

those playoffs were tough, and I would like to acknowledge the adversary and that is the New Jersey Nets, which put up a noble fight; but the better team did win for many, many reasons. It was not just athletic ability, though.

I think some of my colleagues have touched on what makes this team so special. It is about character, and when we talk about individuals like David Robinson, we understand what character is all about. It has been pointed out this is a Naval Academy graduate who put in his military obligation and finished that and then went on to his professional basketball career.

We also speak about Tim Duncan, and we have forgotten a very important chapter in Tim Duncan's life, and I think Members may have heard this story before, but these are role models. These are the kinds of models that we need to display and demonstrate to all of the youth in this country.

Tim Duncan had an opportunity to leave Wake Forest early. He did not have to get a degree, but his family instilled that kind of appreciation. His mother wanted him to graduate. As a result of a promise made to his mother, he remained at Wake Forest before he pursued his professional basketball career; and it has been an incredible time for not just Tim Duncan, but for all his fans.

This type of class, this type of character starts at the very top; and I have to say that you start with the owner, Mr. and Mrs. Holt. Next, look at the coach, Coach Popovich. Then look at the first string, but also at the bench; and this is a lesson to all of us. We cannot all be starters, but we can all make a contribution because this championship belongs to that entire team. Also the staff that supports the Spurs and the very special San Antonio fans second to none in the United States.

It was a class act, and one of skill and challenge. If you have character, I think you will always be a winner. In this instance they do have the ring. They are going to have the trophy, but I think they have something which is so much more important, and that is an accomplishment which is earned through character, skill, dedication, and commitment.

Mr. RODRIGUEZ. Mr. Speaker, as the mighty San Antonio Spurs entered the arena on game six of the NBA National Championship you could tell that it was going to be an amazing game. The crowd was on their feet chanting Go Spurs Go, non-stop, it was energizing. Every player from Tim Duncan to Kevin Willis had their game faces on. There was something in their look as if they knew what was going to happen, as if they had dreams of three point shots and death defying dunks the night before. They had hoop dreams.

The New Jersey Nets put up a great fight, but the Spurs' dominance of the fourth quarter seemed too much for even the Nets to overcome. After a 19 point scoring run, from a combination of aerial and ground attacks, the San Antonio Spurs defeated the Nets 88-77.

Similar to the likes of Jordan/Pippen, Bird/McHale, Magic/Jabbar. Tim Duncan and Dave

"the Admiral" Robinson proved to be an unstoppable force. With Duncan's field goals and amazing drives along with Robinson's dominance on the paint they helped lead the Spurs to their second championship season.

The 2003 NBA Finals MVP was Tim Duncan; he gave an amazing performance, scoring 20 points and 20 rebounds, 10 assists and 8 blocked shots. Robinson scored 13 points and 17 rebounds in the final game of his amazing Spurs career.

This propelled the Spurs to their second championship win in less than 5 years.

It is my pleasure to congratulate the San Antonio Spurs on a great season and a great championship. This is not only a great day for San Antonio and San Antonians, but for all of Texas. Great job Spurs. Go Spurs go.

Mr. GONZALEZ. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. FRANKS of Arizona). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

TRIBUTE TO LARRY DOBY

(Mr. PASCRELL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PASCRELL. Mr. Speaker, I have some sad news this morning. A great American passed last evening. Larry Doby, 79 years of age, broke the color barrier in the American League and became a Hall of Famer, but he was a Hall of Famer in his life.

He said when inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1998, "Kids are our future, and we hope baseball has given them some idea of what it is to live together and how we can get along, whether you be black or white."

He was a great American. He lost his wife, Helyn, just 2 years ago. Larry lived a very productive life in my hometown of Paterson, New Jersey, and lived in Montclair, which is part of my district as well.

