THE 9/11 COMMISSION REPORT

HON. KAREN MCCARTHY

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 22, 2004

Ms. MCCARTHY of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, on September 11, 2001 America watched in horror as terrorists attacked our country. We felt outrage and sadness but the worst feeling that day was a sense of helplessness. We wanted to know how the terrorists were able to invade our country and commit these terrible acts of violence and what we could do to prevent this from happening again.

Today's release of the 9/11 Commission Report will help focus our efforts in finding out what went wrong and what steps we must take to prevent another attack. The findings by the bipartisan 9/11 Commissioners give us an opportunity to analyze the steps that we have taken in the last two and one half years to make this country safer.

The Commission found that lack of intelligence information sharing between the CIA, FBI and other government agencies was the greatest weakness leading to the 9/11 attacks. They found that even when information was shared there still was an inability to connect the dots.

As Ranking Member on the Intelligence and Counterterrorism Subcommittee of the Select Committee on Homeland Security, I have worked with my Subcommittee chairman, Jim Gibbons, to make sure that the intelligence agencies are gathering and sharing critical information. We have also held hearings concerning information sharing with our first responders and state and local officials. These brave men and women who serve on the front line must be kept in the loop and be provided with the tools they need to communicate with each other as they work to protect the citizens of this great country. We still have much to accomplish, but I believe that the 9/11 Commission Report will significantly assist with our work on these critical issues.

The Commission recommends that Congress give the executive branch more guidance on fighting terrorism and that the Congressional Intelligence Committees take a more active oversight role. They also recommend the establishment of a National Counterterrorism Center, and consolidating budgetary and operational oversight of all fifteen intelligence agencies and the naming of a new National Intelligence Director to help unify the intelligence community. I support all of these recommendations and thank the 9/11 Commissioners and their staff for their dedication to winning the war on terrorism.

THE 30TH ANNIVERSARY ON
TURKEY'S INVASION OF CYPRUS

HON. GREGORY W. MEEKS

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 22, 2004

Mr. MEEKS of New York. Mr. Speaker, this week, the world marked the 30th anniversary of Turkey's invasion of Cyprus. And so began three decades of Turkey's illegal military occupation of Cyprus. Even as we speak, Turkey maintains 30,000 heavily armed troops in the occupied portions of Cyprus.

For 30 years, Cyprus has been divided by a green line—a 113 mile barbed wire barrier that runs across the width of the island.

For 30 years, Greek Cypriots have experienced 30 years of ethnic cleansing, forcible evictions, and missing persons. Cyprus has endured 30 years of the flouting of its territorial integrity. This includes the occupation authority's attempt to create an independent "Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus."

The international community has witnessed 30 years of the flagrant violation of U.N. General Assembly resolutions and Security Council decisions calling for immediate withdrawal of all foreign forces from Cyprus, the return of refugees, and respect for the island's sovereignty.

Thirty years is a long time. The occupation of Cyprus has been going on too long. If left to their own wisdom and devices, with firm international support, Greek and Turkish Cypriots could find ways to live in peace and harmony.

The international community can and must play an indispensable role in settling the Cyprus dispute. But, to do this, it must draw the proper conclusions from results of the vote this past April on the reunification plan put forward by the United Nations.

Seventy six percent of the Greek Cypriot electorate opposed the "Annan Plan" because of concerns about security, property restitution, and the structure of the proposed central government, while 65 percent of Turkish Cypriot voters supported it. It is clear from this experience that a workable solution must take the interests and concerns of both the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities fully into account.

It is instructive that the split vote has not led to greater tension between the two communities or between Greece and Turkey. During most of the 433 year history of Cyprus, Greek and Turkish Cypriots have coexisted peacefully.

With the notable exception of the period that immediately followed Turkish occupation of Cyprus, Greek and Turkish Cypriot relations have largely been free of inter-communal violence. The hotly debated referendum itself took place overwhelmingly with an absence of conflict. This shows that despite the differences between them, Greek and Turkish Cypriots overwhelmingly share a desire for peace.

The leadership of the Republic of Cyprus seeks a bizonal, bicommunal federation under a plan that promotes the genuine reunification of Cypriots and Cypriot society, while enabling each community to retain its own identity and culture.

Cyprus's admission to the European Union on May 1st of this year may have created a new opportunity for resolving the division and occupation with an inclusive democratic system in which human rights are fully respected and the fundamental freedoms on which the European Union is founded, are guaranteed.

Taking all of this into account, the U.N. needs to go back to the drawing board. The United States needs to remain an honest broker. It must not attempt to impose a solution that the overwhelming majority of Greek-Cypriots reject. To do so will make an ultimate solution and final reunification difficult, if not impossible, to achieve.

