the right note, I know for the many years we have served together, now about 20, including a 2-year lapse, we were able to agree on things here and there that meant a lot in terms of the process of our functioning.

I commend the Senator from Virginia for coming to a negotiated settlement and consensus view that accomplishes what we all wanted. I thank him for his
The amendments will not ensure open competition, but at least they will bring daylight to shine on the administration's activities, and will allow the American and Iraqi people to see what is being done with our money and their future.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I understand the yeas and nays are going to be requested. I thank my good friend from California for her kind words and, as always, the Senator from Virginia for his willingness to work to try to advance the Senate's proceedings in a fair and thoughtful way. I thank him as always for his willingness to try to find some way to bring together diverse views.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, by way of concluding remarks, we have set forth a joint statement which hopefully will be enacted into law. I commend my two colleagues for their work. I don’t fully share some of the allegations raised with regard to the suspicions connected with this contract. It is for that reason the contract should see the full rays of sunlight and be explored. Committees of Congress will eventually be exploring this same issue.

This document simply establishes a procedure by which this can be done. It is my expectation we will recognize that those in authority in the Department of Defense, recognizing the urgency of time following the basic cessation, not the full cessation but basic cessation of hostilities, have to move with swiftness. That is the underlying reason. Eventually this contract can be substantiated as in compliance with the law.

Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The yeas and nays have been previously ordered.

The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 826, as modified. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 826), as modified, was agreed to.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. WARNER. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia.

Mr. WARNER. My distinguished ranking member, working in conjunction with our leadership, is of the view that we are rapidly approaching the point at which we can seek third reading and have final passage. I hope that within a matter of a few minutes we can determine that option and its availability.

Mr. LEVIN. We are almost there, Mr. President, but not quite.

Mr. WARNER. Unless there are further matters that the Senators wish to address with regard to the underlying bill, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 826), as modified, is as follows:

[Rollcall Vote No. 193 Leg.]
The amendment (No. 806), as modified, was agreed to. Mr. WARNER. I move to reconsider the vote. Mr. LEVIN. I move to lay that motion on the table. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to. AMENDMENT NO. 828

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, on behalf of Senators KERRY and KENNEDY, I offer an amendment which would authorize the transportation of dependents to the presence of members of the Armed Forces who are retired for illness or injury as a result of active duty. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report. The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN], for himself, Mr. KERRY, for himself and Mr. KENNEDY, proposes an amendment numbered 828.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To authorize the transportation of dependents to the presence of members of the Armed Forces who are retired for illness or injury as a result of active duty)

At the end of subtitle C of title VI, add the following:

SEC. 634. TRANSPORTATION OF DEPENDENTS TO PRESENCE OF MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES WHO ARE RETIRED FOR ILLNESS OR INJURY INCURRED IN ACTIVE DUTY.

Section 411h(a) of title 37, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking “paragraph (1)” and inserting “paragraph (3)”;

(2) by redesignating paragraph (2) as paragraph (3);

(3) by inserting after paragraph (1) the following new paragraph (2):

“(2) Under the regulations prescribed under paragraph (1), transportation described in subsection (c) may be provided for not more than two family members of a member otherwise described in paragraph (3) who is retired for an illness or injury described in that paragraph if the attending physician or surgeon and the commander or head of the military medical facility exercising control over the member determine that the presence of the family member would be in the best interests of the family member; and

(4) in paragraph (3), as so redesignated, by striking “paragraph (1)” and inserting “paragraph (1) or (2)”.

Mr. LEVIN. The amendment has been agreed to on both sides. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is agreed to. The amendment (No. 828) was agreed to.

Mr. LEVIN. I move to reconsider the vote. Mr. WARNER. I move to lay that motion on the table. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to. AMENDMENT NO. 829

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator HUTCHISON, I offer an amendment which ensures that Impact Aid continues for military dependents at installations that have been conveyed to local communities such as Brooks Air Force Base but the military continues to reside in the base housing. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report. The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from Virginia [Mr. WARNER], for Mrs. HUTCHISON, proposes an amendment numbered 829.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To amend the section 351 funding authority to include authority for the funds to be used for making Impact Aid basic support payments to local educational agencies affected by the Brooks Air Force Base Demonstration Project, including amounts computed on the basis of Federal property that is converted non-Federal property)

On page 71, strike lines 12 through 21, and insert the following:

(d) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS FOR LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES AFFECTED BY THE BROOKS AIR FORCE BASE DEMONSTRATION PROJECT.—

(1) Up to $500,000 of the funds made available under subsection (a) may notwithstanding the limitation in such subsection be used for making basic support payments for fiscal year 2004 to a local educational agency that received a basic support payment for fiscal year 2002 from the Brooks Development Authority as a result of the demonstration project described in paragraph (1). (e) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(2) The term “local educational agency” has the meaning given that term under section 8033(b)(1) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 7713(b)).

(3) The term “basic support payment” means a payment under section 8003(b)(1) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 7703(b)(1)).

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment has been cleared on both sides. Mr. LEVIN. I move to lay that motion on the table. The motion to lay on the table was agreed to. AMENDMENT NO. 831

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I offer an amendment on behalf of Senator DOMENICI which expresses the sense of the Senate on the reconsideration of the decision to terminate the border and seaport inspection duties of the National Guard as part of its drug interdiction and counterdrug mission. It has been cleared on both sides. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report. The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from Virginia [Mr. WARNER], for Mr. DOMENICI, for himself, Mr. MCCAIN, Mr. NELSON of Florida, and Mr. CORNYN, proposes an amendment numbered 831.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To state the sense of the Senate on the reconsideration of the decision to terminate the border and seaport inspection duties of the National Guard as part of its drug interdiction and counterdrug mission)

At the end of subtitle D of title X, add the following:

SEC. 1039. SENSE OF SENATE ON RECONSIDERATION OF DECISION TO TERMINATE BORDER SEAPORT INSPECTION DUTIES OF NATIONAL GUARD UNDER NATIONAL GUARD DRUG INTERDICON AND COUNTER-DRUG MISSION.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) The counter-drug inspection mission of the National Guard is highly important to preventing the infiltration of illegal narco-terrorism.

(2) The expertise of members of the National Guard in vehicle inspections at United States borders have made invaluable contributions to the identification and seizure of illegal narcotics being smuggled across United States borders.

(3) The support provided by the National Guard to the Customs Service and the Border Patrol has greatly enhanced the capability of the Customs Service and the Border Patrol to conduct counter-terrorism surveillance and other border protection duties.

(b) SENSE OF SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the Secretary of Defense should reconsider the decision of the Department of Defense to terminate the border inspection and seaport inspection duties of the National Guard as part of the drug interdiction and counter-terrorism efforts of the National Guard.

Mr. LEVIN. No objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no further debate, the amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 831) was agreed to.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LEVIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

ENVIRONMENTAL RESTORATION OF THE FORMER EAKER AIR FORCE BASE

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, I would like bringing the Senator’s attention to a matter important to Blytheville in Mississippi County, AR. Blytheville is the former home of Eaker Air Force Base. In 1992, Eaker closed and ended a 50-year legacy between the U.S. Air Force and the people of Blytheville.

During Eaker’s 50 years, the Air Force benefited from local support of Eaker—support that ensured an atmosphere where the Air Force could complete critical missions.

Today, a decade following Eaker’s closure, the folks at Blytheville are trying to move forward and locate new businesses at the former base. Regrettably, abandoned, decaying buildings with asbestos siding and pipe insulation were left behind after the Air Force departed, and this environmental hazard is preventing any potential economic development on these lands. Our Federal Government regulations are clear concerning these types of hazards and the required remediation thereof. It is my understanding that many of these buildings were scheduled for demolition by the Air Force prior to the base closure. It is further my understanding that there is a potential for the asbestos to become airborne as these building begin to collapse.

Mississippi County currently has the highest unemployment rate in the State. It was not the intent of the base closure process to leave a local community with environmentally hazardous waste, however, this is precisely what has occurred. The county cannot relocate new business in the facilities until the cleanup is complete.

I want to bring closure to this issue and I hope that Chairman WARNER and Senator BAYH will join me in looking into this matter. I plan on contacting the Air Force to get a formal response to the environmental issues at the former Eaker Air Force Base. Again, I thank my colleagues for any support that they might provide in helping the people of Blytheville, AR.

Mrs. LINCOLN. Mr. President, I want to associate myself with the remarks made by Senator WARNER. It is a matter that I discussed with Senator INOUYE last year during the consideration of the Defense appropriations bill. For reasons unknown, environmental restoration of the former Eaker Air Force Base has been put on hold for over a decade. It is past time to address this issue. It is time to clean up this land and enable the people of Blytheville to find new tenants that can contribute to the local economy.

The people of Blytheville desire Federal assistance to clean up the asbestos left behind by the Air Force. For 50 years, residents of Blytheville proudly support Eaker Air Force Base as home to a group of strategic air command and B-52 bombers, more than 3,000 military personnel, before its closure in 1992. Before the closure, the military accounted for 15.2 percent of personal earnings, the largest of any industry in the county.

Through industrial expansion at the Arkansas Aeroplex, I believe significant strides can be made to turn the economic situation in Blytheville around. The Aeroplex is home to a 2-mile runway. In fact, the runway could serve as an alternate landing site for the NASA space shuttle. The potential for new business is abundant, but the opportunities are hampered because of the asbestos-filled buildings.

I look forward to working with Senator PRYOR on this matter, and I hope our colleagues from the Senate Armed Services Committee will assist us on this issue.

Mr. LEVIN. I also would be glad to help the Senator get this issue addressed and will work with you in contracting the Air Force.

HOUSE PROVISION ON MEALS READY TO EAT

Mr. BAYH. As the chairman knows, I am a strong supporter of Buy American requirements, and am generally open to strengthening current law, but the House Armed Services authorization bill contains a provision that could impact our ability to produce MREs. This provision specifically deals with the packaging requirements for MREs procured by DOD.

Mr. WARNER. I have not seen the provision but it sounds like it might be a concern.

Mr. INHOFE. If the distinguished Senator from Virginia would yield, Mr. Chairman, I also have concerns about this provision and the effects it would have on production needs to get necessary meals to our service men and women in the field.

Mr. BAYH. Mr. President, it is my understanding the implementation of the House provision could seriously impact the industry’s production capacity and relegating MRE restocking to old, slower technology producing less desirable meal options.

Mr. WARNER. I was unaware of this matter, but want to assure the Senator from Indiana and the Senator from Oklahoma that the Senate will give this provision a thorough review in conference with the House.

Mr. BAYH. I thank the distinguished chairman and the Senator from Oklahoma for their interest in the matter and look forward to working with them to resolve this issue.

Mr. INHOFE. I thank the chairman and the Senator from Indiana and look forward to working with them on this issue as we proceed with the bill.

THE BAN ON LOW-YIELD NUCLEAR WEAPONS

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, we have in the Senate repealed the ban on low-yield nuclear weapons, specifically, section 3136 of the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 1994, Public Law 103-160.

Mr. LEVIN. We have included, however, a requirement for the specific authorization for low-yield head development beyond phase 2A or 6.2A. With this amendment, Congress and this committee, will continue to play an important oversight role on nuclear weapons development.

Mr. BINGAMAN. I have submitted an amendment which has been accepted, that requires the Secretaries of the Departments of Defense, Energy, and State, to provide Congress by March 1, 2004, an assessment of the effects, if any, that such a repeal will have on the ability of the United States to achieve its nonproliferation objectives, and whether or not, changes in programs or activities would be required to achieve these objectives. I have asked that this report be submitted in an unclassified form with a classified annex, if needed.

Mr. LEVIN. I believe a careful, systematic study is needed by the executive branch on the effects of such a repeal, and especially, how it affects nations such as Russia, where we are cooperatively working to reduce the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction.

Mr. BINGAMAN. The Senator is correct. There is concern on this signal that this repeal could send to other nations, especially those who are working with to stem the proliferation of nuclear weapons. In particular, my intent in submitting this amendment was the request that the repeal would have on the Cooperative Threat Reduction Program, which was started by Senators NUNN, LUGAR, and DOMENICI. I want to be assured that we do not send any bad faith signals to Russia, and other countries, that participate in the program. The United States spends over a billion dollars a year in this effort; the repeal of the low-yield ban must not negatively affect this investment of the taxpayers’ money.

Mr. LEVIN. I share this concern. I will work with the Senate Armed Services Committee through our important oversight role, to insure that the Cooperative Threat Reduction Program continues to be carried out effectively by...
Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I thank my colleagues for their comments and add my own.

Last November, the Office of Management and Budget proposed the most sweeping changes to the rules on outsourcing since the late 1950s. Now, the administration wants to use the proposal to privatize at least 225,000 Department of Defense civilian jobs over the next several years.

The proposed changes have received strong criticism from the General Accounting Office, GAO, executive branch agencies, and Federal employee organizations. The CIA wrote that they will be unable to meet their own statutory requirements to protect their intelligence sources and methods if they fully implemented the revision. The Department of Transportation raised concern about the adverse impact of the changes on women and minorities employed by the Federal Government.

The proposed revisions could undermine public-private competition. Under the plan, if an agency is unable to complete public-private competitions in 1 year, it could automatically privatize the work. After an outcry from the Office of Management and Budget proposed the most significant of the changes would be threatened.

In addition, the proposal allows so-called “streamlined” competitions for activities involving 65 or fewer employees and lasting no more than 90 days. Under current rules, the Federal employee or the contractor must be at least 10 percent or $10 million more efficient to win a bid. Under this new method, there would be no such requirement. Clearly, the potential savings and efficiency created by competition would be threatened and would be contrary to the recommendation of the Commercial Activity Panel, the panel charged with reviewing outsourcing policies, for which all of the contractor and administration representatives voted.

