

Joint Meetings

WOMEN AND LOW-SKILLED WORKERS

Joint Economic Committee: Committee concluded a hearing to examine work-family policies in other countries that make economic sense for the United States, including practices implemented in other developed nations that may help women and low-wage/low-skilled workers enter and remain in the labor force, the change in the targeted groups' employment following the implementation of the policies and practices, and identifying the factors that affect employees' use of workplace benefits and the resulting workplace implications, after receiving testimony from Kay E. Brown, Acting Director, Education, Workforce, and Income Security Issues, Government Accountability Office; Janet Gornick, City University of New York Baruch College, New York, New York; Laura Kellison Wallace, SAS Institute, Cary, North Carolina; Tim Kane, Heritage Foundation,

Washington, D.C.; and Ellen Bravo, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.
