The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 390) designating September 9, 2004, as "National Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders Day."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to proceeding to the measure at this time?

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, I ask unanimous consent to be added as a cosponsor of the resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Ms. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, the notion of reflecting for a moment at 9:09 a.m. on September 9, to recognize that during the 9 months of a pregnancy a woman should consume no alcohol, originated with three individuals. They weren't lobbyists or public relations consultants or social marketing experts. They were parents raising fetal alcohol children.

In February of 1999, Bonnie Buxton and Brian Philcox of Toronto, Canada and Teresa Kellerman of Tuscon, AZ, all parents of fetal alcohol children, asked each other a question.

The question was, "What if a world full of fetal alcohol parents all got together on the ninth hour, of the ninth day of the ninth month of the year and asked the world to remember that during the nine months of pregnancy a woman should not drink alcohol?" They asked, "Would the world listen?"

This simple question launched a worldwide, grassroots movement, organized on e-mail list serves and on the World Wide Web to ask that communities everywhere observe Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Awareness Day on September 9. The first International Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Awareness Day, or FASDAY as it is known, was observed on September 9, 1999. In the ensuing years, the number of communities observing FASDAY has grown and grown. I am proud that my State of Alaska strongly supports the observance of FASDAY and has published a kit of materials to help communities in my State and elsewhere plan their local observances.

Thanks to the support of my colleagues on both sides of the aisle, the U.S. Senate will add its voice in support of this worldwide observance, with the adoption of my resolution designating September 9, 2004, as National Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders Day, which is the new name for FASDAY. I especially appreciate the support of the distinguished minority leader, a long-standing supporter of the fight against fetal alcohol related diseases and a founder of the National Organization on Fetal Alcohol Syndrome.

We choose to call September 9 National Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders Day because science has established that Fetal Alcohol Syndrome is just one of a number of disorders that can befall a child born to a woman that consumes alcohol during pregnancy. The number of children born with Fetal Alcohol Syndrome each year dwarfs the number born with fetal alcohol spectrum disorders.

But whatever you call it, women must know that consumption of alcohol during pregnancy is the single largest contributor to mental retardation,