The proposal would also include an automatic bias in favor of contractors. It imposes a 12 percent overhead cost on all Federal employee bids, and then imposes a superfluous charge for indirect labor costs, but it does not impose the same charges on contractor bids, even though both Federal employees and contractors have similar overhead costs. The DoD inspector general has said that the 12 percent overhead factor is “unsupportable.”

In addition, the proposal is likely to reduce the standard of living for tens of thousands of Americans. By artificially inflating the costs of in-house personnel, contractors have incentives to reduce costs by providing unfair compensation packages for those who perform Government work. Good jobs with fair wages and opportunities for advancement are being replaced by lower-wage jobs with no benefits and no security. According to the Economic Policy Institute, more than one in 10 Federal contract workers already earns less than a living wage.

The proposed revisions also apply different competition requirements to Federal employees and contractors in other ways that raise serious fairness concerns. Contractors have an incentive to low-ball their proposal, since there is relatively little likelihood of real private sector competition. The inspector general of the Department of Defense has reported that 80 percent of the contracts he and his staff surveyed suffered from “inadequate competition.”

Clearly, the proposed revisions will have significant implications for undermining competition and reducing opportunities for Federal employees to compete fairly for their own jobs.

Today, there is far too little real competition for contracts to provide good jobs and services for Federal agencies. We should be getting the most out of every taxpayer dollar. But, less than 1 percent of Department of Defense service contracts are subject to full public-private competition.

Government procurement should be based on what is best for taxpayers and our national defense. We face great challenges to the Nation’s security in these difficult times. More than ever, we rely on the Department of Defense and its dedicated employees. As the military budget grows rapidly, we must see that taxpayers and our men and women in uniform obtain the benefits and protection they deserve. True competition is more critical today than ever.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. I thank the Senator from Oklahoma and the Senator from Massachusetts for their comments. I agree that we should not make short-term decisions on these issues, that more precise definitions of “inherently governmental” and “core” are required to guide competitive sourcing decisions and public-private partnerships, and that the “streamlined” procedure OMB is advocating adds a step in the wrong direction. I look forward to working with my colleagues and the administration to ensure any revision to A-76 are done carefully and do not discriminate against our Federal workforce.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I would like to engage my colleague, Senator WARNER, in a colloquy.

As we know, Executive Order 13101 provides guidance to the head of each executive agency in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, regarding the use and procurement of recycled and biodegradable products. In fact, the Order states each agency head “shall incorporate waste prevention and recycling into the agency operations and work to increase and expand markets for recovered materials through greater Federal Government preference and demand for such products.”

I think that now is a great opportunity to once again charge the Department of Defense to procure products that both reduce waste and enhance recycling. I am aware that
We find ourselves in an increasingly contradictory position. On the one hand, the Bush administration says that it will pursue whatever measures might be necessary to stop the spread of nuclear weapons around the world. On the other hand, the administration has broken dangerous new ground. Their Nuclear Posture Review urged the development of new nuclear weapons in order to target deeply buried, hardened targets or chemical and biological weapons. Earlier this year, the president signed an order raising the prospect of American first-use of nuclear weapons against a non-nuclear state. These are dangerous and sobering developments. They underscore the perils of this new age. But these policies do not make us safer. Indeed, I would argue they risk making us less secure.

The greatest challenge to the security of the United States is the threat of terrorism armed with weapons of mass destruction. There is little debate about this assertion. At a time when stopping the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction and securing those that already exist is the principal security challenge of our time, it is inconceivable to me that the Bush administration would seek the authority to develop new weapons of our own. It is another example of the administration acting unilaterally and damaging America’s long-term interests in the process.

The most effective means to thwart the nuclear ambitions of others is our own moral leadership backed by unquestioned military might. That moral leadership is predicated on the way we conduct ourselves. In short, our efforts to keep nuclear arms out of the hands of others will lack international credibility and support—and ultimately success—if we are determined to develop new nuclear weapons of our own. Without international support, our best efforts to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons will be greeted with cynicism and, quite simply, fail.

Our unquestioned military might is not predicated on the development of new nuclear weapons or our ability to target underground bunkers with nuclear bombs; rather it flows from our investment in conventional arms, our ability to project power around the world, our demonstrated capability to strike any point on the planet with precision, and the investment we make in the men and women of our armed forces.

In fact, the United States alone has demonstrated the ability to achieve near-strategic effects through the use of conventional precision munitions. No other country can do that. No other country is even close. Given that fact, it is not clear why this administration is willing to bear the international costs of developing a weapon that will raise any point on the planet with precision, and the investment we make in the men and women of our armed forces.

The two most likely scenarios in which United States military might use these new weapons, whether low-yield nuclear weapons or larger bunker-busters, are in striking deeply buried, hardened targets and in defeating chemical and biological weapons on the battlefield. In both cases, there are conventional alternatives to the use of nuclear weapons. Deeply buried and hardened facilities can be disabled by using conventional munitions to seal entrances. Other weapons such as incendiary and thermobaric bombs have proven effective in Afghanistan. A nuclear detonation, in contrast, would eject a plume of radioactive debris that would contaminate the surrounding region, sickening civilians in the area and endangering the well-being of American military personnel. Crossing the nuclear threshold to accomplish these missions would be overkill, it will nuclear deterrence. According to Rob Nelson, a nuclear physicist at Princeton University, however, a nuclear bunker buster with a yield of one-tenth of one kiloton—about two hundred times smaller than the bomb dropped on Hiroshima—would need to penetrate to a depth of 230 feet prior to detonation for the earth to absorb the totality of the blast. To provide some perspective, the Pentagon’s only current nuclear earth penetrating weapon can reach a depth of only about 20 feet in dry earth. At this depth, a 0.1 kiloton weapon would eject hazardous debris and likely fail to damage a robust, deeply buried, hardened structure.

Thus, by pursuing “unthinkable” nuclear weapons designs, this administration underscores to every rogue regime in the world the value of nuclear arms, whether that value is real or not. This is the wrong message for the United States to send. In its place, we must find new ways to demonstrate to countries around the world that these weapons are affordable, unusable, and undesirable.

Now is the time wrong to consider developing a new class of American nuclear arms. Instead of researching and developing new weapons, we must redouble our efforts to secure the nuclear weapons already in the world’s inventories and safeguard the stores of nuclear materials scattered in unsecured facilities around the world. There is simply no compelling need for a new generation of nuclear weapons. They will not add any meaningful value to our arsenal. But they will undermine our efforts to stem the growth of nuclear stockpiles around the world while making America less secure and the risks of war and catastrophic terrorism even greater.

The future is not about a return to the city-busting bombs of the past, nor smaller yield nuclear weapons that might blur the distinction—in some minds—between conventional and nuclear arms. Rather, the future is about eliminating the threat posed to us all by such weapons. Our strength and our power at this moment in history is unrivaled. Now is the time for bold leadership that makes the world safer from nuclear dangers, not more eager for new weapons.

Mr. ROBERTS. Mr. President, I rise in support of the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 2004. I commend Chairman WARNER and Ranking Member LEVIN for their skillful stewardship.

I believe the committee completed its mark-up in near record time, with one of the fastest subcommittee marks in history occurring at the panel I currently chair, the Subcommittee on Emerging Threats and Capabilities.

Nonetheless, Senator JACK REED and I were able to provide funding for a number of important programs. We focused not only on enhancing the capabilities of our men and women in uniform, but also on those initiatives that address threats we face right now here at home.

In fact, since Chairman WARNER established the Subcommittee in the Winter of 1999, most of the ‘emerging threats’ that currently beset our nation. I am talking in particular about the use and potential use by terrorists of weapons of mass destruction (WMD).

I am certainly thankful for the leadership of President Bush as we try to navigate through this environment, one that includes apocalyptic terror groups acquiring and employing WMD.

Let us remember, day to day, it is the President of the United States who is responsible for preventing terrorism where and when he wants. I am confident President Bush is doing all he can to protect us.

He may not be popular in European cafes, universities, or newspapers, but he gets results for us here at home. Foreign actors, be they governments, individuals, or groups, know our President will hold them accountable for terrorism against us. Perhaps more than any policy action or innovation, this posture contributes to success in achieving a secure environment in which we can find ourselves right now.

Up against the most asymmetric, organized, determined, and merciless enemy the United States has ever faced, we have not had a major terror attack in the homeland since beginning the Global War on Terrorism shortly after 9/11. In this urgent threat warning atmosphere, knock on wood, Mr. President.

Indeed, there have been recent attacks in Saudi Arabia, Israel and North Africa. At the same time, however, the State Department reports that, globally, 2002 saw the lowest number of incidents of terrorism since 1999, a 44 percent drop from 2001. That is the lowest number of attacks since the birth of modern terrorism.

I recall these facts because the nature of recent comments from certain Members who believe virtually every act of terrorism is somehow the fault of our Commander in Chief. That is not only inaccurate but counterproductive to the war against terrorism.

In closing, I would like to briefly summarize the funding authorizations achieved by the Subcommittee on Emerging Threats & Capabilities for fiscal year 2004 include the following:

$350.0 million to rapidly accelerate the development and acquisition of unmanned systems such as UAVs.

$1.5 billion in university based research for transformational defense technologies.

$10.7 billion for the Defense Science and Technology program, including an additional $107.0 million for weapons systems, psychological operations capabilities, and enhanced intelligence.

$450.0 million for the Department of Defense’s Cooperative Threat Reduction (CTR) Program, as well as authorization for CTR projects and activities outside the states of the Former Soviet Union, and one year authority to waive the conditions that must be met before continuing the Russian chemical demilitarization program at Schuch’ye.

Again, I commend Senators WARNER and LEVIN. I also thank Senator REED for being an outstanding partner in completing the tasks given to our panel this year. We believe we are continuing the committee’s investment in science and technology, cutting-edge systems, and efforts to prevent the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction.

I thank the Chair and I urge my colleagues to support the Fiscal Year 2004 National Defense Authorization Act.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I am going to support this national Defense authorization bill, S. 1050, but I would like to speak candidly about my reservations about it.

When I left the Senate in early 2001, weapon development and troop deployment was the idea of serious national security threats seemed to be fading into the obscurity of our cold war past. Over the past 2½ years, this has changed. We now live in a world of multiple and continuously emerging threats, emanating not only from states but also from nonstate transnational groups.

What’s more, we live in a time when America’s superior armed services have been called up for missions that embody the essence of defense transformation. Defense transformation means that our country can overthrow the Taliban regime in Afghanistan 6,000 miles away almost solely from the air. It has allowed special operations forces to train antiterrorist units in places such as Georgia and the Philippines.

President Bush’s one vision of defense transformation has meant that military commanders can direct precision-guided weapons at specific office buildings in downtown Baghdad from a command room in Florida.

Today we debate the merits of this national defense bill and the important issues it raises regarding the future of weapons control and military research, technology, and development. Let us first acknowledge and express gratitude to the men and women of our armed services. We are proud of their successful wartime mission to liberate Iraq. We wish them continued success in their peace time mission to secure stability for the Iraqi people.

As we support our troops in Iraq, Afghanistan, and elsewhere, we must keep in mind that their ultimate mission is to defend not only America’s security interests but also the cause of global security. I have spoken about a new set of threats that require a transformation of our defense budget and priorities. I believe, however, that it is incumbent upon Congress to conceive of defense transformation—indeed our near-and short-term defense needs—in a way that will also seek to protect world peace.

I am concerned about elements of S. 1050 that allow the Pentagon greater flexibility in developing, testing, and producing new types of nuclear weapons. The diplomatic and security costs of even beginning research on these new types of nuclear weapons far outweigh any marginal benefits of such weapons.

These new nuclear weapon initiatives will further weaken the already struggling international efforts to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. U.S. influence with the international community will erode if it seeks to upgrade U.S. nuclear weapons while demanding that other countries, such as Iran and North Korea, disarm.

Dr. Mohamed El Baradei, Director of the International Atomic Energy Agency, recently said that instead of developing new nuclear weapons, the U.S. should send a message to potential proliferators that, "Even though we have nuclear weapons, we are moving to get rid of them. We are going to develop a system of security that does not depend on nuclear weapons because that’s the way we want the world to move."

I agree with Dr. Baradei; I believe the best way to deter nations trying to develop nuclear capabilities is to send the signal that the prospect of nuclear warfare is an idea confined to science fiction movies.

I have supported the amendments offered by Senators Reed, Feinstein, and others intended to modify rather than repeal the 1994 Spratt-Furse prohibition on research and development of low-yield nuclear weapons. Secretary Rumsfeld has argued that these mini-nukes might be the ideal weapon for going after deeply buried stashes of chemical and biological weapons—the sort of rogueish regimes and terrorist groups like al-Qaeda might attempt to conceal.

But at the same time, the Pentagon is considering adapting existing conventional warheads for such bunker-busting jobs. We don’t need both types of weapons to do the same job. By dangerously treating nuclear weapons as just another explosive in the arsenal, rather than as a deterrent weapon of last resort, researching low-yield nukes threatens to blur the line between conventional and non-conventional weapons. Given our interest in preserving the seriousness with which the world regards the nonproliferation treaty, we should not be doing anything in our own arsenals that would confuse this distinction.

I would also like to call attention to my amendment, S. 722, that will help protect many endangered species. I am pleased that this amendment passed.

I would also like to call attention to an amendment that I have sponsored along with Senator Boxer and Senator Warner regarding a noncompetitive contract granted by the Department of Defense to Halliburton Co. for the reconstruction of Iraq. This amendment will ensure that this no-bid contract gives way to a competitively bid contract. I am pleased by the bipartisan cooperation and Senator Warner’s leadership in the passage of this amendment.

