Ashcroft's Machiavellian attacks on fundamental liberties under the pretext of combatting international terrorism are a betrayal of his oath to uphold the Constitution. President Bush should jerk Ashcroft's leash. Failing that, the judiciary committees of Congress should.

RECOGNIZING JOSÉ-LUIS OROZCO
FOR HIS COMMITMENT TO BILINGUAL EDUCATION

HON. ELLEN O. TAUSCHER

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 2, 2003

Mrs. TAUSCHER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to José-Luis Orozco, whose commitment to bilingual education is being honored by the National Hispanic Caucus and the National Association for Bilingual Education (NABE) in Washington D.C.

Throughout the last quarter century, José-Luis Orozco has established himself as one of the premier bilingual educators in the United States. His accomplishments and hard work as an author, songwriter, performer and recording artist in the field of bilingual education will be recognized and commemorated in our nation's capital today.

Born in Mexico City, José-Luis Orozco discovered his love of music at a young age under the influence of his paternal grandmother. At age 8, he joined the Mexico City Boys Choir, traveling to 32 countries where he gained the cultural knowledge he shares with children through his wonderful books and songs.

At age 19, Orozco immigrated to California where he gained a bachelors degree at the University of California, Berkeley and a Masters in Multicultural Education from the University of San Francisco.

Originally a teacher, José-Luis Orozco found his true passion in sharing with children the songs and rhymes he picked up on his world travels.

Over his more than 30 year career as an author, songwriter, performer and recording artist, José-Luis Orozco has shared his work with millions of children throughout the country. He has recorded 13 volumes of Lirica Infantil, Latin American children's music, and written two award winning books, Diez Deditos (Ten Little Fingers) and De Colores and other Latin American Folk Songs for Children. These works have become an essential teaching tool used in tens of thousands of multilingual classrooms across the country.

José-Luis Orozco's determination to enrich the lives of children has made him a true legend in multilingual education. The world will forever remember José-Luis Orozco as the educator who has and will continue to make learning fun for millions of children through the medium of music.

IN RECOGNITION OF NATIONAL FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

HON. MICHAEL N. CASTLE

OF DELAWARE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 2, 2003

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, it is with great sadness that I rise today to honor and pay tribute to a leader in the volunteer fire services community, Louis A. Rickards, of Lewes, Delaware. A tireless advocate, Mr. Rickards was a dedicated leader within the fire community. Tragically, on February 3, 2002, Louis Rickards passed away. This Sunday, October 5, 2003, Mr. Rickards' admirable life will be honored as part of the National Fallen Firefighters Memorial in Emmitsburg, Maryland.

Not surprisingly at the time of his death, Louis was on his way to a Delmarva Volunteer Fireman's Association Executive Meeting in Virginia, a lasting example of the dedication Louis gave to the firefighting community throughout his 39 years of service. His level of devotion to the community is exceptional among individuals, and his record of service is exemplary.

Louis began his career with the Lewes Volunteer Fire Company at age sixteen as a volunteer firefighter, then rising in the ranks to serve as Fire Chief for seven years, and as the Company's President for thirteen terms until his death in 2002. His passion for the fire services extended beyond the walls of the fire house, and he shared this with others as the primary author of a book published on the 100th year anniversary of the Lewes Volunteer Fire Company. Louis further demonstrated his commitment to public safety as a member of the Delaware State police, retiring after 25 years of service.

This Sunday, Louis Rickards' accomplishments, along with those of 104 additional fallen firefighters will be memorialized at the National Fallen Firefighters Memorial, and their names will be added to the roll of fallen heroes. His commitment to public service has earned him a place in our Nation's fire services' history, and he remains in our memories as an example for those who wish to dedicate their lives to the safety of others.

THANKING SUPPORTERS OF THE RAVENSWOOD LINE REHABILITATION

HON. RAHM EMANUEL

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 2, 2003

Mr. EMANUEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express my appreciation to the members of the Transportation Appropriations Committee for their leadership in support of the rehabilitation and expansion of Chicago's Ravenswood Elevated Line.

Built more than a century ago, the Ravenswood Line, known by Chicagoans as the "Brown Line," is one of the City's fabled elevated trains and serves as a vital link between the area that I'm proud to represent—the northwest side—and downtown. Along the way, it winds through some of Chicago's historic neighborhoods: Ravenswood, North Center, Wrigleyville, Lakeview, Lincoln Park, and of course, the Loop.

With more than 60,000 commuters each day, ridership has increased approximately 73 percent since 1979. In the past year alone, the number of riders has increased by 10 percent, the highest rate of growth anywhere in the Chicago Transit Authority's (CTA) rail transportation system.

Because of the Brown Line's age, it can only accommodate six-car trains, and not the eight-car trains used elsewhere on the CTA system. Thus, the Ravenswood Line is not able to handle the growing demand. In fact, it is not unusual for commuters to wait several full trains before being able to board a train in the morning rush hour. Clearly, the Brown Line renovation is necessary to keep pace with the rapidly growing demand for mass transit services in Chicago.