Mr. Speaker, if I can read from the resolution, a tribute to him back in 1997, which was entered into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, "Despite his great accomplishments, Larry Doby has remained modest and endearing and a true gentleman. Mr. Doby always gives thanks to God for giving him the talent to help integrate baseball and American society and to Mr. Veck for giving him the opportunity to use that talent and to his wife Helyn for holding together their family while he was away."

I ask that my colleagues join in a resolution which I will be introducing. We have lost a good American.

[From the Record, June 19, 2003]

LARRY DOBY, HALL OF FAMER, DIES

Hall of Famer Larry Doby, who grew up in Paterson and became the first black player in the American League, died Wednesday night after long illness at his home in Montclair, his son, Larry Doby Jr. said. Doby was 79.

Doby was a seven-time All-Star in a 13-year career, almost all of it spent in the outfield for the Cleveland Indians. He helped lead the Indians to their last World Series title in 1948.

On July 5, 1947—just 11 weeks after Jackie Robinson broke baseball's color barrier—Doby joined the Indians.

Although he hit .283 with 253 home runs and 969 RBI in a big-league career that lasted through 1959, his locker room reception that first day was chilly. Some teammates would not even shake his hand.

"Very tough", Doby once recalled. "I'd never faced any circumstances like that. Teammates were lined up and some would greet you and some wouldn't. You could deal with it, but it was hard."

Doby ended his major league career in 1959 with the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox. In 1978, he took over as manager of the White Sox, becoming only the second black to manage a major league team (following Frank Robinson).

Although Doby was voted into the Hall of Fame by the veterans committee in 1998, he always had commanded respect throughout the community.

He was a standout athlete at Eastside High School and starred with the Newark Eagles of the Negro Leagues for four seasons. Doby never forgot his roots and always gave his time to others. In the late 70's he was named director of community relations of the NBA's Nets and got involved in a number of inner-city youth programs.

Last year, then Paterson Mayor Marty Barnes unveiled a lifesize bronze statue of Doby at a rededication of Larry Doby Field at Eastside Park.

"You have done more for Paterson...than Paterson has done for you," Barnes said at the time. "What we are hoping is that we could try to catch up and give you all the accolade that you deserve.

Earlier this year, the Yogi Berra Museum announced it would be constructing a Larry Doby wing to house an exhibit of Negro League memorabilia.

"Larry Doby could do everything hit, run, field and throw," Berra said.

Doby and his wife, Helyn, had five children. She died of cancer in 2001.

"Larry and I were very good friends," Indians' teammate Bob Feller said Wednesday.

"He was a great guy, a great center fielder and a great teammate. He helped us win the pennant in 1948 and three World Series. My thoughts go out to his family," he said.

Feller remembered some of the difficulties Doby faced when he entered the league.

"It was tough on him," Feller said. "Larry was very sensitive more so than [Jackie] Robinson or Satchel Paige or Luke Easter or some of the other players who came over from the Negro Leagues. He was completely different from Jackie as a player. He was aggressive, but not like Jackie was."

While Robinson's ascension to the majors was widely recognized, Doby received relatively scant attention.

In his first decade with the Indians, Doby was kept apart from his teammates—eating in separate restaurants, sleeping in separate hotels—even during spring training. From players and fans, he was the frequent target of racial taunts.

Despite provocation, Doby kept his temper, heeding Bill Veeck's advice when the Indians' owner bought Doby's contract from the Newark.

Doby was a 22-year-old second baseman when the Indians signed him. Two seasons later, as the team's starting center fielder, he helped Cleveland win the World Series, hitting a home run in Game 4.

Doby played in six straight All-Star Games. In 1949, he, Robinson, Roy Campanella and Don Newcombe became baseball's first black All-Stars.

In 1943, Doby recorded another first—he became the first black to play in the American Basketball League, a forerunner of the NBA, as a member of the Paterson Panthers.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 7, 2003, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members will be recognized for 5 minutes each.