America must at all times remember that a united, peaceful, and prosperous Cyprus is in our national interest and the interest of world peace. After the 9/11 terrorist attacks, Cyprus was one of the first nations to express its solidarity with the United States. Cyprus has also been a strong ally in the war against terrorism. We must continue to support our friends, who like us, only seek to live in peace.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL LAWRENCE A. MILLBEN RECEIVES THE CHAMPION OF EXCELLENCE AWARD

HON. JOHN CONYERS, JR.

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 22, 2004

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to acknowledge one of my constituents, Lieutenant Colonel Lawrence A. Millben, Support Group Commander of the 127th Wing of the Selfridge Air National Guard Base in Michigan. This Saturday, July 24, 2004, he will be recognized by the North American Black Historical Museum with a Champion of Excellence Award for his many achievements, particularly within the realm of aviation. Like the North American Black Historical Museum, I am impressed by his accomplishments in the United States and Canada. I am especially proud of Lieutenant Colonel Millben because of the numerous contributions and firsts realized in my District, the 14th Congressional District of Michigan, because of him.

Lieutenant Colonel Millben, born in Detroit, Michigan and educated in the Detroit Public School System, has achieved many firsts and has set an exceptional example. He was the first African American to graduate from Aero Mechanics High School, one of four schools in the country that specializes in aircraft maintenance. After high school, he became the first African American to enlist in the Michigan Air National Guard. In 1957, he continued his education and attended the basic and the advanced technician level Aircraft Electrical Schools, completing both simultaneously. This was the first time in the history of the Air Force School that anyone completed both schools simultaneously.

After attending the Air Force School, he went on to have a rewarding career in the private sector, as well as in the military. He was employed by the Burroughs Corporation from 1959 through 1975 and holds several United States Patents. He has also advised the Detroit Public School System on Aircraft Avionics and Aerospace subjects as a consultant.

Military highlights for the Lieutenant Colonel include serving as a full time Avionics Officer from 1975 until 1983, acting as the 191st Consolidated Aircraft Maintenance Squadron Commander in 1983, becoming the first African American Line Officer promoted to the grade of Lieutenant Colonel Millben in 1986, and assuming the position of Deputy Commander for Maintenance in 1988. From 1987–1988, he also served as the President of the 12,000 members National Guard Association of Michigan, the first African American Air Guardsman to do so. Finally, in his current capacity of Support Group Commander of the 127th Wing of the Selfridge Air National Guard Base in Michigan, he accomplished another first, as he was the first African American to assume this role as well.

Awards and decorations received by Lieutenant Colonel Millben include the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award, National Defense Service Medal, Air Reserve Forces Meritorious Service Award, and the Major General John A. Johnston Award for Excellence. He also received the State of Michigan Award for Continued Support of Vocational Education in 1985 and the Spirit of Detroit Award in 1987. He completed Air Command and Staff College in 1980 and Air War College in 1993. He is married to the former Jean Wilburn and is the father of Sheryl, Patricia Millben-Craft, and Lawrence, Jr.

TRIBUTE TO FRANCES PRESTON

HON. HOWARD L. BERMAN

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 22, 2004

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to ask my colleagues to join me in offering our congratulations and very best wishes to one of the First Ladies of American music. Frances W. Preston will soon retire as president and Chief Executive Officer of Broadcast Music Inc., (BMI).

The business acumen of Frances Preston is exceeded only by her charisma and charm, and by the respect, affection and admiration her colleagues and peers have for her. She has been lauded for her empathy and for the gracious manner in which she treats every person, from the hottest star to the humblest worker. She is an exceptional executive, leader, role model, and friend.

With Frances at its head, BMI has grown to represent over 300,000 American and foreign songwriters, composers, and music publishers in licensing music and collecting and distributing royalties from play on radio and in television, films, ads and other media. Its artists represent all types of music and its catalog contains 4.5 million works. During her 18 years as president, its revenue has grown more than three times to more than $625 million.

BMI has become an internationally respected leader and a unique success story as the entertainment industry has been transformed by digital technology and globalization. Sensitive to the changing world of music, Frances has focused on domestic licensing, foreign performing rights, legislation for fair compensation for writers and publishers, and copyright protection.

Frances joined BMI in 1958 after working in music and broadcasting in Nashville. She opened BMI's regional office there, and led her company to preeminence in the South, signing writers and publishers with roots in both country and other types of music.

In 1964, the year the Nashville BMI Building opened on Music Row, Frances became a vice president of BMI—reportedly, the first woman corporate executive in Tennessee.

She has often been called a trailblazer in the music business but Frances was also a trailblazer among women. She was the first woman Rotarian in the State of Tennessee.