In recent weeks, I have become concerned with the lack of transparency regarding this particular contract—worth up to $7 billion—awarded in a no-bid process to Halliburton and Co.’s subsidiary. The scope of the contract—both the actual task order and the dollar amount—were not fully disclosed by the administration, and information leaked piecemeal to the Army was pressed for it. It is extremely important that the Pentagon divulge information about the contract it awards in a public and systematic fashion.

I believe that this Defense authorization bill has merits and provides comprehensive funding for the Department of Defense’s needs. It will effectively meet the needs of women and men in the armed services. I am, frankly, very concerned about its authorization of low-yield nuclear weapons research, ballistic missile development, and its reduction of the constraints on nuclear weapons.

Mr. LANDRIEU. Mr. President, on June 6, 2000, the National D-Day opened in New Orleans, LA. This museum was the culmination of a vision of the late Stephen Ambrose. Dr. Ambrose dedicated his life to chronicling American heroes, including Dwight D. Eisenhower. It was President Eisenhower who mentioned to Dr. Ambrose that World War II was won in New Orleans because of the Higgins landing craft, designed by Andrew Jackson Higgins and used to land forces to launch successful amphibious invasions.

The National D-Day Museum has been an unquestioned success as a tourist attraction, meeting place for veterans, and a resource for men and women, young and old, wishing to learn more about World War II. Already, over 1 million people have come through the museum’s turn-styles.

America has a need to preserve its historical sites and monuments from World War II. The National D-Day Museum is committed to such preservation. As a result of its mission, the museum has already had to expand and is building a 250,000 square-foot addition. We must preserve the stories and artifacts of the “Greatest Generation.”

Accordingly, I submitted an amendment to designate the National D-Day Museum as “America’s National World War II Museum. We owe it to the Greatest Generation to maintain a museum that pays tribute to their great sacrifices so that we may live today in freedom.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I rise to add my thoughts to the debate on the defense budget for fiscal year 2004.

First and foremost, I want to thank the members of the United States Armed Forces for the excellent work that they are doing in the ongoing fight against terrorism, their efforts in Iraq, and their sacrifices. I want to thank the armed forces for the contributions of the National Guard. These dedicated men and women do an exemplary job in every mission that they have been asked to undertake, often at great personal sacrifice.

They spend time away from their families and months in different parts of the country and the world, and are placed into harm’s way in order to protect the American people and our way of life. We owe a huge debt of gratitude to all our soldiers, sailors, marines, and members of the Coast Guard for their selfless service.

I am pleased that this bill authorizes a 3.7-percent pay raise for our men and women in uniform, and that it includes a provision authorizing additional pay for members of the Guard and Reserve who have been called to active duty multiple times.

The men and women of our National Guard and Reserve are a cornerstone of our national defense, and we should ensure that they have adequate pay and benefits. I am pleased that the Senate adopted an amendment to give guardsmen and reservists ready access to TRICARE, the military’s health care program, whether or not they are on active duty. The provision also would enable these personnel to elect to keep their civilian health insurance for their military service.

I have long advocated for the creation of an additional 23 Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Teams, which are staffed by full-time members of the National Guard. These important teams play a vital role in assisting local first responders in investigating and combating these new threats. As the events of September 11, 2001, so clearly and tragically demonstrated, local first responders are on the front lines of combating terrorism and responding to other large-scale incidents. The tragic events of September 11, the ongoing threat of terrorist activities, and the ongoing military action in Iraq make the presence of at least one WMD-CST in each State all the more imperative.

Currently, there are 32 full-time WMD-CSTs and 23 part-time teams. As a Senator representing one of the states without a full-time team, I was pleased that last year’s DoD authorization bill included a statutory requirement that 23 additional full-time teams be established, and that at least one team be located in every State and territory. I want to thank the Chairman and the ranking member of the Armed Services Committee for working with me to ensure that resources for 12 of these 23 teams are provided in this bill. I look forward to working with the chairman and ranking member of the Appropriations Committee to ensure that the resources authorized in this bill for the new WMD-CSTs are appropriated.

I am also pleased that the committee report contains language asking the Pentagon to include funding for the remaining 11 full-time WMD-CSTs in its fiscal year 2005 budget request. I urge the Secretary of Defense to do so, and with part-time teams to respond to potential WMD threats in the future.

On a related matter, as I noted on the floor earlier this week, I share the concern expressed by many of our colleagues about a provision in the Committee-passed bill that would repeal the 10-year ban on research and development of low-yield nuclear weapons, or so-called "mini-nukes." Lifting this ban could be the first step in a resurrection of nuclear testing and the creation of new classes of nuclear weapons, which I oppose. I regret that the Senate failed to pass an amendment offered by Senators Feinstein and Kerry, of which I was a cosponsor, that would have slain this ban. While proponents of lifting the ban argue that it will permit only study into the development of mini-nukes, I am concerned that such study will be the first step toward the eventual resumption of an active nuclear program by the United States.

Nuclear weapons, low-yield or otherwise, are relics of the cold war. Instead of a true transformation during which outdated systems are replaced with new technology, we are asked toward combating emerging threats, this bill regrettably continues the process of pilfering expensive new versions of the weapon systems that we used to fight and win the cold war. We cannot afford adding behemoth defense budgets. There are projects and programs that can and should be subtracted.

As an editorial in the May 20 New York Times points out:

[Good ideas for reforming the military are included in this bill]. But so are outdated submarines and jet fighters designed for combat against the defunct Soviet threat.

The waste easily runs into the tens of billions of dollars, making Congress's haste this week all the more outrageous. The armed services are overcrowded, pay, better housing and the most effective new technologies and weapons. But these bills provide windfalls for the military, for defense contractors and, for lawmakers who need the hometown pork and fat-cat windfalls for the military, for defense contractors.

That is why it is important to support the many good provisions that are in this bill—especially a well-earned pay raise and improved benefits for our troops. I applaud the work of Senator Warner and Senator Levin on these quality of life issues and am especially pleased that they supported my amendment to study how we can provide additional benefits to those who are so frequently deployed that they are only home for a few hours at a time. This bill also includes a provision to address the issue of children who are left behind when both military parents are deployed to a combat zone—an important priority of mine since I was a member of the House of Representatives and for lawmakers who need the hometown pork and fat-cat windfalls for the military, for defense contractors and, for lawmakers who need the hometown pork and fat-cat windfalls for the military, for defense contractors and, for lawmakers who need the hometown pork and fat-cat windfalls for the military, for defense contractors and, for lawmakers who need the hometown pork and fat-cat windfalls for the military, for defense contractors and, for lawmakers who need the hometown pork and fat-cat windfalls for the military, for defense contractors.

Currently, over 30 percent of Guard and Reserve personnel are enrolled in post-high school education. If they are activated while enrolled in higher-education, there are no safeguards to ensure that their academic status is preserved during activation; that they receive refunds or credits for the portion of the school year they do but could not complete to mobilization; that college grants and scholarships are preserved; or that they have a right to re-enroll in the educational institution upon their return from active duty.

I submitted an amendment whereby involuntarily called up student Reservists and Guardsmen would be able to take a leave of absence during the activation and for 1 year after being re-activated. The conclusion of such military duty from their institutions of higher education. Furthermore, the student shall be entitled to be restored to the same educational status, without loss of credit, and offered the same educational institution where the student was enrolled prior to activation. Grants and scholarships shall be reinstated. Moreover, students shall be entitled to a refund of tuition and fees for classes they were unable to take due to activation or be allowed to enroll in such classes subsequent to their re-enrollment at no cost.

Soon, thousands of Guardsmen and Reservists will be coming home from Iraq and Afghanistan. They will be eager to re-enroll in colleges, universities, and trade schools. Let's help these heroes get back to the classroom as effortlessly as possible. Mr. BOXER. Mr. President, I support passage of the fiscal year 2004 Defense Authorization bill.

Our military men and women can rest assured that the Congress of the United States stands behind them—especially when they are doing so much for this country in Iraq, Afghanistan, and throughout the world. I appreciate their dedication and service to this grateful nation.
However, this does not mean I support everything in this bill. Most alarmingly are the provisions in the legislation that advance the research and development of new high-tech nuclear weapons. These weapons will not make us more secure, but instead encourage our adversaries to join a new arms race. I urge the President to reverse his dangerous policy of advocating the development of new “usable” nuclear weapons.

I am also disappointed that we did not have an opportunity to address the issue of a future round of base closures. California was disproportionately impacted by previous rounds of the base closure process. Even years later, my state continues to wait for the Department of Defense to meet its responsibility and provide funding for the environmental cleanup of former military installations. For these reasons, I believe the next round of base closures should not go forward in 2005 as scheduled.

It is my hope that these unfortunate shortcomings in the bill can be addressed either in a conference committee with the House or during consideration of the fiscal year 2004 defense appropriations bill.

Mr. INOIFE. Mr. President, as the war in Iraq demonstrated, our troops are the finest in the world. Through their mastery of precision-guided weapons, they minimized casualties of noncombatants and effectively ended war’s inevitable destruction. In just 21 days, they liberated Iraq, a country almost the size of California, from a brutal tyranny.

Many factors contributed to the success of the Iraq war. In my view, the most important—and this, I believe, is true of any war—was training. To be strong in battle, soldiers must train as they fight. On U.S. training ranges, our troops engage in highly realistic, combat simulations, preparing them to fight and protect themselves in battle. This is what they deserve.

But gradually, those readiness exercises—so critical to the military’s training mission—are steadily being constrained and inhibited. Slowly, but surely, training simulations bear little connection with the true-to-life. The cause is straightforward but very disturbing: the extreme agenda of some environmental groups, whose hostile lawsuits are precipitating a crisis in training.

Environmental groups such as the Natural Resources Defense Council and the Center for Biological Diversity have launched an unconscionable war on the military. They believe there are no compromises, even when the issue involves protecting and preparing our troops for battle. They would rather file lawsuits—something they are quite good at, incidentally—than find commonsense solutions to balance environmental protection with the best military training available.

These lawsuits are gradually eroding not just the land available for training and readiness, but are gravely diminishing the actual training exercises and live-fire simulations that are so critical to prepare for real-life combat.

Despite the claims made by environmental groups, the Pentagon has demonstrated strong commitment to environmental stewardship. The evidence is overwhelming. But land development is fast encroaching upon military facilities, driving wildlife and endangered species into the relative sanctuaries of training ranges. The Pentagon has made environmental accommodations time and time again, but there is only so much it can do. The flood of environmental lawsuits is diverting the military away from its all-important training mission. As a result, training slowly but surely is dying a death of a thousand cuts.

There are too many egregious examples to recount here. The situation facing Camp Pendleton in California bears special mention. Camp Pendleton is considered the premier training base for the Marines. Because of a lawsuit filed by the Natural Resources Defense Council to list the gnatcatcher as endangered, 57 percent of the base may become restricted. Habitat which in effect means no training and readiness exercises in that area.

Also, there are 17 miles of beach at Camp Pendleton—because of environmental restrictions, only 200 yards of beach are available to practice amphibious landings. All military vehicles that come ashore during an amphibious landing are restricted to designated roads. Troops can only come ashore in single file columns, which is hardly a good simulation of actual warfighting conditions.

To address these problems, the Pentagon has a reasonable, commonsense proposal to clarify existing environmental laws. Contrary to statements by some of my colleagues, the Pentagon is not seeking blanket exemptions from current laws. To say otherwise is simply false.

Take, for example, the provision clarifying how the Endangered Species Act applies to training bases. DoD wants to continue a policy first implemented by the Clinton administration’s Fish and Wildlife Service. The proposal would codify Integrated Natural Resource Management Plans, INRMPs, in place of critical habitat designations.

INRMPs, which are required to provide for, among other things, fish and wildlife management, land management, forest management, fish and wildlife-oriented recreations, and wetland protection, for the military to balance species protection and training needs.

DoD’s proposal explicitly requires DoD to consult with the Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Marine Fisheries Service under section 7 of ESA. Also, the Interior Secretary must approve INRMPs in writing. Other provisions of ESA, as well as statutes such as the National Environmental Policy Act, also would continue to apply.

Thus it is simply unconscionable that this is characterized as a “swEEPing exemption.” My Democratic colleagues also contend that such a clarification isn’t necessary. The ESA already contains national security exemptions. Ironically, while complaining about a proposed provision that, in effect, continues to subject DoD to ESA, my colleagues want to pursue exemptions under current law. If they were serious about fixing the problems, they mean DoD could ignore existing statutory requirements altogether under ESA.

Yesterday, 51 Senators voted for an amendment sponsored by Senators LAUTENBERG and JEFFORDS that effectively guts the ESA provision in the fiscal year 2004 Defense reauthorization bill. The amendment upsets the balance struck between species protection and training. It tilts irresponsibly in favor of species protection, which is not the mission of DoD.

The amendment says DoD must “conserve the species,” rather than, as stated in the bills original language, provide “conservation benefits.” The distinction is significant because “conserving” means DoD must protect species. This is an unacceptably high threshold, one that even Fish and Wildlife has been unable to meet under ESA.

According to original 1973 ESA, conserve means “to use and use all methods, techniques, and procedures which are necessary to bring any endangered species or threatened species to the point at which the measures provided pursuant to this act are no longer necessary. Such methods and procedures include, but are not limited to all activities associated with scientific resources and management, such as research, law enforcement, habitat acquisition and maintenance promulgation, live trapping, and transplanting.” As is obvious, the primary mission of training and readiness would be enormous.

DoD opposes the amendment because it could have perverse and unintended consequences, such as removing the Fish and Wildlife Service’s flexibility to make decisions based on the differing circumstances facing each training range. Also, DoD and the Department of the Interior believe it will lead to more lawsuits, not less—exactly what DoD is trying to prevent.

The question remains: Why should DoD’s most important focus be, training or recovering the gnatcatcher?