For these reasons, since arriving in Congress I have worked closely with the City of Chicago, CTA, and U.S. Department of Transportation to ensure that the Brown Line revitalization received the support it needed to continue. I was also pleased to appear before the Transportation Appropriations Subcommittee to discuss why expanding the line is so important to ensure the safety of Chicago commuters and to improve its efficiency.

I am pleased that both Committees agree that the Brown Line rehabilitation is a critically necessary and worthwhile project. It was included in the original Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (TEA-21), and I am hopeful that it will be included in the upcoming bill to reauthorize TEA-21. On behalf of Chicago's riders, I am deeply grateful that the members of the Appropriations Committee included this project in the Fiscal Year 2004 Transportation-Treasury Bill passed two weeks ago by this body. Because of this support, the Ravenswood Line rehabilitation project will be able to stay on schedule, benefiting my district, and indeed the entire City of Chicago.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to personally thank all the members who supported this project crucial to Illinois' Fifth Congressional District, particularly Speaker Hastert and Congressman Lipinski for their assistance, hard work and unyielding commitment to the project. Further, I look forward to working with them in support of this project as the bill moves into conference and onto the President's desk for signature.

REMEMBERING ARIE TAYLOR

HON. MARK UDALL

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 2, 2003

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, Colorado is poorer this week because of the death of Arie Taylor. As the Denver Post accurately stated in a recent editorial, Ms. Taylor—the first Africa-American woman to serve in our Legislature—was one of the truly great figures in Colorado politics. An outspoken champion of equality and opportunity, Ms. Taylor exemplified the tradition of collegiality that was once the hallmark of Colorado's political debates. A role model for many Coloradans, Ms. Taylor also should be an example of how we as legislators and public figures should conduct ourselves.

The complete editorial from the Denver Post follows:

ARIE TAYLOR 1927-2003, ROLE MODEL FOR ALL

Colorado politics lost one of its truly great figures with the death Saturday of Arie Taylor, the first African-American woman elected to the legislature.

Like many of Denver's African-Americans, Taylor moved to Colorado after serving in the military. The Ohio native served as a staff sergeant in the Women's Air Force from 1951 to 1955. Although she never had been stationed in Denver, she had heard favorable things about the city from an Air Force colleague and moved here in 1958. About two-thirds of her family eventually followed her from Cleveland.

Taylor, who studied at Miami University of Ohio and Case Western Reserve University, ran an accounting business for many years and also held jobs with the city.

A fervent champion of minority and women's rights, Taylor, 76, was beloved on both sides of the aisle.

A passionate warrior on behalf of causes in which she believed, Taylor was good humored and gregarious, and she genuinely enjoyed what she did.

Taylor represented House District 7 from 1972 until 1984 and won a reputation as an outspoken advocate for African-Americans, women, the poor, the elderly and other groups of people who were disadvantaged.

During the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago, she castigated Southern delegations for being all white and was described by a Chicago paper as a "large, fierce black woman."

Taylor never shied away from that description. Indeed, when U.S. Rep. Scott McInnis arrived at the Colorado Capitol after being elected to the state legislature two decades ago, his 2-year-old son said, "Papa, now there's a big, fat black woman" within Taylor's earshot. The mortified McInnis proceeded to lecture the boy.

Toward the end of the day, Taylor recounted the story to the chamber, and asked the speaker of the House for an official rebuke "against Rep. Scott McInnis," noting that "his son took one look at me and called me a big, fat black woman. . . . He shouldn't lecture his son for telling the truth. The fact is, I am a big, fat black woman."

It's worth noting that when Taylor served in the legislature, there was a collegiality among lawmakers that transcended party lines. People who fought over issues tooth and nail on the floor nonetheless were good friends in private life, a tradition that sadly seems to have been supplanted in recent years by a take-no-prisoners mentality more suited to professional wrestling than good government.

"She was involved in many controversies," recalled Omar Blair, the first black president of the Denver school board. "She was a role model for a lot of young people and even a few old people like myself."

Today, Coloradans of all colors have cause to mourn the loss of the businesswoman and lawmaker with the floppy hats and a heart bigger than the Great Plains.

INDEPENDENCE OF THE REPUBLIC OF CYPRUS

HON. SHELLEY BERKLEY

OF NEVADA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 2, 2003

Ms. BERKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to celebrate the 43rd anniversary of the Independence of the Republic of Cyprus.

After 80 years of British colonial rule, Cyprus became an independent Republic on October 1, 1960. Despite a history filled with disappointment and tragedy, the people of Cyprus remain committed to the core principles enshrined in their Constitution as well as the basic rights and freedoms for all people of Cyprus—Greek Cypriots, Turkish Cypriots and Cypriots from all ethnic and religious communities.