She was the first woman to work with the National Chamber of Commerce. She was one of the first four women—and the first businesswoman—to be invited to join the Friars Club in New York and the first woman to serve on their board of governors.

Frances moved to BMI's New York office in 1985. She was appointed Senior Vice President, Performing Rights in 1985 and President and CEO in 1986. She is a member of BMI's Board of Directors.

In 1992, in recognition of the important role she played in building Nashville's music industry, she received the highest accolade in Country music: induction into the Country Music Hall of Fame. In 2004, she was also inducted into the Gospel Music Hall of Fame. She is a lifetime member of the board of directors of the Country Music Association—one of only five individuals to be so honored—and has served as president and chairperson of the board. She is also a lifetime board member of the Gospel Music Association, where she served as chairperson and president, as well as a lifetime member of the Nashville Songwriters Association International.

Frances is vice president of the National Music Council and a member of the Board of Directors of the National Academy of Popular Music/Songwriters Hall of Fame, a board member of the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame, and a director and member of the executive committee of the Broadcasters' Foundation.

Frances' many interests and her expertise extend far beyond the music industry. A distinguished member of business and political circles, she served on President Jimmy Carter's Panama Canal Study Committee, the commission for the White House Record Library, and Vice President Albert Gore's National Information Infrastructure Advisory Council.

She has given selflessly of her time and resources to many of America's most worthy charities. She is President of the T.J. Martell Foundation for Leukemia, Cancer and AIDS Research and the recipient of its 1992 Humanitarian Award. She is an activist and a philanthropist who became involved in the fight against cancer after the disease claimed her close friend and ski instructor. The Frances Williams Preston Research Laboratories at the Vanderbilt-Ingram Cancer Center is named in her honor, as is Vanderbilt's Frances Williams Preston Building, the focal point for the VICC's research.

Included among other awards far too numerous to list, Preston has received the Women's Equity Action League (WEAL) Achievement Award, presented to only five women each year, honoring her as one of "America's outstanding women in business and labor." She has been honored with the Broadcasters' Foundation's Golden Mike Award, and the President's Award from the National Music Publishers' Association in recognition of her contributions to the music and music publishing industries.

Preston was singled out by Esquire magazine as "the most influential and powerful person in the country music business." Ladies' Home Journal listed her as one of the "50 Most Powerful Women In America" and Entertainment Weekly placed her second in its Top 10 listing of "The Powers of Country Music." Over the years, Business Nashville, BAM, Radio Ink and Hits have listed her as one of the most powerful people in the music industry. In 1997, she was one of only ten businesswomen featured in Rolling Stone's "Women in Rock" special issue.

Frances has been a partner and strong supporter to those of us in Congress who care about copyright protection. She has vigorously supported the fight against music piracy and vigorously guarded against any legislation that would reduce the rights and incomes of songwriters, composers and publishers.

I am honored to congratulate Frances on her retirement and ask my colleagues in the House to join me in wishing her many happy years ahead.

PALESTINIAN PARLIAMENT URGES
NEEDED REFORMS

HON. DARRELL E. ISSA

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 22, 2004

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the Palestinian Parliament for their leadership in demanding reforms in the Palestinian Authority.

By a vote of 43–4, Palestinian lawmakers overwhelmingly approved a resolution calling on Palestinian leader Yasir Arafat to accept the resignation of Prime Minister Ahmed Qurei and calling for the formation of a new government that would have greater control over the security forces, the authority to introduce political changes and to combat pervasive corruption. Yesterday's vote marks the emergence of the Palestinian Parliament as a check to Mr. Arafat's political power.

If the Palestinian Authority is to gain legitimacy among its own people and in the world community, the Palestinians themselves must take responsibility for bringing about needed reforms and for establishing an effective security apparatus to combat terrorism and violence.

It is clear by yesterday's action that a new power base dedicated to reducing violence and chaos in the Gaza Strip is emerging, and the United States must encourage and support that effort. I look forward to a renewed commitment in bringing stability to this region.

I am hopeful that seeing the success of this resolution, Palestinian lawmakers will assert themselves in the future to serve the greater interests of the Palestinian people.

CONDEMNING ATTACK ON AMIA
JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTER IN BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA, IN JULY 1994

SPEECH OF

HON. ALCEE L. HASTINGS

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 21, 2004

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, in 1994, a terrorist bomb destroyed the headquarters of the Argentine Jewish Mutual Association, known by its Spanish acronym, AMIA, killing 85 people and wounding 200. To this day, the attack on the AMIA remains the deadliest anti-Semitic incident since World War II.

I take this opportunity to condemn the attack on the AMIA Jewish Community Center in