I am also very disturbed by statements an characterizations of DoD’s training predicament. Some Senators alluded to the March 13 testimony of EPA Administrator Christie Whitman before my committee. Governor Whitman, said, “I don’t believe that there is a training mission anywhere in the country that is being held up or not taking place because of the environmental protection provisions.” With all due respect to Governor Whitman, the EPA does not have jurisdiction over the Endangered Species Act, which, of all the existing laws addressed in the Pentagon’s proposal, is responsible for the most serious training restrictions.

Moreover, I am extremely troubled by the way some Senators have summarized the Armed Services Committees’ concerns on military encroachment. To say “the GAO found the military has presented no evidence that the Endangered Species Act has impaired training” is utterly false and irresponsible.

Here is what the GAO said about encroachment in its report:

Over time, the impact of encroachment on training ranges has gradually increased. While the effect varies by service and individual installation, in general encroachment has limited the extent to which training ranges are available or the types of training that can be conducted. This limits units’ ability to train as they would expect to fight and/or requires units to work around the problem.

Barry Holman, director of the GAO’s Defense Capabilities and Management section, and author of the June 2002 encroachment testimony before the House Government Reform Committee on May 16, 2002:

One thing I want to make clear, I would not want anyone to conclude from looking at that report that I’m saying ‘no data, no problem.’ We’re not saying that. I think it’s very clear... that there are limitations on training.

In addition to the ESA clarification in the base bill, I filed an amendment to clarify how the Superfund law applies to military training and readiness. Though it appears this issue will not be addressed as part of the Defense authorization bill this year, it does deserve some explanation.

Live-fire training, which is the “cornerstone event of a unit’s training cycle,” has come under heavy fire from environmental groups. The Army at Port Richardson is engaged in a lawsuit that could shut down firing munitions at Eagle Rock Range. If environmentalists succeed, live fire operations at every Army range—more than 400 sites—could be severely constrained, seriously threatening training and readiness for our men and women in uniform.

This suit is not an isolated incident—there is another one much like it regarding the range at Vieques in Puerto Rico. The pattern is clear, and the Committee on Environment and Public Works received testimony as to the real agenda behind this pattern of lawsuits.

Describing yet another lawsuit by an eco-radical group against the Department of Defense, witness Frank Gaffey, president and CEO of the Center for Security Policy, stated illuminatingly “a plaintiff in the lawsuit was Melanie Dutchen who was described in the New York Times as an Anchorage activist with Greenpeace who said, ‘Obviously the hope of this litigation is that delay will go to court.’ She went on to say, ‘That is what we always hope for in these suits.’ I believe this is sort of an instructive insight into why the Defense Department is concerned, not only about the circumstances that you personally observed, in terms of limitations and impediments to training, but the train wreck that is coming. It is not something that is coming up by accident. It is coming about, I believe, by people who are, have very little interest in the readiness of our military.”

My amendment will try to stop this by clarifying how RCRA and CERCLA apply to live-fire training ranges. I worked closely with the Pentagon and State officials—in particular, Doug Benevento of Colorado’s Department of Public Health and Environment—in drafting compromise language that will balance training needs with environmental protection.

This amendment would codify and confirm longstanding regulatory policy of EPA and every State concerning regulation of munitions on operational ranges under RCRA and CERCLA. The amendment excludes military munitions from the definition of “solid waste” under CERCLA. That way, the military can perform live fire training exercises without having to break up those exercises with extensive, time-consuming, clean-up operations. But this change would still offer environmental protections under existing law. Again, as stated previously, this is not an exemption. Cleanup of operational ranges is not required so long as material remains on range. If such material moves off range, it still must be addressed under existing law. Also, if munitions cause an “imminent and substantial endangerment on range, EPA will still retain its authority to address it on range under CERCLA.

If we fail to address these and other issues the Pentagon has put before us, we are doing a great disservice to our men and women in uniform. Unfortunately, it appears that Congress will pass a funding bill that, if such material moves off range, it still must be addressed under existing law. Also, if munitions cause an “imminent and substantial endangerment on range, EPA will still retain its authority to address it on range under CERCLA.

Mr. SNOWE, Mr. President, I rise to speak on the Senate version of the fiscal year 2004 national Defense Authorization bill.

First, I would like to thank the chairman and the ranking member of the Senate Armed Services Committee for their leadership. As a former member of the committee, I am acutely aware of the intense effort required to bring the National Defense Authorization Act to the floor every year. For the chairman and ranking member to be able to bring this bill to the floor with such unanimous vote out of committee is a testament to their leadership. I would also like to thank each of my colleagues who are members of the committee for their invaluable contributions to this bill.

I will now address and discuss some of the provisions of the bill that I believe are important to providing the men and women of our armed services the tools they need to protect our Nation.

First and foremost, I am encouraged that the committee has supported the President’s shipbuilding budget that will provide the Navy with an additional 116 ships. As chairman of the Seapower Subcommittee, I have been concerned for many years about the downward trend in naval shipbuilding that was moving us inexorably towards a 250-ship Navy or less. The administration’s proposal to maintain the current near-350-ship Navy in fiscal year 2004 and a total of 52 new Navy ships through fiscal year 2009. While this results in an average build rate of 8.6 ships, almost at the 8.9 ships per year necessary to maintain a 310-ship Navy, this average is skewed by the 14 ships the Navy says it intends to build in fiscal year 2009. Fourteen ships is twice the number of ships we have in the bill for fiscal year 2004.

Indeed, if we just look at the proposed shipbuilding plan for the next 5 years, from fiscal year 2004 to fiscal year 2009, there are only 38 ships in the plan, an average of 7.6 ships per year. This is an improvement but still results in the inability to maintain a 310-ship Navy, much less the 375-ship Navy the current Chief of Naval Operations has said is required to support his Sea Power 21 vision.

We can’t afford to risk this essential component of our worldwide defense posture—our carriers and missile-carrying cruisers and destroyers. They are our major surface combatants. They provide air defense, launch Tomahawk missiles to strike the enemy, interdict opposing naval forces—they truly are the backbone of the fleet. We must do everything we can to ensure that we maintain a strong and healthy shipbuilding base particularly with respect to major surface combatants, for it is only through healthy competition that fresh ideas and reduced costs can be achieved.

To maintain a 116-ship surface combatant force, given the projected service life of 35 years for DDG-51 Class ships, requires a sustained replacement rate of over three ships per year. If you assume a 30-year service life, which is more realistic historically, sustaining even the 116-ship surface combatant force would require annual procurement of almost 4 DDGs each year.

I believe it is in the vital national interest of America to procure a minimum of three major surface combatants a year, not just this year or next, but in every year. I am encouraged that this bill supports that level of procurement.

We must also look to the future and work to increase the warfighting capability and operating efficiency of these Aegis ships as the age of these ships increases. We must embark on a modernization program now to incorporate new technologies and systems that will allow us to operate these vessels more effectively with reduced manpower. This bill begins that process by authorizing $20 million for the design, nonrecurring engineering and installation planning of DDG-51 modernization and optimized maneuvering upgrades for incorporation on fiscal year 2005 new construction ships.

The bill also supports the President’s request for $158 million for the Littoral Combat Ship in the R&D accounts. However, just as the committee is, I am concerned about counting on an undeveloped ship concept to provide the 375-ship force structure called for by the Chief of Naval Operations and its concomitant impact on the major surface force. I support the bill’s call for a determination, through a cycle of analysis and experimentation, of the ship’s ability to deliver the expected capabilities.

Furthermore, the bill correctly identified the looming gap in attack submarines by noting that decommissioning the USS Jacksonville, rather than refueling her, would put the Navy below the QDR recommended attack submarine force structure. In fact, the Navy also recognized this gap and placed the refueling of the USS Jacksonville on the Navy’s Unfunded Program List to support near term submarine force structure. This bill authorizes $9 billion for the development and installation plan to increase the service life of the USS Jacksonville and this bill’s call for a determination, through a cycle of analysis, of the ship’s ability to deliver the expected capabilities.

Our proposal would grant the Secretary authority to conduct on-the-spot hiring for hard-to-fill positions; and third, the authority to raise collective bargaining flexibilities Congress granted to the Secretary of Homeland Security, but also additional authority to unilaterally waive many personnel regulations.

Of primary importance to the Department of Defense are the following three personnel flexibilities: First, the authority to replace the current General Schedule, 12-grade pay system with a performance-based pay system in which workers would no longer be automatically awarded the across-the-board pay increase; second, the authority to conduct on-the-spot hiring for hard-to-fill positions; and third, the authority to raise collective bargaining flexibilities Congress granted to the national level rather than negotiating with more than 1,000 local units.

Our proposal would grant the Secretary these authorities. It would provide the Secretary of Defense with the three pillars of his personnel proposal and would allow for a needed overhaul of an antiquated system. But we do not give the Secretary all he asked for; instead, we have attempted to strike the right balance between promoting a flexible system and protecting employee rights.

Over the past 3 weeks, Senator Voxxovich and I have repeatedly reached out to a wide variety of interested parties in an attempt to put together a bipartisan proposal. As of today, I believe we have considerable amount of headway toward forging a consensus.

For example, in certain areas, such as employee appeals, I am not prepared to support granting the Secretary the authority to immediately do away with the Merit System Protection Board in order to create an internal appeals process. Instead, my amendment allows for a gradual transition from the MSPB to a new appeals process. During the transition, the Department will consult with MSPB while it develops and tests a new appeals process.

I am also not prepared to grant the Secretary the authority to waive the collective bargaining rights of employees. Instead, my amendment places statutory deadlines of 180 days on the amount of time any one issue can be under consideration by one of the three components of the Federal Labor Relations Authority. This alone will make a significant difference in the timeliness of the bargaining process, and prevent the occasional case from dragging on for years.

The bottom line is, we believe that our amendment would give the Secretary the authorities he needs to manage and sustain a civilian workforce some 735,000 strong. Our amendment would grant the administration’s request for a new pay system, on-the-spot hiring authority, and collective bargaining at the national level, not individually with 1300 local union affiliates. In addition, our amendment would enable the Secretary to offer separation pay incentives for employees nearing retirement; to contract with private firms for services performed outside the United States in support of the Defense Department; to offer special pay rates for highly qualified experts like scientists, engineers and medical personnel; and to help mobilized civilian employees whose military pay is less than their Federal civilian pay.

The House Armed Services Committee has already included a personnel amendment in their own authorization bill that essentially re-enacts that provision. I was dismayed to learn that our amendment was not deemed “relevant” to the underlying legislation, and therefore shall not be made part of the Senate’s bill.

But I have worked hard to find a consensus approach, and I don’t intend to stop until this goal has been achieved. I believe that the House approach can be improved upon. This is why, on Friday, I plan to re-introduce this legislation as a stand-alone bill and hold a hearing on it the first week of June. Quite simply, I believe civil service personnel reform of this magnitude is too important an issue for the Senate to remain silent.

I urge my colleagues to work with Senator VOINOVICH and me as we continue our efforts on this very important issue. In addition, I would like to thank Senators WARNER and LEVIN for all the advice and input they have already provided. As ranking member of the Armed Services Committee, Senator LEVIN is a senior member of the Governmental Affairs Committee, which I chair. As such, he brings expertise to the process from both perspectives. I hope that the bill I introduce on Friday will enjoy his support and that of the chairman.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, today I will join my colleagues in voting to approve the 2004 Defense authorization bill. This legislation provides a significant increase to our defense budget, a total of $405.5 billion, $17.9 billion more than was authorized for this year. This is the largest defense budget in our Nation’s history, and, for the most part, it could not come at a more important time.

This bill is good for our armed services, and crucial for the security of our country. Above all else, it makes a substantial down payment on the Nation’s most important assets—our soldiers, sailors, airmen, and marines. It provides a 3.7 percent across-the-board pay raise for all men and women in uniform and introduces a new health care benefit to help those in the military with their families.

In addition, it funds important national security programs to curb the spread of weapons of mass destruction, with $450 million going towards the Nunn-Lugar Cooperative Threat Reduction program to safeguard nuclear stockpiles and fissile material within the former Soviet Union. It ramps up research and development accounts for counterterrorism technologies as well as for intelligence and Special Operations resources.

To respond to emerging threats to our country, these investments are crucial components of the Defense authorization bill. I am also especially pleased that the Senate accepted without dissent, my amendment to establish a $2 billion fund for awards to workers and communities in hiring firefighters. As we saw so vividly on September 11, our firefighters play an integral part in responding to and protecting our people from terrorist attacks. No homeland security strategy can ignore the crucial role that firefighters play in keeping our Nation safe. My amendment, which was approved by the Senate, authorizes the Department of Homeland Security to invest over $3 billion over the next 3 years in partnership with States and local governments to hire firefighters so that communities are better prepared to respond to potential acts of terrorism.

As this amendment underscores, our Nation is securing military and special operations resources. And the underlying bill supports a number of military initiatives that are particularly supported by the State of Connecticut. Since the days of the Revolutionary War, Connecticut has rightly taken pride in its disproportionately large role in contributing to the U.S. arsenal, earning it the nickname the “Provision State.”

The 2004 Defense authorization bill continues this strong tradition, greatly increasing the Nation’s armed services and provisioning advanced technology from Connecticut. The projects funded in this bill from Army helicopters and Air Force fighters to new advances in submarine technology, will allow America’s military to prosecute its war on terror from every corner of the globe. Included in this bill is $1 billion to fund the procurement of 36 additional UH-60 Blackhawk helicopters, manufactured by one of my State’s leading manufacturers, Sikorsky. The Sikorsky Corporation manufactures the Blackhawk, they built themselves into a household name by repeatedly in combat on air assault and medical evacuation missions, as well as in peacekeeping missions providing important cargo and personnel transport.