In recent years there have been significant advances in US-Cyprus relations and in relations between Cyprus and members of the European Union. Having signed the Accession Treaty to the European Union on April 16, 2003, Cyprus should be joining the EU in May of next year.

However, EU laws and financial benefits will apply only to the southern Greek Cypriot part of the island, which is the internationally recognized state. Unfortunately, the celebration of this historic event, as well as the anniversary of the independence of Cyprus, is clouded by the fact that 37 percent of the Republic's territory continues to be illegally occupied by Turkish military forces in violation of UN Security Council resolutions and international law.

The government of Cyprus is to be commended for its continued efforts to seek a peaceful solution to the nearly thirty-year-old Turkish occupation. I'm proud that the United States has repeatedly supported international efforts, including dozens of United Nations' resolutions, to resolve this dispute. The international community clearly is in agreement that reunification underlie any future settlement. A "two-state" solution that would make the division permanent would not only give credence to an illegal invasion and the forced displacement of over 200,000 Greek Cypriots, it would be inconsistent with Cyprus's history and constitution.

I'm proud to state that I am a cosponsor of H. Res. 320. This legislation supports the removal of Turkish occupation troops from the Republic of Cyprus and expresses strong support for the European Parliament to do the same.

Mr. Speaker, Cyprus is to be congratulated for its 43rd anniversary and for its relentless pursuit of peace. However, until reunification is complete, the people of Cyprus will be unable to truly celebrate their independence.

CONCURRENT RECEIPT

HON. CORRINE BROWN

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 2, 2003

Ms. CORRINE BROWN of Florida. Mr. Speaker Congress should fully fund concurrent receipt this session. It's the right thing to do. We owe it to the soldiers, airmen, sailors and marines, who have served as a source of great pride in our Nation, to fully fund the retirement that they have earned without penalizing them because they are also disabled. For every dollar given in disability pay, a dollar is taken out of retirement pay. That is wrong.

Time and time again, our veterans' needs are being ignored. Not only do America's veterans face this issue of concurrent receipt, but VA still needs $1.8 billion to bring the fiscal year 2004 appropriation to the level set forth by the Budget Resolution. Where are our priorities?

Right now, there are 140,000 Americans serving in Operation Iraqi Freedom. Now, more than ever, Congress needs to take action and fully fund concurrent receipt. We must promise this generation of servicemembers that they will be entitled to a full retirement for a career spent in the military. Today's soldier is tomorrow's veteran. We must show today's soldier that we will take care of him tomorrow.

Last year, the Bush Administration threatened to veto any bill that contained concurrent receipt. The Administration forced Congress to compromise and our veterans paid the cost. Conferees provided for a special compensation for 35,000 veterans who could prove that they had a combat-related disability that made them eligible for this special pay. Compensating just 35,000 veterans, out of over 500,000 veterans affected, is absolutely unacceptable! Now is the time for us to correct the national embarrassment caused by the care-less treatment of America's veterans.

Any proposal that leads one to believe that it is furthering last year's authorizing of special compensation, by limiting receipt of special compensation to injuries or illnesses incurred while undertaking official military duties only, is a sham! This plan would fundamentally alter eligibility requirements for disability compensation. A proposal such as this could also affect VA health care and vocational rehabilitation because these services are based on service-connected disability status. I urge Congress to reject any proposal that amends Title 38's definition of service-connection.

The Administration will argue that there is a cost barrier to fully funding concurrent receipt. This argument shows where the Administration's priorities are misplaced. If we can come up with another $87 billion for the war in Iraq, then we can surely find the money to bring our Nation's military retirees on par with the rest of federal employees. About $21 billion of the $87 billion is to rebuild the Iraqi infrastructure. If we can come up with $21 billion to build schools and hospitals in Iraq, then we certainly can come up with the money to fully fund concurrent receipt for the men and women who fought so bravely on behalf of this great Nation.

I ask that Congress fully fund concurrent receipt this Session. I further ask that VA be given the $1.8 billion it needs so that we can show our veterans that we respect the sacrifices they made on our behalf. We need to stop talking the talk and start walking the walk.

CONGRATULATIONS, MARTIN J. "HOOT" MCINERNEY

HON. SANDER M. LEVIN

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 2, 2003

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to congratulate Martin J. "Hoot" McInerney, who will receive the 2003 Goodfellow of the Year Award at the 14th Annual Tribute Breakfast on Friday, October 3, 2003 sponsored by the Old Newsboys' Goodfellows Fund of Detroit.

The prestigious award is presented to distinguished and noteworthy people who have contributed significantly to the community. "Hoot" McInerney richly deserves this honor.

Mr. McInerney is a successful car dealer and philanthropist. He is involved in a number of organizations and charities that reflect his commitment to helping people. He is a founder of the St. Joseph Mercy Men of Mercy, the