DISASTROUS U.S. TRADE POLICY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, well, congratulations are in order for the Bush administration. They have set yet another record, something to be proud or at least something that their political campaign contributors can be proud of, which is the trade policy of the United States which is a disaster for working Americans and the industrial infrastructure of this country, but immensely profitable for many multinational corporations based in the United States who are generous campaign contributors.

The trade deficit for the first 3 months of 2003 was a new record: $136.1 billion. If we keep that pace up, we will break last year's trade deficit of $435 billion, and reach a $550 billion trade deficit. That means we are losing $1.5 billion a day in U.S. wealth to overseas. $1 million per minute.

Mr. Speaker, 53,000 manufacturing jobs alone were lost in May of this year, hollowing out the manufacturing base of the United States of America, formally the greatest industrial Nation on Earth. There have been 251,000 lost this year and 34 consecutive months of decline in the manufacturing workforce. These are all record accomplishments of the Bush administration.

They told us if they weakened the dollar, this would all get better. Well, the dollar has plummeted, hurting the purchasing power of all Americans, yet the trade deficit is continuing to grow longer. How can that be? The economists scratch their heads. The theory says your currency goes down, your trade deficit goes. But if you do not manufacture things any more, if you do not export goods, which the United States does precious little of, then it does not matter what the value of the currency is because you are buying overseas.

In fact, if your currency goes down, your trade deficit goes up, which is exactly what happened because you are buying all the manufactured goods overseas. Besides that, the Chinese have illegally under the WTO, which I am not a supporter of, but the U.S. is a signatory to, as is China, and the U.S. fought to get them in, has fixed their currency to the U.S. currency. So no matter how low our dollar goes, we are still going to run record trade deficits with the Chinese who now are the largest holders of U.S. debt overseas.

We are not only enthralled to the Chinese for their manufacturing, they can basically threaten the United States if the United States ever decided to get tough with a lot of the bad things they do over there with the 300-plus billion dollars of our currency that they hold because of the growing trade deficit. This is a looming disaster for this country.

If we look at the record deficit we are setting domestically, again another record for the Bush administration, over a $500 billion deficit this year and the trade deficit, the United States of America is going to have to borrow over $1 trillion this year to finance a failed trade policy and a failed domestic financial policy. Borrow over $1 trillion. A lot of that money is going to come from overseas. It does not come for free, let me tell you that. A good deal of that money is going to come from what was supposed to be the Social Security lock box which has been busted open and spent and is being spent on current consumption, particularly to finance tax cuts for the wealthy.

For instance, yesterday's vote to permanently repeal any estate tax on estates over $6 million, four-tenths of 1 percent of estates in the United States of America, supposedly small family farms, small businesses and small tree and wood lot folks with over $6 million in assets. I tell you what, $6 million is plenty of an exemption for small businesses. But, no, the Bush administration had to go whole hog and go for an exemption of all estates. That will cost another $60 billion a year, which we will borrow from Social Security, from working wage-earning Americans and send to the wealthy. They will, of course, replace the Social Security benefits for those folks. Ha.

So what is the good we see in this? Unfortunately, very little. Record trade deficit, failing trade policy. What has the Bush administration proposed? Tax cuts, tax cuts, tax cuts domestically to help the deficit and then on the international front, well, our trade policy is working so well with a $550 billion looming trade deficit this year, with the loss of 53,000 manufacturing jobs in May, 250,000 lost so far this year, they want to set a new record so they want more of the same. More so-called free trade agreements. They have got two that are already on the way up here to Capitol Hill that they expect will go through like that.

The wheels are greased because these are important people and this is such a successful policy. It is working so well for whom? Not for American workers, not for our industrial infrastructure, but for a few wealthy benefactors who control those companies.

Hopefully we can bring about and restore common sense here and recognize the fact that you cannot run huge and growing deficits forever. Even Alan Greenspan has recognized that. He says this policy is not sustainable.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. FRANKS of Arizona). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. BURTON of Indiana addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

EXCHANGE OF SPECIAL ORDER

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Indiana?