This bill also authorizes our force’s next-generation fighter aircraft, the F/A-22 and Joint Strike Fighter, which will be outfitted with the finest engines in the world, developed at Pratt and Whitney. Procurement of these planes will maintain U.S. air superiority—equipping pilots with unprecedented speed, stealth, and advanced munitions, and transforming the Nation’s military into a 21st century force.

I believe these investments will save lives in both the near and long term, and they will strengthen the military industrial base that is so crucial to the long-term viability of our military. I am pleased that this authorization bill strengthens the Secretary of Defense’s initiative to transform the military and respond to terrorist threats to our Nation. But I would be remiss if I did not enter into this record the serious reservations I have with this bill.

In particular, I am deeply concerned about the steps that are being taken toward developing new tactical nuclear weapons. Despite the good-faith efforts of some of my colleagues, this Chamber failed to act as a check on an Executive bent on rolling back decades of strategic arms control and nonproliferation policies. At the President’s recommendation, this bill repeals the 1993 Spratt-Furse provision that barred the Government from developing low-yield nuclear weapons. It also funds the study of a high-yield bomb-busting nuclear penetrator. Both weapons are part of the administration’s long-term plan to field tactical nuclear weapons in war, as outlined in the 2001 Nuclear Posture Review.

The defenders of these provisions believe that such weaponry will enhance security by enabling the United States to devastate terrorist targets in a more contained environment. They claim that the U.S. use of nuclear weapons during a war will not set an egregious precedent for other nations to begin fielding their own tactical nuclear arsenal. And they claim that by lifting the ban simply on research, we are not opening a new chapter of the nuclear era.

They are dead wrong. And I am gravely disturbed by this shift in U.S. nonproliferation policy. In 2000, the United States joined Permanent U.N. Security Council members in a declaration of an “unequivocal commitment to the ultimate goals of a complete elimination of nuclear weapons and a treaty on general and complete disarmament under strict and effective international control.’’

This declaration was not made on a whim. This was the culmination of decades of diplomacy that has led to worldwide movement in arms control. But today, with this legislation, we are taking a considerable step away from the goal stated at the 2000 Non-Proliferation Treaty Conference. While we insist that others disarm and cease their development of weapons of mass destruction, we are initiating plans to use new atomic weapons on the battlefield.

As our Armed Forces hone their conventional abilities to surgically strike with increasingly explosive force, it seems peculiar that the United States would now take steps backwards, and devote precious resources to expanding our nuclear arsenal. Our most recent operations in Afghanistan and Iraq have shown that the United States far exceeds any other nation in its ability to strike with nonnuclear weapons anywhere in the world with great precision, and minimal collateral damage. Rather than capitalizing on these successes in war, the administration’s tactical nuclear policy, would actually leave the Nation less secure, and undercut our government’s 50-year attempts at averting nuclear war.

But I don’t call, in spite of these provisions, I believe that this bill’s passage is critical to sustaining our national security. Although major combat operations have ended in Afghanistan and Iraq, our military continues to be engaged in low-intensity conflict in this highly unstable region of the world. Our Armed Forces—both Active Duty and Reserve—stand ready to complete their missions in this Nation’s ongoing campaign against terror, to stabilize the region and win the peace.

To do this, they will need the resources provided in this bill. For that reason, I have supported this legislation, and hope that the House and Senate Conferences move quickly toward a final version, so that this Congress will swiftly approve necessary authorizations for America’s men and women in uniform.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I rise today to strongly support S. 1059, the fiscal year 2004 Defense Authorization bill. This legislation funds $400.5 billion for defense programs, which is 3.2 percent or $17.9 billion above the amount appropriated by Congress last year. The Defense Authorization bill would authorize appropriations to purchase new weapons systems and funds research and development for new weapons systems, funds operations and maintenance for the services, provides pay and quality of life improvements for service members and funds military construction projects at military bases.

A number of provisions in this bill go a long way to ensure our service members get the benefits they deserve. I am pleased the Senate included a provision which I offered as an amendment that was adopted by the committee that would eliminate the remaining so-called ‘pay comparability gap‘ between military pay and civilian pay. This amendment would close the gap between military pay raises after 2006 with increases in the Employment Cost Index (ECI). As a former ranking member and long-time member on the Personnel Subcommittee, I am pleased to now have the leadership of our Armed Forces. Our Armed Forces—both Active Duty and Reserve—have demonstrated that the United States far exceeds any other nation in its ability to strike with nonnuclear weapons anywhere in the world with great precision, and minimal collateral damage. Rather than capitalizing on the United States increased pay raises have lagged a cumulative 6.4 percent behind private sector wage growth—although recent efforts by Congress have reduced the gap significantly from its peak of 13.5 percent in 1998 and 1999. Our efforts in 1999 increased pay raises, reformed the pay tables, took 12,000 servicemembers off of food stamps, and established a military Thrift Savings Plan.

A key principal of the all volunteer force (AVF) is that military pay raises must match private sector pay growth, as measured by ECI. The Senate’s action in this area will send a strong message of support to our servicemen and women and their families that will continue to promote high morale, better quality-of-life, and ultimately a more ready military force.

For the past 12 years, I have offered legislation on concurrent receipt. This bill makes permanent the pay raises and benefits to many of our country’s military retirees, because it would reverse existing, unfair regulations that strip retirement pay from military retirees who are also disabled, and costs them any realistic opportunity for post-service earnings. Last year, I was pleased that the committee, for the first time, included an authorization to begin to address a longstanding inequity in the compensation of military retirees’ pay over previous and past years.

I am disappointed that Senator HARRY REID was unable to offer his amendment on concurrent receipt, because the amendment was not ruled relevant under an unanimous consent agreement that was passed by the leadership of the Senate. We must do more to restore retirement pay for those military retirees who are disabled. I have stated this before, and I am compelled to reiterate now—retirement pay and disability pay are distinct benefits that are for service rendered through 20 years of military service. Disability pay is for physical or mental pain or suffering that occurs during and as a result of military service. In this case, members with decades of military service receive the same compensation as similarly disabled members who served only a few years; this practice fails to recognize their extended and more demanding careers and sacrifice to our country. This is patently unfair, and I will continue to work diligently with the committee to correct this inequity for all career military servicemembers who are disabled.

We have a military force that continues to rely more on the Reserve Components—men and women in the National Guard and Reserves—to go to war and to perform other critical military tasks abroad and at home. Many combat, combat support and other support missions are being carried out on the backs of our active and Reserve Component forces—soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines.

National Guard and Reserve servicemembers are performing many vital tasks: direct involvement in military operations to liberate Iraq in the air, on the ground, and on the sea; guarding nuclear power plants, our borders, and airports in the United States; providing support to the War on Terrorism through guarding, interrogating, and extending medical services to al-Qaida detainees; rebuilding schools in hurricane-stricken Honduras and fighting fires in our western states; performing civil affairs in Bougainville and augmenting aircraft carriers short on active duty sailors with critical skilled enlisted ratings during at-sea exercises, as well as during periods of deployment.

I believe that the civilian and uniformed leadership of our Armed Forces and the Congress must recognize this involvement, and, at a minimum, provide equal benefits for reserve component servicemembers when they put on the uniform and perform and attend drills or other critical training evolutions. Reservists, on duty, who resemble their active duty counterparts during training evolutions and are deployed at times around the world, should be treated equally when the administration and Congress provide for quality of life benefits.

I am pleased at the inclusion of language authorizing a Selective Re-enlistment Bonus (SRB) for National Guard and Reserve members when they are mobilized under a Presidential Select Reserve Call-up and they re-enlist during that period. National Guardmen and Reservists are prohibited from receiving SRB payments until they get off active duty or mobilization status, sometimes 1 or 2 years later.

The Senate has also authorized Survivor Benefit Plan, SBP, benefits to survivors of National Guard and Reserve service members who die while performing inactive duty training or weekend drills. This legislation provides equity with active duty servicemembers and is consistent with is in the underlying bill. Our intention is to make NATO work better by taking a close look at how some of its decision-making structures have recently evolved, for expressly political reasons, in ways that I believe have weakened NATO’s full members, can rectify in order to ensure that our Alliance remains strong.

Our amendment would require the Secretaries of Defense and State to assess whether certain new NATO military initiatives are within the jurisdiction of NATO’s Defense Planning Committee, which has historically overseen NATO’s core defense and security missions. The report would relate how NATO defense, military, security, and nuclear decisions traditionally made in the DPC came to be made in other bodies within NATO. It would discuss the extent of France’s contributions to each of NATO’s component committees, and specifically the degree of French involvement in military and security issues within the competence of the DPC, on which the French do not sit. The report would examine how NATO could make greater use of the DPC, by assuming its traditional role of managing NATO’s core defense mission and to otherwise streamline NATO decisionmaking to make NATO more effective. NATO is actively engaged in discussions on how to reform and improve NATO decisionmaking, and I strongly believe our amendment should play a useful role in animating that discussion.

In February, Turkey requested assistance from the Alliance to improve its defenses in the event of war with Iraq. Given Turkey’s status as a key member of NATO and the Alliance’s only front-line state with Iraq, Turkey’s routine request for defensive reinforcements under the terms of the NATO charter should not have been controversial in any way. Regrettably, France responded negatively, and the Alliance spent 3 weeks in crisis trying to overcome French objections. France’s position was initially supported by Germany, Luxembourg, and Belgium, but these nations ultimately sided with every other member of the Alliance, leaving the French isolated but refusing to relinquish their effective veto over a fundamental Alliance commitment to the defense of a member state. Ultimately, Turkey’s Article IV request for assistance was approved by the Defense Planning Committee (DPC), a component committee of NATO which does not include France. But the singular French obstructionism over the course of nearly a month caused the gravest crisis NATO has known in a generation and raised serious questions about whether NATO was going the way of the U.N. Security Council or, more ominously, the League of Nations.

In the wake of this debacle, a lifelong Atlanticist, my interest is in keeping NATO relevant and effective as it adapts its mission to the new threats we face today. Doing so will require a hard look at what works well within NATO, and what we can do to streamline decision-making processes to improve the effectiveness of the Alliance.

Our amendment would build on a reporting requirement related to NATO other such near-calamity within NATO that threatens the Alliance itself. Secretaries Wolfowitz and Feith have testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee that the DPC could be used more frequently for decision-making within NATO, thereby circumventing the French veto.

Since the mid-1990s, NATO’s North Atlantic Council has been the primary venue within the Alliance for decisions on security, but for most of NATO’s existence, the NAC was not preeminent. The Defense Planning Committee was created in 1963 and was co-equal to the NAC. The DPC was charged with NATO’s core defense and security business, including questions relating to Article Five, the mutual defense clause that is at the heart of NATO’s charter. In 1966, when France withdrew from NATO’s integrated military structure, the DPC assumed responsibility for the Alliance’s core defense business. This allowed the Alliance to continue to function effectively without France’s military involvement, and to avoid a French veto on matters relating to the core defense mission, in which France did not then and does not now participate.

The Defense Planning Committee was surprisingly active from its creation in 1963 until 1995. It became less prominent following the end of the Cold War because the use of NATO forces appeared less likely in Article Five scenarios and more probable in non-Article Five scenarios. The role of the DPC diminished when the North Atlantic Council rose to prominence in NATO peacekeeping scenarios, in the aftermath of the dismal failure of UNPROFOR in Bosnia. In the 1990s, looking for new roles, the NAC endorsed NATO peacekeeping missions in the Balkans.

The process of relying on the North Atlantic Council was also rooted in the futile effort to woo France back into full membership in NATO. Starting with the 1992 decision to support peacekeeping operations and the desire to involve France in NATO peacekeeping scenarios, the French veto was used more frequently for decision-making into the North Atlantic Council and other bodies in which they have a voice and a vote. Although France does not participate, or participates only selectively, in command and control decision processes in NATO defense planning, it has successfully transferred these issues to NATO committees on which it has a seat. France does not participate in 60 percent of NATO budget areas, but participates in 100 percent of the development of resource policy and contribution ceilings.

The upcoming issues for the June NATO Defense Ministerial are of a military and security nature. They include the Capabilities Initiative, the Command Structure Review, and the NATO Response Force. These are military and security issues within the core competence of the DFC. Our amendment is therefore not back-looking, but would anticipate possible reforms to improve NATO’s effectiveness in light of issues currently on the Alliance’s agenda.

France unilaterally withdrew from NATO’s military structure in 1966 at the height of the Cold War. France has since chosen to remain outside NATO’s military structure. If France wants to return to NATO’s military structure, NATO should discuss it, debate it on the merits and make a decision—among the 18 full members of NATO.

We need now is a better understanding of why NATO came to rely on the NAC, and what can be done to make NATO more effective. We need to understand how we can do to limit France’s ability to manipulate NATO, and oppose American foreign policy goals. The report required by our amendment should shed light on how to make our Alliance work as it should, in defense of the supreme national interests of the democracies it protects and nurtures.

I continue to be very concerned about the potential impact on bilateral trade relations with our allies of the domestic nature, for instance, of the so-called “buy America” restrictions enacted in the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 1996. I am extremely concerned that an amendment was proposed that would impose “buy America” restrictions on the Department of Defense. From a philosophical point of view, I oppose these types of protectionist policies. I believe free trade is an important element in improving relations among all nations and essential to economic growth. Moreover, from a practical point of view, “buy America” restrictions could seriously impair our ability to compete freely in the international markets and could also result in loss of existing business from long-standing trading partners.

Although I fully understand the need to maintain certain critical industrial base capabilities, I find no reason to support a “buy America” requirement for a product, like marine pumps, that is produced by no fewer than 25 U.S. companies. Furthermore, the additional costs, which are really issues of acquisition policy, not appropriations matters. During debate on this legislation, I offered a second degree amendment with the intention of striking the protectionist amendment proposed by one of my colleagues. I thank my colleagues who successfully supported my amendment that worked to protect not only our allies but the American taxpayer and most importantly our servicemen and women who completed the work. The added costs are improved balance of trade, and increased tax revenue. “Buy America” restrictions on procurement will hurt funding for readiness, personnel land equipment, and we have no doubt that they are really issues of acquisition policy, not appropriations matters.

In direct contrast to his own Air Force studies, he seems relentless in exaggerating aerial tanker shortfalls in order to win approval of his KC-767 leasing scam. I am pleased the committee has included language reducing the number allowed to be retired to 12, but I still feel the Air Force should be prohibited from retiring the requested number of tankersuntil the AOA is completed and the best way to replace these national assets. It is foolishly to begin retiring planes without a plan to replace them.

I am pleased the Senate included a provision that will save millions down the road. The Senate directs the Air Force to provide adequate funding for aviation depots for the purpose of correcting corrosion for the KC-135 aerial refueling fleet. The Armed Services Committee has heard testimony that program has received so little attention by the Air Force Secretary. Yet, in clear contrast to his own Air Force studies, he seems relentless in exaggerating aerial tanker shortfalls in order to win approval of his KC-767 leasing scam. Finally, these exports provide the same economic benefits to the U.S. as all other exports—higher paying jobs, improved balance of trade, and increased tax revenue. “Buy America” restrictions on procurement will hurt funding for readiness, personnel and equipment, and we have no doubt that they are really issues of acquisition policy, not appropriations matters. of life, and we were even able to greatly reduce the civilian casualties of Afghani and Iraqi citizens.

In order to understand the issues involved, it is necessary to recognize just how difficult it is to achieve the kind of readiness needed during Operation Iraqi Freedom and Enduring Freedom. Readiness is not solely a matter of funding operations and maintenance at the proper level. It is not only a matter of funding adequate numbers of high quality personnel, or of funding superior training, maintenance, strategic mobility and propositioning, high operating temps, realistic levels of training at every level of combat, or of logistics and support capabilities.

Readiness, in fact, is all of these things and more. A force belongs to go hollow the moment it loses its overall mix of combat capabilities in any one critical area. Our technology edge in Afghanistan and Iraq would have been meaningless if we did not have men and women who are trained to use best weapons systems platforms in the world would not have given us our victory if we had not had the right command and control facilities, maintenance capabilities, and munitions.

The fact is that we must participate in Operation Desert Storm, Kosovo and Serbia, and Operations Enduring Freedom and Iraqi Freedom, trained for their missions on military ranges here in the United States. Perhaps the premier range in the continental United States is the Barry M. Goldwater Range in Arizona. This nearly 8 million acre range comprises portions of the Sonoran desert and the Cabeza Prieta wilderness.

It is estimated that the military spends approximately $77 million a year on conservation efforts on the Barry M. Goldwater Range. There are nearly 80 employees dedicated to continued protection of the Goldwater Range. Theological biologists, ornithologists and other natural resources experts. In my view, the Air Force and the Marine Corps are very good stewards of this critical habitat.

Efforts are ongoing among environmental agencies, the Department of Defense, and the various land management agencies to further clarify and define the use and management of the Goldwater Range land and the airspace above it. While I applaud these efforts, I must affirmatively state my strong support for the military use of this land and associated airspace. Every service has approached me to convey their deep concern that the military maintain its ability to train in this one-of-a-kind training range.

The Barry M. Goldwater Range is one of the last open-space ranges available to our Armed Forces for realistic, integrated, joint training exercises. I am glad the Senate has included language to help ensure that this training “jewel” remains available to our military for training purposes.

I am very concerned with the trend in the services to curtail live fire opportunities in training. As weapon systems become more expensive and are manufactured in fewer quantities, we are creating a military force that often fires a weapon for the first time in combat. In the Navy, aviators used to fire one or two shots per year, but now seek annual training. The Air Force used to fire live ordnance annually, but now do so only once in five years. This was reduced to one missile each during a single tour of duty, and has now been further reduced to a single missile each during an entire career.

The Luke AFB Air Force Base (AFB) is home to the 56th Fighter Wing and 228 F-16, single engine, high performance aircraft. Luke AFB, similar to the situation at Nellis AFB, that the committee has previously addressed, has significant urban development encroachment issues that impact training at the base. Armed aircraft are no longer permitted to take off to the north of Luke AFB and over the past several years, there have been 16 serious aircraft accidents due to catastrophic engine failure. It is critical that the Southwestern departure corridor (SDC) remain compatible with armed aircraft weapons training, to preserve access to the Barry M. Goldwater Range (BMGR), to prevent land use or encroachments that affect activities at Luke AFB in the SDC and to increase the margin of safety associated with the Live Ordnance Departure Area (LODA) southwest of Luke AFB.

The Air Force identified an immediate requirement to purchase 234 acres around the munitions storage and is in the process of executing this purchase to correct the most serious safety deficiencies. Furthermore, other parcels have been identified to be purchased to protect surrounding communities from impeding upon explosive blast distance arcs and the danger of single-seat F-16 Falcon jets with live ordnance that overfly land areas in the Southern Departure Corridor headed to the BMGR.

A land compatibility use study is currently ongoing to identify potential additional real estate to be purchased in the Southern Departure corridor of the airfield overflight bygers's headed southwest to the BMGR. I am pleased the chairman of the Subcommittee on Readiness and Management Support included in the chairman's mark, $14.3 million as a modification to the Fiscal Year 2003 authorization to facilitate the quick acquisition of additional parcels around the munitions area and in the Southern Departure corridor once they are identified. The Air Force has identified significant encroachment problems hindering safe flight operations at Luke AFB. It must be protected.
the High Temperature Superconducting Alternating Current HRSAC Synchronous Motor. We have provided $60 million for Advanced Extra High Frequency Spare Parts. Also on the member adds list is $50 million for the Los Alamos National Lab.

The fiscal year 2004 defense authorization bill adds $60 million for Evolved Expendable Launch Vehicle (EELV). This project is one of the largest additions in the bill. This is in addition to the $699.3 million that was included in the President’s defense budget request.

With this funding the Air Force will provide a $699.3 million boost to defense companies Boeing and Lockheed Martin to keep both companies in the rocket-launch business, easing the impact of a steep falloff in commercial orders for such services in the commercial-satellite market, where orders have all but dried up.

Consolidated Undersea Situational Awareness Capabilities

Add List which I ask unanimous consent to be printed in the record.

I will continue to fight for additional support of increases to the Department of Defense budget. I also will continue to examine with a keen eye all congressional marks that take money away from needed military programs and instead buy political support through favoritism in awarding contracts. In addition, I will persist in placing the men and women who fight for our flag and country at the top of my priority list where they belong; we owe them our gratitude, respect, and unwavering support. They keep us free.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I would like to indicate to my distinguished colleague we are prepared to move to third reading.

Mr. LEVIN. That is my understanding. I don’t know of any other matter that needs to be resolved.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum. I don’t want you to lose the floor, but if I had the floor I would suggest the absence of a quorum.

Mr. WARNER. If that is your wish, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I wish to make a brief speech on the bill. Are we under a time limit?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. We are not.

Mr. BYRD. I thank the Chair. Mr. President, just weeks ago, our Armed Forces once again demonstrated—demonstrated—the overwhelming might of the United States military. Due to the sustained commitment of our country to invest a substantial proportion of our national wealth into our national defense, our military is faster, more agile, more lethal, better equipped, better protected, and better compensated than any other in the world.

Make no doubt about it, the sums that we invest in defense are enormous. According to the most recent CIA World Factbook, the world spent about three-quarters of a trillion dollars on arms in 2003, the highest for which statistics are available. That same year, the United States spent $292 billion on its military that is nearly 40 percent of all military spending on Earth. Our country spends more on defense than all the other 18 members of NATO, plus China, plus Russia, and plus the six remaining rogue states combined.

Yet our defense budget continues to increase. This bill authorizes $400 billion for our national defense in the next year.

In an age when we talk about smart bombs, smart missiles, and smart soldiers, any talk of smart budgets has gone out the window.

It is not so long ago that Secretary Rumsfeld conducted an extensive series of top-to-bottom reviews of the Defense Department. I supported him in those exercises, and said so, as did many other Members of Congress. Those reviews were supposed to eliminate obsolete systems, field new ones, and cut the fat at the Pentagon, all for the purpose of getting more bang for our defense buck.

I understand that a huge bureaucracy like the Defense Department cannot turn on a dime. But any hopes of containing military spending increases while preparing our forces for the 21st century seem to be a distant memory. Two years into what was supposed to be a major overhaul, the Pentagon’s budget has grown by 24 percent, not counting any of the billions of dollars that we have spent on the war on terrorism and the war in Iraq. Our defense budget seems more the same than ever: not more bang for the buck, just more bucks.

The administration has charted a course now to increase defense budgets to $502.7 billion within the next 5 years. At the same time, Congress has passed one tax cut of $1.35 trillion, and the Senate is headed at flank speed to pass another $350 billion in tax cuts before this week is over. Budget deficits are soaring—soaring—out of control, while our economy is in the doldrums. Instead of proceeding with an earnest effort toward that goal, we are sending our country even deeper into debt a debt that will have to be borne by yet another generation of Americans who will be expected to pay for our defense largess.

Let there be no doubt that we can and must provide first-rate fighting capability for our troops. But we can do so without committing to defense budgets that are set to spiral ever, ever, ever higher. We cannot afford to seriously propose to give our troops second-rate equipment or to cut their pay and benefits. The size of our defense budget is not a good measure of our support for our troops.

We have plenty of headroom in which to maintain our overwhelming military superiority without bowing to every request by the powerful defense industry for more and more and more money for more and more and more programs that are overbudget and behind schedule. Proprying up unproven weapons systems through infusions of taxpayer cash is the surest means to short change our men and women in uniform.

There remains much to be done regarding the business practices at the Pentagon. Secretary Rumsfeld has made a commitment toward improving DOD’s financial management and accounting systems, and he appears to be making a very good start toward that end, but progress is painfully slow. Untangling the mess of unreliable accounting entries will take years to solve. The bottom line is that the Pentagon still has no way—none—no way of knowing how much it spends, how much it knows about its real budgetary needs are. It makes little sense to keep piling more money on a Department that does not know how it spent last year’s funds.

The DOD proposed a transformation package said to be able to make the Department more efficient. “Flexibilities”—and I use that word in quotation marks—“flexibilities” are held up as the cure-all to what ails the Pentagon’s management. The answer to problems like the Pentagon’s accounting system clearly is not more flexibility—what is needed is more accountability. Accountability within the Department, accountability to Congress, while our Constitution and accountability to the American people.

It is a good sign that this bill does not include most of the “flexibilities” requested by the Department of Defense. Senator WARNER and Senator LEVIN acted wisely in crafting a bill that upholds the prerogatives of Congress in this respect.

Now, we owe a great debt of gratitude to both of these managers, Senator WARNER and Senator LEVIN, because they went against the grain when they opposed those “flexibilities” and when they took them out. It is a good sign that this bill does not include most of the “flexibilities” requested by the Department of Defense.

But we remain on the wrong track when it comes to defense spending. Instead of truth in budgeting, Congress cannot even get a straight answer about how much it will cost to occupy Iraq. Congress cannot even get a straight answer as to what it would cost to wage the war in Iraq. And Congress still cannot get a straight answer about the costs of reconstructing Iraq or how long we will be there. Instead of cost control for our military and skipping a generation of weapons, defense spending is through the roof while our Government is swimming in red ink.

Instead of holding the Pentagon accountable for what it spends, we are kept busy fighting off legislative proposals that would reduce oversight of the Department of Defense.

Here again, I compliment Senator WARNER and Senator LEVIN. They put their hand to the plow on the issues that are of vital importance to the American people.

We are living in a time when the greatest threat to our national security is the threat of asymmetrical warfare. We learned that on September 11, 2001. We are in no danger of being out-matched militarily by any nation on Earth, but as the current orange alert status reminds us, we remain vulnerable to the very real threat of terrorists. Yet our Department of Defense is on a track to be the instrument—get this—to be the instrument of a doctrine of preemptive attacks: Ready and willing to invade and take over sovereign states that may not even pose a direct threat to our security. The name “Department of Defense” is increasingly a misnomer for a bureaucracy that is poised to undertake conquests at the drop of a hat.

Senator WARNER and Senator LEVIN have done an excellent job of managing this bill and of stripping some of the most egregious provisions from the President’s request.
I have been on the Armed Services Committee a good many years. I first came to the Armed Services Committee when the late Senator Richard Russell, who stood at this desk and who sat in this chair, was chairman of that great committee. I have been a supporter of national defense. I supported the war in Vietnam until most everyone else had left the field. I held up President Nixon’s hand when others on my side and the then majority leader—God rest his soul—were opposed to an amendment that I offered. Senator Byrd will recall that which said in essence that if the President sends our boys, our young men—young men for the most part at that time—to Vietnam, then the President has a responsibility to protect those men to the best of his ability and to enable them to return home safely. I lost on the amendment. I received a call from Camp David from the late President Nixon complimenting me on that amendment.

I do not sit back seat to anyone when it comes to national defense, but I think we are going too far. I commend Senator Warner and I commend Senator Levin for their hard work, but I believe this bill is still too costly and steers our Nation in exactly the wrong course for the future. I hope they will not think that I in any way am criticizing them or the other members of my Armed Services Committee. I believe it is time to just say no to Pentagon exceso. I believe it is time to force the Defense Department to work smarter and waste less. I believe it is time to demand accountability for our enormous investment in defense.

For these reasons I will vote against this bill.

We will revisit this subject in the Defense Appropriations Committee and the Appropriations Committee as a whole, votes on Defense appropriations bill. But we will meet that challenge when it comes. I thank both the managers for their patience and for their good work.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia.

Mr. Warner. Mr. President, our distinguished colleague, former majority leader of the Senate, has been on the Armed Services Committee for 25 years, the quarter of a century Mr. Levin and I have been on there.

The Senator invoked the name of Richard Russell when I was Secretary of the Navy, I used to come up and testify before him. I don’t think anybody—maybe Senator Stevens—could match his skill. It was remarkable. Senator Tower, Senator Goldwater idolized him, of course, did. But I thank the Senator for his remarks about this Senator. I do respectfully disagree with some of his conclusions, but that is the nature of the magnificence of the Senate. We have argued and expressed to the people of this country our own views.

Mr. Levin. If the chairman will yield a minute, I join in thanking Senator Byrd. He has a unique role in this institution and in this Nation. He makes a huge contribution in ways sometimes which are visible but often in ways which are not visible and are not known. One of those ways has been on the Armed Services Committee with so many issues. The issues he pointed out where the so-called flexibility was being sought but was not incorporated in this bill is in significant measure a tribute to his strength in defending the role of the legislative branch. It is a reflection upon a heroic ally of him but what he has instituted in so many others as a role model in this institution for fighting for a branch of government which is truly coequal to the executive branch. We have sustained that in this bill.

While the Senator from West Virginia will be voting no for the reasons he gave, the fact that he noted and welcomed the effort we made to keep out the excess power and flexibility in the executive branch is very heart warming indeed. I thank him for it.

Mr. Byrd. Mr. President, I thank both the very distinguished managers of the bill. May I say once again, to the distinguished Senator and to his colleagues, the ranking member, you have indeed properly upheld the role of the Senate and the principle of the separation of powers when you insisted that those various requests for “flexibility” be dropped. I hope you will be able to maintain that position in conference.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia.

Mr. Warner. Mr. President, my colleague Senator Levin and I, at the concurrence of the distinguished leadership on both sides, are prepared to proceed to a third reading and final passage.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT AGREEMENT—EXECUTIVE CALENDAR.

Mr. Warner. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that following passage of S. 1050, the Senate proceed to executive session for the consideration of calendar No. 171, the nomination of Consuelo Maria Callahan to be U.S. Circuit Judge for the Ninth Circuit; further, there then be 10 minutes equally divided for debate on the nomination prior to the vote on the confirmation of the nomination, without interpellation, action or debate; further, I ask unanimous consent that following that vote, the President be immediately notified of the Senate’s action and the Senate then resume legislative session.

Mr. Reid. Reserving the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. Reid. Mr. President, would that be the 126th judge we have approved during the Bush years?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Regular order.

Mr. Warner. I am unable to give an answer to that, I said to my distinguished colleague, I am sure in the course of the colloquy preceding the vote on that jurist, that could be answered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. Warner. Mr. President, as we are proceeding, I first want to acknowledge my profound gratitude to my colleague and almost lifetime friend of 25 years in this Chamber, Senator Levin, for his support and that of his staff and indeed to my staff who, under the tutelage of Judy Ansley, have done a magnificent job, and for the support of our respective leaderships in making this bill pass, particularly the two whips, the Senator from Nevada and the Senator from Kentucky.

Mr. Levin. Mr. President, very briefly, let me thank Senator Warner, our chairman, for his usual courtesy, his indomitable spirit, and his willingness to try to find ways in which we can resolve differences. He has done a masterful job. We thought it was going to get done in record time. It probably didn’t end up quite that way, but not because of any failure on the part of our good friend from Virginia.

I thank Rick DeBobs and all the staff on this side, Judy Ansley and all the staff on the Republican side, all the members of our committee who contributed so much, as members of the committee, as chairmen and as ranking members of the subcommittee. I think we have produced a good bill.

Let me add my thanks to Senator Reid in particular. I want to single out Senator Reid, if I may. All the leaders help us, but I must say what a unique whip we have in Harry Reid. He really makes things happen around here which otherwise simply could not happen.

I want to take a moment to acknowledge and thank the minority staff members of the Committee and Armed Services for their extraordinary work on S. 1050, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004. To arrive at final passage of this important legislation requires hours and hundreds of hard won personal sacrifices. The committee and the Senate are so fortunate to have men and women of their expertise and dedication so ably assisting us on this bill. Rick DeBobs leads our minority staff of 15. Although small in numbers, they all make huge contributions to the work of the Committee each and every day. As a tribute to their professionalism, I thank Chris Cowart, Dan Cox, Madelyn Creeden, Mitch Crosswait, Rick DeBobes, Evelyn Farkas, Richard Fieldhouse, Creighton Greene, Jeremy Hekkhus, Maren Leed, Gary Leeling, Peter Levine, Arun Seraphin, Christy Still, Mary Louise Wagner, and Bridget Whalan.

Mr. Warner. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent, on behalf of the members of the Senate Armed Services Committee and indeed before the close of business tonight to file such statements as they wish relative to this bill.
Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I express my profound gratitude to the members of the committee and, most notably, the Presiding Officer. I ask that the bill be read the third time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

If not, the question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill. The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading and was read the third time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill having been read the third time, the question is, Shall the bill pass?

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays on passing of the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second. The clerk will call the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is a sufficient second. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. KERRY) is necessary absent.

I further announce that, if present and voting, the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. KERRY) would vote "yea".

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 98, nays 1, as follows:

ORDER OF BUSINESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I thank the two managers for their hard work and willingness to stay late into the evening in an effort that some said could not be done over the course of the last 3 days, but both managers said we were going to do it. I congratulate them for delivering on that commitment.

In a couple of moments, we will have an additional vote on a Ninth Circuit court judge.

Before doing that, the Democratic leader and I wanted to have a general understanding with our colleagues of where we are and where we will be going over the next couple of days, or next couple 12 hours, say, 18 hours. We will see how long it will be.

It is my understanding we will be receiving sometime in the next hour the conference report on the jobs and growth package. It will be filed shortly in the House. I don’t know exactly what time that will be. We just left there. Hopefully, it will be in the next hour or so. It is my hope we will be able to begin debate tonight, following the vote on the judge, on the jobs and growth package.

That is not all the business and I will comment on the other business.

Ideally, we would be able to vote sometime around 9:30 tomorrow, although we cannot say with certainty at this juncture.

If that were the case and we were able to complete that vote, we still have the debt limit extension to address, which is something that we have to, absolutely no question about it, deal with tomorrow. Everyone agrees with that, although I do understand there will be amendments from the other side of the aisle to allow discussion. Some of those amendments will be substantive and useful to discuss and debate and some, hopefully, will disappear, and we will talk about the issues at some point. I believe we are talking about eight amendments.

We will have to pass the debt ceiling extension tomorrow. How many amendments, we have not yet decided. We have to wait until tomorrow. I am not sure how long we need to talk on the debt ceiling, but if we had the vote on the jobs and growth package at 9:30 in the morning, I imagine there is a period we might be able to agree to tonight—or may not—at which time we start the amendment process and have a series of amendments, hopefully one after another. I would encourage that to be the case.

People have a lot of commitments tomorrow and tomorrow evening. We... want to do the business in a very deliberate way. That is a rough outline.

Let me turn to my distinguished colleague, Senator Daschle, to comment. Right now we are talking not unambiguously so but a general understanding of how the next day will play out.

Mr. Daschle. Mr. President, the majority leader and I have been discussing this now for the last several hours and he has described it accurately. Our hope is we can use this evening productively, knowing that a lot of people have schedules tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow evening they will want to keep.

While it would be difficult for us to agree at this point to begin the deliberative process on the conference report until we have actually had a chance to see it and review it, there is no reason why we cannot begin the debate.

We are suggesting that we informally begin the debate, have people address the issues if they want to be heard on the issues. If we can get a copy of a conference report in the next couple of hours, we may be in a position then to retroactively agree to the time already spent on the amendment with regard to the time certain on the conference report itself. That could be as early as tomorrow between 9:30 and 10.

It would then be our hope we could move to the debt limit. We are not sure yet how many amendments may be referred, but we will try to limit the amount of time on each amendment so we can accommodate the schedules, with the expectation that by early afternoon we could depart.

The majority leader has articulated this understanding accurately and we will work with him to see if we can accomplish this in the next few hours.

Mr. Frist. Mr. President, let me add, for tomorrow we do the jobs and growth package, we would take what time is necessary on the debt ceiling extension, and then we also have one other issue, which is unemployment insurance, which we will be addressing tomorrow. Again, all of this can be done in a very short period of time. These are not new issues. In each and every one of them, we know what the consequences are. They have been debated. The jobs and growth package we talked a lot about, although it is not exactly the same as now, but the issues we talked about and discussed.

On all three of these issues, we will finish them. We could finish them, actually, early afternoon tomorrow if we stay focused, and that will be my intent. I understand some people on the other side of the aisle may want to talk on the debt ceiling and possibly unemployment insurance as well.

I think if we work together in a collegial way, we will be able to complete all of this legislation. Again, it has been an ambitious schedule for the week, but based on what we have seen over the last 3 years, we are making progress as we go forward.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

NOMINATION OF CONSUELO MARIA CALLAHAN, OF CALIFORNIA, TO BE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT JUDGE FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will proceed to executive session to consider the following nomination, which the clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read the nomination of Consuelo Maria Callahan, of California, to be United States Circuit Judge for the Ninth Circuit.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, there are 10 minutes evenly divided prior to the vote on the nomination.

Who yields time?

Mr. LEAHY. Have the yeas and nays been ordered on this nomination?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. They have not.

Mr. LEAHY. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. Hatch. Mr. President, I express my enthusiastic support for the confirmation of Consuelo Callahan to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. Justice Callahan is an outstanding nominee with broad support on both sides of the aisle. She has the support of both of the distinguished senators from her home state of California, and she was unanimously approved by the Judiciary Committee the day after her hearing.

Justice Callahan received her undergraduate degree from Stanford University and her law degree from McGeorge School of Law. In 1976, she began her 10-year career as a Deputy District Attorney with the San Joaquin County District Attorney's Office where she specialized in the prosecution of child abuse and sexual assault cases. During her 10-year career as a prosecutor, she handled more than 50 jury trials.

Justice Callahan also has first-hand experience with breaking the gender barrier. In 1992, she was appointed to the Superior Court in San Joaquin County, where she was the first female and Hispanic to serve on that court. She was also the first female member of two local social and service organizations. In 1996, Justice Callahan became the first judge from San Joaquin County to be elevated to the California Court of Appeal in more than 73 years. In addition to her outstanding career as a prosecutor and a jurist, she has donated her time to organizations involved in addressing the problem of child abuse and sexual assault and has received an award for her work in this area. She has received other awards during her tenure, including the Governor's award for Criminal Justice Programs and the Susan B. Anthony award for Women of Achievement. In 1999, Justice Callahan was inducted into the San Joaquin County Mexican-American Hall of Fame.

The Committee has received numerous letters supporting Justice Callahan's nomination to the Ninth Circuit. The La Raza Unión of Sacramento described Justice Callahan's professional qualifications in the following way: "as a state appellate court justice, her opinions have been detailed, thoughtful and supportive of legal precedent. She possesses both the intellect and temperament to be an outstanding justice of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals."

The ten justices that serve with Justice Callahan on the Third Appellate District and work with her every day also sent a letter to the Committee praising her skills as a jurist. They write, "During her more than six years on our court, Connie has shown that she has the integrity, capacity, collegiality, and diligence to serve with distinction on the Ninth Circuit. Our only reservation in recommending her confirmation is that it will mean a significant loss to our court. We will miss Connie's energy and enthusiasm, her wit, her skills, and the positive way in which she fulfills her responsibilities as an appellate jurist."

Her colleagues' loss will be the federal judiciary's gain, as I have great confidence that the beleaguered Ninth Circuit will greatly benefit from her confirmation. I urge my colleagues to support this nomination.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, each of the Senators from California would like to speak.

Mrs. Feinstein. Mr. President, I rise in support of Justice Callahan to go from the California State appellate court to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. This woman was really born in Senator Boxer's and my backyard. She is a Bay area person. She was born in Palo Alto. She attended Stanford, graduated with honors, attended the University of the Pacific McGeorge Law School. She was the Deputy City Attorney and Deputy District Attorney. She founded the first child abuse unit in the DA's Office of San Joaquin County. In 1996 she was elevated to the State Court of Appeals from the Superior Court of San Joaquin County. She has served with distinction for the past 6 years, has extraordinarily strong support. I certainly believe, and I believe Senator Boxer concurs in this, that she is going to be an excellent judge of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. I am delighted to support her and to recommend her and to vote for her.

I yield the floor.

Mr. Boxer. Mr. President. I am very pleased to join with my colleague, Senator Feinstein, in support of this fine nominee.

To support Consuelo 'Connie' Callahan to be a judge for the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.

Judge Callahan is a native Californian, born in Palo Alto. She is a graduate of Stanford University and the McGeorge School of Law at the University of the Pacific.

She was the first female and the first Hispanic judge to sit on the San Joaquin County Superior Court. She currently serves on the Third District Court of Appeals located in Sacramento.

She has been a champion of protecting children. When she served as a prosecutor, she focused on major felony prosecutions in the area of child abuse. She has received public recognition for her work on this issue.

She also is a former board member and President of the San Joaquin County Child Abuse Prevention Center. I applaud her involvement in this very serious cause.

I am pleased to join with my colleague, Senator Feinstein, to support this nominee. In addition to having the support of both of her home-state senators, Judge Callahan received unanimous support from the Judiciary Committee.

I urge my colleagues to join us in supporting this well-qualified, mainstream nominee.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, today, we vote on the nomination of Judge Callahan to serve on the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. This is another judicial nominee of President Bush whom Senate Democrats have strongly supported and whose nomination we had expedited through the Judiciary Committee.

I thank the Democratic leader and assistant leader for supporting Judge Callahan’s nomination and working out this arrangement with the Republican leadership so that this consensus nomination can be considered without further delay. I appreciate that the majority leader has been willing to work with us to allow this nomination to go forward today.

I still do not know who on the Republican side delayed consideration of this consensus nominee. Just as Senate Democrats last month cleared the nomination of Judge Edward Prado to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit without delay, so, too, the nomination of Judge Callahan to the Ninth Circuit was cleared on the Democratic side promptly. All Democratic Senators serving on the Judiciary Committee voted to report her nomination favorably. All Democratic Senators serving on the Judiciary Committee voted to report her nomination favorably. All Democratic Senators serving on the Judiciary Committee voted to report her nomination favorably. All Democratic Senators serving on the Judiciary Committee voted to report her nomination favorably. All Democratic Senators serving on the Judiciary Committee voted to report her nomination favorably. All Democratic Senators serving on the Judiciary Committee voted to report her nomination favorably.

Unlike the divisive nomination of Carolyn Kuhl to the same court, both home-state Senators support the nomination of Judge Callahan and she is expected to be confirmed by an extraordinary majority—maybe unanimously. Rather than disregarding time-honored rules and Senate practices, I urged my friends on the other side of the aisle to help us expedite this judicial vacancy. The Republicans have moved more quickly by bringing those nominations that have bipartisan support, like Judge Callahan, to the front of the line for committee hearings and floor votes. I noted in a statement last week to make the point that the nomination of Judge Callahan to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals was cleared on the Democratic side.

We know who on the Republican side delayed consideration of the consensus nomination of Judge Prado for a month. I thank the Congressional Hispanic Caucus for its support of that nomination as well as for its support of Judge Callahan and for working with the Senate to bringing fair evaluation of these nominees and for adding their voice to the discussion of these lifetime appointments. It is most unfortunate that so many partisans in this administration and on the other side of the aisle insist on bogging down consensus matters and consensus nominees in order to focus exclusively on the most divisive and controversial of this President’s nominees in an effort to pack the courts. Democratic Senators have worked very hard to cooperate with this administration in order to fill judicial vacancies. What the other side seeks to obscure is our effort, our fairness, our ability to achieve without much help from the other side or the administration.

The fact is that when Democrats became the Senate majority in the summer of 2001, we inherited 110 judicial vacancies. Over the next 17 months, despite constant criticism from the administration, the Senate proceeded to confirm 100 of President Bush’s nominees, including several who were divisive and controversial, several who had mixed peer review ratings from the ABA and at least 1 who had been rated not qualified. Despite the additional 40 vacancies that arose, we reduced judicial vacancies to 60, a level below that termed “full employment” by Senator Harkin. At the beginning of this year, in spite of the Republican’s fixation on the President’s most controversial nominations, we have worked hard to reduce judicial vacancies even further. As of today, the number of judicial vacancies has been reduced to 45 and is the lowest it has been in 13 years. That is lower than at any time during the entire 8 years of the Clinton administration. We have already reduced judicial vacancies from 110 to 45. What is more, the vacancy rate from 12.8 percent to 5.2 percent, the lowest it has been in the last two decades. With some cooperation from the administration, think of the additional progress we could be making.

Earlier this month, we were able to obtain Senate consideration of the nomination of Judge Prado, and another distinguished Hispanic nominee, Judge Cecilia Altonaga, to be a Federal judge in Florida. We expedited consideration of the nomination of Judge Prado, and another distinguished Hispanic nominee, Judge Cecilia Altonaga, to be a Federal judge in Florida. We expedited consideration of the nomination of Judge Prado, and another distinguished Hispanic nominee, Judge Cecilia Altonaga, to be a Federal judge in Florida. We expedited consideration of the nomination of Judge Prado, and another distinguished Hispanic nominee, Judge Cecilia Altonaga, to be a Federal judge in Florida.

I thank the Democratic leader and assistant leader for supporting Judge Callahan’s nomination and working out this arrangement with the Republican leadership so that this consensus nominee at the request of Senator Feinstein, to support this nominee. In addition to having the endorsement of both of her home-state senators, Judge Callahan received unanimous support from the Judiciary Committee.

I urge my colleagues to join us in supporting this well-qualified, mainstream nominee.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, today, we vote on the nomination of Judge Callahan to serve on the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. This is another judicial nominee of President Bush whom Senate Democrats have strongly supported and whose nomination we had expedited through the Judiciary Committee.

I thank the Democratic leader and assistant leader for supporting Judge Callahan’s nomination and working out this arrangement with the Republican leadership so that this consensus nomination can be considered without further delay. I appreciate that the majority leader has been willing to work with us to allow this nomination to go forward today.

I still do not know who on the Republican side delayed consideration of this consensus nominee. Just as Senate Democrats last month cleared the nomination of Judge Edward Prado to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit without delay, so, too, the nomination of Judge Callahan to the Ninth Circuit was cleared on the Democratic side promptly. All Democratic Senators serving on the Judiciary Committee voted to report her nomination favorably. All Democratic Senators serving on the Judiciary Committee voted to report her nomination favorably. All Democratic Senators serving on the Judiciary Committee voted to report her nomination favorably. All Democratic Senators serving on the Judiciary Committee voted to report her nomination favorably. All Democratic Senators serving on the Judiciary Committee voted to report her nomination favorably.

Unlike the divisive nomination of Carolyn Kuhl to the same court, both home-state Senators support the nomination of Judge Callahan and she is expected to be confirmed by an extraordinary majority—maybe unanimously. Rather than disregarding time-honored rules and Senate practices, I urged my friends on the other side of the aisle to help us expedite this judicial vacancy. The Republicans have moved more quickly by bringing those nominations that have bipartisan support, like Judge Callahan, to the front of the Federal bench. Indeed, Democrats in the Senate have worked to expedite fair consideration of every Latino nominee this President has made to the Federal trial courts in addition to the nominations of Judge Prado and Judge Callahan.

As I have noted throughout the last 2 years, the Senate is able to move expeditiously when we have consensus nominees to consider. In a recent column, David Broder asked Alberto Gonzales if there was a lesson in Judge Prado’s easy approval, but that Mr. Gonzales missed the point. In Mr. Broder’s mind: “The lesson seems obvious. Conservatives can be confirmed for the courts when they are well known in their communities and a broad range of their constituents have reason to think them fair-minded. Judge Consuelo Callahan is another such nominee.

Under this confirmation, the Senate will have confirmed 126 judges, including 24 circuit court nominees, nominated by President Bush, 100 in the 17 months in which Democrats comprised the Senate majority. That is the highest number of less controversial nominees are considered and confirmed more easily was the lesson of the last 2 years, but that lesson has been lost on this White House and the current Senate leadership.

One hundred judicial nominees were confirmed when Democrats controlled the Senate for 17 months, and 26 have been confirmed in the other 12 months in which Republicans have controlled the confirmation process under President Bush. This total of 46 confirmed for President Bush is more confirmations than the Republicans allowed President Clinton in all of 1995, 1996 and 1997 the 3 full years of his last term. In those 3 years, the Republican Senate leadership in the Senate allowed only 111 judicial nominees to be confirmed, which included only 18 circuit court judges. We have already exceeded that total by 13 percent and the circuit court total by 33 percent before Memorial Day and with 7 months remaining to us this year.

Today’s confirmation makes the seventh court of appeals nominee confirmed by the Senate just this year. That meets the average annual achievement by Republican leadership from 1995 through the early part of 2001. The Republicans have now achieved as much in less than 5 months for President Bush as they used to achieve in a full year with President Clinton. They are moving two to three times faster for this President’s nominees, despite the fact that the current appellate court nominees are more controversial, divided and less widely supported than President Clinton’s appellate court nominees were.

Understand that if the Senate did not confirm another judicial nominee all year and simply adjourned today, we would have treated President Bush more fairly and would have acted on more of his judicial nominees than Republicans did for President Clinton in 1995 to 1997. In addition, the 45 vacancies on the Federal courts around the country are significantly lower than the 80 vacancies Republicans left at the end of 1997. Of course, the Senate is not adjourning for the year and Chairman Hatch told his colleagues that Bush judicial nominees at between two and four times as many as he did for President Clinton’s.

Unfortunately, far too many of this President’s nominees raise serious concerns about whether they will be fair judges to all parties on all issues. Those types of nominees should not be rushed through the process. I regret the administration’s refusal to work with us to end the impasse it has created in connection with the Estrada nomination. The partisan politics of division that the administration is practicing with respect to that nomination are not helpful and not respectful of the damage done to the Hispanic community by insisting on so divisive a nominee.

I invite the President to work with us and to nominate more mainstream individuals like Judge Prado and Judge Callahan with proven records and bipartisan support. In connection with the White House’s Republican delay before consideration of the nomination of Judge Prado, some suggested that Judge Prado had been delayed because Democratic Senators were likely to vote for him and therefore undermine the Republican’s shamless charge that opposition to Miguel Estrada is based on his ethnicity.

We all know that the White House could have cooperated with the Senate by producing Mr. Estrada’s work papers. This would have enabled the Senate to have voted on the Estrada nomination months ago. The request for his work papers was sent last May 15 and has been outstanding for more than a year. Rather than respond as every other administration has over the last 20 years and provide access to those papers, this White House has stonewalled. Rather than follow the policy of openness outlined by Attorney General Robert Jackson in the 1940s, this administration has stonewalled. And Republican Senators and other partisans could not wait to claim that the impasse created by the White House’s change in policy and practice with respect to nominations was somehow attributable to Democrats being anti-Hispanic. The charge would be laughable if it were not so calculated to do political damage and to divide the Hispanic community. That is what Republican partisans hope is the result.

The fact is that the Latino nominations that the Senate has received from this administration have been acted upon in an expeditious manner. They have overwhelmingly enjoyed bipartisan support. Under the Democratic-led Senate, swiftly granted hearings, President and eventually confirmed Judge Christina Armito of New Mexico, Judge Phillip Martinez and Randy Crane of Texas, Judge Jose Martinez of Florida, U.S. Magistrate Judge Alia Ludlum, and Judge Jose Linares of New Jersey to the district courts. This year, we also confirmed Judge James Otero of California, and we would have held his confirmation hearing last year if his ABA peer rating had been delivered us in time for the scheduling of our last hearing. As I have noted, we also have recently confirmed Judge Cecilia Altonaga and Judge Edward Prado with unanimous Democratic support.

Judge Callahan’s nomination was delayed on the Senate executive calendar unnecessarily in my view. I am pleased to see that at the urging of the Democratic leadership—the Republican majority has agreed to bring up this uncontroversial Latina nominee for a vote. I congratulate Judge Callahan and her family on her confirmation.

Mr. President, I thank both the majority leader and the distinguished Democratic leader for clearing this action. We have tried on this side of the aisle for some time to clear the nomination. I appreciate my friends on the Republican side lifting their hold. I support the nominee and yield back all time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time is yielded back. The question is, will the Senate advise and consent to the nomination of Consuelo Maria Callahan, of California, to be United States Circuit Judge for the Ninth Circuit? On this question, the yeas and nays have been ordered, and the Clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. KERRY) would vote ‘aye.’

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The roll was announced—yeas 99, nays 0, as follows:

ORDERS FOR FRIDAY, MAY 23, 2003

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it stand in adjournment until 8:30 a.m., Friday, May 23. I further ask that following the prayer and pledge, the morning hour be deemed expired, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day, and the Senate then resume consideration of the conference report to accompany H.R. 2, the jobs and economic growth bill, as provided under the previous agreement. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. FRIST. For the information of all Senators, tomorrow the Senate will resume debate on the conference report to accompany H.R. 2, the jobs and economic growth bill. Under the previous order, the Senate will vote on the adoption of the conference report tomorrow morning at 9:30. The 9:30 a.m. vote on the conference report will be the first vote tomorrow. Following the disposition of the conference report, the Senate will consider the debt limit extension legislation. Amendments to the measure are expected throughout the morning and therefore rolcall votes will occur throughout the afternoon. It is my hope that Members will show restraint in the number of amendments offered to the debt limit legislation, and we could thereby complete action on this necessary measure early tomorrow afternoon.

In addition, we will be considering in all likelihood the unemployment compensation initiative at some point tomorrow, most probably following the debt limit legislation.

I would alert Members at this time that tomorrow will be a very busy day, starting early in the morning with a number of rolcall votes expected throughout the day. I encourage Senators to make the necessary scheduling arrangements to accommodate the voting on these important issues.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 8:30 A.M. TOMORROW

Mr. FRIST. If there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in adjournment under the previous order.

There being no objection, the Senate, at 10:34 p.m., adjourned until Friday, May 23, 2003, 8:30 a.m.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will return to legislative session.

The Senator from Virginia.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUEST—S. 392

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I have been working with the distinguished Democratic Whip. There is a small matter that we wish to wrap up with a UC request.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that at a time to be determined by the majority leader, after consultation with the Democratic leader, but no later than June 27, the Senate proceed to a bill introduced by Senators Reid and Dorgan on the subject of concurrent receipts, the text of which is at the desk, S. 392. I further ask unanimous consent that no amendments be in order to the bill, and that there be 60 minutes equally divided for debate in the usual form. Finally, I ask unanimous consent that following the use or yielding back of that time, the bill be read a third time and the Senate proceed to a vote on passage of the bill, with no intervening action or debate. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. REID. Mr. President, we just got a call from the cloakroom, so I withdraw my UC request and yield to the Senator from Utah. He has one.

The Senator from Utah.
